SURREY ASSOCIATION

A Visit to an Outpost

For the Easter Monday meeting the Surrey Association paid a visit to its outpost at Egham. This, no doubt, accounted for the smaller attendance than usual, which had its effect at the business meeting. An eminent authority on the subject states that the church was built last century at a dark period in English architecture, and is not attractive, but its memorials are full of interest and its weird catacombs are eerie and unusual. He could have added that its bells, an account of which was published in the issue of April 15th, are a pleasure to ring.

Ringing commenced at 2.30 p.m. under the leadership of Mr. F. E. Collins, the District Master, and continued until 5 p.m., when tea was taken at a nearby cafe. The meeting followed in the Church Hall. Seventeen members, representing nine towers, attended, with visitors from ten towers to make the total up to 30.

At the meeting the general secretary, Mr. Oatway, dealt with the letter about 'The Ringing World,' but, owing to the unrepresentative gathering, it was not possible to appoint an officer to deal with the matter. The secretary agreed to carry on with the duties until the next District meeting.

Mr. Collins was nominated for both the General Mastership and Liaison Officer to the Guildford Guild. There being no other business, the meeting was declared closed after the usual collection for the Bell Fund and votes of thanks for the use of the bells. Ringing continued until 8 p.m. W. P.

MANSFIELD WOODHOUSE, NOTTS.—On April 11th, 1,260 Grandsire Doubles: A. Dennet 1, Miss D. Jacques (first quarter) 2, A. J. Brown 3, J. Brown 4, L. W. Jacques (cond.) 5, B. Jones 6.

LATE NEWS

The many friends of Mr. J. C. Adams, the former popular towerkeeper of St. Mary's, Walthamstow, will regret to learn that at present he is in the London Hospital, where one of his legs has had to be amputated.

BELFRY GOSSIP

By one vote Mr. C. W. Roberts failed to secure election to the Central Council at the annual meeting of the Middlesex Association. He will be a big loss to the Council as, on many occasions in debate, he has given a lead from the floor of the house. The new member is Mr. R. F. B. Speed.

Mr. F. E. Collins has been nominated as the new Master of the Surrey Association in succession to the late Mr. Donald T. Cooper.

Somerton (Somerset) ringers who scored two quarters in Easter week have very great hopes of recording, as an early date, a quarter of Minor. So far, they have not got beyond 360 of Minor.

At the annual meeting of the Llandaff and Monmouth Diocesan Association on Easter Monday there were no less than eight members of the Central Council present.

Because of his business as a pharmacist, Mr. Sidney O'C. Holloway, of Smethwick, is debarred from peal ringing except on holiday. Members will note that he scored his annual peal.

Great St. Mary's bells, Cambridge, before being rehung, were the only anti-clockwise ring of 12 in the country. Messrs. John Taylor and Co., who have rehung the bells in a new cast iron frame, recast two trebles and tuned the bells and have now hung them clockwise.

In connection with the Bournemouth Festival on May 8th, Mr. Albert Walker, of 86, Scribers Lane, Hall Green, Birmingham 28, has been given permission to attempt a peal at Christchurch (12 bells). Any 12-bell ringer attending the dinner and wishing to take part is asked to write to Mr. Walker. There will be ringing facilities for visitors at St. John's, Surrey Road, and St. Peter's, from 2.30-5 p.m.

Members of the Middlesex Association, at their annual meeting last Saturday, were pleased to see Mr. E. C. S. Turner, who has been on the sick list since last November, and is only allowed up for four hours a day. He is shortly to undergo an operation and hopes to be back in full harness in five or six months' time.

Mr. Andrew C. Sinfield has twice 'circled' Maulden (Beds) tower, and Mr. Patrick I. Chapman once.

Messrs. Sydney Sage and Edward Jenkins rang together in a peal at Pendleton on April 3rd. The last time was 30 years ago.

The Rev. W. N. M. Walton, who preached to the Kent County Association at their annual meeting at Bromley, has a son on the staff of Oundle School, who is a keen ringer.

Mr. A. Waddington has produced from 'The Peregrine Press,' Egerton, Kent, a second edition of 'Beginners' Grandsire' (1s. 6d. post free). It is printed in two colours and should well fulfil its purpose.

The Central Council has lost its oldest member. Mr. J. W. Jones, of Newport, who has represented the Llandaff and Monmouth Association since 1907, did not seek re-election this year. His record of 46 years' continuous service is a great achievement.

History has been made at Oundle, Northants. Until seven years ago call changes were rung. Mr. A. B. Clarke then introduced method ringing, although he was then limited to Grandsire Doubles. On April 14th the crowning glory was achieved by six of the tower's nine ringers with a quarter of Grandsire Doubles, the first in the tower by a Sunday service band. The tower's repertoire also consists of Plain Bob Doubles, and hopes are entertained for an early start on Stedman Doubles. Keep it up Oundle!

GREAT ST. MARY'S BELLS BRING ELY DIOCESAN RINGERS TO CAMBRIDGE

WE shall probably never know whether it was the bright, sunny weather or the prospect of ringing on the recently-restored twelve at Great St. Mary's which brought such a goodly crowd to the Ely Association's annual meeting at Cambridge on Easter Monday. But, in spite of the afternoon's ringing on these bells being curtailed at the request of the authorities of a nearby college which considers itself renowned for church music of a different sort, almost everyone had a ring on the diocese's only ring of twelve.

On Palm Sunday, when the bells were re-dedicated, certain members of that ancient and august body, the Society of Cambridge Youths, alleged that the back bells were very difficult to handle but, during the ensuing week, Mr. Fidler and one of his second strings came and, by judicious use of rope-shutes, put both our minds and the ropes at rest.

Not desiring to go from the sublime to the ridiculous, the meeting started at St. Andrew's, an eight very much in need of the bell-hanger's attention, with a seventh described by a literary Canon of the last century as having a note similar to that obtained by striking an old tin bath. This tower is the main home of the Cambridge University Guild which, fortunately, contains many notable amateur bell-hangers. It was not surprising, therefore, that the appointed Ringing Master thought it necessary to visit the bells half an hour before proceedings were due to begin. He emerged 20 minutes later with the words, 'Do you use anything technical, such as oil?'

ST. BENE'T'S AND STEDMAN

The next tower to start emitting musical sounds was St. Bene't's, one of Cambridge's most ancient churches and the one ever linked with the memory of Fabian Stedman. His method is a great favourite in these parts but does not seem to follow the normal laws of Q-sets and the like, since a round block starting with rounds seldom ends with rounds. Appropriately enough we started our ringing in Stedman's tower with a touch of Cambridge Minor.

A little later, ringing started at the Church of Our Lady and the English Martyrs, a really majestic ring, alleged to be the heaviest and best eight in East Anglia. Certainly they are excellent bells for testing one's ability at handling, having a very long draught without guides of any sort. Usually at meetings the main sport in this tower is trying to hang one's neighbour, but to-day everyone must have been in very solemn mood for not a single ringer was hanged and not a single stay broken. Thus by one o'clock our 'tower-grabbing' visitors had three in the bag and we ceased for an hour so that members could refresh themselves.

NO BRICKBATS

As two o'clock struck, the pavement outside the west door of Great St. Mary's was lined with ringers who soon began to ascend, with much puffing and blowing, to the prize they had eagerly awaited. This ascent was not without hazard as, having raised more than £2,500 to rehang the bells, this church is now undertaking the repair of its roof, which is badly attacked by death-watch beetle, and scaffolding impedes progress to the ringing chamber. Mr. Fidler himself was present to receive the brickbats and take them back to Loughborough, but all agreed that the tone of the bells had been greatly improved by tuning, that the two recast trebles were perfect and that the bells went like bells.

There was yet another tower to be visited before the service, namely, St. Andrew's, Chesterton. Everyone thought these were the second best six in the diocese. (The best six seemed to depend very largely upon the speaker's home tower.)

The service, held at St. Andrew-the-Great, was conducted by the Vicar (Canon A. L. Woodard) and the address was given by our vice president, the Archdeacon of Wisbech (the Ven. J. P. Pelloe). Being a ringer himself, the Archdeacon refrained from preaching about ringers and ringing, but gave us a very inspiring sermon about our religion, which was greatly appreciated.

The service was followed by tea, arranged by the local ringers' wives, who wondered why, after three weeks' notice had been given, they had received only 24 applications for tea and yet found 90 people sitting down expecting to eat it. Still, ringers' wives seem to understand ringers, and had provided plenty for all.

POINTS FROM THE BUSINESS MEETING

A business meeting followed with the vice-president in the chair. After the usual election of officers a motion was put that we add to our Rules the words, 'The Association shall be affiliated to the Central Council of Church Bell Ringers and shall abide by the latter's Rules and Decisions.' Needless to say, the motion was carried.

Another motion carried was that the Association may make grants, as funds permit, towards the expenses of its Central Council representatives, a resolution which may well be helpful in the future, although as regards this year it was decided that funds do not permit.

Finally the secretary read the letter he had received from the Central Council concerning the finances of 'The Ringing World,' and all were urged to take this journal. Many suggestions were put forward as to how 'The Ringing World' might increase its circulation by making its contents more acceptable to a wider reading public. Most of these suggestions have been made before, but one was new to many of us and might, therefore, bear repetition. Why not a section dealing with answers to problems (ringing problems, of course, not the usual 'write-to-Auntie-Mary' sort)?

After a hearty vote of thanks to all concerned we returned to St. Mary's, St. Bene't's and the Roman Catholic Church and continued enjoyable ringing until nine o'clock and, joy above all joy, a touch of Stedman Cinques came round. W. J. R.

THE DEDICATION

In the presence of a large congregation on Palm Sunday, the Lord Bishop of Ely (Dr Edward Wynn) rededicated the recently reconditioned bells of Great St. Mary's, Cambridge. The two trebles were recast and a new frame provided.

These bells had been silent for two years. A sum of £2,500 was required, and this has been raised. But since the estimate was given by Messrs. John Taylor and Co., costs have risen by £150. The collection at the service, which was attended by the Mayor and members of the City Council, was for the Bell Fund.

After the dedication the Bishop passed the bell ropes to the Vicar (Canon G. E. A. Whitworth) and said to those present: 'You are to take notice that these bells are committed to the custody of the Vicar of the Parish, to be used only with his consent, subject to the authority of the Bishop of the Diocese.'

THE QUEEN'S HOMECOMING

The Port of London Authority has issued the following time-table in connection with the Queen's homecoming on May 15th.

H.M.Y. 'Britannia' will enter the river at 9.30 a.m. and the approximate times of arrival at different reaches of the river are:—Lower Hope 10.40, Gravesend 11, St. Clement's 11.30, Halfway 12, Gallions 12.20, Bugsby's 12.45, Greenwich 1, Lower Pool 1.15.

At 3 p.m. the Queen will embark in the Royal Barge and, preceded by the motor launch 'Nore,' will pass up stream with escort to Westminster Pier.

The times above mentioned should be helpful in arranging morning ringing in Thames-side towns.

A MUSICAL PEAL OF STEDMAN CATERS

LLANDAFF AND MONMOUTH ASSOCIATION

Record Membership of 301 Reported at Annual Meeting

FAVOURED with fine weather, about 90 members and friends attended the annual meeting at St. Wollos' Cathedral, Newport, on Easter Monday. Among those present were visitors from Staunton (Glos), Sevenoaks, Kingston-on-Thames, Wolverhampton, Wednesbury and Swansea.

The bells were kept going during the afternoon in various methods from rounds to Surprise. In the unavoidable absence of the Dean the service was conducted by the Rev. G. S. Maile Jones (curate). After service, visitors were entertained to a bountiful tea in the Parish Hall and, although only 60 had been catered for, there was ample for the 90 who attended. On the proposition of Mr. Jack Worrall, the churchwardens and ladies were duly thanked.

The business then proceeded with the Rev. G. S. Maile Jones taking the chair. Before reading the minutes, the secretary read a letter of good wishes from Mr. E. Stitch. The treasurer presented the balance sheet which showed that, despite extra expense in connection with reorganisation, a sound financial position with a balance of £74 5s., and £34 balance in the Bell Restoration Fund. On the proposition of Mr. A. Hoare, seconded by Mr. E. Coles, the balance sheet was accepted.

The secretary, in his report, said that after a twelvemonth's experience on the working of the two branches he thought the experiment had proved a success. Chief thanks were due to the two Branch secretaries, Miss Jacqueline Evans and Mr. Ted Coles. Membership had reached a new high level of 301, annual subscriptions had also reached a new record of £17 1s. On progress, the secretary thought that, taking an over-all view, the Association was improving, although there were still a few black spots. Progress was reported from Llandaff, Peterstow, Rodge, Caerleon, Coity, Bonvilston, Bridgend and Bedwellty. A pleasing feature of the meeting was the large number of young beginners of both sexes present.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

Mr. David King was elected Master for the ensuing year. Auditors and secretary were re-elected. Mr. T. M. Roderick was re-elected as Central Council representative, and Miss Jacqueline Evans was elected to take the place of Mr. J. W. Jones, believed to be the oldest member of the Council, who did not seek re-election.

It was decided to hold (subject to permission) the next annual meeting at Llandaff. The next quarterly meetings have already been fixed, viz. Bridgend and Llangibby.

The circular letter regarding the finances of 'The Ringing World' was brought to the notice of the meeting, and the secretary urged members to become postal subscribers. Mr. Jack Worrall supported this, stressing the urgency of the matter.

On the suggestion of Miss Evans it was decided to order five dozen more badges.

Mr. D. King concluded the meeting with a hearty vote of thanks to the curate for presiding and conducting the service. More ringing followed.

A FALSE PEAL

Dear Sir,—Peal No. 23, by Sir A. P. Heywood, on page 266 of the Central Council Collection of Peals, Section II., is false if rung as a 5,008 as stated. Calling a Middle in the second course produces natural course-end 25634, and Middle in the fifth course produces natural course-end 53624. Both courses are rung in full in the second part of the peal.—Yours faithfully, RAYMOND OVERY.

Haywards Heath, Sussex.

OUTING

NORTH MYMMS

Easter Monday's glorious weather and some breath-taking scenery provided a welcome background to a well-organised outing. The standard of ringing varied throughout the day, but some seven or eight different methods were performed by the 16 ringers and friends who cruised from tower to tower in a variety of vehicles.

The first church to receive the well-meaning and vigorous attentions of the somewhat youthful band was Beaconsfield (21 cwt.), where they were met by Harry Wingrove and the Misses Fletcher. The only casualty was the treble rope, which broke at the start of an impeccable let-down. At Farnham Royal (12 cwt.) where, regrettably, there is little ringing nowadays, Bill Henley joined the visitors in several touches. Before leaving, the graves of J. J. Parker and W. H. Fussell were visited.

The luxurious furnishings at Cookham (14 cwt.), pride of Tommy Fowler, were most impressive, but the motto over the door, 'Audi, Vide, Tace,' failed to leave its mark on the rather high-spirited band. Several free and off-hand renderings of this motto caused extreme anguish to one or two classical scholars, while someone remarked that he thought the 'Hachets' on the walls added distinction to the ringing chamber.

After a picnic lunch, the party made its way to Marlow (15 cwt.), which, although a charming town, has, it is felt, something to learn of sign posting and town planning. It was here that one enthusiastic ringer worked his fingers to the bone and caused the floor to become liberally covered with blood, to say nothing of the unfortunate next to him! At Haddenham (19¼ cwt.) the party were visited by the Vicar, who expressed his pleasure at hearing changes being rung on the bells. He also led most of the party through the roof timbers to see some recently-discovered mural paintings.

After an excellent tea in Aylesbury, Stoke Mandeville (9½ cwt.) was visited and some difficulty was experienced with this light eight, including a missing stay, which necessitated one well-known ringer holding the bell on balance for the whole of the visit. It was here that one member of the company discovered that his Ford does not run on a certain brand of 'fizzy' drink! The last tower visited was Northchurch, where the tired band hardly managed to do justice to the bells. Farewells were taken at this tower, and the company split to join the homeward trek. Needless to say, one group found its way to the oldest inn in England, where they suitably congratulated the organiser on his masterly co-ordination and timing. All who took part in this outing wish to extend their hearty thanks to the incumbents for the use of the bells, and to those ringers who gave up their time to meet them.

Great Amwell Have Now Six Bells

Through the generosity of a local resident a new treble has been presented to Great Amwell, Herts, giving this church a ring of six. The new bell was dedicated on Easter Sunday by the Rev. C. E. C. Walker.

This six is of interest as three of the bells date from 1550. These have been tuned and rehung in a new frame. Two bells were added as a memorial to King George VI.

The inscriptions and weights of the bells are as follows:—

No 1 (treble) 4 cwt., 21lb.; 'Charles.'
No 2. (treble) 4 cwt. 1 qr. 7 lb.; 'Elizabeth.'
No. 3 (old No. 1) 4 cwt. 2 qr. 14 lb.; 'Come All ye Faithful.'
No. 4 (old No. 2) 5 cwt.: 'Praise The Lord.'
No. 5 (old No. 3) 5 cwt. 2 qr. 14 lb.; 'Crown Him Lord Of All.'
No 6 (tenor) 7 cwt. 1 qr.: 'George.'

ON CONDUCTING

By WILFRED G. WILSON

XIV. ODD BELL METHODS

All through these articles I have been conscious that two of the most common methods—Grandsire and Stedman—have not been dealt with, because they do not fit conveniently into the two classifications for which this technique of conducting is useful.

In the case of Grandsire, the conductor who can conduct efficiently the even-bell methods we have dealt with will not find any great difficulty in keeping track of the bells, but I will add a few notes which may be helpful.

Stedman, which in the older textbooks is called a 'Principle,' not a method, is in a class of its own—it has no bell in the hunt, but each bell does the work of the method. And bobs or singles can be called at intervals of six changes—that is at 14 different places in a plain course of Stedman Triples. But almost invariably calls are made which do not affect the 7th (in Triples); 7, 8, 9 in Caters and 7, 8, 9, 0 and E in Cinques—the observation bell being 7, 9 or E respectively. Further, the alternation of the sixes between Quick and Slow means that the Coursing Order of the bells is broken up within each course.

While Stedman conductors do not necessarily ring the observation bell themselves, they almost all make their calls by the position of that bell. Some of our well-known conductors of Stedman undoubtedly know the method through and through, but the average conductor of Triples calls the bobs by the position of the 7th and by watching the bells go down to the front, alternately quick and slow, is able to correct a trip. He checks the accuracy of the ringing by knowing certain course or part ends.

In Caters and Cinques he has the advantage of a fixed 'framework' of the larger bells and he knows the Coursing Order of those bells for several sixes before and after the Course Ends. But in the middle of the course that Coursing Order will be broken up as the larger bells go into the front alternately quick and slow. Actual experience of Stedman ringing on nine and eleven bells is probably more necessary to the conductor than it is in other methods—the chief reason for this being, of course, that Stedman is one method on its own, whereas other methods are variations of one another and practice and experience of one makes the next one easier to ring or conduct.

ST. MARY'S, SOUTHAMPTON

The Parish Church of St. Mary, Southampton, which was destroyed by enemy action in November, 1940, is now being rebuilt. The tower and bells were restored in 1948.

After a lapse of six years a licence has been granted to rebuild the whole church.

This means that temporary steel stanchions, erected to support the tower, will now be removed in order to build the permanent walls.

As a result of this, ringing has been stopped until the architect is satisfied that it is safe to ring again.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

PEALS IN HOLY WEEK

Dear Sir,—Is it really necessary to ring a peal in Holy Week, the most solemn week in the year for all Christians? Most, if not all, ringers —both scientific and call change—forego their weekly practice then. It seems to me that a principle is at stake. I am aware than ancient custom permits muffled ringing in some towers on Good Friday, to which no one can object.

E. V. COX, President,
Guild of Devonshire Ringers.

POSTAL DELIVERIES

Dear Sir,—May I suggest to Mr. Woolley and any other ringers whose 'Ringing World' fails to arrive by the first post on Friday mornings, that he writes to the local head postmaster (O.H.M.S.), enclosing the wrapper, and ask for an explanation. He will receive a reply setting forth the great difficulties of that individual in his efforts to serve the public, together with his regrets, but future deliveries of 'The Ringing World' will not be late.—Yours, etc.,

E. BARNETT.

THE BELLS OF WYMINGTON, BEDS.

Dear Sir,—May I correct what appears to be a misunderstanding by both Mr. R. H. Dove and the Rev. K. W. H. Felstead?

The latter, in his article 'Ringing in Bedfordshire,' in your issue of April 16th (page 249), states: 'Out of 78 of the churches with rings of bells given in Dove's book, only two with six bells and eleven with five bells remain to be conquered.' He goes on to state that the former are Caddington and Wymington.

May I, as one who has been up this last-named tower on three occasions, at once say that Wymington is not regarded as a six-bell tower, and never has been! Its contents is a ring of five bells, and a steel bell, which is quite apart from the rest, and at present stands at the foot of the steeple, where it was placed a short time ago, after hanging in the bell chamber since put there in 1873 by a Mr. Monk to no purpose. The five bells of the true alloy are hung in two tiers and have been unringable many years, I believe. Mr. Henry W. Gayton remembers the last time they were rung—about 1913. To-day, some have wheels complete, some with half-rims, and one with just the spokes and no rim whatsoever to the wheel. The framework is so weak that nothing short of rehanging in a completely new frame would be possible—a conclusion I came to when visiting this belfry one Sunday afternoon last summer, visiting Odell at the same time.

With Wymington a growing parish (almost a suburb of Rushden, Northants, 1¼ miles away, whose bells, unringable for 34 years, have just been rehung and augmented to eight) a possibility is that this may stir the people of Wyminton to follow Rushden's example. I have heard it stated 'that Wymington had its bells hung stationary a few years ago.' Those who got that story about can take it from me that it is not correct! All that was done was the useless steel bell taken down and placed at the foot of the tower as a relic.

Of the eleven five-bell towers remaining to be conquered, will the Rev. K. W. H. Felstead tell us where Odell comes in? Conditions in this belfry suggest to me that it must be getting on for a century since these bells were safe to ring to a 5,040. They are hung, four in a line, on one side of the tower, and the tenor in a corner on the other side by itself. Again, these are not hung stationary as some people seem to think.

P AMOS.

WOODSTOCK, CAPE TOWN

Dear Sir,—At St. Mary's, Woodstock, Cape Town, we ring on an octave by James Barwell. Each bears an inscription of the donor's name, the year 1901, and is followed by the words 'Barwell, Birmingham, Eng.' and the founder's crest—a shield wreathed in oak leaves. These bell diameters are:—Treble, 25½in.; 2, 26½in.; 3, 28½in.; 4, 28½in.; 5, 30in.; 6. 32½in.; 7, 36½in; tenor, 41½in.

Since I have seen no mention of this founder in 'The Ringing World,' I hazard a guess that they may not be in business any longer. Should this be the case, could you please approximate the weight for me?

However, if the firm or its records are available, will you be kind enough to forward this inquiry to them?

We customarily speak of our tenor as 12 cwt., but this is only hearsay, simply because, when the bearings were renewed about 1938, a 12 cwt. block and tackle did not fail.

With this information I can finish a report on the tower of St. Mary's, and in due course will submit it to 'The Ringing World.'

With every good wish,—Yours faithfully,

V. SHEPPARD.

CENTRAL COUNCIL MEETING AT NEWCASTLE-UPON-TYNE

Dear Sir,—Following publication of a notice in 'The Ringing World' a week or two ago, I have received several inquiries from persons interested in the possibilities or sightseeing and ringing tours on Whit Sunday and Whit Monday. The number of inquiries is, however, at present only about enough to half-fill a coach on each day by combining applications for Tours 1 and 2 on the Sunday, and similarly for Tours 3 and 4 on the Monday.

It may be that many delegates will have to wait until an annual meeting held on Easter Monday to find out whether they will be coming to Newcastle, and there may, therefore, be further inquiries. Before abandoning the idea I would, therefore, like to make this last appeal for anyone else—official delegates or other ringers—who is interested, to communicate with me within the next week.

It is obvious that all four tours cannot be run, and the now revised proposal is to try to run Tour No. 1 on Whit Sunday, and Tour No. 4 on Whit Monday.

I would like to thank all who have written to me and I will communicate with them individually when the decision is taken.—Yours faithfully,

DENIS A. BAYLES,
Hon. General Secretary.

RINGING VERY CHEAP

Dear Sir,—The Committee should not hesitate to increase the price of 'The Ringing World.' Our ringing is obtained very cheaply in comparison with many other pleasures and hobbies. Our greatest expense is travelling to new towers to attempt peals. Many of the Guild and Association subscriptions are far below what they ought to be to function properly.

Let us all realise our responsibilities and shoulder them, for I am convinced that our art and our paper are well worth it. Personally, I will willingly pay a fair price for the paper which I eagerly anticipate from one Friday to the next. And, finally, when we do send letters to 'The Ringing World,' let us all have the decency to put our names at the bottom.—Yours sincerely,

JOHN W. BLYTHE.

Southwold, Suffolk.

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL AND RINGING PROGRESS

Dear Sir,—There must, I imagine, have been many raised eyebrows at some of the sweeping statements made in your leading article in your issue of April 9th by 'J. T. D..' Probably the most extreme of these was the contention that without the Central Council publications 'ringing could not possibly have reached the present day increasingly high standard of method splicing.' I do not believe that the compositions of Spliced Surprise by such people as H. Law James, A. J. Pitman, H. G. Cashmore or E. C. S. Turner resulted either directly or indirectly from the efforts or encouagement of the Central Council.

Consider the many excellent publications by individuals, such as 'The Ringers' Handbook,' 'The Jasper Snowdon Series,' or 'Corrigan's Collection of Surprise Methods,' all incomparably superior to the Central Council publications in the way of helpfulness to beginners or usefulness to more advanced ringers. Who can doubt, with these as examples, that there would have been no worthwhile publication lacking if the Central Council had never existed?

Far from accepting the thesis that the Central Council promotes ringing progress, I would go so far as to say that it has, on occasions, tended to stultify progress; for example, by its decision last year to disallow certain Minor methods simply because they did not have Plain Bob lead ends. As to the mild reproof administered to 'J. T. D.' to ringers in 'rebellious or puckish mood,' I would point out that, more often than not, progress is made by breaking, rather than by deferring to, the rules of an autocratic body.

Again, 'J. T. D.' states that 'the growing prestige of ringers is almost wholly due to its Council.' I would suggest that the prestige of ringers anywhere depends solely upon their relationship with the local clergy. Is it not significant that the Archbishop's tribute to ringers, printed on the same page, contains no mention of the Central Council, but is concerned very much with the ringers whom the Archbishop has met personally within the tower?

Finally, I would comment on the subject of 'The Ringing World,' as introduced by 'J. T. D.' Even allowing for present day circumstances I find it difficult to understand how a paper founded by an individual and successfully maintained by him for 31 years, causes so much trouble to a body, which, according to 'J. T. D.,' is composed of men and women with 'a background of solid achievement, of specialised knowledge, of long experience in most branches of the art, or of culture and scholarship.'

We have, at the moment, a drive for more subscribers, but is it not clear that no journalistic enterprise can be a success on the support of charity? Subscribers conscripted without enthusiasm will not be retained if they are not satisfied with their purchase. The only reliable way of obtaining more support for 'The Ringing World' is to replace the pages and pages of peals, quarter peals, accounts of meetings and outings, which are so terribly much alike, by worthwhile articles and discussion on the proper subject, viz., the art of bellringing. What better source of these articles, if 'J. T. D.' is correct, than the Central Council? Would it not be a good idea if, at its forthcoming annual tea party, the Central Council passed a resolution requiring every member to write an article for 'The Ringing World'? There might then be some real justification for its existence.—Yours faithfully,

T. W. SHEPPARD.

REPORT AS TO MEMBERSHIP

The Hon. Secretary reported that 54 Associations were affiliated, entitled to 150 members. The Rules provided for 24 Honorary Members, and there were 7 Life Members. Authorised membership was, therefore, 181, but there were vacancies for 2 representative and 5 Honorary Members. All affiliation fees had been paid.

APOLOGIES FOR ABSENCE

Apologies were received from Messrs. W. Ayre, P. E. Baker, A. Ballard, A. L. Bennett, T. R. Butler, H. G. Cashmore, P. A. Corby, J. W. Clarke, G. E. Debenham, J. T. Dyke, F. Dunkerley, C. W. Evans, E. G. Fenn, T. H. Francis, J. A. Freeman, E. S. J. Hatcher, D. Hughes, H. M. Howard, S. T. Holt, W. H. J. Hooton, G. L. Hewitt, J. W. Jones, B. G. Key, Rev. J. Kingdon, H. J. Mansfield, B. P. Morris, G. R. Newton, R. C. Noon, W. N. Park, J. W. Raithby, J. Segar, A. Paddon Smith, C. J. Sedgley, G. E. Symonds, T. H. Taffender, Rev. W. H. R. Trewhella, J. J. Webb, E. A. Young.

The Secretary was instructed to write to Messrs. J. T. Dyke, J. A. Freeman and E. A. Young wishing them a speedy recovery from indisposition.

PRESENTATION OF NEW MEMBERS TO PRESIDENT

The following were presented: Mr. W. Cathrall (North Wales), Miss D. E. Colgate (Ladies' Guild), Miss J. Stewart (Irish Association).

TELEGRAM TO THE QUEEN

On the motion of the President, the following telegram was sent to H.M. The Queen:—

'The Central Council of Church Bell Ringers in annual meeting assembled at the Town Hall, Bournemouth, beg to offer your Majesty their loyal salutations. It will be the proud privilege of ringers to celebrate the forthcoming Coronation with the tribute of the bells, and it is their fervent prayer that your Majesty's reign may constitute a long and glorious period in the history of our country.'

The following reply was received from Buckingham Palace:—

'Please convey to all members of your Council the sincere thanks of the Queen for their kind and loyal message of good wishes. —Private Secretary.'

PRESENTATION TO MR. & MRS. G. W. FLETCHER

On behalf of the Council, the President made a presentation to Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Fletcher in recognition of their services to the Council during the previous 21 years. Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher expressed their thanks.

ELECTION OF HON. LIBRARIAN

Mr. F. Sharpe was elected on the proposition of the President in the place of Mr. W. H. J. Hooton, who had been compelled to retire through illness. Mr. Sharpe expressed his thanks.

ELECTION OF HONORARY MEMBERS

The retiring members, Messrs. F. I. Hairs, C. K. Lewis and W. Osborn, were re-elected on the proposition of Mr. E. C. S. Turner, seconded by Mr. H. Miles.

Mr. A. J. Pitman was elected, proposed by Mr. J. A. Hoare, seconded by Mr. C. W. Roberts.

Mrs. E. A. Barnett was elected, proposed by Mr. F. E. Dukes, seconded by Mr. J. T. Dunwoody.

LOSS OF MEMBERS THROUGH DEATH

The President reported the death of the following former members of the Council, the members standing in silence:—

J. Broadley, H. W. D'Aeth, C. Edwards, A. J. Harris, R. T. Holding, jun., C. H. Perry and R. Sperring.

MINUTES OF THE LAST MEETING

The Minutes as published in 'The Ringing World' of May 1st, 1953, and circulated to members were approved on the proposition of Mr. A. A. Hughes, seconded by the Rev. K. W. H. Felstead.

REPORTS

These have been published as shown:—

HON. LIBRARIAN

Adopted on the proposal of Mr. F. Sharpe, seconded by Mr. R. S. Anderson.

The Secretary was instructed to express the thanks of the Council to Mr. Hooton for his past services, to Miss P. J. Ayris for her assistance to Mr. Sharpe and to the Rev. E. S. Tarrant, Rector of Launton, for providing accommodation for the library.

'RINGING WORLD' COMMITTEE

('Ringing World,' June 5th, 1953, page 362)

Adopted on the proposal of Mr. J. F. Smallwood, seconded by Mr. F. I. Hairs.

'THE RINGING WORLD' ACCOUNTS

('Ringing World,' June 5th, 1953, page 363)

Adopted subject to audit on the proposition of Mr. A. A. Hughes, seconded by Mr. F. W. Perrens.

GENERAL ACCOUNTS

('Ringing World,' June 5th, 1953, page 363)

Adopted on the proposition of Mr. A. A. Hughes, seconded by Mr. F. W. Perrens.

TRUSTEES OF THE CARTER RINGING MACHINE

('Ringing World,' June 5th, 1953, page 363)

Adopted on the proposal of Mr. A. A. Hughes, seconded by Mrs. G. W. Fletcher.

Mr. Hughes considered that the machine should be inspected twice yearly, followed by public demonstrations at a time and date to be advertised in 'The Ringing World.'

STANDING COMMITTEE

(a) Carter Broadsheet.

('Ringing World,' June 5th, 1953, p. 363)

On the proposition of the Rev. K. W. H. Felstead, seconded by Mr. C. H. Kippin, it was agreed not to proceed with the reprint.

The report was adopted on the proposal of Mr. A. Walker, seconded by the Rev. K. W. H. Felstead.

('Ringing World,' June 12th, 1953, p. 377)

Adopted on the proposal of Mr. F. I. Hairs, seconded by Mrs. L. K. Marshall.

(c) Roll of Honour.

('Ringing World,' June 12th, 1953, p. 377)

On the proposition of Mr. F. E. Collins, seconded by Mr. F. W. Rogers, it was agreed that the Roll be housed in St. Paul's Cathedral.

A proposal that the Roll be brought to each Council meeting was not carried.

It was proposed by the Rev. A. G. G. Thurlow, seconded by Mr. P. J. Johnson and carried that a photostat copy of the Roll be made, to be taken to Council meetings.

Mr. R. S. Anderson proposed, and Mr. F. I. Hairs seconded, that a case to house the Roll be provided, and that subscriptions of ten shillings towards the cost of this be invited from each affiliated Society. This was carried.

The report was adopted on the proposal of Mr. H. Miles, seconded by Mr. A. A. Hughes.

A vote of thanks to Mr. Miles for his efforts was proposed by Mr. P. J. Johnson, seconded by Mr. R. S. Anderson and carried with acclamation.

It was proposed by Mr. G. W. Fletcher, seconded by Mr. P. J. Johnson and carried that Mr. Miles be appointed Trustee of the Roll.

BIOGRAPHIES COMMITTEE

Adopted on the proposition of Mr. A. C. Hazelden, seconded by Mr. W. H. Viggers. It was agreed that Mr. J. Willis be co-opted to the committee.

PEALS COLLECTION COMMITTEE

The committee reported that no work had been undertaken during the year.

The report was adopted on the proposition of Mr. C. W. Woolley, seconded by the Rev. K. W. H. Felstead.

It was proposed by the Rev. K. W. H. Felstead, seconded by Mr. E. C. S. Turner and carried that the committee be asked to consider the possibility of publishing a small collection of peals of Stedman Caters and Cinques. It was agreed that Messrs. C. W. Roberts and A. J. Pitman be co-opted to the committee for the purpose.

METHODS COMMITTEE

('Ringing World,' July 17th, 1953, pages 472-3, July 24th, 1953, page 489, and July 31st, 1953, pages 504–5)

The section dealing with extension was adopted on the proposition of the Rev. K. W. H. Felstead, seconded by Mr. C. K. Lewis.

The recommendations that irregular Minor methods continue to be disallowed and that three-lead course Royal methods should not, in future, be included in Spliced peals were also adopted on the proposition of the Rev. K. W. H. Felstead, seconded by Mr. C. K. Lewis.

The report was then formally adopted.

LITERATURE, PRESS & BROADCASTING COMMITTEE

Adopted on the proposition of the Rev. F. Ll. Edwards, seconded by Mr. A. Walker.

TOWERS AND BELFRIES COMMITTEE

Mr. F. Sharpe reported on behalf of the committee (see 'Ringing World,' June 19th, 1953, page 397). The report was seconded by Mr. W. Osborn and adopted.

It was agreed that a written report should be submitted in future.

RECORDS COMMITTEE

Adopted, subject to the withdrawal of Chesterfield Surprise, of which the composition was false, on the proposition of Mrs. G. W. Fletcher, seconded by Mrs. L. K. Marshall.

PEAL BOARDS COMMITTEE

It was agreed on the proposition of Mr. G. W. Fletcher, seconded by Mr. R. S. Anderson, that the records, when completed, be handed to the Librarian for custody.

ANALYSIS COMMITTEE

('Ringing World,' June 19th, 1953, page 397)

Adopted on the proposition of Mr. H. Miles, seconded by Mr. G. L. Grover.

MOTIONS

(a) Proposed on behalf of the Standing Committee by Mr. J. F. Smallwood, seconded by Mr. A. Walker and carried:—
'That the annual affiliation fee to the Council be increased to ten shillings per representative with effect from January 1st, 1954.'

(b) Proposed by Mr. H. Miles, seconded by Mr. N. Chaddock:—
'That on and from the 1st January, 1954, a charge of one shilling shall be made for every peal and quarter peal published in 'The Ringing World.'
The motion was not carried.

(c) Proposed on behalf of the Suffolk Guild by Mr. C. W. Pipe, seconded by Mr. J. E. Lilley:—
'That an effort should be made by the Central Council to establish closer relations with, and recognition by, the B.B.C.'
It was agreed on the proposition of Mr. H. J. Poole, seconded by the Rev. K. W. H. Felstead, that this matter should be left to Associations and Guilds.

PLACE OF NEXT MEETING

On the proposition of Mr. F. W. Perrens, seconded by Mrs. P. J. Staniforth, it was decided to accept an invitation to visit Newcastle-on-Tyne.

VOTES OF THANKS

On the motion of the President, thanks were expressed to the Mayor and Corporation of Bournemouth, the Rev. K. W. H. Felstead, Mr. G. Pullinger and Mr. A. V. Davis (Winchester and Portsmouth Guild) for local arrangements; Canon A. L. E. Williams, Vicar of St. Peter's, Bournemouth, for officiating at Holy Communion and for the use of St. Peter's Hall; Canon C. C. Cox for his welcome on behalf of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild; Mr. A. F. Martin Stewart for his hospitality; and all incumbents and towerkeepers for the use of bells.

A vote of thanks to the President was proposed by Mr. R. S. Anderson.

Members and friends were afterwards entertained to tea by the Mayor and Corporation, presided over by the Deputy Mayor. The thanks of the Council were expressed by the President.

In appreciation of his services as Master of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association for nine years, a book and a cheque was presented to Preb. A. J. Hook at the annual meeting of the Association at Wells on Easter Monday.

R.A.F. PEAL ATTEMPT

On Easter Monday eight ringing members of the R.A.F. met at St. Paulinus', Crayford, to attempt a peal of Plain Bob Major. If the peal had been successful it would have been the first tower-bell peal rung by serving R.A.F. personnel, but, unfortunately, a shift-course in the 15th course meant an untimely finish.

However, a quarter peal of 1,264 Plain Bob Major was successfully brought round by A.C. Brian J. Howard 1, A.C. Cyril A Wratten 2, S.A.C. Colin Tester 3, A.A. Brian P. E. Batt 4, S.A.C. John D. Kape 5, W.O. Sidney J. Philbrick 6, S.A.C. John S. Barnes 7, A.C. Robert J. Southwood (first of Major as conductor) 8.

The band hope to make another attempt for the peal in the near future.

REDEDICATION

LEISTON, SUFFOLK

The ring of eight bells of Leiston, Suffolk, have been rehung on ball bearings with new clapper gudgeons, the work being carried out by Messrs. John Taylor and Co., of Loughborough.

The rededication service was held on April 17th, the ceremony being performed by the Vicar (the Rev. W. C. Harling).

The treble was rehung and rededicated to the glory of God and in loving memory of Alfred Steed Garrett, and the tenor to the glory of God and in ever loving memory of the Cutts family.

The remaining six bells were rehung and rededicated to the glory of God and in loving memory of Sir Frank and Lady Garrett.

Tea was provided in the Church Hall, where an iced cake, suitably inscribed for the occasion, and anonymously given, was cut by R. W. Stannard, of Barking, who was the only ringer present who attended the dedication of the bells 70 years ago.

A course of Plain Bob was rung during the service. After tea the bells were available to a large number of ringers from many parts of Suffolk, including Grundisburgh, Ufford, Ipswich, Haughley, Stowmarket and Blaxhall.

THE RINGING WORLD

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

No. 2248 Vol. L. FRIDAY, MAY 7, 1954 Registered at the G.P.O. for transmission as a newspaper 4d.

METHODS AND MUSIC

THE musical aspect of change ringing provides a fascinating theme and directs inquiry into many interesting side paths. It is a subject that has never been dealt with exhaustively or in any systematic way, but some of our very able writers have, from time to time, provided excursions into the musical realm of our art and have provided thoughtful essays on the essential musical system of change ringing.

The letter from Mr. G. A. Halls, which appeared in a recent issue of 'The Ringing World,' directs us once again to this by no means unimportant subject, and puts forward views that might provide material for much fruitful discussion. In Mr. Halls' letter the prime thought is presented in a sentence both unusual and intriguing. He says: 'It appears to me that the music produced by changes on ten bells is inherently dependent on the structure of the method being rung, and to a lesser extent on the composition of the touch or peal.'

Whether or not one can agree with this statement in its entirety it may prove an interesting exercise to discuss the postulation that the method builder rather than the composer is primarily responsible for the music the method will produce.

We may start with the undoubted fact that certain methods are fortunate in the possession of inherent qualities that make the exploitation of musical positions possible. Sir Arthur Heywood, in the preface to 'Duffield,' set out the qualities that go to the making of a good method (both for the purpose of practical ringing and for the provision of good music), and these factors, the keeping together of the tenors, the double dodging, and so on, are what Mr. Halls rightly calls the inherent qualities of the method.

It may be, nevertheless, that many ringers would hold the opinion that composition was of equal importance, that it was the composer's business to make use of the opportunities offered by the structure of the method, and that the manipulation of the figures may make or mar the musical qualities. It is doubtful, of course, if many methods with poor inherent qualities can be made to produce good music, despite the fact that John Carter always insisted that Grandsire Major ('properly composed,' as he said) could produce very good effects; but it is easily demonstrable that methods with first-rate possibilities may have their musical potentialities rendered useless by bad handling of bobs and singles. The early peal compositions of Grandsire Caters with the big bells split up and the little bells used as hunts are primitive examples of this; and it is quite clear that in Royal the composer could easily part 7890 and so destroy the 'roll-ups' we all enjoy.

Very little investigation will reveal at least one important difference between the musical properties of Royal and those of Caters. In the ringing of Ten–in no position of the heavy bells has been found so universally satisfactory as the Plain Course position. Experiments have, of course, been made in the Tittum (or rather Inverted Tittum) position, but by far the vaster number of peals are composed and rung with the back bells undisturbed, and the musical effects of Royal are provided mainly by the nature of the method, with, of course, the enhancing of the music by a judicious use of the 6th.

The Cater methods, on the other hand, demand manipulation of the heavy bells if their finest beauties are to be revealed. Grandsire, Stedman and Double Norwich are all endowed with qualities that lead them to delight us with their music: the first because of the unity with which the great bells move, the second because of its double dodging and the fascinating breaking of the coursing order on the front, and the third because of the peculiarity of construction that combines the best of Stedman and Grandsire. But to ring any of these three with 789 in the Plain Course position is extremely dull. It needs the art of the composer, his enterprise in placing the big bells, and his manipulation of the 5th and 6th, to bring out the musical possibilities and send the 'tingle down the spine.'

These thoughts, which arise in the reading of the early part of Mr. Halls' letter, might lead on naturally to the consideration of ringers' tastes and the reasons why certain methods are rung and others neglected. But that part of the subject merits an essay of its own. E. C. S.

WIVELSFIELD, SUSSEX

An ambition of the people of Wivelsfield (Sussex) was realised on Easter Sunday morning when the Bishop of Lewes (the Right Rev. Geoffrey Warde) dedicated the bells of the Parish Church—a rehung ring of five, augmented to six.

It was a splendid achievement for a country parish to raise the necessary funds, and all concerned in the effort are to be congratulated. The bellringers, mainly composed of ladies, were instrumental in bringing in a considerable sum of money.

The whole of the work of the restoration of the bells was meritoriously carried out by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank at a cost of approximately £1,030, the ring being of excellent tone.

Of the old bells the third was recast and the whole of the ring was retuned with the addition of a new treble. They are hung in ball bearings in a new steel frame. The weight of the treble is 3 cwt. and bears the inscription 'Vivat Regina Elizabetha II. 1953.'

The bells in the old ring are of different dates, the fourth being the oldest, and though stated to be cast by Hy. Jordan, Citizen and Fishmonger of the City of London in 1450, according to other records may have been cast by a Chamberlain who married into the Jordan family. The bell is inscribed 'Wox Agustin Sonet in Aure Dei.' The old third, now the recast fourth, was originally cast by Edmund Giles, of Lewes. The tenor (6¼ cwt.) was cast by S. Knight in 1714.

The original treble (3½ cwt.) and second bells were installed in 1766 by Lester and Pack, the second, however, being recast in 1906 by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston.

A Divisional meeting of the Sussex Association will be held here at the end of May.

BEVERLEY & DISTRICT SOCIETY

The first meeting of the Society to be held at Rise was on April 10th and although the village lies off the train and bus routes, 38 members attended.

Ringing on the five bells took place during the afternoon in several Doubles methods, but the bells proved far more difficult than was generally expected. The local band showed how they should be rung and struck with a good 120 Grandsire.

A service was held in All Saints' Church, conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. G. E. Hewson), followed by a short talk on Psalm 122.

Tea was provided by the local ringers' mothers and wives in the British Legion Hut, an enormous repast of home cooking, which received a very hearty vote of thanks. Replying to a vote of thanks, the Vicar gave the Society an invitation to come again, and thanked the Ringing Master, Mr. L. Rodmell, for his help in teaching the local band to ring. Mr. Rodmell rang for the dedication service of Rise bells in 1904, and has taken a band to Rise to ring for special services during the last 50 years when there was no local band.

Further ringing took place after tea until 8 p.m.

GUILD OF DEVONSHIRE RINGERS

The meeting of the Mid-Devon Branch at Brixham on April 24th was well attended. An excellent tea followed the service, conducted by the curate, and Mr. J. E. Lilley presided at the business meeting. An apology was received from the president (Preb. E. V. Cox).

The joint meeting with the South-West Branch will be held on June 19th instead of June 26th at Chudleigh if nothing can be arranged at Ashburton.

BARNSLEY & DISTRICT SOCIETY

A good variety of methods including some old favourites were rung at the April meeting of the Barnsley District Society at the Church-in-the-Fields, Felkirk. Towers represented were Cawthorne, Crofton, Darfield, Badsworth, Earlsheaton, Horbury, Hemsworth, Wath, Shelley and the local company.

The Vicar (the Rev. F. Boyard Webster), in his welcome from the chair at the meeting, expressed the hope that it would not be long before the Society would pay them another visit.

Two new members were elected—Mr. Tesh and Mr. Wright, both of Darfield. The next meeting will be at Horbury on May 8th, as a compliment to Mr. H. Rowley, who has completed 65 years as a regular Sunday service ringer at this tower. The shield contest will be at Sandal on June 12th, the outing to Chester on July 3rd and the July meeting at Earlsheaton.

Thanks were accorded the Vicar, the local company and the ladies for attending to the tea.

BUNWELL RINGER'S WEDDING

Wedding bells rang out from Bunwell (Norfolk) Parish Church for the wedding of Mr. Frank Arnold, a local ringer, chorister and parochial church councillor, and Miss Mollie Howett, a Sunday School teacher. The Rev. J. P. Herbert officiated, assisted by the Rev. P. Jenkins.

The bells were rung before the service and 'fired' as the couple left the church, and a peal of Minor in six methods was rung during the evening, conducted by Mr. C. F. W. Phillippo.

One of the many gifts was a chiming clock from friends and members of Bunwell Church.

LATE NEWS

We understand that St. Paul's Cathedral ringers and also those of Stoke Poges will appear in the television programme recording the return of the Queen on May 15th.

BELFRY GOSSIP

At the age of 75 Mr. Jesse Thornett has rung his first peal at Middle Littleton, Worcestershire. Two attempts were necessary as the rope of the fourth bell broke after 30 minutes. This did not deter Mr. Thornett from making a good job with the tenor immediately after repairs had been carried out.

Two Wiltshire tower secretaries were married this Eastertide—Mr. G. Eyles (Chippenham) and Mr. E. L. Buckeridge (Calne).

Bristol Zoo once furnished a band of ringers for Emmanuel, Clifton, states a former Vicar, the Rev. W. Bathurst-Soole.

The musical peal of Stedman Caters, on page 253 of the issue of April 16th, was a composition of Mr. Louis Head.

Mr. J. A. C. King has been appointed 'Ringing World' representative to the Winchester District.

Mr. Mark Couchman, who rings at Harrietsham, near Maidstone, is to marry at Helsinki, on June 23rd, Miss Sinnika Paasikivi, granddaughter of the President of Finland.

Mr. T. R. Butler, of Liverpool, is doubtful whether his doctor will permit him to attend the Council meeting at Newcastle, owing to a recent sharp illness arising from duodenal ulcer trouble.

After many attempts Mr. Francis C. Mogford, of Bristol, has rung his 100th peal. It was Stedman Triples rung at St. George's, Bristol, on St. George's Day. Strange to relate, St. George's were augmented from six to eight in 1919, but this is the first peal on the eight.

The Southern District of the Surrey Association have nominated Mr. R. Davies for the Mastership in succession to the late Mr. D. D. Cooper. Last week we announced the nomination of Mr. F. E. Collins, who is being sponsored by the Northern District.

The first quarter on the bells of Cleaton Moor, Cumberland, since before the war, was rung on Easter Day by ringers from Egremont, St. Bees, Hensingham and Cleaton Moor. It is only on rare occasions that these bells are rung as, due to mining subsidence, the walls of the tower and church are cracked. No further subsidence is now anticipated and it has been decided to put in hand this year repairs to the church.

Mr. Kenneth W. Mackintosh has rung peals of Kent Treble Bob from Minor to Maximus.

Mr. Brian G. Warwick and Mr. John M. Jelley have 'completed the circle' of South Wigston tower.

Mr. George Sayer was welcomed back to peal ringing after his operation by a peal on April 21st, at St. George's, Colegate, Norwich.

Holywood, Co. Down, Parish Church bells will be broadcast as part of the welcome home to the Queen on May 15th.

After the peal at West Bromwich to mark the unveiling of a memorial stained glass window to Mr. A. E. Cotterill, the band were entertained to tea by Mr. T. R. Cotterill. Through 'The Ringing World' they wish to express their thanks.

Mr. G. Dodds issues a warning against any would-be 'peal-snatchers' attempting to 'conquer' Caddington bells. They are in a very bad, if not dangerous, condition. In fact it may be even unsafe to chime them. Later we hope to publish Mr. Dodds' article on these bells.

Bells of Lavenham rang out on April 24th to a peal of Yorkshire Surprise Major as a birthday compliment to Mr. Stedman H. Symonds. The band extend their thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Symonds for their kind hospitality after the peal and also appreciated the warm welcome given to the visitors by the Lavenham company at the service ringing the following morning.

MOTIONS

13. (a) That this Council deprecates the increasing number of installations of synthetic bells, which it considers to be unworthy of use in the service of God, and urges the responsible authorities to do all in their power to prevent their installation.
    Proposed on behalf of the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths by Mr. F. E. Hawthorne, seconded by Mr. T. H. Francis.

    (b) That this Council disapproves of the ban on the publication in 'The Ringing World' of letters signed with a pen-name and instructs the Editorial Committee to rescind it forthwith; furthermore, that this Council expresses its complete confidence in the ability of the Editor of 'The Ringing World' to select only such letters as he considers suitable for publication.
    Proposed by Mr. J. R. Worrall, seconded by Miss J. S. Evans.
14. To fix the place of the next meeting.
15. Any other business.

CIVIC RECEPTION AT NEWCASTLE

Members have been invited to a civic reception in the Laing Art Gallery, Newcastle, after the Council meeting. Will those wishing to be present please apply to me, stating the number of tickets required, by May 19th.

Association Secretaries who have not notified changes in their representatives are requested to do so without delay.

E. A. BARNETT, Hon. Sec.
26, Iron Mill Lane,
Crayford, Kent.

THE GREAT WELCOME

The local company of West Down (Devon) are proud and excited at being chosen by the B.B.C. to represent the West Country by ringing a welcoming peal to the Queen when she returns to England on May 15th.

Father of the company is Mr. Isaac Phillips, aged 86, who has been ringing at West Down for over 70 years. He is uncle to John Phillips, who is a member of the Westminster Abbey band and also a ringer at St. Paul's Cathedral. John learned his ringing at West Down under the tuition of Isaac, who relinquished the captaincy of the company 12 years ago. He was succeeded by his son-in-law, Frederick White, who will be in charge of the ringing on May 15th.

There was a time when all the ringers at West Down were named Phillips, five of them being related to one another. Those who will take part in the welcome are Fred and Walter White (father and son), William and Ivor Hookway (father and son), Mervyn Phillips and Leonard Smale. Realising the great honour done to them, they are practising hard so as to do justice to a great occasion. J. F. S.

ST. GEORGE'S DAY IN CHICAGO

St. George's Day was commemorated by a carillon concert at the Rockefeller Memorial Chapel, Chicago, by the carillonneur, Mr. James R. Lawson.

The programme included Fantasia for a Modern Carillon by Selwyn Baker, who plays the National War Memorial Carillon in Wellington; Dance Impromptu by Clifford Ball, carillonneur at Bournville; Rondo for 23 bells by Robert Donnell, who is Dominion Carillonneur for Canada; A Little Fantasy and Fugue by Sir Hamilton Harty, composed for the Sydney University Memorial Carillon, Australia; Big Ben Fantasia by James R. Lawson, composed while studying change ringing in England, and based on the Westminster Chime tune.

The recital closed with a selection of songs and national airs from England, which included 'Rule Britannia,' 'Land of Hope and Glory,' 'God Bless the Prince of Wales.' 'Jerusalem' and, finally, 'God Save the Queen.'

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY GUILD

At the annual general meeting of the Cambridge University Guild, the following new officers were elected: Master, C. M. P. Johnson (Selwyn); secretary, W. T. Cook (Jesus); General Council representative, P. A. F. Chalk (Selwyn). The other officers were re-elected.

During this meeting it was decided that the Bob Triples rung without a covering bell at Littleport on November 7th, 1953, should not be recorded by the Guild as a peal. W. T. C.

FIFTY YEARS A RINGER

The peal at Rainham, Kent, on April 20th, was specially arranged for Mr. F. S. Macey to celebrate his 50 years of ringing, for it was in this tower that he was first taught to handle a bell, on April 13th, 1904. It was also rung to celebrate the engagement of Trevor A. Cross, ringer at this church, and Patricia Smee, of Ewell, Surrey; also as a birthday compliment to Cynthia Naylor, youngest daughter of Mr. G. A. Naylor.

GLOUCESTER & BRISTOL ASSOCIATION

Membership Over 1,000 Mark Maintained

THE decision last year to alter the date of the annual meeting from Easter Monday to Easter Saturday, owing to catering difficulties, did not affect the attendance at St. Mary Redcliffe, Bristol, on April 24th. The 130 members and friends present included representatives from all branches.

The Master, Mr. A. L. Barry (Gloucester) presided at the business meeting, prayers being said by Canon W. H. Thomas..

Apologies for absence were received from Mr. Sidwell, chairman of the Swindon Branch, who was unfortunately prevented from being present by business duties; Miss Doris Sheppard, chairman of the Stroud Branch, who commented favourably on the work of the Master during the past year, and hoped that he would be elected for another year to continue the good work amongst beginners; Mr. F. Oakhill, vice-president; and from the Rev. W. A. Peel, Tortworth..

The Master's report recorded that it was his privilege to conduct the Association's Coronation peal at Painswick. Although the Stow Branch was rather dead, they heard great news of Stow bells having a thorough overhaul. Blaisdon bells in the North Forest Branch had been overhauled and were in excellent going order. The number of peals (57) showed a decline of 13 this year.

The secretary (Mr. F. Skidmore) in his report stated that membership had been maintained at over 1,000 mark. Nine members had been lost by death, viz., F. Price (Cheltenham), E. E. Preedy (Stonehouse), Sidney Palmer (Swindon), Mary Barnett (Staunton), Sydney Wiltshire (Chippenham), John Martin Cocks (Bristol), William Henry Davies (Newent), W. Townsend (Leckhampton) and Frederick Wilde (Lydney).

Thanking Branch secretaries for their unstinted effort, special mention was made of Bristol Rural Branch, which had passed all previous records in every way.

The hon. treasurer (Mr. S. G. Riches) reported that the funds of the Association had increased from £265 to £318.

The St. John's School of Ringing, Bristol, continued its good work week by week under the leadership of Mr. F. G. Leaker.

These reports were accepted on the proposition of Mr. F. Waite, secondtd by Mr. C. E. Jefferies.

An interesting report on the Central Council meeting at Bournemouth was given by Mr. W. B. Kynaston, who was thanked by Canon W. H. Thomas.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

Mr. Ponting, of Minchinhampton, was added to the list of vice-presidents.

Three nominations were received for the office of Master: Mr. A. L. Barry, present Master; Mr. C. R. Harding (Bristol Rural); and Mr. F. G. Leaker (Bristol Rural). Mr. E. Stitch (Wolverhampton) and a friend acted as tellers for the ballot, which resulted in Mr. Barry, 62 votes; Mr. Leaker, 35; and Mr. Harding, 28.

Thanking the meeting for his election, Mr. Barry promised to do all in his power to uphold the prestige of the Association.

Officers re-elected were: Mr. F. Skidmore, hon. secretary; Mr. S. G. Riches, hon. treasurer; Mr. A. E. Reeves, hon. peal secretary. The Management Committee was also re-elected.

Elected as Central Council representatives were Mr. T. Boreham (Cheltenham), Mr. A. L. Barry, Mr. W. B. Kynaston (Swindon) and Mr. F. Skidmore. Miss Drew (Gloucester) and Mr. P. Baker (Cheltenham) did not seek re-election.

The Association's advisers, Mr. C. W. Martin (Cheltenham), Mr. C. J. Hathway (Swindon) and Mr. F. G. Leaker (Bristol), were re-elected on the proposition of Mr. F. Waite, seconded by Mr. C. Rouse.

CORONATION PEAL TABLET

The secretary read the minutes of the Management Committee meeting held at Gloucester in February last. It had been suggested that a peal tablet be placed in Painswick tower to record the peal of Grandsire Cinques rung for Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth's Coronation last year. The secretary had communicated with the authorities at Painswick, who were agreeable to having a tablet placed in the tower, and the Master had met the Vicar and churchwardens on the subject. Mr. H. W. Bishop had kindly prepared a rough estimate of the cost, which was in the region of £25. Mr. C. Rouse proposed that the executive have power to proceed with the job; this was seconded by Mr. C. Larner, and carried.

The matter of the Belfry Repair Fund was brought forward, with the object of changing the title, so that there would be no doubt as to what this fund could be used for. Canon W. H. Thomas, Mr. A. Prince and Mr. C. Rouse spoke on the matter, and it was decided that Mr. Rouse would draw up an amendment to Rule 26. This was seconded by Mr. H. Blacker, and that the matter be brought forward at the next Management Committee meeting. Carried.

I was unanimously agreed that all bells as far as possible should ring for the homecoming of Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II. on May 15th, as near as possible to coincide with the time of landing, viz., 3.15 p.m. The next annual meeting is to be held at Tewkesbury Abbey on Saturday, April 16th, 1955.

PERMANENCE OF TABLETS

Under any other business, Mr. Waite asked that in view of the fact that a peal tablet was to be placed at Painswick, was it possible that the tablet could be removed by the Vicar at any time, as he understood that a peal tablet which recorded the names of several well-known ringers had been removed from Barnwood tower. It was explained by the Master that what had been removed was a framed photograph, and not a tablet.

It was agreed that the Association pay for 'The Ringing World' which is used by the peal secretary.

Mr. Kynaston offered congratulations to the Malmesbury Guild, who had completed their restoration appeal and were now free from debt.

This concluded the business meeting, and Canon W. H. Thomas closed the meeting with prayer, and members made their way to church for a very good service conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. F. R. Cartwright); the theme of his address was Eastertide in connection with ringing and ringers. A collection for the Association's Belfry Repair Fund realised £4 8s.

Tea was partaken afterwards in the Hall, when the usual vote of thanks was made to the Vicar, organist and ladies who had prepared tea, also to the Bristol City Branch secretary (Mr. A. V. Bennett) and to all the incumbents and steeple-keepers who had made their bells available that day. Further ringing took place during the evening at St. Mary Redcliffe, St. Stephen's and St. John's, thereby bringing to a close another enjoyable day.

SAWBRIDGEWORTH, HERTS.—On April 7th, 1,280 Plain Bob Major: L. Whitby 1, S. Clark 2, W. Wheeler 3, F. Whitby 4, D. Hayden 5, D. Collins (first quarter) 6, B. Hines 7, E. Rochester (cond.) 8.

FARNINGHAM RINGERS' SUPPER

Referring to 'the ancient craft of bell-ringing,' the Vicar of Farningham, Kent (the Rev. G. M. Young), presiding at a steak-and-kidney pie supper of Farningham bellringers at the Bull Hotel, Farningham, declared, 'It is our task to see that the church bells, which ring out to the glory of God, are not silent in our generation.'

The Vicar was proposing a toast to 'The Central Council of Church Bell Ringers.' He said that the ringing of church bells was something that had gone on for centuries. Three of the bells in Farningham Parish Church dated from 1650, and two more from a century later. The responsibility of seeing that the bells throughout the country were kept ringing lay with the Central Council of Church Bell Ringers.

The Vicar then warmly welcomed the guests of honour, Mr. E. A. Barnett, hon. secretary and treasurer of the Central Council of Church Bell Ringers, and his father, Mr. E. Barnett, both of Crayford. 'We are highly honoured,' he said, 'for both of you have devoted so many years to this ancient craft.'

Mr. E. A. Barnett, responding, said the Central Council might seem a bit remote, and it was sometimes criticised, but it did try to do its best for ringing.

'One of our main functions,' said Mr. Barnett, 'is to produce and issue our journal, "The Ringing World." It is our lifeblood. I appeal to you to take "The Ringing World" regularly, and by post if you can. It gives us more profit that way.'

Mr. Barnett, referring to the great record of 100 years of ringing by two members of the Farningham band (Mr. A. Bates, captain of the tower, 52 years, and Mr. W. Wingate, 48 years), added that his father would complete 60 years at Crayford next year. (Applause.)

The Vicar, presenting Mr. Wingate with an oak tobacco jar, said: 'He is one of our most faithful and skilful ringers. In addition, Mr. Wingate is a chip of real old Farningham, and it includes his family.'

Mr. Wingate thanked the company for their gift, and churchwarden clay pipes were handed round to the men.

Among other records announced during a memorable evening was that of 54 years as organist of Knockholt Parish Church by Sir Waldron Smithers, M.P., who came on from another meeting and entertained the company with songs at the piano and recitations.

Sir Waldron, who was in fine form, said he hoped Farningham would ring when the Queen came home. He thought the Queen's Coronation and tour were epoch-making. And Britain would again save the world.

Before the supper, which was excellently served by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Chitham—the two meat pies were cut by the Vicar and Mr. A. Morris Wheeler—the ringers assembled in the tower and rang for half an hour in honour of the Queen's birthday.

Those present included the churchwardens and sidesmen of the church, Mr. Frank Keene, organist, Mrs. G. M. Young, Mrs. Bramer, as well as members of the band of ringers and the choir. Mrs. Bramer's father, the late William S. Pritchett, was a ringer at King's Norton, and her cousin, Sir Theodore Pritchett, presided over this year's Johnson Dinner.

WINDSOR, BERKS.—At the Curfew Tower, Windsor Castle, on April 22nd, 1,260 Grandsire Triples: R. L. Renn 1, W. Butler 2, W. Birmingham 3, W. W. Wolstencroft 4, J. Brooks 5, A. J. Glass 6, E. S. T. Farr (cond.) 7, A. J. Painter 8. Rung half-muffled in memoriam G. W. Adcock.

WORMINGFORD, ESSEX.—On April 23rd, 1,272 Oxford Treble Bob Minor: J. H. Edwards 1, Mrs. L. Mills 2, Miss J. Spurgin 3, D. L. Mills (cond.) 4, A. E. Leggett 5, L. D. Mills 6. First in method for 2, 3 and 4. Rung for St. George's Day.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

ANONYMOUS LETTERS

Dear Sir,—In your report of the meeting of the Guildford and Surrey Associations, Mr. F. A. Munday is reported to have said, 'Speaking as a College Youth he felt . . . . an anonymous letter gave people a chance of expressing an opinion without being ostracised.'

May I point out that Mr. Munday must have been expressing his own personal views, as he had no authority to speak on behalf of the Ancient Society of College Youths.

The matter of anonymous letters has not been discussed at our meetings, but I would suggest that the sentiments expressed by Mr. Leslie Hunter might be very sympathetically received.—Yours faithfully,

A. B. PECK, Hon. Sec.,
Ancient Society of College Youths.

A LONG ACCEPTED PRINCIPLE

Dear Sir,—Mr. W. F. Stenson appears to have missed the true significance and import of Mr. Cliff's remarks which, no doubt, concern letters anonymous to the reader only.

Our immediate concern is, or should be, the preservation and, indeed, survival of our beloved and (to us) indispensable journal. Recently I was shocked when a comparatively well-known active peal ringer told me he had ceased taking, or even reading, 'The Ringing World.'

It follows, therefore, that, however much we dislike anonymous letters in general—personally I have never written one in my life, nor do I ever intend doing so—we should, at any rate, reflect very carefully before confirming the introduction of an arbitrary rule which discards a long-accepted principle editors, proprietors, etc., of all types of responsible newspapers and periodicals have, in their wisdom and experience, seen fit to retain.

When Mr. Stenson attempts, rather boldly I think, to define the occasions which justify anonymity, one wonders whether his 'unmasking crime, etc.,' also include possible crime, or even the numerous anomalies and injustices, not actually illegal, which, nevertheless, frequently carry to many innocent people, sometimes children, far worse consequences than several real crimes.

I cannot help feeling some little regret that we may be deprived of the valuable opinions of a small group of individuals who, by reason of the etiquette or regulations of their respective professions, are debarred from openly taking part in public correspondence of a controversial nature. Also, that we shall never again see the like of those well-remembered, witty, but perfectly harmless communications whose humour was, of course, the more particularly enhanced by their anonymity.

In any case, if it is really intended finally to dispense with all anonymous contributions, we should, I feel, be consistent and have full names not, what are often meaningless, initials appended to leading articles, semi-provocative or otherwise. Owing to the main initials of two prominent ringers being identical, some confusion has already been caused in this respect.

As a member of the Central Council, I had intended raising the issue at its forthcoming meeting in Newcastle, but, due to a recent rather severe illness, it is, at the moment, somewhat doubtful whether I shall be permitted to travel there. I trust, however, your correspondents can rest assured the matter will be fully and fairly discussed by delegates.

At least the Exercise is entitled to know by whom this extreme and unusual ban was imposed, and why.—Yours faithfully,

THOMAS R. BUTLER.

Orrell Park,
Liverpool 9.

A GOOD SIX-PENN'ORTH

Dear Sir,—May I add my comments on the two vexed questions current in this paper?

First on the question of finances. The only real solution is obviously to increase the price to sixpence and to discontinue delivery by newsagents. If, as most of us will agree, the journal was worth 3d. before the war, then it is certainly a good six-penn'orth now; and it's a poor reflection on us as a brotherhood of ringers if we're not prepared to accept this as a part of the inevitable cost-of-living increase, and pay the extra needed to keep our paper alive. Even if the number of readers dropped by a half, those remaining, being all postal subscribers, would still be sufficient to balance the budget—without having to resort to this objectionable regularised begging under the heading of 'Gratefully Acknowledged,' which, to my mind, is a disgrace to our art.

Secondly—anonymous letters. Mr. F. A. Munday is not by any means alone in his cry against the dictatorial ban imposed, I believe, by the Editorial Committee of the Central Council. I have discussed the subject with a number of ringers in this area and all are agreed that it is a thoroughly bad rule which should be rescinded without further delay. As Mr. Poyntz has already said, no reputable paper will consider publishing really anonymous letters; yet many papers—particularly professional ones—welcome, and even encourage, correspondence over a nom-de-plume, in which case the name of the writer is known to the editor, and rightly so. This system has many advantages, viz:—

(a) It allows a writer to give and ask for advice, in circumstances where it would be inadvisable for his name to be published.

(b) Grievances can thereby be aired in an impersonal and general manner.

(c) Letters over a nom-de-plume have, in the past, often started a most interesting and stimulating correspondence, which would never have occurred had the original writer's name been printed. An example of this is a certain letter some years ago from 'Ringer's Wife.' There must be hundreds of readers who remember the good-tempered furore which followed, and can testify how stimulating that was!

Of course, the system is open to possible abuse, but I feel quite sure, Mr. Editor, that you would soon sort the sheep from the goats. The Editorial Committee must leave such decisions to you, and not say, as the ban implies, 'We will save the Editor from having to use his discretion, rather than risk an occasional error of judgment.' I am confident that the great majority of your readers will be more than pleased when this, your prerogative, is rightly restored to you.—Yours sincerely,

Eastleigh, Hants. R. A. REED

OUR CHILDREN WILL SMILE

Dear Sir,—Re 'The Ringing World' finances, it can only be a matter of time before

(a) The price goes up;

(b) Donations are such that the loss on working is covered, i.e., donations become the accepted principle;

(c) Some genius gives us a coloured cover with outside advertising prominently displayed on every bookstall in the country to make payment for such advertising worth while.

Now (a) appears to be the line of least resistance or the acceptable way and (b) a carry-over.

It is reasonably certain that our grandchildren will smile when from their half-crown's worth they read in an odd corner how we feared 4d. to 6d. May one recall father fearing an income tax rise from 1s. 6d.? Surely history points the way we must go.—Yours faithfully,

E. L. HUMPHRISS

Woolton, Liverpool.

PAY FOR EVERYTHING

Dear Sir,—I don't think that to increase the price of 'The Ringing World' to 6d. would be a good thing, as some might discontinue it on the ground that it was too expensive. It must be made to pay for itself by the printing, i.e., all items published to be charged for, yes, I haven't forgotten, even 'Letters to the Editor.'—Yours faithfully,

S. J. ELLIOTT.

Yardley-Hastings,
Northampton.

MEMORIAL TO THE LATE CANON COLERIDGE

Dear Sir,—The Vicar of Crowthorne has been good enough to give me full information regarding the proposed Parish Memorial at Crowthorne to the late Canon G. F. Coleridge, who was Vicar for over 50 years.

The Memorial is to consist of alterations to the east wall, altar and sanctuary of the church and, when finished, will, in my opinion, add considerably to the dignity of the church.

I have seen the plans which have been approved and for which a Faculty has been issued and I am of the opinion that there is little that the Canon would have liked better.

The Vicar hopes that any friends will join in with the parish if they wish and contribute towards the Memorial.

Any contribution should be sent direct to the Vicar:—The Rev. A. C. Nugee, The Vicarage, Crowthorne, Berks.—Yours faithfully, H. J. CANN (Major).

Bridgwater, Somerset.

A PLEA FOR HOLT'S ORIGINAL

Dear Sir,—In your issue of 2nd inst. I was disappointed to see in the leading article, under the title of 'A Notable Trio,' the exclusion of Holt's Original in favour of Parker's 12-part. I know nothing of this latter composition, but it can surely not bear comparison with John Holt's famous masterpiece, containing, as it does, the extent of changes possible with the use of bobs only.

I believe I am right in saying that early composers of those days, including Holt, were of the opinion that the whole 5,040 changes could be obtained without the use of singles, and how nearly they were right!

It is curious to see how seldom this composition is rung nowadays, and there seem to be no more than quite a small number of conductors who aspire to master its intricacies. I can assure others, however, that if they once do so they would never call any other peal of Grandsire Triples, by reason of the fact that it is so full of interest throughout, and it well repays any difficulty there may be in learning it.

It is a matter that is full of interest and was thought a great deal of by past generations of ringers, and I, for my part, should hate to see this old friend pass into oblivion.—Yours faithfully,

G. N. PRICE.

West Norwood, S.E.

Co-operation With Call Change Ringers

The peal at Chittlehampton on Easter Monday is good evidence of the friendly co-operation that exists in North Devon between the isolated 'method' ringers at Combe Martin and the surrounding 'call change' ringers. Mr. Sully, who rang the tenor, is the secretary of the South Molton Deanery call change ringers. The Rev. T. H. B. Andrews and Mrs. Andrews very generously entertained the peal ringers and four more listening ringers to tea in the Vicarage afterwards

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION

'Ringing World' Position Discussed

ST. JAMES' Church, Clerkenwell, has for a number of years been the venue for the annual meeting of the Middlesex County Association and the London Diocesan Guild, and a very cordial welcome was extended to the good attendance by the Vicar, the Rev. C. T. M. Brown, at the service and also at the tea which followed, on April 24th. The address was given by the Rev. M. C. C. Melville.

For the business meeting, the Rev. P. Gough (president) took the chair, and it was a pleasure to the meeting to have with them Mr. E. C. S. Turner, who has been absent from ringing activities since last November through illness.

The company stood in remembrance of the following losses by death: W. J. Baldwin (Barnett), F. Blondell (Isleworth), W. Bunce (Ruislip), G. W. Cartmel (St. Albans), J. Cobb (Heston), Sir Gilfrid Craig (Hillingdon), G. Dawson (Leytonstone), Rev. H. Greatbach (Ealing), E. Marshall (Barnet), G. Martin (Maidenhead), H. Miller (Southgate), G. R. Newton (Liverpool), W. Perkins (Irthlingborough), Rev. M. Radley (Finchley), G. Stacey (Minchead), G. H. Kilby (Ruislip), W. J. G. Brown (Ipswich), G. Ward (Derby), Rev. P. W. Shepherd-Smith.

The report recorded that 68 new members were elected, consisting of 3 honorary, 50 ringing and 15 non-resident life members.

NEW METHODS

Forty-seven peals were rung, three of them being on handbells. There were again several new Surprise Major methods rung at Willesden. They were Cheshunt and Neasden, conducted by R. F. B. Speed and C. W. Roberts respectively, the first peals ever rung in these methods. In addition, C. W. Roberts conducted Banstead, Knebworth, Leatherhead and Warwickshire, and R. F. B. Speed conducted Eastbury, Kendal, Ickleton and Whitwick—methods not previously rung by the Association. Several interesting peals were rung at Stanwell, conducted by F. T. Blagrove. They included the first peal of Spliced Doubles by the Association, the greatest number of Doubles methods each having its own Plain Course (25) ever rung in a peal, and the first peal of Huntspill Bob Doubles. Other peals worthy of mention were Grandsire Triples at Upper Clapton, the first peal there for 31 years in which local ringers had taken part, and London Surprise Major at Stanmore, the first time a peal in this method had been rung on handbells without a conductor. A peal of London Surprise Major was rung at Feltham by eight officers of the Association. Nine members rang their first peals.

The number of quarter peals reported (170 compared with 123 for 1952), indicated a considerable improvement in ringing on Sundays. Both Stanwell and Upper Clapton recorded 28 and Harrow Weald 26.

The report welcomed two bands who had joined the Association—St. Margaret's, Edgware, had now a band after a lapse of 33 years; St. Margaret's, Uxbridge, returned now that the bells were restored.

The report was adopted.

Presenting the accounts, Mr. C. W. Roberts said the financial position of the Association had steadily improved. They had a balance in hand of £116 5s. 8d. and investments amounting to £73 13s. 8d. The Bell Restoration Fund stood at £14 19s. 2d., against £10 14s. 11d. During the ban bells got into a bad state, and in order to get these bells going money had to be found. Churches, like people generally, were hard up and a bell restoration fund was useful. If they wanted to keep their bells they had to be ready to put their hands in their pocket. He asked the members to be as liberal as they could towards the fund. The alternative was recorded bells.

NO COPYRIGHT IN CHANGE RINGING

The President asked if it was possible for recordings of bells to be copyright.

Mr. Roberts replied that there was no copyright of change ringing. There was nothing intrinsically wrong in making a record and playing it, the only thing was substituting it for the proper thing when it was available.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

The Rev. P. Gough was re-elected president. After Mr. W. H. Coles and Mr. H. G. Hart had been elected active vice-presidents, Mr. W. H. Coles expressed the thanks of the Association to Mr. Albert Coles for his services and the regret that he was unable to carry on.

Other officers elected were: Hon. general secretary, Mr. E. C. S. Turner; assistant general secretary, Mr. W. N. Genna; ringing master, Mr. Tony Price; hon. treasurer, Mr. C. W. Roberts; hon. auditor, Mr. M. Hodgson; trustees, Messrs. T. J. Lock, E. C. S. Turner and C. W. Roberts. A ballot for Central Council representatives resulted in the election of Mr. R. F. B. Speed 54 votes, Mr. Turner 51, Mr. Lock 48, Mr. F. W. Goodfellow 41. Unsuccessful, Mr. C. W. Roberts, 40 votes.

Mr. A. Tapley (Exeter) was elected a non-resident life member, Mr. W. Blake (Finchley), an old member, rejoined, and the Rev. J. F. Wonson is a new member.

It was decided that the books of the Association be kept at St. Giles-in-the-Fields and Mr. Parsons act as librarian.

Ringing on May 15th for the Queen's return was discussed, the subject being introduced by Mr. T. J. Lock. It was decided to leave arrangements to each district.

'THE RINGING WORLD'

There was a full discussion on the position of 'The Ringing World' following the reading of a letter from the secretary of the Central Council.

Mr. George Pipe (Suffolk Guild) said his father had suggested a peal levy.

Mr. Turner replied that the point was raised at the Central Council meeting and turned down. He commended the appeal for more postal subscribers and asked if there was any objection to all copies being supplied through the post.

Mr. J. Frank Smallwood said that point was under consideration at the present time, but it would have to be realised that the circulation of the paper would drop. There were many young ringers who got 'The Ringing World' delivered with the family papers.

The first reaction to their appeal was a substantial increase in supplies to newsagents. Two years ago they asked for an increased number of 1,000 postal subscribers and the response was about 340. That told the committee that the Exercise was fairly apathetic about the matter. He felt that everybody who could afford to should take the journal through the post. If they put up the price, it would mean an increased percentage to the newsagent. There was a lot in the idea of reducing the price of the paper through the post and making it a postal circulation entirely.

A criticism from the meeting was that those who rang many peals in the Midlands never sent a contribution to the paper. To this the Editor replied that it would be foolish to make a general accusation. Many anonymous contributions were received. They were purposely kept secret and people making a general charge would be wise to refrain. Mr. White made a strong appeal that a copy of 'The Ringing World' should be presented to each ringer on ringing his or her first peal or quarter. Requests years after were received for these back copies. A first peal was a big occasion in the career of a ringer, and a copy of the journal officially recording the event should be in the possession of the individual. Copies could be ordered, price 6d. each, when sending in a peal report.

The meeting decided to refer the matter to the two district meetings and to appoint an officer to push the sale of 'The Ringing World' and to act as correspondent.

Mr. Genna proposed a vote of thanks to the Rev. C. T. M. Brown for conducting the service and the use of the bells, to the Rev. M. C. C. Melville for giving the address, to Mr. W. Prockson and Miss M. Prockson for local arrangements and tea, and to the various incumbents.

EDGWARE BELLS AGAIN AFTER 30 YEARS

The opportunity of ringing in a fresh tower attracted a larger number of ringers than usual at the District meeting held at St. Margaret's, Edgware, on April 10th, for this ring of six is now active again after a period of over 30 years. After an initial waiting period for a wedding, a chosen band rang two bobbed courses of Cambridge Surprise Minor for the lucky bride and groom and this proved to be a fitting opening in a new meeting place. A welcome visitor to his local tower was Mr. William J. Nudds, who has lived four times as long as several others who attended.

The Rector of Edgware (the Rev. J. Melville Scutt) conducted an evensong service and, in his address, extended to the Association a very warm welcome and acknowledged with gratitude the part that ringers play in the work for the Church. Members then assembled for an exceedingly nice tea after the the business of the meeting was held. This was presided over by the Rev. Melville Scutt, who was unanimously elected an honorary life member of the Association. Miss M. Piper (Southgate) was elected a ringing member. The chairman expressed his pleasure of this meeting and thanked Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Mayne for acting as instructors to his young and promising band of ringers. Those present heard with regret that Mr. B. Tubb, late captain of the Finchley band, was in hospital, and it was decided to send him a letter of good wishes.

Approaching 60 ringers visited Edgware and Stanmore, which was made available in the evening, and enjoyed ringing in a full range of methods.

HALIFAX AND DISTRICT ASSOCIATION

At the quarterly meeting and six-bell contest held at Holmfirth Parish Church on April 24th, the draw and result were as follows:—

	Penalties	Faults	Totals
Friezland ..	0	31	31
Shelley ..	10	110	120
Liversidge ..	—	105	Rung out
Meltham ..	5	80	85
Silkstone ..	5	60	65
Cawthorne ..	0	45	45

Friezland were declared the winners of the Silver Cup. Owing to illness, the president (Mr. E. Earnshaw) was unable to attend, and on the proposition of Mr. L. Dawson, and seconded by Mr. G. Perrin, plus the full approval of all present, Mrs. Mary Greenwood accepted the post of chairman.

Mr. Jonathan Pilling, of Saddleworth, volunteered as marker for the judge (Mr. A. Roberts, of Kirkburton). Mr Pilling, who is 90 years of age, rang a short touch with ringers from Meltham, Silkstone, Shelley, Liversedge and Cawthorne, after the meeting closed, and Mr. Allen Haigh, of Holmfirth, who is stone deaf, also rang a short touch with another mixed band. The ringing in both cases was very good and highly appreciated by the two men.

BATH & WELLS DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION

Enthusiasm Well Maintained

MR. ROGER O. FRY presented his first report as secretary of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association at the annual meeting at Wells on Easter Monday. It gave a fully paid up membership of 1,521. 'Everywhere one sees beginners—men and women—being taught, and in my view this reflects great credit on the older members of the Association, who are thus ensuring that the bells will still ring out when they themselves are too old to carry on.

Proceedings started with a service in the Cathedral at noon, conducted by the Archdeacon of Wells. The address was given by the Master, Prebendary A. J. Hook.

Nearly 100 attended the lunch at Wickenden's Restaurant. The Master presided, and the guests included the President, the Lord Bishop of Bath and Wells (Dr. H. W. Bradfield), and the Dean of Wells (the Very Rev. F. P. Harton).

The annual meeting followed, with the Master in the chair and a company of 150 being present.

The apologies included one from Mr. J. T. Dyke, former secretary for 28 years, owing to the serious illness of his wife. At the suggestion of the Master, the secretary was asked to convey to Mr. Dyke the sympathy of the meeting and their hopes that Mrs. Dyke would be speedily restored to health.

DIOCESE TO BE CONGRATULATED

In his address, the Master said it was really wonderful the way the towers were being put in order and everywhere in the diocese they heard of things being done to put the bells into service. He felt that the Diocese was to be congratulated on all the activity taking place in that direction: He also felt that it was a matter of congratulation that their membership was over 1,500, and that Somerset had the second largest membership in the county, being beaten only by Yorkshire. They owed a tremendous debt to Mr. Dyke. No one had done more to raise the standard of ringing, and his enthusiasm had raised the Association to its present efficient position in the ringing world.

He thanked all the officers of the Association, particularly Mr. Fry, their new secretary, who had done very very well in his first year; Mr. Sanger, peals secretary, and all the others who had helped forward the work of the Association.

Prebendary Hook commended the members for their self-denial over peal ringing during Lent, and said the Deaneries were very good about it. He also touched on the subject of synthetic bells and said he hoped they would do everything in their power to resist such a thing. He looked upon the whole thing as a fraud, and said it was certainly not worthy of calling people to Almighty God.

STRONG EVIDENCE OF ENTHUSIASM

In his report, Mr. R. O. Fry said during the past 12 months he had travelled extensively throughout the diocese, attending branch meetings and visiting practice meetings. He had done this so that the members could meet their new secretary, and he could make himself known to them and hear their views on Association matters. He was also anxious to see how the Association was progressing.

Summing up his observations, he was happy to report that the Association as a whole was in a very healthy position, and was flourishing. In every Deanery, without exception, there was strong evidence of enthusiasm and effort to increase the number of members, and to ensure that the bells were rung regularly, and frequently, for Sunday services.

Mr. Fry said as further evidence of the enthusiasm in the diocese was the number of towers where restoration work had been carried out. There were comparatively few towers where the bells had not received attention in recent years. In this connection he thanked Mr. W. A. Osborn for going to so many towers all over Somerset to give his time and advice to church authorities on the condition of the bells.

Mr. Fry said he would like to place on record an account of the work undertaken by Miss M. Graves-Knyfton, of Uphill. It was proposed that an apparatus be placed in the new church at Uphill to reproduce synthetically the sound of church bells. With great determination and vigour Miss Graves-Knyfton organised a petition against this apparatus and such was the measure of her success that the proposal was dropped.

'This action may have profound effect on future such proposals, and the thanks of the Association and of the ringing world generally are due to Miss Graves-Knyfton for her interest and activity,' said Mr. Fry.

SHOULD PAY THEIR WAY

Turning to the business and financial side of the Association, Mr. Fry said that with new rates of subscription, coupled with the new peal-booking fee, it was fairly certain that with care and thrift they should just pay their way.

Having made an appeal to members to take 'The Ringing World,' Mr. Fry concluded his report with thanks to the many people all over the diocese who had helped him during the past year, and particularly to the peal secretary and the treasurer and to the late general secretary, whose kindly guidance and wise counsel were always at his disposal, also all the local secretaries for their support.

The report was approved, as was the report of the peal secretary (Mr. H. J. Sanger, Evercreech), and of the treasurer (Mr. L. W. Pullen). The peal secretary suggested that more attention should be given to the ringing of Surprise methods.

A report was presented by the advisory expert on the care and restoration of bells, Mr. W. A. Osborn, of North Cadbury, who made a special appeal to members to man all the towers on the day of the Queen's return.

Mr. H. J. Sanger gave an interesting account of the last meeting at Bournemouth of the Central Council.

THE NEW MASTER

The Rev. Michael Hurst Bannister (Pilton) was elected to succeed Prebendary Hook as the Master. Having thanked the members for electing him, he hoped they would keep on ringing, and particularly for Sundays. He hoped that as many towers as possible would ring on May 15th for the Queen's return.

Other officers elected were: General secretary, Mr. R. O. Fry; peal secretary, Mr. H. J. Sanger; treasurer, Mr. L. W. Pullen (Yatton); Central Council delegates, Miss Williams, Messrs. S. G. Coles, R. O. Fry and H. J. Sanger.

In appreciation of his services as the Master for the past nine years, a presentation was made to Prebendary Hook. This took the form of a book and a cheque, the presentation being made by Mr. H. W. Knight (Wrington). Prebendary Hook expressed thanks to the members for their kindness.

The meeting concluded with the Master expressing thanks to the Dean for allowing them to hold the service in the Cathedral, the Lord Bishop and the Dean for their interest and for attending the lunch and annual meeting, and to all the officers for their work during the past year.

IRISH ASSOCIATION

Northern District

Over 100 members attended the annual meeting of the Northern District at Rostrevor, Co. Down, and seven teams took part in the Cunningham Cup competition.

Nine new members were elected at the business meeting and the District has now a membership of 180. Mrs. Adamson, widow of Mr. R. W. Adamson, presented a magnificent cup for perpetual competition in change ringing, and it is hoped that the cup will further change ringing in the District as the Cunningham Cup has improved striking.

Mr. John T. Dunwoody, who was re-elected hon. secretary, with Miss J. Stewart as assistant secretary, explained to the meeting the position of 'The Ringing World,' and urged all those present to help by taking a copy. He also stated that he would be pleased to act as collector.

In the Cunningham Cup competition the striking was exceptionally high, the winners being Rostrevor (99 per cent.) followed by St. Donard, Belfast (96) and St. Comgall, Bangor (82). Miss Cunningham, daughter of the late donor, presented the cup to Mr. A. Wylie, captain of the winning band. This was a most popular win, as the late Mr. Cunningham was a member of the Rostrevor band.

THE G.O.M. OF ASHBY-DE-LA-ZOUCH

To mark the 81st birthday of that enthusiastic ringer, Ernest W. Beadsmoore, a special peal was arranged on April 26th. It was unfortunate that, owing to failing health, Mr. Beadsmoore himself could not take part in it, but he was, nevertheless, keenly concerned about its success. Despite an elastic rope on the third, and a false-struck sixth, a very good peal resulted, much to everyone's gratification. Before the peal ringers noted the old attendance book in the tower showed Mr. Beadsmoore as a regular ringer here in 1890, but he was a probation ringer long before that. He has rung some 60 peals for the Midland Counties Guild since its formation and nearly 100 for the old M.C.A., as well as a number for the Leicester Diocesan Guild and other Societies. Everyone wishes him 'All the very best.'

THE RINGING WORLD

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

No. 2249 Vol. L. FRIDAY, MAY 14, 1954 Registered at the G.P.O. for transmission as a newspaper 4d.

SOME THOUGHTS ON INSTRUCTION

IF the art of change ringing is to be extended or even maintained at its present standard, much more attention must be given to the methods of instruction used with beginners. Scores of recruits take up bell-ringing with great enthusiasm and interest which are maintained in the majority of cases until the first hurdle has been negotiated successfully, that is, the acquisition of bell control. Recruits who can ring their bells and strike them correctly in rounds are usually keen to take the next step, although some are quite prepared to 'rest on their oars' and make no further effort.

It is in the negotiation of the second hurdle—which to learners seems such a formidable one—that the help of a really capable and sympathetic instructor is essential. The number of ringers who have the gift of being able to impart the rudiments of change ringing in an interesting and simple manner is comparatively small, while the number who attempt to teach beginners by rough and ready methods is legion.

It need hardly be stated that pupils who have received their initial instruction from a really skilled teacher are potentially capable of proceeding to the most complex ringing if they have reasonable facilities and opportunities, while those who have been unfortunate enough to have been taught by 'rule of thumb' instructors quickly find themselves in a 'cul-de-sac' from which they find that they can extricate themselves only by herculean efforts. Many do not make the necessary effort, but content themselves with ringing the same simple bit of change ringing which they have managed to grasp month after month, until the monotony kills all interest and they drop out of ringing altogether. If the wastage of good material brought about in this way could be determined accurately, the Exercise would receive a shock.

In teaching change ringing, or any other subject, there are at least two important factors: (a) the teacher, and (b) the methods of teaching.

If there should happen to be a 'born' teacher amongst the ringers in any particular neighbourhood who would be willing to teach the youngsters who are ready to be initiated into the mysteries of change ringing, that would be the greatest of good fortune for that particular group. But such teachers are extremely rare, so that most young ringers will probably have to be taught by men of a rather lower standard of excellence.

Up and down the country in all probability there are many ringers who are potentially good teachers, but whose ability in this direction is lying dormant, needing only to be brought to the surface and developed. This brings us to the important question of the ways and means of bringing latent teaching ability to fruition. Surely every Association is interested in, and to a great extent responsible for, the production of the teacher who can not only teach the rudiments of change ringing with clarity and ability, but can, at the same time, arouse such enthusiasm and zeal in his pupils that they will be prepared to give up a great deal of their time and to take endless trouble to master step by step the work brought to their notice, and always with a forward glance to the wonderful vistas looming in the distance, vistas which beckon them on to further achievements.

Let us now turn to methods of teaching our art.

It is common knowledge that in some centres in recent years bands of ringers have made rapid progress in change ringing and have achieved striking results. Such progress as this is undoubtedly due to the two factors stated above, and in every case the able teacher must have used very successfully some methods of instruction which would be of untold value to the Exercise if they were available.

Instructors do not live for ever, and if they pass on without revealing the secret of their success, the Exercise is in a measure impoverished.

One well-known ringer—a member of the select band who have rung a thousand peals—has been heard to say that all ringing is based on hunting. Another—a member of the Oxford Diocesan Guild—would not allow his young son to attempt to ring a working bell in any method until he could hunt the treble on twelve bells with ease.

If we assume that (plain) hunting is the first step to be learned by a beginner, we must decide on the method of teaching this step, and also how much use must be made of pencil and paper, blackboard and handbells.

When plain hunting can be rung with ease and confidence on tower bells, the pupil is ready for the next step, namely, that of ringing a working bell. To many learners this step seems to be one of great difficulty, and if the instructor has no experienced change ringer to help him, he often reluctantly takes the line of least resistance by selecting Grandsire Doubles as the method to be learned because then two of his band will still continue to do plain hunting. What a lot of young bands have fallen into this trap and have never managed to escape from it!

It would be interesting to know in how many Associations the teaching of the rudiments of change ringing takes a high priority in their activities. It would be still more interesting to know how many Associations keep an up-to-date list of proved and qualified instructors in each branch; how much they encourage the various towers in their branches to make full use of these instructors; how much they spend annually on such instruction; and how often they hold courses at which the best brains of the Associations teach would-be instructors how to teach. Surely Associations who neglect these matters are not fulfilling their proper function.

Think of the tremendous amount of time, thought, energy and money spent in coaching rowing crews and league footballers in order that they may reach the highest standard of efficiency. Surely if ringers are to aim at perfection they should have highly skilled coaching. In rowing the skilled coach instructs the oarsmen from the very earliest stage—the tub pairs—and it is only logical that learners in change ringing should have similar opportunities.

Perhaps a new committee of the Council—to be called the Instruction Committee—could be set up for the express purpose of inviting as many successful instructors as possible to reveal particulars of their own methods of instruction, so that they might be preserved and made available for other instructors to use. The committee might also act as a fact-finding committee and obtain information from the Associations relative to the points propounded above, and tabulate the results.

This committee — with the Central Council's financial backing — might also stimulate Associations to initiate instruction courses and, if required, put them in touch with some of the best instructors in the Exercise.

If all (or even some) of the above suggestions were acted upon we should at least help to maintain our present standard and might ultimately make progress. H. M.

GILLETT
AND JOHNSTON
LIMITED

No matter in which corner of the country you happen to be, as likely as not you will come across Gillett & Johnston bells or tower clocks. Gillett & Johnston craftsmanship is embodied in an all-embracing service — as much in the preservation and restoration of old rings of antiquarian interest as in the installation of new.

It was a great pleasure to ringers at the meeting at Edenbridge to meet the curate, the Rev. J. Shepheard-Walwyn, who although blind has peals to his credit. He rang and also preached the sermon.

BELFRY GOSSIP

The friendship of the peal is well known. Mr. John Penfold and Mr. G. E. Fearn, of Birmingham, have rung 500 peals together. We should be pleased to hear of other associations in peals beyond the 500 mark.

The Good Friday peal at Hemingbrough, Yorks, was rung at the request of the Vicar, a start being made after 3 p.m.

An interesting feature of the peal at Inverary on May 1st is that Edward Jenkins, who was one of the band, called the first peal of Cambridge Surprise Major rung in Scotland.

Something new in University ringing has been established by past and present members of Selwyn College ringing a peal. This is the first University college to score a peal from its own members.

Fourteen-year-old Miss Stella Hughes received many congratulations on her first peal — one of Grandsire Caters at West Bromwich. Her father and grandfather were members of the band.

Mr. D. G. Thrush, of Bilton, Rugby, is doing his National Service at Gibraltar. He says the bells there are disgusting, just clanging together like a tramcar clattering down the street.

The ringer of the third in the peal of Cambridge Surprise Maximus at Birmingham on April 20th was Margaret E. L. Beamish, and not Mrs. Beamish, as reported on page 274. Mrs. Beamish writes: 'I am afraid that I shall never emulate my daughter.'

The series of articles by Mr. H. V. Frost on 'Ringing in Hertfordshire' have been reprinted in booklet form and are being sold for the benefit of the Hertford County Association. The cover is particularly attractive, showing the bells and ringing chamber of St. Peter's Church, St. Albans.

The Rev. H. A. James, Vicar of St. Bride's Major, Bridgend, Glam, writes expressing his parishioners' gratitude to the ringers of St. Illtyd's Church, Bridgend. On Easter Day these ringers rang in their own church at 5.15 a.m. and then came to St. Bride's at 7.30 a.m. to ring for the 8 a.m. service of Holy Communion. This is real service to the Church.

At the time of writing there is no certainty that there will be a television broadcast of ringing on May 15th for the Queen's return.

Birthday greetings to Mr. E. F. Marlow, who rang a quarter for his 79th birthday at Longbridge Deverill, Wilts. We shall look forward to his 80th. Keep it up!

All the band who rang the peal of Cambridge Surprise Minor at Sapcote, Leics, on April 28th, were taught to handle a bell in the tower. Their average age was 18¼ years.

Leading counties in drive for new postal subscribers are: Essex 9, Birmingham 7, Leicester 7, Surrey 6, Herts 5, London 5, Wales 5.

Mr. H. H. R. Glover (Merton College) has been appointed 'The Ringing World' representative for Oxford University Society. Mr. G. F. Jenkins (Keble College) is the new secretary.

Regarding the claim that the peal at St. George's, Bristol, was the first on eight bells, a correspondent informs us that a peal of Stedman Triples was rung there on December 21st, 1899.

The peal at Ecclesfield on April 19th was the first there for 23 years, whilst the recent ones at Coln St. Aldwyn and Ardleigh were the first for 19 years in those towers. Worsley's recent peal was the 199th in the tower since 1881, and the one at Willesden was the 299th (excluding the false peal rung a few years ago).

CAMBRIDGE ROYAL ON INVERARAY BELLS

MANCHESTER, London Road Station, on Friday, April 30th, was the meeting place of six Cheshire, two Lancashire and two Birmingham ringers for the long car journey to the West Highlands of Scotland. Through Manchester, Preston and Lancaster across Shap summit to Carlisle, over Beattock in the twilight, through Glasgow with its garish street lighting and clanking orange-coloured trams, Fred Dunkerley and John Worth, at a scorching pace and safely, drove the party to their night's lodging at Balloch, on Loch Lomond, soft snow pelting on the windscreen, unfittingly to usher in the first immature minutes of May Day.

In the morning the drive through snow-crested mountains to Inveraray was leisured and enchanting. There the village nestles on the shore of tidal Loch Fyne, dominated by the tower, whose church is yet to be built. Within is one of Taylor's finest, the second heaviest ringable ten in the world, given by the late Duke of Argyll. Beside the tower, which stands as a detached campanile, is the little Church of All Saints. The bells in this climate are scarcely touched by grime or grit, and hang, unrung except on rare occasions, yet in appearance as though installed a mere six months ago.

Below, in the ringing chamber, one finds something akin to a disused railway station on a closed branch line, chiming apparatus, ten holes in the ceiling, three boxes marking a small sequent of the circle 'at the heavy end,' but no ropes. Anon this ghost chamber was re-animated, amid sorting, fitting and stretching of ropes brought from home towers, incoherent shouting up and down stairs to the guiding hands on the intermediate floor, looking over the frame and fittings and pulling the bells up.

One of the most famous ringers of all time went up and down the stairs four times to turn the clapper of the seventh, four times pulled up 'wrong side.' In the first experimental rounds this bell was discovered by the writer of these notes to be not only a mile wide at hand, but a mile wide at back as well. Without reluctance he graciously bequeathed it to George Fearn, as being the potent antidote. In truth, this must have been a wicked bell to strike for a course or two, until the oiling took effect and the clapper swung less stiffly. A tribute to the bellfounders is that this was the only lubrication, or attention of any sort, that the bells required.

After lunch the peal began. Almost at once it became clear that, despite nearly 42 cwt. of tenor, the pace was to be not lonto con amore, but allegro con brio. Ted Jenkins fashions a peal like a master craftsman, with splendid overall design and punctilious attention to detail. The rhythm was soon established, though a concrete floor confuses the sound of these fine bells and detracts much from the pleasure of the performers inside the tower. With scarcely a flutter Cambridge Royal was brought to a triumphant conclusion in 3 hours and 38 minutes, and the ringers of the two back bells shook hands, the conductor some years ago of the first Cambridge Major peal in Scotland, with his newly-fledged counterpart in Cambridge Royal. Bells were lowered ropes rapidly removed, belongings collected and the tower reverted to solitude. At the George Hotel champagne accompanied dinner, followed by the evening drive back to Loch Lomond for the night.

Sunday brought the long journey southwards through much heavy rain, but under brighter skies in the afternoon, when a detour by Ullswater and Windermere was decided at the last minute. The finish was Manchester, London Road Station, again, at 6.30 p.m. A collective total of over 6,000 miles was travelled through seven English and five Scottish counties by ten ringers to share in this memorable peal. George Fearn did as much mileage for one peal this week-end as he usually does for a hundred a year. His verdict: 'Why not every week-end!'

The Queen's Homecoming

We are planning to devote the issue of May 28th to a comprehensive record of ringing for the Queen's homecoming on May 15th. Special incidents about the ringing will help to make a national story that will be memorable.

Reports of peals and quarter peals should be forwarded as early as possible.

Please write these reports on one side of a sheet of paper, and don't forget the name and address of the sender. If you follow 'The Ringing World' style the time of the Editor is saved.

Extra copies should be ordered at the time of writing. Make certain that those ringing their first peal or quarter peal have a copy of the journal as a memento.

A MEMORIAL TO GEORGE MARTIN

Dear Sir,—It is our intention at All Saints', Boyne Hill, to have our eight bells retuned, completely overhauled, fit new wheels, iron headstocks, etc., and have them rehung on ball bearings as a memorial to George Martin. It is also intended to erect a tablet to his memory.

This scheme is to cost £750, and we feel that many of George's ringing friends would like to be associated with his memorial.

Should readers feel they would like to send a donation, no matter how small or large, it will be most gratefully acknowledged by our chairman, the Rev. Eric Perkins, All Saints' Vicarage, Boyne Hill, Maidenhead, or by Ernest E. Gosling, hon. treasurer, 85, High Street, Maidenhead, Berks.

LINCOLN DIOCESAN GUILD

Presentation to Mr. W. E. Clarke

At the annual meeting of the Eastern Branch held early in April, Mr. W. E. Clarke, of Boston, was presented with an electric clock to mark his services as secretary for 20 years.

In making the presentation Mr. J. R. Young, Branch Ringing Master, spoke of the good work that had been done by Mr. Clarke.

Thanking the members for their gift, Mr. Clarke said that he had been Branch Ringing Master for eight years and secretary for 20 years and had only missed one meeting during that time. When first elected as secretary his aim was to see the membership at the 100 mark and this number had been reached during the last two years.

Mr. Clarke told the members that he thought that they should now elect a younger man for this post, but at the election of officers he was again elected for another year.

HENLEY-ON-THAMES

Organisers of outings are asked to give Henley-on-Thames Church a miss this year. The tower is in a dangerous condition and a minimum of £10,000 is required to make it safe. Mr. Hubert Hatto writes: 'I am sure there must be many ringing friends, known and unknown, who would like to help us in saving this tower, which is also an historic landmark. Donations should be sent to Canon E. C. Crosse, The Rectory, Henley-on-Thames.'

SUSSEX REPORT SUNDAY RINGING WELL MAINTAINED

The 69th annual meeting of the above Association was held at Brighton on May 1st. The bells of St. Peter's and St. Nicholas' were available for ringing from 2.30 p.m. and in the evening: The Good Shepherd from 7.30 to 9 p.m.

The service was held at the Church of St. Nicholas with an address by the Vicar (the Rev. D. M. I. Walters). The Vicar of St. Peter's was unable to attend.

Tea was held in the Union Church Institute Hall and over 100 members and friends attended. After tea the Master (Mr. S. E. Armstrong) took the chair at the business meeting.

The Master's report showed that Sunday service ringing was being well maintained, but some towers were experiencing difficulty as the increasing number of Sunday morning services were curtailing ringing time.

The peal secretary's report recorded 51 peals rung during the year, 22 conductors, and 23 who had rung their first peal. The Divisional reports indicated that ringing was being maintained but could be improved by better attendances at practice meetings. The bells of the county were in very good repair.

The treasurer gave his report, which found the Divisions in a good financial position. Owing to the Central Council meeting at Newcastle and the forthcoming 70th birthday the levies this year would be 80 per cent. of the year's income. Four new members were elected.

The president (the Bishop of Chichester) and vice-presidents were re-elected with the addition of the Rev. Canon H. J. Mogridge, M.A., Rector of St. Leonard's, Aldrington. The Master was re-elected, as were the other officers, with acclamation.

The Central Council delegates were elected as follows:—Mr. L. Stillwell (Northern), Mr. Dallaway (Eastern), Mr. Stalham (Southern) and Mr. Blackman (Western).

The hon. general secretary gave details of the arrangements made so far in respect of the 70th birthday anniversary celebrations to be held on January 28th, 1955. Details were also given by the secretary regarding the printing of a full report this year. Very acceptable quotations were presented and accepted without a division.

On a request by the Western Division, badges would be obtained when more details were available from the secretary.

The hon. general secretary (Mr. R. W. R. Percy) read a circular letter from the secretary of the Central Council (Mr. E. A. Barnett) regarding 'The Ringing World.' It was decided that each Division should elect at its next quarterly meeting a member to deal effectively with this very important matter.

The ringers who rang handbells at the 700th anniversary of St. Richard's, Hove, were warmly thanked by the Master for their excellent performance.

The meeting closed with a vote of thanks to the clergy for the use of their bells during the year and for conducting the services.

THE HERTFORD COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Hemel Hempstead Popular Venue for Annual Meeting

A NEW departure was the holding of the annual general meeting of the Association at Hemel Hempstead, this being the first time it had been held in the Western District. The choice was very popular, the attendance being above the average.

The new ring of six at Redbourne, the light eight at King's Langley and the Apsley six were open in the morning and were especially appreciated by a coach party from the Northern District led by Mr. E. G. Buck. Apparently the number for lunch exceeded expectations and had to be catered for at the school, but no doubt the 'salmon' was not missed.

In the afternoon the towers of Apsley, Great Berkhamsted and Hemel Hempstead were visited, previous to the service in St. Mary's Parish Church, Hemel Hempstead, which is said to be one of the finest Norman churches in the country. The Vicar (the Rev. A. Malley) officiated and the lesson was read by the Mayor (Ald. W. G. S. Crook). The Vicar of Apsley (the Rev. J. H. Dominey) gave the address. The singing of the hymns and psalm was in the best traditions of the Western District and taken from the Association's service booklet. Mr. Lewis was at the organ.

A meat tea, which was waiting in St. Mary's Hall, had been arranged by Don Cartwright with the assistance of the wives of the local ringers.

The Mayor and the vicars were greeted by the music of Grandsire Caters in C (size 22), in which the president of the Central Council and Mr. W. Ayre could be seen taking part.

After tea the president of the Association (Mr. Sidney F. Carter) was installed as chairman, and welcomed the members and guests. He thanked the clergy for the use of the bells and spoke of the debt that ringers owed to the clergy.

The Mayor welcomed the Association to the Borough of Hemel Hempstead and congratulated the ringers on keeping the art flourishing. The Vicars of Apsley and Hemel Hempstead also responded, the former giving the information that when the new church is completed it will be the first of the new churches in the country to have a ring of bells, although that would be some time in the future.

The hon. general secretary (Mr. H. V. Frost) read out the names of those who had passed away since the last annual meeting, and the members stood for a moment in memory of Mr. G. W. Cartmel, who held various offices for 56 years and had been a member of the Cathedral Society since 1884, also Messrs. F. J. Reeve, W. H. J. Hooton, F. H. Crook, W. Crowsley, E. Hookham, T. Werrett, J. Newbury, F. G. Springham and E. Compton.

Apologies for absence were read from Mr. J. M. Kemp (Eastern District secretary) and Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Lock (North Mymms).

The annual report recorded that in commemoration of the Coronation the bells at Redbourn had been recast and rehung in a steel frame; two new trebles has been added to St. Michael's, St. Albans, making a fine ring of eight; a treble and tenor had been added to Great Amwell and a sixth bell was being provided.

The tower of All Saints', Hertford, had been restored and it was hoped to resume ringing shortly. Essendon bells were being rehung and the spire of St. Stephen's, St. Albans, was to be strengthened.

During the year 69 peals had been rung, an increase of 25 over last year. Nineteen members were 'first pealers' and there were three new conductors. Mr. W. Ayre headed the list of 27 conductors with 17 peals followed by Mr. G. W. Seaman with nine.

A handsome new peal book had been presented to the Association by Mrs. R. A. Plumbe, of King's Langley, who had been made a life member. Miss C. L. Sharp had asked to be relieved of the task of writing the peals. She was thanked for her past services. The work was now being done by Mr. J. H. Green (St. Albans) with no charge for his services.

The report was adopted on the proposition of Mr. J. M. Page and seconded by Mr. J. Hobbs.

BOB TRIPLES

Mr. W. Ayre intimated that two peals of Bob Triples rung during the year might not be acceptable to the Central Council, and this matter caused some discussion. It was stated by Mr. J. Dear that in the Northern District they found Bob Triples very useful in helping beginners on from six to eight bells, and he hoped that the representatives of the Association would bear this in mind, if necessary, at the forthcoming Central Council meeting. He was supported by the hon. general secretary, who knew of no ruling which could exclude peals of Bob Triples, but if there was, they would have to abide by it.

The hon treasurer (Mr. G. W. Debenham) revealed that the Benevolent Fund now amounted to £17 10s., and the Bell Restoration Fund totalled £43 18s. 2d. No applications had been received for assistance from either fund during 1953. The balance of the year's working in the General Fund was £28 17s. 5d. Special donations amounted to £51 1s. 9d., and the Reserve Fund (including a special donation of £8 2s. 6d.) totalled £59 9s. 1d. The accounts were adopted. It was decided to repay another £50 of the original £150 loan, thus leaving £25 to be repaid. A grant of five guineas to the Great Amwell Bell Fund was agreed to on the proposition of Mr. T. J. Southam. These bells have now been augmented from three to six.

The hon. general secretary reported on his efforts to obtain designs and estimates for an Association badge. After some discussion it was decided that the General Committee appoint a sub-committee to go further into the matter.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

On the proposition of Mr. H. V. Frost, Mr. J. Hobbs, of Redbourn, was elected president amid acclamation, and the silver badge of office once more changed hands as the new president took the chair. Mr. S. Carter, the retiring president, was thanked for his services during his year of office. The hon. general secretary (Mr. H. V. Frost) was re-elected, also the hon. treasurer (Mr. G. W. Debenham) and the assistant secretary (Mr. T. J. Southam, hon. librarian (Mr. C. F. Sayer), and hon. auditor (Mr. H. H. Hole, C.A.). A ballot had to be taken for the election of the four Central Council representatives. Mr. H. G. Cashmore did not seek re-election and was thanked for his past services. The representatives are Messrs. W. Ayre, R. G. Bell, E. Edmondson and C. W. Woolley.

A resolution from the St. Albans District moved by Mr. J. M. Page that the Hertford County Association of Change Ringers deplore the present tendency for recorded or synthetic bells to be used where it is possible to install ringable bells. The Association would welcome the opportunity of discussing with the Diocesan authorities concerned this question in general terms and seek the opportunity to make representations in any particular case.. The resolution was adopted by the Association and the hon. general secretary was instructed to send a copy to the Diocesan authorities.

The letter concerning the future of 'The Ringing World' was read by the general secretary, who reported that it would be submitted to each District and that the representatives would be elected and their names forwarded by him.

Mr. W. Ayre appealed for all towers to ring on May 15th, when H.M. the Queen arrived home. It was not often, he said, that we were asked to ring by the Government, so we should rise to the occasion and arrange to have as many bells ring as possible.

A vote of thanks to the organist, and the ladies who had assisted with the tea arrangements was proposed by Mr. W. C. Hughes, who also expressed the feelings of the Western District, who were delighted to have the Association annual meeting at Hemel Hempstead, and hoped it would not be long before the meeting came again.

The hon. general secretary replied on behalf of the committee and said that the Western District had done everything in their power to ensure the success of the meeting; the District committee had made all the arrangements for him and he thought it had been one of the best meetings they had held.

EIGHTEEN TOWERS ON EASTER MONDAY

The programme was honest! It said, 'This is not an outing, it is purely a 'tower-grab,' but the organiser (Pat Chapman) kept everyone to time so efficiently that it was not a bit tiring, and proved that it is possible to visit a large number of towers in a day quite comfortably.

The first tower was South Kilworth, Leics, reached punctually at 8.45 a.m. and has soon followed by two 'fives' in Northants, Stanford-on-Avon and Lilbourne. Then into Warwickshire at Clifton-on-Dunsmore and Newbold-on-Avon.

After a pull on the five in the west tower of Rugby we had hopes of a visit to the eight in the north-west tower, as they had been rung on Easter Sunday. However, permission for visiting parties to ring on these will not be given until they have been rehung. The last tower before lunch was Willoughby, where we were met by the brothers Hancock.

At 1 p.m. we were ringing London Minor at Bilton. Two more sixes were visited at Church Lawford and Brinklow, the latter being rung from the ground floor, which has a marked slope downwards from east to west.

The next tower was the heaviest ring for the day—the fine tower of Monks Kirby, which contains a good ring of eight (tenor 24½ cwt. in D), on which a reasonable course of Yorkshire was rung. Then on to Shilton, a merry six, and Bulkington, a handy peal-ringing eight, where we scored Superlative with a fast beat.

Tea consisted of cakes and a cup of tea, and at 5.15 p.m. we were ringing Cambridge Major at Bedworth, whose bells are rather too quiet, in the ground-floor ringing room.

Another merry six was found at Exhall, once the home of the Rev. Malcolm Melville, whose father was Vicar here. A roundabout journey through Coventry brought us to Allesley, where Frank Perrens helped us through a course of London Major on the very lively eight.

At 7.30 p.m. we still had two more churches to visit. Berkswell has a very fine six, but unfortunately the organ occupies three-quarters of the tower, which makes a circle impossible. The last tower, Kenilworth, was reached at 8.30 p.m. and we were finished by 9 p.m.

Our thanks are due to all incumbents, local ringers who kindly met us, our chauffeurs who provided transport. Messrs. B. S. Cope, W. P. Jones, K. R. Holtom and R. C. Noon, and lastly to Pat Chapman for all his work beforehand to ensure a very enjoyable day. We are now looking forward to our next venture of 20 towers in a day!

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

THE FOUNDER'S DIFFICULTIES

Dear Sir,—It is not for me to comment on the general tenor of Mr. T. W. Sheppard's letter, but the implication that 'The Ringing World' was a financial success whilst owned by Mr. Goldsmith must be refuted, since it is completely untrue.

There are perhaps many ringers now who are not aware of the grievous difficulties experienced by the founder of the paper. The best testimony of these difficulties came from Mr. Goldsmith himself. In the issue of July 10th, 1942, after Mr. Goldsmith's death, Mr. J. A. Trollope quoted the following from a letter he had left for him:—'I can tell you now that the paper has never really been a financial success, and I am afraid there will be a fairly heavy call on what little I have left to square it up.'

—Yours faithfully, E. A. BARNETT.

THE COUP-DE-GRACE—A SIXPENNY 'RINGING WORLD'

Dear Sir,—First may I congratulate Mr. T. W. Sheppard on his letter, especially the final paragraph. 'The Ringing World' is not a ringer's paper, it is a sop to peal ringing. The first three or four pages are given over to peals; 'Belfry Gossip' is, on the average, 50 per cent. about peals; and even the obituary notices have to have peals dragged into them. . . . This paper is not worth 4d., much less 6d. A case might be made out for 3d. but its real value is about 2d. If it ever goes up to 6d without a corresponding increase in interest and/or size, it will cease to enter my house. . . .

I think that the paper could be made to pay its way and will now suggest how.

(a) A charge should be made for every peal or quarter peal inserted. Those who are anxious to have their names in print should pay for the privilege and a fair charge would be 4d. per rope for peals and a flat rate of 1s. per quarter peal inserted. Taking the last four issues of 'The Ringing World' this would produce £6 5s. per week.

(b) Crossword puzzle with a charge of 6d. per entry, as is done in the national Press. Prizes could be awarded for the first three correct solutions opened.

(c) A good serial always stimulates and sustains interest.

The paper quite definitely lacks general interest. Tastes change, but the lay-out is much the same as the old 'Bell News'—50-odd years of stagnation. Efforts must be made to bring 'The Ringing World' into line with 1954 taste. The wonder is that it has survived as long as it has, not that it is now in financially low water. I am of the opinion that to increase the price to 6d. would effectively administer the coup-de-grâce to this financially sick paper. What we non-peal ringers want is to get our 4d. worth and not to have the price increased without a corresponding increase in size and/or interest.—Yours faithfully, T. V. LISTER.

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY PEAL WITHDRAWN

Dear Sir,—A peal of Bob Triples was rung at Littleport, Cambs. on November 7th, 1953, for the Cambridge University Guild.

As conductor, I write announcing the decision of the Guild at its annual meeting on April 28th, to exclude this performance from its peal records.—Yours sincerely,

F. E. ROBERTS.

CHARGES FOR PEALS AND QUARTER PEALS ADVOCATED

Dear Sir,—From statements and correspondence recently appearing in 'The Ringing World' about its finances, the following facts appear:—

	1952	1953
Surplus	£136	£40
Donations	£250	£310
Deficit but for donations ..	£114	£270

At last year's Central Council meeting, appreciation was expressed for the generous voluntary support given to the journal in the form of donations, and the idea of a compulsory charge for publishing peals and quarter peals was rejected. It was then suggested that the most difficult period for 'The Ringing World' might be almost over, but the above figures indicate that this is not yet so.

In spite of energetic efforts the drive for new postal subscribers has brought in only a small fraction of the required number. When hampered by financial difficulties it is not easy to attract a wider section of readers. 'The Ringing World,' for instance, cannot afford to publish illustrations, photographs or diagrams unless the blocks are loaned free by some other publication. There is much to commend Mr. Woolley's suggestion to make the price of 'The Ringing World' 6d. post free—a uniform price to all, though the wish in increase circulation is hardly likely to be satisfied if the price is increased.

If a sum equal to 4d. per ringer was submitted in connection with every peal report, and 2d. per ringer with every quarter peal report, and all Associations, Guilds, etc., made an annual contribution of not less than £1 per 100 members, the producers of 'The Ringing World' would have at their disposal funds to make the paper attractive to a wider section of ringers. This might result in a greatly increased circulation and so avoid an increase in price. Indeed, the way might be paved for a slight reduction in postal rates, attracting more postal subscribers and thus increasing the income of 'The Ringing World.'

Whatever decisions are reached on this matter, obviously something must be done to ensure the solvency of the paper in the immediate future.—Yours, etc.,

N. CHADDOCK.

GOOD FRIDAY RINGING

Dear Sir,—I, too, like Preb. E. V. Cox, ask the question, 'Is peal ringing during Holy Week necessary?'

It does seem a pity that the ancient custom of which he speaks, of ringing half-muffled on Good Friday, is not more practised. What would be more in keeping than to hear the bells ringing half-muffled for the 11 a.m. service? Many more people are not at work on that day than years ago, so it should be much easier to ring for this service.

We ring half-muffled when the death of the reigning monarch occurs, members of the Royal Family, leading statesmen, the clergy, in fact for the death of most people who have been a 'somebody' in the service of the community. But we seldom think of paying the same respects to mark the anniversary of the death of our Lord and Master.

It seems all wrong to my way of thinking things out. Is it that ringers are forgetful and do not remember the week before Easter Day is Holy Week? I hope not. No ringing has taken place during Holy Week for practice at my tower within living memory. This is how it should be, except for half-muffled on Good Friday as I have suggested. No ringing during Holy Week, if you please.—Yours faithfully,

R. NEWMAN.

Holloway, N7.

BELLS IN HOLY WEEK

Dear Sir,—There seems to be some confusion re bells in Holy Week. They may certainly be rung until Maundy Thursday according to the ancient usage, but from then until Holy Saturday we see they were silent, but bells were rung for Vespers on that day, so there is precedent for peals that afternoon, and other ringing. But we have no authority for the morbid and objectionable customs of muffled ringing on Good Friday or of tolling a bell at 3 p.m.—Yours truly,

STEPHEN IVIN.

BEDFORDSHIRE BELLS

Dear Sir,—I am very grateful to Mr. Amos for his information about Wymington, Beds. As I suggested in my first article, there are bound to be some mistakes which those with local knowledge will 'spot,' like this one, and I hope that any such will be pointed out so that they may be noted by those who are unfamiliar with the tower concerned. I am sure Mr. Dove will be pleased for this information for the next edition of his excellent book.

Mr. Amos is quite correct in his surmise that Odell is one of the five-bell towers where no peal has been rung (from what he says there is not much likelihood, either!). For those interested, the other ten peal-less towers are:—Cranfield, Dunton, Felmersham, Flitwick, Upper Gravenhurst, Harlington, Kensworth, Marston Morteyne, Stanbridge and Swineshead.—Yours sincerely,

K. W. H. FELSTEAD.

CORRECTION OF MILESTONE

Dear Sir,—With regard to the account of a peal of 5,008 New Cambridge Surprise Major rung at All Saints' Church, Leicester, on March 4th, 1954, and published in your issue of March 19th, the inscription on the milestone should have been: A Peal of 5008 Spliced New Cambridge and Plain Bob Major (two changes of method). Here are the figures of the composition:—

R.A.F. PEAL ATTEMPT

Dear Sir,—The report of an R.A.F. peal attempt in 'The Ringing World' of April 30th, page 285, states that this 'would have been the first tower-bell peal by serving R.A.F. personnel.' I would like to point out that a peal of Minor (three methods) was rung by R.A.F. personnel at Broad Hinton, Wiltshire, on May 10th, 1948, conducted by Mr. Eric Dench. The report of this appears in 'The Ringing World' of June 4th, 1948, page 229. In 'Belfry Gossip' this was claimed as the first R.A.F. peal, and, if my memory serves me right, they were all men stationed at R.A.F., Yatesbury, Wilts. Several of that company were posted to Cranwell, Lincs, but I am not sure whether any more peals were rung there. Previous to the Broad Hinton peal a quarter peal of Doubles was rung at Yatesbury, in Wiltshire.—Yours sincerely,

JOHN W. BLYTHE.

THE SOUTHWELL DIOCESAN GUILD

Prospect of Reduced Subscription

THE attendance was encouraging at the eighth annual meeting of the Southwell Diocesan Guild held in Nottingham on April 24th.

Ringing took place at St, Mary's and St. Peter's Churches. Both rings of bells are well known, St. Mary's being a heavy and noisy ten (tenor 35 cwt.) in a massive central tower. It was in this tower that the celebrated Nottingham ringer, Doubleday Crofts, and his skilful band made early ringing history. St. Peter's are a medium, fast-ringing ten (tenor 21 cwt.). Owing to the situation of the church in the shopping centre, ringing meetings are a rare privilege.

A service was held in the choir of St. Mary's conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. Canon R. Hawkins.

The business meeting, following tea, was presided over by the chairman, the Rev. Canon R. F. Wilkinson. A minute's silence was observed for two members who had passed away during the past year, namely, Mr. William Russon, of Shireoaks, and Mr. J. P. Vessey, of Barnby-in-the-Willows. Apologies for absence were voiced on behalf of Mr. Harold Stevenson and Mrs. Pailing.

DISTRICT REPORTS

This year each District secretary submitted a written report in addition to the general secretary, and these were adopted by the meeting.

The report of the Newark District showed that the District had suffered a recession during the past year but that there were signs that the corner had been turned and that the remarkable progress of earlier years was recovering its momentum.

The North Notts report showed that ten meetings had been held during the past year with an average attendance of 28. More methods were being rung and the quality of striking maintained. Restorations included rehanging of the five bells at Dunham-on-Trent and the eight at Worksop Priory Church and the addition of two new bells, making eight, at Tuxford.

Nottingham District revealed that the subscriptions of 16 members were outstanding. Eleven meetings had been held, but out of a membership of 90 the highest total of members attending any one meeting was 19, which left much to be desired. Restorations included the rehanging of the five at Granby and six at Wollaton and the addition of two trebles at Attenborough to complete the octave.

The general secretary, in his report, commended the work of the District secretaries and stated that without the hard work and loyalty of the District secretary the Guild would soon wilt and activities come to a standstill. Warsop had won the Crawford Cup for the fifth consecutive year, and he extended congratulations to the Warsop company and in particular to their talented leader, Mr. Herbert T. Rooke.

The treasurer's report and accounts revealed a healthy state of affairs, a surplus of £15 5s. 11d. being shown on the year's working. It was resolved that if, when making up the accounts for 1954, a greater surplus than £10 be shown, subscriptions should automatically revert from 3s. to 2s. 6d. for 1955, but that the peal booking fee remain at sixpence per rope. The sum of £10 was authorised to be transferred from the General Account to the Bell Repair Fund.

During the year donations had been made towards restoration schemes at Dunham, Granby and Worksop Priory Church, and the balance of the Bell Repair Fund stood at £55 10s. 2d.

FOURTEEN CONDUCTORS

The report of the Peal Committee (Mr. Clement Glenn and Mr. John Segar) stated that 41 peals had been rung. This figure included peals of Trinity Sunday Treble Bob Minor, Worcester variation of Kent and Oxford Treble Bob Major and Kirklington Surprise Major, which were new to the Guild. Fourteen conductors shared the conducting. Two 'first as conductor' were particularly gratifying.

Messrs. T. O. Greasley, J. D. Clarke, T. G. Goodwin and T. A. Goodwin, of Whatton-in-the-Vale, Mr. A. Foster, of Orston, and Mr. J. Roberts, of East Drayton, were elected or confirmed as new members, and Mr. Richards, of Bulwell, and Canon Leeper, of Southwell Minster, were elected vice-presidents.

The officers of the Guild were re-elected en bloc, namely, Canon R. F. Wilkinson (chairman), Mr. F. W. Midwinter (vice-chairman), Mr. Walter Nichols (hon. treasurer), Mr. J. W. Raithby (hon. general secretary), Messrs. Clement Glenn and John Segar (Peal Committee), Mr. Walter Nichols and Canon Wilkinson (trustees). Messrs. B. N. Buswell and Frank Dakin were elected auditors. Messrs. J. W. Raithby, John Segar and Clement Glenn were elected to represent the Guild on the Central Council.

PEAL BOOKING FEES

Certain revisions of Rules came up for discussion. These were mainly a tidying up process in the light of eight years' working experience and were passed unanimously.

Rule 13 was the only major alteration, the original being entirely deleted and the following substituted, namely:—

> 'Before a peal can be acknowledged and recorded by the Guild, the subscriptions of the ringers shall be paid by the end of the year in which the peal is rung: the conductor shall forward the figures to the peal secretary and remit the booking fee of sixpence per bell to his District secretary within one month of the peal being rung. The peal shall comply with Central Council rulings (see Rule 8).'

The request from the Central Council that in each District an enthusiastic member be appointed to act as representative and correspondent of 'The Ringing World' caused varied comment, both adverse and favourable. One potent argument was that it was not human nature to pay several shillings in advance for a copy through the post when it could be obtained for a mere fourpence per week from a newsagent, that the copy received through a newsagent was generally cleaner and in better condition than its postal counterpart, and many youngsters would find it a hardship to pay the subscription in a lump sum.

It was finally agreed in principle to the Central Council's request and to refer the matter of correspondent to the respective District meetings and instruct each District to appoint a correspondent.

MEETING PLACE DISCUSSION

The most controversial item of business at the meeting was the proposal that in future the annual general meeting should be held at Southwell Minster, the Mother Church of the Diocese. This proposal evoked lively comment both for and against the motion and in the end the traditional English method of settling a dispute by a compromise was adopted.

Since the formation of the Guild the annual general meeting had always been held in each District in turn, and it was finally decided that the rota 'Nottingham, Newark and North Notts' should be adhered to but that every alternate year the annual general meeting be held at Southwell Minster This amendment was carried by 24 votes against 17. Those speaking in favour of the original motion included Canon R. F. Wilkinson, Mr. F. W. Midwinter, Mr. F. G. Hooper and Mr. J. K. Wagstaff. Those against included Mr Ernest Preston and Mr. H. T. Rooke.

There being no further business, the chairman closed the meeting. J. W. R.

LEEDS AND DISTRICT AMALGAMATED SOCIETY

The glorious ring of twelve at Leeds Parish Church was available for the 65th annual meeting of the Society on April 24th, when the following towers were represented:—Armley, Bramley, Collingham, Drighlington, East Ardsley, Elland, Guiseley, Headingley (St. Michael's and St. Chad's), Horbury, Huddersfield, Leeds Parish Church, Northowram, Ossett, Rothwell, Queensbury, Thorner and Tadcaster. The bells were raised at 2.30 and fully occupied till 9 p.m. apart from breaks for refreshments and the business meeting.

The Rev. T. V. Thomas (Precentor of Leeds Parish Church) personally brought an apology from Canon C. B. Sampson, Vicar of Leeds, who was 'down south' for the christening of his grandchild. On behalf of the Vicar and church authorities he welcomed the ringers and hoped they would have an enjoyable day.

The president, Mr. T. W. Strangeway, was in the chair for the business meeting, and it is interesting to note that he has been an officer of the Society since 1927. Apologies were received from Canon C. B. Sampson and Misses M. Barker, E. Murray and S. Dinsdale, all of Collingham. Members stood in silence in memory of F. Hutchinson, of St. Chad's, who passed away the previous day. He was a vice-president of this Society from 1945 to 1951.

New members elected were: Fred Overfield (Hunslet), Graham Hawkes (St. Michael's, Headingley) and Nancy Hartley (Thorner).

The secretary's report was accepted on the proposition of Mr. H. Lofthouse, seconded by Mr. L. Drake. This showed that the usual 11 meetings were held. He asked for more support from the members and thanked all those who in any way had helped to make the secretary's task an easy one.

The balance sheet showed that income for the year exceeded expenditure by 8s. 11½d. and the bank balance stood at £23 6s. 10d. The balance sheet was adopted on the proposition of Mr. A. Cole, seconded by Mr. H. Lofthouse.

Mr. J. Roberts having withdrawn from the list of nominations for vice-president, the following were declared elected:—President, Mr. T. W. Strangeway (Rothwell); vice-presidents, Mr. S. Barrow (Drighlington), Mr. H. Lofthouse (Armley), Mr. W. Dixon (Guiseley); Ringing Master, Mr. L. Drake (Leeds); secretary and treasurer, Mr. I. Slack.

The president moved the vote of thanks to the Vicar, churchwardens and local company for the use of the bells and other arrangements. This was seconded by Mr. W. Dixon and carried unanimously. The secretary suitably replied.

Mr. F. Bennett proposed a vote of thanks to the president for the efficient handling of the meeting and for his service to the Society during the past year. Mr. G. Robinson seconded and the proposition received the hearty endorsement of the meeting.

Under any other business the suggestion was made that members should get together and ensure that as many rings of bells in the area as was possible rang out on May 15th. This was left in the hands of Mr. H. Lofthouse to arrange.

The next meeting will be at Guiseley on May 29th. I. S.

THE COVENTRY DIOCESAN GUILD

Higher Standard of Ringing Reported

THE annual general meeting of the Coventry Diocesan Guild was held in Coventry on April 24th and attended by over 80 members and friends. The bells of St. Michael's, Stoke, and All Saints', Allesley, were in use during the afternoon until 4 o'clock. Demonstrations were given by Mr. C. H. Webb on the eight chiming bells of Holy Trinity Church housed in a wooden campanile in the churchyard, after which others exhibited their skill. The service was conducted by the Vicar, Canon G. W. Clitheroe: Mr. J. L. Garner-Hayward read the lesson and Miss Margaret Bailey was organist.

Tea in the Council House followed, by kind invitation of the Lord Mayor of Coventry. The president of the Guild (the Rev. R. R. P. Rigby), the Master (Mr. F. W. Perrens), the hon. general secretary (Mrs. D. E. Beamish) and the hon. Northern District secretary (Mr. J. L. Garner-Hayward) were presented to the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress in the Mayor's Parlour and then all joined the assembled company for a buffet tea.

The business meeting took place in the Council Chamber, presided over by the Rev. R. R. P. Rigby. The Lord Mayor made a few welcoming remarks before leaving to attend another function. Apologies were read from the Patron, the Bishop of the Diocese, the Assistant Bishop (the Right Rev. N. J. W. Newnham Davis), the Rev. Canon N. Prentice (Vicar of Stratford-on-Avon), the Rev. F. W. Moyle (Vicar of Allesley), the Rev. F. S. Herbert (Vicar of Nuneaton) and Mr. and Mrs. E. Sibley. The balance sheets, showing £22 11s. 9d. in hand in the General Account and £22 2s. in the Bell Repair Fund, were adopted.

The hon. general secretary's report for 1953 gave the number of fully paid up members as 220, made up by 15 honorary life members, eight honorary members and 197 resident members. There were 17 resident and 28 non-resident members elected during the year. Twenty-six peals were rung, four of them being in honour of the Coronation of H.M. Queen Elizabeth II. Four handbell peals were included in the total. A notable achievement was the peal of Grandsire Doubles at Hatton on January 31st. It was the first peal by all the band, whose average age was 18½ years. Mr. A. Roberts was congratulated upon scoring his 100th peal for the Guild (at the age of 83 years) at Chilvers Coton on July 28th. The 22 tower-bell peals were rung in 12 different towers.

The loss of Mr. W. H. J. Hooton, of Tring, a former enthusiastic resident member, and of Mr. T. W. Dillam, an honorary life member and a churchwarden of Chilvers Coton, were much regretted.

The hon. secretary of the Southern District (Mr. J. L. Garner-Hayward) reported that the standard of ringing at meetings had been high and that interest had been created by the introduction of a special method at each meeting.

The hon. secretary of the Southern District reported that interest had been awakened in a number of five-bell towers in the area and new members had been recruited. Much pioneer work had been done but there remained a great deal to do.

The election of officers resulted as follows:—President, the Rev. W. Colston Maggs (Vicar of Bedworth, who began ringing soon after his induction to the living, 18 months ago): vice-presidents, the Rev. R. R. P. Rigby (the retiring president), the Right Rev. N. W. Newnham Davis, Canon N. Prentice, Canon F. S. Herbert, the Rev. F. W. Moyle, the Rev. J. H. Dingley, Councillor H. Weston and the following five former Masters of the Guild—Messrs. E. H. Adams, A. Roberts, F. E. Pervin, A. H. Beamish and F. W. Perrens; Master of the Guild, Mr. R. J. Edden (former Southern District hon. secretary): hon. general secretary, Mrs. D. E. Beamish; Northern District secretary, Mr. J. L. Garner-Hayward: Southern District joint secretaries, Messrs. H. Windsor and R. Barrett; hon. auditor, Mr. F. E. Pervin; Central Council representatives, Mrs. D. E. Beamish and Mr. F. W. Perrens.

The proposal to increase the grants to the Central Council representatives received unanimous support. Instead of the former amount of one guinea towards expenses it was decided to allow the third-class return fare.

The letter from the general secretary regarding the finances of 'The Ringing World' was read and the District secretaries were appointed as correspondents with instructions to boost the sale of the journal.

The meeting stood in silence for a few moments as a mark of respect to a former Master and, in his earlier days, a most enthusiastic worker for the Guild, Mr. J. H. W. White, who passed away on February 10th.

After closing prayers the members dispersed to the two towers open for further ringing, and a happy social hour spent at the Golden Cross in tune and change ringing brought to an end a very successful meeting.

BATH AND WELLS ASSOCIATION

Chew Deanery at Clifton

Ringers from a wide area of Somerset with visitors from Devon, Staffordshire and Warwickshire met at Clevedon on April 24th for the quarterly meeting of Chew Deanery Branch.

In the absence of the Vicar (Preb. J. E. Pugh), the service was conducted by the Rev. W. Bathurst-Soole, who welcomed the company on the Vicar's behalf, and in the course of a refreshingly original address related how, during his incumbency at Emmanuel, Clifton, a band of ringers had been formed from the staff of Bristol Zoo, which came within his parish.

Owing to the church's isolation from the town, catering has always been difficult at previous meetings, but this year an excellent tea was provided at Salt House Hotel

Mr. H. W. Knight presided at the business meeting, when it was resolved to hold the next quarterly meeting at Wraxall, with intermediate monthlies at Easton-in-Gordano and Butcombe (all subject to permission). The members heard with regret that two towers, Weston-in-Gordano and Clevedon, had lapsed from the Association, the latter after a continuous affiliation dating back to 1925 when the bells were hung.

SURREY ASSOCIATION

District Meeting at Betchworth

Despite the fine weather only about 20 ringers came to the quarterly meeting at Betchworth on April 10th. As a result the ringing did not rise to any great heights, Double Norwich being the most advanced method rung.

Eight new members were elected at the business meeting. Nominations were then requested for the offices of Master of the Association and Liaison Officer with the Guildford Diocesan Guild, which had fallen vacant on the death of Mr. D. D. Cooper, and the following names were put forward:— Master, Mr. R. Davies: Liaison Officer, Mr. H. N. Pitstow and Mr. A. P. Cannon. (Mr. Pitstow has since intimated that he is not willing to accept nomination.)

The general secretary read a letter from the secretary of the Central Council about the circulation of 'The Ringing World.' In commenting, he stressed the need for more postal subscribers and the advantages of being one. A useful discussion followed, at the end of which the District secretary, Mr. C. J. Champion, agreed to act as the correspondent for the District.

THE SUFFOLK GUILD

Peal Levy Agreed To

THE annual general meeting of the Suffolk Guild was held as usual at Ipswich on Easter Monday and could be considered fairly successful. With the exception of one member, the committee was in full force and a lengthy agenda was soon disposed of. The service was held at St. Lawrence's, conducted by the Rev. C. P. Newell, who gave an interesting address stressing the fact that ringers always had a large audience. This message must be taken to heart by all ringers for we never know who is listening to our efforts. The lesson also, which was read by Mr. Max Page, had an important message—Charity. Be charitable, not only to our neighbours but to our cause. It is to be hoped that those ringers who usually miss our services may realise that they are not arranged as a matter of form.

The business meeting was fairly well attended and once again 'things got done' not entirely by 'Yes-men,' but with discussion and argument, and the Guild is undoubtedly better off for those deliberations. Reports were received from the Ringing Master and the general secretary and treasurer. The funds of the Guild had increased and it was reported that 21 bell restorations had taken place in the Diocese since the war.

OFFICER FOR PEAL LEVIES

All officers were re-elected and a new office, that of peals secretary, was created in order that peal levies and all matters pertaining to peals be dealt with under a separate heading. Mr. John W. Blythe, of 15, Barnaby Green, Southwold, was elected to this office. Mr. H. Claude Rush, of Eye, was unanimously elected a vice-president. It was agreed that £100 be allocated from the General Fund to the Bell Restoration Fund and in future, and so long as funds permit, two per cent. of the cost of a bell restoration be made to applicants. The sum of £15 was, therefore, immediately voted to the Stonham Aspal Bells Fund.

A discussion arose on the legality or validity of a new rule made at a general meeting at Bury St. Edmunds on February 6th, when it was unanimously decided to introduce a levy of 6d. per person per peal. Mr. Leslie G. Brett said the decision was not fair and he wanted an endorsement of it from the members present. It was pointed out that three proposals were given three months' notice at Halesworth, and whether or not those attending the Halesworth meeting agreed with the proposals, the decision at the Bury meeting must necessarily be final. To prevent a 'miscarriage of justice,' it was agreed to a show of hands whether the decision to fix a peal levy be proceeded with. Thirty-six agreed to the levy and six were against.

The usual votes of thanks were accorded and the meeting then closed. Further ringing took place including a half-course of Cambridge Maximus, Stedman Cinques, Surprise Royal and Major. C. H. P.

Gratefully Acknowledged

The generous response of ringers to meet the cost of producing 'The Ringing World' is much appreciated by the Editorial Committee. The following are acknowledged:—

OBITUARY

MR. HARRY T. HIGGINS

St. Matthew's Church, Walsall, Staffs, has suffered a great loss in the death on April 21st of Mr. Harry T. Higgins at the age of 49 years. He was a loyal worker, ringer and member of the choir.

'Harry,' to his brother ringers, was a member of the Walsall band for upwards of 33 years, joined the Staffs Archdeaconry Society in 1922 and, up to the beginning of this year, a staunch Sunday service ringer, a regular member of the choir and also a valued member of the Walsall Male Voice Choir.

He rang very few peals owing to business, his last being one for the Queen's Coronation at Walsall, bringing his total to sixteen, mostly Stedman.

The sympathy of the ringers goes to his wife, son and daughter and also to his parents, who mourn the loss of a devoted father and son, and his brother ringers will miss a valued member of the band.

The Walsall band was well represented at the funeral service at St. Matthew's, which was fully choral, and the bells were rung half-muffled as the cortege moved off to Perry Barr, Birmingham, for cremation.

A peal of Stedman Caters was rung on April 29th with half-muffled clappers as a token of respect and to his memory.

PILOT OFFICER JOHN F. WILKINSON

With deep regret we record the death of Pilot Officer John F. Wilkinson, R.A.F., in a flying accident on April 25th. He was 23 years of age.

John will be greatly missed at Derby, where he was a popular ringer and had been attached to Derby Cathedral band from the age of 14. As recently as Easter Day he was ringing in this tower.

He rang his first peal in 1948—the treble to Grandsire Caters. He progressed rapidly and soon had to his credit Surprise peals in a wide variety of methods. About a year ago he married Miss Kathleen I. Tivey, who is also a member of the Cathedral band and the most advanced lady ringer in the area. The deepest sympathy of his ringing friends is extended to Kathleen and Mrs. Wilkinson, his mother.

John rang approximately 35 peals, which included the following methods:—Royal—New Cambridge Surprise, Cambridge Surprise, Oxford Treble Bob, Little Bob, Plain Bob; Caters—Stedman and Grandsire; Major—London, Bristol, Cambridge, Yorkshire, Superlative Surprise, Double Norwich Court Bob, Duffield, Plain Bob; Triples— Stedman and Grandsire; Minor—in three, five and seven methods.

Twenty-Five 'Bells' for a Cornish Church

Tubular 'bells' are known in Cornwall for there are ten at Pendeen and eight at Helland. Bell recordings are heard from one Vicarage house where the Vicar gets over the faculty difficulty by playing them from the Vicarage, which is close by the church. Recordings could be heard from Tintagel tower some 20 years ago, but the five bells there were rehung just before the war, and the six completed just after the war.

Electronic bells are a new thing. A 25-note set is to be consecrated on May 8th at the Roman Catholic Church, St. Ives. The 25 notes are two complete chromatic octaves from G to G repeated. There is a bell turret on the church which at present contains a single bell of about 2¼ cwt. The apparatus is to have a bell-shaped projector about eight feet by five feet. By permission of the Roman Catholic Bishop of Plymouth the bells are to sound for the first time to welcome the Queen home on May 15th.

TRURO DIOCESAN GUILD

Penzance Branch

The spring festival of the Penzance Branch of the Truro Diocesan Guild was held at Mullion on April 24th. It was a splendid gathering from the majority of the towers in the Branch and some from the Truro Branch.

Among those present were Mr. W. H. Southeard (Diocesan Ringing Master), the Rev. W. H. R. Trewhella (general secretary), and very welcome visitors were Mr. J. Carter (Leicestershire), Mr. and Mrs. Isles (Chippenham) and Mr. G. E. Fearn and Ruth (Birmingham). The beautiful old church was well filled for the service at which the Vicar, the Rev. W. J. K. Harris, preached, and the Rev. A. S. Roberts (Branch secretary) read the lesson.

Tea had to be in two sittings. Ninety had replied but the number present seemed to be about 120. This complicated matters for the business meeting, which was hurriedly and unconventionally carried through as one sitting was trying to get out and the next get in. Mr. William Wood was voted to the chair, in the absence of Miss Eileen Symons through illness, but he could not sit down, and the minutes were taken as read. An invitation to visit Ludgvan in the autumn was accepted, and the date fixed for October 2nd.

The bells arranged for were the three sixes at Mullion, Cury and St. Mawgan-in-Meneage, but the Landewednack band were keen that some should go there also. Thus the four towers in the Lizard peninsula were available, and it was agreed it was an ideal area for such a gathering. There is no doubt that method ringing is progressing slowly, and young ringers are making their own inquiries into it, and their own efforts to master it. Ringing ranged from rounds to Cambridge Minor, with several making their first attempts at Grandsire Doubles, and continued, at least at one tower, until 9 p.m., where a good practice at Cambridge was got in, and finally three hurried leads of Kent just for the sake of another method before the bells were brought down.

A New Leicestershire Company

Wanlip, Leicestershire, where less than 18 months ago a new ring of six was installed in place of three old bells, has now its own Guild of Bellringers. Of the eleven members all but three are members of the choir.

Officers elected at the first annual meeting were:—Captain, Mr. T. C. Belton; vice-captain, Mr. G. Wakefield; secretary, Mr. P. Johnstone: treasurer, Mr. O. Northwood; tower-keeper, Mr. A. Yates. A quarter peal is to be attempted each month prior to the monthly Communion service.

TOURING HERTFORDSHIRE BYWAYS

Dear Sir,—On Easter Monday I enjoyed the best ringing tour yet, thanks to the splendid all-round organisation of Mr. Eric Edmundson, of Hatfield. As often happens, a tour originally planned for a few close friends grew with time until some 20 to 30 ringers and friends joined in, using cars and motor-cycles.

Starting with the eight at Knebworth, a church well situated in the great park, here followed a day amongst delightful villages, along narrow, twisting Hertfordshire lanes, visiting Weston (5, 10¼ cwt.), Rushden (5, 6½ cwt.), Wallington (6, 8¼ cwt.), Sandon (5, 10 cwt.), Anstey (6, 9 cwt.) and Great Hormead (6, 14 cwt.).

One tower I will especially remember is Anstey, delightfully situated in front of ancient castle moats and mounds, with a well proportioned central tower and, across the road, a field full of young lambs frisking in the fine spring weather.

Thank you, Eric.—Yours,

GEOFFREY DODDS.

St. Albans.

THE RINGING WORLD

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

No. 2250 Vol. L. FRIDAY, MAY 21, 1954 Registered at the G.P.O. for transmission as a newspaper 4d.

UP OVER

IF you go to Chagford and ask how to get to Gidleigh, that is probably what they'll tell you—' 'Tis up over' —and an arm pointed in the direction of the high Dartmoor skyline in the west and north. But then, I very much doubt if you ever will go to Gidleigh: it isn't on the way to anywhere, unless you happen to be interested in archæology and want to see the Scorhill circle, or want to see the view from the top of Cosdon Beacon. But if you do, and your car isn't too big, you'll find it worth the journey. Quite a journey it is, too; there can be few places where three miles can involve quite so many such steep hills, so many corners so sharp and sudden as to take on the nature of a series of ambushes for unwary drivers, so many places where to meet another vehicle means a long reverse in search of a gateway. One moment you are going across high moor with the country all open below and before you; Gidleigh tower peeps out from among the trees just across the valley. The next instant the road takes a dive in what seems the most inconsequential direction, and you're winding your way through wet, mossy woods beside a stream, as lost as a Hottentot in the Underground, though probably happier. But you get there in the end, and there, enclosed by huge, mossy walls of apparently immovable boulders, is the church and, most unexpected, a fine 13th century castle keep, all of massive hewn granite, and all apparently as old as the granite tors on the moor nearby.

Nothing much happens in Gidleigh except the most important things in life, birth and death and marriage and work and worship. The church has had its exquisite painted and gilded screen for over 400 years, and three of its bells for longer than that. The treble, 4th and tenor of the five are all from the mediæval Exeter foundry, and are as clean and sharp now as the day they were hung. The 3rd came from Exeter too, from the firm of Pennington in 1674, and immortalises the name (and a very fine, resounding name it is, and worthy of immortality) of Churchwarden Alexander Vagwell. The second was added in 1925, and must have presented Taylors with a very pretty problem, for the existing bells were tuned to F, D, C sharp and B, and to judge from the tuning marks on her the treble was flat, at that. The new bell was cast to sound E natural, and the result is a ring of five quite unrelated to any known scale but tunable enough, if their sound is surprising and a little mournful. After nearly 30 years the bearings are still easy-going enough, and the bells are no trouble to ring.

The three old bells are typical of the excellent work of the Exeter founders, and two of them bear their stock inscriptions.

The treble: (P)lebs ois plaudit ut me tam sepius audit. (The people all rejoice the more they hear my voice.)

The tenor: Est michi collatum IHC istud nomen amatum. (To me is given the beloved name of JESUS.)

The 4th is dedicated to St. Thomas, and bears the legend: Ste Toma ora pro nobis. (Blessed Thomas, pray for us.)

All bear the foundry's initial cross, and the treble also has their trade-mark, a bell in a rope circle with the initials I. T., and all except the tenor have their cannons still intact.

Outside the church, listening to the refreshingly unusual cadences of the bells and leaning over the wall of the parish pound, where stray animals were locked up until claimed and a fine paid, I think you'll be glad you came. If the weather is kind, you can see the hills beyond Honiton, over 30 miles off, and perhaps Exmoor will show its skyline to the north if you go further up the hill, for you're nearly a thousand feet up at Gidleigh. But most of all you'll feel that this is a place where people have found life, and work, and happiness, and sorrow, close to the things God made, and they have been doing it for a very long time. And that sort of place is a good place to be.

OUTING

CHILVERS COTON

On Easter Monday a party of 34 members of the Chilvers Coton band with their relatives and ringing friends from Coventry and Bulkington set off by coach for Wrexham, in North Wales. Upon arrival we met Mr. John Worth and company, from Macclesfield, just leaving the tower. The hour's ringing arranged was curtailed for a short time whilst a wedding service was held. On to Chester for a good luncheon at the Bear and Billet and then, leaving the non-ringers in Chester, we boarded the coach and set off for Eccleston. Those of us who had rung there before renewed our pleasure and those who had not agreed that the lovely octave had been worth the journey.

Back to Chester, to St. Mary's-on-the-Hill, where we were met by the Vicar, the Rev. J. Kingdon. The ascent to the ringing room did not deter the ladies of the party and some good ringing was done. A sight of Chester and the surrounding countryside was much enjoyed from the roof of the church.

A tea of Dee salmon was appreciated before leaving Chester for Brewood, in Staffordshire. An hour's ringing on these lovely bells, assisted by three Birmingham ringers who had been listening to the peal at St. Chad's, Shrewsbury, completed the ringing for the day. After an hour at the Lion Hotel we set off on our journey back home, which we reached at 11.30 p.m., after a grand trip favoured with ideal weather.

BOSTON, LINCS.—On May 9th, 1,260 Bob Royal: D. Brown 1, F. Dewey 2, Lorna Briggs 3, Miss Armstrong 4, S. Jessop 5, A. Freeston 6, R. Brown (cond.) 7, T. Freeston 8, N. Fovargue 9, W. E. Clarke 10. Arranged for ringer of 4th, who hails from Tibshelf.

PENYFAI, BRIDGEND, GLAM.—On May 14th, 1,260 Grandsire Doubles: Barbara Hiddins 1, T. E. Hiddins 2, E. W. Coles 3, D. W. Evans 4, W. T. Petty (cond.) 5. Rung half-muffled as a tribute of respect to Mrs. E. M. Eley, of Penyfai.

Mr. Kenneth L. Brown, of Wembley House, Ludham, Great Yarmouth, invites, through 'The Ringing World,' Mr. Kenneth G. Brown, of Suffolk, to participate in a peal attempt during the Whitsun holiday.

BELFRY GOSSIP

After reading the report of the Herts County Association meeting, questions have been asked as to the validity of peals of Bob Triples. A correspondent informs us that it is up to the Council to decide what action, if any, to take. The 1927 edition of Rules and Decisions states that Bob Triples is ruled out!

After the peal at Nutfield on May 8th the band were kindly entertained to tea by Mrs. Kempsall and her daughter Nancy, who is a local ringer.

An electrically-recorded tenor counter operates at Ebbw Vale Church, having been provided by Mr. Brian Price. When the Clerical Guild visited this church it had recorded 778,609 blows!

Anne B. Speed will receive many congratulations on ringing her 100th peal. Her list includes peals of Surprise in 29 different methods and Spliced Surprise up to ten methods.

Mr. Nolan Golden has produced a leaflet giving details of all towers with bells but no ringers in the Norwich Diocese. This is how visiting bands can render useful service. Perhaps other Associations will undertake a similar survey.

Edward Baker, aged 13, of King's Langley, recently asked to ring the treble to Plain Bob at the Herts annual general meeting. He rang an excellent touch, and experienced ringers were amazed to learn that this was his first attempt.

When the North Eastern Association of the Ladies' Guild visited Morpeth on May 1st to ring at the Watch Tower they were received by the Mayor (Cllr. Mrs. D. Moore) and the Rector (Canon F. Baker). Mrs. McGuiness (vice-president) thanked them for the privilege of ringing on these bells, which were dedicated in 1951.

To the ranks of blind ringers must be added the name of Mr. A. Richardson, who rang his first quarter on an inside bell at Finchley on May 9th. Mr. Richardson has been sightless since birth.

After the peal at Bassingham, Lincs, on May 8th, the ringers were most hospitably entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Worsdall. The peal was the first 'inside' for Mr. Robin J. Worsdall.

Mr. F. G. Oliver, of Colchester, has been appointed 'The Ringing World' representative for North-East Essex, and Mr. B. M. Barker, of King's Langley, for West Herts.

Congratulations to Mr. H. Bullough, a most regular service ringer at St. Giles', Newcastle-under-Lyme, whose first ring on the rehung bells at this tower celebrated his entering the ranks of the grandfathers. The ringers were pleased to know that the new arrival was 'progressing quite satisfactorily.'

A welcome was extended to Mr. Geoffrey Beech, whose return to St. Giles', Newcastle-under-Lyme after National Service coincided with the opening of the bells. His help in training the present young band will be valuable.

Mr. F. Sheraton, of Chester-le-Street, had the pleasure of ringing with his granddaughter, Miss Kathleen S. Brown, her first quarter. Kathleen rang with a confidence and ability that belied a difference of nearly 60 years in their respective ages. Her ambition is to score a full peal.

Mr. Denis A. Bayles, of 12, Crichton Avenue, Chester-le-Street, who is arranging the tours in connection with the Central Council's visit to Newcastle, informs us that one bus tour will take place on Whit Sunday and another on Whit Monday. There are still some vacant seats and it will probably be possible to accommodate one or two more at the last moment.

THE BELLS AND RINGING IN MALTA

DURING a recent broadcast commentary by Mr. R. Dimbleby on Malta's welcome to H.M. the Queen, listeners heard the bells of Malta.

To generations of English visitors and Service men these charming islands have been known as 'The Land of Bells, Yells and Smells.' Although the two latter objectives are not so prevalent to-day, the bells are still there.

Nowhere else in the world are there so many bells in so small an area or of such variety in size, shape and antiquity to delight tht heart of the historian or student. Every village and parish has its church which dominates the landscape. They are built reminiscent of St. Paul's, with a centre lantern and small dome, with two towers at the west end in which the bells are housed. The majority or the churches are situated in the 'Seven Cities,' which encompass the two main harbours—the Grand Harbour and Sliema Harbour.

To ringers, the 'ringing' of these bells will be of some interest, no doubt, and there may be some who have heard the bells of Malta in 'all their glory.' At the outbreak of the late war I was still resident in Malta and I lived very close to the Cathedral in Sliema, and from my windows and roof I had a close-up view of the 'ringers' in action.

BELLS HUNG 'DEAD'

The bells are suspended 'dead' from beams set in large apertures in the walls of the tower. There are no louvres and, therefore, the bells are in full view from outside. A long rope is attached to the clapper of each bell and, at frequent intervals of the day, the 'ringers,' who are young Maltese lads, appear and seize the ropes and set the clappers swinging to strike the bell at each swing, continuing this for a number of minutes. More often than not, other churches join in with their bells. The result is a terrific din and noise, and magnified by the numbers of bells and churches taking part at that particular time

On special occasions, mostly Church festivals, saints' days and 'fiestas,' of which there are many in Malta, this ringing is much more frequent. There appears to be no co-ordination or time table and to the listener it is just a continuous noise.

Although several years have passed since I heard the bells of Malta it seems there has been no change of custom, and the Queen's visit to the island has been an occasion when the Maltese ringers have really 'gone to town.'

HYMN TUNES

Amidst the noise and clamour of the Maltese bells there are some sweet voices. They are the bells of the Anglican Cathedral of St. Paul, also heard during the broadcast. They have been used for many years as a carillon.

Thirty years ago I first heard these bells while I was crossing Sliema Harbour in a 'dghaisa' (a native boat), ringing out the hymn, 'We love the place, O God.' The tune came beautifully across the water from that lofty spire. It was after this, during a later period of service at Malta in the Royal Navy, and also as a member of the Cathedral choir, I learned that the repertoire of the carillon was increased by the efforts of a certain corporal of the R.A.F., who had transcribed two or three hymn tunes into numbers on a card.

I had been asked just previously by Mr. J. Bennett, then a colour-sergeant of the Royal Marines, when we were in Chatham, if I knew of any English bells in Malta. In view of this, on hearing the bells again I became curious. The Chaplain of the Cathedral was complaining that the repertoire was so small, and I thought something could be done about it. So one Sunday morning, prior to the service, I ascended the tower into the belfry, where I saw the verger's son engaged with six wooden levers, similar to those used to pump the bellows of an organ, playing one of the hymns from a card, and followed that by a burst of 'rounds.' Whilst he regained his breath I was invited to view the bells.

Entering the bell chamber I saw a ring of six bells with a tenor (at a random guess after 25 years) of about eight or nine cwt., bearing the name (I am almost certain) of Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, hung for ringing in a wooden frame in two rows of three bells each. The wheels, stays and sliders were complete but there were no ropes. The chiming apparatus was a system of wires and weights with outside hammers on the frame to 'clock' the bells, connected to the levers in the belfry below. I judged this to be a local job, the work of previous members of the Cathedral congregation employed in the Royal dockyard.

Having to take my place in the choir I was not able to stay for a closer inspection but I was much impressed. I had my dreams, too, but as the ringers known to be in the Services at that time could be counted on the fingers of one hand, and the possibility of them serving in Malta at the same time was extremely remote, my hope, alas! died almost as soon as it was born. The possibility of recruiting and training a band of ringers from a 'floating' population from the English colony was also too remote to be considered seriously.

GRANDSIRE DOUBLES

After a little thought, I had 'scrounged' a strip of white cardboard and scribed upon it a complete plain course of Grandsire Doubles and on the other side of the card a variety of changes including Queens and Tittums.

Eight years later I returned to Malta for a final period of service in the Mediterranean Fleet and it was to my great joy when once again across the waters of the harbour I heard Grandsire Doubles being chimed on the bells in that lofty spire.

Although listeners here heard the bells of St. Paul's Cathedral, Valetta, being broadcast, H.M. the Queen could not hear them through the noise and clamour from the Maltese bells, but, after all, it was Malta's day, and the Queen, on her return, was greeted by the music of English bells ringing changes in orderly rhythm.

DIAMOND WEDDING BELLS AT CHERTSEY

Greetings From the Queen Mother

The diamond wedding of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Stevens, of Chertsey, was marked by joyous celebrations on May 12th. While Mr. Stevens is not now able to ring, his interest is in no way dimmed and he is a regular reader of 'The Ringing World.' For a great many years he rang at Chertsey and his faithful service won the affection of parishioners and ringers.

The happy couple remember with pride that in recent years three generations of the family took part in the ringing at Chertsey, viz: Mr. Stevens, Miss N. Stevens (daughter) Mrs. Crocker (daughter), Mr. E. J. Crocker (son-in-law) and Miss Joan Crocker (grand-daughter).

In the evening a mixed team of ringers rang touches of Grandsire and Stedman on the bells of the Parish Church and the following took part: Miss M. Collins, Messrs. W. A. Peck, R. I. Shepherd and L. Knowles (Egham), W. E. Butler (Staines), Mr. and Mrs. Hancock and Miss Hancock (Ottershaw), W. A. Goldstone and W. Shepherd (Addlestone), Mr. and Mrs. Crocker and J. B. Hessey (Chertsey).

After the ringing most of the ringers were received by Mr. and Mrs. Stevens and members of the family at their home, and during the proceedings Mr. W. Shepherd, on behalf of the assembly, proposed the appropriate toast for the occasion, wishing them continued health and happiness. A letter from the Queen Mother, acting on behalf of the Queen, was read, and the visitors admired the gifts of flowers received in honour of the event.

Mr. Stevens entertained with anecdotes about ringers who visited Chertsey in bygone years, tales that caused hearty laughter from all.

W. S.

While ringers in this country rang last Saturday to welcome home the Queen, those at Durban, South Africa, were ringing St. Paul's bells in honour of the centenary of this town, said to be the most British in South Africa. There was also ringing on the Sunday afternoon following for a special service.

THE ANCIENT SOCIETY OF COLLEGE YOUTHS

Big Gathering at Leicester

This year's country meeting at Leicester proved to be an unqualified success. Fine weather favoured the proceedings and a large number of College Youths from the Midlands gathered to meet the London members. It so happened that the date of the meeting coincided with the local Universities' annual hospital rag day, and the London party on arrival found themselves besieged by a very determined group of pretty young ladies, dressed in the most fantastic 'get-ups.' These girls would not release us until we had disgorged various sums of money for ransom—but we were guaranteed immunity for the rest of the day. One elderly member of the party perceived that this guarantee was not received too enthusiastically by some of the younger members— who seemed to enjoy being held up by such charming Amazons—for they seemed to bear out the old assertion that the Leicester, Worcester and Nottingham girls are the prettiest in the country.

Ringing commenced at St. John-the-Divine on a very fine ring of ten. This was the church where William Willson rang, and the two trebles were given by him. After lunch at the White Hart we proceeded to the Cathedral, where various touches were rung These bells proved to be a very pleasant ring, and, after the heavy weight of metal in London, were enjoyed very much by all. Then on to St. Margaret's, a rather heavier ring which was much admired by the visitors. One disappointment here was that we did not see Ernest Morris—he was taking part in St. Margaret's outing.

A short business meeting was presided over by the Master (Mr. John E. Chilcott), and apologies were read from Mr. E. A. Young (now bordering on his 90th year) and Mr. I. Emery (a College Youth for 63 years).

The Master welcomed Mr. E. G. Fenn, who has recently recovered from a serious illness, and Mr. Fenn, in acknowledging, said how happy he was to be back among College Youths.

Tea was provided at St. John's Schoolroom by Mrs. Ward and the St. John's ladies. Votes of thanks to all who had helped to make the day so successful were proposed by Mr. A. A. Hughes, and responded to by Mr. Harold Poole, who said they were pleased and honoured to have had such a meeting in Leicester.

The arrangements were made by Mr. A. B. Peck and Mr. F. E. Collins in conjunction with Mr. Poole, and a social hour at the Globe rounded off what had proved to be a most successful and enjoyable meeting. Mr. Paul Taylor generously provided transport for the less active members of the party and this was much appreciated by them

NORWICH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION

Towers With No Ringers in the Diocese Listed

THIS took place not, as heretofore, on Easter Monday, but on a Saturday, May 8th. The hope that this would increase the attendance was abundantly justified, and the attendance was considerably greater than in recent years.

The five towers in Norwich whose bells are ringable were open for ringing in the afternoon and evening, Mancroft, St. Giles', St. Miles', St. George's Colegate and St. John-de-Sepulchre's. The annual service was held at Mancroft at 4 p.m.; this was taken part in by the Vicar (Canon Waddington) and the general secretary (Rev. Gilbert Thurlow). The president (the Rev. A. St. J. Heard) read the lesson, and the Rev. J. L. Turney (Rector of Sculthorpe) preached the sermon. Mancroft organist (Mr. C. J. R. Coleman) played the organ.

Tea was at 4.45 in the Chantry Hall, and was followed by the business meeting. At this the president (the Rev. A. St. J. Heard) was in the chair and over 80 members and others were present from King's Lynn, Gaywood, Snettisham, Dickleburgh, Winfarthing, Diss, Shelfanger, Blofield, Bunwell, Loddon, Caston, Bramerton, Ludham, Wymondham, Heston (Middlesex), Redenhall, Forncett, Sculthorpe, Great Yarmouth, Beccles, Emswell, Leiston, Hethersett, Mulbarton, Acle, Buxton, Norton Subcourse, Mendham, Pulham, Cambridge and Norwich.

Officers were elected or re-elected as follows: president, the Rev. A. St. J. Heard: general secretary and treasurer, the Rev. Gilbert Thurlow; vice-presidents re-elected with the addition of Mr. J. G. W. Harwood (for 21 years secretary of the East Norfolk Branch) and the Bishop of Thetford; Ringing Master, Mr. Nolan Golden; hon. auditor, Mr. George Fletcher: Central Council representatives, Mr. Norman Harding, Mr. H. W. Barrett, Mr. Nolan Golden and the Rev. Gilbert Thurlow. The accounts were adopted with gratitude to the hon. auditor, who presented them.

The general secretary read a letter from the Central Council about the position of 'The Ringing World.' The following undertook to act as local representatives, unless and until the Branches should appoint: Mr. Cecil Ebberson (Snettisham), Mr. A. G. Harrison (Diss), Mr. C. Banham (Caston) and Mr. Kenneth Brown (Ludham).

It having been suggested that a cheaper tea would be more popular, it was agreed to consider this for next year. Mr. Nolen Golden produced a valuable leaflet giving details of all towers with bells but no ringers in the Diocese. It was noted with warmest approval that some bands are visiting towers with no, or very few, ringers, to encourage ringing there.

The Rev. J. L. Turney spoke about the memorial to be erected at St. Margaret's, King's Lynn, to the late Mr. W. Eldred, donations towards which are to be given to Mr. Norman Harding, Wynncroft, Roydon, King's Lynn.

Mr. Nolan Golden, replying to a question, said that he would be ready to proceed with making Association badges, if only a sufficient number of people would definitely say they wanted one. Members were very sorry to hear that George Bailey, of Wroxham, is ill.

Votes of thanks were passed to Canon Waddington for permitting the service, to him and the other Norwich clergy for the use of their bells, to the Rev. J. L. Turney for preaching, and to Mr. Coleman for playing the organ. The bells were later made good use of for the rest of the evening.

SOUTH NORFOLK AND NEW BANDS

The South Norfolk Branch held their spring meeting at Banham (famous for its Norfolk cider) on May 1st and attracted 40 ringers. The six bells of the Parish Church were rung to a variety of methods, and during the evening the eight bells at the adjoining parish of Quidenham were also rung. The service was conducted by the Rector (Canon R. W. Longley), who also preached, after which the members adjourned to the Church Hall for tea.

The Rev. F. E. Vokes presided at the business meeting, supported by the president (the Rev. A. St. J. Heard), Canon Longley, Mr. Ernest Whting (Branch Ringing Master), Mr. A. G. Harrison (Branch secretary), Messrs. H. Moss, E. G. Bennett, C. E. G. Banham, F. C. Roper, W. G. Saunders and C. W. F. Phillippo (committee). Miss Ann Creasey (East Harling) was elected a full member, and Mr. G. Filby (Wingfield) a non-resident life member.

A full discussion on 'The Ringing World' followed, after the reading of a letter from the secretary of the Central Council, by the Branch secretary. It was urged that South Norfolk must get more postal subscribers without delay; several members promised to help in this direction.

Mr. W. Saunders opened a discussion on encouraging ringing in parishes where one or more ringers were trying to form a band. After the close of the meeting the committee stayed on and finally suggested a monthly meeting at one parish, commencing on Friday evening, May 14th, with Shelfanger.

Votes of thanks were passed to the Rector and organist, and to Mr. W. G. Saunders for making the local arrangements. It was decided to visit Thetford for the next meeting on June 19th.

EAST GRINSTEAD GUILD

Opinion on 'The Ringing World'

People visiting Penshurst, Kent, on May 8th, were treated to a real English country scene. It was a lovely day and there were many visitors to Penshurst Place, which is one of the stately homes of England. In the park on one side of the house the village team were engaged in a cricket match, while on the other side, in the pinnacled tower of the Parish Church, members of the East Grinstead and District Guild were holding their monthly meeting. The ringing chamber is on the ground floor, open to the church, so there was a constant stream of onlookers, probably seeing for the first time the art of change ringing being practised. At one time they saw an all-ladies' band performing.

At the business meeting the main item was the financial state of 'The Ringing World,' and while no decision was reached, the meeting was unanimous on several points, viz:—

(1) That the journal must be made more interesting for younger members, and all were urged to send in to the Editor any items of interest that came their way and not to be backward in replying to any matters arising from 'Letters to the Editor.'

(2) It was agreed by both town and country members that 'The Ringing World' was delivered earlier by the newsagent than by the postman, a good argument for making the price the same for both classes of delivery.

(3) It was agreed that letters could be published under a nom-de-plume, providing the Editor knows the identity of the writer.

After tea many ringers turned up and there was ringing for all, including a good course of Superlative and one of Southwell Surprise. Single Norwich would not go as one ringer insisted on making fourths and back after passing the treble in 2-3.

DURHAM AND NEWCASTLE DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION

Solving the Problem of Reports

THE selection of Staindrop as the venue of the half-yearly meeting of the Durham and Newcastle Association on May 8th proved to be a happy choice.

The village, with its old church, lies hard by Raby Castle, the seat of Lord Barnard, and many, on their way home, would see his deer grazing in the Castle grounds. Lying near the southern boundary of the Diocese of Durham, with only an infrequent bus service, it cannot be described as easy of access but, thanks to a few cars and a special bus from Newcastle, a company of 44 sat down to tea in the Black Swan Hotel.

Ringing took place on the delightful Taylor eight of St. Mary's while the committee met in the vestry. Then all joined in the service conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. S. Z. Edwards), with Mrs. Edwards acting as organist. A collection for the restoration fund of the church amounted to £2 11s. 3d.

At the business meeting the chair was taken by the president (Mr. Richard A. Gofton), who expressed his pleasure at the large attendance and commented on the rare delight for the Association of finding an incumbent who could participate in the ringing with them.

The business included a discussion on the motion to amend Rule 10 to allow flexibility in the date of the annual meeting when necessary. This was carried in spite of an amendment seeking to establish an alternative fixed date, and the secretary thereupon announced that the annual meeting for 1954 would be held at Newcastle Cathedral on Saturday, October 16th.

The views of the previous meeting at Sunderland condemning the use of recorded bells had recently been conveyed to the Bishops of the two dioceses. Members were very pleased to hear the reply from the Bishop of Durham, expressing his agreement with the Association's views and promising to convey them to his Advisory Committee. A reply had been promised from the Bishop of Newcastle on his return.

The question of providing a comprehensive annual report without living beyond their means had engaged the attention of the committee for some time. For the past two years an abbreviated report had been published, omitting about half the subject matter that used to figure in the report. The printers had been consulted about the possibilities of producing a handbook which would contain most of the subject matter at present omitted, e.g., the list of belfries and members, rules, first performances, etc., but would need to be published only about once in five years. The estimates showed that five short reports would cost about £80 and the handbook about £20, making a total of £100 over five years, or an average of £20 per annum. This compared very favourably with the old style report at over £30 per annum and the principle had, therefore, been adopted. It was hoped that a thorough revision of all the subject matter could be completed and the handbook issued before the end of 1954.

The secretary read out the circular letter appealing for support for 'The Ringing World.' He stressed the greater contribution made by the postal subscribers and the need for more of them. The president also urged members to give their full support to the appeal.

Further ringing took place after the business meeting from rounds to Bristol Surprise and brought a most enjoyable meeting to a close.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

ANONYMOUS LETTERS

Dear Sir,—Having re-read the report of the annual meeting of the Guildford Diocesan Guild, I am unable to find anything in my reported remarks which should have prompted Mr. A. B. Peck's letter in 'The Ringing World' of May 7th. I feel that it must have been obvious to the majority of readers that I was not speaking for or on behalf of the Ancient Society of College Youths.

However, if that impression was given, I hasten to assure Mr. Peck and any other readers who may have been misled that it was entirely unintentional.

The views expressed were my own—views which, however, I know are shared by many other ringers.—Yours faithfully,

F. A. MUNDAY.

Guildford.

Dear Sir,—I, too, along with other correspondents and a number of ringers with whom I have discussed the above topic, see no objection to letters appearing over a nom-de-plume in 'The Ringing World.' The Editor can withhold unsuitable letters, and in any case the fact that the writer's name appears does not add virtue to a distasteful letter. Personally, I find the page of letters the most interesting page of 'The Ringing World,' and letters over a nom-de-plume can definitely add interest and stimulate discussion.

I have not, so far, written an anonymous letter to 'The Ringing World, nor, at the moment, have I any intention of doing so. However, many, who are shy of publicity might make useful contributions if they could do so under a nom-de-plume.—Yours, etc.,

N. CHADDOCK.

Rotherham, Yorks.

DOUBLE NORWICH COURT BOB CATERS

Dear Sir,—In the leading article of 'The Ringing World' of May 7th, 'E. C. S.' favourably compares Double Norwich Caters with Grandsire and Stedman.

Can he explain why it is so very seldom rung?—Yours sincerely,

W. A. FARMER.

Shrewsbury.

THE BEGINNER AND 'THE RINGING WORLD'

Dear Sir,—Whilst I heartily endorse everything that Mr. Claude Rush says in his letter on page 235, I have myself pointed out to what I might call the 'Advanced Beginner,' viz., the one who is up to ringing, reasonably well, Stedman and Grandsire Triples, Bob Major, etc., the help he could obtain from the regular purchase and perusal of 'The Ringing World.'

The reply I got was, 'What is the good of me taking "The Ringing World"? It's all too advanced for me!' I then pointed out that there was always something for the learner, but I fear that the practice of one copy being thrown around the ringing chamber is not likely to inspire the beginner, as he or she only has a chance of a casual glance through its pages, seeing everything and noting nothing, and I agree that is not likely to induce the beginner to become a subscriber. Even when they have the opportunity to take part in a quarter peal at their own church, and are even elected to membership of their own county or diocesan association or guild, they are eager to see their names in print, but even that does not inspire them to become subscribers.

I think it would be only fair to 'The Ringing World' and its supporters if, when a ringer was sufficiently keen to wish to ring a quarter peal or a peal, he or she should be allowed to take part only on one condition, that he was prepared to take 'The Ringing World' in the same way that he must be elected a member of an association.

ARE MEETING REPORTS DULL?

Dear Sir,—With reference to increasing the sales of 'The Ringing World,' I think that T. W. Sheppard in the last paragraph of his letter (April 30th) has, to quote a modern expression, 'got something.'

How many of those lengthy reports of this, that and the other Association are really read by the average subscriber? Those who attend the meetings are fully informed, and those outside the Association aren't interested, and yet we have a whole page devoted to them.

In fact they are on a par with the company reports sent out to shareholders—either too complicated to understand, or far too dull with facts and figures to read. More often than not they finish up in the wastepaper basket unread.

I must quote yet another letter ('The Ringing World,' April 9th). Claude Rush states 'It should be taken by every enthusiastic ringer, and especially the beginner—I think the beginner's interest would soar.'

Well, at the moment there is little of interest to the beginner unless it be the odd occasion when something catches his eye, something or other about Plain Bob, perhaps.

But in less time than it takes to shout 'Single' he is whisked off into the realms of Surprise Major! And far above his head, which brings me to the main point. Couldn't we have some articles for the beginner to get his or her teeth into—the necessity for accurate striking and how to obtain it—wrinkles sent in by the old hand—hints and tips, etc.?

Some might say that all these aspects are covered in 'Ropesight,' etc. That is so, but I think you will agree that in most weeklies, such as motor-cycling papers, wireless, carpentry, etc., there is always a host of titbits for the novice as well as the more advanced reader, and these appear week after week, year in year out. It is just such articles as these that really sell the papers, especially those in a series, progressing from the purely elementary upwards, for then our reader has got to place his order to secure the entire works, whetting his appetite with another the moment one is finished!

I hasten to add that I am not criticising, but making the suggestion that all tastes be catered for, particularly the new recruit with a newfound hobby (and there's a lot of 'em) and it's his fourpence you're after!

If space does not permit these articles at the moment, perhaps these lengthy screeds, mentioned earlier, could be condensed a trifle. Yes, as T. W Sheppard so aptly puts it, let's have some items on real ringing matters.—Yours faithfully,

J. K. MORLEY.

Burghfield, Reading.

Note.—'The Ringing World' is the official journal of the Central Council and also its affiliated Guilds and Associations. Each is entitled to a summary of its proceedings being reported. Interest of the individual reader depends on how much he contributes to the great family of change ringers.—Ed.

Gratefully Acknowledged

The Editorial Committee acknowledge with gratitude the following contributions towards meeting the cost of producing 'The Ringing World':—

Personal.—Mrs. Jackson £1, All Saints' (Huntingdon) 10s. 6d.

Peals.—Hutton 5s., Nutfield 3s., Epsom 5s., Honiton Clyst 4s., Foots Cray 2s. 6d., Evercreech 5s., Norton 4s., Horringer 2s.

Quarter peals.—Ash 3s., Harrow Weald 2s. 6d., Thorner 3s., Helmdon 2s. 6d., Sulgrave 10s., Croydon 6s., Burnham 4s. 6d., Birchington 2s. 6d., Streatham 2s. 6d., Kingstone 3s., Upper Clapton 1s. 6d., Fittleworth 3s., Ixworth 2s.

SYNTHETIC BELLS

Dear Sir,—I am pleased to see in the columns of 'The Ringing World' that there are many people, who, like myself, regard synthetic bells as a menace. A church about two miles from where I live has one of these mechanisms. When I heard it for the first time I was impressed, and thought it sounded well, but when the record I was listening to finished, the operator put on another one, evidently of a different ring of bells, as the pitch was different, and my feeling of pleasure was rudely shattered. Whether the apparatus is now disused or whether it is a question of the wind having to blow in the right direction. I don't know, but fortunately I haven't heard that apparatus for a long time now.

One of your correspondents, who describes himself as a ringer, writes that we, as ringers, should be more tolerant, but I am tempted to ask what ringing he has done? I find it almost impossible to believe that anyone who has got as far as, for instance, ringing the treble to Plain Bob or Grandsire, should write suggesting that we put up with such a hollow sham.

One writer suggests that it is mere prejudice that causes ringers to protest about potted bells, and refers to gramophone records of symphonies by old masters, but buyers of such records probably recognise them as poor substitutes for the original, and in any case would not be likely to switch them off halfway through, as I imagine happens often in the case of recorded bells. I feel sure that the majority of ringers feel that their art deserves better treatment and do not want their efforts recorded in order to be dished up elsewhere, secondhand. A painter does not want his pictures copied in order that they can be sold wholesale to the public at ten per cent. of original price, and it is stupid to call such an attitude prejudice. After all, the ringers are the original producers.

A few years ago I made an experiment with the idea of trying to improve the striking at my own tower, St. Mary's, Greyville. I have a Webster recorder and I took recordings of some of the practices, playing them back afterwards. The experiment was a complete failure, as the recordings did not make the ringers listen to the ringing with a more critical ear. My experience makes me think that it is a fallacy to imagine that recorded ringing can be of use in promoting a love of bells with the general public, but is liable to have the reverse effect.—Yours sincerely,

CYRIL CHAMBERS,

Durban, South Africa.

The Herts County Association

Despite the counter attraction of the F.A. Cup final on television 15 towers were represented at the Northern District meeting on the light eight at Aspenden on May 1st. Lincolnshire Surprise was the special method for the meeting.

The service was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. W. D. Brittain) with Mrs. G. Dodds as organist. The tea was sumptuous; the youngsters failed to clear the tables.

Mr. A. Coles presided at the business meeting, at which Master Peter Stacey (Baldock) was elected a member.

The next meeting will be at Pirton, and, with kind permission of the Biggleswade District, Bedfordshire Association, Shillington bells will be available after tea. The special method is Winchendon Place Bob. A cordial invitation was extended to the Ladies' Guild meeting at Norton on May 29th. A collection for the general funds amounted to 16s.

The ladies were thanked for catering on the proposition of Mr. C. C. Stubbington, seconded by Mr. F. Aldridge. Westmill bells were also available for the evening ringing.

THE DERBYSHIRE ASSOCIATION

Reduction in Peal Ringing

THE annual general meeting of the Derbyshire Association was held in Derby on April 24th. During the morning the bells of St. Andrew's (10) were available but, for various reasons, only a few members and two visitors found it possible to take advantage of the opportunity to visit this tower and ringing was very limited. Mr. George Freebrey was in charge of the arrangements.

Ringing in the afternoon took place at the Cathedral (10) and St. Peter's (8), and approximately 50 ringers and friends attended the annual service in the Cathedral at 4.30 p.m. This was conducted by the Succentor (the Rev. Mr. Colley), and in a short address he likened ringers to the trumpeters mentioned in the book of Numbers. They were called upon, when required, to sound an alarm and to call people to worship. Mr. Heath Gracie, the Cathedral organist, kindly accompanied the hymns, and after the service several members had an opportunity to inspect the console of the wonderful electrically-controlled organ.

A NEW PRESIDENT

A very substantial tea was provided by the wives of several of the Derby ringers in the Diocesan House, adjacent to the Cathedral, where members were pleased to welcome the president-elect, the Very Rev. R. A. Beddoes, Provost of Derby.

The business meeting was also held in the Diocesan House, and, after he had been formally elected, on a proposition by Mr. W. Lancaster and Mr. H. Taylor, the president occupied the chair. In thanking the members for the honour they had accorded him by the invitation to become president of the Association, the president said that as he had not been brought up at places where bells were rung his knowledge of the art was extremely limited. He was, however, very keen and willing to learn and would give the Association all the help he possibly could.

The following officers were unanimously elected and tributes were paid for the valuable services rendered to the Association by Mr. Fletcher and Mr. Carlisle, who had found it necessary to resign from the positions of treasurer and Central Council representative respectively:—Vice-president, Mr. W. Lancaster; treasurer, Mr. J. B. Stennitt; trustee, Mr. H. Taylor; Central Council representatives, Mr. A. Mould and Mr. W. Robinson.

APPEAL FOR HONORARY MEMBERS

The financial statement, presented by Mr. Fletcher, was approved as satisfactory, but it was clearly pointed out that it would be necessary to maintain the income at the level achieved in 1953. Members were urged to invite suitable persons to become honorary members of the Association.

The annual reports of the general secretary (Mr. A. B. Cooper) and peal secretary (Mr. D. R. Carlisle) were read and approved. It was stated that there had been a reduction in the number of peals scored (35) for the Association, particularly handbell peals, but a marked advance in the variety of methods attempted. Three peals were rung to commemorate the Coronation of Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth. The peals were conducted by 19 members, of whom 13 were residents. Rodney Harrison, David Walklate and Stanley Slaney conducted their first peals. A healthy sign was that 11 members rang their first peals.

Reference was made to the second annual dinner held in Derby on February 27th. This was a very happy social function and thanks were accorded to the small committee responsible for the arrangements.

The secretary read to the meeting a circular from the Central Council regarding the financial position of 'The Ringing World,' and members agreed to discuss urgently the possibility of obtaining more postal subscribers. In connection with the Ringers' Roll of Honour it was unanimously agreed to forward a donation of 10s. towards the cost of the Roll to be installed in St. Paul's Cathedral.

Mr. Adams, the Chesterfield District chairman, proposed a vote of thanks to all who had contributed in any way to the success of the meeting, and particularly mentioned Mr. H. Taylor, who had been responsible for the ringing arrangements and tea. The ladies would not emerge from the 'back room' to receive a public word of thanks from the president, who felt that many of the people who were accorded thanks at such meetings were never in a position to hear the good things said about them.

Ringing continued at the Cathedral and St. Peter's until approximately 8.30 p.m.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

A company of over 80 attended the annual meeting of the East Berks and South Bucks Branch at Cookham on April 24th.

Branch officers elected were:—Chairman, the Rev. E. S. C. Lowman; Ringing Master, Mr. R. Briggs; Deputy Ringing Master, Mr. W. Welling; secretary, Mr. W. Butler; treasurer, Mr. A. D. Barker; representatives on general committee, Messrs. A. D. Barker, R. Biggs, W. Birmingham, W. Butler, E. D. Poole and W. Welling.

TWELVE TOWERS IN AND AROUND STAFFORDSHIRE

Twelve towers in and around Staffordshire were visited on May 1st by nine ringers travelling in two cars from Stafford, Rugeley, Coventry and Little Aston.

A start was made at St. Peter's, Kinver (tenor 12¼ cwt.), then followed the Warner six at Wollaston, and the eight at St. Chad's, Pattingham. Most interesting was St. Mary's Church, Patshull, situated in the grounds of the Earl of Dartmouth. This good ring of six is by Mears and Stainbank.

St. Michael's Church, Tettenhall, razed to the ground a few years ago by a disastrous fire, is being rebuilt at an estimated cost of £70,000. The bells are an excellent eight by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston.

St. Peter's, Broughton, bells were enjoyed but those at Betley, on the Cheshire border, need the attention of a bellhanger. The eight at Audley were, however, a compensation.

A warm welcome was accorded the visitors at St. Margaret's, Wolstanton, by Mr. D. R. Walley. These bells are of good tone and 'go,' considering they were cast by Rudhall in 1714. An excellent tea was arranged by Mr Walley.

A new experience to most of the company was the ten at Hanley. St. John's, Burslem, was also visited and ringing concluded on the mixed bells at St. Edward-the-Confessor's, Leek, where the 'go' is good.

Thanks are accorded not only the incumbents, but Michael Fairey and Mrs. Joyner, who drove the two cars.

LINCOLN DIOCESAN GUILD ANNUAL MEETING

3,000th Peal Recorded

IN accordance with the custom since the Guild's formation, the 54th annual meeting was held at Lincoln in April. There was the usual warm welcome from the Cathedral authorities and the Lincoln ringers.

Everyone was pleased to meet the Guild Master (Mr. J. A. Freeman); after his long period in hospital, although not yet able to make the long climb to the ringing chamber, the members felt satisfied that he would soon be 'among the ropes.' At the Cathedral evensong the Sub-Dean, Canon Cook, welcomed the Guild with well-chosen words. Over 150 members and friends had tea in the Eastgate Court Cafe.

The business meeting was held in the Chapter House, the Guild president (the Dean of Lincoln) presiding. The Guild report and balance sheet were formally approved.

THE MASTER'S REPORT

The Master, in his report, stated that 1953 was a year of steady progress and saw the ringing of the 3,000th peal for the Guild. The total of 116 peals was two less than in 1952 but included several noteworthy performances. The outstanding one was 35 Surprise Minor methods rung by Mr. J. R. Young and his band in the Eastern Branch. This was a record and they congratulated the band.

He regretted there was little activity in the Gainsborough District of the Northern Branch and that part of the Lincoln District centred about Sleaford, but they could look with satisfaction on the headway that was being made in the Elloe Deaneries and Eastern Branch. Higher methods were being rung and he hoped the striking was in keeping with the methods. He made this point because during the year a peal in an advanced method was recorded in another branch. He understood that the striking was poor and, due to bad method ringing, at times the bells 'fired.' Such performances were no credit to the band concerned or to the Guild.

Bell augmentations had been carried out at Donnington and Barrow-on-Humber, where rings of six had been increased to eight. A new church had been built at Waddington to replace the old one destroyed by enemy action and the five old bells had been rehung.

All the retiring officers were re-elected, viz:—President, the Right Rev. the Dean of Lincoln; Master, Mr. J. A. Freeman; secretary and treasurer, Mr. J. Bray; peal secretary, Mr. G. E. Feirn; representative on Diocesan Committee for Faculties, Mr. John Freeman; librarian, Mr. R. F. Smith; auditors, Mr. C. Brown and Mr. W. Tomlinson; representatives on the Central Council, Mr. J. Bray, Mr. G. E. Feirn, Mr. J. A. Freeman and Mr. John Freeman.

PEAL RINGERS AND MEMBERSHIP

The hon. secretary, on behalf of the committee, asked conductors and those organising peals to make sure that all taking part were actually Guild members. There had been cases in past years where non-resident ringers had not had their membership confirmed or had not paid their subscriptions. Resident ringers also were sometimes included although they had not paid their annual subscription for some years. The committee appealed for more care by those responsible so that future records would be more accurate.

There was a discussion on the financial position of 'The Ringing World,' with an appeal for more postal subscribers. Some members felt that the price should be increased to 6d., others did not agree and no resolution was moved.

The Guild Master proposed a vote of thanks to the Dean and the incumbents of the other city churches for so readily allowing the use of the bells, the Sub-Dean for his address of welcome and to all who had helped with the arrangements for the meeting.

Ringers later took their choice of ringing at the Cathedral (12), St. Giles' (8), St. Peter-at-Gowts' (6) or St. Botolph's (6), completing another enjoyable 'April Fair' meeting.

DEDICATIONS IN SUFFOLK AND STAFFORDSHIRE

TANNINGTON, SUFFOLK

THE small, ancient Church of St. Ethelbert, at Tannington, about four miles from Framlingham, Suffolk, is indeed an example of a parish church and cannot fail to inspire; from end to end and to the top of the tower, both inside and out, there is not a handful of rubbish to be found.

The crowning glory to the labours of restoration came on May 4th, when the Rt. Rev. Henry Wilson, until recently Lord Bishop of Chelmsford, dedicated a new treble bell and rededicated the old five. All fittings, including a steel frame, also a chiming apparatus, are new, and the whole of this work has been carried out by Messrs. John Taylor and Co., of Loughborough. It looks a really fine job.

The tower has been most effectively restored by builders of an adjoining parish. It is of the dumpy type, the height being about twice the width of the base; so ringers have no stairs to climb.

The church is said to be 14th century and it is recorded that there were three bells there in 1553. The five restored bells were all by John Darbie, and all of the same year—1662. The names of Thomas Dade and William Dade appear on two of them, the Dades having an estate in the parish in the 17th century. Half the sanctuary floor is made up of the tombstones of the family, and these monuments remain shining and polished to this day.

I met the parish clerk at the church door. He is Mr. H. Burgess, an old ringer, and he has been clerk since January, 1911. That is 43 years ago. 'That is a record,' I said. 'No,' he replied, and directed my attention to a gravestone near the door, which records that Edgar Allen was clerk for 56 years. Mr. Burgess followed him, so the two periods of service total 99 years, and Mr. Burgess is still going strong.

Mr. Burgess told me that the old wooden bell frame had long been decayed. Wheels had all gone and the only sound of the bells was from three, to the clappers of which he had tied ropes and so he chimed for service. It is over 20 years since a bell was raised in this tower, and the last peal is said to have been rung on July 27th, 1908. Now a very tuneful ring of six sounds over the rich farmland all round. The houses are scattered and the population of the parish is only about 150.

The cost of restoration is not all paid for but, even so, it is a remarkable achievement on the part of all those who took part in it.

Tannington will have to set about forming a band of ringers now. Apart from Mr. Burgess, it is doubtful if there is a ringer left in the parish, so long is it since there was any ringing there. However, there are plenty round about and I expect we shall soon see the first peal recorded in this paper.

The church was filled for the dedication service, which included six good, full-bodied hymns, and was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. N. Ll. Cribb). Visiting ringers kept the bells going until past some people's bedtime.

NEWCASTLE-UNDER-LYME

AFTER being silent since the day of Her Majesty the Queen's Coronation in June last, the bells of St. Giles', Newcastle-under-Lyme, are once more pealing from their tower in the centre of this ancient borough.

On May 9th, during Matins conducted by the Rector (Preb. C. J. Watkins), the bells were rededicated by the Bishop of Lichfield (Dr. A. S. Reeve) in the presence of the Mayor and Mayoress of Newcastle and a large congregation. At the service the lessons were read by Mr. G. A. Moore (the tower Master), and Mr. R. S. Anderson (chairman of the North Staffordshire Association), and the choir sang, unaccompanied, the anthem 'Come, ye servants of the Lord.'

Following the rededicatory prayers the bells were rung in rounds whilst the Bishop and clergy returned to the chancel.

In his address the Bishop spoke not only of the message of the Church carried by the bells to all people, but of their place in the national life of the country. He expressed the hope that, along with other bells throughout the land, those of St. Giles' would ring out a welcome to Her Majesty on her return to these shores on Saturday, May 15th. The Bishop continued by reminding ringers of their place in the Church and that in all their ringing they should have before them their duty to God.

Following the service the bells were rung to rounds, Grandsire and Stedman Caters by the local ringers assisted by visitors.

The ten bells have been completely rehung in a steel frame by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, Limited, of Croydon, whose representative, Mr. Stevenson, attended the service. The bells have been lowered some 12 feet in the tower and the sound outside is now greatly improved.

Messrs. Gillett and Johnston are to be congratulated on an excellent job, and the 'go' of the bells leaves nothing to be desired. The new frame incorporates provision for two trebles, but before embarking on this further project, efforts are continuing to raise a balance still required to clear the cost of the work already completed.

The civic authorities of the borough gave permission for a flag day on Saturday, May 8th, when a band of handbell ringers rang at various points in the town to stimulate selling. A sum of £140 was collected leaving some £160 still to be raised.

As work is still proceeding on the fabric of the tower, the first meeting to be held at the tower will not be until Saturday, October 2nd, but visitors will be very welcome at the weekly practice on Friday evenings at 7.30, or on Sundays at 10.15 a.m. and 5.45 p.m.

ARCHBISHOP VISITS RINGERS

The Archbishop of Canterbury, upon the occasion of his visit to Boxley, Kent, visited the ringers after the service. 'We were ringing when he came up,' writes Mr. Wally Gosling, the local captain, 'so "stand" was called. One member failed to set his bell and, pointing to him, Dr. Fisher said that failing to control a bell was about his standard of ringing.'

The Archbishop had a cheery word for each member, and said that he liked to be amongst ringers, but for obvious reasons he preferred the ringing chamber to be on the ground floor.

Before leaving His Grace signed the visitors' book, and he congratulated Mr. Gosling on nearly a half century of ringing (actually since March 5th, 1905)

TWO ASSOCIATIONS AT EDENBRIDGE

On Saturday, May 1st, the Tonbridge District of the Kent County Association held a joint meeting with the Southern District of the Surrey Association at Edenbridge.

Ringing commenced at 3 p.m. and once we got accustomed to the flashlight of the local Press photographer, proceeded smoothly until service. Incidentally, the rough proofs of his efforts were produced at tea time, and now that some of us have seen what we look like when we are ringing, we are amazed that those with whom we ring can survive a peal.

The service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. A. Graham), and the address was given by the curate (the Rev. J. Shepheard-Walwyn), who had been ringing with us during the afternoon. Possibly this fact meant that we listened to his talk the more attentively, but mainly, we feel, it was because he had already earned our admiration and respect before the service. Clergy ringers are, of course, well known in the Exercise, but we think the number of blind clergy ringers must be very limited indeed, and as we watched Mr. Shepheard-Walwyn taking part in touches of Grandsire and Plain Bob, on an inside bell, we had been amazed at his ability to put his bell in the right place.

Tea was supplied by the local band, no less than 70 ringers and friends being present, and was such a wonderful spread that we felt it was probably mainly responsible for the enthusiasm with which further joint meetings were suggested.

A very short business meeting was held, mainly in order to elect as members of the Kent Association two adult and four juvenile members of the local band. The secretary of the Tonbridge District welcomed the visitors from Surrey and extended a hearty invitation to them to attend any future meetings of the District. Mr. A. P. Cannon, Ringing Master of the Southern District of the Surrey Association, thanked the members of the Tonbridge District for their welcome and also said how pleased he was to meet the Rev. J. Shepheard-Walwyn, whose name, he felt sure, he had seen in 'The Ringing World.' After a certain amount of pressure, Mr. Shepheard-Walwyn admitted that he had rung several peals, but said that he had not done much ringing during the last few years.

Ringing then continued until about 9 p.m., many methods being attempted, not all with conspicuous success.

OBITUARY

MR. G. E. RISBEY

The news of the death of Mr. George Edward Risbey, at the age of 60, cast a gloom over the Woodchester (Glos) tower. 'Ted,' as he was better known, had been ringing there all his life as had his father and grandfather before him. Although not a peal ringer, he had several to his credit and was altogether far more interested in ringing for service.

On May 2nd he was ringing as usual—and apparently in the best of health—but the next day, just prior to leaving home for work, collapsed and died.

The funeral at Woodchester Church on May 6th was attended by many people and ringers were well represented. Handbells were rung over the open grave by four of the six young lads he had helped to teach during the past three months. They were Anthony Burford, Andrew Moore, Terence Randall and Nigel Birch. After service there was half-muffled ringing and again during the evening, and on the following Sunday ringers attended the tower to pay their last respects to one of the most popular bellringers ever to be connected with Woodchester tower.

Ted's death was all the more tragic in view of the fact he was soon to leave his home at Lightpill, near Stroud, to take up residence in the village again. Ringing had been in abeyance for over a year at the church, but since Christmas Ted and other ringers took over instruction of the six young lads, who can rightly be described as excellent prospects.

We at Woodchester will miss him more than words can tell and are grateful for all he has done for us. W. B.

TRURO DIOCESAN GUILD

Crantock's Great Welcome to Truro Branch

The spring meeting was held at Crantock on May Day. Great preparations had been made by the Crantock ringers in greasing the bells and adjusting the ropes, also bringing forms, tables, crockery, etc., to the Vestry Room, a small room behind the church, and fitting up the churchyard tool shed as a temporary kitchen so that the tea could be held near the church instead of in the Church Hall, three-quarters of a mile away.

At 2.30 five of the Crantock ringers were in the belfry, soon to be joined by Mr. Reed, of Redruth, chairman of the Branch. The bells were raised and a touch of Grandsire Doubles, called by Mr. Docking, of Crantock, was rung. Then ringers began to arrive from Truro Cathedral, Kenwyn, Kea, Perranzabuloe, Redruth, Stithians, St. Austell and St. Ewe, and Doubles, Minor methods, rounds and call changes were heard. A service took place at 4.30, a number of ringers occupying the stalls of the ancient Collegiate choir led the singing, Mrs Blewett, the Crantock organist, playing the organ.

After service all moved to the Vestry Room for a magnificent tea. At a short meeting Mr. Southeard, the Diocesan Ringing Master, thanked the Crantock people for their hospitality, and an offer by Mr. Jose, the captain of Kea tower, to hold the autumn meeting at Kea on September 18th, was accepted. Then further ringing took place and concluded with a magnificent touch of Kent Treble Bob, in which the Crantock bells have never sounded so beautiful before, and then the day concluded with a perfect fall. It was pleasing that method ringing was heard most of the time and it was the same at a much better-attended festival at Mullion a week before.

Although we can never expect more than rounds and call changes to be heard from the more remote towers of the Diocese, the day does not seem very far off when half-pulls will be practised in all the larger places.

THE RINGING WORLD

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

No. 2251 Vol. L. FRIDAY, MAY 28, 1954 Registered at the G.P.O. for transmission as a newspaper 4d.

THE TRIBUTE

ON May 15th, the message of the bells sounded throughout the country in a remarkable manner as the expression of gratitude for the safe homecoming of our beloved young Queen and admiration for the manner in which she has fulfilled her first big duties after her Coronation last June. She brought to the countries of the Commonwealth and the Colonies that sense of kinship and feeling that whatever our colour, language or creed we are one people.

Through the pages of 'The Ringing World' we have been privileged to tell our readers of how ringers in distant lands responded in welcoming the Queen. The ringers in New Zealand and Australia entered upon their responsibilities with the same measure of enthusiasm as those in this country. While the measure of success in the matter of peals was in no sense the equivalent of the ringing in this country, it in no way dimmed the cordiality of the welcome.

This issue of 'The Ringing World' is devoted almost exclusively to giving some indication of the great reception. The information cannot, however, be regarded as a complete record. The reports of peals and quarter peals published this week are only those received on May 17th and 18th, and not all of them. The story of the welcome will be a serial, but we shall endeavour within the compass of our resources to give as representative a picture of the way the Exercise responded to the request made to it by Parliament.

These occasions of national rejoicings are days ringers remember. What is particularly pleasing is the number of young ringers—and some not so young—who for the first time were ringing a peal or quarter peal. And some, let it be said, were ringing just cover bells. On such an occasion as this in the matter of a quarter peal we are not acting as purists; it was a performance and we would not dim the local happiness by adhering strictly to the definition of a quarter peal. Those in question were responding to a request to ring, and this they did in fulfilment of the Prime Minister's request. He will not cavil and neither will Parliament; the function of the bells and ringers was to express the happiness of the people.

Reading the many reports, one gratifying feature was the way experienced bands of ringers went from tower to tower to ensure that the number of 'silent' rings should be as few as possible. It was necessary to do this in London, the heart of the Empire, and there were at least three bands operating from tower to tower. The same story comes from the Barnsley district and also in South Wales, Hertfordshire, Surrey and other parts of the country. For many years the Exercise has been conscious of the fact that there are more bells in the country than practising ringers. It must not, however, be construed that change ringing is a dying art. Where leadership and good instruction are available there is no shortage of young people coming forward. Success comes quickest where the clergy take a personal interest in their bells and ringers and regard the contribution of the man and woman in the belfry as a real service to the Church.

Did the sound of the bells reach the Royal Yacht as it took its course around the Home Waters? We should like to think that the Hampshire greeting as the 'Britannia' steamed up the Solent on the Friday took the music across the sea. North Kent and the Essex towers of the Thames Estuary played their part nobly and well—peals were rung on both sides of the river. In London the response was good and the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths must feel proud of their peal of Stedman Cinques from the Church of St. Martin-in-the-Fields.

In many towers care was taken so that the ringing should synchronise with the time the Queen landed on English soil. Portable radio sets were operated in belfries so that ringing started at the actual minute. The day, however, brought its measure of disappointments. In the city of Bath all four peal attempts failed, while in a Leicestershire tower the ringers were denied access to the belfry for an hour because of a broken key!

FORTY YEARS AGO

Extract from 'The Ringing World' of May 29th, 1914

REPORT OF THE ANALYSIS COMMITTEE

. . . Ringers depend so much upon the goodwill of the clergy that it must be of interest to note that 29 clergy were to be found ringing peals in 1913, seven of whom were conductors, and that the number of peals in which they took part was 145. The details are as follows: The Rev. A. T. Beeston rang in 40 peals, of which he conducted 9; Rev. A. H. F. Boughey (16 on handbells) 24; Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn (conducted 6) 20; Revs. H. Law James (conducted 9) and W. C. Pearson 14; Rev. B. Tyrwhitt-Drake (handbells 4) 13; Rev. C. J. Sturton 12; Rev. H. S. T. Richardson (handbells 3, conducted 3) 9; Revs. E. V. Cox (conducted 1) and E. S. Powell 8; Rev. E. Bankes James (handbells 3) 7; Rev. C. C. Cox (conducted 5) and W. P. Wright 5; Revs. G. F. Coleridge and H. B. Woolley 4; Revs. V. A. Creswell, H. J. Elsee, R. P. Farrow, J. F. Hastings, F. J. O. Helmore, R. L. B. Oliver and W. M. K. Warren 2; Revs. W. W. C. Baker (conducted 1), R. Bond, H. Bowen, W. E. Colchester, B. H. D. Field, C. C. Marshall and E. J. Teesdale 1. . . . .

GILLETT
AND
LIMITED

No matter in which corner of the country you happen to be, as likely as not you will come across Gillett & Johnston bells or tower clocks. Gillett & Johnston craftsmanship is embodied in an all-embracing service — as much in the preservation and restoration of old rings of antiquarian interest as in the installation of new.

LATE NEWS

Last Saturday a peal of Southwell Surprise Maximus was rung at Halifax. This is the first peal of Maximus in the method. The peal was conducted by Mr. Leslie W. G. Morris.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Mr. W. M. Rowe, the founder of 'Ringing Towers,' the monthly publication of the New South Wales Association, which is now in its eighth year, has resigned the editorship. Mr. Rowe has done a grand job for ringing in Australia.

Eleven Sunday service ringers have taken part in the two quarters which have been rung in the past week at Chester-le-Street. Three scored their first quarter.

During the last twelve months four ringers at Old Headington, Oxford, have come of age. The peal for the Royal homecoming also marked the 21st birthday of Malcolm Stone.

The ringers of the peal of Painswick at Halstead, Essex, on May 15th, would like to record it also as a farewell peal to Claude Snowdon, who left Essex on May 17th, and take this opportunity of wishing him and his wife every success in their new venture.

There are more church bells in Hungary today than there were before the war. The main foundry, the Slezak Rafael State bellcasting enterprise, has experienced a rush of orders. (Vide Hungarian News and Information Service.)

Lichfield Cathedral ringers were disappointed that they were not 'on the air' for the Queen's homecoming. 'This was due to bad timing by the B.B.C.' writes Mr. G. E. Oliver. 'They arranged that we should ring from 3.15 to 3.35, and I understand that the other towers did not come on until after 4 p.m.'

Fifty years ago Mr. Herbert Rowley rang and conducted his first peal at St. Peter's, Horbury, where he has been a ringer for 65 years. On May 8th he was the recipient of a fireside chair from fellow ringers and friends at a special meeting of the Barnsley and District Society in his honour.

Manchester University Guild have elected the following officers for the 1954-55 session:—President, Mr. D. F. Ferguson; Ringing Master, Mr. Brian Tomlinson; secretary-treasurer, Miss Anne Muirhead; committee members, Miss Margaret Mitchell and Miss Ruth Jackson.

The bells of St. George's Church, Dublin, were heard on Radio Eireann (530 m. and 240 m.) on Rogation Sunday, May 23rd, at 11.45 a.m.

The quarter peal rung at Madley, Herefordshire, on April 13th, was to the memory of Mr. T. W. Duffy, and not as printed in our issue of May 7th.

For many years the representative of the Irish Association on the Central Council, Mr. 'Bob' Murphy, of St. Patrick's Cathedral, Dublin, celebrated on May 26th his 54th anniversary of joining the Cathedral band. It is over 62 years since he first rang a bell at St. Canice's, Kilkenny.

Although the peal at Harrow-on-the-Hill is the first this century, it is not the first for 174 years. Since 1881 the following have been recorded, writes a correspondent:—October 11th, 1884, Grandsire Triples; May 23rd, 1885, Grandsire Triples; September 3rd, 1898, Grandsire Triples; October 15th, 1898, Stedman Triples; and October 14th, 1899, Grandsire Triples.

On Trinity Sunday the new light six bells (tenor 8 cwt.) at Stoke-next-Guildford will be dedicated. The bells were tried out for Messrs. Mears and Stainbank on May 19th and the handling was extremely good. Short touches of Bob Minor and Grandsire Doubles were rung before lowering. A combined practice will be arranged by the Guildford District as soon as possible after dedication.

A WONDERFUL RINGING WELCOME TO THE QUEEN

Throughout the Land the Bells Sounded

The response of ringers throughout the British Isles to the request of Parliament to honour the homecoming of the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh was really wonderful. At the time of writing 121 peals have been received and the quarter peals are at least four times this number.

There was not a centre of ringing where the request was not observed. It was mainly a case of the regular Sunday bands ringing together in their own churches, but in all parts of the country, and London in particular, tours to otherwise silent belfries were arranged.

Next Wednesday, June 2nd, the first anniversary of the Coronation, will be another important ringing day, and it is to be hoped that in the evening the bells will again be manned. The public will appreciate such action.

London's welcome to the Queen was of that warmth characteristic of the heart of the Commonwealth. As the 'Britannia' came under Tower Bridge, College Youths were ringing at St. Olave's, Hart Street, and the Southwark Cathedral band were ringing their greetings. As the Queen was passing towards Westminster the bells of St. Paul's could be heard in Stedman Cinques. These massive bells were also 'fired' and rung in Queen's changes.

The band then went to the Imperial Institute where a similar programme was carried out of Stedman Caters, firing and Queen's. Part of this ringing was recorded by Gaumont-British. Afterwards came ringing at St. Michael's, Cornhill, and St. Botolph Without, Aldgate.

The Abbey bells were rung for an hour—from approximately 2.45 p.m. onwards. Afterwards the band rang at St. Mary Abbot's, Kensington.

The Society of Royal Cumberland Youths rang a peal of Stedman Cinques conducted by Mr. T. H. Francis. There were two first peals in the performance. A quarter of Stedman Caters was rung at St. Margaret's, Westminster.

The band of St. George's, Camberwell, rang at three churches in London—St. George-the-Martyr, Borough; St. John's, Waterloo Road; and St. George's, Camberwell. As the Queen passed underneath Waterloo Bridge ringing took place at St. John's.

EAST LONDON'S WELCOME

No small part in East London's welcome to H.M. the Queen was the ringing at the local churches by members of the London County Association.

Led by the Master of the Northern District, Mr. C. A. Hughes, the party assembled at St. Mary-atte-Bow (known to London ringers as 'Bow-in-the-road'), from there to St. Mary's, Leyton, where arriving at the end of a wedding between two members of the local company, the bells rang out to speed the happy couple on their way.

At St. John's, Leytonstone, several members of the local band swelled the numbers. Next on the list came All Saints', West Ham, with its lovely old Norman tower and fine melodious ring of ten. Then All Saints', Poplar, happily now restored after extensive bomb damage. After tea the party made their various ways to the last church, St. Mary's, Chigwell.

The ringing, as befitting the occasion, was of a very high standard throughout, Stedman and Cambridge being the main methods rung.

THE FIRST WELCOME

Probably the first peal to welcome the Queen was at Prittlewell. A start was made at 8.17 a.m. and the peal was completed at 11.33. After the peal the Vicar (the Ven. E. N. Gowing) came up in the belfry and congratulated the band on a fine peal, remarking that he thought this was the first peal rung in England that day. The method was Plain Bob Major, and the composition Mr. Frank B. Lufkin, the conductor, selected was a new one by Mr. Ernest Morris. Afterwards Mr. Lufkin conducted his 200th peal at Slough.

As the Royal yacht entered Gravesend Reach on her journey home, the bells at St. George's, Gravesend, were rung by local ringers until the vessel was out of sight up river. Owing to the close proximity of the tower to the river front, it is possible that this was the first ringing welcome to be heard by the Royal party on their journey up river

A peal of Stedman Triples was in progress at St. John's Church, Erith, as the Royal yacht passed Erith. This peal started at 10.6 a.m. and finished at 1 p.m. and was one of the first welcome home peals. It was at this church that King John stopped on his way to sign Magna Carta.

Oldest ringer to participate in the ringing for the Royal Homecoming was Mr. Frank V. Sinkins, now 89½ years old. He rang the treble to a quarter peal of Grandsire Triples at Burnham, Bucks.

DERBY'S THREE PEALS

There were three peals at Derby—Stedman Caters at the Cathedral, Double Norwich Court Bob Major at St. Peter's, and a third, Stedman Caters, at St. Andrew's.

At Norwich the majestic bells of St. Peter's, Mancroft, were rung to Grandsire Caters, the peal being accomplished in 3 hours and 20 minutes. Afterwards four of the band—Messrs. Nolan Golden, H. W. Barrett, Norman V. Harding and Arthur G. Bason—took part in a successful peal in the same method at King's Lynn.

Liverpool greeted the Royal homecoming with a peal of Stedman Cinques at the Church of Our Lady and St. Nicholas.

The ringers of Bristol were not failing in their duty, and all the towers in the Bristol district were visited at various times during the afternoon and all the bells fully manned. A wonderful spirit of co-operation on the part of all made it a day which will long be remembered, both by the public and the ringers.

SOMETHING NEW

At Grundisburgh, Suffolk, something new was attempted in a peal of Solihull Surprise Royal. This was the first peal in the method by all the band.

In the neighbouring county of Essex a similar bold venture was taken at Halstead, with the first peal of Painswick Surprise for the Essex Association; Miss Hilda G. Snowden conducted.

The local band at Clitheroe, Lancs, rang their first peal to celebrate the return of the Queen. Miss Patricia M. Bourn scored her first peal as conductor.

Miss Ellen Parker is the first lady to call a peal at St. Cuthbert's, Halsall, Lancs. The peal was Minor in four methods.

Miss Diana Matthews, of the Suffolk Guild, will remember the homecoming. She rang in two peals and in three other towers, cycling some 25 miles.

SCHOLARS' CALL CHANGES

Ringing at St. Giles', Willenhall, Staffs, for the Queen's homecoming, was confined to call changes, writes Mr. C. Wallater. The ringers are mostly scholars of St. Giles' Senior School, five of them taking part—Eileen Davies, Linda Morgan, Sheila Wilson, Mervyn Smith and Norman Read.

The bells for the Queen's homecoming at Rodmersham, Kent, were also wedding bells. Reginald Cory, of Northampton, and Christine Franklin, of Sittingbourne, were married at the church earlier in the day.

Among those who rang at Carbis Bay were several young ringers who had also rung for the Coronation—Roger Sullivan (aged 13), Nicholas Roach (11), Peter Rogers and Evangeline Roberts (10) and John Sullivan (9).

Two of the youngest ringers on May 15th were Rodney Musson (aged 9) and David Collin (aged 11). After the peal at Silk Willoughby, Lincs, they participated in rounds and Queens.

IN THE ISLAND

After completing their quarter peal at Godshill, Isle of Wight, the local company with their wives had a tea party. A return was afterwards made to the tower, where those not in the quarter could ring on this historic occasion. They were joined by one visitor, Mrs. Morris, of Merstham, Surrey. Later ringing took place at Whitwell and Niton, villages which have not resident bands.

SURPRISE RINGING AT RUNCORN

The first Surprise Major peal by a local band was rung at Runcorn. Twelve of the band of 15 have already rung a peal this year. The band that rang the peal of Cambridge Surprise Major consisted of a lay reader, a verger, three church councillors, a chorister and a sidesman. On Easter Sunday 14 of the band arrived at 6.30 a.m. to ring for 7 a.m. Communion, and 13 went to the service.

St. Peter's, Irthlingborough, the Northamptonshire tower where, some years ago, a choice of six or seven Surprise Major methods could be rung for Sunday service, had the full ring going in rounds and call changes for the Queen's return. Six young ladies were among the team. The veteran A. Y. Tyler, 84 years of age, added yet another to his many Royal occasions. Only two of the old Surprise band remain in St. Peter's.

In connection with the peal of Grandsire Triples rung at St. Stephen's, Ealing, the treble ringer, Miss Betty Nolder (aged 13), and the tenor ringer, Mr. Victor Neil (aged 64), were both successful at their first attempt. Both have taken up ringing within the last two years, and both are to be complimented on the way they rang their bells.

Mr. Maurice G. Turner rang his 250th peal at St. Matthew's, Walsall. It was also the 75th peal of Stedman Cinques for the conductor, Mr. Howard Howell.

Mr. C. Frederick Jukes, who conducted his first peal at Kingswinford on May 15th, is the first ringer from this parish known to have conducted a peal. This he did in fine style although he had rung in a peal of Plain Bob Major at Netherton earlier in the day.

Among the veterans was Mr. Walter J. Newnham, of Northaw, Herts, who at the age of 76 scored his first peal of Minor.

With a peal of Cambridge Surprise Royal at Lincoln Cathedral on May 15th, Mr. H. Lowman has rung peals of Cambridge from Minor to Maximus.

DISAPPOINTMENT AT TRURO

There was disappointment at Truro. A peal of Grandsire Caters had to be abandoned just on three hours with less than seven courses to go, owing to one of the bells running dry. This peal would have been the first ten-bell peal in the county by a resident band. The nearest to such an achievement was in 1931, when eight of the Cathedral band scored a peal of Grandsire Caters with the assistance of Mr. T. G. Myers and the late Charles R. Lilley. The band on May 15th was:— H. C. Spencer (conductor) 1, Mrs. J. M. Simpkin 2, A. H. Eplett 3, Mary Matthews 4, G. W. Taysom 5, C. W. Jose 6, H. Harper 7, Rev. A. S. Roberts 8, A. Carveth 9, C. K. Brewer 10.

At Tunbridge Wells a peal of Double Norwich was planned. Unfortunately one of the band, who works for British Railways, was shunted into a siding and failed to make contact with the band. A quarter of Cambridge Surprise Minor was substituted.

Not only the bells of Canterbury city rang their welcome home to the Queen but also those in surrounding villages, including Hernhill and Boughton-under-Blean. Faversham Parish Church bells were also rung.

Among the abortive peal attempts was one of Plain Bob Major at Twyford, Berks. It was lost in the first course of the second half after ringing a superb first half which was most worthy of the great occasion.

At Chester ringing commenced when the Royal party set foot on land, and in this connection portable wireless sets played an important part. The ringing was at the Cathedral, St. Mary-without-the-Walls, St. Mary-within-the-Walls and All Saints', Hoole, in fact at all towers where ringing was possible.

The Royal homecoming coincided with the 78th birthday of Mrs. W. Gorringe, of Milton-next-Gravesend. She was remembered in the quarter peal on the 15th in which her husband participated.

Sunday service bands were in evidence. At Runcorn, Cambridge Surprise Major was rung, at Selly Oak Grandsire Triples (with one last-minute exception) and at Kelvedon, Essex, Minor in four methods.

TRAGEDY OF A BROKEN KEY

The afternoon of May 15th was carefully planned by the ringers at Sileby, Leics. They arrived at 2.50 so as to start ringing when the Queen stepped ashore. Alas! the key broke in the lock of the door to the ringing chamber. A frantic rush was made to local hardware dealers and joiners for a duplicate key but one that would fit the lock could not be found. Eventually, after an hour's struggling, the stout lock was forced.

Ringing started with 'fiiring' the bells 21 times in Royal Salute. The 14 ringers present then took part in various touches. Later, joined by the Vicar and churchwardens and wives and mothers, a company of 25 sat down to a substantial tea arranged by the captain, Mr. W. W. Draper. After tea 1,260 Grandsire Doubles was rung by E. Draper 1, G. Walker 2, D. Lewin 3, W. Swan 4, W. W. Draper (conductor) 5, covering bells T. Dexter, M. White and L. Lovett.

THE YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION

Membership Maintained at 1,606

THE annual general meeting of the Yorkshire Association was held at Doncaster on Saturday, May 1st, when, following a week of grey skies, the sun shone brilliantly to add a lustre to the event. The crowds in the town were reminiscent of a race-day gathering, and at one juncture the secretary was virtually 'in the scrum' and only by using his 'blackout' knowledge of the back streets did he manage to arrive at the appointed 'spot' in time.

A fanfare of London Surprise Major poured down from the fine Taylor eight with its 30-cwt. tenor hung high up in the cathedral-like bell tower, punctuated by an animated commentary going on simultaneously among a crowd gathered around a radio and television dealer's shop to see and hear the soccer cup final for nothing. The fact that London Surprise Major was being rung didn't mean a thing to them, and indeed it was evident from a few chance remarks one heard in passing that some people do not seem to have the same affectionate regard for the bells as the bellringer!

Following a brief ringers' service, conducted by the Vicar of Doncaster (Canon H. G. G. Herklots), tea was served in the Memorial Hall, and as the Vicar had another appointment, Mr. H. Lofthouse proposed, and Mr. N. Chaddock seconded, that a hearty vote of thanks be accorded to the Vicar and churchwardens for the use of the bells and kind co-operation in arranging the meeting. This was carried with applause.

In reply, Canon Herklots said he was pleased to welcome the Association to Doncaster and wished them every success. He regarded bells as an essential part of English life, and this was even exemplified in some rural villages that could only boast of one small bell.

At the business meeting which followed, the chair was taken by the president (the Ven. C. O. Ellison, Archdeacon of Leeds), supported by the general secretary (Mr. L. W. G. Morris), the hon. treasurer (Mr. G. Benfield) and the hon. peal secretary (Mr. W. E. Critchley). Apologies for absence were received from Messrs. F. W. Dale, W. Barton and J. Ambler.

A vote of thanks to the local company for their kind arrangements, and the ladies who officiated at the tea tables, was moved by Mr. H. Walker, who said he was pleased indeed to have the opportunity, as 25 years ago he was a member of the Doncaster band. This was seconded by Mr. P. J. Johnson and carried unanimously. Mr. F. A. Staveley acknowledged, adding that it had been a pleasure and he was glad to see that the meeting was so great a success.

SEVENTY-ONE NEW MEMBERS

The president then presented the Association's 78th annual report, which stated although there was a reduction of one in the number of peals rung, no fewer than 127 members had rung their first peal in particular methods, and this was a healthy sign.

By a strange coincidence the membership remained the same as last year, namely 1,606 members, the 71 new members being balanced by the lapsing of 63 old ones and the death of eight others. The death of Mr. J. W. Cundall, of Bradford, who joined the Association in 1887, was regretted.

The committee commended to all members, in the strongest terms, the appeal of 'The Ringing World' for more postal subscribers. 'It is difficult to exaggerate the importance of our official journal to the Exercise in general and the art of ringing in particular, and we hope that in Yorkshire, at least, postal subscribers will quickly become the rule rather than the exception.'

The peal secretary's report stated that 76 tower-bell and ten handbell peals had been rung and 25 members had rung their first peal. Methods new to the Association were Biddenden Surprise Major, Warwickshire Surprise Major and St. Clement's Triples.

The highest peal scorer for 1953 was Mr. W. E. Critchley with 26, who was also the leading conductor with 15. Mr. Howard Scott, of Adwick-le-Street, rang 22 peals. Mr. W. F. Moreton had conducted ten peals.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

The next business was the re-election of president. Mr. L. W. G. Morris rose to move the re-election of the Ven. C. O. Ellison on behalf of the committee. Mr. Morris pointed out that no other nominations had been received, and the committee were unanimous in recommending the re-election of their president, who, notwithstanding the many additional tasks that now fell to his lot, had graciously consented to allow his name to go forward as their nominee. Mr. P. J. Johnson seconded, and the general secretary then put it to the meeting, which carried the motion with great applause.

In acknowledgment, the president thanked the mover and seconder for their kind words, and also the meeting for the enthusiastic way in which they had re-elected him. He had told the committee that he found he could not attend as many District meetings as his predecessor, but he still had the same keen interest in the welfare of the Association and would do all in his power to maintain and further their interest at all times..

The next business was the election of the hon. peal secretary, who retires annually. Mr. H. Walker moved, and Mr. H. Chant seconded, the re-election of Mr W. E. Critchley. This was carried unanimously.

After some discussion regarding the place and date of the next meeting, Mr. H. Walker moved, and Mr. A. Firth seconded, that it be held at Scarborough on September 18th if the necessary arrangements could be made. This was carried.

Mr. F. A. Staveley gave a brief report regarding the Snowdon Dinner, which the Doncaster company have kindly undertaken to arrange this year on October 30th.

The following new members were elected:— Messrs. Wilfrid Williams (London), G. E. Foster (Southwell), G. Challans (Worksop) as out-county members, and Mr. H. Naylor, Miss E. Bouckley, Mrs. D. Whitaker (Wakefield) and Mr. L. Smith (Ecclesfield) as resident ringing members. Mr. E. T. Paul Field (Buckland Newton, Dorset) was elected a life member.

Reference was made to the recent diamond wedding celebration by Mr. and Mrs. George Halksworth, now resident at Scarborough, at the respective ages of 88 and 82. Mr. Halksworth was a member of the Doncaster company for many years, and at one time its leader.

The meeting stood in silence as a tribute to the memory of the late Mr. Fred Hutchinson, formerly of St. Chad's, Headingley, Leeds, for some years secretary of the Western District, who was interred the previous Monday.

This concluded the business, and further ringing took place in a variety of methods, bringing to a close a very successful and enjoyable meeting. L. W. G. M.

ANNIVERSARY OF CORONATION

Dear Sir,—In a letter published a few weeks ago I made two suggestions, one of which has —mainly through other agencies—been carried into effect. The bells of our country have given a right royal welcome to the Queen on her return. It remains to commend to the attention of your readers the other suggestion, that ringers throughout the land should celebrate Coronation Day on Wednesday, June 2nd.— Yours sincerely,

J. LLEWELLYN EDWARDS.

Kington Magna Rectory.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

THREE TOPICS

Dear Sir,—This letter touches on some recent issues in your columns.

(1) Anonymous Letters.—It has been stated that there was very little objection raised when the ban was put on, but it should be noted that lack of criticism does not necessarily imply agreement. It may, as in my case, indicate nothing more than laziness, but, having overcome my lethargy, I must protest strongly if belatedly. The writer's name and address must, of course, be known to the Editor, but pennames should be allowed.

(2) Instruction.—The most brilliant instructor can do little with ringers who do not study at home. We have all seen people who took up change ringing late in life progress rapidly, and younger people under the same instructor who made virtually no progress, the difference being in the amount of study they put in. If this causes a row in our tower, blame the fact that I have to identify myself and cannot write under a pen-name.

(3) Price of 'Ringing World.'—I have never understood why readers who pay in advance should have to pay extra; a further increase in price for postal subscribers might well kill the goose that is laying the golden eggs. If, however, the price of copies through the newsagent were raised to the figure paid by postal subscribers, some might have it by post (thus increasing the profit to 'The Ringing World'), some would continue to have it through the newsagent at the increased price, and those who discontinued it would take very little profit from the funds—½d. a copy, is it?

The balance, I suggest, should be made up by annual subscriptions from the Guilds and Associations, whose funds are derived partly from those ringers who do not take the paper, but who have an interest, whether they appreciate it or not, in its continued existence.—Yours faithfully,

L. J. MALINGS.

Porthkerry, Glam.

PEAL CHARGE GROSSLY UNFAIR

Dear Sir,—I note in a recent issue of 'The Ringing World' a suggestion from two different correspondents to rescue the finances of the journal by making a charge for the publishing of peal reports. I hope this will be resisted and indeed rejected by the Central Council. In my opinion, the idea savours of gross unfairness, as it would allow the greater majority of readers to enjoy a paper at its present price, subsidised by a few.

The number of ringers whose names appear in peal reports each week is very small in proportion to the total subscribers, and perhaps few of them would object to a small payment had this been the usual practice right from the inception of the paper, but to attempt to impose it now is to suggest that only successful peal ringers should dip in their pockets to keep the weekly journal going. One wonders, too, if there is not rising again that age-old desire on the part of some non-peal ringers to 'get at' those who ring peals, as one of your correspondents, T. V. Lister, is a self-admitted non-pealer.

And how nice for him, too, to be able to achieve a double desire: i.e., to soak the peal ringer and at the same time obtain for 4d. a week his enlarged paper with all his favourite features. Perhaps we may even find room for other features sported by the modern national Press, such as Woman's Page, Gardening Hints, perhaps even a strip cartoon, and also, who knows, maybe a little more space for, shall we say, acrimonious correspondence? — Yours faithfully,

C. BRETT-SMITH.

Erith, Kent.

A PAGE FOR YOUTH WANTED

Dear Sir,—I have had 'The Ringing World' for many years and hope for many years more as a reader even if it means a higher price. Nevertheless, I am strongly opposed to raising the price as I am unconvinced of it having the desired effect.

I have rung extensively in the Eastern Counties and beyond and found 'The Ringing World' in many remote and less popular towers. Many copies go to them regularly, towers that don't get much encouragement from outsiders or are not considered worthy of a visit by some of the elect. I can't see such as they carrying on at a higher price.

We have plenty of youth in the Exercise. I have seen many a keen youngster trying to find something of interest; it isn't there and so a customer is lost. Were a whole page to be given over to the young folk, reports of progress, simple articles they could understand, sometimes a photo, I feel a large potential of new readers would be secured.

I like Mr. Bennett's recent suggestion whereby the Guilds support financially 'The Ringing World.'

Retain the frontispiece by all means, but let us have a front page picture of some fine old parish church (taking all the counties in rotation week by week with a few remarks on its features and bells). A peal levy? No! I don't ring many myself, but enjoy reading the activities of others.

ARCHIE A. FITCH.

Sudbury.

PEALS ARE NEWS

Dear Sir,—Regarding Mr. Lister's letter in a recent issue, I disagree strongly with his idea. I am not a peal ringer myself, but I get a lot of interest by scanning the peal columns week by week, searching for peals rung in Devon or by certain well-known peal ringers, who visit this place year by year.

To cut the peal columns down to make space for crossword puzzles, serials and suchlike is an outrageous idea; one can find plenty of these things in daily newspapers without cluttering up this excellent magazine with them.—Yours sincerely,

D. JEWELL.

Combe Martin, North Devon.

WHY NOT NOTES FOR GARDENERS?

Dear Sir,—We are indeed fortunate in having an Editor with sufficient good sense to abbreviate Mr. T. V. Lister's letter to 'salient' points.

It would appear that Mr. Lister would have no peal reports without payment and, presumably, fill the inevitable spare pages with crossword puzzles. This arrangement would destroy completely the historical reference value of 'The Ringing World,' so why not throw in a few notes for gardeners too? No one with any sense of proportion could deny the peal ringers four pages of out of sixteen, and surely they should not be penalised because a very half-hearted ringer wants crossword puzzles.—Yours sincerely.

PATRICK I. CHAPMAN.

Kettering.

BIRMINGHAM PEAL QUESTIONED

Dear Sir,—I would like to put on record that I wish my name to be withdrawn from the 'peal' of Cambridge Surprise Royal rung at Birmingham Cathedral on April 22nd. Corrections were made which, in my opinion, do not justify calling the performance a 'true' peal. The conductor was informed of my disapproval on completion of the ringing.—Yours sincerely,

TERRY R. HAMPTON.

Sutton Coldfield.

'THE COUP DE GRACE? A SIXPENNY "RINGING WORLD"'

Dear Sir,—What a letter. The one redeeming feature: it was not anonymous. Whilst I have the greatest respect for the other chap's opinion if it is a fair one, I think the letter on the above was definitely not; so I make no apology if I write strongly. I don't think it would have mattered if it had been totally abbreviated. It is not our journal that is sick, it is men's minds, which sometimes warp their opinions.

I think the reference to 2d. being the worth of 'The Ringing World' was an insult to the intelligence of the one who wrote it. 'The Ringing World' is more animate to-day than ever it was. 'If "it" ever goes up to 6d., etc., it will cease to enter my house.' What an utterance: what a spirit: I hope we have not many with such a spirit.

Do they want our paper filling with comic strips? Perhaps they would also like a page of 'form.' They want a great deal for 2d. Our paper is, what its name implies and fully represents, 'The Ringing World.'

Have the two 'non-peal ringers' thought seriously what those three or four pages of peals and quarter peals mean to all those ringers, including 'firsts,' and firsts in the method, which have taken months to learn and perfect? Have they thought what those peals and quarters have meant in visiting famous churches and rings in towns and cities? What about the first 10, 20, 50, 100, 200 and 500's together, for Guild and Association, and the few 1,000's. What have they meant in friendships? My own 15 peals—you would not exactly call it peal-grabbing—have meant some of the happiest hours of my latter 65 years; and to see two in the same 'Ringing World' on two occasions, well, ask some of the other ringers if it was not a thrill.

The 'vandals' could not even leave 'The Obituary' alone. The last tribute often to a life of public service to their fellow-men and the Exercise.—Yours faithfully.

Crewe. W. FRANK STENSON.

THE GREATEST ACHIEVEMENT IN RINGING

Dear Sir, — I heartily disagree with Mr. Lister's letter regarding the price of 'The Ringing World.' If a ringer (especially a peal ringer, which Mr. Lister admits he is not) begrudges 6d. for the sole paper for ringers, he cannot really be a ringer at heart.

Peals are the greatest achievement in ringing, therefore they should be given first place in the ringing paper.

I agree that peals and 'quarters' should have a charge for entry, but some towers give a voluntary subscription.

Mr. Lister expresses the opinion that we should have a crossword and a serial. We want a ringer's paper, not a national 'rag.'

The only thing that 'The Ringing World' lacks in 1954 taste is the heading on page one. Change this, and we shall have a first-class ringers' paper. If the price is raised we shall have a first-class financially 'healthy' paper.—Yours faithfully, R. MARCH.

Evercreech, Somerset.

Presentation to Miss P. A. Martin

At a meeting held on May 8th the president of the Hertfordshire County Association, Mr. Joe Hobbs, presented a handsome brooch to Miss Pamela Martin as a token of the Western District's appreciation of her good work during her term of office as District secretary.

Mr. Hobbs recalled the progress that had been made in the District in recent years and emphasised that much of the credit must go to Miss Martin, who had given so much of her time to ringing affairs. In particular, Miss Martin had been a prime mover in the social activities of the Western District, and her organising ability had established the annual social as a regular feature of the ringing calendar in West Herts.

SIXTY-FIVE YEARS A RINGER

Presentation to Mr. Herbert Rowley

On Saturday, May 8th, the Horbury company entertained the Barnsley and District Society on the occasion of a presentation to their 85-year-old captain, Mr. Herbert Rowley, who has completed 65 years' regular service ringing at St. Peter's Church.

During the morning a team from the Barnsley Society repeated the first peal which Herbert rang (and conducted) on January 7th, 1894.

Throughout the afternoon touches to suit all tastes were rung until 5 p.m., when tea was served to 55 ringers and friends.

Following the tea tributes to Mr. Rowley's qualities in various walks of life were paid by Mr. B. Kenyon (clerk to the West Riding County Council), who presided, Councillor E. Briggs, J.P. (chairman of Horbury Urban District Council), Mr. D. Armitage (a churchwarden) and Mr. J. W. Milner (a local ringer), who asked Mr. Rowley to accept a fireside chair from his fellow ringers and friends.

During the ceremony messages of goodwill and congratulations from the Bishop of Wakefield, the Ven. C. O. Ellison (president of Yorkshire Association), the Vicar of Horbury (who was ill) and some of the local company who are at present away from home were handed to Mr. Rowley.

In replying, Herbert said that he had developed a habit of punctuality in his youth. Then there were six bells and six ringers. If one failed to appear there was no ringing. He went on to say that it had been a source of pleasure to him to sit in the belfry a few weeks ago and see a local band ring a quarter peal of 1,376 Plain Bob Major. The next step was a peal, and he hoped to hear them do it in the near future. He closed by hoping all present would be able to meet him after his 70 years' service.

An interested visitor was 83-year-old Mr. A. Yelland, the only other survivor of the original team which rang the peal in 1894.

The illness of the Vicar caused the cancellation of the service, which had been planned for 4.30. This was the one regret of the day.

After the business meeting of the Barnsley Society further ringing took place until 9 p.m.

ST. DAVID'S DIOCESAN GUILD

Llanelly Win Annual Competition

Mr. Frederick Sharpe, of Bicester, acted as adjudicator for the annual competition of the Guild, which took place at the Church of St. Teilo, Llandilo, on May 8th. He brought with him his wonderful collection of photographs of bells and their inscriptions, and his lovely set of handbells, which attracted much attention.

The competition was held in the afternoon and the adjudications were given after a very nice tea. Mr. Sharpe gave a full adjudication, telling the ringers to their amazement the exact changes in which the faults occurred and who were the culprits.

His placings were:—1 Llanelly, 41 faults; 2 Tenby, 67; 3 Carmarthen, 72; 4 Llandillo, 155; 5 Haverfordwest, 185. A word of congratulation is due to Haverfordwest. This young band ring on heavy bells hung anti-clockwise, and the light bells at Llandillo must have been a big handicap to them.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded Mr. Sharpe, and he was also thanked for the gift of his book, 'The Church Bells of Radnorshire,' which, it was hoped, would be the means of starting a Guild library.

The secretary, Mr. C. H. Hawkins, asked the Rev. E. G. Evans, who presided, to convey a message to Canon Tudor Hughes, wishing him an early recovery from his illness.

In the ringing afterwards Mr. Sharpe demonstrated his ability to ring two bells and at the same time to call a touch of 120.

The annual meeting of the Guild will take place at St. Peter's, Carmarthen, on June 19th.

OBITUARY

MR. FRANCIS G. GLEAVES

We regret to record the death of Mr. F. G. Gleaves, of Willingham, Cambs, who passed away on Friday, May 7th, at the age of 69. He had been in ill-health for some time and had done little ringing since 1949, when he rang in the 25th anniversary peal marking the opening of Bourn bells.

Ringing his first peal at Over in 1923, Major in 1924, and first peal in Willingham, he rang altogether 14 peals for the Ely Diocesan Association and scored peals of London and Cambridge Surprise Royal with the Essex Association, of which he was a member. Besides ringing at his parish church he was actively associated with the Over band, where, with Mr. F. Warrington and others, a Surprise band was formed, and with whom he rang many peals.

At the funeral the Ely Association was represented by Messrs. C. Robinson, C. W. Cook, F. R. Dennis, D. Adams, A. W. T. Ginn, G. Crisp, D. Peacock, A. Denson, F. Elsom and R. Thoday. In the evening two 720's of Cambridge Surprise Minor (deceased's favourite method) were rung with the bells half-muffled by P. H. Pigg, E. G. Hibbins, J. G. Gipson, F. R. Dennis, G. E. Crisp and W. J. Ridgman (conductor). F. R. D.

LONG SERVICE AT WOODSTON

In 1914 the three bells of St. Augustine's Church, Woodston, Peterborough, were recast and three new bells added. The ring of six was dedicated by the Bishop of Ely on June 27th, 1914.

Mr. S. H. Hoare, of Watford, and Mr. E. K. Hoare, of Harlow, spent last Easter holiday with relatives at Woodston and the opportunity was taken for six members of the family to ring a 720 Plain Bob Minor for Easter Sunday Evensong. This was done by the following: H. H. Hoare 1, S. W. Hoare 2, C. H. Hoare 3, S. H. Hoare 4, E. K. Hoare 5, H. Hoare (conductor) 6. (Three brothers and three sons and nephews.)

The ringers of 3, 4 and 6 rang at the opening of the bells in 1914. The ringers of 1, 2 and 5 were taught by their father, H. Hoare, and the ringers of 2 and 5 both rang a peal of 5,040 before reaching the age of 14. All the ringers served in the choir, C. H. Hoare still serving.

The father of the three brothers was parish clerk for about 53 years. He was appointed at the age of 18. He also rang at the opening of the bells and previous to that used to chime the three old bells before services.

Mr. H. Hoare has been in charge of the bells for about 40 years and has taught many learners, the most successful of whom is Mrs. H. Poole, now of Leicester.

THE RINGING WORLD

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

No. 2252 Vol. L. FRIDAY, JUNE 4, 1954 Registered at the G.P.O. for transmission as a newspaper 4d.

SOLVENCY IS POSSIBLE!

('With ordinary talent and extraordinary perseverance all things are attainable.'—T. F. BUXTON)

MUCH has been said and written about making 'The Ringing World' pay its way, but still it doesn't. Why? The basic point is that for running a paper on any particular activity there must be enough people interested in that activity and buying the paper, so as to create sufficient subscription-revenue and promote adequate 'circulation' appeal to potential advertisers in its columns.

Is the Exercise large enough to support a ringing paper? The answer being in the affirmative, why then is the problem one that has arisen with every ringing paper yet produced?

There is clearly something wrong, that is primary and fundamental. So let's face it! The fact is that the paper has not a sufficiently wide appeal. There are both towers and individual ringers who will say that is why they've stopped taking it, or wouldn't begin!

Now this is not a criticism of higher administration. The paper is not the property of some vague, remote 'they,' who can be conveniently blamed for any shortcomings. Indeed, as can be judged, all those concerned directly with its issue give 100 per cent. to the job, and more! And no doubt this has always been so. No! The paper is the property of the Exercise—the company of which you and I, through our Central Council, are its directors, so to speak; and this being so, if the paper now fails we have only ourselves to blame. How, then, can you and I aim to promote a wider appeal by this paper throughout the Exercise? And in so aiming what possible steps may be taken?

Consider the facts:—

(1) Donations and voluntary peal-publication fees, generous though they are, remain but palliatives for the malady. To rely on them indefinitely would be thoroughly bad business.

(2) Wishful thinking, such as, 'If only each tower became a postal subscriber,' and the like, will get us nowhere. ACTION is needed —by us.

(3) It all boils down to this: We've got to widen the margin between, on the one hand, costs of production and distribution and, on the other, the revenue from subscribers and advertisers; and such widening depends primarily upon the APPEAL of the paper itself. Secondary factors, of course, must also be considered. (See below.)

As to the extent and nature of the appeal itself of the paper to potential subscribers, this will have been the earnest and careful consideration of the Editorial Committee and, through them, of the Editor himself; and there is little doubt that their ideas and plans are many and various. But they can no more make bricks without straw than could the Israelites. They have not, for example, that same 'straw' as has a national daily newspaper. That has an organisation, costly and widespread, continually bringing in the MATERIAL, the very stuff of which the paper is made—its 'copy,' and its advertisements. Where is the parallel in our paper? The truth is, we have none.

Or should I say, 'have had none'? For the seed of a similar potential organisation, in miniature, has just been sown. The circular letter recently sent out to Guilds and Associations of the Central Council, by its secretary, Mr. E. A. Barnett, on this question, makes proposals the full implications of which are probably not generally realised. Therein is the first-class suggestion of appointing 'representatives' of the journal in every District or Division of each Association. And some are already appointed and getting down to the job.

This honorary job can be one of the most important in the interests of the Exercise; the amount of good done being dependent on the ability, energy and enterprise of the individual taking it on. The work includes canvassing for subscribers, for copy and, indeed, where opportunity occurs, for advertisements. The material flowing into the editorial office through such channels should, in due time, be adequate for discharge of such above-noted plans for improving the paper; which, in turn, will assist the representatives in their drive for increased circulation.

What 'copy' can such a representative secure or stimulate? Well, what does a Press representative get? Reports; interviews; articles by local people of authority on matters of local interest in towers and ringing; accounts by those who have become experts in their own fields—composing, method-building, conducting, instructing, tower and belfry maintenance, tours and meetings organising, handbell ringing, propaganda work, funds raising, public relations, recruiting and several other aspects of ringing activity and associated work. Material for some features comparatively new to our columns might be sent in—e.g., 'Answers to Correspondents,' 'Monthly Quiz,' Ringing Crosswords (competition or otherwise), 'Problems in Composition,' Biographies and, essentially, a 'Beginners' Corner.' BUT, all this material needs to be gathered or introduced. It certainly won't walk into the Editorial Office unaided!

Armed with a publication of much wider appeal and interest, the representative should be able to increase the circulation in his district in no small measure; indeed, in some cases he might well become a postal distributing centre, i.e., receiving the copies in bulk, and so cut out the losses through newsagents' commission.

Here are some key factors for consideration and action:—

(a) Increasing circulation by direct contact with towers and individuals where the paper is unknown or unrecognised.

(b) Proof of the advantages of being a postal subscriber, to both reader and paper.

(c) Enlarging advertisement clientele—(Yes, apart from the bell founders and rope-makers!), e.g., stationery, pens, pencils, etc., essential for students of paper-work, for secretaries, beginners, composers and others. Proprietary brands of anti-blister cream. Vendors of oils and greases. Car and coach hirers for outings. Further exploitation of the small-ad. columns, e.g., holiday accommodation, caterers and the like. The rates for small ads. might be slightly increased—they are below average.

(d) Issue of an 'official peals supplement' with the paper, instead of publishing all peals performances in the front pages, and entering in the supplement all peals to be officially recognised, under a serial registration number and for a small peal-publication fee.

(e) Possible elimination of all newsagents' distribution of the paper.

(f) Quarterly sales drives.

(g) Last resorts: Increased price per copy. Reduction of issues to fortnightly or monthly with slight 'bulk' price reduction.

But when all is said and done, the essential and primary thing rests upon us, namely, the promotion and maintenance of a flow of interesting and informative material to the Editorial Office, and then, with the more generally interesting paper, to double and treble its circulation. Every one of us can do something towards these ends, even if only by discussing some of the foregoing proposals to crystallise views for our Council representatives!

GILLETT AND
LIMITED

No matter in which corner of the country you happen to be, as likely as not you will come across Gillett & Johnston bells or tower clocks. Gillett & Johnston craftsmanship is embodied in an all-embracing service — as much in the preservation and restoration of old rings of antiquarian interest as in the installation of new.

LATE NEWS

A new record was established last Saturday by a peal in 42 Surprise Major methods rung at Handsworth, Sheffield, by the band that created a new record in Surprise ringing on February 13th.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Five peals were attempted at Bath on May 15th: Grandsire Triples at St. Mary's, Bathwick, failed after one and a half hours; Grandsire Triples at All Saints', Weston, after one hour; Grandsire Triples at Corston after one and a quarter hours; Stedman Caters at Bath Abbey after two and a quarter hours. The only success was Grandsire Doubles at St. Matthew's, with a local band.

Mr. Fred Bennett. who rang his first peal of Stedman at Ossett for the Queen's homecoming, scored it at the 15th attempt.

Mr. George Bennett, for many years captain at Ossett, Yorkshire, has died. He was remembered when local ringers rang a peal of Stedman Caters for the Queen's homecoming.

The late Mr. Francis G. Gleaves, whose obituary was reported in our last issue, rang 147 peals for the Ely Diocesan Association, and not 14 as stated. The error is regretted.

Two peals of Stedman were attempted in Cambridge on May 15th, one for the University Guild which, unfortunately, came to grief, and in the evening the attempt at Bourn, which was successful.

Mr. E. Alex Young entered his 90th year on May 22nd. His letter to the Editor was accompanied by a sketch of a Japanese pagoda to illustrate an architectural point. At Newcastle this week-end we are sure he will be remembered.

Peals at Weybridge (Surrey) are few and far between. The peal there on May 15th was the first since 1925, and the last peal of Major was rung there in 1875, reports the conductor, Mr. A. Patrick Cannon. A member of the band was Mr. Alfred H. Winch, who went to school at Weybridge and has been waiting over 50 years to ring a peal on the bells.

At Llanfrechfa, Monmouth, the vicar and his curate rang in the peal for the Queen's safe return . Is this the first time that a vicar and his assistant priest have rung in a peal? It is certainly the first time in the history of the Llandaff and Monmouth Diocesan Association.

There were six first peal of Triples in the homecoming peal at Fairford, Glos.

Shirley Surprise is Tipler's D54/1. It was rung at Shirley, Birmingham, for the first time on May 13th.

Mr. Harry J. Millatt is 'The Ringing World' representative for North-East Essex, and not Mr. Oliver as was previously stated in this column.

An unusual start to peal ringing was the performance of 18-year-old James Phillips. He rang the 48-cwt. tenor of Southwark Cathedral. to a peal of Stedman Cinques. In the conductor's words, 'He made a very good job of it.'

Two promising youngsters, Anthony Pluck and George Fry, rang their first peal in their own tower, East Peckham, for the 'welcome home.' The peal was organised by Mr. Luther J. Honess, who previously had rung a quarter at Barming and at Hadlow.

Norman Mallett, of No. 6 R.A.S.L.S., Royal Engineers, R.A.F., Wyton, Huntingdon, is endeavouring to arrange a peal attempt by members serving in H.M. Forces, to take place in the Cambridgeshire area during July. Those interested are invited to contact him as soon as possible.

When Warley ringers had their first outing on May 22nd they toured East and South-East Leicestershire. They raised Arnesby bells for the first time in three years! Although not in the best order, touches of Grandsire and Stedman Doubles were rung. Other towers visited were Thurnby, Billesdon, Hallaton, Medbourne and Illeston.

AFTER 40 YEARS THE CENTRAL COUNCIL VISIT NEWCASTLE

MAMMOTH RINGING PROGRAMME COUPLED WITH WARM FRIENDSHIP AWAITS VISITORS

IT was the eighth Council that visited Newcastle-upon-Tyne in June, 1913, for the 23rd annual meeting. Now the time draws very near for the visit of a new Council, the 22nd—for Newcastle-upon-Tyne in 1954 takes a year that used to be the London year—and preparations for the 57th annual meeting approach completion. To use a well-worn expression, 'much water has flowed under the bridges' since then. Over the Tyne an additional bridge has been built in the interval, but it is believed that the main concern has been the traffic that would flow over it rather than the water that would flow underneath it!

The interval of 40 years has seen very many changes with the upheavals wrought by two world wars, and most of those who formed the eighth Council must by now have passed on. Many would doubtless fall in the Great War of 1914-18, which exacted a heavy toll of ringers in general and the Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association in particular, as can be gauged from the 41 names inscribed on the Association War Memorial in Newcastle Cathedral. Happily, when, in 1952, the additional tablet was erected for 1939-45 there were only ten names to be inscribed.

The writer was not born in those far-off days and so he is unable to indulge in any comparisons of 1913 with 1954. There will be others who can, but their age will probably cause them to become nostalgic, shake their heads and bemoan the fact that 'things are not what they were.' What impressions were left by Newcastle on the eighth Council are history, and our concern has been to try to make the visit of the 22nd Council a favourable and pleasant one, and some last-minute notes for the guidance of visitors may serve to assist in attaining that objective.

The ringing and sight-seeing trips have now been definitely fixed and all those who made inquiries or applications will have received an individual communication with the programme and booking slip. There may yet be some who, at the last moment, find that they could participate and it may be possible to accommodate them after arrival in Newcastle. Motorists who wish to accompany the bus will be welcome, but meals for them can be booked only with advance payment.

HADRIAN'S WALL

On Whit Sunday, leaving Newcastle after lunch, the route lies westward, following the military road and providing glimpses of Hadrian's Wall, built to keep out the invading Picts and Scots. The hopes of ringing at Hexham Abbey have not been fulfilled as service and baptisms clash with the time that had been selected. Rather than miss the scenic beauty on this route, afternoon ringing has been sacrificed and the route extended slightly to provide more interest including a closer inspection of part of the Wall, if time and weather permit. Rothbury provides a convenient place for tea before ringing for Evensong at the Parish Church. The County Hotel, where high tea has been arranged, provides an excellent view. At Morpeth the bells hang in the Watch Tower and give rise to the couplet:—

'Hast' not seen the Morpeth wonder
Church and Steeple a mile asunder?'

The bells were recast and rehung by the citizens in commemoration of the Festival of Britain. The A1 road leads back to Newcastle, with the vast Town Moor between Gosforth and Newcastle, rather quieter at the beginning of June than it will be at the end.

Whit Monday will see the bus head westwards again but forking left at Heddon to pass through Corbridge and there cross the Tyne to reach Hexham. Hexham is a very pleasant market town and its Abbey contains much of interest. The first ringing of the day takes place there. An attractive moorland run lies ahead before Stanhope is reached for lunch at the Phœnix Hotel. The scenery changes and it is in a softer countryside that Barnard Castle and Staindrop provide further ringing.

DURHAM CATHEDRAL

It is not long then before the industrial area is entered again but a visit to the north-east would not be complete without a visit to Durham Cathedral. Many will doubtless have seen the Cathedral dominating the Durham scene as they passed northwards by road or rail on the journey up. One cannot do justice to it in a few sentences and so it is left with just the assurance that it will not disappoint the visitor—unless perhaps he judges it solely by its bells! From the Cathedral of the present one passes to the Cathedral of the past, for Chester-le-Street held that proud position before Durham for over 100 years from 883, while the body of St. Cuthbert rested there. In contrast to Durham, Chester-le-Street will not disappoint, even if judged solely on its bells! The second ring only to be hung on ball bearings, the back six remain untouched by the bellfounder since 1911. As on Sunday, the journey to Newcastle ends on A1, but this time from the south.

The ringing programme as published does not take in all the bells in the area by any means. To publish details of all the towers that have so generously been placed at our disposal would give a much longer list, but the result might well be chaos. When four or five towers are open simultaneously it can quite easily happen that 30 or 40 ringers can be dispersed over the area with no complete band at a single church. Towers outside the programme lie at greater distances from Newcastle, and those interested in special towers should contact Mr. K. Arthur, 29, Cherryburn Gardens, Newcastle 4, but in seeking to make arrangements they should themselves ensure sufficient for a band.

THE PRESIDENT'S WELCOME

It is an added privilege to my being President of my Association this year in that I have the honour and great pleasure of bidding welcome to the Central Council.

In Newcastle-upon-Tyne they will find a city of classic lines and dignified architecture, and full of a busy, friendly people; while in the surrounding counties of Northumberland and Durham they will find, I am sure, many pleasant surprises.

Too much emphasis is often placed on the pit villages and the bleak moorlands, but there are very many spots in both counties as rich and splendid as anywhere in the country. The northern scene is prodigal in historic monuments, and mighty glories like Durham Cathedral and Alnwick Castle remain in the mind for ever.

But it is in our welcome that we hope to shine most, and we look forward with pleasure to the visit, after so long a while, of the Central Council.

RICHARD A. GOFTON,
President, Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association.

Information on how to get to the various towers will be available at headquarters, where a room has been set aside for the Council's use, but a few explanatory notes may be helpful here.

Ringing on Saturday may be had continually from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. except for the lunch break of two hours. For those newly arrived in the city, the Cathedral, St. Stephen's, St. John's and Gateshead are within a few minutes of the Central Station. For those already booked in a convenient tour can be made to take in Gosforth, Fenham and Benwell before returning to the city centre, where the final ringing is convenient for headquarters.

SUNDAY'S PROGRAMME

The service ringing on Sunday that is listed is practically all at churches where the local band will be able to accommodate even the odd visitor with change ringing. Sunday afternoon provides one of only two opportunities to ring at Durham Cathedral. Visitors should note that access to the tower is gained from the south transept and they should be there at 2.20 p.m. or 2.45 p.m. Chester-le-Street can be taken in on the return journey. Those interested in the seaside may care to visit South Shields from 9 to 9.30 a.m. and then cross the ferry to call at North Shields or Whitley Bay.

Monday presents some problems as many local ringers will be on annual outings and therefore out of the district. The ringing has consequently been planned only on a limited scale and for the most part takes place at those towers handy for the Central Station and new arrivals. Tuesday's ringing, following the civic reception, takes place at the central churches only.

At the time of writing it seems likely that peals will be attempted at Stockton, Sunderland and North Shields.

Well, there it is. The programme has been drawn up and we now await the guests. We hope that your visit will be a pleasant one and you will receive a welcome not only from fellow ringers but from the Church and the Civic Authority as well, for the Bishop of Newcastle and the Lord Mayor have promised to attend. Welcome then to Newcastle-upon-Tyne at Whitsun, 1954.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Extract from 'The Ringing World' June 5th, 1914

HERE AND THERE

TOUCHES FROM ACROSS THE ATLANTIC

Although the doings of the ringers in Vancouver, British Columbia, have not been much heard of lately, the band is still, we hear, practising with more or less regularity, and we record with pleasure a quarter peal of Bob Major rung at the Pro-Cathedral on March 1st for evening service by: A. C. Limpus 1, W. Judd 2, R. J. Carrier 3, F. Taylor 4, J. G. Pearce 5, M. Bennett 6, A. Thomson 7, G. W. Foster (conductor) 8. On March 8th, for evening service, 504 Stedman Triples was rung. Another 504 in the same method was rung on St. Patrick's Day, as well as 168 on handbells, the latter by G. Foster 1-2, R. J. Carrier 3-4, J. G. Pearce 5-6, A. C. Limpus 7-8, and another 168 with F. Taylor ringing 3-4.

AT BOSTON

On the other side of the Continent the Boston Guild rang 720 Grandsire Doubles at the Perkins Institute, Watertown: P. J. Allfrey 1, George Moore 2, Gordon Mackman 3, E. E. Randall 4, William Bashford 5, Richard Newton 6.

THE LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION

Membership of 1,596 Reported

THE Lancashire Association held their annual meeting at Wigan on Saturday, April 24th. The day commenced with ringing in the early afternoon at the Parish Church of All Saints and at St. James', Poolstock. At 4 p.m. the ringers and friends congregated at All Saints', where a short service was held. The preacher was the Rev. F. L. M. Bennett, Rector of Wigan, and before commencing his sermon he welcomed the ringers and friends to Wigan.

Approximately 180 people attended the meeting held in the National Blue Coat School. The president, the Rev. St. John Smith, took the chair and the meeting opened with apologies from several members followed by the minutes of the last annual meeting. Arising out of the minutes, it was reported that no communication had been received from Garstang Church, and this tower would now be included in the Fylde Branch.

The following officers were appointed for 1954-56:—Vice-president, Mr. E. R. Martin; auditor, Mr. E. C. Birkett; Central Council representatives, Mr. F. Dunkerley, the Rev. R. D. St. John Smith, Mr. A. Tomlinson and Mr. J. Ridyard; general secretary, Mr. F. Dunkerley.

MR. PETER CROOK'S SUCCESS

In the committee's report, read by the secretary, members were informed of the cancellation of the arrangements for the annual dinner due to lack of support. Members were also informed that the committee had accepted, with regret, the resignation of Mr. Sandiford as treasurer and Mr. F. Dunkerley as ringing secretary when the positions become due for election next October. The committee were pleased to inform the members, however, that Mr. Peter Crook sen. and Mr. Stephen Ll. Parry were willing to allow their names to go forward as nominees for the respective posts. The services of Mr. Peter Crook sen. were recorded. Mr. Crook has recently retired from the post of secretary of the Bolton Branch, a position he has held for 25 years.

The meeting stood in silence as a mark of respect to the six members who had passed away during the year.

During the year 83 new members joined the Association, making a total membership of 1,596 made up of 65 honorary life members, 507 non-resident members and 1,024 ringing members.

PEAL TOPICS

The attention of members was drawn to the fact that a few peals had been rung in which one or more of the ringers were in arrears with their subscriptions. The committee appealed to these members to amend their ways in fairness to the other members of the bands.

The ringing secretary reported that 136 peals had been rung during the year, including the following 'first peals in the method':—Verulam, Langley, Watford and Ealing Surprise Major and Langley Surprise Royal, all conducted by Mr. J. Ridyard, also Southgate Surprise Major conducted by Mr. E. Jenkins. Many members rang their first peal, and two members their 'first as conductor.' Mr. A. Tomlinson again heads the list of conductors with 15 peals, whilst Mr. J. Ridyard conducted 14 peals.

Mr. Sandiford, the treasurer, read the balance sheet, which showed the Association to be in a very healthy state financially. He hoped it would be kept so and stated that in his opinion the balance should be maintained.

A proposed alteration to Rule 7c by the Liverpool Branch, altering the system of ballot for the election of officers was rejected after discussion. An additional Rule proposed by the committee, that the president and general secretary shall appoint a scrutineer after nominations have been received, was accepted unanimously.

MEMBERSHIP SCROLLS

Under any other business it was decided to have membership forms printed to be issued by the Branch secretaries. It was also decided that the general secretary should issue to each new member, free of charge, a membership scroll. These membership scrolls to be obtainable for existing members on application to the general secretary at a cost of one shilling, this procedure to continue until the stock of approximately 900 is exhausted.

It was arranged to hold the next annual meeting at Bolton.

The secretary reminded members that the half-yearly meeting would be held at Southport on October 9th.

The meeting closed with a vote of thanks, moved by the president (the Rev. R. D. St. John Smith) and seconded by Mr. E. R. Martin, to the Rector (the Rev. F. L. M. Bennett), the organist, Wigan Branch secretary (Mr. Farrimond) and the tower captains and local ringers.

IRISH ASSOCIATION

The Gabriel Lindoff Cup

The annual meeting of the Eastern District, Irish Association, was held in Drogheda on Easter Monday.

The contest for the Gabriel Lindoff Cup resulted in the trophy being awarded to St. John's, O.S.A., Dublin, who now have their name on the Association trophy for the first time. The standard of striking was high, in the words of the judge, Dr. Stan Darmon, only 146 faults having been incurred.

The election of officers resulted as follows: Chairman, James MacManus (re-elected); treasurer, William D. Graham; secretary, Mrs. F. E. Dukes, 26, William Street, Drogheda; Ringing Master, Mrs. S. E. Darmno.

A resolution in condemnation of recorded bells was accepted by the meeting and sent to the Executive Council for discussion and approval.

The place of the next annual meeting was decided for Arklow, with interim meetings at Bray and Blessington.

ST. MARGARET'S, LEICESTER, VISIT CHESTER

Some 40 ringers and friends of St. Margaret's, from the Cathedral, All Saints', St. John's, Syston, Wigston, etc., had a most delightful day on Saturday, May 8th. Starting from the church punctually at 8 a.m. the first call was at Tamworth, whose glorious church has the only double stairway in England where any two persons starting at the bottom (one inside and one outside) would not see each other again till the top of the tower was reached! Here the fine octave was rung to various methods to give everyone a chance.

To Lichfield for a short break to visit the Cathedral, etc., and thence to Stafford, where the central tower is square and then an octagon. After viewing the old ringers' leather jack, the ancient font and other treasures, the party traversed the curious ascent up spiral stairways and along tunnels in the thickness of the walls. The ten bells were rung for an hour.

Then on to Chester and after a grand tea the party was welcomed at the Cathedral. Here again the ascent to the belfry is somewhat involved. One begins at the Abbey Gate, thence through the cloisters and chapter house, up a long spiral in the transept and walks along the narrow ledge above the triforium with more steps to the belfry.

The return home, with a brief stop at Ripley, was a delightful run, and in such ideal weather it was deemed yet another 'of the best' and makes one impatient for the next year's 'do.'

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

BOB TRIPLES

Dear Sir,—I understand that the question of Plain Bob on odd numbers is to be brought up at the next Council meeting and that some peals of Bob Triples, etc., rung last year, Coronation Year, may not be accepted under a rule dating back to 1927. Bob Triples has been rung and accepted from this District in 1951-2.

It the member of the Council who has dug this rule up was a member in 1951-2, which he must have been, as this year is a new Council, he is as guilty of breaking the rule as those of us who have rung them, because he has allowed peals to be accepted which he knew were a breach of the rules.

If Plain Bob on odd numbers is to be barred I suggest it should start from 1955, to be fair to the youngsters.

May I add that we do not ring Bob Triples for the sake of ringing it, but as a stepping stone from Minor to Major. Those who have to teach learners and not get ringers ready-made, will appreciate this point.—Yours sincerely,

EDWIN G. BUCK.

Baldock, Herts.

THE ADVANCED BEGINNER

Dear Sir,—There must be a large number of ringers who, after reading Mr. Hazell's letter in 'The Ringing World,' are, like myself, feeling suitably humble this week-end. I had imagined that anyone capable of ringing Stedman and Grandsire Triples, Bob Major, etc. (the etc. presumably including Caters, Cinques, Double Norwich and Treble Bob), had left behind the chrysalis stage of the art.

I feel sure, however, that for many of us the greatest shock of this pronouncement will be the necessity of revising our estimates of many of the giants of the Exercise, to whom in the past we had looked up, and whose feats we attempted, with, however, little success, to emulate. Many of them had never struck a blow in Surprise methods, but were masters of the advanced beginners' syllabus enumerated above.

At the same time it would be interesting if an analysis could be made of the number of Surprise peals attempted in relation to those achieved, as against peals of Stedman Triples attempted and those brought round. I imagine the Surprise methods would have an overwhelming preponderance, which would express more than I can hope to condense into a short letter.—Yours faithfully,

A. R. POYNTZ.

Shaldon, S. Devon.

A HAMPSHIRE EXAMPLE

Dear Sir,—The Wolverton (Hants) band appears among those ringing quarter peals for the Queen's homecoming. This band was noticed some years ago for the youngness of its members, and ever since the bells were released it has played its part in opening and building up a new chapter in church bell ringing.

Its continued success is built on two simple but sure foundations: (a) Every ringer attends the service to which he or she has called others; (b) the younger the better. This 'method' is spreading rapidly. It calls for immense patience and perseverance in the captain, but it is a great source of strength to the parish that has it, and it spreads the knowledge and practice both of worship and change ringing where it is most valuable—among the young.

CLERICAL RINGERS OF TO-DAY

Dear Sir,—In 1952, under the heading of 'Forty Years Ago,' you reported the peal of Superlative rung by a band of clerical ringers in 1912, and suggested that the ringing clergy of to-day would find it difficult to repeat that performance. This passed unchallenged in spite of the fact that in 1949 the Guild of Clerical Ringers had rung a peal of Cambridge.

Now, in a footnote to a report of the activities of the ringing clergy in 1913, you write: 'The clerical members of the Exercise at the present day would—unfortunately—have difficulty in equalling these performances.' This time I do not propose to permit your implication of the degeneration of clerical ringers to pass unchallenged, and would point out that the rare appearances of the clergy in peals is due to neither lack of ability nor lack of interest, but to lack of time, which is due to the increasing complexity of parochial life and to the grave shortage of clergy throughout the country.

I would suggest that in such men at the Revs. C. E. Wigg, K. W. H. Felstead and M. C. C. Melville we have ringers who, given the opportunity, would be fully capable of equalling or excelling the performances of any of those mentioned in your 1913 list.

THE SHERWOOD YOUTHS

Dear Sir,—A young inquirer recently asked me who are the Sherwood Youths. I was able to tell him that the Society was very ancient, having been founded in 1672 with its headquarters at St. Mary's, Nottingham, and I was also able to tell him of the almost legendary Doubleday Crofts and point out his resting place in the peaceful churchyard below.

This casual inquiry started a train of thought. Is the Society still nominally in existence? Who are the officers and why is not something done by them to revive this once flourishing Society with its great tradition of ringing going back through the centuries?

Who has the custody of the Society's records—its priceless peal books, its minutes of bygone days?

Surely, with such a foundation to build upon, the Society can be revived and given a new lease of life. What a pity if through apathy or inertia the surviving officers and members allow their heritage to lapse until the only evidence of a once great institution is the mouldering peal boards in St. Mary's Parish Church.

What about it, Nottingham?—Yours faithfully.

NO 'PRESS GANG' METHODS

Dear Sir,—By his letter I gather that Mr. H. J. Hazell understands the bulk of the contents of 'The Ringing World.' This being the case, wouldn't it be a fine idea to educate the beginners into reading and understanding it also?

By all means induce the beginner to subscribe, but no 'press gangs,' please. Speaking as a beginner who has had every conceivable form of encouragement, I say ring your peals and quarters, show them their names in print, and very soon they will be almost clamouring for 'The Ringing World,' either to paste the cuttings into their scrap book, as do I, or at least read with pride their achievements. — Yours sincerely.

THE ROYAL HOMECOMING

AT SOUTHWARK CATHEDRAL

On April 21st at the conclusion of the weekly practice Southwark Cathedral's 12 were rung to Queens and 'fired' as a birthday greeting to our Queen. This was a curtain raiser to May 15th, when 18 of the regular Cathedral ringers assembled to greet the Queen's homecoming. Some 15 visitors had taken their stand on top of the tower when the Tower Bridge opened, and shortly after the bells were up in Queens, and as the Royal yacht tied up were 'fired' in three bursts, followed by further Queens till 1.45.

A break for refreshments (and some rearrangements so that all had a chance in the day's ringing) and the 12 were going again in Queens and as the Royal yacht shot London Bridge the Queen was saluted by three prolonged bursts of 'firing.' Ringing continued till 3.45. Those present were Jeanne Pilkington, J. Robinson, J. Phillips, C. Rew, Mr. and Mrs. Brattley, T. Farmer, C. H. Meers, J. Waugh, Lord Wrenbury, A. C. Winn, Maureen Massam, Shirley Batten, K. Cherril, Benedicta Whistler, A. Ward, R. Williams and K. Hayles.

PLYMOUTH'S GREETINGS

To celebrate the safe return of H.M. Queen Elizabeth II. on May 15th Plymouth St. Andrew's bells were rung at intervals between 2.45 and 4.45 p.m. to the following touches:—720 Plain Bob Minor: C. Holmes 1, H. W. Milford 2, T. G. Myers (conductor) 3, S. O'Shaughnessy 4, W. J. Harvey 5, R. A. Southwood 6, R Wood 7 (tenor behind); 336 Plain Bob Major and three courses Grandsire Caters, Messrs. H. F. Myers, A. Mitchelmore and D. F. Wheeler completing the band. Rounds on ten were rung for a visiting ringer from Tintagel, in Cornwall, it being his first ring on ten.

THREE MINUTES' INTERLUDE AT EVERCREECH

A touch of Grandsire Triples was in progress at Evercreech, Somerset, when the rope of the fifth broke just below the sally, the bell setting at backstroke. With only a moment's hesitation, the ringer, who happened to be the conductor and steeple-keeper, called the bells to ring rounds. He nipped smartly up to the next floor, spliced the rope in under three minutes, adjusted the rope, dropped it back through the floor and went down and carried on with the ringing. While this was happening one of the youngsters had taken charge and called the bells to ring a few call changes so that the missing bell passed unnoticed, especially as the ringing had been with 9, 8, 10 covering.

PORTSMOUTH'S WELCOME

During the passage of the 'Britannia' through the Solent and Spithead a quarter peal of Stedman was rung at Portsmouth Cathedral. As the tower is close to the sea and the wind was off-shore, it is quite possible that they were heard by those on deck. The next day a peal of Yorkshire Surprise Major was rung on these bells and later in the day a peal of London Surprise Major at St. Mary's, Portsea. By a coincidence this is the first occasion that peals on these two rings in the city of Portsmouth have been rung on the same day

A meritorious performance was the quarter peal at Twickenham, where, except for the conductor, all the ringers only commenced to ring when the bells were installed in the tower just over three years ago. There were seven 'first' quarter peals.

Another encouraging performance was the peal of Grandsire Doubles at Widcombe, Bath. Here the conductor had four first peals and one first 'inside' in his band.

EASTER MONDAY IN SOUTH DEVON

A small party of ringers spent Easter Monday enjoying a six bells outing arranged by Mr. Wilf Panter, organised with his usual efficiency, but this year omitting his famous 'Trials Section.'

First tower was Halwell (14 cwt.); then on to East Allington, where, however, no ringing could take place owing to a death. A local ringer suggested Sherford (12 cwt.), where permission to ring was readily given, together with an invitation to come again. The last tower before lunch was Charleton (12 cwt.). Before ringing at Churchstow (16 cwt.) a good meal was enjoyed at the old-world Church Inn. Ringing at Thurlestone (12¾ cwt.) had to be curtailed as the local captain had not been acquainted of the party's visit and there was a long delay whilst he was fetched from a local football match.

Before a sumptuous tea at Hope Cove, two more towers were visited, South Milton (12 cwt.) and Galmpton (6 cwt.). After ringing at Marlborough (11 cwt.), the last and perhaps the best bells of the day, the members of the party dispersed for their homeward journeys.

PRESENTATION TO MR. ALBERT CRAWLEY

A presentation was made during evensong on May 16th at Wistaston, Cheshire, to Mr. Albert Crawley to mark his retirement from the position of captain of the tower.

The Rector, the Rev. G. M. Morgan-Wynne, paid tribute to Mr. Crawley's work and said how sorry the parish was that ill-health had forced him to resign and leave the district after 30 years as head ringer.

His presence will be missed, not only at Wistaston, but at many other towers, particularly those in the Crewe Branch of the Chester Diocesan Guild, where he was a regular attender at meetings.

It is interesting to note that Mr. Crawley has taken part in every one of the 76 peals which have been rung at Wistaston. One of these, which he conducted, was the 2,000th peal for the Chester Guild. J. D. S.

THE RINGING WORLD

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

No. 2253 Vol. L. FRIDAY, JUNE 11, 1954 Registered at the G.P.O. for transmission as a newspaper 4d.

THE BELLS OF THE LAKE DISTRICT

TO many ringers a cursory glance at an inventory of the ringing towers of the Lake District would suggest that it is an area of little interest to all but the keenest traveller in search of bells and the enjoyment to be obtained from a ringing tour. Whilst admitting that the towers with rings of bells are widely scattered, especially when compared with areas in the Midlands and the South of England, it is true to say that the Lake District can offer an interesting diversion to the ringer who enjoys a combination of good bells, interesting architecture and magnificent scenery. This article is designed to outline the facilities offered by the area, which embraces a part of three counties —Cumberland, Westmorland and North Lancashire; and to kindle a flame of adventure in the hearts of those ringers whose holidays are never complete without some fresh experience in the exercise of their noble art.

The three main points of entry into the district are through Kendal, which boasts the heavier of the two rings of ten (tenor 24 cwt.): Penrith, with a ring of eight of fine tone and easy 'go' (18 cwt.): or through the cathedral city of Carlisle. The latter has two rings of eight, one at the Cathedral (20½ cwt.), and the other at St. Stephen's, where the bellfounder could make a considerable improvement.

From Kendal, a town of solid appearance with its clean stone buildings, we can strike directly into the heart of the Lake District, via the quiet village of Crosthwaite (6, 10¾ cwt.), to Bowness on the eastern shore of Lake Windermere. St. Martin's Church, with its pleasant ring of eight (12¼ cwt.), is a joy to behold; its old foundation and tradition being illustrated in the fine east window and on the interior walls. When the eight bells of St. Mary's, Ambleside, are ringing again, as we trust they soon will be when restoration of the tower is completed this summer, the heavy bell men will be able to sample its 32¾ cwt. tenor. A pleasant diversion should be made here to Hawkshead, the scene of Wordsworth's schooldays, and where the Vicarage is held by the Bishop of Penrith. Here the six bells (11 cwt.) are rung from the ground floor of the church, which is set up on a hill overlooking the village. Before going north to join the Penrith route at Keswick, we can wend our way between the foothills of the Langdale Pikes to Great Langdale, where Holy Trinity Church holds a ring of six (10 cwt.).

Thence, over Dunmail Raise, along the shore of Thirlmere, and beneath the towering ridge of Helvellyn to Keswick, to St. Kentigern, Crosthwaite. This fine church is full of history, with its foundation way back in the 6th century, and has a grand ring of eight (14¼ cwt.) with a long draught to trap the unwary. Striking westward to Cockermouth, where the eight are unfortunately not in ringable condition, we can turn aside to the village of Bridekirk with its six (12 cwt.). It is here that those who have travelled from Carlisle via the six at Thursby (7 cwt.) and the eight at Aspatria (14 cwt.) will join the route, which now travels south between the hills and the sea. This coastal trip is a great contrast, presenting industry old and new—coal and iron ore mining and the Windscale atomic factory—the busy coastal towns of Workington and Whitehaven, and the rich, peaceful countryside around the coastal lakes.

Our first tower is St. Michael's, Workington (8, 11¼ cwt.), with a largely self-taught band of young ringers, and on to Hensingham (8, 13½ cwt.), passing above the port of Whitehaven. The old Priory of St. Bees, with the well-known school opposite, presents a quaint picture as we wind our way through the narrow streets. Here the recently rehung eight (13½ cwt.) are a joy to listen to from the spacious ringing chamber. We leave the village by the hill and the coast road, making for the township of Egremont, where there is a pleasant ring of eight (13½ cwt.) hung in the red brick tower of St. Mary's Church. On our way south we turn aside at the village of Holmrook to the isolated Church of St. Paul, Irton. Here the eight (16 cwt.) are ringable again, and the setting of the church, with its glorious view up the Wasdale valley, is one of unsurpassed peace and beauty. At the tip of the coastal strip we visit the six (13 cwt.) at St. George's, Millom, before making our exit through the more industrial area of the Furness district of Lancashire.

On the way we should visit Broughton, with another recently rehung eight (10 cwt.); St. James', Barrow (8, 15¾ cwt.); the second ring of ten at Dalton (21¼ cwt.); the pleasant six at Ulverston (10 cwt.), with its spotless ringing room; and finally the two six-bell towers of Cartmel Priory (15 cwt.), and Flookburgh (17 cwt.).

So our route has encircled the glorious countryside, making, here and there, inroads into the majestic hills, winding peacefully alongside the quiet lakes, with the bells pealing out over town and country village, city and hamlet: all telling the message of the glory of the Creator of the surrounding beauty. If I have inspired some to pay us a visit, be it long or short, I shall be satisfied—knowing that having once tasted of the fruit they will return for more. A. R. AGG.

GILLETT
AND
LIMITED

No matter in which corner of the country you happen to be, as likely as not you will come across Gillett & Johnston bells or tower clocks. Gillett & Johnston craftsmanship is embodied in an all-embracing service — as much in the preservation and restoration of old rings of antiquarian interest as in the installation of new.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Mr. John A. Acres, of Leicester, rang his 100th peal in the past 12 months on May 23rd. He extends his thanks to Mr. Harold J. Poole and members of the Leicester Cathedral band for advancing his proficiency in Surprise ringing and allowing him to take part in so many peals.

The University of Bristol Society commemorated the seventh anniversary of its first peal by a peal at St. Michael-on-the-Mount-Without, Bristol. It was the Society's 25th peal.

It was five and not four of the band who rang at St. Peter's, Mancroft, and also rang at King's Lynn. Our apologies to the Rev. Gilbert Thurlow for the omission.

Mr. Harry J. Millatt will remember May 15th. He shepherded four ringers through their first peal at the Church of St. Leonard-at-the-Hythe, Colchester.

'Ringing World' representatives:—Mr. G. W. Seaman, 5, Richmond Drive, Watford, Watford District Representative; Mr. Cecil Ebberson, Snettisham, King's Lynn, Western Branch, Norwich Diocesan Association.

At Bowdon, Cheshire, a peal on the day of the Queen's return could not be arranged, so at the Vicar's request it was rung on May 18th. The day coincided with Miss Ruth Jackson's birthday, and the peal enabled Mr. C. K. Lewis to 'circle' the tower.

A fortnight ago we reported how the Barnsley District honoured Mr. H. Rowley's completion of 65 years as a regular Sunday service ringer at Horbury. Mr. Rowley's first peal, which was rung on January 7th, 1894, was repeated in its entirety and took exactly the same time to perform. Of this peal (Treble Bob Minor in seven methods), which Mr. Rowley called, the only other survivor is Mr. Alfred Yelland.

Since the publication of the Rev. K. W. H. Felstead's article on 'The Bells of Bedfordshire,' a peal has been rung on one of the peal-less towers. This was at Upper Gravenhurst. The conductor reports that the bells 'go' well but are not often rung. They do not seem to be tuned to the major scale, though the third (a Chandler bell) is not quite flat enough to qualify for a genuine minor five.

The peal at Allensmore, Herefordshire, was the first by the resident Sunday service band since 1939.

The peal at Kelvedon, Essex, was by the Sunday service band, and that at Thorverton, Devon, the first by an all-local band.

By ringing the treble to the peal of Minor at Ibstock, Mr. A. R Tonks has now completed the circle at this tower.

Miss B. Wright, who rang her first peal at Coseley on May 15th, is the youngest ringer to score a peal on these bells. She recently passed her 16th birthday.

Mr. Charles Sanders, who has been a Sunday service ringer at Syston, Leics, for 40 years, rang his first peal on May 15th. It was also his 28th wedding anniversary.

A suggestion is made that the bells at Foots Cray, where a peal has just been rung, are the lightest five in the world, as the tenor weighs 3 cwt. 1 qr. and the treble 1 cwt. 1 qr. 26 lb. Mr. Peter Bond reports that the bells, which were rehung and restored by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston in 1951, now go very well, although ringing is not easy, as the bells are rung from the middle of the nave, some of the ringers having to stand in the pews to ring. The small wooden bell-turret, supported on great oak posts inside the nave, has also been restored and strengthened, and tower movement is now practically negligible.

THE LEICESTER DIOCESAN GUILD

RESPONSIBILITY OF ADVANCED PEAL RINGERS TO LEARNERS — PRESIDENT'S APPEAL

THE annual general meeting, held, as usual, at Leicester, on April 24th, was well attended, the number present being over the average. Following the afternoon's ringing on the eight, ten and two twelves available, a service conducted by the Succentor, the Rev. A. A. Lander, was held in the Cathedral. The lesson was read by the president, Mr. H. J. Poole, and the address, much appreciated, was given by Assistant Bishop the Rt. Rev. H. A. Maxwell.

Tea in the Little Theatre having been suitably dealt with, the president, Mr. H. J. Poole, introduced the clergy present, expressing the pleasure of the Guild in meeting them. The Lord Bishop had regretted that owing to a previous engagement he had been unable to be present, but hoped to attend future meetings. Mr. Poole thanked the Assistant Bishop for his delightful sermon, to which the Bishop suitably responded.

The Ven. W. C. Lyon, until recently Archdeacon of Loughborough, spoke of his great affection for the church bells and for the ringers.

ARCHDEACON PRAISES RINGERS

The new Archdeacon of Loughborough, the Ven. R. B. Cole, also spoke of ringers and church towers. He knew of the enthusiasm of ringers and their readiness to report anything amiss with bells or towers. He thought that ringers carried out this part of their duties in a most efficient manner—if one could judge by the number of towers to be seen 'in splints.'

The Succentor also spoke, remarking how well the service had been attended.

For the business the chair was taken by the president, who was supported by the general officers of the Guild. In his opening remarks Mr. Poole spoke of the very gratifying support he and the other officers had received and, thanks to all—officers and members— the past year had been successful and quite up to previous years. The Coronation had given ringers the opportunity of expressing their loyalty and, he felt, the Guild ringers had made their presence felt both in city and county.

The news that the bells of St. John-the-Divine, in Leicester, had been saved was most welcome. They had been perilously near to losing both church and bells but, fortunately, the new Lord Bishop, as one of his first acts, had ruled against the proposal, at least for a time. It was hoped that the proposal to demolish would be postponed indefinitely. They should be very grateful to the Bishop for his action.

HELP LEARNERS

Mr. Poole suggested that some District meetings could be better attended. It was very discouraging for the District officers to arrange these meetings and the service, which was part of the meeting, and then find attendance poor. It was quite wrong for ringers who had attained the ability to ring the higher methods to refrain from ringing the humbler methods, and so denying to learners the opportunity to improve their ringing. Mr. Poole appealed to all ringers to support their own District meetings.

The minutes of the last annual meeting were read and approved. There were no matters arising.

Mr. A. E. Rowley, hon. treasurer, presented the year's accounts. He compared the result with previous years saying that, generally, the state of affairs was favourable, the final balance showing £332 17s. 8d. in hand. Mr. Rowley said that as only about one-third of the badges had been sold, he much wanted the sales to be increased and so reduce the amount of capital locked up in this item. He moved the adoption of the accounts, Mr. Wykes seconded, and the adoption was carried together with thanks to Mr. A. E. Rowley.

Mr. S. Burton, hon. peal secretary, in his report, said 196 peals had been rung in 1953, of which 179 were on tower bells and 17 on handbells. This total was ten fewer than last year, when 206 peals were rung.

£37 FROM PEAL FEES

The peal fee of sixpence per ringer, instituted in 1953 for the first time, to help towards the cost of printing the report, had brought in a total of £37 12s. 6d. New methods rung for the first time were:—Metropolis Surprise Maximus, Spliced Surprise Maximus in 12 methods and Aylestone Surprise Major.

Peals had been called by 36 different conductors, and among individual performances were 29 who had rung their first peal and 233 their first in the method. There had been two first as conductors and 13 first as conductors in the method. The president, Mr. H. J. Poole, had rung his 1,000th peal and also his 750th as conductor.

Mr. Burton having been thanked for his report and services, the hon. general secretary, Mr. W. A. Wood, then gave his report for 1953.

Meetings in each of the six Districts this year varied in number from eight to thirteen. The average attendance at these meetings also varied from 12 to 35 with an overall average of 30.

The festival dinner at Melton was attended by just over 100 and a good time was enjoyed by all. By holding this function in the Districts an opportunity was afforded many to meet the other members of the Guild and to take part in the Guild's activities, who would otherwise be unable to do so.

The Coronation provided an opportunity for bringing to the notice of the public the activities of the Guild by means of the organised ringing that took place in towns and villages. As a result of the ringing in the city of Leicester and in appreciation of that ringing the Guild received a cheque from the city authorities. This is to be used to assist some church fund in the city.

Grants during the year were made to the bell repair funds of Ashby-de-la-Zouch and Asfordby.

There had been joint meetings held with the M.C.G., the Notts Guild and the Rutland ringers. Dinners and other social functions, as distinct from the festival, had been held in the Melton, Syston and Hinckley Districts. The attendance at the Hinckley dinner was just over 100. Several outings had also been arranged.

MEMBERSHIP

Eighty-seven new members were made during the year and also 17 non-resident members were elected. They had now 14 honorary life members. The total membership was just over 850. Since the formation of the Guild 1,006 new ringing and non-resident members had been elected. Add this number to the number of those transferred from the old Midland Counties Association and they would realise the very large wastage. The General Committee had given this matter much thought and they recommended that a possible remedy would be to try to increase the Guild spirit by various means. It was essential to the life and working of the Guild to stop this drifting away of so many.

The report was received with thanks to Mr. Wood.

THE OFFICERS

The election of general officers was opened by Mr. E. C. Turner, who said that for the first office to be filled, that of president, they could not do better than re-elect Mr. H. J. Poole, who was, without doubt, the best man for the job. The meeting, by acclamation, agreed, and Mr. Poole was declared duly elected.

The president, in returning thanks, said he would do his best for the Guild.

The hon. treasurer (Mr. A. E. Rowley), the hon peal secretary (Mr. S. Barton) and the hon. general secretary (Mr. W. A. Wood) were all re-elected.

Ballot papers were distributed for the election of two vice-presidents, there being four nominations. The result was declared to be the re-election of Mr. P. L. Taylor and Mr. E. C. Turner. Mr. Taylor expressed the thanks of Mr. Turner and of himself.

The election of 19 new resident ringing members and of six non-resident members was duly confirmed.

It was announced that, in addition to towers already mentioned, Great Bowden had been given a grant from the Bell Repair Fund, and that Mr. H. G. Fretwell, of Castle Donnington, had been made an honorary life member.

A proposal to make the date of the annual general meeting for the first Saturday after Easter each year was carried.

A proposal to delete peal fees was withdrawn by the proposer asking leave of the meeting to do so. This met with unanimous approval.

'THE RINGING WORLD'

A long discussion on a letter from Mr. E. A. Barnett on the subject of 'The Ringing World' followed. It was agreed that each District should appoint as their 'Ringing World' representative who would be enthusiastic enough to get around the District contacting towers and urging the sale of the paper. At the same time he would collect and remit local information and matters of interest to a general officer, who, in turn, would be appointed to co-ordinate all efforts and act as correspondent to 'The Ringing World.' It was agreed that Mr. T. G. S. Ellwood should be appointed for this purpose. Mr. Ellwood having signified his willingness to undertake these duties, all District secretaries were asked to communicate the names of those appointed in each District to the hon. general secretary and to Mr. Ellwood.

The Festival was fixed for October 23rd at the Co-operative Assembly Rooms, Uppingham Road, Leicester. Reference was made to the last visit to Leicester of the Central Council in 1912, and that the Council would be invited to visit Leicester, if possible, next year.

On the conclusion of the business meeting a move was made to the Victoria Hotel, where the usual room, equipped as usual with the means of obtaining 'ringers' nectar,' was available until a late hour. Games, dancing, handbell ringing and happy social intercourse made the time go quickly. W. A. W.

THE LADIES' GUILD

South Wales District at Sketty

Despite the rail strike, some 50 ringers enjoyed that 'friendly welcome and generous gossip' that accompanied the quarterly meeting of the South Wales District at Sketty, Swansea, on May 22nd. The service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. Harry Williams), and the tea provided by the Sketty ringers and their friends. Appreciation on behalf of the visitors was expressed by Mr. Ted Coles; Miss Dilys Hulbert (vice-president) thanked the Vicar for his warm welcome, and Miss Jacqueline Evans the gentlemen for their 'supporting presence.'

The following new members were elected, bringing the total membership to 66: Mrs. Thomas and the Misses E. Thomas, M. Thomas and A. Loxton, all of Llangynwyd; Miss A. Mogford, Aberavon; the Misses M. French, C. Davies, Carole Davies, B. Jones and J. Lovat, all of Pentre.

Abergavenny was chosen as the place of the next meeting, with Ebbw Vale as an alternative.

THE MINISTRY GOES WEST AGAIN

By The Rev. GILBERT THURLOW

THIS is not a French newspaper headline, but the record of how the Clerical Guild went west again on April 26th, this time to hold their annual 'week' in South Wales—a district abounding in charm, scenery, people, churches and bells.

The King's Head, Newport, Mon, was the headquarters. On arrival at the first tower, the undersigned found Malcolm Melville preaching to himself in the three-decker pulpit at Nash, a nice little six, which made a pleasant start. Then, after getting settled at the King's Head, we met the kind and friendly band at All Saints', Newport, who were having practice night on their nice eight (tenor 15 cwt.), rehung by Messrs. Taylor and Co. in 1946; here you can spy weddings directly beneath you through a tiny glass window in the floor.

On the 27th we began with Holy Communion, celebrated by Canon Cox, the president, at St. Woolos' Cathedral, Newport. Then to Penhow, a nice six, with a grand fortified manor house (mediæval and Georgian) nearby. At Shirenewton (St. Thomas of Canterbury) the six are not so easy to ring as the sallies hardly rise at handstroke. We arrived at Chepstow in time to ring Stedman and Kent on the fine eight for a wedding—in a once magnificent Norman church.

TEMPTATION!

Lunch was by the ruins of Tintern Abbey, where I think a local paper said we rang. (Henry VIII. stole the bells, and anyhow Cistercian abbeys were not supposed to have towers though some of them transgressed this rule.) Probably we rang change from the local publican; we were also tempted to (w)ring the necks of the tamest hens I have ever met, who shared our picnic lunch, by the Wye. Then to St. Briavel's (8, tenor 12 cwt.), a tower visible for miles as it stands proudly above the Wye: a picturesque castle, now a youth hostel, nearby. Then to the glorious six at Newland (tenor 16 cwt.), 'The Cathedral of the Forest of Dean,' a splendid church with many fine monuments including a mediæval brass of a 'Free Miner' with apron and pick. 'Free Miners' continue to-day, they work an area allocated them from the Queen's land, and they are the only miners not nationalised in this country. Then to Staunton for Cambridge, etc., on a light six in a central tower.

Tea at the Angel, Monmouth, followed by Double Norwich, etc., on the fine eight at St. Mary's, Monmouth; these are all by Rudhall, 1706 (tenor 18¼ cwt.), rehung by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, 1953; Edwin Barnett called the first peal here, 5,040 Grandsire Triples in 2 hours and 59 minutes, on July 1st, 1886. They are supposed to be the bells (recast) which rang in derision as Henry V. sailed from Calais, causing him to turn back and nick them. The day ended with a delightful ring at St. Woolos' Cathedral on the grand twelve (tenor 21 cwt.), the Dean of Monmouth being present; Stedman Caters, Clerical Grandsire, Cinques, etc., went nicely. Thus the planned day finished, but certain clerics in the King's Head cocktail bar stirred such interest that we had to go and ring handbells there, not forgetting to sell a book or so to educate the patrons further.

ROMAN WALES

On the 28th we began with Superlative, etc., at St. Cadoc's, Caerleon, a place of great antiquity, with many traces of the Roman town, including an amphitheatre. This was the headquarters of the Second Legion. Two early Christians who were murdered in the amphitheatre, Saints Julius and Aaron, are pictured in the church's east window, as is St. Gwynllyw, founder of St. Woolos'. Then to St. Cybi's, Llangibby, where Cambridge, etc., were rung on a nice eight; this church has some wall paintings. Then to the fine Priory Church of Usk, with a good Norman tower, formerly central but now 'easterly' with the fall of the choir, containing a grand eight; the organ here came from Llandaff Cathedral.

Lunch at Raglan Castle, one-time home of the fabulously rich Somersets, who gave (or lent?) Charles I. the sum of £900,000 face value in those days! The ruins of their strongroom is in the keep. Then to the grand ten (tenor 25 cwt. in D) at Abergavenny for Bob Royal, etc. On to Ebbw Vale with a really splendid eight (tenor 25 cwt.) for Double Norwich, etc. The unique feature here is the tenor counter fixed up by Brian Price, which electrically records every blow struck by the tenor. On our arrival it registered 0778000 exactly; we worked it up to 0778609—this includes not only changes of course, but every blow, including those by anyone who can't set it. After being photographed in the churchyard, we shared a splendid tea most kindly provided by the ladies of the parish in their hall. Then past the steelworks, etc., to Blaenavon, where Double Norwich, etc., were rung on a nice eight (tenor 9¼ cwt.)

THE ANNUAL MEETING

After dinner, when the Archdeacon of Newport, himself a ringer, dined with us, the annual meeting was held. At this, Canon Cox was unanimously re-elected president, the Rev. J. H. B. Andrews hon. secretary, and, Rule 4 having been altered to permit more than one vice-president, Prebendary Cox was unanimously elected a vice-president in gratitude for his former work as hon. secretary. New members elected included the Archdeacon of Newport and the Dean of St. David's. Prebendary Cox, thanking the Guild for their gift when he relinquished the secretaryship, said that with it he had bought a super wheelbarrow. It was agreed, subject to the hon secretary finding it practicable, to hold the 1955 week at Lynton, April 18th to 23rd, and perhaps to go to Matlock in 1956. Universal gratitude to the Rev. I. J. Richards for his help over this tour.

On the 29th the first tower was Bassaleg, where Cambridge, etc., was rung on six steel bells (tenor 12 cwt.) in St. Basil's Church These resemble the normal bell in appearance but their tone is poor. Then to St. Michael's, Machen. Here the tenor man planted himself against a blackboard for Stedman Triples (8, tenor 15 cwt.) at the conclusion of which he had the last two rows of original Doubles in reverse on his trousers. At Marshfield, where we rang Cambridge Major, the Vicar (the Rev. R. E. L. Jones), a new member, rang with us; here there are a fine Early English door and chancel arch. At Peterstone Wentlogg was another fine church with decorated pillars and arches; a nice eight here. Lunch in a nice pub of considerable antiquity; the Severn flows past a few hundred yards away.

LLANDAFF CATHEDRAL

Then one of the great moments of the tour—Llandaff Cathedral. Here the desolation wrought by a large bomb in 1941 is being gradually and triumphantly overcome. The nave is still without a proper floor or glass in its windows, but first things come first. Worship goes on in the Lady Chapel, where we sang Evensong together, and the bells have been rung during the last five months, the keen beginners being taught by the St. John's town band—how grand to put the bells before the windows, thus demonstrating that Christian triumph means more than physical comfort! Here we rang Stedman Caters and Double Norwich Major on the fine ten and then had tea nearby in the hall.

The Dean, who took tea with us, told us of some of the vicissitudes through which Llandaff Cathedral has passed. Between 1690 and 1850 it was in ruins. No choral services were held in it between 1690 and 1861. Much of the time there were no Dean or Canons, and one Bishop lived in the Lake District. The splendid restoration of 1857 had its results swept away by the bomb of 1941, but now the feeling of triumph is in the air. The nave, already grandly roofed, will, it is hoped, be re-opened in 1955 and completed by 1957 or 1958. New statues in the nave by Epstein ('Our Lord in glory') and Stanley Spencer ('The Resurrection') will result in the Cathedral possessing works of art from every period in its life. A fine choir school—despite the financial robbery of the Welsh Church by Lloyd George—means that the praise of God will continue here when the aforesaid gentleman is forgotten. A bell from the ruined campanile nearby is now Great Peter, at Exeter. The Dean added that the Archbishop of Wales, who, he said, is a ringer, was to have come to tea but was prevented. Then to St. John's, Cardiff, a famous peal-ringing tower, whose grand ten added another memorable name to our list. The evening finished with Llanfrechfa, a pleasant eight in a charming church, and afterwards four members adjourned for a peal attempt on handbells, but after a bit decided to 'call it a day,' being too late at night. This was the only peal attempt on the tour, the rest of the time being spent on the delightful visits above described.

THE RED LIGHT

Clerical weeks must end on Fridays, so on the 30th we began moving east. Four towers in this direction in the morning before we dispersed. A fine central tower at Caldicot, where a tower peal attempt was discussed but not begun owing to time, etc. (8 bells, tenor 13 cwt.). Then to Mathern with a nice six, followed by Tidenham, with another nice six, where the ringers stand round an ancient lead font of typical shape. Finally Lydney, St. Mary's, where Bob Major etc., on a fine eight concluded our activities. Here a red light in the ringing chamber indicates that someone is among the bells. If it goes out it means either that he has left the bell chamber or that the light has failed. So we dispersed, full of gratitude to all those many brother ringers, steeplekeepers, belfry captains and others who had co-operated so splendidly with our hon. secretary and with the Rev. I. J. Richards in making the tour so delightful and successful.

LLANDAFF AND MONMOUTH ASSOCIATION

A meeting of the Llandaff Branch was held on May 8th at Newcastle Church, Bridgend. Fine weather ensured that a good attendance to this meeting could be expected. Fifty-two ringers took the opportunity of ringing on this excellent eight, which were set going early in the afternoon. The service at 4 p.m. was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. Thomas Jones, B.A.), who gave an interesting address on the various uses of bells.

A bounteous tea, which had been provided by the Mothers' Union and the Young Wives' Group, followed in the nearby Church Hall. A vote of thanks in appreciation was given by the Branch Master, Mr. F. Bailey. During the business meeting a letter from Mr. E. A. Barnett, appealing for greater support of 'The Ringing World' was read. It resulted in two towers informing the meeting that they would immediately become postal subscribers instead of obtaining their copies through a newsagent. More support to this can be expected from other members.

Ringing was enjoyed under the capable handling of Mr. D. King, General Master. R. E. C.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

POSTAL SUBSCRIBERS ONLY ADVOCATED

Dear Sir,—Mr. Barnett seems to suggest that losses incurred by 'The Ringing World' were responsible for Mr. Goldsmith's financial difficulties. There is no doubt that 'The Ringing World' never did produce a reward sufficient for the effort put into it, but Mr. Goldsmith's difficulties were more likely due to his personal expenditure exceeding his income, especially towards the end of his life. That 'The Ringing World' was making a profit is indicated by the fact that for several years after his death, when the paper was edited by J. A. Trollope, substantial profits were made.

Reference to the past, however, will not help towards present difficulties and drastic action may be essential before long. A sixpenny paper will not solve the problem if the bulk of the extra 2d. is claimed by middlemen who work on a percentage basis. Postal subscribers are already paying over 5d. per copy and are at present subsidising those who buy from a newsagent. If 'The Ringing World' were supplied only through the post the price might be reduced to £1 per annum and the paper still show a profit. There would, I agree, be a drop in circulation, but before such a course is adopted steps could be taken through the various affiliated societies to ascertain what the effect would be. If ringers want 'The Ringing World,' they will buy it.

Too much reliance should not be placed on the accuracy of the financial results quoted, especially those for 1952 and 1953, before they have been audited, and a comparison between these two years may at this stage be misleading. The Central Council has never yet been presented with audited accounts of 'The Ringing World' for the previous financial year. Is it too much to expect that accounts for the year ended December 31st should be audited in time for the Central Council meeting five months later?—Yours, ERNEST C. S. TURNER.

Stanmore, Middlesex.

BOB DOUBLES FOR THE WINCHESTER GUILD

Dear Sir,—The peal of Bob Doubles rung at Owslebury on May 8th and claimed as first for the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild was not, in fact, so. The first in this method for the Guild was rung on handbells six days earlier. May I, therefore, correct the footnote to 'First on tower bells for Guild' and add that the average age of the band was 16½ years, as was the handbell peals average.—Yours truly, Winchester. J. MICHAEL LAKIN.

POSITION OF CLERICAL RINGERS

Dear Sir,—Your comment that the clerical ringers of to-day cannot equal the performances of their kind forty years ago is, unfortunately, true. There are, however, good reasons not necessarily connected with ringing ability. Owing to the decline in numbers of clergy, the average parson to-day is shouldering, often single-handed, a heavier burden than was formerly the case. Enough vital priestly work has to go undone through simple lack of time or strength, that it is no wonder that many pleasant time-absorbing interests such as ringing can receive little attention. Furthermore, it is astonishing how many of us seem to land up in parishes where there are no bells. In my own case, having succeeded in coming to a parish possessing a ring of eight, I find myself in charge of a smaller church with only one.

I am sure the innate ability to equal the achievements of those of former years is not lacking in the clerical ringers of to-day, but simply the time for practice and peal ringing, without which no one can expect his full powers as a ringer to come to fulfilment.—Yours faithfully, (Rev.) P. T. ROBBINS.

Swinton, Manchester.

CHURCH SPIRES

Dear Sir,—It is probable that, among ringers, there are some who are very familiar with their church spires.

If so, and they know of a case where the architect has slung a heavy weight down within the spire, from the apex-stone or otherwise, I shall be much obliged if they will kindly inform me.

I only know of one example—the late J. L. Pearson's (i.e., St. Luke's, Bromley Common, Kent), where the architect continued the iron of the weather-vane 6ft. to suspend a heavy block of concrete below the apex-stone.—Yours very faithfully, E. ALEX. YOUNG.

Elstree Hill, Bromley, Kent.

WEST HERTS AND 'THE RINGING WORLD'

Dear Sir,—The Western District of the Hertford County Association have responded to the request for a correspondent in the District and I have been appointed to promote postal sales of 'The Ringing World' and to forward items of interest for publication.

Our District meetings are usually very placid occasions and we are not accustomed to the moving speeches which we heard when 'The Ringing World' was under discussion. Mr. J. Banfield, who rang for many years at St. Mary's, Apsley End, spoke of the great pleasure which 'The Ringing World' brought to him in his retirement, and he was of the opinion that the future well-being of the Exercise was directly related to the continuing prosperity of 'The Ringing World.' A similar point of view came from Mr. Wolstencroft, a visitor from Bucks, who said that he was content to read the names of ringers of peals and quarters because this enabled him to recall many happy occasions in the company of peal ringers. Mr. Fred Plummer, of Apsley End, expressed the opinion that there is little in 'The Ringing World' to interest the younger members of the Exercise and he felt that more space could be given to articles for the benefit of the less experienced ringers if the news items and letters which are published were restricted to items of real interest.

It may well be that more interest will be taken when news items are received regularly from all parts of the country. The Western District of Hereford are optimistic and we are determined to lend our full support to the new campaign.—Yours faithfully,

King's Langley. B. M. BARKER.

THIRTEEN-FEET CLOCK PENDULUMS

Dear Sir,—May I ask, through the kindness of your paper, that bellringers who know of turret clocks with 13 feet pendulums (or thereabouts) will kindly let me know? I am trying to list these rather rare clocks

Once I asked for information about one-hand clocks and the response was magnificent. Hence I am encouraged to come to you again. If the maker's name can also be supplied at the same time that is better still.

I was recently visiting Talland Church, near Looe, in Cornwall, and was charmed with the accomplished way in which the friendly team of ringers rang for the morning service, and then, at 11 a.m., streamed into their places in church.

In talking to them I introduced to them the subject of more ringers subscribing to 'The Ringing World,' and every band of ringers being responsible for at least one copy, so as to ensure its continued circulation. I think they were typical of others who have not yet come to feel the necessity of such support because they are not acquainted with the paper. If taken regularly for a little while I am sure any reader would be loth to see it dropped.—Yours sincerely,

Northill Rectory, A. J. NIXSEAMAN.

RINGING FOR A VICAR'S WEDDING

Wadhurst Bells to be Retuned

When the Rev. A. N. H. Roscamp was inducted to the living of Wadhurst, Sussex, in September, 1951, he had the greatest difficulty in getting the treble bell to speak, and it was thought at once, 'Here is another one who knows nothing about bells.'

But it was soon learned that, while not a ringer, Mr. Roscamp did know quite a bit about bells, and the ringers were asked to give account of themselves if there was any bad striking during service ringing.

On several occasions the times of ringing for special secular rejoicings have been altered so that the Vicar could be within hearing, and it is mainly through his interest that as soon as the faculty is granted, Wadhurst bells will be retuned and rehung in a new frame.

A peal attempt was planned before the bells were to be taken away, but at Easter the Vicar suddenly announced that he was getting married on May 4th, so, of course, here was the chance for that peal. At first it was to be rung after the wedding, but then, knowing the Vicar's love of the bells, the attempt was made on the wedding eve.

The bride was introduced to the ringers before the start of the peal, and all went well till nearly the end of the third 720, when there was a sudden clatter upstairs and the voice of the fifth was missing. Upon inspection it was found that the clapper had snapped between the ball and the shaft, a difficult repair job, and it was then that someone said, 'What about the wedding to-morrow?' However, thanks to the co-operation of the local blacksmith, the clapper was replaced, still warm, in the bell, while the guests assembled in church.

When the Vicar and his bride (Mrs. A. J. Scoular) left the church the bells were 'fired' and rung to Doubles by a mixed band.

It was a great disappointment that the peal failed, for, had it been a success, one young man would have had his first peal of Minor, another member would have 'circled the tower' and the conductor would have rung his 100th peal, this being the sixth attempt for it.

For the peal attempt, the ringers stood: M. Latter 1, C. Pilbeam 2, S. G. Ponting 3, W. A. Kitchenside 4, L. W. Giles 5, C. A. Bassett (conductor) 6; and for the wedding: M. W. Watts, Ann Bassett, S. G. Ponting, W. A. Kitchenside, C. A. Bassett and A. Relfe.

Southwell Diocesan Guild

Thirty ringers from nine towers attended the Newark District meeting held at Elston on May 22nd. At 2.45 the bells were raised in peal and ringing continued in various methods until 4.30, when the Rector conducted a service.

The bells are a light six (tenor 9¼ cwt.) hung on plain bearings. They go well and the tone is pleasant, so some good striking was heard. Mrs. Astin kindly provided an enormous tea, after which a short business meeting was held. Four new members were elected, and Mr. W. L. Exton was elected 'The Ringing World' representative. Methods rung ranged from Cambridge Surprise to rounds.

A Tour in Gloucestershire

On May 1st the Checkendon ringers had a most enjoyable and interesting tour in Gloucestershire, visiting Barnwood (8), St. Mary-de-Lode (6), Sandhurst (8) and Quedgeley (8).

During a break in the afternoon the opportunity was taken to inspect Gloucester Cathedral. The success of the outing was largely due to the organisation of Mr. Ronald Russ.

The hospitality of the captain of the Barnwood ringers at the close of the day was much appreciated, and if his, or other teams, would like to visit Checkendon and district, a pleasant tour can be arranged.

THE BOURNEMOUTH RALLY

George Williams Commemoration Dinner

THE eighth annual rally and fifth George Williams Commemoration Dinner was held at the Wick Ferry Restaurant, Christchurch, on May 8th. Seventy-five ringers and friends gathered together, and in an ideal setting on the banks of the River Stour did full justice to an excellent meal. Canon R. P. Price, Vicar of Christchurch, presided and the Bishop of Southampton was the guest of honour.

The company included Mr. W. B. Cartwright and Miss P. Cartwright, Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Dykes, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Hurst, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Lawrence, Mr. and Mrs. McGregor-Grieve, Mr. and Mrs. Parks, Mr. and Mrs. F. Price, Mr. and Mrs. G. Pullinger, Mr. David Reed and Miss W. Cox, Mr. and Mrs. Reg. Reed, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Kippin, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Young, Mrs. F. J. Marshallsay, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Walker, the Misses N. Leahy, Nice, Barnes, P. Barnett, D. Battersby, D. Fletcher, E. Fletcher, K. Fletcher, S. Kitchenside, S. Parker, Sparshott, J. Waters, Rev. K. W. H. Felstead, Messrs. M. Bazeley, E. Booth, M. J. E. Best, M. Butler, W. E. Cheater, J. Coles, J. E. Daniels, M. Daniels, S. Harrison, B. Haynes, J. King, A. F. Martin Stewart, D. T. Matkin, P. Matkin, H. A. Mitchell, R. Peckham, G. Preston, H. Reed, R. Pike, R. O. Street, A. H. Ward and S. White.

THE FELLOWSHIP

The Bishop of Southampton, in proposing the toast of 'The Bells and Bell Ringers,' said he was delighted to have the privilege of attending. His interest in bells extended nearly 30 years. His calling required him to dedicate many church bells, and he had often been struck by the lively sense of good fellowship which prevailed among bell ringers. He had spent a number of years abroad, and when he heard the sound of bells coming through the evening air, there was something about them which gripped the heart, and it never failed to bring back memories of the homeland.

In former days bells played a much greater part in men's lives than they did to-day, and he could not help feeling that it was only right that all great occasions should be celebrated by the ringing of the bells. It should not be forgotten, however, that the chief call of the bells was to the worship of God. He added finally, 'It is a great privilege to be asked to propose this toast to the bells and bell ringers.'

Mr. C. H. Kippin, responding to the toast, commented, 'It does not matter where you go if you enter a belfry and make yourself known, you are sure to be admitted into their circle. There is nothing like bell ringing as a means of getting yourself known in another part of the country. It does not matter whether you have a hyphenated name or not, or whether you are an admiral or, like myself, a civil servant, one can ring with them all.' He thanked the Bishop for the very able way he had proposed the toast and the company for the way they had received it.

LADIES AND RINGING

Mr. G. Pullinger proposed 'The Memory of George Williams,' and gave a brief outline of his ringing career, quoting various happenings of his ringing life, some of them very amusing, especially where the ladies were concerned. He used to say, 'They are all right in their proper place,' but all the same his wife was the first lady to ring a handbell peal with her husband. Besides being a great peal ringer, George Williams was also a good churchman, always attending service, whether at home or away, at least once every Sunday. He set a wonderful example, both as a ringer and a churchman, and they would all do well to follow his path. Mr. Pullinger concluded by saying, 'My memories of the old man are indeed very happy ones.'

The Chairman, in proposing the toast of 'The Visitors,' said it was a great pleasure to see so many visitors at this gathering. They came from Birmingham, Derby, Kettering, Isleworth, Beaconsfield, Winchester, Eastleigh, Southampton, Ringwood and Oxford. He expressed thanks to the organisers of the gathering, and also to those who had originated the idea of holding these rallies, which did so much to bring ringers together and also to help keep alive the memory of such a great ringer and churchman as George Williams. He also thanked Mr. A. F. Martin Stewart for the floral decorations, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Beresford and Mr. H. Johnson for entertaining the assembly.

Mr. Albert Walker replied to the toast. He said nothing gave him more pleasure than to come to these gatherings at Bournemouth. On behalf of all the visitors there, he would like to say 'Thank you' for a most delightful evening.

At the conclusion of the evening, the Rev. K. W. H. Felstead proposed a very hearty vote of thanks to the chairman for the way he had presided over the gathering. This was received by the company with much applause.

It was regretted that Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Dowding, from Birmingham, were unable to be present due to illness. It was the wish of everyone that they would soon be fit and well again.

During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Charles Beresford gave songs and duets accompanied by Mr. H. Johnson. The St. John's (Surrey Road) tune ringing band also entertained with a collection of popular tunes. The change ringing consisted of a good touch of Spliced Plain Royal in four methods by J. E. Daniels, Mrs. F. J. Marshallsay, D. T. Matkin, M. J. E. Best and Miss K. Fletcher.

SOCIETY FOR THE ARCHDEACONRY OF STAFFORD

The spring meeting of the Society took place at Cannock on May 22nd. Despite the proximity of the 'Chase' coalmines, Cannock still retains a country town atmosphere, with the fine Parish Church of St. Luke and its pleasant surrounding churchyard right in the centre of the town. The ring of eight bells (tenor 14 cwt.) is easy to handle and is pleasing to the ear. Ringing during the afternoon and evening was under the direction of Mr. Maurice Turner, Ringing Master.

The service was conducted by the Rev. D. K. Robertson, Vicar of Cannock and newly-appointed Rural Dean. The Parish Church organist (Mr. A. M. York) was at the organ. In his address Mr. Robertson said that during the war years the bells were intended to sound an alarm. Now that the war was over the bells still sounded an alarm, but of a different nature—to remind all and sundry that Jesus Christ was in our midst to-day, as always.

An excellent tea was kindly provided by the Cannock ringers and church workers. The Rev. C. H. Barker, clerical secretary, duly expressed thanks and appreciation to the Rev. D. K. Robertson, the organist, lady helpers, Mr. T. Benton and the Cannock ringers for all they had done to make the meeting so successful. The attendance was 76.

In a discussion after tea on 'The Ringing World' finances, it was decided to instruct Mr. B. G. Key to mention at the forthcoming Central Council meeting the suggestion that all Guilds and Associations up and down the country should increase the amounts of their annual subscriptions by one shilling per member, such increase to be paid over to the funds of 'The Ringing World.'

The next meeting of the Society will be the annual at Lichfield on June 19th. F. C. A. B.

THE SCOTTISH ASSOCIATION AT EDINBURGH

Annual Meeting

The weather was glorious in Edinburgh on May 8th for the 22nd annual meeting of the Scottish Association.

The ringing began in the morning at 11 o'clock at St. James', Leith. Edinburgh ringers were well represented and a number had managed to get there from Dundee, St. Andrew's and Glasgow. These eight bells were rehung at the end of 1952, and although this has greatly improved them, they still require a great deal of handling. Notwithstanding this, the bells were kept going for an hour and a half, and Grandsire, Stedman, Kent, Plain Bob and a course of Double Norwich were brought round.

The party split up for lunch and reassembled along with additional reinforcements at St. Mary's Cathedral at 2 p.m. Here the fine 10 bells were available till the service at 4 p.m. and there was only one short pause in the ringing throughout the afternoon, and this was caused by a broken rope, which, however, was quickly replaced.

The Association's service was conducted in the Cathedral by the Vice-Provost, Canon Getty. The Provost, the Very Rev. H. B. Gooderham, in his address, after welcoming all the ringers to the Cathedral, spoke of advertising in commercial life and showed how the advertising of the Church was in great measure achieved by the work of ringers.

At the conclusion of the service the meeting adjourned to the Walpole Hall in the Cathedral precincts, where the party was entertained to a fine meal by the Cathedral band. The clergy then withdrew and the business meeting followed, with the president of the Association, Mr. W. H. Pickett, in the chair.

The Ringing Master, Mr. Charles R. Raine, gave a brief review of the activities of the past year, of the meetings which had been held at Glasgow, Dunblane and Alloa, of the quarter peals that had been rung and of the peal of Plain Bob Royal at St. Mary's Cathedral, Edinburgh, on the occasion of the State visit to the capital of the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh.

The secretary reported on the circulars that he had received from the Central Council and stated that the percentage in Scotland of the numbers of postal copies of 'The Ringing World' ordered as against the number of towers was in the region of 82 per cent., whereas only three English counties even passed the 50 per cent. mark. Scotland and Canada seemed to tie for top place. He was later taken to task by Mr. Lloyd for suggesting that there was room for complacency, and Mr. Lloyd felt that still more copies could be ordered in Scotland.

The election of the non-resident members, Miss Julia Preston and Messrs. Jack N. Brown, Thomas C. Larkey and John E. Spice, who had rung in the peal at Edinburgh in June, 1953, was confirmed. The election of Messrs. H. O. Baker, George Fearn, B. Jones, R. B. Meadows and A. A. Potts, who had rung in a peal on May 1st, 1954, was agreed to conditionally on the secretary obtaining further details as to the elections. The Misses Marion Capey and Imogen Durnell-Watters and Messrs. John Killick, A. W. Lloyd, John Moss and Charles Sargent were elected ringing members.

The President, Ringing Master and Secretary and Treasurer were each reappointed for a further year. The secretary was elected as the representative on the Central Council.

It was agreed to hold the next annual meeting at Paisley and other meetings at Dunblane and Alloa if these towers were available. In conclusion, the President proposed a vote of thanks to Miss Kate Branson, the secretary of the Cathedral band, for all her work in making the local arrangements for the meeting.

BEDFORDSHIRE ASSOCIATION

Compositions of All Peals to New Peal Secretary

BEDFORD was again the meeting place for members of the Bedfordshire Association attending the annual meeting on Easter Monday and it was encouraging for the committee to find an increased attendance. This year the committee experimented by reverting to the old custom of holding the business meeting in the morning, and this move resulted in an attendance of 43 members, a 20 per cent. increase on last year's figures.

The president, Miss E. Steel, opened the meeting by explaining she was suffering from a cold and, consequently, she would ask Mr. A. E. Sharman, vice-president, to take the chair. Apologies were then read from Canon A. Rust, Mr. A. King, Mr. E. Herbert and Mr. H. D. Harris. Copies of the annual report for 1953 had been in the hands of members for several weeks, and the minutes of the previous annual meeting, the statement of accounts and the committee's report (all of which were printed in the report) were taken as read and quickly adopted.

The officers of the Association were all re-elected, as follows:—President, Miss E. Steel; vice-presidents, Messrs. A. King, E. Herbert, A. E. Sharman, H. D. Harris, W. Stapleton, C. J. Ball, L. H. Bywaters and P. Inskip; secretary and treasurer, Mr. J. M. Stephens; auditor, Mr. G. H. Mason; librarian, Mr. S. Foskett; assistant librarian, Mr. D. Thompson.

CENTRAL COUNCIL REPRESENTATIVES

Consternation was expressed by the meeting when the two retiring Central Council representatives, Messrs. A. C. Sinfield and C. H. Harding, announced their decision to decline renomination to the Council. This drew much discussion from members. Eventually Mr. S. Foskett and the general secretary agreed to attend the Newcastle meeting, and at the same time the meeting agreed to the payment of the representatives' third-class railway fares to all future meetings of the Central Council.

Bedford was proposed for the place of the 1955 annual meeting. Luton was put forward as an amendment, and the ensuing vote resulted in overwhelming support for the original proposal. It was agreed that the summer festival should be held on June 26th at the two eight-bell towers of Kempston and Bromham, with the tea arrangements at Kempston.

Previous notice of a proposition to make an addition to Rule 3 had been given by Mr. C. E. Jeffries. This was the insertion of 'Hon. Peal Secretary' to the list of Officers, and after an explanation of the post and duties entailed, Mr. Jeffries asked the meeting to install Mr. D. Knox in this office. Mr. H. Harding seconded the proposition and this was carried by the meeting. As a result of this election, composers of new compositions are invited to send Mr. Knox their figures for him to check, and conductors are asked to note that in future the compositions of all peals rung for the Association must be sent to the peal secretary.

The meeting unanimously agreed to hold another Association dinner in the autumn, when it was hoped that the accommodation would be sufficient to extend invitations to members' ringing friends in other Associations and Guilds. The general secretary and the three District secretaries were instructed to proceed with the arrangements.

The meeting closed with a vote of thanks proposed by Mr. H. B. Whitney to the chairman.

TEWKESBURY, GLOS.—At the Abbey Church, on May 15th, 1,260 Grandsire Doubles: Mrs. G. Thomas 1, N. Sprackling 2, Miss A. Turner 3, Miss P. Sprackling 4, H. Steed 5, J. Cole (cond.) 6, E. Leach 7, A. Halling 8. With 1 and 2 leading.

THAKEHAM, SUSSEX.—On May 15th, 1,260 Doubles (Grandsire and Plain Bob): Miss M. Skinner 1, Miss J. Horton 2, Miss H. Skinner 3, C. B. Skinner 4, B. W. Farhall (cond.) 5, W. Cherriman 6.

FORTY YEARS AGO

REVOLUTIONARY DISCOVERIES

Extract from 'The Ringing World' June 12th, 1914

It was agreed on all hands after the Central Council meeting at Winchester last week that the one thing that lifted the proceedings out of mediocrity was the speech by Mr. E. H. Lewis on the question of the stresses and strains on towers caused by the ringing of bells. Really the subject is a highly technical one . . . but those who had the pleasure of listening to Mr. Lewis had the whole subject made as plain as daylight to them by a dissertation which treated a most abstruse subject in a way which enabled everyone to grasp its meaning. But the importance of it lay [in] that the speech made public for the first time certain principles which, as the result of research and investigation, will, we are told by no less authority than Sir Arthur Heywood, absolutely revolutionise bellhanging. Hitherto the generally accepted principles have been those laid down by Lord Grimthorpe, but the problems which Mr. Lewis has successfully solved have completely knocked the bottom out of many preconceived notions as to the relation of the bells to the frame and tower. In this matter valuable information, hitherto unknown, is now at the disposal of both architects and bellhangers.

[A correspondent commented: 'It is significant that the three members of the Council who are also members of leading bellhanging firms (Messrs. John W. Taylor, Cyril F. Johnston and Arthur Hughes) expressed themselves as deeply impressed by Mr. Lewis' statements.']

THE RINGING WORLD

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

No. 2254 Vol. L. FRIDAY, JUNE 18, 1954 Registered at the G.P.O. for transmission as a newspaper 4d.

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL AT NEWCASTLE

THE wettest Whitsun for fifty years did not prevent members of the Council from having a most enjoyable time during their stay at Newcastle, and those whose first visit to that city it was must have come away very favourably impressed both with the city itself and the surrounding countryside.

As this was the first session of a new Council, much of the actual meeting was taken up by elections and re-elections. The decision of Mr. Lewis to stand again for the presidency was warmly approved, although he hinted that this must be for the last time. To find a worthy successor will be no easy matter, and much thought will no doubt be given to this problem during the next three years.

Two well-known names were added to the honorary members, Messrs. J. T. Dyke and C. W. Roberts, both of whom had ceased to be representative members and whose services the Council did not wish to lose. Miss P. J. Ayris was also added in recognition of her services in undertaking the sale of publications. Three new names appear on the Standing Committee, where Mr. W. B. Cartwright replaces Mr. Gilbert Debenham as a representative of the legal profession, and Messrs. John Freeman and Fred E. Dukes come in for Alderman Paddon Smith and Mr. Albert Walker. The retiring members deserve the thanks of the Exercise for their many years of valuable service to the Council. The relief of the secretary and his assistant that no ballot was necessary for this committee did not escape notice!

Of the other changes, the main one was the setting up of a separate Broadcasting and Television Committee, which, consisting as it does of four members who already have active contact with one or other of the B.B.C.'s regions, leads one to hope that this may usher in a period of youthful co-operation with that body. The Rev. F. Ll. Edwards, who with Alderman Paddon Smith had been a member of the Literature and Press Committee for thirty years, and who had, one noticed by chance, suggested this splitting up of the committee at the 1933 meeting, presented his report for the last time, and he and his colleagues—Mr. Walker being the other—received the thanks of the members for all they have done. Mr. Edgar Shepherd is an admirable choice to succeed him as convener of the committee, and Mr. Fred Dukes, editor of 'The Irish Bell News,' is well qualified to assist him.

Naturally, the meeting was not without controversy; but no worth-while meeting is. After Mr. Harold Poole, in the regretted absence of Mr. J. F. Smallwood for domestic reasons, had presented with his customary efficiency the report of 'The Ringing World' Committee, together with a number of further recommendations (the main one being that the price should remain unchanged for the time being, until the outcome of the present drive for additional postal subscribers can be properly judged), a lively discussion followed on the motion regarding anonymous letters. Eventually an amendment by Mr. G. W. Fletcher, acceptable to both sides, was carried without opposition, the outcome being that it will be left to the Editor to consult the committee when in doubt.

The result of the debate on the report of the Analysis Committee was less satisfactory. The committee could point to the fact that Bob Triples has been officially considered irregular for fifty years, and several members, including Mr. Percy Johnson, who spoke with his usual forcefulness, urged that the decision should be enforced, however belatedly. Against this, however, was the view that to do so without warning, as on a previous occasion, would cause considerable resentment, and eventually the particular section of the report was shelved; but notice was given on behalf of the Standing Committee that in future all peals not conforming to the Council's decisions would be excluded from the Analysis, although—and this is the main point—they will be published in this journal. By this means it is hoped that a grievance felt by a number of ringers will be removed. As has often been said, the Council does not dictate what shall be rung, but does decide what it will recognise.

And so to the close, with the President recalling that he had given the first report of the Towers and Belfries Committee (which had earlier been paid a well-deserved tribute by Mr. J. H. Crampion) at Newcastle forty-one years previously. He asked others present on that occasion to stand up, and the Rev. F. Ll. Edwards with Messrs. A. A. Hughes and P. J. Johnson responded. There were many new faces at the meeting, but many old friends were missing. May the newcomers render to the art of ringing the same service as many of those whom they replaced. They could not do better than keep before them the example of the four whose membership of the Council goes back more than four decades.

Stonham Aspal, Suffolk

Canon J. J. Raven, in his 'Church Bells of Suffolk' (1890), records that 'the first ten 'ever to he heard in Suffolk were Stonham Aspal's, about six miles east of Stowmarket.

For the last 20 or 30 years the eighth of this fine ring at the Parish Church of St. Mary and St. Lambert has been cracked. Now yet another restoration in Suffolk has taken place.

For a long time Mr. William J. Button, captain of the tower, had been seriously considering launching a restoration fund appeal, but it was not until May 24th, 1952, following another prompting from his ringer friend of 30 years—Mr. Cecil W. Pipe (secretary, Suffolk Guild)—that things were really set going.

Sufficient money came in from dances, jumble sales, competitions, socials and a collection in the parish as well as a general appeal so that, by the end of 1953, the work was put into the hands of Messrs. Gillett and Johnston (Croydon). The eighth was recast and, with the help of a few pieces of silver thrown into the boiler by Mr. Button and the Rector, it is now a fine-toned splice, born again.

The other nine have been retuned and generally renovated, one new headstock has been installed and all are now on ball bearings.

The dedication service was held on May 22nd. The church was filled for the service in spite of a dull, cold, rainy day

The Rector (the Rev. J. W. H. K. Greenway) conducted the service, and Mr. Malcolm Fisk, a lay reader, led the procession of clergy from neighbouring parishes. One lesson was read by Miss Muriel Pipe, a local ringer, and the other by Mr. Michael Howard, a director of the contractors. Mr. Button handed the rope of the recast eighth to Mr. S. P. Turner, people's warden and he, in turn, handed it to Canon L. Babington, Vicar of St. Mary-le-Tower, Ipswich, who dedicated the bell. At the request of the Rector's warden, Mr. C. Tydeman, Canon Babington then rededicated the other nine bells and later gave the address, taking 'Thine is the Kingdom, the Power and the Glory' as his text.

He congratulated the Rector and the parishioners on the work they had done in raising all but £60 of the total cost (£742). The undertaking was a great one, coming so soon as it did after much effort by the church and parish had been spent on the work which had been done to the church school—it showed the vitality of church life there.

After a few touches by the local ringers, everyone went to the nearby Village Hall for tea. To a crowded assembly the Vicar expressed thanks for all their work and support. He was happy to be able to announce that the collection just taken in church had brought the deficit down from £60 to £40, and this was later in the day reduced to £20.

Mr. Button said that Messrs. Gillett and Johnston had made a splendid job of the restoration and their two employees, Mr. Dyer and Mr. Gifford, had worked in the chamber from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. to get the work sufficiently advanced for the bells to be rung on the day of the Queen's return from her Commonwealth tour on May 15th.

Mr. C. W. Pipe said that this was the 27th restoration in Suffolk since the war. It seemed as if restoration in the county was a little contagious and he hoped it would get more so—there was a lot to be done. 'But if we go on like this, we shall have bells second to no other county.' He thanked Mr. Button and Mr. and Mrs. Russell Parker (local ringers) and all others who had helped. He noted that Mr. Richard Deal, from St. Paul's Cathedral, and other ringers from Essex and Norfolk were present with so many Suffolk ringers. These visits made for good relations.

Mrs. Deal, Mr. John Crampion (Woodford), Mr. David W. Beard (also from Essex) and Mr. Charles J. Sedgley (from Ipswich, Suffolk Guild Ringing Master) were amongst the company of ringers, estimated to be well on for 100, who gathered during the afternoon and evening.

DEDICATIONS

Beckford, Glos.

After being silent since October, 1952, the bells of St. John-the-Baptist, Beckford, are once more pealing their music from the ancient tower of the beautiful old church. On May 27th, during evening service conducted by the Rev. W. W. Baker, late Vicar of the parish, the three new bells and the new frame were dedicated by the Vicar of the adjoining parish of Alderton.

Following the service the bells were rung to Grandsire, Plain Bob, Kent and Cambridge Surprise by visiting ringers from the surrounding district. Some 50 ringers were present representing 20 different towers.

The work of recasting the bells and installing the new frame was carried out by Messrs. John Taylor and Co., of Loughborough, and they are to be congratulated on an excellent job; the 'go' of the bells leaves nothing to be desired.

Ringers will recall reading in 'The Ringing World' some 19 months ago the report of the fire which destroyed the old wooden frame and cracked two of the bells. E. T. N.

A new idea is being introduced at Marden, Kent, to bring ringing more into the public eye. This will take the form of a ringers' service to be held annually, the first of which will take place on Sunday, June 20th, at 6.30 p.m. All ringers and friends are invited.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Congratulations to Miss Patricia Bourn for ringing the 18-cwt. tenor at Clitheroe on May 15th and calling the peal. The five ladies in the band have all been taught by Ernie Gower and Victor Wood (now in New Zealand). How proud they must feel that their efforts have borne fruit. Unfortunately for Clitheroe, Miss Bourn is going to Bristol University in the autumn, whist Jean Dawson goes to Nottingham University. Perhaps we shall see Pat turning in the tenor at St. Mary Redcliffe to Cambridge Maximus. Who knows?

In connection with the Central Council's visit to Newcastle there were six peal attempts, of which four were successful.

Mr. Frank Ainsley, of 30, Aysgarth Avenue, Grangetown, Sunderland, offers back numbers of 'The Ringing World' from December 5th, 1941, to December 30th, 1949, free of charge. Few copies missing.

A silver pencil with the initials H. C. S. on cap was lost in Rothbury tower during Central Council visit. Will finder please communicate with H. Stalham, 30, Hamilton Road, Brighton.

Mr. John Ashcroft, of 7, Barn Lane, Golborne, near Warrington, has been appointed 'Ringing World' representative of the Wigan Branch.

Golden wedding congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. W. Read, of Blackmoor, Hants. Both are bellringers and Mr. Read was captain of the local tower until he lost his left leg in an accident in 1950.

To the Thames-side welcome to the Queen, probably the first was St. Mary's, Woolwich. The Royal Yacht passed within 200 yards of the tower and Queens and Tittums were rung by the young band which is being formed from the Youth Fellowship.

Eight ringers from the Preston area journeyed north to Dalton on May 29th to join two locals in ringing a peal of Stedman Caters. The visitors would like, through the medium of 'The Ringing World,' to give special thanks to Mr. Tom Metcalfe, the veteran local captain, for having the bells up and all in readiness.

Past and present members of Rye Grammar School rang a quarter peal of Doubles on May 30th. This is the first quarter peal on the bells since 1938.

Mr. C. H. Wickens, rector's warden of Twineham, who lives at 7, Blackstone Rise, Woodmancote, Henfield, is anxious to arrange a churchwardens' peal.

When Mr. Arthur Bullock, of Swineshead, Lincs, was returning home after taking part in a quarter peal of Grandsire Triples on his birthday he fell from his cycle and broke his leg. The first thing he said to his wife when she arrived on the scene was, 'We got the quarter peal rung, anyway.'

The peal of Cambridge Surprise Royal rung for the silver wedding of Mr. and Mrs. W. Gayes at Christ Church, Macclesfield, on May 31st, was also a landmark for Messrs. W. Stevenson and J. Worth, both having rung their first peal 25 years ago for the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Gayes.

Present and former pupils rang for the annual founder's day service of Nantwich and Acton Grammar School on May 26th at Nantwich Parish Church. Seven were pupils of the School, viz: J. Brough (Nantwich), B. Dolphin (Wistaston), B. Porter (Wistaston), F. Hayes (Wrenbury), P. Bebbington (Wrenbury), M. Owen (Crewe) and A. Cranford (Tarporley). The ringing was supervised by Mr. J. Brough, the tower captain.

NEWCASTLE'S GREAT WELCOME TO CENTRAL COUNCIL

LOYAL GREETINGS TO THE QUEEN — HON. SECRETARY'S CONTACT WITH OUTSIDE ORGANISATIONS — ROLL OF HONOUR APPROACHING FINALITY

THE warmth of the welcome to the Central Council to Newcastle after an absence of 41 years could not have been surpassed. A large number of towers were placed at the disposal of visiting ringers, and at the conclusion of the meeting a civic reception was given by the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress in the beautiful Laing Art Gallery.

The 27th Council (57th annual meeting) was held on Whit Tuesday in the Cathedral Library and proceedings were opened by a welcome from the Lord Mayor and the Bishop of Newcastle (the Right Rev. N. B. Hudson). They were received by Mr. E. H. Lewis, the president of the Council, and with them were the Provost (the Very Rev. N. M. Kennaby) and the president of the Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association (Mr. R. A. Gofton).

The Lord Mayor said he had come to the conclusion that the art of change ringing was a very complicated one and one which he himself would not endeavour to try to learn. During the war the bells were silent and he knew they had a lot of hard work to get their teams together and start the bells once again. To-day they had a great difficulty in getting teams together, partly because the young men started off and then had to go on National Service and then start again. He hoped they would all enjoy their stay.

The Lord Bishop, in his welcome, said it was a great occasion for their Association because they had not visited Newcastle for 40 years. For 15 years he had been patron of the Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association and, so far as he could recollect, that was the first time he had done anything as patron.

For his information their secretary sent him particulars of the Council meeting and from it he was impressed by two facts: the determination of all concerned to keep high the art of campanology (if that was the correct word), and that behind it there was a determination to do their best to the glory of God. 'I am convinced that once this art or any other art is divorced from the spiritual life of the Church it degenerates.' He would like to pay a humble tribute to that work and the motive behind it.

The second point was that those who offered this service were worshipping church workers and not people outside the Church.

The President thanked the Lord Mayor for his civic welcome and the Lord Bishop for his ecclesiastical welcome. 'We always feel,' said Mr. Lewis, 'that we are connected with both Church and State and workers for both.'

As regarded the word 'campanology,' it was often used, to their regret. They liked purity in all things: they did not like words that were a mixture of Latin and Greek.

It was 41 years since he attended the last Central Council meeting at Newcastle. It was the coldest Whitsun that he could remember.

There was one interesting thing about meeting there. The earliest mention in English literature of bells was made by the Venerable Bede, who lived just across the river. It was mentioned in connection with St. Hilda at Whitby.

He thanked the Provost for allowing them to meet in the Cathedral Library and for conducting the service that morning.

The Provost then opened the conference with prayer.

MESSAGE TO THE QUEEN

The President announced that the following telegram had been sent to the Queen:—

The Central Council of Church Bell Ringers in annual conference assembled at the Cathedral Library, Newcastle-upon-Tyne, desire to offer your Majesty their loyal congratulations on the happy completion of your royal progress through the British Dominions, which it was the privilege of the ringers to celebrate on the occasion of your Majesty's return.

The following reply was received from Buckingham Palace:—

Chairman, Central Council of Church Bell Ringers, Cathedral Library, Newcastle-on-Tyne.—The Queen sincerely thanks all assembled at the Annual Conference of the Central Council of Church Bell Ringers for their kind message of loyal congratulations and for the way in which they helped to celebrate Her Majesty's return to this country.—Private Secretary.

The President stated that Mr. Alexander Young had just entered his 90th birthday and he proposed that the following telegram be sent to him: 'Central Council meeting, Newcastle. All members send kind regards and best wishes.'

ELECTION OF PRESIDENT

Mr. A. A. Hughes proposed the re-election of Mr. E. H. Lewis as president. 'We all know the wonderful work he has done for this Council for so many years,' he said.

The Rev. K. W. H. Felstead seconded and the resolution was carried with hearty applause.

Thanking the Council for the confidence placed in him for another year, Mr. Lewis said: 'I had very seriously thought of saying that I would not stand again, but as we had recently got a new secretary I thought it was my duty for the sake of continuity to carry on. You must seriously think of a successor next time. In the meantime I will do my best.'

HON. SECRETARY AND TREASURER

On the proposition of Mr. F. I. Hairs, seconded by Mr. H. J. Poole, Mr. E. A. Barnett was elected hon. secretary and treasurer.

HON. LIBRARIAN

The President proposed the election of Mr. Frederick Sharpe as librarian. 'Those of us who are in touch with the inside work of the Council know he is doing a tremendous amount of work and we are very grateful that he is carrying on,' he said.

Mr. Barnett seconded and the resolution was carried.

ELECTION OF HONORARY MEMBERS

The following retiring honorary members were re-elected: The Earl of Shaftesbury, Messrs. J. P. Fidler, H. M. Howard, A. A. Hughes, D. Hughes, Mrs. L. K. Marshall, Messrs. E. C. Shepherd, P. L. Taylor, W. H. Viggers and A. Walker.

The Standing Committee recommended the appointment of Mr. J. T. Dyke and Miss P. J. Ayris, and upon the proposition of Mr. F. W. Goodfellow, seconded by Mr. W. G. Wilson, Mr. C. W. Roberts was also elected an honorary member.

Messrs. A. A. Hughes and F. W. Perrens were re-elected hon. auditors, on the proposition of Mr. R. S. Anderson, seconded by Mr. W. Ayre.

LOSS OF MEMBERS THROUGH DEATH

The Council stood while the names of the following were read:—

H. R. Butcher, Sussex Association, 1919-20 and 1938-39; D. D. Cooper, Surrey Association, 1933-53; W. H. J. Hooton, Midland Counties 1936-38, honorary member 1939-50, life member 1951-53; T. Law, Central Northampton Association 1921-23, Peterborough Diocesan Guild 1930-1932; G. R. Newton, Lancashire Association 1930-50, hon. member 1951-53; W. Perkins, Central Northants Association 1915-20; J. H. W. White, Warwickshire Association 1932-35.

MINUTES

The minutes of the last Council meeting, published in 'The Ringing World' of April 30th, which had been circulated, were taken as read.

REPORT OF THE HON. SECRETARY

This is not intended to be a comprehensive review of the past twelve months, but merely to record items of interest which do not fit conveniently into other reports.

Apart from dealing with the usual assortment of queries from members of the public and outside organisations, the secretary has been interviewed by a correspondent of 'The Daily Telegraph,' and had conversations with 'The Times,' 'The Daily Express' and 'The Daily Mirror.' Letters on behalf of the Council appeared in the two first mentioned papers; one to 'The New Yorker' gave rise to considerable correspondence with Canada and the U.S.A. A letter was sent to Mr. Ivor Bulmer-Thomas in support of his motion regarding synthetic bells which was passed by the Church Assembly, and to the Bishop of London to protest against the electronic device at St. Bride's Church, Fleet Street. The Publicity Officer of the B.B.C. was again asked whether advance information of ringing before broadcast services could not be supplied to 'The Ringing World'; no reply has yet been received.

The following have ceased to be members of the Council and our thanks are offered to them for their past services:—

E. M. Atkins, Cambridge University, 1921-23, 1927-53; P. E. Baker, Gloucester and Bristol, 1951-53; A. Ballard, Leicester Diocesan, 1945-53; K. Beardsall, Scottish Association, 1951-53; A. Bennett, Devon, 1946-53; F. Bennett, Sussex County, 1906-14, 1951-53; A. P. Cannon, Surrey, 1951-53; H. G. Cashmore, Hertford County, 1939-53; F. Colclough, Dudley District, 1933-53; S. E. Darmon, Cambridge University, 1951-53; G. E. Debenham, hon. member, 1939-54; Miss D. M. Drew, Gloucester and Bristol, 1951-53; W. C. Duffield, Norwich, 1945-53; J. T. Dyke, Bath and Wells, 1927-53; F. V. Gant, Essex, 1948-53; G. L. Grover, Guildford, 1930-53; C. H. Harding, Bedfordshire, 1946-53; J. W. Jones, Llandaff and Monmouth, 1907-53; W. F. Judge, Oxford Society, 1946-53; H. Knight, Stafford Archdeaconry, 1915-53; E. H. Mastin, Ely Diocesan, 1948-53; B. P. Morris, Peterborough, 1951-53; R. C. Noon, Peterborough, 1951-53; Alderman A. Paddon Smith, St. Martin's Guild, 1921-53; C. W. Roberts, Middlesex, 1933-41, 1950-53; Mrs. A. S. Roberts, Truro, 1948-53; C. Sharples, Lancashire, 1951-53; A. C. Sinfield, Bedfordshire, 1946-53; D. Smith, Chester Diocesan, 1951-53; G. H. Spice, Kent County, 1939-53; Rev. W. H. R. Trewhella, Truro, 1932-35, 1951-53; E. C. Turner, Leicester Diocesan, 1951-53; L. J. Williams, Lancashire, 1937-38, 1951-53; Rev. C. E. Wigg, Oxford University, 1935-53; J. Worth, Chester Diocesan, 1951-53; B. D. Price, hon. member, 1951-54.

Finally, the secretary's thanks are expressed to all who have assisted in any way during the year. Mention must be made of the kindness of Mr. W. G. Wilson and Miss C. L. Groves in again undertaking the typing and duplicating of the attached papers.

Moving the report, the hon. secretary called attention to the loss to the Council caused by the retirement of Mr. J. W. Jones, of Newport, who had been a member for 46 years. At the meeting of the Standing Committee it was decided to send him a message of good wishes.

This was agreed to and the report was adopted.

REPORT OF THE HON. LIBRARIAN

At our meeting last Whitsun I was appointed librarian, and the Rev. E. S. Tarrant agreed to house the library in Launton Rectory. We are greatly indebted to him. Miss Ayris agreed to continue to run the sales section of the library for me, and had it not been for kindness in relieving me of so much work, I could not have accepted office. The indexing of the books and manuscripts is proceeding slowly: I am in urgent need of files and bookcases, but am reluctant to ask the Council for them in view of the financial situation.

The borrowing of books of reference appears to be limited to a few who are engaged in research. In regard to sales, 'Village Bells' is the best seller, with 'Hints to Beginners' a good second. Sales of 'Change Ringing on Handbells' and 'Doubles and Minor Methods' are also very good.

'Double Norwich Court Bob Caters.' 'Collection of Peals, Section II.,' and 'Variation and Transposition' are sold out, and a decision on reprinting them is required. A decision on the reprinting of 'Doubles and Minor Methods' is also needed as stocks are almost exhausted. Stocks of 'Preservation and Repair of Bells' are very low and, as convener of the Towers and Belfries Committee, I am able to report that the committee recommends it be reprinted, subject to minor revisions.

The fact that the library is expected to pay £20 for advertisements in 'The Ringing World' has made the balance sheet look unhealthy; and to offset it I recommend that the prices of the undermentioned publications be increased as follows: 'Major Compositions,' from 2s. 9d. to 3s.; 'Change Ringing on Handbells,' from 2s. to 2s. 6d.; 'Preservation and Repair of Bells,' from 1s. 2d. to 2s.; 'Cambridge' Method sheets from 4d. to 6d.; 'Bristol' Method sheets from 4d. to 6d.; 'Plain Major Methods,' from 3s to 3s. 6d.

I also recommend that no discount be allowed on quantities of 'Village Bells.'

A grateful acknowledgment is made of the gift by the relatives of the late Mr. A. J. Corrigan of his publications on change ringing, a limited number of which are available for sale. Mr. A. N. Wood, of Northampton, has once again rebound several copies of 'Bell News' and 'The Ringing World,' and in some instances has inserted copies where the originals were defective or missing. Our sincere thanks are tendered for this valuable work.

During the year the library has received the following gifts: Copies of 'The Irish Bell News' from Mr. F. E. Dukes; 'St. Martin's Youths' from the author, Mr. E. C. Shepherd; 'Notes for Beginners' from the author, Mr. W. G. Wilson; and I have placed in the library a copy of volume IV. of my 'Church Bells of Oxfordshire.'

The report showed that 949 publications were sold for £313 7s. 7d. Best sales were: 'Village Bells' 223, 'Hints for Beginners' 164, 'Handbells' 116, 'Doubles and Minor' 82, 'Preservation of Bells' 57.

The hon. secretary reported that the Standing Committee recommended that 'Preservation of Bells' and 'The Minor Collection,' with amendment, be reprinted, and that 'Double Norwich Bob Caters,' 'Collection of Peals, Section II.,' be not printed.

Mr. F. Sharpe, in moving the adoption of the report, paid tribute to the work of Miss Ayris.

The Rev. K. W. H. Felstead, seconding, said in reprinting 'Minor Methods' it was suggested that some doubtful methods be removed.

Mr. J. Seager regretted that they had no publication dealing with Spliced Triples. He was the compiler of the Four Ways Tables and he hoped that in the reprinting of 'Minor Methods' there would be a rearrangement. He regretted that the sales of the Four Ways Tables were disappointing. He was prepared to put down a lump sum so that a copy of the Table could be sent free with the remaining 66 books of Minor.

Mr. Felstead promised to consult Mr. Seager when the book was revised. The report was adopted.

THE ACCOUNTS

Presenting the accounts, Mr. E. A. Barnett said there was an excess of expenditure over income of £53 on the general account which was largely due to a donation of £50 to the Canon Coleridge Memorial Fund. The affiliation fees of £37 10s. would be doubled next year, which would give a margin on the right side. The publication account showed a loss of £3 15s. 7d., which was due to the payment of £20 to 'The Ringing World' fund for advertisement.

Mr. F. E. Dukes questioned whether some of the £1,486 cash at bank and in hand could not be invested. He noticed that £800 had been invested in 3 per cent. Defence Bonds.

Mr. Barnett replied that the money for the investment came out of 'The Ringing World' account. The cash at bank and in hand was always higher at the beginning of the year.

The accounts were adopted.

CARTER'S RINGING MACHINE

Mr. A. A. Hughes presented the report of the Trustees of the Carter Ringing Machine, and said at the demonstration on Whit Saturday the machine worked very well and there was an attendance of 46. Mr. F. I. Hairs seconded the adoption of the report.

In reply to other questions, Mr. Hughes said arrangements were being made for another demonstration in September.

COUNCIL'S HANDBOOK

The secretary reported that the sub-committee appointed to consider the Council's Handbook had not submitted a written report. Dr. Hatcher had resigned owing to pressure of other business and he had the MSS. The Standing Committee had appointed Mr. C. K. Lewis and himself to take over the work. This was agreed to.

ROLL OF HONOUR

Mr. H. Miles said that in 1949 at York he was asked to compile the Roll of Honour; it was now 1954 and was approaching finality. There were 32 pages in the first Roll of Honour and 23 in the second, and the photostat copies would cost 6s. per page, making a total of £16 10s. The binding of the photostat copy would be about £3 10s. The site of the Roll of Honour had been agreed. It would be near the library in St. Paul's Cathedral and passed by thousands of people on their way to the Whispering Gallery. A card at the foot of the staircase would give an indication of where to go. All he needed now was to go ahead with the construction of the case. Forty-three associations had to date contributed £21 10s.

Mr. P. J. Johnson, in seconding, thanked Mr. Miles for his work.

The Secretary said the recommendation of the Standing Committee was that the report be adopted, the construction of the case be proceeded with and the matter of the photostat copies be put in hand.—This was agreed to.

VICAR AND CURATE IN PEAL

Dear Sir,—Re the peal at Llanfrechfa (page 360) many years ago the Rev. A. H. F. Boughey (Vicar of Great St. Mary's, Cambridge), and his curate (the Rev. H. S. T. Richardson) rang in a peal of Stedman Cinques in that tower.—Yours, etc.,

ERNEST H. LEWIS.

A Sussex Golden Wedding

The golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Goddard, of Hellingly, Sussex, was marked by a peal of Doubles at the Parish Church on May 29th.

The day had been 'earmarked' in six diaries for about five months, but when the band met at the church for the attempt only five turned up. Apparently the sixth member thought the peal was to start at 6 p.m. instead of 3 p.m.!

Fortunately, Laura Beeney (aged 14 years) came with her father to 'help pull up,' and was persuaded to stand in the peal. Both she and Ann Tanner, who is Mr. and Mrs. Goddard's granddaughter, rang splendidly throughout.

After the peal the ringers were entertained by Mrs. Goddard, who, in her usual manner, had prepared an excellent 'spread.' A two-tier cake was at the head of the table and the health of the happy couple was toasted with champagne.

A dinner gong in the shape of a bell was presented to Mr. and Mrs. Goddard by Mr. Ben Stepney, the present captain. In his quiet, unassuming way, Mr. Goddard thanked the ringers for their gift and stated how touched he was with Ann ringing the treble. F. H. H.

LETTERS

CLERGY AND PEAL-RINGING

Dear Sir,—I was pleased to see my friend, the Rev. R. J. St. J. Smith's reply to your 'Forty Years Ago' comment. When I read the latter I thought on exactly the same lines as he did—our lack of opportunity to-day as compared with our predecessors' 40 years ago. I forget the exact figures, but roughly, whilst the population has increased from some 35 to 45 million since 1914, the number of clergy has decreased from about 19,000 to under 15,000. Comparisons are certainly odious in this case. I suppose I live in an area which gives me a greater chance of peal ringing than any of my brother clergy ringers, but it has taken me nearly 10 years to ring my 50 peals, simply because my time is so occupied that I cannot stand in peal attempts except the occasional one at my own church. (I have to limit them because we are in the middle of a town.) I know the other clergy similarly lack opportunities.

After reading your comment, I actually had a quick count of clerical peal ringers last year and found that 19 of us rang 55 peals between us. I noticed only one peal where two clerics were in the band, thus we stood in 54 peals. The 145 peals of 1913 must be reduced in number quite a lot, for on many occasions there was more than one parson in the attempt. I haven't had time to go through the lists except to notice that in the Cambridge University ringing week up to six clerics took part in any individual peal. Actually, too, the proportion of peals conducted by a parson was greater last year than in 1913 (the Rev. A. S. Roberts heading the list).

I don't know how many ringing parsons there were in 1913, but the Clerical Guild has now nearly 70 members and there are very many parsons whom I know personally who can ring a bit but are not members. With the changed circumstances, I don't think the position is as bad as your comment suggests. It is interesting to note that one name appears on the peal list in both years—the Rev (now Canon) C. C. Cox, the president of the Guild. Two others, the Rev. (now Prebendary) E. V. Cox and the Rev. R. P. Farrow, were present during our recent ringing week. The Exercise owes a great debt of gratitude to them, and other members, for their long service.

Finally, may I say that Mr. Smith is too modest in his final statement, for it was he who conducted, so admirably, the peal of Cambridge in 1949. May I add, too, that we had hoped to ring the first peal of London by eight parsons last year, but Mr. Smith's valiant efforts to find a suitable time when we could all muster to make the attempt failed. I don't say it couldn't have been done 40 years ago, but it certainly wasn't.—Yours sincerely,

K. W. H. FELSTEAD,

Southampton.

CORRESPONDENCE COLUMNS

Dear Sir,—'Letters to the Editor' in 'The Ringing World' are always a source of interest to me, as are many items published. The recent crop of letters published shows that I am not alone in this respect, but what has struck me particularly of late is the fact that such righteous indignation has been aroused by the violent treatment for this 'financially sick paper' prescribed by Mr. T. V. Lister. Yet this same author supplied a very interesting article on Tewkesbury bells which passed without comment. Yes, the correspondence columns are very interesting. Best wishes.—Yours sincerely,

L. BAILEY.

FORTY-TWO SURPRISE MAJOR METHODS TO A PEAL

'Correct in Every Detail,' Says Umpire

As briefly announced in a recent issue, a new record has been established in Spliced Surprise Major ringing by the first peal in 42 methods. This was rung at Handsworth, Sheffield, on May 29th, by the same band that established the record of the peal in 36 methods on February 13th.

To umpire the peal Mr. J. Segar, of Retford, broke his holiday at Skegness. His report is as follows:—

'I confirm that I sat in Handsworth Church to-day throughout the peal, and at each of the 159 leads I heard the name of the next method called correctly in accordance with a checking sheet prepared by me for my use as umpire. I also checked the calling of the 90 bobs.

'As the belfry is very small and I did not wish to cause the slightest distraction, I sat in the church, but as the belfry is open to the church and could be called a ringers' gallery, there was no disadvantage. I was able to check by ear the accuracy of the figures of every lead of the peal. As it is impossible to ring a bad peal so complicated as this, it is hardly necessary to say that it was a good peal and correct in every detail.'

QUEEN MOTHER AT ROCHESTER

For the twenty-seventh jubilee celebrations of Rochester Cathedral, which started on May 16th, there was much special ringing. When the Queen Mother visited Rochester on May 18th the bells were 'fired' to a Royal Salute, and Queens rung. On May 17th 1,264 Plain Bob Major was rung by D. Norris 1, W. A. J. Knight (conductor) 2, H. Springate 3, F. Cheal 4, T. Beaumont 5, R. E. Norris 6, G. Kenward 7, C. E. J. Norris 8. This was the first quarter of Plain Bob on the bells since they were recast in 1923.

OXFORD UNIVERSITY SOCIETY

Easter Tour at Gloucester

A LARGE attendance, glorious weather and a peal of Stedman Caters were notable features of the annual tour of the Oxford University Society, which was held in the Gloucester district at Easter.

About 20 resident members and 10 former members arrived on the evening of Easter Saturday. This provided a transport problem for the organisers, as only two of the five expected cars turned up, together with three motor-cycles. Fortunately several members brought bicycles and offered to use these on some of the journeys, and the position was somewhat eased by hiring a car for three days. Even so, some 'ferrying' had to be done between towers and, where suitable, bus and train services were employed.

On Easter Sunday morning about ten ringers joined the local band at Gloucester Cathedral to ring from 9.15 to 10.30, while the remainder divided their activities between St. Mary de Crypt (Gloucester) and Churcham. In the afternoon a group assisted the local ringers at Churchdown, where evensong was held at 3.30, and afterwards spent a lazy hour admiring the view from the hilltop. Later, members joined the local bands at St. Mary de Crypt, Westbury-on-Severn and Barnwood.

On Monday an inauspicious start was made by breaking a stay at Barnwood. The eight at Upton St. Leonards, which followed, proved a little difficult to handle but a course of London came round. We arrived at Painswick only to find it apparently devoid of food on Easter Monday, and so we made our way to Cranham for sandwiches at the local hostelry before ringing on the very fine twelve at Painswick. We then moved on to the six at Woodchester, where a youthful villager was heard to remark, 'Them bells be all right if only thou'st could do 'em.' The Society obviously 'couldn't do 'em,' handbell ringing seeming more popular. After tea we were joined by our president at Stroud, where unsuccessful attempts at Cambridge Royal produced scathing comments from a distinguished member not taking part. The last tower of the day was Quedgeley, and was followed by a tedious journey through Gloucester among the Bank Holiday traffic.

Tuesday's ringing began at Leckhampton, where the eight are rung from in front of the altar. A course of Spliced Surprise was rung before we moved on to Charlton Kings, which provided a sterner test for our bell-handling. Lunch in Cheltenham was followed by ringing on the twelve at St. Mary's. Here Cambridge Royal was more successful than at Stroud, and several resident members welcomed the opportunity of practising Stedman Cinques. After a short ring at Prestbury ten members set off for Tewkesbury, where a peal of Stedman Caters was rung at the Abbey. This was Peter Border's first peal of Caters as conductor, and was the first peal of Stedman Caters for five of the band. Since the peal was not begun until after 5.30, and the bells had to be down by 9 o'clock, a good pace had to be set, and the peal was completed in 3 hours and 15 minutes, the bells being lowered with five minutes to spare. The striking was good throughout, although the course ends provoked some adverse comment over the supper table. While the peal was being rung the remainder visited Bishop's Cleeve and Badgeworth.

On Wednesday the president unfortunately had to leave us, and transport arrangements were further complicated by the hired car blowing an oil seal. However, everyone was able to complete the day's programme, which was the most extensive of the tour. During the morning we visited Sandhurst, where a course of Bristol was completed, and the beautiful Saxon church at Deerhurst, where the tower is separated into two compartments, the ropes of the five smaller bells falling on one side of the partition and the tenor on the other. The hired car rejoined us at Upton-on-Severn, where, after a sandwich lunch, we were greeted by Mr. Charles Camm, who joined us in a course of Cambridge. There followed an enjoyable hour's ringing at Malvern Priory, and after tea we visited the detached tower at Ledbury. Here a course of Yorkshire was rung but the long draught proved troublesome for the beginners. The day's ringing was concluded at Ross-on-Wye, where the eight were so popular that we exceeded our time by half an hour.

An attempt at a peal of Stedman at Ruardean on Thursday morning was lost after about 50 minutes, and was followed by a quarter peal of Kent Major, conducted by Rodney Meadows, whose efforts were rewarded by the omission of his name from the local Press report. Meanwhile the remainder visited Minsterworth and Westbury-on-Severn, where it took two members ten minutes to get the tenor up right. The two parties met again at Newnham-on-Severn, where several members seemed reluctant to leave the comfortable chairs in the lounge after lunch at the Victoria Hotel, and it came as rather a relief to hear that we would not after all be able to ring there, as one of the bells had slipped from its bearings on Easter Sunday. Having admired the beautiful view of the Severn from Newnham churchyard, we moved on to Littledean. Here they obviously have some very small ringers, the sally on the second being so low that one member rang it on his knees and others sat in a chair. After an excellent tea we visited the sixes at Longhope, Blaisdon and Huntley.

Some members departed on Thursday evening but the remainder stayed until Friday morning, when a peal of Spliced Major (Plain Bob, Double Bob, Little Bob and Gainsborough) was rung on handbells, with Wilfrid Moreton as conductor. The tour closed with four members ringing handbells while returning to Oxford by bus from Cheltenham.

We would like to express our sincere thanks to all the vicars and tower captains for their ready co-operation in making the tour a success, and in particular to Mr. Leslie Barry for his invaluable assistance. D. H. N., P. J. H.

Rung on the 39th anniversary of the first peal on the bells.

[This was the last peal by the treble ringer, a well-known 'character' among the London ringers of his day. A staunch Nonconformist, he was a seat-holder at Spurgeon's Tabernacle, and would never ring on Sundays. Nor, for some reason, would he ever work on Mondays.]

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD

A Telegram of Greetings to the Queen

Approximately 150 members attended the annual general meeting of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild held in the Assembly Rooms, Salisbury on May 22nd. The Master (Canon C. C. Cox) presided, supported by the hon. secretary and treasurer (Mr. W. C. West), the Rev. F. Ll. Edwards (vice-president) and Mr. F. Slatford (assistant hon. secretary).

The chairman opened the meeting with prayer. An apology was received from Lord Shaftesbury (president of the Guild).

In his report the hon. secretary stated the membership as being 1,070. Twenty-eight peals were rung, including four for the Coronation. The losses by death since the last annual meeting totalled twelve, including Mr. E. F. White (vice-president). Messrs. G. W. England, O. Claridge, T. Bailey, C. S. House, J. Salter, L. A. Perrett, J. Tomkin (both fifty years as ringers), E. C. Mills, Canon Clare and Miss Markby, the meeting standing in silence as a tribute to their memory.

The statement of accounts was read, and showed a balance of £194 6s. This was considered satisfactory and together with the report was unanimously adopted.

In his remarks the chairman stated he had sent, on behalf of the Guild, a telegram of congratulation and welcome to Her Majesty the Queen, worded as follows:—The Salisbury Diocesan Guild of Ringers, assembled for their annual festival in Salisbury, offer their heartfelt congratulations to your most gracious Majesty upon the happy completion of the tour of the Commonwealth, and extend their loyal welcome home to your Majesty, for whom the church bells throughout the Diocese were rung in celebration of your Majesty's safe return.'

This reply was received from Buckingham Palace:—'Please convey to all members of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild of Ringers the sincere thanks of the Queen for their kind and loyal greetings.'

Canon Cox continued with a forceful appeal for more subscribers to 'The Ringing World,' and suggested that at least two members from each Branch should work hard to persuade those who did not take the paper to do so at once. He did not wish criticism reminding those present the paper was the official organ of the Central Council, to which the Guild belonged.

The election of officers was as follows:—President, Lord Shaftesbury; Master, Canon C. Carew Cox; hon. secretary and treasurer, Mr. W. C. West; assistant hon. secretary, Mr. F. Slatford; hon. auditors, Mr. J. S. Weeks and Mr. C. F. Andrews; Guild Committee, Mr. A. Macdonald, Mr. G. True, Mr. G. H. Harding and Mr. F. Precey. Grants of £5 5s. each were made to Corfe Mullen and Netherbury for bell restorations. The chairman then thanked the Dean and Chapter for allowing the festival service to be held in the Cathedral, also those who had helped with the arrangements, mentioning Miss Eloie, the Salisbury Branch secretary.

After the meeting the service was held in the Cathedral. Canon Cox officiated and the address was delivered by the Very Rev. the Dean. A course of Grandsire Caters was rung on handbells during the service by a band from Lyme Regis.

Tea was served in the Acland Hall Assembly Rooms after the service, to which 150 sat down.

The bells of the city churches were available and, together with 13 towers on the outskirts, were made good use of during the morning and evening.

OBITUARY

MR. ERNEST W. BEADSMOORE

With deep regret we record the passing of that grand old ringer, Mr. Ernest William Beadsmoore, of Ashby-de-la-Zouch. His place will be difficult to fill for he was not only one of those 'ever ready' ringers who could always be relied on for a peal and to attend meetings, but his generosity to his church and all connected with it was unbounded.

His life had been spent in Ashby and the registers there show the family connections for generations back. He was connected with the belfry for over 65 years and joined the old M.C.A. in 1890, ringing his first quarter peal in 1902 and calling his first peal in 1904. In 1910 he conducted the first peal of Stedman Triples by a local service band, and altogether had taken part in some 160 peals.

On the division of the M.C.A. he became a leading light in the Midland Counties Guild and at meetings could always be found in his place. He took part in the only 'Ernest' peal when eight Ernests rang; another acted as umpire, and the composition was by yet another Ernest. His last peal (in which he stood to oblige at a moment's notice) was Double Norwich at Netherseale in December, 1953. It was but a few weeks ago his 81st birthday was commemorated by a peal of Stedman Triples.

The funeral was on June 3rd, and Ashby bells were rung half-muffled as the cortege arrived and left the church. The Vicar (Canon H. D. Hanford) conducted the service and paid a high tribute to his shining example as a true churchman and Christian gentleman, who rang the bells not only as a call to others, but who answered the call himself. Floral tributes were sent, and representatives of the Midland Counties Guild were present from Overseale, Netherseale, Repton, Measham and Ticknall, as well as many church organisations, who have lost a very dear friend.

AN APPRECIATION

As one who rang 84 peals with the late Mr. Ernest W. Beadsmoore and claimed his friendship for 30 years, I should like to pay a last tribute to his memory.

His passing is not only a severe blow to his church but to the Midland Counties Guild, as he was an energetic member who was always in attendance at meetings. His familiar figure and cheery voice will be missed by his many friends —not only in the Burton-on-Trent area, but in Derby and Leicester.

For over 60 years he was regular for service ringing at Ashby-de-la-Zouch Parish Church, where he had seen many changes, but somehow he did not change, even with advancing years: he was alert and ready to assist in any peal attempts.

MR. WILLIAM H. WAIN

We regret to record the death of Mr. W. H. Wain, of North Wingfield, Derbyshire, who passed away on May 29th at the age of 65. He had been a member of the North Wingfield band for more than 40 years, including 12 years as captain and steeple-keeper, but owing to ill-health had been unable to ring since 1949.

Although he had rung in, and conducted several peals, being a competent ringer up to Surprise Major methods, it was as a teacher of the art that Mr. Wain excelled. Even after his retirement from active ringing he would keenly criticise the striking of the local band and was always ready to offer help and advice when called for.

Past and present ringers at North Wingfield Church attended the funeral on June 2nd. In the evening a quarter peal of 1,264 Plain Bob Major was rung with the bells half-muffled by the following band:—W. Davis 1, W. Allwood 2, A. Turner 3, Mrs. B. Wheeler 4, E. G. Holdgate 5, B. Wheeler 6, G. E. Hancock (conductor) 7, J. Brewster 8. G. E. H.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Record Meeting at the 'Cathedral of the Marsh'

The Ashford District held its meeting on May 22nd at Lydd. When members last met there, two years ago, the church was still a mass of wreckage resulting from air raids, and it was pleasant and wonderful to see that this grand old building had been restored sufficiently to enable it to take up its position again as the 'Cathedral of the Marsh.' But Lydd is renowned for its enthusiasm and energy, and this goes for its ringers too.

A strong junior element was present, and they were soon busy in methods to suit their various stages of experience until 4.30, when the service was held. This was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. A. G. Finch). His wife played the organ and John Cooper read the lesson.

The hospitality of the local ringers, charmingly served by the ladies, was much enjoyed.

The Vicar presided at the business meeting. Two letters were read:— (1) From Geoff. Waters, suggesting a series of monthly practice meetings in the western half of the district during the winter, and that there should be one practice meeting each month at Ashford for advanced methods. (2) From Miss Jill Haffenden, asking the ladies of the district to co-operate with her and Miss Doris Colegate in restarting the Ladies' Guild in Kent. (Miss Haffenden is the hon. secretary.) Both suggestions were well received.

The secretary reminded the gathering that it was from Lydd on March 6th, 1926, that the first broadcast of bells from Kent took place, the occasion being the dedication of the present ring. He also reminded members of the campaign by 'The Ringing World' for more postal subscribers from whom the maximum benefit to the funds of the journal is derived. It was worth remembering, he said, that two or three copies were sent for the same postage as one, and that five or more were post free.

The meeting closed with votes of thanks by Mr. Willis to the Vicar, his wife and the local band, to which suitable replies were made by the Vicar and John Cooper.

THE RINGING WORLD

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

No. 2255 Vol. L. FRIDAY, JUNE 25, 1954 Registered at the G.P.O. for transmission as a newspaper 4d.

THE NORTHERN LAND

IT was Sunday morning in Newcastle-upon-Tyne and the sun shone upon the Westgate Road to greet the Whitsun Day with a promise it failed to fulfil. Towards the hour of noon there stood at the junction with Elswick Road three of the men of that place. They may have been merely enjoying the morning sun or they may have been awaiting the striking of the hour of twelve when (as H. G. Wells says) 'the shooting of bolts and the turning of keys had ended the British Ramadan, that weekly interlude of drought our law imposes.' Whatever their ultimate motives they were at that moment noisy, argumentative, somewhat uncouth and uninviting. Suddenly, in a break in the flow of cars and buses, there pranced into the road a tiny tabby kitten, chasing in ecstacy a scrap of paper that was clearly luring it to destruction. The group on the pavement turned and one man detached himself, darted into the highway and gathered the creature from under the approaching wheels of a fresh gush of traffic. He returned to the footpath, set down his tiny burden and urged it along a straight and narrow path that led to safety. The noisy argument was then resumed.

It was a kindly act, unpremeditated and, to the onlooker, unexpected, and it seemed to hold within it the parable of this northern land where so much is dour and perhaps at first sight repellent covers so much unexpected beauty and kindliness.

One approaches Newcastle from the South through country where the industries of Yorkshire reluctantly give way to much wooded upland beauty, and where this, in its turn, is suddenly succeeded once more by grimness: flats where the machines of man, to use Auden's simile, stand about like giant chessmen, and where into the loveliness of woods and dells there intrudes the sinister pyramid of a pit bank stealing along in greyness behind distant folds and coppices. The grandeur of Durham Cathedral is seen through the monstrous railway viaduct that straddles the city like a great long-legged caterpillar, and roads towards Gateshead, not perhaps without natural attractions, bear warnings of road subsidence.

And so the Tyne is reached, and as one comes across the high land and gazes over the valley, the steep heights rise gloomily from the industrial fog of the Scotswood Road, the great single-span bridge humps itself grotesquely, and the dark castle seems to frown at the visitor. One crosses the dark river with, perhaps, some lowering of spirits and a longing for something brighter and more attractive.

But surprise is in store, for in this place there is a wealth of kindliness, good nature and spiritual beauty, and these things are, like the natural beauties, revealed at unexpected times and in unexpected places. The man in the street, whom you perhaps hesitate to approach, is most helpful in directing you, even to the point of conducting you; the hotels feed generously, and even in the common inn or tavern there is a rugged friendliness and a feeling of welcome.

One cannot escape the consciousness of a growing attraction to this city and an increased liking for its people. The great Coast Road, running mile after mile as straight as a ruler across vast and desolate flats, broken only by the great Wills factory and the colossal Wallsend mine, slips suddenly into the entrancing beauty of Jesmond, Dene, and lo! the dreary wastes are forgotten. Above Newburn the wooded slopes of the valley are seen as through a glass darkly, but, on occasion, a gleam of sunshine smites the hillside, picking out farm or copse and throwing it into a tiny picture of exquisite beauty. The dark tower of Christ Church, North Shields, with its strange round windows and its ominous cracks, opens up to reveal a charming ringing chamber, a delightful ring of bells, and the kindliest of welcomes from the tower-keeper.

Thus, as the great thunderstorm, which crashed its way on Tuesday evening from Hexham to the sea, gave place to the first pale shaft of light falling strangely upon the peak of Grey's Monument and succeeded to a great evening calm, so there may come to us with recollection in tranquillity our own pictures suitable for vacant or pensive mood. To one who was privileged to revisit this city at a memorable week-end there will be, together with the kitten on Westgate Road and the lovely vision of the little black girl behind the flowers in St. John's ringing chamber, one more tiny vignette. It will be the memory of the little boy asleep on his father's knee in a corner of a crowded milk bar in the Haymarket. His day at Cullercoats had been cut short; outside the rain swept down relentlessly, and the room was hot and noisy. But he slumbered on, clutching a sand-smeared bucket, and he brought to this unattractive eating house a certain beauty, and inspired thoughts that lay too deep for expression. E. C. S.

ERDINGTON, BIRMINGHAM

The young ringers of the Abbey of SS. Thomas and Edmund, Erdington, had their first outing on May 22nd. with an accent on ringing rather than tower-grabbing.

Towers visited were:—Stowe-by-Chartley (6), St. Peter's, Marchington (6), St. Giles', Cheadle (6), St. Giles' R.C., Cheadle (8) and St. Werburgh's, Kingsley (6).

Ringing included a touch of Cambridge Minor.

SUTTON-ON-TRENT

The West Riding of Yorkshire was visited by Sutton-on-Trent ringers on May 29th. Ringing took place at St. Mary's, Tickhill, St. Giles', Pontefract, Ripon Cathedral, All Saints', Kirk Deighton, and St. Mary's, Tadcaster. A visit was paid to Fountains Abbey. Thanks are due to the Misses K. and G. Burchnall for organising such an enjoyable day, and to the Vicar, who participated in the outing.

ROMFORD, ESSEX

Surrey was visited by a party of 36 from St. Edward's, Romford, on May 22nd. The first call was Redhill and afterwards came Crawley, Dorking, Old Woking, Walton and Kingston.

At tea, at Old Woking, the Rev. F. R. Wright presided. The warm welcome at each tower and the good companionship combined to make the tour a great success.

ST. PETER'S, CROYDON

An early start, with Twyford as the first tower at 9 a.m., was made by St. Peter's, Croydon, on May 22nd. Then followed Newbury, a fine ten, and, after lunch, Whitchurch, with its dumpy tower and tall spire, Petersfield, a good eight rehung by Taylors in 1934, and finally Chiddingfold. Ringing was under the direction of Mr. Blow.

OUTINGS

STONHAM ASPAL, SUFFOLK

Stonham Aspal selected Kent for their annual outing on May 29th, leaving home at 6 a.m. and crossing the Thames by the Tilbury ferry. First ringing was at Chatham, then followed the long run to Bexhill, where unforeseen circumstances did not permit ringing.

After lunch at Bexhill the return journey started with an hour's ringing at Hawkhurst; later came the noble ring at Goudhurst and the bells at Frittenden. Home was reached soon after midnight. 'Participant' extends on behalf of the party their best thanks to Bill Button, the organiser.

SWANAGE

The ringers of St. Mary's tower, Swanage, held their annual outing on Whit Monday. Arrangements were made to ring at five towers, stopping at Salisbury for dinner; to visit Longleat House in the afternoon and have tea at Mere. Before reaching Ringwood, the captain (Mr. C. Turner) had the happy idea of stopping at Mr. A. F. Martin Stewart's house and asking him to join the party for the day. The coach drew up and he was persuaded to come, thus greatly adding to the day's interest and enjoyment.

The towers visited were SS. Peter and Paul's, Ringwood; St. Paul's, Salisbury; St. Michael Archangel, Mere; SS. Peter and Paul's Blandford; St. John-the-Baptist's, Bere Regis—thus ringing in three counties. At Salisbury a wedding was taking place when the ringers arrived, and they were able to give unexpected pleasure to the wedding party by ringing as the bride and bridegroom left the church

Thanks are due especially to Mr. W. Brown, who made the arrangements.

FARNHAM

Farnham bellringers had a jolly outing into Kent and Sussex. Ringing took place at Reigate, where some of the party had their first experience of ten-bell ringing, and afterwards at Westerham, Sevenoaks, Penshurst, Tunbridge Wells, East Grinstead and Crawley.

LOUGHBOROUGH PARISH CHURCH

In two cars, twelve ringers of Loughborough Parish Church had a free and easy 'busman's' outing on May 29th. Ringing took place at Asfordby, Edenham, near Bourne, Lincs, Grantham (where ham and eggs were disposed of and the ringing was not quite up to Loughborough standard), Bottesford (where the party were locked in the church and the chiming of the service bell eventually brought a half-shaved verger to the church) and Stathern.

PILTON, SOMERSET

Pilton ringers spent a very pleasant day on May 22nd ringing in Devonshire. The towers visited were Rockwell Green (six bells, and still in Somerset), Cadeleigh (6), Twerton (8), Bow (6), Hatherleigh (8) and Exbourne (6).

Especially noticeable on the outing was the fact that at all six towers the bells were so obviously well looked after and used regularly. Equally pleasing was that at each tower a local ringer met the party, and at Rockwell Green the Vicar was present and said a prayer before the day's ringing began.

Two words of warning! Ringers used to heavy bells which set rather far back may find the light bells with a very long draught and which set fine, somewhat disconcerting; make sure beforehand that the Devonshire lanes are suitable for 'luxury' coaches.

Mr. E. Lambert (captain) and Mr. T. Harris (vice-captain) were responsible for the arrangements.

LATE NEWS

The Yorkshire pacemakers have done it again! Last Friday a peal of 48 Spliced Surprise Major methods was rung at Conisbrough. Congratulations to Mr. W. Eric Critchley and his band on a wonderful performance.

BELFRY

When the Central Council ringers visited Morpeth Watch Tower on Whit Sunday, ringing was interrupted for the 8 o'clock curfew to be rung. Mr. Harry Miles was asked by Miss J. Armstrong to ring the bell 100 times. As he proceeded, the wit of the party asked him if he was tolling his age.

Mr. Fred Savage, who for the past two years has been ringing at Christchurch, New Zealand, has left for Australia. He sails for England in August.

We have received a number of congratulatory letters regarding the broadcast of Stedman Caters from St. Leonard's, Shoreditch, on May 30th. The ringers should know that their efforts were appreciated.

Miss J. Monica Whitehead, aged 11, who rang a peal of Cambridge Surprise Major at Leicester on May 10th, is probably the youngest ringer to score a Surprise peal. She rang a peal of Stedman Triples last year for the Coronation.

Mr. W. Frank Stenson, of Crewe, hit the headlines in 'The Western Evening Herald' when he visited Plymouth for the annual meeting of the Devon Guild. He rang at the four local churches and thanks especially Mr. 'Daddy' Myers, now 83, for enabling him to have a pull at St. Andrew's, and also Mr. T. G. Myers.

When the bells of Christchurch Cathedral, New Zealand, were recorded for broadcasting purposes in connection with the Queen's visit, the volume of sound was the second strongest the recording instruments had ever been called upon to handle in New Zealand. The strongest was the noise made by one of the large geothermal steam bores at Wairakei. There are nine learners at Christchurch Cathedral, who are showing great keenness.

GOSSIP

A quarter peal of Plain Bob Triples was rung at Farnham Royal, Bucks, on Whit Monday as a compliment to the Central Council and 'in case the method should come under the axe the following day.'

By ringing the 2nd to the peal of Plain Bob Major at Measham on June 5th, Mr. W. F. Woodward 'completed the circle' at this tower.

The peal rung at Stamford Hill, London, on May 15th, was conducted by John L. Morris and not E. J. Rowe as stated.

Mr. R. D. Edge, of Heaton, Bolton, leaves for Australia in a week's time. He will be at the School of Research Physics, Australian National University, Canberra.

The peal of Cambridge Surprise Maximus at Wolverhampton on May 29th was by coincidence the 300th peal together of Mr. G. E. Fearn and Mr. Arthur V. Pearson, and Miss Muriel Reay's 300th peal.

A band composed mainly of members of the Society of Roving Ringers rang in the peal of Stedman Caters at Wrington (recorded last week) in honour of the christening of Teresa Jane, daughter of Billy and Hilda Kingcott. The christening took place on Sunday afternoon, the god-parents being Miss Evelyn Kingcott, Mrs. Gillian Parsons and Mr. R. O. Fry.

As Tavistock ringers were competing in the Devon Association (call changes) festival, ringers mainly from Plymouth (Emmanuel) and Plympton St. Maurice, who were attending a neighbouring meeting of the Guild of Devonshire Ringers, rang for a wedding at Tavistock. Some good Grandsire Triples and a 'fall' were rung, and it was agreed that the fees should be divided between 'The Ringing World,' the S.W. District of the Devon Guild and the local church funds.

'THE RINGING WORLD' DISCUSSED BY CENTRAL COUNCIL

HOPES FROM POSTAL SUBSCRIBERS' DRIVE — THE GREAT CHRISTIAN VIRTUE OF CHARITY — ANONYMOUS LETTERS: A COMPROMISE — A PARSON AND HIS SPICED ALE

'THE RINGING WORLD' COMMITTEE REPORT

During the past year your committee have continued their efforts to keep the paper solvent. Every possible economy has been effected, but without the generous support which has been given by the Exercise in donations and voluntary levies we should have ended the year with an adverse balance.

Subject to audit, we have finished the year with a small balance on the right side. The great increase of peal and quarter peal ringing due to the Coronation made it necessary to produce larger 20-page papers, and practically the whole cost of this was defrayed by donations from well-wishers.

Your committee recently launched another drive to obtain the necessary number of postal subscribers needed to place the paper on a sound self-supporting basis. Previous efforts to this end have been most disappointing and your committee regret that they have not received the support they had expected. If this last effort is unsuccessful, a serious position will arise. Although we have repeatedly stressed that the key to the solution of financial difficulties is increased postal circulation, sufficient appreciation of this fact would appear to be lacking. We look to every member of the Council to support the latest drive for postal subscribers. It would be unwise to expect that the donations, voluntary levies, etc., will continue indefinitely—and whilst gratefully admitting that these have saved the paper, we cannot reasonably continue to depend upon them. We feel confident that, with sufficient effort all round, our goal can be reached and some easement can be accorded to those who are making frequent donations.

Whilst we are unanimously of the opinion that it would do more harm than good to raise the price of the paper, we must bow to the ruling of the Council on the matter.

During the year we have co-opted Mr. R. S. Anderson to serve on this committee and have found his ideas and interest most helpful.

Your committee unanimously decided to instruct the Editor not to accept anonymous letters and, whilst there have been a small number of protests at this action, they feel they were interpreting the general wishes of the Exercise. We should be grateful if the Council will either endorse or reject this decision.

Once again we would express, on behalf of the Council, our most grateful thanks to all who have helped in the continuance and production of 'The Ringing World.' To Mr. White, the Editor, for his capable and conscientious work and interest, to Mr. Jeater, to all literary contributors and to the many generous subscribers who have helped us through a most difficult period we accord our warmest thanks.

A REVIEW

In the absence of Mr. Smallwood, Mr. H. J. Poole presented the report of 'The Ringing World' Committee.' He said when the committee was appointed three years ago they were in dire distress. The price of paper had increased by £8 an issue, and it was a job to know what to do for the best. The committee made various decisions and had kept the ship afloat. Three years was a long time with a sinking ship, but it was still afloat. They had tried all along to avoid increasing the cost of the paper.

He would like to say how much the committee appreciated the donations that had been received, but they felt that they ought not to rest on that support. They did not want to increase the price. At the present time they were in the midst of their second drive for postal subscribers, which was being backed up by each association. He hoped the meeting would support the recommendation that they carry on as they were at the moment and see the effect of the new scheme.

Now in regard to anonymous letters in 'The Ringing World' the committee were asking the Council either to endorse or reject that decision. That matter would be discussed when the motion was received. The committee were there to carry out the wishes of the Council and they hoped the Council had sufficient confidence in them to confirm what they were doing.

In connection with 'The Ringing World,' a lot of work was done behind the scenes, and in that direction he would like to refer to the work of Mr. Smallwood. He thought it was only right that the Council should show their appreciation (applause). So far as the Editor was concerned, the relations between him and the committee were very cordial. In their efforts to cut their expenditure Mr. White accepted a reduction of £1 a week in his salary. That cut had now been restored. Mr. Jeater was now also receiving £2 a week for his work and the committee did appreciate very much what he was doing. Mr. Hughes had been appointed hon. treasurer to 'The Ringing World,' and his experience and knowledge had been most helpful. The secretary (Mr. Barnett) had worked hard as the link between the Council and the Exercise.

A WEEK FOR A BIG EFFORT

Next week starts a new half-year. We ask all representatives of 'The Ringing World' to make a great effort to start with a bumper number of new postal subscribers.

Mr. A. B. Peck seconded the adoption of the report.

In reply to questions by Mr. N. Chaddock, the General Secretary said the accounts for 1952 had been revised and the profit was £62 and not £136. These figures had been certified by their professional auditors.

Mr. A. H. Pulling said the late Mr. Goldsmith had no illusion about the difficulties of 'The Ringing World.' Of about 40,000 ringers approximately 36,000 were only interested in their Sunday ringing and did not care a hang about ringing in general. Personally he would not pay 4d. for a paper dealing with football (laughter).

In answer to another question from Mr. Chaddock, Mr. Poole said the drive for new postal subscribers had produced to date 140 from 49 associations.

LEVY OF 1s. A MEMBER

Mr. B. G. Key said the secretary of the Archdeaconry of Stafford had written suggesting a levy of 1s. per year from each member of every Guild or Association. That revenue would make 'The Ringing World' solvent.

Mr. P. J. Johnson criticised such a suggestion as impossible. The secretaries had a hard job to get in the subscriptions.

Mr. Key: It was carried unanimously by the meeting.

Mr. H. Miles: How would you do it in Cornwall where we don't have individual subscriptions?

The Rev. A. G. G. Thurlow asked the committee not to worry too much on having to depend on charity. He would remind them of what St. Paul said about charity—the most valuable of all gifts. It was on charity that the Christian Church depended and it was on this charity that they kept their bells going. He would like £3,000 from anyone who felt charitably disposed for the restoration of the bells of St. Andrew's, Norwich. They would only get those bells by charity and they would also only keep 'The Ringing World' going by that means—and it was a grand thing to exercise this charity in this uncharitable age of 1954.

Mr. C. K. Lewis suggested sending a letter to all parish priests in Crockford calling attention to 'The Ringing World.' They would get the parsons asking their ringers if they took 'The Ringing World.' It was surprising what gentlemen in the dog collar could do.

Mr. R. S. Anderson said Mr. Thurlow spoke of charity seriously. 'The Ringing World' was a business and not a charity. Mr. Thurlow, however, did not exercise charity when he asked him for a contribution towards the £150 required for his own bells.

The Rev. A. G. G. Thurlow: But I did offer him a contribution on condition (laughter).

Mr. F. E. Dukes asked how many members of the Council were supporting 'The Ringing World' by becoming postal subscribers.

Mr. E. A. Barnett: Last September 120 members took 'The Ringing World' by post and 52 did not.

The report was adopted.

'THE RINGING WORLD' ACCOUNTS

'The Ringing World' accounts for the year showed a total revenue of £4,721 3s. 6d., made up as follows: Rolls Publishing Co., £1,799 10s. 11d.; postal subscribers, £1,765 8s. 9d.; donations, £310 14s. 2d.; sundry sales, £15 13s. 8d.; notices, £383 3s.; advertisements, £421 4s. 6d.; blocks, £5 8s. 6d.; general fund advertisement, £20.

Expenses. — Printing and blocks, £3,441 3s. 6d.; despatch of copies, £131 15s.; postage and wrappers, £547 19s. 6d. Editorial Office — Editor's fees and expenses, £258 6s.; clerical assistance, £115 13s. 8d.; postage, stationery, £19 12s. 9d. Accounts Department—Clerical assistance, £104: postage, £20 0s. 6d.; stationery and telephone, £9 15s. 9d.; audit fees, £21; sundry, £5 1s. 7d. Excess of income over expenditure, £46 15s. 3d.

Introducing 'The Ringing World' accounts, Mr. Barnett said the Editor's cut was restored in July, 1953, and the additional sum had been counterbalanced by £20 received from the Council's publications account. They had also to pay £21 for professional auditors' fees. The sum of £800 had been invested and that would bring in £28 a year for the next eight or 10 years. The investment was made last November. He had received the auditors' official report on the 1951–52 accounts.

The accounts were adopted.

ANONYMOUS LETTERS

Mr. J. R. Worrall submitted the following motion:—

'That this Council disapproves of the ban on the publication in "The Ringing World" of letters signed with a pen name and instructs the Editorial Committee to rescind it forthwith; furthermore, that this Council expresses its complete confidence in the ability of the Editor of "The Ringing World" to select only such letters as he considers suitable for publication.'

He said the Editorial Committee gave no reason for the imposition of the ban. He thought that the matter arose from the letter signed 'Cumberland' and there was very little in that letter at which to take offence. It criticised the Ancient Society of College Youths, but apart from that he saw no reason why it should have occasioned the ban. These letters were not really anonymous, as the Editor knew the name and address of the sender. No Editor would accept correspondence unless it was so signed.

He felt that this ban was imposed because it was a matter dealing with the College Youths. He felt that had it been criticism of a lesser Society it might have passed unnoticed.

He would like to put forward two points against the ban. First of all it enabled a writer to submit a critical letter without the fear of any possible recriminations. He himself was a member of the College Youths, and in consequence of that motion he was afraid he would be very unpopular at the annual dinners. They had an example in a letter at the comment that was aroused when an individual said he was a College Youth and that was taken as the official view. That was clearly stated in the letter as the view of the individual and not the College Youths.

If the president or general secretary wished to write a letter and his name appeared at the bottom of it that letter would be taken as coming from the Council. Under a nom-de-plume those individuals could express their personal opinions without it being interpreted as the official view. He submitted that there were more reasons in favour of the ban being removed than against it.

Miss Jacqueline Evans seconded.

Mr. Anderson said the argument advanced for a nom-de-plume in a national journal could not be advanced for 'The Ringing World,' which was purely a domestic and parochial journal. In the past there had been numerous letters in 'The Ringing World' of a very controversial nature and very scathing remarks had been made. In a number of cases the originator of the criticism had been directed to the wrong person. 'The Ringing World' Committee felt that if anyone had anything to say of a constructive nature he should not be afraid to hide his light under a bushel. The committee considered that this motion was the equivalent of a vote of no confidence in them.

NO PISTOL THREAT

The Rev. K. W. H. Felstead said his first Council meeting was at Norwich, and they all knew some of the unfortunate things that happened about 'The Ringing World' there. It was then a case of a pistol being held at the representatives' heads and a threat to resign if they did not agree with the Editor. Surely they could express an opinion that day without it being interpreted as a vote of no confidence and it being accompanied by a threat to resign.

Mr. H. J. Poole assured Mr. Felstead and the Council that there was no pistol threat about the report of the committee. There was no suggestion that if they passed the resolution the committee would retire. He would say that the motion was very badly worded in instructing the committee to rescind the ban. It was suggesting that they had every confidence in the Editor and no confidence in the committee. The relationship of the Editor with the committee was most cordial.

Mr. Worrall explained that he intended no such thing. He thought the Editorial Committee was elected by the Council and that the Council was the only body that could instruct the committee.

Mr. P. J. Johnson said that anonymous letters were a constant source of trouble and stirred up trouble up and down the country. If they permitted such letters they would have a lot of dirty linen washed in public. He hoped the day was far distant when they would give carte blanche authority to insert such letters.

Mr. R. G. Blackman asked the Standing Committee if he offered a contribution of £300 to 'The Ringing World' would they insist on his name being published. There were often very good reasons why a man's name should not be published.

'SPICED ALE'

The Rev. F. Ll. Edwards hoped 'The Ringing World' Committee would reconsider the ban. There were uses to anonymous correspondence. In regard to 'The Ringing World,' all the letters he had written had appeared under his own name. A short time ago he had occasion to use a nom-de-plume. 'The Western Gazette' published extracts each week of 100 and 200 years ago, and one of these reports gave an account of a celebration with spiced ale. He thought it would be an interesting to know what were the ingredients of this beverage. He could not as a parson ask the question under his own name — there would have been protests from temperance societies and other bodies. The result was that many interesting letters were received.

The Rev. A. G. G. Thurlow said in regard to the possible anonymous donor of £300 he had only to write a postcard to the Editor and it would be published in Belfry Gossip. To officials who were afraid that their views in a letter might be taken as an official expression: they could disclaim it in the letter. The president could write: 'This is not connected with Cambridge, cement or the Central Council.'

Mr. P. A. Corby said he thought it was most unfortunate that in this discussion personalities should be allowed to creep in. It was entirely wrong to assume that because a letter was written anonymously it was necessarily pernicious. Some years ago a certain ringer of his acquaintance was tackled by the Editor to write a series of articles on a technical subject. The ringer concerned said, 'I can do it, but I think a lot of people can do it a lot better, but I will do if you keep my name out.' The result was that the articles were written under a nom-de-plume selected by the Editor, but eventually recognised. As far as 'The Ringing World' Committee was concerned, they had taken a steam hammer to crack a walnut. There was no reason why this question of anonymity should not be left to the Editor. He asked the proposer and seconder if they were prepared to amend their motion slightly to that effect.

Mr. A. A. Hughes recalled the anonymous letters in the old 'Bell News,' which caused a frightful lot of ill-feeling.

SIGNATURE A YARD STICK

Mr. F. E. Haynes said a letter signed gave a yard stick by which it could be judged. Many regular correspondents to 'The Ringing World' would find it useful if they could send their letters in anonymously. He would like to plead for the maintenance of the present practice.

Mr. Bernard Ashford commented that matters frequently raised in anonymous letters were local which should be thrashed out at branch or annual meetings. That was a point they should bear in mind.

Mr. N. Chaddock said the late Editor wrote anonymous letters to stimulate correspondence.

Mr. A. B. Peck asked if it was the letter signed 'Cumberland' that caused the motion.

Mr. H. J. Poole: It was that letter which brought it to the notice of the Editorial Committee. In the past there had been a great deal of misrepresentation of facts in anonymous letters and his Guild decided not to reply to them. The result was that many people got a false impression of the Guild.

Mr. J. T. Dunwoody asked in the light of the discussion whether the mover would withdraw the motion and leave it to the discretion of the committee.

Mr. A. D. Barker said the committee in their wisdom imposed the ban. The motion to him appeared to be a direct negative.

Mr. G. W. Fletcher thought the motion was badly worded. He suggested the following: 'That this Council expresses complete confidence in the ability of "The Ringing World" Committee to select such anonymous letters as it considers suitable for publication.'

This was carried nem con.

'The Ringing World' Committee was then re-elected.

BIOGRAPHIES COMMITTEE

About the time that our report for 1953 was being prepared a critical examination of the Press reports of every Council meeting was undertaken by Mr. Stilwell with special attention to those elected to membership of the Council and their attendance at meetings. The result of his investigation was complete and set out in a book provided for the purpose before the 1953 meeting. Thus the figures given to the Bournemouth meeting were not quite accurate.

Mr. Stilwell's effort disclosed that in the 63 years of the Council's existence, 663 persons have been elected to membership. Of these 64 did not attend a meeting of the Council. 96 attended one meeting only and 285 former members are known to be deceased. Concerning the latter item there is reason to believe that some former members have died without the event being reported, either in the Press or to the Council. A few such cases have been found and the committee urge all members to be watchful to see that notices of deaths of past members, if not reported in The Ringing World,' are furnished to the Biographies Committee. Since the Bournemouth meeting the following deaths have been announced: W. H. J. Hooton, G. R. Newton, W. Perkins, J. H. W. White, H. R. Butcher, D. D. Cooper, T. Law.

Nearly fifty biographies have been added to our Record Book as completed during the past year and we need only photographs to complete the records of the following deceased past members: Messrs. J. Dillon, H. A. Heywood, W. Walmsley (Chester Guild), E. E. Burgess, A. E. Coles, Rev. H. C. Courtney (Bath and Wells), Messrs. F. E. Dawe, H. Walton (College Youths), E. F. Strange (Surrey), T. Groombridge, sen. (Kent County), T. Groombridge, jun. (Southwell), B. Keeble (Essex), R. G. Knowles (Hereford), G. T. McLoughlin (London County), C. D. Potter (Barnsley and District), J. W. Parker (Durham and Newcastle), Harvey Reeves (Worcester).

The committee again offers thanks to its many friends in all parts of the country who have endeavoured to help it in what is and must remain a difficult task.

The committee was re-elected with thanks for its services. Mr. Blackman asked new members to fill in the forms as quickly as possible.

Mr. G. W. Fletcher congratulated Mr. Stilwell on his analysis. Before those figures were used, he said, they should make certain that they conformed with the official records of the Council.

PEALS COLLECTION COMMITTEE

The committee has considered the question of a collection of compositions of Stedman Caters and Cinques, and considers that a useful one could be produced of the same size as the 'Collection of Compositions in the popular Major Methods.' The committee now awaits the decision of the Council as to whether such a collection shall be undertaken.

Since submitting the report for 1953–54, the committee has learned that 'Stedman' in the J. W. Snowdon series is being republished in revised form and will include a collection of more modern peals of Caters and Cinques. The committee recommends that no decision be taken until this book has appeared, when the position can be reviewed.

The Secretary stated that he had received a minority report from Mr. C. W. Roberts strongly dissenting from the view expressed. He felt that it would not be a modern collection of peals and that the collection could be improved. The Standing Committee discussed it and recommended that the minority report be not accepted.

The report was adopted, and Messrs. C. W. Woolley, A. J. Pitman and C. W. Roberts were elected to the committee with power to co-opt.

A FOURTH CENTENARY PEAL AT SOUTHAMPTON

The peal of Cambridge Royal rung at St. Michael's, Southampton, on June 5th, as part of the fourth centenary celebrations of King Edward VI. School, had an especial interest for some of those taking part. The treble ringer is head of the Spanish department at the school: the ringer of the second, besides being Vicar at St. Michael's, has a close connection with the school in his capacity as Rector of Holyrood, Southampton; and the ringer of the fifth is an Old Edwardian now well known in the Exercise.

The original intention had been to attempt the peal on Southampton's other ring of ten, at St. Mary's, whose former rector, by his will of 1553, left the sum of money by which the school came into existence, receiving its letters patent from King Edward VI. and first opening its doors to receive pupils in 1554. St. Mary's is now rising from its ruins and when, owing to the repair work, the tower had to be closed for several months, the Rev. K. W. H. Felstead very kindly offered to permit the peal attempt to be made at St. Michael's.

The headmaster of King Edward VI. School (Dr. L. J. Stroud) took a keen interest in the ringing and with his wife and two children came to the belfry at the start of the peal to meet the band and wished them every success, staying to hear the opening leads of the peal.

ARTILLERYMEN & WOOLWICH

The granting of the freedom of the Borough of Woolwich to the Royal Regiment of Artillery was not allowed to pass without special ringing at St. Mary's Church at the civic service on May 30th. Many Royal Artillerymen have rung these bells. In the famous Surprise peals rung in 1849 by the Banisters, two soldiers in the Garrison took part. It is said that both were Artillerymen and were presumed to have died on active service during the Crimean War.

An endeavour was made to arrange a band of Gunners to ring a quarter peal at the conclusion of the celebration but it could not be mustered. A composite band attempted a quarter peal of Bob Major, which unfortunately did not come round owing to a shift course. The band was:—Ian Oram 1, J. L. Morris 2, Gunner D. Holland, R.A., 3, A. Grove ex-C.P.O., R.N., 4, R. A. Johnson, ex-P.O., R.N. 5, T. Culver, ex-Gunner, R.A., 6, M. Parry, ex-Signalman, Royal Signals, 7, B. W. Aldridge (conductor) 8.

Composed by G. Lindoff. Conducted by George H. Cross

The ages of the above ringers were 20, 14, 15, 21, 21, 18, 19 and 20 respectively, forming an average of 18¼ years. This is the first peal of Major rung on tower bells by a band as young as the above.

[The record stood until 1926, when a local company at Beddington knocked three years off it. The present record, by a band who aggregated between them, including the odd months, 120 years, was set up at Crayford in 1934.]

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Lewisham District

Forty-five members attended the spring meeting of the Lewisham District at St. Mary's, Woolwich. The Rector (the Rev. W. Thompson) presided at the business meeting, when six new members were elected and the election of one non-resident member ratified.

Members considered that the annual meeting at Bromley had been most successful and decided that thanks be recorded in the minute book to Mr. P. Spice, Mr. I. Emery and others who had assisted in the arrangements.

Downe was chosen for the summer meeting on July 24th with Foots Cray as an alternative.

Mr. P. Brown (Ringing Master) moved a cordial vote of thanks to the Rector and the Rev. F. Walker (who conducted the service) and to Mrs. Coleman and her assistants for a very attractive tea.

Canterbury District

Goodnestone, which has a bus twice a week, was selected for the Canterbury District's latest meeting. Nevertheless, 45 ringers, representing 13 towers, attended. The Vicar (the Rev. C. R. M. Davies) conducted the service and this was followed by an excellent tea.

Lord Fitzwalter, himself a ringer, took the chair at the business meeting, when one hon. member and ten practising members were elected. The day concluded with a convivial half-hour in the Fitzwalter Arms.

HALIFAX ARCHDEACONRY

Despite the weather, 29 members and friends of the Halifax Archdeaconry Society had a successful outing on Whit Tuesday.

After ringing at Bedale, one of the sturdiest towers in the north, with eight bells (tenor 26 cwt.), the journey continued to Richmond. Here an excellent lunch at the Fleece Hotel was followed with ringing at the Parish Church, which contains a memorial chapel to the Green Howards. A sudden thunderstorm delayed departure.

Middleham, famous for its racing stables, has a church dedicated to St. Alkelda. The Taylor eight (tenor 18 cwt.) were good in every way. The climax of the day's ringing was on Ripon Cathedral bells, where the visit coincided with the local practice night. Tea was enjoyed at the Old Deanery Hotel.

The route home was via Harrogate and Leeds. Thanks were expressed to Mr. John Pearson, the Ringing Master, who had organised a flawless outing.

WEDDING BELLS IN KENT

A congratulatory message was sent from the Canterbury District meeting at Goodnestone on May 22nd to two members who were getting married that day at Great Mongeham Parish Church. They were Miss Janet Rosemary Wells, of Sparrow Court, Great Mongeham, and Mr. Frederick William Lawrence, of Walmer.

It was a true ringers' wedding. After the ceremony the newly-married couple passed under an archway of handbells held by the bridegroom's colleagues from Walmer, while the bride's colleagues—Mrs. Court, Marjorie and Mary Strong, Jean Rubottom, Queenie Lee and John Penfold—were ringing the Parish Church bells.

As the couple left for their honeymoon in London and Yorkshire a quarter peal of Grandsire Doubles was rung by Miss M. Hawkins 1, F. R. Hawkins 2, J. Penfold 3, A. C. Rye 4, F. A. Rye (cond.) 5, Ann Vine 6.

After a grand week in Cornwall, thanks to the Sangwin brothers, Mr. W. Hibbert, secretary of the Oxford Guild, writes: 'Many a change ringer would realise what accurate striking really meant if he leaned on a gate near the tower and listened whilst call changes were being rung.'

THE LADIES' GUILD

Midland District

Miss Thompson, the vice-president, at the successful meeting of the Midland District at Ibstock on May 29th, presented an engraved silver spoon and a badge to Mrs. Staniforth for her baby daughter, Rosemary, the youngest member. These were given as a token of the District's appreciation of Mrs. Staniforth's excellent work during her term as secretary since the District was formed in 1946.

Congratulations and best wishes were extended to Iris Rowley and John Lewis on their recent engagement.

About 40 ringers attended. Tea was kindly prepared by Mrs. Rowley, Iris and other helpers, in the Rectory. Next meeting, Bottesford, September 25th.

Central District

The most successful meeting of recent years was held at Norton, Herts, on May 29th. A coach collected members and friends from outer London and arrived at Baldock at 2.45 p.m., where, with the assistance of the gentlemen on the heavy end, this fine ring of eight was rung in a variety of methods until 3.30 p.m.

Then the coach proceeded to Norton, a very light eight and most suitable for the fair sex. Touches included a well-struck course of London Surprise Major in which five ladies took part.

The Vicar of Norton (the Rev. G. Kenyon) conducted a short service, at which the lesson was read by a former secretary of the District, Mrs. E. E. Davis, and the organist was the vice-president, Mrs. T. J. Lock.

A party of 49 partook of an excellent tea in the nearby schoolroom, prepared by Mr. and Mrs. H. Werrett and family.

At the business meeting Mrs. M. Hodgson was voted to the chair. Seven new members were elected:—Marjorie Collins, Juliet Mennell and Ivy Werrett (Norton), Patricia Hutton (Baldock), Roselyn Crewe (Hampstead), Barbara Marsh (Finchley) and Claire Chambers (Knebworth).

SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Eastern Division

About 40 members, representing 20 towers, attended the joint meeting with the Hawkhurst and District Guild at Christ Church, Blacklands, Hastings, on May 29th. Good striking was achieved in the ringing which extended to Double Norwich and Cambridge Surprise.

The Vicar (the Rev. K. Morgan), who conducted the service, also presided at the business meeting, when the Northern band were elected members of the Association. The June practice meeting will be held in this tower, as Wadhurst bells are due to go to the foundry.

The ladies present promised full support to Mrs. Percy, who stated that she was prepared to get the Ladies' Guild started in Sussex.

The proposed Association badge was discussed and the opinion was expressed that the price of 6s. or 7s. was reasonable. The suggestion of Mr. F. H. Dellaway that the badge be produced in monel metal, which would not tarnish, was passed on to the general secretary.

The secretary stated that Bexhill tenor was now so badly cracked that it could not be rung, and, in fact, all eight bells badly needed attention.

Mr. S. G. Waters thanked Christ Church ringers for a most enjoyable meeting and the Vicar for an excellent address

GUILD OF DEVONSHIRE RINGERS

Annual Festival

THE annual festival of the Guild of Devonshire ringers took place at Plymouth on Whit Monday. As the numerical strength of the Guild lies chiefly in the eastern half of the county the presence of over 100 members was proof of the popularity of the occasion, and many travelled long distances to be present, return journeys of over 150 miles being nothing out of the ordinary.

The centre of the festival, as on the first general meeting day in 1874, was St. Andrew's Church. The tower and bells, which providentially escaped the German bombs, remain much as they were, but the rest of the fabric, although re-roofed and watertight, is still gaunt and bereft of all but the most essential furnishings. The austere atmosphere of the building, far from having a chilling effect, seemed rather to lighten and warm the hearts and minds of those privileged to be present at the service, which, although following the standard form used at all Branch meetings, took on a new significance from the fact that in that same church, 80 years before, the founders of the Guild had met to ask God's blessing on their endeavours

The service was conducted by the Vicar of St. Andrew's, the Rev. W. H. A. Cooper, assisted by the Guild president, Prebendary E. V. Cox. The collection, in aid of St. Andrew's Restoration Fund, amounted to £2 13s. 4d.

The Vicar, in a stimulating address, welcomed the Guild to St. Andrew's, and said that although 80 was a good age, it was by no means old when compared either with the life of the Church or with the time that bells had been used to call people to worship. Nevertheless, 80 years of service to the Diocese was something for which to be thankful, and he was sure that the Guild had earned the thanks of the Church for all it had done.

He had read in the annual report that the past year had seen a slight falling off in numbers which he hoped would prove to be only temporary. Although this was often blamed on the lack of interest and other diversions of the young people of to-day this was only partly true. What was needed was a realisation by all concerned that a church was not a collection of independent units—clergy, choir, ringers and congregation — but an interdependent fellowship, no part of which was more important than another, but all united to promote the one and only thing that mattered, the worship of Almighty God.

Over 80 members and friends sat down to luncheon at the Invicta Hotel. Among the visitors were Mrs. E. S. Powell and friends from Stoke-under-Ham, and Mr. and Mrs. Stenson, of Crewe, as well as others from Cornwall and Somerset. At the subsequent business meeting the president was supported by the Rev. W. H. A. Cooper, Mr. F. C. Smale (vice-president), Mr. T. G. Myers (secretary of the S.W. Branch) and the general secretary. Apologies were received from Mr. G. H. Myers, Mr. A. W. Searle, Mr. S. H. Green, Mr. E. M. Atkins. Capt. A. R. Poyntz and Commander Gordon Cross.

MEMBERSHIP OF 525

The annual report stated that after a slight increase in 1952 numbers had fallen this year to 525, but in no Branch was the loss greater than six except in East Devon, where the Payhembury band had not felt able to continue its membership. The Guild had fully played its part in the Coronation celebrations, six peals and seven quarter peals having been rung in honour of the event, and in these every Branch of the Guild was represented. The total number of peals for the year was 27 and three new peal conductors had emerged. The accounts showed that Guild and Branch balances in hand amounted to £259 7s. 11d., whilst there was £172 9s. 9d. in the Bells Restoration Fund. The report and accounts were duly adopted.

A motion sponsored by the S.W. Branch 'That the Chancellor of the Diocese be approached in the name of the Guild with a request that faculties for the installation in churches of amplifiers for bell reproduction be restricted or refused' was moved by Mr. T. G. Myers. All present seeming to be in one mind on the subject, there was little discussion, and the motion was carried unanimously.

Nor had anyone much to say to the proposition of the East Devon Branch, moved by Mr. F. H. Parr that subscriptions for members of 16 and under should be reduced to 1s. 6d. It is hoped that this will bring many youngsters who now find 3s. rather beyond their capacity—especially where there are several in one family—into full membership of the Guild. The motion was carried nemine contradicente.

A letter from the secretary of the Central Council with regard to the future of the 'Ringing World' was next given an airing. The president and general secretary urged everyone to do his utmost to promote the sale of the paper, and the meeting heartily agreed with the suggestion that each Branch should appoint a correspondent and sales promoter.

The meeting endorsed the recommendation of the General Committee that next year's festival should take place at Exmouth on Whit Monday, and also that the retiring officers should be re-elected

Mr. F. C. Smale, in moving the re-election of Prebendary Cox as president, mentioned that since its foundation the Guild had had only five presidents, and that this coming year would see the 21st anniversary of Prebendary Cox's tenure of that office.

PRESIDENT AND RINGING STANDARDS

In his reply the president celebrated his coming of age with some carefully-chosen, but most pregnant and provocative remarks on the subject of striking. He had, he said, been doing duty recently at a church with a well-known call-change band, and he had been impressed, as he had been all his life in similar company, with the wonderful accuracy of their striking. There had in recent years been a great increase in the number of competitions for call-change ringers, which had no doubt helped to maintain their high standard. He could not help feeling that much half-pull ringing was not as good as it should be and that if something were not done to enable method ringers to give of their best the comparison with call-change ringers would not be a favourable one. He did not suggest that the Guild should hold competitions, but he felt very strongly that it should do something to improve half-pull striking.

These remarks did not fall on deaf ears, and under the heading of 'Any Other Business,' they gave rise to a discussion in which the arguments for and against competitions were ventilated Rather significantly, the chief note of warning was sounded by Mr. S. G. Sully, who is both a member of the Guild and secretary of a call-change tower, and who pointed out that no matter how many members a band might have, only six or eight could take part in a competition, and human nature being what it was, this did not always promote a feeling of good fellowship More will be heard on this subject at Branch meetings during the coming months, and the general secretary is bringing a fire extinguisher with him to the next General Committee meeting!

The usual votes of thanks having been accorded, members dispersed to the various towers placed at their disposal. The three Guild towers in Plymouth were kept open as long as anyone came to ring: at seven others permission had been granted, but those wishing to ring had been asked to notify their arrival. In some cases, however, this had not been done, and there was much running hither and thither in search of keys, resulting, it is feared, in some cases of disappointment. However, both this and the rain, which came on in real Devon fashion during the afternoon, quite failed to damp anyone's spirits, and it will be many a long day before the cordiality of the welcome given to the Guild by the South-West Branch will be forgotten.. A DAY TOUR OF DEVON AND SOMERSET

On one of the brightest of Easter Monday mornings for several years, the ringers of All Saints', East Budleigh (Devon), were joined by friends from Littleham, Honiton Clyst and Exeter on a really enjoyable tour.

The first stop was at Calverleigh, tenor just over 5 cwt., which is, I've been told, just about our weight. Anyway we enjoyed a full 45 minutes here and then pressed on to Winsford and something a little heavier. Talking of 'something,' that is certainly just what Winsford has in more ways than one. Clean, neat cottages, with trim thatch and gardens, a rippling brook, which, together with the song of the birds and the buzzing of the 'dumble-dors' were the only sounds disturbing a peaceful atmosphere, until we started. The lovely old church has six excellent bells. All this set in really beautiful countryside, a very fitting birthplace for a man like the late Ernie Bevin.

Here, we decided, was the spot for our picnic lunch, as good an excuse as any to linger another half hour in such a delightful place. All of us except two had finished well within that time, and be it put on record that these two were still eating when we arrived at Dunster; they are obviously in the 'one meal a day type'—all day.

Dunster is surely the Queen of West Somerset. Here one felt the urge to 'Come ye yourselves apart and rest awhile,' and more than that I must leave to a better pen than mine.

Wiveliscombe, Milverton and Wellington followed, and by this time our driver must have thought he was getting a full share of ups and downs and ins and outs. It was a tortuous route of steep hills and narrow lanes, in fact the proprietor of the coach company must have thought we had been glass-papering the sides of the bus in our spare time! All lovely country, though, and very nice bells.

Tea at Wellington, and while our waitress easily coped with 25 of us, those same two kept three extra waitresses going at full tilt until long after the allotted span! Ah well, they are big fellows, anyway. Here ended our eight-bell ringing for the day, and the way ahead lay through more lovely countryside, and the bells at Hemyock and Upottery were well used. C. OBITUARY

MR. A. D. CULLUM

With deep regret we record the death on June 7th of Mr. Albert Doughty Cullum, of 40, Cardiff Road, Reading, aged 76 years.

He was a member of the Oxford Diocesan Guild and the Caversham tower for just over 60 years and a member of the College Youths for nearly that period. His passing means the last of the famous old Caversham band. He was taught to handle a bell by Mr. W. J. Williams at St. Laurence's, Reading. He was captain of Caversham tower from 1936 to June, 1953, when he retired on account of ill health.

His first peal, on the treble to Stedman Triples, was rung in 1896 and before the 1914 war he rang many peals in the four standard Surprise methods, but the peal he was most proud of was the first peal of London at Westminster Abbey.

Apart from his ringing ability he was very keen on the business side of the Guild, and would not tolerate anything at meetings unless it was in strict accordance with correct procedure, and the first Master of the Guild, the late Rev. F. E. Robinson, was often heard to remark in the early days of the Guild, 'There'll be trouble to-day, the big fair chap with his little dark pal are coming.' This was referring to his lifelong friend, the late Tom Hibbert, and himself.

He leaves a widow and three sons to mourn, two of the sons also having rung peals, but unfortunately, through business, are not able to carry on with the art.

At his funeral, on June 11th, the Oxford Guild were well represented, among those present being Mr. F. Sharpe (Deputy Master), Mr. W. Hibbert (general secretary) and Mr. A. D. Barker (hon. treasurer). The bells, half-muffled, were rung before and after the service. The first 'touch,' on behalf of the Guild, was called by Mr. E. Humfrey, aged 84. Handbells were rung in the church by Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Barker, Mr. W. Hibbert and Mrs. Lewington.

MR. JOHN WILFRED DAVIS

In his 85th year, Mr. J. W. Davis died at Lydney, Glos, on Sunday, June 6th, after a very short illness. He fell on the Friday, saw a doctor, and was apparently all right, but fell again on Sunday, and the end came quickly.

Born at Prestbury, Mr. J. W. Davis learned to ring under his father at a very early age, his sister says, almost as soon as he could walk, and he never lost interest. His last visit to Prestbury was only a few weeks ago, when he had great pleasure in helping the learners. They have since rung their first quarter peal to his memory.

At the age of 21 he lost a leg, but was soon in the tower again, on crutches, before an artificial limb had been fitted. He caught a crutch on a bolt head in the floor, falling and opening up the wound. Later he had a cork leg and, later still, one made of nylon, and he still went on ringing.

In 1886, when the Days of Eye added the two trebles and rehung the old six at Prestbury, it was J. W. D. who assisted them. There are some photographs in the tower in frames he made from the timber of the original Rudhall frame. His last peal was probably at Lydney in January, 1951, at the age of 82.

The funeral was at St. Mary's, Lydney, on June 10th. C. R.

MR. FREDERICK A. HACKER

The Calne Branch of the Salisbury Guild mourn the passing of Mr. Frederick A. Hacker, one of its oldest members.

'I well remember the time when the family lived at Broad Hinton, some 40 years ago,' writes Mr. L. A. Wilson.

'Fred learned to ring on the heavy five at Wroughton, and it was there I planted the foundation of half-pull ringing which resulted in the first peal at Broad Hinton, in which Fred took part. This peal was to commemorate the wedding of Princess Mary. Since then we have travelled many miles together and started others on the way to change ringing.

'Fred and his family moved to Heddington in 1931 and there joined up with the Calne band. Both at Calne and Heddington, after the five were restored, he did a great deal of spade work and together with members of his family played a leading part in getting the five at Heddington augmented to six. It will be hard to replace him; he was always willing and cheerful, regular and reliable as a ringer.

'Our sympathy is extended to Mrs. Hacker. Jim and Bessie and other members of his family, and we leave our friend Fred to his eternal rest. May he rest in peace.'

The interment took place at St. Andrew's, Heddington, on June 15th, the service being taken by Canon White, R.D., chairman of Calne Branch, assisted by the Rev. D. O'Hanlon, Vicar of Calne.

MRS. C. V. ROBERTS

An associate member of the Wotton-under-Edge Branch of the Gloucester and Bristol Association, Mrs. Roberts, of Wickwar, Glos, died suddenly and unexpectedly on May 25th. She was buried at Wickwar on May 29th.

The wife of a ringer, though not herself one, she was very regular in attendance at Branch meetings and will be sadly missed by her husband and all who knew her. We have far too few such members as was Mrs. Roberts, who, by their cheerful presence, make meetings so much brighter. There are also left two sons. C. R.

MR. W. J. WINTER

The Heston band lost one of its most regular members by the sudden death of Mr. W. J. Winter on May 28th at the age of 68.

A native of Frampton-on-Severn, where he first learned to ring 'Jim' Winter moved to London to join the police. Of the 26 years he served, 24 were spent at Fulham, during which time he was associated with the Putney band and the Police Guild. The last 12 years of his retirement were spent in Heston, where he joined the local band and maintained an unfailing attendance at all Sunday ringing and practices.

He rang two peals; the first was for the Police Guild several years before the war, when he rang the tenor behind at the Borough, and his second was only last year when he rang his first 'inside' on Coronation Day at Heston.

As a last token of respect a quarter peal of Stedman Triples was rung half-muffled at Heston on June 3rd, the day of his cremation at Mortlake, by W. W. Webb 1, J. B. Sansom 2, B. A. Rose 3, W. A. Lewis 4, M. V. Chilcott 5, E. R. Gladman 6, J. Chilcott (conductor) 7, E. Ricketts 8. J. B. S.

BEVERLEY & DISTRICT SOCIETY

A recognised rule in the weather lore of the village of Nunburnholme is that when the Ringing Society visits the church the sun will shine. May 8th was no exception. Twenty-five ringers attended and rang standard methods on the lovely ring of six during the afternoon while the ladies went on a primrose hunt. The Rector of Goodmanham (the Rev. E. A. Bailey) conducted the service, with Mrs. Bailey as the organist, and the Rev. G. Storer read the lesson. Mr. A. Young, one of the churchwardens, arranged the tea in the old schoolroom and, with the ladies, was heartily congratulated on the effort.

THE RINGING WORLD

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

No. 2256 Vol. L. FRIDAY, JULY 2, 1954 Registered at the G.P.O. for transmission as a newspaper 4d.

RINGERS' OUTINGS

WE have now reached the season of ringers' outings. During the coming weeks ringers all over the country will be setting off early in the morning, in the majority of cases by motor-coach, to visit some half-dozen or so church towers in order to enjoy what, for them, is an undeniable pleasure, that of ringing bells in other than their own parish church or neighbouring towers.

These outings as a general rule are thoroughly enjoyed and looked forward to year by year by all who go, whether they are ringers or not. What is not always so fully appreciated is the amount of work which falls upon the organisers of such trips. Weeks beforehand those responsible for the trip must work out the route and note the towers desired. Then to each tower captain or secretary a letter must be written with a request for the use of the bells and the approximate times of arrival and departure. Meals also have to be arranged and times carefully worked out. All this involves a good deal of letter writing and awaiting replies. One tower perhaps is not available and the whole route may have to be reorganised involving more letter writing. Finally, the party must be made up and so come all the customary trials and tribulations—the indecisive, the last-minute cancellations and requests.

First, a few suggestions to organisers of these outings. Try to have as few non-ringers as possible on the outing. By that is meant those who only wish to go for the sake of the trip or because of the places to be visited. Potential ringers should be encouraged to go as it may well act as a final spur for them to start learning to ring. Beginners likewise should be encouraged as it gives them valuable experience in handling bells which, in all probability, are very different from those upon which they have learnt. One of the organiser's chief tasks on the outing is endeavouring to keep to the time-table; a help in this matter is to issue to each person a type-written notice of the towers to be visited, with times of arrival and departure, number of bells and the weight of the tenor add interest; meal times should also be stated. Where this idea has been tried it has been found to be a great help in the matter of punctuality. The actual route to be taken should be mapped out and the coach driver consulted beforehand in order to avoid the party losing its way; this is particularly important if small country places are to be visited.

Secondly, to all who go on the outing. Obviously if the ringing is to be enjoyed, punctuality is a most important factor. One late-comer at any point during the day can so easily spoil it for the rest. When visiting a church tower it is indeed a pity, as does happen, to make the journey solely to and from the ringing chamber. All churches are worth looking at, both inside and out. Why not a moment on our knees in prayer for our fellow-ringers and the parish in which we are? A copy of the parish magazine, a leaflet about the church or a picture postcard bought in church will act as a reminder later, and a donation in the almost inevitable box is a way in which we can show our thanks for the use of the bells. One need hardly say that behaviour, especially within the church and its precincts, is most important.

Thirdly, a word to those whose towers receive a visit from one of these outings. However inconvenient it may be, it is highly desirable that some responsible person should meet the visitors, even if it means waiting about because they are delayed. Apart from any other consideration, it does make a big difference to the visitors to be met and to be made to feel that their visit is welcome. Unless quite unavoidable, visitors should never be left to find their own way to the ringing chamber and there possibly be confronted by that ominously dangerous notice, 'All bells are up.' Dangerous because if the tower is open to the expected visitors it is open to all and a nasty or even fatal accident is by no means impossible. The ringing chamber itself is well worth an extra clean up beforehand. The cleanliness or otherwise of the belfry is one of the first things that catches the eye of any visitor.

Finally, a word to the clergy. It is always much appreciated by a visiting band of ringers if the incumbent can manage to look in at some point during their brief visit. Better still if he has time to show those interested round the church, pointing out objects of historical and other interest. Most ringers do look round the church at which ringing is taking place and are as keenly interested in what they see as any other visitors.

GILLETT
AND
LIMITED

No matter in which corner of the country you happen to be, as likely as not you will come across Gillett & Johnston bells or tower clocks. Gillett & Johnston craftsmanship is embodied in an all-embracing service — as much in the preservation and restoration of old rings of antiquarian interest as in the installation of new.

SELBY AND DISTRICT SOCIETY

The annual outing of the Society on Whit Monday was a great success. One bus started from Stainforth at 6.25 a.m. and the other from Barnby Don at 7 a.m., both meeting at Selby.

The first ringing was on the light six at Whixley, which had been recently overhauled. Then came Birstwith, a beautiful eight, when Mr. Jackson Ewbank had raised the bells, followed by Skipton, where cups of tea had been provided by the local company. These bells were a pleasure to ring on.

The weather deteriorated in the afternoon but ringing took place at Keighley and Bingley. At St. Ives Mansion a ham, tongue and salad tea was provided. Learners rang rounds and set changes at all towers visited.

MANCHESTER CATHEDRAL

Ossett Parish Church and Ripon Cathedral were visited by Manchester Cathedral band for their annual outing on June 12th. It was hoped to ring at the ancient Parish Church at Knaresborough but unfortunately the tower is unsafe. Ringing included Grandsire and Stedman Caters and Plain Bob and Kent Treble Bob Royal. The outing was a great success, the party numbering 30.

LEIGHTON BUZZARD

Leighton Buzzard had a three-county tour on Whit Monday for their annual outing, visiting Northamptonshire, Huntingdonshire and Rutland.

Ringing took place at Godmanchester, St. John-the-Baptist, Peterborough, Oakham, Uppingham (where the school was also visited) and Rothwell. After tea at Uppingham Mr. H. B. Whitney thanked the organiser, Mr. V. Conquest. Ringing reached a course of Superlative.

OUTINGS

NEWARK

Newark Parish Church ringers selected Scarborough for their annual outing. Leaving Newark at 7.30 a.m., Scarborough was reached at 11.45. St. Mary's Church (8, tenor 21 cwt.) was immediately visited where a warm welcome was received. Complicated methods were not attempted as the Society is now a very flourishing one with many young learners. Mr. J. W. Raithby is thanked for organising a most enjoyable day.

BLAXHALL

On June 19th the Blaxhall (Suffolk) ringers and friends from neighbouring villages had a most enjoyable and interesting tour in Essex, visiting Maldon (8), Danbury (6), Rayleigh (8), Leigh-on-Sea (6), Prittlewell (10) and Thorpe Bay (8). The success of the outing was due to the organisation of Mr. Gordon Keeble.

A. S. P.

IPSWICH

An outing to the Fen Country was enjoyed on June 5th by ringers of the Ipswich Churches of St. Lawrence, St. Clement, St. Margaret and Matthew and St. Andrew, Rushmere.

Ringing took place at St. Mary's, Newmarket (a fine six with a 21 cwt. tenor), St. Andrew-the-Great and St. Benet's, Cambridge, St. Ives, Hunts, Hemingford Abbots (a good six by the River Ouse), St. Mary's (8) and All Saints' (6), Huntingdon, and the recently restored eight at Godmanchester.

Torrential rain and vivid lightning occurred at Huntingdon, which delayed the programme but no one received a wetting. Ipswich was reached about 11.30 p.m.

PORTISHEAD

Was it just by coincidence that we elected to visit places with such names as Moreton-in-the-Marsh, Bourton-on-the-Water and Watermoor? Probably it was, but this certainly turned out to be the most 'watery' day of a wet period. Nevertheless, we shall have many pleasant recollections of this Cotswold tour. Firstly, there was the enjoyable ringing at Wotton-under-Edge (where the fine bells are worthy of the lovely church in which they are set), followed by a visit to Charlton Kings via the lovely Stroud Valley, and Birdlip.

We shall certainly not easily forget our visit to Blockley and the cordial welcome received from the Vicar, whose amiable company we enjoyed throughout our stay there. Those who braved the rain at Bourton-on-the-Water to inspect the model village were duly impressed, but the remark of a local 'You should see it when the sun is shining' was not appreciated. We were certainly intrigued to hear well-struck Caters coming from the model eight-bell tower! The best ringing of the day was reserved for Cirencester (Watermoor), where we had the help of that grand veteran Mr. F. J. Lewis, who is justly proud of his delightful octave.

Thanks to all who contributed to our pleasure, not forgetting the gentleman who awaited us on descending from the tower at Blockley to thank us for ringing and to say how much the villagers had enjoyed it. That, surely, is the ideal culmination of any tower grabbing!

The peal of Kent Treble Bob Royal at Stonham Aspal was the first peal to be rung since the recent restoration by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston. It was a silver wedding peal for Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Parker and a birthday compliment to Mr. J. Smy, of Blaxhall. The band tender their many thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Button for their kind hospitality, and to Mr. C. E. Fisher for kindly standing in at the last minute.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Last Easter the bells of SS. Peter and Paul's, Mitcham, were rehung after the destruction of the church by fire in 1943. A new local band was formed and four of them rang their first quarter on June 17th. With the exception of two, who were taught to handle by Mr. S. Howard, of St. Leonard's, Streatham, last August, the band is entirely self-taught. Its 12 members are regular Sunday service ringers.

Mrs. Mary P. Mayell is the first lady to ring a peal on the bells of Publow, Somerset.

Mr. John Ashcroft, of 7, Barn Lane, Golborne, near Warrington, is Wigan area correspondent to 'The Ringing World.'

Mr. W. Longman, the representative of the Chester Diocesan Guild, was not present at the Central Council meeting at Chester.

Four of the band who scored a quarter peal at Great Amwell, Herts, on June 5th, have been ringing less than five months. The band hope to announce a peal in the not too distant future.

Mr. E. J. Chivers, secretary of the Frome Branch of the Bath and Wells Association, is in hospital again, for the third time. His many friends wish him a speedy recovery from his long illness, now in its 14th week.

The Thames Valley Ringing Festival on Saturday attracted over 60 ringers to tea in Egham. Ringing took place at five towers, and, with the weather co-operating, a good time was had by all.

Aston, Birmingham, ringers will miss Mr. George Davis, a regular member of their band and one-time Ringing Master, who has accepted an appointment at Cardiff. A farewell quarter, which was rung with the best wishes of the band, took place on June 20th.

Mr. Norman Chaddock, secretary of the Sheffield and District Society, gave a talk on 'Church Bells' to the Science Society and members of the Middle Forms of Rotherham Girls' High School on June 11th. His talk was preceded by a short selection of tunes on handbells by the Wickersley Modern School Handbell Ringers. As a result of the talk, which was illustrated, it is hoped to form a handbell team at the school, 18 girls having expressed a wish to join.

Miss Eileen M. Turner, a pupil at the Guildford County School for Girls, is the first lady ringer to conduct a peal for the Guildford Diocesan Guild.

We thank correspondents who have called attention to the typographical error regarding the peal at Stisted reported on page 390. The title of the peal was Beverley Surprise Minor.

Mr. E. S. Ruck, the grand old man of the Kent County Association, celebrated his 87th birthday by ringing two quarter peals at Willesborough on June 20th.

Although non-ringers, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Pemberton have done much to foster ringing at Bidston, Cheshire. Their silver wedding anniversary was marked by a peal at Bidston on June 1st, which conveyed the congratulations not only of the ringers, but all active members of the Wirral Branch.

Mr. Leslie Hadfield, of East Croydon, who was taught to ring by Mr. Walter W. Wolstencroft and rang his first peal with him in 1925, had the pleasure of meeting his mentor after 26 years, at Windsor. Although in his 80th year, Mr. Wolstencroft still enjoys his ringing—in fact, he was performing for the colourful Knights of the Garter ceremony on June 14th.

NEW COMMITTEE TO DEAL WITH BROADCASTING

METHODS COMMITTEE'S QUIET YEAR — RINGING POPULAR SUBJECT FOR NATIONAL PRESS — VIBRATORY CRACKS IN TOWERS — SPATE OF NEW METHODS — OLD PEAL BOARDS: FINAL APPEAL

METHODS COMMITTEE

After having to peruse lengthy reports for the past few years it will, no doubt, be a pleasure to the Council to have to consider only a short statement from the Methods Committee! Our investigations proceeded on the Extension of Methods as a result of the acceptance by the Council of our recommendations last year, and we published in 'The Ringing World' of February 12th, 1954, the practical results of our work.

The preparation of a book of Doubles methods presented more problems than we had realised, in various directions. Each time we thought we really had finished during the past two or three years, new points cropped up which needed resolving. However, we are pleased to say that the task is now accomplished and the MSS. in the hands of the secretary of the Council for early publication. We trust that the book will fill a long awaited need of 5 and 6-bell ringers.

Our opinion has been asked about the naming of the method Loughborough. This was first rung in a peal of Spliced Major at Wigston Magna in 1937. The figures were published in 'The Ringing World.' The same method was rung at Helmingham in 1938 and called Framsden. It appears as such in Corrigan's Surprise method book. We are unanimously of the opinion that the method be called Loughborough and that the name Framsden should be withdrawn.

Mr. F. Sharpe asked if the committee would consider a book of Triples Methods desirable.

The Rev. K. W. H. Felstead: If it is the wish of the Council we should have much pleasure in producing such a book with special reference to splicing.

The report was adopted and the committee elected as follows: Rev. K. W. H. Felstead (convener), Messrs. F. N. Golden, C. K. Lewis asd C. H. Kippin.

LITERATURE, PRESS & BROADCASTING COMMITTEE

During 1953 bells and bell ringing received considerable notice in the Press. The period of the Coronation was, of course, marked by great ringing activity and newspapers all over the country gave much attention to the part that this ringing played in the ceremony and its attendant rejoicing. Among the broadcasts it is interesting to note that a recorded portion of the Coronation Day ringing was sent out on all English transmitters of the South African Broadcasting Corporation.

Numerous paragraphs and short articles on ringing matters have appeared in all papers during the year. Among these an article on the Westminster Abbey ringers' part in the Coronation was published in 'The Manchester Guardian,' a thesis entitled 'Silver Tongues' in 'The Wolverhampton Express and Echo,' and an editorial in 'The Star' complaining of bells and suggesting that they be rung only on special occasions. This editorial brought forth strong protests from Mr. G. L. Grover, of the Guildford Diocesan Guild, Miss W. Oliver, secretary of the Southern District of the Ladies' Guild, and others.

At the end of the year Norman Shrapnel, of 'The Manchester Guardian,' visited a belfry in Cheshire and captured the spirit of the seasonal ringing in an admirable article, and at about the same period 'The Leicester Evening News' dealt with New Year Eve ringing with Mr. Ernest Morris in the background.

Ringers themselves, too, contributed to the public Press, among these essays being 'St. Martin's Youths,' by Edgar C. Shepherd, in 'The Birmingham Post,' and a series by W. A. Farmer in 'The Shropshire Magazine' entitled 'Shropshire Bells.'

In the columns of 'The Western Gazette,' an admirable article appeared from the pen of Mr. H. J. Sanger emphasising the value of bells as a traditional feature of country life. A little later the same journal published an account by Mr. J. B. Powlesland of young ringers receiving instruction at Shaftesbury.

That enterprising publication, 'The Belfry,' provides an attractive feature with sketches of Kentish churches and interesting notes on their history and architecture. 'The Belfry' evidently aims at encouraging a family spirit among ringers of the Maidstone District. 'The Ringing Towers' continues to give vivacious and detailed accounts of activities on the other side of the world. 'Irish Bell News' contains an interesting account of the bells of Mount St. Alphonsus Monastery, Limerick, and a lucid description of operations in a bell foundry, written by an eye-witness.

A WEEK FOR A BIG EFFORT.

This week starts a new half-year. We ask all representatives of 'The Ringing World' to make a great effort to start with a bumper number of new postal subscribers.

Rate for the half-year 11*s.* 8*d. Send your remittance to Mr. J. E. Jeater, Greystones, Cusgarne, Truro, Cornwall.*

Existing postal subscribers are requested to renew their subscriptions without delay.

In May 'The Ringing World' received honourable notice from 'Punch,' when an article called 'Belfry Probe,' by Alan Hackney, was cleverly and amusingly constructed from two articles in 'The Ringing World' of November 28th, 1952. Our journal reprinted the article on September 11th, 1953, and a copy of the booklet, 'St. Martin's Youths,' was sent to Mr. Hackney.

Considerable attention has been directed during the year to what has been described as the menace of synthetic bells and the use of recordings of bells amplified from towers. In May 'The Ripon Diocesan Gazette' issued a statement on the matter, and in November a motion came before the Church Assembly deprecating 'The introduction into churches of recordings of bells and instruments simulating the sound of bells.' The motion was deferred to the next session when it was duly carried.

In the same month 'The Newcastle Evening Chronicle' seemed to show some support for synthetic bells, as did also a misguided paragraph in 'The Church of England Newspaper,' but a letter to 'The Daily Telegraph' from Mr. E. A. Barnett, secretary of the Central Council, strongly condemned such things. Mr. H. Walker, Mr. Arthur and others also penned effective protests in the local Press.

During 1953 the following publications on bells and ringing made their appearance: 'Church Bells of Flintshire,' Ronald Clouston; 'St. Martin's Youths,' Edgar C. Shepherd; 'Church Bells of Oxfordshire, Vol. IV.,' Frederick Sharpe. From the pen of Mr. J. W. Clarke has appeared Part III. of 'Cheshire Bells,' also a most interesting account of 'The Chester Scholars.'

In the issue of December 12th, 1953, 'The Ringing World' gave an account of a week-end course in bell ringing held at Thaxted under the auspices of the Essex County Council Further Education Committee. This was a most interesting experiment, and it may be hoped that it will serve as an incentive to further enterprise in this direction in other parts of the country.

With the exception of Christmas morning, broadcasts of tower bells on the Home Services have been almost exclusively in connection with religious services, including the Coronation. Here one comment may be in place. In the ringing before a service it quite frequently happens that the general effect is spoilt by one inexpert member of the band. Although the bells may be heard for only a minute, or slightly more, every effort should be made by careful practice and rehearsal to eliminate any obvious defect.

In the Christmas broadcast quite a good standard of striking was maintained, although without reaching perfection. For two years in succession the Easter festival has not been honoured with a special broadcast of bells, which is much to be deplored.

Handbells have occasionally been introduced in the Children's Hour and have also been heard from Luxembourg.

The Rev. F. Ll. Edwards, moving the adoption of the report, said it had been his privilege for a quarter of a century to present the report and during that time broadcasting had been added.

The Standing Committee recommended the acceptance of the report and thanked the committee for their services.

After the report was adopted the Standing Committee recommended that the committee be reconstructed—Literature and Press under Mr. Edgar Shepherd (convener) and Mr. F. E. Dukes with power to co-opt. This was agreed to.

Mr. Shepherd made an appeal to members to support the committee as it was not possible for him to read every newspaper.

BROADCASTING AND TELEVISION

The Standing Committee recommended the establishment of a committee dealing with broadcasting and television, consisting of Messrs. H. J. Sanger (convener), G. E. Fearn and J. T. Dunwoody.

Mr. Crampion regretted that there was no representative on the committee.

The Secretary said the person who had most to do with ringing in London was Mr. Bert Langdon, and he was not a member of the Council.

Upon Mr. Crampion's suggestion, Mr. Hughes was added to the committee.

TOWERS AND BELFRIES COMMITTEE

During the past year members of the committee have given advice on restoration work in 38 towers. Mr. J. W. Clarke has advised on two bell restorations in Cheshire and has done much useful work as a member of his Diocesan Advisory Committee. Mr. F. E. Collins has made inspections and given advice on new installations and restoration work in six towers, in the counties of Essex, Kent, Surrey, Sussex and Warwick. Mr. E. H. Lewis has been called in for advice in another Warwickshire tower. Mr. W. Osborn has visited seven towers in the West Country and advised on both new installations and restoration work. During the year Mr. Osborn has been appointed to serve on the Bath and Wells Diocesan Advisory Committee, and has also been in correspondence with the Rector of Oakville, Canada, regarding his bells. The convener has dealt with 22 cases; eight of them by direct correspondence with Diocesan Advisory Committees, whose requests for help are becoming more numerous. His remaining 14 cases were situated in the counties of Berks, Bucks, Norfolk, Northants, Oxford, Suffolk and Yorks.

Of the total of 38 cases dealt with by members of the committee, three have related to the structural condition of towers, one was a simple augmentation to an existing ring and, of the remaining 34, advice was given in 18 cases on the restoration of old bells and existing bell frames, and in 16 cases the parochial authorities were advised to install new frames. Some of these involved recasting of bells and augmentation of rings; in seven cases advice was also given on sound control.

The convener has had a great deal of correspondence on the subject of recorded bells. The members of the committee feel we need not be unduly anxious in regard to these installations. The Central Council for the Care of Churches is bitterly opposed to them and has strongly advised its Diocesan Advisory Committees accordingly. Most Chancellors act on the advice of their Advisory Committees, and it has been found that in many cases temporary faculties only have been granted.

The convener has again given a series of lectures on bells, bell towers and bell hanging to diocesan surveyors and architects at the York Architectural Institute.

The Council's handbook on the 'Installation, Preservation and Repair of Bells, Bellframes and Fittings' is almost out of print. It was last reprinted in 1948 and has proved one of the library's 'best sellers.' The committee recommends it be reprinted subject to some minor revisions.

Moving the adoption of the report, Mr. F. Sharpe stated that during the year the committee had dealt with 38 cases situated in all parts of the country. He mentioned the case of a tower that had developed a vertical vibratory crack measuring 38ft. and where the ringers persisted in ringing. They were most annoyed when he suggested they should stop. They had considerable correspondence with the secretary of the Central Council for the Care of Churches and he would like it to be known that the authorities were doing all they could to stop recorded bells.

Mr. F. E. Collins seconded the adoption of the report.

Mr. J. H. Crampion considered this the most useful of all the committees of the Central Council. Speaking for his part of the country, he knew of the good work the committee had done.

Mr. J. W. Clarke said he had made a report on a tower in Cheshire which was split 8ft. in length due to the movement of the frame. He recommended the tenor be not used, but it was still in use. 'I may have to report serious damage to this tower in consequence,' he added.

The President: I think it was at the Newcastle meeting that the Towers and Belfries Committee was made. I had been working on the forces involved when the bells were swinging and I gave a brief report in 1913.

Mr. P. J. Johnson: I remember the diagrams which were sent round by Mr. Lewis and Mr. Richardson.

Mr. R. G. Blackman suggested that the Council send an official letter to the incumbent and the ringing master of the tower reported. If anything happened it might be the death of a ringer.

Mr. Clarke said he wrote to the Central Council for the Care of Churches and asked for the names of the architects they recommended. He got into touch with all three of them and none of them had any knowledge of bells and bell frames.

Mr. Sharpe added that they endeavoured to give instructions to diocesan surveyors and architects in bell hanging. He had a case where the vicar called in one of the most prominent architects, who was satisfied with the bells. He (Mr. Sharpe) found that the frame was loose in nearly every joint and almost completely honeycombed by death-watch beetle.

The Standing Committee recommended that the committee be re-elected with Mr. Sharpe as convener, and that Mr. John Freeman be added to the committee. This was agreed to.

RECORDS COMMITTEE

The committee begs to report the following new methods and progressive lengths rung during the year ended December 31st, 1953:—

Aug.	21.	5040 Spliced Maximus (12 methods) (Universities)

Progressive Lengths

Jan.	31.	13139 Grandsire Caters (Winchester and Portsmouth)
Oct.	17.	15840 Plain Bob Royal (Winchester and Portsmouth)

Longest length of Royal in any method on tower bells or handbells.

* To replace false peal included in 1952 records and subsequently withdrawn.

Mrs. Fletcher, in moving the adoption of the report, asked for the deletion of Pudsey Surprise Royal by the Chester Diocesan Guild. The first peal in this method was rung 20 years ago.

The committee was re-elected, with Mrs. Fletcher as convener.

PEAL BOARDS COMMITTEE

In presenting this report, we ask for permission to continue our collection, for we feel that there are a large number of old peal boards in different parts of the country of which we have no record.

Up to date, with the exception of a few peals (the name of their location not being known), and the peal boards in Lancashire, which have not yet been taken from 'The Bell News,' the details of 273 old peal boards, recording performances of 1825 or earlier, have been typed out in triplicate.

These records, when complete, will be made up into loose leaf folders as suggested; one set in date order, the second in alphabetical place order and the third as a reserve check.

We ask every representative of the Council to make it his or her primary business to obtain further information and forward it to us, that we may 'wind up' this committee this session.

Attached is a comprehensive list of the records in our possession:—

Berkshire.—Reading.
Bucks.—Denham.
Cheshire.—Malpas, Stockport.
Cambridgeshire.—March.
Derbyshire.—Ashbourne, Derby.
Essex.—Chelmsford, Waltham Abbey.
Gloucestershire. — Cirencester, Gloucester, Painswick, Stroud.
Hampshire.—Romsey.
Hertfordshire. — Aspenden, Hatfield, Hertford, Rickmansworth, St. Albans, Watford.
Isle of Wight.—Carisbrooke, Newport.
Kent.—Ashford, Benenden, Biddenden, Bromley, Canterbury, Folkestone, Greenwich, Margate, Northfleet, Rolvenden, Woolwich, Wye.
Norfolk. — Alborough, Aylsham, Costessey, Diss, East Dereham, Garboldisham, Gislingham, Hingham, Kenninghall, King's Lynn, Loddon, North Elmham, Redenhall, Swaffham, Thetford, Yarmouth, Yaxham.
Northants. — Harlestone, Kettering, King's Sutton, Raunds, Rothwell.
Northumberland.—Newcastle.
Notts.—Newark.
Oxfordshire.—Oxford.
Shropshire.—Shrewsbury.
Somerset.—Bristol.
Staffs.—Walsall, Wolverhampton.
Suffolk. — Boxford, Eye, Hadleigh, Halesworth, Lavenham, Woodbridge.
Lancashire. — Bolton, Croston, Oldham, Preston.
Lincolnshire.—Gainsborough, Grantham, Lincoln, Pinchbeck, Spilsby.
London.—Cripplegate, Clerkenwell, Holborn, Islington, Kensington, Lambeth, Shoreditch, Southwark, Waterloo Road.
Middlesex.—Ealing, Fulham, Twickenham.
Surrey. — Epsom, Farnham, Godalming, Guildford, Kingston-on-Thames, Leatherhead, Mitcham, Reigate.
Sussex. — Brighton, Cuckfield, Eastbourne, Horsham, Seaford, Waldron.
Warwickshire.—Aston, Birmingham, Warwick.
Wiltshire.—Aldbourne.
Worcestershire. — Halesowen, Kidderminster, Worcester.
Yorkshire.—Otley, Sheffield, Wath-on-Dearne.

Mr. J. W. Clarke said it was felt by the committee that the time had come to try and finish the work of the committee. It could be quickly finished if the suggestions made in the report were carried out.

The Standing Committee recommended that the committee, with the exception of the Rev. C. E. Wigg, be re-elected with Mr. Clarke as convener. This was agreed to.

BEDFORDSHIRE ASSOCIATION

About 50 ringers were present at Cardington on June 5th for the monthly meeting of the Bedford District. The service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. E. H. Fry), during which a heavy thunderstorm arose and consequently ringers had to be ferried in cars to the Howard Room for tea.

The Vicar presided at the business meeting at which D. Houghton, W. Corn and H. Cottam were elected members. The next meeting will be held at Keysoe on July 3rd.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

MULTI-METHOD PEALS AND 'FLOATERS'

Dear Sir,—I am confident that, as the umpire, Mr. Segar, says in his report, the recent 42 Surprise Major method peal was a good one.

But surely his general contention that 'it is impossible to ring a bad peal so complicated as this' is open to doubt. In fact, where the band thoroughly know their sequence of lead-ends and the treble ringer is reliable in moments of difficulty (a characteristic of most multi-method spliced peals), it is dangerously easy for one or more ringers who lose their way to flounder on to the next lead-end and there take a firm footing again on dry land. Have not we all heard the rallying cry 'lead-end now'? Hence the curious result that it is often easier to carry a few 'floaters' in the band when ringing Spliced than when ringing, say, Stedman Triples.

Yes, the Yorkshiremen did well to appoint an umpire.—Yours faithfully,

R. B. MEADOWS.

Knowle.

WILLIAM WEATHERSTONE

Dear Sir,—Your item of 'Forty Years Ago' was of interest to me, not because I happened to have rung in the peal, but because of the man who is the subject of this item. He certainly was a character, and must have travelled miles in visiting towers to assist in teaching the youngsters. Whenever he attended meetings of any kind he always definitely saw to it that his youngsters had a pull, no matter what the experts said or thought about it.

The peal in question was also a College Youth peal, because the first peal on the bells was by a band of College Youths conducted by Henry W. Haley. I well remember being asked to ring the tenor in this anniversary peal to enable a very important ringer to ring 'inside.' I also remember attending William Weatherstone's funeral at Nunhead cemetery on the afternoon of September 22nd following this peal, and on the following afternoon (Wednesday, September 23rd, 1914) it fell to my lot to call the Original at St. John's, being the only peal rung to his memory.—Yours sincerely,

F. W. RICHARDSON.

Brockley, S.E.4.

TAILORS AND WORKING ON MONDAYS

Dear Sir,—Referring to the peal of Stedman Triples rung at St. John's, Deptford, under the heading of 'Forty Years Ago' in the issue of June 18th, would the reason that the ringer of the treble never worked on Mondays point to the fact that he was a tailor by trade?

I well remember about that period a master tailor, who employed extra seasonal workers in the trade, telling me they would never work on Mondays.

Perhaps some of the older generation would know if William Weatherstone came within this category, and the reason why Monday was treated as a rest day.—Yours sincerely,

F. S. MACEY.

Sutton Valence, Kent.

PEALS AT HARROW

Dear Sir, — The following paragraphs appeared in 'Belfry Gossip' several years ago, probably sent in by the late Mr. J. A. Trollope:

'At the beginning of the nineteenth century there was a number of ringers living at Watford and Rickmansworth who were members of the Society of Cumberland Youths. On April 20th, 1810, they rang a peal of Grandsire Triples at Harrow, conducted by Daniel Pope.

'The third bell at Harrow-on-the-Hill was cast by W. Whitmore, of Watford, in 1654.'

—Yours faithfully,

H. V. FROST.

St. Albans.

CHURCH SPIRES

Dear Sir,—The crocketed spire of the Parish Church at Coleshill, Warwickshire, has a heavy weight hung inside. It is a block of stone 24in. by 18in. by 12in. at the end of a 30ft. heavy chain fixed to the base of the weather vane shaft. The steeple was last rebuilt in 1888 by Bodley, of London, but whether the weight was there in previous steeples I cannot find out. A slight pendulum movement is noticeable at all times.

I believe the spire of St. Matthew's, Walsall, has a steel ball hung therein. Would Mr. Young tell us what purpose these weights serve, and why they only appear to be necessary in so few structures.—Yours faithfully,

W. C. RHODES.

Coleshill, Birmingham.

STONE SUSPENDED FROM SPIRE

Dear Sir,—Apropos Mr. Young's letter of June 11th, I do know of such a stone suspended from the apex of the spire in the manner described, but unfortunately I cannot now remember the name of the tower.

It lies in the south-east corner of Shropshire, well off the main road approaching Wolverhampton. There are six bells. Perhaps the ringers of Pattingham may be able to help.

The weight hangs right down to the base of the spire and, when I was watching it, there was considerable movement.—Sincerely yours,

ERNEST J. ROWE.

Tottenham, N.15.

WHY NOT CHARGE FOR LETTERS?

Dear Sir,—I have read with great interest the various suggestions for improving the financial position of 'The Ringing World.' A charge for the publication of peal and quarter peal reports appears to be as unpopular as a straight increase in price. What other columns are available for the trumpet blowers to get their names into print? The correspondence page is a favourite. A flat rate fee for each letter would produce a useful revenue but a sliding scale according to length should, in addition, considerably reduce the need for editorial abridgement. There must be many other ways whereby particular sections of the ringing fraternity might be made to bear a larger part of the cost of publication—Yours faithfully,

A. W. T. CLEAVER

Bristol 5.

Note.—If a charge was made for letters the Editor would be constantly returning postal orders. Our letter page is a popular feature with all.—Ed.

PORTSMOUTH'S WELCOME

Dear Sir.—With regard to Portsmouth's welcome for the Royal homecoming it was stated that this was the first occasion that peals have been scored on these two rings on the same day.

I should like to correct this statement. On Whit Monday, June 1st, 1914, when the Central Council met at Winchester, a peal of Bristol Surprise was rung at St. Thomas-a-Becket in the morning, followed by a peal of Superlative Surprise at St. Mary's, Portsea, in the afternoon. The peals were conducted by the late Bertram Prewett and Keith Hart respectively for the Winchester Diocesan Guild.

I am the only surviving member of those bands.—Yours sincerely,

F. R. DENNIS.

Cambridge.

The first attempt for a quarter peal by a Sunday service band was made at Whitchurch, Oxfordshire, on June 15th. Apart from being ringers, three of the band are sidesmen, another a chorister and a parochial church councillor.

EDLESBOROUGH BELLS SILENT FOR 30 YEARS

Dear Sir,—Although we are faced in the village of Edlesborough, Bedfordshire, with an immense Church Restoration Appeal, the total of which may reach £10,000, we have taken the bold step of rehanging the six bells, and the work has just begun. In all it will cost £563, and we embark on this in the belief that our bells, which have not been pealed within the last 30 years, should ring out from a tower that is a landmark for many miles round. It is, however, an act of faith to spend so much on our bells when the fabric of the church still needs urgent attention, and lack of funds has led to a suspension of work.

May I appeal through your columns to all friends of the Exercise to help us in our task, so that this effort to keep faith with the past in the matter of ringing may not set us too far back in the equally pressing duty of restoring a beautiful and historic church.—Yours truly,

DENYS H. JONES.
Vicar of St. Mary-the-Virgin, Edlesborough.

ANGLER, NOT RINGER!

Dear Sir,—Our old friend T. V. Lister may not be an advanced ringer but I think he is an excellent angler. Whenever he makes a cast into the correspondence columns of 'The Ringing World' he is assured of numerous bites!—Yours faithfully,

W. B. KYNASTON

Rodbourne Cheney,
Swindon.

AN OBSERVANT READER

Dear Sir,—Why must we have a King's crown at the head of the peals and quarter peals rung in honour of the homecoming of our Queen? I am pleased, as I am sure many others are, to see the Queen's crowns round the heading of the news items of that day—Yours faithfully,

A. R. BRIDGER.

Theberton, Leiston,
Suffolk.

[Note. — Our printers assure us that these crowns were issued specially for the Coronation and are not old stock. The error seems to be widespread.—Ed.]

Golden Wedding of Mr. Caleb Fenn

His many friends in the Exercise will learn with joy of the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. Caleb Fenn, of Barking, Essex, who has been steeplekeeper of Barking tower for 58 years and still carries on the good work.

The event was celebrated in the traditional way and also, on June 20th, when 1,260 Stedman Triples was rung by C. Fenn (conductor) 1, A. W. Beard 2, L. S. Woods 3, R. W. Stannard 4, D. M. Salisbury 5, D. W. Beard 6, F. V. Gant 7, E. G. Cottis 8.

Mr. T. G. Morton Married

The marriage of Mr. Terence G. Morton and Miss Patricia M. Bishop took place at St. Peter's Church, Great Berkhamsted, on June 12th. Mr. Morton is the captain of the progressive six-bell tower at St. Mary's, Apsley End, and amongst his achievements as a ringer is a peal in 32 Surprise methods.

Ringers from Apsley End and Hemel Hempstead presented cutlery to Mr. and Mrs. Morton, and an attempt was made on June 14th for a peal in 11 Surprise methods to mark the occasion. The peal failed and the band then rang a quarter peal consisting of 720 Lightfoot and Wearmouth and 720 of Norwich. The band was: R. E. Shutter 1, W. Ayre (cond.) 2, W. J. Puddifoot 3, A. V. Good 4, W. C. Hughes 5, F. J. Plummer 6. B. N. B.

PETERBOROUGH DIOCESAN GUILD

War Memorial Tablet Unveiled

THE annual meeting of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild at Northampton on Whit Monday was an occasion of more than ordinary importance. During the service at All Saints' Church the Vicar (Canon J. Trevor Lewis) unveiled a tablet over the archway leading to the belfry recording the names of those members who lost their lives in World War II. The tablet is next to another erected in memory of those members of the Northamptonshire Central Association who died in the First World War.

The names engraved are:—O. Filler, E. Griffiths, A. Deacon, R. Smart, H. Fry, A. Morton, A. Humphrey and R. Minney.

Canon Lewis said, 'We shall not forget these men who gave their lives to their country.'

He spoke of the 'goodly fellowship of those who ring bells' and added a great feeling of goodwill and friendship was achieved in the Guild. 'Let nothing spoil that comradeship.'

Tea and the annual business meeting followed the service in the Holy Sepulchre Parish Room. In the absence of the president, the Archdeacon of Northampton (the Ven. C. J. Grimes), the Master (Mr. E. Whitmore) presided.

The officers were re-elected, but both the president and the Master suggested that other names should be nominated for their respective offices next year.

The general secretary (Mr. H. W. Jeffs), in his report, stated that resident members now totalled 1,172, being 11 honorary life members, 86 honorary members and 1,075 ringing members. Elected during the year were 13 honorary and 171 ringing members. A total of 90 had lapsed or left and 14 had died. Free life members now numbered 88. Nine non-resident life members were also elected.

Losses by death were: Messrs. H. Clark (Kettering), A. Henman (Kettering), S. Burditt (Desborough), G. Black (Geddington), B. Bosworth (Benefield), A. Joyce (Peterborough), H. Short (Brigstock), E. Saunders (Twywell), F. Ball (Great Addington), W. Perkins (Irthlingborough), A. Minney (Wollaston).

During the year 61 peals were rung, including nine on handbells. The peal of Wicken Surprise Major, the first ever to be rung in the method, was so named in honour of the parish in which it was rung. Three members of the Towcester Branch took part, and congratulations were extended to all the band.

The general account had not held its own, the balance being £82 1s. against £85 2s. 3d. The Bell Restoration Fund continued to be well supported and had a balance of £439 13s. Grants were made to Rothwell (£15), Edith Weston (£10) and Potterspury (supplementary, £10). Of the old six at Rushden two had been recast and two trebles added and all hung in a new steel frame. The spire also had been restored.

The Master, in his report, called attention to the progress of the Rutland Branch, which had almost doubled its membership. In a tribute to the late Mr. Walter Perkins, a lifelong member of the Irthlingborough Band, the Master stated, 'This tower made history between the wars by ringing peals in a large variety of Surprise Major methods, many of them being conducted by Mr. Perkins. His passing and the passing of all faithful members is deeply regretted.'

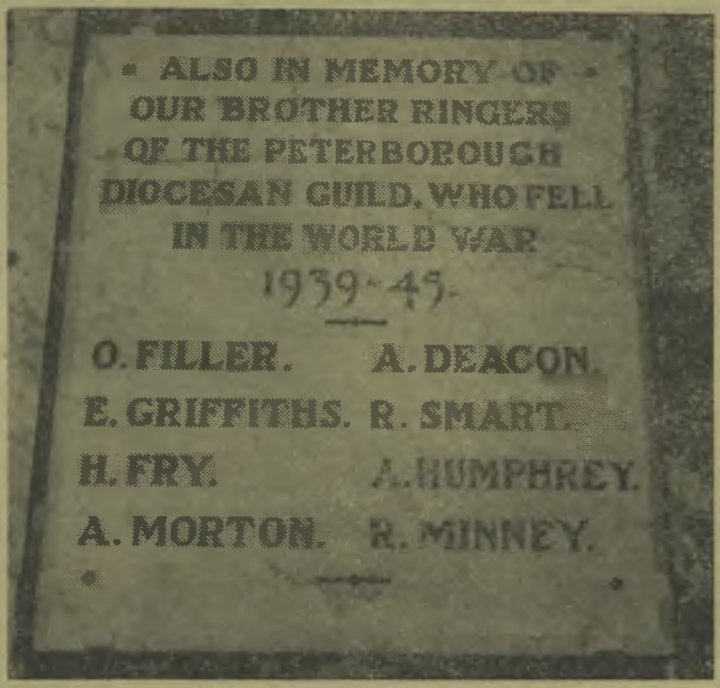
A large number of towers were available for ringing throughout the day.

LONDON COUNTY ASSOCIATION

The recently-augmented eight at St. George's, Barkingside, were visited by the Northern District for their quarterly meeting on June 12th. Although rather loud in the ringing chamber, these bells have a really pleasant tone with a tenor of 10¼ cwt.

The business meeting was held in the belfry of St. Mary's, Woodford, with the Master (Mr. C. A. Hughes) in the chair. New members elected were:— Mr. Stafford Smith (Ilford), Mr. John Brice (Havering), Mr. Battley (West Ham) and Mr. Sidney Stevens (North Weald).

While the striking was not 100 per cent., everyone was well catered for and methods ranged from Grandsire to London Surprise Major.



The memorial tablet unveiled in All Saints' Church, Northampton, to the memory of the eight members of Peterborough Diocesan Guild of Bellringers who died in the second world war. It adjoins the memorial to those who fell in the first world war.

NORWICH ASSOCIATION

Eastern Branch

Reedham, a village on the edge of the East Norfolk marshes with a pleasant ring of five, attracted 34 members to the meeting there on May 29th. The tea and meeting which followed the service conducted by the Rector (the Rev. L. F. Laurence) was held in the open air in the Rectory garden.

Mr. E. R. Goate presided at the business meeting when Pakefield was selected for the meeting on July 17th, with ringing at St. Margaret's, Lowestoft, in the evening. Mr. K. L. Brown, branch 'Ringing World' representative, reported on the progress of his efforts.

Votes of thanks included one to Mr. F. B. Petherick, of the local company, for the excellent arrangements.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

North Bucks Branch Golden Jubilee

Over 100 members attended the annual meeting at Newton-Longville on June 5th to celebrate the 50th anniversary of the North Bucks Branch, which was started there on June 11th, 1904, by the Rev. F. E. Robinson in conjunction with the Rev. C. Leslie Norris, of Newton-Longville. The following nine members attended the first meeting:—Messrs. B. Fisher, H. Sear, E. Willett, B. Jones, A. Crane, W. Daniels, F. Mynard, F. Vickers and F. Rowe. Mr. E. Yates, 86, of Stony Stratford, was unable to be present owing to an accident.

The Rev. Allan Campbell (Branch chairman) presided, supported by the Rev. C. E. Wigg (Master). Mr. W. Hibbert (general secretary) was also present. All the branch officers were re-elected.

In recognition of his 15 years as secretary and treasurer, Mr. R. H. Howson was presented with a testimonial.

The secretary's report stated that membership was a little less and there was a balance of £14. Tea was arranged on the Rectory lawn, where no effort was too great for the Rev. L. C. Butler and his church workers to provide an excellent spread complete with birthday cake with appropriate candles. Owing to a thunderstorm it was necessary to transfer the meal inside.

Eight veteran ringers rang the service touch for which a souvenir service sheet had been prepared by the Master. Six ringing choirmen joined the singers, and a very inspiring address was given by the Rt. Rev. R. M. May, Bishop of Buckingham.

Ringing continued afterwards at several local towers.

SURREY ASSOCIATION

The New Master

Mr. R. Davies is the new Master of the Surrey Association in succession to the late Mr. D. Cooper. In the ballot at the special meeting at Croydon on June 19th, he defeated Mr. F. E. Collins, the other nominee. Mr. Collins was, however, appointed liaison officer to the Guildford Diocesan Guild, a position which the late Master also held.

The General Committee had been instructed at an earlier meeting to reconsider the rules of the Association and revise as necessary. Their amendments were submitted to the meeting and passed.

Hearty votes of thanks were passed to the ladies responsible for the tea, the Vicar of St. Peter's, South Croydon (where ringing had taken place during the afternoon), and the Vicar, curate and organist of St. John-the-Baptist for the use of the bells and the service.

Twenty-three Surrey towers were represented.

HERTS COUNTY ASSOCIATION

The first recorded visit to Pirton in the 70 years of the Association's existence took place on May 22nd, when 38 members attended this five-bell tower. The Vicar (the Rev. G. B. Ince) in his sermon gave a warning of ringing becoming too much of a hobby and not ringing to the glory of God.

A meat tea was provided by local ringers' wives and at the business meeting Mr. S. Ashton, of Pirton, was elected a ringing member.

OBITUARY

MR. J. F. PRIEST

St. Mary's, Woodstock, South Africa, has lost its final link with the beginnings of change ringing in South Africa with the death of Mr. J. F. Priest on June 17th in his 91st year.

Jimmy Priest was born in Essex, and, as a choirboy at Christ Chuch, Wanstead, he taught himself to handle a bell. He joined the Cumberland Youths about 1880 and rang at Woodford, Leyton, Chelmsford, Dunmow, Braintree, Loughton, Limehouse, Stepney and Bow. In July, 1902, at the instigation of his workmate and fellow ringer, L. Green, he came to South Africa. He told me that prior to his departure he took part in a farewell peal by the Cumberland Youths at St. Martin's.

Joining the South African Railways, he retired in 1922, and was proud to be the oldest railway pensioner in the country. His recorded ringing at St. Mary's is not great, but two items are of historical interest:—

December 22nd, 1903: The first science ringing in South Africa, a touch of 720 Bob Minor.

December 15th, 1904: 5,040 Grandsire Triples, the first peal in South Africa, and the only peal of Triples yet scored at St. Mary's.

Of late years confined to bed, he appreciated the occasional visits from members of St. Mary's band, who sent a wreath and rang half-muffled on the evening of the interment.

THE RINGING WORLD

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

No. 2257 Vol. L. FRIDAY, JULY 9, 1954 Registered at the G.P.O. for transmission as a newspaper 4d.

LEANING TOWERS

THE average layman with a remote knowledge of bells and bell hanging, which quite often includes diocesan architects (as was instanced at the Central Council meeting at Newcastle), generally shudders at the thought of bells hung other than stationary in leaning towers.

Yet up and down the countryside quite a few examples of leaning towers and steeples with bells hung for ringing can be pin-pointed—the best known possibly being Surfleet, Lincolnshire, whose steeple leans no less than 6ft. 4in. from the perpendicular, under which is quicksilt 4ft. below its foundations; that alone would send some architects and church dignitaries screaming 'suicide' to hang ringable bells in such a steeple, especially a ring of 12 bells. Admittedly these are light, but very often one can come across perfectly upright structures, whose walls are thick, of good solid stone, with perhaps no more than three bells —lighter than the last three of Surfleet—where any suggestion of restoration and augmentation raises the 'cry' from the local priest or church council, 'The tower won't stand bells!' What size of bells are they thinking of? —possibly all like 'Big Ben'—is a question to ask them.

I came across such an instance in North Bedfordshire a few weeks ago—a fine broach steeple, perfectly upright, thick well-buttressed walls with hardly a decayed stone. Inside there were but three bells, tenor approximately 9 cwt., but there was space enough to hang eight like the back eight of Surfleet, tenor around 12 cwt. An old oak frame, full of woodworm and death-watch beetle, bore the strain of these three bells. 'The steeple won't stand any more bells' I was told by the local priest, who soon convinced me that his knowledge of the subject was extremely limited.

The instance of Surfleet makes good 'ammunition' for use to such priests, architects and others of like mind. Surfleet's neighbour, Pinchbeck, is another leaning tower which, like Surfleet, has undergone restoration and augmentation of its bells in recent years. Here there is a ring of eight, tenor 18 cwt.

Several leaning towers with rings of bells will be found in Northants. The steeple at Corby has leaned since 1801 when it had four bells, which remained as such until 1931. In that year two more were added. Brafield tower also has leaned for several centuries; five bells here were recently augmented to a ring of six. On the same road some four miles further towards Bedford, the leaning tower of Yardley Hastings cannot help but catch the eye. It tips towards the south-west and looks on the skew. Six bells, tenor 13 cwt., have been ringing in this tower since 1723.

In the vicinity of Daventry is Stowe-IX-Churches, a village which gets its name by reason of standing on high ground within view of nine churches. Four bells, rehung 1924, have been ringing in this leaning tower for many years, but this is another instance of a few 'wet blankets' being allowed to hamper any attempt to add a treble, of which the tower is quite capable of standing.

Slides or film strips showing these and similar towers, including the wooden structure at Yateley, Hants, with eight bells, or the turret at Foots Cray, Kent, with a light ring of five, may serve to broaden the outlook of some of these, be they priests, church councillors or architects with a very limited knowledge of bells. I believe it was the late Mr. J. S. Goldsmith who once said, 'It by no means follows that because a man can design a jerry-built structure of a modern church he can hang a ring of bells—bell hanging is not an architect's job, it is an engineer's, and specialised at that!' And the Central Council's Towers and Belfries Committee can provide the specialist knowledge for any church council in doubt.

OBITUARY

MR. F. J. RUSSELL

Mr. Frederick Joseph Russell, of 49, Ray Mill Road, Maidenhead, Berkshire, Ringing Master at St. Michael's Church, Bray, for 30 years, died at his mother's home at Bray on June 17th. He was 57. For six months he had been seriously ill and had a major head operation in St. Mary's Hospital, Paddington, in January.

Fred Russell had followed a tradition of bell-ringing at Bray which began in his family four generations ago. He rang there for 45 years. His father was towerkeeper and a ringer for over 50 years. He taught scores of young people the art of change ringing and was always proud to recount the history of Bray's bells, which have rung out over the village for nearly four centuries.

In his younger days he was a peal ringer, but his first concern was always ringing for Sunday services. Undoubtedly the peal of which he was most proud was the one he conducted at Bray on VE-Day when all the ringers were people he had taught himself.

Mr. Russell was a member of the Cumberland Youths. To the people of Maidenhead and district he was better known as an expert handbell ringer. With his brother, Harry, he astonished party and concert audiences by ringing tunes with three bells in each hand. Five years ago they broadcast in the B.B.C. programme, Opportunity Knocks.

Mr. Russell was maintenance engineer at Electrical Press, Maidenhead. He leaves six children. Mrs. Russell died four years ago.

The day before Mr. Russell's funeral, his body was taken into Bray Church, and eight ringers whom he had taught rang a half-muffled quarter peal of Grandsire Triples. They were: Gladys Rolls (sister) 1, Richard Lidbury 2, Malcolm Upstone (nephew) 3, Betty Gregory 4, Diana Spice 5, Doreen Hague 6, Peter Aslett 7, John Norsworthy 8.

MR. A. S. TOMKINS

With deep regret we record the death of Mr. Alfred S. Tomkins, of Bredenbury, Herefordshire, who died in Hereford General Hospital on June 18th while undergoing a serious operation.

Mr. Tomkins, aged 78 years, was Bredenbury parish clerk for over 50 years. He was also the village sub-postmaster, carpenter, builder and undertaker, and such was his kindliness and ever ready to help spirit that in this quiet village life he became one of the central figures.

But it was to his church and the ten rectors he served that he saw his duty. In the regular and punctual service ringing in the tower, in his unfailing and enthusiastic attendance at the services, in the leisure hours devoted to the neatness of the churchyard—there was the testimony of his faith.

'Alf' to his own generation, 'The Foreman' to the generations after, was the only secretary of the Bromyard District of the Hereford Diocesan Guild since its formation 35 years ago. He was always delighted and pleased at the good attendances at the district's meetings which his sincere welcome and interest to young and old helped to foster. He will be hard to replace, and there will never be another just like 'The Foreman.'

In the quiet and peace of this lovely part of Herefordshire a large attendance of parishioners and ringers filled the church and overflowed into the churchyard at his funeral on June 22nd. Carried on the shoulders of his own ringers and friends, he was taken into the church for his last service.

The service and committal were conducted by the Archdeacon of Hereford, the Ven. A. J. Winnington-Ingram, assisted by the secretary of the Hereford Diocesan Guild, the Rev. W. R. Thomas. T. C.

MR. JAMES L. SMITH

The South Forest Branch of the Gloucester and Bristol Association have lost a former Ringing Master by the death of Mr. James L. Smith, of Lydney, Glos.

He came to Lydney about 1942 as gardener to Lord Bledisloe, having previously been a prominent member of the Wotton-under-Edge Branch. He will be remembered for his work among learners and the formation of his band of handbell ringers. At the meeting of the South Forest Branch at Clearwell on June 26th the vice-chairman (the Rev. H. H. F. Heal) spoke of Mr. Smith and the late Mr. J. W. Davies as great churchmen and great ringers.

MEMORIAL TO MR. H. SCOFFIN

During a pause in ringing for evensong at St. Wilfrid's Church, Alford, Lincs, on June 20th, the Vicar (the Rev. P. E. Mann) received from the ringers and dedicated a memorial in memory of their late captain, Mr. H. Scoffin.

The memorial in the form of a wall plaque is of English brown oak and bears the carved inscription: 'In proud memory of Harry Scoffin, a ringer in this tower for 55 years. Died September 12th, 1953.'

Beneath the inscription is a framed copy of a peal card commemorating Mr. Scoffin's one and only full peal, which he rang in Alford at the age of 64.

Mr. L. Slack, handicraft master at the Secondary Modern School, designed and carried out the work in accordance with the wishes of his fellow-ringers.

IRISH ASSOCIATION

Action Over Recorded Bells

A proprosal to invite the Central Council to hold its meeting in Ireland in 1958 was adopted at the annual meeting of the Irish Association held at Dublin on May 28th. Before an official invitation is issued the Districts are to be communicated with to ascertain what support would be forthcoming. The year 1958 will be the 60th anniversary of the Association's foundation.

Mr. W. Pratt (president) was in the chair. The officers elected were President, Mr. W. Pratt; Master and librarian, Mr. R. S. F. Murphy, P.C.: general secretary, Mr. F. E. Dukes, 26, William Street, Drogheda; auditors, Messrs. W. Boveniger and R. W. Smyth; badge secretary, Mr. J. T. Dunwoody; 'Irish Bell News' Editorial Committee, Mr. F. E. Dukes (editor), Miss J. Stewart, Mr. G. Bingham and Mrs. F. E. Dukes.

The report of the 'Irish Bell News' showed that it was in a healthy state, with a circulation of over 200 copies.

Mr. Griffith E. Jones was elected a life member in recognition of his services in the cause of ringing in St. Canice's Cathedral, Kilkenny.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Barnett, Crayford, Kent, were unanimously elected non-resident life members (honorary).

Three resolutions regarding recorded bells were considered and adopted as follows, the general secretary being instructed to send copies of the first to the leaders of the various Church bodies:—

(a) 'That this Association is concerned at the number of recorded bell installations which have been and are being installed in place of proper bells in the various churches in Ireland, on the ground that "live" bells, when rung, are superior to those recorded.'

(b) 'That each affiliated tower of this Association be requested to refuse permission for their bells to be recorded where it is known that such recordings are to be used in connection with recorded bell apparatus for the purpose of summoning people in worship in God's house.'

(c) 'That the Central Council members of this Association be instructed to support any resolution which may be brought before the Council meeting at Newcastle in condemnation of such recorded bell apparatus, as referred to in above resolutions.'

A contribution was made towards the oak case for the Central Council Roll of Honour in St. Paul's Cathedral, London.

The Central Council circular re 'The Ringing World' was read and it was decided that the Association should purchase a copy (postal) for the library. The District secretaries reported on their efforts to increase the sale of the journal. Messrs. F. E. Dukes and J. T. Dunwoody were appointed correspondents for Republic and Northern Ireland respectively.

The annual contest for the Murphy Cup was held earlier in the day at St. George's Church, Dublin. Kilbroney, a six-bell band from Rostrevor, County Down, won the trophy for the first time.

DEVON GUILD OF RINGERS

Meeting at Chudleigh

The Mid-Devon and South-West Branches held a successful joint meeting at Chudleigh on June 19th.

Ringing took place during the afternoon and evening, after tea at the Clifford Arms Hotel. Subsequently hearty votes of thanks were accorded to the church authorities for the use of the bells. Mr. A. Collins, of Chudleigh, suitably replied.

The Mid-Devon annual meeting at Nottery will be held on July 17th instead of the 24th. Mr. and Mrs. W. Frank Stenson, of Crewe, were elected non-resident members.

ST. DAVID'S DIOCESAN GUILD

Annual Festival

Members from all parts of the Diocese attended the annual meeting of the St. David's Guild, held at St. Peter's, Carmarthen, on June 19th.

Just before the service the president, the Lord Bishop of St. David's, arrived and went up to the ringing chamber amongst his ringers. His visit was much appreciated as the presence of the clergy means quite a lot to ringers.

The Archdeacon of Carmarthen (the Ven. J. R. Pugh) officiated at the service and the address was given by the Lord Bishop in which he pointed out the part the ringers played for God and the Church, and how the sound of the bells reminded those who were in any way afflicted or distressed and who could not attend church to worship.

After the service the ringers were entertained to a very nice tea at the Shire Hall where 70 members enjoyed themselves.

The Lord Bishop kindly presided and opened the meeting with a prayer. A tribute of respect was paid to Mr. Fred Harton, of Burry Port, who had passed on since the last meeting. The custom of ringing handbells at all meeting of the Guild was observed. All the officers were re-elected for another twelve months. For the office of Ringing Master which must be changed every year, Mr. W. J. Harris, of Llanbadarn Fawr was appointed. A special appeal was made to members to buy 'The Ringing World.'

After a discussion on a few minor items the business meeting ended with a collection for the Bell Restoration Fund which realised the sum of £2 2s. 6d. A very pleasing statement by the Bishop on his attitude towards synthetic bells brought very loud applause. 'There must be no imitation in our churches,' he emphasised.

Mr. Humphreys, of Pembroke, proposed the vote of thanks, mentioning the Archdeacon of Carmarthen for officiating at the service and providing the tea, the ladies who waited at tea, and also to the organist. The Bishop was also warmly thanked for presiding and for his fatherly guidance. His invitation to the Guild to hold their next annual meeting at the Palace in 1955 was accepted with acclamation.

Halifax and District Association

Four towers—Meltham, Friezland, Silkstone and Shelley—entered for the six-bell contest on June 26th, which was won by Friezland with five penalties and 54 faults. The judge, Mr. H. Roberts, commented that ringing had been below standard all day and Silkstone and Shelley rang with the bells too high. The test was 600 changes.

Friezland received the silver cup, and each man a chrome tea caddy.

At the annual meeting the officers were re-elected and a bank balance of £20 3s. 4d. reported.

Norwich Diocesan Association

At the meeting of the West Norfolk Branch at Castleacre on May 29th Mr. Norman Harding reported that a plaque to the memory of the late Mr. W. Eldred, who was for 25 years secretary of the Branch, was being made and would be hung in St. Margaret's Church, King's Lynn. Donations from ringers for this plaque should be sent to Mr. N. Harding, Roydon, King's Lynn.

Mr. Ebberson spoke of the value of 'The Ringing World' to the Exercise in uniting all ringers into one colossal family, and, following discussion, a resolution was carried that all ringers should consider becoming postal subscribers to the journal.

The next quarterly meeting will be held at Dersingham, and Gaywood was selected for an interim meeting on July 10th.

'TOWERS & BELLS OF BRITAIN'

A New Book by Ernest Morris

The new book by Ernest Morris, of Leicester, under the above title, is now in an advanced state of preparation for publication later this year. The publishers, Robert Hale, Ltd., of London, write in their prospectus of new books about to be published:—

'Architects have written on church towers and spires, and campanologists on bells; but rarely, if ever, have the two intimately related subjects been considered together. Here is a well-known bellringer and acknowledged authority on that art in all its phases, who has made a special study of church towers and their history, describes many little-known facts about the peculiar characteristics of bell towers—and many are distinctly odd. Giving examples of all the varying types and designs, Mr. Morris has written a fascinating book for all who ever wished to climb a bell chamber.'

A preface has been written by Mr. G. Arnold Cope, M.C., F.R.I.B.A., and an attractive 'jacket' designed by Cecil Dunford. The book will be fully illustrated with photos of the various types to towers. Mr. Ernest Morris' earlier books—'The History and Art of Change Ringing,' 'Legends o' the Bells,' 'Bells of All Nations'—have all been sold with the exception of a few copies of the last-named, which can only be obtained from the author.

LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION

Wigan Branch

It is the usual practice of the Wigan Branch to visit country towers for the summer meetings and the choice of Halsall Church, which is a fine example of Early English architecture, between Ormskirk and Southport, was a happy selection. The sanctus bell in this church was salvaged from the wreck of a Spanish galleon which sailed with the Armada and went aground off Ainsdale.

For many years Halsall had a resident band able to ring peals in several Minor methods. At present the older members of the band include three conductors—Mr. Arthur Mawdesley, Mr. C. Ackers and Mrs. Helen Parker. At the other end of the scale are several teenagers who can give a good account of themselves. With such a band, service ringing is good and regular.

At the meeting ringing ranged from Grandsire Doubles to London Surprise Minor and Oswald Delight (a Branch favourite). Mention must also be made of the service, the warm welcome given by the curate in the absence of the Rector, and the usual sumptuous tea.

ESSEX ASSOCIATION

Northern District

Despite the very rainy day there was an attendance of 51 at the Northern District meeting at Great Bardfield on June 12th. A cordial welcome was extended by the Vicar (the Rev. R. O. Masheder) at the service. Local ringers, their wives and friends had prepared a splendid tea.

Before the business meeting members stood in silence to the memory of Mr. S. Vaughan Pearce, of Witham, an honorary member.

Miss H. G. Snowden, District Ringing Master, presided, and the business included the election of eleven new members, eight being probationers from Rayne, who are being taught by the Stebbing ringers.

The chairman reported on the Central Council meeting, and Mr. Pratt on the Association's annual meeting at Chelmsford. Arising from the discussion Mr. A. R. Elliott, of 4, Easterford Road, Kelvedon, was appointed 'Ringing World' representative.

Stisted was chosen for the next meeting in August.

ASHTEAD, SURREY

Ashtead ringers with a few friends from Leatherhead and Epsom had an outing in the Thames Valley on June 5th. Altogether it was a happy day and very good experience to a band consisting almost entirely of 'improvers' in the art.

Ringing took place at Egham, Old Windsor (where ringing was interrupted for a wedding), Binfield (the only six-bell tower of the day), Wraysbury (where the long draught found out the weakness of many of the visitors), St. Mary's, Staines, and Sunbury.

DORCHESTER

Four towers were visited on June 12th in the half-day outing of the Dorchester St. Peter's Society and friends, the party totalling 26. Three heavy towers—Crewkerne (22 cwt.), South Petherton (25 cwt.) and Martock (25 cwt.)—were selected and, as a contrast, the tiny six-bell tower of Evershot (7 cwt.). Ringing was in the four standard methods. The cordial welcome received at each tower was much appreciated.

SILSOE, BEDS

The Peak District of Derbyshire was an ambitious outing of Silsoe ringers, representing six towers on May 22nd. Towers visited were Christ Church, Burbage (where Spliced Surprise methods are rung for service touches); St. John-the-Baptist, Tideswell (the 'Cathedral of the Peak'); St. Lawrence's, Eyam (a light six with a ground floor pull); St. Giles', Great Longstone; and St. Peter's, Edensor (a lofty steeple and the hardest pull of the day).

On the return journey everyone was impressed by the magnificent scenery which had been veiled during the morning. The co-operation of local ringers and incumbents was much appreciated. Without their help the outing would have been impossible.

OUTINGS

OTTERSHAW, SURREY

Ringers and friends of Christ Church, Ottershaw, assembled at the Otter for a 7.30 a.m. start to their outing into Hants and Berks. At Deane, the first stop, during 120 Grandsire Doubles, the treble ceased to function. The Rector climbed aloft and found the stay firmly wedged under the frame. Apparently he had recently fitted a new stay but had only been able to get one bolt through and this had worked loose. A hefty kick by the Rector released it, and further ringing was enjoyed minus the offending stay.

The rest of the day's ringing was uneventful and periods of three-quarters of an hour were spent at the following churches:—St. Peter's, Over Wallop; The Ascension, Burghclere; St. Mary's, Shaw; and St. Mary's, Burghfield, where, with the help of some touring Worcester ringers, Cambridge was rung.

Mr. Bob Andrews was thanked and commended for such a successful outing. In his reply he asked for a collection to be made towards 'The Ringing World' funds, which resulted in a princely sum of 30s.

WHITCHURCH, GLAM

Whitchurch ringers, accompanied by ringers from Porthkerry, Bedwellty, St. Mellons, Radyr, Rumney and Cardiff, visited the Forest of Dean on June 19th. The bells at Hewelsfield, St. Briavels, Littledean and Tidenham were rung. It was a lovely day and despite the coach driver getting lost in the Forest all enjoyed themselves. The veteran of the party, Joe Bailey (82), rang in each tower, and George Whittington, who sang in Hewelsfield Church choir over 50 years ago, would have taken the old yew tree home with him if he could have got it into the coach!

BEDFORDSHIRE RINGERS

Eagerly awaited by a party of ringers from Bedfordshire led by Ron Sharp, June 19th dawned at last (we saw it!) and by 5.35 a.m. the last of four cars had left for Queen Camel. London and Cambridge sounded wonderful on the glorious six around 10.30. The time for ringing at Yeovil was somewhat restricted because of the deplorable tradition that the bride should be late. Nevertheless we enjoyed the privilege of ringing Caters there with Tom Setter. After lunch the convoy turned towards the Mecca of tenormen — Sherborne Abbey — where Yorkshire was very creditably rung.

The bells of Ditcheat, famed for their excellence, recalled to four of the party a near-perfect peal of Superlative rung there nearly two years ago, and although a touch of Spliced wouldn't go on this occasion, none could fail to enjoy the bells or the tea which followed. A considerable journey was made to reach Westbury, our last tower, where we were joined by Mr. Joe Dyke. Yorkshire was rung first, followed by Stedman, etc., but the best on these magnificent bells was destined to be the last touch of the day—Spliced Surprise.

The thanks of the party are due to Ron Sharp for his excellent organisation. P. I. C.

WHIT MONDAY IN MID-KENT

Arranged by Mr. Fred Rye, 33 ringers and friends from Walmer, Great Mongeham, Ringwould and Dover had an outing in Mid-Kent on Whit Monday.

Towers visited were St. Mary's, Chilham; St. John-the-Baptist, Harrietsham; All Saints', Maidstone (the first 10-bell tower for many of the party); SS. Peter and Paul's, Headcorn (best ringing of the day), Tenterden and St. Nicholas', Newington. The day concluded with a visit to the theatre at Folkestone.

The peal at Eltham on June 19th is believed to be the first peal of Holt's Original to be rung with three generations of College Youths standing in. It was the first of this composition by Mr. E. B. Crowder, the conductor, for 24 years, he having been away from ringing for 20 years.

BELFRY GOSSIP

The accomplishment of Mr. A. G. Watkin of ringing his first peal of Stedman on a working bell at Buckley, Flintshire, is a very different experience from that of his father. The latter made no less than 36 unsuccessful attempts with the late Mr. R. Sperring and declined to stand in the 37th, which proved successful.

Two ringers in the peal of Grandsire Cinques at St. Mary Redcliffe, Bristol, have now rung Grandsire from Doubles to Cinques. They are Mrs. D. G. Mayell, of Brentwood, Essex, and Mr. Roger O. Fry, of Bath.

Mr. Ronald C. Noon has been appointed 'Ringing World' correspondent to the Elloe Deaneries Branch, Lincoln Diocesan Guild, and Mr. G. Dodds for the St. Albans District, Herts County Association.

The ringer of the seventh in the quarter peal of Cambridge Major at Harlow Common on May 23rd was Peter Bond and not Peter Came as stated. Our correspondent sends his apologies to all concerned.

Mr. E. Alexander Young desires to thank those ringing friends who have informed him of the location of spires with hanging weights, as requested in his letter of a month ago. The list is one Irish and 11 English. There are probably several others.

King's Lynn staged a pageant to celebrate the 750th anniversary of the granting of the Charter to the Borough. The distant sound of the bells concluding a peal of Plain Bob Royal was an appropriate and much appreciated background to the first episode of the pageant.

For change ringing, Ticehurst ringers have to visit nearby towers. For the first time, on June 29th, three of their members rang a peal in their own tower. In accomplishing this performance they would like to express their gratitude to the towerkeepers and ringers of Wadhurst and Hawkhurst for their help.

The band who rang the peal of Spliced Surprise at Queensbury on June 28th would like to associate with the peal the name of Mr. William Ambler. As the pioneer of Surprise ringing in this district and leader at Queensbury until indifferent health curtailed his activities, he laid the foundations of the ringing of the majority of the band, who come from Halifax.

Mr. L. Stilwell, by ringing the fifth to a peal of Plain Bob Royal at St. Peter's, Brighton, on June 26th, has 'completed the circle.' This is the 12th tower in which he has accomplished this feat.

A correspondent informs us that a peal of Rochester Surprise Major was rung at Southport on April 8th, 1950. The footnote on page 370 needs amending.

There was a peal rung at Upper Gravenhurst, Beds, for the Coronation. The claim of a 'first on the bells' on page 374, writes a correspondent, cannot be substantiated.

While Willesden Regatta at the Welsh Harp was being televised on June 25th, the bells of St. Andrew's, Kingsbury, situated about a mile away, were clearly heard by viewers.

The ringers who took part in the peal at Sittingbourne on June 20th would like to congratulate Mr. J. E. Grensted on his faultless performance, it being his first peal for 46 years. He has recently returned to England after spending 45 years in Canada.

In the ringing chamber of St. John-the-Divine, Leicester, is a black and white scarf assumed to have been left there by one of the party of the Ancient Society of College Youths who visited Leicester on May 8th. The claimant is asked to communicate with Mr. S. Harrison, 73, Hopefield Road, Leicester, who would be pleased to send on the scarf.

CENTRAL COUNCIL

THIS BUSINESS ABOUT PLAIN BOB TRIPLES

FIRM STAND BY PEALS ANALYSIS COMMITTEE AFTER 50 YEARS — PLEAS OF IGNORANCE OF DECISION BY NOTED RINGERS — RECORDED BELLS DISCUSSED — NEXT COUNCIL MEETING AT BRISTOL

PEALS ANALYSIS COMMITTEE REPORT

The Peals Analysis Committee, in submitting their report for 1953, draw attention to the downward trend in peal ringing in the last few years.

In spite of the fact that 1953 was Coronation Year, the total number of peals rung was less than that of 1952. There was an increase of 16 in tower-bell peals, but a decrease of 69 in handbell peals. June saw 432 tower-bell peals rung, but this was followed by a reaction, for the number of peals during the remainder of the year fell well below the average.

Although in many churches the bells are rung regularly for the Sunday services, there are also many rings of bells which are silent on Sunday owing to lack of ringers. It is, therefore, heartening to find that in some districts young ringers are being encouraged and trained to become peal ringers.

Once again it is noticed, with congratulations, that the Leicester Diocesan Guild, with only 11 peals short of the previous year's total, occupy the first place in the Analysis. The Lancashire Association have moved up into second place, with the Essex Association in third place, the highest they have been for some time.

The five- and six-bell ringers have again upheld their reputation, accounting for 38.1 per cent. of all the tower-bell peals.

The Chester Guild have broken fresh ground in the Plain Major methods; the Norwich Guild in the Triples methods and the Worcester and Districts with Spliced Triples, while the Leicester Guild have enhanced their reputation with Spliced Maximus in twelve methods on tower bells and Stedman Sextuples on handbells.

The Middlesex Association accomplished a fine feat in ringing a silent peal of London Surprise Major on handbells, and the Hertford County a similar one of Cambridge Surprise Major.

Two remarkable peals which call for special mention are the handbell records of Grandsire Caters and Plain Bob Royal, both by the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild, which, we have no doubt, will be dealt with more fully by the Records Committee.

It has been pointed out that there is a decision of the Council against peals of Plain Bob Triples, Caters and Cinques, therefore the committee have no option but to delete from the Analysis the following peals of Bob Triples:

Chester Guild (1), Essex Association (1), Hertford County (2), Kent County (1), Llandaff and Monmouth (1), Leicester Guild (1), North Staffs (1), Oxford Diocesan (1), Suffolk Guild (2), Winchester and Portsmouth (1)—a total of 12, which makes the peal figures 2,400 on tower bells and 154 on handbells.

Another 'peal' of Plain Bob Triples, rung at Littleport, without a cover bell, was not entered.

In conclusion, we thank peal ringers for responding to our request to send in peal reports with promptitude, but still wish that Minor and Doubles ringers would always state the number of methods rung.

Mr. W. Ayre, in presenting the report, commented: 'I think the fun begins now.' He said in the last few years they had had an occasional peal of Bob Triples. That year there were 12. He pointed out that there was a rule in 1904 and 1927 against ringing peals of Bob Triples, so they had been slipping very badly. He decided to bring the matter up because he disliked the Council making decisions and not abiding by them. The committee were not trying to dictate and tell them what they should ring or not ring, but simply to abide by the decisions of the Council.

Mr. H. Miles seconded.

The Secretary: The Standing Committee recommended that the report be adopted.

Mr. N. Chaddock moved that peals of Treble Bob be included in the 1953 Analysis and that exclusion be deferred until after the publication of the Council's Handbook. He felt that the introduction of such a regulation would cause resentment. Some of the peals were rung specially for the Coronation.

Mr. W. F. Moreton seconded. He regarded the introduction now without warning as a big mistake.

Mr. Barker: The warning was given in 1904.

NEW SUBSCRIBERS

We have had an encouraging response to our call for new postal subscribers, and with the half-year just starting the time is appropriate for the enrolment of additional postal subscribers.

Congratulations to Hertfordshire, who head the list with 22 new postal readers.

They are closely followed by Essex 19, Wales 17, Surrey 15, London 13, Staffordshire 13, Birmingham 10, Leicestershire 10, Lancashire 9, Norfolk 8.

The rate for a postal subscriber is 11s. 8d. for the half-year. For each additional copy add 8s. 8d. Remittances should be sent to Mr. J. E. Jeater, Greystones, Cusgarne, Truro, Cornwall.

Mr. Eric Critchley asked how many towers throughout the country knew of the regulations. As a peal secretary he would accept such peals.

Mr. C. K. Lewis objected most strongly to the amendment. In the last few years, he said, they had refused to accept peals of Minor because they were irregular. It was not the fault of the Analysis Committee; it was the fault of the Council — they ought to know the decisions. The decision touched him deeply because his Guild rang a peal of Bob Triples to the memory of his friend Bob Newton and it was his sad duty to turn it down. The analysis ought to be a record of things that conformed to the Council's decisions. He asked if they could have an assurance from 'The Ringing World' Committee that all peals would be recorded and then only peals that conformed to the Council's decisions would be recorded in the Peal Analysis Committee's report. He had great sympathy with the Minor ringers who had their peals taken away without warning. If they gave way to eight-bell ringers it would discourage Minor ringers who rang 38 per cent. of the peals.

Mr. F. Dukes said they had no official warning that these peals were to be thrown out. He asked how many Associations had an official copy of the rules.

Mr. P. J. Johnson asked the members to put some sort of logic into their statements. It was no use being fair to one and unfair to another. It was well known since 1904 that Bob Triples had been discouraged by the Council. The Council was not saying to ringers, 'You can't do this or that'; all it was saying was that these peals would not be admitted to the Analysis.

Mr. Robinson thought that the enforcement of the decision should not be done without notice. He would like to move that the decision be amended.

Mr. Johnson added, with emphasis, that the decision could not be amended at that meeting.

Mr. Harold J. Poole thought that to cut the peals out now would do a great deal of harm to young ringers.

The Rev. J. G. M. Scott said he lived in a county (Devonshire) where there was a great deal of Grandsire. If he had a band of his own he would try and get them through Bob Doubles before they heard Grandsire. He reminded the Council that the first recorded peal by John Garthon in 1715 was Bob Triples. He asked the Council to rescind the decision as to Bob Triples.

Mr. J. R. Worrall supported the views of Mr. Poole. He said he had taken part in three peals of Bob Triples. 'I asked someone whom I thought would know whether there was a decision against it and I was told they simply frowned upon it.'

Mr. C. W. Pipe: I have rung and conducted Bob Triples and I did not know there was a decision against Bob Triples.

Mr. John Freeman: Personally I cannot see any merit in ringing Bob Triples. I assume that the rule was drafted by people who thought it was not worthy of being practised. I do not believe in the school of thought that if a peal was rung in innocence it should count. If ever I am pulled up by the police in Leicester I shall tell them that I did it in all innocence! He supported Mr. K. Lewis.

The Rev. K. W. H. Felstead took the view that the method had been rung so long that it would be a pity to rule out these peals.

Mr. G. W. Fletcher: We have heard a lot about this innocence, but about three weeks ago a member of the Methods Committee rang a peal of Bob Caters in the Eastern Counties.

The Rev. A. G. G. Thurlow supported the views of Mr. Scott. As to the first recorded peal of 1715 it would be very sad to have to report that that was a good peal in every sense except in the eyes of the Central Council. If that decision came to pass the third edition of his book ('The Church Bells of Norwich') would have to have a very long footnote to that peal that it was not recognised by the Central Council (laughter).

'I feel in this age of specialisation that my sympathies are not with all the experts who can ring anything, but with the young ringers in the village towers who are struggling to do this and that.'

Mr. Harry Miles: Is it not a fact that every Association agrees to abide by the decisions of the Council?

Mr. Anderson said that Mr. Johnson was a member of the Council when the decision was made. Why had he allowed peals of Bob Triples in the Analysis?

Mr. Johnson: I feel you are getting all muddled. The point was made in the question asked by Mr. Miles. All your Associations have had this information since 1904, and if I have a responsibility so have you.

Mr. F. Dunkerley: I want to support Mr. Johnson. You have a rule and this is no place to rescind it. If you want to rescind it you must give notice.

Mr. R. G. Blackman felt that these peals should be allowed because they had accepted them since 1904. He moved that the 12 peals of Bob Triples referred to in the report be included in the Analysis and that the exclusion of these peals be deferred until after the publication of the Council's handbook.

Mr. Johnson maintained that such a resolution was out of order.

The President: Strictly speaking, that is right. Notice should be given.

Mr. Johnson: If you do this you open the floodgates on any decision of the Council.

Mr. W. Robinson suggested deferring the acceptance of the paragraph in the report until the next meeting.

It was eventually agreed to accept the report with the exception of the paragraph dealing with Bob Triples and that paragraph be postponed until next year.

The Secretary said the decision of the Standing Committee was that in future all peals not conforming to the Council's decisions will not be put in the Analysis; they will, however, if sent, be published in 'The Ringing World.'

The committee was elected as follows: Mr. W. Ayre (convener), Mr. H. Miles and the Rev. K. W. H. Felstead.

THE STANDING COMMITTEE

The following were elected to the Standing Committee: Messrs. R. S. Anderson, W. B. Cartwright, F. E. Dukes, J. T. Dyke, J. Freeman, F. I. Hairs, P. J. Johnson, C. K. Lewis, H. J. Poole, A. H. Pulling, Rev. A. G. G. Thurlow and Mr. E. C. S. Turner.

The president moved a vote of thanks to the retiring committee for their work

RECORDED BELLS

Before the motion was presented the president said in view of what they had heard recently he would ask the proposer to accept the following amendment:—

'That this Council deprecates the increasing number of installations of synthetic and recorded bells, which it considers to be unworthy of use in the house of God, and wishes to support the responsible authorities in the steps they are taking to prevent their installation.'

The president said that since the motion was sent in they had heard that the Church Assembly had passed a strong resolution, and also the Central Council for the Preservation of Churches. He thought it would be more appropriate if they added their support.

Mr. F. E. Hawthorne accepted the amendment and accordingly moved it.

Mr. Walter Ayre seconded.

The Rev. A. G. G. Thurlow suggested that 'imitation' was a better word than synthetic. People might not think so but there were parts of the country that were not against recorded bells. He quoted a case of an Archdeacon, who, when the Queen arrived, played his gramophone not from the church tower but on the Vicarage lawn. One incumbent, finding that his church bells were a gramophone, attached a notice to the record: 'This peal is not to be rung any more.'

The president said the main argument against recorded bells was: 'Why not recordings of choirs from other churches, or sermons from the vicars of other churches, in fact why have your own vicar at all?'

Mr. J. A. Hoare spoke of the prevalence of recorded bells in Wales and said that the reason was that recorded bells did not cost much, only £110.

Mr. J. W. Clarke said he had been in this fight for some time. Every application that came before the Chester Advisory Committee was met with a strong recommendation that it be not granted, but in some cases it had. If any of them had met Chancellor King they would know that he still gave way on recorded bells with a number of reservations, such as the kind of ringing. If they got the support of the Chancellors they could do most things.

The motion as amended was carried.

THE NEXT MEETING

The secretary reported that invitations had been received from Bristol and Leicester. This was discussed by the Standing Committee, who decided to leave the decision to the Council. Bristol was last visited in 1898, and Leicester in 1911.

Mr. F. I. Hairs proposed Bristol.

Mr. H. J. Poole asked the Council to place on record the invitation to Leicester the following year.

The Council decided to hold the next meeting at Bristol.

THE ATTENDANCE

The hon. secretary reported that 114 Council members were present. Twenty-four Associations were fully represented, 26 partly, four not represented. There were five life and seven honorary members present.

VOTES OF THANKS

The president proposed a vote of thanks to the Provost and Chapter of St. Nicholas Cathedral for the use of the Cathedral library, the Provost for officiating at the service, the Lord Bishop, the Lord Mayor and the Master for their welcome, Mr. D. Bayles and Mr. K. Arthur for making local arrangements and to all incumbents and towerkeepers for the use of the bells and having the bells ready (applause).

Mr. A. A. Hughes proposed a sincere vote of thanks to the president for the way he conducted the business (applause).

Mr. F. E. Dukes proposed a vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Barnett, Mr. F. Sharpe and the Editor of 'The Ringing World' (applause).

The Lord Mayor and the Lady Mayoress afterwards gave a civic reception and conversazione in the Laing Art Gallery. During the evening a touch of Stedman Cinques was rung by members of the Council, conducted by Mr. H. J. Poole.

THE VISIT AN INSPIRATION

Dear Sir,—As a postscript to the visit of the Central Council to Newcastle-upon-Tyne, I should like to say how delighted our own members were to meet and ring with our visitors.

Names which were mere symbols in 'The Ringing World' became alive, old friendships were revived and new ones made.

The whole visit has been an inspiration to us all up here. We hope it will not be so long next time before we are favoured again with a Central Council visit, but that at any rate its members might come back north individually. They will always be sure of a warm welcome at any of our towers.—Yours faithfully

RICHARD A. GOFTON,
President,
Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association

Leeds and District Society

When the Society met at Idle on June 26th they received a special welcome from the Vicar, who stated that he made it a practice to visit the belfry at least once a month to keep in touch with the ringers.

He was thanked at the business meeting by Mr. F. Rayment, who also thanked the ladies who waited at tea. Mr. T. Hill, on behalf of the local company, thanked the members for coming to Idle. They enjoyed hearing all the bells ringing, which rarely happened with their depleted band.

The July meeting will be held on the 24th at Calverley.

ESSEX ASSOCIATION

75th Annual Meeting

THE 75th annual meeting of the Essex Association took place on Whit Monday at Chelmsford, when a large number of members and visitors enjoyed ringing on the Cathedral twelve and on the many towers that were available in the vicinity.

The Association's form of service was conducted by the Very Rev. G. E. Gordon, Provost of Chelmsford Cathedral, and the address was by Canon W. N. Welch, Archdeacon of Southend, who expressed the pleasure it gave him in accepting the office of vice-president of the Association and of being with the ringers on that particular day.

At the business meeting which followed the service, the Master (Mr. R. C. Heazel) welcomed all the visitors, mentioning especially Mr. C. J. Sedgley (Ipswich), Mr. R. Hazell (Enfield) and Mr. Ben Thompson (Norwich).

In reviewing the year's work the Master noted that 1953 had been one of great interest and activity. The Association had been privileged to send a letter of loyalty to Her Majesty and a reply had been received from the Home Office.

An innovation had been a week-end ringing course held in agreement with the Further Educational Committee of the Essex County Council at the Residential Hostel, Clarence House, Thaxted. It was believed that this was the first of its kind in the country.

Membership had increased. Honorary membership now stood at 208 and ringing members at 895.

The Bell Restoration Fund had been well supported and a sum of £69 had been distributed.

The peal total of 131 was only one short of the record annual total. 'Firsts' for the Association were York Surprise, Wembley Surprise and Spliced Surprise Major in 10 methods. Two hunded and thirty-two different members had participated in the peals, approximately 25 per cent. of the ringing members.

All the officials of the Association were re-elected, viz:—Master, Mr. R. C. Heazel; Deputy Master, Mr. H. Turner; hon. secretary and treasurer, Mr. F. V. Gant; hon. auditors, Messrs. J. Grove and D. Mayell.

At the lunch which followed, the guest of honour was the Provost, who obliged with his customary funny story.

To celebrate the 75th anniversary of the founding of the Association tea was arranged at Writtle, where sung evensong, containing a special litany of thanksgiving, was conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. G. O. Nicholas. Thus the Association honoured its founder members and if the number and quality of the younger members present on Whit Monday is any criterion, then the work they began 75 years ago is in safe hands. F. V. G.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

COMPOSING A PEAL

Dear Sir, — A correspondent inquired recently about methods or systems of composing. This is a very general inquiry but I will try to give my own idea of the answer in the hope that others may add their criticisms and additions.

Composition of methods falls into certain well-defined categories, which are so radically different in their approach that composers tend to specialise only in one category.

Firstly, in composing Minor and Triples methods (except Stedman, see below) where it is necessary to obtain the extent of the rows, only those methods survive which have leads or sections which are mutually true, i.e., the extent can be subdivided into a set of leads each of which can occur in one way only (e.g., Grandsire Triples without singles) or sometimes in 'forward' and 'inverted' form only (any Minor method). Internal falseness of leads is absent, or it can easily be avoided by special treatment (e.g., inverting B-blocks of Grandsire Triples and singling them in) and the problem of composing an extent reduces to the task of linking up the leads which are already known to be true. As someone once said, 'The peal was proved before it was composed.' Graphical treatment lends itself especially to this category—e.g., W. H. Thompson's work on Grandsire Triples. Q-sets are also very useful. Other methods, e.g., Plain Major methods, also belong to this category although the extent is not usually wanted because the leads run mutually true.

However, in the composition of Treble Bob (including Surprise) Major methods the leads do run mutually false and the extent is not attainable. A peal is, therefore, a collection of salvaged leads put together. In order to simplify the job, and at the same time produce better music, certain bells, e.g., 1, 7 and 8 are kept fixed and this gives the normal scheme of false course-ends. Spliced Surprise peals are the culmination of this art of studying true and false pairs of leads and salvaging the true sets to fit them together. Stedman Caters can also be put in this category.

Stedman Triples is the 'problem child' which refuses to conform to the above division, for the sixes can be mutually false although the extent must be obtained. The problem has always so far been tackled by pinning down the part-ends and then letting the resulting sets of sixes work themselves into a part. This, of course, involves the whole technique of part-composition, which, as far as I am aware, has not been dealt with in print anywhere in its general application. Only two avenues of approach to Stedman Triples have been used—Hudson's 60 course-ends and J. W. Parker's 168 course-ends ('Mysteries Unveiled' course-ends, though possibly Parker was not the first to use them).

Fortunately, there is one simple technique which simplifies any mode of composition enormously, that of composing in parts. For example, to compose a peal of Spliced Surprise Major in four methods, each method has 60 possible courses and, therefore, 420 possible leads to be used, making 1,680 leads in all to be examined in pairs for falseness! If we decide to compose a five-part peal using part-ends 23456, 34562, 45623, etc., the 1,680 leads fall into 336 sets of five, and it is an elementary but none the less remarkable fact that, after certain precautions have been taken, these sets of five leads can be checked as one, which reduces the work to one twenty-fifth. This technique extends logically to sets of course-ends (called groups) of higher order, and the bigger the number of course-ends the less the work involved in fitting together a part which will extend truly. However, a compensating difficulty arises, that of linking up the parts into one round block.

Thus composing need not be a matter of buying several rolls of wallpaper and taking a long holiday. Many peals obviously involve a lot of cross-checking to avoid falseness, but, in the main, composition is not a trial-and-error business, but a carefully calculated process, where one starts with a plan and cuts down the figure-working to a minimum. There is the tendency for composers who have discovered a particular way of approach to imagine that theirs is the only possible way. For example, the twin-bob way of composing Stedman Triples (based on Hudson's course-ends) is a very specialised way of composing the method, yet years ago many erroneous conclusions were reached by imagining it to be the only way—e.g., peals with bobs only unattainable, a two-part peal with two singles unattainable. These conclusions are true only for twin-bob peals.

There are so few ringers interested in composition that published information on the matter is scanty and scattered, and often suffers from being 'chatty' and loose. Surely anyone interested enough to read articles on composition, even though he may know little about it, deserves the facts which he can puzzle out and digest for himself.

PRESIDENTS OF THE GUILD OF DEVONSHIRE RINGERS

Dear Sir,—In the report of the annual meeting of the Guild of Devonshire Ringers a slight error occurs. The Guild, during its 80 years of work, has had not five but only four presidents, viz:—

Col. C. A. W. Troyte, 1874-1896.
Rev. Maitland Kelly, 1896-1924.
Rev. E. S. Powell, 1924-1933.
Rev. Prebendary E. V. Cox, 1933–.

We hope that Mr. Cox will be spared to beat the record of 26 years by the Rev. M. Kelly.—Yours faithfully,

FREDERICK C. SMALE.

STEDMAN TRIPLES AT ST, GEORGE'S, BRISTOL

Dear Sir,—A few weeks ago I sent in a report of a peal of Stedman Triples rung at St. George's, Bristol, and claimed it as the first peal on the eight bells

The week after it appeared a note in 'Belfry Gossip' stated that a peal of Stedman Triples was rung at St. George's in 1899. In 1899 there were only six bells at St. George's. I am almost sure that the peal I called there was the first peal on the bells. The two trebles were added as a memorial to those from the parish who died during World War I.—Yours sincerely,

REGINALD G. HOOPER.

Redfield, Bristol.

CONGRATULATIONS TO EVERCREECH

Dear Sir,—I would very much like to congratulate the Evercreech band on their perfect striking, which is a delight to hear at two minutes to eight every Sunday morning on the B.B.C. Light programme.

Could somebody enlighten me—is this a local band?—Yours faithfully,

L. W. BULLOCK.

Romford, Essex.

THE CRAWFORD CUP

History of a Notts Competition

The Southwell Guild Crawford Cup Contest for 1954 was held at Worksop Priory Church on June 12th. The test piece was 360 changes in any method from Doubles upwards. Although the Priory has a fine eight, recently rehung, only six-bell teams competed, being Warsop 'A,' Warsop 'B,' Ordsall, Gamston and East Retford. After being close runners-up for the last four years, Ordsall, who rang a fine 360 of Single Court, finally wrested the cup from Warsop, who have held it for the last five years. The judges were Mr. C. Glenn, of Nottingham, and Mr. W. E. Critchley, of Doncaster.

Mr. Crawford, the donor of the cup, who lives at Rampton, is still an active ringer at his local tower and gives the greatest encouragement to young ringers. Difficulty in negotiating steps, owing to his 'gammy' leg, prevents him attending many meetings. He was taught to ring by his father, Mr. C. Crawford, himself a great ringer, at East Markham, which then had only four bells, in 1895. The following year, at the age of 12, he was given a set of handbells by his father for ringing his first 720 at Ordsall. At 14 he was apprenticed to a joiner at Everton, and was reserve ringer at that tower, always having to attend but only getting a ring when one of the others didn't turn up. In his early ringing career transport was by horse and buggy, and he recalls attending a meeting in company with Mr. O. Street (still ringing at East Retford) at Shireoaks. It was decided to let the two lads have tea, which, incidentally, was rabbit pie, at half-price—fourpence. This was the first and last time, as apparently they ate twice as much as the men!

Mr. Crawford gave the cup to the North Notts Association in 1927 in memory of his father. He had met Mr. Blagg in Retford market place and he suggested it was a good idea, so went to Lincoln and had it made at Ushers, the silversmiths.

The cup was first competed for in 1928 at Cuckney. Four companies entered but only two brought a full band, viz: South Anston and Shireoaks, South Anston winning. The judge of this contest was Mr. J. Brearley, of Sheffield.

The results of the competitions show the rise and fall of various bands: Anston, winners many times in the early stages, have only entered once since the war, East Markham now without a band, Worksop again learning the rudiments of change ringing and Shireoaks, whose band broke up about two years ago with the death of some of the older hands and the bells now unringable. Ordsall, this year's winners, have always featured prominently, sometimes entering two teams. May their success continue.

Gloucester and Bristol Association

Despite the inclement weather 36 ringers met at Bishopstone on June 12th for the half-yearly meeting of the Swindon Branch. The usual ringing was followed by the Association form of service conducted by the Vicar (Canon W. Hatherley-Jones), and tea had been arranged in the school by Mr .J. Durham.

At the business meeting the Branch secretary (Mr. W. B. Kynaston) gave a brief report of the Central Council meeting held at Newcastle and it was announced that a Ringers' Sunday would be held at Christ Church, Swindon, on September 12th. Places proposed for the next three meetings were Wanborough, Ashton Keynes and Castle Eaton. Visitors attended from Bristol and Fairford, and ringing ranged from rounds to Cambridge and London Surprise Major.

SOCIETY FOR THE ARCHDEACONRY OF STAFFORD

Bishop of Lichfield Meets Ringers

THE annual meeting of the Society for the Archdeaconry of Stafford took place at Lichfield on June 19th. The weather was fine and the pleasant cathedral city was looking at its best in the bright sunshine. Ringing during the afternoon and evening took place at the Cathedral, St. Mary's and St. Michael's.

The service at St. Michael's was conducted by the Vicar, Prebendary H. S. Cresswell who also gave a most interesting address. Mrs. Chasney, deputy organist, kindly officiated for this service.

Tea was served in St. Mary's Schools and before the commencement of the annual meeting the Bishop of Lichfield, Dr. A. S. Reeve, accompanied by Mrs. Reeve, put in an appearance, which gave much satisfaction to the large attendance of 106 members and friends. Addressing the meeting, the Bishop said he had always had a profound respect for the people who, Sunday after Sunday, were prepared to climb innumerable steps to the belfries of our churches. He was very encouraged when he saw some of the boys returning from National Service going up into the tower to ring, and also to see some of the ladies taking their part. Mr. H. Knight and Mr. C. Wallater, who have been members of the Society for 60 and 50 years respectively, were presented to the Bishop and Mrs. Reeve.

FINANCIAL RECOVERY

At the annual meeting which followed the Bishop's visit, Mr. F. Brotherton, hon. treasurer, presented the accounts, which showed an increase in the balance in hand of £17 9s. 4d. Compared with two years ago, when the Society's finances were giving cause for concern, the balance at the bank had increased by over £20.

The committee's report, presented by Mr. Fred Bennett, lay secretary, made special reference to the ringing throughout the Archdeaconry on the occasion of the Queen's return from her overseas tour on May 15th. Members of the Society had rung four peals that day in honour of the event. The number of peals rung during the year, 57, was a decrease of 33 compared with the previous year.

Mr. Maurice Turner, retiring Ringing Master, gave a detailed account of the year's ringing activities and progress made.

Following these reports, the Ven. W. A. Parker, Archdeacon of Stafford and president of the Society, thanked all the officers for their services during the past year and said that he was very impressed with the happy spirit which prevailed in the Society. The Archdeacon said the fact that there had not been so many peals rung in the last 12 months did not worry him one little bit, for the simple reason that the older and more experienced ringers were doing a wonderful job of work in bringing on the Society's younger ringers.

The election of officers then took place. Mr. Dennis Holden was elected Ringing Master in place of Mr. Maurice Turner. Mr. Turner was thanked for his good services during the past two years. Other elections were: Mr. F. Brotherton, hon. treasurer; Rev. C. H. Barker, clerical secretary; Mr. Fred Bennett, lay secretary; Mr. Eric Speake, peal secretary and auditor.

Meetings for the next 12 months were provisionally arranged as follows:—August, Yoxall; October, Brewood; January, Bushbury; March, Christ Church, West Bromwich; May, Rugeley; June (annual) Lichfield. The third annual dinner will take place on November 13th.

After some discussion it was agreed to publish the report for 1953-54 with full list of peals rung, at a charge to members of 1s. per copy.

Mr. B. G. Key then gave members a very full and interesting account of the recent Central Council meeting at Newcastle-on-Tyne.

A vote of thanks to the Archdeacon for so efficiently taking the chair, and Prebendary Cresswell for conducting the service and allowing the use of the schools, ended the meeting.

THE LADIES' GUILD

A Visit to Tiverton

On June 12th a coachload of ladies and their escorts from the Bath-Bristol District attended the quarterly meeting of the Western District of the Ladies' Guild at Tiverton. Braving the unexpected hazards of a June day—torrential rain and dense fog on the high ground— the coach eventually arrived at Ottery St. Mary. Apparently the Devon pixies, whose threats of revenge upon the bells of this, one of the county's finest churches, have become almost national news, approve of lady ringers because some very good ringing took place upon this fine octave.

After a magnificent lunch in the comfort of the London Hotel at Ottery, the party set out for Uffculme, where the visitors were met by several friends from the Exeter District and a further hour's ringing was enjoyed.

At Tiverton the party received a warm welcome from the local ringers and the ladies were able to ring a creditable service touch of Stedman Triples. The service was conducted by the curate. During the short business meeting three new members were elected and it was decided that the June meeting next year should be held at Minchead.

The last tower of the day was Huntsham, a completely unspoilt village in the depths of the country, approached through a maze of narrow, twisting lanes. An entertaining hour was spent on the eight bells in this home of Acland Troyte of 'The Art of Change Ringing' fame.

Thanks are especially due to Mr. E. J. Taylor for his invaluable help in making the arrangements. M. J. T.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION

Western District at Skipton

The summer meeting of the Western District was held on June 19th at Holy Trinity, Skipton. The approaches to this fine old church are flanked on both sides with well-tended lawns, and on this fine, sunny afternoon provided a pleasant rendezvous for ringers' wives awaiting their husbands and for ringers seeking respite from the crowded belfry. The musical Taylor octave (tenor 22 cwt.) were given little rest between 2.30 and 9 p.m., apart from the necessary interval for tea and the business meeting. Methods ranged from Plain Bob and Grandsire to London and Bristol Surprise, and well over 50 members and friends were present including three visitors from Clitheroe, over the Lancashire border.

The business meeting was held in the choir vestry with the vice-president (Mr. P. J. Johnson) in the chair. Votes of thanks were accorded to the church authorities and ringers of Skipton for their hospitality. New members elected were Mr. Peter Atkinson (Horbury) and the Misses Beryl M. Sanderson and Sheila M. Schofield (Leeds). An invitation was gratefully accepted to hold the September meeting at Sowerby, where the bells, having been recently recast, are to be rededicated in July.

A welcome visitor was Mr. W. Ambler, of Queensbury, a past District secretary, who was compelled through illness to give up tower bell ringing a few years ago. By taking part in a touch of Bob Major on handbells, he showed that he has not yet lost any of his old enthusiasm for ringing.

SHROPSHIRE ASSOCIATION

At High Ercall After 60 Years

The Shropshire Association has this year continued its policy of mixing 'the old familiar' with the new and strange. The May meeting, held at Market Drayton in conjunction with the Crewe Branch of the Chester Guild, produced a large attendance, good ringing and good fellowship, as is usual at this centre of Surprise Major ringing.

The June meeting at High Ercall was the first to be held there and, as far as can be ascertained, it is 60 years since the defunct Salop Guild paid a visit.

The bells are of four periods. Starting with four from the Gloucester foundry, one treble and then another were added. In 1812 the octave was completed with two of Briant's, and the result is an agreeable surprise. Unfortunately the frame has never been properly modified, the last two bells each swinging in an extension into windows.

New bearings in 1869 and again last year have been supplied by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, and the 'go' seems satisfactory enough. The bells are rung from the ground, and a very high ceiling without guides makes the lighter bells, at least, difficult to control. The total length of rope is considerable, as the bells are at the top of a tall tower. To add to our difficulties, they are hung anticlockwise.

It is not surprising that visitors have never been very popular with the local band, who ring call changes in exemplary style, the ropes falling in smooth array which the most experienced ringer might envy.

However, we first tried Grandsire and Plain Bob, and after a while became a little more accustomed to the unusual conditions. Mr. A. Pritchard, our Ringing Master, startled us by calling for Cambridge for the service ringing, but his judgment was vindicated as a very good course resulted. Personally I found Surprise methods easier than Plain, as in the latter I looked in the wrong direction, as the order is so well known.

The Rev. W. G. Beale (Vicar) conducted the service, Mr. F. H. Bennett (Deputy Ringing Master) was the organist, the secretary counting the verses for him and blowing the organ at the same time.

Thirty ringers crowded the Cleveland Arms for tea, and when we returned to the church, another dozen or so were waiting. Stedman, Yorkshire, Superlative and London methods were rung, which I certainly did not expect to hear on this occasion. W. A. F.

Memorial Plaque to Pioneer Ringer at Idle

An interesting ceremony took place at the Holy Trinity Church, Idle, near Bradford, on June 27th, when the Rev. R. P. Walters dedicated a plaque during the morning service to the memory of Mr. Willie Feather, who died in August last after 39 years of faithful service as a bellringer for the church. Willie was one of the original band of ringers, formed when the bells were installed in 1914, and was one of the most consistent and regular attenders which any band could wish to have. He had a serious illness a few years ago but took a keen and prominent interest in all ringing matters right up to the last.

The bells were rung before and after the morning service by past and present Idle ringers some of whom, although living out of the district, had returned to pay their last respects to a loyal friend. The ringers were: T. Hill, R. Umpleby, F. Davison, H. Davison, G. Duck, H. Buckley F. Wilkinson, F. Rayment, M. Ryder, S. Spensley, D. White and T. Spensley. Mr. T. Hill, who is in charge of the local company, is now the only surviving member of the original band formed in 1914.

A HILLINGDON WEDDING

Mr. F. C. Price — Miss Sheila Coles

A pretty wedding of particular interest to ringers took place, as announced in our columns last week, on June 19th, at St. John-the-Baptist Church, Hillingdon, between Mr. Frank C. Price and Miss Sheila M. M. Coles. The father of the bride is Mr. William H. Coles, vice-president of the Middlesex Association, and the father of the bridegroom is Mr. A. R. (Tony) Price, Ringing Master of the same organisation.

Arranged by Mr. T. G. Bannister, the ring of ten was rung before and after the ceremony by members of the local band assisted by friends from Uxbridge, Ealing-and Sunbury.

A very beautiful and impressive fully choral service was conducted by the Rev. F. C. Tyler (Vicar of Hillingdon). Miss Margaret Price (sister of the bridegroom) acted as bridesmaid, and his brother, Mr. Richard E. Price, was best man.

Sheila, although not a ringer, has since childhood been a popular figure at ringing meetings and functions, and in recent years has always supported her mother and her godmother, Mrs. F. W. Goodfellow, in arranging and preparing tea for the annual October meetings at Hillingdon.

Frank, now on terminal leave from the R.A.F., is well known in many parts of the country, where he has been a welcome visitor to many towers during his Service career; his ringing includes a peal of Minor, ringing two bells, at Cranford, Middlesex, the tower where he rang his first peal when he was 10½ years of age.

At the reception the toast of the bride and bridegroom was proposed in affectionate and happy vein by the Vicar to 'Sheila and Frank.' The union of the two ringing families was, he said, an obviously happy event. He remarked on the young couple's love for their church, and paid tribute to Frank's service not only as a ringer but also as organist.

Congratulatory telegrams included one from Peterborough, U.S.A., one from South Africa and one from 'Uncle George' (Mr. S. G. Coles), of Taunton, Somerset, Sheila's godfather, who, due to a recent accident, was unable to be present.

LINCOLN DIOCESAN GUILD

Elloe Deaneries Branch

The pretty little marshland village of Lutton, which lies about 1½ miles from Long Sutton, was visited by the Elloe Deaneries Branch on June 19th. Its red brick church with stone spire rising to about 150 feet is mainly 15th century and was restored in 1859.

There were four bells in the tower in 1770, by Eayres. In 1806 Osborn cast a tenor to make five. Then, in 1905, Taylors recast the front four and rehung the bells. The same firm also cast and hung the new treble in 1953 (the tenor weighs 4 cwt. 2 qr. 15 lb.; note C sharp).

These were kept going to a variety of methods during the afternoon and evening. At the service a very thoughtful address was given by the Vicar (the Rev. Mr. Fenton). Tea was served in the schoolroom by members of the Mothers' Union and was a most excellent spread of chicken and salad with the usual array of cakes and a good cup of tea, all for 2s. A short business meeting followed at which a collection was taken for the Belfry Repair Fund. A few touches on handbells finished off the meeting and then all returned to the tower where ringing continued till past nine o'clock.

DEDICATION

ST. GEORGE'S, BARKINGSIDE

After 22 years the Rev. A. C. Comer-Stone has had his ambition fulfilled of hearing a ring of eight bells proclaim their message from the tower of St. George's, Barkingside, Essex. Not only as Vicar had he collected funds for the building of the church, but it was to his own design.

The dedication of the new tenor, which completes the octave, took place on May 9th during Evensong. During the singing of the hymn 'Ring Forth, Holy Bells,' the choir, sacristan, Vicar and churchwardens made their way to the ringing chamber, where the Vicar dedicated the tenor and rededicated the second, fifth and sixth. Immediately afterwards rounds were rung.

In his address the Vicar spoke of the history of the bells and the art of change ringing. He followed this by particulars of the bells, all of which were cast by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank. Details are as follows:—

Treble, Faith, 3 cwt.; second, Hope, 4 cwt.; third, Love, 4½ cwt.; fourth, Joy, 5 cwt.; fifth, Long Suffering, 5¾ cwt.; sixth, Peace, 7 cwt.; seventh, Thanksgiving, 8 cwt.; tenor, Praise, 10½ cwt.

The first three bells were hung March, 1932.

After the service a quarter peal of Grandsire Triples was rung by members of the London County Association (Northern District), including John Barrance, Ringing Master of St. George's, who arranged the ringing for this occasion.

The ringers in the quarter peal were:—H. F. Perry 1, Mrs. M. M. Osborne 2, Mrs. S. Bullock 3, Mrs. J. C. Northan 4, H. Corney 5, J. Barrance (first in the method) 6, L. W. Bullock (conductor) 7, J. R. Brice 8.

JOINT MEETING AT THETFORD

After a lapse of 20 years the South Norfolk Branch and the Mildenhall District of the Suffolk Guild held a joint meeting at Thetford on June 19th. Thirty ringers attended from 13 parishes in Norfolk and seven Suffolk parishes with visitors from Heston (Middlesex) and Sawston (Cambs). The bells of St. Peter's, Thetford, and the Elvedon Memorial Tower were available.

The Rector of St. Peter's, Thetford, the Rev. R. Jackson, conducted the service. After tea the business meeting followed with the Rev. F. E. Vokes in the chair, supported by the Rev. R. Jackson, Mr. E. Whiting (South Norfolk Ringing Master), Miss E. A. Peckett (secretary for the Mildenhall District) and Mr. A. G. Harrison (South Norfolk secretary). It was decided to continue the monthly visits to isolated towers where help was needed, the next to be at Dickleburgh on July 15th.

The usual votes of thanks were accorded to the Rector, organist and to Mr. H. Fuller, who carried out the local arrangements, also to the Suffolk Guild. Miss Peckett suitably replied for the Suffolk Guild.

THE RINGING WORLD

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

THE SCISSORS AND THE HOMES

By J. SEGAR

THIS is not an article on dressmaking for lady ringers. It is not necessary to compare each of the 112 rows of Double Norwich Court Bob Major with the rows of Double Oxford to find they are the same. This pair of methods are placed together in Snowdon's Diagrams. Write out a course of Double Norwich and cut it with the scissors into leads and half leads. The cuts should be made between the rows with the treble at lead, and then between again when the treble is at the back. The lines in the Diagrams are wrongly placed. The rearrangement of the fourteen pieces, guided by the diagram of Double Oxford, will not cause any difficulty. Further rearrangement will produce Hereward Bob and Pershore Bob. These four methods are numbered 12, 13, 14 and 15 in the C.C. Collection of Plain Major. It is time now to look at the result of this experiment with the scissors and to see what use can be made of it.

(1) In a plain course all four have exactly the same changes. For splicing Minor extents and Triples composers have used the 'scissors splice' extensively, but its use in Major and above is not common. Scissor splicing can be applied to all numbers from Minor to Maximus and to all classes of methods from Plain to Surprise. An examination of a large number of methods will show that in many the opposite place cannot be used at the half lead. In other cases the opposite place at the full lead produces rounds and a group of three methods only.

(2) In my Four-Way Table of Minor methods a group of methods is arranged A B
C D so that A and C in one column have the same work above the treble. The same applies to B and D. The lines across show methods with the same work below the treble as A and B or C and D. In a table of Major methods A would be Double Oxford, B Pershore, C Hereward and D Double Norwich.

Now I must look at the Homes of these four methods. Everyone knows that a bob at 5 in Double Norwich brings the tenors together in 7.8. This Home is not at the seventh lead as it would be in seconds place methods with a fourths place bob. The C.C. Collection shows that this Home can occur at the first second, third, fourth, fifth and sixth leads according to the method, but never at the seventh lead of methods which have eighth place at a plain lead. In seconds place method the Home is always at the seventh lead and the row is 14235678. Referring again to the group of four named methods the number of leads to the Home position of the tenors is Double Oxford 7, Hereward 7, Double Norwich 5, Pershore 4.

1 2 4 3 6 5 8 7
1 4 2 6 3 5 7 8

So far I have dealt separately with the Scissors and the Homes without saying anything new, but by combining them I think I am able to introduce an entirely new type of composition. I have dispensed with the usual headings of the calling position such as W. M. H. or F. I. O., etc. The calling is Homes and nothing but Homes until the peal comes round. The compositions show the number of leads and therefore have a similar appearance to Grandsire Triples.

Five times repeated.

S in 3rd and 6th parts.

Example of methods for A:—

Course of 7 leads, Double Oxford or Hereward.
Course of 5 leads, Double Norwich.
Course of 4 leads, Pershore.

If Double Norwich is rung throughout instead of Pershore the peal is 5,280.

Methods for B: 7 leads Yorkshire or Belgrave, 6 leads Woodstock.

I have other compositions for other methods in Major, Royal and Maximus, all called Homes and nothing but Homes. The publication of peals of Royal and Maximus is postponed for a short time owing to the interest of a prominent conductor.

OBITUARY

MR. WILLIAM COLLISON

In his 91st year, Mr. W. Collison died at his home at Tunbridge Wells on June 21st after a long illness patiently borne.

His early ringing was done at Crawley Parish Church, Sussex, where he was a member of the local band, and it was here that he rang his first peal, on July 5th, 1885. Whilst living at Crawley he also rang peals at Charlwood, Horley, Worth and Lindfield. He moved to Steyning in 1892 and while there he rang several peals with the then famous Brighton band, including the late G. Williams and K. Hart. When he moved to Tunbridge Wells in 1901 he at once joined the local band at St. Peter's, and remained a member until he was unable to climb the belfry stairs. He last rang at St. Peter's on VE-Day, 1945.

On his 90th birthday in March of this year a peal of Superlative Surprise Major was rung at St. Peter's in his honour. In all he rang 105 peals in the standard methods up to Superlative Surprise.

During the evening on the day of the funeral at the Borough Cemetery the bells of St. Peter's were rung half-muffled to his memory.

MR. SIDNEY M. HOLLIS

Godshill, Isle of Wight, have lost their oldest member by the death of Mr. Sidney M. Hollis, who for the past five years had been verger of the church and will be remembered by many ringing members.

He learnt to ring soon after the bells were augmented to six in 1887 and rang for the last time about a week before his death. In all he rang for 13 Royal occasions, the first being for Queen Victoria's Diamond Jubilee and the last a quarter peal for the homecoming of the present Queen. He was a good striker and rang in three peals.

He was carried on his last journey by six fellow-ringers, who with visiting ringers rang half-muffled touches after his burial. On Friday, July 2nd, a quarter peal of Grandsire Doubles was rung with the bells half-muffled to his memory by the following: E. Westmore 1, C. Callaway 2, E. Thorne 3, L. Bailey 4, C. Denness (conductor) 5, C. Morris 6.

MR. M. H. PALMER

The interment took place on Monday, July 5th, of Mr. M. H. Palmer, for nearly 40 years a bell ringer at Morecambe Parish Church.

Mr. Palmer was one of the founder members of the Lancaster Branch of the Lancashire Association. He was the last active member of the old six-bell band, and with his colleagues was largely responsible for installation of the present lovely ring of eight.

The writer's most vivid memory of Herbert was that cheerful smile and ever ready help he was always willing to extend to his devoted young learners, and the present bnad is perhaps his best memorial.

The funeral was attended by a large gathering of Lancaster Branch members and representatives from Furness and Blackburn Branches. 'Well done, thou good and faithful servant.' J. W.

MR. JAMES F. PRIEST

Mr. E. Barnett, of Crayford, writes:—

When my father left Ross for London in or about 1880 he went to lodge with Mr. Priest's parents at Wanstead. He was already a ringer and he interested Mr. Priest; both were members of Wanstead belfry.

Somewhere about 1882 my father left London for Monmouth, Mr. Priest following him there about two or three years later. Both of them rang in the first peal on Monmouth bells in 1886. Mr. Priest lived with my parents and he became my godfather.

He left for South Africa on May 21st, 1890 (not 1902), and four days earlier he rang his farewell peal with the Cumberlands at St. Mary Abbot's, Kensington. This was his first and only peal on ten bells.

About ten years ago there was some correspondence in 'The Ringing World' as to who was the oldest member of the Cumberland Youths, to which at the time there were several claimants. I remember writing to suggest that it probably lay between Mr. Priest and the late Rev. W. C. Pearson. Both of them replied, but who was the older member I have forgotten.

An 1899 Peal at Bristol

Dear Sir,—I do not doubt that Mr. Hooper is correct about there being only six bells at St. George's, Bristol, in 1899, but that would mean an error in the following entry in 'Bell News,' Vol. xviii., p. 379:

BRISTOL

Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association

On Thursday, December 21st, 1899, in Two Hours & Fifty-Two Minutes At the Church of St. George

A PEAL OF STEDMAN TRIPLES, 5,040 CHANGES

Brooks' Variation. Tenor 18 cwt.

Fred G. May	Treble	Stephen Thomas	5
Gilbert Pearce	2	Frank Gooding	6
Henry Pring	3	George T. Daltry	7
Raymond J. Wilkins ..	4	William Bevan	Tenor

Conducted by George T. Daltry

I should be very pleased to know where this peal was rung if it wasn't at St. George's.—Yours sincerely,

Southampton. K. W. H. FELSTEAD.

BELL FOUNDERS

CLOCK MAKERS

CROYDON

ON CONDUCTING

By WILFRID G. WILSON

XV. GRANDSIRE TRIPLES

There are two commonly used ways of calling Grandsire Triples. One is to learn by heart the bells which will be Before (i.e., will make thirds place) at the lead end where a bob is due. Most people who call Holt's peal (the 'Original') use this way, as the peal is a one-part, and there is no one bell which repeats its work at regular intervals and can therefore be learnt easily.

The other way is to learn the work of an observation bell and call the bobs and singles when this bell is in the correct position to do the work you have learnt. For instance, Parker's twelve-part peal of Grandsire Triples can be arranged so that either the 2nd, the 6th or the 7th does the same work in each of the twelve parts. It is not at all difficult to learn the exact work of this observation bell throughout one part (fifteen calls in thirty leads) and simply keep repeating this calling.

In either of these ways, if this is all you learn, plus a few particular course ends (or the twelve part ends in the second example) so as to check that the bells are right at particular places, you are only bob-calling. To be sure of being able to correct any mistakes as they occur you must also watch the Coursing Order of the bells all the while.

When you try to do this, you will see some vital differences from the Plain Bob type of method. You must allow for a bell in the hunt as well as the treble—and it will not always be the same one. And you will have no fixed bell to make a 'framework' to each course, as each bell (except the treble and the bell making thirds place) is affected by a bob and each bell (except the treble) by a single. It is, however, equally as easy as in Plain Bob to pick up the Coursing Order from the order in which you follow the various bells as you go up to the back or down to the front. So if you should lose the thread of the Coursing Order at any time during a peal, you can pick it up again speedily, unless a trip happens at the same time.

Now let us examine a typical composition of Grandsire Triples—the first part of Parker's twelve-part, with the 7th the observation bell—and see what happens to the Coursing Orders:—

Lead Ends		Coursing Orders

— 627453	Out at 1	— 627534
642375		642753
634527		634275
653742		653427
— 276453	Before	— 276534
247365		247653

— 537642	Out at 1	— 537426
S 625437	Single H.	S 625374
642753		642537
— 376542	Before	— 376425
357264		357642
— 423657	Home	— 423576

Eleven times repeated. Single for Bob halfway and end.

At the start of this peal the Coursing Order of the bells (the order, if you like, in which the treble passes the others on the way up to the back) is 234675. The bob at the first lead end makes 7 go in the hunt, 5 will make thirds place anyway, and 2 (which was in the hunt) falls in behind 7 and 5. The new Coursing Order will, therefore, be 752346—so that, although the bob varies the work of five bells, its effect on the Coursing Order is merely to make the last two bells become the first two. Now until we have another call, we must remember that 7 is in the hunt and we must keep track of our Coursing Order without changing this bell.

At the second lead, which is plain, we write down our Coursing Order, starting with 7, then altering the last five bells by moving the last one (6) to be the first of the five (752346 becomes 765234). The next lead is also plain, so again we start with 7, then alter the last five bells by moving the last one (4) to be the first of the five (765234 becomes 746523).

The next lead is bobbed so, as in the first lead, we transfer the last two bells (2 and 3) to the front of our Coursing Order—2 going into the hunt and 3 making thirds place. (746523 becomes 237465.) At the next lead a single is called and we make the same alteration to our Coursing Order as at a bob, except that in transferring the last two bells to the front we change them round as well (237465 becomes 562374). And so on to the end.

In the example I have emphasised the one bell at the plain leads and the two bells at the calls which are altered. These are the only ways in which the Coursing Order varies from lead to lead.

SURREY ASSOCIATION

Southern District

Despite rather indifferent weather 35 ringers attended the meeting of the Southern District at Nutfield on June 12th. An excellent tea was provided by the local band at the Rectory.

Mr. A. P. Cannon (District Ringing Master) presided at the business meeting at which Messrs. F. Lambert, W. Kitchenside, A. Lewry and E. Jenner were elected compounding members and Miss F. Hankey (Redhill) resident member.

Reviewing the half year, Mr. C. J. Champion (District secretary) said meetings had been better attended than in 1953. Seven peals had been rung, producing three 'first pealers.' Combined practices were arranged for Redhill and Bletchingley, and Mr. W. F. Oatway (general secretary) reported on the Central Council meeting.

Before the Rector closed the meeting with prayer he and the local band were thanked for their hospitality. A collection for the Belfry Repair Fund realised £1 1s. 3d.

North-West District

The visit of the Surrey Association to Dorking on July 3rd coincided with the Patronal Festival of the church (St. Martin's), and this happy choice of date was referred to by the Vicar (the Rev. K. D. Evans), who conducted the service and gave a short address.

Before the meeting started those present stood in memory of Mr. J. Hoyle, of Epsom, who passed away recently. Mr. F. E. Collins, the District Master, was in the chair.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Ashford Ringing Master Retiring

The summer meeting of the Ashford District was held at Folkestone on June 26th. Ringing started at 3.15 at the Parish Church of SS. Mary and Eanswyth, and continued until 4.30, when the Vicar (the Rev. Ian Whyte-Thomson) conducted a service, during the course of which he welcomed the ringers to his church. Mr H. C. Chandler, the secretary of the Cheriton band of ringers, was the organist. The collection was given to the Church Restoration Fund.

Mr. L. J. Whittaker, secretary of the local band, had made admirable arrangements for tea in the Church Hall, assisted by his wife, Mrs. Willis, Mrs. Henderson and Miss Godderidge. At the business meeting, with Mr. J. Willis in the chair, Mr. C. W. Everett announced that he did not intend to seek re-election as Ringing Master at the next annual meeting. He has been in the position now for over 30 years and captain of the Ashford band for 42 years.

Mr. S. G. Waters voiced the thanks of the meeting to the Vicar, organist and the members of the local band upon whom the onus of making the arrangements had fallen.

A return was then made to the church for further ringing.

Mayor Welcomes Rochester District to Queenborough

Approximately 80 members and friends attended the quarterly meeting of the Rochester District at Holy Trinity, Queenborough, on July 3rd. The Vicar (the Rev. H. A. Daws) conducted the service, at which the collection was given to the Church Tower Restoration Fund.

After the service tea was taken in the Church Hall and was attended by the Mayor of Queenborough, who, with the local ringers and townsfolk, gave the tea.

The Mayor gave a few words of welcome to the assembled company and remarked that the local ringers recently rang a quarter peal in honour of her wedding 50 years ago, as they had done on her wedding day. Mr. F. Cheal briefly responded on behalf of the District.

Ten new members were elected at the business meeting at which the Vicar took the chair, Mr. F. Cheal was chosen the District representative for 'The Ringing World.'

The secretary moved a vote of thanks to the Mayor for honouring the company with her presence on this occasion, to the Vicar for taking the service and the chair at the meeting, to the choir and organist and also to Mr. Stanley Rayfield, the local tower secretary, for making the arrangements for the tea and meeting, and also his lady helpers who looked after the gathering so well during tea. The Vicar briefly responded with the hope that it would not be long before the District once again returned to Queenborough. C. S. J.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

South Oxon Has Over 100 Members

A membership of over 100 from 17 towers was announced by the hon. secretary (Mr. H. Badger) at the annual meeting of the South Oxon Branch at Watlington on June 19th. Mr. Badger was re-elected secretary, but the Branch has a new chairman, the Rev. F. E. W. Lewis, Vicar of Watlington, succeeding the Vicar of Benson. The Rev. F. BELFRY GOSSIP

B.B.C. 'West of England News' records that at a meeting of Lympstone Parish Council a councillor complained that he could not follow the proceedings owing to the noise made by the band practising in the next room and suggested that Council meetings be held on Wednesdays in future. The chairman pointed out that Wednesday was the bellringers' practice night and they made more noise than the band!

We are sorry to learn that Norman Smith, of Chichester, has his leg in plaster after an accident.

'Pipe's Pilgrims' Tour of Cornwall' starts on August 1st. There are two vacancies. Applicants should write to Cecil W. Pipe, Grundisburgh, Woodbridge, Suffolk.

Maurice Holgate is the first of the band formed when the new bells were installed at Accrington, to reach peal standard. We are looking forward to other members of the band emulating his example.

Correction.—The name of the ringer of the third in the peal at Totternhoe on June 5th (see 'The Ringing World,' June 25th) should read Frederick J. Plummer.

Mr. Alan Ward, 8, Hadley Avenue, Manchester 13, has been elected as the Manchester area correspondent to 'The Ringing World,' and Mr. Allen Twyman, 9, Queen's Road, Hale, for the Stockport, Bowdon and Mottram Branch.

In the peal of Stedman Caters in honour of the quatercentenary of Queen Mary's Grammar School, Walsall, was Miss Stella Hughes, a pupil, and Miss S. Thomas, an Old Girl, and daughter of a former Grammar School Art Master. Stella started ringing 13 months ago—Stedman Caters is good progress.

Holy Trinity, Bolton, and Cambridge University have lost a good ringer with Mr. Ronald Edge accepting an appointment at Canberra and sailing from this country on July 2nd. His peals constitute a comprehensive list, including Surprise methods, and he has also rung handbell peals up to ten bells. It is to be hoped that he can make the journey occasionally to Melbourne Cathedral, where his help will be most welcome to Mr. Philip Gray.

Guildford has been selected for the next annual meeting of the Ladies' Guild on July 2nd, 1955.

Mr. Ernest Weatherby, who had a happy reunion last Saturday with friends at Shrewsbury, left Guildford for America on March 6th, 1924, and rang his farewell peal of Cambridge Surprise Major on March 3rd, 1924.

Mr. D. G. Wheeler informs us that Edlesborough is situated in Buckinghamshire and not Bedfordshire (see page 427). The Vicar will probably note the correction. His main concern is, however, raising £563 to restore the bells.

An American visitor who arrived this week is Mrs. William C. Scott, of St. Petersburg, Florida. She is specially interested in ringing and hopes to visit towers in London, Devon and Cornwall, Scotland and York. Her address will be Bentham Hall, 31-43, Cartwright Gardens, London, W.C.1.

Two enthusiasts from Bedford—P. J. Shipton and J. R. Taylor—have submitted for our consideration a quarter peal of Minimus 'in hand' (Plain Bob and Grandsire). Piquancy to the performance is added by the footnote, 'First quarter on bells (home-made).' We do not normally accept quarter peals 'in hand' and have no intention of adding 'Minimus,' not recognised by the Central Council, to our records.

THE CHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD

Annual Festival at Macclesfield

ON Saturday, June 12th, the annual festival of the Chester Guild was held at Macclesfield, when, despite transport difficulties, some 60 members were present.

Ringing was enjoyed on the bells of the Parish Church (12), Christ Church (10), St. Peter's (8) and Sutton St. James' (6) until the usual service held in the ancient Parish Church of St. Michael and All Angels and conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. Tom Clarke. The Rev. John Kingdon (general secretary) assisted and the Master of the Guild, Mr. J. W. Clarke, read the lesson.

In the course of his address the Vicar said that a visitor to the church that very afternoon, an Englishwoman who had lived in America for nearly all her life, and had brought her daughter to revisit the old country, had been overjoyed that on this, her first day in England, she had heard after so long, and her daughter for the first time had heard, the sound of the church bells. Ringing, though a pastime full of interest, was also a vital piece of work for God, and ringers were at one with the clergy, choir and organist in bearing witness to the whole world. In this world of confused values the bells reminded people of the true sense of values. 'Again, ringing is only effective if the team works as a whole, for in the tower there is no room for individualism, which serves to remind us of the great truth that we cannot live to ourselves alone. In this ancient church we might feel that we are surrounded by the legions of past ringers, but we should be awake to the fact that while tradition is valuable and useful, the church to-day requires not dead but live men.'

At the annual meeting which followed tea the meeting stood in silence to honour the members who had passed to higher service in 1953: The Duke of Westminster, Messrs. Robert Sperring, John Hayes, Harry Overton, Joseph C. Hough, Jack Price, Arthur W. Howard, Wilfred Matthews, Charles Edwards, Alfred Roberts and Samuel Bowker.

SUNDAY SERVICE RINGING

The report disclosed that Sunday service ringing was at a high level in all branches and that the paid-up membership was: Honorary members 26, ringing members 713, arrears being one honorary and 67 ringing members. Membership represented 89 towers.

The accounts showed that expenditure still exceeded income slightly but the Bell Restoration and Augmentation Fund had grown nicely and was now £84 1s. 10d., after paying a grant to Handley.

Among the 101 peals rung by the Guild in 1953 were the first peals of Liscard Imperial Bob, Westminster Imperial Bob, St. Valentine's Imperial Bob, Malpas Imperial Bob, Bebington Imperial Bob. Poulton Imperial Bob, Cholmondeley Bob and Christleton Bob Major.

Cheshire has many grand old men ringers and mentioned in the report were the birthdays of William Rigby (92), of Lawton, Joseph Ashmole (90), of Northwich, Samuel Jones (85), of Eccleston, Alfred Barnes (85), of Reddish and William Gayes (80), of Macclesfield. All except Mr. Rigby still ring when opportunity offers, some of them very regularly, and Mr. Rigby still takes a lively interest in church affairs.

The social activities of the branches continue to be popular events and young ringers continue to come along and the youngsters of yesteryear are beginning to assume posts of responsibility in the branches.

RESTORATIONS — A WARNING

The committee expresses concern at the standard of workmanship of some of the recent restorations and urges ringers to ensure that when their bells are restored some knowledgeable ringer is appointed by the Church Council to keep an eye on the work. It also suggests that steeplekeepers should be on the lookout for loose stonework on the tower at all times and should advise the churchwardens of any suspected structural defects or damage so that appropriate action may be taken in good time.

A peal of Plain Bob Triples rung in memoriam George R. Newton is printed at the end of the report with a note to say that it is included there as the method does not conform to the Central Council's definition of a regular method, but that a tribute to such an old friend should not go unrecorded. The comment on this peal took the same lines as the debate on the subject at Newcastle, i.e., some taking the line that decisions should be adhered to, others that due notice should be given after such a lapse of time.

Mr. R. G. Corby gave an excellent report of the proceedings of the Central Council meeting and was cordially thanked.

After some discussion it was decided to abandon the annual dinner for this year with a suggestion that Branches should hold some comparable function and the matter be discussed again next year.

The following resolution was adopted: 'That this meeting deplores opportunity being afforded to introduce synthetic bells into any church of the Church of England where there are rings of bells in existence and to prevent such occurrences urges all members to do all in their power to get existing bells rung regularly.'

The meeting showed its confidence in its officials by re-electing them en bloc, with a cordial vote of thanks to them for their services.

The thanks of the meeting were accorded to the Vicar of Macclesfield, the organist and verger of the Parish Church and the incumbents of Christ Church, St. Peter's and Sutton for their assistance in making the meeting such a success.

The next annual festival of the Guild will be held at Frodsham on the Saturday before Trinity Sunday, 1955. C. K. L.

A MEMORABLE SERVICE AT RIPON

A special service held in the Cathedral on Sunday afternoon, June 27th, to commemorate the granting by King James I., in 1604, of the two Charters, one to the City and the other to the Cathedral.

The Charter of King James revised and renewed the Royal Charters dating back to the reign of King Alfred in A.D. 886 granted to the city and advanced the civic constitution from a Wakeman and Town Council to that of a Mayor, 12 Aldermen with 24 assistants, a Town Clerk and a Sergeant at Mace.

The Charter of 1604 to the Minster—not then a Cathedral—reconstituted 'the late dissolved Collegiate Church for ever' to consist of a Dean, six Prebends, Organist, six Lay Clerks, six Choristers, a Parish Clerk and two Vicars Choral for the cure of souls. This Charter rescued the Minster from ruin and restored it to working order.

H.R.H. the Princess Royal, a Freeman of the City, attended the service, supported by dignitaries of Church and State together with the citizens and visitors to the City.

The Cathedral bells rang out to greet their Royal visitor, and in honour of the 350th anniversary of the two Charters, a touch consisting of 700 Grandsire Triples was arranged. The Master of the Essex Association (Mr. R. C. Heazel), being a guest of the local ringers, was invited to conduct the ringing. The music of these fine bells provided a grand prelude to the great service which followed. F. T.

CENTRAL COUNCIL MEETING

A Correction

The resolution passed by the Central Council meeting at Newcastle following the motion on anonymous letters should read:—

'That this Council expresses complete confidence in the ability of "The Ringing World" Committee to select such letters as it considers suitable for publication.'

The report of the resolution appearing on page 410 stated 'anonymous' letters.

The full implication of the correct resolution, which the Editor feels was not appreciated at the time, is under consideration by 'The Ringing World' Committee in consultation with the general secretary of the Council. Until a decision is reached correspondents, as heretofore, send their letters intended for publication direct to the Editor, who will deal with them as he has done in the past. Any anonymous letters received will be passed to the Editorial Committee for their approval before publication.

The name of Mr. W. E. Critchley should be added to the Peals Collection Committee (see page 410).

LINCOLN CATHEDRAL

A Week-end in the Lake District

Instead of the customary day's trip the Company of Ringers of the Blessed Virgin Mary, of Lincoln, decided this year on a week-end from Friday evening until Sunday evening, with the Lake District as their objective.

Leaving Lincoln on June 18th at 6.30 p.m. the night was spent at Ilkley. On Saturday morning ringing took place at Skipton for three-quarters of an hour, and the main headquarters, Grand Hotel, Grange-over-Sands, was reached at lunch time. Here Mr. Newby, the local secretary, whose arrangements and guidance meant so much, met the party.

After lunch the tour and ringing of the Lake District began, Dalton-in-Furness being first on the list, where we found a good ten, and then on to Broughton to find a very nice eight, where the local lady ringers were waiting to greet us. Soon we were on our way again, passing through some of the finest scenery we had seen, travelling by Lake Coniston on to Ambleside, then by Lake Windermere on to Bowness, where our ringing was curtailed owing to our late arrival. Then back to our headquarters at Grange.

On Sunday morning we reached Kendal later than schedule but were in time to ring two touches for morning service. Leaving Kendal en route for Sedbergh, we were able to visit Mr. Woodhouse to see his ringing machine, which interested our members, and hear his description of the same. Ringing at 12.15 to 1 p.m. followed this and some good touches were accomplished, which brought us to lunch time.

Ripon was reached at the appointed time, 4.30 p.m., and on arrival we found our friends from Newcastle (Mr. and Mrs. McGuiness) were waiting to meet us, also Mrs. Richardson. After tea we made our way to the Cathedral, where we much appreciated the local ringers giving us permission to ring with them for evening service for an hour. After saying farewell to our friends we were soon on our way home. After two short stops on the way Lincoln was reached at 10.45 p.m.

During the week-end, methods rung were Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Double Norwich, Cambridge, Superlative, London and Bristol Major, Stedman Caters, Treble Bob, Yorkshire, Cambridge and Oakham Royal. One of the most pleasing things was that every member of the Company was able to go, which at one time did not look like being so, owing to illness. Approximately 400 miles were travelled, this being one of the longest and most successful outings yet undertaken by the Company.

48 METHODS OF SPLICED SURPRISE

Another Achievement for Yorkshire Band

A new record was established by the Yorkshire band conducted by Mr. W. Eric Critchley in a peal of 48 Spliced Surprise Major methods rung at Conisbrough on June 18th.

The conductor had a 'rocky' time, in a very real sense; about halfway through the peal what seemed to be 'a major portion of the tower' entered his right eye and remained there for the rest of the peal.

The umpire, Mr. D. A. Chapman, sat in the ringing chamber throughout the peal, and checked all figures, bobs and methods. So many of the band complained that his face would put them off that the poor man changed his position three times before the peal could start!

The peal was composed also by Mr. Critchley.

HERTS COUNTY ASSOCIATION

St. Albans District

The first summer meeting of the District was held on June 19th. The nice light eight (too light for some!) at Welwyn were open in the afternoon, when, among other methods, Single Norwich was attempted. Then, before and after tea, Kimpton bells were open, when up to London Minor and including Single Court (a 'method for the day') were rung.

The tea and business meeting were held in the garden of Mr. Wells cafe. Mr. Wells has been ringing at Kimpton for very many years. The next meeting is hoped to be at Essenden (newly rehung) and Tewin on July 17th. G. D.

CHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD

Stockport Branch

Some 40 members and friends attended the meeting at Wilmslow on June 19th when the Rector at the service based his address on 'Worship.' He associated with worship—fellowship, which existed more among ringers than any other branch of the church; witness, they would never know how deep the influence of their bells was; and service, which was closely related to witness.

In the absence of Mr. James Fernley through illness, Mr. Elkins presided at the business meeting. The members heard with regret that Mrs. Hough, of Knutsford, was still in hospital and a message of good wishes was sent to her. Mr. Michael Sage (Wilmslow) was elected a member and Mr. Allen Twyman appointed Branch correspondent to 'The Ringing World.' The meeting concluded with a cordial vote of thanks to the Rector, wardens, local ringers and the ladies who prepared tea.

HERTS COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Yorkshire, Cambridge, Lincolnshire and Superlative were rung at the meeting of the Northern District on June 26th at Barkway, but Cambridge would not go. Twenty-three members and friends did justice to a good spread at the Three Horseshoes, and at the business meeting presided over by Mr. S. Carter, Hinxworth was selected for the July meeting with London Surprise Minor as the special method.

The band who took part in the peal at Newball, Derbyshire, on July 3rd. would like to express thanks to Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Dawson for entertaining them to tea after the peal.

DRIVE FOR NEW POSTAL SUBSCRIBERS

Where the First 250 Came From

'Ringing World' correspondents are getting to work in our drive to increase our list of postal subscribers. We are happy to announce that the first 250 have been received. There is still plenty of spade work to be done.

Keen rivalry exists between Hertfordshire and Essex for the county showing the best response. This week's leader is Hertfordshire. Who is to depose them?

To enable correspondents and officials to assess their contribution to this great effort we append the total of new subscribers by individual counties:—

24.—Hertfordshire.
22.—Essex.
17.—Surrey.
15.—Wales.
13.—London, Staffordshire.
11.—Lancashire.
10.—Birmingham, Leicester.
9.—Norfolk.
6.—Bedfordshire, Derbyshire, Somerset.
5.—Devon, Gloucestershire, Hampshire, Kent, Sussex, Australia.
4.—Cambridgeshire, Hunts, Middlesex, Northants.
3.—Cheshire, Dorset, Durham, Lincolnshire, Northumberland, Worcestershire.
2.—Bristol, Bucks, Cornwall, Oxfordshire. Warwickshire, B.A.O.R.
1.—Berkshire, Cumberland, Herefordshire, Suffolk, Wilts, Scotland, Canada.

THE SUFFOLK GUILD

Resignation of Clerical Secretary

An enjoyable meeting was held at Woodbridge on July 3rd, when methods on the fine bells ranged from Bob Major to London Surprise. The Ringing Master occupied the chair at the business meeting and gave a welcome to the visitors, who came from as far as St. Albans.

The resignation of the Rev. C. P. Newell as clerical secretary was received with regret, and the general secretary was instructed to write the Rev. G. D. R. Taylor, of Ottley, with a view to filling the vacant office.

A letter from the Rev. Mr. Cribb appealing for a grant towards the cost of restoring Tannington bells was read and it was decided to grant £20.

The general secretary (Mr. C. W. Pipe) made a further appeal for 'The Ringing World,' which resulted in six members promising to become postal subscribers. Mr. Alan Bridges (Saxmundham), Miss Patricia Clark (Ipswich) and Mr. George Pipe (Woodbridge) agreed to act as 'The Ringing World' representatives.

A brief report of the Central Council meeting was given by the general secretary, who also asked members to let him have particulars of peal boards recording performances prior to 1825. It was agreed that the next general meeting be held at Stradbroke on September 25th. when, if enough names were given to the general secretary, a bus would operate specially from Ipswich. Thanks were accorded to Mr. Stanley Woodard for arranging tea.

Halesworth District

When the Halesworth District held their quarterly meeting at Southwold on June 19th the Vicar (the Rev. W. A. Macfarlane) not only took the service but participated in the ringing. About 30 ringers attended, including those from Colchester, Ardleigh, Mistley and Acle.

At the business meeting which followed an excellent tea at the Pier Avenue Hotel, it was agreed to hold the next meeting at Chediston in September. Ringing was comprehensive, varying from call changes to Double Norwich and Cambridge Surprise.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

WEIGHTS IN STEEPLES

Dear Sir,—The effects of hanging a weight in a steeple are:—

(a) To lower the centre of gravity,

(b) To add to the weight of the comparatively light top part, without raising the centre of gravity, and prevent its being blown away in heavy wind, and

(c) To allow the spire to oscillate freely so that it shall not roll the top part overboard.

Most spires are kept stable by building the top few feet solid and integrating the mass of stonework by putting an iron rod through it. This rod usually appears externally as a weathercock or other ornament.—Faithfully yours,

F. A. CLUETT.

Gravesend, Kent.

CHURCH SPIRE WITH STONE

Dear Sir,—In answer to Mr. Ernest J. Rowe's letter re church spires, the church he is thinking of is Worfield Parish Church

It is a very fine church with a high spire believed, I think, to be the third highest in the Midlands. This spire has a stone like a small millstone suspended by a chain from the top of the spire to just above the bell. There is a wooden platform a few inches below the stone in case the chain breaks.

This stone swings slightly if any of the bells are rung, but I cannot say if there is any movement when they are silent and there is no wind.—Yours faithfully,

R. INSTON.

Norton, Shropshire.

'RINGING WORLD' AND SENTIMENTAL ENERGY

Dear Sir,—I am dreadfully afraid that a Friday morning will come and no 'Ringing World' will arrive, or that, if it does come, it will contain a notice to the effect that from such and such a date the committee regret that they must discontinue publication.

Then, and only then, Mr. Editor, will the Exercise realise the magnitude of its loss.

I am convinced that such a day will come unless our weekly paper is subsidised by the 40-odd Guilds affiliated to the Central Council. If each Guild subscribed £5 per annum surely 'The Ringing World' could go forward with confidence; could the sum be doubled per annum the paper could be improved and thus win more readers. I have been told that such a scheme has been discussed and turned down as impracticable. Why?

At the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild's annual meeting held recently one speaker objected to the idea on the grounds that 'The Ringing World' was a business proposition and not a sentimental concern. Surely we should be without the journal to-day but for the 'sentimental' energy and devotion of its underpaid officers.

Recently the same Guild has effected a saving of some £20 to £25 by publishing an abridged annual report—a very necessary step, in view of the high cost of printing. May I suggest that some of this annual saving would be well spent if used to preserve our weekly paper. Better be without a report entirely than lose 'The Ringing World.'

It is my belief that the remedies now recommended by 'The Ringing World' Committee are but palliatives; with rising costs continuing another crisis is round the corner.

Those ringers interested in 'The Ringing World' are taking 'The Ringing World,' the others turn a deaf ear to our pleadings. Why should they listen? They will never miss that which they have never enjoyed.—Yours faithfully.

KNARESBOROUGH BELLS

Dear Sir,—It is reported in your issue of July 2nd that, on their outing, the Manchester Cathedral ringers were unable to ring at Knaresborough 'as the tower is unsafe.'

Not only is the tower safe but the bells, which were increased to eight and rehung in a cast iron frame by Messrs. Taylor as a war memorial after the 1914-18 war, are in perfect ringing order except that only the treble bell has a rope, at least it had when I visited the tower three months ago.

The bells have only been sounded by Ellacombe hammers for the past 17 or 18 years (except when I pulled the treble up recently!), since the ringers were provoked into striking by a former Vicar, who detested bells but who sheltered behind his Church Council.

When the Kent tourists came to Yorkshire two years ago I made strenuous efforts to obtain permission to ring. I begged and pleaded and offered every inducement I could think of, all to no avail.

Although he has since had experience of another church where cordial relations exist between the Vicar and the ringers, the present Vicar happened, unfortunately, to have been curate here when the 'incident' occurred and he is quite adamant.

The only reason that the bells are not rung—and I gather there is still local opinion in favour of ringing—is that the Vicar will not allow it.

If one could trace back to their origin all cases where bells have been stopped 'because the tower is unsafe' it would probably be found that the majority are quite safe and that the bells have fallen into disuse through other reasons, as, in this case, the personal dislike of one man.

Not far from Knaresborough lies the six-bell tower of Hunsingore, where the bells were also reputed to be unsafe. Investigation showed that ringing lapsed during the war and was never resumed. The bells were chimed from an Ellacombe machine and a new vicar came along who took it for granted that because the bells weren't rung they couldn't be— an impression I was able to dispel when I took a band to ring on them.

Still more recently I took a band to a Nottinghamshire six-bell tower, where, 30 years ago, ringing was stopped on the grounds that the tower was bulging under the weight of the bells. We found that, despite lack of oil and 30 years' idleness, the bells ran remarkably well and there was not a tremor in the oak bell frame. My latest information is that steps are now being taken to ring the bells regularly, another architect having pronounced the tower to be safe although in need of some pointing.

The excuse that the tower is unsafe can often be a cover for idleness or indifference—sometimes for deliberate dishonesty. It should never be accepted without question nor, if possible, without a personal examination.—Yours faithfully, R. H. DOVE.

MR. WILLIAM WEATHERSTONE

Dear Sir,—With reference to Mr. Macey's suggestion that the late William Weatherstone may have been a tailor by reason of his never working on Mondays, I am able to say he was not. He was a furniture maker by trade.

I knew him well for many years. He never wore a collar and tie but always a narrow black and white check scarf, and he always wore a frock coat.—Yours sincerely,

E. BARNETT.

RINGING TOURS

Dear Sir,—Your excellent leading article concerning ringing outings prompts me to write concerning those other pleasant summer activities known as ringing tours. The West Country is very popular for these, and Cornwall, with its magnificent scenery and excellent bells, is a ringer's paradise. Also, in the delectable duchy, with its kindhearted and hospitable people, permission to ring, even at very short notice, is very rarely withheld without a really legitimate reason.

When applying for the use of bells for a peal it would save perhaps misunderstanding if the time of ringing was stated, for in many parts of the West the word 'peal' has not the technical meaning given to it by a change ringer, but implies a 'touch.' When visiting a tower a small courtesy, which is often appreciated, is to ask the locals to stand in for a touch of call-changes, but if the visitor is not well versed in the West Country variety he would be well advised to let the local captain do the conducting, and he himself to keep his ears and wits alert. Also, the covering of a well-struck touch of Triples or Doubles with a round ringer on the tenor, ringing solely by ear, has to be heard to be believed.

Change ringing is not widely practised in Cornwall (or parts of Devon either) but the round or call change ringer strives to and usually does attain perfection in rising, falling and striking. A good rise followed by a well-struck touch of Doubles or Triples will bring the commendation deserved. A ragged or one-at-a-time rise or a rough touch brings forth the equally well-deserved comment of, 'Why can't the scientific ringers learn to strike their bells?' What answer should be given? Surely not the explanation given the other day by an 'Easterner' when he said, 'Oh, we have to raise our bells singly otherwise by the time the whole band was in the tower there would be no time for ringing after raising the bells in peal,' for punctuality is one of the Cornishman's many virtues.

You 'Surprise' bands who this year are contemplating a tour in the West Country, why not devote the remaining practices before your departure to 'Rising and Falling'? It is really quite simple, will add to the enjoyment of ringing and also remove the one real prejudice now remaining against 'Scientific' ringers. The 'West' is famous for its hospitality and courtesy to visiting ringers: surely it is not too much to ask visiting bands to show their appreciation by rising and falling properly in peal.—Yours sincerely,

E. T. P. FIELD.

HAS SURPRISE OUTLIVED ITS USEFULNESS?

Dear Sir,—As a student of ringing I have always understood that the basis of producing changes was 'to move not more than one place at a time and not more than two consecutive blows in one place.'

I am aware of some departures from this, chiefly as concession to five-bell ringing.

But Bob Triples and the 4th place bob in Kent Treble Bob, well, I ask you?

What, however, concerns me more is the rubbish that is now being rung because the label 'Surprise' may be attached to it.

Surely it is time to revise the definitions and open the field to a wider variety of good but yet neglected Treble Bob methods.

I would suggest only two types of Treble Bob methods—the simple and the difficult. The term 'Surprise' as at present defined has outlived its period of usefulness.—Yours faithfully.

SWANSEA AND BRECON GUILD

Bishop's Views on Recorded Bells

The 26th annual festival of the Swansea and Brecon Guild was held on June 26th in the lovely Cathedral town of Brecon. The town can boast of many rings of bells, but sad to relate, no ringing bells at the Cathedral. Perhaps some day a generous donor will make good this omission.

The service was conducted by the Dean (the Very Rev. W. Edward Jones) and an inspiring address given by the Lord Bishop (Dr. Glyn Simpson).

Over 60 members and friends attended the annual meeting in the Chapter House. The hon. general secretary opened the proceedings by welcoming the Bishop to the chair as the Guild's new president.

Acknowledging the welcome, Dr. Glyn Simpson referred to the difficulty they had in getting the bells of Llandaff rung, and thought, generally speaking, they had not quite overcome the setback caused by the silencing of the bells during the war. As to recorded and synthetic bells, he said that no faculty would be given by him to have any of these substitutes installed.

A tribute to Dr. Williamson, the late Lord Bishop, was given by Mr. D. J. Williams.

The general secretary submitted a short report on ringing throughout the Diocese, the hon. treasurer presented the statement of accounts, and Mr. G. I. Lewis reported on the Central Council meeting at Newcastle.

Before the election of officers took place a motion was submitted by Mr. S. Edwards, 'that in future only members within the Diocese of Swansea and Brecon be eligible for the office of Master of the Guild.' After a great deal of discussion the motion was withdrawn.

The officers elected were:—Master, Mr. Cyril Rowles; hon. general secretary, Mr. J. Arthur Hoare; hon. treasurer, Mr. David Stokes; hon. auditor, Mr. Trevor Roderick.

A motion to alter three of the rules was received.

Several members promised to buy 'The Ringing World' after a circular letter re the financial position of the journal was read.

Knighton, Radnorshire, was selected for the 1955 festival, and the meeting closed with a vote of thanks to the president.

After tea, ringing took place on the eight- and six-bell towers. Younger members, however, preferred rowing on the Usk to the bells ringing out their music to Grandsire, Stedman, Kent Treble Bob, Double Norwich and Superlative.

LLANDAFF AND MONMOUTH ASSOCIATION

Monmouth Branch

The Monmouth Branch quarterly meeting was most successfully held at Llangibby on June 19th. Favoured with glorious weather, 65 ringers gathered at this delightful church.

The Master, Mr. David King, arranged ringing for all. Canon E. T. Davies, Rector of Llangibby, conducted the service and, after a most encouraging address, stressed that ringers accomplished far more for the church than they knew—a clergyman's voice could be heard only by a few, but the voices of the bells by many. The Rev. F. A. Oswell (Llanfrechfa) was organist and the singing was unusually hearty.

Tea was prepared by Mrs. E. T. Davies, who fed the 'multitudes' in the Church Hall and the 'overflow' on the grass outside! Mrs. Davies and her helpers were sincerely thanked by Mr. R. E. Coles. Ten young ladies and two boys were elected new members. Progress was reported from St. Woolos'. Mr Luff, supported by Mr. Clench, invited the Branch to hold its next meeting at Usk. This invitation was accepted.

DEDICATION

STOKE-NEXT-GUILDFORD

Guildford Diocesan Guild have a new light ring of six at St. John-the-Evangelist, Stoke-next-Guildford. The two new bells and the four old bells, which have been retuned, were dedicated on Trinity Sunday morning by the Rector (the Rev. F. Hurd). The bells are hung with modern fittings in cast iron framework, the contract having been undertaken by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank.

The Rector, in his address, said the restoring of the old bells and the provision of the two new bells was made possible by a legacy of £850 from the late Mr. Albert Shrubb, and gifts from the relatives and friends of the late Mrs. Bowyer.

He paid a tribute to the ringers of S. Nicolas', Guildford, for their help in training the band of local ringers being formed, and called for volunteers to augment the existing band. The Rector thanked Messrs. Mears and Stainbank for the successful way they had carried out the contract.

Particulars of the bells are:—

Treble.—3 cwt. 2 qr. 12 lb. F sharp. Mears and Stainbank, 1954.

Second.—3 cwt. 3 qr. 14 lb. E. Richard Phelps of Whitechapel, 1700.

Third.—3 cwt. 3 qr. 15 lb. D. Mears and Stainbank, 1954.

Fourth.—4 cwt. 1 qr. C sharp. Brian Eldridge, Chertsey, 1600.

Fifth.—5 cwt. 2 qr. B. Brian Eldridge, Chertsey, 1600.

Tenor.—7 cwt. 14 lb. A. Brian Eldridge, Chertsey, 1600.

The opening touch was rung by: W. J. Robinson 1, F. Bowden 2, G. L. Grover 3, E. John Walls 4, A. Harman (conductor) 5, R. H. Kenward 6.

84th BIRTHDAY PEAL AT COVENTRY

When Mr. Adolphus (Bob) Roberts, father of the band at St. Michael's Church, Stoke, Coventry, was asked, 'What would you like to ring for your 84th birthday?' he replied, 'A peal of Stedman Triples for the College Youths; it is 65 years since I rang my first peal in the method for the Ancient Society.' So a band was arranged and an excellent peal rung at Stoke on July 3rd.

When recalling the 1899 peal, which was rung at Evesham, old Bob said there were three men on the tenor, the composer of the peal rung at Stoke, J. W. Washbrook, a famous heavy-bell ringer, being on the box, assisted by two strappers. The conductor was the Rev. F. E. Robinson, a firm believer in raisins as an aid to peal ringing, but the seedless variety was unknown in those days, so the belfry floor got the pip. Bob looks good for many peals yet, and was booked for another peal before the band dispersed.

EAST DERBYSHIRE & NOTTS

Selston Bell-ringer 79 Not Out

East Derbyshire and Notts Association of Church Bellringers' quarterly meeting at Selston on June 26th had special significance. It was the 79th birthday of Mr. Wilson Dobb, a member of a well-known Selston family, who was for some years president of the Association and is now vice-president.

A good company assembled at the church during the afternoon, and ringing was enjoyed until 4.15 p.m., when the service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. H. B. Biddell), who gave a short address. The president, Mr. J. W. England, read the lesson.

Members, their wives and friends then adjourned to the Vicarage for tea, provided by the Selston members. A short business meeting followed, and the president extended the best wishes of the company to Mr. Dobb.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Extract from 'The Ringing World' July 17th, 1914

THE YOUNGEST PEAL BAND

Stimulated by the achievements of the veterans, youth has now shown what it can do on tower bells. As we recorded the other day, a peal of Oxford Treble Bob Major was rung at Saxlingham by a band whose average age was 18¼ years. Despite their youth, however, the band were not by any means novices at peal ringing for their aggregate on leaving the tower at Saxlingham was 262 peals. The ringers, with their peals and ages, were:—

	Age	Peals
George H. Cross (Norwich) ..	20	83
James F. Duffield (Tasburgh) ..	14	7
Edward P. Duffield (Tasburgh) ..	15	10
Alfred Funnell (Saxlingham) ..	21	46
Cecil R. Chamberlin (Wroxham)	21	16
William C. Duffield (Tasburgh) ..	18	9
Bertie F. Turner (Tibenham) ..	19	48
Frank R. Copeman (Saxlingham)	20	43

A CRICKET MATCH

On July 14th, 1914, a cricket match was played on the Cricket Green, Mitcham, between the Ancient Society of College Youths and the Royal Cumberland Youths. The Cumberlands won by two runs. Scores were: Ancient Society of College Youths 30, Royal Cumberland Youths 32. After the match a social was held at a nearby hostelry. The proprietor, Mr. Charles Bance, a well-known personality and ringer in Surrey circles, granted the use of a special room for the occasion.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION

Eastern District at Bridlington Priory

Mr. R. C. Heazel, Master of the Essex Association, was a welcome visitor to the annual meeting of the Eastern District of the Yorkshire Association at Bridlington Priory on June 26th. During the service, conducted by Canon Lamb (Rector), a course of Grandsire Triples was rung on handbells.

At the business meeting Mr. A. E. Sellers was re-elected vice-president, and Messrs. L. Rodmell, T. Southwick and L. M. Woodhead to the District committee. Mr. Rodmell was elected for a further period of three years on the general committee of the Association.

An appeal was made by the vice-president for more postal subscribers to 'The Ringing World,' which was strongly endorsed by Mr. Heazel.

BEVERLEY & DISTRICT SOCIETY

Good weather again favoured the Society for the monthly meeting held at St. Mary's Church, Beverley, on June 12th. Ringing was held up during the afternoon for a wedding.

The service was conducted by the Vicar, Canon T. H. Tardrew, the Rev. G. Storer read the lesson, and the Rev. J. A. Harlow was the organist. For his parting sermon the Canon spoke on the various motives that made a man enter a tower, and on the higher motive which he hoped was the cause of ringers entering a belfry.

Tea was taken in the Market Cross Hotel, where the clergy and ringers were joined by the Vicar of Beverley Minster, the Rev. R. C. Collwyn Hargreaves. After tea, tributes were paid to Canon Tardrew for his services to St. Mary's Parish and to ringing in particular. He had made a point of getting to know all the ringers in both churches in the town and the ringers who visited the church. A keen critic of the standard of ringing, both at home and when on duty away, he never failed to compliment good ringing or inquire what was the matter with the bad ringing.

The standard of ringing improved as the evening wore on and ended with a good touch of Caters.

CHICHESTER CATHEDRAL GUILD

Organised by Miss Winifred Keys, the Guild of Chichester Cathedral Bellringers had an ideal outing on June 26th

After ringing at Romsey Abbey there was a brief halt for 'elevenses' and then to Downton, where Peter Blackman, from Salisbury Theological College, joined the party. The highspot of the day was the grand eight at Kingston.

At Lymington, the last ring, the incumbent gave a warning that Mr. C. Arnold, whose name appeared on the tablet recording the first quarter peal on the bells in 1902, lay in bed a stone's-throw from the church and would be most upset if the striking was amiss.

Dick Blackman was an able Ringing Master for a programme ranging from rounds to Cam bridge Surprise Major.

LOUGHBOROUGH

The counties of Warwickshire and Worcestershire were visited by Loughborough Parish Church ringers and friends on June 26th.

Ringing took place in the ancient and massive tower of St. Denis', Monks Kirby, St. Michael's, Stoke-in-Coventry, now restored after the blitz, and on the grand ten at St. Mary's, Warwick.

A break in the traditional routine took place in the afternoon when the famous and well-preserved Tudor house of Compton Wynyates was inspected. Evesham was visited for tea, followed by ringing on the nice new eight at Great Hampton, in which several local ringers joined in some good ringing, and finally came the heavy twelve in the Evesham bell tower, cast at Loughborough in 1951. Loughborough was reached soon after 10 p.m., thus bringing to a close a most enjoyable trip.

ST. MARY'S, PORTSEA

About 200 miles were covered by St. Mary's, Portsea, on their annual outing, the band being augmented by ringing friends from Chichester, Washington and Southampton.

An excellent choice of towers had been made, the first being the heavy-going eight at Gillingham. Then followed the fine ten at Evercreech. (unfortunately the acquaintance of the local band could not be made as they were on a similar errand to Hampshire), the magnificent eight of Chewton Mendip, and Warminster where challenges were exchanged between aspiring tenor ringers. Home was reached about 11 p.m.

Methods rung were Stedman Triples and Caters, Grandsire Caters, Bob Royal, Double Norwich Major, Cambridge, Superlative, London, Yorkshire, Bristol and five Spliced Surprise Major.

ST. MARY'S, READING

A coachload of 29 ringers and friends left Reading at 6.30 a.m. on July 3rd en route for Canterbury. On the journey down, the recast bells at Bromley were enjoyed, a small contribution was made to the 27th jubilee of the Diocese on Rochester Cathedral bells and a quick call at Sittingbourne.

At Canterbury there was ringing at the Cathedral, a sumptuous tea at Long's Cafe and a short visit to St. Stephen's, Hackington. The day passed all too quickly.

RHYL, NORTH WALES

Eight ringers from Rhyl, Llandudno, Bangor and Reading had an outing to Gresford on June 19th.

Visits were paid to Halkyn (6), Mold (6), Buckley (8), Hawarden (6), Eccleston (8), Pulford (8) and Hope (6). The conducting was shared by Messrs. J. Evans (Rhyl), L. S. Griffiths (Llandudno) and A. Salisbury (Bangor and Hornchurch).

Owing to the rather lengthy programme, no time was taken for lunch and it was a very hungry party that partook of a fine tea provided at the Gresford meeting.

OUTINGS

BALDOCK AND NORTON

For the first time Baldock and Norton, for their outing on June 12th, crossed London and into Kent. In the morning ringing took place at Sevenoaks, where the party were met by Miss Colgate, and Tonbridge, where Mr. W. H. Dobbie awaited their arrival. West Malling and Chatham were in the afternoon's programme and then followed the best ring of the day at Gravesend and Dartford, where the name and address of one of the members was taken for the local Press, he being the youngest and smallest ringer ever to call a touch of Stedman in Dartford. Home was reached at 12.30 a.m. Special thanks to Mr. R. Wood, of Tonbridge, and Mr. C. Norris, of Chatham, who arranged the meals. 'Thank you, Kent.'

BRAINTREE ST. MICHAEL'S GUILD

An enjoyable outing to Windsor and district took place on June 19th. Ringing took place at Rickmansworth, Uxbridge, Windsor, Old Windsor and Denham. A pleasant afternoon was spent by some of the party looking over the Castle and grounds. Methods rung included London and Bristol Surprise Special thanks are due to Mr. Glass, of Windsor, and Mr. Goodfellow, of Iver Heath, for helping to make this one of the Guild's most successful outings.

HELMINGHAM

Some 240 miles were travelled by Helmingham ringers for their annual outing on June 26th, when the Thames Valley was the objective. A start was made at 6 a.m. and home reached at 2 a.m.

Beaconsfield was reached at 10.30, ahead of schedule, then followed Marlow for lunch and ringing for a smiling bride-to-be. Other towers visited were Farnham Royal, Slough and Stoke Poges. Methods rung included seven spliced, London and Bristol Surprise Major Mr. W. Birmingham is thanked for his valuable help in the organisation.

PRESTBURY, GLOS

On July 3rd a very enjoyable afternoon and evening was spent in the North Cotswolds ringing at Willersey, Chipping Campden, Blockley and Bourton-on-the-Hill (in which local ringers participated). Tea was taken at Chipping Campden and ample time allowed to see something of the beauty of these lovely places with their grand stone buildings. The ringing ranged from rounds and call changes for the learners to Kent Treble Bob for the more advanced members.

The bells were found to be to the liking of the Prestbury ringers, who would like to see someone in the district with enthusiasm enough to get things moving. There is the material to form a very good branch,—enough towers, some ringers, and at least one interested parson (Blockley), but the start must be made from within the area if it is to succeed. C. R.

SYSTON

Syston, Leicester, ringers spent a pleasant day in Lincolnshire on June 26th. Before lunch at Lincoln, ringing took place at Barrowby and Caythorpe. Everybody managed the climb to Lincoln Cathedral belfry although a number looked worried as they rang Maximus for the first time though the result was creditable. Afterwards, on St. Giles' bells, a course of Surprise Major was rung.

After an extra large tea, Barkston, a six-bell tower, was visited. An all-ladies' touch of Minor concluded the ringing here. Coming into Waltham, bells were heard and some energetic members 'grabbed' the tower and renewed acquaintance with friends of the Melton District.

ALFORD

Members of the St. Wilfrid's Guild of Church Bell Ringers, Alford, together with their Vicar (the Rev. P. E. Mann) and Mrs. Mann, accompanied by ringing friends from Mablethorpe, Sibsey and East Keal had a most enjoyable day on July 3rd, touring some of the towers of Norfolk.

The first stop was at Long Sutton, where ringing on the eight bells was greatly enjoyed. Further stops for ringing were made at Walpole St. Andrew's (6), Gaywood (6), a visit to Sandringham Church, then on to Dersingham (6) and Hunstanton for tea. The eight-bell tower of Terrington St. Clement's was visited on the return journey.

APSLEY'S LONG DAY

The annual ringers' outing from St. Mary's, Apsley End, is one of the most popular ringing occasions in Hertfordshire, and several patient friends of the local band are obliged to wait several years before a seat is available for one of these ambitious tours. This year the party set out at 6.30 a.m. on the long trip to Westbury, where the grand ring of eight seemed to set the tone for the excellent day that was to follow.

The next tower on the programme was Trowbridge and this gave the six-bell experts from Apsley an opportunity to show their skill on twelve. It was a successful experiment and the happy couple who were married at Trowbridge on June 26th should be well content with the ringing for their big occasion.

After lunch the party moved on to Melksham, where the countryside (as at Newcastle) resounded to the music of Bob Triples, conducted by an elder statesman of the Peals Analysis Committee. During the afternoon there was further ringing at Wootton Bassett, and, after tea, the company spent a pleasant hour at Burford, where the ringing commenced with rounds and finished with a delightful course of Bristol.

Mr. W. Ayre arranged the programme in his usual masterly fashion and no doubt it was not accidental that the last stop should be at a six-bell tower. The six at Eynsham surely have never been rung to so many methods in the space of an hour. The younger ringers of Apsley are very keen on Mr. Ayre's 'gymnasium' touches of Spliced Plain Minor methods and, as befitted the occasion, there were so many changes of method that your weary correspondent failed to count them.

Refreshments were arranged at the Red Lion at Eynsham and the evening concluded with a lively selection of tunes, old and new, played on the handbells by Roy Shutter and Reg Shepherd. B. M. B.

STANWICK, NORTHANTS

Ringers of St. Laurence, Stanwick, and friends had a half-day's outing on June 19th. Towers visited were Lower Hayford, Weedon (a fine eight), Lichborough, Lois-Weedon (where the Rev. T. P. Hamerton, son of a former rector of Stanwick, had tea ready), Green's Norton and Gayton (where the day ended with Cambridge, Double Court and Stedman). The Rev. D. A. and Mrs. Brown, of Stanwick, joined the party for tea and visited the tower.

WALTON-ON-THAMES

Ely was selected for the Whit Monday outing of Walton-on-Thames ringers and friends and they found interest not only in the bells but in the Cathedral and Cromwell's house and in the lunch at the Cutter Inn by the side of the Ouse, where they were met by Mr. Leslie Houghton, a former member, now residing at King's Lynn.

An hour's ringing at Sawbridgeworth, tea and ringing at Harlow Town, and finally Epping, completed a happy day.

SOCIETY OF ROYAL CUMBERLAND YOUTHS

Summer Meeting at Windsor

The summer meeting was held on June 12th at Windsor Parish Church. Following a wedding, members and friends enjoyed ringing on the fine octave in methods up to London until the service at 4.15, conducted by the Vicar of Windsor, the Rev. Creed Meredith.

About 40 members and friends enjoyed an excellent tea in the W.V.S. Hall, and the business meeting took place after tea. In the unavoidable absence of the Master (Mr. F. E. Hawthorne), the senior steward (Mr. T. H. Francis) took the chair. Apologies for absence were received from the Master, who was still in Newcastle following the Central Council meeting, Mrs. Matthews, convalescing after an operation, and Mrs. J. S. Barnes.

The following belfry elections were confirmed:—Miss K. Marwood, Mr. A. H. Sturgess, Fareham; Mr. J. A. Russell, Quex Park, Birchington; Miss M. R. Andrews, Bexley; E. A. Wilcox, Knightsbridge. The following new members were elected:—Miss M. Rule, Miss A. Cox, S. Nicolas', Guildford; Mr. F. Cherryman, Pirbright; Miss E. Turner, Worplesdon; Miss A. Berry, Rickmansworth; Mr. H. Douglas, Malins Lee. The secretary gave an account of provisional arrangements for the annual dinner and again asked for members to support this function.

The secretary announced that the next meeting would be a joint meeting with the Middlesex County Association at Twickenham on July 17th by kind invitation of that Association, and he asked members to come along in large numbers. The next quarterly meeting will be at Croydon on September 18th.

Following the meeting the ring of ten at Slough was available and the Society was cordially welcomed by the Rector and Mr. Birmingham.

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

A very enjoyable meeting of the Chertsey District was held on June 19th at Thames Ditton, the church being 800 years old and containing some very fine brasses.

The tower has flint-faced walls some three feet thick and is surmounted by a wooden bell chamber which houses the six 18th century bells by Thomas Swain. Above the chamber is a lead-covered spire.

The bells hang in a wooden frame which also forms the base of the spire, the whole weight and thrust being taken by wooden beams resting on the walls of the lower part of the tower. Ringing is from the ground floor.

The Vicar not only conducted the service but acted as chairman of the business meeting. 'The Ringing World' finances were discussed, during which it was mentioned that if every tower took a copy by post, financial difficulties would be largely solved. The Vicar promised to see that the Parochial Church Council purchased one for Thames Ditton and suggested that perhaps other Church Councils would do the same if approached.

Mr. J. Dodson promised to act as 'The Ringing World' representative for the time being

WINCHESTER AND PORTSMOUTH DIOCESAN GUILD

The Isle of Wight District of the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild held a ringers' service at Godshill on Sunday, July 4th. The address was given by the Rev. R. H. Bassett, R.D. (District vice-president), and instead of an anthem a course of Grandsire Triples was rung by Mrs. C. F. Guy 1-2, F. Taylor 3-4, W. Upton 5-6, C. F. Guy 7-8.

Ringers from most island towers attended and among the visitors was one from Grimsby.

A LINCOLNSHIRE TOUR

On a bright yet cool Easter Monday a party from the Lincoln area set off on a day's 'tower grabbing' expedition.

The first church visited was St. Mary's, Stow, the mother church of Lincoln Cathedral, which acted as the Cathedral until the present Minster was built. The six bells here are housed in a central tower and go quite well despite the considerable time they have been rung. After a short time here way was made to Willingham, a very pleasant six, although they are not heard to their full advantage due to the elastic quality of the ropes, and the fact that the tenor is up wrong side, making it very odd-struck.

The next tower was Upton-cum-Kexky (5), a moderate ring of the much tug, grunt and sweat variety. Here we were entertained to tea by the wife of a local ringer—a gesture which was greatly appreciated.

After taking a short cut over a U.S. aerodrome we arrived at Corringham (6), a ring in the same class as Upton, the fifth loose on its headstock being added for good measure.

Then came Blyton (5), the notes of the bells being deep and melodious. (Dove gives 5 cwt. but it sounded more like 15 cwt.)

Dinner was had before the next tower, Sturton-le-Steeple, was visited. Strangely enough this tower does not possess a steeple. The tower here is really vast and could quite comfortably house a heavy ring of twelve. The five ropes hang in the middle of this vast tower and look completely out of place.

The next two towers visited were both new sixes, Rampton and East Drayton, the latter being voted the best six of the day. At this latter tower we were very interested in the cheese rings, some dating to the middle 18th century. These are circles with the initials of the bride and bridegroom inscribed inside, and were put up when the happy pair gave the ringers a barrel of ale, a cheese and a cake, a tradition which has now, unfortunately or fortunately, ceased, depending upon the outlook of the person reading this report.

The last tower of the day was Dunham-on-Trent (5), quite a pleasant five, recently rehung after being out of action since the 1914-18 war.

The thanks of the party are due to the incumbents and local ringers and Miss Margaret A. Swann, who so ably arranged the tour.

Methods rung: Cambridge, London, Bourne, Norwich and Plain Bob Minor and Plain, Grandsire, St. Simon's and Stedman Doubles.

EAST GRINSTEAD GUILD

The Guild selected Surrey for their summer outing on June 26th. Towers visited were Dorking, Albury, S. Nicolas', Guildford (where the problem of noisy bells has been overcome). Bramley (bells went well to London), Ewhurst (the carpeted staircase to the ringing chamber is not in keeping with the bells, but a good course of Superlative was brought round) and Capel.

THE RINGING WORLD

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

No. 2259 Vol. L. FRIDAY, JULY 23, 1954 Registered at the G.P.O. for transmission as a newspaper 4d.

'ORANGES AND LEMONS'

THE fact that this book is dedicated to 'The Ancient Society of College Youths, who have rung the bells of London Town since 1637,' is sufficient to whet the curiosity of any London ringer and also those many hundreds of College Youths in the provinces. Miss Gladys Taylor bases this book on London churches, with many references to their bells, on the nursery rhyme of 'Oranges and Lemons,' in which a couplet is the message of the various bells. There were two versions of the rhyme—the shorter embracing the churches of St. Clement Danes, St. Martin-in-the-Fields, St. Sepulchre, Holborn, St. Leonard, Shoreditch, St. Dunstan, Stepney, St. Mary-le-Bow, all famous churches beloved of ringers in the pre-blitz days. The long version adds such churches as St. Giles', St. Peter's, Whitechapel, St. John's, St. Ann's, 'the slow bells of Aldgate, St. Helen's and Old Bailey,' the last couplet running:—

Gay go up and gay go down
To ring the bells of London Town.

Fascinating and terrifying is how Miss Taylor describes her visit to the bell chamber of St. Paul's Cathedral, high up in the south-west tower. She is not alone. A ringer of over 1,000 peals once commented to the writer that the only bells that 'put the wind up him' were those of St. Paul's revolving. Perhaps other ringers have had a similar experience. 'Oranges and Lemons' gives this expressive version which has or should have a definite place in ringing literature:—

> 'Suddenly—with such force as though a heavy blow had hit one's ear-drums—the bells went into action. We were swamped in an immense and deep reverberation that hummed all around, deafening us and cutting us off from the outside world, a reverberation threaded by the high sweet whistle of overtones.
>
> 'It was quite terrifying at first. The bell chamber was a mass of heaving metal. The bells were dipping, tossing, somersaulting in wild gaiety. Four lively smaller ones plunged over almost simultaneously; two bigger ones bowed to each other as though setting to partners, and then when the order of ringing changed, bowed to those on their other side. Over in a corner the great tenor bell dived and swung up, dived and swung up in a solemn "pas seul," while before him the smallest bells romped and flung themselves about in a frenzy.
>
> 'On and on the bells danced madly till one turned dizzy. So rapid were the repetitions that movement never ceased. And all the time the deep deafening throbbing and its shrill whistle persisted. I leaned over to try and catch the note of a bell just below me, but no single sound could be distinguished in that all-pervading hum. . . .
>
> 'Going into the ringing room was like entering a church, so hushed was the atmosphere. Thirteen men and boys in shirt-sleeves, their faces glistening with sweat, were manipulating the ropes in a tense calculating silence broken only by the conductor calling the changes. The ringers stood on big box-like pedestals of varying heights, with arched metal grips into which they could thrust their feet to avoid being pulled off them by the weight of the bells. The tenor bell is so heavy that it takes two men to ring it. . . .'

After such an expressive picture of the ringing in St. Paul's on a Sunday it is almost tragic to read: 'The hands of the clock on the wall moved inexorably towards service time. Grandsire Triples drew to a close.' We hope that in the subsequent editions of this book—and it deserves to go into many editions—the words 'Stedman Cinques' will be substituted on these two pages. We cannot imagine St. Paul's scroof permitting Grandsire Triples with cover bells!

But the great appeal of this book will be to those who love the churches of London. They will want to take Gladys Taylor's book with them and capture the inspiration of her words. Alas, many of the churches are victims of the blitz, and Harold Adshead's war-time poem, 'On Passing St. Clement Danes',' is quoted:—

Clement Danes stands all forlorn
And destitute;
Bells that rang out yestermorn
To-day lie mute.

But this church, whose heavy bells had rung to welcome every monarch who visited the City of London from William and Mary onwards, is to be rebuilt and to contain memorial tapestry recording the stirring days in which we have lived.

While the dedication of this book is to the College Youths, the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths come well into the picture, particularly in relation to St. Leonard's, Shoreditch. Reference is made to the peal boards of 1770 and 1781 and there is an appropriate quotation from a 16th century book entitled 'Old London Bridge,' which reads: 'Now began all over London the ringing of bells; but the bells to hear which crowds upon crowds were seen hurrying, were those of Shoreditch, those bells long maintained their celebrity, and were such great favourites with Queen Elizabeth that she never passed them without making a halt to listen to their music—the people all bareheaded kneeling around her.' Can we picture such a scene in this 20th century with the bells of St. Leonard's, again now happily in full harness, beating down their music into the streets below?

It is appropriate that in chapter 10—

'Two sticks and an apple
Say the bells of Whitechapel'

there should be references to the Whitechapel Foundry, which goes back to 1567, and that successful Elizabethan founder, Robert Mot. Up to the outbreak of the last war eighty of his bells existed, and two of the finest, dated respectively 1583 and 1598, are in Westminster Abbey.

A word for the Epilogue, '. . . to light you to bed.' We will quote Miss Taylor: 'Neither burning nor bombs can destroy the spirit of the past: if we look and listen we can find it even in the busiest part of the City.' The spirit of the past is very closely associated with the art of change ringing, and because of that past, 'Oranges and Lemons' (published by Peter Nevill, Ltd., price 15s. net) will make a strong appeal to our readers. Miss Taylor is to be congratulated in looking at churches very much from the angle of ringers—through the inspiration of the bells.

LANCASHIRE THE GATEWAY TO THE LAKE DISTRICT

ITS FACILITIES FOR THE RINGING TOURIST

Recently 'The Ringing World' presented its readers with a special article dealing with a tour of the Lake District. This has induced Mr. Peter Crook, of Bolton, to plan a tour which would encompass some of the fine towers of Lancashire. He writes:—

Running roughly down the centre of Lancashire is a range of hills. Draw a line down each side of the hills and the lines would meet about Bolton. Now Bolton would make a good starting place. There are seven rings of eight and one of six in the town.

Passing along the east line we are soon in Blackburn. The Cathedral here has a modern ten (tenor 25 cwt.), a beautiful ring. The same can be said of Whalley (22¼ cwt.), an historical old beacon church and ruins of an abbey. Whalley is only seven miles north of Blackburn.

Following the Ribble Valley another four miles and we are at Clitheroe, a modern eight (18 cwt.), and, crossing the Lancashire-Yorkshire border, we are in Gisburn (six bells, 9 cwt.). We are now at the top of the east line, and if time permits, with very little diversion, a number of towers can be visited.

We now cross those hills to the west line, joining it at Milnthorpe and in doing so pass through pretty scenery. Leaving the Ribble Valley we are soon in the Lune Valley. In the Settle district there are a number of 'pot holes' and subterranean rivers. 'Pot holing' is becoming an interesting pastime. At Ingleton there are caves with their stalactite and stalagmite deposits. Back to ringing—Settle has eight bells (14 cwt.); Ingleton has six steel bells (12 cwt.).

We now leave for Kirkby-Lonsdale, a beauty spot, part of which has been taken over by the National Trust (seven miles). The church has a fine six (12 cwt.), recently rehung. Twelve more miles brings us to the top of our west line, at Kendal, Kendal is often described as the gateway to the Lake District. It has a ring of ten (24 cwt.). North of this has been very ably described, so we will follow our west line southward and in so doing what a feast of bells we get! Heversham (6, 13 cwt.), Milnthorpe (6, 10 cwt.), a touch of the seaside, Morecambe (8, 10½ cwt.).

LANCASTER'S BELLS

Another four miles brings us to that beautiful and historic city, Lancaster. Here amongst many points of interest there can be seen, near the entrances of some dressed stone-built houses, a number of torch snuffers. When visiting Lancaster one would be advised to contact that veteran, John Woods; he would make the visit very interesting. He is a ringer at St. Peter's R.C. Cathedral, a tower with ten bells of unusual weight. Prior to the added trebles, the treble was ten cwt., and the bells went up in stages of just over two cwt. per bell to the 25 cwt. tenor. The new trebles are not in the same ratio. The 'go' is excellent. Lancaster also possesses another fine ring at the Priory Church within the Castle Grounds (8, 31 cwt.).

Scorton, next, is a pretty, unspoilt, publess village with a beautiful eight (20 cwt.). In the next parish, Bilsborrow, there is a new eight (14 cwt.); Garstang, a recent rehung six (12½ cwt.); Preston (10, 25 cwt.); Penwortham, a suburb of Preston (8, 8½ cwt.); Walton, a new eight (15 cwt.); Chorley has two eights (17 cwt. and 12½ cwt.); Adlington, a comparatively new eight (14 cwt.); same at Horwich (8, 13½ cwt.) and back to Bolton.

With very little diversion a choice of more than double these towers could be arranged, including two fine rings of ten at Wigan and Leyland.

Should one desire a shorter tour, with Bolton as a starting place, follow the east line to Clitheroe, then take the Hodder Valley and through the Trough of Bowland to Lancaster. Included in this will be yet another beauty spot, Hornby, with its castle and church with its peculiarly-built tower. It is octagonal, at half-way the octagon is one-eighth turned. It has a nice and easy-going eight (12½ cwt.). Hornby is a good centre for salmon fishing.

From the west line the seaside is within easy reach. Morecambe, Blackpool and Southport and other smaller places on the Fylde coast. After passing through the Trough of Bowland and on to the top of the hill the panorama of Morecambe Bay, with the mountains of the Lake District in the background, will not be forgotten.

BATH AND WELLS DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION

Visiting ringers from a wide area were welcomed to the summer meeting of the Taunton Deanery held at North Curry on July 3rd. This recently renovated eight were put to good use in the afternoon and evening in a variety of methods up to Double Norwich and Cambridge Major.

Tea was taken at a local inn followed by a short business meeting with Mr. Arthur Hayward in the chair. He recollected a repair carried out to one of the old bells by a local 'bellhanger' over 30 years ago, to prevent a crack spreading to the lip of the bell. The bellhanger who carried out the recent rehanging stated that this repair was still evident when the bell was recast by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank.

During the afternoon and evening ringers were present from all parts of the Bath and Wells Diocese and also from Guildford (Surrey), Halesworth (Suffolk), Kent, London and Tiverton and Exeter (Devon). F. W.

NEW SUSSEX TOWN'S NOVEL CHURCH

At the request of the Rector, the bells of St. John-the-Baptist's, Crawley, Sussex, rang out on the evening of July 7th during the consecration of the new Church of St. Richard by the Lord Bishop of Chichester.

The local ringers had hoped to ring a peal to mark this important occasion but holidays and examinations prevented an attempt, and a quarter peal came to grief in spite of some excellent ringing.

St. Richard's Church is built in an unusual style. Underneath the lantern tower stands the altar, the axial point of an L-shaped design of nave and hall, and behind which are the seats for the clergy.

The light, warm, contemporary building seems strange to those accustomed to worshipping in 700-years-old St. John's or the Saxon Chuch of Worth in which parish the new church would have been, prior to a boundary change.

The consecration was a big step forward in the church life of the new town and great blessings are hoped for.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Boughton Made the Ringers Welcome

Set in the midst of cornfields, orchards and hop gardens, Boughton-under-Blean was the venue of the latest meeting of the Canterbury District. Sixty-five members attended, the belfry being packed most of the afternoon and evening, becoming so hot that it was refreshing to sit in the churchyard and take in the view as well as the fresh air. Situated a good country mile from the main part of the village, the church does not, as yet, enjoy the luxury of having electric light, nevertheless it was very pleasant to sit in this ancient church and sing our service in candlelight, to be welcomed by its Vicar (the Rev. C. V. Coleman), and to leave sharing a few thoughts with him. Mr. S. G. Epps had come over from Faversham to play for us, with our chairman reading the lesson.

Thoughtful Boughton ringers had very kindly provided a special coach to take us to tea, members sitting down to a glorious meal provided by ladies of the village. During the tea a guess-the-weight competition was held; the prize, a hamper containing a chicken dressed for the table with all the necessary vegetables to go with it, and even to the sweet course of cherries, strawberries and raspberries, and to add to the weight, a dozen eggs, was won by two-year-old Susan Page.

Following tea six new members were elected, Great Mongeham voted for a by-meeting, and the collection given to the Church Repair Fund. It was also decided to send a letter of greeting to the District's oldest member, 90-years-old Mr. A. H. Sayer.

Thanks were expressed to the Vicar for the use of the bells and for conducting the service; needless to say the thanks to the ladies for the tea and the floral decorations, to Roy Long and Eddie Wanstall for the hamper, and the local ringers for providing the coach and for doing so much to make us welcome, were more than warm. We left feeling that it must not be too long before we go again. B. J. L.

Tonbridge District at Marden

The quarterly meeting of the Tonbridge District was held at Marden on July 3rd. Ringing commenced at 3 p.m. and continued until 4.30 p.m., when the Vicar (the Rev. C. G. Eagling) conducted the service.

From church to chapel—the Methodist schoolroom having very kindly been placed at the disposal of the ringers as the Church Hall was already occupied. Here an excellent tea awaited the members, provided by the Parochial Church Council, who received a very hearty vote of thanks.

Six new members were elected at the business meeting, all under the age of 16. Reference was made to the recent death of the oldest member of the District—Mr. W. Collison—who had passed away on June 21st at the age of 90. Although unable to attend meetings since the war, he had retained his interest to the last, and always wanted to hear the latest news. In fact, only the day before he died he was talking about the ringers he had known.

In spite of the lack of public transport, ringing continued until 9 p.m., those with cars volunteering to take home those without.

ST. THOMAS', EXETER

St. Thomas', Exeter, ringers and friends had their annual outing on July 3rd. At Lyme Regis, a musical eight (tenor 11 cwt.), George Morris had made arrangements for the visit and the bells were soon ringing to Grandsire, Stedman and Plain Bob, also rounds for the learners. Then came Crewkerne, where Mr. and Mrs. G. Pike had also made arrangements for an excellent tea at the Primrose Lounge. This is a grand eight (tenor 21 cwt.) of the same tone and class as Heavitree and Tiverton. Good touches of Grandsire, Stedman and Plain Bob were again much enjoyed.

Onward to West Coker to a lighter ring of eight (tenor 12½ cwt.), where the Rev. G. A. Nicholson greeted us. Then homeward bound, stopping for refreshments. The weather was perfect, thus making the trip very picturesque and interesting.

WELLINGTON AND ASHBRITTLE

Nine towers in the Exmouth area were visited by a party of ringers from Wellington and Ashbrittle on Whit Monday.

These were Topsham, Clyst St. George (an excellent six recently recast), Woodbury (melodious, but not going too well), Lympstone (almost inaudible in belfry but sound nice to Cambridge), Withycombe Raleigh (a complete Warner eight), Littleham (like sleigh bells, with tenor 7½ cwt.; bells hung in two tiers of four), Harpford (one descends into belfry; an excellent six), Otterton (a musical six; rather noisy in the belfry), East Budleigh (a fine six once one has become accustomed to 84 feet of rope).

A very enjoyable day was spent in spite of rain, and Cyril Dean is thanked for his excellent organisation. Ringing ranged from Grandsire Doubles to Cambridge Minor and Plain Bob Major.

OUTINGS

GAINSBOROUGH DISTRICT

A bus load of members and friends from towers in the Gainsborough District, aged eight months to 80 years, visited Lincolnshire and Norfolk towers on July 3rd. Fleet, the only detached tower in Lincolnshire, was the first call. A foundation member of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild, Mr. J. B. Halifax, met the party and the nice six were put to good use. A very handy six were found at St. Faith's, Gaywood, and then on to Dersingham, an interesting church on the Royal estates. This was another six (tenor 9 cwt.).

A whiff of sea air, some tea and, unfortunately, a torrential shower, were experienced at Hunstanton. However, the sun reappeared before we left. A slight detour was made on the homeward journey to pass as near as possible to the Royal residence at Sandringham.

Crowland, where the first ring of bells was hung, must now claim the distinction of having the longest draught of rope. Several rope guides, however, make them quite easy to handle. Although only a fairly light six (tenor 11 cwt.), their sound fills the Abbey in an amazing way and it needs someone one like sergeant-major to do the conducting. The local ringers escorted some of the party up to the tower, and from here one could visualise the scene centuries ago, when the Abbey, now a fraction of its former size, would be the only habitation in acres of desolate country. Even to-day fields of symmetrical shape, straight roads and dykes and an odd farm here and there are the only signs of life.

Home, for most people, was reached by midnight after a thoroughly enjoyable day. The punctuality at each place was uncannily accurate.

ST. PETER'S, DORCHESTER, DORSET

St. Peter's Society of Change Ringers held a half-day outing and were accompanied by some fellow members of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild and friends, making a total of 26.

The first stop was at Crewkerne, where a grand ring of eight bells (tenor 22 cwt.) was much enjoyed. At South Petherton (8, tenor 25 cwt.) misfortune overtook the party when the tenor rope broke. This was speedily replaced with a new one by two able members of the band and ringing continued satisfactorily.

After a short pause for tea the journey continued to Martock (8, tenor 25 cwt.), where a fine ring of bells with an equally fine church delighted all present. The last stop was at the tiny tower of Evershot (6, tenor 7 cwt.). a pleasing contrast to the heavier octaves.

Methods rung consisted of Grandsire Doubles and Triples, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob, Stedman Triples and Plain Bob Major.

R. H. D.

HOLY TRINITY, GUILDFORD

Holy Trinity Society, Guildford, went to the West Country for their annual outing on June 26th and selected towers for their weight and tonal qualities. Accustomed to ringing at a well-measured beat, they found the bells of Amesbury, Chewton Mendip and Westbury very much to their liking. Touches of Surprise Major in some of the most popular methods. Double Norwich Court Bob Major, Plain Bob and Stedman Triples, were rung and at each of the towers the company were complimented on the standard of their ringing . The company, however, ' blotted their copybook ' in the evening at St. Thomas', Salisbury, when a touch failed to come round.

Before the party dispersed Chief Inspector R. J. C. Hagley expressed the thanks of the party to Mr. T. Mark White, the organiser, and to Mr. F. A. Munday, the conductor.

LATE NEWS

We regret to report the death of Mr. Herbert S. Palmer, Morecambe's oldest ringer. A memorial peal was rung on July 10th.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Those who took part in the peal at Eagle, Lincs, on July 8th feel that they might qualify for the Society of Roving Owls! Halfway through, an unknown person switched off the electricity at the main switch. A deep twilight turned darker and darker and the peal was finished successfully, the ringers peering vaguely for ropes.

Have you heard about the bellringer who got caught in the ropes? He got himself 'tolled-off.'—'Irish Bell News.'

Ringers attending the meeting of the Bicester Deanery at Piddington were intrigued by the Vicar's method of keeping the paths free from weeds by the use of a flame thrower.

Will Mr. H. Peskitt, who lives at Clonmere, Wyke Lane North, please inform the Editor of the town or village in which he lives and the tower where quarter peals were rung on May 15th, June 3rd and July 4th?

Our thanks to the 'Irish Bell News' for extolling 'The Ringing World' in an editorial. The suggestion that one copy should find its way to each belfry, where it should be kept for permanent reference, is to be commended to all towers.

A novelty for your next social. Stand six ringers in a straight line giving them the names Ping, Pong, Ding, Dong, Biff, Bang, and then tell them to 'ring Grandsire Doubles.' Instead of using handbells each ringer has to call his allotted name as he moves from place to place. This caused a lot of hilarity at Newcastle.

An example of public appreciation towards bells comes from Waltham, near Grimsby. The Rector held a gift day for the repair of his bells (6, tenor 11 cwt.). Hoping to raise about £150 towards the estimate of £250, he was agreeably surprised to collect £224 in 12 hours.

To mark the 75th anniversary of the foundation of the Winchester Diocesan Guild an iced cake was provided by an anonymous donor at their recent A.G.M. There was sufficient for each of the company, numbering over 100, to have a piece.

Ringers attending the Oxford Festival should note that there will not be ringing at St. Cross' or St. Aldate's.

The ringer of the fifth bell in the peal of Minor in seven methods at Wigtoft, Lincs, on June 26th (see page 436) was Leslie H. Haylor and not Ronald Padley

Thanks and appreciation are expressed to all those who made it possible for a bus load to go to and from Berrington and have a ring on the occasion of the Three Guilds' Festival at Shrewsbury on July 10th.

Mr. W. J. S. Brunt, secretary of Woodchester tower, Gloucester, informs us that the famous Roman pavement at Woodchester will be open to the public between July 26th and August 8th. This is well worth a visit by ringers on outings or privately.

Cpl. R. K. Russ, R.A.F., of Checkendon, Oxon, wishes to thank, through the columns of 'The Ringing World,' both the Devon Guild and Association ringers in and around Exeter for the welcome they extended to him during his recent holiday. Their kindness and co-operation are much appreciated.

The mystery of the first peal at Upper Gravenhurst still continues. Mr. D. P. Jones writes that there was no peal for the Coronation, 1953, only some ringing. . . . call changes. The Rev. K. W. H. Felstead listed it as a pealless tower. 'I feel sure the claim of "first peal on the bells" will prove to be correct,' Mr. Jones concludes.

PEAL RINGING IN BUCKINGHAMSHIRE

By the Rev. K. W. H. FELSTEAD

PEALS at the 118 towers in Buckinghamshire are dwarfed by the number which have been rung at Hughenden. No less than 289 have been rung there since the first recorded on December 29th, 1883. To have reached this number means that ringing there has been very consistent, but the peak of achievement appears to have been reached in the 1930's, when peals in many different Surprise methods were rung, including the first ever of Hughenden Surprise and Newcastle Surprise. Thirty-nine have been rung since the war, so the tower is still going strong and will soon be celebrating its 300th peal at this rate. The first peal recorded doesn't say that it was the first on the bells, so perhaps here may have been a few previously. I hope it will be possible to find this out.

No other church has reached half this total, in fact only three others have passed the 100 mark. The first of these is the only 12-bell tower in the county—High Wycombe. Ringing here has also been consistent, but not on the same annual scale as at Hughenden, of course. The peal total since 1881 is 111, and since 27 of these have been hung since the war, the art is flourishing very well at the moment, with a yearly average higher than it has ever been before. The other two towers to have passed the century are Beaconsfield and Burnham, the former with 103 and the latter having the second highest total in the county—143. Most peals were rung at Beaconsfield between 1900 and 1914, but the 1930's were also good years. In the last ten years 16 have been rung, which is just about the average over the whole period. Burnham has been going great guns since 1945. Nearly half its total have been rung since then (67, in fact). The 1930's were also good years for this church, where the first peal was rung in 1897.

SLOUGH NEAR ITS 50th PEAL

Slough is the only ten-bell tower in Buckinghamshire and, actually, the original eight were only augmented three or four years ago. Forty-seven peals have been rung here, so there will be a 50th peal in the tower to celebrate soon. Most peals here were rung before 1914—30 between the years 1887 and 1913. Only ten were rung from 1914 to 1944. The five peals on the ten since 1951 means that peal ringing is above the average at the moment, so we hope it will continue, as surely it will, being the only ten in the county.

There are only four towers with totals between 50 and 100. West Wycombe is the highest of these with 90. Actually, this has been one of the most popular towers in the county between the two wars, for the first peal on the eight didn't take place until 1923 (there was one previous peal on six in 1914). From 1923 to 1939, 83 peal were rung, an average of over five a year. In the same period just over 100 were rung at Hughenden, so West Wycombe wasn't far behind. There has been a falling off since the war, unfortunately, and only six peals have been recorded since then.

Wraysbury comes next with 60. Thirteen of these were rung between 1891 and 1913, 36 between 1922 and 1939, and 11 since 1945, thus the 1922 to 1939 period was the best. A six-bell tower comes next of the four—Hitcham, with 58. The first peal was rung in 1920 and four more in the next ten years. The war years, fortunately, don't appear to have affected this tower except for the enforced break, for 28 peals were rung in the 1930's and 25 in the past ten years. This tower is well ahead of the other six-bell churches. Wooburn is the fourth tower to exceed 50 (55). Thirty of these were rung from 1886 to 1914 and 23 from 1919 to 1934. Only two peals have been rung here since then—in 1945 and 1946.

Only one eight-bell tower has not had a peal rung at it since the war—Newton Longville, where we have to go back to 1919 for the last peal. Actually, only three peals have been rung on the eight bells here, in 1907, 1914 and 1919. Six peals were rung on six bells between 1903 and 1906. The only other eight-bell tower with a point of interest to mention is Farnham Royal, which is nearing the 50 mark (47 peals).

CHURCHWARDENS RING A QUARTER PEAL

When the Towcester Branch of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild held its last quarterly meeting a discussion around the tea table indicated that no fewer than seven of the members were churchwardens. A peal was at once suggested, but as some of the older members felt that three hours would be too long to stand a quarter peal attempt was agreed to.

This was successfully accomplished on July 3rd at Gayton, Northamptonshire, when 1,260 Doubles (480 Plain Bob and 780 Grandsire) was successfully brought round.

The band consisted of F. Hall (Grafton Regis) 1, J. Higgins (Cosgrove) 2, G. Atkins (Grafton Regis) 3, W. J. Chester (Helmdon) 4, W. F. Eyden (Tiffield) 5, A. Booth (Green's Norton) 6. Conductor W. J. Chester. This is the first churchwardens' quarter peal for the Branch.

Thanks are due to Mr. W. F. Eyden, who provided the transport and refreshments.

FOURTEEN TOWERS UNCONQUERED

All the eight-bell towers have been rung to a peal, but 14 of the 62 six-bell towers are still unconquered, as are most of the five-bell towers. Hitcham has been mentioned as the champion of the towers with fewer bells. Next comes Emberton, with 41. The period 1899 to 1914 was the heyday here, for 32 peals were rung then. Just after the first war was again a little spasm of activity and a 10,000 was rung in 1923. Was this too much for the bells or the populace, for since then only three peals have been rung, two in 1928 and one in 1929? Calverton follows with 36, despite the fact that it has been silent for nearly 25 years. Again it was the pre-first war period which shows the greatest activity, for 25 of the peals were rung from 1905 to 1914.

On the other hand, Fulmer (35 peals) had its best time between the wars, 24 peals being rung between 1927 and 1940. The tower has only appeared twice in the peal list since. Horton has been most prominent since the war, for 18 out of its 32 peals have been rung since then. The only other churches to have reached double figures are Clifton Reynes (22), Wendover (16), Sympson and Bradwell (15), Chalfont St. Peter (11) and Chicheley and Ellesborough (10). Of the six-bell towers where peals have been rung, Waddesdon has been silent the longest, its only peal having been rung in 1902.

Ten five-bell towers have had peals rung at them, but none has reached double figures. Beachampton has the most—five. Little Horwood's only peal was also rung in 1902.

THE LADIES' GUILD

An Encouraging Year Reviewed

The 35th annual general meeting of the Ladies' Guild took place at Cardiff on July 3rd, when there was a good attendance of members and friends. The bells of St. John's, Cardiff, Penarth and Whitchurch were available and, as a special concession, Mr. Hannington had managed to obtain permission for us to ring at Llandaff Cathedral, a privilege we much appreciated.

The Guild's service was held at St. John's, Cardiff, conducted by the Vicar (Canon T. A. Hughes), who afterwards entertained the ringers to tea in St. James' Hall.

Most meetings leave their votes of thanks until the end, but the Ladies' Guild reverse this procedure so that the gentlemen may know how much their efforts on behalf of the Ladies' Guild are appreciated, and before the business meeting commenced the president (Mrs. E. K. Fletcher) proposed a very hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar, the organist, Mr. Barker for making all the arrangements at St. John's, Mr. Bailey (Whitchurch), Mr. Weaver (Penarth), Mr. Hannington (Llandaff Cathedral) and all those who had helped with the meeting in general and the tea.

At the business meeting which followed, ten new members were elected, nine from South Wales and one from Northern Ireland. The officers of the Guild were re-elected—Mrs. E. K. Fletcher (president), Miss Colgate (secretary and treasurer) and Miss A. Bailey (auditor).

In her report the secretary stated that 1953 had been an encouraging year. The total membership of the Guild had increased and the two newly-formed Districts—South Wales and North-Eastern — had made steady progress. Two peals had been rung for the Guild during the year, both in the Midlands District, including the first of Yorkshire Major.

Guildford was proposed as the venue for the next annual general meeting and all members are asked to make a special note of the place and date—Guildford, July 2nd, 1955. Word has already reached us of the welcome that awaits us from the Southern District, and though we think they will have difficulty in improving on the arrangements made for us in South Wales we look forward to our visit there and hope that as many members as possible will be able to attend.

Before concluding the meeting, the president gave a special word of thanks to Miss J. S. Evans, not only for all the arrangements she had made for that meeting, but also for her work in forming the South Wales District, whose membership (now 76) was as high as many of the Districts which had been in existence for a much longer period.

Further ringing took place at St. John's and Penarth and catered for all tastes, from rounds to Surprise, and included several touches by all-ladies' bands. A. L.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

High Opinions of Piddington

Piddington, where the Bicester Deanery held its quarterly meeting on July 10th, has a special claim to fame. Tea provided by the local ringers' wives on the Vicarage lawn was voted as the best tea enjoyed by any of the company present at a ringers' meeting!

The five bells were rung in the afternoon till 7 p.m. to rounds, Stedman, Grandsire and Plain Bob Doubles. In the evening the eight at Ambrosden were available.

The service was conducted by the Branch president (the Rev. A. F. Gatehouse). Mr. F. Sharpe read the lesson and the address was given by the Rev. Mr. Cragg, of Bucknell.

At the business meeting Mr. L. G. Godfrey, of Brill, was elected a member.

WINCHESTER AND PORTSMOUTH DIOCESAN GUILD

75th Anniversary Meeting

THE annual general meeting held at Winchester on July 3rd was of special significance, being the 75th anniversary of the formation of the former Winchester Diocesan Guild (founded June 26th, 1879). Despite the unsettled weather over 100 members were present, representing the eight Districts of the Guild, and, in addition, several ringers from outside the Guild's area.

At the business meeting in St. Maurice's Hall, the Master (Mr. G. Pullinger), who was supported by the hon. secretary (Mr. F. W. Rogers) and hon. treasurer (Mr. R. A. Reed), extended a welcome to all the visitors who had taken the opportunity to attend.

The meeting expressed its appreciation of the work undertaken and completed by the hon. secretary in connection with both the George Williams Memorial and the Guild War Memorial.

Arising out of the minutes of the last annual meeting directing that the question of whether or not a full report should be printed, should be deferred for twelve months, it was reported that owing to the still further reduction in the Guild's finances, the Executive Committee had been compelled to decide that only an abridged report should be published this year. The meeting endorsed the committee's action.

SPECIAL EFFORTS REDUCE BALANCES

The hon. treasurer, in explaining the balance sheet, stated that the balance had been reduced from £249 to £196 but during the year sums of £25 18s. 10d. and £29 11s. were transferred from the Central Fund to the George Williams Memorial and Guild War Memorial schemes respectively. As the committee had stated, the annual reports were still a costly item (compared with the 1934 report, at 4½d. per member, the 1952 report worked out at 1s. 6½d.). By printing an abridged report for 1953, it would represent 8½d. per report. Despite the economies effected and contemplated, the treasurer stressed that the only real solution was a drive to get an increased membership.

The report of the Master, hon. general secretary and hon. general treasurer stated that the past year had seen the fulfilment of two schemes for which the Guild was to be congratulated. The George Williams Memorial Library was completed and dedicated in May, on the anniversary of the late Master's birthday, and the War Memorial panels, which had been added as wings to the previous panel, were completed and dedicated in November.

Reports from the various Districts indicated that activity was on the increase and, on the whole, a useful year had been spent. Compared with the previous year the membership had remained fairly steady. Honorary membership was 81 compared with 89 in 1952, ringing membership 591 (592), compounding 15 (20). Two or three years ago ringing members totalled over 700. 'We must strive to regain our former membership.'

TWO RECORD LENGTHS

Peal ringing had showed a marked increase over a wide area; 52 tower bell peals had been rung compared with 30 in 1952. Although handbell peals had dropped from 17 to 14, it more than compensated to know that the Bournemouth handbell band had secured for the Guild the honour of holding the record lengths of Grandsire Caters and Bob Royal.

The peal recorder's report stated that 156 members took part in 52 tower- and 14 handbell peals, 16 ringing their first peal. There were 26 conductors among them. D. T. Matkin with 12 handbell peals and C. H. Kippin with 11 tower bell peals. Double Oxford Bob Major was rung for the first time for the Guild and there were two record lengths by the Bournemouth handbell band (mentioned above). Mr. C. H. Kippin, one of the Guild's representatives on the Central Council, presented a lengthy report of the Council meeting held at Newcastle at Whitsun, and the general secretary expressed his apology to the meeting in not being able to represent the Guild on that occasion.

The election of officers resulted as follows:—Master, Mr. G. Pullinger; hon. secretary, Mr. F. W. Rogers; hon. treasurer, Mr. R. A. Reed; hon. auditor, Mr. L. Bailey; hon. librarian, Rev. K. W. H. Felstead; recorder of peals. Mr. N. Hayes.

'THE RINGING WORLD'

A discussion took place on how the Guild could give practical help towards the suggestions offered by 'The Ringing World' Committee in endeavouring to improve the position of that journal. Some of the Districts had appointed a representative whose duty was to persuade their members to support and obtain new readers for the paper, and it was hoped this effort would bear fruit.

Eventually it was agreed to send the following resolution to the secretary of the Central Council:—'That as an immediate measure to secure the maximum income from the present circulation, distribution of 'The Ringing World' be made through the post only, and supplies to subscribers through newsagents discontinued.'

Owing to the demand for Guild badges and the low stock in hand it was agreed to order a further supply of 300 brooch-type. In order to conserve further the Guild finances it was agreed to print the annual report for next year in the abridged form now in circulation.

The venue of the next annual general meeting was selected as Basingstoke on July 2nd, 1955.

BISHOP AT SERVICE AND TEA

The Guild service was held in St. Maurice's Church, at which the Bishop of Winchester was present.

At the tea which followed the Bishop joined the company, where an iced anniversary cake was supplied by an anonymous donor, each ringer present receiving a portion. At the conclusion the Master gave a résumé of the past 75 years of the existence of the Guild and its parent society. Mr. Lampard (Winchester Cathedral) was the oldest member present. Mr. W. Linter (late hon. treasurer) presented a portrait of the late Master (Mr. George Williams), which was accepted as a valuable contribution to the library.

Votes of thanks were extended to the various incumbents for the use of their bells and to the anonymous donor of the birthday cake.

Canterbury's Nonagenarian Ringer

On Wednesday, June 30th, the bells of St. Dunstan's, Canterbury, were rung in honour of the 90th birthday of Mr. A. H. Sayer, a member of the band. Although Mr. Sayer now resides at Chislet, some few miles out of Canterbury, he often travels on a Sunday morning to have a ring at St. Dunstan's.

On the evening of his birthday he took part in several touches of Plain Bob Minor and Grandsire Doubles, himself conducting one touch. To round off the evening's ringing he took part in a 'birthday' touch of 90 Grandsire Doubles.

Mr. Sayer started his ringing career in Birchington, Kent, at the age of 16. Both his father and brothers were ringers and lived to well over 90! He is a life member of Canterbury Cathedral band and until fairly recently had taken an active part in the ringing there, but he now says that the long climb to the ringing chamber is a little too much for him.

AN 80th BIRTHDAY TO REMEMBER

Celebrations at Exeter

In the peal columns will be found the report of a peal of Bob Major in honour of Mr. E. J Ryall's 80th birthday. Mr. Ryall is a true friend of all ringers. A devoted member of the Guild of Devonshire Ringers, he is held in high esteem throughout the county. Still an active member at St. Thomas', Exeter, he is a vice-president of the Guild and a past Branch chairman and past hon. secretary of the Exeter Branch. No Branch meeting is complete without him.

After the peal the band, with other members of St. Thomas', were lavishly entertained to supper at Mr. Ryall's residence. His health was toasted with his own make apple cider, which proved rather much for the uninitiated—the conductor rang 1-2 to Grandsire Triples on handbells, to the surprise of all present, including himself.

The tenorman, referring to the peal, was rather concerned about the confidence of the conductor in the last few courses, thinking he was rather pale about the 'gills,' but, to his relief, found out later that it was owing to one of 'Bill's' infrequent visits to his tonsorial adviser!

Thanks, congratulations and best wishes were extended to Mr. Ryall and it was remarked that Sir Winston Churchill could think himself highly honoured to be born in the same year as Mr. Ryall and Mr. C. G. Glass, whose 80th birthday had already been marked earlier in the year.

The writer saw the conductor safely to his bus and crawled home with mellow thoughts of another 80th birthday well and truly celebrated. F. W.

GUILD of DEVONSHIRE RINGERS

First Visit to Kentisbeare

July 10th was a red letter day for the N.E. Branch, when, for the first time in the history of the Guild, a meeting was held at St. Mary's, Kentisbeare. The eight members of the local band were enlisted as associate members. At present they are a call change band but in future they hope to change to half-pull ringing. It is hoped very shortly to hear these bells going to Grandsire and Stedman, as the band already ring these changes from cards, changing every hand stroke.

The service, conducted by the Rector (the Rev. F. G. Baker) was most impressive. The Branch chairman (the Rev. J. H. Jones) read the lesson, and Mr. Cottrell was the organist. The collection for the Guild's Bell Restoration Fund amounted to £1 0s. 3d.

About 40 members sat down to tea at the Wyndham Arms Hotel, arrangements having been made by the ringers of Kentisbeare.

Supporting the Branch chairman at the business meeting were the president (Preb. E. V. Cox), the general secretary (Mr. E. J. Taylor) and the Branch secretary (Mr. W. H. Ware). A vote of thanks to all at Kentisbeare was passed with acclamation. Huntsham, the home of change ringing, was selected for the next meeting, on October 2nd.

Both the general secretary and the president addressed the meeting on 'The Ringing World' and urged increasing postal subscribers. Mr. W. H. Ware was appointed publicity officer for the Branch, to whom all matters of interest are to be sent, and he was also instructed to push the sales of the journal. Four new postal subscribers should be coming to 'The Ringing World' in the near future.

Mr. A. G. Selly was the Ringing Master, and standard methods were practised by the 50 members present.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

PLAIN BOB TRIPLES AND THE REPORT OF THE PEALS ANALYSIS COMMITTEE, 1953

Dear Sir,—The proposition I made about the 12 peals of Bob Triples is incorrectly recorded on page 441 of 'The Ringing World,' July 9th, 1954. I never made any mention of Treble Bob. Here is the exact wording of the proposition I put forward:—

'That the 12 peals referred to in the report be included in the 1953 Analysis, and that the question of deleting such peals from any future Analysis be deferred until after the publication of the new Council's Handbook.'

In moving this resolution I made the following points:—

(1) It was a FACT that both ringers generally and most members of the Council did not know of any Council decision against Bob Triples, and it was, therefore, unfair, WITHOUT ANY PREVIOUS WARNING, to reject such peals.

(2) Peals of Bob Triples have never previously been rejected, so, in effect, if it is out of order to include them in the Analysis this year, every Analysis since 1904 which has included Bob Triples has been out of order. So many have been accepted that it has really become 'Case Law' to do so, pending the consolidation and reprinting of the C.C. Rules and Decisions in the new handbook.

(3) Few members of the Central Council have a copy of the old Rules and Decisions, nor do they appear on the list of publications available from the C.C. Librarian.

(4) There is no doubt whatsoever that these 12 peals of Bob Triples were rung 'innocently' and not deliberately to flout rules and decisions. To my mind they are a worthy contribution.

When the vote was taken on my resolution one member submitted that it was out of order for the Council to pass such a resolution (it was obviously going to be passed), and this member's objection was allowed. Instead it was resolved to accept the report of the Peals Analysis Committee EXCEPT the paragraph about the peals of Bob Triples. This leaves the position rather confused, but presumably, since all the other statistics, percentages, etc., in the report refer to figures INCLUDING the 12 peals of Bob Triples, and since at the time of the Council meeting the peals had not in fact been deleted, they will remain in the 1953 Analysis unless next year they are retrospectively deleted by the Council.

In conclusion, a warning note. IT IS NOW KNOWN GENERALLY that in 1904 at least the Central Council did not see eye to eye with Bob Triples and that there is still a rule against peals of Bob Triples. It would be advisable for ringers to refrain from peals of Bob Triples until after a definite decision next year or their opponents will be able to argue that they are doing so to flout the Rules and Decisions of the Central Council.

Where rules are KNOWN, the correct procedure is to endeavour to secure alteration of the rules which are considered unsuitable. No doubt in the next year or two much time and careful thought will need to be devoted to bringing the Rules and Decisions of the Central Council up to date prior to re-publishing.

May I take this opportunity of congratulating our Newcastle friends on the magnificent welcome they extended to all visiting ringers? The thoughtful and spirited debates on the Tuesday, with touches of humour at appropriate moments, indicated that the new Council promises to be an energetic one, worthy to continue the good work and further emphasise the close relation between the Council and the ordinary ringer.—Yours, etc.,

NORMAN CHADDOCK.

Rotherham, Yorks.

EVERCREECH BELL RECORDINGS

Dear Sir,—In reply to Mr. L. W. Bullock's enquiry, the recordings were made by a mixed band drawn from Evercreech and towers in the neighbourhood. Mr. Sayer, of Evercreech, made the rather extensive arrangements necessary.

I am glad that the striking finds favour, although those of us who took part are conscious of many faults. Some of our very best ringing was discarded on various grounds—the whistle of a train at the railway junction a mile away; a bus at the bus stop; fluff on the needle; started too soon, etc. Nine records were processed and so far five have been used regularly. I have recently suggested to the Director of Programmes that Double Court Minor on the back six should be added to the stock five. The record is quite good, and rather typical of this county of weighty sixes.—Truly yours,

J. T. DYKE.

Chilcompton, Som.

FIRST OF STEDMAN FOR ST. DAVID'S GUILD

Dear Sir,—With reference to the footnote to the peal of Stedman Triples rung at Tenby, Pembrokeshire, on June 29th, claiming it as the first peal of Stedman for the St. David's Guild, may I point out that the first peal of Stedman for this Guild was rung at St. Mary's, Pembroke, on September 11th, 1952, during a West Wales tour, and was conducted by Albert Diserens, who left some of us in no doubt as to his abilities in this direction.

During this tour the first peals of Pudsey, Yorkshire and Lincolnshire Surprise Major were also rung for the Guild at Llanstephan, St. David's and Tenby respectively.—Yours faithfully,

DONALD G. CLIFT.

Harrow, Middlesex.

Dear Sir,—I note that the peal of Stedman Triples conducted by Mr. Harold Poole at St. Mary's, Tenby, on June 29th, 1954, is stated to be the first peal of Stedman for the St. David's Diocesan Guild. May I point out that I conducted a peal of Stedman Triples for this Guild at St. Mary's, Pembroke, on September 11th. 1952, whilst on a peal tour with Messrs. Wilfred Williams and Donald Clift.—Yours faithfully,

ALBERT DISERENS.

ROCHESTER SURPRISE AT SOUTHPORT

Dear Sir,—In reply to your correspondent in Belfry Gossip of a recent 'Ringing World,' as conductor of both peals of Rochester Surprise Major rung at Christ Church, Southport, I think the footnote is in order. No doubt your correspondent hasn't been to Southport the last twelve months, otherwise he would know the present ring of bells is a new one, with the tenor 2 cwt. heavier, opened for the first time June, 1953.—Yours sincerely,

J. RIDYARD.

Southport.

WHEN FRAMSDEN WAS ALTERED TO LOUGHBOROUGH

Dear Sir,—If the Methods Committee will refer to 'The Ringing World' of January 20th, 1939, page 40, they will see that the late T. W. Last, of Helmingham, withdrew the name 'Framsden' for the peal rung in 1938, and requested the Analysis Committee to alter it to Loughborough so as to avoid confusion.

Corrigan's Part E of 'Dates of First Peals' (May, 1950) also has it corrected.—Yours faithfully,

P. LAFLIN.

Stockport, Cheshire.

NOT GOOD COPY

Dear Sir, — Some years ago one of the branches of the Herts County Association submitted for publication in 'The Ringing World' a certain composition of Stedman Triples. This the Editor (who was at that time Mr. Trollope) refused to do, in spite of repeated efforts and quite a deal of protests on the part of the interested parties.

The reason which Mr. Trollope gave for his view was that the subject was not 'good copy' and its eventual appearance in print was only obtained at the expense of the members of the branch, under the notice column. Apart from the general satisfaction derived by this group of ringers in 'getting one over' the Editor (it was all in good fun on both sides), I am not at all certain that the readers of 'The Ringing World' as a whole were particularly interested in the publication; in fact, I strongly suspect that Mr. Trollope was quite right in his judgment of its true value, as material to fill the pages of the journal.

This incident was brought to mind by the recent correspondence on the subject of the printing of reports of peals. Unless a peal is particularly brilliant in either composition or performance, it can only be of interest to quite a small group of individuals and must surely fall under the heading of 'bad copy.' That being the case, I feel that the Editor should exercise his judgment in this matter in the same way as in the incident which I have recounted, and only peals which he considers to be noteworthy should be published.

Having expressed that view, I must admit that were peal reports omitted I should miss them; not from the point of view of their reading material, but rather that 'The Ringing World' without its peal columns would be like a church without a ring of bells: in neither are they (let's face it) absolutely essential, but in both cases are a manifestation of what transpires within.—Yours faithfully,

RUSSELL G. SPEARS.

Datchet, Bucks.

RINGERS' OUTINGS

Dear Sir,—Your leading article in the issue dated July 2nd was very much to the point and opportune.

It is not always possible, however, to arrange for the party to consist mainly of ringers as so often the ringers' families like to join these outings. Under these circumstances the organiser should endeavour to provide for the interests of the non-ringers as well as for those of the ringers.

I would like to add one point not covered by your contributor. A letter of thanks to the incumbents and/or the tower captains of those churches who have put their bells at the service of the visitors should be considered a 'must.' Such a letter will usually be appreciated and completes a job otherwise generally well done. —Yours faithfully,

J. R. COTTERILL. M.I.E.E.

West Bromwich.

FALSE PEAL AT INGATESTONE

Dear Sir,—The peal of Minor in 19 methods rung at Ingatestone, Essex, on May 22nd, 1954, and published in 'The Ringing World' of June 18th on page 390, is false. This is entirely due to a fault of my own and I wish to tender my apologies to the rest of the band. — Yours sincerely,

J. E. G. ROAST.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Extract from 'The Ringing World,' July 24th, 1914

IRELAND'S LORD CHIEF JUSTICE

Many eminent men have graced the ringing Exercise, but . . . . only one of His Majesty's judges, and that is he who now occupies the exalted position of Lord Chief Justice of Ireland.

Born near Waterford on March 19th, 1859, Lord Chief Justice Cherry was educated at Trinity College, Dublin, where he graduated B.A. in 1879 and was double gold medallist in mental science, and history and political science. Taking up the law as a profession [he] was first scholar in International Law at the Middle Temple, and was called to the Irish Bar in 1881, taking silk in 1896. He was examiner in Political Economy for the Indian Civil Service 1888-9, and professor of Constitutional and Criminal Law in the University of Dublin 1889-94. Turning his attention to politics . . . he was elected for the Exchange Division of Liverpool in 1906, which he represented until 1909, when he was elevated to the Bench as a Lord Justice of Appeal for Ireland, having since 1905 been Attorney General. . . . He regularly takes his place in the belfry at St. Patrick's Cathedral when he is in Dublin.

[Sir Richard Cherry took part in the first peal by an Irish Society, at Waterford on December 9th, 1873. His total at the time was about 20, including Grandsire Triples, Caters and Cinques, Stedman Triples and Caters and Kent Major.]

THE FUTURE OF HEXTON BELLS

Dear Sir,—Last year I supplied some information about the ruined tower and three old bells at Hexton, near Hitchin, Herts. I have recently discussed this again with the Vicar of Barton-in-the-Clay, Beds, who is also in charge at Hexton.

There is a fund to 'restore' the tower to make it a safe ruin containing at least the 14th century(?) Rufford bell for chiming. The nave needs reorganising and decorating before being used again, even if the tower is made safe. The part still standing has not given way further since the collapse in 1947, and the bells are comparatively safe for the time being.

The village is doing its best to raise money, but, numbering only 200, the task is a long one. It may prove necessary to sell the two 17th century bells, and the Vicar wishes them to be used as church bells, a sentiment which will be shared, I am sure, by all lovers of old bells. The Vicar would be pleased to hear from anyone who would be interested in opening up negotiations for their transfer, or I myself would be pleased to give further information if any should get in touch with me. The details are as follows:—

(1) Chandler made me 1697. Note C, diameter 32¼ inches. Canons retained, untuned. About 5 cwt.

(2) Chandler made me 1688 (churchwardens' initials). Note: a little flat of A, diameter 38 inches, weight about 9 cwt., canons retained, flattened by chiselling between waist and soundbow.

Both bells are of good tone, especially the larger. A neighbouring parish has already shown interest in the smaller bell for augmentation purposes.

I hope these good old bells will never go as mere scrap, and that if they cannot stay in their own tower we shall find a good home where they can be used once again for the purpose for which they were cast so long ago.

—Yours sincerely,

D. P. JONES.

NEW POSTAL SUBSCRIBERS

Another Encouraging Week

A new objective awaits our correspondents who are working so splendidly in increasing 'Ringing World' sales. We need under 100 new readers to reach the 6,000 circulation mark. That is contingent upon the renewal of outstanding postal subscribers.

Essex has narrowed the gap to one in Hertfordshire's lead for new postal subscribers since the campaign started. There have been other welcome additions. The position on Monday morning was as follows:—

24.—Hertfordshire.
23.—Essex.
17.—Surrey.
15.—Wales.
14.—London
13.—Staffordshire.
11.—Lancashire.
10.—Birmingham, Leicester.
9.—Norfolk.
8.—Devon.
6.—Bedfordshire, Derbyshire, Nottinghamshire, Somerset.
5.—Gloucestershire, Hampshire, Kent, Sussex, Australia.
4.—Cambridgeshire, Huntingdonshire, Middlesex, Northants.
3.—Bristol, Cheshire, Dorset, Durham, Lincolnshire, Northumberland, Suffolk, Warwickshire, Worcestershire.
2.—Bucks, Cornwall, Oxfordshire, B.A.O.R.
1.—Cumberland, Herefordshire, Wilts, Scotland, Canada.

Gratefully Acknowledged

The Editorial Committee acknowledge with gratitude the following contributions:—

Personal.—West Cumberland Ringers 10s., Huntingdon District 5s., 'Berrington' 10s.

Peals.—Egremont 4s., Holywell 1s. 6d., Shelsley Beauchamp 3s., Eagle 3s., Higher Walton 2s. 6d., Harworth 4s., Exeter 4s.

Quarter Peals.—Roydon 2s., Hughenden 2s., Widcombe 1s. 6d., Woodstock, Cape Town 5s., Marlow 2s., Bridgend 3s., Mereworth 1s. 6d., Burnham-on-Crouch 3s., Gayton 5s., Fulham 2s., Mitcham 3s., East Budleigh 3s., Walsall 2s., Lelant 2s., Caversham 4s

WHITBY ABBEY

It was the last tower of the day and a little rest and refreshment left us with an appetite for the pleasure to come. We made our way down to the harbour and then up the narrow streets edged with fishermen's cottages and their 'pubs' almost toppling into the water. A little sign said 199 steps to the belfry and Abbey. The breeze was salty and bracing; there was no mistaking the tang of the Yorkshire coast.

Our numbers were adequate so I felt no guilt as I passed the belfry door and sauntered along the cliffs. What an utterly glorious view! Behind me lay the Goathland Moors. Below, great waves rose and crashed against the cliffs. The two piers like arms outstretched hugging the little boats between them. The bay beyond, and lovely little Sandsend sitting snugly under the cliffs, and in the distance a light mist hanging over it all like a delicate lace curtain.

I could hear a low murmuring of the bells as the ringers gave them their voices. On and on they urged them until their full glory sounded over the hills. My heart filled with song—'Land of hope and glory, Mother of the free.' I thought of those who had died in the wars so that such as I could stand here as free as a bird and as happy as a king, and I thought of the man who had taught me to ring and of the women who by their efforts had given us the freedom of the belfry. I gave a humble prayer of thanks to them all.

E. DORICE KELLY.

Presentation to Mr. Tom Page

Whether it was due to the 'closeness' in the belfry or to the dog-like noises each time the belfry door was heaved to and fro, the ringing was not of a very high standard at the Farnham District meeting held at Worplesdon on July 10th.

A good number turned up for afternoon ringing, which was followed by the ringers' service conducted by the Rector (the Rev. the Hon. A. C. V. Elphinstone).

An excellent tea was followed by a short business meeting at which the Rector took the chair, and Mr. C. W. Denyer (vice-president of the Guild) acted as secretary, owing to the unavoidable absence of Mr. S. Joyce and Mr. R. Mills. Seven new members were elected and Miss Myrtle Cass was appointed as District correspondent to 'The Ringing World.'

After Mr. Denyer had proposed a vote of thanks to the Rector, organist, the local captain (Mr. S. Petter) and the tea organisers, came the most important business of the day—the presentation of a breakfast set on behalf of the District to Mr. Tom Page (joint Ringing Master), who is to be married on July 24th. The presentation was made by the Rector.

After the meeting the ringers returned to the belfry, where various methods were rung from rounds to Cambridge Surprise until 9 o'clock, under the leadership of Mr. T. Page and Mr. E. J. Wells, his co-Ringing Master.

ELY DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION

Huntingdon District Visit Bucks

A most enjoyable outing was held on July 3rd in 'leafy' Buckinghamshire, the party including that 'hardy annual' for Hampstead, and the Ringing Master, Mr. F. Warrington, who is not yet fighting fit. The fine air of the Chilterns proved most exhilarating.

The first ring was at SS. Peter and Paul's, Ellesborough, and these six were soon going to Cambridge; then came the grand octave of St. Michael and All Angels', Hughenden, bells made for Stedman.

After lunch at High Wycombe the weighty six at St. Mary's, Amersham, were rung for a wedding. Some good Cambridge and Double Norwich Court Bob were rung at St. Mary's, Farnham Royal.

A most refreshing tea at Burnham was followed by a visit to St. Peter's Church, where Mr. Gilbert's proud claim was amply justified. The last tower, Chalfont St. Peter's, reminded many of the party of 36 of their own rings.

Mr. Lack expressed the thanks of the company to Mr. Harold Peacock for the capable way he had organised the trip.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD

Dorchester Branch at Wool

A quarterly meeting of the Dorchester Branch was held at Wool on June 26th. The bells were rung prior to the Guild service, which was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. F. C. Whitter), the lesson being read by the Branch chairman (Canon A. W. Markby). Ladies of the church provided tea for the 35 members present in the Village Hall.

Afterwards the meeting was conducted by Canon A. W. Markby. In the absence of the hon. secretary (Mr. J. H. Hayne) the assistant hon. secretary (Mr. R. H. Duke) deputised. Three new members were elected. It was decided to hold the next meetings at Litton Cheney and Fordington (in September). The chairman proposed a vote of thanks to all who had helped to make the meeting a success.

Towers represented were: Abbotsbury, Charminster, St. Peter's, Dorchester, East Lulworth, Preston, Upwey, Wool, Wyke Regis and Yetminster.

ON CONDUCTING

By WILFRID G. WILSON

XVI. GRANDSIRE CATERS AND CINQUES

When we ring an even bell method on a higher number of bells (Royal or Maximus instead of Major) we merely increase the size of our 'framework' and we do not affect in any way the Coursing Order of the working bells or our technique for transposing them.

But in Grandsire, when we ring Caters or Cinques, our extra two or four bells are concerned in the bob making and can be called in and out of the hunt just the same way as any of the other bells. At a plain lead the bell which is last in Coursing Order makes thirds place and becomes first (after the bell in the hunt). At a bob or single the last two bells in the Coursing Order become the first two (round the other way at a single) and then are followed by the bell which comes out of the hunt and all the remainder in the same order.

A short example touch of 180 changes of Grandsire Caters will make this clear:—

Lead Ends 23456789	Calling	Coursing Orders 23468975
25374968		25346897
—97285634	9 in Hunt	—97253468

On the left of the calling are the lead ends from rounds. These are obtained by transposing the preceding row by 25374968 at a plain lead and by 75293846 at a bob. He would be a clever conductor who could do these eight-figure transpositions in his head while ringing—they are not easy with pencil and paper.

But if you look at the Coursing Orders on the right of the calling you will see that the transpositions are just as easy as in Triples. I have emphasised the only figures which are altered—one at a plain lead and two at a bob. Try this for yourself, on paper, with this or a different touch—you will be pleased to find how quick and easy it is. Therefore it is clearly simpler when it has to be done mentally while ringing.

CONCLUSION

If you—the would-be conductor— have understood these articles you will be seeking opportunities for putting these hints into practice. And you may feel that it would not be fair to the rest of the band to risk making mistakes and spoiling their touches, let alone their peals, during your early attempts.

But you have no need to do anything of the sort. Every time you ring in a touch you can carry out mental transpositions of the Coursing Orders every time someone else calls a bob. You can tell whether the bobs are at W, B, M or H by the bells which are affected in the Coursing Order, and at the end of the touch you will be able to surprise the conductor by telling him what he called. What is more you may even, if there is a trip and the conductor looks as much at sea as those concerned in the trip, be able to put the bells right merely by knowing the Coursing Order. And you need never be lost yourself if you remember that Coursing Order.

If you show in this way that you know what is going on in a touch or peal it will not be long before you will be asked to conduct the touch or peal yourself.

You will also find that a conductor or bob-caller is often only too pleased if he has in the band at least one member of it who can keep his own place and help to put the bells right if need be. Many a conductor will admit that he has often asked another member of the band whether a certain call was the second or third of a group of three. If you have been following the calling by transposing the Coursing Orders you will be able to give him a confident answer and perhaps save a peal.

Some conductors have the admirable habit of telling other members of the band the composition before starting for a peal. This must clearly give a conductor more confidence if he feels that should he have a short mental lapse it does not mean that the peal will be lost. It is also, of course, excellent practice for someone learning to conduct to follow out all the calling and all the changes of Coursing Order throughout a peal, without that feeling of great responsibility that he would have had were he really conducting his first peal. Quite often, too, an incipient trip can be corrected or prevented without even the conductor knowing anything of it. This calls for a great deal of co-operation, not only from the conductor, but also from his band—it no doubt sounds like heresy to some conductors—but it does result in a high percentage of peals gained.

A further advantage of conducting by Coursing Order is that in an emergency you can call a peal or touch without learning anything except the position of the bobs. We have all admired the man who fills the breach when the arranged conductor is unable to turn up, or the method has to be changed to one that he cannot call.

It is an easy and speedy matter to learn the position of the bobs in some of the more simple compositions. So long as you can work out the Coursing Orders as you go along you need not worry that you had not time to write out the Course Ends or learn certain of them beforehand. For instance, it is a simple matter to learn the calls of a four-part peal of Plain Bob (only eleven courses usually) or a three-part peal of Kent, Oxford or Bristol which has five courses. Or what could be easier, while the band is trying to find a conductor for a peal of Superlative, Yorkshire, Pudsey, New Cambridge or Painswick Surprise Major, to look up Pitstow's 5,088 in your notebook. It is only W. 3H., W. 3H., B. 2H., twice repeated, and if you can ring the chosen method you can also conduct it in the fullest sense of the word.

If the method is Surprise Royal or Maximus, the number of courses is less and the calling that much easier, but your reputation as a man who can call these things 'off the cuff' will be greatly enhanced.

A well-known ringer recently remarked that he wished he had never learnt transposition by course ends. He fully realised that not only was transposition of Coursing Orders so much easier, but that in the emergencies of actual ringing the former method was almost useless, while the latter was a necessity if he was to do his job as a conductor.

May I end as I began by appealing to the experts for helpful criticism and advice. Letters to the Editor on these lines, written as the result of years of experience, can do nothing but good.

MUSIC OF THE TENORS

Dear Sir,—I, for one, agree with the remarks of Mr. G. A. Halls in his letter regarding the musical qualities of such methods as Erin Caters and Duffield and wonder why there are not more peals rung in the methods. For those who require something more difficult I would suggest Spliced Erin and Stedman Caters. As regards Erin Caters I send figures of a composition which I consider very good and which is now published for the first time.—Yours faithfully,

A. J. PITMAN.

A MISCELLANY OF OUTINGS

BIGGLESWADE DISTRICT

Although the morning of July 10th dawned wet it did not damp the spirits of members of the Biggleswade District (Bedfordshire Association), setting forth on their annual outing, and by the time the first tower, Mildenhall (10), was reached, the rain had ceased. Ringing here was an added pleasure for many as we seldom have the opportunity of ringing on more than six or eight bells. North Lopham (8) was our second call, then on to Diss, where we were joined at lunch by Mr. A. J. Harris.

An hour's ringing was enjoyed at Diss (8) before journeying on to Redenhall (8). On the way to Bungay (8) a stop for tea was made at Harleston. Final ringing for the day was on the glorious ten at Beccles. A trip to the bells and to the top of the tower proved an added attraction here but, owing to the dullness of the day, the view was disappointingly limited.

Methods rung during the day were Plain Bob Major and Royal, Grandsire and Stedman Triples and Caters, Double Norwich, Kent Treble Bob Major, Cambridge, Yorkshire and Superlative Surprise Major. Thanks were expressed to Mr. L. Bywaters for once again organising a successful tour. A. R.

IN SUFFOLK VILLAGES

For the fourth Whit Monday in succession a small party of ringers from Essex and Suffolk toured this year the lesser-known villages of Suffolk, the journey covering 230 miles and occupying for one car 18½ hours. Twelve towers were visited (ten booked and two 'grabbed').

The towers visited were Thornham Magna (6, tenor 9½ cwt.), Brome (5, 7 cwt., entry to belfry by straight vertical ladder in a hole in the wall), Oakley (6, 8 cwt.), Wingfield (6, 13¼ cwt.), Stradbroke (the ten can now be heard perfectly), Laxfield (6, 16½ cwt.), Heveningham (5, 10 cwt.), Peasenhall (6, 10½ cwt.), Yoxford (6, 11 cwt.), Sweffling (6, 6½ cwt.), Great Glemham (5, 15 cwt., bells a handful), Little Glemham (5, 14 cwt.).

Methods rung were:—Doubles: Plain, Grandsire, Stedman, St. Simon's, St. Martin's, St. Nicholas', Winchendon Place. Minor: London and Cambridge. Surprise: Plain Double Court, Double Oxford, St. Clement's, Thelwall, Childwall, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob. On ten: Treble Bob and Grandsire Caters.

BURY ST. EDMUNDS

An ambitious programme had Bury St. Edmunds' ringers for their annual outing on July 10th, which included two tens at Stradbroke and Beccles, Lowestoft (8), Gorleston (8) and St. Peter Mancroft, Norwich (12, with a 37-cwt. tenor).

The journey was not without its incidents, with cows impeding the coach and 'Fred' and his 'baccy.' He found some and it turned out to be his own!

The best ringing of the day was at Beccles, with Mr. A. E. Moore, the chief conductor, on the treble. At Lowestoft the band were happy to provide wedding bells. Ringing was limited to ten-bell work at St. Peter Mancroft, the company not being used to twelve. Our correspondent is candid about the ringing here, remarking, 'With new ropes and high sallies the ringing was not too good—only a touch of Stedman Triples.'

High tea was greatly enjoyed at Gorleston and there was also an opportunity for a look at the sea for a few minutes. A break was made for refreshments on the homeward journey and for a touch on handbells, Bury St. Edmunds being reached at 11.30 p.m. A big 'thank you' to J. Bank and W. Goodship for making the day such a great success.

BRENTWOOD, ESSEX

A 7 a.m. start was made by St. Thomas', Brentwood, for their 26th annual outing on June 24th, and by 9 a.m. two laden coaches had pulled up at Beaconsfield and the day's ringing programme started with a touch of Double Norwich Court Bob Major.

A good course of Yorkshire Surprise was rung at Cookham, although Kent Treble Bob was a failure. Before lunch at Reading the light, handy bells at Shiplake were rung.

The afternoon's programme started at Sonning, and then back to St. Mary's, Reading, where the opening touch of Stedman Triples was probably the best of the day. Grandsire, Plain Bob, Kent Treble Bob and Cambridge Surprise were also rung.

The evening was spent at Burnham, where Mr. George Gilbert gave the visitors his usual hearty welcome. Thanks are due to him and Mr. A. Diserens for their help in providing a happy day.

MEMORIAL TABLET TO MR. W. J. ELDRED

At St. Margaret's, King's Lynn, on July 13th, a service was held for the dedication of a small brass memorial plate in memory of the late William J. Eldred, chairman and bellringer at St. Margaret's for 30 years. He was also secretary of the West Norfolk Branch of the Norwich Diocesan Association..

The service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. W. A. Aitken). The congregation, headed by the choir, went in procession to the belfry, where the memorial was dedicated by the Rev. J. L. Turney, Vicar of Sculthorpe and chairman of the Branch. After the dedication the Coronation peal board was unveiled and blessed. Ringing took place at the conclusion of the service.

Among those present were Miss W. Eldred, daughter of the late Mr. W. J. Eldred, and his brother, Mr. W. J. Eldred, of Hanwell, Middlesex. Other towers represented were Gaywood, Dersingham, Downham Market, Shouldham, Terrington St. Clement's, Tilney All Saints', St. Peter Mancroft, Norwich, and Sculthorpe. N. V. H.

THE BELLS OF KINGSTON-ON-THAMES

By WILLIAM SHEPHERD

THE story of Kingston goes back to the days of Egbert, who held one of his councils here in 838, and here can still be seen the stone on which King Alfred's son was crowned in 901. During the next 78 years six other Saxon kings are all believed to have sat on this same stone for their crowning.

The old Saxon Shurch of St. Mary was here when the Normans came, and in the year 1130 the Norman laid the foundations of All Saints' Church and joined the old church to its new neighbour as a lady chapel. The two stood together until 1729, when the Saxon chapel suddenly collapsed, killing the sexton and a gravedigger. The central tower is 14th century, topped by 18th century bricks, and within it is the chalk tower of the Normans, probably one of the oldest chalk structures in this country. The first recorded entries relating to bells go back to 1503 and in 1516, when one of the bells was taken to Reading, some curious items were entered in the account book. The carrier's charge from Kingston to Reading was 13s., but the expenses en route also entailed items such as:—'Dynner at Meydenhedd 5s. 2d. Sopper at Reading 5s. 0d. Dynner at Reading on the morrowe 2s. 8d. Horse Meate at Reding 6s. 0d.' At the founders' the sum for 'Drynke' cost 6s. 0d. On the return journey the only expenditure seems to have been:—'Baytyng at Stanes comying homeward 3s. 0d.'

When the Royal inventory was taken in 1552 Kingston recorded 'Fyve great bells in the steple, a sauns bell, and a chyme for the belles,' which shows that the church ranked among the important ones as regards services. In 1570 Queen Elizabeth visited Kingston and the 'Ryngers' were paid xij pence, while the following year ij shillings was paid at the 'qvens comyng.'

The bells were made a complete ring of ten by Robert Catlin, of Holborn, in 1748, and this was done by recasting the old eight bells and adding two new trebles. Since then some recasting has taken place and at the present time this grand ring of ten can be briefly tabulated thus:—

Treble.—R. Catlin 1748. Recast Mears and Stainbank 1936.

Second.—R. Catlin 1748. Recast at Whitechapel 1841 and 1936.

Third.—R. Catlin 1750. Recast 1936.

Fourth.—R. Catlin 1748. Recast by Blews 1873. Recast 1936.

Fifth.—R. Catlin 1748. Recast by T. Mears 1826.

Sixth.—R. Catlin 1748. Recast by T. Mears 1826.

Seventh.—R. Catlin 1748. Recast by T. Mears 1826.

Eighth.—R. Catlin 1748.

Ninth.—R. Catlin 1748. Recast by Mears and Stainbank 1879.

Tenor.—R. Catlin 1748. Recast by Mears and Stainbank 1830.

The tenor is 27 cwt. 2 qr. 24 lb. in D flat, this being the weight after the bells were tuned prior to their restoration in 1937. The 8th is inscribed 'The old 8 bells recast and two new Trebbles added to make X by subscription. S. London, S. Belchier, Collectors 1748.' The circle is anti-clockwise, for the old frame is still in use.

BAN ON SUNDAY EVENING RINGING

Sunday service ringing was confined to morning service only in consequence of a bequest made to the church by a Mrs. Savage, who died in 1833, for in her will she included gifts to the ringers providing the conditions stated were duly observed. In order to qualify for the money the ringers were required, subject to the Vicar's discretion, to conduct themselves in a sober, orderly and attentive manner and perform their duties both of ringing and chiming to the satisfaction of the Vicar. After this comes a special condition that the present laudable custom be observed of abstaining from the ringing of peals on the evenings of Lord's Day. When the writer was told of these conditions some 50 years ago it aroused a feeling of resentment that one person should offer presents to ringers and impose terms in order to keep ringers from Sunday evening ringing. From 1833 onwards the bells were never rung on Sunday evening, and for 114 years the ban operated, much to the regret of many ringers.

It must have come as a surprise when the Vicar requested the ringers to ring for evening service on Sunday, November 2nd, 1947, thus finishing a ban on Sunday evening 'peals,' and setting the ringers free to perform full Sunday duties which, after all, is the main purpose for which the bells were placed in the tower. The condition requiring the ringers to conduct themselves in a sober, orderly and attentive manner may have been necessary wording as a safeguard during the 19th century, but it certainly does not apply nowadays, and a progressive band will always give a warm welcome to visitors on Sundays and at practice on Thursday evenings.

Rung at Shirley, Birmingham, May 13th, 1954.

A 50th ANNIVERSARY AT CAPETOWN

On Dec. 22nd, 1903, change ringing was inaugurated at St. Mary's Church, Woodstock, Cape Town, with 720 Plain Bob Minor. As far as records show, no further touch of that length had since been rung.

To celebrate 50 years of change ringing in the tower, a further 720 Plain Bob Minor was rung on July 6th by O. Lamb 1, J. Riley 2, C. Gardiner 3, W. J. Smith 4, R. H. Stickley (conductor) 5, J. Ernstzen 6. This was the first 720 for the ringers of 1, 2, 3 and 6.

The touch was also rung as a farewell to the Very Rev. Michael Gibbs, Dean of Cape Town, who leaves South Africa this month to take up his new ministry as Dean of Chester, England. R. H. S.

Peterborough Diocesan Guild

About 50 ringers were present at the Wellingborough Branch meeting at the six-bell tower of Yardley Hastings. Local ringers' wives and friends, supervised by Mrs. Burge, provided tea.

At the short business meeting presided over by the Rector (the Rev. L. J. Thompson), the members stood in silence in memory of Mr. E. Jones, of Easton Maudit. The October meeting will be held at Irchester, and the annual meeting in January at Wellingborough.

The Guild service was held in the Parish Church in the early evening, the office being led by the Guild president (the Rev. W. Knight), and an address given by the Rector. A collection for the Guild Restoration Fund amounted to £1 9s.

THE RINGING WORLD

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

No. 2260. Vol. L. FRIDAY, JULY 30, 1954 Registered at the G.P.O. for transmission as a newspaper 4d.

THOMAS BALL WORSLEY

A TRIBUTE BY E. JENKINS

THE origins of greatness are not easily come by; are they inherited, born or learned? But by and large we recognise greatness when we meet it. It may have been one day in 1923 when requiring a composition of Double Norwich somewhat off the beaten track William Willson's famous composition was encountered. This seemed well worth ringing.

On March 24th, 1924, we rang this composition at Newchurch, Warrington, a new Taylor ring, and this lovely composition pleased us all. Quoth Harry Chapman (that happy man), 'I've waited twenty years to ring that arrangement.' During the evening T. B. W. and the writer were deep in conversation on the merits of compositions on this plan. Couldn't more be done in this direction? Up to this occasion T. B. W. had never shown any interest in the art of composition.

About this time some conversation was had with J. W. Washbrook, then living in Manchester. Washbrook handed the writer a composition of Cambridge Surprise Major of wonderful combinations. Alas, subsequent examination of this composition revealed that all was not well with it. Conversation at a later date elicited the information that T. B. W. had been experimenting with figures, and the writer, probably subconsciously recognising a greater mind, informed him that he had some figures of Washbrook's which were incorrect. Did he think he could rebuild the arrangement? Yes, he would try.

Perhaps a month passed by before T. B. W. handed back the figures of Washbrook's composition with the remark, 'Yes, you were right. It wouldn't run on that plan, but it's right now.' Subsequently we rang this arrangement at Pendleton on April 4th, 1925, and were all delighted with it. And so Tommy took to composing as to the manner born. Little did the writer realise at that date what would come of the partnership.

Later in 1925 Tommy said he was having a tussle with Superlative, and I believe it was on October 10th of that year after a peal at Pendleton that he said he had produced a 10,668. This was amazing, as Messrs. J. W. Parker and G. Lindoff had informed the writer that the method was worked out and both these gentlemen asked to see the figures. Well remembered are J. W. Parker's comment, 'You have sent me a record composition on a plan I had thrown away.' In just over a month a 10,784 was produced and early in December an 11,360 came out, but subsequent proving found it wrong, and then on Christmas Eve came the greatest length of Superlative with orthodox calling, the 11,232 — one of the most masterly productions the Exercise has received. We rang it on January 29th, 1927, at Bolton.

Early in 1926 Tommy said, 'I think there's more to be got out of Treble Bob,' and there was. In July came by post a composition of Treble Bob, the 17,824—again on a plan supposed to be worked out. We rang this the following April at Heptonstall, Yorks. After this he turned his attention to Bristol, and in September, 1926, produced 19,360 and 20,320, at which point he dropped it and delved into London. Ultimately he found sufficient true courses to make 15,000, but in his own words, 'they wouldn't weld.' After some two years of endeavour he gave it up; this was possibly the only occasion of defeat.

In 1930 he again turned his attention to Bristol, and about September of that year came the greatest composition of them all—the 21,600, which my Cheshire friends magnificently performed at Over on November 4th, 1950. How delighted he would have been to have known of it! He had not, however, finished and, going back to his first love, Superlative, he produced on September 8th, 1934, another long length in this method, 11,328, which remains the greatest length in the method with orthodox calls.

The great years of his work were from 1925 to 1928, after which business claimed his attention more and more and spare time became precious, but he never gave up entirely, and little gems of ordinary length kept dropping out of his mind as it were and it needed very little to arouse his interest.

In appearance he was of medium stature, becoming grey early in life, of a most merry disposition and eyes forever twinkling. The writer never once saw him angry; it seemed impossible for him to lose his temper. In ringing he rarely made mistakes and was a fine striker, and could, if required, ring a heavy bell, though he didn't care much for the back end as he perspired very freely. Though he never thought of himself as a conductor, he was remarkably safe and called several peals of Stedman Triples, Double Norwich and Surprise Major. He took part in the 18,000 of Treble Bob at Mottram in 1922, which was false, and also the attempt for 22,000 of Double Norwich at Hepstonstall, which had to be brought round just over 18,000 changes which repeated in the calling round. His greatest performance was undoubtedly the 15,312 of Cambridge Surprise

Maximus at Ashton-under-Lyne on August 5th, 1929, of which he was justly proud.

His name as a composer will last to the end of campanological time, and he ranks with the greatest of our art; in long lengths he was the supreme artist and none can equal his ability in that direction.

His end was sudden—he would not have had it otherwise; that kindly disposition was not meant for long drawn out agony. Generally kindly and well-meaning friends were somewhat blunt in giving this information. . . . Peace of mind was long in returning. Time in its slow healing brings back many happy memories to ease the loss of one who was almost a brother.

LIMITED

No matter in which corner of the country you happen to be, as likely as not you will come across Gillett & Johnston bells or tower clocks. Gillett & Johnston craftsmanship is embodied in an all-embracing service — as much in the preservation and restoration of old rings of antiquarian interest as in the installation of new.

CROYDON

PEAL RINGING IN CAMBRIDGESHIRE

By the Rev. K. W. H. FELSTEAD

OUT of 89 churches with rings of bells, only 15 have eight or more in the county of Cambridgeshire, i.e., about 17 per cent. Leaving out the two tiny counties of Huntingdon and Rutland, which have very few bells, only two other counties have a smaller proportion of towers with eight bells or more—Hereford and Northants. One would have thought that this would mean many peals on some of the eight-bell towers since they are few and far between, but this is not so in this county. It is certainly one of these that has the most peals in the county—Long Stanton—but its total is only 73, and it is the only church that has passed the 50 mark. Forty-three of these peals were rung in the 1920's, when it was a very popular tower. Only four were rung in the 1930's, but it has again become the chief peal-ringing centre for 19 peals have been rung since the war.

A six-bell tower comes next on the list. Stapleford, where the next peal rung will be the 50th. This, too, had its heyday in the 1920's, when 34 peals were rung, but it has not regained its prominence of that time, since only two peals have been rung since 1945. Actually several towers seem to have recorded the majority of their peals in the 1920's, which seems to indicate that the Exercise was enjoying its greatest popularity in Cambridgeshire at that time. There were certainly more peals rung then than now. Examples of this are seen at Bourn (15 out of 25), Fulbourn (also 15 out of 25), Ickleton (18 out of 37), Over (26 out of 35), Trumpington (23 out of 28) and Willingham (12 out of 17). At the present time, apart from Long Stanton, the following towers seem to be the most popular:—Ely (14 out of a total of 23 rung since the war), Whittlesey, St. Andrew's (12 out of 17), Whittlesey, St. Mary's (10 out of 25), Chatteris (12 out of 30), Harston (7 out of 12) and Meldreth (10 out of 13).

The only 12-bell tower is St. Mary's, Cambridge. Twenty-eight peals have been rung here from 1890 onwards—one every two or three years. The 10-bell towers have not been visited very often. Soham has only appeared four times in the list of peals—in 1924, 1929, 1931 and 1935. Wisbech isn't much better, but there was a little spasm of activity from 1935 to 1939, when nine out of the total of 13 peals were rung. There have been three since the war. All the eight-bell towers have had at least one peal rung at them since the war, and all except one have peal totals between 17 and 36 (omitting Long Stanton). The exception is the R.C. Church at Cambridge, where only four peals have been rung, the first in 1904 and the remainder since 1946, so there was a very big gap here.

Thirteen six-bell towers have reached double figures and some of the more interesting ones are mentioned above. Six out of the 36 have not yet had a peal. They are Brinkley, St. Edward's, Cambridge, Croxton, Guilden Morden, Litlington and Swaffham Bulbeck. Only eight of the 37 five-bell towers have had a peal, so there is plenty of scope here! It is one of these eight which has been silent, as far as peal-ringing is concerned, for the longest time—Fen Ditton, since 1911. But a six-bell tower, Chippenham, has not been heard since 1920.

Thus, taken all in all, there is nothing outstanding to report about Cambridgeshire.

HEREFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

Change of Officers at Annual Festival

The annual festival of the Hereford Guild took place at Hereford on Whit Monday. An attendance of well over 100 ringers and friends was most gratifying considering the size of the Diocese and the fact that Hereford City is in the southern half.

The Guild Service was sung in the Lady Chapel of the Cathedral, conducted by the Ven. the Archdeacon of Hereford, who also preached, his address, as always, being most stimulating.

Tea was served in the College Hall, the arrangements for which were kindly undertaken by Mrs. A. W. Davis and friends.

This was followed by the annual general meeting. Mr. J. J. Webb, of Ross, was appointed Ringing Master in succession to Mr. W. H. Lloyd. A vote of thanks was proposed to Mr. Lloyd for the splendid work done by him during his term of office.

The Rev. W. R. Thomas, Vicar of Marden, was appointed hon. secretary and treasurer in succession to the Rev E. G. Benson, Vicar of Presteigne, and the latter was elected a vice-president in accordance with a unanimous recommendation of the committee. This was in recognition of his services not only to the Guild but to bellringing in general.

Miss Chandler was unanimously re-elected peal recorder, and Mr. W. T. Poston was re-elected hon. auditor of the Guild.

The annual report and statement of accounts were adopted, and the accounts showed a credit balance. The bells of the Cathedral (10), All Saints' (8), St. Nicholas' (6), Holmer (6) and Lugwardine (8) were available on the day.

THE REV. IVOR J. RICHARDS' NEW LIVING

On July 17th bellringing friends of the Rev. Ivor J. Richards, B.A., Hon. C.F., met at the Parish Church, Llanfrechfa, and rang a peal to mark his induction to the benefice of Llanarth-with-Clytha-with-Llansantfraed and Bryngwyn. Formerly Vicar of Crumlin, he was also a chaplain in the Forces from 1939 to 1945, being mentioned in despatches in 1944.

Mr. Richards is widely known in bellringing circles, having taken part in many peals in numerous towers. He is also a past master of the Llandaff and Monmouth Diocesan Association and still holds the post of treasurer of the Association.

The Parish Church of St. Teilo, Llanarth, one of his new parishes, has a ring of six bells, which were cast in the year 1820 by John Rudhall. The fourth bell was recast in 1893 by Llewellin and James and this bell bears the inscription: 'Ring out the false, ring in the true.' The tenor bell bears the inscription: 'I call in prayer the living to combine. The dead must hear a louder sound than mine.'

Although the bells of Llanarth are not in good ringing condition they can be rung for short spells, but it is to be hoped that in the not too distant future means may be found to put the bells in good order once again.

In the Church of St. Peter, Bryngwyn, another of his churches, are three bells. The second bell was cast by John Palmer I., of Gloucester, on 'Mai. 3. 1632,' as is so inscribed The third bell is of the pre-Reformation era and was cast by a Bristol founder some time between 1480 and 1500.

Taking part in the peal to mark this induction were three clerical ringers—the Rev. Ivor J. Richards (new Vicar of Llanarth), the Rev. F. A. Oswell (Vicar of Llanfrechfa) and the Rev. Roy Hallett (curate of Llanfrechfa).

The many bellringing friends of the Rev. Ivor J. Richards will no doubt wish to convey their sincere good wishes to him on his preferment.

AUGMENTATIONS AND DEDICATIONS IN OXFORDSHIRE

Within recent weeks two events of much importance to bellringers have occurred in Oxfordshire. A new treble bell has been added to the ring of four bells at March Baldon, and a new treble bell has been added to the restored ring of five bells at Langford.

St. Peter's Church, March (or Marsh) Baldon, has a western tower built in the 14th century, and of curious design, in that the top stage is octagonal corbelled out on the square section below. In 1922 Richard White, of Appleton, hung the four bells in a two-tier oak frame, and the new bell, cast by Mears and Stainbank, of Whitechapel, London, has been placed above these. The result is a melodious ring of five bells, the tenor of which weighs 7¼ cwt. The new framework has been installed by Richard White and Son. The dedication service took place on June 12th and was conducted by the Rev. N. E. Hope, until recently Rector of this parish. Unfortunately it was a pouring wet day and the attendance suffered accordingly. Nevertheless a number of visiting ringers were present including the Deputy Master of the Diocesan Guild, Mr. F. Sharpe, and the Guild librarian, Miss M. R. Cross. The first peal on the bells, ten Doubles methods, was rung by a mixed band of the Diocesan Guild on July 5th.

St. Matthew's Church, Langford, is an architectural gem and the lower part of the central tower is of Saxon workmanship. In 1741 Henry Bagley III. cast a ring of five bells for this tower but the tenor had become cracked and the remaining bells unringable by 1947. A complete restoration has now been effected A new iron frame has been installed, the cracked bell recast, a new treble bell added and the remaining bells tuned. The bell work has been carried out by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, and Richard White and Son have installed the new frame and hung the bells.

The result is a first-class ring of six bells, the tenor of which weighs eight cwt., in a part of Oxfordshire where an impetus is required in changeringing. The new treble bell has been given in memory of Sydney Reading, but the remaining cost has been defrayed by public subscription.

A special service of hallowing and dedication was held on July 1st, conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. W. L. Bunce, and the Lord Bishop of Dorchester hallowed the work of restoration and dedicated the new bell to the glory of God. He also gave a most inspiring address to a crowded congregation. The Diocesan Guild of Ringers was represented by the Deputy Master, Mr. F. Sharpe, who read one of the lessons.

After the service the bells were rung to a number of Doubles and Minor methods by visiting ringers, who voted them all that could be desired. Fortunately there are already some local ringers, so there is every hope that the bells will now be rung regularly Sunday by Sunday.

LATE NEWS

We regret to record the sudden death of Mr. Fred Bennett, of West Clandon, near Guildford, who in his early days rang many multi-method six-bell peals.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Those who have visited High Wycombe will know Mr. Ralph Coles and join with us in congratulating him on completing 60 years as parish clerk. (It must almost be a record.) For 33 years, from 1915 until 1948, he was foreman of the tower. A congratulatory peal of Caters to this 80-year-old veteran was rung on the bells on July 17th.

The peal at Worsley, Lancs, reported in our last issue, was the 200th on the bells.

It is never too late! Mr. Fred Day rang his first quarter of Bob Major for his 80th birthday at Keynsham, Bristol, on July 19th.

Don't go to Plymouth without visiting Emmanuel Church. There is regular ringing there twice every Sunday and on the practice night, Thursday, 7.30 p.m.

The Ladies' Guild is restarting in Kent. All lady ringers are asked to support the first meeting, to be held at Marden on Aug. 14th. 'If the ladies give the Guild their wholehearted support, then it is sure to be a success,' writes Miss Jill Haffenden.

The peal at Otley, Suffolk, on July 19th, was rung as a birthday compliment to Mrs. Taylor, wife of the Rector. Both Mr. and Mrs. Taylor welcomed the band in the belfry and wished success for the peal prior to commencement. Mr. Taylor is the popular leader of his own band at Otley.

Mr. Albert Walker is perturbed about the peal of Stedman Cinques rung at St. Martin's, Birmingham, on July 6th, which he conducted. It followed a failure in a peal attempt for Maximus, and in his opinion the peal was rung at too fast a pace. He afterwards lectured the band on the necessity of good striking and not racing the bells unduly. Another 15 minutes, in his opinion, should have been taken on the peal.

The death of Mr. J. F. Priest recently at Woodstock, near Cape Town, focused attention on the first peal in South Africa in 1904. The ringer of the sixth in this peal, James Murray, had conducted the first peal in Australia 14 years before at St. Philip's, Sydney, N.S.W., thus achieving the unique distinction of taking part in the first peals in two different continents. It is also interesting to note that Gilbert Pearce, who rang the second in the peal of Stedman Triples at Bristol in 1899, which the Rev. K. W. H. Felstead mentions on page 453, took part in the first peal in Canada in 1911.

The two Maidstone Grammar Schools have united to for a Ringing Society. Meetings are held at East Farleigh.

Mr. James Bennett has rung a 12-bell peal in 50 different towers. It would be interesting to learn the names of those ringers who have surpassed this achievement.

Mr. Reginald Sills is the new district secretary of the Maidstone District of the Kent County Association, and Miss Mary Tapley, of Eaglesham, Harrietsham, 'The Ringing World' representative.

The peal of London Surprise Minor at Nettleham on May 29th (see page 405) was arranged by Mr. J. L. Millhouse and conducted by Mr. Geoffrey R. Parker.

Mr. Wallace Palmer, one of East Budleigh's old 'call-changers,' learned to hunt the treble to Grandsire Doubles in 1938. Since then through illness he has had to give it up. At the age of 70 he made a 'come-back' with a quarter of Grandsire Doubles for matins on July 18th. For evensong another quarter was laid on for the youngest recruit in the band, but this came unstuck. After Evensong three members of the band 'hopped' over the common to help in yet another quarter at Woodbury. This also failed.

OXFORD GUILD'S SEVENTY-THIRD FESTIVAL

HUGHENDEN'S NOVEL GIFT — USE OF AMPLIFIERS A RETROGRADE STEP — MR. JOHN FOWLER'S SERVICES RECOGNISED — THE LARGEST GUILD IN THE COUNTRY — A HERITAGE AND ITS RESPONSIBILITIES

THE 73rd annual festival of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, held at Oxford last Saturday, followed traditional lines and, as usual, members of the Guild were joined by many visitors, these coming from as far apart as Lancashire in the north to Cornwall in the south.

Proceedings started with the service in the Cathedral, which was conducted by the Master (the Rev. C. Elliot Wigg). Ringers of the Diocese provided the surpliced choir, with the Deputy Master (Mr. Frederick Sharpe) acting as crucifer and later reading one of the lessons.

The Rev. F. R. S. Tucker, Vicar of Barford, took as his theme for the sermon St. James the Great, whose festival was the followiag day. Saints' Days, he said, gave them an opportunity for extra ringing, but they reminded them as ordinary mortals who believed in the Church's teaching of striving like the saints of old for perfection. No one could obtain perfection without practice, and that was the salutary lesson they learnt from the saints.

They were church bellringers and the word church did not imply the place in which they rang but Church as members of the body of Christ with the special function to perform in that world-wide fellowship. Some of them might be fortunate enough to ring on the ground floor under the central tower right in view of the worshipping congregation. He would like to see bells rung during the service as an alternative accompaniment to one of the hymns because then they would be taking the fullest part in the worship of God's people. In the ringing chamber their highest ambition must be harmony and co-operation, which meant give and take. He would leave them the thought: 'Whosoever would be great among you let him be your minister.'

GIFT FROM HUGHENDEN

The Master presided at the business meeting in the Chapter House supported by the Deputy Master, the hon. secretary (Mr. W. Hibbert), the hon. treasurer (Mr. A. D. Barker) and the hon librarian (Miss Cross). In front of the Master was a beautifully-made gavel with the head in the form of a bell, and a stand inscribed: 'Made out of the old bell-frame,' and beneath: 'Made and presented to the Oxford Diocesan Guild by members of the Hughenden Belfry, A.D. 1954.' The Master expressed his thanks to Mr. R. Biggs and the Hughenden band for the gift, which would be highly prized.

Arising from the apologies it was decided to send a congratulatory telegram to Edmund Pearson, of Deddington, and Betty West, who were getting married that day.

The report of the Master and Deputy Master in a reference to the Coronation said the Guild was by no means backward or lacking in loyalty and there must be very few towers in the Oxford Diocese from which the loyal salute of bells did not sound forth. A notable event was the rehanging for ringing of Great Tom of Oxford. 'Mighty Tom' was swung up frame high for the first time for many years on Coronation Day.

Other events recorded were the dedication of the memorial to Canon Coleridge, Mr. Richard White ringing another peal on the anniversary of his first peal, 60 years ago, the services and presentation to Canon G. Dixon, of Grandborough, chairman for 25 years of the Central Bucks Branch, and the loss to the Guild by the death of the Rev. T. Phillips, the ideal chairman of the Banbury Branch. The monumental and scholarly work of Mr. F. Sharpe in completing 'The Church Bells of Oxfordshire' was not the least of the notable 'events campanological' of 1953.

MEMBERSHIP STEADY

The report of the secretary questioned how many towers in unity with the Guild rang the full complement of bells for both morning and evening service. He asked incumbents to show a little more interest in the ringers and thence spread that interest to members of the congregation from whom recruits should be drawn. Membership kept at a steady level but he wondered what percentage of new members made each year ultimately became steady service ringers. With all disappointments he thought they could hold their own with other Associations and Guilds.

The treasurer's report stated that the general funds of the Guild amounted to £925 10s. 7d., of which £826 13s. 10d. was in the Restoration Fund. During the year £500 had been received under the C. W. O. Jenkyn bequest. Grants were paid to Cassington, Duns Tew and Wavendon and the Coleridge Memorial Fund.

The reports and accounts were adopted on the proposition of Canon G. Dixon.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

Acknowledging his election as Master, the Rev. C. Elliot Wigg said he would do his best with the limitation of time at his disposal. 'One of the best Deputy Masters we have had,' was how Mr. A. E. Lock submitted the name of Mr. F. Sharpe for his re-election to office. Other officers re-elected were Mr. A. D. Barker, hon. treasurer; Mr. W. Hibbert, hon. secretary; and Miss Cross, hon. librarian.

Elected to the committee were: Miss D. Fletcher, Messrs. G. Cauldwell, T. J. Fowler, R. White, W. F. Judge, G. Holifield, W. Dixon, C. J. Hibbert, A. R. Pink, B. Hall, P. Walker and W. Paice.

The Master reported the death of Mr. A. D. Cullum, one of the trustees, and that the Rev. B. Girling did not desire to continue in office. The meeting elected Mr. C. Kinch and Mr. A. R Pink as new trustees.

It was decided to hold the 1955 Festival at Oxford.

RESTORATION GRANTS

Warborough was congratulated on raising within £20 of the £864 required for the restoration of its bells. The local branch had voted five guineas and it was agreed to pay ten guineas for the Bell Restoration Fund.

The meeting was very sympathetic towards the Boyne Hill restoration scheme, a memorial to Mr. G. Martin. The cost of the scheme was £750 and towards this £365 had been raised. The sum of £50 was voted.

Details of the memorial work for the beautification of Crowthorne Church, where Canon Coleridge administered with great faithfulness for 52 years, were submitted to the meeting. In view of the fact that the Guild had raised £360 for the Coleridge Memorial at Christ Church, Oxford, and that any contribution would have to come from the general funds of the Guild, it was decided on the proposition of the general secretary to vote three guineas.

The layout of future reports was discussed and the meeting decided that the present layout be retained but short reports of Branches be added.

PEAL RECORDS

An absence of peal records was reported to the Guild and the figure of 4,825 peals to the end of last year was stated to be 'miles out.' A start in compiling a new record had been made by Miss Cross and Mr. Roper and they were appointed peal recorders. Miss Cross made an appeal for early Guild reports.

Arising from a Bicester Branch meeting, Mr. Kinch moved: 'It is the considered opinion of the Oxford Diocesan Guild that it is a retrograde step to install in church towers amplifiers or like apparatus for the purpose of broadcasting the sound of bells in a parish where it would be possible to install a ring of bells.'

Seconding, Canon G. Dixon said: 'Everything to be said for the resolution and nothing against it.'

It was decided to send a copy of the resolution to the Chancellor of the Diocese and the Bishop of Dorchester.

'THE RINGING WORLD'

The Editor was asked to amplify the letter of the general secretary of the Central Council on the need for more postal subscribers and the appointment of 'Ringing World' correspondents to push circulation and keep the journal informed of ringing activities. Mr. White reminded the meeting of the poor response so far received for new postal subscribers from the counties of Oxfordshire, Berkshire and Bucks, which compared unfavourably with Hertfordshire. He emphasised that no young ringer should allow his first quarter or peal to pass without being presented with a copy of the journal. If he or she persevered with their ringing they would look back on that first step with gratitude.

The Master said the Guild had a large general committee and if each one of them made it a point of pushing postal subscribers a better result might be achieved.

Mr. Sharpe proposed a vote of thanks to Mr. White and the Editorial Committee for their work.

The hon. secretary asked the meeting to ratify the election of 165 new members. Last year the number was over 200. He did not think they had lost 165 members. When they sent certificates to them they used to make sure that they would ultimately become Sunday service ringers. The elections were ratified.

A member called attention to the splendid example of the Vicar of Edlesborough. A restoration scheme costing £10,000 was launched for his church and he had decided to give priority to the tower and the bells.

The Master suggested that his example deserved the sympathy and support of the Guild.

It was decided to send a letter to the Vicar expressing the Guild's appreciation of his action.

MR. JOHN FOWLER HONOURED

Mr. A. D. Barker proposed on behalf of the East Berks and South Bucks Branch that in view of his past services to the Branch Mr. John Fowler be elected a vice-president of the Guild.

Mr. Hibbert, in seconding, said older members realised what Mr. Fowler had done. He had never called a peal of Spliced Surprise, but the number of people he had taught to ring at Cookham and the number he had kept on 'the straight and narrow' nobody knew.

The election was carried with acclamation. Mr. Fowler, in returning thanks, said he could not tell them how much he appreciated the great honour. Anything he had done for the Branch, of which he was Ringing Master for 25 years, he had done for the good of the Guild. His late Rector once said to him, 'John, you have done more than anybody in Cookham in keeping the youngsters in the church after they have left the choir.'

The meeting stood in silence in remembrance of Messrs. A. D. Cullum (Reading), George Adcock (Windsor) and G. Russell (Bray), who had died since the report was published.

THE LUNCHEON

The luncheon, as on former occasions, was held in the hall of Christ Church. After the toast of 'The Queen' the Launton ringers, in charge of Mr. F. Sharpe, played selections of tunes and hymns on Mr. Sharpe's beautiful set of handbells, some of which date back to the 17th century. This was followed by a splendidly-struck touch of Grandsire Caters by a band in charge of Mr. C. Woolley.

The toast of 'The Oxford Diocesan Guild' was proposed by Mr. T. W. White, who said the Guild did not realise its proud position of being the largest in the country with over 2,000 members. The Oxford Guild had a great heritage: it had given to the Exercise leaders who had shaped ringing in the county. It was a great responsibility to live up to that reputation. Their festivals were unique and enjoyed and appreciated by many ringers from all over the country. The Guild was very fortunate in its Deputy Master, who was to-day one of the leading authorities on old bells, and his research and writings had added to the lustre of the Guild. In coupling the name of the Master with the toast, Mr. White wished him and the Guild every happiness during the coming year.

The Master, in acknowledging the toast, extended a warm welcome to the visitors. As their visitors knew, they were meeting without a Bishop. The Guild felt they had lost a personal friend and president of the Guild by the death of Dr. Kirk. They had with them as they prayed Sunday by Sunday for the wise choice of a successor, the memory of a great and dearly beloved Bishop.

The Master then proposed the toast of 'The Visitors.'

Mr. Gower, of Clitheroe, Lancs, replied, and said it was well worth coming to Oxford for the privilege of attending the service and lunching in that hall.

The Deputy Master proposed a vote of thanks to the Dean and Chapter for placing the Cathedral, Chapter House and the hall at the Guild's disposal for the service. He also thanked the Oxford ringers, Mr. Tucker, of Burford, the preacher at the service, Dr. Armstrong, the organist, and the choir, which came from all parts of the diocese.

Ringing followed in the various churches and chapels and parties were taken to see 'Great Tom' by Mr. Sharpe.

Wedding of Miss G. F. Good

Miss G. F. Good, until recently a member of the local tower, was married to Mr. J. Morris at St. Mary's, Apsley End, Herts, on July 17th.

The bride was given away by her father, Mr. A. V. Good, who is a past president of the Herts Association, and has been Ringing Master of the Western District for many years.

Before the ceremony the local band rang a 720 of London, and afterwards several touches in other methods were rung and the bells were 'fired.'

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

BOB TRIPLES—BACK HISTORY

Dear Sir,—I note on page 441 of 'The Ringing World,' Mr. W. Ayre, in presenting his report, said that the Central Council in 1904 passed a rule against the ringing of Bob Triples, and yet I have in my possession a book published by the Central Council of Church Bell Ringers dated 1907 entitled 'A Collection of Legitimate Methods,' which was edited and issued according to the instruction and under the authority of the Council by a committee consisting of Mr. John Carter, member of the St. Martin's Guild, Birmingham; Mr. Henry Dains, member of the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths; the Rev. E. Bankes James, member of the Gloucester and Bristol Association; the Rev. H. Law James, Master of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild, and Mr. J. A. Trollope, member of the Norwich Diocesan Association. Section 1: All legitimate methods of Doubles, all legitimate methods of Minor methods (except such as have 5ths place without the treble in 6ths), and all legitimate methods of Triples, and in the latter is included 'Bob Triples.'

Now I ask, if such eminent men should consider this method legitimate only three years after the Central Council had ruled against it, and it took another 20 years (1927) before the Council again objected and again another 27 years before the Council realised some bands enjoyed ringing it, surely it is time this vacillation ceased and its legitimacy was really and truly established.—Yours faithfully,

H. O. OVER.

Hugglescote, Leics.

A LEGEND OF ST. CLEMENT DANES'

Dear Sir,—The mention of St. Clement Danes' in your issue of July 23rd brings to my memory an account of an incident which happened there many years ago.

During a severe thunderstorm whilst the ringers were ringing, an ill-shaped being entered the ringing chamber, and dug its claws into the masonry of the window-sill, dislodging great pieces of stonework. The ringers left the ropes, tried to hide, the ropes whipped and cracked as the bells swung themselves down.

If you could find this narrative in an old 'Bell News' it might be of interest to some who have never heard about it.—Yours truly,

GEORGE E. SYMONDS.

Ipswich.

NOTE.—Can any reader oblige?—Editor.

PRESIDENTS OF THE GUILD OF DEVONSHIRE RINGERS

Dear Sir,—Mr. E. J. Taylor informs me that Mr. C. Pearson, author of 'The Ringer's Guide to the Church Bells of Devon,' was elected president of the Guild on May 25th, 1896, and resigned the office on September 24th, 1896. At a general committee meeting on October 24th, 1896, the Rev. Maitland Kelly was elected as his successor.

Mr. A. W. Searle, who is 86, tells me Mr. Pearson was an old man in feeble health and could only ring a six-score of Grandsire, though he was well known as a writer on bells and bell history. This accounts for his brief tenure of the office.—Yours faithfully,

FREDK. C. SMALE.

Okehampton.

SPLICING BY 'HOMES' ONLY

Dear Sir, — Mr. Seagar's very interesting article on this subject seems to me to introduce a technical query.

'Scissoring' at the 'leads' is readily understandable; but scissoring at the treble's lie is in conflict with a conventional feature of method structure.

The plain course of any method is, of course, divisible into a number of groups of changerows, equivalent to the number of full 'working' bells in the method. Each of these 'divisions' is an integral block, characteristic of its 'end' rows; the pattern of its permutation structure being 'reflected' about its half-way line — i.e., the second line of Mr. Seagar's scissoring.

Since each individual method is distinguished by such pattern, plus the form of the linking permutation at the division ends, it follows that if only one half of a division be employed and joined with the opposing half from a different method, the result will be an asymmetrical division or 'lead.' In other words, something not at present recognised is introduced.

Mr. Seagar's examples at 'A' and 'B,' however, appear not to introduce such bisections. Would he be good enough to say, therefore, why they were mentioned?—Yours very truly,

A. YORK-BRAMBLE.

Southsea.

HONOUR FOR YOUNG WOLLASTON RINGER

Dear Sir,—May I be permitted through the medium of your valuable paper to offer my sincere congratulations to a young ringer, Mr. Charles Thomas Richards, who, according to the programme of the Royal College of Art Convocation held on July 9th, was conferred with the title, DES R.C.A. and was also awarded a Continuation Scholarship in the Department of Industrial Glass.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Percival Charles Richards, of Cobden Street, Wollaston, Stourbridge, Worcs. He was educated at Wollaston St. James' C. of E. Schools, and on winning a scholarship became a full time student at Stourbridge College of Further Education, and in 1951 was awarded a scholarship to the Royal College of Art.

No doubt many of his ringing friends will be pleased to learn the good news and join me in complimenting him on his success. — Yours faithfully,

C. E. STINTON, J.P.

Wollaston.

DON'T FORGET THE STAMPED ADDRESSED ENVELOPE

Dear Sir,—Mr. Field, in his letter of advice to outing parties, did not mention the initial item, the stamped addressed envelope. Although this has been aired on several occasions in 'The Ringing World,' our incumbent has this season received five applications from organisers who have omitted this courtesy. — Yours sincerely, DOUGLAS BELLAMY.

Bampton, near Tiverton.

AN 1899 PEAL AT BRISTOL

Dear Sir,—With reference to the peal of Stedman given on page 453 by the Rev. K. W. H. Felstead, I have turned this peal up in the annual reports of the Gloucester and Bristol Association and find that it is recorded as Peal No. 363, and having been rung at the Church of All Saints, Bristol. This would, therefore, prove a misprint in the entry of 'The Bell News.'—Yours sincerely,

WILLIAM F. SCUDAMORE,
Bristol Rural Branch Secretary.

NATIONAL GUILD OF POLICE RINGERS

REVIEW COMMEMORATION PEAL

Following the review by Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II. in Hyde Park, London, eight members of the National Guild of Police Ringers met at the Church of St. Peter de Merton, Bedford, and succeeded in ringing a peal of 5,040 Stedman Triples in 2 hours and 50 minutes.

Those taking part were Constable C. Knight, Leicester City, treble; Constable B. Lewis, Northants County, 2; Ex-Sergeant H. Jenney, Leicester City, 3; Inspector H. Poole, Leicester City, 4; Ex-Chief Inspector W. Bottrill, Metropolitan Police, 5; Constable A. Hinton, Northants County, 6; Constable A. Jacques, Leicester City, 7; Detective-Sergeant G. Amor, Bedford, tenor. The peal was conducted by the president of the Guild, Inspector Poole. Ex-Chief Inspector Bottrill, Inspector Poole and ex-Sergeant Jenney took part in the last commemoration peal, which was rung in London in 1935 following the review by the late King George V.

It was originally intended to ring a peal ot Pudsey Surprise Major at St. George's Church in the Borough, Southwark, and all arrangements were made to do this. The team for this event included three members of the Metropolitan Force, but information was received two days before the review cancelling the peal owing to the inability of the Metropolitan ringers to arrange their duties. Some quick moving was, therefore, necessary with alternative suggestions.

Contact with Detective-Sergeant Amor, of Bedford, brought forth the possibility of the peal at St. Peter's, and arrangements were made to attempt a peal of Double Norwich Court Bob Major. In an effort to replace the three London ringers, several members were contacted but were unable to accept owing to the short notice. By the acceptance of two of the old hands, the team was completed by Policewoman B. A. Smith, of Bedford. The team had not rung this method together and it was expecting a lot from them to succeed with it.

After three short attempts it was obvious that more practice was necessary in that method for success and it was reluctantly decided to ring a peal of Stedman Triples. Policewoman Smith did not ring Stedman and it was much to the disappointment of all that she stood down in place of Detective-Sergeant Amor. Messrs. Poole, Jacques, Hinton and Lewis saw the review at Hyde Park and it was a question of working strictly to schedule to return to Bedford in time to ring the peal. Following the advice of Detective-Sergeant Hurst, of St. Albans, the car was left at Barnet and the journey completed by train. A quick cup of tea and sandwiches were laid on for the party at the Police Canteen at St. Albans and then a dash to Bedford resulted in arrival there at about 6.20 p.m.

Thanks are due to those members who obliged at such short notice and completed the team; to the Rector of St. Peter's Church for his permission to ring the bells; to Detective-Sergeant Hurst, of St. Albans, for his assistance; and particularly to Detective-Sergeant Amor for the local arrangements at Bedford. Had Policewoman Smith rung in the peal, she would have been the first lady to ring in a peal for the Police Guild. It is hoped, in the near future, to make amends for her disappointment and arrange for her to take part in a Police Guild peal. Thanks are also due to Mr. Kilby Holtom, who travelled from Daventry to Bedford especially to transport two members of the team to their homes in the Daventry district.

The day provided two interesting coincidences, quite unexpected, in that Mr. Holtom renewed association with a school friend. Detective-Sergeant Amor, and, in quoting the assistance given by Detective-Sergeant Hurst, of St. Albans, another member of the team, P.C. Knight, of Leicester, remarked, 'Well, that's queer, I went to school with him.'

P.C. Hammons, of Northampton, was in the original team for the London peal and intended to travel from Weymouth, where he was on holiday. It is hoped, in the future, with his assistanee, to arrange a Police Guild peal in the Northampton district.

TRURO DIOCESAN GUILD

The Diocesan Festival was held at St. Columb with the neighbouring towers on July 17th. Ringers were present from Truro Cathedral, Camborne, Carbis Bay, Crantock, St. Ewe, Kenwyn, Landulph, Launceston (St. Mary Magdalene's and St. Stephen's), Lelant, Liskeard, St. Mawgan, Paul, Perranarworthal, Plympton St. Maurice, three of the local band and a few visitors from up-country.

St. Columb is not a Guild tower and we much appreciated being welcomed there. These bells are a perfect eight, good tone, good going and good ropes. Grandsire Triples, Doubles. call changes and rounds were rung.

The service was taken by the Rector, assisted by the general secretary, and the choir was present to lead the singing. There was an excellent tea served by the ladies of the parish.

Of the towers we were unable to visit, St. Enoder has a very beautiful tenor, St. Mawgan has one of the most musical light eights in the country, and St. Eval six have just been rehung and, contrary to the usual custom, are already being rung regularly although they will not be rededicated till August 21st.

After tea we, the Crantock band, proceeded to St. Wenn, a beautiful six in a wooden frame and on plain bearings, but go exceedingly well. The sundial on the church tower bears the gloomy legend, 'Ye know not when,' a necessary reminder perhaps.

From there we went to Withiel to ring the bells of St. Clement's. Withiel has a beautiful tower in the true Cornish style and of granite. The bells go well but the ropes are terrible, the sallies are so high that one has to catch the ropes eight inches below them. However, we rang better here than anywhere except St. Columb. With new ropes, St. Clement's, Withiel, would be an ideal tower for a peal of Bob Minor.

The last tower we visited was Little Petherick, where the fifth and the tenor are pre-Reformation bells, but we never seem to ring well at this tower and the single rope-ends were our undoing. However, we covered up our bad striking with a perfect fall. The Kenwyn band finished by ringing a quarter of Grandsire Triples at St. Mawgan's. W. H. R. T.

DUDLEY AND DISTRICT GUILD

The Dudley and District Guild held their quarterly meeting at Stourbridge on July 3rd. 29 ringers and friends attending. The Vicar (the Rev. G. Pursey) conducted the service, at which the choir was in attendanec, and gave the address. The lesson was read by the Ringing Master, Mr. W. Davies.

Tea was prepared by the local ringers, their wives and friends, and full justice was done by the visitors to their efforts.

At the meeting the Vicar took the chair and a report on the Central Council meeting at Newcastle was given by the Guild's representative. The secretary read the letter from the Central Council with regard to 'The Ringing World.' In the discussion that followed it was decided not to appoint a sales representative but the secretary was to write to all the secretaries of affiliated towers asking them to bring to the notice of all ringers the need for more postal subscribers, and to endeavour to persuade the ringers of their towers to become subscribers to 'The Ringing World.' The secretary undertook to forward to 'The Ringing World' all items of interest passed on to him by members of the Guild. Six new members were elected and the Rev. G. Pursey was elected a vice-president of the Guild. It was decided to hold the next meeting, subject to permission being obtained, at Hagley on September 4th.

THREE GUILDS' JOINT MEETING AT SHREWSBURY

An innovation on July 10th was a joint meeting at Shrewsbury of the Shropshire Association, Society for the Archdeaconry of Stafford and the Hereford Diocesan Guild. The idea of this joint meeting was first mooted some 18 months ago by the Rev. F. A. R. Chapman, Vicar of St. Chad's, Shrewsbury, and a good friend of ringers, and was enthusiastically received by Mr. W. A. Farmer, secretary of the Shropshire Association, and Mr. Fred Bennett, lay secretary of the 'Staffords,' who were determined to see the suggestion become a reality.

Mr. Farmer and members of the Shropshire Association made the arrangements for the meeting, when the following towers were available for ringing:—Shrewsbury—St. Chad's (12), St. Mary's (10) and St. Michael's (6), Condover (8), Berrington (8), Cound (6) and Bicton (6). Full use was made of this opportunity for tower snatching.

Ringers' 'widows' found much to interest them in the delightful town of Shrewsbury and more than one ringer discovered that it was an expensive business to let his wife roam amongst the attractive shops in High Street or the Mardol.

Tea, served in St. Chad's Schoolroom, was very kindly provided by the Vicar, churchwardens and Parochial Church Council of St Chad's. An interesting visitor was Mr. Ernest Weatherby, of Los Angeles, California, who used to ring in Shrewsbury over 30 years ago. After tea Messrs. Arthur Pritchard and Fred Bennett in turn expressed thanks and appreciation to the Rev. F. A. R. Chapman, the churchwardens and members of the Parochial Church Council and the lady helpers, and last but not least to Mr. Farmer for his organising ability. Mr. Bennett stated that the joint meeting had proved so successful that it would be repeated somewhere in the 'Staffords' territory next year.

All present then proceeded to St. Chad's for the service, which was conducted by the Rev. F. A. R. Chapman, assisted by his curate and the organist. The address was given by the Rev. C. H. Barker, clerical secretary of the 'Staffords,' who took an eight-word text, 'Choose you this day whom ye will serve,' which, he said, not only applied to eight-bell ringers, but six-, ten- and twelve-bell ringers as well. Ringers must give wholehearted service to God and His Church.

The attendance at the meeting was 106 and included visitors from as far apart as Leeds and Truro. Ringing during the day was under the direction of Mr. Arthur Pritchard, Ringing Master of the Shropshire Association.

A number of ringers and their wives finished this enjoyable day at the 'Boat House,' but the object of their visit had nothing to do with boats or the river. F. C. A. B.

ROCHESTER DIOCESE'S 27th JUBILEE

AYLESFORD'S COMMEMORATIVE FESTIVAL

ON July 10th the bells of Aylesford Parish Church rang merrily throughout the afternoon and evening in celebration of the 27th Jubilee of the Diocese of Rochester, which dates back to 604 A.D. There have been many Jubilee festivities during the last two months—indeed, the Bishop had preached in Aylesford Church only two days previously—and the bells have rung out from many towers, but this particular occasion was perhaps unique. It had been arranged by the Maidstone District of the Kent County Association and some 80 ringers had gathered, not only from many of the surrounding villages and from other parts of the county, but from as far afield as Sussex, Wiltshire, Gloucestershire and even Co. Durham.

At 4.15 the throng of ringers gathered in church for Evensong conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. H. J. Powell), with Mr. Richard Hasler at the organ. During the service a course of Grandsire Triples was rung on the handbells, and in an inspiring address the Vicar spoke of the joy of practising an art which had been growing and developing for several centuries quite in keeping with the traditions of the ancient diocese itself. What a comfort it was to remember also in these days of unrest and upheaval that the Church had witnessed the changes and chances of many generations but herself remained the constant factor. So ringers in their regular duties in the tower Sunday by Sunday should perform them, not in the sense of struggling on under the cares of the world, but with a spirit of triumph on top of the world. The collection was for the Restoration Fund of Rochester Cathedral, for which the Dean had appealed in 'The Week's Good Cause' only the previous Sunday, and amounted to £2.

1,350 CHANGES FOR 1,350 YEARS

While the main company then migrated to the Junior School for a sumptuous tea prepared by the Aylesford ringers' wives and families a band of eight returned to the ringing chamber to attempt the special touch of Stedman Triples, which had been arranged by Mr. Louis Head, of Maidstone, to contain 1,350 changes, one for each year of the Diocese's long history. Unfortunately this did not quite succeed, for two bells changed positions, but the ringing was excellent.

CUTTING THE JUBILEE CAKE

That morning an expedition had set out for Ascot to convey to Aylesford the Jubilee cake together with its chef, Mrs. Edna Kansy, a member of the Wrotham band of ringers. There it was, two tiers of it, beautifully iced and decorated with bellropes and their coloured sallies, and with diagrams of ringing methods, surmounted with 27 candles, which now were lit. The Vicar introduced Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell, of Gravesend, who were to make the first cut. Mr. Mitchell has been one of the principal officers of the Association for many years and still holds the office of general treasurer, and Mrs. Mitchell is herself a prominent ringer of the Ladies' Guild. Most fittingly it turned out to be Mrs. Mitchell's birthday and 'Happy Birthday' was vigorously sung. Then a loud cheer was given for the cook, whose effort was adjudged first-class.

A NEW DISTRICT SECRETARY

The company then passed to formal business after a telegram had been read bringing good wishes from ringers of the Canterbury District meeting that day at Boughton-under-Blean, as well as good wishes by letter from the Ashford and Rochester Districts, and from the Archdeacon of Rochester, that day sailing for America to attend the Anglican Congress at Minneapolis. After the election of several new members Mr. Mitchell explained that consequent on the recent election of Dr. E. S. J. Hatcher, of Aylesford, to be county secretary in the place of Mr. G. H. Spice, of Sittingbourne, it was necessary to find a new Maidstone District secretary. Only a single nomination was received, that of Mr. R. L. Sills, of Wrotham, who was consequently declared elected. Miss Mary Tapley, of Harrietsham, was then appointed 'The Ringing World' representative in the District.

THE LADIES' GUILD IN KENT

A letter was then read from Miss Jill Haffenden, of Marden, who has undertaken to revive the Guild in Kent, and Mrs. Mitchell was able to give first-hand information. It is hoped that this enterprise will be enthusiastically supported.

The meeting closed with a vote of thanks proposed by Mr. Wally Gosling, of Boxley, to all who had contributed to make this memorable day possible.

So back to the ringing chamber where the bells were kept busy until 9 p.m., the traditional signing-off time of ringers. Though numbers had thinned out by then, there was still quite a crowd to bid farewell to Aylesford on this Festival Day when the 27th Jubilee of the Diocese of Rochester was honoured by ringers in a manner after their own heart.. HERTS COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Northern District at Hinxworth

The cold and wet kept the attendance at the meeting at Hinxworth to the lowest this year. Evensong was said by the Rector (the Rev. G. O. Edwards) and the tea provided by the ladies will be remembered for its crisp lettuces.

The Rector, who presided at the business meeting, hoped that in his new parish, Blunham, Beds, he would receive similar visits from ringers. Master Peter Flack, of Baldock, was elected a member. Kirkstall Delight was selected for the next meeting at St. Ippolyt's on August 28th.

Afterwards members heard recordings made by Mr. D. P. Jones in Somerset and a course of Cambridge Minor on Henlow bells, which was as near perfect as one could wish. Many different methods were rung afterwards and the District now knows that London is not the hardest method but, says our correspondent, Kelso is.

A SONNET

Shall there ever be a bell so cast,
Turned and moulded by the craftsman's hand,
That shall unto the end of all time last,
And her strong note resound through every land?

Though the man-made cities of the world,
O'er the arid deserts, deep green seas,
High volcanoes with their lava curled
On open plains between the forest trees.

Shall I compare this winged note of praise
To mighty eagle or to dove of peace?
Her soulful depth the grovelling nations raise
Inspiring truth, compelling strife to cease.

This full-toned note flies ringing round the earth
And then, with echo clear, regains her birth.

A MISCELLANY OF OUTINGS

ASH, SURREY

Although July 17th was reported to be 'the worst day of summer yet,' the rain did not dampen the spirits of ringers and friends of St. Peter's, Ash, on their annual outing.

Morning ringing was on two sixes—Broughton and Codford St. Peter. After lunch at Westbury the wonderful eight at All Saints' were rung. Next came the picturesque village of Bratton, and there was much competition in counting the numerous steps leading to the church. After such exercise the company was thankful for tea at Devizes. The last tower was Upavon, where the Vicar welcomed the party and his daughter joined in the ringing.

Despite mackintoshes it was 'a jolly good outing,' and thanks are due to Mr. E. Pepler for his excellent arrangements.

CLUTTON, SOMERSET

Clutton ringers with their friends and families (ringers and non-ringers) left for Paignton soon after 7.30 a.m. on July 3rd. Our first tower was Rockwell Green, a good-going six. After lunch at Paignton we rang there at the Parish Church (8). Honiton, St. Paul's, was our last tower. Here the two new trebles were rather springy and so were only rung by the more superior of our number! There was an additional stop—not for ringing—on the way home and we reached Clutton at about 11.30. Thanks for this most enjoyable outing are due to Mr. C. S. Bennett, who organised it.

Methods rung during the day were:—Doubles: Plain Bob, Grandsire and Stedman. Minor: Plain Bob, Kent, Cambridge. Triples: Grandsire, Stedman. Major: Plain Bob.

M. E. F.

EMMANUEL, PLYMOUTH

Reaching Bideford at 10.15 a.m., ringers of Emmanuel Church, Plymouth, started a grand day on July 10th. Appledore, with its gaily decorated waterfront for the regatta, was a good start, and Northam, two miles away, were two towers new to the party except Mr. Tom Myers. Mr. Lavers had, however, rung at Northam.

After lunch at Ilfracombe ringing took place at SS. Philip and James' Church, but a disappointment awaited the party by a locked tower at Holy Trinity. Energetic 'Bill' Collier eventually obtained the key from the caretaker. In the past 10 years some 130 churches have been visited by the Society, and this was the first time they had been let down. Two holiday-makers from Wigan and a R.A.F. corporal whose home was at Worcester here joined the party.

Miss Boyle, secretary of the N.W. Branch of the Devonshire Guild, and local ringers gave the visitors a right royal welcome at Coombe Martin.

The greatest treat of the day was the excellent tea at Barnstaple, where the Rev. and Mrs. Hearne greeted old friends. Mr. Hearne, now Vicar of Pilton, is a Plymouth man and was formerly curate at Emmanuel. An hour and a quarter was spent on the delightful eight at Pilton. Mr. Sims, the captain, thanked Mr. Hearne and the local ringers for having everything in readiness.

Mr. Sims is to be commended on the manner in which he superintended the ringing. The youngest member was his 12-year-old daughter, Sylvia, who received great praise for her handling of the different bells. She was recently presented with her Guild certificate.

DARTFORD AND DISTRICT

Thirty ringers and friends representing seven towers in Dartford and district visited parts of Hampshire for their summer outing on June 19th.

The Rev. K. Davis and the local captain welcomed the visitors at Hawley, and at St. Michael's, Basingstoke, this grand ring was fully used, although a wedding was taking place in the church. Lunch was served at the Opera Restaurant, overlooking the Market Square.

Mr. Chesterman and his daughter made the company feel at home at Sherborne St. John, and at Bramley, a ground floor eight recently augmented, Mr. Osler met the party. A cross-country route to Odiham for tea at the Salamander and ringing was followed by a visit to St. Michael's, Aldershot, where the company was received by Major Bragg. Ringing was of a good standard under the guidance of Mr. Hoverd.

HITCHIN

Shakespeare's country was the object of a small party of ringers from Hitchin, Norton and Maulden on July 3rd. A good start was made on the noble six at Middleton Cheney, near Banbury (tenor 23 cwt.), with Cambridge and London Minor.

The next call was something novel—Balscott Farm, where Mr. Jarvis has a private ring of six (tenor 1 cwt. 22 lb.) hung in his own tower frame and fittings above an outhouse. We eventually succeeded in keeping them off the stays for rounds and Grandsire Doubles. These bells sound and handle far better than their weight would suggest.

Lunch preceded ringing at Evesham Bell Tower, where Mr. Geoffrey Hemming had the bells ready. A well-struck course of Superlative at a deliberate open pace made a good start. A surprise visitor was Mr. L. W. G. Morris.

Pershore Abbey nearly provided a 'Waterloo.' After the perilous crossing to the airy confines of the famous ringing cage, the band had all their work cut out to ring this fine old Rudhall eight (tenor 28 cwt.). Skill having to give way to brawn caused striking to suffer.

For some reason striking was not up to expectations on the light ten at Stratford-on-Avon, where we met Mr. V. Hunt. A possible explanation was that the party tried to ring too slowly. London on the front six, however, went well, even the light end providing good bell music.

After tea and sightseeing at Stratford, some pleasant touches were rung on the light eight at All Saints', Leamington, and Mr. Burt welcomed the party. A hilly diversion was made to Burton Dassett only to find that the meeting there had just concluded, but an immense panorama was a rich reward.

REDENHALL AND DISS

Organised by Mr. William Flatt, the Redenhall and Diss ringers and friends, numbering 30, left Diss at 6.45 a.m. on July 17th for a tour in Essex. The first call was at Brentwood and the first 'touch' was 77 changes of Stedman Triples, rung to celebrate the 77th birthday of Mr. Clement J. More. Ringing followed at Romford and Hornchurch before lunch.

Chigwell Row and Barking were in the afternoon's programme, and after tea Woodford. The return journey was via Bishop's Stortford for supper. Home was reached about 1 a.m. after travelling 246 miles. Special thanks to Mr. W. Flatt and Mr. E. Whiting, Ringing Master.

A. G. H.

HUTTON, ESSEX

Hutton, Essex, ringers revisited Suffolk on July 17th and remained cheerful despite the weather.

Stratford St. Mary, on the border of Suffolk and Essex, was reached well before schedule, so we had 'elevenses' at the Swan Hotel before going to ring at the church. Unfortunately the Rector had considered our departure time to be our arrival times. Still, we just managed to take the bells up and let them down again and then we were off to Ipswich, where we rang for half an hour at St. Matthew's Church.

The afternoon was spent at Felixstowe, eating, drinking, walking through the rain and beholding the sea itself. Someone wondered who could have trodden on Felixstowe. A dry comment in a wet world! After tea we went across country to Hasketon Church. The tower here is partly cylindrical with a hexagonal top. The long rope draught also helped to give us the impression of standing at the bottom of a well. We were met by the Rector, the Rev. W. A. Gray, who made us welcome.

We arrived five minutes late at Grundisburgh, a picture-book village with a fine old church and ten musical-box bells, which we did our best to ring. Once again we were graciously welcomed at the church, this time by one of the local ringers, Mrs. C. W. Pipe.

Early in the day one of our friends boasted that the only thing he could ring was a dish-cloth. Opportunity certainly came his way!

E. M. B.

LAVENHAM

The SS. Peter and Paul's ringers, accompanied by their wives and friends, spent an enjoyable day in Kent on July 10th. Ringing took place at Gravesend, Milton, Chatham and Gillingham, with lunch and tea at the last two places respectively. Methods rung were Grandsire, Stedman, Plain, Kent and Oxford, Double Norwich and Superlative. The closing hour was given over to refreshments, handbell ringing and a selection of several airs by the Bell-chords Trio. Again, 'Thank you, Kent.'

BARNSLEY VISIT CHESTER

The annual outing took place on July 3rd when two bus loads containing 66 ringers and wives, sweethearts and friends visited Chester. The first call was at Altrincham, where a very nice breakfast was thoroughly enjoyed. Mr. K. C. Lewis met the party here and piloted them to Bowdon, a short distance away, where the local company had the bells up and were waiting to welcome the visitors. About an hour's ringing here was enjoyed very much.

At Chester the first item was lunch at the Bear and Billet. The ringers then set out by bus to ring at Eccleston, but owing to the driver taking the wrong turning it was a trip into North Wales, and although they eventually arrived at Eccleston it was too late to ring without upsetting the rest of the programme. Nevertheless we arrived at St. Mary-within-the-Walls on time and here the Vicar (the Rev. J. Kingdon) was waiting to welcome the party, and after climbing the ladders into the ringing chamber, good use was made of the bells. Tea was served at the Bear and Billet and all too soon came time for the journey home.

The weather was rather unkind on the first part of the journey but from early afternoon there was glorious sunshine, and boating on the River Dee was enjoyed by some of the party. 'A very happy outing.' was the unanimous verdict by all who participated.

OBITUARY

THOMAS W. ABBOTTS

The Solihull service band has sustained a great loss in the death of Thomas Abbotts, who lost his life in a motor-cycle accident on Wednesday, July 14th, while on holiday in Devon. Tom learned his ringing at Shirley, but for some years he had been attached to Solihull Parish Church, and had rung there regularly for service. He handled a heavy bell very well and rang a number of peals on six, eight and ten bells, his last peal being on the tenor to Stedman Caters a few months ago at Solihull.

He was a powerfully-built man, but his nature was a gentle one, and his good humour persisted in all sorts of circumstances. On the annual outing he was always excellent company and fell in with great goodwill with all the arrangements.

As a service ringer he was most valuable for he was reliable, punctual and conscientious. Everyone at Solihull will greatly miss his burly figure and his invariable good temper.

The funeral service was held at Shirley Church on Monday, July 19th. It was attended by all the Solihull ringers, by Mr. Albert Walker (Master of St. Martin's Guild) and other friends. Before the coffin left the church a course of Grandsire Triples was rung on handbells by Messrs. V. W. Rigg 1-2, A. Walker 3-4, E. C. Shepherd 5-6, C. Bragg 7-8, On Sunday, July 18th, the bells of Solihull Church were rung half-muffled to a quarter peal of Grandsire Caters by W. Leeson 1, C. Dale 2, A. Walker 3, A. Jones 4, T. Warner 5, E. C. Shepherd (conductor) 6, H. Bragg 7, J. Bragg 8, C. Bragg 9, V. W. Rigg 10. E. C. S.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Extract from 'The Ringing World,' July 31st, 1914

COLLEGE YOUTHS AND CUMBERLANDS AT CRICKET

The cricket match, which has been the chief topic of conversation among London ringers for weeks, was played on July 18th on Mitcham Green. The weather and everything else were perfect. . . . The Masters of the two Societies tossed for innings and Mr. T. Faulkner of the College Youths was successful. He put his team in to bat first, but, oh, what a fall there was. The Cumberland bowling was unplayable, and in a very short time the whole side was out for the low score of 31. When, however, the Cumberlands batted, history repeated itself, wicket after wicket falling quickly, and it was not until the last man was in that the winning hit was made. Then the last wicket fell, the Cumberlands having scored 33, winning by the narrow margin of two runs. The top scorer for the College Youths was H. Walton with 14, and for the Cumberlands R. Warner with 18. J. D. Matthews took six of the College Youths' wickets for 18 runs and D. Ellingham 4 for 8. The best analysis was secured by H. Wagstaff, who captured 6 Cumberland wickets for 7 runs.

[The College Youths' team was: Herbert Langdon (captain), Albert A. Hughes, Alfred W. Grimes, John W. Golding, A. S. Miller, Thomas Faulkner, Sedley J. Collins, E. Attwater, J. C. Adams, Harold J. Walton and H. Wagstaff. The Cumberlands were represented by: John D. Matthews (captain), his son Cecil J. Matthews, James Hunt, Richard N. Runham, Frank I. Hairs, D. Ellingham, Robert Warner, J. Armiger Trollope, Harold P. Burton, Thomas Jakeman and William Shimmans. The umpires were A. Walton and James Parker, and the scorers A. T. Miller and Miss Edith K. Parker. The ball was presented by Mr. Abraham G. Freeman of the Cumberlands, uncle of the famous Kent and England slow bowler, 'Tich' Freeman. Mitcham Green, where the match was played, is probably unique in that to obtain access to the pavilion from the field one has to cross a road.]

DEDICATION

ULCEBY, NORTH LINCS

A landmark in North Lincolnshire is the spire of St. Nicholas', Ulceby, as spires on churches are rare in North Lincs. In 1906 the five bells (four being 16th century and one 17th) were rehung in a steel girder frame by Alfred Bowell, and provision made for a sixth. The following year the fourth bell, dated 1583, cracked and a new bell was substituted.

Last August a life's ambition was realised when the parish was in a position to consult Mr. Paul Taylor, of Loughborough. He offered to supply a new treble and tune the existing ring (the bells being badly out of tune) conditional upon local work and transport to and from the foundry being provided.

Later it was found necessary to recast the old treble and the Parochial Church Council decided the rehang the bells on ball bearings. By gifts from the relatives of George Farrow and Laurence William Jordan (a former ringer) and public subscriptions the additional money has been quickly raised.

On July 6th the Humber Graving and Engineering Dock Company took delivery of the bells at Loughborough and by the following Saturday mid-day had completed the restoration in readiness for the dedication by the Lord Bishop of Lincoln on Sunday evening, July 11th.

The bells are dated as follows:—
Treble.—John Taylor and Co., 1953.
Second.—S. S. Ebor.* Recast John Taylor, 1954.
Third.—S. S. Ebor.
Fourth.—S. S. Ebor.
Fifth.—Alfred Bowell, 1907.
Tenor.—H. O., 1606.† (Weight 9¼ cwt.)

The handbells were thoroughly overhauled, some being recast.

Owing to extensive repairs necessary to the stonework, chiming only will be allowed for the time being.

*S. S. Ebor, Samuel Smith, York.
†H. O., Henry Oldfield.

JOINT MEETING AT TWICKENHAM

In spite of most unseasonable weather for a July afternoon the Middlesex County Association and Society of Royal Cumberland Youths held a most successful and enjoyable joint meeting at Twickenham on July 17th. The good octave at the Parish Church and the very fine ten at All Hallows' were available during the afternoon and evening.

All Hallows' is well known as being the successor of the old Church of All Hallows, Lombard Street, which church was pulled down before the late war and rebuilt to serve a new congregation at Twickenham. The bells were rehung by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, who recast the eighth and tenor, and the firm is to be congratulated on an excellent job.

About 30 members and friends, including a visitor from Fakenham, Norfolk, attended service at St. Mary's, conducted by the Rector of Twickenham.

An excellent tea was served to members in St. Mary's Hall, with the Rector acting as chairman. Through the kindness of the local ringers and their wives and friends, the charge for tea was purely nominal. Mr. F. W. Goodfellow, secretary of the South and West District of the Middlesex Association, welcomed the Cumberlands, and Mr. F. E. Hawthorne replied on behalf of the Society and proposed a hearty vote of thanks to all who had helped to make the meeting a success.

After tea those present returned to both towers and ringing continued at All Hallows' until 8 p.m. Methods up to Yorkshire Royal were successfully brought round during the afternoon and evening.

THE SUFFOLK GUILD

Saxmundham District

The summer meeting of the Saxmundham District held at Blaxhall and Tunstall was well attended with ringers coming from many districts including Bures and Needham Market. Seventeen members sat down to an enjoyable tea.

A short business meeting followed, when Mr. A. R. Bridges was elected District hon. secretary. Mr. J. Bailey proposed two new ringing members for the Suffolk Guild—Miss Margaret Cook and Mr. Bryan Lawrence—both having recently rung their first 720 Plain Bob Minor.

An appeal was made by the new secretary for more postal subscribers for 'The Ringing World. Mr. G. Berry proposed a vote of thanks for the use of the bells. The place of the next meeting was fixed for Kelsale and Saxmundham on October 9th.

Many methods were rung including Ipswich, Kent, Oxford, Stedman, Cambridge, Double Court and Plain Bob. R. R. B.

GUILD of DEVONSHIRE RINGERS

Mid-Devon Branch at Rattery

The Mid-Devon Branch held a quarterly meeting at Rattery on July 17th when, unfortunately, adverse weather conditions affected the attendance. Those who attended, however, were well rewarded as they were given a great welcome.

The bells were kept going to Grandsire, Stedman and Plain Bob Doubles during the afternoon, the visitors also having a good opportunity of ringing with the local ringers.

A service was later held in church conducted by the Rev. H. S. Patrick (Vicar), who gave an eloquent address. A move was afterwards made to the Village Hall where a sumptuous tea was much enjoyed, and this was followed by the usual business meeting with Mr. J. E. Lilley in the chair.

A letter was read from the general secretary regarding the appointment of a 'Ringing World' correspondent, and it was resolved that the Branch secretary should continue to deal with this for the present. It was decided to hold the Branch outing on September 11th and that the route be left in the hands of the Branch officials. Also, subject to the necessary permission being obtained, the next meeting is to be at Kingsteignton on October 23rd.

Hearty votes of thanks were accorded to the Vicar and parishioners of Rattery by the chairman, who complimented the parish on the excellent appearance of the church. Ringing afterwards took place at South Brent and Dean Prior. A. L. P.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD

Young Ringers at Wilton

The light sixes at Wilton (8 cwt.) and South Newton (9 cwt.) provided an opportunity for some of the youngest members to ring at the Salisbury Branch meeting on July 17th.

Susan Farmer (9½), probably the youngest member of the Salisbury Guild, rang the 2nd to rounds, as she very often does on Sundays. Christopher Kippin, from Southampton (10½), who was elected a junior member of the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild only the previous Saturday, rang Grandsire. Raymond Haines, of Wilton, is quite a veteran at 10, and even Hilary Kippin (8) was seen on the tail-end of a rope before the day was out.

The attendance, though not large, included visitors from Southampton in one direction, and Chirton in the other, and everyone had the chance of a practice at something unfamiliar, including a course of Cambridge.

The Rector of Wilton (the Rev. W. J. Drury) spared time in the middle of a Sunday School treat to take the Guild service, and Mr. S. Gregory kindly deputised for the organist, who was on holiday.

THE RINGING WORLD

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

No. 2261. Vol. L. FRIDAY, AUGUST 6, 1954 Registered at the G.P.O. for transmission as a newspaper 4d.

THE LIVING PICTURE

By EDGAR C. SHEPHERD

NOT too long ago there appeared in this journal a number of pen pictures of ringers of bygone days, written by men who had known and had been in personal contact with their subjects. In each short sketch the author sought not so much to outline the ringer's career as to create for us a living picture in which the man and his actions, his appearance, his sayings, his manner of ringing, should enable us to see him as he was. The sketches that appeared might have been the beginning of a fascinating series, and indeed it is not too late for some of our older comrades to put on record their personal recollections of men now gone from us.

It is not an easy task. Recollections that occur during a convivial hour and are easily spoken to an intimate circle of friends are not so easily written down with the conciseness and skill demanded by the pen portrait. Often, after great labour to create a picture, we find that we have succeeded only in producing an obituary notice or a bare chronicle of the man's performances.

It is remarkable, if not surprising, how little real knowledge we have of old-time ringers. Duckworth, Stedman, Monk, Annable, Scattergood, Holt and a host more notable people lived before the time when the camera could record, and no portrait of them seems to have survived to help us to picture them as they were. There hangs in Nottingham Castle a painting of William Doubleday Crofts, one of the most remarkable of the late 18th century ringers and composers. It shows a pleasant face, indeed a kindly one for a lawyer we may think, and this face looks out shrewdly and intelligently upon the beholder. But we know no more of Crofts, nor have we any vision at all of his contemporary John Martin, of Leicester, who seems by his writings to have had a very human and lively approach to ringing matters.

The doggerel verses of William Laughton, a most valuable survival, provide us with clues to Annable and his circle, and all the dissensions, disagreements, intrigues and schisms may here be traced, sometimes in their origins and almost invariably in their effects. Much of the character of each actor stands revealed, but much is missing. We may dress these folk in the costume of the period, walk them about London (or any other town) of the time, and still they are rather misty figures, a trifle unreal perhaps; and they have no faces.

John Day possibly came nearer than anyone has done to making his characters live, and even he does not always succeed. Thomas Thurstans, despite some considerable description, remains somewhat vague, whereas the quizzical Lates, with his spare figure, his inquiring forefinger, his rather dandified dress, and his ungainly attitude at the end of a rope, springs to life before us as we read. Cooper remains a dim figure, but the shifty Thomas Bingham is admirably etched in a few words, and Chattell we seem to know quite intimately. Some of the other contemporaries remain lay figures, but those whose description is supplemented by a photograph become in the reading real enough.

The photograph and (what is perhaps more important) the ringing journal have enabled us during the last sixty or seventy years to gain and retain a clearer picture of notable ringers. We know something of the physical appearance of Henry Johnson, Day, Perks and Snowdon, and of Pettit, Washbrook, Robinson and Carter; and the pictures of their scenes of activity have enabled us to fit them into their backgrounds.

There is still room, nevertheless, for the written word and the personal recollection. As we look at the picture of the worthy of the past we often feel that we should like to know what he said, what he thought, what he liked and disliked, and particularly what he was like in company away from the belfry. It is still in the power of many of our older ringers to record these things for all time, and we may not perhaps be counted too importunate in begging them to do so while there is yet opportunity.

FORTY YEARS AGO

From 'The Ringing World' of August 7th, 1914

LEICESTER RINGER'S WEDDING

On Saturday week a large number of ringers gathered at St. Margaret's Church, Leicester, to celebrate the wedding of Mr. Ernest Morris and Miss Edith Goodman. As the happy couple were leaving the church a touch of Grandsire Caters was rung on the grand old peal of ten. . . . A peal would have been attempted, but the go of the bells made this impossible. The following ringers took part:— Miss Martin, Messrs. A. J. Ballard, A. Ballard, H. Broughton, L. Allen, A. Martin, J. Morris, G. Cleal, S. Cotton, T. Taylor, F. H. Dexter, F. Shamforth, C. H. Fowler, C. Lock.

YORKSHIRE VISITED BY SUSSEX TOURISTS

THE first Sunday in July is here and we are off once again, this time Yorkshire. Leaving Crawley at 8 a.m. with the same coach that had taken us safely through five other tours, we travelled via Ealing, Hatfield to Tempsford for lunch, picking up friends en route at Marlborough House, Ilkley, our headquarters until Saturday. We were greeted by old friends, Mr. and Mrs. T. Roderick, of Porthcawl, and Mr. I. Slack, of Wakefield. It was early to bed after a 254 miles journey.

Monday.—Alan Hartley, of Thorner, joined the party. At Skipton we received a Yorkshire welcome from Mr. S. Scott and others. This well kept 11th century church, with its noted tomb of George III., has a fine octave. Stedman, Bob Major and Bristol were among the methods rung. Two veterans—Mr. E. Brown (verger) and Mr. I. Hodgson (tower secretary), who had been ringing at Giggleswick over 50 years—met us at this tower, where ringing is on the ground floor and the bells easy going. London was rung. An old Sussex ringer from Kirdford was met at lunch at the Hart's Head Hotel.

Ribblesdale, with its lovely scenery, was traversed to reach the industrial tower of Nelson, which was quiet, due to wakes week. The bells in its modern church are rather noisy (tenor 14 cwt.). Bob Major and Superlative were rung, with local ringers taking part. Todmorden, another modern church, given in Dove's book as being in Lancashire but really in Yorkshire, has a nice octave (tenor 23¼ cwt.). Here we were met by the Rev. H. W. Hodgson, Mr. Dove and Mr. R. Overy, of Sussex. It was a lighter coach that took us across the moors to Keighley, as Mr. Dove had taken seven to ring at Cross Stone. Mr. R. Bottomley joined us before ringing on the good octave (tenor 16 cwt.) at Keighley. Guiseley was the last tower for the day, a Norman church with its new bells by Gillett and Johnston, the stairs being very narrow and steep. We wondered if all would make it.

Tuesday found us with another young ringer, Margaret Barker. We reached St. Mary's, Beverley, before time, and we were able to inspect the 15th century panelled ceiling with its painted bosses of all the Kings and Queens of England, its latest being King George VI. We were greeted by the local ringers and the vice-president of the Minster ringers, who expressed his regret at our not being able to ring there owing to repairs. We all enjoyed ringing on this fine ten (tenor 34 cwt.) Stedman, Grandsire Caters and Treble Bob Royal. A thunderstorm was encountered on the journey to Bridlington Priory. Local ringers and Mr. G. Tomsett, of Scunthorpe, made us welcome on this nice Taylor ring. Tea and away across the wolds to York and Ilkley, stopping to watch a cricket match as a change from ringing.

Wednesday.—Ripon Cathedral was the first tower of the day with its Saxon crypt and a long climb to the bells. Stedman and Cambridge Royal were rung. A short visit was paid to the ruins of Fountains Abbey, where the handbell ringers came into their own by ringing a course of Triples under the massive roofless tower. Bedale bells were rehung in 1936, and they sound well in the church. We were met by the Rector and local ringers, Yorkshire being one of the methods rung. On again to the Wensleydale town of Middleham, with its grim castle, to be welcomed by the Rev. John G. Handwich. The belfry is small, but the bells good, and we would have liked to stay longer, but tea awaited us, a real Yorkshire one too! At Ilkley Church in the evening the first thing we wanted to see was the Jasper Snowdon window, put in by the ringers of England in 1887. The bells are a good octave.

Thursday.—An invitation from the Vicar and churchwardens to ring at Calverley, it being the eighth centenary of the church, was accepted. Great interest was taken in the peal boards with a peal of 'Rose of England' and 'Prince Albert Major' on them. Regret was expressed that we could not stay. Collingham (tenor 7 cwt.) has a very small ringing chamber, which we had to enter in teams of eight. Ringing was enjoyed on this pretty little ring. After lunch came York Minster, permission having been given by the Dean and Chapter. We were met by Mr. Harold Walker, President of the Minster ringers; a tour round and up the long climb to the ringing room. Rounds on the twelve bells the first time for some, Stedman and Grandsire Caters on the back ten and Cambridge on the middle eight were well rung and much appreciated. Wetherby, the only tower after tea, was again a small tower, with a nice octave. Yorkshire and Double Norwich were rung.

Friday was the day for our longest ride, to Kendal (Westmorland) with its fine five-aisle church. We were welcomed by Mr. Beaumont, the verger, and other ringers. Bob Royal, Treble Bob and Cambridge Royal were rung. A climb through the mountains brought us to Crosthwaite Church, Cumberland, to be greeted by the Rev. Gordon D. Jackson, himself a ringer, and Mr. J. Browharris. Ringing here is on the ground floor, with a long draught. The bells by Mears were soon going to Grandsire, Little Bob, London and Superlative. The church, at the foot of the mighty Skiddaw, was founded in A.D. 553 by St. Kentigern, from whence it takes its name. There is a tradition that there has never been a shortage of ringers, which today is still maintained by the help of lady ringers. A small 14th century bell is to be seen. We overstayed our time, being loath to leave this lovely spot, but tea and a long run home over the mountains and through the valleys via Penrith had to be done.

Saturday. — Good-byes said and hopes expressed that we would come again, we left for Selby Abbey, a gem of a building founded in 1069. Ringing was much enjoyed on this fine ten, Stedman Caters, Bob Royal, Cambridge and Bristol being well rung. Lunch and away to the Minster of St. Peter, Howden, a lovely ring by Gillett and Johnston. The church is a fine example of architecture. Newark was reached for tea. Afterwards some of the local ringers led the way to Southwell Minster, as we could not have Newark bells. Looking up at the ringing gallery we wondered how we should do on this lovely old ring by Rudhall, 1771 (tenor 28¾ cwt.). The bells go the wrong way and ropesight is not easy. Wes were told we did very well. Mr. L. M. Woodhead, hon. secretary of Selby and District, paid us a visit on our return to the hotel, and a course on the handbells was rung for his benefit.

Sunday.—We left Newark early to enable us to reach Oakham, Rutland, in time to ring for morning service and to take some part in this service, a fitting ending, some thought, to a week of ringing. Lunch at Wellingborough and the last church was found, Irchester, Northants, where the Vicar had put forward the children's service to enable us to ring. We finished with a well struck course of Superlative. Good-byes now had to be said to Mr. and Mrs. T. Roderick. We had travelled 1,236 miles, climbed 966 steps, rung 15,515 changes in 20 methods, from rounds to Surprise, rung in 23 towers in seven counties. Our thanks must go to the various incumbents and others for their kindness and help, which will long be remembered. F. E. W.

Before leaving Ilkley, Reg. Johnson, on behalf of the party, presented Miss Wyman with useful presents as a small token of our regards and thanks for arranging this glorious week. Few of us realise the months of preparation required, the hundreds of letters, the difficulties encountered in arranging the ringing and catering, the disappointments when old friends are unable to come, and it must be with feelings of thanks and satisfaction to Miss Wyman when we come to the end of such a tour. We have now been to Devon and Cornwall, North Wales, the Wye Valley, Derbyshire and Yorkshire. Here's to our next.

HOLIDAY PEAL AT COMBE MARTIN

Advantage was taken of several ringers visiting the neighbourhood to ring a peal at Combe Martin on July 28th, the only tower in North Devon where change ringing is regularly practised.

After a short prayer in the belfry, conducted by the Rector, the Rev. F. E. Lovell, a good peal was rung. The band consisted of two from Ross-on-Wye, two from Barking, one from Birmingham and three from the local tower, one of whom, D. Kenvyn Walters, rang his first peal at his first attempt.

The visitors express their thanks to Miss B. M. Boyle, the local secretary, for making the arrangements at very short notice, the Rector for giving permission to ring, and also to Mr. L. Walters, the local ringing master, for so readily standing down when nine turned up for the peal.

Thank you, Combe Martin. Yours indeed was a real Devonshire welcome! D. W. B.

JULY 17th WILL BE REMEMBERED BY THOSE ON OUTINGS

BRISTOL RINGERS GO TO BERKSHIRE

On July 17th the St. Ambrose Guild of Ringers and friends had their annual outing, and despite the rather indifferent weather, a very happy and successful tour was enjoyed by all. Promptly at 7.40 a.m. the coach left St. Ambrose's Church and by the time it got under way, it was loaded to capacity with 41 ringers and friends.

The first stop was the Cotswold town of Burford, where morning coffee was served, after which ringing was enjoyed on the very nice eight. Before ringing at St. Mary's, Banbury, we visited Mr. C. Jarvis, at Home Farm, Balscote, and enjoyed the unique experience on his ring of six, which were very tricky. Having gone somewhat out of our way to find Home Farm, it curtailed the time allotted here, and we had to hurry back to Banbury, where a double wedding was in progress, after which some good ringing was enjoyed on this lively ten.

Lunch was partaken of at Banbury, after which a move was made to Abingdon, via Oxford. The party was met at Abingdon by Mr. A. E. Lock and ringing was enjoyed before tea on the handy six at St. Nicholas', and, after tea, at St. Helen's, where Grandsire and Stedman Caters and a course of Bob Royal were rung. The clerk of the weather was not on his best behaviour whilst we were at Abingdon, and the rain stopped some of the party enjoying a trip on the river.

A start was made on the homeward way at 7 p.m., having arranged to stop at Blunsdon for a ring on the light six, where the Vicar of St. Ambrose's (Rev. H. M. W. Hocking), who has recently come to Bristol from Madron, Cornwall, showed his ringers that he could ring in the good old Cornish style. Supper was held at the Coldharbour Inn, when we had the pleasure of the company of Mr. and Mrs. Trueman. The usual votes of thanks were made and the secretary thanked for the excellent arrangements. The final move was made for home at 10 p.m., Bristol being reached at about 11.30 p.m.

MAIDSTONE AND DISTRICT OUTING

Appropriately, the first stop of the Maidstone and District's 275 miles tour of Sussex on July 17th was East Grinstead, dedicated to St. Swithin!

At Slaugham the special method for the day —Trinity Court Bob Major — was attempted, but not brought round successfully until Arundel was reached. After a sandwich lunch, Littlehampton was visited. Hopes of a bathe were dispelled by the rain and diversity was found at the fun fair.

At Arundel a course of Grandsire Triples was rung by the ladies who are soon to be members of the new Kent branch of the Ladies' Guild. Bristol was also rung.

After tea at the White Hart Hotel, Dr. Hatcher thanked Mr. Reg Sills for organising the tour and welcomed visitors from the Tonbridge District. They were fortunate in having as driver Mr. Fred Huckstepp, a prominent ringer from the Ashford District.

Washington, the only six bell tower, was visited, where Grandsire Doubles and Single Oxford, Double Court, St. Clement's and Cambridge Surprise Minor were rung. The last tower was Fairwarp, where the special method was again rung; also Double Norwich and Yorkshire Surprise.

Sandwiches and drinks were enjoyed at the local inn before the homeward journey, during which hymns were sung from the back seat, closing with 'Unchanging God.'

ST. ALBANS ABBEY

The Abbey ringers, with their wives and friends, had a very enjoyable day in and beyond the Cotswolds on July 10th. The fine 12 at Painswick were visited in the morning, where Stedman Cinques was rung to everyone's satisfaction. After ringing and lunch in Cheltenham, the glorious Norman Abbey of Tewkesbury was visited. Tea was in Evesham, followed by ringing on the magnificent modern 12 in the bell tower.

During part of the day the party had the pleasure of the company of their old friends, Mr. and Mrs. John Thomas.

G. D.

NEWTON ST. CYRES

The Newton St. Cyres' ringers held their annual outing on June 26th. The first tower was Bridestowe, the next Lifton, where a new Church Hall was to be dedicated the same day. Then they went on to North Petherwin, where everyone was delighted to find such a beautiful church and as fine a ring of six as one could wish. St. Mary Magdalene's, Launceston, was visited next, then on to Stoke Climsland. The last tower, after coming through Gunnislake and some very fine scenery, was Emmanuel, Plymouth, where, after tea, some of the best ringing of the day was enjoyed.

The party were delighted with the way the eight learners acquitted themselves, especially their striking in Grandsire Triples on strange bells.

ST. MARY'S, EASTBOURNE

Spirits were undampened, despite the fact that July 17th was the wettest day of the year, when St. Mary's, Eastbourne, had their annual outing The day's ringing started at Rolvenden, and the excellent eight at Folkestone worked up a good appetite for lunch.

The ten at Leeds provided a new experience for some of the younger ringers. The rain abated here and the non-ringers took the opportunity of walking across the fields to see the old moated castle.

Tea was arranged at Maidstone. The bells of Linton were the last to be rung, but the ringers were still not satisfied that their arts had been completed, so a little country pub was found where refreshments were enjoyed to the ringing of handbells. Later a coachload of happy people arrived back in Eastbourne — certainly not under the weather.

RADYR, GLAMORGAN

In spite of the wretched weather conditions a wonderful day of ringing and good fellowship was enjoyed by ringers of Christ Church, Radyr, for their second annual outing on July 17th.

Mustering at the Pier Head, Cardiff, the party of 35 embarked on the pleasure steamer 'Britannia' for Weston-super-Mare, which was reached at 10 a.m. A hot lunch at the Victoria Hotel was most acceptable. From 2-3 p.m. some excellent ringing was enjoyed at St. John's Church, where local ringers made the visitors welcome.

A specially chartered coach took the party to Banwell, where 'the freedom of the tower' was granted the party for one hour. The next move was to the Valley Hotel, Cheddar for an excellent high tea and then to the church. With the assistance of local ringers some 'very classical' ringing was enjoyed. All too soon came 7.15 and the return journey home.

Mr. Trevor Dewis, the Radyr captain, was in charge of the day's ringing, and welcome guests included Messrs. W. Heath and F. Hannington (St. John's, Cardiff), F. Rowsell (Llantrisant) and H. Cassell (Llanbradach).

ST. MARGARET'S, RAINHAM

Accompanied by ringing friends from Sittingbourne, Borden, Bobbing, Upchurch and Chatham, St. Margaret's, Rainham, held their annual outing on July 17th, starting in a downpour of rain.

St. Mary's, Westerham, and Bletchingley, where they were met by Mr. Wren, was the morning's programme. Lunch was provided at the Locomotive Hotel, Redhill, and about 3 p.m. the party was ringing at Epsom. Ringing at Kingston was postponed until after tea on account of the local market. Here rounds were rung upon this well-known ten by the younger members, and also Stedman and Grandsire Caters. Thanks are due to local members who greeted the visitors.

Owing to West Wickham bells being out of action through woodworm in the timber of the belfry, the last ring of the day was at St. Mary's, Hayes, a nice six except for the noise, which beats down into the tower. The thanks of the visitors are due to Mr. A. S. Richards for obtaining these bells. After a short break for refreshments on the homeward journey, Rainham was reached at 10.30 p.m. Despite the weather, the day proved to be very enjoyable.

BEVERLEY & DISTRICT SOCIETY

AT the invitation of the Rev. G. Storer, R.D., the Society held its eighth annual meeting at Hutton Cranswick on July 10th. It was also the fourth anniversary of the dedication of the bells hung in the tower of St. Peter's Church, Hutton Cranswick, in 1950. The bells, a fine ring of six (tenor 18¼ cwt.), were raised at 2.30 o'clock in the afternoon, and standard methods were rung including Plain Bob, Kent, Cambridge and Stedman.

The service was conducted by the Rev. G. Storer, who, in his address, said it had been noticed that fewer members now attended the monthly meetings, and this might perhaps be a symptom of weariness, of caution, of fatigue creeping over the Society. Members should neither forget to be zealous nor join in the popular attitude of reducing obligations and duties to a minimum, or the craving for change. The cure for drift was to take the offensive.

The president, Mr. A. E. Sellers, presided at the annual meeting which followed tea. The following officers were elected:—President, Mr. A. E. Sellers; vice-president, Mr. G. Braithwaite; Ringing Master, Mr. L. Rodmell; Assistant Ringing Master, Mr. C. Barker; general committee, Messrs. A. Taylor, F. Wilkinson, H. Parker and F. W. Dale and Miss P. Duffill; hon. secretary and treasurer, Mr. T. Southwick. Mr. F. W. Dale did not seek re-election as vice-president and a resolution of thanks for his past services was passed.

Mr. F. Talbot was elected a member of the Society. It was decided to hold the September meeting at Patrington.

A resolution proposed by Mr. G. Braithwaite that all members of the general committee were expected to attend at least 33 per cent. of the monthly meetings was not carried.

A vote of thanks to the Rev. G. Storer, the organist and local ringers was proposed by Mr. C. R. Robinson and seconded by Mr. F. W. Dale.

Further ringing at the church concluded the meeting.

BERKSWELL, WARWICKS.—On May 30th, 1,260 Plain Bob Minor: Miss M. M. Middlemiss 1, Miss D. M. Palmer (first quarter 'inside') 2, A. R. Barrett 3, H. M. Windsor 4, G. Smith 5, D. Harrison (cond.) 6. Rung for the Empire youth service.

LATE NEWS

We regret to report the death on July 26th of Mr. John W. Best, of Chester, aged 46 years.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Forty-seven members from 12 universities are attending the Universities' Association ringing week at Hereford from August 13th to August 21st. The programme includes visits to 38 towers and eight peal attempts. Headquarters are at the Hereford Training College. Mr. W. F. Moreton is the organiser.

We regret to hear that Mr. C. A. Purnell, the popular secretary of the Radyr (Glam.) tower, is in hospital, his admission taking place a few days before the tower's outing. We wish him a speedy recovery.

The hon. secretary of the Central Council acknowledges with grateful thanks a donation of £10 given by a lady in memory of her late husband. This has been placed to 'The Ringing World' account.

Canon C. E. Last has joined the list of clerical ringers by ringing a quarter peal in his own tower at Bletchley. He is the first rector of this parish to ring a quarter peal before service with his own ringers in this tower.

We note that there are handbell enthusiasts at Sherburn-in-Elmet, Yorks, who rang 1,560 Plain Bob Doubles. They were Miss D. Margaret Hawley, E. M. Bradley and A. Sheppard (conductor). We hope they will soon be reporting a peal 'in hand.'

In connection with the peal at Tarring, Sussex, it is interesting to note that these bells were recast and made into a ring of six 100 years ago and have not been touched by the bellhangers since that date. According to old records, they were originally a ring of five and a sanctus bell inscribed 'Sancta Haterma Ora Pro Nobis.' This bell was sold to a gentleman in Wales for a Roman Catholic chapel. The other five were melted down in the Whitechapel Foundry and the present ring of six turned out.

July 22nd was a red-letter day at Fletton, where the bells were augmented from four to five in 1952. A new band was formed and was taught to handle a bell and ropesight by Mr. R. Pattrick. This band, with the assistance of Mr. J. W. Haw, rang its first quarter on July 22nd. From Plain Bob the ringers are now proceeding to Grandsire for their Tuesday practices.

Mrs. C. W. Lawton, of Sutton Lane Ends, near Macclesfield, has been appointed 'Ringing World' representative for the Macclesfield and Congleton Branch of the Chester Diocesan Guild, and Mr. A. S. Richards, of 6, Links Road, West Wickham, for the Lewisham District, K.C.A.

The rehanging of the tenor bell at Buckley, Chester, has created renewed interest in the bells. People have asked to see them and ringing in progress. The local Toc H paid a visit to the belfry and were afterwards given a short lecture at their headquarters by Mr. Dennis H. B. Millward.

Aldrington (Sussex) ringers wish to express their appreciation of the loyalty and progress shown by 16-year-old Valerie Mepham, who is shortly to leave the district to take up a farming career. Valerie has rung a peal, 29 Sunday service quarter peals (conducted one), 'circled the tower' three times for quarters and is regular twice every Sunday and on practice nights.

Friends of Mr. A. L. Barry, Master of the Gloucester and Bristol Association, will be sorry to hear that he has been ill for the last five weeks and has now been admitted to the Gloucester Royal Hospital to undergo an operation. Newly elected to the Central Council, it was a bitter disappointment to him that he could not attend the meeting at Newcastle. We wish him a speedy recovery.

PEAL RINGING IN CHESHIRE

By the Rev. K. W. H. FELSTEAD

CHESHIRE will probably be one of the most interesting counties to write about from the peal ringing point of view. Not only are some of the most accomplished of present-day ringers living there now, but this has been the case for over 100 years. Before the period these articles are primarily concerned with (1881 onwards), Cheshire was a centre of flourishing change ringing, and one or two towers in particular enjoyed greater popularity than they have done in the past 70 years—Hyde and Mottram-in-Longdendale come especially to mind. Not only in numbers of peals, but also in new and difficult methods and record lengths has this county been to the forefront of the Exercise, so that it will be difficult to find space to say all that should be said. Local readers must not mind if anything is left out which they consider ought to be put in.

The activity in peal ringing is reflected by the fact that Cheshire is among the counties which have the least number of towers still to 'conquer' with a peal. Only eight out of the 109 churches with bells have not had a peal rung at them. In proportion to numbers, Lancashire, Leicestershire, Surrey and Sussex alone can beat this. It is, then, rather surprising to find that there are a ring of 10 and two rings of 8 in this list. Usually the 6 and 5-bell towers are the last to be visited for a peal. As far as I can discover, the 10 bells of Dunham Massey are the only 10 in the country never to have been rung to a peal.* St. Andrew's, Norwich, has not had a peal for over 100 years, but there were a few (including the first ever of London Surprise Major) from 1823 to 1843. The two 8-bell towers are Bredbury and Winsford. There must be something unusual at these places for them to have been left out. The remaining five un-pealed rings consist of two with 6 bells—both in Chester (St. Michael and St. Peter), and three with 5 bells—Little Budworth, Heswall and Overchurch (or Upton).

There is a clear indication that there is greater activity at churches with the higher number of bells at the moment and that peals at the 6-bell towers are declining. Even Coronation year did not seem to have much effect on the latter, for many of them show several peals after the war up to 1951 or 1952, but none since. Examples are Aldford, Backford, Bosley, Eastham, Knutsford, Marbury, Marple, Rostherne, Wallasey St. Nicholas and Wrenbury. But more about the 6-bell towers later. As far as the higher numbers go, more peals are being rung at them, on the whole, than at any other period. Thus at the only 12-bell tower in the county, Macclesfield St. Michael, 17 peals out of its total of 47 have been rung since the war. Before that, 21 peals were rung there between 1886 and 1913 and nine between 1924 and 1938. Three of the five active 10-bell churches tell a similar story. Chester Cathedral has heard 18 peals since 1945. Its total is 49—15 between 1882 and 1914 and 16 from 1924 to 1939 (the bells were augmented in 1937). Crewe has the largest number of peals among the 10-bell towers—71. Eighteen are since the war. There was an active period here between 1919 and 1932, when 27 peals were scored. Macclesfield Christ Church is the most active of all, however. Its total now is 51, but only 14 of these had been rung prior to 1945. Of course, it was an 8-bell tower then, and had a very short period in the limelight between 1929 and 1933, when 13 of these peals were rung. The only previous one was in 1912. We have not heard much about the remaining two 10-bell towers, both at Stockport. Thirty-eight peals have been rung at St. George's since 1896 (only three since the war). St. Mary's first peal was in 1883, its last in 1938, and there are 27 in all.

FOUR OUTSTANDING EIGHT BELL TOWERS

When we come to the 8-bell towers, we find four are outstanding in this period. One of these has passed the 200 mark—Norbury (Hazel Grove) with 210. At one time this was one of the most famous 6-bell towers in the country and a pioneer of Spliced Minor ringing. Forty-three peals had been rung on the six bells before they were augmented in 1925, and the height of achievement was reached in 1923, when a peal in 35 methods was rung. It still retained its popularity after 1925, and a further 95 peals were rung before the Second World War. These included the first peal of Clarendon Surprise and peals of Spliced Surprise Major. After the war, the number of peals here has been greater than ever—72 in the ten years, and there has been a corresponding achievement in the heights reached, for they include peals in many different Surprise methods and one of Spliced Surprise in 16 methods. Much more could be said of this famous tower. Frodsham is not far behind in numbers—183 have been rung there. Actually, more peals have been rung here since the war than at Hazel Grove—81. Although the first peal here is prior to that at Hazel Grove (1896 as compared with 1900), it did not come into prominence until 1919, but then 70 peals were rung in the next ten years. Interest must have waned somewhat in the 30's, for only 20 were rung in that period. A large variety of Surprise methods have been rung here, too.

Then comes Pulford. This was also a 6-bell tower 70 years ago and was quite popular as such, for 15 of its 173 peals were rung between 1887 and 1902. It increased in popularity with its eight bells, and 39 peals were scored between 1903 and 1913. Seventy-four were rung between 1919 and 1939 and there have been 45 since the war. The fourth tower is Chester, St. Mary-within-the-Walls, where 163 peals have been rung. Twenty-three have come since the war, but the main achievements here were in the periods 1901-14 and 1919-29, when 106 of the peals were rung, including the first of Double Grandsire, Double Oxford Bob and St. Clement's Bob before 1914 and Belgrave Surprise in 1926. The only two other towers to have recorded more than 100 peals in the 70 years are the two mentioned above, where ringing has been popular for more than 100 years—Hyde and Mottram. Hyde has 112 and Mottram 107. As is to be expected, both record more peals at the beginning of the period than later on, although the former has 15 and the latter nine since the war. Thus 50 of Mottram's total were rung in the 1880's and only 12 in the 20 years from 1919 to 1939. Hyde had 51 between 1882 and 1897, 17 from 1905 to 1911 and 28 from 1920 to 1936. They both show gaps of several years like this when no peals were rung.

LONG LENGTHS

Mottram can also claim fame for long lengths of Kent Treble Bob Major; 16,608 were rung in 1883 and 16,800 in 1906. Actually, in 1922, 18,240 were rung, but the composition was found to be false, unfortunately. The record for this method rests with another Cheshire tower—Over, with 17,280 in 1923. Although there have only been 34 peals rung at this church (half since the war), Over will always remain famous for being the venue of the longest peal ever rung in any method—21,600 Bristol Surprise Major, in November, 1950, an achievement which is unlikely to be surpassed for a very long time, if ever. Apart from the two peal-less towers, only three other 8-bell churches have not had a peal at them since the war. They are Gawsworth, West Kirby and Neston. Many of the others are having peals rung at them to a greater extent than at any time in their history. No tower not already mentioned is, however, nearing a milestone.

Finally, a few words about the 6-bell towers. As I have already stated, interest in these appears to be slackening off at the moment, with a corresponding increase in activity on the higher numbers. However, five are worthy of note, having a good number of peals for 6-bell towers. The highest is Wistaston with 77. This has done consistently well since the first peal there in 1921, and has averaged three peals each ringing year since (the last was in 1952, however, and supports the remarks made above). Disley comes next with 64. Its history starts in 1901, and there have been lean periods, but 26 peals were rung between 1930 and 1939, and there have been 22 since the war, but it is over a year (as I write) since the last one was rung. Sutton is third on the list with 55. The first peal here was rung in 1903, but it did not really 'get going' until 1929, for only two more were rung in the meantime. In the next ten years, however, 28 peals were rung and a further 21 since 1943, including one this year. Stretton has reached 51. First peal 1896, then a gap until 1922, when 24 peals were rung in the next five years. Nineteen have been rung since 1945. Lastly, Davenham, where the next peal will be the 50th. This tower, too, had its first peal in 1896, with a gap from 1899 to 1925. Since the war it has been very popular, and 30 peals have been rung—the best years being 1949 and 1950.

May Cheshire long continue to give such an excellent lead to the Exercise!

* Since writing this, I have discovered that a peal of Kent Treble Bob Royal was rung here on February 20th, 1874.

Another Ringing School

St. Lawrence School, Ramsgate, must be added to the list of ringing schools. We have received a picture of a cheerful group of seven youngsters with their instructors, Mr. S. W. Edwards, head gardener at the College, and Mr. J. H. G. W. Green.

The Vicar of St. Lawrence kindly allows the scholars the use of the bells at the Parish Church, and on most Sunday mornings during the last two terms the boys have rung the bells for morning service to rounds and call changes. The class is now learning change ringing.

We are looking forward to publishing the first quarter from the school.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

MANAGEMENT OF 'THE RINGING WORLD'

Dear Sir,—Happily there is growing assurance that ringers are concerned for 'The Ringing World,' the idea of local representatives finding encouraging support. It is in this spirit that I venture some remarks setting out from the topical issue of the Editor's postbag.

We write to the Editor for many reasons, often wishing our names to be associated with what is said. If it should go with a reputation for originality and enterprise, the appendage of a signature may perhaps better the chance of publication. But sometimes anonymity is desirable, and provided editorial standards are reached there is no reason for withholding publication. Of this the Editor is judge and in law is held responsible.

Recent decisions in committee and in Council are, therefore, contrary to accepted practice; first the ban on anonymous letters, and then the reference of all letters, signed and anonymous, to 'The Ringing World' Committee who are, involuntarily, required to trespass into editorial preserve. Not unnaturally the committee are reviewing this unexpected development which at once raises the question of its terms of reference.

Put concisely, its members constitute a management committee. But what of its relations with the Editor? Isn't it rather like the members of a Local Education Authority and a headmaster? Surely then, just as a school has its Governors, a group of disinterested persons charged with safeguarding its various interests, should there not be a like body for 'The Ringing World' in order to complete the best setup for its conduct? For all types of institutions do this, learned societies, hospitals, research institutes, the B.B.C., 'The Times,' and so forth.

What is visualised is a small group appointed under the auspices of the Central Council, but acting together in its own right, which would be the guardian for all we treasure and hold good in our journal. It would be this body which would consider reports from the management committee, the Editor and others, and the consequent removal from Whit-Tuesday's long agenda would clearly be advantageous. Furthermore, the Council would be free to exert a much more effective influence.

As for initiating such a scheme, the division of function involved would best be achieved by winding up the present 'Ringing World' Committee before appointing the two separate bodies, the valuable services of its members doubtlessly being continued. Meanwhile, the affairs of our journal should be carried on as hitherto.

Ultimately, any course of action involves the trust of the many in the efforts of the few. Among the few the Editor holds a central place, and our best expression of appreciation for all he does for us is the confidence which we are pleased to place in him, beginning at his postbag.—Yours sincerely,

E. S. JOHN HATCHER.

Ditton, Maidstone.

TWO MISSING VOLUMES

Dear Sir,—As a result of my advertisement a few months ago and also through the generosity of a kind friend, I now have a set of 'Ringing Worlds' with the exception of four volumes. Before advertising for these, I should be grateful for any information about two of them. The volumes I have from 1912 to 1929 originally belonged to Mr. Frank Romaine, of Salisbury, but two volumes are missing from the series—1921 and 1922. It seems almost certain they must exist somewhere, and I should be most grateful if anyone can give me any information concerning their whereabouts. They have a dark green binding with 'Ringing World' at the top and the year at the bottom, each between double lines, the lettering in gold. Even if the present owner has no desire to part with them, I should be pleased to learn where they are. At some time in the future it may be possible for them to return to their original companions.—Yours faithfully,

K. W. H. FELSTEAD.

Southampton.

GOOD COPY

Sir,—The opening paragraph of Mr. Spears' letter is not entirely correct. The composition of Stedman Triples which he quotes is the equal two-part with only two singles by W. G. Slack, and this is the only composition on the plan.

In an article dealing with the history of Stedman, Mr. Trollope in 1938 stated that a composition on this plan was impossible.

Mr. Trollope was an historian of ringing without peer or equal in the annals of ringing, and any student of ringing history may be at a loss to understand why an historian of his class objected to the publication of a composition which was a landmark in the history of the method.

I am certain that Mr. Trollope had not a free hand, and the reasons for the objection to publication by the Editor were as follows: (a) The cost of setting, (b) The composition was so difficult that few conductors would trouble with it, (c) The Editor, Mr. Goldsmith, was of the opinion that after the composition had been called it would remain a museum piece.

That inveterate seeker after difficult compositions, Maurice Hibbert, succeeded in calling the composition in September, 1938, and described it 'The Holt's Original of Stedman.' The Editor's description one may find in the issue of September 9th, 1938.—Yours, etc.,

EDWIN JENNINGS.

Braintree, Essex.

BERWICK CURFEW

Dear Sir,—As my sisters passed through Berwick-on-Tweed recently they heard the curfew bell rung from the Town Hall slowly, like the measured beat of a clock striking. Can any reader inform me if this curfew is tolled or just tapped?

Berwick bells were presented to the Town Hall by the same donor who gave Morpeth its famous Watch Tower ring.—Yours sincerely,

JENNIE ARMSTRONG (MISS).

Morpeth.

PROPAGANDA

Dear Sir,—For a number of years now it has been my lot to move about the country in the summer time, and when I go I always take with me a number of back numbers of 'The Ringing World.' Invariably, I find some locality where the paper is very little known. I leave a copy in the belfry or pass one on to someone who is apparently interested. I don't know whether my efforts have borne fruit or not, but I think it may be a means of extending the circulation. Perhaps ringers going on holidays would like to follow suit. — Yours, etc.,

PETER CROOK.

Bolton.

KNARESBOROUGH BELLS

Dear Sir,—The tower of the fine old church at Knaresborough is quite safe, and the bells were a fine ring of eight cast in 1774 by Messrs. Pack and Chapman, of London, and are now finer still since Messrs. Taylor retuned the back six, recast the trebles and rehung the bells (tenor 18 cwt. 1 qr. 15 lb. in E) in an iron frame, in 1925.

For several years now the bells have not been rung on account of the ringers' misconduct and their dismissal by a former stupid Vicar. By dismissing the ringers and not appointing others in their place, he deliberately robbed the parishioners and neighbours of their heritage. If the clergy who detest bells were honest, they would not accept a living where there was a ring of bells.

The unsafe tower business is just a parson's gag. On New Year's Day, 1916, I had the pleasure of ringing with two bands of ringers at the opening of a fine ring of six bells at one of these unsafe towers. The church was Crofton (three bells), but when a gentleman gave three larger bells, tenor 15¼ cwt., and Taylor's supplied them, the tower at once became safe.—Yours faithfully,

F. ATKINSON.

THE NEW GENERATION AT GLASGOW

Dear Sir,—Our latest recruit is nine years old Sheila Watson. In order to reach the sally of the six cwt. treble, Sheila, who is only 4ft. 5in. in height, has to borrow the box from the ninth. We hope she grows quickly!

With Penelope Darnell and Charles Sargent, both 13 years of age, and Penelope's elder sister Mary, we now have the nucleus of a new generation of ringers at St. Mary's Cathedral, Glasgow. Until such time as these youngsters gain more experience we will be limited in our Sunday service ringing, but we hope soon to have these glorious ten bells ringing out again to Grandsire and Stedman Caters, the best of all ten bell music.

Visitors to Glasgow will be welcome on Sundays for service ringing from 5.40 to 6.30 p.m., and on Tuesdays from 7.30 to 9 p.m., but I would remind intending visitors that they should inquire for St. Mary's Cathedral, near Kelvinbridge Underground Station, Great Western Road, and not for Glasgow Cathedral or The Cathedral. The last two are the names by which the Presbyterian Church of St. Mungo is generally known; it is two miles from St. Mary's and has no ring of bells.—Yours faithfully,

E. BOUMPHREY.

LETTERS—Continued

UNSAFE TOWERS AND BELLS

Dear Sir,—May I add further to what Mr. R. H. Dove has written in 'The Ringing World' of July 16th?

Several cases parallel to Knaresborough can be pin-pointed in this and adjoining counties.

Ketton, Rutland, is one! Here six bells (tenor 11 cwt.) were rehung some years ago by Messrs. Taylor, and later, through bias, an Ellacombe apparatus put in with the excuse 'that the spire wasn't safe,' although over 30 years have passed and nothing done to make it 'safe.' Thirty years to be unsafe is a long time.

A few years ago the fine ring of eight bells at Oakham were hung unrung for the same excuse—I won't say reason for it later proved not to be a reason. A parishioner paid for an independent architect to prove this. Oakham bells have been rung ever since.

Barnack, near Peterborough, is another parallel—tower safe enough for Messrs. Taylor to add a tenor to this minor five in 1935. A new rector comes on the scene and no ringing—tower 'supposed not to be safe' ever since. A few miles from there, Castor bells were for some years unrung for the same reason—a prejudiced resident in turn influenced both the diocesan architect and the then vicar.

Another wasted ring is the eight bells at Easton Neston, near Towcester. The lady of this village disliked bells, although relatives restored and augmented these several years previously. Ropes were removed and an Ellacombe apparatus put in. Church Langton, Leics, with a similar eight, I believe is an identical case.

Prejudice of a like nature has for many years prevented any restoration and augmentation of three bells (tenor only 7 cwt.) at Abington—a large wealthy parish suburb of Northampton. A west end tower with walls thicker than those of the central tower of St. Edmund's, Northampton, with eight bells (tenor 18 cwt.). The excuse at Abington has been for years 'the tower won't stand bells.' When one asks for positive proof, the excuse is given that the roots of a tree (destroyed 20 years ago) near the tower are under the foundations, making two additional light trebles, even, to the present three, impossible. This story, after seeing Surfleet, is the limit in the extreme. Abingdon tower is perfectly upright!

Goebbels it was, I believe, who once said, 'If you keep on telling a lie enough times, it eventually becomes the accepted thing.'

Mr. Dove's final paragraph I feel sure will bear repeating:—'The excuse that the tower is unsafe can be a cover for idleness or indifference—sometimes for deliberate dishonesty. It should never be eccepted without question nor, if possible, a personal examination.'—Yours sincerely,

P. AMOS.

Weston Favell, Northants.

THIRTEEN-FEET CLOCK PENDULUMS

Dear Sir,—The Rev. A. J. Nixseaman may be interested to note that the turret clock of the parish church of the Holy Cross, Caston, Norfolk, has a pendulum which is slightly over thirteen feet in length from its suspension.

The clock bears the inscription: 'The Rev. Augutus Sutton, Rector of West Tofts, constructed this clock for the parishioners of Caston and set it up in this church tower 31st day of July, 1854.'—Yours faithfully,

W. M. MANN.

Attleborough, Norfolk.

PLAIN BOB TRIPLES

Dear Sir,—Before the Bob Triples controversy is wound up may I comment on the Council's ruling?

Whether Plain Bob on odd numbers is of value or no is beside the point. Whether or not we ring it is also of no importance. The issue is whether four blows consecutively in one place are permissible. The Central Council says 'No'—to Plain Bob Triples!

So far I have seen little mention of Bob Caters or Cinques, and to ring Bob Doubles or Kent Treble Bob is quite in order.

'What is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander.' If Bob Doubles is legitimate, why isn't Bob Triples? If Bob Triples isn't legitimate, why is Kent Treble Bob? Has Kent Treble Bob received a special dispensation from the Methods Committee?

To argue that Doubles ringers have less scope, or that four blows in one position in Kent Treble Bob only occurs at a bob is no answer. If a principle is established it is gross dishonesty to jettison it to suit one category of ringers or group of methods. That such perfidy should be countenanced is a grave reflection on the honour of the Council, and particularly on a Council of the CHURCH.

It is this asinine legislating which brings the Council into disrepute, and makes it the laughing stock of the Exercise.—Yours faithfully,

W. BIRMINGHAM.

Slough, Bucks.

'FIRING' AT WEDDINGS

Dear Sir,—Is it the considered opinion of the Exercise that 'firing' the bells at weddings is really desirable?

At a good proportion of the weddings for which I have rung, the bells have been 'fired,' and hitherto I thought the general effect to be quite impressive.

Recently, however, I was a guest at a friend's wedding, and during the course of the ringing which followed, the bells were 'fired' Frankly, I was appalled to think that I had ever taken part in the creation of such a devastating noise. From where I stood I overheard a number of remarks from other guests, such as, 'It sounds as though something has gone wrong,' and 'They must have made a mistake,' etc.

Leaving tradition aside, in my opinion those responsible for ringing on these occasions should first ascertain as to whether or not the parties concerned would like the bells to be 'fired,' and only then should this be carried out if required.—Yours sincerely.

JEFFERY C. BIRT.

STEDMAN IN ST. DAVID'S GUILD

Dear Sir,—With regard to the peal of Stedman Triples at Tenby on June 26th last, may I withdraw the claim that it was the first peal of Stedman for St. David's Guild, and apologise to those who took part in the first such peal. The footnote was based upon information supplied to me which, I was assured, was correct.—Yours faithfully,

Leicester. HAROLD J. POOLE.

PEAL RINGING IN BUCKINGHAMSHIRE

Dear Sir,—Reading the article in a recent 'Ringing World,' 'Peal Ringing in Buckinghamshire,' I noticed that Great Horwood tower is not mentioned in towers where peals have been rung or have yet to be rung.

I would very much appreciate it if you could let me know through your columns if a peal has been rung at Great Horwood or not. Two attempts have failed since May, one after 50 minutes and the other after two hours.—Yours faithfully, F. G. EDMANS.

Bletchley, Bucks.

SWANSEA AND BRECON DIOCESAN GUILD

Annual Outing

The weather forecast on July 17th was occasional rain, and with hopes of fine periods 64 members and friends set out for Worcester, Ledbury and Hereford.

Our first call was Lugwardine, with ringing at St. Peter's before lunch. On arrival at Worcester we were joined by Mr. Ernie Stitch, and everyone was pleased to see him with us once again. Lunch, a first class meal, was served in a hall. Refreshed, we were soon on our way to St. John's, Worcester, where the eight were soon being heard to Stedman and Plain Bob. All Saints' Church, with its ten bells, was the next call, but time didn't allow much ringing.

It was decided here to cut out our visit to Upton-on-Severn, and travel straight to Malvern Link, but, on arrival, Mr. Hill had left, so on to Ledbury, where even the weather was forgotten when the great spire of St. Michael and All Angels' came into view. Everyone enjoyed their ring on this grand eight and, after a quick look round the church, we were again on our way to Hereford.

Before leaving Ledbury, we said good-bye to Mr. Stitch, and hoped to see him with us again next year. Hereford was reached soon after 6 p.m. and we all made our way to a hall for a hot meal. Ringing on the eight at All Saints' was the last item on our programme, and we made the most of it.

After a short stop at Bronllys for light refreshments, both coaches were soon lost in the mountain mists, and on down the Neath Vale and back home. J. A. H.

WINCHESTER & PORTSMOUTH GUILD

Winchester District at New Alresford

The bride and bridegroom received a pleasant surprise, when, at the moment they stepped from the church porch after the wedding the bells suddenly pealed forth.

This was brought about by ringers of the above Guild, who met at New Alresford on July 24th for a quarterly meeting. The ringing continued during the afternoon to the standard methods until the service conducted by the Rector, Rev. A. J. Pearson. The district chairman, Rev. C. E. C. Brinkworth, gave the address.

Tea followed in the Bell Hotel, which, in turn, was followed by a short business meeting, the Rev. C. E. C. Brinkworth, being in the chair, supported by the secretaries. Three new ringing members were elected—the Misses A. Long and A. Buckman and the Rev. A. J. Pearson. Two new honorary members were also elected, and the belfry election of Mr. J. A. Ainsworth, of Newcastle, as a compounding member was confirmed.

It is hoped that the Andover district will combine in a practice meeting at the Wallops during August. The September meeting will be at Sparsholt and Crawley (Hants).

Shortly afterwards members returned to the belfry, where further good ringing was enjoyed.

The peal at Shelsley Beauchamp, reported on page 468, was the first peal for Miss Gillian Clift and William Collins and not for Fred Davis and Fred Pugh. To minimise errors, will conductors kindly place asterisks and other incidental markings in front of the name of the individual and not after?

A BRIGHTON TOWER IN DECAY

By S. E. ARMSTRONG
Master of the Sussex County Association of C.R.

For much of the material in this article the author is indebted to the files of the 'Brighton and Hove Herald,' 1846 to 1875, to the officials of the Sussex County Association of Change Ringers for extracts from the records, and to Mr. G. P. Elphick, of Lewes, for the bell inscriptions.

PROBABLY few churches in a life of a little over a century have encountered so many scenes of intolerance and violence as has St. Paul's, West Street, Brighton. To-day surrounded on almost all sides with houses of business and entertainment, the unique tower containing its nine silent bells form a landmark from all parts of the town and a reminder of the times when the church was an object of national controversy.

In 1846, at the time of its foundation, the town's population had far outrun the churches available. St. Nicholas', the old Parish Church, even with its galleries, was quite inadequate to cope with the expansion of population caused by the coming of the railway and the establishment of the railway works; the new Church of St. Peter, in London Road, was too far away to make much difference, and the Chapel Royal was limited in accommodation and too fashionable for the ordinary people. Some buildings were frankly preaching houses run on a commercial basis, while St. James' and Holy Trinity wavered vaguely between the Establishment and Nonconformity, the former having changed sides no less than three times.

In consequence the Vicar of Brighton, the Rev. H. M. Wagner, determined to build a new church, with some free seating, in West Street, and to install his son Douglas as vicar. This was the first of what is known as the Wagner Group in Brighton, which includes St. Martin's, Lewes Road, St. Mary Magdalene's, Bread Street, and the enormous brick rectangle of St. Bartholomew's, with the ridge of its slated roof rising 135 feet above the street. All were inspired by the Wagners, and largely built out of their private means.

THE OXFORD MOVEMENT

At the time of the building of St. Paul's the form of worship in the town, and indeed over most of the country, followed the Georgian pattern, indifferent to beauty and terrified of ritual. Whilst people lavished the best on their houses the poorest and meanest was considered good enough for church furnishing and ornament. A new movement had, however, arisen by the establishment of the Oxford Tractarians, led by Keble, for a beautifying of ritual and an increase of dignity based on the style of the older forms of worship. At Cambridge the Camden Society worked on much the same lines from the architectural point of view, arguing that besides a return to the older forms of worship the 'pagan Classic style' must be replaced by pre-Reformation Gothic. Douglas Wagner had early come under the influence of the Oxford Movement, and the design of St. Paul's was given to Richard Cromwell Carpenter, a friend of the architect Pugin, who was the leader of the Gothic revival and hero of the Camden Society.

The combination of the Tractarian Wagner and the Camdenian Carpenter aroused early suspicion on the part of the Low Church Party, a suspicion which deepened into certainty as the building progressed. Where were the galleries, the varnished pitchpine and the cold green windows? Instead they were offered a pre-Reformation type of building, with coloured decoration, provision for side chapels, a long raised chancel, and, worst of all, a high altar. These were innovations of a most Popish kind, and to a party accustomed to fonts being stored under Communion tables and towering three-decker pulpits, the shock administered was considerable. Besides, the Bishop of Manchester recently, and with his own hands, had thrown down the altar ornaments and advised the smashing of stained glass windows in one of the churches of his own diocese. The stage was being set for the troubles that were to follow.

ST. PAUL'S, BRIGHTON

At its opening the church was complete except for the tower, which on the original plan was to have a stone spire, of a pleasant but undistinguished design. Much of the base on the south side had, however, been cut away to make provision for the organ, and it was thought inadvisable to add the extra weight. For a few years a temporary gable protected the top, until the present great oak lantern and short wooden spire were added by Carpenter's son. The tower stands at the north-east corner of the building with a frontage on West Street, and except for the east end is the only part of the church now visible amongst the surrounding buildings. Entrance is effected by a long covered and rather dismal unlighted passageway outside the south wall, running the length of the building and opening into the west end of the nave. There are comparatively few windows, and as those are of deeply stained glass by Burne-Jones, the interior is dark, another circumstance that subscribed to suspicions of ritualistic excesses.

HOSTILITY OF CROWD

On October 18th, 1848, the sermon at the opening service was preached by the Archdeacon of Chichester, later better known as Cardinal Manning, and choral services were instituted. For the next 20 years St. Paul's was the only church in Brighton that wished, or dared, to have choral services with a surpliced choir. The embers of opposition were at once fanned to a flame, and many of the buildings in West Street were disfigured by mocking invitations to 'Come to the Sunday opera at St. Paul's.' Crowds gathered in the street at service times, assaulting the congregation with gibes and stones, and on more than one occasion the Vicar was personally attacked.

After the completion of the tower in 1853, five bells were installed, the largest of 41 cwt. and four smaller. It seems that the original scheme envisaged a ring of 12, with the large bell as tenor and the four small ones as the trebles, for which there is ample room in the tower. Although the present wooden top must be many tons lighter than the original stone spire, doubts were expressed as to its stability even at that early date, and the ring of 12 never materialised.

'ROMISH BELLS'

'As the bells were being unloaded from the conveyance a passer-by paused and read the Latin inscription on the tenor. At once he became agitated and ran down towards the sea crying, 'St. Paul's has bought some Romish bells.' He gathered a crowd of some 400, who, bent on mischief, proceeded to interfere with the installation. The Vicar had come to superintend the work, mounted on horseback, and it was with the greatest difficulty that the police were able to escort him away and disperse the crowd.

The services were gradually being made more and more elaborate, vestments and incense being introduced. A convent was established, the Sisters from which soon becoming accustomed to their charitable works amongst the poor being exploited on the one hand and contemptuously refused on the other. Besides the general public, even the Vicar of Brighton, who himself had the reputation of being a High Churchman, began to get uneasy about the direction in which the ritual was developing. On one occasion when preaching at St. Paul's he publicly expressed his disapproval by taking as his text, 'Lord have mercy on my son, for he is a lunatick, and sore vexed.'

A MURDER TRIAL

In 1865, shortly after sacramental confession had been introduced, opposition rose to its height over the case of Constance Kent* who had murdered her infant half-brother in Wiltshire, and after having been discharged through lack of evidence came under the influence of Douglas Wagner. He advised her to give herself up and stand again for trial. The case was heard at Salisbury Assizes, and after being found guilty she was sentenced to death, but reprieved and sent to penal servitude for life. During the trial Mr. Wagner steadfastly refused to reveal anything told to him under seal of confession. His attitude aroused most violent passions, and once again the congregation was assaulted and the Vicar seriously injured. Questions began to be asked in Parliament about the manner in which affairs were conducted at St. Paul's, and the local Protestant party called a public meeting at the Town Hall, where almost all who stood in defence of Mr Wagner's work suffered injury in the commotion which followed.

*Since this article was completed the case of Constance Kent has been re-examined in the book newly published by Messrs. Jarrolds, 'Saint—With Red Hands?' written by Mrs. Bridges. The author considers the rumour, current at the time, that the crime was committed accidentally by the child's father, and that Constance's confession was the outcome of emotional unbalance.

It was then revealed that Constance Kent had offered £1,000 for the furtherance of the church's work, an offer which had wisely been refused. Nevertheless, the sum appeared in the offertory boxes, and was at once returned to Miss Kent's representatives. The story was circulated in various garbled forms, precipitating a further series of disturbances, and legal action had to be taken against some of the instigators.

Two years later the Vicar was summoned to Westminster to give evidence before a Royal Commission on the practices of the Ritualists, and there defended his use of vestments and confessions. By 1873, after another public meeting opposing the work of the church, one of the main causes of dissension was removed when the convent was taken to its new buildings at the last of the Wagner churches at Buxted. From this time opposition began gradually to die down and St. Paul's was able to continue as a normally peaceful parish church.

The original scheme for the heavy ring having been given up, four more bells were added in 1873, making a ringing peal with a 14-cwt. tenor, and the large bell as a bourdon hung for chiming on the swing. All were cast by Mears, hung in a wood frame with wood headstocks and cannons.

THE BELLS

The inscriptions read as follows:—

Treble.—St. ( ) uriel. (First letter illegible.)

Second.—St. Raphael.

Third.—St. Gabriel.

Fourth.—St. Michael.

(Each of the above has added 'Mears and Stainbank, Founders, London, 1873.')

Fifth.—S. Matthæus. Ave Pater Rex Creator.

Sixth.—S. Marcus. Ave Fili Lux Salvator.

Seventh.—S. Lucas. Ave Pax et Charitas.

Tenor.—S. Joannes. Ave Simplex Ave Triune.

(Each of the above has added 'C. & G. Mears, Founders, London, 1853.')

St. Paul's never seems to have been a successful ringing tower. The long draught of rope, the large circle and the moving of the fabric made good striking difficult. Those who have rung on the bells say a first-class band was essential, as one poor striker could ruin a touch. The local band progressed no further than rather rough Grandsire, and relations between ringers and clergy were generally the reverse of cordial. In addition the bells were noisy outside, and became less and less acceptable to the business premises growing round the church.

THE FIRST PEAL

There are no peal boards in the tower, and the manuscript peal book cannot be traced, but the first peal rung on the bells was one of Grandsire Triples, Holt's Ten-Part, on November 14th, 1883, by a combined band from St. Nicholas' and St. Peter's, Brighton, in 3 hours and 2 minutes.

Footnote:—

This was rung by kind permission of the Vicar, the Rev. A. D. Wagner, and this is the only peal yet obtained on these bells, which have been put in good order by him.

In 1908 the tower ceased affiliation with the Sussex Association, there being then five members listed, three of whom were the brothers Charles, Phillip and William Allfrey. The last peal, of Stedman Triples, conducted by C. T. Coles, was rung on June 12th, 1912. Two of the band, George Ades and Arthur W. Gravett, are still ringing in Brighton.

How the end came is uncertain. One story has it that the Vicar turned the ringers out of the belfry after one of the numerous disputes; another that the tower became increasingly unsafe; a third that the first world war depleted the already small band. Whatever the reason, the bells were rung down for the last time in November, 1914, and the tower abandoned. From then on, except for one or two being occasionally chimed, the bells have remained silent amongst scenes of progressive decay.

To-day, although the body of the church is clean and obviously well-loved, the tower tells a far different story. The belfry stairs are reached along a devious passageway through the organ, and on opening the door the odour of damp and dirt presages what is to follow. The spiral stair is unlighted and cramped, with splits showing in the brickwork. Eventually it opens on to what was once a spacious and comfortable ringing room lighted by a single large window in the west wall. Most of the leaded panes lie broken around it where they must have blown in long ago. The ceiling sags in the centre, depositing damp on the mouldering floor. No sign of activity remains except, curiously enough, the old visitors' book, coverless, sodden and almost illegible, tumbled in a corner.

A VISIT TO THE TOWER

The stair continues, becoming even more dark and dirty until the last few steps are almost indistinguishable beneath the debris. Finally a short, wooden ladder leads out on to one of the great timber radials which span the tower, forming the transition to the octagonal lantern, each some 14 inches square. When the tower was last visited a full gale was blowing in from the sea, accompanied by heavy rain, and as all the protecting lead had been removed to ease the weight, together with a good deal of the woodwork, which had become dangerous, the top is almost completely open to the weather. The rain drives unimpeded through the lantern, which shudders at each gust, creaking dismally in the joints and threatening at any moment that the whole crazy contraption will go crashing into the street below. The drip of water, the shrieking of the wind, and, above all, the foul odour of pigeons and decay make the place infinitely depressing.

Below the lantern radials is the bell frame, the home of countless hordes of pigeons, which have roosted there undisturbed for 40 years. The stronger and more aggressive perch on the sliders under shelter of the bells, and everything is indescribably dirty and desolate. Of the ring, little is visible except a few rotten spokes and two stays, with here and there a bit of mouldering rope looped in a rimless wheel. The eight bells still hang in position, immovable, their shape and almost their size unrecognisable under the accumulated dirt. The bourdon lies wedged helplessly across the frame, the gudgeons having rotted out of the wooden headstock. A good deal of patient and distasteful scraping is required to decipher the inscription which caused so much trouble a hundred years ago:—'S. Paulas. Ave regnans sine fine. Ava sancta Trinitatis.'

From the street below the tower seems to a casual glance to be much as it was in its original condition What of its future? The cost of restoration is far beyond a parochial effort, and in view of the church's history, ought to be a national responsibility. It is certain that the bells will never ring again, and it is problematical how long the tower will stand unless repairs are carried out at what must be a fabulous cost. The tower was built as a witness to a new and vital movement in religion and architecture; it stands as a monument to neglect and poverty.

FARNHAM RINGING MASTER'S WEDDING

Bellringers were well represented at the wedding on Saturday, July 24th, at St. Michael's Church, Aldershot, of Mr. Tom Page, Joint Ringing Master of the Farnham District and youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Page, of Titchfield, Fareham, Hants, to Miss Hazel Joyce Flavell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Flavell, of 102, Peabody Road, Farnborough. The Rev. P. G. L. Cole officiated.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a white silk Elizabethan style dress with silk embroidered veil and headdress of orange blossom. She carried a bouquet of red roses and gypsophila.

She was attended by two bridesmaids—her nieces, the Misses Susan and Kathleen Childs, and two matrons of honour, Mrs. J. Tilley and Mrs. E. Jones. All wore lavender organdie dresses with pink mittens and headdresses. Mr. R. Goble was best man.

After the ceremony the couple left the church through the belfry under crossed bell ropes held by fellow ringers, who then proceeded to ring out a 'merry peal.'

A reception was held at Darracott's, Aldershot, 50 guests attending.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Tom Page left for their honeymoon, which is being spent in France and Switzerland.

Family Ringers and Wedding Bells

The wedding of Miss Edna A. Cane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Cane, to Mr. Herbert J. Allen, a fellow ringer at St. Catherine's Church, Wolverton, Hants, was a day of happy ringing. After the ceremony the bride and bridegroom with the bride's father, three sisters and small brother rang a wedding touch on the six bells at Wolverton. They are all members of the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild, as are the officiating clergyman, the Rev. D. L. Board, and Mrs. W. Cooper, the organist.

Other members of the Wolverton band rang the bells before and after the service.

OBITUARY

MR. FREDERICK BENNETT

Mr. Frederick Bennett, of West Clandon, Surrey, one of the pioneers of change ringing in the rural areas around Guildford, has passed away at the age of 71. Although he had been in somewhat indifferent health for some time his end came suddenly through heart trouble whilst he was walking in the village on July 22nd.

The funeral was on Monday, July 26th, and in addition to family mourners, parishioners and members of the local branch of the British Legion (of which for many years he was secretary) the ringing fraternity was represented by local ringers and other members of the Guildford Diocesan Guild including Mr. A. Harman (Master) and Messrs. G. Marriner and A. H. Winch, from Leatherhead, and Messrs. A. H. Pulling, H. Hutton and A. C. Hazelden, from Guildford.

Half-muffled touches were rung on the octave at the Parish Church both before and after the funeral service, and in the evening local ringers attempted a quarter peal of Grandsire Triples, which unfortunately came to grief at the last whole pull.

Fred Bennett began his ringing career at West Clandon over 50 years ago with a stony band but having had enthusiasm for change ringing instilled in him by District officers of the Winchester Guild, and after receiving some tuition from Mr. Charles Willshire, then of the Holy Trinity, Guildford, band and with help and encouragement from Mr. Alfred Pulling, he soon began to make a name for himself and the local band by his skill as a conductor of Minor methods.

Within a comparatively short time under his leadership the local band had progressed from 'Wedding Peal' and 'Whittington' to a competent change ringing band, over whose accurate striking of Surprise Minor methods a revered vice-president of the Guildford Guild still enthuses. It may be of interest to members of a younger generation to record here that Fred Bennett and members of his band often walked to Shalford (six miles away) and back for the purpose of practice and, as he often told the writer, that was after several of them had walked perhaps four or five miles to work and back.

Fred was in the Royal Engineers during the 1914-18 war and rose to the rank of sergeant, winning the Military Medal in the course of service in France.

During the 1920's and 1930's, although not so active in peal ringing as before, he worked hard to keep the seeds of change ringing alive at Clandon, and the fact that there are still to-day capable change ringers in the local band is due in great measure to Fred's skill and leadership in earlier days. After the war of 1940-45 Fred assisted the writer to restart a local band, but eventually the climb up the belfry stairs prevented him continuing an active part. He maintained a keen interest in ringing, however, and was always glad to chat about current events and past difficulties and triumphs.

He was a keen cricketer as well as ringer, being a forceful left-handed bat, an accomplished wicket-keeper and a captain of more than average merit. He was something of a martinet, demanding and receiving the utmost effort from all who played or rang under him, but although he did not hesitate to condemn in decisive manner any slackness, indifferent performance or unbecoming conduct, either on the cricket field or in the ringing room, he always remained a popular and respected leader.

G. L. G.

MR. GEORGE L. JOYCE

Ringers from many parts of Essex and the London area gathered at St. Andrew's Church, Hornchurch, to pay their last respects to the memory of Mr. George L. Joyce, life vice-president and past Deputy Master of the Essex Association of Change Ringers. There were no flowers and the bells remained silent by request. The last sad rites were carried out at the City of London Crematorium.

George Joyce, aged 62 years, commenced his ringing career at Holy Trinity Church, Barking Road, London. He moved to Leytonstone in 1913 and united himself with the Surprise Minor band which regularly practised at St. John-the-Baptist Church. He rang his first peal, a peal in seven Surprise methods, at Holy Trinity Church, Barking Road, under the auspices of the London County Association on October 8th, 1921. He co-operated with Mr. A. G. Driver and introduced Spliced Surprise Minor ringing at Leytonstone.

On March 24th, 1928, at Chigwell Row Church, George Joyce called his first peal, a peal of 22 Surprise Minor methods in seven 720's. This peal contained the largest number of Surprise methods that were possible under the then known methods of Splicing, viz: by the leads, courses, three leads, six leads, and by the lead end places, and was the first so rung. It was arranged by George Joyce and rung at the first attempt.

George Joyce wrote many articles for 'The Ringing World,' using as his nom-de-plume 'Minor Mania.' He also assisted with the preparation of tables for Treble Bob Minor and proof of Treble Bob Major, which were published under the heading 'Minor Mania' and 'The Mad Hatter.'

It will be in his work for the Essex Association of Change Ringers that we ringers of Essex will remember him. He was a great force behind the officers, assisting them in every way, by his directness of purpose in discussion, his ability to produce the resolution which gathered very concisely the ideas and aspirations of the meeting, and his vision in being able to foresee the loopholes which a badly-worded motion would allow.

As my personal tribute I must say he had been a kind friend and a great helper, who supported and advised me in every major decision I have had to take in the cause of ringing. I shall miss him greatly, and join with thise, this own dear ones, to mourn his passing.

ROBERT C. HEAZEL,

MR. THOMAS RILEY

Many of the older ringers will be sorry to hear of the death on July 24th, after a very long and extremely painful illness, at the age of 73, of Mr. Thomas Riley, who was for many years in the band at Bolsover, Derbyshire.

When ringing recommenced after the wartime ban, Mr. Riley was the only survivor of the older members of the team which gained fame for Bolsover under the leadership of Mr. John Flint, and with a small nucleus of younger ringers taught by Mr. Flint in his later years, Mr. Riley gave great encouragement in the re-establishment of a band which now reflects great credit on its predecessors.

Failing health made it impossible for Mr. Riley to ring at all during the last few years but he retained his interest to the end, and when the tourists from the Sussex County Association visited Bolsover last summer he arranged to be conveyed to the tower in a wheel chair so that he could meet the visitors.

On the day of the funeral service a well-struck quarter peal of Bob Major, with the bells half-muffled, was rung by the local band, and when, after cremation, the ashes were placed near the church tower, the bells were again rung half-muffled, the ringers including Mr. Jacques and Mr. Jackson, of Mansfield, both great friends of Mr. Riley. KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Lewisham District

The ancient Church of St. Mary-the-Virgin, Downe, picturesquely situated in the centre of its hill-top village, was visited by 36 members of the Lewisham District on July 24th for their summer meeting, and enjoyed seasonable weather!

Ringing during the afternoon preceded the service in the church. The Vicar (the Rev. E. W. E. Fraser) conducted the Association service and warmly welcomed his congregation to Downe, and delighted them with his address. Mr. E. Wilson, at the organ, led the singing of the well-chosen hymns; lively, comfortably compassed tunes were rendered with great relish.

Mr. A. S. Richards (West Wickham) District representative, presided at the business meeting which was held in the church. Four ringers were elected into the Association and the election of two non-resident members was ratified.

The venue for the combined meeting with the N.W. District of the Surrey Association was amended, Farningham being substituted for Shoreham for the afternoon ringing, Shoreham to be visited in the evening. The date, October 9th, was confirmed. St. Luke's, Bromley Common, was chosen as place of the annual meeting to be held on October 30th.

Mr. A. S. Richards was appointed 'Ringing World' representative for the District.

A cordial and comprehensive vote of thanks to the Vicar, organist and lady verger concluded the meeting. Further ringing rounded off a pleasant occasion. A. G. H.

BARNSLEY & DISTRICT SOCIETY

The Old'uns Demonstrate

The July meeting was held at Earlsheaton and although the attendance was rather small it was nevertheless a very happy gathering. The following towers were represented: Bradford Cathedral, Felkirk, Leeds Parish, Rothwell, Shelley and the local company, also visitors from Sutton-in-Mansfield. Ringing commenced about 3 p.m. A splendid meal was served in the schools.

In the absence of the president and vice-presidents Mr. F. W. Strangways, of Rothwell, acted as chairman for the business meeting. This was soon disposed of and the usual votes of thanks to the Vicar and to Mr. and Mrs. H. Dransfield and friends for providing the tea and making all arrangements were passed.

Further ringing followed in both Minor and Major methods. Some good spade work was done and it was also very pleasing to see some of the old'uns of over 70 years having a pull.

The next meeting will be held at Hoylandswaine, near Penistone, on August 14th.

Herts County Association

Two more delightful towers than Essendon and Tewin could not have been chosen for a warm summer's day. On July 17th a handful of enthusiasts made their way through continuous rain to Essendon, where the recently rehung ring of six is being rung by a very keen local band under Mr. F. E. Bamford. Having learned Kent for the occasion they gave a very creditable performance with the visitors.

After tea the ringers splashed their way across country to Tewin, where the pleasant ring of six was rung up, to Primrose and Double Oxford, until everyone had had enough —of ringing and of weather—for the day.

The hostility to the Exercise is indicated by the following estate agent's advertisement in one of our national Sunday newspapers: 'In the admirable Eden-like peace of an exclusive Belgravia Garden square overlooking nice quiet church (no bells) and uninterrupted view of the better sort of weddings; 5 bed., etc.'

THE RINGING WORLD

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

No. 2262 Vol. L. FRIDAY, AUGUST 13, 1954 Registered at the G.P.O. for transmission as a newspaper 4d.

EATON HALL CARILLON

THERE must be a number of infantry National Service men among ringers to-day who have passed through the famous cadet training school at Eaton Hall, Cheshire. In the realm of bells Eaton Hall has its own peculiar place as possessing a carillon of 28 bells. Mr. J. W. Clarke, in his 'Cheshire Bells' (Part III.), provides some interesting observations on these bells which are housed in a lofty clock tower of splendid proportions, which adjoins the chapel. The present Eaton Hall was designed by Waterhouse and is built in the early Gothic style and replaces a former great mansion built to Porden's plan in 1803.

The carillon at Eaton Hall is the only example in Cheshire of bells of foreign workmanship. They were cast by Chevalier Severin Van Aerschodt of Louvain in 1877. The Louvain foundry was opened by Peter Van Den Ghein about the middle of the sixteenth century and developed into one of the greatest of the Low Country bell foundries. In the nineteenth century it was in the hands of Van Aerschodt, who succeeded to it through marriage. Another example of his work can be seen at Cattistock in Dorset (35 bells), and there was formerly a carillon by him at Boston, Lincolnshire.

Mr. Clarke writes that in the tower at Eaton the bells are hung in a framework of oak, which occupies the space between the operating room and the clock dials above, the bells being arranged in tiers with the largest at the base. A spiral staircase of wrought iron ascends through the centre of the frames and thus gives access for adjustments to the striking mechanism. Both clock and carillon are weight driven, and 31 tunes can be played from the five hardwood barrels, each of which is ten inches in diameter and studded with brass pins. A list of tunes is displayed in the operating room. Barrels one and two are set for fifteen hymn tunes (for use on Sundays), while the remaining three produce secular tunes ranging from a Bach fugue to 'The Bluebells of Scotland.' The carillon is set in motion by the clock mechanism, which causes one tune from the barrel to be played after the striking of the hour on the bass bell.

This hourly music was formerly much enjoyed by the many visitors who walked in the park, but the carillon has not been heard for a number of years. The tone of the bells, however, can be judged from those used in the clock chimes, which are still heard from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. daily, and from the deep note of the bourdon as it marks the hours. All the bells are inscribed with an ornamental letter 'W' on the waist, and the bass bell bears the following inscription: 'This peal of 28 bells was cast at Louvain for his Grace the Duke of Westminster by Van Aerschodt. A.D. 1877.' The reputed weight of the bourdon bell is 2½ tons, Note C. It has a diameter of 60 inches. In contrast, the diameter of the smallest bell is only 12 inches.

Closely associated with Eaton Hall is the picturesque village of Eccleston, a name familiar to readers in our peal and other columns. The Church of St. Mary was twice built in the nineteenth century, the first being a rebuilding of a 12th century church. This was in 1807 and the existing four bells were disposed of, one being a recast by Abel Rudhall in 1757. For this church Thomas Mears cast a ring of six with a tenor of 13 cwt. The following note, copied from the fly-leaf of an old account book belonging to the Swindley family, tells of the official opening:

> Eccleston New Peal of 6 bells was rung for the first time Wednesday Octr the third, 1810. Lord Grosvenor gave a sheep and the Church Wardens plenty of ale at the house of Mr. Geo. Taylor. Opened by the young ringers of St. John's, Chester, consisting of the following persons:— Geo. Sinclair, Wm. Doyle, Jno. Doyle, Edw. Jones, Geo. Nichen, Jno. Andrews, Geo. Woodin and Richd. Wildman, with a detachment of the Liverpool ringers.

The second rebuilding was in 1896 on an adjoining site, the church being demolished to provide stone for the new building. On the evening before work began the bells were rung for the last time, and on the following day they were lowered to the ground. Mr. John Taylor was called to Eaton to discuss proposals for the bells which the Duke of Westminster desired should match the back eight of the carillon at the Hall. As this proved impracticable, they were eventually cast as a heavy ring of eight in the key of D. They were first rung in 1907 and the result was more than satisfactory, for these bells, states Mr. Clarke, are without doubt one of the finest eights in the country.

This Duke of Westminster seems to have been a patron of ringers. In 1903 he presented two bells to Pulford, on account of the keenness of a young band of change ringers. The captain of the ringers, Mr. James Morgan, made the frame.

Part III. of 'Cheshire Bells' deals with bells in the Rural Deanery of Chester and the Deanery of South Wirral. It is reprinted from the 'Transactions of the Lancashire and Cheshire Antiquarian Society,' Vol. lxii.

INSTRUCTING

The author of these notes, a Suffolk ringer of long experience, would be pleased to hear other views on his reference to Grandsire.

Brief notes on my system of instruction in teaching change ringing, preferably to a new band. I would want assistance until the hunting stage is accomplished.

1.—Teach how to strike the handbell.

2.—Practise dodging (varying the number), place-making and snapping, paying strict attention to open leads.

3.—Hunting. Commence on four bells, proceeding to the higher number, coursing up and down and ringing 1-2 double-handed in the odd numbers.

The above comprise all the elements in ringing and from thence I could carry on without assistance.

In hunting I would have chalk and blackboard and strike one change at a time, repeating same until the correct or next bell is observed. This helps to remember the order of going out, which also should be practised separately until mastered.

4.—I would then go on to Stedman, not Grandsire, insisting on the diagram being drawn out and described three or four times every day. Attempt only six changes before proceeding with the next six changes, and stopping at every intended extent, even when correctly done.

5.—From Stedman to Plain Bob, Treble Bob and Grandsire, thence to Double Norwich, and when the last-mentioned stage has been reached the Surprise methods follow automatically.

Study the figures of all methods; they will tell you all you want to know. H. D.

Eight V.I.P.'s included in 'Pipe's Pilgrims,' who have just finished a tour of Devon and Cornwall, rounded off Thursday by ringing a touch of Spliced Surprise Major in eleven methods at Camborne. One of the methods is 'brand new,' never having previously been rung. One of the wags of the party suggested that the method should be called 'Pilgrims' Progress' or 'Land's End Surprise.'

BELFRY GOSSIP

Mr. Edward Jenkins and Mr. John Worth each rang their 700th peal at Wakefield on July 31st. The band who participated would like to express their grateful thanks to Mr. Vernon Bottomley and his helpers of the Haley Hill band for their hospitality on the following day.

Hopes of a peal at Flitton, Beds, as a welcome to the new Vicar were frustrated by the rope of the fifth snapping. The band, however, rang 2,280 Grandsire Doubles.

The Bedfordshire Young Ringers are now on tour in Dorset. There are 14 members of the touring band and 25 churches, including two tens—St. James', Poole, and Wimborne Minster.

There will probably be a police court sequel to the outing of Roade ringers on August 3rd. After arriving back at Northampton two of the party were caught by the police riding through the town at 12.30 a.m. without lights.

The composition of the peal of Lincolnshire Surprise Major rung at Shirley on July 14th was by William Barton, and not W. H. Barber as published. The misunderstanding of those concerned is regretted.

After being ringers at Buckland Dinham, Somerset, for over 50 years, Mr. Henry Carver (68) and Mr. Charles Pearce (69) have entered our peal columns. Their first peal of Grandsire Doubles at Whatley is reported in this issue.

An interesting point about the peal of Grandsire Caters at St. Stephen's, Bristol, on July 31st, was that it was the first peal Mr. Trevor M. Roderick had rung outside the Province of the Church in Wales. Mr. Roderick has rung 101 peals in Wales.

Mr. J. Michael Stephens, general secretary of the Bedfordshire Association, is leaving Bedford upon acceptance of an appointment at Deal. In his absence Mr. John Sinfield, of 4, Queen Street, Houghton Regis, Dunstable, will act as general secretary until the Association's annual meeting next Easter Monday. A farewell peal to Mr. Stephens at Kempston on July 31st of Little Bob Major was lost 200 changes from the end.

Two claims for first peals on the bells are made this week—at Midgham, Berkshire and North Marston, Buckinghamshire.

We had not long to wait before the handbell enthusiasts at Sherburn-in-Elmet, Yorks, scored their first peal. It is recorded this week. Good luck to Sherburn!

The annual joint meeting of the Middlesex Association and the Oxford Guild will be held on October 23rd and not, as previously announced, on October 16th.

After ringing what is believed to be the first peal on the bells at North Marston, Oxon, the band were entertained to a bountiful tea by Mr. and Mrs. Felix Gregory, two local ringers. Their kind action is much appreciated.

One of the pioneers of change ringing in Devonshire, Mr. Alfred Lovering, has passed over. To his memory a peal of Grandsire Triples was rung at Withycombe Raleigh on July 31st, a tower with which he was at one time associated.

At a recent meeting of the Southern District of the Durham and Newcastle Association, Mr. F. W. Cooke, 10, Lymehurst Road, Darlington, was appointed 'Ringing World' representative. The new secretary of the District is now Mr. E. Peter Rock, 64, Tollesby Road, Linthorpe, Middlesbrough.

PEAL RINGING IN CORNWALL

AFTER writing about peal ringing in Cheshire with thousands of peals to talk about, it comes as rather a change to have a county where peal ringing has always been rare. A peal rung at Penzance on June 4th, 1883, is claimed as the first ever to have been rung in Cornwall, and since that date only another 312 have been recorded—fewer than some individual churches have to their credit. Even so, the single 10-bell tower and all the 43 8-bell towers have had at least one peal, which is more than Cheshire could say! Only 6- and 5-bell towers remain to be conquered. Of course, the reason for the paucity of peals in this county is its adherence to call changes in the majority of churches. There are very few resident change ringers and most of the peals rung have been by touring bands.

Some idea of the difficulties which have always had to be faced in Cornwall can be seen in the many years which have often elapsed between peals in the county. After 1883 13 years went by before the next peal. No peals were rung between 1897 and 1901 and 1903 and 1907. The highest in any year before 1914 was eight peals in 1913 After the first war only one peal was rung before 1926—in 1924 at St. Stephen's-by-Launceston. Nineteen was the highest number of peals in a year between the wars—in 1927, followed by 16 in 1938. Since the war more peals have been rung, indicating an increasing interest in the art. The best years have been 1953 with 26 peals, 1948 with 24, and 1951 with 21. Only five have been recorded this year so far, however, so the total may be lower again.

To mention individual towers, only six have reached double figures at the moment. The only 10-bell tower in the county, Truro Cathedral, is one of these, with 17 peals. The first was in 1911 followed by 12 between 1926 and 1838, and four since the war. The other five are 8-bell towers with Carbis Bay leading the list with the most in the county—18. All these have been rung since 1946 and indicate how the enthusiasm of the incumbent of a parish can make such a difference in promoting the art. Both Kea and Kenwyn have recorded 15. Both started at about the same time (1909 and 1907 respectively) and show the same pattern of a peal every two or three years. The remaining two have each 11 peals to their credit—Gulval (first peal 1926) and St. Germans (first peal 1913). Redruth and Tuckingmill both have nine.

Less than half the 6-bell towers have had a peal rung at them—only 40 out of 93— so there is plenty of scope for tower grabbers here (if permission can be obtained in a 'hostile' land!). The greatest number of peals at any of these is eight at Perran-at-Worthal, all of which were rung between 1927 and 1937. Two out of the eight 5-bell towers have each had a single peal rung at them—Bradoc and St. Samson (Golant).

Cheshire and Cornwall certainly show two sides of the picture as far as peal ringing is concerned!

NATIONAL GUILD OF POLICE RINGERS

A District meeting of the Guild was held at Aylestone, Leicester, on Thursday, August 5th. It was arranged especially to encourage those members of the Police Service who had had little or no experience of change ringing. Details of the arrangements had been published in Police Orders by kind permission of the respective chief constables, and the result was that 25 persons attended. The occasion was one for the renewing of old friendships and making new acquaintances. Seven new members were made. It was six or seven years since some of those present had touched a bell and their enthusiasm was certainly rekindled.

Another District meeting was fixed for Oakham on Thursday, October 14th, the local arrangements being in the hands of Det.-Sgt. Hoy, who is in charge at the Parish Church. It is the intention to arrange similar meetings in other Districts and by this means to bring into the Guild more new members. Many members of the Police Service have at some time or other taken part in church bell ringing and a special invitation is extended to them to join the Guild even though they may have had little or no experience in change ringing.

The annual Guild Dinner will be held in London on Sepember 18th. Any persons interested in the Guild are asked to communicate with P.C. Cecil Knight, Police Headquarters, Charles Street, Leicester, or with Inspector Harold J. Poole, president.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Ashford District

The morning of August 7th, which date we had chosen for our meeting at Woodchurch, brought drenching rain—but, as was the case on two other occasions this year, the sky cleared for the afternoon and evening. The bells were available from 2.30 and were put to good use until 4.15, when the Rector (the Rev. V. B. Wynburne) conducted our service. With Mr. Albert Barnes (a Woodchurch ringer and the church organist) at the organ, the singing went with a swing. Mr. C. Hillis read the lesson, and the Rector gave a good address which included a welcome to his church. The offertory was given towards the work now being carried out on the church spire.

About 34 members and friends sat down to a good tea, and a short business meeting was held afterwards. Votes of thanks were accorded to the Rector for the use of the bells and for conducting the service, and to Mrs. D. J. Russell, the secretary of the local ringers, for having made all the arrangements for the meeting.

During the evening we were joined by more ringers, bringing the total to over 40, the following towers being represented: Ashford, Bethersden, Benenden, Biddenden, Brabourne, Canterbury Cathedral, Faversham, Folkestone, High Hilden, Lydd, Marden, Maidstone, Willesborough and Woodchurch.

Methods up to London Surprise Minor were rung. W. P. G.

Yass, N.S. Wales

Mr. Harold L. Curll, in a letter to the editor, reports that the rehanging of the original five bells at St. Clement's Church, Yass, New South Wales, was completed on May 1st. They have been placed on ball bearings, and should give many years of ringing. He writes:—

'The work was carried out by Mr. John Duncan, of St. Jude's, Randwick, with the assistance of our tower captain, Mr. Dick Burden, and myself. The cost of the work was covered by the refund of duty on our sixth bell. We are very much indebted to Mr. Duncan, who gave up his annual holiday and carried out the work voluntarily.'

MANCHESTER UNIVERSITY TOUR IN EAST ANGLIA

THIRTEEN members of the Manchester University Guild assembled at Naughton Mill Hostel, near Ipswich, in the evening of Monday, July 5th: this was the official start to the tour though seven members were not content merely to grab 31 towers on the organised tour but left from the North on the previous Saturday, ringing at a meeting at Hope, in Derbyshire, that afternoon, and for Sunday evening service at Melton Mowbray, in Leicestershire. Eighty-seven miles of cycling on the Sunday through rain, hail and storm left them somewhat discouraged and they sheepishly admitted to travelling by train for all but 30 miles on the next day. The Ringing Master's comments, made while laboriously cycling down hill in middle gear, with reference to the scientifio theories of a certain Mr. Newton are unfortunately unprintable!

On Tuesday the weather, though improved, was still showery and not all the party made the pilgrimage to East Bergholt. Those who did, however, were rewarded not only by seeing the famous bellcage, but also by a visit to Flatford Mill and a pleasant cycle ride through the Constable country. The whole party reassembled in Ipswich at 2 p.m., where, after a slight delay, ringing was enjoyed on the 12 bells at St. Mary-le-Tower. Here we were visited by Cecil W. Pipe, who invited us to ring at Grundisburgh. Unfortunately our timetable did not permit us to take advantage of his offer. We were subsequently entertained to tea in Ipswich by Mrs. Hopkinson, the mother of one of the members of our party. She soon discovered our thirst and hunger and very short work was made, inter alia, of a scrumptious chocolate cake. Thence we cycled at full speed to Hadleigh, where we arrived almost on time. This fine-toned ring of eight presented some difficulty in handling and it was the unanimous opinion that a bellhanger's time would not be misspent here.

VERSATILE PREVAILING WIND

Wednesday morning saw an improvement in the weather and the ride to Sudbury was much enjoyed. Once in Sudbury we managed to find every other church in the town before, almost accidentally, we stumbled across St, Gregory's, our scheduled destination. The striking here, and, in fact, at the next two towers, was well below our usual standard and neither hard words nor black looks seemed to produce any improvement. After a protracted lunch we cycled to and through the very long village of Long Melford to the Parish Church and its musical eight. By this time the prevailing wind had strengthened and being full in our faces somewhat slowed our progress: before the tour ended we became well acquainted with this versatile East Anglian headwind, which perniciously changed every time we changed our direction, and moreover appeared to increase its force as we progressed into the Fenland.

From Long Melford we had but a short journey to Lavenham and its famous ring; the tenor is certainly a magnificent bell but, perhaps partly due to our bad striking, we were somewhat disappointed with the ring as a whole. More disappointing, however, was the discovery that it was Lavenham's early closing day and it was a 'tea-less' party that proceeded to Rattlesden. Here we partook of sustenance before ringing and this appeared to influence our striking for there was a marked improvement, and a well-struck touch of Cambridge Minor was brought round. After supper at Naughton Mill Hostel an unsuccessful attempt was made to ring a quarter peal of Bob Major 'in hand.'

'THE NINE TAILORS'

Thursday morning saw us cycling along the now familiar road to Sudbury, where ringing was enjoyed on the heavy eight at All Saints'. Lunch was interrupted by a loud bang which heralded the tour's fifth and last puncture. Repairs were speedily effected and the party made good time against a strong head wind to ring on the five at Wickham St. Paul, a name reminiscent of 'The Nine Tailors.' Ringing was delayed at the next tower—Gestingthorpe—whilst a frantic search was made for the key to the bell chamber in order that a rope used for clocking might be disconnected. Whilst ringing on this six, which are somewhat out of key, we were visited by Mrs. A. Catterwell, the wife of the chief ringer at Sible Hedingham, who invited us to join them in their practice that evening—an invitation that was eagerly and gratefully accepted. Prior to this, however, we rang on the backward six at Castle Hedingham and later joined two local ringers in ringing handbells, which they also rang anti-clockwise! Before adjourning to Castle Hedingham Youth Hostel were were entertained to tea by a lady of the Castle Hedingham congregation, formerly of Manchester, who was very pleased to welcome us.

On Friday our ringing and striking both improved and during the day we rang Erin Doubles and Triples and a course of London Surprise Minor. Towers visited were Wethersfield, where a few arrived in time to join the Vicar in saying the Litany, Finchingfield, Great Bardfield and Thaxted. In the evening at Saffron Walden Youth Hostel we entertained the wardens and other hostellers with handbell ringing, which included a course of six Spliced Major methods. Here we temporarily lost two ringers, who, in the company of two hostellers of the 'weaker' sex, claimed to have paid an interesting visit to the famous country house at Audley End!

UNIVERSITY'S WELCOME

On Saturday we rang on the famous 12 at Saffron Walden and on the noisy six at Littlebury, where a good touch of London Minor was brought round. Here we were shown round the church by the Vicar, the Rev. P. A. Wright, who told us of the fantastic tricks of Henry Winstanley, the builder of the first Eddystone Lighthouse, who lived in the village Apparently this gentleman played numerous tricks on visitors to his house, and he was the designer of an armchair that imprisoned anybody who sat in it! We arrived in the late afternoon at Cambridge, where we were met at the Church of St. Andrew-the-Great by Chris. M. P. Johnson and other members of the Cambridge University Guild. We joined them again at St. Andrew's on the Sunday morning, and in the afternoon two Manchester and three Cambridge members attempted a peal of Bob Royal 'in hand,' which, like a quarter of Cambridge at St. Andrew's in the evening, was unfortunately unsuccessful. Others visited Great St. Mary's but the majority took advantage of a free day to tour Cambridge and, of course, to go punting and canoeing on the Cam. Our Master's first efforts at punting were described by Chris. Johnson as 'an expert imitation of the blue line of Bristol.' No comment about one ringer who was last seen rapidly disappearing in the direction of Girton College

We were on the road again on Monday and we visited Histon, Cottenham and Wilburton, where we were joined in the ringing by veteran Henry Sharp. Our day's ringing officially ended at Ely Parish Church, where the bells were raised for us and where we also accomplished our first course of Yorkshire Surprise Major. After supper at Ely Youth Hostel we heard bells ringing and soon discovered that one of our courting couples in their wanderings had met the Vicar of Witchford and were sampling the three bells in the church. The whole party was soon on the scene and an inspection was made of an old and somewhat worm-eaten oak frame containing three bells cast in 1676 by local bellfounder Christopher Gray. The bells were ringable but handling was somewhat hampered by a large number of rather inexpert splices in each rope.

Tuesday we visited Sutton, a rather 'lumpy' ring with an almost tuneless tenor—rather disappointing after first seeing the fine tower with its excellent view of the Fenlands and its beautifully maintained ringing room. Our next tower, Haddenham, was approached with misgivings as we had been frequently warned that these bells were difficult to handle; however, we were pleasantly surprised to discover a very fine ring in good condition—indeed we were tempted to overstay our allotted time. The timetable prevailed since we were due at Somersham, where we were pleased to meet Canon B. F. Sheppard, of the Cambridge University Guild. After showing us around, Canon Sheppard celebrated Holy Communion with us. We then adjourned to the tower, where Bill Ransome had already raised the bells, and after an all too short period of ringing, in which Canon Sheppard joined, we were entertained to a sumptuous tea. Once again our timetable pulled us away much too soon and even so we were nearly 50 minutes late at St. Ives. However, Frank Warrington was very patiently waiting for us and he joined us in the ringing which was concluded by a good fall in peal.

COPYBOOK BLOTTED

We welcomed Mr. Warrington to our company again on Wednesday, when we rang on a very nice light six at Hemingford Abbotts. After lunch we rang on the musical eight at Godmanchester, where unfortunately Yorkshire wouldn't come round. We badly blotted our copybook at All Saints', Huntingdon, where we were met by Mr. H. S. Peacock. There the only touch successfully brought round was of Plain Bob Minor, and it was here also that the writer resolved to learn to ring London before endeavouring to call a touch.

Our tour was successfully concluded at Holywell, where we were again joined by Canon Sheppard and Frank Warrington. This ring of six was probably the finest of the tour and on the whole our ringing was of a better quality; the tour was brought to a close with an almost perfect fall.

Methods rung were:—Plain Bob Doubles, Minor, Major and Royal, Grandsire and Stedman Doubles, Triples and Caters, Erin Doubles and Triples, St. Simon's Doubles, Kent and Oxford Minor and Major (and the two spliced, of which only one touch appeared to be known), Cambridge Surprise Minor and Major, Yorkshire Surprise Major, Double Norwich and the following Minor methods: London Surprise, Oswald Delight, Thelwall, Childwall, St. Clement's, Double Oxford, Oxford Bob and Original.

May we express a grateful word of thanks to all the clergy, local ringers and Y.H.A. wardens who co-operated to make our tour an undoubted success, and also, on behalf of all, tender special thanks to Pip Carter, who planned and supervised, and also to our retiring Master, Wilf. Robinson, who expertly kept the bells moving.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

THE DEVIL AT CORNHILL

Dear Sir,—In reply to Mr. Symonds' letter, it is probable that he refers to an incident at St. Michael's, Cornhill. Stow, our worthy historian, reports the incident thus:—

'As I have oft heard my father report, upon St. James' night certain men in the loft next under the bells ringing of a peal, a tempest of lightning and thunder did arise, an ugly shapen sight appeared to them, coming in at the south window, and lighted on the north, for fear whereof they all fell down, and lay as dead for the time, letting the bells ring and cease of their own accord: when the ringers came to themselves they found certain stones of the north window to be razed and scratched as if they had been so much butter, printed with a lion's claw; the same stones were fastened there again, and so remain till this day. I have seen them oft, and have put a feather or small stick into the holes where the claws had entered 3 or 4 inches deep. At the same time certain main timber posts at Queen Hith were scratched and cleft from top to bottom; and the pulpit cross in Powle's churchyard was likewise scratched, cleft and overturned. One of the ringers lived in my youth, whom I have oft heard to verify the same to be true.'—Yours sincerely,

London. B. K. LUNN.

Dear Sir,—I think that what Mr. G. E. Symonds must be thinking of is when 'His Satanic Majesty' honoured the ringers at St. Michael's, Cornhill (not St. Clement Danes') with a visit. It appears that instead of asking the old gentleman if he was a ringer, they panicked and did not even set their bells. No wonder he got a bit angry. It must have been a sight for sore eyes to see them coming down that long staircase.—Yours sincerely,

E. H. OXENHAM.

Bampton, Devon.

Dear Sir,—In your last issue Mr. Symonds has asked for information about a phenomenon occurring at St. Clement Danes'. Has he got slightly mixed? Should it not be St. Michael's, Cornhill? I believe he will find the answer in Stow's 'Survey of London,' 1912 edition, page 176, commencing at line 15.—Yours sincerely,

CECIL EBBERSON

PEAL RINGING IN CHESHIRE

Dear Sir,—The eight-bell tower of Winsford doesn't exist—its duplication with Over is one of the unfortunate mistakes in the 'Book' which Mr. Felstead has used in the course of his researches, and for which I offer my apologies.

I hasten to draw attention to this error myself before other enthusiasts (like F. E. W. in his report of the Yorkshire tour by Sussex ringers) are at pains to do so.

F. E. W. is correct that Todmorden, Lancs, (as it is known to the Post Office) is, in fact, in the West Riding of Yorkshire, but may I in turn correct F. E. W.? Howden bells came from Loughborough and not from Croydon!

R. H. DOVE.

Mr. W. Gorringe, of Hawkhurst, was able at the last minute to make up a band to ring a quarter of Stedman Caters at St. Mary's, Cheltenham, on July 22nd, in honour of the 75th birthday of Mr. J. S. Hawkins. To complete the evening the band adjourned to Mr. Hawkins' favourite 'local,' where the landlord was also celebrating his birthday.

FINANCING 'THE RINGING WORLD'

Dear Sir,—I have been trying to make up my mind whether my friend, Arthur Davis, in his letter about 'Sentimental Energy' ('Ringing World,' July 16th), is displaying (a) undue pessimism or (b) lack of confidence in 'The Ringing World' Committee. I would hesitate to accuse one who has expended so much energy in many different directions of being pessimistic; and lack of confidence in our Central Council Committees is surely quite unwarranted.

However these things may be, he has only partially quoted what I had to say at our A.G.M. recently. Perhaps I did not make myself clear at the time, but my main objection to the suggestion of a subsidy imposed by the Central Council—or by any other body for that matter—is that the principle is wrong.

Not all ringers are interested in the journal. That is an unfortunate fact, but there is no reason on earth why they should be compelled to contribute towards the cost of a paper which is only read by a very small minority

As Mr. Davis says: 'Those ringers interested in 'The Ringing World' are taking it, the others turn a deaf ear to our pleadings. Why should they listen?' Exactly! Why should they? Those who are taking it will continue to do so, even when the price is increased to an economical level, as indeed it must be before long.

Can we not be assured that the relevant committee is still weighing the pros and cons, and considering all the pertinent details which are within their ken, but outside ours, and will eventually arrive at the proper decision?

Could the committee publish some of those facts and figures, together with a summary of the arguments and suggestions which have been put forward to date? Such an article would make interesting reading and would, perhaps, let in to some of us a new light on the matter.

Would it not be possible to have a kind of Gallup Poll regarding, say, price increase and postal distribution?—Yours faithfully,

R. A. REED.

Eastleigh, Hants.

SENTIMENTAL ENERGY

Dear Sir,—It is a matter of some surprise that no reply or comment has been made concerning the letter from Mr. Arthur V. Davis, Bournemouth, published in your issue of July 16th. Surely the financial position of 'The Ringing World' is of importance to all ringers.

Mr. Davis stresses the necessity of subsidising 'The Ringing World' by the Central Council. He knows that the income of the Central Council from Associations and Guilds is negligible so far as a subsidy is concerned.

Next Mr. Davis outlines a scheme whereby the finances of 'The Ringing World' might be made secure. While agreeing most emphatically with his aim, I do not like the idea of an all-round £5 levy on Associations and Guilds, but let us leave the method of raising a fund out of consideration for the moment.

The salient point of his letter is in his statement: 'I have been told that such a scheme has been discussed and turned down as impracticable. Why?'

May I support him in his inquiry? When was such a scheme considered? And by whom? What scheme exactly was put forward, and when was report made to the Central Council?

Perhaps Mr. E. A. Barnett, as hon. secretary of the Central Council, or Mr. Frank Smallwood, convener of the Editorial Committee, will be good enough to satisfy our thirst for information.—Yours faithfully,

J. W. WILLIS.

Folkestone.

WHO IS THE AUTHOR?

Dear Sir,—A few days ago in looking through my papers I noticed a method called Stanton, composed by John Reeve in 1788. The same method was used by J. W. Parker in the method called Premier, in 1892.

Although the figures are not quite the same in both compositions, the method used to produce these figures is. Premier is the better arrangement, it does not have the fault of two bells striking after each other that is found in Stanton—3 and 8 in the first set of eight changes, and in the same posiion in each set, 2 and 7, 3 and 6, and 2 and 8, in the last set.

A peal of Stanton was rung at Stony Stanton on July 16th, 1948; possibly this was the first peal.—Yours sincerely,

E WEATHERBY.

BOB TRIPLES—NOT IN C.C. COLLECTION

Dear Sir.—Mr. H. O. Over is in error. The Collection of Legitimate methods, Section I., published in 1907, does not include Bob Triples.

Paragraph two on page nine of the preface gives the reason.—Yours faithfully,

C. KENNETH LEWIS.

Altrincham, Cheshire.

Note. — The paragraph reads:— 'Triple methods form a comparatively small group. The reason for this is that Triples should be all Triple changes, hence there can be no Imperial methods; further, there can be but a small number of Bob methods with two hunts, and the like of Court methods with two hunts, for methods having but one hunt will not produce a plain course in Triple changes.'—Ed.

'SCISSORING' AT THE HALF LEAD

Dear Sir,—In reply to Mr. York-Bramble, there are a number of rows which permit of 'scissoring' at the half lead. Here is an example:—

86745231 86745231
87654321 68472531

The first is the first half lead of Plain Bob Major. If a plain course is cut up as described in my article and the 14 half leads re-arranged, Double Bob and Reverse Bob will result and the first half lead will be altered as above.

I would have liked to have used this example in my article, but these methods are not in Diagrams (except in Minor). Mr. York-Bramble says 'scissoring' at the trebles lie is in conflict with a conventional feature of method construction. If he objects to Double Bob being formed out of Plain Bob, or Double Oxford being formed out of Double Norwich, he should send his complaint to the Methods Committee. I am not the culprit. These things were done a long while ago.

I shall be pleased to send to Mr. York-Bramble a complete list of 42 Major, 54 Royal and 110 Maximus half lead rows which permit of two places being used. All produce legitimate lead ends. I am indebted to Mr. C. H. Kippin, of the Methods Committee, for his assistance with these rows.

I hope private correspondence will clear up Mr. York-Bramble's difficulty about the 'opposing half from a different method.' The word 'different' does not appear in my article.—Yours faithfully,

JOHN SEGAR

FIRING AT WEDDINGS

Dear Sir,—I think that Mr. J. C. Birt is quite right in suggesting that 'firing' the bells at a wedding is not desirable; and not only at weddings but at all times.

After all, surely we endeavour to make our ringing sound as attractive as possible to those outside the church by our best striking, and to do anything that suggests a discordant tintinnabulation to the public is not in the interests of change ringing.

SHEFFIELD & DISTRICT SOCIETY

The August meeting of the above Society was held jointly with the Ladies' Guild (Northern District) at Rotherham Parish Church on Bank Holiday Monday and, as usual, these fine bells attracted ringers from a wide radius. Over 21 towers, including Leeds, York, Bradford, Derby, Luton and Brighton, were represented, and all tastes were catered for, methods ranging from Plain Bob to London and Bristol Surprise Major and a variety of Caters and Royal methods.

Ringers and a number of friends were welcomed at the Parish Hall by Bishop G. V. Gerard. After a sumptuous tea a course of Grandsire Caters on handbells was greatly appreciated, and the business meeting followed, the chair being taken by the Society's president, Mr. H. O. Chaddock. Much interest was shown in the Society's peal book which was available for inspection.

The secretary announced that a joint meeting with the Southwell Guild had been arranged for November 6th at Retford (10), and that the next meeting was the annual cup contest at Killamarsh on September 4th. After suitable votes of thanks, ringers returned to the tower for further enjoyment until all too soon the available time was gone, and at 8.45 p.m. the ten bells were lowered in peal, so concluding a very enjoyable meeting. OBITUARY

MR. JOHN W. BEST

It is with deep regret that we record the death of Mr. John W. Best, of Chester, on July 26th, after a short illness. He was 46 years of age.

The funeral service took place at St. Mary's Church, Handbridge, Chester, on Thursday, July 29th, and was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. W. N. Digbie Thomas), assisted by the curate. The service was attended by many of his bell-ringing friends. Half-muffled ringing took place before the service and afterwards a peal of Grandsire Triples was rung.

Born in Durham, 'Johnny' spent his earlier life in Richmond, Yorks, where he learned to ring. He came to Chester at the beginning of 1935 and joined the Cathedral and Handbridge band. He was an accomplished ringer and rang 150 peals, the last being one of Carshalton Bob Triples as recently as July 3rd.

Included in his total were peals in eight different Surprise Major methods, all the Triples methods with two hunts, the first peal ever in 18 different Plain Major methods—many rung without previous practice—and the first peal in the method for the Chester Diocesan Guild in a further six Plain Major methods. He also conducted peals of Superlative Surprise and Plain Bob Major.

He will, however, be best remembered for his kindly nature, cheerful disposition and ready wit. He could always be depended upon to give of his best and was a regular and punctual Sunday service ringer at both the towers to which he was attached, and will be sorely missed.

His many friends extend to his wife and relatives their deepest sympathy in their very sad bereavement.

MR. GEORGE W. PARK

It is with regret that we record the death of Mr. George William Park, of Darlington, County Durham, who passed away on Sunday, August 1st.

Born in 1872 in the Parish of Holy Trinity, Darlington, he lived all his life within 400 yards of the church in which he was baptised, confirmed and married, and in which he worshipped for the whole of his life. In an unobtrusive way he took part in many of the church's activities and was connected with the Sunday School, Bible Class, was a founder member of the Young Men's Club and a former member of the Parochial Church Council; but it was in the belfry where he gave of his best.

The son of a ringer, he joined Holy Trinity belfry when the ring of six bells was installed in 1891. His ability quickly took him to leadership of the band and under his guidance the standard of ringing was raised to and maintained at a very high level. Except for illness and essential holidays he rarely missed ringing for a Sunday service. Not a great peal ringer, he had scored just over 100, chiefly in the North of England, but he was a staunch Association member and so long as health allowed was a regular attender at Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association and District meetings, and was for a time vice-president of this Association.

Interment was on Wednesday, August 4th, at the West Cemetery, Darlington, after a service in Holy Trinity Church, conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. E. J. Simpson, M.A., before and after which the bells were rung half-muffled.

Mr. Park leaves a daughter and three sons, two of whom, Norman and Roland, are at present ringers, and were taught by their father.

Thus passes to higher service one who leaves an inspiration and example to be followed.

THE BELLS OF SEALE, SURREY

The village is situated in a fold of the hills under the Hog's Back between Farnham and Guildford, a village that is ancient, picturesque and unspoilt. Motor traffic speeds along the top of the hill, but Seale seldom gets troubled with much mechanical transport, being off the main road.

The foundation of the church, dedicated to St. Lawrence, is lost in the mists of antiquity, and the present building has a square tower over the choir. Originally you had to approach the ringing chamber by a staircase behind the choir stalls, and if you happened to be a 'broad' ringer, a door of minimum width was certainly not helpful, for even a 'thin' ringer would have to go through edgeways. Another inconvenience was when the ringers came down just before service time, for they had to disturb the organist from his seat before they could proceed anywhere. To stop this arrangement, a new entrance was cut in the outer wall to give access into the stairway from outside, and, though this method of approach is better than the previous one, it is still a difficult job. At the top of the stone stairway wooden steps up the side of the chancel roof take you to the small ringing chamber, but even here big people were never catered for, as a low arch forms a trap for the unwary, and you are liable to damage your head.

The bells are a ring of six with a tenor of 7 cwt. 40 lb. The first three are by Warner in 1873, the 4th by Thomas Lester, of Whitechapel, in 1744, the 5th by Richard Eldridge in 1608, and the tenor was recast by Warner in 1873. The previous tenor was a 14th century bell from the Wokingham foundry without any inscription.

The Royal Inventory of 1552 gives; iij belles and one sance bell.' and for further details concerning the history of the bells later in that century the church accounts provide some interesting items. In 1588 'paid to Jhon Jure for kepinge the belles 12d.' This is probably the steeplekeeper's wages for a certain period. Other items are:

'1589 for a new bell rope 14d.'

'1591 to ohn Turner for ringing 2d.'

In those days the anniversary of Queen Elizabeth's Coronation was celebrated by the ringing of the bells, and two items are: '1591 drinke to the ringers on coronation day 8d.,' and '1594 to a carpinter for one days work mending the bells against the coronation daye 10d.'

Ringing has changed considerably since the closing years of the 16th century, and at the present time it is pleasing to know that Seale is a village where the tower is included in the Farnham District of the Guildford Diocesan Guild; also that its ringers take interest in the work of the Guild by practical support in every possible way.

ANOTHER PAGE OF OUTINGS

CHESTER

Ringers from Chester, with friends from Buckley, made a tour into Staffordshire and Derbyshire on July 17th.

Ringing took place at Uttoxeter, Ashbourne, Youlgreave, Bakewell and Fairfield (Buxton). Members of the local companies joined in some of the touches at most places and, with the help of Rev. Mr. Graham at Bakewell, a course of London Surprise was rung. Other methods rung were Grandsire, Stedman Triples, Plain Bob, Spliced Plain and Little Bob, Kent Treble Bob, Southwell and Superlative Surprise Major.

The outing was most enjoyable, despite the very inclement weather during the later part of the day, and the thanks of all are due to Mr. R. G. Corby, who made the arrangements, to the incumbents and the local ringers.

HORSHAM, SUSSEX

Horsham ringers spent a very pleasant day in Kent on July 24th. After coffee at Tunbridge Wells, the day was started well with the fine six at Horsmonden, followed by the ten at Leeds. After lunch, Harrietsham (8) was visited, and here ringing concluded with an excellent 'lower.' Ashford (8) was the next stop, the bells being much appreciated by all the ringers. An excellent tea was taken at a local hostelry.

At Rolvenden difficulty was experienced in raising the tenor in peal and time did not allow a long stop at this tower. The day finished with excellent ringing at Benenden, where a course of Superlative was rung. A stop was made at West Higham for liquid refreshment and Horsham was reached at about 10.30 p.m.

The outing was very successfully organised by Mr. L. Stilwell, to whom is owed grateful thanks.

SPALDING, LINCS

A coachload of ringers from Spalding and district left the Corn Exchange at 7 a.m. on July 10th and headed for the Suffolk border. First call was at Thetford, where our ringing was soon stopped when the headstock on the 6th broke in two. Luckily the bell wedged in the frame and no one was hurt.

Our next tower was Elveden, where the bell tower is detached and joined to the main church by cloisters. The Vicar's wife kindly met us and gave us a very interesting tour of this fine church, which is partly 11th century and partly modern, before ascending to the belfry.

At Bury St. Edmunds both SS. Mary and Peter's and St. James' Cathedral towers were visited. We also had lunch in Bury, for which we were all ready. More ringing followed at Lavenham, and then to Sudbury, where again we rang at two towers, St. Gregory's and All Saints'. Tea was had at Sudbury. Our last tower of the day was at Clare and, although we were a little late on arrival, we still stayed for a good hour's ringing. Alas, Mr. Newington couldn't get that Stedman into rounds.

On towards home again, with a short stop at Huntingdon for refreshments. All agreed it was an excellent and well organised day. The thanks of all go to the incumbents of towers visited and to the local ringers who met us at the towers. R. C. N.

ALL SAINTS', ROCHDALE

A visit to Messrs. John Taylor's bell foundry at Loughborough was this year's outing of All Saints', Rochdale. A start was made at 7.30 a.m. in unfavourable weather. Fairfield, near Buxton, was reached at 9.15 a.m., and a break was made for 1¼ hours' ringing.

After lunch at Derby, Loughborough was reached at 2.30. Mr. John Fidler conducted the party around the foundry—a most interesting tour—which ended with testing the well-known foundry bells. The last ringing of the day was Osmaston; home was reached at 11 p.m., after one stop at Ashbourne.

Methods rung during the day were Plain Bob, Oxford Treble Bob, Kent Treble Bob, St. Clement's, Double Oxford, Stedman and Grandsire, and call changes for the learners.

BOLSOVER, DERBYSHIRE

Since the early days of the year the Bolsover ringers and their friends had looked forward with eager anticipation to Saturday, June 19th, the day fixed for the annual outing to the Cambridge district, and, after a very long and tiring day, all agreed that this year's tour had proved to be one of the very best in a long line of successful outings.

An early start was necessary and, at the scheduled time, the organiser was relieved to see the full 'Bolsover' complement waiting to board the luxury coach outside the Parish Church. The evergreen Walter Allwood had joined the coach at 6.15 a.m. in Chesterfield and the party was completed by friends from Warsop and Sutton-on-Trent, the latter being picked up in Newark.

The first tower, St. Mary-the-Virgin, Godmanchester, was reached in good time, and the fine ring of eight, recently overhauled, was soon raised and set going to various methods, including Little Bob, Double Norwich, Cambridge Major, Superlative and Stedman Triples. The striking was extremely good and set a good standard for the day. The Rev. P. J. Disney and his wife spent some time with the party and seemed very anxious to make everything comfortable for visitors.

The coach arrived at St. Neots exactly on time and the party were heartily welcomed by the Rev. L. Galley. The heavy eight proved rather difficult to raise in peal, but reasonable touches of Plain Bob, Kent Treble Bob and Cambridge Major were brought round. The local captain was anxious that there should be no damaged stays and, fortunately, nothing untoward happened, the Misses Joan Smith and Doreen Armstrong surprising him by their ability on the heavy bells. Arnold Hill turned in the tenor to Double Norwich and an excellent fall in peal completed the ringing at this fine tower.

After the early start and the strenuous ringing during the morning the party did justice to an excellent lunch at the Blue Boar Hotel, Cambridge.

Ringing took place during the afternoon at the famous Church of St. Bene't, Cambridge. Unfortunately, it seems that these bells are not regularly rung, and certainly need some attention. The ropes required considerable adjustments, but the Minor experts eventually settled down to some good striking. Herbert Rooke insisting that a touch of Stedman Doubles should be rung before leaving St. Bene't's. The programme allowed for a break to give an opportunity for sightseeing, and, as the weather was glorious, most of the party made a special effort to visit King's College Chapel and the river. Several of the youngsters would have liked a trip on the river, but time was short, as tea was arranged at St. Ives.

The meals have always been a special feature of Bolsover outings, but all agreed that the tea at St. Ives was certainly the very best on record.

The evening was spent on the very attractive light eight at the Church of All Saints, St. Ives. The rather long draught of rope presented some difficulty at first, but the ringing eventually settled down and several good touches were brought round. A broken rope on the treble made it necessary to change to ringing Minor, and the North Notts section of the party were so anxious to extend the stay at this tower that ringing did not cease until after 8 p.m., instead of the scheduled time of 7 p.m. Mr. Frank Warrington joined in one or two touches of Minor and the local representatives were greatly impressed by the standard of striking. The extended stay at St. Ives gave the youngsters their opportunity to spend some time on the river.

The long journey home was broken for a short time at Stamford, and the coach finally reached Bolsover shortly after midnight. The party was kept awake by community singing, and it would be interesting to know how many popular songs, hymns, etc., were revived by the very mixed voices. The highlight was the rendering of 'Herr von Schmidt,' the action song so popular at the Derbyshire Association dinners. A. B. COOPER.

ROADE, NORTHANTS

On August 3rd a party of ringers from Roade, Blisworth, Rothersthorpe and Northampton set out to visit eight towers in the Kettering district. A good start was made at Orlingbury (5, 10¾ cwt.), where we met three friends from Bozeat, bringing our number to 11. Next were Pytchley (5, 8 cwt.), and Barton Seagrave (5, 9 cwt.). Lunch was then taken in the Wicksteed Park, Kettering

At Geddington (5, 11¼ cwt.), a touch of 200 Spliced Doubles more than made up for a poor 'rise.' After some difficulty Weldon (6, 10¼ cwt.) was reached. At the top of this tower is a large lantern which, we were told, in days of old was lit by 16 candles and guided travellers through Rockingham Forest. Tea was taken at Corby and we then tried the light six (tenor 7 cwt.), the difference in weight of the treble and fourth being only 77 lb.

Although several members of the party might have been a little reluctant to move on after seeing a sample of the town's female population, we travelled to East Carlton (6, 9 cwt.). We were not expected here, the priest-in-charge from whom permission to ring was obtained failing to inform the tower captain. We were made very welcome, however, and made good use of the bells. Our last call was at Rushton (6, 8 cwt.), where we finished off the day's ringing with a good 240 of Spliced Doubles and an excellent 'fall.'

Thanks are due to the incumbents and the tower captains for their co-operation, and to Mr. G. F. Roome (hon. secretary, Northampton Branch, Peterborough Diocesan Guild), who so ably arranged our tour J. E. H.

OXFORD GUILD WEDDING

Mr. Edmund E. Pearson and Miss Betty West

A very pretty wedding and one of considerable interest to ringers in the Diocese of Oxford took place on July 24th at Deddington Parish Church when Mr. Edmund Ernest Pearson, younger son of Mr. Ernest C. Pearson and the late Mrs. Pearson, was married to Miss Betty West, second daughter of Mrs. G. West and the late Mr. W. C. West.

Both bride and bridegroom are ringers at Deddington and indeed the bridegroom is well-known in ringing circles, having a goodly number of peals to his credit. The bridegroom's father, Mr. Ernest C. Pearson, is not only the respected and well-loved secretary of the Banbury Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, but also a churchwarden of Deddington and a Diocesan lay reader.

This fine XIVth century church was beautifully decorated for the occasion and was comfortably filled with a large number of relatives and friends. The service was conducted by the Vicar of Deddington (the Rev. M. Frost), assisted by the Vicar of North Aston-with-Duns Tew (the Rev. W. L. Smith). The service was fully choral.

The bride, who wore a gown of ivory brocade and carried a bouquet of cream rosebuds, was given away by her brother-in-law, Mr. R. P. Stevens. Mr. Cecil H. Pearson, the bridegroom's brother, was the best man. The bridesmaids were Miss Ann West (sister of the bride), in pale blue taffeta and nylon net, Miss Gillian Stevens (the bride's niece), in ivory satin and nylon net, and Miss Margaret Bird (the bridegroom's cousin), also in ivory satin and nylon net. The page boy was the bridegroom's cousin, Master Peter Pearson. The bridesmaids all carried sweet peas.

Touches of Grandsire Triples were rung before and after the ceremony, in which the local and visiting ringers took part.

The reception was held at the home of the bride, and the sun at last broke through the clouds to give the finishing touch to the day's happiness. As the bride and bridegroom departed for their honeymoon at Kingswear, a peal of Plain Bob Major was commenced in the church tower and details of this will be found in another column. Suffice it to say that this too was worthy of the occasion. Mr. and Mrs. Pearson will continue to live at Deddington and will not therefore be lost to the tower.

WILTSHIRE WEDDING

Mr. F. D. Mack, B.Sc.— Miss M. I. Kennelly, B.Sc.

A picturesque wedding of particular interest to the bellringing fraternity took place on Wednesday, August 4th, at St. Michael and All Angels' Church, Melksham, between Mr. Frank Devereux Mack, only son of the Rev. and Mrs. Devereux Mack, of Churcham Vicarage, Gloucester, and Miss Mary Irene Kennelly, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. P. Kennelly, of Melksham. The Rev. C. A. Witcombe, M.A., officiated.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a fitted white silk honeycomb dress with a long full skirt and a headdress of lilies and orange blossom. She carried a bouquet of dark red roses and pink begonias.

In attendance were two bridesmaids, Miss Mary Hobbs, who wore a dress of printed nylon over cyclamen taffeta and Miss Daphne Mack, youngest sister of the bridegroom, who wore a similar dress of hydrangea blue taffeta. Both wore headdresses of white begonias and carried bouquets to match. Mr. Lance C. I. Watson was best man.

On leaving the church after the ceremony the happy couple were greeted by an archway of handbells held aloft by members both of the local band and of the University of Bristol Society of Change Ringers, of which Mary and Frank are highly popular members, whilst overhead the church bells pealed forth their tuneful sounds over the sunlit scene. The reception, attended by 62 guests, was held at Melksham House, and the honeymoon is being spent on the Norfolk Broads.

Immediately after the marriage ceremony a quarter peal of Stedman Triples was rung by the following:—C. F. Andrews (conductor) 1, S. R. Cockell 2, B. Enid Lloyd Roberts (U.B.S.C.R.) 3, R. J. Stokes (U.B.S.C.R.) 4, I. H. Trueman (U.B.S.C.R.) 5, G. R. Eyles 6, W. C. West 7, F. Price 8. L. C. I. W.

DREE DAYS IN ZUMMERZET

The dree day toon by 'vrends ov the exerzise' at Whitsun be cum to stay, so us opes. Us calls um vrends cos us knaws um var too wull t' call um Laydies and Ginnelmen, and the rist aut is cos us doant want nort to do wi they ther paple oo calls thersels tower grabbers, tho baying vrends, so to spake, us doant want to vall out wi nobody.

Tis the zecond yer us av done it, an the avair be got up by one aus oos ome be in Devon, but the rist aus comes vrum all auver the plaace if ee knaws what i mane. This yer they cummed vrom Zwindun, Chippenham, North Bradley (can't make nort ov they), Vairford, which be way up in Gloster so thev tells me, an a place called A'burne or zum zich.

Lots aum were cumming vast, but one thing and t'other stapped um, zo only zix aus met Zaturday at Beckington. Still us tickled they old back six a beet vor us left, and wen us gets to Vroom St. John's two o the rengers cummed and elped us. The Lord knawed us neyded it too.

Zame thing appened when us got to Castle Cary, but didn worry us, cos one o they college kiddies oo went wi us last yer zed our motty was summat in Latin which manes 'Us doan't care.'

Then us goes to Zummerton an ad zum grub in one o they posh plazes wer they gives ee paper andgershifs to wipe yer vingers in arter you've vinished pecking the bones. I beant zure if twas the Unicorn or the Lamb but I knaws us ate one in t'other ad a vine old ditty on they bells too. Plenty o that ther miner stuff an it zounded rale dacent. Rest ov the crowd were wating vor us at Martock an two vullers vrom Yawvill zo that made the party 13. Trouble was, Mr. Varrent must av vergot us was cumming cos us ad to vetch the kays vor us cud start. You shud av yerred us dapping they bells round. I rekkon aven Paul Taylor wud av zed twer gud, an ee hanged um. On us goes, Zouth Petherton, Ulminster un Chard. I tell ee, us ad a vine old time.

Zindy marning split up a beet. Zum aus renged at Haste Budley, zum at Otterton and zum at Littleman, an evrywer us went vrom start to vinish us ad a warm welcum.

Arter dinner us called on they ther vullers at Exeter Catheydrel. Proper gud zorts they be. Aven zhook ands wi us, soo ee can zee why us baint no ordnery tower grabbers.

On us goes to Newton St. Cyres, an was us late? Us coudna blamed the chap wateing if eed bin a bit waxy like. But not ee! Kirton next stop an us wus enjoying evry minute ov it. Ad 'Tay' yer too.

Wull us vinished up renging vor Zervice at Down St. Mary an us nevver seed s'many Photygraphs on a tower wall afore. Certifycats or zummat they calls um, ver this yer call change renging. Mind you they vullers can dap em round a bit smart. Pears us shuke the Passon ther too, cos when ee give out the notices ee zed that when us rote, an ee ask us to stay ver zervice ee didn't think us wud. Wull us did zee!! Wull that were all vor zindy, ceps when us gets back Budley zum vools goes up the churchyard and rengs a corse ov Gransire Treples on and bells. Zed thers a vust time vor everything.

Mundy us wuz off in a vorrin country agin avor you cud zay Jack Snap. North Curry, Curry Rivel and a place called zummat like Zwish Episle. Vuller called Cuke up in Lester wus thonly one ever I knawed zay it right. Vust two made us veel ungry like, an zure nuff us ad a rale veed at Curry Rivel. Then cums Langport an us ad zum gud renging at all aum. Next wer Quane Camel, an what thik vuller Reeves thot ov our rize I'm veared to think. Mind you us didn do bad arter they wuz up. Zo us ends up at Bruton and Warminster, an everybody rekkons us ad ad a rare old time. Ad a quick one vor us zhuke ands an parted an zed us'd av a small 'do' zune an another big un on the 16th ov October, zo if any ov ee wants to cum wi us, just lets knaw, an I think yu'll vind, as I zed afore, that us be purty vrendly. MR. W. WEATHERSTONE

With reference to the late Mr. W. Weatherstone, Mr. A. C. Hazelden, of Guildford, informs us that he met and rang with him once at Chislehurst about 1898-1899.

According to the records of the Biographies Committee of the Central Council, Mr. Weatherstone was born on October 23rd, 1840, and died on September 17th, 1914, and was buried in Nunhead Cemetery. He was a carpenter and joiner by trade.

He rang his first peal, Grandsire Triples, at St. Alphege's, Greenwich, on January 29th, 1884. Among the towers with which he was connected were Westminster Abbey, St. Clement Danes, St. John's, Waterloo Road; also in the Deptford and Lewisham areas. When the Society of Trinity Youths was re-established in 1888 he was elected Master. He rang his 101st peal at Greenwich in 1891. He was elected a member of the Central Council in 1897 as a representative of the London County Association and remained a member until 1905.

To his memory a half-muffled peal of Grandsire Triples was rung at St. Mary's, Rotherhithe, on September 26th, 1914, by the following band: J. J. Lewis 1, W. Truss 2, C. H. Hughes 3, T. H. Taffender 4, H. Burton 5, C. W. R. Grimwood 6, T. Groombridge (conductor) 7, G. H. Harmer 8.

THE RINGING WORLD

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

No. 2263 Vol. L. FRIDAY, AUGUST 20, 1954 Registered at the G.P.O. for transmission as a newspaper 4d.

SOME BERKSHIRE BELLS

BERKSHIRE seems to be a happy hunting ground ground for old bells, and Part XIII. of the 'Church Bells of Berkshire,' by Mr. Frederick Sharpe, Deputy Master of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, gives a number of such instances. The archæological side of bells is making an increasing appeal to many of our younger ringers. It is a good sign that the art of change ringing can extend in this direction and lead to individual research. The work of Mr. Sharpe, Mr. J. W. Clarke and Mr. R. Clouston will, we trust, lead to equally keen antiquarians in the next generation.

One of the most interesting of Berkshire bells is to be found under the cupola on the top of the tower of St. Andrew's, Sonning. It is a genuine 13th century bell, and strange to relate, after nearly seven centuries of life, is still in use as a clock bell. Formerly hung for ringing, it retains its clapper and headstock, although it is now hung 'dead.' Mr. Sharpe gives its date as 1280, and because of the associations between Sonning and Exeter suggests that this bell might have been cast in that city. There is no date on the bell—just a cross and the word 'Maria' in a primitive type. The principal dimensions of the bell are: diameter at lip 23 inches, height from lip to crown 19½ inches, canons 4½ inches high, thickness at sound-bow 1½ inches. Its strike note is approximately G natural. The four largest bells of the ring of eight at Sonning are by Ellis Knight I., of Reading, 1640–41.

It is perhaps only natural that the Knights of Reading should be strongly represented. Lettering to them did seem important. A letter 'X' was substituted for 'I' on a number of occasions by Henry Knight. Thus the treble at Stanford Dingley is inscribed: 'HENRX KNXGHT MADE THXS BELL 1609,' and the second at St. Michael's, Steventon, reads: 'HENRX KNXGHT MADE THXS BELL ANO X6X7.' This substitution of 'X' for 'I' is also found in two bells at S. Nicholas', Sulham, by Henry Knight I. and Ellis Knight I., and also on one of the two bells at Sulhamstead-Banister.

The Georgian cupola at the top of the tower to house a sanctus bell is also found at Streatley. This bell, which was doubtless the one referred to in the Commissioners' Inventory of 1552, is now preserved in the tower. From its lettering Mr. Sharpe deduces that it was of the first half of the 16th century. Its founder's name is unknown, but it closely resembles a bell at Loxwood, Sussex, which Mr. A. D. Tyssen describes in his 'Church Bells of Sussex.'

We hope that the attention of the Parochial Church Councils are called to where the bells need attention. For example, at Sulhampstead-Abbots there are three bells, two being of the 17th century. 'All the bells,' writes Mr. Sharpe, 'retain their canons and have not been quarter-turned—a process which should not be long delayed if the 17th century ones are to be preserved. The tenor has a false crown staple secured by means of 17th century slotted pins and keys.' Frequent inspections are rarely carried out of old bells unless they are rung regularly, and a ring of three is naturally outside the ken of a diocesan guild. These old towers, with bells that are not rung and neglected by the parish, are apt to get into a deplorable condition that beggars description. One ringer, archæologically bent, found in a North Bedfordshire tower enough rubbish to fill a three-ton lorry. The condition of the tower and bells of a church would be a good subject for an archdeacon to address the churchwardens on at his annual visitation. It should be incumbent upon all churchwardens to visit their tower at least once a year and undertake a thorough inspection. We feel that the Central Council's handbook, 'The Preservation and Repair of Bells, etc.,' is not sufficiently known. It should be in the possession of every Parochial Church Council, and ringers who serve on diocesan and ruri-decanal committees would perform a useful service in publicising this publication.

LATE NEWS

The B.B.C. has dramatised Dorothy Sayers' famous book 'The Nine Tailors,' and is broadcasting it in the Light Programme in four parts, commencing on Tuesday, August 24th. For this recordings were made at Banstead on Friday last, consisting of tolling, muffled ringing, Kent T.B. Major and handbell practice.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Kent ringers extend their congratulations to Mr. Eric Naylor, of Rainham, on his marriage at Bathampton on August 6th to Miss M. Hemer. Unfortunately a peal attempt in honour of the event at St. Mary's, Upchurch, failed owing to the Vicar knocking on the door when only five more 120's were needed to complete the peal of Grandsire Doubles. An attempt for a peal of Grandsire Triples at Rainham was also lost.

With a peal at Wimborne (St. Giles) Mr. D. T. Matkin, of Bournemouth, has now rung peals of Erin from Triples to Cinques.

Two Hitchin ringers—Derek P. Jones and Michael Orme—scored quarters at Dunblane Cathedral and St. Mary's Cathedral, Edinburgh, while on a recent holiday.

In connection with the Stonham Aspal Bell Restoration Fund, Mr. W. J. Button, on behalf of the committee, thanks all ringers for their donations and help in restoring the bells. The fund is now closed.

Mr. F. W. Cooke, of 10, Limehurst Road, Darlington, has been appointed 'Ringing World' representative to the Southern District of the Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association.

A good start in peal ringing was made by Mr. J. Desmond Painter, of the Norwich Diocesan Association. His first peal was of Cambridge Surprise Major on a working bell at Marsham on August 7th.

Mr. John Long, of the Bedfordshire Young Ringers on tour in Dorset, appeared in the 'Eye Witness' broadcast of the B.B.C. on August 11th. A well-struck touch of London Surprise Minor on the bells of St. Peter's, Shaftesbury, followed the interview. This was the Bedfordshire Young Ringers' fifth tour.

The peal of Double Norwich recently rung at Liverpool Parish Church was only the second in the tower. The first was on the old bells on July 29th, 1924, almost 30 years to the day before the present peal. This first peal was rung on the front eight of the twelve, but there was no semitone bell in those days and the music must have been somewhat peculiar. George Newton was the conductor, and the only three members of the band who are still alive—Messrs. Hammond, Larkey and Lintott—are still regular members of the St. Nicholas' band. Tom Hammond was recently taken ill while in the South of England on business, and had to have an emergency operation in a hospital near Tunbridge Wells. His many friends will be glad to hear that he has made a good recovery and has now returned home to Liverpool.

A correspondent asks which dog has bagged most belfries. If Mr. David Vincent has kept a record, his 'Bess' which accompanied him to Newcastle at Whitsun has a substantial tally.

The friends of Mr. John Arbury, of Ottery St. Mary, will learn with regret that he has gone into the Devon and Exeter Hospital for an operation, and will wish him a speedy and successful recovery.

Seventy-three-year-old Mr. C. F. Popple, of Lincoln, has rung at Kelvedon, Essex, his first quarter away from his home tower. The selection of Kelvedon is appropriate, as his grandfather was a ringer in that tower 100 years ago.

The bells of Howden mentioned in Miss Wyman's article on 'Sussex Tour of Yorkshire' were from the foundry of Messrs. John Taylor and Co. She expresses regret for wrongly attributing these bells to another foundry in her report.

RINGING IN CUMBERLAND AND WESTMORLAND

AFTER Cornwall comes, in alphabetical order, Cumberland, and since conditions are almost the same in the neighbouring county of Westmorland, it is convenient to consider both together. We found that peals were few and far between in our extreme south-western county, and the same applies to an even greater extent in these two most north-westerly ones. But the reasons are different. There is much ringing in Cornwall, but mainly of the 'stony' variety, but in Cumberland and Westmorland there is very little ringing at all, partly, no doubt, because of the sparse population and the difficulties of communication in that wild part of the country.

There are only 37 rings of bells in the two counties as against Cornwall's 145, but although only 114 peals have ever been rung on them, the average per tower is better than Cornwall's! As far as peal ringing is concerned, visiting bands have been responsible for an even larger percentage than in Cornwall, so few are the resident change ringers. Most peals in both counties were rung between 1925 and 1933, the latter year being the peak in both cases—eight in Cumberland and nine in Westmorland. The years 1925, 1927, 1930 and 1931 all saw more peals than have been rung in any year since the war, when the highest combined total has been seven in each of the years 1950, 1951 and 1953. None were rung in 1949 and 1952 and there has only been one this year, so far.

The only ten-bell tower in the two counties has recorded the most peals—Kendal with 16. The first was rung in 1894, but this was not the first to be rung in that part of the world although it was the first in Westmorland. This honour belongs to Carlisle (St. Stephen's), where two peals were rung in 1890 and 1892. The 16 peals at Kendal are spread fairly evenly over the whole period since 1894—the biggest gap being the last, for no peal has been rung there since 1936.

The only other tower to have reached double figures is a six-bell tower, also in Westmorland—Burton. This has 15, commencing in 1927. Eight of them have been rung since 1950, so here is a centre where something is 'happening' at the moment. St. Bees also deserves mention in this respect, too, for five of its six peals have likewise been rung since 1950. Three eight-bell towers (the highest number for any county except Devon and Warwickshire) do not appear in the lists at all. They are Aspatria, Irton and Silloth, and all are in Cumberland. There are likewise nine six-bell towers and the only five-bell tower in the two counties still waiting to be conquered. No doubt they will fall before long!

The highest number of peals in Cumberland is nine, at both Crosthwaite and Egremont. The former had its first peal in 1895 and the last in 1950, whilst the latter's list commences in 1921, and it is here that the one and only peal of this year was rung.

THEIR GOLDEN WEDDING TOUR

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Weatherby, of Los Angeles, who are touring this country as a golden wedding anniversary, have since their landing in July met ringers at Shrewsbury, Market Drayton (Mr. Weatherby's birthplace and where, in 1889, he was captain of the ringers), London and Guildford. It is 30 years since Mr. Weatherby was in England.

While at Scarborough, where he stayed with his sister, Mrs. Annie Harper, he was interviewed by the local Press, and mentioned that when Christ Church Cathedral, Victoria, B.C., was opened in 1936, he travelled 1,500 miles to ring the bells there. Nine years later he made a similar trip to ring these bells as a tribute to Sir Winston Churchill.

Mr. and Mrs. Weatherby left Scarborough last week for York and Edinburgh on their way to Lossiemouth on the Moray Firth. On their return journey they are calling at Loughborough, Leicester and Basingstoke before sailing on the Queen Mary for America on September 2nd.

Now 83 years of age, Mr. Weatherby writes: 'It has been a wonderful experience and a great pleasure to see so many old friends again and the memory of their kindness will remain with me for the rest of my life. My ringing has not been of the best—but I cannot expect to ring too well after so many years without any practice.'

All we can add was at Holy Trinity, Guildford, Mr. Weatherby rang a touch of Stedman Triples on his old bell, the fourth, to the satisfaction of his one time conductor, Mr. A. H. Pulling.

AN AMERICAN SEES ENGLISH RINGING

Mrs. Carol S. Scott, of St. Petersburg, Florida, U.S.A., who, on a brief visit to this country, was anxious to see something of English ringing, writes to the Editor expressing thanks for the opportunities that have been accorded to her in various towers.

On her first Sunday in London Mrs. Scott saw ringing at St. Martin's-in-the-Fields in the morning and St. Paul's in the afternoon. The two views of London from the towers, she states, were magnificent. The following evening she was allowed to attend the handbell ringing at St. Martin's.

The next Sunday she was in Edinburgh and in the morning was with the ringers at St. Mary's, and in the evening at St. Cuthbert's.

The third Sunday she was privileged to visit the ringers at York Minster and later in the week attended a practice at Cambridge. She concludes her letter by stating: 'The six towers have all been as different as one could wish—from six bells to twelve bells, with different rhythms and methods and every one has been interesting.'

LLANDAFF CATHEDRAL

The quarter peal rung at Llandaff Cathedral on August 10th was the first on the bells since they were rehung after the extensive air raid damage done to the Cathedral during the last war. It was specially arranged by Mr. Tim Yeomans as a birthday compliment to Mr. Joe Bailey on his 82nd birthday. Mr. Bailey was a member of the Cathedral band for 30 years prior to the war. In the quarter were ringers from Aberavon, Birmingham, Bridgend, Cardiff, Cowbridge, Llantrisant, Porthcawl and Whitchurch.

A WELSH WEEK-END IN SOMERSET

Unfavourable weather did not damp the spirits of seven ringers and two wives who gathered at the Angel Hotel, Bath, on July 31st, for a ringing week-end in Somerset. This was a reunion of the party that travelled to Pembrokeshire last August, with the Welsh contingent this time 'playing away.'

Everyone was prepared for a hectic week-end and Saturday morning found us gathered at Newton St. Loe, where we were joined by friends from Corston. Several methods were rung including an ill-fated attempt for London Minor. It was but a short ride to Corston, where the topping little eight just rang themselves.

On then to St. Stephen's, Bristol, where we were met by Mr. Albert Tylor. A good peal of Grandsire Caters ran round in 3 hours and 14 minutes.

The party then retired to the lounge of the Angel, where friends from Bristol, Bath, Corston and Colerne assembled. A very pleasant evening ensued, during which Mr. Robert Coles, on behalf of the company, presented a perpetual calendar to Miss Jacqueline Evans and Mr. David King. This would be a constant reminder of a wonderful week-end in West Wales.

On Sunday we joined the band at Twerton-on-Avon and attended Matins. In the afternoon, with the help of Mr. S. Woodburn, a quarter peal of Stedman Triples was rung at Weston, Bath. After tea we made our way to Bath Abbey and a very cordial welcome was given us by Mr. W. Prescott.

In such good company it was very difficult to say 'Good night.' This became evident on Monday morning, when an attempt for Double Norwich at Bitton 'went up in smoke.' We were told that the bells didn't know the method and after half an hour the conductor found he didn't know it either!

After lunch came the 'goodbyes.' and the 'Umbrella Brigade' went their several ways in all innocence of the 'ordeal by confetti' which they had so narrowly escaped! (It had been planned to fill their 'gamps' with the stuff.)

Everyone expressed their sincere thanks and appreciation to Mr. Roger Fry for his wonderful arrangements and hearty welcome to Somerset. There is much speculation about next year but we know that if the plans are in Roger's hands they will indeed be successful.

GUILD of DEVONSHIRE RINGERS

North-West Branch Meet at Holsworthy

The summer meeting was held at Holsworthy on August 7th and some 25 members and friends spent a very enjoyable afternoon. Much good instruction work was done while the more expert ringers brought round good touches of Grandsire and Stedman Triples as well as Kent Treble Bob Major.

The service was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. A. Warne), assisted by the president, Prebendary E. V. Cox. The Rector preached and Mr. Pulsford was at the organ.

Tea was served at Sanders' Cafe.

At the business meeting the chair was taken by Mr. F. C. Smale, the Rev. W. H. Ravenhill being unable to attend.

Two new members, including the Rector, were elected, and a hearty vote of thanks was given to the Rector for his fine address and the use of the bells, as well as Mr. Pulsford and all who had contributed to the excellent meeting.

Visitors from Ross, Rewe, Dorset, Redruth and Plymouth were heartily welcomed, and pleasure was expressed on all hands with the bells and arrangements on this happy occasion.

PEAL RINGING IN BUCKINGHAMSHIRE

Dear Sir,—The present series of articles on county peal totals makes interesting reading, but an analysis of the varying totals may add to this interest.

In Bucks, Hughenden has a tremendous lead. The older generation will remember John Evans, pioneer of Surprise ringing in Bucks, who hailed from Hughenden, conductor of the first peals of London in Bucks and Berks. Contemporary with him were the Biggs's, all splendid ringers, Mr. Roland Biggs (Ringing Master of the E. Berks and S. Bucks Branch of the Oxford Guild) and his son continuing the family record. Hughenden has always possessed an advanced band, and to-day has one able to ring a non-conducted peal. Being in the middle of a large park (Disraeli's home), peal ringing is no nuisance at Hughenden tower, and this, together with an enthusiastic band, accounts for its peal total.

High Wycombe (111 peals), being the only ring with more than eight bells until Slough had ten bells in 1951, naturally attracted the attention of enthusiasts for the higher numbers. Under the leadership for so many years of Fred Hayes, now in his seventies, numerous peals of Stedman were rung.

Burnham (143) has always been a popular tower and it was here that Surprise ringing was first practised in S. Bucks, George Martin taking a prominent part. Since the advent of George Gilbert, who has trained countless young ringers up to peal standard, Burnham's total has soared. In recent years there was almost a monthly peal attempt.

Beaconsfield (103) has long had a good band and Surprise methods have been regularly rung under Harry Wingrove's leadership, with the Fletcher family well to the fore. In the 30's, when Mr. Wingrove's band and Mr. Alan Pink's were competing for honours in S. Bucks, there was a terrific scramble for towers, Mr. Pink being forced to perform mainly in Berks, Middlesex and Surrey. Besides his own tower, Mr. Wingrove scored many peals at West Wycombe, the church being ideally situated for peal ringing, right on the crown of a hill behind the village. Both bands rang peals at Wooburn, which helped along its total (55).

Wraysbury's 60 peals are probably due to its being easily obtained for peal attempts, and many peals were rung here in the 30's. Although not in Bucks, being almost opposite Wraysbury on the south bank of the Thames, one must mention Old Windsor, a very popular tower for peals. Bill Welling has trained many bands and conducted 'local' peals here, and has made his tower available for numerous attempts.

Farnham Royal (47), of course, enjoyed popularity under the leadership of J. J. Parker (of Twelve-part fame), but since his decease in 1934 there has been a decline, despite all the labours of Bill Henley who, since the last war, trained a good young band which has recently dispersed.

Fulmer (35), Hitcham (58) and Horton (32) were sixes easily obtainable, and so created a diversion from Major ringing and another opportunity for a peal. At Horton one earns a peal, Fulmer might be more popular if they were in the usual scale, and Hitcham, being a light ring on the outskirts of Burnham, provided an excellent training ground for George Gilbert's ladies' bands in their early peal-ringing days.

Slough's total of 48 would have been much greater had the tower been more easily obtainable. Even with the Fussell brothers (W. H. and A. C.) in the band the total remained low, complaints being common. During the recent war an 'emergency' hospital was erected adjoining the church (it seems to be there 'for keeps'!), so all ringing is seriously restricted, but the local band exerted enough pressure to raise the attempts from one to two per year.

Of the towers in North Bucks I have little knowledge, but I was very surprised to see no mention in Mr. Felstead's article of Buckingham, as this tower has long boasted a first-class band, and one would have expected a good peal total.

The general conclusion is that the Buckinghamshire peals have been scored mainly in towers easily obtained for attempts and in those led by an enthusiastic conductor.—Yours faithfully,

Slough. W. BIRMINGHAM.

JOINT MEETING AT COTTESMORE

The annual joint meeting of the Peterborough Guild (Rutland Branch) and the Leicester Diocesan Guild (Melton District) was held at the Parish Church of Cottesmore, a beautiful old-world village in the heart of Rutland.

This meeting attracted over 40 ringers from the following towers: Asfordby, Ancaster, Ashby-Folville, Anstey, Barrowden, Cottesmore, Claybrook, Edithweston, Empingham, Grantham, Hough-on-the-Hill, Melton Mowbray, Market-Overton, Preston, Sapcote, Sutton-in-Ashfield, Treeton (Yorks), Wing and Wymondham.

At 4.30 p.m. a service was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. T. Howells) with Mr. R. Scott as organist. Tea was served in the Rectory.

Mr. Scott, chairman of Rutland Branch, thanked the Rector for his services, also for the splendid tea. He also extended a warm welcome to the Leicester Diocesan Guild. Mr. J. H. Cook (secretary), in his reply, apologised for the absence of the chairman and thanked Mr. Scott for his warm welcome, and hoped they would be able to have another joint gathering next year.

Methods rung were Grandsire and Stedman, Plain Bob, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob, Cambridge and London Surprise. J. H. C.

WEST WICKHAM PARISH CHURCH

In common with many of England's lovely and ancient churches, the Parish Church of St. John-the-Baptist, West Wickham, Kent, is beginning to show the effects of its age. A recent complete survey undertaken because of the need of repair to the fabric, revealed the presence of dry rot and woodworm in various timbers to an extent that demanded immediate action.

All the woodwork in the church has been treated to control this, but as a considerable proportion of the timber in the tower is being replaced, ringing has had to be suspended for about a month. The ceiling of the ringing room is to be renewed, but fortunately the bell-frame is not affected.

Built in the 15th century and replacing an earlier building, of which traces are still to be found, West Wickham Church stands in what is now London's Green Belt, and in recent years has been too small to accommodate growing congregations. To overcome this, plans have been approved to extend the building on two sides and thus provide over a hundred additional seats. When this work will commence is not yet known as the complete restoration and rebuilding programme, which includes recasting the cracked fourth and fifth bells, and rehanging all six, is estimated to cost £25,000. The source of this sum is also not yet known!

LONDON SURPRISE

Because of the high rail-fares some members of the Ladies' Guild and their friends going to the meeting at Kilburn on July 31st went to London on the 'workers'' train. To occupy the time gap between 8 a.m. and 3 p.m. arrangements were made to ring at a few London towers.

The rendezvous for ringers from Baldock, Finchley and North Mimms was at Finchley (8). After enjoying ringing on the fine light octave in this beautifully modern church, Mr. Blake kindly guided the party to St. Anne's, Highgate (8), where the Norton members were already ringing Minor. The Norton ringers, including the organiser, had earlier attended the funeral service of their beloved organist, and so were delayed.

At St. Anne's the clock-case is unusually worn on one place, the reason being painfully obvious if the ringer of the sixth forgets to keep his elbows strictly to himself. Afterwards we went to St. Margaret's, Edgware (6, 9 cwt.), where we achieved Cambridge. Leaving half an hour late, we travelled to Hyde Park, intending to eat our lunch by the Serpentine and then visit St. Mary Abbot's, Kensington. There was no time to finish lunch, for the main road was being torn up and traffic was restricted to 'one way only'—the wrong way for us—so we had to walk all the way to St. Mary Abbot's!

However, when we eventually arrived, extremely late, we were welcomed and allowed to ring for an hour. These heavy ten are a pleasure to ring. Our youngest ringer thoroughly enjoyed ringing 'inside' on the back end; and the tenor itself (32 cwt.) was rung down easily by one young lady. We only wish that we could have done full justice to the bells before we had to leave for Kilburn (8), where the meeting was held.

So a young band, whose average age is probably only 18 'went London.' 'Thank you' to all who helped us. The surprise mentioned in the title is that of the organiser. J. S

It is a treat to hear of new bands being formed in London. St. George's, Camberwell, ringers rang their first quarter on Aug. 1st. The whole of the band learned to handle in this tower and without outside help have managed to pass one milestone. The conductor, Mr. F. R. L. Brewer, hopes it will be the prelude to many more quarters together.

AND SHALL BOB TRIPLES DIE?

By G. L. GROVER

A good tower and a trusty band,
A merry peal and true,
Those Council chaps shall understand
What Plain Bob chaps can do.

They may have fixed the where and when,
But should Bob Triples die?
There's many a hundred Plain Bob men
Who'll know the reason why.

We'll cross the Avon, ropes in hand,
The Severn is no stay,
And westward we will send a band
To bid the Council 'Nay.'

At Bristol then, ye ringing kings,
If you some sense would see,
Confine your talks to other things
And let Bob Triples be.

Bob Triples he is threatened bad;
Bob Triples he may die,
But there's many a hundred Plain Bob lad
Who'll know the reason why.

With apologies both to the Bishop of Trelawny and to R. S. Hawker, both of whom, however, are long since dead.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

LET DOUBLES RINGERS DECIDE?

Dear Sir,—From personal contact and reading between the lines of his recent letter, I would say that W. Birmingham is more biased against Doubles than concerned about Plain Bob Triples, Caters and Cinques. After the peal of Plain Bob Cinques all you could get from him was, 'We must ring a peal of Plain Bob Caters,' but if anyone mentions Doubles he rises up in wrath and denounces all those who ring four blows behind.

What is wrong in making exceptions if they are clear-cut and there is adequate reason for making them? The advantages of allowing Plain Bob on odd numbers should be obvious to him if he compares the high local standard at Burnham with that of stick-in-the-mud Grandsire and Stedman towers. Learners who begin with Plain Bob Doubles and Triples advance far more rapidly than those who begin with Grandsire, but what is the point of learning the method if you are not allowed to ring a peal of it.

If four blows are not allowed in Doubles we are left with twelve plain methods and twelve principles, all of which can be included in a quarter peal, whereas on other numbers it is impossible to ring all the methods in a true peal. Surely that is adequate reason for allowing four blows in Doubles.

There is a ruling that Minor methods shall not have fifths place made unless treble is making sixths, but the peals of 35 Surprise Minor include methods with this fault, and which fetch up 6-5's at backstroke in the first lead of the plain course. This is the result of an exception made by the 1928 Council at Hereford, allowing Double Surprise Minor. I wonder how many members of the 1953 Council knew of this when they were led into voting against non-Plain Bob lead ends by C. K. Lewis's twisting of figures.

Finally as W. Birmingham does not ring Doubles I would suggest that he, the Methods Committee and the Central Council leave it to Doubles ringers to decide what they shall ring in peals.—Yours sincerely,

FRANK T. BLAGROVE.

Stanwell, Middlesex.

'PEAL RINGING IN CHESHIRE'

Dear Sir.—This very interesting article stated that Overchurch is one of the seven churches not having rung a peal. This statement, I feel sure, is correct, for some few years ago I examined all the records of the church and there is no reference to ringing a peal.

The bells were hung in 1868, so 86 years have passed without a peal. Is this a record? —Yours faithfully,

W. G. H. JONES

Upton, Wirral.

PEAL RINGING IN BUCKINGHAMSHIRE

Dear Sir.—With reference to Mr. Edman's query, I have not recorded any peals at Great Horwood so this tower is one of the 14 'peal-less' ones mentioned in my article.

Owing to lack of space it is not always possible to list such towers—it depends how many there are—but I shall always be very pleased to give more detailed information if those interested would care to write to me.—Yours faithfully,

K. W. H. FELSTEAD,

Southampton.

NOMENCLATURE!

Dear Sir,—I am a regular reader of 'Belfry Gossip' and 'The Ringing World' in general. I think you may be interested to know that 'campanology' is not only of use in ringing circles.

As a breeder of pedigree Cairn terriers and a member of the Universities Association (I was at Bristol), it occurred to me to unite, as it were, my two hobbies—dog showing and breeding and ringing—by choosing as my registered prefix the word 'Campanologia.' This is registered at the Kennel Club and can only be used by myself. (In fact a sort of trade mark in the dog world.)

It is most surprising to find the number of people who have not a clue as to the word's derivation or meaning. At shows I am constantly being approached by complete strangers (who see my dogs' names in their catalogues) asking what the word means—if, in fact, it has any meaning!!!

A great honour has recently fallen to my lot—that of exporting to America a Cairn puppy whose full name is 'Campanologia Epexegesis.' This news (not least the name) has created much interest in the local and the canine Press.—Yours faithfully, (MISS) M. SYBIL CHURCHILL.

Warmley, Glos.

Note.—We would be interested to know if any other ringers' dogs have names associated with the Exercise.—Ed.

ATTEMPT TO RECAPTURE FORMER STANDARDS

Dear Sir,—Owing to the decline in the standard of ringing throughout the East Berks and South Bucks Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, several members have suggested holding a monthly Surprise practice as well as the Guild meeting.

If older ringers glance back to pre-war years they will notice many Surprise peals were rung at Boyne Hill and neighbouring towers by George Martin and Co. A high standard of ringing was indeed reached and would have continued had not World War II. ensued.

This standard was maintained by monthly Surprise practices. A method would be named and ringers would come prepared to ring this method until they knew it thoroughly. Then, and only then, would they venture further afield.

We intend to hold a meeting of this nature in the Windsor area, and provided it is well attended, will continue to do so on the second Saturday of each month. The first meeting will be held on September 11th, 6 p.m., at Old Windsor, and a notice to this effect will be published.

All ringers interested will be most welcome, the greater the attendance the wider the scope of ringing and, what is more important for the learner, the stronger the band.—Yours sincerely,

FREDERICK R. SCOTT.

Slough.

FIRST PEAL OF STEDMAN FOR ST. DAVID'S GUILD

Dear Sir,—Now that we are all satisfied about the first peal of Stedman for the St. David's Guild, may I. as one who believed the peal on June 29th at Tenby was the first, apologise to Mr. Poole for assuring him it was. However, it must be the first of Stedman on the bells—or is it?

I maintain that the most certain way to find out these things is to claim them as such.—Sincerely yours,

GWYN I. LEWIS.

Cadoxton, Neath, Glam.

THE LATE MR. G. L. JOYCE

Dear Sir,—I greatly regretted to read of the passing of Mr. G. L. Joyce. He was one of the first to realise the truth of round blocks and transpositions in methods, principles and systems and he wrote several articles on the subject which were published in 'The Ringing World' in 1928.

About the same time the late Mr. A. T. Baker (Irenæus Pistor), no relation of mine, also wrote calling attention to the articles of 'Minor Mania' (G. L. J.), and in an article headed 'The Light of Truth' urged the Exercise to study them, and he wound up with: 'George Baker's Round Block progression is established, it is on a Rock, and not even the Powers of—beg pardon—can move it. Study it, that's all.'

May the souls of 'Irenæus Pistor' and 'Minor Mania' rest in peace, and, as I am nearing 89, it cannot be so very long before I join them.—Yours faithfully,

GEORGE BAKER.

Brighton.

P.S.—The ringers who do understand round blocks and transpositions are gradually dwindling and, as far as I know, they could now be counted on the fingers of one hand.—G. B.

PARSONS AND MUTED BELLS

Dear Sir,—Apropos Mr. Atkinson's letter of August 6th and his reference to a 'Parson's Gag,' I would draw attention to a similar instance.

At a certain North London tower where repeated efforts have been made since the war to get the bells restarted, I was recently informed by the Vicar that a chiming apparatus had been installed which would prevent any further ringing. On investigation I found that the apparatus consisted of pieces of rope attached to the clappers for clocking. These bells are absolutely ringable and in a perfectly safe tower. If only the clergy realised how much of the present antagonism to the church is due to this underhanded type of attitude that is all too common!

At another six-bell tower in London, where since the war a thriving band were practising multiple methods, the bells now hang mute and still. Why? Because 'the Parson' doesn't like ringing.

One is tempted to ask what right he has to adopt such an attitude. The bells were given to be rung for service, whatever he personally may think about ringing or ringers. Needless to say his church is like the majority to-day, about as full of life as a charnel house.—Sincerely yours,

ERNEST J. ROWE.

Tottenham.

MUST TAKE SECOND PLACE

Dear Sir,—I am sorry to disappoint the ringers concerned, but I fear I have recorded a single previous peal at both Midgham and North Marston. At the former Grandsire Doubles was rung on May 6th, 1922, and at the latter Grandsire Doubles on January 30th, 1932.—Yours faithfully,

K. W. H. FELSTEAD.

Southampton.

THIRTEEN-FEET CLOCK PENDULUM

Dear Sir,—May I thank, through your columns, those who have so kindly given me information about clocks with 'great' pendulums. This includes some who have written to me personally as well as those whose letters you have printed. The list so far is not a very long one, but many counties are represented showing a wide interest in the subject.—Yours sincerely,

P. J. NIXSEAMAN.

Northill Rectory,
Biggleswade.

OUTINGS

GREAT TEY, COLCHESTER

Kent and Surrey were visited by the ringers of St. Barnabas', Great Tey, for their annual outing on July 24th, which was organised by Mr. Dyer.

Leaving Great Tey at 7.30 a.m. the first stop was at St. Mary's, Westerham, where they were met by the verger. Members of the local company gave them a warm welcome at St. John's, Croydon. After lunch the party travelled across to St. Peter's, Old Woking, where two local ringers met them. Tea was partaken of in Woking.

A good pull was enjoyed in the evening at St. John's, Epping, on the fine bells. Home was reached at 11.55 p.m. after a long and enjoyable outing.

MELTON MOWBRAY

Ringers from St. Mary's, Melton Mowbray, and friends had their annual outing on August Bank Holiday. Leaving the Car Park at 8 a.m., the first tower visited was Claybrooke with its beautiful ring of eight, which was much enjoyed. The party arrived at Evesham about noon and after partaking of a cold lunch paid a visit to the famous bell tower. Ringing later took place at Hampton and Hinton-on-the-Green was reached by tea-time, where a splendid tea was very kindly provided by Mrs. and Mrs. J. Thomas. After ringing on these famous bells the return journey was made via Norton and Stratford-on-Avon. A very enjoyable day was had by all.

CHRIST CHURCH, NORTH SHIELDS

The ringers, with wives and friends, held their annual outing on July 18th. Travelling by coach the first halt was made at Alnwick for lunch, and then on to Howick Hall, the seat of Earl Grey, where a walk through the grounds and gardens was enjoyed.

The weather improved and the sun broke through and we enjoyed the run over the moors to Rothbury. After an excellent tea, the bells of Rothbury Parish Church were rung for the evening service, by kind permission of Canon G. H. Harris. The older ringers were impressed by the way in which the not so experienced ringers handled strange bells. The return journey was via Scots Gap and Hexham, where a short stop was made, and then to North Shields, thus concluding a much appreciated outing.

WANLIP

The first annual outing took a party of Wanlip ringers into south-east Leicestershire, where touches of various Minor and Doubles methods were rung at Thurnby, Billesdon, Hallaton, Medbourne, Illston-on-the-Hill and Arnesby. At Medbourne the Vicar, Canon F. D. H. Harris-Evans (a former curate of Wanlip) joined the ringers for tea and afterwards showed the party round the church. The bells at Arnesby had not been rung for three years but after some attention a couple of courses were successfully concluded. The Wanlip ringers are indebted to those responsible for placing the bells at their disposal and so ensuring a most enjoyable outing.

HOLYWELL, HUNTS.—On Aug 8th, 1,296 Kent Treble Bob Minor: D. Peacock 1, F. Elsom 2, F. Warrington (cond.) 3, H. W. Pratt (first 'inside' Treble Bob) 4. E. J. Parish 5, L. W. Fisher 6.

DEDICATION OF NEWARK PARISH CHURCH BELLS

WRITING in 1820 of the Parish Church of St. Mary Magdalene, Newark-on-Trent, a local historian recorded that the present edifice, as a parish church, was, perhaps, scarcely to be equalled in the kingdom. That description is as true to-day as it was then.

Newark-on-Trent stands at the intersection of the Great North Road and the ancient Fosse Way and countless numbers of people pass through the town in the course of a year. Perhaps they have time to pause and reflect on the skill and devotion of the mediæval craftsmen who fashioned a wondrous building out of stone and whose masterpicce is the glorious spire which dominates the town. The spire has a grace and symmetry of surpassing beauty and is unusual in that it has 16 window lights.

It was to this noble setting that the footsteps of many ringers turned on Saturday, July 24th, when the ring of ten bells cast by John Taylor in 1842 was rededicated by the Vicar of Newark (Canon G. W. Clarkson), assisted by Canon R. F. Wilkinson, the Rector of West Bridgford and chairman of the Southwell Diocesan Guild of Change Ringers.

The bells (tenor 31 cwt. 1 qr. 11 lb.) have been rehung on the old cast iron frame by Messrs. John Taylor and Co. with completely new fittings consisting of Ransome and Marles ball bearings, cast iron box headstocks, new wheels, clappers, etc. The ringing chamber has been redecorated and new lights installed and a measure of sound control introduced.

Retuning has improved the tone of the bells to a considerable degree although the tenor seems inclined to 'thump' more than the old bell.

It is interesting to recall that the present ring was the first complete ring of ten bells cast by John Taylor in 1842. They were rehung in 1896 and again in 1913-14. The circle is excellent, but in the past the bells have always proved rather heavy and lumbering to ring. The present restoration should completely alter that unsatisfactory aspect.

THE OLD BELLS

There were five bells in the tower in the early 1600's and later in the century another bell was added. In 1713 these were recast and with additional metal made into a ring of eight, largely through the generosity of Richard Sutton, a brigadier-general, who resided at neighbouring Kelham Hall.

Records of this worthy create the impression of a swashbuckling cavalier. He is reported to have diverted the waters of the Trent to improve the flow of a small stream which flowed past his house and in consequence to have been sued by the inhabitants of Newark for lowering the level of the river and interfering with the working of the mills.

Then, having largely paid for the new ring, he had inscriptions on three of the bells to sing his praises and these are worth recalling.

On the 4th:—

'Brave Sutton rais'd us to declare
The joys of peace, the end of war.'

On the 5th:—

'If Sutton's praises we could speak
Much sweeter echoes we should make.'

On the 6th:—

'While here we're loud in Sutton's fame
What place rings not of his great name.'

The old inscriptions were not repeated on the 1842 bells.

Few peals have been rung at this church and the writer can only find a record of three.

Holt's ten-part peal of Grandsire Triples was rung in 1816 and 1913 by local bands, and a peal of Grandsire Caters was rung in 1897 by the St. Peter-at-Arches Society, Lincoln.

The present restoration has been made possible by the munificence of Mr. Charles Henry Newbald, Master between 1896 and 1909, and founder of the present local Society, who died last year and who bequeathed a legacy for that purpose. The balance has been provided by public subscription.

It is intended shortly to place a tablet in the ringing chamber to his memory as under:—

'To the memory of Charles Henry Newbald. Born 24 Aug., 1872. Died 19 Mar., 1953. Master of the Ringers 1896 to 1909.

By his faithfulness the Band of Voluntary Ringers was sustained from its foundation in 1896, and by his generosity the bells were retuned and rehung in 1954.' J. W. R.

LYME REGIS

Some of the most beautiful scenery of Devonshire was enjoyed by Lyme Regis ringers on their annual trip on August 7th. Moreton-Hampstead provided a pleasant ring, and time for a break with excellent coffee afterwards. At Chagford the grand eight unfortunately could not be heard in Major as, after some Triples, a jammed slider, and fruitless efforts to adjust it, brought the ringing to a close. This ancient granite church possesses a unique processional cross of beautiful craftsmanship in aluminium from the Zeppelin brought down at Cuffley, Herts, in September, 1916.

Picnic lunch was taken on a quiet edge of the Moor, near Throwleigh, and rain just at that point was rather a disappointment. At Okehampton, where high country separates the church from the town, the ringing was good enough to gain the commendation of the local 'call-changers'—which must be praise indeed! A pleasant cross-country run brought the party to Crediton, where the heavy eight were very respectably handled in Triples and Surprise Major. A well-earned tea followed at the Ship Hotel. The final tower of the day was St. David's, Exeter.

Methods rung during the tour included Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Yorkshire, Cambridge, Superlative, London and Bristol Surprise Major. The thanks of all are given to the incumbents of the various towers, also to the local ringers and others. C. C. C.

FARNHAM DISTRICT HAVE A CYCLING TOUR

The cycling tour, organised and led by Mr. E. J. Wells, Ringing Master of the Farnham District, proved very successful and enjoyable to the few who had the courage to face the 50-odd miles of pedalling.

The party gathered at Farnham on Saturday, July 31st by 9 o'clock, and set out for the first ring at Upton Grey. Then on to the old church at Rotherwick. All these bells can boast of are long ropes and the belief that the third bell is the second oldest in the country.

Picnic lunches were followed by ringing at Bramley, Hants. Here the band were joined by local ringers. The travellers then went to the ancient church of Silchester, where they enjoyed many Doubles methods on the five bells.

A good place was found for picnic teas and then on a short distance to the best bells of the day, those at Stratfield Mortimer. Here again the party were joined by local ringers and the band were greatly encouraged when these joined the last part of the tour, which was to Heckfield. Less said about these bells the better, but it was all good practice in how to handle a bell!

'Goodbyes' all said, the band left for home, which they reached by various routes by ten o'clock, perhaps a little tired and sore, but triumphant. M. A. C.

A CORNISH JUBILEE

St. Kea's Interesting Record

ALL HALLOWS', St. Kea, Cornwall, delightfully situated in unspoiled countryside some two miles out of Truro, is the third church to have been built in the parish. The first was on the banks of the River Fal, but in 1802 it was taken down. The 15th century tower was left standing in the churchyard. To-day it is but a hollow shell. The battlements remain. One pinnacle is missing. Jackdaws nest high up in its walls. It is silent but for their ceaseless sounds at nesting time. A mission church was built close by.

The second church was built in the centre of the parish some three miles away. It was rectangular and ugly. In 1894 this, too, was taken down and the present church of beautiful design, with tower and spire, was consecrated in 1896. Three bells had been brought from the old tower by the river and were incorporated in a new ring of eight from Loughborough, which was dedicated on July 22nd, 1904. This was a great day, far surpassing most present day dedications. There was Holy Communion at 8.15 a.m. The bells rang from 11.30, although the dedication service was not until 3 p.m. Luncheon was at 1 p.m. and tea later; 4.15 to 5.30 and 6 to 7 were set aside for two quarter peals of Grandsire Triples by chosen bands. At 7 p.m. there was Choral Evensong, after which the Kenwyn band, whose bells were recast in the following year, and with which band there has ever since been a strong fellowship, rang until 9 p.m. Two of the three ancient bells were recast, but one, the present seventh, remained intact. It bears the Royal Arms of the 15th century and is inscribed 'Sit Nomen Domini Benedictum.'

The late Squire J. C. Daubuz, of Killiow, on whose land the church had been built, inspired the hanging of the bells and enthused the ringers. He did not ring but he loved bells and change ringing. He gave the second bell at Truro Cathedral. The new Kea band, encouraged by the Squire, made rapid progress. On August 2nd, 1909, two peals of Grandsire Triples were rung with the help of visitors, and eight local ringers rang their first peal. In 1910 two peals in the same method were rung in six days, one being conducted by William G. Sandercock, who was the first resident member to call a peal for the Truro Guild.

In 1913 three peals were rung in five days. The late William Pye took a touring band to Kea and rang London. The next morning, starting at six, they rang Superlative. After refreshments at the Vicarage they left by train for Plymouth to ring Kent Royal at St. Andrew's, but this failed nine leads from the end. not owing to fatigue, but because the ball of the ninth clapper broke off. The Kea men seemed to have been enthused by this visit, for three days after, John Thomas, of Edmonton, called The Original for them. The local captain was also called John Thomas. The former returned in 1933 to call the same peal. In 1934 Stedman Triples was attempted one evening and lost, but rung the next. District peal enthusiasts took part in these, and all this activity, and more, is evidence of the tradition of generosity in allowing the use of the bells that had been established.

For a period of 25 years the Vicar was the late Rev. A. D. Sowell. He was a ringer. His only son, Arthur, became a keen ringer, and rang in several peals in Devon whilst studying at Exeter, and at Kea. He hoped to be ordained but was killed in the 1914-18 war. A tablet in Kea tower perpetuates his memory.

The Jubilee was duly celebrated with a peal. On Saturday, July 22nd, Parker's peal ended abruptly and mysteriously in the twelfth part. In this attempt were two young Kea ringers—Paul Harding and Anthony Locke—whose first peal it would have been, and who rang well. The present Vicar, the Rev. V. A. Callow, who always meets and, afterwards, either congratulates or condoles with visitors, at once said another attempt could be made on the following Monday evening. This was successful.

Mr. Clement W. Jose is the present congenial and enthusiastic captain, and is splendidly carrying on the tradition of the past. He trains many young ringers who inevitably go away from this type of rural parish, but his band building goes on, and the essential task of manning the bells on Sundays and festivals is fulfilled.

Kea has been a tower of activity and learning for many years, and for some its memory is fragrant and fresh. It has played a fundamental and essential part in the history of the Truro Guild; for example, in 1927 resident members of the Guild took part in a peal there which was the first by any living in the county of Cornwall for a period of no less than 14 years. This began a revival. Kea was the place of revival. May this tradition of inspiration go on. For all who visit Kea it is a pleasant place, but it is much more—it is holy ground. God bless priest and people who serve Him there.

THE KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Tonbridge District at Chiddingstone

From Cheshire to Chiddingstone is a long journey, and it is more than probable that most of the Cheshire ringers have never even heard of it, but on Aug. 7th, when the Tonbridge District held a meeting, the locals were pleased to welcome the Rev. E. Taylor, Vicar of Norbury (Hazel Grove), and in his most helpful address he proved that although he himself is not a ringer he is very familiar with ringers and their ways.

In spite of travelling difficulties, ringing commenced punctually at 3 p.m., the oldest member of the District, Mr. G. Edwards, of Penshurst, now in his 86th year, having overcome the lack of buses by walking from his home, a journey which took him an hour.

The service was conducted by the Rev. E. Taylor, who was in charge of the Parish during the absence of the Rector, and Mrs. Taylor played the organ. At the business meeting the grateful thanks of the ringers were expressed to the Rev. and Mrs. Taylor for giving up a day of their holiday so that the service could be held.

One new member was elected, one election prior to a peal confirmed, and nine non-resident members from Lancashire, Cheshire and Warwickshire were elected. The hope was expressed that these non-resident members, who were to stay in Sevenoaks for a week's tour, would enjoy their holiday and have a successful time.

Ringing catered for all tastes, although there was a marked reluctance on the part of even the most enthusiastic to turn in the tenor.

A notable feature of the last few meetings of the District has been the number of young ringers attending. It these continue with the same enthusiasm as they have begun the future looks quite promising.

WEDDING BELLS

AT BATHAMPTON

The picturesque old village church at Bathampton, on the outskirts of Bath, Somerset, was an ideal setting for the wedding of two well-known Bath ringers on August 6th. Even the sun put in one of its rare appearances and shone brightly for the occasion.

The bride was Miss Moira Hemer, who rings at Bathampton, and the bridegroom Mr. Eric Naylor, formerly of Rainham, Kent, a ringer well known in that county, who now resides in Bath, and is a member of the Bath Abbey and St. Michael's, Bath, ringing companies.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a ballerina length dress of white lace and carried a shower bouquet of flame roses with white sweet peas and stephanotis. Her bridesmaids, Miss Pamela Hemer (sister, and formerly a ringer at Bathampton), Miss Rachael Sanger-Davies and Miss Anne Rigden (friends), wore ballerina length blue organdie dresses. They carried shower bouquets of white roses and delphiniums, with headdresses to match. Best man was Mr. Harold Cross.

As the couple left the church a touch of Grandsire Doubles was rung by Mrs. Cooper (Bathampton), G. Hawkins and W. Cope (Bath) and G. Naylor, G. Kenward and E. Barton (Rainham).

Somerset and Kent ringers were well represented at the reception held at the bride's home.

A large number of congratulatory telegrams were received and many of these had a strong campanological flavour, whilst among the presents on view were gifts from the ringers at Bath Abbey, St. Michael's, Bath, and Bathampton.

AT ILFORD

Mr. H. A. Bradbury, secretary of the Rickmansworth tower, was married to Miss Sheila Harvey at Ilford Parish Church on Saturday, August 7th.

In honour of the wedding 1,260 Grandsire Triples was rung on Monday, August 9th, by D. Bell (first quarter) 1, T. Clark 2, F. W. Elliott 3, C. Wenban 4, A. Wenban 5, D. C. Bartholomew 6, G. Seaman (conductor) 7, J. Lloyd 8.

AT LINCOLN

On Saturday, August 14th, the wedding took place at St. Giles', Lincoln, between Mr. Edward W. Colley, a ringer of Worthen, Shrewsbury, and Miss Nancy E. Swann, a ringer of St. Giles', Lincoln, who is secretary of the Reading Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild. The couple will now reside near Reading.

The service was conducted by the Rev. V. I. Dalby, Vicar of St. Giles', and Nuptial Mass was celebrated by the Rev. E. A. C. Buckmaster, Rector of Worthen. The bells were rung before and after the ceremony, and in the afternoon a peal of Plain Bob Major was rung to celebrate the occasion.

OBITUARY

MR. ARTHUR HALE

With deep regret we record the death of Mr. Arthur Hale, of Tirley, Glos, on August 7th, after a short illness, aged 65 years.

One of the oldest members of the Gloucester and Bristol Association, Mr. Hale joined some 30 years ago and was an active member of Tirley band. Although not a peal ringer (he only rang one peal), he was a regular Sunday service ringer and supporter of Branch meetings and also a keen churchman. He originated from Tewkesbury, where his father, the late Mr. John Hale, was a member of the Abbey band for many years.

The funeral took place on August 11th at Tirley Church and was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. W. S. T. Parker), an honorary member of the Association. The bearers were Messrs. H. Ball, A. Chamberlain, F. Chamberlain and G. Goulding. The service was attended by many of his ringing friends, including Messrs. E. T. Newbury and J. Beech, chairman and secretary respectively of the Tewkesbury Branch.

The bells were rung half-muffled following the service, by Tewkesbury Branch members and during the evening a quarter peal of Grandsire Doubles was attempted by the local band but failed after 40 minutes.

Mr. Hale will be sorely missed at Tirley and much sympathy is expressed to his widow, son and two daughters. J. B.

THE RINGING WORLD

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

No. 2264 Vol. L. FRIDAY, AUGUST 27, 1954 Registered at the G.P.O. for transmission as a newspaper 4d.

ON MY DOORSTEP

By the REV. J. G. M. SCOTT

THE archivist at the City Library was very helpful; yes, she said she would take my list of Exeter bell-founders and see what she could find about them. But the letter, when it came, was apologetic and rather disappointing. The only person they could find out anything about was Thomas Byrdall; they had a deed concerning a tenement which he had leased from the Mayor and Commonalty of Exeter in 1594—a tenement, incidentally, on or near the site of a present-day foundry, Messrs. Garton and King, in the parish of Saint Thomas the Apostle.

I was glad to learn something about Thomas Byrdall; we haven't many bells from him surviving, only three bearing his name; about four more have the initials of John Byrdall, who operated after him. But they are an interesting pair, because under them the Exeter foundry, which had been in existence for over two centuries, came to an end. They used the old trade-mark and sometimes the old crosses and other stamps of their own; Thomas put his name in full in black-letter with big Lombardic capitals; John used his initials, I.B., in very unusual capitals all sprouting with foliage like a rustic pergola suddenly come into leaf and very handsome. Their bells are long-waisted and often have very high-domed crowns; one of them hangs in the Cathedral (the fourth) and is called Byrdan, because Thomas always spelt his name like that on his bells : as it is never so spelt in records, perhaps he was using a black-letter 'n' for a double 'l.'

And here they are, after all my searches, right on my doorstep! The registers are in the Vicarage, and begin in the 1550's; luckily they are transcribed and indexed, so the search for Byrdalls is not a long one, and what a crowd of them there was! Over 120 entries before 1690, when this volume finishes.

The registers give us a picture already half-completed; Thomas Byrdall, brasyer, seems to have had children whose baptisms are not here, but whose burials are. There is also a John Byrdall, presumably his brother, whose occupation is not recorded. And on almost every page their children turn up with astonishing regularity in the baptism register, and almost as often, alas, in the burial one, too. It's hard to keep to the matter in hand with these old books; all sorts of half-drawn pictures are conjured up, and half-told stories, humorous, gruesome or tragic, by the notes against the entries. Here is the doughty but unfortunate Gilbert Mortimore (odd, that, my two middle names!) who 'cam to his death by wrastlyng'; here, with apologies to the medical profession, is Grace Hallce, 'of the prish. of Woodberye but was under the caer of Doctor Coll of this prish. and being distracted drouned herself'; here, in a brief glimpse of mystery, is Richard Hollman 'who was shot'; here, is Roger Wreford (an ancester of Fred, perhaps?) who 'was most cruelly murdered in the Long Marsh by Exe'; here are 'two shoulders (soldiers) that were shute to death against Mr. James Hunt's wall behind ye Bridewill for ye runing away from their Coullers' . . . but we must get back to the Byrdalls and leave these fascinating diversions.

Like many others in their times, they were not a lucky family, and their infant mortality was appalling. Thomas's brother John had eleven children, of whom the first seven all died before him; in the year 1570–1 ('a plague or pestilence this yere') poor John lost his whole family of four children, and of the next two Mellonie died at 25 and little Christopher at 14 months. .The rest were all girls, so John had no heir when he died in 1609, seven years after Wilmote, his wife.

Thomas, the bell-founder, had ten children, and was no less unfortunate. His first three and his last two children all died young, and he was left with three sons and two daughters; Thomas lost two of his children in the terrible plague of 1570; it must have been a grievous year for the Byrdall family, as for all St. Thomas. The second of Thomas's surviving sons was John, called 'John Byrdall junior' in the registers, and it was he who took over the business. John was married at the age of 24 to Wilmote ffurse (this unusual Christian name seems to have been common among the Byrdalls; John's aunt had borne it, and he gave it to his youngest daughter. Melyor, Mellorie or Mellonie was another Byrdall family name, now never used, though it's pretty enough). When old Thomas died in 1606—he cast a bell for Woodbury the previous year—John had a family of five, four girls and a boy, Thomas. Mellorye, the eldest, was 13, and Wilmote was 4. Their father's foundry must have been a fascinating place to them, especially little Thomas, and one suspects Mrs. John Byrdall and their granny, Mrs. Thomas, must have made frequent inroads on the butter-pat when the youngsters came into contact with something hot. They seem to have been a healthy lot, for they all survived their father, and Thomas, Wilmote and Margaret were all married in St. Thomas's Church.

But John never lived to see his grandchildren : he died, and the foundry with him, at the age of 56, in 1624. Strangely enough, his last bell, cast in the year he died, hangs beside his father's last surviving bell, at Woodbury; John's is the fourth, and his fathers' the fifth, of the eight. Young Thomas was a churchwarden 34 years later, and the family throve all through the 17th century, but there are no Byrdalls in Exeter now. Still, their bells are still sound and tunable, there in the registers are the clues to their family history, while all that was mortal of them lies somewhere in our churchyard, where I passed to and fro every day wondering where to find a record of them.

GILLETT
AND JOHNSTON
LIMITED

No matter in which corner of the country you happen to be, as likely as not you will come across Gillett & Johnston bells or tower clocks. Gillett & Johnston craftsmanship is embodied in an all-embracing service — as much in the preservation and restoration of old rings of antiquarian interest as in the installation of new.

To comply with a long standing request from Mr. H. G. Jenney, father of the Cathedral band at Leicester, a peal of Double Norwich was rung at the Cathedral on the light eight. It was over 30 years since he and another member of the band (no names—no ages) rang a peal in the method.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Norwich City Police converged on St. Peter Mancroft at 4.20 a.m. on August 12th on hearing a bell tolling. At the church a policeman was met by Mr. Albert Eagle, a sidesman. When Mr. Eagle shouted up the bell tower, 'Who's there?' the tolling immediately stopped. More police were called out to surround the building and then the bell tower was unlocked. It was found that a stay of the treble bell had broken, causing the bell to sound. We need not repeat the moral of this story.

The only difference between Lincolnshire and Gainsborough (hence the name), instead of long dodge, is dodge, lead, dodge, lie, dodge, lead.

The bells of Preston Parish Church will be heard immediately before the service to be broadcast from there on Sunday, September 19th, from 9.30–10.15 a.m. in the North of England Home Service only.

Peals that have been rung recently at Hartford, East Budleigh and Withycombe Raleigh have been conducted by Mr. Sidney F. Skinner. Our correspondent regrets the mistake in the initials.

A farewell 720 of Plain Bob Doubles was rung at Whittle-le-Woods, Lancs, to W. Ball, who is joining H.M. Forces. It was his first 720 and also those of N. Kitchen and K. Stainton. The extent was conducted by J. Charnock. Other ringers were T. Barker and A. Hatch.

In our issue of August 6th we referred to Canon C. E. Last ringing his first quarter peal. This was in his own tower at Great Horwood, of which parish he is rector. The ringers who participated were all from the same tower. Will correspondents sending in details of quarter peals kindly state the name of the tower in which the performance took place?

Mr. Antony G. Oliver, a member of the Holy Trinity Cathedral band, Guildford, and also of the Roving Ringers, pulled up the bells of his own tower single handed last Saturday for his wedding. His bride, Miss Iris Ida Purser, of Guildford, is also a ringer, having been taught to ring by Mr. G. L. Grover. Touches of Stedman Triples were rung before and after the service by members of the Holy Trinity band. The choral service was conducted by the Rev. C. G. Pearson. Among the congratulatory telegrams received was one from the Roving Ringers.

Congratulations to Mr. Thomas Price, hon. secretary of the Stroud Branch of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association, on his marriage. A congratulatory quarter peal was rung at Stonehouse on August 14th.

Patience was rewarded in the peal of Yorkshire at Great Holland, Essex. Donald Mills, who has just celebrated his 15th birthday, has been hoping for a peal of Surprise Major during the last two years, having made attempts for Rutland, Superlative, Lincolnshire and Yorkshire in different towers with over 30 different ringers occupying over 15 hours' ringing. One attempt for Rutland lasted 2 hours 35 minutes with seven peal conductors in the band and a bob was missed.

Hertford College Youths had a misfortune on their outing on August 7th. After ringing at Godmanchester and Hemingford Abbots, the coach broke down on the journey to Peterborough, which prevented the journey being made to Spalding. After an excellent lunch a very wet afternoon was spent in Peterborough visiting the Cathedral. An hour's ringing was spent on the heavy bells at St. John's, and later another hour at St. James', Thrapston. Thanks are due to incumbents and local ringers who met the visitors.

PEAL RINGING IN DERBYSHIRE

By the Rev. K. W. H. FELSTEAD

ON looking down the list of Derbyshire towers and their peals, one thing immediately stands out. That is that at many of them, their heyday was prior to 1914. I don't think there is any doubt that more peals were rung in this county at the beginning of the century than since. This is not, perhaps, so surprising when we remember one or two things. Firstly, it wasn't until 1948 that the previous record number of peals in a year was beaten. This previous record had been accomplished as far back as 1913, so that more peals were rung just before the first world war than in any year between the wars. Derbyshire obviously helped in creating this record. Secondly, we must remember the influence in that part of the world of famous ringers and their bands 50 to 60 years ago. Sir A. P. Heywood lived at Duffield, and the pioneer Surprise ringing band at Burton-on-Trent was on the borders of the county and often rang peals in Derby and the surrounding district. So it is not to be wondered at that we have to look back to the beginning of the period under review to see that Derbyshire was one of the main centres of the Exercise then and that it has never reached such pre-eminence again, although that doesn't mean that ringing hasn't flourished since, or that not many peals have been rung in the past 40 years. We have only to remember the lead which Ilkeston gave in ringing Kent and Oxford combined, or the number of peals rung at this place and, say, Eckington between the wars, to realise this.

THREE CHURCHES WITH 200 PEALS

And now to review the towers. There are not many counties which possess three churches where more than 200 peals have been rung as in Derbyshire. These are the two ten-bell towers of Chesterfield and Duffield and the eight-bell Bolsover. Strangely enough, Duffield and Chesterfield peal totals are exactly the same at the moment—237. Both are good examples of what has been said above, for at the former, 171 of the peals were rung between 1884 and 1914 (81 between 1884 and 1890)—an average of about six a year over the whole period. At the latter, 188 were rung in about the same time with no less than 166 between 1900 and 1915—11 a year average! Thirty-two were rung between 1918 and 1923, when fears for the safety of the 'crooked spire' brought ringing to an abrupt end for nearly 25 years, until 1947, in fact. There is no doubt that, but for this, Chesterfield would be among the four or five towers with the highest number of peals in the whole country. At Duffield 16 peals, and at Chesterfield 17 peals have been rung since the war—quite respectable, but a much lower average than 40 years ago.

Bolsover has just passed the 200 mark—the last peal being the 201st. Ringing was very popular here between the wars, but still not quite up to the pre-1914 period. The first peal was in 1899, and 96 were rung up to 1915. Between 1919 and 1939, 81 were rung, so the average per year fell from six to four. Twenty-four have been rung here since 1945. These three towns are far ahead of all others in the county, for only one other has passed the 100 mark (although Ilkeston will reach that goal with the next peal), and that is North Wingfield. One hundred and sixteen have been rung there—80 of them from 1900 to 1914 (again supporting the above remarks).

Ilkeston is one of the exceptions to the rule of most peals before 1914. It was between the wars that most of the 99 peals were rung (62, in fact). Mention has already been made of the lead which this tower has given to the ringing of Kent and Oxford. It is still a popular ringing centre, with 17 peals since the war. Two other towers are in the 90's—Long Eaton with 93 and Eckington with 92. In the former case, 24 peals were rung in the four years before 1914, which is its peak of achievement, and at the latter, 62 between the wars. At the moment both names are appearing infrequently in the peal lists. Netherseale (80) and Overseale (73) seem to be the most popular towers at the present There have been 29 and 30 peals respectively at these places since the war (but only one at each tower so far this year).

'RINGING WORLD' SHOWS THE WAY!

Our readers will be interested in the announcement in the 'News Chronicle' on Aug. 17th, which reads as follows:

WHO ARE YOU?

Unsigned letters — or those signed with a nom de plume—seem to be increasing. Except in cases where the writer is a member of a profession that make anonymity necessary, such letters cannot be considered for publication.

We are no longer the ONLY paper which does not entertain anonymous contributions!

A PERIOD OF POPULARITY

Mention should be made of the two other ten-bell towers in the county (there are no twelves). Derby Cathedral is enjoying its most popular period at the moment. Seventeen of its 26 peals have come since 1945—there has only been one this centry before then. St. Andrew's, Derby, has had 89 peals, 59 were from 1883 to 1913, and there have been 13 in the past six years, so an average of two peals a year makes the present compare favourably with the past. The eight-bell towers have already been dealt with, except to say that all of them have had at least one peal rung at them. Several have not been heard since the war, but the record for silence is at Derby (St. Werburgh's), where the last peal was rung in 1897.

As for six-bell towers, one of them, Killamarsh, was the leading six-bell tower in the country 60 years ago. Sixty-five peals have been rung there, 30 of them in the 1890's. But no peal has been rung here since 1931. Despite this, its total is more than double any other six-bell tower in the county. Blackwell comes second on the list with 31. Burbage, Chapel-en-le-Frith and Fairfield (when it was a six-bell tower) deserve special mention as being places where multi-method peals have been rung—up to 73 methods at Fairfield in 1937. Six of the 46 rings of six are still 'peal-less.' They are Bamford-in-the-Peak, Bonsall, Hathersage, Longford, Osmaston and Stanton-in-the-Peak. Nine of the 13 five-bell towers have had peals rung at them (not more than two at any of them, though). The four which have not are Hartshorne, Heath, Pentrich and Wingerworth.

Thus there is plenty of interest in Derbyshire.

WEDDING

MR. J. MARTIN THORLEY—MISS PATRICIA M. REEVES

The first lady member of the York Minster Society of Change Ringers, Miss Patricia M. Reeves, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Reeves, Second Avenue, Heworth, was married on August 11th at Heworth Parish Church, to Mr. James Martin Thorley, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. James Thorley, of Thorne. The Vicar (the Rev. S. Billingham) officiated.

The bride was given away by her father and was attended by Mrs. Wendy Long, matron of honour, and Miss Doreen Hinton, bridesmaid. The best man was Mr. W. Eric Critchley, peal secretary of the Yorkshire Association of Change Ringers. Both the bride and bridegroom have been enthusiastic ringers.

The bride wore a ballerina-length dress of white embossed cotton and carried a bouquet of pink roses, and her attendants wore dresses of white organza over pale green taffeta and carried sprays of sweet peas.

A reception was held at Betty's Cafe and the cake was decorated with a ring of eight bells. Both the bride and bridegroom are school teachers and are to live in Leeds.

In the evening the Minster bells were rung to celebrate the event. The honeymoon is being spent in Ireland.

'THE NINE TAILORS'

Bells as Background to Broadcast

Many ringers, without a doubt, listened last Tuesday in the Light Programme to the first of four instalments of the radio version of Dorothy L. Sayers' 'The Nine Tailors.'

Listeners who have read this novel will know that not only do the bells of the imaginary East Anglian Church of Fenchurch St. Peter control the lives of the parishioners, but they also provide the distinguished exponent of the methods of Sherlock Holmes, Lord Peter Wimsey, with the clue to a murder.

To ensure that the bells are properly rung, recordings were taken at Banstead Parish Church under the supervision of Mr. Harold N. Pitstow.

Alan Wheatley plays the part of Lord Peter Wimsey, Charles Leno his man Bunter, and Marjorie Westbury the teenager Hilary Thorpe. The production is by Norman Wright, who has titled his instalments 'The Bells in their Courses,' 'Lord Peter is Called into the Hunt,' 'Lord Peter is Called Wrong' and 'The Bells are Rung Down.'

Death of Mrs. Deborah Spice

A number of the older Kent ringers will have happy memories of their visits to Tunstall and meeting there the widow of William Spice, who for well over fifty years was a keen ringer and member of the Kent County Association.

Granny Spice, as she was familiarly known by her friends and acquaintances, has now passed on to higher service following a short illness, and her mortal remains were interred at Tunstall on August 23rd. She was in her 93rd year and, in the words of one who had known her for many years, 'it is for us a very happy memory of a happy and gracious lady—and the village will not be quite the same without her—but her spirit will remain always.'

Surviving ringer members of her family include her sons, Messrs. W. E. Spice (Tunstall), P. J. Spice (Bromley) and G. H. Spice (Tunstall), Mr. J. W. Unwin, of Canterbury (son-in-law), Dr. J. E. Spice and Mrs. Betty Robbins (grandchildren).

SOCIETY OF RAMBLING RINGERS

72 Towers in a Fortnight's Tour

THE weather was highly favourable when the Society met under the tower of St. John-the-Baptist, Bromsgrove, on Saturday, July 24th, for their annual tour. The tour covered 650 miles and 72 towers were visited. Ringing was comparable to the bells, moderate, at the first tower, Stoke Prior (8). At Wychbold (6) the party rang London Minor for a wedding. Ringing was enjoyed at All Saints', Worcester (10), but it was an exhausted company that rang at Great Malvern (8) owing to the long and gruelling climb.
