A PROSPEROUS NEW YEAR TO ALL READERS

THE RINGING WORLD

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

No. 2231 Vol. XLX. FRIDAY, JANUARY 1, 1954 Registered at the G.P.O. for transmission as a newspaper 4d.

THE CHURCH BELLS OF OXFORDSHIRE

NO county in Great Britain, we can assert with confidence, has a better record of its bells than Oxfordshire. Last month the final volume of 'The Church Bells of Oxfordshire,' by Mr. Frederick Sharpe, was published. The six volumes have been written by one who is an antiquarian as well as a practical ringer, and the assembled datum of founders that accompanies the last volume is of great interest. 'The Church Bells of Oxfordshire' is a reprint of Volume xxxiv. of the Oxfordshire Record Society's Publications, and this Society was able to publish the work through the generosity of the British Council of Archæology.

The compilation of the work has extended over 30 years, judging from the footnotes denoting the dates of the author's visits. No fewer than 297 parish churches and chapels have been described. An account has been given of the bells of the Cathedral Church of Christ, Oxford, and of those in 22 Oxford colleges. Details are also given of the secular bells at Blenheim Palace, Woodstock, Carfax Tower, The Clarendon Press and The Bodleian Library, Oxford.

1 ring of 12 bells	12
3 rings of 10 bells	30
31 rings of 8 bells	248
68 rings of 6 bells	408
28 rings of 5 bells	140
6 rings of 4 bells	24
33 rings of 3 bells	99
18 churches with two bells hung for ringing	36
41 chimes, containing a total of single bells, service bells, clock bells, disused bells, secular and miscellaneous bells	161
Saunce bells	125
Tubular and hemispherical bells	28
Total	1,423

The bells have been classified chronologically as follows:

Thirteenth century bells	6
Mediæval bells (1300–1540)	56
Transitional bells (1540–1600)	26
Seventeenth century bells	289
Eighteenth century bells	382
Nineteenth century bells	414
Modern bells	212
Bells of uncertain age	23
Unexamined bells	15
Total	1,423

Attention is called by Mr. Sharpe that 62 pre-Reformation bells constituting almost 4½ per cent. of the total is a lower percentage than the average for the English counties whose campanological history has so far been written. In these the average number of mediæval bells is about 6 per cent. of the total.

The oldest bells in the county are the early 13th century inscribed bell at Caversfield, uninscribed bells of the same period at Kelmscot and Shifford, and later 13th century bells at Hampton Gay, St. Clement's, Oxford and Goring-on-Thames. Interesting examples of 14th century bell-founding are at Adwell, Alkerton, Ambrosden, Broughton Poggs, Burford, Dorchester, Idbury, Newton Purcell, Stoke Talmage and Swyncombe. The best toned mediæval bells are those at Burford, Dorchester and Christ Church Cathedral.

An unusual feature is the high proportion of saunce bells, which total a little over 42 per cent., in proportion to the number of churches.

The largest bell is Great Tom of Oxford, which was recently rehung by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank and weighs 6 tons 4½ cwt. Christ Church, Oxford, has the largest tenor bell with a weight of approximately 30 cwt. and is closely followed by those at Bloxham and Merton College 28 cwt., St. Mary-the-Virgin's, Oxford, 27 cwt., Bampton 25 cwt., and Adderbury and Watlington 24 cwt.

As to the foundries which supplied the bells, Mr. Sharpe states that the majority of the mediæval bells in the county came from the foundries at Wokingham, Reading, Buckingham and London. The Exeter, Gloucester, Toddington and Worcester foundries are also represented.

In the 17th century most of the bells in the north of the county came from the foundry of the Bagleys at Chacombe; the Keenes of Woodstock monopolised the centre; and the Knights of Reading supplied most of the bells in the south. The Neales of Burford were active in the west, but did less work than the others. During the Commonwealth, Michael Darbie set up furnaces in Oxford and cast many bells for local churches.

With the exception of the Bagleys all the above-mentioned foundries had disappeared by the 18th century, during which time the chief founders at work in the county were the Rudhalls of Gloucester and the Wells of Aldbourne.

In the first quarter of the 19th century the Oxford foundry was established by members of the Taylor family, one of whom afterwards removed to Loughborough, where he built the foundry which has subsequently become world famous. Over 150 bells have been made for Oxfordshire churches by the Taylors. The equally famous Whitechapel Foundry, established in 1575 or a few years earlier, has supplied over 300 bells to churches in the county. Some 50 bells have been supplied by the Croydon foundry and a similar number by the Cripplegate foundry. The only bell foundry in Oxfordshire in recent years was that of the Bonds of Burford, established just after the middle of the last century and finally closed on the death of Thomas Bond in 1947.

Mr. Frederick Sharpe has enhanced the value of these volumes by the splendid collection of photographs of old bells and other interesting features. To the student of old bells and founders' marks these volumes will make a strong appeal.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Ringing friends of Cyril Deem, of Littleham, Exmouth, Devon, will be sorry to hear that he has met with an accident while motor-cycling to work, and was seriously injured. He was taken to the Royal Devon and Exeter Hospital, and at the time of writing is still 'very ill.'

Congratulations to Mr. R. F. B. Speed on ringing his 300th peal.

A truly ringing occasion was the party after a quarter peal at Wickwar for Jo. Barbrook's 21st birthday. Bells on the cake and all round the table, handbell ringing after an excellent tea, and much talk on ringing until a late hour.

The peal attempt at Eccleston, Cheshire, on Saturday, December 12th, for the 85th birthday of Mr. Sam Jones, unfortunately came to grief after about an hour's ringing Mr. Jones was ringing the treble. An excellent quarter peal followed after which Mr. Jones entertained the band to tea.

Although it is acknowledged that Mr. C. Edward Jeffries is a brilliant conductor it becomes increasingly apparent that one doesn't have to know much about spelling to be able to sell cabbages successfully. The ringer of the fourth to a peal of seven minor methods rung at Goldington on November 19th was Bryan S. Cope. and not as published.

After the joint meeting of the Middlesex Association and the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths on December 5th. a silk scarf was left in the belfry of St. Margaret's. Would the owner please communicate with Mr. W. H. Hewett, 119, Coleman Road, S.E.5. Mr. Hewett has now been 48 years at St. Margaret's and has received the Coronation medal for ringing for three Coronations. This is rather exceptional as it is usually only given to those who ring the Abbey bells.

Although the final details have not yet been settled, the bells of Wadhurst, Sussex, are to be retuned and rehung in an eight-bell frame with complete new fittings. If enough money can be raised two bells will be added. These are rather doubtful at the moment as £2,000 has to be found to repair damage by death watch beetle. Any contributions will be gratefully acknowledged by the treasurer of the fund, Miss H. M. Leigh, Vicarage Flat, Wadhurst, Sussex.

Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Corby, Mr. J. A. Corby and Mr. Joseph A. Fenton travelled from Leicestershire to Edenham, Lincolnshire, to ring in a peal of Cambridge Surprise Major. The local ringers appreciated the visit very much. The peal was Mr. A. E. Scott's century.

The peal at Solihull, Warwickshire, on December 12th. reported in this issue, was rung on the 55th wedding anniversary day of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Walker. The new Rector of Solihull (the Rev. H. Hartley) and his wife are both ringers and, whenever possible, join their ringers on practice nights and services.

In extending the season's greetings to all readers, Mr. James F. Laker, of Box 729, Defiance Lane, Orleans, Mass., writes that 40 years ago he went to the United States, having been a member of the band at Tunbridge Wells. The only peal ringing he had had since then has been on visits to England in 1922 and 1949.

The 50th peal of London Surprise for the Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association was rung at Sunderland on December 19th, just a week before the 50th anniversary of the first peal. In those far-off days two rival bands were competing eagerly to achieve that feat, and on Boxing Day, 1903, both scored a peal of London. The first peal at St. Ignatius', Sunderland, then only a six-bell tower, was scored about that time.

NORTH STAFFS ASSOCIATION

Many Young Ringers at Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the North Staffs Change Ringers' Association was held at Stoke on December 5th and was attended by 52 ringers from the following towers:—Broughton, Bucknall, Leek, Norton, Newcastle, Longton, Uttoxeter, Biddulph, Stoke, Allesley (Coventry), Lawton, Brown Edge, Wolstanton.

The bells of Stoke Parish Church were made good use of during the afternoon and evening, a good variety of methods being successfully accomplished. It was incidental that the bells were rung on a Saturday when the Stoke football team happened to win their match with Bristol.

The ringers were entertained by the Archdeacon, the Venerable P. Hartill, Rector of Stoke, who welcomed the ringers and stated how pleased he was to invite them and to see so many young ringers present. This was a good sign for change ringing in the area. He told the gathering that the Bishop of Lichfield had accepted the invitation to become a patron of the Association.

The minutes of the annual committee meeting held at Bucknall on November 11th were read by the secretary, and stated that 11 meethave been held during the year, two at ten-bell towers, five at eight-bell towers and four at six-bell towers, with an average attendance of 39 per meeting. Four non-resident life members and 19 resident ringing members have been elected.

Twenty-five peals have been rung, 19 on tower bells and six on handbells. Tower bell peals consist of: Major 7, Triples 3, Minor 7, Doubles 2. Handbell peals: Major 1, Triples 1, Minor 4.

The conductors were: F. W. Grocott 7, M. O. Slaney 5, F. E. Wilshaw 3, D. Mottershead 2, C. S. Ryles 2, and the following one each—D. Bourne, R. Barlow, W. Hazledene, C. H. Page, D. R. Whalley and W. P. Whitehead. The accounts showed a balance of £70 4s. 3½d.

The officers elected for 1954 were as follows: Chairman, Mr. R. S. Anderson; secretary, Mr. W. Carnwell; assistant secretary, Mr. W. Edwards; Ringing Masters—eight bells, Mr. A. Moore; six bells, Mr. W. Hazledine.

Mr. R. S. Anderson, in replying to the Archdeacon, said that he wished to thank the Archdeacon for the use of the bells and for the tea which he had provided. This showed his continued interest in the Association. He informed the company that the bells from St. Giles', Newcastle, had now been taken to the works of Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, Croydon, and he hoped that the rehanging of the bells would be done as soon as the repair of the fabric of the tower had been completed.

Two non-resident ringers and three ringing members were elected. D. R. W.

CHIME EFFECTS ON THE PIANO

Many ringers have attempted to reproduce on the piano the five notes of a bell. Miss Peggy Spencer Palmer, B.Mus. (London), in the 'Pianist's Book of Chimes' (price 3s. 6d., Ricordi), has provided a book of chime effects for the piano which we are sure will be received with much appreciation by all pianist ringers.

From her childhood days Miss Spencer Palmer has been exploring chime effects in trying to imitate on the keyboard the sounds of the pealing of bells and the chiming of clocks.

This interest developed in an unexpected manner. After having accompanied the singing in a 'Sunday Half-Hour' broadcast from Bristol, the B.B.C. officials asked Miss Spencer Palmer to 'play them out' at the end. In the course of her concluding voluntary on the piano —an ordinary upright one—she introduced some 'chimes' into an extemporisation on hymns and carols which lasted, to her surprise, four and a half minutes, instead of the few seconds she had anticipated. The sequel was a number of letters from strangers asking for 'the title, composer and publisher of the piece(!) played at the end,' and several inquiring also what instrument was used for the bells.

The practical way of producing bell effects on the piano is to use a chord of five notes. The right hand is always played two octaves higher. The damper (loud) pedal must be depressed throughout the whole of the piece so that the chords vibrate against each other as long as possible, as do the bells in a belfry. In the music the strike notes are shown in larger type, and these are to be emphasised slightly.

Music is contained in 'The Pianist's Book of Chimes' for rounds on six, eight or ten bells, Queen's, Plain Bob Minor, Stedman Doubles and Grandsire Triples. There are some 34 hymns, carols and national community songs and also a nursery rhyme section.

HIS CHRISTMAS GREETING

On entering the office this morning, writes a West Country ringer, I found the Christmas decorations were up and a large paper bell suspended over my desk with the following verse attached:—

This bell we know, though upside down,
Would Joyous Christmas' ring.
But 'Peace on Earth' will be assured
'Cos bloomin' bell won't ring.!

SYNTHETIC BELLS

Correspondence in a National Newspaper

Synthetic and recorded bells have been the subject matter of correspondence in the columns of 'The Daily Telegraph.' Mr. E. A. Barnett, hon. secretary of the Central Council, contributed the following letter:—

'Sir,—I do not think the Rev. Barnard Croft is quite right in implying that there are fewer ringers in the country as a whole than there were years ago.

'It is unfortunately true that not every church with bells has the ringers to man them, but this has always been the case, as the membership records of any territorial bell-ringing association would show. Nor is the presence of women in the belfry an innovation—indeed, there has been a Ladies' Guild in existence for the past 40 years.

'Nevertheless, I join with Mr. Croft in regretting that the Church Assembly did not even vote on the motion deprecating the introduction of synthetic and recorded bells. Where a church already possesses both bells and ringers, the idea of installing recorded bells becomes ridiculous. Yet an application of this nature is shortly to come before the Chancellor of Wells.

'This is the kind of thing which, if continued, can only lead to the silencing of real bells and the extinction of what the Dean of St. Paul's once called "one of the few surviving folk-arts," that of change-ringing in the English style—something which is unknown outside English-speaking countries.

'The case against synthetic and recorded bells was well put a few months ago by the chairman of the Ripon Diocesan Advisory Committee. "If mechanical bell-ringing," he asked, "why not mechanical choir-recording, or indeed mechanical worship altogether? To hear a 'ring' of bells from an obvious one-bell turret strikes any thoughtful person as an imposture, unworthy of a church which stands for truth."'

DEDICATION

SANDY, BEDS

The six bells of St. Swithun's Church, Sandy, Beds, which have been retuned and fitted with new fittings and hung on ball bearings, were rededicated on Saturday, December 19th, by the Rev. N. E. S. Johnson, Rural Dean of Biggleswade, assisted by the Vicar of Sandy, the Rev. L. G. Coll. After the dedication the bells were rung to a course of Bob Minor by the local band.

For his text the Rev. N. E. S. Johnson took St. Luke II., verse 18: 'And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host.'

Referring to the ringers he commented that he had often heard it said that ringers were out of sight and out of mind. 'Don't believe it,' he said, 'because I know that when the bells are not rung for a service the question is often asked "Why are not the bells ringing?"'

He assured the ringers that their work was appreciated and that at Christmas they would be joining the company of the heavenly host by ringing the bells heralding the birth of Christ.

After the service the bells were kept going until 8.15 p.m. Among the many ringers present was Mr. J. P. Fidler, representing Messrs. John Taylor and Co., who were entrusted with carrying out the restoration. All present agreed they they had done an excellent job.

THE GUILD OF DEVONSHIRE RINGERS

A Note of Optimism From Exeter Branch

The annual meeting of the Exeter Branch was held at St. Mark's, Exeter, on December 12th. A good company of members and visitors joined in the Guild's Order of Service, conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. C. J. Poulton), who gave a very hearty welcome and an inspiring as well as an interesting address.

Tea was next on the programme at the Manston Road Hall, followed by the business meeting, under the chairmanship of the Rev. J. G. M. Scott, supported by the President (Preb. E. V. Cox), the General Secretary (Mr. E. J. Taylor) and Revs. C. J. Poulton and F. G. Rice.

Apologies for absence were received from the Very Rev. the Dean of Exeter and Chancellor D. McLaren, vice-presidents. The Chairman welcomed the visitors.

The annual report, presented by the Hon. Secretary, struck a more optimistic note than for some years past, Exeter Branch affairs having taken a decided turn for the better in 1953. Membership increased by 11 and cash balances by over £4. Meetings and practices were well supported. Her Majesty's Coronation was well and truly celebrated by most of the bells being rung and four peals scored in which members took part. Much satisfaction was felt at the restart of the St. David's (Exeter) band, and it was hoped the efforts in instruction there would be a success.

Summing up 1953, it could be said there was a marked movement in the branch for the advancement of Guild ideals, and members were urged to produce and encourage recruits and to assist in instruction when required. The report was adopted.

The financial statement was submitted and adopted.

The officers for 1954 were elected as follows: Chairman, Rev. J. G. M. Scott; hon. secretary and treasurer, Mr. F. Wreford; assistant secretary, Mr. F. Wills: ringing master, Mr. E. W. Biffin; assistant ringing master, Mr. F. Wills; three representatives on General Committee, Messrs. E. W. Biffin, H. J. Cory and H. W. Butt.

Meetings for 1954 were fixed as follows:—February 13th, June 12th, September 11th and December 11th.

It was decided that the places visited should be confined to only one church and not to apply for another tower, as had been the arrangement in the past.

A proposal by Mr. W. H. Howe that the assistant ringing master automatically assumed the senior office the following year was rejected, it being thought that such a decision should not be adopted until due notice and consideration had been given.

It was decided unanimously that the name of Mr. W. S. Lethbridge be submitted to the General Committee for application to be added to the roll of life members.

The following new members were elected:—

Performing members: Miss Sylvia Fry, Messrs. G. Miller, C. W. Hyder, R. Tanner, Rev. F. G. Rice, J. Woods, B. Stevens and A. Tavener, Miss P. Vicary and Miss V. Williams.

Non-resident life members: Messrs. J. R. Mayne, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Poole, T. A. Thornber, J. R. Bennett, G. Care, S. Burton and Miss H. G. Snowden.

Votes of thanks were heartily accorded to the Rev. C. J. Poulton, the organist, and to all assisting in arrangements for the meeting.

Under 'Any Other Business' ringing for service at St. David's (Exeter) until the new band was proficient was discussed. It was decided that Mr. F. Wills should endeavour to fix ringing whenever possible.

GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL ASSOCIATION

Swindon Branch

The annual meeting of the Swindon Branch was held at Christ Church, Swindon, on Dec. 12th with an excellent attendance, 58 being present, including visitors from Bristol, Burford, Canterbury, Chippenham, Fairford, Harrow Weald, Melksham, Nailsea, Oxford, Shrivenham and Wootton Bassett. Good use was made of the ten bells during the afternoon, and the Association's form of service was conducted by the Vicar (Rev. F. W. Thomas).

Those present were entertained to tea by Christ Church ringers, and a collection for the Association's Belfry Repair Fund realised £2 9s.

At the business meeting the retiring chairman (Mr. W. H. Trueman), who had held the office for 20 years, stated he wished to relinquish the post, and Mr. W. Sidwell was elected in his stead.

The secretary (Mr. W. B. Kynaston) and branch representative (Mr. W. W. T. Daniell) were re-elected, and Mr. Trueman was elected Branch Ringing Master. A vote of thanks was accorded Mr. Trueman for his services to the branch for over the past 20 years. It was suggested that meetings be held at St. Mark's, Swindon, Stratton-St.-Margaret and Highworth during the next three months. Ringing during the afternoon and evening ranged from rounds to Cambridge Royal.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION

Western District

The Western District held their last meeting of the year on December 19th at St. Mary's, Hunslet. Last-minute Christmas shopping or the warmth of the fireside on this cold December day were possible rivals and may have been responsible for the disappointing number of members present. Fifteen towers were, however, represented by the faithful few, who enjoyed ringing in a variety of methods throughout the afternoon and evening.

Tea was served in the nearby schoolrooms at 5 p.m. followed by the business meeting, the chair being taken by the vice-president, Mr. P. J. Johnson. Mr. W. Barton, in proposing a vote of thanks to the church authorities, mentioned a well-known past member of the Hunslet company, Mr. J. Kemp, and his struggle to form and maintain a good ringing band at Hunslet on the then almost unringable bells. It is unfortunate that now that the bells are in good order there is no regular team to ring them.

Mr. P. J. Johnson, in supporting the vote of thanks to the local company for their arrangements, reminded those present of less austere times when it was the hosts' duty to provide a meat tea for a charge of sixpence per head. He well remembered carving up 97 lbs. of meat at the presentation meeting following William Snowdon's retirement from office.

Seasonal greetings from the vice-president brought the meeting to a close and members returned to the tower for further ringing.

ANOTHER ELECTRICAL RECORDING FOR SWANSEA AND BRECON

Dear Sir,—With all this vigorous protests by ringers of synthetic bells, we seem to get nowhere.

On Sunday, December 13th, another of these artificial aids to bell ringing was dedicated by Canon J. J. Hughes at Holy Trinity Church, Llandrindod Wells. It is an electrical recording of St. Mary-le-Bow, London. It was given in memory of Mr. John Anthony Norton and family by Mr. Tom Norton, ex-High Sheriff of Radnorshire.—Yours sincerely,

J. ARTHUR HOARE.

Swansea.

A WOODFORD GOLDEN WEDDING

Dear Sir,—May I, through the columns of 'The Ringing World,' extend hearty congratulations to Mr. Charles R. Morss on the occasion of his golden wedding anniversary. Although never in the limelight, in his 59 years as a member of St. Mary's, Woodford, tower, he has taught more boys and girls than he can remember to handle a bell, and in 1953 alone he has had 20 under his wing. I well remember my first months at Woodford and have much to thank him for in those early days.

I am sure I speak for all those who have passed through his capable hands when I say 'Thank you, and may you and your dear lady be blessed with many more years of happiness together.'—Yours faithfully,

J. H. CRAMPION.

Chadwell Heath, Essex.

HIGHER MATHEMATICS IN NORTH HERTS

No, master, yew can't be shore, that yew can't.

Meself-like, I figgers yew gits how many yew've rung by stacking the boards up in the middle of the belfry, countin' up how many changes on each, dividin' by how many bells yew've rung, counting the boards as should be there, takin' orf the one old George yewsed to git the boiler goin' when the wood was left out one wet night, then doin' a kind of sum in yer paw owd 'ead . . . one orf eight times twenty-tew . . . . makes forty . . . . um . . . fourteen . . . . take orf one . . . . no, master, yew can't be shore, master, in a tower like our'n, yew can't be shore, so wot's the yewse? This was the Vicar's 100th peal on the bells of his own church, the only other incumbent who has accomplished this being the Rev. F. E. Robinson.

(Mr. Pearson, who died in 1942 at the age of 82, was the founder of the Cambridge University Guild. He rang altogether about 150 peals on the bells of Henley Church, of which he was Vicar for 47 years.)

MR. SAM QUINTRELL'S 98th BIRTHDAY

Mr. Sam Quintrell, who is still recognised as captain of the tower at St. Columb Major, Cornwall, was 98 on December 13th. This being a Sunday, the Rector, the Rev. A. Gordon Cooke, made special reference to the notable occasion at the services, and the local ringers rang a special 'peal' after evensong. On the afternoon before, eight members of the Truro Diocesan Guild attempted a birthday peal of Grandsire Triples, but unfortunately this year the peal came to an abrupt end just after halfway.

Mr. Quintrell rang last for the Coronation, and he would still be able to lead a good 'peal' up and down if he could get into the ringing chamber, but the stairs beat him at the moment. He is still active, and this grand old man of ringing in Cornwall has followed the progress of ringing so closely that he appreciates good ringing whatever it may be—stoney or scientific.

LADIES' GUILD

Western District

The quarterly meeting of the Western District of the Ladies' Guild was held at Portishead on December 12th. Good use was made of the bells during the afternoon and evening, and though the gentlemen outnumbered the ladies by about two to one, members of the Guild were able to enjoy a wide variety of methods from rounds to Cambridge Major.

During the service, which was conducted by the Rev. Mr. Gill, a peal board was dedicated to commemorate a peal rung as a tribute to the work of Mrs. E. E. Edwards.

OBITUARY

MR. RANDALL G. PORT

Ringers in East Kent will learn with regret the sudden death of Mr. Randall G. Port, of Canterbury, which occurred on December 18th. Mr. Port, who was 68, had been a member of the Kent County Association for a number of years, and during the years 1945-50 occupied the position of Ringing Master in the Canterbury District, and became very popular during this time. He had been a member of the Cathedral band since 1944, and was instrumental in forming the band at St. Dunstan's, Canterbury, after the war.

Probably the first to acknowledge his limits as a ringer, he was a master of chess. He joined the Canterbury Club in 1908, and was one of the strongest players in the club. He was secretary of the club from 1926 to 1946, and in 1950 was elected a life member. He helped the club to win the county championship on three occasions, and had also played for his county on many occasions.

The funeral took place at St. Stephen's, and ringers were present from both St. Dunstan's and the Cathedral. During the evening the bells at the Cathedral and St. Dunstan's were rung half-muffled to his memory. B. J. L.

MRS. W. W. WOLSTENCROFT

Mrs. Wolstencroft, wife of Mr. W. W. Wolstencroft, of Stoke Poges, died on December 21st at the age of 81 years, and on Wednesday afternoon, December 23rd, she was interred in the peaceful old churchyard at Stoke Poges, which she had come to love in her later years.

The service was taken by the Vicar, the Rev. D. H. Bryant-Bevan, who in a few words of comfort to the mourners referred to her lifetime of work for the Church which she had served so faithfully in so many ways, including singing in the choir, teaching in Sunday School, Moral Welfare work, the Mothers' Union, the Girls' Friendly Society and ringing. Among those attending were Mr. W. W. Wolstencroft (widower), Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Hawkins (son-in-law and daughter), Mrs. A. D. Barker (representing the Ladies' Guild) and a number of ringers from local towers. The traditional last honours to a Church bellringer were given by the ringing of a course of Triples at the graveside by Mrs. A. D. Barker 1-2, Mr. W. Welling 3-4, Mr. W. E. Judd 5-6, Mr. R. I. Shepherd 7-8.

After the service an impressive quarter peal of Bob Minor was rung on the half-muffled tower bells by the following:—F. R. Scott 1, W. E. Judd 2, Mrs. A. D. Barker 3, W. Welling 4, R. I. Shepherd 5, W. Birmingham (conductor) 6.

Mrs. Wolstencroft's ringing career began in 1914 when she became one of the band of ladies who took over the ringing at St Peter's Church, Ashton-under-Lyne, throughout World War I, under the leadership of Mr. Wolstencroft. She took part in the ringing by an all-ladies' band for the Armistice on November 11th, 1918, and continued as a regular service ringer until 1942, when age and infirmity intervened. She did, however, summon sufficient strength to ring on VE Day and VJ Day, at the age of 73.

During her active ringing period she took part in nine peals in which she rang the treble steadily and reliably. One of these was rung for her own silver wedding, when she took the place of an absentee at a moment's notice.

At the formation of the North-Western Branch of the Ladies' Guild she was elected the first chairman, and when this Branch later became part of the Northern District she was invited to be president, but had to decline on account of her removal to the South. She was also a member of the Lancashire Association, the Chester Guild and the Oxford Diocesan Guild.

THE SOCIETY OF UNION SCHOLARS

We present some extracts of the manuscripts relating to the Union Scholars, established 1713, together with a number of early peals. Reference was made to the records of the Society on page 562 of the issue of August 28*th*, 1953.

N.B.—That election be made of a member to serve the office of Master according to his seniority.

Order'd:—

That on the first Monday in May. yearly and every year, the Company meet together at such convenient time and in such place (within the City of London) as to them shall seem most proper, the Stewards to provide a Dinner, and in order to defray the charge of this Dinner, the Stewards shall receive of each member two shillings and sixpence, and for the better hindrance of excess it is further ordered that the year's forfeits be disbursed towards the overplus (if any such there be) of this expense. The Stewards to expend no more than any other member and—

It was unanimously agreed,

That as Gaming is considered a growing evil and tends manifestly to the Prejudice not only of this but of all other Societies—

Resolv'd therefore:—

Whosoever shall be found guilty thereof shall forfeit for the first offence one shilling, and if afterwards the Person so found guilty commits the same fault, he shall be expell'd the Society.

Order'd:—

That since no Society, whether for Gain or Pleasure can well last without having due respect to the Divine Being, whereby 'tis presumed things may be better regulated for the reputation of this fraternity, it is

Resolv'd—

That if any Member at any Meeting of Ringing or other assembly shall curse, swear, or vainly utter the name of God whether it is owing to his Ebriety or any other unseemly Quality, for every such Fault shall pay twopence, and if by too frequent a practice of the same shall be deem'd a Corrupter and Expell'd the Society.

Order'd—

That the Stewards shall keep a brief Abstract of all Forfeits to the end, that they may be capable to Inform any one of his offence if Scrupled or Denied.

That the Company shall Elect a carefull honest Man to be their Warner, who, upon the Instructions given him by the Master or Stewards, shall give notice to such part of the Society so intended to meet, for the Execution of which office the Stewards shall collect one shilling per man throughout the Society, to be paid him on every Feast Day yearly.

That these Orders be in the Custody of the Master and shall be Read by him or his Order at the Entrance of any New Member, whereof, if he fail he shall pay one shilling.

And lastly, it is further order'd, agreed and concluded upon,

That if any Dispute should arise, touching or concerning these Orders or Rules or anything Therein contained, the matter so in dispute shall be referr'd to the Master and Stewards who shall Decide the same, and the person or persons concern'd not submitting to their Determination shall be Expell'd the Society."

FROM THE APPENDIX.

Mr. Osborne having at length described the doings of this Society, we purpose therefore only to make mention of such points of interest as may suggest themselves in connection with the different ringing performances of the Union Scholars.

No. 1. In the note book of Benjamin Annable, now in the possession of one of the writers, there is a method called "Gawthorne's Hic Triples," which is Grandsire with third and fifth place bobs, the "Hic" being used to denote the latter call. We therefore consider that there can be little doubt that this was a Grandsire peal of this description; whether however it was Garthon's original peal there is no means of ascertaining, still we think the evidence points to this conclusion. In Annable's book the ordinary method of Union Triples is given under the heading of "Baldwin's Union Triples," this gives strong confirmation to the Hick Triples being Grandsire with fifth place bobs, as in all probability the author of "Union Triples" was the same Robert Baldwin who rang the seventh in this and the following peal, and from his presumed abilities and his station at the seventh we may not be considered rash if we point to the probability of his having conducted both peals.

No. 2. Although the calling of this peal is not given in the peal book, it has been handed down to us and so far back as 1788, it is stated in the Clavis that the annexed peal is the one here recorded. Perhaps however the most curious fact is the statement of the authors of the Clavis that it was not until fifty years after the time when this peal was rung that the discovery was made of the necessity of further proof than the truth of the treble leads in this method, which it is perhaps hardly necessary to state is that now known as Oxford Treble Bob Major.

No. 3. As the first peal of Bob Royal was the one rung by the College Youths at St. Bride's, on November 22nd, 1725, it is probable that the real meaning of this very decided claim to the first peal is only to be taken to signify that this was the first on the bells or by the Society. All these ancient records are very indefinite in such matters.

No. 4. This is one of the unexplained mysteries connected with the statement so tenaciously adhered to by some persons that the first peal of Grandsire Triples was not performed until 1751.

THE RINGING WORLD

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

No. 2232 Vol. XLX. FRIDAY, JANUARY 8, 1954 Registered at the G.P.O. for transmission as a newspaper 4d.

THE YOUNG CONDUCTOR

WITH the arrival of the New Year and the resumption or intensifying of the weekly practices there will be in many towers learners in various stages of efficiency. There will be those who have learned to handle a bell and now wish to learn to ring rounds; there will be those who have approached the study of change ringing and desire to practise hunting; some, more advanced, will be anxious to push on to inside work; and, in addition, it may be that someone will wish to try his hand at conducting. This latter person is one of the most interesting and important of all the learners.

In days gone by there were towers in which one man kept all the conducting in his own hands and gave to the aspirant no opportunity to assist or supersede him. Such towers may or may not have been so common as we have been led to suppose, but they did indeed exist, and it may be that they can still be found. But in most belfries to-day a more enlightened view is taken. The wise leader of a band is always on the look out for anyone showing interest in bob calling, knowing full well that one more conductor usually means one more safe ringer. He knows, too, that it is not good for the band to have to rely on the constant presence of one man in order to be able to ring the Sunday service touches. Where conducting in a tower to-day remains in the hands of the leader, it is likely to be because nobody has troubled to study the art of calling, or else it is because a youngster attracted by the idea feels too timid to venture to navigate upon what appear to be such perilous seas.

To the beginner the case presents considerable difficulty. How can he know that he will ring the method correctly when he is calling? Suppose he makes himself look foolish by putting a call in the wrong place? Suppose the bells get displaced, what then? And how can he venture to correct one of these old and experienced ringers should a mistake be made? These are real problems, and any one of these considerations may be enough to cause a young conductor to shrink from putting himself forward, keen as he may be to practise this fascinating art.

The matter calls, of course, for great tolerance and forbearance on the part of the band, and much quiet encouragement and unobtrusive supervision by the leader. The band should be prepared to place itself under the guidance of the new conductor without quibble, without patronising, and ringing in its very best form in order to give the caller every possible assistance. Some leaders will prefer to know the touch beforehand and to correct any mistake made in the calling; others take the view that the novice is best left to himself. The latter course has much to commend it, seeing that it gives to the conductor complete responsibility right from the start and provides its own lesson if a call should be missed or misplaced.

Where a young conductor shows promise and is clearly keen to pursue the study of conducting, what it may be asked, is the next step? What should we do for him next and how should we advise him to follow up his investigations? Much depends, as is usual in all the arts, upon the natural ability of the student. Some will need little or no direct assistance; they will have seen straight away the line they ought to take and the essentials that must be mastered. For others it may be valuable to indicate to them lines of study at home and points for observation in the belfry.

Paper work is, of course, absolutely essential. The conductor must be able to prick changes, first in full, then by lead ends, then by course ends. By the use of scales of bobs and singles he should lose no opportunity of constructing touches (whether original or not is of no consequence): he should acquire some knowledge of the meaning of the In and Out of Course of changes, so that he is clear in his own mind upon certain elementary facts, such as why no 120 of pure Doubles can be obtained with bobs only, or why Grandsire Triples cannot be brought round at handstroke without an odd number of singles. Then, one may perhaps reasonably suggest, he should study the simple principles of calling bells into rounds, taking for study not the long course Major methods but Grandsire Doubles, Bob Minor and Grandsire Triples, the figures of which lend themselves admirably to manipulation. In this study there is no need to burden the mind with lists of rules for bringing the bells round. Some of these lists and instructions are so involved that they completely defeat their end. The basis of the whole thing may be studied with interest and profit in the very simple rules for bringing 5, 6, 7 together in Grandsire Triples and 5, 6 together in Bob Minor.

In the tower the results of the above study should be apparent. Here the beginner should lose no opportunity of studying calling, whether he is actually ringing or not. He may with profit stand behind the experienced conductor and imagine himself to be calling; he may occasionally inquire what touch the leader is to call, so that he himself may follow the working out of the changes. For his practical work one important suggestion may here be offered. As soon as possible let him practise calling from a non-observation bell. Let the touch be short and let the fundamentals of the touch be simple, and no great harm is then done if it comes to grief. If the method is Grandsire Triples much valuable experience may easily be gained in calling bells Before, In and Out of the Hunt, Home, and so on, without committing the band to any very lengthy touches.

So let our budding conductor appear in the tower, eager to learn, bringing with him his scrap of paper on which he has worked out the touch he wishes to call. We must not make fun of his piece of paper. It is a most healthy sign, an indication that he has given thought to his essay and has spent time in getting ready for this moment. Let us assist him all we can, not grudgingly nor patronisingly, knowing that his progress in the art will be our gain, and looking for the day when he shall be able to rule us with authority and with the confidence of one who knows his job.

There are many text books for the beginner in the art of ringing; for the conductor there is none. Articles on the subject have been written and still appear. What would be of interest and great value would be a graded course of study, both theoretical and practical, written specially for young bob callers. Our greatest conductors rise to such heights of genius as we can never hope to reach, and no text book will bring a conductor to such brilliant efficiency. But the genius needs no such book; the course of study suggested here would indicate, and instruct in, certain simple fundamentals, presented in logical order, from which a very ordinary ringer could, with patience and enthusiasm, gain a working knowledge of conducting. How far he advanced beyond that stage would depend on his natural ability and opportunity for practice.

MUFFLED RINGING

Dear Sir,—In answer to Mr. Malcolm S. Cloke, of Harwell, Bucks, re muffled ringing ('Ringing World,' November 20th, page 759). In my book, 'History and Art of Change Ringing,' pages 506-9, I deal with the history of this side of our art which seems to have been practised in the late 17th and early 18th centuries, and I there quote the rules of the London Scholars (1702) on this subject. The first muffled peal of 5,000 changes was rung at Bromley, Kent, in 1817. ERNEST MORRIS.

Leicester.

Dear Sir,—In a Beccles (Suffolk) ringer's diary commencing January 1st, 1781, in which the weather for each day is recorded (also other local news) are the following entries:—

December 26th, 1781.—Mrs. Margerom buried, bumbled the bells.

June 10th, 1782.—Cuddon married, wrung dum peal. (Did the ringers play Mr Cuddon a joke?)

December 12th, 1789.—Mrs. Crowfoot buried by torches, the bells bumbled began at 4 ceased at 9. 2 Guineas for ringing.

By the foregoing it would appear the muffled ringing was practised prior to 1781.

This manuscript book was the property of Mr. Henry Hopson, instigator of rehanging Beccles bells, who died early in this century. His father, Mr. William Hopson, rang a peal of Bob Royal at Beccles in 1836.

GEORGE E. SYMONDS.

LETTERS

THE FALSE PEAL AT BULWELL

Dear Sir,—Will all those who took part in the peal of Treble Bob Major at Bulwell in April last kindly accept my greatest apology for the error made in the composition of the peal, the falseness being pointed out by Mr. J. Seagar.—Yours truly,

E. C. GOBEY.

Ilkeston, Derbys.

MATHEMATICAL APPROACH TO EXTENDED GRANDSIRE

Dear Sir,—With reference to my letter which you kindly included in a recent issue of 'The Ringing World' (page 839), I am sorry to trouble you again in this matter, but a slight misprint has occurred in the sign between 'Coefficient of Performance' and the next phrase. It should be a 'plus/minus' sign, not an 'equals' sign.—Again yours helpfully, Stourbridge. BERNARD C. ASHFORD.

RINGERS' VINTAGE CARS

Dear Sir,—The reference in Belfry Gossip to the ringer with the 1926 Bentley car is perhaps indicative of the peculiar ways of those who practise the art of ringing. A member of the Cambridge University Guild of Change Ringers has acquired an equally ancient London taxicab, driven it home 164 miles with a leaking radiator and crankcase, devoted many hours to the engine, chassis and body, and now contemplates returning to the seat of learning in a manner which will excite the envy, admiration, respect and gratitude of his fellow ringers. —Yours in amazement,

ARTHUR M. MORRIS.

Wrexham.

'CHURCH BELLS—AS HEARD BY THE POETS'

Dear Sir,—I was interested to read the article 'Church Bells—as heard by the Poets' in this journal of December 24th. No reference was made, however, to 'On hearing the full peal of ten bells from Christ Church, Swindon, Wilts,' by John Betjeman. This must be one of the very few poems by a recognised poet dedicated to a particular ring of bells. I am enclosing a copy which I trust you will be able to publish in full.

While those residing on villa'd hill are not unanimous with John Betjeman in his opinions, any ringer pausing awhile on a Sunday evening while Stedman Caters is pouring forth from this tower must agree that there is some truth in what he has to say.—Yours faithfully,

R. J. STOKES.

Swindon.

'ON HEARING THE FULL PEAL OF TEN BELLS FROM CHRIST CHURCH, SWINDON, WILTS'

By John Betjeman

Your peal of ten ring over then this town,
Ring on my men nor ever ring them down.
This winter chill, let sunset spill cold fire
On villa'd hill and on St. Gibert's spire,
So new, so high, so pure, so broach'd, so tall,
Long run the thunder of the bells through all!
Oh still white headstones on these fields of sound,
Hear you the wedding joybells wheeling round?
Oh brick-built breeding boxes of new souls,
Hear how the pealing through the louvres rolls!
Now birth and death-reminding bells ring clear,
Loud under 'planes and over changing gear.

BELFRY GOSSIP

The quarter peal rung at Herne (Kent) is of special significance. Thomas Hollis, who was saved from death in Blean Forest by the sound of the bells of St. Martin's, Herne, bequeathed a gold noble to be paid to the ringers for ringing the bells on St. Thomas' night. The Charity Commissioners have now fixed the payment at 3s. 4d.

We regret to hear that Mr. J. T. Dyke is in bed again with gout as a makeweight. The Exercise wishes him a speedy recovery.

A reader is anxious for particulars of the peal of 10,080 Grandsire Bob rung at Gislingham (Suffolk) in 1822. Was this Grandsire on five bells with the tenor behind, of Bob Minor? he asks.

A reader has to dispose of his unbound copies of 'The Ringing World' from 1944 to June 29th, 1951. Will anyone who can provide a 'good home' for them please communicate with the Editor.

The calling of the peal of Doubles at Ticehurst, Sussex, on December 15th, 1953, should read eight extents each of St. Martin's, St. Simon's, April Day and Plain Bob and ten extents of Grandsire.

Mr. Roger Coles, who for nearly ten years has been a regular ringer at St. Andrew's, Headington, Oxford, was married on Boxing Day. He received a barometer from the ringers and servers of the church as a wedding present.

One of Mr. Ernest Morris' many correspondents is Fr. Dunstan Massey, O.S.B., of The Benedictines of Westminster Abbey, Vancouver, B.C. They are planning to build a tower and look forward to the time when their chimes will be swinging bells. In preparation for this great day the monks have been supplied by Mr. Morris with ringing literature and they have already mastered Grandsire and Stedman Doubles.

Mr. Harold N. Pitstow's name appeared in the New Year Honours List. He has been appointed a member of the Order of the British Empire for his services as conductor and secretary of the bell ringers of Westminster Abbey. The Exercise will join with us in sending him our warmest congratulations.

The peal at Upchurch (Kent) on December 22nd was followed by a tea party, the hosts being the Misses Walker. The hospitality is gratefully acknowledged in our columns.

Mr. Fred Price, of Bournemouth, has been visiting old friends at Longdon, Worcestershire. He was not permitted to depart without ringing a quarter peal on the Parish Church bells.

It was unfortunate that the peal attempt in honour of Mr. George Preston's 84th birthday at his own tower, Christchurch Priory, was unsuccessful. Honour was paid by a quarter peal of Stedman Triples.

The Peals Analysis Committee cannot complete their onerous task without all the material at their disposal. Will conductors please note that the issue of February 26th is the latest date that peals can be included in the 1953 Analysis.

Members of the Ladies' Guild doubtless noticed the splendid performance of Mrs. H. J. Poole recorded in last week's issue of three peals in a day on December 12th. These were rung at Quorn, Shepshed and the Loughborough Bell foundry.

Among the towers whose bells rang early on Christmas morning was Somerton, Somerset. A quarter peal was planned for the 7 a.m. Communion service, but ten minutes before the end, at 6.45 a.m., there was an electricity breakdown, plunging the tower into complete darkness. Candles were lit and ringing was continued till service time.

UNIVERSITIES ASSOCIATION NEW YEAR REUNION

PROBLEM OF FINDING RINGERS FOR CITY CHURCHES — DR. HATCHER REVIEWS SEVEN YEARS' PROGRESS — MR. BRIAN D. THRELFALL THE NEW SECRETARY — CANNED BELLS: AN ANIMATED DISCUSSION

THE tenth annual dinner of the Universities Association, held on Jan. 1st at the Victoria Hotel, London, marked the end of an era in the history of the Association. It was the last function that Dr. John Hatcher attended as hon. secretary and treasurer, a post he had held for seven years. A company of 50 was present with the president, Mr. E. H. Lewis, as a genial chairman.

At the annual meeting, which followed the dinner, an animated discussion took place on canned bells, which was introduced by Mr. Charles McGuiness, who mentioned the concern in the North of England over the matter.

Following the toast of 'The Queen' the president acknowledged with gratitude the gift of a gavel to the Society made with the head in the form of a bell. It is carved in walnut wood and was presented by Inst.- Lieut. T. Watt, R.N.

The toast of 'The Church' was presented by Mr. F. E. Haynes, who said during the years he had been ringing he had met many different ringers and among them many different attitudes towards the Church. When he first went to Birmingham he stood outside a church admiring the sound of the bells and commented upon their excellent quality to a very good ringer. His comment was 'There is only one thing wrong with those bells; they are hung in a church tower.' He thought the parson must have dropped him on the floor at his baptism (laughter).

On another occasion, about 20 years ago, he was standing outside St. Martin's, Birmingham, listening to a peal of Stedman Cinques. A well-known ringer and a distinguished citizen of Birmingham asked him how long they had to go. He told him and his friend then remarked, 'The public would never stand for it but for one thing. They ask "What are they ringing for?" and receive the reply "Something for the Church," and they are quite content with that.'

Most of them took the view that it was a very fortunate thing that more than 90 per cent. of their bells were hung in church towers. They realised their responsibilities and were proud of the fact that they were servants of the Church, and he liked to think that ringers and bells exercised an influence for good.

'NOT WHEN THE CHURCH BELLS RING'

On a practice night a ringer arrived late and went to one of those establishments often found near a church. As he was being served a person on his right whispered something in the ear of the barmaid and she replied, 'Oh no, sir, not when the church bells are ringing' (laughter). The bells certainly influenced actions.

He had indicated in 'The Ringing World' that it was rather difficult for them to preserve a proper sense of values. They were interested in the progress and advancement of their art of change ringing. As the result of that they tried to ring as good as possible and to ring peals. In consequence some of them tended to forget that they were servants of the Church and it was a difficult thing to keep a proper balance. Sometimes their clergy did recognise that difficulty.

There were in the past a number of famous ringing clergymen but their number was steadily dwindling; in fact it would not surprise him that in a few years' time instead of proposing the toast of 'The Church' it would be that of 'The Minister of Education.' In coupling the name of the Rev. R. S. Hooke, Vicar of St. Luke's, Chelsea, with the toast, he thanked him for letting the Society use his bells and for taking the service.

The Rev. R. S. Hooke, in his reply, confessed that he had not much to do with ringing until he came to Chelsea 18 months ago. In his former church there were five bells rung by callow youths. Their ringing alternated between 'Now the day is over' and 'Fight the good fight.' They always played the latter for a wedding (laughter). He was most fortunate in his present ringers, who were very keen.

When he was at Ridley Hall, Cambridge, he was taken to Selwyn College to ring handbells, but he must admit that he made little progress. Outside Selwyn there was some Greek which freely translated was 'Quit you like men.' The great advantage of Selwyn was its proximity to Newnham College (laughter).

Mr. A. A. Hughes, who deputised for the Master of the Ancient Society of College Youths (Mr. John Chilcott), proposed the toast of 'The Universities Association.' He said he was most happy to propose the toast as he knew of the good job of work the Association was doing—both on the practical and theoretical side.

ON CONDUCTING

In response to the many requests made to the Editor, we present to our readers this week the first of a series of articles dealing with conducting.

Mr. Wilfrid G. Wilson, the author, has written these in a simple style, the aim being that they can be readily assimilated by those who desire to master this essential side of change ringing.

We are indebted to Mr. Wilson for the many hours of labour involved in compiling such a valuable series of notes. His immediate co-operation when the Editor suggested the articles is much appreciated.

LONDON'S SHORTAGE OF RINGERS

As they all knew, they had not enough ringers to man the bells and there was a very big need of pupils and teachers and it was on the teaching side that their Association could shine very strongly. In the City of London there was a big dearth of ringers. New rings of bells were being installed and bells restored but unfortunately there were not sufficient ringers coming forward. He was wondering of members of their Association living in London could help. At Stepney there was Tom Fox with a young band, and if anybody had any time on a Wednesday evening he would be glad of their help.

At St. Olave's, Hart Street, he had the greatest difficulty in persuading the Rector to hang the bells for ringing instead of their being stationary. He said, 'Why should I spend this extra money? I shall never get any ringers.' Fortunately, with the great help of their Master and Mr. Herbert Langdon, a good band was assembled there on Christmas morning. The Rector had some young people coming forward and he (Mr. Hughes) had offered to help in teaching them. He hoped those members in London would devote their energies far more to teaching than peal ringing. He was of the opinion that there was too much peal ringing.

Dr. E. S. J. Hatcher, who replied, said seven years ago he was elected to the office of secretary, an unexpected and unlooked-for honour. John Spice, through whose enthusism and energy the Universities Association had less than four years earlier come into being, had quite suddenly found it necessary to hand over his charge.

WEEKS RECALLED

There was no ringing week in 1947 but in 1948 they went to Chester and on that occasion he put his complete trust in the advice of members of the Chester Guild and of the Lancashire Association. Exeter was the rendezvous for 1949, where they indulged in luxury accommodation at Thomas Hall. Their taste of Devonshire was much to their liking.

Lincoln was an amazing week organised for them by Mr. John Freeman, Master of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild; 1951 was distinguished in another way, for at Bristol their hosts were, for the first time, a University Society. They remembered Chewton Mendip, Wells, Evercreech, Queen Camel, Sherborne and Ditcheat, all bagged in one day.

In the Nottingham week, in 1952, they compressed into a week many notable occasions. This was really a three counties tour—Leicestershire, Derbyshire and Nottinghamshire—and for this complex co-ordinated programme they had the genius of Mr. Clement Glenn.

The success of the 1953 week at Oxford, where the Universities Association was formed in 1943, which was organised by Miss Marie Cross, was never in doubt. Among the party of over 40, as representative as it could possibly be, were several of John Spice's Oxford contemporaries and they found it good to be back.

'We may, I think, just say that the Universities Association has completed a second phase of its life and it is a good thing that it is to enjoy the freshness and vigour of new custodians. In some respects the Universities Association has quite grown up, but in doing so it is making increasing demands on enterprise and initiative. Personally, I shall follow its subsequent career with great interest knowing that it will continue to fulfil the hopes of those who brought it into being.'

THE ANNUAL MEETING

The annual meeting followed at which the president, Mr. E. H. Lewis, took the chair. The retiring secretary, Dr. Hatcher, announced an apology from Mr. Yorke-Bramble.

The financial statement showed that the year started with a balance of £12 9s. 10d. and ended with £13 5s. 4d. being carried forward. There was a profit on the Oxford week of £4 6s. 6d. and a loss on the dinner of £3 9s.

The following new members were elected:—Brian A. Tomlinson, Nancy B. Hopkinson, W. Alan Cooper, C. Anne Muirhead, Ruth M. Jackson, Daniel T. Robinson (Manchester University), E. Margaret Mitchell (London), N. J. Diserens (London), the Rev. W. H. R. Trewhella (Oxford), Angela Faulkner (Bristol), Brian Perrett (Bristol), W. T. Cook (Cambridge).

Mr. E. H. Lewis was re-elected president, and in thanking the members for the confidence they had placed in him told them that they must look out for a new president.

The Rev. A. G. G. Thurlow was elected vice-president, and Mr. Brian D. Threlfall as hon. secretary and treasurer in succession to Dr. Hatcher. Miss Marie Cross was re-elected representative to the Central Council.

The president moved that the Association recorded it sincere thanks to Dr. Hatcher for his work as secretary during the last seven years. The resolution was carried with acclamation.

The ringing week for 1954 would be at Hereford from August 13th to August 20th, and Dr. Hatcher reported that arrangements were well in hand and more advanced than any other week.

The president said that there was one thing that struck him about the last two tours. With the large numbers attending, the time at each tower was very small and some of the beginners had not time to settle down to the beat before the touch came to an end. He suggested that fewer towers should be included in the day's programme and longer time spent at each tower so as to give beginners a chance to ring 200 changes and get the rhythm of the bells.

The Rev. A. G. G. Thurlow suggested that it might be possible to have two towers open at the same time.

Mr. C. McGuiness said he gathered from Mr. Wilfred Morton that he might have difficuty in getting as many towers in the Hereford area as in previous tours and consequently there would be longer time for ringing.

It was decided to hold the 11th annual dinner on Friday, January 7th, 1955, at the Victoria Hotel.

CANNED BELLS — CENTRAL COUNCIL MOTION WANTED

Mr. C. McGuiness said he would like to raise a matter which was of vital concern to ringers in the North. They had had a newspaper controversy over canned bells, and in their neighbourhood they were asking their Central Council representative to propose a motion at the next Central Council meeting recommending ringers not to make records of bell recordings. They felt that if there were no records it would affect this canned bell business.

There was a strong feeling in York that if they had known, they would not have made the record they did, and there was no doubt that St. Margaret's, Westminster, felt the same. They thought the correct method would be not to make any more records.

Mr. Brian D. Threlfall said he felt that the suggestion sounded very much like restrictive practices of trade unions. Some recordings were of very great value, such as that of Bow bells.

Mr. McGuiness replied that any band of ringers who permitted their ringing to be recorded should stipulate that the records should not be used for broadcasting from church towers.

Mr. E. J. Lindley said there was the question of copyright. The only way a band that had such a copyright could retain it was by prosecuting the offenders. He could not see Mr. McGuiness travelling up and down the country taking such action. He also doubted whether they could expect a band of ringers to take much notice of such a recommendation.

PREFERENCE FOR REAL BELLS

Mr. T. Watt said in his own parish they had recorded bells. They heard rings of ten, eight and six bells, all in different keys. The locals had, however, expressed the opinion that it would be much nicer to have real bells sounding from their tower, which was strong enough to take a ring of bells. The general public disliked this recording of bells as much as the ringers.

Mr. F. Haynes said the recording of bells was something artificial and not real and English people did not like unreal things. He thought the whole thing would die down and it was best to take no notice of it.

Mrs. Dodds said she knew the church at Earsdon. There were three bells which were cracked and the clock struck on these bells. She must agree that a record sounded better than these cracked bells.

Dr. Hatcher said there were two sides of the question. There were two classes of churches. One was where there was a tower strong enough to take a ring of bells but there were the newer towers in the new housing areas which were not designed to take bells. What had been said was relevant to towers that could take bells, but there still remained the

TOTTERNHOE, BEDS

On Saturday afternoon, December 12th, two new trebles to make a ring of eight at Totternhoe, Bedfordshire, were dedicated by the Vicar (the Rev. A. Ll. Jones, B.A.).

The inscription on each bell reads:—

'In grateful memory of Edith Muckleston, faithful benefactress of this church, 1952. "Glory to God in the highest."'

During the singing of the second hymn the Vicar went in procession to the tower and, after the dedication prayers, the bells were rung in rounds by members of the local band. The Vicar prefaced his address with a warm welcome to visiting ringers.

As the congregation left the church a selected band rang the opening touch of Stedman Triples. Further ringing continued until 5 o'clock, when the company assembled at the Church Hall for tea. This was a grand meal provided by the ringers' wives and friends and was appreciated by all. Miss Evelyn Steel, president of the Bedfordshire Association, proposing a vote of thanks to the ladies, commented on the high standard of teas provided at District meetings held in the village.

Ringers were present from Biddenham, Cardington, Clifton, Dunstable, Henlow, Kempston, Luton, Linslade, Maulden, Barking, Leatherhead, Loughton, Riseley and Woodford.

THE BELLS

Following a fire that destroyed the frame in 1923, the five bells were quarter-turned and rehung in a new wooden frame on ball bearings. In 1930 a new treble was added to make a ring of six, and now two more trebles have completed the octave. All this work has been carried out by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, who were represented by Mr. W. A. Hughes. All present were full of praise for such a 'good splice.' The new bells blend perfectly with the older ones and reflect great credit on the founders. A special word of praise is also due to the bellhanger, Tom Lawrence, whose conscientious work helped in no small way to make this augmentation such a success. This will provide Bedfordshire with another very nice light eight (tenor approximately 9 cwt. in F sharp).

The Rev. A. G. G. Thurlow called attention to the tower at Acle, Norfolk, where there was a ring of bells but the tower did not support the bells. He suggested that where a tower could not take bells, handbells should be rung and amplified. It would be a piece of teamwork and skilled work and not a mechanical thing.

Mr. Lindley moved that the discussion be adjourned and that the Central Council representative be given a free hand in the light of the discussion. This was agreed to.

Ringing took place during the day at St. Mary's, Wimbledon, St. Stephen's, Clapham, St. Mary's, Battersea, and St. Luke's, Chelsea. The service was held at St. Luke's, Chelsea.

KIRKLINGTON SURPRISE

A Warm Welcome

Boxing Day seems to be an annual event in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Milner, of Kirklington — at least, that is what the writer found out when, for the first time, he had the pleasure of joining in this very happy hospitality. After five weddings, one after another, at St. Margaret's, Leicester, Ernest M. was collected in the famous green van and—after a run round the city looking for the elusive 'Tony'—we set off at a spanking pace to Kirklington, where Mr. and Mrs. President awaited to guide us to Southwell. Here, after the long ascent of the spiral stairway, thence along the narrow passage above the triforium looking down on the transept floor far below, one enters the unique ringing gallery. The ropes hang ten feet apart, two on either side of this huge, square tower, with a great yawning 'hole' in the middle. It is a great experience to ring here and it needs a team of experts to get the best results from this grand octave (tenor 28 cwt.). In addition to the difficulties of sight through the wire mesh which rises above the rail around the gallery, the bells run the wrong way round (anti-clockwise).

After the usual preliminaries a start was made for the new method, Kirklington, and after the first course, getting used to the 'blue line,' we settled down to a good beat and went along merrily till just 'before the Before' the conductor was seen to be in difficulties (not with the bell, but with his scanty wearing apparel). We had seen quite a good bit of his middle torso for some time, but when his outer nether garments slid down it caused a flutter of amusement! Fortunately, his underwear decided to 'stay out' and the peal came round beautifully in 3 hours 20 minutes, much to the gratification of mine host, who naively remarked, 'It's better to lose one's trousers than to lose the peal'!!

Then the best part of the evening's activity took place. A quick run to Kirklington revealed a most sumptuous meal awaiting us. This was followed by a 'warming up' with a huge log fire. Ernest M. (not to be confused with Ernest W. R.) was forced to remove his coat, then his jumper. Tony and Alan also experienced this 'warming' business but seemed to bear up better. Anyway, Ernest's rheumatics in his right foot disappeared and came out in his left elbow! Midnight came all too soon, and the Leicester party, having been safely tucked away in the van, left on their long journey home, arriving at 1.30 a.m., tired out but with happy memories of Mr. and Mrs. Milner, to whom all thanks are due. M.

BEVERLEY & DISTRICT SOCIETY

Thirty-two members attended the monthly meeting at St. Mary's Church, Beverley, on December 12th. Standard methods were rung on six, eight and ten to suit all standards of accomplishment and some good ringing was enjoyed once the members had become acquainted with the heavy bells.

A service was held in St. Mary's Church conducted by the Vicar (Canon T. H. Tardrew). The Vicar's sermon was one of encouragement to the regular service ringers who continue to work hard to overcome the difficulties caused through bad attendance and slackness of their fellow-members at services and practices for the instruction of learners. It was an excellent sermon to those who heard it although it would have caused a few red faces to the absentees if it could have been broadcast.

A very good tea was served in the King's Head Hotel, followed by the business meeting. The annual dinner was discussed and fixed for the fourth Saturday in January to avoid clashing with the Selby and York dinners.

Further ringing took place after the meeting.

ON CONDUCTING

By WILFRID G. WILSON

I. INTRODUCTION

ONE of the first things we found out when we started to learn change ringing was that there was no finality to it—no time when we could say we had learnt all there was to know. There are always more and more intricate methods, more compositions, more difficult bells to ring. And there are always more people to teach if our art is to prosper. We can, however, only teach properly and with understanding if we are masters of our subject.

Many of us reach a stage sooner or later where we can call touches and peals—often in quite difficult methods—but somehow we just can't see how it is that old so-and-so knows just where all the bells should be at any time a trip occurs. We ourselves have to wait until the next observation place is reached to be sure whether the bells are right. And, of course, if the trip be a bad one we can't wait so we lose the peal.

These notes, which the Editor has done me the honour to invite, are designed to help ringers over this hurdle and to enable them to advance from what I will call the 'bob caller' stage and to become what I will call a. 'real' conductor. They will be written in language as simple as I can find to explain what to a beginner must be a very complicated subject. Not being a mathematician I hope to use only expressions which will be known to any ringer who has reached the bob calling stage.

Right at the start I should like to make the following preliminary remarks. There are many ringers, already real conductors, who have much greater experience than I and who have proved this in the tower through hundreds of peals. To them I would say that I, as well as my readers, would welcome both criticism of these notes and any helpful hints or short cuts which their experience has proved to be useful.

Various touches and peals will be given in these notes, but they are only as examples. Except for this I make no attempt to give compositions for you to call. Plenty of those can be obtained from other publications. That is why I have not dealt with Minor and Doubles. You can find out how to 'call' these from any text book. But once you have learnt how to 'conduct' any of the methods which will be dealt with in these articles, you will find no difficulty in applying your knowledge to other methods and on other numbers of bells.

These notes will not at present be of help to the real novice at change ringing. But if they persevere, many beginners will reach a stage when advice on these lines will, I hope. make their progress easier.

When I write of 'bob callers' and of trying to show them how to become 'real' conductors, I do not mean in any way to belittle the former. If the Exercise had no bob callers. then ringing in most towers would be confined to plain courses. And not all of those would come round. Many ringers are perfectly content to ring one bell and leave to others the task of learning and calling touches and peals. And they are often more reliable ringers for that. They certainly do not go wrong themselves while telling someone else what to do.

Fortunately, however, for the health of the Exercise, certain ringers are always willing and even eager to take charge of the ringing. Their satisfaction and the willingness of the remainder of the band to ring under their leadership will be the greater the more they prove themselves masters of the art of conducting.

To the young ringer who wants to conduct I would also say this. Don't be discouraged or despondent if you have made a mistake and feel you have let a band down. If you have honestly done your best to learn and to call a touch or peal, then no decent band will blame you. The ringer who never calls a touch can never miss a bob and, conversely, the one who calls most will miss most—at first, anyway.

Here I would like to pay a tribute to those members of the Lancashire Association who were responsible for the publication 'Instructions and Diagrams for Beginners.' If you are fortunate enough to have a copy of this and can understand and put into practice the chapter on 'The Elements of Conducting,' then you will not need notes of mine to become an expert conductor.

I would also like, without in any way evading responsibility, to thank three prominent members of the Exercise—from Cheshire, Kent and Surrey—who have been so kind as to help me with understanding criticism and many valuable suggestions.

CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

Affiliation Fees

Association secretaries are reminded that affiliation fees to the Central Council (ten shillings per member) are now due. Will secretaries please certify membership in accordance with Rule 4, when forwarding the fees (i.e., the total of honorary, ringing and resident life members).

It would also be appreciated if those associations who wish to subscribe towards the cost of a case to contain the two Rolls of Honour, and who have not yet done so, would forward their contributions as soon as possible.

Hon Sec. and Treasurer.

Cambridge Ringing Master Married

The marriage took place on Saturday, Dec. 26th, at St. Margaret's, Newton, Cambridge, of Mr. John Graham Gipson, of Meldreth, and Miss Joan Elizabeth Cook, of Newton.

The bridegroom is the Cambridge District Ringing Master and is well known among ringers in the Cambridge area. The bride is a daughter of Mr. Charles W. Cook, for some years Branch secretary of the Ely Diocesan Association.

As there are only three bells at Newton the following ringers rang handbells in the churchyard as the couple left the church:—Messrs. T. R. Dennis, E. G. Hibbens, F. Haynes, J. W. R. Quinney, W. J. Ridgman, P. Border.

A TOAST TO YORKE-BRAMBLE

During Christmas five ringers got together in 'the local' in the Midlands. Asked one of the others, 'What do you think to all this business about the grid analysis?'

No. 2: 'I know more about a manhole grid outside my front door.'

No 3 (in a more serious vein): 'I don't profess to understand it, but after all, you must recognise one thing, and that is—we have recently had a war to preserve the privileges of a free Press, and unless you intend to destroy that, these men, whether we be interested or not, have every right to free speech.'

No 4 added: 'Only by free expressions of opinion can the unintelligent ever be made intelligent.'

CONGRATULATIONS TO FATHER & SON

Congratulations to Sam Martin and his son Brian on ringing their first peal on 12 bells. They have joined the Leicester Cathedral band and are making good progress. Sam will be remembered as a member of the Leicester Guild multi-minor methods band. Although not a domino expert he is enjoying his experiences on the 'double-six.'

SUFFOLK GUILD PROBLEMS

Dear Sir,—I was glad Mr. Les Brett has backed up the proposal made at Halesworth, but he has written as one who is in easy reach of Ipswich and possesses his own transport.

My previous letter on the subject was a summary of conversations at meetings, practices, etc., during the past few years. The report stated that a number of Districts are without secretaries; this is more or less due to lack of support at Saturday meetings and the work involved in collecting the 2s. 6d. subscriptions of those members who are not deeply interested in the Guild.

We must ask ourselves, 'Why are there approximately 60 who can manage to ring Plain Minor in an East Suffolk District who have left ringing?' Three of the main reasons are temperament, health and wives but there must be others.

Anyone taking the trouble would be surprised at the number who are unable to attend meetings on Saturday afternoons whereas 99 per cent. have Bank Holidays off. West Suffolk has as much right to attend the annual meetings as East Suffolk, which means you must catch the 1.20 or the 2 o'clock to get to Ipswich, and leave again just after tea. Many of our keen members rely on the football excursions on Easter Monday mornings. Concerning the matter of spending all day at a ringing meeting, I will point out that half the day is spent travelling.

Let us also consider the public. Is it fair to shopkeepers to have the bells of St. Mary-le-Tower going when they are trying to serve customers, whereas on Bank Holidays the town centre is deserted?

I must resent the remark that some of our District members lack Christianity and are too mean to pay 4s. per annum. These people keep the Sunday service ringing going and their 2s. 6d. more than covers their share in the expenses. But why should they subsidise the people who are out to obtain personal peal totals, or even be asked to pay another 6d. if they ring a peal for a special occasion? We must also think of the youngsters who are not earning, and those living on pension

A study of your paper will reveal that many Associations and Guilds are troubled with this problem, and some issue a report every two years.

'The Ringing World' suffers in the same manner, and any genius who could come forward with a proposal to solve these problems should be awarded a medal.—Yours sincerely,

Bures, Suffolk. LESLIE D. MILLS.

NEWSPAPER MAN CAPTURES SPIRIT OF THE BELFRY

A Pen Picture That Will Enthral the Exercise

A great service to ringing has been performed by 'The Manchester Guardian.' In the Christmas Eve issue of the journal appeared an article by Normal Shrapnel entitled 'They ring to make our Christmas complete.' The writer captures the spirit of the belfry in a wonderful way, and below a layman tells a story that all ringers will delight to read:—

The Christmas bells, though they may seem the most disembodied of all seasonable sounds, are the product of a high alliance of sweat and skill. They are carried sweetly across the frosted fields or streets by the man-handling of tons of metal. They cannot speak without the aid of men in their shirt-sleeves, doing strenuous permutations. Only in churches which use recorded chimes is the music truly disembodied, and you would have to travel far among the bell-towers of the 5,439 ringing churches of Britain to find anything but scorn for those.

The ringers are friendly men, but of all the private world theirs must be among the most exclusive. Their ancient art grows steadily more complicated; they are silver-tongued mathematicians, their script being of numbers but their spoken language as sonorous as the bells themselves, so that they speak familiarly of Grandsire Caters, Stedman Sextuples, Plain Bob Royal or Bristol Surprise Major. They tend to live for their art and its terms. 'You must have known so-and-so,' one will say to another; 'he used to do a lot of ringing in the South.' Or, 'Nice chaps, but they're not what you'd call Stedman Cinques men.' The bell itself, in their terminology, doesn't ring. Its clapper is a tongue, and it speaks.

In the tower of an ancient Cheshire church the ringers are gathering. It is a famous ringing county, and holds a record of 21,600 Bristol Surprise Major changes achieved two years ago at Over in two minutes under thirteen hours. What strikes you at once is the variety of these voluntary prisoners in their stone tower. The oldest has been ringing for close on sixty years; the youngest is a National Service boy in uniform who was captured by the bells through living under them. One man has travelled all the way from Coventry 'just for a ring'; another is a teacher of mathematics who took to the complicated game as a scientist might take to heavy water.

WOMEN, ALSO

Two are women, who are increasingly succumbing to the bell-ringing urge; recently it was announced that the lady ringers of Bedfordshire had already scored quarter peals and hoped to achieve a full peal soon. And a letter in 'The Ringing World.' that unequalled source of esoteric information, reveals that a rector's daughter helped to break the war-time bell-silence during the invasion scare of 1940. 'She rang the sixth on that never-to-be-forgotten night.' She rang, and they were scattered.

That was comparatively silent war. Here is peace, tumultuous peace. 'Look to—treble's going,' warns the sixty-year ringer. 'She's gone!' Up and down go the ropes, controlled by the pumping arms, and the tower shakes and thunders with the music of the bells. It's more a knack than brute strength, you are assured, and remembering those record-breaking thirteen hours you believe it. Why were they not back-breaking, too? 'Always ring your bell, never let your bell ring you,' is a saying of the craft. It is easy to see the wisdom of this, especially when you discover the peril of mishandling a rope to a 'set' bell; this can fling you belfry-wards like a stone from a catapult, and the records say that men have died from time to time. But nowadays the hazards are not considered great; a toss taken here, a broken collar-bone there, is the extent of the damage. The novices are more sensible, and the old hands more sober. The old bell-tower fines for drinking, swearing, fighting or ringing with hat or spurs on have lapsed long since.

One rule, from Scotland, that 'the feelings and wishes of any sick person in the neighbourhood must be tenderly considered,' might still find support. The friends of synthetic bells argue that by eliminating practices they spare the public possible annoyance; the ringers reply that they find little evidence of such annoyance. Since a speaker at the Church Assembly called the use of recorded bells 'fraudulent,' the ringing world has been going at this issue with all clappers. They seem to be taking on in spite of the scorn of the 'live' ringers, who regard it as the last word in pretentiousness and vulgarity to install synthetic cathedral chimes in a village or small-town church.

RINGERS' ANXIETY

Some fear that before long only five-star rings and virtuoso ringing will be tolerated, under this demand for nothing but the best, even if canned. Anxiety is also being voiced about what might happen if a few competitive firms, pushing their synthetic bell apparatus, got busy with sales talk; it appears that faith in the proper response of incumbents and church councils is not universal. The ringers' official journal admits, all the same, that a good deal of blame rests on the ringers themselves in not ensuring that all bells are properly rung for services, and making insufficient effort to fill the gaps in their ranks. Another aspect is legal. Bells—even by those who may dislike them—are commonly accepted as a privileged form of praise. Have recordings the same immunity from legal process as a public nuisance?

In their Cheshire tower these things may well be in the ringers' minds as they draw to the end of their peal. Though nurtured on four famous stanzas of Tennyson, they must be having second thoughts about the line, 'Ring out the old, ring in the new.' More reassurance, perhaps, in the time-honoured closing call: 'That's all—stand.'

OBITUARY

MR. N. R. SUMMERS

On December 16th, 1953, there died a ringer of Tanworth-in-Arden Church whose skill and personality will be greatly missed from the tower.

Norman Robert Summers was born in Tanworth 61 years ago, a member of a family of engineers and wheelwrights resident in the parish for 150 years. He was a first-class engineer who specialised in the motor car, and in 1919 his garage in Tanworth became his life's work.

From the age of eight years he rang the bells which were used in those days to signify the time, and sang solos in the choir as a boy. In 1931 he installed electricity in the church and recently electric heating in the chancel He and his father maintained the bells and bell frame up to the restoration in 1949 and his family had always wound the church clock which his grandfather installed in 1873.

Mr. Summers removed the clock to the floor above the ringing room, where it now keeps time to within 15 seconds a month, though he was unable to complete this work due to ill-health.

On the evening of his funeral a quarter peal of Grandsire Doubles was rung as a tribute to one who used his craftsmanship to the benefit of all with whom he came in contact, by L. Mole 1, Miss E. Boffey 2, J. H. Jones 3, J. W. Jones 4, J. Corbett (conductor) 5, A. J. Collins 6.

MR. FREDERICK G. SPRINGHAM

It is with sincere regret that we record the death on December 19th of Mr. Frederick Springham, Ringing Master at Much Hadham, at the age of 56 years after a painful illness.

Mr. Springham learned to handle a bell at Broxbourne, Herts. Later he joined the band at St. Michael's, Bishop's Stortford, where his father and brother were also ringers and where he rang for over 30 years. After the lifting of the ban he assisted the local band at Much Hadham and when the bells were augmented to eight in 1950 became Ringing Master.

Although he rang few peals he was a devoted service ringer and a keen churchman. During the time he held the office of Ringing Master at Much Hadham his valuable work as an instructor resulted in the building up of a strong Sunday service band. He will be greatly missed by the local ringers and by his many ringing friends.

Among the floral tributes were wreaths from his fellow ringers at St. Michael's, Bishop's Stortford, and at Much Hadham. Half-muffled quarter peals were rung to his memory by the local company and by a representative band from the surrounding towers.

Mr. Springham leaves a widow to whom we extend our deepest sympathy. P. A. F. C.

MRS. WALTER W. WOLSTENCROFT

An Appreciation

By the death of Mrs. Wolstencroft, those who knew her feel they have lost a friend, and many more than a friend. The Ringing Exercise, too, has lost a patron in more ways than one. As a ringer's wife she was an outstanding example by her support and encouragement. When there was a shortage of ringers during the first world war she took up ringing seriously at her home tower of St. Peter's, Ashton-under-Lyne, Lancashire. Although she was not a prolific peal ringer she nevertheless followed the peal ringing activities of her husband and friends with a keen interest. 103, Victoria Street, Ashton, was an address that was stamped indelibly on many ringers' minds, for there there was always a welcome, and those who had the pleasure of experiencing her hospitality never forgot her kind and genial disposition —nothing was too much trouble to make the visitor feel 'at home.' Who can forget those teas she organised on the occasion of Branch meetings or those small special gatherings at 103 which invariably followed a peal attempt, successful or otherwise, gatherings which taxed the accommodation at 103 to its utmost limit? It was a sad day when indisposition, caused by an accident in 1946, prevented her taking further part in the non-ringing activities of her ringing friends. For the past seven years both she and Mr. Wolstencroft had been living with their daughter Ida at Stoke Poges, and there they enjoyed a well-earned retirement. Our sympathies go out to her husband and daughter, and may they be happy in the knowledge that she was one of the best.

Guild of Devonshire Ringers

A number of members of the Guild of Devonshire Ringers held a successful half-day outing on Boxing Day, when a few towers in the Mid-Devon area were visited. The first tower was Chudleigh, where a pleasant hour was spent, after which visits were paid to Bovey Tracey, Dean Prior and Beckington, and in the first three places the ringers were welcomed by the respective vicars.

The visitors were subsequently entertained to tea by Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Lilley, of Perry Farm, Highweek, Newton Abbot, after which handbell ringing was indulged in.

Thanks were expressed to Mr. and Mrs. Lilley for their very kind hospitality.

THOMAS EAYRE, of KETTERING (1691—1757)

Although remembered principally as a bell-founder of no mean ability, Thomas Eayre was a remarkable man in several other ways. Perhaps the first occupation he knew was that of blacksmith, the trade of his father. In a copyhold admission of October, 1726, he is described as clockmaker, and was commissioned by the Vestry of All Saints,' Northampton, in 1727, to keep the clock and chimes in good repair. He was employed by George, third Earl of Cardigan, in cleaning and winding the clocks at Deene Hall, and in keeping the jacks and other machinery in good order. Similarly he was employed by the Marquess of Rockingham to look after the great clock at Great Hawarden between 1748 and 1756.

That he was also a surveyor we gather from the fact that surveying articles are included in the list of property advertised as for sale by auction in 1762, which were left to his son, Thomas III., in his will of December 24th, 1757. He was clearly very interested in antiquarian subjects, as we may gather from a letter to Sir Edmund Isham, of Lamport, dated March 24th, 1738-9, in which he describes in detail a large tesselated Roman pavement discovered three weeks before in a field at Weldon, and appeals to the baronet to try to persuade Lord Hatton to take steps to preserve it.

Eayre was one of several topographical artists commissioned by John Bridges to make drawings for his great 'History of Northamptonshire,' which contains some of his work including one in ink of the portico of All Saints', Northampton. Among the other drawings are a plan of the Roman remains at Castor: 'The North East Prospect of Higham Ferrers,' a plan of Peterborough and a sectional view of the Cathedral from the south side. Eayre's greater and by far his most important work was his map of the county of Northants, which is deservedly well known in that it was the first of the county on a large scale (one mile to one inch).

These accomplishments, however, did not afford Eayre his living completely. His main means of livelihood was his bell foundry, which appears to have come into being in about 1717, when we find bells at Cranford and Yelden. He was a great admirer of Hugh Watts' bells, and when he recast the sixth at St. Margaret's, Leicester, he put this inscription on it:—'Hugh Watts, of Leicester, the foremost in his art, cast the 6 largest bells 1633. T. Eayre, Kett: Recast this 1739. Morte Beata Nihil Beatius.'

Watts' inscriptions were very often used by Eayre, for instance, 'I.H.S. Nazarenus Rex Judeorum Fili Dei Miserere Mei' appears on the 9th at Kettering and in many other places, including Bringhurst, Humberstone, Lubenham, etc. About 200 bells cast by Eavre are extant, in Leicestershire, Northamptonshire, Lincolnshire, Warwickshire, Rutland, Huntingdonshire and Bedfordshire, by far the greater number in Northamptonshire and Leicestershire (approximately 70 each). We can get some idea of prices of those days by considering those at Daventry in 1738, for recasting five old bells and increasing them to eight—£209 14s. In 1752, for recasting and augmenting the ring at Grantham to eight, £516 0s. 2d. In 1754 the ring of six at Loughborough were recast at a cost of about £119.

Thomas Eayre was buried at Kettering on January 3rd, 1758, and though the location of his grave is now lost, his name will be remembered as long as his bells remain to bear witness to the craft of a versatile and brilliant man.

RINGERS' RULES (ANCIENT & MODERN)

Mr. Ernest Morris has received the following appreciation of his articles from Mr. Frank Huckle, of Swanage, Dorset:—

'I have found your records of the above, published in "The Ringing World," very interesting and have ventured to compile a few verses using some of these old rules. I take the liberty in sending you a copy.'

THE BELLS OF ST. MARY'S

If a ringer you wish to be,
Come then to Swanage by the sea.
For at St. Mary's you will find
The finest eight bells of their kind.

We ringers here are no one's foes,
But those who want too much repose.
For there's no music, played or sung,
Like unto bells when they're well rung.

If you've a mind to be enrolled.
Then to these orders you must hold.
It's not good to hear men wrangle,
And much worse to hear bells jangle.

That every change be true and clear,
You must ring well with hand and ear.
List'ning too for Bob or Single,
With an eye upon the treble.

If any should our church neglect,
Or Captain's orders disrespect.
It is a rule of old most clear,
That such a one cannot stay here.

One night each week we all do meet,
To practise and to records beat.
On Sunday twice a day we're there,
Calling both good and bad to prayer.

If to our laws you do consent,
Then take a bell we are content.
He that in ringing takes delight,
Will never lack for friends aright.

Now comes the Captain's final call,
And so to rounds and that-is-all.
Ring down the bells so ringers keen,
God bless the Church, God save the Queen.

THE RINGING WORLD

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

No. 2233 Vol. XLX. FRIDAY, JANUARY 15, 1954 Registered at the G.P.O. for transmission as a newspaper 4d.

THE EXPERT

IN the world of change ringing the lot of the expert is not entirely a happy one, nor can it be said that his work always receives the recognition due to it. His position as an authority on some branch of ringing, be it archæological, historical, mathematical or mechanical, is reached after long years of patient study, experiment, self-criticism and self-adjustment, with frequent periods of doubt and heartbreaking disappointment. At last his writings and observations may show his judgment and knowledge to be mature, and it comes to be recognised that his word on certain matters is to be treated with respect and used for guidance.

But, having reached this position of authority, he finds that much is expected of him. How frequently is the expert composer called upon for special compositions, to pronounce opinions on peal qualities or, what is often a task of dreary drudgery, to verify and prove the figures of peals? To this question Mr. C. W. Roberts or Mr. Pitman might provide the answer. How often are the students of method construction called upon for heavy labours and careful, considered opinions on the tabulation and systematisation of methods? Mr. C. K. Lewis and Mr. Felstead, and others, will be able to judge; for were the full tale of their investigations made clear to us, doubtless we should be astonished at the magnitude of the labours involved.

It was Jasper Snowdon who deplored the fact that so much of the work of the old composers and theorists was lost. 'Of what use,' he writes in 'A Treatise on Treble Bob,' are the costly and carefully kept books of such Societies as the College and Cumberland Youths when they do not even attempt to preserve from oblivion the only particulars of permanent interest connected with the performances they record? Were all these bygone performances true and thus worthy of record? If so, surely the men who spent their time and wearied their brains over their production should have had their work preserved from such ignominious extinction!' Snowdon was thinking primarily of the preservation of the actual figures of peals, but we cannot help feeling that he had in mind also the ignominious extinction of a vast amount of experimental and exploratory work of the men of old, and of the loss of papers that might give us clues to their methods of working, thus enabling us to pay a more adequate tribute to their powers and to their work for posterity.

It is true, of course, that few of the experts of old, even the brilliant ones, kept any clear record of the process by which they worked; some of them, indeed, seem to have been incapable of explaining how their results were obtained. Nothing that Holt left behind tells us how he produced the Original; Thurstans and Lates give us no clue to their mental reasoning; that brilliant genius, John Carter, was, to use Trollope's word, inarticulate, and in his writings had no power to make himself entirely understood. But his results are unsurpassed and the sureness of his touch is uncanny. Of recent years our experts have been able, through the ringing Press, to lay before us, not only their results, but also their methods, and the writings of Heywood, Parker, Trollope, Davies and others have enabled us to appraise more fully the knowledge of the theorists and to pay tribute to the rich gifts they have given us.

With all this, there is an impish desire in the hearts of most of us to poke fun at our experts, and to use whatever opportunity may arise to have our laugh at them and their methods. The lighthearted contributions that have recently appeared in 'The Ringing World' are innocent and entertaining, and are examples of that boyish exuberance by which the Englishman so often attempts to disclaim all desire to take himself too seriously. Some years ago, during the controversy over the publication of Dr. Slack's two-part peal of Stedman Triples, one solemn humorist declared that it had afforded him some delight to find the experts for once confounded.

Such sly digs may without much trouble be taken good humouredly, for they serve as a simple foil to the expert who does, occasionally, by his dogmatism or assurance of superiority, cause us to feel that he is imposing upon us some fad of his own or attempting to force us into a line of action to which we object. We owe too much to our experts to wish to ridicule their work or belittle their contribution to our art. We cannot always agree with them, and sometimes we actively oppose them, but we recollect that their labours have no material reward and no recompense save that of knowing that they contribute to knowledge and progress; and every practical ringer acknowledges that they are indispensable. E. C. S.

THANK YOU!

To those (not known to me) who here, last week,
A happy toast recorded, many thanks!
But sad it is that folks have been misled (Largely by those who only partly 'tend)
To think that Grid Analysis concerns
Some deeper myst'ry, mathematical!

In fact, 'tis fundamental for all those Who wish to study method form and growth.
Nor can originality be claimed,
Except perhaps in treatment and new terms;
Enabling new conclusions to be reached.
Which give coherent meaning to the whole
Of method structure theoretical.
So, to its students all, New Year felicital!

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION

Eastern District at Howden

The winter meeting of the Eastern District was held at Howden on January 2nd and was attended by about 30 members from several towers. The fine ring of eight bells was rung during the afternoon and evening in various methods. The service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. T. B. Kitchen), who welcomed the Association to Howden.

The vice-president, Mr. A. E. Sellers, who presided at the business meeting, wished the members a Happy New Year, and welcomed Mr. R. B. Smith, of Howden, after a fairly long illness. He read an apology from Mr. S. Steel, the Ringing Master, for non-attendance owing to an operation. The meeting wished both a speedy and complete recovery.

Holy Trinity, Hull, was selected for the next meeting. A collection for the Association's Bell Repair Fund realised 17s. 6d.

NORWICH ASSOCIATION

General Meeting Adopts New Rules

A general meeting of the Association was held following the North Norfolk Branch annual meeting, in St. Miles' Parish Hall (St. Martin-at-Oak Church), Norwich, on January 9th. The main object of this meeting was formally to adopt the new Association rules, as put forward and amended at the last annual general meeting. These rules include: 'The annual general meeting shall be held in Norwich on a date to be determined by the Standing Committee.' Thus the Association is empowered to try having the annual general meeting on a Saturday, which is believed to be likely to attract a larger number than Easter Monday has done lately. The Standing Committee had already agreed, if the general meeting were to adopt the new rules, to determine Saturday, May 8th, as the date for the 1954 annual general meeting.

It was noted that only about 232 subscriptions appeared to have been paid in 1953, so that the Association was only empowered to have two representatives on the next Central Council. G. T.

BELFRY GOSSIP

The York Minster Society is celebrating its 100th anniversary on January 30th by a general meeting of the Yorkshire Association followed by a dinner. We feature this week the history of York Minster, its bells and bell-ringers, written by the president, Mr. Harold Walker.

The peal of Stedman at Portsea on December 31st provided the opportunity for Mr. F. W. Burnett to 'complete the circle' in that tower.

Mr. Alan Pearson, of Worsley, Lancs, who is a civil engineer by profession, is going to Madras and Bombay. He expects to be away for about three months.

The ringers of the peal at Scorton, Lancs, would like to express to Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Anderton, of Springfield Farm, Scorton, their sincere thanks for the way in which they were received on New Year's Day.

The poem quoted in our last issue by John Betjeman, 'On hearing the full peal of ten bells from Christ Church, Swindon,' appeared in a book of poems by Mr. Betjeman called 'New Bats in Old Belfries,' published by John Murray, Ltd. The book is now out of print.

In the peal attempt at Stisted on January 2nd Peter Wood turned in the fifth and rang five-and-a-half extents of Cambridge Surprise Minor on a single rope after it had become untucked. His determination was much appreciated by the band. Alas! the peal has since been withdrawn.

Prominent among the young ringers of the Essex Association is Mr. Joe E. G. Roast, of Danbury, who during 1953 rang 30 peals for the Essex Association, of which he conducted 18. He has now 46 peals to his credit and has rung in 208 different towers, a promising achievement for a young ringer who has just reached his 18th birthday.

Congratulations to Mr. Albert Walker, who rang his 800th peal on December 26th. It was his 322nd of Stedman Cinques. Optimistically he writes: 'I only want 1,200 more for my 2,000 peals'!

Those readers who bind their copies of 'The Ringing World' can obtain the 1953 Index on separate sheets upon immediate application to this office, enclosing a stamped addressed envelope.

Mr. Leonard Trevor, of Nuneaton, has now, with a peal at St. Margaret's, Leicester, conducted Cambridge from Minor to Maximus.

Special thanks are expressed to Mr. A. E. Richards by the band who rang for the induction service at Farndon, Cheshire, and the congratulatory peal to the new incumbent afterwards. His welcome was much appreciated.

Absence of trips and accuracy of striking by the lady members in a peal at Burnham gave extreme pleasure to the remainder of the band. The conductor's remark at the end of the peal was, 'I've never had a better "first."'

Alderman Sir Theodore Pritchett, who has consented to take the chair at the Henry Johnson Dinner on March 6th, is a nephew of the late Alderman J. S. Pritchett, who for many years was presiding Ringing Master of St. Martin's Guild, Birmingham. Sir Theodore is a regular ringer at Tanworth-in-Arden, a Warwickshire village some ten miles from Birmingham.

Mr. John Fielding, who recently secured his B.A. degree, hopes to be ordained next June and to accept a curacy at St. Luke's, Belfast. A former official of Londonderry Corporation, his acceptance of 'the call' has meant a real sacrifice. John is very popular with ringers in Ireland and was captain of St. George's, Dublin, which won both the Lindoff and Murphy Cups last year.

YORK MINSTER – ITS BELLS AND BELL-RINGERS

By HAROLD WALKER
President, York Minster Society of Change Ringers

BELLFOUNDERS flourished in York down to the end of the 18th century. One of the earliest was Richard Tunnoc who, before his death in 1330, gave the now famous 'Bell-founder's Window' to the Minster.

In 1371 the Chapter employed a Leicester man, John de Stafford, to cast several new bells; one replaced the Great Bell which had fallen down in 1359. The Fabric Rolls of 1371 set out in great detail the weights and costs of the various materials used in making the moulds, setting up the furnace and casting the bells; all the work being carried out within the Minster precincts. In addition to the work on the new bells a bell called 'John' and another called 'Chancellor' were rehung.

The south-western tower was built during the period 1432-1457 and various bells were housed in it.

The erection of the north-western tower completed the building of the Minster which was consecrated on July 3rd, 1472. The bells for this tower were cast some years before being required. The Fabric Roll of 1466 shows that John Knapton, Under Treasurer, handed to Thomas Innocent, bellfounder of Leicester, certain metals for the casting of four bells, the weight of each bell being given. These bells were known as the Lady Bells, one being inscribed:—

'SUM ROSA PULSATA MUNDA MARIA VOCATA.' (I being rung am called Mary, the Rose of the World.)

This bell still exists and is the tenor of the ring of six at St. Michael's in the City.

THE FIRST RING OF TWELVE

In 1655 the Lady Bells were removed from the north-western tower and placed with the eight then hanging in the south-western tower. Thus was created the very first ring of twelve bells ever to be rung.

The musical qualities of this early ring evidently left much to be desired for in 1657 the 7th and 11th were recast by local founders, an old bell from the demolished Church of St. Nicholas-without-Walmgate being used to increase the weight. The 8th was recast in 1671, to be followed by the four trebles in 1681. Finally the tenor was recast in 1727; this bell was reputed to weigh 59 cwt. and was 5 feet 9½ inches in diameter.

Dean Fountayn, in 1765, decided to replace the old ring of twelve bells with a new ring of ten similar to Bow Bells which had recently been installed. The Whitechapel Foundry estimated the new ring would weigh ten tons and cost £1,213 6s. 3d. and they were prepared to make an allowance of £1,201 19s. 8d. for the old bells, which were estimated to weigh 12 tons 18 cwt., the Dean and Chapter to pay the carriage.

All the old bells were not sent to London, however: a Mr. Beckwith agreed to pay 11d. per lb. for the 8th, and the five trebles were given to the Church of St. Michael in exchange for three old bells. The five included the Lady Bell mentioned above and are still in St. Michael's tower.

The new ring was a great improvement: the tenor bell weighed 53¼ cwt. and was 5 feet 4½ inches in diameter. The Latin inscriptions on the old bells were not reproduced but the founders chose new ones of their own, two of which were:—

6th.—'Our voices shall with joyful sound
Make hills and valleys echo round.'

8th.—'Ye ringers all who prize your health and happiness
Be sober merry wise and you'll the same possess.'

The change from twelve bells to ten did not please the above-mentioned Mr. Beckwith, who wrote (Beckwith's MSS., Bodleian Library, Vol. 2, p. 206):—

'This year Dean Fountayn disposed of the old peal of bells in the Minster and got a new peal of worse bells. Before there were twelve but now reduced to ten. The great Old Bell was supposed to have been in the Minster ever since the building of the Church. The inhabitants of York had no reason to thank the Dean for meddling with them, for the bells were much better as well as the former Dean.'

THE GREAT FIRE OF 1840

In 1840 the bells were destroyed in a great fire which gutted the south-western tower and spread to the roof of the nave. After the fire the Minster was without a bell; the Dean and Chapter, therefore, ordered a new one weighing 53 cwt. for immediate use and to form the tenor of a new ring as soon as the work of reparation was completed.

In 1843 Dr. Stephen Beckwith died and left £2,000 for providing a new ring of twelve bells. Eleven bells were ordered from the Whitechapel Foundry and added to the bell already obtained. The ring of bells was heard for the first time on July 4th, 1844.

Lord Grimthorpe, the designer of 'Big Ben,' considered the new bells very inferior to the old ring of ten. Within five years the tenor had to be recast and was invoiced back as weighing 50 cwt.

In 1913 the bells were fitted with steel headstocks and rehung by Messrs. Warner and Co., London. The ringers obtained little satisfaction from the bells after rehanging, as they were still difficult to ring and were of indifferent tone, with the result that there was soon an agitation for improvements to be made; proof, surely, that it is a mistake to spend money on patched-up jobs so far as bells are concerned.

Ultimately, on the advice of Canon H. H. Nolloth, the Dean and Chapter decided to make a clean sweep of the old bells and fittings and to start anew. The Beckwith bells were heard for the last time on January 3rd, 1925.

THE PRESENT RING

The work of restoration was entrusted to Messrs John Taylor and Co., Loughborough, who recast the bells with a considerable addition of new metal and rehung them in a massive cast iron and steel frame and modern fittings which included ball and roller bearings. The tenor bell now weighs a few pounds short of 60 cwt., or approximately the same as the old tenor of 1627, and sounds a deep B flat.

A new semitone, an A flat bell, was added between the 6th and 7th to form a middle octave in E flat with a tenor of 25 cwt. The total weight of the 13 bells is now over 13 tons.

The bells now form the fourth heaviest ring of twelve in the country, Liverpool, St. Paul's and Exeter Cathedrals taking precedence, but for beauty of tone they are unequalled.

Mention must be made of 'Great Peter'; this huge bell was provided out of the money raised to replace the bells destroyed in the 1840 fire but which was not required following the Beckwith bequest. It was cast at the foundry of Messrs. Mears, Whitechapel, and weighed 10¾ tons. When hung in the north-western tower 30 men could not make it sound by swinging so it had to be struck by an independent hammer fitted to a long lever. The bell was not a good one as it was thicker at one side than the other.

After the bell restoration of 1925-26 'Great Peter' was recast at Loughborough and now weighs 10 tons 16 cwt. 2 qr. 22 lb. Its note is E flat, the dominant of the ring of twelve. Its hangings are of modern design and it can now be tolled, by swinging through 90 degrees, by the sexton without assistance. The deep boom of this great bell can be heard at noon each week-day when it is tolled for five minutes, this being akin to the pre-Reformation mid-day Angelus.

In pre-Reformation days this ringing of bells was allotted to deacons or clerks in minor orders. The bells were rung at the canonical hours, not only to give notice of the services, but to mark the time.

At the Reformation ringing ceased except for Matins and Evensong and the ringing duties were relegated to laymen. Thereafter bell-ringing gradually came to be regarded as a secular undertaking and was practised as a gentlemen's recreation and fashionable sport. It is only in the last 80 years or so that bell-ringers have established themselves as valued church workers.

Little is known of the early ringers of the Minster. In 1730 the York Society of Bell-ringers gave two bells to St. Martin's, Coney Street, and in 1733 made a generous contribution to the cost of rehanging the Minster bells and provided a ringing floor nearer the bells. It is evident the members of this Society were of some standing in the life of the city.

A GOOSE SUPPER AT MEREWORTH

Last meeting of the year for the K.C.A., did I say? As we adjourned to the Torrington Arms no one had even dreamed otherwise. But then we discovered that we had 'discovered' the place, for in several years no one had thought of it before as a tea rendezvous, whereas at their previous 'house' mine hosts had been noted for their hospitality, especially for their goose suppers at Christmas.

The idea was born, and before leaving Mereworth a return visit had been booked for December 21st, only not to the Torrington Arms, but to the Queen's Head, another of the hostelries. Towers in the District were invited to send representatives to a limited party of 30, and in the misty evening (thankfully no fog, as had been quite prevalent on previous evenings) they came. One small party had had a busy day, three members of the staff of East Malling Research Station, who in the afternoon had rung East Malling bells before their annual carol service (Nine Lessons and Carols), and en route to Mereworth had been to Wrotham to see the Press photographer at work obtaining suitable New Year's Eve copy for publication on New Year's Day in the county paper.

So to the goose supper. Midway through the feast the carol singers came and made their haul for the Children's Society. Everything was delightfully informal. From Wrotham we had brought a tape machine with a recording of those lovely bells, creditably rung by the very young local band, under the tutorage of 'Belfry' Editor Reginald Sills. Incidentally, in view of the present topicality of bell recordings, we are glad to be able to point to a positive use, for at Wrotham they play back their recordings and have their ringing criticised by captain Sills. Furthermore there is real pleasure in being able to listen to one's own ringing, and to compare different rings of bells.

Very soon the handbells were brought out and, being Christmastide, were set ringing carols. We thought our vocal accompaniment rather good, though have to admit that we were in too joyous a mood to be very critical. But the voice of cool reason was at last heard to remind us that we were change ringers, and the handbells altered course to Grandsire and Plain Bob.

Our time was running out, and after this brief interlude we dispersed to our various parishes having quite recklessly inserted this respite in that hectic and rush period before Christmas Day. I repeat, there was no formality, but we did allow ourselves one guest, the Vicar of Mereworth. Even so, it was only a token of our appreciation of that feast a month before at the Torrington Arms, when all of us had been his guests. E. S. J. H.

LONG PEAL COMMEMORATED

An Interesting Composition Rung

On Saturday, December 19th, 1953, the peal of 15,480 Cambridge Surprise Royal rung on December 15th, 1951, was commemorated at Worsley, Lancs, by a peal of Cambridge Royal, the first half with the back bells in the 'Tittum' position, and after a turning course of 7,908 the remainder of the peal was backstroke home. At the conclusion of the peal the Vicar (the Rev. Mr. Billington) came into the belfry accompanied by members of the local band and conducted a short service of dedication of the handsome tablet which records the long peal.

A pleasant evening was afterwards spent at the cafe near the church where an excellent meal had been arranged. There the company were joined by the Rev. R. D. St. John Smith, president of the Lancashire Association, who, at the conclusion of the evening, ably 'carried the baby' so gracefully passed to him by the Vicar at the end of a short speech expressing his (the Vicar's) pleasure at being present on that memorable occasion and in which he said that whereas some of his predecessors had gone out when the bells were rung, he preferred to remain and listen to them. In truth, Worsley is fortunate in its choice of Vicars!

Mr. Smith, who, it will be remembered, is the only man to have been Master of both the Cambridge University Guild and the Oxford University Society, thanked Mr. Dunkerley, the donor of the tablet, for his hospitality and said, as president of the Lancashire Association, he had reason to appreciate the great service he was doing for the Exercise.

Mr. Darbyshire, the genial and well-known tower-keeper, expressed the pleasure of himself and the local band, and Mr. Dunkerley suitably replied.

A pleasant time was spent with the handbells until parochial duties claimed the two clerics and the remainder made their several ways home.

The band was sensible of the absence of James C. E. Simpson, whose sudden death nearly two years ago robbed them of one of their most accomplished and talented members. Mr. Peter Laflin, himself a long-length ringer of outstanding ability, took the vacant rope in the commemoration peal, details of which appear in our peal columns.

The composition rung is appended:—

THIRTY YEARS AS SECRETARY

The annual meeting of the Kington District of the Hereford Diocesan Guild took place at Kington on January 2nd. The District secretary, Mr. J. Preece, was about to relinquish his post after 30 years' service. A presentation was made to him after which he was once again elected secretary. In the face of no opposition his reply was 'I will continue "provisionally."'

As this has been his reply for many years, the ringers hope that he will continue for many more. D. R.

ON CONDUCTING

By WILFRID G. WILSON

II. THE AIM OF THESE NOTES

As our main example method we shall take for these notes our old friend Plain Bob Major. I hear you say, 'I thought so—they all choose that method because it is easy. I shall not be able to apply the necessary instructions when I try to conduct a more difficult method.' On the other hand if I had written that I would use Cambridge or Yorkshire Surprise Royal or Maximus as my example method, some at least of you would have been scared off right at the start.

But I hope in due course to show you that the technique used by a real conductor is applied just as easily to many of the so-called difficult methods and that, so long as you have learnt a method well enough to ring your own bell, the fact that you have never actually rung it before need not stop you from conducting accurately and easily from any bell.

Does that sound a tall order? Then watch the peal reports for peals conducted by Mr. X. No matter what the method (perhaps a new one in Surprise Maximus) he usually conducts from a working bell. He may not have the physical ability to ring the tenor—he may actually find it easier to keep track of the working bells if he has one of them himself. Start for a peal with Mr. Y. conducting. He will quite casually take the bell that is left. It makes no difference to him.

These men will be the first to admit that they are not supermen. They have merely got over the hurdle we have mentioned and which I hope will seem much lower to you at the end of these articles.

The clever ringers who in recent years have brought round such wonderful performances on handbells have taught us that you can't ring two difficult 'blue lines' at the same time. In a simple method like Plain Bob you may be able to ring two handbells, each one separately following its path among the others, without much difficulty—though few handbell ringers do this. And in the tower you can ring one bell and at the same time watch the path of another all the time. You can, therefore, ring a non-observation bell and call the bobs by watching the position of the observation bell. But you cannot do this so easily with a more complex method and you couldn't do it at all if the method were new and unfamiliar to you.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Ashford District

Wye Parish Church—built by Cardinal Kempe and standing majestically beside the other fine building erected by him as a college for priests and now used as an Agricultural College—was the rendezvous for the quarterly meeting of the Ashford District on January 2nd, a gloriously sunny day.

It is always a pleasure to visit Wye, with its lovely ring of eight bells, its beautifully-kept ringing chamber (the result of the devoted work of Bill Curtis, who is steeple-keeper, in addition to his dual position of captain and secretary of the local band), and the true welcome we receive from the Vicar (the Rev. J. N. Wells), a real friend to all ringers.

It was, therefore, a great disappointment to us to learn that, on that very morning, the Vicar had been ordered to bed by his doctor, and would neither be able to conduct our service nor join us at tea.

About 30 members and friends met us at the tower in what proved to be one of the most friendly meetings we have had—almost a family affair, in fact. There were just enough experienced ringers to leaven the mixture, and to provide the right medium from which the learners could derive the maximum advantage—which is, after all, not the least important object of these meetings. In addition to our usual faithful supporters we were glad to welcome Mr. Malcolm Cloke, on leave from Harwell, Miss Mary Hobbs, recently a student at the adjacent College and now living in Derbyshire, and, of course, Tom Cullingworth, who, we are glad to say, does not yet know whether he lives in Maidstone or Ashford.

Ringing started in earnest about 3.45, and as there was no service, continued until just before five o'clock, when we went to the snug tea-rooms of the Wye Hill Cafe to an excellent tea. Tea over, the artful ones who had found a room with a roaring fire were winkled out into a larger one for the business meeting, at which Mr. C. W. Everett took the chair. After the formal business, eight new practising members were elected.

The secretary then read out a brief summary of the Association's committee meeting at Maidstone last November. He also reported that he had received from two young members now serving with the Army in Kenya (Frank Day and Fred Woodcock, of Great Chart) letters conveying their greetings to all their fellow-members. Copies of 'The Ringing World' were being sent to all ringers from the District who were known to be doing their National Service.

The business meeting closed with votes of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells, and to Mr. Curtis for making all the local arrangements. Mr. Curtis was asked to convey to the Vicar the thanks of the members and their hope for a speedy recovery.

Ringing then carried on until 8.15 in methods up to Cambridge Surprise Major. W. P. G.

A PEAL AT BRECON

The peal at Brecon on Boxing Day is of more than passing interest, as for Mr. Wilfred Williams and Mr. Donald G. Clift it was the realisation of almost a life's ambition to score a peal on this fine Rudhall eight. Mr. Williams was born almost within sound of the bells and a peal here had previously evaded him for almost 30 years.

Eighteen months ago a peal for Pudsey on these bells was stopped owing to the indisposition of one of the band after two hours of almost faultless ringing.

For this successful attempt two members of the band made the journey by car from London, Roger Fry rode his motor-cycle in pouring rain from Bath, while all other members of the band made the journey of approximately 50 miles.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

SUFFOLK GUILD PROBLEMS

Dear Sir,—The Suffolk Guild has a big problem and I do not think that the raising of the subscription by 1s. 6d. is the answer. There are many elderly ringers and to do this could mean the losing of their membership. The peal levy is impracticable because of the amount of work it would entail, but the extra money must come from somewhere and I think that the answer lies in the honorary members. According to the 1952 report the Guild has a total of 23 honorary members (12 from Leiston). Now if each ringing member recruited at least one honorary member during 1954 an extra £55 would be collected each year. This would pay for the extra reports and put the Guild on its feet again. All members of the Parochial Church Councils would make a good start, and all who have an interest in the bells of their church should be approached.

I have 13 honorary members for 1953 and can see a big drop in that number if the subscription is increased to 4s.—Yours faithfully,

ALAN R. BRIDGES.

Theberton, Leiston.

Dear Sir,—My first reaction to the original letter on 'Suffolk Guild Problems' was that the matter was purely a domestic one, and not worthy of public discussion.

However, if Mr. Brett's reply is correct, we can assume that the problem will eventually face all Guilds who hold their A.G.M. on a Bank Holiday. His reasons for a change do not appear convincing. Whilst it is true that a person can be free once a year, it does not necessarily follow that all can be free on a particular Saturday. There is no doubt that a much larger number are free on a public holiday. Providing the meeting is well organised, with a definite object of making it more attractive than other local events, and that the member has a keen sense of his responsibility to back up the committee working on his behalf, the attendance will be good.

In larger Guilds transport difficulties must be recognised, and the A.G.M. held in different centres in turn. Besides giving all members a fair chance of attending, the local members responsible for staging the meeting would do so in a competitive spirit and through this would come progress. It was noticeable when the change from Easter Monday to a Saturday was debated in Norfolk, the sole objection came from West Norfolk. I do not know their reasons, but it may not be a coincidence that West Suffolk also objects.

To raise a subscription in order to print a larger report is open to question. Most peal ringers keep their own records, peal cards are obtainable at a reasonable cost, and a peal secretary could keep records on behalf of the whole Guild. Whilst it is simpler to collect a 'peal levy' by raising the subscription we must not delude ourselves by thinking it is something different.

Whatever the outcome of these discussions I am certain that our local ringers' first loyalty is to their own church, and service ringing will continue to improve.—Yours faithfully,

A. J. HAYNES.

Sudbury, Suffolk.

COMPLETE YOUR 'RINGING WORLD' FILE FOR 1953

Except for the issue of January 9th we have copies of 'The Ringing World' available for 1953. An early application is desirable.

SYNTHETIC BELLS

Dear Sir,—Christmas over, Old Year rung out, the New Year rung in, we must return to the propaganda, 'No synthetic bell recordings.' We should at all our Branch, Guild and Association meetings bring this matter of synthetic bells to the notice of our Bishops and clergy to have Mr. I. Bulmer Thomas' worthy resolution, deprecating the use of synthetic bell sounds—which was shelved at the last meeting of the Church Assembly—put on the agenda again and make ringers' opposition to 'canned recordings' heard very strongly.

I am sure we can count upon the support of the majority of the Bishops and clergy, if we ask for it. They are usually so interested, sympathetic and appreciative of our services.—Yours sincerely,

W. FRANK STENSON.

Crewe.

RINGERS' RALLY AND GEORGE WILLIAMS COMMEMORATION DINNER

Dear Sir,—On December 5th at the annual meeting of the Christchurch Branch of the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild, it was proposed by Mr. Fred Price, and seconded, that the above dinner should be allowed to lapse. This was caused by the fact that at the meeting Mr. Arthur V. Davis made it known that he could not again organise the dinner. Prior to the meeting the dinner committee had no knowledge of this fact, and consequently it was not possible to appoint a successor at such short notice. The undersigned have since agreed that the dinner should be held on Saturday, May 8th next, at the Wick Ferry Restaurant, Wick Ferry, Christchurch. Further particulars will be given in 'The Ringing World' at a later date. I may add that the dinner has been previously held at the Wick Ferry Restaurant, which is only a few minutes' walk from the centre of Christchurch, and is situated on the banks of the River Stour.—Yours faithfully,

DANIEL T. MATKIN.

Also for and on behalf of Mrs. F. J. Marshallsay & Messrs. Fred Price & Roy Hurst.

An Acton Peal of 40 Years Ago

Mr. Victor R. Holloway, of Old Mill House, Churchway, Haddenham, Bucks, has forwarded us a photograph of a marble tablet in the belfry of St. Mary's Church, Acton, W.3.

The tablet commemorates a peal of Grandsire Triples rung on February 18th, 1914, by the following members of St. Mary's Guild of Change Ringers, Acton: H. Holloway treble, H. W. Cotton 2, C. R. Walker 3, R. E. Holloway 4, V. R. Holloway 5, J. W. Fruin 6, J. R. Mackman (conductor) 7, J. R. Sims tenor.

Mr. Holloway writes that this was his own first peal and also of his two brothers. Robert Holloway was Master of the Middlesex Association and died suddenly in October, 1928, and his other brother, H. Holloway, died recently. He wonders how many of the band are alive and ringing and would like to hear from anyone who is still available.

Christmas at Warsop

Christmas time is when the bells cannot be heard too often. Warsop, Notts, provided a very full programme with its company of 12 ringers. Quarter peals were planned for Christmas Eve and at 7 and 8.30 on Christmas morning. On Sunday, December 27th, there was ringing at 8.30, 2.30 and 5.30. New Year's Eve included the annual party attended by the Rector (the Rev. R. G. Corwell), 45 minutes' half-muffled ringing and a similar period in the New Year. It was the first time for many years that the bells had rung in the New Year.

ST. MARTIN'S GUILD

Badge of Office for the Master Planned

The annual meeting of the St. Martin's Guild for the Diocese of Birmingham was held on January 2nd at the Tamworth Arms, Moor Street, at which the Master, Mr. Albert Walker, presided.

Before commencing the ordinary business of the meeting, the chairman referred to the loss the Guild had sustained by the passing of James F. Harvey, who at one time served the Guild as librarian. A half-muffled peal was rung to his memory at St. Martin's, which was appreciated by Mr. Harvey's son and daughter, who made a special journey to hear the ringing.

Two new ringing members were elected—Miss E. Yeld, of Edgbaston, and Mr. H. J. Walker, of Coleshill. The tower elections of the following life members were duly ratified:—Messrs. R. Roger Savory (Evesham), G. Ronald Edwards (Nanpantan), Geoffrey K. Dodd (Highclere) and Richard M. Currie (Winchester).

An invitation to hold the next quarterly meeting at Aston Parish Church on Saturday, April 3rd, was unanimously accepted.

The treasurer presented the balance sheet and reported a substantial increase in the balance in hand, which was considered very satisfactory. The senior auditor (Mr. H. H. Fearn) having given his report, the accounts were unanimously adopted.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS FOR 1954

All the officers of the Guild were re-elected as follows:—Master, Mr. Albert Walker; Ringing Master, Mr. John Pinfold; trustees, Alderman Paddon-Smith, J.P., and Mr. Ernest T. Allaway; auditors, Mr. H. H. Fearn and Mr. S. O'C. Holloway; librarian, Mr. Edgar C. Shepherd; hon. secretary and treasurer, Mr. George E. Fearn.

The chairman referred to the new flat sixth bell which was on order for St. Martin's. It was now cast and the founders were awaiting the instructions of the Rector, who did not wish the bell to be used until the completion of his £100,000 appeal fund for the restoration of St. Martin's Church. This object was nearly fulfilled and in a few months' time the bell would be installed.

Mr. Walker felt that the new light eight which would then be available would be invaluable for the Guild practices on Tuesday evenings. The practices throughout the past year had been well maintained and, under the direction of Mr. Pinfold, progress had been made in the ringing of new methods. There was invariably a band of good ringers in attendance, and every opportunity and encouragement were given to learners.

It was decided to form a small committee to inquire into the purchase of a badge of office for the use of the Master.

The members were pleased to welcome Mr. Fred Price, now of Bournemouth, previously Ringing Master of Aston Parish Church.

Mr. F. W. Rishworth proposed that certain old members be made honorary life members in recognition of many years' support to the Guild. As this involved an alteration of rule, Mr. Rishworth gave notice that he would bring the matter forward at the next meeting.

SCOTHERN, LINCS.—On Jan. 1st, 1,260 Grandsire Doubles: Miss N. M. Bibby 1, G. A. Dixon (cond.) 2, J. H. Randall 3, C. V. Cade 4, B. Collis (first quarter) 5, R. J. Hutchinson (first quarter) 6.

HOW KENT GREETED 1954

'At This Season the Bells Take on a Different Meaning'

Dr. John Hatcher, hon. district secretary, Maidstone District, Kent County Association, contributed an appropriate New Year's Message to Kent people through the columns of 'The Kent Messenger.'

AT this New Year, here's a 'change' for all you Men of Kent and Kentish Maids. I mean that literally.

Of course, you will say, this is a moment of change; it's 1954, no longer 1953. The old year has ended and expectantly we peep into the new with resolution.

Over the border it was Hogmanay, but in England another tradition lived — the bells, ringing their changes, half-muffled in the dying minutes of the old, crashing out in wild abandon as the New Year was born.

Did you hear them? At Wrotham, perhaps, the glorious bells of St. George's Church echoing forth their music, revolving metal masses, swinging clappers, wheel and rope. . . .

Eastwards, to and fro across the sinuous ribbon linking London Town and Dover's cliffs . . . . West Malling, delicate spire silhouetted against the sky . . . . East Malling, its six bells rather melancholy . . . . the brisker pealing from Aylesford's tower . . .

THE CHIEFTAIN

Tinkling sounds from the little Church of St. Margaret-in-the-Fields of Barming and the ringers of Boxley, of Bearsted and of Boughton Monchelsea keeping their company in this old year ceremony.

These are the six-bell towers circled round their chieftain, the majestic All Saints', of Maidstone, ten tongues swinging aloft.

Eastwards again, to Hollingbourne's tower, to Harrietsham and Lenham—more 'backroom boys'—to Egerton St. James' proudly astride the hill, and then to Charing . . . .

Thus the message of the bells went out on New Year's Eve—Grandsire, Plain Bob, Stedman, yes, Kent itself—change after cascading change, pattern of sound woven in the winter air.

Come with me up those winding steps, worn by the feet of centuries, to the ringing chamber.

Surely no collection of 'ancients' this (though one has reached a full four score), but of all ages, even boys and girls, coats and jackets off, manipulating in miraculous manner their ropes.

'Bob,' shouts one, but no one seems to notice. 'Single,' it sounded like. Another shout, equally mysterious.

Yes, this is change-ringing, an English art evolved through several centuries.

'That's all,' is a more obvious call, for swiftly the ropes cease their dance, a sudden hush for a moment, and then the buzz of human voice.

NEARLY MIDNIGHT

Ten minutes to twelve, and skirmishing up more stairs go two or three to remove the leather muffles, a skilful and rather dangerous job moving among the upturned bells.

Now the Vicar is saying watchnight prayers, the dying moments of the old year are tolled out solemnly, and the midnight hour is chimed . . . . 1234567812345678 . . . . 1234567812345678.

Happy New Year, proclaim the bells, and the ringers feel that this is indeed their hour, which of course it is. Another year's service is complete.

For Sunday by Sunday, from tower and steeple, their voices sound. At the great festivals of Christmas and Easter the early morning bells peal over town and countryside telling of Messiah.

On great national occasions it is the bells which register the people's mood . . . . at the passing of a beloved King . . . . at the crowning of a young and lovely Queen.

Always the bells direct the thoughts of those who hear them to the meaning beyond.

But on New Year's Eve it's different, as if the bells were the central figures in the drama, commanding our ears.

A PAUSE

For a moment, then, let us pause and think about the ringers of this land.

The belfry is a great mixer, old and young, man and woman, of every possible occupation . . . . blacksmith, bank clerk, grocer, gardener, parson, printer, engineer, estate agent . . . . drawn by their art into a wonderful fellowship. This ringing art must, of course, be mastered; the older must train the younger; there must be a steady flow of young and vigorous blood if the service of the bells is not to suffer.

Time must be given, patience and perseverance must be in evidence, loyalty must be sustained.

A Happy New Year, then, you men and maids of Kent, and with the sound of the bells still ringing in your ears resolve that the bells of your churches will never be silent, whether through lack of interest and money to preserve them physically, or through lack of recruits to an Exercise of the purest English vintage.

NEW YEAR'S EVE MESSAGE TO LEICESTER

Ernest Morris Provides an Appropriate Story

Newspapers like as a New Year's Eve feature something to do with bells. 'The Leicester Evening News' of December 31st contained a seasonable article written by Mac Cherry with Ernest Morris as an appropriate background. The story reads:

AS the old year dies to-night, the clock at St. Margaret's Church, Leicester, will strike the hour with exceptional midnight authority.

Taking over the task of the impersonal clock mechanism, Mr. Ernest Morris, the church Ringing Master, and one of the world's greatest experts on bells, will execute the strokes manually on his bell rope.

But Mr. Morris will go one better than the clock. At his thirteenth stroke the other ringers will join in and the great chord that follows—known as 'firing' the bells— will proclaim the birth of 1954.

It is one of the simpler exercises from the repertoire of a bellringer. Yet slight, grey-haired Mr. Morris will be happily spending the first minutes of his 65th year as he has spent much of his life—among bells.

Because New Year peals make people a little more bell-conscious than usual, I visited Mr. Morris at his home at the Verger's Lodge, near St. Margaret's Church. In addition to being Ringing Master, he is verger and vestry clerk.

He greeted me in a study with a ship's bell on the desk and a bright set of horse bell on top of one of the filing cabinets.

'Bells,' he said, 'belong to the percussion group, the first instruments of music made by man. Four thousand years ago the Chinese produced a scale of notes from flat stones on a wooden rack.

'They were not quite bells, and probably the first two bells were devised after men started to fashion metals and discovered more or less accidentally that there was music in their work.'

JOY, GRIEF

A St. Margaret's schoolboy, Ernest Morris learned from his father, Josiah Morris, how to handle a bell rope and to memorise part of the pattern he must produce in a peal.

It was not long, however, before he realised that bells through the ages have been used to express joy and grief, to sound alarms, to spread good news and bad and to mark the passage of time as well as merely to produce a succession of notes that is artistically pleasing.

While he learned campanology—the ringer's art—he also studied the history, development, legend and tradition of bells.

Knowledge brought him an urge to write. Pamphlets and articles were followed by books. Now he has produced nearly a dozen volumes ranging from 'The History and Art of Change Ringing' to 'Chronology of British Bell founders.'

Research and authorship of books brought him a fellowship of both the Royal Historical and Geographical Societies. More recently, the publishers of Chamber's New Encyclopædia invited him to write their bell article and the completion of this work was rewarded by membership of the Royal Society of Literature.

The years that the bells have announced since his boyhood have brought Ernest Morris many satisfactions.

He has rung a full peal on all the possible bells in Leicestershire. Each individual church bell in the county—its history, record and inscription—is known to him.

In minsters, abbeys and cathedrals, as well as churches throughout Britain, he has conducted and rung peals.

There is little he does not know about the melodious combinations of clock chimes and carillons.

So that he could make illuminated records of the main peals at St. Margaret's he spent years mastering the art of lettering, and reached such a high standard that Leicester University once asked him to produce an illuminated greeting for some of their undergraduates to take to Germany. It had nothing to do with bells but Mr. Morris obliged.

Yet with all his many-sided studies Ernest Morris still finds his main joy at the end of a bell rope, watching the gaily-coloured sally bob up to the ringing chamber roof and back, weaving his way through a complicated series of changes—a mathematical permutation that would make a football pool look simple.

Or on just one night of the year doing St. Margaret's Church clock out of a job with such mechanical precision that no one outside would ever know the difference.

BEDFORDSHIRE YOUNG RINGERS' OUTING

An early start was made recently by 11 members of the Bedfordshire Young Ringers. We converged on the Huntingdonshire border to meet at Eynesbury, the first tower. On the way from Eynesbury to Great Paxton we passed St. Neots, which was to be our last tower on Sunday evening. At Great Paxton we were joined by another member of the party. From Great Paxton we went on to the historic parish of Buckden. Before ringing on the heavy five the Vicar showed us some of the interesting features of the church. Ringing at Brampton, after the Vicar had shown us round his church, completed the morning's programme.

During lunch at the local inn we were entertained by the landlord with his golden retriever. Refreshed, a quick ride brought us to Huntingdon, where we were ringing first at St. Mary's and then at All Saints'. At All Saints' we were joined by the last member of our party, also two others came over on a motor-cycle and rang with us there. From Huntingdon we went to Warboys before returning to Houghton to ring, and to the Youth Hostel at the Mill.

After supper we had a fruitless journey to Hemingford Abbotts, arriving too late to ring.

On Sunday morning in thick mist we made our way along by the river to St. Ives and rang there for morning service. When we came from the church the sun was shining brilliantly. A few spare minutes were occupied in taking photographs before wending our way through the fair which was being assembled in the main street and so on to Holywell where we rang after service.

After lunch we had but two and a half miles to go to Fenstanton but, with the hazards of a ferry crossing over the River Ouse in a punt and the obstacle of a locked railway crossing, we arrived only just in time for all to have a ring.

Ringing at Great Gransden completed the afternoon's programme. We unfortunately could not stay to hear the tunes played on by the clock. After tea one of our members had to leave us before we went on to St. Neots, where we rang for evening service, thus completing our circle in Huntingdonshire. J. A.

THE RINGING WORLD

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

No. 2234 Vol. XLX. FRIDAY, JANUARY 22, 1954 Registered at the G.P.O. for transmission as a newspaper 4d.

THE INDEFINABLE

THE nature of man is to desire to systematise, to classify, to arrange. His desire to know, to pursue a problem and to find its solution, and to exercise his curiosity in speculation, these are said to be among the qualities that distinguish him from the beasts of the field, and identify him closely with the divine influence that sought to bring order out of primeval chaos.

In this pursuit of systematisation and definition, Science and Philosophy, and indeed all forms of inquiry and speculation, have, from time to time, found problems that seem to admit of no solution, no adequate definition, and of no exact classification. Some 2,400 years ago Zeno, the philosopher, propounded the problem of Achilles and the tortoise. He imagined Achilles to run a race against a tortoise, the animal being given a certain start. Zeno claimed that the tortoise could never be overtaken, and his argument ran as follows. Suppose that the race is two miles in length and the tortoise is given one mile start. Assume also that Achilles runs ten times as fast as the tortoise. It is clear that when Achilles has covered the first mile the tortoise will be a tenth of a mile ahead. When Achilles has covered this tenth of a mile the tortoise will still be a hundredth of a mile ahead. When Achilles has run this hundredth of a mile the animal will still be one thousandth of a mile in front. And so it goes on; and because space is infinitely divisible it follows that the tortoise must always be a fraction ahead of the runner.

The problem set by Zeno has been hotly debated for nearly 2,500 years without a satisfactory solution being found. There is a similar story of a frog jumping from the edge to the middle of a pond, each leap being exactly one half of the previous one. Strict mathematical reasoning proves that the frog will never reach the centre of the pond, although he may travel for ever.

Trivial as these things are, they are of great interest to the philosopher and they hold important lessons for all of us, particularly when we are impelled to dogmatise and over-systematise. Of the above problems the ordinary man may say: 'They are very interesting and amusing, but for practical purposes the problem is no problem at all; I know that Achilles will win the race, and the frog is sure to get to the middle of the pond.'

As with philosophical speculations, so in the world of change ringing there is the indefinable, the something or other that cannot be set down in exact terms and which must be treated by some practical compromise or decided by that almost infallible arbiter Good Taste. One aspect of this matter may arise from the interesting letter in 'The Ringing World' recently where a correspondent raised the old question as to whether or not a man ringing the treble to Cambridge should describe himself as having rung a peal of Cambridge. Another form of the same problem, often discussed in ringing circles, requires us to make up our minds if a man ringing the tenor behind a peal of Stedman Caters has actually rung a peal of Stedman. There are two sides to the question, and Commonsense on both sides grows virtuously indignant when its view is opposed. 'How,' says Commonsense X, 'can a man be said to have rung a peal of Cambridge? To ring that treble needs no knowledge of the method at all?' 'How,' says Commonsense Y triumphantly, 'can you ring the peal at all without him and his treble?' 'My point is,' insists Commonsense X, 'he is not ringing Cambridge, and so how can he claim a peal of Cambridge?' 'Yes, but suppose,' says the other, 'that the ringer of the 2nd is weak and the treble man tells him his work all the way through. Suppose, too, that the treble man conducts the peal. What then?' And so the argument goes on, as it often has gone on, and the protagonists end in the same baffled mood as did old Omar Khayyam when he wrote:—

'. . . And heard great Argument
About it and about: but evermore
Came out by the same door as in I went.'

It is indeed difficult, if not impossible, to assert with complete exactitude that the treble man has rung a peal of Cambridge or that the tenor man has rung a peal of Stedman Cinques. But what is the alternative? Did Mr. Harry Chapman ring 14,000 London Surprise at King's Norton in 1903 or did he not? When William Pye called 18,027 Stedman Caters from the tenor at Loughborough did he ring a peal of Stedman Caters? Commonsense on all sides says that he did.

The whole of this question is a most interesting one; for the stickler for precision may easily pursue it much further. Consideration may be given to the ringer of, let us say, the 7th in a peal of spliced Surprise in which he rings perhaps one lead or just two leads of a particular method; take the matter further and it may be possible to find ringers prepared to argue that a man ringing the tenor to an In and Fifths peal of London Surprise has not rung the method complete and therefore is not entitled to claim a peal of London. The reductio ad absurdum might be reached when objection is raised to the tenor ringer claiming a peal of Bob Major because he has rung nothing but plain courses whereas the other ringers were obliged to exercise some additional skill and knowledge.

Ridiculous as some of our arguments might appear if carried to excess, there is, nevertheless, an important background of principle here, and, as has been stated, valuable lessons in good sense, taste and toleration. The problems of Achilles and the tortoise and the jumping frog admit of no complete mathematical solution, but we all accept the practical compromise. The problems of peal ringing are many and are often similarly indefinable, but any attempt at legislation here would be doomed to failure, and we are bound to leave the wrongs and rights of peal claims to the good sense of the claimants and the judgment of common opinion. E. C. S.

BELFRY GOSSIP

St. Bride's, Fleet Street, is to have a Coronation curfew bell. Will it be rung to tell our national dailies the time to go to press with their final editions?

Mr. Brian D. Threlfall, the new secretary of the Universities Association, rang his 100th tower-bell peal on January 9th at Southwark Cathedral. Mr. Eric Hornby reached his century at Bunbury, Cheshire.

We are pleased to hear that Mr Cyril C. Deem, of Littleham, Exmouth, hopes to be released very shortly from Exmouth Cottage Hospital after his serious accident on December 10th.

Next week we hope to publish our list of the leading peal ringers for 1953. The honour has again gone to Mr. Harold J. Poole with 103 peals, closely followed by Mr. George E. Fearn with 102 peals. Mrs. H. J. Poole heads the list of lady ringers with 88 peals.

Mr. Brian Harris is to be congratulated on conducting a peal of Stedman Triples at Pulford for his 21st birthday at the first attempt. His previous attempts at making calls in this method had been limited to one or two touches of two courses.

The Edgware tower has returned to the Middlesex Association after a lapse of many years due to the bells not being rung. They received a warm welcome at the North and East District meeting at Finchley on January 9th.

The peal at Stisted that the Essex Association has withdrawn is that of Kent Treble Bob Minor rung on January 3rd, 1953, and not the peal of Cambridge Minor rung on January 2nd, 1954. The paragraph last week caused a 'flutter in the dovecotes.' One member in the peal of Cambridge Minor was, to use his own words, 'dumbfounded.' Mr. John R. Leeming writes that it was 'quite as worthy of acceptance as any other peal rung this year.'

Lieutenant Freda Mitchell, Queen Alexandra R.A. Nursing Corps, daughter of Mr. F. M. Mitchell, treasurer and former secretary of the Kent County Association, was on the British troop tram trapped by an avalanche at Untersburg last week. They were rescued by American soldiers, who waded through the snow waist-deep for ten hours to find the train. 'It was just a case of waiting,' said Lieutenant Mitchell when interviewed.

Mr. Ronald I. Shepherd, of 82, Bond Street, Englefield Green, Egham, Surrey, offers two seats in his car to ringers attending the Henry Johnson Commemoration Dinner at Birmingham on March 6th.

Congratulations to young Alan Goodall, aged 15, one of the ten Finchley pupils who on Thursday, January 14th, successfully rang, at his first attempt, a faultless course of Cambridge Surprise—much to the surprise of the older members.

Mr. Ernest Morris informs us that his last book, 'Bells of All Nations,' is now out of print and he has just received the last few remaining copies from the publishers. Anyone wishing to purchase copies should get in touch with him at once before they are all cleared.

St. Michael and All Angels' Guild of Change Ringers, Marden, Kent, held their annual dinner on New Year's Eve at the Vicarage, by kind invitation of the Rev. C. G. and Mrs. Eagling. Some 20 members and six visitors sat down to an excellent meal provided by Mrs. C. Nye. At the business meeting two changes of office were noted. Mr. F. Mitchell, owing to domestic reasons, resigned from the office of Ringing Master, which he had so faithfully fulfilled for many years. The new Master is Mr. G. Carter, and Mr. T. Pert was elected Deputy Master. To conclude the happy evening everyone returned to the belfry to ring out the Old and ring in the New Year.

YORK MINSTER – ITS BELLS AND BELL-RINGERS

By HAROLD WALKER

YORK SCHOLARS AND ST. PETER'S YOUTHS

After the rehanging of 1733 a Society of York Scholars practised change ringing on the Minster bells. This Society was not long in existence, however, for when the new ring of ten was opened in 1765 the ringers of St. Peter Mancroft, Norwich, came north to ring the opening peals.

A new Society was formed to ring the ten bells and was known as the Society of St. Perer's Youths. Several peals of over 5,000 changes were rung by the members at the Minster before the Society broke up after the fire of 1840. The leading member was a Richard Beeforth, patternmaker, who was also instructor to the gentlemen ringers of Helmsley and Malton. In the tower window arch of the latter church is a stone inscribed:—

'Richard Beeforth, Instructor of ye Ringers. 1769.'

The ringers appointed after the installation of the Beckwith bells were not change ringers and it was not until 1854 that a number of young men from other City towers were appointed and formed themselves into the York Minster Society of Change Ringers, which Society still continues to ring the bells Sunday by Sunday. The Society has rung three peals of over 5,000 changes on the Minster bells, the last being on November 9th, 1892, in 3 hours and 35 minutes. This was a formidable task, three men being required to keep the tenor going. Mr. F. T. Earnshaw, who was a Minster ringer for 63 years, is the only survivor of that occasion. Of the twelve men who took part three had 60 (or more) years' service as ringers, three had between 50 and 60 years' and one had between 40 and 50 years'.

Two former Minster ringers with long records of service are now living in retirement, Mr. T. F. Earnshaw, 63 years (38 years as president), and Mr. G. Horner, 55 years (45 years as secretary).

The Society does not confine its membership to the male sex. Miss P. M. Reeves, who learned her ringing when at Training College, has been an active member for two years. Miss S. M. Kingdon was a member for one year before taking up a professional appointment in Co. Durham.

THE GREAT MEETING OF 1875

In the 1870's came the formation of Diocesan and County Guilds of Change Ringers. In 1875 the first great meeting of Yorkshire ringers was held in York and the outcome was the Yorkshire Association of Change Ringers. A note in the Minute Book of the Minster Society reads:—

'3rd Aug., 1875. On July 3rd, 1875, a Great Meeting of the Yorkshire Association of Change Ringers was held at the Punch Bowl in Stonegate when upwards of 200 Ringers from various towns of the County visited this City and were accommodated by the Society and the Members of St. Martin's, Coney Street, to the extent of their means when the ringers expressed their satisfaction at their reception.'

The leading Minster ringer, William Horner Howard was elected first vice-president of the Association. Mr. Howard was regarded as a Minster ringer for a record period of 68 years. On the occasion of his jubilee as a ringer he was presented with his portrait in oils at the hands of the Dean. This painting now hangs in the Minster Ringing Chamber.

Modern opinion is against prize ringing matches as they are not considered to be in keeping with the ringers' office as church-workers, but sad to relate the Minster ringers at one time took part in such contests. In 1876 the following challenge was published:—

'The York Minster Ringers who competed at Huddersfield on the 29th February for the Change Ringing Prize, feeling dissatisfied with the judge's decision, will ring the Dewsbury Company, who were awarded first prize, for £5 or £10 a side, in the three prevailing methods viz., Grandsire, Kent Treble Bob, and Stedman's, on ten or twelve bells, either touches or courses, one month after signing articles.'

The early records of the Minster Society have been lost and the Minute Book dates only from 1872. That the bells should be kept in a good state of repair has always been the concern of the ringers. Appeals to the authorities often fell on deaf ears and it was sometimes years before any notice was taken. Having drawn attention to defects, however, the ringers helped to pay for putting things right, as the following minute shows:—

'9 Nov., 1924. A meeting was held to decide what the Society could do towards the Dean's appeal for subscriptions towards the cost of restoring the bells. Decided to bear the cost of recasting one of the smaller bells @ £50.'

At a ringers' dinner, held in October, 1924, at which Dean Foxley Norris was a guest, a visitor from Leeds said the bells wanted 'soling and heeling.' Much to the amusement of the Dean a visitor from Birmingham interpolated 'They want boiling.' The Dean said he fully appreciated the ringers' feelings as he had been up in the tower to see things for himself, and that something would soon be done to put things right. Earlier in the proceedings a plate of soup had been spilled down the Dean's new coat and he told the gathering the memory —and the aroma—of the dinner would remain with him for a long time to come.

For many years members of the Minster Society formed a strong branch of the Ancient Society of College Youths (Est. 1637) and practised change ringing on handbells. The first double-handed handbell peal of Grandsire Caters ever to be rung was completed by five Minster ringers on March 12th, 1877, in three hours and five minutes.

SPECIAL RINGING

Prior to the Second World War the Society had a long programme of special ringings to perform each year. Certain festivals of the Church, the Reigning Monarch's Accession and Birthday, Lord Mayor's Day and other occasions were fittingly noticed. The difficulties and expense occasioned by the ringers having to leave their ordinary work has caused most of these ringings to lapse.

On several occasions the sound of the bells has been broadcast by the B.B.C., the first occasion being to welcome the dawn of 1927 and to mark the 13th centenary of the Minster's foundation. Other occasions have been:—

September 12th, 1943. To celebrate the surrender of Italy in the Second World War.

May 8th, 1945. Prior to the Service of Thanksgiving for Victory in Europe.

The Society was especially honoured on the last occasion as the Minster bells were the only ones to be given a direct broadcast during the Coronation celebrations.

After Great Peter had been rededicated the bells were rung so that H.M.V. Gramophone Co. could make a record. Part of the ringing on May 8th, 1945, was also recorded. It is regretted that of late years the first record has been exploited by being played through amplifiers and broadcast from churches having no towers. This system has become known as 'canned campanology' or 'synthetic bells' and is considered by ringers to be an abomination. It is a fake which should not be tolerated in a Church which stands for truth.

On the occasion of the rededication of the Five Sisters Window, on December 9th, 1950, the Ladies' Guild of Church Bell Ringers provided a band to ring before the service, and the middle octave was rung with distinction.

Since 1872 there has been a total of 68 ringers elected members of the Minster Society; this total includes two ladies. There has been a total of 18 presidents elected to office. 16 of them during the period 1872-1912: Thomas Frederick Earnshaw served in this office with distinction for 38 years to 1950. Only four secretaries have served since 1872. William Horner Toward for 32 years and George Horner for 45 years. That one president and one secretary should serve together for 38 years is truly a record, and it is due in no small measure to the able leadership of these two men that the Society has continued to function so satisfactorily.

SUCCESSFUL OPPOSITION TO RECORDED BELLS

Opposition has been successful to a proposal to install recorded bells in the new Church of St. Nicholas, Uphill, Weston-super-Mare, Somerset.

The scheme to provide the installation was passed by the Parochial Church Council with two exceptions, and a Consistory Court to hear the opposition to the scheme had been fixed for January 30th.

There are two churches at Uphill. A good ring of six bells is hung in the old church on the hill and these bells are rung regularly on Sunday afternoons and on other occasions. Services here are only held in the summer on weekdays, and in fine weather, the new church being used for all services.

The proposal to place synthetic bells met with widespread opposition. Over 400 signatures were obtained to a petition against the installation, and in view of this the Rector and churchwardens decided to withdraw their application.

Our correspondent concludes: 'We all heard the ringers salute the departing year with the traditional muffled peal and ring in the New Year, with great rejoicing and relief and thankfulness to God for the assured safety for the continuity of the ringing of the real bells in the church on the hill.'

Mayor Unveils Coronation Peal Board at Glodwick

During the afternoon a Coronation peal board was unveiled and dedicated. Ringing commenced soon after 3 p.m. until 4 p.m., when the dedication took place. The Mayor of Oldham (Alderman Frank Kenyon, J.P.), performed the unveiling ceremony, and the curate of St. Mark's, the Rev. D. M. Kendrick, M.A., dedicated the board, which records a peal of Grandsire Triples rung on Coronation Day. The board is a gift from the town and is very well made and beautifully lettered. After the ceremony the Mayor expressed a wish to 'have a go,' and was immediately given his first lesson on the tenor holding the back stroke.

The attendance was not up to expectations but the ringing chamber, all shining and spick and span, was quite full for the occasion. L. P.

'TWENTY QUESTIONS'

'Twenty Questions' set by E. A. B. in our issue of December 24th, 1953, proved difficult to most competitors.

A Holiday Peal Programme in West Surrey

Who but schoolmasters and pupils, in the main, have time to spend ringing during weekdays as well as on public holidays? Younger members of the Guildford Diocesan Guild, consisting mostly of the above, took part in a very successful peal-ringing programme arranged for the Christmas holidays in West Surrey and Hampshire.

Seven peals were rung in seven attempts at Hawley, Bentley, Bentworth, Froyle, Hascombe, Dunsfold and Send. On two occasions two peals were rung in one day. The last peal was specially arranged so that Monica Collins and her sister, Shelagh, who was down from Staffordshire on holiday, could ring in one together.

ARCHDEACONRY OF HALIFAX GUILD

A Promising First Year

The annual meeting of the Guild was held at Lindley on January 2nd. Ringing commenced on this fine octave at 3 p.m. and continued until 4.30.

A course of Grandsire Triples was rung on handbells by four members at the commencement of the service, which was conducted by the chairman (the Rev. A. L. Minns) assisted by the Vicar of Lindley. An excellent tea was enjoyed. For the business meeting the Archdeacon of Halifax presided, an honour which was much appreciated by all members present.

The annual report of the secretary and treasurer showed an increase of 11 in the paid-up membership. Six meetings had been held, the outstanding one being the March meeting, when the change over from a District Society to an Archdeaconry Guild took place. The Guild had been made extremely welcome on fresh ground at Todmorden and Holmfirth. The financial report was adopted, there being a good balance in hand.

All the officers were re-elected for the ensuing year with the exception of one committee man who is in H.M. Forces. A vote of thanks to the local company for the arrangements made and to the Vicar for the use of the bells was endorsed by all.

The next item on the agenda, the vice-president's remarks, proved to be most interesting. Members were praised for the excellent job they were doing in trying to man the towers, Sunday by Sunday, and also for the countless number of hours in various towers for practice. Canned and recorded bells issuing from quite a number of towers were condemned by the Archdeacon in the strongest possible terms. Regarding his own tower with the recast ring of 12, he appreciated the occasions when ringers came along from other towers. Although he appeared to be taking time in getting a local band, he wanted ringers who took some interest in the running of the church, not those who came to ring and never attended a service.

Various methods of training recruits were discussed; the best suggestion was to encourage learners to attend the more successful towers for practice.

A Guild trip is to be run on Whit Tuesday next. All arrangements will be in the hands of the Ringing Master, and names and deposits are required for the March meeting. This concluded the business and further ringing in various major methods took place until nearly 9 p.m.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

TO THOSE THINKING LONDONWISE

Dear Sir,—The following remarks are addressed to those ambitious young men who wish to ring London Major with an air of complete abandon.

Firstly, it is necessary to own a very straight face so that you can appear calm under any circumstances (even when the conductor is breathing fire down your neck). If you do not possess this quality give up the idea and stick to ludo!

You must also be a mind reader so that you can get out of a nasty jam any time without a second's hesitation—a nasty jam is when you are sailing down from 6ths to you don't know what! A jam like this calls for much cunning if glares and roars are to be avoided: you must be able to guide your bell into any vacant spot that occurs without upsetting the beat in any way; in other words, go where the other bloke isn't.

If, by an unfortunate turn of fate, you do crash into a couple of ringers having a crafty dodge, just ignore their scathing remarks and get as far away from them as possible. By the time they realise you've gone they'll be all mixed up themselves, then you can float back and sort them out.

Should you become entangled with the tenor during a 6-5-6 let him do the sorting out—all you have to do is look completely ignorant. The reason for this is that tenormen, as a rule, are bad-tempered souls and their paths should never be crossed. To do so invites almost certain death at the end of the touch or peal, indeed cases have been known where tenormen have set their bells and attempted to strangle treblemen merely for missing a dodge.

Always remember that the tenor governs the speed when London is being rung (or rung at). When ringing a little bell don't try to force the pace or the bit about strangling may be brought home to you in no uncertain manner.

Perhaps it would be best after all if you stuck to Bob Major or extended Grandsire; the risk of death in these methods is almost nil.

If you master London and go on to Spliced Surprise you'd better send me a stamped and addressed envelope and I will send you, by return post, a list of the perils which may befall you in that realm of ringing (a single in Bristol calls for one to stand on one's head and ring with the left foot, for instance). Things like Bristol Singles are fully dealt with in my list of snags, so write to-day for your copy.—Yours sincerely,

WILFRED W. RING.

HELP WANTED FOR STOW-ON-THE-WOLD

Dear Sir,—I should be very grateful if you would permit me to inquire whether there are any of your readers who could help the ringers of this parish during the half-year during which the bells of Stow-on-the-Wold Parish Church will be silent whilst repairs are being carried out. We have a number of young learners whose interest will be too severely tested by forced inaction over so long a period at the outset of their ringing experience.

Can anybody lend us a set of handbells? It might be possible to buy, but all our efforts are being directed to covering the heavy cost of a major overhaul, and funds are not plentiful for this reason. Any help to enable our beginners to keep together whilst their bells are being repaired would be a real service.—Yours faithfully,

H. C. M. POTTS.

RINGING IN MELBOURNE

Dear Sir,—The ringers of St. Paul's Cathedral, Melbourne, Australia, were much amused to read the remarks of Major Stretton quoted by Mr. W. F. Stenson in 'The Ringing World' of November 27th. Although Major Stretton is a resident of Melbourne he has apparently never heard our fine bells rung. I tried to find Major Stretton's name in the telephone directory to ring him up and invite him to come along and meet us. Unfortunately he does not appear on the telephone, so perhaps Mr. Stenson would pass this invitation on to him.

Ringing is very far from being 'an art which is forgotten in Australia.' On the contrary the art is far stronger now than ever before out here. I don't think there is a ring of ringable bells anywhere in Australia which are not now regularly manned by competent ringers. I hope that before long we will get those which are not ringable going also (there are two such in Melbourne).

I would like Mr. Stenson to know that St. Paul's Cathedral, London, is not the only Cathedral of that dedication where Stedman is regularly rung. Unfortunately we are in a similar predicament to almost all other towers in that we are short of ringers—we rarely ring more than eight of our twelve bells. We should be most grateful for the help of any ringer coming out from Britain, no matter how inexperienced. We are sure, too, that there are former English ringers now living in Melbourne who have never made contact with us. I appeal to anyone in England who knows of such people either to let me know or persuade these people directly to contact us. W don't mind how inexperienced they are—we can teach them. We practise on Wednesdays at 7.30-9 p.m. and alternate Sundays for matins and evensong.

In conclusion I would like to agree most heartily with the quoted remarks of Mr. J. R. Garner-Hayward on page 774 of the same issue of 'The Ringing World.' In Australia there is as yet very little advanced ringing and the more experienced ringers freely help struggling bands. This state of affairs has made me realise, looking back on my ringing days in England, how lax many experienced ringers are in helping their weaker brethren, as Mr. Garner-Hayward points out.

Best wishes to all ringing friends in Britain.

Captain of St. Paul's Cathedral Ringers.

YORK MINSTER

Dear Sir,—I have read with much interest the first article by Mr. Harold Walker on 'York Minster—Its Bells and Bellringers.' Surely there can be few bells in England which have a greater history than this ring of which even York Minster might feel justly proud. I believe that the great fire of 1840, which Mr. Walker refers to, was due to a workman leaving a candle burning in the south-western tower with a far-reaching result.

There is an important point which emerges from the story of these bells, namely, that when a ring is augmented it is never so good as when a full ring is cast all together.

It is rather a pity that, owing to the proximity of a nursing home, is is impracticable to ring a peal on York Minster bells.

It would provide excellent reading if a short history could be compiled for 'The Ringing World' of the three heavier rings of twelve than York Minster. Taking into account that Liverpool Cathedral bells are new, there are no doubt many interesting facts behind the installation of them.

Thank you, Mr. Walker, and I am looking forward to reading the continuation of your story.—Yours sincerely, PAUL BIRKETT.

Elland, Yorks.

COPYRIGHT OF RECORDINGS

Gramophone Companies' Reply

The York Minster Society of Change Ringers has taken up the question of the copyright of gramophone records and their use for recording from church towers.

The Society has received the following reply from the Copyright Department of Electric and Musical Industries, Ltd., The Gramophone Co., Ltd., Columbia Gramophone Co., Ltd., British Zonophone Co., Ltd., The Parlophone Co., Ltd., and The Marconiphone Co., Ltd.:—

'Your letter of November 25th instant addressed to the Gramophone Company, Ltd., has been referred to Copyright Department.

'In reply to your principal query, we have to inform you that performing artists, which in the case of H.M.V. record B.2691 would be the bellringers, have no legal rights in respect of the recorded performances which would entitle them to control their subsequent use for any form of public performance. This would naturally apply to the public performance of the record in question by means of amplifiers from various churches throughout the country.

'It is perfectly true that a copyright subsists in the records themselves which is normally vested in the manufacturers and which would permit in certain circumstances the control by them of the public performance of such records. In exercising this control, however, it has always been the policy of the record manufacturers that no restriction should be enforced or fee charged in relation to the public performance of their records in conjunction with religious services and this policy would be followed where applications are made in respect of the bell records to be played from churches. In this connection we would emphasise that the applications are invariably made by the Vicar or some responsible official of the church who believes that the use of the bell records will be helpful to the religious services with the holding of which they are associated. We think you will agree that the use of a record with this object must be regarded with considerable sympathy. Further, a committee recently appointed by the Board of Trade to consider the present copyright law, has recommended against the placing of any restriction on the use of records for public performance in conjunction with religious or social services and has advised that if necessary changes should be made in the copyright law to implement their recommendation.—Yours faithfully,

C. B. DAWSON PANE, Manager.

CRASS IGNORANCE OVER SYNTHETIC BELLS

Dear Sir,—I was pleased to see the article in 'The Ringing World' on 'The Menace of Synthetic Bells' (December 18th). I believe that if more encouragement was given to the ringers by the church-goers this would be wiped out, for the employment of these bells is mainly due to shortage of ringers. But while crass ignorance in regard to the method of bellringing remains in the people's minds they are unlikely to appreciate the art.

Here in Brixham there are synthetic bells in All Saints' Church which the bells of St. Mary's have to compete with. Several people, on learning that I am a ringer, have asked me, 'Why don't your bells play hymns, like All Saints'?' This and similar questions have been asked, even by people who do know the difference between the two kinds. They don't even appreciate the fact that St. Mary's bells ring the New Year in and the others don't.

Maybe if both the towers were thrown open to the public at a certain time of the year for people to see the bells being 'played' and really rung, they would realise that real campanology is an art of religious, romantic and historic value, and that synthetic bells are another example of the apathy of the present generation.—Yours sincerely,

HEATHER A. HEATH (Miss).

ON CONDUCTING

By WILFRID G. WILSON

III. NORMAL FIRST STAGES IN CONDUCTING

Before reaching the real object of these articles, as indicated in the previous chapters, it will perhaps be useful to outline the normal path followed by a ringer when he starts to call touches and peals. We shall then be able to appreciate the different, but I hope you will agree easier, technique which is followed by the ringer who has become a real conductor.

So that you don't spend too much time and thought on this chapter I would emphasise that it is included as a kind of warning of what not to do. So very often people who teach themselves from books start off in the way described here because it is not obvious that there is a much better way. It is naturally assumed that the conductor learns his touches and peals in the same way as the composer writes them out. But if you really want to conduct properly and easily you will be well advised to forget course ends and their transpositions and use only coursing orders and their transpositions, as will be explained in later chapters.

First attempts at conducting will probably be made on verbal instructions in the tower and the would-be conductor will soon find that to keep the tenors together, as is usual, calls can be made at four different positions in the course. When the tenor is in 7-8 up (Wrong); when it runs out and the seventh runs in (Before); when it is in 5-6 down (Middle) and when at the end of the course it is in 7-8 down (Home or Right). These positions are indicated by the letters W, B, M and H respectively. As he will probably ring the tenor (or the seventh, from which it is quite easy to see the calling positions) he will know in advance where to make his calls.

At a later stage our conductor will find that when the lead ends of a course are written out, starting from rounds, a bob W will in due course bring up the course end 15243678. Nos. 1, 7 and 8 being constant, the transposition required for a bob W is simply remembered as 52436. Similarly a bob B in the plain course will give us course end 35264, a bob M gives 43652, and a bob H gives 42356. At first you may have difficulty in remembering these four sets of figures, but by the time you have written out a few touches and peals they will be quite familiar and with pencil and paper you will become quite facile in transposing with them.

Perhaps here I should try to make clear what is meant by transpose and transposition. The verb itself means, of course, to change the places or positions of something. A simple example is that if, instead of writing down the figures 1, 2, you write down 2, 1, you have transposed the two figures, making the second first and the first second. Now if on your new figures 2, 1, you make an exactly similar transposition (second first and first second) you get back to 1, 2 again. Both of these transpositions have been by 2, 1. When we say, as we do in the preceding paragraph, that the transposition required for a bob W is 52436, we mean that the fifth bell in the row we started with is placed second (the treble is understood all the time to be at the beginning of the lead end or course end and you must get used to allowing for this): the second becomes third: the fourth stays fourth: the third becomes fifth and the sixth stays sixth.

Using two of these transposition figures (for the W and the H) here is the usual way of writing out the very simple touch consisting of a bob W and a bob H, repeated:—

W	H	W	H
52436	45236	—	—
34256	23456	—	—

This shows quite simply that when the first bob W has been called, the bells have been put into the course which would end with 52436. At the H position another bob turns them into the course 45236. The second bob W puts them into still another course (which would end 34256) and the second bob H puts them back into the plain course.

It is very easy to learn this by heart and as soon as the first bob has been called the conductor will know that the bells are ringing the course which, if unaltered, will produce the row 15243678 six leads later. If our conductor is very conscientious he can work out on paper which bells will be concerned in this bob (3, 2 and 5) so that he can watch it being made correctly. But if there is a mix-up before his next calling position arrives he will be a lucky man if he can do more than hope for the best. He will be very smart if he is able to call out immediately the position of each of the bells in the muddle when all he really knows is that, say, 3, 4 or 5 leads further on, if no other bobs are called, he will get the row 15243678.

If the touch reaches the H position safely, the conductor will have an easy transposition (by 42356) to make. 52436 transposed by 42356 gives the course end 45236 with which the second course of the touch commences and it may not be too difficult to see that the three bob-making bells are the first three (i.e., 4, 5 and 2). Only 16 changes further on, however, comes the second bob W. Now our conductor, if he is to keep track of what he is calling, must make a five-figure transposition—45236 (his course end) by 52436 (the transposition for a bob W). On paper this is very easy, but he will not find it easy to do while he is ringing the tenor, looking for the three bells making the bob and still striking his own bell properly. Assuming he manages all this, he will then know what his course end will be six leads further on, if he called no more bobs. Whether or not this will enable him to keep the bells right during those six leads is problematical.

If we are perfectly honest with ourselves and if we call our touches from the observation bell in the fashion outlined above, then we must admit that we have not at all times got the full control over the ringing that a conductor should have. In a touch of this length it may not be so important, but very many peals come to grief in the last course or so, when half the band are tired and most are a little jumpy. This is when the real conductor saves the peal while the bob-caller realises the limitations of his knowledge.

Our example was one of the simplest touches possible in the simplest method and the conductor was assumed to be ringing the observation bell. The impossibility of keeping track by this means of all the bells during a peal or long touch, with bobs at all the calling positions, each involving five-figure transpositions, will be apparent. How much more impossible is it, therefore, in a complicated method, perhaps completely new to the conductor, especially if he is not able to ring the observation bell?

Before the end of these articles I hope to show that it is possible, not only in Plain Bob but also just as easily in most other methods, on any number of bells, to know all through a peal what order the bells should be in and exactly what happens at all the bobs.

SUFFOLK GUILD

On December 19th members of the Suffolk Guild spent an enjoyable half-day in Constable's country. Travelling by cars the party visited Langham, Ardleigh, Nayland, Stoke-by-Nayland and Polstead. Tea was taken at Nayland and thanks accorded Messrs. Steward, Erith and Button for their assistance.

An interesting feature of the afternoon was an excellent touch of Minor rung by a band of average age under 20, and which, incidentally, augurs well for the future in Stowmarket.

LEEDS AND DISTRICT SOCIETY

Many Young Ringers Visit Wakefield Cathedral

The Society's first meeting of 1954 was held on January 9th when, by kind permission of the Provost and Chapter, the bells of Wakefield Cathedral were available. Ringing commenced shortly after 4 o'clock and continued till 7 o'clock, when a break was made for the business meeting.

Members were present from Armley, Bradford Cathedral, Collingham, Drighlington, Headingley (St. Michael's), Leeds Parish Church, Ossett, Rothwell, Tong and the local company. The president, Mr. T. W. Strangeway, was in the chair.

The following new members were elected:—Geoffrey Townend, Kenneth Park, David Cubitt, David Banks (Wakefield Cathedral), Miss Barbara Wood, Brian Withill, Derek Dane (Headingley (St. Michael's), Mr. T. Pedder, Miss Christine Pedder (Bradford Cathedral), Miss Valerie Massam (Holy Trinity, Rothwell).

The vote of thanks to the Provost and local company was proposed very ably by Mr. F. Bennett, who remarked (one thought with a certain amount of pride) on the progress being made at Wakefield in forming a strong band and continued (with a wistful longing) to remark about the position in his own tower (Holy Trinity, Ossett), where the bells have not been rung for Sunday service since October 18th last. The vote of thanks was seconded by Mr. P. Woodward.

Mr. J. H. Kirby replied on behalf of the local company, and remarked that this was the first ringing meeting he had attended where the youngsters outnumbered the 'old codgers.' This he amended after cries of 'Shame.'

It was grand to have all these youngsters present and they were well served with ringing, both before and after the meeting. The 'old codgers' seemed to get a great deal of pleasure in helping them. It is to be hoped that more and more of them will be seen at meetings. They will always be assured of a welcome, as will the older generation, who have done much, and we hope will continue to do more good work for ringing.

The next meeting will be held at Headingley (St. Michael's) on February 27th.

A plain course of Bob Maximus and a steady lower in peal brought to an end, shortly after 9 p.m., a really enjoyable meeting which will bring back pleasant memories to a number of people for many years to come. I. S.

BATH AND WELLS ASSOCIATION

Glaston Deanery Dinner

On Friday, January 8th, 17 members of the Glaston Deanery met together at the Crown Inn, Glastonbury, to hold a Deanery dinner.

Owing to the unavoidable absence of the Deanery chairman, the Rev. Prebendary H. A. Barnett (Vicar of Wells), the chair was taken by the Rev. M. Hurst-Bannister (Vicar of Pilton). An excellent meal was followed by toasts to the Queen, the Church and the Diocesan Association. The organiser of the dinner, Mr. E. Lambert, captain of the belfry, Pilton, then thanked all those present for their support. The chairman, in his turn, thanked Mr. Lambert on behalf of everyone there for his hard work and congratulated him on the success of the evening. The Deanery secretary, Mr. W. Marsh, of Street, when speaking, voiced the general opinion in saying that he hoped that the dinner was the first of what would become an annual event.

After dinner, handbell ringing conducted by the Deanery Ringing Master, Mr. P. Hull, of Dinder, was enjoyed by all present and concluded the evening.

GUILD of DEVONSHIRE RINGERS

N.E. Branch Holding Its Own

Reporting at the annual meeting of the North-East Branch at Tiverton on January 2nd, the hon. secretary (Mr. W. H. Ware) stated that Coronation Year had been a year of 'holding their own.' There were 62 members in the Branch compared with 60 in 1952, together with one unattached member and two honorary members.

Sunday ringing had been maintained in all Branch towers and there was special ringing to mark the Coronation. All meetings had been successful with an average attendance of about 40. Instruction had been given at Huntsham, Calverleigh and Bradninch, where progress had been made.

The financial statement showed a balance in hand of £38 18s. 4d. Collections at Branch meetings for the Bell Restoration Fund amounted to £3 12s. 1d.

The ten-strong Uffculme band were received as Associate members, and Mr. E. J. Taylor (the general secretary of the Guild), who presided, assured them of help and support. Messrs. K. Carpenter and J. Drew, of Bradninch, were welcomed as new members.

The Guild president (Preb. E. V. Cox) presented a ringer's proficiency certificate to Mr. V. Bolt, of Huntsham. Last year Mr. Bolt's son received a similar certificate. Mr. F. Newcombe was recommended for honorary life membership.

Officers elected were:—Chairman, the Rev. J. H. Jones; hon secretary and treasurer, Mr. W. H. Ware; Ringing Master, Mr. A. G. Selley; representatives to the general committee, Messrs. W. Richards, J. Upton and A. G. Selley.

The next meeting was fixed for April 3rd, at Uffculme, with Huntsham as alternative venue.

A service at St. Peter's Church was conducted by the Rector (Canon R. C. Worsley), who also gave an address. Before the annual meeting tea was served at the Half Moon Hotel.

IN SOUTHERN SOMERSET

On January 2nd ringers from Wembdon, Cannington, Durleigh, Clevedon and Nailsea met together at Corfe, near Taunton, which was the first tower visited on a very enjoyable half-day outing. Corfe bells proved to be a good five by Mears, in 1906, hung in a modern church and tower in imitation Norman style, although the font is very old.

Having first gone to Thurlbear by mistake (four old bells, but tower unsafe), Stoke St. Mary was eventually reached and this little five put to good use. The Vicar pointed out the tiny but very fine stained glass window in the tower and mentioned that he, personally, cleaned it once each year on the Patronal Festival!

The party were met at Staple Fitzpaine by Mrs. Grabham, captain of the local ringers, who very kindly provided an excellent tea after ringing on this lumpy five hung in one of the loveliest towers in Somerset.

Buckland St. Mary was a good ring of six again in a modern church and steeple, but ringing had to be curtailed here due to a late arrival.

Having got well and truly lost, as well as befogged, everyone eventually arrived at Whitestaunton, supplied with electricity from the nearby Manor Farm power plant. This explained why, when all attempts to find a switch had failed and ringing was proceeding by the light of a smoky oil lamp, every light in the church suddenly came on.

The last call was Combe St. Nicholas', beautifully tuned by Mears and Stainbank recently, and the six bells were rung to a variety of methods.

Methods rung included Grandsire, Stedman, Reverse Canterbury, All Saints', Norfolk and St. Simon's Doubles and Plain and Kent Minor, and the sincere thanks of the party are due to Ron Short, the organiser. M. J. H.

OBITUARY

MRS. K. M. BILLSON

The Exercise will learn with very deep regret of the death of Mrs. K. M. Billson, of Caldecote, near Uppingham, on the Feast of the Epiphany. She died at the early age of 48 years following a brief illness.

The older members of the Exercise will remember her as Kitty Moore, daughter of the late Mr. C. and Mrs. Moore, of Weekley, Northants. She joined the Ladies' Guild in 1921 and took part in the first peal of Minor for the Guild in 1922 at Isham. This was her first peal and the footnote stated: 'This is the first peal to be rung by ladies only in which a tenor has been turned in.' She also took part in the first peal of Surprise Minor rung for the Central Northants Association in 1923, and later that year rang a peal of Stedman Triples at Northampton, the first lady to ring a peal in that town.

Upon being married she moved to Meadow Farm, Caldecote, and had shown remarkable enthusiasm in the local belfry, where she was in charge up to the time of her death. It was no doubt largely due to her initiative that a restoration scheme was undertaken at Caldecote two years ago. She had trained a local ladies' band, which included her two daughters—Amy, aged 18, and Kathleen, aged 16 years. She was a member and keen supporter of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild, and her enthusiasm took her and her daughters to the Kettering tower practices.

The funeral took place at the Church of St. John-the-Evangelist, Caldecote, on January 9th, the service being conducted by the Rev. A. L. Toop. The Ladies' Guild was represented by Mrs. H. J. Poole and Mrs. A. Richardson, both long-standing ringing friends. Mr. G. W. Jeffs, general secretary, Mrs. Jeffs, Canon G. F. Turner, Mrs. A. E. York and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Baxter represented the Peterborough Diocesan Guild. She was laid to rest under the tower which she loved and served so well. Heartfelt sympathy will go out to the widower, Mr. Tom Billson, and her three daughters, and also her mother, Mrs. Moore, who now resides at Caldecote.

She will be sadly missed, but those whose privilege it was to know her will retain golden memories of her charming disposition and the example she set in loyalty, enthusiasm and devotion to her church and the bells. May she rest in peace.

Another esteemed correspondent writes: Mrs. K. M. Billson was the only daughter of Mrs. Moore and the late Mr. C. Moore, who was captain of the ringers at Weekley, Kettering, where he taught her to handle a bell while still at school.

Her first peal was rung for the Ladies' Guild in May, 1922. In December, 1923, she rang a peal of Stedman Triples at St. Edmund's, Northampton, being the first lady to ring a peal in the town and also the first resident member of the Central Northants Association to ring a peal of Stedman Triples on tower bells.

In June, 1926, she rang her first peal as conductor, calling eight methods of Minor for her 21st birthday peal. This was the first time a lady had called eight Minor methods to a peal. She was a member of the Midland Counties Association, the Central Northants Association (forerunner of the Peterborough Guild), the Lincoln Guild and the Ladies' Guild. Her last peal was in April, 1929, as after her marriage and living in a district rather backward in ringing, and the care of a family, her time was taken up with her home life.

Her total of peals was 59, of which 47 were rung with the writer. Since Caldecote bells were rehung two years ago Mrs. Billson had been training a band of ringers which includes two of her daughters. The funeral was at Caldecote on Saturday, January 9th, and was conducted by the Rev. L. A. Toop.

Kettering bells were rung to Grandsire and Stedman Triples on Tuesday, January 12th, by her old friends, who also visited Caldecote on January 13th and rang twelve six-scores of Grandsire Doubles in both towers: the bells were rung half-muffled. R. G. B.

MRS. BILLSON'S PEALS

Kent Treble Bob Royal 1, Plain Bob Royal 1, Stedman Caters 1, Grandsire Caters 1, Superlative Surprise Major 4, Cambridge Surprise Major 3, Double Norwich Major 3, Kent Treble Bob Major 3, Plain Bob Major 6, Stedman Triples 2, Grandsire Triples 1, Minor (one to nine methods) 28, Doubles 5. Total 59.

MR. CHARLES TETT

With great regret we record the passing of Mr. Charles Tett on January 12th. In earlier days at West Coker he interested himself in ringing, eventually moving to Lyme Regis, where he soon became a much valued and regular member of the band. Knowing little of half-pull ringing and with a very modest estimation of his own capabilities, he was content for a few years to confine himself to the tenor on which he rang many quarter peals. Change ringing came to him slowly, but with remarkable perseverance he gradually mastered Stedman and inside work in Minor, Triples and Major methods including Cambridge. Some years ago he retired to Haselbury Plucknett, near Crewkerne, and there did not a little towards guiding local ringers in the mysteries of Doubles.

But Lyme Regis tower was the poorer for his removal from the parish, not merely for his reliability as a member, but for his gentle Christian qualities and his kindly unruffled nature which endeared him to everybody. A faithful Churchman, courageous in his convictions and example and full of generosity, his memory will long be preserved. R.I.P.

The deepest sympathy of all his Lyme Regis friends is offered to Mrs. Tett and family in their bereavement. C. C. C.

THE LADIES' GUILD

Midland District Have New Secretary

The annual meeting of the Midland District of the Ladies' Guild was held at South Wigston, Leicestershire, on January 9th. Ringing commenced at 3 p.m. and at 4.30 p.m. a short service was held, conducted by the curate. About 30 ringers and friends sat down to tea in the Church Hall.

At the business meeting Miss Thompson expressed sympathy at the death of Mrs. Billson, a member of the Midland District of the Guild, and the company present stood in silence as a token of respect. The Midland District was represented at the funeral (which took place on the same day as this meeting) by Mrs. H. J. Poole.

Miss I. B. Thompson was re-elected as vice-president. Mrs. P. J. Staniforth resigned her position as secretary and Miss J. M. Simpson was elected in her place. The two general committee members, Mrs. H. J. Poole and Mrs. J. R. Smith, and the four District committee members, Mrs. H. J. Poole, Miss D. Udale, Miss E. Ffoulke and Miss I. Rowley, were all re-elected. One new member was elected to the Guild.

Thanks were expressed to the Vicar for his welcome and the use of the bells, to the curate for conducting the service, and also to Mr. Brian G. Warwick, the organist, not forgetting the ladies who had so ably prepared the tea.

It is hoped to arrange the next meeting at Rushden, Northants, on March 20th.

CURFEW BELL FOR ST. BRIDE'S

It is expected that the Coronation curfew bell for St. Bride's, Fleet Street, London, weighing 15 cwt., will be hung in the bell chamber by February.

Messrs. John Taylor and Co. cast it from metal salvaged from the wreckage of the 18th century ring. The inscriptions were taken from those on the old bells.

The date, 1953, was added to identify Queen Elizabeth II. as the Queen referred to. The inscription runs:—

'Peace and good neighbourhood:
God save the Church and Queen; 1953:
Prosperity to England:
Prosperity to all our benefactors.'

ST. STEPHEN'S, EALING

On Wednesday evening, January 6th—the Festival of the Epiphany—Prebendary H. C. Harland, M.A. (Vicar), dedicated in the ringing chamber of St. Stephen's, Ealing, a very handsome peal tablet and a cross and vases, recently donated. About 25 persons were present, including the wardens and visitors from Isleworth, St. Luke's, Chelsea, and elsewhere.

Mr. J. E. Lewis Cockey, in introducing the proceedings, thanked the Vicar and wardens for all the support and encouragement which they give to the band: Mr. Squire Croft, the donor of the board: the individual subscribers towards the lettering; Mr. W. C. Wilson, the conductor; and the young ringers who help to keep everything in such good condition. The Vicar and wardens both referred to the splendid progress made by the young band and to the importance of ringing to the Church. After suitable prayers the Vicar dedicated the cross and peal board to the Glory of God and to the use of the church, and concluded with the Blessing

The peal board, beautifully illuminated, records two peals rung for the Coronation, and bears the names of the Vicar and wardens, the conductor and ringers, and is surmounted by a coloured crown and initials E. II. R.

It might be mentioned that the Coronation ringing, by members of the London County Association, was included in the official programme of the Borough of Ealing, and that peal cards relating to the two peals in question were accepted by the Borough Authorities for preservation with their records.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Tonbridge District Braved a 'Pea-Souper'

The first meeting of the year for the Tonbridge District of the Kent County Association was held at Westerham on January 2nd. In spite of the fog, which got thicker as darkness fell, 33 members and friends sat down to tea. Unfortunately it was not possible, owing to a previous engagement, for the Vicar to conduct a service, nor was he able to be present at the business meeting which took place under the chairmanship of Mr. B. Collison.

Whether it was due to the excellent tea or to a spirit of Christmas and New Year goodwill we do not know, but the items on the agenda were quickly dealt with amid a general feeling of good humour which even the secretary's insistent demands for money failed to dispel.

Ringing to suit all tastes continued until 7.45 p.m., when even the most hardy ringers felt they should make some effort to get home through what had now become a real 'pea-souper.'

Thanks to the excellent local arrangements made by Miss Cosgrove everyone felt the meeting had been a success, and a good start had been made in the task the members had set themselves—that of redeeming their good name in the eyes of the general secretary.

THE RINGING WORLD

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

No. 2235 Vol. XLX. FRIDAY, JANUARY 29, 1954 Registered at the G.P.O. for transmission as a newspaper 4d.

DON'T GET DOWNHEARTED

THE training of new ringers is no light task. It is often a thankless one and the training of a complete band from scratch much more so. Small wonder instructors get a bit downhearted, and it is very easy to say, 'Don't get downhearted.' If you are one of those who feel your efforts have been a waste of time, try and get hold of a copy of 'The Ringing World' dated Jan. 9th, 1931; its leading article is headed, 'Bread cast upon waters,' and is well worth reading. It is based on the results of one man's efforts to train a stoney band. The late James S. Wilde, formerly of Hyde, is the man concerned, and the stoney band was at Norbury, Cheshire. Mr. Wilde died a few years ago in Dunedin, New Zealand.

With travelling facilities that now exist and the opportunities for learning, it is not easy for the youngster of to-day to fully appreciate the difficulties that beset the old tutors. In the late 1890's when Jim Wilde undertook the training of the Norbury band there were no public service vehicles; he had to walk the ten miles from Hyde to Norbury and back. All was not plain sailing, yet he had the pleasure of seeing that band ring a peal of Minor in seven methods in November, 1900, and he had the further pleasure of seeing that band progress. He never lost touch and frequently corresponded. It is interesting to recall that once when writing to a non-ringing friend in Hyde he enclosed the figures of a new method and asked that they be handed over to his nephew Tom; at the handing over the friend said, 'Here are some figures for you, Tom. I have added them up and they come to an awful lot.' Incidentally, the method was Clarendon Surprise Major and it was first rung at Norbury.

Mr. Goldsmith, in his leader, said, 'There are many excellent ringers to-day who, having received their first instruction in some village tower or with some obscure company, and having passed on to another district, have been counted at the time as "another wasted effort"; but who have afterwards more than made good in their own ringing and in the help they have given to others. Few efforts which seek to spread the art of ringing need, therefore, be counted as definitely lost, even though immediate results may not be obvious.'

As one peruses the peal and quarter-peal columns week by week or attends the numerous ringing meetings up and down the country, it does not always dawn on one that each ringer is the product of some instructor, so 'Don't get downhearted.'

J. P. F.

THE UNPUNCTUAL RINGER

WE ringers are frequently reminded about our foremost duties: (1) to maintain service at the highest possible standard; (2) to join the congregation whenever possible. Recently in the columns of our paper it has been pointed out that unpunctual and irregular attendance not only checks progress, induces apathy and causes slackness, but in some cases causes the break up of the company. We have had a weekly ringing paper for over 70 years and a perusal of early numbers will find many references to non-appearances and late arrivals, but seldom are regrets expressed or explanations offered. Not only do we read about the late arrival or the absentee but most of us have had practical experience of such treatment and its results.

We recall many instances of peal attempts, quarter peals, etc., arranged specially for a certain ringer when one had to come direct from business to a tower, involving train travel and a hurried walk from the station without the usual meal, only to find the one for whom the arrangements were made had not arrived. A call at his home later in the evening revealed that 'he did not feel like ringing that evening.' After fixing a second date and hearing his promise of punctuality ringing in our ears we had hopes that our little talk would bear fruit, but our second meeting resulted in the same ringer arriving 20 minutes late leaving us too little time to ring the quarter.

Not only are ringers kept waiting for peals or quarter peals by late arrivals, but service ringing and practices also suffer as well, in fact it is quite surprising to find how varied are the attitudes towards practice ringing in various towers. The ringers' practice night is a very old event in the parish, and though it is generally at fixed times of one to one and a half hours' duration, the leader expects co-operation from all the band, yet this is often lacking. Certain ringers have to go on duty at varied hours both on Sundays and practice nights, therefore allowances must be made in these cases and also in other circumstances, but what to do in the case of ringers who come when they have a mind to, or turn up when you actually see them, is a problem which seems to have no practical solution. Ringers have been known to remark, 'Just a few minutes' practice is all I want,' but if each one of the band carried out this sort of idea the company would never work as a team, which is essential if progress can ensue.

In my young days there was an attendance book kept and a fine was imposed on those who appeared over five minutes late, but this sort of thing, which was not popular, is out of date in the majority of towers, and a revival of old rules or penalties would do much more harm than good.

The habitual late comer does not seem to regard as very important the amount of time he has kept other people waiting, and a spirit of toleration is often exercised in order to retain the strength of the band and a standard of ringing. As there seems no remedy to apply in cases of this kind, it may be best to instill into all new members of the band from the first day of joining that punctuality and regularity are two essential factors to be realised for the efficient maintenance of ringing. By precept and example the standard of ringing could be raised if these two factors were looked upon as a duty, and ringers would then reveal to the parishioners that punctuality in the belfry is indeed a virtue. WILLIAM SHEPHERD.

GILLETT

AND

LIMITED

No matter in which corner of the country you happen to be, as likely as not you will come across Gillett & Johnston bells or tower clocks. Gillett & Johnston craftsmanship is embodied in an all-embracing service—as much in the preservation and restoration of old rings of antiquarian interest as in the installation of new.

BELL FOUNDERS

CLOCK MAKERS

CROYDON

ON CONDUCTING

By WILFRID G. WILSON

IV. CONDUCTING BY THE COURSING ORDER

Now, after that perhaps rather long introduction, I will try to show how, with much less difficulty, a much more reliable method of conducting can be learnt and applied. To do that I must go back to some of our earliest efforts in ringing—to the stage where we were told when we got lost to follow our 'course' bell or look out for our 'after' bell—in other words I must explain what is meant by Coursing Order.

Don't think that I am now also going to write about Q sets, B blocks, P blocks, false course ends or all the other difficult-sounding words and phrases that you find in the text books. A knowledge of these things is all very necessary to the composer, but the conductor, so long as he is content to call other people's touches and peals, need not bother with them.

If you examine a plain course of Bob Major you will see that in the first lead the bells come down to the front and go up to the back in the order 2, 4, 6, 8, 7, 5, 3. This reminds us that when we first rang the treble to a course of Plain Bob we were told to follow the even bells and then the odd ones. In the next lead the order will be 3, 2, 4, 6, 8, 7, 5. And the next 5, 3, 2, 4, 6, 8, 7; and so on.

Nos. 7 and 8, not being subject to alteration by bobs (except for the additional lead caused by a bob B), form a kind of constant framework to the course. It is, therefore, found convenient to note the Coursing Order of the bells starting with the 7th and finishing with the tenor. This you will see gives us 7, 5, 3, 2, 4, 6, 8 as the Coursing Order of the plain course. Omit 7 and 8 and all the way through the seven leads of the course the order is 5, 3, 2, 4, 6.

In each of the leads the treble will be in a different position among the other bells of course, but except for this the five 'working bells' will all through the course follow each other up and down in this order 5, 3, 2, 4, 6.

It is not necessary to write out a lead or a course of the method to see that this is the Coursing Order. In the plain course the course end is rounds—2345678. Starting with the 7th, we write down the figures in the order in which they follow it up to the back—i.e., first the odd bells 5 and 3 and then the even bells 2, 4 and 6. (These latter have to go down to the front first, but they then follow 5 and 3 up to the back.)

Now let us remember another of the things we were told early on in our ringing. That is that a bob always changes the position of three bells. That is why in the ordinary method we can get a touch of three courses by calling three bobs at W or at M or at H; each of these bobs acting on the same three bells. This will be seen very clearly if you call three bobs at H. Written out and using the transposition 42356 (see Chapter III.) we get this:—

—	4	2	3	5	6
—	3	4	2	5	6
—	2	3	4	5	6

H	2	4	3	6	5
B	4	2	3	5	6
H	4	3	2	6	5
B	3	4	2	5	6
H	3	2	4	6	5
B	2	3	4	5	6

(An interesting thing about this is that if you write down the handstrokes as well as the backstrokes of the course ends you get a complete plain hunt on the three bob-making bells.)

You will perhaps point out that in Grandsire Triples five of the seven bells are affected by a bob and that in, say, Kent Treble Bob Major five of the eight bells are affected. That, of course, is quite true, but later on when we examine the Coursing Order of methods such as these we shall see that in fact the position of only three bells in the Coursing Order is altered.

Yet we found in our earlier notes that the poor struggling conductor was faced with making a five-figure transposition to obtain his new course ends whenever he called a bob W, B or M and that only at the bob H was he able to relax and work out the first three bells only.

If a bob affects the position of only three bells then there would seem to be something unnecessary if we have to make five-figure transpositions to get our new figures. And this is so.

Let us examine the various leads and courses we get by calling our bobs and see what those bobs do to the Coursing Order of the five 'working' bells.

(a) THE WRONG

In the plain course, 23456, the Coursing Order is 53246 and the W lead end 3527486.

A bob W from 23456 brings W lead end 2357486 and course end 52436.

But the Coursing Order of this new lead end and, therefore, of the course 52436 is 32546. You can check this by writing out the figures of the lead after you have called the bob W. But you will soon be able to pick out this Coursing Order from the row 52436 in the same way that you pick out the Coursing Order 53246 from rounds—i.e., the actual order in which the bells follow the 7th.

Now we have—

Coursing Order of rounds = 53246
and the Coursing Order after Bob W = 32546

The first three bells (532) have been moved into the position 325 (i.e., ABC has become BCA).

(b) THE MIDDLE

In the plain course (Coursing Order 53246) the M lead end is 4263857.

A bob M from 23456 brings up M lead end 6423857 and course end 43652.

But the Coursing Order of this new lead end and, therefore, of the course 43652 is 53462 (i.e., the bells follow the 7th in this order).

Now we have—

Coursing Order of rounds = 53246
and the Coursing Order after Bob M = 53462

The last three bells (246) have been moved into the position 462 (i.e., once again ABC has become BCA).

(c) THE HOME

A bob H from 23456 brings up course end 42356. (This is also the H lead end.) But the Coursing Order of the course 42356 is 52436 (i.e., the bells follow the 7th in this order).

Now we have—

Coursing Order of rounds = 53246
and the Coursing Order after Bob H = 52436

The middle three bells (324) have been moved into the position 243 (i.e., once again ABC has become BCA).

In each of these three examples we have seen that we need only change three bells instead of five. And not only that but we change them in exactly the same way—ABC becomes BCA. So for calls in these three positions we need only remember the code 'BCA' and the simple facts that—

At the W we apply this code to the first three bells.

At the M we apply this code to the last three bells.

At the H we apply this code to the middle three bells

(d) BEFORE

The effect on Coursing Order of a bob B is even simpler because two of the bells affected are the 7th and tenor. We have, therefore, only one of the five 'working' bells to bother about.

A bob B from 23456 brings up lead end 7864523 and course end 35264.

Now we have—

Coursing Order of rounds = 53246
and the Coursing Order of this new lead end and, therefore, of the course 35264 = 65324

We have simply caused the bell which was the 6th place bell (coursing before the tenor) to make the bob and become the 5th place bell (coursing after the 7th). And our mental transposition only entails moving one bell from the last of the five to be the first of them.

We can now make a little table:—

COURSE ENDS	Plain Course	COURSING ORDER
23456		53246
52436	Bob W	32546
43652	Bob M	53462
42356	Bob H	52436
35264	Bob B	65324

The Course Ends on the left are what the composer needs for his paper work and what many a young conductor struggles hard with.

The Coursing Orders on the right are the figures which the conductor will quickly find to be easier to use and much more helpful in his task.

SWANSEA AND BRECON GUILD

The annual meeting of the Northern Branch was held at Brecon on Jan. 2nd. The attendance was rather smaller than usual, but discussions were pretty lively throughout the meeting. The Dean of Brecon (the Very Rev. W. E. Jones) presided.

The three retiring officers, Mr. J. A. Smith (Ringing Master), Mr. W. G. Smith (secretary) and Mr. D. H. Bennett (treasurer), were re-elected. In the unavoidable absence of the treasurer, the meeting accepted the secretary's statement of the accounts. These are to be sent to all towers without delay. As Talgarth's bells have recently been rehung, this was the first choice of the members for the next quarterly meeting.

One new member was elected—Master B. Davies (St. Mary's). It was suggested that the secretary get in touch with the Llangorse and Llangasty towers to try and induce them to become members of the Guild and to further their ringing by attending practice meetings.

After the collection for the Bell Restoration Fund, which amounted to 12s., was taken, the meeting closed with the general secretary, Mr. J. Arthur Hoare, proposing a hearty vote of thanks to the Dean for his kindness in taking the service and use of the bells, and to all those who helped to make the meeting possible. The Dean most suitably replied. W. G. S.

LATE NEWS

We regret to record the passing on January 20th of Mr. William J. G. Brown, one of the best known members of St. Mary-le-Tower Society, Ipswich, aged 69 years.

BELFRY GOSSIP

For the wedding of Mr. John A. Worsley, of Hovingham, Yorks, and the Hon. Carolyne Hardinge, at Christ Church Cathedral, Montreal, on January 16th, a recording was taken of a quarter peal rung at Hovingham by Sir. W. A. Worsley, Bart. It was intended to relay the recording by radio-telephone to Montreal for the young couple to hear, but due to bad weather conditions the authorities failed to make contact with those on the other side of the Atlantic. Mr. J. A. Worsley and his bride will not, however, be disappointed as the recording will be played to them on their return to Hovingham, the home of the bridegroom.

Will the ringer who took the wrong hat, please note the initials inside and return it to C. H. W., 68, Brownshill Green Road, Coventry, His hat is still in Nuneaton belfry.

With the peal at Bathampton, Bath, on January 16th, Mr. W. J. Prescott, of Bath, has now rung peals of Kent Treble Bob from Minor to Maximus.

Yesterday was the 50th anniversary of Mr. A. H. Pulling's first peal of Stedman Caters, which was rung at S. Nicolas' Church, Guildford. Another 50th anniversary this week (Jan. 26th) was Mr. H. Hutton's first peal of Stedman Triples, rung at Holy Trinity Church, Guildford.

In ringing the second to the peal of Hockley Surprise at Bishop Ryder's, Birmingham, on Jan. 4th, Mr. F. E. Haynes 'completed the circle' at that tower. By so doing he joins the brothers George and Henry Fearn in what might be called the 'City Circle,' having now rung a peal on every bell at St. Martin's, St. Philip's, St. Chad's and Bishop Ryder's. They expect that Mr. John Pinfold, Ringing Master of St. Martin's Guild, will also shortly qualify, since he requires only to ring the tenor at Bishop Ryder's.

We regret to hear of the death on Saturday of Mr. George H. Kilby, of Ruislip, who has been a valued member of the Middlesex County Association since 1911. For many years he was a member of the Willesden band. The funeral was on Thursday. An appreciation of his services to ringing will appear in our next issue.

The Methods Committee report on extension has been reprinted in book form by the Central Council and can be obtained from Miss P. J. Ayris, 10, Sherwood Close, Launton, Bicester, Oxon, price 1s.

'The Daily Telegraph' of January 25th reports that Mr. J. P. Fidler rang the first peal on the restored ring of six bells at St. Anne's Church, Alderney. An admirer (S. H. G.) writes: 'What a man! Congratulations!! (5,040 changes, we presume).'

After six weeks in hospital for two operations Mr. F. Warrington (Hunts District Ringing Master) is home again and wishes to thank all friends for letters of condolence. It may be another month before he is back among the bells.

In addition to the number of ringers taking part in commemorating the enthronement of the Right Rev. Ronald Ralph Williams as Lord Bishop of Leicester, it was fitting that three prominent ringers took part in the actual ceremony at the Cathedral—Brian Warwick, Ernest Morris (as Provost's Verger) and Harold J. Poole, who occupied his stall as Hon. Lay Canon.

Mr. Ernest Morris has been asked to submit to his publishers his manuscript on 'English Towers and their Bells' for consideration with a view to possible publication in book form. This is mostly a rewrite of the long series of articles Mr. Morris wrote in these columns during 1933-4, and covers all types of towers, bells, curious belfries, etc., and should prove of great value to all ringers.

ANOTHER LONDON RESTORATION

St. Olave's and Pepys

The ancient Church of St. Olave, Hart Street, City, escaped the Great Fire of London in 1666—but was not so fortunate in the last war, when it was destroyed in 1940 by enemy action. The tower was left standing but the eight bells were completely destroyed.

In 1662 the Whitechapel Foundry installed five bells with a tenor of 11 cwt., and in 1694 added a treble to make a ring of six. These were taken down in 1929 and cleaned, two trebles added to make a ring of eight, and rehung. Only 15¼ cwt. of the metal of these bells was recoverable, and it was incorporated into a new ring of eight (tenor 11¼ cwt.) in the key of G. This new ring has been hung with modern type fittings in cast iron framework mounted on a steel girder foundation.

The bells were rung for the first time on Christmas morning, 1953. The restoration was carried out by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank and a very pleasing ring has been the result.

Restoration of the body of the church is proceeding apace and it is hoped that the full activities of this important church will soon be fully resumed. The dedication is to the Norwegian King Olaf, who assisted Ethelred (the Unready) to repel the Danes.

It will doubtless be of interest to our readers to recall that this was the church near which lived Samuel Pepys, the famous diarist. He worshipped there and his wife was buried there. He also visited other churches in the neighbourhood, as the following entry in his diary in 1667 shows:—

'Being wearied, turned into St. Dunstan's Church where I heard an able sermon by the minister of the place; and stood by a pretty modest maid, whom I did labour to take by the hand and the body; but she would not, but got further and further from me; and at last I could perceive her to take pins out of her pocket to prick me if I should touch her again—which seeing, I did forbear, and was glad I did spy her design.

'And then I fell to gaze upon another pretty maid in a pew close to me, and she on me; and I did go about to take her by the hand, which she suffered a little and then withdrew. So the sermon ended and the church broke up, and my amours ended also.'

It was this passage that made John Drinkwater say:—

'It is to be feared there were occasions when in another age Pepys would have found himself at Vine Street.' J. F. S.

CREWE'S EXAMPLE TO CHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD

All Towers Sufficiently Manned

In his report presented at the annual meeting of the Crewe Branch at Christ Church, Crewe, on January 16th, Mr. W. Kerr (hon. secretary) stated that all the towers in the Branch were sufficiently manned for ringing but for ringing peals the situation was not so good.

The membership of the Branch was 110 adult and 13 junior ringing members. Fourteen meetings had been held during the year and the meeting, which was presided over by the Rev. F. C. Gentry (Vicar of Christ Church, Crewe), decided to reduce this number to 12 plus the annual festival. The dates fixed were: February 13th, Holmes Chapel; March 20th, Church Lawton; April 24th, Audlem; May 8th, Wybunbury; May 29th, Market Drayton (joint meeting with Shropshire Guild); June 26th, Barthomley; June 19th, Annual Guild Festival at Macclesfield; July 24th, Wrenbury; August 21st, Goostrey; September 11th, Acton; October 2nd, Nantwich. October 30th, Alsager; December 4th, Sandbach

Officers elected to the new committee were: Chairman and president, the Rev. F. G. Gentry; vice-presidents, the Archdeacon of Macclesfield, the Revs. E. C. W. Williams, E. M. B. Southwell and K. Smith, Messrs. S. Hampson, W. Perry, C. Latham and E. Cox; Master of eight-bell towers, Mr. J. H. Nicholls; hon. secretary, Mr. W. Kerr; hon. treasurer, Mr. F. Stenson; instructors, Messrs. B. J. Ongley, H. Sutton and J. A. Packer; delegate to meetings, Mr. Waller; representatives on county committee, Messrs. R. H. Langford, Ongley and Packer; Mr. M. Barlow was appointed auditor, with Mr. A. Perry. Delegates to the general committee were Mr. D. Smith and Mr. L. Coppenhall. The balance in hand was given as £6 8s. 3d.

Among the youngest ringers present were David and Nancy Longman, aged 10 and 12 respectively, and 13-year-old Brian Porter.

The service which preceded the tea was conducted by the Rev. F. G. Gentry. Ringing took place in the afternoon and evening and ranged from Superlative Surprise Major to rounds. Eighteen towers were represented.

LEADING PEAL RINGERS OF 1953

Two Centuries Scored

Two ringers rang more than 100 peals in 1953. Mr. Harold J. Poole, of Leicester, surpassed Mr. George E. Fearn's total by one—the respective figures being 103 and 102. Both ringers have passed the 1,000 peal mark. Mr. Fearn has recorded more than 100 peals each year since 1948. Mr. Poole's most prolific year was 1949, when his total reached 143.

Third, fourth and fifth places are held by ladies—Mrs. H. J. Poole with 88, Miss Muriel Reay with 83 and Miss Winifred M. Burton, Leicester, with 73. They have all improved on last year's totals, when Miss Reay rang 75 peals and Mrs. Poole 52, and Miss Burton did not figure in the list.

In the realm of conducting Mr. Poole called 75 peals, Mr. Nolan Golden, Norwich, 40 and Mr. G. E. Fearn 38.

There are newcomers to the list. Mr. John A. Acres, now of Leicester, with 55 peals acknowledges the help of Mr. H. J. Poole and other Leicester ringers in giving him a chance to complete this total. Although he has been ringing since 1939 he had never exceeded 24 peals in one year previously. Also qualifying for the first time is Mr. A. Patrick Cannon. During 1953 he rang peals in 41 different towers in 11 counties.

THE MIDLAND COUNTIES GUILD

Eighth Annual Meeting Held at Burton-on-Trent

The town of Burton-on-Trent, famed throughout the country for producing that stimulating and refreshing beverage 'Beer' and for its numerous street rail crossings, is also noted by the Exercise during the latter part of the last century for its pioneer band of Surprise ringers at the Church of St. Paul.

The Vicar (the Rev. J. H. Fish), Messrs. J. Jagger, J. Austin, J. Griffen, A. Wakeley and W. C. Wakeley, to mention only a few, were, indeed, the pioneers of Surprise ringing. Also among their many achievements was the 'silent' peal of Stedman Triples on November 20th, 1880.

Following the First World War (1914-1918) this tower was again to the fore when Mr. J. H. Swinfield (Ringing Master) organised that equally famous 'Wednesday' band, and that talented conductor, Mr. M. Swinfield, called over 230 different compositions of Stedman Triples.

This stately church, so enriched in ringing history, was chosen for the eighth annual meeting of the above Guild, which took place on January 9th. Ringers and friends assembled from Ashby, Ticknall, Netherseale, Overseale, Lullington, Packington, Newcastle-under-Lyme, Yoxall, Uttoxeter, Birmingham and the two Burton towers.

Ringing, commencing at 2.30 p.m., was followed by a short service conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. W. Willis-Price), who is also an honorary member of the Guild. He gave a short but inspiring address and extended a welcome to the ringers.

Tea, a much-needed meal, kindly prepared by ladies from the Church of St. Paul, was followed by the annual business meeting.

In the unavoidable absence of the president (Ven. H. E. Fitzherbert, M.A.), Mr. W. H. Curson presided and announced more apologies.

YEARLY REPORT

The secretary, in his report, referred to the loss the Guild had sustained in the deaths of Mr. G. Hatton (Ashley), Mr. S. C. Blackshaw (Winshill) and Mr. P. Wright (Hoar Cross).

Eight meetings had been held with the usual attendance and Guild membership was now 26 honorary members and 120 ringing members.

During the year under review 40 peals had been rung in 17 towers in five counties with 18 conductors. First pealers numbered five, while 17 rang their first peal in a new method. Three new conductors were added to the list, viz. Messrs. J. H. Brittan, A. J. Marriott and P. Marriott. Mr. W. P. Whitehead, with a total of ten, headed the list, followed by Messrs. R. Beniston 6, B. G. Key 3, J. Bailey 3, J. W. Cotton 3, A. Cattell 2, D. R. Carlisle 2, A. J. Marriott, P. Marriott, J. H. Brittan, F. W. Grocott, F. E. Wilshaw, P. W. Grice, S. H. Jones, W. F. Woodward, A. E. Rowley, G. E. Oliver and W. G. Hair one each. Once again the hon. secretary was the Guild's leading peal ringer with 29 peals, followed by the Ringing Master (Mr. S. H. Jones) with 21 peals. Personal milestones were as follows: J. W. Cotton 300 peals, Mr. Ernest Morris 100 peals for the Guild, and Mrs. S. H. Jones first lady member to ring 12 peals in a year for the Guild. Gainsborough Little Bob Major was rung for the first time for the Guild, also nine peals of London Surprise Major were rung during 1953.

The secretary said no review would be complete without reference to the glorious Coronation of Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II. on June 2nd, when, despite the inclement weather, ringers and bells played an important part in the celebrations. Bells were rung at almost every tower in the Guild area and among the widespread peal ringing five 'Coronation' peals were recorded for the Guild. Restoration work was carried out on Ashley bells and upon the first three bells in the peal of six at Winshill.

The financial statement submitted by the treasurer showed a credit balance of £6 9s. 6d. on the year's working. Grants from the Bell Repair Fund of £5 5s. were made towards the restoration work at Packington and Winshill.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

Officers for 1954 were elected as follows:—President, Ven. H. E. Fitzherbert; chairman, Mr. W. H. Curson; Ringing Master, Mr. I. H. Jones; treasurer, Mr. J. H. Brittan; secretary, Mr. J. W. Cotton; auditor, Mr. T. Pryce; committee: Messrs. B. G. Key, W. F. Woodward, W. G. Soar and E. Beadsmore, the latter being also elected a life member of the Guild: Central Council representative, Mr. J. W. Cotton.

An omnibus vote of thanks, proposed by Mr. S. H. Jones, to the Vicar for conducting the service and for the use of the bells, to the local ladies for preparing the tea, and to Mr. B. G. Key for local arrangements brought the meeting to a close.

Ringing during the afternoon and evening included touches in the following methods:—Stedman and Grandsire Caters, Kent Treble Bob and Plain Bob Royal, Stedman and Grandsire Triples.

HEREFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

Kington District Had 28 New Members Last Year

A brief reference was made in our issue of January 15th to the annual meeting of the Kington District on January 2nd. We have since been supplied with fuller details.

At the service, conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. T. H. Wilkinson), instead of an opening hymn a carol was played by the Eardisland handbell ringers.

The Vicar presided at the business meeting which followed in the vestry and in opening the proceedings said he had a pleasant duty to perform in asking the District secretary (Mr. J. Preece) to accept a small package in recognition of his 30 years' work in that office. The presentation came as a big surprise to the secretary, who thanked all who had subscribed. It was a leather wallet containing £10 in notes, which was the gift of members from eight towers and other ringing friends.

In his report of the past year Mr. Preece said three meetings and six combined practices had been held. Eleven peals had been rung (three Doubles, two Minor, two Triples and four Major). Twenty-eight new members had joined.

The District Ringing Master, Mr. Harris, and the Assistant Ringing Master, Mr. Norgrove, expressed a wish to retire from office. Mrs. Chandler, of Lyonshall, was unanimously elected Ringing Master—believed to be the first lady to hold the office in the Guild—and Mr. B. Ellsmore and Mr. L. Mainwaring Assistant Ringing Masters. Mr. L. Perry was re-elected hon. auditor.

The secretary had mentioned at the last meeting that he hoped the members would get a younger person to accept his office. As no one was willing to become secretary he agreed to carry on for the time being.

The next meeting will be held in May at King's Pyon (5 bells) and a combined practice in March at Lyonshall. The usual votes of thanks were passed.

LLANDAFF AND MONMOUTH ASSOCIATION

Monmouth Branch Gain 27 New Members

The annual meeting of the Monmouth Branch was held at Rumney on January 16th and some 60 ringers attended. Ringing was ably conducted by the Branch Master (Mr. Ryan Price) and many methods were rung including Cambridge and London Surprise.

The service was conducted by the Vicar of Rumney (the Rev. C. K. Smith), who heartily welcomed the Branch. A bounteous high tea was provided in an adjoining hall and Mrs. Elliot and her helpers were thanked by Mr. F. Hannington.

At the business meeting the secretary read a favourable report of the Branch's activities during the past year. Some 27 new members had been elected and the total membership was now 142. Fresh interest in the Association had been aroused at Cwmavon, Llangibby, Llandennv, Llangattock and Caerleon. Three new members were elected from Ebbw Vale and Chepstow, and Mr. Norman Smith and Mr. Frank Knight were elected life members.

Mr. David J. King was elected Branch Ringing Master and was invested with the badge of office by the retiring Master. Miss Jacqueline S. Evans was re-elected secretary and was nominated as Central Council representative.

Mr. Trevor Roderick spoke of the long and faithful service given to the Association and to the Central Council by Mr. J. W. Jones. The appreciation of his work will be put on record. Progress was reported from Peterstone by Mr. Ron Lucas.

It was decided to accept the invitation extended by Canon E. T. Davies to hold the next quarterly meeting at Llangibby. J. S. E.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

IS OPPOSITION TO CANNED BELLS PREJUDICE?

Dear Sir,—Much has recently appeared in the columns of 'The Ringing World' about so-called 'canned' bells, and letters have appeared in the national Press decrying their growing prevalence. But is it not of interest that it is only ringers who are complaining? The general public seems to be apathetic, if we are to judge from its silence.

There seem to be two main arguments against the use of recordings. The first, in the words of Mr. F. Haynes at the U.A. reunion, is that it is artificial and not real and that English people did not like unreal things. The second, that it is only ringers who are complaining? To my mind, these two lines of argument offer excellent examples of the maxim that we believe what we want to believe.

If, as Mr. Haynes claims, the English people do not like unreal things, in this case recordings, how are we to account for the enormous market for gramophone records in this country at the present day? As it is clearly impossible to have the London Philharmonic Orchestra or even Humphrey Lyttleton in one's house, a record is used instead. In the same way, it is often the choice of 'canned' bells or no bells that faces a clergyman, particularly in modern churches built in a less substantial manner than their elder brethren. Simply because some ringers do not like to hear the sound of bells from a towerless church is that parish to be deprived of them? The prime purpose, if not the sole one, of bells is to call people to divine worship; it is the sound of the bells that does this, not the bells themselves. And here we see the flaw in the 'parallel' of 'canned' bells with 'canned' choirs and sermons; the general public only knows of ringers by hearing them ringing; not so with the clergy and choir, who are seen at their tasks as well as heard.

With regard to the second argument there has been no mention as yet of dismantling ringing bells to make way for recordings. When, and if there is, then there will be cause for complaint.

If ringers are to attack 'canned' bells, let them admit that they are driven by prejudice rather than try to hide it by futile arguments.
—Yours sincerely,

CYRIL A. WRATTEN.

THE 10,080 GRANDSIRE BOB AT GISLINGHAM, SUFFOLK, 1822

Dear Sir,—I had studied the board recording this peal some three years ago, but reference to the peal in 'Belfry Gossip' in 'The Ringing World' of January 8th, 1954, prompted me to go and look at it again—and to make an inquiry in the village.

It is a stone plaque on the north wall, ground floor, of the tower in Gislingham Church and it is quite interesting for the reason that along the top and the bottom of the board the six bells are painted in their respective sizes, and beside each is its number and a drawing of a tool which, presumably, gives the occupation of the ringer of that bell in this peal.

These tools are as follows:—Treble: A spade or similar affair which points to the ringer being a gardener or a labourer. Two: A blacksmith's anvil. Three: A bricklayer's trowel. Four: A spade, rather like a draining spade. Five: A blacksmith's anvil. Six: An object which looks like a roughly-folded umbrella, though I understand that the ringer's family were all shoemakers.

The inscription is as follows:—

'1822. Ringing on the 6th of April, 10,080 Changes of Grandsire Bob in 6 hours and 35 minutes. By William Selsby. Treble. James Munns, 2d. James Warner 3rd. Thomas Goldson 4th. And completed the peal: William Munns 5th. Thomas Selsby 6th.'

It therefore seems that the two Munns were blacksmiths.

In his house, opposite the existing blacksmith's shop, I found Mr. Walter Martin, aged 82, an old Gislingham ringer, who has lived in the village all his life—60 years in his present house. He is looking forward to celebrating his diamond wedding on April 29th next.

He told me that his father knew some of the ringers in the peal, and it is said that they locked themselves in the tower (nothing unusual!) and had an extra man giving them sustenance with a tea spoon, some of them being 'in rather a mess before they finished'!

I am afraid that I cannot answer your inquirer's question as to whether the peal was on five bells with the tenor behind, but Mr. Ronald W. Steward, of the Suffolk Guild, can probably do so as he refers to this peal in a letter published in the 'East Anglian Magazine' of current issue. In this he shows that the longest peal on six in Suffolk was at Rickinghall Superior on Saturday, May 5th, 1928:—10,800 changes in 5 hours 37 minutes (over 700 changes more than the Gislingham peal, yet nearly an hour shorter time). He goes on to refer to the 15,120 on six at Wath-on-Dearne, Yorks, but does not give the date.

I thought how nice it would be to have a peal at Gislingham on Mr. Martin's golden wedding day but—alas! He tells me that the bells have not been raised for about ten years (I expect he means before the war) and gudgeons and so on are much worn. It is sad to have to record that the whole church is in a state of neglect—the churchyard, too. Louvres are out of the tower window glass out of others, the knots of the tied bell ropes are grease-bound showing that they have not been untied for years but merely held for chiming (tolling in). All kinds of things are stacked here and there—parts of either pews or a screen, and so on. Thousands of pounds are needed to put it in order and I cannot see where the money will ever come from. Is it another ruin on the way? It is a large church for a small country parish.

On the plaster of the ringing room wall are painted some names — undoubtedly those of former ringers. These are crudely done but much embellished and they appear at each ringer's place. They read:—'John Howard 2, John Barnham, Thomas Offwood, Thomas Freman 4. . . . . Silsby, 1717. George Bucknum 5.

Mr. Martin told me that, even with his 82 years of residence in Gislingham, he did not know of a single descendant of any of the peal ringers, or any of those whose names appear on the wall, now living in the parish.

Dr. J. J. Raven in his 'Church Bells of Suffolk, 1890,' gives this information about the bells:—'Treble. William Dobson. 1814; 2, 3 and 4, Miles Graye, 1641; 5 and tenor, John Darbie, 1671. Tenor 45¼in. diameter in E. Fine-toned bells.'

SHEFFIELD PEAL WITHDRAWN

Dear Sir,—I regret that I must withdraw the peal of Rutland Surprise Major rung at St. Marie's R.C. Church, Sheffield, on December 26th, 1953, as I have since found the composition to be false.

I would like to tender my apologies to the other members of the band for this carelessness.
—Yours sincerely.

GEORGE WILLIAMS COMMEMORATION DINNER

Dear Sir,—Mr. D. Matkin's letter, published in Jan. 15th issue, could lead to some misunderstanding, therefore I hasten to explain that not until the morning of the annual District meeting at Christchurch on December 5th last was it obvious to me (for private reasons) that I should be unable to organise this year's function.

The proposal to allow the dinner and rally to lapse, because of this, caught me unawares, and I left the meeting with mixed feelings. Since then I have had conversation with the District chairman, Mr. David Reed, who told me he thought someone might be found to take on the job; therefore a report of our meeting was not sent in for publication and we decided to make a move by calling the old committee together in the New Year. That we have been forestalled matters little; I, personally, am delighted that the Bournemouth rally and dinner will take place in 1954, and, I hope, will for many years to come.—Yours faithfully,

Bournemouth. ARTHUR V. DAVIS.

'An English Heritage' That Must Be Kept Alive at All Costs

To correspondence relating to 'Bells of the Countryside' that has been appearing in 'The Western Gazette,' Yeovil, Mr. H. J. Sanger, of Evercreech, has made a useful contribution, as follows:—

We have read much in our papers of late regarding synthetic bells and the like, but nothing will ever replace or give the same pleasure to the countryman as do the bells of our village churches. It is often difficult in the country, and much more so in the towns, to get and keep a band of faithful people to ring the bells regularly, but the effort, great as it may be, is well worth while. The art of change ringing is a part of our English heritage and must be kept alive at all cost. It is unfortunate that in some of our towers the bells are rarely rung; in many cases this has come about because quite faithful old bands have failed to look ahead and train young people in the art, with the ultimate result that as the older ones pass on there are none to take their places and the bands die out. To start a new band is then a major problem, and only those who have experienced such a problem can appreciate the magnitude of the job.

Much could be written on this subject, but for the moment I would say to all experienced ringers do your utmost to train young people in the art and so keep it alive; and to the clergy and other responsible Church people: take a real interest in your ringers, visit them in the belfry and help to influence the right type of young people to come along and be taught our art.

THE SOCIETY OF ROYAL CUMBERLAND YOUTHS

PRESENTATION OF SILVER SALVER TO THE RETIRING MASTER—MR. FRANK E. HAWTHORNE HIS SUCCESSOR — A NEW SECRETARY — MOTION TO CENTRAL COUNCIL ON RECORDED BELLS

MEMBERS of the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths expressed their tangible appreciation of the service to the Society by Mr. G. H. Cross, the retiring Master, by presenting him with an inscribed silver salver at the annual meeting held at the Vestry Hall, St. Martin-in-the-Fields, last Saturday. Mr. Cross has been Master of the Society for 18 years with a break of one year, and has retired from office in view of his decision to live in the West Country.

The presentation was made by the senior steward, Mr. F. E. Hawthorne, and the salver was inscribed: 'Presented to Mr. G. H. Cross by the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths on his retirement as Master, 23rd January, 1954.'

'I would like you to accept this with the best wishes of the Society,' said Mr. Hawthorne in making the presentation, 'to remind you of the years you have been Master, and I hope you will live long to remember your years with the Society.'

In thanking the members for their gift, Mr. Cross said that all that he had done for the Cumberlands had been a pleasure and he thanked his wife for permitting him to attend to his duties. Perhaps when he had retired his wife would be able to go out and ring the 20 peals necessary for her 100.

He expected they had read the letters in 'The Ringing World' over the Mastership. He pointed out that while their headquarters were at St. Martin's it was their duty to keep the bells going there.

Mr. A. A. Hughes had appealed to members of the Universities Association to help with the bells of St. Olave's. Before the war the Society used to ring those bells every sixth week on a Sunday evening. He was told on Thursday night that they were trying to get three bodies to ring the bells of St. Olave's. One was from Lloyds in Fenchurch Street, another from the Income Tax Office (he presumed they would ring half-muffled for people who did not like paying taxes), and the other was from the Bank of England.

He noticed that Messrs. John Taylor were putting in a bell at St. Bride's. Last year he wrote to the Rector and received a reply that no order had been given for any bells and if they did anything he would write to him. He had heard nothing since then.

Again thanking the members of the Society for their friendship, Mr. Cross said in 1927 he was made a Cumberland at Croydon. He thought only Mr. Tom Bevan had been ringing longer regularly at St. Martin's than he had.

'QUITE SATISFACTORY YEAR'

Mr. G. H. Cross presided at the beginning of the meeting supported by Mrs. C. J. Matthews (hon. secretary) and Mr. W. R. Winterton (hon. treasurer). An apology was received from Mr. Cecil Matthews.

In her report the secretary stated that she thought they might say that 1953, as befitted Coronation year, was quite satisfactory as far as the Society was concerned. Thirty-four new members were elected, one less than last year. Nine peals were rung as against only three in 1952.

As to the meetings, the joint one with the Middlesex in December at St. Martin's and St. Margaret's was a magnificent success—almost too much, and she had been asked if they could have another this year. That and a joint meeting with the Middlesex at Twickenham would be discussed later.

The dinner in October, although not so well attended as in former years, was very successful, although there was a loss. She had hinted to Mr. Cross that they should have a new secretary. 'Although I have enjoyed my work very much and hope I have performed it satisfactorily, I really think it is time someone else did it.'

£100 BALANCE NECESSARY

Mr. Winterton presented the balance sheet. The year started, he said, with a balance of £116 1s. 6½d. and ended with £125 11s. 9½d. There was a loss of £1 19s. 6d. on the St. Albans meeting and £9 on the dinner. That was a bit of a blow from a treasurer's point of view although it was an extremely good dinner. Since then they had had an anonymous gift of £2 9s. towards the cost of the dinner. Just after the war the balance of the Society was £42. They had now got it to over £100 and he thought they should keep it at £100.

The report and balance sheet were adopted and the Master thanked Mr. Winterton for getting the medallion of the Master repaired.

New members elected were Brian Paterson (Bedford), Evelyn Pryke (Brentwood), Michael Lakin and Peter Nash (Winchester).

THE MASTERSHIP

There were two nominations for the office of Master, Mr. Frank E. Hawthorne and Mr. Tom Francis. A ballot was taken and Mr. Hawthorne was elected to the office.

Returning thanks after being installed, Mr. Hawthorne said: 'I am very pleased to have a go at filling this office that has been so well filled by Mr. Cross.' In the light of what had appeared in 'The Ringing World' he felt that the office of Master should go round. The office in a Society like theirs was more in the way of an honour and it would be of benefit to a national society like theirs if it was so regarded. He thought it would be of more benefit to the Society if the young fellow coming along had a chance of this office. In the future the office should go round more, not that he had anything to say against Mr. Cross. He thought the Society had been kept together by Mr. Cross and they had a lot to thank him for.

Mr. Cross, on behalf of the Society, wished Mr. Hawthorne well in his office and was sure everyone would rally round and help him. During the time he had held office two of his best supporters had been the late Mr. George Steere and Mr. Tom Bevan, who was at St. Martin's before him and had done good service to that church and the Cumberlands.

For the post of secretary there were two nominations—Mr. Arthur Butler and Mr. Peter N. Bond. A ballot resulted in the election of Mr. Bond.

Other elections were: Hon. treasurer, Mr. Winterton; senior steward, Mr. Tom Francis; junior steward, Mr. Frank Matthews; trustees, Mr. R. Ling and Mr. Cecil Matthews; auditors, Mrs. Deal and Mr. H. E. Audsley.

CENTRAL COUNCIL AFFILIATION FEE

Before the election of Central Council representatives, Mr. G. H. Cross raised an important point. He said the Central Council decided to increase their affiliation fee from 5s. to 10s. They had no right to spend a Society's money before the matter had been referred to the members.

The new Master said he was present at the Central Council meeting and the recommendation came as a bombshell. Mr. Charles Kippin asked whether the Council were in order because none of the representatives had had an opportunity of consulting their members. He was informed that they were.

Mr. Cross then moved that the Central Council be informed that in future before they proposed to increase their affiliation fees the matter should receive the approval of the individual Societies or Associations affiliated to the Council.

This was agreed to and Messrs. G. H. Cross, T. Francis, F. E. Hawthorne and P. N. Bond were elected to represent the Society on the Central Council.

MEETINGS FOR 1954

After discussion the following meetings were approved:—Sevenoaks, March 27th; Windsor or Hatfield, June 12th; Parish Church and St. John's, Croydon, September 18th; joint meeting with the Middlesex at St. Martin's, December 4th. As an extra meeting a joint meeting with the Middlesex Association at Twickenham on July 17th was agreed to.

On the proposition of Mr. T. Francis, it was decided to hold the annual dinner on the first Saturday in October, the arrangements being left in the hands of the officers.

Mr. Winterton stated that Mr. Cross had offered his copies of 'The Ringing World' for the years 1928 to 1953 to the Society. He sought permission to have these bound. By special arrangement Mr. Ling had offered to bind them at 7s. 6d. a volume. The meeting thanked Mr. Cross for his gift and accepted the offer of Mr. Ling, which was very much below the trade price.

RECORDED BELLS

Mr. T. Martin Page raised the question of recorded bells, a matter that had been very prominent in 'The Ringing World' and the national Press. The Church Assembly had not taken a vote on the question. He would like to see the Cumberlands put forward to the Central Council a motion that they should consider the question and do whatever was in their powers to make representation to the Church Assembly and the Diocesan Authorities. One or two of them had tried to do so through the national Press and from their county Associations to their own Dioceses. He knew that in lots of cases ringers could be blamed but if ringing was to be carried out as an art, as it had been for the past 300 years, it was up to them 'to clear the decks for action' against synthetic bells.

Continuing, Mr. Page said a lot of architects who were dealing with new churches had no knowledge of bell hanging. They went for vertical features which might form excellent support for gramophone records but were no good for bells.

The Master commented that only in that week's 'Ringing World' there was a case where local people had refused to have synthetic bells. That was at Uphill, where there was a church practically in ruins, but every Sunday afternoon in the summer the ringers from Weston-super-Mare went there to ring. Ringers must give up some of their time to train those coming forward.

Mr. Frank Lufkin said that nothing could be put into a church without a faculty, and in every case of recorded bells the application had to come before the Diocesan Advisory Committee. One of the most practical methods would be to have a ringers' representative on the Diocesan Advisory Committee.

The meeting unanimously decided to send a resolution to the Central Council asking them to do everything in their power to oppose recorded bells.

Mr. Cross brought forward the request from the Central Council for a donation of 10s. from each affiliated Society for the provision of an oak case in St. Paul's Cathedral to house the ringers' roll of honour. Upon the proposition of Mr. T. Francis, seconded by Mr. Martin Harbutt, it was decided to contribute 10s.

Upon the proposition of Mr. Peter Bond it was decided to congratulate Mr. E. A. Barnett, a member of the Society, upon his election as hon. secretary and treasurer of the Central Council.

THE SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD

Youth in Evidence in Dorchester Branch

The annual meeting of the Dorchester Branch took place at St. Peter's Church, Dorchester, on January 16th. Ringing commenced at about 2.30 p.m. and the eight bells were kept going to Stedman and Grandsire Triples and Plain Bob Major until the Guild service at 4 o'clock, conducted by the vice-chairman of the Branch, the Ven. Archdeacon J. C. Chute, Rector of Piddlehinton.

The lesson was read by the Rev. S. P. Rowcroft, Vicar of Abbotsbury, and the Rev. Canon A. Wilkinson Markby, Rector of St. Peter's and chairman of the Branch, gave the address, taking for his text, 'How then shall they call on Him in whom they have not believed? And how shall they believe in Him of whom they have not heard? And how shall they hear without a preacher?'

Ringers, said the chairman, were preachers, sending the message of the bells to all who cared to listen, reminding everyone that there is a church in the district and that God will be worshipped there.

The Rector mentioned that he recently had a conversation with another clergyman, who told him that the bells formerly hung in his church had been sold and where there were once six bells only two remained, and they were silent.

Not even silent preachers, said Canon Markby, just silent, when bells were meant to carry their message far and near.

Tea was served in St. Peter's Institute by Mrs. J. W. Smith and other ladies of St. Peter's, who were heartily thanked by the chairman when he opened the business meeting.

Following the minutes, apologies were read from the Rev. and Mrs. Godley (Yetminster), at present on holiday in East Africa, and the Rev. A. Wheeler (Frampton and Sydling).

The hon. secretary and treasurer (Mr. J. H. Hayne), in his report, stated that membership was now 163, of whom 144 were ringing members, a slight decrease from last year, but there was evidence of more young people taking an active interest in the Exercise.

Meetings had been held at Dorchester, Maiden Newton, Charminster, Piddlehinton and Abbotsbury and the fortnightly Branch meetings were proving as popular as ever. Fifteen quarter peals had been rung, Grandsire and Stedman Doubles, Plain Bob Doubles and Minor, Kent Treble Bob Minor and Grandsire Triples, the towers being Abbotsbury, Charminster, Martinstown, Preston, Upwey, Wool and Wyke Regis.

Two members had passed away during 1953. Miss Markby, of Dorchester, sister of the chairman and an honorary member for many years, and Mr. C. S. House, a consistent and long-serving ringing member of St. Peter's, Dorchester.

The balance sheet for the past year showed a credit balance of just over £40, and both the report and financial statement were accepted.

Officers were elected as follows:—Chairman, Canon A. W. Markby; vice-chairman, Ven. J. C. Chute; hon. secretary and treasurer, Mr. J. H. Hayne; hon. assistant secretary, Mr. R. H. Duke; Ringing Master, Mr. F. Precey (Wool); Deputy Ringing Masters, Mr. H. J. Ford (Abbotsbury) and Mr. F. Stedman (Wyke Regis).

Twenty new members were elected: Messrs. M. Adams and J. Payne (St. Peter's, Dorchester), Mr. G. Rose and Mrs. Rose (Wyke Regis), Henry Goringe (aged ten, Cattistock), Miss V. Ricketts, Miss R. Pitfield and Mr. R. Pitfield (Bere Regis), Mr. J. Harrison (Fordington), Mrs. M. Corben, Miss M. Fairbairn and Miss D. Waite (Preston), Mr. P. Daubeney and Norman Hayne aged 8 (Abbotsbury), Mr. J. Symes (Sydling), Messrs. H. Runyard and D. Gibbs (Wool) ringing members; and the Rev. S. P. Rowcroft (Abbotsbury) and the Rev. F. C. Whittier (Wool) honorary members; and Mrs. Duke (Dorchester) associate member.

Suggested meetings for 1954 were Frampton and Wool, other venues to be arranged by the secretary and chairman in consultation with the incumbents.

Several members spoke at length on the subject of Thursday meetings and it was agreed to hold a Thursday gathering as a test, and to talk the matter over again later.

The question of the transfer of Litton Cheney from the West Dorset to the Dorchester Branch was discussed, and the case for Litton Cheney was put forward by Mr. R. Clothier, a member of that tower.

Being on the extreme edge of the West Dorset area, he said, it was easier to visit towers in the Dorchester District and they had had considerable help from the Dorchester Branch and would be pleased to change over.

The secretary read a letter from the Litton Church Council, in which the point was made that the church was in the deanery covered by the Dorchester Branch, and therefore it seemed quite feasible that the transfer should be beneficial.

Canon C. Carew Cox, Master of the Salisbury Guild and chairman of the West Dorset Branch, said in reply that the matter should be brought before the Guild Committee and he advised the Litton Cheney ringers to contact the secretary of the West Dorset Branch on the subject. This was agreed to.

Canon Cox said it was always a great pleasure to attend the meetings of the Dorchester Branch, as they were so very much alive, and in view of the election of so many members at the meeting he saw no reason to be alarmed for the future.

Also, said the Canon, the Dorchester Branch did get its clergy to attend meetings, which showed that they were definitely interested in their ringers. Mr. Cox thought that ringers should attend service as often as convenient, but should not be bound by a hard and fast rule.

Mr. Paul Field spoke very forcibly on the subject of synthetic bells (records of bells played from towers which carried no ringing bells). He proposed that a letter be sent from the meeting asking the Bishop and the Advisory Council of the Diocese to prohibit the use of such recordings in the Salisbury Diocese. Carried unanimously.

The ringers then adjourned to the tower and ringing went on in various methods until 9 p.m. under the direction of the Ringing Master (Mr. Fred Precey), while some of the company visited Fordington (6), where Mr. Harry Ford took charge. J. H. H.

The meeting agreed on the proposition of Mr. R. Ling to amend Rule 4, which stated that Society peals shall be entered in the peal book by a professional writer to a 'peal writer approved by the Society's officers.'

Mr. T. Bevan said last year he appealed for a small donation for St. Anne's, Highgate. The cost of church repairs was £2,000 and that to the bells £80. He felt they should send a donation.

The meeting agreed to vote two guineas on the proposition of Mr. G. H. Cross.

Proposing a vote of thanks to the Vicars of Shoreditch and St. Martin-in-the-Fields for the use of the bells that day, Mr. Cross said the bells at Shoreditch should be boarded up and they were going to do it. They were all happy to hear that St. Martin's belfry was to be repainted and some new mats supplied.

Ringing took place after the meeting at St. Margaret's, Westminster.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSN.

North and East District

The meeting at Finchley on January 9th was attended by over 30 ringers, there being eight affiliated towers represented, and some visiting friends including Messrs. G. W. Pipe (Suffolk), D. W. Beard (Essex) and P. N. Bond (Sussex). A wide variety of method ringing was thus enjoyed on the light, well-going ring of eight bells but the time passed too quickly to enable a complete programme to be fulfilled. The parish is, at the moment, without an incumbent—the Rev. M. Ridley, hon. member, having died during last year—and it is to be hoped that the authorities responsible for selecting the new incumbent will recommend a person who takes an interest in, and encourages the art of bellringing.

The most important item of the business meeting, presided over by Mr. C. W. Ward, Monken Hadley, was, by election, the return of the Edgware tower to the Association, after a lapse of many years due to the bells not being rung. Edgware was one of the founding members of the Association. Six members of the tower, Messrs. R. G. Ouston, H. Clayton, B. O. Hughes, D. Porter, D. Ward and A. Warris were elected on the proposition of Mr. C. C. Mayne, who is teaching the band. Messrs. J. D. Taylor (Harrow Weald) and G. E. Powell and Miss M. Smith (Enfield) were also elected ringing members, whilst the provisional election of Mr. D. K. Adkins (Abbots Langley), as a non-resident life member, was duly ratified.

Thanks were accorded to the Rev. M. Finch, curate, and to Mr. L. E. Tubb, local captain, for making arrangements for the meeting.

A NORTH MUSKHAM WEDDING

Many congratulations have been extended to Mr. Frederick George Hooper, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Hooper, of 31, Spring Gardens, Newark, and Miss Annie Kathleen Streeton, youngest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. Streeton, of North Muskham, who were married at St. Mildred's Church, North Muskham, on December 31st. They are both members of the local change ringing band. The bridegroom is also a member of the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths, the Southwell Diocesan Guild, the Lincoln Diocesan Guild and the Irish Association.

The Vicar (the Rev. Mr. Rigden) officiated at the choral service, with Mr. S. Granger as organist.

The bride, who was given away by her brother-in-law, Mr. Hollingworth, of Hayes, Kent, was attended by her niece, Miss Kathleen Hollingworth, as bridesmaid. Mr. J. L. Hooper was best man to his brother.

The bells were rung to Grandsire Doubles by the local band as the couple left the church. At the same time a wedding compliment was being paid to them by a quarter peal of Stedman Triples at St. Mary's, Nottingham, conducted by Mr. B. Buswell. The band here was representative of the Southwell Diocesan Guild.

BEDFORDSHIRE YOUNG RINGERS

Boxing Day Outing

EVERY year on Boxing Day we sally forth into neighbouring counties and this time our choice was the area to the south of Northampton and included a part of Buckinghamshire.

A quarter peal started the day at Hanslope, a fine-toned ring of eight. It is said that from the height of the tower parapet on a clear day one can see the Wash, 70 miles distant. However, our eyes were more for the countryside round about. The morning continued with visits to Potterspury and Grafton Regis. Lunch at Alderton was enjoyed in the cosiness of the local hostelry or even more snugly in one of the cars. After the light five at Alderton the bells of Stoke Bruerne were in sharp contrast. Anyone with strength enough could have good exercise on this five; one 120 was enough for us. And then on to Courteenhall, a five of great charm.

We arrived at Roade to find the Vicar and many ringers waiting to welcome us. Here the ladies had no difficulty at all in ringing a touch, where the ringing space occupies the width of the chancel between the choir stalls. Then we just had to visit Ashton, the namesake of one of our party. These bells are a true Minor five, and to alleviate the melancholy the fall was in the order 14325.

Finally Stoke Goldington, Buckinghamshire, completed the day's nine towers, and after a day of mostly Doubles methods ringing on this musical six was quite refreshing. There was a supper waiting for us at Kempston and the tongues were wagging until a late hour.

PEAL ATTEMPT

Our very best wishes go to Douglas and Pat Johnston (née Gilbert), who were married on December 28th at Black Torrington, Devon. A peal of Cambridge Major was arranged for the same day at Bromham, but was lost after an hour and a half of good ringing. However, an excellent quarter peal of Little Bob Major was rung in honour of our ties of friendship with Pat, who was with us on our very first tour, in August, 1950, and on whose farm in Devon we stayed a week during the 1952 tour.

THE ANNUAL REUNION

Eleven members were present at the reunion held at Bromham on January 2nd. Ringing at the church during the afternoon gathered in members from all over the county and beyond. A few familiar faces were absent, notably that of our leader, Michael Stephens, languishing at home with a cold.

The party at Miss Swan Osborn's home launched us into the all-important planning of outings and the summer tour. A ringing weekend in the vicinity of Ely was decided upon for April 24th-25th. But as the voting for the third week in August was divided equally between Surrey and Somerset, the subject of the summer tour was shelved. Looking still further into the future, the rival attractions of canoeing and barge-cruising as alternatives to cycling were discussed and inquiries are to be made into the possibilities of the latter form of transport. Who knows but that in a few years' time the Bedfordshire Young Ringers may have taken to water like the proverbial duck?

This having concluded the business, a series of games enlivened the evening. During a period of recuperation following one of these, a toast was drunk in honour of the friends we have made in the course of our travels, to whom were added in 1953 many in Hampshire, the Isle of Wight and Huntingdonshire. More games followed, and finally ghost stories brought the evening to a close.

Originally the August tour was the only occasion of our all meeting together, and although our main activities are periodic outings and the annual tour, this social occasion just after Christmas is becoming one of the most enjoyable. R. W. S.

OBITUARY

MR. JOHN BRASSINGTON

The Chester Diocesan Guild has lost a ringer of 50 years' standing by the death of Mr. John Brassington, of Fir Tree Cottage, Barthomley, aged 73 years. For many years a postman, 'Jack' was a lovely, quiet, unassuming character. He rang 88 peals for the Chester Diocesan Guild.

At the funeral service on January 12th at Barthomley Church the Rev. J. Bennett officiated. The six bearers were all ringing colleagues. They were Messrs. E. Allman, G. Astbury, F. Windsor, J. Timmis, H. Astbury and T. Skerratt.

MR. A. E. GASSON

It is with sincere regret that we record the death on January 12th of Mr. Albert E. Gasson at the age of 84 years.

Mr. Gasson was vice-captain of St. Mary's, Balcombe, Sussex, from 1908 to 1911, and captain from 1911 to 1938, and was also verger and sexton, carrying out these duties right up to the week previous to his death.

He had several six- and eight-bell peals to his credit and during his time as captain he taught many members to ring. He will be greatly missed by the local ringers and his many ringing friends.

A memorial service was held at St. Mary's on Sunday, January 17th, when the bells were rung half-muffled, and on Saturday, January 16th, a half-muffled memorial peal of Grandsire Triples was lost after two hours' ringing. Another attempt for a peal to his memory will be made. J. H. G. G.

THE RINGING WORLD

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

No. 2236 Vol. XLX. FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 1954 Registered at the G.P.O. for transmission as a newspaper 4d.

BELFRY CUSTOMS

WITH the contemporary desire for speed has also come a general slackening of moral standards and a departure from the way of life which our forefathers enjoyed. As a result the familiar 'couldn't-care-less' attitude has crept in and spread into most walks of life, even affecting the art of campanology. Yes, for all over the country belfry customs are dying out and are sadly neglected.

By way of an example, the customs observed, or now lapsed, by the ringers of Knowle, Warwickshire, can be adduced to represent hundreds of similar cases. It is hoped to create new interest in old customs by this article and also determine the cause of the disappearance of so many of them.

From November 5th (when the full octave is rung) until Christmas Eve the inhabitants of Knowle are reminded by the curfew of the restrictions imposed upon their remote ancestors by William the Conqueror, in whose day the curfew meant that no person must roam the streets between the hours of dusk and dawn. The first record of the curfew in Knowle is in 1672, but there is little doubt that it was rung long anterior to that date.

It seems, on consulting the Chapel Wardens' Accounts, that the bells were always rung in former days for such events as Christmas Day, Coronation Day and anniversary, Sovereign's birthday and on May 29th, Restoration Day. Except at Christmas and Coronations these customs have become obsolete, but another has been observed now for a number of years—the ringing out of the Old Year and the ringing in of the New Year. A peculiar use not mentioned in records but observed for a period extending beyond the limit of living memory is the chiming of the seventh bell for Catechism each Tuesday for six weeks prior to a Confirmation.

There is a wealth of interest behind the hundreds of old customs handed down to us if only one would spare the time to make inquiries. Many uses remaining to-day have origins so obscured by the mists of time as to be unknown —and therefore well worth investigation. On the other hand, customs only recently started will, in future centuries, be adhered to by our successors who will be equally inquisitive of our purpose in commencing them.

For instance, a custom at Knowle since 1931 has been to chime the Soldiers' Bell (the 2nd, given in memory of those who fell in the Great War) instead of the tenor for five minutes prior to service on Remembrance Sunday morning. Time will erase memories of this custom and this custom will be regarded as very strange, no doubt, in three centuries' time. A thought worth consideration.

Various reasons could be cited to account for the decline of belfry customs, but they can be broadly classified under two generic headings: (a) lack of interest on the part of ringers themselves; (b) the general public.

Ringers, on the whole, are normal folk—no bats in the belfry!—who are equally susceptible as their fellows to the common failures of the human race, so that a number of them remains apathetic towards observing customs. The common plea, 'I haven't time,' occurs again, and belfry custom slowly dies. Not that ringers should shoulder all the blame.

Often one finds a busy little town where only fifty years ago a sleepy hamlet existed. More people appreciate good ringing than ever before, but there is a minority who dislike it intensely and show it in characteristic fashion. It would be foolish to neglect their views altogether, for to unwilling ears bells rung continuously can be very monotonous. Therefore, nights on which customs are annually observed should never be utilised for the purpose of introducing learners to ring, or by attempting a fresh method. Good ringing should be the aim and not dubious methods.

Custom nights where the full number of bells is required should be well known beforehand and ringers reminded a week or two before the event. It could, if the area is well populated, take the place of practice night — with no practice, though. Naturally, where circumstances allow, it should be in addition to practice, for no keen ringer will miss the opportunity of ringing twice in one week.

Perhaps some will be spurred to consult past records of their church to trace and record old customs observed and now forgotten. Three questions can be asked in this study: (1) Who started the custom? (2) When? (3) Why? To those who take this trouble succeeding generations will be indebted.

England would be the poorer if the Guards wore only khaki, the Beefeaters wore mufti, the Trooping of the Colour forbidden and Coronations reduced to mere formalities of swearings-in. None of them is really necessary —nor are belfry customs, but there is much to be gained by their retention. The example of Coronation Year, with all the traditional pomp and pageantry it witnessed, would be fitting to add yet another chapter by the revival of as many as possible of age-old customs. Our belfries would lose their greatest attraction if customs are allowed to lapse, so to all those with a love of the traditional, get thinking, and reintroduce those customs to your belfry.

A WENSLEYDALE AUTHORITY

Mr. Henry Parrish Completes 51 Years' Service

Yorkshire ringers will congratulate Mr. Henry Parrish, of Kirk Lea, Middleham, on completing 51 years as a bellringer and chorister at Middleham Parish Church. He is an authority on Wensleydale, on which he has given many lantern lectures. The occasion was marked by a presentation from his fellow ringers, the gift being handed over by his sister. Miss J. Parrish, who has been a ringer for 42 years.

For many years Mr. Parrish has been conductor of St. Alkelda's Guild of Change Ringers and is the sole survivor of the six members who years ago had badges made from the metal of the discarded second bell of Middleham Parish Church.

Mr. Parrish has preserved many cards recording notable performances by St. Alkelda's Guild of Change Ringers, including one dated Thursday, November 29th, 1906, described as 'a peal of 5,040 changes of Minor, consisting of Oxford Treble Bob, Kent Treble Bob and Plain Bob in three hours and eight minutes.' A footnote states: 'First peal ever rung on Middleham bells, also first peal by any of the ringers.'

On that occasion the tenor bell, weighing 9¼ cwt., was rung by the conductor, Dr. Henry Pauli, and the team comprised Messrs. John Sarginson, George Handley, Henry Parrish, Anthony Peacock and Henry Jones.

The earliest record is an extent of Bob Minor on Sunday, October 23rd, 1904, this being the first of Minor by the Guild under the instruction of Mr. Robert Burrows, of Richmond, and the first by Middleham ringers for about 20 years. Mr. Burrows rang the tenor bell and the team was Messrs. William Sykes, George Handley, Henry Parrish, Henry Jones and Dr. H. Pauli.

LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION

Presentation to Mr. Peter Crook

At the annual meeting of the Bolton Branch, held on January 23rd at Bolton Parish Church, a presentation was made to Mr. Peter Crook, Bolton's popular Branch secretary, who was resigning that position after 35 years' service.

The members of the Branch had previously decided that some form of recognition be made to Mr. Crook in view of his long service. The presentation was made by the Vicar and Rural Dean of Bolton (the Rev. R. G. Norburn) who expressed the good wishes of the whole Branch in most suitable words. Mr. Crook was then presented with a peal records book bound in leather with the inscription in gold: 'Ringing Records. Peter Crook.'

Peter will indeed have a very busy time filling in the peal records because by the time this goes to press he is expecting to have rung his 400th peal. Mr. Crook thanked the Rural Dean and the Branch members for their beautiful gift, and gave one or two reminiscences of his past experiences in Bolton and district in the good old days.

Mrs. Crook also came in for a present and this took the form of a brooch, for which she expressed her great thanks.

The meeting was a great success. Both Mr. and Mrs. Crook were in complete ignorance of any presentation and it was quite unexpected that Mrs. Crook would have been at the meeting at all.

The company sat down to a sumptuous tea provided by the Parish Church ringers and afterwards returned to the very fine tall tower where the excellent ring of eight (tenor 15¼ cwt.) was rung until 8.30 p.m. Thus ended a very happy and, indeed, memorable day.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSN.

S. and W. District Annual Meeting at Heston

Five changes were made in the officers of the South and West District elected for 1954 during the meeting held at Heston on January 16th. The officers are:—Master, Mr. F. T. Blagrove; Deputy Master, Mr. R. F. B. Speed; secretary, Mr. F. W. Goodfellow; assistant secretary, Mr. D. Judd; auditor, Mr. J. B. Sansom; and three members of the Central Committee—Messrs. F. A. Finch, H. J. Eldred and T. Collins.

The meetings rota was left in the hands of the secretary, who said that, as far as possible, meetings would be held on the third Saturday in each month. It was decided to invite the Cumberland Youths to Twickenham on July 17th, and the Oxford Guild to Hillingdon on October 16th.

The secretary's report (adopted by acclamation but no extra pay!) recorded 16 tower-bell peals rung in the District, of which eight were rung at Stanwell. Leading conductor was Mr. F. T. Blagrove with seven peals conducted. Quarter peals rung were 54, of which 28 (all conducted by Mr. F. T. Blagrove) were rung at Stanwell. New members elected during the year were 26. The average attendance at the seven District meetings was 34, and at the three joint meetings 70.

BELFRY GOSSIP

It was Mr. Arthur Fidler, son of the well-known Mr. J. P. Fidler, who chimed the bells of St. Anne's, Alderney, on January 24th, which was mentioned in this column last week. J. P. informs his inquirers that he has a cast iron alibi and must decline the congratulations that have been showered upon him. 'We have not yet reached the stage where we can ring bells by remote control,' he adds.

The bells of St. Anne's, Alderney, have been recast by Messrs. John Taylor and Co. with a tenor of 13¼ cwt. and were rehung by Mr. Arthur Fidler. These bells were removed by the Germans during the occupation of the island, and after recovery were hung in the churchyard on wooden supports.

With the peal at Westbury, Wilts, Brian Bladon, from Swindon, has rung peals of Stedman from Doubles to Cinques.

Congratulations to Mr. A. C. Thompson, a member of Derby Cathedral band, who rang his 100th peal on January 23rd.

For the enthronement of the new Bishop of Leicester, the Leicester Cathedral ringers produced something new—the first peal of Langley Surprise Maximus.

The Lord Bishop of St. Albans will dedicate the bells in Great Amwell Church, Herts, which were recently restored and augmented to a ring of five as a village memorial to the late King George VI. on Sunday, February 21st, at 11 a.m.

We apologise to Miss S. Davis for being credited with her first peal of Plain Bob Major at Bucklebury in our last issue. Her contribution to ringing covers a long period, and the Oxford Diocesan Guild have conferred upon her probably their highest honour by making her a vice-president.

On the day after his 89th birthday Mr. H. Meades, of Turners Hill, Sussex, rang his first quarter peal on eight bells (the fifth to Grandsire Triples). This keen and active 'young man' attends regularly two practices a week (East Grinstead and Turner's Hill) and rings every Sunday at the latter tower. Mr. Meades only commenced ringing again some two years ago after a lapse of 50 years. About 18 months ago he rang a quarter peal of Doubles, this being his first long touch for about 51 years.

Will the conductor of the peal of Doubles at Cuxton, Kent, on January 25th, please forward his name to the Editor?

Bedfordshire Young Ringers rang a quarter peal at Kempston, and not at Bromham as was recorded in our last issue. Their party was at the home of Miss Susan Osborn (see page 78).

The sympathy of his many ringing friends is extended to Mr. Frank E. Haynes, of Smethwick, in the sudden death of his wife on January 27th.

Mr. R. F. B. Speed and Mr. Alick Cutler rang their 100th peal together on January 30th at Twickenham. Ninety-nine of these peals were of Surprise.

Mr. A. E. Boylett, who for 26 years has been a ringer at Horsell Parish Church, Surrey, has retired. Fellow ringers rang a complimentary quarter last Sunday.

Mr. Ernest W. Beadsmore, the veteran tower-keeper at Ashby-de-la-Zouch, was prevented by illness at the last moment to stand in the first peal of London Surprise on his bells. Mrs. S. H. Jones, of Repton, came along at an hour's notice and filled the gap, and the band thank her accordingly.

DEATH OF MR. G. M. KILBY

Three Times Master of the Middlesex County Association

As was briefly announced in our issue of January 29th, the Ringing Exercise has lost a valuable member in the person of George Martin Kilby, of Ruislip, who died on January 23rd, aged 71 years. The funeral and interment took place at St. Martin's, Ruislip, on January 28th. In spite of the bitter weather many of his old friends attended. The family mourners included the widow and only son, and Mr. E. H. Kilby (nephew). Amongst wreaths was a token of affection and respect in which members of the Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild had for George Kilby.

After the church service the interment took place nearby. A course of Grandsire Triples was rung over the open grave by A. W. Coles (vice-president, North and East District) 1-2, W. H. Coles (vice-president South and West District) 3-4, F. W. Goodfellow (hon. secretary, South and West District and Central Council member) 5-6, W. N. Genna (assistant general secretary) 7-8. Also present at the graveside were Mrs. E. C. S. Turner (representing the general secretary), Messrs. T. J. Lock (North and East District secretary and Central Council member), F. Corke, G. H. Hart, T. E. and Mrs. Lankester and the Ruislip ringers. The bells of St. Martin's were rung half-muffled both before and after the funeral, and in the evening a quarter peal of Grandsire Triples (1,260 changes) was rung by Mrs. G. Savory 1, W. Bunce jun. 2, P. Thrift 3, W. Picthall 4, A. Hunter 5, F. W. Goodfellow 6, T. Collins (conductor) 7, F. Corke 8.

George Kilby was a very keen and clever ringer, joining the Willesden band in the early part of the century, and later, in 1931, becoming a member of the Ruislip band. He started his ringing career as a six-bell ringer at Willesden, where the bells were not augmented to eight until 1915, and rang a good deal at Edgware, too (where, after a long silence, the bells are again being rung). His first peal was of Minor in five methods at Willesden on September 3rd, 1910. Several of his earliest peals were rung for the London County Association, but it was with the Middlesex County Association that George Kilby rang most of his peals. Under the leadership of William Pye, he was one of the band that pioneered the ringing of Spliced Surprise Major, and they rang peals in the full sequence of three to twelve methods inclusive.

209 SURPRISE PEALS

George Kilby also rang in the first peals of several Surprise methods, of which he rang 209. One hundred and eighty of his 362 tower-bell peals were rung at Willesden, where he evidently had his favourite bell, for he rang 96 peals on the third! His last peal was of London Surprise Major at Old Windsor, conducted by C. W. Roberts, on December 30th, 1950.

He was a very regular Sunday service ringer and took a keen interest in church affairs, being a sidesman and church councillor. He was a most loyal and enthusiastic member of the Middlesex Association and he was Master three times, and Deputy Master three times, of the South and West District, besides serving on the Central Committee for several years, resigning from the latter last year.

George was a noted wag, always ready with the humorous remark and the funny story—and what a store he had of the latter. He could be fiercely critical, and how he liked to enunciate those long adjectives! But his fierceness usually subsided in a mischievous grin and his normal good nature reasserted itself. His health had troubled him of late years and he had been unable to ring recently. He remained avid for news of ringing till the last, and the day before he died was able to appreciate a message of good cheer from the District annual meeting. George kept a record of the ringers (406) with whom he had rung peals, and marked with a cross the names of those (as he put it) 'who have passed for ever from the dream of bells.' They numbered 113. Now he has joined them. God rest his soul.

IN BERLIN FOR FOUR-POWER CONFERENCE

Dear Sir,—On Sunday, January 24th, the bells of Berlin, this great but now devastated city, rang a peal to commemorate the opening of the Four-Power Foreign Ministers' Conference (so reported the German Press).

Among the bells which contributed to this great tumult of sound was the Freedom Bell, which is suspended high in the belfry of Schomberg Town Hall, which since the East-West split of Berlin has become the seat of the Senate of Berlin and the political centre of the free city in front of the Iron Curtain.

The Freedom Bell, replica of the famous American Liberty Bell, whose resounding tones daily reverberate from aloft, exhorts the inhabitants of the city not to weaken, not to flag in their resistance against tyranny.

As one whose work recently has daily taken me behind the Iron Curtain, the beautiful tone of this bell echoing across the city has provided welcome relief from an uneasy atmosphere and heralded the approach of another night in the freedom of the Western Sector, where in the Kurfürstendamm, the theme of so many songs, the subject of lovers' dreams, and yearned for by all exiled Berliners, has once more regained its former splendour, and where from many delightful restaurants we British Pressman can observe this great German boulevard which at night is transformed into a thrilling fairyland, glittering with myriads of coloured lights. To all of us the sound of this great bell is a reminder of something that is truly English and a greater realisation of the part bells play in the lives of us all.

—Yours faithfully, DONALD G. CLIFT.

NEW ZEALAND RINGERS HONOUR THE QUEEN

Christchurch Cathedral Society of Bellringers were very proud to have the honour of ringing for the visit to Christchurch of Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II. and H.R.H. the Duke of Edinburgh.

On their arrival Grandsire Triples were rung as they passed the Cathedral, set changes on the ten bells having been rung previously.

The next day, January 19th, a touch of 480 Grandsire Triples was rung on the heavy eight prior to Evensong, which was attended by the royal visitors.

To mark this great occasion in the records of the Exercise a peal of Plain Bob Minor was rung on Saturday, January 23rd, conducted by Mr. Fred Savage. Fittingly, the band consisted of three New Zealand and three English ringers. Two of the band travelled over 100 miles to take part.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD

Salisbury Branch

The annual meeting of the Salisbury Branch was held at St. Martin's, Salisbury, on January 23rd, 49 members and visitors being present. The Rector of St. Martin's (the Rev. A. D. F. Mackenzie) conducted the Guild service and preached. The Rev. A. Phillips (Vicar of Damerham) assisted in the service, and the Branch chairman was at the organ. Some of the ringers' wives and families provided and prepared tea in the Parish Hall, which was followed by the business meeting.

The secretary and treasurer presented the balance sheet showing a balance carried forward of £28 15s 4d., and the report of the Branch activities during the year, which included three peals (two for the Coronation), the new Coronation treble at Durrington and the welcome of the new band there. The chairman read the Branch report for 1886, which had recently come into his hands, and made an interesting contrast.

Most of the Branch officers were re-elected:—Chairman, Mr. H. A. Roles; vice-chairman, Mr. W. Chalk; secretary, Miss Y. L. Eloie; Ringing Masters, Messrs. A. Haines, J. Mussell, H. Abrahams, J. Maidment and Miss J. Gray. Members of committee, Mr. J Lewis and Mr. C. Haines. Six ringing members were elected: Messrs. N. Bush and J. Baverstock (Damerham), F. R. Haines (Wilton), E. Reeves (Martin), Miss A. Bacon (Sarum St. Martin) and Miss J. Hillier (Sarum St. Thomas). The Rev. and Mrs. A. Phillips were welcomed as honorary members, having come from the Dorchester Branch.

A resolution was passed that the meeting urge that the motion deprecating the introduction into churches of recordings of bells be reconsidered by the Church Assembly.

A donation of two guineas was voted towards a memorial plaque to the Rev. H. W. Moule in Damerham Church.

Ringing was enjoyed during the afternoon and evening at St. Paul's, St. Martin's and St. Thomas'.

HEAVITREE HONOURS MR. CHARLES G. GLASS

An 80th Birthday Peal

In the peal columns will be found an 80th birthday compliment to Mr. Charles G. Glass. This effort was especially requested by the Vicar of Heavitree (the Rev. Arthur Johnson), by whom, as well as by all his ringing friends, he is held in very high esteem. A gentleman of the 'old school,' the best wishes of all are most heartily extended to him for his continued good health and well being—on to the hundred!

Mr. Glass learned to ring at Clyst St. George as long ago as 1884 and was a boyhood admirer of the Rev. H. T. Ellacombe, who was then in his closing years. He was awarded the proficiency certificate in 1887.

He moved to Heavitree in 1907, where he has been an active member ever since. Recently, on Friday, January 22nd, his birthday, he could have been seen climbing the many steps to the bell chamber to oil and prepare the bearings and fittings for his birthday peal.

Mr. Glass, for the past 20 years, has been steeplekeeper and Ringing Master at Heavitree and much of the credit is due to him and his care and maintenance for the fine condition the bells are in to-day. The bells were new in 1897 and have been rung regularly ever since without the bellhanger's attention.

In the words of his Vicar, a staunch supporter of all the activities of Heavitree Church, regular communicant, church councillor, feoffee administrator, a man we delight to honour. Other honours have not passed him by. He was a member of the Exeter Cathedral band (1915-1951), 13 years of which he was Ringing Master. He is also a past chairman of the Exeter Branch, Devon Guild. Mr. Glass, now an octogenarian, still renders his devoted service to church, ringers and bells—long may he continue to do so. F. W.

PRESENTATION TO NAILSEA'S RETIRING CAPTAIN

The Nailsea ringers, at their practice on January 18th, were joined by the Rector (the Rev. W. Russell Davey), who presented an inscribed pewter tankard to Mr. E. J. Baker in recognition of his many years' service and his resignation of the captaincy after 21 years.

The Rector thanked the ringers in general, and Mr. Baker in particular, for their valuable service to the Church and then presented the gift.

Mr. Baker suitably replied, and recalled that when he started ringing, 60 years ago, he was one of three who started on that evening. One never came again and the other came only once more whilst he (the speaker) had been ringing ever since and would still be pleased to come along when he was needed.

The tankard is inscribed:—'E. J. Baker. 60 years Bellringer. Nailsea Parish Church. (21 years Captain.) From his fellow ringers. January, 1954.' M. J. H.

'CIRCLING THE TOWER'

With the peal at Rolvenden, Kent, on January 20th, Mr. T. E. Sone, of Paddock Wood, Kent, 'completed the circle' in his 14th tower. His record is unusual.

'Completed the circle' twice and conducted round the circle once at Marden, Staplehurst, Linton and Brenchley.

'Completed the circle' once and conducted round the circle once at Headcorn, Aylesford, West Malling and Hadlow.

A STOCKPORT WEDDING

Mr. Arthur Hibbert — Miss Frances Laflin

A wedding of much interest to Cheshire ringers was solemnised at St. George's Church, Stockport, on January 23rd, between Mr. Arthur Hibbert, of Chapel-en-le-Frith, and Miss Frances Muriel Laflin, of Stockport. The bride has been for nine years a regular Sunday service ringer at St. George's and for the last three or four years hon. secretary of the North-Western District of the Ladies' Guild.

The ceremony was conducted by the Rev. Wilfrid Garlick, Vicar of St. George's, assisted by Canon W. Green, Vicar of St. Thomas à Becket, Chapel-en-le-Frith. The magnificent church was lit up with its new lighting system and there were 12 boy choristers to lead the singing.

The bride was attended by her younger sister, Mrs. Winifred B. Browett, who acted as matron of honour. Mr. Harold Hibbert was best man to his brother.

As the happy couple left the church and organ music behind, the bells above crashed out in rounds and firing successively until the bridal car had left the church avenue on its way to the reception. After this a touch of Stedman Triples was rung by ringers from other towers mixed with some of the home band.

The reception, which was held at a local cinema cafe, was attended by intimate friends and relations of bride and bridegroom and included enough ringers to give a course of Grandsire Triples on handbells whilst the cake was being cut. It was thought that, as the bride made the cake (a two-tiered piece of architecture), she must have known exactly where to put the knife in—it looked so easy. The usual toasts were given and replied to, speeches made and all too soon the time came for the newly-married couple to leave for their honeymoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Hibbert will reside at Chapel-en-le-Frith, where the former is teaching a young band to ring the six bells.

HERTS COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Northern District Gained 26 New Members in 1953

The annual meeting of the Northern District was held at Hitchin on January 23rd. Ringing commenced at 3 o'clock followed by a short service conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. G. O. Walsh). Canon J. Bailey (former Vicar of Norton and an honorary member of the Association) gave the address. One could not have wished for better encouragement than that given in this sermon reminding all present that although we liked to ring on higher numbers of bells, the five-bell towers must not be neglected, as one day they might have more, as was the case in his own parish of Norton.

Some 33 members sat down to tea at the Triangle Cafe. The business meeting was held in the ringing chamber with the Vicar in the chair. The meeting stood in silence in memory of Thomas Werrett, the only member to have passed on to higher service during the year.

The secretary reported that 26 new members had been elected during the year and that 22 peals had been rung in the District, six of which were for the Coronation. The balance sheet showed a balance of £29 10s.

Mr. D. P. Jones was elected as Ringing Master, Mr. E. G. Buck District secretary, and Messrs. B. Marks, D. P. Jones, E. Winters, J. Dear, F. Croft and H. Werrett committee.

Three new members were elected, viz:—Misses F. Welsh (Walkern) and M. Collins (Norton) and Master A. Tuttle (Hitchin) With the usual vote of thanks the meeting closed and further ringing continued until 9 o'clock.

Good Sunday Service Report From Northern District

There was an attendance of 83 members at the annual meeting of the Northern District, which was held at Bocking on January 16th. The service in the Deanery Church was conducted by Mr. R. Suckling, Miss H. G. Snowden (the District Master) read the lesson, and the Dean preached.

The business meeting was held in the Workman's Hall after a fine tea which was prepared by Miss Snowden and some lady friends of the ringers. Miss Snowden extended a hearty welcome to all the members and visitors, which included Mr. R. C. Heazel (the Association's Master), who presided over the meeting.

The District Master reported that with the exception of two churches all the bells in the District were rung for Sunday services and that 37 peals had been rung during 1953.

The secretary, in his report, stated that six meetings had been held with an average attendance of 46, and welcomed into the Association the towers at Belchamp St. Paul and Shalford.

Two nominations were received for the position of District Master, and Miss H. G. Snowden was re-elected. Mr. H. A. Pratt was re-elected hon. secretary and treasurer, and Messrs. J. Elliott and J. Warner as committee members.

Colne Engaine was chosen for the next meeting in March. Four new members were elected. Votes of thanks were passed to the Dean, the ladies who prepared the tea and all who had helped to make the meeting a great success. Some were present from Mistley, Ardleigh, Wanstead, Great Waltham, Thaxted, Bures, Clare, Bocking, Kelvedon, Braintree, Stebbing, Great Dunmow, Black Notley, Pebmarsh, Witham, Finchingfield, Sible Hedingham, Great Bardfield, Wickham St. Paul, Halstead, Feering, Earls Colne and Stisted.

Ringing on the Deanery Church bells was resumed after the meeting; the handbells were also made good use of.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

CENTRAL COUNCIL AFFILIATION FEES
Notice Given the Previous Year

Dear Sir,—In the report of the annual meeting of the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths, Mr. G. H. Cross is reported to have said that the Central Council 'had no right to spend a Society's money before the matter had been referred to the members.' Mr. F. E. Hawthorne added that 'the recommendation came as a bombshell.'

Both Mr. Cross and Mr. Hawthorne, as well as the Society's other two representatives, were present at the 1952 meeting at Lincoln when Mr. G. W. Fletcher announced that he had been asked by the Standing Committee to give notice of an increase in affiliation fees. This was reported on page 379 of 'The Ringing World' of June 13th, 1952, and the leading article in the same issue commented that 'The Council has now come to a review of its own budget . . . . The obvious course is to increase the affiliation fee, and in giving notice of this at Lincoln the Standing Committee will enable the Council to enter the new chapter of its career free of financial embarrassment.'

There was, therefore, ample opportunity for the Cumberlands, in common with all other affiliated Societies, to consult their members before the motion was voted on at Bournemouth.—Yours faithfully,

E. A. BARNETT,
Hon. Sec., Central Council.

NON-WORKING BELLS IN PEALS

Dear Sir,—In your leader of January 22nd the question was raised at to whether a treble or tenor ringer is entitled to claim a peal if he does not do the inside work. You say it is difficult, if not impossible, to assert with complete exactitude this interesting point.

The B.B.C. in 'What's My Line?' often introduce the word 'loosely.' Let all the ringers claim the honour of the peal, even the trebles and tenors, with the proviso 'loosely' for the last-named two.

I may say there used to be an expert tenor ringer here named Monk. He rang no bell but the tenor and kept a steady pace for three hours, disregarding any neglect of the treble in widening out in Doubl~ Triples or Caters. He was in great demand by conductors for pulling the peal through.

Give the trebles and tenors their due, with the proviso 'loosely' to pacify the precisionists.

J. M. TURNER.

Moulton, Northampton.

THE STISTED PEAL

Dear Sir,—Valuable space is taken week by week in 'The Ringing World' by footnotes appended to peals. I am in favour of footnotes which are of genuine interest, but the one attached to the Stisted peal of Cambridge Minor in the issue of January 22nd is not only unnecessary, but also in very bad taste.

The Essex Association do not, I feel sure, wish to enter into any controversy in 'The Ringing World' over peals that have been rung and published.

Before writing to the Press, correspondents should make certain that their facts are correct.

The Essex Association has not yet taken any action regarding this peal and the conductor has not withdrawn it through the columns of 'The Ringing World.' That your correspondent thinks the peal has been withdrawn perhaps indicates his own dissatisfaction with it.

I hope, sir, that instead of using footnotes, you will perhaps consider some articles on the etiquette expected amongst members of the ringing fraternity.—Yours sincerely,

HILDA G. SNOWDEN,
Northern District Master,
Essex Association

ACCEPT THE 'NEW' SCIENTIFIC RINGING

Dear Sir,—Having had some 15 years' electronics experience (R.A.F. and commercial), the correspondence on 'synthetic' bells is of more than usual interest to me.

Moses summoned the children of Israel to worship by blowing a silver trumpet; it was not until the Roman Empire became Christian that bells were introduced to announce the holding of divine worship.

I have witnessed a priest from the Church of St. Sargious, built over the cellar in which the Holy Family lived in Cairo, walking about the streets clashing cymbals to call the faithful, and in the same city heard recordings of English bellringing from the tall grey tower of All Soints' Cathedral.

During the last 12 months between 10.45 and 11 a.m. on Sundays I have heard recorded bells two miles away and these sound very well. At the same time I have heard the discordant jangling of individual bells.

I feel sure that we bellringers should take this 'new' (we were thankful enough for radar) scientific ringing. We will not kill it if the best arguments are those we have read to date. The fact that the Church Assembly vote was not proceeded with was surely because some people did not want to see that body of Church workers, known as ringers, suffer further. We certainly put up a poor show over St. Bride's.

How many ringers know that just 12 months ago a device was introduced into St. Paul's Cathedral to travel the instantaneous electron in the slow company of sound to enable the whole congregation to hear and understand and lose the rumbling echo of unintelligibility. No words such as sham or farce were then used.

I don't think the arguments against amplified recordings will cut any ice except with those who want to silence bell-ringing. We would do better to set up a Central Council Committee on the subject to report. (Unfortunately, the Central Council is only interested in peals, otherwise it would have called for a report on 'silent' towers and no ringers long ago.)—Yours faithfully,

E. L. HUMPHRISS.

Woolton, Liverpool.

WHERE 'CANNED' BELLS WERE A TONIC

Dear Sir,—With reference to 'canned' ringing, it may interest fellow-ringers to know that the Parish Church of St. Paul, Lisson Grove, until recently sounded forth bell-recordings from the roof top (as well as hymns and carols, etc., in season). This has now had to cease—a by-law here grants the fact that three people complaining against it can legally cause it to cease. The doleful single bell will have to be used to summon worshippers and to witness to the non-worshippers.

If I may add a personal point, it is that I shall miss this 'canned' ringing greatly. During training here for the Master's full-time service as Evangelists, we have very little free time to pursue ringing, and to the two sister-ringers and two brother-ringers here, the sound of even 'canned' through some of London's back streets—away from live ringing—is a real tonic. The other brother-ringer here, incidentally, was not impressed favourably with some 'canned' ringing he heard in Aylesbury—he considered the recording itself as either not the best available, or else worn.—Yours sincerely.

'THE INDEFINABLE'

Dear Sir,—While admitting that from time to time 'forms of inquiry and speculation have found problems that seem to admit of no solution,' I do feel that the cases cited by E. C. S. do not justifiably come under the heading 'The Indefinable.'

Let us first consider the problem of Achilles and the tortoise. The argument uses the statement that 'space is infinitely divisible'; now, by similar reasoning (what a wonderful phrase that is), it will follow that time is infinitely divisible. Using this, I feel it is possible to reach a more satisfactory conclusion than that of 'the tortoise must always be a fraction ahead of the runner.'

Secondly, the problem of the frog jumping to the centre of the pond. Mathematical reasoning (and if it is mathematical it will be strict) proves that if we have a frog which is travelling to the centre of a pond, which always jumps half the distance between itself and its goal, then the frog will take infinite time to achieve its object; but, and here is a point for consideration, the mathemetician does not suggest for a moment he can find a frog which will be physically capable af satisfying the above limitations; he does not even suggest that he could verify whether a frog has performed satisfactorily. There is no contradiction: because a theoretical solution to a problem is obtained, it does not follow that either the solution or the problem is capable of practical achievement.

Now to the question of ringing. We will consider 'whether a man ringing the treble to Cambridge should describe himself as having rung a peal of Cambridge.' What exactly do we mean? What is required for a peal of Cambridge to be rung? I suggest that when eight bells (considering Major) are rung in changes and the order of those changes is such that it corresponds to the order which is defined as the Cambridge method and the number of changes is sufficient to satisfy the requirements of a peal, then a peal of Cambridge Major has been rung. 'But that is obvious,' you reply. It may be obvious, but it drives home the fact that a peal is rung by a team of ringers. I have yet to hear of a peal of Major being rung by less than two ringers! No, let us state our claims clearly; a man cannot ring a peal of Cambridge, he rings with a team of ringers who ring a peal of the method.

The argument, as given, confuses the issue. Don't let us cloud the problem by considering also whether the ringer about whom we are talking achieved another task as well (suppose the treble conducts the peal). A team of ringers is required for a peal and neither commonsense X nor commonsense Y is aptly named. They consider one man can ring a peal.

Similar clarity of expression will remove the suggested differences of opinion in the other examples considered by E. C. S.

'We leave the rights and wrongs of peal claims to the judgment of common opinion' only when we do not analyse what we have stated and see that it is precisely what we wish to claim.—Yours faithfully,

PETER E. PARRY.

FIRST PEAL OF RUTLAND IN BEDFORDSHIRE

Dear Sir,—I have just been informed that a peal of Rutland Surprise Major was rung at Bromham, Beds, on November 24th, 1951.

Please accept my apologies for claiming a peal of this method rung at Maulden a fortnight ago as being the first in the county.—Yours sincerely,

C. E. JEFFRIES.

LETTERS—Continued

RINGING IN MELBOURNE

Dear Sir,—I stand corrected by Mr. Philip M. J. Gray, captain of St. Paul's Cathedral (Melbourne) ringers. I am very penitent and chastened. I should have known better than publish Major Stretton's letter.

What I really had more in my mind was the liking for real, live change ringing was just as strong in Australia as in the Motherland.

However, I have written to both 'Captain' of the St. Paul's ringers and Major Stretton, admitting my indiscretion, promised not to do it again and passed on the very kind invitation of the Melbourne ringers to Major Stretton to look in on them, which I am sure he will do.

Finally, no offence thought of, much less intended, I would like to be included, as one, in those Mr. Gray mentions—'all ringing friends.'

Happy ringing, St. Paul's Cathedral, Melbourne, ringers.—Yours sincerely,

W. FRANK STENSON.

BURTON'S PIONEERS OF SURPRISE RINGING

Dear Sir,—With reference to your report of the annual meeting of the Midland Counties Guild in the January 29th issue of 'The Ringing World,' may I please make a correction?

It was William Wakley, father of W. C. Wakley, who must be associated with the 'Pioneers of Surprise Ringing.'

William Wakley was leader of the band (1874—until his death—1906) that made history in the 1880's.

W. C. Wakley did not join the band until 1896.—Yours truly,

W. C. WAKLEY.

SYNTHETIC BELLS

Dear Sir,—Church bells are placed in the church tower to be used as a service to God.

I remember being in a Roman Catholic church when a priest was showing a lady round. On coming to a statue decorated with flowers she asked the priest if they were artificial. The priest's answer was, 'No, Madam, nothing is good enough in the service of God but the real thing.'

If our bishops and clergy took the same view there would be no argument about synthetic bells.—Yours,

S. FLINT.

Liverpool.

THE RINGER'S REWARD

From Aching Muscles and Blistered Hands to . . . .

A delightful article entitled 'Christmas Changes' appeared in 'Paks,' the house magazine of Eburite Corrugated Containers, Ltd., London, N.W.10, written by Miss Cynthia Clarke, a Middlesex ringer.

She tells of the initiation of the young ringer and adds expressively, 'In short, for the first few weeks, the ringer's lot is not a happy one, and he sees no reward for his labours other than aching muscles and blistered hands.

'Why, then, does he not give up the struggle? Perhaps because he knows that bells have something to say to him. Just as another person will find a complete expression of his individuality in music, painting or literature, so the true ringer will find complete satisfaction in the sonorous notes of bells. That is why he perseveres in his efforts until he has acquired the art of striking, and goes on from there to master the intricacies of change-ringing. He learns to understand the meaning of such expressions as "holding up," "hunting out to the back," "dodging" and "running in to lead.' He has become a regular member of the band.

'Now he begins to reap the reward of his early struggles. In addition to regular service ringing on Sundays, he will be able to participate in the changes rung in celebration of such national events as the recent Coronation. He will assist in the half-muffled ringing reserved for days of national mourning, and so hear—perhaps for the first time—the splendour and solemnity of bells used as a lament. Midnight on New Year's Eve will see him "ringing in" the New Year, and when, as now, we come to the year's ending, he will again be found in the belfry late on Christmas Eve night to ring for the celebration of a midnight service.

'Why does he do it? A hard question to answer, indeed. But as the last notes of his own salute to Christmas die away, the ringer puts on his coat and comes down the worn stone steps, out into the cold darkness which is the dawn of another Christmas Day, and knows that he has his reward. As he walks slowly towards home, he hears again in his mind the sound of the bells running round, than which there is no sweeter music in his ears.'

THE LADIES' GUILD

First Annual of North-Eastern District

The first annual meeting of the North-Eastern District of the Ladies' Guild was held at St. Mary's, Gateshead, on January 9th. Ringing commenced at 3 p.m. The Guild service, conducted by the Rector (Canon Stephenson), was held at 4.30 p.m. and was followed by an excellent tea prepared by the ladies of St. Mary's, and enjoyed by 38 members and friends.

At the business meeting which followed tea Mrs. H. McGuiness was re-elected vice-president, and Mrs. N. I. Lea was re-elected hon. secretary. Mrs. M. Ranken resigned from both the District and General Committees and in her place Mrs. M. Lawson and Miss J. B. Softley were elected to the respective committees. Other members were re-elected to these committees. One hon. life member became a ringing member and eleven new ringing members were elected.

Thanks were expressed to the Rector and churchwardens for the use of the bells, and to the ladies for providing such an excellent tea.

In her report, the vice-president said that although the District had the very short life of one year, the ladies could be well satisfied with the results of the year's working.

It is hoped that the next meeting of the North-Eastern District will be held at Morpeth on May 1st, during the term of office of the Lady Mayor.

ON CONDUCTING

By WILFRID G. WILSON

V. WHAT HAPPENS AT THE BOBS

In an earlier chapter we said that as well as knowing the order of the bells, the conductor who used the Coursing Order technique would also know which bells were concerned in the bob and what work they did there. Let us examine our Coursing Orders again.

From the plain course a bob W brings up the course end 52436. But that won't tell the normal ringer which bells ran out, ran in, or made fourths place six leads earlier when the bob was called.

But that bob W changes the Coursing Order from 53246 to 32546 (ABC into BCA). If you write the figures out you will see that the three bells we have changed are the three which were concerned in the bob and that 3 ran out, 2 ran in and 5 made fourths place (i.e., B ran out, C ran in and A made fourths).

A bob M from the plain course brings up the course end 43652. But again this won't tell the ordinary ringer which bells were concerned in the bob a lead earlier.

But that bob M changes the Coursing Order from 53246 to 53462 (ABC into BCA).

If you write the figures out you will see that the three bells we have changed are the three which were concerned in the bob and that 4 ran out, 6 ran in and 2 made fourths place (i.e., B ran out, C ran in and A made fourths).

Similarly a bob H from the plain course changes the Coursing Order from 53246 to 52436 (ABC into BCA). You will again see that the three bells we have changed were the three which were concerned in the bob and that 2 ran out, 4 ran in and 3 made fourths place (i.e., B ran out, C ran in and A made fourths),

At the bob Before the tenors run out and in and we only need to know that our last bell in Coursing Order makes the bob and becomes first in Coursing Order.

You may find it helpful to remember that of the three bells concerned in the bob, it is the one that jumps over the other two which actually makes the bob. It is often the ringer of this bell who goes wrong and to be able to establish his position quickly is very useful.

BEVERLEY & DISTRICT RINGING SOCIETY

Civic Support for Second Annual Dinner

The Society held its second annual dinner on Saturday, January 23rd, in the Market Cross Hotel, Beverley. A total of 50 guests, friends and ringers responded to the good humour of the photographer, who set the event off on a happy tone.

After a good dinner the toast 'The Queen' was proposed by the chairman, Mr. A. E. Sellers, and the diners sat back to listen to the words of wisdom from the speakers.

Mr. C. W. Tye, of Hull, took the listeners back into the past by bringing the historical figures of Cardinal Wolsey, Bishop Alcock, of Ely, and the Beverley-born Bishop Fisher, of Rochester, into his toast of 'Church and State.'

The Society's chaplain, the Rev. G. Storer, responded to Mr. Tye, quoting modern statesmen who were good churchmen and had made their mark as such.

Mr. D. Fewster, of Patrington, welcomed the 'Visitors' and members of the 'Kindred Ringing Societies.' Changes had taken place during his ringing career; he remembered when visitors were tolerated more than welcomed, and the change had been brought about solely through the work of ringing societies.

The Mayor of Beverley, Councillor P. D. Dunn, replied for the visitors. Having taken ringing for granted until New Year's Eve, when he entered a belfry for the first time, he realised that there was more in change ringing than the pulling of a rope. Climbing 60 stairs to a very austere ringing chamber was not a very easy way to make a hobby, especially when compared to the conveniences of a modern club room. The good purposes to which ringing had been used made him proud to give the Society full civic recognition.

THE SPADE WORK

Mr. C. Glenn travelled from Nottingham to speak for 'The Kindred Societies.' He named six other Societies in Yorkshire which, together with Beverley Society, did the spade work for the Yorkshire Association through their monthly meetings, a total of 84. The Society had also re-awakened interest in bells and ringing in places where no ringing had been heard for years until the Society had visited the towers.

Canon T. H. Tardrew, of Beverley St. Mary, in proposing the toast 'The Beverley and District Ringing Society,' stated that the year had started well from St. Mary's belfry due to a joint effort of the two bands in the town. Amid laughter, the Canon explained how the two Vicars of Beverley had achieved perfect unity even down to the style of collar they wore. As ringers with their bells are the advance party to Sunday services and are heard by everyone, he asked that ringers should make it a point of discipline to start right on time with all the bells and give to visitors and friends alike the feeling that here was a church well worth attending.

Miss A. Davie, of Beverley, replied for the Society. Explaining that the Society was still quite young, she said some of its members were just the opposite. Three ringers present had served the church for 180 years between them and their efforts were an inspiration to the youthful ringers of to-day. The success of the Society depended on the co-operation of the clergy, and Miss Davie thanked them for giving it so generously.

The toast to 'The Chairman' was given by the Rev. R. C. Collwyn Hargreaves. As both gentlemen serve the Minster, Mr. Hargreaves had been able to trace the chairman's career from the old churchwardens' accounts, and he was pleased to congratulate him on reaching his 50th year as a ringer.

The entertainments between the speeches were changes on handbells and a record of changes on St. Mary's bells. The selection by the choir on the other side of the record also received loud applause.

ARCHDEACONRY OF STAFFORD SOCIETY

Winter Meeting Attracts 78 Members

For the winter meeting on January 23rd the members of the Society for the Archdeaconry of Stafford went to the county town of Stafford. The weather was bright but very cold.

The Society's president, Venerable W. A. Parker, Archdeacon of Stafford, is also Rector of the Parish Church of St. Mary, where ringing took place on the pleasing ring of ten bells.

The fully choral service in this fine old church was conducted by the Archdeacon, assisted by the sub-rector. In a short address the Ven. W. A. Parker said that he had arranged for his full choir to be in attendance so that both choristers and ringers would realise how together they played an important part in the services of the church.

An excellent tea was served in the Parish Room, after which Mr. F. Bennett, lay secretary, thanked the Archdeacon, the sub-rector, organist and choir, together with Messrs. R. J. Warrilow and Garbett and the numerous lady helpers for the work they had put in to make the meeting so successful. The attendance of 78 was an indication of the regard which the members of the Society have for their president, the Archdeacon.

In a brief reply, Ven. W. A. Parker said it gave him much pleasure to have the members of the Society holding a meeting at St. Mary's.

The next meeting of the Society will be at Wednesbury in March, the actual date to be announced later.

SURREY ASSOCIATION

Southern District at Horley

Meeting in January are arranged with justifiable trepidation as to the reaction of the elements and it was, therefore, a pleasant surprise to find a fine day for the annual District meeting at Horley on January 16th. This no doubt, helped to attract the 37 ringers who attended, among whom were included visitors from Croydon, Guildford and Turners Hill as well as 25 District ringers representing 12 towers.

Ringing started at about 3.15 and continued until the service at 4 which was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. J. H. Torrens), who gave a very thought-provoking address. After this the company repaired to the Cafe Collette and, all inner needs having been supplied, proceeded to the business meeting, at which the Vicar took the chair.

Nine new members were elected and two elections prior to peals were ratified.

The committee's report, which was presented by the secretary (Mr. C. J. Champion), showed that while all meetings held had been very much enjoyed and some progress had been made, there was still considerable room for improvement in all fields. The statement of accounts for 1953 showed that District funds had remained steady.

The following District officers were elected for 1954:—Ringing Master, Mr. A. P. Cannon; hon. secretary, Mr. C. J. Champion; hon. treasurer, Mr. A. Gear; committee, Miss B. J. Mayers, Messrs. G. Olliver and D. J. Parr; hon. auditor, Mr. M. A. Northover.

After nominations had been received for officers of the Surrey Association for 1954 and matters for the annual general meeting had been discussed, the meeting turned to the programme for 1954, which proved to be the most lively item on the agenda.

The annual District meeting for 1955 was fixed for Dorking, if available, otherwise Godstone, and an invitation from the Tonbridge District of the Kent County Association to a joint meeting at Edenbridge on May 1st was accepted. A motion was then placed before the meeting to cut the number of meetings held during the year from twelve to seven or eight. This provoked considerable discussion and when put to the vote was lost by 13 to 10. A further motion that no meetings be held in August or September was carried.

Votes of thanks were passed to the Vicar for the use of the bells, for conducting the service and for taking the chair, and to Mr. A. J. Bull for making the arrangements.

After a collection for the Belfry Repair Fund, which brought in £1 0s. 6d., many made their way back to the tower, where further ringing in a variety of methods up to Superlative Surprise Major was enjoyed until about 9 p.m.

OBITUARY

MR. WILLIAM J. G. BROWN

With the passing of Mr. William J. G. (Bill) Brown on January 20th at the age of 69 years, the Ipswich St. Mary-le-Tower Society loses one of its best-known members.

Coming to Ipswich in 1928 from Laxfield, where he had done some amount of ringing, he attached himself to the St. Mary-le-Tower Society and with them took part in many famous performances which helped to make ringing history. Amongst these were the first peals of New Cambridge, Yorkshire, Pudsey, Rochester and York Surprise Maximus ever rung; he rang the tenor to the Rochester.

Besides being a good and safe ringer, loving good striking, he was a reliable conductor. He was also a good handbell ringer and rang the tenor to peals of Kent and Oxford Treble Bob Maximus, the latter being the first in the method for over a hundred years.

He took part in some of the later of the annual tours arranged by the late William Pye, notably the one to Ireland, where he rang peals in several towers. In all he rang about 300 peals, of which 200 were for the Suffolk Guild. His list included 45 peals of Surprise Maximus in seven methods. His last one on tower bells was Stedman Caters at Grundisburgh on September 24th, 1949, since when his health had been gradually failing, and he was seen no more in the belfry. He was, however, always keen and enjoyed talking about ringing and also a touch on handbells, and on these he rang his last peal of all, one of Oxford Treble Bob Major, on December 1st, 1951, when he conducted his own composition.

The cremation service, taken by the Rev. B. F. Hinde, M.C., on January 25th, was attended by Messrs. Charles E. Fisher (vice-president), Charles J. Sedgley (Ringing Master), Cecil W. Pipe (general secretary) of the Suffolk Guild, and George E. Symonds (secretary, St. Mary-le-Tower Society). Also present were Mrs. C. E. Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Button, Messrs. William E. Tillett and Charles Woodcock. R.I.P.

MR. J. BEACH

By the death of Mr. Jim Beach at the age of 86 years, Horsmonden, Kent, has lost its oldest ringer.

He was a member of the Horsmonden band who, in 1882, left call changes to start change ringing. A sound ringer and a good striker, he took part in the first peal of Major on Tenterden bells and conducted the first peal ever rung on Lamberhurst bells. He rang his last peal in 1927. Mr. Beach had a long membership of the Kent County Association.

With the assistance of Mr. J. Hammond and Mr. Relfe, the bells of St. Margaret's, Horsmonden, were rung half-muffled in the evening of January 25th, the day of the funeral. Ringing included a course of Cambridge Surprise at the whole pull.

AN AUSTRALIAN'S VIEWS ON RINGING STYLE

From 'The Ringing Towers' (N.S.W. Association's Monthly)

Style in rope handling seems to be one of the most neglected phases of ringing. One can watch a team ring and see as many different ways of handling the rope (including one-handed ringing) and contortions of the body as there are ringers. Actually, this part of ringing should have been learnt from the beginning. Surely good style in rope handling makes for easier and even more competent ringing. Not only does it seem that very few ringers do ring in a fashion that is pleasant to watch, but that those who do not so ring could not care less about it.

What is good style? I understand it to be standing upright, with only the arms moving or at the most a slight bend from the waist. Frequently one sees excessive movement from the waist which seems to come from the fact that the sally is caught too low or the rope's end not held high enough up and so that the arms are not rising above the head sufficiently for them to pull the bell down, but the body must also help. Incidentally, not holding the rope's end high enough and catching the sally too low, with beginners often (usually) results in the bell coming down before it is expected or bouncing off the stay (even breaking the stay), resulting usually in the bell getting out of control.

This bending is ugly to watch and although I suppose the aim of ringing is to ring the method correctly and to produce the best effects possible to the hearers by correct leading and even striking, there is no excuse for ugliness in producing this effect.

One other small point. There seem to be two ways of holding the rope's end. Some wait until the bell has almost completed its turn at handstroke before bringing the right hand to the rope, others place the right hand above the left (you'll have to read this the other way if you are left-handed) immediately on releasing the sally. Whether it matters or not which way you do it as far as the effect is concerned, it is certain that the second way looks the best. If you doubt it, have a look for yourself.

Finally, it seems rather obvious that style of rope handling should be included when judging ringing for the awarding of shields in competitions. Until this is done, general improvement in this field can't be expected but will lie with those genuinely interested in the improvement of the art of ringing. I. L.

BARNSLEY & DISTRICT SOCIETY

The following towers were represented at the annual meeting of the Society held at Barnsley on January 9th:—Bolsterstone, Cawthorne, Crofton, Darfield, Felkirk, Horbury, Rotherham Parish, Sandal, Silkstone, Shelley, Thrybergh, Wath and the local company.

After tea in the Rectory Rooms, the business meeting was held. In the absence of the hon. president (Canon Morley), the chair was occupied by the president (Mr. N. F. Moxon).

The balance sheets of the Society's funds, the contests and the annual dinner were all adopted unanimously and regarded as satisfactory. The secretary's report for the year ending December, 1953, was also adopted. All the officers were re-elected and ten new members.

It was agreed to arrange the annual outing on July 3rd to Chester and district. The next meeting will be held at Crofton on February 13th.

The usual votes of thanks to all concerned brought the meeting to a close. Further ringing followed until about 8.30 p.m.

THE RINGING WORLD

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

No. 2237 Vol. XLX. FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 12, 1954 Registered at the G.P.O. for transmission as a newspaper 4d.

PROFIT AND LOSS — OR VICE VERSA

NO one likes losing a peal. Though it may be true that some peal attempts are better lost. In reading the weekly record in this journal of peals accomplished one is sometimes tempted to envy certain ringers and to assume that they rarely, if ever, fail to score! But brilliancy of conductorship and the ability to ring any method for hours without the suggestion of a trip do excite admiration.

However, that is not the lot of the majority of peal ringers; and how many whose list runs, say, to one or two hundred can only confess that as many more have been attempted and lost? It is this latter experience which makes the accomplished peal the more satisfying, whether in a simple or advanced method; especially the one in which mistakes have been well and truly corrected and first pealers have been among the band.

We venture to put forward some considerations which may provide a tinge of consolation when peals have come to grief—perhaps in the last stages after three hours or more of enjoyment and concentration. That is the sad side of the matter, filling one with chagrin and disappointment.

Of course, in some cases it may not always be the fault of the ringers. Broken ropes, bad going bells or sudden illness so often bring things to a premature conclusion. But apart from such circumstances the main contributory causes can and do lie with the ringers, among whom the conductor must carry the largest responsibility. A missed call is usually irretrievable; an inadequate knowledge of the composition he is calling, or of the position the bells should occupy at different points may make correction of mistakes just a gamble. Again members of the band may be wrongly placed. Some of the commonest causes are serious and over-frequent trips in the ringing; also bad striking and the breaking up of the beat; all of which make conditions uncomfortable for everybody. Another upsetting factor may be too many voices attempting to put things right, or, worst of all, a refusal to follow the conductor's direction.

In passing may we say here that it cannot be too clearly recognised that every member of the band should place himself in the hands of the conductor from the beginning, taking for granted that the latter has made himself fully cognisant of the job in prospect.

But while the sadness and disappointment weigh heavily they may be balanced somewhat by other reflections leading to a profitable outcome of the failure. It would not be good for us if success always crowned our efforts. This failure or that may make a useful demand upon our powers of self-discipline. It can, for example, be a salutary check to over-confidence, and test a ringer's ability to accept some humiliation. We can be the better for an honest recognition of our mistakes.

Again, a breakdown of the peal may provoke considerable discussion, but uncontrolled harsh words or any sort of recrimination cannot mend matters. That sort of thing has been known to result in a long-standing breach. Wherever the fault for the loss can be proved to lie—which is not always so easy to discover—it must be frankly acknowledged, leaving everyone in a friendly spirit ready to make a fresh attempt another day.

Especially should it be the policy of the more experienced ringer to cultivate in a younger member a philosophical attitude to losses and a determination not to be daunted. One can point to great peal ringers of forty or fifty years ago, like William Pye, Challis Winney and Bertram Prewett, who always had their meed of praise for the young ringer showing promise and perseverance and did not drop him because of one fatal mistake. Some, including the writer, owe much to the openings held out to them by such stars in the ringing firmament.

The conductor, too, may profit. Reflection afterwards can show him what he ought to have been on the look out for, say, in the coursing order; or the particular position in which the fatal trip occurred may impress itself so indelibly upon his memory that it will be a confident aid when next the same composition is attempted. And this leads to the suggestion that the conductor might find it worth while when studying the figures in a peal to imagine at any point a trip occurring and make quite sure of what he would then have to know about the correct position of the bells.

Some, undoubtedly, come into the category of born conductors. Their faculties are uncanny, both for mentally ringing other bells in addition to their own; also for that rapid mental transposition of course-ends as the peal proceeds, with the ability to keep everyone in view and to deal with a hesitation before anything serious materialises. But for those who are not so naturally gifted conducting may still be an ambition possible of achievement if they will tread the hard road to what may be good average ability. That will involve, among other labours, taking every opportunity for training the memory and developing powers of observation. Patience will need to be exercised over a long period and will have tis reward.

We venture to recommend that every failure should be, not only technically, not morally and spiritually scrutinised; something not to be written off as a waste of time and energy, but as helping towards the realisation of one's own limitations, providing an enlargement of experience and forming, let it be hoped, another spoke in the wheel of ultimate perfection. GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

Mr. R. Whittington Resigns From the Executive

The resignation was received with great regret at the annual meeting of the Guildford District at Guildford on January 30th of Mr. R. Whittington, of Cranleigh, from the Guild Executive, because of his inability to make the journey to Guildford. Mr. R. Whittington had represented the District on the Executives of the Winchester and Guildford Diocesan Guilds for an unbroken period of 43 years. His long service was recorded in the minutes with an expression of appreciation. Mr. T. Mark White was elected to fill the vacancy.

Officers elected were:—Ringing Master, Mr. W. J. Robinson; Assistant Ringing Master, Mr. R. Morant; hon. secretary and treasurer, Mr. R. Kenward; assistant hon. secretary, Mr. R. Morant; hon. auditor, Mr. J. Horsman; committee, Messrs. F. A. Munday, T. Mark White and Fincher.

New members elected were: Ann Trenchard (S. Nicolas', Guildford), J. Stevenson, G. Sexton, J. Clark and Maureen Goode (Haslemere). The existing Guild officers were renominated.

Meetings suggested for the coming year were Haslemere, Puttenham, Chiddingfold, Dunsfold, Shalford and Guildford.

Mr. A. C. Hazelden announced that the bells of S. Nicolas', Guildford, which had been silent for six months owing to repairs to the tower, would be re-opened for Wednesday practices and also for Sunday ringing.

Mr. T. W. White, who presided, thanked the Vicar of Shalford for the use of the bells and arranging for the service, and also the ladies who had prepared such an excellent tea. A social evening followed, which was not so well attended as desired owing to the inclement weather, but nevertheless was most enjoyable.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Canterbury District at Birchington

The quarterly meeting of the Canterbury District was held at Birchington on January 23rd. In very cold weather 65 members and friends attended, and the warm welcome they always receive at All Saints' made up for the cold journey. A welcome visitor, if only on a fleeting visit, was Dr. Hatcher.

Ringing during the afternoon was followed by the usual service which was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. N. M. Granville-Sharp). At the outset of the service he asked if the company included an electrician as the organ had developed a fault on the electric side. None was forthcoming and it was felt that the 'guerillas' had reached this part of the country. The piano was brought into action and the singing lost none of its heartiness.

From the church to the Church House, where a splendid tea had been arranged by friends of the local ringers, and to which the District were the guests of the Vicar and churchwardens, who were sincerely thanked for their kindness.

The usual business was proceeded with. Two new members were elected. Whitstable was chosen as the place of the next quarterly meeting, with a by-meeting at St. Lawrence previous. The collection was voted to be given to the funds of the Church House.

The meeting over, members wended their way either to All Saints' or across the fields to Quex Park or to remain in the Church House for handbells, and on being told that the room was required for another function, to find their way into Fred's place at the Queen's Head. Here the chairman was enticed into taking the tenors for tune ringing, he receiving a kick on the leg when he had to ring a certain bell. He appeared, however, to enjoy it all.

A fall of stone from the vaulting of the south transept of Hereford Cathedral has necessitated stopping all ringing until temporary security measures have been taken. For the Hereford District annual meeting next Saturday, St. Nicholas' (6) will be available during the afternoon and All Saints' (8) after the meeting.

BELFRY GOSSIP

In a letter to 'The Times' of February 1st, Mr. E. A. Barnett, hon. secretary of the Central Council, makes a correction to 'The Times' special correspondent's report that the only change ringing to be found in New Zealand is at Christchurch Cathedral.

Mr. Barnett writes: 'I have before me the December, 1953, issue of a circular published by the New South Wales Association of Change Ringers, in which appears a letter from the captain of the ringers at St. Peter's Cathedral, Hamilton (North Island), referring, inter alia, to the third anniversary of the commencement of change ringing at that tower. There are bells hung for ringing in at least two other New Zealand churches, at one of which, St. Matthew's, Auckland, change ringing was first started in that country some 40 years ago. I understand that the bells are not now used.'

We regret that three notices for the issue of February 5th were inadvertently wrongly filed. Will the senders please accept our apologies?

Mr. Ernest Morris has had his manuscript of 'English Towers' accepted by Robert Hale for publication later in the year.

Slow but steady progress is reported by Mr. L. J. Fox from St. Dunstan's, Stepney. The local band, having accomplished a quarter of Grandsire Doubles, have hopes of a quarter of Triples in the not too distant future.

The first peal of Holywood Delight Major has been rung at Holywood, Co. Down. The method is similar to Pontefract Delight Major, the difference being that places are in 5-6 instead of 3-4 when the treble is in 1-2.

A recording of Sketty bells. Swansea, together with their history, has been made by the B.B.C., and will be broadcast some time towards the end of the month. The exact date and time will be given in 'The Radio Times' later.

The Rev. J. G. Murphy, curate of Lurgan and a member of the Irish Association, played at full-back for the Ulster XV. v. the All-Blacks on January 2nd, and for Ireland on the following Saturday. Is he the first ringer to gain International honours at Rugby?

The Durham and Newcastle Association will miss Mr. Alan Ainsworth, who reported to the Army, at Aldershot, on February 4th. His competence as a ringer on all numbers of bells will be a great asset to any tower in the vicinity of his Army camp.

Miss Hilda G. Snowden, of 3, Belle Vue, Hedingham Road, Halstead, Essex, offers through 'The Ringing World' her congratulations to Miss Enid Lloyd Roberts on her performance of ringing the 35 cwt. Westbury tenor to a peal of Stedman Triples. She extends an invitation to Miss Roberts to ring in an all ladies peal attempt of Royal if she is interested.

Miss Barbara Harris, who for several years was secretary and treasurer of the All Saints', Kingston-on-Thames, Society of Bell Ringers, left England on February 4th to take up a post in the Foreign Office at Bonn. An attempt at a peal of Cambridge Royal as a farewell on January 16th unfortunately came to grief, as did an attempt at a quarter of Cambridge Major on January 24th.

Mr. Graeme W. Heyes, of Ballarat, has accepted an appointment for two years with M.I.M., at Mount Isa, Queensland, which is about 2,500 miles from his home and about 1,000 miles from the nearest ring of bells. As he will not be taking a holiday, he hopes to keep slightly in touch with ringing by means of both 'The Ringing World' and 'The Ringing Towers.' He sends regards to all English ringers.

YORK MINSTER SOCIETY'S CENTENARY CELEBRATIONS

The Bells One of the Greatest Joys of Sunday—The Dean

THE 100th anniversary celebrations of the York Minster Society commenced on Friday evening, January 29th, with a short broadcast talk on the Minster ringers in the North Region programme, 'The North Countryman,' given by the president, Mr. Harold Walker. The talk was preceded by the sound of the Minster bells as recorded on Coronation night. It is regretted adequate notice could not be given of the intended broadcast but the arrangements were made at the last minute.

On the following day the Society acted as hosts to the Yorkshire Association. A report of the meeting of the Association is given elsewhere.

In the evening a celebration dinner was held at the Windmill Hotel, the venue of so many Snowdon Dinners in past years. A company of 50 sat down to an excellent five-course dinner of almost pre-war standard.

The chair was taken by the president, who was accompanied by Mrs. Walker, and supported by the secretary, Mr. S. H. Steel, and Mrs. Steel, and the chaplain, the Rev. A. J. McMullen, M.A. (Sacrist of York Minster) and Mrs. MacMullen. The City was represented by the Sheriff, Councillor John Shannon. The Dean of York, the Very Rev. Eric Milner-White, D.S.O., C.B.E., D.D., was the guest of honour, and he was accompanied by Canon F. Harrison, chancellor, Canon G. W. O. Addleshaw, treasurer, and the Rev. G. D. C. M. Senior, chamberlain.

The Yorkshire Association was represented by the Ven. C. O. Ellison, president, and other Association officers present were Mr. P. J. Johnson and Mr. A. Sellars, vice-presidents; Mr. L. W. G. Morris, general secretary; Mr. G. Benfield, general treasurer; Mr. W. E. Critchley, peal secretary; and Mr. H. Morley and Mr. A. E. Marsh, District secretaries. Others present were: Miss P. M. Reeves, Miss S. M. Kingdon, Miss E. J. Walker, Miss M. Shearsmith, Mrs. A. E. Marsh, Mr. and Mrs. J. Bower, Mr. and Mrs. A. Chapman, Mr. and Mrs. F. Darbourne, Mr. and Mrs. C. McGuiness, Mr. and Mrs. H. Scott, Mr. F. Atkinson, Mr. F. Horner, Mr. D. Forth, Mr. L. Rodmell, Mr. J. Ambler, Mr. D. Holland, Mr. J. Gibson, Mr. J. P. Fidler, Mr. B. Rodgers, Mr. H. Lofthouse, Mr. W. F. Moreton, Mr. J. M. Thorley, Mr. A. H. Walker, Mr. W. Oakley and Mr. C. L. Sutcliffe.

'PRICELESS HERITAGE'

In proposing the toast 'The Minster,' Mr. S. H. Steel said he did not think people fully appreciated the priceless heritage of the Minster with its beautiful stained glass and other treasures which had been handed down through the ages. Great credit was due to the Dean and Chapter for the care undertaken to preserve those beauties and treasures.

Responding, Canon Harrison said he had been associated with the Minster since 1919 and there was always something to be learned from it. Nothing delighted the Dean more than to find, say, the head of a figure in one window which had been missing from another window for perhaps 300 years and to have it restored to its original place. All in the Minster family, the Dean, the Residentiary Canons, the Vicars-Choral, the organist and choir, the clerk-of-the-works and other staff were all fully employed and no one was idle It gladdened the heart to hear the bells and he wished the Society every success and many happy returns!

The Rev. A. J. McMullen proposed 'The Visitors,' and said the Society was honoured on this, its 100th anniversary, by the presence of the Sheriff of York, also by Archdeacon Ellison and by visitors from as far away as Newcastle. He loved to hear the bells and no mechanical device could ever sound the same. One of his duties was to be chaplain to the Prey-Cust Nursing Home, and he often asked if the bells were an annoyance, but all loved to hear them, either chiming for Evensong or ringing on Sundays. One old lady said she did not like them being chimed down the scale for five minutes but preferred variation. Another asked why, during Advent, the bells were chimed in a minor key on a Feast Day. So people did notice the bells and appreciated their message.

'RINGING-THE-CHANGES'

The Sheriff, replying, said that during his training as a solicitor he learned much about an offence known as 'ringing-the-changes' and he felt rather apprehensive when asked to meet a Society whose business was change ringing. One hundred years may seem a long time but it was only a short spell in the life of a city 2,000 years old. During his term of office he had met many little-known Societies and learned of many little-known byways all of which meant something in the life of the city and had some influence on the life of the people. It had been a pleasure meeting the Society and he tendered his warmest thanks, together with those of the other guests, for a very pleasant evening.

Archdeacon Ellison responded for the ringing visitors and said that over 70 years ago a daughter society was born and was now known as the Yorkshire Association — the Minster Society was really the mother society and he congratulated it on attaining its centenary and wished it every success in the future and many happy returns of the day. On behalf of the Association he thanked the Dean for allowing the bells to be rung that day and for the privilege in taking part in a very beautiful service, the music for which, including Purcell's 'Bell Anthem,' seemed to have been specially chosen for the occasion. The use of recorded bells was not to be compared with the proper ringing of church bells and ringers were against such substitutes. So far as the Ripon Diocese was concerned they would have no more of them.

The Dean of York, in rising to propose the toast 'The Society,' was received with acclamation. He said he believed the Society to be one of the oldest in the country except for the College Youths, which was over 300 years old, but then, that was a national Society. He was approaching his 70th year but could never catch up with the Minster Society—it goes on and on and may it go on for many, many years; many happy returns of the day! The very first time he heard the Minster bells was when the embargo was lifted to ring for the victory at El Alamein and he was overcome with emotion. (He had then been in York for two years.)

RINGING, A BEAUTY ALL ITS OWN

Continuing, he said that one of the great joys of Sunday was the ringing of the bells. There was a time when we did not know whether the young Englishman would come back to his bell-ringing but now the young Englishwoman was coming into her own. Ringing has a beauty all its own and it is an art which none of these substitutes can possibly replace, and this line is being taken by the York Advisory Committee and by most other Advisory Committees in the country. It is a beauty which records every joy—it is always joyful. Finally the Dean reminded his listeners that the purpose for which the bells were rung was to bring the people to the Church of God and that the link had become essential between the ringing of bells and the worship of God, and on this 100th birthday he was glad to thank the ringers from the bottom of his heart.

In reply, the president said he did not propose to enlarge on the history of the Society during the past 100 years as those who had read 'The Ringing World' would know as much about it as he did. What must be considered was the future and the continuance of the work of the Society. In this connection Drake's prayer seemed appropriate:—

> 'When Thou givest to Thy servants to endeavour any great matter, grant us also to know that it is not the beginning but the continuance of the same which yieldeth the true glory.'

Continuing, he said that there were over 5,000 rings of five or more bells in this country and it was of equal importance that the bells of the smallest village church should be rung on Sundays as were the great bells of our Cathedrals, and it was as well to remember the Society was only one of many such Societies. Much had been said of a shortage of ringers but three firms of bellfounders were kept busy casting new bells and restoring old ones and in every case new ringers were found to ring them.

More ringers were needed in York but the real shortage in the city was one of ringable bells. The ring of six at St. Mary's, Bishopshill Senior, was unringable and it was proposed to transfer these to Acomb. The six at Clifton also needed rehanging. The most interesting scheme in the offing was the proposal to restore the tower of St. Martin's, Coney Street, and to rehang the eight bells. The Archbishop's Committee responsible for this proposal had stated this would provide a useful practice ring for the Minster ringers. It was obvious someone on that committee—and he strongly suspected it was the Dean, although he had not admitted it — had the interests of the Minster ringers very much in mind and he thanked him for it. When this restoration had taken place he thought the City Council would find it had authority to organise evening classes in bell-ringing: this had been done in Essex and what other people could do York could do as well.

A well-struck course of Grandsire Caters was rung on handbells as was also a touch of 'The Scalded Witch,' musical items interspersed the speeches, and a very pleasant evening was spent.

Not to be outdone by the Sheffield people, name cards tastefully written in Old English by Miss P. M. Reeves were provided and were much admired. H. W.

THE LADIES' GUILD

South Wales District Reports Progress

The annual meeting of the South Wales District of the Ladies' Guild was held on January 30th at All Saints', Newport.

Despite the unusually cold weather, some 62 ringers attended. Methods rung ranged from Grandsire to Cambridge and Yorkshire Surprise.

The service at 4 p.m. was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. C. G. R. Lewis), who welcomed the Guild to All Saints'. The excellent tea, provided in the Mission House, was greatly appreciated and the ladies were most sincerely thanked by Mr. F. Hannington.

At the business meeting great progress was reported by the secretary, who mentioned that the District had now 56 members. Meetings had been extremely well attended. The District is a very large one and most members had to travel long distances. New members were elected from Newport (St. Woolos'), Sketty, Ebbw Vale and Radyr.

Miss Dilys Hulbert (St. Mellons) was elected vice-president, and Miss Jacqueline Evans (Chepstow) re-elected secretary. Committee members were: Mrs. R. Price, Mrs. R. E. Coles, Mrs. Temlett and Mrs. D. Attwell.

Mrs. T. Roderick and the secretary were elected to the General Committee.

Sketty was chosen for the next meeting, in May. J. S. E.

THE YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION

Historic Meeting in Ringing Chamber of York Minster

The January general meeting was held at York on January 30th in conjunction with the Centenary Celebration Dinner of the York Minster Society. Ringing on the fine twelve was enjoyed by visitors at intervals during the day, and those attending the service in the Minster choir were treated to a superb rendering of the 'Bell' anthem, among other things, by the choir.

The president (the Ven. C. O. Ellison) presided at the business meeting which followed in the ringing chamber, and opened the proceedings by saying how privileged they were to be holding that meeting at York at the historic moment when the Minster Society had reached its centenary. He felt sure that all present would congratulate them upon it, and join in wishing them every success in the future.

He then read a letter from one of the Society's oldest members, Mr. T. F. Earnshaw, now resident in Birmingham, who regretted his inability to attend. Other apologies for absence were received from Mr. S. F. Palmer (formerly treasurer of the Association), Messrs. R. B. Smith, D. Smith and W. Barton (formerly hon. peal secretary).

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed on the motion of Mr. P. J. Johnson, seconded by Mr. H. S. Morley, Mr. P. J. Johnson moved that their best thanks be accorded to the Dean of York (the Very Rev. E. Milner-White) and Minster authorities for the use of the bells, also to the organist and choir for the most excellent service. This was seconded by Mr. E. Hudson and carried unanimously.

In support, the president said he was greatly impressed by the excellence of the choir, which he felt must be at its peak of perfection.

A vote of thanks to the Minster Society for their kind invitation to hold this meeting at York in conjunction with their Celebration Dinner, and for the arrangements made, was moved by the president, seconded by Mr. A. E. Sellers and carried unanimously.

Mr. H. Walker acknowledged, saying how pleased they were to welcome the Association to York, and hoped that all were enjoying themselves.

The president announced that as no invitations had been received, the committee had considered the matter of the next meeting, which would be the annual general meeting, and had decided to recommend that it be held at Doncaster on May 1st, if suitable arrangements could be made. Mr. P. J. Johnson moved, and Mr. J. Ambler seconded that the committee's recommendation be accepted. This was carried.

REVISION OF RULES

The next business was the sub-committee's report regarding the reinstatement of the rules in the annual report. The president announced that the committee had met and had considered a draft copy which represented some 14 years' research work by the general secretary, as many amendments and a number of new rules had become operative since they were last included in the report. This had minimised the work of the sub-committee very considerably, and apart from a few minor alterations in the wording of some of the old rules, they were unanimously agreed that the draft was an up-to-date schedule.

The general secretary said that he had been pleased to undertake the research work and compile the draft, but felt that no useful purpose would be served by taking up time going into detail at that meeting. The sub-committee had carried out its task in accordance with the terms of reference conferred upon it, and he hoped that as a result a long-felt need was now a practical accomplishment.

Mr. N. Chaddock moved and Mr. W. E. Critchley seconded that the draft be incorporated in the report. This was carried.

THE SNOWDON DINNER

Mr. J. J. L. Gilbert gave an interesting and very gratifying report on the Snowdon Dinner, which took place at Sheffield on October 24th last. A net profit of £4 2s. 6d. had been made which the Dinner Committee had pleasure in handing over to the Association's funds. The president thanked Mr. Gilbert for his encouraging report, and said he felt sure all would join in both thanking and congratulating their Sheffield members on this excellent result. Mr. P. J. Johnson added his support, saying he had been very actively associated with many such functions, and believed this was the best result yet attained.

PRESIDENT RE-ELECTED

The next business was to receive nominations for the office of president. The retiring president (the Ven. C. O. Ellison, Archdeacon of Leeds) said that the committee were unanimous in accepting him as their nomineee to go before the annual meeting, but he had told them that attendant upon the increasing duties he was called upon to undertake, he could not devote as much time to the office as he would wish. He had assured them, however, that if they were prepared to accept him in the light of this, he would do his utmost. This was greeted with applause.

The following new members were elected:—Miss Sheila M. Taylor, Miss M. Vivien Copping and Miss Patricia Lord (All Souls', Haley Hill, Halifax), Mr. A. H. Walker (York), Michael Brooke, D. Armstrong and J. S. Seager (Sheffield Cathedral), Peter Harrison (Handsworth), R. H. Woodall (Rotherham), Miss Valerie Massam (Rothwell), J. B. Wood, D. M. Dane and G. W. Haley (St. Michael's, Headingley).

It was then announced that Mr. Walter Whittaker, of St. Chad's, Far Headingley, had passed away recently, and the meeting stood in silence as a tribute of respect. This concluded the business and further ringing took place until 6.30 p.m., when most of the visitors made their way to the Windmill Hotel, there to participate in the Centenary Celebration Dinner of the York Minster Society.

YOU ARE NEVER TOO OLD

Dear Sir,—Mr. William J. Cope, now living in Alrewas, but formerly of Lichfield, has just rung his first peal of Double Norwich Court Bob Major—and the peal was rung as a 70th birthday compliment to him!

Although he has been ringing since he was a boy, Grandsire Triples on the treble was his limit until just after the war, since when he has made such progress in change ringing as would do credit to someone 50 years his junior. Very few people of his age, we feel, would have troubled to look up such methods as Cambridge and London Minor, Stedman and Double Norwich, but whenever a certain method was mentioned for the next practice he had always 'had a look at it.'

Whenever quarter peal or peal attempts are arranged, Mr. Cope will always 'make one' as his enthusiasm is boundless and—he never lets you down.

We are sure that the whole Exercise will join in congratulating this ever-young ringer, who still continues to look up new methods—Cambridge Major being his goal at the moment. We in Lichfield, at least, are extremely proud of him.—Yours faithfully,

PETER, DENNIS & JOAN BERESFORD.

SUFFOLK GUILD

Increase in Annual Subscription Turned Down

A general meeting of the Suffolk Guild was held at Bury St. Edmunds on February 6th, which was well attended. A short committee meeting took place when Mr. L. D. Mills stated that many West Suffolk members objected to subsidising performances published in the annual report which were not true peals. It was noted that several such cases which took place during the past year had been published in 'The Ringing World.'

The dirty belfry and unoiled bells at St. Mary's were not appreciated although the latter was soon remedied, and the fine ring was set going to greet the last wedding couple of the day.

At the business meeting the chair was taken by the Rev. Canon A. C. Pelly, Vicar of St. Mary's, and the resolutions of the Halesworth meeting took an opposite turn as everyone except two voted solidly that the annual meeting be held at Ipswich on Easter Monday, as usual.

The proposed increase of the annual subscription was unanimously turned down and everyone appeared in favour of a levy of 6d. per person per peal. It must be noted that no one opposed this decision, which comes into operation at once.

Thanks were accorded to Canon Pelly and Provost J. L. White, for permission to use the bells at St. Mary's and the Cathedral, by Insp. A. Gillings, who also voiced an appreciation of the good work by Miss Dora M. Reeve, who had recently relinquished the duties of secretary of the Mildenhall District. This was warmly seconded by the general secretary, who asked for the same loyal support to her successor, Miss Edna Peckett, of Lakenheath.

Further ringing took place at the Norman Tower, where it was noticed that the bells required the attention of the bellhanger.

BATH AND WELLS DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION

Axbridge Branch's Objective — 200 Members

The annual meeting of the Axbridge Branch, held at Burnham-on-Sea on January 23rd, was well attended. Members from the following towers were present:—Keynsham, Marksbury, Durleigh, North Petherton, Kewstoke, Berrow, Winscombe, Locking, Uphill, Chew Magna, Burnham, Worle, Bleadon, Weston and Cheddar. Ringing commenced at 2.30 p.m. with touches of Stedman, Grandsire and Bob Major. A service was conducted in the Parish Church of St. Andrew by the Rev. Hugh Parnell, Vicar of Burnham, and the Rev. W. Bromham preached.

Mr. E. C. Wickham (hon. secretary) told the annual meeting that there were 180 members in the Branch and it was hoped to increase the number to over 200 this year. Wedmore, with ten members, was welcomed back in the Association, and three members from Uphill and one from Mark were among newcomers welcomed.

Mr. Wickham reported that income was £21 12s., and after meeting expenses, £15 12s. was sent to the general secretary.

Officers elected were:—President, Preb. Alford; vice-president, Rev. A. D. H. Allan (Weston-super-Mare); Ringing Master, Mr. George Prescott; secretary, Mr. E. C. Wickham.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

UNUSUAL HANDBELLS

Dear Sir,—I have a set of handbells, tenor 18G, cast by W.D. (William Dunn) which have round clappers. These are made of boxwood with a groove round the middle and inset with soft leather. The late W. H. Fussell greatly admired these bells and told me he had never seen any like them in all his perambulations.

Curiously enough, there is another set in this town cast by W. D. but these are fitted with ordinary clappers. William Dunn was Master of St. James' Society 1834-5, and died about 1850. His moulds, etc., passed on to George Stockham, a well-known London ringer, then to George Welch and finally to J. F. Mallaby and Co., of Doncaster.

I have been asked so many times about these bells that I should be glad to know if there is another set like them, and I should also welcome any information about William Dunn.—Yours, etc., L. STILWELL.

Horsham.

'THE BAND RINGS THE PEAL'

Dear Sir,—I have just read in the January 29th issue of 'The Ringing World' of a ringer who has rung peals of Treble Bob from Minor to Maximus. It is also reported that two ringers rang over 100 peals in 1953 and one ringer is stated to have rung peals in 41 different towers. I am wondering if it is quite fair to poke fun at 'The Daily Telegraph' for reporting that a ringer rang the first peal on a restored ring of six. Should we not be a little more precise in our vocabulary?

The leading article in a previous issue brought up the question of the treble ringer to Cambridge. Has he rung a peal of Cambridge? Surely the obvious answer is—No, of course he hasn't, but then, neither has the ringer of the second nor any of the others. The band rings the peal, and whether more or less skill is required to ring any particular bell is quite beside the point; the fact remains that the treble ringer has, like the others, rung a bell to a peal of Cambridge.—Yours truly,

C. A. LEVETT.

St. Leonards-on-Sea.

NO EXTERMINATION OF ART IN CANNED BELLS

Dear Sir,—Through your columns in 'The Ringing World' I should like to endorse the views of Mr. Wratten on the subject of canned bells.

I do not see any reason for prejudice of the use of bell recordings in the case of the churches which cannot afford, or where it is a practicable impossibility to have bells.

I think that there are thousands of the non-ringing community who, when they hear the bells calling them to worship, do not even know how many bells there are ringing and are completely ignorant of campanology.

But the chief point is that they are reminded of the presence of the church, and the service, by the sound of the bells, be it a gramophone recording or performed by a body of ringers.

As Mr. Wratten points out, it is the sound of the bells, and—as much as possible— a smooth production, or reproduction, that really matters.

I do not consider that we ringers should really worry unduly, except in a case where a ring of bells is unjustifiably disposed of and replaced by the use of recordings, occasions of which, I think, are very rare.

We should not get alarmed that canned bells will gradually exterminate our art. This, in my opinion, is a very remote possibility.—Yours faithfully,

FRANCIS R. LOWE.

Derby.

CANNED RINGING BAD ART

Dear Sir,—Surely Mr. C. A. Wratten, in his letter concerning 'canned' bells ('Ringing World,' January 29th), has missed a very significant point. True, ringers, among others, object to this practice on account of its unreality, and measures are proposed condemning it, partly on those grounds, and also because it is bad art. It is utterly ridiculous to hear the sound of a heavy ten coming from a church with only a tiny bell-cote containing two clearly visible 'ting-tangs.'

But, the plea that recordings are the only alternative to tower bells is both futile and untrue. The sound of the bells calls people to worship, but the effort of the ringers to produce that sound is undoubtedly worship and service to God on the part of the ringers. The ringers give of themselves in this work. If the use of amplifier and loud-speaker is justified by the impossibility of installing tower bells, the individual effort and service on the part of ringers may still be utilised and encouraged, by replacing the pick-up by a microphone, and the record by a set of handbells.

I feel that few ringers would object to such a practice. I, personally, dislike the loud-speaker, but my main objection is to the use of a recording. One cannot have the London Philharmonic Orchestra in the house, but one can attempt to produce one's own music, with a penny whistle, if necessary. In the matter of Church work, it is personal service that counts. —Yours faithfully, S. J. HART.

Barry, Glam.

A REPLY TO MR. WRATTEN

Dear Sir,—In his letter on synthetic bells, published on January 29th, Mr. Wratten says, 'As it is clearly impossible to have the London Philharmonic Orchestra or even Humphrey Lyttleton in one's house, a record is used instead. In the same way . . . .

May I suggest that his argument is very far from being 'in the same way.' However much I might like the Orchestra, and however many records I had of their playing, I should object strongly were I to go to the Festival Hall or the Albert Hall and hear not the Orchestra but a record of them. In other words, by all means have records of orchestras, or of bells, come to that, for home use and enjoyment, but when we come to public performance let us have the real thing.

Two other points arise from Mr. Wratten's letter. Firstly, he talks of 'modern churches built in a less substantial manner than their elder brethren.' That there are such churches is a fact, but a very regrettable fact. It is, I think, a matter of ignorance on the architect's part, and in future cases could surely be overcome beforehand now that the difficulties are realised. When a designer can make ample arrangement for a choir, surely the ringers can have at least as good a chance.

Secondly, Mr. Wratten refers to bells calling people to church and says 'it is the sound of the bells that does this, not the bells themselves.' Which would Mr. Wratten prefer to be called by, a record either the same day in and day out or one of the limited selections available, or, on the other hand, by genuine bells, which, if they have their faults in striking, etc., have at least human faults, not electrical ones, and are rung by people who have made an effort to get to church and do it?

Not least to be considered is the fact that not all of us can preach and not all of us can sing. Ringing is a means whereby another large body of men can give God their service in a manner suited to their skill. May we long be able to do so.—Yours sincerely,

MALCOLM S CLOKE.

Harwell, Berks.

SHAM BELLS

Dear Sir,—Replying to Mr. Wratten, five of the six bells at Perlethorpe, Notts, have been sold, and I understand on good authority that gramophone recordings have been substituted.

It may be true that ringers are the principal, but not the only objectors to sham bells, but it does not necessarily follow that despite its seeming apathy the general public actually likes these abominations. I, personally, know of one parishioner who refuses to attend his church because of what he rightly considers the dishonesty of recorded bells.

Mr. Wratten cites the hypothetical case of the towerless or otherwise unsuitable church for bells and one might be tempted to feel slightly less antagonistic were the makers to confine themselves to such buildings, but unfortunately they do not do so.

They employ door-to-door touts who will canvass any church whether it possesses tower or bells or botfi—for instance, they endeavoured to interest a former Leeds vicar whose church possesses a magnificent tower and already the nucleus of a ring, but fortunately the Vicar 'sent them packing' in no uncertain manner. Then again, there is on the outskirts of Leeds a Pearson church, which, like all churches which have been completed to this famous architect's original design, has as its crowning architectural glory a lofty tower and spire. Its crowning shame is now a gramophone outfit, installed moreover when a former Archdeacon of Leeds was Vicar.

What does it matter if we are considered prejudiced as Mr. Wratten implies, so long as we stop the travesty of our art by acting as Mr. Stenson suggests or by any other means which may be open to us?—Yours faithfully,

R. H. DOVE.

RE RINGERS' RALLY, BOURNEMOUTH

Dear Sir,—Mr. Arthur Davis would now seem to be trying to say that he, together with Mr. David Reed, was going to attempt to arrange the dinner now to be held at Wick Ferry Restaurant, Christchurch, on Saturday, May 8th.

When the item, 'Dinner,' came before the meeting on December 5th my first proposal was 'that the dinner be held'; this was seconded by Mr. George Preston, and was immediately followed by the statement from Mr. Davis — which took us unawares — that he would not participate. During the discussion which followed I said that unless someone would be prepared to do the work the dinner must lapse, and it was only when it was obvious that further discussion then was useless—Mr. Davis repeating that he would not do it—that I proposed that the dinner should lapse.

Mr. Davis was in personal contact with me and at least one other member of the committee, till Christmas, but he neither expressed surprise at the turn of events nor mentioned another meeting of the committee.

When, on Tuesday, January 12th, I personally acquainted him with the position, he said he had been warned that no one else would do the job. How then can he claim to have been taken unawares? He said he was pleased the dinner was not to be allowed to lapse, and that he would give us his support.

This statement was received with pleasure by the Dinner Committee at their next meeting. To make this event a success we need the support and goodwill of Mr. Davis and all who can help, and that this will be forthcoming is the sincere wish of—Yours truly,

FRED PRICE.

ON CONDUCTING

By WILFRID G. WILSON

VI. EXAMPLE TOUCH OF BOB MAJOR

Let us now examine a short two-course touch of Bob Major which has an example of every type of call. Here it is as the composer writes it out and as the bob-caller would try to conduct it:—

'Natural' Course Ends from 23456

W	B	M	H	W	B	M	H
52436	52436	42635	64235	—		—	—
36245	36245 64352	34256	23456	—	1	—	—

At each of these calls except the two Homes a five-figure transposition is necessary to get the new 'natural' course end—that is the course end which would come up if no more bobs were called. These 'natural' course end figures give no idea (except at the Homes) which bells were doing which work at the bobs and not many bob-callers would know which bell was following which at any time except perhaps for the one lead after the Home.

Now let us write out the same touch again as the conductor calls it—by the Coursing Orders:—

Coursing Orders from 53246

W	B	M	H	W	B	M	H
32546		32465	34625	—		—	—
46325	54632	54326	53246	—	1	—	—

Starting off with the Coursing Order 53246 our conductor knows, by applying his formula ABC into BCA to the first three bells that the bob W will give him Coursing Order 32546 and that 3 will run out, 2 run in and 5 make fourths place. If he is ringing either of these three bells nothing could be simpler. (In this method he could, of course, merely remember to call his bob W at the first lead end, but the W position does not come at the first lead in all methods. It often comes after the M or the M and the B.) If he is ringing the treble it will be equally easy to see when 3 can be called to run out. If he is ringing or can see 7 and 8 he will be able to check his position by these. From either of the other two bells he should have no difficulty in seeing the bells in the front or the tenor at the back.

As well as having all these pointers to what is happening when the bob is made, he will know the order in which the bells go down to the lead and up to the back (i.e., his new Coursing Order) and, therefore, the order in which, allowing for his own bell, he will have to pass the others. This, of course, is hunting made easy. If the treble or any of the others goes wrong, the conductor can put the offender right by telling him the order in which he will meet the other bells.

This Coursing Order will remain unchanged until the bob M is reached. Our conductor knows the order of the bells and at any time during the five plain leads he can apply the ABC into BCA code to the back three bells. When he calls the bob M he knows that his new Coursing Order will be 32465 and that 4 will run out, 6 run in and 5 make fourths place.

One lead in this new Coursing Order and he has only to apply his by now familiar code ABC into BCA to the middle three bells (246 into 462) to know exactly what will happen at his bob H and what will be the Coursing Order (34625) of the start of the second course.

For this second course, our conductor would find it even less easy to make mental five-figure transpositions of his course ends, because he would be trying to do it not from rounds but from his new course end.

But by using Coursing Orders and our simple code he will find that starting from a course end other than rounds makes no difference at all. A bob W applied to his Coursing Order 34625 gives 46325—4 ran out, 6 ran in and 3 made fourths place. This new Coursing Order 46325 continues unchanged until the bob B is reached. So our conductor has three leads in which he can work out the simple fact that at the bob B when he calls 8 to run out and 7 to run in, the bell (5) which was last in his five-figure Coursing Order will make fourths place, and the new Coursing Order will be the old one with the 5 in front instead of at the end (i.e., 54632). This Coursing Order continues until the next bob (a M) but our conductor does not have to spend the time in between wondering and trying to see whether the tenor has yet reached the 5-6 down position. He only has to wait until the back three bells of his Coursing Order (6, 3 and 2) get into the appropriate positions for 3 to run out, 2 run in and 6 make fourths place and then call his bob.

One final three-figure transposition at the H from Coursing Order 54326 to Coursing Order 53246 brings the touch round with 3 running out, 2 running in and 4 making fourths place.

We have seen that all through this two-course touch, with its seven bobs, our conductor can have full control over the ringing and, therefore, the confidence that makes all the difference between getting and losing a peal. What is more, he did not have to work out his touch beforehand. He needed only to be told a moment before he started 'Call W, M and H and then call W, B, M and H.' On the other hand if he wished to practise his calling he could have done so on his way to the tower—changing three bells at each call, always with the same simple code, knowing the order of the bells all the time and seeing which bells do which work at the calls.

I have written out the Coursing Orders of the touches and peals in these articles in three or four columns as does the composer. But there is no need to do this unless you wish. If you find it simpler, just write them down one after the other exactly as you would work them out in your head or ring them in the tower. Our example touch of Bob Major given above will then look like this. A useful outcome of this method is that each part of a multi-part composition can be written out in a separate column side by side with the other parts and comparison of various checking points is facilitated.

GUILD of DEVONSHIRE RINGERS

Branch Meeting at Babbacombe

The Mid-Devon Branch held its annual meeting at All Saints', Babbacombe, on January 30th, when despite arctic weather conditions the event was quite successful.

Ringing took place during the afternoon, this being followed by a service in church conducted by the Rev. Mr. Dixon, assistant priest.

After an excellent tea at Oswalds Hotel the usual business meeting followed with Mr. J. E. Lilley in the chair.

Three apologies for absence were received, whilst six new members from Brixham and two from Dean Prior were elected.

The secretary's and treasurer's reports were presented and adopted, the latter showing a reduced balance in hand.

Officers elected were:—Chairman and Ringing Master, Mr. J. E. Lilley; secretary and treasurer, Mr. A. L. Bennett; three General Committee members, the Rev. N. F. D. Coleridge, Mr. E. M. Atkins, and Mr. W. C. Wakley.

Brixham is to be the venue for the next meeting on Saturday, April 24th, subject to the necessary permission being obtained.

Votes of thanks to the Vicar of Babbacombe for the use of his church and bells, and to the Branch secretary for making such excellent arrangements concluded the meeting.

IN SOMERSET WITH THE N.S.T.G.

The lure of Somerset rings and hospitality being irresistible, on Friday, January 22nd, the full express from east to west carried two bound for another week-end with the N.S.T.G.

On Saturday the usual tower-grabbing efforts were somewhat diluted by the prospect of a peal in the evening, and, accordingly, two towers only were visited in the morning—the light sixes at Rowberrow and Shipham—each being put to varied methods for three-quarters of an hour.

The afternoon programme contained no ringing but after a pleasant drive over the hills and along the coast road had brought us to Clevedon, a brisk walk along the pier enabled us to make the acquaintance of the clapperless Warner 1902 which hangs at the end of it.

The evening peal of Plain Bob Minor on the good-going Nailsea six was brought home happily with scarcely a word spoken, and then the lighter proceedings of the evening commenced with a ham supper. A visit to the local hostelry enabled us to slake our thirst with the now traditional cider, and we then adjourned to Mr. Derrick's house for further toasts and a ring on his set of diminutive handbells. Another short walk brought us to our last house of the day, where coffee, songs and chatter were enjoyed until the party dispersed at midnight.

Three fine-toned rings were visited on Sunday, the first being at Kingston Seymour, where we spent a most enjoyable hour ringing for morning service. Fortified by a feast of turkey and plum pudding, we spent half an hour at Easton-in-Gordano, and were then joined by members of the local band (one of whom has been ringing regularly since 1897) at Long Ashton, our only eight of the week-end.

Methods rung included:—Triples: Grandsire; Minor: Plain Bob, St. Clement's Bob, Kent Treble Bob, Cambridge Treble Bob; Doubles: Plain Bob, Grandsire, Stedman, All Saints', Reverse St. Bartholomew, Kennington.

To M. J. H. for his fine organisation, and to to all who contributed to the happiness and success of the week-end, many thanks. B. O.

THE RINGER'S DECALOGUE

From 'The Ringing Towers'

1.—Remember Friday evenings to keep them wholly for practices.

2.—Thou shalt not tarry without the tower.

3.—Thou shalt give ear unto the voice of the instructor and hearken not unto the babble of thy neighbour.

4.—Thou shalt not clash thy bell with thy neighbours, for this is the whole ringing law.

5.—Thou shalt not worship the method unduly for the eyes are the window of the soul, and if they be glued to the paper, how shall the soul be lighted?

6.—Thou shalt not lean upon thy neighbour, but cultivate thine own understanding for he that followeth his neighbour from lead to lead shall stumble and perish, but he that counteth his own place can in no wise dodge at the wrong place.

7.—Thou shalt not grouse.

8.—Thou shalt not contemplate thy neighbour's clothes, nor her shoes nor any new thing that is thy neighbour's lest when thy turn comes thou be taken unawares and be utterly confounded.

9.—Thou shalt not break the covenant with the band to follow after thy wife, nor thy best girl, nor thy friend, nor thy enemy for the ringers will not hold him worthy that turneth his yea to nay.

10.—Honour thy band and thy captain and forget not that regular attendance is also expected of thee on Sunday.

PETERBOROUGH DIOCESAN GUILD AT RUSHDEN

Wellingborough Branch Test New Eight

At the annual meeting of the Wellingborough Branch held at Rushden on January 30th, representatives were present from Wellingborough, Irthlingborough, Easton Maudit, Earls Barton, Ecton, Higham Ferrers, Finedon, Mears Ashby, Great Doddington, Bozeat, Stanwick, Burton Latimer, Cranford, Kettering, Brafield, Raunds, Hargrave, Long Buckby, with members of the Bedford Guild.

The Guild service was held in St. Mary's Church during the afternoon, conducted by the Rector (the Rev. E. A. Green), who also gave an address.

A company of 85 enjoyed the excellent tea in the Institute arranged and served by the local ringers' wives and friends, supervised by Mrs L. Priestley.

At the business proceedings the secretary and treasurer (Mr. A. Bigley, Irthlingborough) presented the report and balance sheet for 1953. A balance of £3 14s. 7d. increased the Branch assets. The officers were all re-elected. It was decided to visit the six-bell tower of Mears Ashby for the next quarterly meeting.

Mr. S. P. Warwick (Wellingborough) was elected an honorary member, and three new ringing members of Irthlingborough, Messrs. P. Smart, M. Munton and J. Britchford, were also elected. After reference to the recent death of Mr. A. Minney, of Wollaston, the party stood in silent tribute.

A quantity of the 'Booklet for Beginners,' by Mr. W. G. Wilson, were eagerly bought up during the afternoon. Thanks to the Rector for the use of the bells, etc., and to the organist and ladies were proposed by the Branch president (the Rev. W. C. Knight, Bozeat). Mr. C. Clifton also had a word to say concerning the work of the secretary. After words of appreciation, he said that members could help by collective and prompt paying of subscriptions.

The new ring of eight was kept going during the afternoon and evening in a variety of methods, interspersed with rounds for the lesser skilled.

BEVERLEY & DISTRICT SOCIETY

The Society started the year well with a good meeting in Hull. The bells of St. Mary's, Lowgate, were rung during the afternoon to standard methods.

A service was held in St. Luke's Chapel in Holy Trinity Church, owing to the choir being under repair and full of scaffolding. The Rev. G. Storer conducted the service and the Vicar (the Rev. L. O. Kenyon) preached the sermon).

Forty members and friends had tea in the Trocadero Cafe, followed by a business meeting with Mr. A. E. Sellers in the chair.

Ringers from North Lincolnshire joined the company and proceeded to Holy Trinity Church to ring on the fine ten for the remainder of the evening.

OBITUARY

MR. JOHN HART

Leader of the ringers at St. Nicholas', Cramlington, Northumberland, and a member of the Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association for many years, Mr. John Hart passed away at the age of 61 years on Thursday, January 28th, following a seizure at his work in a local coal mine.

He was a staunch churchman, a some-time churchwarden of Cramlington and a most loyal member of his belfry, where he 'nursed' both bells and ringers and was ever a congenial host to the Association at meetings held there. Although not a change ringer, he was an excellent striker and could ring the tenor behind to perfection. He was always proud of the fact that he had rung-in the New Year for more than 40 years without a break apart from the war years.

The interment took place on Sunday, January 31st, at Cramlington Churchyard following a service in church. At the graveside a course of Bob Minor on handbells was rung by J. A. Ainsworth 1-2, K. Arthur 3-4, E. N. Harrison 5-6. Later the tower bells were rung half-muffled to a 720 St. Clement's Bob Minor by J. Anderson (first 720) 1, T. Sewell 2, K. Arthur 3, E. P. Crowdy 4, E. N. Harrison 5, J. A. Ainsworth (conductor) 6. K. A.

MR. JOHN FOSTER

One of the older generation of ringers, Mr. John Foster died at Hitchin on January 28th, where he had lived and worked and rung most of his life, at the ripe age of 92.

Although he had not rung for nearly two decades, he commenced ringing as long ago as the 1880's, and rang the seventh at Hitchin to a peal of Grandsire Triples on February 25th, 1895, at a time when peals were scarce and the bells were presumably much the same condition as when first hung in 1762, for they were not rehung till 1901. He rang the sixth and seventh to three other peals of Triples and Bob Major early in the century. These are the only ones recorded on boards in the tower, but there may have been other successes of which record has been lost.

About this time he became assistant parish clerk, and later clerk, holding this office for about 40 years, under five Vicars. He attended about 1,700 weddings before retiring during the last war! He was for many years captain of the ringers. When increasing age caused him to give up change ringing, he still chimed on the Ellacombe apparatus for services when the bells were not normally rung.

On January 31st a half-muffled quarter peal, 1,260 Stedman Triples, was rung by present ringers prior to Evensong as a token of respect to Mr. Foster to his service to the church and the tower. The following took part:— C. V Hare 1, L. Fidler 2, M. Orme 3, F. Croft 4, E. Winters 5, J. Church 6, D. Jones (conductor) 7, W. Todd 8. D. P. J.

RUGBY SURPRISE MAJOR

Rugby Surprise Major was rung for the first time on January 30th, conducted by Mr. Alan Pink. This method, writes Mr. Pink, differs from Yorkshire Surprise Major only in the 7-8 section. Although there is so little difference in the figures, there is a fair degree of difference in the blue line, and whereas Yorkshire has only one false course lead, 24365, Rugby has three, 24365, 46253 and 32546.

A comparison in the 7-8 section is given below:—

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY GUILD

Annual Dinner

This was held in Cambridge on January 30th. Yielding to pressure, the undersigned is reporting the function, but this report has little historic value as, not only did a wedding (someone else's) prevent his taking part in the ringing, but also, as he has lost his notes about the Dinner, he is reduced to the indignity of reporting what he thinks the speakers said—or even what they ought to have said.

Ringing took place during the day at St. Andrew's, in whose vestry a business meeting was held, the Roman Catholic Church, St. Benet's and elsewhere. The undersigned arrived just in time to see a goodly company emerging from St. Benet's and made his way with them to the West End Hotel, West Road (a crisis in St. John's College kitchen having made a dinner impossible for us there), John's having all they could do to feed themselves. At least the West End is superior to John's in not possessing a vast Victorian silent tower.

The president (the Rev. A. C. Blyth, of Selwyn) presided at the dinner, welcomed members and guests and proposed the loyal toast. Then Dr. F. S. Poole proposed the toast of 'The Guild.' In a charming speech he reminded his hearers of the noble past of the Guild, tiny in numbers compared with its strength to-day—there were over 40 at the Dinner—but splendid in spirit. A peal in the old days was quite an event, because of both the difficulty of getting men together and the limitations of travel. But the earlier days were grand days of achievement, all the same, and it was a great pleasure to senior members like himself both to join with the present-day Guild and to think over the past.

The Master of the Guild, replying, spoke warmly of the earlier efforts, and turning to the present told how the Guild goes for a peal almost every Saturday; numbers are not difficult to make up, and travel, partly with the help of Ichabod, an object on four wheels (the undersigned has not seen it and does not know whether this description is accurate at the moment) is also easy. We look forward to the Guild Week to be held at or near Abergavenny, August 30th to September 4th.

Mr. E. J. Lindley, proposing the toast of 'The Guests,' was not sure who were guests, or who, having paid for their dinner, could not be so described. Anyhow, he was very glad to see everybody there, in particular Messrs. Dennis and Quinney, of the Cambridge Youths, and the Master of the London University Society. 'The Other Place' was less well represented than he would have liked, possibly because of the charm of Bristol girls or the eminence of Bristol University Chancellor.

The Master of the London University Society, in reply, warmly thanked his hosts on behalf of the guests and expressed great pleasure at the flourishing state of the University Societies.

After Dinner, members adjourned to some part of Selwyn, but what they did there I know not, as Frances, Brian and Tim came on to Norwich with me instead. G. T.

THE RINGING WORLD

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

No. 2238 Vol. L. FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 19, 1954 Registered at the G.P.O. for transmission as a newspaper 4d.

CHURCH BELLS AND THE SAINTS

SUGGESTION has been more than once made that the patronal and other festivals set out in the Church's Calendar might well be kept in reserve for peal and quarter peal attempts. The idea is a perfectly sound one, if only to give less excuse to those individuals who are none too favourably disposed towards bells, and who query the reason for long ringing, only to find out that 'Jack Jones wanted his first 5,040 in some method,' or that 'Tom Smith's wife had had a birthday'!

It might be asked—What have saints' days got to do with bells? In similar vein it could be asked—Why name certain methods of change ringing after saints, since the latter have all been dead and gone centuries before change ringing was thought of?

It was a common practice with many of our pre-Reformation bell founders to name certain bells after saints—and not always apostolic saints, the only ones of whom some people can ever think. Our church dedications and the Church's Calendar name many others. Already some have been used to identify a number of five- and six-bell methods, some extending to the higher numbers. Whilst St. Clement and St. Simon are perhaps the best known, others come to mind, such as St. Martin, St. Bartholomew, St. Nicholas, St. Columb, St. Blaise, St. Giles, St. Peter, St. Matthew, St. Mark, St. Miles, St. Dunstan, St. Luke, St. John, St. Augustine, and in the Central Council's 1931 collection are two others not so much heard of nowadays, St. Vedost and St. Alphege, the former named after the church close by St. Paul's Cathedral, and the latter after the archbishop who was martyred by the Danes on the Thames estuary in 1012, to whom a church at Greenwich is dedicated. A more recent addition is All Saints.

On six bells one can, among others, think of St. Werburgh—the Mercia. Her home, it is said, was in Northants—at Weedon Bec. Some of these saints' names, and additional ones, can be seen on old bells still in existence, as well as on some recast and some modern bells, like one at Roade, Northants, recently dedicated.

Understandably, perhaps the most common dedication is St. Mary. Northants has a number of such examples, the oldest being the second of four bells at Cold Ashby, inscribed 'Maria Vocor. Ano. Dni. Mcccxvii.' This bell is believed to have been cast (in 1317) by William-de-Flint. Following it, by a few years, is the tenor of four in the leaning tower of Stowe-IX-Churches, which is inscribed, 'Ave Maria, gracia plena,' meaning 'Hail Mary, full of grace.' This same inscription will be found on the second of the five at Alderton, on the fourth of five at Grafton Regis, the fourth of eight at King's Sutton, the tenor of six at Potterspury, and the fifth of six at Wadenhoe.

'Sancta Maria ora pro nobis' can be seen on the treble of five at Passenham, and before being recast in 1884 was on the second of the five at Bozeat. Upton has one bell inscribed 'Sancta Maria' (the C is reversed and the S lying on its side). The third of five at Polebrook has on it 'S. Maria.' And on the tenor of three at Winwick (which is believed another William-de-Flint bell) is just 'Maria.'

A very interesting old bell is the second of three at Glapthorne, by a little heard of bell founder (Johannes Sleyt). It is inscribed 'Inndre Satti Maria. Johannes Sleyt me fecit.' The tenor of these same three commemorates St. Andrew, and is inscribed 'Sancte Andrea ora pro nobis.' This inscription is varied. On the smaller of two bells at Northborough is read 'Ista Campana facta est in honore St. Andree.' Polebrook's second is inscribed 'Andrea.' St. Thomas is the dedication on the fourth of five at Sudborough, inscribed 'Thomas,' and on the third of five at Geddington is seen 'S. Thomas.'

St. Katherine finds favour on a number of bells, as, for example, the second of three at Horton, believed to have come from the Reading foundry of Sanders between 1539 and 1559. This bell is unfortunately badly cracked, and is inscribed, 'Sancta Katerina ora pro nobis.' It was at Horton that the family of Catherine Parr (last wife of Henry VIII.) held residence. 'Campana vocor Katerina' will be seen on the first of two bells in the old tower at Slapton, where there is also a very old priest bell of circa 1310 inscribed 'Richard De Wambis me fesit.'

Intended obviously for 'Sancta Katerina' can be seen 'Sacan (reversed C) Cterina' on the second of four at Barby, and the fourth of five at Roade has on it 'Sancta Katerina ora pro nobis.' This bell, together with the tenor and the third, is believed the work of Henry Jordon, a London founder from 1442–1470. Considered to be cast by the same man are all four bells at Fawsley, some of the clearest examples of pre-Reformation work anywhere. Fawsley, a tiny parish in extensive parkland, is now threatened with extinction. From 1416 until about 30 years ago a famous family named Knightley had an estate there.

The old mansion is now disgracefully used as a timber shop. The treble of Fawsley's four is inscribed 'Sancte Botolfe ora pro nobis,' being the only bell in Northants dedicated to St. Botolph. Another only dedication is the new treble to the recently augmented five at Roade, dedicated to St. Cecilia, patron saint of music, whose festival is on November 22nd.

Another, Hargrave, has the only bell I know of in Northants dedicated to St. Anthony, the tenor of four being inscribed 'S. Antonie.' Other references to St. Anthony can, however, be found at Stanford-on-Avon and at Lamport. S. Margareta, which could mean St. Margaret of Antioch or St. Margaret Queen of Scotland, is to be seen on the third of four at Charwelton, and was inscribed on the treble to old four prior to 1727 at Roade, in which year it was recast by Thomas Russell, of Woolton, Beds. Its inscription reads, 'Nova Campana Margareta est Honorata.' The tenor of five at Twywell appears to be the only one dedicated to St. Augustine, being inscribed 'Vox Augustini sonet in Aure Dei.' A very rare dedication is on the third of the heavy five bells at Castle Ashby, with a unique stamp, which shows, like the five bells in the Church of St. Bartholomew the Great, London, it is a Bullisdon bell of circa 1510. On it is inscribed 'Sancta Agatha ora pro nobis.' The festival of St. Agatha falls early in the year.

St. Anna is another favourite dedication. She is curiously inscribed 'Saauu' (S on its side) on the second at Great-worth of three bells there. She was commemorated on the old fourth of the original five (now eight) at Thrapston, viz., 'Sancta Anna ora pro nobis,' and the same inscription is on the second of six at Paulerspury.

A very historic bell by one of the early Newcombes of Leicester, which is undated, but which we know was put in at the time the church was built in 1534, is at Whiston, inscribed 'S. Anna.' It is the third of five. Anthony Catesby (whose family some years later got mixed up with the Fresham family in the Gunpowder Plot) sold a flock of sheep to provide this 'St. Anna bell.' He is reputed to have said to his wife on hearing it rung for the first time, 'Hark, can you hear my lambs bleating?'

St. Peter is commemorated on many old bells in other counties, but strangely on few in Northants. On the recast second of four at Holcot will be seen 'Sancti Petri.' Isham, with six bells, until 1907 had four, the old third of which was dedicated to St. Ambrose. St. Gabriel can be found on several bells, as on another old Henry Jordan bell (the fourth of five) at Old (sometimes called Wold), where the inscription reads, 'Missi de Celis (C reversed) hab Nomen Gabrielis.' And on the old fourth of five at Easton Maudit before being recast was 'Dulcis Sisto melis Campana Vocor Gabrielis,' meaning 'I am called the bell of Gabriel.'

All these inscriptions and others besides show there is ample reason why we should associate the saints' names with our ringing of the bells. P. A.

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

Chertsey District

The annual meeting of the Chertsey District was held at Chertsey on February 6th. A breakdown of the central heating system in the church caused all but the hardiest of those present to keep well wrapped up when not taking part in the ringing.

The service was conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. G. S. Archibald, who later joined the company at tea in the Parish Hall.

The Guild secretary, Mr. G. L. Grover, was chairman for the somewhat lengthy business that followed. Apologies were received from Mr. F. E. Hawthorne, Mr. and Mrs. R. Lathbury and Mr. J. Hessey.

The Ringing Master, Mr. F. J. Dodson, reviewed the year's activities and promised all possible support to those bands which were still struggling.

The secretary (acting), who took over from Mr. W. Simmonds when he left the district in August, reported in detail on the district membership and matters affecting the district. He made proposals for stimulating interest in handbell ringing, especially among the younger members.

Officers elected were: Ringing Master, Mr. F. J. Dodson; secretary and treasurer, Mr. R. I. Shepherd; auditor, Mr. W. Shepherd; Guild Committee representative, Mr. J. R. Worrall.

Four ringing members and one honorary member were elected from Chertsey and two ringing members and seven junior members were elected from Egham.

It was agreed that the next annual meeting be held at Egham, it being left to the secretary to arrange the usual ringing meetings during the year.

The meeting concluded with handbell ringing in the Parish Hall, followed by further ringing at the church. R. I. S.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

Sonning Deanery Branch

The ringers of the Sonning Deanery Branch held their annual meeting at Wokingham on February 6th. Ringing commenced on the eight bells of St Paul's Church at 3 p.m., followed by divine service at 4 p.m. conducted by the Rector (the Ven. Thorndike Shaw), and the sermon was preached by the Rev. A. C. Wilson (Vicar of Waltham St. Lawrence). Tea followed in St. Paul's Parish Room, about 60 members sitting down.

Before the business meeting commenced the company stood in silence to the memory of the late Mr. John Rance, foreman of Binfield tower, who passed away during the year.

In his report on the year's activities, the secretary spoke of the need for better support for Branch meetings and for the learners to pay more attention to their striking before attempting change ringing. He also stated that ten peals had been rung in the Branch, two being Coronation peals, and, with one exception, Branch members had taken part in all these performances.

All the retiring officials were re-elected for 1954 and 15 new members were enrolled. Monthly practices will be held as usual on the first Saturday in each month and a spring meeting was arranged at Arborfield for May 1st.

Mr. W. Hibbert, Guild general secretary, was present, and addressed the members and urged tower foremen and instructors not to be afraid to tell ringers if they were handling their rope wrongly or striking badly.

The meeting closed and members returned to the towers of All Saints' and St. Paul's Churches for ringing until about 8.30 p.m.

LATE NEWS

A new record in Spliced Surprise Major ringing has been established by a peal in 36 methods rung at Shefficld last Saturday. The peal was composed and conducted by Mr. W. Eric Critchley.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Hughenden Sunday service ringers have put up a fine performance by ringing a non-conducted peal of Grandsire Triples (Parker's 12-part). Unfortunately, one of the ringers due to appear, who is on National Service, was absent. The umpire was called in to ring, thus depriving the band of an official referee.

During the year 1953 Mr. Alan Blair, of Acton, W.3, rang in 240 different and new towers. Is this a record for a year's 'tower-snatching'?

Mr. Arthur T. Parker has been appointed organist and choirmaster at Bowdon Parish Church, Cheshire. A quarter peal, in which he took part, was rung to welcome him.

A great service to ringing in Warwickshire was performed by Mr. J. H. W. White, whose death is reported in our obituary column. He called the first peal of Mr. J. Frank Smallwood at Bedworth.

In order that Mr. Justice Stable and Mr. Justice Lynskey might sleep undisturbed at the judges' lodgings near Lincoln Cathedral, the Cathedral bells, which strike the quarters, and Big Tom, which sounds the hours, were stopped from 8 p.m. to 8 a.m. each day during the Assizes. The 'Sleep of the Just' is the 'Manchester Guardian's' heading.

The Shropshire Association are planning a summer festival at Shrewsbury on July 10th largely for the benefit of visitors. So many applications are received from visiting bands to ring at St. Chad's that many have to be refused, hence the idea of the festival. Adjoining St. Chad's is a beautiful park known as 'The Quarry,' which is a pleasant waiting place for non-ringing wives. St. Mary's bells will no doubt be available.

Mr. W. S. Palin, of Faversham, who is the Ringing Master of the Canterbury District, is in the Kent and Canterbury Hospital recovering from an operation. His friends will wish him a speedy recovery. The latest report on his condition states that he is improving.

Sketty bells will be on the air at 10.15 p.m. next Sunday, when a short history will also be broadcast.

Mr. Peter Cook, sen., rang his 400th peal at Holy Trinity, Bolton, on February 6th. Of these he has conducted 171 and one was a silent peal. His peals have been rung in 100 different towers in 16 counties.

After the peal at St. Martin's Church, Stamford (Lincs), on February 6th, the band were most hospitably entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Percy D. Baldock, to whom they accord their thanks.

The Editor has available a few separate sheets of 'The Ringing World' index for 1953, which ringers who bind their copies of 'The Ringing World' might like to include in their volume. When applying, please send a stamped addressed envelope.

There is a great joy to a conductor in shepherding his pupils through their first peal. Mr. Michael E. Brown, of Sapcote (Leics), taught Rita and Christine Stratford to handle a bell in March, 1952. On February 6th Rita (16) and Christine (14) rang their first peal of Major (Cambridge Surprise) at Earl Shilton. Previously Rita had rung a peal of Grandsire Triples but Christine's peals had been limited to six bells. Mr. Brown expresses thanks to the Hinckley ringers for giving them eight-bell practice.

CHURCH ASSEMBLY AND RECORDED BELLS

Mr. Ivor Bulmer-Thomas is to move another motion at the spring session of the Church Assembly, 'That the Church Assembly deprecates the introduction into churches of recordings of bells and instruments simulating the sound of bells.'

In support of the motion Mr. E. A. Barnett, secretary of the Central Council of Church Bell Ringers, has sent to Mr. Ivor Bulmer-Thomas the following letter:—

'On behalf of the above Council, representing some 20,000 change ringers, may I wish you success with the motion which you are to move at the spring session of the Church Assembly next week. We thank you for your continued interest in the matter and offer you our fullest support to arouse public opinion against recorded and synthetic bells.

'I understand that those who favour such devices point out that organ stops are made to imitate other musical instruments; this, I feel, overlooks the fact that the organ is played by an artist, and not by a kind of pianola attachment.'

Mr. Barnett has received the following acknowledgment from Mr. Ivor Bulmer-Thomas:—

'Dear Mr. Barnett,—Thank you for your letter of the 10th inst. I am most grateful to the Central Council of Church Bell Ringers for the support you have given to my motion on the recording of church bells to be debated in the Church Assembly next week. The English tradition of change ringing is rightly held in honour, and I hope, with your help, that the Church Assembly will register its dislike of recordings and synthetic bells, which are bound to undermine that tradition.—Yours sincerely, Ivor Bulmer-Thomas.'

Mr. P. W. Cave, of 3, The Rooley, Huyton, Liverpool, leaves this country by air on March 16th for a two months' business tour of Australia. He hopes to visit a number of the principal towns and cities and would be willing to pass on any messages which ringers may wish to convey.

His friends will be very sorry to learn that Mr. Michael Fuller, of West Wickham, Kent, sustained serious injury when his car was involved in a collision at Barnet recently, and he is now in Barnet General Hospital suffering from a fractured pelvis and a broken wrist. He is progressing as satisfactorily as can be expected, but it will, of course, be some months before he can become active again.

The esteem with which Mr. C. W. Denyer, of Farnham, Surrey, is held by his district was in evidence on Saturday, when upon his retirement from the office of District Ringing Master members showed their appreciation by presenting him with a 'gentleman's companion.' The district have nominated him as a vice-president of the Guild. Always dapper, Farnham ringers feel that Charlie with their gift will have that extra polish that should accompany the vice-presidency! There are hopes that what he has done for the Farnham District will extend to other parts of the Guildford Guild.

A company with enthusiasm and desire to progress is Blytheburgh, Suffolk. Last December they rang a peal of Minor in four methods with St. Clement's as something new. On February 6th they attempted a five-method peal with the addition of Double Oxford. Unfortunately this came to grief and there was not sufficient time for a second start. A quarter of Double Oxford and St. Clement's was, however, rung and hopes of the five-method peal are entertained for a date towards the end of February.

THE SHROPSHIRE ASSOCIATION

Increased Interest Reported at Annual Meeting

Almost arctic conditions prevailed at Shrewsbury on January 30th, when the Shropshire Association held their annual meeting.

Forty-five names had been received for tea, and as the meals were being cooked at a suitable cafe, the secretary became very worried as the meeting time approached. Attempts to check up numbers during the afternoon were frustrated, because owing to the sudden illness of the Vicar of St. Mary's, this belfry was closed.

The number at St. Chad's was not large, but on arrival at St. Michael's the tiny belfry was found to be full and overflowing.

Here, the Rev. C. J. Lawson (Vicar) conducted the usual service and said how happy he was that the Association had found it possible to visit the church, which was away from the town centre. They now had their own ringers for their six bells, but appreciated the way they sounded that afternoon. He quoted from letters which had survived from 1830, when the church was built, to point out that the Vicar of St. Mary's had given the bells, and Mr. Mottram, head of a firm still surviving, had given the first six ropes.

Car owners helped to augment the bus service back to town, when the officials were very glad to count 42 in the comfortable Tudor Room in Pride Hill. The Rev. C. J. Lawson was unable to be present but the Rev. R. A. R. Chapman, St. Chad's, gave great encouragement to the proposal for a ringing festival in July, when he offered to provide tea for the occasion.

Mr. A. Pritchard, Ringing Master, said that 1953 was probably the most successful year they had achieved, ringing for the Coronation being very satisfactory. Meetings had reached record proportions, but he regretted that peals were confined to a few enthusiasts, and the total remained small.

The treasurer said the accounts reflected the increased interest and the balance was slightly higher, despite four grants to restorations. A printed report for 1951 and 1952 was ready, and the thanks of all were due to Mr. F. H. Bennett, who had printed it for them. He warned members that they could not expect this on every occasion and more subscriptions would be necessary to meet the next charge.

Mr. Bennett was warmly thanked for his work, and a peal booking fee of sixpence per rope decided upon, with a charge for the next printed report.

A comprehensive programme for 1954 was agreed upon, to include a gathering in Shrewsbury, on July 10th, of the Shropshire Association, the Staffordshire Association and the Hereford Diocesan Guild, with meetings at Broseley or Claverley, Market Drayton, High Ercall, Westbury, Atcham (if rehung) or Clive and Cheswardine.

Ringing was resumed at St. Chad's, standard methods and Cambridge being heard.

WINCHESTER & PORTSMOUTH GUILD

War Memorial Dedicated

In spite of the rather bad weather a fair attendance of between 40 and 50 attended the dedication of the Guild's War Memorial in the belfry of Winchester Cathedral on Saturday, February 6th. The dedication was incorporated with the annual meeting of the Winchester District of the Guild.

The bells of the Cathedral were first available between 1 and 2 p.m. although there were not many who were able to get there at that time.

The meeting itself took place in the afternoon under the chairmanship of the Rev. C. F. C. Brinkworth, supported by Mr. J. A. C. King (District secretary) and Mr. F. C. Morland (district treasurer).

The secretary, in his report, urged more members to attend meetings at isolated villages and reported a small drop in membership. The balance sheet, presented by the treasurer, showed a profit on the year's working of just over £11.

All the officers were re-elected with the exception of the representatives to the Guild Committee, both of whom asked that their resignations be accepted. In their places Mr. F. C. Morland and Miss B. R. Pittaway were appointed. Three new ringing members were elected—Miss G. Howlett (Twyford), Miss R. Diamond (St. Maurice's, Winchester) and Mr. D. J. Roof (Winchester College). One honorary and two compounding members were also elected.

It was resolved that the next annual meeting be held on the first Saturday in February of next year. The quarterly meetings will be held at Wonston, New Alresford and Hursley, and the next practice meeting at Twyford.

Tea followed the meeting, after which a move was made to the Cathedral belfry for the dedication, performed by Canon C. P. Cowley, Vice-Dean of Winchester. In a short but impressive service he read out the names inscribed on the panels and finally performed the dedication. The service over, he asked relatives to step forward and shook each by the hand. The 1939-45 Guild War Memorial consists of two additional wooden panels fixed to the side of an existing memorial to the 1914-18 war.

Members then descended into the long nave of the Cathedral for evensong, at which the Rev. V. K. C. Logan gave a short address in which he stressed the importance of regarding the Church as a family rather than a club or society.

The bells of the Cathedral were again available after the service, at which the 12 bells were put to good use in standard methods.

I.W. District Report Successful Year

The annual meeting of the I.W. District was held at Newport on February 6th, the president, the Ven. A. Cory (Archdeacon of the Island) being in the chair. The secretary's report showed a very successful year's ringing and the balance sheets proved the financial situation to be quite satisfactory.

After ringing Carisbrooke bells during the afternoon, the members were more than pleased to sit down to an excellent tea provided by Mr. F. Chiverton and served by the ladies connected with St. Thomas' Bible Class. Newport bells were rung during the evening.

The service was conducted by the Rev. C. R. Farnsworth, who gave an excellent address. Miss Lower was at the organ and the District is most grateful to all those who contributed to the success of the meeting. A. M. G.

SHAFTESBURY — ITS CHURCHES AND BELLS

TWENTY miles to the west of Salisbury Cathedral and its soaring spire, and sitting astride the busy A30 main road to the south-western counties is the bold and ancient town of Shaftesbury, in Dorset county. Standing some 700 feet above sea level and reputed to be the second highest town in England would seem to make the adjective 'bold' an apt one, whilst its history, so closely connected with the kings and kingdom of Wessex of olden times, certainly imparts to it an ancient flavour.

According to one historian it was built by Hudibras, King of Britain in 950 B.C., but its real history begins with the foundation of the Abbey of Alfred the Great, in 880 A.D. The Abbey was razed to the ground after the Dissolution in 1539 and few traces of it remain. Here, during excavations in 1931, a leaden casket was found containing remains conjectured to be those of King Edward the Martyr, who was murdered at Corfe Castle in 978, and buried at Wareham, but three years later his remains were transferred to the Royal Abbey of Shaftesbury, which then became a place of pilgrimage.

Here, too, King Canute died on November 12th, 1035, to be interred at Winchester, where the casket containing his bones may still be seen in St. Swithin's Cathedral. In olden times, too, Shaftesbury possessed three mints, which have long since vanished, but is is from one of these that the famous Gold Hill most likely got its name.

It is, however, the churches of this little town which must now claim our attention.

FOUR CHURCHES TO-DAY

At one time Shaftesbury possessed twelve, but of the four remaining churches one only, St. Peter's, is of ancient date. Three of these possess a ring of six bells, whilst the fourth church, that of St. Edward-the-Martyr, which is now used by the Roman Catholic faith, has a tubular chime. On the south-east outskirts of the town is the Parish Church of Cann, which regales us with the music of four steel bells ringing each week.

Upon arrival in the widest part of the High Street which makes the best and most obvious stopping place, the visitor's attention is immediately drawn to the ancient Mother Church of St. Peter, which still takes precedence over the present-day churches of the town. It is a 15th century building with some exquisitely-carved parapeting along the north side, facing the street, and a massive, sturdily-built weather-beaten tower.

There is no churchyard or grass surrounding it whatsoever and the wall of the north aisle forms the pavement boundary, with what is now the main entrance door. But most remarkable is the fact that the church is built upon what is the very brow of Gold Hill—no wonder the ancient tower is well-buttressed and its walls are so thick and solid, for well it needs to be. A marvel of mediæval building, in truth. The houses straggling up the famous Hill come right up to the tower, using its south wall as their own.

The very fine entrance porch in the west wall of the tower was, unfortunately, almost completely blocked up by the building, in 1827, of the adjoining Town Hall, which comes to within a few feet of the door itself. This was the main entrance, having a large open space in front of it leading down Gold Hill and where, I have been told, were situated the old Town Cross, the stocks and the whipping post, which were all sacrificed to make room for the building one now sees there. Thus was lost one of the most attractive showpieces in the land, to Shaftesbury's disadvantage and, I should think, everlasting regret.

Inside the church there is no chancel proper but it is all one with the nave and the aisles, which extend right to the east end. Unfortunately some lovely woodwork and panelling was removed from within many years ago during some 'restoration' and cleaning operations, some of which still enriches some private houses in the town.

BEER CELLAR IN CRYPT

Underneath the south aisle there is now an attractive little crypt fitted out for use as a private chapel for quiet devotions. This has a little history all its own, for, within living memory, it used to serve as a beer cellar where adjoining inns stored their liquor and even brewed their beer. This must make it the only crypt in the land that can claim such a distinction! Fortunately, through the good offices of some local church-lovers, it is now dedicated to a higher and worthier sphere of service more in keeping with the old church itself. Owing to the noise and other inconveniences, Sunday services are held in St. Peter's only very occasionally now, the Church of Holy Trinity serving regularly instead in this respect, for the two parishes are now joined as one.

The bells of St. Peter's are a fine-toned ring of six with a tenor of 16 cwt. The fifth is said to be a little heavier than this—it certainly measures the same across the mouth. The oldest bell of the ring is the second, dated 1670, and it carries the following inscription: 'When I do ring prepare to pray.' Next in age is the tenor, 1672, which is inscribed: 'When you hear me for to toll, Then pray to God to save the soul.' Number five came from the Aldbourne foundry in 1776, carrying the words: 'While thus we join in cheerful sound, May love and loyalty abound.'

The treble is dated 1684 and informs us that: 'A wonder great my eye I fix, Where were but three you may see six. T. P.' The year 1738 gave the third and fourth bells to the church, the founder being a William Cockey, who, Mr. Fidler suggests, was probably a travelling bell-founder. The whole ring was reconditioned and rehung in 1926 by the Loughborough firm, and the good work then carried out is still evident.

FIRST KNOWN PEAL IN 1953

The first known peal, one of Plain Bob Minor, was rung on these bells on St. Valentine's Day, 1953, for the Salisbury Guild. The bells are rung for practices and special occasions, but Sunday ringing is at the 'other Church' of Holy Trinity.

Holy Trinity Church is about two minutes' walk away and its lofty tower is a familiar landmark for many miles around, being well known to travellers on the main West of England line from Salisbury to Exeter at this point. The church itself is modern, but standing on the hallowed site of a much earlier church, and was completed in 1842. The former edifice used to serve the great Benedictine Abbey of olden times. This tower also contains a ring of six bells, with a tenor of 11 cwt. in G. Two of these evidently belonged to the previous church, number four being the oldest, having been cast in 1597 by John Wallis, of Salisbury, and the fifth in 1641 by William Purdue. The remaining four bells came from the Whitechapel foundry in 1844, which firm retuned and rehung the ring in 1952

ST. JAMES' CHURCH

Nestling at the foot of the hills underneath the little town is the Parish and Church of St. James, the church being at the extreme western end. This church, too, is modern, replacing the older St. James' on the same spot, being completed in 1867. It follows the Early English style, being built of local green stone with dressings of Bath stone. Some parapeting and the stonework in the east window of the south aisle came from the old church—of which a good photograph hangs in the vestry.

The tower contains our third ring of six bells, three ancient and three modern. The older three, of course, came from the old St. James' tower, these being the second, third and fourth. Number three of the ring would appear to be the oldest bell in Shaftesbury, and though it carries no date, the Rector states that it is definitely a pre-Reformation bell. Its weight is 5 cwt. 2 qr. 2 lb. and on it are the words: 'Santie Jacobi. Ora Pro Nobis = (St. James, pray for us).' Number two has the date 1597 and the words: 'O Praise God,' whilst the fourth has the lettering: 'C.N.C.A.C.I.D. O give thanks unto God. 1629,' inscribed on it. The treble, fifth and tenor (which is 9¼ cwt.) came from the Whitechapel foundry in 1875, each bearing an inscription and the founder's name, and date. In 1937 the Croydon bell-founders set the ring in good order.

This completes our brief survey of churches with rings of bells, but there still remains much of interest in this ancient town. There are other churches and old buildings, steep hilly lanes and by-ways as well as the Abbey ruins and the glorious park-walk promenade with its magnificent views over the rolling Dorset countryside and the Blackmore vale.

YOUNG RINGERS' INTEREST

As for the ringing itself, it has been found a difficult matter to establish change ringing in this stronghold of the 'cards,' though we are making slow progress and are linked to the Guild. One heartening factor is the young people who have lately been brought into the belfries, and now the narrow old steps of St. Peter's tower resound to the eager excited tread of five girls from the local High School and three boys from the town who have all been taught to handle a bell within recent months. Even though we know that they will inevitably leave the district in time, we can still feel that something worthwhile has been accomplished if we can send them out to other bands well able to handle a bell correctly and confidently in rounds, and with some knowledge of elementary change ringing, and happy in their bond of love and service to their Church. So here we may finish where we began—outside St. Peter's in the old High Street on the busy road, which, on these modern summer Sundays, is just an inferno of din, filled with the 'noisome pestilence' (to borrow the psalmist's phrase) as pagan crowds roar by to coast and countryside in search of pleasure.

May the churches and bells of Shaftesbury never fail to send out their challenge and their appeal to all and sundry as long as the need exists—until God's work and will on earth is done: until bells no longer need to ring only to His Honour and Glory.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

A NON-RINGER AND RECORDED BELLS

Dear Sir,—It might not be inappropriate for a non-ringer to comment on the correspondence which has enjoyed the courtesy of your columns in the matter of 'canned' ringing. There is a great difference betwixt the sound of recorded bells, fixed bells that are struck, and free bells that are rung. It is wrong to quote gramophone musical records as proof that recordings are preferred or equal to the real thing. Many a lover of good music keeps records of his favourite pieces. If, however, the owner of such records is given the opportunity of hearing a favourite piece performed by a 'live' oprchestra he would rush to take advantage of it.

On the radio there is a noticeable difference in the production or reproduction of recorded programmes. It is at once unwise, ungrateful and untrue to accuse all ringers of being prejudiced when they put forward their objections to recorded bells.

To me it seems equally wrong to say that it is better for a church which cannot get a ring of bells to have a recording machine. On the contrary, the tolling of a single bell has a beauty of its own when heard over the hills and dales, but the tingling of obviously synthetic bells has to the sensitive ear the same effect as the jangle of an alarm clock on a frosty morning.

It was fatuous of one correspondent to refer to electronics and radar and to suggest—to put it mildly— that, therefore, we must have canned bells in preference to a band of humans.

Much more could be said, but I will content myself with the thought that bellringing should be encouraged if only for the fine influence it has on the youth of our country—a grand, healthy exercise with a glorious spiritual background.

With best wishes for your good work, believe me to be, yours faithfully,

ARTHUR M. MORRIS.

WORCESTERSHIRE PEALS WITHDRAWN

Dear Sir,—By an error on my part in transcribing a composition of 5,055 Stedman Caters by Mr. F. H. Dexter, I have now to withdraw a peal rung at Evesham bell tower on October 31st, 1953, for the Worcestershire Association.

For the same reason the following peals will also have to be deleted from the Association's records, numbers and years as follows:—2,638 (1946); 2,656 (1947); 2,722 (1948); 2,897 (1950); 2,913 (1950).

No question as to the accuracy of the original composition arises, for it was my own stupidity in wrongly interpreting the turning-course that produced repetition of changes.

In offering my humble apologies to all concerned, I can only hope they will in time be able to forgive me.—Yours sincerely,

GEORGE E. LARGE.

GISLINGHAM BELLS

Dear Sir,—I must thank Mr. Rush for his interesting letter in response to my inquiry concerning the Gislingham peal of 1822.

Some time ago I sent a photograph of the peal board to the 'East Anglian Magazine' and somewhat rashly stated that the peal was a record until beaten at Yass, Australia, a few years ago. This brought forth the letter from Mr. Steward pointing out longer lengths on six bells in England. I felt sure that when the Yass peal was rung it was stated that it surpassed the Gislingham record.

Now the Yass peal was on five bells, hence my inquiry whether the Gislingham method was Doubles or Minor. Perhaps someone will say when and where the record for Doubles was rung.

I pointed out that the bells at Gislingham were out of order and suggested that it would be rather nice if the bells were restored and the record regained.

However, record or no record, I think all will agree that these bells should be restored if possible. They were in a bad way before the war, and on a recent visit I found it impossible to ascend the tower as the staircase was choked full with nests, rubbish, etc.

Concerning the peal board, the treble is shown with a spade and a box-like object, which I took to be a coffin, and imagined the ringer was the sexton, but the tenor's emblem is clearly a shoemaker's awl.

The church is very interesting, having escaped the Victorian restoration, and contains some ancient stained glass showing the columbine and other wild flowers. The roof has recently been replaced but the restoration of the bells would probably be beyond the means of this small parish.

Alas, there are many rings of bells in a similar state where 'a stitch in time' would have saved many pounds. What a pity the Guilds, Societies and various experts do not interest themselves more in these matters; it would be so much better than arguing about 'canned' bells, methods, transpositions, grids and suchlike. They all sound much the same, anyway. Which do they think the ordinary 'man in the street' prefers, bells hanging silent or a recording of a mellow ring echoing quietly through the air? Let me whisper it, but he might even prefer 'canned' bells to the efforts of the local ringers, which may not always be so melodious!

BELFRY CUSTOMS

Dear Sir,—I was very glad to see the article on 'Belfry Customs' in your issue of February 5th. The restrictions on the use of bells in the two great wars have done more to effect the discontinuance of such traditions in 40 years than any other causes in the previous 400 years. It should be the endeavour of the present generation to trace and recover these interesting and romantic links with the past.

In this Dorset village two old customs have been handed on from ancient days. One is that of ringing a bell on Sundays at 8 a.m. independently of any service; the other is ringing a bell at the close of service on Sunday mornings.

I have lately been shocked to learn of even important cities having allowed the loyal tribute of ringing on royal anniversaries to fall into abeyance. When I was at school in Bath it was a grand experience to hear the bells of one church after another ring out in the early morning on these occasions, and the noble bells of the Abbey again at midday. It is true that in these prosaic times ringing during working hours may involve considerable difficulty and expense, but ringers may well take the matter into their own hands and ring in the evening without either orders or payment —as was done by the Cheltenham company in the days of Mr. W. T. Pates over 50 years ago.

In conclusion, let me make two practical suggestions. One is that, with last year's historic event still fresh in our minds, all bands of ringers make a point of ringing on Coronation Day, June 2nd. The other is that all ringers get together in their respective towers and ring on the day of the Queen's return from her imperial peregrination, so that she may be welcomed back to this country by the music of all the bells in the kingdom.—Yours sincerely,

F. LLEWELLYN EDWARDS.

THE STISTED PEAL

Dear Sir,—I cannot allow Miss Snowden's letter, published in the issue of February 5th, to go unchallenged.

She states that the Essex Association has taken no official action regarding the peal of Kent Minor rung at Stisted. This, I believe, is not the case, for, following a committee meeting of the said Association, one of its oldest and most respected members took me aside in the belfry and told me that it had been withdrawn.

It was, I assume, the conductor of that peal who wrote to 'The Ringing World' withdrawing it and it was unfortunate that the editorial staff confused it with the peal of Cambridge. However, that unfortunate situation has now been rectified.

Miss Snowden then goes on to speak of the etiquette expected amongst members of the 'Ringing Fraternity.' I would remind her that the attitude of certain people, in the belfry and elsewhere, is causing much unrest in the Northern Division of the Association and undermining the quality of the ringing.

They cause people mental stress in worrying about the peace, and in this emotionally unsettled state they cannot hope to give of their best.

Until we have unity and good feeling in all our belfries, thus producing a happy atmosphere, we cannot hope to achieve good ringing.

I am not going to enter into any controversy about footnotes for this subject has already been fully considered in your columns. It is sufficient to say, however, that I was unashamedly responsible for the one in question. The peal was, of course, to the glory of God.

Let us all in this coming year make a real effort to blow away the clouds from all our belfries and thus make way for the best of ringing.—Yours faithfully,

JOHN R. LEEMING.

Clapham Common, S.W.4.

NOTE.—We have received an official notification from Mr. F. V. Gant, hon. secretary of the Essex Association, that the peal in question was not accepted by the Essex Association for the purpose of their records, and it is also not included in the records of the Peal Analysis Committee for 1953.

We regret that a typographical error occurred in Miss Snowden's letter. She asks us to point out that she does not object to footnotes, but to 'useless' footnotes.—ED.

ODD CHANGES

For the first time in history, the Exercise can boast of having in its ranks a Lord Chief Justice, Lord Justice Cherry having been elevated to the position of Lord Chief Justice of Ireland. . . . The new Lord Chief Justice, whenever his duties have permitted, has taken his place in the service ringing at St. Patrick's Cathedral, Dublin, and has taken part in several peals. He has identified himself very intimately in the affairs of the Irish Association, at the head of whose executive he still remains.

The recent performance which we noted at Newcastle, where a visitor from Gosforth raised the tenor (37¼ cwt.) in 5 mins. 35 secs., recalls the occasion when Mr. James H. McCraken raised the tenor single-handed at Edinburgh Cathedral (42¼ cwt.) in exactly two minutes, timed by Messrs. W. R. Fyfe, J. R. Robertson and J. Whitson. This was on Jan. 25th, 1911.

[Mr. McCraken must have been a modern Hercules—or perhaps, as with Trooper Joseph Jones of the Life Guards, who was said to have raised St. Paul's Cathedral tenor by himself sometime in the 1880's, someone gave a little assistance from the bell-frame!]

ON CONDUCTING

By WILFRID G. WILSON

VII. CONDUCTING A PEAL—OLD STYLE

Now let us consider an ordinary peal of Bob Major and how our conductor will find the benefit of this Coursing Order method of conducting. Like Chapter III. this short chapter is included as a warning of what not to do.

Three times repeated. S instead of B half-way and end.

This is how our bob-caller will find the figures in a book. He must learn what bobs to call—nothing can save him that. He could learn those eleven course ends and then at each H he could check that the bells were still right. By mentally changing 4 and 5 he might remember the second block of eleven course ends. By mentally changing 2 and 3 he might also remember the third block (the half-way course end is 32456) and by mentally changing 4 and 5 again he might claim that he knew all the 44 course ends. That would be a considerable feat of memory, but it wouldn't help him at all unless any trips that developed happened to be at one of those 44 rows out of the 5,056. I couldn't do it and I certainly wouldn't try.

If our bob-caller were very conscientious he might even write out the whole peal (or one quarter of it) on the lines of the first example of a touch in Chapter VI. He would then be able to prove that the peal was true but that is about all.

But he is much more likely to confine himself to remembering the part ends, perhaps also the fifth course end of each part, as it is an easy one to remember, and then learn also the sixth place bells—5 and 6 in the first quarter, 4 and 6 in the second, and so on. If he wished to call the peal from any bell other than one of the tenors he would be worried all the time that he would miss a calling position unless he also learnt what one of the bells did at every bob. If he only wanted to do this for eleven courses he would have to ring the 6th, which is the only 'working' bell which repeats its work in each quarter.

There are, of course, many peals each week which are called in this manner—it is, I suppose, almost inevitable that one's early peals should be. But that they are successful is due, if we speak the truth, to the fact that no member of the band makes a serious mistake. If he does, and the method is a simple one, another member of the band may be able to help him, but in a difficult method the ordinary ringer must keep his thoughts on the work of his own bell.

HONOURS FOR SURREY ASSOCIATION

Some 56 ringers from 22 towers braved the snow and bitter wind on January 30th to attend the annual general meeting of the North-West District of the Surrey Association at Epsom. Ringing commenced promptly at 3 p.m. at Christ Church and all tastes were catered for in the following hour and a half. The Master's most difficult task seemed to be to make room for ringing, as no one wanted to leave the warm belfry for the cold outside.

At 4.30 the company adjourned to the Cricketers', where, by Mr. F. Oakshott's arrangements, an excellent tea was enjoyed. The business meeting commenced afterwards under the chairmanship of the District Master, Mr. F. E. Collins.

The committee's report mentioned a ringing membership of 289, and 16 peals were rung in 1953. These included one on handbells and consisted of three Doubles, three Minor, three Triples, three Major and one of Royal. The total was one more than the previous year.

The accounts, which showed a small increase in the balance in hand, were adopted.

The following programme for 1954 was agreed to:—Easter Monday, Esher or Egham; July 3rd, Dorking and Ranmore; September 25th, Benhilton; November 27th, Barnes and Mortlake; January 25th, 1955, annual meeting at Streatham.

It was also agreed to take part in the Four Guilds' Festival on June 26th and to have the usual joint meetings with the Leatherhead District of the Guildford Guild and the Lewisham District of the Kent County Association.

The following officers were elected for 1954, being the only nominees:—Master, Mr. F. E. Collins; secretary, Mr. W. Parrott (30, Hamilton Avenue, North Cheam); treasurer, Mr. H. Pitstow, M.B.E.; auditor, Mr. R. F. Layton.

After a ballot, Messrs. Adams, Lathbury and Peters were elected to the committee. A hearty vote of thanks was then passed by the meeting to Mr. Lathbury for his hard work and enthusiasm during his term of office as secretary.

The attention of the meeting was drawn to the unique succession of honours which had been bestowed upon active members of the District recently. The hon. treasurer had made history by being the first ringer to be awarded the M.B.E. for ringing activities. The Master, Mr. Collins, had just completed his term of office as Master of the College Youths, and Mr. Hawthorn had recently been elected Master of the Cumberlands. Mr. W. Hewitt had received a Coronation Medal. The meeting, in congratulating the individuals concerned, felt justly proud to count them as keen and loyal members of the District.

After the meeting ringing was enjoyed at St. Martin's for a further period.

THE VILLAGE BELLS

Trying to Please Everybody

We have a ring of eight in our village. It is the kind of ring that visitors will ring on once, to get the tower. When they do come they always ask in a surprised way, 'Don't you get complaints about the noise?' We didn't when we only rang on Sundays, but as soon as we resumed a practice night we got one persistent objector.

The Doctor, who lives right under the bells, after haranguing on their awfulness, said, 'Can't you ring them a bit softer?' I replied that perhaps we could do something about blocking up the louvres, if those people who lived near the church and objected to the bells cared to pay for it. As he is not particularly keen on parting with his money I thought that would probably be the end of the matter, but a few days later I met someone who had been to a sherry party the previous evening when the doctor was also present. My informant told me that the doctor had spent most of the evening canvassing his neighbours in the hope of getting support for his anti-bells campaign. The odd thing was that as soon as each person understood the purport of the matter, it was 'Oh, no, the bells don't bother us,' and 'We rather like the bells.' In the end the doctor got no support at all.

When I next met him I offered to block up the louvres at my own expense, and if he was satisfied perhaps he would recompense me a bit. We did a thoroughly good job, and boarded up all four windows three-parts of the way up at the expense of about £8 in materials. The doctor said that as far as he could see it made no difference and refused to pay.

This morning I was stopped in the village by the titled lady who lives at the Hall, the other side of the church, and is a little deaf. 'What's all this about the bells being muffled because one man objects to them? I never heard of such a thing. You take it all off, young man; we can't hear 'em at all.'

TRURO DIOCESAN GUILD

Joint Meeting at Camborne

A joint meeting of the Truro and Penzance Branches of the Truro Diocesan Guild was held at Camborne on February 6th. This was the first venture of such a kind. For Cornwall the weather was arctic, which no doubt accounted for some of the more distant towers not being represented. However, there was a representative gathering of sixty, which included Mr. W. H. Southcard (Diocesan Ringing Master) and the Rev. W. H. R. Trewhella (Diocesan Secretary).

Apologies for absence were received from Miss Eileen Symons, who was in Devonshire caring for sick relatives, and Mr. R. G. Clemens (Truro Branch Secretary), who was not too well, and also had the additional work of caring for his cattle in the cold.

The service was conducted by the Rev. G. F. Sandfield (Rector), who also gave the address. The Rev. D. A. Wood (curate) said the prayers and the Rev. A. S. Roberts (Penzance Branch Secretary) read the lesson.

Tea was served in the parish room and was organised by Miss Thelma Richards (Secretary of the Camborne ringers). Votes of thanks were offered to all who had helped to make the gathering a success. Congratulations were offered to Messrs. Stanley and Harold Seymour, of Redruth, who had just completed forty years as members of the local band, and hopes were expressed that Mr. Geoffrey Taysom's wife would soon be out of hospital where she had recently been taken for an emergency operation.

During the afternoon and evening the eight bells at Camborne, Tuckingmill and Redruth and the six at Illogan were available. A pleasing feature was the number of young ringers amongst the bands that attended. It is to be hoped they will all stick to and progress in the art, and be of assistance in whatever district they might eventually move to. It has been noted of late that many of the more progressive young Cornish ringers pass on to other parts of the country.

Office for the Admission of a Ringer to a Parish Company or Guild, and the Belfry Office

Dear Sir,—I have just had sight of a copy of the 38th annual report of the Norwich and Ipswich Association of Ringers, which dealt with the year 1919.

The Association was founded in 1877, and I presume that it has been split into the two bodies—The Norwich Diocesan Association and The Suffolk Guild.

I was rather struck by what I saw on pp. 6, 7 and 8 of the report, and I think it is of some interest to-day. These pages contained the two Offices as in the heading of this article, and they show that the former was approved by the Lord Bishop of the Diocese.

As far as the Office for Admission goes it contains the following:—

'The company of ringers and the clergy of the parish being assembled in the ringing chamber or the floor of the church beneath the tower, with the candidate or candidates for admission, the incumbent, or curate-in-charge, shall proceed with the office as follows:—

In the Name of the Father . . . Amen.

Psalm xv.

Lord, who shall dwell in Thy Tabernacle. . . . . world without end. Amen.

Then, addressing the candidate or candidates, he shall say:—

Do you desire admission to the Company of Ringers holding office in this church?

Ans.: I do.

Do you recognise the duty of setting an example of consistent Christian life and conduct and of attending the services of the church, to which you will summon others?

Ans.: I do.

Do you promise to conform to the Rules of this Belfry while a member of the company, to be attentive to the duties of the Ringers' Office, and to behave with reverence in the belfry as a part of the church?

Ans.: I do.

Let us pray.

Lord, have mercy, etc.

Our Father, etc.

V. O Lord, save Thy servant. . . .

R. . . . . let our cry come unto Thee.

Prayer—

. . . vouchsafe Thy blessing to this Thy servant. . . .

Then shall he place a bell-rope in the hands of each candidate and say:—

I receive and admit the (N) into the Company of Ringers attached to this church, to share the privileges and perform the duties appertaining to the Ringer's Office, in the Name of the Father. . . . Amen,

Responses.

Blessing. Amen.'

The second Office is preceded by the following:—

'In order to help us to remember that the belfry is a part of God's House, and that the art of ringing, like every other accomplishment, should be exercised to the Glory of God, the committee recommend the use of the following short Belfry Office on all occasions of practice and peal-performance when a clergyman is present to say it:—

'The Belfry Office.

All being ready, and the ringers standing to their ropes, the clergyman shall say:—

Praise Him upon the well-tuned cymbals:
Praise Him upon the loud cymbals.
Glory be to the Father, etc.

Assist us, O Lord, in all our doings with Thy most gracious favour, and further us with Thy continual help; that in all our works begun, continued and ended in Thee, we may glorify Thy Holy Name, and finally, by Thy mercy, obtain everlasting life; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Ringing to commence immediately upon the conclusion of the office.'

I dare say that, even as recently as 35–40 years ago, this or something similar was carried out in a number of places. Are there many such to-day? Perhaps the latter Office—any of the former?

Eye, Suffolk. CLAUDE RUSH.

THE SCOTTISH ASSOCIATION

The Scottish Association held a ringing meeting on February 13th at St. John's, Alloa. Some time during the year a point is always made of going to Alloa, and although this meeting was an extra one and the weather was poor, and also that there were competing attractions, such as the Rugby International between Scotland and the All Blacks, about 30 ringers were present from most of the affiliated towers and from various parts of England.

The Ringing Master, Mr. C. R. Raine, was at the last moment unavoidably prevented from attending the meeting, but Mr. W. H. Pickett, the president and former Master, kept the ringing going during the afternoon and evening.

Through the kindness and generosity of the Social Committee of St. John's all the ringers attending were entertained to tea in the Parish Hall, and any doubts the caterers may have had about being able to feed the unexpected guests were soon dispelled as there was more than enough for everyone.

The ringing ranged from rounds to courses or touches of Grandsire, Stedman, Erin, Plain, Oxford and Kent Treble Bob, Double Norwich and Cambridge. This was a greater variety of methods than for some time past and may have accounted for some of the roughness in the striking at times. R. W.

SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Appreciation of Mr. G. Jennings' Services

Members and friends of the Northern Division of the Sussex County Association wish to place on record their wholehearted appreciation of the services rendered by that genial personality George Jennings, who has recently resigned the secretaryship after holding office for several years.

We feel that for a long time his name will be identified with the Northern Division for several reasons, not least among them being his ability to impart to meetings that air of friendliness and welcome which makes attendance at these gatherings always worth while.

So, George, we say, 'Thank you for all you've done and here's hoping we shall still have the benefit of your company at future meetings.'

Mr. Jennings' successor is Mrs. Enid Rapley, of 48, Swindon Road, Horsham (Telephone Horsham 2238), and to her we wish every success. E. R.

With Harlesden Surprise Major on February 4th, a first peal in the method, 60 different Surprise Major peals have been rung on Willesden bells.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Ashford District at Bethersden

Although the day opened dull and rainy, the weather cleared and was kind to us for our meeting at Bethersden on February 13th. Ringing had to be delayed until 3.30 on account of a funeral at the church, but it was soon going with a swing. It was the first meeting there since the bells were overhauled, and a distinct improvement all round was noticed.

At 4.30 p.m. the Rector (the Rev. G. E. Parr) came to conduct the service, at which just over 30 members and friends were present from Ashford, Biddenden, Brabourne, Folkestone, High Halden, Horsmonden, Lydd, Maidstone, Marden, Newington, Smarden and Willesborough, with the local band. Mr. W. P. Garner was at the organ and Mr. C. Hillis read the lesson. The collection, amounting to £1 3s. 6d., was given to the Association's Belfry Repair Fund.

For the tea at the Village Hall, Messrs. Harry and Peter Jarvis had made all arrangements and had themselves paid for the hire of the hall. They certainly know the kind of tea ringers like.

The Rector joined the company at tea, but had to leave before the business meeting. Before he went, Mr. Willis thanked him for all he had done to advance ringing, and, in his reply, he thanked the Association for financial help given when his bells needed attention. He said that one of the traits he most admired in ringers was their comradeship and friendliness.

It was good to hear that, because K.A. meetings really are chummy affairs, and we like the clergy, at whose churches we are guests, to feel that the same spirit is extended to them.

The short business meeting included the election of two new members—Master John Hilder, of Bethersden, and Geoffrey Pearson (late of Lancashire, but now in Ashford), whose experience will be a welcome asset to the district.

The gentlemen who had done the local spadework in connection with the meeting were thanked. A return was made to the tower, where methods up to London Surprise Minor were rung.

It was good to see an increasing proportion of young members, and it was typical of the keenness of the ringers living in the locality that they ALL came to some part of the proceedings in spite (so rumour has it) of a certain important alternative 'engagement.' But then, of course, Bethersden has a high reputation to maintain. W. P. G.

FAREWELL TO THE PROVOST OF LEICESTER

At the recent annual meeting of the Leicester Cathedral Society of Ringers, the Very Rev. H. A. Jones, B.Sc., former Provost of Leicester, was presented with a five guinea book token on behalf of the ringers on his leaving Leicester for his appointment as Dean of Manchester.

In making the presentation, the chairman, Mr. H. G. Jenney, thanked the Provost for his unbounded enthusiasm and co-operation during his 16 years in Leicester.

The Provost, in his reply, said he had always tried to work together with the ringers and remarked that in the 16 years the occasions were very few indeed that he had had to say no to applications for peals. He thanked the ringers for the regularity of the service ringing and for all the effort they had so obviously put into it. He said he should take away with him the happiest possible memories of his association with the Cathedral ringers.

A special peal was rung on the Cathedral bells as a farewell. It was an unnamed method and to mark the occasion the name Stoneygate was given to it, that being the district of Leicester where the Provost lived for some years before taking up residence adjoining the Cathedral. H. P.

OBITUARY

MR. W. A. FITCHFORD

By the death of Mr. W. A. Fitchford on February 2nd, a long and active line in the service of change ringing ended. Commencing to ring at St. Margaret's Church, Wolstanton, in February, 1886, at the age of 13, he continued in the same tower up to the time of his death, a total of 67 years. He rang his first peal in 1892 and the last of his 90 peals in 1939. He accepted captainship of the tower in 1905, and his sole object was to train and keep a band of ringers to ring for the services of the church, and he only accomplished this by his determination and his magnificent leadership. During his lifetime of ringing he held the post of Ringing Master and Chairman of the local Association.

He was very proud of the fact that the eight bells were kept ringing during the first World War, during which time 16 ringers joined H.M.F. His only son is the youngest ringer to have rung a peal at the age of 11 in this tower and probably in the Association.

This example of service to the Church and to ringing should be an inspiration to all ringers of the present band and to all ringers in the country to endeavour to teach the art of ringing wherever possible and to give the best service themselves.

It is impossible to imagine the amount of work and time Mr. Fitchford put into his ringing during this long period of service, and only the older generation will remember his travels around the district teaching and conducting peals whenever his services were required.

By his passing a great gap has been made in his own tower, and another one of the pioneers of ringing in North Staffordshire has been called to higher service: it is hoped that the mantle of knowledge, experience, leadership and patience will fall on the ringers who now take on the work so ably carried out by him.

The interment took place at St. Margaret's Church on February 5th and was attended by a representative band of the North Staffordshire Association. In the evening a quarter peal of Stedman Triples, with the bells half-muffled, was rung by the following: G. W. Biddulph 1, A. Moore 2, Miss S. Collins (first quarter Stedman) 3, C. Page 4, G. E. Kettle 5, E. A. Edge 6, D. R. Whalley (conductor) 7, R. S. Anderson 8. D. R. W.

MR. E. W. JOHNSON

We regret to announce the death under tragic circumstances of Mr. Ernest W. Johnson, captain for many years of the ring of eight bells in the famous Saxon tower at Earl's Barton, Northamptonshire. On the evening of February 8th Mr. Johnson was knocked down by a car and he died the next day, without regaining consciousness, at Northampton General Hospital.

For 28 years he was auditor of the Wellingborough Branch of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild.

The funeral service was last Saturday afternoon at Earl's Barton and was attended by many ringing friends. There were many floral tributes, including a wreath from the Wellingborough Branch.

After the interment in Earl's Barton Cemetery the bells of All Saints' Church were rung half-muffled by the following ringers: Messrs. A. Bigley, branch secretary (Irthlingborough), D. G. Deighton, A. Wilson and R. Whiting (Higham Ferrers), A. Plowman and A. Stone (Wellingborough), B. Johnson (Ecton) and G. Neale, of Earls Barton. A. B.

MR. JOSEPH H. W. WHITE

With the passing of Mr. Joseph Henry Watson White, of George Eliot Road, Coventry, on February 6th, at the age of 75 years, the Coventry Diocesan Guild (formerly the Warwickshire Guild) has lost one of its founder members.

A resident of Nuneaton in 1907, he was present at the Dale Hotel, Warwick, on November 23rd, when the Warwickshire Guild was inaugurated, and he was elected as a committee member. He rang the fourth bell in the quarter-peal of Grandsire Caters at St. Mary's Church, Warwick, on that day to celebrate the birth of the new Guild. His first peal as conductor for the Guild was on May 10th, 1910, at Chilvers Coton, the method being Grandsire Triples. In the same year he removed to Coventry and joined the Stoke band. Ten years later he joined the Allesley band and was a member of that band until his death. However, difficulty of ascent to the ringing chamber caused him to transfer his ringing capabilities to Bedworth. The band there has made good progress under his tuition.

He worked enthusiastically for the Guild for many years, ringing 195 peals (42 conducted) by the end of 1952, when his peal ringing ceased. He was elected Ringing Master in 1930 and occupied that position for 14 years. At the conclusion of his Mastership, he became a vice-president. From 1932 to 1937 he represented the Guild on the Central Council.

The interment took place at London Road Cemetery, Coventry, on February 10th, when Messrs. A. H. Beamish 1—2, H. G. Summers 3—4, F. W. Perrens 5—6, and H. E. Sibley 7—8, rang a course of Grandsire Triples over the open grave. Messrs. J. L. Garner Hayward and O. J. Hunt also represented Guild members. Floral tributes from the Allesley band and also the Coventry Diocesan Guild were sent in remembrance of an old friend who had served so faithfully for over 47 years.

MR. ARTHUR MADELEY

To the memory of Mr. Arthur Madeley, who, since his retirement to West Somerset a few years ago, had been a very esteemed friend and colleague among them, the Minehead ringers rang the bells of St. Michael's Church, Minehead, half-muffled, on February 6th.

Mr. Madeley, who died at his home, Brakeridge, Middlecombe, Minehead, on January 31st, in his 85th year, had had a very varied and interesting ringing career and had rung in towers all over the country.

He started ringing at Lichfield and it was largely as a result of his enthusiastic leadership, when he was a churchwarden there, that in 1908 a new ring of bells was installed in the Parish Church of Rushall (Staffs). Much later —in the early 1930's—he was again leader in the movement which ended in the bells at Broughton, Preston (Lancs), being recast.

Although in later years he had not been an active ringer he was a frequent visitor to gatherings of ringers in many parts of the country, At various times he had been a member of ringers' organisations in Staffordshire, Lancashire and Somerset, but by nobody will he be more sincerely missed than by his friends in the Dunster Deanery of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association, with whom he loved to assemble.

THE RINGING WORLD

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

No. 2239 Vol. L. FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 26, 1954 Registered at the G.P.O. for transmission as a newspaper 4d.

PEAL RINGING IN 1953

WHILE the report of the Peal Analysis Committee does not bear the official stamp until it is presented and approved by the Central Council, the approximate figures to hand indicate that despite the splendid response the ringers of the country made at Coronation time, the total number of peals rung during 1953 was less than in 1952. The total was 2,567, of which 2,413 were on tower bells and 154 'in hand.' The record year was 1951 with the splendid aggregate of 2,925.

The following table of monthly totals indicates the response made during June for the Coronation:—

	Tower	Handbells
January ...	193	12
February ...	163	16
March	150	16
April	210	10
May	170	12
June	432	16
July	156	10
August	168	14
September ...	159	6
October ...	224	15
November ...	181	12
December ...	207	15
	2,413	154

A comparison of tower bell ringing is provided by the following table:—

	1953	1952	1951	1950
Maximus	27	36	39	31
Cinques	55	43	48	50
Royal	96	82	121	86
Caters	98	86	104	89
Major	887	906	997	938
Triples	331	339	315	297
Minor and Doubles	919	904	1,008	870

We feel the time is rapidly approaching when the Exercise should give serious attention to the art of handbell ringing. While there are many ringers who enjoy a touch 'in hand' and handbells are produced and rung at ringers' gatherings, the number of peals is steadily diminishing. In 1953 there were only 154, made up of Sextuples 1, Maximus 1, Cinques 8, Royal 10, Caters 12, Major 50, Triples 15, Minor 38 and Doubles 19. The decline of peal ringing 'in hand' is clearly shown by the following figures: 1952, 223; 1951, 293; 1950, 362; 1948, 382.

For the fifth year in succession the Leicester Diocesan Guild had most peals with 196, which was 10 less than in 1952. Next came the Lancashire Association with 135 (163 in 1952), followed by Essex County Association 131 (108), Kent County Association 130 (155), Oxford Diocesan Guild 126 (115), Lincoln Diocesan Guild 116 (118), Suffolk Guild 111 (82). Readers will note the rise in peal ringing in East Anglia—both the Essex Association and the Suffolk Guild having very good years.

THE LOST PEAL

By J. M. T.

'COULD we ring a peal of Stedman Triples on your bells?' Such was the question put to the Vicar by the conductor of a team of expert ringers from outside the parish. Permission was freely given by the Vicar, who by the grace of God and the law of the land has control of the bells. The date was fixed and the time for the start and finish, estimated to take a little over three hours. The Vicar was assured they had a splendid band and it was a dead cert they would bring it off.

The great day arrived and the time for raising the bells in peal. It was a lovely afternoon. The Vicar was a lover of the music of the bells and invited a few friends to come and listen. Deck chairs were brought out on the lawn and all settled down to the afternoon's enjoyment.

The first hour passed and the tapping was splendid. The second hour passed and the team were getting into their stride and the striking going strong. The third hour was passing and excitement was increasing. 'Listen now for the going into rounds,' cried the Vicar. 'It won't be long.' He looked at his watch and all waited with bated breath. It was the last course when all of a sudden the bells went crash, followed by a first-class muddle. 'They have lost it!' was the agonised cry of the Vicar. 'I'm off to the church.' He rushed down all speed to the belfry. He unlocked the door, for he had taken the precaution to lock the ringers in, lest some Nosy Parker should barge in and distract them.

What a sight met his eyes. There was the circle of ropes set at hand stroke and there was the circle of ringers, a woebegone company, hands under chins and elbows on knees. What a picture for an artist, entitled 'The Lost Peal.' Then followed the inquest, recriminations, charges and counter-charges. 'You should have come in quick,' 'You came in slow,' and vice versa. The conductor steps in and, sorting out, gives his decision. The culprit is tracked down and he one of the best ringers. The Vicar tries hard to give words of comfort and joy. 'Come, cheer up, my lads. I consider you rang the peal, in a loose way of speaking. Come and drown your sorrows in a cup of tea—I think the kettle is boiled—and have a go next week.' A sorrowful procession to the Vicarage, the Vicar condoling with the conductor.

The culprit afterwards sidles up to the conductor and whispers, 'What does the Vicar think about it?' The Vicar thinks it was a case of mental aberration. 'Mental aberration!' says the culprit. 'Never heard of it. What is mental aberration?'

LATE NEWS

Following upon the announcement last week of the record peal at Sheffield in 36 Spliced Surprise Major methods, the Lincoln Diocesan Guild rang a peal in 32 Spliced Surprise Major methods last Saturday, conducted by Mr. John Freeman.

BELFRY

A suggestion has been made in 'The Times' by a reader that the Queen on her return home should be welcomed by peals on bells, not only from Westminster and St. Paul's, but from every city, town and hamlet in the land, with all the bells synchronised over, say, five minutes. While a national appeal for service could be responded to by ringers, if at all possible, we feel certain that the occasion will not be neglected by those who ring peals and quarter peals.

Chester Guild are the first to ring Handbridge Imperial Bob Major, the name they have given to C.C.C. 207.

The band which rang the peal of Stedman Triples at Almondsbury, Glos, would like to thank Mrs. W. J. Cook for entertaining them to a welcome supper, and to Alan A. (Jack) Hilliar for taking everyone home after.

Mr. Ernest Morris has been confined to his bed for more than a week with an attack of bronchitis and influenza. The latest news from Leicester is that he is now on the road to convalescence.

Our next issue, we hope, will feature a special article, with illustration, of the band that established the new record in Spliced Surprise Major with a peal in 36 methods. Readers will join with us in congratulating Mr. Eric Critchley and his band.

A band composed of ringers from Folkestone, Lydd and Hyde rang a quarter peal for the wedding of the Vicar of Folkestone, Canon Ian White Thomson, on February 11th. The Archbishop of Canterbury officiated at the service. The last time a vicar of Folkestone was married in his own church was on January 9th. 1775.

GOSSIP

The Manchester University Guild are teaching a local band at St. Philip's, Hulme, where the bells wehe rehung shortly before Christmas. The Guild hope that the locals will soon be able to take over service ringing, which the undergraduates now perform. The Guild rang a peal of Plain Bob Major on the bells on February 10th, the first since before the war.

Owing to unforseen circumstances the annual meeting of the East Grinstead and District Guild has been postponed until March 20th.

We have still a few more copies of the Index for 1953 on separate sheets available for binding in 'The Ringing World.' When applying to the Editor please enclose a stamped addressed envelope.

The local service band at Knowle (Warwickshire) have rung their first peal of Triples. Who knows that, given the necessary perseverance, they might shake in future years the maestros at the Mother Church of the Guild? Congratulations on a good start.

The band which rang the peal of Double Norwich at Tiverton on February 13th would like to associate with it the name of Mr. Stafford H. Green. He is at present, by his doctor's orders, taking things very quietly, and as he was unable to take part, the conductor called one of his compositions.

The Editor must tread 'softly' when he goes North at Whitsun. On page 100 there was a typographical error in the peal of Stedman Triples at St. Mary's, Gateshead. The year appeared in print as 1854 and not 1954. We apologise to all concerned and especially to the ladies. We assure them that it has no reference to 'uncertain age.'

MR. C. W. DENYER'S SERVICE TO FARNHAM DISTRICT

Presentations by Local Ringers

SINCE June, 1928, six months after the formation of the Guildford Diocesan Guild, Mr. C. W. Denyer has held office in the Farnham District, either as secretary or ringing master. At the annual meeting of the District on February 13th, his resignation was received with regret.

Members showed their appreciation by presenting him with a leather dressing set, a three years' subscription to 'The Ringing World,' and finally at the business meeting they nominated him as a vice-president of the Guild.

Before the meeting and the general assembly of the 100 ringers who attended, a special compliment was paid to the retiring Master by the ringing of 1,260 Grandsire Triples on the bells of Farnham Parish Church, conducted by 17-year-old John Wells, who was later in the afternoon elected joint ringing master with Mr. T. Page, of Aldershot.

The Rector of Farnham (Canon G. N. Selby-Lowndes) conducted the Guild's form of service in Farnham Parish Church and also gave the address. The lesson was read by the Rev. K. C. Davis (Vicar of Hawley), who is a vice-president of the Guild.

The presentation to Mr. Denyer was made by the Rev. K. C. Davis immediately preceding tea in the Owen Hall.

A GREAT INSTITUTION

Mr. Davis described Mr. Denyer as a great institution. 'He is, in fact, so much of an institution that no one can think of the Farnham District without him, and some of you got a very great shock recently when he decided to give up as ringing master. In this part of the world, his name is a household word and, even before I came here four years ago, I had heard people speak of him. When I met him, I understood why. Charlie Denyer has not only been a ringing master, he has been a very good friend to all. I know he has been a friend to me, a very bad ringing parson.

'And now'—turning to where Mr. Denyer was seated near him—'he thought he was going to sneak out without anyone taking any notice.' Handing over the case and the envelope containing the subscription token, Mr. Davis said: 'This is with our love and our respect.'

Mr. Denyer, responding, said that the day had brought him three big shocks. The first had been when, at a quarter-past one, he had heard the bells of the Farnham tower ring out. 'I thought the clock must have stopped and that I was late,' he said. 'Only when I got across to the church did I find that they were ringing in my honour—and not half-muffled, either,' he added, amid laughter.

The afternoon's second shock had come when he discovered that instead of the 75 people he had expected to find at the service in the church, there were 100, and frantic messages had to be sent down to the Owen Hall to ask the caterers to prepare places for the extra ones. Now had come this third shock.

NOT GIVING UP RINGING

'I am not going to give up ringing,' he told the company. 'Why, I am not an old man, even if I do talk like one. What I have been able to do for bell ringing in this district, I have loved doing. But it is not I who have done it alone. You have been behind me. And while I do not really want to single out any individuals, there is one name I think I must mention, my "Pop," whom you all know and love'—and here Mr. Denyer, amid applause, turned to his father, Mr. W. Denyer, captain of Aldershot tower, who was sitting beside him.

'He is kicking me under the table,' added Mr. Denyer, to the further amusement of the company. 'When I was a lad of about 18 or 19, it was my father who was behind me and who kept me going,' he continued. 'And he has been behind me all the time. His efforts at Aldershot—in the "school," as we call it—have helped to keep bell ringing alive in the district. Now I am handing over to some of the young people, but, as I have said before, although I am giving up the ringing master's job, I am not giving up ringing, and my enthusiasm will not grow less.'

As Mr. Denyer sat down, Mr. Davis observed: 'There is a wonderful spirit among the ringers in the Farnham District. I have never known anything like it in any other district, and I do hope that you will continue to support those you elect to take Charlie Denyer's place.'

ANNUAL MEETING

For the annual meeting, Mr. G. L. Grover, general secretary of the Guild, presided. Mr. G. S. Joyce (secretary) and Mr. R. H. Mills (assistant secretary and treasurer) were re-elected and Messrs. Page and Wells elected joint ringing masters.

The Rev. Kenneth C. Davis, Vicar of Hawley, and a vice-president of the Guildford Diocesan Guild, making the presentation to Mr. C. W. Denyer at the annual meeting of the Farnham District.

In his report on the work of the district Mr. Denyer stated that they had reached a record membership of 180—17 more than last year. This was made up of 138 ringing, 23 junior ringing and 19 honorary members.

Reporting that there were seven more junior members this year, Mr. Denyer said, 'We have always had a large number of youngsters and it is important that youth in the Exercise should be encouraged to take over the responsibilities of the Guild and, encouraged and guided by older and more experienced ringers, keep alive the art of bell ringing. The cheerful, optimistic spirit of the Farnham District must remain. It is important to show these youngsters that, when they are regular, keen and really persevering, their presence in the belfry is welcomed and not just tolerated.'

After reporting individually on each tower, Mr. Denyer said the average attendance at meetings was 57. Peal ringing had been more to the fore this year with six having been rung in the District. He congratulated John Wells on his 27 peals, of which he conducted 15, and Miss Eileen Turner, of Worplesdon, who on August 8th rang her first peal and had now rung 13.

Mr. Denyer's report concluded: 'Although this is a joint report of the ringing masters and secretaries, I would add a personal note to finish. Since June, 1928, six months after the formation of the Guildford Guild, I have had the privilege and pleasure of helping with the leadership of the affairs of the Farnham District. I do not remember a single meeting or practice which you have not supported wholeheartedly. It has been a very happy 25 years for me, and without the co-operation of the tower captains and the active support and real friendship of all the members, we would not be in the healthy position we are to-day.'

Asking the members to support the new officers, he said: 'They have a well-trimmed ship to take over, and those of us who have had experience of leadership can assure them of our full support in its sailing. With these young ringers already mentioned coming along and with capable youth at the helm, I feel perfectly certain that the next 25 years can be as happy and progressive as has been the past quarter of a century.'

Two new vice-presidents, Mr. Bob Whittington, of Cranleigh, and Mr. C. W. Denyer were nominated. The evening concluded with a social, for which Mr. Harold Cole was M.C.

GLOUCESTER & BRISTOL ASSOCIATION

Bristol Rural Now the Leading Branch

The annual meeting of the Bristol Rural Branch was held at the Parish Church of St. Mary, Almondsbury, on January 31st, and in spite of a heavy snowfall over fifty members were present.

Ringing commenced at 3 p.m. and the eight bells were kept going to Stedman and Grandsire Triples and Plain Bob Major until 4.30 p.m., when the usual branch service was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. Mr. Radcliffe-Cox). Some of the local ringers' wives prepared tea in the Parish Schoolroom, and this was followed by the business meeting, with Mr. C. R. Harding in the chair.

The secretary and treasurer, in his report, stated that the branch had the most successful year since it was formed in 1935 out of the old Bristol Branch. Membership had reached the 200 mark, with no one in arrears with their subscriptions, and the 20 'live' towers were affiliated, this making the Bristol Rural the leading branch in the Association.

During the year ten meetings had been held, with an average attendance of 37. There was increasing evidence of younger people taking an active interest in branch activities. St. George's, Bristol, had returned to the branch after an absence of over 25 years and now had a very young but active band. Wapley would shortly rejoin.

The balance sheet showed an income of £35 13s. 11½d., of which £29 had been paid out to the general treasurer. Both report and financial statement were accepted.

The following branch officers were re-elected: Chairman, Mr. C. R. Harding; secretary and treasurer, Mr. W. F. Scudamore; Ringing Master, Mr. R. G. Hooper; representative on Management Committee, Mr. C. Baker.

Twelve new members were elected from towers at St. Werburgh's, St. George's, Pucklechurch, Wapley, Henbury and Almondsbury.

It was proposed to hold the next annual meeting at St. Ambrose's, with quarterly meetings at St. George's, Thornbury and Bitton.

Thanks were accorded to Rev. —. Radcliffe-Cox and to the local ringers for making arrangements for the meeting. W. F. S.

CHURCH ASSEMBLY DEPRECATES

Introduction of Recordings of Bells

Mr. Ivor Bulmer-Thomas was successful in his motion which came before the Church Assembly on February 8th on the use of recordings of bells from churches.

His motion, which was carried, read: 'That the Church Assembly deprecates the introduction into churches of recordings of bells and instruments simulating the sound of bells.'

In his speech Mr. Bulmer-Thomas said that bellringers had written to him objecting to the 'disturbing' extent that recordings were used. They said it was absurd for a ring of bells worthy of St. Paul's Cathedral to come from a tiny country church. It was a fraud, they said, whether there was no belfry or a belfry with only one bell.

GUILD of DEVONSHIRE RINGERS

Branch Meeting at Bradworthy

A hearty welcome was given to the North-West Branch of the Guild, when their annual meeting took place at Bradworthy, by the Vicar, the Rev. A. E. Dobson, on February 13th. Members and friends from Ashwater, Bridgerule, Bude, Merton, Okehampton, Petrockstowe and Stratton made good use of the fine six before and after the service, conducted by the Rev. W. H. Ravenhill. The Vicar preached and the collection of £1 1s. 6d. was given to the local Church Restoration Fund.

Tea, provided by lady friends of the church, was served in the Churchroom, and a good spread it was. Afterwards the business meeting, presided over by the Rev. W. H. Ravenhill, was held. The report and balance sheet, showing a credit of £7 3s., were adopted. The old officers were re-elected, viz.: Chairman, the Rev. W. H. Ravenhill; secretary and treasurer, Mr. J. W. Sangwin; Ringing Master, Mr. F. Sangwin; representatives to the General Committee, the Rev. E. P. James, Mr. F. Sangwin and Mr. R. Collacot. Mr. Luxton, of Merton, was elected a member of the Guild.

It was decided that the next annual meeting should be held at Ashwater and that a practice meeting should take place at Holsworthy on July 31st.

Pleasure was expressed at the recovery of the Rev. W. H. Smale, Mr. F. Sangwin and Mr. F. C. Smale from serious illnesses.

The Vicar was thanked for the use of his bells and his address, as also were the Rev. Ravenhill, the ladies who provided the tea, and Mr. R. Collacot, who did so much to make the meeting a success.

Rounds and the standard methods were rung, and later in the evening Holsworthy was visited.

BURES YOUNG RINGERS IN JUVENILE RECORD

ONE of the most encouraging features of change ringing to-day is the enthusiasm of young ringers. Here are six young ringers from Bures, who rang a peal of Plain Bob Minor at Pebmarsh, Essex, on February 13th. Their average age is 15 years, and they constitute the youngest band to ring a peal for the Essex Association.

Fourteen-year-old Donald Mills is the youngest conductor in the annals of Essex ringing. The previous record was held by Stisted, whose young conductor was 15, but their company was drawn from three different towers.

The success of the peal was in no small measure due to the grit of Richard H. Davies. He rang the last three 720's with a mutilated left palm, caused by the rope. He kept his pain and discomfort to himself until 'That's all.' After receiving first aid at the local captain's house, he apologised to Mr. Trendell for the blood on the rope and spoiling the beat, which is typical of his lovable character.

South Norfolk Branch

Fifty-five members and friends attended the annual meeting of the South Norfolk Branch held at Diss on February 13th. Twenty-six parishes in Norfolk and Suffolk and Heston (Middlesex) were represented. Mr. Ernest Whiting (Branch Ringing Master) was in charge of ringing during the afternoon and evening. Palgrave bells were also rung during the evening.

The service in the Parish Church was conducted by the Rector (Bishop W. B. Belcher); the address was given by the Rural Dean (Canon T. A. Nock). Other robed clergy were the Rev. A. St. J. Heard, the Rev. F. E. Vokes (who read the lesson) and the Rev. D. Ward (curate), and Mr. H. J. Watts (Lay Reader).

The annual meeting followed tea in the Corn Hall, the Rev. F. E. Vokes (Branch chairman) presiding, supported by the president (the Rev. A. St. J. Heard), the Right Rev. Dr. Belcher and Mr. W. L. Duffield (vice-presidents), the Rev. D. Ward, Dr. Paul Jonason, Mr. E. Whiting (Ringing Master), Mr. A. G. Harrison (Branch secretary) Messrs. H. Moss, E. G. Bennett, C. E. G. Banham, F. C. Roper, W. A. Lock and C. F. W. Phillippo (members of the committee).

All the Branch officers were re-elected. Mr. W. E. Slocombe, of Wellington, Somerset, was elected a non-resident life member. During the meeting the members stood in silence in memory of three members who died during the year: Canon J. A. Appleton (a vice-president), Mr. A. Sturman (Bunwell) and Mr. Garnham A. Blaxcell (Stowupland).

A successful report of the year's work was given by the Branch secretary. It was decided to visit Banham for the next meeting on May 1st.

CALEB BONEY — A LITTLE KNOWN FOUNDER

With the removal of the six bells from St. Minver, Cornwall, to Loughborough previous to rehanging there comes to mind a little-known bell founder named Caleb Boney, who between 1802 and 1814 cast four bells for three Cornish churches, and who was consulted on other bell work, but did not secure it.

Two of his bells were cast for Sennen (The Land's End) in 1810, but were recast by Mears in 1889, and one for Cancreed, also in West Cornwall, in 1814 (recast by Taylor, 1882). In 1806 Boney was called to Kenwyn Church, Truro, to inspect the bells and 'make an estimate of new casting.' According to the church accounts he was paid £1 12s. 8d. for doing so on August 4th of that year, but there is no record of any work having been done by him, in fact it seems that nothing was done until 1825 when the Rudhalls of Gloucester recast the treble, sixth and tenor of the ring of eight. Boney's home was at Padstow.

It was for St. Minver that Caleb Boney cast his first bell in 1802. There were four bells in St. Minver tower in the reign of Edward VI. (1537–53), but they were recast in 1727. It was the third of these four which was recast with the inscription, 'Caleb Boney Fecit 1802.' He was, however, not entrusted with a subsequent augmentation, for in 1814 John Pennington added a treble to make five. In 1875 the tower was rebuilt, and one of the few Cornish spires, rising to 115ft., was built. In this same year Messrs. Warner and Sons recast the 2nd, 3rd and 4th of these five, so Boney's bell disappeared. Warners added a tenor to make six. The fifth is, therefore, the oldest bell of the present six.

Messrs. Taylors are also rehanging the ring of five at Advent and that of six at St. Eval in Cornwall.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

RULES GOVERNING PEAL RINGING WANTED

Dear Sir,—I am rather surprised that the controversy re treble and tenor ringers claiming a peal in respective methods has gone on for so long when the solution appears so obviously simple.

In my opinion, a treble man in a treble dominated method and a tenor man in an odd bell method are perfectly justified in claiming to have rung a peal in that method. However, if this should be their first attempts and at a later date a peal is rung by them 'inside,' surely they would be amply covered by the addition of the footnote, 'First peal in the method inside,' or alternatively, 'First peal in the method on a working bell.'

I am tempted to think that a person who records such a second attempt as 'first in the method' is merely attempting to split hairs in order to start a controversy or gain cheap publicity if he is not genuine in his belief.

After all, the argument is so ridiculous that I was surprised that so many people joined in.

I am convinced that controversies of this type do not do the Exercise a lot of good and tend to show up the inadequacies of the rules governing peal ringing. Would it not be proper for the Central Council to set up a committee to completely redraft all these rules right down to the simplest details and then issue them in proper pamphlet form, to which all ringers could have access, thus cutting out all silly arguments in the future?—Yours sincerely,

W. A. THEOBALD.

Taunton.

THE BAND RINGS THE PEAL

Dear Sir,—Your correspondent, Mr. C. A. Levett, has certainly hit the right nail on the head! Most ringers only share in a peal to the extent of one rope or one pair of handbells, as the case might be. Under the circumstances, then, may we hope to see no more in the columns of 'The Ringing World' a list of Mr. So-and-So's 500 peals! If these boring lists must be published from time to time, at least give them their correct heading — '500 peals in which Mr. So-and-So has taken part.'

WILLIAM A. STOTE.

Coventry.

NOTE.—We do not agree that a list of peals in which a ringer has taken part is boring. We wish Mr. Stote had the same sense of pride as the Editor has had upon the completion of a well-rung peal.

BOURNEMOUTH RINGERS' RALLY

Dear Sir,—I am surprised at the tone of Mr. Fred Price's letter concerning the ringers' rally at Bournemouth, which is somewhat misleading.

Mr. Davis and I did meet in Bournemouth on Christmas Eve and we discussed the proposal to allow the dinner to lapse. We decided we would try to get the old committee together for a talk early in the New Year. It is rather an overstatement to say that we were going to attempt to arrange the dinner.

Not unnaturally I am very pleased indeed to know that the dinner is not to be allowed to lapse, and as I have already indicated to the four people arranging it, I shall support it to the best of my ability.

I must say that on re-reading Mr. Davis' letter I find it difficult to see what it is that Mr. Price has found to make comment on. As I understood it all, Mr. Davis said in effect that he was pleased the dinner was not to lapse and stated his reasons for being unable to continue the secretaryship.—Yours faithfully,

D. R. REED.

Ringwood, Hants.

WEST COUNTRY BROADCASTS

Dear Sir,—Referring to the announcement in your issue of February 12th with regard to ringing broadcasts, the list is not quite complete, as the final service in the series will be at Tiverton on April 4th. Of the five Devon towers, only St. Thomas', Exeter, and Tiverton will be ringing half-pull changes.

I believe that this is the largest number of successive ringing service broadcasts ever to be put on the air, and the thanks of all West Country ringers are due to the West Region director of religious broadcasting, the Rev. Martin Willson, for his interest and encouragement.—Yours faithfully,

E. J. TAYLOR.

Tiverton.

SHAFTESBURY—ITS CHURCHES AND BELLS

Dear Sir,—In my article on the above subject in the February 19th issue of 'The Ringing World,' I regret to say two errors crept in unawares, which call for correction.

I described our Mother Church of St. Peter as being 15th century when, of course, it is 13th century, which makes it older by 200 years or so.

Also, I stated that the former Church of Holy Trinity used to serve the Benedictine Abbey of olden times, but this was not so in the sense I implied for the great Abbey possessed its own church, which was dedicated to the Blessed Virgin Mary and St. Edward the Martyr. This church was destroyed at the time of the Dissolution, and now only the foundation ruins remain to be seen.

I apologise for these mistakes as I should be sorry to mislead any students of history as well as any readers who might be interested.—Yours etc., J. B. P.

SUFFOLK GUILD PROBLEMS

Dear Sir,—After all at Halesworth were in favour of subscriptions being raised to 4s. (or, more plainly, 1d. a week) also to the alteration of the annual meeting, it was then decided as to the place of the next meeting for considering the same problems. I was only too ready to suggest somewhere in West Suffolk to get the views of our colleagues there.

Our friends differ in opinion, but how could this vital problem be brought into operation immediately? Why was a committee meeting held and who was on that committee? Surely, sir, the annual meeting is the appropriate place to settle such problems. We here take a poor view of such a settlement. Maybe the cabinet of the Guild will take a serious view of this one-sided affair. Until then we carry on as usual.—Yours sincerely, L. G. BRETT.

Framsden.

SUFFOLK PEALS

Dear Sir,—I have read in recent issues of 'The Ringing World' one or two letters from Mr. L. D. Mills on how to improve the Suffolk Guild, but all I can see he has done so far is to discourage ringers and criticise the ringers of the few peals the Suffolk Guild rings. He claims that false peals are published, but surely the ringers who should be connected with the church should be trusted to publish nothing but true peals.

I conducted a peal at Monks Eleigh last year and this was said to be false, probably by the local ringers, who heard the peal and told us when we left the tower that we had not rung a peal because we had rung only 3 hours and the last peal there took 3 hours 20 minutes.—Yours truly, K. G. BROWN.

Ixworth, Suffolk.

METHOD EXTENSION

Clarification Wanted

Dear Sir,—I should like to point out two matters arising from the report of the Methods Committee on Method Extension, published in 'The Ringing World' on page 109.

Firstly, in Section 3, headed 'Surprise methods first published for 10 bells,' there is the statement that 609 is a duplicate of 548 (Langley). There is an error in Corrigan's notation for 609, the code letters in the column 'lh' being incorrect. This gives rise to an ambiguity, but I would suggest that the method intended as 609 is 'Langley without 2nds,' and not Langley.

Secondly, in Section 3, headed 'Methods first published for 12 bells,' it is stated that '868 extends from 627.' Now, method number 627 is, in fact, Prittlewell Surprise Royal (516). The committee have accepted method number 848 as Prittlewell Surprise Maximus. But method number 868 is NOT Prittlewell Surprise Maximus. How, therefore, can it be accepted as the extension of 627?

In fact, 868 has no Royal method corresponding to it. By putting one additional treble hunt into Cambridge, the methods Yorkshire and Pudsey are produced. No Minor exists for either of these methods. By adding another treble, the methods Albanian, Prittlewell and Solihull are produced. These methods have no Major or Minor. If a further treble is introduced (making four in all) it is possible to obtain four more new methods. These methods are Maximus methods only. Method number 868 is the method in this group which has 2 'dummy' trebles (if they may be so termed) below the real treble, and one 'dummy' treble above. It is not an extension of 627 (Prittlewell).

I should be glad if somebody, on behalf of the Methods Committee, would clarify these points.—Yours faithfully,

JOHN R. MAYNE.

Harrow.

UPHILL OLD CHURCH

Dear Sir,—In the report of the recent annual meeting of the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths the Master commented that Uphill Old Church was practically in ruins. That is not so. The Old Church is in very good repair, and as regards ringers coming from Weston every Sunday afternoon to ring the bells, it is all wrong. We have our own band of 13 ringers, who ring every Sunday WINTER and summer and also every Tuesday evening.

If we had to rely on Weston ringers these bells would never be used.

Uphill ringers often go to Weston to help them, not Weston to Uphill.—Yours faithfully,

CLAIRE M. CLARK, Hon. Sec.

Uphill, Somerset.

SUPPORT THE CLERGY

Dear Sir,—I hope Mr. Flint will excuse my laughter on reading his letter in the issue of February 5th. How many travellers are familiar with the priceless reredoses and carvings behind the altars in Italy which are hidden by sham flowers and dirty tin candles?

Another point re 'synthetic bells.' Mr. Hart says the effort of ringers is worship. How many consciously make ringing worship? The conspicuous absence of ringers at the services of the church has long been a scandal. Are not many ringers who advocate banning these recordings merely wishing to retain their pleasure?

Please, never let us attempt to bully the clergy; if they think synthetic bells will bring people to God (literally or metaphorically) we certainly ought not to interfere.—Yours faithfully, STEPHEN IVIN.

Houghton Conquest, Bedford.

LETTERS—Continued

SYNTHETIC BELLS

Dear Sir,—Necessity is the mother of invention; hence, no bells and/or no ringers. Necessity knows no law; hence, the installation of synthetic bell recordings.

Before the first world war I was employed in H.M. Dockyard at Devonport, in which town, or should I say three towns—Devonport, Stonehouse (over the halfpenny bridge) and Plymouth—practically every church, Anglican, Nonconformist and Roman Catholic youth organisations possessed a rowing-cum-sailing boat, either a six-, eight-, ten- or twelve-oared gig for physical exercise and pleasure. Outings were arranged weekly, according to the tide, up the Rivers Tamar, etc., or round the coast to Rame Head, Penlee Point, Whitsand and Cawsand Bays. Classes were included at all the regattas for these boats and some fine racing was seen and enjoyed.

I well remember when it was first 'mooted' that outboard motors be installed. What would scullers, and the public, think if the Oxford and Cambridge boats and boats at Henley Regatta were fitted with motors? Sentiment aside—it does not enter into the argument—for, after all, we ringers are primarily concerned with change ringing for Sunday service, practice night, Association and Guild meetings and, of course, a few peals, the introduction of synthetic bell recordings into ringing and motors into rowing boats is equally absurd, repugnant and unthinkable.

The Dean of York at the York Minster Society's centenary celebrations put the case extremely well when he said. 'Ringing has a beauty all its own, and it is an art which none of these substitutes can possibly replace, and this line is being taken by the York Advisory Committee and by most other Advisory Committees in the country.' Let us hope so. Whilst I believe, like Francis Lowe, that there is not the remotest possibility of 'live' change ringing ever being superseded by synthetic recordings, let us heed the warning by Mr. Ronald Dove of the actual happenings of firms interested in synthetic recordings actually employing door-to-door touts, and that in the Diocese of York and the county of Yorkshire, under our very eyes.

Do not leave anything to chance. Whilst it may never happen; you see that it does not happen to you, or anyone else; try and see that chancellors and diocesans will only, in very extreme cases, grant a faculty.—Yours sincerely, W. F. STENSON.

PEALS AT CHEDDAR

Dear Sir,—The peal of Grandsire Triples at Cheddar on Saturday, February 13th, was the first peal to be rung on the bells for nearly 40 years, the last peal being rung on Saturday, August 1st, 1914, by the following band: Samuel J. Hector 1, Frederick Iley 2, Albert E. Coles 3, A. Martin Daniel 4, William Flower 5, Walter Farley 6, Gabriel Chamberlain (cond.) 7, Albert G. Farley 8.

These are the only two peals ever to be rung in the church's history. Originally there was a ring of five, later to become six and finally augmented to eight in 1914.—Yours faithfully,

E. C. WICKHAM.

Cheddar, Somerset.

We welcome a new association—the Derby District of the Grammar and Technical Schools Association of Change Ringers, whose inaugural meeting was held in December. Full details will be given in our next issue.

The rededication of Buckminster, Leics, bells took place last Saturday. The bells have been rehung on ball bearings on the original frame, which has been strengthened and the fifth bell recast.

ON CONDUCTING

By WILFRID G. WILSON

VIII.—CONDUCTING A PEAL BY THE COURSING ORDER

Given sufficient practice in touches beforehand, the ringer who uses Coursing Order will only need to learn the position of the calls—an eleven course block in the peal set out in the last chapter—and it is neither a long nor a difficult job to do this:— W. 2B. 3H; W. 2H; W. M. 3H; S.W. 3H. But I will set out the first part of the peal, by the Coursing Orders, so that the changes made in those Orders by the various bobs can be seen. Remember A B C into B C A.

3 times repeated.

S instead of B halfway and end.

The composer would need to enter each row of figures under each column heading, but we only need to show one change of Coursing Order for each call. And remember we do not suggest that you need learn any of these rows by heart. You work them out with the three-letter code as you ring. You may feel that you would like to insure against your mind going blank and leaving you without an idea of what your five-figure row is. But as you hunt up or down you can pick it up again—it is only the order in which the bells are following each other.

Now you will want to remind me that there was a single instead of a bob at the last W. in the part and there will be an additional single in place of the bob H. at the halfway and the end. If you are transposing by course ends you will, I am sure, hesitate as to which pair of bells will be turned over by the single. But if you transpose by Coursing Orders you know that of the three letters B. C. and A, the bell represented by B. would run out at a bob and that represented by C. would run in. In a seconds place method like Plain Bob, the two bells in front at a call stay in 2nds and 3rds at a single instead of running out and in. Therefore, you can remember that instead of B C A you will have C B A, or you can work out the figures as if you were going to call a bob and then change over the first two of the three.

When you first called a peal you probably found that the most difficult part of the job was when you had three consecutive bobs W. or three M. or three H. And the simplest and therefore usually the best compositions are full of blocks like these. But most people, especially when they try to call in the way described in chapter vii., find the greatest difficulty in remembering whether they have called two or three of the three calls in one of these groups of bobs. In the composition given above it will not be the bobs W., or those B. or M. which will be difficult to remember, but whether or not you have called all the necessary bobs H. and must therefore call a W. at the next lead.

Look at the first group of three bobs H. in the peal set out above. The Coursing Order brought up by the bob B. is 46325 and we know by our ABC into BCA code, applied to the middle three bells that the first bob H. must affect bells 6, 3 and 2. 3 runs out, 2 runs in and 6 makes fourths, giving Coursing Order 43265. At the second bob H. the same three bells are affected—2 runs out, 6 runs in and 3 makes fourths place. The third bob H. on Coursing Order 42635 still affects the same three bells—6 runs out, 3 runs in and 2 makes fourths place, giving 46325.

Now examine what each of those three bells has done in the three bobs. 3 has run out, made fourths and run in. 2 has run in, run out and made fourths. 6 has made fourths, run in and run out. So you need only have taken note of any one of these three and watched that it carried out this three-fold cycle of 'out, fourths and in'—always in that order, whichever one it started with.

And here is another way in this composition of making sure that you call the right number of bobs H.—whether it be one, two or three. Just learn the order of the bells in fifths place. They are easy to see when you deal with Coursing Orders—they come first in the row (because they are next to the 7th). The bell which runs out at a bob H. is, of course, thirds place bell—it strikes third in the row at the lead end. But if at the next lead there is a bob W. the same bell will run out again, into the third place at the W. lead end, which is fifths place really. So if you know which bell is to be your next fifths place bell, you need only keep on calling your bobs H. until the bell in question runs out at the H. And then call the bob W. at the next lead.

For example, after the first group of three bobs H. in our peal, 6 becomes fifths place bell. So call your bobs H. until 6 runs out (i.e., at the H. which produced Coursing Order 46325). The W. is at the next lead and it makes 6 run out again and become the new fifths place bell.

So now, as a check on your counting, you can watch the bells making the three-fold cycle of 'out, fourths and in,' you can check that the right bell is coming up to the right place at the right time and you can transpose the Coursing Orders of all the bells.

POSITION OF NEW CHURCHES

Dear Sir,—Mr. Cloke, in a letter published on February 12th, suggested that a short consultation with the architect prior to the building of a modern church would ensure arrangements being made for ringing there. I wonder how he would deal with the problem set in the new town of Crawley?

In this rapidly growing satellite town the population is already too large for the Parish Church with its ring of eight bells, and the first of the new churches is to be consecrated in June. It has, also, been designed to house only one (non-existent) bell.

The cost of building as well as salaries for additional clergy must be borne by the diocese as the Church must obviously anticipate the needs of the town.

Every effort is being made to raise money and a 'flying squad' is shortly to be launched, but, even so, many thousands of pounds are needed, and any luxury item, such as a tower, must be sacrificed.

Two more churches are to be built in the near future, and the architect is now being selected for the first of these. If this is the moment to put forward the ringers' views, can Mr. Cloke or any other reader suggest ways of doing so?

It should be added that the Rector is fully aware of our feelings and is very sympathetic, but feels powerless in view of the absolute necessities demanding priority. — Yours faithfully. LENA STREET.

Crawley, Sussex.

THE BELLS OF TEWKESBURY ABBEY

By T. V. LISTER

SO far as I am aware there is no authoritative information as to when the first bell was installed in Tewkesbury Abbey. Some time ago an old book on the Abbey, which included a paragraph on the bells, was lent to me, and it included statements that may be authentic, but I have been unable to trace any authority for the statements made. Those contained in this article have been culled from the original churchwardens' accounts, minutes, and the Abbey registers as far back as they exist, and so far as these records are concerned the first mention of bells is in 1563. From the records in that and subsequent years, however, it is clear that there were four bells at that time, and that the lightest was referred to variously as the 'forebell' or 'little bell,' and the heaviest as the 'great bell.' There was also a sanctus bell, and no doubt a sacring bell, kept in the Abbey itself.

It is evident that there was a great deal of ringing, although probably not change ringing except on special occasions, and it is clear from the records that all down through the ages the upkeep of the bells was a continuous and heavy drain on the Abbey funds. It is worth remembering that during the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries bells were chimed or tolled to mark the canonical hours as well as to indicate the times of services and that this meant constant ringing. Tewkesbury was fortunate in that there was no opposition, but it was a very different case in old cities which had a large number of churches. Indeed, it is recorded that at Worcester in 1406 there was much trouble because the cathedral authorities complained of the interference caused by the ringing of the Parish Church bells at the same time as their own. The matter became so serious that it had to be referred to the Pope for settlement.

16th CENTURY MAINTENANCE COSTS

The following extracts from the accounts of 1563 give some indication of the cost of the maintenance of the Abbey bells. As a matter of interest it should be noted that roman numerals were always used in accounts in the sixteenth century, and this practice only began to die out gradually about 1609.

Payd for hanging of the greate belle and for nayles (nails)	iiid
Payd for making of a bawderiche (baldrick) and for wyre for the clocke of John Cooke	ivd
Payd to John Rekes for his workmanship in bracying of the greate belle	iiid

And in 1564:

Payd for a rope for ye lyttle belle	iiid
Payd for lycour (oil) for the belles	iid
Payd to Jerome for mending of forebelle clapper	iis viiid
Receyd of Maude Perlo for ringing	vid
Payd for xviii lbs of iron for ye greate belle clapper	iis iiid
Payd for the makying of the greate belle clapper	viiis iiiid
Payd to John Sandiford for too vent (?) bords to make ye third belle whele	xviid
Payd for sawing of them	iid
Payd for a whope for the third belle whele	iid
Payd to Reve for the makying of the same whele	xiid

So it will be seen that the maintenance of the bells in 1564 cost the churchwardens a total of 16s. 5d. This may not seem to be a very large sum, but when one remembers that the total annual outgoings for the abbey in these days was of the order of £25, it will be appreciated that 16s. 5d. represented a not inconsiderable amount.

Why did Maude Perlo pay for the bells being rung? Probably, one suspects, to toll for the death of her husband or child. At all events it is the first recorded occasion when a member of the laity paid for the use of the bells. As time went on the practice became much more general, especially for funerals and occasionally for weddings. As one reads through these accounts one cannot help but be struck by the way the cost of living steadily rose, and 250 years later Maud Perlo's modest sixpence had risen by gradual stages to seven shillings and sixpence.

USE OF BALDRICK

It may here be remarked, for the benefit of non-ringers, that the modern method of securing the clapper shaft to the inside of the bell is by a kind of metal hinge which allows the clapper to swing freely in the same axis as the bell, but not sideways. In the sixteenth century, however, and for many years later, the clapper shaft had an eye in the top and it was secured to a similar eye in the bell by a leather thong known as a 'baldrick.' That the baldrick broke frequently, with resultant damage to the clapper, is shown by the many times that items appear in the churchwardens' accounts for replacements of baldricks and for repairs or replacements of the clappers. It is surprising that, seemingly, Tewkesbury did not possess a blacksmith capable of undertaking this work, as we read that on one occasion a clapper was sent to Bredon for repairs, and, on another to Ashchurch: both being villages a few miles from Tewkesbury. On a third occasion the clapper of the great bell was sent to Newent for repair, a town some ten miles from Tewkesbury. The route was via the Severn to Ashleworth quay (a village a few miles above Gloucester), and thence by road to Newent. Possibly it received a lion's share of the work, but it is clear from the accounts that the great bell, in particular, was a constant source of trouble and expense. The use of the word 'lycour' continued for another fifty years or so before the word 'oyle' began to be used.

A DIRTY TOWER

In 1570 this entry occurs:

Payd to iiii men to ryd the donge out of the steple for viii dayes vi a daye a peace	xvis

One shudders to think of the state that the tower must have been in for it to take four men eight days, at this quite high rate of pay, to get it clean. During this period the sexton—John Cole—was paid 26s. 8d. per annum for ringing the bell 'morning and evening, winter and summer,' and for 'ryning of the Bowbelle at Crystmas.'

1586 records an amusing item which, however, has nothing to do with ringing, 'Paid Addis for keepinge dogges out of ye church, vid.'

In 1587 the little bell developed a crack, and the cost and steps taken to have it repaired make interesting comparison with to-day.

Paid for taking down the little bell	iiiid
Paid for caring the little bell to key and hanging the peise. (In other words, for taking it to the quay and stowing it on a barge)	iiid
Paid for caring the little bell to Worcester	vid
Payd for caring the bell into the tower	iid
Paid for nayles and plates for the little bell	xxiid
Paid for stocking the little bell	iiiid
Paid for casting the little bell	xxiiis

Thus the whole transaction cost the churchwardens 26s. 5d. In 1591 quite a spate of repairs occurred to get the bells in good condition 'against ye Quen's Holyday' (Queen Elizabeth), and it is somewhat disappointing not to find any entry of payment for ringing on that happy occasion.

SPIRE FALLS

In 1599 a most interesting event occurred. To those who have visited Tewkesbury and been impressed with the massive square tower, it may come as a surprise to know that up to 1559 the present tower was surmounted by a spire made of wood with wooden battlements. On Easter Day, 1559, the spire fell down, and beyond (one assumes) clearing up the wreckage, nothing was done to make good the damage. In 1599 two very energetic churchwardens were elected, John Cooche and Thomas Deacons, and they decided that something must be done after this lapse of 40 years, and it is recorded:

> 'Also these churchwardens undertooke to sett a battlement of stone uppon the topp of the tower as nowe it standeth where before was none but stoode as it was at the fall of the spier of lead which happened on Easter Deye in the first yeere of the Quenes Maris raigne (Queen Elizabeth) at which was a beautifull wooden battlement.'
>
> 'This battlement of stone they adventured uppon themselves by making of martes which suche as would take of them only was licensed them for that yeere to devise some meetinges to be held within the towne for theere helpe therein, etc., etc.'

All of which means that they undertook to raise the money by plays, the equivalent of bazaars, and other means. Exactly what they did and how they did it makes most interesting reading but is rather outside the scope of this article. However, they succeeded in raising £45 2s. whilst the cost of their battlements, production of plays and so on came to £66 6s. 3d. It says much for their energy that quite undeterred by being £21 4s. out of pocket—a very considerable sum—they promptly set to work the following year on the school house and it is recorded, 'Moreover these churchwardens undertook the newe reparyinge of the schoole howse anno 1600, etc.' Ringers, and indeed everyone, owe a debt of gratitude to Messrs. Cooche and Deacons for their energy in restoring and beautifying the Abbey tower. It is interesting to note that the stone used in the work came from Stanway Hill (some ten miles from Tewkesbury), as is shown by an item of expenditure, 'for hallinge over stones from Stanway Hill, iiii Li (£4).'

THE FIFTH BELL

Additional evidence that all during this period there were only four bells is shown by the following verse which is written in the Register of Baptisms covering the years 1607 to 1629.

> 'William Dixon and Thomas Hoare
> Made us that Bell which wee ringe before
> Which men for that good deede; praie we they maie thrive
> For we havinge but foure Bells they made them Five
> And out of the grounde this Bell they did delve
> The 24th of Julie Anno Dom 1612.'

This verse is followed by a conventional picture of a bell with the name Thomas Hoare prominently displayed on it, whilst under the picture in an entirely different handwriting is is this verse:

> 'The Bell Speakes:
> Wm. Dixon and Thomas Hoare
> Did sell me away though I runge befor
> Wch men afterwards did never thrive > for making us foure being once made five
> And sould me to Wales as I doe weene
> About Anno Dom 1613.'

This intriguing little story makes a number of questions spring to one's mind. Who were these two worthies? The minutes contain the names of all those attending, especially the annual meetings when the churchwardens, sheriffs, etc., were elected, yet their names do not appear at all, anywhere. Again, the second verse seems to imply that the bell actually rang at the Abbey. How, then, did they manage to get it out of the tower? Owing to the state of the roads in those days it is unlikely that the bell went very far, so if any Welsh reader in a village not too far from Tewkesbury knows of a bell obtained from Tewkesbury in 1613 it might be possible to link it up with this rather questionable transaction.

THE 'SERMON' BELL

There is little of interest for the next few years beyond the usual items of replacements and repairs, for 'licer' and bell ropes and so on. It is noted that in 1624 the bell loft was planked at a cost of 2s. 8d. and that in that year is the first recorded payment 'for ringinge the sermon bell, xviiid.' The 'Sermon Bell' was rung prior to the Reformation at relatively few churches, and was intended to indicate to the people that a sermon would be preached at that particular service, and the sanctus bell was normally used. After the Reformation the practice became much more general, though the sanctus bell was discreetly renamed the 'ting-tang' or 'Parson's Bell,' and was used to warn the parson that it was time for service. By 1626 the practice of ringing the sermon bell appears to have got well established at Tewkesbury, and it is recorded 'paid for a yeare for ringing the sermon bell, 6s.' In 1625 there is an entry which, whilst it has nothing to do with ringing, is a grim reminder of the troubles of that year. 'Item, paid for a booke for the visitation of the plague, xd.'

The next entry of any moment is in 1632 when this note occurs at the end of the accounts for that year.

> 'Soe the whole sumes etc of the towne and parishe by way of taxation towards the repair of the Church and new casting of the belles and other worke belonging to the same for this yeare past is £126 16s.
> 'And the whole layd out for the workes above written is £124 11s. 11d.'

In 1633 there is an item for 'vi bell ropes £1 1s. 3d.' which confirms that the casting mentioned above was to increase the bells from four to six. It is disappointing that there is no record as to where the casting was done, or by whom. In this year it is recorded also, 'To the ringers for ringing the 5th of November, 2s. 6d., the first entry of its kind, although historians will recall that the Gunpowder Plot occurred in 1605. Thereafter, for many years, the ringers rang on this anniversary.

DEATH OF MR. NATHAN PITSTOW

The Passing of a Great Composer

Death has removed from the Exercise another of its shining lights; Mr. Nathan John Pitstow, of Saffron Walden, Essex, whose name, as a composer, is as widely known as that of any man of modern times, has passed to his long rest. . . . His work was done at a time when composers had to explore for themselves, before the ground had been as well marked out as it is to-day by knowledge based upon the labours of others. It is as a composer that Mr. Pitstow will be best remembered—although he was a ringer of no mean order. . . . His 5,088 of Superlative has become almost a classic in that method, while his variation of Thurstans' peal of Stedman Triples is almost equally well known. . . .

[Mr. Pitstow had rung 182 peals, of which he conducted 28. Apart from ringing, he was a 'cellist, and in his younger days he made a name locally as a cricketer. He was in his 68th year.]

ELY DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION

Cambridge District Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Cambridge District was held in Cambridge on February 6th. The bells of St. Bene't's (6) and St. Andrew-the-Great (8) were in use until service time at 4.30 p.m.

The service, which was held in St. Andrew's, was conducted by the president, the Rev. Canon A. L. Woodard (Vicar of St. Andrew's). Tea followed in St. Andrew's Parish Room and was provided by wives of the local ringers.

The president was in the chair over the business meeting. The secretary reported that seven meetings had been held during 1953 and, in addition, six evening practice meetings for local ringers in their own towers had been held. Much good had resulted.

Canon A. L. Woodard was unanimously re-elected president. Messrs. J. Gipson, C. Hurst, C. Cook and H. Martin were re-elected Ringing Master, Deputy Ringing Master, secretary/treasurer of the Bell Repair Fund and secretary respectively. Dr. J. Brissard, Mr. E. Hibbins and Mr. F. Hurry were elected to serve on the committee. Messrs. M. Cleaves, D. Bullman and D. Stubbings were elected members.

Miss M. Grain proposed a vote of thanks to the incumbents for the use of their bells and to the ladies for providing tea.

The company then returned to the towers for more ringing, and the bells of the Church of Our Lady and the English Martyrs were also available. H. L. M.

OBITUARY

MR. ROBERT LINGWOOD

Mr. Robert Lingwood, who died on Tuesday, February 2nd, was a most faithful member of Sculthorpe Church, Norfolk, where he had been a worshipper all his life.

A bellringer of many years' standing, his great joy was to help young ringers to learn, and his quiet, sincere manner did much to encourage young people to ring and love the art. He joined with Fakenham Church ringers when no band was available at Sculthorpe and was a regular ringer on Sunday mornings, and when the Sculthorpe band was restarted he once again took up his task as tower captain, teaching new members and being their real friend. The bells were rung muffled at the funeral and later in the day.

THE RINGING WORLD

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

No. 2240 Vol. L. FRIDAY, MARCH 5, 1954 Registered at the G.P.O. for transmission as a newspaper 4d.

WITH PERSEVERANCE COMES SUCCESS

THE rain became heavier, and an occasional spot trickled discomfortingly down Albert's neck. This particular Saturday afternoon seemed even more dismal than the many other occasions when one looks forward to a change from the week's toils, only to be baulked by that particularly nasty weather that appears to save itself up for the week-end.

Albert gazed hopefully at the far-off tower and his head half turned to bring an ear in line with his distant objective. 'Ah! . . . that sounded like . . . yes! . . . no! — gone again.' 'Must be the church clock.' Albert trudged on along a typically wet, muddy, 'off the beaten track' country lane. 'Suppose that must have been 3 o'clock striking. . . . I'd have been there by now if it wasn't for the stupid time tables they have in these remote places.' 'Bah! . . . one bus every two hours and on a Saturday afternoon at that. . . . Can't understand why they bother to run one at all. . . . What time did it say the meeting is? . . . Can't hear a sound. . . . Perhaps . . . perhaps it isn't this week . . . perhaps I've got the date wrong!' Albert sorted feverishly through the pockets of his now very wet raincoat and at last came across a soggy and crumpled copy of that weekly publication, seemingly printed for the benefit of George . . . somebody . . . or other of Birmingham and a gentleman from Leicester; a quick search through the ads eased Albert's mind considerably and he stepped out with new-found energy.

A rather irregular yet melodious sound issued forth from the heights of a fine Norman tower; and Albert, rain and buses forgotten, strode happily towards a small doorway almost hidden by one of the huge buttresses. The worn steps were no handicap to Albert, who proceeded to climb them two at a time.

Another small door came into view. Albert stopped. His hand lifted the latch and in he went. A flurry of ropes came into view, shooting up to the heavy oak beams and down again. A big man wearing a large moustache frowned across at Albert from his soap box pedestal and with a contemptuous roar shouted 'This is all' . . . and with an air of boredom added . . . 'at hand stroke.'

Albert slid on to a vacant and out of the way portion of the seat situated between the clock case and the heavily laden coat rack and waited. A gruff 'Like a pull?' aroused him from a very industrious study of a piece of paper covered with very impressive looking blue lines. . . . 'Eh! . . . eh . . . yes,' said Albert, sheepishly looking up at the big man with the moustache. 'What's it to be . . . Cambridge . . . or London perhaps?' laughed the 'soapbox king.' Albert stuttered in confusion, '. . . I . . . I'm afraid I . . . I can only manage . . . Grandsire.'

Albert took the third. . . . 'Go Grandsire,' roared the big man. 'Thirds . . . then into lead,' whispered Albert to himself . . . 'hunt out behind . . . dodging 5–4 down next time.' . . . Bob! . . . 'Oh! . . . 7–6 down . . . who with? . . . the 4th? . . . the 6th? . . .' 'Dodging with the 4th,' shouted the big man with the moustache. Albert managed to get into lead after a short skirmish in 7–6. . . . 6–7 up . . . 4–5 next time . . . Bob! . . . 'into the hunt.' Albert got out of the hunt, and into another mess, this time with the 5th. 'Stand,' roared the big man with the moustache, and threw a withering glance at Albert. . . . 'Can't go on like that,' he said.

A rather dejected Albert walked out into the wet and miserable afternoon an hour later. 'Only one touch . . . and I made a mess of that. . . . What time did they say the next bus was? . . . An hour to wait? . . . Might as well walk it again.'

Albert pushed his hands deep into his raincoat pockets and slowly retraced his footsteps.

Postscript: Despite many discouraging occasions such as this, Albert persevered with his ringing, practising regularly and seizing every opportunity to increase his ringing knowledge without neglecting his Sunday service ringing obligations, and now often finds a place in one of the most prominent Surprise peal bands in the country.

Albert still has a lot to learn, but he realises that with perseverance comes success.

LATE NEWS

Ludgate Surprise Royal has been introduced to the Exercise, by a peal rung at Worsley, Lancs, on February 27th, conducted by Mr. C. Kenneth Lewis. The method is a slight variation of the original which was worked out by Mr. Thomas B. Worsley in 1928 when investigating the possibilities of the extension of London Surprise Major.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Mr. G. H. Spice, secretary of the Kent County Association for the past eight years, is not seeking re-election as general secretary at the annual meeting on Easter Monday. His resignation, which is prompted solely by health reasons, will be received with very deep regret.

Mr. R. S. Shutter, of Anstey, is the new district secretary of the Western District, Herts County Association.

Our 'Gratefully Acknowledged' column records the gift of 4s. for a lost peal at Crookham, Hants. A real smile in adversity!

Bedford Modern School have rung their first peal, one of Plain Bob Doubles. The approximate age of the band was 16 years, and they constitute the youngest band to ring a peal for the Bedfordshire Association.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Hubbard, of Langham, Rutland, hospitably entertained the band who rang the peal at Twyford, Leicestershire, on February 20th. Through the 'Ringing World' the ringers express their thanks to their hosts.

The Sussex County Association annual week's tour from July 4th to 11th this year will be in Yorkshire, staying at Ilkley. There are a few vacant seats and accommodation if anyone is interested. Please write Miss F. Wyman, next Post Office, High Street, Lingfield, Surrey.

The resignation of the Rev. C. Cowland Cooper from the living of Bicester was marked by a peal on the bells of the Parish Church on February 20th. He has been Vicar of Bicester since 1942 and president of the Bicester Deanery branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild since 1944. Mr. Cowland Cooper was an excellent president, and his own brand of humour enlivened the business meetings. The best wishes of the branch are extended to him in his retirement.

The peal of Cambridge Surprise Major at Northowram, Halifax, on February 20th, indicates the remarkable progress which has been made in Halifax during the last year or so. The two girls—Sheila M. Taylor and M. Vivien Copping—who rang very creditably, were taught to handle a bell less than 18 months ago. This is the first peal of Surprise rung by a band composed of Halifax ringers. Six are members of All Souls', Haley Hill, and the other two are from Northowram.

Two first peals in the method are recorded this week:—Shrewsbury Bob Major (C.C.C. 25) rung at Malpas, Cheshire, and Stoughton Surprise Major at Whitwick, Leicestershire.

Mr. Ernest Morris has given a recording to the B.B.C. for direct transmission to Canada in 'English Half Hour' series. It was part of 'A Visit to Leicester.'

Mr. John A. Freeman, Master of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild, returned home on February 27th from hospital after his operation. We wish him a speedy convalescence.

Perhaps now Wiveliscombe, Somerset, bells have been rehung, peals here will be more frequent. The band which rang the peal recorded this week included Mr. W. A. Theobald, who was responsible for the rehanging. The eight at North Curry and St. James', Taunton, all in the same deanery, have also been rehung by him.

With regard to the peal of 32 Spliced Surprise Major methods at Harmston, Lincs., on February 20th, the umpire checked the methods as they were rung, the bobs and every lead-end throughout the peal. Miss Betty Brown has the distinction of having rung Spliced Surprise Major in a greater number of methods than any other lady ringer.

YORKSHIRE PROVIDES NEW RECORD WITH 36-METHOD SPLICED SURPRISE MAJOR PEAL

The band that set a new standard in Spliced Surprise Major ringing by a peal in 36 methods at Handsworth, Sheffield, on February 13th. Left to right: Messrs. Norman Chaddock (Rotherham), W. Eric Critchley (Doncaster), John G. L. Gilbert (Handsworth, Sheffield), J. Frederick Milner (Southwell), Wilfrid F. Moreton (Wakefield), Howard Scott (Adwick-le-Street), Gordon Benfield (Pudsey) and Milton C. Fowler (Conisborough).

This week 'The Ringing World' is able to present to its readers the story behind the new record peal in Spliced Surprise Major ringing of 36 methods. The composer and conductor of the peal was Mr. W. E. Critchley. The performance, on February 13th, at St. Mary's Church, Handsworth, surpasses the previous record in 25 methods held by the Oxford Diocesan Guild.

One previous attempt to ring a 36 method Spliced Surprise Major peal failed. There had also been a practice. The band deserve the warmest congratulations of the Exercise on a really remarkable achievement. We append an inside story of this great ringing feat.

Stage fright was apparent when the band assembled at St. Mary's, Handsworth, on the afternoon of February 13th. Several jokes were cracked, but no one laughed. Rounds were suggested to try the bells and, as everyone seemed satisfied, the conductor called 'Go,' and off the bells went into the changes of the first method, Framley. By common consent the beat was a very slow one at first, as these bells, tenor 12 cwt., run very quickly, the local band often ringing peals in about 2 hours 40 minutes.

The first break in the tension came when Fred Milner and Gordon Benfield, on the 2nd and 3rd, smiled with satisfaction when they were called to do the long dodge on the front in Derwent; the conductor remarked enviously on this to the 4th, resulting in a row of grinning faces for the remainder of the lead, until a stern reprimand from a more serious member of the band restored order. Fred Milner was also highly amused whenever 'Lindum' was called, because, to avoid confusion with London, the conductor pronounced it 'Lindume.'

RECEIVED FIGURES ON BOXING DAY

'Maulden,' and the first part-end; the ringers of the fixed bells looked very satisfied; they had now rung all the work that was demanded of them. The conductor also relaxed slightly, and began to notice some of the expressions of concentration around him. Gordon Benfield, on the 3rd, looked fixedly straight ahead, apparently unmoved by anything going off around him. He deserves special mention, as he was only given a copy of the figures and composition on Boxing Day of last year, and had no previous practice at the peal—the rest of the band had had one evening's practice, and one attempt at the peal.

The tenor and seventh were doing a good job of work, maintaining a very steady beat and refusing to allow the bells to 'run away' in too high a speed. They also gave helpful and encouraging nods to those making any number of dodges or 'snaps' with them, to indicate the end of the work.

AIR SEEMED ELECTRIFIED

As the bells swung into the last third of the peal, the beat was becoming noticeably quicker; the conductor became a little nervous at this point; he seemed to have no time to think at all! As the last few leads approached the air seemed electrified, until the last lead of Maulden, then 'That's all' brought a finely struck peal to a close. Congratulations were heaped upon the conductor, but, as he pointed out then, it was the whole band who had rung the peal and who ought to be congratulated on a splendid performance. A local lady ringer had been listening downstairs to the peal and the calling; she said it sounded like a tour of England to hear all the names!

The band then repaired to the local hostelry to celebrate in traditional style and to meet the local Press. Here three of the band rang a touch of Spliced Minor 'in hand' to show they still had some life left. It is sad to relate, however, that on the way home the ringers of the 2nd and 6th went to the station refreshment room, and all they bought and shared there was a glass of water and a tube of aspirins!

The band would like to take this opportunity of expressing their grateful thanks to Mr. John Segar, of Retford, Notts, who spent some considerable time in checking the figures of the peal.

A NEW JUNIOR SOCIETY

On February 13th a general meeting of the Derby District of the Grammar and Technical Schools Association of Change Ringers was held at Brailsford, Derbyshire.

This Association was formed in December, 1953, to promote the art of change ringing amongst some of the younger ringers.

The business meeting came directly after the afternoon's ringing. As there were no minutes of the last meeting, held at Breadsall, the first item on the agenda was the election of new members and these numbered five.

A welcome was extended to members of the Association to attend, every Wednesday night, at St. Luke's, Derby, for handbell ringing. A vote of thanks was proposed to the Rector for the use of the bells.

Methods rung during the afternoon included St. Simon's, St. Nicholas', Stedman, Grandsire, Plain Bob, April Day and Reverse Court Pleasure Doubles.

Officers for the Derby District this year are: District president, the Rev. G. T. Perry; treasurer, D. Shakespear; peal secretary, R. J. Stretton; secretary, P. J. Skinner, 27, Rykneld Road, Littleover, Derby.

Will any person attending Grammar or Technical Schools wishing to join get in touch with the Derby district secretary.

LONDON COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Annual Meeting at Southwark

The annual general meeting of the London County Association was held in the Chapter House of Southwark Cathedral on February 6th. Ringing took place in the afternoon at St. Mary's, Lambeth, St. George-the-Martyr, Southwark, and at the Cathedral.

The members then attended Evensong in the Cathedral, at which the Precentor, Canon Brown, officiated, and the large choir of St. Luke's, West Norwood, assisted.

Tea was served in the Chapter House to approximately 80 members and this was followed by the business meeting.

Officers elected for the ensuing year were as follows:—Master, Mr. T. H. Taffender; hon. general secretary, Mr. H. W. Rogers; assistant secretary No. 1, Mr. W. G. Wilson; assistant secretary No. 2, Mrs. O. L. Rogers; treasurer, Mr. J. E. Lewis Cockey; senior steward, Mr. M. Meyer; junior steward, Mr. V. Neal; trustees, Messrs. J. A. Hales and F. Blewer; auditors, Messrs. A. D. Barker and E. Webb.

The Central Council members were re-elected for the next three years, viz:—Messrs. T. H. Taffender, H. W. Rogers, W. G. Wilson and Mrs. O. L. Rogers.

Six new members were elected at the meeting. In his report, the Master stated that 19 new members had been elected during the year, that 12 peals had been rung, two of which were firsts for the Association—New Cambridge Surprise Royal and Albanian Surprise Royal—which were rung at Isleworth. Mr. H. W. Rogers headed the list of conductors for the year.

The Master, with his mobile Sunday service band, had rung on 48 Sunday evenings throughout the year at churches where there was no local band to man the bells. He stated that good touches and quarter peals in Plain and Surprise methods had been successfully brought home.

The meeting stood in silence to the memory of its members lost by death during the year, one of whom was an honorary member, the Rev. P. W. Shepherd-Smith, a former Vicar of Isleworth and a loyal friend to the local ringers.

The finances of the Association were shown to be in good order with an adequate balance in hand, but the members were reminded that peal-writing fees were still to be extracted from this when the writing was completed for the year.

Votes of thanks were accorded to the Provost, the Rev. H. Ashdown, for the use of the Cathedral bells and the Chapter House; to the officers of the Association for their work throughout the year; and to the ladies who so ably prepared and served tea.

The handbell competition for the Dawe Cup followed the meeting, but unfortunately only one team was entered, that being from Christ-the-Saviour's, Ealing. They rang an almost perfect course of Grandsire Triples, and in the opinion of the judges deserved to hold the cup for the year.

After the meeting further ringing took place at the Cathedral until approximately 9.30 p.m.

SOCIETY OF ROVING RINGERS

Sixth Annual Reunion

Thirty-one members and friends of the Society attended the annual reunion held at Worcester on February 6th.

We met at Evesham early Saturday afternoon and enjoyed some 12-bell ringing on these already familiar bells, visited on our summer tour.

Most people travelled by bus to Worcester, except the enterprising few who hailed a taxi and arrived in style at St. John's. Cambridge Surprise Major and Double Norwich were amongst the methods rung on these eight bells before we walked briskly back over the river for our ring on the ten at All Saints'.

Dinner was held at the Crown Hotel, our headquarters for the week-end.

The business meeting began promptly at 8 p.m. with Mr. Mark White being elected as chairman. Apologies for absence were received from several members, including two on National Service. We were pleased, however, that two other H.M.F. members were able to spend the week-end with us.

In his report, the secretary, Mr. John Chilcott, said that both the 1953 Whitsun week-end and summer tour had been very successful and enjoyable. Two peals were rung by the Society during the past year, including a peal of Stedman Caters at Beddington in honour of the wedding of Raymond and Jill Parsons. A bedroom chair was our gift from the Society. Congratulations were also extended to Tony Oliver and Iris Purser on their engagement and to Bill and Hilda Kingcott on the recent addition to their family.

The following new members were elected: Mary Mundey (Devon), Cyril Lewington (Reading) and Terence Thornber (Leicester). Honorary membership was conferred upon Mr. W. Farmer (Shrewsbury), Mr. R. G. Morris (Worcester) and Mr. T. W. Lewis (Worcester).

Officers for 1954 were elected as follows: Ringing Master, Michael Chilcott; joint secretaries, Jeanette Winchester and Kathleen Weller; treasurer, Raymond Parsons; recorder, Audrey Bailey. The chairman proposed and members unanimously agreed that a vote of thanks be given to the retiring officers for their hard work during the past year.

It was decided to hold this year's tour in the counties of Hampshire, Wiltshire and Dorset, spending the Bank Holiday week-end at Yeovil or Sherborne. Oxford was also suggested as a rendezvous for Whitsun week-end, if it could be arranged.

After the meeting handbell ringing was enjoyed and the first touch of Stedman Cinques 'in hand' by the Society was rung. The evening concluded with songs, music and the usual social activities.

We rang for Sunday service at Worcester Cathedral, and whilst a few went on to Claines, the rest drank coffee. After lunch at the Savoy, ten members left by bus for Birmingham, where they were very warmly welcomed by Mr. Albert Walker and the St. Martin's band.

We would like to take this opportunity of thanking Mr. R. G. Morris, Mr. T. W. Lewis, our joint secretaries and all friends in Worcester who helped to make this week-end so enjoyable.

THE QUEEN IN AUSTRALIA

First report of ringing to welcome H.M. the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh on Australian soil was received this week.

On February 7th, at St. Mary's Basilica, Sydney, a quarter peal of 1,280 Kent Treble Bob Major was rung in 49 minutes by the following band: J. Sheehy treble, Miss M. Winter 2, Miss J. Hills 3, G. Logan 4, J. J. Cummins 5, E. J. Fowell 6, T. W. Goodyer (conductor) 7, L. Curran tenor (26 cwt.). This was the first quarter in the method for all but the ringer of the third.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Resignation of Hon. Secretary

Dear Sir—Very shortly there will appear in 'The Ringing World' a preliminary notice of the annual general meeting of the Kent County Association of Change Ringers to be held at Bromley on Easter Monday.

At this meeting the usual business of electing officers for the ensuing year will be on the agenda, and it is relevant to this election I wish to make it known in advance—feeling it to be in the best interests of the Association to do so—that owing to indifferent health over the past two or three years, I shall not seek re-election to the office of honorary secretary—an office it has been my great pleasure to occupy for the past eight years.

In bringing this impending change to your notice now, it is my hope that ample time is available to find a suitable successor. For some time I have realised that our Association is worthy of a secretary more energetic and enterprising than myself, and I am confident that among our number we have good ringers of the reliable go-ahead type from whom to select one who would not only find much pleasure in carrying out the routine secretarial duties, but would also prove himself an enthusiast in furthering the aims and objects of our Association.—Yours sincerely,

G. H. SPICE.

Sittingbourne, Kent.

INSPIRED BY 'FATUOUS'

Dear Sir,—That Arthur M. Morris should use the word 'fatuous' with reference to part of my original letter prompts me to request that he should keep to constructive criticism, expose an untruth or keep out.

The writer's many newspaper items and articles, visits to youth clubs for talks and handbell, change and tune ringing, two nights per week for some twenty years and regularly twice on Sundays entirely voluntary (and the enjoyment of every minute of it) are mentioned to remove the untruth this non-ringing correspondent lays at my door.

On a recent morning we had a reporter and photographer in our tower, which was all part of our effort to stimulate and maintain outside interest in the real thing.

Mention has been made of the B.B.C. and recordings: neither the interval signal nor the many broadcasts of bells suggest a tingling alarm to anyone, and your suggestions, sir, are in keeping with your resting back content that bell-ringing influences the youth of the country. I beg you, sir, go to your nearest tower and get some real hours in. One is never too old to learn, and I suspect you could very well teach others. I again beg the Central Council to appoint a committee to advise on standards, particularly on range and quality. This is what the churches without bells need—help, not abuse.

Bell-ringers' meetings, small or large, should not be a time for showing off by the Surprise fraternity, but a time when all ringers should renew their enthusiasm and spread encouragement. We badly need something in the nature of an annual gathering of thousands at York—for the North. What a privilege it was to attend such a service and hear the Minster bells—to come back with a memory of the real thing and to think of the Minster ringers there Sunday by Sunday.

A committee in London could do the C.C. work and know what they were doing. Bells, wherever they are, are our talents: if we bury them—through they be buried high in a steeple—we know our reward.—Yours very faithfully,

ERNEST L. HUMPHRISS.

Woolton, Liverpool.

NORTHERN DIVISION ESSEX ASSOCIATION REFUTE UNREST

Dear Sir,—I was amazed to read in Mr. J. R. Leeming's letter of much unrest in the Northern Division of the Essex Association, also of the lack of unity and good feeling. I am sure that if Mr. Leeming would go around the Division and meet the members he would find plenty of unity, good feeling and a happy atmosphere. I am proud to have been a member of the Division since 1921 and its secretary for the past eight years; and, furthermore, the bells of all the churches in the Division are rung (except two) to the glory of God for the Sunday services.—Yours sincerely,

HENRY A. PRATT.
Honorary Secretary,
Northern Division Essex Association.

COMPLAINTS SHOULD BE AIRED AT MEETINGS

Dear Sir,—As a member of the Northern Division of the Essex Association, I feel bound to reply to Mr. Leeming's letter in 'The Ringing World' (February 19th). It is not a personal challenge: he has challenged the whole of the Northern Division.

First, at a meeting of approximately 80 members, Miss H. Snowden was re-elected Master by a truly overwhelming majority. This proves that most members feel she is quite capable of the task. Not only that, but in the course of her work as Master of the Northern Division she has done a tremendous amount for the good of towers, ringing and ringers, and has not spared herself doing so. To my mind this proves she does not need reminding of her duties.

Then, 'the attitude of certain people in the belfry and elsewhere,' goes on Mr. Leeming, 'is causing much unrest in the Northern Division and undermining the quality of ringing.'

All right, Mr. Leeming, our Division meets about four times a year; everybody is entitled to air their views. Why not attend a meeting and state your case? This can be discussed and perhaps remedied. Those meetings are the place for complaints which concern the Division, not the columns of the 'Ringing World.'

Also to use this as an excuse for poor quality ringing is poppycock. The answer is practice, and not advance to a new method before the previous one can be rung perfectly.—Yours faithfully,

ALAN R. ELLIOTT.

Kelvedon, Essex.

DETAILS OF FALSE PEALS WANTED

Dear Sir,—When anyone has the unfortunate duty of withdrawing peals because they have been found to be false, may I ask that more particulars be kindly given? Simply to give the number of the peal in the particular Association's records is probably not even sufficient for members of the band who rang the peal. May we have date, method and place, please, as well as the reason for the falseness of the composition? This will help those who record these things, and I know I am not the only one who does so.—Yours faithfully,

K. W. H. FELSTEAD.

Radyr Ringers' Annual Dinner

Radyr ringers this year visited Caerleon for their annual dinner which took place on February 20th.

The party, numbering 28, were greeted on arrival and made most welcome by the Vicar, the Rev. Ivor Davies, who proudly showed them around his beautiful church. Everyone enjoyed the community hymn singing, with the Vicar acting as accompanist.

The ringers then went to the tower and soon the lovely eight were up and Grandsire Triples once again rang out. The captain, Mr. Trevor Lewis, maintained his policy of a fair share of the ringing for all members, and this ranged from rounds and call changes to Stedman.

All too soon the bells were reluctantly rung down and the party proceeded to the White Hart Inn where a delicious meal had been laid on. Mr. Edser, a churchwarden, presided, and thanks are due to Mr. Bill Heath and Mr. Harold Cassell for their help in ringing Stedman. Grateful thanks are also due to the Vicar.

DEDICATION

BUCKMINSTER, LEICS

Buckminster bells have been rehung on ball bearings in the original frame, which has been strengthened. The fifth bell, which was cracked, has been recast and inscribed to the memory of Sir Lyonel F. C. E. Tollemache and Lady H. H. D. Tollemache.

For the dedication on February 20th the beautiful Minster Church of St. John the Baptist was filled to capacity by parishioners from Buckminster and Sewstern and bell ringers from a very wide area.

The procession from the Rectory, led by the cross-bearer, choir, Mr. T. H. Simpkins (captain of ringers), the Rural Dean (the Rev. H. W. Sherwin, of Wymondham), the Rev. E. D Deane, of Sproxton, Lay Canon H. J. Poole (president, Leicester Guild), churchwardens, the Rector (Canon Williams), the Rev. H. Collyer (Goadby Marwood) and the Lord Bishop of Leicester, the Right Rev. Ronald Ralf Williams, D.D., entered the church during the singing of the hymn, 'We love the place, O God.' During the singing of the hymn, 'Hark, hark, my soul!' the Lord Bishop, clergy, churchwardens, ringers and choir proceeded to the tower. Mr. Paul Taylor, of the bell founders, handed the ropes to the Lord Bishop, and the Vicar said, 'Right Reverend Father in God, I pray you to kindly dedicate these bells.' He replied, 'I am ready so to do.' After the dedication prayers the local band rang a few rounds.

The Bishop, in his address, told the congregation of the significance of the ringing of the bells. They reminded people of their faith, called the faithful to prayer and reminded those outside of the church. Ringing for the newly married was in token of the happy union of those plighted in Christian faith; it was also a comfort to the sick.

This was the Bishop's first visit to a country parish since his enthronement.

After the procession had left the church a touch of welcome was rung on the bells by Paul Taylor 1, A. E. Rowley (cond.) 2, J. H. Cook 3, F. J. Williams 4, J. Beale 5, A. Fidler 6.

Tea was provided by the Buckminster ringers in the Institute. Mr. J. N. P. Richards, churchwarden, gave a welcome to the Bishop and Mrs. Williams; Miss Rhona Rayson presented Mrs. Williams with a bouquet, and Mr. T. H. Simpkins, captain of the ringers, presented the Bishop with a stick of Buckminster rock.

In the evening the visiting ringers made good use of the bells. Plain Bob, Treble Bob, Cambridge, Stedman and Grandsire Doubles were rung.

Ringers were present from Asfordby, Kirby Bellars, Melton Mowbray, Harby, Eaton, Waltham, Somerby, Wymondham, Leicester Cathedral, Sutton-on-Trent, Wilvey, Warwickshire, and Ibstock.

A CORNISH FIFTY

Congratulations will be offered by many to Mr. A. Hubert Eplett, who is a churchwarden at St. Mawgan-in-Pydar, on ringing his fiftieth peal. Forty-eight have been for the Truro Guild. Mr. Eplett only started ringing with his local stoney band in 1948, but his interest went wider, and he rang his first peal in the same year. His enthusiasm has been unbounding, and there is little doubt that his total has been reached more quickly than by any other Cornish ringer.

Sometimes a man is judged only by his fanatical peal total. Hubert Eplett must not be. Before a recent peal at St. Mawgan he had not only oiled the bells, but had lighted the church boiler for the week-end, to go into the stoke-hole after the peal to bank it down for the night, and then he took the band home to give them tea. Such churchwardens-cum-ringers are invaluable in any parish. Mrs. Eplett, too, has assisted in the total by consent and should be thanked. Ringers' wives spend many an anxious hour!

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD

Lyme Regis Bells Please Branch

The quarterly meeting of the West Dorset Branch was held at Lyme Regis on February 20th. Members attended from Beaminster, Bridport, Charmouth, Evershot, Netherbury, Lyme Regis and Powerstock and visitors came from Stalbridge and Templecombe.

The bells were raised in peal just after 3 p.m. and those who had not heard the ring since the recasting soon expressed their approval of this delightful eight. Methods rung included Cambridge, London, Superlative Surprise Major and the usual plain methods.

The Guild service was conducted by Canon C. C. Cox assisted by the Rev G. L. Tiark, recently inducted Vicar of Lyme Regis, who also gave a short address.

Tea was then taken in the Church Hall, provision having been made by the wives of the Lyme Regis ringers, who also defrayed the cost.

Preceding the minutes of the last meeting, Canon Cox expressed the thanks of the Branch to the Rev. G. L. Tiark for the use of his church and bells and said how pleased he was that the Branch should visit Lyme Regis so quickly after Mr. Tiark had taken up residence in Lyme. Canon Cox also thanked the Lyme ringers and their wives for the splendid tea, and Mr. Elsworth the Branch organist.

Apology for absence was read from the Rev. O. L. Willmott, who had a Confirmation service that afternoon. The accounts for 1953 were passed and showed a balance in hand of £42 9s. 2d.

Mr. J. Davis told the meeting that Netherbury had got about £50 of the £306 wanted to rehang their bells. The meeting voted that the Branch make a donation of £2 2s. from the Branch funds.

Mrs. Davis and the Rev. R. R. Powell were elected honorary members.

Canon Cox said that Litton Cheney ringers had expressed a wish to be transferred to the Dorchester Branch. The Branch secretary had seen Litton Cheney ringers and put their wishes before the Guild Committee, who approved the transfer.

SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Bishop Pleased at Number of Young Ringers

Seventy-one members attended the annual meeting of the Western Division at Chichester Cathedral on February 13th. Ringing commenced at 3 p.m. under the direction of Mr. R. P. Wood, the Ringing Master. The company filled the choir to capacity for the service at 4.15, which was conducted by the Rev. Mr. Fost, the lesson being read by the Bishop, Dr. Bell.

An excellent tea was provided at the Assembly Rooms by the Chichester ringers and friends, where Dr. Bell joined the company. Before leaving he was thanked for gracing the ringers with his presence both at the service and at tea. In his reply Dr. Bell said that it was very gratifying to see so many young ringers, and after thanking all ringers for the service which they render the Church, he took his leave.

At the business meeting which followed, the Rev. H. Woodford (Ringing Master from the newly-affiliated tower of Shipley) took the chair. The report and balance sheet, which were adopted, showed the very healthy condition of the Division.

The following officers were elected:—Ringing Master, Mr. R. P. Wood: secretary, Mr. W. L. Weller: committee, Mr. H. Weaver and Mr. R. P. Wood: auditor, Miss S. Richardson; Central Council delegate, Mr. R. G. Blackman.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION

North and East District Appeal for City Churches

The North and East District annual meeting held at St. Giles-in-the-Field, Holborn, on February 13th was attended by over 60 ringers who shared in ringing at St. Bartholomew-the-Great, Smithfield, and St. Margaret's, Westminster, in addition to the local tower. Evensong was conducted by the Rev. G. C. Taylor, Rector of St. Giles', who welcomed members of the Association and others who were present, and addressed the congregation on his belief of a religious revival, quoting Romans xiii., v. 12, 'The night is far spent,' as his theme.

At the business meeting the memory of Mr. George M. Kilby was respected, and the ensuing proceedings were under the chairmanship of Mr. W. N. Genna. The secretary, in his annual report, stated that 12 meetings had been arranged and an average of 25 ringers had attended; new members elected comprised one honorary life, 38 ringing and three non-resident life. A return of quarter peals rung at the various towers totalled 113, in which St. Mary's, Harrow-on-the-Hill, figured for the first time for many years. The return of St. Margaret's, Edgware, was welcomed, and reference was made to the present situation of some churches in the City of London where ringers were needed. The good work of Mr. H. Kirby was recognised, and congratulations were extended to Mr. William Hewett on his receipt of a Coronation medal.

The statement of accounts showed a balance of £31 2s. 2d., an increase on the previous year, to be carried to the Central Fund of the Association, and also an amount of £4 9s. to be credited to the Bell Restoration Fund.

District officers were elected as follows:—Mr. A. Cutler, Master: Miss E. K. Fulton, Assistant Master; Mr. T. J. Lock, secretary; Mr. C. F. Neal, assistant secretary; Mr. R. F. B. Speed, auditor: Messrs. R. H. Begrie, H. G. Hart and G. A. Parsons members of committee. The following were elected ringing members of the Association: The Misses M. Mesley and J. Wilcockson (Stanmore) and the Misses P. Harbridge, M. Pavitt and S. Clayton (Pinner).

A KETTERING VETERAN

The cover page of 'Keystone,' the monthly journal of the Church of SS. Peter and Paul, Kettering, contains a photograph of some of the ringers on this well-known ten ringing for service.

The captain of the bell ringers, Mr. R. F. Turner, must surely hold the record for continuous service to the church in one organisation, states 'Keystone.' He started to learn the mysterious art of campanology at the turn of the century and, 50 years ago, on December 30th, 1903, he took part in his first peal on Kettering bells, one of the Grandsire Triples, with the local team under the conductorship of the late David J. Nichols, whom he succeeded as captain in 1928. A brother, Mr. Morris A. Turner, who also took part in the peal, emigrated to Philadelphia, U.S.A., many years ago, and in 1937 Mr. Turner crossed the Atlantic to visit him. The only other survivor of the peal is Mr. Fred Tingle, now captain of the ringers at Ripon Cathedral.

We have always, ever since the very earliest days of change ringing, had a team of ringers well famed in the ringing fraternity for its proficiency, and it is hoped that the present team, consisting as it does for the most part of young people, will be able to ring a complete peal of Grandsire Triples in February to mark the 225th anniversary of the first peal ever rung on the bells, in 1729. We hope that this team will help to carry on the tradition in the future as there is much promising material, including six ladies at various stages of efficiency.

THE BELLS OF TEWKESBURY ABBEY

By T. V. LISTER

RECASTING THE GREAT BELL

In 1648 the Great Bell cracked, and although it was, of course, a much heavier bell, the cost of repairing it, as compared with that of recasting the Little Bell sixty-two years earlier, gives a very good indication as to how prices were rising.

Paid Prigwell for ye clapper and Balrigge of ye Greate bell	£1 5s. 0d.
Paid Thomas Wilshaw for slackinge and Hanginge ye greate bell	£1 12s. 0d.
Paid for a wheel for ye greate bell	13. 0d.
Paid ye bellfounders charges when ye bell came from Gloucester	14s. 0d.
Paid for takinge downe ye greate bell and for carryinge him oute	13s. 4d.
Paid for carrying ye bell to and from ye key	10s. 9d.
Paid for drawinge ye greate bell into ye tower	12s. 0d.
Paid for ye use of ye gable to wind up ye bell	3s. 0d.
Paid for bringing ye gable to and from ye key twice	4s. 0d.
Paid for carrying ye bell to Gloucester and bringinge it back	11s. 2d.
Paid for weighinge it att Gloucester	3s. 0d.
Paid for ye staple for ye bell	2s. 6d.
Paid for watchinge ye bell att ye key two nights	1s. 0d
Paid for charges att Gloucester when ye bell was cast	£1 6s. 4d.
Paid at Worcester att ye bargaine to cast ye bell	3s. 8d.
Paid at Gloucester for drawinge articles and other charges	6s. 0d.
Paid to ye bellfounder in earnest	2s. 6d.
Paid John Bernard for castinge ye bell	£14 0s. 0d.

It would seem that the 420 lbs. of 'mettle' was to increase the size and weight of the great bell. However, the great bell cost the churchwardens £37 0s. 3d. on this occasion.

In 1648 an item of historical interest occurs 'for ringinge att ye routinge of ye Scotts ye 7th September, 5s.' This undoubtedly refers to the occasion in the second civil war when the Duke of Hamilton invaded England on the side of Charles II. and was totally defeated by Cromwell's Ironsides at Preston.

In 1649 one Thomas Prywell was paid 3s. 4d. for 'shutting' the 5th bell clapper. This word 'shutting' appears constantly in the records and in the main refers to blacksmith's repairs. Perhaps the most modern equivalent would be 'welding' though it is interesting to note that the word 'shutting' is still in use by blacksmiths in Gloucestershire. Occasionally the word is used in reference to ropes, and in such cases one can only suppose that splicing is meant.

YOUNG RINGERS AND ROPES

There must have been some keen young ringers in Tewkesbury in 1650 as an item occurs 'received of the younge ringers towards buyinge ropes 6s. 6d.'

This year also brings another echo of the civil wars. On July 26th the ringers were paid 8s. 'for thanksgiving day for Scotland,' and in 1651 one Ffrancis Jeffries, who rented the churchyard, refused to pay more than 5s. 'by reason ye souldiers brought theyr carridges into it'; and on October 25th the ringers were paid 10s. 'being ye thanksgiving day per Mastre Baylifs order.' These incidents bring to our minds how young Charles II. slipped down the West Coast road from Scotland for a rash invasion of England, how Cromwell turned south from defeating the Scots, outmarched Charles, crossed the Pennines and reached the Severn valley when Charles was at Worcester. There he was decisively beaten and we all recall the story of his hiding in the oak at Boscobel. However in spite of these momentous events on Tewkesbury's doorstep, so to speak, the even tenor of life went on and in the same year we read 'Payd for ye casting of ye greate bell clapper and ye charge of carriage to Newin (Newent) and Bache 19s. 2d.' The carriage to Ashleworth quay, referred to earlier, cost 1s., whilst Mastre Clark's work men at Newent received 6s. 'for working ye clapper at ye fforge.'

It will be remembered that the Protectorate lasted from 1653 to 1658, and in 1654 it is recorded 'Payd ye Ringers 24th December my Lord Protector being proclaymed yt day 8s.' Under this entry, in an entirely different handwriting, is an observation which one can take as one likes, 'Who was ye grand Rebal.'

BUYING ROPES BY WEIGHT

We have noticed in our own times how the method of buying articles can change from numbers to weight, and in 1660 this occurred with bell ropes. Up to that day they had been purchased at so much each, but in 1660 it is recorded 'of Mr. Hornblow for five bell ropes weight 52 lbs att five pence the pound £1 1s. 6d.' This method of buying ropes continued until well into the 18th century when the method of buying them by numbers was restored. Either the ropes were of very poor quality, or there was a very great deal of ringing, because at least one new set was obtained every year. It is an interesting comparison to note that some of the ropes in use at the Abbey to-day (1954) have been there since 1933 without replacements.

In 1660 it is noted 'Payd ye Ringers upon ye Coronacone Day 10s.,' and in 1663 'paid ye ringers one ye 29th May 6s. 6d.' It will be remembered that May 29th was the date when Charles II. returned to England in triumph, and it was also his birthday. The practice of the Abbey ringers being paid to ring on May 29th continued until quite recent times.

HIGH FLOODS OF 1663

The exceptionally high floods of 1947 will still be fresh in the memory of many people who live in Gloucestershire, but high as they were, it is clear that they did not reach the level of those in 1663, because it is recorded 'Paid John Perrett for mending ye paving in ye body of ye church which by reason of ye fflood did sinke in many places and for ye like labour in other parts of ye church £1.'

In 1671 it would seem that the 4th bell cracked because there are numerous items for taking it down, conveying it by water to Worcester, for new metal and for casting, to a total cost of £24 8s. 10d. Although the work was done by a founder named Martins, there is also an item of expenditure of 5s. to 'ye bell founder at Gloucester.' One can only assume that this was for an estimate and that the Worcester estimate for the work was lower than that obtained from Gloucester.

On May 29th 1665, occur two items of interest, first, 'Paid for ringing 5s., and 'For ringing for ye Victory twice 3s.' From this date for approximately 150 years the ringers received regular payment for their services and the amount steadily rose until about 100 years later they were being paid 10s. 6d. two or three times a year. The ringing for victory no doubt refers to the capture of the New England and Virginia colonies on the American seaboard from the Dutch.

AN EARLY RUDHALL BELL

In 1678 there was more trouble with the bells but there is nothing to indicate what the trouble was or how many bells were involved. What is of particular interest is that the work of recasting was done at Bishop's Cleeve, a village some five miles from Tewkesbury in the direction of Cheltenham. One item is 'for halling ye bells to Cleave and back £1 6s. 8d.' Although it states that £10 was paid to the bellfounder for casting the bells, without giving the name of the founder, later on £6 was paid to 'Abraham Riddle' for hanging them. Again in 1679 something occurred which necessitated one or more of the bells being taken down as various expenses are listed including one to 'Abraham Ridall' for 10s. 6d., and to the 'bell ffounder for £7 14s. 2d. It is an historical fact that Abraham Rudhall founded his great firm in Gloucester in 1684, but this is clear evidence that he was operating in the county some considerable time before that. Perhaps he was still in the itinterant stage of his career and possibly collaborating with John Bernard, who recast the great bell in 1648. One wonders whether John Bernard was the founder who dealt with the bells in 1678 and 1679 and whether Rudhall eventually took over his business in Gloucester. Perhaps some reader could throw some light on Rudhall's activities for the years immediately prior to his founding his firm in 1684. Whatever was wrong with the bells in 1678-79 it could not have been very serious as the accounts show regular payments to the ringers throughout both these years.

NATIONAL OCCASIONS

It will be remembered that Charles II. died on February 5th, 1685, and it is evident that he had been in failing health for some time as we read that in 1684 the ringers were paid 10s. 'on news of the hopes of the recovery of King Charles the second.' The Abbey continued to mark the chief occasions in English history and the following year they rang for two important occasions—'to the ringers on news of the defeat of the rebells in the West several times 15s.,' and, 'more at the coronation of King James the second 5s.' The first will refer to Monmouth's abortive rebellion which culminated at the battle of Sedgmoor on July 6th, 1685 the last battle fought on English soil. The Battle of the Boyne, in 1690, when William of Orange defeated James II. was celebrated at Tewkesbury on September 8th 'ffor joy of the kings saffe returne into Ingland spent and gave to the Dromors (drummers) and toards a bonffire and ringing 6s. 6d.,' and in 1691 'For ringing for ye victory in Ireland 5s.,' also 'To ye ringers for ye taking of Limrick 5s.,' the last Jacobite stronghold to resist in Ireland. The occasion in 1692 when Admiral Russell engaged Admiral Tourville and beat him is shown 'To ye ringers for ye vicktory at sea against ye French 5s.' In 1695 the ringers were paid 'for ringing at the surrender of the Castle of Namur 2s,' and in 1697 'for ringing when peace was proclaimed 5s.' Historians will connect both these events with William of Orange's war in Flanders which lasted from 1691 to 1697.

(To be continued)

A POSTHUMOUS LETTER

In the papers of Pilot Officer Martin Jackson, R.A.F., who was killed in an air accident while training at Merryfield, Somerset, was a half-finished letter to the Editor. We feel certain that Martin's friends, especially those in Canada, would like it published:—

Dear Sir,—I was very interested in a recent article in 'The Ringing World' about a journey of 839 miles to visit a tower in Australia.

In another outpost of the Commonwealth there is a similar isolated tower, in Victoria, B.C., Canada. It is the only tower on the west coast of the North American continent to practise the art of change ringing. During a recent stay in Canada, training for aircraft duties under the NATO training scheme at Gimli, Manitoba, and Moose Jaw, Sask., I made a 1,500 mile trip to 'grab' Victoria. . . .

Mrs. Jackson informs us that the ringers in Victoria, B.C., were very kind and invited Martin to help ring the bells for the Coronation, which were recorded and used later by the Canadian Broadcasting Company on June 2nd. He was happy to be able to say he had rung the bells for H.M. Coronation, although on Coronation Day itself he was stationed at Gimli, Manitoba, hundreds of miles away from Victoria.

Martin was a great enthusiast for ringing and had 'collected' 84 towers, the last 14 during his few weeks on the R.A.F. station at Merryfield. The night before he died he had been ringing at Ilminster, helping to train some of their young ringers. But for the accident which brought about his untimely death at the age of 20 he was going up to Cambridge this October and was looking forward to his association with ringers at the University.

MR. WILLIAM RANFORD

Many ringers, I am sure, will join with me in paying a humble tribute to a great friend and ringer, William Ranford, of Suckley, Worcestershire. To most of us he was known as 'Father,' and all those who knew him will agree this name was not misplaced. He passed away on February 17th, at the age of 84, after a very short illness, and was laid to rest on Saturday, February 20th, at Suckley beneath the tower he loved so much and the bells which so often pealed out to his masterly touch. There, in beautiful sunshine, stood a large gathering of ringers and friends from Worcestershire and Herefordshire paying their last respects to a personality which will live long in the memory of all those who were fortunate enough to have met him.

He never seemed to grow old, always alert and ready to stand in; in fact, attempting peals right up to the last. He rang over 500 peals, for which he must have cycled thousands of miles to achieve. I will not attempt here to write about his ringing career; I am sure a much more able pen than mine can do that; but his absence among us will leave a great gap, and I am sure the way he would wish us to perpetuate his memory would be to enlist more ringers into our bands and never allow our church bells to become silent. We are happy to know that two of the family are carrying on the great tradition—son and grandson—and what pride it must have given 'Father' when all three rang together at Christmastime.

We extend our sincere sympathy to the family in their loss. G. J. LEWIS.

MR. C. N. SHARPLES

The sympathy of a wide circle of ringers will be extended to Mr. Charles Sharples, of Blackpool, who is one of the Lancashire Association's representatives on the Central Council, in the death of his son, Mr. Charles Norman Sharples, C.I.E., formerly deputy secretary, Commerce Department, Government of India. Mr. C. N. Sharples died on February 25th, aged 47.

Educated at Blackpool Grammar School and Selwyn College, Cambridge, Mr. C. N. Sharples entered the Indian Civil Service in which he had a brilliant career. He was made a C.I.E. in 1947 and retired to farm in Cornwall. He leaves a widow, a son and a daughter.

MR. J. E. CHURCHILL

An old stalwart of the Middlesex County Association has died in the person of Mr. J. E. Churchill. His membership of the Association extended over 50 years and he was a late member of St. Mary's, Ealing, band.

On February 18th, the day of his funeral, the bells of St. Mary's were rung half-muffled to a quarter peal of Grandsire Triples by the following band:—E. W. Coulson 1, W. Ellis 2, A. M. Stacey (conductor) 3, P. E. Clark 4, H. J. Eldred 5, J. H. Harrop (first quarter) 6, A. Harding 7, H. Belcher 8.

ANCIENT SOCIETY OF COLLEGE YOUTHS

At the meeting of the Society held on Feb. 13th, the following alterations were made in Rules 3 and 7:—

Rule 3. To read: . . . . and such other churches as may be officially selected from time to time for the purpose of practising change ringing, where the sum of sixpence will be collected from each member present.

Rule 7. To read: Each member ringing a peal shall pay a booking fee of one shilling for each peal entered in the peal book.

A. B. PECK.

THE RINGING WORLD

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

No. 2241 Vol. L. FRIDAY, MARCH 12, 1954 Registered at the G.P.O. for transmission as a newspaper 4d.

FUN WITH THE FOUNDERS

By ERNEST MORRIS

THE article by P. A. on bell inscriptions with invocations to the saints was very timely. It is amazing how many ringers (and more especially peal ringers) know little or nothing about the bells they ring! So long as the bells go well and there are six or more, they are content. How many study the bells from an historical or archæological standpoint? One can but call such persons bell ringers—not even church bell ringers, for they know and care little about the bells as part of the church. To them they are just something to practise and ring peals on. If they note a church in the country, no matter how grand or ancient and it has but three or four bells, they pass by on the other side! But should it contain, say, eight bells or more, then they are interested.

Yet what a wide scope there is for anyone, ringer or otherwise, to find out and learn something of the history, the romance, the unique inscriptions and other facts about the bells. Often one can find gems of the founder's art of bygone ages, and initial crosses, stops, illuminated lettering, arabesques and other decoration in great variety and interest. The inscriptions, too, are often quaint and amusing. Besides the invocations to the saints mentioned by P. A., there are inscriptions as to the usages of the bells: the early morning bell, which says, 'I ring at six to let men know when to and from their work to go,' as well as the curfew, the knell and many others.

In the Middle Ages and down to the 19th century the bell founders had more or less a free hand with inscriptions, and in the 17th and 18th centuries often let their imagination run riot. They often inscribed their bells with their name like:—

'Be yt knowne to all that doth me see
That Newcombe of Leicester made mee'

and variations from other founders, but in the West Country the Bilbies especially flaunted their prowess as founders far beyond others. Thus at Mark, Somerset:—

'Come here brother founders and here you may see
What sort of a workman young Bilbie may bee.
Hele challenge all Ingland for casting a bell,
Who will be the workman can be but dun well.
Tho Bilbie cast me 1727.'

At Publow:— 'I am a good bell
And Bilbie cast me
Which that a good workman
Come here and see. 1728.'

The tenor at Somerton (1714) will take some understanding:—

'Friend wroth and night (Knight) for all your spit
Ould Ed. Bilbie hath me rund
Pull me round and hear me sound friend such work you never don.'

And the Bilbies were not shy in calling other founders. Thus at Kilmersdon, Somerset, we read:—

'You Ruddle (Rudhall) & Cockey and see
Which is the best workman of us all three Thos Bilbie cast me 1733.'

At Compton Martin:—

'(3) My sound is good which once was bad
Lets ring my sisters and be glad. 1719.
(4) Bilbie come hear and see the shap of me.
(5) Sing sisters sing when I do ring
Some praise I will my maker bring
All thought I am the fourth bell
My makers praise Ile boldly tell.'

At Dunkerton, Somerset, we read:—

'Before I was broke I was as good as aney
But when that Cockey casted me I neer was Worth a penny.'

One cannot imagine present-day founders calling each other's work by such means, but in those days they were not so particular. Thus at Backwell in 1758 a Chepstow founder proclaims:—

'Bilby and Boosh may come and see
What Evans and Nott have done by me.'

On a bell at Richmond, Surrey, is:—

'Lambert made me weake not fit to ring
But Bartlett amongst the rest hath made me sing.'

The well-known lines at Badgworth, Glos, are here worth repeating:—

'Badgworth ringers they were mad
because Rigbe made me bad—
But Abel Rudhall as you see has made me better than Rigbe.'

Recently the writer, who is on the Advisory Committee, had some difficulty in getting the following inscription passed for the new flat 6th bell at St. Margaret's, Leicester:—

'My name is Margaret—I was cast
To show five hundred years have passed
Since this benign and glorious tower
Was erected in fourteen forty-four.'

What would the Chancellor have said to this from Okeford Fitzpaine, Dorset, 1658:—

'I often have been beate and bandge (banged)
My friends rejoyce to see me handge (hanged)
And when my friends doe chance to die
Then I for them aloud will cry.'

At Churchill, Somerset, we have:—

'Although my waise is small
I will be heard amaingst you all
Sing on my jolly Sisters.'

And in the same county at Sunkerton:—

'Harke how the chirping treble sounds so clear
While Rowling tom com tunbling in the reare. (1732).'

At Isle Abbots on the third we have:—

'I will not fayle to singe the part
Acording unto musick art
With my side mates I do agree
In perfect shape and harmony.'

And so one could go on finding inscriptions both witty and quaint. It is a common thing for the names of vicars, wardens, donors and others to be placed on bells even to-day, but very rarely do we see a whole family pedigree complete with ages given. At West Alvington, however, we have: (1) Bridget Mary Ibbert aged 5, Frances Ibbert aged 4 [given by Catherine Ibbert 1775]; (2) Willoughby Ibbert aged 1; (3) Peter Ibbert aged 9; (4) Peregrine Ibbert 10; (5) William Roope Ibbert aged 12; Roope Ibbert aged 1, Roger Prideaux gent, Catherin his wife, sister of William Ibbert Esq.; (6) William R. Ibbert Esq., Frances Ibbert his wife.'

Thus for anyone tracing this family tree these bells would be the greatest asset.

So one could go on finding not only such quaint inscriptions, but an endless variety of others, all of historic and archæological interest, well worthy of a closer study than many get to-day. To sum up all in a few words, the inscription at Buckfastleigh and other places around will suffice: 'Religion—Death and Pleasure cause me to ring.'

HERTS COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Northern District at Stevenage

A very successful and well-attended meeting of the Northern District was held at Stevenage on February 27th. The weather was springlike and the bells were soon going at 3 o'clock to various methods under the District Ringing Master, Mr. D. P. Jones.

The service was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. J. H. King), who also played the organ. The text for his sermon was taken from Psalm 111, 'I will give thanks unto the Lord with my whole heart: secretly among the faithful, and in the congregation.' This, he said, was what a bellringer did, gave thanks behind a curtain or tucked away in some ringing chamber where he was not seen. The hymn was taken from the dedication service held here some four years ago..

Tea was provided by the local band and served in the Rectory by the ladies. Some 39 members and friends did justice to the good fare.

The Rector most ably conducted the business meeting. Two new members were elected —Miss C. Chambers and Mr. P. Wells (Knebworth)—and Mr. S. W. Mynott (Graveley) was re-elected.

It was proposed to hold the next meeting at Aston on March 27th with Annable's London as the special method. A joint meeting with the Biggleswade District was left to the District secretaries to arrange. It is hoped to run a coach to the annual meeting on April 24th at Hemel Hempstead.

The Rector and the ladies were thanked for all they had done to make the District meeting a success. Further ringing continued until nine o'clock which ranged from rounds to Bristol and London Surprise.

The amount collected for the general funds was 23s. E. G. B.

NORWICH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION

Eastern Branch Annual

For their annual meeting the Eastern Branch visited Loddon, where, headed by the president (the Rev. A. St. J. Heard) and the Ringing Master (Mr. F. N. Golden), they were cordially welcomed by the Vicar (the Rev. C. K. Ninham) and the Master of the local company (Mr. H. W. Barrett), who is also the Branch Ringing Master. The eight bells were soon going to a wide variety of methods and the new ropes were well and truly stretched.

The service was conducted by the Vicar, the lesson read by the president and the organ was played by Mr. W. Bond.

The business meeting, following an excellent tea, was presided over by the Branch chairman (Mr. E. R. Goate) and amongst the very welcome guests were three members of the Parochial Church Council, who have been of great assistance to the local ringers.

All the Branch officers were re-elected, and because Mrs. G. W. Fletcher, to the members' regret, did not wish to stand for re-election to be one of the representatives of the Branch on the Association Standing Committee, a vacancy was created. Mr. G. G. Walpole was elected her successor.

Thirteen new members were elected to the Association, which was very gratifying to the assembled meeting.

Subject to permission being obtained, the members voted to hold the next meeting at Reedham on May 29th.

The proceedings concluded with votes of thanks to the Vicar, the organist, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Barrett and the band of ladies who provided the splendid tea.

A BRECON PEAL

The Brecon peal recorded this week had close associations for the tenor ringer, Mr. W. Frank Stenson, of Crewe, for whom the peal had been kindly arranged by the conductor, Mr. Wilfrid Moreton.

Mr. Stenson was associated with the Bishop (Glyn Simon, the Bishop of Swansea and Brecon) whilst he was deacon and priest at St. Paul's, Crewe, and took duty for him on the occasion of his Ordination at Chester Cathedral in 1928.

The Bishop met the band, thanked them for their compliment and wished them success with their peal.

Also included in the compliment was the Rev. David R. James, Mr. Stenson's Bible Class teacher when he was curate at Christ Church, Crewe, from 1908 to 1914, and now Rector of St. Mary's, Great Brickhill, Bletchley. Both are very loyal sons of the Principality.

It is nice to say that the peal was preceded by a prayer.

LATE NEWS

A new method of Surprise Maximus was rung at Leicester Cathedral on Monday. It is named Gartree. While the peal was in progress the conductor, Mr. Harold J. Poole, became a grandfather. Congratulations to Jill and Peter.

BELFRY GOSSIP

The Kingsclere peal recorded this week is particularly interesting, as these bells have long been considered a 'tough' job. They are hung in a huge timber frame, arranged diagonally in the tower. There are no windows and the sallies go round the wheels. However, a really good peal was rung with not much difficulty. The Vicar, the Rev. D. N. Thomas, was highly delighted and congratulated the ringers at the finish of the peal.

Owing to pressure on our space the third instalment of 'The Bells of Tewkesbury' is postponed until next week.

With the peal of Stedman Cinques at Lincoln Cathedral, Mr. John Freeman and Mr. Raymond F. Smith have 'circled the tower.'

Mr. Frank C. W. Knight has recently been appointed organist and choirmaster at Chilham Parish Church, Kent, where he hopes to render assistance to a struggling band of ringers.

The custom of ringing the Pancake Bell was observed at Morpeth Watch Tower on Shrove Tuesday. Miss J. S. Armstrong rang the sixth, the recognised bell, for 15 minutes.

The absence of one of the band enabled Miss Jennifer M. A. Kennett to score her first peal at Bobbing, Kent, on February 27th. Previously she had not rung a touch longer than 20 minutes. 'Congratulations, Jennifer, you rang well,' writes Mr. George A. Naylor, the conductor.

The handbell team at Guildford who on four evenings have found a peal of Plain Bob Major elusive would like to congratulate their conductor, Mr. Jack R. Worrall, on the success that attended his efforts with his colleagues of the University of Bristol Society. There must be something wrong with the air at Guildford.

The beautiful set of handbells used for ringing at the Henry Johnson dinner was being tried for the first time. The bells were a gift to Mr. G. E. Fearn from his wife. A wag suggested that now he might be able to score some of his peals at home.

The peal of Plain Bob at Hersham on Feb. 25th was a 'first conducted' by Mr. J. F. Dodson after nearly 32 years at the same tower. It was also a first peal for Mr. John King after 20 years' service in this tower.

Oxford University Society of Change Ringers had a special mention in Television broadcast, 'Conversation Piece,' on March 2nd. Mr. John Betjeman, the poet, was a member of the party. A correspondent suggests that he was once a member of the Oxford University Society.

The Hunts District make a speciality of quarter peals on Sunday morning. Meeting one short because of sudden illness, they set off seven miles where the service started a little later, picking up one more ringer en route. The quarter peal was completed with seconds to spare.

In connection with the Central Council's visit to Newcastle we are asked to state that with the exception of Silver Court Hotel, Jesmond, all the hotels mentioned in our issue of February 26th are within a few minutes' walk of the Cathedral, the Central Station and Headquarters.

The peal nearest perfection in which Mr. Jack R. Worrall has participated was one of Grandsire Doubles, which he called at Bristol on February 22nd for the University of Bristol Society. There were three small trips which hardly needed correction and the same number of bad blows. Mr. Keith B. Kear, the treble ringer, who was ringing his first peal, is to be congratulated on a faultless performance.

WHEN the 69th annual commemoration dinner of Henry Johnson was held at Birmingham last Saturday, the chairman was Sir Theodore Pritchett, M.C., D.L., a member of one of the most distinguished of ringing families. Sir Theodore, a former Lord Mayor of Birmingham, was a most genial chairman, and knitted together both members of St. Martin's Guild and their visitors into one happy family.

Sir Theodore was accompanied by Lady Pritchett and Mr. John Pritchett. Supporting him on the top table were Ald. A. Paddon Smith, Col. D. and Mrs. Paddon Smith, Mr. Albert Walker (Master of St. Martin's Guild), Mrs. Walker, Mr. F. Walker, Mr. G. E. Fearn (hon. secretary), Mrs. Fearn, Canon F. F. The Misses P. Reeves (York), S. Parker (Bournemouth), R. M. K. How (Epsom), M. E. Collins (Guildford), S. R. Collins (Newcastle, Staffs).

After the toast of 'The Queen,' submitted by the chairman, the hon. secretary read apologies from the Lord Mayor of Birmingham, the Bishop of Birmingham, the Provost of Birmingham, the Rev. Bryan Green (who was on his way home from America), the Archdeacon of Birmingham, Canon R. S. O. Stevens, and Mr. E. A. Barnett (secretary of the Central Council of Church Bell Ringers).

The toast of 'Church and State' was entrusted to Mr. Edgar C. Shepherd. He said that since their last dinner they had had the Coronation of Queen Elizabeth II., and only that week it had been hinted that ringers would be called upon to ring when their Queen landed in this country.

MAYOR MAKING

Last year the Provost of Birmingham reminded them that there were occasions when the Church and State did not work well together. He was very surprised when attending a conference with the clerk of Solihull over the ceremony of incorporation of this new borough to discover, when it was suggested that the children of Solihull should give a Bible to be used in the making of a mayor that there was no religious service attached to that ceremony. It was very strange that in making a mayor there was nothing of religious significance laid down by custom or law.

Mr. Shepherd paid a tribute to the contribution Church Schools had made to the education system of the country and that the educational principles in those schools were based on those taught by Jesus Christ.

Both the Church and State were very conscious of the importance of religious instruction, but while the State prescribed certain religious instructions he was afraid that they (the State) did not follow it up to see how it was done. Some of them felt that the Church was not sufficiently outspoken on matters of State policy or critical enough of the machinations of the politicians.

The Queen's Homecoming

A request has been made that church bells should be rung throughout the United Kingdom on May 15th, when the Queen sets foot on her native land.

This followed a question asked in Parliament on March 4th by Mr. Spencer Summers, M.P. for Aylesbury. Mr. Crookshank, Lord Privy Seal, in his reply, said that the Prime Minister had communicated with the Archbishop of Canterbury and the Moderator of the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland, both of whom had welcomed the suggestion. The Prime Minister was sure that the leaders of other Churches would be glad to consider it, and that so far as possible it would be put into effect.

In a supplementary question, Mr. Summers asked whether Mr. Crookshank would assure the Prime Minister that his answer would give widespread satisfaction to many of her Majesty's loyal and admiring subjects who were only waiting the occasion to greet her on her return.

The announcement was received with general approval, but there were some ironical cheers from the Opposition benches. Mr. I. O. Thomas, Labour Member for the Wrekin, asked: 'What about the bats in the belfry?'

Canon F. F. Guy Warman, in replying to the toast, took up Mr. Shepherd's point that the Church was not outspoken. He reminded the assembly of the recent death of Dean Inge, who wrote a book of outspoken essays and for his trouble was afterwards called 'The Gloomy Dean.'

A RINGING PARABLE

Although he could not claim to be a bell ringer, he knew when a new method was being rung on the bells of Aston by a band not familiar with it or when there were one or two novices in the band. He remembered being in the ringing chamber and two of the bells were rung too close to each other. Some of the more experienced members then started ringing with one hand and pointing in an accusing way to numbers 3 and 5. This went on for a minute or two and the conductor who was in charge said, 'Stand,' and the post-mortem started. Instead of ringing separately these two bells had tried to ring together. That was the trouble of Church and State. So long as they engaged in 'a plain hunt' and passed each other like bells at the proper place things were all right, but when they mistook each other's functions they were like two bells striking together and ringers knew what was the result.

The memory of the late Henry Johnson was honoured on the call of Mr. J. Frank Smallwood. At one time, he reminded the company, that important toast was proposed by men who knew Henry Johnson. Unfortunately, the number of such people had dwindled very sadly, so the duty of proposing the toast fell on those of the next or following generation. His memory would, however, be kept green.

Certainly the influence of Henry Johnson was very great. He was a man whose influence radiated all round and his work had stood the test of time, and his influence, even to-day, was still felt. He was a wonderful man—a man of great character as they had heard many times in that room. Men like Sir Arthur Heywood and the Rev. C. D. P. Davies even sought his opinion and advice, and there was no doubt that in later years John Carter built on the very rough foundation which Johnson laid.

WHAT HENRY JOHNSON WOULD THINK

He wondered what Henry Johnson would say if he could come back and survey the present ringing fraternity in that city. He would find things considerably altered in Birmingham. He would find three rings of 12 where there was only one, and one of those 12's was in his beloved Aston. He would find that one ring of 12 had come from each of the leading bell founders. Which was the best it was not for him to say, but his friend Langdon would say they were all drawing room jobs. He would also find that every ring of bells in Birmingham had either been augmented or restored, which was a great tribute to the keenness of the ringers.

Johnson would then take a wider look round and he would see the Central Council, with the formation of which he had something to do, and observe that it was a great concern. He heard a well-known North of England ringer describe the Central Council as an outstanding example of 'complacent futility.' The best thing would be to put that sort of gentleman on the Council and make him lend a hand in improving it. He would also find that the ringers of to-day had their own newspaper when they had to be content with an odd column or two in a sporting journal. He thought Johnson would be pleased with it and he thought he would also be pleased to see that the youngsters were coming to the fore and playing a big part in the doings of the ringing Exercise.

There were, however, some things in Birmingham that he would not like. He did not think Johnson would be in favour of ringing peals on the front eight of 12. They must not say too much about that as on more than one occasion he rang the fourth on the front eight at the Bullring and they did not then have a flat six. They were now hoping to go one better and have not merely a flat six, but a sharp second.

ONE SURVIVOR

The toast was drunk in silence. Then the chairman asked those in the company who knew Henry Johnson to stand. There was only one, —Mr. George T. Mitchison—and he received a great ovation.

Mr. F. W. Perrens proposed the toast of 'Continued Prosperity to the St. Martin's Guild.' The toast, he said, had been proposed year by year, and it struck him that by now 'this prosperity' must have produced a very fine guild.

There were many factors by which they could judge the prosperity of a ringing guild. As regards membership their numbers were small, but as the Guild covered a very small area in relation to the number of towers their membership was satisfactory. Also their finances were very satisfactory.

As to ringing he would divide it into two sections. If they were to judge by the increased number of peals rung in recent years, then the prosperity must be tremendous. Were they right with that? Of course there was a tremendous number compared with years ago—and he did not know what Henry Johnson would think of the many new major Surprise methods. Should it be quantity or quality? He did not refer to the difficulty or otherwise of the method, but rather to the striking in the method, and he thought that was one of the important factors to which they should give every attention possible. As to the more important section of service ringing, he thought anyone who knew the service ringing done by the bands associated with the Guild would agree that it was at a tip-top level.

Another factor was harmony and good fellowship, and they hoped it existed in all the bands and in the Guild as a whole. They often read in 'The Ringing World' about somebody making a speech and saying he had never met such a spirit in any other part of the country. He found that the spirit was much the same everywhere and in that respect the St. Martin's Guild claimed to be second to none.

THE OFFICERS

The St. Martin's Guild had been very fortunate in its officers for a great many years. They remembered when the late Ald. J. S. Pritchett, uncle of their chairman, was Master. To-day they had their 'young and little wonder' Albert Walker, as their Master, who was one of the outstanding personalities of the Exercise. They congratulated him on ringing his 800th peal as recently as last December and included in that list was over 500 twelve-bell peals—a record he thought that would last for many years.

As his right-hand man was John Pinfold, their Ringing Master. He happened to look at a ringing journal for 1907 and found that John was one of the founder-members of the Warwickshire Guild. Mr. Frank Smallwood's name was also in that select number. John Pinfold had a quiet, unassuming personality and he got on with the job and was a great asset to the Guild. Since his election he had proved one thing—that it was not essential for a very successful ringing master to be an expert conductor.

In the important job of secretary in recent years they had had very few holders of the office. Previously they had their late friend, Tom Reeves, a very faithful secretary for 20 years, and before him Ald. Paddon Smith did 20 years' service and they were pleased to see him with them. Their present secretary, George Fearn, was carrying on the job marvellously. He wondered if his wife did the work of secretary while he went out ringing. Apart from that he found time to do his own garden. Did he dig at the same rate as he rang, at roughly 30 rows a minute? (laughter). 'As long as the spirit as exists in this Guild continues, and as long as we have the same capable officers, I am quite certain that the prosperity of this Guild will continue year by year.'

Mr. Albert Walker, who was warmly received on rising to reply, took up the theme of what would Henry Johnson think to-day of their ringing. Ringing in the past, declared Mr. Walker, was much better from the striking point of view than to-day. He did not mean that the bells were badly struck, but they were rung much too fast and especially on 10 or 12 bells. If they rang a good peal in the Bullring it must take 3 hours 40 minutes or 3 hours 45 minutes. The bells of St. Martin's were going the previous night at a deuce of a rate.

Mr. Smallwood had mentioned a flat sixth at St. Martin's. The new flat sixth was in, but they could not ring it until the £100,000 had been raised for the restoration of the church. Before the Rector went to America he had raised £93,000, and they hoped he would bring the remainder back with him. The bell was a good one and with it they would have an excellent middle eight.

He thanked Mr. Fearn for the excellent job he was doing as secretary and for his splendid arrangements for the dinner.

Mr. George Fearn's name was also coupled with the toast, and in a brief acknowledgment he spoke of the pleasure it gave him to work for the Guild and the valued support he received from Mr. John Pinfold.

BIRMINGHAM'S 140 RINGING BELLS

The visitors were honoured on the call of Mr. F. E. Haynes, who spoke of the attractions Birmingham had to offer to the ringing visitors. There were over 140 bells within the city boundary that were hung for ringing, he said. They had not so many visitors at this dinner as previously; many he thought were giving the dinner a miss for once in view of the bicentenary celebrations next year.

Mr. A. A. Hughes, who replied, said it was 46 years since he first attended a Johnson dinner, and he had not missed many times. Whenever they came to Birmingham they were assured of a very good time—wonderful ringing and wonderful hospitality. He felt certain that all the visitors would look forward with great anticipation to the bicentenary next year.

The toast of 'The Ringing World' was submitted in a humorous vein by Mr. Rodney B. Meadows, who said that in the National Press Directory there was a list of 3,087 periodicals. He found 'The Ringing World' sandwiched between 'The Ring,' which dealt with current news in the noble art of self-defence, and 'The Robin,' a comic for the young. Last year their paper was in severe financial difficulties and he understood that the position to-day was a little easier. There was a need in 'The Ringing World' for good articles, and in this direction Birmingham had made a valuable contribution by those from E. C. S. They had been some of the most scholarly and witty that had appeared.

NEED OF POSTAL SUBSCRIBERS

The Editor, in responding to the toast, said while the accounts for 1953 were not audited, they were confident that there would be a small balance in hand at the end of the year. This had been brought about by the magnificent contribution of £310 in the form of donations from those who rang peals and quarter peals and by personal gifts. The Editorial Committee deeply appreciated this generous gesture from friends of the journal. The committee did not like living on the charity of its friends, for these gifts were an uncertain form of income. The permanent solution was another 500 postal subscribers.

There was a strong feeling that everything possible was not being done to procure new subscribers by the Guilds and Associations, who through the Central Council were the owners of the journal. No man or woman should be allowed to ring a first quarter or a peal without being presented with a copy of 'The Ringing World.' Every young ringer should from the very start be encouraged to keep personal records—and older members knew that glancing through such a book in after years produced happy memories.

Mr. White stated that last week he received a letter from Mr. Lawson, the carillonneur of the Rockefeller Memorial Chapel, Chicago University, mentioning his proposal to establish a ringing library at the university. An advertisement appealing for this assistance appeared in the current issue of 'The Ringing World.' He hoped that ringers would respond generously as a gesture of friendship towards the great English-speaking nation across the Atlantic which had such an enormous influence on the world to-day. Mr. Lawson would be very pleased to welcome any visiting ringers to Chicago.

SIR THEODORE

The chairman was honoured on the call of Ald. A. Paddon Smith. He said he entirely endorsed the remarks of Mr. Albert Walker that the bells of St. Martin's were being rung habitually too quickly. To get the music out of the bells a peal should take 3 hours 40 minutes to 3 hours 45 minutes. He spoke with knowledge and he had also been an offender because he rang the tenor to the fastest peal of Stedman Cinques on the bells, which was completed in 3 hours 20 minutes. The peal was rung at this rate to enable a well-known ringer to catch a train to Newcastle.

Ald. Paddon Smith mentioned the contribution of the Pritchetts to ringing at King's Norton, where there were enough members of the family to ring the bells.

Of their president, Sir Theodore, he would remind them that he won the M.C. in France when he was in command of a Warwickshire battery of the R.F.A. He was a Deputy Lieutenant of Warwickshire and was elected to the Birmingham City Council in 1924 and an Alderman in 1940. He was Lord Mayor in 1939–40 and was the leader of the Conservative Party on the City Council. His recreations were given as hunting, yachting and campanology. He regretted that ringing was named last, as all his uncles were London Surprise men and some of them composed and rang peals of Stedman Cinques. They hoped that some day they would see him taking a rope to Stedman Cinques.

The chairman, in thanking the company for the toast, which was given musical honours, said it looked as if he got into the team and the chair by his family connection. He hoped that by his presence in the chair that evening he had not disturbed the happy relationship that had existed in the Guild for nearly 200 years.

The highlight of the entertainment was the handbell ringing by Mrs. A. A. Hughes, who twice played selections and generously responded to an encore. Songs and duets were given by Mr. Albert E. Barley and Mr. Hubert G. Summers, with Mr. E. J. Woodhall as accompanist. As to be expected, there were touches of Stedman Cinques 'in hand' which were rung on a new set belonging to the secretary of the Guild, which was the gift of Mrs. Fearn. The band consisted of E. C. Shepherd 1–2, F. W. Perrens 3–4, Albert Walker 5–6, J. F. Smallwood 7–8, F. E. Pervin 9–10, and F. E. Haynes 11–12.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Extracts from 'The Ringing World' March 13th, 1914

HERE AND THERE

It is surely unique for a ringer to call his first peal of Stedman at the age of 68, yet this is what has been done by Mr. William H. Doran at West Ham.

SINGULAR ACCIDENT

During practice at the Parish Church at Ottery St. Mary, Devon, the other day, a singular accident occurred. Mr. James Lovering was being helped by a lad to raise the tenor when by some means the rope formed into a half-hitch round Mr. Lovering's right thumb and took the top of it off.

A MUFFLED PEAL AT HEREFORD

The peal at All Saints', Hereford, recorded in another column . . . . was rung on the middle six of the peal of eight, with a tenor . . . . which has been cracked for some 40 years. It was the first peal ever rung in Hereford outside the Cathedral, and also the first in the city by an entirely local band. Its accomplishment was a big surprise to local ringers generally, as the bells are rarely rung and were thought to be quite unpealable.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

THE QUEEN'S RETURN—MAY 15th

Dear Sir,—From a note in 'Belfry Gossip' I gather that my suggestion of general ringing on the Queen's return, published in your issue of February 19th, has received independent support from the writer of a letter to 'The Times.' According to the official timetable the date of Her Majesty's return will be May 15th. As that will be a Saturday it may well be found an appropriate occasion for many peal attempts, and in some cases a tower not normally available for peals may be granted for this special purpose.—Yours sincerely,

F. LLEWELLYN EDWARDS.

Kington Magna Rectory.

A NEW JUNIOR SOCIETY

Dear Sir,—It was with extreme interest that I read of the formation of 'The Grammar and Technical Schools Association of Change Ringers,' and all responsible for such enthusiasm and initiative should be congratulated.

But I do hope very much that the constitution and title will be modified to include all schools. Besides, to be called simply 'The Schools Association' would be much more effective. I have in mind that modern schools, private schools, public schools and comprehensive schools, etc., are all excluded and I see no reason why.

There are already in existence quite a number of school societies, e.g., Bedford Modern School mentioned in 'Belfry Gossip' last week, and I hope they will offer their views on the matter.—Yours sincerely,

E. S. JOHN HATCHER.

Ditton, Maidstone.

SHAFTESBURY BELLS

Dear Sir,—In the account of 'Shaftesbury and its Bells' it was suggested that William Cockey, who cast the 3rd and 4th at St. Peter's, was a travelling bellfounder. Lewis Cockey founded the firm in Frome, Somerset, shortly after 1680 and was succeeded by William and later Edward Cockey, and their bells are frequent in the West Country. The firm still exists as Edward Cockey and Sons, Ltd., though bells have now grown into gasholders!

There is a tradition, quoted by Arthur Mee in his book on Somerset, that one of the bells at St. John's, Frome, has the inscription, 'God made Cockey and Cockey made me in the year of our Lord 1743.' It is not there now, seems never to have been, and cannot be traced. Does anyone know of such a bell or of one by another founder with a similar legend which might have started the story?—Yours faithfully,

EUNICE D. OVEREND.

Frome, Somerset.

RIDICULOUS!

Dear Sir,—May I submit for consideration a few comments, which, I hope, will indicate the ridiculous nature of the controversy re treble and tenor ringers claiming a peal.

I have only been ringing for a short time, but I have not yet come across a peal rung without a treble ringer. This bell, in fact, appears to be essential in order that the working bells may do their work in the correct parts of a peal.

Also I am told that in an odd-bell method a peal rung without the tenor covering, even if the tower contains an odd number of bells, is invalid.

Thus a peal cannot be rung without these bells. They are, therefore in my humble opinion, just as important as any of the 'working bells' in the ringing of a peal.

This being the case their ringers have, therefore, no alternative but to claim the peal.—Yours sincerely,

A. HILTON.

Rochdale, Lancs.

'SPLITTING HAIRS'

Dear Sir,—'Splitting hairs,' I think, is the expression used to describe such a statement as that made by your correspondent, Mr. W. A. Stote ('Ringing World,' February 26th, 1954, page 139). His argument is ridiculous, to say the least. Would any ringer in possession of his full mental faculties suggest that because eight ringers take part in a peal eight peals have been rung? Truly enough this is the implication made by the heading 'Mr. So-and-So's 500 peals,' but why quibble over it when it is obvious that those particular 500 peals would not have been rung without 'Mr. So-and-So's' participation. Again, truly enough, Mr. 'Whatsisname' may have replaced 'Mr. So-and-So' in the peals, but then they would not be the same peals and neither could 'Mr. So-and-So' credit himself with having rung in them. May I ask Mr. Stote if, after having participated in a peal, he credits himself with having rung one-eighth of a peal?

May I also ask Mr. Stote what bores him when he reads the published list of peals rung by 'Mr. So-and-So'? Surely a ringer who acquires a few hundred peals is worthy of having his list published in a periodical which is intended for such a purpose among others? Any news about ringing, no matter what form it takes, is ringing news and is certainly not out of place in a ringing journal whether it bores certain individuals or not.' Knowing that it is impossible to please everybody, I'm absolutely certain that our editor pleases the majority and it is not for Mr. Stote to write fatuous letters that are of no consequence, anyway, and are certainly boring beyond measure.—Yours sincerely,

FRANK C. W. KNIGHT.

Folkestone, Kent.

MORE ABOUT SUFFOLK PEALS

Dear Sir,—I was sorry to see that Master K. G. Brown is yet another young conductor who is not against putting sarcastic remarks in the Press. I would suggest that before making further accusations against people, he studies the reports first, because full stops are not printed for ornamentation.

Referring to page 106 of the issue of February 12th, it will be noticed that the first paragraph is composed of three sentences reporting three distinct items, yours truly being concerned with the middle one only, the third one concerned other members' remarks.

To explain further: As the District secretary, it is my duty to speak on behalf of my District members when attending a committee meeting and one's own personal views must take second place. At our annual District meeting held on January 9th Guild problems were fully discussed and one member stated that his whole band refused to subsidise the printing of peals such as the one rung at Monks Eleigh. When I mentioned this at Bury a member remarked, 'There you are, that's another one.' Who this member was referring to I don't yet know. The cap seems to fit somewhere because I cannot find the name of the tower mentioned anywhere apart from the committee meeting and the Sudbury one, and no member of the band was present at either, so who said Monks Eleigh?

It is only fair to state that the 'locals' he refers to are members of a Surprise Minor band at a neighbouring tower, due to the fact that their own bells have been crying out for the bellhanger for years but the money is not yet forthcoming.—Yours truly,

LESLIE D. MILLS,
Hon. Dis. Sec.,
Sudbury-Lavenham District.

THE QUEEN AT SYDNEY

Miss Joan Hills sends us the following account of H.M. the Queen's landing at Sydney on February 3rd and the ringing contribution to the great welcome:—

'There are two towers with rings of bells on the actual route of the procession, while St. Mary's Basilica is only about 100 yards away. We staffed our own tower (St. Mary's) while Christ Church St. Lawrence and St. Benedict's, Broadway, were manned by combined teams from all the ringing towers in Sydney.

'Being near the harbour, St. Mary's bells are clearly audible on the water, and we were requested to ring as the Queen came ashore from the "Gothic." A picked band rang a beautiful touch of Grandsire Triples during the ten minutes which it took Her Majesty to cross from the "Gothic" to Farm Cove.

'We "stood" then as the Queen's speech was broadcast along the route of the procession and we might have caused unwelcome interference, but rang again as the royal couple came round Queen Square—the nearest point to the Cathedral.

'We have been told that the commentator on the A.B.C. remarked on our ringing, and that the bells were faded in for a moment. We have also been told that Her Majesty turned round to look at the Cathedral when she heard the bells, and some of our Christ Church learners, who were sitting outside their church, were very thrilled when the Queen had a second look at the tower when she heard the bells.

'St. Benedict's bells are notoriously difficult to ring and strike, but Bobbie Ferris, of Parramatta, who was in charge of ringing there, said they rang rounds and Queen's as the procession went by, and the general opinion was that the bells sounded very well.

'In the evening ringers from all towers came into St. Mary's to see the harbour firework display from the top of the tower and also to join in the general ringing which continued until nine o'clock at night. Laurie was careful to maintain a very high standard throughout the day and we put over two superb touches of Major during the evening, which were among the best ringing I have heard in Australia.

'Other towers were unsuccessful with recordable lengths on the actual day of the Queen's arrival. St. Jude's, Randwick, lost a quarter of Doubles, and All Saints', Parramatta, were unfortunate enough to lose a peal of Doubles in seven methods in the last 360 changes.'

DEDICATION

WHIXLEY—THE LIGHTEST RING IN YORKSHIRE

After a silence of almost two years the light six bells (tenor 5¼ cwt.) at the Church of the Ascension, Whixley, near Knaresborough, were heard again on Saturday, February 6th, when they were rededicated by the Archdeacon of Leeds (the Ven. C. O. Ellison).

The treble was cast by Dalton, of York, in 1785, the second in 1667, the third recast in 1952 and the back three are by C. Mears, 1861.

The bells have been tuned (the cracked third recast) and hung with new fittings in the old frame by Taylors and the work reflects their usual high standard.

The local ringers rang the bells before and during the service, and immediately afterwards a course of Kent Treble Bob was rung by ringers from Leeds Parish Church—thus ringers from the heaviest ring in the diocese were called upon to perform on the lightest ring both in the diocese and the county.

Visitors from Rothwell, Boroughbridge and Thorner also joined in the ringing afterwards.

Whixley is a rather isolated village with little change ringing within reasonable distance and during the ringing after tea some useful 'spade work' was put in with the local ringers.

OBITUARY OF THE WEEK

MR. GEORGE WILLIAM POUND

Mr. George William Pound, who had spent most of his long life of 84 years in Boxley, died on February 21st. Boxley was the village of his birth and where, also, he died and was laid to rest. Ill-health had kept him from ringing since the war, so in the Maidstone District he was unknown to the present generation. But verily he did much to further the great traditions which they inherit and which, therefore, they should be inspired to further by their own enthusiasm and loyalty.

George Pound joined the Boxley band in 1893, the same year as the tower affiliated to the Kent County Association. Four years later, when only 27, he became captain and secretary, continuing so until 1927. He was a contemporary of the late Mr. Charlie Sone, and during Mr. Sone's tenure of the District secretaryship was himself for some time a District representative on the County Committee. Most of his 25 peals, too, were rung with Charlie Sone, and many are remembered by Mr. Tom Sone, for he took part in them with his father.

Mr. Pound's greatest belfry interest was in the ringing for Sunday service and in the teaching of recruits.

In every way he was a keen churchman and Christian gentleman. For over 30 years he robed to take his place in the choir, and after that assumed the duties of sidesman. The keynote of his life was loyalty and his example contributed much to the Boxley tradition, evidence of which can be seen in the lists of members for each year, now 61 in number, which give uniqueness to the ringing chamber.

His friends, the ringers of Boxley, led by the present captain and secretary, his nephew, Wally Gosling, paid their tribute in muffled ringing on the eve of the funeral. E. S. J. H.

MR. DAVID WRIGHT

It is with sincere regret that we read of the death of Mr. David Wright on February 16th at the age of 93 years. He was the oldest member of the Ancient Society of College Youths.

David was a native of Hampshire, but as a young man he moved to Westerham, Kent, to follow the occupation of joiner. For a number of years he rang with the Westerham Branch at a period when they could ring Surprise Major for Sunday service.

In the early years of the present century he left Westerham to join the firm of Gillett and Johnston, bell founders, of Croydon, Surrey, in whose employ he remained until he retired in 1938. During those years he rang regularly at St. Peter's Church, Croydon, and was well known in the county of Surrey as a ringer and conductor.

As well as being an able ringer, David was an excellent craftsman. During his service with the bell founders he produced much good work in the way of bell wheels, etc., which found their way to many parts of the country, and although his hands had suffered sadly in encounter with woodworking machinery, his skill in no way deteriorated. The writer knew him well at the Croydon Bell Foundry and always found him an excellent workmate and a cheerful companion. He was always ready with helpful advice at work or to sing a good song at a free and easy concert afterwards.

On his retirement he moved with his family to Southgate, Middlesex, and joined the band of ringers there. He rang at Southgate Church until his great age prevented his activities in that direction, and his last performance was a quarter peal of Stedman Caters on his 87th birthday.

We who knew him will mourn his passing. F. E. C.

MR. E. J. TYLER

It is with sincere regret that we record the death on February 25th of Mr. E. J. Tyler, Ringing Master of St. Paul's, Wood Green, Wednesbury, at the age of 73 years.

Mr. Tyler was connected with St. Paul's the whole of his life — Sunday School teacher, superintendent, treasurer for over 40 years, churchwarden, sidesman and a ringer for nearly 60 years. He had rung about 70 peals and conducted about 20 in the standard methods for the Society for the Archdeaconry of Stafford and Dudley Guild. He conducted the local band peals of Grandsire Triples, Stedman Triples, Erin Triples, Bob Major, Kent Major, Oxford Major and Double Norwich Major.

The outstanding peal he conducted was Thurstans' Four-part Stedman Triples, in which all the members were employed at the same firm (Edward Elwell, Ltd.) and all born within 100 yards of the church.

Mr. Tyler was cremated on March 1st, and in the evening after the service in the Church of St. Paul a quarter peal of Stedman Triples was rung by his fellow-ringers from Wednesbury Parish Church, All Saints', West Bromwich, and St. Paul's, Wood Green. The band was as follows: B. J. Bicknell 1, W. Peart 2, A. Mills 3, E. Marlow (conductor) 4, J. Cotterill 5, J. N. Hadley 6, M. Turner 7, K. Knowles 8.

MR. C. P. CHALK

Many ringers will be sorry to hear of the passing in Bishop's Stortford Hospital on Feb. 28th of Mr. Charles Philip Chalk at the age of 68, the youngest son of the late Mr. William Chalk, Langford, Maldon, Essex, one of the founders of the Essex Association in 1879. For over 50 years he was a member of the Essex Association and, on moving to Much Hadham, Hertfordshire, he became a member of the local band, and although suffering from deafness, cheerfully assisted whenever possible.

Trained for the teaching profession at All Saints' School, Maldon, and at St. John's College, Battersea, he held posts at Tottenham, Southend-on-Sea, Romford and Elsenham. As headmaster of Elsenham School for 14 years he gained the respect of pupils and parents and for several years served as a churchwarden.

He started ringing at All Saints', Maldon, at an early age with his father and three brothers, William, Fred and Walter, and later on became a member of the Prittlewell band, occasionally ringing a peal. The two peals that gave him the greatest joy were the 'Chalk' peal of Minor at St. Nicolas', Witham, in December, 1913, and the first peal of Major (Kent Treble Bob) in that tower, October, 1932, the bells having been augmented to eight in September that year. On that occasion he rang with four other members of the family, assisted by E. Bright (Witham), H. J. Mansfield (Maldon) and W. Keeble (Feering), conductor.

He had a great love of music and in his young days took leading parts in operatic productions. His love of natural beauty was cleverly shown in his oil paintings of local scenery.

He was laid to rest at Langford on March 4th, the mourners including the widow, Mr. P. A. F. Chalk (son), Mr. W. H. Chalk (brother), the Misses E. and L. Chalk (sisters), Mr. C. Wingrave and Mr. A. Kingsbury (brothers-in-law), Mr. J. Chalk (cousin). Many nephews and nieces, and ringing friends from Maldon, Witham and Bishop's Stortford were present.

The service was conducted by the Rev. B. A. Whitford, Vicar of Heybridge, Rural Dean of Maldon, with Mrs. C. Wakefield at the organ. At the graveside a course of Grandsire Triples was rung by S. C. Easter, H. J. Mansfield, A. Hubble and S. R. Linnett.

MR. WILLIAM RANFORD

With the passing of William Ranford, in his 85th year, the Worcestershire and Districts Association loses one of its oldest and most respected members, who was also an active and esteemed member of the Hereford Diocesan Guild, as his native parish of Suckley, where he lived the whole of his life, is on the border of the two counties.

William Ranford—'Father,' as he was affectionately known by many of his wide circle of friends—learnt to ring at an early age on the bells of his native parish, and was a regular attendant for service and practice ringing there to the end. He joined the Worcestershire Association in 1900, and was Western Branch representative on the committee from 1921 until his death. In 1951 he was made a Freeman of this Association in recognition of his long and devoted services to the Association. Living as he did in the centre of a vast rural area, with very little transport except on a bicycle, he must have cycled thousands of miles for ringing, and a great deal of this was done to assist struggling bands in isolated towers to ring the elementary methods.

His total of 506 peals, rung in more than 100 towers, ranged from Doubles to Maximus in a wide variety of methods, especially on six and eight bells on which numbers he felt most at home and preferred to ring. He took part in peals on his 80th, 81st, 82nd and 84th birthdays. The attempt on his 83rd birthday unfortunately came to an untimely end when the clapper fell out of the tenor when the peal seemed certain. One noteworthy peal on which he looked with pride was a veterans' peal of Stedman Triples at St. John's, Worcester, in 1930. He was the youngest and last surviving member of the band.

The funeral service was held at Suckley Church on February 21st and was conducted by the Rector, the Rev. W. M. Briscoe, who was supported by the full choir. The church was filled with the family mourners and a large number of his many friends, more than 50 ringers from Worcestershire and Herefordshire being present. Among the ringers present were Mr. J. R. Newman (Freeman), Mr. C. Skidmore (Master), Mr. C. J. Camm (Western Branch Master), Mr. E. F. Cubberley (Western Branch secretary), of the Worcestershire Association, and Messrs. T. Cooper, J. Ward and L. Evans (district secretaries of the Hereford Diocesan Guild). Four of the local ringers acted as bearers.

After the service a course of Grandsire Triples was rung on handbells over the open grave by Messrs. S. T. Holt, R. C. Morris, D. Beacham and T. W. Lewis, followed by half-muffled touches on the tower bells, in which many of the ringers present took part. A half-muffled peal of Minor was rung the following day.

Among the many floral tributes were wreaths from the Worcestershire and Districts Association; his fellow-ringers, Suckley; Western Branch, Worcestershire Association; Ledbury District, Hereford Guild; Bromyard District, Hereford Guild; Worcester Cathedral ringers; St. John's, Worcester, ringers; and St. Peter's, Bromyard, ringers. S. T. H.

MR. C. N. SHARPLES

In connection with the passing of Mr. C. N. Sharples, C.I.E., which was recorded in our issue of March 5th, we are asked to add that he and his family left the farm in Cornwall in 1950, his first class honours degree enabling him to obtain a temporary post as chemist master at Lewes Grammar School and later a permanent appointment as science master at Portsmouth Grammar School. There are three children left to mourn their father.

CAPTAIN OF EYE, SUFFOLK

Some Memories of Bell Hanging

Our quarter peal column recently recorded a 70th birthday tribute to Mr. Frederick Brunning, captain of the ringers at Eye, Suffolk, and also a steeplekeeper and clockwinder.

Fred's name has not appeared frequently in our columns; in fact, his record since he learnt to ring at 18 is only 12, and includes Plain Bob, Oxford and Kent Treble Bob and Superlative Surprise Major. His last peal was on July 16th, 1922, rung half-muffled at the memorial service to Frederick Day, of the firm of George Day and Sons, bell-hangers, of Eye.

It was as a bell-hanger with Day and Sons that Fred Brunning came in contact with ringers in many parts of the country. Travelling in his day was mainly by train, and he would go with his tackle, frames and so on by train unless the job was near at home, when the material went by a two-horse dray.

His first tower job was at Clare, Suffolk, in 1900, and his other jobs of hanging, frame-building and tower-strengthening have taken him to the following other places:

Suffolk.—Walsham-le-Willows, Bury St. Edmunds (St. James' and St. Mary's), Finningham, Winston, Grundisburgh, Bedfield, Stuston, Fressingfield, Earl Soham, Hopton (West Suffolk), Oakley, Wingfield, Thorndon, Worlingworth, Cotton, Debenham, Yaxley Hevening-ham, Ipswich (St. Mary-le-Tower), Stoke Ash, Mendlesham, Lawshall, Horringer, Whepstead, Cavendish, Thornham Magna, Hoxne, Palgrave, Thrandeston, Bacton, Framlingham, Weybread, Haverhill, Orford, Horham (the oldest eight in Suffolk), Leiston, Beccles, Rattlesden, Thorpe Morieux, and, of course, Eye.

Norfolk.—South Walsham, Blofield, Burgh Ampton, Pulham Market, Starston, Heydon, Salle, Ellingham, Rockland St. Peter, Bressingham, Loddon, North Walsham, West Toft, East Dereham, Earsham, Watlington, Downham Market, Suffield, Marsham, Hevingham, Wilby, Kenninghall, Quidenham, Brooke, Tharston, Long Stratton, Caston, Winfarthing, Diss, Pulham St. Mary Magdalene, Norwich (St. John Sepulchre and St. Peter Mancroft), Mattishall, Garveston, Wymondham, Attleborough, Aldeby, Coltishall, Toney All Saints, Carbrook, Rushall, Bacton, Happisburgh, Foxley, Wiveton, Cley, Bunwell, Hethersett, Terrington St. Clement, Marham, Billingford, Fritton, North Elmham, Swanton Morley and Saxlingham.

Sussex.—Ardingly.

Warwickshire.—Ettington and Yelvertoft.

Leicestershire.—Catthorpe.

Essex.—Halstead, Great Maplestead, Southminster, Galleywood, Barking, West Ham (10 bells) and Gestingthorpe.

SUCCESS AT THIRD ATTEMPT

Three attempts were necessary for a quarter peal of Plain Bob Major at Bridgwater by four members of the Chew Deanery and four from the Bridgwater Branch of the Bath and Wells Association. For the first attempt the away team had only covered four of the 29-mile journey when a fault in the car occurred. Whilst repairing this one of the sidelight wires was inadvertently cut nearly causing a fire. The trip had to be abandoned and the Bridgwater ringers were advised by getting the police to take a message. A snowstorm caused the second trip on January 28th to be cancelled and a good quarter was rung on February 25th

ON CONDUCTING

By WILFRID G. WILSON

IX. — PLAIN BOB—ROYAL & MAXIMUS

Now as I wrote in Chapter II., you will say that Bob Major is easy anyway and with practice it is just possible to keep the bells right and watch the path of two or three of them and see when the tenor is at a bob-calling position. Maybe that is so—though I suspect that a good many peals of Bob Major are lost each week.

But let us go on to apply what we have learnt to other methods and other numbers of bells. Let us first finish with Plain Bob. In the Major we only bother with the Coursing Order of five 'working' bells, as we know that they come between our 'framework' of the 7th and tenor which is constant. In Royal our framework consists of four bells 7, 8, 9 and 0, which course in the order 8, 0, 9, 7. And then following 7 come the five working bells 5, 3, 2, 4, 6 and so back to 8 again.

In Maximus our 'framework' is 8, 0, T, E, 9, 7 and our 'working' bells are the same 5, 3, 2, 4, 6 following the 7th.

In both Royal and Maximus the effect of the bobs at W. M. and H. is exactly the same as in Major. The distance between the W. and M. positions is longer, but that does not trouble us as we call our bobs by the bells which will be concerned in them. Bobs before are not usual in Plain Bob Royal or Maximus as they alter the order of one of the back bells.

There is another incidental but very important advantage of knowing the Coursing Order. We have all of us experienced the difficulty of dealing with the unaccustomed ropesight when we first ring on 10 or 12 bells. That difficulty is almost entirely removed in a method like Plain Bob if we know and ring by the Coursing Order—we know which bell to look for.

THE RINGING WORLD

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

No. 2242 Vol. L. FRIDAY, MARCH 19, 1954 Registered at the G.P.O. for transmission as a newspaper 4d.

THE EXERCISE

By A. YORK-BRAMBLE

(From a speech to the Bristol University Society)

LOOKING backward the history of the Exercise may be said to begin, of course, in the early part of the 17th century, with the invention of what were known as the 'Sixes,' and with the ascendancy of Puritanism by which the newly-formed art of change ringing became secularised. Recognised at that time simply as a sport, it was soon centred in societies of young men, often of high birth. One of the earliest of these, established here in Bristol about 1620 as 'The Ancient Society of St. Stephen's Ringers,' has subsisted with another, 'The Ancient Society of College Youths,' up to present times. By the time Fabian Stedman was born, about 1642, there had already been invented 'Plain Changes' and 'Cross Peals,' and these, together with what corresponded roughly to that we now know as Bob Minimus and Bob Doubles, were rung by the College Youths before that half-century; though it should be realised that half-pull change ringing had not yet arrived.

About 1650 Robert Roan introduced the first of methods of the form as we know them to-day—Grandsire Doubles and, later, Bob Minor. The two books published some years later, 'Tintinnalogia' (Duckworth and Stedman) and 'Campanalogia' (Stedman, 1677), laid the foundations of method ringing as now understood. Later came great ringers and composers like Annable, Holt and Shipway, and then Thomas Thurstans, Henry Johnson and Jasper Snowdon, followed by the more modern conductors and composers such as Pye, Parker, Washbrook and the Rev. F. E. Robinson, with a large number of others. These are to be remembered as the pillars of the Exercise of the past. To quote the well-known biblical passage, 'There be of them that have left a name behind them, that their praise might be reported; and some there be which have no memorial. Their bodies are buried in peace; but their name liveth for evermore.'

Of the Exercise of the present, the outstanding thought, I suggest, is that of the impressive changes that are taking place. Women have come to play an essential and invaluable part in its life and progress. Skill in performance has advanced to the degree that enables Surprise ringing to be almost the commonplace, instead of the rarity as of 50 years ago, with the tackling of spliced ringing as a standard objective in many towers. There is also the praiseworthy striving to ring the more difficult methods in the higher stages—the extensions.

And now for the debunking! First, generally: Although the practice of ringing is, thank goodness, no longer purely secular, yet let us recognise the truth of it. It is, as now, surely, in the main, a recreational pastime, albeit a Christian one. Outstanding as it is in the facilities it offers for mental and physical exercise and enjoyment (and for the practice of social discipline!), it provides also, of course, through service ringing, the happy privilege of discharging a hallowed duty. In this, is it not a further proof that in Christian service as in other rightful occupations we can take real pleasure? From this aspect, too, we must come to take an inflexible stand against the indiscriminate introduction of synthetic sound systems of bell ringing. This God-given art, uniquely British as it is, it becomes our duty to cherish as a national heritage. Long may it flourish!

Secondly, a little personal debunking. For this personal mention I ask your forgiveness and indulgence, for it is in order to emphasise a point of general import. My main interest in ringing lies in its didactic aspect, particularly for beginners in both practice and theory, and by the latter I mean especially the theory of method structure and design, not to be confused with 'composition.' (The composer, of course, can only begin where the designer leaves off!) It seems that one's life interest in this theoretical aspect of ringing has acquired for it, most unfortunately, a sort of reputation as being for the expert only—and for the technological expert at that! Let me say at once, and quite simply, 'I am no expert,' and that the systems of instruction I have developed in both practice and theory are for the beginner rather than the more experienced.

The perfection of bell control and its concomitant—good striking—are more than ever requisite in present-day method ringing. Yet one sees (and hears!) the results of faulty instruction in the majority of towers one is privileged to visit, reflected in the handling of the bell and in the 'quasi-ringing' of the method itself. It is in the latter connection that the study of method structure, so closely allied to the practical instruction, has so much to offer; with its aids to analysis and synthesis, and its memorisation.

R. W. Emerson has said that every reform was once a private opinion. But it has been said that the 'new look' in this aspect of ringing is unwanted. I would say that there has been precious little looking in this direction at all, hitherto, and that unless this is changed progress cannot be assured. What little there was cannot escape the criticism of ambiguity and ill-definition. And to this may be attributed much of the futile argument of later years, especially on the subject of extensions of methods.

And what of the future? On the practical side we look forward to the universal achievement of that precision in striking in method ringing that can at least match that of the skilled ringing of the famous call change bands. From this it seems clear that our systems of instruction need overhaul to ensure improved techniques in the acquisition of bell control and striking and the sound learning of methods. The present Exercise owes it to posterity to increase and maintain the intake of learners. Indeed, it now seems possible that education authorities may include the study of the subject of the art and science of bell ringing in some of their extension curricula.

LATE NEWS

We regret to announce the death of Mr. Daniel D. Cooper, of Croydon, Master of the Surrey Association, on March 13th. He was a member of the Central Council and captain of the ringers of Croydon Parish Church. The funeral service was held yesterday at Croydon Parish Church.

BELFRY GOSSIP

For 34 years Mr. Reginald J. Rouse has been a ringer at Bampton (Oxon). For the Appleton Day this year the bells were not available and the customary peal was rung at Bampton. This gave Mr. Rouse his chance; he scored his first peal, ringing the tenor to Grandsire Triples.

The dedication of the ring of five at Great Amwell (Herts) is reported this week. We understand that there is a likelihood of a sixth bell being added in the near future through the generosity of one of the present donors.

Mr. W. R. Hughes, who has rung at Walsall for over 50 years, had the pleasure of ringing a quarter peal with his son and granddaughter on March 6th.

A golden wedding quarter peal was rung at All Saints', West Bromwich, for Mr. and Mrs. Albert Miles. Mr. Miles called it from the third.

A pair of brown leather gloves was left in the belfry of St. Stephen's, Rochester Row, after the ringing by the London University Society on March 6th. Will the owner please apply to Mr. John R. Leeming, Halliday Hall, South Side, Clapham Common, S.W.4.

The peal of Bob Minor rung at Rowde (Wiltshire) for the Salisbury Guild on February 27th was rather unusual. Besides being two first of Minor and first as conductor, it was Mr. F. Slatford's 75th peal and the conductor's 47th. Mr. P. Harding, who taught both of these ringers, has taken part in all the peals. The trio do not consider themselves 'peal grabbers,' but, as a well-known ringer put it, 'a happy combination.' Another pleasant feature was the welcome extended by the Vicar, who visited the tower and congratulated the band at the completion of a well-struck peal.

Although an attempt to augment the six bells of St. Mary's, Hambledon (Bucks), to eight had to be abandoned last year the contract has now been signed for a complete rehanging of the existing bells with completely new fittings. This will cost just under £600 and all the money required has already been collected. The fund was officially opened on February 27th and by March 8th it had been oversubscribed, although the parish is a small and scattered one. The work, which includes turning and tuning the bells and modifications to the tower, is to be carried out by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank.

We have received a letter signed 'Scribe.' Anonymous letters cannot be entertained in our columns. If 'Scribe' would care to sign his name to his letter it would receive editorial consideration.

A congratulatory peal to Mr. and Mrs. James H. Musson, of Silk Willoughby, upon the birth of a son (Desmond Walter) on February 5th, was rung at Morton (Lincs). Owing to illness in the village it was impossible to make the attempt at Silk Willoughby, but it is hoped to attempt a peal for the christening.

A peal of Minor in seven methods was rung on March 10th at East Sutton (Kent) by members of the Maidstone District of the Kent County Association, to mark the departure of the Rev. W. E. Purcell, Vicar of Sutton Valence with East Sutton for the past six years. Mr. Purcell, whose voice is familiar to millions of radio listeners through the broadcasting of 'The People's Services' from Sutton Valence in both 1952 and 1953, also 'Women's Hour' and 'Silver Lining' programmes, leaves Sutton Valence this week to start his new duties as Director of Religious Broadcasting on the Midland Region of the B.B.C

THE UNIVERSITY OF BRISTOL SOCIETY

Presentation of Badge to the Master

The bad weather may have hampered many activities but it did not interfere with those of the 10-years-old University of Bristol Society of Change Ringers. Saturday, January 30th, will long be remembered by those assembled in Bristol.

Eight hopeful members set out early for Bitton, but alas! the peal columns—even the quarter peal columns—will not be able to record their efforts.

Meanwhile others started off at Holy Nativity, Knowle (8), followed after lunch by St. Thomas' (8), St. Mark's (Lord Mayor's Chapel) (6) and Christ Church (10). An hour's ringing on the six at St. Michael's terminated the tower bell ringing for the day.

In the absence of the Rector (the Rev. F. C. Vyvyan Jones), Dr. Hudson conducted the service at St. Michael's. The lesson was read by Mr. T. Edwards.

THE DINNER

The dinner was held for the third consecutive year in the Senior Common Room of the University Refectory by kind invitation of the president, Prof. R. J. Brocklehurst. About 60 guests, visitors and members, sat down to an excellent dinner.

After proposing the loyal toast and the toast of 'The Church,' Prof. Brocklehurst welcomed everyone—particularly the vice-chancellor (Sir Philip Morris) on his first visit to one of the Society's dinners. He also was glad to see so many 'old' members. He went on to say it was his first opportunity to express his thanks for the honour of being elected president in succession to Prof. S. H. Piper.

This was an important occasion—it was the 10th year of the University of Bristol Society of Change Ringers. Founded in 1943, it started under war-time conditions but had grown well to become a very flourishing Society.

The toast of 'The Exercise' was proposed by Mr. A. York-Bramble, a precis of whose speech appears on the front page of this issue.

Mr. Percy Cave, in reply, said:—

'This Exercise of ours is composed of all sorts—bishops, doctors, lord mayors, bank clerks, dustmen, farm labourers and University undergraduates—all with a common purpose, to ring the bells of our churches—as many as we can manage or be permitted to ring—every Sunday of the year. In our ranks we have our many varieties, judged, that is, from the ringing point of view. We have Surprise ringers—that is, ringers who cannot ring Stedman—and then we have tenor ringers.

TENOR RINGERS

'There are, of course, tenor ringers and tenor ringers. Some are exceedingly glamorous and one, at any rate, is well in the running for election as 'The Tenor Belle of 1954.'

'But there is the other type—the one who glories in "turning the tenor in." You don't "turn the tenor in" any more than you turn the fifth in or the ninth or the treble. You ring the tenor—but not these boys—they turn the tenor in and the whole of the rest of the Exercise is there only for the purpose of enabling them to perform this wonderful feat.

'You can always spot them at a meeting—in a strange tower they make a beeline for the tenor and after a touch they step down off the perch with an expression of "Didn't I ring that beautifully?" and experience a mild pang of disappointment when no one pats them on the back. So they go home and write to "The Ringing World" and a paragraph appears to announce that the many friends of Mr. X, the celebrated heavy-bell ringer, will be pleased to know that he has added further laurels to his name by turning in yet another tenor at Y. No mention is made of the other n—1 ringers who had to use all their skill to keep out of his road as he floundered along.

'There was a time when these people stood on the floor with their fellows. Now they stand on a sort of pedestal — disrespectfully known as a tenor box—and survey their subjects from aloft. I note a tendency for these pedestals to become higher and higher so that now, as well as having to handle the bell, you have to have a good head for heights.

Fortunately for the health of the Exercise these super beings are in the process of fading out because the art of bellhanging has reached such a pitch of perfection that it is just as easy to ring the tenor as any other bell.

'But, ragging apart, what can we, as ringers, do to improve the health of our Exercise?'

NEW BLOOD ON CENTRAL COUNCIL

I would like to make one suggestion. We should inject new blood and new life into that outstanding example of complacent futility—the Central Council. At present it meets once a year and, as a social gathering for those privileged to attend, it probably has no equal.

'But what good does it do for the rank and file of the Exercise? Do they ever discuss the pressing problem of how to get more ringers to man the bells which are silent Sunday after Sunday?

'Not a bit of it—their main concern seems to be whether a 6th place bob should be made in 3rds place or express their pompous indignation if anyone should ring a peal of Minor by leaving the 2nd out of a ring of eight. As if it mattered.'

Miss Jeanette Rose (hon. secretary) who proposed 'The Visitors,' welcomed the vice-chancellor of the University (Sir Philip Morris) and the Masters of the Manchester University and the Oxford Universities Societies. She also had a special word of greeting to Mr. Leslie Barry, Master of the Gloucester and Bristol Association.

In replying, the vice-chancellor said that girls took a very keen interest in bellringing and he wondered to what purpose. He sincerely hoped that when the purpose was achieved they would not give up ringing.

Mr. Wilfred Robinson, Master of the Manchester University Guild, proposed the toast of 'The Society.' University Societies, he believed, produced specialists. He understood that their Society now claimed to have 'the heaviest bell to ring a woman to a peal'!

Before calling on the Master (Miss Enid L. Roberts) to reply, the president (Prof. Brocklehurst) said that in its first ten years the Society had acquired many things but he had felt that one thing was missing. He now proposed to put this right and asked Miss Roberts to accept and wear for the first time this Master's badge of office, which he had pleasure in giving the Society.

Fireworks (last year) did not upset her speech but this wonderful surprise practically left the Master speechless: nevertheless, on behalf of the Society, she gave a sincere 'thank you' to Prof. Brocklehurst.

Having recovered from this great surprise, Miss Roberts recounted that the Society was formed 10 years ago last October by Miss Monica Richardson and Miss Joan Budden. Running the Society in its early years was a great struggle for the Master and it still was.

They were definitely a select body—probably the only one to get 50 per cent First Class Honours in Finals last year. In the Union diary, under 'Culture and Scientific Societies,' change ringers were the first, but judging by their numbers, students were not interested in culture or science.

There were five peals to record since the last dinner — including one on St. Michael's — the first for about 20 years. These brought the Society's total to 21.

The Society had at last been successful in playing Cupid. It had been taking pot shots for years but seemed to have improved with practice. It was not only the first time a past-Master and a past-secretary had got engaged but it was also the first time two members of the Society had become engaged.

She thanked the committee for all its help and especially the secretary for taking the blame if anything went wrong.

THE KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION AT SIDCUP

Lewisham District Meeting

Some 45 members and friends journeyed to Sidcup, an unexpected venue, for the first District meeting of the year. The warm welcome extended and excellent arrangements of the local band proved to the entire company that the unexpected can be very pleasant indeed.

Ringing during the afternoon, supervised by Mr. P. Brown, District Ringing Master, preceded the service conducted by the Vicar (Canon C. R. Webb), whose address was much enjoyed. The singing of hymns and psalm was greatly assisted by the kind offices of Mr. Cowdry at the organ. A collection was made for the Association's Benevolent Fund.

Tea was served in the neighbouring Crusaders Hall, a cosy, comfortable meal prepared by Mrs. C. E. Palmer and friends.

The business meeting followed, the Vicar presiding. Twelve ringers were elected into the Association and one election was ratified. The chairman welcomed the new members with a wish that they would enjoy very long service in the belfry.

Mr. A. S. Richards read a report of proceedings of the committee meeting held at Maidstone in November—an excellent paper, superbly read, that gained the congratulations of the chairman and the applause of the audience.

After the secretary's explanation that necessary repairs to the tower at St. Luke's, Bromley, had prevented the desired meeting there, it was decided to visit Woolwich for the next meeting on Saturday, April 24th.

Arrangements for the annual general meeting to be held at SS. Peter and Paul's, Bromley, on Easter Monday, were discussed, and Mr. I. Emery appealed to members for all possible support to ensure the success of this function.

Votes of thanks to the Vicar, the organist, Mr. C. E. Palmer and the local band and to the ladies for their catering efficiency concluded the business.

Further ringing brought the closure to the very successful day's activities.

NORWICH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION

The annual meeting of the Western Branch was held at Fakenham on February 27th. Among those present were the general secretary (the Rev. A. G. Thurlow) and the Ringing Master (Mr. Nolan Golden).

Officers elected were:—Chairman, the Rev. Mr. Turney (Sculthorpe); secretary, Mr. C. F. Tovell; Ringing Master, Mr C. V. Ebberson.

The dates for the quarterly meetings for 1954 were fixed for May 29th, August 28th and November 27th.

SURREY ASSOCIATION

Death of the Master

The annual general meeting of the above Association was held on Saturday, the 13th inst., at St. John-the-Baptist, Croydon, under a heavy cloud: the Association's Master, Mr. Daniel D. Cooper, passed away that morning.

At the service which preceded the meeting the Vicar (Canon C. F. Tonks, M.B.E.), gave a short address in which he embodied an appreciation of Dan's services not only to ringing but to the church.

Following tea, served by the lady members of the tower assisted by wives of ringers, the meeting was opened by the members standing in silence in memory of their Master. Mr. F. E. Collins was elected to the chair.

The committee's report indicated continued progress and drew attention to the fact that six of its resident members had been honoured by H.M. the Queen, viz. Messrs. W. Hewitt, A. B. Peck, J. Phillips, W. H. Passmore, E. Watts and H. N. Pitstow had each received the Coronation Medal and Mr. Pitstow had also received the M.B.E.

Twenty-six peals had been rung in which 119 members participated, and 15 of these rang their first peal whilst 17 members shared in the conducting.

Collection of subscriptions still is a difficult problem, the accounts disclosing that 87 members were in arrears for at least one year, many of them owing for more than one year.

The treasurer's report showed a reduction of about £10 in the balance in hand.

The general officers—F. Oatway (secretary), P. Davis (assistant secretary) and T. A. Blow (auditor)—were re-elected and new officers to fill the vacancies are S. Kimber (treasurer) and R. Davies (librarian). The office of Master was left unfilled for the time being.

In a ballot for Central Council representatives the following were elected:—Messrs. F. E. Collins, W. F. Oatway and H. N. Pitstow.

The annual general meeting for 1955 was fixed for Reigate and Redhill on March 19th.

Two amendments to rules, one giving the committee power to amend subscription rates, subject to a majority vote, and the other to lapse members more than two years in arrears, could not be proceeded with owing to insufficient members being present.

The meeting gave the Southern District power to extend their boundary by including in its area Dorking tower, and permission to extend west and south of the road from Dorking, through Godalming to the Hampshire boundary.

A proposal to celebrate the Association's 75th birthday with a dinner proved acceptable and the committee were authorised to see what could be done on May 21st, 1955.

The committee were also detailed to revise completely the Association's rules and submit them to an extraordinary general meeting in the summer.

Ringing ranged from rounds to Cambridge Maximus.

THE QUEEN'S HOMECOMING

Primates' Message to Ringers

The Archbishops of Canterbury and York have 'warmly approved' the proposal that the return of the Queen from her tour should be marked by peals on church bells throughout Britain, states the Church Information Board.

'Although it may not be practicable that in every place the peal should be rung at the moment when the Queen sets foot again on English soil, they earnestly hope that in every church that possesses ringing bells a peal may be rung, at some time convenient for the assembling of the ringers during Saturday, May 15th.'

C.C. PRESIDENT'S APPEAL

Dear Sir,—I understand that the wish of the Prime Minister is that bells should be rung in all churches on May 15th, starting at the exact moment when the Queen comes ashore. It has been stated in the Press that this will be at 3 p.m. at Westminster Pier.

I hope that it will be possible for local arrangements to be made to man as many towers as possible at that time, at least for a short period. No doubt it will be possible for many peals to be rung during the afternoon or evening.—Yours, etc.,

EDWIN H. LEWIS,
President,
Central Council of Church Bell Ringers.

DEDICATION

GREAT AMWELL, HERTS

A new ring for the Hertford County Association has been provided at Great Amwell, Herts. The three original bells in the tower have been retuned and rehung in a new steel frame for six bells as the village's memorial to King George VI., two new bells have been given by Mr. and Mrs. Brown, of Great Amwell, and the old 'lyttle bell,' a pre-Reformation sanctus bell, which had for some years been in use at the Mission Church of Woollensbrook, has been mounted on the top of the frame. The work has been carried out by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston. A new belfry floor has been laid and a ringing gallery built.

The dedication service was held on February 21st, the ceremony being performed by the Bishop of St. Albans (the Right Rev. E. M Gresford Jones). The Bishop received the bell ropes from Mr. Michael Howard, and after blessing the bells, the Bishop entrusted them to the Vicar (the Rev. C. E. C. Walker) who handed them over to the captain of the ringers, Mr. F. Cooke. Local ringers rang rounds as the procession returned to the sanctuary.

The Bishop then said the prayer of dedication and prayers for the late King George VI., the Queen and the Royal Family, for the bell-ringers and for the bell founders.

In his address based on Psalm clx., 'Let everything that hath breath praise the Lord,' the Bishop said the bells were a particularly apt memorial to the late King because they sounded true and clear. 'Our lives, like bells, needed to be retuned and rehung in order that we might tell forth God's praises.'

The bells were available during the afternoon to visitors and some 30 ringers were present. A band of Amwell ringers concluded the day by ringing for evensong.

WEST BROMWICH, STAFFS.—At the Church of All Saints, on Mar. 6th, 1,260 Grandsire Triples: W. D. Peart 1, E. A. Parish 2, A. Mills (cond.) 3, J. Cooper 4, W. A. Partridge 5, Jane Cotterill 6, J. N. Hadley 7, K. Clarke 8. Rung as a compliment to Mr. and Mrs. Albert Mills on the 50th anniversary of their wedding.

APPLETON RINGING DAY

Once again this remarkable ringing village celebrated the annual ringing day on March 6th, and this year was indeed another milestone in the annals of history, being the 100th anniversary of the opening of the ring of eight, the bells being hung by the late Fred White, father of Dick and grandfather of Frank.

It is also interesting to note that the fifth bell was purchased secondhand from Wednesbury, in Staffordshire, to enable the Appleton ringers to achieve an octave, a practice that is very unlikely to be adopted at the present day.

A peal was rung at Bampton (Oxon) in the morning, Appleton bells not being available for a peal, but in the afternoon the bells were kept going by visiting ringers numbering some 70.

This surely is one of the happiest ringing days of its class, including as it does tunes on handbells by the talented White family and songs without accompaniment by volunteers. This year the songsters included Mr. Fred Sharpe (Deputy Master of the Oxford Diocesan Guild), John White, Harry Bishop, E. Sneller and one brave female, Daphne, who gave a delightful rendering of an old local folk song.

Then, about 9 p.m., the Hagbourne Glee party, reinforced by Appleton ringers and friends who love harmonising, sang some very beautiful melodies with great feeling.

Appleton does not cater for the great ones of the Exercise, but gives a hearty welcome to all who come along, and this year the company was graced by the presence of Tom Myers, of Plymouth, and Charles Sangwin, of Stratton (Cornwall), and by all appearances and accounts they enjoyed a wonderful evening.

But what would Appleton be without old Dick White, young Frank White and all the other Whites? W. H.

EARTHQUAKE AT ADELAIDE

Adelaide Cathedral was damaged by an earthquake on March 1st, which moved the parapet of the bell tower out of line, and there has been no ringing since. It is hoped, however, to ring the bells when the Queen visits Adelaide. St. Andrew's, the other ringing tower in Adelaide, was not damaged as far as the tower was concerned, but the church itself was cracked. The Methodist Church tower had to be demolished and also the whole of an Anglican Church at a seaside suburb.

SHEFFIELD & DISTRICT SOCIETY

There was a good attendance, including many young people and ladies, at the annual meeting of the Sheffield and District Society held at Ranmoor, Sheffield, on March 6th. Ringing on the light ten commenced promptly at 3 p.m. and soon after ringers were queueing up to ring. A variety of methods including Stedman Caters, London Major, Plain Bob Minor, Major and Royal were rung during the afternoon, also rounds for the beginners

Over 50 ringers representing many towers sat down to a good tea in the Parish Church Hall. The annual business meeting was presided over by the Rev. J. H. Pain, who said how pleased he was to welcome so many young people.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—President, Mr. H. O. Chaddock; Ringing Master and treasurer, Mr. John J. L. Gilbert; secretary and Central Council representative, Mr. N. Chaddock; auditor, Mr. F. B. Ditcher. Eight new members were elected.

A fixture list for 1954-55 was approved and will be circulated to towers in due course. The next meeting will be at South Anston on April 3rd. Copies of the revised rules were available and it was decided to ask tower secretaries to collect annual subscriptions on behalf of the Society.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

'ILLUSORY'

Dear Sir,—It is a thousand pities that some of our greatest men are supersensitive. Your correspondent, Mr. Ernest L. Humphriss, is well-known and respected in the world of bell-ringing and enjoys a fine reputation. Now, it takes a wise man to make a foolish remark, and if Mr. Humphriss will reflect on this he will see the point of my comment. I referred to one of his arguments as fatuous. One of the meanings of 'fatuous' is illusory, and it was in this sense that the word was used. I see no reason to vary my opinion.

Mr. Humphriss' account of his comings and goings makes interesting reading and it is reasonable to assume that he is doing much good. But to suggest—even by implication—that manual ringing will eventually give way to push-button control seems to me peculiar; unless he is satisfied that he is conducting a losing fight.

I am an appreciative listener, and have done a little to help others to take part in bell-ringing, but my only experience of actual bell-ringing consists of tolling a cracked bell when I was a choir boy many moons agone. Nor do I intend to accept the advice to go to the nearest tower and lend a hand. I am the victim of a bell-ringing offspring, but said offspring has not so far tried to drag me into actual ringing.

Really, Mr. Humphriss, don't let your knowledge, experience and ability blind you to the fact that the onlooker sees quite a lot of the game. You might then come to agree that your particular remark was, in fact, fatuous. Anyway, you and all bell-ringers have my very good wishes.—Yours faithfully,

ARTHUR M. MORRIS.

MANY OF THE NICEST PEOPLE IN NORTHERN ESSEX

Dear Sir,—It would appear, from the replies to my last letter, that it was perhaps somewhat ambiguous.

I did not intend to say that everyone in the Northern Division is in a state of unrest or tyranny, and I heartily apologise to all those who took it to mean so. Many of the nicest people that I know are Northern Division members. However, the fact that my meaning was not obscure was proved by one member writing to me privately.

However, I think that the majority of readers of 'The Ringing World' will, by now, have heard enough on this subject. 'The Ringing World' is not the place to 'air dirty washing' or to conduct 'slanging matches.'

I would, therefore, apologise to the Editor for beginning something that has wasted so much of his valuable space.—Yours faithfully.

JOHN R. LEEMING.

RAUGHTOWN STEEPLE

Dear Sir,—May I through the columns of 'The Ringing World' appeal for subscriptions to help us at St. John-the-Baptist's, Raughtown, Mossley, to raise £1,000 for repairs to our church steeple. Until we raise this amount I am afraid the bells will remain silent.

Since I came here the bells have not rung out much and somehow we do not make much progress. I seem to be always nagging the Parochial Church Council about it: I suppose it is because I have 27 years in as a ringer, and I cannot stand silent bells.—Yours sincerely,

J. E. FIELDING.
Churchwarden and Treasurer.

EXTENSION—ANSWERS

Dear Sir,—On behalf of the Methods Committee, may I clarify the points Mr. Mayne raises? Firstly, he may quite likely be right about 609 being 'Langley without 2nds,' i.e., the corresponding ultimate place method, but this does not alter the fact that the leads of Langley and 609 are the same. Since there is the incorrect notation in Corrigan's book, as Mr. Mayne points out, we decided to mention the fact that the two methods are duplicates.

I fear we do not agree with all that Mr. Mayne says in his second point. He quite rightly points out that 627 is Prittlewell Surprise Royal (and I admit we had missed that) and that we have accepted 848 as Prittlewell Maximus, but he is wrong in saying that 868 is not an extension of 627. This is one of the occasions where a method will extend in more than one way (there are several that do). If Mr. Mayne follows the rules set out in our report he will be able to arrive at both extensions.

Actually, the reason why we had missed the identity of 627 with Prittlewell is quite simple. In the case of the Maximus methods, our system was to find what they extended from (if they were extensions at all). In this case we found 868 came from 627, as we stated, not realising this was a duplicate of Prittlewell Royal. Of course, now it has been pointed out that an extension of 627 has been rung in 848 (Prittlewell Maximus), 868 can no longer be recognised as the accepted extension of 627, even though it is a mathematical one (as I have said above). But here again, we have from the beginning said that some mathematical extensions would be ruled out by our rules for various reasons. Here must be an illustration of that. But even so, and taken all in all, we believe our rules form a practical basis on which to work for the first time. By the way it is quite likely that there may be other duplicates like this (in fact it was through Mr. H. Poole inquiring about Langley Maximus that we realised 609 and 548 were the same). I fear we took it for granted that all the methods were different (as, of course, they professed to be).

Whilst on the subject of our article of February 12th, may I mention two corrections? In column 1 under Section 2—Acceptable names, 534 Pontefract should have a † denoting a parent method. In column 2 under Section 2—Extensions to 12 bells of Surprise methods for eight or ten bells, the heading 'Acceptable Names (Maximus)' should be added (i.e., for methods 813—861.—Yours faithfully,

K. W. H. FELSTEAD.

CRITICISM UNCALLED FOR

Dear Sir,—Mr. Brown's letter published in 'The Ringing World' on February 26th accusing Mr. Mills of discouraging ringers is very untrue. If Mr. Brown knew of the good work that Mr. Mills does for ringing and the patience he has with learners, he would never have allowed his letter to be published.

I was a pupil of Mr. Mills for nine months and in that time, with the help of two other experienced ringers, he trained me and others to strike well. We thoroughly practised Plain Bob Major so when the time came to attempt a peal it was rung without a false blow by any of the band. And I'm sure with Mr. Mills' constructive criticism he would be welcomed by every learner.—Yours faithfully,

J. PELL.

ST. PETER'S, SUDBURY

Dear Sir,—Suffolk, being once a rich industrial county, is endowed with many large mansions, fine churches and a wealth of bell metal. But, alas, the mansions are gradually disappearing for financial reasons, the fine places of worship are a worry to keep in repair. It is with this fact in mind that I am appealing for the bells of St. Peter's, Sudbury.

This small market town in the heart of an agricultural area is unique in having three rings of eight bells. Since the war money has been raised for All Saints' and St. Gregory's: now St. Peter's are unringable. Mr. Haynes, the local captain, is kept busy arranging tours during the season and it has dawned on me that if every ringer who has rung in the town or who contemplates a visit were to send me at least one shilling each I could hand it in a lump sum to the locals from the ringing fraternity, and what a tremendous encouragement this would be to those who are saddled with this burden. We might even be able to fill the two vacant pits and make a ring of ten, which is so badly needed in this area.

Drafts or postal orders should be marked 'St. Peter's Bell Fund.'—Yours very truly,

L. D. MILLS, Hon. Dis. Sec.,

WEDDING OF MISS LEWIS

Wedding bells rang out from two churches for the wedding at Brilley, Herefordshire, of Miss Betty Lewis (formerly a member of the band at Mapledurham, Berkshire) to Mr. Cyril Lovelock, of Reading on February 27th.

It was certainly a ringers' day, there being no fewer than six ringers present. The Mapledurham band was represented by Miss Mary Hart (bridesmaid), Messrs. L. Fagg, C. Smith, D. Watkins and C. Bourne together with Mr. R. C. Lucas, of Rumney, Cardiff, a cousin of the bride.

The bells of Brilley Church being rather unique in that they are hemispherical in shape, were chimed after the wedding. Later an attempt for a quarter peal on the five bells at Whitney-on-Wye was unsuccessful, due mainly to the fact that they were not to the liking of the ringers, having not been rung for over two years.

SWANSEA AND BRECON GUILD

Southern Section at Cadoxton

Despite the very bad weather 30 members representing seven towers attended the quarterly meeting held at St. Cattwg Church, Cadoxton, Neath, on March 6th, some coming from Llandilo and Cefn Coed in the Northern Section of the Guild.

After the service, which was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. E. Ishmael), everyone sat down to an excellent tea laid out in the Church Hall, where all enjoyed the good things provided.

The Vicar, in opening the business meeting, said how he missed some of the old faces, but at the same time it was gratifying to see so many young ringers there. A letter from Mr. E. Stitch sending his best wishes was read.

The statement of accounts was presented and duly adopted—receipts for the year had fallen and mention was made of certain arrears. The next quarterly meeting will be held at Gorseinon in September. Three new members were elected.

Vots of thanks were accorded the Vicar for the use of the bells and for presiding at the meeting, to the organist and all those who helped to make the meeting a success.

Afterwards a return was made to the tower for more ringing, which ranged from rounds to Spliced Surprise Minor, until 8.45 p.m.

OBITUARY

MR. J. W. CUNDALL

Yorkshire ringers will regret to learn of the death of Mr. John William Cundall, of Bradford, at the age of 86 years. His death followed a short illness.

He had a long ringing career and was a keen Sunday service ringer until the early part of 1953. Mr. Cundall had rung 51 peals, his favourite method being Kent Treble Bob.

The bells of Bradford Cathedral were rung before and after the funeral service on March 2nd and he was laid to rest at West Bowling Cemetery on March 2nd. At the service Mr. P. J. Johnson and Mr. W. Barton and the local company were present.

On March 7th the present Sunday service band rang a quarter peal of Grandsire Triples to his memory. The band was Miss Christine Pedder 1, Mrs. H. D. Schofield 2, M. Evans 3, Miss Ann Laycock 4, H. D. Schofield 5, A. Ashton 6, E. H. Simpson (conductor) 7, T. Pedder 8. First quarter of Triples for 1, 2 and 5.

For Designers!

They invite designs from those readers who are interested, which should allow for two advertisements on each side two inches wide and two inches deep.

These should be submitted to the Editor.

BEVERLEY & DISTRICT SOCIETY

The Society held its February meeting at Sutton-in-Holderness on the 10th ult. The local ringers had been busy boxing in the clock weight apertures to overcome the sound reflected from the concrete tower roof and had made a successful job of reducing the hum in the belfry.

Some 35 ringers were present including friends from North Lincolnshire, and the bells were well rung to standard methods and Cambridge during the afternoon.

The Vicar (the Rev. L. Reynolds) conducted the service in St. James' Church and preached a good sermon on 'Attention' and its importance to life as well as ringing.

The ringers' wives and mothers prepared an excellent tea in the Church Hall. The Vicar and organist joined the ringers at tea and stayed to extend a future welcome and promise of their joint services.

Further ringing took place until 8.30 p.m.

ON CONDUCTING

By WILFRID G. WILSON

X. — KENT TREBLE BOB

For the beginner the step from a plain method like Bob Major to a treble bob method like Kent is quite a big one. To the composer it is a very big one and the young conductor might well think the same. All sorts of differences from Plain Bob will occur to him and he would expect, therefore, that he could not possibly conduct Kent Treble Bob Major by using the simple A B C into B C A code that he has been applying to Plain Bob. He will see that the calling positions come in a different order (M. B. W. H.); that one bell being 'in the slow' for a whole lead must affect the Coursing Order; that at a bob five bells are affected (and those the back five); that a bob causes four of those bells to repeat a lead; that he may often have calls at two consecutive leads M. or W. or H.

Yet in spite of all these differences if he will examine the following example—or if he will adopt this technique in the tower—he will soon see that it works just as easily:—

KENT TREBLE BOB MAJOR — 5,088 by A. KNIGHTS

Course Ends					Coursing Orders from 53246
23456	M.	B.	W.	H.	M.	B.	W.	H.
62534		—	2	2		65324	53624
							36524	35264
								32654
65324			1	2			26354	23564
								25634
62453		—	2	1		42563	25463
							54263	52643
26354		—	1	2		35264	52364	53624
								56234
23564	1	—	2	2	56342	25634	56234
							62534	65324
								63254

On the left of the calling will be seen the ordinary course end figures of the first of the three parts of the peal, as usually shown in the text books. If you ring or can follow the observation bell and are content to hope for the best, then this is all you need learn to know that at the end of each course the bells are right or wrong

Now let us apply our formula with the calling shown and we shall get the Coursing Order figures shown on the right of the example. Starting with Coursing Order 53246, a bob B puts the last bell first—65324. We know that the tenors run out and in and the 6th makes fourths place. The next call being at the W we look out for the place where our first three bells 6, 5 and 3 are in the appropriate places to be the bells on the front at the bob. It is easy to see when 5 will run out—it will be the lead end after it has been slow bell. You may say that 5 will run out and 3 will run in if there is no call. That is so but that does not affect in any way the way we call our bob. Applying our code to the first three bells we get a new Coursing Order of 53624. One lead later we call another W which gives Coursing Order 36524, with 3 running out, 6 in and 5 making the bob. Now to complete the course we call two bobs at H. Applying the code to the middle three bells we go from Coursing Order 36524 to 35264 and then to 32654. Work out the remainder of the part yourself and then check it from the figures above.

You may recall that in Chapter IV. when I was explaining the Coursing Order of the bells, I pointed out that in each of the leads of a course the treble would be in a different position among the other bells. In Kent Treble Bob you have one of the working bells missing from the regular Coursing Order while it is in the Slow. But the place of that bell in the Coursing Order is taken by the treble. In other words as you hunt up and down you meet the bells in their regular Coursing Order with the treble in the position where the Slow bell would otherwise be.

For example—in the first lead of the plain course, in which the Coursing Order is 53246 and 2 is in the Slow, you pass the other bells in the order 53146. In the next lead 4 is in the Slow and you pass the bells in the order 53216, and so on. This will be found useful to put the treble right if you know who is in the Slow or to put the Slow bell right if you know where the treble is.

An additional advantage of knowing the Coursing Order in this method is that you will always know which bell is to go in the Slow next. It is always the one next in Coursing Order to the one which is already there. For instance, in the plain course order 53246, in the first lead the second is in the Slow. In saying these five figures to yourself you must recognise this fact—if you like by saying the figure 2 with emphasis. In actual ringing this is where you will meet the treble, as explained above. The bell (4) next to this one is the bell which will go in the Slow next—and so on.

Another useful thing for the conductor to know is that the bell in the Slow makes its seconds places as the other bells dodge.

The remarks in this chapter apply equally to Oxford Treble Bob, but you will not at first find it so easy to check the Coursing Order as you are ringing owing to the way in which the normal Coursing Order is upset in the middle of the leads. But at the calls and lead ends there is no difference.

When you have become so adept at conducting normal methods that you can cope with additional work, then you will be able to keep a better check on the Coursing Order in Oxford Treble Bob if you remember that the bells on either side of the bell in the Slow—i.e., in actual ringing those on either side of the treble in the Coursing Order (for we have seen that the treble is in the place of the bell in the Slow)—are transposed. For example, the Coursing Order of the first lead of the plain course of Kent, with 2 in the Slow, is 53(2)46. In Oxford it is 54(2)36.

THE BELLS OF TEWKESBURY ABBEY

By T. V. LISTER

SIX TO EIGHT BELLS

Having had six bells since 1633 and possibly to commemorate an era of martial prosperity and the raising of English prestige in Europe, in 1697 the good people of Tewkesbury decided that the time had come to increase their ring of bells to eight. The following extracts from the churchwardens' minutes and accounts are of particular interest:—

'Aperill the 5th 1697.

Ann Accompt of the Names and Moneyes recd of Every benifactor too Wards the Recastin the six bells in Too Eaight.'

This is followed by the names of the persons concerned and the amounts subscribed, which totalled £68 2s.

On the opposite page this is recorded:—

'An Accompt of the Disbursements for the Bells.'

The first item is to 'Mr. Rudhall £51 2s.'

Then follow a number of items in connection with this transaction of which the two most interesting are:—

'Six bell ropes £1 1s.'

'To 3 men for hawling the Bells from Gloucester 6s. 1½d.'

Unquestionably the bells would have been conveyed by barge up the Severn and 1s. 0½d. each would seem to be a very small reward for hauling a barge with eight bells in it against the current from Gloucester to Tewkesbury.

The disbursements totalled £72 3s. 3½d. and the 'accompt' naively concludes with the observation 'due to us £4 1s. 3½d.'

On the following page is a most interesting entry dated April 6th, 1697, as under:—

'The full waight of the Eaight Bells.

Trible	05	½	0
Second	05	¼	12
Third	06	½	14
Fouerth	07	¾	08
Fifth	09	¼	20
Sixth	11	0	00
Seventh	15	¾	26
Eaight	22	¾	08
The whole waight of ye Eaight Bells	84	¼	14
Waight first and lost (?)	04	00	02
Gave the Bellfounders	01	¼	17
	90	00	05

The Bells were cast in 1686.'

This last entry is undoubtedly a mistake as all these transactions took place in 1696 and there is no major entry about the bells in 1686. It is interesting to compare the weights given above with those supplied by John Taylor and Co. when the bells were taken from the tower for overhaul and augmentation in 1933. Three of the bells cast by Rudhall in 1896, i.e. the 7th, 8th, and 10th, still remain. The other five have been recast at various times.

In the churchwardens' minutes dated June 4th, 1697, is entered:—

'It is unanimously agreed by the inhabitants at this meeting that the metal that was remaineinge in Mr. Rudhalls hands which amounted to one hundred and a half and fifteen pounds shall be forgiven and allowed him by reason of the recastinge of trible and seaventh bells.'

SURPLUS METAL AS PAYMENT

The accounts for the year Easter 1697 to 1698 record numerous items relating to the movement of the bells between Gloucester and Tewkesbury, and taken in conjunction with the minute above would seem to indicate that the treble and seventh were either cracked on arrival or very soon became so. It appears likely that Rudhall made no charge for the recasting of the treble and seventh on condition that he was allowed to retain the surplus metal. There are also several items relating to work on the bells which leave the impression that the hanging of them was not very satisfactory. However, one must not blame Rudhall for this, as his contract may have been merely for supplying the bells and may not have included the hanging. Two such items are:—

'To Steven Edwins for shuttin the Eaight Bell clapper and other iron work to hang the 7 and 8 bells clappers 00. 06, 07

For altering the tenor clapper 3s.'

Steven Edwins did a very great deal of work, in point of fact, in 'providing iron and shutting.' In 1700 the fourth bell was taken down and enlarged as an item appears: 'Paid to Abraham Redhall for 71 lbs of mettle which was added to ye fourth bell when recast as apears by his receipt £3. 10. 0.'

In 1702 it is recorded 'To ye ringers at ye proclaiming the Queen 5s.,' and later: 'To ye ringers on ye Queens Coronation Day 5s.' Both these entries, of course, refer to the accession of Queen Anne. The next entries of historical interest refer to incidents of the War of the Spanish Succession 1702 to 1713, i.e.: 'To ye ringers at ye news of the victory obtained by Prince Ugin (Eugene) 5s.,' and 'To ye ringers at ye news from Vigo 4/2.' In 1704: 'To ye ringers for ye Victory over the French and Bovarians at Blonhime by ye Dr. of Marlborough 5s."

Among many other items of expenditure in 1704 in connection with the tower and bell chamber is one to 'Wm Jones a great rope for hawling up timber and a new set of bell ropes £4. 5. 0d.', and it seems likely that these refer to the building of the massive oak frame in which the bells were hung.

In 1710 occurs another echo of the war in 'To ye ringers one ye news of ye Defeating ye Spanish Army by King Charles 5s.'

In 1717 the size of the 7th bell was increased as it is stated: 'Paid Tho Bedender for weight of mettle and Mettle added to the 7th bell, £6 16. 0.' The date on this bell (now the eleventh) is 1717 and is shown as having been cast by Rudhall, so one must assume that the metal was purchased from Thos. Bedender and the actual work of recasting carried out by the Rudhall firm. The date on the present 6th bell (then the second) is 1725 and the name of the founder is given as Rudhall. This is borne out by an entry in the accounts for 1726 which show that Rudhall was paid ten guineas for recasting the bell and adding to its weight. It is hardly surprising that the weight of the then second was increased, as a reference to the weights given in 1696 indicate that it was lighter than the treble. However, one wonders why the other bells were taken down and their weight increased. Evidently the modern practice of casting a ring of bells and then leaving it alone until something goes wrong did not apply in the 18th century.

In 1742 the treble cracked and it would seem that the parishioners were becoming rather restive at the continuing expense of the bells for it is noted that at the parish meeting of that year the churchwardens were ordered to take proper care about the casting of the newly-cracked treble bell. There are numerous expenses recorded in connection with this recasting for which Rudhall was paid £9 13s. 9d. Although only one bell was recast, an item of expenditure is to Henry Wellor for taking two bells to Gloucester. Possibly this was a mistake. Perhaps the churchwardens did pay attention to the recasting of the treble as it has not been necessary to recast this bell since. In 1771 William White, of Gloucester, was paid £15 7s. 9d. 'for putting the 7th and 8th bells in order,' but there is nothing to show what the work was.

All during this period it was customary to toll the bell for funerals, and it is a very clear indication of the heavy infant mortality of those days that approximately 50 per cent. of the annual burials are of children. The charge for tolling was 2s. 6d.

There is an interesting entry in the parish minutes of 1795. Among the decisions reached on that occasion it is recorded: 'likewise that a new Bell be ordered of Mr. Rudhall.' It is quite clear that nothing came of it but oddly enough there is nothing in later minutes to indicate why the decision was not implemented. As it would be rather unusual to increase a ring from eight to nine, it is not unreasonable to suppose that the bell was intended for some other purpose and not to increase the ring in the Abbey tower.

NELSON AND WELLINGTON

More interesting historic occasions are recorded in the 19th century. November 7th, 1805: 'Pd Ringers for Nelson's glorious victory over the combined fleets of france and spain when that Immortal & Unparaleled Hero fell to the great grief of the Universe, France Excepted £1. 1. 0.' No doubt the use and misuse of capital letters was an intentional insult to France and Spain.

Again, on March 25th of that year: 'Pd for ringing for Admiral Duckworth's Victory 13s.,' and on October 4th: 'Pd Ringers, Hood's victory 10s. 6d.' July 31st, 1812: 'Do The Ringers for News of Ld Whellingtons Victory over the French at Victoria 10s. 6d.'; August 18th. 1812: Do the Ringers for News Lord Whellington beating Soult's Army and Driving them out of Spain 10s. 6d.': November 4th, 1813: 'Do the Ringers for Glorious News of the Allies beating Boniparte at Lipsick £1. 1. 0.'; March 18th, 1814: 'Paid the Ringers for Blucher beating Boniparte &Ld Wellington beating Soult £1. 1. 0.'; April 11th: 'Do to the Ringers on account of Marshall Blucher and Prince Schwartenberg beating the French before Paris & entering the same in Triumph this being the overthrow of the Tirent Bonapartte £1'; September 29th, 1816: 'Ringers for Lord Exmouth's Victory 10s.' All of which is a reminder to us that the present generation is by no means the only one that has lived through a period of extensive wars in Europe.

CAROLINE OF BRUNSWICK

On July 19th, 1821, the ringers were paid 10s. on the occasion of the coronation of George IV. It will be recalled that his accession to the throne was signalised by a series of 'rows' between himself and his wife—Caroline of Brunswick—including his taking steps to forcibly prevent her entering Westminster Abbey for his coronation. The whole nation took sides in these rows and at first decent people sided with the Queen but opinion, turning against her, was at last summed up in the anonymous rhyme:—

'Oh Gracious Queen, we thee implore
To go away and sin no more;
But if that effort be too great,
To go away at any rate.'

Eventually she avenged herself on George IV. by running off to Italy, and that event was marked in Tewkesbury by the ringers being paid 10s. on August 14th, 1821, when 'the Queen was taken from England.' It is impossible to gauge from that entry whether opinion in Tewkesbury was for or against her. In 1842, on December 29th, a Mr. Sweet gave no less than 42s. 2d. for 'Beer for men at the Bells.' It would indeed be interesting to know the reason for this very generous gift.

It is most surprising to find that no record of any ringing on the occasion of the accession of Queen Victoria in 1837, nor yet at her coronation. The only special payment about this period is one on November 23rd, 1842, 'for news of Peace with the Chinese £1. 1. 0.' Regular payment to ringers ceased in 1839 though they continued to be paid for special occasions and anniversaries.

The ring of eight bells installed in the Abbey in 1696 continued until 1914. In that year two trebles were added by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, raising the ring to ten. Two further trebles were added in 1933 by John Taylor and Co., Loughborough, to make a ring of twelve. At the same time the old trebles, now the 3rd and 4th, were recast and the other bells tuned. The two new trebles were equipped with entirely new fittings, but the fittings of the old ring of ten were re-used.

The main particulars of the bells as at 1954 are as follows:—

	Diameter	Founder	Date	Weight cwt.	qr.	lb.
Treble	2ft. 1in.	Taylor	1933	4	1	15
2nd	2ft. 2in.	,,	1933	4	2	9
3rd	2ft. 2¼in.	,,	1933	4	3	9
4th	2ft. 4in.	,,	1933	5	1	0
5th	2ft. 5½in.	Rudhall	1743	5	1	6
6th	2ft. 6½in.	,,	1725	5	2	20
7th	2ft. 8¼in.	,,	1696	6	0	27
8th	2ft. 11¼in.	,,	1696	7	3	26
9th	3ft. 3in.	Mears	1914	9	1	25
10th	3ft. 4½in.	Rudhall	1696	10	1	13
11th	3ft. 9¼in.	,,	1717	14	3	16
12th	4ft. 2¼in.	Mears	1837	21	2	23

The key note is D.

In addition there is a Sanctus bell that is not now used.

There are a number of peals recorded on peal boards in the Abbey ringing chamber though the number so recorded by no means approaches the total number rung. The four oldest boards are:—

1837 with this legend:—

> 'This peal had Two Bells recast and all the others tuned with new frame and hanging by Mr. Cull. Celebrated on October 16th by a peal of Kent Treble Bob Major 5184 changes by the Cheltenham Society.'

This peal is interesting as giving us the date of the present frame in which the bells are hung. Presumably the two bells referred to are the present 9th and tenor; the 9th being again recast in 1914.

January 15th, 1877: Peal of Grandsire Triples by the Tewkesbury Society.

January 8th, 1883: Peal of Grandsire Triples by the Abbey Society, and another of 'Holt's Six-Part Union Triples' on November 6th.

And so, all down through the ages, the Abbey bells have continued to ring out their Sunday message and to mark notable occasions. Long may the massive structure of Tewkesbury Abbey continue to remain as an emblem of security and abiding faith; and long may the water meadows of the Severn and the Avon continue to hear the music of its bells.

THE RINGING WORLD

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

No. 2243 Vol. L. FRIDAY, MARCH 26, 1954 Registered at the G.P.O. for transmission as a newspaper 4d.

THE EXERCISE AND ITS PAPER

THIS is not an attempt to spread alarm and despondency, but the older members of the Exercise will remember the fate of every ringing paper up to the advent of 'The Ringing World.' 'Campanology,' 'Bell-ringer' and 'Bell News' all came to an untimely end because of lack of support. Is it possible that 'The Ringing World' may join that unhappy procession? The answer to that question lies in the hands of the Exercise itself. Whilst it is true that there are, in our ranks, many generous and enthusiastic members, there is, on the other hand, a large body of apathetic ringers who are not very much concerned whether or not we have a paper. It was once stated by Sir Arthur Heywood that there are 40,000 ringers in this country. Whether that is a correct figure we are not prepared to argue, but if it is correct, only about one in eight is a reader of this paper. If that does not spell apathy, what does?

The committee responsible for running 'The Ringing World' are very much concerned about the financial position. No, this is not going to be an appeal for donations (although until the new subscribers are forthcoming they are essential). We want something much more solid and lasting. We want the enthusiastic support and backing of every reader of this paper in getting more postal subscribers, and we want a greater realisation by the Exercise of its responsibilities in the ownership of the paper. The committee launched an appeal two years ago for another 1,000 postal subscribers—the result, less than 300. They felt, and still are convinced, that a little effort all round would have produce dthe desired result. That effort was not made and, in the meantime, prices have continued to soar.

Many hold the view that the answer to the problem is to raise the price of the paper to 6d. or more. If the committee thought that were the answer, they would have done it long ago—but is it the answer? The first effect of an increase would be a substantial drop in the circulation, for there are many who would cease to subscribe as a protest. The result would be a position of 'as you were,' but we should have many less readers. A further increase in the price would inevitably follow, until at last we can envisage a very select few reading a 1s. 6d. weekly paper.

The Exercise has been assured over and over again that the solution to the financial difficulties can be found in an increased number of postal subscribers. Is it too much to ask for an all out effort to be made to achieve this? It will be no use looking to the Central Council to subsidise the paper—it has financial difficulties of its own. We can have a bigger and better paper when once we have convinced every reader that it is his duty to go all out to get at least one new subscriber. We would urge every secretary and officials of all ringing societies constantly to bring this matter up for discussion at their meetings, and 'The Ringing World' Committee are drafting a letter to every secretary of bodies affiliated to the Central Council making very reasonable requests that can easily be satisfied.

One final word—the committee would appreciate a little more co-operation from capable members in the matter of literary efforts. There are many amongst us who have the capability, but not the will to write interesting articles. Please submit your efforts to the Editor, who will be more than pleased to receive them—and even 'sole and heel' them if necessary.

FORTY YEARS AGO

From 'The Ringing World' of March 27th, 1914

SOUTH AFRICAN ITEMS
GRAHAMSTOWN CATHEDRAL BELLS TO BE RESTORED

News which will doubtless be read with interest in this country reached us by the last South African mail. It records some handbell performances in a land where change ringing is practically unknown. Between November 8th and 16th last year, four 720's of Bob Minor, with different callings, were rung on handbells at St. Alban's Vicarage, Ferrieras, Johannesburg, the residence of the Rev. G. H. Ridout, by

Rev. Canon C. E. Earle Bulwer .. 1–2
Rev. G. H. Ridout (conductor) .. 3–4
Colin W. Kearns 5–6

These 720's were rung during a visit of Canon Bulwer to Johannesburg, and were his first since leaving England in 1897.

At the Deanery at Grahamstown on February 17th last, two six-scores of Grandsire Doubles were rung:—

Ven. J. R. Vincent (Dean) .. 1–2
Rev. G. H. Ridout 3–4
Percy Holt 5–6

An attempt is being made to put the bells—a heavy ring of eight by Warner—into ringing order. The Dean of Grahamstown is an old ringer with nearly a score of peals to his credit, mostly with the Oxford Diocesan Guild, of which he retains life membership. Perhaps that number will grow during his visit to the old country this year.

A TOUCH OF KENT AFTER 32 YEARS

On Sunday, March 14th, six Suffolk ringers, most of whose names are often seen in the peal columns of 'The Ringing World,' visited Eye, Suffolk, to ring a quarter of Cambridge Major for evensong at the Parish Church of SS. Peter and Paul (tenor 21 cwt. in E flat). After a wonderful start the effort came to grief at half-way. Just bad luck!

However, after the service, seven of the visitors, with Fred Brunning (tower captain), rang a touch of Kent. Fred was on the sixth and all went very well. This was the first time he had even attempted Kent since 1922. After that he 'retired' to the tenor for Grandsire, and this was also tapped out in fine style.

The visitors were Muriel Pipe, Leslie Foster, William J. Button, Robert E. Lester, Alan G. Fever, John S. Wybrew, F. Sterry and Harry D. Lister.

Eye is getting a few more visiting ringers just now and it is hoped that this will continue.

EWELL RINGERS' WEDDING

About 70 people witnessed the marriage at Ewell Parish Church, Surrey, of Miss Babara Valerie Pottinger to Mr. Geoffrey Wreford Roebuck on February 27th.

Babara commenced to ring in 1945 and has rung one peal, at the end of which she expressed a firm determination not to ring in another! Besides her regular service ringing and attendance at practice, she is prominent in the Girl Guide movement.

The local band rang before the wedding but the peal of Bob Major attempted afterwards unfortunately came to grief towards the end. The honeymoon was spent at Shanklin, I.W.

PETERBOROUGH DIOCESAN GUILD

Enthusiasm in the Rutland Branch

The quarterly meeting of the Rutland Branch held at Glaston on March 13th attracted some 40 or 50 ringers. Records show that as far as this band is concerned it was the biggest meeting ever held at a village church.

The ringers paid tribute to the Vicar of Glaston (the Rev. A. Turner) for his interest in the branch and they regretted that he was leaving this district in a fortnight's time.

During the meeting touches of the following methods were rung: Cambridge Surprise, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob, Grandsire and Stedman Doubles and Plain Bob.

It is very gratifying to note that the membership of the Branch has increased since the annual meeting and that there is a bigger interest.

TRURO DIOCESAN GUILD

Formation of New Branch

The annual business meeting of the Truro Diocesan Guild was held at Truro on February 27th, the chair being taken by Canon Gilbert, Rector of St. Stephen-in-Brannel, in the absence of the president, Miss Symons, who was away from Cornwall.

The officers were all re-elected, Mr. H. J. Clark, Assistant Ringing Master, being added to the number of vice-presidents.

Twenty-seven peals had been rung for the Guild during 1953, six of these being between May 30th and June 6th for the Coronation, including one of Grandsire Caters at the Cathedral.

The Rev. A. S. Roberts, Mr. H. Miles, Mr. D. Burnett and Miss M. Lidgey were elected to serve on the Central Council for the next three years.

The towers around Stratton in North Cornwall were forming a new Branch to include the towers of Stratton and Marhamchurch, at present in the Launceston Branch. This means that five new towers are joining the Diocesan Guild, viz. Poughill, Launcells, Morwenstow, Kilkhampton and Week St. Mary. The meeting approved of the Branch being formed, provided they did not encroach further into the Launceston Branch.

It was announced that the Diocesan Festival would be held at St. Columb on Saturday, July 17th.

After tea, provided by ladies of the Cathedral, there was ringing at the Cathedral and Kenwyn.

LATE NEWS

The new Bishop of Leicester (Dr. R. R. Williams) has announced that the diocesan plan to demolish the Church of St. John-the-Divine, Leicester, has been deferred 'at any rate for some years.'

BELFRY GOSSIP

A small party of College Youths met on March 15th at the Charing Cross Hotel to wish 'bon voyage' to Mr. P. W. Cave, of Liverpool, who was flying to Australia the next day. Mr. Cave was going on a business trip which would last about two months. He was instructed to convey the greetings of the Ancient Society to their brother ringers 'down under.' During his visit Mr. Cave is hoping to see something of the activities of our Australian friends and to find time to have a little ringing with them.

For 53 years a ringer at Witcombe, Gloucestershire, Mr. Charles Taylor rang a peal in celebration of his 80th birthday. Congratulations to another ever-young veteran.

Following a meeting at Walgrave, Northants, recently, ringing was also indulged in at the neighbouring village of Old. Among the the visitors was Roger Old, who happens to be very young! Someone has since suggested to Roger that he rings a peal of Old Doubles at Old. But, says Roger, 'I prefer to stay young'!

Mr. Harold Pitstow, of Banstead, attended an investiture held by Queen Elizabeth, the Queen Mother, at Buckingham Palace on March 16th, to receive the M.B.E. awarded to him in the Coronation Honours List. Mr. Pitstow has been associated with the ringing at Westminster Abbey for nearly 40 years and was conductor of the band that rang for the Coronation.

Two friends of Prittlewell ringers were commemorated by an in memoriam peal on March 14th. They were John J. Tinsley, who died on February 27th in his 96th year and who, during the past 12 months, visited the belfry several times, and Harold Kebby, verger of Prittlewell Parish Church for 39 years, who died in March, 1943, when the bells were silent. In his younger days Mr. Kebby did some ringing.

The other members of the band wish to congratulate Mr. George M. Rashbrook, of Colchester, on the way he rang the third at St. Peter's to a peal of Double Norwich two days before his 80th birthday on March 15th. George, who started ringing in 1890, is the oldest member of the St. Peter's company and still rings regularly every Sunday and for any special occasions. Due to business reasons his peal total of 60 in as many years is quite modest and this was his first for about 15 years. His list includes several of Superlative Surprise Major and also handbell peals of Bob Major and Royal under the conductorship of the late William Keeble.

Mr. G. H. Spice, secretary of the Kent County Association, is in Ward 33, University College Hospital, Gower Street, W.C.1. We wish him a speedy recovery.

Mr. E. J. Chivers, a district secretary of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association, has just undergone a severe operation in St. Martin's Hospital, Bath. We hope to hear better news shortly.

Those who are superstitious over 13 should note that on March 13th, at Great Barrington, Gloucestershire, Mr. Ralph E. W. Wenban was successful in his 13th attempt for a peal of Stedman. It was also the 13th peal for the conductor (Mr. W. A. Godwin).

In order that the Vicar of Brighouse, Yorks, could hear a peal on his own bells, an attempt for February 27th was postponed until March 13th and was successful. He was delighted that Grandsire had been chosen at the last minute as it was the only method he knew. The band desire to congratulate F. Renshaw on ringing his first peal. He was pressed into service through the band meeting short.

NEWCASTLE-UPON-TYNE, 1954

A Review of Ringing Opportunities

WHEN at Bournemouth in 1953 it was decided that in 1954 the Central Council would visit Newcastle-upon-Tyne, what was the reaction of the average delegate? Probably comparatively few of the delegates had actually been to Newcastle, and of those who had been, there would not be many who could claim to know Newcastle-upon-Tyne and its surroundings. In order to dispel possible forebodings and in preparation for Whitsun, 1954, these few notes may be of interest.

Let is be said straightaway that Newcastle is not to be compared with Bournemouth, the 1953 meeting place. Newcastle and Tyneside are predominantly industrial areas but of these industries they need not be ashamed. Shipbuilding alone has given the Tyne a reputation that is world-wide. The coal mining upon which the heavy industries are founded, and which is the source of much of London's electric power, has spoilt the face of parts of the countryside of the counties of Durham and Northumberland, but much remains unspoiled by the coal industry and unspoiled, too, by the tourist industry! In Northumberland especially much fine country is to be found within quite easy reach of the city of Newcastle. The delegate who makes the effort to travel to Newcastle at Whitsun should certainly make a little extra effort and explore some of the surrounding country.

One of the great attractions of the beauty spots in this surrounding country, which arise mainly from the Pennine Chain and other lesser hill ranges, is the solitude of some of the wild moorland with the silence broken only by the distant bleating of sheep; a refreshing change from the din and bustle of most modern life. Naturally in these areas bells do not abound and it is not possible to arrange a tour which will include the beauty spots and an abundance of ringing but the host Association has endeavoured to provide a reasonable combination of both in tours that are offered for Whit Sunday and Whit Monday. The outlines of these plans will be circulated to delegates and if sufficient support is forthcoming the detailed arrangements will be completed.

THE RINGS AVAILABLE

In Newcastle itself the delegate will not find himself short of bells and a programme which will provide plenty of opportunity for ringing them is being worked out by Mr. K. Arthur. Peal ringers will have to venture a little further afield but their needs will be attended to by Mr. W. N. Park.

Newcastle Cathedral boasts the most northerly twelve in the country and they are a good twelve, providing a good example of successful augmentation by two stages from eight. In the ringing chamber they can be heard as a twelve and, like many another older ring, they require that the striking to be acceptable must be of a higher order than often is the case with the most modern rings. The semitones and other odd bells bring the total number of bells in the tower to 17.

There is no ten within the city boundary, but just a bus ride across the Town Moor, which, incidentally, in June is the site of the largest fair in the country, is Gosforth. There, at All Saints', the original eight by Taylors were augmented to ten by the same firm many years ago.

In the eights there are rings from each of the main founders, with each founder providing a very good example of a particular class. St. Stephen's has the oldest bells of this trio, but they were the last to receive attention from a bellhanger, the work of rehanging being completed not long before the outbreak of war in 1939. These could not be overlooked in the search for the finest eight in the country. It is a great pity that local conditions restrict their ringing. At. St. John's conditions are much more favourable and it is not surprising that this tower heads the list for peals by the Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association with nearly 200 recorded therein. The old eight were recast and rehung by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston in 1926, but with a tenor of only 11 cwt. they cannot be compared with St. Stephen's at 27½ cwt. The most modern ring is to be found at Fenham. The church came of age only in 1952, so that modern bells are found there in a modern setting. Seventeen bells from the Whitechapel foundry hang in the tower and while all are available at the keyboard, only eight are hung for ringing, the tenor weighing 14 cwt.

W. H. BARBER'S FEAT

There is another eight at St. George's, Jesmond, and another eight just across the river, at Gateshead. These bells themselves call for no special mention, but Gateshead deserves special notice for its association with the first peal of Erin Triples, composed by J. W. Parker, of Sunderland, and conducted by W. H. Barber. Here, too, W. H. Barber performed that amazing feat of conducting Carter's odd bob Stedman Triples from a non-observation bell—and blindfold!

A six at St. James', Benwell, completes the list of ringable bells in the city and just over its borders, for unfortunately the eights at All Saints' (tenor 19 cwt.) and St. Matthew's (tenor 31¼ cwt.) and the six at St. Andrew's (tenor 19 cwt.) are unringable. All Saints' provided the first peal of London for the Association back in 1903, but only just as the rival band at St. John's rang one that same day, and 50 years ago peals of London were by no means commonplace!

This short article does not claim to be anything like a comprehensive account of the bells of Newcastle-upon-Tyne nor their contribution to ringing history nor a guide to the would-be tourist in the area, but just a general introduction which it is hoped will stimulate interest and encourage the Council delegates to travel north at Whitsun to find out more for themselves. It is said that as one travels north the climate becomes colder but the warmth and friendliness of the people increase. That is probably true of the general public but ringers have their own brand of friendship and this flourishes throughout the country irrespective of climate or geographical location. For example, writing this just after returning from the Johnson Dinner, it would be sheer presumption to suggest that northerly Newcastle could outdo the more southerly Birmingham in its welcome. We will do our best to provide a typical ringers' welcome to the Central Council in repaying the honour that it has conferred on us by entering in its diary Newcastle-upon-Tyne, 1954. D. B.

BECOME A POSTAL SUBSCRIBER TO-DAY

This is an appropriate week to become a postal subscriber, being the last issue of the first quarter of 1954. For the remainder of 1954 the cost of having 'The Ringing World' delivered by post is 17s. 6d. Remittances should be sent to Mr. J. E. Jeater, Greystones, Cusgarne, Truro, Cornwall.

Remember—every new postal subscriber is a step towards the solvency of the journal.

ANCIENT SOCIETY OF COLLEGE YOUTHS

A Generous Gift

At the last business meeting of the Society, held at the Ship, Talbot Court, City, the treasurer, Mr. Albert A. Hughes, presented to the members a magnificent set of 12 handbells, size 17 in A.

The Master, Mr. J. E. Chilcott, in thanking Mr. Hughes for this truly generous gift, said that he could be assured that good use would be made of the set and that handbell practices would begin as soon as possible in an effort to revive the lapsed activities of the Society in this branch of the art.

Other members having expressed their appreciation of this beautiful gift, Mr. Hughes said that it was the fulfilment of a promise he made some years ago when the Society lost several sets of handbells on the night the 'Coffee Pot' was destroyed. The only set left in the possession of the Society was one which was presented to them by Lady Heywood. This set happened to be in another part of the city on the fatal night and was not destroyed. It is now in St. Paul's Cathedral ringing room.

Several members then tried out the new bells and all agreed that they were perfect. Now that the Society has a set of bells which is easily available, and also a room at the Ship which can be used, it is hoped that handbell ringing will be revived in real earnest. J. E. S.

GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL ASSOCIATION

Presentation to Mr. W. H. Trueman

The quarterly meeting of the Swindon Branch at Highworth on March 13th was honoured by the presence of two general secretaries—Mr. Frank Skidmore, of the Gloucester and Bristol, and Mr. Roger Fry, of the Bath and Wells. Other visitors attended from Bishop's Cannings, Brenchley, Bristol, Chippenham, Devizes, Painswick and Twerton.

The usual ringing was followed by the Association form of service conducted by the Rev. J. Brace. At the business meeting it was proposed that meetings for the next quarter be held at Blunsdon, Malmesbury and Bishopstone.

Mr. W. H. Trueman recently resigned the position of Branch chairman after holding the office for 20 years. As a token of appreciation he was presented with a fountain pen and pencil and a quantity of headed notepaper. The presentation was made by the new chairman (Mr. W. Sidwell), who thanked Mr. Trueman for his services to the Branch.

Attention was called to the request that church bells be rung on the Queen's return on May 15th.

A good number of beginners were present and consequently there was a demand for the more simple methods, but time was found for other methods up to Double Norwich and Cambridge Major. W. B. K.

BELFRY GOSSIP

In honour of the engagement of Mr. Maurice Twelvetrees and Miss Elisabeth (Betty) Mason, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur G. Mason, of Lewisham, a peal of Cambridge Surprise Major was rung at Erith on March 19th. It was also a 62nd birthday compliment to Mr. A. G. Mason and to Mr. F. Cullum, who was unable to take part owing to pressure of business.

On March 13th an attempt was made for a peal of Cambridge Surprise Major at the Town Hall Ballarat, Australia, where the two heaviest bells are notoriously bad going. (See 'The Great Adventure.') After two hours the ringer of the seventh (Mr. T. W. Goodyer) was unable to continue and the attempt had to be abandoned.

UNIVERSITY INTELLIGENCE

Oxford Society's Annual Lunch and Reunion

The annual lunch of the Oxford University Society of Change Ringers was held on Saturday, February 6th.

During the morning ringing took place at St. Mary Magdalen's (6), St. Ebbe's (8) and St. Mary-the-Virgin's (6), followed by a service in St. Mary-the-Virgin's, at which the address was given by the Rev. J. C. Stephenson, Vicar of St. Mary Magdalen's.

About 60 guests, visitors and members were present at the lunch, which was held in the George Restaurant.

After the president (the Rev. C. Elliot Wigg) had proposed the loyal toast, Mr. William Jackson rose to propose the toast of 'The Clergy.' He said that though it had been impressed upon him how privileged he was to be able to propose this toast—a duty which he was assured was the ultimate aim of every member of the Society—there was a strange reluctance to relieve him of the task. Nevertheless he was proud and honoured to propose the health of the clergy, upon whom ringers depended so much.

Dr. R. S. Lee (Vicar of St. Mary's), in reply, said that as a boy in the Australian bush, he often heard the Angelus from a nearby convent, and from that day he had greatly appreciated the bells. He said that the sound of the bells floating over the ancient roofs in Oxford was one of the most beautiful things in the city.

Mr. Peter Border, in proposing the toast of 'The Guests,' welcomed' all the guests and visitors, who included Mr. Frederick Sharpe and the Masters of the Cambridge University Guild, University of Bristol Society and Gloucester and Bristol Association, as well as the Master and other prominent members of the Oxford Society.

Mr. Frederick Sharpe replied for the guests. He began by giving some interesting facts about the early history of the Society, the first record of ringing by members being in 1561. He also told of some amusing incidents in his search for information on the bells of Oxfordshire. In one tower he was trapped by his coat for over five hours, while at another a man sent for the police when he asked to examine the bells. Oxfordshire was particularly rich in bells, including among them the oldest inscribed bell at Caversfield. He thought that research into the early history of ringing by the University and City would be rewarding and offered his assistance to anyone undertaking it.

Mr. Eric Roberts, Master of the Cambridge University Guild, proposed the toast of 'The Oxford University Society.' He told of his journey to Oxford in an old London taxi in which his Guild used to go peal-ringing.

The Master (Mr. Donald Niblett), in reply, reported on a successful year's ringing, but regretted the loss of most of the Society's ringers at the end of the academic year. He acknowledged the efforts of Robin Turner and Miss Kathleen Higgins, who had preceded him as Master, and paid special tribute to Peter Border, whom he recalled attempting to raise a band inside the Examination Schools for a 'Schools peal' of Yorkshire Major. He mentioned a very enjoyable coach tour in the Gloucester district, organised by John Smart, who is also arranging a week's tour in the same district at Easter. Fourteen peals were rung by the Society during the year—three on tower bell and eleven 'in hand.'

After lunch, ringing continued at Merton (8), New College (10), St. Giles' (8), Magdalen (10), Christ Church (12) and All Saints' (8). Methods rung included Stedman Cinques, Cambridge Royal and Spliced Surprise Major.

London Society's Dinner Attracts 'Provincial' Guests

The University of London Society held its annual dinner on March 6th at the Old Bell Tavern, Fleet Street, E.C.

The afternoon's ringing commenced on the pre-Reformation ring of five at St. Bartholomew's, Smithfield. The second tower was St. James', Clerkenwell, a fine-sounding ring of eight, which is very popular amongst members of the University Society. The ringing ended at St. Stephen's, Rochester Row. Here the ringing chamber was a source of amusement for some, and drew caustic comment from others. It was here that Geoffrey Carter made a never-to-be-forgotten bob with his reflection in the clock-case.

At the service, held in the church, the Vicar of St. Stephen's (the Rev. G. E. Raindorp) gave a stimulating address in which he pointed out that intolerant criticism by parishioners of practices must be ignored, as it was the duty of all taking part in, and contributing to the worship of God to give of their best, which, in the case of ringers, necessarily entailed constant practice and the encouragement of learners.

After a very satisfying dinner, the president (Mr. Denis N. Layton) proposed the toast of 'The Church and Queen.'

Mr. Geoffrey Carter, in proposing the health of 'The Guests,' welcomed visitors from the 'provincial universities' of Cambridge and Manchester and the tower-keepers of Hampstead, St. Giles-in-the-Fields and Clerkenwell, without whose help and co-operation the Society's ringing activities could not flourish.

Mr. Eric Roberts, Master of the Cambridge University Guild, in replying of behalf of the guests, refused to comment on the appellation 'provincial universities' but observed that many years ago Fabian Stedman left Cambridge to visit London with the aim of spreading the noble art in the Metropolis. He left this statement as food for thought amongst London University ringers. He ended by congratulating the Society on its progress despite the obvious difficulties arising from membership of a Society covering the whole of such a scattered organisation as London University.

The president rose to propose the health of 'The Society' and said that it gave him great pleasure to do as as he was himself responsible to a considerable extent for its foundation, and that it was a pleasure to see several founder members present at the dinner. He then traced the Society's history up to the present day and observed that it had found a happy home at Hampstead and Lambeth. He also announced the engagement of Miss Mary Martin, well known as a previous secretary of the Society. He finished by thanking the secretary, Mr. J. R. Leeming, on behalf of all present, for the excellent arrangements made for the day's ringing and the subsequent dinner.

Mr. Kay Adkins, the Master, in replying, said that he regretted being unable to report any peals since he took office at Christmas, but one of the main difficulties confronting the Society was the lack of towers available for peal-ringing in London, which made peal attempts extremely difficult to organise. There were, however, many other signs of the Society's activities, in particular the tours and the weekly practices, which continued uninterruptedly.

After the last speech the customary discussion of the year's tours took place, the members deciding in favour of holding the Whitsun tour in Surrey and the summer tour in Cumberland, if these could be arranged.

The evening's festivities ended with handbell ringing ranging from Plain Bob Minor to Maximus, until the late hour brought an end to the gathering.

THE RINGER'S GUIDE

A second edition is now being prepared and I would be glad to have any corrections and additions as soon as possible.

All errors and omissions already advised have been checked and corrected where necessary.

I would like to be advised of any change of practice night from that shown in the first edition, or to include this information where it has not previously been given, but it is hoped that where practice night is stated this may be deemed to be regular and not fitful or liable to alteration in the near future.

Instances have occurred where the weights of the tenor bells published were found to differ from the weights given on the bell-founders' framed inscription lists frequently supplied when bell restorations are undertaken, and it would be helpful if any such discrepancies could be reported to me for investigation and altering where necessary.

All corrections should be sent to me at the following address as quickly as possible, please.

NORTH STAFFS ASSOCIATION

Testing the Augmented Eight at Norton-in-the-Moors

The monthly meeting of the North Staffordshire Association was held on March 13th at the Church of St. Bartholomew, Norton-in-the Moors. This church, built on a hill overlooking the Norton side of the Potteries, is comparatively new, being an 18th century building erected on the same site of the first church, which was built about 1100. Many interesting features have been written about the church and parish. The bells have recently been augmented to eight by Messrs. Taylors, Ltd., Loughborough. The meeting was attended by ringers from Bucknall, Cheadle, Brown Edge, Hanley, Kinsley, Leek, Newcastle, Stafford, Stoke, Uttoxeter, Wolstanton, Chester (St. Mary-within-the-Walls).

Tea was served in the Church Hall, the Rector (the Rev. R. B. McKenzie) presiding, supported by the chairman (Mr. R. S. Anderson). After the Rector had welcomed the ringers the chairman stated that since the last meeting there had been a loss of two members—Mr. W. A. Fitchford, of Wolstanton, and Mr. W. Fradley, of Bucknall. Both these members had given yeoman service to the Association. The members stood in tribute to their memory.

A committee meeting was held during the evening under the chairmanship of the vice-chairman (Mr. A. W. Hall, of Cheadle), and it was agreed that the sum of £7 7s. should be given to the Bell Restoration Fund of St. Giles', Newcastle, Staffs. The question of ringing members of the Association becoming subscribers to 'The Ringing World' was discussed and it was decided to stress the necessity of each member having a copy of the paper. This matter will be brought before the members at the next monthly meeting.

Ringing in the usual methods was continued until a late hour. D. R. W.

Mr. A. York-Bramble, who is enjoying winter sports at Grindelwald, writes that the first thing he heard on changing trains at Interlaken was the sound of church bells! 'Not in changes, of course, but at about ¼ raised and not in sequence, but rather irregular 2, 3, 5, 8, 6. The effect, very nostalgic, was nevertheless pleasant, the sound echoing in the clear, still mountain air, and the sun streaming warmly from a sky of cloudless blue!'

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

DESTRUCTION OF SWANSCOMBE CHURCH

Dear Sir,—As some of the older ringers may recall, in 1902, during a thunderstorm, Swanscombe tower was struck by lightning, which set fire to the tower and church and caused serious damage. The bells all fell down and were broken and partly melted. The then band of ringers salvaged what they could of the old bells and metal. In due course the church was repaired and the bells rehung and made into a ring of eight, and were dedicated and opened on March 6th, 1904.

The peal on March 13th was arranged and rung as near to the 50th anniversary as was possible. Mr. Thomas Easterby, an old Swanscombe ringer, who participated in the peal, learned to ring on its new bells and thereby celebrated his 50th year as a ringer; it was also his first peal for 19 years. Mr. Easterby, who was only a lad at the time of the fire, stood outside the church and heard the bells crash.

The writer can recall three other old Swanscombe ringers who remember this disaster—Mr. F. Ring, the present leader: Mr. A. Thompson, an old churchwarden; and Mr. F. Hayes. There may be others, but being a comparatively young man, I cannot recall them.—Yours faithfully,

G. J. BUTCHER.

GRAMMAR AND TECHNICAL SCHOOLS ASSOCIATION

Dear Sir,—The Grammar and Technical Schools Association, as such, came into being in January of this year. When first started, at the end of last year, it was decided to call it just 'The Grammar Schools Association' because all of its members were either pupils or masters of Grammar Schools. This title was soon dropped because a number of persons belonging to Technical Colleges joined the Association.

Any school attenders (pupils or masters) are welcome to join the Association and any ringers are welcome at the meetings.—Yours faithfully,

D. H. WALKLATE.

Derby.

THE COCKEYS

Dear Sir,—Miss Overend errs, I think, in locating the first of this trio at Frome; Lewis' identity was in doubt for a long time as his castings generally had initials (L bell C), but his surname was recovered from the former tenor at Frampton, Dorset. It is well established, however, by entries in the churchwardens' accounts at Yatton and records at the British Museum, that his foundry was at Bristol. His bells are in Gloucestershire and Wiltshire, but Somerset has only three, viz.: Farleigh Hungerford, 1681; Hinton Charterhouse, 1687; and Clevedon, 1695. The Clevedon bell does not form part of the present ring but is on show in the church porch.

William Cockey subsequently set up a foundry at Frome, his earliest bell apparently being at Leigh Delamere, 1706. Edward came much later, 1823-1840.

As to the tradition quoted by your correspondent, in 1872 there were three of William's bells at Frome, the treble 1724, the 2nd 1740, and the 6th 1746, but neither appears to have had the inscription mentioned. A close study of some 25 of these 'King's England' books gives me little confidence in their historical reliability, interesting and well illustrated though they are.—Yours faithfully,

EDWARD G. CAPLE.

Clevedon, Som.

P.S.—So 'The Ringing World' may have its face lifted. A pity! I've grown fond of that skyline over the years.—E. G. C.

TITLE COVER DESIGN

Dear Sir,—I was not a little perturbed to read in your issue of March 12th that the Editorial Committee had under consideration the alteration of the front page design of 'The Ringing World.'

I hasten to write to implore that no hasty decision be made on this matter, and, indeed, to urge that if the change would involve the destruction of the present heading then the temptation be firmly resisted.

The present well-balanced design with its intriguing background of the famous skyline is one of the tangible memorials we have to the peculiar genius of John Goldsmith and his magnificent work for the Exercise, and I feel, as many must doubtless feel, that only the gravest considerations, backed by the full weight of the Central Council, should be allowed to imperil its existence.—Yours faithfully,

EDGAR C. SHEPHERD.

Solihull.

A BREAK WITH TRADITION

I think it is a pity that any alteration is contemplated and would respectfully urge the committee not to alter the present design.

I have been reading 'The Ringing World' for over 20 years and the design has not changed—except for additional wording. It has, therefore, been the same since the founder's days. It would, in my opinion, be a poor tribute to J. S. Goldsmith to break the tradition. Further, every reader recognises 'The Ringing World' at a glance by its present very fine title, which I do not think could be bettered.—Yours faithfully,

FRED E. DUKES.

Drogheda.

FIVE-BELL PEALS

Dear Sir,—If Mr. A. Hilton has been initiated into the art of change ringing to believe 'that in an odd-bell method a peal rung without the tenor covering, even if the tower contains an odd number of bells, is invalid,' may I sharply tell him he is wrong, and also to warn him (or any others who think likewise) of the dangers of such initiation.

Peal ringing begins on five, not on six! This has been the accepted rule for very many years and must continue to be so if we are to avoid (1) a loss of interest, (2) hundreds of five-bell towers throughout the country with no ringers, and (3) 'homes' for the advocates of synthetic bells to fertilise their propaganda. In the Peterborough Diocese alone, out of 215 towers no less than 108 have five bells. This idea of looking upon six as the minimum is all wrong.

THE LADIES' GUILD

Southern District at Godalming

The Ladies' Guild (Southern District) meeting, held at Godalming, Surrey, on March 13th, was remarkable for the fact that it was the first ringers' meeting to be held at this ancient and picturesque town for many a long year and the first ever of a Branch of the Ladies' Guild.

In spite of the bitter weather a good number of members and friends collected at the church and kept the bells going happily—if not perfectly—until well on into the evening. In the afternoon a service was held during which Miss Y. Eloie, a well-known member of the Southern District, read the lesson.

The Vicar of Godalming (the Rev. A. C. G. Oldham), interpolating into the Guild's form of service a short address, gave all a hearty welcome and said that he hoped that meeting would prove the first of many. He mentioned that never, during all the time he had been at Godalming, had he missed hearing his bells rung for Sunday services and that he regarded as an extremely good record. He was proud of his ringers and grateful to them and he would like to think that such regularity, entailing as it did a considerable amount of effort and sacrifice, would be an example to all present.

After tea, the District business meeting was held in the ringing room with Miss Colgate (the Guild's general secretary) in the chair, while the gentlemen chafed impatiently in the background. There was very little business to discuss but five new members were elected and the subsequent sale of badges was fast and furious.

When operations were resumed Miss Colgate, at the special request of the District secretary, took charge of both the ringing and the gentlemen with her usual urbane efficiency and demonstrated that there is nothing to match good humour coupled with sound knowledge to keep a meeting in order. Later, when left to cope alone with the gabble of conversation which is usual between touches, the District secretary tried to attract attention by banging on the table with the nearest object at hand. As that happened to be Miss Eloie's umbrella perhaps the idea was not a good one—at any rate the weapon was swiftly and purposefully moved out of harm's way.

The meeting closed with the usual votes of thanks to all helpers, especially to the gentlemen, with a particular expression of gratitude to Mr. V. H. Smith, the captain of the Godalming tower.

Western District

The annual meeting of the Western District was held at Frome on March 13th, when a large gathering of 60 members and friends made very good use of the ring of eight.

At the business meeting the following officers were re-elected:—Vice-president, Mrs. Knight; hon. secretary, Miss M. Taylor.

Seven new members were elected. The June meeting will be held at Tiverton and, as usual, a coach will be run from the Bristol-Bath district.

B	65324	Last bell to first		5	32465	First bell to last

So far for every method we have considered we have used the simple code ABC into BCA—but you may have noticed that all our examples have been even bell methods and all with a fourths place bob. I have dealt with these first and shall come back again to them later when I write of Surprise methods, as almost all the average ringer's even bell ringing is done on them.

There is, however, at least one even-bell method that is rung frequently which has a sixth place bob—Double Norwich—and if we examine this method we shall see that our code for transposing Coursing Orders has to be varied slightly. By this time it should not be too difficult to work things out for yourselves, but it may be helpful if I do so in this chapter.

If you examine a plain course of this method you will see that the Coursing Order of the bells is just the same as in Plain Bob and indeed it is equally as regular. The double-dodging merely gives us extra time to look for the Coursing Order and adds to the music which the Plain Bob Coursing Order gives us in the plain and certain other courses.

But when we come to conduct a touch or peal we are faced with certain differences, as compared with the methods used for our earlier examples.

The first big difference is in the calling positions. If you write out the seven lead ends of the plain course you will see that at three of the lead ends you can call a bob without it affecting the work of the tenors. (The bob of course, is made by a sixths place and the back two bells dodging.) These leads are the first, fourth and sixth. You will also see that if you call a bob at the fifth lead you cause 7 and 8 to dodge together behind in the Home position, thus bringing up a course end in five leads instead of seven. So now we can write out a table of the course ends which will be produced from rounds by a bob at any one of these four calling positions.

23456	1	4	5	6
35426	—
63254		—
42635			—
34256				—

If you are writing out touches, these are the rows you will need for your transpositions. But without a good deal of thought you will not easily use them while ringing and, just like the corresponding transpositions in Plain Bob, etc., they won't tell you much.

Now let us see what is the second big difference. We will use the same table again, but will show the Coursing Orders starting from the Coursing Order of the plain course (53246).

53246	1	4	5	6
25346	—
53624		—
32465			—
54326				—

As you will remember, a bob W in Plain Bob altered the Coursing Order of the first three bells from ABC to BCA (from 53246 to 32546). The bob at 1 in Double Norwich also alters the Coursing Order of the first three bells, but from ABC to CAB (from 53246 to 25346), with 2 making sixths, 5 becoming eighths place bell and 3 sevenths place bell.

You will also remember that a bob M in Plain Bob alters the Coursing Order of the last three bells from ABC to BCA (from 53246 to 53462). The bob at 4 in Double Norwich also alters the Coursing Order of the last three bells, but from ABC to CAB (from 53246 to 53624), with 6 making sixths place, 2 becoming eighths place bell and 4 sevenths place bell.

You will further remember that a bob H in Plain Bob alters the Coursing Order of the middle three bells from ABC to BCA (from 53246 to 52436). The bob at 6 in Double Norwich also alters the Coursing Order of the middle three bells, but from ABC to CAB (from 53246 to 54326), with 4 making sixths place, 3 becoming eighths place bell and 2 sevenths place bell.

In Plain Bob we saw that a bob Before had a different effect from bobs in the other positions—it altered the Coursing Order from 53246 to 65324, by turning the sixths place bell into a fifths place bell (from last to first of our Coursing Order). Similarly in Double Norwich, a bob at 5 has a different effect from bobs in the other positions—it alters the Coursing Order from 53246 to 32465, by turning the fifths place bell into a sixths place bell (from first to last of our Coursing Order). Nos. 7 and 8 are of course the other two bells concerned in the bob, just as they are in Plain Bob.

Let us consider as our example the four-part peal of 5,024 changes of Double Norwich Court Bob Major by Mr. C. W. Roberts shown in Table A above:—

On the left of the calling are the course ends as you will read them in a book. But except at those particular course ends they won't tell the average conductor where the bells are when a trip happens.

On the right are the Coursing Orders as changed at each bob. You don't have to try to learn these, just change three bells, with the code ABC into CAB. as you are ringing. And you will know each time that the bell represented by the letter C will be the one that will make the bob and the back two bells dodging together wil be those represented by the letters A and B and they will go down to the front in that order.

SHROPSHIRE BELLS AND THEIR RINGERS

Tenor Still in Tune After 330 Years

By W. A. FARMER

CLUNBURY is typical of many parishes in South Shropshire in that the area is considerable, the population of the parish is around 700, but on a first visit a stranger would wonder where all the people lived.

The road from Craven Arms to Clun runs through it, with Clunbury itself nestling round the church at the foot of the hill of the same name, to the south of the road. An ancient and picturesque wrought-iron sign post directs the way to Bishop's Castle, and a short distance along this is Kempton, a sizable hamlet which contributes considerably to the population. If we do not turn to either side, we soon pass The Hundred House, at Purslow, a relic, or at least a reminder, of the Saxon system of jurisdiction by a hundred families.

This is by no means the limit of the parish, as presently we come to Clunton, which appears to be a village in itself. The church is of ancient foundation, being a chapel dependent on Clun before the Reformation. The building must have been of considerable size, as in 1549 it boasted of 'ij belles of one accord.' Afterwards it is recorded, 'The chapell of Clonton one Oliver Lloyd toke two belles from hence in the Kings name.'

The original building also disappeared, the present church being modern and administered from Clunbury.

ANCIENT CHURCH

The Church of St. Swithin at Clunbury suggests a Saxon foundation by its dedication, but we know that the nave and the font are Norman. It was also dependent upon Clun until the reign of Richard I., when it is recorded that Isabel de Say and William Botwell gave it to Wenlock Priory. The object of such gifts was generally to secure the manorial rights and income to the monastery, in return for which it was usual to arrange for the monks to say masses for the souls of their benefactors.

However that may be, the parish secured independence in 1341, by which time the nave had been lengthened, and the tower built or enlarged. Further rebuilding in the 17th century gave us the present imposing tower, a sufficient structure for the ring of six bells it now holds.

STORY OF THE BELLS

The story of these bells has been told in some detail by the present Vicar, the Rev. B. T. Herbert, in a booklet published in 1951, and available ftor those who may be interested in the many facets of social life of the middle ages which churchwardens' records supply.

The story is typical of many of our village churches. Starting with the usual inventory of 1549, it is established that there were then three bells in use. Nothing is known about them except that probably they were rather larger than was usual, as in 1620 the tenor or largest was sent to Wellington to be recast by William Clibury. It is still the tenor of the present six and weighs about 10 cwt.

Particulars of the various items of expenditlre on this occasion conclude with the words: 'Spent on the founder when hee came for hys money IIIjd (four).' The total cost was £7 2s. 9d., and the result so far is 333 years of service.

OAK FRAME OF 1628

The three bells swung in an old frame, but shortly afterwards this was considered unsatisfactory, and in 1628 local craftsmen put in the oak frame which is there to-day.

Nowadays one of the firms specialising in such work would be employed, and the frame would probably be made of steel. We cannot but admire the men of the time who undertook such work, as local masons repaired the tower at the same time.

Evidently the occasion was recognised as a little out of the ordinary, as the churchwardens 'laide out the second daye for the same worke for drinke on those that were att the rearing off the Bellframe, and for their suppers at night IIjs vjd.'

'Mr. Lawleye' received 'ji IIIjs. for three tunn of timber' and Barnabas Horton 'for making of the Bellframe and some other worke IIj l xviij s vjd.'

LOCAL BELL FOUNDRIES

Critical ears now decided that the two old bells were unsatisfactory, and one was recast in 1631. It is established that this event took place at Orleton, south of Ludlow, and presumably Richard Oldfield, who was at work in the district at that time, was the founder. Similarly the other was recast at Ludlow in 1639, but while copious details of the amounts spent are available, no founder is mentioned.

Ringers for these bells have never been lacking, and payments, for the fifth of November in particular, are most regular. In 1620 this was one shilling. A later entry of 1678 suggests some differences: 'It was then agreed by the pissioners (parishioners) of Clonbury that the Ringers that doe ringe on the fifth day of November shall have Three shillings for theyre alowance and if the Churchwardens doe pay them anymore the pissioners will not alow it.'

JUBILEE MEMORIAL

The three bells did duty until 1887, the Jubilee of Queen Victoria. We must thank the inhabitants of the day for their foresight in providing so permanent a record of the occasion as exists in five new bells. These were cast and hung by Messrs. Warners, of London, but it should be noted that the oldest bell, cast at Wellington in 1620, was considered tuneful enough to remain. It has, deservedly, a reputation amongst ringers of the neighbourhood to-day.

The cost of this undertaking appears to have been defrayed by the village generally, as no record was made in the church accounts. Most probably a Jubilee Fund was raised for the purpose.

However that may be, the six bells made a sufficient number for the change-ringing which so many ringers find so interesting that it provides a life-long hobby. Mr. E. H. Meredith in particular, is to be found at the ringers' gatherings which are regularly arranged by the Hereford Diocesan Guild of Ringers, and at home instructs learners and conducts Grandsire Doubles and Plain Bob Minor.

Mr. E. H. Meredith learned change-ringing at Runcorn, Cheshire, and rang two peals of Grandsire Triples for the Chester Diocesan Guild. He has since rung several of Grandsire Doubles for the Hereford Guild.

Mr. N. E. Phillips has also rung in similar peals, while Mr. Meredith's two sons, Roger and Charlton, have both rung two peals of Grandsire Doubles.

One of these was at Clunbury, in 1948, the other and first peal, lasting nearly three hours, was in 1908.

The band is justly proud of the fact that a high standard of the lively and musical change ring is maintained for service ringing, the main purpose for which the bells were installed.

The inscriptions on the bells are as follows, with Warners' name in addition on the first five: 1, Vivos voco mortuos plango (translated as, I summon the living, I mourn for the dead). 2, Ring in the love of truth and right. 3, Attendite populi (Hear, O my people). 4. Jesus bee our speed 1631. 5, Jubilee 1887. God save the Queen. 6, Gloria in excelsis Deo 1620. William Clebry made me.

This method is a slight variation of the original which was worked out by Thomas B. Worsley on January 7th, 1928, when investigating the possibilities of the extension of London Surprise Major. It is interesting to note that a week earlier (December 31st, 1927) he produced what is now known as London Surprise Royal No. 3 Version.

OBITUARY

MR. D. D. COOPER

The Exercise in general has suffered a severe loss in the passing of Daniel Doulton Cooper on March 13th at the early age of 51. He was well known in ringing circles in all parts of the country and especially in Surrey, where most of his ringing had been done. A member of the Surrey Association for about 36 years, at his death he was its Master, a position to which he was elected in 1946 after holding various other offices continuously since 1927. He had represented the Association on the Central Council since 1933.

Altogether he rang just under 300 peals, including 10,400 Double Norwich Court Bob Major at Christ Church, Epsom, on April 5th, 1926, which is the longest length rung for the Surrey Association. Although not calling many of the peals in which he took part he was a very capable conductor.

His passing will be most felt in Croydon Parish Church, where he had rung ever since he started to learn, 37 years ago, and where he had been leader for 22 years.

As a leader he had the very great qualities of patience and tolerance and had taught numerous pupils to handle a bell, many of whom are now very competent ringers. He strove for the maintenance of good Sunday service ringing and instilled it into all the band that the bells were provided for that purpose and that good striking was of the utmost importance.

The funeral, on March 18th, was conducted by the Vicar (Ven. C. F. Tonks), assisted by the Revs. Mr. Pearce and Mr. Tufton, at the Croydon Parish Church, followed by cremation, and was well attended by friends from the ringing world as well as colleagues from Croydon Corporation and from his parochial activities outside the belfry.

At his expressed wish the bells of the Parish Church were rung open before and after the church service, and in the Crematorium a well-struck course of Stedman Triples on handbells was rung by A. B. Peck 1-2, F. J. Smallwood 3-4, C. H. Kippin 5-6, H N. Pitstow 7-8.

Unfortunately a peal attempt on the tower bells immediately after the funeral came to grief through a shift course after 95 minutes' good ringing by the local band.

At the funeral service the local band was represented by Messrs. T. Bulgin, F. E. Collins, R. Davies, G. H. Humphries, G. Lodge, C. Parks, W. F. Oatway, E. Razzell, Mesdames O. Collins, H. E. Oatway and Miss P. M. Steer.

Among visiting ringers were:—Messrs. A. B. Peck (secretary, Ancient Society of College Youths), F. J. Smallwood (Editorial Committee, 'Ringing World'), A. Harman (Master, Guildford Guild), H. N. Pitstow (secretary, Westminster Abbey band and leader, Banstead), A. Pulling (Holy Trinity, Guildford), J. Chapman (St. Leonard's, Streatham), T. Blow, J. Adcock, E. Voules and Mrs. P. Voules (St. Peter's, Croydon), Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Kippin (Winchester Guild), Messrs. A. Mason (Royal Society of Cumberland Youths), M. Howard and B. Newson (Gillett and Johnston, Ltd.), A. Gear (Redhill), the Rev. K. G. Hoare (Betchworth), J. Prior (Police Guild), L. Reece (Beddington), W. J. Rawlings, F Housden, H. V. Young, E. G. Talbot, J. Euston, R. F. Layton, A. T. Jones, A. J. Adams, H. J. Skelt. Non-ringing friends included Mrs. C. Johnston, Mrs. Harman, Mrs. Skelt, Mrs. Blow and H. Parry.

Among the many floral tributes were those from the Central Council; the Surrey Association; the local band; St. Peter's, Croydon; St. Mary's, Beddington; and Mrs. C. Johnston.

Mr. Cooper leaves a widow and two children to mourn his passing and to them all will offer their deepest sympathy.

MR. THOMAS C. NELSON, M.P.

It is with regret that we learn of the death of Mr. Thomas C. Nelson, the Unionist M.P. for Enniskillen in the Northern Ireland Parliament. He died in the Belfast City Hospital following a seizure in Sandy Row Orange Hall on March 16th.

Mr. Nelson was 64 years of age and was a life member of the Irish Association since 1947; previously he was an honorary member. Some years ago he rang the bells of St. Macarten's Cathedral, Enniskillen, and was largely instrumental in having that Cathedral's bells rehung and augmented by Messrs. Taylor in 1935.

He was keenly interested in the affairs of the Church of Ireland, being a member of the Cathedral Vestry, Diocesan Council and the General Synod. He was also a prominent member of the Orange Order and the Masonic Order. His business was a firm of decorators and he was a large employer.

He is survived by his wife and his son, Robert, conductor of the Cathedral band, and his daughter, who is in Australia, to whom our sympathy is offered.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Joint Meeting With Hawkhurst and District Guild

The choice of Rolvenden for the Ashford District's meeting on March 20th afforded the opportunity to make it a joint one with the Hawkhurst and District Guild. It is not often that we have the pleasure of ringing with our friends who do such a useful job on the Kent-Sussex border, but it is an experience which both parties enjoy and which is well worth repeating. The local arrangements were made by Mr. Geoff Waters, who has a foot in both camps.

Ringing began at 3 p.m. and continued until about 4.30, beginners and the more experienced being equally catered for by the Ringing Master (Mr. A. H. Kemp, of Hawkhurst). Then came a good tea at the Bull Inn, followed by two business meetings, both presided over by Mr. J. Willis, and both—much to the relief of the gathering—were kept down to bare essentials by the respective secretaries.

More ringing followed and then, at 6.30 p.m., the service was held, conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. R. R. Savill), with Mr. E. Manktelow at the organ. The lesson was read by Mr. Geoff Waters. The Hawkhurst Guild had generously consented to the collection going to the Kent County Association's Bell Repair Fund, and this amounted to £1 2s. 6d.

Ringing followed until 9 o'clock in methods up to Yorkshire Surprise Major. Altogether during the day about 45 members and friends were present, the towers represented being:—Ashford, Benenden, Bethersden, Biddenden, Brenchley, Folkestone, Frittenden, Hawkhurst, Horsmonden, High Halden, Lydd, Marden, Maidstone, Northiam, Sedlescombe and Willesborough.

Rolvenden is at present without a local band. The Vicar on being thanked for the use of his bells and for conducting the service, said that he felt sure that he could get young recruits if he could get assistance to train them. The usual story is that existing bands cannot get recruits. Therefore the situation at Rolvenden constitutes a challenge to our members. Will any help to get another tower going again?

W. P. G.

During her visit to Solihull on March 11th to present the charter of incorporation, H.R.H. Princess Margaret was shown over the Parish Church, which has been admirably described by Mr. C. E. Shepherd in his work 'Solihull Church and Bells.'

THE RINGING WORLD

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

No. 2244 Vol. L. FRIDAY, APRIL 2, 1954 Registered at the G.P.O. for transmission as a newspaper 4d.

A NOTABLE TRIO

DOUBTLESS it is true to say that in the making of any collection of peal compositions, for either practical or historical purposes, there are certain ones that could in no circumstances be omitted. Among those that would very naturally form the nucleus of an anthology (if, indeed, such a word may be used of a selection of peals) perhaps the most certain of inclusion are Middleton's peal of Cambridge, Thurstans' 4-part peal of Stedman Triples, and Parker's 12-part peal of Grandsire Triples. These works, remarkable for a number of points of comparison and contrast, have on occasions been described as the three indispensable compositions of the ringing Exercise.

They are alike in the unobtrusiveness of their appearance in the world of change ringing. Thurstans' 4-part peal was certainly composed after a great struggle lasting many years, but in the final triumph the figures were kept secret and the peal was rung almost accidentally in 1846; and once the problem it solved had been overcome there was little comment on the extraordinary qualities of the masterpiece. Middleton's peal, unless one is mistaken, appeared in Hubbard's book as a peal of London Surprise, and its enormous significance as a peal of Cambridge was not immediately apparent. Parker's 12-part, a truly magnificent achievement, was published very modestly in the columns of 'The Bell News' on November 12th, 1892, and the Exercise received it without comment. Parker's peal was rung almost as soon as it appeared in print, and Thurstans' 4-part was rung before it was published; but Middleton's 5,600 had to wait for some years before it was finally rung by the Bennington people.

It is interesting to note the historical position these peals occupy, and then to observe how little was their immediate effect on composition. Not one of the three was, of course, the first true composition in the method. But the Four-Part marked an epoch and sounded the death knell of special calls. Parker's peal was not the first of Grandsire Triples with common bobs and singles only, but it was, for the ordinary conductor, an immense improvement on most of the old compositions, and it almost completely drove out of use the splendid 10-part peal by John Holt, which necessitated the use of two special calls. Middleton was probably not conscious of having solved any particular problem, but his peal was the terminus of at least one line of inquiry, for it was found to be the only possible one in that method with the tenors together throughout.

The three peals seem, then, at first sight not to have stimulated composition in the particular branch they represented. After Thurstans' there were forty years of apathy, a period when interest in Stedman Triples ceased; after Middleton's no further progress was possible without parting the tenors; and Parker's 12-part reigned supreme for a very long time, and it is still, one may venture to say, unequalled.

Transposition of these masterpieces has, nevertheless, given us some very interesting results. It was natural, of course, that Middleton's composition should be varied, for the original length of 5,600 was inconvenient. Henry Johnson reduced it to 5,056, and other famous composers have given us valuable variations. Thurstans' peal inspired Heywood, Davies, Washbrook and other masters, and the resulting transpositions and variations have enriched the conductor's repertoire. Parker's composition allows of numerous transpositions, and the peal may be rung in many very interesting forms. The transpositions, good as they may be, are, nevertheless, of the simplest nature, requiring little or no particular skill to produce, and the transposer can scarcely claim that he has improved the peal or added much to the great gift Parker gave us.

So there stand the three great compositions. Together with their variations and transpositions they form a remarkable galaxy, two of them notable for their extraordinary beauty and symmetry and one for its stern uncompromising utility; and because of them the names of Thurstans, Middleton and Parker will live as long as change ringing persists.

CROYDON

By WILFRID G. WILSON

XII. — CAMBRIDGE SURPRISE

Now we have reached a method which bears what to some is that magic word 'Surprise,' and we will try to show that what we have demonstrated in relation to Plain Bob is also applicable. One thing is certain—that if you are only a bob-caller you have now reached the type of method that you cannot call from one of the 'working' bells, because you will not find it easy at the same time to watch the tenor for the calling positions.

One thing I would emphasise here is that, if you are going to give your mind fully to the art of conducting, you should be able to ring the actual method almost automatically. And in methods like Cambridge you should have spent some time studying their construction and finding out where you meet or dodge with your course bell or after bell, etc. You can find these things out for yourself, either with pencil and paper or when ringing with someone else as conductor. Most people nowadays who ring Surprise methods learn the order in which the leads come—i.e., the position of their bell at the respective lead ends—2, 6, 7, 3, 4, 8, 5 in Cambridge Major. In a plain course you will notice that the bells do their slow work (on the front with the treble) in exactly the reverse order to this.

Here first of all is our example of a peal—Middleton's, of course. It is a five-part peal of 5,600 changes, but is usually reduced to 5,056 changes by substituting a bob Before and 3 bobs at Home for the whole of the second part.

Course Ends				Coursing Orders from 53246
23456	M.	W.	H.	M.	W.	H.
43652	—			53462
56234	—	—		53624	36524
23564		—	—		65324	63254
52364			—			62534
35264			—			65324

On the left of the calling are the course ends, as you will see them in the text books. On the right are the actual Coursing Orders, starting from the plain course Coursing Order 5 3 2 4 6 and changing at every bob.

You will notice first of all that the M. position comes before the W. But that doesn't matter. This being a method with a fourths place bob (like Plain Bob or Kent Treble Bob, etc.), we know that at a bob M. we apply our code (A B C into B C A) to the last three bells. Therefore we change 5 3 2 4 6 into 5 3 4 6 2 — 4 runs out, 6 runs in and 2 makes fourths place. We now ring a whole course until the next M. position, but if you did not know that 4, 6 and 2 are the bells which are to be concerned in the bob and that 6 has to run out, 2 run in and 4 make fourths place you would have a most anxious time watching for the tenor to reach the M. position. It doesn't come conveniently next to the course end in Cambridge. However, our M. position is safely recognised and the bob called. The new Coursing Order being 53624. The bob W. comes at the next lead end, which should not be difficult to spot, but it is very comforting to know beforehand that the first three bells 5, 3 and 6 will be the ones affected and that 3 will run out, 6 run in and 5 make fourths place, giving us 36524 as our new Coursing Order.

Now we have to run another whole course until the next bob W. and we shall know we have got there when the same three bells get into position for the bob. 6 out, 5 in and 3 make fourths and we get Coursing Order 65324. After that we have only to call three Homes—on the middle three bells of our Coursing Order—i.e., from 65324 to 63254; then to 62534 and then to 65324 again for our part end.

When you come to the second part (B. and 3 H.) you will find that the bob B. has just the same effect on the Coursing Order as it had in our earlier examples. That is that the bell last of the five in the Coursing Order will make fourths place and become first in the Coursing Order. But a practical difference you will find when conducting is that the course which contains a bob B. has no calling positions of M. and W., your next calling position being the Home.

Now having found that we can call our peal just as easily, let us look at the Coursing Order of the bells within each lead. To save space I ask you to write out a lead of Cambridge Major —or look it up in a text book or your Ringers' Diary.

Look at the order in which the bells go up to the back after the tenor and 7th. They are 5, then 3, then treble, then 2, 4 and 6, and back to the tenor again. But that is exactly the same as in our simple methods and you can check all through the plain course and find it is still the same. When you consider all that happens in the middle of a lead of Cambridge, it is perhaps rather a surprise, but a very pleasant one for the conductor.

If you look at the order in which the bells go down to the lead you will notice that they are not nearly so obliging. They vary from the standard Coursing Order because of the fact that one bell stays on the front a long while to do its front work after making seconds place at the lead end and because in the second half of the lead another bell stays on the front a long while doing its front work before the lead end. If you ring a lot of Cambridge you will find it is not too difficult to allow for these variations in Coursing Order—they are the same in each lead —and so know in what order the bells ought to go down to the front. But in fact you will find that you will be able to make quite a good job of your conducting if you watch your Coursing Orders as the bells go up to the back.

Once again this technique applies just as easily to Cambridge Royal and Maximus.

For my example peal of Cambridge Surprise Major I chose Middleton's composition because it is most commonly called, but you will find that as you become more proficient at conducting—or perhaps more lazy as you get older—you will learn to pick out compositions which, for one reason or another, prove less difficult to remember or contain more easy landmarks. This means that you can give more of your attention to the quality of the ringing and to any weaker members of the band.

If you start Middleton's composition with two of the last three bobs H. you get what is known as Johnson's variation—the first part is as follows:—

Course Ends				Coursing Orders from 53246
23456	M.	W.	H.	M.	W.	H.

Look first of all at the part end—34562. The second part end will be 45623; the third—56234; the fourth—62345; and the last—23456. Just as from whatever hour you start you meet the hours on a clock face in the order 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, etc., so all your part ends are in rounds order, 23456, merely starting at the next one along. These part ends are called cyclical part ends and are, of course, very easy to remember.

Now examine the bells which are in bob-making positions at the various calling positions. At the first M. position a bob would affect 2, 4 and 6. These three bells are not next to each other in the cyclical order 23456, so we do not call a bob. At the following W. position, the three bells which would be affected are 5, 3 and 2. Once again these three bells are not next to each other in the cyclical order so we do not call a bob. (Note—6, 3 and 2 would be next to each other in the cyclical order 2345623456, etc.—but 5, 3 and 2 are not.) At the H. position we find that 3, 2 and 4 are the bells which would be affected by a bob. These are next to each other in the cyclical order so we do call a bob H. And you will find if you examine the affected bells at each calling position M., W. and H. that this is the case all through.

So if you call this variation you need only learn 2H., 2M., 2W., 1H. part end 34562. All the other part ends are cyclical. You keep a check on the Coursing Order with the code ABC into BCA and, as a guide to correct calling, you can remember simply that you always call a bob whenever three consecutive bells in the cyclical order are affected by the call and you never call a bob when the three bells which would be affected are not consecutive bells in the cyclical order.

Just as in Middleton's peal, you can shorten any one of the five parts—but this time call 2H., B. and H. (i.e.—start with 2H. the same as in the main calling in this variation).

LATE NEWS

Mr. J. Frederick Milner rang his 500th peal last Saturday at Southwell Minster. He celebrated the occasion by calling for the first time a peal of London Surprise Major.

BELFRY GOSSIP

The Ladies' Guild has its youngest honorary member — Miss Rosemary Staniforth, who was elected at the age of two weeks when the Midland District held their meeting at Rushden. It will be a happy day when Rosemary is elected a practising member.

Mr. C. Frank W. Phillippo has rung in each of Mr. C. Frank J. Arnold's first 50 peals.

Weston Favell, Northants, ringers are meeting the cost of a peal plaque from wedding fees.

Spring was welcomed at Offley, Herts, on March 21st, by a quarter of Primrose Surprise Minor.

Three Sydney ringers—Miss M. Winter, Mr. J. J. Cummins and Mr. T. W. Goodyear—have been on holiday in Victoria and scored two peals and a quarter.

Congratulations to Miss Jill Toombs, of Stourbridge, Worcs. She took her first ringing lesson on December 14th and on March 22nd scored her first quarter—the treble to Grandsire Triples.

The co-operation of Mr. Wright sen. has enabled the first peal to be rung on the bells of Yoxall, Staffs. The band are indebted to him and also to Mrs. Wright, who kindly provided an excellent meal after the peal.

The first quarter by the local band at Packwood, Warwickshire, was rung on March 21st. Unfortunately the whole band can only meet about every three months as J. D. Walker has joined the Merchant Navy. Keen recruits are apparently needed in this tower.

Unless a peal was rung there before 1881, the peal of Stedman Doubles at Great Barrington, Gloucestershire, on March 13th, recorded in our last issue, was the first on the bells. The peals at Blaisdon, Gloucestershire, and Wenhaston, Suffolk, also reported last week, were the first on the bells for 20 years.

A remarkable record of service is that of Mr. George A. Steele, at Aldrington, Sussex. A ringer for 64 years and verger for 44 years, he retired last week and is going to live in Kent. At a farewell social, the Rev. Canon Mogridge presented Mr. Steele with a cheque for £50 subscribed by the parishioners, and the ringers presented an ash tray on a floor stand, suitably inscribed.

Among our lady tenor ringers 19-year-old Miss Brenda Smith has definitely a place. She has rung the 36-cwt. Evesham tenor to a quarter peal. Brute force is not necessary to ring a tenor bell which goes well.

A titanic task has been undertaken by the Rev. K. W. H. Felstead in tabulating the 90,000 peals rung since 1881. The first of his articles appears this week, and later ones dealing with different counties will be most acceptable to the Exercise.

A peal of Stedman Caters was rung on the beautiful bells of Lichfield Cathedral last Saturday as a welcome to the Ven. W. S. Macpherson, Archdeacon of Richmond, on the occasion of his installation as 55th Dean of Lichfield.

When the Beverley and District Ringing Society visited Market Weighton on March 20th they were the guests at tea of Mr. H. Musk, an elder member of the local company. Such a kind gesture was much appreciated.

It has taken Mr. Roger C. Preston, of Sheffield, over two years to score his first quarter as conductor, as opportunities have been few and far between. His first attempt, in his home tower at Prescot, Lancs, came to grief five minutes before time when the tenor rope broke. Another attempt, before evening service, overran its time and 'Stand' was called. Success came after a breakdown in a peal attempt.

PEAL RINGING, 1881-1954

By the Rev. K. W. H. Felstead

SINCE 1881 when the 'Bell News' issued its first number, just over 90,000 peals have been rung and published in the ringing papers. This article and those which follow are the results of compiling a card index showing the towers in which these peals have been rung. It is proposed to give a short account of the peals rung in each county in turn with any points of interest. These will appear at regular intervals in the 'Ringing World.' It is not very likely that the conclusions reached would be altered significantly by peals rung before 1881. At an estimate, there are probably not more than about 5,000 from the time of the first peal in 1715 to this date (an attempt is being made to record all these peals also, and if they do make any difference it will be mentioned later). I would like to acknowledge, at the outset, the help given by Mr. Dove's book, 'Guide to the Church Bells of Britain.' In fact, I don't think the job would have been possible without some such book of reference. I have been extremely grateful for it. Of course, certain observations depend entirely on it, and I hope this will be remembered when particular towers are mentioned, for I may be echoing one of the very few mistakes which appear in the book.

And now for the 90,000 peals. I suppose it is probable that, if my estimate of pre-1881 peals is anything like, the 100,000th peal will be rung within the next three or four years. I fear we shall never know where. These 90,000 peals have been rung in just over 4,000 towers. Thus there are still about 1,200 towers which have not had a peal rung in them (tower grabbers please note!). Of course, most of these are 5 and 6 bell towers (590 of the former and 540 of the latter), but there are still 41 8-bell towers which haven't had a peal on them since 1881, two 10-bell towers (St. Andrew's, Norwich, where peals were rung earlier in the 19th century; and Dunham Massey), and one 12-bell tower (Liverpool Cathedral!). So there is still quite of lot of scope for those who like to claim 'First peal on the bells.' Talking of the latter, it has been surprising how many times a 'first peal on the bells' has been claimed when peals have been rung before, and not always a long time before, either—on more than one occasion it was claimed within a year of a previous peal.

LOUGHBOROUGH COMPLIMENTED

The tower with the greatest number of peals to its credit is Loughborough Bell Foundry. At the moment it stands at 544, having passed its 500 mark unnoticed in October, 1952. It also holds the record for the largest number of peals rung in a single year—50 in 1949 (thanks chiefly to Mr. H. J. Poole). Readers may remember that in February, 1952, there was an article by Mr. E. A. Barnett about the 500 peals which had been rung at Crayford and suggesting that it was the first church to accomplish this feat. It is now clear that the claim was justified, although mention of a challenge made in 1943, to which no answer was made, could have been taken up by Erith (St. John) then. This latter tower led in the number of peals rung for nearly 40 years, until, in fact, it was overhauled by Crayford about the end of 1943. It is now third in the list with a total of 489, so there should be another 500-peal tower to be celebrated within a year or two.

If length of time in ringing these 500 peals is taken into account we shall probably find that Erith will come second after Loughborough. The Loughborough peals took 51 years, Crayford 75 years, whilst Erith's first peal was rung on November 18th, 1882, nearly 72 years ago, so it has still three years to go to beat Crayford's time. No other tower comes within 150 of these three, so they have a tremendous lead on the others. Six towers come between 300 and 330—Beddington; Birmingham, St. Martin; Brighton, St. Peter; Burton-on-Trent, St. Paul; Crawley: Warnham. Willesden is very near (297), and since peals were rung before 1881 at Ipswich, St. Mary-le-Tower, its total of 290 would probably be over the 300 mark. There are actually 24 towers between the 200 and 300 mark. These and the 114 between 100 and 200 will be mentioned in the articles on the different counties. I shall mention also those which are approaching centuries and the 250 mark, so that they can be duly celebrated.

SIX-BELL TOWERS

It has been surprising to find that only one 6-bell tower has passed the 100 peal mark. This goal was achieved as long ago as 1922, too, and still there are only three others approaching this total (Wickham Skeith, Hanley Castle and Lamberhurst). The tower is Thornham Magna, with a grand total of 136. It is not often seen in the peal list now—only two peals have been rung there since the last war. This brings to mind a very obvious fact which has happened over and over again. It is seen that the majority of towers have 'spasms' of activity. This is often due to the efforts of one or two men who get together a good band, ring many peals for a few years, and then fade out for various reasons—often death or the break-up of the band by war, etc. Thus Duffield was very prominent during the life of Sir A. P. Heywood: Drayton, under the Rev. F. E. Robinson, etc. Sometimes 'popular' towers cease to appear in the peal lists through the bells gradually becoming more or less unringable, or through a new incumbent not liking ringing! An example of the former (due more to the state of the tower than the 'go' of the bells) is Chesterfield, which had reached 220 when the bells were silenced for about 25 years in 1923. At the rate they were going, it is likely they would be approaching the 500 mark now. One of the most amazing examples of this sudden cessation is St. Botolph's, Bishopsgate, where 40 peals were rung in 1934 and five in 1935 and very few since (two since the war). Angmering is a 6-bell tower where something must have 'happened.' Between October, 1889, and December, 1891, 45 peals were rung (10 of them in December, 1889!), which is an amazing number for those days (over 20 a year). There is then complete silence for nearly 60 years (from December 22nd, 1891, to January 9th, 1950). The three 500-peal towers are the exceptions—their large numbers are due to the consistency of peal ringing at them over the whole period. But there was only one peal at Crayford last year! Is this tower also going to have a 'lean' time at last?

NORTH STONEHAM RINGERS' WEDDING

Saturday, March 20th, was a day of rejoicing at North Stoneham, Hants, when two members of the local band, Mr. Norman Hayes and Miss Molly Denby, were married at St. Nicholas' Church. Mr. Hayes is tower secretary and recorder of peals for the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild.

The ceremony was preceded by a peal of 5,040 Southwell Surprise Royal conducted by Mr. C. H. Kippin, and was the first peal of Royal in this method to be rung.

After the wedding the bells were 'fired' in excellent style by the local band, many of whom accepted invitations to the reception in the Church Hall. It was unfortunate that the date happened to clash with a District meeting at Romsey, so that most of the peal band adjourned there.

Handbells were rung at the reception as a 'send-off' to the couple, and the reception itself continued in fine style until about 11.30.

As the couple left the church they had to go through the traditional archway of handbells. One of the many gifts was a barometer from their ringing friends.

The honeymoon is being spent at Sidmouth.

AN INSIGHT INTO THE DERBYSHIRE ASSOCIATION

Leg-Pulls and Humour at the Second Annual Dinner

THE Derbyshire Association, formed in 1946 after the liquidation of the Midland Counties Association, began life in not very favourable circumstances. Although endowed with many rings of beautiful bells, there was no really strong association-minded band to give impetus to the new organisation.

In spite of this, however, steady progress has been made and, although there are many voids to be filled, the Association is well established and friends with itself and its neighbours.

Whilst lacking the outstanding ringing personalities with whom some Associations are blessed, and who seem to be able to stimulate a whole organisation with their vitality, the Derbyshire Association is fortunate in its principal officers.

The Right Reverend R. S. M. O'Ferral, Assistant Bishop of Derby, served until this year as president and, although a non-ringer, he appreciated the value of ringing organisations and supported them. He added dignity and efficiency to the annual general meetings, and it is to be hoped that the Association will be as fortunate in his successor.

Mr. W. Lancaster is now vice-president, after steering the Association through its first few years in that most important office of general secretary.

The vacant office of general secretary was most ably filled by Mr. A. B. Cooper, of Bolsover, who has proved to be most keen and efficient, and, in fact, one would have to search far to find a better secretary. He is also secretary of the Chesterfield district and, when one finds that he is also the Sunday School superintendent, choirman and pillar of his church, one realises something of his value.

For treasurer the Association is fortunate in having the services of Mr. E. Fletcher, of Ilkeston, a most reliable and experienced man, who has put the finances on a simple and systematic basis and, while in office, has seen the balance swing over to the right side.

The Association firmly supports the Central Council, and is proud of the fact that Sir Arthur Heywood, of Duffield, who was a prime mover in its foundation, came from the Derby area. Two representatives, Mr. A. Mould and Mr. D R. Carlisle (also peal secretary), bring back each year a clear report of the Central Council's meeting.

MEMBERSHIP OF 250+

Membership totals about 250 residents, but there is a steady intake of young members who are very keen, and some have formed amongst themselves a small school society.

In the Derby area itself ringing has improved appreciably in the past few years, both in scope and quality, due to several factors, such as the interest in peal ringing, despite what critics say to the contrary, contact with other Associations, good practices and meetings.

The improvement in standard is exemplified by a recent peal attempt for Pudsey Royal, when the peal was successfully brought round, but not accepted because of a bad course near the end. Disappointment by the band, who were all new to the method, was outweighted by the satisfaction of maintaining a standard.

In the earlier post-war years the St. Peter's practice in Derby was outstanding in promoting interest and advancement under the amiable leadership of Mr. John Clew, whose death last year was felt very deeply. Mr. Freebrey, ringing master at St. Andrew's, also has done useful work in pressing forward with advanced methods and peal arrangements. The practices at All Saints' Cathedral Church of Derby, have, during the last few years, become very popular and fostered ten-bell ringing, particularly Surprise Royal. Mr. Harold Taylor is the Ringing Master and has succeeded during his few years in that office of building up a Sunday service band almost from nothing.

District meetings are always well supported, and, under the successive District Masters, Messrs. G. Freebrey, A. Mould, F. R. Lowe and H. Taylor, cater for learners and less advanced equally with more proficient ringers. Joint meetings with neighbouring districts are frequently held and particularly friendly relations exist between the Derby District and the Midland Counties Guild.

SECOND ANNUAL DINNER

The success of the first annual dinner held last year was evidenced by the increased demand for tickets, which, unfortunately, had to be limited to 90, and resulted in some applicants being disappointed. All districts, Derby, Chesterfield, Ilkeston and Peak, were represented this year, and guests included members of the Southwell Diocesan Guild, the Midland Counties Guild, the Sheffield and District Society and the Archdeaconry of Stafford Society. The dinner was again held at the Corporation Hotel.

Speechmaking was subject to one rule, one speech only, limited to a maximum duration of two minutes. Vice-President W. Lancaster observed the rule, but managed to convey a warm welcome to those present, particularly to visitors from other Associations. He also drew attention to the presence of several veterans, pointing out that it was their groundwork in the past which had led to the organisation that made possible these functions.

Change ringing on handbells headed the programme of entertainment. The methods rung were Grandsire Caters and Stedman Triples by Miss Joan Beresford and George Oliver (Lichfield), A. Mould and D. R. Carlisle (Derby), Brian Buswell (Nottingham) and David Marshall (Sawley).

Several games were played during the evening, though not always strictly to the rules. In the well known T.V. game of passing an egg on a spoon held in the mouth, a team of men from Derby, who were opposed by a team of ladies, were disqualified for jostling. They had to redeem themselves by singing the signature tune, 'Herr von Schmit.'

As a break from the more energetic entertainment Messrs. Carlisle, A. Mould and J. Mould rang tunes whose melodies were so recognisable that the company was able to sing to them.

PRESENTATION TO MR. A. E. THOMPSON

Mr. Cooper, of Bolsover, then announced that a presentation was about to be made to Mr. A. E. Thompson, of St. Andrew's, Derby. Mr. Thompson, who is renowned for his peal ringing activities and also for his partiality for mussels, has only recently broken his first stay after some years of ringing. The citation, condensed below, was read by Mr. Cooper.

'The setting was St. Andrew's belfry on a Monday evening. The occasion, an attempt for a quarter peal of Bristol S. Major, a worthy venture since it was practice night. The type of bob, colloquially "barb," "burp" or "bip," was fourths place.

'With Mr. Thompson on the second a start was made. Soon, probably due to weakness resulting from his partiality to mussels, Mr. Thompson's bell had dropped to half swing. This caused much consternation to the ringer to whom he should have been giving "one." With admirable effort, in view of his mussel-bound condition, Mr. Thompson gave a mighty heave, which not only brought the bell up to full swing, but set it spinning like a top.

'The rope neatly disappeared aloft with Mr. Thompson attached. His return slickly coincided with the call to stand. He was immediately showered with congratulations by his fellow ringers, while the conductor stood speechless in admiration.'

Mr. Thompson was presented with an illuminated certificate and a newly-instituted order, 'Capita Magnissima' (Biggest Head), was conferred upon him. The medallion of the order was pinned upon his chest. Mr. Cooper warned the assembly not to confuse this order with 'Capita Magna' or 'big 'ead,' which is normally reserved for Surprise ringers!

Two duets and a trio were sung by Messrs. R. E. Carlisle, H. Bates and R. W. Carlisle, of Nottingham, and the vice-president obliged when called upon to 'give us a song.'

Another highlight of the evening was a song with words specially composed for the occasion by Mr. G. A. Halls and Mr. D. R. Carlisle. The tune should have been 'John Brown's Body,' and was rendered by the Derby Ringers' Male Voice Choir, augmented by the St. Leodegarius, Nottingham, Glee Singers.

After community singing many of the ringers had to leave, and the remainder spent the rest of the evening dancing or in ringing conversation.

TO PEAL CONDUCTORS

Will peal conductors please put their name and address on the same sheet on which the peal report is written.

When sending a quarter peal report with a peal please write same on a separate sheet.

SOCIETY FOR THE ARCHDEACONRY OF STAFFORD

A Cold Day at Wednesbury

It was a grey, cold day on the occasion of the Society's March meeting held at Wednesbury on March 13th. The fine Parish Church of St. Bartholomew is in an exposed position on top of a hill and the ringers attending the meeting were quick to get into the belfry right away from the biting wind. Ringing on the grand ring of ten bells (tenor 24 cwt.) was under the direction of Mr. Maurice Turner, Ringing Master.

The service was conducted by Dr. A. B. Lavelle, Vicar and Rural Dean of Wednesbury, and the Parish Church organist, Mr. Gurney Harper, kindly officiated on the organ. In his address Dr. Lavelle drew attention to a recent memorial in the church to a former verger which bore the inscription: 'I had rather be a doorkeeper in the House of the Lord than dwell in the tents of the ungodly.' Dr. Lavelle appealed to ringers to follow this precept and be faithful in their appointed ministry in the belfry.

Tea was served at Wadsworth's Restaurant, after which Mr. Fred Bennett thanked the Wednesbury ringers for arranging the meeting at short notice (following a cancellation), Dr. Lavelle for taking the service, and Mr. Harper for playing the organ.

Three new members, all ladies, the Misses Ann Ward, Valerie Cubley and Judith Rundle from Rugeley were welcomed.

The attendance of 43 yas the smallest since 1950. The next meeting of the Society will be at Cannock on May 22nd. Preliminary notice is also given that the joint meeting with the Shropshire Association will be held at Shrewsbury on July 10th.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

RINGERS' ROLL OF HONOUR

Dear Sir,—Well over one half of the Associations have sent their contribution towards the cost of the oak case which is to contain the Ringers' Roll of Honour in St. Paul's Cathedral.

The first roll contains 1,076 names and the last more more than 300. Therefore it is quite likely that casualties from every Association in the British Isles are recorded in one or both of the rolls.

It is hoped that every Association will have sent a subscription before the Council meeting on June 8th, so that the rolls may be in their case and open to inspection not long after the meeting of the Council.

It is very heartening to find such a ready response from so many Associations and it would be wonderful if it could be reported to the Council on June 8th that there had been a 100 per cent. response to the Council's request.—Yours sincerely,

HARRY MILES.

CONGRATULATIONS

Dear Sir,—As a ringer, I have reached the stage, or age, when peals, as such, are of little interest to me. They have become 'two a penny'! I much prefer to spend my leisure hours enjoying some outdoor recreation. I would, however, as one who took part in the previous record peal of Spliced Surprise Major, like to congratulate, most sincerely, the Lincolnshire and Yorkshire ringers who have recently rung peals in 32 and 36 methods respectively.

Can we have the 32 method composition published? I make this request as I believe, and here I may be 'sticking my neck out,' that the number of changes (160) rung in each method would prove it to be collectively the better achievement of the two.—Yours faithfully,

W. F. JUDGE.

Oxford.

Note.—Mr. Judge's letter was received after our last issue had gone to press. The composition referred to appears on page 205.—Ed.

'QUICKEST PEAL OF ROYAL EVER RUNG'

Dear Sir,—On page 192 of 'The Ringing World' of March 19th you publish the achievement of ringing a 5,000 Royal in two hours and 28 minutes, and add that there have been such peals even quicker. These, of course, are peals 'in hand.'

Undoubtedly these are achievements to record, but, apart from the fact that a big number of changes on a lot of bells have been rung in a short time, is it really worth while?

After all, what does it sound like? Is not the sound of a bell or of a ring of bells what really counts?

As far as tower bells are concerned, I think the sound of the bells is miles ahead of any other factor concerning ringing.

It seems to me that rings of ten are often rung too quickly—jingle-jingle-dong, ting-boom-swish and on and on. . . . Let's have a clear open lead and let there be sufficient space between strikes so that each bell has a chance to speak and its tone heard and appreciated.

My opinion—for what it is worth—is that ringing is often on the fast side, and if half-muffled, can hardly be too slow. I know that the weight of the ring makes a difference; but, whatever the reason, I say that all dignity is lost if ringing is too fast, and that eight bells often sound better than ten unless the ten are hung properly and in very competent ringers' hands.—Yours faithfully,

CLAUDE RUSH.

Eye, Suffolk.

LONDON SURPRISE ROYAL AT HILLINGDON

Dear Sir,—I would like through this medium to congratulate the band who rang the peal of London Surprise Royal at Hillingdon on February 27th last.

As I listened to parts of this peal I was delighted with the manner that the first peal in this musical and difficult method was being rung for our Middlesex Association, especially to know that so many of our young element were in the band. I know it gave our modest Ringing Master, Tony Price, a great deal of pleasure that his two sons and others he has taught and encouraged were in this creditable performance.

I would also express the pleasure I feel that our young District Master, Richard Speed, conducted the peal. Of course, he had his wife at his side, ringing her first 'touch' in the method—what an inspiration!

I know I can speak for the local band that we are honoured by this peal being rung at Hillingdon, also that our new captain, T. G. Bannister, took part.

It was good that our old friends, Tom Lock and Tom Francis, came to see us again and were associated with the occasion.

I would conclude by 'Thank you all from Hillingdon,' especially for that 'copybook' finish to a good peal.

W. H. COLES.

ST. JOHN-THE-DIVINE, LEICESTER

Dear Sir,—May I take this opportunity of thanking you and all readers of 'The Ringing World' and others who have taken such an active interest in a resistance against the proposal to demolish the Church of St. John-the-Divine, Leicester, and say how happy I am to be able to announce that their efforts have met with the success they have so richly deserved.—Yours sincerely,

S. HARRISON,
Ringing Master and Deputy Warden.

Leicester.

ANONYMOUS LETTERS

Dear Sir,—Your reference in last week's 'Belfry Gossip' to an anonymous letter compels me to raise the matter of the ban upon such correspondence.

Our paper must now have the unenviable distinction of being the only magazine in the United Kingdom which imposes such a ban. An even sadder thought is the fact that nobody has protested, so it would seem that this attack on freedom of speech and writing has been accepted without a murmur. Are we bell-ringers a particularly sensitive class, afraid to have our behaviour and institutions examined in your columns? To reject these letters seems to indicate a totalitarian outlook which should be quite foreign to all of us. We should remember that the preservation of the right to criticise always entails a risk that the privilege may be abused, but we ought not to be afraid on that account so long as an impartial editor permits both sides to air their views.

I would emphasise that I am not condoning poison-pen writers. The editor has a waste-paper basket for missives of this nature.

If a letter is critical of a person or association, why not forward it before publication, to the attacked party, who can then pen a reply which will appear in the paper beside the anonymous letter?

I am not convinced by the argument that the signed letter is a satisfactory solution, for it is obvious that anyone with a grievance to air (which could be just) will shrink from it if he is liable to suffer social ostracism.—Yours faithfully,

H. P. CLIFF.

Newcastle-on-Tyne.

PEAL COMPOSITION

Dear Sir,—I have read much of the literature and, at least for Surprise methods, have found no systematic method shown for producing peal compositions. Reference is made to round blocks and Q-sets but not much to their actual use.

One is shown how to determine the internal falseness and from this it is a simple matter to derive the maximum number of courses available for a composition. To fit these courses together is not, however, very clear.

I have produced quite a number of compositions in different Surprise methods but always by the method of trial and error or inspired guesswork. There must be many composers who have systematic methods of producing compositions and no doubt there are many ringers like myself who would be interested to learn of these systems.

The reason for desiring this knowledge is not so much to put one's name to a composition as to obtain one in, say, a new method to suit one's own style of conducting (or, to be honest, as simple as possible consistent with good music).

I would be grateful to anyone who could either recommend suitable literature or indicate their own system to me directly or by publication in 'The Ringing World.'—Yours sincerely,

D. R. CARLISLE.

Risley, Derby.

Saffron Walden. E. W. PYE.

Pixies' 500-Year-Threat to Ottery St. Mary's Bells

Midsummer's Night Challenge by Local Ringers

If you are superstitious you will enjoy this article from the 'Pulman's Weekly News' of the threat of the pixies to Ottery St. Mary's bells. The ringers are accepting a 500-year-old challenge.

WHAT will happen to the bells of Ottery St. Mary Parish Church on Midsummer's night (June 24th)? According to Mr. Fred Godfrey and an Ottery committee that is the date when the wee folk—the pixies—will try and get their revenge on the town for ringing the bells for the first time on June 24th, 1454 —500 years ago.

'Most people in this atomic age pooh-pooh such talk,' says Mr. Godfrey, 'but not everyone. There are some men and women alive to-day who still believe in the little folk and they are dreading what harm may yet befall the lovely bells of the beautiful church of St. Mary.'

It is planned to hold celebrations on June 24th and when the bells start ringing at 9 p.m. Ottregians will wonder if anything is going to happen to their bells.

'HISTORY' OF BELLS

Mr. Godfrey, relating the history of the pixies and Ottery, said, 'When the foundations of the church were laid much interest was shown by the pixies, but they were not unduly perturbed, for they felt their hold over the people was much too strong to be shaken by the building of a church. But when mention was made of a bell named St. Mary they were alarmed because the ringing of a church bell is to the little folk what holy water is to the devil.

'The pixies then set about trying to stop the bell being cast or erected. An attempt to stop the monks getting the metal failed and they then tried to crack the bell in casting by pouring dew on it. But the flowers forestalled them by mixing honey with the dew which made the note of the bell far sweeter than it would have been.

MONKS 'PIXIE-LED'

'Foiled again, the pixies started again the day the monks commenced towing the bell from Exeter to Ottery. They made themselves very pleasant to the monks at first, fetching delicious cold water and telling them stories. As the journey progressed the monks became "pixie-led" and the pixies got the cavalcade on the very edge of a steep cliff at Sidmouth. They danced with joy at the success of their scheme, but just as the leading monk was about to step over the edge, he trod on a prickle and shouted "God bless my soul and St. Mary." This broke the spell and eventually the bell was safely fixed in the belfry at Ottery.

'Some people say they tried once more on the day the bell was to be blessed. On this occasion the bell was found tightly bound with magic cords. However, the bell was freed after some delay and at 9 p.m. it rang out triumphant.

500 YEARS WAIT

'The pixies decided to lie low for 500 years —time means nothing to them—but at 9 p.m., on June 24th, 1954, they would have their revenge.'

With this 'history' in mind the Coronation Committee decided to organise a celebration with the climax at 9 p.m. to see if anything does happen when the bells ring out. The celebrations may include a summer carnival.

The Organising Committee—and some people in Ottery—had a shock recently when the bell of King's School 'mysteriously' broke down and they asked 'Is this the start of the pixies' revenge?'

BARNSLEY & DISTRICT SOCIETY

Not since 1938 has the Barnsley District Society visited Ecclesfield, the reasons being the ban on ringing during the war years and the state of the bells. These, however, have been overhauled and repaired and are a pleasure to ring.

The meeting was most happy and successful. Afternoon ringing was followed by tea—a good square meal—in the Church Hall.

At the business meeting the curate (the Rev. Charles Whitfield) presided in the regretted absence of the Vicar. The business was mainly of a routine character but five new members were elected viz:—L. E. Smith, A. Gregory, D. Greaves, R. Harrison and N. Clark, all of Ecclesfield.

A committee meeting is to be held at Barnsley on April 3rd at 6 p.m. to arrange the shield and cup contests. The next monthly meeting will be held at Felkirk on April 10th.

The following towers were represented:—Bolsterstone, Darfield, Cawthorne, Felkirk, Handsworth, Horbury, Thrybergh, Leeds Parish, Wath-on-Dearne, Sutton-in-Mansfield with a good muster of the local company.

Further ringing followed until about 8 p.m. in a variety of Minor and Major methods.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION

Western District at Bradford

The annual meeting of the Western District was held on March 20th at the Cathedral, Bradford. Upwards of 50 members attended and methods rung during the day ranged from Bob Minor to Cambridge Surprise Royal.

It was unfortunate that no tea arrangements could be made, but having sought refreshment in divers restaurants, members were reunited in the Cathedral Hall for the business meeting.

The vice-president, Mr. P. J. Johnson, took the chair and votes of thanks were accorded to the Cathedral authorities and to the local company for their arrangements. Five new members were elected.

The annual election of officers then took place. Mr. P. J. Johnson was re-elected vice-president for a further term of three years, and Messrs. H. Armitage and W. Dixon were re-elected to the District Committee for a similar period. Miss S. E. M. Barton did not seek re-election and is succeeded by Miss M. Barker, of Collingham. Mr. H. Armitage was also re-elected to serve on General Committee of the Association.

Mr. W. Barton made mention of the recent passing of Mr, J. W. Cundall, an old and valued member of the Cathedral company, and members stood in silence as a mark of respect. Mr. P. J. Johnson was pleased to report that Mr. J. Hardcastle, another member of the old Bradford company, whom he had visited earlier in the day, was in the best of spirits, despite an infirmity which confined him permanently to his bed.

This concluded the business meeting and members returned to the tower for further ringing.

THE QUEEN IN MELBOURNE

'We spent quite a lot of time ringing during the Queen's visit to Melbourne,' writes Mrs. Joan Gray, of Montmorency, Victoria.

'On February 28th when the Queen attended divine service in the Cathedral we rang before and after the service, and then in the afternoon tried for a peal of Grandsire Caters. This went well for over two hours, when the tenor man found he could no longer keep the bell up. Investigations revealed a broken bolt in the headstock. This has now been mended and we hope to try again shortly.

'Last Saturday (March 13th) a party of four ringers from Melbourne and three from Sydney motored 70 miles to Ballarat, where they met a ringer from Adelaide, to try and mark the Queen's visit to that city by ringing the first peal of Surprise outside the British Isles. Unfortunately we were again beaten by two back-going bells. I believe the seventh nearly beat George Martin in the famous (and only) peal in 1934, so we did well to get through three-quarters of our peal of Cambridge with hardly a trip.

'Our visitors have gone back to Sydney, so we shall have to wait patiently for a few months before we can try again for Surprise. Best wishes to all ringing friends in England.'

RINGING IN AFRICA

Members of a Great Brotherhood

During a recent tour around Africa we have been privileged to ring at St. Mary's, Greyville (Durban), St. Paul's (Durban) and St. Mary's, Woodstock (Cape Town). These, we are told, are the only ringable rings in that vast continent, since some structural alterations have caused an obstruction to the swinging of at least one of Grahamstown's eight bells. We should like to record our hearty appreciation of the welcome we received at each of these three towers, a welcome which emphasised the fraternity existing between all ringers everywhere.

In this country we often hear of a band of ringers struggling along and making only slow progress because they are in an isolated village. How much more, then, must our friends in Africa feel their isolation. Having seen what efforts they are making to improve in the art of change ringing, we must ponder and count our own blessings. For example, in most parts of England we have a wealth of bells within a reasonable distance, many able and experienced ringers anxious to give assistance to all willing learners, and Guilds where both the practical and social side of our art can be furthered for our delight.

AT DURBAN

Our first visit was to St. Mary's, Greyville. Here we were able to join in a weekly practice in a very pleasant ringing chamber, and also to ring for Sunday morning service. The captain, Mr. T. J. Maeder, and his band are working manfully at Grandsire Doubles, and are fortunate in having as their instructor Mr. Cyril Chambers, late of Kidderminster. They are using handbells to help them in their studies, and rang a course of Grandsire Triples (single-handed) while we were there. We wish them all success and hope that in time all the ten bells of this tower will have learned the ways of change ringing.

The next evening we visited St. Paul's, in the very centre of Durban, where Mr. William Gardiner (hon. secretary of the Church Bell-ringers' Guild) had gathered together some ringers. The belfry ladder-and-trap-door entry did not in any way mar the enjoyment of ringing call changes on this octave. ('If we'd had one more we could have rung Grandsire Doubles'—haven't we often heard a corresponding cry in this country?) One remarkable thing in this tower was that the plain white sallies did not seem to be at all soiled either by the warm hands of ringers or by the dust which inevitably got into the ringing chamber through the open louvres from the city outside. The evening ended again with handbells, this time Grandsire Doubles with a few cautious bobs.

Besides the church work of ringing at these two towers in Durban there is a weekly handbell practice held in the city in the lunch hour. This was started not long ago by Mr. Chambers in an effort to arouse interest in change ringing after he had given an open lecture on the subject. His enthusiasm certainly deserves encouragement and his efforts success.

CAPE TOWN'S ENTHUSIASM

The next tower, some 800 miles away, was St. Mary's, Woodstock, Cape Town. Here was another 'ladder-and-trap-door' entry, but beyond it a keen band of enthusiasts whose captain is Mr. J. G. Wood. Unfortunately, Mr. Wood himself was in hospital at the time of our visit and we wish him a speedy and complete recovery from his operation. Meanwhile ringing was in the hands of Mr. Robert H. Stickley, late of Hereford, who conducted the Cape Town Coronation peal last June. Moreover, around the walls were numerous records of recent quarter peals by a band which deserves to progress. At this practice the methods rung were Grandsire Doubles and Triples and Plain Bob Doubles and Minor. Stedman was also on the list but pressure of time and uncertainty on the part of one or two of the ringers combined to call it off.

When we set sail from England last December we were resigned to the idea of three and a half months without the feel of a bellrope. How could we dare to hope that our very tentative letters to the three ringing towers of Africa, inquiring whether by any chance their days of ringing would coincide with our days of call, would bear fruit? As it was we very soon received answers showing that, in spite of our own vagueness about dates, everything would be done at the other end to make practices available. The welcome and the hospitality given left no doubt about their genuineness, and made us realise that, after all, ringers are ringers all the world over and members of a great brotherhood. We definitely felt that our friends in South Africa liked entertaining ringing visitors and would like to have more opportunity of doing so. So if it falls to the lot of any reader to travel to Africa, let him see that his route be made to include Durban and Cape Town, where he will be sure to find a warm ringing welcome.

THE LADIES' GUILD

Midland District at Rushden

The Midland District of the Ladies' Guild held a meeting at Rushden, Northants, on March 20th. Members from Leicester and district travelled to the meeting by special bus and were met at the tower by Mr. A. L. Priestley, the tower captain.

Ringing commenced at 3 p.m. and despite the doubts of some of the 'supporters' club' a service touch of Grandsire Triples was brought round by a band of ladies. The service was conducted by the Rector (Canon E. A. Green).

About 55 ringers and friends sat down to an excellent tea provided by the catering committee. Before the business meeting Miss Thompson, the vice-president, expressed thanks to the Rector for his welcome, for the use of the bells and for conducting the service, to the organist, to Mr. Priestley for making the local arrangements, and to the ladies for tea. One honorary member was elected, Miss Rosemary Staniforth, who at the tender age of two weeks becomes the youngest member of the Ladies' Guild.

During the evening further ringing took place on this very good ring of eight, bringing to a close a successful meeting.

Mrs. Priestley and the other ladies at Rushden, not content with providing a delightful tea, very kindly packed the Leicester contingent a hamper of sandwiches and cakes for their homeward journey. These were very much appreciated by the members and even more so by the supporters!

The next meeting is hoped to be arranged at Ibstock, Leicester, on May 22nd.

MR. J. J. HOLE

Dunster ringers regret the passing of Mr. J. J. Hole, who was elected a member of this Somerset tower on December 31st, 1896. He was interred at Exeter on March 22nd and on that day a quarter peal of Grandsire Triples was rung half-muffled on Dunster bells. The band included a very old friend of Mr. Hole, Mr. J. Pugsley, of Minehead.

OBITUARY

MR. W. J. BUNCE

With sincere regret we announce the death of Mr. W. J. Bunce, captain of the Ruislip band since 1922, and a member of the St. Martin's (Ruislip) Guild for just 50 years.

He rang in nine peals, six for the Middlesex Association and three for the Royal Cumberland Youths, these being four Plain Bob Major, one Kent Treble Bob Major, two Stedman Triples and two Grandsire Triples. He rang for every important occasion since the funeral of King Edward VII. and was the owner of a silver matchbox presented by the Ruislip residents for ringing at the Coronation of King George V.

Mr. Bunce was much loved by all who knew him and will be greatly missed by the Ruislip band. He was a very keen member of Ruislip Bowls Club and was also a founder of the Ruislip Town Football Club. He was in charge of the church clock for 32 years, doing all minor repairs himself and attending to the weekly winding, all on a voluntary basis. He leaves three sons, all ringers.

I shall miss him a lot, having been his constant friend and companion for 66 years. May he rest in peace. TOM COLLINS.

MR. W. R. J. POULSON

It is with sincere regret that we record the death on March 17th of Mr. William R. J. Poulson, of Lavenham, at the age of 65. He has been a member of the Lavenham band since 1908 and was for many years its deputy conductor.

Mr. Poulson was a regular Sunday service ringer for both Matins and Evensong throughout his whole ringing career. He was a splendid striker whether at the 'light' or 'heavy' end. His peals totalled 131 (24 of them being on handbells), his longest being 6,000 and 6,240, both Plain Bob. He will be greatly missed by his many ringing friends.

He was laid to rest on March 24th. At the graveside a course of Grandsire Triples was rung on handbells over the open grave by Messrs. F. A. Turner, M. T. S. Symonds, S. H. Symonds and F. F. Mortlock. In the evening a half-muffled quarter peal of Grandsire Triples (his own composition) was rung to his memory by S H. Symonds (conductor) 1, W. Jarvis 2, S. Smith 3, W. Faiers 4, F. Borcham 5, L. Pryke 6, F. Mortlock 7, L. Offord 8.

Among the many floral tributes was one from his fellow ringers of Lavenham tower, also one from St. Mary's ringers, Preston.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

South Oxon Branch

A meeting of the South Oxon Branch was held at Warborough on March 20th. Over 40 members and visitors were present, and it was said that 40 years had elapsed since a meeting was held in this delightful village.

The service was conducted by the Vicar of Warborough (the Rev. Canon Barker), the address was given by the Provost and the lesson was read by the Vicar of Watlington (the Rev. J. Lewis, vice-chairman of the Branch). A full choir was in attendance, drawn from the villages of Warborough and Benson.

An excellent tea was served in the Village Hall under the supervision of the Ringing Master (Mr. Frank Absalom), assisted by ladies of the village.

At the meeting which followed it was decided to have the Branch annual meeting at Watlington on June 19th and it was suggested that the Bishop of Dorchester be approached with a view to preaching at the service.

During the evening ringing took place at Dorchester Abbey, where touches in the standard methods were enjoyed for upwards of an hour and a half.

ST. DAVID'S DIOCESAN GUILD

A quarterly meeting of the St. David's Guild was held at the Church of St. Mary, Burry Port, on March 13th. The bells were available to the ringers at 2.30 p.m. and although the attendance of ringers was small, possibly due to only five bells in the tower, it did not stop the older members of the Guild from coming along. The Vicar (the Rev. T. J. Thomas) was at the belfry ready to greet the ringers as they arrived.

The service was at 4 p.m. at which the Vicar very kindly officiated, assisted by Mr. Scaife and Mr. Richards attended to the organ. Members were afterwards entertained to tea at the Church Hall. Altogether 27 members sat down to enjoy themselves.

The Vicar presided at the usual business meeting and the agenda was expeditiously dealt with. The secretary reminded the members of the competition which takes place at Llandilo on May 8th, at which Mr. F. Sharpe, of Oxford, has kindly promised to carry out the adjudication.

The annual meeting of the Guild will take place at Carmarthen on Saturday, June 19th. A very hearty vote of thanks was extended by Mr. W. Williams, of Carmarthen, to the Vicar for having the Guild at Burry Port; also to Mr. Scaife and Mr. Richards and the ladies who attended at the tea.

The Vicar and Mr. E. Sage, captain of the Burry Port ringers, responded. The meeting closed with a prayer and the ringers returned to the tower to finish off the evening.

THE PARISH CHURCH

(O how amiable are Thy dwellings)

O Parish Church! so fair, so old,
Thy welcome music brings to mind
As Sabbath bells their notes unfold.
That God is near—that God is kind.
Forlorn our town if thou weren't near us,
Who'd point the way if thou wert gone?
When nations wept, yet thou didst cheer us.
Parish Church—old friend, live on!

. . . . . .

Parish Church!—'tis well to enter
Oft 'unto Thy courts with praise.'
By God's Grace, of Faith the centre,
Where Hope doth like beacon blaze.
With these our fathers came—through praying—
To Love and trust the Holy One.
So 'tis but meet we follow saying—
Parish Church—old friend, live on!

. . . . . .

O Parish Church—how sad thy knelling
When a townsman's 'course is run.'
Yet how glad thy pealing, telling
Of a wedded life begun.
So 'to the task!'—we spurn delaying,
Then, having done and homeward gone,
Our children will, in turn, be saying:
'Parish Church—old friend, live on!'

THE RINGING WORLD

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

No. 2245 Vol. L. FRIDAY, APRIL 9, 1954 Registered at the G.P.O. for transmission as a newspaper 4d.

ARCHBISHOP'S TRIBUTE TO RINGERS

THE Archbishop of Canterbury, in his Diocesan Notes for April under the heading, 'The National Tradition of Bell Ringing,' pays this very generous and much appreciated tribute to our art:—

'May we all take this opportunity of paying our tribute of gratitude to the bell ringers of this country? Bell ringing as we know it is an art invented, perfected and perpetuated in this country and is a most valuable and lovely part of our tradition. The bell ringers do their service to the Church and to religion year in and year out, and to the nation as a whole on great national occasions.

'I do not consider that I have properly visited a country church until I have been in the ringing chamber and seen the ringers at their craft; and nowhere else do you find finer examples of the English people than in these sturdy, patient folk-men who have been ringing for more than 50 years, fathers and sons, and very often to-day also, daughters, sometimes quite young boys and girls. There as they ring in the ancient churches in which we worship I find the richest and most moving evidence of the character and the continuity of this beloved nation.'

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL

AT a time when many associations are considering the elections of representatives to the Central Council, it may be as well to examine its composition, and the wholly necessary character of its work. The Council in the main consists of men and women with a background of solid achievement, of specialised knowledge, of long experience in most branches of the art, or of culture and scholarship. It thus is able to take a comprehensive view of all matters relating to bell ringing, and soberly and earnestly to debate them.

Its annual meeting is, then, apart from the social side, a time for the exchange of ideas, and a time, outside of the official meeting, for friendly discussion of common problems. It affords also an opportunity for the many committees to consider difficulties which normally can only be dealt with, somewhat inadequately, through the usual medium of the post. The work of these small committees is often overlooked by the average ringer, and only members of them know the amount of labour involved.

It is true that the meeting of the Council, for those people who are able to make a week-end of it, gives chances to see fresh country, to see the conditions under which other people ring and to acquire new towers to add to their lists. The gathering is in no sense a holiday partly paid for by the associations. It does, therefore, behove those who have a hand in the election of representatives to consider carefully the fitness for the job of those put up for election. In the country of the blind, the one-eyed man is king. The leading light of a district or of an association may be but a feeble glimmer in Central Council surroundings. The resounding speeches one hears at meetings on occasions may sound very ordinary in different circumstances. Of eloquent speakers the Council has no lack. They know thoroughly the subject under consideration, and can speak with clarity and usually with brevity. There are scores of members who never make a speech; but their silence does not imply that they cannot make shrewd judgment on matters in debate, nor does it mean that they are unable to use their votes wisely.

The Council has no authority over ringers, who may ring what they please; but it rightly refuses to add to its records any performance which transgresses its rules. These were made only after long consideration over the years. Some of these rules are broken unwittingly, which means that the offenders do not acquaint themselves sufficiently with the machinery placed at their disposal, nor with the things that have been done for their common benefit. Sometimes the rules are broken by ringers who are in rebellious or puckish mood. They should not be surprised nor should they be hurt when the result of their efforts prove unacceptable to the Council. They have been warned.

The Council has provided at low cost to ringers collections of methods and compositions, with technical information and useful pamphlets. Without these, ringing could not possibly have reached the present-day increasingly high standard of method splicing. How many ringers, too, realise that without its efforts the Exercise would probably have no newspaper of its own to-day? It assumed the far from inviting responsibility for the production of 'The Ringing World' at a time when no individual or group of individuals would have dreamed of doing so. The growing prestige of ringers is almost wholly due to its Council. Very largely owing to its quiet work, its reception by Church and civic dignitaries at its meetings is very impressive. By its practice of Corporate Communion on these occasions it emphasises the close relationship between ringers and the Church, which is as it should be.

Northern District Meet Ringing Parson at Aston

The first District meeting of the year, off the beaten track, was held at Aston on March 27th. The six bells were set going promptly at 3 p.m. to various methods from rounds to Surprise Minor.

By service time, at 4.30, a good company had assembled from a wide area. The newly-inducted Rector (the Rev. K. C. Morris), who was a vice-president of the Norwich Association, took the service. His talk was on gravestone epitaphs; this was most interesting and amusing.

A fine tea was provided by the ladies of the village and a collection was taken for church expenses, which amounted to £3 16s. 3d.

The Rector took the chair for the business meeting. The secretary reported that a coach had been arranged for the annual general meeting at Hemel Hempstead on April 24th, and that there were still a few seats vacant.

The next meeting will be held at Aspenden on May 1st with Lincolnshire Surprise as the special method. Two new ringing members were elected, the chairman and Mr. R. Head, of Pirton. The secretary read the letter from the Central Council with regard to the financial position of 'The Ringing World,' and was elected District representative. He appealed to tower secretaries to help to get new postal subscribers for the paper.

The company then returned to the tower where the bells were kept going until 8 o'clock when the meeting was brought to a sudden close because of a play in a nearby hall.

Memories Revived at Lawton

The monthly meeting of the Crewe Branch was held at All Saints' Church, Lawton, on March 20th. This beautiful church, set in woodland surroundings, has been the scene of many gatherings of ringers. Old ringers of the branch will remember the entertainment provided by the Lawton ringers on handbells under the direction of 'Old Bill.' The band of ringers of this church 20 years ago could be considered as one of the finest in the Chester Guild, but now only two or three ringers of this band remain as regular ringers, but the Rector, the Rev. Ainsleigh Jones, is proud of the fact that the bells ring for every service.

A short service was held in the church and the Rector made a strong appeal to all ringers to stick to their job in the tower because he considered that the bells of the church pealed out a message which was of greatest importance to the population at large.

Tea was served in the new Memorial Hall and 42 ringers did full justice. Mr. Wilfred Kerr, secretary of the Branch, thanked the Rector for the use of the bells, and the ladies for the provision of the excellent tea. He wished to express the congratulations of the Branch to Mr. George W. Whalley on completing 50 years' unbroken service to Christ Church, Alsager, as a ringer. During this period Mr. Whalley had been the secretary and conductor, and what an example for the younger members to try to live up to, but then it was not impossible if their minds were set on becoming proficient ringers.

The ringing continued after tea until a late hour.

LATE NEWS

With regret we announce that Mr. Arthur Rowley, for 44 years a ringer and former leader at St. Michael's Church, Stone, Staffordshire, was struck and killed by a passing train while following his employment as a ganger.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Grand old man of the Horbury tower, Yorkshire, is Mr. Herbert Rowley, now 85 years of age. Next month he will have completed 65 years as a ringer at St. Peter's, Horbury. An extra man turned up for a quarter peal on March 28th so Herbert sat out but conducted the ringing from his chair!

Mr. F. W. Wicks, who has left Arthur Road, Wimbledon, and now lives at Farncombe, Surrey, lost two farewell peals—Stedman at Putney and Stedman at Wimbledon.

Mr. W. W. Wolstencroft, now in his 80th year, stood in at the last minute to a peal at Wyrardisbury, Bucks. The band appreciated his readiness to assist.

First area to respond to the Central Council's request to appoint a special representative to help in the drive for more postal subscribers to 'The Ringing World' is the Northern District of the Herts County Association.

Mr. E. A. Marsh, a former ringer at Woodlesford, Yorks, was married at Malta last Saturday. A peal of Superlative Surprise Major was rung at Pudsey the same day as a wedding compliment.

Ottershaw, Surrey, has lost a ringer with many years of faithful service by the death of Mr. Steve Sleet. To his memory the bells were rung half-muffled on April 1st to 1,260 Grandsire Doubles by P. Underwood 1, W. A. Goldstone 2, R. J. Andrews (conductor) 3, P. E. Parry 4, H. Hancock 5, W. Horn 6.

Australian humour from 'The Ringing Towers': 'The latest method of training "raw recruits" is tying the spokes of the wheel to the frame and saying nothing to the unfortunate ringer who is endeavouring to pull the bell off. The only people who really appreciate this are the other members of the band who watch the facial contortions of the ringer in question.'

It was a graceful compliment to Mr. Harold Pitstow when five ringers whom he had taught at Banstead stood in a peal of Cambridge Surprise Major on March 27th. The peal was in recognition of Mr. Pitstow's appointment as a Member of the British Empire and on the birth of his first grandson, Michael John Pitstow.

As wedding bells pealed from the tower of St. Matthew's Church, Overseal, near Burton-on-Trent, on Saturday, part of the stone coping crashed through the church roof and killed one of the choristers, Mr. William Wright, aged 40, of Burton Road, Overseal.

Imagine Gilbert Thurlow's joy on investigating a battered looking gramophone on the lowest floor in a tower where the bells need rehanging, to find a postcard tied to the instrument with the inscription 'The bell must not be rung until further notice.' What a complimentary way of describing the soulless act of twizzling a dusty record on a bent old gramo!

The peal of Cambridge Surprise Major at Denholme, Yorks, by a band composed entirely of members of All Saints', Halifax, constitutes a landmark, as it was the first peal by the company since 1904. The band who rang that peal broke up in 1907. A bridge between the two peals was that the ringer of the treble at Denholme (Miss M. Vivien Copping) is the granddaughter of the ringer of the third in the 1904 peal. The present band is a young one, the average age of those ringing the front seven at Denholme is not much over 18 years. Since their inception, 18 months ago, apart from high individual attainment, the main factor has been a virtually 100 per cent. attendance record for both practice and service ringing.

ST. PETER'S CHURCH, BRIGHTON

The Bells Past and Present

April 16th is the 40th anniversary of the opening of the present ten at St. Peter's, Brighton. The following article by Mr. A. W. Bond, the tower secretary, is therefore appropriate in recalling the bells of this famous church.

IN the year 1882 a ring of eight bells was given by various donors who names are on tablets in the ringing chamber. The bells were cast and hung by Warner and Son, The Crescent Foundry, Cripplegate, London, the tenor (largest) weighing 10 cwt. 2 qr. 2 lb. and were dedicated on St. Peter's Day, June 28th, 1882, by the Right Rev. Richard Durnford, Bishop of Chichester.

These bells gave great service to the church up to January, 1914, and were manned by a famous band of ringers who excelled in the higher methods of change ringing. Ringers would visit the tower from far and near for the opportunity of ringing advanced methods. A great number of full peals of 5,000 changes and over were rung, the first being on December 2nd, 1882, and the last on January 26th, 1914, including a notable peal on February 2nd, 1901, of the extent of London Surprise Major, 6,720 changes, specially rung for the funeral of Her Majesty Queen Victoria, it being the longest peal rung in the tower.

About the year 1912 the late Mr. John Thornton Rickman, M.A., of Lewes, a ringer, was greatly interested in St. Peter's tower and the ringers, who gave him every encouragement and assistance in the ringing of the higher methods, with the result he made a generous offer to provide at his own expense a new ring of 12 bells.

For some reason the Church Authorities at that time opposed this number of bells. This was a great disappointment to the ringers, because had the bells been installed, it would have been the only 12-bell ringing in the county of Sussex. Eventually sanction was obtained for a ring of 10 bells, and these were cast and erected by the famous firm of bellfounders, Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, of Whitechapel, London. The bells were hung in a cast iron frame supported by steel joists and it is interesting to note they are hung at a level immediately below the clock faces, the largest, or tenor bell, weighing 25¼ cwt. in the key of D. Ten tons of iron and steel and 5 tons 9 cwt. of bell metal were used, and they are the heaviest ring in Sussex.

The bells were dedicated on Thursday, April 16th, 1914, by the Lord Bishop of Chichester, attended by his chaplains, the clergy, Mayor of Brighton, councillors and the choir during the incumbency of the late Canon B. G. Hoskyns.

The first full peal was rung on May 16th, 1914, being 5,043 changes of Stedman Caters. Many peals have since been rung, one very notable one being 5,040 changes of a very complicated method known as London Surprise Royal, in which the donor of the bells took part.

The inscriptions on the bells are as follows:—

Treble.—'Gloris in Excelsis Deo.'

2nd.—'In terra pax hominibus bonæ voluntatis.'

3rd.—'Laudamus Te.'

4th.—'Benedicimus Te.'

5th.—'Adoramus Te.'

6th.—'Glorificamus Te.'

7th.—'Gratias Agimus Tibi.'

8th.—'Domine Deus. Rex Cœlestis.'

9th.—'Sancte Petre. Ora pro nobis.'

10th (tenor bell).—'This peal of ten bells was presented to the Parish Church of St. Peter, Brighton, to replace the lighter peal of eight bells given by various donors A.D. 1882. Benedict G. Hoskyns, Vicar. J. C. Gwatkin, E. G. Hales, B. J. Saunders, Churchwardens. Te Deum Laudamus.'

SOCIETY OF ROYAL CUMBERLAND YOUTHS

Motion on Synthetic Bells for Central Council

The Society's first meeting in 1954, held at Sevenoaks, Kent, on March 27th, in truly spring-like weather, attracted a large gathering of members and friends. Ringing on the fine octave at St. Nicholas' Church began at 2.45, when a newly-married couple were rung out of church with a course of Cambridge Minor on the back six, and continued until the service at 4.30 in methods ranging from rounds to Bristol.

Unfortunately, the organist failed to arrive, and as the organ key was not available a small harmonium had to be pressed (!) into service. The Kent County Association form of service was used and included an address by the Rector of Sevenoaks (the Rev. F. W. Argyle) who conducted the service. The Rector welcomed the Society to Sevenoaks and his address was most appreciated.

Tea followed at Williamson's Cafe and the business meeting was held in the church with the Master, Mr. F. E. Hawthorne, in the chair. An apology for absence from Mr. M. Harbott was noted. Seven new members were elected, viz:—Messrs. E. J. Munday (Iping, Sussex), J. A. H. Betts (Llanwrda, South Wales), J. T. Finey (Chichester), Miss P. M. Saxton (Chichester), Messrs. A. F. Wellington (Tunbridge Wells), G. McKay (St. Bees) and J. R. Leeming (Braintree).

The motion to be included in the agenda of this year's Central Council meeting, proposed at the annual meeting, concerning synthetic bells, was read and agreed to, and it was also agreed to withdraw the motion concerning increased affiliation fees.

The secretary announced that the annual dinner will be held at the Old Bell Restaurant, Holborn, on Saturday, October 2nd, 1954, and asked for members to support the function and make it as great a success as on previous occasions. He also read a letter received from the Central Council secretary concerning 'The Ringing World' circulation, and the Master appealed to members to do all that they could to induce all their ringing friends to become postal subscribers. An announcement was also made concerning the next meeting of the Society which will be held at Windsor and Slough on Saturday, June 12th, and a good attendance was asked for.

Under the heading of any other business, it was announced that an invitation would be sent to the Middlesex County Association to a joint meeting at Shoreditch and Bishopsgate on the first Saturday in December. Finally, a hearty comprehensive vote of thanks to the Rector of Sevenoaks for the use of the bells and for conducting the service, and to the secretary of the local band, Miss D. Colgate, for assisting in arranging tea and the meeting generally, was passed with acclamation.

MR. J. FREDERICK MILNER'S 500th PEAL

Or the Charge of the Peal Brigade

IT all started when Fred Milner rang a peal in a large number of Surprise methods and was asked for his 'life story' (which has received a large circulation in the 'Police Gazette'). After consulting Loughborough Bell Foundry and, I suspect, the South Kensington Science Museum, he found that he had rung 490 peals. Mrs. Milner immediately asked him where he had been all her life, but Fred started making plans for his 500th to be rung at his home tower, Southwell Minster.

Telephones started humming between Southwell and Leicester and Doncaster and the great day was fixed for March 27th. This meant that Fred had to ring nine more peals in between, which of course is a mere detail if one lives only 40 miles from Leicester and 36 from Doncaster. So all the peals were fixed up, and all were rung until it got to the 498th, one week before the Southwell peal. On this day Fred had wandered about four miles the other side of Bradford for a peal of 10-Spliced Surprise. Then came the blow; a member of the band had to stand within ten minutes of the end of the peal. Small wonder, considering that particular belfry was at the kind of temperature normally recommended for the successful growing of hothouse tomatoes.

The March Hares repaired to a cafe and had a meeting extraordinary of the standing committee. It was agreed unanimously that the Southwell peal definitely could not be the 499th. That fate was designed for a peal on the Thursday previous. Something had to be done, and quickly. A roll-call was taken of all ringers available for a peal at Conisbrough, Yorks, on the Friday night before the 500th, and all excuses were dismissed with the contempt they deserved. The handbook of 'Excuses to Wives, etc..' was consulted, and all present were roped in.

THE 499th

Came Thursday, and the 'Leicester Crowd' duly obliged with the 498th peal. Then Friday, with a dash to Yorkshire, collecting a covey of assorted ringers en route. The bells at Conisbrough had been already raised by an obliging schoolmaster who, of course, had nothing else to do, and very quickly the bells were off to the start of the 499th—they had to be quick: the peal had to be over by 8.30. In point of fact the peal was rung and the bells were down by 8.27, thanks to Wilfrid Moreton on the tenor, whose bearings are, to put it mildly, a little worn (the bearings of the tenor, not of Wilf). Eric Critchley and Wilfrid Moreton were quite relieved to see this peal come round, as they had been warned that if it were lost, they would have to sit up all night to ring a handbell peal for the 499th.

Four of that band now set off to Kirklington, near Southwell, to be ready for the 500th. Kirklington is the home of Mrs. J. F. Milner, not of Mr. J. F.—he is always away, ringing peals. There we were welcomed by the sight of the biggest and best pork pie we had ever seen, though it very soon was rather a wreck, washed down by Kirklington's Best Bottled Water. At about 10.30 p.m. Fred produced his size 26 handbells, but either because of the late hour, or too much pie, no one seemed to want to try that size. Soon after, on a more reasonable set, it was a sight to see Wilfrid ringing Stedman Triples and snoring at the same time.

A CHAT WITH THE ORGANIST

At 11.45 the next morning we were down at Southwell Minster, waiting for the Leicester contingent to arrive. The band was to be made up of two from Yorkshire, two from Southwell and the remaining four from Leicester. Soon after 12 o'clock we were off to London Surprise Major, with Fred perched up on the tenor box. After a few minutes we stopped to have a pleasant chat with the organist, who was busy tuning his organ down below—as there is no floor in this belfry, the most weird noises were floating up to us, and although the organist maintained that we were making more noise than he, he was soon persuaded that the organ had never been in better tune before.

Off we went again, with Fred calling his first bobs ever in London, and sure enough rounds rolled up just before 4 o'clock. After congratulations by the Provost we were whisked off to Kirklington to be entertained to a high tea by Mrs. Milner, whose hospitality is renowned. There the band set off to consume cups of tea equal to Fred's peal total, until the local Water Board rang up to complain that their supplies were getting dangerously low.

The handbells were once more brought out and put to good use. Eric Critchley tried to call a touch of Spliced Major in seven methods, but after getting back to the same course end three times without being able to wangle a bob in anywhere, he played safe and fell back on Plain and Little. To make up for this he rang the tenors size 26 to a touch of Stedman Caters, though very few handstrokes were heard from the tenor. A course of Bowley Triples was called for, and after several attempts this was brought round by the simple expedient of ringing the pairs in the wrong hands, with alternate bells starting at hand and backstroke.

The ringing was rounded off by a touch of Spliced London and Cambridge Surprise Major, then the Leicester ringers set off back down 'The Fosse,' that remarkably elastic road, which is reputed to be twice as long from Leicester to Southwell as it is from Southwell to Leicester. Soon after the Mad Hatters from Yorkshire were off, and Fred could sit back, satisfied that his 500th was now an accomplished fact. Well done, Fred, and hurry up with your 1,000th! I won't get any more pork pie like that one until then!!

DIAMOND WEDDING OF MR. & MRS. GEORGE HALKSWORTH

Last Monday Mr. and Mrs. George Halksworth, of 3, Newlands Park Grove, Scarborough, celebrated their diamond wedding, having been married at St. Luke's Church, Derby, on April 5th, 1894. Bells were rung for them that day as they were also rung for them on Saturday, April 3rd, this year, in honour of their 60th anniversary.

The diamond wedding was celebrated at the home of one of their children at Doncaster, for it was in this town that Mr. and Mrs. Halksworth spent the first 44 years of their married life, George being a boiler-maker in the Doncaster Locomotive Works, from which work he retired in 1931, and seven years later they went to live at Scarborough.

From 1890 until the removal in 1938 Mr. Halksworth was actively connected with the ringing at St. George's Parish Church, Doncaster, and with that of the Southern District of the Yorkshire Association, being Ringing Master of the latter for many years up to 1934. When he left Doncaster a presentation of a clock (with bell chimes) was made at Doncaster Parish Church and an inscription at the base testifies to '48 years as Secretary and Captain of the bell-ringers.'

Mr. Halksworth did not join the Yorkshire Association until 1902 but he was one of the 'veterans who rang a peal in the last century,' being a member of a band which rang Holt's 10-part of Grandsire at Doncaster for the Doncaster and District Society in 1897. His last touch of any length was a quarter peal at Scarborough in 1947 at the age of 81. Mr. Halksworth has been unable to ring during the last seven years owing to lameness preventing him climbing the belfry stairs. Both Mr. and Mrs. Halksworth still enjoy their health and it is the wish of all their friends, and indeed of the Exercise in general, that they will continue to do so for many more years to come.

SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION AT EASTBOURNE

Eastern Division Annual Meeting

A very successful annual general meeting of the Division was held at St. Mary's, Eastbourne, on February 27th when 54 members, representing 17 towers, attended.

The members were warmly welcomed to St. Mary's by the Vicar (Canon L. E. Meredith), who conducted the service, assisted by the Rev. F. R. K. Hare, a member of the St. Mary's band.

The bells were put to good use during the afternoon and evening, the difficult task of catering for everyone being in the capable hands of the Ringing Master, Mr. L. W. Giles.

An excellent tea, served in the Old Parsonage, was provided by the ringers' wives and friends and was followed by a business meeting.

In the unavoidable absence of the Master, Mr. S. E. Armstrong, Mr. W. Rogers was elected to the chair. He referred to the recent death of Mr. H. R. Butcher, a former Master of the Association and for many years a member of the Rotherfield band. The members stood in silence as a mark of respect.

Regarding the Association's annual general meeting, the chairman informed the members that this had been fixed for the first Saturday in May each year. Mrs. Percy expressed the hope that more members from the Division would endeavour to attend this year. The Divisional report and balance sheet were read and adopted. New members elected were: Messrs. S. Buckland, K. Hirst and Mrs. G. Roberts (All Saints', Hastings), Mr. C. Pilbeam, the Misses D. Pankhurst, S. Pilbeam, J. Kenward and D. Vale (Bexhill), Mr. A. Goldsmith (Hailsham), the Misses A. B Kennard, S. V. Staplehurst and J. D. Holder (Rotherfield) and Mr. F. Lee (St. Mary's, Eastbourne). The election of Mr. Wilmington (London), prior to a peal attempt at Rotherfield, was ratified.

The following Divisional officers were re-elected:—Mr. R. W. Pankhurst, secretary; Mr. L. W. Giles, Ringing Master; Mr. T. A. Hunnisett, auditor; Mrs. B. Percy, committee, and Mr. H. G. Reynolds was elected to a vacancy on the committee.

In standing for election as Central Council delegate Mr. F. H. Dallaway informed the meeting that, having been delegate since 1937, he felt it was time for another representative. He trusted that this would be possible when delegates were next elected in 1957.

It was decided that at future practice meetings one method should predominate, notification of method to be given with notice of meeting in 'The Ringing World.'

Mr. L. Giles informed the meeting that the Hawkhurst District Guild had proposed a joint meeting with the Division. After discussion it was decided to approach the Guild with a suggestion that a joint meeting be held at Christ Church, Blacklands, Hastings, on May 22nd.

Mr. Levett proposed that a letter be sent to the Rev. C. E. Ward, of Salehurst, thanking him for his kind co-operation and help to the Division over many years and to wish him many happy years in his retirement.

The meeting concluded with votes of thanks to the Vicar, the organist and to the ladies for a splendid tea. Some members returned to St. Mary's tower while others took advantage of the opportunity to ring at All Saints'.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

'THE RINGING WORLD'

Dear Sir,—Three or four years ago I heard that the finances of the paper were not in too good circumstances and ever since then I have accepted it as necessary for the 'Gratefully Acknowledged' item to be published in the paper weekly, although I had often thought what an extraordinary state of affairs must exist to make it necessary to take up two inches of column space to acknowledge monetary gifts totalling, say, £3, some items specified being as small as 1s. 6d. each—even 1s. But the front page of the issue of March 26th really startled me and I now realise more than I ever did that 'Gratefully Acknowledged' is necessary. It seems to be almost vital! Just fancy—front page official mention of the possible untimely end of THIS paper because of lack of support!

Such a thing could really happen, I suppose, but what a tragedy it would be! It would be a terrific blow to the whole Exercise and many of us would be left without contact, for there are hundreds of us continually in contact, merely by 'The Ringing World,' although we have never seen each other's faces nor heard each other's voices — and have never corresponded. Merely by the paper we would meet as old friends for the first time!

I am sure that no 'Ringing World' would be a great slice out of the national interest in bellringing, and that's putting it mildly. Many ringers—and non-ringers who are interested—would lose touch with much that goes on, perhaps all that goes on except that closely surrounding their own tower, and that would mean that interest in the Exercise would flag disastrously.

If it were not for 'The Ringing World' such experts and enthusiasts as Mr. and Mrs. Harold Poole, Messrs. Fearn, Worth, Patrick Cannon, Nolan Golden, Border, Lester, the Staniforths, the Grundisburgh Pipes, Miss Reay, Mrs. Marshallsay and so on—picking some at random—would be unheard of to a great number of ringers and others, who now seem to know them intimately; and they would probably live until they were 90 and never hear of Gartree Surprise or Southwell ditto. Some might even have no idea who Miles Graye was, unless his work hung in their own tower!

I look forward to each Friday's issue, and I realise that the cost of a crate of a dozen pints of beer (which I humbly confess, lasts me little more than a week!) is more than my 'Ringing World' costs me from the ringing-in of 1953 to the ringing-in of 1954.

Surely a 16-page weekly full of interest and not just half-full of just-any-old-and-various-advertisements is worth two cigarettes.

I like a glass of beer but I would willingly go without half of one of my pints per week to have my 'Ringing World,' and that would mean that I pay more than double the present cost of the paper.

No, I am sure that it is not the cost of it that makes sales as low as they are—it's lack of boosting sales. Som of us who take it must boost it—all of us must do so in fact.

I am going to try to get three of my friends who do not take it now to take it regularly.

Surely every person who is in charge of a ring of bells should take it—I'm going after my Vicar because I don't believe he has it.

It should be taken by every enthusiastic ringer and especially every beginner. I think the beginner's interest would soar. The paper would help him and he would help the paper.

May the article on the front of the issue of March 26th cause sales to be doubled. The indication is that weekly sales are but 5,000. Let's all go ahead to double that by the time the Queen comes home. To do this we must start now.

CLAUDE RUSH.

Eye, Suffolk.

OUR 'RINGING WORLD'—TO BE OR NOT TO BE?

Dear Sir,—'Campanology,' 'Bell-Ringer' and 'Bell News' all came to an untimely end because of lack of support; and if something is not done to put 'The Ringing World' in a sounder financial position, that will go the same way.

What an indictment!

You write: 'Many hold the view that the answer to the problem of the present "Ringing World" is to raise the price of the paper to 6d. or more'; but is it the answer you ask? Most decidedly and definitely; and any ringer who ceased to support it on that account would not be worth the name of ringer.

Could—or would—any business concern depend on such a doubtful source of income as from 'Gratefully Acknowledged,' which I am afraid is not always 'Gratefully Given'? You will see what a risky business it is, the editorial staff having to depend on voluntary gifts from peals. Take the first five in last week's 'Gratefully Acknowledged': four 6-bell peals and one 8-bell peal 1s. 6d. each.

I know full well that some Branches and/or Guilds demand, and get, 6d. a rope per peal, but if a peal is not worth another 'tanner' then, for the sake of our journal, cut your losses and put the price up to cover publication and leave the rest to the honour of the Exercise. Looking at ringing as a physical exercise and sport, let's be good amateurs and 'pay for our own sport'—and our paper.

Comparisons are odious, it is said, but what about the recent football semi-finals? Two matches attendance 143,434; gate receipts £35,751, nearly 5s. each.

National expenditure:—Beer, £530,000,000; tabacco £800,000,000: betting somewhere between the two.—Yours sincerely,

W. FRANK STENSON.

Crewe.

TITLE COVER DESIGN

Dear Sir,—I most heartily support Messrs. E. C. Shepherd and F. E. Dukes re above ('Ringing World,' page 203). 'Them's my sentiments.'—Yours faithfully,

ERNEST A. STAFFORD.

Glasgow.

ODD-BELL PEALS

Dear Sir,—I wish to thank Mr. P. Amos for his comment on odd-bell peals since this evens out what I have always considered to be a serious disadvantage of odd-bell towers. I also hope that it will serve, in even-bell towers, as an incentive to 'drummers' to take up 'inside' ringing, since unless a tenor cover is required for musical effect it becomes virtually the waste of a bell.—Yours sincerely,

A. HILTON.

Rochdale, Lancs.

HAMPTON LITTLE BOB MINOR

Dear Sir,—The enclosed method was rung at Hampton, Middlesex, on April 5th, 1951, under the title of Hampton Little Bob Minor:—

1 2 3 4 5 6
2 1 3 4 6 5
2 3 1 6 4 5
3 2 1 6 5 4
3 1 2 5 6 4
1 3 2 5 4 6
1 3 5 2 6 4

A few months later we heard that the method recently published as Cawston Little Bob had been rung in the Brighton area previous to April, 1951.

Perhaps someone from the Brighton area could let us know the correct name for this method.—Yours sincerely,

F. T. BLAGROVE.

W Bedfont, Middlesex.

ANONYMOUS LETTERS

Dear Sir,—I was very pleased to see the letter from Mr. H. P. Cliff under the above heading in 'The Ringing World' of April 2nd. I, too, believe that the decision to abandon all anonymous letters was no credit to the Exercise and savoured of dictatorship, and I feel certain that the decision has not got the support of the majority of ringers.

The reason for the ban has never been given. Perhaps the Editorial Committee would enlighten readers.

In any case I hope that the matter will be raised at the next meeting of the Central Council and the question of lifting the ban given serious consideration.—Yours faithfully,

F. A. MUNDAY.

Guildford.

LONDON SURPRISE ROYAL (No. 3 Version)

Dear Sir,—In your issue of March 26th a correspondent writes that the late Mr. T. B. Worsley produced London Surprise Royal (No. 3 Version) on December 31st, 1927.

I produced both Royal and Maximus (No. 3 Version) in June, 1921, so unless anyone can prove they composed the methods at an earlier date, I can still claim to be the author of both Royal and Maximus.

Just as there is 312-231 mathematical progression between the round blocks of Minor and Major and Major and Royal, so there is between Royal and Maximus.—Yours faithfully,

GEORGE BAKER.

Brighton.

A NEW MILESTONE

Dear Sir,—I was most interested to read in your issue dated March 19th of a peal of New Cambridge Surprise Major which had been rung at All Saints', Leicester, on March 4th. The length of this peal, 5,008, is a new milestone in the history of Surprise Major ringing, and I am sure that many of us would be delighted to see the figures of the composition published in 'The Ringing World.'—Yours sincerely,

W. E. CRITCHLEY.

Doncaster.

PEAL RINGING A RETIREMENT HOBBY

Dear Sir,—Whilst the fact that a ringer has scored a hundred peals may not be considered a great achievement in these days of plenty of opportunity, I do feel that Mr. J. B. Budd's 100th peal does warrant special mention.

He retired from business in Manchester at 70 years of age and went to live at Mold, in Flintshire, in June, 1950, when his peal total stood at 46, which took him 40 years to complete.

He rang his first peal with us in June, 1950, and has rung 54 peals in less than four years, which is no mean feat bearing in mind that he is now approaching 76 years of age.

It is with regret that we have learned that he is shortly to leave the district to reside in Grimsby. He rang his bell faultlessly and he will be greatly missed by his many friends in the Chester and North Wales Districts, who wish him every happiness in his new surroundings.—Yours faithfully,

JOHN W. GRIFFITHS.

EAST GRINSTEAD & DISTRICT GUILD

THE 27th annual meeting of the Guild was held at East Grinstead on March 20th was attended by over 50 members from 23 different towers. The bells were set going just after 3 o'clock and were rung in various methods until the service at 4.30 conducted by the Guild's president, the Rev. Dr. G. Golding-Bird, D.D. Mr. Pattern was the organist and the lesson was read by the Rev. H. C. Wright, who also gave a telling address. He told the ringers that the bells not only called the people to the services but their sound could not be avoided by the butcher, the baker or the candlestick maker doing their usual Sunday odd jobs.

As usual, Dr. Golding-Bird entertained the company to tea in the Small Parish Hall and afterwards took the chair for the business meeting. There were apologies for absence from Mr. B. Collison and from Mr. A. Laker, who had to miss the annual meeting for the first time since the Guild was formed. Arising from the minutes, Mr. Wellington explained that trustees of the E. J. Oliver Memorial Fund were Mr. E. J. Ladd and Mr. C. A. Bassett and not the chairman and secretary in office, as stated.

Before the election of new members the company were asked to stand in silence in respect of an old member who had passed on, namely, Mr. Walter Ladd. The following were then elected: Mr. and Mrs. J. Hilton (Tunbridge Wells), Leslie Everest (Tonbridge) and John Meade (Portsmouth).

Mr. Wellington explained the new lay-out of the balance sheet and spoke on the main points of same. They were—income had exceeded expenditure by £7 15s. 7d.; the deficit for 1952 had been repaid; and there was cash in the hands of the secretary and treasurer of £3 16s. 9d. On the General Fund there was a balance of £60 0s. 3d. and in the E. J. Oliver Memorial Fund £55 10s. 5d. This result was due to an increase in vice-presidents' subscriptions, a small profit on the summer outing and a surplus instead of a deficit on the dinner, both of which were a great success.

The election of officers proceeded as usual. Dr. Golding-Bird told the meeting that they were not forced to elect him, but Mr. E. J. Ladd, in proposing his re-election, said that he could see no one else in the job, and, in seconding, Mr. Wellington reminded the Doctor that his name was on all the stationery so he would have to stay on in office. All the officers were re-elected with the exception of Mr. B. Collison, who, owing to pressure of work, resigned from the committee. Mr. Ivan Butcher (Turner's Hill) was elected in his place.

Newick was announced as the place for the April meeting, while Penshurst was chosen for May. A letter from Mr. W. Morland was read, inviting the Guild to Lamberhurst in June, when the gardens of Court Lodge would be worth a visit.

It was recommended from the committee that the summer outing be shifted from the holiday months of July and August and, after some discussion, the date was fixed for June 26th and a route via Dorking, Guildford and Cranleigh chosen. It was agreed that a dinner should be held in December, the venue and details to be left to the committee.

Mr. Hilton (Tunbridge Wells) said that as a comparative newcomer he was rather impressed by the good striking at Guild meetings and was pleased to become a member. Mr. E. J. Ladd then proposed a hearty vote of thanks to Dr. Golding-Bird and all those who had helped to make the meeting a success, and, in reply, the president said that he was always pleased to come among such genial company and congratulated the Guild on having such a good committee.

Further ringing until 9 o'clock brought the meeting to a close. C. A. B.

OBITUARY

MR. VICTOR A. JARRETT

By the sudden death of Mr. Victor A. Jarrett on Friday, March 19th, after a short illness, at his home at Chatham, the Rochester District of the Kent County Association have suffered a great loss of a very valuable and much beloved ringer.

For a great many years Mr. V. A. Jarrett, or better known to his fellow brother ringers as 'Vic,' had been a time-serving member of the Royal Engineers' Band at Chatham. Despite his many service commitments he was a keen churchman. Besides ringing for many years at Chatham he was an active chorister and church councillor.

During the war he and his family moved to Halifax, Yorkshire, where he worked with the R.E. Pay Corps. When the ban on ringing was removed, he helped, with his daughters and son, to start a band of ringers and rang a few peals for the Yorkshire Association and made many friends in the Halifax District.

Returning again to Chatham in 1947, after a short stay in Hampshire where he rang a few peals for the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild, he took a more active part in peal ringing for the Rochester District of the Kent County Association. He also organised several outings for St. Mary's ringers, and on Easter Mondays arranged for ringers of the Medway towns to attend the annual meetings of the Kent County Association.

When elected as the District's first Ringing Master, three years ago, he set a high standard by carrying out his duties in a fatherly manner —always a smile and a word of encouragement for the learner.

Some 45 years ago he rang his first peal—of Minor—at Upchurch on October 28th, 1908. He also took part in the first peal to be rung by members of Army and Navy at Gillingham, on January 8th, 1914. It gave him great pleasure to conduct his son's 100th peal, which was rung at Upchurch on October 24th, 1953. He rang his last peal at Dartford on November 12th, 1953. His total of peals in various methods was 130, conducted 19.

Thus passes a true Christian gentleman, who was laid to rest at Frindsbury Parish Church on Wednesday, March 24th. The funeral service was conducted by the Vicar of Frindsbury, assisted by the Rector of Chatham.

At the graveside a course of Grandsire Triples was rung on handbells by P. F. Borer 1-2, T. A. Cross 3-4, G. J. Butcher 5-6, G. Kenward 7-8. After the interment touches on the bells of Frindsbury were rung half-muffled by his fellow ringers.

Among the mourners and friends were the following ringers:— Mr. S. Jarrett (brother), Mr. C. C. Bishop (brother-in-law), Mrs. Allen, Mr. A. J. Hewitt, Mr. P. Borer (Frindsbury), Mr. and Mrs. B. W. May (Bobbing), Mr. G. Kenward (Sittingbourne), Mr. H. Springate, Mr. C. E. J. Norris (Chatham), Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Butcher (Northfleet), Mr. T. A. Cross, Mr. G. A. Naylor, Miss E. B. P. Walker and Mr. F. J. Cheal (Rainham). There were many floral tributes from the Rochester District.

To Mrs. Jarrett, his two daughters, and Cyril, his son, who is secretary of the Rochester District, we offer our deepest sympathy. F. J. C.

HIS PEALS

Mr. Jarrett rang 130 peals, of which he conducted 19. His list is appended:—

Minor.—Cambridge Surprise 1, Kent Treble Bob 1, Oxford Treble Bob 1, Plain Bob 7 (4), two methods 1, three methods 7 (3), four methods 3 (1), five methods 5 (1), six methods 3, seven methods 7 (1).

MR. FRANK BLONDELL

We regret to announce the death of Mr. Frank Blondell on March 29th. Latterly he had been living with his son at 5, Whitton Manor Road, Isleworth. The funeral was at Northwood Cemetery, Ruislip, on April 1st.

An Appreciation

Memories of 55 years ago are recalled by the death of Mr. Frank Blondell. At that time he was a regular service ringer at S. Nicolas', Guildford, until work intervened. I remember him hurrying from work, without tea, to catch trains to ring in different towers. With him, I watched the late Rev. F. E. Robinson ringing the 7th at Godalming, which many would not try. The reverend gentleman there told a London ringer every blow of the single to the latter's disgust.

When our own bells (Holy Trinity, Guildford) were rehung I remember looking with wonder at Frank turning in the tenor, a bell which up to that time had taken two men to ring. In those days back-end men had no idea how bells went.

As our tower advanced in method ringing Frank rang his first peals of London and Bristol and he also rang in the last peal on the old bells, Bristol, arranged on purpose for the late Mr. J. A. Trollope to ring his first peal in the method, a fact which Frank was always proud of.

It was, however, as a 9-10 ringer 'in hand' that he excelled. He rang a peal of Stedman Caters on each night of the week, also a 7,023, 14,031 and the 19,738. The writer has only met one to equal him—that grand old man of Leicester, who has that wonderful gift of a perfect beat. There is left now only one of the stalwarts at Guildford of those days—Mr. C. Willshire, who lives in Canada. It was with regret time and distance made it impossible to pay my last respects. A. H. P.

THE CHURCH OF ST. JOHN THE DIVINE, LEICESTER

Bishop Explains Why Demolition Was Deferred

'The Ringing World' has already announced the decision of the Leicester Diocesan Reorganisation Committee to defer approval of plans for the demolition of the Church of St. John the Divine, Leicester.

The decision to grant a reprieve was explained by the Bishop of Leicester (Dr. R. R. Williams) when he preached to a crowded congregation at the church on March 21st.

'As you know,' he said, 'I am a very new Bishop and I have many other tasks and problems with which I have to become acquainted, and I did not want, so soon after my appointment, to make so drastic a decision as to close and pull down this big and imposing church.

'On the other hand, I could not overthrow plans which had been under discussion for so long a time and which had been recommended on more than one occasion by commissions and committees set about to consider the future.

'We took into account the events which had been supplied of the continuing life and activity in the parish and we did not want to put the shutters up if there was any likelihood of the church still contributing to the Christian life of Leicester.

UNIFORMITY

'The committee acted in complete uniformity and agreement in deciding not to approve the scheme for the time being.'

But, the Bishop pointed out, if the parish was really denuded of its population, if the church became a drain on the finances of the whole diocese, and if there was no sign of it ministering to its own important environment, then it might easily have to be closed.

On the other hand, if the plans for pulling down houses in the parish were still delayed, if progress were made in getting parishioners in touch with the church, and if there was obviously a real spiritual life in the parish, then the thought of closing the church might be put out of the way.

NO VICAR

Explaining that the suspension notice for the church must remain in force, the Bishop said that a Vicar could not be appointed.

'I realise that it is hard for you to make progress without a Vicar,' he said, 'but we will make the best arrangements we can.'

LEEDS AND DISTRICT SOCIETY

The annual nomination meeting was held at St. Paul's, Drighlington, on March 27th, when by kind permission of the Vicar and churchwardens this lovely ring of eight was at the Society's disposal.

Ringing commenced at 3 and carried on until 8.45 with breaks at 5 for tea and at 7 for the business meeting.

The president was in the chair for the business meeting and members were present from Armley, Bramley, Batley, Bradford Cathedral, East Ardsley, Leeds Parish Church, Rothwell, Wakefield Cathedral, Sowerby, Northowram, Halifax and the local company, together with visitors from Elland and Darlington.

Three new members were elected, viz., Messrs. E. J. Crapp and W. Wheatley (Drighlington) and Mr. G. Ingham (Queensbury).

The vote of thanks to the Vicar, churchwardens and local company was ably proposed by Mr. H. Lofthouse, who said it was always a pleasure to come to Drighlington and that the Society was always made very welcome. Mr. L. Drake seconded.

Mr. S. Barron replied on behalf of the local company and promised to convey the thanks of the Society to the proper quarters. He said the Society would always be made welcome here subject to local circumstances. The president remarked that Mr. S. Barron appeared to be Vicar, churchwarden and the lot when it came to arranging ringing meetings, and he added his personal thanks for all that had been done for the pleasure and comfort of the visitors at this meeting.

The following nominations were received:—President, Mr. T. W. Strangeway (Rothwell); vice-presidents (three required), Mr. S. Barron (Drighlington), Mr. H. Lofthouse (Armley), Mr. W. Dixon (Guiseley) and Mr. J. Roberts (Leeds Parish Church); Ringing Master, Mr. L. Drake (Leeds Parish Church); secretary and treasurer, Mr. I. Slack (Leeds); auditors, Miss M. S. Rhodes and Mr. H. Lofthouse.

There being no other business the chairman closed the meeting, and ringing continued, all classes being catered for. A well-struck touch of Little Bob Major was the last of the day and as it came round the tenor man asked, 'Have we caught the train?' Nevertheless both ringers and listeners enjoyed it.

The annual general meeting is due to be held at Leeds Parish Church on April 24th.

BEVERLEY & DISTRICT SOCIETY

The Society held its March meeting at Market Weighton on March 20th, 25 members attending, with a visitor from York. The light ring of six was rung during the afternoon to standard methods and Cambridge, some touches being very well struck.

The Vicar (Canon E. Marsh) conducted the service in All Saints' Church and gave a short talk on Psalm 95. Ringing for service should have the same effect as Psalm 122 had on the Jews when it was sung on the ascent to the ridge of the Mount of Olives, and he hoped ringers would bear in mind that there was no higher service than doing the work of God.

At tea in the Londesborough Arms the ringers were the guests of Mr. H. Musk, an elder member of the local company. His generous gesture was suitably acclaimed. After tea, when the votes of thanks were being proposed and answered, the ringers heard a very good response from Mr. C. Metcalfe, the organist. Mr. Metcalfe has been interested in bells and ringing all his life, more than 70 years, and spoke of the bell customs that were in use during his boyhood in the town but had since gone out of use.

Further ringing took place in the evening.

THE RINGING WORLD

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

No. 2245 Vol. L. FRIDAY, APRIL 16, 1954 Registered at the G.P.O. for transmission as a newspaper 4d.

EASTER!

THE world has its own uses for Easter. The large numbers who flock to the church services in town and country form a comparatively small proportion of the population. For the many, the incredulous, the indifferent and the ignorant, the day will mean the freedom to rush through the countryside in search of change and the glories of Spring: catching, perhaps, here and there the sound of the bells, but untouched by their call.

That may be a distressing note, but we cannot linger upon it. For Easter is the Festival of Renewal and the bells are there to sound the triumphant note of Joy and unassailable Hope.

We do not celebrate Easter as a mere pious vision. Its truth and reality are based upon a fact of history which all the theories and arguments of opponents to Christianity have not been able to disprove or eradicate during 1,900 years.

Those who would pronounce the Resurrection of Jesus Christ to be incredible are forced to gloss over the evidence that it created a new impulse of spiritual life, fervid zeal and triumphant hope in those disciples who, at the time of their Master's betrayal and death, showed themselves craven-hearted even to the extent of denying association with Him: yet very soon afterwards becoming bold as lions, making light of sufferings and bearing witness to their Lord regardless of threats and maledictions. To assert, as the opponents of the Truth have done, that the rapid spread of Christian belief, its continuance and influence until now, resulted from the superstitious and weak-minded delusion of a small band of Jewish men and women who were given over to credulity and fanaticism can only, from a rational point of view, seem to be the straining out of the gnat and the swallowing of the camel, for it creates difficulties which are incomparably greater than belief in the supernatural explanation of the Resurrection.

For, as one writer has said, 'the disciples in undertaking a world-wide propaganda had nothing whatever to gain, but everything valuable to lose. Everything that human nature finds hardest to bear and most seeks to avoid, shame, persecution, martyrdom, stood out luridly before them as their inevitable prospect.' Who will dare to say that the whole phenomenon, with all that flowed from it and is inseparably connected with it down the ages, is to be explained by hysterical imagination working upon weak-minded infatuation?

Well, there was the Easter challenge to the world then, and it remains unweakened still.

As the bells rang out again, after their long silence during the last war, in proclamation of victory and the opportunity of life, so they must ring on Easter Day to proclaim the victory of the Christ over sin and death; over all that contributes to the fear of death; over everything in human scientific invention which conjures up prospects of extermination; over all defiance which men blindly throw in the face of their Creator and Redeemer. Is it to be thought for one moment that the world is to become one vast cemetery?

Why! It is the very virtue of Easter that talk in terms of the grave is ruled out. 'Oh, death, where is thy sting? Oh, grave, where is thy victory?' The towers and spires of the Christian Church point upward to the Immeasurable; to the vast realms of Immortality; to the Life of which the glorified sinless Jesus is the centre and fountain. And from those towers the voices of joy and hope and reassurance ring out on Easter Day to waken the world from its stupor; to turn men's thoughts from blasting strife to the splendour of their real destiny.

As the buds reopen and the flowers spring into bloom to gladden the earth breaking forth out of its winter shroud, so the Church in her message has no emphasis for the tomb, except to display its emptiness. 'He that hath ears to hear, let him hear!' Hark to the bells! 'The Lord of all life passes on His way. Death hath no more dominion over Him.' It is the perfect cadence translating all the discords and dirges and doubts into the harmony of the glorious certainty of survival. 'Behold, I make all things new.'

Therefore, brisk are the feet that take the ringers to the tower on Easter morning; bright are the faces giving the Easter greeting; ready are the hands to grasp the ropes; fresh are the resolves of the heart to put new life into the belfries, to pour new joy into the work, to open new avenues of progress, and to raise a new Christian example in human living.

'Thanks be unto God for His unspeakable gift.'

CROYDON

ON CONDUCTING

By WILFRID G. WILSON

XIII. — YORKSHIRE SURPRISE ROYAL

I have probably written enough already to show how useful our Coursing Order technique is in conducting a large number of methods. Let us take one more example. For this I have chosen Yorkshire, of which many more peals, especially in Royal and Maximus, are being rung lately. The average ringer may well think that, although he has managed to call peals in the plainer methods, he will have a full-time job merely to ring, say, Yorkshire Surprise Royal, without making himself responsible for looking after others.

But it is almost always true that the members of a band which attempts to ring a peal in this type of method will be good enough ringers to put themselves right after a slip, if only they can speedily be warned to follow so and so, or course down or up between this bell and that bell. And this piece of vitally important information our conductor will be able to supply almost as easily as in Plain Bob. In some respects I had nearly written more easily than in Plain Bob. For one thing there are far fewer courses and far fewer bobs in Surprise Royal and Maximus—in many courses there is only one bob and that means that for 15–20 minutes the Coursing Order remains the same, giving ample time for the conductor to be fully conversant with it and to work out what will happen at the next bob.

First of all let us examine a plain course of Yorkshire Surprise Royal. Look at the order of the bells at the back end of each row of the first lead and you will see that the tenor is at the back at first and that the other bells get to the back in this order: 9, 7, 5, 3, 1, 2, 4, 6 and 8. We have learnt by now to omit the treble and the back four bells, which form our constant 'framework' and we have our old friend the Coursing Order 5 3 2 4 6. And if you look at all the other leads of the plain course you will see that you still have this same Coursing Order all the way through.

If you look at the order in which the bells come down to lead you will see that, as in Cambridge but to a lesser degree, there are slight variations in this Coursing Order. It is not difficult to learn these—in fact, by the end of the first two or three courses of a peal you will be able to allow for these alterations quite easily if you want to. But you will find that the order of the bells up at the back will often be sufficient to correct trips in the ringing.

Note also from the plain course that the calling positions come in the order M., W. and H. at the 4th, 5th and 9th lead ends, but if you call by the Coursing Orders and the position of the bob-making bells this will make no difference to you.

Here is a very simple composition of 5,040 changes to which many peals of Surprise Royal (not only Yorkshire) have been rung:—

Course Ends				Coursing Orders from 53246
23456	M.	W.	H.	M.	W.	H.
43652	—			53462
26354	—		—	53624		56234
32654			—			52364
63254			—			53624
45236	—	—	—	53246	32546	35426
24536			—			34256
52436			—			32546
43526		—	—		25346	23456
54326			—			24536
32546		—	—		45236	42356
53246			—			43526
25346			—			45236
34256		—	—		52436	54326
23456			—			53246

Just as in our earlier examples, we have shown on the left the course ends produced by our calling. If you were to learn them all by heart, which is quite possible though I know that I personally should get them all mixed up, they would tell you a few useful things. For instance, you would know fourteen of the actual rows to be rung out of the 5,040 of the peal! What a sell if the course end should come along unexpectedly or you should be thinking of something else and you missed the satisfaction of checking that you actually did ring one of these 14 precious rows. You would also know which were the bells in the 5–6 positions—but only throughout the whole of the course if it were a one-bob course. In addition you would know which of the bells were concerned in the bobs at the Home positions.

This information, while useful at certain parts of the peal, would be no help at all at other parts—probably just when the trips would occur. And if you got into a real muddle it is ten to one all your figures would go clean out of your head and you would have to start doing five-figure transpositions in your head, possibly from the start of the peal.

On the right of our calling are set out the Coursing Orders as they change at each bob. And you will see that they all change in accordance with our code A B C into B C A. At the M. on the last three figures of our Coursing Order; at the W. on the first three figures and at the H. on the middle three. And we know before we reach the calling position that of the three bells affected, B will run out, C run in and A make fourths place.

All the time you are ringing you can glance at the bells at the back and see them come up behind in the Coursing Order given by the figures. When the treble comes to lead you can see easily whether one or other (or all three) of the bells to be affected by the next bob have yet reached the correct positions for the call to be made. Whereas unless you have rung a great deal of the particular method you will find it very difficult to see, from one of the front bells, when the tenor is getting into a calling position.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Regret was expressed at the annual meeting of the Guildford Diocesan Guild on Saturday at the decision of Mr. George L. Grover, the hon. secretary of the Guild, to resign from the Central Council. His decision was prompted by five nominations being received for four vacancies. The new representative is Mr. Jack R. Worrall. Mr. Grover will be missed on the Peal Analysis Committee; he has served on this body for many years.

The Rev. J. M. Turner announces that his book, 'The Art and Science of Handbell Ringing,' is now out of print.

Southwell Guild members are requested to note amended arrangements for tea, etc., at the annual general meeting on April 24th. (See Notices column.)

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. H. Measures, of Gilmorton, Leicestershire, on their golden wedding. Although not ringers, they are keenly interested in the ringing activity of their son and grandchildren, who are members of the local band.

On two successive Saturdays quarter peals have been rung at Asfordby, Leicestershire, in honour of the weddings of daughters of local ringers. The first was for Miss Jean Margaret Thompson, daughter of Mr. Albert Thompson, and the second was for Miss Marjorie Cook, youngest daughter of Mr. J. H. Cook.

To delegates and visitors attending the Central Council, at Newcastle-on-Tyne, Mr. K. Arthur, of 29, Cherryburn Gardens, Newcastle-on-Tyne 4, writes that he has four vacant places for the tour on Whit Monday visiting and ringing at Guisborough (6), Whitby (10) and Saltburn (8). The tour starts at 9 a.m. and returns to Newcastle between 9 and 10 p.m. Cost, including lunch and tea, £1. Immediate contact is requested.

Oddfellows attending the A.M.C. at Southport this year will be interested to hear that Bro. Sam Jones jun., of 51, Watling Crescent, Hanbridge, Chester, is anxious for an Oddfellows' peal to be rung one evening during the A.M.C. between June 19th and 25th. He is Provincial Grand Master of the Deeside District. Southport has two rings of eight—Christ Church (tenor 10 cwt.) and Emmanuel (tenor 12 cwt.). Visitors to the Conference feel certain that they can count on Mr. Norman Heaps and other Southport ringers giving them facilities for ringing.

The bells of Bishop's Lydeard, Somerset, will be broadcast in the West Region on Easter Sunday at 9.30 a.m.

A correspondent informs us that the last peal of Kent Treble Bob Major rung at Goole was the first peal on the bells—May 3rd, 1890. The peal on February 20th at Quinton was the first in the tower for 30 years.

At the peal at Grundisburgh on April 3rd Mr. Cecil W. Pipe 'circled' his first tower in 34 years of ringing! Lewis Wiffen recalls that he rang his last peal there 53 years ago. Lew, incidentally, made no mistakes!

The band that rang the peal of London Surprise Major at Fairfield, Derbyshire, on April 3rd, wish to convey their appreciation for the hospitality and welcome extended to them on their visit by Mr. and Mrs. A. Richardson.

Commenting on the peals that appeared in our issue of April 2nd, a correspondent writes that the peal at St. Margaret's, Leicester, on March 13th, was the 100th since 1884, but many peals were rung before then. Shipton Moyne has only had one peal rung there previously, in 1908. That, too, was Grandsire Doubles. It is 22 years since the last peal was rung at East Sutton. The peal on March 10th was the first to be rung there in seven methods.

RINGING IN BEDFORDSHIRE

By the Rev. K. W. H. Felstead

RINGING in Bedfordshire has never been spectacular either in the past 70 years or before that (according to Mr. Ernest Morris' book, 'The History and Art of Change Ringing').

But, if peal ringing is anything to go by, there has always been a steady interest in the art. To-day, 75 per cent. of the towers are of five or six bells. In 1881 this was more like 85 per cent. for six out of the present 14 8-bell towers were then sixes. Luton has also been augmented from eight to ten in this period.

Not a single tower has yet reached the 100 peal mark. The nearest to this total is St. Peter's, Bedford, with 79. This church was one of the above six-bell towers which has only recently become an eight, so that 75 of the peals were on the old six. Usually, one finds that more peals are rung in eight-bell towers than in six, but this is not the case in Bedfordshire where little difference is apparent. Thus although six of the now 8-bell towers have recorded over 50 peals, four of them had only six bells when most of those peals were rung. These six are Bedford (St. Peter's, above), Bromham (59), Dunstable (50), Kempston (55), Maulden (70) and Turvey (53). Three churches with six bells have also passed the 50 mark. They are Biddenham (70), Harrold (54) and Willington (52).

TEN-BELL TOWERS

Peals on the three 10-bell towers have been well spread out over the period. Bedford (St. Paul's) has 65 peals from 1885 onwards, Leighton Buzzard 27 from 1899 to 1949. Luton had 45 peals on the eight between 1901 and 1932. There was then a gap until 1951 since which four peals have been rung on the ten. The next peal rung there will be the 50th. All the 10-and 8-bell towers have had peals rung on them since the war with the exception of Toddington. This has had the least number rung at the church of any of its group (five), the last being in 1928. Actually, the majority of towers where a peal has been rung have had at least one other peal rung since the war, so it would seem that ringing in Bedfordshire is flourishing at the present time. Clifton provides a minor puzzle which, no doubt, the local ringers can answer. Between 1902 and 1908 15 peals were rung on the eight bells. There was then silence until 1931 since which date ten peals have been rung on six bells (three since the war). Are the trebles unringable or is it just a coincidence?

TO BE CONQUERED

Out of the 78 churches with rings of bells given in Dove's book, only two with six bells and eleven with five bells remain to be 'conquered.' The former are Caddington and Wymington. Those with long silences include St. Mary's, Bedford (25 peals were rung there between 1885 and 1902 and none since), Eversholt (27 years), Houghton Regis (29 years), Northill, Potton and Roxton (21 years), Wootton (32 years) and Renhold (34 years). The only 5-bell tower to have reached double figures with its peals is Oakley, with 13. None of the others have more than five peals to record.

The only towers nearing the 50 mark apart from Luton are Sharnbrook (45) and Woburn (43). There are three in the thirties—Cardington (35), Husborne Crawley (32) and Old Warden (38).

A HAPPY MEETING AT TUNBRIDGE WELLS

The Tonbridge District held its most successful meeting for many years at Tunbridge Wells on April 3rd. Ringing commenced punctually at 3 p.m., and soon the belfry, which had at first seemed quite roomy, became filled to overflowing. By the time the service commenced no less than 68 members and friends had gathered together, this being more than double the number attending last year's annual meeting of the District.

The service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. H. R. Ward), who gave a most interesting address to which even the youngest members listened attentively.

The tea which followed was provided by the local band, and perhaps it was the reputation this tower has for producing excellent refreshments that drew such a large crowd. It is certain that this reputation in no way suffered on Saturday week, and, despite the valiant efforts of the ringers, it was found impossible to clear the tables!

At the business meeting 3 honorary, 7 adult, 3 juvenile and 2 non-resident members were elected. It was encouraging to see a good proportion or young members present and they all had opportunity during the afternoon and evening to try any method they had looked up. Ringing ranged from rounds and call changes to Bristol Surprise, and members attended from Brenchley, Edenbridge, Hadlow, Hawkhurst, Horsmonden, Leigh, Marden, Penshurst, Sevenoaks, Shipbourne, Tonbridge and Tunbridge Wells, with visitors from Biddenden, Burwash, Eridge, Lydd, Rotherfield, Wadhurst and Worsley.

Altogether it was any secretary's ideal meeting—all the arrangements were made by Mr. B. Collison, to whom a hearty vote of thanks was proposed and carried with acclamation, a good attendance, an excellent tea and a happy business meeting, plus the fact that on the whole the standard of striking was above the average.

RINGERS' SUPPER AT CHEDDAR

It was very encouraging to see such a good gathering at the ringers' supper on Tuesday, March 30th, held, for the first time in the ringers' memory, in the Church House, Cheddar. Thirty-six people sat down to an excellent spread. Those present included the Vicar, churchwardens and the tower secretary, G. Prescott (Ringing Master of the Axbridge Branch) and 27 active members of the tower, aged between 12 and 50, except Mr. E. Fisher, who is 80 and has been a member of the tower since 1911.

This band has been built from a mere handful of ringers and at Christmas there was no ringing owing to the lack of members. Mr. Prescott commented on the achievement and thought it was a good example to a number of towers throughout the country. There were other remarks of encouragement from the Vicar, churchwardens and the tower secretary, and the captain said that he hoped to keep the band together and would welcome newcomers at any time.

The evening's events included ringing in the tower, handbells and impersonations by Mr. Hembury.

DRIVE FOR POSTAL SUBSCRIBERS

Is Your County Pulling Its Weight?

Solvency of 'The Ringing World' will only be achieved by more postal subscribers or an increase in the selling price of the journal.

A number of Guilds and Associations have already taken the first step by appointing an officer to introduce our journal to potential readers.

To assist them in their task the following summary of postal subscribers according to respective counties has been compiled.

From time to time we hope to publish figures showing the response of different areas to the drive.

OBITUARY

MR. W. FRADLEY

Bucknall, Staffs, band have lost a member of long standing by the passing of Mr. 'Will' Fradley. He started ringing at the age of 21 and had nearly completed his 50th year as a ringer at Bucknall. A member of the North Staffordshire Association, he was in every sense a 'service' ringer—a very regular and reliable attender, no matter what the weather.

On Sunday, February 28th, only four days before his death, he rang for Matins and Evensong, travelling a mile each way from his home in a snowstorm. He was not a prolific peal ringer but was always ready to stand in for a special occasion and especially if a youngster was making an attempt at a first peal. He rang his own first peal on January 31st, 1920. He had also been a chorister for a considerable time in his younger days.

On March 21st, at his memorial service a quarter peal of 1,440 Oxford Treble Bob Minor was rung by a Sunday service band consisting of J. Bateson 1, F. Walklett 2, H. Bateson 3, C. Bowen 4, G. Mountford (conductor) 5, R. O. Preston 6. First quarter by 1 and 3 and first as conductor.

MR. ARTHUR ROWLEY

Just as we were going to press last week we heard of the tragic death of Mr. Arthur Rowley, of Stone, Staffordshire, aged 61 years. He was struck by a passing train while following his employment as a ganger. He had worked on the railway for 41 years.

For 44 years Arthur had been a member of the St. Michael's, Stone, tower and was a former leader and clock winder. In his younger days he was a member of the church choir.

Like the rest of the Stone ringers, his peals were few, but he conducted the first peal by a Stone local band—Grandsire Triples—and took part in the first peal of Stedman to be rung on the bells.

The funeral took place in the Parish Church, the bells being rung half-muffled before and after the service by his fellow ringers. Mr. C. Page, of Stoke, who represented the North Staffordshire Association at the funeral, also rang. In the evening a quarter peal of Grandsire Triples was rung by the following:—Mrs. J. Rowley, I. Kane, C. Templeton, W. Buckley, L. Bowden, R. Smith, E. Young (conductor) and B. Purslow.

Mr. Rowley leaves his wife and daughter, to whom deepest sympathy is extended.

WEDDING BELLS AT ASHTEAD

St. Giles', Ashtead (Surrey), was filled to capacity on April 3rd for the wedding of Miss Beryl Worsford and Mr. Michael Angas.

The bride, who learned to ring at St. Giles', has been a member of the Ashtead St. Giles' Society of Change Ringers. It is only during the past three or four years that the bells have been rung for all choral services and the bride has contributed no small part to this achievement as she has been a regular ringer both morning and evening. In addition to her ringing activities she has served on the Parochial Church Council, has been a leader of the youth groups and a member of the St. George's Singers. One of the many wedding gifts was a dinner service from the Ashtead ringers and from three or four ringing friends. The bridegroom was a member of the choir of St. George's, Ashtead, and a keen worker among the youth.

The service was fully choral, the choir consisting of the St. George's Singers. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. P. R. Tidmarsh, formerly a curate at Ashtead, assisted by the Rector (the Rev. C. J. Halsey). Immediately following the marriage the bride and bridegroom received Holy Communion, the celebrant being the Rector. The church was beautifully decorated. Fellow ringers rang the bride and bridegroom out of the church.

In the evening four of the local ringers took part in an attempted peal of Grandsire Triples. Although the bells ran round, after 2 hours and 52 minutes the conductor, Mr. A. Harman (Master of the Guildford Guild), decided that a true peal had not been rung and the peal cannot be recorded. This was a source of great disappointment to all and particularly to three of the 'locals' who so nearly scored their first peal.

Mr. and Mrs. Angas will live at Cranleigh, Surrey. J. T. S.

TOURING THE EAST ANGLIAN HEIGHTS

The first Saturday in April and spring weather provided a good start for the outing season. Seventeen ringers set out by car from the Bedfordshire and North Herts towers of Maulden, Cardington, Blunham, Biggleswade, Clifton, Henlow, Totternhoe, Stotfold, Hitchin and Norton to visit eight towers in the deep countryside of the East Anglian Heights on the Cambridgeshire, Essex and East Herts borders.

Ickleton (8, 18¼ cwt.) has very tuneful and ringable bells rung from under the central tower at the chancel entrance. A small clock bell is suspended from a projection near the top of the spire. Annable's, London and Spliced Surprise sang across a wide ploughland valley from the little tower of Chrishall (6, 9 cwt.), where we received a warm welcome from the Rev. Mr. Bagley and Mr. G. Pratt, who joined in the ringing.

Next came the pleasing eight at Barkway (16 cwt.), whose bells were from John Bryant's Hertford foundry. On the tower roof a cracked mediæval bell is used as an hour bell. Before high tea at Buntingford the recently rehung six at Great Hormead (14 cwt.) was visited. The only bells at Buntingford are on a gramophone record! The old church, known as Layston, is in ruins and the five bells are unsafe to ring.

The five cars got 'wet feet' fording the River Rib before reaching the tower of Braughing (8, 19 cwt.), which is crowned by a tall 'spike' of the type so frequently met in East Herts. It is a pity this fine-toned old ring is so badly odd-struck. The bells were favourites in the early days of change ringing. Quite a good course of Yorkshire was brought round when we became accustomed to their ways. The next tower, Standon (6, 17 cwt.) also has a good spike to its almost detached tower, and very good bells they are, with measured tread, recently rehung.

Dusk deepened to night as we threaded the deep, winding lanes to Little Munden, in whose lonely tower, crowned again by a little spike, was a good-going ring of six (13 cwt.). Mr. A. Phillips welcomed us to the ringing chamber, whose walls are covered to the ceiling with boards and peal cards recording the vintage years of this almost historical six under the late Mr. W. ('Bill') Lawrence, including his performances ringing both treble and second bells at once to peals, and conducting!

The last tower was Walkern (another ford!) and the lightest six in Herts (6½ cwt.). The bells are a very handy and quaintly pretty ring hung in an H-frame. We lingered here to tap off a number of methods including Spliced London and Little Bob, almost drowned by the efforts of one of our Maulden friends who combines an interest in the music of bells with the music of the organ! LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

ANONYMOUS LETTERS

Dear Sir,—Mr. H. P. Cliff, of Newcastle-on-Tyne states, 'Our paper must now have the unenviable distinction of being the only magazine . . . . which imposes such a ban,' etc. I say it is a distinction to be proud of, to be envied—and copied—by all papers and periodicals.

Mr. Cliff rather defeats his own arguments. The fact that no one but himself and Mr. Munday has protested is clear proof of almost unanimous approval. If he reads correctly the correspondence in 'The Ringing World' he will see that correspondents are not afraid to say exactly what they mean, although it sometimes hurts, and in doing so are quite prepared to take a little more than they give; leastways, that is my experience.

The ban on anonymous letters is a guarantee of freedom of speech, and because we are allowed a great deal of liberty does not mean we should take licence.

There are, probably, only two occasions to justify anonymity; one, perhaps, in unmasking crime, or reporting to the appropriate body, the N.S.P.C.C., of cruelty to children—which they ask for—and to hide one's generosity.—Yours sincerely,

W. FRANK STENSON.

MUSIC OF THE TENORS

Dear Sir,—As a novice, it appears to me that music produced by changes on ten bells is inherently dependent on the structure of the method being rung and, to a lesser extent, on the composition of the touch or peal. Stedman Caters, for instance, has a glory of its own and whether the bells are in the handstroke, home or Tittums position the rolling up of the back bells rarely fails to send a tingle down one's spine. Surely it is this rolling up of the tenors that provides music which is most pleasing to the ear.

Why, then, are methods such as Erin Caters and Duffield Royal, which bring these musical roll-ups twice as frequently as Stedman, looked upon as a source of amusement and are only rarely rung?

I have been told, on good authority, that these are 'conductors' methods.' True the calls must of necessity be more frequent than in other nine- or ten-bell methods, but surely the Exercise can boast one or two conductors capable of conducting them.

I am also told that these methods are relatively simple to ring; we do not have to remember or calculate or look for our course bell to determine whether we go into the three-bell work quick or slow. This, I am assured, is most uninteresting and quite boring. I think I must be somewhat abnormal in that I enjoy this form of boredom.—Yours faithfully,

G. A. HALLS.

MONTHLY CORPORATE COMMUNIONS

Dear Sir,—On Sunday, April 4th, the ringers of St. Mary-the-Virgin, Dallington, Northampton, celebrated the anniversary of their monthly Corporate Communion.

The curate (the Rev. J. M. Ouless), also a ringer, was the celebrant, and Messrs. C. Windram, J. Hadley and R. Old served at the sanctuary. The duty sidesman was E. Nobles.

To mark the occasion a 360 of Kent Treble Bob was rung by the following—Messrs. J. Hadley 1, R. Old 2, J. M. Nash 3, J. G. Chapman 4, C. Windram 5, E. Nobles (conductor) 6.

This is the longest length and first time Treble Bob has been recorded by any local band at Dallington.

SOUTH BENFLEET 'PEALS'

Dear Sir,—I was very interested in the article in your issue of April 2nd, 'Peal Ringing, 1881-1954,' by the Rev. K. W. H. Felstead. In the belfry of South Benfleet Church there was a board, which, unfortunately, cannot now be traced. According to Beaton's 'History of Rochford Hundred' (about 1870) the inscription on it read:—

'These compleat peals were rung in the year 1794 by us, Wm. Banbrooke, Jno. Brooks, Jno. Cooper, Wm. Potter and Jasr. Lane or Jno. Pickering, as follows:—

'Old Doubles Kents 12; New Doubles 12; Old Grandsr 15; New Grandsr 25; Fortune 12; Gogmagog 15; Dream 12; St. Dunstan's 12; Antilope 15; Hudibrass 12; Four Cambridge Delights 14, 15, 24 and 25; London Doubles 132; Cambridge Journey 15; Chase 15; Two Westminsters 12 and 15.

Prior to 1949 there were five bells in the tower. The numbers would appear to indicate the hunt and half-hunt bells and the 'peals' to be extents of 120, but were quite an achievement for a village band at that time.—Yours, etc.,

C. L. MATSON.

FIRST PEAL OF SURPRISE AT ALDERMASTON

Dear Sir,—As one of the band who rang in the peal of Cambridge Major at Aldermaston recently, I take full responsibility for the error in claiming it as the first of Surprise on the bells.

It was at my suggestion that the footnote appeared, not Mr. Pink's.

I have known the tower for many years and have rung quite a few peals there but had never heard of a previous peal of Surprise on the bells. The year 1902 is a little before my time.

My apologies to all concerned.—Yours, etc.,

R. W. REX.

Thatcham, Berks.

A VETERAN'S ACHIEVEMENT

Dear Sir,—May I, through your columns, congratulate Mr. J. B. Budd, of Mold, on completing his 100 peals.

He began regular peal ringing at an age when most ringers are thinking of giving it up, and the result is that in his retirement he has grown younger. In one peal I recall, the sum of the ages of the rest of the band was but a few years in excess of his age, yet he still felt quite at home!

His willingness to co-operate, punctuality and enthusiasm are examples to his brother ringers.—Yours sincerely,

BRIAN HARRIS.

CONDUCTING AND COMPOSING

Dear Sir,—With reference to discussion of these two matters in your issue No. 2,244 of 2nd April, 1954:—

CONDUCTING. There must be many who feel that congratulations and thanks are due to Mr. Wilfrid G. Wilson for his practical and helpful articles now appearing in these pages. It is interesting to find therein some further endorsement of the precept we have often urged as to the study of the principles of method-structure—as a helpful preliminary to both ringing and conducting.

In the second paragraph of his article XII., Mr. Wilson recommends the spending of some time in studying the structure of the method and of learning (inter alia) the position sequence of one's bell at successive lead-ends. He refers to the fact that in Cambridge Major the reversal of this sequence gives the order in which, in the plain course, bells come to do their work in front, with the treble. Perhaps Mr. Wilson will not mind if we add that this 'rule' applies even more widely—in fact, it will give the order of the bells coming into any set of corresponding positions in the successive leads of the plain course; that is to say, not only in any such positions at the lead-ends, but in corresponding positions anywhere within the successive leads.

Furthermore, it applies in methods without a hunt-control, as in Stedman, for instance; though here the student must be careful to group his rows correctly in 'divisions.' (These are the 'leads' of a hunt-controlled method, and in Stedman they comprise groups of 12 rows starting from and including Rounds). Of course, there will be found different sequences for different methods, though these sequences fall into similar groups. The theory is developed in the 'Memorandum of the Technology of Method Structure' (on loan from C.C. Library) in Arts: 80 to 83b inclusive; under the subject of 'Cyclics,' where the first type of sequence that Mr. Wilson quotes is described as the 'Position Cyclic,' and its reverse type of sequence as the 'Bell Cyclic.' These interesting and very useful features will be found inherent in all methods of conventional design. Ringing a method without recognition of its cyclics may be compared with travelling a route without reference to its sign-posts.

COMPOSING. In a letter from Mr. Carlisle on this subject (page 219), he asks for information as to methods or systems of composing. While it is true that many of the well-known composers build up their own systems, there is little published on the subject, which is, of course, quite distinct from that of method design. I believe that Mr. Maurice Hodgson has carried out some research into the relationship of 'natural' course-ends, and of the occurrence, in groups, of false rows. (Vide Corrigan—Part D, page 33.)

Snowdon, in his 'Treatise on Treble Bob,' Part I. (unfortunately now out of print, but no doubt on loan from the C.C. Library), explains a system of composing in methods on the T-B principle, with the tenors together, devised by James Lockwood.

As to Stedman's method, in the earlier edition of 'Stedman,' by C. D. P. Davies (also published in the Snowdon series), there is an Appendix of 29 short chapters dealing with composition in (Stedman) Triples.

Perhaps Mr. Carlisle is aware of these sources, in which case their mention may yet be of help to others interested.—Yours very truly,

A. YORK-BRAMBLE.

THE COCKEYS OF THE WEST COUNTRY

Bellfounders, Clockmakers, Engineers, Churchwardens

By J. EDWARD LEWIS COCKEY, A.M.I. Mech. E.

THE origin of the name seems obscure, but it was probably one of the numerous early forms of the word Cook. Cooks were important functionaries in large baronial and monastic establishments, and the name is an occupational one, surnames coming in later. The Norman lords did not trust Englishmen to prepare their food, and the office was held by their own people. The name seems to appear first in the Bristol area but later spread all over the West Country.

Stephen le Cokke was Provost of Bristol in 1261, and James Cokkye was Baliff in 1487—note how the name gradually develops.

Wickham, a writer, and well known in the topographical world, says, speaking of the Exchequer Lay Subsidy Roll, i.e., lists of persons liable to tax in the Manor of Holcombe, about six miles from Frome, Somerset:—'Another payee is John Cockys,' who in 1524 was assessed upon his personal goods, the sum of ijs (9s.), as a subsidy upon a rateable value of 51s.

In 'Wiltshire Notes and Queries' it is stated that 'Ellis Cockeye married Margery Sharpe 26th July, 1589 (? at Salisbury) and on 30th Nov., 1589, William Cockey married Annabell Maynard.'

In 1629 37s. was paid to Richard Cockey 'Pewterer of Warminster' (Wilts) for casting eight brasses for the bells—86 lbs. of brass being used. It was probably the same person who supplied some altar candlesticks to the Parish Church at Shepton Mallet. It is also stated (no date) that the barrel of the chiming apparatus, with wooden teeth, at Westbury (Wilts) was made by Lewis and William Cockey, 'Pewterers of Warminster.'

'Wiltshire Notes' again states that Leonard Cockey, apothecary, of Salisbury, married Anne Ricketts, of Chute, Feb. 1st, 1630.

In 1667 William Cockey is given as a tenant of the Dean and Chapter, in Dolphin Chequer, Salisbury.

A Lewis Cockey was casting bells in Bristol about 1680, and a Mordecai Cockey, near Totnes, about the same date. (One of the latter's bells was seen by the writer at the Croydon foundry some years ago.) This person was probably an itinerant founder—unlike the others—and is referred to in Eden Philpotts' novel 'The American Prisoner.'

Prebendary Daniel, the local historian, states that Lewis Cockey came from Warminster to Frome about 1680 and set up a bell foundry. Bell Lane, named after this, was recently in existence, and the actual site of the foundry has been pointed out to the writer. An old rate book states that Lewis Cockey, with a residence in Frome, paid a 3d. rate in 1682. In one document he is referred to as 'Mr. Lewis,' implying a person of some importance. The registers at St. John-the-Baptist Church refer to his burial in 1703 but, strangely enough, there is no trace of his grave, nor does his name appear on the family tombs.

In Sweetman's 'History of Wincanton' it is stated that William Cockey repaired the town clock. He was a skilled workman and probably migrated to Frome later. He was a churchwarden at Wincanton in 1692, 1693 and 1703. In 1711 he repaired the clock for 29s. In 1719 he recast the bell for 7s. (sic), and in 1721 he repaired the clock again for 7s. 6d. He is the first clockmaker whose name appeared on the clock ? 1692—1721.

'Wiltshire Notes' refers to 'Mr. Cockey's bill of £93 14s. 2½d. (note the odd ½d.) for bells at Bradford-on-Avon in 1734.

AS CLOCKMAKERS

An Edward Cockey was making clocks in Warminster about the end of the 17th century and must have been a great craftsman. A number of his clocks are still in existence and are truly remarkable works of art. One of these, a magnificent astronomical and equation clock, standing over nine feet high, was the largest specimen at a recent British clockmakers' exhibition at South Kensington; and another, a similar clock, was recently disposed of at Sotheby's for a sum approaching £200. A third is in the possession of the Marquis of Bath, at Longleat, and can be seen by visitors to this historic mansion. A smaller specimen is in a private house in Frome, and is said to be keeping perfect time.

The registers at St. John-the-Baptist, Frome, show the burials of father and son in complete succession from those living towards the end of the 17th century, and the tombs from a Richard Cockey (date not given) but who must have been living in the late 1600's, almost to the present time. These tombs, which lie near the head of the famous Via Crucis, are in a good state of preservation, and the inscriptions have recently been restored by Miss Dora Cockey, Admiral Bromwich and the writer.

About 1679 a William Cockey migrated to America and his descendants are numerous in the States, and it is noteworthy that they seem to retain the old family Christian names, such as William, Edward and Richard. A number of them came over with the American Forces during the late war, showing great interest in their forbears. One, Commander Richard Cockey, has had distinguished service in the U.S. Navy in the Far East and elsewhere.

AS BELLFOUNDERS

Church bells cast by the Cockeys from the mid-17th to the mid-19th century are scattered in profusion over the West Country and are generally of good quality. It is noteworthy that, as far as can be ascertained, they never descended to the level of ribald or derogatory rhymes on their bells, as the Bilbies and the others did, nor did they reply to Bilbies' jibes. Their standard inscriptions were, such as at Frome, 'William Cockey, Bellfounder, 1724,' and little else. The one exception is a rumoured inscription 'God made Cockey and Cockey made me,' which is supposed to have been on one of St. John's bells. This can hardly have been the case as it is certainly not there now, and the latest bell there is by Bilbie, about 1790 This inscription has never been traced, though the writer spent much time, years ago, looking for it. There is just a possibility that it was on one of the Warminster bells, since recast, but this is very doubtful.

The family took a prominent part in the Church and public life of Frome and district in the 18th and 19th centuries, and in connection with the serious election riots at Frome in 1832 the names of Edward and William Cockey appear among the burgesses in a framed record, which is still on view in the George Hotel there. Incidentally, the William Cockey recently referred to in connection with Shaftesbury bells, as probably an itinerant founder, could hardly have been so. He was churchwarden at St. John's in 1743 and was followed by Lewis Cockey 1766-1784, Edward Cockey 1815-1816, and Henry Cockey 1859–1861.

An interesting story is told of the situation there, when Father Early Bennett was presented to the living by Lord Bath, about 1851. He was one of the first Ritualists, and a most aggressive one; the church at that time, as with most others, was very Evangelical. It is said that at his first service about 2,000 people filled the church, with its then galleries. Father Bennett made no bones about it, but preached a violent Anglo-Catholic sermon, apparently attacking the Evangelicals, and stating that he proposed immediately to introduce vestments, incense, confession, and so on. This caused a great sensation and much resentment, and practically the whole congregation left, some, it is stated, walking out during the sermon. The Cockeys, Byard Sheppards and other influential members immediately joined the then new Church of Holy Trinity and carried on the Evangelical tradition, becoming churchwardens there, and many of them lie buried in the churchyard. One result of this was that Byard Sheppard brought a famous legal action against Father Bennett, and, after a long drawn-out struggle, lost it and almost ruined himself in the process. This action is still, one understands, one of the causes célebres which are referred to in the study of ecclesiastical law. Incidentally, one of Byard Sheppard's daughters was a godmother of the writer.

FATHER OF 16 CHILDREN

The last of the bellfounders, Edward Cockey, son of Christopher, was born in 1781 and died in 1860. He married Elizabeth Hagley in 1808 and was the father of 16 children. The Hagleys were a well-known family, and on their side was Joseph Bromwich, a close friend of Nelson, and who is referred to several times in Carola Oman's 'Nelson.' Nelson states that on one occasion the Admiralty were 'very civil' to him, allowing him to choose all his own officers, and 'the faithful Bromwich' was to be one of his lieutenants. He was commissioned on Nelson's recommendation, and, later, Nelson secured his appointment as Warden of Portsmouth Dockyard. A number of Nelson's letters and one of his telescopes are now in the possession of two of Edward Cockey's descendants—Rear Admiral G. H. Bromwich, D.S.O., O.B.E., and Rear Admiral W. Scott Hill, C.B.E.—the former having changed his name for sentimental reasons from Cockey to Bromwich.

Edward Cockey was a remarkable man. The last of his bells that one can trace was at North Cheriton, dated 1840. His portrait, and that of his two sons, Henry and Francis Christopher, were, until recently at any rate, in the Board Room of Edward Cockey and Sons, Ltd., of Frome. This portrait shows a remarkably handsome man, one would imagine with a fierce personality. He was obviously shrewd and capable, and apparently, when he decided that bellfounding was not a paying proposition and that the gas industry was coming along he changed over to gas and general engineering, a business that is still carried on by the above firm, though none of the family are now connected with it. He founded the Frome Gas Company and was for a long time managing director and practically the owner of this undertaking. He held almost the whole of the trade of the West Country in the production of gas plant and carried out many contracts in Russia and elsewhere for gas holders and the like.

He had a great reputation for reliability and efficiency and at one time the works were employing about 800 men, a pretty considerable number for those days. A number of stories are told of his methods, which were autocratic, to say the least, by present day standards. It was said that on his daily inspection of the works if he met with any item which displeased him, the person responsible, whether one of his sons, a foreman or workman, was wont to receive a heavy blow across the shoulders from a stick which he always carried. On other occasions he would look over a machine which had been completed to everyone's satisfaction. Some small item would displease him, and the offending item would get a hearty whack with the stick and be condemned to the scrap heap, and to be replaced. Withal, he was a religious, and probably a kind-hearted man and must have been typical of some of the early Victorians.

Of his sons, Francis Christopher was an explosive but kindly personality, whose chief weakness was ex-Service men, and he could never turn one away. This became known and he was the constant recipient of hard luck stories, and his remedy was to 'find him a job in the works.' These kindly jobs are said to have been a source of embarrassment at times. In the writer's early days, as an apprentice at these works, there were still one or two old Crimean and Mutiny veterans about, who used to regale us with lurid tales of their doings in these wars.

THE REV. H. A. COCKEY

His eldest son, Edward, entered the Church and became Warden of Wadham College, Oxford. It is said that it was in his study that the first meetings of the Tractarian movements were held. He later became Rector of Fryerning, in Essex, where he died and was buried, in 1880. His son was the Rev. H. A. Cockey, also a Wadham man, who gained a great reputation as a ringer, especially at the heavy end, and took part in a number of notable peals. He was chaplain to Greenwich Hospital at one time, and was instrumental in refounding the Trinity Youths, who did much ringing in the Greenwich area. He later became Vicar of Oldland, Bristol, and died there in 1916. He married a daughter of Canon Ellacombe, and one of his sons, Air Commodore L. A. Cockey, C.B., has recently retired from the R.A.F. The last William, another of Edward Cockey's sons engaged in the engineering industry in Glasgow, died there in 1877 and is buried in Sight Hill Cemetery. Two of his grandsons are the above-mentioned Rear Admiral W. Scott Hill, and W. Thompson Hill, now archæological correspondent of 'The Times.'

Whether or not any of the old founders were practical ringers is not known, and the only two descendants to take up the art are the Rev. H. A. Cockey, mentioned above, and the writer. The fine ring at Frome contains bells by William Cockey—the two trebles, dated 1724, and the 6th, dated 1746. The 4th, dated 1624, and the tenor, 1662, are by a John Lott, of Warminster, who may possibly have been a colleague or predecessor of the Warminster Cockeys.

Shortly before the war the writer had the pleasure of ringing the 2nd bell at Frome to a fine peal of Double Norwich, conducted by Mr. Nolan Golden. It is pleasing to note that the local band, with their secretary, Miss Overend, are taking such an interest in this fine old ring, and one hopes that it may continue.

'THE LEDGER IS CLOSED'

There are now few male descendants left in this country to carry on the old name, and at Frome, Miss Dora Cockey, a granddaughter of Edward, is the last remaining link with the family. It seems, therefore, that in time to come, except for the engineering firm, the name, after a sojourn of near 300 years, will become extinct.

It may be, as with individuals, so with families, their mission accomplished, the ledger is closed and they are called to rest. For the family, as a whole, it may fairly be said, that 'They feared God and honoured the King' during these 300 years. They gave melody to the air, art and beauty to the showing of Time. They served with distinction the Church, the Forces, medicine and, above all, engineering, and now, as a family, they rest from their labours. The names of those who rest there, and some others, are recorded on the two simple slabs that lie at the head of the Via Crucis at the lovely Church of St. John-the-Baptist—a way that more than one of them has passed with his own cross to bear, in company with the saintly Bishop Ken, the Singers of Frome (great Victorian craftsmen) and many others, close to the sound of the bells they made—and it seems not inappropriate to quote for them the words on Jasper Snowden's tomb:

> 'Year by year the Bells so softly
> O'er the graves their music pour
> Where the dust of Saints is gathered
> Till the Master comes once more.'

THE BELLS OF EGHAM, SURREY

HISTORIANS do not agree regarding the exact spot at Runnymede where King John signed the Magna Charta, and while some hold that the signing took place by the Thames in the parish of Egham, others claim that the document was signed at Magna Charta Island in a neighbouring parish. Which is correct still remains a matter of opinion, but the facts tell us that Egham has been associated with the historic event of 1215 for centuries, and commemoration services are held yearly at the Parish Church of St. John-the-Baptist, Egham.

When John de Rutherwych, the famous Chertsey abbot, ruled at Chertsey Abbey from 1307 to 1346, he included the building of churches in his programme, one of which was Egham, but nothing remains of this building seeing the present church was rebuilt in 1817. The first recording of bells comes from the Royal Inventory of 1552, when Egham possessed four bells, and this was probably the number until 1819 when T. Mears cast a ring of six for the present tower. One of these bells recorded that 'the peal was purchased by subscriptions and ordered to be made by the Churchwardens,' while another bell revealed that 'this church was rebuilt and the first stone laid April 9th, 1817, by Ld. Vist Bulkley.'

In 1912 all the bells were recast at Croydon and with the addition of a new treble and tenor they form a fine Simpson tuned octave, which can be clearly heard in the ringing chamber. The tenor weighs 16 cwt. 3 qr. 26 lb. and many people hardly credit that such a small tower could hold a ring of bells with a tenor nearly 17 cwt. The way to the ringing chamber is via the gallery steps and a left turn into a narrow corridor which brings one into the apartment without further steps.

After the opening of the bells on March 30th, 1912, the church authorities expressed two wishes: (1) that a peal of Triples be rung on the new bells; (2) that the new band be taught change ringing. The first was carried out on April 19th, 1912, when a peal of Stedman was conducted by the writer, and the second, a much bigger proposition, was undertaken right away.

Being in a corner of Surrey with three counties, Middlesex, Berks and Bucks, nearby, it proved a bit of a problem to the Surrey Association and the Winchester Diocesan Guild, but road transport has helped considerably in more recent years. At the present time there is a keen band who welcome visitors at service ringing and on practice nights.

In these days when we are faced with synthetic recordings it may be interesting to recall an event in which Egham played a part during the early part of 1937. The account is from 'The Church of England Newspaper,' and it says that 'a large party of bellringers and friends from St. Paul's Church, Egham, visited North Acton to witness a demonstration of a new kind of carillon, which is entirely without bells. This new invention, which is electronic in character, had never before been publicly demonstrated. It produces (not reproduces) bell music by new scientific means, and such famous carillons as those at Bruges and Malines and the peals at Canterbury and Winchester Cathedrals can be given with the utmost fidelity. The apparatus is controlled from a small keyboard or desk, which can be placed in any convenient position such as porch, vestry or organ loft, and a single operator can achieve the most elaborate change ringing without previous knowledge of campanology. Any depth or weight of tone can be provided, and even automatic change ringing can be fitted. This new (fully patented) apparatus employs no gramophone records or oscillating valves. It is purely electrical and requires but a few cubic feet of space. It imposes no strain whatever on the fabric and its cost is only a fraction of the expense entailed by a set of bells.'

It should be mentioned that St. Paul's Church, Egham, is a neighbouring parish and does not possess a ring of bells, so where they obtained the large party of bellringers from is not quite understood, but after inquiries from several ringers in the neighbourhood at the time, nobody was able to give additional information on the subject.

THE RINGING WORLD

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

No. 2246 Vol. L. FRIDAY, APRIL 23, 1954 Registered at the G.P.O. for transmission as a newspaper 4d.

A NOTABLE ANNIVERSARY

IT is very appropriate that the Guild of Devonshire Ringers should have chosen to visit Plymouth for the Annual Festival on Whit Monday, for it was at Plymouth 80 years ago, on June 15th, 1874, that the first General Meeting of the Guild was held.

A great deal of preparatory work had been done to ensure that the first public function of the newly-formed Guild should be a success. Three committee meetings had been held beforehand to settle the arrangements for the great day. In order to induce as many members as possible to attend, the Secretary was authorised 'to pay the railway fares of such performing members as should apply to him for the same one week before the Annual Meeting,' and tickets for the dinner at the Royal Hotel were supplied to performing members at 1s. each.

One probable reason why Plymouth had been chosen was that William Bannister, the well-known College Youth and author of a book on ringing, had migrated from Woolwich to Devonport in 1865, and had trained one of the few change ringing bands to be found at that time in the county. Another was that St. Andrew's bells were being augmented from 8 to 10, and June 15th was the date selected for their opening. There were very few men indeed in the county in 1874 capable of ten-bell ringing, and so the College Youths were invited to come at the expense of the Guild and open the bells.

It is fair to assume that Bannister was the prime mover in this matter, although in the very full account of the day's proceedings in 'The Western Daily Mercury' he is not mentioned as taking part in the opening touches. 'The ringers,' says this report, 'were Messrs. Haley, Haworth, Cooter, Wood, Ferris, Pettit, Muskett, Greanleaf, Jones and Tanner, and this same set have, during the last year, opened the belfries of the chief churches at Dundee, Waterford, Northwold, Norfolk and Bournemouth. The inauguration of the new bells was of a most satisfactory character, the treble bells harmonised most thoroughly with the others, whilst the peals themselves were highly enjoyed by the large assemblage of persons in the vicinity of the church. During the day were rung pieces of the Grand Sire, Stedman's principle and Kent treble bob methods.' Incidentally, the Guild Minute Book reveals that the band were paid £31 10s. for their trouble—30s. a head expenses and £1 13s. each for travelling. A subsequent application by Haley for a further sum for expenses was courteously but firmly declined.

The day began with a service in St. Andrew's followed by a dinner at the Royal Hotel, at which over 100 members and friends attended. The president, Col. C. A. W. Troyte (the author of 'Change Ringing' and Squire of Huntsham), took the chair at the subsequent business meeting which, judging by the newspaper report, must have been a lengthy affair. The strength of the three-months-old Guild was given as 60 honorary and 57 performing members, belonging to 11 different bands of ringers.

The Festival ended with a concert in the Assembly Rooms. 'At the commencement,' says the Press report, 'the President gave a very lucid explanation of the methods of change ringing, which was accompanied with illustrations on the handbells. The members of St. Andrew's choir, under the able direction of Mr. Graham Clarke, sang some choice pieces in their usual spirited manner. Mr. George Cox, the noted tenor of Exeter Cathedral, kindly gave his assistance, and acquitted himself in a manner that called forth much applause. Not the least attraction was Mr. William Bannister's bell band, who, to the intense and manifold delight of those present, performed some charming selections of concerted music. Altogether the affair was a great success, the hall being crowded with a large and gratified audience.'

In those early days the emphasis was on the great need for belfry reform, and for the recognition of ringers as church workers: that prime object has been very largely achieved. The enthusiasts of 1874 also hoped to convert the whole county to half-pull changes. That dream has still to be realised, but if on Whit Monday they could be present in the flesh as surely they will be in the spirit, the founders of the Guild would have good reason to look with approval at what has been built upon the foundations which they so well and truly laid.

GUILDFORD GUILD AND SURREY ASSOCIATION

FRIENDSHIP, BUT INDIVIDUALITY TO BE MAINTAINED — 17-YEAR-OLD LEADING CONDUCTOR—TWO NEW VICE-PRESIDENTS—EDITOR EXPLAINS 'RINGING WORLD' POSITION—ANONYMOUS LETTERS DISCUSSED

THE principal business before the annual meeting of the Guildford Diocesan Guild, held at Guildford on April 10th, with the Master (Mr. A. Harman) in the chair, was the relationship of the Guild with the Surrey Association.

The matter had been considered by the Executive Committee, who drafted the following paragraph defining the Guild's policy:—

'It has come to the notice of your officers that suggestions emanating from ringers resident in the Diocese are being made in certain quarters that the time is ripe for some sort of arrangement to be made with the Surrey Association, primarily, apparently, to ensure that ringers can be members of this Guild and the County Association on payment of one subscription only.

'The committee takes this opportunity of saying that the Guildford Guild wishes to work in perfect harmony with all other organisations, including particularly the Surrey Association, and points out that we have never raised any objection to any other organisation holding meetings, ringing peals and recruiting members within the Diocese, but the Guildford Guild does rightly claim that it is the ringing organisation of the Diocese and that all Church of England ringers resident within the Diocese owe their allegiance first and foremost to us.

'Your committee thinks, too, and we trust that the general body of members will agree with us, that any arrangement with any other organisation which would involve control from outside the Diocese being exercised in any way over the Guild's finances, activities or administration would at once destroy the Diocesan status of the Guild with perhaps far-reaching and, from the point of view of a Diocesan organisation, disastrous results.

'Your committee wishes it to be understood that it cannot without protest permit any ringer resident within its boundaries to take any action tending to usurp the loyalty of any of its members, and it asks all members to turn a deaf ear to the blandishments of the advocates of any sort of amalgamation with any other ringing organisation.'

THE DISCUSSION

Mr. G. L. Grover said the Surrey Association claimed to be a county association and they could not object to them getting members from the county. What they did object to was Surrey Association members, who should be members of the Guildford Guild by residence, doing all they could to upset the Guildford Guild. With reference to the alteration of boundaries of the Surrey districts, he had received a letter from Mr. Champion stating that it was in no sense an aggressive but a domestic matter between two districts of the Association.

Mr. A. H. Pulling expressed the hope that the whole meeting would be behind the Executive Committee's report.

Mr. C. Denyer felt that the Surrey Association would wish for a happy relationship with them. Ringing for the Church came first, whether it was rung by the Guildford Diocesan Guild or the Surrey Association.

Mr. R. Whittington said the subject was brought up 40 or 50 years ago, and when they came to examine it they found it was a couple of people naggling.

Mr. H. Pitstow said he was an officer of the Guild and also of the Surrey Association, and he assured the meeting that the Surrey Association wished nothing but amicable arrangements with the Guild. Unfortunately, there were two or three who wanted amalgamation, but the vast majority of Surrey Association members were quite content with the present arrangement and deprecate this movement. The definition of ringing areas which took place at the Surrey Association meeting was a domestic matter relating to the transfer of one or two towers. The Surrey Association had no intention of coming into the south-west corner of Surrey.

Mr. A. C. Hazelden commented that this was the third or fourth time the matter had been raised, and it arose from dual subscriptions, particularly in areas like Leatherhead, Epsom and Banstead. At the time of the foundation of the Guildford Diocesan Guild it was seriously suggested that some financial arrangement should be made, but the late Mr. J. D. Drewitt prevented it being reached.

The report of the committee was adopted with one vote being cast against.

PEAL RINGING

The report recorded a marked increase in peal ringing during the year. Forty-four peals were rung, all on tower bells, in 28 diocesan towers and three towers outside the diocese. Although nearly twice as many peals were rung as in the previous year, the committee regretted to note that there were only the same number of first pealers in 1953 as in 1952. The committee noted with disquiet that no handbell peals were rung and thought that this branch of their art was worthy of a little more attention. Congratulations were offered to Mr. E. J. Wells, of Farnham, who rang in 27 peals and topped the list of conductors with 17 to his credit. As Mr. Wells was only 17 years of age, he 'bids fair, if he continues in the way he has started, to make a name in the world of ringing.' Shalford Surprise Major was rung for the first time.

Major E. J. Bragg, who was re-elected peal recorder, said the peal book had been written up to the end of 1952. He had indexed the 743 peals that had been rung for the Guild, and of these 166 had been rung in Holy Trinity, Guildford. There had been 82 conductors, and Mr. Pulling had conducted 331 peals and Mr. Harman 73. There had been 42 handbell peals. Doubles peals totalled 21, Minor 61 (a six-method peal had yet to be rung), Triples 221, Major 165 (Double Norwich C.B. 65), Surprise Major 145 (in 28 different methods), Spliced Surprise 3, Caters 46, Royal 32 and Cinques 1. The next peal would be the 800th.

TWO NEW VICE-PRESIDENTS

Mr. C. Denyer (Farnham) and Mr. R. Whittington (Cranleigh) were added to the list of vice-presidents. The report recorded the services of Mr. Denyer to the Farnham District as secretary and afterwards as Ringing Master, and that he had been succeeded as Ringing Master by Messrs. T. Page and E. J. Wells. Mr. R. Whittington had retired from the Guild Committee, having served from its formation and had also served on the Central Council. Prior to 1928 he served on the committee of the Winchester Guild. Both returned thanks for their election, Mr. Denyer remarking that he had 40 years more to do before reaching Mr. Whittington's record.

Other officers elected were: Master, Mr. A. Harman: hon. secretary and treasurer, Mr. G. L. Grover; assistant hon. secretary, Miss W. Oliver; hon. auditor, Mr. R. C. W. Hunter; Central Council representatives, Messrs. A. H. Pulling, A. C. Hazelden, A. Harman and J. R. Worrall.

Mr. T. W. White expressed regret at the resignation of Mr. G. Grover from the Central Council brought about to avoid a ballot. His decision to resign was a loss to the Exercise, as he undertook very useful work on the Peal Analysis Committee. It was invaluable to the smooth working of ringing generally that Guild secretaries should be members of the Central Council. He moved that a vote of thanks be accorded to Mr. Grover for his work on the Council.

Mr. Pulling expressed the opinion that the Central Council would not lose the services of Mr. Grover, and Mr. Shepherd suggested that the delegates to the Council from the Guild should take a recommendation from the meeting pressing for Mr. Grover to be elected an honorary member. Such a course was deprecated by Mr. T. W. White, who said it would be construed as an endeavour on the part of the Guild to obtain additional representation. Any action for the retention of Mr. Grover's services should come from outside the Guild and not be sponsored by the meeting.

THE ACCOUNTS

The accounts were presented by Mr. L. C. W. Hunter and showed a balance on the general fund of £48 18s. 9d., against £42 1s. 5d. at the beginning of the year. The Benevolent Fund had a balance of £116 and the New Cathedral Bells Fund £72 17s. 2d. Mr. C. W. Denyer offered suitable collecting boxes for the two funds last mentioned, for which there was an appeal for greater support.

LOSSES BY DEATH

The meeting stood in remembrance of Mr. A. C. Otway (Leatherhead), Mr. G. S. Gurr (honorary member, Cobham), Mr. D. Cooper (Croydon) and Mr. S. Sleet (Ottershaw). It was decided to send a letter of condolence to Mrs. Cooper.

LIBRARY REPORT

Mr. A. C. Hazelden, in his report, stated that the library had been out of action for six months owing to repairs to S. Nicolas' belfry. The Executive Committee had agreed to the production of a schedule of library property. Progress had been made in the repair of binding, in which Mr. Denyer was thanked for his services. Mr. Hazelden and his committee were re-elected, with the addition of Mr. Gordon Peters.

Mr. S. Joyce reported, as badge secretary, that 46 badges had been sold during the year, which made a profit of £1 3s. 3d. He was re-elected to his office with thanks for his services.

FREE CERTIFICATES

A proposition from the Chertsey District that membership certificates should be given free to new members joining from 1954 was defeated.

Major Bragg said that at Aldershot a Guild certificate, purchased by the tower, was given to each member on ringing his first quarter peal. This arrangement was warmly commended.

Mr. S. Joyce objected most strongly to free certificates. If distributed free they would not be valued, he said. They should not be given away free like election literature.

ANNUAL DINNER

Mr. W. H. Viggers reported on the success of the annual dinner, which was attended by a company of 158. He had provisionally booked the Lion Hotel, Guildford, for this year's dinner for October 16th. The meeting confirmed the booking and re-elected the Dinner Committee with thanks for their past services.

'RINGING WORLD' POSITION

A letter was read from the secretary of the Central Council calling attention to the need for more postal subscribers to keep 'The Ringing World' solvent.

Mr. T. W. White explained the present position, and said that the balance in hand on 1953 of approximately £40 was only secured by the generosity of ringers who sent donations with peals and quarter peals, and these amounted to £310. It was a magnificent gesture and the Editorial Committee much appreciated this assistance that had enabled them to tide over a difficult year. It meant, however, that the journal was living on charity. The only practical solution was a big increase in the number of postal subscribers. Costs of production had been analysed and it was found that for every additional copy purchased through the newsagent there was a margin of one farthing to meet the cost of running the paper. From a postal subscriber the committee received approximately 2d. a copy. The circulation was being well maintained; in fact, the sale for the last issue had only been exceeded once before by one of the Coronation issues. The committee were loath to increase the price to 6d.

In all Guilds to-day there were still a large number of ringers who did not take the journal and in consequence missed much of the fellowship its pages engendered. He asked conductors to make certain that each ringer ringing his first peal or quarter peal received a copy. It was one they would look back on in after years. Copies could be ordered when sending reports.

ANONYMOUS LETTERS

Mr. F. A. Munday drew attention to the ban on anonymous letters in 'The Ringing World' and asked the meeting to pass the following resolution for submission to the Central Council: 'That this Council deprecates the ban on the publication of anonymous letters in 'The Ringing World' imposed by the Editorial Committee and instructs the committee to remove it forthwith.'

Mr. J. R. Worrall, seconding, said many felt it was an unjust ban.

Mr. A. H. Pulling: These anonymous letters go back 'donkey's years.' I have always been against them. In the time of the late Master (Major Hesse) an anonymous letter was the means of losing a peal. If anyone reads an anonymous letter between the lines they can understand the reason why.

Mr. Munday said as a College Youth he felt that some of the members got unnecessarily shirty about a certain matter. An anonymous letter gave people a chance of expressing an opinion without being ostracised.

Mr. Leslie Hunter: If a person has not the courage to put his name and address to a letter he should not write it.

The motion was defeated by a large majority and Mr. Grover informed the mover and seconder that any individual member could submit a motion to the Council if he could find a seconder.

Mr. F. E. Hawthorne proposed a vote of thanks to the ladies who had prepared such an excellent tea, and Mr. C. Denyer expressed the thanks of the Guild to Mr. Grover and Miss Oliver for their services during the year.

The Master expressed his personal thanks to all the officers for a good year's work.

The Rev. C. G. Pearson, who conducted the Guild's service in St. Mary's Church during the afternoon, was thanked by Mr. Grover for his services.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Canterbury District Thank the Archbishop for His Tribute

The quarterly meeting of the Canterbury District was held at Whitstable on April 10th. Forty-five members attended from Boughton, Birchington, Canterbury, Faversham, Ospringe, Sturry, St. Laurence, Throwley, Selling, Whitstable, Deal and Wickhambreaux. Ringing was held during the afternoon prior to the service, which was conducted by the Vicar, Rev. C. E. Waynforth, who also gave an address. The attendance of the choir attached to the church was much appreciated and added to the beauty of the service.

Tea followed in the spacious Church Hall of All Saints', this being arranged by Mr. C. C. Dilnot, whose teas are a noted feature in this district. Ringers and choir all joined to make a happy gathering.

The usual business meeting was held, with Mr. J. A. Russell occupying the chair. One new resident member was elected, as were five new non-resident life members. For the next quarterly meeting, Boughton-under-Blean was selected, and Goodnestone got a narrow vote in favour of Great Mongeham for the by-meeting. The collection was voted to the Bell Rope Fund of the church.

Mention was made of the Archbishop's tribute paid to ringers in his Diocesan Notes, and it was unanimously agreed that a letter be sent to him from the district appreciating his words.

The Chairman thanked all those who had made the meeting possible, especially Mr. Dilnot for his never-failing help.

Further ringing was held after tea, and a close at about 8.30 p.m. brought to an end another very happy meeting at Whitstable.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Fifty years ago, the bells of St. Andrew's, Wickhambreaux, near Canterbury, were rehung. Included among the ringers that day were Messrs. S. Walter, J. Walter and S. White. They were again at their places in the belfry on Sunday, April 4th, for special ringing to commemorate the occasion.

At a combined practice of the Salisbury District recently, Mr. Mussell was introduced to Mrs. Cockell. Sweet Molly Malone ought to have been somewhere around.

Mr. Harold Walker has been appointed assistant carriage and wagon works manager at York. For the past three and a half years he has been working at Newcastle-upon-Tyne.

Boston Stump is famed the world over. An interesting anniversary was commemorated this month by Mr. F. Dewey, who has completed 40 years as a ringer in St. Botolph's Church, Boston. The number of steps he has climbed would almost constitute a record.

The hope is expressed by Mr. W. F. Stenson that Oddfellows attending the West Central Counties Group Conference at Newport, Salop, on May 15th, may be privileged to assist the ringers at St. Nicholas' Church to mark the safe return of the Queen.

Among the compliments paid to Mr. and Mrs. G. Halksworth, of Scarborough, on the occasion of their golden wedding was a peal of Stedman Triples at St. George's Church, Doncaster, on April 3rd, a tower of which he was Ringing Master for many years. Mr. Halksworth came to Doncaster for the occasion and was brought down by taxi to the church to listen to part of the ringing. The next evening he met Doncaster ringers and had a chat over old times. They were pleased to be able to persuade him to ring 7–8 to a course of Grandsire Triples on handbells.

Oldham has set a praiseworthy example to the country. The town has provided boards for the two Coronation peals rung in the borough. Both these have been unveiled by the Mayor.

Two new Surprise methods are introduced to the Exercise this week. Colmore Surprise was rung at Birmingham Cathedral and Byfleet Surprise at Willesden.

Mr. Terry Earle and his band, who rang the peal of 5,040 Netherseale Surprise Minor at Stisted, Essex, on April 3rd, will note with interest that a peal in the same method was rung on the bells on May 14th, 1939. In the record of the peal on page 244, please substitute Minor for Major. The error is regretted.

A crown of notoriety has been placed on the head of Mr. Herbert Rowley, of Horbury, Yorks, who, now 85, started ringing at Horbury in 1889. According to 'The Sunday Express' of April 11th, he has taken part in well over 7,000 peals! Now we know the incentive behind Mr. George E. Fearn and Mr. H. J. Poole—an endeavour to emulate this Yorkshire veteran!

The Guild of Clerical Ringers will assemble next Monday at the King's Head Hotel, Newport, for their annual tour. The party will consist of the following: The Revs. A. D. H. Allan, J. H. B. Andrews, D. Ballard, Canon C. Carew Cox, Preb. E. V. Cox, F. Ll. Edwards, R. P. Farrow, K. W. H. Felstead, M. C. C. Melville, F. A. Oswell (non-resident), I. J. Richards (non-resident), D. P. Roberts, R. D. St. J. Smith, A. G. G. Thurlow, H. F. Warren, E. B. Wood. The Revs. T. P. Hearn and W. A. Peel hope to join for a day, and E. G. Benson for Thursday afternoon and Friday. Mrs. D. P. Roberts will accompany the party.

PEAL RINGING IN BERKSHIRE

By the Rev. K. W. H. FELSTEAD

RINGING in Berkshire at the end of the 19th century will always be connected with the names of two of the most famous ringers of all times—the Rev. F. E. Robinson and J. W. Washbrook. The former was the first ringer to ring more than 1,000 peals, the latter, besides being a composer and the conductor of several (then) record lengths in various methods, was the first person to ring two tower bells to a peal—a feat which was disbelieved at first.

It is largely due to them that the towers with the largest numbers of peals in Berkshire are the 10 bells of Appleton (232) and the eight bells of Drayton (229). The former tower deserves special mention because it was the venue of many famous peals. The following are some of its records: The first peal of College Single Triples was rung there on December 2nd, 1873. It has held or holds the record for the longest lengths in several methods — 10,080 Double Norwich Major on January 28th, 1888; 13,265 Grandsire Caters on April 11th, 1888; 12.041 Stedman Caters on March 5th, 1888, and after this length had been beaten at Cheltenham the following May, 15,041 on December 31st, 1888. (1888 was certainly a vintage year!) This remained the record for 21 years until the 18,027 was rung at Loughborough in 1909. But Appleton beat even that in 1922 with the present record tower bell peal in the method of 21,363 —this was the longest peal ever rung (by one set of ringers) until the peal of 21,600 Bristol Surprise Major in November, 1950, at Over, Cheshire. Thus Appleton certainly deserves special mention. Actually just over half the peals at Appleton were rung before the first world war, but since 37 have been recorded since the last war, it is still a popular tower, as it has always been.

Drayton had its heyday whilst the Rev. F. E. Robinson was alive (he died in 1910). Thus 190 of the 229 peals were rung before 1914 (in 30 years). Since then the average has only been about one a year. Drayton, too, could claim a record length at one time—11,328 London Surprise Major on September 17th, 1896. This was beaten at King's Norton in 1903 with 14,112. Mr. Robinson became Vicar of Drayton in 1878 and I believe I am right in saying that he gave two bells at both Appleton and Drayton to make them ten and eight respectively (two tenors at Appleton and the treble and tenor at Drayton). Both these towers will have recorded peals before the period under review, Appleton a few in the 18th and 19th centuries and Drayton after Mr. Robinson became Vicar, so that both will be approaching the 250 mark. Before they do it may be possible to obtain an exact number for each. Apart from these, only two other churches have passed the 100 peal mark—Old Windsor with 132 and East Hagbourne with 102. In both cases the peals have been fairly evenly spread out over the 70 years.

TWELVE-BELL RINGING

Reading, St. Laurence, is the only twelve-bell church in the county. The number of peals since the last war (22) shows that, at the moment, there is greater activity than over the remainder of the period, although very rarely has a year gone by without at least one peal being rung. Eighty-two have been recorded here since 1881. Apart from the four towers with more than 100, only one other has more than this number—Boyne Hill with 86. In the latter case 60 of the peals were rung between 1882 and 1911. A few more were rung between 1924 and 1936 and there have been 11 since the war. Thus there have been ups and downs here. Besides Appleton there are two more ten-bell towers. Abingdon, St. Helen's, has produced 74 peals, the majority before 1914, and Newbury with 22. Twelve peals were rung here whilst it was an eight-bell tower between 1887 and 1932, four between 1933 and 1939 after it had been augmented, and six more since the war.

Apart from towers already mentioned, only three others have passed the 50 mark. In all, the majority of the peals were rung prior to 1914. They are Aldermaston (60, 39 between 1900 and 1914); Reading, St. Giles' (55, 46 before 1914, and only one in the past 21 years —in 1952); and Tilehurst (53, 45 before 1914, mostly between 1886 and 1899). Of the remaining eight-bell towers, Warfield is nearing the 50 mark with 47 with Wokingham next (42). The only other point of interest about these eight-bell towers is that Bray has not had a peal on the eight bells yet (I am taking it that it has eight bells from Dove's book), but only four on the six. No other church with eight bells remains to be 'conquered.'

There are 56 churches with six bells and 43 have had one or more peals rung at them. Clewer is easily at the top of the list with 37 (26 since the war). Only six others have reached double figures—Sandhurst (22), Binfield (17), Sunningwell (15) and Beenham-Valance, Finchampstead and Steventon with 10 each. The longest silence of any tower which has had a peal rung at it is Streatley, which has not appeared in the peal list since 1903. There are only 12 five-bell towers in the county, and four of these have each had a single peal on them — Braywood, North Moreton, Uffington and Wittenham Abbots.

I think it would be true to say that, at the moment, the Exercise is flourishing in Berkshire. All the ten- and eight-bell towers have had peals rung at them since the war, and the majority of the six-bell towers too. So carry on, Berkshire!

DR. HATCHER NEW SECRETARY OF K.C.A.

Dr. E. S. J. Hatcher was elected the new secretary of the Kent County Association at the annual meeting of the Association at Bromley on Easter Monday. He succeeds Mr. G. H. Spice, who has held the office for eight years.

Mr. John Willis (vice-president), who presided, said at the committee meeting that morning it was felt that they could not let Mr. Spice retire without some mark of their approval and voted him an honorarium.

The presentation of a cheque for £25 was made by Mr. E. H. Lewis, who said they all realised the great work Mr. Spice had done for the Association.

Thanking the members for their gift, Mr. Spice said he did not look for any reward. He hoped to be with them for a number of years to do 'a spot of ringing.'

Upon the proposition of Mr. B. Collison, the meeting elected Mr. Spice a vice-president of the Association.

There were two nominations for the post of hon. general secretary. Dr. Hatcher received 76 votes and Mr. B. J. Luck 61.

An extended report will appear in our next issue

The Vicar of Ockbrook, Derbyshire, the Rev. I. B. Ll. Gibbs, generously entertained to tea the band that rang a peal in his tower on April 3rd. Thanks are accorded to him through 'The Ringing World.'

THE QUEEN'S RETURN

Coastal Welcome From Kent

Speaking at the annual meeting of the Kent County Association at Bromley on Easter Monday, Mr. Edwin H. Lewis, president of the Central Council, said when he wrote to 'The Ringing World' concerning the Queen's return he stated that Her Majesty would land at 3 p.m. The official time was now 3.15 p.m. and the official request was that all bells be rung for a short time when the Queen stepped on shore.

'While I think it is very desirable to follow that plan, local consideration should be given to the effect of the bells on those people watching the television or listening to the wireless. Lengthy ringing should not interfere with wireless or television.'

The matter was introduced to the meeting by Mr. John Willis, who presided, and said it was the wish and hope of all members of the committee that all towers would ring some time that day, preferably in the afternoon. Mr. George Butcher had informed him that the Queen would be coasting along the north coast of Kent from 10 a.m. to 11 a.m., so it would be a graceful compliment that any towers near the river should ring about that time.

LONDON RINGING TOUR

The following observations on the Queen's return appeared in 'The Times':—

The City of London itself has a shortage of resident ringers. Of the 10 regulars of St. Michael's, Cornhill, for example, only one lives in central London. He is Mr. A. A. Hughes, who aims to assemble on May 15th a band of ringers who will ply the ropes for half an hour at various City churches in turn. Starting at St. Michael's, he hopes to go on to St. Botolph Without at Aldgate, St. Botolph's, Bishopsgate, St. Olave's, Hart Street, and St. Bartholomew-the-Great, Smithfield. This operation will probably last from before lunch until late afternoon.

Final plans have not been made at all the great London churches, but the Stedman Triples will certainly be heard from Westminster Abbey, either at the moment the Queen sets foot on Westminster Pier just after 3.15 p.m. or as she comes up the river. At St. Martin-in-the-Fields, 12 ringers will attempt to repeat their Coronation performance last year: starting at 12.30, for three and a half hours at the least, they will ring Stedman Cinques.

AT NORWICH

Notable among the many groups of provincial ringers are those of St. Peter Mancroft, Norwich. On May 15th the ringers there, led by Mr. Nolan Golden, will attempt a peal of Grandsire Cinques starting at 8 o'clock in the morning and lasting nearly four hours. 'After that,' says Mr. Golden, 'we shall go to King's Lynn and help there with another peal, Grandsire Caters. Just for fun, you know.' Such is the spirit of the bell ringers' greeting.

SHEFFIELD & DISTRICT SOCIETY

The April meeting of the above Society due to be held at South Anston was switched to Handsworth because of illness. In spite of this last-minute change, there was an excellent attendance, and over a dozen different Major methods, from Plain Bob to London, were rung: also Erin, Grandsire and Stedman Triples and rounds.

Cups of tea were provided free by the local company, who along with their Rector were gratefully thanked for enabling the meeting to be held at less than 24 hours' notice, and providing such a homely atmosphere for another happy meeting. N. C.

CLAVERLEY A POPULAR MEETING

'The Ringing World' Discussed

The combined Shropshire Association and Bridgnorth Branch of the Hereford Diocesan Guild meetings have become so popular in recent years that they are looked upon as 'hardy annuals'!

That at Claverley on April 10th was attended by about eighty ringers, some from Staffordshire and Worcestershire making up for those from Shropshire who were unable to reach the rather remote corner of the county.

Once there, however, everyone was enabled to enjoy the very good bells, by ringing them, or listening in the sunshine of the churchyard or the winding village street.

The Vicar, Rev. G. A. H. Rainbow, conducted a short service from the Hereford Diocesan Book, which was appreciated and enjoyed.

An ample tea was provided by the Claverley ringers and ladies, a small charge covering the use of the spacious village hall.

Mr. A. Pritchard, Ringing Master, Shropshire Association, voiced the thanks of all to clergy, organist and helpers. He also spoke of the expressed wish that all bells should be rung for the Queen's return on May 15th.

Referring to the recent correspondence about the financial difficulties of 'The Ringing World,' he thought there were several remedies. Bell founders depended upon continual work, which came about through keen ringers, and they might meet some of the charges. If the revenue from newsagents' copies was so small, these might be stopped, and supplied to each tower. If these measures were not sufficient, a charge for peals, or an increase in subscriptions to ringers' organisations might become necessary. He said that he hoped they would all support the Ringing Festival at Shrewsbury on July 10th.

Mr. W. H. Lloyd, Ringing Master, Hereford Diocesan Guild, seconded the thanks, which met with applause. The Vicar responded, and said that both he and many parishioners appreciated their bells, the fact that ringers came from a distance to ring them, and also the fact that they had such a good band themselves.

Returning to the towers, all the usual methods were rung, except that Yorkshire was tried instead of Cambridge and, after two failures, a good course resulted. Bristol came round, only the last lead being in any doubt.

Proceedings continued for many at 'the local,' where a room had been engaged. Here tune-ringing and ringers' gossip was accompanied by suitable refreshment, a fitting end to a most enjoyable day.

IRISH ASSOCIATION

A company of 90 attended the annual meeting of the Southern District at Kilkenny on St. Patrick's Day, when a competition was held for the 'R. R. Cherry Cup.' This was won by Mount St. Alphonsus with 52 faults, followed by Bandon with 112 faults. The judges were Mr. F. E. Dukes and Mr. Gibb.

Visitors were hospitably entertained to lunch and tea. At the business meeting the following officers were elected: Chairman, Mr. D. Benson, Limerick; hon. secretary and treasurer, Mr. G. Bingham, Limerick; assistant secretary, Mr. J. Benson, Limerick: Ringing Master, Mr. Roy McCormack, Cork: vice-president, Mr. F. Bogan, Cork: two members to act on Executive Council with the secretary, Mr. C. W. Galbraith, Limerick, and Mr. A. M. Holloway, Bandon.

After tea the gathering was addressed by the Bishop of Ossery, Dr. Phair.

ST. MARTIN'S GUILD

Ald. Paddon Smith Retires From Central Council

Following a custom of many years, the St. Martin's Guild for the Diocese of Birmingham held their first quarterly meeting of the year at Aston Parish Church on April 3rd. The Guild's special form of service was conducted by Canon F. F. Guy Warman, Vicar of Aston.

At the request of the Master, the business meeting was presided over by Vice-President Alderman Paddon Smith, J.P.

A letter was read from the Hon. Secretary of the Central Council of Church Bell Ringers, pointing out the low financial position of 'The Ringing World,' and appealing for greater support. It was agreed that a copy of the letter be sent to each tower in the Diocese.

Mr. Anthony Bailey, of Erdington Abbey, and Miss Judith Walker, of Packwood, were elected full ringing members, and Mr. William Davies, of Netherton, was made a life member. The tower elections (as life members) of Mr. Denis A. Bayles, of Chester-le-Street, and Mr. Patrick I. Chapman, of Kettering, were duly ratified.

Solihull was selected for the next meeting, which will be held on July 3rd.

Alderman Paddon Smith, J.P., felt that he could not stand for re-election as Central Council representative. He had represented the Guild on the Central Council for about forty years, but realised that, owing to many other commitments, he could no longer attend the meetings with the regularity that he would like. The Alderman proposed that the Guild's hon. secretary and treasurer (Mr. G. E. Fearn) be elected in his stead. This proposition was seconded by the Master, who thanked Alderman Paddon Smith for representing the Guild for so many years.

A letter was read from Mr. F. W. Rishworth, who was unfortunately in hospital, who, had he been able to attend the meeting, would have proposed an alteration in the rules, to provide for the conferment of honorary membership upon ringers whose membership of the Guild was of long standing. It was pointed out that the rules were in process of revision, and the matter was left for consideration at the next meeting.

The question of the suggested alteration in the title page of 'The Ringing World' was discussed, and the members were unanimous in their preference that the present style be maintained.

LEICESTER DIOCESAN GUILD

Veterans Honoured at Buckminster

Previous to the meeting of the Melton District, at Buckminster on April 10th, six members of the Framland Society met and rang a quarter peal of Plain Bob Minor as a compliment to Mr. W. Sharpe, of Hose, who had been a member of the Society for 50 years, and also to Mr. J. Dawson, who had rung on Buckminster bells regularly for 56 years. The band consisted of C. Matthews 1, H. Clayton 2, T. Templeton 3, J. Morris 4, F. J. Williams 5, A. W. Ward (conductor) 6.

The meeting was the largest Melton District meeting ever held. Altogether 72 ringers and friends were present from a very wide area. Towers represented were: Asfordby, Bottesford, Buckminster, Eaton, Hose, Kirby-Bellars, Melton Mowbray, Old-Dalby, Somerby, Waltham, Ancaster, Ashby-Folville, Barkestone, Caythorpe, Easton, Edenham, Grantham, Hough-on-the-Hill, Leicester Cathedral, Market Overton, Nottingham and West Wickham (Kent).

At 4.30 a short service was conducted by a Guild ringer, the Rev. F. De Burne, Vicar of Old-Dalby. J. H. C.

MAYOR UNVEILS CORONATION PEAL BOARD

Oldham's Example to the Country

Two peals were rung in Oldham for the Coronation—Grandsire Triples at St. Mark's, and Stedman Triples at St. Thomas', Moorside, the latter being rung by an all-local band. Both have been recorded on peal boards given by the town. The one at St. Mark's was dedicated last January, and the dedication of the board at St. Thomas' took place on April 10th during the meeting of the Rochdale Branch, Lancashire Association.

Once again the Mayor of Oldham (Alderman Frank Kenyon) unveiled the board and, in his speech, expressed the hope that a peal would be accomplished on the day of the Queen's return to Britain. The Vicar of Moorside (the Rev. J. Calderley) then said the dedication prayers. After a short touch of Stedman Triples the Mayor was given his second lesson on pulling a bell. He wasn't content this time with just the back stroke but kept attempting to catch the sally too!

About 30 ringers attended and the bells were kept going after tea until 9 o'clock. Apart from Branch members there were visitors from Manchester, Stoke-on-Trent (Staffs), Sowerby Bridge and Elland (Yorks). A good selection of methods was rung during the day, and immediately after tea our visiting friends delighted us with expert change ringing on handbells. F.P.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION

Eastern District at Hull

The spring meeting of the Eastern District was held at Hull on April 3rd and was attended by about 40 ringers representing 18 towers. The ring of six at St. Mary's Church, Lowgate, was made good use of during the afternoon and the fine ring of ten at Holy Trinity in the evening.

The service in Holy Trinity was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. L. O. Kenyon) who gave the address.

Tea was served in the Trocadera Cafe, followed by the business meeting presided over by the vice-president (Mr. A. E. Sellers). Apologies for absence were received from Messrs. R. R. Smith and T. H. Foster. Four new members were elected, viz: Miss A. Allen and Mr. D. Johnson (Kirk Ella), Mr. R. Sharpe (Hessle) and Mr. E. Ives (Patrington). An invitation to hold the annual meeting at Bridlington was accepted. The usual votes of thanks terminated an enjoyable meeting.

GIRL GUIDE RINGERS HAVE THEIR BOOKLET

The Girl Guides' Association has issued in its series, 'Hints on Girl Guide Badges,' a booklet entitled 'Bell Ringer.' It is very well compiled and illustrated and should stimulate interest in ringing.

The name of the author is not disclosed but he, or she, has captured to the full the spirit of the Exercise as the following paragraph indicates:—

'Physically, bellringing is more knack than hard labour, so do not be put off by people who say it is too hard for women and girls. Mentally, it demands complete concentration. Its fascination is unending and the satisfaction gained from ringing successfully is enormous. It takes some time to become master of a bell and to learn the elements of change ringing, so slick ability, of which the Founder told us so often, is a very necessary characteristic of the good ringer.

'Again, as in Guiding, there is a wonderful spirit of friendship amongst ringers, and whatever tower one visits one will find a welcome and a chance to ring.'

'Bell Ringer' is published by Brown, Son and Ferguson, Ltd., 52-58, Darnley Street, Glasgow; price 6d.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

VIEWS ON 'RINGING WORLD' FINANCES

A SIXPENNY 'RINGING WORLD'

Dear Sir,—Most of your readers must know by now that the finances of their paper are in a far from happy state. The situation demands drastic action. The first step, if I may suggest it, is to raise the price immediately to 6d. a copy. After all, to take one item, newsprint has jumped in price from £10 per ton pre-war to £50 per ton to-day. In the same time 'The Ringing World' has increased by one penny.

In addition to increased subscription rates, action could be taken to cut out so many middle men. If newsagents, wholesalers, publishers and transportation fees were cut right out, the increased revenue would put the paper right no its feet.

If any readers have the complaint that it would cost a little more to have a postal copy, all I can say is that they don't deserve the service they get through it.—Yours faithfully,

M. J. BUTLER.

Southampton.

INCREASE THE PRICE

Dear Sir,—I thoroughly agree with your correspondents, Mr. Claude Rush and Mr. W. Frank Stenson; 'The Ringing World' should be entirely self-supporting, and should not depend on charity.

I suggest that the price of the paper be raised to 6d. POST FREE. This would mean an increase of only 6d. to quarterly subscribers, and 3s. 6d. to annual subscribers. At present one is urged to take the paper by post; but if one does this, it arrives too late on Friday morning to read before one goes to work (sometimes not until second post) and heavily creased. For this one pays an extra five shillings a year, and pays in advance. If the subscription were raised to 6d. post free, all would pay the same, and those who preferred the obvious advantages of dealing through a newsagent would not feel that they were failing to support the paper as they should.—Yours faithfully,

C. W. WOOLLEY.

Bushey Heath, Herts.

DO NOT RAISE THE PRICE

Dear Sir,—I note with interest the correspondence with respect to 'The Ringing World's' finances. I fully endorse the statements and suggestions made by Mr. Rush. Undoubtedly the ONLY fully effective remedy is a substantial increase in the number of postal subscribers, and every ringer who appreciates the value of our journal should make a wholehearted effort to help to attain this objective.

I regret that I am unable to accept Mr. Stenson's view that the price should be raised; this is false economy because those who, for example, rely on parental allowances until qualification or are otherwise of limited means must count carefully every item of expenditure and, particularly if they have other hobbies as well as campanology, it might be that cancellation of their order for 'The Ringing World' would be necessary if such a course were taken. This would indeed be regrettable.

With reference to the title cover design, why should we be 'old stick-in-the-muds'? Variety is the spice of life. Let us see some of the new designs, and if we STILL prefer the present heading it will still be possible to return to it. Perhaps if a few of the designs were published a postal ballot of readers could be held.—Yours, etc.,

ALAN PENDLEBURY.

Guildford, Surrey.

'THE RINGING WORLD'

Dear Sir,—There is no doubt whatever that it would be a calamity for the Exercise if 'The Ringing World' had to cease production. The time has obviously come for drastic action. I therefore make the suggestion that every Association, Guild or Society up and down the country should increase the amount of its annual subscription by the modest sum of one shilling, such increase to be paid over each year to the funds of 'The Ringing World.' From 15,000 ringers this would produce £750. I have always contended that ringers' annual subscriptions are too low and here is an opportunity for members of the Exercise to save what is after all their own newspaper.—Yours very truly,

FRED BENNETT.

Wombourn, near Wolverhampton.

KEEP THE FAMILIAR SKYLINE

Dear Sir,—I do hope the Editorial Committee won't feel bound to alter the heading of 'The Ringing World' with its familiar skyline. If it is necessary to have 2 advertisements on the front page, could they be just underneath, or at the foot, thus either shortening the leading article or pushing a little more of it overleaf? I'm not a commercial artist, but wouldn't the square of larger type and different outlay show up more and strike the eye more alongside the ordinary print than alongside the heading, which we don't READ, but like to take in at a glance? Some newspapers have little advertisements in the top corners, but does anyone ever read them?—Yours sincerely,

YVONNE, L. ELOIE, Hon. Sec.,
Salisbury Branch, S.D.G.R.

ANONYMOUS LETTERS

Sir,—Can it be that your correspondents on this subject are confusing anonymous letters with letters written above a nom-de-plume, but whose writers are known to the Editor? So far as I am aware, no reputable paper will consider publishing a really anonymous letter, and let us hope, sir, that, in the interests of our paper's status, you will continue to ban any such correspondence.—Yours faithfully,

A. R. POYNTZ.

[NOTE.—The ban applies to letters that appear in 'The Ringing World' anonymous to the reader. Correspondence without the name and address of the sender is automatically consigned to the waste paper basket.—ED.]

ST. JOHN THE DIVINE, LEICESTER

Dear Sir,—Apropos the recent correspondence regarding the Church of St. John the Divine, Leicester, one wonders how much interest would have been taken had there been no bells in the tower.—Sincerely yours,

ERNEST J. ROWE.

Tottenham, N.15.

[NOTE.—There would have been no mention in 'The Ringing World' because it is devoted exclusively to bells, ringers and ringing. There are three Church of England newspapers and it is not our policy to compete with them in the matter of general church news. The future of St. John the Divine, Leicester, is a matter of interest to hundreds of ringers who have visited this church and rung on its bells.—ED.]

THE ARCHBISHOP AND BELLS

Dear Sir,—I am sure all ringers who read the extracts from the April Diocesan Notes written by the Archbishop of Canterbury would feel moved that the Primate of All England had felt it worthy to pay tribute and express appreciation of the service which is given in the belfries of our land. I am glad that His Grace only feels a visit to a church is complete when he has visited the belfry. It is evident that the Archbishop considers the belfry is quite an important part of the church.

It is grand when a prominent churchman writes like this, for does it not augur the fact that the time is passing when the belfry was regarded as a water-tight compartment. How many church members or even church council members can say they have visited the local belfry or know any details about their bells. The leader of a tower and all his ringers have an obligation to the parishioners to tell or show them when possible the intricacies of bell ringing, for are not new members of a tower recruited from the parishioners themselves?

Incidentally, in this week's 'Radio Times' is a letter which reads:—

> 'It is very seldom that church bells can be heard on the radio, and in view of this grave omission it would indeed be pleasant if the bells could be broadcast for a few minutes before service. Let us be taken to the spire or tower before we are shown to our pew.'

I suppose the B.B.C. know what is best to precede a religious service from experience and by the advice of experts. On the other hand, however, why is a recording of Bow Bells given as the interval signal to all programmes and then when a religious service is on the air it is only rarely preceded by a peal of bells?

I do not wish to begin a controversy on this matter, but I do feel that most ringers and many members of the public would agree that where possible a religious service should begin if only for one or two minutes by the ringing of bells. Has it not often been said by preachers and others that the music of bells, when one is going to church or when one is going to listen to a broadcast service, has the effect of placing the mind more in conformity with the things of the spirit. If this is so, and I once heard an eminent preacher say words to this effect, then bells have a unique purpose in the scheme of our national heritage.—Yours sincerely,

Elland, Yorks. PAUL BIRKETT.

ARCHBISHOP OF CANTERBURY AND RINGING

Dear Sir,—The Archbishop of Canterbury's generous tribute to bell ringers prompts me to mention what may not be generally known, that he himself once learned to handle a bell.

I exchanged letters with him a year ago in expectation that the Oxford University Society might claim to have taught him, especially as he was an undergraduate at Exeter College, the college of the late Rev. F. E. Robinson. But His Grace, in replying, said that he learned his ringing while a student at Wells Theological College.—Yours faithfully,

R. B. MEADOWS.

FALSE PEAL OF YORKSHIRE SURPRISE MAJOR

Dear Sir,—I wish to withdraw a peal of Yorkshire Surprise Major rung at Writtle, Essex, on Saturday, November 21st, 1953. On re-checking the figures I have found it to be false. It was given to me as a 5,088 Superlative, and to this method it is true. It was a careless oversight on my part, and I wish to tender my humble apologies to the rest of the band and the composer, especially more so as there were three 'firsts' in the peal.—Yours sincerely. PERCY GREEN.

Chelmsford.

RINGERS' SAD MEETING AT OVERSEAL

Falling Masonry Kills Chorister

The tragedy at Overseal, which has been briefly reported in 'The Ringing World,' in which a section of the parapet of the bell tower crashed through the roof of the nave and fatally injured a chorister who a few minutes before had been singing for a wedding, coincided with a meeting of the Midland Counties Guild in that tower.

The bells were ringing and the accident happened as the bridal party were posing in the church doorway to be photographed. The heavy sandstone masonry hurtled some 50ft. from the castellated parapet of the bell tower. Two gaping holes, one on each side of the roof at the west end of the nave, were torn, as masonry, slates and shattered timber crashed into the church, completely demolishing the baptismal font.

Mr. J. W. Cotton, secretary of the Midland Counties Guild, gave this account of the tragedy to the Press:—

'Members of the Guild were in the tower ringing at the time. We had just started to ring as the bridal party went out, the bells being pulled off as the bride went under the tower.

'We had just gone into a touch of Stedman Triples when we heard a crash. We didn't know what it was, but we stopped ringing. Then we heard appeals from downstairs to stop the bells—we had already done so.'

Mr. Cotton said that no more than half a dozen changes of Stedman Triples had been rung when the accident occurred, and the whole of the ringing that had taken place that afternoon had not lasted more than about two minutes. On a Guild visit to a tower they would normally have been ringing up to 8 p.m.

In addition to members of the Overseal band there were present representatives of the Midland Guild from Burton (St. Modwen's), Ashby, Measham, Packington, Netherseal, Lullington, Coleshill, Ticknall, Repton and Yoxall towers. The ringing and meeting was cancelled. The ringers took an early tea and dispersed.

The Rector (the Rev. Dr. W. J. Beale) said the accident was no doubt due to a subsidence. Cracks had been appearing in a number of places and he supposed they had affected the tower.

'The bridegroom was an old choirboy and the choir had turned out for him. We had just finished the wedding and I was in the vestry. I was just completing the register, and closed it when I heard this awful crash.'

Services at St. Matthew's, Overseal, Church have been suspended for the time being.

The dead chorister was Mr. William Thomas Wright (42), of 19, Burton Road, Overseal. He was employed at Donisthorpe Colliery.

COAL BOARD'S DENIAL OF SUBSIDENCE

At the inquest on Mr. William Thomas Wright, the chorister who was killed by the falling masonry, the National Coal Board disputed that the accident was caused by mining subsidence. A verdict of 'Accidental death' was returned.

Mr. Lawrence Jenkins, for the Coal Board, said that minerals underneath the church had not been worked. There were recent workings within 175 yards, but a pillar of coal had been left under the church. Repairs to the church in 1948 were for damage between 1889—when coal working began—and 1912.

Dr. W. J. Beale, the Rector, told the Coroner that the church, including the tower, was completely renovated by the Coal Board. He was perfectly satisfied afterwards about its safety. Since the war bells had been rung at least twice a week.

HERE AND THERE

YOUTHFUL RINGER'S RAPID STRIDES

A peal in seven Minor methods was rung at Tunstall, Kent, on Saturday, and one of the band was Edward H. Spice, a boy of 14, who scored his first peal and achieved the honour of being the youngest ringer in the Kent Association to ring a peal of Minor in seven methods with a bob bell. He comes of a family of ringers . . . but, even so, Master Spice's performance is an extremely noteworthy one when it is known that he commenced change ringing only last Christmas.

LADIES ATTEMPT A PEAL

At Twyford, Berks, on Easter Monday, a peal of Grandsire Triples was attempted by members of the Ladies' Guild, but it came to an untimely end after a fourth start. Those taking part were: Mrs. Whittington 1, Miss K. Holifield (now Mrs. A. E. Lock) 2, Miss B. Stilwell 3, Miss E. Belcher 4, Miss E. Goodship (Mrs. F. M. Mitchell) 5, Miss M. E. Chillingworth 6, Miss E. K. Parker (Mrs. Fletcher) (conductor) 7, Miss E. Jones 8.

GENEROUS GIFTS

Mr. J. T. Rickman, whose generosity has placed St. Peter's Church, Brighton, in possession of a fine peal of ten bells, is an enthusiastic ringer, who has been a follower of the art for a quarter of a century or more. Among other Associations, he is a member of the Cambridge University Guild. . . . Some few years ago he and his revered mother gave two trebles to Southover Church, Lewes (where Mr. Rickman rang his first peal), and defrayed the bulk of the cost of rehanging the old eight in a new frame.

[The old eight, tenor 10½ cwt., on which much ringing history had been made, were replaced by a peal of ten with a 25½ cwt. tenor.]

OBITUARY

MR. E. DYSON

Formerly of Ashford, Mr. Edward Dyson, who died recently at Torquay, aged 80, was an Ashford Parish Church choirboy, and later joined the bell ringers.

He was on the bank staff of Pomfret Burra and Co. (now Lloyds Bank), and in 1910 went to Worthing to become a bank under-manager. He retired 20 years ago as a bank manager.

Mr. George H. Head writes:—

Ted, as we knew him, with his brother Jim, was a member of a young band formed at Ashford about 60 years ago. They were both fine choirmen and good ringers, and both held good positions in their occupations. I am not sure that Ted rang any peals, but I have records of 720's of Minor that were rung at that time, also a quarter peal of Grandsire Triples by the following: F. Chapman 1, E. Dyson 2, H. N. Horton 3, F. Phillpot 4, G. Head 5, T. Tabrett 6, A. J. Dyson (first quarter as conductor) 7, W. Ansell 8. First quarter by all except 6 and 7.

Your correspondent has grateful memories of the help received from these two fine men. Jim was also a fine cricketer and, I believe, is still living at Maidstone.

MR. VICTOR JARRETT

Mr. N. F. Moxon, president of the Barnsley and District Society, writes:—

The church bell ringers at Cawthorne were very shocked to hear of the death of Mr. Vic Jarratt. During the latter part of the war he worked in the R.E. camp at Cawthorne and always attended our ringing practices. Vic had a charming personality and was a true gentleman. He was a good musician and I shall always be impressed by an incident during his stay at Cawthorne. After a walk one evening Vic joined us in a bite of supper, and in the course of conversation stated he had heard a church clock striking the hour on a bell with a pitch of B flat and inquired the name of the church. I was taken aback for the moment, but on consulting the Yorkshire Annual Report found he was perfectly correct and he had been near to Hoylandswaine Church, the tenor of which is in B flat!

Although Vic quickly joined in with our selection of Minor methods (regular and irregular), he never mastered our close leads.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Two school peals have been rung. One past and four present members of Bedford Modern School rang a peal of Doubles at Oakley, and a band composed of two members of Dame Alice Harpur School for Girls and four of Bedford Modern School rang a peal of Minor at Sharnbrook. This was the first combined school peal to be rung for the Bedfordshire Association.

Mr. A. E. Hall, who has for many years been verger of Peckleton, celebrated his golden wedding on April 4th. Owing to transport difficulties it was not possible to ring a peal at Peckleton, but an excellent one was rung at Croft. Mr. Hall is a member of the Vergers' Guild, and three fellow members of the Guild took part. It was also a birthday peal for Mr. George A. Charlton.

THE SILENT BELLS OF YORK

By HAROLD WALKER

At one time York could truly have been described as a city of bells, for within the confines of the old city it had the ring of twelve at the Minster, one ring of eight, and five rings of six. Now only the Minster bells can be rung and two sixes chimed.

Soon, however, one of the now silent sixes will be moved to one of the suburbs and will again be hung for ringing. Messrs. J. Taylor and Co. have recently removed the old six from the derelict church of St. Mary, Bishophill Senior, and are to rehang them in a new frame, with new fittings, at the Parish Church of St. Stephen, Acomb.

St. Mary's bells date from 1770 and each is inscribed:—

'Pack & Chapman, of London, Fecit. 1771.'

The recorded weights and diameters are:—

Treble.—5 cwt. 27 lb. 27 inches.
2nd.—5 cwt. 2 qr. 21 lb. 30 inches.
3rd.—6 cwt. 1 qr. 14 lb. 32 inches.
4th.—7 cwt. 1 qr. 2 lb. 34 inches.
5th.—8 cwt. 3 qr. 21 lb. 37 inches.
Tenor.—11 cwt. 3 qr. 17 lb. 41 inches.

At present there are three bells in the tower at Acomb, but they are of indifferent tone. The oldest is to be retained and the other two disposed of. The inscriptions are:—

'Recast by John Warner and Sons, London, 1882.'
'Jesus Be Our Speed.'
'Jesus Be Our Speed. 1633. W.O.'
Recast by John Warner and Sons, London, 1885.'
'Venite Exultemus Domino. SS Ebor. 1662.
Given by M. A. Hale.
R. P. T. Tennent, Vicar.'

The first was originally cast by James Smith, who, at that time, had the York foundry in partnership with Abraham Smith and William Curedon. The second is by William Oldfield and the third originally by Samuel Smith.

ST. MARTIN-LE-GRAND

So at last a start has been made to get some of the long silent bells ringing again. It is hoped that very soon plans will be formulated to restore the eight at the church of St. Martin-le-Grand, Coney Street. This church was burned by fire bombs during a serious air raid on the city on April 29th, 1942. The nave and tower were gutted and only the south aisle was saved. Three of the bells were broken and the others damaged; all need recasting.

The committee appointed by the Archbishop to inquire into the future of the church has recommended the south aisle, together with the tower and bells, be restored as a City War Memorial. The War Damage Commission has agreed, in principle, to the recommendation.

It is to be regretted the bells had not been in a ringable condition for some fifty years before the fire. The inscriptions are:—

Treble.—'E Dono Amicorum Societatis Campanistarum Ebor 1730.' (Given by friends of the York Society of Bellringers.)

Second.—'E Dono Societatis Campanistarum Ebor 1730.' (Given by the York Society of Bellringers.)

Third.—'Invoca Deum 1729.' (Call upon God.)

Fourth.—'Te Deum Laudamus. 1729.' (We praise Thee O God.)

Fifth.—'Vos Jubilate Deo. 1729.' (Let us sing unto the Lord.)

Sixth.—'Gloria in Altissimis Deo. 1729.' (Glory to God in the Highest.)

Seventh.—'Hoec Campanarum Concentio E Dono Gulielmi Thompson Hujus Parochiae. William Dobson, Esquire, Lord Mayor. Henry Baynes, Esquire, Alderman. John Marsden, Samuel Waud, Commissioners. John Mayor. Samuel Waugh, Churchwardens. 1729.' (These five bells were given by William Thompson of this Parish.)

Tenor.—'Sonitu Rescipiscite Moesto Ante Jacetis Humo.' Richard Warneford, Vicar. John Mayor, Sen., John Busfield, Churchwardens. 1730.'

On each bell: 'E. Seller, Ebor.'

Prior to 1729 there was only one bell in the tower, this being the present tenor, the Latin inscription on which was reproduced on the recast bell of 1730. This inscription is fairly common, as is also its English equivalent:—

'All men who hear my mournful sound
Repent before you lie in ground.'

YORK SOCIETY OF BELLRINGERS

In 1729 five bells were presented by a Mr. William Thompson, described as a 'Prothonotary,' to make a ring of six, and as such they were rung for the first time on Ascension Day (May 15th), 1729, and:—

'were judged by most competent Gentlemen of Music in the City, and hereabout, and approved by them to be tunable and very fine notes.'

In spite of this approval however, the old bell had to be recast in the following year at the same time as the two trebles were cast at the expense of the York Society of Bellringers and friends to complete the octave. The cost of the work was £59 10s.

At this time bellringing was practised by gentlemen as a recreation and fashionable sport, and the bells would make a handy alternative to the much heavier Minster bells. In 1733 the same Society made a generous contribution to the cost of rehanging the Minster bells.

Peals of Grandsire Triples were rung on the bells in 1830, 1849, 1850, and in 1852 both 'amateurs' and presumably 'professionals' took part in a peal, as witness the following:—

Easter Sunday morning, 11th April, 1852.
5,040 Grandsire Triples, in 2 Hours and 45 Minutes.

An Amateur	Treble
R. Howard	2nd
Jas. Emmerson	3rd
John Precious	4th
?	5th
Thos. Cooper	6th
M. West, Conductor	7th
J. Wadsworth	Tenor

194 Bobs and 46 Singles.
Wm. Harrison, Referee.

The first peal of Kent Treble Bob Major by local ringers was rung on these bells in 1862, and the last peal on the bells was rung by the York Minster Society. This was on the 9th October, 1888, and was also of Kent Treble Bob.

The above mentioned Archbishop's committee has stated that the restored ring would make a useful practice ring for the Minster ringers. Never were truer words spoken, and the York ringers are looking forward to the day when the scheme is brought to fruition.

ST. JOHN-THE-EVANGELIST

Another silent ring of six is at the church of St. John-the-Evangelist, Micklegate. Several in this ring are Pre-Reformation bells. The inscriptions are:—

Treble.—'Sancte.' Also upon it is a shield, with three helms.

Second.—'Maria Come Propicia Sis (illegible) Virgo Maria, A.D. Mccccviii.'

Third.—'S. Nichila-us Ad Loca Sancte Trahe Betris Ros Sc Nicholae.'

Fourth.—'I H C' is surmounted by a crown. The rest of the inscription is illegible. The foundry mark is a shield containing a cross crowned.

Fifth.—'Jesus Be Our Speed. 1633.'

Tenor.—No inscription.

The fifth was cast locally by William Oldfield.

Three of these bells came from the church of St. Nicholas-without-Walmgate Bar, which was destroyed during the siege of the city in 1644. The bells were taken down by the Parliamentary soldiers with intent to recast them into cannon, but Lord Fairfax prevented this being done. The church was not rebuilt as the parish was joined to that of St. Lawrence's, whose church had also been seriously damaged. The bells were hung in St. John's tower in 1653 and, with the bells already there, formed the first chime of six to be hung in any of the city parish churches.

For many years the church has been disused and it is now closed. It was handed over to the City Corporation in 1939 with the intention it be pulled down. Fortunately, however, it has now been taken over by the York Civic Trust, which body has undertaken emergency repairs to preserve it for future use. It has been suggested it would house an ecclesiastical museum.

The three bells from the church of St. Nicholas have been offered by the Archbishop to the parish of St. Lawrence-with-St. Nicholas and New Fulford. It was hoped they would form part of a ring of six at the modern church of St. Lawrence, which is the largest parish church in the city. At present the heavy cost involved weighs heavily against the transfer being made.

THE CHURCH AT KING'S COURT

An interesting ring of six which will be heard no more in York is that which was at the church of Holy Trinity or Christ Church, King's Court, which church was pulled down in 1937. The inscriptions are:—

Treble.—'Te Deum Laudamus. 1693. SS Ebor.' (We praise Thee O God.)

Second.—'Jubilate Domino. 1681. SS Ebor.' (Sing joyfully to the Lord.)

Third.—'Laudate Iah Quie Bonum Et Amoenum Est Psallire Deo Nostro. 1659.' (Praise the Lord, for it is a good and pleasant thing to sing praises unto our God.)

Fourth.—'Johannes Eternis Annis Resonet Domino.' (Oh! that John may chime the Lord's praises to the end of time.)

Fifth.—'Sit Nomen Domino Benedictum.' (Blessed be the name of the Lord.)

Tenor.—'Santa Margareta Ora Pro Nobis.' (Saint Margaret pray for us.)

The first two were cast by Samuel Smith at his foundry on Toft Green, York.

The third bears a shield containing a cross with a bell on either side. This was the foundry mark of William Cureton, who was in partnership with Abraham Smith on Toft Green. The Rev. C. B. Norcliffe, in his 'Account of Holy Trinity, King's Square,' states:

'A.D. 1659. September 26th, a new bell being made out of the two lesser belonging to the church of St. Lawrence, without Walmgate Bar, was hung up in the steeple of Christ Church, being the least of four there. It weighs 5 cwt. 3 qrs. 9 lbs., and was cast on Toft Green, by one William Cureton, at the procurement of Abraham Smith, who had 20s. per cwt. for casting the same, the parish finding the metal. Thomas Ragge, of Gainsborough, Lincolnshire, made the bell frame, the timber of which was bought at

Healaugh. Leonard Thompson, the Lord Mayor, gave a piece of timber out of the Minster for a bell yoke. The total cost of the bell and frame was £40 8s. 3d.'

The other three are Pre-Reformation bells and were, apparently, all cast at the same time. Upon each is a shield—the keys of St. Peter in saltire—above a dolphin, below a laver, on the right a garb or cornsheaf, on the left a bell. This was the foundry mark of Henry Jordan, 1450-1470, who had his foundry in London. It seems strange that bells for York had to be cast by an outside founder when, at that time, the city was the centre of bellfounding in the north. The tenor has a diameter of 3ft. 5½in., and weighs about 12 cwts.

BELLS EARMARKED FOR MIDDLESBROUGH

The above mentioned church of St. Lawrence was almost destroyed in the seige of the city in 1644, and it remained in a state of ruin until 1669, when the work of re-erection was begun. So the parish would have no use for its bells and, no doubt, disposed of some in order to add to its restoration funds.

Extracts from the churchwardens' account:—

1665. July 4. Pd. for ringing for ye Dutch victory. 3s. August 5. Pd. for ringing when the Duke of York came in. 2s.

1666. June 9. Pd. for ringing for the victory over the Dutch. 8d.

1677. Dec. 6. Pd. the ringers at Prince of Orange marriage. 4s.

1681. A new bell to be treble to the rest that are there provided.

1684. Mr. Samuel Smith shall be paid the money owing him by the parish out of the first collection of the assessment.

1688. Feb. 17. Pd. for ringing when King William and Queen Mary were proclaimed. 5s.

1689. April 11. Pd. on the Coronation Day for ringing. 5s.

1690. July 19. for ringing for news of ye conquest of ye Boyn. 5s.

1692. For ringing upon ye first report of beating ye French. 1s.

1696. Sep. 8. Pd. ye ringers when mint began to coyne. 1s.

In 1861 the church, which stood at one end of The Shambles, was taken down and rebuilt, and in 1885 the parish was united with that of St. Sampson's, but from that time the church was unused and uncared for. Finally it was decided to demolish and so improve the congestion and appearance of King's Square. The work was carried out in 1937, when the site was paved over and preserved as an open space.

The fate of the bells was decided at a Consistory Court held in York Minster in 1936. Turning down several applications for single bells to be given to various parishes the Chancellor directed the bells to be preserved as a ring of six and, until such time as a home could be found for them, they be stored in the custody of the Dean and Chapter of York Minster. Finally, they were given to the parish of St. Barnabas, Linthorpe, Middlesbrough, where a new church had been built and sufficient money was in hand to build a suitable tower.

The advent of the second World War prevented the tower being built, but as the bells had been sent to Loughborough work on them had to be stopped and they were put in store; Messrs. Taylor and Co. have had custody of them ever since. It is not know when the scheme to buiild the tower will be started again, but it is obvious a considerable sum of money will be required in addition to that raised before the war.

THE RINGING WORLD

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

No. 2247 Vol. L. FRIDAY, APRIL 30, 1954 Registered at the G.P.O. for transmission as a newspaper 4d.

THE DISTRICT HERITAGE

MR. G. H. SPICE, in his concluding report as hon. general secretary of the Kent County Association, took as his theme the district heritage. Each of the six districts enjoys its own autonomy, but together they form a miniature 'commonwealth.' The story of this 'commonwealth' he told in a graphic form in his report.

'There is first the Ashford District away in the south-east stretching down to the coast at Folkestone and Hythe, including among its towers such glories as Ashford itself, Tenterden and Wye, with a tradition for ringing at Willesborough unsurpassed in the county, where still flourishes our only living founder member, Mr. Edward Ruck, "Old Ted" as he would have us say.

Next the Canterbury District bounded by sea to the north and east, among its fifty towers the varied sea places of Whitstable, of oyster fame, Margate, the holiday haunt of many thousands (though only a stone's throw from quiet Birchington and the curious Quex Park), and Dover, whose white cliffs emit welcome to our shores; and at its heart the great Cathedral City, and in its ringing the real family spirit, reflected in the many honorary members.

In complete contrast think of the Lewisham District, our hosts to-day, industrial and merging into Greater London, bristling with towers in the crowded places, Beckenham, Dartford, Erith and Woolwich to name but a few; an area where many of our Association records were accomplished, and where Crayford and the name of Barnett have brought us honour.

The central Maidstone District, having common boundary with the other five, goes to the opposite extreme in being solidly rural with thirty satellites spread round the majestic Church of All Saints. In former years James Barham and the Lenham Youths brought lasting fame with the extent peal of Bob Major at Leeds, a ringing landmark; maybe Barham's spirit engenders the adventurous outlook of the present time.

In the north the Rochester District, stretching from Gravesend to Sittingbourne and embracing the Medway towns, combines urban and rural qualities in happy proportions, with the Isle of Sheppey lending further variety. Here I step back into the shoes I once wore, and which Mr. Mitchell wore before me, and it is satisfying to find them in good repair and giving excellent service.

Lastly to the Tonbridge District in the south-west, distinguished by having a lady secretary, I believe the first ever in the Association, to whom we wish great success in an area which, besides the home at Westerham of the Prime Minister, Sir Winston Churchill, includes such historically famous places as Chiddingstone, Hever and Penshurst, and among its bells the fine six at Horsmonden, where ring the family Lambert.

My message is that you should profit from your district heritage, and that you should feel encouraged to develop your district activities. For your influence there will determine the prevailing atmosphere for ringing, and will do more than anything else to ensure that the sounds of recorded bells will not emanate from more churches than necessity justifies. Our very strong ally is the love of bells deeply ingrained in the hearts of our countrymen, of which we have had abounding evidence in recent years, and which has called us to ring out the bells when the Queen sets foot again on English soil after her global tour. What greater assurance could there be than this and, since my health dictates it, what more appropriate moment for stepping out of the shoes I have worn these last eight years?'

THE KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION AT BROMLEY

RETURN VISIT AFTER 20 YEARS — MEMBERSHIP DROP AFTER POST-WAR BULGE — PEALS WERE LESS, BUT 42 CONDUCTORS — CHANGES IN OFFICERS — EASTER MONDAY MEETINGS QUESTIONED

EASTER Monday was spent by many members of the Kent County Association this year at Bromley. The bombed Church of SS. Peter and Paul's has been partially rebuilt in a modern style of architecture which made a deep impression on the large congregation of ringers and their friends who attended the service conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. W. N. M. Walton). A touch on handbells preceded the service, during which the lesson was read by Mr. E. H. Lewis, a vice-president of the Association.

An excellent lunch was served at the Royal Bell Hotel. Mr. John Willis presided over a company numbering 175 and the guests included the Mayor of Bromley and the Vicar.

In a short speech of welcome the Mayor recalled that it was 20 years since the Kent County Association visited Bromley. He mentioned that the foundation stone of the new church was laid by the Queen when Princess Elizabeth.

The Vicar added to the Mayor's welcome. Mr. E. H. Lewis congratulated Bromley on its new church. He was so pleased they went in for something modern and not 'churchwarden Gothic.' It was sad to think that the old Jannaway bells were gone; they were the only complete ring by this foundry. Nevertheless, they had a very good ring in their place.

Luncheon was followed by the annual meeting. Mr. Willis was an expeditious chairman and he was supported by Mr. G. H. Spice (hon. secretary), Mr. F. M. Mitchell (hon. treasurer) and Mr. E. H. Lewis and Mr. E. S. Ruck (vice-presidents).

Apologies were received from Messrs. S. Walter, G. H. Cross, Peter Bond (in Wales for Easter), P. A. Corby and Mr. Fred White.

Mr. G. H. Spice, in his report (reference to part of which appears on the front page of this issue), stated that last year a full complement of 42 meetings was carried out.

MEMBERSHIP DROP

Practising members last year fell by 99 to 897. Several factors contributed towards a trend which became visible last year when, after four successive years in which numbers exceeded the traditional four figures, membership dropped to 996. One reason was that fluctuations spread over not one, but several years. For instance, it took four years after the war to build up again to the 1,000 mark, and this was really an amazing speed. It was made possible by the abnormally high recruitment rate, giving rise to a bulge which was bound to subside. In doing so it had contributed to the present decline.

'Some of you may think that the increase in subscription to 3s. had played a part, but if so I feel it is only a minor one. Had there been a really unfavourable reaction to this wise and necessary step the fall in membership would have been much heavier. . . . We all should be concerned about the fall in membership, but we need not be alarmed so long as we realise our individual and District responsibility.'

Subscriptions were received from 80 honorary members compared with 88 in 1952, and new practising members numbered 125 compared with 148, District contributors being: Ashford 11 adult 1 junior, Canterbury 11 and 12, Lewisham 14 and 5, Maidstone 20 and 6, Rochester 24 and 3, Tonbridge 13 and 5.

LOSSES BY DEATH

The company stood while the following were remembered: C. Head (Wye), Robert Edwards (Tenterden), Joseph Neve (Rolvenden), Randall G. Port (Canterbury, District Ringing Master 1945-50), Percy W. Smith (Canterbury District secretary 1926-36), Albert Johnson (Littlebourne), Mrs. Thompson (Sturry), Alec Webb (Lyminge), H. E. Holden (Bexley), G. W. Pound (Boxley), G. R. Lawrence (Chatham), V. A. Jarrett (Chatham), H. Gearing (Cowden), F. J. Lambert (Horsmonden) R. Dalby Reeve (Margate, hon. member) and Mrs. Sone (Linton). Non-resident members were: Messrs. George Dawson (Leytonstone), W. H. J. Hooton (Tring), W. J. Ladd (East Grinstead) and C. Brasier (Rotherfield).

The committee, meeting in November, proposed the creation of a new office, that of Ringing Master, to be responsible for all ringing arrangements on the day of the annual meeting. This was unanimously adopted, and Mr. P. J. Spice, of Bromley, was admirably fulfilling those duties that day for the first time.

The report was adopted on the proposition of Mr. B. Collison, seconded by Mr. F. S. Macey. The presentation of an honorarium to Mr. Spice with the sincere thanks of the Association to him for his services then followed, which was reported in our last issue.

THE ACCOUNTS

Mr. F. M. Mitchell, commenting on the General Account, said last year they increased their subscriptions to 3s. per head and they had lost 109 adult and 14 junior members. Twenty-five members must have had a conscience, because they had paid up their arrears. Collections at meetings of £19 9s. 10d. had been allocated to the Belfry Repair Fund. Badges had gone very well, the total sale being nearly 700. Income, including balance in hand, of £111 2s. 5d., amounted to £354 19s. 8d., and a balance in hand of £115 14s. 3d. was being carried forward. The big bugbear was the printing of the annual report, which cost £70.

The Benevolent Fund had a balance in hand of £176 6s. 1d. Three grants to the extent of £20 had been made. The Belfry Repair Fund, with a balance of £194 10s. 8d., had made three grants of ten guineas to Farningham, Bethersden and Lynsted.

The total value of the assets of the Association on December 31st, according to current market prices, was £1,164 19s. against a value at par of £1,273 2s. 5d.

The financial report was adopted on the proposal of Mr. F. Cullum, seconded by Mr. Knight.

FEWER PEALS RUNG

The report of the peal secretary, Mr. Mark S. Lancefield, stated that 130 peals were recorded during 1953, a decrease of 25 on 1952. For the Coronation 15 peals were rung.

Compared with the peal analysis of 1952 there was an increase in six-bell peal ringing but a decrease of one third in the number of Surprise Major peals rung. This decrease was partly due to the reduced totals in the Tonbridge and Lewisham Districts which in the past contributed largely to the total of peals rung in more advanced methods. There were 37 first-pealers, a pleasing increase of nine.

Two performances deserved special mention —a peal of Doubles at Chelsfield, in which all the band rang their first peal, and a peal of Doubles at East Farleigh, in which there were four first peals.

There were 42 conductors, 12 less than in 1952, including four 'first as conductor.' Leading conductors were Mr. M. S. Lancefield 15, Mr. T. E. Sone 10, Messrs. F. J. Cullum and T. A. Naylor 9 each.

No peals of Cinques or Maximus were recorded during the year and no handbell peals were rung. Two peals had been rung in the county by the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths. During 1953 the first peals for the Association in three and eight Spliced Surprise Major and a record length of Doubles—6,840 changes in three methods—were rung.

The report was adopted on the proposition of Mr. John Cooper, seconded by Mr. E. Barnett.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

The president and vice-presidents were re-elected and the name of Mr. G. H. Spice was added to the list of vice-presidents; Messrs. F. S. Macey, G. H. Spice and J. Willis were re-elected trustees; committee, Messrs. E. Barnett, G. J. Butcher, R. A. Constant, W. R. Rainer and J. A. Russell; hon. treasurer, Mr. F. M. Mitchell; hon. secretary, Dr. E. S. J. Hatcher; hon. peal secretary, Mr. M. S. Lancefield; hon. auditor, Mr. Rainer; Central Council representatives, Messrs. T. Sone, T. Cullingworth, J. Willis and Dr. Hatcher.

Upon the proposition of Mr. E. Barnett a vote of thanks was passed to Mr. George H. Cross for his services as hon. auditor for over 25 years. Seconding, Mr. F. M. Mitchell said Mr. Cross only caught him out once in 22 years —he had undercharged himself a shilling for postage.

DAY OF ANNUAL MEETING

Opinions were sought by the committee as to the day of the annual meeting—on Easter Monday or a Saturday?

The chairman explained that the cost of the luncheon was higher on a Bank Holiday as, under the Catering Wages Act, special rates had to be paid for Bank Holiday.

Mr. E. Barnett advocated a Saturday. Today 19 out of 20 worked a five-day week. The cost of the lunch was subsidised by nearly 100 per cent.

Mr. Donk took exception to Mr. Barnett's figures as to those working a five-day week. He favoured Easter Monday.

Mr. John Cooper: Fifty per cent. in my tower work on a Saturday afternoon. Easter Monday was suitable to everybody.

Mr. George H. Spice: We shall lose the Easter atmosphere which permeates our meetings by a change.

A letter from Mr. E. A. Barnett, secretary of the Central Council, regarding the position of 'The Ringing World' was read. The letter pointed out that if each affiliated tower had one postal subscriber there would be no cause for anxiety.

The chairman's suggestion that a copy of the letter be sent to each District for appropriate action was agreed to.

A vote of thanks was proposed by Mr. G. H. Spice to those responsible for the local arrangements, and the Vicar of Bromley for making the meeting such a happy gathering. The resolution was carried with acclamation.

OBITUARY

MR. DAVID SLEET

With regret we announce the death of Mr. David Sleet, captain of Christ Church, Ottershaw, for many years, early on Easter Sunday.

His place will be hard to fill in the tower for he was a good conductor in the methods that he could ring. Besides ringing, his other activities were playing in the British Legion drum and fife band, also in the Territorial band, of which he was a member before the last war, being taken a prisoner at Dunkirk.

The funeral service was on April 22nd at Ottershaw, and a quarter peal of Grandsire Doubles was rung to his memory by his fellow ringers in the evening. The band consisted of P. Underwood 1, J. Ribbans 2, R. J. Andrews (conductor) 3, Mrs. Molly Hancock 4, H. Hancock 5, H. Kingston 6.
