The quarter peal at Saxilby on September 17th was a farewell tribute to Miss Joan Nicholson, who has now returned to Damascus to continue her work with the Syrian Missions. Miss Nicholson's father, by virtue of his regular attendances for service ringing, is one of the most valuable members of the Saxilby band.

Mr. A. J. Lock's tourists in Yorkshire had a very successful week with 13 peals from 15 attempts.

Mr. A. P. Cannon had one of his busy Saturdays on September 19th with three peals in a day in Kent.

Congratulations to Miss Jill M. Lane, of Merrow, who is the first lady to conduct a Surprise peal for the Guildford Diocesan Guild.

Dr. Donald Niblett has left for a year's scientific work at Cornell University, Ithaca, New York, and is taking with him Mrs. Niblett (Ruth Hodgson) and their baby.

Mr. W. L. Exton rang his 100th peal on the same bell that he rang his first peal at North Muskham, Notts, on August 21st, 1959. His first peal was on January 2nd, 1954.

St. Mary's, Gateshead, has become the Triples peal ringing tower of Tyneside, with four peals of Stedman, two of Erin and one of Oxford Bob successfully rung in the last 12 months. There have been at least another eight attempts.

On February 7th, 1920, Sgt. W. Hibbert, of the Devon Regiment, rang the treble to a peal of Stedman Triples at Whitley Bay, with young Richard A. Gofton ringing the second. They met again at Gateshead on September 10th for the first time in nearly 40 years, and rang another peal in the same method and in the same positions.

BELFRY

GOSSIP

Organised by Tony Bennett, six members of Bristol University and two from Oxford University had a successful tour in Wiltshire and Dorchester from September 9th to 12th. For travelling, the party hired a 12-seater van, which proved an excellent form of transport.

Weston Favell ringers have so far this year rung for 18 weddings. Can any church in the Peterborough Diocese beat this?

Mr. John W. Griffiths informs us that the number of changes in the peal of Grandsire Cinques at Shrewsbury on August 1st (page 490) was 5,059 and not 5,039.

His many friends will regret to learn that Mr. Harry Miles, of Carbis Bay, is on the sick list, having fractured his left wrist; hence no gardening, no organ playing and no ringing for the time being.

In the peal at Lowdham, Notts, on August 29th, Mr. F. W. Midwinter rang his 100th peal in the county of Nottinghamshire; and Mr. Sid Adams, the Nottingham District secretary, nearly lost his trousers turning this tenor in to what is believed to be the first peal on the bells.

'The key of the door' has been very prominent at St. Faith's Church, Havant, this year. Quarter peals have been rung in honour of the 21st birthdays of three lady members—the Misses Christine Ford, Rosemary Wells and Margaret Marshall.

Recently six members of the Southern District of the Ladies' Guild invaded Buckland, Surrey, and rang a peal of two Doubles methods. Catherine Powell, of Stoke D'Abernon, is to be congratulated on conducting her first peal at the age of 15. The ladies did full justice to a lovely tea provided by Mrs. Saunders and her husband, who is tower captain at Buckland.

AMERICAN GUILD OF ENGLISH HANDBELL RINGERS

Sixth Annual Festival

THE festival this year was again held at Castle Hill, Ipswich, Mass, from Friday, August 28th, to Sunday, 30th, and the attendance was a record one, well over 200 members from all parts being present.

Castle Hill Estate, Ipswich, is on the Atlantic shore about 20 miles north of Boston. The house was built in the Georgian style about 1918, and is a reproduction of Ham House, near London, England. The view from the terrace down the 100-foot-wide tree-lined Mall to the cliff edge is magnificent. There is excellent sea bathing and there is also a large swimming pool and an outdoor theatre in the grounds.

The festival started with introductions in the Great Hall, and after dinner in the evening the first of the concerts was held, including solos by Mrs. A. A. Hughes, of London, England. Later, Mr. A. A. Hughes gave a talk on the history of handbells (their earliest use by the first Christian missionaries to England, later development for tune playing and change-ringing, and to the early exportation to America as well as the growth to the present standard).

On Saturday morning, 30th, talks were given on the arrangement of music and the organisation of handbell groups. Various bands demonstrated their technique and discussed methods of playing. Rehearsals were also held for the evening concert.

The annual business meeting was held immediately after lunch, with the president (Mrs. Norman Erb) in the chair. Mrs. Erb announced her retirement, and Dr. Robert Hieber was elected to succeed her.

An enjoyable tour to Gloucester, Mass, followed, to hear Mr. James Lawson play the carillon, and for swimming. The festival concert took place in the evening, and some remarkably fine playing was heard, as well as some by massed bands. Mrs. Hughes also contributed solos.

The progress made during the last two to three years is remarkable, especially in the musical arrangements for bells. During morning service on Sunday, handbell ringing by seven choirs, under the direction of Dr. Doris Watson, was rendered with wonderful effect.

REDEDICATION EDMONTON

On Sunday, September 20th, the eight bells of All Saints', Edmonton, were rededicated by the Bishop of Willesden. Two of the bells had been recast and the rest had been tuned and rehung in a new timber frame by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank. The result is very satisfactory: the bells are much easier to handle and very pleasing to hear.

After a very simple service, the bells were rung for an hour. The methods included Stedman, Cambridge and Bristol, not forgetting rounds for the people who are just as keen if not yet so competent.

Many ringers attended the service, including officers of the Middlesex Association. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Lock, Mr. and Mrs. G. Hart, Mr. A. Cutler and Mr. D. Smith and Miss R. Foreman. Mr. and Mrs. P. Corby and Mr. and Mrs. Tomlinson were welcomed as members of previous Edmonton hands.

The local ringers would like to take this opportunity to thank all those who have helped financially and practically to get the bells returned so quickly.

Practice night is Thursday—7.30 to 9.

Later the Margaret Shurcliff memorial plaque was displayed, and afterwards fixed on a wall of her house at Ipswich. The wording is:—

Erected by

The American Guild of English Handbell Ringers in appreciation of the sterling qualities of the pioneer American handbell ringer whose magnificent simplicity, integrity and vigor have brought so much to our lives.

MARGARET HOMER SHURCLIFF

Founder and Director of the Beacon Hill Handbell Ringers

President, 1937-57, Honorary President, 1957-59 The New England Guild of Handbell Ringers

Founder and President, 1955-57

Honorary President, 1957-59

The American Guild of English Handbell Ringers

This plaque was cast from bell metal from the Whitechapel Foundry in London in 1959.

After lunch came the big 'packing up,' and by 4 o'clock all had dispersed—some within a few miles, some further, and some to the Deep South, the middle and the far West, which means over 3,000 miles. This indicates the intense enthusiasm.

So ended another wonderfully enjoyable festival, and with thankful memories of the founder of the Guild.

ROYAL CUMBERLAND YOUTHS

The Society's quarterly meeting on September 12th was held at Chislehurst, and the fine bells of the Annunciation were enjoyed during the afternoon. A shortened Evensong followed, the lesson being read by the Master, Mr. P. N. Bond.

At the meeting after tea, the Master took the chair and welcomed those present. The following new members were elected: D. Leach (West Molesey), M. W. Fairey (Little Aston), E. Rochester (Sawbridgeworth), Maria Kirby (Bromley, Kent), Diana Prynn (Ashted, Surrey), R. J. Stretton (Alfreton), E. H. Willow (Allenton, Derby), Rosamund Bull and Noreen Wickham (Etwell, Derby).

Mr. F. E. Hawthorne gave an excellent résumé of the Central Council's discussion at Southport with regard to the finances of 'The Ringing World.' After some discussion, a collection towards the cost of publishing 'The Ringing World' realised the sum of £1 1s., and the meeting agreed that a letter should be sent to the Editor congratulating him on his good work in producing 'The Ringing World' during the recent printing strike.

Members stood in silence to the memory of Mr. Alf Pulling, a valued member of the Society for nearly 50 years. Votes of thanks included one to Mr. Ian Oram for his help in organising the meeting.

The Master announced that the next meeting was to be held jointly with the Middlesex County Association on December 5th. The annual meeting would be held on Saturday, January 16th.

For harvest festival ringing on September 20th, two courses of very-well-struck Stedman Triples were rung as a birthday compliment to Mrs. Catherall, who for 40 years has been a regular Sunday service ringer.

MORE BELFRY GOSSIP

Mr. Norman Chaddock writes that 'the peal of Yorkshire Surprise Major rung at Eastwood, Rotherham, on July 13th, 1959, was not the first in the method, as I reported. One was rung on April 30th, 1932, conducted by A. Nash.'

The work of Mr. W. Mayle and Mr. Len Kitchen in teaching eight new ringers at All Saints', Sherbourne, Warwick, has been rewarded by regular Sunday service ringing. Practices are on Friday evenings.

By ringing a peal at Littlebourne, Kent, Mr. A. P. Cannon completes peals in 577 different towers. This is now the record, beating the late Frank Bennett's total of 576. Appropriately enough, it was rung on the 28th anniversary of his first peal 'inside' at Lamberhurst, Kent. He would like to thank everyone who has helped him to achieve this ambition.

The quarter peal of Norwich Surprise Minor at Marple, Cheshire, on September 13th, was rung as a farewell compliment to Robert B. Smith, Alec Osbaldiston and Valerie Pennington, all ringers at Marple, who are leaving to attend colleges at Loughborough, Chester and Leicester respectively. On the previous Friday night there was a record attendance of 25 ringers at the 6-bell practice, including one new recruit.

The Staines and District Arts and Civics Council are holding an exhibition of local arts and crafts at the Town Hall, Staines, on October 1st, 2nd and 3rd. The three towers in the Staines Urban District—St. Peter's and St. Mary's, Staines, and St. Mary's, Stanwell, are providing a stall at the exhibition showing the various aspects of the ringer's art, and will demonstrate handbell ringing on the last evening of the exhibition.

BARNSELEY & DISTRICT SOCIETY

Only four teams entered for the annual cup contest of the Barnsley and District Society, held at Hoylandswaine, near Sheffield, on September 12th, and only three rang. The test piece was 720 changes. Mr. Harold Chant was the judge and Master John M. Buxton the marker. The result was Shelley 53, Sandall 80 and Cawthorne 171 faults. Mrs. Stephenson made the presentation of the cup to Mr. Albert Goldthorpe.

Mr. Noel F. Moxon presided at the business meeting, when six new members were elected. The next meeting at Cawthorne on October 10th coincides with the centenary of the bells. It was decided to hold the golden jubilee dinner on October 24th at the King George Hotel, Barnsley (price 10s.). Applications for tickets are to be made to Mr. Noel F. Moxon, Green Gables, Cawthorne.

SOUTHWELL DIOCESAN GUILD North Notts District

The Crawford cup contest was held at Clayworth on September 12th. Mr. J. Thorley, of Thorne, was the judge, and four teams competed. Warsop were declared the winners with 53 faults and 10 penalties; Ordsall were second with 91 faults, West Retford third with 153 faults and 10 penalties, and Bawtry fourth with 260 faults.

At the business meeting following tea, the Vicar presented the cup to Mr. Rooke, of Warsop, and said how much he had enjoyed hearing his bells ring. The bells were not rung regularly, he said, but he expressed a hope that a band might be formed.

Laxton was selected as the place for the next meeting, to be held on October 10th. Mr. A. Wilson, of Bawtry, was elected Ringing Master in place of Mr. R. Hobbs, who had resigned owing to his impending removal to Bridlington.

LONDON UNIVERSITY IN NORTH-EASTERN ENGLAND

The 14th annual ringing week of the University of London Society of Change Ringers began at Darlington on August 22nd. Our organiser was both a member of the U.L. and secretary of the Durham and Newcastle Association—a most valuable liaison.

The Society has never before stayed in a mediæval castle (c. 1379-89). Besides being a fine building it is also licensed, and some of the turret rooms are approached by spiral staircases. Unfortunately, none of the four towers contains a ring of bells. In a place like this even a party of 46 adults and two children had plenty of room.

When we sat down to our first dinner in the great hall we were joined by about 20 members of the Durham and Newcastle Association, together with the rector of Chester-le-Street and his wife. This helped us to make friends in an area new to most of us. The president of the Durham and Newcastle Association (Kenneth Arthur) welcomed us most kindly. Both presidents then performed the difficult feat of recognising and naming their members, our own being helped by the fact that no fewer than eight of his flock were named Layton. A pleasant social evening was then spent.

The party found itself well provided with all the professional knowledge it might need during an arduous ringing tour. We had a doctor, though our confidence in her was somewhat weakened when she was overheard asking the barman in a Bamburg pub what to do for a wasp sting! We also had a midwife of considerable experience and a solicitor, albeit a Scots one, which might have led to complications. We had a parson to say grace; and, very luckily as it turned out, we had plenty of men who knew about car engines.

TWO IMPRESSIONS

My first impression was transport. Fully extended, we mustered 11 motor-cars, a 'bug' (Messerschmitt) and 3 motor-bikes. Perhaps the long journey north had tired them, but we had a lot of mechanical trouble, especially at the beginning of the week. Thanks to our engineers we got through the week without anyone having to walk, though some—but not all—complained of overcrowding. The full fleet moving off was a remarkable sight, and was televised by the B.B.C.!

My second impression was Press relations. A freelance journalist had been told of our trip, and he seemed to have notified every local and regional paper in the north-east, as well as the B.B.C. and I.T.V. Constant interviews and photographs even interfered with our ringing, especially at Hexham, where I.T.V. took over the tower. However, we hoped the Exercise would be getting good publicity—though we are not responsible for the sound of bells ringing down which I.T.V. alleged to be Grandsire Triples.

A lot of our members were very surprised to see so much beautiful country. The 'south-paws' could be heard revising their opinions of the North-East. They also learned some history ('compulsory culture'). We visited the Roman camp at Housesteads-on-the-Wall on a perfect afternoon with wonderful visibility. From Bamburg we saw the Farne Islands and thought of Lindisfarne to the north. Hexham reminded us of the great flowering of Celtic Christianity in this area in the so-called Dark Ages. We visited charming villages like Blanchland and Brancepeth. Altogether it was a revelation to many.

THE RINGING

We enjoyed our ringing, which included the cathedrals of Durham and Newcastle, Hexham Abbey and the secular tower of Morpeth, where the bells seemed to know Bristol. One of the pleasantest rings was undoubtedly Staindrop, where the bells not only sounded well but went beautifully. One of our last towers was Houghton-le-Spring, where we had some good ringing, including a touch of 6-Spliced Surprise. Fenham, Newcastle, bells were open to us on practice night; we found them a very good eight. A heavy six at Wylam impressed those who went there; and we thought our 'home tower' at Chester was one of the best.

Methods rung during the week covered everything from rounds to Spliced Surprise. Not all of it was good, but we usually managed something good at each tower, and the beginners improved very much during the week. Our party was really, from the ringing point of view, too large.

Only two peals were rung, and four lost! Cambridge failed at Sunderland, Northumberland Surprise Minor 'just didn't go' at Cramlington, Rutland was lost at Allendale, apparently because 'they didn't know the method,' seven Surprise Minor methods came round at Darlington and Durham Surprise Minor at Blaydon (the Society's 50th peal), but Stedman Triples was lost at Consett.

We were met everywhere with true Northern friendliness, and often thanked for coming to ring. Some of the older members were delighted to meet Margaret Ranken (née Fidell), whom we had known years ago. During much of the week we were escorted by a bearded outrider, Tom Piercy, of King's College, Newcastle, and Kenneth Arthur looked in on us from time to time.

This tour will go down in the records as 'the one when we stayed in a castle.' One evening we had a conducted tour of the fortifications by the warden (Dr. Prowse) and his wife, which included an introduction to the ghost, Lily of Lumley. The castle was also an excellent setting for our last-night party, when we played such games as charades, a treasure hunt, sardines and murder. This last saw the demise of the longest of our vice-presidents—and a very striking corpse he made!

AT YORK

Regretfully, the party left on the Saturday morning. Most finished the tour with a night in York, but the president weakened and fled north. However, spies in York reported that Harold Walker and 'the locals' were most kind in their reception, and 'the same partnerships were observed as earlier at Lumley Castle.'

Thanks are always inadequate, but the Society wish to thank again all incumbents and local ringers in the 40 or so towers we visited, both for the use of their bells and for the warmth of their welcome. The president and other members of the Durham and Newcastle Association made us feel very at home. And we thank once again our organiser who made everything run so smoothly and had taken so much trouble over the arrangements. Last, but not least, we thank the organiser's wife, who prepared for us packed lunches which left nothing to be desired.

For those people not acquainted with the U.L., I append a list of dramatis personæ. President, Philip Gray; vice-presidents, Denis Layton and David Martin; Master ('Sir'), Michael Lakin; secretary, Marcus Barton; treasurer, Michael Rose; organiser, Denis Bayles. J. G.

BURNHAM BELLS

The September issue of Burnham, Bucks, parish magazine has an editorial devoted to the bells. It states:—

'The Enabling Act laid it down that the incumbent was to guide and the laity to assist and, locally, we are fortunate that this division of responsibility has been, generally, accepted. At times there are, and must be, conflicts of opinion and one such is that of the activities in the belfry. That the bells of Burnham are among the finest, at their weight, in the country is not to be gainsaid but that they are a nuisance to the minority, and more especially to those not members of the congregation or living adjacent, can be both understood and appreciated. The average member of the public, probably through ignorance, is not particularly interested in change ringing and his ideas on permutations are more applicable to pools rather than to bells. On Sundays he would like to hear the bells rung as of old, derisively termed by some campanologists as the "Nellie Bly" method. We prefer the latter but neither can be achieved without practice and, as the public generously paid for the restoration and recasting of the bells, we only ask for more tolerance of their use and fewer complaints to the Vicar during the monthly peals and the weekly practice.'

GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL ASSOCIATION

A quarterly meeting of the Swindon Branch was held at Minety on September 12th, where the bells have been rehung and augmented to six. A good job has been made of the restoration, but the bells are rather noisy in the tower and this problem is to be tackled by the local ringers. The visitors were welcomed by the Vicar (Rev. W. W. Grace) and one of the churchwardens.

The customary service was followed by tea on the lawn of Hovington House, at the invitation of Captain G. Raines and as guests of various local church organisations.

An apology was received from Dr. H. Craig (Branch chairman), who was convalescing following an operation, and Mr. W. H. Trueman acted as chairman for the business meeting. Six new members were elected, and towers suggested for the next three meetings were Blunsdon, Highworth and Christ Church, Swindon, providing repair work has been completed on the spire of Christ Church. Good use was made of the bells, and ringing ranged from rounds to London Surprise Minor.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

EARLY BROADCASTS

Dear Sir,—With reference to recent correspondence re early broadcasting of bells, J. R. Nicholls, in his book 'Bells Through the Ages,' published 1928, gives a list of eight famous rings on which change-ringing had been broadcast, viz.: St. Mary-le-Bow, Crowland Abbey, Canterbury Cathedral, St. Clement Danes, St. Mary's Cathedral (?), Birmingham, Buckfast Abbey, York Minster and Truro Cathedral. He says the distinction of being first belongs to St. Clement Danes.

I well remember the occasion at Truro on Sunday, November 22nd, 1925. We rang 168 Grandsire Triples on the front seven, with 9, 8, 10 covering. As far as I can remember we were given plenty of time. A cutting from the 'Western Morning News' I have by me makes a full column of the occasion, and refers to the pealing of the Cathedral bells before the service, and says there was a congregation of 2,000. The sub-Dean (the late Canon J. Trevor Lewis, afterwards Vicar of Northampton) preached, and his sermon is given in full. The report ends by stating: 'The ringing of the Cathedral bells was also very fine.'

The service was relayed to Plymouth and broadcast from there, and is headed 'Broadcasting Experiment at Plymouth.' As we know, it was not easy to pick up these early broadcasts. This is confirmed by a letter I received from the late Mr. Pryce Taylor, of Loughborough, and which I have also kept, saying he regretted he was unable to tune in.—Yours faithfully,
A. S. ROBERTS.

PEAL BOOKING FEES

Dear Sir,—The Guild of Devonshire Ringers has had a peal booking fee of 6d. per rope since 1949, and at this year's annual meeting it was agreed that this should be increased to 1s. per rope, the extra 6d. to go to 'The Ringing World.' The Guild has a resident membership of about 550, out of which 50 took part in peals last year, and it has always been felt that those who ring peals should meet the expense of having the peals printed in the annual report, which costs about £1 per page to produce. As the peals are mostly 6-bell peals, and six are set out per page, it will be seen that the fee is about right. I have never heard any adverse criticism and the 'R.W.' subsidy has been generally accepted. In fact the general opinion appears to be that if only the layout of the paper could be altered to appeal more to non-peal ringers, the circulation could be increased, especially among the 1,500 call-change ringers here in Devon.—Yours, etc.,

E. M. ATKINS.

General Secretary,
Guild of Devonshire Ringers.

MALE NAMES FOR BELLS

Dear Sir,—In Belfry Gossip last week the question was asked why bells are given male names. This, I think, is because the 'she's' are fast and furious, the more they are painted the more they cost to keep up, and actually you never know what the darned things are going to do next.—Yours, etc.,

GEO. GILBERT.

Burnham, Bucks.

RUSTY BELL FRAMES

Dear Sir,—I was interested in the letter in the 'R.W.' of September 4th re 'Rusty Bell Frames.' I am afraid there are too many metal bell frames up and down the country which are sadly neglected through want of painting. After all, the installation of an iron or steel frame is a very costly matter, and one would think 'church authorities would realise the importance of regular painting. If this is done every seven or eight years, a frame—and fittings, for that matter—is kept in good order. Where it is left for longer periods it is a case of painting on top of rust. If done at regular intervals the job can be carried out at half the expense and also effect a big saving in time and paint.

I have had the experience of helping to paint a sadly-neglected iron frame in a tower near here twice in the last 30 years. The bells and frame were installed in about 1902 and had not been painted until 1930, when one of the local ringers and myself volunteered to do the job if the church authorities would find the paint, which they did. We applied two coats of red oxide paint after several days of arduous work with scraper and wire brush.

Some three years ago this same frame went through the same process, but this time with the newly-appointed Rector's help and mine (the Rector being a non-ringer). In conclusion I would suggest, regarding the Whitley bell frame problem, that all parts that are visible should be painted. I think Miss Overend will find that most frames have some parts that are impossible to get at to paint, but by painting wherever possible this will help to preserve the frame as a whole.—Yours, etc.,
Folkingham, Lincs. C. T. H. BRADLEY.

DON'T FORGET BRECONSHIRE

Dear Sir,—I was surprised to see the peal at Brecon on Friday, August 21st, by the Cheshire tourists, reported as Brecon, Wales. Most British schoolchildren these days would know that Brecon is the county town of Brecknockshire, or as is more commonly called, Breconshire. There is no excuse for this negligence, as the tourists were based within five or six miles from the Breconshire boundary for most of their week.—Yours faithfully,

London. WILFRED WILLIAMS.

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

The September meeting of the Guildford District of the Guildford Guild was held at Womersley on the 12th.

The eight bells were rung in a variety of methods from rounds to Cambridge Surprise Major, under the direction of Mr. E. John Wells, District Ringing Master. The Guild Office was conducted by the Rev. E. O. Ware, Vicar of Blackheath and Chilworth.

Tea, prepared by the lady ringers of Womersley, preceded a short business meeting, at which the chair was taken by the Guild Master, Mr. C. W. Denyer. Mr. Geoffrey R. Crisp, of Billingshurst, was elected a compounding member.

Mr. Denyer paid tribute to the life and ringing of the late Alfred H. Pulling, and the assembled company stood in silence for a few moments as a tribute from his District.

DERWENT'S SUBMERGED CHURCH

Dear Sir,—There recently appeared in 'The Daily Telegraph' a photograph of the ruins of the village of Derwent, in Derbyshire, revealed when the Ladybower reservoir ran dry during the present rainless summer.

While on holiday in Derbyshire in August, I was told that when the valley was flooded to form the reservoir, the village church, complete with a ring of six, was left behind. It was also said that when the level of the reservoir fell the top of the steeple could be seen. Is this true, or is it a legend reminiscent of 'La Cathedrale Engloutie'?

If it is true, it seems odd that the cameraman should have ignored what must have been a more impressive sight than the one he actually photographed, for nothing resembling a church can be seen. I can find no mention of Derwent in 'Dove,' but perhaps the reservoir was formed a good many years ago.

Can any of your readers throw any light on the matter?—Yours faithfully, Surbiton.

MARGARET LEWIS.

PETERBOROUGH DIOCESAN GUILD

The Guild's summer festival, held on September 5th, is over, but happy memories will linger in the minds of those who joined the merry throng. From the towers and steeples, 17 in all, ringing was to be heard from 11 a.m. onwards until after dark. One friend from afar described the day and district as a 'happy hunting ground,' and collected 13 new towers for his list. He also took the trouble to write and say 'Thank you' to all who deserved it.

The Church of The Holy Cross, at Daventry, mellow and golden in the glorious sunshine, was the scene of an inspiring service in which the Vicar (Rev. K. A. Ward) and the Guild president (Canon G. F. Turner) took part. The Vicar of the parish of All Saints, Northampton (Canon Richards), preached a thought-provoking sermon based on the lesson 1 Samuel xvii., 45, read by Mr. P. I. Chapman. Also present and robed was the Rev. C. J. W. Faulkner, rector of Harlestone. Some of the local stalwarts proved that they can sing as well as ring by forming a choir.

The Abbey buildings close by provided accommodation for tea, two rooms being needed for 200 or so present. The committee of ladies had prepared an abundance for everyone, the teapots being in great demand on that very hot day. There was no business to distract from festivity except to thank everyone who had given so much thought and labour to make the day such a success. This matter was dealt with by Mr. B. Austin, who in a short speech proposed a vote of thanks. The seconder was Mr. B. P. Morris, who had come on a long journey from Ashbourne to meet old friends.

The arrangements had been made by the chairman, secretary and committee of the Daventry Branch, supported by many friends in the neighbourhood.

GREAT PONTON, Lincs.—On Sept. 14th, 1.260 Doubles (Siedman, St. Simon's, Canterbury, Plain Bob and Grandsire): Mrs. P. A. Simpson 1, F. W. Pinchbeck 2, D. A. Frith 3, J. M. Simpson (cond.) 4, H. R. Woods 5. Rung half-muffled in memoriam Mr. J. Pearson, a ringer at this tower for the last 55 years.

A TOUR OF NORTHERN IRELAND

THE morning at Saturday, August 22nd, at first cloudy, but brightening as the day progressed, saw the arrival in Dublin of Mr. J. 'Phoenix' Phillips and other 'associated eccentrics' joining Wilfred Williams' touring peal band. Although two members had not arrived by lunchtime a peal of Stedman Cinques was duly scored at St. Patrick's in the afternoon (after Jim Pipe had covered up his first clock of the week). A convivial evening with the St. Patrick's ringers in the Stag's Head brought a pleasant end to the first day.

On the following morning several members of the band mortified the flesh by ringing at Christ Church for morning service; here there were disappointed by the unusually mild reaction of one of the local representatives to the breakage of his rope.

A slow train took us to Drogheda, where a peal of London was rung, and where the Dukes family and other local ringers turned out in force to greet us and to provide an enormous tea, which turned out to be only one of many such we were to receive during the week to follow.

'Dangerous Phil' Mehew had joined the band the previous night and the party was now brought up to full strength by the addition of a well-known pedagogue from Derbyshire (it was not, however, until later in the week that a member of the Irish Association, in reply to the accusation that the I.A.C.R. seemed to contain nothing by civil servants, said that she thought all English ringers were school teachers).

Moving on northwards, some passengers evaded the Customs at Goragwood by the simple expedient of getting out on to the platform until the officers had gone past. It was not clear whether their sudden re-entry into the train was due to the appearance of two large members of the R.U.C. armed with pistols, or to the fact that it had begun to rain.

AT BELFAST

We established ourselves in Belfast, and the next day's festivities began with a ring at St. Thomas'; thence in cars, hired for the rest of the week, to Holywood, where a peal of Yorkshire was rung. Here we were met by John Dunwoody and by Mr. W. Pratt, president of the Irish Association, who joined us at an excellent lunch, again provided by the local ringers. Some members of the party prolonged their stay in order to admire the local scenery, but they were eventually persuaded to move on to Bangor. During the peal of Bristol here the non-ringers spent an idle day by the sea. Jim Pipe found a restaurant, had a large steak and liked it so much that when the peal was over he went back for more and took everyone else with him.

On Tuesday the party divided: eight members rang Cambridge at Hillsborough in the morning, and had thought of going for a peal on the light six at St. Donard's, Belfast, in the afternoon by way of substitution for an attempt at Ballymena, cancelled because of damage to the tower caused by a recent storm. Conditions there were so unbearable, however, with the humid atmosphere and tiny, ill-ventilated ringing chamber, that after a half-hearted attempt for what someone described as 'Turkish Delight,' the venture was abandoned and a trip to Drumbo for a ring on the six there was made instead. This latter tower had been visited earlier in the day by the remainder of the band, who in the afternoon rang a peal of Cambridge Minor at Rostrevor, enabling three members to complete the Cambridge 'family.' The tea laid on by the local ringers after the peal was so enormous that even the Coventry contingent was defeated. After a delightful drive back by the Mountains of Mourne and a stop at Ballynahinch for Jack Phillips to refuel, the whole band was reunited at the Holywood practice, where Jean Stewart, who had joined the St. Donard's party earlier, found herself (deservedly) the centre of attention. We were pleased to be able to offer her our congratulations on her engagement.

This was the last of the three nights in Belfast and there was some hilarity in the bar. The rugged masculinity of the party was softened this year, for the first time, by feminine charm in the person of Mrs. Ruth Border. This had the effect of inhibiting (to some extent) the rich vocabulary of some members until after the lady had retired, when they would once more burst into full song; it was only later, disclosed that the ceiling and walls were not as soundproof as was at first thought. Nevertheless, lest the hasty should be led by these remarks to pass ill-considered judgments on the cultural level of the conversation during the week, let it be said at once that members of the party showed considerable interest in modern music (themes from Prokofiev were often heard), nor were they ignorant of the ballad-writer's ancient art (see, for example, 'Christmas Day in the Workhouse' from the collected poems of W. A. Theobald, Vol. II, p. 157).

BELL-HANGER'S OPINION!

On Wednesday morning, unfortunately minus Derek Jones, who had felt unwell and returned home early, we set off for Carrick, where a peal of Rutland produced some of the best ringing to date, in spite of interruptions by sightseers and newspaper reporters. Here our bell-hanger took one look at the tower and retreated rapidly to a safe distance, afterwards giving it as his considered opinion that if it was possible to ring the bells to a peal without the whole edifice collapsing in ruins there were very few unsafe towers anywhere. Cambridge Royal at Dundela occupied the afternoon, and the local ringers provided lunch and tea respectively after each of these peals, thus teaching us more and more to appreciate what an Irish welcome was.

The run to Coleraine was uneventful. Later that evening, at the Corporation Arms, one member of the band was observed putting in overtime at the reception desk. Rita, in Dublin, and Rose, in Belfast, both seemed forgotten; it was perhaps bad luck that Ann was kept on duty late at a party upstairs and went straight to bed. While Coleraine bells were rung next morning to what was probably the best peal of the week, the non-pealers ventured up to Portrush, then to Dunluce Castle, ancient seat of the Earls of Antrim, and on to the Giant's Causeway.

After lunch in Coleraine there was a regretably short time in which to take in some of the magnificent views of the week on the way to Derry, where Yorkshire Royal was soon going well at the Cathedral. The peal safely round, there was just time for a quick pint or three before heading on to Enniskillen.

It had been hoped to ring Spiced Surprise Royal at Enniskillen Cathedral, but the noise of the bells in the curiously-shaped and windowless ringing chamber ruled this out, and Cambridge was rung instead, while some of the non-pealers went to see the splendid Georgian mansion at Castlecoole. A quick run up the shore of Lough Erne included an involuntary incursion into the middle of a battle exercise being held at the old flying boat base, but we returned safely in time to hear the peal come round.

Two constables patrolling the bridge with sten guns reminded us that we were not far from the scene of the I.R.A. raid earlier in the week, and the road to Lurgan, often passing near the border, took us past more than one R.U.C. station barricaded with barbed wire and sandbags.

TOWER MOVED WITH THE BELLS

At Lurgan, where the tower moves when the bells are rung, one member of the band, being forewarned, chose one of the better bells and was rewarded by seeing the third involuntarily making fourth's place as the bells went off into New Cambridge. A slow and well-earned peal was followed yet again by a vast tea provided by the local ringers, accompanied this time by a tape recording of part of the peal, and by the presentation to each visitor of a copy of the church's own diary. As at many of the towers visited, a wash basin and lavatory proved a welcome addition to the amenities which would improve many English towers.

Back in Belfast Mr. Pratt kindly came to wish us farewell.

That night some people had difficulty in getting into bed, but all were in circulation next morning, when one member of the party was heard to order all three different kinds of breakfast. We finally got under way, and in spite of Bank Holiday crowds reached the Dublin train in time. John Dunwoody and Jean Stewart travelled with us (some people thought in the wrong seats); they and Fred Dukes were to join us in an attempt for Stedman Triples at St. George's, Dublin, after lunch, and it was, therefore, doubly disappointing that this should prove the only failure of the week. The remainder of the party rang a good peal of Superlative on the magnificent eight at Bray, however, and after the final rounds of drinks the band dispersed at the end of a highly successful and enjoyable week, in which the weather was kind, the bells uniformly excellent and the hospitality everywhere we went truly generous. Our warm thanks are due to Mr. Pratt and to all the Irish ringers and incumbents, many of whom we met, and to all of whom we are grateful, to our three hard-worked drivers, to John Dunwoody and Fred Dukes for all their help, to Jean Stewart for her delightful company and, of course, to Wilfred Williams for the (as usual) impeccable arrangements.

ARCHDEACONRY OF STAFFORD

Once again the Society was fortunate with fine weather gracing the meeting at St. Peter's, Little Aston, on September 12th. During the afternoon the six bells were put to good use, under the guidance of the Ringing Master, Mr. E. Malin. Ringing ranged from Grandfire Doubles to Surprise Minor methods. The belfry being very small, everyone not ringing remained outside the tower enjoying the warm sunshine and the delightful setting of this beautiful little church.

The service, which was fully choral, was conducted by the Rev. H. H. Follis, who gave a most interesting address. Afterwards more than 90 members and their friends were entertained to tea by the Little Aston ringers. During a short business meeting the secretary said that he was sure that everyone in the Society was pleased to hear that the president (the Archdeacon of Stafford) was to be appointed to the Bishopric of Shrewsbury. A letter of congratulation had been sent to the Archdeacon on behalf of the Society. At this meeting it was decided to publish the annual report for the 1958-59 free to all fully-paid-up members.

Later in the evening the six bells at nearby Aldridge were made available and many visitors took the opportunity of ringing at this tower. So ended a most pleasant and successful meeting. Our thanks must go to the Little Aston ringers and all their many helpers for their splendid hospitality.

OUTINGS

HENLOW, BEDS

On August 29th, the Henlow ringers, with several visitors, enjoyed a day's outing in the Fens, under the direction of Mr. L. H. Bywaters, the local captain.

Sutton, Cambs, the first tower, was reached in time to allow coffee before ascending the tower to do battle with the rather heavy-going six bells. At Ely, where non-ringers were able to linger over the delights of the ancient and lovely Cathedral, the more energetic ones spent a pleasant hour on the excellent eight bells of St. Mary's. Some good ringing was enjoyed here, concluding with a touching little ceremony when one of Bedfordshire's better-known ringers became a member of the R.S.S.B.S.B. (Remorseful Society of Slider Bashers and Stay Benders!). But it is doubtful if the new member of that distinguished body will be a great asset to them as he has started rather late in life!

After lunch we proceeded to Hilgay and had a rather hurried pull on the handy eight, and then on to King's Lynn, where Norman Harding had the bells up ready and where we almost did justice to a noble ten. After an excellent tea we journeyed on to the charming church at Walsoken. Here the bells have one great fault—they tend to make you wish to ring no others!

A short run brought us to Wisbech, where we all enjoyed the pleasant ten bells and where the local ringers were very reluctant to let us go; but all good things must come to an end, and we wended our way homewards, conscious of having spent a satisfying day in most congenial company. The thanks of all are tendered to the incumbents and to all who helped to make this trip a success. A. E. R.

BUSHEY HEATH, HERTS

On Sept. 19th, St. Peter's, Bushey Heath, ringers had their annual outing. Unfortunately, due to the unpunctuality of two newly-weds amongst the party of 31, it was necessary to delay the departure of the coach. The lost quarter-of-an-hour, however, was retrieved by the time the party reached the first tower, Woodstock, Oxon, thanks to the skilful work of the driver.

Here, while ringing a touch of Stedman Triples, the band was somewhat put off when, at the hour, a clock wire in the corner of the belfry began to dance and jump about although the chimes had been disengaged.

The other towers visited were Moreton-in-Marsh, Glos, where the party had lunch, Badsey, Worcs, Great Hampton and Hinton-on-the-Green. A very fine tea was had at Evesham under the shadow of the great detached 12-bell tower there.

Methods rung were Grandsire, Stedman, Plain Bob, Kent and Cambridge. Thanks are due to Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Norris and Mr. F. T. Morris who organised the trip.

BALDOCK AND NORTON

Elstow, John Bunyan's tower, Kempston, Turvey and Felmersham were visited by Baldock and Norton ringers during their half-day's outing on September 19th.

Inside the ringing chamber at Turvey were three distinctive memorials, stating: 'He was for . . . years a chimer and ringer at this church'—thus clearly differentiating between the ignorant who could be only one of the two classes and the ringers perpetuated on the boards! Wall paintings were unexpectedly found in the ringing chamber at Felmersham.

Thank you, Mr. Buck, for an interesting outing. J. S.

THE HALLOWING OF CARBIS BAY'S NEW TREBLES

The Church of St. Anta and All Saints, Carbis Bay, was filled for a special service to hallow the two new trebles to make a ring of ten in the completed tower on a recent Sunday evening at 9. The service was in place of the usual summer epilogue, and also enabled many ringers to attend. The service was conducted by the Vicar (Rev. A. S. Roberts), who blessed the water at the altar. A procession then moved to the children's corner, where the bells had been set up on a special scaffold surrounded by the fittings. They were sprinkled and hallowed with water. After the hallowing of each, the bells were struck with their clappers respectively three times by Mr. T. R. Sullivan, a ringer, and Mr. T. C. F. Downman, churchwarden. They were then struck three times in rounds.

The service was both moving and unique, for it is seldom the assembled congregation sees bells being blessed or dedicated. It was also representative, the lessons being read by Mr. Alan Carveth (president of the Truro Guild) and Mr. W. D. Gill, C.C. The Mayor and Mayoress of St. Ives (Mr. and Mrs. J. Couch) and the Town Clerk (Mr. C. G. Sayer) were present, as were several ringers from neighbouring towers, including Mr. D. Burnett (diocesan Ringing Master), Mr. W. H. Southard (vice-president) and visiting ringers from Bristol, Chipstow, Southampton and Nuneaton. All had taken part in ringing on the eight bells with the local ringers for an hour before the service. An interesting fact is that during the adding of the new top stage of the tower there has been no cessation of ringing. Ringing twice on Sundays and on practice nights has continued without a break, and visiting bands have been welcomed also.

The two new trebles are a generous gift by the Barron Bell Trust, and during the service the Vicar spoke in terms of appreciation for what the Trust had done, and that he felt certain it would be valued not only by the parish but by all Cornish ringers, because it would be the only ring of ten in a parish church in Cornwall.

NORWICH DIOCESAN Southern Branch

On September 5th the Southern Branch visited Dickleburgh, where over 30 members and friends received a warm welcome. The service was conducted by the Rector (Rev. M. R. Peacock), who also dedicated a peal board recording the first peal on the augmented six. Mr. Nolan Golden (president of the Association) read the lesson.

At the business meeting, which was presided over by Dr. P. H. A. Jonason, three new members were elected. A collection for the belfry repair fund amounted to £1 6s. 3d.

It was decided to revive the former scheme of the practice of a chosen method at each meeting, and Highbury Court Bob has been selected for the next meeting at Quidenham on November 28th.

The meeting closed with votes of thanks to the Rector, organist, the ladies who served the tea, and all who had helped to make it such a success. C. F. W. P.

ST. JOHN'S, HILLINGDON

The second annual half-day outing of the St. John's, Hillingdon, ringers took place on September 12th. Winchester Cathedral, Binsted and Alton were visited. Methods rung included Grandsire Cinques, Kent T.B. Royal, Bristol and Cambridge Surprise Major and Cambridge and Norwich Surprise Minor. The good quality of the ringing and the fine weather made an enjoyable afternoon for all.

OBITUARY

MR. PERCY FORDHAM

For 51 years a ringer at Mildenhall and 30 years parish clerk, Mr. Percy Fordham died on September 12th, aged 78. He was a member of the Suffolk Guild, the Ely Diocesan Association, the Norwich Diocesan Association and the Ancient Society of College Youths. In memory of his wife, who died in 1949, Mr. Fordham gave two stained-glass windows to Mildenhall Church. One depicted a lady handbell ringer and the other St. Cecilia, the patron saint of music. He loved bells and ringing, and frequently accompanied the organ on handbells.

On the day of his funeral, a quarter peal of Grandsire Triples was rung half-muffled by Mrs. E. M. Peachy (Lakenheath) 1, H. B. Fuller (Thetford) 2, Miss D. M. Reeve (Hockwold) 3, L. J. Nice (Rougham) 4, R. Rose 5, A. R. Mann (Newmarket) 6, J. W. Paul (conductor, Elvedon) 7, L. Wright (Bury St. Edmunds) 8. Mr. Paul conducted Mr. Fordham's last peal on April 28th, 1928.

FUNERAL OF MRS. D. MATTHEWS

At the funeral service of Mrs. Dorothy Matthews, wife of the Rector of Finchley, on September 21st, half-muffled rounds were rung as the cortege left the church. Those taking part and paying their respects were Messrs. A. Richardson, F. Barker, A. Warren and L. Tubbs (Finchley ringers), F. Tubbs and F. Cherrett (retired Finchley ringers), Alick Cutler (Master at Willesden, at which church the Rector was prior to coming to Finchley) and T. J. Lock (secretary, Middlesex Association). Details of the quarter peal rung later in the day appear on another page.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION Rochester District

Over 80 members of the Rochester District attended a very pleasant by-meeting held at Northfleet on September 12th, where the old church, like many another, is undergoing repairs to the tower. Everyone was able to join in ringing for two weddings before enjoying the ringers' service, conducted by the Vicar.

An excellent tea was kindly given by ringing friends at Northfleet. At a short business meeting, the District secretary took the chair and several new members were elected to the Kent County Association. It was with regret that old members learnt of the death of Mr. R. Constant.

Mr. T. Barton, the District secretary, thanked the Vicar for conducting the service, and Mr. and Mrs. George Butcher and helpers for giving such an excellent tea. Ringing continued until 8 p.m. F. J. C.

POINTS FROM RECENT PEALS

By the REV. K. W. H. FELSTEAD

SINCE it is more than six months since my last article on the above subject appeared, I fear some of the peals mentioned this time will not be quite as recent as usual.

Firstly, referring to last time, I was grateful to Mr. Gilbert for comparing notes on Handsworth, Yorkshire, 150th peal. I had not noticed the withdrawal of the peal of Forward Major in 1951, so that put us right with each other.

Now for landmarks. The 750th peal at Loughborough Bell Foundry was noted last time. Now, the 800th has been rung in August. In the last 12 months 65 peals have been rung there—the most ever. The end of 1962 should see the 1,000th peal there at this rate. The only other tower which has passed a 'large' milestone recently is St. Stephen's, Bristol, which has had its 250th peal—May 30th I make the day.

Two towers have reached the century mark—Shirley, Warwicks, and St. John's, Croydon. In the latter case, my figures did not quite agree with the claim for the 100th peal in April—I made that the 99th. The one in July was the 100th by my reckoning. I wonder if, inadvertently, a false peal rung in 1927 was included? However, congratulations to both on reaching three figures.

Several towers have reached the 50 mark, some claimed and some not. They are Blewbury, Stanmore, Wombourne, Dore and Langleybury. The claim of the 50th peal at Whickham on July 3rd does not agree with my figures. I made it the 49th. I should be pleased to compare notes on this. The next peals at North Muskham and Willesborough are the 50th, I think. Among the 5-bell towers, I confirm the 30th peal at Marston. This tower will soon be leading in the 5-bell tower field. Alderton, Ockham and Black Notley all reached double figures with their last peals.

There are not many 8-bell towers in the country which have not had a peal rung at them, so it isn't often we have to mention a first peal on that number of bells. But we have to do so this time, for Witheridge, Devon, has at last been 'conquered.' Only about 20 of the 1,500-odd 8-bell towers remain virgin territory, and most of these are unringable either physically or for some other reason. On 6 and 5 bells I confirm the following 'first on the bells': Grittleton, Tytherington, Mildenhall, Alderney, Guernsey (St. Michael's), Wapley, North Wheatley (which makes Ossington the only unpealed 6-bell tower in Nottinghamshire now), Minety, St. Martin, St. Winnow, Winchester College and Barton. The peal at Clipston, although not claimed as the first peal on the bells, is the first to appear in the peal columns of the ringing press. So we have quite a list of firsts this time.

We have one or two very infrequent visitors to mention this time. One tower doesn't appear to have had a peal this century before its recent one! This is St. Werburgh's, Derby, where the last peal was rung in 1897. Up till then it had appeared quite often in the peal lists, for 20 peals were rung from 1882 to 1897—six of them in 1895. There was a claim that Huntley, Glos, had its last peal in 1888, but actually this was not so. There was one there in 1922, but it is a pretty good silence all the same. I have recorded peals there in 1887, 1888, 1889 and 1922. I confirm that the peal at High Ercall was the first for nearly 50 years (1910 the last one). Before that, the only two I have there were in 1812! The Belfry Gossip note to the peal at Llangattock-juxta-Crickhowell was only partly right. The last peal there was certainly Mr. Wilfred Williams' first peal, and on December 10th, 1922, but it was not the only previous peal on the bells as suggested. Actually there were eight from 1901 to 1922—all of Grandsire (Doubles, Minor and Triples). Nowadays, the 1921 peal of Triples would not be counted, for the footnote says: 'Owing to the heavy going of the tenor, Mr. Allbutt kindly relieved the tenor man for the last 20 minutes of the peal.'

Holt's (Denbighs) last peal was in 1923. There have been six here in all now. It is 35 years (1924) since the only previous peal was rung at Petham (Kent). That was of Minor in four methods. The following year saw the only time that Tysoe has appeared in these columns, when a peal of Grandsire Doubles was rung on June 20th. Frinsted and Lubenham both had their previous peals in 1927. At the former, this was the only previous peal to the recent one. Lubenham had had three, in 1922, 1925 and 1927. It is 30 years since Denton's last peal—Doubles in two methods on August 31st, 1929. There had been a peal of Minor here before that in 1913. Bickleigh likewise has now had three peals in all—the last was in 1930 and the first peal on the bells was in 1927. The year 1933 heard the last peals at Kirby Wiske and Collingtree. It was the only peal previously rung at the former, but Collingtree had also had peals of Grandsire Doubles in 1919 and 1923.

I confirm that the peal rung at Newburn-on-Tyne in the spring was the first for 24 years. The first peal here was rung in 1889, and there have been 11 in all, five in 1928. The year 1935 also saw the last peal at Kingsbury. This was, up to now, the only peal rung on those bells since they were removed from St. Andrew's, Wells Street. Both Belton and Wainfleet had their last peals in 1936, but whereas the former had several peals commencing in 1911 (actually 12), the latter had its one and only in 1936. The last peal on the old bells at Bourton-on-the-Water was in 1937. There were six bells here at first, on which one peal was rung in 1908. They were augmented just before the first world war, and peals of Grandsire Triples were rung in 1914 and 1915. The next peal was also in this method in 1929, and finally came the 1937 peal—Cambridge Major. Finally, the last towers previously heard before the second world war are Nynhead and Sampford Arundel. Both had their only previous peals in 1939.

Then for a few corrections to footnote claims, etc. The last peal at Llanelly, Brecons, was not 25 years ago but on February 6th, 1946, conducted by A. P. C. Similarly, the peal at Broadway, Worcs, was not the first for over 25 years. The last was in 1953, and two before that were in 1933 and 1936. The peal at Eastwood, Yorkshire, of Yorkshire Major, was not the first peal in the method on the bells. In fact the first peal of Surprise Major there was in that method on April 30th, 1932. A first peal of Yorkshire Major was also claimed for Blackburn Cathedral on May 20th. But I fear one was rung there as recently as November 12th, 1955. Finally, the footnote to the peal of Cambridge Major at Putney on May 30th seemed to suggest that it was the only peal of Surprise rung there, even before the restoration of the bells. It is certainly a very long time since Surprise Major was rung at Putney, but I have recorded the following: Superlative in 1894, 1897, 1904 and 1906; Cambridge in 1897; London in 1898, 1900 (three peals), 1904 and 1905; Westminster (!) in 1897 and 1899.

One or two final points of interest noticed when recording the peals. Stokesay has had 33 peals, 30 of them have been Grandsire Doubles! The first on the bells, in 1908, was of Minor in three methods, then came 26 of Grandsire Doubles from 1920 to 1950, in which year there was the other peal of Minor, this time in seven methods. After four more peals of Grandsire came the last peal of all, on May 9th last—Doubles in two methods! Mapledurham also had only Grandsire Doubles to show before the recent peal of Minor in eight methods—six of them from 1907 to 1951. Mr. T. Myers waited a long time to 'complete the circle' at Bridgerule! The first peal on the bells was in 1928, and Mr. Myers did not take part in that. He has been in all since then—nine—and actually only wanted one bell to 'complete the circle' after the peal in 1939, so he has been waiting for 20 years! There was only one peal until the previous one since 1939—in 1949, and Mr. Myers rang the 7th for the second time then. By the way, all but one of the ten peals here have been Grandsire Triples. The odd man out was Bob Major in 1937.

After reading 'Westward with Wratten,' it may be of interest to the Exercise to learn that Wratten made a further, though rather more furtive, journey westward in mid-August. At last this pillar of campanological bachelorhood has been proved to have feet of clay!

A second edition of 'The Beginners' Handbook' is now in the press as very few copies remain of the first edition of 5,000.

Five present employees and one pensioner of W. D. and H. O. Wills, Bristol, rang a quarter peal at Easton-in-Gordano, Somerset, on September 7th.

Correspondence concerning Woburn bells should be addressed to Mr. K. G. Spavins and not to the Vicar who, we regret to state, is very ill and at the time of writing in hospital.

We are pleased to see that Mr. William Beeson, of Cranleigh, is back again in the peal columns and looking very fit and well after his illness.

Mr. T. Arthur Palmer, the hon. secretary of the Marlborough Branch, Salisbury Diocesan Guild, has completed 21 years in office. Appreciation of his services was voiced during the Branch's annual outing on September 26th, when he was presented with an illuminated scroll recording a peal of Grandsire Doubles rung in his honour at Mildenhall last August.

The bells at St. Paul's, Bournemouth, consist of eight plus two half tones (tenor approximately 4 cwt.). They are operated by a clavier installed in the chancel behind the choir stalls. The carillon is a memorial to the present Vicar's late wife. Mr. A. V. Davis 'rang' some changes and hymn tunes on the bells to 'open' them at the time of dedication and also after the service. The spire would not be considered safe for the installation of bells for change-ringing, writes a correspondent.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Mr. T. Cooke has succeeded Mr. Kenneth Arthur, who has completed his maximum term of office as president of the Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association. The Association has now a new office—Ringing Master, who will be responsible for the general direction of ringing instruction. Mr. Arthur was the only nominee for the post.

Members of the Ladies' Guild will wish to congratulate Miss Muriel Reay on ringing her 500th peal.

Mr. George E. Fearn's party have just concluded a successful week in South Devon with 11 peals out of 12 attempts.

Mr. K. G. Spavins, secretary of the Luton District, has had a very narrow escape from blindness. A large piece of steel was removed from one of his eyes after passing through the iris. He is now able to ring.

We regret to learn of the death of Mr. Cecil V. Ebberson, Ringing Master of the Western Branch, Norwich Diocesan Association, which occurred on October 1st at his home at Snettisham.

Following the rededication of Kimpton bells on October 31st, a ringing competition for individual Hertfordshire towers will be held. The test will be 360 Minor (own choice of method). Messrs. W. Ayre and A. P. Cannon will be the judges. A silver cup will be awarded to the winning team, to be held for one year.

The seventh bell at Preston Parish Church, Lancs, which was cracked, has been replaced. The Sunday service band have rung a quarter of Stedman, the first in Preston for many years, as a farewell to the Vicar (Ven. W. G. Fallows), who is now Principal of Ripon Hall, Oxford. Mrs. Crossthwaite and Miss Betty Faunch are congratulated on being the first ladies to ring a quarter of Stedman in this area.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION AT DINNER

FIRMLY established in the calendar of the Kent County Association is the annual dinner, and this year the function was held at the Corn Exchange, Rochester, on September 26th. All the six Districts were represented in the gathering of over 100 ringers, Mr. John Willis (vice-president), who presided, making the journey from Folkestone. The guests included the Mayor and Mayoress of Rochester and the Dean of Rochester and Mrs. Standard. A presentation was made to Mr. Terry Barton, who accepted responsibility for local arrangements, working in conjunction with Dr. E. S. J. Hatcher, the hon. secretary of the Association. A cheque for £3 15s. was also presented to the Editor of 'The Ringing World' as a gesture towards meeting the rising costs of producing the journal.

The chairman, after proposing the loyal toast submitted the toast of 'The Church.' He said among ringers there was a very great spirit of unity and brotherhood, and it had always surprised him that the clergy had not realised how strong that spirit of brotherhood and sisterhood was. 'Where we go we are practically sure of a welcome in the tower we visit.'

LONDON'S HEARTY WELCOME

Mr. Willis recalled some years ago when he was a member of a county education committee being a member of a deputation to the president of the Board of Education. At the conclusion of the interview their leader, Lord Sandwich, asked him if he was going home. Mr. Willis replied that he was staying up in London for a time. Lord Sandwich said: 'Going to a show?'. He replied: 'No, I am going to ring at St. Clement Danes' Church.' His Lordship was astounded, and said: 'Do you mean that you will be permitted to ring on these bells in London?'. Mr. Willis replied: 'I expect I shall be greeted in a hearty way because London ringers are noted for their welcome to their poor brothers from the country.'

'We want a great deal more from the clergy than we get at the present time. I know many clergy do much for their ringers, but how much better it would be if they could meet their ringers for a minute or two when they assemble for service ringing.'

The Dean of Rochester (Rt. Rev. R. W. Stannard), who replied, said such a friendly brotherly and sisterly gathering as they had that evening set an example to the rest of the Church.

ROCHESTER BELLS

'I feel very sad that the first time I met you the bells were silent. When I was instituted at Rochester Cathedral there were no bells. I am happy to say that it will not be long before they are ringing again. I hope some of you will come up to the tower, and there will be a welcome for you.'

Bishop Stannard mentioned the traditional saying that the number of times an incumbent rang the bell at his induction represented the number of years he would remain in the parish. 'In my first parish,' said the Bishop, 'I rang the bell seven times, and on the seventh anniversary there was a meeting of the Church Council and I was able to tell them I was leaving the parish.'

'At the end of the war I was vicar of a small parish, and the first time after the war that we had a death I went into the belfry and tolled the bell. I must have pulled too hard because the rope came down upon me. Later it was found that the undertaker had no straps to lower the coffin into the grave. I told him to get a bell rope and this he did, and the coffin was lowered into the ground.'

The Dean said while the number of ordinands had risen the number of clergy was still going down. On the other hand the number of laity was increasing and the number of Easter communicants was going up quite steadily although they were not so great as they would like.

The toast of 'The Kent County Association' was proposed by Ald. H. Wilson, Mayor of Rochester. He said he had read with pleasure their annual report. Their ancient city, with its charter going back as far as 1190, had always been closely associated with the Mother Church. The K.C.A. was somewhat left out in the cold from the many organisations that got grants, but it was one of the oldest and he felt that something should be done to preserve the art of change-ringing.

To his mind, there was no sweeter music than church bells ringing over the English countryside. He would like to accompany the Dean to the belfry of Rochester Cathedral when he welcomed the ringers after the restoration had been completed. He noticed that the County Association was divided into six Districts, and that two of the District secretaries—Mr. Luck, of Canterbury, and Mr. Hill, of Lewisham—had both served for over 20 years. 'May your belfry prayer be said in many new towers,' concluded the Mayor.

Mr. P. A. Corby, who replied on behalf of the Association, said that gathering was something that could only take place in England. Sometimes when they attended ringers' gatherings they were told of the beautiful bells on the Continent, and those remarks invariably came from people who did not understand change-ringing. One of the objects of the Kent County Association was to encourage the old English art of change-ringing. Except for Australia, the United States and Canada both in a small degree, the art was not practised outside these islands.

The suggestion had been made that change-ringing should be organised on the basis of dioceses of the Church of England; but if they tried to apply that to the Kent County Association they would have a problem. Their Association covered most of the Diocese of Canterbury and the whole of the Diocese of Rochester. There was also a little part of their area within the boundary of the London County Council. It was a happy thought that Bishop Stannard, in his capacity as Bishop of Woolwich, was a vice-president of the Association, and now as Dean of Rochester he was still a vice-president.

The Kent County Association had been built by some very great men, Canon Helmore was the chief architect, and they had still with them one founder member in Ted Ruck. He hoped that young people would come forward and see that the towers of Kent were never silent.

DEVELOPMENT OF THE EXERCISE

Dr. E. S. J. Hatcher, hon. secretary of the K.C.A., proposed the toast of 'The Exercise.' What was the organisation which knitted the Exercise together?, he asked. This had its beginnings several centuries ago and was preserved even to this day by the Ancient Society of College Youths and the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths. The territorial Guilds and Associations came into being in the last century and rapidly extended their influence throughout the country. Their Association dated from 1880, and it was linked with all kindred Societies, who were honoured by the toast, in the Central Council. How glad and proud they were that coinciding with their 80th birthday the Central Council were coming to Kent.

In the 20th century, with the territorial Associations mostly in full swing, the Exercise of ringing had benefited tremendously by the organisational efforts of their 19th century forbears, for by them it had been possible to weather the storms of two great world wars, and to withstand the changing social habits of the nation with churchgoing no longer the duty of the many but the active Christian worship of the few.

The main contribution of the first half of the present century was the establishment of various channels of recruitment for new ringers. One of these was a direct consequence of the 1914-18 war, when ladies first appeared in the belfries to keep the bells ringing while the menfolk were fighting battles. The Ladies' Guild had grown into a national organisation. Meanwhile, at the old universities of Oxford and Cambridge ringing Societies were already in action, a movement which since the last war had spread in the first instance through the formation of the Universities' Association, but today there were ringing Societies in the majority of universities. Surely this recruitment at university level must prove a growing and rich investment, not only because university graduates went out to their jobs in all parts of the country, but a goodly number of them taught.

'OCCUPATIONAL' GUILDS

They also today had 'occupational' Guilds in the Clerical Guild, the Police Guild, the Railwaymen's Guild, the Medical Guild and the R.A.F. Guild. In their respective spheres each contributed to the general health and activity of the Exercise, and when they thought of kindred Societies they also thought of them. To complete the above, there were groups of young ringers, groups of rather light-hearted enthusiasts who dashed along the countryside during holidays on bicycles and so on, stayed in youth hostels and rang to their hearts content. Good ringing, too, for among their numbers were the budding leaders of the future.

This great and varied flow of new blood into the Ringing Exercise was, he felt, the contribution of the present century. In some respects it paralleled the more genuine progress of education, and it was a great thing to be thankful for that the Exercise had moved with the times. Nor was it surprising that with such broadening of educative interest the theories of ringing had advanced so rapidly and far in the last 50 years.

Dr. Hatcher coupled with the toast the name of the Editor of 'The Ringing World.'

In his reply, Mr. White took a favourable view of the progress of the Exercise, and announced that over 4,500 copies of 'The Beginners' Handbook' had been sold since the beginning of last April, and a second edition would soon be on the press.

During the evening a well-struck course of Grandire Caters was rung by Mrs. Corby 1-2, W. Dobbie (conductor) 3-4, E. A. Barnett 5-6, P. A. Corby 7-8, Mrs. Walter Dobbie 9-10. The youthful Frindsbury handbell ringers, under the leadership of Mr. Cyril Jarrett, also received a great reception for their tune ringing.

TICKHILL, YORKS.—On Sept. 29th, 1,260 Plain Bob Minor: Gordon Turner 1, W. Cannings 2, F. Watkinson 3, H. Barnes 4, K. Durdy 5, A. Hulley (cond.) 6. A compliment to the Vicar (the Rev. G. T. S. Cook) on completing 21 years as Vicar.

WARMLEY, GLOS.—On Sept. 17th, 1,260 Grandire Doubles: P. G. King 1, Myra J. Wilkins (first 'inside') 2, Sheila C. Matthews (first in method) 3, E. Cooksley (first 'inside') 4, Rita M. Webb 5, C. J. Turner 6. Conducted by 3 and 5 alternate 120s. Rung half-muffled before memorial service to Dr. John Chilcott, local G.P. for 27 years.

MR. T. J. LOCK'S YORKSHIRE TOUR

A WEEK among the Yorkshire hills and dales; town and countryside; abbeys, cathedrals and churches; forest fires; the moorland with its straying sheep; dried up waterways and reservoirs at low level; the 'tykes,' whose own sons had just won the county cricket championship; and, of course, tufted ends to some of the bell ropes and the attendant boxes on which to stand because the ropes are not adjustable: all these were the destiny of a touring party, arranged once again by Mr. Tom Lock.

To enable the programme to commence on the first day, those of the party living south of London travelled by train and met others at Hemsworth, where the initial effort—a 5,184 Rutland Surprise Major—was successful. Those not engaged in this peal journeyed on to headquarters at Ilkley, where a refreshing wash and evening meal was some reward for the day's travels.

On Sunday, our rest day, we were welcomed to ring for Matins at Ilkley, a very pleasant octave, and after the service we inspected the stained-glass window dedicated to Jasper W. Snowdon, historian and expositor of change-ringing. This window is a beautiful memorial, and shows bells in different sectors of their swing as its border.

In the afternoon a leisurely drive via Bolton Abbey (where we had the unexpected pleasure of meeting Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Watts, also sight-seeing) brought us to the Spa at Harrogate, and we visited nearby Knaresborough in the hopes of a pull on the eight with 18 cwt. tenor, but it was not to be as the bells had been chimed only for several years.

YORKSHIRE GLORY

Starting in earnest on Monday morning, no one realised what a pleasant and successful week was in store for us. Although the first peal attempt proved non-conclusive through a broken rope, Cambridge Surprise Major at Birstall being prematurely halted after 40 minutes, another band in the afternoon completed an extent of Superlative Surprise Major at Batley, when Miss Ruth Foreman scored her 'first.' This must be an ancient, if not historic, parish, as displayed on a board is a list of vicars since 1252. The 'spares' were very kindly taken by Mr. Marsden to one of t'other Heatons, in this case St. Peter's, Earlsheaton, where, among other methods, we rang a course of Yorkshire Glory.

It became known that well before breakfast the following morning several courageous members of the party climbed up to the Cow and Calf Rocks and visited the Tarn—they voluntarily chatted of the grandeur of the view. A little later the transport set off for Marsden—and what a worth while visit! As one enters the church one is quietly seized with inspiration and admiration. All the fabric, furnishings and fittings seem fresh and new (through an un-sparing effort of labour and love), and the condition of the ringing chamber and belfry are just as good—a credit to all. A peal of Yorkshire Surprise Royal was rung here, without fear or favour, particularly as this was the first peal rung with the complete set of ropes having tufted ends. In the afternoon we journeyed on to Wakefield Cathedral, where Mr. and Mrs. Wilfrid Moreton and baby were awaiting us.

We rang on all 13 bells in this tower, though not at the same time, as we had no desire to upset the Rules and Decisions of the Central Council. It was agreed that London Surprise Major be rung on the middle eight, and a good peal was the result, it being the first peal in the method on the bells.

WEDNESDAY'S TRIO

On Wednesday we were all required to take a rope, and although one of the optimistic members of the party recalled that this was our bleakest day during past tours, it turned out that nothing could dampen our spirits—there was still no sign of rain, and liquid refreshment did not penetrate so far as to the spirits, wherever they may be in the human body. Cambridge Surprise Royal was the method chosen to ring on the splendid ten at Bradford Cathedral, and in the afternoon the mighty atoms were split into two forces going in opposite directions, both being successful and thus completing a trio for the day. Yorkshire Surprise Major was rung at Otley and Cambridge Surprise Major at Rothwell.

The next morning was also a busy one for those who were potentially on holiday. A peal of London Surprise Major was rung at Skipton, while another eight scored with Lincolnshire Surprise Major at Keighley. 'One Hundred Years,' the title of an interesting and well-illustrated book, published to mark the centenary of the opening of the present Church of St. Andrew, Keighley, contains the details of a notice which is in the tower, as follows:—

'On Monday, June 21st, 1813, the Society of Change Ringers, belonging to this steeple, conducted by Mr. David Smith, rung an harmonious peal of new Treble Bob, containing 10,000 changes, composed by the justly celebrated Mr. Joseph Tebbs. The Bells were struck into changes at nine minutes past nine in the morning, and were brought round in a masterly style at 12 minutes past three in the afternoon by Thomas Midgley (treble), George Hattersley, Thomas Fox, John Blakey (Junnr.), Jos. Bradley, Samuel Clapham, Jas. Inman (Tenor), John Blakey. The performance delighted and astonished connoisseurs. The English under Wellington beat the French at Vittoria in Spain, and slew 10,000 men, while the peal was ringing.'

After lunch a visit was made to Guiseley, where a 5,000-odd of Bristol Surprise Major was accomplished. An unhappy omission in the tour's programme was made this day when the 'spares' failed to go to Birstwith for a short ring, and the organiser's apologies are extended to Mr. Ewbank, the local correspondent.

TENORS' HANDSTROKES 'IN'

Friday's efforts were in some respects similarly rewarded as to those on Monday, i.e., one peal rung and one lost. The very-well-going ring of ten at Ripon Cathedral was the attraction for the morning, and a peal of Cambridge Surprise Royal was never in doubt of being recorded. The ringing was not hurried but a few minutes were undoubtedly saved and the treble's task made that much easier by the persistence of the two tenor men in keeping their hand-strokes 'in,' an admirable rule for ringing, which we shall hear about again on future tours. In the Cathedral ringing chamber is a stained-glass window recording a peal of Kent Treble Bob Major rung on August 28th, 1886, to mark the 1,000th anniversary of the town's civic charter. There is, apparently, another 'ringing' window, executed by the same craftsman, in nearby Sharow Church, and together with other examples at St. Peter's, St. Albans, and at Ilkley, might form the subject of an interesting publication (but please forward all information to Mr. Ernest Morris!). The unsuccessful attempt was made at Tadcaster, where 6-Spliced Surprise Major was halted through a rope breaking after a little more than one-and-a-quarter hours' ringing.

The last day arrived, but good fortune and good friends were still to be with us. By many a winding road, going up and going down, we arrived at Heptonstall, the largest parish in the country, about 25,000 acres in area. Here was rung a peal of 4-Spliced Surprise Major, and messages of felicitation were sent to young and old—a welcome to the newly-born son of the Vicar of Heptonstall and his wife, and a 90th birthday compliment to Mrs. L. Morris, mother of Leslie W. G. While the final peal, one of Yorkshire Surprise Major, was being rung at Sowerby, the remaining ringers attended a meeting at Ripponden, where they were warmly welcomed.

So concluded a very happy and successful tour, during which time 13 peals were rung from 15 attempts, in a part of the country where the towers are strong and robust enough to take the weight of the bell metal, where a good variety of rings of bells is obtainable, where visiting ringers are expected to maintain local tradition by raising and lowering in peal, and where all ringers are welcomed.

Our thanks are due to provosts, deans, incumbents, officers of the Yorkshire Association, tower secretaries and captains, and others who assisted in any way to ensure the satisfactory conduct of a tour in which ringers representing towers as far apart as Newcastle and Worthing took part.

ST. MARTIN'S GUILD

The quarterly meeting of the St. Martin's Guild for the Diocese of Birmingham was held at Coleshill on September 19th. The fine crocketed spire of Coleshill Parish Church is a landmark for miles around, and contains a left-handed ring of eight bells. The Master (Mr. Edgar C. Shepherd) presided at the meeting and welcomed two visitors—Mr. John Acres, of Leicester, and Mr. Hugh Neill, of Worcester. The tower election, as a life member, of Mr. Frederick R. Scott, of Slough, was ratified.

Mr. R. C. Ingram reported on the condition of Henry Johnson's tombstone, which was leaning badly and needed a concrete base. This tombstone, which was subscribed for by ringers in all parts of England, is the only stone in Aston Churchyard which has not been laid flat.

The meeting decided to meet the cost of making the stone secure.

It was decided to hold the Henry Johnson commemoration dinner on the first Saturday in March.

Thanks were extended to the Rev. E. F. A. Morgan for officiating at the service, to his daughter Rosemary, who played the organ, and to Mr. W. C. Rhodes and the ladies for arranging tea.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

PEAL FEES

Dear Sir,—May I be permitted to reply to the correspondence on the matter of peal fees?

Mr. Denyer may be assured that the matter was fully discussed before the adoption of the rule and that the seven points he makes came before the meeting in one form or another. It was reported to the annual meeting of the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild, held at Southampton in 1958, that the rule had worked well in its first year and that all fees were paid.

Mr. Tom Chapman rather contradicts himself by describing a 'closed shop' (as he calls it) as ridiculous and then going on to recommend a National Guild in which, surely, a 'closed shop' would be automatic in such circumstances. Had we a National Guild in existence, undoubtedly the 'necessary machinery' would have been put into action and, who knows, Robin, Pat and their friends on their way to Siberia by now!

I am glad Mr. Leale has written at some length to try to justify his action. I am not alone in thinking that he rather 'cocked a snook' at the Guild when replying to the Rev. K. W. H. Felstead's letter concerning the Channel Island peals. The smaller questions as to whether the peals are recorded or deleted or whether the fees are paid or not do not really concern me. I am concerned, however, about the breaking of the rule, and I feel that this matter concerns every Guild and Association in the Exercise. How can a society, guild, club or any group run its affairs efficiently if its rules are not respected by its members? The rules may be bad, need revision from time to time or even need deletion of certain items, but they must be kept while they are in force by all members. From this standpoint I say that Mr. Leale, excellent change-ringer though he may be, has not justified his action and has proved to be a poor Guildsman.—Yours sincerely,

ARTHUR V. DAVIS.

Bournemouth.

P.S.—I believe it was Mr. Colin Harrison who championed the cause of a National Guild and urged its formation some 20 years ago, and not Mr. Charles Kippin.—A. V. D.

CORK'S TENOR

Dear Sir,—Come, come, 'P. A. C.', 'Finbarre's' tenor in Cork is a masterpiece of retuning by Taylor. There is a difference! After all, the old metal spoiler of Gloucester has had some 200 years of uncritical praise. Had the family name been Hemony, there may have been some justification for it.—Yours sincerely,

W. E. BOX.

Harborne, Birmingham.

P.S.—Even an 1861 Cripplegate sixth was more than successfully overcame by retuning. What a ring!—W. E. B.

FIRST PEAL OF SURPRISE OUT OF ENGLAND

Dear Sir,—The first peal of Superlative at Bray, Ireland, was rung on May 28th, 1901, conducted by J. S. Goldsmith; also it was the first of Surprise out of England.—Yours, etc.,

E. JENKINS.

Oldham, Lancs.

IGNORING RULES CHAOS

Dear Sir,—Mr. Leale's long letter is quite irrelevant. Many societies have rules which some members find irksome or with which they do not agree. But if they are loyal they will observe them. At the last Central Council meeting I proposed a 'levy' of all the Associations according to membership (perhaps 6d. a head) to help put 'The Ringing World' on its feet. It was heavily defeated, and the idea of making a levy on peal ringers found more favour. I do not agree with this myself (of course, no decision was made), but if it were passed by the Council I would loyally accept it. Mr. Leale apparently would not if he didn't agree with it. He only wants to keep the rules he agrees with. If we all only kept the rules we liked and refused to observe those we didn't like the result would be chaos. The rules of the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild were properly made and accepted by a general meeting. Therefore they are to be observed by all loyal members. On his own showing, Mr. Leale admits his disloyalty, and all for the sake of a shilling or two. Can our Guild do anything but condemn him after giving him every opportunity of coming into line first?—

K. W. H. FELSTEAD.

GREAT YARMOUTH

Dear Sir,—Will you please permit the use of your columns to amplify the announcement elsewhere in this issue of the opening of the new ring of 13 at St. Nicholas' Parish Church, Great Yarmouth, on Saturday, October 31st. So that intending ringers are not disappointed, it is essential that we know not only the numbers we can anticipate but also their ringing preferences; in fact, those who can organise themselves into complete bands beforehand will greatly assist.

As Yarmouth has heard no bells for nearly 20 years, each should only attempt what they know they can ring.

The general physical layout and access to the tower somewhat dictate the number of ringers that can be conveniently and comfortably accommodated in the ringing chamber at any one time, and for the opening we have decided on 24, which number will be replaced at frequent intervals. This seems quite the fairest means to try and ensure that everyone has a ring, and provided all co-operate with those controlling things on the spot, there is no reason why everything should not work smoothly. May I appeal to all competent 12-bell ringers to hold themselves in readiness to assist those less proficient?

Admission to the Priory School Hall nearby for a buffet tea (2s. 6d.), which will be available between 4 and 6 p.m., will be by ticket obtainable from a steward at the ground entrance to the tower. By having a buffet there will obviously be no need to stop ringing for the tea period.

May I say we look forward to welcoming all ringers able to make the journey, and again emphasise the necessity of letting us know early that they are coming.—Yours sincerely,

GILBERT THURLOW.

Great Yarmouth.

CAMBRIDGE SURPRISE MAXIMUS

Dear Sir,—In reply to Mr. E. A. Barnett, I would assure him that the aim behind the composition to which he refers was not only to keep the second out of 5-6, but at the same time contained as far as possible in fourths place. I am aware of compositions conforming to the first condition, but of no other conforming to both. I may add that I was not aware of Mr. Carter's peal, but it is evident from Mr. Barnett's description that it was purely designed to retain the fourth in fourths place only. I may say that some years have elapsed since I worked out the figures, and before publishing the composition I discussed it with such eminent persons as Messrs. C. W. Roberts, C. K. Lewis and F. E. Darby, to mention a few.

While on the subject, will Mr. Barnett please tell us the author of the appended peal of Pudsey Surprise Major:—

2 3 4 5 6	B	M	W	H
3 5 2 6 4	X
5 6 3 4 2	X
2 4 3 6 5		—	—	—
3 2 4 6 5		—	—	—
4 3 2 6 5		—	—	—
5 6 2 3 4		—	—	—
2 5 6 3 4		—	—	—
6 2 5 3 4		—	—	—
2 3 6 4 5	X

Twice repeated.

Could it possibly be the late A. Craven? I hope Mr. Barnett will not mind my saying that Pudsey Surprise Major is another method in which true originality is, in my opinion, not possible on this plan.—Yours truly,

L. W. G. MORRIS.

Heaton, Bradford, 9.

DON'T FORGET WALES

Dear Sir,—Reading between the lines of the rather aggressive letter by Mr. Williams ('R.W.' of October 2nd), it seems to me that he has been in contact with too many of the British schoolboys he mentioned.—Yours faithfully,

ROBERT B. SMITH.

Loughborough.

NOT FIRST PEALS

Dear Sir,—I am asked to point out that the peal of York Surprise Minor rung at Blunsdon, Wilts, on February 22nd and reported on page 169 was not the first in the method for this Association. The first was rung at Minchinhampton on November 11th, 1932, conducted by F. Ponting.

Also, the first peal of London Surprise Minor for this Association was rung on March 1st, 1932, again at Minchinhampton and conducted by F. Ponting. The peal reported on page 381 of 'The Ringing World' of June 12th was therefore not the first for the Association.

I trust that all those who keep records will suitably amend them. The error in the current report of the Gloucester and Bristol Association is regretted.—Yours sincerely,

CHARLES ROUSE.

Hon. Secretary,
Gloucester and Bristol Association.

PRESENTATION TO MR. FREDERICK G. LEAKER AT BRISTOL

AN interesting ceremony took place in the belfry of St. Mary Redcliffe, Bristol, on September 24th where, in the presence of a good representative company of his fellow ringers, Mr. Frederick G. Leaker was presented with a portable radio set.

The presentation was made by the Vicar (Rev. R. F. Cartwright), who said Mr. Leaker had been associated with St. Mary Redcliffe since the beginning of this century, and had rung many peals there. The first of Stedman Cinques, was on Easter Monday, 1907, the 50th anniversary of which was marked by a similar peal on Easter Monday, 1957 — an achievement.

He (the Vicar) added that he hoped Mr. Leaker would enjoy years with his radio and be spared to ring at Redcliffe as long.

Mr. Leaker in his reply said he wished to thank the Vicar and all those who had made the presentation possible, and he was sure he would get full enjoyment from the radio. The circumstances surrounding the gift would never be forgotten by him.

To conclude the ceremony, Mr. Leaker conducted Cinques, made up from a band of his friends, in his usual style.

RAILWAYMEN'S GUILD

The autumn meeting of the Railwaymen's Guild was held on September 26th at Newport (Mon) and was attended by members from the Midland and Western Regions, Eastern and Southern Regions and the L.T.E. Among the members present were Messrs. A. J. Pitman and Frank Stenson, the late general secretary.

The Dean of Monmouth, when visiting the ringers in the belfry at the Cathedral, apologised for being unable to accept the invitation to tea, but wished the meeting every success. Mr. J. H. Kirk, president of the B.R.S.A. Club and Institute, Newport, showed much interest in the ringing at the Cathedral, which he was seeing for the first time. Later, at the Tudor Restaurant, Mr. Kirk was given a warm welcome.

During the day, under the guidance of Mr. Bert Kynaston (the Master), ringing took place at All Saints' (8) and St. Woolos' Cathedral (12), and the last touch of the day was a delightful rendering of Little Bob Royal.

At the business meeting, with the Master in the chair, apologies were read from 18 members who were unable to attend. The general secretary then explained the correct procedure when applying for free travel facilities. A written resignation was read from Mr. N. Bland, the Eastern Region representative, who at the meeting nominated Mr. Ron Meadows to take his place.

Mr. Syd Foskett asked if we should accept the offer made by Mr. Fearn, of Birmingham, to make all arrangements for the A.G.M. in 1960, and this was agreed.

A vote of thanks was accorded Mr. Jack James, the Dean and Mr. Chas. Greedy. The latter, in reply, stated that he had every praise for the kind of ringing he had heard during the day.

GUILD of DEVONSHIRE RINGERS East Devon Branch

A quarterly meeting of the East Devon Branch was held at Kilmington on September 19th, and about 45 ringers and friends attended.

The service was conducted by the Rev. R. H. Callard, who also very kindly provided tea at the Vicarage and allowed the business meeting to be held on the lawn. At this meeting Mr. G. C. Woodley took the chair.

Certificates were presented by the president of the Guild (Preb. E. V. Cox) to Miss Sandra Webb and Mr. Thomas Clouton, from Honiton, and Mr. Brian Gardener, from Shute. It was proposed to hold the next quarterly meeting at Cotleigh on January 9th.

Methods rung were Grandire, Stedman and Bob Doubles, Bob, Kent Treble Bob, Cambridge and London Surprise Minor.

TOWER-GRABBERS AND SKITTLES

The N.S.T.G. (Bridgwater Branch) arranged another ringing and skittles day on September 5th, the fourth in the series. Eight ringers travelled from the Bristol area at an early hour to arrive at Moorlinch (a heavy six) at 9.45 a.m. A few minutes after the time appointed nine ringers were available for a quarter of Cambridge Minor; the three who stood down apparently spent their time picking blackberries! The quarter was successfully conducted by the ringers of 4 and 5; the band was Mary Powell 1, Monica Horseman 2, M. J. Horseman 3, D. E. Cobb 4, J. H. Gilbert 5, J. Brain 6.

Another successful quarter followed shortly thereafter at Westonzoyle (another heavy six) rung by Mary Powell 1, Audrey Bailey 2, C. Clarke 3, R. D. Short 4, J. Hunt 5, M. J. Horseman (conductor) 6. This time the method was St. Clement's Minor.

Unfortunately we were rather behind time when we arrived at 61, Kendale Road, where Mrs. Stone, and Mike (!), had kindly provided a marvellous lunch for the hungry ringers. With a considerably augmented band we visited Chilton Trinity (5) after lunch, and thence to Cannington, where the ringers seemed more interested in basking outside in the sunshine. We also visited Stogursey before tea—another fine, heavy six; in fact all the sixes were between 19–24 cwt.!

After tea we pressed on to Spaxton, where the ringing was not really up to standard (too many sore hands?), and finally to Enmore where, allegedly, the bells do not go too well.

As a change from ringing, a large company gathered at the Enmore Inn for the skittles contest. There is little of note to say about this except that we all enjoyed it (as usual), and that Jim was obviously very thrilled when presented with a horseshoe as consolation prize! Also, that we are all very grateful to Cecil, Ron, Mike and Mrs. Stone for their efforts on our behalf.

STORIES OF OLD LONDON RINGERS

By MR. E. BARNETT

A 'CHARACTER' who might be called a rough diamond with a heart of gold was Harry Flanders, of West Ham. He rang the treble to the 15,072 of Double Norwich at Brill in 1899. He also was a good ringer on all numbers. By occupation he was a carman for a firm of soap makers at Bow and his job was to collect offal from butchers' shops and slaughterhouses in the East End.

Harry Springhall, a fine ringer and conductor, rang either at Stepney or 'Bow-in-the-Road' (Stratford). A prominent College Youth, he died suddenly in Cornhill belfry while ringing for a special occasion during the 1914-18 war.

Another to die suddenly in the belfry was Walter Prime, a good heavy-bell man and a member of the Sunday band at St. Paul's. At the time of his death, about 1930, he was ringing at the Imperial Institute.

Of heavy-bell ringers, Henry R. Newton must be mentioned. About 55 years ago he rang the old Southwark tenor to Superlative Major and, perhaps 10 years later, the Bow tenor to a peal of London. I believe he called both peals. Anyone who did not know these bells at that time cannot begin to appreciate these performances.

Another prominent man in London ringing circles whom Mr. Symonds must have known was Arthur Jacob. A Cumberland Youth, he was a coppersmith until he lost two fingers in a cutting machine. Afterwards he worked for Warners. He collapsed and died in Liverpool about 45 years ago while rehanging a ring of bells.

Of those who came from East Anglia to London mentioned by Mr. Symonds, Henry Dains' name will always live as a composer. He was in the top class as a practical ringer and I rang several peals with him. I am told he was a very clever carpenter.

WRONG LETTERS

I always remember a very awkward situation Dains once got himself into. It was at the time William Willson published his short-lived but excellent paper 'The Bellringer.' Dains wrote two letters—one to Harvey Reeves and the other to Mr. Willson. In the one to Reeves he condemned 'The Bellringer' and I conclude the one to Mr. Willson was in the same strain about 'The Bell News.' Unfortunately for him he put the letters in the wrong envelopes. I have forgotten what Reeves had to say in 'The Bell News,' but Mr. Willson dealt with Mr. Dains in the following issue as only Mr. Willson could.

George Newson, another East Anglian, succeeded John Cox as the Cumberlands' conductor and he, too, was a carpenter.

Edwin Gibbs was a ringer of a very high standard and a member of the Sunday band at St. Paul's. He was a plumber by trade. During the last years of his life he was bedridden in a nursing home, and I seldom missed going to see him on Sunday afternoons. He was a most interesting man to talk to, and died about 25 years ago.

REMEMBERED WITH GRATITUDE

Mr. Trollope will be remembered with gratitude as long as ringing lasts as the historian of the Exercise. But for him, we should know little or nothing about ringers or ringing in the 17th, 18th and early 19th centuries. He was responsible for the editorials in this journal during the absence of Mr. Goldsmith on the Australian tour, and took charge during his last illness and after his death.

Mr. Brighton was, I believe, a photographer whose business for some years took him to beauty spots and seaside resorts all over the country, during which time he rang and conducted many peals.

'Tich' Symonds was, I believe, one of the Lavenham Symonds and at one time a prominent College Youth. In his latter years he was a Cumberland Youth and one of the band at St. Martin-in-the-Fields. He was a personal clerk to one of the High Court judges.

TOLLED FOR EXECUTIONS

I will conclude my memories with the steeple keeper of St. Sepulchre's, Snow Hill—Dan Lovetts. A 'colourful character,' he was parish beadle, and held one or two ancient offices which are associated with London parishes. One day I was standing outside St. Sepulchre's looking across at Newgate Prison, then in the process of demolition to make way for the present Old Bailey. I said to Dan: 'There goes a bit of old London.' He replied: 'Yes. That makes a difference to my income. I used to get 10s. for tolling the ninth every time there was an execution!'

These men were a wonderful generation who learned their ringing and practised it the hard way. They were perfectionists and had no time for anyone who was not. In their day the art of bell-hanging had advanced very little since the Middle Ages. There were no refinements such as ball-bearings and iron frames, which we have enjoyed for the last 30 or 40 years; and for bad-going bells most London towers were notorious, which all goes to make the perfect peals they rang more remarkable.

A SYSTON DISTRICT WEDDING

Two well-known members of the Syston District, Leicester Diocesan Guild—Mr. F. Kevon Thompson, of Barrow-on-Soar, and Miss A. Mary Carpenter, of Cossington—were married at All Saints', Cossington, on September 19th. The bridegroom called a 120 of Grandsire, with his best man (Mr. Geoffrey Lowe) and three of his wedding guests making up the band, before the service to steady his nerves!

The ringing after the wedding was interrupted for the ringers to be photographed with the bridal couple.

After the reception a quarter peal was rung at Barrow-on-Soar, where the couple are to make their home.

With all these weddings in the District Jean Brooks must be spending a fortune on cables from Australia! B. S. P.

BEVERLEY AND DISTRICT SOCIETY

The monthly meeting of the Society was held at St. Andrew's Church, Middleton-on-the-Wolds, on September 19th, and was the first meeting to be held there since October, 1948.

Seventeen members attended, together with visitors from Thorne and Barnby Dun, and full use was made of the six bells during the afternoon and evening to a variety of Doubles and Minor methods.

The service was conducted by the Rector (Rev. E. W. Winter), who welcomed the Society and expressed the wish that the next visit would not be so long delayed. The Rector gave an interesting address, in which he outlined the history of his ancient church.

An excellent tea was served in the Robin Hood Inn by Mrs. Hotham, to whom thanks were accorded at the short business meeting which followed.

HANSLOPE, BUCKS.—On Aug. 1st, 1,280 Double Norwich: G. W. Holland 1, J. Underwood 2, A. Cozens 3, W. A. Yates 4, F. C. Case 5, R. Gibbons 6, S. G. Osborne 7, G. E. Green (cond.) 8.

VETERANS IN THE CITY OF LONDON

Large numbers of people visit St. Clement Danes' Church in the Strand every day, and on September 26th those who inspected the lovely building were able to hear the bells being rung by veterans who had gathered from many parts. The ringers did not fail the public, for they displayed their skill by touches of Caters and Royal, which brought forth favourable comments, especially from those inside the church.

At St. Botolph's, Bishopsgate, short touches of Stedman, Plain Bob and Double Norwich were also rung, the outside listeners being mostly veterans enjoying the gardens adjoining, where the annual photograph was taken. Tea was tastefully arranged in the Fanmakers' Hall and full justice was done by the assembly of 50.

After tea came announcements and votes of thanks, which told us firstly that 45 veterans present averaged 72½ years, comprising one of 94, five over 80, 24 over 70 and 15 over 60. These 45 made up a total of 3,265 years.

The attendance register recorded the following names: Messrs. A. W. Coles, H. Statham, R. Sanders, F. Sinkin (94), F. W. Goodfellow, J. S. Hawkins, R. F. Deal, A. H. Winch, G. Marriner, H. J. Eldred, N. A. Tomlinson, S. Day, G. R. Spun, R. Newman, A. Turner, B. Baker, W. A. J. Knight, C. E. J. Norris, P. H. Avey, E. D. Smith, E. W. Furbank, C. A. Hughes, J. W. Chapman, P. J. Spice, A. B. Peck, W. J. Rawlings, G. E. Symonds, G. R. Goodship, E. V. Blake, H. Belcher, J. Marks, A. D. Barker, H. W. Clark, A. G. Mason, W. Welling, L. Stilwell, S. H. Hoare, W. Wenban, W. Shepherd, J. Brackley, W. H. Hewett, C. J. Sedgley, J. R. Sharman, F. W. Elliott, F. W. Brinklow, A. Cutler and J. E. Rootes.

Silent tribute was paid to the memory of E. Gladman, G. H. Head, G. N. Price, A. H. Pulling, T. J. Fowler, G. Pidwell and H. Baldwin.

The organiser (Mr. A. W. Coles) read apologies from the Rev. H. H. Treacher, Dr. F. S. Poole, Dr. E. L. Taylor, Canon C. C. Cox, Messrs. B. Aldridge, J. Bennett, W. Bottrell, W. Bowden, T. R. Dennis, C. W. R. Grimwood, F. I. Hairs, W. Hibbert, E. E. Holman, J. T. Kentish, H. Langdon, F. C. Maynard, E. Morris, F. W. Perrens, H. Rumens, J. F. Smallwood, S. H. Symonds, W. W. Webb, T. W. White, L. W. Wiffen, A. A. Hughes, E. Fenn, F. W. Housden and G. Gilbert.

For many kindnesses on this our one and only meeting of the year we included quite a number in our vote of thanks, and Mr. C. J. Sedgley ably voiced thanks to the Rev. H. H. Treacher for the use of St. Botolph's bells and the use of the Fanmakers' Hall, to the Rev. L. O. Rees (chaplain) for the use of St. Clement Danes' bells, to Mesdames E. E. Davis, E. Deal, P. Tomlinson, A. Deeley and Miss C. Moore for their services in connection with the tea, also to Mesdames D. Holland, M. Colville, K. Lock, G. Goodfellow and R. Coles for their gifts of cakes and other eatables. To those who provided transport—Messrs. J. W. Euston, F. W. Goodfellow, G. A. Spencer, J. R. Sharman and A. G. Mason—the meeting was also grateful. The usual informal social followed, and we all felt a deep appreciation of the efficient way our esteemed organiser (Mr. A. W. Coles) had made another happy and successful gathering. W. S.

HORSELL, SURREY.—On Sept. 20th, 1,260 Doubles (Reverse St. Bartholomew, April Day, Plain Bob and Grandsire): Miss J. Drury 1, Miss P. Drury 2, G. Oliver 3, D. Wright 4, J. Martin (cond.) 5, B. Priestley 6. For Evenson.

SPONDON, DERBYS.—On July 8th, 1,260 Doubles (Grandsire, Reverse Canterbury, April Day and Plain Bob): E. Walklate 1, D. K. Walklate (cond.) 2, Miss R. M. Bull 3, S. Walklate 4, M. Blore 5.

UNIVERSITIES' ASSOCIATION TOUR OF SUSSEX

DESPITE a somewhat damp week in this phenomenal summer, the U.A. tour of Sussex was once more a great success. The year 1959 will be remembered for the large number of towers visited and also the plentiful supply of members attending during the week. About 48 ringers were with us, and the abundance of cars prevented unnecessary driver-fatigue.

The tour opened on August 8th. During the sunny afternoon Cowfold, West Grinstead, Thakeham and Storrington were visited. After tea we started off towards headquarters, whose address had been given as Lodge Hill, Pulborough. It proved to be delightfully situated at the top of a wooded hill, 100 feet above the main road, but about three miles from Pulborough! There were two very narrow approaches, one a steep second-gear gradient, and another rather less severe marked 'Dangerous.'

ALL BRIEFED FOR SUNDAY RINGING

Once signed in and suppered we spent the evening in nattering, walking and drinking, and one or two even rang handbells. Someone still had to organise Sunday service ringing, and Marie Cross soon briefed us all.

Next morning we all went our ways to the appointed towers, and map readers had their first real opportunity for leading drivers on to golf courses, over innumerable level crossings and along 'short cuts' which proved to be muddy farm tracks. On Sunday afternoon three carloads of ringers, led by one who was heard to remark rather smugly: 'Well, I have grabbed one or two before,' set off to see what towers could be found that were not included in the programme.

At Rogate we were pleased to meet an old friend, Jack Munday, who joined us in a non-conducted extent of Grandsire Doubles, whose 'silence' was marred only by Jumbo's chortles! Stedham bells were rather tricky, and after we finished it took time to reproduce exactly a knot we found in the tenor rope. Apart from these two, eight towers were manned during the day, and an energetic quarter peal of Bristol was rung at Pulborough.

The highlight of Monday's ringing was a peal of Kent at Ditchling. The two first-pealers can be justly proud, for to add to their difficulties this is an anti-clockwise ring and the bells' weights bear no recognisable relation to their notes. The peal band joined the rest of the tour at Burgess Hill, but the U.A. did not do these bells justice. Ringing was also below standard at Lindfield, but it improved at Cuckfield, and our president (E. H. Lewis), who was again with us, called a touch of Double Oxford Triples. Three good leads of Bristol closed the day's ringing.

IN AND AROUND BRIGHTON

Brighton and its environs were covered the next day. Steyning, the church of 'Boy with a Cart' fame, was noted for its intriguing collecting box—a scale model of the church, it chimed each time a coin was inserted! At the Church of the Good Shepherd the pleasing bells were recorded by Roger Savory, and the best ringing was 4-Spliced and Bristol. At the beautiful white St. Peter's we launched Geoffrey Dodds' Ashford Little Bob Caters with a nice touch, the first on tower bells. We were joined at St. Nicholas' by a ringer from Christchurch, New Zealand, who rang Grandsire Triples, with us. Spliced Kent and Oxford Minor at Aldrington, and so to the last official tower of the day, St. Mary-de-Haura's, Shoreham, where we were met by that old stalwart, Len Stilwell. Here Dick Speed joined us and Wilf. Moreton called some spliced Plain Major.

Roger Savory then sped off towards Lewes to ask Mr. and Mrs. Elphick about their practice. These kind folk immediately invited all Roger's carload to a wonderful tea in their home. Soon more U.A. ringers arrived and the practice was begun with an excellent touch of Grandsire Caters called by Roger. Although this high standard was not maintained, good Kent Royal and Grandsire Triples were rung during the evening.

Wednesday began with sunshine. A band which lost a peal of London Major at Slaugham missed no towers due to this, owing to an early trip to Shipley, where the well-kept church was much admired. Spliced Triples was called by Wilf. Moreton at Bolney, and the peal band arrived in time for some 3-spliced. At Lower Beeding a good course of Yorkshire was rung, but we heard more of this later. Our lunch for this day, eaten outside a pub on pine-cone-strewn grass, degenerated into a brawl when one or two with famous names discovered what cones were for! The ensuing feud was settled ultimately with a ping-pong ball gun.

EXPERTS BEATEN

At Warnham is an eight where the late Alfred Pulling rang many peals, and here we managed Pudsey best. Our heaviest eight of the week, Horsham, proved enjoyable. Double Norwich, Bristol, and the notice 'Somebody must always be last,' are all remembered. The one and only 5-bell tower, Itchingfield (dubbed Itchingwhats-it), provided some amusement. Five very famous ringers demonstrated their inability to master a method called Itchingfield Slow Course Doubles, which a weaker U.A. band had spliced successfully with New Bob on the Sunday! The old priest's house was examined with interest.

The A.G.M. that evening was lively. Dermot Roaf was welcomed as the new secretary by the president, who at the conclusion of business commented on style and action in ringing as perpetrated by the band who rang Yorkshire at Lower Beeding. During the rest of the week many members seemed worried about their tail-ends.

Thursday's ringing started with good London Minor at Wisborough Green. A tape-recording here proved conclusively that the tenor, or its ringers, was slightly odd-struck. The fine singing tone of Chiddingfold bells was appreciated, and we set up at the hint of any bad striking. Phil. Corby, Mrs. Corby and their son joined us at Haslemere, where we rang a memorable course of Cambridge Royal. After lunch, Easebourne, whose tenor had a lingering note, and then Midhurst with its very old clock. The last tower was the fine eight at Petworth, heard at their best in a course of Bristol. The evening was spent in visits to nearby practices. On the return from Felpham, our bulky but intrepid driver 'dabbed' his brakes and the result was a sweet sound as someone ran into Brian Threlfall's vehicle with a Dormobile. Only slight damage.

'SERMON COMPOSING'

Eight towers covered on the Friday included five sixes, which made hard work of the morning. At Arundel, the eight were soon turning to Stedman, Yorkshire and Double Norwich. During three leads of Bristol our diminutive tenor man forgot to call 'That's all' while composing a sermon on good striking! Dick Blackman met us at Chichester Cathedral, and those who had not rung there before soon discovered that these bells are not easy to ring. Final tower of the week was Bosham, the famous beauty spot and mecca of small-boat sailors, where the fine six sound so well to those afloat.

Much feverish organisation by the redoubtable York resulted in a delightful social evening back at Lodge Hill. The various items included amusing reminiscences by E. H. Lewis, piano

OBITUARY

MR. G. N. BLAKE

A member of the St. Albans Cathedral Society for 19 years, Mr. George Nelson Blake died in the St. Albans County Hospital on September 15th after two operations. His remains were cremated at West Herts Crematorium on September 22nd.

A quarter peal of 1,299 Stedman Caters was rung half-muffled the same evening by B. A. Cornell 1, W. J. Arnold (conductor) 2, G. Dodds 3, Miss P. Doorn 4, T. J. Southam 5, R. F. Ewer 6, W. Little 7, J. Ewer 8, G. Penney 9, W. A. Nicholls 10.

EAST GRINSTEAD GUILD

On September 5th the East Grinstead Guild had an excursion into North Kent. At Borden, where the clerical ringers gave up in despair, we put up a good show on the lumpy eight. After the pleasant five at Lynsted we sampled Boughton-under-Blean: easy-going bells, but rather inaudible. On to Canterbury, where lunch was had before going to St. Stephen's. Some enjoyed listening to the local band ringing Grandsire Caters for a wedding at the Cathedral. After St. Stephen's a move was made to Whitstable, but not for oysters. Back to Canterbury for tea, then on to the last tower of the day, Chilham, whose grand eight were the best of the day, and we did them justice, especially with the final course of Superlative and the lower in peal. C. A. B.

MARLBOROUGH BRANCH OUTING

Five towers (three anti-clockwise) in the Stow area was the order of the day for two coachloads of ringers and friends from the Marlborough area on September 29th.

Ringing started at Bourton-on-the-Hill (6, 14 cwt.), where the tenor, although tucked away behind the treble, was turned in to Plain Bob. At Longborough (6, 12 cwt.) the first Kent was rung before adjourning to Stow for lunch. After the meal, a presentation of an illuminated scroll was made to Mr. T. A. Palmer, the popular secretary, by Mr. W. A. Edwards to commemorate the former's 21 years' devoted service to the Branch.

Back then to ringing at the anti-clockwise five of Broadwell (6½ cwt.) which had not been rung during the previous 12 months. At Lower Slaughter (6, 8 cwt.) a bob touch of Kent came round before tea at Bourton-on-the-Water.

After a look at the model village and a cricket match, the last tower, Great Rissington, was reached. Before ringing these seldom-heard six, ropes had to be removed from three of the clappers.

An enjoyable day amidst wonderful scenery, where unfortunately the bells and ringing were not quite as good. R. J. J.

duets by the Hudsons, mathematical dissertations by Jumbo and Dermot, a piano solo from Roger Savory, and handbell ringing under difficulties by many different bands. Extracts from the ringing recorded during the week were played back.

On the Saturday we dispersed at the close of a very successful week, those of us who were going Geoff. Dodds' way ringing at a few towers on the road north. Our thanks are due to all who worked for this success: Marie Cross, A. York-Bramble, Wilfrid Moreton, and especially to Dermot Roaf, who never spares himself in his enthusiasm for making the organisation tick and everyone happy.

MID-ESSEX RINGERS TOUR THE WEST

ZERO hour, 5 a.m., on August 29th, and there were scenes of activity as the first car left Danbury on the westward road: 6.30 a.m., and the remaining six ringers left in hot pursuit with Dick junior at the helm. Just through Langport the two drivers drew level and lunch was served on the roadside. Into Devon and Tedburn St. Mary (6), our first tower of the week, was followed by Drewsteignton (6), a delightful village well known to buyers of Ilford films. The bells have majestic tone, but single rope ends and long draught make hard work of ringing. Fingal's Bridge and Post Bridge, both well-known beauty spots, were visited en route to Launceston, where we booked in at our H.Q., the White Hart Hotel. A typical Cornish welcome soon appeared in the form of Mr. W. Boucher, who put us wise on the merits and otherwise of our prospective programme.

Sunday dawned bright, and cheerful faces were predominant as we ascended the hill to St. Stephen's, a very pleasant eight just outside Launceston. The afternoon was spent at Lawhitton (6) and Lezant (6), with evening service ringing at St. Thomas', Launceston (6), where Mr. W. Moss, the District secretary, welcomed us. After Evensong, Mr. Boucher insisted we should ring at St. Mary's Launceston, and we offered no resistance to his kind offer. Handbell ringing at H.Q. rounded off the day.

Monday morning we followed the Tamar Valley north to Boyton (5) and North Tamerton (6), where we had to ring the back five as the treble clapper had broken in the crown and put the bell temporarily out of action. Whitstone, a pleasant Gillett six, followed, and after Poundstock (6), where the addition of a treble has spoilt an otherwise good five, we lunched at the Brockmoor Hotel, Widemouth Bay. Six of us journeyed to Week St. Mary (6, 8½ cwt.) in the afternoon and rang a peal in seven methods on these delightful Gillett bells, while the less fanatical snoozed in the afternoon sun at Widemouth Bay. After the peal, Mr. and Mrs. Rogers very kindly prepared a first-class tea, and leaving the others to their fate we ate in plenty and were duly satisfied. Joining forces again we spent the evening at North Petherwin, a fine six and an architectural gem of a church.

Tuesday we moved south, and thanks to Mr. Boucher the first tower was Stoke Climsland (a delightful eight), where most of the bells were recast by Taylors in 1952. Linkinhorne (6), with 60 feet of rope, was followed by Callington's, a rather unimpressive six. Thanks to the senior ladies, a picnic lunch was then taken at the Clapper Bridge, Pillaton, where the sun and scenery made us a bit late at St. Dominick (6), with its unusual tower and sluggish tenor. On to St. Mellion (6) and Landulph (6), where John Pennington left nothing to be desired except, perhaps, a bit more tone in the third. Botus Fleming (what a delightful name) was followed by St. Stephen-by-Saltash (6, 16 cwt. 1 qr. 5 lb.), and I don't think Bob Southwood was far out when he said 'the finest six in Cornwall', even better than Perranwell or Stithians; sorry, Alan, but I think Bob's right. Tea was taken in Saltash before proceeding to St. Ives (6) and Pillaton (6), where Stan Dolley was rescued from the 'local', and Surfleet, etc., brought round on these musical bells.

GOOD PEAL AT HARTLAND

Northward again on Wednesday to Poughill ('Puffe' locally), a very fine six, where we were met by Mr. Ham. On through the Coombe Valley to Morwenstow (6), where the Rev. R. S. Hawker was at one time incumbent and is remembered mainly for his poetry and introduction of the harvest festival service into the Church of England. Attempting a short cut to Welcome, we soon came unstuck on the roads which all dwindle into cart tracks and don't seem to go anywhere. Needless to say, we were late at Welcome (6, a rather pleasant light ring). Lunch was again prepared by the ladies and taken at Welcome Mouth before the peal ringers got busy at Hartland, a beautiful Taylor six (tenor 17½ cwt.). A good peal in three methods was brought round in 3 hours and 7 minutes, and on completion we were delighted to see Sam Everett and family on holiday at Stratton, who joined in for a ring. The evening was spent on Cornwall's finest eight at Stratton, where Harry Stacey and Co. gave us the usual hearty welcome, and Marhamchurch (a lovely six) where Mr. R. J. Hicks, the Stratton Branch secretary, welcomed us. We were pleased to meet Mr. Ernest Ladd, of Tunbridge Wells, also on holiday at Stratton.

Liskeard (8) was the first stop on Thursday, followed by St. Germans, with its two west towers and pleasant light octave. A touch of Stedman containing Queen's, Whittington's and Tittums was brought round, much to Bert's delight. A pleasant run brought us to Antony (6), where the bells have recently been rehung and leave little room for improvement. Another picnic lunch was disposed of at Morval before ringing on this fine six. Winding lanes brought us to Talland (6), where Ernest Ladd and family joined us. More lanes, and we arrived at Lansallos (a fine eight), which is said to possess the prize call-change band of the district. Lanteglos-by-Fowey (6), with 70 feet of rope, and St. Veep (6), where it says on a board that John Pennington leaped with joy after hearing the tone of his bells, were both visited before tea was taken in Lostwithiel. At St. Clear (6) we departed from convention and rang rapid call-changes from a card, much to the delight of the local ringer, who assured us with a bit of time and practice he could make us into prize ringers. Lewannick (6) was the last of the day, and supper at Launceston brought the day to a close.

A NARROW SQUEAK

A narrow squeak for yours truly on Friday morning when a ladder perched against the wall at North Hill was dislodged by tower sway and crashed down beside him. Heartbeats returned to normal and we moved on to St. Neot (6), bells that go very well but are slightly out of tune. Cardinham, a Mears eight rehung by Gillett, was followed by Blisland and another female lunch on the picturesque village green, where the village policeman gave us his blessing. St. Tudy (6), a very pretty village with not such pretty bells, then St. Breward (6), where a fine view is obtained of Bodmin Moor, and on to St. Teath. Lanteglos-by-Camelord (6) was followed by tea and our evening ringing at Davidstow (6) and South Petherwin (6), the latter being very sluggish and not at all end-of-the-week bells. Following an unsuccessful attempt to ring at Laneast we returned to H.Q., where Mr. Boucher bade us farewell and wished us good luck on the return journey.

Saturday morning was as bright as ever, and 52 miles round the north of Dartmoor brought us to Tiverton (8), the finest bells of the week. Bampton's six were followed by lunch at Tarr Steps, an ancient clapper bridge over the River Barle. Hawkrice (6), Exton (6), Winsford (6) and Exford (6) were all combined with sightseeing in some of the finest countryside in England. A much-appreciated cream tea at Horner, then evening ringing at Luccombe (6) and Timberscombe (8) before leaving the heights of Exmoor to our last night's lodging at Watchet.

Sunday service ringing took place at Milverton (8) and Taunton St. Mary (12), the latter being our final ringing of the tour. Thus ended a grand tour in delightful surroundings and with good bells, where 30 different methods were brought round. Highlights of the week

GREAT BEDWYN'S FIRST QUARTER PEAL

The heavy ring of six at Great Bedwyn, Wilts, has always proved a challenge to peal ringers, and at least four attempts have been made to score the first peal on the bells. Broken clappers were the downfall of two of these attempts and the other two ended abruptly by ringers having to give up.

Although five 720's were rung on once occasion, no quarter peal had ever been scored on the bells, so that it was with this first in mind that four ringers from Andover and two others from Yattendon and Highclere met at Bedwyn to attempt the first quarter of Bob Minor on September 17th.

All the bells go badly and the fifth and tenor are odd-struck the wrong way; and after the first 720 the blistered hands of the ringers of four and tenor, through having to catch these bells above the sally, decided the conductor on ringing a 1,260 instead of the proposed 1,440.

This was a lucky decision, as at the conclusion of the quarter a plain course of Bob Minor was rung for other visitors, during which the fourth went completely dry and came out of its bearings.

Peals are already barred here because of broken clappers and bells running dry; it now appears that quarter peals will share a similar fate; but with a tenor of approximately 30 cwt. (the locals will tell you 35 cwt.), we are proud of our achievement which we feel is a quarter well earned.

It was rung to the memory of Oscar J. Smart, late Ringing Master of Andover, whose birthplace this is. The band was E. Woolgrove 1, Hazel White 2, O. G. Smart 3, B. Grainger 4, R. F. Crook 5, G. K. Dodd (conductor) 6.

NORTH WALES ASSOCIATION

The half-yearly meeting of the North Wales Association was held at St. David's Church, Bangor, on September 5th. Members attended from Wrexham, Buckley, Hope, Portmadoc, Machynlleth, Abergele, Rhyl and Bangor. The ringing was controlled by Mr. Fred Evans (Ringing Master), from Wrexham.

The service was taken by the vice-president (Canon E. G. Wright), assisted by the Rev. I. V. Davies. The address was given by the Canon. Tea in the Schoolroom was served by the ladies of the church, assisted by the young lady probationer members.

Canon E. G. Wright presided at the business meeting. Mr. Albert J. Hughes, a founder member of the Association, was proposed as an honorary life member for his good work for over 56 years. This was carried with acclamation. Mr. Hughes acknowledged in a short speech.

Votes of thanks were passed to Canon E. G. Wright for conducting the service, and to the ladies for providing and serving the tea.

More ringing followed, and the general view was that it was a most successful meeting. Three new members from Bangor, the Misses Brenda Hughes and Dorothy Evans and Mr. Ian Palferman, were elected. The Machynlleth ringers stated they were prepared to welcome the Association for the annual meeting on the second Saturday after Whitsun, 1960.

were narrow lanes, long single ropes, two peal attempts (both successful), picturesque villages, first-class accommodation and good food. Thanks are extended to Mr. W. Boucher and Mr. W. Moss, of Launceston, Mr. R. J. Hicks and Mr. H. Stacey, of Stratton, to all tower captains and incumbents for the use of their bells, to our navigators and drivers and all who helped to make our week such a success.

DOLTON DAY

THE Dolton Ringing Festival is not part of the Devon Association's calendar of competitions, nor is it an 'Invitation' event, for it is open to all-comers. But it has gained a good reputation among the leading competition-ringing bands, and this it certainly deserves, for various reasons.

First, it gives very welcome encouragement to new bands by running a 'B' class for teams which have not won a competition before, with a very fine cup for the winner. Second, it has a remarkably beautiful ring of six, with an outstanding tenor of 13 cwt. with a lovely, rich and very 'plummy' tone. Third, it provides a wealth of entertainment for everybody, with a sumptuous tea, skittles—the pins placed further apart than any with which your reporter has ever failed to get a 'spare'—a football match and a clay-pigeon shoot. And last, Dolton is a very nice place on a sunny afternoon in what ought to be autumn but was still summer; a very neat village, the cob houses spotless white, three delightful pubs, a fine church, and a beautiful situation above the valley of the Torridge river.

So here, on October 3rd, are the teams, and here once again are the two great rivals, Down St. Mary and West Down, the former hoping to add to a collection of silverware won this season, which if they get much more will leave scant room for ringing in their tower; the latter determined that even if St. Mary won the Devon Shield they aren't going to win the Dolton Shield, an unusually pretty one with a 1½-inch silver bell, hung for ringing and ringable, fixed in a miniature frame at the top of its mount.

Class 'B' opens the proceedings; four bands here from Plymtree, Tawstock, Talaton and Bishop's Nympton alias 'Bish Nym.' Of these Talaton were easily the best with 76 faults, though they might have done better if they had been in less of a hurry; 35 changes a minute makes Dolton bells hard to strike perfectly. The other three came very close together; Tawstock 102, Plymtree 107 1/3, Bishop's Nympton 108.

First of the 'A' teams are Dunsford, up from Exeter way; their peal came rather sadly to grief through, one suspects, the tenor's being allowed to false-clapper—not difficult to do even with a 13 cwt. bell if she's tucked up a bit and the rise is so rapid that the tenor-man can't afford to check her at the start. Anyway, she didn't speak for some time on the way up, and after a very fair peal of changes she lost her tongue early in the lower and didn't find it again until the very end.

Next come West Down, with a peal which the experts say is going to take some whacking, but you can never be sure; even though their ringing sounds better to some ears, Down St. Mary are often the band which lose fewer marks. After them we hear a very fair peal from High Bickington, and then comes the big question of the day; will Down St. Mary gain this prize as well?

Down St. Mary led off with their usual beautiful 'pitch,' a perfect, tightly-compressed round with every bell just the height to go up with the tenor; their rise was good and their top-ringing settled to just the right speed for the bells, 33 a minute, coming down to 35 about half-way through as they got used to the bells. But there was just enough in the way of unsteadiness to make it very hard for anyone to be sure whether they had beaten West Down or not, and nobody in the churchyard was prepared to commit himself. In addition, the last band, Merton, were by way of being a dark horse. Merton are not generally in the really top class, but they are almost next-door to Dolton and some of their men learnt to ring on these bells, so that this advantage might be enough to give their more than competent band the chance of springing a surprise on the champions. But first we heard Kenn, another Exeter-way band, ring a good peal, and then the Merton men went in to see what they could do.

What they did sounded very good, but it wasn't quite in the class of the rival Downs, and we went in to the service with the issue decidedly between those two. And when, after the service, Mr. Clements, the Dolton captain and spokesman for the judges, told us that West Down were the winners with 30 faults, nobody was surprised and nobody disappointed. Down St. Mary didn't go home empty-handed, though, for there is a fine cup for the second team, and their peal, only 5 faults behind West Down, won it for them easily. High Bickington came third with 49, Kenn next with 52, and Merton very close to them with only 2/3rds of a fault more. Dunsford were last with 153.

And so a last couple of peals for visitors and those who haven't had enough in seven hours, and Dolton's day is over until next year, with certificates for all, and £3 for the winner of the skittles, and more for the clay-pigeon experts, and glory for the footballers, and a good fillip for the church finances—and there can be few ways for a village church to raise money which gives its visitors a better day's entertainment.

An appeal from the pulpit of the parish church of Newton-Nottage, Glam. resulted in a complete band of teenagers coming forward. The sallies of the bells at this church have a reputation for being elusive because of the long length of rope below the guides, but Mr. T. M. Roderick is happy to report that all have taken part in quarter peals within a year of first handling their bells. A quarter of Grandsire Doubles was rung on September 27th, and another of Plain Bob Doubles on the following Sunday fitted in those who stood out of the first.

Mrs. Margaret Tutt (née Moote) was a most welcome visitor to St. Andrew's, Headington, on practice night on September 24th. She is shortly returning to Canada. Margaret also rang at Nantwich while in England.

Here is something for the veterans to talk about. Mr. Horace M. Day, of Market
Deeping, called a peal of Spliced Surprise
Minor in 16 methods from a non-observation bell on October 3rd, at the age of 78.

We regret to state that in regard to the peal at Ipswich, reported on page 579, the wrong title of the peal was inserted in the page. The peal rung was 5,040 Grandsire Caters. All concerned in the error offer their apologies.

The four visiting ringers who rang in the quarter peal at Ash-by-Wrotham on October 2nd will remember the occasion. After the service the whole congregation adjourned to a nearby barn for a harvest supper of soup, beef, biscuits and cheese.

Visitors to the joint meeting at Hillingdon on October 17th will be able to see the restored peal tablet in the tower, under the ringing chamber. The tablet records peals rung by local ringers in 1733 and 1737. The present ringers of St. John's have borne the cost of the restoration.

BELFRY GOSSIP

At St. Margaret's, Whit-nash, Warwickshire, Mr. F.
W. Hanley celebrated the coming of his 94th birthday by attending the practice on the day before (September 30th).
He rang the treble up in peal, the third in 120 of Grandsire, and also some call-changes.
Finally he rang the treble down in peal—not a bad evening's work for a ninety-fourer!

Mr. W. J. Leach has 'circled' the front six of St. Paul's, Burton, twice. Can two such semi-circles make a circle?

Mr. A. H. Pulling in his will left £100 worth of Defence Bonds to the Rector and churchwardens of Holy Trinity Cathedral Church, Guildford, in appreciation of 'the many hours of happiness spent in the church.'

There was a record attendance of 192 at the annual dinner of the Guildford Diocesan Guild on Saturday when the Provost of Guildford made an appeal for the bells of all churches in the Diocese to be rung on May 31st next when the new Cathedral is consecrated.

Mr. A. Roy Withyman, the popular young captain of Pinchbeck, Lincs, tower, had a peal rung in honour of his going up to Cambridge University. One of his young ladies rang her first peal in a most able manner. Roy will be greatly missed during term by this young band.

During recent journeyings betwixt laboratory and hospital, Professor Dodge was astonished, and not a little excited, to observe a road sign bearing the words, emblazoned in 12-inch-high white letters on a red ground, 'SLOW WORK AHEAD.' Here, indeed, was evidence of the growing popularity of change-ringing. His disappointment on discovering that the words were a succinct, albeit accurate, description of the lethargic movement of divers workmen, is, no doubt, more easily borne in imagination than it is suffered in experience or endured in practice.

DURHAM & NEWCASTLE ASSOCIATION ANNUAL MEETING

A Change of Officers

THE fabulous summer of 1959 dies hard, and a mild and sunny day greeted those who met in Darlington on September 26th for the annual meeting and festival of the Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association. Good use was made of the bells of St. Cuthbert's, St. John's and Holy Trinity in Darlington and the six at Hurworth, as the towers were opened throughout the day.

The service was held in St. Cuthbert's and was conducted by the Vicar (Canon P. N. Wansey), assisted by the Vicar of St. John's (Rev. R. Brown) and the Vicar of Holy Trinity (Rev. D. N. Goldie). In his address Canon Wansey welcomed the ringers to Darlington on behalf of all the clergy, and directed their thoughts to the hymn they had sung, 'Unchanging God, Who livest . . .'. It was most fitting that the work of ringers should be offered to God as the hymn described with its words ' . . . and come before Thee bringing our minds, our strength, our skill.' Mrs. Williams was the organist, and a course of Grandsire Triples was rung on handbells in place of a psalm. The collection of £4 was placed in the Bell Restoration Fund.

Tea was served in St. Cuthbert's Hall to a company of about 80, and the business meeting followed. The president (Mr. K. Arthur) welcomed the large company, and proposed an omnibus vote of thanks to all who had contributed to the success of the meeting. The Rev. D. N. Goldie responded, and the clergy were then given their opportunity to 'go out before the sermon.'

The president, in a review of his term of office, said he had tried to keep in touch with the ordinary ringer while maintaining the dignity of the Association. On the credit side could be placed what he believed to be the highest total of peals recorded in a year by the Association, good attendances at ringing meetings and the appointment of trustees to safeguard the property of the Association. The less satisfactory features were the restricted number of ringers participating in peals and the few centres of peal ringing, together with the number of ringers still outside the Association. He concluded by thanking everyone for their co-operation and loyal support.

REPORTS ON THE YEAR'S WORK

The hon. secretary (Mr. D. A. Bayles) reported that while the most noticeable feature of the year had been a great increase in peal ringing, an analysis showed that 67 per cent. of the ropes had been manned by the 15 leading peal ringers. Peal ringing was not a true indication of the health of any Association. The real yardstick was Sunday service ringing, and the survey had shown that of 54 ringable towers 18 were silent and only 15 could be reckoned as satisfactory. It was hoped that the introduction of a Ringing Master, charged with the direction of instruction generally, would produce results in the future. Meetings had been well supported, but it was intended to modify the J. W. Parker commemoration. The University of London Society's summer tour in the area had proved most enjoyable and provided ringing with quite a bit of local publicity in the press, on the radio and on television.

The cash statement presented by the hon. treasurer (Mr. F. Ainsley) showed a further rise in the balance in hand from £94 8s. 9d. to £108 14s. 11d., and there were also in stock the unsold badges and Central Council Handbooks purchased during the year and valued at £6 18s. 7d. The general fund had risen from £70 19s. 10d. to £77 17s. 3d. The position was satisfactory but there was no large surplus of money as the Handbooks would soon be due for revision.

The peal report, as presented by Mr. D. A. Bayles, showed that 54 peals had been rung during the year. The total was considerably up on the 22 of the previous year but Oxford Bob Triples was the only method new to the records. There were 13 first pealers and one new conductor among the 76 ringers and 11 conductors taking part in peals. The leading peal ringers were J. A. Ainsworth 34, K. Arthur 32, C. N. Lea 29, E. N. Harrison 27, G. S. Deas 24 and M. S. Ainsworth 20, and the leading conductors were J. A. Ainsworth 12, K. Arthur 10, D. A. Bayles and R. Park 6, and C. N. Lea and B. Pattison 5. One peal was rung non-conducted. The peals were rung in 24 towers and there was one peal on handbells after an interval of several years.

There was a prolonged discussion as to whether a peal rung in Yorkshire with the Yorkshire Association and the Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association at its head should be added to the total. It had been excluded from the total on the interpretation of the procedure in the Central Council Handbook, whereby such peals are credited to the first-named Society only, and this action was eventually accepted. The total of 54 peals had thus equalled a record set up in 1903.

The first report of the trustees was presented by Mr. W. N. Park and recorded the progress of Mr. N. I. Wright in the location, labelling and listing of the property of the Association.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

Mr. K. Arthur, having completed his maximum term as president, proposed Mr. T. Cooke as his successor. This was carried, and Mr. Cooke then took the chair and thanked the members for the great honour they had bestowed on him. Two new Central Council representatives were elected in Messrs. K. Arthur and D. A. Bayles, and the new vice-president for the Southern District, Mr. F. W. Cooke, was confirmed, following the election of his namesake as president. The other officers were re-elected and the complete list for 1959-60 is as follows: President, Mr. T. Cooke; hon. treasurer, Mr. F. Ainsley; hon. general secretary and editorial secretary, Mr. D. A. Bayles; hon. auditor, Mr. J. F. Bird; trustees, Messrs. W. N. Park and N. I. Wright. District officers:— Eastern: Vice-president, Mr. C. N. Lea; secretary, Mr. W. F. Sheraton. Western: Mr. K. W. Cheeseman and Mr. C. T. Lamb. Northern: Mr. J. A. Ainsworth and Mr. G. S. Deas. Southern: Mr. F. W. Cooke and Mr. E. P. Rock.

The motion on ringing instruction, recommended by the sub-committee and accepted by the committee, was agreed with very little discussion. That created a new office of Ringing Master, to be charged mainly with the general direction of ringing instruction. Mr. K. Arthur was the only nominee. The committee had regarded him as the obvious choice and his election was received enthusiastically. It was also decided to create an education fund to assist in this aim by facilitating the distribution of published literature and perhaps later financing the production of original pamphlets. The new fund immediately acquired £2 1s. from two donations.

The meetings arranged for 1959-60 were: Christmas social at Chester-le-Street, January 2nd; half-yearly, Consett area, May 14th; annual meeting, Newcastle, October 1st, 1960.

Mr. K. W. Cheeseman proposed a vote of thanks to the retiring officers, and made special mention of the efforts put forward by Mr. Arthur during his three years as president, efforts which had made him an obvious choice for the new office. Mr. J. A. Ainsworth supported the proposal and mentioned the work of Messrs. Ainsley and Park as Central Council representatives.

Nine new members were elected from Chester-le-Street, Darlington, Heighington, Jesmond and Lanchester. A grant of two guineas from the Bell Restoration Fund was made to Lanchester towards the cost of the new third bell.

The day concluded with further ringing until 9 p.m.

REDEDICATION

GREAT CHART, KENT

The restored ring of six bells at Great Chart, near Ashford, Kent, was rededicated by the Bishop of Dover on September 24th in the presence of a large congregation.

In his address the Bishop praised the keenness and enthusiasm shown by the little village in meeting the cost of the restoration. In stressing the importance of ringing in our national and religious life, he pointed out that it is ordained in the Prayer Book that a bell or bells be rung at least once a day for the service, 'that people may come to hear God's word.'

Afterwards light refreshments were given in the Village Hall, where the Bishop met the congregation informally. A large contingent of ringers was present from all over the District and beyond. They all expressed pleasure at the tone of the bells and the excellence of the work done. Messrs. Mears and Stainbank were represented by Mr. Harry Parkes, who had superintended the rehanging.

The local ringers showed themselves proficient in handling the still springy ropes and in ringing rounds—thanks to the help they have received from the Bethersden ringers, and from the tuition they have received from their captain, Mr. Lewis Day, churchwarden and chief promoter of the restoration.

GREAT STAUGHTON, HUNTS.—On Oct. 1st, 1,260 Grandsire Doubles: D. Lloyd (first quarter) 1, F. W. Lack (cond.) 2, J. G. Spicer 3, M. Dyer 4, H. S. Peacock 5, F. Reeve 6. For harvest festival.

IN MEMORIAM JOHN THOMAS

On a recent Sunday evening, the nearest available date to the anniversary of the death of Mr. John Thomas, members of the Hinton-on-the-Green band, together with others of his close ringing friends, journeyed to Painswick where, by kind permission of the Vicar and approval of the local band, the bells had been placed at their disposal to ring for Evensong. The ringing included courses of Grandsire Caters and Cinques for the benefit of those making their first acquaintance with 10 and 12 bells, a course of Bob Royal, and a service touch of three courses of Grandsire Cinques, and the lowering of the bells in peal.

In the course of a singularly beautiful service—even the hymns might well have been chosen for a service of memory—the Vicar (Rev. H. K. Heal) referred to the fact that it was the anniversary of the death of John Thomas which had occurred in that church, and how nice it was to see so many of his family and friends who had travelled to ring their bells, attend that service and so remember him in that way.

Our grateful thanks to all at Painswick for the privilege.

J.

GREAT DALBY, LEICS.—On Sept. 27th, 1,260 Doubles (Plain Bob, Reverse Canterbury Pleasure and Grandsire): D. Cooper 1, H. T. Bonshor (cond.) 2, H. Stonehouse 3, A. E. Hinman 4, G. A. Bowcutt 5. For harvest festival Evensong.

YOUNG RINGERS IN THE WEST COUNTRY

Officially this tour started on July 26th at Crowcombe Youth Hostel, but the nucleus of the party arrived at Stockport at 12.4 a.m. to train to Bristol. During the fortnight 50 towers were visited, and of the nine peal attempts six were successful. These included the youngest band to ring a peal of Spliced Surprise Major and the youngest band to ring a peal at Sherborne Abbey.

In regard to the peal at Sherborne Abbey, the plan was to go for Spliced Surprise Major, but a 10-mile cycle ride in burning sunshine with the day becoming increasingly hot necessitated a change to Plain Bob, and a good, uneventful peal was scored. Specially to be congratulated were Brian Woodruffe, who at 20 is believed to be the youngest to ring the 46 cwt. tenor, and 16-year-old Billy Dowse, who rang the seventh (28 cwt.) with ease and precision.

Billy Dowse, Frank Osbaldiston and Brian Woodruffe were principally responsible for the arrangements for the tour. Thanks are particularly due to them and the incumbents and tower captains who made it possible to ring on so many fine rings of bells. Also to Richard and Frank for their hospitality in Bristol, and those who complimented the band on their ringing.

'Look out, Somerset, Devon and Dorset—we're coming again in 1962!'

NOTE.—The Editor regrets that the report of this tour, which would have occupied a page-and-a-half of 'The Ringing World,' has had to be so severely curtailed. Most of the famous towers in Devon and Somerset were visited, including Exeter Cathedral, Wells Cathedral and Buckfast Abbey.

MR. A. W. COLES AND HIS VETERANS.

—There was another splendid response to the Veterans' Reunion on Saturday, September 26th, which was reported in our last issue. Copies of this photograph can be obtained from Mr. F. Payne, 104, Milton Grove, London, N.16. Price 2s. 6d. each.

NORWICH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION

For the autumn meeting of the Eastern Branch the marshland village of Reedham was the chosen venue on September 19th, when some 30 ringers and friends forgathered to enjoy the pleasant ring of five. The service was conducted by the Rector (Rev. L. Lawrence), the lesson being read by the Association president (Mr. F. Nolan Golden).

After an excellent tea, the business meeting was presided over by the Branch chairman (Mr. E. R. Goate), supported by Association and Branch officials. The members stood in silence in memory of Mr. A. Durrant, formerly of the local company, who was buried the day before.

From three propositions Gorleston was chosen for the next meeting on December 5th. During the course of a few remarks, Mr. Golden welcomed to the meeting Mr. C. Armistage, of Mirfield, Yorks.

The meeting closed with hearty thanks being accorded the Rector and Mrs. Lawrence, the organist, and Mrs. Petherick, of the local company, who had undertaken the arrangements.

SOUTHWARK, S.E.—At the Cathedral, on Oct. 4th. 1.280 Cambridge Major: A. D. Grant 1, W. S. Deason 2, B. B. Dibben 3, M. J. Palmer 4, H. Oram 5, F. R. Scott 6, R. G. Leale (cond.) 7, A. P. Cannon 8.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION

The autumn meeting of the Eastern District was held at Cottingham on September 26th and was attended by about 34 members, representing 15 towers. The service was conducted by the Rector.

Tea was followed by the business meeting, presided over by the vice-president, Mr. A. E. Sellers. Eight new members were elected—Messrs. A. Stone, H. Pickering, C. Fenwick, J. Featherstone and P. Edwards, of Holy Trinity, Hull, A. Evans, of Sherburn-in-Elmet, P. Wheeler, of North Ferriby, and R. Gibson, of Cottingham. Holy Trinity, Hull, was chosen for the next meeting—on January 2nd, if possible. The usual votes of thanks were passed, especially to Mr. K. G. Ornbo for the excellent arrangements.

Mr. H. Walker gave an account of the meeting of the sub-committee of the Yorkshire Association on the proposed alteration of rules, and also appealed to members to support the Snowdon dinner to be held in York on October 24th.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

Dr. and Mrs. Donald Niblett were members of a party, consisting of Major Freeborn, Miss M. Cross, Miss D. Pollard, Messrs. J. Munday and C. Kinch, who had a good day's ringing on September 12th, visiting 14 6-bell towers. Ringing ranged from London to Plain Bob.

Ringing started at the new Taylor ring at Wolvercote. Coombe bells were regarded as being the best met with during the day. The heaviest ring was at Yarnton (26 cwt.). Here the Vicar lamented that his bells were never rung now. Difficult to handle, the 'go' was much better 55 years ago, when rung from the upper floor.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

WEEK-END RINGING COURSE

Dear Sir.—Some of your readers will be interested to know that a week-end course in bell-ringing will be held at Grantley Hall (the Education Committee of the West Riding of Yorkshire's Adult College), near Ripon, Yorkshire, on April 23rd and 24th, 1960 (the week-end after Easter Monday).

It is hoped that the syllabus will include something of interest to all who may attend, particularly the uninitiated and those interested in methods of teaching ringing. Handbells and tower bells will be available for the practical parts of the course.

Mr. F. Sharpe, Mr. W. F. Moreton and myself have been invited by the Warden of Grantley Hall (Mr. C. L. Rigg) to act as tutors.

Whilst further details will be made available later, this preliminary announcement may help to avoid a clash in dates with any other projected course by a nearby authority.—Yours faithfully,

NORMAN CHADDOCK, Convener,
Committee on Sunday Service Ringing,
Broom, Rotherham.

DERWENT'S SUBMERGED CHURCH

Dear Sir.—With reference to Miss Margaret Lewis's letter in your issue of October 2nd, I think I can give her the correct facts regarding the above.

Before the Ladybower Reservoir was filled, the body of Derwent Church was taken down with the object, so we were told, of using some of the materials in the building of a new church on a Sheffield housing estate. The steeple, however, was left standing, but it was never fully submerged or anywhere near it.

The site of the church is well above the bottom of the valley and therefore the greater part of the steeple still showed above the water when the reservoir filled up. It remained standing thus for a few years, but was then demolished in the interests of public safety.

As the 'Daily Telegraph' photograph showed, all that now remain of Derwent Church, and the lovely old hall a little lower down, are heaps of rubble. A very fine old packhorse bridge was, however, dismantled stone by stone and has recently been re-erected a few miles higher up the valley.

Derwent does not, of course, figure in 'Dove' because the reservoir engulfed it as long ago as 1945. I cannot vouch for the number of bells, but if there were six, which I doubt, then it must have been a tight squeeze as the tower was quite a small one.—Yours faithfully,

E. M. PALIN.

Ranmoor, Sheffield.

Mr. Charles W. Dixon, of the Post Office, Maidwell, Northampton, writes that the spire was taken down after the dry season of 1947. 'I can let Miss Lewis have a photo of the church spire which I took in 1946 when the reservoir was full, with the high water mark just below the belfry window.' The Ladybower Reservoir was opened by King George VI.

'NOT WORTHY OF BEING RECOGNISED'

Dear Sir.—It was rather surprising to me to see the peal of Southwell Surprise Major recorded as rung at Whitchurch Canonicoorum on Monday, August 3rd, last.

I listened to much of the attempt and can credit the band with some good striking during the first hour or so. But alas! the final three-quarters of an hour was so full of trips and lengthy clashing that it is hard to imagine it as a true peal, or one to be scored. I quite expected 'Stand' to be called some time before the end.

With all deference to the ability of the conductor to bring the bells back into the order which produced rounds, I do not consider that this ringing ought to be conscientiously accepted as an accomplishment by the band, or as worthy of being recognised as the first in the method on these bells, or by Salisbury Guild.

I have never met any of the members of this young band and, while wishing them all success to their ambitions, would urge them—especially when on tour—to leave a better impression than they did at Whitchurch.—Yours faithfully,

C. CAREW COX.
Bridport, Dorset.

FIRST PEAL OF MINIMUS AT NEWTOWN

The idea of ringing the first peal on four bells was first brought about by a letter from Cyril Wratten in 'The Ringing World' of December 20th, 1957 (page 822), headed 'Peals of Minimus Wanted,' where he suggested the ringing of peals of Minimus, stating that there was no Central Council rule that said otherwise.

It took a further two years before the opportunity arose to attempt such a peal, this following a brief visit to the 4-bell tower at Newtown, Hants, en route to a Cambridge Minor practice at Chieveley.

Little persuasion was needed by the writer to talk three other members of the party into joining him in attempting the first peal on what are probably one of the most musical fours in the country.

Three weeks later we again met at Newtown, and after one false start we set off to ring five methods, changing the method at each fifth extent and ringing the methods in blocks of five. Despite the lack of bobs it was found that everyone had to keep constantly on the alert, and more trips were made by the conductor than by our two first-pealers, the peal being completed in 2 hours and 18 minutes.

Two new methods were rung, and as we are the first to peal them, we claim the privilege of naming them as follows:—

PUTNEY SURPRISE!

Dear Sir.—The peal rung by the London University Society at Putney on May 20th, was not the first of Surprise on these bells. One of our over-energetic ringers has dug out the following four peals by the College Youths:—

Cambridge, conducted by C. T. P. Brice in 1897.

London, ditto J. N. Oxborrow in 1898.

London, ditto J. N. Oxborrow in 1900.

London, ditto C. T. P. Brice in 1900.

Incidentally, perhaps somebody can tell me something about ringing at Putney in the early part of this century. We have only definite records from about 1918, and the earliest peal we know of is Holt's Original by the Waterloo Society in 1877.—Yours faithfully,

A. CLAYTON,
Master of the Bells.

Putney, S.W.15.

POINTS FOR OUTING ORGANISERS

Dear Sir.—The season for ringing outings draws to a close once again, and soon it will be time to start thinking of routes for next year.

With this in mind, it is too much to ask some of the organisers to remember to be a little more considerate and courteous than they were this year? Our Vicar was taken seriously ill, and a party of ringers were visiting the tower on the following Saturday week. I wrote cancelling their visit because of this, and not having received a reply, on the Saturday in question I had to wait at the church in case they arrived. They did not turn up, which proves their organiser received my letter, and I have received no reply since.

From this, two points arise:—

(1) If the organiser had stated the towers being visited I would have arranged a substitute tower on his route, thus causing him no inconvenience.

(2) If permission to ring is not granted (there is usually a very good reason) then for goodness' sake have the decency to write and acknowledge a letter. This only takes five minutes which is nothing compared with the time spent organising an outing.

This kind of thing, in my experience, happens very rarely, but when it does it rankles. Ringers are a 'funny lot' in many ways, but usually polite, friendly and helpful to others.—Yours faithfully,

ALAN R. ELLIOTT.

Kelvedon, Essex.

THE LATE MR. JOSEPH GRIFFIN

Dear Sir.—I have written to Mr. Dove thanking him for his valuable information concerning the late Mr. Joseph Griffin, and I would welcome other personal details from those who met and rang with him.

We particularly want to know the date of his birthday, the date and place of his death and the number of his peals (his first was at Barton on November 6th, 1879). We are also anxious to secure a photograph of him or a group containing him which we could borrow.—Yours faithfully,

A. C. HAZELDEN.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION AT PUDSEY

The autumn meeting of the Yorkshire Association was held at Pudsey on September 19th, when the large attendance of members and friends, representative of each of the four Districts, rivalled that of the corresponding meeting last year, the best for an autumn meeting since the war.

The recently restored ring of bells was made good use of during the afternoon and evening under the able direction of Mr. Vernon Bottomley, Western District Ringing Master. Methods rung ranged from Grandsire Triples to Spliced Surprise Major in five and six methods.

Following the statutory committee meeting, a brief service was held, conducted by the Vicar (Rev. J. Vipond), who welcomed the Association in his interesting address. An excellent tea was served in the Parochial Hall.

At the business meeting the chair was taken by the president (Archdeacon C. O. Ellison), supported by the general secretary (Mr. L. W. G. Morris), the hon. treasurer (Mr. G. Benfield) and the hon. peal secretary (Mr. W. E. Critchley). Apologies for absence were received from Messrs. J. J. L. Gilbert, H. S. Morley, H. S. Armitage, S. Scattergood, T. W. Strangeway, A. E. Sellers, Mrs. E. Silcock and Mr. P. Dawson on behalf of members of the Calverley company.

A hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar and churchwardens for the use of the bells was moved by Mr. V. Bottomley, seconded by Mr. D. Atkins, and carried with acclamation. The Vicar, in reply, expressed his pleasure at being able to welcome such a large gathering, and hoped all would enjoy ringing on the recast bells. A similar vote of thanks to the local company for the excellent arrangements, and to the ladies for so ably officiating at the tea tables, was moved by Mr. A. Johnson, seconded by Mr. P. Birkett, and carried with applause. This was suitably acknowledged by Mr. W. Barton.

It was unanimously decided to try and arrange the next meeting at Wakefield on January 16th, with Sheffield as an alternative. The president reminded members that the Snowdon dinner would be held at York on October 24th.

On the motion of Mr. W. E. Critchley, seconded by Mr. E. Hudson, the following were elected members: Robin Brown, Barry Dove, of Leeds, and Donald Bateman (Todmorden); and as out-county members: Alick Cutler (Harden), Dennis Knox (High Wycombe), A. V. Pearson (Wombourne, Staffs), E. R. Rapley (Horsham), A. C. Sinfield (Maulden), L. Stilwell (Worthing), E. E. Speake (Dudley), Miss R. M. Foreman (London), Miss E. W. Keys (Chichester), Miss E. M. Yardley (Birmingham), D. Butterworth (Milnrow), G. Kershaw (Walsden), W. Thompsett (Newport) and A. G. Mason (Lewisham).

The president next announced that arrangements had been made for a course in bell-ringing to take place at Grantley Hall Adult College, in North Yorkshire, on April 23rd and 24th next.

The business concluded with the president announcing that the committee had considered a report submitted by a specially appointed sub-committee dealing with certain proposed constitutional changes, and had decided to refer back certain matters for further consideration by the sub-committee. The committee was agreed, however, that there be no change in the title of the Association or any easing of conditions of membership. This information was given as an interim report, and the matter would come before the membership again in due course. Further ringing brought to a close a very enjoyable meeting.

A GOOD 50 YEARS

To celebrate his 50 years as a ringer, Mr. Harry E. Good took part in a quarter peal at Ewell, Surrey, where he has been living since 1935.

His father was a ringer at Charing, Kent, for 50 years, and it was here that Harry learnt to handle a rope in September, 1909. His brothers, the late Mr. Fred Good and Mr. A. V. Good, now at Apsley End, Herts, also learnt to ring at Charing.

In 1913 he joined the Hastings band of Christ Church, Blacklands, and in 1914 he joined the Forces, where he remained for 4½ years, serving in France and Malta.

The year 1919 found him ringing at Tonbridge, Kent, which he left for All Saints', Maidstone, the following year. He moved to London in 1921, and in 1922 became a member of St. Peter's, Brighton. In 1923 he moved back to the London area, for the next year or so ringing at various towers in London and Surrey.

He went to Benhilton, Surrey, in 1930, and after the bells were rehung recruited a new band, which in three years rang a peal of Grandsire Triples.

BATH AND WELLS DIOCESAN

A successful joint meeting of the Bath and Frome Branches was held at Radstock on September 26th. The service touch was rung by three members from each Branch and the Rev. M. Mitchell conducted the service.

A large company sat down to tea, given by the Radstock ringers. A hearty welcome was given to the Bath ringers by the Rev. M. Mitchell. Mr. D. Hoare (general secretary) read a letter from the Frome Branch president (Mr. J. T. Dyke), who was still not well enough to attend. Mr. Dyke expressed his still great interest in ringing, and provided some amusing reminiscences of his activities with members of the Bath Branch, going back 45 years.

During the evening the bells of Radstock and Midsomer Norton were rung.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD

Some 24 members attended the quarterly meeting of the Devises Branch at Bishops Cannings on October 3rd, with visitors from Newcastle and Devon.

At the business meeting which followed the service conducted by the Vicar (Rev. Mr. Edwards), four new members were elected. The company stood as a token of respect to the memory of Mr. J. Stone, of St. John's, Devises, a ringer of many years' service, including the ringing of the curfew bell.

Weekly practice meetings had been arranged at different towers to teach change-ringing. The November Branch meeting will be at Holt and the December one at Warminster. Thanks were expressed to the Vicar and also to the ladies who provided the tea.

LEEDS & DISTRICT SOCIETY

The weather was again very favourable for the meeting held at the Church of the Holy Trinity, Rothwell, and the spacious ringing chamber was fully occupied by ringers. Ringing ranged from plain methods to Surprise.

A delightful tea was prepared by the local ladies, and during the business meeting, with Mr. T. Strangeway in the chair, one new member was elected—Mr. Ian North, of Rothwell.

Mr. H. Lofthouse thanked the Vicar for his welcome and also the ladies for the tea. The Vicar (Rev. A. C. Page), replying, said that he was very pleased to welcome the Society to his church, and commented on the many young ringers present, which augured well for the future. Mr. E. Spencer, speaking for the local company, endorsed the Vicar's remarks.

The next meeting is to be held at Headingley.

OBITUARY

MR. CHARLES W. BLAKEY

With regret we announce the sudden passing on October 5th of Mr. Charles W. Blakey, of Accrington. He was in his 70th year and had been in failing health for some time. One of the stalwarts of the Lancs Association, which he joined in 1915, he had been secretary of the Blackburn Branch since 1944, a position he held at the time of his death.

The funeral service on October 9th was held at St. James', Accrington, previous to cremation, and was attended by a large number of his ringing friends. The Lancs Association was represented by Mr. Stephen L. Parry (ringing secretary), and also present were ringers from adjoining Branches. Previous to the service the muffled bells were rung in the whole pull and stand, and afterwards to his favourite touch of Bob Major.

In all, he rang 145 peals, mostly on tower bells, but he was also a very capable handbell ringer. He was a College Youth. The sympathy of a wide circle of friends is extended to his widow, son and daughter. The Lancs Association, and we of the Blackburn Branch, will sorely miss him as a cheerful and genial companion, and also for his ability as an organiser; but perhaps most of all we will remember him for his unstinted aid and encouragement to beginners. A. T.

MR. SEALY WOODBURN

The death has occurred, in Bath, of Mr. Sealy Woodburn, aged 51, of 16, Lynfield Park, Weston, Bath. He was found in a gas-filled room on October 6th; the Bath coroner returned an 'open' verdict, as many of the circumstances did not point to suicide.

The funeral was at Weston (All Saints') Church on October 10th. Over 100 ringers and friends attended (apart from the family).

Sealy Woodburn had been secretary and Ringing Master of the Bath Branch of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association since 1940. He had been ringing 34 years at Weston, and had been tower master there since 1937.

SHEFFIELD AND DISTRICT SOCIETY

The last meeting of the above Society, held at Penistone on October 3rd, was very poorly attended, possibly due to other ringing fixtures within easy distance.

However, members present and a number of visitors enjoyed the use of this delightful ring of eight, and methods up to Surprise Major were rung.

The small company were provided with an excellent tea at moderate price in the School, and the Rector (Rev. C. Blackledge), in welcoming the ringers, expressed his regrets that Penistone was at present without a band of ringers, but said that he hoped in the near future to interest his youth group in this activity.

At the business meeting it was decided to put the question of notification for teas on the agenda of the next annual meeting, as some members felt there was a more than necessary slackness in this matter.

The question of getting the peal book written up to date was raised, and members were again urged to look for a writer who might do this for the Society at moderate cost.

After suitable votes of thanks a return to the tower was made. Ringing ended with an odd occurrence in that at the final chime round after lowering in peal the treble rope broke, but not before this bell had sounded as required.

The next meeting is due to be held at Treeton, possibly with an additional ring of bells available. N. C.

A PAGE OF RINGERS' SEPTEMBER OUTINGS

WEST RETFORD, NOTTS

A full programme, with an 8 a.m. start, was arranged by West Retford ringers for their outing on September 26th. Towers in Rutland and Lincolnshire were visited by the party of 41 ringers and friends.

Ringing started at Colsterworth (6), followed by Greatham (6), where the ladies rang a touch of Plain Bob. At Cottesmore (6) Cambridge Surprise was the best ringing, and Oakham's eight bells sounded best to Stedman Triples although the writer missed a bob and the touch did not come round. Although Langham (6) bells are difficult to ring, some good ringing was had.

It was a pleasure to ring at All Saints', Stamford (6), after tea, as Mr. Bluff, the tower captain, has been at Retford for about six months. Ringing here included a touch of 4-Spliced Treble Bob. The wonderful bells at Grantham ended the programme with touches of Grandsire and Bob Royal. The writer fulfilled an ambition since his last visit of turning in the 32 cwt. tenor.

Methods rung were Grandsire and Stedman Doubles, Plain Bob, Reverse Bob, Double Bob, St. Clement's, College, Single Court, Double Court, Single Oxford, Double Oxford, Kent, Oxford, Sandal, London Scholars', Kingston, Cambridge and Norwich Surprise Minor, Stedman, Grandsire and Oxford Bob Triples, Little Bob Major, Grandsire Caters and Plain Bob Royal.

After the usual stop on the way, we arrived home at 10.15. R. H.

ST. JOHN-THE-DIVINE'S, LEICESTER

Ringers from St. John-the-Divine's, Leicester, and their friends, during their outing on September 12th were very proud of being able to ring some quite good Kent T.B. Maximus at Lincoln Cathedral. Previously there had been some quite respectable ringing on the somewhat difficult ten at Newark-on-Trent.

Lunch at Sleaford was followed by ringing at Ewerby, where a certain gentleman of Lincolnshire heritage deliberated on the efforts of past ringers in carrying the huge stone in the belfry round the font.

Other towers visited were Heckington, Swineshead and Holbeach, where a good course of Yorkshire was rung, despite the long draught. Croyland Abbey was approached with fear and trepidation, as we had heard that the long draught here made the bells difficult to handle, but we managed to make a joyful noise.

Incumbents and local ringers are thanked for making the outing possible. T. M. J.

STRATFORD ST. MARY AND HIGHAM

An early start was necessary for Stratford St. Mary and Higham ringers for their outing to Norfolk on September 12th as the recently-augmented six at Dickleburgh were ringing at 9 a.m. The odd-struck tenor at Long Stratton caused investigations to prove that it was not 'up wrong'.

After lunch at Norwich, visits were paid to Mulbarton, Ketteringham, Hethersett and Wymondham. Mr. H. Tooke met the party at Wymondham, and despite the climb of 92 steps the ringing on the grand old eight there was enjoyed. In the evening Mr. W. Saunders met the visitors at New Buckingham, where more good Minor ringing took place. At Diss we were privileged to join the local ringers in their practice. Thanks are extended to Mr. Walter Bailey for his organisation and to Peter Adcock for his assistance in arranging the towers, and to all clergy and local ringers who helped to make the day a success. L. N. M.

ST. MARY'S, WALTHAMSTOW

For their autumn outing, St. Mary's, Walthamstow, ringers decided to revisit Berks and Bucks, where the previous outing had been held in May. These districts are just as attractive at both seasons of the year.

A start was made at 8 a.m. on September 26th, the cars proceeding direct to West Wycombe, which was reached on schedule at 10 a.m. Good use was made of the bells for an hour. The views from the top of the very high tower were much admired. We could have stayed there all day without creating annoyance to anybody.

The next stop was at Reading, where the ringing was much enjoyed on a very fine ring of bells. Bray tower was ascended after a picnic lunch in the churchyard and watching hockey players strenuously chasing a small ball in the hot afternoon sun. After an hour's ringing, tracks were made for St. Mary's, Slough, where various methods were rung on the excellent ten. The evening's ringing was on the heavy eight at Beaconsfield and the excellent Croydon ten at Watford, where some of the best ringing of the day was performed.

Ringing during the day was quite good, methods ranging from call-changes to Surprise Royal. Thanks are due to the various incumbents and tower officials for the necessary permission, thus contributing to the enjoyment of a really pleasant outing. H. R.

WATFORD GRAMMAR SCHOOLS

Over 30 ringers and several friends formed the party for the Watford Grammar Schools' Society outing into Surrey and Sussex on September 26th.

An inauspicious start was made at Merrow, near Guildford, but Shere bells were easier to handle, and touches of Grandsire and Stedman as well as rounds were rung. A picnic lunch at Leith Hill was followed by visits to Warnham, where difficulties over the key restricted ringing to ten minutes, Kirdford and Midhurst.

After tea at Hindhead, the day's programme concluded at Frensham, where a plain course of Cambridge was added to the repertoire. Gill Graney, who organised the trip, and those who met the party are gratefully thanked. A. J. H.

SYSTON DISTRICT

A pleasing feature of the Syston District annual outing on September 26th was the large percentage of young ringers and learners present. Perhaps this is why it turned out to be such a boisterous affair!

Arriving at Sheepy Magna rather early, there was some good ringing until one of our members 'went for a ride' as a stay went. Nothing daunted, on to Witherley (a pleasant-toned five), where 75 feet of rope caused some difficulty for the youngsters. After this we were ready for a picnic tea before ringing on the odd little five at Fenny Drayton. It was worth watching the faces of the successive bands as they climbed up the short ladder to the ringing floor, confident of showing the previous band how to ring, turning to dismay after the first three pulls as they tried to find rounds!

At Higham-on-the-Hill we found the best six of the day, and here had the best ringing. A case of serious illness near the church unfortunately prevented ringing at Burbage, but members consoled themselves at a suitable 'hostelry' on the way home.

Thanks are due to the incumbents and Ringing Masters of the various towers for their help and co-operation in making this such a successful outing. B. S. P.

HINTON BLEWETT, SOMERSET

With the sound of their own (tape-recorded) bells ringing—relayed from The Ring of Bells—the Hinton Blewett (Som.) ringers had a good early start to their annual outing. The first tower was Pylle (6), with a pleasant ring, where everyone, including the learners, did well. It was a long ride to Upwey, where the younger ringers found the light six rather difficult to handle. A sandwich lunch was enjoyed here before leaving for Wyke Regis (8). Unfortunately, the striking here was not as good as we would have liked, but a good touch of Stedman Triples was rung. The party in toto then dispersed in Weymouth for several hours.

After tea we rang at Preston (6), where the ringing was generally good, and included a touch of Cambridge and some good Stedman Doubles rung by five Hinton Blewett ringers plus one visitor. This was particularly pleasing in view of the fact that none of the band were change-ringers until a couple of years ago.

We are very grateful to Mr. Andrews for his organisation, to incumbents and local ringers who met us, and last, but not least, to David Purnell for being a very capable Ringing Master.

SOUTH DERBYSHIRE AND NORTH LEICESTERSHIRE

The Shropshire outing on September 19th was the most successful one yet held by the South Derbyshire and North Leicestershire Association. Mr. R. Edge, the local Guild secretary, met the coach at Much Wenlock, where Grandsire Triples, Bob Major and call-changes were rung. Other towers visited were Bromfield, Chelton, Bridgnorth and Quatt Malvern. Thanks are due to Mr. R. Edge for his help in suggesting towers and the Association's secretary for the arrangements (unfortunately, he did not come with us). E. H. W.

PETERBOROUGH BRANCH

On September 19th, in perfect weather, the Peterborough Branch made a 200-mile coach tour, which was thoroughly enjoyed by 22 members.

During the tour, five 8-bell towers were visited. These were Newport Pagnell, Bicester, Witney, Great Tew and Daventry, all of which were found to be delightful.

Especially thanks to Mr. Cyril Kinch, of Bicester, who so kindly made arrangements for lunch, also to the Rev. and Mrs. Adeney who gave us all such a wonderful welcome to Witney.

Through the medium of these columns may we thank all who helped in making the day such an enjoyable one. G. S. B.

SHELLEY'S CUP CONTEST

Shelley ringers held their annual cup contest on October 3rd, and of the five teams who entered only four competed. The test was 600 changes with 120 changes as practice. Mr. Albert Goldthorpe and Mr. Percy Hawthornthwaite were the judges and Mr. Herbert Holbrook the marker. The results were: Silkstone 65 faults, Meltham 87, Friezland 111, Kirkheaton 162.

Mr. Isaac Craptree presented the cup and prizes to Mr. Harry Mann on behalf of the Silkstone ringers. Meltham, who had held the cup for three years, received the second prize. The vote of thanks to Shelley for the arrangements was acknowledged by Mr. J. W. Buxton.

The business meeting which followed commenced with the company standing in silence to the memory of Mr. Harry Nutt, of Friezland. In a tribute, Mr. Buxton said Mr. Nutt rang in his last contest at Marsden, and by sheer will power rang the 600 changes. He then set his bell and collapsed. Friezland were the winners, and they all knew Harry would not let them down.

TINTINNABULATING IN TIROLERLAND

EARLY one recent Thursday morning a party of 23 people were assembling in Grantham awaiting a coach which was to carry them on the first stage of a journey to a small Austrian village called Mieders, near Innsbruck. Eight members of this party were ringers from St. Wulfram's, and included in their luggage was a set of handbells. After only an hour or so of travelling we encountered what was to be the first of a series of small accidents. Our coach decided to reshape the front of a lorry carrying a load of bricks. Fortunately no serious damage resulted, and after a delay of 20 minutes or so we were able to resume our journey. This delay nearly precipitated most serious calamity, namely, missing the boat train at Victoria. Nevertheless, all was well and we got there just in time, and the remainder of the journey, via Dover and Ostend, passed without incident, and we arrived at Gasthof Traube at mid-day on the Friday, without further incidents and in glorious sunshine.

The day of our arrival at Mieders proved to be the silver wedding day of two members of our party, and in the evening this provided the excuse to unpack the handbells. For a start, a plain course of Bob Minor was rung to mark the event. This attracted a small crowd and so we continued with a few tunes. Soon we found that we were competing with the local brass band, so we adjourned to the green to listen. After this performance we returned to our hotel to find a sing-song in progress. Much of the music, being local folk tunes, was unknown to us, but we joined in what we could. Soon, naturally, the bells were in action once more, playing a miscellaneous selection of tunes. A hectic party ensued, but most of the party managed to be in bed by midnight. We were not allowed to sleep for long because at 4 a.m. the peace was shattered by the church bells. Our first thoughts were that the local ringers were showing us that they too could ring bells; but when the performance was repeated at 5, 6, 7 and 8 o'clock we thought it was past a joke. However, it turned out that it was the feast day of the local saint and that the bells were being rung for masses. We concluded that as the ringers must have had a very hard day they might welcome some assistance the next day, which was Sunday. On making inquiries we were sadly disillusioned—the bells were rung by motor!

On the evening of that day the bar of our hotel began to fill up again, and soon another musical evening was under way. The local contingent made merry with zither, guitar, harp and piano accordion. As we were travelling light all we could provide was handbell music once again. As the evening progressed we found that we were ringing tunes to the accompaniment of one or another or a selection of these instruments. This was surely an odd selection of musical instruments, but the result was really quite pleasing. It was not until the last evening of our visit that another party developed, and again we enjoyed a similar type of entertainment, except that by this time we had included one of the local folk tunes in our repertoire. Also on this evening we rang a course of Grandsire Triples to mark our departure.

The next day we had to start our journey home, and this did not pass without incident, namely, having to change carriages at Munich in our pyjamas. Nevertheless we all arrived safely home in the early hours of the following Monday morning.

So ended a most enjoyable holiday at Gasthof Traube. The only thing that we lacked was a tape-recorder, which will be an essential piece of luggage if ever we travel to that part of the world again. It was thoroughly enjoyed by all, and it only remains now for us to record a vote of thanks to the organisers. J. M. S.

ST. CHRISTOPHER'S GUILD

ONE of the difficulties of the Editor is compressing into a few lines reports of tours which would occupy one and sometimes two pages. Most of the tours are very well written, and no little time and thought have been spent on their compilation. We cannot, however, fill our journal with tours. Other news has to receive its treatment.

We have in front of us the St. Christopher Guild tour for 1959, which took place during the first fortnight in August. Nine full days were spent in Staffordshire, Salop and Cheshire, and the remainder touring North Wales. Peter Bond acted as Ringing Master. Clive Smith had the monumental task of fitting in all the towers, and John Allen made arrangements for accommodation.

The Midland and Kent parties met at Witherley, Leics, and were met at Grendon, Warwicks, by the Sussex contingent. The first three nights were spent at Lichfield, and twice on the Sunday the visitors were privileged to join the local band at the Cathedral for service ringing, that in the afternoon including a touch of Yorkshire Royal. The Bank Holiday was wisely spent in the Black Country, where on that day traffic is at a minimum, and in such towers as Walsall, the two at West Bromwich, Wednesbury, Coseley (where four-spliced was achieved), Sedgley, Tettenhall, and finally on the ten at Willenhall, where the Vicar, who is a ringer, met the party.

Tuesday started in towers in rural Staffordshire, followed by the glorious six at Hoar Cross in a wonderful church, and after tea at Abbots Bromley, the heaviest five in the county; there are hopes of these being rehung at an early date. With some assistance the day concluded with Cambridge Royal at Stafford.

The route on Wednesday took the party into Shropshire. Tong, Madeley, Coalbrookdale, Much Wenlock, Bromfield Priory and Ludlow were all visited, with a number of lesser known towers. The next day's ringing included the two towers at Shrewsbury, with Stedman Caters and Kent

Royal at St. Chad's. One comment: 'The octagonal tower at Hodnet houses a "very palatable" eight, and a course of Yorkshire did them justice.'

Features of Friday's programme were the good Taylor eight at Market Drayton and Winnie Key's turning in the tenor of Clive's heavy six to the local captain's delight. The day ended on the two light rings at Hinstock and Chetwynd.

Saturday saw the party entering Cheshire, and Mr. Frank Stenson welcomed the party at Crewe. After a quick hop into Flintshire came Oswestry, with a variety of stairways eventually leading to a spacious belfry, where a course of Bristol was rung with an old friend, Fred Burnett.

There was muffled ringing in respect for an old ringer at Chirk, on Sunday, August 9th, where the entire party stayed to the service and met the Vicar afterwards. For evensong, the local band were grateful to have the visitors ring at Eccleston (eight, 26 cwt.), a Taylor masterpiece in an equally fine church. The next day the general opinion was that the effort of climbing the tower of Chester Cathedral was not rewarded by a good ten. The following day was spent in the Wirral and Flintshire areas, and it was at Hope that Peter Bond rang in his 2,000th tower. That night was spent at St. Asaph, and the following day Jeff Webb and Bill Birmingham, who were on holiday in the area, joined the party at Abergele. Methods up to Yorkshire were rung at Llandudno, and the evening after visiting Bangor Cathedral was spent touring Anglesey.

Thursday was spent touring Snowdonia and visiting Caernarvon Castle, the only ringing being at Portmadoc, with the night spent in Barmouth. After attention—three ropes being missing—the majestic Mears octave was rung at Barmouth. Towers rung at included Llandinam, where the Vicar had never had any visitors before.

Bill Stote and Jeff Webb joined the party at Welshpool, and the day finished at Leintwardine, a church that merits a visit. On Sunday, August 16th, morning ringing was at Cleobury Mortimer, with its bent spire, Kinlet (a church in a park), and Dodderhill, a glorious octave to finish on.

His many friends will regret to learn that Mr. E. Roger Martin, of Preston, Lancs, has been ordered to bed by his doctor, with heart trouble. A vice-president of the Lancashire Association, of which he has been a member for over 50 years, Mr. Martin will be much missed at service ringing and weekly practices of Preston Parish Church. We all wish him a speedy recovery.

The Sear Memorial at St. Mary's, Bletchley, will be dedicated on Sunday, November 1st, by the Rector at 3 p.m., and the window will be unveiled by Lord Lucas of Chilwell.

The quarter peal at St. Mary's, Eastbourne, on September 27th, was rung as a farewell to Mr. F. Lee, who is leaving for a university, and as a compliment to Mr. R. Cowling, on the occasion of his 87th birthday.

All in the West Country will join us in congratulating Mr. and Mrs. J. Pugsley, of Minehead, on their diamond wedding anniversary. A founder member of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association, Mr. Pugsley has completed 71 years as a ringer.

When the Lincoln Diocesan Guild held its diamond jubilee dinner at Lincoln on Saturday there was one founder member of the Guild present—Mr. J. B. Halifax, aged 86, who for the past 28 years has been churchwarden at Fleet. The other surviving founder member, Mr. John Cragg (Caythorpe), sent an apology. The dinner was most successful.

Pipe's Pilgrims are considering a visit to John o' Groats, passing through the Lake District en route. They hope to ring at various Scottish towers including Inveraray. Suggestions as to the route from Inveraray to John o' Groats and return via Inverness to Dundee, allowing five days for touring, would be welcomed by Mr. Cecil W. Pipe. The tour is from July 24th to August 5th.

BELFRY

GOSSIP

The challenge of Halifax by the local band ringing a peal of 4-Spliced Major (see 'R.W.', August 21st) has been answered by All Saints', Allesley. Here the Sunday service band have rung a peal in six Spliced Surprise Major methods.

It was fitting that Mr. Peter Jarvis, of Bethersden, Kent, was able to stand in the first peal on the restored ring at Great Chalf, as he and his father, Mr. Harry Jarvis, have worked hard to bring about the restoration.

We should like to congratulate Mr. Chas. W. Everett on completing 60 years of service ringing at St. Mary's, Ashford, Kent. A peal in honour of his long and loyal service is recorded in our columns this week.

Mr. G. Fothergill, a ringer at Ossett, who graduated this year at Leeds University, sailed on Monday for the Antarctic. He will be isolated for two years, all communications with the outer world being by radio. Mr. Fothergill is meteorologist and assistant geologist to an expedition.

Yorkshire was specially selected as the method rung at Lutterworth on October 10th to welcome the new Rector (Rev. H. D. Anderson) so that Ernest W. Tipler could have the pleasure of hearing one of his own compositions rung. This prolific Leicestershire composer had previously only heard a course of the method, and the peal was a great joy to him to listen to.

The first quarter peal has been rung on the private ring of six at Home Farm, Balscote, which is the lightest ring in the world (tenor 1 cwt. 22 lb.), the occasion being the 21st birthday of the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. S. Jarvis. After the quarter Mr. Jarvis entertained the band by ringing 'Shepherd's Aye' (a local folk song set to changes) single-handed before joining the Jarvis family and friends at supper. It is hoped to attempt a peal on these bells.

MISS MURIEL REAY'S 500 PEALS

MEMBERS of the Ladies' Guild and the Exercise at large will congratulate Miss Muriel Reay, of Northfield, Birmingham, on ringing her 500th peal, which took place at Hanbury recently. She joins a very small band, among whom are Mrs. J. Thomas and the late Mrs. Phyllis Poole, who have rung over 500 peals.

The story of Miss Reay, who is a school teacher, taking up ringing, is an interesting one. It was the result of a salvage drive at West-houghton, Lancs, where she was working in November, 1946. Miss Reay sent some copies of Northfield Parish Magazine, which has on its cover a photograph of the church, to the Church School for salvage.

The caretaker of the school saw the magazine and asked Miss Reay if there were any bells there. The outcome of this conversation was an invitation to the weekly practice to learn to ring.

LIKE DANIEL

'The following Tuesday,' writes Miss Reay, in response to the Editor's inquiry, 'I climbed the belfry steps for the first time, feeling rather like Daniel in the lions' den. I made the acquaintance of Albert Greenhalgh, who taught me to handle a bell, Jack Ashcroft and others in the band.'

'In time I learned to ring rounds fairly well, and began ringing on Sundays. The next step was change-ringing, and I soon realised I needed all the practice I could get. With some of the Westhoughton ringers I visited other practices, especially that at Adlington, where Jim Blackburn was in charge. It was at this church that I rang the treble unaided to a touch of 120 Grandsire Doubles for the first time. This meant a lot to me and I felt I was a ringer at last.'

'My first peal was rung at Hindley Church on June 23rd, 1948. There had been two previous attempts for Grandsire, and on this occasion we met short. It was decided to go for Doubles; Jack Ashcroft called it and it was his first peal as conductor.'

'I had rung with Birmingham ringers during my holidays and my second peal was with them. This was at Bishop Ryder's Church on June 30th, 1948. I think this was the peal where a bell stay dropped out. About this time I met Arthur Tomlinson, another Lancashire ringer who called many of my early peals and was one of the many who helped me to ring.'

'My 10- and 12-bell ringing was learned in Birmingham, and my first peal on ten was Stedman Caters at Birmingham Cathedral on September 16th, 1948, and the first on 12 was Stedman Cinques at St. Martin's, Birmingham, on April 11th, 1950.'

IN BIRMINGHAM

'I left Lancashire in March, 1951, and returned home to live. I became a Sunday service ringer at the Cathedral and rang at St. Martin's when we were not at the Cathedral. Service times have now been changed and we now ring at both towers.'

'Once I was in Birmingham my peal total began to mount steadily, and there was a regular date at the Cathedral on Thursday evenings and few Saturdays went by without some ringing. In 1954 we rang many new methods, most of which were rung without practice.'

'Most of my peals have been rung with George Fearn—436 out of the 500—who has played a large part in my ringing career. With Arthur Pearson I have rung 246 and with John Pinfold 239. I count it as a great privilege to have rung in Albert Walker's 500th 12-bell peal. I have met many people and made many friends among ringers.'

HER 500 PEALS

All Miss Reay's peals have been rung on tower bells. She has rung no fewer than 84 different Surprise Major methods and one peal of Spliced Surprise Major in ten methods. Details are:—

'FACTS AND FIGURES ABOUT THE CHURCH OF ENGLAND'

This book, prepared by the Statistical Unit of the Central Board of Finance, contains a wealth of information about many aspects of the life of the 43 dioceses of the Church of England. The figures given in respect of the number of ringers (46,848 at December 31st, 1956) were published previously in the Official Year Book and commented on by the Sunday Service Committee of the Central Council in their report for 1958. The Committee's view that this total is on the high side will be shared by most ringers, but in fairness to the compilers it must be said they are at pains to point out that the tables are based on an 85 per cent. return from parishes and have been constructed statistically to represent the probable totals if all returns had been sent in.

Ringers whose interest in the church does not end with the bells will find the book well worth studying. It may be obtained from Church House Bookshop, Church House, Great Smith Street, London, S.W.1, price five shillings and threepence post free.

RECORD ATTENDANCE AT GUILDFORD GUILD DINNER

A REQUEST was made by the Provost (the Very Rev. Walter Boulton) at the annual dinner of the Guildford Diocesan Guild of Church Bellringers, held at Harvey's Restaurant, Guildford, on October 3rd, that all the bells of the diocese should ring on May 31st next, the day of the consecration of Guildford's New Cathedral by the Archbishop of Canterbury. The dinner was attended by a record company of 192, who received the Provost and Mrs. Boulton, and the Master of the Guild (Mr. C. W. Denyer, of Farnham) and Mrs. Denyer.

Proposing the toast of 'The memory of Mr. J. S. Goldsmith and other officers and members of the Guildford Guild,' Mr. C. W. Denyer said the toast was a form of remembrance and thanksgiving for members who had served the Guild since its inception in 1927 to the present day. Many of those present did not know John S. Goldsmith, but there were two memorials to him. One was 'The Ringing World,' which he founded in 1911, and the other was the sacring bell at the New Cathedral, which was the gift of the ringers to his memory after the war.

MEMORIAL TO A. H. PULLING

This year they remembered in particular their old friend, Alfred H. Pulling, who had died since the Guild's summer festival. He was one of the greatest ringers ever known. Most of them knew him as a wonderful ringer and a perfect striker of a bell, who had the knack of making others ring. 'We shall miss him an awful lot, but we thank God for what he did for us.'

Mr. Denyer said he felt the Guild should provide a tangible memorial to his memory. He knew that Holy Trinity ringers had their own ideas of their own memorial in their tower, but that was not a Guild memorial. They wanted a Guild and also a national memorial, and the committee would be meeting shortly to consider such a step. He would like to see the memorial associated with the New Cathedral, and he suggested that it should take the form of an electric lift to the ringing chamber as 144 steps was a very long climb.

The toast, with a special remembrance of Alfred H. Pulling, was drunk in silence.

Mr. S. G. Ponting, of Milford, submitted the toast of 'The Diocese of Guildford.' The Provost, in reply, said that gathering made him feel that the church had something that other secular societies had not. 'We have had a wonderfully good dinner, but there is also a feeling of wonderful geniality and friendship which is not mere back-slapping. It is something like the components you get in the old Orders of Chivalry; it seems that you are all bound together by some mystical tie as soon as you start bell ringing—a secret society that covers the whole country. We wish that other church organisations had the same qualities. I know of some Parochial Church Councils that have no spirit of geniality.'

The Provost said he hoped the Guild would have a memorial to Alfred Pulling. He happened to be abroad at the time of his death, but he regarded him as a great man and would miss him enormously. He believed the Holy Trinity, Guildford, band had some plan for a memorial to him in the belfry, and he assured them that if there was a permanent memorial in the New Cathedral he would be in 100 per cent agreement with it.

RELAY OF CONSECRATION SERVICE

If it was God's will their New Cathedral would be consecrated on May 31st by the Archbishop of Canterbury. He asked all the bands of ringers in the diocese, and particularly the local bands, to consider their part in the consecration. The ceremony would start at 3 p.m. and finish probably at 4.30 p.m., and he was hoping for the service to be relayed into various parts of the town. Immediately at the conclusion he would like the bells of Guildford to ring out a joyful celebration, to be taken up by every tower in the diocese.

He was told that 30 years ago Holy Trinity, Guildford, was one of the great ringing towers of the diocese, with a national reputation. Since he had been in Guildford he had seen that galaxy of talent gradually disappear, and they had had to replace them with a young band that required training.

TWO LADY CONDUCTORS

Mr. E. John Wells, Ringing Master of the Guildford District, submitted the toast of 'The Ladies and the Visitors.' He mentioned the fine performances of two young ladies—Miss Jill Lane, of Merrow, and Miss Catherine Powell, of Stoke D'Abernon—who had each conducted a peal during the year.

The toast was acknowledged by Mr. G. Norris, churchwarden of St. Peter's, Ash, and Miss Monica Collins, of St. Nicolas', Guildford.

The speeches were followed by an excellent entertainment provided by Mr. Harold Cole and two lady members of the Farnham Amateur Dramatic Society. Tune ringing by Mr. G. S. Joyce and Dr. W. Wright was also very effective, and there was a touch of Grandire Triples rung by Major Bragg, Dr. Wright, Mr. G. S. Joyce and Mr. W. Viggers.

The evening concluded with a vote of thanks to those who had arranged the evening, moved by Mr. F. E. Collins, the toastmaster, who especially mentioned the beautiful chrysanthemums which decorated the tables, the gift of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Harman, of Beare Green. These were afterwards sold on behalf of the Alfred H. Pulling Memorial Fund.

THE NATIONAL POLICE GUILD AT DERBY

For the first time, the National Guild of Police Ringers held their annual meeting in Derby on September 19th, and it was well attended by members from London, Manchester, Peterborough, Leicester, East Sussex and Nuneaton.

The day got off to a good start with some fine 10-bell ringing at St. Andrew's. Unfortunately, this was cut short when the treble stay was broken. Ringing on the heavy eight at St. Luke's was delayed owing to the door leading to the belfry being locked; but some good Major and Triples ringing ensued. The bells at St. Peter's and the Cathedral were well used during the afternoon.

The business meeting was held at Police Headquarters in Derby (by kind permission of the Chief Constable, Mr. E. V. Staines) and was attended by 25 members. The president (ex-Sgt. E. C. Turner, Leicester City) opened the meeting by welcoming members to Derby. He informed the meeting of the deaths during the year of ex-Inspector A. B. Whiffin, of Southend, and ex-P.C.s D. Brown and J. Turner, of Manchester. Five new members were elected, being ex-P.C. F. R. Scott (City of London), P.C. A. Pearce (Manchester City), P.C. J. Watson (Leics and Rutland), P.C. J. Walder (East Sussex), Cadet J. Liddiard (Hampshire) and ex-Superintendent C. Rush (Suffolk).

All officers of the Guild were re-elected for the coming year. It was decided that the venue for next year's meeting be Leicester and the date Saturday, September 24th. One important change in the rules was made and that was that all policemen who are bell-ringers are eligible for full membership, whether they be method ringers or just call-change ringers. Previously only change-ringers were allowed to be full members of the Guild, but it is now emphasised that all policemen bell-ringers can become members and should contact the secretary for details at 17, Glen Way, Oadby, Leicester.

The final item in the programme was a dinner and social evening held at the Friary Hotel, Derby, when about 75 members and friends sat down to an excellent meal. The Guild was honoured by the presence at the dinner of the Chief Constable of Derbyshire Constabulary (Mr. W. E. Pitts), the Provost of Derby Cathedral (Very Rev. R. A. Beddoes) and Inspector J. Sargeant, of Derby Borough Police, and Mrs. Sargeant. Inspector Sargeant deputised for his Chief Constable, who was indisposed. After the dinner the president proposed a toast to 'The Guests and Visitors.' Inspector Sargeant's excellent reply on behalf of the guests will be long remembered. Ex-Inspector T. R. Butler (Liverpool City) proposed the toast of 'The Church,' which was suitably replied to by the Very Rev. R. A. Beddoes. A toast to 'The Guild' was proposed by Mr. W. E. Pitts, who reminded those present of the many amusing and other occasions when he had previously been in contact with the Guild. This toast was replied to by Inspector J. Prior (Metropolitan).

The social evening which followed was under the supervision of Mr. Frank Measures, of Leicester. The entertainment commenced with a 'rise and fall' on handbells by the Leicester contingent. This was followed by various party games and dances, which probably accounted, partially, for the increase in the sale of refreshments. Touches of various Triples and Caters methods were rung on the handbells during the evening. A band of Derbyshire ringers formed themselves into a very mixed-voice choir, and with the help of one or two outsiders entertained the company with several ringers' songs. This was highlighted by the appearance in the room of a certain school teacher from Leicester, who immediately took on the responsibility of a conductor. However, for some reason or other he neglected the choir and focused all his interest on conducting the listening audience! Everyone thoroughly enjoyed the day.

The Guild extends very sincere thanks to Mr. W. A. Morley, of Derby, for making the arrangements.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

CAMBRIDGE SURPRISE MAXIMUS AND PUDSEY SURPRISE MAJOR

Dear Sir,—In reply to Mr. L. W. G. Morris' letter on the subject of compositions of Cambridge Surprise Maximus, I should like to say that Mr. Morris mentioned this peal to me when we met at the Central Council meeting some years ago. I told him that I had not seen anything like it, and it did not occur to me then that it might be a variation of some other composition with almost the same calling but very different musical qualities.

It will be noticed that, wherever Mr. John Carter's composition is started, the 2nd cannot be kept out of 6ths place, but by making the slight variation which Mr. Morris has done, the 2nd can be kept out of 5-6 and the composition made much more musical.

I agree with Mr. Barnett that true originality in the strictest sense cannot be achieved in Cambridge Surprise Maximus with ordinary calling, and I feel that it should be left to Mr. Morris to decide whether to describe his composition as 'composed' or 'arranged.' He is certainly entitled to some credit for producing a composition with good musical qualities, but the facts quoted by Mr. Barnett cannot be disputed.

With reference to the second part of the letter, the composition given is a splendid peal of Pudsey Surprise Major by Mr. E. A. Barnett. When Pudsey Surprise Major first came into vogue, Mr. Barnett noticed something in the construction of the method that had been completely missed by Mr. A. Craven and the composers of his generation. This was the incidence of the internal falseness in Pudsey Surprise, which is entirely different from that of Yorkshire, although both methods have the same false course-end (24365). By making good use of this discovery, Mr. Barnett was able to obtain this peal, which is truly original, and a very clever composition, as it contains 15 of the 18 possible 4, 5, 6 combination course-ends, a quality not obtainable in many other methods.

Mr. Morris is quite wrong in stating that true originality is not attainable in compositions of Pudsey Surprise Major. Actually there is more scope for composers in this method than in many others, and since Mr. Barnett gave us his 5,184, many fine peals, on really original plans with excellent musical qualities, have been produced by many of our most brilliant composers.

I should also like to bring to your notice a point arising from the report of a peal of Yorkshire Surprise Royal, rung at St. Peter's, Brighton, and published in 'The Ringing World' of October 9th, 1959, page 579. Here the name of the composer is given as 'Nicholas Nickleby,' a fictitious character. A peal report should above all things be factual, and where a block of courses cannot be properly credited to any one composer it should be described as a 'traditional' composition, or else as an arrangement. The place for 'humour,' if indeed this sort of cheap clowning can be regarded as funny, is in Belfry Gossip not in the peal columns of 'The Ringing World.'—Yours sincerely,

CHARLES W. ROBERTS.

Waltham Abbey.

'LOGICAL THINKING' v. 'LOYALTY'

Dear Sir,—It seems to me that the effect of the 'Opposition' is to make the Government think more deeply about new or revised legislation. Opposing the official Government policy, rebels marched to Aldermaston, causing terrific disturbances.

If Robin Leale had gone to an A.G.M. of the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild he could have done nothing on his own because he would have been out-voted by the non-thinking masses who 'follow the leader.' I realise that, in general, support should be given to those we put in office, but when it comes to taxing ringers for the printing of reports they do not receive, loyalty must be overcome by logical thinking.

May I point out to the Rev. K. H. Felstead that Robin offered to pay any levy to the 'R.W.' which might be introduced.—Yours sincerely,

D. A. R. MAY.

BOY SCOUTS' BADGE

Dear Sir,—There must be many in the ringing world who have been or still are associated with the Boy Scout movement, and I would like to bring to their notice and to the Exercise generally that the proficiency tests of the B.S.A. have been revised this month. After a boy has obtained his 2nd class badge, these tests on individual matters are open to him. Among others, a bell-ringing badge is included for the first time.

The Girl Guides have had this for some time, and I once had the privilege of passing out a Guide who is now a very efficient ringer. I am not quite sure of the details, but I believe the work includes splicing a rope, raising and falling in rounds and ringing 120 changes of Bob or Grandsire Doubles on a working bell.

Here, I feel, is a great opportunity to get young intelligent people into our ranks and also to do a good turn to a great movement. I am sure that we in the ringing world would gain on the exchange. I hope the Exercise will co-operate and give its full support.—Yours truly,

R. F. BAKER.

Brampton, Hunts.

CORRECTIONS TO 'DOVE'

Dear Sir,—While on a recent holiday in Wales the following errors in Dove's Guide were found:—

(1) Bodfean, Caernarvon, St. Buan (6, 5 cwt.). These bells are not hung for ringing but are hung 'dead' with an additional Sanctus bell. The dates of the bells are: Sanctus, 1774; treble, no date; 2nd, 1754; 3rd, 4th and tenor, 1893; 5th, 1894. The back four are by Mears and Stainbank; the founders of the other three are not shown.

(2) Llandinam, Montgomery, St. Llonio (6, 6 cwt. in B flat). There is no mention of this tower at all in 'Dove' and yet the bells have been rehung on ball-bearings by Taylors. The back five are by Warners, while the treble is a pre-Reformation bell. The wooden frame is in excellent condition although the bells are not rung very often.—Yours sincerely,

IAN H. ORAM.

Lee, S.E.

'TICH' SYMONDS

Dear Sir,—Regarding the 'Stories of Old London Ringers,' 'Tich' Symonds was one of the Lavenham Symonds. I knew him quite well as we both went to the same school. His full name was Frederick George Symonds. 'Tich' rang 5-6 to my first 720 of Bob Minor on August 4th, 1902. Also I am the only one to ring a 720 with the Symonds family of three sons and two daughters. What memories to go back to!—Yours truly,

E. H. SIMPSON.

Shipley, Yorks.

MOST PEALS IN A TOWER

Dear Sir,—Having read in 'The Ringing World' that Mr. A. P. Cannon has rung peals in more towers in Kent, beating the record of Mr. Frank Bennett, I wonder who has rung the most peals in any one tower? Possible claimants for this honour are Mr. E. Barnett, of Crayford, Mr. F. Cullum, of Erith, Mr. A. Walker and the Bailey brothers, of Leiston.—Yours faithfully,

G. J. BUTCHER.

Northfleet, Kent.

FIRST PEAL OF TRIPLES FOR CLERICAL GUILD

Dear Sir,—With regard to the claim made in 'The Ringing World,' of September 25th, that the peal of Grandsire Triples rung at Chittlehampton on September 7th, 1959, was the first of Triples for the Clerical Guild, I should like to draw your attention to the fact that the first peal ever by the Guild was rung at East Hagbourne, Berks, on May 15th, 1935, conducted by the Rev. Carew Cox.—Yours truly,

N. M. K. WARREN.

265 PEALS IN ONE TOWER

By ringing a peal of Superlative on October 2nd at St. John-the-Baptist's, Erith, Mr. F. J. Cullum brought his total number of peals on these bells to 265, which is thought to be the greatest number of peals rung in one tower by any ringer. Mr. Edwin Barnett, the father of the secretary of the Central Council, has rung 264 peals at Crayford. It would be interesting to know if these totals have been exceeded by any other ringer.

The churches at Crayford and Erith are noted for a long peal-ringing tradition, being the only churches where more than 500 peals have been rung. The most peals in any tower have, of course, been rung at Loughborough Bell Foundry.

Mr. Cullum's achievement will be of interest to his many friends, especially those who, for so many years, have enjoyed the friendly welcome that so regularly awaits visitors to Erith. Himself an experienced conductor, especially of Stedman, he has always been happy to give opportunities and encouragement to others, and it was fitting that the 265th peal should have been conducted by Ian H. Oram, a young man with a brilliant ringing future before him.

Good luck, Fred, and here's to the next 265!

OBITUARY

MR. CECIL VICTOR EBBERSON

The Norwich Association has lost a great friend and a loyal supporter with the passing of Cecil Ebberson, who died on October 1st at his home at Snettisham after a short illness.

The funeral service took place at Snettisham Church on October 7th, attended by a large gathering, which included ringers from Dersingham, Downham Market, Gaywood, Holme Hale, King's Lynn, North Creak, Norwich, Roydon, Shouldham and Terrington St. John. The Association was officially represented by the president, the chairman of the Western Branch (Rev. R. G. E. Dodson), the secretary and a committee member of the Western Branch and the chairman of the Northern Branch. In his address the Vicar of Snettisham referred to the devoted work of the deceased as a ringer and as an example of Christian witness. The Vicar of Dersingham read the lesson and the Rev. R. P. Pott, of Ingoldisthorpe, a friend of the family, said prayers at the interment. A course of Grandsire Triples was then rung over the grave.

Mr. Ebberson was born at Fakenham, Norfolk, on July 14th, 1891. On leaving school he was apprenticed to a local watchmaker and became a first-class craftsman with great enthusiasm for his work and a deep interest in the history of timepieces. He had, until wounded in the leg in the first world war, some reputation locally as an athlete, and became interested in ringing, an enthusiasm encouraged by the Cooke family. His first peal—one of Bob Major—was rung at Fakenham on Easter Monday, 1914.

After the war, during which he saw much active service in France, he worked in London for six years. He married in 1921 Miss Annie Adcock, of Wells, who, with their daughter Margaret, survives him. During this period he took part in a number of peals arranged by William Pye and J. Armiger Trollope, which included the then record peal of Surprise Royal (10,440 Cambridge at Walthamstow on Boxing Day, 1923) and the first peals of Edmonton, Marlborough and Winchester Bob Major.

Returning to Norfolk in 1926 to take over a watch repairing business at Snettisham, Mr. Ebberson found the bells there unringable and so joined the band at the neighbouring tower at Dersingham, ringing there Sunday by Sunday until recent weeks. Business at first prevented him from taking a very active part in the affairs of the Association, but in later years few have done more to foster interest and to encourage change-ringing in the diocese. As Ringing Master and a member of the standing committee for the Western Branch for many years, he travelled hundreds of miles to help struggling bands, teaching beginners and offering good advice in the conduct of affairs. His enthusiasm was infectious. He was the pleasantest of men with a kindly word for all and a fund of good humour. How we shall miss him!

In memoriam ringing took place at a number of centres, the young band Mr. Ebberson taught ringing Dersingham bells half-muffled on hearing of his death. Peals were rung at Dereham, Dersingham and Terrington St. John.

A member of the Norwich Diocesan, Ely Diocesan, Middlesex County, Kent County, London County, Hertfordshire, Surrey, Suffolk, Lincoln and Essex Guilds and the Ancient Society of College Youths, Mr. Ebberson took part in 480 peals, 47 of which he conducted. The peals were made up as follows:—

Maximus.—Little Bob 1, Plain Bob 1. Cinques.—Grandsire 5, Stedman 1. Royal.—Little Bob 2, Plain Bob 7, St. Clement's College Bob 1, Winton Court 1. Kent Treble Bob 9 (including one of the Granta variation), Cambridge Surprise 2. Caters.—Stedman 9, Grandsire 9.

Major.—Plain Bob 33, Double Norwich 45, St. Clement's 3, Double Bob 2, Crayford College 1, Edmonton Bob 1, Hereward Bob 1, Little Bob 1, Gainsborough Bob 1, Double Oxford 2, Oxford Bob 1, Painswick College 1, Pershore Bob 1, Marlborough Bob 1, Winchester Bob 1, Spiced Plain, 1 each 2, 3, 4 and 6 methods, Kent Treble Bob 32, Oxford Treble Bob 9, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob (Ilkeston variation) 1, Little Albion 1, Cambridge Surprise (including New Cambridge) 31, Ashted 1, Bristol 12, London 3, Painswick 1, Norfolk 2 and Superlative 17.

Triples.—Grandsire 19, Stedman 15, Oxford Bob 1. Minor.—1 to 18 methods 179. Doubles.—8. Two of the peals of Grandsire and one of Bob Major were on handbells: 248 peals were rung for the Norwich, 94 for the Ely and 86 for the Middlesex County Associations.

MR. S. SEALY WOODBURN

The funeral of Mr. Sidney Sealy Woodburn took place at All Saints' Church, Weston, Bath, on October 10th, in the presence of a large congregation of some 150, including members of the family, friends and brother ringers from all over the diocese and West of England.

The service was conducted, in the absence of the Vicar, the Rev. E. J. Rowe (chairman of the Bath Branch, who is on holiday in America), by the Rev. John Tunwell, assisted by Mr. A. A. H. Davis, lay reader, and Mr. Roger O. Fry, former general secretary of the Association, now studying at Salisbury Theological College, who read the lesson. The service was fully choral, the local choir turning up voluntarily to pay their last tributes to one who had been popular with all the members of the church in Weston. The interment was at Locksbrook Cemetery. The bells were rung fully-muffled following the service by the local band, by visiting ringers and by one band consisting of officers and former officers of the Association.

Among those present were Mr. David Hoare (general secretary, Bath and Wells Association), Mr. W. Marsh (secretary, Glaston Branch), Mr. R. D. Short (secretary, Bridgwater Branch), Mr. R. G. Beck (Ringing Master, Frome Branch) and ringers from many of the city churches and churches within the diocese. The 32 wreaths and floral tributes included many from local towers, from the Association committee and from the churchwardens, P.C.C. and sidesmen at All Saints' Church.

A tribute was paid to Mr. Woodburn's memory at Hensong on the following Sunday by the Rev. John Tunwell, and following the service a quarter peal of Grandsire Triples was rung half-muffled by members of the local band and representatives of other city churches. Mrs. K. C. Brain (Weston) 1, R. O. Fry (Twerton) 2, H. L. Palfrey (Corston), 3, W. J. Prescott (Bath Abbey) 4, T. W. Harris (Keynsham) 5, G. J. Hawkins (St. Michael's, Bath) 6, T. J. Hayward (Weston, conductor) 7, K. C. Brain (Weston) 8.

Mr. Woodburn learned to ring in 1925 at Weston. He subsequently became tower master there in 1937 and taught many new ringers, until there was one of the strongest bands, numerically, in the Association. Through his drive and initiative the bells were retuned, rehung and augmented to eight in 1953. The only peal so far rung on them, by a largely local band in 1956, was Mr. Woodburn's last peal. Since no peal records have been found, no accurate details are available, but it is thought he rang about 50 altogether, on many local rings and on such rare bells as Queen Camel and Bath Abbey. Many of his peals were of Grandsire Doubles, for the benefit of youngsters starting to ring peals, and he called numerous quarter peals, hardly ever without a 'first' of some kind. His last quarter peal (recorded elsewhere in 'The Ringing World') was rung only the Sunday previous to his death to enable four of his band to ring their first quarters. Apart from being tower master at Weston, Mr. Woodburn was also a member of the P.C.C. and a sidesman, and had also been acting as assistant churchwarden.

In January, 1940, Mr. Woodburn was elected Branch secretary and Ringing Master of the Bath Branch of the Association, a position which he held until his death. Under his guidance and powerful leadership the membership flourished, and quarterly meetings of 100 ringers and more were by no means uncommon. He was asked by the Association in 1945 to organise the setting up of a war memorial in Bath Abbey for those members of the Association who had fallen in the 1939-45 war. Many of the Association committee meetings and annual general meetings were enlivened by Mr. Woodburn's contributions to them, and he was ever a staunch champion of those who were struggling to make headway in ringing, as well as being a strong advocate of the needs of Sunday service ringing. He leaves a widow, Mrs. Daisy Woodburn, and a son, Mr. Mervyn Woodburn. R. O. F.

AN APPRECIATION

Sealy, as he was affectionately known to his fellow ringers at Weston, began ringing in 1920. He was tower master at Weston for 21 years, and it was mainly due to his untiring energy and initiative that in 1953 the six original Bilbie bells were rehung and augmented to eight by the addition of two new treble bells by Messrs. John Taylor and Co., of Loughborough. A board erected in the tower commemorates this. It was he who organised the annual ringers' outings, and in addition during 1956 and 1958 arranged a week's ringing tour of Devon, visiting some four or five different towers each day.

Mr. Woodburn was also the secretary, together with other posts including the Ringing Master, of the Bath Branch of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association, and in recognition of his services he was made an honorary member of the Association. His presence will be sadly missed in the other activities of the church, as besides being tower master he was deputy churchwarden, sidesman and a member of the Parochial Church Council. In addition he was a member of various other committees set up to ensure the smooth running and advancement of the church. In fact it can be said that Mr. Woodburn was always in prominence where it was necessary for work to be done.

One of his greatest pleasures was the calling of the words 'That's all' after ringing and conducting a peal or quarter peal in which one of his learners had participated for the first time. On the Sunday afternoon prior to his death a quarter peal, conducted by Mr. Woodburn, had been rung on the bells of Weston in which four ringers had taken part for the first time. It can truly be stated that many of the younger ringers in Bath and the surrounding countryside have been taught or have benefited in some way by the patience and earnestness with which he encouraged people to ring church bells.

Any ringer who has visited All Saints' tower, Weston, will always remember the enthusiastic welcome which they received from Mr. Woodburn, and anyone, whether a brilliant ringer or a learner, was sure of true ringers' hospitality.

All who knew this great personality will hear of his passing with deep regret, and everybody who was associated with him in any way will appreciate with gratitude the example which he set us during his life. As we remember him the words which are borne on the tombstone of a famous ringer seem to apply:—

'Year by year the bells so softly,
O'er the graves shall music pour,
Where the dust of Saints is garner'd,
Till the Master comes once more.'

MR. ROBERT S. F. MURPHY, P.C.

It is with deep regret we announce that Mr. Robert S. F. Murphy, P.C., Master and librarian of the Irish Association of Change Ringers, passed peacefully away on October 9th, at the age of 86.

Mr. Murphy attended at St. Patrick's Cathedral, Dublin, on the previous Sunday morning when he, as usual, met his friends the Cathedral ringers. Later that day he had a heart attack, which culminated in his death on October 9th.

The remains were received at St. Patrick's Cathedral on Saturday, October 10th, by the Dean, the Very Rev. J. W. Armstrong. One of the Cathedral bells was tolled as the cortege approached the edifice. The funeral took place at Mount Jerome Cemetery, Dublin, where Gabriel Lindoff is buried, on October 12th, following a choral service in the Cathedral, which was conducted by the Dean.

Amongst the large attendance were the members of St. Patrick's Cathedral Society of Amateur Change-ringers, representatives of the executive council of the Irish Association and ringers of many of the local towers. Wreaths were also sent from the Cathedral bell-ringers and the Irish Association.

Bob Murphy made three requests immediately before he passed on, one of which was that a quarter peal would be rung at the Cathedral to his memory. This attempt was made with the bells half-muffled on October 13th and was a touch of 1,386 Grandsire Triples, the 86 to coincide with his age. As the remains left the Cathedral two courses of Stedman Triples, conducted by Percy W. Cave, were rung on the light eight bells, half-muffled.

Robert S. F. Murphy was born in Ballinakill, in what was then Queen's County, now Leix, on July 16th, 1873. His ringing career started in 1890, when the defunct Society of Bell-ringers at St. Canice's Cathedral, Kilkenny, was being revived.

In March, 1900, he left Kilkenny to take up a position in Dublin in the watchmaking and jewellery business of Hopkins and Hopkins. Nine years later he became managing director of that firm and remained so until his death. In fact he travelled daily to his business up to a week prior to his death. On his arrival in Dublin he joined the St. Patrick's Society, and it was on May 26th following that he scored his first peal after less than two months of practice, viz., 5,040 Grandsire Caters. In all he rang 25 peals for the Irish Association and two peals while on ringing tours in England.

Bob Murphy rang in the first peal composed entirely of Irish men, and one of his most memorable was the peal rung for the 94th birthday of his mother; the peal was 5,094 Grandsire Caters.

As a member of the Central Council of Church Bell Ringers from 1930 to 1947 he attended some meetings until age prevented his active interest, and was on one occasion charged by the Irish Association to be the first person to invite the Council to hold its meeting in Ireland.

He was three times president of the Irish Association, and presented a cup in 1933 for competition amongst the affiliated towers for good striking. He was appointed Ringing Master, which office he held until his death. He held also the position of librarian.

His greatest affection was for the Amateur Change Ringers' Society of St. Patrick's Cathedral. He had been president of that Society for 28 years, succeeding Mr. J. C. Cherry, F.R.C.S.I. He attended regularly every Sunday to see the ringers, even when he no longer could ascend the stairs to the ringing room. The annual dinner given by him in his private residence will be long remembered by those who had the privilege of being present.

When the Irish Free State was established, Mr. Murphy was appointed a Peace Commissioner, and was one of the first persons so honoured. This title is the equivalent of the British Justice of the Peace.

He is survived by his wife, four sons and five daughters, to whom sympathy is extended.

MR. CECIL J. MATTHEWS

His many friends in the Exercise will regret to learn of the death of Mr. Cecil J. Matthews, for many years a member of the company at St. Martin-in-the-Fields, and an ex-Master of the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths.

He was a prominent member of the excellent band led between the wars by his father, the late John D. Matthews, at the twin Cumberland towers of St. Martin's and St. Leonard's, Shoreditch. Failing health in recent years had led him reluctantly to sever an association of some 30 years with St. Martin's, but his interest in ringing and ringers remained.

The Matthews family were fortunate in having such a great enthusiast as John D. at their head, and it is not surprising that Cecil's first peal was one of Bob Major 'in hand' with his father, sister Elsie and James Hunt, in March, 1915. Later in the same year the Matthews had the distinction of ringing the first peal of Bob Major 'in hand' by members of one family, brother Edgar taking over from James Hunt.

Cecil's introduction to peal ringing on tower bells was unique, his first two peals being Kent Maximus and Stedman Cinques. Indeed, he rang eight peals on the higher numbers before his first peal of Major in 1922. The ringer of the second in that peal was Miss Kitty Smith, who was to become Mrs. Kitty Matthews. Twenty-six years later Cecil and Kitty took part in the famous married couples' peal of Stedman Cinques at Leicester Cathedral. They rang 46 peals together before Kitty's death in 1955.

Two other peals of which Cecil was very proud were the 'fathers and sons' peal at Shoreditch, and the peal of Bob Major 'in hand' rung on a railway train and covering the six counties of Middlesex, Bucks, Berks, Oxford, Wilts and Gloucester.

Cecil Matthews was not a prolific peal ringer; he rang a modest total of 118, including 12 'in hand' and 57 on 12 bells. He found his greatest satisfaction in his Sunday service ringing at St. Martin's and in his work for the Society. He will be remembered with gratitude.

He is survived by his second wife, whom he married in 1957.

A. R. L.

The funeral of Cecil J. Matthews took place at Putney Crematorium on October 14th. Among those present were Mr. T. H. Francis and Mr. T. Bevan, representing St. Martin's and the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths, and Mr. J. Prior, representing the Ancient Society of College Youths. Many floral tributes were received, including those from his workmates at the 'Evening Standard,' the band at St. Martin-in-the-Fields, and the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths.

MR. A. RODEN

A member of St. Bartholomew's Church, Penn, from childhood, and a ringer for over 50 years, Mr. A. Roden died at his home, Manor Road, Penn, on Sunday, October 4th, after a spate of arthritis lasting some 18 months.

His remains were interred at St. Bartholomew's Churchyard on October 7th.

Fellow ringers rang the bells fully-muffled whilst the cortege was brought to the church for the funeral service. The ringers proceeded to the graveside, where handbells were rung.

A quarter peal of Grandsire Triples was rung the same evening half-muffled by E. Stith 1, C. Griffiths 2, C. F. W. Eyre 3, John A. Roden (son of deceased) 4, G. Smallwood 5, A. Williams 6, E. G. Bowyer (conductor) 7, G. Hill 8.

MR. WILLIAM SELDON

The death of Mr. William Seldon, a member of the local band, took place in the belfry of St. Michael's Church, Sowton, Devon, on Sunday, September 27th. While ringing the second bell in a touch of Grandsire Triples for harvest thanksgiving Evensong he collapsed and died. He was aged 74.

Before his retirement he had worked for 46 years as chauffeur to the Garratt family of Bishop's Court (Sowton), descendants of the donors of the ring of eight bells at Sowton. His ringing was almost entirely devoted to Sunday service. He rang only six peals but did a great deal of instruction work with the Cyst Honiton band after the ban on church bell ringing was lifted during the war.

The funeral service, conducted by the Vicar (Rev. H. V. Christie), who is chairman of the Aylesbeare Branch, took place at Sowton on October 1st, followed by cremation at Torquay.

The bearers were two members from each of the Sowton and Cyst Honiton bands, A. Tapley and F. Willmington (Sowton) and E. E. Retter and G. E. Retter (Cyst Honiton). Other ringers present were Messrs. A. Gooding, W. D. Ashdown, W. Panter, H. G. Willmington and Mrs. G. E. Retter.

After the service 504 Grandsire Triples was rung half-muffled on Sowton bells. In the evening a quarter peal of Grandsire Triples was rung half-muffled on Cyst Honiton bells by the following: Miss A. Christie 1, J. Salway 2, A. Tapley 3, D. Callard 4, G. E. Retter (conductor) 5, E. E. Retter 6, A. Holway 7, E. Morgan 8. G. E. R.

EPPIING, ESSEX.—On Oct. 3rd, 1,260 Grandsire Doubles: Miss B. McClelland (cond.) 1, H. Coney (Jersey, C.I.) 2, C. Moore 3, M. Osborne 4, J. Aldridge 5, J. Statham 6. For harvest festival.

MR. G. F. HOAD

We regret to learn that Mr. George Frederick Hoad (82), who had been tower foreman at Reigate Parish Church for over 45 years, was knocked down by a car on Sunday evening on his way to ring at the Parish Church, and died in Redhill County Hospital on Monday.

DEDICATION

LANCHESTER, Co. DURHAM

Last February, the third bell of the six at Lanchester was found to have a broken canon, and its use was suspended until further notice. This bell was cast in 1810 and had been rung with this flaw steadily developing for nearly 150 years. It proved impracticable to remove the canons so the Parochial Church Council decided to have the bell recast by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank.

On Wednesday, September 23rd, the new bell was dedicated by the Rural Dean of Lanchester (Canon S. Val Green) before a good congregation representing local parishioners and ringers from surrounding belfries. The second lesson was read by the president of the Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association, Mr. K. Arthur. After the dedication the new bell was raised and the bells rung to rounds by the local band as the choir and clergy processed back to the chancel.

After the service the bells were rung to a touch of 240 Cambridge Surprise by a representative band from the Durham and Newcastle Association, conducted by the president: K. Ather (Lanchester) 1, S. Thompson (Whickham) 2, K. Arthur (Fenham) 3, C. N. Lea (S. Shields) 4, E. N. Harrison (Fenham) 5, J. A. Ainsworth (Fenham) 6. Afterwards the bells were sampled by most of the visitors, and the verdict was 'A good splice.'

The Lanchester ringers, having pounded away all summer with Doubles on 12456, are glad to have the full ring available again, and are now practising regularly on Wednesdays, 7.30 to 9 p.m.

MEMORABLE WEEK-END AT MELBOURNE

A memorable week-end took place in Melbourne by the visit of six Sydney and two Adelaide ringers.

Methods rung during the week were: Plain Bob from Minor to Maximus, Stedman and Grandsire up to Caters, Kent T.B. up to Royal, Cambridge Surprise and Double Court Bob Major, Cambridge Surprise Minor and Kent and Oxford (spliced) Major.

There was a handbell peal of Plain Bob Major, which is reported in our peal columns, and two quarter peals at St. Paul's Cathedral of Plain Bob Major and Plain Bob Maximus. The latter was the highlight of the week and is believed to be the first of Plain Bob Maximus outside Great Britain. It was rung at the first attempt.

NORTH MUSKHAM OUTING (Or The Three Muskameers)

Ringling at North Muskham, Notts, is at a low ebb. Through people leaving the district this tower, which in 1953 boasted 14 useful ringers, now has only three ringers for six bells. Nothing daunted, these three stalwarts decided to hold their annual ringing outing as usual this year. So they hired a coach and sent invitations to their ringing friends in the district.

The result was that on August 22nd a merry band of ringers and 'supporters' set forth upon a day's adventure into North Lincolnshire. Gainsborough, with its lovely eight, was the first stop, and here we were met by Mr. C. H. Baker, who was persuaded to join the party for the rest of the day.

At Kirton-in-Lindsey we met a friendly Vicar and a treble without a rope. The bells were of good tone, but we agreed with the locals when they said they thought these should be rehung. At Brigg we found our old friend Mr. Richardson waiting to greet us. A good friend of ringers is Mr. Septimus Neave, of Goxhill. He spent a lot of time putting the bells and ropes in going order for us at Thornton Curtis, and then entertained us at his own lovely 6-bell tower.

We did not do justice to the splendid eight in Barrow-on-Humber, as by this time the temperature was well up in the 80's, but we were pleased to renew acquaintance with Mr. Crowder. Barton-on-Humber not only possesses two grand rings of eight, but an organisation which provides the most wonderful food, and a model for others to copy in Ringing Master-cum-host is Mr. A. W. Hoodless.

The six at Winterton were a joy to ring, and the eight at Burton-on-Stather were just the sort of bells we would have liked to put in a tower in our own district.

Thank you, North Lincolnshire, we hope to come again; and thank you, North Muskham, we hope new ringers may soon come your way.

THE PROFESSOR INVESTIGATES AN OLD MANUSCRIPT AND EVEN OLDER BOOK

By HAROLD CHANT

A FEW days ago I had occasion to call upon Professor Dodge, and found him in his cell studying a bundle of sheets of notepaper, which I could see were covered in figures neatly written in ink. He tossed them over to me, and asked: 'What do you make of these?'

On examination I discovered that each sheet contained 120 of Doubles and that the names of these extents were many and varied: Hudibras, Gogmagog, Antigog, Stamford Delight, Jack on Both Sides, The Dream, Readymoney, Fortune, and indeed many others.

Some of the methods were given in doggerel in lieu of figures, as is exemplified by the following example of 'Blunderbuss':—

'If you wish to ring Blunderbuss
I would have you to know
The peal it is Hudebrafs
The hunt is one two
All the difference is
I would have you to mind
The bells dodg before
When the hunts are behind.'

'Where did you get these?', I asked.

'Oh, they are a collection of old Doubles methods copied out by Mr. Pannell, of Darlington, from a notebook given to his father many years ago by an old ringer near Bourne, in Lincolnshire. Mr. Pannell dates the notebook as about 150 years old.'

I studied the papers again. They meant little to me, but seemed in many cases to be mere variations of Grandsire or Plain Bob Doubles. The names of some of them seemed however to be, in some odd way, familiar.

The Professor produced a battered and mutilated book, which he handed to me with great care and, what appeared to be, a touch of reverence.

'This,' he said solemnly, 'is a first edition of "Campanalogia or The Art of Ringing," by John Doleman and Charles Marsh, published in 1702. You will find many of the methods in here.'

'I have often wondered where this had gone to,' I exclaimed truthfully, if ungrammatically, recognising the book as my own property. (No wonder the names of the methods had looked familiar; I had often browsed through the pages of 'Campanalogia'.)

'I borrowed it and forgot all about it,' said the Professor, airily. 'But no doubt that is how you came by it?'

I ignored the last remark as unworthy of reply and asked if the Lincolnshire notebook was of value and worthy of preservation.

'Old notebooks and MSS. should never be destroyed,' declaimed Mr. Dodge, 'as quite frequently a meaningless collection of notes and figures can become, in the hands of an expert with a first-class brain (like mine), the key which unlocks the door to the secrets of the past.'

(Modesty, I might add, cannot be reckoned as one of the failings of the Professor.)

'And what particular door has the first-class brain discovered the key to this time?', I asked, with (what I hoped was) heavy sarcasm.

'This notebook,' continued the Professor, in his turn ignoring a remark by me, 'is probably similar to scores, perhaps hundreds, of others which existed about that time, and so is in no way unique. But I considered it worthy of investigation at least. It soon became obvious on perusing both "Campanalogia" and the MSS. that it was quite common at one time to have alteration of work at the lead-end without a call being made, and indeed, in Mr. E. Morris's "History and Art of Change Ringing" I found a footnote on page 45 which stated that: "In the early versions (of Doubles) 'bobs' were rung but not called."

'So you discovered nothing new after all?'

'Perhaps not, but many things of interest. Look at this extract from "Campanalogia":—

"'Tis called an Extream Change, . . . of which Change 'tis required Notice be given, as the Treble is going to lead, by him who rings the Half-hunt, in faying Extream. The Word Extream, we muft confels, is the moft proper Signification, in Regard to the Change; but there is now, and for fome Time has been, a Word call'd Bob, instead of Extream; upon What Account the word was changed, we know not; yet, neverthelefs, for Faffion's Sake, we advife every one to use it."

'This extract is in reference to Old Doubles. On the next page, "New Doubles," we find:—

"The Extreams, or (as we fhall henceforth call them) the Bobs, are the fame as in the former Peal of Old Doubles."

'This abandonment of the "Extream" went on Mr. Dodge, 'led the authors into deep water, as in "The Dream" a few pages later we find that two different types of work are labelled "Bob." It is interesting to compare "Campanalogia's" "Dream" with the one set down in the MSS. Although the two sets of figures are identical we find that in the latter there are only three calls as opposed to six in the former, a fact which further increases the number of "non-conducted" lead-ends. Moreover, these calls are labelled "Extream," showing either that the ringers of Lincolnshire had not adopted the "Campanalogia" "Bob" or that they had reverted to the old call.'

By this time the Professor had got thoroughly wound up, and there was now no holding him.

'A rather curious thing happens with some of these Extreams, which, so far as I know, has no modern equivalent.'

'And what is that?', I asked, obligingly supplying the Dr. Watson to his Sherlock Holmes.

'You will have noticed that they cause, in some cases, the method to be changed after the treble has led. [I hadn't noticed!] Seeing therefore that, as in "The Dream," an Extream is called to bring the bells round, the 120 starts off assuming that a call has just been made. This incongruous-looking start is present also in other methods such as Hudibras and Uffington in the MSS. The last is particularly interesting, for without the Extreams the method is St. Simon's, but the "delayed action" of the Extream starts it off with a 3rds place; practically the only resemblance between it and the Uffington in the present C.C. Collection.'

'Do you think,' I chipped in, 'that there are still some old Doubles ringers left who are familiar with some of these, now rejected, methods?'

'I shouldn't be a bit surprised,' he said. 'It would be interesting to hear their views on the subject.'

The Professor then gave lengthy explanations as to the construction of many of the methods, both in the book and the MSS.: pointed out that one method dispensed with calls altogether; wondered why, having got down to 3-lead courses the Methods Committee hadn't plumped also for two (e.g., St. Clement's), but gave his blessing (rather grudgingly I thought) to the Methods Committee nevertheless; bemoaned the fact that he was unable to obtain the publications preceding John Doleman's 'Campanalogia'; admitted (in reply to a query of mine) that there were probably many Doubles ringers with more information and greater knowledge on the subject than he himself had; hoped that they would come forward (if that was so) with comments critical or otherwise; and finally, turning again to 'Campanalogia,' he said:—

'This method here, "Crambo," what do you think of it?'

'Yes,' I said, 'I have noticed it before. Stedman Doubles; the only difference being the "Single." I wonder why it was called "Crambo"? It must have been rung before this publication as Stedman Doubles for almost half-a-century.'

'Perhaps someone will write and tell us that we are a couple of ignoramuses for not knowing!' said the Professor. (I didn't much care for the plural.) 'But I am not an historian, just a mere mathematician. As I said to my students the other day: "I am a good grammarian but a poor arithmeticker!"'

I couldn't see the connection myself, but it seemed to amuse him and I left him chuckling over his own joke.

On my way home I realised that I had left my 'Campanalogia' behind!

A unique silent peal of Cambridge Surprise Major was rung at Halstead on October 10th, in which the ringers drew for their bells. Next to last to draw was Joe Roast, who took out two tickets. Without looking, he replaced one, leaving the last for Miss Hilda Snowden, the organiser, which happened to be the tenor. The band are indebted to Mr. Lewis Wiffen, who inspired the peal, and called 'Off' and also 'Stand'; otherwise not a word was spoken. Has a not pre-arranged peal been rung previously silently on tower bells? Messrs.
Syder and Eves are to be congratulated as they had not previously called Cambridge Surprise Major.

By ringing the third at Darley Dale to a peal of Yorkshire, Mr. Ron Bullen has now 'completed the circle.'

At the ladies' meeting at Oakham on October 17th, the lady ringing the second bell called:
'Look to, treble's going,' to encourage the others. No one seemed amazed except the treble ringer—she was ringing solo!

At the sixth attempt in the last 2½ years has been rung the third post-war peal on the fine bells at Gosforth, Northumberland. The support of Canon J. W. Turnbull, the Vicar, in permitting these attempts is much appreciated by the ringers, as the church is situated in a residential area and with a nursing home only 30 yards from the tower.

The peal at Lutterworth, Leics (page 617), was rung to welcome the Rector (Rev. H. D.
Anderson) four years after his induction! Mr.
T. C. Belton writes: 'This brings to mind the true story of the captain of a village tower who was asked by his band if he intended to ring a welcome peal for the new rector. His reply was: "We'll wait and see if we like him." The peal was never rung.'

BELFRY GOSSIP

The 75th anniversary of the Hertford County Association was a very happy occasion at St. Albans last Saturday, conspicuous by the handbell ringing of the Launton ringers (conducted by Mr. F. Sharpe), both at the service in the Abbey and at the dinner held in the historic Town Hall.

Who is the well-known ringer who is thinking of offering himself as a guinea pig for snoring? Will the 10 minutes' exercise each night reduce his weight?

In aid of their Bell Restoration Fund, the Irish Association are promoting a quiz competition. Details from Mr. F. E. Dukes, Meadow Cottage, Julianstown, Co. Meath.

The quarter peal rung at Bourne, Lincs, on May 31st, was conducted by Mr. C. Wade and was rung as a golden wedding compliment to Mr. and Mrs. P. Stokes.

The in memoriam quarter peal at St. Anne's,
Highgate, on October 15th, to Mr. Cecil J.
Matthews, was rung by Highgate and Hampstead ringers. It was on these bells that Mr.
Matthews rang his first tower bell peal.

The peal of Doubles at Hose, Leicestershire, was arranged specially for Mr. Ernest Morris, who rang a peal in this tower in 1927. It was conducted by the local captain, Mr. William Sharpe. All the bells were recast in 1928, so this is Ernest's 'first' on them.

An inspection by the bell-hangers of the bells of St. Nicholas', Kenilworth, has revealed that the old wooden frame is very loose and unsupported on one side, causing some damage to the tower. Because of the condition ringing was suspended three weeks ago. The Church Council is now awaiting an estimate for the bells to be rehung in a metal frame.

LINCOLN DIOCESAN GUILD'S DIAMOND JUBILEE DINNER

DINNERS of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild are not annual affairs. The Diamond Jubilee, like the Golden Jubilee, was an occasion that merited such an assembly. And this was duly celebrated at the Saracen's Head Hotel, Lincoln, on October 17th. There was only one disappointment. The new Bishop of Lincoln (the Right Rev. Kenneth Riches) had unfortunately slipped a disc and was that day being plastered by surgeons and could not be present.

The Dean, the Right Rev. Colin Dunlip, who is president of the Guild, was a witty chairman. With him was the Guild's Ringing Master and Master of the Ringers of Lincoln Cathedral, Mr. J. A. Freeman, a veteran beloved throughout the Exercise. The felicitations of the great family of ringers were brought by Mr. Frederick Sharpe, the president of the Central Council, who was accompanied by Mrs. Sharpe. There were also present Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Lewis and Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Barnett. Prominent on the top table was 'Black Jack,' the leather jug of Lincoln Cathedral Ringers, which was once pawned for 13s. 6d. by the ringers.

In a speech that displayed his love of Lincoln and Lincolnshire, Mr. J. A. Freeman proposed the toast of 'The Diocese of Lincoln.' He recalled the early diocese that stretched from the Thames to the Humber, and how the early Bishops were important figures in the State. To-day the diocese coincided with the boundaries of the county—a county in which agriculture was its main industry, but there was that great steel industry at Scunthorpe and other important industries at Lincoln, Boston and other towns.

A GREAT HERITAGE

Lincolnshire had a great heritage in its churches and its Cathedral, said Mr. Freeman, was the finest in England, and Heckington had the most superb village church in the land. The majority of those present that evening were members of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild and many of them took an interest in the life of the community and a pride in its achievements, but they would all agree that unless God played His part they could achieve nothing. 'Unless the Lord build the house their labour was in vain.'

The Archdeacon of Lindsay (the Ven. E. L. Manden) said they were proud to administer a diocese in which bellringing was so highly developed and practised. He was initiated into ringing a bell by the late Richard Mackman, of Spalding, and the Rev. H. Law James, a character if ever there was one. Mackman was a typical Lincolnshire man and Law James was typical of Wales—he was told he had a leg of mutton sent to him each week from North Wales. 'The Lincoln Guild,' concluded the Archdeacon, 'is a corps d'élite of bell-ringers and I want you to be proud of them.'

Proposing the toast of 'The Lincoln Diocesan Guild of Church Bell Ringers,' Mr. Frederick Sharpe also spoke of the early connection between Oxfordshire and Lincoln and added that centuries later the last Bishop of Dorchester had become Bishop of Lincoln. He had had correspondence with the Dean concerning the memorial to Bishop Grosteste in Launton Church, and the Dean now told him that he had traced two other memorials to this Bishop.

'To-day we are keeping your 60th anniversary but, of course, Lincolnshire ringing did not begin 60 years ago. Some might say it began with the monks of Croyland. Those bells, however, were not hung like theirs, but they were then considered to be the best ring of bells in England. Then in the Middle Ages you had some of the finest mediæval bells in the country for tone and casting, and certainly for decoration, for there was nothing to equal the old bells of the Cathedral. On October 18th, 1612, was drawn up the ordinances of St. Hugh's Society at the Cathedral and throughout the centuries you have been noted for your bells and ringing.'

PROGRESS IN SERVICE RINGING

He would like to pay a tribute to the Lincoln Diocesan Guild for what it had done in regard to Sunday service ringing. In North's 'Bells of Lincolnshire' of about 1888, only three per cent. of the bells were rung for Sunday services. The recent Sunday Service Survey had shown that there was some Sunday service ringing in 70 per cent. of the towers in the diocese and that had been due to the work of the Diocesan Guild.

'A good many people got pessimistic over the statistics for Sunday service ringing. I am not. I think we are progressing and progressing in the right direction. There is plenty of enthusiasm among young people and with the right guidance there is no doubt that we can reach 95 per cent. I do not think we shall ever get 100 per cent for a variety of reasons.'

Throughout the 60 years they had had only three Masters. The Rev. H. Law James was a live wire and did much to further the art of spliced ringing. If they looked at their annual reports they would see that he went to many remote country parishes and many of the peal notes stated that it was the first in the method by all except him.

His successor, Mr. Rupert Richardson, was a great character. It was said of him that he knew every band in the whole diocese and his influence did not remain in Lincolnshire but extended to other parts of the British Isles. He also took part in the tour in Australia. Mr. Sharpe said his own Rector at Launton, the Rev. C. P. Sherwood, was the son of the Precentor of Melbourne Cathedral, who welcomed the English visitors on that memorable tour.

To their present Master, Mr. J. A. Freeman, they owed a great deal, not only in the Lincoln Diocese but throughout the county. He was not only Master of the Guild but Master of the Cathedral Company. He had done much in regard to not only advanced ringing but towards advancing ringing throughout the diocese. They were also fortunate in their secretaries, and in particular in the present holder of the office, Mr. Bray.

'THE RINGING WORLD'

Concluding, the president referred to 'The Ringing World.' As the result of the printing strike, he said, they were faced with an increase of cost, and he appealed to all present to do their best to increase the circulation, particularly in regard to postal subscribers.

'We cannot do without "The Ringing World"; we would lose touch with one another.' This is a little softening-up to prepare you for a blow that the price of the paper might be increased. If everybody made a big effort to increase the sale of the paper the blow might not be so heavy.'

Mr. J. Bray, the Guild's honorary secretary, in reply, said many of them must have thought how much credit could they, of this generation, claim for what the Guild was and what it stood for. He had had the opportunity of looking through old minute books and Guild reports. The earliest minutes they had were of 60 years ago and he thought what a grand thing it would have been if there was a tape recorder at that meeting and they could play it back that evening. Mention had been made of Mr. Law James—he could well remember him expressing himself in the way that only Mr. Law James could.

The Guild started from a number of Associations combining to form the Diocesan Guild. They were all small, thriving Guilds and through Mr. James' leadership, and, he thought, Mr. James' alone, the first meeting was convened to bring all these small Guilds together to form the Lincoln Diocesan Guild.

600-700 MEMBERSHIP

The early membership was only a matter of 20 or 30 but over the years the membership was built up to between 600 and 700 and for the past 25 years the membership had fluctuated very little. Two world wars played havoc with their members but after each war the membership had been built up to 600-700 mark. Their last dinner was ten years ago, and he hoped that those responsible for the Guild's affairs in 1969 would arrange a dinner similar to that that evening.

They had had in the Guild many lady ringers—distinguished lady ringers—and he felt they had elevated the tone of the belfries. The first rule the Guild made was 'The Guild shall be for the promotion of change ringing and belfry reform.' He was certain that as far as change ringing was concerned those men of 60 years ago would be satisfied that it had progressed in Lincolnshire, and he would say it was above the average for the country.

As to belfry reform, they agreed ten years ago that it was out of date. They felt that the object had been more or less achieved. They knew that there were still a number of towers in their county where there were no ringers, or very few, and there was a tremendous lot of work to be done, but there was not to-day that need as 60 years ago for belfry reform. If one looked around on their towers they would find clergy who were accomplished ringers, lay-readers, churchwardens and church workers of every type of activity and that was a thing they could be proud of.

In looking forward to 1969 they should certainly not be complacent; they would continue to work and try to improve the standard, particularly of service ringing. They would encourage the young ringers in their art and he hoped they would be able to present a satisfactory report of the Guild.

FOUNDER MEMBERS

Mr. Bray said he had received a letter from Mr. John Cragg, of Caythorpe, who was one of their founder members, regretting his absence, and asking if there were any founder members present. Mr. J. B. Halifax, of Fleet, stood up and received the hearty applause of the company.

The toast of 'The Guests' was proposed by Mr. John Freeman. He expressed the pleasure of the company in having with them the president of the Central Council and Mrs. Sharpe and also Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Lewis. Mr. Walter Ave, he felt, could not be regarded as a visitor as his photograph was in Gainsborough tower. Mr. Jim Rathby and Mr. Bill Exton, Mr. and Mrs. George Fearn (St. Martin's Guild), Mr. Peter Bond, Mr. T. W. White and Mr. Dennis Townhill were also welcomed. Mr. Freeman coupled with the toast the name of Mr. E. A. Barnett, secretary of the Central Council, who, he reminded the gathering, was elected to his office at Lincoln. All who supported him knew he was a good man for the office and that had been fully justified. He also welcomed Mrs. Barnett.

niversary dinner, Mr. Barnett said he was elected secretary of the Council there 7½ years ago and he had good cause for the very pleasant memories of Lincoln and Lincolnshire. It was a fact they had always received grand hospitality in Lincolnshire.

FAMILY ASSOCIATIONS

His father-in-law was a member of the opening-up party at Cranwell and got to know Mr. Rupert Richardson at Surfleet. He and his mother-in-law were frequent visitors to that Mecca of pre-war ringers and he and his wife had also enjoyed their hospitality.

The Archdeacon, in his speech, mentioned Mr. Mackman; it might interest the company to know that Mr. James R. Mackman taught his father-in-law to ring. He was sorry that Mr. John Cragg was unable to be present. When the Central Council met at Dublin his wife and himself had the pleasure of being entertained by Mr. 'Billy' Pratt, the president of the Irish Association, who was a Lincolnshire man and a great friend of Mr. Cragg.

The entertainment was of a high standard and the songs of Mr. Sidney Smith, who was accompanied by Mr. Dennis Townhill, were much appreciated. The handbell ringing was in accord with the best Lincoln Guild tradition. A touch of Double Norwich Court Bob Major was rung by Mr. and Mrs. J. Bray, Mr. John Freeman and Mr. G. E. Feirn, and later came a touch of Surprise Royal in three methods by the Rev. Michael Freeman 1-2, Mr. G. E. Feirn 3-4, Mr. R. Heppenstall 5-6, Mr. F. Lord 7-8, and Mr. Aubrey Harrison 9-10.

WINCHESTER & PORTSMOUTH

The meeting at Longparish of the Andover District proved very popular, judging from the number of cars parked outside the church. The Winchester District were also meeting at Barton Stacey, three miles away, and many of the ringers took the chance of visiting this tower before the service. This was conducted by the Vicar (Rev. Mr. Agg-Page); the Andover quartet sang an anthem to the enjoyment of the congregation of nearly 400. Tea was followed by a short business meeting. For a practice meeting on November 7th, Tangle and Andover were selected, and Highclere for the quarterly meeting on December 19th.

Longparish bells were then available until 7 p.m., when the company adjourned to Hurstbourne Priors. The highlight of the day was a course of London Minor on these bells, which are considered by some to be unringable.

SCOTTISH ASSOCIATION

The half-yearly meeting of the Scottish Association was held in Dundee on October 17th, the closing day of this year's Mod of An Comunn Gaidhealach, which had been held in the city during the week.

Ringling under the direction of the Master, Mr. Harry Sargent, began at St. Paul's Cathedral at 2 p.m. and finished after 7 p.m. at the Old Steeple. Members were present from Glasgow, Edinburgh and Dundee. Ringling varied from rounds to Cambridge Major.

Members were sorry to learn that the president, Mr. E. Stafford, was indisposed and all wished him a speedy and complete recovery.

On September 11th the wedding of Miss Peta Cole and Mr. S. Anthony Jesson took place at Leicester Cathedral. The bride, who wore a white two-piece suit of figured brocade, is at present learning to ring at the Cathedral, where her husband has been a ringer for nine years. 'Tooy', who is also a Roving Ringer, is well known 'down under' (the cider counties!).

This was the first wedding ceremony that the new Provost, the Very Rev. R. J. F. Mayston, had solemnised since his induction at the Cathedral in November, 1958.

Owing to the illness of the bride's father the wedding was a very quiet occasion, the parents of the couple being the only guests.

Gratefully Acknowledged

The Editorial Committee acknowledge with gratitude the following donations towards the cost of producing 'The Ringing World':—

THE SUFFOLK GUILD

A joint meeting of the Bury St. Edmunds and Mildenhall Districts was held at Mildenhall on October 3rd, when some 20 ringers were present from 12 different towers.

The service was conducted by the Vicar (Rev. T. S. Atkins), who at the commencement dedicated a memorial board recording a quarter peal rung half-muffled for the late Percy Fordham. Miss Anthea Greaves accompanied the singing at the piano.

Tea was followed by the business meeting, at which the Vicar presided and extended a welcome to everybody, and particularly to Miss Anthea Greaves, who had come to Rougham, where her father was recently inducted rector. It was proposed that the next practice should be at Bury St. Edmunds on November 14th.

The officers for the newly-formed District, to be known as North West Suffolk, were elected as follows: Mr. R. Rose, Ringing Master; Mr. A. Ballam, hon. secretary and treasurer; assistant secretary, Mr. J. Y. Parker; chairman, the Rev. Paul Greaves. It was agreed that the new District should meet the second Saturday in each month.

BRISTOL.—At the Church of St. Stephen-the-Martyr, on Oct. 17th, 1,280 Yorkshire Surprise Major: Mary H. Hall 1, Elisabeth A. G. Bowden 2, R. J. Bowden 3, D. Heighton 4, F. D. Mack 5, P. J. Bird 6, R. G. Hooper 7, T. P. Edwards 8. Members took turns in conducting.

PLAIN BOB CATERS NO MUSICAL VIRTUE

Dear Sir,—It is possibly not without significance that the peal of Plain Bob Caters rung at St. Mary's Church, Warwick, on Saturday, September 26th, was the first of Plain Bob Caters rung for the Guild.

I listened to this peal for over an hour. It was very well rung indeed but was quite lacking in any musical virtue at all. Indeed, now that I know what Bob Caters sounds like, I would never wish to be in a band that rang even a short touch. To inflict a whole town to three hours of such sounds can only be calculated to do church bell ringing more harm than good.

The modern urge to ring something just because it has not been rung before needs very careful consideration before the undertaking thereof. Possibly the reason that it has not been rung is because it has not been considered worth ringing.—Yours sincerely,

HENRY ALLEN.

Leamington Spa.

CLERICAL PEALS

Dear Sir,—The Rev. W. M. K. Warren has overlooked the fact that the Clerical Guild was not formed until 1938 at St. Albans, and the peal at Chittlehampton on September 7th last stands therefore as the first of Grandshire Triples for the Guild.

The peal at East Hagbourne on May 15th, 1935, was the first Clerical peal of Grandshire Triples and was rung for the Oxford Diocesan Guild.

Eleven Clerical peals in various methods had been rung for other Guilds before the Clerical Guild came into being.—Yours faithfully,

C. CAREW-COX.

Bridport, Dorset.

YOUNG RINGERS' PROTEST

Dear Sir,—May I, on behalf of the young ringers who visited the West Country this summer for our annual ringing tour, say how little 'The Ringing World' does to encourage the younger generation. A great deal of work by those responsible for writing the reports on the 14-day tour was represented by less than half a column resembling little more than a day outing. I am sure the editor would not think of reducing Mr. Williams' tour or Mr. Cotton's annual tour.—Yours faithfully,

W. H. DOWSE.

Marple, Cheshire.

Note.—The Editor, as previously stated, regrets curtailment. Some tours have not even been published and both Mr. Williams' and Mr. Cotton's tour reports were cut. The list of peals on their tour made very impressive reading, but we hope that the letter of Canon C. C. Cox, the Master of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild, relating to the ringing of one of the peals, will not go unanswered.—Ed.

ARE PEALS OF MINIMUS RECOGNISED?

Dear Sir,—I have been informed by Mr. Alan Pink that the methods rung in the peal of Minimus at Newtown and named by us as Newtown Place and Canterbury Place are, in fact, Reverse Canterbury and St. Nicholas.

He points out that they extend naturally to the five-bell methods of the same name; in working them out I had overlooked this point, and as they are natural extensions we forfeit our right to name them.

Incidentally, in forwarding this peal for publication, I did so as a peal and not a performance, and until the Peals Analysis Committee have reached a decision regarding it, it retains the right of being called a peal.—Yours faithfully,

GEOFFREY K. DODD.

Highclere.

PEAL TOURS & 'TOWER SNATCHING'

Dear Sir,—One eagerly anticipates his 'Ringing World' on Fridays, only to be disappointed occasionally with its contents, such as those in the issue of October 23rd. On the front cover the Editor is lamenting lack of space to print well-written accounts of tours. Opening the journal one is confronted by almost two whole pages of peals rung on peal tours by bands of expert ringers in Devon, and in Lancashire and Cheshire.

A perusal of these performances makes one wonder what useful purpose, if any, they serve. In the footnotes to the Devon tour one finds only one peal with a 'first' in it—and that in eight Surprise methods! Apart from the last peal, all 12 were 'presented' to the Guild of Devonshire Ringers, which will, no doubt, have to bear the cost of publishing them in its report. Looking over the names of the participants, and the advanced methods rung in a part of the country where change-ringing is in its infancy, it would seem that Guild members resident locally got precious little from this tour, either in help or prestige.

The other tour tells much the same story. Three people who can ring anything rang their first peal of Grandshire Triples! One ringer did score his first peal of Yorkshire Surprise Major—but he only stood in two attempts!

For achieving next to nothing two pages of the 'R.W.' have been lost, many peals will have to be paid for in Guild reports, the 'R.W.' probably received little financial assistance and the clock has been put back 200 years to the bad old days when change-ringing was purely a sport. No doubt those who rang in these peals got some personal pleasure and satisfaction from them or they would not have participated, but one wonders whether this is the best, or proper, use of church bells. Is it not time that the Central Council, or one of the Associations for whom such a spate of peals has been rung by ringers from some distant part of the country, publicly deplored this custom which seems, unhappily, to be on the increase?

A similar deplorable practice is the 'tower-snatch' pure and simple. Far too many such outings rush from tower to tower, leaving no time for anyone to look over the church where one is ringing. Again one wonders what interest these people have in either their Church or their churches, and whether whoever recruited them chose the best type of recruit.

PRESENTATION TO MR. C. W. EVERETT

The completion of 60 years as tower captain by Mr. C. W. Everett at Ashford, Kent, was the occasion for the annual District meeting being held at that tower on October 3rd.

The service was conducted by the Vicar, Canon N. M. G. Sharp. Mr. H. J. Field was the organist, and the lesson was read by the Rev. J. Pownall. In his address of welcome Canon Sharp paid special tribute to Mr. Everett's long and devoted record of service to the beautiful Parish Church and its noble ring of bells.

The Vicar and church officials joined about 50 visitors at the tea, which was generously given by the Ashford ringers and friends and served by members of the Mothers' Union.

In his report the secretary said that 21 towers have so far subscribed, totalling 120 practising members, about the same as last year. Over half these members come from four towers, whereas seven towers have only one member each. Saltwood, Stone-in-Oxney and Great Chart have rejoined the Association. Willesborough still leads in quality and quantity of service ringing, but only ten peals were rung during the year, four of them being at Little Chart. The bells at Sellindge and Great Chart have been restored and rededicated, but Pluckley's are now out of action.

The motion submitted by the Rochester District—'that a levy of 6d. per person (juniors excluded) be imposed on all peals rung for the Association, all moneys so raised to be entirely devoted to the Belfry Repair Fund'—was then raised, but found no supporters. Three members spoke against it and it was decided that the District representatives report the feeling of the gathering at the next committee meeting.

All the officers were re-elected for the ensuing year and two new members joined the Association.

The meeting closed on a note of thanks to all those concerned in making it such a happy one.

Following a peal of Stedman Triples in the tower on Tuesday, rung in honour of Mr. Everett, a plaque commemorating his services was dedicated in the ringing chamber on October 4th, on which occasion he was presented with an inscribed gold pocket watch from the Church Council, congregation and ringers of Ashford.

PANGBOURNE RINGERS' OUTING

Pangbourne, Berks. and Whitchurch, Oxon. ringers combined for their first outing on Saturday, September 5th, and were ably augmented by ringers from Reading and Reigate.

The towers visited, all in or near the Berkshire downland, were Chieveley, Peasemore (best of the day), Brightwalton (Kent and Oxford spliced—round the font!) and Childrey (a tight squeeze past the organ!). An excellent tea was partaken of at Wantage; then Farnborough (highest village in Berkshire), East Hendred (6, tenor 22 cwt.) and finally the odd-toned light six at Milton.

RECORD ATTENDANCE AT WORCESTER DINNER

SINCE 1947, when by kind permission of successive Mayors of Worcester, the Association has been able to hold its annual dinners in the noble setting of the Guildhall, the function has been advertised as 'still having room for more.' But the 22nd annual dinner, held on October 10th, almost taxed the hall to its capacity—short of arranging the seating in a less attractive form—for a large gathering of 210 was present—easily a record.

The president (the Very Rev. R. L. P. Milburn, Dean of Worcester) was in the chair, and he was accompanied by Mrs. Milburn and supported by the Master, Mr. W. B. Cartwright (vice-chairman), Bishop C. E. and Mrs. Stuart, the Rev. D. J. and Mrs. Walters, the Rev. L. J. Birch (chaplain) and Mrs. Birch, the Revs. A. Webb, R. M. W. Powell, H. L. Davies and Mrs. Davies, Mr. J. D. Johnson (general secretary) and Mrs. Johnson. Unfortunately the Lord Bishop of the Diocese was prevented from attending by another engagement, and an apology was also received from Mr. G. L. Lewis. Invariably making the journey year after year, there were the usual faithful visitors from Bristol, Wrington, Cheltenham, Gloucester, Stratford-on-Avon and Warwick, Claverley and Birmingham. The problem of getting the company seated was admirably handled by the three stewards, Messrs. F. Hyde, T. W. Lewis and J. J. Stanier.

Following the lines of recent years—the toast list was reduced to a minimum. After the Loyal Toast and the National Anthem the Rev. D. J. Walters (Rector of All Saints', Worcester) proposed a comprehensive toast, 'The Worcestershire and Kindred Associations.' He himself could not lay claim to any knowledge of ringing and did not understand their language. Of his own three futile attempts to ring, the last one at All Saints' produced complete silence, so he had every admiration for anyone who could get something to happen when he pulled the rope.

NEAREST TO HEAVEN

As he listened to the Cathedral bells from his house in College Yard, they might be ringing a hundred, a thousand or a million changes for all he knew, but it was Charles Lamb who described bells as 'the music bordering nearest to heaven.' The bells did speak with their own tongues and he, personally, appreciated the efforts and work done by the ringers and the Associations.

The Rev. A. Webb, of Kidderminster (clerical vice-president), replied. There were, he said, still a few of the clergy with no interest in their ringers but this did not apply to Mr. Walters and All Saints', where they had every facility and the church and the belfry had been at their disposal at the Easter Monday meetings for many years. The bells proclaimed the Glory of God and were the best publicity agents for the Church.

Referring to the attendance that evening, with every part of the Diocese represented, he said it was evidence of ringing activity. But there were some silent areas, or—such as the one to which he had just moved, and not his church—with recording installations. This he described as a misrepresentation, crude and a deception and devoid of all element of personal service. The remedy lay largely in their own hands—they should infuse enthusiasm and influence public opinion. Publicity was important, and the future lay in the hands of the young people.

Mr. J. S. Johnson, proposing the toast of 'The Chairman,' said they were fully conscious of and appreciated how the presence of the Dean gave added dignity and prestige to their gatherings. He referred to the number of clergy present and gave a special welcome to Mrs. Milburn.

SUPPORT OF YOUNG PEOPLE

The Dean, in reply, said it was with pride that he presided over 'the largest gathering of men, women and young persons in the history of the Association,' and he was particularly pleased to see so many young people there—a good augury for the future. Of mechanised bells, we were apt to-day to rely too much on machines to do our work for us, a thing no ringer dare to do. Ringing was a craft giving gratification. They were a band of brothers and sisters with a devotion to something well worth while, and 'to me,' he concluded, 'it gives particular pride, satisfaction and joy.'

A first-class musical entertainment was provided by Henry Hall and his party; two courses of Stedman Triples were rung 'in hand' by Miss V. Barnes Mrs. J. Thomas, Messrs. D. J. Marshall and J. D. Johnson; and a course of Grandsire Caters with the addition of Mrs. P. Harris; the singing of 'Auld Lang Syne' brought another enjoyable evening to a close.

The Guildhall has been provisionally booked for Saturday, October 8th, 1960, and to quote from the finale on the menu cards:—

'Better lo'ed ye canna be
Will ye no' come back again?'

GUILD of DEVONSHIRE RINGERS

Despite the rain, the autumn meeting of the South West Branch held at Newton Ferrers on October 17th was very successful, between 30 and 40 members being present, and visitors included Mr. Cochrane, of Hatfield, who was on holiday at Plymouth.

Mr. T. G. Myers, hon. secretary, mentioned that it was not realised when the original date of the meeting had to be altered, the date would clash with two other meetings. He expressed his regret and hoped it would not occur again.

The chairman, Mr. H. W. Thomas, welcomed two new members—Master Gordon Gilley, of Plympton St. Maurice and Mr. Horace Hicks, of Launceston (unattached). He also thanked the Rector (the Rev. Mr. Grimes) for conducting the service, the organist, Mr. West (captain of local ringers) and the ladies of the church for the excellent tea. Ringing was at Newton Ferrers and Revelstoke.

BARNESLEY & DISTRICT SOCIETY

The monthly meeting of the Barnsley and District Society at Cawthorne on October 10th coincided with the centenary of the bells and the Vicar, who presided at the business meeting attended by representatives from 19 towers, gave in his welcome to the Society a short history of the bells.

The Misses E. and S. Peace, of Shelley, were elected members, and Royston was selected for the next meeting on November 14th. The local company and their friends, who provided the free tea, were warmly thanked by Mr. James Thorley, and upon the suggestion of Mr. Edwin Atkinson a collection was made for the Roof Repair Fund of the church, for which £2,000 is needed. This amounted to £3 8s.

The local company was thanked by Mr. Atkinson and Mr. Harold Chant for their excellent arrangements for the meeting, and Mr. Noel F. Moxon gave a timely reminder of the Society's annual dinner. Further ringing followed.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Canterbury District

Over 120 members of the Canterbury District attended the District annual meeting at Canterbury on October 10th and at the conclusion of the business meeting sang 'For he's a jolly good fellow,' followed by three rousing cheers, for Mr. Bert Luck, who was retiring from the office of hon. secretary. In a tribute, Mr. John Willis, vice-president, said Mr. Luck had set an example to all honorary secretaries and had made the District the happiest he had known. Mr. Willis then moved 'That this meeting records its profound and sincere appreciation of the services rendered by Mr. Bertram J. Luck as hon. District secretary to the Canterbury District, K.C.A., 1936-1959.' This and the report were carried unanimously.

Mr. Luck, in his last annual report, regretted that membership was down 21 to 325. At meetings during the year collections amounting to over £11 were given to church funds.

The following officers were re-elected:—Chairman, Mr. J. A. Russell; Ringing Master, Mr. D. A. Chapman; District representatives, Mr. D. C. Chatfield and Mr. E. T. Eades, Mr. T. C. Phillimore, who had been Mr. Luck's assistant during the past year, was elected hon. secretary. Six new members were also elected.

The meeting, on the proposition of Mr. W. S. Palin, seconded by Mr. D. A. Chapman, rejected the motion of the Rochester District that a levy of 6d. per person (excluding juniors) be imposed on all peals rung for the Association, the money so raised to be devoted to the Belfry Repair Fund. This motion was to replace the peal booking fee. St. Peter's-in-Thane was chosen for the next quarterly meeting.

The service was held at St. Dunstan's Church, conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. A. L. Lawler, and the address given by the Archdeacon of Canterbury (the Ven. A. Sargent). Ringers supplemented the choir and the collection amounted to £3 2s. 10d. The ladies provided a 'very ample tea' in St. Dunstan's Parish Hall and they and the clergy of Canterbury were thanked at the meeting by Mr. J. A. Russell, who presided.

Tonbridge District

The annual meeting of the Tonbridge District was held at Tunbridge Wells on October 3rd, when the usual ringers' service was conducted by the Rev. J. W. Hurst, who has been newly appointed to St. Peter's. Mrs. W. Dobbie accompanied the singing.

Tea was held in the Parish Hall and provided by ringers and friends of St. Peter's. At the annual meeting which followed, Mr. B. V. Collison was elected chairman. Miss D. Colgate was re-elected secretary but pointed out that she will not stand for election next year. Mr. B. V. Collison and Mr. W. Dobbie were re-elected District representatives and Mr. S. Jenner Ringing Master.

Mr. B. Jeffrey gave a vote of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells and conducting the service and to Mr. B. V. Collison and friends for the tea.

A good variety of methods were rung during the afternoon and evening.

COGENHOE, NORTHANTS.—1,260 Doubles (Grandsire and Plain Bob): R. Moore 1, F. Attewell 2, B. Johnson 3, F. Crow 4, P. Jones (cond.) 5, P. Baker 6. A silver wedding compliment to Mr. and Mrs. R. Moore.

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY GUILD'S YORKSHIRE TOUR

PERHAPS the most notable feature of this year's tour was one which, in this age when the English language is enlarging the meaning of its words to accommodate the expressions of our American friends, might be described as 'commutation.' The reason for this was a strictly geographical one: The Ripon Diocesan Retreat House, where we stayed, was fully one and a half miles from the nearest hostelry, the Shoulder of Mutton.

The week should have begun with a peal at Leeds Parish Church on Saturday, August 22nd. The band met one short for Yorkshire Maximus, however. One member, in order to make up 12, was therefore detailed to detach our worthy organiser from his lately-acquired fiancée, both of whom had luckily not left the churchyard, and another, to learn a peal of Stedman. Both tasks were accomplished in rather less than five minutes and the attempt for Cinques was begun. After an hour's mediocre ringing in an increasingly stuffy atmosphere, a shift, which the conductor fortunately noticed soon afterwards, enabled the band to stand and spend a pleasant hour drinking tea before finding their way to the Retreat House at Barrowby.

The Retreat House proved to be delightfully situated and, when everyone had met their charming hostess and investigated the accommodation, the first commutation began—in a short while the house was deserted.

SPICED SURPRISE PATTERN

On Sunday morning the party joined the local band at Wetherby to ring for service and here Henry Fielden set the pattern of Spiced Surprise calling for the week, when he brought five-spliced round in 381 changes. Everyone afterwards attended Matins.

A lazy afternoon was followed by the journey to Sharow, where Spiced was once more brought round in an odd number of changes. Pots of Indian tea at a Chinese cafe in Ripon provided welcome refreshment before we rang for Evensong on the fine ten at the Cathedral.

Next morning the main party rang at Thorne and Sherburn-in-Elmet, while the day's peal, of London, was being diligently rung at Escrick. The peal band arrived late at York Minster to hear those lovely bells going well to Stedman Caters. A course of London on the back eight went fairly smoothly but a half-course of Cambridge Maximus had to be stood up and the final touch of Stedman Cinques suffered a similar fate because time was running short.

YORKSHIRE TAIL-ENDS

Many of us made our first acquaintance with Yorkshire tail-ends on Tuesday at Otley and, later in the morning, at Ilkley. These tail-ends are most comfortable for large-handed folk but trying for those not so plentifully endowed in this respect.

Nor could we get away from them after lunch at both Addingham and Kildwick. Here the morning's peal band joined us, having rung Plain Bob Major at Guiseley, and soon those who should still have been ringing a peal of Bristol at Skipton followed their example. The tenors had apparently crossed after an hour's ringing, much to the discomfiture of the conductor, who had not noticed this as soon as he might have done.

At the evening tower, Collingham (8), Peter Hodson's handsome tape-recorder was in evidence for the first time. After much ado, it was eventually plugged into a churchyard lamp, the bulb of which had been removed, and was soon busily recording not only the bells but also the facetious repartee with which Frank Haynes and Chris Woolley punctuated the ringing. This recording was played back later at Peter's home, where we had been kindly invited by his parents, and a lively post mortem ensued.

Wednesday began with Corporate Communion, celebrated by the president, the Rev. A. C. Blyth. After a long drive the party arrived at Ossett, an excellent ring of ten, where the good ringing was spoiled by an abysmal tower, during which all ten bells fired perfectly round after round. There followed the pleasant eight at Drighlington, after which the peal band went to Bradford, where they rang a good peal of Stedman Caters.

LUNCHEON DIFFICULTIES

The remainder made their way to Pudsey, where they expected, not unreasonably, to find lunching facilities. In this quest only four were successful. The lovely eight at St. Lawrence provided temporary compensation for the hungry ones, who were perhaps deluded into thinking that, in any event, there must be a cafe somewhere in Headingley, the next stopping place. Having rung at St. Michael's, Headingley, a general interrogation of the local populace was therefore begun but this revealed only that the cafes were open every afternoon except Wednesday. Loth to admit defeat, one member disappeared and was next seen flagrantly displaying a bottle of 'Tizer.' He was avidly seized upon and, soon after, several members could have been seen basking in the sun outside St. Chad's, Headingley, despatching biscuits and 'pop' with obvious relish. An hour's ringing on the fine eight was then completed and the party, eager for supper, returned to Barrowby.

A most interesting hour was spent at Tadcaster, first tower on Thursday morning. Here drainpipe-like structures descend into the ringing chamber, enclosing the ropes and terminating so as to leave just enough rope free for manipulation.

We were greeted at Selby Abbey by a bevy of young ladies as well as the tower captain. This confirmed our impression that the Yorkshire Association is, happily, an emancipated one. The ringing was good and a course of Grandsire Caters, in which these young ladies took part, deserves mention.

Lunch was taken at Selby before moving on to Beverley, where most people spent half an hour observing the architectural splendour of the Minster. The band who had rung a peal of Grandsire Triples at Howden joined the rest of the party here. The ringing was, unfortunately, poor, a sad fact to record in view of the magnificence of the bells. A better performance followed on another fine ring of ten at St. Mary's, Beverley.

The business meeting was held in the evening. Owing to the efficient manner in which it was conducted, there remained time for another enjoyable visit to the Shoulder.

IN THE WEST RIDING

A selection of towers in the West Riding remained for the final day of the tour. At All Souls', Halifax, two courses of Surprise were rung before the treble rope broke. An hour at Sowerby completed the morning's ringing, after which a band set off for Hepstonstall to attempt a peal of four-spliced. A misunderstanding resulted in the start being delayed for nearly an hour. Then, after 40 minutes' excellent ringing, the tenor man negligently allowed his rope to slip wheel, and that was that.

This band joined the main party at Northowram, thus missing Elland, their first afternoon tower. Here the last touch of five-spliced was brought round, suitably, in the same number of changes as the first had been, this time by Frances Secker.

After ringing on the pleasant 12 at the Parish Church, some, having said their good-byes, departed, but the majority returned to Barrowby. Here, after a farewell visit to the Shoulder, Brian Price discovered that the sections of his collapsible tent pole formed a not unmusical five when dropped in descending order of size on to the marble floor of the hall, whereupon an entertaining performance of Stedman Doubles ensued.

Most people then engaged upon a prolonged poker session, which lasted well into the small hours, while a splinter group investigated the whole gamut of remarkable effects into which the Hodson tape-recorder obligingly converted their voices.

Next morning members bade each other farewell and embarked on their separate journeys, save for a band of eight, who employed some little time in losing a peal of Cambridge at Birstwith.

The Guild thanks Peter Windley and Henry Fielden for arranging such a balanced programme and, in addition, the incumbents and local ringers who made the tour possible.

R.A.F., Halton, Apprentices' Tour

At 12.30 hours on October 10th, a motley crew, including friends from places as far apart as Swindon, Stanmore and Lincoln, assembled at R.A.F., Halton and Wendover, and departed to terrorise the inhabitants of selected places in Bucks, Beds and Herts.

Wing, having a heavy Warner six, was treated with respect, but no good striking was to be had. After a pleasant ring at Linslade (8), the party passed on to Totterhoe (8), where the two light trebles caused some consternation among the learners. The six at Hamstead proved very enjoyable, but the band was not experienced enough at 8-bell ringing to do justice to the beautiful octave at Northchurch. Much to their amazement, two members of the party were mistaken for a married couple! Their honeymoon, unfortunately, was curtailed to a very short spell on the back seat of the coach!

Methods rung during the afternoon and evening included Cambridge, Kent and Oxford, St. Clement's, Grandsire, Stedman, Plain Bob, and rounds for the less experienced.

Thanks are extended to incumbents and local ringers, and to the organisers for another very enjoyable half-day tour.

Gloucester Branch Outing

Saturday, September 12th, was promising to be another fine day as the Gloucester Branch set off promptly on their outing through Wiltshire. Devizes was reached in time for the party to have coffee before meeting at St. John's at 10.30 a.m., where the day started off well with Grandsire Triples, Plain Bob Major and rounds and call-changes.

From there we proceeded to Salisbury for lunch, followed by ringing at St. Paul's, Amesbury was reached in the middle of the afternoon, and a very pleasant hour was spent on the lovely eight at SS. Mary and Melorus.

The best ringing of the day, however, was at Marlborough on the beautiful heavy six of St. Mary-the-Virgin's, where a very enjoyable day's ringing was ended with touches of Grandsire and Stedman Doubles, Plain Bob, Kent Treble Bob and Cambridge Surprise Minor.

Thanks are due to the organisers for a well-planned trip, and the party are to be congratulated on their punctuality and fine ringing.

OBITUARY

MR. G. F. HOAD

It is impossible to assess how much change-ringing owes to Mr. George Francis Hoad. A ringer of outstanding merit and ability, he had infinite patience, particularly with those learning the art of campanology. His unassuming, steadfast and dependable character endeared him to all those with whom he came in contact.

Born in 1877, the third son of Francis T. Hoad, he, his father and five brothers have rung at Reigate Parish Church for over 95 years. During the period of over 70 years 'George,' as he was known to all ringers, had rung in over 200 peals, many of which he conducted. His exceptional knowledge was amply demonstrated by his compositions.

He was elected captain of the Reigate Society of Change Ringers in 1909, was a member of the Ancient Society of College Youths and a member of the Surrey Association, of which he was elected Master on several occasions.

During the 1914-18 war he served with the Royal Engineers both in France and Germany. In 1908 he married Miss Flora Missenden, and their only child, Frederick, died in 1930 at the age of nine years. For 53 years he was in business on his own account as builder and decorator. For many years he was a sidesman at Reigate Parish Church, a member of the P.C.C. and also the Ruri-Decanal Conference.

He died in hospital on October 19th, following injuries received in a road accident on the previous evening while on his way to church to ring for the Sunday evening service. His passing will be mourned by a much larger circle of friends than those with whom he was associated in change-ringing.

MR. A. W. OSBORNE

Another stalwart of the Reading ringers at the turn of the century has passed on, viz., Mr. Ambrose W. Osborne, who died in Battle Hospital at the ripe old age of 86. A genial, kindly personality, a patient and efficient teacher, he could not tolerate bad striking, bad handlers of ropes or lazy ringers.

Originally a member of St. Mary's band, he transferred his energies to St. Giles' in 1903, where he built up a band whose Sunday service ringing was second to none. Stedman was his favourite method. A strong and active supporter of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, he was secretary of the Reading Branch for a number of years.

He was a great believer in routine and regularity, and after cycling (push bike) 40 or 50 miles on his day's journey (he was a country commercial traveller) would often forgo his evening meal so as to be at the tower on time. Practice night was a real gathering of the clans, including the Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn, R. T. Hibbert, W. R. Newall, C. C. Mayne and many other well-known ringers of that time.

It was a terrible blow to him when he was no longer able to climb the tower steps, owing to infirmity in his legs, but he never lost interest in ringers or ringing, and read the 'R.W.' from end to end.

G. R. G.

MRS. A. W. ROLFE

The sympathy of a wide circle of friends has been extended to Mr. A. W. Rolfe, of Whepstead, Bury St. Edmunds, on the death of his wife, Mrs. Millie Rolfe, on October 4th, aged 75. The funeral service at the Whepstead Baptist Church was attended by many ringers, and at the graveside in Whepstead Cemetery a course of Grandsire Triples was rung 'in hand' by A. E. Moore, W. Stannard, A. E. Austin and R. Heath.

MR. ALBERT H. SMITH

A victim of arthritis, which brought his ringing days to a close, Mr. Albert H. Smith, of Crophorne, Worcs. died in hospital on October 7th, aged 57.

'His life,' writes Harold E. Raxter, 'could be summarised in one short phrase: "He was a regular ringer." I cannot remember any occasion when he failed to attend for a practice night, or on Sunday, when he had promised to attend. To do this he often cycled several miles in all weathers.

'For many years Albert rang at Crophorne, where 120 Grandsire Doubles was the limit of change-ringing. When the eight bells were installed at Hampton he came to that church, and his progress at change-ringing became rapid. If he had had the benefit of a Hampton instructor and band at an earlier age Albert would have been among the great technical exponents of the art.

The large congregation at the funeral service at Crophorne on October 10th was a sign of the respect and affection with which he was held. To his widow and family all local ringers extend their sympathy.

MR. THOMAS TOWNSEND

Mr. Thomas Townsend passed away in St. Margaret's Hospital, Stratton St. Margaret, after a long illness, on September 28th, at the age of 60. He was a native of St. Neots, Huntingdonshire, where he learnt to ring. He moved to Swindon in 1923, when he became a member of the band at Christ Church, Swindon. He was not a great peal ringer, but will be well remembered for his conducting of Stedman, particularly Caters.

The funeral service, conducted by the Vicar (Canon F. W. Thomas), took place at Christ Church on October 2nd. Handbells were rung in church as the cortege moved out into the churchyard. The ringers were Mrs. Sutton 1-2, E. Sutton 3-4, W. B. Kynaston 5-6, W. W. T. Daniell 7-8. Due to Christ Church bells being temporarily silent, a quarter peal of Stedman Triples was rung half-muffled at St. Mark's Church.

JOINT MEETING AT BEDDINGTON

The first heavy rain for weeks marked the holding of the Northern District of the Surrey Association's annual joint meeting with the Lewisham District of the Kent County Association. Nevertheless, those who braved the rain, which included a Kent party, under the leadership of their Master, Mr. I Oram, were rewarded with a pleasant afternoon and evening.

Ringing, under the direction of Mr. Gordon Peters, preceded Evensong at St. Mary's, Beddington, taken by the Rector, and was followed by an excellent tea in the Village Hall. This had been prepared by the ladies of the St. Mary's Society, all with practical experience of ringers' appetites. After tea and the usual thanks, apologies for absence from Mr. Collins and Mr. E. A. Barnett were announced, both of whom were engaged on ringing business elsewhere. Ringing at St. Mary's concluded a very pleasant occasion.

LATE NEWS

We regret to learn that Mr. E. Roger Martin, of Preston, died early on Saturday morning.

SOUTH HAMS SORTIE

AN outing in the country, you might think, is much more of a treat for townspeople than it is for country folk. After all, the latter live in the country; they wouldn't find anything new in it. But you'd be wrong. Whether it be a treat or no, country people get far more interest out of a country outing than do they of the cities. The townsmen, passing the first herd of cows, looks out of the window and says, 'Look, Eth, cows'—and from then on he's seen cows, and so (if she wasn't too deep in the paper) has Eth. But to a country outing every field of cattle or sheep contains material for a good twenty minutes' conversation; likewise acres of grass and expanses of bare earth, to the townsman mere 'scenery,' are full of interest to his country cousin. What is more, wet weather can ruin a trip for the townsman, but when the Clawton ringers set off through the driving rain of autumn's first big gale their thoughts were of all that lovely water trickling into dry wells and empty water-butts at home.

Our road led to the South Hams, the rich, deep-valleyed country of the huge 'Red Ruby' cattle, but our first stop was by the way, at the foot of the climb to the Moor, at Meavy. Here we left our cars under the justly famous Meavy Oak—perhaps a thousand years old, propped and strutted and riven asunder, but still green and still carpeting the ground with acorns—and found a delightful granite church with a very handy six of about our own weight. Then up over Dartmoor, at its least hospitable and most typical, with the wind whistling in the heather and rain driving horizontally under cloud which covered the tops, and the black Galloways huddled sodden under the hedges, and down by Ivybridge to the 'in-country,' past Ermington's twisted spire, and almost to the sea at Holbeton. Here the Vicar met us, admirably, with beer, and we went in to the very fine church to ring on an excellent six (about 15 cwt.) among peal-boards of the Rev. E. S. Powell's day. The captain of ringers welcomed us in the tower; he has been ringing for 67 years, and looks remarkably well on it.

For lunch we went to Modbury, where the 'Exeter' gave us a wonderful spread and made us feel very much at home. It took us some little time, after such a feed, to climb the hill to the church, but we'd have skipped like rams had we known what lay in store. I rang once here nine years ago, and had wondered ever since whether Modbury was the finest six in Devon. I have still to ring on many, but I can hardly believe that anything could be finer than this wonderful Bilbie peal. The best of Bilbie's bells have a nobility, an authority, of tone that very few can match, and these, with a tenor of 20 cwt., are among his very best. They remind me of the organ-builder who, hearing a famous concert-hall organ, said, 'That instrument's good for nothing but music.' 'Well,' asked his companion, 'what do you build your organs for?' 'My organs,' said the other, 'are meant to bring a man to his knees.' So Modbury bells, shouting exultantly above the thrashing of the sou'wester, filled us with awe and astonishment that we and Thomas Bilbie together could create from hard, cold metal such true and fluent music. What is more, these bells are very well hung so that they have a natural rhythm which only positive mishandling can break.

It was reluctantly that we moved away for Brixton, and this six we found rather a rough lot, but perhaps it wasn't fair to come to them from Modbury. We didn't stay long before crossing the ridge to Plympton St. Maurice and a little eight-bell ringing for a change. Here we were most hospitably met by the young Mr. Farnham, who had stayed away from a Guild meeting to be there, and nobly recovered from the shock of finding that we rang call-changes. We don't shine on eight; we tend to keep them too far down and rush them, for the techniques of call-change ringing on six and on eight are quite distinct and we get little eight-bell practice. Still, we enjoyed ourselves fully and are much indebted to the St. Maurice band for making us feel at home.

So homewards, by way of Plymouth (for supper) and Tavistock (for beer), by roads covered with gale-broken foliage but fortified not only by some good ringing on fine bells and the contributions of Plymouth and Tavistock, but also by the prospect that in an unfamiliarly sodden Clawton there might be that rich luxury—a bath.

FIRST PEAL PERFORMANCES

By F. T. BLAGROVE

The following schedule of first performances of regular Plain Major methods will expand the table given in the C.C. Collection of Plain Major Methods. Since its publication in 1952, there have been many more of these methods rung to peals and named, and unless the table is brought up to date there will inevitably arise some confusion as to which methods have been named and which have not. Therefore the following details will include the number of the method in the C.C. Collection of Plain Major, 1952. (In using the tables in the Collection, take care not to confuse with the number in Driver's Collection.)

Plain Bob Major.—The earliest known peal is 5,040 at St. Bride's, London, on April 26th, 1725, by the College Youths. But there may have been earlier peals by the College Youths and the London Scholars. C.C. No. 1.

Double Bob Major.—5,040 at St. Dunstan's, Fleet Street, on January 14th, 1727, by the College Youths. (1726 old style calendar.) Details on page 253, 1958, are incorrect. C.C. No. 3.

Reverse Bob Major.—5,040 at St. Margaret's, Westminster, on January 22nd, 1751, by the College Youths. (The peal at Harrietsham on March 23rd, 1751, by the Lenham Society, was Double Bob Major.) C.C. No. 2.

Double Norwich Court Bob Major.—5,040 at St. Michael's, Coslany, on March 9th, 1741, by the Norwich Scholars. C.C. No. 12.

Double Oxford Bob Major.—6,000 at St. Giles', Norwich, on July 26th, 1832, by the Norwich Scholars. C.C. No. 15.

Single Oxford Bob Major.—5,040 at Warnham on January 10th, 1889, by the Sussex County Association. (1899 is incorrect.) C.C. No. 20.

Little Bob Major.—5,040 at Brading, I.O.W., on September 8th, 1911, by the Cambridge University Guild. C.C. No. 74.

St. Clement's College Bob Major.—5,040 at Eccleston on December 28th, 1911, by the Chester Diocesan Guild. C.C. No. 38.

ARCHDEACONRY OF STAFFORD

The Society held its autumn meeting at St. Augustine's Church at Rugeley. The weather, unfortunately, was poor, but even so, more than 60 members and friends from all parts of the Archdeaconry made their way through the pouring rain to this pleasant little town on the edge of Cannock Chase. They were well rewarded with the hospitality of the Rugeley ringers and helpers who provided an excellent tea. During the afternoon and evening the six bells were put to very good use, under the guidance of the Ringing Master, Mr. E. Malin, and his assistant, Mr. J. Dineneage. Methods ranged from Grandsire Doubles to Surprise Minor.

The service was conducted by the Rev. L. H. Townshend, who in his address said how much the clergy appreciated the work done by ringers. Tea followed in the Parish Hall where, as mentioned before, an excellent spread had been prepared by Mrs. Joyner and her lady helpers. In the evening the bells of Colwich and Blithfield were made available to ringers searching for fresh towers.

ESSEX ASSOCIATION

It was disappointing that only 30 members (eight from Kelvedon) attended the Northern District meeting at Great Bardfield on Oct. 17th, but those who were there had a very happy and enjoyable afternoon and evening. The service was conducted by the Rev. R. O. Masheder, and Mr. Webb was at the organ. The tea and meeting were held in the café.

Mr. Jennings and the local band welcomed the ringers. Various methods were rung, some of which were recorded. It is hoped to hold the annual meeting at Earls Colne on January 16th.

The first peal of Undershaft Doubles has been rung at Oxford. The band resisted the temptation to submit this peal as Jeremy Salter's first as conductor, though he did shout 'Go, Undershaft,' and 'That's all,' and also had the arduous task of counting 42.

With the peal at Heene on October 21st, Messrs. H. C. Weaver and Raymond P. Wood have now 'circled the tower.'

Mr. Peter N. Bond was not present at the Lincoln Guild dinner, as erroneously stated in our last issue, but was at home in Kent.

Among the votes of thanks at the Oxford Diocesan Guild autumn meeting at Banbury was one to two young ladies who inadvertently not only washed the Church House floor but also themselves when they turned a tap the wrong way.

Two bands of ringers rang for the induction of the Rev. Derek Landreth to the living of Richmond, Surrey. For the first half-hour the band from St. Matthias' (a daughter church without bells) rang 672 Plain Bob Major, conducted by Dr. D. J. Neal Smith, and the band of the Parish Church took over for the second half-hour. Both choirs also sang for the service. A week later the St. Matthias' band rang a quarter peal to welcome the new Vicar (conductor, Mr. R. G. Leale).

With the peal of Whitwick Surprise Royal at Loughborough Bell Foundry, Ernest Morris has now rung 250 peals on these bells, being the first to reach this total. Included in these peals he has conducted Plain Bob Major, 7,008 (twice), 9,600 (400 singles) and 13,440 (extent of tenors together). Also 9,120 Ilkeston T.B. (extent), 6,720 Little Bob (extent tenors together); also taken part in 9,600 Worcester T.B. (extent) and rang the tenor to 10,976 Bristol Surprise. The peals include Doubles, Minor, Triples, Major, Caters and Royal.

BELFRY

GOSSIP

Appreciation was not lacking at the annual meeting of the Lewisham District of the K.C.A. on October 24th, when the resignation was received of Mr. A. G. Hill, after 35 years of loyal and devoted service. He was presented with a cheque as a small thankoffering from past and present members of the District.

The Crosthwaite (Keswick) Handbell Ringers are appearing on B.B.C. Television on Wednesday, November 11th, at about 10.45 p.m.

For those who like real drama, read James W. Gibbon's playlet, 'The Ringer's Dilemma,' where the heroine is tied to the clapper of the tenor and the hero has to raise the bell. This thriller appears in the October issue of the quarterly 'The Ringers' Magazine.' P. A. C. should find 'Bells in Philately' interesting: perhaps with his wide knowledge of the subject he could add to the collection.

Four schoolboys who were members of a party who had a day's ringing in North Staffordshire on Tuesday, October 6th, spent their spare time thinking of excuses to give at school next morning. Perhaps one of our schoolmaster ringers, or even the great Professor Dodge, can think out an appropriate punishment. Learning a method for each tower visited might be more appropriate than a few cuts from a rope end!

Finding the belfry door locked, an outing party went in search of the Vicar, who was found cleaning out his chicken run. He mistook the visitors as canvassers for the Tory party. Although an octogenarian, he sportingly came to watch the ringing, which included London, Cambridge, Stedman and Grandsire. This tower-grab party saw more than the belfry—they admired the window to the memory of Isaac Walton, which contains a picture of St. Mary's Church, Stafford; and the church is at Madeley.

HERTFORDSHIRE ASSOCIATION LOOKS BACK 75 YEARS

THE early 18th century Town Hall of St. Albans, with its portraits of Stuart monarchs, made a fitting setting for the 75th anniversary dinner of the Hertford County Association on October 24th. Mr. G. W. Debenham, the Association's president, who was accompanied by Miss Debenham, presided over a company of 150. A strong musical programme, which included a recital by the Launton Handbell Ringers and singing by the North Mymms Women's Institute choir, conducted by Mrs. Kathleen Lock, was interspersed between the speeches.

The company present included the Dean of St. Albans (Very Rev. A. K. Mathews), the president of the Central Council and Mrs. F. Sharpe, the Rev. C. Elliot Wigg (Master of the Oxford Diocesan Guild), Miss Steel (president of the Bedfordshire Association), Mr. R. C. Heazel (Master of the Essex Association), Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ayre, Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Bell, Mr. and Mrs. H. Frost, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Plummer, Mr. E. G. Buck, Mr. J. Watkins (head verger of St. Albans Cathedral), Mr. T. J. Lock (secretary of the Middlesex Association) and Mrs. Lock, the Rev. Hart Synnot (Vicar of St. Stephen's), the Rev. C. P. Sherwood (Rector of Launton), Mr. B. C. Johnson, Mr. T. J. Southam, and Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Critchley.

The loyal toast was followed by that of 'The Church and State,' submitted by the president, who took as his theme the influence of the State on the Book of Common Prayer. He quoted in particular the controversy over the Revised Prayer Book of 1928, as showing the deep interest the people, as represented by the House of Commons, took in the English Church.

RINGERS' DUAL RESPONSIBILITIES

As individuals, he said, they were members of the State and Church, and lastly ringers. The vast majority of bell-ringing was in ecclesiastical buildings, and it was only right that those bells should be rung conscientiously Sunday by Sunday and on occasions of State. If they carried out those two duties they would be fulfilling their duties to Church and State and to the Supreme Being.

The Dean of St. Albans referred in his reply to his service to the State as a chaplain in the Royal Navy in the last war, in which he saw service in the Battle of the Bismarck and the Battle of the North Cape.

In the association between the Church and State he hoped the State would do everything in its power to make life good and fair, and if the Church in its way could help the State steering on that course, and keep ever before it the standards of God, he believed that association would mean much to England and, pray God, under such circumstances it would grow stronger, finer and ever closer.

The toast of 'The Hertfordshire County Association of Change Ringers' was proposed by Mr. R. C. Heazel. He called to mind the formation of the Association 75 years ago, when travel and life were very different. The Articles of the Association framed then still stood—to raise the standard of change-ringing, to do their duty to the Church and to be recognised by the Church.

Since then they had passed through two great wars, and people had changed. There was not now the same civility. Seventy-five years ago they had to go very humbly to their employers if they wished to get a Saturday afternoon off for ringing.

LIFE TODAY

Look at the picture today. Visualise a little village in the county on a Saturday afternoon, filled with an air of expectancy. At last there would be heard the snorting of a car which would draw up in front of the church, and from it would be disgorged examples of masculinity and femininity. The car would be followed by motor-cycles, mopeds and bicycles. When they were assembled, someone would say: 'Don't you think we ought to go and have a pull?' They would sort themselves out and catch hold of the ropes. The reason he gave that picture was because that was the way the life of the Association was being carried on. All the time they could encourage these young people they would have no fear that the Association would die. He asked them to drink to the founder members, officials and members of the Association.

The Master, in acknowledging the toast, regretted the absence of the Lord Bishop and also the Master of the Middlesex Association. The members of their Association were a team; people were anxious to join it, feel they were members and leave something behind them that was permanent. He thanked Mrs. Dodds for presenting to them Peal Book No. 3 in a beautiful leather case, which they would find in St. Peter's Church.

It was probably true that their Association had made good the ravages due to the war, when for three years there was no ringing and some did none for five years. They probably had not the brilliant Surprise band who rang a new Surprise method each week, under Mr. Cashmore, or the handbell band of 25 years ago, and he was certain it would be many years before they looked on their like again.

They had heard of those men who met at the Deanery at St. Albans and started the Association, and it was the present members' job to ensure that they handed on the Association at least no worse than when they entered.

He would like to tell them of the debt of gratitude they owed to some of the old London ringers who were mentioned in a recent article in 'The Ringing World.' Many of those men came out and rang peals with the Hertfordshire Association or as College Youths. They were what they would now call characters, and were the product of the highly-competitive age in which they lived. No one then would dream of ringing with one hand or be asked which bell would they ring—they would be told which one. Many of the stories told about them were apocryphal. One, it was said, put in for the job of hangman at Newgate, and his name appeared on peal boards in their county.

A PRESENTATION

At the conclusion of the toast Mr. Debenham was presented by the Dean with a silver tankard, inscribed: 'Presented to George W. Debenham, president July 1875–October, 1959, Hertford County Association Change Ringers.'

Thanking the Association for this gift, Mr. Debenham said he spent a considerable time in hospital, and the thing that struck him was the number of letters and visitors he had. 'What I did to deserve this I don't know, but I can assure you it will be put to very good use.' [Applause.]

Proposing the toast of 'The Central Council of Church Bell Ringers,' Mr. R. G. Bell said on Easter Tuesday, 1890, there was a gathering of ringers, and the convener was a man whose name became a household word among ringers—Arthur Percival Heywood, later Sir Arthur. The object of the meeting was to discuss things of interest to ringers, and among the things discussed was the desirability of holding these meetings yearly. A year later, on Easter Tuesday, 1891, the first meeting proper of the Council was held.

It was interesting to note that at that first meeting the Hertfordshire Association was represented by Leonard Proctor, the famous squire of Bennington. He had a Surprise Major band among his workers. He was succeeded in 1894 by Edward Percy Debenham, of St. Albans, a much-loved man and well known to some present that evening.

Many famous ringers had passed through the Council since then. He would, that evening, like to pay tribute to two—Edwin H. Lewis, who graced the presidential chair for so many years, and George Fletcher, who carried out the duties of secretary for practically the same period.

WISDOM BACKED BY EXPERIENCE

The work of the Council was too well known for him to elaborate. Through its committees it endeavoured to guide the ringing Exercise by wisdom backed by experience. The committees were composed of hard-working people who gave freely of their time for a single purpose—to further the art of change-ringing. They looked back with gratitude on all that people had done during the years. The Council was not without its critics, and criticism ranged from the highly intellectual to the mundane. The latest undertaking of the Council was the Sunday Service Ringing Survey. They could take it as a great challenge to all of them.

Stating that this was the first time he had to reply to the toast, Mr. Frederick Sharpe, the president of the Council, said change-ringing did not start in Hertfordshire 75 years ago, because they knew that in All Saints', Hertford, a peal of 5,040 Triples was rung in 1724, and also shortly afterwards in St. Albans, on the then new bells of St. Peter's, they rang 'a complete peal of Bob Major.' Later, in 1779, there was a peal of over 12,000 changes. Long before that there was ringing at their Abbey. They knew that in 1077 they had bells given to the Abbey, and there was a long and interesting history; throughout the ages the ringers and clergy of Hertfordshire had an interest in bells.

SUNDAY SERVICE RINGING

The achievements of the Hertfordshire Association were many, but first he would place Sunday service ringing. When Stahlschmidt wrote 'The Church Bells of Hertfordshire' they would find only 5 per cent. of the towers rang for Sunday services. The remainder were merely chimed with the tenor as sermon bell. The Survey had shown that bells were rung in 68 per cent. of the towers of the county, due to the good work of the Diocesan Guilds and County Associations. That represented a great advance in the art of change-ringing, which used to be only the pleasure of the few. That result in their area was due to the activities and spade work of the members of their Guild. To their officers, past and present, he would like to say a word of congratulation.

A tremendous amount of work went on behind the scenes in the Central Council. One example was 'The Beginner's Handbook,' which had sold out an edition of 5,000 in under a year, and they were now in the process of re-printing. It had been an outstanding success and he hoped to see many good results from it. He brought to them, as president, the good wishes of the organised ringing Societies in this country and overseas on this their 75th anniversary, and may the good work they had done in the past continue and flourish.

GUESTS

The toast of 'Kindred Societies' was proposed by Mr. Walter Ayre, who said they had with them that evening representatives of the Essex and Bedfordshire Association and the Oxford Diocesan Guild. He had rung many peals with Essex people, and it was a great happiness to him to hear the Master of that Association propose a toast, because he liked the Essex drawl.

They were also delighted to have with them Miss Steel, president of the Bedfordshire Association. His first acquaintance with Miss Steel was at Rammore, at a Sheffield District and old East Derbyshire Association meeting, when they were both proposed members of that Association the same day.

In the old days they had to watch their step; there used to be enmity between the Associations. He would not then dare to fix up a peal for his Association in the territory of another Association. He suggested that courtesy should still exist and permission be sought.

The Rev. C. Elliot Wigg, Master of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, replied.

The concluding toast was 'The Visitors,' proposed by Mr. E. G. Buck and responded to by the Rev. C. P. Sherwood, Rector of Launton.

Apart from the musical programme mentioned above, there was conjuring by Mr. F. W. Ellis. The excellent arrangements for the dinner were made by a committee under the chairmanship of Mr. G. W. Debenham, with Mr. H. V. Frost as secretary.

THE SERVICE

The service in the afternoon in the Cathedral was conducted by the Dean, assisted by Canon Hudson and the Rev. C. E. Wigg. Evensong was followed by a recital by the Launton Handbell Ringers, introduced by Mr. F. Sharpe, the band being Mrs. J. G. Steeples, Mrs. C. P. Sherwood, Miss S. Gilpin, Miss E. Sharpe, Rev. C. P. Sherwood, Mr. P. Allan and Mr. F. Sharpe. An address was given by the Dean.

Ringling during the afternoon was at the Abbey, St. Stephen's, St. Peter's and St. Michael's.

AN ABERAVON CENTENARY

The old Norman church at Aberavon, Glam. was dismantled in 1857, and a large modern one, built in its place, was dedicated on October 19th, 1859. At the suggestion of the Vicar, a peal of Grandsire Triples was rung to mark the centenary. Mr. Ernest Stinch, of Wolverhampton, and Mr. A. J. Pitman, of Leamington, who had rung together at this tower for nearly 40 years, returned and took part.

Both also stood in a peal on the new Swansea bells the following day, with the result that four who took part in the last peal on the old bells in 1938, before the blitz, also rang in this one. Then on the following Wednesday a peal was rung at Bridgend, enabling Mr. Stinch to ring his 80th peal on them and to 'circle the tower' for the eighth time. It is ten years since he rang his last peal at this tower.

A CORRECTION TO DEVON TOUR

Dear Sir.—There should be a small correction regarding the recent Devon tour. The peal of Spliced Surprise Major at Honiton Clyst was the first of Spliced Surprise on the bells, but not the first of Surprise on the bells because a peal of Cambridge Major was rung on them a few years ago.—Yours sincerely,

AUBREY L. BENNETT.

OXFORD GUILD'S GIFT TO 'THE RINGING WORLD'

There was a very full discussion on 'The Ringing World' at the autumn general meeting of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, held at Banbury on October 3rd, with the deputy Master (Mr. Frederick Sharpe) in the chair. The attendance numbered 150.

The hon. treasurer (Mr. A. D. Barker) moved 'That this Guild contribute £10 per annum towards the cost of production of "The Ringing World," commencing 1959.'

He said that as a result of the printing dispute 'The Ringing World' Committee was faced with a lot of extra expenditure, and as a result the cost might go up to 9d. Their Guild had always taken the initiative in matters and he hoped that it would once again give a lead to other Guilds and Associations.

The motion was seconded by Miss M. R. Cross.

Mr. Cave (Banbury) felt that 'The Ringing World' was uninteresting. He suggested that advertising material concerning the journal should be sent to the towers.

Mr. A. Diserens suggested that the way to get an improvement was to write to the Editor.

The chairman stated that the Editor welcomed leading articles. 'The Ringing World' was the ringers' own paper. It would be a major catastrophe if it failed. The increased cost of £1,000 must be met by increased sales or charges.

Mr. G. Edmans also felt that the paper had become uninteresting. The hon. librarian agreed with this view and suggested the Central Bucks Branch should send in material so that the Editor had a choice.

Mr. A. D. Barker commented that the reports of meetings were all the same and that was one reason why they were not put in.

Mr. J. Diserens, while in favour of saving 'The Ringing World,' complained that interesting reports were drastically cut.

To this the chairman replied that the Editor hated doing this but sometimes it was necessary.

Mr. A. K. Pink said there was scope for improvement in 'The Ringing World,' but he realised that it had gone through a very difficult situation. He therefore proposed as an amendment that a grant of £20 be made for 1959 and that the matter be reviewed each year. As a result he hoped 'The Ringing World' Committee would be 'gingered up.'

This was seconded by Mr. A. Diserens and carried.

THE SURVEY

The hon. general secretary (Miss Cross) reported that the Sunday Service Ringing Survey had been well received by the clergy, who were now showing a keener interest. The Bishops of Oxford, Dorchester and Buckingham, and the Archdeacon of Buckingham, were all taking a keener interest in the work of the Guild. It was therefore up to the members of the Guild to do everything in their power to improve the situation.

Mr. W. Parker thought it was a question of leadership. Where there were no leaders there was trouble.

Mr. H. L. Roper's proposition of the general secretary calling a meeting of Branch secretaries so that something concrete might be done was accepted by the meeting.

COURSE OF INSTRUCTION

On the question of a week-end course of instruction the hon. general secretary reported that Big Wood, Radley, was willing to hold a course at 25s. per head per day.

The hon. treasurer said he had opened up negotiations with the Diocesan Retreat House at Stoke Poges but had received no definite offer.

The chairman announced that both the Yorkshire Association and the Suffolk Guild were holding week-end courses.

Mr. W. Butler said that his Branch had held a lecture on learning methods, which had proved very successful, and he felt that such a course should be held.

The hon. librarian considered that much of the Dillington House course had been over the students' heads. He felt that the Guild must decide on a higher or lower course or both run conjointly.

The chairman stated that some of the Dillington House course was over his head, but he felt that everyone who had attended had learnt something.

The meeting agreed that a committee of the officers of the Guild should be set up to make the necessary arrangements.

CENTRAL COUNCIL AGENDA

A motion by Mr. W. Birmingham that the annual committee meeting be held after the agenda for the Central Council had been published, so that some guidance might be given to the Central Council representatives should the Guild deem it necessary, was carried.

The service in St. Mary's Church, Banbury, followed the business meeting. This was conducted by the Vicar, and the address was given by the Archdeacon of Buckingham. A very large congregation nearly filled the church. A buffet tea was served in St. Mary's Church House to over 210 ringers and friends. Ringing was available in no fewer than 14 churches.

THE LADIES' GUILD

South Wales District

Representatives from the farthest points of South and West Wales were among the 18 towers attending the South Wales District quarterly meeting at St. Mary's, Swansea, on October 3rd.

Canon H. C. Williams, in his fine address given at the service, mentioned that he was the man who had made the most noise in Swansea during this century. He had been responsible for the restoration of Sketty's eight bells and for the installation of the new ring of eight at St. Mary's, Swansea. An excellent tea was served in the new Church Room adjoining Trinity Chapel afterwards. Mr. J. Alsop thanked Mrs. Whitworth and her helpers. Miss Dorothy Atwell (vice-president) thanked Canon Williams for his warm welcome to Swansea and for his interest in the Guild.

At the business meeting four new members were elected—the Misses Hazel Everett and Diana Johnson (Llandaff), Maureen Hawkins and Elaine Thomas (Cowbridge). Whitchurch, Cardiff, was chosen for the next meeting, possibly on November 21st.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

PEAL TOURS AND GUILD FINANCES

Dear Sir,—The letter from Mr. W. Birmingham, which appeared in last week's issue, prompts me to question the accuracy of several of his statements. But first let me make it quite clear at the outset that I am concerned only with his references to the Cheshire ringers' peal week, having no personal interest in the other two points raised.

Mr. Birmingham appears to base his remarks on three precepts: (1) That this tour served little or no useful purpose; (2) That the ringing of these peals was a financial burden to the Guilds concerned; and (3) That peal weeks reduce the whole status of change-ringing to the level of a sport.

Mr. Birmingham is clearly unaware that in most Cheshire ringers' peals it is the normal practice to omit superfluous footnotes, and that if these had been inserted he would then have seen that three of the ringers taking part rang in their first peal of Surprise Major, and that nine of them rang in their first in a new method or methods. In fact, one person rang in six peals to which this particular footnote might have been applied, and another person in three. The ringer who 'stood in only two attempts' had been on holiday during most of the week and did, in fact, ring in all peals for which he was available. It would seem that this peal week was, even by Mr. Birmingham's standards, of real benefit to at least 12 of the 18 ringers who took part.

Secondly, it must be remembered that both the Chester Guild and the Lancashire Association charge a peal-booking fee of 6d. per rope which, in the case of the former, provides 26 per cent. of the cost of the annual report. Add to this the subscriptions from the 150 members who ring in peals, and the cost of the 40 per cent. of the space devoted to peals in the report is adequately covered. So a peal week is certainly not the financial handicap to the Guild which Mr. Birmingham would have us believe. I might also add, whilst on the subject of finance, that everyone in the peal week is a regular subscriber to the 'R.W.'

If, by doing something we enjoy, we turn ringing into a sport, a suggestion with which I disagree entirely, I must remind Mr. Birmingham that the same thing could be said of a cathedral organist who gives recitals in other churches. Is he a sportsman, too? I think not!—Yours faithfully,

NEIL BENNETT.

PEAL TOURS

Dear Sir.—Since writing my letter, which appeared in the last issue, I am informed that the Devonshire Guild has a peal levy, so the cost of the peals will have been met. However, many Guilds, like my own, would have had to bear their cost, had they been credited to them. I am not attacking the bands concerned but the general practice of peal tours by bands of experts, the success of whose attempts are almost a foregone conclusion, as they have all rung the methods to peals countless times before.—Yours, etc.,

A GOOD RECAP

Dear Sir,—Having read the report, 'A Good 50 Years,' in a recent issue of the 'R.W.', I was surprised to see the following in 'The Ringing World' of March 28th, 1913:—

'To THE WEST

'On October 11th a 720 of Grandsire Doubles was rung for evening service at Charing Church by H. Willard 1, C. F. Good 2, C. L. Prior 3, W. C. Good 4, H. E. Good (conductor) 5, J. Colbreay 6. An attempt for a peal of 5,040 had to be abandoned owing to the indisposition of one of the band. This was arranged as a farewell peal to Mr. C. F. Good, who has since left for Canada. On Tuesday, the 18th inst., he was the recipient of two valuable purse belts, subscribed by the Charing ringers.

'The Vicar (the Rev. D. R. Fotheringham), in making the presentation, said he hoped for the day when the ring of six at Charing would be increased to eight. The ringers afterwards adjourned to the King's Head Hotel, where the remainder of the evening was spent in harmony, the following contributing to the programme: Messrs. J. Colbreay, C. L. Prior, W. and H. E. Good and T. Ifield, jun., with Mrs. Walker at the piano.

'The Charing band are about to start on Bob Minor, and if any gentlemen in the district would volunteer to assist they would be heartily welcomed on Tuesday evening at 7.30, or any other evening by arrangement.

Mr. H. E. Good still rings—can he still sing?—Yours, etc.,

P. M. TOWN.

Linton, Kent.

P.S.—I'm often in the Charing district. If Mr. Good would like to know of old friends I might be able to help and would be pleased to do so.—P. M. T.

SOUTH AFRICA IS IN THE RINGING WORLD

Dear Sir,—I can only hope that Mr. Phil Corby has been misreported in the account of the Kent dinner (page 587). I refer to the words 'Except for Australia, the United States and Canada, . . . the art was not practised outside these islands.' No doubt South Africa lags behind North America in many ways, but to anyone who reads his 'Ringing World' our record of activity does not merit this relegation to the limbo of silent towers.

I know that some of those present were in a position to correct this impression, and I would like to think that they did so.—Yours truly,

VICTOR SHEPPARD.

Cape Town.

CHANGE RINGING AT DURBAN

Dear Sir,—On page 553 of issue dated September 25th you published news from Durban. In this Mr. Chambers says that in August the first touches of Grandsire Triples for 20 years were rung in Durban. I would like to say that in June, 1943, Grandsire Triples were being rung. The occasion that springs to my mind was the dedication in that month of a chancel screen or rail by Dr. Fisher, Bishop of Natal. There was in the band Alan Pink, then a naval lieutenant, a naval petty officer who rang at Hereford Cathedral, and myself, a naval rating. Others were soldiers and airmen who were stationed in camp at Wentworth, just outside Durban. If memory serves me correctly, the captain of the band at that time was a Mr. Westley or Westlake, who was the manager of a large newspaper and stationer's shop nearby.

May I send my best wishes to the band at Durban, and especially to Mr. Chambers, whom I had the pleasure of meeting at Carlisle in September, 1956.—Yours sincerely,

BRIAN LISTER.

St. Mary's, Slough.

DEVON PEAL TOUR

Dear Sir,—I would like to point out that the peal of London rung at Exminster during the recent peal tour of Devon was not the first of Major on the bells. Double Norwich was rung there on November 10th, 1951, conducted by G. Stedman Morris. It was also incorrect to claim the first peal of Surprise at Withycombe Raleigh, as Superlative was rung there in 1949.

Would it not save trouble and printing space to ensure that information regarding peals is authoritative before placing such records in the printers' hands?

Whilst on the subject of visiting bands, it is apparent that peal tours are becoming more popular, especially in areas such as the West Country. Might I mention that a little courtesy, such as leaving the ropes the same length as they were found and perhaps a few shillings to the local bell repair fund after a peal, does make things more pleasant when future bands wish to visit the towers, especially when the local band is 'call-change' and does not appreciate our change-ringing peculiarities.

My remarks are not intended to be offensive but merely constructive criticism based on occurrences which have taken place during this year in Devon.—Yours faithfully,

D. MALLETT.

MR. G. E. FEARN'S PEAL TOUR OF DEVON

THE bright, sunny morning of September 26th found four cars travelling south-westwards along the winding roads of Somerset and Devon, heading for Buckfast Abbey, where was to be attempted the first of 13 peals arranged for our party of ringers from Birmingham, Lincoln, London, Brierley Hill and Taunton, amid the beautiful county of glorious Devon.

Before the peal attempt we lunched in Buckfastleigh at the King's Arms Hotel, which was to be our headquarters for the week and where we met Mr. Aubrey L. Bennett, who had undertaken all the ringing arrangements. At the Abbey we were welcomed by the Rev. Father Oswald Mowan, who took us up to the belfry. The bells were raised, band placed and ropes adjusted, and we prepared to settle down to four hours of Cambridge Maximus. But this was not to be, for after three courses a slight mix-up on the front necessitated the conductor to call 'Stand.'

Sunday morning was crisp and clear, and for morning service ringing we visited St. Andrew's, Plymouth, where Mr. T. G. Myers was very pleased to welcome us. A course of Cambridge Royal and a touch of Grandsire Caters were unfortunately all that time allowed. Mr. Myers then took us up on Plymouth Hoe and round the Old Harbour before we had to say goodbye and make our way back to Buckfastleigh for lunch. There was a peal arranged for us in the afternoon at Wolborough, and here we got off the mark with a good peal of Bristol.

FIRST FULL DAY

Monday was our first full day, and we scored two peals—London at St. Thomas', Exeter, and Lincolnshire at Thorverton. At St. Thomas', Exeter, we were met by Mr. E. W. Biffen and Mr. Norman Mallett, who took a tape-recording of the first ten minutes, and before the peal started the Vicar (Rev. J. P. Hinton) kindly said a prayer in the belfry. Thorverton, a neat little village nestling in the Exe Valley about six miles north of Exeter, contained a fair octave, which the local ringers wanted rehanging, although general opinion was that they were not exceptionally rough-going. A visiting ringer here stated most emphatically that the tenor ringer in the peal was the worst he'd ever heard, and when there was a sudden trip stormed off in disgust! Obviously he'd never heard a tenor 'turned in' before.

Honiton Cyst, with its quaint little church, possesses a good eight, though they are a ground floor ring with a very wide circle. It was here that we came first on Tuesday to be met by Mrs. G. E. Retter. Albert Pitman's 4-Spliced composition was duly rung. In the afternoon, a lovely ride through part of the wooded Yeo River valley brought us to Newton St. Cyres, where Mr. George Luxton was waiting for us, and the first peal of Surprise on the bells was marked by a peal of Rutland.

PUBLICAN'S APPRECIATION

A 'Halt' sign and a policeman caused one of our drivers a little delay on Wednesday morning, but he arrived at Paignton in time to call a peal of London, which turned out to be the first of Major on the bells. Afterwards a nearby publican treated us to drinks all round for the excellent ringing, the local ringers, including Mr. C. F. Austin, also being pleased at the high standard of striking. We kept up our Major record at Berry Pomeroy that afternoon, although there were three false starts, due to the third slipping wheel: the band then changed round and all went well for two-and-a-half hours, until one ringer suddenly found himself ringing 5ths place bell in Bristol without a rope! The conductor, however, kept everything well under control for the few mishaps, and we successfully brought round 6-Spliced. It certainly wasn't the Master's day!

The mist on Thursday morning gradually rose as we set off along the now-familiar route round the southern edge of Dartmoor and over the Haldon Hills to drop down on to the estuary of the Exe, making for Exminster, where the Rev. M. F. Judd and Mr. Way were awaiting us. These bells were Aubrey's surprise of the week, and are certainly a grand ring, sounding heavier than the 18 cwt. they are; we hope we did justice to them with another good peal of London. For the afternoon peal attempt we were privileged to visit Broadclyst where, quite appropriately, Bristol was rung. Two members of the party, who had already rung a peal there earlier in the year, stood out, and both agreed afterwards that the ringing was first-class.

Mr. C. Gatter met us next morning at Littleham, near Exmouth, the bells here being quite a contrast to Broadclyst's. Here was a good light eight, similar to Shirley, Birmingham, though about 1 cwt. heavier; and thoughts of a 'quickie' passed through our minds, but this was not entirely fulfilled, probably due to the long draught, as we took 2 hours 33 minutes over another peal of London.

The afternoon tower was only about a mile away at Withycombe Raleigh, so we were able to take lunch a little less hurriedly than usual. Quite a number of rope adjustments had to be made here before we could start, but eventually we set off and, despite several ropes jumping the wheel and bells running dry, we rang what is believed to be the first peal of 8-Spliced in Devon. Then came a dash back to Buckfastleigh for the evening meal, at which we were pleased to have Mr. Bennett with us.

THANKS AND A PRESENTATION

Afterwards we heartily expressed our thanks to Mr. A. L. Bennett for all the work he had put in to make the tour run so smoothly with his impeccable arrangements, and as a token of our gratitude Mr. G. E. Fearn presented him with a Parker fountain pen, together with a card containing all our signatures.

Early next morning we sadly bade farewell to Aubrey and departed for home, calling at Henbury, Bristol, to ring another peal which, of course, was London.

Lastly, we must thank all the incumbents and ringers who met us and allowed us the use of their bells and, by no means least of all, Mr. George Fearn, for arranging what was a most enjoyable and successful week.

CHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD AT DINNER

THE annual dinner of the Chester Diocesan Guild maintained its popularity, and the large gathering present on October 10th at Bollands, Chester, had an enjoyable evening.

The toast of 'The Queen' having been honoured in the traditional way, the proceedings opened with a course of Grandsire Caters on handbells.

The toast of 'The Chester Diocesan Guild' was most ably proposed by the Archdeacon of Macclesfield (Ven. T. Clarke), who seemed not only to have inherited his predecessor's huge fund of stories but also to have added to it. The theme of the Archdeacon's speech was the importance of ringers to the church and the great value which he placed upon their services.

The Master of the Guild (Mr. J. W. Clarke), in thanking the Archdeacon, said he would like to take the opportunity to pay tribute to the officials of the Guild for all their work. It had always been the Guild's good fortune to possess good officers.

In proposing the toast of 'Church and State,' Mr. C. W. Lawton spoke in appreciation of the quality of leadership given by the Archdeacon. The ringers should let their parson know when he did something particularly worth while. As members of the Church, ringers should let people know that they were Christians, and set an example in the materialistic world.

The Rev. E. Mercer, in reply, said that he had been told many years ago not to waste time on ringers, but he was proud of the witness which ringers gave. They told the people that the Church was doing its job, and people who hated bells did so because they offended their consciences. They remind the hearer that the Church is doing its job, and posed the question 'What are you doing about it?'

The rich fund of stories told in the speeches will enliven meetings in the next few months. The musical programme included items from Messrs. Taylor and Boyer, handbell tune ringing from the Wirral Handbell Ringers and the Macclesfield Handbell Ringers. C. K. L.

THE MAJOR HESSE WEEK-END AT WRINGTON

The third week-end in October is normally the week-end nearest to the anniversary of the death of Major John H. B. Hesse, of Wrington, and a well-known ringer all over the country. Once again, 'in memoriam' peal attempts were arranged during this week-end, at Yatton on the Friday evening and as usual at Wrington on Saturday, but unfortunately neither the Bob Major at Yatton nor Stedman Caters at Wrington were successful. After the Wrington attempt Mrs. Hesse again kindly entertained the ringers to tea—an ample spread which was much appreciated.

The company was especially pleased that Mr. and Mrs. Alan Pink and Major Freeborn, of Oxford, were able to be with them on this occasion. Major Freeborn thanked Mrs. Hesse on behalf of the company for her hospitality, and said that it was 12 years since he had last rung on Wrington bells. Mrs. Hesse made a suitable reply, and Mr. H. W. Knight added his thanks to all for coming along.

The company were the Rev. B. Lee (Rector of Wrington), Mr. and Mrs. W. Kingcott, A. Pink and H. Knight, Mrs. Joan Gray, and Messrs. E. Chivers, L. Derrick, J. Freeborn, D. Hoare, M. Horseman, E. Naylor, G. Prescott, A. Sanger, H. Sanger and S. Smith.

WALLASEY, CHESHIRE.—On Oct. 24th, 1,320 Minor (Kent and Plain Bob): G. H. Pullin 1, R. E. Tallis (jun.) 2, M. C. Hughes 3, F. H. Hayes 4, F. Anderton 5, P. S. Bennett (cond.) 5.

BELLS AND RINGERS IN STAINED GLASS

By ERNEST MORRIS

MR. T. J. LOCK ('R.W.', October 9th, page 588) mentions my name in connection with this subject, and quotes that in Ripon Cathedral belfry is a stained glass window recording a peal of Kent Treble Bob Major rung on August 28th, 1886, to mark the 1,000th anniversary of the town's civic charter. Also that there is another 'ringers' window, executed by the same craftsman, in the nearby church at Sharrow. A more recent one is to be seen at St. Peter's, St. Albans—the work of Martin Webb, one of the ringers there—and shows ringers below with the swinging bells above. It records a 'victory' peal of Bob Major rung on August 16th, 1945, conducted by W. Ayre.

In one of the narrow openings in the wall of the spiral stairway leading to the belfry at St. Mary's, Beddington, Surrey, may be seen a unique stained glass window depicting the figure of a man in full priestly robes, pulling a bell-rope. On his richly-embroidered robe are several golden bells, while at the head of the window on the left side are two bells with ropes suspended. In the corresponding right-hand corner—as it were through a window—may be seen in the far distance the towers and spires of the City churches. This bell-ringer, who calls upon all and sundry within the sound of his bell to 'watch and pray,' and invites all who can to come, represents the priestly office of the ringer. Higher up the same stairway is a second window, and this shows a man with a lantern at his feet ringing the curfew, one of the ancient customs connected with church bells in this country. Above him is the great bell with its wheel, and through the windows of his belfry may be seen the City buildings far below.

A modern stained glass window depicting bells in every position is at Ilkley, Yorkshire. It was erected in 1887 to the memory of 'Jasper Whitfield Snowdon, historian and expositor of Change Ringing. Died November 16th, 1885, aged 41.' Snowdon was the son of the Vicar of Ilkley, and distinguished himself by his great abilities in our art, not only in the tower but as a writer of many articles and books on the subject.

The most famous of all such windows is the second one from the west in the north aisle of York Minster. Its distinguishing feature is the large number of bells represented in it, mostly coloured yellow. It was set up in memory of—or by—Richard Tunnoc, and may be described as a white-pattern window enriched with two horizontal bands of coloured pictures and ornaments. The three lights—each 20 feet high by 3 feet wide—are divided into five compartments. On the left is shown the mode of forming the mould of the bell, called the 'core.' One figure is turning it with a handle like a grindstone, and another with a long, crooked tool is moulding the clay into the proper form. On the floor of this compartment two bells are shown between the legs of the trestles on which the mould is being turned. The compartment on the right hand depicts three figures busily engaged running the molten metal. The furnace is of ecclesiastical type, in which the metal is kept heated up by two pairs of bellows worked by a boy who holds a handle in each hand. Another boy is helping him. Another figure represents the chief workman who having tapped the furnace is watching the molten metal running into the mould below. In the centre compartment is a suppliant figure with uplifted hands, kneeling before the archbishop, who is nimbed, seated on a rich, cushioned throne, fully vested with mitre, pallium, embroidered sandals, etc., holding a crosier in his left hand. There issues from between the uplifted hands of the suppliant a scroll, inscribed 'Richard Tunnoc.' This represents the founder presenting a bell to the patron saint of the Minster. Richard Tunnoc was one of the bailiffs of the city, and a Member of Parliament. He died in 1330.

Reorganisation In The Suffolk Guild

SOUTH-WEST DISTRICT

A joint meeting of the Beccles, Halesworth and Saxmundham Districts was held at Halesworth on October 10th, attended by about 30 ringers, including visitors from Essex and Norfolk.

The object of the business meeting was to elect officers for 1960 for the new North East Suffolk District, which will replace the three existing Districts from January 1st. With this in mind, Mr. J. W. Blythe (general secretary of the Guild) occupied the chair. The officers elected were: Mr. P. S. Bedford (District chairman), Mr. J. M. Bailey (Ringing Master), Mr. A. R. Bridges (secretary) and Messrs. C. J. Gibson and R. Bickers (District committee members).

Mr. Blythe said he voiced the thanks of all to the outgoing officers, and wished the new officers every success. The first meeting of the new District will be held at Leiston on January 16th.

The Guild service was conducted by the Rector (Rev. E. J. Button), who was thanked, together with the organist (Mr. C. A. Muttitt).

The first meeting of the newly-formed South West District of the Suffolk Guild (the old Sudbury and Hadleigh Districts) was held at Stoke-by-Nayland on October 3rd, and was well supported by ringers from Suffolk and Essex. Ringing varied from rounds and call-changes to London Surprise Major.

A short service was conducted by the Rector (Canon C. V. Clibbon), and a collection for the Guild Bell Restoration Fund amounted to £2 2s. After the service, over 50 people sat down to tea, which was given by the local ringers in the Village Hall.

Officers elected for the new District were: Chairman, Mr. S. J. Twitchett (Clare); Ringing Master, Mr. A. W. Cansdale (Bures); secretary and treasurer, Miss R. J. Seabrook (Clare); committee, Messrs. M. S. Webb (Haverhill), R. Thorpe (Stoke-by-Nayland), M. T. Symonds (Lavenham), H. Clarke (Hawkedon), F. Willis-Betts (Hadleigh), W. G. Perry (Clare) and Miss E. R. M. Cansdale (Bures).

New members elected were: Canon Clibbon (honorary member), Maurice E. Downs, of Maidstone (life member), P. Robertson, of Assington, Commander C. J. W. Simpson, Messrs. R. A. Jerrold and R. M. King, of Stoke-by-Nayland, and Miss Janet Rawlings, of Sudbury (ringing members).

It is hoped to hold the next meeting at Lavenham on January 16th.

SEND, SURREY.—On Oct. 25th, 1,332 Plain Bob Minor: B. Priestley 1, Miss H. Pugh 2, Miss P. Drury 3, Miss D. Gibbons 4, J. Martin 5, D. Wright (cond.) 6. For Evensong.

OBITUARY

MR. E. ROGER MARTIN

The Lancashire Association has suffered a great loss in the passing on October 24th of Mr. E. Roger Martin, of Preston, in his 73rd year. His death after only a short illness came as a great shock to his many friends, most of whom were unaware of his recent incapacity.

The funeral service was held in Preston Parish Church on October 27th and was attended by relatives, friends and many ringers from the Preston and neighbouring Branches. The bells were rung half-muffled before and after the service, and six ringers acted as bearers. The interment took place at St. Leonard's, Walton-le-Dale, and a well-struck course of Grandsire Triples was rung on handbells over the grave.

Roger learnt to ring at the age of 17 in his local tower at Walton-le-Dale, but there was no immediate vacancy for him in the Sunday service band. He therefore joined the band at Samlesbury, and for several years he walked from his home in Walton to Samlesbury and back twice every Sunday to ring for service. This was typical of his immense enthusiasm, an enthusiasm that remained undiminished throughout his life. Shortly after the First World War he joined the Preston Parish Church ringers, and he was soon appointed captain, an office he held until a few years ago, when he insisted on 'making way for a younger man.' At Preston he will long be remembered for his reliability, progress and teaching.

He was invariably one of the first to arrive, and never missed ringing for service or practice unless he was ill (which was very infrequent) or away. 'Progress' was always his aim. He was often heard to remark that a band which did not progress would soon break up, and it was largely through his drive that the Wednesday practice at Preston became widely known as a progressive practice. Even on his last appearance in the tower, some two weeks before his death, he was encouraging some of our younger members to 'look up Double Norwich for next week.' He was responsible for training many learners in his time, and wherever he went he was ready to offer advice on the technique of bell-control and good striking.

He had been a member of the Lancashire Association since 1907, and had held office both as a Branch secretary and Ringing Master, and also as vice-president of the Association. He was well known and respected throughout the county both for his devotion to the Exercise and for his talent as a ringer and conductor. Some measure of his skill in conducting can be gathered from the fact that out of a total of 207 peals rung he conducted 105, and that, with the exception of Stedman Triples, he never called the same composition twice. Details of his peals are as follows:—

TOWER BELLS

Minor.—1 method 8 (conducted 3), 2 methods 1 (1), 3 methods 9 (6), 4 methods 4 (2), 7 methods 9 (5), 10 method 1 (1).

Triples.—Grandsire 4 (2), Stedman 18 (12).

Major.—Plain Bob 3 (1), Kent T.B. 36 (20), Oxford T.B. 5, Kent and Oxford 5, Double Norwich 37 (28), Little Bob 2 (1), Cambridge 15 (5), Superlative 12 (8), Yorkshire 4 (3), New Cambridge 3 (1), Ashted 1, Bristol 3.

Caters.—Grandsire 3 (1), Stedman 9 (4), Double Norwich 2.

Royal.—Kent 4 (1), Oxford 1, Cambridge 2, Yorkshire 1, Prittlewell 1.

HANDBELLS

Bob Major 3, 13 Minor methods 1.

Total 207 (105).

Roger will be sorely missed in all the Preston Branch activities, but in his life he set an example which is both an inspiration and a challenge for us all.

MR. C. BROWN

On Sunday evening, October 25th, the bells of St. Michael and All Angels', Creaton, Northants, rang half-muffled for the passing of Mr. C. Brown, aged 83, who was laid to rest on the previous day.

A founder member of the Guilsborough Branch of Peterborough Association, he was tower captain for 50 years and clerk since 1946. 'Charlie,' as he was affectionately known, learned to ring about 1888 at nearby Cottesbrooke, whose six bells now lie in the Loughborough Foundry for rehanging.

He was not a peal ringer but was devoted to regular service ringing and good striking. When in recent years ill health prevented him from taking a rope, he would listen with critical and yet appreciative ear from his pew.

His quiet and sincere manner, both in the belfry and elsewhere, was an example to all. He spared no effort for the progress of the many pupils who passed through his hands—amongst them five of his sons and the writer. Many friends will miss him and will remember him with gratitude.

To his widow and family we extend our profound sympathy.

R. J. S.

MR. G. W. WILKINSON

The sudden death of Mr. G. W. Wilkinson, who was for many years conductor at St. Aidan's, Blackhill, Co. Durham, is regretted by his colleagues in the Durham and Newcastle Association. Of a very quiet nature, he learnt to ring at Christ Church, Consett, in 1919. His great work for ringing was at Blackhill, where he strove for many years to train a full team to ring on Sundays. He was a practising churchman and a conscientious ringer.

On the day of his funeral, October 22nd, the following band rang Grandsire Triples (half-muffled), his favourite method, as their last gesture of respect: C. T. Lamb, N. Errington, G. Wall, S. Thompson, K. Cheeseman, K. Arthur (conductor), R. Skelton and R. Oliver.

UNIVERSITY OF LONDON SOCIETY'S MEMORIAL RING

Although the Society has only been in existence about 15 years and most of the members are young, we suffered a terrible loss at the end of 1958 when three of our members died. Geoff. Carter had been a member since the start and was a vice-president and beloved by all; David Priestley was secretary for two years during a time when the Society grew and progressed tremendously, and John Morris had given freely of his very great talent as a ringer to the Society.

We decided, therefore, that we would subscribe to a fund with which to purchase something for the Society in their memory, and an appeal was launched in March of this year. We hoped to be able to buy some handbells, but were a little apprehensive about the prospect of getting the money for more than an eight. However, almost everybody in the Society willingly and promptly sent money in and by May it was clear that a ring of 12 was not beyond us, and they were duly ordered. By the time they were delivered in September we had all the money we needed and more than £10 to spare. A flat sixth to make a light octave is now on order.

And what a glorious ring of bells they are, too! The Society benefited enormously from the lives of Geoff., David and John, and the many who knew them will never forget them, and in addition now future generations will benefit in a practical way.

A SUFFOLK TOWER 'REDISCOVERED'

Covehithe, now little more than a name on the map, is situated on the coast of Suffolk, some four or five miles above Southwold. A few cottages only seem to comprise the village, a delightful spot during the summer for picnics and bathing, but obviously very bleak in winter time, exposed on the cliff top to the easterly gales from the sea.

Little seems to be known locally of the ancient history of the church: this was of minster-like proportions, only the outside walls and tower now being in existence. A small brick church is erected inside the old walls, occupying perhaps one-eighth of the original space, and this now serves the village.

The tower is of flint and is well over 100 feet high, the five bells hanging practically in the top, and these had not been rung since before the 1939-45 war. Various ringers had 'done battle' with the churchwarden, but the answer was the old, old story—unsafe. The various rectors that came and went repeated this.

However, came the day when the Diocesan Adviser paid the tower a visit, and gave his opinion that, apart from neglect the bells were all right and safe to ring, and it was suggested a trial ring should be arranged. The writer was privileged to be invited to this, and for the fourth time made a round trip of about 110 miles to the church.

The day in question found the tower a hive of activity, and several made the somewhat nerve-racking ascent up the tower. An old mediaeval-type ladder gave entry to the second floor, a similar ladder went half-way up the next chamber, then across a 'catwalk' and up a further ladder to the bells.

Nuts were tightened, bearings oiled, pulleys freed and ropes which had been cut off at wheels replaced. With the Diocesan Adviser (Mr. R. Clouston) 'up top,' others on the next floor, the bells were pulled up singly, rung singly then adding one on until the five were going. It was found that the 'go' was excellent, even with upwards of 100 feet of rope, and apart from a poor treble the bells are a good five.

So another 'unringable' tower is proved otherwise. Unfortunately, there being no ringers, the ropes had to be returned to their original place for chiming, so once more it will be no ringing; and probably after another long time someone else will be able to rediscover the tower, and ring the bells as they should be rung.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD Dorchester Branch

Canon T. W. Page-Phillips (Vicar) conducted the service at St. Mary's Church, Puddletown, on the occasion of the autumn quarterly meeting of the Dorchester Branch of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild of Ringers on September 26th.

The six bells were rung from about 2.30 p.m. until the service, when Canon Page-Phillips welcomed the ringers and spoke about the part played by the laity in the furtherance of the Christian religion.

Tea was served in the Village Hall by the ladies of the church, and the business meeting which followed was conducted by the Branch chairman (Rev. P. J. Heaton), supported by the vice-chairman (Rev. E. B. Brooks), Canon Page-Phillips and Mr. R. H. Duke (hon. secretary).

Branch practices were arranged as follows: November 7th, Fordington; 21st, Wyke Regis; December 5th, Preston; 19th, Wool. The next meeting will be the annual meeting, to be held at St. Peter's, Dorchester, on Saturday, January 16th.

About 40 members were present.

SWANSEA & BRECON GUILD

A very successful meeting of the Northern District was held at Llangattock, Breconshire, in which 30 members took part, under the instruction of the Ringing Master, Mr. J. Williams, of Swansea.

The Guild service was taken by the Rector (Rev. Arthur Reed) and the lesson read by the Rev. Ivor Richards. Tea was provided by the wives and friends of the local ringers.

At the business meeting it was decided to hold the next meeting at St. David's, Brecon. One new tower was elected to the Guild—Glasbury-on-Wye. The Rector and the local ringers were thanked by the Ringing Master for the way the ringers had been welcomed.

CLIVE SMITH'S 2,000th TOWER

A day's outing by a small group of ringers on September 19th covered three counties. After visiting Penn and Hambledon in Buckinghamshire, we moved to Mapledurham in Oxfordshire, Clive Smith, of Sutton Coldfield, here ringing at his 2,000th tower. Whitchurch next, then over the water to Pangbourne, Berkshire, paying tolls both ways across the bridge! The Norman church at Checkendon next, then Nettlebed and Ewelme, where there was some of the best ringing of the day on this heavy six. So on to Brightwell Baldwin, where we were privileged to hear a barrel organ in use for church hymns; then Chalgrove, Lewknor and Lane End. Thus ended another very happy tour. Many thanks to all incumbents and local ringers of all these 6-bell towers. C. M. H.

The first married couples peal in Minor was rung at Deeping St. Nicholas on October 22nd. Our correspondent informs us that it was certainly Joy Noon's first peal since marriage, and she is thinking of 'spliced' for the next attempt.

N.S.W. ASSOCIATION'S ANNUAL RING AND DINNER

The annual ring and dinner of the New South Wales Association was held at St. Mary's Basilica (R.C.) on Monday, October 5th. Unfortunately two country towers—Yass and Maitland—were not represented. General ringing was from 2 to 4 p.m., and in the presence of so many pressmen, photographers, radio announcers and technicians, it was surprising that Plain Bob Minor, Grandsire, Plain Bob and St. Simon's Doubles and Grandsire Triples were rung.

Three teams entered for the competition for the Association's shield at 4.30 p.m., which was for a set piece of Doubles. St. Mary's Cathedral won it, with St. Jude's second. St. Jude's, Randwick, won the Duncan shield for the best touch of Minor, Triples or Major with Plain Bob Minor.

Monsignor Meaney, administrator of St. Mary's, was the guest chairman at the dinner, and another guest was the Rev. R. O'Brien, Rector of St. Paul's, Burwood, whose ring of eight was due to be cast at Loughborough on October 16th. The chairman in his speech said bells and ringers formed an important part in the Church's life, and the message of the bells pertained to worship.

After the presentation of shields to winning teams, Miss Wendy Nichols presented to the Association a framed etching of St. Paul's Cathedral, Melbourne, given by the Melbourne ringers as a gesture of goodwill and friendship following their visit in August.

Winning teams were: St. Mary's Cathedral—Margaret and Tom Goodyer, Ted Fowell, John Cummins, John Sheehy and Jim Hammond; St. Jude's—Wendy Nichols, Audrey Peters, Robert Klema, W. Watson, John Fayer and W. Rowe.

THE LADIES' GUILD

Midland District

Various methods were rung on Oakham bells at the Midland District meeting on October 17th, with the help of gentlemen present. Five new members were elected and it was decided to hold the next meeting on December 12th at Gresley. Thanks were extended to the Vicar for the use of the bells and to the Curate for conducting the service.

Southern District

A most successful meeting was held on October 24th at St. Mary's, Liss (8), Hampshire. Ringing was enjoyed by many members and friends until the service at 4.30, conducted by the Rector (Rev. N. Barnett). Tea followed, kindly arranged by the local ladies, after which a short business meeting was held. One new member was elected, and appreciation was expressed at the good support the meeting had received. Ringing was continued at Hawkey (8) until 7.30 p.m., ranging from Grandsire to Superlative. Thanks are due to the local bands and to the Rector of Liss for making the meeting so successful, and we have hopes of a greater success at our next meeting on February 13th. C. M. H.

SOUTHWELL DIOCESAN GUILD

Methods rung at the Mansfield District meeting at Eastwood on September 26th included Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Plain Bob, Little Bob, Double Norwich, Kent T.B. and Cambridge Surprise Major. There were also rounds and call-changes for learners.

The Rector (Rev. P. M. Caporn) presided at the business meeting, and the collection for the Bell Fund amounted to £1 9s. About 30 ringers, representing ten towers, attended.

SOME ODD TOUCHES FOR CONDUCTORS

By EDGAR C. SHEPHERD

PLAIN BOB MAJOR

In the major methods the rigidity of the course and the limits imposed by the respect that must be paid to the tenors do not make for ease in the construction of a great variety of short touches. Plain Bob Major, nevertheless, comes off fairly well in this respect, and in addition to the touches that illustrate the text books there is in 'The Ringers' Note Book and Diary' a very useful page of short lengths, some of which provide a welcome change from the formal long-course touches.

The 272 given here will make a handy addition to the conductor's collection and may suggest other variations.

In the touches of 288 and 320 appended, Mr. A. W. T. Cleaver has experimented in parting the tenors in order to bring up the Queen's Change in a short time. It does not seem likely that 3572468 can be secured in one course of reasonable length, but in the 288 it is reached in 10 leads. The music before and after the climax is not of any great distinction, and it may not be considered worth while to suffer so much for the sake of such a passing pleasure. Nevertheless, the touches can provide something a little out of the ordinary and are capable, by manipulation, of being extended to take in more 2468 music.

The Tittum position in Major has appreciable value only in those methods where the coursing order of the bells is well maintained from row to row. This is the case in Plain Bob, and it is, therefore, quite usual to find peals and quarter peals with long stretches of music with the 6th in fifths and the bells coursing down in the order 8, 7, 6. The quarter peal given here goes a step further and provides the extent of the music with 8, 7, 6 and 5 in coursing order. It will be seen that the position can be maintained only so long as the 6th is in fifths and the 5th in third's place. This means that in the particular block, calls can be made at Middle and nowhere else. Such a plan inevitably brings the 2nd into sixth's place, but this is compensated for by the quite majestic roll of 8, 7, 6, 5; and as for the 82's, we must console ourselves by remembering what one old ringer said: That a few 82's gave a fine opportunity to show how well a man could strike a little bell over a big one!

There was no real intention here of introducing blocks of peal length, but the accompanying 5,376 is so curious in the simplicity of its plan that it merits attention. Calls at Wrong and Middle are invariable, and a Single is added only when 56 are on the front at the Home. The number can be reduced to 5,152 by calling the first two courses as shown beneath, 34265 then being brought up in two courses instead of four.

The music is, of course, somewhat mixed, but at least two courses of each block have some sort of attraction. It is true, too (as Mr. Waljer Whitehead remarked when he saw it), that the coursing order is continually changing. But for the beginner it provides a very easy calling, and for the more expert plenty of practice in coursing order transposition. Moreover, it runs very well on handbells. So perhaps it offers some attraction for everybody.

GRANDSIRE CATERS

The supply of short touches in this method has, in recent years, been greatly reinforced, and there is no lack of interesting material. The two touches of 287 given here have not, to my knowledge, appeared in any book, and they are worthy of attention for the large amount of music they succeed in packing into a very small space. The first of the two is perhaps the most intriguing, for the student will readily perceive that at the eleventh lead he would have the familiar 35729486 (and rounds the next lead) but for the fact that 6 and 8 are the wrong way round. The rest of the touch, therefore, is a kind of Coda, tacked on just as a means of turning over 6 and 8.

The second touch is on the same plan as the first, and the Singles are introduced chiefly for the purpose of juggling with the heavy bells. I have set out these two touches by the leads, partly because this is the best way to present their qualities and partly to enable the interested student to perceive how much they resemble each other.

CONCLUSION

Here our little essay must end. If it should prove to be (as hoped) a handful of small delights, then it will have been well worth the trouble of preparing for presentation. Should it turn out to have offered nothing fresh, then our hope must be that it will stimulate the publication of many more little-known touches to the enrichment of the conductor's repertoire and the enlargement of our entertainment.

HERTS COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Members of the Northern District were warned at their meeting at St. Ippolyts on October 3rd that they must seek a new hon. secretary as Mr. E. G. Buck is resigning at the end of the year. The reason for this unwelcome news is that Mr. Buck has important commitments in connection with the restoration work for St. Mary's, Baldock, and feels that it will be impossible to do justice to both tasks.

During the service, held in the church prepared for the harvest festival, the Vicar (Rev. E. A. Quin) reminded the ringers that the bells were sowing seed (by their sound) with the responsibilities that implies. Miss C. Taylor played the organ.

Tea followed, and advance notice was given of the annual meeting to be held at Watford and the next District meeting to be held at Stevenage on November 7th. J. S.

THE YORKSHIRE DINNER

A PILGRIMAGE to the ancient and most beautiful City of York is always worth while if only to stand in wonder and almost awe to admire the glorious lines of the Minster, that wonderful church built on the site of the Holy Well where King Edwin of Northumbria was baptised by Paulinus over 1,300 years ago.

It is one of the finest examples of pure Gothic architecture in the world, and Yorkshiremen are justly proud of their heritage. Unfortunately, to-day, the west front is shrouded, as it has been for several years, in a mass of ugly scaffolding, which prevents those who view the building for the first time from appreciating its true beauty.

In spite of the 'splints,' however, the bells can still be rung, and on the occasion of the Yorkshire Association's Annual Dinner many visitors availed themselves of the opportunity to try their skill in ringing on this, not by any means the easiest ring of twelve in the country. It is sad to reflect that since their restoration by that great bell lover, Canon Nolloth, these bells have not yet been rung to a full peal. Local conditions, surely not insurmountable, have prevented this.

As the writer stood in the precincts, listening to the stately tones of this noble ring, he dreamed of the happy day when the restoration of the stonework was completed, the scaffolding removed, and the successful accomplishment of a peal of Stedman Cinques. Too much to hope for? The Yorkshire spirit which produced such a building is surely big enough to overcome present difficulties. So we shall go on hoping that the happy day will arrive, and soon.

Typical Yorkshire warm-heartedness was in evidence at the dinner at the Windmill Hotel, where a company of about 120 enjoyed an excellent meal. The 'Windmill' has been the scene of many such occasions—indeed, the first ever of the Yorkshire Association dinners was held there. President Archdeacon Ellison, bedecked with what he described wittily as 'hardware' (the President's badge), controlled the proceedings in fine style. He is a powerfully built man, and is so able to carry the weight of metal he has to wear. It was noted that it had been suitably polished for this important function!

Mr. Gorden Benfield, of Pudsey, Treasurer to the Association, made a very clever and witty speech when he proposed the toast of 'The Church,' and his stories, particularly the one about B.A.I.K., were well received. The Bishop of Pontefract, who replied, impressed all by his sincerity and appreciation of the work of ringers. So, too, did Canon Tardrew, a faithful stalwart who never fails to attend the Yorkshire dinner. His words made a profound impression, particularly when he quoted the words, 'He maketh the deaf to hear, and the dumb to speak.' He was referring to the silent towers up and down the country. The toast to 'The Memory of Jasper Whitfield Snowdon and Past Officers of the Association,' was suitably honoured in silence.

Miss Iris Lemare, making her début as a speaker at ringers' gatherings, proposed the toast of 'The Visitors,' and proved to be a most entertaining and clever speaker. We shall hope to hear much more from her in the future, for she dealt with her subject in quite a new and attractive style.

During the handbell ringing an almighty crash occurred somewhere in the building, which brought the ringing to an untimely end. Investigation having proved that the roof had not fallen in as was feared, a fresh start was made, and a successful conclusion was reached.

The work of organising functions of this kind is not easy, but Mr. Harold Walker, ably assisted by Miss Margaret Wilkinson, made the arrangements, and both are to be congratulated for their efforts, which resulted in a most successful and enjoyable function.

Miss Monica Collins, who has been prominent for many years in the Guildford District and held various offices in connection with St. Nicolas' Church and the District, left last Saturday for Australia. A former health visitor of the Surrey County Council, she is continuing her nursing profession in Victoria.

The conductor of the peal at Wallington (see page 646) was J. Richard Castledine, and not as printed.

Dr. D. A. Kirk, of Cranleigh, has resigned the secretaryship of the Guildford District of the Guildford Diocesan Guild. He has accepted a new teaching appointment at Lincoln.

Mr. H. N. Pitstow left by air this week for Rhodesia, for the wedding of his daughter. He will be away from England for about three months.

Mr. Frederick W. Brinklow, who rang his first peal at Elstree in 1901, returned to the tower on October 31st to participate in a peal of Norwich Surprise Minor in honour of the 75th anniversary of the founding of the Herts County Association.

Mr. Norman Chaddock has been requested to give talks to church groups at Clay Cross (6), Derbyshire, and Penistone (8), Yorks, with a view to the formation of new bands. Demonstrations on tower and handbells will be given by Rotherham ringers at these talks. Both of these are silent towers.

Mr. P. A. Corby has received a letter from Mrs. Carpenter, the widow of the late Dean of Exeter, in which she says: 'I do want to send my very grateful thanks to you and all the members of the Devon Guild of Ringers who rang the peal in the Cathedral in memory of and thanksgiving for the life of my late husband. It was a very kind thought and I do appreciate it very much.'

BELFRY GOSSIP

By special arrangement, a group of about 12 young people who hope to form a band at Christ Church, Dore, near Sheffield, visited Rotherham Parish Church to see the bells rung on Sunday morning, November 1st. The visit stimulated their interest tremendously. Dore has been without a team of ringers for many years, and steps are now being taken to train one.

Mr. Arthur V. Pearson, of Wombourn, rang his 700th peal at Brewood on October 28th. His list includes 91 different Surprise methods.

'The Belfry,' the popular quarterly of the Maidstone District, has completed ten years of active life. Our congratulations. There is always something interesting in this publication.

The well-known College Youth, Mr. Ernest G. Fenn, and Mrs. Fenn, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on September 6th. At Putney a quarter peal was rung in honour of the event.

The peal at Harthill on October 31st was rung by the Rotherham Parish Church company who have done much during the past two or three years to get Harthill company going after years without ringers.

Personal congratulation to two of the band was an additional footnote to the peal of Little Bob Royal at Wakefield Cathedral on October 17th—to David Cubitt, on being admitted a solicitor, and to David Atkins, on 'passing out' as a doctor.

A talk and a demonstration on tower and handbell ringing were given by Mr. Michael E. Brown to Sapcote Young Wives' Group on Oct. 20th, which was much enjoyed. Alas, the next morning, Mr. Brown found he had lost his voice, which necessitated a visit to the doctor and receiving treatment for laryngitis.

LONDON, E.1.

ST. NICHOLAS', GREAT YARMOUTH, BELLS RING AGAIN

THE great and famous Church of St. Nicholas', Yarmouth, in area England's largest parish church, lay dead and desolate from its destruction in 1942, until just two years ago. Then a great work of restoration began. A thousand tons of rubbish were dumped in the nearby marshes; 22,000 square feet of reinforced concrete floor were laid; all the calcined stonework was replaced; the enormous roofs were completely renewed in Canadian cedar, copper-covered; and a great ring of bells and a clock were designed, to take the place of those destroyed.

The many months of preparation of clock and bells were crowned with triumph on October 31st. That day about 270 ringers gathered together. A thousand chairs had been lent to the as yet unfurnished church, but the 2,500 people present included of necessity a large crowd standing, in the nave, for the choir alone easily seats 1,000.

The service began at 2.15. After the National Anthem and the 'Ringers' Hymn', by the Rev. W. G. Bridge, Gilbert Thurlow (the Vicar) recalled how the clock had stopped when its works were burnt at 2.35 a.m. one terrible night in 1942. After prayer, the president of the Central Council (Mr. F. Sharpe) read from Haggai ii, 9, '... the latter glory of this house shall be greater than the former. . . .

'HISTORY TO BE MADE AGAIN'

During a hymn, a procession wended its way round to the belfry door, up the long stairs to the transept roof, along to the tower and up to the ringing chamber—now bare of its ancient peal boards, long since destroyed, but bright and clean and waiting for history to be made in it again. There stood the local band waiting—including men who had since 1942 longed for this day, and others who had come to live here since then. The B.B.C. were ready for their 'mike' to record the first ticks of the pendulum.

At the Vicar's invitation, Cdr. Applegate, Mayor of Yarmouth, said: 'At twenty-five to three on the morning of June 25th, 1942, the clock in this church was destroyed. And now, at twenty-five to three this afternoon, I rejoice, in the name of all who will see it and hear its chimes, to start this clock again.' He pulled the cord, and there was once again, in Longfellow's lovely if metallurgically-inaccurate words, 'A heart of iron, beating in the old grey tower.'

Then Mr. A. A. Hughes said to the Vicar: 'Reverend Sir, as the founder of these bells, I hand them into your keeping.' Then the Bishop of Thetford dedicated them, with the solemn words: 'To the glory of God, in the Name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost.' He handed the ropes to the Vicar, charging him to see that they be ever and only used in God's service and to His glory.

THE FIRST ROUNDS

The first rounds followed and were rung on the 12 by the local band. This includes George and Edith Fletcher, Billy Duncan (formerly hon. secretary of the Northern Branch of the Norwich Diocesan Association), Billy Harwood (formerly hon. secretary of the Eastern Branch as well as of the local company), Peter Newstead (the present hon. secretary of both), S. J. Merry (Master of the tower, formerly of Derby Cathedral) and others. It is perhaps rare on such an occasion for an assistant priest (Giles Galley) and the Vicar (Gilbert Thurlow) both to take part.

The Bishop of Thetford in his address spoke magnificently of the Church's task of preaching the Way of Life in an ever changing world. Those present included the Dean of Norwich, who had blessed the bells on June 21st at a great service, previous to their being taken up the tower. The choirs of the many churches in the uniquely-large parish combined magnificently in the leading of the familiar ringing hymns. The beauty of the flowers was all the greater in view of the absence as yet of lovely furnishings and glass. Prayers, a hymn (with a collection of £92) and the Blessing brought a memorable service to an end.

Meanwhile, an army of Mothers' Union ladies had been preparing tea for nearly 300 in the Priory nearby, where the Yarmouth monks fed their guests centuries ago. Here representatives of the Trust set up by Russell Colman, from which the bells have been given, met and talked to ringers from afar.

MANY VISITORS

The new visitors' book records ringers from Spalding, Daventry, High Leigh, Coventry, Cambridge, Blofield, Brentwood, Great Thurlow, Clare, Leeds (Yorks), Felixstowe, Lincoln Cathedral, Lincoln St. Giles', Lowestoft, Long Buckley, Acle, Saxlingham Nethergate, Chester-le-Street, Diss, Gaywood, Ealing, Thetford, Hethersett, Wenhamston, Melton, Norwich, Halesworth, Gosfield, Bocking, Grundisburgh, Braintree, Maidstone, Wollaton, Kettering, Westminster Abbey, St. Paul's Cathedral, Ipswich, Surbiton, Slough, Bedford, Radley, Newmarket, Heckington, Dickleburgh, Burston, Nettlestead, Offton, Melbourn (Cams), Great Totnam, Meriden, Carlton Colville, Beccles, Colchester, Isleworth, Loddon, Thorington, Oxford, Bromley, Teignmouth, Hoddesdon, Burwell, Amphil, Stratford St. Mary, Higham, Fordcombe (Kent), Fressingfield, Clacton, Wivenhoe, Radcliffe-on-Trent, Leicester Cathedral, Pulham St. Mary, Redenhall, Needham, Happisburgh, Meldeith and Chelmsford.

Despite this huge number, and the mere 5½ hours at disposal for ringing, everyone (I think) who had notified their intention of coming had a good ring, owing to the magnificent organisation thought out by the local hon. secretary and carried out by him, by the Master, and by willing helpers, including him who erected a telephone from the ringing chamber and also a 'mike' to relay the dedication to the congregation below. Everything was tried, from Surprise Maximus and Stedman Cinques to rounds. And now we look forward to members of Yarmouth's worshipping family joining the company of beginners who we hope will soon be learning from our local band. And when summer comes, where will you have your holiday?

GILBERT THURLOW.

VISITOR'S IMPRESSION

Mr. Claude Rush writes: From the churchyard on the north side, through tower windows, the bell chamber being well lighted, one could see some of the bells ringing. They are hung some 6 feet below the ridge of the nave roof in a wooden frame of Burmese gurgon, which is on a 16 ton reinforced concrete grillage embedded into the tower and strengthening it. Their sound now comes out of specially constructed louvres in the tower roof—not through the usual tower louvres.

The reduction of sound is such that, with all 12 bells ringing, people can carry on normal conversation in the churchyard or the market place beside which the church stands. In fact, standing in the market place at the church-end of it, the church masked by a shop, the bells cannot be heard at all above the sound of footsteps on the pavement.

These bells are wonderful for peal ringing, at any rate as far as the public are concerned, but has too much been done to them for service ringing—unless there is an arrangement like the moving louvres of the swell of an organ? A number of ringers expressed their views that way but, whether it be so or not, it seems that the installation is one which has activated much thought and planning, and that everyone concerned in it is to be congratulated.

Family's Century Of Ringing At Bletchley

Over 100 years of bell-ringing at the same church by members of one family were commemorated at St. Mary's, Bletchley, on November 1st, when the Sear memorial window in the church porch was unveiled and dedicated. The present bell-master, Mr. Harry Sear, who is 81, is among those commemorated.

The memorial takes the form of a window with two lights, depicting a bell-chamber with angelic ringers. Above is a stone tablet, inscribed:—

In Thankful Memory of Thomas Sear, 1819-1880, his sons Redan, 1861-1906, and Valentine, 1850-1920, and his grandsons Harry, 1878-19—, Fred, 1879-1958, and Walter, 1885-1958. Bell-masters and bell-ringers of this church.

A tablet in the bell-chamber itself also records the memorial.

Lord Lucas, of Chilworth, a cousin of Mr. Harry Sear, unveiled the window, which was dedicated by the Rector, Rev. Allan Campbell.

The Rector paid tribute to Mr. Harry Sear's grandfather, Thomas, who, he said, had passed on his love of bell-ringing to his sons and grandsons.

'We are here to pay tribute to the unflinching devotion and loyalty which have been shown to this church over a long period of time by the Sear family,' continued the Rector. 'It can fall to few families to have such a special privilege in serving God in one place for so long, but this opportunity has been grasped by this family and used during a whole century.' The family's record was a fine example of constant service and faithfulness.

At tea, which followed the service, Mr. R. Cadamy, on behalf of the Bletchley ringers, said the idea of the memorial came from the Rector, and a fine idea it was, too.

TWO SURVIVORS OF FIRST PEAL

Sixty years ago, in December, the first peal was rung on the Bletchley bells, and two of the ringers who accomplished it—Harry Sear and Frank Hedges—were alive today. In December this year the ringers would be trying again to ring that peal of 60 years ago.

On Monday a celebration peal of Cambridge Surprise Major (Johnson's variation) was rung in 2 hours 50 minutes by North Bucks members of the Oxford Guild, Mr. Harry Sear (treble) ringing faultlessly.

'Down-Under' Drive For Circulation

Through the initiative of Mr. G. W. Pipe, we welcome eight new postal subscribers from Australia. 'I think the standard of publication improves each week, and quite openly I say it's a darn good sixpence worth,' writes Mr. Pipe. 'If every Guild had an enthusiast like Mr. Pipe for finding new subscribers, the problems of the Editorial Committee would be less.'

The keenness of Melbourne ringers is illustrated by six of their number travelling 800 miles to ring a 6-bell peal of Kent T.B. Minor at Yass, New South Wales. This was a 'Great Adventure' anniversary peal and follows on the pioneer spirit of 1934.

SNOWDON COMMEMORATION DINNER

THE 27th annual commemoration dinner to the memory of Jasper Whitfield Snowdon and past officers of the Yorkshire Association was held at York on October 24th, the venue being the Windmill Hotel, where there has been so many happy gatherings in past years.

During the afternoon the bells of the Minster (12), St. Stephen's, Acomb (6), and the Institute of Advanced Architectural Study (6) were rung. The bells at the Institute were of special interest to the visitors as they are used by the president of the Central Council when demonstrating modern methods of bell restoration to church architects.

The president (Ven. C. O. Ellison, Archdeacon of Leeds) presided over a company of 112. He was supported by the Bishop of Pontefract (Rt. Rev. G. W. Clarkson), Canon T. H. Tardrew (Precentor of York Minster) and Mrs. Tardrew, Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Smallwood, the Rev. A. J. McMullen (chaplain of the Minster Society), Mr. L. W. G. Morris (hon. general secretary), Mr. Gordon Benfield (hon. general treasurer), Mr. W. E. Critchley (peal secretary) and Mr. Albert Sellars (vice-president, Eastern District).

After the loyal toast had been honoured and the tables cleared, the president announced apologies for absence from Mrs. Ellison, the Dean of York, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Barnett, Mr. A. Staveley and Mr. Bert Sutton. A postcard had been received from Miss Margaret Snowdon, niece of Jasper, conveying her greetings and best wishes. He also thanked the officers and members of the York Minster Society for the excellent arrangements which had been made for the dinner.

In proposing 'The Church,' Mr. Gordon Benfield said he was rather confused because when he was invited to propose the toast he assumed it was to be 'The Church and State' as in previous years, so he must be forgiven if he mentioned the State in his remarks. He said the Church had moulded the society in which people lived for many centuries. The Archbishop of York was recently asked by a school-boy: 'Is it true that the Church of England came into being at the Reformation?'. In reply, Dr. Ramsey said: 'My answer to that is to ask you a question—where was your face before you washed it?'.

The Church was often criticised; those who belonged to it sometimes scoffed at, accused of being kill-joys and of being so heavenly-minded that they were of no earthly use. The bonds joining Church and State were, he suggested, spiritual values and moral standards, learning and social reform, tradition and pageantry.

Responding, the Bishop of Pontefract thanked the ringers on behalf of the Church for all they had done and were doing in their parish churches. Church bells made a noise which went far; the clergy made less noise but their message went just as far. In England you can hardly be out of sight of a church and out of sound of bells on the Lord's Day. He considered congregations were improving; this might be news to bell-ringers!

The Bishop concluded by saying: 'We shall decay if the Church decays. Improve the Church by being God's servant, and may we always be the servants of the Church.'

GREATEST EFFECT ON RINGING

The principal toast of the evening was proposed by Mr. J. Frank Smallwood. He said it was a great honour to propose the toast because they were doing honour to some of the greatest people in the history of the art. He thought it right that their memory should be kept green and that the youngsters who came into our art should hear of them. Jasper Snowdon was a man whose name would go down in ringing history along with the names of Annable, Shipway, Johnson and Thurston. He was a great man, and his work had had more effect on ringing than that of any other man. To him we owe all the textbooks which he published. His masterpiece, 'Ropesight,' is still a classic, as is also 'Standard Methods.' After the untimely death of Jasper, his brother William carried on the work as president of the Association and arranged circulation of the textbooks.

Charles Henry Hattersley, a Sheffield man and former vice-president, made a remarkable contribution to the art. It was not generally known that Hattersley was responsible for introducing a simple turning course in Stedman Cinques, three calls only being needed in turning the bells from the Tittums to the handstroke home position.

Harry Williams, of Leeds, inspired others, and George Bolland, of Tong, did much for 6-bell ringing.

Recent losses to the Association were Canon C. C. Marshall, of quiet temperament and an ideal president, and Percy Johnson, of high integrity and who was general secretary for many years.

Mr. Smallwood had a word of advice for the 'angry' young men of today. Before joining an Association find out the rules first, and if you do not agree with them don't join! If it were possible for Snowdon to come back today, he considered he would be pleased with what he saw.

In conclusion, Mr. Smallwood paid a compliment to the University Associations. Some of them were very strong, other not so, but all tried in their own way to follow Snowdon.

The toast was drunk in silence.

'THE NEW BOY'

Miss Iris Lemare, who proposed 'The Guests and Visitors,' said she was very much 'the new boy' amongst Minster ringers. The guests were those who by their charming presence had made a happy crowd and were not ringers. The visitors were ringers from other organisations, or were married to ringers and knew the worst!

One of the first things she was told when she took up ringing was 'I suppose you know all ringers are mad.' On a recent visit to London she saw some scaffolding with a notice, without punctuation, 'Dangerous men above.' On looking up she saw it was a church tower, and naturally thought there must be ringers up in the ringing chamber. Ringing had to be learnt the hard way. Her profession took her to all parts of the country, and she thanked all those ringers in strange towers who by their forbearance had helped her with her ringing.

Canon T. H. Tardrew, in reply, thanked Miss Lemare for the most scintillating speech he had heard for some time. On behalf of the guests he thanked the Association for its hospitality, and said he had spent a most enjoyable evening. Three years ago he referred to too many dumb towers. They all knew that when the weather was bad some of the ringers might be missing and half the choir and congregation failed to appear. All should attend no matter what the weather—then what a wonderful surprise it would be if one Sunday morning the verger might say: 'There are just two seats at the back.'

Mr. Norman Chaddock proposed 'The Chairman,' and said all were grateful to the president for the way he had conducted the proceedings, not only on that evening but also at the general meetings of the Association.

During the evening a course of Grandsire Caters was rung on handbells by Messrs. Ambler, Critchley, Morris, Moreton and Smallwood.

Duets were sung by Messrs. Steele and Horner, and piano solos were given by the Rev. A. J. McMullen. H. W.

LETTERS

PEAL AT LUTTERWORTH

Dear Sir,—Had Mr. T. C. Belton first made sure of the facts, he could have avoided 'cluttering-up' the columns of an already overloaded journal. He could have retained his little joke for a more deserving case, for according to his statement it is the only bit of truth he is certain of.—Yours truly,

E. W. TIPLER.

Lutterworth.

CLUN IMPERIAL

Dear Sir,—I wish to point out that the method rung at Clun on October 10th, and published in the 'R.W.' of October 30th as Clun Imperial Bob Major, has been rung before. It is called Heddingham Bob Major, and was rung at Sible Heddingham on July 24th, 1957. The peal appears in the 'R.W.' of August 2nd, 1957, page 491. I am assuming, of course, that the method rung is C.C.C. No. 228, as printed.

I should also like to point out, for the benefit of the Peals Analysis Committee in particular, that the peal of Cambridge Royal rung at High Wycombe on September 19th has been printed twice.—Yours faithfully,

JOHN R. MAYNE.

Harrow, Middx.

TOO ABSTRUSE, PROFESSOR!

Dear Sir,—I note that some of your readers are protesting about their tour reports being cut down due to lack of space in the 'R.W.'

In view of this, does the Editor really regard the leading article for the 'R.W.', October 30th, worthy of so much space? Without wishing to displease Mr. Harold Chant, or Professor Dodge, I for one could not deduce what facts we as ringers should gain from it. I am afraid that instead of increasing the circulation of the 'R.W.' (we are constantly reminded) it may have the reverse effect, particularly amongst younger folk, who after all will be the future mainstay of the 'R.W.'

Might I add that this is a purely personal opinion, but with the interests of the 'R.W.' at heart.—Yours faithfully, H. A. MAY.

Burham, Guildford.

ANOTHER ATTEMPT AT THE EXTENT OF BOB MAJOR

Dear Sir,—This is to notify you that another attempt will be made to ring 40,320 Plain Bob Major at the Bell Foundry, Loughborough, on November 22nd, 1959.

The composition will be that used previously, and the attempt has been organised by Patrick I. Chapman, Master of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild.—Yours, etc.,

SURVIVORS OF A SILENT PEAL OF 50 YEARS AGO

Dear Sir,—You note from time to time some happenings of 50 years ago. The achievements of the present generation of ringers may put into the shade many of these records. Notwithstanding, a silent peal of Holt's Original is not so common as to pass unremarked, and the one at West Bromwich on November 20th, 1909, is still a happy recollection for Preb. E. V. Cox and myself. I doubt if there are any other survivors. The band stood as follows: Joseph Timms 1, Rev. C. C. Cox 2, Samuel Reeves 3, Rev. E. V. Cox 4, Robert Pickering 5, Alfred Rowley 6, Thomas H. Reeves 7, John C. Adams 8. With two such exact and sharp-eyed ringers as Wm. H. Godden and Tom Miller acting as umpires, calling 'Go' and 'Stand' and on the alert for the slightest wink, the quality of the performance could never be open to question.—Yours faithfully,

C. CAREW COX.

'SOME ODD TOUCHES FOR CONDUCTORS'

Dear Sir,—I regret having to point out that your compositor seems to have been in trouble over the setting out of the notation of the touches of Bob Major given on page 663 of 'The Ringing World.'

The touch of 272 should read

23456 W B M H

In the touch of 288 the headings W B M H are not relevant and should be erased. In this touch and the following one of 320 the numbers indicate at which lead in the course the bobs are called. For instance, in the 288, a bob at the second lead and a bob at the third lead will produce the course-end 64523. In the next course a bob at the first lead and a bob at the third lead will produce the course-end 3572468. And so on.

In the quarter peal, a large letter M has been printed instead of the usual dash showing the bob at Wrong.

I would add that I shall be pleased to answer any questions relating to these or other touches in the essay if the inquirer cares to write to my address, enclosing a stamped addressed envelope.—Yours faithfully,

EDGAR C. SHEPHERD.

Solihull, Warks.

FIVE FACTS ABOUT THE DEVON TOUR

Dear Sir,—I would like to point out a few facts of which your correspondent, Mr. Birmingham, is evidently ignorant.

(a) That it is customary to expect first-class ringing from a peal band on tour, which therefore is well advised to restrict its ringing to methods within its capabilities.

(b) That a peal band goes on tour for a ringing holiday.

(c) That the particular band which recently toured in Devon was invited by Mr. Aubrey Bennett, of Buckfastleigh, who personally made all the local arrangements.

(d) That the Guild of Devonshire Ringers charge a peal booking fee of 6d. per rope.

(e) That the Guild of Devonshire Ringers recently resolved that a fee of 6d. per rope, payable to 'The Ringing World' should be charged for all peals rung under its name.—Yours faithfully,

PETER BORDER.

Coventry.

MR. BIRMINGHAM EXPLAINS

Dear Sir,—It was a pleasure to read in the 'R.W.' 30/10/59, of the contribution of approximately 3s. per peal made to the 'R.W.' by the Devonshire peal touring band. I also understand that the Guild concerned has a peal levy which, no doubt, would lighten the cost of printing peals in its report. Not every Association has such a peal fee—my own hasn't—and, to many, such a tour would be an expense. No slight was intended to the band concerned, and I apologise if they took it as such. I was merely using their tour as an example of what could be. They have exonerated themselves from such a charge.

One Devonshire ringing friend of mine questioned my phrase 'in its infancy.' All that was intended was that 'scientific' change-ringing had not grown to be standard practice all over Devon, as it has in most of Britain's counties.

I wrote merely to ascertain the general feeling of the Exercise in regard to the value, the cost and the propriety of peal tours, not to pass strictures on any one in particular.—Yours faithfully,

W. BIRMINGHAM.

Slough, Bucks.

PEAL TOURS AND TOWER-SNATCHING

Dear Sir,—I would like to offer to W. Birmingham a very large bouquet regarding his comments on the above subject. I echo his sentiments wholeheartedly.

I, too, am in doubt as to whether the various peals recorded each week in 'The Ringing World' serve any useful purpose.

Probably neither W. Birmingham nor I will ever make a Peter Beresford or a Peter Stanforth, but at least I'm sure we share the same views regarding the purpose of bell-ringing.

Why, indeed, do we take hold of a bell rope in our respective ringing chambers each Sunday?—Yours sincerely,

J. W. ABBOTT.

Send, Wilts.

BOY SCOUTS' BELL-RINGER BADGE

Dear Sir,—In a recent issue, Mr. R. F. Baker gave notice of the new Boy Scouts' Bell-ringer Badge. I have here the exact details of this.

There are two badges—the Bell-ringer, for Scouts under 15 years of age, and the Senior Bell-ringer, for Scouts over 15.

The Bell-ringer Badge:—

- (1) Have a knowledge of the parts of a bell and its fittings.
- (2) Demonstrate maintenance and rope-splicing.
- (3) Be proficient in handling a bell up to, say, 6-7 cwt., to keep it in full control and be able to set it as required by the examiner.
- (4) Be able to ring a bell in rounds in proper time and to stand when ordered.

Alternative for handbells:—

- (1) Have a knowledge of the construction of handbells and their tuning.
- (2) Demonstrate as a member of a team that he is capable of giving a performance of simple tunes in harmony.
- (3) Be able to ring a pair of handbells in rounds.

The Senior Bell-ringer Badge:—

- (1) Pass or have passed the Bell-ringer Badge.
- (2) Be able to give the names by which methods are identified on different numbers of bells.
- (3) Be able to write out the changes of two simple methods, one on an odd number and one on an even number of bells, and to describe the working of any one bell in these methods.
- (4) Be able to ring a plain course in the methods in No. 3.

Alternative for handbells:—

- (1) Pass or have passed the Bell-ringer Badge.
- (2) Be able to give the names by which methods are identified on different numbers of bells.
- (3) Understand what is meant by the position of a pair of bells in plain hunting on six bells.
- (4) Be able to ring a pair of bells in either the plain course of Bob Minor or the plain course of Grandsire Triples.

Yours truly,

C. H. ROGERS.

Isleworth.

IN DEFENCE OF BOB CATERS

Dear Sir,—I cannot understand why Mr. H. Allen writes so bitterly about Bob Caters ('R.W.', October 30th, 1959). It always seems to me that Grandsire Caters is much more musical than Grandsire Triples because the 'roll-ups' are clearer. In Bob Triples and Caters they are even more obvious, and I consider Plain Bob to be the more musical. He admits that the peal at Warwick was well struck then says it was without musical virtue. The rhythmic excellence must have some musical value, surely. A method does not have to be complicated to be musical. Bob Major is far more musical than London.

Finally, if ringers did not have the desire to ring something that they have not rung before (surely the method itself has been rung for ages) we should all still be ringing rounds!—Yours sincerely,

B. STEDMAN PAYNE.

BARNSELEY DISTRICT SOCIETY'S GOLDEN JUBILEE DINNER

OCTOBER 24th was a day of great happiness for the Barnsley and District Society, when the golden jubilee dinner was held at the King George Hotel, Barnsley. Sixteen towers were represented.

Of historic interest to the Society is the adjoining photograph of the present officials, which is reproduced by permission of the 'Barnsley Chronicle.' Their names, reading from left to right, are: Messrs. J. W. Moxon (vice-president), J. R. Brearley (vice-president), H. Rusby (auditor), W. Womack (auditor), N. F. Moxon (president), H. Chant (treasurer), Canon A. P. Morley (chairman), J. W. Buxton (secretary).

The chairman (Canon A. P. Morley) presided. Speaking about the Society's jubilee, he expressed the happiness of everyone in such an important milestone in the history of the Society, but recalled the earliest use of bells in this country of calling people to warn them of floods in the Fens, or invasion, and to prayers.

Mr. Harold Chant, of Felkirk, who responded, spoke about the great men of the Society such as Potter, A. Nash, A. Panther and A. Gill, and these had been followed by their present officers.

The toast of 'Continued prosperity of the Society' was proposed by the Rev. C. T. D. Ellam (Cawthorne). This was replied to by the president, Mr. Noel F. Moxon, of Cawthorne.

The entertainment included piano duets by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Chant, popular songs by Mr. Sutcliffe, and monologues by Mr. Irvin Slack (Horbury). The artistes were thanked by the Rev. H. E. S. Meanley, of St. George's, Barnsley.

Gratefully Acknowledged

The Editorial Committee acknowledge with gratitude the following donations towards the cost of producing 'The Ringing World':—

Personal.—Salisbury Diocesan Guild, Dorchester Branch 7s. 6d., In memory of E. Roger Martin 2s. 6d.

Peals.—Harston 2s. 6d., Swavesey 3s., Lydiard Millicent 3s., Launceston 4s., North Bradley 4s., Heywood 2s. 6d., Harthill 6s., Faringdon 2s. 6d., Chilvers Coton 5s., Harston 3s., Preston 4s., Daresbury 4s., Marden 5s., Bridgend 7s. 6d. (not 1s. 6d.—correction).

Quarter Peals.—Packwood 3s., Farnborough, Hants 2s. 6d., Handsworth 3s., Studley 2s., Roydon 2s. 6d., Hilperton 3s., Dalton-in-Furness 5s., Cowbridge 5s., Corfe Mullen 3s., Anson 3s., Little Shelford 2s. 6d., Brampton 2s. 6d., Wimbledon 2s. 6d., Wells, Som. 5s., Edinburgh 5s., Whitstone 2s., Long Ashton 3s., Corston 3s., Bath 2s. 6d., Northmoor 2s. 6d.

Witton Bells Ring Again

On October 29th the lovely little six at Witton Parish Church, Droitwich, rang out across the meadows to commemorate the visit of the Bishop of Worcester to a thanksgiving service for the restoration of this 800-year-old church. The restoration includes the rebuilding of the tower parapet, thus enabling the bells to be rung once more after a few years' silence. A quarter peal was rung on this beautiful Taylor (1921) six by a band mainly from Wychbold to mark this event. The tenor was rung very nicely by a 12-year-old, who deserves congratulation, as does his 16-year-old sister who rang the treble.

ST. JOHN-THE-DIVINE, LEICESTER, THE CHURCH OF NEW CIVIC CENTRE

ST. John-the-Divine's Church, Leicester, which six years ago was threatened with demolition owing to the denuding of the population of the parish through demolition of houses in the area, has now been finally reprieved by the Lord Bishop of Leicester.

This plan, which was well under way, was postponed for an indefinite period by Dr. R. R. Williams when he became Leicester's new Bishop.

The Church, which has had no vicar for 12½ years, is now to become the church of the new Civic Centre which is planned to be built in the area.

When the demolition was postponed, the Bishop appointed the Rev. (now Canon) F. W. Pratt as resident priest-in-charge. During Canon Pratt's ministry great things were achieved there. He was succeeded 15 months ago by the Rev. W. B. Williams, from Loughborough, who carried on the good work started by Canon Pratt. The church is now in a healthy position.

This, coupled with the Civic Centre plan, has resulted in the Bishop's decision to bring it back to its former status of a parish church.

Readers of 'The Ringing World' will recall the request for signatures to a petition organised by Mr. S. Harrison, the Ringing Master, protesting against the demolition proposal and consequent removal of the lovely ring of ten bells.

On behalf of the congregation of St. John's, Mr. Harrison would like to express the appreciation and thanks of all concerned to the many ringers throughout the country who so very kindly took the trouble to sign.

A thanksgiving service will shortly be held, also the first institution and induction to the restored benefice. The people of St. John's are to be congratulated on the way they have supported the church during this long period of uncertainty.

BATH AND WELLS DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION

The half-yearly Corporate Communion of the Chew Deanery Branch was held at Easton-in-Gordano on October 25th, when some 20 ringers joined the parishioners for the early celebration. Ringing commenced promptly at 7 a.m. The Rector (Rev. J. Ramsay) was the celebrant. Breakfast was served in the Church Hall before the ringers returned to the tower to ring for Matins.

STUDLEY, WARWICKS.—On Oct. 18th, 1.260 Grandsire Doubles: J. Russell 1, J. Crook 2, Miss M. Tyson 3, R. Spray 4, J. W. Perkins (cond.) 5, K. Stone 6. For Evensong.

ESSEX ASSOCIATION HAS BEST-EVER DINNER

THE general consensus of opinion after the sixth dinner of the Essex Association, held on October 10th, was that it was the 'best ever' dinner. The Master (Mr. R. C. Heazel) presided over a company of 120, and supporting him on the top table were Mrs. Heazel, the Very Rev. and Mrs. G. E. Gordon, Dr. Armstrong Gibbs, Mr. Ernest Morris, Mr. and Mrs. H. Turner, Mr. and Mrs. F. V. Gant and Mr. and Mrs. J. Chalk.

The long 'high' table and the five sprigs, each with its own exquisite floral decoration, presented a wonderful sight to the guests as they entered the Picture Room at the Shire Hall, Chelmsford. The meal itself was all that could be desired, and long before the coffee stage there was an atmosphere of real enjoyment. Glasses having been raised in loyalty and affection to Her Majesty the Queen, the company settled themselves to await the speeches.

CHURCH AND STATE

The Master, in proposing the toast 'The Church and State,' said that one of the highlights of the office of Master was to propose this toast at the annual dinner of the Association. It was regrettable that the Lord Bishop of Chelmsford had been prevented from attending at the last moment owing to illness. It was 25 years ago, he said, when he had first proposed a similar toast at a ringers' dinner in Brentwood. The respondent was Canon Brown, that great thinker and theologian.

Art had had its roots in the Church. Throughout the ages encouragement had been given to painters, musicians, sculptors and poets. The highest price paid for a picture in recent years was for a painting with a religious theme—'The Adoration of the Magi.' Ringers made up a comparable form of art. Ringing had its roots deeply embedded in time. At the same time as being an art it was a witness for the Church.

In the absence of the Bishop, the Rev. R. C. Williams (Vicar of Wimbish) replied. The Church, he said, owed a great deal to the ringers, and they owed a great deal to the Church. Some people said that ringing was a dying art. It must not be allowed to die out. Ringers called the people to church; if they did not heed the summons it was their concern.

Mr. Williams continued that it had been a great loss to Wimbish when its tower fell. Now one of the bells was mounted in a frame in the churchyard and at service time it was struck with a wooden mallet. One of the bells formerly in Wimbish tower now formed part of the ring of eight in the next parish of Radwinter.

THE EXERCISE

The toast 'The Exercise' was proposed by Mr. F. V. Gant, the secretary and treasurer of the Association. Mr. Gant began by welcoming the visitors to the dinner who had come from Leicester, Cornwall and Kent, and continued that when the dinner committee had suggested that he should propose the toast, one or two members had eyed askance the Gant waistline! He felt that people who said that the interest in the Exercise was on the wane had only to go to ringing meetings to have their pessimism confounded. Everywhere one went the enthusiasm shown by young people was infectious. The Exercise wanted more recruits, but they had to be of the right type—ones who would stick to the task of learning to ring properly. The more experienced ringer should be more tolerant of the learners. They should be given the chance to ring their first peals with good bells.

Mr. Ernest Morris received thunderous applause on rising to reply, and said that he had had an interest in ringing from an early age.

The Exercise owed a great deal to those early pioneers who had lived in the 18th and 19th centuries. They did not enjoy modern fittings such as bells hung on ball-bearings—a long peal in those days was a test of stamina and endurance. Looking back over his life he had found the story of bells and their uses and abuses an enthralling subject. Essex was rich in antiquarian matters so far as bells were concerned: Saffron Walden possessed the oldest recorded Ringing Society. Mr. Morris concluded with several amusing tales of incidents in the life of a verger of a great town church.

THE VICE-PRESIDENTS

Mr. H. Turner, the deputy Master, proposed the toast of 'The Vice-Presidents.' The Association was very fortunate in their vice-presidents. Since the last dinner in 1958, the Rt. Rev. Hugh Gough had been elected Archbishop of Sydney and had resigned the Suffragan Bishopric of Barking. He welcomed his successor, the Rt. Rev. W. Chadwick, who is well known in Essex through his years as Vicar of Barking, also the new Archdeacons of Colchester and West Ham. The Association acknowledged the honour they have paid the Association by consenting to become vice-presidents.

Before the Provost of Chelmsford rose to respond to the toast, the Master performed a very pleasant duty. For some months the tower of Chelmsford Cathedral had been under repair. The cost runs into approximately £11,000. The Master had started an appeal fund among the towers of the Association, with the result that £43 10s. had been collected. This sum was presented to the Provost by the Master.

The Very Rev. G. E. Gordon, in replying to the toast, said that he was very grateful to the Association for their gift. The vice-presidents, he said, were a very busy body of people, and they were grateful for any help that they received from bodies connected with the Church.

He had found that one of the hardest working bodies were ringers but, unfortunately, their work was often overlooked by the clergy. The Church should take more interest.

THE GUESTS AND ARTISTES

Mr. J. Chalk, in a speech well sprinkled with quotations, proposed the toast of 'The Guests and Artistes.' Dr. Armstrong Gibbs replied in his usual inimitable style.

During the evening courses on handbells were rung by Messrs. E. Morris, H. Turner, H. Egglestone, P. Eves and D. Symonds. The entertainment was provided by Miss J. Edwards, Mr. W. Bailey and Dr. Armstrong Gibbs.

OBITUARY

MR. MICHAEL JOHN HOLNESS

Many members of the Kent County Association will regret to learn of the accidental death of Mr. Michael John Holness, aged 19 years. He was a member and regular Sunday service ringer at the Cathedral, Canterbury, and Herne.

The short funeral service at St. Nicholas', Sturry, took place on November 7th, conducted by the Rev. W. O. Langridge. The Dean and Chapter were represented by the Rev. J. L. Lawson (precentor). The president of the Cathedral company, Mr. A. B. Beresford-Jones, and many members of the Cathedral company were present, also representatives of Herne, Whitstable, Littlebourne and St. Dunstan's (Canterbury).

At the close of the service, short touches of Kent Treble Bob Minor and Plain Bob were rung on the half-muffled bells. Later in the evening a half-muffled quarter peal of Grand-sire Caters was rung by the following at the Cathedral: B. J. Luck 1, Mrs. D. A. Chapman 2, H. R. French 3, W. F. Jenkins 4, J. W. Unwin 5, T. C. Phillimore 6, D. C. Chatfield 7, T. H. Holmes (conductor) 8, R. G. French 9, D. M. Holness 10. T. C. P.

EYE, SUFFOLK, LOSES THREE RINGERS

During recent months death has removed three septuagenarian ringers from Eye.

Harry George Turner, affectionately known as 'Funny,' passed away after months of failing health, and was buried in Eye Cemetery.

Then his brother, Thomas Albert, died. Tom had rung peals at Stowmarket and Eye 50 years ago, but lately, like Harry, had confined his ringing activities to service work. Tom was cremated at Ipswich. His wife died shortly after him.

Recently, William Elijah Musk ('Rowley') died, and thus ended an illness which had prevented him from ringing for about seven years. He rang his first 720 at Dickleburgh, Norfolk, in 1901, and had rung in towers in many counties. He leaves a widow and nine children.

He was buried at Dickleburgh on October 15th, handbells being rung at the grave, and tower bells later by Messrs. G. C. Snelling, A. G. Harrison, E. Whiting, H. Dixon, H. Moss and C. Catchpole.

It is hoped that when Eye bells are back from the foundry a number of young ringers will come forward to take the place of those so sadly missed and removed by the passage of time and its consequent inevitable claims.

OBITUARY—Continued

The news of the passing of Mr. John Warrilow on October 29th, at his home in Walton Village, Stafford, at the age of 82, will be received with great regret by a wide circle of ringing friends. For 62 years he had been associated with church bells.

Mr. Warrilow was taught to ring in the village church of Ingestre, and in 1911 joined the band then ringing at the Church of St. Mary, Stafford. He was a devoted ringer here until failing health forced him to retire three years ago. For many years he was head ringer and served on the committee of the Society for the Archdeaconry of Stafford. His peal record was not large, but his work in connection with St. Mary's ringing and tower cannot be assessed. His chief thought was the ringing of the bells for service: this he thought of as part of his worship. It was with regret that he eventually had to cease active ringing.

To within the last few days of his life his interest was still in the belfry where he had rung for so many years, and he looked forward each week to learn from 'The Ringing World' what was taking place generally. Of a very placid nature, Mr. Warrilow never sought the limelight; it was his very friendly disposition that gained for him the esteem of all with whom he came in contact.

The funeral service was at St. Mary's Church on November 2nd. The Rector (Rev. D. A. Hodges, M.A.) officiated, and in his address spoke of the Christian virtues of John Warrilow, of the splendid example he had given as a leader in the belfry, and of his devotion to the ringing of the bells over a long period of years. Prior to the service the bells were rung half-muffled.

In the evening, as a tribute of respect to the memory of him who was held in affection by all who were associated with him, a quarter peal of 1,316 Grandsire Triples was rung by R. K. Mowforth 1, F. R. Wiggin 2, B. J. Wylde 3, D. Harman 4, C. Hone 5, A. E. Garbett 6, D. Friend (conductor) 7, F. Eley 8.

So passes a kindly Christian gentleman, leaving many fragrant memories. The sympathy of all St. Mary's ringers is extended to his family, and especially to his son, Richard, our head ringer. A. E. G.

MORE BELFRY GOSSIP

There were compliments to two separate weddings in the peal rung at Ringstead, Northants, on October 9th (see page 632)—to Miss Eunice Morley and her bridegroom and Mr. Bryan Cope and his bride.

The band who rang the first 'all-local' quarter peal at Danehill on November 1st would like to thank all members of the Northern Division, Sussex County Association, especially those from Turner's Hill, for their help, patience and encouragement, which made this achievement possible.

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

NEXT YEAR'S 'RINGING WORLD'

FOR probably the first time in the history of the Central Council an extraordinary meeting of the Standing Committee was held in London a fortnight ago. It had been called to consider facts and figures about the finances of 'The Ringing World' and to decide what action was necessary.

The facts were indisputable. Five years ago a rise of twopence in the price led to a working profit—that is, ignoring donations and interest—of over £800. By 1958 this figure had dropped to £101. An increase of 12½ per cent. in printing costs, remembering that in 1958 the printing bill was over £4,000, means that in a full year another £500 must be found from somewhere. Not only this, but there is general agreement that an increase in the salaries of the staff of the paper cannot longer be delayed; as one member with considerable experience in the world of business wrote recently, if they were to go to-morrow the Exercise would be lucky to replace them at twice the present cost. True the circulation is now as high as it has ever been, but the increase in the past twelve months of 170 copies weekly, welcome and pleasing though it is, cannot bridge the gap.

There are doubtless readers of 'The Ringing World' to whom the thought has occurred that the answer does not lie in increasing the price. Could not the Council subsidise the paper, for example? What about the Clement Glenn bequest? Why cannot the £3,000 pounds invested be made use of?

Superficially attractive though some or all these ideas may seem, in reality they would present at best only a short-term solution. The Council's income, for instance, comes only from subscriptions amounting to some £75 a year and from any profits on the sale of publications, and last year the total surplus was under £6. The Clement Glenn fund, capital and interest combined, would do little more than meet next year's extra costs. The investments, if realised, would admittedly tide over the next three or four years, but while the use of reserves to meet a 'once-for-all' requirement would be justifiable, to allow their gradual erosion in the knowledge that when they are exhausted the situation at the end would be no better than at the start cannot be regarded as prudent finance.

Nevertheless it was only after considerable heart-searching that the Standing Committee agreed that from the issue of January 1st, 1960, the price of the paper must be increased to eightpence. Charges of advertisements will be advanced by about 12½ per cent., but notices will not be affected. The annual postal subscription will be thirty-five shillings, against twenty-eight shillings at present. This is something less than the full increase and is in effect a return to the arrangement in force before postal charges went up a year or so ago, whereby subscription copies were sent post free. It has, however, been decided to make the same concession as on the previous occasion the price was increased, that those whose postal subscriptions (quarterly, half-yearly or annual) are received before the end of 1959 will pay the existing rate—a worth-while saving.

Behind the committee's decision was the hope that with the increased revenue the paper will again be able to stand on its own feet. In the past five years readers have subscribed nearly £1,000 to its funds. Only recently the Oxford Diocesan Guild sent a donation of £20, while not long ago the Devon Guild announced a levy on all peals rung under its auspices, the proceeds to be given to 'The Ringing World.' It is hard to find words adequately to express the thanks of those closely concerned with the running of the paper to all who have helped in this way. And yet, to one at least, it has become increasingly distasteful that the paper should appear to be imposing on the goodwill of the few. Had the Council at Southport decided in its wisdom, rightly or wrongly, to make a charge for the insertion of peal reports, this would have fallen on by far the majority of readers, but, as everyone knows, the burden at present is selective only.

The purpose of this article, however, is to deal solely with finance and not to discuss such questions as whether the general content of the paper meets the wishes of the majority of readers, or whether there is a large potential readership for whom it does not cater. These and allied matters were indeed touched on at some length in the course of the Standing Committee's deliberations and revealed a considerable divergence of opinion. One change will in any case be made. The recent installation of new machinery at the Woodbridge Press makes it possible to utilise an inch to an inch and a half of paper which at present has to be trimmed off. This may not seem much, but in fact it represents the equivalent of an additional 78 pages of reading matter in the course of a year.

Whatever criticisms may be made of the decision which has been taken—and inevitably there will be some—the committee are confident that the 'hard core' of readers, the real enthusiasts on whom depends the well-being of the Exercise as we know it to-day, will accept the increased price—not without the odd grumble, maybe—but in the knowledge that without it, and remembering that a further review of printers' wages is coming up in two years' time, the journal—their journal—could keep going only by using up its slender reserves, which amount to something like nine months' printing costs, unless some entirely new (and therefore unpredictable) source of income were to be found.

Mrs. F. I. Hairs exercised her right as the only woman member now alive of the Ancient Society of College Youths to attend the 322nd anniversary dinner on November 7th. The only lady present, she enjoyed to the full the excellent dinner and the witty speeches, and participated in handbell ringing at the close of the official programme.

Twelve ringers from Broughton, Staffs, attended a combined practice at Barthomley, Cheshire, recently.

After the peal at Stoke-on-Tern on October 31st the band were entertained to an excellent tea by Mr. and Mrs. Morgan, which was very much appreciated.

Watch scrap merchants' yards for old bells! Mr. P. Amos tells us that he has thus accumulated an octave and two different fives at a total cost of under £2.

Now demobilised from the Army, Mr. Alan Buswell, of Havant, writes that he has spent many an enjoyable hour at meetings, which was only made possible through the advertisements in 'The Ringing World.'

Mr. Herbert Barlow, now 82, of St. Mary's band, Oldham, recently underwent an operation in Oldham Royal Infirmary. His many friends will be glad to know that he is now home again fully recovered.

The late Mr. E. Roger Martin, vice-president of the Lancashire Association, has bequeathed in his will the sum of £100 for the provision of bell ropes at Preston Parish Church.

This week we record two first peals out of the ordinary. Robert F. Grisdale's was of London Surprise Major at North Mymms, and 13-year-old Malcolm Foster's was Cambridge Surprise Minor at Warsop. Both performances were on a working bell.

BELFRY GOSSIP

The six Melbourne ringers who travelled 800 miles, to score a peal on the light six at Yass, N.S.W., passed through such places as Glenmovan (Ned Kelly's district), Frying Pan Creek, Gundagai, Wagga Wagga and Gumby Gumby. The back five of Yass' bells were cast by Thomas Blews and the treble by Taylor's. Thanks are accorded to Kenneth Minchinton, the driver, and Yass ringers for their hospitality.

Mr. F. T. Jackson is thought to be the first person to 'circle' Bawtry, Yorks, tower to peals.

Mr. Morris' book, 'Tintinnabula,' will encourage the hobby of collecting small bells. One of the largest collections is in the possession of Mr. Wagstaff, of Northill, who in addition to small bells has an octave of bicycle bells.

Mr. S. Ponting, of Milford, was nominated as the new secretary of the Guildford District at Cranleigh on November 7th, in succession to Mr. D. G. Kirk, who is going to Ruskington, near Sleaford, Lincs, in the New Year.

Mainly due to the enthusiasm of Miss Margaret Ladd, members of the Kent District of the Ladies' Guild have scored a peal at Marden. The conductor, Miss D. Colegate, writes that this effort did not need conducting, all that was required was to call the bobs. A previous attempt a few months ago failed.

Mr. Robert F. Grisdale is now a member of the North Mymms, Herts, band, having learned to ring at Keswick, Cumberland. His ringing friends in the North Country will be pleased to learn that he has now rung a peal of London Surprise Major on a working bell. This, moreover, was his first peal, in which he made a very good performance and by it has achieved something of a rare feat.

322nd ANNIVERSARY DINNER OF THE ANCIENT SOCIETY OF COLLEGE YOUTHS

RECORD ATTENDANCE INCLUDED ONLY LADY MEMBER — PROVOST REINDORP SOLVES NELSON'S LAST WORDS — CORNHILL BELLS — 71 NEW MEMBERS — 'THE RINGING WORLD' HIGHEST SALE — REASONS FOR PRICE INCREASE

A COMPANY of over 200 ringers made the 322nd anniversary dinner of the Ancient Society of College Youths, held at the Bridge House Restaurant, London Bridge, on November 7th, not only a record attendance but a fitting climax to a memorable year. In the company were three old stalwarts with over 60 years' membership—Messrs. E. Fenn, J. R. Sharman and G. E. Symonds—sitting in company with 'youngsters hardly out of their nappies,' to use a happy phrase of the Provost of Southwark (the Very Rev. G. E. Reindorp).

The customary dignified entry of the Master (Mr. Wilfred Williams), escorted by the senior steward (Mr. J. G. A. Prior) and the junior steward (Mr. M. P. Moreton), gave a touch of pageantry to the proceedings. During the meal the Master took wine with those of 60 and 50 years' membership, the past masters, and finally with those with whom he had rung a peal—which seemed to be at least half the assembly. It was, indeed, a busy evening for the toast-master, Mr. Cyril Watts.

The toast of 'The Queen' was followed by that of 'The Church,' presented with a Welsh fluency by the Master. He recalled his visit the previous Saturday to Great Yarmouth for the dedication of the new ring of bells, where they all saw what had been accomplished by hard work. He gave the Rev. Gilbert Thurlow's apologies to the company; he would have liked to have been present but was tied to his very large parish.

THE SUNDAY OF THOUSANDS

Last summer, said the Master, was a good example of how thousands of people spend their Sunday, without any thought of the Church. There was a procession of thousands of cars, coaches and trains taking people to the seaside, while very many more spent the morning beneath their cars or touching-up the paintwork. Those people would not think much about the Church unless they were provided with some link which came from the distant ringing of church bells.

He knew many others who looked forward to Sunday, not as a day of worship, but because they would get double pay. There were others who would like to go to church but were afraid of ridicule. A committee had been appointed by the Church Assembly, under the chairmanship of Sir Wilfrid Garrett, to improve the relationship between the Church and the factory. A good example of this relationship was provided by the ringers.

The expected addition to the Royal Family next year was looked forward to with great interest and should bring the people closer to the Church. 'We hope it will be an occasion for rejoicing and that many peals will be rung. There are ringers who might have the opportunity of ringing at some inaccessible towers. This will be one of the occasions when everybody will know why the bells are being rung.'

There seemed to be a good influx of young men entering the Church today, and some of them were good ringers. The Bishop of Southwark had appealed to young clergy to come forward and take jobs in Southwark and Camberwell. It was only by them coming forward that the gap which existed between the Church and the people could be reduced.

MR. WILFRED WILLIAMS,
The Master as hundreds who have rung peals with him know him.

'ARMADA' HUGHES

The Provost of Southwark was at his happiest in his reply to the toast with a pointed reference to his old friend 'Armada' Hughes. He went to Portsmouth on Nelson's Day to take part in the proceedings, and some doubt was expressed as to what were Nelson's last words—'Kismet Hardy' or 'Kiss me, Hardy.' He thought a solution would be found if they looked at the 'Victory's' bell. It provided the answer with 'Kiss me, Hughes.'

When he was in St. Bartholomew's Hospital as a patient with his wife, the Provost spoke of hearing the bells of the new Cathedral (St. Paul's), where the church got its money from a whispering gallery. It was a campanological mystical sound which called back memories. What it was to have a famous name! Only England could produce names like the Ancient Society of College Youths.

The Provost said they at Southwark owed a lot to the ringers when their Bishop was enthroned, when they had more pressmen visit them than at any other ecclesiastical event. His secretary, Benedicta Whistler, when she motored him around the country never failed to point out the churches in which she had rung. On behalf of the Church he thanked the ringers for their services. They were thrilled to know that the College Youths had 70 new members.

The toast of 'The Ancient Society of College Youths' was proposed by the Rev. N. Motley, Rector of St. Michael's, Cornhill, who in his thanks wondered how some of the ringers found time to eat, as they rang for the 10 o'clock service at St. Paul's, the 11 o'clock at his church and again at St. Paul's in the afternoon.

They might have heard that their 11th bell had sheared its bearing. The City Fathers had not been over generous in meeting the cost. He approached one who said he was quite prepared to start a fund for some nice electronic bells on which they could hear the Bells of Bethlehem, and asked him if he would like it. Apart from the fact that he objected to anything ersatz, he remembered that there was the Ancient Society of College Youths, and if electronic bells were introduced he could not remain Rector of Cornhill. He was still waiting for that City Father's subscription for the new bells.

The hon. secretary (Mr. John E. Chilcott) in his reply expressed the Society's pleasure in having Mr. Motley with them as their guest, as he had been a source of great encouragement to the Society by the energetic way he was getting the bells restored. They looked forward to the time when he had his bells ringing again.

The secretary read apologies from the Rev. Gilbert Thurlow, Messrs. J. T. Dyke, L. Derrick, W. A. Marsh, Richard W. Stannard (aged 90, joined 1890), Harry Miles, F. E. Hansford, W. A. Osborn and Alan R. Mcadonald.

A RECORD YEAR

The past year could be described as a record one. They had that evening a record attendance of over 200 members and friends of the Society; they had made a record number of new members, and in addition the number of peals rung was above average.

Practices had, however, suffered by the curtailment of ringing at Cornhill and in latter months at St. Paul's Cathedral, but the ringing had been of a progressive nature and at the practices the standard had been a high one.

They had a country meeting at Worcester on May 2nd, when they had a very enjoyable day, thanks to the services of Messrs. Cartwright and Hemming, and on July 25th they visited St. Albans, where Mr. Arnold made excellent arrangements.

That year they had made 71 new members, which was almost double the number for last year. They came from 28 counties, and in addition there was Mr. Nelson Sloan, of Christchurch, New Zealand. Mr. Sloan came on a six-months' holiday to this country, and most of his holiday was devoted to ringing, and when he was told he was eligible for election to the College Youths, which was just before he returned to New Zealand, he told him that it was the highlight of his visit.

During the year 23 peals were rung, against 16 last year. There were eight peals of Major including one at Bolsover and the first for the Society of Glasgow Surprise Major; five peals of Stedman Caters (including one at Southwark for the new Bishop), three of Royal (Gloucester Cathedral, Stepney and Prittlewell), five of Stedman Cinques (including Exeter Cathedral) and three of Maximus (including the first of Pudsey for the Society in June, although another peal was rung in July).

In the early part of the year they were offered the original manuscript of Trollope's 'College Youths' by the Guildford Guild. They were very proud to have it, and they looked forward to the time they had a central home for their books. He hoped that someone would write a history of their contemporary members.

LOSSES BY DEATH

At the suggestion of the Master, the company stood while the following, who had died during the year (not all College Youths), were remembered:—

John Bass, Bernard J. Swinson, Geoffrey Carter, Herbert W. Knight, John O. Lancaster, Herbert J. Skeet, Harry Knutt, George N. Price, Ernest J. Gladman, Mrs. A. A. Shurcliff, John Fowler, Arthur W. Gravett, George Baker, Alfred H. Pulling, Arthur B. Wiffin, Charles W. Blakey, Percy Fordham, Cecil J. Matthews, William Pelling, Sidney S. Woodburn, Cecil V. Ebberson, Robert S. F. Murphy, William Seldon, Geo. F. Hoad, Ambrose W. Osborne, Thomas Townsend, Henry J. Ranzetta, E. Roger Martin and Charles Brown.

'Visitors and Kindred Societies' was proposed by Mr. J. G. A. Prior, who gave a special welcome to the Provost of Southwark and the Rev. N. Motley. Mr. Motley's bells were at the Whitechapel Foundry, and they had every hope of ringing them again shortly. Southwark, Cornhill and Cripplegate were great names in the Society. Welcoming Mr. Peter Bond, the Master of the Cumberlands, Mr. Prior said he had not been Master long but he thought he could claim to be the longest! Other guests specially mentioned were Mr. Frederick Sharpe (president) and Mr. E. A. Barnett (secretary), of the Central Council, and also Mr. Edwin A. Lewis. 'We of the Ancient Society are very proud that the presidents of the Council have for a long time been College Youths, and for almost as many years the secretaries have been Cumberlands.'

DESCENDANTS OF MASTER OF 1685

Speaking of 'Kindred Societies,' Mr. Prior mentioned that College Youths were also members of kindred Societies. Of the last 17 Masters no fewer than nine came from outside London. In their company there were two dozen members from Oxford. He also welcomed Mr. Sam Scattergood, of the Derbyshire Society, who was a direct descendant of Samuel Scattergood, who was Master in 1685. He must have known Fabian Stedman, who was Master in 1682. Mr. L. W. Wiffin, of the Essex Association, was the sole surviving member of the band who rang the first peal of Cambridge Surprise Maximus at St. Mary-le-Tower, Ipswich, and with him was Mr. Charles Sedgley, who with Mr. Wiffin rang in the second peal of Cambridge Surprise Maximus at Ipswich.

The Rev. E. G. Turner (Rector of St. Giles', Cripplegate) in his reply said that having completed 25 years as Vicar of Cripplegate, his title had now been changed to Rector.

Mr. G. McKay, of the Cumberland and North Westmorland Association, replied for the Kindred Societies, and said his Association covered a very wide area but only contained 110 ringers and 20 rings of bells.

Mr. W. T. Cook was entrusted with the toast of 'The Ringing World,' and said, 'The Ringing World,' or some similar journal, was indispensable to the Exercise. They had had a ringing journal continuously since 1881, and since then there had been an enormous increase in the theory of their art. As they knew, with the recent increase in the cost of printing 'The Ringing World' was facing a crisis, and what they had to decide was 'what we who own the paper are going to do about it.' Were they going to let it die through their own apathy? "The Ringing World" was necessary if ringing was to function as it did today.

Mr. E. A. Barnett, who replied, said 'The Ringing World' was born on March 24th, 1911, and in the first issue there was a photograph of a young man of 28 with a splendid head of black hair, who was the then Master of the College Youths—their friend, Mr. Peck. Of course, it was very magnanimous for Mr. Goldsmith to begin with Mr. Peck, as he was an ardent Cumberland.

'ANNOYED SOMEBODY'

What did they want in 'The Ringing World'? They knew that whatever fresh appeared it annoyed somebody. He welcomed very much a letter from a clergyman, who said they did not want homespun theology but news about ringing. He did not want a watered-down edition of 'The Church Times.' Some people said the contents were not bright enough. Some urged that it should cater for the Sunday service ringers, and if it did its circulation would go up by leaps and bounds.

Other complaints were that there were too many peals, and professional peal ringers went about the country ringing for their own pleasure. 'I think I can speak in a slightly detached fashion having rung a tremendous number of peals in a short time until compelled to give up. Personally, I read the doings of other peal ringers, and I am quite certain that 95 per cent. of those who buy "The Ringing World" do. It seems to me that in certain quarters there is a very strong Puritan streak.'

CIRCULATION HIGHEST

'It is a fact that the circulation of the journal is higher than it has ever been—a circulation of 5,700 a week. As Mr. Cook said, the paper faces a crisis because of the increase of 12½ per cent. in printing costs. I will tell you the Standing Committee met this afternoon and considered the general situation of the paper. They considered three alternative ways in which they might increase the revenue of the paper, and very reluctantly decided that it would be necessary from the first issue next year to increase the price.

'We took the view if the price is increased, the increase should be one that would provide a surplus as far as could be reasonably foreseen, because we know that in 1961 there will be another review of printers' wages and also of costs. The view was taken that it was no good putting a penny on the paper and coming back in a couple of years and saying it has been very tight.

'From the first issue in January the price will be 8d. We know that it will not be popular. There will be letters in "The Ringing World," but do remember we are not putting money into shareholders' pockets. The only thing "The Ringing World" Committee and the Standing Committee are concerned with is trying to ensure as far as possible that "The Ringing World" shall continue to appear and that the Editor and his staff, inadequately paid as they are, should receive a slight increase to recompense them. I think the Exercise generally will not object to that extra cost.'

The concluding toast, which was drunk in silence, was 'The Fragrant Memory of the Masters of 300, 200 and 100 years ago.' Mr.

A. A. Hughes, who submitted the toast, said that the Master of 1659 was John Tendring, a famous composer of his time; they had no record of the Master of 1759, but in 1859 it was Matthew A. Wood, of Bethnal Green. Quite a number of ringers knew him, and he (Mr. Hughes) called his last peal in 1912. He was a great man, a first-class ringer and a steadfast character.

During the evening a touch of Stedman Cinques was rung by William T. Cook 1-2, John Chilcott 3-4, Michael V. Chilcott 5-6, Wilfred Williams 7-8, Brian D. Threlfall 9-10, Michael P. Moreton 11-12.

THE COMPANY

Supporting the Master on the top table were the Provost of Southwark, the Rectors of Cripplegate and Cornhill, the Rev. N. Earle and Messrs. J. E. Chilcott, F. C. Sharpe, E. A. Barnett, J. G. A. LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

RINGING TOURS

Dear Sir,—I sympathise with Mr. Dowse in his protest about the cutting of copy sent for publication: it really is a waste of time. An account of a 10-day tour which I submitted earlier this year appeared as a few lines in 'Belfry Gossip,' so those whose reports are cut to half a page can take what comfort they like from that!

The key to the success of any paper lies in its presentation of news, and people who take the trouble to send in reports, as Mr. Dowse says, work hard and take a great deal of time and trouble to produce first class material. This is almost invariably pruned drastically, and what is left is ironed out to a general level of mediocrity from which all humour and amusing incidents are erased.

The ordinary reader isn't interested in the rather banal reports which so often run: 'We visited . . . followed by a string of towers and the number of bells in each. This is merely a factual record which we can read in 'Dove.' If an account isn't 'live' then it isn't worth printing, as any newspaper editor will soon confirm.

The sort of person who sends reports is invariably a 'Ringing World' supporter, and I would hazard a guess, very often a financial supporter into the bargain. If his reports are to receive such cavalier treatment, then the Editor loses another contributor and a bit of goodwill as well.

We read 'The Ringing World' for entertainment as well as for news and higher mathematics, so please remember that unimaginative cutting of reports is not only the surest way to a further falling off in interest, but, what is far more serious, a falling off in circulation, which no one wishes to see. — Yours faithfully,

JOHN BRAIN.

Note.—Those who submit week's ringing tours should remember that consideration has first to be given to the general reader. They want to know whose tour. Who is Bill and Monica? In selecting tours for publication preference is given to the regular weeks of permanent or semi-permanent bodies. The printers' strike meant a deficit of 84 pages of reading matter. Had this not occurred there would have been fewer grouses. —Ed.

RECORD LENGTH OF DOUBLE NORWICH COURT BOB MAJOR TO BE ATTEMPTED

Dear Sir,—I wish to give notice of an attempt for 40,320 Double Norwich C.B. Major at the Bell Foundry, Loughborough, on Saturday, November 28th, commencing at 9 a.m., approximately.

The composition will be as follows:—

2	3	4	5	6	1	4	6
6	5	3	2	4	—	—	—
3	2	5	6	4	S	—	2
2	5	3	6	4	3	—	—
4	6	5	2	3	—	—	3
6	2	5	4	3	—	—	3
3	4	2	6	5	—	—	—
3	2	6	4	5	2	—	—
2	6	3	4	5	3	—	—
6	3	2	4	5	3	—	—
5	4	3	6	2	—	—	3
2	4	5	6	3	—	—	3
3	6	4	2	5	—	—	—
2	3	4	6	5	2	—	—

Three hobs at 3 are inserted in every course, thus parting the tenors for two courses.

Three times repeated, single for bob at 1 in last course of 2nd and 4th parts.

Yours faithfully,

BRIAN J. WOODRUFFE.

OUR PAGES AND THEIR APPEAL

Dear Sir,—One receives his or her 'Ringing World' each week to read some very interesting literature.

We open up our copy at the first page and usually find a very interesting article by a well-known ringer. We then read, I hope with interest, the peals and quarter peals that have been published, and belfry gossip. After I have read so far, I usually turn to read the notices of meetings and then accounts of peal tours and outings, etc. Last of all, and by no means least, we turn to letters to the Editor, and what do we read? One person begrudges the space allocated to him compared with the amount of space allocated to someone else. Another person then reports that he heard part of a peal—published in 'The Ringing World'—and comments that he would not have given it room in the peals column had he been the Editor.

Let us face all facts. We in general are not interested in how much space is allocated to accounts of outings and tours, or to whether a peal should have been published or not. These are both a matter of judgment for the Editor and the latter by the conductor. If a conductor thinks that the striking of a peal is good enough for publication, then let that be the end of it. If the striking is bad, then it is up to the conductor to ask for better striking or to stand the bells.

Let us not read any more of these 'bickering' letters and have the space devoted to more interesting literature, such as ringers giving information on bells and others wanting to know if there are any more bells in the country cast by So and So.—Yours faithfully,

St. Mary's, Oldham.

'HUDIBRAS' AND THE EXTREME

Dear Sir,—I was very interested to read the leading article in 'The Ringing World' of October 30th giving account of a conversation between Mr. Chant and 'Professor Dodge.' It is with great trepidation that I set pen to paper to express any views on a subject that has been studied by such a learned Professor.

Ten years ago I joined a five-bell tower, just south of Grantham, called Great Ponton, and there we used to ring a method, or rather a variation, which we called 'Hudibras.' This method was the same as what is commonly known as April Day (i.e., Plain Bob Doubles with a Grandsire single instead of a bob). The only difference between the two methods was that whereas, naturally, Plain Bob had the normal start, Hudibras had a Grandsire-type start. In other words, the 120 starts off assuming that a call has just been made.

The Professor and Mr. Chant then went on to discuss a type of call used in doubles called 'Extream.' In Great Ponton belfry there is a chart quoting 42 different extents of Grandsire Doubles, and in 32 of these extents, apart from the usual bobs, singles and plain leads, I seem to remember that a very large proportion of the lead ends were marked to be called 'E.' which, I was told, meant 'Extream.' (I was told that it was spelt 'Extreme.') I made several inquiries to find out exactly what was meant by this, but was never very successful. One person said that it was just another type of call like a bob or single, another said that it was a call by means of which a conductor could put another bell into the plain hunting instead of the treble, and a third thought it had the effect of altering the work of the bells between the lead ends. Unfortunately none of my informants are now alive so I cannot question them further on this point.

Like Messrs. Chant and Dodge, I do not think that I could be classified as an 'Old Doubles Ringer,' having only been ringing less than 15 years, so I hope that I shall not be accused of teaching my grandmothers (and fathers) to suck eggs.—Yours, etc.,

J. M. SIMPSON.

Grantham, Lincs.

ST. RUMON OF ROMANSLEIGH

Dear Sir,—The writer of the report of the S.F.E. outing in Devon at Whitsun, in 'The Ringing World' of July 10th-17th, asked for the origin of St. Rumon of Romansleigh.

I have been inquiring into the history of this local saint and find that he is identical with St. Ruan of Ruan Maj. and Min. also Polruan, in Cornwall.

I am indebted to the Rev. R. L. P. Milburn for the following information: 'He seems to have been one of a rather numerous band of Irish hermits who came to Cornwall and to Brittany, where he is also honoured, and thought to be a Bishop of Quimper.'

His fame was widespread and his bones were preserved in Tavistock Abbey, until the Abbey was sacked by the Danes.

Incidentally, I can well recommend Mr. Milburn's excellent book, 'Saints and Their Emblems in English Churches,' to anyone interested in identifying both the common and the uncommon saints depicted in our churches.

—Yours faithfully, JOHN F. CARTER.

COVEHITHE CHURCH, SUFFOLK

Sir,—The most interesting account by 'U. W. W.' of ringers at Covehithe, Suffolk, certainly brought back many memories of visits made during the summers of 1935, 1936 and 1937, and also answered a question which has puzzled me for over 20 years—why this unique place, with its one church built inside another, has not been the venue of outings and peal attempts. Although I would not care to do so to-day, I can recall more than one scramble up the crazy ladders in the tower in company with other teenage youths.

In those days the bells were chimed 'on the swing' by members of the church, under the supervision of the then Rector, the Rev. L. W. Wingfield (I think that was his name), and very well they did it. Ringing, even then, was done on only very rare occasions on account of the isolation of the place and then, as far as I recall, by arrangement with the bands at Pakefield and/or Wrentham. The tower was not thought unsafe at the time.

An interesting and well-illustrated booklet, 'History and Antiquities of Covehithe,' by John Browne, M.A., used to be available for 6d. at Wrentham Post Office. From internal evidence, this was originally written between 1872 and 1881, my copy being published by Powell and Co., of Lowestoft. The following few facts may be of interest:—

There is no church mentioned in Domesday, but in 1301 a vicar was nominated by Wangford Priory, and this monastery and its superior at Thetford were probably patrons of the living. The book gives a list of vicars from 1301 to 1710 and it is generally thought that the ruined church was the work of William Yarmouth, Vicar 1459–1494, a man of wealth. This building was 'defaced' by Dowsing, the Parliamentary Commissioner, and after the Civil War, in 1672, was partly demolished to provide material for the small church erected inside the nave, which was more appropriate to the needs and size of the place than the old building, which was 163ft. long and 63ft. 9in. wide and renowned for its stained glass before Dowsing got there.

The bells are very interesting: the treble is an ancient blank bell; 2 and 3 being inscribed: A. B. Anno Domini 1616 and 1626 respectively; 4 and 5 are apparently mediaeval, the inscriptions reading: (4) 'Petrus ad eterne ducat nos pascua vite,' (5) 'Sum Rosa pulsata mundi Maria Vocata.' Both bear shields and crosses, probably products of the Norwich foundry. The weight would be about 14-16 cwt.

Perhaps one of your more erudite readers could say whether the 'one church in another' is unique or not.—Yours sincerely,

W. E. BOX.

Harborne.

Freemasons At Liverpool

The dozen Masonic brethren who assembled at St. Nicholas' Church, Liverpool, on October 31st were unable to start for a peal of Stedman Cinques as, owing to a wedding service, time would not allow for its completion. They had the pleasure of ringing two excellent quarters on these fine bells, which left everyone quite satisfied. It is understood that this is the first time two quarters have been rung on the bells in one day.

By previous arrangements, a repast with the curate (the Rev. Ian Campbell) and Ringing Master (Mr. Lester Gray) was enjoyed at the local Masonic Hall and brought to a close a really happy day. Among toasts honoured were 'The Ringing Fraternity' and 'Absent Friends.'

THE DEVON GUILD AND TOURS

Dear Sir,—In view of the correspondence which has taken place, I feel that, as general secretary of the Devon Guild, I should like to make it clear that we are very pleased to welcome to Devon visiting ringers, whether individually or in parties. It must be remembered that we change ringers number less than 20 per cent. of the ringers in Devon and that practising the art of change ringing is consequently very difficult. We therefore look forward to the summer, when ringers on holiday make their way to our bellfries and give us a helping hand. We also like to hear our bells rung well by a band of experts such as that which rang the 11 peals last month. Our peal fees almost cover the cost of publication in our annual report and make a contribution to 'The Ringing World' funds.

Unfortunately I was not able to welcome the peal party as I had no previous knowledge of their visit, but the monks at Buckfast Abbey have told me how much they appreciated the ringing. It is, however, regretted that the peal at Wolborough was rung on a Sunday, as this disturbance of the Sunday quiet has caused trouble at one of the few call change towers in Devon, where peal ringing by residents has been welcomed in the past. In this connection I would like to endorse Mr. Norman Mallet's suggestions in last week's 'Ringing World' and express the hope that in arranging future tours one of the officers of the Guild would be contacted.

—Yours sincerely,

G. MAURICE ATKINS.

Teigamouth, Devon.

FAMILY PEALS

Dear Sir,—With regard to the claim, made in 'The Ringing World' of October 23rd, page 625, by A. R. L., peals of Plain Bob Major were rung 'in hand' by members of one family before 1915.—Yours truly,

A. F. BAILEY.

Stockport, Cheshire.

DEDICATION

Carbis Bay's Completed Tower
And New Bells

THE dedication of the completed tower, two new trebles to make a ring of ten, an additional clock face, and new curtains for both the High and Lady Chapel Altars, took place on Saturday, October 31st, All Saints' Eve, and was performed by the Archdeacon of Cornwall, the Ven. F. Boreham.

The Archdeacon, in his sermon, described the dedication service as a 'joyful and happy occasion,' and said that the beautiful tower dominated the whole area and invited everyone to worship and praise God.

The service was conducted by the Vicar, Canon I. S. Jenkins. In addition, there were more than 20 clergy present, including the Rev. W. H. R. Trewhella (secretary of the Diocesan Guild). The congregation was so large that all could not get into the church. There were present the architect, Mr. K. E. Rundell, Mr. Paul L. Taylor and Mr. Ronald Edwards (Loughborough), Messrs. P. Venn and J. Clinch (Messrs. Venn Bros., Ltd, who built the tower), A. Carveth (president), W. H. Southard (vice-president), D. Burnett (Master, Truro Guild) and ringers from as far away as Sheffield, Leicester, Plymouth and Devonshire, as well as Cornwall.

As the two new trebles, which were the gift of the Barron Bell Trust, had been hallowed at a special service in August, the full ring of ten was rung for an hour by the local band before the service. This gave all, on arrival, a splendid opportunity to hear the bells outside the church.

Immediately after the service, whilst the whole congregation of visitors and parishioners went across to the Church Room for tea, a quarter peal of Grandsire Caters was rung by a band of seven from the Diocese and three visitors, conducted by Mr. T. G. Myers, of Plymouth. This excellent and continuous ringing was very much appreciated.

After this there was general ringing until late in the evening and included rounds, Grandsire and Stedman Caters and Bob Royal, and although an attempt for a course of Cambridge Royal was amongst the best ringing of the evening it misfired.

Although ringing conditions were not quite as they will be, as the clockmakers had not finished their task, the general opinion was that this new ring is most pleasing both inside and outside the tower. Certain adjustments, now that the clock has been removed from the ringing chamber to a position above the bells, can now be made, and it is certain that this light ten will give nothing but enjoyment to those who ring them.

During the service the Vicar gave greetings he had received from the Vicar of Great Yarmouth, where the dedication was taking place at the same hour, and mentioned that he, too, had sent greetings to the Rev. Gilbert Thurlow. Carbis Bay got the first quarter peal. Which tower will get the first peal?

WYCHBOLD, WORCS.—On Nov. 8th, 1,260 Grandsire Doubles: Heather Pullon 1, Mrs. A. D. Cook (first 'inside') 2, J. E. Pullon (first 'inside') 3, A. D. Cook (first as cond.) 4, P. Cattermole 5, J. E. A. Pullon (first quarter) 6. Rung half-muffled following Remembrance Day Evensong by the Sunday service band.

FIRST MARRIED COUPLE'S PEAL OF MINOR

Dear Sir.—The first married couple's peal of Minor was not rung at Deeping St. Nicholas on October 22nd, 1959, but at Bassingham, Lincs, on November 29th, 1930.—Yours truly,
A. RICHARDSON (MRS.)

Surfleet, Lincs.

RINGING COMPETITION FOLLOWS REDEDICATION AT KIMPTON

THE first Hertfordshire ringing competition was held at Kimpton following the service of rededication of the bells by the Bishop of Bedford on October 31st.

A new tower screen in memory of the late Charles Hancock, Vicar of Kimpton from 1952 to 1958, was also dedicated at the service. Mr. Hancock was keenly interested in the bells and himself learned to ring at Kimpton. It was during his incumbency that a restoration fund was opened for the bells and in four and a half years the local ringers raised £590 for the fund. The work, which included retuning and rehangings in ball bearings, was completed in October by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank. The beautiful memorial screen, which incorporates a new ringing floor, was designed by a member of the church and built by Mr. D. Price, a member of the local band.

The dedication rounds during the service were rung by a local band, which included 78-year-old tower captain Mr. John Wells, who has been associated with the church as choirboy and ringer since the age of 16.

After the service a short touch of Kent Minor was rung by a band including the president of the Herts County Association, Mr. G. W. Debenham, and Messrs. W. Ayre and A. P. Cannon.

When the judges were safely 'locked in,' the captains of the eight teams which had entered for the competition drew for order of ringing. Each team rang 360 of Minor, own choice of method, and by a quarter to six all teams had successfully completed their touch.

Nearly 70 ringers then converged on the village school for an excellent tea, following which the Rev. C. W. Lawrence welcomed visitors. He praised the local ringers on their initiative in organising the competition, which had brought together ringers from all over the county on this memorable occasion.

Mr. J. G. Cull, in introducing the judges, Mr. W. Ayre and Mr. A. P. Cannon, said that he did not think he could say anything about these two well-known gentlemen which the meeting did not already know, except to give an assurance that they had not been visited by any ringers with refreshments during the course of the afternoon!

A tape recording was then played of Kimpton bells rung to Cambridge Minor, before restoration.

IMPORTANCE OF TIGHT ROPE

Mr. Ayre, in commenting on the competition, said that most marks were lost due to bad leads. He emphasised the need for keeping a tight rope and also said that it was not good policy to put the least experienced member of the band on the treble.

Mr. Cannon, after supporting these remarks, said that he had last visited Kimpton 20 years ago and on that occasion had cycled from Surrey. That day he had travelled in comfort and he had found the afternoon a very pleasant change from peal ringing.

Mr. Ayre, in giving the results, said that these did not really matter so much as the fact that the competition was an incentive to attain good striking, which was the main criterion in any ringing.

The teams who entered, methods rung and marking were then given as follows: North Myms (Cambridge) 78 faults. Baldock 'A' (Cambridge) 82. Apsley End (Norwich) 107. King's Langley (Plain Bob) 144. Kimpton (Plain Bob) 163. Knebworth (Plain Bob) 164. Baldock 'B' (Plain Bob) 182. Northaw (Plain Bob) 185.

The Kimpton Cup (of solid silver), which had been given by the Kimpton Guild of Change Ringers, was then presented to Mr. T. J. Lock, of North Myms, who said he felt sure that everyone who had entered for the competition had benefited by the practice necessary for such an event.

All the ringing during the afternoon had been recorded and part of the winning team's touch was then played back. Compared with the recording made before restoration the improvement in tone effected by the retuning was most marked.

A short discussion on the future of the competition brought whole-hearted support that it should continue and a small committee was formed to organise the event in 1960.

Following a vote of thanks to all concerned in making the arrangements for the day the meeting adjourned to the local British Legion Club. Here the Kimpton ringers had laid on a barrel of beer, which proved to be too small, and other refreshments. Good use was made of the handbells during the evening and teams were able to hear their afternoon's ringing played back over the tape recorder, some perhaps were a little surprised at the number of faults.

So ended, all too soon, a very memorable and enjoyable day.

Our thanks to Messrs. Mears and Stainbank for doing such a good job on the bells.

SCHOOL CHILDREN EXPERIMENT AT HONITON, DEVON

Youth is very prominent in many of our bellfries today. In Honiton, Devon, as young men were not coming forward, children were recruited for the belfry, and the experiment has been very successful. The six in our accompanying illustration, kindly supplied by the 'Western Times and Gazette,' range in age from 12 to 14 years, and they have been trained by Mr. W. Webb, the captain of Honiton Parish Church ringers, and Mr. Hodge, a member.

The children now ring regularly for Sunday services, taking their turn with their seniors. They are Janet Real, Sandra Webb, Peter Fursey, Bernard and Marcus Harvey and Peter Real. Janet and Sandra have received certificates of proficiency from the Devon Guild of Ringers.

MR. J. HALL, MIDDLESBROUGH, PASSES 60 YEARS AS ACTIVE RINGER

A presentation was made to Mr. J. G. Hall, of Middlesbrough, on October 8th, to mark his retirement from active ringing. Jack Hall graduated from the Bible class at St. Hilda's Church, Middlesbrough, to the belfry just before the end of the 19th century, and his active ringing career lasted for over 60 years. Recently, at the age of 79, he decided that he could no longer take an active part in the Exercise, and to mark the very great services rendered by him, the ringers at St. Cuthbert's, Ormesby, presented him with an inscribed copy of 'Tintinnabula.' The presentation was made by Mr. William Ellerington, who spoke of his long association with Jack Hall, going back for more than 40 years.

Although starting at St. Hilda's, Middlesbrough, Jack Hall has rung at practically every tower in the North Riding of Yorkshire, County Durham and Southern Northumberland. A joiner by trade, he worked for some time on Tyneside before World War I during the fitting out of the first 'Mauritania.' He and the late Tom Metcalfe for a long time assisted the band at Ormesby, regularly walking the four or so miles from Middlesbrough on Sundays. Since the Cleveland and North Yorkshire Association was re-formed in 1951, Jack Hall has been one of the vice-presidents, and amongst those at the presentation were the president (Mr. T. M. Cox), the treasurer (Mrs. Laura Warrior) and the secretary (Mr. P. W. B. Semmens).

A bouquet of flowers was sent to Mrs. Hall as a token of appreciation for the many hours she had spent at home while her husband was away ringing.

In spite of thick fog and the excitement of election night, a reporter and photographer from the 'Middlesbrough Evening Gazette' attended the presentation, and we are indebted to this newspaper for our illustration.

NORWICH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION

Close on 30 ringers attended the Northern Branch meeting at Coltishall where, with Mr. A. G. Bason, the following belfry nominations were ratified: Messrs. D. A. S. Hawkins, W. S. Deason (Hampton), C. M. R. Orme (Hitchin), R. G. Leale (Surbiton), A. E. Ruston (Luton), P. Mehew (Stotfold), M. J. Palmer (Hillingdon), M. D. Fishwick (Milnrow), R. H. Cook (Asfordby), K. D. Waples (King's Langley), D. Cooper (Bolsover), R. Withyman (Pinchbeck) and Mrs. M. Roast (Danbury). J. B. Gardiner (Lessingham Manor) was elected a ringing member, R. Bradbury and J. Young (Coltishall) probationary members, and J. Copeland (Norwich) an honorary member.

The president (Mr. F. N. Golden) paid a tribute to Mr. C. V. Ebberson, who died on October 1st, and members stood in silence.

It was decided to hold the annual Branch meeting in Norwich on January 9th at St. George's, Colegate (6), before tea, and St. Peter Mancroft's in the evening. 'Norwich and Westminster Surprise were chosen as the methods to be practised.

Thanks were expressed to the Rev. J. Fellingham for conducting the service, to Mr. W. J. Allen for playing the organ, Mesdames Eglington, Gibling and Bates for serving tea, and the churchwardens for the arrangements made.

To record the pleasure of the local band at the improvement in the health of the Vicar (the Rev. R. J. Siderfin).

DURHAM AND NEWCASTLE ASSOCIATION

'Key trouble' delayed the start of the meeting of the Southern District of the Durham and Newcastle Association at Gainford, Co. Durham, on October 31st. When the key was at last located there was still more delay while the chiming apparatus was adjusted.

There was a good gathering of members with visitors from Tees-side, the North and West Ridings and from Durham University. Methods rung included Plain Bob Minor, Grandsire and Stedman Doubles, Cambridge Surprise, Kent and Oxford T.B. combined, Single Oxford and Forward.

The Vicar (Rev. I. Samuels) was away for the afternoon, so there was no 'service', but he called at the Queen's Head during tea and made his apologies, and visited the tower during the evening, expressing his pleasure at hearing the bells ringing again.

At the business meeting the District vice-president (Mr. F. W. Cooke) congratulated his predecessor, Mr. T. Cooke, on his election as president of the Association.

Mr. Eric Thompson, of Heighington, was elected a member, and the next meeting—a joint event with the Cleveland and North Yorkshire Association—was fixed for January 16th at Stockton.

OXFORD.—On Nov. 8th, at the Church of St. Aldate, 1,260 Plain Bob Minor: Jean M. Addicott 1, Stella Tridall (first of Minor) 2, J. Venn 3, R. Aldworth 4, E. Venn (cond.) 5, R. H. Jones 6. Rung half-muffled for Remembrance Sunday Evensong.

College Youth's Daughter's Heroism

Congratulations were extended on Monday by many ringing friends to Mr. A. B. Peck, the veteran College Youth, on the heroism of his daughter, Miss Doreen Peck, a teacher with the C.M.S. Mission in the Belgian Congo. Miss Peck, a graduate of Bristol University, was with a nurse, Miss Josephine Stancliffe, at Ruhengeri when it was attacked by Bahutu tribesmen. They led their people in prayer on the Saturday night before the attack, which was repulsed, the mission defenders shooting rocks with slings and, to quote a correspondent, 'hacking back in a howling, writhing mêlée.'

Miss Josephine Stancliffe motored alone for help, and later Doreen, with Dr. Harold Adeney, who had arrived at the Mission, led the refugee convoy over the border into Uganda. Commented one of the rescuers: 'Josephine and Doreen saved those hundreds of Watutsi.'

OBITUARY

MISS S. NOBLE

On Sunday morning, September 27th, Miss S. Noble, a 73-year-old member of the Cumberland and North Westmorland Change Ringers' Association, collapsed in the Church of St. John, Cleator Moor, and passed away in the early hours of the following morning. The Vicar (the Rev. W. A. Batty), whose induction took place three days earlier, said at the funeral service that no one could wish to die under better circumstances, her last act being the partaking of Holy Communion.

MR. T. OWEN

With deep regret we report the passing away on November 1st of Mr. T. Owen, Newlands, Johnstown, Carmarthen, aged 65, an esteemed member of the St. David's Diocesan Guild. Mr. T. Owen commenced his ringing career with the Llanstephan band, and for the last 14 years was a valuable member of St. Peter's, Carmarthen, band of ringers.

The sympathy of the Guild is extended to Mrs. T. Owen and only child Mrs. Livesey.

W. L. W.

LLANDAFF AND MONMOUTH ASSOCIATION

The Monmouth Branch quarterly meeting was held at Rumney on October 17th. Many Minor and Doubles methods were rung on these very pleasant bells.

Assisting Canon C. K. Lewis (Vicar of Rumney) at the ringers' service were the Rev. Ivor J. Richards, Rural Dean of Raglan, and Mr. Ron Lucas, lay reader.

An excellent tea was served in the Church Hall by Mrs. Griffen and her helpers, who were warmly thanked by Mr. F. Hannington.

At the business meeting two new members were elected from Caldicot—Miss Enid Evans and Miss Barbara Porter. Progress was reported from Caerleon and Llangibby.

Usk was chosen for the annual Branch meeting. Mention was made of the Branch dinner, to be held on the last Saturday of January at the Tudor Rooms, Newport.

SOME AUTUMN OUTINGS

S.F.E. AUTUMN TOUR, 1959

Thanks to removals, holidays and liberal employers, the Society of Friends of the Exercise (S.F.E.) were able to commence their September week-end with a good peal of Stedman Triples at Littleham, S. Devon (8, 8½ cwt.), on September 25th, conducted by Reg. Hooper.

Meanwhile, the remainder of the party had assembled in East Budleigh. After the usual formality of drinking the founder's health, they were all deposited with kindly villagers for two nights' 'b. and b.' Next morning motor-cycles were left behind, thanks to Harry Luxton and George Ellett, who not only accommodated people but put their cars in the 'transport pool' and went along to join in the ringing.

Eventually, by devious routes, vehicles arrived early at Jacobstowe, and set an unprecedented pattern for the day. 'Whaddever do'ee wanna ring 'ere vor?', was the greeting. Apart from the novelty of a 'J' tower, the bells (5, 6½ cwt.) were well worth ringing and sufficient answer to that question.

Onward then to the beautifully-kept church at Black Torrington, to ring sundry methods on a very fine six (8½ cwt. in F sharp!) and meet the Rev. J. G. M. Scott, who also joined the party at Buckland Filleigh. There the church nestles close to Buckland House (now a preparatory school), and it was necessary to go through the organ to reach a neglected ringing chamber. With a tenor sally that almost touched the floor, this five (7½ cwt.) presented the biggest challenge of the day.

Lunch was taken in the New Inn, Shebbear, before the village bells (6, 10 cwt.) were set going. A young band is learning change-ringing under the guidance of John L. Queen, and some of them rang with the visitors. Later, at Petrockstow (6, 10 cwt.), a local call-change ringer was heard to prefer 'Queens' to 'scientific,' which could have been better.

Another outpost of 'scientific' was found at Petersmarland (6, 9 cwt.), where the ringing was better. 'Two smart peals only' were remembered from the 1956 S.F.E. week, over tea in Great Torrington.

Next, the church at Little Torrington was located easily by all except the S. Devon native. The bells there were the heaviest six of the day (12 cwt.).

Before ringing at Iddesleigh (6, 10 cwt.) there was time to halt en route at Merton and listen to the Down St. Mary team ringing a competition 'peal.' This was an enjoyable interlude of good striking.

At the end of the day Broadwood Kelly bells (6, 9½ cwt.) sounded well before the last Ring of Bells at Winkleigh was visited for supper. Here and elsewhere the community singing lapsed into something of a 'wild west show.'

Sunday, September 27th, dawned fair and bright to the sound of the usual S.F.E. quarter peal attempt at East Budleigh going its usual way—wrong! For mattins, the party split—15 to Sidbury (8, 16½ cwt.) and one to Topsham. Later, three people bathed properly in the sea, and one young man imitated King Canute—his trousers dried quite quickly though.

During the afternoon members met Mr. and Mrs. George Cross at Chardstock (6, 13 cwt.), and rang St. Ambrose T.B. Minor—an irregular method which produced corresponding ringing. Finally, after tea, Chard bells (8, 23 cwt.) were rung to D.N.C.B., London, Spliced Major, etc., before Evensong and the party dispersed.

Grateful thanks go to those who allowed the S.F.E. to ring their bells and to the local ringers who welcomed them: also to the clerk of the weather and the organisers. We'll be back next year, Devon—here's to the next time.

'SUNBEAM.'

DAY TOUR IN SOMERSET

On October 24th a small party of ringers from Twerton-on-Avon and friends had an enjoyable day in Central Somerset.

The first tower was Kingsdon, where we were met by the Rev. R. Eglin. The bells are a glorious heavy six (tenor 24 cwt. in D) hung on ball-bearings, and we were sorry to hear from the Rector that the bells were not rung very often now. At Long Sutton Mr. Lewis greeted us, and Mr. E. T. P. Field joined in Stedman Doubles on this lovely ring of five (tenor 17½ cwt. in E). There was an abrupt ending to the ringing at Langport (6, tenor 17 cwt. in F) when the slider came out of the second. This was quickly put right by Mr. Locke.

After lunch we visited Othry, with its anticlockwise five (tenor 18 cwt. in E) of good tone, and Lyng, with a ground floor ring of five (17 cwt. in E) which were rehung by Mears and Stainbank four years ago. The Vicar (Rev. A. Ereaut) showed us around the lovely old church.

The light five at Durston provided variety; they are the front five of a ring of eight. 'Dove's Guide' gives the tenor as 13 cwt., but the bell is only 36 inches across, so we thought 8 cwt. was nearer the mark.

The next tower was Thurloxton, where Mr. E. Mills greeted us. The five (tenor 6½ cwt.) were rehung last year by J. Taylor and Co., and are a pleasure to ring. Mr. E. Mills pointed out that the third was cast in 1300. Lastly, Shapwick, where Mr. E. Skinner was waiting for us; the bells are a very good six. The ringing ended with a good fall in peal. A. F. L.

AN OUTING TO MID-KENT

A mixed band of ringers produced some very mixed ringing while visiting Kent on October 3rd. The six bells at Ash-by-Wrotham, the first tower, were found to be rather awkward, but there are hopes that they will be rehung. Reg Sills met the party and joined in some Cambridge at Wrotham, having one of the county's best octaves. Before lunch, visits were paid to Yalding (6), with its very long sallies, the Bowell eight at Marden, and Headcorn, having a heavy-going ring rung from the gallery.

Unfortunately, after lunch, justice was not done to the excellent eight at Frittenden; Benenden will be remembered for a respectable lower in peal—Rolvenden for a fast course of Yorkshire. Tenterden's bells were too heavy for the band and the party were unable to produce anything good except a plain course of Grandshire.

The evening's programme included Hawkhurst, where a fair course of London was rung; the delightful new Mears six at Kildown; Goudhurst, a rather odd-struck octave; Horsmonden, where Bristol went well; and Brenchley. The band extend thanks to all who helped to make arrangements for the outing.

I. H. O.

CLITHEROE, LANCs

Knowing Clitheroe ringers, it was not surprising that several guests joined them for their outing on October 24th, and there were ripples of merriment throughout the journey. After ringing on two sixes at Silverdale and Milnethorpe, a slight delay arose over a misunderstanding of the term 'Refreshments to suit all tastes.'

At Cartmel's lovely Priory there was a reunion with Mr. J. Blackburn, and at St. Martin's, Bowness, most methods attempted, including London, were rung. A sandwich lunch was partaken of before proceeding to the enjoyable eight at Ambleside. This was followed by tea, and ringing on the light eight at Hawkshead, where the Vicar joined in the ringing. The vote of thanks to those who contributed to the success of the outing must include one to Mr. A. Capstick.

EWELL, SURREY

The increasing popularity of the Cotswolds as an outing resort will have become evident to readers of 'The Ringing World' this year. The Ewell ringers were therefore in the fashion when they rang at six, 8-bell towers on September 26th.

Arriving at Hook Norton 20 minutes early (as is their wont), they were allowed to commence ringing straight away, thus getting in more than their allotted time on these splendid bells (tenor 20½ cwt.). Mr. H. V. Young, Ringing Master of the Leatherhead District, was there, however, before the party, and his steady influence was appreciated at this and subsequent towers. The ringers were also pleased to have the company of former Ewell ringers George Hill, from Penn, and John and Marjorie Hill, now attached to Hillingdon.

At Chipping Norton, the highest town in Oxfordshire, the church was being decorated for harvest festival, under the supervision of the Vicar (Rev. R. Jeans). Being a native of Epsom (Christ Church), a happy reunion took place with several amongst the party from that tower.

Lunch at Moreton-in-the-Marsh had to be partaken in two sittings. The ringing afterwards helped to advertise the collections being taken by the Rector for the church and bells.

Mr. Ewins, at Stow-on-the-Wold, kindly showed some of the non-ringing tourists the wonderful views across seven counties from the top of the massive tower, which seemed to emphasise the impression of compact spaciousness characteristic of this area. The bells (tenor 27½ cwt.) were rehung five years ago.

The church at Bourton-on-the-Water though mainly modern, like many of the other buildings in this charming village, goes back into history. The square tower of 1795 has a diamond-shaped clock face and is crowned with a cupola, while at each corner stands a small urn.

Tea was enjoyed at the Devonshire Tea Gardens close by the River Windrush. The time spent in this lovely place soon passed: some went to the flower show; others looked at the model village or the bird garden, the latter being an estate two acres in extent, in which are to be seen not only many rare trees and flowering shrubs as well as flowers in profusion, but also a fine collection of exotic birds with gorgeous plumage. Here are toucans, macaws, cockatoos and lovebirds, lories, gouldians and budgerigars; there are even cranes and penguins.

It was difficult to get the coaches away on time, especially as the party was large, 76 in all, comprising 14 Ewell ringers, 12 other ringers, 32 parishioners and 18 other friends.

Some of the less expert found one or two of the bells at Shipton-under-Wychwood a little less easy to manage than those to which they were more accustomed. In spite of this, good use was made of them and several good touches were brought round under the spire of this large Early-English church.

Within easy walking distance stands one of the most attractive inns in the district, a fine example of the intelligent blending of ancient with modern. The travellers discovered this hostelry with satisfaction, demonstrating in a sober way their ability to take pleasure in interests other than ringing.

THE RABBITS GUILD

THE third Annual General Meeting, held on Saturday, October 3rd, the eve of St. Francis, Patron Saint of Animals and of the Guild, was addressed by the Master in these words: 'So great an attendance of members, filled with enthusiasm, is to me the final satisfaction which completes a year of brilliant progress. No longer can the Guild be dismissed as a joke, worthy at the most an indulgent smile. Its foundations were laid by dedicated rabbits of wisdom and vision, and on those foundations the Exercise cannot fail to perceive a noble edifice rising. The Rabbits' Guild has won not only respect, but admiration, for its labours on behalf of the depressed class of ringers, the failures. It can no longer be ignored (loud cheering). Ever a modest man, as befits the Master of this Guild; I will not claim that my voice is heard as clearly as that of the Master of the College Youths, but it is audible, quite audible, and it shall be heard louder and more authoritative as the years pass!'

On a more earnest note, he continued: 'Now I come to perhaps the most important thing I have to say. From the inception of the Guild, it has been implicit in all our aims and activities that, lamentable though our ringing is, it is the best we can do. We Rabbits know, of course, what has kept us plodding on. Sunday by Sunday, year by year; and, while we are militant in the defence of downtrodden and despised rabbits in any belfry, we cherish, too, our record of faithful service. This is perfectly understood, naturally, by all our members, but that the meaning of our activities in the belfry may unequivocally be known, in future a declaration of active churchmanship will be asked of all intending members, if you approve the proposals soon to be put before you.'

The Secretary's report was received with satisfaction and adopted, but it was judged wiser, for this year at least, not to publish names or statistics which might lead to reprisals by unregenerate Ringing Masters. The report drew attention to the heavy burden borne by the panels of rabbits who so generously give their time and travel over the country, attending towers for instruction by Masters seeking admission to the Roll of Honour. Many members volunteered to join in this work. In this connection, the report emphasised the criticism of the panels, that the most constant fault of these instructors is their slovenly way of allowing the development and fixation of bad habits, to the lasting impediment of their pupils and the production of an endless supply of rabbits. Conscientious attention to the early stages makes up for much lack of innate teaching ability. It was agreed that a set of 'Hints for Instructors,' coming from this quarter, would be of inestimable benefit.

The continuing necessity for secrecy was debated, and on a large majority indicating their willingness, indeed eagerness, to profess their membership openly, it was decided that the Guild's badge need no longer be worn next the hair shirt, but may be displayed openly, at members' discretion. It is expected that the device of a Rabbit Trippant, with its motto 'Dum in mundo tundo' (While on earth I bash), will now become a familiar sight wherever ringers gather.

Further applicants for membership of the Guild will be required to sign a declaration in the following terms:—

(1) I have applied myself to learn to ring for . . . years. In spite of earnest and constant endeavour, any progress I may make is practically imperceptible.

(2) I have not rung a peal. (Alternatively, I have rung no peals except the tenor covering.)

(3) If elected, I will (a) be a loyal churchman, (b) support and strengthen the brotherhood of the Guild, and the wider brotherhood of ringers, (c) punctually attend service ringing and practice night, unless for good reason, (d) attempt to obey all reasonable orders in the tower, (e) not despair.

On a proposal that the Guild apply for representation on the Central Council, it was decided to take no action for the present, having regard to the peculiar functions of the Guild, and information that the Central Council is likely to seek its advice. The Guild would welcome the services of an official chaplain, but is naturally and properly diffident about making an approach which might be misunderstood. It would be glad to receive offers from eligible clergy.

In recognition of his feat in bringing round the Cambridge which a member of the Guild failed to wreck, the first Honorary Life Membership was conferred on Mr. A. York-Bramble. Other distinguished ringers may be proposed for Honorary Life Membership if they appear to have deserved election.

The ringing which followed the meeting suffered inevitably for lack of a conductor. The Master, with characteristic resource, seized the treble for Bob Minor and called 'Bob,' as often as he remembered, when he seemed to be approaching lead. The bells did not come round, but as they were being rung with clappers tied, for the sake of the public, and as an example to some other ringers, this was of little moment. T. B., Master. The old tradition of mixing Christmas puddings in time for 'Stir-up Sunday' was observed by an unsuccessful peal band in an Aldershot ringer's home last Saturday. An attempt for Superlative on Aldershot bells before being 'boiled up' was lost after two hours and ten minutes. It is easy to guess what the wish would be had the band had a stir.

The peal at Silverdale, Staffs (page 685), was rung on Saturday, October 31st.

Mr. R. Hobbs rang his 50th peal at Gamston, where he rang his first peal.

Information has reached us that a band of ladies is to attempt a 'same name' peal early in December.

Mr. A. Wrigley, of Chatham, was among those who attended the dinner of the Ancient Society of College Youths.

The bells of St. Nicholas', Carrickfergus, Co. Antrim, are to be silent for an indefinite period. There is a likelihood that the tower may have to come down and be rebuilt.

Mr. W. Viggers has postponed the publication of his calendars of noted towers to next year. He has received many appreciative messages in connection with his Christmas cards.

We regret that we were misinformed that a quarter peal was rung at Putney for the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Fenn. 'Please, no more Putney surprises!' writes Mr. A. Clayton.

After Parish Communion at Chobham on Sunday, November 15th, the Vicar (Rev. O. R. Acworth) presented Mr. G. Talbot with a 'Delight' record book, on behalf of the Chobham ringers, as a token of their esteem. Mr. Talbot has now moved to Devon.

Of the 25 peals rung at Chobham since 1892 11 have been rung since the present Vicar took office. So far, none has been Surprise.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Several of Mr. Joseph W. Cotton's Irish tour party had a reunion at Loughborough on November 14th and rang two peals. One was a new Surprise Major method, which was named 'Monaghan', the Irish county of the 'little hills' (drumlins).

The peal of Oxford Treble Bob Royal rung at St. Michael's Church, Southampton, on November 7th was 5,000 and not 5,040 as printed in the 'R.W.' last week.

Geoffrey and Gerald Hemming say 'Thank you' to Charles and Jessie Kippin and Roger Savory for a very enjoyable week-end in Southampton.

Mr. Ernest Weatherby has presented to the Campanological Museum at Chicago a collection of membership certificates of various English change-ringing Societies.

How many regular peal ringers are there? Statistically-minded Mr. A. P. Cannon informs us in sending in his 750th peal that he has rung peals with 1,226 different ringers in 581 towers. He has conducted 392 peals.

Anticipating more peal successes, a Somerset tower band have asked if we will accept £1 to cover the cost of printing their next five peals. Any practical gifts of this description are always welcome.

The silver wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. J. Beeney was not allowed to pass without a peal rung at Hellingly, Sussex, on November 14th. They were hosts to the band afterwards to a 'lovely' meal, for which the band express their thanks.

Mr. E. A. Barnett asks us to state that through a slip of the pen he stated in the front page article on 'Next Year's "Ringing World"' the charges for advertisements will be advanced by about 12½ per cent. This should be 15 per cent. He regrets the error.

LEICESTER GUILD RECEIVES PRESIDENT'S INSIGNIA

THE annual festival dinner of the Leicester Diocesan Guild took place at the Co-operative Cafe, High Street, Leicester, on November 7th. The president (Mr. P. J. Staniforth), accompanied by Mrs. P. J. Staniforth, presided over a company of 144. The chief guests were the Lord Bishop of Leicester (Rt. Rev. R. R. Williams) and Mrs. Williams.

The loyal toast was followed by that of 'The Leicester Diocesan Guild of Church Bell Ringers,' which was proposed by the Lord Bishop; but before proposing the toast the Lord Bishop presented an Insignia of Office to the president. The Insignia, consisting of a mounted bell, has been presented to the Guild by Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Staniforth in memory of Harold J. Poole (first president, 1946-1953) and Mrs. Poole.

Amidst applause, the Insignia was placed round the president's neck, the Bishop remarking that it was as difficult as zipping-up his wife's dress! He then made welcome the members, especially the younger people present.

After checking up a few statistics, the Bishop found that Leicester was the twelfth largest diocese out of 43 in bell-ringing: 1,306 ringers were registered in the diocese (the official Guild figure is 689). Although not knowing much about bell-ringers, he mentioned that he had saved St. John-the-Divine's, Leicester, for the ringers. Should ringers hear complaints from the public he urged them to take no notice, for they did not know what was good for them! Whether people went to church or not, they heard the bells ringing out for Divine Service.

LEICESTER STILL TOP FOR PEALS

The president, replying on behalf of the Guild, thanked the Bishop for presenting the Insignia. He also expressed his appreciation of the Bishop's attendance, and thanked the various officers of the Guild who had helped to back him up since he had been elected president. Leicester still maintained, he said, first place at the top of the whole country for peal ringing.

A course of Stedman Caters was then rung on handbells by B. G. Warwick 1-2, Mrs. P. J. Staniforth 3-4, P. J. Staniforth 5-6, A. Ballard 7-8 and J. A. Acres 9-10.

The Rev. F. R. S. Byfield (Vicar of Copt Oak and chairman of the Loughborough District) proposed the toast of 'The Visitors.' He mentioned the joys of being a ringer, this being his third diocese as a ringing member, and he noticed that strangers were soon made welcome. He found that city ringers on the whole rang faster than ringers from the country and rural areas. He welcomed the following visitors: R. B. Smith (Marple, Cheshire), Miss J. Thomas and friend (Oakham), T. O. Piercy (Newcastle), Mr. and Mrs. G. Hart (Stanmore, Middlesex), K. Dunstan (King's Langley), J. Webb (Lichfield), Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Cotton, Joan Cotton and Norman Cotton (Overseale), Mr. and Mrs. G. Lane (Castle Bromwich), Mr. V. Green and friend (Stanmore), E. Cole (Heckington), Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Halls (Derby), Mr. and Mrs. Morley (Belper), Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Carlisle (Sandiacre, Derby), Mr. and Mrs. H. Taylor (Derby) and Miss Jean Hoy and friend (Oakham). He coupled with the toast Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Clarke (Whetton, Nottingham).

Mr. J. W. Clarke, in a well-chosen speech, thanked the Leicester Guild for their welcome, and added that this was his first visit to a Leicester dinner.

The social evening which followed was arranged by Mr. Frank Measures (vice-president), and included the Beltonian Handbell Ringers, led by Mr. S. Harrison, a quartet from Aylestone Parish Church choir, whistling by Mr. Bailey, from Burbage, games and dancing.

The task of toastmaster was ably performed by Mr. J. P. Fidler.

JOINT MEETING AT HILLINGDON

On October 17th the Middlesex Association were once again hosts to the Ladies' Guild and the Oxford Diocesan Guild at Hillingdon. The bells of St. John's and those of St. Margaret's, Uxbridge, were put to good use during the afternoon, ringing ranging from rounds to Cambridge Royal.

During the service the Vicar was asked by the St. John's ringers to accept the restoration of the historical peal tablet which records early peals of Grandsire Triples rung at Hillingdon. Prayers were said, and a touch of Grandsire Triples 'in hand' was rung by A. R. Twinn, F. C. Price, F. W. Goodfellow and W. H. Coles.

An excellent tea followed the service, some 80 persons attending. Following the Vicar's welcome, and the replies, Mr. Goodfellow spoke about Mr. W. W. Webb who, owing to illness, was unable to attend the meeting for the first time in many years. The gathering wished him a speedy recovery.

The social evening commenced with games, after which some delightful colour slides were shown. Later in the evening, the bitter annual battle for the coveted trophy took place between the Oxford Guild and the hosts. The latter retained the cup for a further year as a result of a resounding victory! Two talented younger members of the local band, a singer and a violinist, entertained the gathering.

Norfolk Veteran Of 87

The 87th birthday of Mr. H. W. Liddbetter, of Acle, Norfolk, was celebrated on November 11th by a successful peal attempt on the bells of the Parish Church, and a gathering of ringers at Hollycroft afterwards.

Mr. Liddbetter and his daughters entertained the company to supper, and afterwards handbells were rung. A titbit of the evening was a conversation in Norfolk dialect between the Rector and Mr. Nolan Golden.

Although Mr. Liddbetter retired from peal ringing two years ago, he is still a very active service ringer and always ready to help.

Good luck and good health, Mr. Liddbetter!

DORSET RINGING FESTIVAL

Over 60 ringers from all parts of Dorset took part in the annual ringing festival at Blandford Forum on October 31st. This was a record number and speaks well for the enthusiasm of Dorset ringers. This festival is made possible under the will of a late citizen of Blandford—Samuel Francis Pond—who also left provision for the curfew to be sounded daily.

There was ringing for all, from rounds up to Kent Treble Bob Major, on the fine 8-bell ring of the lovely Renaissance parish church. The ringers were welcomed at tea in the Town Hall by the deputy Mayor—the Mayoress, the Town Clerk and the Rector of Blandford also being present.

The service touch was Grandsire Triples, during which the deputy Mayor and Mayoress visited the belfry and watched the ringing. The festival service was held on the eve of All Saints' Day, and it was a great joy to join in the first Evensong of this great festival of the Church. An interesting address by the Rector on English bell customs of earlier days, and special prayers for the occasion, happily combined the lesser festival with the greater. A collection was taken for the World Refugee Year.

After the service, ringing continued in Blandford and in neighbouring towers to round off a good day.

Tewkesbury Branch Annual Meeting

A most successful annual meeting was held at Tewkesbury Abbey on October 31st, attended by many old friends from various parts of the country. We were especially honoured by the presence of Mr. F. Skidmore, the Ringing Master of the Association, and Mr. C. Rouse, the secretary. The evening service was conducted by Canon B. Purefoy, the Rev. M. Seacombe and the Rev. J. Breay. An excellent tea was provided by the ladies, and we were entertained by a witty speech from Canon Purefoy, who once again drew attention to the need for retuning and rehanging the bells, although he was bound to agree, after consulting the oracles amongst us, that it appeared that the bells were by no means the worst in the country.

The business meeting which followed resulted in the appointment of new officers. Mr. E. W. Penn was appointed chairman in place of the Rev. E. V. Smith, who did not seek re-election, and Miss N. Price was appointed secretary in place of Mr. G. H. Burrows, who also did not seek re-election. The retiring officers were sincerely thanked for their considerable services. Mr. E. T. Newbury was re-elected Ringing Master. It was decided to have a District practice at Hasfield on December 5th, to have three ordinary meetings at Beckford, Chaceley and Eldersfield, and the annual meeting at Tewkesbury Abbey. The meeting discussed the question of the division of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association, and it was generally hoped that more information would be forthcoming to enable members to make up their minds on the matter. Mr. Rouse was, however, able to enlighten the meeting on a number of abstruse points.

Attention was drawn to the Christmas cards on sale for the restoration of the Abbey bells.

The evening provided ringing in many methods from rounds to Stedman Cinques, and a most pleasant meeting was brought to a conclusion by a course of Cambridge Surprise Major.

ACTIVITIES OF THE KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Presentation To Mr. A. G. Hill

The annual meeting of the Lewisham District was held at Christ Church, Erith. The Rev. S. Groom, late Vicar of Holy Trinity, Sidcup, and one-time curate at Christ Church, officiated at the service in the enforced absence of the Rev. K. Jocelyn (Vicar) owing to ill health. The service embodied an interesting address, which included an invitation to the congregation to remember the late Canon A. W. Boulden, who gave the tower and bells to the church in 1915, and to whom the Rev. S. Groom was curate. Mr. Gordon Phillips accompanied the singing at the organ. The lesson was read by Mr. E. Barnett, of Crayford.

After the service, a company of 74, including visitors from the Ashford, Rochester and Tonbridge Districts, partook of a splendid tea in the Church Hall, prepared and served by the wives and friends of the local ringers.

The business meeting followed, the Rev. S. Groom presiding. Five ringers were elected members of the Association, and the election of one member, previous to a peal attempt, was ratified.

The annual review of the year's work was read by Mr. A. G. Hill and adopted. The report indicated a quietly satisfactory state of affairs and rather more activity by peal and quarter peal ringers, a small increase in membership and encouraging news of reorganisation at Bromley Common and Beckenham. One regrettable announcement was that ringing had ceased at Woolwich, though the Association still had one or two loyal members there.

SECRETARY FOR 35 YEARS

Miss M. R. Andrews, of Bexley, was appointed hon. District secretary, being elected by the unanimous vote of the assembly. At this point, Mr. E. Barnett, in a short but completely adequate speech, thanked the retiring District secretary (Mr. A. G. Hill) for his services, extending over a period of 35 years, and presented him with a cheque in the name of the Lewisham District and one or two other members who had associated themselves with this valedictory gesture. Mr. Hill thanked Mr. Barnett and the District generally for their kind words and unmerited generosity, and wished his successor a long and happy tenure of office.

Miss Andrews' appointment at that meeting, and Mr. A. S. Richards' election as hon. auditor at the annual general meeting, meant that two new District representatives had to be chosen. Mrs. O. D. Barnett (Crayford) and Miss F. Cannon (Greenwich) were elected unanimously. Mr. I. H. Oram (Association peal secretary) was re-elected District Ringing Master.

St. Luke's, Bromley Common, was selected for the next meeting, to be held on Saturday, January 23rd.

The motion submitted by the Rochester District, seeking to impose a levy on all adult peal ringers taking part in Kent County peals, was then discussed. Speakers saw no reason for the levy and it was decided, with three adverse votes, that the District's representative be instructed to convey the opposition of the District to the next committee meeting.

KENT VETERANS RING A QUARTER.—

On Saturday, October 31st, there met at Linton, Kent, a band of Kent County Association stalwarts, all of whom had 50 or more years' membership of the Association.

Unfortunately one of the original band was taken ill during the previous day, with the result that the intended peal attempt had to be abandoned. Mr. W. Gosling, of Boxley (also a 50-years' member), who was to have been a spectator, kindly offered to attempt a quarter, despite his physical handicap.

BIRCHINGTON, KENT.—On Nov. 6th, 1,440 Plain Bob Minor: Jennifer Shields 1, T. Milstead 2, H. Luck 3, A. Stone 4, A. Hinkley 5, J. Russell (cond.) 6, J. Tumber covering. Rung half-muffled in memoriam E. F. Cockburn, for many years churchwarden, interred in the churchyard this day.

IGHTHAM, KENT.—On Sept. 27th, 1,260 Plain Bob Doubles: G. Hodges 1, G. Acott 2, G. Godfrey 3, A. Wenban (cond.) 4, S. King 5, H. Woolley 6. For Evensong.

Mr. I. H. Oram and Mr. A. G. Hill deplored the disappointing response to the Surrey Association's invitation to visit Beddington for the annual combined meeting on October 10th, and urged that such events be supported to better effect in future years.

Cordial votes of thanks to the Vicar (Rev. S. Groom), the ladies who had so successfully undertaken the catering, the organist, and all others instrumental in arranging so successful a meeting, concluded the business.

Rochester District

This year's annual meeting of the Rochester District was held at Sittingbourne on October 17th. The fine bells of St. Michael's were rung to various methods, under the watchful eye of the Ringing Master (Mr. C. S. Jarrett)—his last duty before retiring from this office. A short ringers' service was conducted by the Rev. J. D. Meacham (Vicar) and the lesson was read by the well-known ringer, Rev. P. T. Robbins, the newly-instituted Vicar of Lower Halstow. We were very pleased to welcome him and his good lady and family to the Rochester District.

Some 85 ringers and friends sat down to tea, which was kindly given by the Sittingbourne ringers and friends. At the business meeting the Rev. J. D. Meacham was elected chairman. The District secretary (Mr. T. Barton) in his report stated that 12 peals had been rung in the District, a drop of eight peals, but that membership was now up to 174. Six new members were elected to the Association.

The following officers were elected: Mr. T. Barton, District secretary; Mr. F. Cheal and Mr. A. Dunk, District representatives; and Mr. G. A. Naylor, Ringing Master. A vote of thanks was given to Mr. E. C. Barton, who has retired from being one of the District's representatives, also to Mr. C. S. Jarrett for his term of office as Ringing Master. Mr. T. Beaumont passed a well-deserved vote of thanks to those responsible for such a happy meeting. F. L. C.

RAMSGATE, KENT.—On Nov. 7th, at St. Laurence-in-Thane, 1,260 Grandsire Triples: R. D. Miles (first quarter) 1, Mrs. N. Bridges 2, Miss P. Fennell (first in method) 3, Miss M. Taylor (first 'inside') 4, M. E. Miles (first 'inside') 5, S. J. Gee 6, Rev. S. M. Evans (cond.) 7, J. Webb 8.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

'A WELCOME CHANGE'

Dear Sir,—Though it was rather facetiously written, I for one found Harold Chant's last article interesting and a welcome change from the generally dreary reports of meetings and outings which occupy too much space in this journal; but I was cynically amused to read A. H. May's letter on space wastage in an issue of the 'R.W.' containing a lengthy account of the Yorkshire Association dinner and also a front page article on the same function. You, sir, could have printed either: you ought not to have printed both.—Yours faithfully,
Wakefield, Yorks. DAVID CUBITT.

CLUN IMPERIAL

Dear Sir,—In reply to Mr. Mayne's letter: the method rung at Clun was No. 228 in the C.C. Collection, and I shall be glad, therefore, if the Peals Analysis Committee will record it as a peal of Hedingham Bob Major, having regard to the fact that it has already been rung under this name.

I have endeavoured to keep a note of the peals rung in the Plain Major methods, but apparently this one escaped my notice, and I should like to apologise to the members of the band who were led to believe that they were partaking in a peal in a new method when on a day's outing on the Shropshire/Herefordshire border.

Having regard to the time that has elapsed since the Central Council's Plain Major methods book was issued, the information contained in Mr. Blagrove's article in your issue of November 6th is much appreciated, and it is to be hoped that this will be continued to give first performances up to date. Unfortunately, this information was not available when we visited Clun.

Can the C.C.C. number for Hingham Little Imperial Bob Major be quoted, please? The correct spelling of Cholmondely is as written here. Highbury Bob Major was rung on tower bells at Pulham St. Mary, Norfolk, on September 30th last.—Yours faithfully,

JOHN W. GRIFFITHS.

Upton-by-Chester.

A SCOUTERS' PEAL?

Dear Sir,—All those of us who are fortunate enough to have both Scouting and Ringing at heart will welcome warmly the introduction of the new Scout badges for ringing. The Scouting movement could prove a very wonderful source of new recruits. Tower captains and others should seize the opportunity of contacting their local Scoutmasters and inquire whether it is possible to talk to the boys on the subject.

My real point in writing, however, is to ascertain whether there would be any interest in a Scouters' peal—to give the badges an appropriate start. If bell-ringers who are also Scouters or in any way connected with Scouting would contact me, if they are interested, I shall be very pleased to try to organise such a peal.—Yours faithfully,

E. W. PENN.

THE NEW PRICE

Dear Sir,—It is not often that I am constrained to write to you, but I read of the increase in price of the 'R.W.' with grave misgivings. Lest I be misunderstood, let me say at once that I would gladly pay another 6d. per week, if I thought it was justified, but I am convinced that the increase in price is not the answer to your financial problems; in fact, I believe it will only increase them.

I know I am sticking my chin out, but I want to suggest that a fixed charge should be made for the publication of peals and quarter peals, which should be of sufficient dimensions to enable the 'R.W.' to pay its way. I can almost hear the howls already, but my point is that week after week after week we see the same old names appearing in the peal and quarter peal columns, with monotonous regularity, and I would like to know in what other paper could they obtain such cheap publicity?

I have rung few peals myself, but I am not, repeat not, averse to peal ringing, except when it reaches a state bordering on fanaticism. I have yet to meet the ordinary Sunday service ringer (who after all is the backbone of the Exercise) who is the least bit interested in whether Bill Brown has rung 1,000 peals or Tom Smith has 'circled' such-and-such a tower.

My advice is, sir, be bold, fix a charge; they will still go on ringing their peals and getting them published—they love it.

I am afraid that, feeling as I do, the time will soon come when I shall discontinue my purchase of 'The Ringing World,' and I shall be sorry.—Yours faithfully,

MONTAGUE J. SOPER.

Potters Bar, Middlesex.

P.S.—I started ringing in 1908; my father and grandfather were ringers at Wolverton in Hampshire.—M. J. S.

ITINERANT RINGER AND PEALS

Dear Sir,—May I say that I fully support Mr. William Birmingham? The purpose of the Church and that for ringing many peals is as wide apart as Conservatism and Socialism, or oil and water. My wife and I have in our retirement taken to caravan life, travelling the country and ringing on Sundays wherever we may be. Consequently we see, as Mr. Birmingham, the other side of this peal ringing, and agree with the priest whom we met and who exclaimed: 'It is no responsibility of the Church to raise large sums of money merely to amuse ringers to ring peals, often to the annoyance of nearby residents.'—Yours sincerely,

HENRY C. PURCELL.

MARRIED COUPLES' MINOR PEALS

Dear Sir,—I'm afraid we suffered from the Editor's blue pencil and did not claim the first 'married couples' peal of Minor at Deeping St. Nicholas, but inquired if this was the first in seven Minor methods by such a band.—Yours faithfully,

E. T. CHAPMAN.

Spalding.

THE DEVON TOUR

Dear Sir,—I do not wish to enter any controversy on the above subject, but as I made all the arrangements at this end I trust you will allow me to say something.

Having read all the letters which have been published, one can only come to the conclusion that the whole thing has been a 'storm in a teacup,' and it never ought to have been started.

With regard to the letter from the general secretary of the Guild, there were a few points which needed explaining, so I took the trouble to write to him direct and give him my observations.

I am sure that the tourists will agree with me when I say that every effort was made to avoid any unpleasantness which might have arisen, and I went so far as to point out in all applications for bells that a peal would consist of not less than 5,000 changes, and would take about three hours to ring.

Mr. Atkins mentions the Wolborough peal being rung on a Sunday. Well, I took part in a peal there on a Sunday a few years after the war, and nothing was heard of it afterwards, but when the possibilities of a Sunday peal was raised on this occasion, I contacted a tower where there are at present no ringers. The Vicar was not keen on the idea, owing to people living near the church, but he readily offered me the bells on any of the weekdays, an offer which I gladly accepted. I think the Rector of Wolborough could have easily taken this step, too, but as he gave his permission for the Sunday attempt neither the tourists nor myself can be blamed for that.

I hope that this correspondence will now close.—Yours faithfully,

A. L. BENNETT.

Buckfastleigh, Devon.

FORTHRIGHT VIEWS WANTED

Dear Sir,—Recently there seems to be some movement towards restricting forthright views in 'Letters to the Editor.' The word 'bickering' has been used by the critics of this most interesting feature of our journal—Mr. Alan Ward used it in his recent letter.

I am not of the opinion that 'bickering' is the correct term to apply to fair criticism, and I would say that the correspondence of which Mr. Ward complains is definitely fair criticism. I would further suggest that it would be a pity to suppress such letters: indeed, it seems to me that the correspondence appearing in our present issues is by no means as spirited as that written and published, say, 25 years ago and earlier.

Another point, this sort of correspondence (Mr. York-Bramble would term it 'somewhat incisive' correspondence) tends to stimulate interest in our journal in much the same way that the strip cartoon boosts the sale of a daily newspaper. A well-known ringer once said to me: 'I like there to be a bit of a do going on in our correspondence columns, especially if the letter-writers are good.'

We have several good writers in the Exercise, and I for one look forward to their continued contributions.—Yours faithfully,

ARTHUR V. DAVIS.

OBITUARY

MR. W. POSTON

An outstanding personality in ringing in Herefordshire, Mr. William Poston, of Pool Mill, Bridstow, died on November 2nd, aged 85 years. For 60 years he was a ringer and chorister at Bridstow Parish Church, churchwarden since 1937, and also hon. treasurer and secretary to the Parochial Church Council.

Born in 1874 at Evancoyd, Radnorshire, he started his ringing career in 1894 at Hempsted, Glos, and in that year rang his first peal. He obtained further ringing experience at Merthyr Tydfil and Ewyas Harold, and in 1899, when he came to Bridstow, he was appointed conductor of the band.

During his period of office at Bridstow Church the bells were twice augmented, first to six in 1910 and to the full octave in 1924. He took a great interest in maintaining a band for Sunday services, and he also found time to conduct numerous peals, both at Bridstow and at other towns in the district. In all, he took part in 252 peals, of which 244 were for the Hereford Diocesan Guild, of which he conducted 206.

From 1919 until 1954 he was Master of the Ross District of the Guild, and when he retired in 1953 he was presented with a chiming clock in recognition of his great services. He was also District secretary between the years 1938 and 1945. As an instructor he established a reputation for good handling and striking, and would not countenance bad ringing on a Sunday.

Until he retired in 1953 he was gardener at Bridstow Vicarage. Joining the Bridstow Parish Council in 1904, he later became clerk, an office he held until his death. He was also assistant overseer and registration officer and secretary of the Bridstow Men's Club for 32 years. Deeply interested in local history, he was the author of 'A History of Bridstow and Wilton Castle.' He is survived by two sons, Mr. W. T. Poston, of Ross, and Mr. Reginald Poston, of Peterstow. His wife predeceased him in 1941 and his second son, Walter, died in 1957.

There was a very large attendance at the funeral service at Bridstow Church on November 5th, which was conducted by Preb. P. A. Lushington, assisted by Canon A. J. Winnington-Ingram and Preb. A. L. Moir. The many wreaths included tributes from the Hereford Diocesan Guild of Bell Ringers, and the Ross District.

During the evening muffled touches were rung on Bridstow Church bells by the following members of the Hereford Diocesan Guild: A. W. Davis, A. T. Poulton, R. Poston, H. Powell, H. W. Swain, A. T. Wingate, J. Eisel, J. Read and H. Munn.

MR. HORACE V. ROBINSON

The Gloucester and Bristol Association has lost, with the passing of Mr. Horace Robinson, of Wickwar, a vice-president who was described by his rector as a great Christian gentleman. He died on November 3rd, and was buried on the 7th in the churchyard at Wickwar. In this church he had rung for over 50 years and sang in the choir for even longer. He was 70 years old.

At the funeral service the Rector was assisted by the Rev. W. A. Peel, chairman of the Wotton Branch. The Association was represented by the Master (Mr. F. Skidmore), Mr. H. Hobbs (Branch Ringing Master), Mrs. C. Rouse (Branch secretary) and many others. Half-muffled ringing took place both before and after the service.

Mr. Robinson was an excellent teacher, noted for his kindness and patience with the young ringers. For about 35 years he was captain of Wickwar tower and for ten years Ringing Master of his Branch, resigning through ill health two years ago. He had rung in 17 peals, all in his own Branch area, ranging from Grandsire Doubles to Bob Major. His last was Grandsire Triples in 1953.

RAVERS LOOSE AGAIN

MANY ringers, especially those in the Home Counties, will have it indelibly printed on their minds just what the fog was like on November 7th, but it did not dampen the spirits of six Raving Ringers who met to attempt a peal. For our engineering expert the day began at 5.15 a.m. in Mrs. Granger's wash-house. His vintage Austin was soon trundling over the Cotswolds from Tewkesbury to collect other certified members from Oxfordshire in the sea of fog.

They arrived bedecked in the most awe-inspiring regalia to protect them from the cold, and together with other more local members set out to ring a peal of Minor in four methods at Hitcham, near Slough. The sound of this handy six was wafted into the gloom as extents of Reverse Canterbury and Single Oxford were rung, but later a shift in St. Clement's put paid to the attempt. We consoled ourselves with a well-struck half-muffled quarter, then had lunch, provided by a local ringer's mother.

Once more out in the fog both vehicles narrowly escaped serious collisions before the massive bulk of Bray tower loomed up, and augmented by several Hitcham ringers we rang the eight after a wedding. The rather suggestive shape of a peal board here gave rise to nefarious humour!

Members of the Exercise who have visited Braywood know just what the tower is like to find in the best of weather conditions, but in this fog even the Ringing Master, who had been there twice before, took a wrong turning! There is no light in the belfry, and darkness was falling as we finished ringing. Perhaps it is as well that the church is soon to be demolished, and rumour has it that the bells may now go to either Dorney or Taplow.

Later, in frantic efforts to find Clewer Church, the writer led the old Austin down a track which gave on to a large field. We pressed on in hope, but being confronted with nothing but fog and grass eventually decided to turn round. The mystery deepened when a large sign loomed out of the murk, saying 'To Reading and the West.' Further on there was another which said 'No left turn.' We ignored it and turned left back on to the main road. It was only then that the fog divulged its secret in another large sign further down the road—'Windsor Race Course, Car Park No. 2'!

Our ringing at Clewer was greatly enjoyed, partly from members' efforts to strike the clapperless third in touches of Minor, and because of the R.M.'s refusal to stand face to the wall so we could ring Reverse Erin by the white line on his trousers. It is only to be hoped that the Erin slow work is still intact on Mr. Butler's blackboard!

Ringing at Langley followed tea at the Grenada, Slough, and after filling the old car's petrol tank we crawled to Fulmer for the final ring. A touch of Cambridge Minor, which eluded us on the Welsh tour, was finally brought round here.

The party returned to the R.M.'s house for refreshment and the toast of 'Absent Ravers,' then members faded into the foggy small hours with spirits as high as ever. We would like to record our thanks to Howard Oglesby, the organiser, and to those who waited patiently at the towers for us to crawl out of the murk.

NEWS OF THE GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

Chertsey District

Concern was voiced by Mr. R. Collins, at the nomination meeting of the Chertsey District held at Christ Church, Esher, on November 14th, at the practice of ringing peals in the Winchester Diocese for the Guildford Guild. He said it would be better to ring these peals as non-Association rather than embarrass the Guild.

Major Bragg replied that the Guild executive would discuss it.

The Master (Mr. C. W. Denyer) was in the chair, and all the retiring officers were nominated. Mr. John Maybrey was nominated to serve on the executive committee in place of Mr. G. Talbot, who has left the District. The Master paid tribute to the work Mr. Talbot had done.

Mr. F. E. Hawthorne made a strong appeal for more support for 'The Ringing World,' particularly for postal subscribers.

The service, conducted by the Rector, was inspiring, and Mrs. Maybrey and her helpers were thanked for an outstanding tea. Over 40 ringers were present and ringing up to Cambridge Major took place till 8.45 p.m.

HASLEMERE, SURREY.—On Oct. 4th, 1,260 Grandsire Triples: C. G. Johnstone 1, Miss E. Pearson 2, Miss R. Corner 3, Miss M. Goode 4, Miss A. Carpenter 5, J. Macdemott 6, H. Gauntlett (cond.) 7, J. Clark 8. For harvest festival.

Leatherhead District

With the approaching dedication of Guildford Cathedral it behoves the Guild to think about the bells for it, said the Master at the Leatherhead District's meeting at Dorking on October 17th. Towards this end it was essential for the bells fund to be better supported. Mr. Parrott suggested that a collection be taken at each meeting for the fund, and it was decided to start straight away. The hat was passed round and the fund benefited by £1 16s.

Members were also asked to think about suggestions for a suitable memorial to Alf Pulling, and a new Ringing Master, as Mr. H. V. Young would soon be leaving to live in Somerset.

Previous to the meeting there had been ringing at Ranmore, followed by a service and an address by the Rev. C. Munt (this was our first service there for many years), and tea had been provided in St. Martin's Hall by Miss Clear and her lady helpers, which 35 had tried (unsuccessfully) to clear. After the meeting ringing was resumed at Dorking.

HORSELL, SURREY.—On Nov. 15th, 1,260 Grandsire Doubles: Miss J. Drury 1, Miss P. Drury 2, J. Martin 3, G. Oliver 4, B. Priestley (cond.) 5, V. Neil 6. A birthday compliment to Miss P. Drury.

WIMBLEDON, SURREY.—On Nov. 15th, 1,260 Plain Bob Minor: Elizabeth Carson 1, Caroline Carpenter (first 'inside') 2, Anne Garnet 3, A. Bishop 4, Susan Rawlings 5, G. Goodman (cond.) 6.

The Ladies' Guild

Though the gentlemen outnumbered the ladies, for most of the time the bells were kept going at the Central District meeting at St. Mary-le-Bow, Stratford, on October 31st. Votes of thanks were passed to the Rector (Rev. F. Metrick) and Mr. Michael Austin, the organist.

SOUTHAMPTON AND READING UNIVERSITIES' TOUR OF EAST ANGLIA

The starting point for this year's joint cycling tour was St. Peter Mancroft, Norwich, where we joined the band in ringing for Evensong. Later at the youth hostel, when all, including the solitary hitch-hiker, had assembled, we learned that Don, ex-master of S.U.A., and the tour's organiser, had been taken ill on his way to Norwich. As one member said, 'his particular brand of humour was sadly missed during the week.'

We spent Monday in and around Norwich, being guided through Tombland's nether regions by Bridget Mutimer and David Heighton. First St. Giles' and then St. Michael's, where we preferred to read the old peal boards telling of ringers' prowess than ring the bells. It seemed reasonable to ring Norwich Surprise at St. George's, Colegate, although most of the band had to hurriedly look up the method. At the next tower, St. John-de-Sepulchre's we found it extremely difficult to hear the bells from inside, but later that night learnt that they are far from inaudible outside, as the warden's daughter had been prevented from concentrating on her exam because of our ringing. On the way to this tower any doubts about the S.U.G.'s master's cycling ability were fully justified when he fell headlong into the road after patting the indicator of a stationary car.

After a brisk ride out to Ketteringham and Hethersett, we returned to Norwich for supper, and spent the evening exploring the town. That night David discovered his pyjamas carefully sewn up, and after inadequate inquiries on his part, the innocent secretary found his pyjamas much later, airing on a bush in the rain!

MOLLIE'S AERIAL TRIP

Leaving Norwich behind us on Tuesday, we had our first encounter with Norfolk's flat countryside. Those unacquainted with the area failed to appreciate or even acknowledge its flatness until later in the week, when North Essex was reached. However, Pat was always there to push along any straggler. Between Saxlingham and Pulham Market, Mollie—not to be outdone by Dave—took an 'aerial trip' around a hedge top and landed in a ditch. Faith in our two masters now totally shattered, John took over as pilot and was next seen at Pulham Market tucking into his customary square meal.

Two easy-going rings of eight at Pulham Market and Pulham St. Mary gave us an opportunity for good ringing, and Dave's hitherto elusive touch of Stedman, containing Queens, Whittington's and Tittums, at last came round. The heavy eight at Diss required more effort than we could muster to ring well, as the long ride on a road unsheltered from the sun had temporarily exhausted us, and we welcomed the help of two resident ringers. While the foreman was demonstrating the carillon, fame descended upon us in the form of a reporter from the local paper, which later published an article about the tour.

The youth hostel for the next two nights was at Finningham, two tiny cottages miles from civilisation, which must hold the record for the ability to pack the largest number of people into the smallest possible space without undue lack of comfort. Here, to compensate for our lack of handbells, we made an octave out of glasses of water (even a large flower vase and cracked china mug were given an audition before the final result was achieved), and the dining room resounded to courses of Plain Bob and 'The Bluebells of Scotland.'

Only three towers were scheduled for Wednesday fortunately, for this day proved to be the hottest in the week. Tar was melting on the road and sticking to our wheels, making cycling difficult. At one point the front mud-guard on Adrian's bike burst into flames and had to be extinguished. Stedman, Kent and Cambridge were rung at Wickham Skeith (a six) before we were treated to iced orange squash and biscuits by a neighbour. Thorndon bells, another six, are badly in need of attention, and we rang only three short touches of Doubles here before setting off for Stowmarket, but apparently even the bells found it too hot for ringing, and the sixth rope came unspliced after only ten minutes' ringing, and we retired to a milk bar. That evening we went to the Bull at 'Backbeyond,' where Ray recited poetry accompanied by Geoff. on the piano, and then a touch of pat-a-cake rounded off the day's ringing.

EXPOSED BELFRY

First stop next day was at Cotton, with its belfry partially exposed to the open air. The bells went well to a touch of Stedman and Yorkshire. Then we were joined for the rest of the week by Mary Russell before leaving for Stonham Aspal. The ring of ten here we found tricky. Grandsire Caters and Bob Royal went reasonably well, but Cambridge Royal broke down after three leads.

At Debenham the Vicar welcomed us to the church, which has one of the finest eighties in the district. After clambering through a coal cellar at Framdsen, we brought round the course of Pudsey that had broken down at Debenham. Our departure from Framdsen coincided with the start of a sharp thunderstorm, and capes were brought out for the first time. Ringing at Helmingham came to a temporary halt when the third refused to be set by any except Pat, although Ray offered double whiskies to all successful attempts. Superlative was rung here for the first time during the week. The last ring of the day, at Ashbocking, produced a pleasant course of London Minor. Naughton Mill, a first-class youth hostel, was home for the night. We spent the evening indoors variously occupied.

Friday's schedule included more good heavy eighties, the first of which was Lavenham and its famous tenor. Next, Sudbury, where we had only a short time to ring and one touch of Little Bob was over before the tenor man had discovered how he started. Long Melford and Clare both gave us some difficulty, but at each a fair touch of Stedman was rung. Two sixes completed the day's ringing at Cavendish and Castle Hedingham, and at each we tried Undershaft Doubles unsuccessfully, and once again Ray's double whisky reward went unclaimed.

A course of Cambridge tapped round smartly at Halstead next morning, the last day. There followed a long climb to Stisted for Kent and Oxford. After lunch in Bocking, Rayne was visited, where Undershaft Doubles at last came round. Great Dunmow, with another fine eight, was the week's final tower.

We extend our thanks to the incumbents of the 33 churches visited, to Don Exell and David Blackwell for making all arrangements, to the two Ringing Masters, Dave and Mollie, and finally to the green two-seater which took all excess luggage, tired bikes and riders, all of whom contributed to an enjoyable week.

HALIFAX AND DISTRICT ASSOCIATION

Four teams entered the 6-bell contest of the Halifax and District Association, held at Ripponden on October 24th.

Before the draw took place, and after the judge and marker had been placed in their listening post, Shelley company representative asked permission of the committee to ring first in the competition as some of their members desired to attend the centenary dinner of the Barnsley Society. This request the committee granted, and the other three places were drawn for.

The judge was Mr. H. Armitage, of Huddersfield, and the marker was Mr. B. Buckley, of Friezland.

The result of the draw and the contest was as follows:—

Shelley: 5 penalties, 81 faults; total 86.
Friezland: No penalties, 65 faults; total 65.
Meltham: 10 penalties, 86 faults; total 96.
Huddersfield: 10 penalties, 175 faults; total 185.

Friezland were therefore declared the winners of the silver challenge cup.

An omnibus vote of thanks was proposed by the president (Mr. E. Earnshaw) to the Vicar, churchwardens and the local company of ringers, special mention being made of Mr. Frank Rhodes, who provided everyone with a tea.

Elland was provisionally fixed for the next tower of meeting on April 23rd. This meeting will be a ringing meeting and not a contest, and the tower captain appointed is the president.

WORK ON WOODBURY BELLS

The eight bells of Woodbury, Devon, Parish Church will not be rung for some time as they are to be rehung in a new frame. The seventh bell is to be recast and the rest tuned. These bells have always been a bit tricky to handle as there is a considerable amount of movement of the tower when ringing. When rehung they will be brought lower in the tower.

Work has now been started on them and it is hoped that the bells will be back in their new frame by next Easter. This work, of course, is going to be costly—about £2,000—and of this amount the churchpeople have raised about £1,450 in a little over a year, and are going all out to clear the other £550 by the end of this year.

If anyone who has heard or rung on this grand old ring would like to send a donation, please send to the Vicar or J. L. S. Glanvill, Woodbury, near Exeter, Devon. All contributions, however small, will be welcome.

PLAIN BOB CATERS

IT was William Shipway who expressed the opinion that of all forms of ringing, that of ringing ten bells provided the greatest entertainment. Few people who have been privileged to have the opportunity to ring peals on all numbers of bells would find it easy to disagree with this statement. For whether it be Caters (of which Shipway was chiefly thinking) or Royal, in which so many fascinating methods may engage our attention, there are, in 10-bell ringing, a charm and an elegance unsurpassed on any other number of bells.

The recent peal of Plain Bob Caters at Warwick, and the interesting views of the performance that have appeared in our columns, awaken thoughts on the limited number of Caters methods available for the practitioner and on the merits and demerits of the methods that are rung. If we wish to test the soundness of the view that Bob Caters is of little value, or to assess the opinion that the method is rightly worthy of being practised, it will be well to set it alongside some of its rivals and see what advantages and disadvantages it has in comparison with Stedman, Grandsire and Double Norwich.

A feature of Plain Bob, of course, is the regularity and simplicity of its coursing order. This, together with the immunity of the heavy bells from the influence of calls, provides for the sustaining of musical positions over long periods. So, the plan of calling in Bob Caters will, if the bells are (let us say) cast into the Tittums, permit the regular coursing of 7, 8, 9 in six of the eight leads of each course. And if the sixth be fixed either before the seventh or after the ninth then the music of this more attractive arrangement is sustained for five of the leads of the course. This is no mean musical property. Added to this, we may note that only 35 full courses are needed for a 5,040, and that 24 of these may have the sixth behind the ninth, or alternatively, 24 courses may be used with the sixth before the seventh; and, of course, the Handstroke Home position sets before us the possibility of another 24 courses of its excellent music.

With these attractive musical potentialities where, then, lie the weaknesses of Bob Caters? The defects are probably two—a certain monotony in the work and an absence of double dodging. The fact that the heavy bells are unaffected by calls makes for the ringing of long, complete courses, but those courses, with their stereotyped mould and their lack of excitement in operation, may become a trivial round monotonous to ring and intolerable for any considerable length of time. The absence of double dodging is a serious defect, for double dodging has been described as the most beautiful phenomenon in the whole of change-ringing, and with considerable justification. In Bob Caters the mind longs for the variation of the double dodge, and the ear anticipates the repetition of the musical experience, only to be continually disappointed.

The rivals of Plain Bob Caters are powerful, despite their own defects. They avoid, of course, the slur of four blows behind; but they also avoid monotony, and they are replete with double dodging. Stedman Caters may have no music in the middle of the course unless the sixth is seconds-place bell, and then the unrivalled 7689 of the course-end is sacrificed. There is no musical advantage in keeping the sixth at home. Yet the brilliance of the course-end music, and the indefinable charm that the method has for many ringers, will hold Stedman Caters in a challenging position. Grandsire Caters, with its incredible variety of calling, its long and short courses, its double dodging, and the participation of all the bells in the bob work, successfully avoids monotony and yet provides a continuity of coursing order in which the music of the heavy bells is never absent. The fourth great rival, Double Norwich Caters, has, strangely enough, never offered a serious challenge in the Caters world. It has what some ringers consider an important blemish—an unusual and rather awkward bob. It cannot maintain the clean flow of coursing order manifested in Grandsire and Plain Bob, and the value of the sixth at home in the Tittums is negligible. Yet when it is rung it provides startling musical surprises, some of them of surpassing beauty both in the unexpectedness of their arrival and in the suddenness of their metamorphosis. It would seem, indeed, to combine the advantages of all the Caters methods. Yet it has not so far become the favourite.

Such, then, are the popular Caters methods, and which are worth ringing must always be a matter of opinion and taste. Whether we agree with Mr. Allen or with Mr. Payne we may believe that Plain Bob Caters, 'properly composed' (as John Carter would say), can provide music worth hearing.

We are already looking forward to Christmas. Our popular Christmas greetings feature will appear in the issue of December 18th (price 4s. for 36 words). The issue of December 25th (Christmas Day) will go to press on Saturday, December 19th. This means that Notices must be received before that date to ensure insertion.

A big difference.—The peal rung at Willenhamp (page 682) was Kent Treble Bob Royal—not Minor. Our apologies.

Belton, Lincs, bells have been augmented to six. Two new trebles were dedicated by the Bishop of Lincoln on November 4th.

The tower representing Northern Ireland in the Christmas Day broadcast will be St. Donard's, Belfast. This tower is also doing a programme on bells in the Northern Ireland Home Service on December 24th, at 7 p.m.

'Even if "The Ringing World" was put up to 1s. a week I think most of us would still take it. We don't expect the impossible, and I am sure most ringers are not downright mean.'—Stephen Ivins.

'The decision to increase the price of "The Ringing World" to 8d. should be accepted by all loyal readers. Don't take too much notice of those who like to have a grumble. They like to find something to grouse about.'—W. Shepherd, Addlestone.

With the object of interesting parishioners in their bells, an admirable series of articles has appeared in the parish magazine of St. Nicholas', Harpenden, written by Mrs. Mary A. Coburn and Mr. J. D. Painter. The articles not only deal with the history of the bells but the development of change-ringing. We hope to publish this information at a later date.

BELFRY GOSSIP

By the laws of progression it seems that the stupendous task of ringing the 40,320 extent of Major will eventually be achieved. Mr. Stephen Ivins and his gallant band narrowed the gap by ringing 28,850 changes at the Bell Foundry, Loughborough, on November 22nd. Congratulations to all concerned.

The London Surprise Royal at Grundisburgh on November 21st was the 150th peal of Surprise by Charles J. Sedgley, and his first on the treble.

Sending 1s. per rope for a peal of London Minor at Great Horwood, Bucks, Mr. F. G. Edmans comments: 'Where else could you get three hours' entertainment or pleasure?'

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Bassett, of the East Grinstead Guild, on their silver wedding anniversary. A quarter peal was rung at Wadhurst on November 18th in honour of the occasion.

Meeting short, through illness, for an attempt of Albanian Surprise Royal at Southover, Sussex, on November 21st, the band rang a good peal of Spliced Surprise Major in three methods.

Miss Gillian Tavener, whose first peal, apart from the treble to Minor, was at Burton Latimer, Northants, put up a very creditable performance in ringing Lincolnshire Surprise Major. Unfortunately, her teacher, Mr. Pat Chapman, missed the peal through an attack of 'flu.

The peal of Plain Bob Royal at Bradford Cathedral on November 19th was conspicuous for the good work of young ringers. Barry Schofield, who is only 11, rang his first peal on ten, and Miss Rita Jowett has not been ringing very long and she, too, rang an almost faultless peal.

HALF CENTURY OF SERVICE AT SELBY ABBEY

Saturday, October 19th, was a double anniversary date at Selby Abbey, Yorks, being the 50th anniversary of the installation of the bells after the great fire in 1906, and the half-century as a ringer completed by Mr. Horace S. Morley.

Four of the eight bells fell during the fire and the other four had to be taken down. The bells were recast at Loughborough and increased into a ring of ten bells and reopened on October 19th, 1909.

Mr. Morley joined the tower six months before the new bells were used, when the late Mr. F. Cryer was captain, and took over the position of captain over 20 years ago, a position which he still holds. Chairman of the Selby and District Society of Change Ringers since the formation of the Society after the last war, he is secretary of the Eastern District of the Yorkshire Association of Change Ringers, a position he has held for the past 28 years. For 21 years he looked after the Abbey clock and carillon, climbing the steps to the clock four times weekly.

It is interesting to note that at a broadcast of the bells by the B.B.C. some time ago, the announcer jocularly referred over the air that the bells could really be called 'Horace's Bells.' To mark the occasion, ringers from Sherburn-in-Elmet, Goole, Hemingbrough and Selby Abbey attempted a peal of Grandsire Caters, but unfortunately, owing to a change course, this was unsuccessful. His numerous ringing friends wish him good health and many more years to continue as an active ringer.

NIGHTLY PRACTICES RECALLED AT GOFER DINNER

THE seventh annual Gofer dinner of the Newark Parish Church ringers was held at the Bowling Green Hotel on Friday, November 13th. Much to the relief of the organisers, the typical Gofer weather of the previous day cleared early on the Friday morning and enabled the 53 ringers and friends to arrive safely.

After a most enjoyable meal, the loyal toast was proposed by the president, Canon J. H. D. Grinter.

The toast of 'The Society' was submitted by Mr. M. Wilson, who recalled some of the earlier incidents in the history of the Society. It was given new life, he said, by its re-formation in 1896, and it was during this year that, after practising consistently every night of the week, much to the annoyance of a local shopkeeper opposite, who threatened to sue them for loss of trade, they finally rang for Sunday service for the first time in July, 1896.

Mr. Wilson recalled many of the earlier ringers who had served the Society well during the early years, including one founder member (Mr. C. H. Chapman) who was present.

The Master (Mr. J. W. Raithby), in reply, thanked Mr. Wilson for his kind words. During the past year, he stated, the bells had been rung for every service, and only twice had they only been down to eight bells. He thanked the ringers for their support and especially the younger members, who had come forward at the end of last year and who had given such yeoman service since.

Mr. E. F. Taylor proposed the health of the President, and said how pleased he was to be able to welcome back the Vicar, restored once again to full health after his serious illness.

The Vicar, in reply, thanked the Society for their good wishes and said how glad he was to be back. He recalled many amusing incidents which had happened to him whilst convalescing and since his return.

The toast of 'The Visitors' was proposed in a light vein by the secretary, Mr. F. W. Midwinter. He welcomed the visiting ringers, wives, husbands and sweethearts of ringers, but not, apparently, sisters! The toast was acknowledged by Mr. E. Warren-Butler.

Entertainment was provided by the songs of Mr. and Mrs. James Woodward and the monologues of Mr. Matt Wilson.

The company included the president (Canon J. H. D. Grinter), the Master and Mrs. Raithby, Mr. E. F. Taylor and Mr. F. W. Midwinter.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Cove, Mr. and Mrs. F. Derry, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Exton, Mr. and Mrs. R. Mumford, Mr. and Mrs. H. Stevenson, Mr. and Mrs. J. Walden and Mr. and Mrs. E. Warren-Butler.

Messrs. C. H. Chapman, A. E. Chilton, C. J. Copp, G. E. Foster, M. Grinter, L. Hemstock, D. Hough, C. Jackson, A. Lacy, J. L. Millhouse, J. Pearson, F. Pickard, J. Pratchett, B. Plummer, G. Randles, D. Simpson, J. Smalley, C. Town and M. Wilson.

The Misses N. Bibby, G. Burchnell, K. Burchnell, J. Canner, M. Chilton, A. Cove, B. Millhouse, J. Richardson, E. Rose and E. Tutty.

Rang 28,850 Changes In Loughborough Attempt

A very gallant attempt for the extent of Plain Bob Major was made at Loughborough Bell Foundry on November 21st.

After a false start of 25 minutes, due to the conductor not learning the composition properly, we got off to a good start at 7.35 a.m.

The band stood: John A. Anderson 1, Alan J. Frost 2, Dennis Knox 3, Patrick I. Chapman 4, Barrie Hendry 5, Norman V. Harding 6, Edgar J. Smith 7, Stephen Ivvin (conductor) 8.

The first few parts were rung at a fairly steady speed, and the first peal came up in 2 hours 20 minutes. After this the ringing increased in speed, and the halfway came up in 9 hours 16 minutes. The trips (missed dodges) up to this point could be counted on one's fingers, and everything was most encouraging. Discipline was strict enough to satisfy even Jayfus, and practically nothing was eaten by anyone.

The band had really got their second wind by now, and the ringing was proceeding like clockwork at a speed of 2.15 for 5,040. When the 12-hour mark passed there was every hope of success. From the standard of striking it was hard to believe that we had rung the clock round, as the tape-recordings taken at intervals will prove.

Trouble came when the conductor called a bob 'Fifths' a blow late, although within two or three changes the ringing resumed its steady beat. We had then been ringing almost 13 hours.

About half-an-hour later one of the ringers had some trouble with his rope, and incorrect instructions as to what he should have been doing led to some confusion. This was speedily rectified, but the conductor felt, personally, that it was a pity to mar an otherwise excellent effort, and 'Stand' was called. In this opinion, however, he was in a very small minority—himself alone, in fact! However, the fact that there was no incompetence on anyone's part soon mellowed the disappointment, and we felt that such a gallant end would be a challenge to other bands making the attempt.

The end came in the third lead of the 259th course, after 28,850 changes, approximately, in 13 hours 18 minutes. STEPHEN IVVIN.

REDEDICATION

HARTLEBURY, WORCESTERSHIRE

Although the weather was far from pleasant on November 7th, ringers from all over the diocese and several towers beyond were present at Hartlebury for the rededication of the bells after retuning and rehanging by Messrs. John Taylor and Co., of Loughborough.

The ceremony was performed by the Rector (Rev. W. H. S. Davies), who used the Association's form of service. He gave an excellent address, outlining the efforts which had been made to bring about this restoration, which was carried through concurrently with extensive repairs to the fabric of the church, following a plan which had its inception in the time of his predecessor.

The service concluded with the singing of the hymn 'Now thank we all our God,' followed by the Blessing, after which the majority of the assembled company adjourned to the school, at the invitation of the churchwardens (Messrs. E. H. Sobey and M. C. Grazebrook), where a bountiful buffet tea was waiting.

Further ringing followed, with something for everyone, much satisfaction being expressed at the excellent job which Messrs. John Taylor had done. The regular Friday evening practices are now resumed, and visitors may be sure of a welcome. B. C. A.

Ancient Society Of College Youths

At a meeting held on November 14th at the Rising Sun, Carter Lane, E.C., the following were elected officers for the year 1960:—

PIPE'S PILGRIMS' 1959 TOUR

ALL roads lead to —! On Bank Holiday week-end this year the blank would have read Grantham, for it was here that the Pilgrims had the first ring of their tour, ringing for morning service. What a lovely ten to start a really glorious week.

After lunch we journeyed to Harthill, with its medium eight, which I had thought little of on my first visit; but I was happy on this my second acquaintance with them to rate them much higher. From here to Campsall (my new tower), where ringing was delayed by a baptism service. Here Eric Critchley came to see us, and it was grand to see him in circulation again after his operation. Tea was at Pontefract, and after this our coach did a shuttle service between St. Giles' and All Saints', so that all the party had a ring at both these towers. So on to Leeds, our resting place for two nights.

'HIS OWN MIDDEN'

Monday was spent in the heart of the West Riding, with the 'cock crowing on his own midden,' and I think the Pilgrims will agree that apart from 'Yorkshire ends' (sorry, Pauline), there was something to crow about. Starting at Tadcaster, a town with three breweries and a lovely ring of eight at a ton (should those two items have been reversed?), the route was via Collingham—a lovely village—, past the gates of Harewood House and along the valley of the Wharf to Otley. The 16 cwt. tenor here was the lightest ring of the day. Lunch was at Ilkley, and here, between touches, ringers went to view the Snowdon window. Skirting the moor where someone courted Mary Jane and caught their death of cold (translated specially for Roddy), and following the valley, we arrived at Skipton, and a grand eight (crowing again) were soon away to some well-struck touches.

Tea and ringing, in that order, were at Keighley, the most industrial town of the day. Acting as guide, I found a new moorland road to Guiseley (thanks, Jim, for suggesting it). There we were met by Cyril Walsh who, with a straight face but with a twinkle in his eye, said: 'I expected a party dressed in brown habits with hoods, and staffs in their hands, when I came to meet the Pilgrims.' After a quick ring here (we were rather behind schedule) we set off for Headingley, and here again the shuttle service operated between St. Chad's and St. Michael's. That was the end of the scheduled list, but by taxi, Corporation bus and our coach, a dash was made to enable those who had not previously grabbed the tower to ring at Leeds Parish Church—the only 12 of the week.

The first three towers on Tuesday possessed rings of eight, all round the same weight and each from a different foundry: all are good and each has its good points. They were: Pudsey, newest of the three, by Mears and Stainbank; then Northowram, by Gillett and Johnston; and so to the hills for Sowerby St. Peter's, by Taylors. From here to Huddersfield for lunch and a ring on the fine ten there, and also the eight at Almondbury. This was the last tower in Yorkshire, and we journeyed from here over the moors, passing the Holme Moss television station, into Derbyshire, where we rang at Glossop and Fairfield before seeking our hotel at Buxton.

NOT BEST FORM

Wednesday's list had five tens and an eight, and for some reason we didn't seem to strike our best form. We started at Leek, in Staffs, then over the border to Crewe, Cheshire, where we looked like making a better show but it was not to be. After lunch, Hanley and Newcastle followed a similar pattern, and Stoke St. Peter, the eight of the day, did not produce our best. At Stafford St. Mary's things looked like going better, till someone forgot 8-7 places in Cambridge. To crown all, the guide (yours truly) took a wrong turning, and the lanes got narrower and narrower and Burton seemed a long way off. We got there eventually and were split up among three hotels.

Thursday's first tower was Burton St. Modwen, having a very nice eight; we left on time, but the next tower soon upset the timetable. The heavy six at Hoar Cross were well and truly enjoyed and time passed much too quickly. In consequence we were late at Uttoxeter and also for lunch at Ashbourne. Between lunch and bedtime we rang at four very nice Derbyshire towers—Youlgrave, the heaviest, at 26½ cwt., 'The Cathedral of the Peak,' St. John's, Tideswell, and after tea, Bakewell (and no tarts), and last but not least Ashover.

IN DERBY

Thursday and Friday nights were spent in Derby, and Friday morning's ringing was at four Derby towers—St. Andrew's and the Cathedral, both having nice tens, St. Luke's, a very heavy eight, and St. Peter's, much lighter. After lunch, Duffield—the tower and the method—was enjoyed on this ten by all, as was the eight at Eastwood, which followed. Tea at Southwell was followed by ringing at the Minster: this cack-handed (Yorkshire for anticlockwise) ring of eight was not everyone's cup of tea; but everyone enjoyed the eight at Ilkeston which followed and ended the day's ringing.

Back at the hotel a social evening was enjoyed. Presentations were made to Jim and Sylvia and to our coach driver. Then a poet (?) gave a report of the week's activities, which got 'verse and verse' as it went on, and also more scurrilous and scandalous: still, he's still alive.

Saturday started with ringing at Nottingham St. Peter's, and here I had to leave and head back to the county of broad acres and broader vowels, but from my previous experience of the next three towers on the list—Bottesford, Calston Bassett and Melton Mowbray—I feel sure the others would have a nice day.

Thanks are due to a long list of people: to all who helped to make this week in six counties a memorable one. May I, on behalf of the Pilgrims, say a really big 'Thank you.'

I. S.

P.S.—The original report was lost in the post.—Ed.

BEXHILL, SUSSEX.—On Nov. 9th. 1,260 Grand-sire Doubles: M. Swift 1, Audrey Eldridge 2, J. Carr 3, Daphne Pankhurst 4, C. E. Verdon (cond.) 5, C. Pilbeam 6. Ring half-muffled in memory of the Rev. W. J. B. Crouch, whose funeral took place earlier in the day.

THOUGHTS ON PEALS

Have you ever rung a peal or ever tried to arrange one? There is more to a peal than merely 'grabbing it.'

Some years ago—1946 to be precise—that noted all-round ringer, 'young Tom Groombridge' from some correspondence in 'The Ringing World' on peal-grabbing, thought I was a ringer of doubtful ability (which was correct) trying to get into a good peal band (which was not correct), and suggested that if I wanted peals I should try to arrange them.

Later on I was 'invited' to stand in several peals. My 'first', naturally, was at my own tower, by the invitation of my technical advisers, Dick Langford and George Packer — Caters.

A little later I was invited by another fine ringer-conductor, Howard Howell, of Walsall, for a peal of Cinques. Then a failure at Repton, Triples, with Sid Jones and Walter Whitehead. The next was Doubles at Marchington, Staffs, and at Montgomery for an Odd Fellows peal with Sam Jones, junior. Then with Sam again at Eccleston for his father's 86th birthday—by the way, happy birthday, 'Father' Sam.

I think everybody will agree that these were enough to whet anyone's appetite, so I thought it was high time I tried what I had been advised to do—try arranging a peal. By now a very high standard had been set both in churches, bells and bands.

The first thing is, of course, the bells, and the proper person for permission is the incumbent, be he dean, vicar or rector. In many cases the perfect liaison between the clergy and his ringers helps considerably, and that's how it should be. Choose a nice church with good bells; ask for the bells and the goodwill of the ringers to ring them. If the incumbent knows the applicant as do the ringers, that helps with getting the bells.

As to the band, the more ringing friends you have the harder it is to choose: including the ladies, of course, there are some very capable ringers. Probably in the band there will be a 'first pealer.'

Speaking of the ladies, some time ago I arranged a peal at what has recently been described as 'our greatest cathedral,' and included a 'gracious lady.' After the ringing the band adjourned for liquid refreshment and, naturally, invited the lady, who seemed rather surprised until it was pointed out that she also was the only lady in the tower. Incidentally, another gracious lady was 'baby-sitting' for the ringer. These friendships and associations are a lovely part of the ringing world life. The ladies are a very valuable asset, and help to keep us straight.

After posting the invitations, then the headache begins. You know the Bible parable of the wedding feast—'and they all began with one accord to make excuses . . .—especially if you don't give them reasonable notice.

Time is an important factor. For a 2.30 p.m. attempt don't come rolling up at 3 to 3.15. After the usual pleasantries, if necessary the adjustments of ropes: if you do have to alter them, please readjust them.

I have just arranged another peal, so 'Look to,' go for Stedman; keep your eyes open, listen to it, and good luck, happy ringing, and a successful peal.

This is all: stand. FRANK STENSON.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

A REMINDER ON LONG LENGTHS

Dear Sir,—While condoling with the band who rang such a long way last Saturday (November 21st) at Loughborough towards the 40,320 Plain Bob Major, I suggest that they might well, if successful, have given cause for future discussion and dissension, and suggest that next time they be more careful.

The Central Council's rule relating to notification of record attempts requires that the day and hour of starting the attempt be published. Mr. Ivins' letter in 'R.W.' of November 13th gave the date (22nd), which was incorrect, and did not give a starting time. So the whole object of the rule, which is clearly so that anyone, especially the holders of the existing record, may listen to the attempt, was defeated. —Yours, etc.,

W. G. WILSON.

OLD RINGER'S COMMENTS

Dear Sir,—I know of quite a few of the older ringers who gave up taking the 'R.W.' when the price was increased before. It is hoped that a similar occurrence does not defeat its own end. Peal records would be just as interesting if printed similar to the quarter peals, thus saving a lot of space. Reports of outings or tours are only interesting when items of interest concerning church, bells or scenery are mentioned. No one else wants to know what Monica or Bill did or didn't do, the interested parties already know.

By the way, I wonder who the silly people are who give or sell bells to scrap merchants—also who the scrap metal dealers are who don't know the value of bell metal? Or is Percy pulling our leg?—Yours faithfully,

A. BIGLEY.

No. 1 READER'S VIEWS

Dear Sir,—I hope you will allow me to say a few words regarding 'The Ringing World.' Some little time has elapsed since a fine gentleman whom I escorted to measure the tenor at my home said to me: 'Young man, do you take a ringing paper?' I said: 'Yes, the "Bell News".' He then produced 'The Ringing World,' No. 1, and I am pleased to say I have had it ever since.

What concerns me now most is this. I am now enjoying my pension, nearing my 70th birthday. Now I ask all ringers whose names appear regularly, what is our paper for? If we send in a notice of a meeting we pay for it. I would have thought the only way to keep it solvent and within the reach of some of us was not to rely on cheap advertisements and to pay for peals they send in to publish.

If the Oxford Guild members who proposed giving £20 from Guild funds would subscribe more themselves, it would not give away part of the subscriptions of those members who subscribe regularly and never once have a peal or quarter peal sent in without sending a donation.

I am afraid I shall have to be like a few other ringers and give the increased suggested subscription before paying for other people's pleasure.—Yours, etc.,

J. KEYTE.

Freeland, Oxford.

CARBIS BAY DEDICATION

Dear Sir,—The report of the above states: 'The service was conducted by the Vicar, Canon I. S. Jenkins.' I am glad to say, however, that I am still Vicar of Carbis Bay, and conducted the service. Canon Jenkins, Vicar of St. Ives, read the lesson. I am making this correction so that my many friends will know that they can still write to me whenever they want to come to try Cornwall's new light ten.

This is an opportunity to thank all those who, over the last two-and-a-half years, have supported the completion of the tower, because of which it has been possible to add the two trebles. Many and generous have been the gifts from visiting ringers. The co-operation, too, of all, has been marvellous, and none more than of my own local band. During the five months of building operations ringing took place twice every Sunday and on Friday evenings. Only on one practice night did we have to give up when, with no roof, an unexpected thunderstorm brought rain dropping on us through the ceiling. Dust and rubble on the floor perturbed no one. Even the hanging of the two trebles made no difference.

Mr. John Walker started on a Monday morning, and despite the rearrangement he had to do, he dropped from among the bells on the Friday evening, telling us with his happy smile that the ten bells were ready to try; and so off we went to a sound several of the band had never heard before.

My gratitude for the support received in what at first thoughts seemed an impossible undertaking, at the hallowing of the bells, and finally at the dedication, can only be repaid by welcoming those who wish to come to try and enjoy the only ten in a parish church in Cornwall.—Yours sincerely,

A. S. ROBERTS.

Carbis Bay, Cornwall.

GIRL GUIDES' RINGER'S BADGE

Dear Sir,—I read with interest the rules by which a Scout can obtain the Ringer's Badge. I enclose the rules which apply to the Girl Guides in the hope you can publish, Miss J. Emery, a Guide who rings regularly in our tower, has just passed her test, and is awaiting her badge.—Yours faithfully,

P. J. EDNAMS.

Great Horwood, Bucks.

GIRL GUIDES' RINGER'S BADGE

Below is a list of requirements to obtain the badge.

1. Be able to ring rounds accurately.
2. Be able to raise and lower a bell, in peal preferably.
3. Be able to ring two standard methods—(a) Grandsire, or (b) either Plain Bob Doubles or Plain Bob Minor preferred.
4. Be able to explain the technical terms used in ringing in her own tower.
5. Describe the parts of a bell, and how it is hung.
6. Demonstrate ability to splice a rope, and show that she understands the importance of rope maintenance.

COMMENTS ON OLD BELLS

Dear Sir,—Following the remarks in Belfry Gossip, several people have written to me, inquiring (1) the price to pay for old bells, if any good; (2) for information about small bells (other than handbells) suitable for tune playing; (3) whether I could pen a few articles on tune playing.

Though not in the scrap or second-hand trade, I can, on pretty good authority, state that the present day catalogue price for old bells of bell metal (not steel bells) is 1s. 1d. per lb.

Small bells, like large, will at times have hair cracks and casting flaws, noticeable only by holding up the bells and sounding them. Such bells do not pay to be recast and so are best left alone. The shape and design of small bells (as with large) have a lot to do with their tone. They differ in a variety of ways in their designs.

Some have short waists and flat, almost razor-edged, crowns: those are not always the best-toned. Other have flat crowns but longer waists: these generally give a better sound than the first. Some there are with slightly raised crowns and rounded at the rim instead of 'razor-edged.' If the lip (or sound bow) of these is fairly thick, they are a rule the best-toned, especially if the lip is deep and not short, as are some.

As in large bells, the size does not always indicate depth of note: a small bell can sometimes be in a deeper note than another half as big again. The second is, I believe, heavier than the third at Finedon Church; there is some peculiarity of this sort, too, at Kineton, and at Irchester there is a difference of 9 cwt. between the seventh and the tenor of their eight—12½ cwt. against 21½ cwt.

As for tunes, one could keep on writing for ever about these—especially on an octave eight, and equally so on the first eight of 12, if one is interested in hymn playing. Some really lovely tunes can be got on the last named, as, for example, 'Bright the vision,' or that sweet little tune to No. 98, English Hymnal, sometimes sung to 'Peace, perfect peace' in place of the one more commonly known: neither of these can be got on an octave owing to the flat second necessary.

Something like 20 to 30 are possible on the last six of an octave, but only a very few on five. I only know of three: 'Now the day is over,' the Advent Litany ('God the Father, God the Son') and a tune sung by the Salvation Army a lot to the words 'Nothing but the blood of Jesus.'—Yours sincerely,

P. AMOS.

Weston Favell.

LETTERS—Continued

A SUGGESTION

Dear Sir,—It appears, from the report of a meeting published in 'The Ringing World,' that the cost of 'The Ringing World' is to be increased as from January next, and that there will be the usual spate of letters arguing for and against.

Some of the letters will undoubtedly give constructive criticism, whilst others will probably reflect the reverse side of human nature, and show how mean we really can be.

If we expect to be provided with a paper that is exclusive to our particular hobby, then we must expect to pay an exclusive price.

We are told that one of the things we must try to do is to increase the sales, and I would like to suggest something on the following lines.

There must be many towers where money is paid from the church in to the belfry funds, and where many of the ringers do not desire to be paid directly for services rendered. There will also be many towers where one 'Ringing World' is purchased for the general use of the ringers, and although it may be delivered somewhere either Thursday or Friday, does not reach the belfry until the Sunday, and sometimes later.

Meetings may have been advertised in the current issue for the Saturday, of which many ringers are unaware.

I would therefore like to put forward for consideration by interested persons that the annual postal subscription to 'The Ringing World' be paid from the belfry funds for the members of a tower, which may have the effect of increasing the circulation of 'The Ringing World,' and perhaps also increase the attendance at some of the badly-supported ringing meetings.—Yours fraternally,

FRED HODGSON.

Darlington.

IN DEFENCE OF 'THE MASTER MIND'

Dear Sir,—The last article by Mr. H. Chant seems to have caused some unrest amongst the 'trippers.'

Now, sir, let me put the lid on this bickering. Professor Dodge resides in the land of 'Cartwheelers,' violent and champion ringers of Great Britain, who think that some information from the 'master mind' is much better reading than the tower-grabbing trip reports.

I shall also throw a challenge to anyone interested. Professor Dodge's pupils consider themselves the champions of Great Britain, and the title will be rung for at the next shield contest in the summer of 1960. Only those teams who can ring a 720 of Minor, any method, with no more than 45 faults need compete.—Yours, etc.,

'ARTFUL DODGER.'

Huddersfield.

MR. YORK-BRAMBLE AND THE RABBITS' GUILD

Dear Sir,—We must beg to be allowed to correct your misprint in the issue of November 27th. Mr. York-Bramble was elected the first honorary life member for his feat in bringing down the Cambridge which a member had failed to wreck. For the Rabbits' Guild to honour him for bringing it round would, of course, be pointless.—Yours faithfully,

B. M. W. D.,
Secretary, R.G.

Edgbaston.

OBITUARY

MR. MORRIS A. TURNER

Mr. M. A. Turner was a ringer at SS. Peter and Paul's, Kettering, for many years, until he emigrated to the United States before the Great War. He paid two return visits to this country, in 1956 and 1958. On the first visit he rang two peals but, during the second, ill health forced him to restrict ringing activities.

His death in Philadelphia, at the age of 78, bereaves the former tower captain at Kettering—his brother, Mr. Robert F. Turner—to whom our sympathy is extended.

On November 17th the bells were rung half-muffled in his memory. A touch of 432 Stedman Triples, one of 'Alf's' favourite methods, was followed by some plain courses of Stedman and Grandsire Triples. May he rest in peace.
S. R. C.

MR. STANLEY NUNN

By the sudden death of Mr. Stanley Nunn, in his 64th year on October 30th, Garboldisham, Norfolk, loses a great character and an enthusiastic bell-ringer.

Stanley, as he was known all over South Norfolk and Suffolk, had a varied life. He was son of a miller who worked the old windmill in Garboldisham, his birthplace. Educated at Framlingham College, he was apprenticed to Brooke Marine, of Lowestoft. Experience in steam engines, trawlers and ships gained there stood him in good stead, and following service abroad in the 1914-18 war with the Ordnance Corps, he was a taxi driver in Paris—an unusual job for any Englishman, and an experience from which Stanley could bring forth a spate of amusing yarns. He returned to England in 1924, having been a cinema owner in France, and started up a motor garage, in which the quality of his work had become a byword in these parts.

Following the sad death of his wife in 1956, he took up bell-ringing. Although a fair handler he could never master method ringing; but this did not damp his enthusiasm for call-changes or rounds. But his main love was bell-hanging. The good condition of the mechanism at Blo-Norton is mainly due to Stanley's ingenuity and patience; and he was always ready to give advice and carry out practical repairs in a sensible and economic way at any tower. He was something of an antiquarian, and loved to drive his old Austin car many hundreds of miles to visit churches in out-of-the-way places. His red, beaming face at the wheel of his car, full of other ringers, will be missed, from the roads of East Anglia.

The packed church at Garboldisham on Nov. 4th bears testimony to the respect owed to him on the day of his funeral. Wreaths included one in the shape of a bell, complete with headstock, and inscribed 'N.D.A.' in pink carnation petals from the South Branch of the Norwich Association. A quarter peal, half-muffled, was rung to mark the occasion by two separate bands—his own faithful company at Blo-Norton and a South Branch band at Garboldisham.

SHEFFIELD AND DISTRICT SOCIETY

When the Sheffield and District Society held their meeting at Treeton on November 7th, the Vicar made a strong appeal to the Society for help with the training of the local company. The youth leader, said the Vicar, was teaching a few young people to handle a bell, but his own ability was limited, and outside aid was necessary if the team was to start change-ringing. The team would welcome anyone who might help, even if only occasional visits.

Through the arrival of visitors from Wakefield, Bradford and Todmorden, a good standard of ringing was maintained. Unfortunately only three towers were represented.

GUILD OF DEVONSHIRE RINGERS

North-West Branch

The Rev. John Scott, of Clawton, was elected chairman of the N.W. Branch at its annual meeting on November 7th at Hartland. He succeeds Mr. F. C. Smale, who has resigned, and the meeting proposed that life membership should be conferred on Mr. Smale. The other officers were re-elected. Some 30 members attended, and ringing was of a good standard, including Stedman, Plain Bob and Kent T.B. Thanks were accorded the Vicar for conducting the service, the organist, and those who kindly supplied the tea.

Mid-Devon Branch

The fourth quarterly meeting of the Mid-Devon Branch at Buckfast Abbey attracted ringers from Babbacombe, Teignmouth, Chudleigh, Axminster and Taunton, who, with members of the Abbey team, climbed the 126 steps to the ringing chamber.

Touche of Grandsire Caters, Bob Triples, Stedman Caters and Bob Royal were successfully rung in the presence of the president, Preb. E. V. Cox.

The highlight was the chiming of the seven-ton Hosanna bell. Following tea at Buckfastleigh, a business meeting was held, at which Mrs. R. Border, Mr. C. Skidmore and Mr. N. J. Goodman were confirmed as life members. Ian Hay, Philipa Russell, Elizabeth Rossiter and Patricia Sharp were elected members of the Guild, and a certificate was presented to A. van Doorninck. The meeting ended with a visit to Holne Church, where a number of call-changes were rung.

RINGING CONDITIONS IN WORCESTER

THE recent peal of Stedman Cinques on the bells of Worcester Cathedral has given rise to a spate of letters in the 'Worcester Evening News and Times.' Complaints have also been made concerning the ringing of bells at All Saints' and St. John's churches. A few of the letters are in praise of church bell music.

The Dean has taken a sensible view of the protests. He has since met the ringers and told them not to worry about what they had read, and that as far as he was concerned there was no question of altering the ringing arrangements. He felt that the complainants were in a minority.

We think our readers will be interested in the following conditions governing ringing in Worcester, supplied to us by Mr. David Beacham:—

(1) We always make a point of giving advance notice in the local Press of peal attempts at the Cathedral. Unfortunately, on this occasion the notice was not published, through a misunderstanding, although submitted.

(2) In an endeavour to be reasonable about peals, it is our rule to make one peal attempt a year on the ten or 12 and one a year on the middle eight. The last peal was in February, 1958 (Stedman Cinques), of which notice was given and no complaints received.

(3) Peals are normally rung in the afternoon.

(4) The bells are rung for about 35 minutes every Sunday, mornings and evenings alternately. There is no practice ringing. We have about two visiting bands every year.

(5) The bells of St. John's are rung every Sunday evening for an hour, and practice night is generally every other week. The bells are reasonably quiet.

(6) All Saints' bells are rung alternate Sunday mornings for half-an-hour and practice alternate weeks. These bells are also reasonably quiet.

(7) If asked to cease ringing due to sickness, etc., in the vicinity, we do so.

(8) We agree that the Cathedral bells are noisy outside (hardly surprising!), but feel our ringing arrangements are very reasonable.

BEVERLEY AND DISTRICT

The fog of the preceding days did not deter 24 members, representing 13 towers, of the Society from attending a most successful meeting at All Saints' Church, Hessle, on November 14th. A wide variety of methods was rung, ranging from rounds to London Surprise.

The service was conducted by the Rev. M. Emmel, and a short and sparkling address was given by the Rev. J. Johnson, who afterwards joined in the evening ringing. An excellent tea was served in the Church Hall by the local ladies, and was followed by the business meeting, when Mr. Peter Came, of Danbury, Essex, was elected a member. Cottingham was selected as the venue for the annual general meeting in February.

RINGERS' OUTINGS

CHURCH GRESLEY, DERBYS

The first outing of the young band who ring the new five at Church Gresley, near Burton, took place on one of the closing days of the glorious summer, being transported in cars by the Rev. K. Roy Upton (Vicar), the Rev. David F. Towers (curate) and Mr. D. P. Jones (instructor). Although only call-changes were attempted, useful experience was gained on the light sixes visited, help being provided by local ringers.

The journey to Taxal, in its pretty valley, lay over high places in the Peak District and Buxton, passing the nearly-empty Fernilee Reservoir, emphasising the severe drought in the Stockport area. Disley was next visited before crossing the valley for a meal at Strines, Marple.

The afternoon was spent touring Longsight, Manchester, railway locomotive depot, where over 60 engines were seen and a thorough inspection made inside a large new diesel locomotive, also in the coaling plant. Next, enjoyable hours were spent in the nearby amusements and zoo at Belle Vue Park, before proceeding to Chelford and Bosley, the final towers.

WALTHAM ABBEY

Waltham Abbey ringers enjoyed their outing on September 12th in the Thames Valley area. The pleasant ten at Rickmansworth were first rung. At Marlow, however, ringing was rather disrupted on account of a funeral, but Mr. Poole spared no effort to ensure that everyone had a chance to ring.

Interests were divided at enley, where some 'relaxed' by rowing, but those who went to St. Mary's Church enjoyed the ringing. An hour's ringing at Wallingford preceded tea, and later came Thame and Tring towers to end an enjoyable day, for which we owe thanks to incumbents and those ringers who made us so welcome.

M. C. A.

YATTON VISIT PLYMOUTH AREA

In the early hours of November 14th, another of Bert Price's popular outings commenced. The party of eight on 50 consisted of the Yatton ringers and friends, and representatives of the following towers: Keynsham, Chew Magna, Winford, Kingston Seymour, Mark, Locking, Worle, Kewstoke, Wington, Uphill and Beckford (Worcs).

The venue this time was the Plymouth area, and thanks are due to British Railways for making excellent travel arrangements, both train (reserved compartments) and coach. On arrival at Plymouth we were met by Mr. Sims, who came with us as pilot, and we are grateful to him and also the driver of the luxurious coach who negotiated the narrow, winding Devonshire lanes with uncanny skill. We passed through some beautiful scenery, but unfortunately much of it was blotted out by rain which scarcely ceased all day.

Our first tower was Stoke Damerel, Plymouth (a substitute for Emmanuel, under repair); after a short while ringing came to an abrupt end on the arrival of a bride for her wedding. We then moved on to Plympton, and after a break for refreshments spent two happy hours on the delightful bells at Plympton St. Mary (8) and Plympton St. Maurice (8).

The half-hour coach drive, which took us both sides of the River Yarn to Revelstoke, Noss Mayo and the bells (8), was much enjoyed, as also was the drive back to Plymouth around the Hoe and through the shopping centre, now well lit up, to the Magnet Café, where an excellent meal was served and much appreciated by all. Here we met Mr. T. G. Myers, captain of St. Andrew's, who had made all the tower arrangements; later at St. Andrew's (10), where the ringing was again greatly enjoyed, Mr. Myers was heartily thanked by Mr. Price for all he had done.

Ringling during the day ranged from rounds to Cambridge Major, plus Grandsire and Stedman Caters. The journey home commenced at 8.5 p.m., but high spirits that had not been damped by the rain made the necessary rest and sleep a delayed action—I am glad to report 'no broken stays!'. Our toast to Mr. Price for organising another lovely outing. P. P.

BRISTOL RINGERS IN SOMERSET

About 30 members of the University of Bristol Society and the St. Stephen's Guild of Ringers enjoyed a very successful coach outing to some of the finest of Somerset towers on November 21st. An hour's run over the Mendips on a soft autumn afternoon brought us to Chewton Mendip, in its hollow, with the pinnaled church tower rising above. We paid tribute to this melodious eight with a patriotic three leads of Bristol. Then on to Shepton Mallet, where we had great difficulty with ropes which had shrunk because of the damp weather.

Tea had been provided for us at The Bell in Evercreech. Such a wonderful spread is an infrequent and welcome sight on U.B.S.C.R. outings! Afterwards, the eight at Ditchet went rewardingly to a musical touch of Spliced Plain and Little Bob, and then the last tower of the day was St. Peter's, Evercreech, home of the 'radio bells.' Everyone was given a good chance to enjoy these to Grandsire, Stedman and Erin Caters, with plenty of rounds for the learners.

A farewell visit to The Bell, and an unusually quiet ride home, brought this thoroughly enjoyable outing to an end. Many thanks to Miss Jane Cook and Mr. Albert Tyler for smooth, efficient organisation. B. W. A.

YOUNG RINGERS' PEAL AT DROITWICH

On November 14th a peal was rung to commemorate the restoration of the 800-year-old Church of St. Peter-de-Witton, Droitwich. The average age of the band was 15 years 2 months, and all the band are past or present pupils of Bromsgrove High School (1, 3, 5), King Edward's, Stourbridge (2, 4), and King's, Worcester (6). It is believed to be the youngest team to ring a peal for the Association.

The team included four first peelers, but the striking was very good when it is considered that the ringers of 1 and 3 have only been ringing for eight months, and the treble bell was rung without a stay—no mean achievement for a first pealer!

Congratulation is especially due to the two 12-year-olds on 2 and 3, who rang very well despite their small size.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION Ashford District

Some 50 ringers attended the Ashford District meeting held at Saltwood on November 21st. The service was conducted by the Rector (Rev. E. Stanton) who, in his address, gave some interesting information about old bell-founders and bells in the district. Tea was provided and served by the Saltwood ringers and their friends.

Two new members—Mr. J. D. Burnett, of Saltwood, and Mr. P. J. Denne, of Wittersham—joined the Association. Mr. J. Willis, speaking on behalf of the meeting, thanked the Rector and the Saltwood ringers for their kindness.

Mr. T. Cullingworth acted as Ringing Master in the tower, and there was some good ringing in a variety of methods until 9 o'clock.

BARNESLEY & DISTRICT SOCIETY

At the monthly meeting at Royston on November 14th a report was presented by Mr. Noel F. Moxon on the jubilee dinner, at which everything was satisfactory. Mr. Moxon was warmly thanked by Mr. Harold Chant for making the arrangements.

Mr. Alec Beaumont, of Wentworth, and Mr. Stephen Kestor, of Ecclesfield, were elected members, and Conisbrough, near Doncaster, was selected for the meeting on December 12th. The Vicar (Rev. R. E. K. Law), who presided, was thanked for the use of the bells, and Mr. Frank Mitchell and the local company for the arrangements. Attention was drawn by Mr. Moxon to a ringing course to be held at Grantley Hall, near Ripon, about Eastertime. The meeting was closed by the Vicar with the ringers' prayers.

THE SAMPLING OF YOUTH

'You can't get the young ones to stick to it nowadays.'

THIS observation is often heard in towers up and down the country from ringers. 'You start them off,' they will tell you. 'They are keen at first. You get them up to ringing rounds and perhaps doing a bit of hunting, and then they're off. Pictures, courting, night school, or just can't be bothered any more.' 'Must have taught nearly every youngster in the town to handle a bell some time or other,' some will add; but one and all will agree that 'you can't get the young ones to stick to it nowadays.'

It's a revealing sentence is this, especially that sting in the tail—the 'nowadays.' Teenagers, we are given to understand, have not always been like this, and there never has been such a lot before. Sometimes the 'nowadays' is followed by 'Now, when I was a youngster . . .', and sometimes this is not actually spoken; but it is generally clear enough that comparisons are being drawn between the speaker's youth—be it five or 50 years ago—and today's, and today's are found to compare pretty unfavourably. It is not surprising really, because after all we did stick it and they do not; we have the experience of subsequent years through which to filter our memories, they have not; we have put away childish things, they have not. No, they cannot stand comparison with us! But what are we comparing, anyhow?—the child with the man, not the child of today with the child of yesterday. It does, of course, cut both ways, since the youngsters are probably also drawing their comparisons and vowing and hoping they will never become such old stick-in-the-muds. If it were really true that each generation failed to match up to its predecessor, what glorious pinnacle of achievement and sobriety man must have occupied in the days of William the Conqueror, or Nero, or the Babylonian Empire or the Stone Age! History books give the lie to this: man has not been slithering downhill generation after generation.

No, we are not being fair if we put all the blame on the youngsters. Boys and girls in their 'teens are living exciting lives, all sorts of new experiences and vistas are opening out every day; it is the hors d'œuvres of their lives, when they sample a bit of this and a bit of that. It is not a time to stick to anything; the heavy, solid dishes are soon to follow—earning a living, marriage, running a home—they will have to be stuck to.

Are we right to look upon every youngster who enters the belfry as a potential lifetime ringer, and expect him to acquire the serious-minded adult approach to it? Some may become lifetime ringers, most will not; but rather, let us rejoice that they have chosen ringing as one of the dishes they are sampling, and let us see that the dish is as attractive as possible. They may learn nothing about ringing; but who knows what else of value they may acquire in the Christian atmosphere of our belfry?

'He'll never make a ringer,' sometimes we say, encouragingly, about one who is sticking it but making rather heavy weather of it. Who are we to judge? Better 'judges' than we have been wrong on this very point before now; and even if we do turn out to be right, he might well have learnt something from making the effort to be a ringer that will be of lasting value to him. We had best keep opinions like this to ourselves.

The young, too, are perceptive of the ways of adults. They are not slow to criticise us when we are inefficient and bungling. Used to the rigid discipline and organisation at school, they expect a lesson to be a lesson, and they expect that if it is said to start at 7.30 it will start at 7.30, not five-to-eight. They are quick to sense the hypocrisy of ringing for service and not attending it, and quick, too, unfortunately, to follow suit. They want to respect the adults they meet but will not give respect where it is not due. The youngsters of today are good for us.

Must we look upon teaching teenagers to ring as a deadly chore? Suppose we have taught every youngster in the parish to handle a bell—have we not taught them at least one thing worth knowing? It is certain, at least, that if we do keep teaching scores of youngsters to handle a bell, and still have not got a band of ringers, there is something wrong with the present generation of us, not them!

The picture of 'Ambridge' ringers and belfry in the 'Borchester Echo' has intrigued one of our readers. Could any reader supply the identity? An 8-bell peal board on the wall is one clue. Has the art of bell-ringing been introduced into this famous diary?

BELFRY

A peal of Prittlewell Surprise Maximus was rung on November 28th at Saffron Walden, conducted by Mr. G. William Critchley.

Tomorrow (Saturday) is the 61st anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Walker, of Birmingham. We are pleased to state that both are well and very thankful too!

Mr. Edward G. Battle, ringer and clerk at St. Peter's, Wenhaston, has died. To his memory a peal of Minor was rung on the church bells on November 30th.

Peals of Minor rung by the College Youths are not a frequent occurrence, but a recent spate of birthdays at Warsop, Notts, resulted in a peal of Cambridge Surprise Minor, rung as a birthday compliment to H. T. Rooke, George Challans, J. T. Rooke and Frank Cook, who are all Sunday service ringers at Warsop.

Three bishops have a date with the teenagers in the 'Sunday Break,' A.B.C.'s religious programme for the younger generation. They are Bishop Lesslie Newbigin, of the Church of South India, on December 27th, the Bishop of Aberdeen and the Orkneys, on April 24th, and the Bishop of Coventry on May 8th.

Replying to criticism in Yarmouth 'Mercury' that the bells are very subdued, the Vicar (Rev. Gilbert Thurlow) states: 'We began by making them soft, rather than making them so loud that everyone in the neighbourhood would complain. We can always make them louder by removing some of the wooden panels that block the windows.'

GOSSIP

The dedication of Farnham Parish Church bells took place last Saturday evening. After the service there was an hour's ringing, and the remarkable transformation by Messrs. John Taylor from the former lumpy ring afforded great pleasure to all who participated. An officers' peal attempt was arranged for the following Tuesday. The new tenor is about 19 cwt. and the bells are very quiet in the ringing chamber.

A new use for handbells—a cure for flatulence. Authority: Guild of Medical Ringers (see report).

The first peal at Thurcaston, Leics, was on April 17th, 1920, and the 100th peal on November 28th, 1959, both being the same transposition and both conducted by Ernest Morris. The latter was also rung to mark the engagement of Miss Carole Dawes and Mr. Keith Leake, both local ringers, and a birthday compliment to Mrs. Bindley, wife of the local tower keeper.

'The Ringing World' on December 25th (Christmas Day) will go to press on Saturday, Dec. 19th. Will correspondents please post as early as possible notices and other communications for that issue, remembering that postal delays invariably occur in the period before Christmas. Greetings should reach us by Monday, December 14th, for our issue of December 18th.

The band who rang the peal at Nantwich would like to place on record their indebtedness and thanks to Frank Morton (Wistaston), called from bed after being on nights to stand in at 20 minutes' notice, for Mr. A. J. Pitman, adrift on British Railways. Frank is the young, energetic 6-bell tower Ringing Master of the Crewe Branch of the Chester Guild. The hospitality and transport laid on by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stenson were also much appreciated.

GUILD OF MEDICAL RINGERS

The annual metropolitan meeting of the Guild took place on November 28th, when three towers in the south-west of London were visited. They were those of St. Mary's, Barnes, St. Mary's, Putney, and All Saints', Wandsworth. The attendance of members was not quite as encouraging as on previous occasions, but thanks to several 'visitors' who dropped in, there were quite enough to enjoy some good touches.

The thanks of the Guild are sincerely extended to the respective incumbents and to the tower captains who so kindly met us and made the arrangements. The meeting was brought to a happy end with the usual dinner, which was digested to the carminative effects of the handbells.

THE LESSON

This charming picture will delight every ringer's eyes. In the tiny village of Marston Trussell, Market Harborough, with a population of 130 people, the bells had been silent until recently since Queen Victoria's Jubilee. Now 12 people have been enlisted to ring this light ring. Mr. Millward, of Clipston, Northants, is here seen giving one of the pupils a lesson. Two teams are being built up and there are great hopes that they will be able to ring for the Nativity. The Rector, the Rev. H. Whiteman, stands in the doorway.

These bells were rededicated on August 15th, after restoration by Messrs. John Taylor, which included the recasting of the tenor. The five bells were cast by Hugh Watts, of Leicester, between 1612 and 1623. The canons are retained on the front five.

'GREAT EXPECTATIONS' (OR: WHAT THE DICKENS IS GOING ON?)

AN express bus heading north on October 30th was the bearer of 16 Manchester University Guild members, several rucksacks and eight handbells. From Ambleside Youth Hostel next morning the party set out on foot in the direction of Hawkshead, by way of Brathay, where it took to the woods—except Patricia and George, who later circulated the story that they dare not because of a man with a very large (and doubtlessly shaggy) dog. After wandering purely by accident on to the main road, and the inevitable photographs by the sign 'To The Drunken Duck,' the party climbed the hill to the said house to admire the view and the brew. Having rung (handbells), we pressed on and into a Hawkshead café to be joined for dinner by the 'mechanised' few.

The non-pealers having rung on the delightful bells, the 'bobbies' (i.e., pealers) went off into changes, and came to a sickening halt some minutes later. Enthusiastically persuaded by the Vicar, the band started again: a peal has never been lost on the 11 cwt. eight, and the Vicar wasn't going to be deprived of the record by eight MUG's! During the ringing many visitors peered into the ground floor ringing room; two elderly ladies in particular were heard stage-whispering: 'What are they doing?' 'Bell-ringing.' 'Oh, yes, I see.' Despite this, and the second ringer's attempt to run in at a non-existent bob after 2 hours 49 minutes, rounds came up after 2 hours 50 minutes—the first peal of Surprise Major on the bells and the first of Rutland for the Guild.

After thanking the Vicar and local ringers, the band commandeered the local taxi to the ferry, thence by bus to Kendal Y.H. for a late supper and to hear of the others' visit to Bowness. During the hours of darkness, George's socks were again heard walking the corridors (this time in shoes), but they did not awaken Pat—she had had too many plums for supper.

Sunday dawned: the 'mechanised' rang on Ambleside's 'glorious' 32 cwt. eight and the hardy ones walked to Crosthwaite to be welcomed by the Vicar and ring for morning service; unfortunately some had again taken a 'short cut' and did in fact arrive at Underbarrow—about two miles away and having but one small bell. They eventually reached Crosthwaite in time to ring in the peal of Bob Minor (with one or two 'firsts'), and arrive back in Kendal to hear the last courses of the Bob Royal peal—again with one or two 'firsts.'

After evening service ringing, the party could be seen leaving the town, disguised variously as hikers, walkers and 'men from the Prudential' bound for wetter climes, each one having achieved at least one peal, each one wishing to thank sincerely the vicars and local ringers for their welcomes, co-operation and enthusiasm (without which it would not have been worth while), and Jim and Pat for organising this 'quiet' week-end.

RINGERS VISIT DISNEY LAND

A well-attended meeting of the Newark District of the Southwell Guild and the Lincoln District of the Lincoln Guild was held at the little village Church of St. Peter, Norton Disney, on November 28th.

The Vicar welcomed the ringers to his parish, and even congratulated them on finding it. A splendid tea, arranged and served by the Vicar's wife and helpers, was partaken of in the Village Hall, surrounded by pictures of Disney characters personally autographed by Walt Disney when he visited the village of his forefathers a few years ago.

Both business meetings were soon dealt with, the Vicar kindly taking the chair, and the collection of £1 6s. 6d. for the bell repair fund was divided between the two Districts. Votes of thanks to the Vicar and his wife were proposed by Mr. J. Freeman, of Lincoln, and Mr. J. W. Raithby, of Newark.

More ringing followed on these pleasant six in a variety of methods, including plenty of rounds for the many learners present.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

BE THANKFUL FOR JOY AND PLEASURE OF RINGING

Dear Sir,—Enough of this moralising about peal ringing and 'tower grabbing'! If the puritans would only be logical they would realise that on grounds of mere necessity there is no case for ringing of any kind, just as there is no case for music in church services, or vestments or flowers on the altar. Blind and deaf people have to manage without these things.

Rather let us be thankful for the joy and pleasure we obtain from our ringing; and if others, having more time and a greater inclination, are able to obtain more pleasure than we do, let us wish them well.

Most of the silly letters which appear in 'The Ringing World' from these curmudgeonly moralists are utterly nonsensical. What may be termed pleasure ringing is only possible if permission has first been granted; and if the incumbent and local ringers are willing for the bells to be used, what concern is it of the busybodies who write disparaging letters to 'The Ringing World'?

As to the priest who, according to your itinerant correspondent, is alleged to have said: 'It is no responsibility of the Church to raise large sums of money merely to amuse ringers to ring peals, often to the annoyance of nearby residents,' I would quite agree. However, he has the remedy in his own hands—he need not give permission for his bells to be rung; but for goodness' sake let him mind his own business and not presume to speak for the many of his clerical brethren who delight to welcome visiting ringers, and some of whom, even in these days of clerical 'hard-upness,' express their pleasure by offering a 'cuppa' to their visitors.

It has been my great pleasure to go about all over the place ringing peals, and on outings of all sorts; and I would here record my thanks to the innumerable local ringers and clergy who so often turn out to meet us and bid us welcome, and ask us to come again.

Of course, there are occasional lapses from good behaviour on the part of some visiting ringers, such as failing to ask the locals to ring with them or failing to leave everything as they found it; but these instances are few and far between and usually result from youthful exuberance rather than 'snootiness' or intended discourtesy.

Let the reformers give the peal ringers and 'tower snatchers' a rest for a bit. Perhaps they could, with advantage, turn their moralising to things like the standard of striking at the average meeting (people never seem to think of nuisance to the neighbours in this connection), or perhaps, who knows, to the state of ringing in their own tower or other towers in their District.—Yours faithfully,

P. A. CORBY.

Sevenoaks.

P.S.—I am sorry to embarrass my old friend Jim Pipe, but it would perhaps be a good opportunity to record that on their annual tours 'Pipe's Pilgrims' make a very generous donation at each tower they visit.—P. A. C.

PEAL RINGING AND 'THE RINGING WORLD'

Dear Sir,—'The Ringing World' is the official journal of the Central Council of Church Bell Ringers. The C.C. state that all peals, to be officially recognised, must be published in the 'R.W.'. They obviously want this (with essential footnotes, such as 'first in the method'), as this allows the Peals Analysis Committee to draw up certain facts and figures each year.

Whatever some people may think, the analyses which they carefully prepare do give some indication of the health of the Exercise as a whole; e.g., although there are exceptions, the majority of peal ringers are loyal supporters of the art and are regular Sunday service ringers.

Therefore, if the 'R.W.' can only pay its way by making a charge for peals, this charge must come from the C.C. itself and not from the peal ringers.

I, like most peal ringers, have my own reasons for ringing peals, and it certainly is not so that my name can appear in print and thus obtain 'cheap publicity,' as Mr. Soper ('R.W.', November 27th) suggests.

Another most important point is that a lot of peal ringers are annual postal subscribers to the 'R.W.'. We are told that the postal subscribers pay their way, but they only form 37½ per cent. of the total number who take the journal. Why, therefore, should a postal subscriber pay still more by having a levy put on his peal ringing and so subsidise those who have their copy from the newsagent?

Why do people take the journal from newsagents? As far as I can make out, there are only two possible reasons:—

- (a) It is cheaper that way.
- (b) 'Their newsagent was kind to them during the war, and so they don't want to cancel the order now.'

Regarding (a), we have been told this is going to be altered so that we all pay approximately the same.

For (b) there is only one question to be answered: Which is most dear to you—your newsagent or the Exercise and the 'R.W.'?

As for me, I don't mind how much I pay so long as it only costs the same whether I get it through a newsagent or through the post. I know £1 15s. is going to be a lot of money to pay out in January, but at least I won't have 8d. added to my paper bill each week!—Yours faithfully,

DAVID HEIGHTON.

Bristol.

COVEHITHE CHURCH, SUFFOLK

Dear Sir,—With reference to the concluding paragraph of Mr. W. E. Box's letter in your issue of November 20th. The 'one church in another' is not unique.

Curiously enough, there is another instance of this only five miles away from Covehithe as the crow flies—at Walberswick.—Yours faithfully,

E. M. PALIN.

Ranmoor, Sheffield.

EXTENSIONS OF WHITWICK AND LYME

Dear Sir,—The latest effort in method extension is so misfounded that it calls for some comment. For years various dubious extensions have caused much controversy. Now Mr. Brian G. Warwick and his band seem bent on leading us back into chaos. How anyone can think that Whitwick and Lyme Surprise Royal are satisfactory extensions is quite beyond me.

The Methods Committee of the Central Council, produced in 1953 a sane and very generous report on extension, which was adopted at the Bournemouth meeting. This was published in 'The Ringing World' for the 17th, 24th and 31st of July, 1953.

In point of fact, it is quite evident that Mr. Warwick has not read the report, or if he has, that he has not applied the rules laid down in this case. These methods simply do not conform to the requirements. It is clear that no difficulty arises with the extension of the work above the treble since this is Cambridge. If the formula explained in the report is used to extend the work of Lyme and Whitwick Surprise Major under the treble, one obtains in each case nine possible extensions to Royal. Of these, only one in each case has plain bob lead-ends. These are the following:—

-30-4-50-16-70-18-12-3.14-34.9.

-30-4-50-16-70-18-12-3.14-12.9.

which are therefore the only possible extensions. Personally, I feel that the report is over-generous in this case: I don't think Whitwick or Lyme extend at all. But that is only an opinion. Here are the rules, and we must work with them.

The closing paragraph of the Committee's report reads as follows:—

'In view of the impossibility of regularising the position of incorrect extensions which have been rung in the past, except by wholesale renaming, the Committee proposes that these recommendations become operative in respect of any new method extension rung after the date of the adoption of this report and that those previously rung to peals may continue to hold the names under which they were originally rung.'

Unless it is to be inconsistent, I can see no action open to the Council other than the renaming of these methods.—Yours faithfully,
Harrow. JOHN R. MAYNE.

FAIREST WAY

Dear Sir,—May I take this opportunity to say how glad I am that at last the decision has been made to improve the finances of 'The Ringing World' by increasing the price. This is certainly the fairest way to strengthen your financial position, rather than taxing any one particular section of the Exercise by introducing peal booking fees. I am sure that no good ringer will object to paying an extra few shillings a year to such a good cause as 'The Ringing World,' which does so much for the Exercise.—Yours faithfully,

LESLIE N. MELTON.

50 YEARS AGO

Dear Sir,—The following interesting news item appeared in the '50 Years Ago' column of our local paper recently.

'On Saturday, October 30th, 1909, in 2 hours and 25 minutes, 5,040 changes of Grandsire Triples was rung on handbells at the residence of Mr. F. S. W. Butler, Spital Terrace, Gainsborough, being Holt's Original, by F. S. W. Butler 1-2, Clem Glen 3-4 (conductor), A. Wash 5-6, S. F. Palmer 7-8. This was the first handbell peal rung for the Lincoln Diocesan Guild.

Each ringer was an honorary secretary: F. S. W. Butler the Gainsborough and District, C. Glen the Yorkshire Association, A. Nash the Barnsley and District and S. F. Palmer the Sheffield and District. Mr. S. F. Palmer is, I believe, the sole survivor of this historic event.

—Yours sincerely, GEO. L. A. LUNN.

Lea, Gainsborough.

PEAL RINGERS AND DONATIONS

Dear Sir,—A. V. Davis wants 'forthright views': well, here is one to supplement Montague J. Soper's letter to you.

You have published 48 peals this week and eight donations connected with same. Knowing the precarious financial position of the 'R.W.', how on earth the other 40 dare send theirs in beats me.

I do not ring in peals. Service ringing, attendance at meetings and an occasional quarter peal is my limit, and that being the case I enclose a donation to cover the cost of inserting this letter.—Yours sincerely,

N. ROBINSON.

Willingham, Cambridge.

SHIPS' BELLS

Dear Sir,—With all these ships going to the scrap heap these days, has anyone wondered what happens to all the ships' bells? They are fortunately not being broken up but are being sold. There are at the moment over 300 bells of all sizes, and all highly polished, with the ship's name and date on them, some going back as far as 1918.

If anybody would like to buy a unique set of 6, 8, or even 12 ships' bells and hang them for ringing, it would possibly rank as one of the lightest rings. And as for the price, well, anybody could buy one for they are going as cheaply as £1 and go upwards to £10; so the only thing to do to get them is to telephone the Director of Stores at the Admiralty.—Yours sincerely,

ALAN A. J. BUSWELL.

Havant, Hants.

COVEHITHE CHURCH

Dear Sir,—Last August Bank Holiday weekend I walked to Covehithe with my wife, and we sheltered from the wind in the church porch to eat our sandwiches. An old countryman soon appeared and began weeding the churchyard path, whom we asked whether he could tell us why the outer shell of the church was ruined. He answered that he didn't know for sure, though some said that Cromwell had done it; but, if we asked him, he didn't believe that Cromwell could have done half the damage he was said to, knocking down churches up and down the country, for why?—because he was only 59 when he died and so he couldn't have had time to do it all!

In answer to Mr. Box's inquiry whether the 'one church in another' is unique, I believe that there is a similar building in the village of Walberswick, a few miles to the south. Presumably both of these villages shrank in population when the sea encroached rapidly upon this part of Suffolk in the 18th and 19th centuries.

—Yours sincerely,

R. J. COOK.

Carshalton, Surrey.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILDWest Dorset Branch

About 60 members attended the annual meeting of the West Dorset Branch, held at Beaminster on November 28th. The organist and choir of St. Mary's led the singing. The Vicar of Beaminster conducted the service and gave the address, while Canon C. C. Cox read the lesson.

Tea was served by the wives and friends of Beaminster ringers, led by Mrs. Pannell. At the business meeting Canon Cox, who has been Branch chairman for 30 years, was quite firm that he must now retire. The Rev. J. S. Arthur (Vicar of Beaminster) was elected chairman. Mr. C. W. Powell, of Lyme Regis, was elected vice-chairman. The remaining officers were re-elected.

Regarding the rehanging of the bells at Askerswell, the Rev. O. L. Willmott told members that a sixth bell had been given, but they had received advice not to use a metal frame, being situated near the sea. The new wooden frame would involve much more cost. The Branch therefore donated another £5 towards this extra cost.

'The Ringing World' was discussed, and everyone seemed to be in agreement that a charge of up to 1s. per rope should be made for the publication of peals.

Five new ringing members and 11 non-resident members were elected. Ringing included Cambridge Surprise Major.

Winchester District Ringers' Outing

On September 5th a party of 34 ringers and friends from the Winchester District spent a very enjoyable day in Sussex. During the day ringing took place at Midhurst, Petworth, Pulborough, Steyning and Shoreham.

At Arundel, an excellent tea was enjoyed before ringing at the Parish Church. In the evening ringing took place at Westbourne and South Harting.

Thanks are due to all who made us welcome.

MR. RANALD CLOUSTON MARRIED AT LAVENHAM

Mr. Ranald W. M. Clouston, who is hon. technical consultant on bells to the Central Council for the Care of Churches, and hon. technical adviser to the Suffolk Guild of Ringers, was married at Lavenham Parish Church on November 21st to Miss Christobel Fountain Page, daughter of Preb. M. F. Page and Mrs. Page, of Stowupland, Suffolk. The bride's father was formerly Rector of Lavenham, and she is a State registered nurse and midwife, and practised midwifery at the West Suffolk Hospital, Bury St. Edmunds, and for the past year at the Maternity Hospital, Cambridge.

The service was conducted by the Rev. Dennis Fountain Page, brother of the bride, assisted by the Bishop of St. Edmundsbury and Ipswich (Dr. A. H. Morris), the Archdeacon of Ipswich (Ven. T. R. Browne) and Canon H. W. S. Cotton, Rector of Lavenham.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore an ivory brocade dress with long sleeves and a boat-shaped neckline, and a slight train, with shoulder-length veil topped by a tiara. Her bouquet was of white carnations, freesias and chrysanthemums, and she wore an old gold pendant which was a christening present.

Her attendants were Mrs. Priscilla Gillett, a friend, and Miss Elizabeth Offord, her niece, who wore old gold taffeta, with headdresses of autumnal flowers with nylon fur cape stoles. Best man was Mr. Olaf Harald Clouston, brother of the bridegroom.

A reception was held at Lavenham Guildhall, and the honeymoon was spent on the south coast. Their address is Lavenham, 1, Cannon's Close, Radlett, Herts.

LINCOLN DIOCESAN GUILD
West Lindsey Branch

The West Lindsey Branch was fortunate to have such a fine day for its meeting at Blyton on November 21st, when this 5-bell tower attracted some 40 ringers, including the Master of the Guild (Mr. J. A. Freeman), together with visitors from Yorkshire and Coventry.

The Guild service was conducted by the Vicar (Rev. F. G. Calthrop) and the lesson was read by the Vicar of Hibaldstow (Rev. F. Insull). The business meeting followed an excellent tea in the Wesley Chapel Schoolroom and was presided over by the vice-president (Mr. C. H. Baker).

During an interesting account of the recent rebuilding of Hibaldstow Church tower, the Vicar stated that work was going ahead to rehang the existing three bells, with the eventual aim of augmenting them to six. The bells, one of which was being recast, were now at the bell-founders', and after being tuned they would be hung in a 6-bell frame with modern fittings. It was unanimously agreed that an immediate grant of £10 be made from the Belfry Repair Fund and a further grant be considered at a later stage.

More news of bell-hanging activity in the district came from the secretary (Mr. G. L. A. Lunn), who reported that Belton bells had now been augmented to six and the two new trebles had been dedicated by the Bishop of Lincoln when he visited the church for a Confirmation service on November 4th.

It was agreed that a dinner and social evening be held in the New Year, but that it should not be held on the same day as the annual meeting.

Many more ringers arrived after tea, when Messingham bells were available, and the 4-bell tower of Scotter proved remarkably popular during the evening.

TWO PIONEER BANDS OF LONG AGO

By T. OGDEN

NOT so very long ago a little windfall—quite unexpectedly—came my way, and with part of it I decided to treat myself to a copy of 'The Story of Handbells,' the author of which is Mr. Scott Brink Parry, of Reading, Pennsylvania, U.S.A. This book can be obtained in this country from Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, 34, Whitechapel Rd., London, E.1, price 24s. 6d. post free.

In chapter 2 the author describes the history of ringing bands in America, and goes on to state:—

'In 1844 Barnum (of Circus fame) went to England, during which time he arranged to meet in Liverpool a Band of Lancashire Handbell Ringers' and

'With typical American enterprise, Barnum hired the group for a tour of the United States, and returned in 1847, bringing with him the Lancashire Ringers. Attached to his generous offer to the Ringers was the stipulation that they be billed as "Swiss Bell Ringers" and that they dress in Swiss costume and grow long moustaches. When they objected on the grounds that they spoke only English, Barnum assured them that if they kept their Lancashire dialect unspoiled by purer accents, the American public would never know the difference! And so, because of Barnum's insistence that the Lancashire ringers appear as "Swiss" ringers the misnomer that handbells and tune ringing are indigenous to Switzerland has continued to the present day.'

FIRST PEAL IN U.S.A.?

Later, the author continues: 'Ringers remained in the States long enough, however, to ring the first successful peal in this country (U.S.A.) on Sunday, June 9th, 1950, on the ring of eight bells at Christ Church, Philadelphia.'

I have not been able to discover further details of either the method rung or the names of the ringers of this notable first peal. Perhaps one of our American readers could furnish some information about it; an item of particular interest would be the home towers of the individuals concerned.

However, before we jump to the conclusion that this Lancashire band of 1847 were the first Englishmen to introduce tune ringing on handbells (Mr. S. B. Parry does not claim that they were) and change-ringing on tower bells to the U.S.A., let us see if we can find anything on this side of the Atlantic that will perhaps throw a little more light on this interesting subject.

The 'Oldham Chronicle' published its very first edition on Saturday, May 6th, 1854, and in its columns, under the heading of "Local and District News" appears the following:—

'The Campanologist Band or Swiss Bell-ringers celebrated the thirteenth anniversary of their departure from Oldham, on Friday, the 14th, ult., at the Coach-and-Horses Inn, Church-lane, the establishment of Mr. Ernest Macdonald, where the last three anniversaries have been commemorated. The members did ample justice to the capital supper provided by their worthy host; after which songs, toasts and sentiments went briskly round: and in the course of "the wee short hours ayont the twal" the company broke up highly delighted with the evening's entertainment. The anniversary has always been punctually observed in every part of the globe to which the peregrinations of the band have conducted them—not only throughout England, Scotland, and Ireland; but also in France, Spain, Canada, the United States, Cuba, etc.'

This report is the earliest mention concerning handbell ringing in the Oldham District that I know of, but this band must have been in existence some tens of years previously, as their celebration was held to commemorate the band's departure from Oldham on April 14th, 1841, (but where to, we are left to guess!).

Another excerpt from the 'Oldham Chronicle,' this time of Saturday, February 27th, 1954, states:—

'Just over a century ago a group of Hollinwood handbell ringers (all Hollinwood men) playing as the Swiss Bell Ringers visited many Continental countries, and also made a tour of America. On Wednesday, December 4th, 1844, and Saturday, December 13th, 1845, they played before His Excellency the President of the United States!'

'The third ringer from the left is the late Mr. Isaac Ogden, grandfather of Mrs. Macdonald of Werneth, who has a photo and a silk programme for each of the Washington concerts. The band's repertoire included the Overture to "Fra Diavolo," "The Bell Waltzes" arranged expressly for the band. "Meet me by Moonlight Alone," "The Bluebells of Scotland" with Variations, "Hail Columbia" and "Yankee Doodle".'

PHOTOGRAPH AND PROGRAMME DESTROYED

I have recently been in touch with Mr. and Mrs. Macdonald who, much to our mutual regret, have not long since destroyed the photograph and programmes as being of little interest now to their family, and they did not then know of anyone else who would have valued them. When I told them of my interest in anything of this kind, they expressed their sincere regrets at having made away with these relics, as they would have liked to have passed them on to any person who would have treasured them. I blame myself for not getting in touch with these good people earlier. It is quite possible that there are no more of these programmes in existence now, except perhaps in the earlier records of the White House at Washington, while it is fairly certain that there will be no more copies of the photograph extant. Mrs. Macdonald told me that they wore a kind of white smock, gathered at the wrists and waist, but otherwise similar to a surplice but with a collar attached, worn with a thin black tie, knotted at the front. They must have looked very striking when in action!

Well, now, what can we deduce from all the foregoing facts? The caption under the photograph stated that these Ringers were 'all Hollinwood men.' Hollinwood is a parish and district within the boundaries of the borough of Oldham, it lies about two miles from the town centre, and it seems more than likely that there would be some little local rivalry between the Hollinwood men and the Campanologist Band. The members of the latter would probably hail from nearer the town centre, and it has occurred to me that some of them if not all, could have been tower bell ringers at Oldham Parish Church which at the time possessed the only ring of bells (12) in the town. The Coach and Horses Inn, Church Lane, would not have been many yards from the churchyard gates, but it has since been superseded by a much more modern hostelry.

FIRST TOURIST

The Hollinwood band seem to have been the first in touring the U.S.A., as they played at the White House on December 4th, 1844, and again on December 13th, 1845, two years before Barnum took his band of Lancashire Ringers to the U.S., as Mr. Parr states. It seems to me that the Campanologist Band could have been the ringers that Barnum introduced to the States, following in the wake of their Hollinwood rivals, but in the absence of any other information, this can now—12 years later—be only a matter of conjecture.

Nevertheless, of one or two things we can be absolutely certain. These two bands of ringers must have played a leading part in introducing the art of tune ringing on handbells to the New World. Theirs would be no easy comfortable journey, such as would be provided for the humblest third class traveller of today. From the time of leaving the Mersey Bar their vessel would be entirely at the mercy of wind and wave until the Western shores were in sight. This might be in four weeks under good conditions; it could take four months if the weather was at all adverse. Once on the other side, in between periods of comparatively luxurious living, they would no doubt have to "sleep rough" at times, but devoted to their art they must have been, to undertake a tour of this magnitude in those days at all.

START OF TUNE RINGING IN U.S.A.

Otherwise, I do not think they would differ very much from the ringers of today; who, like them, enjoy 'a bit of a do' both with the handbells and around the festive board.

The present popularity of tune ringing on handbells in the U.S.A. at the present time must have its roots in the soil they tilled so long ago, and little would they think then that their exploits would still be noted over a century afterwards. Englishmen, and those from Lancashire in particular, have often in times past, and at the present day, demonstrated to the world their skill and aptitude, both in the spheres of commerce, and also that of the arts, and these Lancashire ringers of so long ago were no exception in their own particular art. Their music would bring pleasure and happiness to audiences wherever they went, and from such as them has been handed down to us this way of making music, so traditionally English, that affords so much pleasure to us, today.

Let us remember these pioneers with pride, and resolve that we, too, will play our part in handing down to posterity our English kind of music that, centuries ago, resulted in this old country of ours being known throughout the civilised world as 'The Ringing Isle.'

THE PROFESSOR DISCUSSES 'THE RINGING WORLD'

— And Makes An Offer

On calling on the Professor the day before the day before yesterday, I found him pacing his cell with a troubled frown on his face and his sensitive hands tightly clasped behind his back. He glowered at me unclasped his hands and placed them against his temples, kicked the cat from the hearthrug and the dog into the coal cellar.

I began to think that something had upset him.

The current issue of 'The Ringing World' (November 10th) I could see lying on the table. He pushed it at me and ordered: 'Read it!'

'But I've already done so.'

'Read it again.'

I read it again, peering through a haze of smoke issuing from what was apparently a mixture of bindweed and twitch grass that Mr. Dodge had stuffed in his pipe. I enjoyed once more the leading article, perused the peal columns, chuckled over Belfry Gossip, followed with interest the touches given by Mr. E. C. Shepherd (on which I made mental notes), digested with fascination Mr. E. Morris's account of 'Bells and Ringers in Stained Glass,' glanced through F. T. Blagrove's 'First Peal Performances,' read the letters and the reports of the various functions and pondered over the Obituary notices.

'Dull, uninteresting stuff?', demanded the Professor, when I had finished.

'Quite the contrary,' I said. 'I enjoyed reading it—but then I always enjoy my "Ringing World".'

'Pre-cise-ly.'

I then saw what was troubling him.

'Oh, you are thinking of the report of the Oxford Guild,' I said. 'where one or two people criticised the "R.W." as uninteresting?'

'Yes,' he replied, 'I wonder what they want? Strip cartoons? Pictures of film actresses in technicolour on the front page? Exactly how do they propose to make it more interesting?'

'Perhaps,' I offered, 'better-written articles?'

'That may help,' agreed the Professor, 'but I have frequently noticed that the persons who most criticise the "R.W."s' articles are usually those who, in spite of the Editor's pleas, have never attempted to write one themselves. The chappie who once described one of yours as "tripe" is quite capable of writing a much better article than you, although, so far as I can remember, he never has done.'

'I'll have a word with him.'

'Do. Mind you,' he went on, 'I am not saying that the "R.W." is above criticism; constructive criticism is a good thing—but it must be constructive. Writing to the Editor isn't much good, either, unless such letters are accompanied by sensible suggestions as to improvements. I have heard a suggestion that the paper should be divided into different sections: one for learners, another for advanced ringers and another for compositions, and so on.'

'Do you think that that would make it more attractive?'

'It may do. It could be tried, anyway, although it doesn't do to take all criticism too seriously. Whatever is done there will still be some people unsatisfied. It is important that the general "tone" of the paper is maintained so that it does not fall into the cheap sensationalism of some of the common newspapers. Imagine seeing a headline in half-inch type:

"See next week's 'Ringing World' for the inside story of the latest dispute between the ringers of Slocum-in-the-Puddle and the new Vicar"; or, "Order your copy of the NEW 'Ringing World,' the paper with bags of ZZZIP!!".

'I don't think there is much fear of such a thing happening,' I observed, carefully.

'Neither do I!', responded Mr. Dodge, 'but before drastic alterations are made I think we should consider whether these criticisms are general throughout the Exercise or emanate from a minority of ringers.'

'Ringers,' he continued, 'are a most peculiar set of animals. You, for instance, will spend pounds on outings, peals, dinners, etc., cheerfully expend £2 or upwards for an L.P. of Beethoven's "Fourth," all for your own enjoyment, but grumble when the price of the "R.W." rises by 2d. a week!'

'Not me!', I protested.

'Well, others like you,' he said. 'Ringers sometimes forget what a privileged class they are! Expensive instruments and equipment provided free of charge—'

'Yes, yes!', I said. 'but what about "The Ringing World"?''

'Here I have a suggestion to make,' said the Professor. 'I will give a prize for the best suggestion for improving the "R.W.".'

'That is extremely noble of you,' I exclaimed, 'and what is the prize?'

'I will name an hitherto unnamed irregular Minor method after the tower of the winner's own choice, and undertake to get a band to ring a peal of it!'

I could scarcely conceal my admiration of Mr. Dodge's magnanimity. H.C.

THE VOICE OF THE CHRISTMAS BELLS

By THE REV. CANON C. CAREW COX

NOT everyone, not every Christian even, goes to church on Christmas Day, hears the organ and the choir, or joins in the carols and the hymns. And, whatever music or jollity may be going on in countless homes celebrating the season, the world outside has no voice which is peculiarly capable of stirring the hearts of men to the Truth which makes the Festival.

For such broadcasts of a Christmas nature as are made are not blazoned from the hill tops, or in the public places of our towns and cities, say Trafalgar Square or Hyde Park in London. They are only heard really at the discrimination of people in their homes. Apart from that, generally speaking, Christmas would be wrapped in silence were it not for the church bells.

And those church bells, discordant and annoying as they may seem to a certain section of the people, are there to drown the yet more discordant voices and the turmoil of discontent and strife which are unhappily sounding over this earth.

Imagine Christmas without the church bells! Imagine them silenced by a national authority, not as a precautionary measure against an enemy invasion, but as the consequence of a wholly materialistic, God-denying policy, such a policy as in the early years of Christianity drove Christians underground to gather for worship—if they could—at the risk of their lives! We would cry, perhaps, that the chances of anything like that happening here are far off indeed. But, whatever might happen, it is well to remember that the Christian Church endured and spread by virtue of those very attempts to silence her and clip her wings.

'Silent Night' it was on those hills around Bethlehem when the Babe was born who was to revolutionise human ideas and hopes. There the proclamation of Christmas Day came, but not from the lips of men. And that gave it its wonder and its drive. So unfamiliar then, so thrilling and astonishing! But now, so familiar, so usurped by mundane thoughts and customs that the purpose and wonder, of the observance does not affect people in the same way. They shrug their shoulders as if to say 'We are not any more on the level of the simple shepherds! We are a sophisticated generation. We can create our own satellites in space; we can split the atom; we can transport ourselves from one end of the earth to another in a few hours; we can hear and see what is going on miles and miles away!' Indeed, yes: what intelligence; what brilliance of ideas; what cleverness in working them out! What a power man wields! What is there that man cannot accomplish? Well, is one to believe that there is no time for the religion of the Incarnation in this enlightened age while the echoes of Swinburne's ecstatic chant reverberate in widening clamour from our workshops, our technical training centres, even from our universities and schools?

'Thou art smitten, thou God, thou art smitten.

Thy death is upon thee, O Lord;

And the love-song of earth as thou diest,

Resounds through the wind of her wings:

Glory to man in the highest,

For Man is the master of things.'

But, as Alfred Noyes wrote: 'The splendour of those words was, after all, a stolen splendour. The beauty of that Gloria in Excelsis, true or false, was not Swinburne's property.' As a greater poet suggested: 'It is hardly just to abuse the Deity in language whose beauty is entirely borrowed from the Bible.' Yet the fact is that Swinburne was unconsciously asserting one more isolated fragment of the philosophy of Christendom. For 'man in the highest,' strange as it may seem, is acceptable to human reason, but only on those conditions which are illustrated in the majestic structure of the Christian religion. 'God was in man reconciling the world to Himself.' 'All power is given unto me in heaven and in earth,' said the triumphant living Jesus. And, 'After He had spoken to them He was received up into heaven and sat on the right hand of God.'

'Not thine to understand

How the two worlds accord:

The Will of Love, our Lord,

With this dark wheel of Time.

Yet thou didst hear them chime

Like one deep sanctus bell.'

Who can picture what the world would be like if the new light of Christianity had never dawned upon the human mind? For one thing, there would be no church bells. And Art, for example—as one has written—'would have lacked the spiritual light that haunts the eyes of "The Madonna and Child," a light that is like no other. We should have lost, too, the deepest musical harmonies of the world. There would have been no Passion music from Bach, and ten thousand choirs of Europe would have been dumb. The very stones of her cities and towns would have been more silent, for they would never have soared into her great cathedrals. Not a child on the face of the planet would ever have been taught the Lord's Prayer or heard the magic word "Christmas".

But these expressions and joys have come into being, and they do live today to live on into the dim distance. Therefore in the 'Silent Night' the church Christmas bells will herald the dawn once again; defying the threatening and selfish voices of the world; catching up the heavenly anthems of the past; proclaiming the simplicity of long ago Bethlehem; witnessing to that maturity of soul which the Son of God laboured and suffered as Man to bequeath.

And, unseen as the ringers may be, they will know they are moving the earthly accompaniments to the Angels' praise at the birth of the Prince of Peace: 'Glory to GOD in the highest, and on earth peace, goodwill toward men.'

Because of the poor quality of the striking, the University of Wales Change Ringing Society are not claiming the peal attempt at St. Mary's, Swansea, when 5,040 true changes were rung.

Correction.—Yorkshire Surprise rung at Leiston on November 28th was C. J. Sedgley's No. 13, not 3 as printed.

Meeting one short for a Major peal attempt at Birstwith on November 28th, Mr. K. B. Sibbon gallantly stood down. A peal of Cambridge Surprise Minor was rung.

Will the sender of postal order P1/24/231446 (14s. 6d.), purchased at Hewlett Road, Cheltenham, please send Mr. Jeater his or her name and address which, was omitted from the form.

Mr. A. Robinson, of Mirfield, who has completed 60 years' service as a member of the Yorkshire Association, has retired. Well done, thou good and faithful servant.

At Kingsteignton, Devon, where really good 'call-changes' but not 'scientific' is rung, a quarter peal of Stedman Triples was rung on December 5th. A quarter peal card is being printed to stimulate interest in 'scientific' ringing.

To mark the christening of Martin Charles Spittle, a peal was rung at Ewell on December 5th. Taking part were his godparents Margaret Howard and Ralph and Derek Spittle. Martin is the son of Ralph and Pauline Spittle, both members of the local band.

Many ringing friends and members of the Rochester and District offer their congratulations to Albert and Dorothy Dunk, of Stockbury, Kent, who celebrate their silver wedding anniversary on December 20th. Mr. Albert Dunk is a District representative of the K.C.A., and both he and Mrs. Dunk are held in very high esteem by all the Rochester and District.

RELFRY GOSSIP

The Southern Evening Echo, in its issue of December 1st, reports, under the heading of 'Clanger?', of a local resident, summoned at Southampton Magistrates' Court for exceeding the speed limit, admitting by letter that he was 'in a hurry because he was late for his bell-ringing practice'!

The conductor and ringer of the fifth in the peal at Wookey (see page 721) was Mr. Francis C. Mogford, and not as printed.

Mr. Douglas Hughes is lecturing to the Antiquarian Horological Society on 'Bells and Bell-founding' at the Science Museum, South Kensington, on January 8th at 7 p.m.

By ringing the third at Southwark Cathedral to a peal of Cambridge Maximus on December 5th, Mr. James G. A. Prior, Master of the Ancient Society of College Youth, has 'completed the circle' at this tower.

The quarter peal in 11 Doubles methods at Llanfeigan, Breconshire, conducted by D. H. Bennett, on December 5th, was the first in 11 methods by all the band, on the bells, and in Wales.

The American Guild of English Handbell Ringers, whose publication is 'Overtones,' has decided to employ a part-time corresponding secretary, 'at the very modest expenditure of $100 a month.' The individual membership fee of $5 carries with it a free copy of 'Overtones' and all publications of the Guild.

In the long list of illustrious Masters of the Ancient Society of College Youths, no member has held the office longer than Mr. Ernest G. Fenn, whose period of office embraced nine years (1938-1946). In honour of the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Fenn, his fellow College Youths rang a peal of Cambridge Surprise Maximus at Southwark Cathedral on December 5th.

LONDON, E.1.

REDEDICATION OF FARNHAM, SURREY, BELLS

ON Saturday evening, December 5th, the Lord Bishop of Guildford (Rt. Rev. Ivor S. Watkins) visited St. Andrew's Church, Farnham, Surrey, to hallow the work of restoration, which has kept the church closed for several months and the bells silent for many more.

In 1955 the Rector of Farnham (the Rev. H. R. Wilds) made the first suggestion for restoring, cleaning and beautifying the church and in 1958, after plans and specifications had been approved a general appeal for £15,000 was launched by the Bishop of London (Dr. Montgomery-Campbell)—a former Bishop of Guildford and resident of Farnham Castle. This amount was subsequently increased to £20,000 of which two-thirds has been raised or promised, and remainder guaranteed.

The magnificent tower was the first part to be under repair and ringing ceased in May, 1958, when the scaffolding was erected. At that time no suggestion of any work on the bells was made, but when the clock was removed for overhaul, the ringers pressed for a report on the bells and carillon (which plays a tune every three hours). It was decided to retune and rehang the eight bells in the existing frame, but when Messrs. John Taylor, who were entrusted with the work, lowered the bells to ground level, it was found that under the old wooden headstock the fourth was badly cracked in the crown.

A LADY'S INFLUENCE

Whilst the bells were at Loughborough, the Church Council at Farnham were debating ways and means of finding about £2,000, additional to the general restoration, for recasting all the bells and putting the carillon in order again. With the exception of the ringers' representative and one influential lady, the council were despondent, but within a fortnight of that meeting this lady had, by her own efforts, persuaded various local firms and families to give the money for the whole of the work.

A new faculty was necessary, but a complication set in. The Diocesan Advisory Board had not been consulted before the bells had been removed and refused a faculty until the reports and proposals had been discussed. The P.C.C. had been advised that the general restoration faculty covered the rehousing of the bells! But this was not so.

Following many weeks of letters and meetings the faculty was at last granted and work commenced. The return to Farnham tower of the bells was all worked in with the completion of the main work of restoration within the church, which consisted of two new chapels, a new high altar, baptistery, rebuilt and re-housed organ, new clergy vestry, new lighting and windows, the result being new cleanliness, a new light, a new simplicity and a new beauty, which gives a reawakened sense of worship.

A SEMITONE HIGHER

The bells originally were in the key of E flat with tenor of 20½ cwt. But are now a semitone higher (in E) with 19½ cwt. tenor. The third, fourth, seventh and tenor have been hung with wheels innermost, giving a closer circle for the ringers and considerably more seating in the ringing chamber. All the old inscriptions are on the new bells together with the new donors' names:—

Treble: 'Recast at the cost of their families in memory of W. W. Williams and A. J. Steadman.'

Second: 'The Surrey Iron Company.'

Third: 'The Farnham Herald Newspaper.'

Fourth: 'H. C. Patrick, Ltd.'

Farnham Parish Church

Fifth: 'William Kngham and Sons, Ltd.'
Sixth: 'Mercari, Ltd.'
Seventh: 'Taylor and Anderson, Ltd.'
Tenor: 'Laus Deo.' In memoriam Lt. A. C. P. Caspar, R.M., killed in action 1945, given by his father, Lt.-Col. E. H. Caspar. The tenor also carries a general inscription: 'This ring of eight bells, recast Loughborough, 1959, as part of the general restoration of this Parish Church.'

Church wardens

As the dedication of the bells only occupied a small part of the main service of the restoration hallowing, and there was only an hour's ringing afterwards, it was not considered advisable to issue a general invitation to ringers everywhere to attend but about 40 were present and Major E. J. Bragg, District Ringing Master, organised the touches. The improved 'go' and musical qualities were much praised, although the light set of several bells caught out many experienced ringers present. On Sunday ringing took place for three services and again many visitors arrived, and in spite of torrential rain. Twenty-three ringers were present for evensong.

Experiments are being made to get more sound into the ringing chamber, but with the old drum and housing of the existing carillon in the clock room between the bells and ringers removed, it is expected that this improvement will be accomplished.

A strong and enthusiastic band has already been re-formed at Farnham and practice night has been fixed for Tuesday, 7-9 p.m., and on Sundays ringing will be 9-9.30 a.m. and 5.45-6.30 p.m. A meeting is to be held at Farnham at the end of January.

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

Preliminary Notice

The next meeting of the Council will be held at the Town Hall, Folkestone, Kent, on Whitsun Tuesday, June 7th, 1960.

Headquarters will be the Princes Hotel, Bouverie Road West. Inclusive terms, 42s. a day plus 10 per cent. service charge.

All ringing arrangements for towers in the area during the Whitsun week-end are in the hands of Mr. J. R. Cooper, 39, Sussex Avenue, Ashford, Kent. Full details will be announced later, but members wishing to take part in peal attempts are requested to communicate with Mr. Cooper, stating any preference regarding method, number of bells, etc.

Further details will be published at a later date.

Hon. Secretary.

GIFT OF HANDBELLS TO GREENWICH TOWER

For more than 60 years the name of George H. Daynes was prominent as a ringer and conductor in South East London. Mr. Daynes was born at Leeds, near Maidstone, into an old Kentish ringing family (his grandfather called the first peal by the Kent County Association at Frittenden in 1881).

Between the wars Mr. Daynes was in charge of St. Nicholas', Deptford, where he was also churchwarden. This church was badly blitzed, and when Greenwich Church and bells were restored he was invited to take charge of the tower, a position he held until his death some two years ago, at the age of 87.

In 1951, at 81 years of age, he called Holt's Original at Eltham, and in 1952 he rang the tenor at St. John's, Deptford, to an octogenarians' peal of Bob Major which was conducted by the late Frank Bennett.

Members of Mr. Daynes' family recently presented his set of 12 handbells to Greenwich Church, and these were received and dedicated by the Vicar (Rev. J. N. Higgins) on December 5th at a special service, which was attended by 40 ringers and friends.

After the service, those present were entertained to tea in the Parish Hall by members of the Greenwich band, during which Mr. J. Dafters, in well-chosen words, thanked the family for their gift, and paid tribute to Mr. Daynes as a ringer and a man, to which his son, Mr. S. E. Daynes, replied.

Mr. Dafters also conveyed the thanks of the band at Greenwich to Mr. E. Jones, of Lewisham, for his gift of a case for the bells and a suitably inscribed brass plate.

SURREY ASSOCIATION

Northern District

The Northern District nomination meeting at Benhillon on November 28th was attended by 44 ringers from 17 towers. The Vicar (Rev. Marcus Donovan) conducted the service. Tea followed in the Schoolroom, under the supervision of Miss Pat Collins and Mrs. Christine Harbott, assisted by the local young ladies.

At the business meeting, Mr. Gordon Peters, the District Master, welcomed the local band and also ringers from St. Martin's, Epsom. Two Benhillon ringers were elected to membership. Mr. F. E. Collins was nominated for the position of Master, the existing secretary, treasurer and auditor were nominated, and the Rev. C. Marshall, Mr. N. Bagworth, Mr. W. F. Oatway and Mr. N. Steere were nominated to the committee. The meeting concluded with the usual votes of thanks and further ringing.

Society For The Archdeaconry Of Stafford At Dinner

This year the Society held its eighth annual dinner at Stafford on November 14th, and despite the gloomy autumn weather 96 members and friends made their way to the county town. The long room at the Swan Hotel provided an ideal setting and an excellent meal was enjoyed. The Society's president (Ven. W. A. Parker, Archdeacon of Stafford) presided over the gathering and proposed the toast of 'Her Majesty the Queen.' In his comments afterwards he announced that, consequent upon his being appointed as Suffragan Bishop of Shrewsbury later this year, this would be the last Society dinner that he would be attending as its president. He spoke of the very happy association he had had with the Society during the past 15 years, and expressed the hope that it would continue to flourish.

The toast of 'Church and State' was, at very short notice, due to the sudden illness of a speaker, ably proposed by Mrs. Joan Bennett. She spoke of the happy relationship which exists between the Church and State today. In replying, the Rector of Stafford said how proud he was to belong to the English Church and of the community feeling between his church and the town of Stafford. This community feeling was far more evident in this part of the country than in his previous parish in London.

DIOCESAN RINGING FESTIVAL

The president then called upon Mr. Ewart H. Edge, a former secretary of the North Stafford Association, to propose the toast of 'The Society.' Mr. Edge spoke of the survey of Sunday service ringing, which had been the first real census of ringers to be undertaken. It revealed, he said, that there was a vast amount of positive work for Associations to do and that there must be co-operation between towers, ringers and Associations. One of the great problems of ringers was the recruitment and instruction of beginners in the face of competition from television and other counter-attractions of today. He went on to say that his Association welcomed the proposed diocesan ringing festival, and were looking forward to future co-operation between the three Associations in the Lichfield diocese.

A BURGESS HILL VETERAN

The ringers of Burgess Hill, Sussex, could not let the 79th birthday of Mr. Harry Gravett pass on December 5th without some record of appreciation. When the eight bells were installed at St. John's, Burgess Hill, in 1904, Harry learnt to ring. A brother of Mr. Arthur Gravett, who was for many years tower captain at St. Peter's, Brighton, he had rung several peals with Keith Hart and his band from Brighton years ago.

It is at Burgess Hill where his interest has been constant for the 55 years. When ringing was at a low ebb he gave all his support to the new band formed in 1958, together with one or two of the other old ringers in the town. He is very popular with the young ringers, and one of his biggest thrills was when this new local band struggled through a plain course of Grand-sire Triples.

His completion of 55 years as a ringer was marked by a quarter peal, which is recorded on our quarter peal page.

N. C.

In his reply, Mr. John Dinenage, assistant Ringing Master of the Society, thanked the ex-secretary from the 'Barbarous North' for his very kind remarks. It was, he said, very encouraging to go to meetings these days and see all the lassies and lads there with their mums and dads.

Mr. George W. Hughes, a Central Council representative, proposed the toast of 'The Visitors.' He extended a welcome to all the visitors present and related to the company some amusing anecdotes about the habits of ringers generally. The Rev. C. J. Raby (Vicar of Claverley), in a witty speech, replied on behalf of the visitors and thanked the Society for its kind hospitality.

Once the speeches were over, the evening's entertainment began, and comprised a concert party. Mr. Frank Duggan entertained everyone with amusing stories, and Messrs. E. and A. Wiggins, accompanied by Mr. W. Robson on the pianoforte, sang well-known songs. During the interval Grand-sire Triples was rung on hand-bells, and the ringers from Penn. Wolverhampton, afterwards gave a new variation of 'lapping' which they called 'St. Bartholomew's Shuffle.' The evening concluded with the singing of the National Anthem.

The Devil's Knell

At 4 p.m. on Christmas Eve the ringing of 'The Devil's Knell' will take place on the Mitchell Tower chime at the University of Chicago. This consists of tolling the tenor bell, followed by 4x4 strokes, which represent 'The Devil's Knell.'

During the Middle Ages it was believed that the Devil died each year at the birth of Christ. 'The Devil's Knell' will be followed by a chime and carillon concert of Christmas carols, preceding the annual Christmas Vesper service in the Rockefeller Memorial Chapel.

SWANSEA & BRECON DIOCESAN GUILD

About 25 members attended the Southern District meeting, held at Sketty on December 5th, when the service was conducted by the Rev. D. W. White and the address given by the Vicar (Canon Garfield James). Tea was provided by the ringers and friends, who were thanked by Mr. Arthur Hoare.

At the meeting the Vicar took the chair and asked all to stand in silent sympathy with Mr. William Dobbins, captain of Gorseinon ringers, in the loss of his wife, and also in sympathy with Mrs. Witworth, of Sketty, in the loss of her father.

In welcoming the Guild to Sketty he agreed that the Guild should hold a yearly meeting there. The secretary and auditor were both re-elected. Five new members from Gorseinon and one from Porthcawl were elected. It was proposed to hold the next meeting at Gorseinon in March, 1960. Ringing continued until 8 p.m.

LIFE OF ARTHUR I. HOLMES COMMEMORATED AT EDENHAM

On December 5th, a somewhat grey and cold afternoon, a gathering of some 50 ringers and friends from a wide area attended a commemoration and dedication service in the ancient and beautiful Church of St. Michael, Edenham.

The service, conducted by the Vicar (Rev. Mr. Stainsby), took the form of dedicating a plaque to the memory of Mr. Arthur I. Holmes, who was for many years connected with Edenham Church and its bells. The Vicar paid a great tribute to Mr. Holmes for the many years of faithful and untiring service he had rendered to the church.

The plaque, which is of stone, bears the following inscription: 'Arthur I. Holmes, 1878-1958, Sexton, Bell Ringer and Steeple Keeper.' It is placed immediately above the door in the ringing chamber.

Arthur, as he was widely known, combined these three duties to his church most conscientiously. As a ringer he was always genial; an active peal ringer in his younger days, a good striker, and always ready to help the beginner; in fact he had probably instructed more beginners than any other in Lincolnshire.

He started his ringing at an early age, and when Edenham had only five bells. In the early part of this century he was chiefly instrumental in getting the bells augmented to six by the addition of a new treble. Six-bell ringing in South Lincs then began to take shape, the Edenham tower being a great stronghold.

The year 1911 saw the first peal to be rung in 14 methods at this tower, conducted by the late Rev. H. Law James. In 1931 he was again instrumental in getting two more trebles to complete the octave and the old tenor recast, thus making an excellent ring with a tenor of 16 cwt. A joiner by trade, he spent many hours in his spare time making improvements in general to the belfry, and in this respect he was most successful in adding to the comfort of ringing in this tower. The bells are perfectly heard inside the tower and out; they command the approval of the greatest critic.

Thanks must be accorded to the band of lady helpers who provided tea in the Village Hall, which was much appreciated. Before leaving, the hon. Branch secretary (Mr. G. Vickers) paid tribute to Mr. Holmes for his good work. Handbell ringing was then participated in, followed by further ringing at the tower. Some of the methods rung included Cambridge, Yorkshire and Bristol Surprise. C. T. H. B.

Devizes Branch

Special interest was taken in the Devizes Branch meeting at Warminster on December 8th as the bells are shortly to be removed to the bell foundry for retuning and rehanging. It is hoped that they will be back in time for the visit of the Archbishop of Canterbury next summer. The 40 ringers present included visitors from Swindon and Newcastle. In the absence of the Vicar the service was taken by the Rev. Mr. Whitford, and at the tea, served by ringers and their wives, he and the two churchwardens gave a hearty welcome to the visitors. Methods to suit all tastes were rung.

MOST PEALS IN A TOWER

Dear Sir,—Congratulations to Mr. F. J. Cullum (265 peals at St. John-the-Baptist's, Erith), to Mr. Edwin Barnett (264 peals at Crayford) and to Mr. George E. Fearn (250 peals at Birmingham Cathedral).

In reply to Mr. G. F. Butcher, Northfleet, my peals at St. Martin's, Birmingham, are as follows: 12 bells, 220; 10 bells, 18; 8 bells, 6; total, 244; conducted 104. (The first peal: Stedman Cinques, January 31st, 1899).—Yours sincerely,

ALBERT WALKER.

TAKEN A RINGING PAPER SINCE 1901

Dear Sir,—After being in hospital for a time, I was surprised when I picked up 'The Ringing World' to see that the price was to be 8d. in the New Year. Well, I am afraid it will be goodbye to ringing and the 'R.W.' I started ringing when I was 15 years of age and am now in my 83rd year. I started taking 'The Bell News' in 1901, and the 'R.W.' from the start. I have always looked forward every week to my 'R.W.', and as my eyesight is getting very poor I have to ask the wife to read it for me.

The other week there were 70 peals published. We like to see how the ringing is going on, but we do not ask for these peals to be rung. There were 356 ringers taking part: surely these ringers who ring the peals could scrape another 1d. or 2d. each to help the paper along. As to the gentleman who would willingly pay 1s. for his copy, I am afraid he could complain after 60 years.

If half of the towers took a copy for every ringer belonging to the tower there would be no price problem. Wishing the 'R.W.' every success.—Yours truly,

Ilkeston, Derby.

PEAL RINGERS NOT A DIFFERENT BREED

Dear Sir,—Before reading the P.S. to Mr. Soper's letter, I had come to the conclusion that he had reached the age of intolerance. He is obviously an anti-peal ringer.

Speaking for myself, although not a prolific peal ringer, I would much rather read of other people's peals than of their meetings or outings. Do we follow Mr. Soper's suggestion to its logical conclusion and fix a charge for reporting all ringing activities? If so, dear Editor, your worries would soon be over, as a monthly leaflet would suffice.

I am sure Mr. Soper is under a wrong impression in thinking that peal ringers are a 'different breed' to the ordinary Sunday service ringer. In my experience, the peal ringer is usually the backbone of his Sunday service band.—Yours faithfully, M. J. BUTLER.

ST. NICHOLAS, HARWICH

Dear Sir,—I wonder if you would be so kind as to allow the use of your columns for an appeal on behalf of the Restoration Fund of Harwich Parish Church.

The church, which has a tower surmounted by a steeple is one of the largest in Essex. It has a ring of eight bells and can seat approximately 2,000. It forms a landmark that can be seen many miles out to sea. In view of its size and ample accommodation it serves not only as a parish church, but also as a borough, deanery or district church on national or other occasions when large crowds gather together for a united act of worship.

Harwich was once a very prosperous little seaport but now has lost practically all its trade (Parkeston Quay, though called Harwich, is outside the borough) and owing to war and flood damage is partly derelict. Its 4,500 citizens are all of working class families having very little money to spare.

A recent survey of the church revealed extensive damage by dry rot to the roof, and much needed attention in the fabric as a whole. The repairs were originally estimated to cost about £4,500, including £750 for the roof, but the damage was later found to be far greater than at first supposed, and it has already cost £2,500 for the roof alone and probably £15,000 will be required to put things right.

Just over £1,000 has been raised locally, which figure includes £300 from diocesan sources, but £1,500 is still owing to the builder, a local firm in a not-very-large way of business. He must be paid before any further work is contemplated. There is little more that can be done by local people beyond what they have already done, or are doing in fund-raising efforts; thus we are hoping that through your columns our needs may come to the notice of a wider circle of sympathetic friends who may be in a position to help.

We should be grateful of any donations, however small, and these should be sent to the Treasurer St. Nicholas', Harwich Restoration Fund, care of Lloyds Bank, Dovercourt, Essex.—Yours sincerely,

H. G. W. BACHE, Vicar.

Harwich, Essex.

PEAL AT COLLINGBOURN KINGSTON

Dear Sir,—A peal was rung at the above church on Sunday, November 15th, and recorded as rung for the Oxford Diocesan Guild. Did the band know that this tower is affiliated to the Salisbury Diocesan Guild, or is this a case of rank bad manners?—Yours, etc.

W. C. WEST, Hon. Sec.,
Salisbury Diocesan Guild.

'SPORTS REPORT' SHOULD BE PAID FOR

Dear Sir,—May I, through the medium of this paper, be permitted to pen a few words in support of the letter from Mr. M. J. Soper, published in the issue of November 27th.

We all know, I think (although I am sometimes doubtful), that the primary purpose for the ringing of church bells is to call the faithful to worship. Any ringing other than this, with the exception of practices, is done purely for the enjoyment of the ringer, and could come under the heading of 'sport.' I consider, therefore, that if the first three or four pages of the 'Ringing World' are to continue to be a 'sports report,' then the participants of peals and quarter peals should be prepared to pay for the publication of same.

Please do not think I am against peal ringing. I have enjoyed taking part in several peals and hope to continue to do so. However, I would be fully prepared to make a contribution to publication expenses, and I would suggest a levy of one shilling per rope for peals and sixpence per rope for quarter peals. Assuming that this were the case, the peals and quarters published in the issue of November 27th would have produced the sum of £28 2s. (that is if my mathematics are correct). I agree that this is not a vast sum, but it would certainly go a long way towards bridging the gap.

Surely no one is going to quibble about paying sixpence or a shilling for forty minutes or three hours of pleasure: after all, we must consider ourselves lucky that churches do not make a charge for wear and tear on ropes, etc. I agree that not all peals and quarters are rung 'just for the heck of it': indeed, many are rung for church festivals and other important occasions, and rightly so, too! But all the same, we should still be prepared to pay.

I know of many West Country call-change ringers who take our paper purely because they share with us a common love of bells and bell-ringing. They, like us, would much prefer to read articles of common interest, such as the dedications of Great Yarmouth and Carbis Bay bells, or to read some witty and interesting report of an outing. Let's face it: is it fair that they should be asked to pay more for their paper just to read that so-and-so has scored his 500th peal, or that someone else has 'circled' a tower to peals? I know that I am not particularly interested.—Yours faithfully,

ROBERT A. SOUTHWOOD.

Truro.

We are sorry to learn that the Ladies' Guild name peal attempt at Loughborough came to grief. There is to be another attempt shortly, a little nearer London.

CLERGY SCHOOL GIVEN AN INSIGHT INTO BELLS & RINGING

The Rev. A. G. G. Thurlow, vice-president of the Central Council of Church Bell Ringers, gave the following address to the Norwich Diocesan Clergy School in April this year. We ask readers to show the copy of this address to their incumbents. All who have the care of bells under their charge should be familiar with the points raised.

WE shall have the privilege later this week of hearing lectures on Christian Sacrifice, which no doubt included the offering of ourselves, our souls and bodies in service to God. The chairman of your committee invited me to talk this evening about what may be described as a rather specialist form by which about 42,000 churchpeople in the British Isles offer their service, by ringing the bells of our churches. May I attach part of what I have to say to the tale of three of our brother clergy, one of whom suffered disaster and the other two considerable inconvenience, which they might have avoided had they heard this talk.

One Sunday afternoon a few years ago some terrified Sunday School children at Okeford Fitzpaine in Dorset fled down the stairs of their church tower, to find the nearest grown up, to whom they gave terrible news—'Please, something dreadful has happened to the vicar, in the church belfry.' Investigation snowed the worst. There was the vicar's body, torn asunder, beneath one of the bells. Poor man, he had evidently taken the children up to explore the belfry, and one can only presume he didn't know anything about bells, for instance the important fact that before bells can be rung they must be 'raised' and set up (as in model), and when in this position it is extremely dangerous for anyone to go close to them. So, as any worker must begin by understanding his tools, anyone who wishes to know about ringing must learn a little about his bells.

FORCES OF BELLS

The forces set up by bells when ringing are surprising. A bell weighing X cwt. presses the tower sideways 2X and vertically 4X cwt. when ringing. So Mancroft tenor presses its tower nearly 4 tons to left and right and 8 tons downwards during ringing. In fact a ring of bells forms a valuable and important piece of engineering, whose maintenance needs the attention of a skilled mechanic at frequent intervals. It would do us good to know how much loving care is expended secretly on our bells by our steeplekeepers, who mostly do their work for nothing. We all should know just a little about belfry maintenance, for there are 5,422 churches in the British Isles with bells hung for ringing, of which about 187 are in this diocese, in 59 of which I am ashamed to say the bells are out of order and unringable. This is a poor show compared with many other parts of the country, thus in the rural deanery in which I began my ministry, in Berkshire, every parish church save one had a proper ring of bells regularly rung.

The things we should know are these points: The bells themselves are often valuable both intrinsically and historically. Bell metal is an alloy of copper and tin, and a bell is worth roughly its weight in pennies. The contents of many of our belfries form a remarkable historical record, for many of them were cast 500 years ago, and the oldest in this diocese is the 13th century bell standing on the floor of Snettisham Church. The achievements of the mediæval bell founders in overcoming transport and other technical difficulties to produce bells still of excellent tone, are remarkable and deserve a lecture to themselves.

About the time that Despencer the Fighting Bishop was hanging Lidester and giving Norwich Cathedral its priceless retable, William de Norwico was casting a bell still to be seen in St. Peter Hungate and still good enough to ring. But bell casting and tuning is a very modern art as well as an ancient one, and a course of lectures could be devoted to the science of bell tuning as understood today, involving as it does the task of getting about ten different notes to sound harmoniously together in each bell. The 13 bells in Yarmouth Church were tuned so that each sounds best when heard in concert with all the other bells, for we shall normally ring 12 together, and the clock chimes will play a theme by Bach (from the B minor Mass). A rather different method is used for a bell which sounds by itself, such as Norwich City Hall bell which has a richer individual tone.

EXCESSIVE NOISE

The bell frame is a valuable piece of engineering, subject to deterioration through rot, beetle, rust, etc., according to what it is made of. It needs to be kept in good order, the bells need to be kept well lubricated, birds must be rigorously excluded—but as this is not an Archdeacon's Visitation charge I will say no more on these lines. It is worth noting, though, that the excessive noise which some bells make can be easily remedied, thereby lessening a very real source of annoyance to neighbours. It is quite wrong for bells to hang on the level of the belfry windows, so that a fiendish clatter emerges. Thus at Mancroft, the police can hardly hear themselves telephone when the bells are ringing. All that is necessary is for the belfry windows to be blocked up inside, by thin brickwork or sound resisting material, and if you can afford it, block these windows completely and arrange sound openings in the roof. The pleasing effect is notable at Lincoln Cathedral.

One more thing we ought to know about our bells. If your bells are out of order and can't be rung, they can at least be made to chime for very little cost. It is curious how terrified some people get of doing anything to their bells. An incumbent in this diocese recently invited me to address his P.C.C. about their bells. I found to my astonishment that they had raised £600 towards the £700 needed for the complete rehanging of the bells, but they were so worried about raising the remaining £100, and so deceived by the specious words of a salesman, that they wanted to spend £500 of their £600 on erecting a hateful electric machine to make noises supposed to resemble bells, whilst they were going to start all over again raising the £700 needed for proper rehanging! and the gadget would only last 20 years whilst the bells would last several hundred. Strangest of all, the only reason why their bells wouldn't chime was because during the invasion scare in 1940 someone had tied the clappers up. They are now chiming their bells gaily without having spent a penny.

The Vicar of Okeford Fitzpaine needn't have known all these facts to save his life, but they are worth knowing nevertheless.

THE RINGING FRATERNITY

Now for the second cleric who suffered considerable inconvenience. It was Whit Tuesday morning, at a great and famous Cathedral in the north. The secretary of the Central Council of Church Bell Ringers had written to the Cathedral authorities to say the Council was holding its annual meeting in that city, and it would be deeply appreciated if the members might receive Holy Communion at the Cathedral that morning. They were told that they would be most welcome. But the celebrant had not been told, or else those concerned had no idea what the Central Council consists of. The celebration was in a small side chapel as usual with one priest. But when between one and two hundred communicants appeared, the Cathedral was hard put to it, to deal with the situation with dignity. It was a pity the priest concerned did not know a little more about what ringers are like, as a body nowadays. The 42,000 ringers in the British Isles are a highly organised fraternity. The band of ringers in each tower is normally affiliated to their Diocesan Ringers Association, and all the Diocesan Associations are in turn affiliated to the Ringers' Central Council. The Central Council meets annually on Whit Tuesday, normally in an English Cathedral city.

In view of the fact that occasionally people expose their ignorance by describing ringing as a dying art, I note that when the Norwich Diocesan Association was founded in 1877 membership was small, and the optimists dreamed of the day when there would be 400 members; that was when the diocese included East Suffolk also. Since the war we have had a remarkable increase in membership; during the last three years 200 new members have been elected, and membership today for Norfolk alone is about 500. So much for the dying art. And you must be a competent change-ringer before you can be elected; this means many months of hard learning and practice.

LEICESTER DIOCESAN GUILD Melton District Dinner

Ringers of the Melton District of the Leicester Diocesan Guild held their annual dinner on December 5th in the Midland Woodworkers' Canteen, Melton. An excellent dinner was served by the canteen staff, 66 ringers and friends being present, including the Vicar of Melton (Canon C. M. S. Clarke), the president of the Guild and Mrs. P. J. Staniforth.

Canon Clarke, in proposing the toast, 'The Leicester Guild', said he was very pleased to see such a good mixture of young ringers together with the older ones; it was good to see the young ones taking up the art. He also had a special word for Mr. E. Littlewood, of Asfordby, now 86 years of age and still able to carry on.

The president replied for the Guild and thanked the Canon for his words of encouragement. A very enjoyable social evening followed, led by the famous Kirby Harmony Twins, with dancing and the usual fun and games.

OBITUARY

MR. E. J. JELLEY

As briefly recorded in the issue of 'The Ringing World' of December 11th, it is with deepest regret that we have to record the passing on December 3rd, of Ernest Jelley of South Wigston, Leicester. This has come as a great shock, not only to the ringers at South Wigston, where he had served the belfry for over 40 years, but to ringers all over the country, especially his many friends in the Midland Counties Guild and in Devon and Cornwall.

On October 31st he was present at the opening of the ten bells at Carbis Bay, and as recently as November 29th he was attempting what was destined to be his last peal attempt—Stedman Caters at Buckfast Abbey. He made the long journey back to Wigston on the Sunday, just at the start of a week's holiday. On December 2nd he visited his doctor who diagnosed angina, and in the evening he set out with his son John to the weekly practice at South Wigston. But he never arrived, for he turned back through feeling unwell leaving John to come alone, and during the night he passed away.

Ernest rang his first peal (treble to Plain Bob Major) at South Wigston on May 31st, 1919. Between then and November 20th, 1926, he rang 22 peals. In this period are included 10.912 Kent at Thurcaston on January 6th 1923, 9.120 Ilkeston variation at the Bell Foundry on February 16th, 1924, and an 'all-Ernest' peal at the Bell Foundry on May 1st, 1926.

His work as a driver for the Midland Red buses kept him away from peal ringing until May, 1944, and from then until June, 1953, he rang 11 peals, all at South Wigston. Then the writer came to South Wigston as choir-master and organist and through Ernest's influence also came to be Ringing Master. From then Ernest rang 320 peals. There was no stopping his enthusiasm, largely aroused through his son, then aged 15. Both father and son made rapid strides together and through the writer's leadership peals in a variety of new Surprise methods were scored. The enthusiasm did not stop at new methods. New towers in Leicestershire were visited for peals and also for 'tower snatches' and by his enthusiasm the writer was able to visit many out-of-the-way towers which would not otherwise have been possible. In addition many of the young ringers at South Wigston had good experience in visiting these towers. What was probably the most famous of these expeditions took place on August 27th, 1956, when five ringers set out for a 'snatch' at Saddington. Yes, was the reply to Ernest's enquiry, 'ring as long as you like.' 'For 2½ hours,' said Ernest. 'Yes! I'll come and listen.' And so a peal was the result. Perhaps the peal that caused the greatest satisfaction was on November 7th, 1956, when after much hard work and preparation a peal of Braunstone Surprise Major was rung at the tiny hamlet of King's Norton. This peal came round at 9.55 p.m. and the nearest 'local' two miles away. The famous black van never travelled so fast!

In all Ernest rang 353 peals: over 225 were with his son and 208 with the writer. At South Wigston he rang 61 and 146 at the Foundry (including over 100 on the ninth).

At South Wigston Ernest was latterly deputy Ringing Master and his experience and wise counsel often proved invaluable. Not given to voicing his opinion too often, he had the knack of saying the right thing at the right time, even if it did mean disagreeing with someone else. His presence in the belfry will be sorely missed. Another tower also will miss Ernest very much. For many years he had been a regular visitor at the practice at St. John-the-Divine's, Leicester, and his help and experience there had been responsible for the training of the band.

In his spare time Ernest repaired watches and many ringers at South Wigston and elsewhere have taken their timepieces to Ernest to be repaired. He was also a pianist.

To his widow, his son, John, his daughter and son-in-law we extend our heartfelt sympathy, and we at South Wigston mourn the loss of a great friend and ringer.

The cremation was at Gilroes cemetery on December 5th. It is a matter of regret that it was not possible to ring a peal to his memory at South Wigston, where he had served the belfry for so long, but a quarter peal of Stedman Triples was rung there on December 8th. A quarter peal was also rung at St. John-the-Divine on December 5th. Peals were, however, rung at Mountsorrel on December 5th and at the Bell Foundry on December 7th, both conducted by the writer.

The most appropriate epitaph is a poem composed by Ernest on February 19th, 1922, after ringing 504 Stedman Triples for morning service.

Eight bell ropes in a chamber hang.
Eight strong men went up and rang.
5-0-4 of Stedman Triples.
Oh! how sweet the music ripples.

This took place on Sunday morning
Just as service time was dawning.
When those men all walked away
The place around was twice as gay.

Good bell music is always pleasing.
But change ringing is often teasing.
For if one nian a mistake should make
The music often tends to break.

For on the very last change but one
A mistake will often come along.
And so you will see it leaves a doubt
As to whether a touch is coming out.

MORRIS ALFRED TURNER AN APPRECIATION

With the death in Philadelphia last month of Mr. Morris Alfred Turner, there came to an end a most interesting and unique ringing career. Unique, because it was divided into two parts by a period of forty seven years, when the only contact with ringing matters was in correspondence with his brother Bob in Kettering.

Starting ringing in 1900 at Kettering Parish Church, Alf progressed quickly in the art, and rang many peals, conducting two. One peal, of Stedman Triples, was conducted by the late Rev. F. E. Robinson, and Alf would relate how after the peal the conductor congratulated the Turner brothers on their ringing. In December, 1908, he rang what was to be the last peal for him for many long years—Superlative with the local band at Kettering. In 1909 he set sail for the United States, where he married, and where for the past few years his grandchildren had been a great joy to him.

After retirement from his painting and decorating business, his thoughts turned again to England, and in 1956 we in Kettering were delighted to learn of a planned holiday here. We could not, however, anticipate the boundless enthusiasm for ringing which we were to see rekindled in this 70-year-old! Within a very few weeks, with the encouragement of his brother the old mastery of the rope returned, and Alf was soon ringing as well as ever. Before long there was talk of a peal, and the first took place at Brampford Speke, Devon. Shortly afterwards Bob Major, at St. Edmund's, Northampton, was rung.

It was not surprising that this taste of the old love should lead to a visit to one of the ringing towers in the United States, and shortly after his return home we heard of visits to Kent School, Connecticut, where Alf was able to be of considerable help and was made very welcome.

In 1958, a second visit to England came, during which a tour of the Canterbury district gave him his first ringing week. A heart complaint, however, was to limit ringing this time to short touches, but the long climb to Canterbury Cathedral belfry, taken in easy stages, enabled an ambition to be realised. York Minster, too, was visited in the September, and what a joy it was to us all to see the pleasure it brought Alf to be able to ring on those magnificent bells. What a joy indeed to have had the privilege of meeting and ringing with such a man.

GAVE INSTRUCTION TO 44 PEOPLE

Most encouraging reports were presented at the annual meeting of St. Peter's Guild, Staines, held at the Vicarage, Staines, on Dec. 2nd, with the Rev. R. W. Carter in the chair.

The Secretary (Miss Jean Williams) and the Ringing Master (Mr. R. I. Shepherd) reported that the first year since the reconstitution of the Guild, after a lapse of a quarter of a century, had been a very successful one and gave hope and encouragement to the officers for the future development of ringing in the Staines area.

A total of 44 persons had been given instruction in bell handling and control during the year including two persons from St. Matthew's, Ashford, where there are three bells! Sixteen Girl Guides had not, however, stayed the course leading to the Guide's Bell-ringer Badge, as they found that more was required of them than a few evenings' instruction. Five Guides would shortly be taking their badge and a further ten were waiting for the next course in January. Two Scouts had passed their first Bell-ringer Badge and four more were under instruction. The Scouts were regular and staunch members of the Sunday band. Twelve new members were elected to the Guild.

Income for the year from weddings and donations was £44. Expenditure totalled £38 and included the complete redecoration of St. Peter's belfry and the laying of lino tiles, also the provision of a set of bell muffers. Four persons rang their first quarter peal during the year and it was to be hoped that the band would score its first peal in the new year.

The bell-ringing exhibition at the Town Hall in October had been a huge success, 1,600 persons having seen the exhibits and heard the handbells or the recordings. As a direct result of this the Guild had been invited to affiliate to the Staines and District Arts and Civics Council. The meeting decided to affiliate at an annual fee of one guinea. Some of the younger members were preparing for their part in Benjamin Britten's 'Noye's Fludde' at St. Matthew's, Ashford, and a regular weekly handbell practice was to be arranged in the new year.

The Rev. R. W. Carter closed the meeting with prayers and expressed his pleasure in seeing so many young people present at their first business meeting.

NEW RING OF SIX IN DEVON

Upon the advice of the American Air Force, Dunkswell, Devon, tower and bells were taken down in 1946. They were said to be unsafe because of the excessive vibrations from the activities of Liberator bombers which flew from the airfield a few hundred yards from the church.

The tower has now been rebuilt and the five bells, augmented to six, rehung. The reopening ceremony took place on December 5th, the 700th anniversary of the church.

Dunkswell has now one of the finest small parish churches in the county, and a good ring of bells. The splendid organ is the gift of Americans in memory of the airmen who lost their lives in missions from Dunkswell Airfield.

Christmas Greetings to all Readers

SHEFFIELD AND DISTRICT SOCIETY

The Society's last meeting of recent months was held jointly with the Chesterfield District of the Derby Guild at Bolsover on December 5th. In addition to a good representation by the local company and surrounding towers, visitors were present from as far afield as Howden, Yorks., and Loughborough.

Bolsover is indeed a Mecca of ringers, and for years has been associated with high standards of ringing, established in the days of John Flint, when a peal of London Surprise Major by the local band was an almost commonplace event. In keeping with this fine tradition, the ringing throughout the afternoon and evening was of a generally high standard. Although good courses of London, Bristol and other Surprise Major methods were rung, there was also ample opportunity for the many keen young learners.

About 40 ringers enjoyed an excellent ham tea, after which a brisk business meeting was held with the president (Mr. H. O. Chaddock) in the chair. It was announced that the next meeting would be at Sheffield on January 2nd, when the fine eight at St. Marie's and the heavy 12 at the Cathedral would be available.

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

No. 2540 Vol. LV

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 25, 1959

Registered at the G.P.O. for transmission as a newspaper. 6d.

FROM MINOR TO MAJOR

WITH the exception of those issued in 1917 and 1918. I hold nearly all the 'Ringing Worlds' published.

No. 1, volume 1, appeared on March 24th, 1911 and the title of the leader is 'Our Aim.' In this we read that it was intended to use the columns for the information, the instruction and, it was hoped, the elevation 'of all who take an interest in the art of Change Ringing and in the business and social side of the organisations which promote the art.'

Also, it is mentioned that 'there is a demand for a journal which shall record faithfully and promptly the doings of those engaged in the pursuit of bell-ringing'; it refers to the legion of bell-ringers throughout the country who have long been awaiting a journal which . . . shall reflect their opinions, which shall keep them in touch, week by week, with the doings of their colleagues throughout the country and which shall cater for all grades of the Exercise—for those struggling with Grandsire Doubles as well as for those who have reached the goal of their ambition in the achievement of London Surprise or Cambridge Maximus.

Then there appear references to the items to be published, that the paper relies largely on ringers for such matter, that a short account of an occurrence published in the issue following the event if possible is better than a lengthy account published weeks after it when its freshness has departed, and that the paper will be open for the fair and impartial discussion of all matters appertaining to the interests of ringers. The leader ends thus, ' . . . we place the first number of 'The Ringing World' before our readers, content to leave it to their judgment and the hope that the spirit in which the work has been undertaken will perhaps be recognised and appreciated.' That was in 1911—sixteen pages, price one penny.

As I have said, I have no 'Ringing Worlds' of 1917 and 1918, but I notice that the price of the issue of August 1st, 1919, was twopence—twelve pages. (We must remember that this was just at the end of a world war.)

Next, in 1921, the Editor gave notice of another increase—to threepence on February 18th, 1921—but the pages were to be increased to sixteen. Making the announcement the Editor said 'Everyone agrees that, if interest in ringing is to be maintained, there must be a ringing paper, and, without it as a link between ringers in all parts of the country, the art would probably cease to flourish. For nearly fifty years we believe there has been a journal which has been the medium of information between ringers, and it would be a reflection on the Exercise if, in these days of progress, neglect or apathy (or whatever one cares to term it) left the art without its own paper.' The paper had to be bigger because its twelve pages would not accommodate all the matter which was being sent up then, and more pages meant more money.

On January 5th, 1923, the Editor gave notice that the sixteen-page journal would not hold all the matter coming to his hands, but a larger paper could not be produced without more expense and this could be met by either a dearer paper or greater circulation. In 1921 he had appealed for an increase of 1,000 more sales per week but this had been only half met by 1923.

However, the price remained at threepence until January 6th, 1950, when, still providing sixteen pages, it went up to fourpence, a decision made months before because of rising costs of production.

The Editor comes to us again on the front page of the last issue of 1954, giving notice of a forthcoming charge of sixpence—still sixteen pages. Here he stresses that the only revenue-producing side of circulation is our obtaining the paper by postal subscription, instead of through a newsagent, yet there were then twice as many of us who bought our 'Ringing World' through newsagents as did by post.

Now, recently, we were given notice of an increase in 1960 to eightpence. I suppose a few who now take the paper will drop out: I imagine that always happens when anything anyone takes goes up in price. But those of us who are really interested in ringers, ringing and bells will pay the extra money. We can help if those of us who buy through newsagents switch to postal subscriptions—much as I hate to suggest taking trade from anybody, but this is rather vital here—and try to get new subscribers.

If only the financial position of the paper were to become firm, undoubtedly the troubled Editor (I am sorry for him!) could improve the matter in it and the size of it too. It seems that it has had a passage by no means easy for many, many years and, so far, nobody has thought of something big to ensure its existence and enable it to be more attractive. I admit it could be more attractive.

If the paper were to fail it would take some starting-up again and the chances are that it never would. It would also be a great task to launch a successor. Even so, there would be a gap which none of us wants. For the sake of those who run 'The Ringing World,' as well as for ourselves, keep it going!

What should we do without it! May we never have a Friday without being able to read what has happened at so-and-so or to so-and-so, where so-and-so rang the other day, what so-and-so says, did, thinks and is going to do!

If we are lovers of ringers, ringing and bells we would feel very empty and lost without our paper. We should remember that it exists at present and that its continued existence is up to us. It is more than a national paper: it is world-wide.

Think of something big, somebody! If you can't don't quibble at the coming eightpence, although it will be eight times as much as it was in 1911. I venture to suggest that a garden shed would cost eight times as much for the wood and nearly the same for the carpenter to put it up as it did in 1911. So is there need for much alarm?

CLAUDE RUSH.

From on board S.S. Strathaird in the Indian Ocean Miss Florence C. Brown writes: 'This morning the Stedman recording of St. Margaret's, Westminster, brought the passengers to the captain's service and reminded me again of how much I regret the lack of time I had to say good-bye to my ringing friends in England. I particularly want to thank all those who helped me and welcomed a stranger into their bands—especially my "home" towers at Ealing and Stoke Bishop, Bristol.' Her temporary address will be c/o Australian and New Zealand Bank, Ltd., 351, Collins Street, Melbourne, Victoria, Australia.

Mr. John F. Killick, of St. Mary's Cathedral, Edinburgh, has been ringing at Sydney, Australia, mostly at the Basilica.

Reference was made at the Lincoln Diocesan Guild Diamond Jubilee to one of the two surviving founder members, Mr. John Cragg, of Caythorpe. John was 80 years old on December 9th, and on December 12th he conducted from the seventh 1,260 Grandsire Triples in honour of the occasion.

Six Isle of Thanet ringers are to be congratulated on ringing their first peal. Five of them are pupils of Mrs. N. Bridges, who is to be commended on her untiring efforts in the area. She states that Mr. Bob Dadds helps her a lot, and he also rang his first peal with the young first-pealers.

Rotherham ringers' recruiting drives at Penistone, Yorks, and Clay Cross, Derbyshire, have borne fruit. At both towers some six to eight recruits are forthcoming. Those at Penistone will be trained by Mr. Arthur Champion, one of the old band and at Clay Cross by Mr. Price, who along with one or two other ringers has been trying to keep things going lately.

BELFRY GOSSIP

The first peal on the new five at Church Gresley, Derbyshire, has been rung, and 14-year-old David Eames, who is the first of the young team being trained to achieve this standard, rang the treble very competently for his first peal attempt. The band would like to associate the peal with the memory of Ernest J. Jelley, whose sudden death came as a sad shock to those of the Midland Counties Guild with whom he had shared so many happy ringing experiences, and to extend their sympathy to his son, John M. Jelley, and all members of the bereaved family.

We are sorry to learn that Mr. Edgar Shepherd, of Solihull, has for the time being to take things very quietly—no ringing, no cycling and not walking too far. He is awaiting the specialist's verdict.

Miss Ann Brown, of Sydney, leaves Australia on December 28th for approximately five months in Great Britain. She hopes to renew acquaintances with ringing friends in Epsom, Kent, Leicester and Bray, Ireland.

Ringers attending the induction of Rev. Alfred Jowett, to the living of St. George's, Doncaster, on January 30th at 2.30 p.m. should note that car parking will be in the Technical College School yard with entrance by St. George's Gate.

A query from Mr. John H. Gilbert, Long Ashton, Bristol: 'Will the Central Council recognise the peal which Professor Dodge offered to arrange in the issue of December 11th? After all, it would be directly connected with a publication under their control.'

A band from the Chertsey District of the Guildford Guild rang a quarter peal at Walburton, Sussex, as a compliment to the Vicar (the Rev. R. D. Ure) on his retirement. Afterwards the Vicar entertained the band to a 'wonderful' tea.

'NOT SO OLD' TIMER'S REMINISCENCES OF LONDON RINGING

By JAMES A. HALES

I DID a good deal of ringing in the 1920's. For some years I was the Northern District Secretary of the London County Association. Contemporary with me and all in our teens were Jack Waugh, Ray Cousins and Jim Prior. I saw the rise of the Stepney band with the brothers Fox—what a grand lot of chaps they were. 'Taft' was our mentor (Thos. H. Taffender to you) and now in his 83rd year. A year or so back, I had the honour to propose a toast to 'T.H.T.' and I wondered how many ringers there were of whom 'Taft' had called their first peal. I would go further and query how many Masters of the Ancient Society have had their first peal called by him.

In East London, we had some varied ringing in the 1920's. Bethnal Green and Leytonstone practised on Mondays. The latter had about the finest six bell band in the South. Lamberhurst and Trumpington were useful, but I think Leytonstone with the brothers Pye, Theobald, Prior, Millar and Ted Smith, to name but a few of the band, got the palm. Ted Smith is still with us and just as good a striker. Last year at Poplar, just about halfway through a quarter of Stedman Caters, the tenor clapper fell out and chased poor old Ted down the stairs.

ST. JOHN-AT-HACKNEY

To return to the 1920's. St. John-at-Hackney's night was a Tuesday. Harry Alford jun. ('Bodkin') was the steeplekeeper, there being a certain amount of paid ringing and the band was built up by the Upper Clapton ringers, the leading light of whom was W. J. Kemp. Billy Kemp taught me to handle. He was an excellent ringer who unfortunately died very young. He rang a peal at Hackney, went off home on his motor-cycle combination, contracted a chill and died. His was a sad loss. At St. John's, I did not like the way we young fellows had to stand on the sidelines, especially on paid occasions, and more so as we were all keen members of St. John's, so I started up some acrid correspondence in 'The Ringing World' the upshot of which was that Alford was asked to resign as steeplekeeper and we took over. We revived the old society and the bells of Old Hackney (as they are called) rang right up to 1939. Some of my readers will be aware that St. John's was completely gutted by fire and has now been rebuilt. Mears have put in a fine eight, and Denis Neal, the Master of the present Clapton band, has taught a really fine lot of chaps to handle, and I had the pleasure of seeing them open the bells last year at the dedication.

SWEETS AT SOUTHWARK

Southwark Cathedral was the venue for Wednesdays. Mr. Seabrook always saw that a bag of sweets was on the table (other towers please copy!) Dear old Bob Newton was there, with his apple-checked complexion and his white head. I can see him now, he was always with a learner. I can remember him holding the rope, whilst the 'rookie' waited for the sally and hoped for the best.

There was nothing I liked to do more than ring for the Saturday monthly musical service at Southwark. Seats were always reserved for the ringers and I have heard some lovely music there—'Messiah' at Christmas and Bach's Passion Music in Holy Week. Apropos Southwark, I had a wonderful experience there last year. When a peal attempt is made, the lights in the nave are switched off and a couple of hurricane lamps are left by the belfry door to light the way out. I was not in the peal attempt, but I heard the start and then had the experience of walking through the darkened cathedral with history pressing in on me from all sides, the fitful light through the stained-glass windows and the majesty of the bells overhead. I doubt if I shall ever capture such a moment again.

Thursday was the night of St. John-at-Jerusalem, South Hackney; Ike Attwater was the master and Riley the steeplekeeper. Dear old Riley was one of those rare birds who could 'plain hunt' faultlessly but make a dodge—never. The Bethnal Green band always attended at South Hackney. Hills, Fred Smith, Sid Penfold, the standard was good—Double Norwich and Cambridge Major.

TOUGH IN THE EAST

Friday night, St. George's-in-the-East. This really was something, with a tenor of about 30 cwt., and she felt it! Knots in the ropes as big as fists, some stayless bells, and so on. I went up there one night and was told that the tenor had been bumped and had jumped out of her bearings and was resting on the frame. As I reached for my hat I was told not to go as they were putting her back. They did too—they were mighty tough in the East.

St. George's ringers practised at St. Olave's, Hart Street, on the old six. Many's the chore I did there. I remember cleaning the lovely bust of Mrs. Pepys. There was a fair eight at All Hallows', Barking, but alas, this was a war casualty and now has a carillon. I did a deal of ringing at St. Olave's on Pepys' Day, the Trinity House service and harvest festival. Tom Wellard, the priest, I knew well for he had been vicar of St. Luke's, Hackney, before he went to St. Olave's. I was a member of the band that opened the bells when the two trebles were added there. I missed my chance of immortality (one's picture in 'The Times') for Preb. Wellard asked me to get the ringers together as the Bishop, dear old Winnington-Ingram, expressed a wish to have a photo of himself and the ringers. I dashed across the road to the place where the ringers are wont to gather, but in the meantime some choirmen had been collected, the ropes placed in their hands with the Bishop in the middle and the photo duly appeared in 'The Thunderer' the next day.

Lord Mayor's Show day was great fun. The College Youths, as they still do, rang at St. Paul's, Cornhill, Cripplegate. For us lesser fry there was always St. Clement Danes', St. Dunstan's-in-the-East, St. Magnus', Jewry, or Barking-by-the-Tower, depending on the course of the route taken by the procession.

VETERAN RECTOR

About St. Magnus the Martyr, the Rev. Fynnes Clinton, who was the rector in the 1920's, still holds the living. I should think this must be a record for the City, at least my friend Bill Grainger says so; he visits the reverend gentleman regularly and says that he is in his 86th year and has altered very little. The Rev. Fynnes Clinton was a good friend to us and we managed a monthly quarter peal attempt for evensong and always rang for the Christmas Eve and annual parish procession. In return, the bells could be had for peal attempts.

Peal attempts have no great attraction for me. Quarters, yes. I would go a distance for a quarter peal but as for peals—after half-way through a peal attempt I would wonder I was in this Such a lot I could be doing in other fields. So although I have rung a number of peals, I never collected them. I am very proud of Holt's Original called by Bill Judd at St. Mary's, Woolwich. The steeplekeeper was anxious to score his first peal at his local tower, and this attempt was a real joke amongst London ringers for it would not come home and if it had been attempted once it had been attempted twenty times to no avail.

I only went twice. The first time, after two hours, one of the band (who in later years became Master of the Ancient Society) fainted, and on the second occasion we scored the peal and great were the rejoicings thereof.

I remember standing in a peal attempt at St. Magnus-the-Martyr with a most exalted band, including James George, Bill Fussell and F. E. Dawe. It was a half-muffled peal for, I believe, the steeplekeeper of St. Mary Abbots. It came to grief just over half-way and Frank Dawe's bell came down. 'Taft' went up top and found a clocking hammer bent and went in search of the verger. We had forgotten to tie the rope of the Angelus bell and the verger, quite irrespective of the bells ringing, had come out at six o'clock and tolled the bell and that was the end of the peal attempt. We rang it later, but not with all the 'top brass.'

Those old ringers fascinated me. Is their like about today? An abler pen than mine has written about Frank Dawe and how he set about his ambition to score a peal on all the cathedral bells in the United Kingdom. He always took a cab, carried a gladstone bag, and prior to a peal attempt he would produce a duster, some powder and a chamois leather sleeve that he would put round the tail of the rope almost up to the sally.

JIMMY GEORGE'S ALBERT

Jas. George had an enormous gold albert, loaded with ringer's badges and emblems. It hung down in a great loop from his top waistcoat button. Prior to ringing, he would gather the whole lot up and thrust it into a trousers pocket. He was keen to ring a peal at St. Mary Matfelon, Whitechapel. I stood in several attempts there, but no luck. What a ring of bells! No one could make out why the whole lot would suddenly come down. It was said the cause was two District Railway trains passing, or when a bell was bumped, or the wind, I do not know but this I do know, many a wet shirt I had up there. Dear old Ted Wallage was the steeplekeeper. How old was Ted? I don't know but to me he was the oldest man I have ever seen, and ever will, but he could tap the treble to his beloved Stedman.

St. Mary's was a war casualty. The rector, the Rev. John Mayo, was a real character. He kept a good table, and many's the meal I have had with him. He was the originator of the Wayside Pulpit and had about five small notice boards and every week would have a 'five-minute sermon,' some well-known verses of a hymn and a prayer. Knowing how he loved his church, I doubt whether he long survived its destruction.

I remember the Rev. Pennington Bickford and his devoted wife. What a tragedy when St. Clement Danes' was destroyed and their world came to an end. They were good friends to London ringers and the L.C.A. annual meeting at St. Clement's was always well attended and the church full for the service, for Pennington Bickford was a good ringer's parson.

THE THIRTEENTH BELL

Sad to hear of the passing of Alf. Pulling. He was a fine fellow and I remember one year I was on a cycling tour of the West Country and I knew that Alf. had a peal attempt at Exeter. I had never rung on the cathedral bells and I met him outside the tower and asked if I could come up. 'By all means,' said he, so up I went. I cannot say what I rang but it was about the fifth or sixth. I struck it perfectly, but everyone was shouting at me to stand. I did, and to my amazement the twelve still rang out—I had taken the odd one of the thirteen.

CLERGY SCHOOL GIVEN INSIGHT INTO RINGING

By Rev. GILBERT THURLOW

May I plead for a certain degree of patience and understanding in dealing with our ringers. A new vicar came to Mancroft 50 years ago. He demanded that all who rang at Mancroft should attend the services for which they rang. He didn't realise that good ringers are experts living far apart and with years of experience behind them, like Cathedral Lay Clerks. Nor did he know that several of the ringers were either churchwardens or parish clerks at other Norwich churches. So Mancroft bells were silent for a while. If we know nothing about ringing or about the problems ringers face, we must not cavil if they show a certain degree of independence. The very independence of ringers is an advantage in some ways. As vice-president of the Central Council, I am offered my travelling expenses and accommodation at Southport's best hotel for the meeting on Whit Tuesday, which shows a more courageous financial outlook than for instance the Central Council for the Care of Churches can show, relying as it does on Church Assembly funds. That's how ringers behave. Whilst too many choirs in Norwich Diocese cannot afford it seems to pay their fares to Norwich Cathedral for the annual Choral Festival ringers think nothing of paying their fares to ringing meetings all over the land. That's how you behave when you are really devoted to something.

A SOCIAL ACTIVITY

The clergy often tend to think of ringers as an irreligious body. This is to some extent true, but to a far smaller extent than you may suppose. You must remember that change ringing as a scientific art began to develop at the very time when the church was least interested in the arts. Fabian Stedman, the Cambridge printer who was the first to realise the great mathematical possibilities of ringing bells in changes, that is in a varying order every time they sound, was born in 1631, the College Youths, which society might be called the leader of Change Ringing, was founded in 1637, and what we know as Change Ringing, the order changing every time the bells sound, was first practised in 1642, of all decades in church history! Change Ringing shared to the full the gaiety of English life in good King Charles's golden days, the days of Purcell and the Bell Anthem, the days when Stedman was in his prime, and when the dandies of Cambridge and elsewhere who would be rowing a few generations later, spent much time ringing in the University Church and St. Bene't's. We only have to look at the 18th century churches, which are so much more remarkable for their architectural charm than for their sense of worship, to see that the bond between worship and art was slender in the time of the Georges, so ringing was still a social rather than a worshipful activity. Norwich was outstanding as a ringing centre at that time, and the first long peal of over 5,000 changes ever rung is commemorated by a fine peal board in Mancroft tower, dating from 1715.

It was during the growth of the Oxford Movement that change ringing came into its own as a definite part of the service of worship. It was during the 70's of last century, and since then, that the diocesan ringers' associations have been founded, most with the bishop of the diocese as the patron or president, and other clergy as active members or supporters, and today ringing takes place for more religious occasions and perhaps fewer secular occasions than ever before. The bells are today thought of as one of the adjuncts of worship, as they were in mediæval times, and we look forward at Yarmouth to the blessing of our new bells by the Dean in June, and their opening for ringing by the Bishop of Thetford in August.

Lest any still think of ringers as irreligious, may I note that amongst the ringing societies there is the Guild of Clerical Ringers. Its 76 members include two diocesan bishops and three archdeacons, and though neither of our bishops can claim membership, they shine by the glory of their children, for a son of one and a daughter of the other are ringers. If the cathedral celebrant that Whit Tuesday morning had known all these things, he would have been more prepared.

THE HEAD THROUGH THE TRAP DOOR

Now for the third cleric who suffered considerable inconvenience, which might have been avoided had he heard this lecture.

Many years ago eight strong members of Cambridge University Guild were three-quarters of the way through a peal in an intricate method. Behind their achievement were many years of experience, and through the brain of each man there was flowing a highly complicated train of thought, somewhat similar to what goes through an organist's mind when he is playing a fugue. Their muscles were tensed and active in a manner reminiscent of the Cambridge crew on their way to victory. They were facing something difficult, something worth achieving, their minds were elated by possible victory as when Sir Edmund Hillary was at last on the summit ridge of Everest. And then the thing happened. The trap door admitting to the ringing room began to rise. Beneath it appeared the fresh young face of the curate. He had come to say Matins. He couldn't say it with this hurly-burly going on overhead. Who were these bucolic old men disturbing the church's peace? Hadn't his theological college taught him the greater importance of the Daily Office? So he must stop the noise. But those above thought otherwise. What would happen to anyone who dropped a branch into the Thames just as Cambridge were rowing past? What would happen to anyone who fired a shot into the ball just as Norwich City's winning goal was about to be scored? An old Prebendary of Lincoln, who happened to be ringing the bell nearest to the trap door, jumped upon it. A thud was heard below. A sadder and wiser cleric complained to his vicar. But the vicar took a more philosophical view. I remember how the Dean of St. Paul's at a College Youths' annual dinner said 'When I was Dean of Exeter, when Exeter Cathedral bells were halfway through a four hour peal and when I was half-way through a chapter in philosophy, I would pause and think . . . but then I would think again—what is a philosopher compared with a ringer of bells?' Now this is the lesson that young priest learnt that day: he learnt that ringing is a sacramental thing. I mean this.

THE INNER MEANING

Every human cultural activity has its outward form and its inward meaning; the inner meaning is only appreciated by those who have become initiated into it. Most games seem a pointless throwing about of a ball until you are initiated into their meaning. Music is a foreign language as far as real appreciation is concerned, until you have something of its theory in your mind. And as with games and music, drama, architecture, and sculpture, so with ringing, there is the inner meaning only appreciated by those who take the trouble to learn to understand it, and we need the humility to admit that we cannot appreciate the inner meaning of the activities in which we do not happen to specialise. Now ringing has a vast and complicated inner meaning, which one cannot explain in ten minutes. You can't learn anything big in a day, and those who wish to learn something about ringing seriously have their opportunities; thus there was a residential course on ringing from Friday to Sunday recently at Dillington House, the adult educational centre in Somerset, and there is the obvious course of learning at the nearest church where the art is practised. I would merely say that the essence of the art of change-ringing is that, starting with the bells ringing rounds, that is straight down the scale, when change-ringing begins each ringer causes his bell to proceed along a predetermined path amongst the others, each bell pursuing its own path and yet fitting in with all the others to form a rhythmic pattern of sound, different every time, so that the order of the bells never precisely repeats until they come back to rounds again. In its simplest forms this is easy after a few months' practice, but at its most complicated it is quite difficult enough for the brain of the Astronomer Royal, with whom incidentally I rang my first peal, hand-bells in Trinity Great Court.

If the curate under the trap door had known all this he might have acted differently. I wonder which theological college he attended. I recently, at the request of the Central Council of Ringers, sent a questionnaire to all the theological colleges, inviting them to say what they do to encourage their men to take an interest in ringing. It is regrettable, though perhaps not surprising, that seven of our colleges have no time at all to devote to the art. In nine colleges the door is open, as the missionary societies would say; that is to say, they either have lectures on the subject or they encourage their men to ring with the ringers at a nearby church, or they wish to begin doing so. Through the ringers' organisation, we are arranging for these colleges to take part in whatever activities they desire. Four colleges are happiest of all. At Cheshunt, Cuddesdon, Lichfield, and Salisbury, ringing is a flourishing activity amongst the students, and has been for some time. At Cuddesdon the Bishop of Lincoln, when he was Principal, set ringing really on its feet amongst the immediate post-war generation, and today of the 55 students there, 29 can handle a bell, 24 can ring rounds and 5 can ring Bob Doubles, that is simple changes on 5 bells. In August last year only one of them could ring. So the theological colleges do do something! At Cheshunt the Principal, Canon Trillo, is himself learning to ring.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

THE MOST ESSENTIAL PART

Dear Sir.—After reading the very fine leading article by 'P.G.' in 'the Ringing World,' of December 11th. it came as rather a disappointment to find another half page wasted on H. Chant's rubbish.

The suggestion that ringers are a 'privileged class' getting something for nothing is just not true, as anyone lucky enough to work in a parish where 'planned giving' schemes operate will know. In addition, many ringers spend all they can afford (and more) on fares etc. to teach and/or learn.

David Heighton says he doesn't mind how much his 'Ringing World' costs, but very many ringers have to mind. That is why it is easier to pay 8d. a week, rather than £1 15s. just after Christmas.

Oddly enough, the part of the paper which is of most value to the Exercise, meeting notices, is passed by anyway!—Yours faithfully,

ROY COLLINS.

Chobham, Surrey.

Dear Sir.—I would like to say that at the increased price of 'the R.W.' in 1960 I shall still be pleased to take it every week. I see that the argument with regard to a levy on peals continues despite the decision of the Standing Committee. Personally I would have been prepared to pay the increase either way quite willingly, and I feel sure this is true of the majority of peal-ringers. However, I think it would be interesting if a few figures on cost could be presented to the readers, e.g. what it would cost to print 'the R.W.' without peals, compared with the cost including them. It might also be an eye-opener to many readers to see what the Editorial staff gets out of all this!—Yours sincerely,

R. ROGER SAVORY.

Southampton.

NOTE.—It is cheaper to print a page of peals than a page of 7pt. letterpress, the difference being 9s., a page.—Ed.

HALF-A-CROWN A ROPE!

Dear Sir.—Peal ringing is one of the cheapest of hobbies, but we would enjoy our peals and pleasure more if all societies were to charge 2s. 6d. a rope for all peals rung. Half would go to 'The Ringing World' and the remainder to the society concerned to do as they think best. There would then be fewer shaggy ropes in the towers.—Yours, etc.—

Rotherham, Yorks.

G. E. LEE.

£10 LEVY ON GUILDS!

Dear Sir.—Quite a number of letters have been written about levies on peals. If 'The Ringing World' is in such troubled waters surely a request could be made by the Central Council to its affiliated Guilds and Associations, for an annual subscription of say £10, to be passed to 'The Ringing World' as a form of subsidy.

This would enable every ringer to help 'our paper' continue its long life.—Yours faithfully,

F. SLATFORD.

North Bradley, Wilts.

PUBLICATION OF PEALS

Dear Sir.—I am afraid the arguments put forward by Mr. David Heighton, in his letter in your issue of December 11th, do not appear to hold much water.

He proposes that the Central Council should pay for all peal publications. Where, I ask him, is the Central Council going to find this money? Probably from Guild affiliation fees, paid out of the personal Guild subscription made by everyone.

He also states that he rings peals for reasons other than seeing his name in print. Why then, does he send his peals up for publication? Is it just to provide the C.C. with facts and figures. I think not.

Most of us, if we are honest with ourselves, like to see our names in print occasionally. Why should the C.C., or anyone else for that matter, have to subsidise our pleasures. I suggest that those who stoutly insist that their pleasure is derived purely from the peal itself should not bother to submit their peals for publication, and so leave room for other articles of interest.

I shall continue to ring the occasional peal and see same in print, partly for the pleasure of seeing my own name, and also to cut out the peal report for my scrapbook. I will always be prepared to pay my share of any peal levy—a levy which I am sure none of us would be too mean to pay if it would help to solve the financial difficulties of the 'R.W.'

ROBERT A. SOUTHWOOD.

Truro.

PEAL RINGERS AND DONATIONS

Dear Sir.—The views expressed by N. Robinson are timely, and there is no doubt that similar views are held by thousands of ringers. The feeble red herrings produced by Messrs. Corby and Heighton are mildly amusing.

Peal ringers have the venue, tools for their hobby, and free publication of the results of their hobby, provided as the old saying goes—'free, gratis and for nothing.' I enclose donation to cover cost of inserting this letter.—Yours faithfully,

WM. C. BOUGHTON.

Clent, Worcs.

'AMBRIDGE BELFRY'

Dear Sir.—The identity of 'Ambridge' belfry is St. Mary's Church, Hanbury, Worcestershire. Also the tower in the 'Borchester Echo.' The back six were recorded by the B.B.C., and are periodically broadcast in the Archer programme.

Your readers may be interested to know that the farmhouse pictures are of a farm in this parish, also the drawings of the Ice House and Dove Cote are actual buildings in Hanbury.—Yours sincerely,

BETTY BIRCH (Mrs.).

Captain, Hanbury Bellringers.

NOTE.—We thank other correspondents who have also supplied this information, particularly Peter J. Brown (15), of Norton.—Ed.

ANOTHER FOR THE LADIES' GUILD

Dear Sir.—With reference to the 'Summary Analysis of Peals rung during 1958,' published on December 11th, may I just point out that a peal of Minor was rung by the Ladies' Guild on May 9th, 1958, at Ash, Surrey. This peal does not seem to be included in the Ladies' Guild section. No doubt the convener will want to correct this point.—Yours faithfully, CHRISTINE HARBOTT (Mrs.).

Ashtead, Surrey.

FIFTY YEARS AGO

Dear Sir.—The handbell peal rung at Gainsborough on October 30th, 1909, and recalled in a local paper recently, was not the first handbell peal for the Lincoln Diocesan Guild, as a peal of Superlative was rung at Bolsover seven days previously. The Gainsborough peal however, still remains the first handbell peal rung in the county of Lincoln.—Yours sincerely,

W. SHEPHERD.

Addlestone, Surrey.

MORE ABOUT SALVAGED BELLS

Dear Sir.—So friend Arthur Bigley thinks this business about salvaging small bells from scrap yards is a 'leg-pull'! I know there are people who think the same about Mr. Wagstaff's octave of bicycle bells.

Allow me space to say that had Mr. Bigley been at the Northampton Branch meeting at Kingsthorpe last Saturday, he would have seen some of these small bells demonstrated in scale to those present. These small bells, though given various titles by laymen, are generally known by the bell-founders as criers' bells.

Although sold singly, and probably cast as maiden bells, it is known that they are not all of one note as some people imagine. It is quite possible to get tones and semitones as with large church bells, and a keen collector can, in course of time, build up a scale of various kinds, sizes and keys to form a miniature carillon, or a smaller number for tune playing, as with handbells. Scrap merchants in the main are not concerned with that; to them, they are just scrap bell metal valued at 1s. 1d. per lb., £6 1s. 4d. per cwt.

Mr. Bigley may ask: 'Ah, but are they bell metal?' Those I have salvaged in several cases have, let in the crown, J.T. & Co., indicating they were made by John Taylor and Co., who I am yet to know made bells of anything other than of bell metal, which is 13 parts copper and 4 parts tin. Others have raised letters T.M. on the crown, indicating they are old bells of Thomas Mears. Others have raised letters A.B., showing they were probably the work of Alfred Bowell. One I have has just (B) let in the crown—maybe Barwells? Yes, Mr. Bigley, all these (with the exception of two) found their way to a scrap yard—23 in all, for the sum of 39s. 6d.

If Mr. Bigley cares to dispute it, I will willingly take him to the source of supply, on the understanding that if he is proved wrong he will give £5 to the Blind or some such worthy cause, and I the same if proved wrong by Mr. Bigley—will he accept?

LETTERS—ContinuedHORNCHURCH'S THANKS

Dear Sir.—I should like very much to thank publicly through the columns of 'The Ringing World' all those towers and individuals who have so willingly made their bells available to us at Hornchurch through 1959.

It is now eighteen months since we rang our own bells and to keep a band together over that period requires a high sense of loyalty and devotion and this has been helped considerably by the many people who have let us have their bells for our Sunday excursions.

News of our own tower is not good and the work is likely to be protracted. One often reads of the workman at the bench 'going slow' but if anybody can go slower than a diocesan architect I should like to meet him!

So with at least another twelve months of a nomadic existence ahead may I, on behalf of us all at Hornchurch, say thank you once again to everybody, old friends and the new friends we have made in 1959.—Yours faithfully,

F. V. GANT.

Hornchurch, Essex.

'AFTER THOUGHTS ON PEALS'

(See page 726)

There was quite a lot more to it in between 'That is all—Stand'; there was the calling and the caller, who's going to call it and what is it to be, Stedman or Grandsire?

One of the older ringers said 'We fluffed my Stedman last year. I would rather someone else call it.' One of the younger ones said 'I don't think I am sure enough for Stedman.' Grandsire was thus decided.

The day arrived. Transport was laid on to pick up at 1.30 p.m.: when the car arrived—believe it or not—one had 'just run out for a shave.' Fortunately the other car went to the station to meet in the 1.36 which arrived without the ringer; his train was half-an-hour late and he had missed his connection:—and it was a lovely day, no fog—just 'Our British Railways,' and a railwaymen's peal. However they did broadcast over the loud-speaker system that the train was late and Mr. Pitman was on it—but that was in between going down on to the station twice. It was now past 2.15 and we must start not later than 2.30 as tea was laid on for 5.30, and we had 20 minutes ride.

So off we set for Nantwich with one short. At Willaston, we called to see if our reserve was available.—after writing to him only the night before, and he had been standing by for three weeks. Fortunately he was in bed after working nights, and more fortunate, he had had his dinner and intended coming in to hear the peal. Frank was in Nantwich—on his bike—ten minutes after our car, stood in for his 'first' of Grandsire Triples, and rang very well. Well done Frank! and thank you!!

At 6.5 p.m. we assembled for a lovely tea of lamb chops. Alas, one had to get back to Crewe to catch the 6.30 for Leeds and his wife had left a note on the tower keyhole that she would be there! Our host and hostess very kindly packed up two complete teas—less the trifle—and he left at 6.15 and caught his train—(thanks to his driver)—with one minute to spare.

One of our school mottoes—60 years ago—was 'Punctuality is the Politeness of Princes.' That is all, fall them.

There are several Morals
It was worth every bit.

Crewe.

FRANK STENSON.

The peal of Stedman Cinques at Lincoln Cathedral on December 12th, to the memory of the late Bishop of Grimsby, was Mr. G. H. Randles' 100th peal for the Lincoln Diocesan Guild and his 100th peal with Mr. Jack L. Millhouse.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILDNorth Dorset Branch

The annual meeting took place at Blandford on December 5th, with 26 members from 14 towers present. After the service, at which the Rev. R. A. Wells, vice-chairman of the Branch, gave the address, a substantial tea was provided at Hick's restaurant.

The Rev. R. G. Chaffey Moore was unanimously re-elected chairman of the Branch, the Rev. R. A. Wells vice-chairman, and the other officers as before, namely, hon. sec., the Rev. R. N. Longridge; Ringing Masters, Messrs. W. C. Shute, B. Ridout and A. E. Woods; committee members, Mrs. D. M. Wright and Mr. J. Ralph.

The sum of £5 was voted to Inter-Church Aid and Refugee Service as a contribution to the World Refugee Year, and it was agreed to make an annual contribution to 'The Ringing World' of £1 ls.

Five new members were elected, making the total Branch membership 202, including life and honorary members.

Meetings in 1960 would be at Shillingstone, Lillington, Maiden Bradley and Gillingham, other things being equal, and it was hoped that more ringers might be encouraged to come to these quarterly meetings, which would be on the first Saturday of March, June, September and December respectively.

Ringing was later resumed at Blandford, Shillingstone and Shroton. R. N. L.

BARNSELY & DISTRICT SOCIETY

The visit of the Barnsley and District Society to Conisbrough, near Doncaster, took place on December 12th when 11 towers were represented. The Vicar (the Rev. A. F. Braithwaite) gave the society a hearty welcome and told the story about Wortley bells having been left up on one occasion. It rained hard that night and water came through the roof into one of the bells. An unexpected drenching was experienced by the ringer when he pulled off the bell!

The business transacted included the election of the Vicar and Messrs. Dennis and Barry Holland, of Sheffield, as honorary members and the renomination of the present officers for election at the annual meeting at St. Mary's, Barnsley, on January 9th. The vote of thanks was proposed by Mr. Douglas Stables, who mentioned the excellent tea provided.

SOUTH WALES NOMADS

Although bad weather prevailed, 20 ringers attended a practice meeting at Llanblethian, Glam., on December 5th. The bells went very well considering that they had only been rung about twice in the last 14 years, and then by a band from Cowbridge. Mr. Robin Lee and some helpers kindly cleaned out the ringing chamber. (Thanks, Robin; and the best of ringing when you arrive at Chester.) Thanks are also due to Mr. J. James, of Newport, for loaning some ropes, without which the bells could not have been rung.

Publication Of Miscellaneous Performances

At the Christchurch Branch meeting of the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild at Bournemouth on December 5th, discussion took place on the publication of 5,040 Plain Bob Caters rung on nine bells at Basingstoke being published under the heading of a miscellaneous performance. A suggestion was made that the Editor should be requested to refrain from publishing performances not recognised by the Central Council. Mr. Charles Kippin disagreed with this. No resolution was put to the meeting and it was agreed to discuss it at the annual meeting in February.

Some theological colleges have the advantage of being in or near a University. Ringing is flourishing in the Universities as it has never flourished before. Cambridge University Guild dates from 1882 and Oxford University Society from about the same date. But in recent years it has spread much more widely, and it appears that of the 22 Universities in England today (I haven't verified this figure), 14 have their University Ringing Guild. And these do not consist of a few cranks. Bristol University Society mustered 91 including guests at their annual dinner on January 24th, and the combined Universities Association mustered 80 at a similar function recently. Most of these University Guilds have an annual ringing week, as do various other groups of ringers in some part of the country.

Perhaps this had better lead me to my peroration. What is the peculiar fascination of ringing, apart from the supreme fact that it is a part of the sacrificial offering of worship? Many of the arts and activities of man seem to exist for their own sake—football, cricket, chess, some kinds of architecture, painting, music—I would venture to put these in the second grade of human culture. Does not art at its best exist not for itself but for something higher? When Ictinus designed the Parthenon he was not just glorifying himself or glorifying the Doric style; he was glorifying Athens and all she stood for. Even Margarita Laski in a recent Brains Trust had to admit that the finest choral music can only be what it is by having religious words. And the grandest thing about ringing would seem to be that it exists not for itself, but for something higher. In ringing you find yourself fulfilling the ambitions of the artists, the bell founders, the engineers over six centuries. They cast their bells not for their own sake but that they might be rung. You can identify yourself with England's history and art at its highest. In the glorious deep thunder of St. Paul's bells you express the spirit of the Commonwealth's greatest city, at York Minster you express in sound something of what the stained glass artists expressed in light, at Christ Church and Magdalen, Oxford, you express something of the spirit of what Oxford has meant for so many centuries. Above all, you proclaim the Christian Gospel, in tones simple enough for the simplest and grand enough for the grandest, you preach a sermon wordless and for that reason simple as the lilies of the field. You help to keep alive the romantic side of religion, that side of it which by its very vagueness and incompleteness speaks of visions and hopes above and beyond the everyday mind. You find yourself, in fact, offering your gifts of body and mind a living sacrifice, your reasonable service.

THE CHURCH OF ST. NICHOLAS, HARPENDEN

ITS BELLS AND RINGERS

Robert Oldfield, who has some claim to be a Hertfordshire founder and had a business in Hertford, cast the two remaining bells—the second and fifth. These bells, dated 1612 and 1613, bear the inscription most favoured by Oldfield: 'Prayse the Lord.' These two bells are the sole survivors of the old ring which was rehung and augmented. This work was carried out when major structural alterations were in hand to the church in 1898.

THE RESTORATION

A report in the parish magazine of October that year showed that 'the bells were in a hopelessly bad condition, and out of tune both in themselves and with each other.' It was decided to restore the bells and add a new treble to make a ring of six.

The inscription on the new treble was: 'Laus Deo, 1898. S. R. A. Buller, Rector.' The recast bells had 'Recast John Warner and Sons Ltd., London' added to their original inscription. The two Oldfield bells were quarter-turned and replaced in a new iron frame which had been made to hold eight bells.

The restoration work was completed in January, 1899, the 'enlargement of the church providing over 100 additional sittings,' and the bells were dedicated by the Bishop. Later this year the possibility of adding two more bells was under discussion, but was temporarily laid aside because of the expense.

A committee had been appointed by the Coronation Celebration Committee to carry out a permanent memorial of the Coronation. When sufficient funds had been collected the order was placed with Messrs. J. Warner for two new bells. These bells, the report in the parish magazine continues, were to be considered 'undenominational,' being the gift of the parish as a whole. The inscriptions on these bells read as follows: 'Treble.—'To make mindful of the Sacring of Edward our King. Given by the Parishioners. S. R. A. Buller, Rector, 1902.' Second.—'To tell of the crowning of Queen Alexandra, 1902. Given by the Parishioners. S. R. A. Buller, Rector.' The work was completed by Easter, 1903, when 'a joyful peal of the full octave of bells at 6 a.m. heralded in a bright Easter Day.'

RULES AND FINES

In 1883 the ringers of Harpenden were ringing five bells with great regularity three times each Sunday. A register of attendances was kept, and a ringer late or absent was fined. Rules, which were signed by the ringers, included one forbidding 'alc. beer or strong liquor of any kind being brought into the church or churchyard.'

When a fine had to be paid the offender must have felt the loss, for the wages of the working man in this area at that time would seldom exceed 15s. per week. Any extra money that came by way of ringing for a wedding was very welcome. In 1884, £1 10s. was paid to the ringers for a 'Wedding Peal' according to the hours put in, these ranging from one hour to five hours.

One Sunday morning in 1888 three ringers were absent; they, it is recorded, 'walked to London.' Note, too, is made when a ringer overslept! One ringer was responsible for the ringing of one bell or two shared. From time to time the sharing was changed, and one man took over the much-to-be-desired position of 'one man, one bell.' No fine was incurred if a substitute was found in time of absence.

Early in the century names appeared in the books that are still with us today: Mr. G. Newson, the first local ringer to ring a peal, and father of Mr. R. Newson; also Herbert and Ralph Coburn, uncle and father of Mr. L. Coburn respectively.

THE FIRST PEAL

The first peal on the bells was rung in 1904 by the College Youths and the Hertford County Association; the second in 1906, with two local ringers taking part—Ben Jarman and David Deller. The local band, encouraged by these peals, agreed at their annual meeting to 'persevere and get on with change-ringing as much as possible.'

(To be continued)

THE oldest bell in Hertfordshire is possibly the third at Little Hadham: its founder is unknown, but it is thought to date from the early 15th century.

In 1552 the 'pyshe Churche or Chappell of Harpden' possessed: 'Imprimis iij Belles and a Saunce Bell in the steeple.' (That is, three bells and a Sanctus bell.)

This is from the inventory made in the reign of King Edward VI. Of these three bells, one must have been the fourth of the ring of five which were partially recast in 1899. The founder of this bell is doubtful, and may have been either John Danyell or John Walgrave. John Danyell was the 'servant' (employee) of John Walgrave, and took over his stamps and letters. The date of this bell was 1420–50, and the inscription reads: 'Intonat De Celis Vox Campana Michaelis.' (A voice peals from Heaven—the bell of Michael.)

In Church Bells of Hertfordshire, by Thomas North (1886), the following appears:—

'Harpenden.—There is a traditionary belief current in the parish that the church had originally one bell only, and some old people say the fourth bell was "stolen" from the adjoining parish of Redbourne.'

There are many churches that have a story of this kind, where either the tower was moved by the 'devil or faeries,' or where a bell or bells have been mysteriously lost, stolen or strayed.

AN ITINERANT FOUNDER

An itinerant founder was responsible for the treble and third of the old five. This was John Grene, whose place of abode has not yet been found. These bells bore these inscriptions:—

Treble.—'Johanes grene me fecit anno dni 1574.' (John Grene made me in the year of our Lord 1574.)

Third.—'In multis annis Resonat Campana Johannis 1571.' (May the bell of John [St. John?] sound for many years.) This is a pre-Reformation inscription and may have been copied from its predecessor.

OBITUARY

MR. ARTHUR C. CHAPLIN

In the passing of Arthur C. Chaplin, at the age of 73, the Essex Association have lost a life member, and Dagenham Parish Church a loyal and devoted ringer.

His death was quite unexpected, for on the Sunday before he passed away he rang a quarter peal on the bells which he had loved for sixty years.

'Tich,' as he was known to all his friends, began to ring at Dagenham when he was 13, his father then being steeplekeeper. For the past 23 years 'Tich' had held this position, following in his father's footsteps.

The funeral took place at the parish church on December 1st, conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. E. P. C. Paterson). Among those present were Mr. L. S. Woods and Mr. B. Samuals of the local band, Mr. F. V. Gant (hon. secretary and treasurer Essex Association), Mr. J. Crampion (Master S.W. Division, Essex Association), Mr. E. G. Bailey and Mr. J. Carrot. On the following Wednesday, December 2nd, as a token of respect, 1,260 Stedman Triples was rung half-muffled by the following band: F. V. Gant 1, G. Richardson 2, J. Carrot 3, E. W. Furbank 4, E. D. Smith 5, C. Willmington 6, L. S. Woods (cond.) 7, E. G. Bailey 8.

To his widow and family we extend our deepest sympathy. May he rest in peace.

L. S. W.

AN APPRECIATION

In the passing of Mr. Arthur C. Chaplin, of Dagenham, another link with the past has been severed—one who maintained his interest, skill, keenness and youthfulness of outlook till the end.

It is a very sobering experience to ring a quarter peal for service with a person, and then in precisely another week to be ringing a similar muffled quarter for that person: such was the passing of Tich, sudden and unsuffering, the end that he would have wished.

He loved his bells, and through the years had managed to keep them going, Sunday by Sunday, with a seemingly never-ending supply of youngsters. Dagenham has always had, in recent years, a youthful band, a happy band, and the atmosphere and happiness of the tower was due to those same characteristics found in its tower keeper.

Of his own qualities as a ringer there can be no doubt, for his peal book shows some fine performances with the famous Pye hands.

Personally I shall always remember Tich for his humour, his merry, twinkling eyes, and the hours after practice at 'the bottom of the hill' at Hornchurch or 'across the road at Dagenham, where the time would pass all too quickly with his wealth of anecdotes of the giants of the past.

As he lies beneath the tower in the churchyard, the 'Old Fred' of his stories is going to become the 'Old Tich' of mine, for Tich was indeed a character.

MR. ERNEST JELLEY APPRECIATIONS

It is with a very full heart that I write on behalf of the ringers of St. John-the-Divine, Leicester, this appreciation of Ernest Jelley's association with our band over the last seven years. Through his passing, we have lost one of our most loyal and faithful friends.

He and his son John, first became interested in this tower when ringing here was at its lowest ebb. Scarcely were there enough to ring Doubles. One of his greatest desires was that St. John's should possess a first-class band, and to this end he spared no efforts. Seldom was he absent on practice nights.

Although a keen peal ringer, he was always ready to lend a hand on behalf of learners, and could always be relied upon to make up a band for any special ring, for service or otherwise. I once told him that I contemplated discontinuing practice owing to lack of support; but he said, 'No! persevere, you'll win,' and set to work getting others to come along. The present healthy state of the band is largely due to his untiring efforts. (we won the Leicester District Striking Competition this year).

Some time ago after practice when some of the learners had been neglected, he said to me, 'If you neglect them, I shall not come.' He was always ready to place his means of transport at the disposal of his fellow ringers, by which means many happy hours have been enjoyed. Nothing gave him greater joy than to take part in a peal in which were included one or more firsts. His passing has dealt a severe blow to us at St. John's, but we thank God for his service and friendship.

This was the true Christian Spirit in action.

S. H.

My first connection with Ernest Jelley was in 1922 (he had been a ringer at South Wigston long before this) when we rang quite a number of peals in most of the standard methods of which I had the privilege of conducting, including 9,120 (extent) of Ilkston Treble Bob Major and 10,912 Kent Treble Bob Major.

Shortly after this his work as a long-distance Red Bus driver precluded him from peals, but not from service ringing or practices whenever his duties allowed. Of late years, however, he was again able to join in regular peal attempts and took part in a number of Surprise methods—many rung for the first time. Altogether he had rung about 350 peals for the old M.C.A., and later for the Leicester Diocesan Guild and for other societies. He was one of the eight 'Ernests' who rang a Major peal in 1926, and a few months ago rang in the Royal peal by ten of the same name.

Our sympathy goes out to the widow and family and especially to John, his son, in this their sudden great loss.

ERNEST MORRIS.

LONDON TRAINING COLLEGES' GUILD OF BELL RINGERS

This Guild was formed on October 28th, 1959, with a view to bringing together all the ringers in training colleges within the London area. Membership to date is 30 with a number of learners, all being drawn from six colleges.

The inaugural meeting was held at Holy Trinity, West Hill, Wandsworth, and was attended by 22 ringers. The aim of the Guild was set out as 'the promotion and advancement of change-ringing within the London Training Colleges.' The president of the Guild is the Rev. Canon Fenton Morley, chaplain of St. Gabriel's College. The Ringing Master is Mr. Julian Duggan, of the College of St. Mark and St. John, Kings Road, Chelsea, S.W.10. The secretary is Mr. Roger N. Clarke of the same College, and the treasurer Miss Janet Miles, of Whitelands College.

Practices are held on Wednesdays at West Hill for the present between 6.45 p.m. and 8 p.m. during term time. Sunday service ringing takes place every week. Mattins 10.20 until 11 a.m., and for evensong 5.50 until 6.30 p.m.

The secretary would be pleased to hear from anyone who is interested in the Guild. It is hoped to hold the first general meeting next term at Barnes and Mortlake on Saturday, February 6th.

THE STORY OF THE BELLS

Hark! the bells to heaven are ringing.
Choirs of angels, echo singing,
Christ the King is born today.
Greet this holy Christmas Day.

As the year now grows old
And midnight strikes, a tenor tolis.
Now bells ring o'er a market square
To wish a peaceful bright New Year.

Silent now: the bells are still.
A cross stands high upon a hill.
Born to die, that we might live.
King of Kings, our sins forgive.

Thrush and blackbird, flowers of Spring
Greet the heavenly risen King.
Easter bells ring far and wide
O'er a waking countryside.

Now the great Ascensiontide.
Then pealing for the blushing bride.
At Whitsuntide we join the host Praising God: the Holy Ghost.

Ringers, ring your bells of old.
Unfold the Christian story.
To God the Father, God the Son
And Holy Ghost be glory.

D. L. MOORE.

BEN BIRKITT OF ARKSEY

On Sunday, December 6th, at All Saints' Church, Arksey, the bells were rung to honour the 80th birthday of Ben Birkitt. A quarter peal was attempted but went astray somewhere. Touches were rung of Grandsire and Stedman Triples and Kent and Oxford T.B. Major.

Among those taking part were E. Stacey, H. Wagstaff and A. Staveley (Doncaster), J. Thorley (Thorne), E. Short (Spotborough), R. Stephenson (Barnby Don), E. Cooper, B. Birkitt and Mrs. I. Somerville (Arksey). We were disappointed in failing to get the quarter peal, but old Ben will stand in a full peal on his 100th birthday—we promise that.

Ben came to Arksey from Adwick-le-Street just before the war but he learnt his ringing at Silk Willoughby in Lincolnshire. He has been, up to now, a model of what a ringer should be, never absent and never late. Although we are passing through a lean time here at Arksey, he is still on the job as regularly and faithfully as ever, and we should often have done badly without him.

FIRE IN SOMERSET TOWER

On Sunday, December 13th, fire damaged one bell-pit, wheel and rope in the high 15th century tower at Westonzoiland, a landmark for miles on the flat Somerset plain.

Children leaving a special service spotted smoke coming from the tower and gave the alarm. The organ beneath the tower was hastily covered to prevent damage by water, and the outbreak was under control in an hour. The cause has not yet been determined.

The tower contains six bells (tenor 20 cwt. approx.) and the church itself a fine carved oak roof.
