A RESEARCH INTO RHYTHM

RESearch is often a very rewarding occupation, and usually an amusing and instructive pastime. From the latter point of view, I have recently re-read last year's 'Ringing Worlds' on every matter connected, immediately or remotely, with Rhythm and its interpretation. Before discussing my findings, it would be advantageous to quote Chambers' Dictionary: 'Rhythm.—Regular recurrence, especially of stresses or of long and short sounds: a pattern of recurrence.'

The first significant contribution was from Mr. Desmond Painter, who said: 'In ringing, however, the rhythmical effect is to emphasise the bells striking in the odd places at the expense of those striking in the even places (except for the 678's and 748's . . .).' The following week he said: ' . . . there is no possibility of varying the dynamics or the tone-colour of bell music, and, pace John Morris, almost no possibility of rhythmic variation. . . .'

Mrs. H. Y. Price then wrote a letter disagreeing with Mr. Painter's 'emphasis in the odd places,' and suggested that emphasis usually falls on bells striking in the even places, as, for example, in the nursery rhyme 'Upon Paul's steeple stands a tree'—1/2345/6781/3572/468. So up to this point, two opposing views have been given.

A third opinion was expressed a fortnight later by Mr. Harold Chant, who said: 'I should have thought that, owing to the predominance and regular spacing (in rounds on six) of the tonic triad (2nd, 4th and tenor), the accent would have tended to fall on the second of each pair, the whole 12 blows being equivalent to a musical phrase that really begins with an anacrusis. A mental rhythm begun in rounds would, I imagine, tend to continue during the changes. Of course this grouping is only, after all, a mental process, and it is interesting to note that while Mr. Painter prefers the grouping strong, weak, strong, weak, strong, strong, many will think of the accent as being on the second of the pair, and some no doubt think of the 12 blows as being continuous with possibly a final accent made prominent by the pause.'

I must record at this point that an excellent article on 'Teaching Rhythm' was contributed recently by W. F. M., but it contained nothing controversial.

Which of these views is correct, if any? I believe that all three writers have hit a half-truth.

Referring again to the definition, it is obvious that, as far as bells are concerned mechanically, rhythm is 'regular recurrence: a pattern of recurrence,' and therefore that any stress is imagined. My suggestion is that patterns of recurrence are produced in three ways, viz.:—

- (1) By good, even striking.
- (2) By the audible coursing pattern of the heavy bells which recurs in succeeding changes.
- (3) By the open lead.

Points (1) and (2) obviously conform to the definition and need no elaboration, whereas point (3) is of particular interest. In the first place, it is dependent on even striking (point 1) in order to produce its effect. Secondly, it occurs only once every two changes. Thirdly, its duration is exactly that which would accommodate one extra bell at the same spacing as the others. Thus, on eight bells, we can represent sounds as—where (P) represents the open lead pause. Now I believe that just as it is possible to put mental emphasis on the even or odd beats of any change, so it is possible to put mental emphasis (or otherwise) on this missing 17th blow (P). As the usual tendency is to group beats in pairs, emphasising one of the pair, (P) will alter the place-emphasis of the succeeding pairs.

My conclusion is that the points of emphasis (odd or even places) are shifted after each pair of changes, irrespective of the changes themselves. For me, at least, this is no theory, because I actually hear the bells in this fashion whilst ringing.

DAVID ATKINS.

While we await a detailed commentary on the Christmas Day broadcast, a correspondent informs us that she was deeply impressed by the ringing at St. Clement Danes' and also that at Grundisburgh, Suffolk.

BELFRY

There is great enthusiasm in the West Lindsey Branch of Lincoln Diocesan Guild for their dinner and social evening. Already 117 tickets have been sold.

Ringing friends of Mr. John R. G. Spicer, of Huntingdon, will be pleased to hear that he is making fine progress after his operation and he is now home again, although it will be some time before he gets hold of a rope.

The Christmas card of Mr. Victor Sheppard, of Woodstock, Capetown, is a pictorial map of Africa with the location of the four ringing towers in the continent marked in.

From New Zealand we have heard this week from that old Brighton veteran. Mr. George Baker, with his good wishes to all ringing friends. His address is 82, Mount Pleasant Road, Christchurch, New Zealand.

The following appears in 'Woman,' of December 18th:— 'To "James," Nottingham: The answers to your question depend very much upon individual circumstances. I advise you, therefore, to seek the help of a solicitor.' Any comments from Mr. James Pailing, of Nottingham, Master of the O.U.S.?

Regarding the peal at Sandal, Yorks, on November 29th (see page 821), we are informed by the tower secretary that the two ringers mentioned in the report shared the second bell throughout the peal, i.e., they rang half a peal each, one man taking over the bell from the other, not affecting the changing of the bells.

GOSSIP

Mr. and Mrs. R. Laming, members of the Eltham, Kent, band, are leaving shortly to take up teaching posts in Southern Rhodesia. A farewell quarter was rung on the bells on December 7th.

Correction.—The ringer of the sixth bell in the peal of Superlative Surprise Major at Darlington on November 29th was Mr. W. Norman Park.

Mr. James M. Bailey, of Leiston, Suffolk, has been put out of action following a knock on his ankle, which broke a blood vessel. His friends send best wishes for a speedy recovery.

Mr. John A. Acres rang his 150th peal on the bells of Loughborough Bell Foundry on December 8th with the peal of Uplyme Surprise Royal, reported in our last issue.

For the annual carol service of Hyde County Grammar School, Cheshire, the bells of St. George's, Hyde, were rung by seven members of the school, the band being completed by Mr. T. Wilde, of Hyde.

The peal rung at Trumpington, Cambs, of Yorkshire Surprise Major (see page 803) was of 5,088 changes and not 5,056, as submitted for publication. The composition was by N. J. Pitstow.

The bells of St. Paul's Church, Wokingham, were rung to rounds and Grandsire Doubles for the service of Nine Lessons and Carols of Holt Grammar School, held in the church. Girls of The Holt who rang were: Jane Huckings (All Saints', Wokingham), Sandra Sargeant (St. Paul's, Wokingham), Dorothy and Linda Gibbs and Sylvia Castle (St. Nicholas', Hurst). They were assisted by Mr. W. Brooks and Mr. H. Weaver. After the service Miss Whitlow, the headmistress, and her staff visited the ringing chamber to see the ringing in progress.

CHRISTMAS DAY RINGING

Mr. W. F. Stenson, of Crewe, has sent the following letter to the Producer, Christmas Ringing, B.B.C., Broadcasting House, London:—

'According to our journal, "The Ringing World," last week, it announced that the B.B.C. hoped to broadcast from 9.20 to 9.30 a.m. the bells from seven churches in the Home Service.

'Not including the bells of Bethlehem, which are not hung for change ringing. I wonder whether the B.B.C. or the public realise what this will entail.

'It will necessitate 59 change ringers; and, "allowing two whole seconds in which to look round, to see which bell you are to follow," makes something like 30 half-pulls per minute; that is one pull at hand stroke—or two pulls, hand and back stroke, which works out at something like 20 whole pulls, hand and back strokes from each of the six towers.

'Comment needless; speaks for itself.'

THE RINGERS' MAGAZINE

The autumn issue of 'The Ringers' Magazine' is another good number. Michael Hatchett's views on the Sunday ringing survey is a pertinent contribution. Ernest Morris delves into the past with 'Ringing for Hallowmass,' and Leonard Stilwell tells the story of Samuel Lawrence, the biggest man ever in the Exercise (he weighed 32 stone). William Birmingham's article on 'Tune Ringing—a simplified system of handbell ringing' is also appropriate in view of the interest in the subject. Technical articles are contributed by C. Kenneth Lewis, Wilfrid G. Wilson and A. James Glass (rope splicing).

TRY HANDBELLS WHERE THERE IS NO TOWER

The Vicar of Edensor, the Rev. A. F. Sargent, believes that handbells could be the answer for those churches which for one reason or another cannot have hanging bells, states 'The Staffordshire Sentinel.'

His views are contained in a letter which Mr. Sargent wrote to the Diocesan Advisory Committee following a recent Consistory Court concerned with an application for permission to use recorded bells.

The committee have published his letter in the Lichfield Diocesan Magazine for January because they are 'very impressed' by the views put forward.

'SOON TAUGHT'

Mr. Sargent says handbells would do away with the charge of artificiality, and at the same time encourage the growth of ringing and ringers.

He points out that young people can be taught in a very short time to ring handbells well and efficiently and 'in all the traditional methods peculiar to this ancient art.'

Saying that a full set of handbells (in chromatic scale) can be bought for about £50, he adds: 'This need only be a temporary measure.'

'The Ringing World'

'After a year or so a parish with a keen band of young handbell ringers could make representations to the Parochial Church Council to build a tower.'

No Parochial Church Council, he says, is going to spend hundreds of pounds on a tower and bells unless they have some guarantee that there will be ringers to ring them after they are installed.

RHYTHM, MUSIC

In a later letter to the committee, Mr. Sargent says that many ringers give the youngster the impression that campanology is a fearfully complicated mystery that he will never solve until he is as old as the instructor.

'We ought to approach our youngsters and show them that ringing has rhythm, music and can be learned under bright, warm conditions,' he continues.

This is where the handbell scores, he adds. The technique of ringing them can be learned without any danger, and they can be rung in a hall or room round the fire or stove—and one can always sugar the pill by finishing up with a few catchy tunes.'

'Why, for instance,' Mr. Sargent asks, 'should not bellringing be taught as a normal activity in a youth club, whether the club belongs to a church or not?'

'Youth clubs have choirs. In this way we can get the many recruits the art needs from the youth of our church and country.'

The diocesan magazine comments: 'Mr. Sargent is willing to help and we hope use may be made of his offer to do so.'

STORY BEHIND A PEAL

When, in July this year, the Rector of Acton invited the choir of St. Matthias' Church, Richmond, to sing Evensong and give a choral recital at his church, he was not aware that he was also asking a band of ringers, too. As soon as he was told, however, he extended a cordial invitation to the band from this bell-less church to ring Acton Parish Church bells before the service. A quarter peal attempt was not successful, but St. Matthias' ringers were allowed from that time to have a regular practice at Acton, and the bells were rung again after being comparatively silent for two or three years.

In early December the Rector arranged a musical celebration for St. Cecilia's Day, his own church choir doing the singing on that occasion. He thought, however, that it would be an excellent idea to mark the festival by a peal on Acton bells, and he once again asked the band from St. Matthias' to arrange the peal. Accordingly an attempt was made for a peal of Plain Bob Major, but this was brought to an unforeseen conclusion by the breaking of a rope.

The Rector was as disappointed as the rest of the band and asked them to make another attempt a fortnight later. With the help of two experienced Surrey ringers, the band successfully rang a peal of Plain Bob Major, conducted by the organist of St. Matthias', Dr. D. J. Neal Smith. In view of the connection of the peal with the music and choir of St. Matthias' the band felt that the peal should be rung for the Surrey Association and they hope their Middlesex friends will understand and forgive the ascription.

The band wish to thank the Rector of Acton for his encouragement and practical help—for example, he agreed to replace all the ropes to make certain there would be no repetition of a broken one during the peal. This is the first peal for three and a half years, and the Rector is hopeful that it will revive interest in Acton's bells.

PINCHBECK RINGERS' DINNER

A company of 56 from all parts of Lincolnshire attended Pinchbeck ringers' dinner on December 13th, when the Vicar (Rev. J. H. Corley) presided, supported by the tower captain (Mr. Roy Withyman).

Reviewing the year, Mr. Withyman said they had lost a few of their more experienced ringers and appealed for young men to come forward with a view to handling the heavier bells after some experience. The nucleus of their team comprised young ladies, who had made remarkable progress. It could not, however, be expected that they could manipulate the heavy bells.

The Pinchbeck ringers were toasted by Mr. F. B. Chapman, and Miss Judith Wells replied. Mr. R. C. Noon proposed 'The Visitors' and Mr. Norman Harding replied.

The entertainment started with carols and other popular tunes on handbells, rung by Mrs. M. Bennett, Messrs. S. E. Bennett, R. C. Noon and M. Bennett.

An amusing and clever display was given by six girl members—Judy Bagley, Sally Burton, Ann Dearnley, Shirley Guy and Carol and Judy Wells. They were dressed in 'sack-line' dresses—real, labelled potato sacks—and their self-composed songs and dances were loudly applauded. The evening concluded with games and dancing.

STOWMARKET, SUFFOLK.—On Dec. 14th, 1,280 Double Norwich Court Bob Major: C. Miller 1, R. E. Lester 2, R. Rose 3, E. Nice 4, C. Snowden 5, H. A. Mitson 6, E. A. Cracknell 7, O. G. Barnard (cond.) 8. First in method by 1, 3, 4 and 6. For Evensong.

A NORTH HERTS OUTING

Although December is not a very popular month for outings, a very enjoyable visit to North Hertfordshire was made on the Saturday before Christmas by a party of 11 ringers. At Welwyn we were joined by Audrey Bailey and her father for a ring, on this light, odd-struck ring of eight. After a short ring at Codicote (6), a pleasant drive through country lanes brought us to Kimpton, where we were warmly welcomed by some of the local band and the recently-inducted Vicar.

Evidence of disinterest in ringing was apparent at King's Walden, where a stage—presumably for a Nativity play—had been erected in the ringing chamber, so that some of the band stood on the floor, some on chairs, while others had to kneel on the stage. At Offley the Vicar (Rev. H. Senar) rang some call-changes with us: Beverley came round successfully on the pleasant old six. Our last call before lunch was to the fine Church of St. Mary, Hitchin, with its equally fine heavy Taylor eight. Michael Orme and Philip Mehew kindly stood in a course of Yorkshire here.

After lunch we rang at the out-of-the-way village of Pirton, where an anti-clockwise five hangs in the central tower. A long run then brought us to Walkern: as we raised the bells in peal we thought this would be a grand six, until the tenor sounded; however, when changes were rung the flat tenor was not so noticeable. After a pull at Ardeley we were able to see the fine rood loft. Oswald Delight, a new method for some, was rung at Wallington, and Sandon (5) enabled one member of the party to claim to have rung in every tower in the county.

A short break for a cup of tea in Buntingford, and then a touch on the good Mears six at Great Horstead. Another anti-clockwise five was available at Westmill, but the 'go' here leaves a lot to be desired. Mr. Phillips was waiting at Little Munden and rang some Oxford T.B. with us. Two more eights followed: first the pleasant 22½ cwt. ring at Ware, and finally Hunsdon's odd-struck ring, where Double Norwich finished the day.

We extend our thanks to all those who helped to make the day so successful, and in particular the local ringers at Kimpton for their kind hospitality. I. H. O.

REDEDICATION

WONERSH, SURREY

Augmented from a ring of six to an octave and recast, the bells of St. John's Church, Wondersh, were rededicated by the Archdeacon of Surrey (the Ven. A. J. de C. Studdert) at Evensong on December 21st.

The dedication took place after the second lesson. Mr. Douglas Hughes, representing the bell-founders, handed the ropes to Mr. P. M. Rees, churchwarden, who in turn handed them to the Archdeacon for the dedicatory prayer. A similar procedure was followed for the rededication of the six recast bells.

Finally the Archdeacon, in handing the ropes to the Vicar (Rev. H. G. B. Anthony) said: 'Receive these bells, which have now been solemnly set apart from profane and unhallowed uses as a sacred trust committed unto thee as the appointed minister of Christ, and take care that they be ever and only used in God's service and for His glory.'

In his address the Archdeacon said from many Surrey hilltops one could glimpse a church steeple ever pointing upwards and turning our thoughts to God. If the steeple was the church's finger, then the bells were the church's tongue. They had many things to say to them.

Bells had rung out for many occasions, both 'great and simple': for the success of our troops in North Africa, for the Coronation, for simple village weddings, and in solemn tones when the passing bell was tolled. It was the duty of the church bells to call, and each man who heard must answer. Some might answer 'Yes' and some 'No,' but all knew what it meant when church bells rang at the time of worship.

During the service the choir sang the ringers' carol, 'Ding Dong, Merrily on High.' After the service the bells were rung by local and visiting ringers who were impressed by their tonal qualities. The sum of £50 is still required to complete the cost. Contributions would be gratefully received by Mr. W. E. Enticknap, Redlands, Poplar Road, Shalford, near Guildford.

LLANDAFF AND MONMOUTH ASSOCIATION

Although arranged at short notice, a very successful meeting of the Llandaff Branch was held at Cowbridge on December 13th. This very good ring of eight bells was going early in the afternoon, with Mr. G. I. Lewis (Branch Master) seeing to all standards of ringers.

The service was conducted by the Vicar (Rev. E. O. T. Lewis), assisted by the Rev. Philip David, and was attended by the Mayor and Mayoress of Cowbridge (Cclr. and Mrs. Glyn McNeil) and the Deputy Mayoress (Miss Jennifer McNeil).

Tea was taken at the Town Hall, given and prepared by the local ringers' wives and friends. The ladies were thanked by Mr. F. Hannington. During the tea, the Mayor welcomed the Branch to Cowbridge and remarked how pleased he was to see that of the 71 people present most of them were very young. Five new members were elected from Radyr, Sully and Newton-Nottage.

For the next meeting, the Branch annual, Pontypridd was selected.

OBITUARY

MR. GEOFFREY F. CARTER

The Exercise has lost one of its most lovable characters with the death of Geoff Carter, a popular member of the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths and the University of London Society of Change Ringers. Until his removal to Welwyn about a year ago, he had been a member of the St. Stephen's, Hampstead, band for many years, and they, in particular, have lost a very good friend and colleague.

Unpredictable in his ringing, he was often the target for exponents of belfrymanship at meetings, but in a peal attempt on some spliced occasion he would ring as well as the next person. Geoff on a practice night, grinning amiably at an exasperated conductor while continuing to do the wrong thing, and G. F. Carter in a peal, were two entirely different persons. Nevertheless, in whatever circumstances one met Geoffrey, one could not help but like him: he brought an atmosphere of friendliness and good fellowship with him that none could equal. The Hampstead ringers called him their ambassador at large, and it was a very fitting title, for there was never anyone quite like Geoff for cementing good relations.

Visitors to Gospel Oak or Hampstead will recall the 'Rat' or the Railway and Geoff discoursing on cricket or his journey behind the Iron Curtain, or telling some story against himself of some incident or other that occurred to him—as things could only happen to him.

The funeral service at Golders Green Crematorium on December 3rd was attended by (besides relatives and colleagues from the I.C.I.) Miss Janet Mattinson, Mr. and Mrs. Alan Thirst, Mr. Peter Forte and Mr. R. Clouston (of the London University Society), Messrs. T. Bevan and A. Butler (Society of Royal Cumberland Youths) and Mr. J. Hawkins (Ancient Society of College Youths). A. W. J. B.

AN APPRECIATION

It was indeed a great shock when I opened my 'Ringing World' on December 5th and read of Geoffrey's death.

One week later we read that grand appreciation by J. and P. M. J. G.: how true, every word, a fitting tribute to a wonderful character.

He was well known to ringers in the Huntingdon area: for the past nine years he had always spent a day on tour with us, usually being last to board the coach at stops. How he will be missed!

On December 15th a few of his old friends met and rang a peal to his memory at Huntingdon. God bless, dear boy. H. S. P.

MR. H. WILLOWS

We regret to report the passing of Mr. H. Willows, who learned to ring in Lincolnshire and came into Nottinghamshire to join the staff of the Rampton Mental Hospital, chiefly to supervise the patients during their periods of gardening. In the 1914 war he served with the Coldstream Guards. When he retired from Rampton, with the rank of deputy charge nurse, he joined the East Retford ringers. Learners were told to watch and copy Mr. Willows, who appeared to ring the tenor with the proverbial bit of string. J. S.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

RANG PEALS 71 YEARS AGO

Dear Sir—In wishing you and all ringers I know and all those I only know by name through the columns of 'The Ringing World' a happy Christmas and a prosperous New Year. I recall that it is 71 years ago on Dec. 1st I rang in the first two peals at Beenhams, Berks. It seems quite a long time ago. My father and I joined the Oxford Guild with that little band in 1887 and 1888. Now it is a job to get a 720 of Bob Minor. Rope sight and one other sight are missing.—Yours faithfully, Henley-on-Thames.

H. H. ATTO.

P.S.—All the old friends are gone from Caversham, like Mr. Tom Hibbert, the Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn, Canon Coleridge and many more one could mention.—H. H. A.

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY GUILD—CONGRATULATIONS

Dear Sir,—Whilst congratulating those members of the Cambridge University Guild, who have now shown the Exercise how to score two peals for the price of one, I should be interested to know when they are taking Mr. Cannon in hand, so that he may then attempt 14 peals in a day.—Yours faithfully,

PETER BORDER.

Coventry.

TWO PEALS SIMULTANEOUSLY

Dear Sir,—Reading of the Cambridge University novelty peals. I recall 30 years ago trying to persuade an old friend to stage two peals of Cambridge Minor on a ring of 12 tower bells. Although I promised him bucketsful of music and the chance to call both peals and only ring in one. Harold was not keen on the idea.—Yours, etc.,

A FLAT.

Nuneaton.

THE PEAL AT BOW

Dear Sir,—Judging by the correspondence in a recent issue of 'The Ringing World,' it appears that a certain E. J. Rowe is one of those characters with a finger in every pie.

His comments about the peal at Bow are typical of those made by a non-ringer and it is hard to believe that they are the views of a responsible member of a Christian body.

With regard to Gospel Oak's bells, I am not the least bit surprised that they became dormant at the Vicar's wish, as I understand that E. J. Rowe was so rude to him that he was glad to see the back of him and his ringers.

In conclusion may I say that, having read the correspondence between the Vicar of Bow and Mr. R. G. Leale, the former's letter to 'The Ringing World' is scandalous, a complete misrepresentation of the truth and nothing less than libellous.

Mr. Leale will, I hope, publish all the correspondence in due course, and readers will be able to judge the facts for themselves.—Yours faithfully, FREDERICK R. SCOTT.

Slough.

LITTLE HEATH BELLS

Dear Sir,—While scanning through an 1883 copy of 'The Bell News' I came across two rather interesting queries regarding the following peal:—

THE ESSEX ASSOCIATION LITTLE HEATH

On Saturday, August 4th, 1883, in two hours and 42 minutes

At St. James' Church

5,040 CHANGES, BEING 42 6-SCORES OF DOUBLES

Being without repeating the calling in the same order: 4 Bob Double Extremes, 4 Hudibras, 4 The Dream, 4 London Dream, 4 London Singles, 4 Grandsire Singles, 4 St. Dunstan's, 3 The Dreamer, 2 London Doubles, 2 Sunshine, 2 Old Doubles, 2 Old Double Extremes, 1 Antelope, 1 Westminster and 1 Grandsire.

John Pye . . . 2 Benjamin Keeble 4

Arthur Porter tenor.

Conducted by Benjamin Keeble.

This is the first 5,040 rung by the above Association upon five bells, and is the first in which the band has not included members of one or both of the metropolitan companies, and is believed to be the first by any local band upon five on record in the county.

Firstly, what became of the bells at Little Heath? The church, I believe, stands near the London North Circular road between Romford and Gant's Hill. It appears that they were quite popular about that time, one or two peals and quarters being rung.

Secondly, was this peal recognised by the Essex Association, then only four years old? If so, it would be, as claimed, the first, and, incidentally, the most Doubles methods rung to a peal for the Association, the record at present being 10 methods. In the report book for 1953 it is stated that the first peal of Doubles was rung on December 19th, 1899, at Roydon, in five methods, conducted by I. Cavill.

I would be interested to know if someone could throw some light on this performance, which seems quite a creditable effort for a local band in those days, and also the fate of Little Heath bells.—Yours sincerely,

J. E. G. ROAST.

Danbury, Essex.

BLUE LINE SYSTEM

Dear Sir,—When I advertised the Blue Line system of F. C. H. on March 21st, 1958, there were 53 applicants, and the total number is now about 150.

The remainder of my stock has been sent to Mr. R. F. B. Speed, who has kindly arranged to distribute them on the same terms as before, free in return for a stamped addressed envelope.

Will all interested readers please note that they should not now apply to me.—Yours sincerely,

JOHN SEGAR.

RINGING IN VANCOUVER

Dear Sir,—It is with great pleasure that we have frequently, during the last few weeks, had the pleasure of the company of Mr. George Hatfield, of Hugglescote, Leicestershire.

Apart from ringing with us two or three times each week, Mr. Hatfield was fortunately able to visit both the other towers in British Columbia, Victoria and Mission City. At the monastery at Mission, George also discovered that he had a partiality for a Canadian speciality—'Pumpkin Pie.'

We are sorry to see him leave us but, nevertheless, wish him and the band of ringers at his home tower every success in their struggle to collect together a band of regular ringers in the coming New Year.—Yours truly,

A. J. M. COLLINS.

President and Ringing Master,
Vancouver Society.

EXPRESSION OF PERSONAL ANIMOSITY

Dear Sir,—I was grieved to read in recent issues of 'The Ringing World' sentiments expressed that savoured of the bad old days of the 'Bell News' and were out of keeping with the general good tone of the paper.

I refer to the remarks about Mr. A. P. Cannon in Belfry Gossip and, more especially, to one of the letters about the 'Bow furore.' It may be argued that these were not meant to be taken seriously, but in that case they ought not to have appeared in print.

Concerning the former, I must say that in my own experience I always look forward to a day spent with A. P. C., because although sometimes shocked or exasperated by what transpires, there is plenty of good fun and backchat to compensate, whereas A. P. C.'s critic has sometimes caused actual annoyance over peals.

About the Bow peal, it grieves me to read a correspondent's desire that actual physical harm should befall the ringers. This is not only uncalled for but in fact unlawful. It seems that many Londoners are becoming very intolerant and over-conscious of 'their rights,' and certain hooligan elements too fond, too, of physical violence as a means of expressing their sentiments: we don't expect this sort of thing encouraged in our ringers' paper.

What are the facts? A peal was rung: dozens are rung weekly taking quite as long. The tower is in a congested urban area: so are many other towers where peals are frequently rung, without complaint. It was a 'first': is this the real cause of our correspondent's annoyance? It finished at 9.30 p.m.: late enough, but not objectionably so on the odd occasion. I suspect the Vicar knew full well what was contemplated before a start was made, and is now only trying to appease the more vocal objectors. If a dance band session was playing till midnight keeping the neighbourhood awake I don't suppose there would have been any objections, but because it was a noise from the House of God we hear of all this furore. Let us keep a sense of proportion in such matters.—Yours faithfully,

D. P. JONES.

CHANGE RINGER MARK II

By E. A. BARNETT

A tape and two plugs give the regular course, hob and single for any method, and conducting may be done either manually or by means of a second tape. Any number of bells up to eight can be used. The order and the changing of the bells can be viewed in lights on the front panel. Besides ringing changes, Mark II can ring Nine Tailors (for a man—six for a woman), followed by one bell for each year of the departed's life, all rung by the tenor. The bells are not in tune; this is an authentic aspect of the machine, since in England the bells in a church were often cast many years apart and were not in tune. Bells usually have names and inscriptions, and so do those of Mark II. In announcing a peal in 'The Ringing World,' it is common to give the weight of the tenor in cwt. Here are the weights of Mark II's bells, with their names and approximate pitches:—

- 1.—Salvation, .0024 cwt., E.
- 2.—Edgar, .0024 cwt., D sharp.
- 3.—Wallie, .0030 cwt., C.
- 4.—Lisl, .0029 cwt., B.
- 5.—Paul, .0046 cwt., A.
- 6.—Walt, .0039 cwt., G sharp.
- 7.—Easter, .0034 cwt., F sharp.
- 8.—Beauregard, .0068 cwt., E.

In conclusion, it may be of interest to note that this project does not represent the first interest in change ringing at Cornell. On looking up the subject in the Cornell library, one finds many books, some of them quite old and rare (according to Mr. Barnett); they were brought back from England by no one but Andrew D. White.

R. J. W. and J. K.

Among the books referred to are a copy of the third edition of 'Campanologia Improved,' by J. D. and C. M., published in 1733, and two editions of the 'Clavis,' Andrew D. White, by the way, was the first President of Cornell University.

In a footnote to the foregoing 'Note,' the writers give the inscriptions on their bells. No doubt some of the more erudite readers of this journal will fare better than the writer, who has been able to connect only numbers 2 and 6 with the names given to the bells, although he has not tried very seriously:—

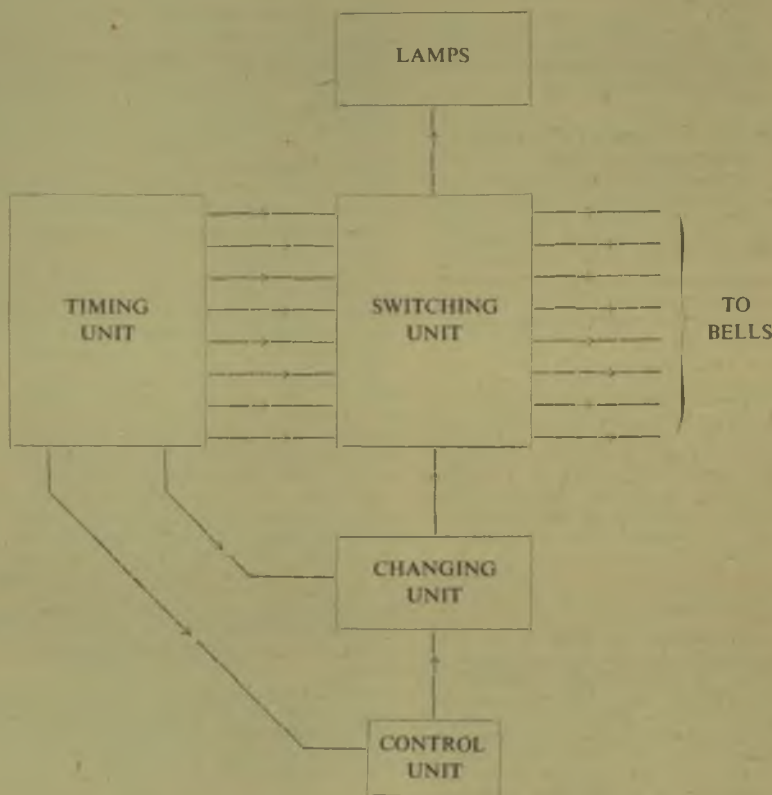

1. For you and not for me.
2. A sort of runic rhyme.
3. Silence that dreadful bell.
4. Built in such a logical way.
5. We shall all be changed.
6. Exult O shores.
7. A terrible beauty.
8. I do not know. Ask not.

A control panel fixed to the machine, in what appears to be a parody of the verbose kind of title-page common in 18th century literature (and hence in the old books referred to above), reads:—

MARK II
BEING A

The technical details which the 'proprietors' have supplied include a schematic diagram, and photographs of the controls and programme unit and a number of other photographs, none of which can be reproduced here. The description, however, is as follows:—

1. COMPONENTS.

A. Timing unit. This unit, based mainly on a 'stepping switch,' provides an evenly timed series of pulses of electricity. The rate is about eight pulses per second, but this can be adjusted with the knob N. Every other pulse rings a bell; the intermediate pulses are used for operating and changing mechanism. The ringing pulses are sent out in cyclic order along eight wires (assuming Majors are being rung) into the switching unit.

The pulses on the eight wires also light, in succession, the eight lamps forming the row above the 8-by-8 matrix of lamps on the panel.

B. Bells. The eight bells are rung by pulses coming over eight wires from the switching unit.

These pulses also light up the lamps in the column to the right of the 8-by-8 matrix on the panel.

C. Switching unit. This is an elaborate electrically-operated switchboard, composed of 40 13-pole relays. It can connect the eight wires coming from the timing unit (the input wires) to the eight wires going to the bells (output wires) in any chosen order. The chosen order can be changed by pulses entering the switching unit along wires from the control unit.

The switching unit also has 64 wires running to the lamps of the 8-by-8 matrix on the panel. These do not carry pulses but steady currents, and are so connected to the relays that if, for example, the third input wire is connected with the sixth output wire then the sixth lamp (counting from the top) in the third column (counting from the left) will be lighted. Thus when a change is about to be rung the positions of the

D. Changing unit. This is another collection of relays, which operates in a certain cycle on receiving a pulse from the timing unit. The effect of the cycle is to interchange the connections of a pair of adjacent input wires. For example

The particular pair of adjacent input wires which can be affected by the changing cycle is determined by the timing of the pulse which starts the cycle; the pulse which immediately follows the ringing-pulse on input wire N can interchange the connections of input wires N and N-1. Thus the change in a bell's position for the next round is prepared for as soon as possible after the bell is rung.

The changing cycle involves the successive operation of seven relays, and is completed in about a quarter of a second.

E. Control (programme) unit. This consists primarily of two strips of paper tape, punched with holes through which electrical contacts can be made. These contacts control the operation of the changing unit, deciding whether or not a changing cycle shall be executed at any possible instant. There is also a mechanism for moving the tapes so as to vary the contacts, from one change to the next for the method tape, and from one lead to the next for the peal tape.

There is a separate control unit for ringing the 'Nine Tailors.'

2. RINGING A PEAL.

Suppose we wish to ring 768 Kent Treble Bob Major, with bobs at leads 4, 8, 12, 16, 20, 24. We first load the appropriate method and peal tapes in the control unit. The number of bells to be rung is set on switch M. If it is desired to count the leads the counter T is set to 000.

Switch A turns on the power. Pushing button F sets up straight connections in the switching unit so that input 1 is connected to output 1, etc. Flipping switch B will then cause the machine to ring rounds. At this time holes in columns 1, 5, 7 of the method tape are under the contact brushes, but the changing unit is not in operation so the switching unit remains unaltered. The stepping switch emits cycles of 17 pulses, of which pulses 2, 4, 6, 8, 10, 12, 14, 16 ring the bells in rounds.

We now push button K. This closes a relay, causing the following sequence of events to occur, beginning with pulse 4:—

4. The changing unit is set in operation. Input pulse 2 goes in as before, ringing bell 2.

5. The circuit through the hole in column 1 of the method tape starts the changing cycle, changing the connections of input wires 1 and 2.

6. Input pulse 3 rings bell 3.

7. Pulse to change connections on input wires 2 and 3 is stopped by lack of hole in column 2 of method tape; no change in switching unit. An attempt is also made to send a pulse through column 12 of the method tape. If there is a hole in this column this pulse will advance the peal tape one position and will advance the counter (T) one unit. This occurs only at the end of a lead; i.e., after the method tape has advanced 31 times.

8. Input pulse 4 rings bell 4.

9. No hole in column 3, so no change in switching unit.

10. Input pulse 5 rings bell 5.

11. No change.

12. Input pulse 6 rings bell 6.

13. Since there is a hole in column 5 the changing cycle starts, changing connections of input wires 5 and 6.

14. Input pulse 7 rings bell 7.

15. No change.

16. Input pulse 8 rings bell 8.

17. Changing cycle changes connections of input wires 7 and 8.

Fig. 2

At this point the switching unit looks like Fig. 2, and the panel lights. (The operation of the machine will halt at this point if switch B was flipped at any time after pulse 1. Flipping B again will continue the operation just as if there had been interruption.) The operation continues as follows on the next cycle of the stepping switch:

1. The method tape is advanced one position, thus bringing holes in columns 1, 3, 5, 7 under the brushes.

2. Input pulse 1 rings bell 2.

3. An attempt is made to send a pulse through column 8 of the method tape and through columns 4 and 5 of the peal tape. If this pulse gets through holes in these positions it will re-route the changing pulses away from the method tape and through the bob plug-board P. This will occur for the first time at change thirty on lead four.

4. Input pulse 2 rings bell 1.

The cycle now continues as before, with the appropriate variations due to the changed position of the method tape.

There are various modifications and complications of this basic operation.

(a) At any time a bob or a single can be called by pushing button I or J (whether or not there is a peal tape being used). Pushing I has the same effect as introducing punches in columns 4 and 5 in the peal tape; it turns on light P and sets the stage for a bob. The bob is made when the hole in column 8 of the method tape comes under the contact brush; at this moment P goes out, R goes on, and the control of the changing unit goes to the plug-board P instead of the contact brushes on the method tape. Light R goes out as soon as the bob is made.

(b) A relay automatically disconnects the changing unit when rounds is rung, so that rounds will continue to be rung until button K is pushed again.

(c) A pause can be introduced after every round or after every other round by flipping switch D.

(d) The bells can be turned off by switch C, leaving only the lights to follow the changes.

(e) When ringing fewer than eight bells any of the bells can be selected by switch H and button G. H and G can also be used to set the bells in any desired order; i.e., to set the switching unit in any desired condition. In particular, Queens can be rung.

3. The Nine Tailors are rung as follows: Turn on power (A) and put bells in rounds (F); set M for 8 bells. Flip switch D up for man, down for a woman. Set counter T at 999 minus the age of the deceased. Flip C to turn bells off. Push L.

The machine will then ring (on the tenor bell) nine tailors for a man, six for a woman, will toll the age, and then stop.

4. Firing could easily be managed as far as the circuitry is concerned, but our power supply is not strong enough to ring all eight bells simultaneously.

5. Spliced methods would require additional method tape units. The peal tape mechanism could easily be modified to do the switching from one method to another at appropriate times.

GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL

Visitors from Aldbourne, Bradford-on-Avon, Hilberton, Ottershaw and Pinner attended the annual meeting of the Swindon Branch at Christ Church, Swindon, on December 13th. Ringing preceded the usual service, which was conducted by the Vicar (Canon F. W. Thomas), and those present were entertained to tea by the Christ Church ringers. The Master of the Association (Mr. W. H. Trueman) presided for the first part of the business meeting, and on Dr. H. Craig being re-elected chairman, vacated the chair. The other officers were also re-elected, and St. Mark's, Swindon, Rodbourne Cheney and Stratton St. Margaret were proposed for the first three meetings in 1959. A collection realised nearly £3 and this was divided between the Church Hall Fund and the Association Belfry Repair Fund. Further ringing followed the meeting, methods up to Stedman and St. Clement's Caters and Cambridge Royal being rung. W. B. K.

WHAT A SURPRISE!

MONDAY, November 3rd, 1958—a day for ever engraved upon my memory! For one thing, it happens to be the day before my birthday, but that is immaterial. It is, in fact, the day on which I eventually plucked up enough courage to go to a ringing practice at Dlaew Worrah.

I knew there was a practice there, and I'd known it was on Monday nights for about eight months. Someone had said to me: 'You ought to go to Dlaew Worrah—they ring Spliced Surprise': to which I replied that there was no point in my going, as I couldn't even ring Surprise Unspliced, except for Cambridge, through which I could just about scramble. In the end it was the envy of a friend who lives 50 miles away and longs for the chance to get some really good ringing that drove me to go.

As the train drew nearer and nearer I began to feel distinctly nervous. I felt as though I were about to sit for a stiff examination, which was ridiculous when in fact I was going to learn more about the thing I prefer doing best on earth—ringing.

I arrived at the church, and with rather shaky knees walked up the path and climbed the belfry stairs. And lo and behold! the first thing I saw was a beginner learning to handle a bell! I don't quite know what I had expected—a little group of earnest-looking experts, I think, who would be engrossed in long touches of Spliced Surprise, and who would not be at all keen to stop for a mere learner like me. The relief was tremendous!

Someone asked me what I could ring, and I mumbled, shyly: 'Well—um—I can ring the ordinary methods—and I have staggered through Cambridge—but I'm only a beginner really, and I want to learn to ring Surprise.'

I was immediately made to feel welcome and at home, and was put in for a touch of Stedman Triples. After that came a course of Cambridge, and though I didn't ring it perfectly I don't think I entirely disgraced myself. The rest of the band followed with a course of Yorkshire, after which the captain, Mr. Enyam (whose name I knew well by hearsay, and who turned out to be the complete opposite of what I had imagined), told me how to learn the method and gave me a lesson on Superlative.

I went away that first evening with my heart singing and my head full of all the wonderful possibilities stretching out before me, and cursing myself, too, for my utter stupidity in not venturing to Dlaew Worrah months before!

Since then, thanks to the kindness and patience of all the ringers (I might add here that they are nearly all regular peal ringers and regular Sunday service ringers), I have learnt and rung Yorkshire, Superlative, Rutland, Bristol and London, and have even tried some Spliced Surprise, though with rather disastrous results! If anyone had suggested eight weeks ago that I should ever reach such dizzy heights, I should have laughed and said: 'Rubbish! That's only for the experts!'

I can never begin to repay this band for all the pleasure they have given and are still giving me; and especially Mr. Enyam, who has not only shown me easy ways to learn the most difficult methods and given me numerous hints on ringing them, but who has also been so thoughtful and kind in seeing that each week I got the chance to ring the method I have particularly learned. I appreciate this more than I can say, and I hope that if anyone happens to realise where and who I am talking about he (or she) will not be offended but will take this as an expression of my most sincere gratitude to all at Dlaew Worrah for opening up to me the many, varied and wonderful fields of Surprise ringing.

A SURPRISED LEARNER.

A STORY OF 1925

A FEW months ago mention was made in the 'R.W.' of Leyland May Festival which, alas, is no longer held. It was always a colourful event, the teams of male Morris dancers making a grand display along the streets.

Most ringers in Lancashire knew that there was some trouble over ringing for this festival, but the facts are set out for the first time. It has taken over 30 years to get over this squabble, and of course there are not many 30 years in a lifetime.

The Parish Church of St. Andrew had a really good band of ringers as far back as 1907 up to being broken up in 1925. They rang Grandsire and Stedman Triples for service, and after being joined by the late B. A. Knights in 1910 they progressed to Treble Bob and Double Norwich. They had always rung for the May Festival and the Vicar was ex-officio chairman of the festival committee, although the Urban District Council shared the work of organisation, etc.

In 1924 came a vicar who, after accepting office, made it plain that he intended to make some sweeping alterations. These were not acceptable to the committee, so after a Chancery Court action to see who really owned the funds, it was decided to have two festivals, viz.: one for the church and one for the village (as it was then).

The Vicar ordered the ringers to ring for the church festival only. They asked for time to consider the matter and in due course they informed the Vicar that if they could not ring for both festivals they would not ring at all. Still, they did not wish this trouble to interfere with service ringing. The Vicar's answer was: Either absolute loyalty to him or finish.

The church festival was held first and no bells, also no bells for the village festival. In the parish magazine the Vicar said that all the ringers had now finished, and this was keenly felt by the older members. Only one migrated to another church, the rest gradually dropped out of ringing and only one is now living.

Meanwhile moves were being made behind the scenes to end the deadlock; Canon Elsee, the Lancashire president, tried his hardest, and the late Wm. Taylor boldly went to interview the Vicar. He made such an impression that the Vicar asked him to come again, and then an unforeseen incident happened that upset any hope of reconciliation. Queen Alexandra was dead, and there was no muffled ringing as was customary at such events. The dismissed ringers talked amongst themselves, but the Vicar was away so they could not ask him. They therefore went to the local Superintendent of Police and put their case to him. He advised them as follows: That as all were members of the Church he could not see they were doing any wrong in going up to ring. Everything had to be put back as they found it and no damage must be done to Church property.

This was carried out to the letter, but shortly after the Vicar's return each ringer received a solicitor's letter. It said that unless an apology was received for gross trespass and wilful damage by ringing on a specified date legal proceedings would follow.

So back to the Police Superintendent with the letters, and his advice was to do nothing. Time went on and no proceedings were taken; eventually the Vicar formed a new band. He also appealed for money, and the bells were overhauled and made into ten. Owing chiefly to the perseverance and enthusiasm of the present leader things are now flourishing. The ten are rung most Sundays and a good supply of learners is available.

The writer considers that 'the sack' for ringers is no good at all, however useful it may be in industry. It always results in stopped bells, and there are three silent towers not far from Leyland all through 'sacking.' This does not mean that vicars or anyone else should accept an intolerable position: things should never be allowed to get to the stage of 'either and or.' The good of the belfry and the continuation should be the chief consideration of both ringers and clergy. 'LANCASTRIAN.'

After several weeks of careful practice on tower and handbells at Buckfast Abbey, Devon, it is pleasing to be able to state that a change ringing band has been established there amongst the Abbey ringers. In this direction they have had a certain amount of assistance from a few members of the Mid-Devon Branch of the Devon Guild. The efforts of the Abbey ringers were recently rewarded when six of them rang, entirely without outside help, a quarter peal of Plain Bob Doubles, the striking being good throughout.

The initials of the writer of the article on Quex Park should have been B. J. L.

The peal at Ashted on Boxing Day was Mr. F. Oakshott's 40th anniversary of his first peal. Much-travelled Mr. A. P. Cannon, who conducted, informs us that it was his 25th peal of Grandsire Triples, all rung in 25 different towers.

The band who rang the peal at Tanfield, Co. Durham, thank Mr. and Mrs. George Wall for the sumptuous supper which awaited them after the peal and wish George a happy retirement. He retired on Boxing Day after a lifetime of work in the mines.

With sincere regret we learn that Mr. George Baker, of Brighton, who is now living at Christchurch New Zealand, has had trouble with his eyes and is now unable to read. The sudden death of his son-in-law, with whom he lived, has also been a sad blow.

When nearly at the end of an attempt for a quarter peal of Kent Royal on Christmas Eve at Huddersfield Parish Church, an Irishman, who appeared well under the influence of drink, became entangled with No. 8 rope in the clock chamber. Fortunately no one was injured as may easily have been, and the fellow was ejected from the tower by members of the Law.

BELFRY GOSSIP

The Chocolate Drop Kid, 28-year-old gunman, Stanley Robert Mackins, who at Leeds Assizes was sent to prison for nine years, was arrested after a 100-mile chase across Yorkshire by P.S. Huddleston, who was commended by the Judge. Sgt. Huddleston was a ringer at Driffild until ringing was stopped a year or two ago, following a disagreement with the Vicar. He has now retired from the East Riding Police Force after 30 years' service.

David Massey, aged nine, of Frome, Somerset, is following in the footsteps of his sister Frances, by ringing his first quarter at Beckington, on December 28th. Frances, who is now 12, rang her first peal at the age of 10.

Dickleburgh, near Liss, Norfolk, which has now a ring of six (see dedication report in this issue), has no louvred window towards the main road—the village High Street. It will thus not disturb the locality with ringing.

At last, Sherborne Abbey bells have yielded again to the efforts of peal ringers. The peal of Stedman Triples on Boxing Day put an end to a period during which, it is believed, no less than nine consecutive attempts had failed.

The band who rang the peal at Seal Chart were sorry that the secretary of the local band, Mr. G. Acott, was unable to take part owing to illness, and would like to thank Paul Dye, a young member of the Sevenoaks band, who took part at short notice and rang well to score his first peal.

After seeing their father, the Rev. J. F. Hough, installed as an honorary Canon in Canterbury Cathedral on December 20th, Miss E. Hough and Mr. J. R. Hough returned to Folkestone and rang a quarter peal on the bells of their father's church, SS. Mary and Eanswythe. This was the first quarter by a local band on the bells since 1947.

CORRESPONDENCE OVER BOW-IN-THE-ROAD PEAL

Dear Sir,—When the Bow-in-the-Road peal controversy reared its ugly head in these columns a few weeks ago, I hoped at first that it might pass substantially unnoticed and soon be forgotten by all but those intimately concerned with it, as do so many other and similar occurrences. However, in view of the widespread comment which the ringing of this peal has since occasioned in the London area, and in view also of the groundless and almost criminally defamatory allegations which have been levelled against my own integrity as a result, I am reluctantly compelled to give an account of the true facts of the matter.

On September 23rd I addressed the following letter to the Rev. Francis Mettrick, Rector of Bow:—

Dear Rector,—I write to ask if it might be possible for myself and some fellow bell-ringers from the Surbiton and Wimbledon areas to come and ring a peal on the bells at St. Mary's, Bow Road, on a weekday evening in the near future.

I was thinking tentatively of the evening of Wednesday, November 5th; this date is, however, purely a suggestion, as almost any other time would suit us equally well. If possible, we should like to ring from about 6.15 until 9 p.m.

I hope that you will be able to see your way to granting us permission to ring.—Yours sincerely,

On October 20th my letter was returned to me with the following reply written on the back:—

Dear Mr. Leale,—Thank you for your letter. We shall be happy to hear your friends ringing our bells on the date you suggest or any other Wednesday. We should like the ringing to cease as soon as possible after 9 p.m.

Best wishes.—Yours sincerely,
(Sgd.) F. METTRICK.

A few days later I replied in the following vein:—

Dear Rector,—Thank you very much for your letter and for your kindness in giving permission for my team of ringers to come and ring a peal on the bells of St. Mary's, Church, Bow Road, on any Wednesday evening.

We should like to come on Wednesday, the 19th November. I note that you wish the ringing to cease as soon as possible after 9 p.m.: in order to be quite sure of finishing at about this time we should like to start ringing at six o'clock, and we therefore expect to arrive at the church at about a quarter to six. I hope that it will be possible for someone to meet us at this time and show us the way to the tower.

If I do not hear further from you I shall assume that these arrangements meet with your approval.—Yours sincerely,

WHAT HAPPENED ON NOVEMBER 19th

On November 17th I sent a postcard to the Rector confirming the arrangements made.

On the day of the peal I arrived at the church at about ten to six and found some of the band already waiting outside, the doors of the church being locked. At six o'clock all of the band had assembled and, there still being no one present to let us in, I went in search of the Rectory, which fortunately turned out to be quite close at hand. The Rector handed me his keys and asked me to return them by way of his letter-box when we had finished ringing.

At five minutes past six we entered the church by way of the main west door, which I locked behind us. Having raised the bells and adjusted the ropes (which hang just inside the main west door) we went into changes at 6.13 p.m.

During the last course of the peal we were disturbed by a continuous and most unholy hammering on the west door, accompanied by loud shouts and whistling from without. Eventually a young man entered the church by way of a vestry and unlocked the main door to admit a police officer. We were by then in the last half-lead of the conclusion. The bells were lowered singly and were all down well before 9.20 p.m.

Our visitors had meanwhile left us and when we came out of the church were nowhere to be seen. Having returned the keys as instructed, we left.

On the day on which the Rector's letter appeared in these columns I called on him in the hope of clearing up any misunderstanding which might exist between us. I was coolly received and during an ensuing discussion the Rector informed me that he had in his possession a letter from myself saying that it was our intention to ring for only half an hour. He was, however, unable to produce this letter when asked to do so, and the interview ended on a highly discordant note.

The above are the facts. Now, it seems that the objections since made to the ringing of the peal are as follows:—

(a) That permission had never been given for a three-hour peal attempt:

(b) That, even if given, permission should never have been sought in the first place.

Anyone who has read the letters quoted above will, I think, agree that point (a) merits no discussion.

With regard to point (b) I would say this. It is my feeling that any ringer is quite at liberty to ask for permission to ring a peal on any bells at all, and to accept the decision of the man on the spot as to whether or not the making of such an attempt would be advisable. Neither I nor anyone else can be expected to have expert knowledge of the state of local opinion in any but a minute proportion of the London area: it is therefore the responsibility of the local incumbent, before giving permission for a peal attempt by visiting ringers, to give such a matter his very careful consideration and, if possible, to seek advice from the captain of his own ringers before arriving at a decision.

I hope that my explanation of the facts underlying this regrettable episode will lead to the immediate end of its discussion in these columns. I should, however, be pleased (albeit surprised) to see published apologies, both from the Rector of Bow for his almost libellous misstatements, and from those others who have since followed his somewhat unreliable lead.—Yours sincerely,

ROBIN G. LEALE.

Surbiton.

P.S.—The originals of the first two letters quoted above are in my possession and may be inspected by any interested parties. The Rector has, I trust, preserved my second letter to him.—R. G. L.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

Stonewall Jackson Of Ringers

On Tuesday, December 23rd, in spite of fog and an evening which in normal events would discourage the most ardent traveller, some 40 people gathered at Abingdon in honour of the 80th birthday of Mr. Albert E. Lock, Oxford Diocesan Guild (North Berks Branch) secretary.

Tributes paid in turn by Mr. A. H. Webb (Branch Ringing Master) and the Rev. C. F. Cross (Branch chairman) exemplified Mr. Lock's long and loyal service, and particularly of late years the manner in which he had fostered his fold and encouraged beginners. As a mark of appreciation and in recognition of the occasion a cheque was formally presented on behalf of all Branch members.

In reply, Mr. Lock said that he had in his time fearlessly faced the fastest of bowlers, but at no time had he faced up to anything quite so terrifying as this. Elected to office in 1920, he was not certain if anyone now present attended that memorable Hagbourne meeting. It transpired, in fact, that there were three—Messrs. H. K. White, A. H. Webb and W. Corderoy. Mr. Lock said that he had enjoyed every minute of his service and liked nothing better than a gathering of ringers such as this, looked forward to many more and declared himself ready at any time to ring and conduct a peal.

Miss M. Cross, general secretary of the Guild, paid personal tribute and expressed appreciation of Albert's efforts to maintain the ringing strength of her tower.

Handbell ringing and carol singing, in particular an operatic rendering of 'Good King Wenceslas' by the chairman and Miss East, brought the evening to a happy conclusion.

THE SUFFOLK GUILD

Lavenham Ringers' Supper

Another very enjoyable supper and social were held at Lavenham on December 6th. 82 ringers and friends attending, including the District Ringing Master, Mr. Allen W. Cansdale (Bures) and the Rector of Lavenham, Canon H. W. S. Cotton.

The church bells were rung for one hour before the supper, which was served in the Church Hall by wives and friends of the Lavenham ringers. After supper the Ringing Master and Canon Cotton each spoke a few words of welcome and then we settled down to an evening of varied entertainment. The M.C. was Mr. Richard Seabrook (Hartest).

A band of visitors from Danbury, Essex, gave a good performance of tunes and carols on handbells, also part-songs. Various games and dances were organised by the M.C., who also, to the surprise and delight of the company, rendered a song he had composed in honour of the occasion with a topical verse for each letter of the alphabet. A few sample verses are given below:—

B is for Bures—a rare service band,
Les Mills will tell you it's the best in the land.
C is for Cansdale, and also for Clare.
Cansdale's our Master and runs like a hare,
D is for Danbury, oh, what a steep climb,
There are so many ringers they've gone on short time.

O is for Outing we have every year,
Some go for ringing, but more go for beer.

Messrs. Stedman and Maurice Symonds, of Lavenham, gave a 'four in hand' performance of tunes on handbells, and Mr. Stedman Symonds also rang tunes 'single handed' on his 'baby' handbells.

The evening concluded with community singing and our very best thanks to the local company and their helpers for a most enjoyable evening.

DICKLEBURGH, NORFOLK—A RING OF SIX

Hard by the Ipswich-Norwich turnpike stands the Parish Church of All Saints, Dickleburgh. Its five bells became unsafe to ring during 1957, and on December 21st, 1958, Dr. P. M. Herbert, the 68th Bishop of Norwich, rededicated those bells and dedicated a new treble. A new metal frame has also been provided, the whole contract being carried out by Messrs. John Taylor and Co., of Loughborough.

It was the first day of winter, yet the weather was sunny and springlike. There was a good congregation, and some whose names are often to be seen in the peals columns of 'The Ringing World' were among the ringers present. Unfortunately one who was missing was 'Rowley' (Mr. W. E.) Musk, of Eye, Suffolk, now unable to ring because of his poor health. Had he been able he would have been there; he rang his first 720 there in September, 1901.

The service followed the familiar order. The choir sang very well. The Vicar (the Rev. M. R. Peacock) conducted the service and spoke of how the sad news, that the bells must not be rung again before overhaul, was announced at Harvest Festival in 1957; and how, by Christmas that year, £55 10s. had been raised; then, by Easter, £625; the summer fete brought it to £900, and now, at the dedication service, £1,100 of the £1,200 needed had been received. But the parish could not relax, because repairs to the fabric of the tower and church roof had cost another £200. He also said that some kind person had got the clock going again.

Immediately after the dedication the Vicar said: 'Let the bells ring out!' and rounds were rung by Charles Catchpole (tower captain), C. Snelling, Miss, P. Theobald, F. Clark, T. Lockwood and R. Chenery, while the Bishop, the wardens (Mr. J. C. N. Draper and Mr. A. Lockett) and the clerk (Mr. G. B. Fairweather) stood by.

THE BELL AND THE COMMUNITY

The Bishop, in his sermon, said that the story of church bells was both curious and interesting, throwing a light on English church life throughout the ages. The stowage of bells in a tower belonging to a church was a secular act. In olden days the bell was the most important thing in a community, for it was rung to give warning of the approach of rivals, of enemies and of danger caused by fire. Church bells were used to summon the whole nation to arms when the Spanish Armada threatened our fleet and shores. 'Bonfires were lit and church bells were rung,' it is recorded. And again, the bells of Chester Cathedral were rung for the victory of Trafalgar 'with a deep toll to signify the nation's grief for the men killed in battle.'

Everything depended on the bell because otherwise people were ignorant of disasters which might overcome them. So the question arose, where could one put the bell so that it would be safe and not stolen by a rival community? The answer was, in the church—universally sacred: nobody was likely to go in there with evil intent. But the bell must be high so that it could be heard. This meant a tower being built and attached to the west end, and that is the real reason why the tower does not really belong to the church. However, it has influenced church architecture ever since, and it is important because it ties up the temporal needs of a community with its spiritual needs.

The Bishop continued: 'Don't misunderstand my words when I say that the church is meant to be the public house of the parish, supplying the general common needs of the human beings of the parish—that's why we call it a "parish" church—it belongs to everybody. It is only those who turn their backs on it that do not appreciate its value and get the help it offers, but it is, merely a dumb witness without a bell—a bell gives it a voice and makes it a living house of prayer and praise to the living God.'

The Bishop's address was very interesting and, although his notes fell from the pulpit to the nave floor two-thirds of the way through the sermon, it made no difference for he seemed to ignore them even when he had them. He concluded: 'Don't forget what you owe to those who have gone before and who have set a church in a village and bells to rouse the people all the time.'

Refreshments in the nearby school, and ringing in a number of methods followed the service.

NORTH SOMERSET RINGERS IN SOUTH GLOUCESTERSHIRE

On December 13th a party of ringers from Nailsea and district embarked on another Saturday afternoon ringing expedition—this time in South Gloucestershire. The trip was arranged as a farewell to one of the party, who is returning from R.A.F. Locking, to his home territory at the end of the year.

The five at Wapley were first rung to a variety of Doubles and Minimus methods; then, after a preliminary skirmish with the clock hammer, the heavier six at Pucklechurch were enjoyed. Darkness had now fallen and the party made its way to Abson, where the customary picnic tea was taken in the kitchen of a farm near the church. Many thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Symes (formerly of Nailsea) for this. Now warmed and fed we rang on the good six at Abson, the elusive touch of All Saints' Doubles being finally conquered. At Dyrham, where the church is situated on an estate with the 'big house,' nearby, we enjoyed ringing on the fine little six, good in tone but unfortunately a little neglected.

Warmley, with its recently-rehung six, was the final call and a number of the local band turned up to welcome, and ring with, us. The fullest possible use was made of this good-going ring, including a well-struck course of London. M. J. H.

MR. SAM JONES OF ECCLESTON

Longevity among ringers is proverbial, but few are able to take an active part in ringing at the age of 90. December 13th, therefore, was in the nature of a very special occasion in the village of Ecclestone, Cheshire, for on this day Mr. Sam Jones celebrated his 90th birthday. The morning post brought many letters and cards conveying greetings and congratulations, and in the afternoon the bells rang out from the church tower just below the house.

An excellent peal of London formed a fitting tribute to the occasion and the high tea which followed was no less appreciated for, with our veteran in the place of honour at the table laden with good things to eat, the spirit of the day was effectively maintained.

It fell to Mr. F. Dunkerley to propose the toast 'Many happy returns,' a toast which was received with acclamation, for all felt that it was a great privilege to be present and to participate in such a celebration.

After the meal, chairs were drawn to the fire—for it was cold and misty outside—and the customary talk of bells and ringers continued until the lateness of the hour and long journeys ahead compelled the parting to be made. And so with handshakes and renewed good wishes the guests left Sam to his cosy cottage and his thoughts.

Perhaps those thoughts went back to an evening in January, 1885, when he first went into the tower of St. Mary's, Pulford, his native village, where the schoolmaster, Mr. Blezard, was teaching a keen band of young men the mysteries of Bob Minor and Treble Bob. Our friend had to wait for a long time before he was invited to take a rope but eventually, in spite of the fact that he had lost his left hand in an accident, he learned to manage a bell and was soon ringing the treble to Bob Minor.

He accomplished his first peal when he rang the treble to seven Minor methods on November 29th, 1888. The peal was conducted by James Morgan, who later became one of the foremost ringers in the district. The next peal, which was also at Pulford, was rung in April, 1893. This time Sam rang the second to three extents of Oxford and four of Kent Treble Bob.

Shortly afterwards he moved to Ecclestone and joined the band at the old church, but before very long this edifice was demolished to provide stone for the foundations of Bodley's fine new church, which was dedicated on Ascension Day, 1900.

Seven years later, when it was considered safe to begin ringing the heavy eight, Sam became tower keeper, a position which he still holds and one which has brought him into contact with many famous ringers as well as with many who are not so famous.

At 90 he still climbs those 55 steep steps to the ringing chamber to take part in the service ringing, as he has done for over 50 years, and many who arrive at the top somewhat breathless marvel at his apparently effortless ascent.

All who have come into contact with him during the years will without doubt echo Mr. Dunkerley's toast 'Many happy returns.'

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

PEAL ATTEMPT PROCEDURE

Dear Sir,—What sad reading the correspondence concerning the peal at Bow has made.

Dr. Neal Smith, in his very thoughtful letter in the issue dated December 26th, offers some sound suggestions for bringing the present dispute to a conclusion, but I feel that, whatever the outcome of such an inquiry, little good would have been done. The peal ringers would still have the satisfaction of having scored both peal and tower, and the locals would still be irate. I do, however, heartily agree with Dr. Neal Smith that 'the good name of the Exercise' must be protected.

May I, therefore, suggest that where the secretary to the local band is known, and such names and addresses are known to the local Associations if the tower is affiliated, the request for permission to ring a peal or to visit the tower be originally made through that secretary. He should first sound his captain and then seek the necessary permission from the incumbent. Such procedure need not cause undue delay.

The disadvantages of such a system are that the local secretary will not move quickly enough or that the request will be balked by the local band. So far as the former is concerned, incumbents, too, can be tardy, and not always from desire. In the second case, how true it is that the local ringers have to 'face the music' that follows, and so surely it is better to retain the goodwill of the local band than that another tower should be scored.

On the other side, it is up to the secretary to advise the incumbent as to what is being requested, the feelings of the local band, and the possible reactions of those living near to the tower. If, then, permission is given there can be no unpleasantness such as that which has recently marred the columns of our paper. Finally, we must consider the imposition of time that a direct request to the incumbent makes. Many do first communicate with their local band, and if not there is an extra letter, the incumbent having little enough time in any case. True he has the final say, but if there is a secretary, should he not do the correspondence?—Yours faithfully,

R. J. CARLTON,
Local Secretary.

BETTER MEN IN THE CHURCHYARD!

Dear Sir,—Many years ago we were attempting a peal of London Surprise. I got the idea that Freddy was a bit under the weather and as I was ringing the sixth I decided to nurse him. Sure enough every time we came to 6-5-6 I made a bodge of it. After this happened a few times Freddy says: 'Tommy, there are better men in the churchyard than you.'

Later, on the way home, I said: 'Freddy, you were wrong about the men in the churchyard.' 'How do you make that out?' 'We are going to have a drink and they are not coming.'

A long silence, then Freddy said: 'By God, you're right.'

We never heard any more again about those in the churchyard.—Yours, etc.,

A FLAT.

COLLEGE OR IMPERIAL?

Dear Sir,—In reply to Mr. J. W. Griffiths' remarks concerning Goldhanger College Bob Major (C.C.C. 282), he is probably technically correct in substituting 'Imperial' for 'College', but, as method names are meant to clarify and not confuse it is, in my opinion, more helpful to call it a 'College' method because of its obvious affinity to St. Clement's College Bob, only substituting place-making for the 5-pull dodge. It bears little resemblance to the 'Imperial' methods with places in 3-4, etc., which Mr. Griffiths has himself conducted. I have some personal interest in this, because since Mr. Griffiths wrote I have published Method C.C.C. 280 as 'College' also for the same reason (dodges, however, replace some of the Goldhanger place-making). I think there is a precedent for this, e.g., Wavertree College Minor, where place-making is substituted for some of the 3-pull dodge.

More controversially, I venture to suggest that some of the tags attached to Plain method names, especially 'Imperial,' are more cumbersome than helpful.—Yours sincerely,

Burton-on-Trent. D. P. JONES.

'CURATES' STAY-BREAKER' GUILD

Dear Sir,—I noticed your remarks with great interest and amusement re the attempts of the new curate to ring, with the disastrous results! ('Belfry Gossip,' December 26th.)

I am pleased to learn that I am not the only one to learn in such a way, for I did the same thing two years ago, and that was as the visiting preacher in a neighbouring parish!

Perhaps we ought to form a Curates' Stay-Breaker Guild? At least I haven't yet demolished a slider as well, but there's still time—? ? ?—Yours sincerely,

DAVID G. BRUNNING,
Curate of Llantwit Major.

RESIDENTIAL COURSE FOR RINGERS

Dear Sir,—Further to my letter which appeared in your issue of December 19th, in view of the doubt I expressed about the suitability of a mid-week course, which seems to have been borne out by the poor response, the warden of Dillington House proposes to transfer the course to the period Friday evening, April 3rd, to Sunday afternoon, April 5th. The fee for this would be three guineas per student, and a minimum attendance of 25 would be necessary. Will any ringers who would like to attend under these revised arrangements please let me know by January 30th.—Yours faithfully,

26, Iron Mill Lane. E. A. BARNETT.
Crayford, Kent.

PEAL WITHDRAWN

Dear Sir,—I wish to withdraw the peal of Spiced Surprise Major in three methods rung at Accrington on February 15th last. The composition was a reduction of Cox's 27 courses with each course called YSSCYCY, an arrangement with S. Burton. The second lead (S) is false against the last lead (Y) by the F.C.E. 53624 in several places (treble 3-4).

Unfortunately I was unaware that the composition had previously been withdrawn. My apologies to all concerned.—Yours sincerely,
NORMAN SMITH.

NORTHAMPTONSHIRE TOWERS

Dear Sir,—Taking a look through 'Dove's Guide' over the Christmas, I have noticed a few other inaccuracies and omissions besides those I drew attention to in your columns a few weeks ago.

(1). I hope no one will think of writing the Rector of Lamport, Northants, hoping to get a ring on five bells, as Dove gives, for there are only four (there never has been five); true there is a frame for five, and there is a small and very famous Sanctus bell.

(2). Likewise, no one will get a ring on six at Barnack. Up to 1935 this steeple contained a minor five. In 1936 these were immobilised by removing the ropes and sliders, taking away the floor beneath, installing a new sixth bell, hung as a clock bell entirely by itself without wheel or rope, and a chiming apparatus. Dove has the weight of this new bell correct, but they are still only a minor five even if slides and ropes are put back, which is unlikely. The clock bell is in a corner of the tower.

(3). Stanford-on-Avon. — The tenor since 1928 has weighed 11 cwt. 24 lb.: 12 cwt. 6 lb., as Dove gives, was its weight before 1928, in which year Gillett and Johnston retuned the tenor down from F sharp to F and restored the other bells in the old frame.

(4). Arthingworth.—These are (since 1950) unringable. The third has a cracked headstock.

(5). Ryhall, Rutland, bells, stated by Dove to be ringable, have been totally unringable for over 30 years.

(6). Ecton, Northants.—The tenor is between 15 and 16 cwt. It is identical in note and diameter (45½ in.) to Long Buckby. Neither Dove nor Powell were correct in stating it to be only 12 cwt.; nor is local tradition in assuming it to be 19½ cwt.—Yours sincerely, Weston Favell. P. AMOS.

A STATEMENT OF 50 YEARS AGO

Dear Sir,—I desire to correct a statement contained in 'Belfry Gossip' in 'The Ringing World' of December 26th, 1958.

Referring to the peal of Cambridge Royal rung at Ipswich to commemorate the first peal of Cambridge Maximus 50 years ago. I was not responsible for making the statement 'Who can say that Cambridge Maximus was not rung before Noah went in the Ark?' The fact was, as the band met together, some time before the peal was rung, one of them asked Mr. James Motts, 'If we ring it, will it be the first ever?'

The reply was, 'Of course it will be.' Another member, not in the peal band (Teddy Sherwood), butted in with 'How do you know? It might have been rung before Noah went in the Ark.'—Yours sincerely,

Braintree. LEWIS W. WIFFEN.

THE BARNSELEY & DISTRICT SOCIETY 1909-1959

By H. CHANT

ARTHUR GILL

His name will always be linked with that of Arthur Gill who, although he never occupied an official position in the Society, was always a staunch supporter of it and was, like his friend, an excellent ringer. Seldom was one seen without the other, with frequently Albert Nash in attendance. Gill came to Wath via Ackworth and New Mill, and became a member of the Wath company before the 1914-18 war, although he could ring many methods before that.

He lost an eye late in life through an accident at work, but this kept him out of ringing for only a few months. On one occasion he removed a splint from a broken finger in order to ring a peal and replaced it when the peal was over. I remember he was somewhat disgruntled when we insisted that he rang at the light end.

He had a grim sense of humour and was seldom ruffled. His remark when we had just rung a course of Grandsire Triples on handbells around the open grave of Arthur Panther, 'Tha knows, he's said "That's all" for the last time!' was typical of him.

He described Superlative Surprise as 'Treble Bob Double Norwich' and confided in me that when ringing Stedman (and he rang quite a few peals of it) he never bothered to remember whether he was going in 'quick' or 'slow,' but waited to see if 'one of the chaps on the front' looked at him so that he knew whether to make thirds or not.

When I pointed out that this system wasn't much good if the 'chaps in front' were wrong he replied, 'Those who get wrong on the front shouldn't ring Stedman!'

Although the basic officials remained unchanged there was a succession of presidents during the next few years. About this time Felkirk ringers began to enter the Society and one of them, Cyril Normington, was the president of the Society in 1921. He was never a first-class ringer and never rang a peal, in fact his aspirations never soared higher than Plain Bob, but he attended the meetings regularly, where he used to appear accompanied by three small boys who were in Felkirk Church choir, of which he himself was a member. These lads could ring Bob Minor and, with his assistance, Bob Major on handbells, although they could not at that time ring tower bells. Great was the delight of ringers like Thackray and Moorhouse, of Armley, and Albert Nash (who reappeared about this time) to be able to join in a course of Bob Major with these 'juvenile prodigies' (as they were once described on a local concert notice).

Cyril Normington also introduced Dan Smith into the belfry and so although he has not rung a bell for over 20 years, the seeds he sowed bore some fruit, as Arnold Cole is now a ringer at Leeds Parish Church and H. C. still rings a little now and again. The third member of the trio does not ring now although I have still hopes of bringing him back into the fold.

Mr. W. Raynor, of Sandal, the president for 1922 and 1923, was a sprightly and energetic dynamo of a man, whose speeches were a delight to listen to. He gave a lecture on bell ringing to the Paxton Society of Wakefield in 1926, which was followed later by the Society visiting Sandal belfry to see the ringers in action. These meetings were fully reported in 'The Wakefield Express.' He was a chorister and bellringer at Sandal for over 50 years.

In 1923 the Rev. (later Canon) H. E. Hone was elected honorary president of the Society, a position which the succeeding rectors, Canon W. E. Wilkinson (1938) and Canon A. P. Morley (1949) have occupied in turn.

'Bob' Thickett, of Horbury, was the president for the next two years (1924 and 1925). A delightful man who, with his no less delightful wife, was a regular supporter of the Society until his death in 1939.

In 1924 the Hoylandswaine company held their first cup competition for towers affiliated to the Barnsley and District Society. This was won by Wath, Albert Nash conducting. In 1925 the extremities of the boundary of the Society were fixed to a radius of 12 miles of Barnsley. The decision brought immediate reaction from the Shelley contingent, who were near the boundary, and they claimed at the meeting following this announcement to be within the radius. They were quickly accepted and I very much doubt whether any complicated mathematical calculations were carried out in order to check their claim, as Shelley is a team which any Society would be proud to have among its members.

RHYTHM BY GRUNTS

Much of the subsequent success of Shelley in contest ringing was due to their leader, Andrew Hoyle, a grand tenor ringer of the old school, who no longer rings. When ringing in the same band as Mr. Hoyle it was impossible not to strike correctly, as he punctuated the rhythm with audible grunts. His cry of 'Bob' used to make the bell frame tremble, and no unsuccessful 'touch' when he was conducting was ever broken down by any ringer who offered the excuse that he did not hear the call!

When I co-judged my first contest with him before the war it was noticeable that any blow on the bells which did not coincide with his grunts was faulted, for he maintained an audible rhythm, whether ringing or listening!

In 1926 Mr. W. Palmer, of Badsdorth, was elected president, a position he retained for one year. His chief, though unfulfilled, ambition throughout life has been to have the four bells at Badsdorth augmented to six. For years he turned up at the meetings, whatever the weather, and an annual meeting without him at the organ at the ringers' service would at one time have seemed strangely incomplete. His role of annual organist appears to have been taken over by the present president, Mr. N. F. Moxon, who is quite an expert at the instrument.

On one occasion the present treasurer made an abortive attempt to fill the gap, but it was obvious that Chopin's Pianoforte Ballades were more in his line than Bach's Organ Fugues!

By the untimely death in 1926 of Mr. George Hill, of Hoylandswaine, the Society suffered a great loss. Virile, excitable and enthusiastic, with a stentorian voice, he was a brilliant ringer and conductor of Minor: the mainspring that moved the Hoylandswaine company and teacher of many fine ringers. His passing left a void that can still be felt in the Hoylandswaine-Penistone area.

It was in this year that after much preparation and discussion the first (shield) contest of the Society took place. This was at Barnsley on September 11th, no less than 11 teams taking part, and the ringing, which commenced at 2.30 p.m., lasted until 9.30 p.m. The judge was Mr. J. R. Brearley, of Bolsterstone, and Shelley were the winners.

There appears to have been no entrance fee and the cost of the contest, which was rather high, was borne by the Society. 1926 was, of course, the year of the coal strike, and seeing that many of the ringers were miners, the Society quite frequently undertook to pay for the teas of those out of work who attended the meetings. This dual drain on the financial resources of the Society caused some concern and a committee meeting was convened later in the year to discuss the situation. The Society, however, weathered the storm.

Mr. J. W. Moxon, of Sandal, was the president during the next two years, 1927-28. Now the 'father' of the Society, he has always been one of the pillars of it. Joining shortly after the foundation, he will, I should say, have attended more meetings than any other member, living or dead. After his term as president he was afterwards a vice-president and has always been the epitome of that which is vital to any Society—the regular attender.

In 1927 the Society became affiliated to the Central Council and, being allowed one member, Mr. Potter was chosen as the representative.

In 1927 the Wath company rang 119 extents in 92 Treble Bob methods during the course of 12 months, a performance duly noted in the minutes.

It is interesting to note that one of the auditors of the 1927 accounts was Mr. William A. Wooler. This quiet and inoffensive ringer hailed from Wortley, and was a regular attender at the meetings for many years. His name appeared with monotonous regularity in the 'Knights' peals. He suddenly disappeared and I was never able to discover where he went or what happened to him. To all my inquiries the answer was, 'Oh, he went somewhere down south,' as though it served him right! It would be interesting to know what happened to him. I have reason to believe that he had a brother who was a parson, and wondered if the Rev. C. U. Wooler, who was made a member of the Society in 1925, was this person.

BISHOP'S FAREWELL

On July 21st, 1928, an event took place which is described in the minutes by Mr. C. D. Potter as 'the most important meeting hitherto held by the Association.' This event, a meeting and garden party held at Barnsley, was the result of much preparation by the Society in general and by Mr. C. D. Potter and Mr. W. Raynor in particular, and was held in honour of Dr. Eden, Bishop of Wakefield, who was soon to leave the Diocese. The Bishop attended and preached at the service and was afterwards the centre of the entire group whose photographs were taken on the Rectory lawn: a group which contained clergy, ringers and friends. On leaving the Diocese Dr. Eden was presented with a framed copy of the photograph by the Society.

A feature of the day was the display of trophies which included: The Society's Shield: the Halifax Association Challenge Cup: the Sheffield and Old East Derbyshire Challenge Cup: the Sheffield Parish Church Ringers' Loving Cup; a cup won by Wath in 1836; the Hoylandswaine Cup and also the Sheffield and District's Illuminated Peal Book.

Ringings 'in hand' and tower, speeches and wonderful sunshine were the order of the day. The text for the Bishop's sermon was 'Ye shall be my messengers.'

In the 1928 contest, the Society, realising no doubt that unless something was done the small financial reserves would soon be non-existent, charged an entrance fee of 6s.

Albert Nash was the president during 1929-30 and 1931.

CHANGE RINGER MARK II.

'I am tickled by the names, inscriptions and micro-weights of the bells, but am appalled at the suggestion that as English bells are not in tune they have made their bells out of tune to preserve "authenticity." I prefer to think they are merely excusing a rather poor set of odd-shaped gongs.

'One last impression which this machine confirms, and that is regarding size. In many fields of engineering, jobs previously performed mechanically can now be carried out electronically with much less bulky equipment, but change-ringing machines appear to follow a different order. Carter's machine, the first, almost entirely mechanical, is extremely compact, measuring some 15in. by 6in. by 5in. I believe Woodhouse's machine is quite a bit larger, while Brian Price's masterpiece, almost entirely electrical, weighs, he tells me, some four cwt. Mark II. does not aspire to quite such mammoth proportions because the method storage is contained on punched tapes, whereas Brian's is stored electrically, requiring, I believe, about 130 relay switches.'

This, then, is the story of 'Change-Ringer Mark II.' In August, 1954, Professor Walker paid a fleeting visit to England and heard the Sunday morning ringing at St. Paul's Cathedral. This year Professor Kiefer is coming to Oxford for a 'Sabbatical' leave, and he and his wife will, I am sure, receive a warm welcome from the ringers there once they have made themselves known. It is a pity that 'Mark II.' could not have been brought over as well, but the visitors will be able to see John Carter's machine and perhaps some others. Let us hope that they will go back to America with a good impression of ringers and ringing.

Commenting on the description and the photographs, Mr. Douglas Hughes, one of the trustees of the Carter Ringing Machine, says:

'... They have unquestionably produced an ingenious machine with which one could have much fun, although it would not qualify as a change-ringing machine if one accepts the precepts laid down by Brian Price in his articles published in the "R.W." a few years ago, as it relies on external agencies, i.e., paper rolls, for producing the methods, and it at present has no means for drawing diagrams. However, I am not belittling the efforts of its constructors, for in any case they are not concerned with the principles laid down on this side but with producing a machine to meet the challenge presented by scientific change-ringing.

'Their way of using two tapes, one for the method and one for the lead-ends and calls, means that the extent could be rung without the operator doing a thing, apart, of course, from saying "go" and "that is all," but I am glad to notice that one can dispense with the call tape and make calls by pushing bob and single buttons. Here they have a great advantage over the Carter machine, as they can press the button any time during the preceding lead, and indicator lights show the call waiting and being made—oh! what luxury.

Peal Ringers Of 1958

Will those who rang 25 or more peals during 1958 please send the following details to the Editor: Number rung, tower and band; number conducted. An early reply would be appreciated.

FARNHAM RINGER MARRIED

Mr. Ernest John Wells, former Ringing Master of the Farnham District, Guildford Diocesan Guild, and his bride, Miss Rita Eileen Hall, of Farnham, after their wedding at Farnham Parish Church on December 20th.

The bridegroom, who took an honours degree in mathematics at Sir John Cass College, London, teaches at Woking Boys Grammar School. They are to make their home in Guildford.

NEWARK SOCIETY OF RINGERS

The annual meeting of the Newark Parish Church Society of Ringers was held in Newark ringing chamber on December 19th. In the unavoidable absence of the president (Canon J. H. D. Grinter) Mr. E. F. Taylor was elected to take the chair.

The Master's, the hon. treasurer's and the secretary's reports were read and confirmed. Thirteen new learners were elected as probationers, namely: Mrs. D. M. Butler, Messrs. Plummer, P. Ferguson, B. Ward, A. Lacy, J. Hallam, J. Smalley and the Misses A. Cove, J. Canner, E. Tutty, M. Chilton and C. Drury.

The following officers were elected to serve for 1959: Master, Mr. J. W. Raithby; Deputy Master, Mr. W. L. Exton; hon. treasurer, Mr. H. Stevenson; hon. secretary, Mr. F. W. Midwinter; committee Mr. A. E. Chilton and Mrs. D. Butler.

It was decided to hold the annual outing on June 20th. Cambridge being the destination, and the Gopher dinner on the usual Friday, the arrangements being left in the hands of the secretary.

The best wishes of the Society were sent to the president in Sheffield Hospital, and to Mr. W. Stevenson, an honorary member in hospital in Newark.

The meeting closed with a vote of thanks to Mr. Taylor for taking the chair in the absence of the Vicar.

KNEBWORTH, HERTS.—On Dec. 21st, 1,260 Peal: Bob Minor: Miss D. Childs (first quarter) 1. A. E. Childs 2. B. L. Marks 3. Mrs. G. W. Crichtley 4. G. W. Crichtley (cond.) 5. Miss P. M. Bourn 6. For carol service.

BATH AND WELLS DIOCESAN Chew Deanery Branch

The annual meeting of the Chew Deanery Branch was held at Nailsea on December 3rd. The meeting coincided with the annual sale of work for church funds and the excellent tea which was provided for the ringers was also a part of this effort.

The Rector (the Rev. W. Russell Davey) conducted the Association Form of Service and gave a short address. Miss Perry was the organist.

After a meat tea, the meeting was held and the following were re-elected to hold office during 1959: Chairman and Ringing Master, Mr. H. W. Knight; vice-chairman, Messrs. L. Derrick and C. Bishop; hon. secretary, Mr. D. G. Yeo; reporter, Mr. M. J. Horseman.

New members were elected from Wraxall, Long Ashton and Kingston Seymour (two). Subject to permission, practice meetings will be held at Chew Magna, Nemnett Thruwell and Ubley for January, February and March respectively, and the quarterly meeting at Wrington in April.

After the usual votes of thanks, the tower was again open for ringing in a wide variety of methods.

Handbells At A County Durham School

A highlight of the usual Christmas party, for first-year scholars at Blaydon East Secondary Modern School, was the handbell ringing.

A couple of teams gave a really good account of themselves, playing several carol tunes, each one being preceded by well-struck rounds and Queens.

Both Miss Parton and Miss Vasey are to be congratulated on the way they trained their respective teams in such a short time, and no doubt more handbell ringing will be heard at the school in future.

The tunes published in 'The Ringing World' are noted and will be a great help.

HIGHLIGHTS OF 1958

A QUIET reflection on the year 1958, as far as the Ringing Exercise is concerned, will reveal a number of highlights, and it could be classified as an interesting rather than a conspicuous year in the advancement of our art.

As in recent years, Leicester and the Midlands have been busy with peals, particularly at the Loughborough Bell Foundry. World interest was focused on the two attempts to ring a record peal of 40,320 on the Foundry bells. Both attempts passed the half-way mark: the first attempt had best be forgotten and the second was abandoned after over ten hours' ringing owing to the conductor being taken ill.

However, the next record attempt of the year was successful, when a band rang five peals in a day in five different towers in Hampshire: the first peal started at 4 a.m. An attempt by the same band to ring five peals of Surprise Major was unsuccessful, only three being scored. Towards the end of the year an attempt was made to ring seven peals in a day, and this shared a similar fate. A midnight start resulted in the police being called out from Andover.

Regarding 12-bell ringing, Leicester maintained its reputation with peals of Surprise Maximus. Another 12-bell tower to appear regularly in the peal columns was Southwark Cathedral, with different 12-bell bands mainly from the London area performing. Some talented young ringers from Hampton, Middlesex, formed the backbone of the band to ring John Carter's Scientific Triples on these bells. This was the first peal in this Principle, which was regarded by the late Maurice J. Hibbert as a method that would never be pealed, and he challenged any conductor to call it to a peal.

The Central Council meeting in Ireland was a great success, and considering the journey was better attended than anticipated. It will be remembered for the most generous hospitality of the Irish ringers and the two successful peal tours, with great welcomes accorded the visitors everywhere. Sunday service ringing was the main theme of the business meeting. As a result Guilds are co-operating in a comprehensive survey, and the report, to be presented next Whitsun at Southport, should be helpful in stimulating ringers' thoughts on their main responsibility.

A number of peal tours were enjoyed. Mr. Wilfred Williams' band were in Scotland and rang 11 peals in eight counties; Mr. David Hoare's band visited Yorkshire; Cheshire ringers toured Northants; Mr. Tom Locke's band were in Hampshire, and Mr. Brian Woodruffe's band were in Gloucestershire, Oxfordshire and Berkshire. There were more non-peal tours than usual, with Pipe's Pilgrims in Wales.

The University Guilds and Associations had a good year, and figured prominently in the news and peal columns of 'The Ringing World.' Oxford, Cambridge, London and Bristol have all experienced ringers in residence. Southampton made headway and new Guilds have been established at Sheffield, Birmingham and Leeds. The Universities Association's two annual events were full of vitality.

Of individual performances, mention should be made of Mr. Edward Jenkins ringing the 56 cwt. tenor of Wells Cathedral to a peal of London Surprise Royal. Although the tenor has been rung before single-handed, considering Mr. Jenkins' age it was a first-class performance in heavy-bell ringing.

Spliced Doubles reached its peak this year, with three bands taking part in peals of 42 or more methods, under the leadership of Messrs. Frank Blagrove, Brian Woodruffe and Tony Peake. Doubles variations have formed the theme of many letters to 'The Ringing World.'

What can we look forward to in 1959? Perhaps seven peals in a day or the Everest of ringing—the full extent on eight to be completed by a band of supermen. Maybe Mr. Stephen Ivin and Mr. Pat Cannon will make up their differences and ring 50 peals together! For all this we must wait and see.

FATHER TIME.

The St. Martin's Guild for the Diocese of Birmingham have elected Mr. Edgar C. Shepherd as their Master. Mr. Shepherd has been a member of the Guild for just over 40 years and has been a vice-president for nine years. He was Ringing Master in 1949 and has for many years been Guild librarian.

Rotherham High School handbell ringers raised £50 for the Parish Church by ringing carols on two afternoons in Rotherham Churchyard.

Mr. Herrick Bowley, Ringing Master of the Leicester Cathedral band, never failed to ring for Sunday service (even when on holiday) throughout 1958. Critics of Leicester Cathedral please note.

Apropos the recent Bow peal controversy a correspondent asks if the 'culprits' were in such a hurry to escape the local wrath and indignation that they had no time to readjust the ropes as they found them.

Due to indisposition, Mr. W. H. B. Wilkins was unfortunately unable to take part in his 88th birthday peal at St. Ebbe's, Oxford, on December 30th. The band look forward to seeing him in the belfry soon.

The Christmas Day issue of 'The Scotsman' had an attractive picture of ringing at St. Cuthbert's Church, Edinburgh. In the picture were Mr. John Newton, Miss Lois Beevers, Miss M. Taylor, Miss Marion Park, Miss A. Whitson and Mr. Rognvald Wilson.

About ten minutes of the quarter peal rung at Sennen (The Land's End) on New Year's Eve was recorded by the Rev. Martin Wilson, of the B.B.C., and was played back to the band afterwards. Just after midnight Mr. Wilson also recorded the bells of Carbis Bay ringing in the New Year. These recordings, with other bells of West Cornwall, will be heard in a programme to be broadcast from the West Region on Sunday, January 25th, at 9.45 a.m.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Congratulations to the Misses Grace and Katherine Burchnall, twins, on ringing their 250th peal, all of which have been rung together. This must surely constitute an unusual record, and it was typical of their unselfishness that this should have been rung in their own tower with almost a local band and no less than four star achievements, including one first peal.

Mr. Michael Elson, who rang his first peal on Boxing Day rang a peal of four Spliced Surprise Major the following day at Barton-under-Needwood, Staffs.

For the annual carol service of Macclesfield County High School for Girls the bells of St. Michael's, Macclesfield, were rung by pupils of the school, including a teacher, Miss J. Brieley.

There is an interesting historical note behind the peal at Weston Favell on December 27th, rung to mark the bi-centenary of the death of the Rev. James Harvey on Christmas Day, 1758. His grandfather, the Rev. William Harvey sen. (Rector for 59 years) had the bells, a minor five, installed, the first four in 1683 and the fifth in 1707.

Bells will be heard prior to the morning service to be broadcast from Newland Parish Church, Forest of Dean, Gloucestershire, next Sunday at 9.45 a.m. The captain of the ringers is Mr. Leonard Jones. The service will be conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. E. H. Tucker) and the singing led by Coleford and District Choral Society.

The design used for Rotherham High School Christmas card, of which hundreds are sold for charitable purposes, was a symbolic scene of the school's handbell team in action, with the school in the background, and a Christmas message in four languages below. Many of the cards were posted to the girls' pen friends abroad.

UNIVERSITIES ASSOCIATION AT BIRMINGHAM

A COMPANY of about 80 sat down at the annual dinner of the Universities Association held at the Imperial Hotel, Birmingham, on January 3rd. Mr. E. H. Lewis, the president, was in the chair, and guests included the Master of the St. Martin's Guild, Mr. Frank Haynes, who is himself a Universities Association member, Mr. and Mrs. George Fearn, the Rev. Canon Allan and the Rev. Peter Vaughan.

During the day ringing took place at Edgbaston (8), Handsworth (8), the Roman Catholic Cathedral of St. Chad (8) and at St. Martin's (12), all very pleasant rings. The Association attended Evensong at St. Martin's, which was conducted, in the absence of the Rev. Bryan Green, by the Rev. Peter Vaughan. The organist was Dr. Neil Smith, of St. Matthias', Richmond.

The toast of 'The Queen' was proposed by Mr. Lewis, and then the toast of 'The Church,' submitted by Dr. Denis Layton, with which he coupled Canon Allan and the Rev. Peter Vaughan. He then went on to give a brief history of ringing, mentioning those curiosities known as 'dumb bells' and finished with the story of a pub adjoining the lychgate, kept by a churchwarden and which opened after services, so that the congregation might indulge 'a thirst after righteousness.'

CHESHIRE MEMORIES

Canon Allan, of Edgbaston, replied, telling, in an amusing speech, what bells had meant to him as a child at Mobberley, Cheshire. How, living about a mile from the church, the sound of the bells had been a signal to the family to leave for church and how, as they approached the church, the bells went faster and faster, as though saying 'Hurry to church!' He knew now that they were being rung down. One of the parsons he remembered from those days was named Mallory, one of the last squire-parsons, and his two sons had both achieved fame. One died with Irving near the summit of Everest, while the other, Sir Trafford Leigh Mallory, had died in an air accident after a distinguished war-time career.

Canon Allan then went on to give fascinating glimpses of some well-known churchmen who had influenced him, among them Dick Sheppard and the great William Temple, whose outside surplice had been returned from a laundry listed as 'one bell-tent.' This same surplice was being washed on a tour in the southern U.S.A. when a 'coal-black mamma' appeared and inquired 'Does the black Archangel want his shimmy laundered stiff or floppy?'

The toast of 'The Universities Association' was proposed by Mr. Frank Haynes, deputising at very short notice for Mr. Albert Walker, who was unwell. In his speech he said that at one time he was under the impression that there were only two universities. He now found, however, that there are 22, of which 14 have ringing societies, while all but one have members in the Universities Association. He also stressed the need for co-operation between university associations and local associations.

In reply, Mr. Brian Threlfall, the retiring secretary, welcomed the guests. He then read apologies for absence from several members and asked the company to stand in memory of three members who had died during the past year—David Priestley, Geoff Carter and the Rev. David P. Roberts.

Reviewing the year, he said that the ringing week at Yeovil and Sherborne had been a success, even though he himself had not been there, and he thanked Mr. Lewis for managing the week's finances. Three peals had been rung out of four attempts, although the year's total of four peals was well below the annual average of eleven.

Considering the purpose of the Universities Association, Mr. Threlfall said that it provided some common society for which members of different societies could ring peals ('Look at Pat Cannon!') and that it acted as a 'face-saver' for the numerous married couples who belonged to different universities.

One reason for holding the dinner in Birmingham was that attendances at the previous functions in London had been declining, due to the fact that members appeared to be living further north than they used to. Mr. Threlfall's speech came to an abrupt end after stuffing a parrot with Polyfilla!

NEW SECRETARY-TREASURER

The annual meeting followed with the president in the chair. Financial statements for the years 1956-57 and 1957-58 were read by the auditor, Mr. R. F. B. Speed. They showed a small rise in funds from £28 to £38.

On the proposition of Mr. Threlfall, who had been secretary-treasurer for the past five years, Mr. Dermot Roaf, of Oxford and Cambridge, was elected as his successor. Mr. Lewis proposed a vote of thanks to Mr. Threlfall for his services.

Forty-three new members from several universities were then elected.

It was stated by Mr. Threlfall that arrangements were well in hand for the 1959 ringing week to be held at Pulborough, Sussex, from August 8th to 15th, and that a booking had already been made at Whirlow Grange, near Sheffield for the 1960 week. In view of the success of the dinner it was decided to hold the next annual dinner in Birmingham on January 2nd, 1960.

The meeting closed with the customary votes of thanks. An apology for absence was received from Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Moreton. J. D.

Christmas Day Ringing

We have received the following observations on the Christmas Day broadcast ringing:—

Rotherham: Grandsire Caters. Good. Woodchester: Grandsire Doubles. Poor.

Lurgan, Co. Armagh: Call-changes. Poor.

St. Clement Danes: Stedman Triples. Excellent.

St. Cuthbert's, Edinburgh: Stedman Triples. Fair.

Grindisburgh: Bob Caters. Excellent. Gresford: Grandsire Triples. Fair.

JOINT MEETING AT GREASLEY

About 35 ringers representing 15 towers attended the joint meeting of the Sherwood Youths and the Mansfield District of the Southwell Diocesan Guild at Greasley on December 27th.

Methods rung included Grandsire, Stedman and Erin Triples, Grandsire Doubles, Plain Bob and Felkirk Treble Bob Minor, Little Bob, Plain Bob, Kent Treble Bob, Oxford Treble Bob, Double Norwich, Cambridge, Superlative, Yorkshire and Oswald D. Major, with rounds and call changes for the beginners.

A short service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. C. W. A. Pegler) and local ladies provided tea. The Vicar also presided at the business meeting of the Mansfield District when the District annual meeting was fixed for January 24th at Mansfield, and Messrs. M. Foster and F. Cooke, of Warsop, were elected members. A collection for the bell fund amounted to £1 1s. 8½d. Thanks were accorded to the Vicar and to the ladies who provided tea.

A WORCESTERSHIRE STALWART

Worcestershire ringers will join together in congratulating Mr. and Mrs. Wilfrid J. Newman, of Hampton, on their silver wedding anniversary, celebrated on Boxing Day with a peal of Grandsire Triples on Hampton bells.

Mr. Newman's association with Hampton Church started as a choirboy at the age of 11. That was 37 years ago and he is still a regular chorister. While still a choirboy he started ringing. His progress was good and his enthusiasm so great that 20 years ago he was elected Ringing Master of the tower. This office he still holds, and he has round him one of the largest Sunday service ringing bands in the area. In addition to 14 fully enrolled members of the Worcestershire Association, he has five beginners, all capable of ringing rounds. Not one Sunday passes without the bells being rung at least twice, and on week-days when there is a special service Hampton never fails in its bells calling the people to worship.

The success of the Hampton band is undoubtedly due to Mr. Newman's infinite patience as an instructor. During the past year he arranged the first peal for six of his band, and some of these have now rung several. Although he has rung over 80 peals, many of them Surprise, Wilf is not above ringing the treble to Grandsire Doubles in a peal for some of his band.

Eleven years ago he was elected Branch secretary for the Worcestershire Association, an office he has held continually ever since. He is also a member of the Parochial Church Council.

Mrs. Newman is the ringer's perfect wife, ever ready to help in any way and has always a welcome for the visiting ringers. Whenever Hampton are hosts to visiting ringers Mrs. Newman is in the forefront of the hospitality arrangements. It is the sincere wish of all ringing friends that in another 25 years' time the band may have the pleasure of ringing another peal to mark a golden occasion.

GUILD of DEVONSHIRE RINGERS

On December 27th last half a dozen members of the Guild of Devonshire Ringers spent a very pleasant afternoon at Buckfastleigh, with Buckfast Abbey as the venue. The Abbey ringers spent the afternoon with them and took part in most of the ringing, which consisted mainly of Grandsire, Stedman and Plain Bob Doubles and Plain Bob Minor. The ringing throughout the afternoon was confined to the lighter bells.

A move was subsequently made to the Buckfastleigh 'headquarters' for tea, Mr. A. L. Bennett acting as host. After a short spell with handbells the visitors wended their way to their respective homes, having spent a very enjoyable time. A. L. B.

MISS P. M. CLARKE'S 100 PEALS

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

TWO HANDBELL PEALS SIMULTANEOUSLY

Dear Sir,—Would the conductor(s) of the handbell peal, published in 'The Ringing World' of December 19th as 'Two peals of 5,040 Plain Bob Minor' rung by the Cambridge University Guild, please give us further information exactly how this was accomplished.

The footnote states that the two peals were rung simultaneously. Does this mean that the respective ringers struck their pair of bells together 'chorded' at the same time, thus ringing a six-bell rhythm, or was it rung to a 12-bell beat?

The time given as 1 hour and 53 minutes seems to suggest the former and, if so, was the same composition used by both conductors, with the bobs being called 'simultaneously'? The sizes of the two tenors, given as 11 in G and 17 in E (presumably a misprint for 17 in A) indicates that a normal ring of 12 bells was used. What a row it must have been! If the peal was rung 'chorded' would it not have been better, musically, to have used two sets of six bells an octave apart?

It would be interesting to hear other views on this and whether it is acceptable by the Central Council and Peals Analysis Committee as two peals.—Yours faithfully,

JOHN A. ACRES.

Leicester.

Dear Sir,—I suspect that the ringing fraternity is being misled in their thoughts of the manner in which the two handbell peals were rung simultaneously by the Cambridge University Guild.

I may be wrong but my suspicions are aroused to such an extent as to believe that one peal was rung, but each ringer using two handbells, comprising one each from two different sets of six handbells.

It was certainly not rung on the same principle as 'A Flat' proposed 30 years ago, which is evident by the time taken to ring the handbell peal.

Perhaps the figures of the two peals as rung may be supplied to 'The Ringing World' for publication, to allay any suspicions of the ringing fraternity, and also to enlighten Mr. Cannon as to how his 14 peals may be made up, after which I doubt if he would desire to be associated with such attempt. — Yours faithfully,

F. HODGSON.

Darlington.

THE LATE MR. JOHN THOMAS

Dear Sir,—Re the report of the passing of our dear friend, Mr. John Thomas, and his many achievements in the belfry, I have failed to find one which I think should be included, viz., a peal of Double Norwich rung on July 13th, 1928, at Corston, in which he rang the second and third bells. On a previous occasion he rang the same two bells—the conductor failed to call one of the bobs—but on the second attempt there was no word spoken except the calling of the bobs: I was in both.—Yours faithfully,

ARTHUR PRINCE.

Fishponds, Bristol.

SUNDAY SERVICE SURVEY

Dear Sir,—I have now received many of the returns from Association secretaries for the Central Council survey on Sunday service ringing. I have nothing but admiration for the work put in by so many people so willingly to supply the data and opinions and suggestions we asked for. However, there are still a few Associations whom I know are making surveys but have not got their returns in yet. I shall be most grateful if those secretaries could get their returns to me by the end of this month at the latest. We have a lot of work ahead of us and as the Council meeting this year occurs rather earlier than usual we are hoping to have our report finished by the end of March to circulate our own committee and the standing committee before the Council meets.

It may be that there are some Associations who for one reason or another cannot possibly finish their survey by the end of January. Anything they can send us after that date will certainly be of value and much appreciated but may well not be embodied in the main report.

If there are any towers who are particularly proud of their achievements during the past year or so and think they could pass some views directly on to the committee on what helps to make a good band we should be delighted to hear from them. Would the tower secretaries please write to Mr. Norman Chad-dock, 17, Herringthorpe Grove, Broom, Rotherham, Yorks.—Yours, etc.,

PHILIP GRAY.

Stoke Bishop, Bristol.

LITTLE HEATH BELLS

Dear Sir,—In reply to J. E. G. Roast, the church was built in 1862 on a private estate by an ex-Army major and his sister, and the bells were installed in 1863.

The latter were removed in 1931 and went to the Whitechapel Foundry and the church was pulled down. The church used to stand at the top of Crooked Billet Road and Eastern Avenue.

The peal to which he refers is in my late Uncle Alfred's peal book. I know of no reason why the Essex Association should not have accepted the peal, as all the band were members, and also founder members, of the Association.

Benjamin Keeble, uncle of the late William Keeble, was the tutor engaged to train a band. If any further information is required by Mr. Roast I shall be glad to supply it if he cares to write to me.—Yours faithfully,

E. W. PYE.

Saffron Walden.

Dear Sir,—I was very interested in Mr. Roast's letter regarding Little Heath Church and bells. The late Mr. George Jaye related to me some years ago that the church was demolished to make way for the new arterial road.

The ring of five, which, I believe, was between five and six cwt., was sold to a scrap merchant for the sum of £40.

Incidentally, the Pye brothers were taught to ring at this church.—Yours sincerely,

F. BLATCH.

ANOTHER SUFFOLK SIX SAVED

Dear Sir,—Not many ringers know of the bells of Burgate, Suffolk. The lovely little Church of St. Mary-the-Virgin, famous for its monumental brasses and many other treasures, stands in a lonely country lane in the Waveney Valley about six miles from Diss. The tall tower contains a ring of five 17th century bells, rehung last century. These bells were rung fairly regularly until about 1928 and since then have been regarded as unringable.

My first visit to the church was in the autumn of 1957, when I found the bells in a state of neglect, with twigs obstructing the sliders and only two very poor ropes. Later in the year, with Mr. C. Alden and his band from Starston, we fitted ropes, liberally applied castor oil to the bearings and, after tightening some loose bolts, raised the bells singly. We found that they went fairly well with the exception of the treble, whose sally appeared to have a will of its own and a decided aversion to being caught! On pulling off in rounds we were surprised by the sweet tone of the bells, the tenor being a mellow 9 cwt. in A flat. Having tamed the treble, several good 120's of Bob Doubles were rung, despite a continuous shower of twigs, feathers and dust. One disadvantage of the airy ringers' gallery is the proximity of the church organ, which rendered the bells inaudible during the last 120 before service. After the service we were congratulated and thanked by the Vicar and some of the congregation, who appeared to be pleased to hear the bells again after their long silence.

We revisited the tower in January, 1958, and rang a good quarter by flickering candlelight from a small chandelier. Again the treble bell gave difficulty, but was successfully piloted through. That same afternoon we rang on the unusual six at Thrandeston (middle six of an eight) for the first time since the completion of repairs to the tower.

Our last visit to Burgate was at the Vicar's invitation, when we rang a good quarter for Evensong, which was attended by the Bishop of St. Edmundsbury and Ipswich, who afterwards thanked the ringers and said how pleased he was to hear the bells.

We had hoped to ring a full peal to break the 30-years' peal silence but were not successful. It is to be hoped that this merry little five will not be left for another 30 years to join again the ranks of the many unringable towers in East Anglia.—Yours faithfully,

PAUL D. T. CATTERMOLE.

WINCHESTER AND PORTSMOUTH GUILD

Dear Sir,—The fees (6d. per ringer) for a considerable number of peals rung for the above Guild and published in the columns of 'The Ringing World' have not been paid. If these fees are not paid, the peals in question may not be recognised by the Guild or published in the next triennial report.

Will the conductors concerned please let me have the cash as soon as possible?—Yours truly,

D. T. MATKIN.

LETTERS—Continued

ST. MARTIN'S, GOSPEL OAK

Dear Sir.—There has been some correspondence and news items in your columns recently regarding the above church—not all of it quite in accordance with actual fact—but I have been reluctant to use your valuable columns to discuss what is really a domestic matter and have preferred to talk with the persons concerned. However, the latest effusion—from Mr. Frederick R. Scott—is, to say the least, absurd, particularly when he himself talks about 'misrepresentation of the truth and nothing less than libellous.' His entirely erroneous remarks regarding 'Mr. E. J. Rowe and his ringers' forces me to write this letter.

My association with St. Martin's began soon after the end of the war, when inquiry to the Vicar revealed that the bells of St. Martin's, St. Anne's (Highgate) and St. Stephen's (Hampstead) were rung, on a rota system, only occasionally, due to a mere handful of ringers keeping the bells going. In order to meet the Vicar's wish that they could be rung more often, a local band was formed and the bells were rung regularly every Sunday morning and alternate Sunday evenings: at first, call changes, then Grand sire, Plain Bob and eventually, Kent. Little Bob, Stedman and Double Court, and each practice night became a little more ambitious, as indeed it should always be. Thanks to the kindness of the St. Stephen's, Hampstead, church authorities, some old bell-ropes from there were sent to St. Martin's to replace the much-spliced and worn ropes that they had.

Two meetings were also held, one by the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths and one by the Middlesex County Association. At the former meeting a memorial tablet to former members of the local band was unveiled, including such well-known names as George Newson, Arthur Jacobs, Frank Smith, R. Bevan, J. Hannington, E. Bonfield—known far beyond the parish boundary. The Vicar (the Rev. Mr. Robinson) was very pleased to welcome both organisations to the church and was intrigued at a course of London on handbells rung by the Mayne family. The University of London Society also joined in a practice night and many of them helped out on Sunday, for which the local band were very grateful. Of that band were T. Bevan, the late Geoffrey Carter, Frank Knight and E. J. Rowe, some of whom later left the district, including Mr. Rowe.

When a new Vicar was inducted, he admitted that he didn't care much for bells, but wished for them to be rung on Sundays, albeit banning practice. (Other church organisations were also disrupted, but that has no place here.) This didn't work out very well so we held a vestry meeting about holding a practice. But the Vicar was adamant and then added that he didn't care for the bells being rung by non-churchgoers, a statement I immediately challenged, pointing out that there were always five or six, at least, of us at Matins. He shifted his ground a little then and said that was what he had been told, upon which I suggested that he ought to have been able to see for himself, even though I might not be noticeable in a crowd. Not a diplomatic remark on my part, I agree, and it completed the breach. Ringing had fallen off considerably and the remaining members of the band were not very happy about continuing.

Mr. Rowe, like myself, was not in charge of the band and furthermore, since he was then in Shropshire, was not able to be (as Mr. Scott states) 'so rude to the Vicar that he was glad to see the back of him and his ringers.' Mr. Rowe and I often agree to differ (though without rancour!) but I feel I must defend him against such an unjustified attack from one who, so far as I am aware, has never visited St. Martin's.

When Mr. Rowe returned to London he went to live at Stamford Hill and is now in charge of the belfry there, and his relationship with the Vicar there is all that one could wish for. There were no ringers and the belfry was in a shocking state, but with some willing helpers and much hard work the place was cleaned up and a local band formed from scratch. The belfry is a picture and the ringing of a very high standard. The six, by the local band's efforts, have been augmented to a delightful octave and are rung twice every Sunday.

When comparing this with, to say the least, unfortunate episode at Bow, I would ask Mr. Scott 'Which is the greater achievement to both the Church and the Exercise?'

To return to St. Martin's, Gospel Oak. I saw the incumbent some time ago in connection with the Central Council questionnaire and he informed me that a wheel was broken and a Dr. Neill-Smith was getting it repaired. He was not very forthcoming when I asked him how it had got broken since it could hardly have been due to fair wear and tear, and he refuted my suggestion that, next to the organ, the bells were the church's most valuable capital and should be looked after better.

I was much interested later to read Dr. Neill-Smith's account in 'The Ringing World' of the hard work put in by the 'local band,' and when I saw him at a meeting at Shore-ditch I queried him about it. It transpired that it was mostly cleaning and tightening up that one would expect from disuse, and some of us would hardly think it worth while to mention it. However, more power to their elbow if a local band has been formed, and I trust it will be more successful than the former one. So far, I believe, no Sunday ringing has been attempted, ringing having been on one evening and a Saturday afternoon.—Yours sincerely,

ARTHUR W. J. BUTLER.

WITHDRAWAL ASKED FOR

Dear Sir.—I have not had the privilege of speaking to or even meeting the Vicar of Gospel Oak: I can, therefore, hardly be accused of being rude to him.

Might I ask Mr. Scott, please, to withdraw this remark: secondly, to be man enough to apologise: thirdly, to cease commenting on a subject of which he knows nothing.—Sincerely yours,

ERNEST J. ROWE.

RINGING THE CHANGES IN KENT

Dear Sir.—I am glad to see that Bethersden ringers have at last got together again for Sunday service ringing (page 795), but I was sorry to read that Mr. Ring had to cast a cloud over his neighbours at not being able to handle their bells. This looks like a reference to our band, as one nearby tower's bells are at the foundry and the other towers have more or less method ringers. Our residents don't mind whether the ringing is method or call-changes.

PEAL OF SPLICED SURPRISE

Dear Sir.—The note at the bottom of page 58 of the 'Collection of Compositions in the Popular Major Methods' published by the Peals Collection Committee of the Central Council, which states: 'Any composition of Superlative which does not reverse the bells in 56 at a course-end may be rung as Spliced Superlative and Cambridge by ringing all full courses CSCXCSC and all short courses CSSC' is apparently not true.

Using this as a guide I called a peal of Cambridge and Superlative at Hugglescote on April 23rd, 1958, using a 5.088 by Gabriel Lindoff (page 25 of No. 7 of the above Collection). Recently it has been discovered that this arrangement was false.

I should be interested in the comments of the Peals Collection Committee and the Peals Analysis Committee in view of the fact that a false statement has been published officially, and also what action they propose to take concerning the peal rung at Hugglescote.

I append the actual calling of the peal in question:—

SPLICED SURPRISE MAJOR

A Correction

Dear Sir.—Would you kindly allow me to correct the reports of a peal of Spliced Surprise Major rung at Erith on October 3rd, 1958, and a similar peal at Sevenoaks on November 29th, 1958. In both cases the details of the methods should be '1,312 each Bristol and Superlative, 1,280 London and 1,248 Cambridge with 112 changes of method and all the work for each bell,' and not as published. The difference is brought about by the arrangement of the optional leads of Cambridge and Superlative. We had 41 leads of Superlative and 39 leads of Cambridge instead of 40 of each, as was intended. The truth of Mr. Pitman's composition was not, of course, in any way affected.

With apologies for any inconvenience.—Yours truly, but they do know what good striking is, and that is our aim.

If Mr. Ring had been in his tower for service ringing he would not have been troubled by neighbours' bad ringing: he might even have dropped in on that tower and lent a hand and shown how it should be done. On practice nights when we have learners in, we have to go home thirsty as we dare not go to the local for our pint or we soon hear about the bad ringing.—Yours faithfully,
REG. PELLETI.

THE BARNSELEY & DISTRICT SOCIETY 1909-1959

By H. CHANT

252 DIFFERENT METHODS

In 1929 the Felkirk company rang 252 720's, in which every method was different. One of the 720's was Plain Bob, the remainder being on the Treble Bob principle. Only three of that company are at present in circulation, but Dan Smith, since his illness, seldom rings, and the other two are reduced to ringing in 12-bell towers where, since the number of ropes is augmented, the interest in pulling them is proportionately diminished.

No mention of Felkirk's progress would be complete without paying tribute to Mr. Frank Atkinson, who frequently came over from Wragby when the band were struggling to learn Plain Bob after the rehanging of the bells in 1924, and gave much time and assistance to them.

Frank is a walking 'Doves' and it is difficult to mention any ring of bells without receiving information as to when and where the individual bells were cast, the weight of the tenor, the key and odd scraps of knowledge concerning the size, the 'go', the quality of the sound, when they were rehung and why, and when the frame was last painted or treated!

He was one of the early members of the Society but unfortunately (for the Barnsley and District Society) now rings at York Minster. I remember as a boy gazing in awe at a man who said he could ring upwards of 20 Minor methods.

In 1930 Mr. C. D. Potter resigned from the secretaryship, chiefly on the grounds of indifferent health, and was promptly made a vice-president for life! Mr. Arthur Panther was elected secretary in his place, a position he occupied until 1937, when he found the duties too onerous. I was elected to fill the vacant position of treasurer and have remained in that office ever since.

About this time, owing chiefly to the joint influence of the Wath and Felkirk bands, method ringing was at its peak and the following extract from the minutes of a meeting held at South Kirkby in the middle of 1930 will illustrate the variety enjoyed at a typical monthly meeting:—

'Further ringing followed, touches being brought round in Violet, Oxford, Duke of York, Spiced Oxford and Kent, London Surprise, Wells Surprise, Southwark, London Scholars and Plain Bob, good striking being enjoyed throughout.' (And when A. P. said 'good striking' he meant exactly that.)

10,800 SURPRISE MINOR

On January 1st, 1931, a team consisting of Albert Nash (conducting), three members from Wath, one from Felkirk and Colin Ryder, of Rotherham, on the treble, rang 10,800 of Surprise Minor in 15 different (regular) methods in 6 hours and 10 minutes on the front six at Rotherham. Albert Nash always considered this as one of his greatest achievements, and declared it more difficult than much of the 'spliced stuff' that we afterwards dabbled about in.

The peal still remains, I believe, the longest length of Surprise Minor ever rung and was, in fact, the longest length on any number of bells rung in Yorkshire between the two wars. There was no doubt that it would never have been rung had the Barnsley and District Society not existed.

The officials in 1931 were the same as in the preceding year, but in 1932 Mr. R. J. Ricketts, of Wath, took the place of Mr. A. Nash as president. In 1933, however, Mr. C. D. Potter returned to harness again and became president, a position he retained until his death in 1939.

Joint meetings with neighbouring Societies, particularly the Southern District of the Yorkshire Association, the Sheffield and District and, less frequently, the Doncaster and District, have long been a happy feature of the programme of meetings, but in July, 1932, a joint meeting was held at Barnsley with the full Yorkshire Association and the Barnsley and District taking part. All the principal officials of the Yorkshire Association were present together with the Bishop of Pontefract and the many clergy ringers and friends.

A ringer who deserves special mention, as he was a regular attender for many years, is George Lewis. This very gifted finger and composer always showed great interest in the Society, for which he judged several contests, including the one and only contest (held at Hoylandswaine) where 'rise' and 'fall' were included as part of the test piece. He was always ready to explain the theoretical side of ringing to anyone sufficiently interested, and I, personally, derived great benefit from him as he taught me the elements of proof and composition. It was always a sore point with him that several of his Bob Major compositions turned out to be false, and I can still hear the tone of his voice as he impressed upon my youthful mind that I must 'always enter the "Befores" in the "Wrong" column.'

My last visual recollection of him is of sitting down with tears streaming down his face as the rest of the meeting stood in silence to the memory of his great friend, Mr. Arthur Knights.

The officials did not change again until 1937 when, on grounds of ill health, Mr. Arthur Panther relinquished the office of secretary. The Society made a presentation to both Messrs. Potter and Panther in September of that year in recognition of the valuable service they had rendered. Each received a walnut clock, complete with Westminster chimes!

It should be mentioned that on December 26th, 1935, a band under the leadership of Mr. Dan Smith set out to ring 18,000 of Treble Bob Minor at Hoylandswaine, but had to abandon the attempt in the sixth 720 owing to a broken clapper. I have no doubt that had it remained intact the peal would have been scored. In order to console themselves they went on to Penistone and rang 7,200. As so often happens in such cases, the band got broken up by illnesses and no further attempt was arranged.

The person who stepped into Mr. Arthur Panther's shoes was indeed a man and a half!

MR. DANIEL SMITH

Although once described in 'The Ringing World' as a 'talented Yorkshireman,' Mr. Daniel Smith was born in Gloucestershire, and after settling in Yorkshire started ringing at Felkirk in the mid-1920's. He progressed quickly, and after 1929 conducted many peals, most of them Treble Bob Minor. He headed the list of conductors or peal-scorers for the Yorkshire Association several times, and appeared in the list of a series of 'Great Conductors' published in 'The Ringing World' some years ago.

His character and sterling qualities have made him friends throughout Yorkshire and beyond its borders. There is little doubt that he has done more for the Barnsley and District Society than any other member. It is entirely due to his influence and enthusiasm that the Society can boast that it never missed a monthly meeting during the whole of the war years. Bans on bells, blackouts and bombs, come what might, arrangements were made and ringers met.

We look forward to the time when his name will appear once more in the peal columns.

The officials remained unchanged during 1938 and 1939.

In 1939 Mr. Potter managed, after some difficulty, to secure for the Society a jug which had, according to the minutes, 'got into wrong ownership.' This capacious vessel has inscribed upon it details of a peal rung at Barnsley in 1879. Apart from its historical interest the jug was of great practical value during certain gatherings which members of the Society held at the Royal Hotel. At these gatherings Arthur Gill used to regard himself as custodian of the jug although the cost of replenishing it was frequently borne by Mr. Potter and, later, by his son.

The only safeguard against inebriation on these occasions was to maintain a full glass in front of one, as a partially empty one was anathema to Arthur Gill.

The jug is now safely housed in Cawthorne Museum.

When C. D. Potter died, in 1939, his place as president was taken by Mr. Ernest Brookes, of Hoylandswaine. With the outbreak of war and the subsequent ban on church bell ringing, attention was focused on handbell ringing. A team which rang quite a few peals was formed at Felkirk, where Mr. Dan Smith took up handbells for the first time with much success. In his enthusiasm he arranged a handbell contest at Barnsley in January, 1941, and although only two teams participated, great interest was shown. For the next four years there was no change in the officials although when I joined the Forces, in late 1942, Dan, in addition to being secretary, was also acting treasurer until my return, in 1946.

Mr. Arthur Panther died in August, 1941, and in recording a handbell peal in his memory, Mr. Arthur Gill rang his first peal 'in hand.' It was also his last, for he died suddenly in April, 1942. Mr. Albert Nash, who rang in the handbell peal to his memory, died in August of the same year.

A SINISTER SEQUENCE

Seeing that Mr. Arthur Panther's last peal had been in memory of Mr. C. D. Potter, a rather sinister sequence of events was brought to light: the last peal of each of these four friends had been in memory of the other! In due course a peal was arranged at Felkirk ('in hand,' as the tower bells were still silent), in memory of Mr. Albert Nash.

After I had called 'That's all' and the handbells had been placed on the belfry floor, there was a deathly hush, which was broken by one of the band, who shall be nameless, by the words spoken in sepulchral tones: 'Well, I suppose one of us has got to go!'

We quickly arranged and rang another handbell peal!

Mr. C. W. Woolley, who was stationed at Wakefield from 1942 to 1945, was a welcome addition to the meetings, on hand- and (later) on tower bells during this period.

In 1943 the Society undertook to examine and give advice on the handbells of all towers within its radius, and incumbents and steeple-keepers were approached in order to save handbells that might otherwise be lost through neglect or ignorance. Some good was done at a few towers, but as a result of inquiries in Barnsley itself a complete box of handbells, 108 in all, was unearthed in the lumber room of a public house. In due course these were acquired by the Society from an organisation to whom they were of no use, preferring, as they did, containers with handles at the side. The handbells were later sorted into sets and loaned to various towers of the Society.

PIRBRIGHT, SURREY.—On Dec. 26th, 1,260 Plain Bob and Grandisle Double: Miss P. Drury 1, Miss H. Pugh 2, Miss B. Loveland 3, F. Cherrymann 4, J. Martin (cond.) 5, B. Priestley 6.

THE INVASION OF LEICESTERSHIRE

The attack began on Boxing Day when four 'Brummies' arrived in Leicester for a peal at All Saints'. We were joined by 'Jim' (pronounced in a Staffordshire accent, please!) and Jean Addicott, who had come from Leamington to spend the day with us. That made us six. Well, we gave the 'Sheiks of Sheffield' an hour and then, with the help of David Darby and Alan Cattell (captain of All Saints'), began ringing, only to break down after 25 minutes. By now, however, the 'terrible twins' had arrived with a tale of woe concerning the Rotherham peal, and when David and Alan had bidden a generous farewell we scored a good peal of Cambridge on the pleasant little eight. Thus in this spotlessly clean ringing room we made a good beginning.

Success continued into Saturday, when we first haunted the bell foundry. Here Diana Perrins joined us for a peal of Rutland at a good 'slow and stately' pace. Then, in the afternoon we were welcomed to Sileby by two local ladies who proudly showed us their splendidly restored church, and by one of the local ringers. Ian is to be congratulated here on conducting his first 'spliced' and bringing it safely round in spite of the floating middle bells! And John, too, did a very good afternoon's work on the 22 cwt. tenor.

After sandwiches 'across the road' we met Jill Fisher off the Birmingham train at Leicester, and, after more food, we returned to our headquarters, the Park Hotel, to finish the day in Paul's room—'honestly, mother, there were chairs all over the place, stacks of them'—with the inevitable belfry gossip, better known as 'ruining reputations.'

On Sunday morning some of us joined in ringing at St. Margaret's with Mr. Ernest Morris before making our way to Prestwold for a peal of New Cambridge, which turned out to be 'a right rubbishy do.' While Diana slept in the car we began ringing in candle-light, the church having no other form of lighting. But the candles on the floor burnt out after an hour, and ringing by three-candle-power seemed to affect concentration, so the writing was on the wall! And the treble rope broke as we rang down, so we should have lost it anyway! We thus left Prestwold with its handy and little-used eight for evening ringing on the very lovely ten of Loughborough Parish Church.

And then it was all over; and with three peals out of four we began our different homeward journeys. We appreciate not only the welcome that was given to us in the towers which we visited, but we also thank David for the free rides in his car, and very specially we thank John for arranging the week-end.

HERTFORDSHIRE ASSOCIATION

Northern District

During the afternoon of Saturday, January 3rd, the bells of St. Mary's, Hitchin, were ringing for the annual District meeting, which was fairly well attended. The Rev. G. Walsh conducted the short service; tea and the business meeting followed at the Town Hall.

The District secretary reported that there was a drop of 20 members on last year's figures, but the increase in subscriptions meant that the total was little different. The number of peals rung in the District was better in

Strange Goings-On (This is absolutely the truth!)

The ringers at Knowle, Warwickshire, have been honoured recently by the visit of an unusual sort of visitor. He, or maybe she, is—a ghost!

Several times in the last few months the ringers have sworn that they heard footsteps approaching up the spiral staircase, one of the steepest and narrowest in the county.

After a while, when it seems the footsteps are getting no nearer, curiosity always compels the ringers to open the door to investigate, only to be met with a mocking silence.

But the ringers are not the least bit disturbed, for the ghost has often been heard and is freely referred to as 'our ghost.' The tower-keeper, Mr. Little-Bertie Jones (so called to distinguish him from Mr. Big-Bert Nix, the Ringing Master) has appointed the ghost as his honorary deputy tower-keeper!

Unfortunately there is no known way in which to invite the ghost to ring a short 'touch'; but then, whoever heard of a ghost ringing a bell, eh? A. A. U.

1958, even than in Coronation Year, 29 having been rung. Among these were several peals of Spliced Surprise Major. Mr. R. Castledine had conducted the most. Only 24 quarter peals were rung, of which 14 were rung at Great Wymondley. Others may have been rung but have not been published.

Mr. F. Plummer was nominated as county treasurer as the present treasurer, Mr. G. Debenham, wishes to resign. The Western District is believed to be in favour of Mr. Plummer as the next treasurer.

The local elections were as follows:—District secretary, Mr. E. G. Buck (Baldock): 'The Ringing World' and Press representative, Miss J. Sanderson (Norton); general committee, Mr. B. Scoot (Baldock) and Mr. M. Orme (Hitchin); District committee, Mr. R. Agg, Mr. W. Brown, Miss J. Heathfield, Mr. B. Marks and Miss J. Sanderson. One new member was elected, Mr. Ronald Richardson, of Knebworth.

Two important resolutions were before the members. The cost of the annual report has risen alarmingly, and as the Association has commitments other than the printing of the annual report, it should restrict the expenditure on the report to not more than two-thirds of the previous year's total annual subscriptions. This was agreed.

The second resolution was: 'It is proposed to launch a fund to assist in the provision of ten bells in North Hertfordshire.' The Northern District is without a 10-bell tower, and unless some distance is travelled—to Hatfield, Bedford or Cambridge—there is no opportunity to gain experience on higher numbers of bells. With money in the fund it would be possible to encourage the provision of two or more bells. A committee was set up to examine the matter further. J. S.

House Parties and Tours

201, Victoria Street, London, S.W.1

THERE are several different kinds of Pathfinder holiday, catering for all ages and most tastes. While Mother and Father take the children to one of our family house-parties, for instance, teen-age Jean and John may prefer to make for the Continent with one of our special low-cost youth parties. Why not find out more about the Pathfinder fellowship and the wonderful values it offers to members of all denominations? For a free copy of our 32-page 1959 brochure, just post the coupon.

In Great Britain

We've house-parties at Ambleside (The Lakes), Portballinroe (Co. Antrim), Shanklin (Isle of Wight), London (international centre), Edinburgh, Pitlochry and Mamhead Park, the South Devon stately home. Fees from 5 gns. (old-age pensioners, 4 gns.). For under-30's there's a special centre in Somerset, also canoeing on the River Wye.

On the Continent

Scores of parties will be leaving for Austria (weekly), Switzerland, French Riviera, Paris, Spain, Italy, Belgium, Holland, Norway, Denmark, Germany. Some by air, some by sea, all at prices that represent first-class value. With Pathfinder you can count on congenial company, though you are always free to go your own way.

LISTENING ON THE CONTINENT

F'ANCY going abroad for your holiday,' they said, 'you ought to know better than to waste your time like that. You won't find any bells there!' I knew 'they' were wrong, but it was no use arguing. However, I decided to do what I had not done previously and make a list of the bells I heard.

My friends and I heard our first bell as the boat neared Ostend. It was fastened to a buoy and gave out a rather mournful note as the buoy pitched and tossed in the turbulent sea. The second bell belonged to an Ostend train and had a sharp warning 'ping' for its voice.

Bruges, for us, was an enchanted city, a compound of wonderful old buildings, art treasures and canals. Its crowning glory was the collection of bells in the tall old belfry. We arrived there in the late afternoon and were greeted by the melodious music of the bells, which ring out every quarter of an hour. Only after dusk are the bells silent. Then many of the buildings are floodlit and the canals come into their own, for many people go out on them in small boats to see the sights.

The belfry is a very high brick building. One morning we climbed to the wind-swept gallery at the top. We were told there were 360 steps. They seemed more like 3,000, but it was well worth the effort as we had an extensive view over the flat countryside and the red roofs of Bruges clustered below us. The bells were hanging just above our heads, and were very loud when they chimed.

As we were descending the stairs we met the man who attends to the mechanism of the clock and carillon, and he showed and explained these to us. It seems they were made in 1748 by Antonious de Hondt. There are 47 bells and 108 hammers. Except when a recital is given the bells are played mechanically. To do this there is a large drum weighing 20,000 lb. In it there are 30,500 holes in which metal pegs are arranged. As the drum revolves, levers controlling the hammers catch on the pegs and cause the bells to chime. We heard a little Flemish tune at the quarter hour, a French tune at the half hour, a Dutch one at the three-quarters and music from 'Carmen' on the hour. These tunes are changed every two years. The carillon keyboard was in the room above the drum. It was rather like an organ, with foot pedals and rows of pegs instead of keys. I tried striking several of the bells and found the mechanism to move very easily. The foot pedals controlled the large bells and the 'hand pegs' the small ones. One evening we heard a recital on the carillon given by a very skilled young man whose name, I think, was Uten. He finished with 'Auld Lang Syne.'

We left Bruges to the sound of the bells and made our way to Ghent, where we found another belfry containing a carillon with 56 bells. We heard these playing, but their notes were rather soft and apt to be lost in the noise of the traffic. We heard several church bells in Aachen tolling for early services. One was very deep toned and drowned the others with its sonorous note. The bells of Frechen were chiming the hour as we went through. One sounded like a dustbin and the other might have been the lid. I pressed the accelerator hard and hurried on to Cologne. There was a little church near Cologne Cathedral which had been almost completely destroyed. Only a little of the mediæval tower remained to show its former beauty. The rest of the tower had been rebuilt in ugly brickwork and a chime of bells was housed beneath a canopy at the top. They played a gay tune for us. Cologne Cathedral is a magnificent building, but we did not hear any bells while we were inspecting it.

From Cologne we went up the Rhine to Mainz, visiting Worms on the way, where we heard clock bells. By now we were beginning to lose count of the number we had heard. The church bells rang for us in Heidelberg, and these were mostly of a very pleasing tone. In contrast, however, there was a bell on one of the river steamers with a very raucous note. From Heidelberg to Bregenz we heard innumerable bells ringing in various church towers. In Austria we heard our first cow bells: 'Klunk, klank, klonk' they went intermittently as the animals moved. Over the frontier in Switzerland we heard our first goat bells. They were made similar to the cow bells but on a smaller scale, and gave out a lighter and higher-pitched note.

The church in the little village where we stayed had some very sweet-toned bells. These echoed across the mountains as they marked the passing hours. Goat and cow bells were heard at all hours, even after dark. Once, when a herd of about 50 cows was being moved down the mountain to new pastures, the sound of their bells was like several musical boxes being played at once.

We continued to hear bells of many types, some pleasant, some poor in quality, all the way across Europe on our return journey. None could compare with the majesty of Bruges, though those in the university library at Louvain left pleasant memories.

We travelled overnight from Ostend, and were clear of the customs in Dover by about 5.45. At that hour the bells were silent. We had breakfast in Dorking—again without hearing a bell. In fact, we did not hear any bells on the road home. I showed my friends my list of bells. 'Huh!', they said, 'you don't call those things bells! You can't ring them!'

It was congratulations to the Sussex veteran, Henry Stalham, after the peal of Stedman Caters in his own tower, St. Nicholas', Brighton, on January 3rd. The Rev. F. E. Walker (Vicar) was to be seen shaking 'Old Harry' by the hand immediately 'Stand' was called, a fitting gesture on the memorable occasion of the Vicar's 25th wedding anniversary. Arrangements are now well in hand for Henry Stalham's 87th birthday peal on March 17th—it must be Double Norwich.

Bradford youngsters (oldest 14) with 'Pop' Schofield ringing the treble, excelled themselves with a quarter of Minor on the Cathedral bells on January 6th.

In calling a date touch of 1,959 Doubles, Mr. R. Dowdeswell, of Prastbury, exceeded his previous longest ring on, January 1st, 1958, by one change.

Mr. E. W. Rowe has rung in 116 quarter peals at St. Ann's, Stamford Hill, London. He adds as a postscript, 'The Vicar is still my friend and most certainly would not be glad to see my back.'

The annual meeting of the Northern Branch of the Norwich Diocesan Association coincided with 'the Canaries' defeat of Manchester United in the F.A. Cup. The ringing of St. Peter Mancroft bells in the evening was regarded by some national Sunday newspapers as a sign of rejoicing by the local football fans.

Farnham ringers will be interested to learn that Mr. James Hasted is ringing again after many years. On the same night, 41 years ago, the late Mr. Richard Hasted, then a police inspector at Havant, gave the first lesson in ringing to him and three others—Messrs. H. Marshall, of Havant, F. Penn, now at Westbury, Wilts, and E. Hedger, of Alton, Hants.

BELFRY

GOSSIP

The peal of Stedman Doubles rung at Cranham, Glos, by members of the St. Mary's, Cheltenham, Sunday service band, enabled all five 'inside' ringers to complete the Stedman family from Doubles to Cinques. It must be unique for a complete 'inside' band to do this together.

Fellow students at London University of Miss M. H. Wright will note that she rang her first peal on vacation at Oldham.

Home on leave from Germany, Mr. Kenneth W. Price managed to snatch a quarter peal at St. Werburgh's, Bristol, on January 11th.

Mr. Peter N. Bond was elected Master of the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths at the annual meeting last Saturday.

The Ladies' Guild have changed the venue and date of their annual meeting from Liverpool in July to Southport on May 16th, to coincide with the Central Council meeting.

After a lapse of 31 years, Mr. W. Little took part in a peal of Stedman Caters at St. Albans Cathedral on New Year's Day to mark the 75th anniversary of the Cathedral Society of Change Ringers.

For upwards of 11 years since her first peal Mrs. J. R. Smith, now living in Norfolk, has never missed seeing her name in the peal columns at least once a year. In 1958 she only just made it by ringing her first handbell peal of Minor at New Buckenham with three hours to spare.

For the wedding of Mr. J. Tomsett, who has been associated with St. Mary's, Wimbledon, for over 30 years, to Miss M. Baker on January 8th, friends from Streatham assisted in ringing for the service. Unfortunately a quarter peal of Stedman Triples was lost later in the day, but this was rectified the following Sunday, as our quarter peal columns show.

OUR CHRISTMAS QUIZ

The quiz proved to be very difficult and there was no conspicuous entry. The best attempt was by Mr. Henry Allen, of 3, Russell's Terrace, Leamington Spa, Warwickshire, who is awarded a book token. To be commended are the attempts of J. R. Hagh, The Vicarage, Priory Gardens, Folkestone, and Miss Daphne Lester, Fretton Court, 9, Laton Road, Hastings.

THE ANSWERS

1. They were tailors, as, with funeral tolling 'nine tailors (tellers) make a man,' therefore the Queen addressed the 18 tailors as two men!

2. The 'Abbey Bell,' the fifth at St. Peter's, Chertsey, is said to have been the curfew bell concerned.

3. It was desired that the initial letters of the texts on the 13 bells of the ring should spell the name of the donor, Thomas Bartlett, but as there were 14 letters in his name one bell had to carry two texts: the treble was chosen. The Bourdon could not be included as it was not part of the gift.

4. At Lloyd's, of London, where one stroke on the 'Lutine Bell' means that a ship insured there is overdue and considered lost, whilst two strokes mean that one considered lost has reached port safely.

5. Midnight on December 31st, when the ship's bell is struck eight bells for the old year and eight for the new.

6. Mattathias, in Irving's favourite melodrama, 'The Bells.'

7. The bells of Waltham Abbey are believed to be those that inspired Tennyson.

8. At the Collegiate Church of St. Peter, otherwise Westminster Abbey.

9. Paul Revere, as described in Longfellow's poem.

10. The former ring, by Byrne, of Dublin, at St. Francis', Holbeck, Leeds.

11. The famous Liberty Bell at Philadelphia, in a petition for its removal.

12. A dabchick was the mark of William and Robert Cor (c. 1700), two of the earliest English handbell makers and bell-founders, so he may have been looking at a handbell or tower bell cast by them at Aldbourne.

13. At St. Michael's, Charleston, South Carolina, U.S.A.

14. At St. Mary's, Anstey, Leics.

15. At the Abbey Church, Pershore, Worcs, the ringing 'raft' is 73 feet from the floor!

16. HOLINESS UNTO THE LORD, on horse bells. (Zechariah xiv., 20.)

17. No, because each of the bells was not 'rung throughout by the same ringer or ringers.' You may remember that the vicar relieved everyone, except Hezekiah Lavender, in turn.

18. Before 1846 a bell that had caused the death of a person would be condemned as a 'deodand' and forfeit to the Crown, and could not then be rung.

19. The Bourdon Bell, 'St. Dunstan,' at Canterbury Cathedral.

20. St. Michael's, Leafeld, Oxon. The royal forest of Wyckwood was situated within the parish.

SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Western Division

A very successful practice meeting was held at Goring-by-Sea on January 10th, about 36 members attending. The Vicar (the Rev. Peter Bide, M.A.), welcomed the ringers. Ringing in various methods was rung until tea, at which the Vicar presided. A short service followed. Arrangements were made by the local captain, Mr. S. F. Haffenden, assisted at tea by Miss Haffenden, Miss Baker and Mrs. Lish. Ringing concluded at 8 o'clock and all expressed their thanks to those concerned.

LEISTON'S RECORD PEAL OF 70 YEARS AGO

Of the band of eight young men with an average age of 21, who on Saturday, April 21st, 1888, rang at Leiston the longest length in the Eastern Counties—10,304 Plain Bob Major, in 6 hours 17 minutes—there is today only one survivor, Mr. Richard Stannard, of Barking.

The peal remained the longest length on the bells until 1909, when it was superseded by a peal of 11,040 Double Norwich Court Bob Major. The peal is recorded on a tablet in Leiston belfry, erected by the parishioners, which gives the names of the band as follows: James Motts (conductor) treble, William Button 2, Fredk. Wilson 3, Henry J. Button 4, William Motts 5, Albert J. Lincoln 6, Rich. W. Stannard 7, Fredk. Tillett tenor.

Two attempts for a 70th anniversary commemoration peal came to grief—on October 18th and December 27th—but despite these failures it is felt that the memory of the long peal will live for ever.

Mr. Stannard, who is 89, is now unable to ring owing to an accident two years ago. He learned to ring in 1883, when Leiston bells were augmented to eight, and rang a peal there in 1886. In 1887 he succeeded Gabriel Lindoff, the famous composer and conductor, as conductor. Mr. Stannard left for Ipswich in 1890, where he rang six peals at St. Mary-le-Tower. Another move, to Colchester, was made in the following year, and within one month he was elected Master of the company. While at Colchester he rang 132 peals. Later—in 1931—came a move to London and his joining the St. Margaret's, Westminster, company, to stay with them for 20 years, and ring for every opening of Parliament, royal birthdays, and the Queen's wedding and coronation.

Young Ringers' Appreciation

Awaiting the captain of Hanley Parish Church (Mr. Norman Sargeant) when he arrived at 6.15 a.m. on Christmas Day was a parcel with a note, 'To be opened in the presence of all the ringers.' This was duly observed, and to his delight it contained a comprehensive set of ringing books.

Unbeknown to him or Mr. F. E. Wilshaw, the keen young ringers of the tower had been subscribing for some time for this gift. They have already a few peals to their credit, including one in six methods. Their gift is much appreciated.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD

Fifty ringers and friends attended the annual meeting of the Devizes Branch held at St. John's Church, Devizes, on January 3rd. Visitors were present from Chippenham, Swindon, Rodbourne Cheney, Stratton St. Margaret, Blunsdon and Salisbury.

The Guild service was taken by the Rector (Rev. E. Dabbs). The business meeting was presided over by the chairman (Mr. A. Weeks). An appeal was made to members for better support to the monthly meetings, otherwise the Branch would have to try evening meetings.

The following officers were elected: Chairman, Mr. A. Weeks; vice-chairman, Mr. S. Grant; hon. secretary, Mr. E. Hitchings; Ringing Masters, Mr. P. Harding and Mr. S. Grant; hon. auditor, Mr. L. Hitchings. The next three meetings were arranged for Hilperston, Great Cheverell and North Bradley.

A collection was taken at the service for the Chirton Bell Fund. Votes of thanks were passed to the Rector for the use of the bells, and to the ladies for providing tea, the Rev. G. Edwards, curate at St. James', replying. Ringing to suit all ringers took place at the three towers.

DISTRACTIONS IN A KENT PEAL

The peal of Spliced at Shoreham, Kent, on January 3rd was Ralph Bird's 250th tower for a peal. Shoreham bells are not one of the better rings in Kent, but several of the band had not rung a peal there and were grateful for the Vicar's permission for the attempt. Unfortunately, the bells are not rung very often, and a certain amount of 'bell-hanging' was considered advisable.

Volunteers were redecorating the church and unfortunately the supply of distemper ran out during the peal. The churchwarden peeped round the door two or three times to spy out the land and ultimately summoned up the courage to dive amongst the ropes to the turret staircase door. He produced a keg of distemper from behind the door and proceeded to propel it milk churn fashion through the circle of ropes.

About an hour later some further item of painting equipment seemed to be required which involved another hands and knees expedition to the other side of the circle. Alas, the searcher seemed to go out empty-handed, so we are unable to record what he was looking for.

Towards the end of the peal 'Mrs. Mop' appeared to have designs on the bucket and mop at the far side of the tower. She peeped round the door two or three times, but ultimately discretion appeared to triumph over valour.

The ringers of the fourth and fifth did not appear to be wholly satisfied with their 'place in the sun,' but all's well that ends well.

THE ST. MARTIN'S GUILD

The annual meeting of the St. Martin's Guild for the Diocese of Birmingham was held on January 3rd in the new hall attached to St. Martin's Church. The chair was taken by the Master, Mr. Frank E. Haynes, who, before the commencement of the business, referred to the death of Mr. Albert T. Scrivens, who was an active member of the Guild for many years, until illness prevented him from ringing. A moment's silence was observed as a token or respect to his memory.

Mrs. F. E. Haynes, of Smethwick, Miss Judith Gwilt, of Shirley, and Mr. Norman Smith, of Yardley, were elected members, and the tower elections of Miss Mary Hall, of Bristol, and Mr. Brian J. Woodruffe, of Buxton, were duly ratified.

A loss of £8 on the Henry Johnson Dinner was disclosed upon the presentation of the balance sheet. The secretary reminded the members that a new peal book, at the cost of about £15, was required, and that this expense would have to be met in the next financial year.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

The vice-presidents of the Guild were re-elected en bloc, with the addition of the Rev. Canon F. F. Guy Warman (Vicar of Aston) and Mr. J. Frank Smallwood, in recognition of their interest in the Guild over many years.

Mr. F. E. Haynes, who had been Master for three years, agreed with the sentiment often expressed in the past that the office of Master was one which should go round, and proposed that Mr. Edgar C. Shepherd be invited to accept office for the ensuing year—a proposition which met with unanimous approval.

The remaining officers were re-elected, viz: Ringing Master, Mr. John Pinfold; trustees, Alderman Paddon Smith and Mr. Edgar C. Shepherd; auditors, Mr. Henry H. Fearn and Mr. Sidney O'C. Holloway; librarian, Mr. Edgar C. Shepherd; hon. secretary and treasurer, Mr. G. E. Fearn.

The meeting decided to invite Canon F. F. Guy Warman to occupy the chair at the Henry Johnson Commemoration Dinner, which will be held on March 7th.

NORWICH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION

The annual meeting of the Northern Branch was held at St. Giles', Norwich, on January 10th, when despite wintry conditions over 40 sat down to tea. Ringers from East Ham, Oxford and Leiston were welcomed. The service was taken by the Rev. Giles Galley, of Great Yarmouth, who also gave the address. The Vicar (Rev. Father D. A. Rae) played the organ, and the chairman (Mr. A. G. Bason) read the lesson.

At the business meeting which followed an excellent tea, the following were elected to hold office during 1959: Chairman, Mr. A. G. Bason; Ringing Master, Mr. J. R. Smith; hon. secretary, Mr. C. Bird; standing committee, Messrs. W. Clover and G. Sayer; Branch committee, Messrs. P. Adcock, H. F. Carter, J. W. Dowe, F. C. Goodman and D. Pardon.

Dates of meetings for 1959: April 18th (Wymondham), July 25th, October 17th, A.B.M. January 9th, 1960.

Members elected were: The Rev. Father D. A. Rae, Mrs. C. Goodman and Mrs. W. Love, honorary, all of Norwich; Miss J. Brearley, Miss C. Brunton, probationary; Miss A. Betts, Miss R. Kemp, Miss H. Webb and P. Pease, ringing members, all of Dereham; P. J. Sappwell and D. J. Sugden, of Aylsham.

The chairman thanked the Vicar and the Rev. G. Galley and Mrs. Golden, who with her willing helpers provided and served the tea. Before the service the bells of St. Giles' were rung to various methods, as were the bells of St. Peter Mancroft during the evening.

Subscription Reminder

A final reminder to postal subscribers whose subscriptions are now due. Post remittance at once to Mr. J. E. Jeater, Greystones, Cusgarne, Truro. Rates: 12 months £1 8s., six months 14s. 6d., three months 7s. 6d. New subscribers also welcome.

BARNSELY DISTRICT SOCIETY

Twelve towers were represented at the annual meeting of the Barnsley and District Society held at St. Mary's, Barnsley, on January 10th. Ringing preceded a short service conducted by Canon A. P. Morley, and an excellent tea was served in the Rectory.

As hon. president, Canon Morley presided at the business meeting, when satisfactory reports were presented by the hon. secretary and hon. treasurer. Officers re-elected were: Mr. Noel F. Moxon, president; Mr. H. Chant, treasurer; Mr. James W. Buxton, secretary; Messrs. H. Rusby and W. Womack, auditors. Loughborough Bell Foundry was suggested for the annual outing and the route will be decided at the next meeting (at Wentworth, on February 14th).

New members elected were: Ian Harrop, Margaret Maynard (Sandal), Geoffrey Barrow (Kirkburton), David Schofield (Tankersley). The vote of thanks for the meeting was proposed by Mr. W. F. Moreton, who especially mentioned the Rector, Mr. Eric Stainrod and the ladies. Mr. John W. Moxon thanked the secretary and officers for their work during the year. Good use was made of the bells in the ringing which followed.

WINCHESTER & PORTSMOUTH

The annual meeting of the Southampton District was held at Southampton on January 10th, when some 60 members attended, also visitors from Chichester, Salisbury and Nottingham. Ringing in various methods took place on the bells of St. Mary's and St. Michael's.

At the business meeting the Rev. K. W. H. Felstead, R.D., said that owing to increasing church duties he would be unable to continue as District chairman. He was thanked for carrying out this work for the past 16 years. Mr. R. Reed was elected District chairman, Mr. J. Hartless District secretary, Mr. R. Reed and Mr. R. Savory as Joint Ringing Masters, Mr. C. Kippin auditor, and Mr. D. Forder and Mr. T. Chapman as representatives.

It was decided to hold District meetings at Romsey, North Stoneham, Upham and Southampton and a special meeting in the autumn at Bitterne Park to coincide with the jubilee of the church. All will be duly advertised in 'The Ringing World.'

The secretary reported a good year with increased membership, balance in hand, attendance at meetings, and Sunday service ringing being well maintained in most of the District towers. G. P.

GUILD of DEVONSHIRE RINGERS

A quarterly meeting of the East Devon Branch was held at Feniton on January 10th and attended by about 30 ringers. The service was conducted by the Rev. E. H. Smith, and at the business meeting which followed Mr. G. C. Woodley took the chair. Certificates were presented by the president (Rev. Preb. E. V. Cox) to Miss Bindloss, Mr. N. Cornelius and Mr. F. Welsh, from Kilminster.

The bells were rung before the service at Feniton, and after at Buckerell. Methods included Plain Bob, Grandsire, Stedman and Erin Doubles, and Plain Bob, Kent Treble Bob and Cambridge Surprise Minor.

THE LADIES' GUILD Sussex District

The annual meeting of the Sussex District was held at St. John-the-Baptist's, Southover, Lewes, on January 10th. Over 30 members and friends were present from towers as far apart as Shoreham and Hastings. The accent was certainly on youth, and many of the young and enthusiastic Southover band were able to try new methods, while everyone enjoyed the unaccustomed ringing on ten bells. Methods rung included Grandsire and Stedman Triples and Caters. Plain Bob and Double Norwich.

The service, at which the Rector (Rev. D. G. Matthews) welcomed the ringers, was followed by an enjoyable tea, arranged by Mrs. Elphick. At the business meeting Mrs. Percy was re-elected as vice-president. Miss Lester secretary, and Miss Everest, Miss Eldridge, Mrs. Levett and Miss Apps committee members. Six new members were elected, making the total membership over 40. They were the Misses Janet Percy (Willington), Ann Lewis and L. Wilson (Southover), Ann Buncombe, Gillian Buncombe and Gillian Williams (Rotherfield). Ringing continued until nearly 8 o'clock. Our thanks are due to the Rector, the organist, and to the Elphick family for a most enjoyable meeting. D. F. L.

DURHAM AND NEWCASTLE ASSOCIATION

The experiment made last year with a social meeting at Chester-le-Street by two Districts went quite well, and was repeated this year as a full Association meeting on January 3rd.

Ringling was confined to the afternoon and included a small competition by teams drawn out of the hat. There were two teams in each section, where the test pieces were Grandsire Triples and rounds. A particularly encouraging feature of the latter section was youth, many of the ringers being teenagers. The judges, Messrs. K. Arthur and K. W. Cheeseman, commented very favourably on their efforts.

Tea was served buffet fashion in the Church Institute, and the recorded competitive efforts were played back during tea before the verdict was given. It was interesting to note that a show of hands before the verdict gave a good majority in favour of the judges' verdict. The president (Mr. K. Arthur) proposed an omnibus vote of thanks to all who had made the meeting possible.

Carol singing replaced the service and was ably handled by Mr. K. W. Cheeseman at the piano. Thereafter a number of party games provided amusement for participants and on-lookers, until a further attack was made on the food. The proceedings concluded with 'Auld Lang Syne' and the National Anthem. D. A. B.

Peal Ringers Of 1958

Will those who rang 25 or more peals during 1958 please send the following details to the Editor: Number rung, tower and band; number conducted. An early reply would be appreciated.

ST. MARGARET'S, LEICESTER

The St. Margaret's Guild of Ringers held their annual dinner on New Year's Eve at the Belmont Hotel, when a company of 20 sat down to an excellent repast. The Ringing Master afterwards gave a short review of the past year's activities, and welcomed the return of Mr. Walter Tanser after his serious illness. We also had several choirboys learning the art and making good progress. In this way we hope to keep them interested in the church after they have left the choir.

The question of bell ropes arose, and it was pointed out how these were in a bad condition, and already most have been spliced both at top and bottom. We sadly need a new set, and it was a very generous and spontaneous act of Mr. Don Clarke (chorister and server), who was present at the dinner, to offer a donation of £10 to this cause. An appeal will be made to get other donations so that a new and complete set of ropes might be obtained.

A very fine addition to the ringing chamber was the gift of a bookcase by Miss Annie Rayson, which now houses a portion of the Morris collection of campanological works. The ringers later adjourned to the tower, where in the traditional manner they 'rang out the old and rang in the new' year.

N.B.—Justifying the above remarks about the bell ropes—on Saturday, January 10th, an attempt for a peal of Grandsire Caters was lost after 2½ hours through the seventh rope breaking! E. M.

BOW INCIDENT A 'LONG-STANDING' OBJECT LESSON

Dear Sir,—From a careful reading of the 'official correspondence' in the Bow dispute, it now seems fair to accept that this was conducted in good faith by both parties.

It seems, however, to confirm quite clearly that the flaw which led to such unfortunate consequences lay—not for the first time—in a ringer's assumption that our most elemental terminology is readily comprehensible to the non-ringer. I am quite sure that Mr. Leale believed that his explanation to the Vicar of Bow of a 'peal . . . from 6 to 9 p.m.' was adequate, but to assume that an incumbent would understand that a 'peal' involves three hours' continuous ringing is as much a non sequitur as to assume that he would know what was meant by a complaint that the organ had some bad ciphers; a non-organist parson would probably examine the organ-case for ill-designed monograms. One has only to read newspaper accounts of weddings to know what the word 'peal' means to the non-ringing public—it covers everything from a few rounds upwards.

As confirmation of this, I was told recently of a telephone call to an incumbent to seek permission for a mid-week peal 'from 6 to 9 p.m.' in a tower on the eastern outskirts of London. Consent was readily given. The organist then inquired whether the cleric clearly understood that a peal meant three hours' continuous ringing. The point had certainly not been understood by the reverend gentleman, and permission was immediately withdrawn.

The Bow incident should be a long-standing object lesson to all of us who take the greatest pains on every occasion when we wish to visit a tower where, through the absence of ringers, correspondence is conducted through the incumbent, to explain not only the duration of our visit—whether for a peal, a quarter peal, a meeting or an outing—but to say whether our ringing will be continuous or intermittent. Failure to take such action is less than fair to, perhaps, a young incumbent in his first living, with no knowledge of ringing, and even where older clerics are concerned it may lead to a repetition of the present sorry story of anger and ill-feeling in circles where it is least appropriate.—Yours faithfully,

AIDAN St. J. BOYACK.

P.S.—For the benefit of non-organist ringers may I carefully explain that a 'cipher' is the continued sounding of an organ-pipe, due to a mechanical fault, after the player has released the key.—A. St. J. B.

Maidstone Grammar School Society

The meeting at Watlingbury on January 3rd was not very well attended but, nevertheless, continuous change ringing was possible throughout the afternoon and evening except during the service conducted by Canon Soar and the business meeting, with Miss Bennett in the chair. The meeting referred to the committee a suggestion for a ringing tour.

DILLINGTON HOUSE

Dear Sir,—May I say a word or two about the proposed course at Dillington House. This first course is to be entirely in the nature of an experiment, which we hope will lead to the foundation of a regular yearly course with the syllabus based on the knowledge we gain this year. I would like to know that each Guild in the Exercise had sent one representative to this initial course. This would then give us far more than the minimum number of students needed and I can assure the prospective students of a really first-class weekend—good food, lovely surroundings (Dillington House is an Elizabethan manor house) and ringing. What more could any keen ringer ask?—Yours truly,

EDNA F. GRABHAM,

Staple Fitzpaine, Taunton.

BROADCAST RINGING

Dear Sir,—When will the B.B.C. realise that the time they allow for the bells on the air is insufficient, and why, in this short while, the bells are merely used as a background to a running commentary? The real problem, I think, arises from the use of bells as an interval signal and the B.B.C. is afraid that a mix-up may occur if an increase in the time is allowed. There is one thing that I cannot understand. When church bells are being broadcast and the previous programme ends two or three minutes before time, why cannot this time be added to the time allowed for the bells? This is not the complete answer but would make a big difference on many occasions.—Yours sincerely,

A. R. BRIDGES.

Leiston, Suffolk.

OBITUARY

MR. ROGER MOORE

To live in hearts we leave behind is not to die.

The tragic passing of Roger Moore at the age of 18 has been a great blow to his parents, his brother, Clive, and to the Epping ringers. He was cycling to his work at Harlow New Town when, passing through Potter Street, his cycle skidded on the frozen road, causing him to fall under the wheels of a double-decker bus travelling towards Epping.

His work for the church as a ringer and server was done with great devotion and earnestness, always in a pleasing and quiet manner and in the team spirit, playing an important part in the advance of change ringing in the Epping tower.

The coffin rested in St. John's Church the night prior to the funeral on January 12th. Many local residents attended the choral service conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. E. C. L. Ovenden), assisted by the curate (the Rev. Mr. de Pury). The Vicar spoke highly of Roger's exemplary character, and although greatly moved by such a tragic passing, consoled the mourners that Roger had been called to higher service and, spiritually, was still in their midst. Before and after the service the local band, assisted by Mr. C. E. Willmington (secretary S.W. District) and Mr. J. Chalk, rang the bells half-muffled, a last tribute to one so greatly loved.

OBITUARY

MR. O. G. ATTWOOD

The death of Mr. Oliver George Attwood, of Bredon's Norton, Worcestershire, on December 29th, saddened the hearts of all the ringers around Bredon Hill.

Oliver, as he was affectionately known, was 72 years old, and had been Ringing Master at Bredon's Norton for half a century. Many ringers learnt the art in the tiny belfry there, and he was unsurpassed as a tutor, possessing the patience of Job. In all the years I knew him he never raised his voice in anger, and all his pupils loved and respected him. He was a man of sterling character, a generous and trusty friend, and will be remembered also for his hospitality, as all ringers were welcome at Fir Tree Cottage.

Oliver's first peal, which he conducted, was rung at Strensham some 50 years ago. Since that time he had taken part in many peals, and I myself have had the pleasure of ringing in many of them. He was a founder member of the Tewkesbury Branch of the Gloucester and Bristol Association and also a member of the Worcester and Districts Association. Unfortunately, because of ill health, he had not been able to take an active part in ringing recently, but he was interested in anything to do with it.

He was laid to rest in the churchyard at Bredon's Norton within the sound of the bells he loved so well. Those who knew him will sadly miss him, but they will always remember him with gratitude. E. T. N.

MR. RICHARD CASTLE

A very faithful member of the Church. Mr. Richard Castle, of Launton, near Bicester, has died, aged 72. He had been a member of Launton choir since the age of eight and verger of the church for 37 years. He was a founder member of St. Mary's Guild of Ringers, Launton, in 1913. A silent tribute to his memory was paid at the Bicester District Branch meeting at Ambrosden on January 10th.

MR. WILLIAM NELDER

The Essex Association has lost one of its oldest ringers, a life member, of the Wanstead band, in the passing of Mr. William Nelder, after a short illness. Born on April 23rd, 1868, in the West Country, he spent most of his life in the London area, ringing at St. Botolph's, Bishopsgate, Christ Church, Wanstead, and also at St. George's, Barkingside, Ilford.

For many years he was a chorister at Christ Church, Wanstead, and was able to ring until a short time before his passing. He was an excellent treble ringer and a regular attendant at the S.W. District meetings of the Essex Association. His loyalty, cheerfulness and vitality will always be remembered.

The funeral service was held at St. Andrew's, Ilford, on January 9th, conducted by his nephew Canon C. K. Peeke, of St. Michael's, Newquay, followed by cremation. Many members of the family were present, including his aged widow, his son-in-law, Mr. A. E. Cooper, M.P. for South Ilford, and his old ringing friends, Messrs. J. H. Crampion, F. C. Coe and J. Chalk.

AUSTRALASIAN REVIEW

By GEORGE W. PIPE

OUR review begins in New Zealand, where two rings are regularly rung. The 14 active members of Christchurch enjoy a fine Taylor ten (tenor 32 cwt.), and ringing takes place every Sunday morning and Tuesday evening. A meeting has been held in 1958, and Christchurch is lucky to have great interest shown by its Cathedral Chapter. Undaunted, though depleted in numbers, the Society achieves Doubles, Minor and Grandsire Triples.

Hamilton boasts of a notable Mears octave, and again ringing has taken place each Sunday morning and evening, with a Wednesday practice. This cathedral has been unfortunate to lose several capable ringers over the past two years. Only Doubles and Bob Minor are rung, supplanting the once regular Triples and Treble Bob Minor.

The beautiful island of Tasmania has two further eights, both in Hobart, and news has reached me that ringing has taken place in both St. David's Cathedral and Holy Trinity every Sunday in 1958. Again, it is a struggle with about seven or eight members for each tower and only four or five change-ringers between them. Three new recruits have joined their ranks and the writer looks forward to his acquaintance with a fellow Suffolk man early this year—Sidney Smith, late of Bury St. Edmunds, now at Holy Trinity, Hobart.

PERTH HAS HOPES

From that lonely outpost of the Exercise, Perth, in Western Australia, correspondence with the ringers at St. George's Cathedral (8 by Warner) has been most heartening. The bells are only chimed due to the poor state of the tower, but steps are now being taken to effect repairs, and the locals have high hopes of swinging the bells very soon. This will bring joy to the people of Perth for their bells haven't been properly rung since the Great Adventure in 1934. Present membership is seven, two having joined in 1958.

Now a dash of 2,500 miles up to Maryborough, Queensland, whose nearest ringers would be some 500 miles away! Another lonely tower but a nevertheless keen call-change band. St. Paul's has a ring of nine (21 cwt. tenor which has recently been rehung on ball-bearings). Their membership (two new) stands at 12.

At Adelaide ringing is ascending to a peak standard to that enjoyed in the early 1950's under Philip L. Cooper and company. Both at St. Peter's Cathedral—a grand Taylor eight (41 cwt. in C)—and St. Andrew's, Walkerville—a very musical Mears and Stainbank six—are young, talented bands. No meetings were held in 1958, but in January a great get-together was held by Melbourne and Adelaide ringers in that fair city. The Cathedral alone has 16 ringers, several having joined in the past 18 months, and Plain Bob Doubles and Triples and Grandsire Doubles with Stedman are rung, as well as call-changes. A fine team spirit exists in Adelaide, each tower giving the other a helping hand. Two attempts for quarters have been made, and it won't be long before success is recorded.

N.S.W. PROMINENT

New South Wales, of course, possesses by far the most rings and members. Of the eight rings in Sydney and environs, six are rung every Sunday. In this city are some of the post-war pioneers of ringing: names like Bill Rowe, Tom Goodyer and John Cummins. Several quarters have been accomplished with a high proportion of 'firsts,' and these are published in the monthly journal of the Association, 'Ringing Towers.' An event of great importance took place recently in that a peal was scored on the very fine eight of St. Mary's R.C. Cathedral (tenor 26 cwt.), the only one since the first in 1934. Young ringers a-plenty are being taught at Randwick (8), Darling Point (8) and the sixes of Parramatta, Christ Church and Turramurra, and it is heartening to hear of possible steps being taken to renovate the bells at St. Philip's (another nine).

Maitland, about 200 miles from Sydney (another 'steel' ring like Randwick), is noted for the quality of its ringing, and it has been good to see the occasional quarter chalked up for the Association. This is a very healthy tower with a talented circle of lady ringers.

One more band to round off N.S.W.—at St. Clement's, Yass. This tower has suffered a lapse over recent years. In the early 1950's it was quite prominent, but common to all towers at one time or another it is having its lean time. Only about five or six learners are left, but we commend them on keeping the bells going on Sunday. We are hoping for a corporate meeting at Yass in 1959, for this tower is roughly midway between Melbourne and Sydney.

ACTIVE YEAR IN VICTORIA

Victoria has enjoyed an active year with regular ringing taking place in four of the five ringable towers—Ballaarat, Bendigo, and St. Paul's and St. Patrick's Cathedrals in Melbourne. In St. Peter's, Ballaarat, the treble of the six (actually an eight but lamentably only six hung for ringing) cracked in March, but the locals have manned the remaining five, and these have sounded over this 'garden city' throughout the year. Bell now being recast at Whitechapel Foundry—quick work! The eight (22½ cwt.) of the City Hall are civic property, but have been rung occasionally over the past 12 months for important occasions.

The Bendigo Society always deserve the heartiest of praise, for theirs must be one of the toughest assignments in the ringing Exercise. The writer recalls Chipping Campden tenor and the like, but 'man, these are all fair-dinkum chippings!' However, a considerable sum of money has been set aside for their restoration, and under Messrs. W. and T. Wilson the project should soon be on the move. Membership stands at about 12, and the bells are rung twice every week. The bells themselves are a well-sounding Mears octave, but hung far too high in a brick tower. Three meetings have been held in 1958; twice the journey of 100 miles or so has been made to Melbourne.

St. Paul's Cathedral, Melbourne, has probably the largest single Society in Australasia, membership at the moment standing at 26, of which about 13 are learners of varying proficiency up to Bob Major. Seven peals and five quarters (including Grandsire Caters and Kent Major) were recorded during the year, with several firsts in the method. January saw a fine trip to Adelaide, and two visits have been made to Ballaarat, the latter resulting in a long-awaited peal of Major at the City Hall. Many visitors have joined us in service ringing and practice nights, including people from New Zealand, Scotland and England, a great treat being the visit of Frank Oakshott, of Surrey.

Two lectures and demonstrations have been given to Societies, and the Company took part in a T.V. show in November, which was a great success. Handbells have also been rung in three city churches and several groups have been shown over the belfry. Distances again are a great problem and it is often difficult for the full team to get together. Over the year methods have included Kent T.B. and Plain Bob Royal, Grandsire Caters, Kent and Little Bob Major and Stedman Triples, with one or two tries at Double Norwich. The 12 have been rung to call-changes generally once a week. Last winter (July—odd isn't it!) a team of 'bellistic miscalls' headed by Peter Richards descended on the dilapidated octave of St. Patrick's R.C. Cathedral. Their cleaning, adjusting, etc., is a long story, but we now proudly report Sunday service ringing on the first Sunday in each month in this very fine cathedral church. The bells themselves are poor, but the opportunity of sounding another ring and hopes to start afresh the old St. Patrick's Society have cheered us all—bells are scarce! Two beginners are now 'going through the hoop,' and they hope by their example to attract more this year. Our peal there in October for the late Pope was the first on the bells—and they were cast in 1851!

A round trip of approximately 7,500 miles, with only 21 ringing towers and a mere 200 ringers—that's the picture; but we still proudly pursue the art of our forefathers. Who knows—another Great Adventure in 1959–1960—25 years after Rupert Richardson and his merry men? It won't be long, we keep telling ourselves!

Meanwhile, to all ringers in every part of Britain and elsewhere, greetings and an even better 1959.

HOLY TRINITY, GUILDFORD

A company of 31 members, probationers and wives attended the annual supper of Holy Trinity and St. Mary's, Guildford, Change Ringing Society held on January 9th. An excellent meal was cooked by Mrs. Audrey White, with the assistance of Mrs. Iris Oliver, and Mrs. Bentley was responsible for coffee.

The Provost (Very Rev. W. Boulton) presided and proposed the toast of 'The Society,' to which the conductor (Mr. T. M. White) replied. In a speech full of reminiscences and advice to the probationers, especially 'Margaret,' Mr. A. H. Pulling proposed the toast of 'The Ladies.' Mrs. T. W. White replied.

At the annual meeting which followed, the hon. secretary (Mr. T. W. White) in his report referred to the severe losses to the company by the departure of Mr. F. A. Munday, Mr. W. J. Robinson and Mrs. Tate. They had been replaced by Messrs. H. A. May, E. Warner and S. G. Ponting. The Society had nine probationers, and by dint of much practising rang for both carol services held simultaneously at Holy Trinity and St. Mary's churches, and also handbells before the services. New ropes had been ordered for Holy Trinity, towards which the Society raised £19.

The qualification for membership of the Society was amended from 168 changes on a working bell to 168 changes on the treble on eight bells, or 120 changes on a working bell on six bells. The officers were re-elected and appropriate votes of thanks passed.

From time to time readers may have seen appended to peals of Surprise Royal 'composer's circuit A-W' or some other combination, and wondered what it meant. The above will answer the query. It is self-explanatory, so little need be said, save that it was produced after ringing A-W at Ipswich in 1927. In its first form it had four 4-course blocks and four 10-course blocks; later it was developed to its present form.

Several prominent ringers have had copies, and as will be seen it has been extensively used.

Other conductors may find it useful

FIRST PEAL PERFORMANCES

By F. T. BLAGROVE

The following amendments should be made to the schedule of Principles rung to peals, page 699 (see also page 779).

Stedman Caters.—Rung by the ancient College Youths.

Stedman Cinques.—Rung by the junior College Youths, being one of the last peals rung by this Society before it assumed the title Ancient Society of College Youths. The ancient College Youths became extinct on August 4th, 1788.

Caversham Major.—5,040 at Caversham on July 15th, 1913, by the Oxford Diocesan Guild. There have been very few combinations of spliced Triples and Major rung to peals.

Plain Bob Triples and Major.—5,012 at St. George's, Southwark, on April 17th, 1768, by the London Youths.

Grandsire Triples and Bob Major.—5,096 at Bridgend on September 1st, 1926, by the Llandaff and Monmouth Diocesan Guild.

Oxford Bob Triples and Bob Major.—5,095 at Bridgend on October 6th, 1926, by the Llandaff and Monmouth Diocesan Guild.

Stedman Triples and Bob Major.—5,055 at Northfleet on December 7th, 1927, by the Kent County Association.

The following is believed to be a complete schedule of Treble Bob, Exercise and Delight Major methods rung to peals. Of these, Champion, New Cumberland, St. Stephen's, Albion and Westminster have been incorrectly referred to as Surprise in some peal reports.

Oxford T.B. Major.—5,120 at St. Dunstan's-in-the-East on December 27th, 1718, by the Union Scholars, and is the earliest known peal of Major.

Imperial III Major.—Rung at St. Giles', Norwich, on November 17th, 1760, by the Norwich Scholars, probably St. Peter's Company. There may have been earlier peals, but the original Norwich Scholars' peal book is lost.

Kent T.B. Major.—5,088 at Leeds, Kent, on June 5th, 1774, by the Leeds Youths.

Albion T.B. Major.—5,600 at Keighley, Yorks, on March 27th, 1808, by the Keighley Society.

London T.B. Major.—5,024 at Keighley, Yorks, on February 28th, 1814, by the Keighley Society.

Kent and Oxford T.B. Major.—5,600 at Sheffield on March 7th, 1843, by the Sheffield Youths.

Rose-of-England T.B. Major.—5,024 at Liversedge, Yorks, on January 12th, 1857, by the Liversedge Society.

Prince Albert T.B. Major.—5,120 at Liversedge, Yorks, on April 15th, 1859, by the Liversedge Society.

Violet T.B. Major.—5,152 at Huddersfield on March 16th, 1865, by the Huddersfield and Mirfield Societies.

Halifax T.B. Major.—5,152 at Huddersfield on January 1st, 1866, by the Huddersfield Society.

Champion T.B. Major.—5,376 at Brighton on December 20th, 1894, by the Sussex County Association.

Little Albion T.B. Major.—5,040 at Pulford on October 24th, 1913, by the Chester Diocesan Guild.

Morning Exercise Major.—5,120 at St. Bride's, Fleet Street, on December 28th, 1737, by the College Youths.

College Ex. Major.—5,056 at Hackney on December 26th, 1760, by the junior College Youths.

Yorkshire Ex. Major.—5,600 at Sowerby on February 7th, 1808, by the Halifax St. John Society.

Cumberland Ex. Major.—5,024 at Keighley on May 15th, 1815, by the Keighley Society.

Liversedge Ex. Major.—6,720 at Liversedge on April 17th, 1843, by the Liversedge Society.

Merchants Return Ex. Major.—5,600 at Glossop on March 19th, 1859, by the Glossop Society.

Sowerby Ex. Major.—5,184 at Denholm Gate on February 24th, 1877, by the Yorkshire Association.

New Cumberland Ex. Major.—5,024 at Burton-on-Trent on May 31st, 1886, by the Midland Counties Association.

Woodbine Ex. Major.—5,120 at Newcastle upon Tyne on November 2nd, 1891, by the Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Guild.

St. Stephen's Ex. Major.—5,024 at St. Stephen's, Westminster, on February 24th, 1900, by the A.S.C.Y.

Oswald Delight Major.—5,184 at Leeds, Kent, on December 23rd, 1775, by the Leeds Youths.

Westminster Del. Major.—5,088 at Brighton on May 16th, 1898, by the Sussex County Association.

Cumberland Del. Major.—5,056 at Waltham Abbey on March 16th, 1912, by the Cumberland Youths.

Carisbrooke Del. Major.—5,248 at Norbury, Cheshire, on August 17th, 1935, by the Chester Diocesan Guild.

Syston Del. Major.—5,152 at Wigston Magna on June 8th, 1946, by the Leicester Diocesan Guild.

Edinburgh Del. Major.—5,152 at Wigston Magna on November 20th, 1948, by the Leicester Diocesan Guild.

Wath Del. Major.—5,024 at Loddon, Norfolk, on January 16th, 1952, by the Norwich Diocesan Association.

Pontefract Del. Major.—5,024 at Holywood, Co. Down, on April 15th, 1952, by the Irish Association.

Loddon Del. Major.—5,184 at Loddon on March 14th, 1953, by the Norwich Diocesan Association.

Eardisland Del. Major.—5,088 at Eardisland on December 26th, 1953, by the Hereford Diocesan Guild.

Holywood Del. Major.—5,088 at Holywood, Co. Down, on January 30th, 1954, by the Irish Association.

St. Wolstan's Del. Major.—5,088 at Wigston Magna on September 11th, 1954, by the Leicester Diocesan Guild.

Humberstone Del. Major.—5,056 at Wigston Magna on February 19th, 1955, by the Leicester Diocesan Guild.

Gressenhall Del. Major.—5,184 at Gressenhall on January 18th, 1956, by the Norwich Diocesan Guild.

Tythorn Del. Major.—5,152 at Wigston Magna on June 15th, 1957, by the Leicester Diocesan Guild.

The Alliance Major methods are a group of limited appeal, possibly because of difficulty with musical compositions.

Dains Alliance Major.—5,064 at Crawley on November 8th, 1894, by the Sussex County Association.

Checkendon Little Alliance Major.—5,020 at East Dereham on March 4th, 1939, by the Norwich Diocesan Guild.

THE INTEREST FACTOR

AN acquaintance of mine, Mr. Dodge, who is Emeritus Professor of Mathematics at a University, the identity of which he has asked me not to reveal, recently concluded his researches into what he described as 'The Interest Factor in Change-Ringing.'

These investigations have been spread over a number of years, and some of the facts brought to light and conclusions reached are highly interesting, and should prove of interest to all classes of ringers, although agreement with them will depend to a great extent into which category individual ringers happen to fall.

For the purposes of his analysis, Mr. Dodge divided the Interest Factor into three sub-divisions, which he labelled 'Method-Interest,' 'Rope-Sight (difficulty) Interest' and 'Musical-Interest,' the separate totals of each being added together to make the sum total of 'The Interest Factor.'

I am only sorry that space prevents me including many of the charts, graphs and diagrams prepared by the Professor, and so I shall content myself with including the three final equations and the 'Interest-Factor' equation, which he has given me permission to publish.

The first of these, the 'Method-Interest' equation, reads as follows:

$$I_1 = 12N - N^2$$

where I_1 = Method-Interest and N = number of bells.

As $I_1 = N(12 - N)$ it follows that $I_1 = 0$ when $N = 0$ or 12.

Further, as $\frac{\delta I_1}{\delta N} = 12 - 2N$, then I_1 is maximum when $N = 6$.

Note also that when $N = 6$ then $I_1 = 36$, which is the amount added by Mr. Dodge into the sum total of the Interest Factor for six bells.

For ringers with a non-mathematical turn of mind this means that, according to Mr. Dodge, the interest starts from zero for no bells, rises to a maximum for six and falls away again to 12 bells when it is once again zero.

I commented that the conclusions reached by this equation were a bit tough on the 12-bell ringer, and stated that I should have thought that the interest in the method would have continued to rise as the number of bells increased. This, according to the professor, was a common fallacy, brought about by confusing one sub-division of the Interest Factor with the other. No one could imagine (he continued) that by extending the scope of plain hunting from, say, 6 to 12 in plain bob, the method was made more interesting and, in fact, over longer touches a minus quantity (boredom) began to be felt.

With regard to odd-bell methods, he pointed out that Grandsire, since it must always have at least two bells continuously in the hunt, was even worse than Plain Bob in this respect, and Stedman was to all intents and purposes a 3-bell method. The double-dodging, piled above 3rds place, ad nauseum, was, in spite of Sir Arthur Heywood's panegyric of this form of work, so sterile that, if the method had not been compensated by the other sub-divisions of the Interest Factor, it would have driven Cinques ringers mad many moons ago.

Determined to defend higher numbers to the bitter end, I mentioned methods such as Yorkshire and Cambridge. The Professor conceded that here we were on a somewhat higher plane but had allowed for this in his calculations. The advantages of methods such as these (he continued) were more than offset by 'such stuff as Kent Treble Bob,' which he estimated was 'the most soul-destroying material supplied to higher numbers.' His calculations (he said) were always based on the average of all rung methods. Turning to the second sub-division, 'Rope-Sight (difficulty) Interest,' which to a certain extent (said the Professor) embraced rhythm-difficulty-Interest, there was no doubt that here the higher numbers had the advantage. Here is his equation:

$$I_2 = 2N^{1.2} \text{ with symbols as before.}$$

This gives, for example, I_2 as 17 when $N = 6$, 24 when $N = 8$, 32 when $N = 10$ and 39 when $N = 12$.

As method knowledge assists and supplements rope-sight ability, he had (said the Professor) taken this into account when formulating his equation. There was no doubt (he said), knowing the coursing order of the bells and the order in which one expects to meet them is an indispensable adjunct to rope-sight, and lack of this knowledge was the principal stumbling-block of a ringer moving up too far in one jump. I saw no reason to disagree with the Professor here.

Turning to his last sub-division, the Professor said that here he was treading on very delicate ground, as music in bell-ringing was a very complicated business. He had, however, consulted many prominent ringers, including no less an authority than Mr. Desmond Painter, and the information gained from these people, together with personal observations and investigations carried out over a wide area through many years had led to the formation of the following equation:

$$I_3 = 8.5N - \frac{N^2}{2}$$

For the purposes of musical interest, 5 bells had been classed with 6, 7 with 8, 9 with 10, and 11 with 12.

Interpreting the above equation for the benefit of non-mathematicians, we can say that the musical value gradually increases up to eight bells and then falls towards 12. What happens after that is, according to Mr. Dodge, nobody's business.

I was rather surprised that Caters and Royal were not considered by Mr. Dodge as being equal in musical quality to Major, and told him so. Some people, I pointed out, considered that Grandsire Caters was the most musical of all methods on any number of bells. He would quickly, I informed him, have people such as Mr. Sheppard on his tail—justifiably so in my opinion!

Again he allowed a point. Grandsire Caters was indeed a very musical method, but one could not alter the general trend of a mathematical graph for one isolated example! There was something (he maintained) peculiarly satisfying about a complete octave; a rounded finish not to be found in any other number.

About titmums, he said that this progression which had such noble qualities in Caters tended in Cinques to sound like a body of club-footed men walking downstairs. The only explanation he could offer for this phenomena was that the interval between the heavy and light bells was so great as to make the whole sequence sound ridiculous seeing that the very small bells were interspersed between the very large ones.

He also suggested that as Erin Caters was considered by many authorities to be more musical than Stedman Caters, ringers must lay greater store on method-interest than musical-interest, a point he mused over for some considerable time, after which he retired to his cell and re-read Lamb's essay on 'Ears.'

His final equation for the Interest Factor was:

any deviation from the actual sum totals he put down to experimental errors in the first place. This gives Major a maximum of 96 points, so that (as Mr. Dodge pointed out) it is useful to regard this as a percentage, no method or combination of bells being absolutely perfect.

I wish I had time and space to give all the Professor's figures and conclusions. He has a separate section on conductors and another on the Achievement Factor and its influence upon the Interest Factor; but perhaps we may leave these for a future occasion.

When he had gone back to his hermitage, I noticed that his Musical-Interest equation reached a maximum at 8.5. I wonder what his answer would have been to that?

The Midland Counties Guild have a rule that a peal rung on the day of a Guild meeting should not be recognised. Some of the members at the annual meeting at Repton got 'hot under the collar' over a peal rung on the morning of a meeting day, and pressed for its exclusion. Commonsense prevailed, and the meeting recognised the peal.

Correction.—The peal at Aldridge (page 806) was rung on November 24th and not as stated.

Mr. R. L. Piron, of 8, Bowhill, Bedford, has succeeded Miss Phyllis Gray as hon. secretary of the Bedford District of the Bedfordshire Association.

Someone who didn't get a 'Ringer's Diary'—Father Christmas could not supply it—has sent the cost to the 'Ringing World' funds.

The rapid progress of the young band at Packwood, Warwickshire, where the bells were rehung just over a year ago, is favourably commented upon by a visitor.

Dallington, Northampton, ringers undertake the responsibility of winding the church clock and hoisting and lowering the church flag on the appointed days.

The peal of Bristol at Backwell on December 27th (page 36) was the first peal of Surprise on the bells. Previous bands have attempted but failed to ring a peal of Surprise, and it is therefore very pleasing to see a 'first' achieved by a peal-ringing band resident in the Association boundaries.

The ringing of Ambrosden, Oxfordshire, bells has received national publicity following a letter written by a warrant officer with the Army Education Centre to the Vicar. The Vicar sums it up as a storm in the teacup, but it has kept Southern Command busy considering if any disciplinary action is necessary. The church is about 100 yards from the warrant officer's home.

Will postal subscribers kindly see that the address given to which 'The Ringing World' is to be sent is correct? Delays have occurred when the correct postal district was not given. The Post Office will supply the necessary information on application.

The annual general meeting of the Railwaymen's Guild is April 25th (not July 25th, as printed wrongly in the Ringer's Notebook and Diary, 1959).

Organised by Mr. H. Trewin, six young ringers from Stratton and two friends from Launceston had a good day's ringing on Boxing Day, visiting South Petherwyn, Lewannick, Linkinhorne, St. Tue, St. Cleer, Pillaton, St. Dominic and Callington.

The majority of the Guilds are undertaking the survey of Sunday service ringing. No news of support has been received from 18 Guilds. Forms may be had on application to this office.

The 100th peal on the bells of Silk Willoughby, Lincs, since augmentation from three to six in October, 1945, by John Taylor and Co, was followed by a 'peal' tea, provided by Mrs. J. H. Musson, and also photographs of the band.

Canon H. V. Williams, of Buckminster, has retired after 51 years in the Ministry, all spent in the Diocese of Leicester. A great friend of ringers, he was at the Church of St. John-the-Divine during Mr. William Willson's heyday, and also at Barwell and East Shilton.

Mr. W. J. A. Knight, of Gillingham, Kent, writes that the peal at Clayhidon, Devon (see page 20) was not the first on the bells. In the latter part of 1920 Mr. Albert Tout, of Milverton, who is now about 91 years of age, conducted a peal in the same method—Grand-sire Doubles.

A CHRISTMAS PEAL WEEK IN HERTFORDSHIRE

THE dark days were enlivened once again by a repetition of the December, 1957, peal week in North Hertfordshire, when ringers from North Herts, Derby, Bedfordshire, London and the Watford area were gathered by the conductor, home for Christmas from Derbyshire. This year the arrangements went off comparatively uneventfully, the 28-year-old transport giving no bother, fortunately, as bigger distances were involved. Eleven peals were again rung successfully, with one failure and two cancellations. Five methods were rung to peals for the first time and two 'firsts on the bells.'

The first peal was on Christmas Eve at St. Albans, Cambridge Major being rung on the eight at St. Michael's Church, which are not easy to hear clearly. Stephen Ivins's 5,024 is easy and musical and deserves greater popularity.

Trains were few, and buses there were none, to bring six enthusiasts to the fairly heavy old six at Offley on the afternoon of Christmas Day. The Rev. Howard Senar, himself a ringer, had kindly permitted ringing to continue through the said Evensong, in order to fit into the train times. The bells do not go well nowadays, but a good 'first in method.' Humber Delight, was rung by hard work. The bells are old, with canons and big headstocks: the third was cast locally by John Dyer in 1583.

13-YEAR-OLD'S SUCCESS

All the ringers were claimed by other fixtures on Boxing Day but two rare treats awaited the teams on the Saturday. The first was an attempt on the very fine-toned new light eight at Welwyn. Ringing has always been limited here owing to noise, but permission was given to attempt a new method, to be named Welwyn Surprise Major. This is a good, comparatively easy method, but, unfortunately, extremely false, and Stephen Ivins had done well to produce a composition for it at all. The ringing took some time to settle down, as the acoustics are difficult, but the peal was finished in good style, 13-year-old Patricia Rowe, of Stamford Hill, doing very well to ring the method without previous practice on an almost inaudible bell, Canon H. R. Bate came to the belfry at the end and was pleased to hear of the success. All but the seventh of this beautiful eight are by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, who provided five bells just before the war (one peal had been rung on the six) and two more after the war: there had been no previous peal on the eight. The old seventh is by Joseph Eayre, 1761, and is an 'anti-Methodist' bell, inscribed quaintly: 'Prosperity to the Established Church and no encouragement to enthusiasm'!

The afternoon peal was on the fine old eight (Bryant, Phelps, T. Mears) at Ware, a beautiful dressed-flint church. The tower was severely damaged in a gale a year ago, and much new flint-work was in evidence. A very musical 'old favourite,' Double Norwich, was rung in the tower for the first time, an excellent brisk peal resulting, though quite a bit of physical effort was necessary. Several local people congratulated the team on the ringing. Fourteen-year-old Martin Major, of Henlow, who rang very well, will remember his first peal on eight.

The Sunday afternoon peal was at faraway Chrishall, just over the border, in Essex. Young Kenneth Ballington had by now travelled from Derby to join the tour, and a local ringer, Harry Flack, was standing in his first peal. The Rev. A. A. Bagley welcomed us, and at the end sent a tray of tea and cakes into the tower, which kindness was more than we deserved, as there were several anxious moments and quite a bit of 'scratching'; perhaps Double Court requires greater concentration than after-dinner on Sunday will allow!

A new plain method was planned for Squire Proctor's tower, Benington, the next morning, but this quickly ground to a halt, and a very fast peal of Bob Major substituted, with a strong beat which did the youngsters a lot more good. The bells ought to know this method, as an 18,000 was rung there years ago after a failure of, I believe, about 12,000! The bells go and sound much better nowadays.

This was not our day for Plain Major, for that evening, in heavy rain, we went to Barton-in-the-Clay (a pleasant eight) below the chalk scarp, and rang nearly half a peal of the eighth-place version of Childwall College before paying the penalty, this time, of poor concentration; our only true failure of the week.

PEAL BOARD ALREADY MADE

We did not know quite what awaited us on the Tuesday morning as we travelled the open road to Foxton, Cambridgeshire, for the five bells, rehung by Day's, of Eye, nearly 80 years ago (1—3 Miles Graye, 4, 5 Warner) had never had a peal. The Rev. Eric Parker gave us a cheerful welcome, and informed us that a peal board was already made; we had got to score! A little preparation aloft showed the bells to be in good order and of good tone, though they are very odd-struck and the tenor casts wheel. A sound and determined peal of Doubles in 13 methods was successfully rung. Kenneth ran around with hassocks, then upstairs for a check, and kept the Vicar informed as to progress in between long discussions with Martin. It appeared later that the treble was, as it were, 'for sale' . . . but are substitutes allowed? The Vicar was pleased, however, and lavished the band with pork pies and other refreshment.

Two similar new 'Delight Minor' peals followed; Carisbrooke on the pretty six at Graveley, where Gillets' hung the ancient fifth, cast locally by John Dyer about 1590, in a special headstock to save the canons, and the following morning, the last day of the Old Year, Dunnottar on the very 'country' six at Anstey. (By the way, all the gazeteers give this spelling for the Scottish castle, not that given in the C.C.C.). Anstey is one of those old places where the ringers stand under a central tower amid the choir stalls. Next to the church is the ancient Castle Mound with a deep moat. Oddest of all is the scale of the six bells (approximately 2—7 of a 10). The tenor is by Lester and Pack, and they are hung in the old (but very accessible) style; the second and fourth do not go as well as the others. The keen local veteran, Mr. A. Bradford, welcomed us and observed the last extent.

The band went their several ways to 'ring in the New Year' at various towers, and should have gathered at Shillington the next morning, but it was decided that a sufficiently strong team to do justice to these very heavy five could not be mustered, so the peal was cancelled regretfully. Another Delight 'first' thus came next in the programme—Neasden at Southill, Bedfordshire, that evening. These bells are a very fine Mears six and go well, and so peal ringing in 1959 was away to an early start.

The next, and last, peals were rung on the Saturday in the east of the county in the neighbouring towers at Hunsdon (8) and Widford (6). Mr. and Mrs. Sinfield came by motor-cycle 35 miles and found the roads treacherous, but the tower was warm, and Mrs. Chitty greeted us and saw us off to a bad start for Superlative, which was hastily changed to Cambridge and successfully rung, not without incident, nor without some hard work on the back end, which are very odd-struck and seem to be a generous 14 cwt.'s worth! They are a 17th century Bartlett ring. This was the first peal of Cambridge there, and proved to be the last of the tour, for by the time that we had finished lunch in Ware we found John Sinfield was in difficulty with his motor-cycle, and the necessary adjustments left it too late to ring a peal at Widford, where Mr. J. Duckling had prepared the bells. A quarter peal of Braintree Delight was substituted on this pleasant-toned but rather odd-struck little six in its lonely wayside tower.

Heavy snow fell on the homeward road, but we were fortified by a pleasant tea and chat at an inn not far from Widford Church, so ending the Christmas tour for another year.

LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION

Leyland, 1959

By a strange coincidence, Preston Branch was holding its annual meeting at Leyland at the same time as 'The Ringing World' carried a story on its front page of the 'bad old days' there.

What an amazing transformation from those unfortunate times to the present happy position! It would be difficult, if not impossible, to find a tower where there was more harmony and goodwill both between the ringers themselves and also between the ringers and the clergy. This is largely due to the tireless energy and devotion to duty of the present leader.

The Vicar (the Rev. W. J. Sawle, B.D.), his curate (the Rev. C. A. Powell) and one of the churchwardens (Mr. J. Parr) not only joined in for tea and stayed for the business meeting (the Vicar taking the chair), but, more important still, they showed a lively concern and interest by spending the greater part of the afternoon in the tower watching the ringing.

During the meeting eight new members were elected to the Association, and five of these belong to the local company. The refreshments, including as much Lancashire hot-pot as could be eaten, were provided by the local ringers and their ladies. The meeting was well attended and included visitors from the Blackburn and Bolton Branches. In fact, it was one of the visitors, a well-known and respected figure from Bolton, who very ably moved a vote of thanks to the clergy, ringers and all concerned for the excellent arrangements and friendly fellowship. He concluded his remarks with an amusing reminiscence of his first visit to Leyland, many years ago, concerning a certain lady who held on to the sally and 'came down like a balloon.'

The ringing continued until 8.30 p.m. and catered for all requirements ranging from rounds to Surprise. In short, it was a most encouraging and enjoyable meeting.

A DEVON PEAL OF NOTE

The peal at Wolborough, Newton Abbot, Devon, on January 9th, is noteworthy on several counts:—

(1) It was only the second eight-bell peal to be rung entirely by members of the Mid-Devon Branch of the Guild of Devonshire Ringers, the previous one being also of Grandshire Triples. This was rung on May 5th, 1923, at Moretonhampstead. It was the first peal on these bells and Mr. Aubrey Bennett is the only surviving member of the band.

(2) The treble was rung by the Rev. Paschal Dowling, of Buckfast Abbey, who is thus the first member of the Community to ring a peal.

(3) Peter Lock, a 14-year-old boy, rang the fourth bell with great accuracy. He is a member of the young Babacombe band which W. Simmonds and Don Roberts are training with great success.

(4) The tenor bell was rung by Mr. Bartlett, a leading light among the Devon call change ringers.

The ringers who participated in the 100th peal on Silk Willoughby, Lincs, bells since their augmentation to six in October, 1945. Left to right: Mr. James W. Haw, Mrs. J. W. Haw, Messrs. James H. Musson, Leonard C. Blanchard, Albert E. Scott and Cecil Wade.

CUMBERLAND RINGER MARRIED AT ST. GILES'

Miss Caroline McNeill Love, a member of the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths and the Middlesex and Hertfordshire County Associations, was married at St. Giles-in-the-Fields, London, on January 10th, to Dr. Murray Newell Cox. The bride was formerly a member of the Northaw and later the Highgate band before entering the nursing profession at the London Hospital, Whitechapel, and there met the bridegroom.

The ceremony was witnessed by a congregation which filled the church and was performed by the Rector (the Rev. G. C. Taylor): a short address was given by the bridegroom's father, the Rev. R. L. Cox. The bride, looking a charming picture in white satin and attended by five bridesmaids in turquoise, was given away by her father, Dr. McNeill Love, surgeon at the Royal Northern Hospital, Holloway.

Prior to the wedding a quarter peal of Grandsire Triples was rung by the following members of Northaw, Hampstead and Highgate bands, and G. A. Parsons: T. Bevan 1, B. McKie 2, G. A. Parsons 3, A. W. J. Butler (conductor) 4, N. Clark ('first' on eight) 5, P. G. Forte 6, J. M. Paynton 7, J. T. O'Dill 8.

After the ceremony, rounds, queens and a touch of Stedman Triples were rung by a mixed band of former colleagues, which, although not bringing the roof down, did succeed in dislodging part of the ceiling!

The reception, attended by well over 300 guests, was held at the Royal College of Surgeons, Lincoln's Inn Fields. The happy couple, amid cheers, left for the Lake District for their honeymoon.

SOUTHWELL DIOCESAN GUILD North Notts District

* Owing to the inclement weather rather than lack of interest, the annual meeting of the North Notts District, held in Retford on January 10th, was not as well attended as it might have been.

At the business meeting held in East Retford belfry at 6 p.m. Mr. H. T. Rooke relinquished the post of chairman, as he is now a member of the newly-formed Mansfield District. Before doing so, however, he asked the meeting to stand as a token of respect to those ringers who had died since the last annual general meeting. The annual report and the balance sheet were read and accepted.

The following District officers were elected: Chairman, Mr. D. McNeil (West Retford); secretary, Mr. H. Denman (Gamston); committee members, Mr. J. Segar (East Retford) and Mr. J. Hurst (Ordsall); Ringing Master, Mr. R. Hobbs (West Retford).

The next District meeting was fixed for Saturday, February 14th, at Everton, a tower that has not been visited for several years. Since meetings are now to be held every other month only, a proposal was carried that a practice should take place on alternate months from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. at a tower to be fixed the previous month. The main purpose of this practice is to give help to struggling towers.

Clayworth was chosen as the place of the next Crawford Cup contest, to be held on the second Saturday in September. At the conclusion of the meeting Mr. J. Segar stated that he would be able to represent the District at the Central Council meeting at Southport.

REDEDICATION

FINDON, SUSSEX

There was a crowded congregation on Sunday morning, January 11th, when the Bishop of Chichester (Dr. Roger Wilson) paid his first visit to the 11th century parish church of St. John Baptist, Findon, Sussex. The late Col. Ulric Thynne, of Muntham Court, who died 15 months ago, left a bequest for the restoration of the church bells and to increase the number to six. The Vicar (Rev. Dr. G. H. Gibson) conducted the service, assisted by the curate (Rev. M. H. Griffiths), who acted as chaplain, and Mr. A. R. Moore, lay reader. After morning prayer and before the dedication, Dr. Gibson welcomed the Bishop to the church, and also Mr. Brian Thynne, a trustee of the Thynne bequest. He also welcomed Mr. Douglas Hughes, representing the Whitechapel Foundry, and visiting bell-ringers.

The Bishop was conducted to the memorial screen at the entrance to the tower. The screen, of handsome carved oak, bears the inscription: 'This screen was erected and the bells rehung and increased to a peal of six in the year 1958; the gift of Colonel Ulric Thynne, of Muntham.'

After dedicating the screen, he rededicated the original four bells and dedicated two new ones. Receiving the ropes from the Bishop, the Vicar handed them to the joint captains, Mr. C. Whittington and Miss D. M. Saunders, bidding them to lead their ringers in a ring of bells to the praise and glory of God and as an earnest of diligent and faithful service. The bells were then rung in Queens as Dr. Wilson was escorted to his seat in the sanctuary.

Immediately at the end of the service a quarter peal of Grandsire Doubles was rung by L. Stilwell 1, Miss D. M. Saunders 2, B. J. Luff 3, F. Brooks 4, R. P. Wood 5 (conductor), C. Whittington 6.

THE BELLS

Treble.—3 cwt. 3 qr. 9 lb. Mears and Stainbank, 1958.

Second.—4-2-11. Mears and Stainbank, 1958.

Third.—5-0-8. John Cole, 1576.

Fourth.—5-1-25. Roger Landon, Wokingham, circa 1450. Recast Mears 1870.

Fifth.—7-2-18. John Tonne, circa 1530.

Tenor.—9-2-14. Thomas Giles, of Lewes, 1617. Recast Mears 1870.

The old bells had not been rung for half a century and were taken to Mears and Stainbank's foundry to be tuned, which, with the two new bells, now make a very handy ring of six. They have been hung in a new wood frame on ball-bearings, and the work was successfully carried out by the bell-hanger Mr. H. Parkes, under the supervision of Mr. D. Hughes.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

CHRISTMAS DAY RINGING

Dear Sir,—It was very nice of your anonymous critic to classify our Christmas broadcast ringing as 'good,' but I rather feel that the unfortunates that got away with a less complimentary criticism will be feeling less happy.

I can't help but feel that comments on such performances should be confined to complimentary remarks where warranted, unless the name or status of the person making them is also given. I have no doubt that all those taking part gave their absolute best, and who knows but what sheer bad luck may cause a good company to give a bad impression. One trip in 15 minutes could mar the whole performance. The technical and chancy nature of change ringing provides a case for a recorded instead of a live programme.

During the 15 minutes' continuous ringing demanded by the B.B.C., only one mistake occurred in our ringing—a missed dodge. Nevertheless, if this had coincided with the 14 changes only, which were fully audible clear of the announcer's commentary, I hesitate to express what our feelings would have been, as, from the point of view of the broadcast, the whole performance would have been spoilt.

I had the whole programme tape-recorded, and set out below details of the ringing.

In the case of St. Cuthbert's I am not quite sure what was being rung, Doubles with two bells fixed dodging in 6-7, or Triples. Grundisburgh, I think, were not ringing Bob Caters, as your critic suggests, but plain hunt on nine with tenor covering.

The ringing from St. Clement Danes' was, indeed, of a high order, and from a broadcast point of view was enhanced by its slowness; even so, every change was not perfect. It would be interesting to know the names of the ringers who put on such a fine exhibition.

The ringing from Rotherham was by members of the regular Sunday service band, mostly in their teens and four still at school.

The following gives details of the programme:
Rotherham, on the air 31 seconds fully audible without the announcer's commentary, 14 changes, Grandsire Caters.

Lurgan, 56 seconds, 21 set changes (Whitingtons).

St. Clement Danes', 50 seconds, 19 changes, Stedman Triples.

Grundisburgh, 51 seconds, 24 changes, plain hunt.

St. Cuthbert's, Edinburgh, 57 seconds, 24 changes.

Gresford, 51 seconds, 22 changes, from the plain course Grandsire Triples.

Woodchester were on the air ringing Grand-sire Doubles for about 50 seconds.

I trust the critic won't take offence at this minor example of criticising the critic.—Yours, Rotherham. NORMAN CHADDOCK.

Dear Sir.—The object of Christmas ringing broadcasts is to make a joyful noise throughout the land, not to earn the dubious honour of a pat on the back from a fireside critic whose opinion, for all we know, since he remains anonymous, may be worthless. These 'observations' (page 41, January 16th), which take no account of local difficulties, can do no good and may cause resentment in the towers concerned. I would therefore urge that their annual publication be abandoned.—Yours truly,
Kenton. MERIEL L. THIRST.

PEAL OF CHORDS

Dear Sir,—Had the members of Cambridge University who rang the 'two' handbell peals simultaneously rung the bells of the top six and the bells of the bottom six separately, thus making 12 blows, and had they used two different compositions, then I think we could justly congratulate them on their effort. But, in fact, not only were both sixes rung at once, thus producing six clashes, but also the composition of both was the same; the result was that one peal was rung on chords (and not very musical chords at that!). This knowledge I have from one of the ringers who took part in this peal; and no wonder they were not very explicit about how they did it. If this peal is to be counted as two peals, then, if I could get hold of the necessary number of handbells, I could quite easily provide a band that would ring four peals of Major simultaneously.—Yours, etc.,

RAYMOND A. BROWN.

Southampton. Hants.

A REQUEST REPEATED

Dear Sir.—Recently a report of two handbell peals of Bob Minor rung simultaneously appeared in 'The Ringing World.'

Would it be possible for more details of this performance to be published? It appears that the front and back six of a ring of 12 were used, each ringer using the corresponding bell in each half, i.e., treble and seventh, second and eighth, etc. If the bells were rung to a 12-bell compass, the time taken (less than two hours) seems to be very short.

Also, as far as I can remember, no details as to the callings were given. I think many ringers would be interested to know exactly how it was done.—Yours faithfully,

ARTHUR V. DAVIS.

Southbourne, Bournemouth.

'GOSPEL OAK'

Dear Sir.—Who, might I ask, is Mr. Scott, that he should take it upon himself to criticise people he has not met and knows very little about? Obviously he is a person who listens to and spreads rumours without first ascertaining the truth of such rumours.

I have had the privilege of the friendship of Mr. E. J. Rowe for many years and would stress that a more conscientious member of the Exercise does not exist. Mr. Arthur Butler sums up the situation most adequately in the issue of January 16th, and Mr. Scott would do well to refrain in future from publishing uncalled for and objectionable letters in the public Press.

Being associated with the Gospel Oak ringers for several years, I feel that I am not acting out of turn in writing this letter.—Yours truly,
FRANK C. W. KNIGHT.

Minster, Ramsgate.

YORKSHIRE SURPRISE MAJOR AT NOTTINGHAM

Dear Sir.—I should like to point out that the footnote to the peal of Yorkshire Surprise Royal at St. Mary's, Nottingham (page 18) on December 13th, 1958, is not correct, in that a peal of Yorkshire Surprise Major was rung here by the Yorkshire Association on December 10th, 1949.—Yours faithfully, Sheffield. IAN M. HOLLAND.

PEAL TITLES

Dear Sir,—The peal of Spliced Plain Major rung 'in hand' at Cambridge on November 28th, 1958, should read as follows:—864 Plain, 384 Reverse, 384 Double, 648 Wellington, 648 Gainsborough, 288 Fulbeck, 288 C.C. No. 257, 192 Canterbury Imperial, 192 Hackington Imperial, 144 Bastow L.C., 144 Kent L.C., 288 Crayford L.C. and 720 Little Bob.

C.C. No. 258, which is Reverse Bob with places in 5-6 when the treble is behind, has been rung as Canterbury Imperial.

C.C. No. 259, which is Double Bob with places in 5-6 when the treble is behind, has been rung as Hackington Imperial.

C.C. No. 257, which is Reverse Bob with places in 3-4 when the treble is behind, has not been named. Could the C.U.G. supply a name?

C.C. No. 124, which is Double Bob with places in 3-4 when the treble is behind, has been rung as Fulbeck.

Canterbury Pleasure on seven or more bells, odd and even, is Plain Bob with places in 3-4 when the treble leads.

The statement at the foot of page 33 in the C.C. Collection of Plain Major methods is incorrect.

Plain Bob Doubles and Minor with places in 3-4 when the treble leads are now known as Reverse Canterbury Pleasure Doubles and Minor.

Reverse Bob Doubles and Minor with places below the treble are now known as Canterbury Pleasure, Pleasure Doubles and Minor.—Yours sincerely,

FRANK T. BLAGROVE.

Windsor.

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL LIBRARY

Dear Sir.—I understand that in about 1946 several of the late J. W. Parker's pocket-size note books and some manuscripts were presented to the Central Council library but now I cannot trace them. If anyone has these or has the slightest information which might assist in tracing them, I should be grateful if he or she would send me particulars.

As my predecessor, Mr. Sharpe, has no recollection of them, I conclude they must have been borrowed some years ago and not returned to the library.—Yours faithfully,

FRANK W. PERRENS.

 Coventry.

ELY DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION

Hunts District Annual Meeting

On January 17th the Hunts District held its annual meeting in Huntingdon. Afternoon ringing was at Godmanchester and St. Mary's, Huntingdon, and the service was conducted by Canon Morris.

Tea at All Saints' Hall was followed by the meeting, with the Rev. J. M. E. Bagley in the chair. The secretary (Mr. H. S. Peacock) gave his report and said how pleased he was that the Hunts District had 100 paid-up members, a record for any District in the Association. For this year's tour a visit into Hertfordshire was suggested, and the secretary was left to pursue the matter. Seven new members were welcomed into the Association. The usual votes of thanks were voiced by Mr. Lack, after which good use of St. Mary's and All Saints' bells was made until 9 p.m.

THE BARNSELEY AND DISTRICT SOCIETY, 1909-1959

By HAROLD CHANT

The Shield contests were restarted in 1944, which year also records the death of Mr. J. T. White, the leader of the 1929 Felkirk band, who conducted 247 of the 252 720's, a remarkable achievement.

Mr. John R. Brearley, of Bolsterstone, was the president during 1945-46-47 and 1948. The name of Brearley has long been connected with ringing in South Yorkshire, and John R. has judged many contests for the Society, including the first in 1926. His uncle's name is one of those inscribed on the Society's jug.

In 1947, the Society, being entitled to two representatives on the Central Council, Mr. Dan Smith and I were elected as such, a position we relinquished in 1951 when the Society allowed its membership to lapse.

In 1948 two contests per year were instituted. The Shield, which had been 'open' since 1936, and the Cup (borrowed from Hoylandswaine for the purpose) for towers within the 12-mile radius. Certificates, in addition to prizes, were also issued.

MR. N. F. MOXON

1949 saw a change of presidents, Mr. N. F. Moxon, of Cawthorne, taking the place of Mr. J. R. Brearley, a position he has retained ever since, therefore holding the record for service to the Society in this office. His wise guidance and interest in the welfare of the Society makes it likely that he will retain the presidency for many years to come. In this year Society outings and the Potter Commemoration Dinner were instituted, both for the first time. No further change in the officials of the Society took place until 1957. In 1950, following a request from certain members, I gave a lecture on Minor methods in the Rectory rooms at Barnsley.

In 1954 Mr. H. Rowley, of Horbury, completed 65 years as a regular Sunday service ringer at that church. To commemorate this a special meeting was held, prior to which a peal of Minor was rung by six members of the Society (including the three officials), which was a repeat performance of the methods rung in Mr. Rowley's first peal, which he had conducted on January 7th, 1894. Even the time taken was, by a curious coincidence, exactly the same, 3 hrs. 1 min. The method, Primrose Surprise, which was included, is, of course, the old method so beloved by Mr. John Easter, not the modern upstart which has filched its name and appears in the Central Council collection!

In 1955 Society badges were issued for the first time.

Mr. Dan Smith had an illness in 1956, which was followed by a nasty accident at work that made it impossible for him to continue the work as secretary, that he had accomplished with such success for almost 20 years. In October of 1958 a presentation was made to him by the Society in recognition of his great work, and certainly there was never a more deserving recipient.

After being acting secretary for 12 months Mr. J. W. Buxton, of Shelley, was chosen to fill Dan's position. We wish him all success and a long tenure of office.

OPEN LEADS

In June, 1958, interest in the annual Shield Contest was increased by the inclusion, for the first time, of teams ringing open leads. Much has been said and written for and against closed leads, but there is no doubt that the Barnsley area has produced some excellent bands to whom the sound of six bells tapping away with meticulous regularity is the acme of change-ringing. Consequently ringers turned up to listen with a critical ear to this (to them) peculiar rhythm.

Unfortunately the two 'open' teams were unable to be up to full strength and their ringing suffered in consequence. It was interesting, however, to observe the reaction of the 'cartwheelers,' some of whom wanted to know if the judge would call a fault at every open lead! It is to be hoped that this contest will be the first of many such gatherings and that the open-leaders will produce striking of which I, for one, know they are capable.

It is impossible in a review of this nature to mention all the ringers worthy of recognition but reference must be made to such people as the Robinsons, of Sandal; the Crosslands, of Cawthorne, 'Old Harry,' who was ringing in contests (and in the winning team quite often) when approaching 90 years of age; Clifford Robinson, of the same tower; the Hiltons, of Darfield; the Pickles, of Horbury; Walter Hemmings, of Roystone; the Hills, of South Kirby; the Lampreys, of Ackworth; Walter Idle and Hemmingway Dransfield, of Earlsheaton; and, indeed, many others.

In this, the 50th year of the Society's existence, it is to be hoped that some function suitable to the occasion can be held.

What of the future? Where are the future Albert Nashes, the C. D. Potters and the Dan Smiths of the Society? To be sure they will be forthcoming. Young and enthusiastic ringers are to be seen in all quarters. All they need is encouragement and a square deal. The Society has had, and no doubt will continue to have its ups and downs, but if we can inculcate that sense of loyalty, if we can see to it that each tower is constantly fed with new recruits, if we can make these recruits realise what benefits, pleasure and companionship can be derived from these periodic gatherings, then I think we need have no qualms about the future.

OBITUARY

MR. J. O. LANCASHIRE

Leicester's grand old man of ringing, Mr. John Owen Lancashire, passed to his rest on January 17th, two days after his 94th birthday. He was better known to the older generation than to the present.

In his prime, besides being a first-class tower bell ringer he was a wonderful handbell ringer. With his companions, John Buttery, Geo. Cleal, Samuel Cotton, Alfred Millis and Wm. Willson (all now departed), he made ringing history by taking part in 'silent' handbell peals of Stedman Triples, Caters and Cinques—the latter of which he composed—and this record still holds supreme in this sphere.

For his 90th birthday in 1955 a handbell peal of Stedman Triples was rung, conducted by the late H. J. Poole (in which the writer took part). This was a method 'John O'—as he was affectionately called—delved deeply into, and he produced some very 'classic' compositions which only an expert could hope to call.

An architect of no mean ability, he won a number of awards for his designs for various churches, inns and houses. In this connection, with Mr. Shirley Harrison, he was responsible for the design of the De Montfort Hall (one of the premier concert halls of England) and many other buildings both public and private. He did not retire entirely from business until just over a year ago at the advanced age of 93, and each day one could see him making his way from Cropstone, where he lived, by bus to Leicester to work at the British United Shoe Machinery Co.

Prior to cremation, a service was held in the quiet country church of Swithland, and among the floral tributes were those from Leicester Cathedral Guild and Mr. S. Burton. As the cortege left the church a slow and impressive course of Grandsire Triples was rung on handbells by Jill Staniforth 1-2, John A. Acres 3-4, Ernest Morris 5-6, Colin Harrison 7-8. The tenor bell of the church was tolled by Harry Broughton, and there were also present Harold G. Jenney, Shirley Burton, with Alex Bramley, of Anstey, and a representative congregation.

The previous evening at South Wigston, 1,260 Stedman Triples (deceased's favourite method) was rung by B. G. Warwick 1, Miss D. J. Perrins 2, G. J. Brewin 3, R. K. Stretton 4, J. A. Acres 5, A. Bodycote 6, E. J. Jelley 7, E. Morris (conductor) 8. E. M.

AN APPRECIATION

This tribute to Mr. Lancashire comes from the Leicester Cathedral Ringers' Society. His passing, at the ripe old age of 94, prompts feelings not so much of sorrow and regret as of gratitude for the privilege of having met and known him, and thanks and admiration for a full life of activity and achievement.

As a ringer he was one of a group, which did much to bring Leicester to the forefront of ringing, a position which has been maintained for a matter of 60 years. Of recent years he was handicapped by deafness, but he rang for service at the Cathedral at an age much in advance of average. He was very keen on Stedman and composed many peals and touches. As a man he was quiet and unassuming, and always courteous and polite to everyone with whom he dealt. He could be aptly described as nature's gentleman. H. G. J.

MR. A. H. SNOW

Mr. Adolphus Henry Snow, who died at the home of his eldest daughter in Wales on January 8th and was buried at East Budleigh, Devon, will be remembered with affection by Devon ringers.

He learned to ring at Withycombe about 80 years ago, and shortly after that time there were enough Snows ringing there to form a band of their own. Moving to East Budleigh he joined the local band, and for some time was a 'regular' in more senses than one. However, a 'tiff in the tower' sent him to Otterton to join the call-changers, and for 30 years he walked there Sundays and practice nights; seldom absent, never late. He still continued his membership of the Devon Guild and was usually to be seen at meetings.

Up to 1939 he had rung in 30 peals and conducted three. One was at Exeter Cathedral. This is not a great number by present day standards, but one is tempted to suggest that far fewer peals would be rung today if the only method of transport was 'Shanks' pony.' His last peal was at Littleham on his 80th birthday, which also marked his retirement as foreman at the East Budleigh sawmill. His kindly nature and good humour made him much loved both in the tower and out, and especially by children.

During the evening of the day of his funeral the Otterton ringers gave him a 'last peal,' and a quarter of Grandsire Doubles half-muffled was rung at East Budleigh. E. S.

MR. C. J. PUGSLEY

We regret to record the death of Mr. Clifford James Pugsley, who died suddenly early in January at the age of 58 and was buried in Godalming, Surrey, on January 9th.

He moved to Godalming in the early 1920's as a tailor and had remained with the same firm ever since. He joined the local band on arrival in the town, and was a member until about five years ago, when medical advice stopped his ringing. He came from Bishop's Hull, near Taunton, where he was taught ringing by James Hunt, a stalwart in that area. Mr. Pugsley was a very regular Sunday service ringer and could always be relied upon, although he never aspired to anything higher than Grandsire Triples, in which method he rang his only peal. C. E. S.

BARKINGSIDE, ESSEX.—On Jan. 11th, 1,260 Grandsire Doubles: Jean Vickers (first quarter) 1, L. Prior 2, Mrs. Sheila Bullock 3, L. Bullock 4, J. Barrance (first as cond.) 5, G. Lonsdale 6. For Confirmation service by the Bishop of Chelmsford.

LONDON COUNTY ASSOCIATION

A Return To Former Headquarters

It was a great joy to members of the London County Association to hold its first meeting in 1959 at the beautifully restored Church of St. Clement Danes in the Strand on January 3rd. Some 180 members and friends took part in the ringing from 2.15 to 4.30 p.m. Shortly after starting it became apparent that to ensure the satisfaction of all, some form of 'traffic control' would have to be exercised. Accordingly a queue of ringers was formed in the main entrance hall of the church and as soon as a touch was finished the ringers were requested to leave the ringing chamber temporarily to allow others from the queue to enter. The officers believe that all ringers who came—some from long distances—had a satisfactory ring on this very fine ring of bells. Handbells were also in use in the verger's vestry whilst ringing in the tower was in progress.

Ringling was followed by a service in the church conducted by the resident R.A.F. chaplain (the Rev. G. W. Groves), assisted by Mr. W. D. Grainger, a member of the Association. A course of Grandisle Triples was rung in the service, and in his address the Rev. G. W. Groves said how much he would like to see the Association's ancient connections fully restored at St. Clement Danes.

MEETING IN CRYPT

The crypt, which for many years had been used only as a place of burial, has now been most appropriately restored and was the venue for the business meeting. Again the resident chaplain said further words of welcome to the Association, and before he left the meeting very sincere votes of thanks were expressed to him, to Mr. E. A. Barnett, the R.A.F. authorities, Mr. Grainger and the verger and staff.

At 6 o'clock the traditional 'Oranges and Lemons' was heard clearly and distinctly on the newly-installed electro-mechanical chimes. Opportunity was taken at the meeting to remind members of the handbell competition which would take place at the annual meeting at Southwark Cathedral on February 14th. The requirement is for teams, each consisting of four ringing members of the same company from towers within the area of the Association, to ring a course of not less than 70 changes on eight bells. Three umpires award the 'Dawe Cup' to the winning team, and the main consideration is correct and good striking.

The week following the meeting a quarter peal of Grandisle Caters was rung for Matins at St. Clement Danes' by a company which included eight past and present officers of the Association.

TONBRIDGE, KENT.—On Jan. 6th, 1,264 Plain Bob Major: P. Dye (first of Major) 1. Sheila M. Dobbie 2. S. A. White 3. T. E. Sone 4. C. Hancock 5. Doris Colgate 6. B. Collison 7. W. H. Dobbie (cond.) 8. Rung to celebrate the consecration of the Vicar of Tonbridge as first Suffragan Bishop of Tonbridge.

A LAKELAND TOWER OF MEMORIES

THE church stands on a rock. To the west the graveyard slopes down to fields and the river. Beyond the river the fells rise up to give shelter to the town on the north, west and east sides. The east end of the church juts into the town itself, with its tower standing sentinel over all. In the original plan the spire of the tower was to be much higher than it is—more after the style of Salisbury Cathedral. The shortened spire is perhaps somewhat out of proportion with the square base, but it is in better keeping with the surrounding countryside.

Beyond the town to the south the landscape gives way to the lake where I spent so much time as a boy. Higher up the town where it reaches up to the screes stood the old church. (I believe it is now a laundry.) The old church was called St. Anne's, and the newer one which stood sentinel on the rock is called St. Mary's. When I was a lad, nobody ever 'went to church.' Either they went to St. Anne's or St. Mary's. St. Anne's had one bell of very beautiful tone which the verger rang in a most able manner: dong, dong, dong; pause for one beat; dong, dong, dong; and so on. Few there were in the town who appreciated the skill of chiming the bell in that exact manner; but those of us who were children in the latter days of worship at St. Anne's must still be haunted by the music which came from that old squat tower each morning.

St. Mary's has the heaviest ring of bells in the North of England north of Manchester; but that is not its only claim for mention. It is in every way a beautiful ring of eight, and after nearly 60 years is in as good a condition as the day it was hung. A few years ago the tower and spire fell into disrepair, and ringing became impossible. There was some talk of pulling the tower down, but the parishioners would have none of that and quickly raised the necessary money for its complete restoration, so that today the bells ring out again as loud as ever. But with the interval of the war years and the years when the tower was unsafe for ringing, most of the old ringers have passed on, and now there is a young band. A band, maybe, 'who knew not Joseph.'

It needs to be understood that the bells are set right on top of the town, and the town is not a large one. Whenever the bells are rung there is not a house that does not get the full sound of the ringing. In many places the effect would have been such that the townspeople would have been only too glad to have the tower pulled down, especially so when the bells were so heavy. But such has been the standard of ringing, and such its regulation, that people have only learned to love their bells. Maybe these bells have not figured often on the peal records, and maybe, too, that is to their credit. But the fact that few peals have ever been rung on them does not mean that the ringers are inapt. Far from it. In the old days before the war there was a band that could ring with perfect rhythm long touches of Kent or Stedman for service, and practice nights were devoted to perfecting their 'calling' on handbells.

At the beginning of the 1914 war, when most of the able ringers went to the Front, a band of boys and girls was trained to perfect striking, and I was the only pupil who had to leave home and the tower before I learned change-ringing. William Robinson was captain in those days, and for many years after: a great tower of a man who had few other interests in life than the bells he kept so well. He would stand there ringing with his eyes shut, conducting a touch of this or that. But at the first hint of bad striking he would appear to wake up, tell every ringer where his or her bell should be, and then, when everything had settled down into perfect rhythm again, he would relapse into his customary manner of appearing to shut his eyes. William Robinson had a terrific voice, and never failed to use it to the full when calling a bob or a single; and if the striking was just not perfect, whether it be rounds or changes, he would shout out: 'The whole town is listening'—as indeed it well could be. But William Robinson did not confine his ringing to the belfry only. He took pains to let everybody know just why the bells were rung and who rang them. I think there was not a person in the town who did not know that William Robinson was captain of the ringers and respected him for it.

When I had a shilling on a Sunday evening in summer, it was my delight to take a boat out on the lake and row down about a mile and listen to the bells. There was one spot where, if the weather was calm, one could hear the bells of Hawkshead, Bowness, Brathay and St. Mary's. They were all very beautiful coming over the water in the calm of a summer evening, the light, musical six of Brathay deserving special mention; but the eight of St. Mary's, with all their majesty, dominated the scene—and we had been taught to understand and enjoy them.

HENRY ALLEN.

HECKINGTON BELLS

Dawn, dusk, morning; mourning and marriage;
Out of the shadows, o'er meadows it gathers and swells:
Praise-rung, praise-rung: hearse-drawn, arm-borne or carriage:
Wheel-whirring, bronze-beating, hark! hark to the bells.

Brazen-brinded, feeble-and-fear-fainting arms bend:
Send, farmer and architect, schoolteacher and clergyman, praise;
Raise hands to the sally; ring, swing on the end,
End of a rope, hope rising with laud: Lord attend to our lays.

High-hung, swung-in-the-tower, powerful and ponderous peal,
Steal to the skies, feel for our ears: ears that have closed with our eyes:
Open our drums with thy drumming, aye, and our eye, blinded, unseal:
With the sonorous beat may our hearts, Father, farther than earthliness rise.

Slowly the ringers arrive: one, two, and, Ah! three:
Heave on the tenor dull, pull with the rolled-up sleeve;
The expert ear of the connoisseur listens to Edgar and me:
Strike, pull: full on the sally: rally your forces and heave.

Opens the door; more of the band on the stair stand
Maidenly motionless: worn by the winding ascent:
Late: wait for the word; heard, unglove the hand,
Hearts heaving: leaving their gentleness, delicate arms are now bent.

Hark! there's a sound on the stone, blown by the wind-whistling blast;
Fast up the flight clatters and chatters the sound of strong men:
Brothers: farmers three; toil of the working-day past,
Ringing the praise o'er the cornfield, o'er houses, o'er fen.

Turret, tower, timber rock: reck but the height;
Bell, wheel, rope swing: wing the songs on their flight:
Flight to the Kingdom of Peace, to the realms of the Light:
But here, here in the World, hurled on us, all, all is a night.

Only the star-in-a-velvet, sweet-studded sky thrones Love:
Christ-love, Lover of men: Saviour of the wrong-wrecked World;
Only the bells are our prayer to our Lover: Our Dove:
Oh, see! see in the heavens Christ's gem-spangled banner unfurled.

No, I'll not, Lord of all truth, ruth of all men, not despair;
My twofold tongue, in the darkness, shall utter the name of a Friend;
Blending its music with spheres. Years shall but vanish in air:
Care, Peace I shall claim: Lord of all hope, be my End.

After over 40 years of ringing, Mr. W. (Bill) Ransome, Somersham, Hunts, rang his first peal, which he also conducted. This was achieved at the first attempt at Holywell on January 10th. It was only after much talk from other ringers that he consented to have a go, and the result was a well-struck peal. The rest of the band congratulated 'Bill,' and hope it will not be another 40 years before he has another go!

From February 11th the telephone number of Mr. E. A. Barnett, hon. secretary of the Central Council, will be Crayford 26989.

Will the sender for quarter peal cards at Amersham please send his name and address.

The peal rung at Over on December 24th (see page 52) was Cambridge Surprise Major and not Yorkshire Surprise Major.

Mr. Basil Jones has now rung peals of Oxford from Minor to Maximus. He left the Minor to last—at Marple on January 10th.

Miss Catherine M. Powell, of Stoke D'Abernon, is making a name for herself as a young peal ringer. She rang her first peal of Cambridge for her 15th birthday.

Mr. John A. Acres inquires whether the 35 peals he lost qualify him for membership of the Rabbits' Guild? By the way, this Guild has had another meeting, and we hope to publish shortly a report of their proceedings.

Soham Grammar School has a handbell club, run by Mr. Richard J. Housden. Two of the members who started last September have now rung their first handbell peal of Plain Bob Minor.

The 'St. Nicolas', Guildford, ringers have had to say a temporary farewell to Miss Ann Cox, who is going to Worcester shortly. Mr. E. John Wells, who has recently moved to Guildford, was elected captain at the annual meeting held on January 26th.

BELFRY

GOSSIP

'The Belfry,' the quarterly magazine of the Maidstone District, contains a scoop in its January issue in a report of the Kent County Association's dinner at Maidstone on November 28th, written by the general secretary. Although the 'R. W.' Editor asked for a report, as he had another engagement, this has been reserved for 'The Belfry.' The president of the Central Council attended and spoke on the Sunday Service Survey.

Will the owner of the scarf lost at the annual meeting of the Monmouth District write to G. Ward, 69, Park Crescent, Abergavenny.

Ringling at Radyr, near Cardiff, the subject of residents' complaints, has been restricted to Sunday evening service and a practice once a week. Residents wanted a total ban.

Eighty-one year old Mr. Harry Wand rang in a peal at Market Overton, Rutland, on January 10th. Afterwards he and Mrs. Wand hospitably entertained the band to tea.

Mr. L. H. Bywaters has through health and personal reasons given up the office of secretary of the Biggleswade District of the Bedfordshire Association. Mr. A. S. Smith, of Biggleswade, is his successor.

Missionary work from Slough is converting Langley, Bucks, from a 'stoney' to a change-ringing tower. Mr. James Allgrove has rung his first quarter and three of the band can hunt the treble.

To call Holt's Original is an achievement. To call it while ringing your first peal is an event which makes ringing history. This was performed by Miss Brenda U. Slack, at Eltham, Kent, on January 3rd. May we add our congratulations to the many. It is unquestionably a 'first' in many directions. And what is more pleasing is that it was rung by the Sunday service band. Miss Slack's future performances will be watched with interest.

LEADING PEAL RINGERS OF 1958

Honour To Derbyshire

HEADING our list of peal ringers for 1958 is Mr. Derek P. Jones, with a total of 119 peals, all of which have been rung on tower bells. Of this total Mr. Jones conducted 76, and this makes him the leading conductor of the year.

A native of Hertfordshire, Mr. Jones started ringing at St. Mary's, Hitchin, at the age of 13, which is nearly 22 years ago. He rang his first peal (on handbells) during the war while at Oxford University, under the influence of Mr. John E. Spice. He took up school-teaching after four years in the R.A.M.C., and has been in Derbyshire for nearly five years, ringing until recently at Derby Cathedral, but is shortly to instruct the band for the new ring at Church Gresley. His peal total is just under 400, and nearly all of these have been rung from 1954 onwards.

Another Derbyshire ringer, Mr. Brian J. Woodruffe, of Fairfield, who is now at Birmingham University, is second on the list. He reached his century with 40 minutes to spare! To Mr. Woodruffe goes the distinction of ringing the most handbell peals in the year (38). Of his peals he conducted 72.

Mr. John A. Acres, of Leicester, who headed the 1957 list with an even century, has 84 to his credit this year, and is placed third. He lost 35 peals and 19 other attempts were either postponed or cancelled due to bad weather or other causes.

Mr. Philip Mehew, of Stotfold, Beds, rang 80 peals, all on tower bells, and he was closely followed by Mr. A. Patrick Cannon, of Dorking, with 79 (conducted 41). Mr. Cannon rang his peals in 73 different towers. The year 1958 was a good one for Mr. Ernest Morris, of Leicester, whose 74 peals will help him towards the 2,000 mark.

This has been a memorable year for Miss Patricia A. M. Forster, of Derby. The year of her engagement saw her as champion lady peal ringer, with a total of 52, all rung on tower bells. Second lady is Mrs. Ruth M. Border, of Coventry, with 47.

Our list is not complete—several well-known ringers have not submitted their totals.

Peals conducted are in brackets.

ROYAL CUMBERLAND YOUTHS

The annual meeting of the Society was held at St. Martin-in-the-Fields on January 17th. Ringing took place during the afternoon at St. Martin's and St. James', Clerkenwell, followed by an excellent tea in the St. Martin's canteen.

The business meeting was held in the Fellowship Hall, presided over by the Master (Mr. F. J. Cullum). Apologies for absence were received from Messrs. H. Audsley, E. Barnett, G. Cross and R. Newman.

The secretary (Mr. A. W. J. Butler) in his report stated that only four peals had been recorded by the Society during the year: Yorkshire Surprise Major at East Meon (conducted by R. Baldwin), Stedman Cinques at Lincoln (conducted by J. Millhouse), Erin Caters at Hillingdon and Erin Triples at Erith (both conducted by T. Francis). The peal at Lincoln was deserving of special mention since it was the first peal of Cinques to be rung for the Society by an entirely provincial band. Twenty-seven new members had been elected during the year—less than the previous year, but there were several potential members in the offing.

Quarterly meetings had been held at Bexley and Hatfield, and joint meetings with the South West District of the Essex Association at Prittlewell, the Middlesex County Association at Bishopsgate, and the Ancient Society of College Youths at Beddington. This was the highlight of the year and a most successful event: it was hoped that now that the two Societies had met together that they would do so again.

The Society had lost five members by death during the year: Messrs. G. F. Carter, J. L. Morris, D. Priestley and W. Sear, and, quite recently, Mrs. E. Beer. The meeting stood in silent tribute to their memory.

SUNDAY HELP WANTED

Service ringing at headquarters was being maintained, but some additional help would be welcomed at St. Martin's on Sunday mornings. The monthly practices had improved considerably, which was most gratifying.

The treasurer (Mr. F. E. Hawthorne) in his report said that although the accounts had not been finally audited, they showed a satisfactory state of affairs.

The following new members were elected: Mr. M. Carter (Finchley), Miss Anne Hull (Highgate), Mr. M. Lewis (East Finchley), Mr. D. Wilkinson (Northfleet), Miss Angela Martin (Liphook), Mr. E. Jenner and Mr. S. Jenner (Edenbridge), Mr. Ian Ogilvie (Golders Green) and Mr. J. Warner (Edenbridge).

Before vacating the chair, the Master intimated that he did not wish to stand for re-election. He said he had enjoyed his term of office but thought that the Mastership should go round. Mr. P. N. Bond was then elected Master, after a ballot, and said he was greatly honoured and would do his best for the Society during the coming year.

Other officers were elected as follows: Hon. secretary, Mr. A. W. J. Butler; assistant secretary (to deal generally with dinner arrangements), Mr. F. J. Matthews; hon. treasurer, Mr. F. E. Hawthorne; senior steward, Mr. N. Stum; junior steward, Mr. I. Oram; trustees, Messrs. T. H. Francis and A. W. J. Butler; auditors, Mrs. R. F. Deal and Mrs. T. H. Francis. Mr. F. J. Cullum was elected as Central Council representative to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mr. J. L. Morris.

Mr. A. R. Ling was thanked for his past services as steward, and it was regretted that he could not continue to carry on.

Thanks were accorded to the ladies who had prepared the tea, to the Vicar of St. Martin's for the use of the bells and the hall, and to the Vicar of St. James', Clerkenwell, and Mr. W. Prockson and Miss M. Prockson for the use of the bells and having everything in readiness.

MIDLAND COUNTIES GUILD

Annual Meeting At Repton

The prevailing arctic conditions, with the country snowbound, restricted the attendance at the 13th annual meeting of the Midland Counties Guild at Repton on January 10th, but members and friends assembled from Burton-on-Trent (St. Paul's and St. Modwen's), Winshill, Measham, Overseale, Newhall, Lulington, King's Bromley, Duffield, Derby, Chelaston and Nottingham.

A service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. G. Harcombe) and an address based on the history of bellringing was given by the Ven. E. Aldington Hunt. Bellringing, the Archdeacon said, was a witness in which ringers performed a specific work for Christ, and the art—now spreading—was traceable to well over 1,000 years B.C.

Following tea, prepared by the local lady ringers, the business meeting was held with Mr. W. H. Curson presiding.

Three ringing members from Winshill, one from St. Modwen's, Burton-on-Trent, and one honorary member were elected before the treasurer (Mr. J. H. Brittan) presented the statement of accounts for 1958, showing a small deficit balance, due to a non-recurring item of expenditure.

The hon. secretary (Mr. J. W. Cotton), in his report, spoke of the loss to the Guild by the passing of their president, the Ven. H. E. Fitzherbert, also W. J. Coxon, H. H. Hurdman and W. Bosworth. The members stood as a mark of respect. Guild membership was now 19 honorary and 109 ringing members.

During the year 33 peals had been rung at 14 towers in four counties and with eight conductors. Mr. D. P. Jones headed the list of conductors with a total of 24. Overseale, Pudsey, Braunstone, Biddenden and Ashted Surprise Major were recorded for the Guild for the first time. The hon. secretary and Mr. D. P. Jones were the Guild's leading peal ringers with 28 and 27 respectively. Personal 'milestones' were: J. W. Cotton 300 peals, W. F. Woodward 100, D. P. Jones and P. W. Grice 50 each.

Following the adoption of the reports, a discussion arose regarding a peal that was rung on a day when a meeting had been arranged and so did not conform to the rules of the Guild. It was mentioned that the peal was rung during the morning of the day in question, so did not interfere with the attendance at the meeting. It was proposed that the peal be withdrawn from the submitted list, but upon being put to the vote the proposition was defeated.

Election of officers: President, the Ven. E. Aldington Hunt; chairman, Mr. W. H. Curson; Ringing Master, Mr. A. Foster; treasurer, Mr. J. H. Brittan; secretary, Mr. J. W. Cotton; auditor, Mr. T. Pryce; committee, Messrs. S. H. Jones, W. J. Leach, W. F. Woodward and W. G. Soar.

The meeting closed with the president expressing the Guild's thanks to the Vicar of Repton for conducting the service, for use of the bells and to the ladies who had prepared tea.

GUILD of DEVONSHIRE RINGERS

About 60 ringers were present at the annual meeting of the South West Branch, held at Plympton St. Maurice on January 24th, and these included Mr. Maurice Atkins (general secretary of the Guild), Mr. W. Simmons (general treasurer), Mrs. Hood (the newly-appointed chairman of the Mid-Devon Branch) and Mr. Pearce and Mr. Sanguin (secretary and chairman respectively of the North West Branch). The service was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. Mr. Sholto-Douglas). The business meeting followed tea.

Mr. T. G. Myers gave his report, which, he said, was not of the greatest encouragement. No peals had been rung, and only one quarter peal (at St. Andrew's). The highlight of the year was the ambitious and successful outing of Emmanuel ringers, when, leaving Plymouth on the Friday afternoon, ringing took place at Chewton Mendip that evening, six towers in Bristol were visited on the Saturday, and Burnham-on-Sea on the way home. Another very successful trip was arranged for Mr. and Mrs. Fred Collins, of Croydon. In his report as treasurer, Mr. Myers was able to report a satisfactory state of affairs, with a credit balance of nearly £30, including £3 6s. in the Instruction Account.

Election of officers resulted in all the retiring officers being unanimously re-elected, as follows: Chairman, Mr. H. H. Thomas (Emmanuel); hon. secretary, treasurer and Ringing Master, Mr. T. G. Myers (St. Andrew's); auditor, Mr. Owen Thomas (Emmanuel); representatives to General Council, Messrs. J. P. Sims (captain of Emmanuel ringers), Harold Milford and Fred Day; Press officer, Mr. H. H. Thomas.

A Guild certificate was presented to Miss Marks, of St. Budeaux, by the general secretary, Mr. Atkins. The Rector of Plympton St. Maurice was elected an honorary member.

After the usual thanks from the chair, Mr. Day stressed the importance of beginners being given precise instruction, particularly in regard to 'place finding.' He also said he thought the Ringers' Prayer should be said each Sunday, either by the Vicar or by the ringers' captain.

TWO CANADIAN WEDDINGS

Last week's mail from Canada reported the weddings of two ringers who have associations with Christ Church Cathedral, Vancouver, B.C.

On June 24th Miss Mary Emmerton was married to Mr. David Barlow. The bride, who learned to ring at Christ Church, later left to study at Reading University, where she took part in the ringing at local towers. Since her return she has been lecturing at Norfolk House School and Victoria College. Mary is one of the most able and regular ringers at the Cathedral. A silver tray, suitably inscribed, was presented to her by the ringers.

The other wedding was of Lieut. T. Aikell, R.C.N., and Miss Marilene Brown, from Nova Scotia, which took place in the Naval Chapel in the R.C.N. Barracks, Esquimalt, on November 1st. Lieut. Aikell always takes part in the ringing at Christ Church Cathedral when his ship is in port. After the wedding a reception was held in the 'Naden' wardroom, to which all the ringers were invited. A silver tray was also presented to Lieut. Aikell.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Canterbury District

The first quarterly meeting of the Canterbury District was held at Deal on January 17th.

The afternoon began well with some excellent ringing on the light six of St. Leonard's with a service touch of Cambridge. The Rector (the Rev. C. C. G. Tufton) conducted the short service in church.

Some 53 members took tea, most adequately supplied by the Mothers' Union and ringers.

The business meeting was presided by the Rev. S. Evens (curate at St. Lawrence's, Thanet), who deputised for the chairman.

Mr. B. J. Luck, secretary and treasurer, reported that a notable achievement of his office was the highest membership of all the Kent Districts. The loss of Barham and the gain of the tower of Boughton were reported. Twelve new members were elected, eight from the new tower. The District representative's report deplored that at the last committee meeting the business proceeded with such haste that discussion of various aspects of the agenda was not possible. This was due to arranging the dinner to follow, allowing only two hours for business. No doubt this will be avoided at future meetings.

The next quarterly meeting was arranged for Ospringe (8) and the by-meeting for Elham (8). Dates will be advertised. The annual social was fixed for November 14th.

The collection at the service was given to the church, to be donated to a fund of the Rector's choosing.

SURREY ASSOCIATION

Northern District

About 85 ringers gathered at St. John's, Croydon, for the District annual meeting on January 24th. By 3.10 p.m. the bells were ringing in rounds, and touches of Stedman Caters, Grandsire Caters and Plain Bob Major were successfully rung. The Vicar (Canon Warren Hunt) conducted shortened Evensong and gave an address. This was followed by the unveiling and dedication of a new memorial tablet to the late Cyril F. Johnston, bell-founder and tuner. This tablet has been mounted above the doorway to the staircase of the ringing chamber. The unveiling was performed by Mrs. Johnston, who was accompanied by her son.

Meanwhile the Croydon ladies and friends had been preparing an excellent tea in the Silverdale Hall, to which a large company moved. Guests of honour were Mrs. Johnston and her family and the Vicar.

The business meeting followed, with the District Master in the chair. The annual report stated that the number of peals rung (29) was an increase of 61 per cent., quarter peals (104 in 20 towers) an increase of five per cent., and membership seven per cent. The standard in the striking competition was higher. Of the 254 members, 41 were in arrears with subscriptions.

The retiring officers were re-elected, but Mr. H. V. Young is replaced by the Rev. C. J. B. Marshall. The 1959 programme was adopted, and £2 6s. was collected for the Bell Fund.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

BROADCAST RINGING

Dear Sir,—May I comment on the letter from Mr. A. R. Bridges in your issue of January 23rd? I take it we are only speaking of bell ringing when it occurs at the beginning of a broadcast service.

The problem here is that every moment extra which we give to bell-ringing takes away from the length of time allotted for the service itself. Though we know that there are many people in this country deeply interested in bell ringing, we feel that the primary object is to provide listeners with a religious service, and therefore, I believe rightly, we restrict the bell ringing actually broadcast to about one minute.

The other question which Mr. Bridges raises, why the church bells cannot be broadcast if the programme ends two or three minutes before time, is largely technical. When one programme has been broadcast by all transmitters throughout the country, and the programme that follows consists of separate broadcasts from different Regions, a number of complicated engineering processes are involved, and these cannot be moved forward a minute or two at a moment's notice.

There is no question of a possible confusion with the interval signal, as Mr. Bridges suggests.—Yours faithfully,

F. L. COBB,
Publicity Officer, B.B.C.

CHESHIRE MEN'S FOUR IN A DAY

Dear Sir,—May I offer my congratulations to the Cheshire men on ringing four peals of Surprise in a day, and especially to Mr. Basil Jones, who is a one-armed ringer.

Those ringers who have rung more than two peals in a day will realise the amount of stamina and staying power needed by a ringer who has the use of both arms: with only one arm this must be doubled, especially as the fast times would require even more hard work.

I think I am correct in assuming that this is a record for a one-armed ringer, and it is certainly one that will not be broken in a hurry.—Yours sincerely,

GEOFFREY K. DODD.

Highclere.

PEALS WITHDRAWN

Dear Sir,—I wish to withdraw the peal of Kent Treble Bob Major rung at Birstall, Leicestershire, on September 20th, 1958, as the composition rung was false to that method.

I offer my apologies to the band and to all others who may have been caused any inconvenience.—Yours sincerely,

JOHN M. JELLEY.

Wigston.

Dear Sir,—It is with regret that I give notice of withdrawal of a peal of Spliced Surprise Major 'in hand,' rung at Leicester on October 21st, 1958, and published in 'The Ringing World' dated October 31st, 1958. I tender my apologies to the band, and at the same time wish to express my thanks to Mr. Shirley Burton for pointing out the error.—Yours faithfully,

PETER J. STANFORTH.

TACKLED IN NAVAL FASHION

Dear Sir,—When the six bells of West Overton, near Marlborough, were rung last August for the wedding of the daughter of Capt. J. D. Mansfield-Robinson, C.B.E., R.N., they were heard for the first time for some years. It was then hoped that the bells would be rung regularly and the training of a young band was started.

As a result of an ill-advised attempt to clock the tenor, these efforts were halted. A rope tied to the clapper was lowered through the hole normally occupied by the proper rope, which was itself hauled up and thrown over the frame into the second's pit.

At a later date the second was pulled off, and as the bearing caps had been left unsecured, the resulting tangle caused the bell to jump out of its bearings. Fortunately, the frame offers little clearance, and the bell jammed after falling only a few inches. Presumably the culprits did not appreciate their narrow escape.

As in the case of so many country churches, there are many claims on the available money, and Capt. Mansfield-Robinson was determined to try to repair the damage on a self-help basis. With the aid of another officer and the writer, the bell (of four to five cwt.) was re-hoisted. In the absence of any knowledge of the principles of bell hanging, the problem was tackled using the methods which served to hoist out the best bower anchor in pre-war battleships. The bell was successfully rehung.

A week later the repaired wheel was replaced and a vast accumulation of jackdaws' nests removed from the bell chamber by the aspiring ringers—all local Scouts. Capt. Mansfield-Robinson is now learning to handle a bell at Winchester Cathedral, by kind permission of Mr. W. S. Lampard, and hopes that the village bells will soon be rung regularly for Sunday services.

I hope this will serve as a warning of the results of ignorant interference, and an encouragement to those faced with unusual problems.—Yours faithfully,

J. MERRITT.

ODD AND EVEN PEALS

Dear Sir,—There are no C.C. Decisions relating to peals of Odd and Even. They have in the past accepted peals of (1) Doubles and Minor, (2) Triples and Major, (3) Caters and Royal.—Yours, etc.,

FRANK T. BLAGROVE.

Windsor.

CORRECTIONS

Peal of Minor at West Tarring (page 54) was rung on Saturday, December 27th.

Peal at Stoke Bishop (page 55) should read three extents Kent Treble Bob, four of Plain Bob.

The peal of Spliced Plain Bob and Cambridge Surprise Major rung at Bolton on January 1st (see page 53) was composed by Roger Baldwin.

LOOKING FORWARD WITH 'FATHER TIME'

Dear Sir,—What a wonderful 'Front Page' message our January 16th issue brought us from 'Father Time'! No name? What a pity!

There are I think, however, two comments worth the adding. First, to the footnote hope that Stephen Ivins and Pat Cannon would ring 50 peals together. Yes—both would get the big hand, but not, I hope, a big hat, unless in which to bury their differences rather than air them in these columns. It may have seemed funny at first but is now, I think, a little pathetic: for I heard one old-timer say that 'they've only to add a few cartoons and it could be called "The Ringers' Comic Cuts." Comic Cuts, indeed!

As to the second, must we, every first month of each year, read what some anonymous body thought of the Christmas morning ringing? What reader, or reader anywhere, needs to be told which ringing was good and which bad? Let us all remember one thing (and forget the rest) that from whichever tower the B.B.C. decides to broadcast, we shall hear the best ringing that that tower company can give us.

Let the ringing come from city and small country parish—for to the listener it is just 'bell a'ringing'—then it is all over—the time for comment has faded with 'Stand!'

We have read of the need for the 'Almighty Band'—(by the almighty—for the B.B.C. exclusively?). Yet when we get it the whole spirit of Christmas Day ringing—from the ringers' viewpoint—will be lost. (B.B.C., please note.) Read, too, of the introduction of some classy blood into a doubtful company for the occasion. Where is the Ringing Master who would stand down a recruit (provided, of course, he or she was not at all capable) to make way for Class—and how many members would he expect to turn up at the next ringing meeting if he did?

It was my pleasure to stand at Wymondham Abbey in the much criticised Christmas Day ringing of 1956 (comment—fair). We were passing, as many another company has done, and will again, through a lean time—we even had to borrow two ringers to make eight—but we rang, as we were asked, and rang our best. We had young 'uns'—(butterflies in tummies an' all) who wouldn't have missed it for worlds.

Let the bells ring out, then, for Christmas, 1959—for all the year—with power to elbows and mind of the learner—with power to patience and encouragement of the teacher; and with that precious gift, the ability to think on one's own faults. To nip differences in the bud, and to wear a small hat!—Yours, THOMAS E. SPIGHT.

WITHDRAWAL ASKED FOR

Dear Sir,—I note that in the last half column of rignarole published in your issue of January 16th and signed by Brian Warwick, there is no indication that he proposes to withdraw a peal which he now discovers to be false.

Apart from side-issues, failure to withdraw a peal known to be false savours of dishonesty, and brings no credit to those concerned.

The actions to be taken by the committees he mentions should be obvious.—Yours faithfully,

PETER BORDER.

LETTERS—Continued

SPICED CAMBRIDGE AND SUPERLATIVE

Dear Sir,—I was very interested to read Brian Warwick's letter about the peal of Spiced Cambridge and Superlative which he conducted at Hugglescote.

I would now like to explain my own position with regard to the calling of the same arrangement. During Mr. Lock's peal-ringing tour of Wiltshire in September, 1957, I was asked to call a peal of these two methods spliced, at Marshfield, Gloucester, and luckily Stephen Ivins was in the band, and before we started he asked me what arrangement I was calling and I said the one published by the Peals Collection Committee of the Central Council. He then pointed out to me that this would be false if I started with Cambridge and rang more Cambridge than Superlative, but he explained if you start with Superlative and ring each long course SCSCSCS and each short course SCCS, so that you ring more Superlative than Cambridge, then the peal would run true. This I did and the peal was rung and published.

Now going back a few years before this mistake was brought to light by Stephen Ivins by his letter in 'The Ringing World,' I called a peal in all good faith on Saturday, January 13th, 1951, at St. Denys', Rotherfield. This is apparently false, but I have not withdrawn as such because I feel as Brian Warwick does, that the onus falls on the Peals Collection Committee, and I also shall await their decision on the matter with interest. I wonder how many more conductors have been caught out and are keeping quiet: I must admit I wasn't going to do anything about it as it means altering all the Association's peal records of Sussex, and after all it is a Central Council publication.

In any case, as I've said before in a letter to 'The Ringing World' some years ago, any Spiced Surprise peal is 'suspect,' no matter how genuine the conductor may be, and in my opinion these should all be 'unpeired' the same as silent peals.

If my memory serves me right, about the same time Mr. Philip A. Corby, now of Sevenoaks, wrote a very good letter about Spiced Surprise peals—and who dares to doubt his integrity as a conductor? Perhaps Mr. Corby could get this question of spliced ringing put on the Central Council's agenda at Southport this Whitsun, and also a decision to let our peals stand as rung.—Yours sincerely,

WILLIAM ROGERS.

Rotherfield, Sussex.

SPICED SURPRISE AND SUPERLATIVE

Dear Sir,—With reference to Brian G. Warwick's letter, I would point out that I wrote to 'The Ringing World' some time ago pointing out the falseness of the arrangement of Spiced Cambridge and Superlative in question, with the object of warning conductors so that they should not ring false peals unwittingly. A letter from W. E. Critchley followed in addition.

However, Brian Warwick is not the only one to have called it—I have found at least a dozen in back numbers of 'The Ringing World' which ought to have been withdrawn when I first wrote, but of course to mention names would be odious. The simplest check is to see whether more Cambridge was rung than Superlative—if so it appears that only Middleton's or the variations thereof with tenors together will run true.

We had the misfortune to ring a false peal at Oxford last year, in 10 methods, and some of us may remember that Harold Cashmore and his band rang a false peal of 12 Spiced 'in hand,' though neither of these were published. It is always disappointing in cases such as this, for the performance of the band is as praiseworthy as if the peal had been rung true.

A case in point is the peal rung 'in hand' by Peter Staniforth and his band (see 'Ringing World' of October 31st, 1958) of Spiced Cambridge, Superlative and Yorkshire, which will have to be withdrawn owing to a misunderstanding as to how the methods should be rung in the four-lead course produced by a 'before.' It seems most probable that this was due to carelessness on my part in writing down the arrangement to be used, and I should like to express public regret to those who took part, for on handbells this was a very noteworthy performance.—Yours sincerely, Oxford.

STEPHEN IVIN.

CHISLEHURST SURPRISE MAJOR

Dear Sir,—Much has been said on the subject of plagiarism and lack of originality in composition. It is therefore with a sense of nostalgic pride in the achievements of a brilliant young man, so lately taken from our midst, that I send to you for publication in due course the figures of a composition of Chislehurst Surprise Major.

As a method, Chislehurst is hardly worthy of a second glance and the falseness of the method is such that a peal is obtainable only by parting the tenors. In John Morris' composition the tenors are, in fact, parted for just under half the peal.

It seemed to me a pity that the skill and ingenuity employed in the production of these figures should go unremarked—hence this letter. I know of no short answer but it seems rather sad that the distortions of Hattersley's famous peal of Superlative which are so numerous these days should bear equal claim to 'Composed by . . .'.—Yours truly,

P. A. CORBY.

Lincoln Diocesan Guild

The inaugural meeting of the new Central Branch of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild was held at St. Giles', Lincoln, on January 17th. Officers elected were as follows: President, Mr. J. A. Freeman; hon. secretary and treasurer, Mr. C. Brown; Ringing Master, Mr. J. L. Millhouse; representative on Guild committee, Mr. J. Freeman.

A vote of thanks was accorded to the retiring officers of the old Lincoln District.

CHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD
60 Years And Never Late

A presentation of a writing set was made at the annual meeting of the Crewe Branch at Christ Church, Crewe, on January 17th, to Mr. Wm. T. Holding, of Crewe, who has completed 60 years as a Sunday service ringer.

The presentation was made by the chairman of the Crewe Branch (Rev. Francis G. Gentry).

Except at holiday times, Mr. Holding has been in the tower to take his rope without being absent or late throughout the 60 years.

He has been a ringer under nine incumbents. He began in 1898, when the Rev. G. Howson was Vicar. Mr. Holding says that his interest in bell-ringing is still as keen as ever, but with increasing years he finds it difficult to climb the 52 steps to the ringing room. He says that if the ropes could be lowered to ground level he would still be in his place twice each Sunday, but now can only hope to attend on special occasions.

Mr. Holding's interest in the church has not been confined to the helfry. He was a Sunday School teacher for 25 years, a churchwarden for eight years, and a sidesman for many years.

Mr. Holding, who was pleasantly surprised to receive the gift from his fellow ringers at Christ Church, Crewe, expressed his sorrow in having to make a break in the Sunday service ringing. He thanked his colleagues for the present and the kind thought behind it.

PETERBOROUGH DIOCESAN

The annual meeting of the Kettering Branch was held on January 17th, about 60 members and visitors being present. The service was conducted by the Rector (Canon H. G. L. Roberts), who in his sermon likened the life of the Church to ringing. Each activity in turn he said—servers, choir, Mothers' Union, men's group, ringers, youth organisations—had its part to play. Each had a turn 'at the lead.'

At the business meeting, presided over by the Guild president, all the officers were re-elected except that Mr. G. Wright replaced Mrs. B. Austin on the committee. Seven new members were elected, and a first peal certificate was presented to Miss D. Chapman, of Isham (received in her absence by Mr. A. Garley).

It was decided to hold the next quarterly meeting at Isham on April 11th and a practice at Pychley on February 4th.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION

Mr. William Barton, of Pudsey, has been elected a vice-president of the Yorkshire Association in succession to the late Mr. Percy J. Johnson who, at the time of his death in October, 1958, had held this office for 25 years. Mr. Barton's election is a fitting tribute to the many years of service which he has given to the Association, particularly in the office of peal secretary, a post which he held for 30 years up to 1950.

HERTS COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Despite a rather cold and unpleasant day, over 40 ringers and friends attended the annual District meeting of the St. Albans Branch on January 17th.

Ringing commenced at St. Peter's, where the 10 bells were kept going until 5 p.m.

After an excellent tea, provided by the local ladies, Mr. G. Dodds presided at the business meeting when once again Mr. S. Huckle was re-elected as District secretary, and Mr. J. D. Painter was elected as the new Ringing Master.

The business meeting closed with a vote of thanks to the Rector, and to the ladies for providing such an excellent tea.

Ringing continued at St. Stephen's, where the new ring of six was enjoyed by all.

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILDChertsey District

On January 17th the annual meeting of the Chertsey District was held at Oatlands, with ringing at Weybridge in the afternoon. About 35 ringers attended, including the Guild Ringing Master (Mr. C. Denyer), the hon. general secretary (Mr. S. Russell) and the peal recorder (Major Bragg).

After the service, conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. J. H. B. McKitterick, M.A.), tea was served in the Church Hall. The business meeting followed, which was presided over by the Ringing Master. Mr. R. Collins and Mr. J. King were re-elected as District Ringing Master and Assistant Ringing Master respectively. Miss E. Loveland replaces Mrs. H. Stirland, who has recently left the district, as hon. secretary. Mr. W. Shepherd remains auditor, and Mr. T. Luxford was re-elected to the executive committee. It was also proposed that the Guild officers be nominated en bloc.

In his report Mr. R. Collins stated that the meetings held in 1958 had gained better support, with an average attendance of 40. Although membership was down by nine on the previous year, he thought this was mainly due to the fact that several members had failed to pay their subscriptions. A number of peals had been rung and seven people had gained their first peal. In reply, the chairman said he was very satisfied with the progress of the District and that he was most impressed with the success of the summer festival, which was revived last June after a number of years.

Fifteen new members were elected. The meeting concluded with a discussion of several topics of general interest to the Guild as a whole.

H. E. P.

EAST GRINSTEAD & DISTRICT GUILD

At the annual meeting, younger members of the East Grinstead Guild said that another dinner should be held, and were told by the committee, 'If you want a dinner you must arrange it yourselves.'

On January 10th this event took place at the Culverden Arms, Tunbridge Wells, and what a success it was! The afternoon began, as usual, with ringing at St. Peter's Church, afterwards meeting in the bar of the hotel, before going upstairs for the meal and usual toasts. Then the young people really took charge. They gave several sketches and a comical fashion show, and the two girls sang songs and a duet. Afterwards there was handbell ringing and party games, one of which was identifying photographs of Kent and Sussex churches. It was surprising the number of mistakes that were made.

Everyone agreed that it was the best dinner ever held and it was decided to leave it to the youngsters in future. The stars of the show were Margaret Cadd, Ann George and Messrs. S. Jenner, G. Fry, B. Jeffrey and J. Warner, with Mrs. E. J. Gadd (the only adult) at the piano. The arrangements were made by Mr. E. Brunger.

LONDON COUNTY ASSOCIATION

The Northern District held their annual meeting at St. George's, Barking, on January 17th, when ringing, which ranged from call changes to Superlative, was under the direction of the District Master, Mr. L. W. Bullock.

At the business meeting, held in the belfry, officers elected were Messrs. L. Bullock, Master; L. W. Bullock, secretary; D. Hewitt, treasurer; G. Longdale, steward. Three of the local band were elected members. Evening ringing was at St. Mary's, Woodford.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILDSouth Oxon Branch

Despite the inclement weather, over 40 members and visitors were present at a meeting of the South Oxon Branch at Thame on January 17th.

The service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. C. N. Middleton-Evans, assisted by Mr. F. Sharpe, Deputy Master of the Guild).

Tea was served in the Church Hall, after which a short business meeting was held.

Mr. T. Bowles, vice-chairman, presided, supported by the general secretary, Miss Cross; the hon. librarian, Mr. Roper; and the Deputy Master of the Guild, Mr. F. Sharpe.

Considerable discussion took place on the proposed revision of the boundaries of the Branches and the possibility of forming a new Branch.

Mr. H. Badger, Branch secretary, said that he intended to resign from that office at the next annual meeting, having now moved out of the district. The annual meeting will be held at Benson on April 18th.

Methods rung included Double Norwich and Cambridge Surprise Major.

Bicester And District Branch

The quarterly meeting was held at Ambrosden on January 10th and although it was a very cold day there was a very good attendance. Visitors came from Witney and Radley.

The fine eight bells at Ambrosden were rung to rounds, Doubles, Triples and Major methods. The Branch service, a shortened form of Evensong, was conducted by the Rev. A. F. Gatehouse, the sermon was preached by the Rev. Hugh Benson. Mr. David Smith read the lesson and Mrs. Harper was the organist. A ringers' tea was served by Mrs. Radcliffe and members of the Mothers' Union.

At the business meeting five new members were elected to the Guild and the next meeting was provisionally arranged for Launton on May 2nd or 9th.

The general secretary (Miss M. R. Cross) suggested that the young ringers were the best ones to recruit new members of their age to the towers in their area. The meeting closed with votes of thanks to the ladies who provided the tea, Mr. D. Smith, Mrs. Harper, the hon. secretary and Mr. G. Taylor, the local captain.

LLANDAFF AND MONMOUTH ASSOCIATIONMonmouth Branch

The annual meeting of the Monmouth Branch was held at Abergavenny on January 10th. The very cold weather no doubt accounted for the 'poorer than usual' attendance. However, good use was made of this fine ring of ten bells, and a warm welcome was extended to the visitors from Hereford.

The choral service was conducted by Canon M. E. Davies, assisted by the Rev. Chris. Soraris. A very welcome tea was provided by the 'wives and ringers' of Abergavenny tower. These ladies were thanked by Mr. Davis, of Hereford Cathedral.

Present at the meeting was Mr. W. Horsington, Mayor of Abergavenny, and a ringer there for many years.

Mr. George Ward, tower captain at Abergavenny, was elected Branch Master. The secretary gave a favourable report of the past year and mentioned that 24 new members had been elected.

Lower Machen was chosen for the next meeting with Llangatlock-Viben-Avel as an alternative.

BATH AND WELLS DIOCESAN ASSOCIATIONFrome And Midsomer Norton Branch

The annual meeting of the Frome and Midsomer Norton Branch was held at Chewton Mendip on January 10th. The bells were raised in peal and commenced with London Surprise Major and continued until 4.30 p.m.

The Vicar (the Rev. H. P. Kingdom) conducted the service, with his wife as organist. Tea was partaken in the Village Hall with 73 persons present.

The business commenced with the chairman (the Rev. N. Mitchell, Radstock) calling attention to the small sum of money now being paid to the Association as affiliation fees and oftentimes paid by the ringers themselves. He felt that at least one guinea per annum should be the bounden duty of all Parochial Church Councils for the voluntary service given by the ringers in their various churches. There had been some response to this and the general committee was now introducing this idea into the other branches. A wholehearted response to this appeal would enhance the financial stability of the Association and enable them to make larger grants to bell restoration schemes.

Ringing friends were welcomed from the Gloucester and Bristol Guild, the Oxford Guild and from the distant territory of the Association.

Election of officers ensued:—The Rev. N. Mitchell, chairman; Mr. E. J. Chivers, hon. secretary and treasurer; Mr. R. G. Beck, Ringing Master. Mr. F. Savage was welcomed as the new Deputy Ringing Master instead of Mr. D. Hoare, who had taken on the responsibility of general secretary. The Rev. N. Mitchell proposed, seconded by Mr. D. Hoare, that the former chairman, Mr. J. T. Dyke, be elected as president of the Branch. This proposition was enthusiastically greeted by all members, whose earnest desire is that Mr. Dyke may once again be seen in their midst. Seven new members were also elected.

Votes of thanks were accorded to the Rev. H. P. Kingdom and the organist, Mr. H. Baber (local captain), his wife and her band of lady helpers for a bountiful tea. Ringing continued until 8.30 p.m.

SIDDINGTON, GLOS

After being silent for approximately three years, the bells of St. Peter's Church, Siddington, have been refitted. A service was held on December 20th attended by ringers from a wide radius, which was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. J. Emlyn Jones). Mention was made of the work done by Mr. J. Hope, who has been instrumental in raising most of the money needed for the repair of the bells. Mr. Hope, who is 82, is a native of Fairford, and has been a ringer all his life. The ringers were entertained to tea by the Vicar. Mr. Hope raised the fund for the repair of Fairford bells in 1927.

SHEFFIELD AND DISTRICT SOCIETY

The meeting of the Sheffield and District Society, held on January 3rd, was well supported. Ringing commenced at 3 p.m., and methods ranging from Plain Bob to London Surprise Major were rung.

An enjoyable tea was provided by the local ringers, and after the business meeting ringing continued at Sheffield Cathedral. Here methods up to Cambridge Royal, Stedman Caters and Treble Bob Maximus were rung. A reasonable standard of ringing was maintained throughout the evening and much help was given to learners.

The next meeting will be held at Killamarsh on February 7th.

OBITUARY

MR. T. PYLE

A members of the Lincoln Cathedral Company until about ten years ago, Mr. Tom Pyle has died at his home at Washingborough, Lincs, at the age of 83. After leaving the city, he continued to ring at his village church up to the end of his life. In his younger days he was a keen sportsman, and as well as playing cricket and taking part in athletics, he was a left-winger with Lincoln City F.C. 60 years ago. In the evening, following his funeral, ringers from Lincoln and Washingborough rang the bells muffled as a last tribute to an old friend.

MR. H. KNIGHT

We regret to announce that Mr. H. Knight, tower master at St. Peter's, Wolverhampton, died on January 28th, aged 86 years.

CHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD

Crewe Branch

The annual meeting of the Crewe Branch was held at Christ Church, Crewe, on January 17th, when despite the atrocious weather, 70 members and visitors attended, representing 19 towers. The Guild Office was said by the Vicar (the Rev. Francis G. Gentry). Tea was kindly provided by the Church Council, and prepared and served by the ringers' wives, under Mrs. R. D. Langford.

At the business meeting, at which the hon. secretary (Mr. Wilfred Kerr) reported on the year's working, he said there had been a slight decline in peal ringing but an improvement in 'what mattered most,' Sunday service ringing. There had also been an increase in membership.

The hon. treasurer (Mr. Frank Stenson), in giving his report, called attention to arrears in active ringing members' subscriptions, and asked for a bit more interest in this matter.

All the officers, with the exception of Mr. Herbert Sutton (Ringing Master, six-bell towers), were elected; Mr. Frank Moreton was elected to succeed Mr. Sutton, and is probably the youngest Ringing Master ever to be elected in the Branch.

An omnibus vote of thanks to all who had contributed to the very pleasant and profitable proceedings was moved by Mr. R. D. Langford. A presentation of a writing set was made to Mr. William T. Holding, on his retirement as a Sunday service ringer at Christ Church for over 60 years.

SOUTHWELL DIOCESAN GUILD

Newark District

The 12th annual meeting of the Newark District, held at the Church of St. Mary Magdalene, Newark, on January 17th, was extremely poorly attended, only four District towers being represented. A fine tea was served in St. Mary's Rooms by the Newark Parish Church Society and their wives.

The business meeting was held following tea, the Rev. Mr. Coulton taking the chair. The statement of accounts and the secretary's report for 1958 were read and approved.

The following officers were elected: Chairman, F. W. Midwinter; hon. secretary, W. L. Exton; Ringing Master, J. D. Clarke; two committee members, J. D. Clarke and C. J. Copp. The collection for the bell repair fund realised 11s. 6d.

A vote of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells, the curate for taking the service and the chair at the meeting, and the ladies for tea was proposed by Mr. J. D. Clarke.

MORE BELFRY GOSSIP

The peal at St. Botolph's, Lincoln, in 17 Minor methods (see page 55), was Mr. G. Leonard Thompson's 50th peal.

The peal of 5,184 London Surprise Major at Bushey on January 1st (see age 53) was rung for the Hertford County Association.

The peal of Plain Bob Royal at the Church of St. John-the-Divine, Leicester (see page 50), was rung for the 30th anniversary of the dedication of the treble bell, the gift of the late Mr. William Willson, first Ringing Master at the church.

On Boxing Day, 1908, Mr. E. Barker conducted his first peal at Shouldham, Norfolk. Fifty years after to the day, he returned to the tower to conduct a quarter to commemorate the event. There is one other survivor of the original band—Mr. R. Bowen—and his son rang in the anniversary quarter.

Moving to Birmingham shortly is Mr. J. E. Wightman, of Sandhurst. He will be greatly missed in his own tower and church, where he is secretary of the P.C.C. and superintendent of the Sunday School. 'There are few men like Jim,' writes our correspondent, 'and he will be a great asset to the tower and parish he is going to.'

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Ashford District

The first quarterly meeting of the year took place in bright but cold weather at Benenden on January 24th, and was attended by some 30 visitors from ten towers. The service was conducted by the Vicar (Rev. A. Jessop Price), with Mr. J. R. Cooper (Ringing Master) at the organ.

After tea in the Village Hall, Mr. B. Collison, of Tonbridge, acted as chairman for the business part of the meeting, at which five new members were elected.

Thanks were accorded to the Vicar, to Mr. R. J. Brown who made the local arrangements, and to the ladies who served the tea and who coped so successfully with the unnecessary difficulty caused by people who expect an organised tea in a little village without notifying the organiser.

Ringing throughout the day ranged from rounds to Cambridge Surprise Major.

GREAT YARMOUTH CLOCK CHIMES

By the REV. GILBERT THURLOW

OUR clock has been silent and motionless these last 16 years and more, ever since 2.35 a.m. on June 25th, 1942, when its works collapsed in flames. But soon it will once again be alive and moving, proclaiming to all that the Church itself is alive and moving with the times.

The Central Council for Care of Churches has put me in touch with their consulting expert, Mr. T. R. Robinson, of Bristol, who is perhaps the greatest expert in the country outside the profession. The proposition eventually selected by him, and confirmed by Mr. Dykes Bower, was that G. and F. Cope and Co., Nottingham, should be entrusted with the work.

It is impossible properly to abbreviate a technical specification such as theirs, but it may be noted that it will have a $1\frac{1}{2}$ seconds pendulum with an 'Invar' steel rod, a precision double three legged gravity escapement, and it will be automatically wound by a $\frac{1}{4}$ h.p. electric motor. The hands will be of heavy gauge sheet copper, finished with double thickness 22 carat English gold leaf. The hour strike unit will be driven by a $\frac{1}{4}$ h.p. electric motor, controlled by a mercury switch and magnetic brake; the hammer which will strike the hours on the tenor bell will weigh 60 lb. The quarter chime unit will be similarly constructed. There will be proper provision for lifting all the hammers clear of the bells before they are rung up. The clock as a whole, and in addition all switches and moving parts, will be properly enclosed in accordance with the best modern practice.

The important question of the music of the quarter chimes demanded the most serious consideration and advice from the largest possible number of qualified people. It was felt that, as hundreds of thousands of people will hear them, including vast numbers from all over England, Yarmouth ought to have a really distinctive chime, which people will come in future years to associate with this place and with our great church. I therefore wrote both to the 'Yarmouth Mercury' and to 'The Ringing World,' the national bell-ringers' weekly, asking for suggestions.

A number were sent to me. The choice was narrowed by the fact that the chime sequence must repeat during the course of an hour. If you hum the Cambridge Chimes (wrongly called the 'Westminster Chimes') you find that the music of a quarter past repeats at a quarter to, half past repeats at the hour, and so on. This is in order to make the chime barrel of reasonable size, so that it turns twice (and not once) during the course of one hour. This meant that hymn tunes and a good many other chimes could not be used.

It was felt that we ought not to copy the Cambridge Chimes. Since they were copied for the Houses of Parliament in 1859, they have become far too common, over 60 per cent. of the clocks erected in the last 40 years of the 19th century being equipped with them. As Starmer says in his 'Quarter Chimes and Chime Tunes': 'This wholesale reproduction is much to be regretted. A friend says that no less than seven public clocks near his residence play them, and as far back as 1895 Sir John Stainer wrote to some who were erecting a new clock: "You will be doing a kindness in turning out the Westminster Chimes, of which everybody is heartily sick".' And this, remember, was some 45 years before they became audible everywhere through the wireless!

Amongst the suggestions sent was one from Mr. Brian Price, of Felpham, Sussex. As a brilliant musician, bell-ringer and mechanic (he has built a 'ringing machine' as complicated as a telephone exchange, which will ring changes in any known method on miniature bells), he is very well qualified in this direction. He suggested a skilful adaptation of two themes from 'Dona Nobis Pacem,' by Bach. These happen to be precisely in the key of our new bells, they are extremely dignified and are magnificent music. We discussed these and other chimes with care, and invited readers' views through the 'Yarmouth Mercury.' This brought a letter from far away, from a lover of Yarmouth, who thought them magnificent. They were also warmly approved of by Cope the clock maker, Mears and Stainbank the bell-founders, the organists of Norwich Cathedral and Yarmouth Parish Church, and a number of other qualified people. It seemed, therefore, right to make use of these chimes, subject to the final approval of the architect, and this has been given.

The music of the chimes is as follows (transposed to the key of C for convenience in printing here). Theme 1, aedcbdcceAG; Theme 2, CDEFedecFEDC; Theme 3, GABCBabgCBAG. Thick capitals represent semibreves, ordinary capitals minims, small letters crotchets. Theme 1 is a quarter past, Theme 2 (twice the length of Theme 1) is half past, Themes 3 and 1 are a quarter to, and Themes 2 and 3 are the hour, whilst the tenor bell, a fifth below, completes the theme. What finer musical association could be desired than that of 'Dona Nobis Pacem'—'Give us peace'?

A farewell peal to Mr. Eric T. Lee was rung at Upton-on-Severn on January 10th in appreciation of his great help to many ringers in the Worcestershire Association where he has made numerous friends. Eric was the first joint secretary of the Society of Roving Ringers. At his home town, Godalming, and later at Midhurst, he did good work as an instructor. We wish him every success in his new post as engineering assistant at Wokingham R.D.C.

Bristol University Society has decided to apply for affiliation to the Central Council.

Miss A. Ince, who has only been ringing 12 months, called her first quarter at Redruth, Cornwall, on January 28th.

The peal of Plain Bob Minor at Gamston was the first for the Southwell Diocesan Guild where all the calls were singles. Five of the band are single!

Congratulations to Allan R. Jones who conducted his first touch (a quarter peal) of Stedman Triples at Northampton on February 1st. A creditable performance, and a good quarter was rung.

The successor to Mr. G. F. Roome as secretary of the Northampton Branch of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild is Mr. E. Billings, 61, Melville Street, Northampton. Will holders of diaries please note.

After 23 unsuccessful attempts to produce a tuneable ring since 1606 at Steeple Ashton, Wilts, the ring of six will shortly be completely recast and made heavier. To date, five of the new bells have been adopted, the ringers being responsible for the tenor.

The band who rang the peal of Stedman Caters at Leicester Cathedral on January 26th would like to associate the names of Herrick B. Bowley and Richard A. Prime with this peal; they were, at the last moment, prevented from taking part through illness.

BELFRY

GOSSIP

Mr. Leonard Derrick, captain and steeplekeeper at Holy Trinity, Nailsea, near Bristol, has been admitted to Cossham Hospital, Bristol, for observation following an illness affecting his sight, and will probably be undergoing an operation. His many friends in the Exercise wish him a speedy recovery.

Mr. J. Bennett, on his world tour, sends greetings to all ringing friends from Honolulu, Hawaii, 'the Paradise of the Pacific.' We hope he was duly garlanded in honour of his 1,000 peals.

For his 85th birthday, Mr. C. Glass rang the treble at Heavitree, Exeter, to a quarter peal. His membership of the Guild of Devonshire Ringers extends for 73 years, and he is still the honoured captain of the Heavitree band.

The resident Cupid at Bristol University has been working overtime, judging from the number of congratulations to married or engaged couples announced by the Master at the Society's annual dinner.

A great welcome was accorded Mr. Geo. H. Cross when he made the journey from Devon to London to attend the annual dinner of the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths on Saturday.

The Society of Roving Ringers held their annual meeting at St. Albans last Saturday, when there was a large attendance of members. Mr. M. J. Horseman was elected Ringing Master and Miss Audrey Bailey and Mr. M. C. Austin hon. secretaries.

The band who rang the peal at Dickleburgh would like to thank Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Catchpole, who kindly entertained them to tea before going to Diss where, joined by Mr. A. G. Harrison, they rang 720 St. Clement's Minor half-muffled in memoriam Mr. G. W. Moss, former churchwarden at Diss.

UNIVERSITY OF BRISTOL'S RECORD REUNION

THE annual dinner day of the University of Bristol Society took place on January 24th. Ringing commenced at St. John-on-the-Wall's at 9.15 where, despite the earliness of the hour, a large number of ringers was present. At the Cathedral a large company was anxious to sample the fine new ring of eight. Here one notable touch was three leads of Bristol Major. Ringers then proceeded to St. James', whilst ten members departed for a peal attempt of Stedman Caters at St. Stephen's which, unfortunately, came to grief after about an hour and a half due to two bells changing courses. St. Thomas' and St. Mary Redcliffe's were visited during the afternoon.

Ringling at the Society's home tower, St. Michael's, preceded the service, which was conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. F. C. Vyvyan-Jones. The organ was played by Mr. David Heighton, and members of the Society formed the choir. The lesson was read by Mr. John C. Baldwin.

THE DINNER

The dinner followed in the Senior Common Room of the University, by kind invitation of the president of the Society, Professor R. J. Brocklehurst. After an excellent meal, the president proposed the toasts to 'The Queen' and 'The Church,' and then new members were presented to him by the secretary. The president extended a warm welcome to the large gathering and expressed his pleasure at seeing so many former members as well as many visitors. At least four past Masters were present.

The secretary, Mr. Brian Wyld, proposing the toast of 'The Visitors,' mentioned that a record number of 91 was present. He extended a warm welcome to the Dean of Bristol who, he said, had recently been introduced to the ringing fraternity by the rehanging of the bells of the Old Temple Church in the Cathedral, and also to the Vicar of St. Michael's, Mr. Frank Hansford (chairman of the Bristol City Branch of the G. and B.), the Masters of Oxford, London and Reading Universities, as well as many friends from the city and visitors from as far apart as Somerset and Norfolk.

Replying on behalf of the visitors, Mr. Frank Hansford expressed gratitude to University ringers, as on occasions without their help the bells would be silent. They were always ready to welcome members, whatever their standard of ringing—and for the smaller member boxes could be supplied, and ropes lengthened too, in certain cases!

Mr. Jim Pailing, Master of Oxford University Society, then proposed the toast of 'The Society.' He said how pleased he was to hear of the good relations which existed between the University and city ringers. He congratulated the Society on its peal of 10,000 of Plain Bob Major in June, and concluded by saying how pleased he was to see so many members of the Society in the early stages of ringing—for these were the people on whom the future of the Exercise depended.

After thanking Mr. Hansford and Mr. Pailing for their kind remarks the Master, Mr. Patrick Bird, said he had recently seen it stated that there was a great revival of ringing in the Universities, but he thought that it would be better to say a great awakening, in view of the number of new University Societies formed in recent months; and to all these Societies he extended his best wishes for a successful future.

A University Society was invariably faced with the problem of a changing population. Three years was a very short time, and all too soon the pupil became the instructor. University ringing had, he said, been described as a 'hot-house process,' but so, it must be for its very survival. The Master spoke of the difficulties of instilling interest in the novice in view of the many other University attractions, but emphasised that every attempt was made to encourage the novice because a University Society had a duty to perform, not only to itself but to the Exercise as a whole.

CENTRAL COUNCIL MEMBERSHIP

The greatest problem at the moment was, he said, 8-bell ringing; 8-bell practices were held periodically, but these were not sufficient, and he called upon members to take advantage of the help offered by the city ringers who were always ready to give help and advice. In spite of its problems, however, the Society continued to flourish, and recently it had been decided to apply for affiliation to the Central Council, a very important step in the progress of the Society.

The Master said quarter peal attempts had been instituted at St. Michael's on Sunday evenings to encourage those not yet up to peal standard. In connection with Sunday service ringing, they had so many ringers that he considered it his duty to send ringers to help other towers who were less fortunate, for he thought it better that three towers should ring reasonable rounds than have one tower ringing Surprise whilst two towers remained silent.

At the president's suggestion the company adjourned to the more friendly atmosphere of the lounge, where visitors remained talking to old and new friends and ringing handbells. A very enjoyable evening ended soon after 11.

The thanks of all concerned are expressed to Mr. Wyld for organising such a successful dinner.

ESSEX ASSOCIATION

South-Western Division

The icy wind which was blowing on January 10th did not seem to deter the South-Western Division when they held their annual meeting at Brentwood, for almost 100 members and friends were present. The service was conducted by the Rector (Canon Stokes).

The business meeting followed the pattern of all A.G.M.'s, a highlight being the large number of new ringing members elected. A sad note was introduced by the announcement of the death of young Roger Moore, of Epping, who had that week been killed in a cycling accident. Since the last meeting the Division had also suffered the loss of Mr. Nelder, of Wanstead, who, at the age of 90 years, was the oldest ringing member of the Division. Mr. Chalk recalled that Mr. Nelder was still singing in the choir when he was over 80. May they both rest in peace.

Mr. Willmington read an excellent report for the year, commenting on the healthy state of the Division, both as regards membership and finance. He commiserated with Hornchurch at having their bells out of action for such a long period. We were all pleasantly surprised when it was announced that the Brentwood ringers had generously entertained us to tea at their own expense! Our thanks are due to them for making us all so welcome, and to the Rector for conducting service for us.

Lincoln Guild: Dinner In Honour Of New Branch

Despite the wintry conditions prevailing on January 17th, more than 150 members and friends were present at a dinner and social evening in Lea (Gainsborough) Women's Institute Hall to mark the formation of the West Lindsey Branch of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild.

Prior to the dinner, a business meeting was held at Gainsborough in the Parish Church School Hall followed by a service in Gainsborough Parish Church conducted by the Vicar (Canon J. E. Roberts), at which the address was given by the Archdeacon of Lindsey (Ven. E. Lisle Marsden). During the afternoon ringing took place on the bells of Gainsborough Parish Church and also at Lea.

Officers elected at the meeting were: Canon J. E. Roberts (president), Mr. C. H. Baker (vice-president), Mr. G. L. A. Lunn (secretary and treasurer), Mr. G. E. Feirn (Ringing Master), Mr. J. M. Blaikie (Guild representative). Messrs. J. M. Blaikie and M. L. Mann (auditors) and Mr. M. L. Mann ('Ringing World' correspondent).

It was also agreed that meetings be held during the year as follows: May 9th, Haxey and Owston Ferry; July 18th, Willingham; September 19th, Broughton; November 21st, Blyton and Messingham.

Lea Women's Institute Hall was appropriately decorated for the occasion and the tables were adorned with vases of daffodils and anemones. On the top table was a large white iced fruit cake, made in the shape of a bell, complete with canons and suitably inscribed.

Canon Roberts welcomed the guests and thanked Archdeacon Marsden for being present to propose the toast to the new Branch and for his inspiring sermon in the Parish Church earlier in the evening.

In proposing the toast, 'The West Lindsey Branch,' the Archdeacon said there was no ringing in the world to compare with that in England and some of the best was to be found in Lincolnshire. He welcomed the formation of the new Branch and said he had always felt the Lincoln Diocesan Guild was too top heavy. Now the Northern Branch had been split into three it would be more easily administered. Response to the toast was made by Mr. C. H. Baker, who has recently completed his 50th year as a bellringer.

Following dinner, the Haxey handbell ringers played a selection of well-known tunes, and a tape-recording, with commentary by Mr. Lunn, was played of bells from 18 of the 19 towers in the Branch area. The bells not included were those of Redbourne, which are not in good enough condition to be rung.

Full Or Part-Time

Dear Sir,—Travelling to a ringing meeting on Saturday week, the only other occupant of the compartment was an ex-National Service boy. He politely asked what my badge was. I told him and described the meeting I was attending. To this he enquired: 'Is it full or part-time?'

I have yet to see outside the local Labour Exchange 'Ringers wanted full time for peals.' Could you also claim insurance benefits when not ringing?—Yours faithfully,

A. HENSON.

West Bridgford, Notts.

Eight young lady ringers then appeared on the stage and as they stood to their ropes in a very realistic looking 'belfry,' a recording was played of the eight bells of Gainsborough Parish Church, which the same girls had rung in the afternoon. They were Vivienne Richardson (Brigg), Shirley Guymer (Saxilby), Wendy Spacie (Blyton), Jean Blackburn (Messingham), Joy Till (Upton), Dorothy Golland (Epworth), Delia Smith and Mary Stapleton (Gainsborough).

The 'christening' cake was cut by Mrs. Baker (vice-president's wife) and handed round prior to the party breaking up about 11 p.m.

The excellent support given to this event, so efficiently organised by the hon. secretary (Mr. Lunn) is a measure of the keenness and enthusiasm in the West Lindsey Branch, which augurs well for its future.

RABBITS' GUILD FEAR VICTIMISATION

THE second annual general meeting of the Rabbits' Guild was held on October 4th, World Animal Day, and the Feast of St. Francis, Patron Saint of the Guild. As a precaution against intrusion or victimisation, the time and place of the meeting were not publicly announced. For the same reason the meeting is reported without the use of members' names or mention of their towers.

The Master began his address by expressing his pleasure in greeting such a large gathering, including members of every Guild, Society and Association, and of hundreds, he could almost say thousands, of towers. That the Rabbits' Guild, with its strict conditions for election, has so large and enthusiastic a membership so soon after its inception proves that it is supplying a great need for the depressed classes of ringing's underworld. (Tumultuous applause). He said that news constantly reached him of increasing respect for the devoted labours of rabbits in the belfry, and of more enlightened methods of instruction, following the principles laid down by the Guild. He thought it would not be long before the Guild's opinion would be sought as a matter of course on all questions pertaining to the recruitment and training of ringers on the one hand, and the avoidance of wastage through many preventable causes on the other. Indeed, already on more than a few occasions its advice had been asked for and gladly given.

He pointed out that the Guild is probably unique in that it is working towards its own eventual extinction. By that he meant that its labours in securing the welfare of rabbit ringers and demanding better instruction and conditions for them can only result in the production of fewer potential members. The Guild could, therefore, be very proud of its own altruism.

'THE BACKBONE'

'Finally,' he said, 'we must never forget that we rabbits are the backbone of the Exercise. Lacking though we all are in natural ability—or we should not and could not be members of this Guild—and humble though we must always be, no body of ringers can equal, far less surpass, our proud record of patient endeavour, stoical endurance of failure and scorn, and last in order but first in my estimate, faithful, regular and punctual attendance for service ringing.'

A becoming blush suffused his countenance as he ended on a personal theme, thanking the Guild for its telegram of congratulation on achieving his first quarter of Grandire Triples. A voice being heard from the back of the hall, 'No peals, please!' the Master smilingly replied that if it took him four times as many years to score a peal as a quarter, the Guild need have no fear of his living to be expelled for peal-ringing. (Cheers.)

The Society's report began with the list of those who have rung their first peals during the year (one at the 99th attempt during 40 years) and are therefore no longer eligible for membership. The meeting stood in silence before applauding heartily the exploits of their late brethren.

The next item was the Roll of Honour of instructors and Ringing Masters whose methods are approved, some by recommendation of their pupils, others by examination. The Roll already contains a fair nucleus of successful candidates, but the secretary had to report that in far too many cases where a panel of senior rabbits had attended towers for test instruction, the teaching offered was of a very low standard, and admission to the Roll had to be refused. Their most frequent criticisms were haphazard ways and lack of planning, the permitting of bad habits, feeble discipline and the cruel and stupid practice of breaking the hearts of would-be ringers with Grandire Doubles. They complained, too, of a widespread failure to bring up learners in the faith that service ringing is primarily neither a hobby nor a social event, but a duty and a privilege. This part of the Guild's work is fast expanding and more volunteers are required for the panels of assessors.

DEPRAVITY!

It had come to the notice of the Guild that certain persons, not members, had made and worn devices which were, they claimed, the badge of the Rabbits' Guild. The meeting was shocked and grieved to hear of such depravity.

The remaining business of the meeting was then transacted. To prevent further fraud there is to be designed a Guild badge, to be worn openly or secretly at the discretion of members. In response to a pathetic request from some ex-member peal ringers to be allowed to retain a contact with the Guild a special badge is to be designed and issued to them.

It was resolved that a statement embodying the Guild's advice on teaching be drawn up and made available to Ringing Masters. The language is to be simple and direct. A resolution proposing that the Guild should compose and issue its own Learners' Manual was narrowly defeated, the strongest argument against it being that if Ringing Masters would use the books already available there would be no need for another.

To carry into effect the above resolutions an ad hoc committee was set up.

As several members adverted to the tendency in many towers to treat service ringing as an extra practice, this subject was fully discussed, when the extent of the evil became known for the first time. It was unanimously agreed that members of the Guild must at all times oppose this corrupt habit, and insist that their contribution to Sunday ringing is the best of which they are capable. 'Good rounds, not bad changes' is to be their motto. They must always steadfastly but politely refuse the invitation to 'have a go' at any unfamiliar or untried method on Sunday, rather than jeopardise service ringing.

Arising out of this discussion, it was resolved to send to the Central Council a message of congratulation on its decision to carry out a survey of Sunday service ringing, and to pledge the unwavering support of the Rabbits' Guild in all attempts to improve the standard of performance and to train and maintain bands in towers at present silent. Members will undertake more than their strict share of the sweeping and dusting of ringing chambers to relieve their more dismal aspects.

Ringing, which ranged from ellipses and ovals through rounds to Boh Minor, took place before the meeting, but could not be resumed after tea because it was not possible to replace the stays.

UNIVERSITY OF LONDON SOCIETY ANNUAL DINNER

THE 12th annual dinner of the University of London Society took place on January 31st at the Mitre Tavern, Chancery Lane. Prior to the evening's festivities an enjoyable afternoon was spent in ringing the new eight at St. John's, Hackney, the old eight at St. John's, South Hackney, and the new ten at St. Clement Danes—a good selection for the collectors of rare towers.

The attendance at this function seems inevitably to increase each year, and the previous record was again broken when 63 members and friends took their seats for dinner.

The toast of 'The Church' was proposed by the Master, Mr. Roger Keeley, in a manner which augurs well for his future as an ordinand. At the conclusion of his speech the Master presented a memento in the form of a silver bell to the retiring Rector of St. Olave's, Hart Street, the Rev. A. Powell Miller. In his reply, which he described as his last public appearance as rector, the Rev. Powell Miller spoke of the close association of the Society with his parish, and of the power of church bells as instruments of worship.

Mr. Wilfred Williams proposed the toast of 'The Society' in a witty and pithy speech. Mr. David Martin, in replying on behalf of the Society, recalled the early history of the Society.

The health of 'The Visitors' was proposed by Mr. Derek Sibson, and an impromptu reply was made by Mr. A. A. Hughes, who ably filled the gap left in the toast list by the absence through illness of Mr. Peter Bond.

In his concluding remarks during a successful evening the president, Mr. P. M. J. Gray, spoke of the heavy loss which had been sustained by the premature deaths of three of the Society's members within the last few months, and announced the inauguration of a fund to provide a memorial to J. L. Morris, David Priestley and G. F. Carter.

WADHURST CHURCH BEAUTIFIED

The Church of SS. Peter and Paul, Wadhurst, has been enriched by a wrought-iron screen, beautifully carved, to separate the porch, which is the ringing chamber, from the nave acoustically. To the ringing chamber has been added a cupboard for clothes, and the bottom of the clock weight case has been camouflaged to match the same. The room has also been panelled, radiators boxed in, with recesses for handbells above and two forms provided for seating. The whole of the woodwork is of fumed oak. In addition a new carpet has been provided, and on the north wall a glazed peal record frame with 24 divisions. This magnificent gift to the church is from Mr. J. O. Fairbrother, in memory of his wife and two daughters.

The memorial was dedicated by the Bishop of Chichester (Rt. Rev. R. P. Wilson) during sung service on January 25th, when the church was filled to capacity and the ringers acquitted themselves well as befitted the occasion.

On the following Saturday a peal of Grandire Triples, the first in the method on the bells, was rung. All the peals on the six were Minor, and the two previous peals on the eight were Bob Major and Bob Triples.

CHEAP NOTORIETY

Dear Sir,—As a member of the Cambridge University Guild, I was shocked to read in a recent issue of 'The Ringing World' a report of a performance on handbells which was claimed as two peals of Minor. I have no objection to the resident members of the Guild wasting their time on 'stunts' like this; when I was in residence we did a good many mad things, but we refrained from publishing them in your journal.

This performance seems to me to be on a par with other things perpetrated in recent years: there is a section of the ringing community which appears to delight in making more or less cacophonous noises on bells purely to test the reaction thereto of the Central Council. Most ringers know that there has never been any real necessity for strict rules as to what is a peal and what is not: they base themselves on the unwritten rules that were formulated long before the Central Council was thought of.

I would suggest in all seriousness to the conductors of these performances on handbells rung simultaneously that they should withdraw their claims, by means of a letter to 'The Ringing World,' that two peals of Minor were rung. By their action in publishing this performance they have laid the Cambridge University Guild open to the suggestion that its members are irresponsible seekers of cheap notoriety. I know for a fact that this is not so, but nevertheless I sincerely hope that in the interest of the good name the Guild has hitherto enjoyed, the performance will be withdrawn. — Yours faithfully,

W. T. COOK.

GREAT YARMOUTH CLOCK CHIMES

Dear Sir,—May I warmly thank all those who, in response to my recent letter in 'The Ringing World,' sent me suggestions for the quarter chimes for Great Yarmouth Parish Church. Many of these were most interesting. The 'winner' whose chimes are described in an article on the front page of this issue, will have as his 'prize' the satisfaction of knowing that his chimes will lift up the hearts of millions of residents and holidaymakers in Yarmouth for generations to come. Thank you, Brian! — Yours sincerely,

SURVEY OF SUNDAY SERVICE RINGING

Dear Sir,—As mentioned by Mr. Philip Gray in a letter in a recent issue, I shall be pleased to receive reports from individual towers of any special progress or success during 1958, if possible with a note as to what is thought to be the main factors for such success.

Such items as: Silent towers restarted, newly established change ringing bands and exceptional progress of established bands, first local band peals or quarters or local handbell peals of exceptional merit.

Will those with anything of interest on these or similar lines please write to me.

Completed Association Surveys should be sent to Mr. P. Gray, Orana, Eastmead Lane, Stoke Bishop, Bristol 9.—Yours, etc.

CHRISTMAS DAY RINGING

Dear Sir,—I should like to support Mrs. Thirst in her plea for the abandonment of the annual comments on the Christmas ringing broadcast (see page 79).

These comments serve no useful purpose since, as Mrs. Thirst points out, anonymous criticism is valueless; indeed, the most obvious inference to be drawn from the fact that your critic withholds his identity is that he does not have the courage of his own convictions. — Yours faithfully,

DESMOND PAINTER.

CENTRAL COUNCIL AND COURSE

Dear Sir,—In view of certain comments which have been made on the subject of the Council's participation in the course at Dillington House, may I make it clear that while, on behalf of the members, I support the principle of the course and am grateful to the Dillington House committee for organising it and taking the financial responsibility for its presentation, for reasons which I need not enter into here the Council has not been responsible for the compilation of the syllabus of the course, the contents of which do not therefore necessarily represent the views of its members. — Yours faithfully,

E. A. BARNETT.

WEEK-END COURSE IN RINGING SUBJECTS

Dear Sir,—As readers of your issue of December 19th last may have noted, in both the letter from the secretary to the Central Council (Mr. E. A. Barnett) and the advertisement by the College of Campanology, we propose to run, in the forthcoming Easter vacation, a short residential course in ringing subjects at the Somerset Education Committee's College for Adult Education, Dillington House, near Ilminster, Somerset.

Dillington House is a large and beautiful country house situated in its own extensive grounds surrounded by parkland. The house has been internally modernised in view of its educational purpose to accommodate 40 persons.

The College of Campanology has accepted our invitation to co-operate, and following its advice and that of Mr. Barnett also, we have decided to change the original mid-week proposal to one of a weekend, when interested persons might more conveniently attend.

The course will begin on Friday evening, April 3rd, 1959, with dinner, followed by the first session. Lectures with discussions and demonstrations will continue throughout the next day, Saturday, April 4th, and on Sunday morning, April 5th, the course finishing with lunch on that day.

It is intended that lectures and demonstrations should cover the following subjects: Belfry Care and Maintenance, Planned Training in Elementary Ringing, Theory of Method Structure, Introduction to Conducting, and Composition. A practical period is also envisaged.

Proposed lecturers are all well known in the Exercise and include the president of the Central Council, and the Principal and an Examiner of the College of Campanology.

The inclusive charge of £3 3s. per student covers tuition, board and accommodation, and any local travelling costs in connection with the studies.

It is considered that the course will be of interest and benefit to all over school-leaving age, but particularly to those with some knowledge of ringing and especially to would-be instructors.

Those interested are requested to write for reservations and details, as soon as possible, so that the best arrangements may be made for all concerned. Support of these proposals may enable a series of courses to be run, with varied programmes to suit requirements. — Yours faithfully,

HARVEY SHEPPARD.
Warden.

WEST OVERTON BELLS

Dear Sir,—Lt.-Comdr. Merritt in his letter infers that West Overton bells have not been rung for several years. However, the Marlborough Branch of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild did hold a meeting there on December 21st, 1957. Although not many attended, we found the bells went quite well despite the lack of artificial lighting, and some good and varied ringing resulted. I, for one, look forward to an early return to this tower. — Yours faithfully,

PARSONS AND BELLS

Dear Sir,—I have been following the correspondence concerning the Bow peal with some interest, particularly as I am a tower foreman and also a churchwarden.

It does not appear to have been mentioned that an incumbent (with the churchwardens) is just as much responsible for the bells and fittings as he is for any other part of the church. One would normally assume, therefore, that 'permission to ring a peal' would imply exactly what it says, and that incumbents should know that a peal extends to not less than 2½ hours under normal circumstances.

The fact that incumbents in general do not appreciate this fact only goes to prove that they do not, in most cases, take the interest they should in their bells. We so often hear the phrase 'my bells' used when a question of authority is brought up, but if one asked a very simple question relating to the bells, or inquired as to the last time the incumbent even visited the belfry (let alone the bell chamber), the odds would be on getting a negative reply in both cases.

To be fair, there are parsons who do take interest and, where this applies, the results can usually be seen in many ways—the number and quality of the ringers, and in their ringing, with youngsters always coming along. Usually, the exact opposite is apparent in a tower where no one outside the actual ringers (if any) takes any interest. I doubt if there can be any more disheartening task than trying to teach, and bring along, young ringers without the support of anyone, apart from, perhaps, one or two loyal ringers. There are as many unactive ringers as there are active ones; and although there may well be many reasons for this, I feel certain that, if a poll were taken, most of the fault would lie with the incumbent who looks upon his bells as 'something to do with my church,' rather than a very real and important part.

The result obtained from this attitude is that those ringers who are interested enough will find towers other than maybe their own to ring in, with the situation where we find fewer towers ringing, either for service or practice, because no interest is shown by those whose job and responsibility it is to be interested. I fully appreciate that ringers are not exactly asked to take up ringing—it is essentially a service given to the Church, and no one would wish to alter that; but I do wonder sometimes how many parsons would give their services to the Church whether they were asked or not.

—Yours faithfully,

Brightwalton, Newbury.

IDENTITY WANTED

Dear Sir,—I have in my possession two old photographs showing six workmen of the now extinct firm of John Warner and Sons. These were taken outside the main doors of different churches, together with bells, clappers, wheels and ropes. One who was a foreman, George Dunn, has been recognised by Mr. G. H. Myers, of Plymouth. Two others, John Phillips and John McKenny, were well known to me. Five members of the firm were Plympton men.

The inscription on one bell is as follows: 'Richard Nairn Dean 1739.T.L. To the Glory of God Amen. Edward R. Currie S.T.B. Dean. Fredrick Gorham Titchhurst, Alfred Uwins, Churchwardens. Ascension Day, 1890.'

I should be very pleased if someone could give some information about this bell. Apparently it was recast in 1890. The photographers were John Chaffin and Sons, Yeovil.—Yours faithfully,

W. G. LAVERS.

MORE RINGING OF THE CHANGES IN KENT

Dear Sir,—On a recent practice night at Bethersden a touch of Minor finished up with a great crash whereupon one ringer was heard to remark, 'I hope Reg Pellet didn't hear that!'

So you see, Reg, the good handlers can't always maintain good striking and sometimes the not so good handlers strike the bells very well—I've heard some good call change ringing by the Woodchurch band in the past and certainly hope to hear some more.

I recall that a few years ago the Woodchurch band rang call changes for over two hours to celebrate a royal event—this is often spoken of around the district and not many ringers can boast of such a feat—their captain, Mr. Town, called the changes, I believe, and deserves credit for doing so.

Actually I do drop into one or two neighbouring towers to lend a hand sometimes, but owing to personal circumstances my ringing activities have had to be curtailed quite severely in the last few years. I would point out that if any ringer is interested in becoming a good handler he must get out and about and ring on all sorts of bells and with all sorts of ringers. This is the only effective way (I dare say Pat Cannon will confirm this statement).

Most of the great men of the Exercise have travelled very many miles for their ringing, and it pays off in the end.—Yours,

WILFRED W. RING.

Bethersden, Kent.

ST. CLEMENT DANES'

Dear Sir,—Some few weeks ago I read in 'The Ringing World' that ringers would be welcomed to help with the ringing for Sunday service ringing at the Church of St. Clement Danes, Strand. So on Sunday, January 25th, with a friend we travelled to London with high hopes of a ring on these fine bells, but alas! our hopes were soon gone.

As we walked towards the church the bells were being raised so we entered the church and were about to climb the steps to the ringing chamber when we were stopped and told that visitors could not go up. I told this young man that I was a ringer, but he still said I could not go up as the bells had been booked by the ringers already up there. He added that they were two short and the conductor was ill, but still he would not let us go up, but told me to apply to a Mr. Barnett for permission to ring on Sundays.

Please, Mr. Editor, could you or any of your readers tell me the address of Mr. Barnett, as I should very much like to have a ring on these fine bells. Owing to my duties I am working nearly every Sunday, but maybe I can fit one in at a future date. I have rung in many towers up and down the country, but this is the first time I have been refused permission even to enter the ringing room. I must say it was a very cold welcome on a cold Sunday afternoon.—Yours truly,

CHARLES S. SMITH.

Ford End, Chelmsford.

[Note.—The address of Mr. E. A. Barnett is 26, Iron Mill Lane, Crayford.—Ed.]

Dallington, Northampton

Dallington, Northampton, ringers decided at their annual meeting on the following title of their Society: 'Dallington St. Mary's Guild of Church Bellringers' (affiliated to the Northampton Branch of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild and the Central Council of Church Bellringers).

Officers elected were: President, Mr. G. Morgan; tower captain and secretary, Mr. E. Nobles; assistant tower captain, Mr. J. G. Chapman; treasurer, Mr. K. Alton.

The Central Council's survey form was filled in.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION

South and West District

The annual general meeting of the South and West District was held at Harlington on January 17th. Despite the bad weather there were 35 members present. Ringing during the afternoon and evening ranged from rounds to London Surprise, and the light ring of eight bells here was put to good use.

The business meeting took place in the Church Hall after the service and an excellent tea. The following officers were elected for 1959: District chairman, F. W. Goodfellow; Master, D. Fowles; secretary, E. R. Gotham, 14, The Meadows, Trenches Farm, Langley, Bucks. To the members' great regret, Mr. W. H. Coles, who has been vice-president and presided over meetings of the South and West District for very many years, was unable to stand for the newly-created post of District chairman owing to pressure of business. For the same reason, and because he had moved out of the district, Mr. W. T. Cook was unable to take office for a further year as District secretary. Members expressed their confidence that the new officers would be able to carry out their responsibilities as efficiently as their predecessors.

The secretary's report for 1958 showed that during the year there had been a marked increase in activity in the District, and special mention was made of the new bands recently formed at St. Peter's and St. Mary's, Staines, St. Stephen's, Ealing, and Norwood Green, while increases in membership were reported from other towers. The secretary warned the meeting, however, that the standard of striking, both at meetings and among the various Sunday service bands, left a great deal to be desired.

In an attempt to remedy this situation, it was moved that the 'service touches' at each meeting should be rung by a complete band from one tower or another—the idea being to encourage members to attend meetings who would not normally do so, as members of their local bands, and also to have a chance of getting at least one touch at each meeting well struck, to serve as a standard of comparison for learners.

A proposal that, in view of recent events at Bow-in-the-Road and elsewhere, incumbents in the District should be written to, pointing out the dangers of allowing indiscriminate use of their bells to visiting ringers, which might have unfortunate repercussions on local bands, was defeated by apathy among the members in the shape of five votes to four against, with 25 or more abstentions.

The meeting concluded with a vote of thanks to all those who had helped to make the meeting a success. W. T. C.

OBITUARY

MR. A. W. BALDWIN

Mr. A. W. Baldwin, of Cirencester, passed away on January 26th at the great age of 96. He came to Cirencester about 34 years ago from Fakenham, Norfolk, and joined the local band. With them he rang until about ten years ago, when failing eyesight prevented further ringing, but he remained interested right to the end.

Mr. Baldwin helped to ring in a muffled peal for Disraeli in 1881.

The funeral took place at Holy Trinity Church, Watermoor, and the ringers were represented by Mr. F. J. Lewis and Mr. W. A. Godwin, two very old friends.

On the Tuesday evening a quarter peal of Grandsire Triples was rung half-muffled as a last tribute: F. J. Lewis (conductor) 1, F. J. Lewis, jun. 2, B. Wakefield 3, E. H. Jefferies 4, H. L. Cooke 5, P. Morgans 6, W. H. Hayward 7, P. J. Lewis 8. F. J. L.

MR. JOHN CURRY

Mr. John Curry, of Crossgate, Pinchbeck, died at his home on February 3rd, aged 81 years. He had been in ill health for about 20 years and had not been able to ring for the past 12 years. He learned to ring at Surfleet under the Rev. H. Law James, but on getting married joined the Pinchbeck band. He rang about 80 peals, his last being in 1944. He was a foundation member of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild.

The funeral service took place on Saturday, February 7th, at St. Mary's Church, Pinchbeck, the half-muffled bells being rung by members of the band and friends from neighbouring towers both before and after the service.

MR. HERBERT KNIGHT

Mr. Herbert Knight, a well-known and highly-respected figure in West Midland ringing circles, died at his home in Wolverhampton on January 28th following a stroke.

Mr. Knight, who was 86, had been tower master at St. Peter's Collegiate Church, Wolverhampton, for over 60 years, and it was a coincidence that he should have been taken ill while ringing on a practice night on the 12 bells with which he had been associated for so many years.

A native of Somerset, Mr. Knight came to Wolverhampton some 65 years ago, and until his retirement he was associated with the printing industry. A member of the Society of Change Ringers for the Archdeaconry of Stafford since 1894, Mr. Knight had for 40 years of his membership officiated as lay secretary until his resignation in 1949.

His total of peals exceeded 500 in a wide variety of methods. Perhaps two of the most noteworthy of these peals was one of Grandsire Triples which he conducted whilst blindfolded, and a silent peal of Stedman Triples in which he took part. In his young days, when public transport was not what it is today, Mr. Knight would often walk miles to ring in peal attempts and attend practices at towers on the outskirts of Wolverhampton.

A man of sterling character and of a quiet, unassuming nature, he was always ready to give advice and assistance to learners. He will be greatly missed, and future meetings of the Society for the Archdeaconry of Stafford will hardly be the same without him.

The funeral service took place at St. Peter's, Wolverhampton, on January 31st, and was conducted by the Rector, Canon J. Brierley, who was assisted by the Rev. C. H. Barker, lay secretary of the Society for the Archdeaconry of Stafford. There was a large congregation, which included officials and many members of the 'Staffords' and other ringing friends. Before the service the bells of St. Peter's were rung half-muffled. The sympathy of Mr. Knight's ringing friends and acquaintances is extended to his daughter and sister in their bereavement. May his soul rest in peace. F. C. A. B.

SOUTHWELL DIOCESAN GUILD

Mansfield District

About 60 ringers attended the first annual meeting of the Mansfield District held at Mansfield on January 24th, with about 14 towers being represented.

Ringing took place at Mansfield and Mansfield Woodhouse Churches, and tea was provided by the local ladies in Grove House.

Mr. S. W. Fossey took the chair at the business meeting. The ten new members elected were Miss B. Salt, Mrs. M. E. Gibson, B. Hinchcliffe and J. Andrews (Hucknall), D. W. Camm, D. J. Camm, D. Gibbs and M. Brown (Eastwood) and H. Prout and G. Oakley (Warsop). Mr. J. R. Ketteringham was transferred from the list of non-resident life-members to a resident member. The Rev. P. M. Caporn, of Eastwood, and the Rev. C. W. A. Pegler, of Greasley, were elected vice-presidents.

The balance sheet and secretary's report were read and accepted.

The following officers were elected: Chairman, Mr. S. W. Fossey; hon. secretary, Mr. D. H. Rooke; committee, Mr. A. Brown and Mrs. M. Woodhead; Ringing Master, Mr. H. T. Rooke. The Bell Fund collection amounted to £1 3s.

It was decided to hold the next meeting at Hucknall on March 7th as a joint meeting with the Nottingham District.

It was proposed as a recommendation to the general committee that when stocks of the present badge are exhausted a smaller badge be produced.

After appropriate votes of thanks a short service was conducted in Mansfield Parish Church by the Rev. E. W. C. Bale immediately after the meeting.

Ringing again continued at both towers until 9 p.m. in a wide variety of methods ranging from rounds to Southwell Surprise.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Rochester District At Borden

A very happy and successful meeting of the Rochester District was held at the ancient Village Church of SS. Peter and Paul, Borden, on January 24th. Under the leadership of the District's new Ringing Master, Mr. C. S. Jarrett, the bells were kept going to the usual standard methods till 4.30 p.m., when the ringers' service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. John G. Phillips). The captain of Borden tower, Mr. E. C. Barton, read the lesson. Tea, which was kindly given by the local ringers, was served in the Village Hall to over 70 ringers and friends.

The Vicar presided at the business meeting. Mr. T. Barton, the District secretary, apologised for Mr. W. A. J. Knight, who was absent owing to a chill. Mr. A. Dunk gave a full account of the committee meeting at Maidstone, dealing with the Central Council's visit to Ireland, peal booking fees and belfry repair funds. He was supported in these reports by Mr. B. May and Mr. G. Butcher.

The District secretary and Mrs. T. Barton were congratulated upon their marriage last month at Tunstall, where both are service ringers. Congratulations were also extended to Mr. Charles E. J. Norris and Mr. Harry Springle, of Chatham, upon their 50 years' membership of the Kent County Association.

One new member from Stockbury and six from Rainham were elected. A collection for the Belfry Repair Fund amounted to £1 18s. 10d. A vote of thanks was accorded to the Vicar, the organist, Mr. E. C. Barton and the ladies and friends who helped and provided the tea.

THE LADIES' GUILD

The Central District held their annual meeting at St. Ann's, Stamford Hill on January 31st. This fine ring of eight was put to good use by a large number of members and visitors. A short service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. F. J. Finch) in the Memorial Hall, followed by a buffet tea.

Before the business meeting commenced Mrs. K. Lock (president) thanked the Vicar for his warm welcome, the ladies who had provided such an excellent tea, and Mr. E. Rowe, who had made the ringing arrangements.

In the absence of the vice-president, Mrs. Savory, whose husband was ill, Mrs. Lock was voted to the chair. Attendances at meetings in 1958, reported the secretary, had improved and there were now eight honorary and 61 fully paid-up members. The secretary's report was adopted on the proposition of Mrs. Rose. The financial position was very satisfactory and the accounts were adopted on the proposition of Mrs. Lock.

The officers elected for 1959 were: Vice-president, Mrs. Savory: hon. secretary and treasurer, Mrs. S. Bullock; committee, Mesdames Hart, Collins, Bagworth and Rose; representatives to general committee, Mesdames Hart and Collins. Mrs. Bullock was congratulated on her last year's work. Two new members were elected.

The president reminded members that her term of office expired this year and a new one has to be elected at the annual general meeting at Southport in May. Nominations were invited.

Ringing ranged from rounds to Cambridge, Yorkshire and Superlative. H. S.

A PEAL ON STEEL BELLS

The steel bells of St. Clement's, Hastings, cast in 1863 by Naylor, Vickers and Co., of Sheffield, are well known to ringing visitors to this seaside resort. Although the weight of the tenor is only 19 cwt. its diameter is 60in., which would be equal to a 40 cwt. bell of proper bell metal. They are all very odd-struck, the tenor being exceptionally slow at handstroke, rather like Christ Church, Dublin. Several well-known ringers, amongst them the late Keith Hart, expressed the opinion that they were unpealable to Major! An attempt was made in 1947 with four of the band who were successful on January 31st. Three peals of Triples have been rung—Stedman in 1912 and two of Grandshire in 1936. Anyone who wants to ring an awkward tenor will find no better example than the one at St. Clement's, Hastings.

NETHERTON, WORCS.—On Jan. 24th. 1,260 Grandshire Triples: W. Davies 1, H. J. Shuck (cond.) 2, Yvonne Edwards (first quarter) 3, F. G. Handley 4, H. Hubball 5, R. Edwards (first quarter) 6, S. Prestidge 7, W. Hughes (first quarter) 8. Rung half-muffled in memoriam Mrs. Stevens, mother of the Vicar.

THE ROMANCE OF THE FALSE PEAL

By ERNEST MORRIS

HOW humiliating it is to any composer who has the misfortune to be 'found out' in producing a false peal, and what a disappointment to any band ringing one. There is little consolation in the fact that nearly all composers—both great or otherwise—have 'fallen for it,' and strange to say, more often than not in the simplest methods. Yet this happens from time to time, and will go on doing so. In the early days of our art, when men were groping more or less in the dark as it were, one could understand that many false compositions were produced and rung. Several of the early peals of Grandsire Triples on the Holt's ten-part plan were rung with ordinary singles halfway and end, thus being false. The first peal at St. Mark's Church, Leicester, was like this, and we used to say it was so ashamed of itself that the tablet erected to commemorate it can hardly be read owing to the lettering—red capitals and gold letters on a light brown background—being faded badly.

Some time ago Mr. Peter Crook wrote in these columns that there ought not to be any such false peals nowadays if young conductors would take the Central Council's publications. Yet even there one finds many false compositions which are supposed to be collections of the best in their several methods. We are reading about the false Surprise peals even today! They are by such eminent men as C. H. Hattersley, A. Knights, A. Craven, H. Dains, J. A. Trollope and others. Sometimes we see a perfectly true peal of little more than the usual length reduced falsely by putting in a shortening course or part in the wrong place. Such a one is that by J. A. Trollope—Bob Major reduced falsely (C.C. Collection).

One recalls a similar case where a perfectly true peal of T.B. Major by F. Robinson was so reduced falsely and rung five or six times, including the very fine performance in ringing it on the back eight of the old Bow Bells.

On one occasion the late Arthur Knights called a peal of his own composition—Grandsire Caters—at Chesterfield, and at its conclusion said: 'You have rung a false peal, gentlemen!'—he had noticed while actually ringing a false course coming up! And speaking of Grandsire Caters, the late John Carter composed and called one with a band of veterans all over 70 which—years afterwards—was found to be false. In this same method there are compositions in the C.C. Collection by William Willson and C. H. Hattersley which are false. My own very first effort, based on a musical plan by F. H. Dexter, who pronounced it true—both his and mine were rung—after over 20 years later—was proved false!

Some years ago here at St. John-the-Divine's, Leicester, a peal of Bob Royal was rung, and whilst in progress a large stone and other smaller ones fell down from the spire. On investigation later the spire was found to be unsafe and taken down. The facetious say it was this false peal of Bob Royal that did it. In that simple method the C.C. Collection has one by H. Dains that is false.

The writer on one occasion was invited to take part in a peal of Stedman Cinques at Lincoln Cathedral with Messrs. Wm. Pye and company. By a mischance my train from Leicester was so late that I missed the connection at Nottingham. The band assembled and a substitute took my place, and I arrived at Lincoln to hear the best part of a most excellent peal. Over a year later the composition of this peal was found false, so at least I missed that one!

In 1887 the late Sir A. P. Heywood composed and conducted a peal of T.B. Royal which proved to be false, but the same band rang another—a true one—the next year to replace this. A similar event in 1894 happened when John Carter called a peal of Stedman Caters which was false but was rectified by the same band ringing a correct version a year later. The meticulous Charles H. Hattersley produced and rang a false peal of Stedman Caters, which later on I had the misfortune to call on handbells; and in a similar way the late W. H. Inglesant had one of the same method that was rung several times.

One recalls in connection with famous long peals the record peal of Grandsire Cinques at Painswick, Glos, of nearly 12 hours duration. (I was invited to be in this but could not go on account of business.) After the band had rung in one attempt of over nine hours the tenor man gave up, so James George volunteered and rang it to the peal. Alas, on the figures being published it was found to be false.

The long peal of Stedman Cinques at Southwark—a most brilliant performance of over nine hours on those heavy bells—many years later was found to be false in its composition.

Gabriel Lindoff on one occasion in the North of England composed and conducted the then record length of T.B. Major (17,000 changes), and that was false. What tragedies these must have been to the bands concerned.

Some years ago the Yorkshire Association printed a list of false peals that had been rung—about 40—and Mr. Barton, the peal secretary, wrote about some of them thus: 'A very old one, a four-part of 5,440 Bob Major, by Thos. West, was rung at Otley in 1882. In this peal Jasper Snowdon took part, and it is remarkable that he overlooked this composition as it is hopelessly false. This goes to prove, once more, how easy a false composition can pass scrutiny, no matter how capable the scrutineer may be.' Other false peals Mr. Barton pointed out included D.N.C.B. Major, by J. H. Blakiston, and among them such famous names as Henry Johnson (T.B. Major and Stedman Caters), C. Severn (T.B. Major), Geo. Lewis (Bob Major), W. Sottenstall (T.B. Major), J. Thorp (T.B. Major), Rev. H. Law James (Cambridge Royal), Sam Wood (Grandsire Cinques), A. Craven (Bob Major) and others.

Even in these enlightened days we still find our greatest living experts in this field producing false compositions of Grandsire Caters, Surprise Major, and so on. Not being satisfied with single methods, they are producing false 'spliced' ones!

We come back to the old but true saying: 'To err is human.'

Cottingham bells, East Yorks, will be silent for the next five months as an overhaul is in hand by Messrs John Taylor and Co., including the recasting of the seventh. This bell was cast in 1739 by E. Seller, of York, and gives a dead sound compared with the other bells. The overhaul will cost about £600 and all the bells will be fitted with ball-bearings.

Mr. Louis Willders has 'completed the circle' of Blankney, Lincs, tower.

The first peal on Tytherington (Glos) bells, a nice five, was rung on February 7th.

Mr. Harry Poyner, of Leicester, who has been teaching at Ormskirk, is shortly taking up an appointment at Shrewsbury.

It was Richard Hough (not Haigh) who was commended for his entry in our Christmas Quiz. Richard is at Marlborough School, where he has started a band. We regret the misprint.

Arranged by Mr. Joseph W. Cotton, a bell-foundry week-end was held at Loughborough, by kind permission of Mr. Paul Taylor, when four peals were rung. 'Physically, three in one day at the foundry is a straightforward assignment,' writes Mr. D. P. Jones.

Ringers in West Kent would like to congratulate the new Master of the Royal Society of Cumberland Youths upon his election. They are looking forward to meeting him on numerous occasions in their towers during his term of office.

Mr. J. H. Cook and his 16-year-old son, Roland, circled to peals Asfordby tower, Leicestershire, on February 7th, the performance of the father being for the second time. Roland is the first Asfordby-born ringer to conduct a peal on the bells.

BELFRY

GOSSIP

We are getting more clerical ringing members. The Rev. T. H. Dart, Rector of Aldershot, and his senior curate, the Rev. A. Brown, have joined the Guildford Guild, and the Rev. E. W. B. Cordingley, Rector of Stevenage, the Herts County Association. At Salisbury Theological College there are eight ringers and 15 students learning to ring at the various city churches.

Charminster, Dorset, proposes to augment its ring from six to eight. Towards the cost of £600 approximately £300 has been raised.

The ringers of the peal of Minor at Thorner, Yorkshire, on January 31st, would like to express their appreciation of the hospitality shown to them by Mr. and Mrs. Hartley.

Mr. Ranald Clouston is retiring from Hampstead Borough Council in May, after three years' service. He hopes then to have more time for detailed inspections of Suffolk towers.

Mr. T. A. Palmer, of Aldbourne, secretary of the Marlborough Branch of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild, is in Saverne Hospital, suffering from concussion and facial injuries following a cycling accident. He is reported to be making satisfactory progress and hopes to be discharged from hospital in a few days.

The bells of Wallingford, Berks, are to be rehung on ball bearings and the frame strengthened: their re-opening will be announced in 'The Ringing World.' These early 17th century bells (tenor 21½ cwt.) have been regarded as 'men's' bells, and until January this year service ringing was call changes. A new band has now been formed and includes lady learners for the first time in the history of the tower. It is hoped that when the restoration is completed more learners will be attracted.

NEW SURROUNDINGS FOR CUMBERLANDS DINNER

THE BELL, at Holborn, where countless dinners of the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths have been held, is no more. For the Society's annual dinner on February 7th a new headquarters had to be found and a happy choice was The Deacon's Restaurant, Walbrook, where an excellent dinner was served amid pleasant surroundings.

It was a happy evening for the new Master, Mr. Peter N. Bond, and among those who gave him support was a number of Masters, including Mr. George H. Cross, from Devon. A contingent from Newark were also present.

In proposing the toast of 'The Church,' Mr. F. E. Hawthorne spoke of ringers' indebtedness to the Church and that he thought 99 per cent. were members of the Church. Unfortunately, he said, they had some ringers who for personal gain would endeavour to ring anywhere and anyhow. If they thought that a church had a ring of bells and there was some difficulty in the past in ringing a peal there, they would make application to the Vicar or Rector, couching their letters in terms known to ringers but not to many incumbents. Some of these clergy might think that a peal was from five to ten minutes or three-quarters of an hour—whereas it would take 2 hours and 40 minutes or 3½ hours. He asked ringers seeking permission to ring a peal to first approach the local captain, or, if writing to the incumbent, let him know that it would be three hours' continuous ringing.

They had to bear in mind that during the last 50 years ringing had become much more a part of the life of the Church than formerly, and to maintain that happy state they should keep the closest relationship between the incumbent and ringers and to avoid heavy ringing in a built-up area.

The Rev. Meredith Davies, Vicar of Shoreditch, made a delightful reply, recalling many of his experiences, both humorous and sad, in regard to his 26 years spent as a prison chaplain.

BELLS A GREAT HERITAGE

He said he was rather disappointed that there were some incumbents who did not value their bells. He looked on bells as part of their great heritage and part of England, and the harmony of bells was as sweet to-day as in the bygone ages. He was really proud of Shoreditch bells as he listened to them pealing that day, and he was very thankful to Mr. T. Francis, who came to Shoreditch each Monday to train a young band.

The toast of 'The Society of Royal Cumberland Youths' was proposed by a past-Master, Mr. T. H. Francis. He spoke with pride of the record of the Society, going back 200 years to the day it was founded by George Patrick, and mentioned that the stalwarts of the Society in past centuries had their counterpart in this age in Jack Goldsmith, Tom Coles and George Cross. They remembered with gratitude those who had gone before. Some had been good ringers and conductors, some composers, some writers, some did spade work behind the scenes, but they had all helped the Society in their way.

IN AUSTRALIA

The Society in its early days was composed of very few members in and around Shoreditch and its influence was not much outside of London. But as travel became better the Society expanded until today they had members in all parts of the country and in various parts of the world, notably Australia. They had members who left the Society never to return, some through differences of opinion, others through outside influences. They had learned their ringing in the Society but never thought to give anything back. In spite of these losses the Society lived on and its membership went from strength to strength.

At the present time London was short of ringers; the Society was short in London and in consequence London ringing had suffered. But ringing for the Society was being carried on in other parts of the country. 'We may ring and ring peals for our edification, but we ring primarily for the service of the Church and the love of God. With that thought in mind I ask you to stand and drink to the Society so that we may grow from strength to strength.'

Replying, the Master said he felt that night very proud but very humble to be in the chair. Very proud to be Master of this great Society but very humble when he thought how difficult it was to follow their recent Masters—Messrs. George Cross, T. Francis, Walter Ayre, F. E. Hawthorne, H. E. Audsley and F. J. Cullum.

He asked members to support their monthly practices, which had been going very well of late at St. Martin's, and also their quarterly meetings. During the past year four peals had been rung, and particularly noteworthy was the peal rung by Midland members, of Stedman Cinques, at Lincoln Cathedral.

The company stood while the following five members, who had died during the year, were remembered: Messrs. G. F. Carter, J. L. Morris, D. Priestley, W. Sear and Mrs. E. Beer.

The Master recalled that history was made by the joint meeting of the Society for the first time with the Ancient Society of College Youths. They had gained 29 new members during the year, which was rather fewer than in recent years, and he asked members to do all they could in helping forward recruitment. He acknowledged the great assistance the immediate Past Master had been to him and also the work of the junior steward, Mr. Ian Oram, and his mother, in the dinner arrangements.

The Society's secretary, Mr. A. W. J. Butler, proposed 'The Guests.' This was acknowledged by Mr. T. W. White and also, on behalf of 'The Ladies,' by Miss J. W. Garner.

The entertainment was of a high order, with unaccompanied singing by the St. Martin's Quartet, popular airs at the piano by Roy Kirkby, and recitations by Miss Carol Kirkby and Mr. David Russell.

THE COMPANY

Supporting the Master on the top table were Miss J. W. Garner, the Rev. M. Davies, the Rev. G. Blacktop, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Cullum, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Francis, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Hawthorne, Messrs. E. A. Barnett, G. H. Cross, I. H. Oram, M. Cross, J. Huxter and T. W. White.

Others present were Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Deal, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Prockson, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Matthews, Mr. and Mrs. P. Humphries, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Baker, Mr. and Mrs. F. Huckstepp, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Audsley, Mr. and Mrs. T. Bevan, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Raithby, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Exton.

Messrs. A. W. J. Butler, A. Cutler, N. Steere, R. Caporn, R. A. Kirkby, M. Lewis, S. Jenner, G. Jeffrey, M. Carter, J. Warner, B. V. Collison, I. Zass-Ogilvie, Tall, J. Witherington and A. J. House.

The Misses V. Smith, J. R. Cox, J. Beresford, Ivy Roe, H. Talbot, A. George, M. Harte, Nolan, C. Pulling, A. Hull, V. Hester, M. Prockson.

LINCOLN DIOCESAN GUILD

North Lindsey Branch

The Northern Branch of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild, which covered a large area and had been in existence for 60 years, has been divided into three Branches.

The three former Districts are now the North Lindsey Branch, West Lindsey Branch and the Central Branch.

This change will simplify the administration and give all Branches equal representation on the Guild committee.

The first meeting of the North Lindsey Branch was held at Barrow-on-Humber on January 24th, and followed a service conducted by the Vicar (Rev. E. Hutchin).

Canon H. Thackray, Rector of Bigby, was elected president, Mr. G. W. Moody secretary and treasurer, Mr. J. Bray Ringing Master, Mr. F. Lord Branch representative on Guild committee, Messrs. M. Walker and G. Dobbs auditors.

It was agreed to have six meetings in 1959.

Mr. Bray said he hoped these meetings would be well supported, and mentioned that the Branch had a good proportion of young ringers. He had been pleased to find during a recent survey that there was fairly regular Sunday service ringing in many towers in the Branch, although the ringers were not all members of the Guild.

The president said the name North Lindsey was very appropriate to the area. He wished the Branch every success, and said that a good team spirit would enable the Branch to become stronger and make progress.

He hoped the young ringers would continue to support the Branch and keep records of ringing and other events that would be of interest in future years.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Harding's Silver Wedding

On Saturday, January 24th, a peal of Double Norwich Court Bob Major was rung at St. Mary's Church, Pinchbeck, in honour of the silver wedding of Mr. and Mrs. N. V. Harding, of Roydon, King's Lynn.

After the peal, Mr. and Mrs. Harding entertained the ringers and other friends to dinner at the White Hart Hotel, Spalding. Among those present were Mr. Harding's mother, who had travelled from London for the occasion, and Mrs. R. Noon, Mrs. C. Wade, Mrs. C. Burrell, Mrs. S. Bennett and Miss R. Gagen and the band, whose names will be found in the peal columns.

The toast was proposed by Mr. R. C. Noon, and a social evening followed which was much enjoyed by all.

This is the second time Norman has taken part in a peal of Double Norwich Court Bob Major for a silver wedding, the other being his first peal in the method on September 12th, 1928, at Shere, Surrey, on the silver wedding day of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Goldsmith.

DERBYSHIRE ASSOCIATION SALUTES THE BRIDE

THE seventh annual dinner and social of the Derbyshire Association proved to be an unqualified success. Every available seat was occupied and there were about 30 disappointed people who were unable to obtain a ticket.

About 100 guests enjoyed a substantial meal of turkey and plum pudding served at the Corporation Hotel, Derby. The proceedings were quite informal, and there was only one brief speech, made by Mr. J. F. Smallwood, who congratulated the Derbyshire Association on the prominence it had attained in the Exercise, mainly through the activities of their younger members. Although he greatly admired and appreciated their performances, there were occasions when the enterprise and enthusiasm of some of the younger ringers in the ringing fraternity caused him not a little amusement.

He instanced the case not long ago when the extent of Plain Bob Major was attempted, and he understood from reports in the Sunday papers that provision was made on that occasion to provide some relaxation from the monotony of such a long stretch by having bottles of beer and cigarettes placed in strategic positions for consumption during the peal. He suggested that the monotony might have been further reduced by having a barber in attendance when he could have provided them with a haircut and shave!

Another instance of cause for amusement was the avowed desire of certain other ringers to ring seven peals in one day! This was apparently only spoiled by the selfishness of some people living near the towers where the peals were desired!

TWO PEALS AT ONCE

Yet another instance was this business of ringing two peals at once. If these peals were rung in the way he imagined (there seemed to be no authentic information) he did not see why the idea should not be extended, and the ringers could have a piece of simple apparatus constructed to fit their heads to which a bell could be attached, also a bell could be fixed to each elbow, and possibly one to each knee, making it possible to ring seven peals at once!

He had learned that two prominent Derby ringers had decided on matrimony and he felt they would all wish him to say that if Patricia made as good a wife as she was a ringer, she would do. He proposed a toast to the future happiness of Gordon Halls and Pat Forster.

Then followed the more important feature of the evening—the bestowal of the coveted order of 'Capita Magnissimuss' on the most worthy belfryman of the year in the Derbyshire Association. This award has been concocted and devised by those two arch conspirators, Denis Carlisle and Gordon Halls.

THE CITATION

With much mock solemnity, Miss Pat Forster was summoned to come forward whilst Ben Cooper read the citation, which is as follows:—

'You, Miss Patricia Mary Anne Forster, although a member of the gentler sex, have shown beyond all shadow of doubt that you are a worthy candidate to receive the most coveted award of Capita Magnissimuss.

'You have not enacted any colourful adventures similar to those performed by your predecessors, rather you have gained this award because you epitomise that strange creature—the female bellringer.

'One word crystallises the objects, aims, desires, aspirations and motives of the female bellringer—Hunting. You, like other female ringers, entered the hunt, followed a straight line and have, barring last-minute accidents, brought home your quarry.

'Cunning, audacity, persistent tenacity, the weapons of other medal holders are all in your armoury, but in addition you have the advantage of such female attributes as tenderness, cruelty, cupidity and meekness.

'As an innocent schoolgirl you came to Derby to join the Teachers' Training College. What the object of their training was we are not sure, but they certainly don't teach you the joys of the handstroke at home and the Tittums position—at least not in the campanological sense.

'You were able to handle a bell when you arrived in Derby and within a few weeks you were taking your first steps in hunting. After a rapid search of the area in the company of fellow huntress and near medal holder, Vivienne Horton, you were disappointed to find that all the most attractive males were married.

'Unlike Vivienne, who extended her activities to the more profitable fields in the Birmingham area, you made the best of things and settled for the perhaps not so well-endowed Gordon Halls.

'He liked peal ringing so you became a peal ringer—he liked to ring fancy methods so you learned fancy methods. After 75 peals with the object of your affections, or, rather, intentions, he began to notice you, but you must do greater things to make him react so . . .

'You decide to display your ability by conducting a peal: of course you must not appear too clever so you timidly ask Gordon to instruct you on how to conduct. The lengthy lessons enable you to be alone with him, and at the same time in the role of a teacher his ego is inflated.

'Does he realise that you are different from other ringers, that you are a girl—no, his voice drones on—he's too preoccupied with Wrongs, Middles and Belfores to think about a home—his breath down your neck is barely warm. At last luck comes your way—he buys a new pair of glasses—he can see now that you wear a jumper and skirt—not trousers.

'The plan goes ahead—you must not fail to get the peal—you choose your 21st birthday for the occasion—that will make him realise you have well passed the age of consent.

'Taking no chances the band is chosen—seven conductors and yourself ringing Middleton's. All goes well, the only handicap is that in order to get in first you have to call the bobs half a lead early.

'Gordon is impressed with the successful accomplishment of the peal, but more so with his own ability as a teacher.

'Greater efforts are needed.

'Well knowing the sadistic nature of your erstwhile swine, beg pardon, swain, and knowing the gloating pleasure he derives from seeing the mighty fallen, you conceived and set yourself the most audacious task of deflating the ego of one of the greatest veterans in the Exercise—none less than JAFUS, alias Frank Smallwood, himself.

'This peer of belfrymen, raconteur of belfry stories, convener of "The Ringing World" editorial committee, most ancient youth of the College, ringer at St. Paul's Cathedral, is known throughout the kingdom as a specialist in Stedman Triples—holders of the role of Capita Magnissimuss pale into insignificance beside his noble stature.

'What courage to select him as your target—what prowess to trick him in his favourite method!

'The stage is set at Ashbourne, where there has been no peal for 35 years, the method of Stedman Triples.

'All goes well, course after course is tapped off in perfect rhythm. The quarter peal is passed when two people enter the church, bringing goods for harvest festival. Both look very cold, one is carrying a cabbage and the other is frozen to a marrow!!!

'The great one is irritated by this intrusion, his concentration falters, he looks round—this is your chance. You are both in the slow—he comes to give you one for your last whole turn—you turn his one into two and lo and behold you have changed places with never a falter in the rhythm. Your brilliant success is only revealed to the amazed Jafus at the course end when the conductor calls "Stand—two and three have crossed over." Two and three are Miss Forster and Frank Smallwood.

'Having now proved your skill, courage and cunning, all manly virtues—you have now only to demonstrate your femininity. This is easy—you starve yourself for a whole week prior to a peal attempt at Cresswell—halfway through the attempt you genuinely swoon through "man-nutrition" into the arms of your choice. Even he is able to carry you in your emaciated state, and he does so, thereby demonstrating what little manly strength he has. Later, at the home of Bessie Holmes, you quickly recover after eating everything on which you can lay your hands.

'Gordon is now your protector—the time is ripe to hook the poor fish. You skilfully manoeuvre him alone one evening to the R.A.F. Club, where you unobtrusively keep his tankard full. He feels a warm, satisfied glow creeping over him—he broods on a long engagement, say five to ten years—hardly realising what he is doing he pops the question—"Will you marry me?" Quick as a flash you reply—"Yes, next February 14th."

(TO THE AUDIENCE)

'Some of you here may not believe the facts cited in this citation—you may say "this is not true—her motive is an obviously genuine interest in bells and bellringing."

'Sad to say you have been hoodwinked—next Saturday Pat's motives will appear in their true colours when she gets married to Gordon at a church where the only bell music is provided by gramophone records.

'Miss Forster, it gives me great pleasure to award you the medal of the most noble Order of Capita Magnissimuss—you entered the hunt—kept steadfastly to your line and now your task is almost completed—next week you may proudly call "Stand"

He then placed the insignia of the order round Miss Forster's neck. This insignia has to be seen to be believed.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

APOLOGY PREVIOUSLY SENT

Dear Sir,—No one will regret more than the members of the Peals Collection Committee of the day, of which I was a member, and on behalf of which an apology was sent by the convener of the present Committee a year or so ago, that a false arrangement of Spliced Surprise was included in the Collection of Peals of Major. To anyone with more than an elementary knowledge of the subject the mistake is so obvious—once it has been pointed out—that the astonishing thing is it remained undetected for so long.

The Committee did not claim to be infallible, however, but I think it is fair to say that Council publications of the present day maintain a high standard of accuracy, especially compared, for instance, with the 1908 Double Norwich Collection, in which 12 peals are false in one way or another. Everyone dislikes ringing a false peal, naturally, but I completely fail to understand the reasoning behind the proposition that a false peal in a book bearing the Council's imprimatur should be counted as a true one. The next step, no doubt, would be to claim that if one rang a false peal which was published in 'The Ringing World' when it was owned by Mr. Goldsmith, that was hard luck; but now that the Council runs the paper the Editor and the Committee would virtually be guilty of criminal negligence.

Peals, even of Spliced Surprise, are cheap enough these days (one can always help the score along with a few more handbell peals of Doubles, or Bob Minor or Bob Major, if there is any fear of not qualifying for the 'Leading Peal-ringers' list), and Mr. Peter Border has set out both forcefully and accurately what should be done if one has been unfortunate enough to ring a false one.

It must be said that Messrs. Warwick and Rogers have at least admitted what has happened, but it seems from Mr. Ivins' letter that quite a number of people have not. They might profitably consider the examples set them in your issue of February 6th by Messrs. Jelley and Staniforth.—Yours faithfully,

E. A. BARNETT, Hon. Secretary.

SPICED CAMBRIDGE AND SUPERLATIVE

Dear Sir,—I was very interested to read in your columns the views of Mr. Brian Warwick on false compositions. When the Central Council have adopted the rule he suggests (i.e., that false compositions may be rung if they have previously been published by the Central Council), I shall certainly ask for my new peal of Stedman Triples to be published. It is far more musical than those bad old true compositions, having Queens, Tittums and Whittington's occurring each three times. Perhaps we might even improve on Mr. Pitman's excellent peals of Spliced Surprise—I am sure that, with this new ruling, 15 or 16 methods, with all the work for every bell, would not be a very tall order!

But why stop at compositions published by the Central Council? you may well ask. Indeed, I look forward to the day when we need only ring the appropriate number of plain only rings to score a peal. After all, one false composition is just as false as another!—Yours sincerely,

ROGER BALDWIN.

Nottingham.

STANDARDS MUST NOT BE LOWERED

Dear Sir,—As Mr. Ivins pointed out in his letter of February 6th, the falseness of the arrangement of Spliced Cambridge and Superlative was made clear by letters to the 'R.W.' on September 27th, 1957, and October 18th, 1957.

I am not at all sure what Mr. Warwick and Mr. Rogers expect any committee to do about their false peals. Even if an Act of Parliament was passed authorising them, the peals would still be false, and despite Mr. Rogers' views, surely the Association concerned will delete his peal from its records, whether or not he is willing. Personally, I am rather disturbed at the attitude of mind betrayed by these two ringers: no matter who was responsible for the error, that cannot and must not be an excuse for lowering standards of peal-ringing to the extent of accepting blatantly false peals.

I feel I must amplify Mr. Ivins' slightly loose statement in his letter, in which he suggests that 'if more Cambridge than Superlative is rung . . . it appears that only Middleton's . . . will run true.' I have checked various arrangements of the two methods, and assuming that each course is called the same, find that the following arrangements will not run true to Middleton's: (a) CCSXSCC, (b) CSSXSSC, (c) SSXCSCS, (d) SSCXCSS, (e) SSSXCCC, (f) SCCXSCC.—Yours sincerely,

W. ERIC CRITCHLEY.

Convener, Peals Collection Committee, C.C.

'COOKING' A PEAL

Dear Sir,—With all respect, my friend Mr. Rogers has, I think, confused two rather different issues in his letter on Spliced Surprise.

As far as compositions are concerned these, like all other compositions, are capable of proof and may readily be subjected to the skilled scrutiny of our able composers. Any composition which has been rung and is afterwards found to be false must by the tradition and custom of the Exercise be withdrawn as soon as the falseness is known, regardless of the understandable disappointment of the ringers who took part. Many great performances have been marred in this way, not least the wonderful long peal of Stedman Cinques at Southwark Cathedral, or Mr. Kippin's Treble Bob Major on the back eight at Bow.

Quite obviously, the peals to which Mr. Rogers refers were false and should be withdrawn, as should the other similar performances to which Mr. Ivins refers in his letter. The fact that the figures arise from an error in a Central Council publication is quite irrelevant. Even the great are not infallible, and many less excusable false compositions have appeared in earlier Central Council publications.

The second issue is the question of performance of peals of Spliced Surprise, which was in fact the subject of my letter of some time ago to which Mr. Rogers refers.

Briefly, it must be obvious that to a conductor who is able to transpose readily when he is ringing it is very easy in 'spliced' in the event of a miscall to get the bells back into the required position in a very short time without arousing the suspicions of the rest of the band. Such behaviour is, however, grossly dishonest, and any conductor who indulges in that sort of thing is beneath contempt. It would be impossible to legislate for this sort of thing and not worth the trouble anyway, since most peals can be 'cooked' by a dishonest conductor, although in a single method the deception is less easily concealed.

There is, however, another aspect which gives rise to real concern, namely the unconscious error in calling which could occur without the conductor realising that he had committed it.

In many of the compositions being rung these days there are usually several alternative combinations of methods which are interchangeable, and the sequence of these combinations is entirely a matter for the conductor's memory which, all questions of honesty apart, could from time to time be at fault. Is there a case for requiring that such performances should be umpired? The practical difficulties of providing umpires are of course considerable, but what do you think?—Yours truly,

P. A. CORBY.

Sevenoaks, Kent.

ANOTHER CONDEMNATION

Dear Sir,—I heartily endorse the remarks of W. T. Cook on condemning the 'performance' of two handbell peals by the Cambridge University Guild, and publishing same in the 'R.W.'

Everyone knows, or should do, of the struggle to keep the finances of the 'R.W.' solvent, and it is most undesirable that sums of money donated by first quarter pealers should be spent on the publication of 'stunts,' and subsequent correspondence.

If this was an attempt to goad the members of Oxford University to some action, then the 'peals' should have been printed in a college magazine and copies forwarded to the appropriate persons.

I personally think that what is required now is a withdrawal of the two peal claims, together with a subscription to the 'R.W.' towards the cost of printing the undesirable peals, and the not so undesirable but nevertheless unnecessary correspondence consequential thereto.—Yours faithfully,

F. HODGSON.

Darlington.

RECORDS BEING WITHDRAWN

Dear Sir,—We are advised by our local 'record shop' that all 78 speed records are to be gradually withdrawn from March onwards.

This will presumably include the well-known record of Grandsire and Stedman Caters at St. Margaret's, Westminster (H.M.V. C. 2098) and other bell records. In case this information is not generally known, I hope this word in season may perhaps help some of your readers who may like to make enquiries about these records before it becomes too late to obtain them.

I may perhaps say that in our family we have obtained great pleasure and delight from 'Columbia D.B. 1637'—Queen's Chimes and Whittington Chimes, rung at St. Mary-le-Bow Church, Cheapside, London, by the Ancient Society of College Youths. The rhythm and striking of this ringing are superb and those glorious old bells are heard at their best. You will observe the appropriateness of the number of the record!—Yours truly,

P. A. CORBY.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILDSalisbury Branch

The annual meeting was held at St. Paul's, Salisbury, on January 31st. The Rector (the Rev. T. E. Dobson) conducted the Guild service, assisted by the Rev. A. Phillips (Vicar of Danierham).

A company of 51 then sat down to tea, after which farewell had to be said to the Rev. and Mrs. A. Phillips, who have been keen honorary members and are now leaving for Shoreham, on retirement.

Mr. H. A. Roles (Branch chairman) presided at the business meeting, at which all the retiring officers were re-elected and ten new members elected. The following dates and places were provisionally fixed for 1959 meetings, subject to confirmation:—March 7th, Durrington and Amesbury; April 25th (quarterly), Winterslow and Sarum St. Thomas; May 30th, Hindon and East Knoyle; July 18th (quarterly), Broadchalke and Coombe Bissett; September 12th, Compton Chamberlayne or Shrewton and Chitterne; October 17th (quarterly), Damerham and Martin; November 28th, Codford and Steeple Langford. It is also hoped to organise a half-day outing on September 26th.

The first grant was voted out of the Branch Bell Restoration Fund—£5 for Sarum St. Martin—as soon as the immediate work on the sixth bell is put in hand.

Mr. Roger Fry reported that a Guild had been formed in Salisbury Theological College to teach the ordinands to ring. At present there are eight ringers in the College, and 15 students are learning at one or other of the neighbouring churches on a weekday afternoon.

The bells of Wilton, St. Paul's, Salisbury and St. Thomas', Salisbury, were open during the afternoon or evening, and everyone had a chance to ring, from rounds to Yorkshire Surprise.

SPALDING RINGERS' DINNER

The ringers of Spalding Parish Church, along with a number of friends, were invited to dinner at the Greyhound Hotel, Spalding, on February 5th by the Vicar (Rev. Canon M. H. R. Syngé). At the short meeting held prior to sitting down to dinner, all officers were re-elected for a further year in office. It was with mixed feelings that the company heard the Vicar announce he would shortly be leaving to take up an appointment as precentor at Lincoln Cathedral. He sincerely hoped that any member visiting Lincoln would call on him, and that they would give his successor every support.

After an excellent meal, a most enjoyable series of games, quizzes, and some handbell ringing, arranged by the Rev. R. W. H. Nind, concluded the evening. Mr. J. Ames, the captain, in his vote of thanks wished the Vicar every success in his new appointment, and thanked all those who had made the evening such a success.

SWANSEA & BRECON DIOCESAN GUILD

A welcome to the Northern Section when they met at Brecon for their annual meeting on January 24th was extended by the Dean (the Very Rev. W. E. Jones), who conducted the service. Members of the Mothers' Union provided tea for the 40 ringers present. The Rev. V. Davies, of Llangosse, was voted to the chair for the business meeting. The officers were re-elected and an encouraging sign was the election of 19 new members and one new tower, Llangosse. The collection for the Restoration Fund amounted to £1 3s. 6d., and £2 was granted to Llangosse towards the repair of their bells. The next meeting will be at Llanelly Hill.

ARCHDEACONRY OF STAFFORD SOCIETY

The winter meeting of the Society for the Archdeaconry of Stafford was held at Bradley, near Bilston, on January 21st. The last occasion the Society met at Bradley was as far back as 1902. The reason for this lapse of time was due to the bells having been unringable for over 50 years. Following restoration work in 1957 Bradley tower now possesses a delightful ring of eight with a 10 cwt. tenor.

The recent meeting attracted an attendance of 85 despite the counter-attraction of the nearby Wolves-Bolton cup match. Ringing during the afternoon and evening was under the direction of Mr. C. Smith, Ringing Master.

As there is at present no vicar at Bradley, the service was conducted by the Society's clerical secretary, the Rev. C. H. Barker, who also gave the address. An excellent tea was kindly provided by the members of the local band and their ladies. Arrangements for this very successful and enjoyable meeting were made by Mr. J. D. Holden, of Coseley. It was regretted that Mr. W. Bayliss, a member of the Bradley band in 1902, was unable to attend the meeting owing to ill health.

The next meeting will be at St. Paul's, Burton-on-Trent on March 21st, by invitation of Mr. B. G. Key and members of St. Paul's band.

F. C. A. B.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION

A District meeting was held on January 10th at St. John's, Hackney. About 60 members and friends attended during the afternoon and evening, and they all expressed pleasure concerning the new ring there. A company of 40 sat down to tea provided by the new band of ringers at this tower.

At the business meeting the assistant secretary remarked upon the unique position of the ringers at St. John's. Under the instruction of Mr. Dennis Neal, from the Upper Clapton band, eight young men from St. John's have been holding weekly practices at St. John of Jerusalem, South Hackney. Now at last the bells of the new church are ready, and there is a completely new local band capable of very good striking to take over the ringing there.

C. F. N.

LEEDS & DISTRICT SOCIETY

The meeting of the Leeds and District Society held at Ossett on January 31st was well attended, and full use was made of the excellent ring of ten between 3 and 9 p.m., with a short break for tea and the business meeting.

At the business meeting the president welcomed ringers from Bristol and Durham, and five new members were elected from the Ossett company.

Of the 14 rings of ten in Yorkshire, Ossett is a candidate for the number one position, and it was unfortunate that some of the ringing did not do justice to the bells.

The February meeting will be held at Birstall—another fine ring which the Society is fortunate to include in its list of towers.

Gratefully Acknowledged

The Editorial Committee acknowledge with gratitude the following donations towards the cost of producing 'The Ringing World':—

Peals.—Yatton 4s., Blewbury 2s. 6d., Stratton St. Margaret 4s., Sherburn-in-Elmet 1s. 6d., Burwash 3s., Ashted 4s. 6d., Hersham 4s.

Quarter Peals.—Coltshall 3s., Newington (Kent) 2s., Egham 3s., Woodliff 1s. 6d., Kimpton 3s., Husborne Crawley 2s., Whitstone 2s. 6d., Totnes 3s., Wood Green 2s. 6d., North Weald 3s., Headingley 2s. 6d., Birchington 2s., Wallingford 2s. 6d., Northleigh 2s. 6d., Llandaff 4s., North Weald 2s. 6d., Dunkerton 3s., Publow 2s.

ESSEX ASSOCIATION Northern District

Expressions of thanks were passed at the annual meeting of the Northern District at Halstead on January 31st to Miss H. G. Snowden, for her work for the District, when she did not seek re-election as District Master. Mr. R. C. Heazel, Master of the Association, presided, and the District officers elected were Mr. H. A. Pratt, Master; Mrs. M. Moore, secretary; Messrs. J. Elliott and J. Warner, general committee.

During the past year six peals had been rung, five meetings held with good attendances and the bells of Stebbing rehung. Nine new members were elected and Great Yeldham selected for the March meeting.

Messrs. H. W. Smith (Dunmow), S. Dace and F. Wiseman (Sible Hedingham) were nominated for life membership. Among other nominations received were Mr. R. C. Heazel, Association Master; Mr. F. V. Gant, secretary; Miss Snowden, Central Council representative.

The Rev. E. A. Bandon (Gosfield) conducted the service, and Miss Snowden acted as organist. The tea, in St. Andrew's Hall, was arranged by Miss Snowden.

ST. PETER'S, DORCHESTER

Speaking at the dinner and annual meeting of St. Peter's Society of Change Ringers (Dorchester), held at the Wessex Restaurant on January 10th, the Rector (the Rev. P. J. Heaton) said that the Tower Repair Fund now stood at £600, but it seemed doubtful whether any repairs could be carried out unless at least £1,000 was reached. The Rector said the ringers were doing a fine job under difficult conditions and he hoped the position in the tower with regard to numbers would improve still further in 1959.

New members elected were: Messrs. P. J. Short, A. H. Patterson, G. R. Churchill, M. H. James and Miss W. Bongard.

Officers elected were: Master, the Rev. P. J. Heaton; Deputy Master (captain), Mr. R. H. Duke; vice-captain, Miss B. J. Dyke; correspondent, Miss A. S. Kemp; treasurer, Miss B. J. Dyke.

St. Peter's tower is in a bad state of repair and £3,000 is needed to put it right, although there is nothing wrong with the bells themselves. The bells may have to be silenced while repairs are actually being carried out, which includes re-roofing the tower and pointing stonework from top to bottom. Any donations towards the Tower Repair Fund may be sent to R. Duke, Morland, 46, Prince of Wales Road, Dorchester, Dorset.

Sherwood Youths

The annual meeting of the Society of Sherwood Youths was held at St. Mary's, Nottingham (10), on January 31st. The following officers were elected: Master, Mr. Frederick Salter; secretary, Mrs. P. Clarke; treasurer, Mr. Walter Nichols; steward, Mr. Percy Ball. Ringing was of a fairly good standard throughout the day and a variety of methods were rung.

The Derbyshire Association Choir then went into action and in spite of their conductor, Denis Carlisle, gave an excellent account of themselves. Fun and games were the order of the evening, and a thoroughly good time was enjoyed by all present, thanks to the efficient and painstaking efforts of the organisers—G. Halls, D. Carlisle and A. B. Cooper. During the evening a demonstration of unusual handbell ringing was given by Bryan Woodruffe, Roger Baldwin and J. F. Smallwood. Tunes were also provided by a Derbyshire company.

OBITUARY

MR. GEORGE KING
AN APPRECIATION

A ringer at St. Mary's, Salehurst, for 50 years, and for the last 30 years captain and towerkeeper, Mr. George King never missed Sunday service ringing or a practice night if it were possible to get there. Not a great peal ringer by present day standards, he was a good striker and could not tolerate bad ringing. He only rang 33 peals, 26 of them being on Salehurst bells. With his last peal he completed the circle on these bells.

His passing is a great blow, not only to his local band but to many visiting ringers. As the cortege left the church his own band paid tribute to him with a well-struck half-muffled 336 Grandsire Triples, his favourite method. E. T. A.

MR. GEORGE PIDWELL

St. Martin's, Ruislip, has lost an old friend by the passing on February 13th of Mr. George Pidwell. He came to Ruislip in 1948 from Mitcham, and was a regular attendant at service ringing at Pinner on Sunday mornings and at Ruislip on Sunday evenings. When his health allowed, Mr. Pidwell attended the veterans' gathering in London: he loved an outing. He gave up his home about two years ago and went to live at the old people's home at South Ruislip. It was here he died after a long period of failing health.

MR. H. WILLOWS

We regret to report the death of Mr. H. Willows, of 36, Grove Road, Retford, Notts. His passing has left a gap in the band of East Retford Church, where his usefulness as a heavy-bell ringer and his regular attendance endeared him to the company. Mr. Willows had a number of peals to his credit, and was a frequent attendant at ringing meetings in the area. The sympathy of many friends is extended to his widow.

HERTS COUNTY ASSOCIATION
Northern District

A request from the Rector of Ashwell for an instructor to start a new band there was received with keenness at the meeting of the Northern District at Baldock on January 31st. The secretary was instructed to convene a meeting with Ashwell ringers to see how many were interested in the art and to report back to the next meeting.

Mr. H. S. Bonnett, who was unable to attend the A.G.M., asked for more information regarding the proposal for a ring of ten in the District. He was informed that the sub-committee had not yet met. The chairman (Canon F. G. Brenchley) said Baldock would gladly accept an extra two bells, but it was no use trying to provide the additional bells when the fabric was in need of repair.

The Rector of Stevenage (Rev. E. W. B. Cordingley) was elected a ringing member and Mr. M. Stracey, of Duxford, a non-resident life member. The next meeting will be held on March 7th at Norton, with Erin Triples as the special method.

The service was conducted by Canon Brenchley and tea was provided by the wives of the local band. The attendance was disappointing.

RADCLIFFE, LANCs.—On Jan. 24th, 1,280 Double Norwich Court Bob Major: G. W. Limmer 1, J. Thornley 2, Gillian Bridgford 3, D. Young 4, R. Leigh 5, D. Vincent 6, P. Crook 7, F. Reynold (cond.) 8. Rung to celebrate the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. R. Eccles, of Morecambe, and also the birth of a grandson to Mr. and Mrs. John Woods, of Lancaster R.C. Cathedral.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

In collaboration with the Kent District of the Ladies' Guild, the Lewisham District quarterly meeting was held at St. George's, Beckenham, on January 24th, some 70 ringers attending. Fourteen Lewisham District towers were represented. Evenson was attended.

Tea was served in the Church Institute, where ample justice was done to an excellent meal provided and served by Mrs. A. M. Rawlings and her friends.

Mr. A. S. Richards presided at the business meeting and opened proceedings by welcoming the Ladies' Guild, and thanking them for their courtesy in allowing the Lewisham District meeting to be held first. Mrs. F. M. Mitchell (Gravesend) replied, and gave a very welcome message of greetings from Mr. Mitchell.

Six ringers were elected into the Association and the elections of four members previous to peal attempts were confirmed. Miss M. R. Andrews (Bexley District representative) read an excellent report of proceedings at the general committee meeting at Maidstone.

Mr. E. A. Barnett informed members of an outstanding performance at Eltham on January 3rd, in which Miss B. Slark, of that tower, conducted Holt's Original at her first attempt to ring a peal! It was decided nem. con. that the meeting's very warm congratulations be conveyed to her for a momentous achievement.

Mr. E. Barnett read extracts from a letter he had received from Mr. J. Bennett, who was enjoying a world cruise. Mr. Bennett was for a long time a resident of Beckenham, and played a prominent part in Lewisham District ringing over a great span of years.

Mr. P. A. Corby mentioned that that day was the 62nd anniversary of the election of Mr. E. Barnett into membership of the Association. He congratulated him on long and continuous service, and wished him many more years of active participation in the Association's affairs. The meeting endorsed these remarks with acclamation.

Mr. E. Barnett thanked the company for their good wishes.

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

Most of the towers in the District were represented at the annual meeting of the Farnham District, held at St. Michael's, Aldershot, on January 31st.

The ringers' service was conducted by the Rev. T. H. Dart, and a male choir of bell-ringers led the ringing. An excellent tea was served by the lady ringers of Aldershot. Mr. C. W. Denyer (Master) was chairman for the business meeting, when both the Ringing Master and hon. secretary (Mr. C. J. Beadle) reported that the District had progressed slowly during the year, and stressed the need for certain towers to be given more experienced help.

Eleven new ringing members were elected, including the Rev. T. H. Dart, of Aldershot, and his senior curate, the Rev. A. Brown.

The election of new officers resulted in Major E. J. Bragg (Aldershot) becoming Ringing Master and Mr. W. H. Viggers (Aldershot) assistant Ringing Master. All other officers were returned unopposed, being Mr. C. J. Beadle, hon. secretary; Mr. R. H. Mills, hon. treasurer; Mr. F. Cherryman, executive committee member; Dr. W. Wright, hon. auditor; Miss M. A. Cass, correspondent to 'The Ringing World'.

The District decided to support the proposals of the Master contained in a letter to the Districts, viz.: That the term 'junior members' should be abolished and all members to pay a subscription of 2s. 6d.; that the A.G.M. should be held on the Saturday before Palm Sunday each year; that the names of all paid-up members should be printed in the annual report, and that the summer festival of the Guild be held on the first Saturday in June.

LLANDAFF AND MONMOUTH ASSOCIATION

The second annual dinner of the Monmouth Branch was held at the Tudor Rooms, Newport, on Saturday, February 7th. Once again this social occasion proved a great success and was attended by a goodly number of ringers and friends.

Thanks are due to Mr. C. Greedy for the use of St. Woolos' bells during the afternoon. Vocal entertainment after the dinner was given by a concert party from Newport Operatic Society, the pianist being Miss Dorothy Atwell, of All Saints', Newport. Dancing followed until 11 p.m.

On behalf of all present Mr. George Ward, Branch Master, sincerely thanked Mr. Jack James for arranging such an enjoyable evening.

LATE NEWS

MR. H. KNIGHT BEREAVED

Mr. H. Knight, tower captain of Wrington, Somerset, was bereaved on Saturday by his grandson, Philip Gilling, aged 10, being killed when an oil can exploded. Philip had already had his first ringing lessons. The sympathy of many friends is extended to the parents and grandparents.

THE PAGES TURNED BACK

IN the 'Bell News' of March 6th, 1909, appeared the following notice:—

'THE CHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD.—Stockport Branch. —Special practice meeting at New Mills on Saturday, March 13th, at 5 o'clock. Grandsire, Plain and Treble Bob barred. Ringing friends welcomed.—A. T. Beeston.'

This made the Editor's hackle rise, and he had this to say:—

'There is a notice of a meeting to be found in this number where all who are concerned therein are told the following: "Grandsire, Plain and Treble Bob barred." Such a notification is most unusual. There is some mysticism about it, for to make it complete and intelligible we should also have been told what methods were to escape the prohibition. We can hardly believe that Treble Bob is intended to be prohibited, for such an interdiction would shut out every one of the Surprise methods, all of which are, of course, Treble Bob.

'This meeting is said to be "a special practice meeting" at which only the ringing of certain methods will be permitted. Ringing friends are welcomed, we are told, but surely the invitation only applies to those who can ring other methods than those which are "barred." For should a ringer appear in the belfry who can only ring Grandsire or Plain and Treble Bob he will not be able to have a pull—he is "barred." Yet the first and last named of these methods are, in our opinion, equal as art work to the most abstruse methods. True they are not so complex, but their status, as examples of the ringing art, stand high indeed.

'We have said that the prohibition given in the notice referred to is unusual. Some few years ago, at a tower in the north of London, it was said that an embargo was laid upon everything below Surprise. Such an unhealthy ukase cuts both ways. We may have retaliatory special practices where those in authority may intimate that other methods are "barred." Should such a spirit be fanned into flame the effect will be calamitous.'

Had the Rev. A. T. Beeston desired, he could have torn the Editor's comments to shreds, but he refrained from entering into a wordy fray, and those of his friends did likewise.

One letter only referred the following week in support of the Editor, and Mr. Beeston's reply to this was to insert in the March 20th issue a similar notice for a second practice at Reddish on March 27th.

April 3rd, 'Plain Speaker' enters the arena:—

'There is a topic at the present moment much talked about, though many of those who have expressed strong sentiments upon it refrain from publishing their opinions. This is the notice of a special practice by some members of the Chester Guild, whereat the introduction of several methods would not be allowed, or as the notice said, such methods would be "barred." Already some correspondence has appeared, and an article. The notice emanated from the Rev. A. T. Beeston, an accomplished ringer. It stated that at the meeting in question "Grandsire, Plain Bob and Treble Bob would be barred." It was pointed out that all Surprise methods came under the Treble Bob classification; in other words, all methods with the treble doing what is known as a Treble Bob hunt are practically Treble Bob methods. So that by this inhibition the Surprise methods became "barred."

'It was also suggested the reverend gentleman had made a mistake, in fact that he had forgotten the Surprise methods were Treble Bob methods. But he did not deign to make any reply whatever to the correspondence on the subject or answer any question. He in fact sent another notice of a similar meeting to be held.

'I think he might have stooped to explain what he meant by Treble Bob being "barred." That would have been but bare courtesy. About the arrangement of such a special practice I need not say much. Enough that such proceedings will not find favour with the Exercise. There has been too much exclusiveness in the past, and the soreness created by it has not yet vanished from among us. Nothing should be "barred" in the way of method ringing, especially such a symmetrical method as Grandsire, which is a method much more handsome than several of the "cramp" methods, though the practice of the latter tends to exclusiveness.'

Mr. Beeston's answer to that was a notice of another practice meeting at Hyde, and from thence he was left in peace.

Those of us who knew the Rev. A. T. Beeston can afford to smile at the critics—they certainly spoke without thinking: most towers in the Stockport area rang the standard methods, and those who wanted to ring the higher methods had to have special practices, otherwise they would have got nowhere.

Perhaps I am sticking my neck out when I say that the results of those special practices are with us today in North Cheshire—James Fernley was one who attended those practices, and when Norbury bells became eight he saw to it that the higher methods would be rung there. Needless to say, his ordinary practices were well attended—need I say more?

I did not attend any of Mr. Beeston's Saturday afternoon gatherings until after I was demobbed in 1919. All that I attended were enjoyable and helpful; furthermore, there was a place for wives and sweethearts, which made the lot of the young ringer much easier. No matter where the practice was, he arranged for one of the ringers to put on a spread, the cost of which was borne by the visitors (a good time was always had by all). Needless to say, the accommodation was well and truly taxed, but we managed to squeeze in somehow; and if the house was not big enough, there was always a room handy at the local.

Mr. Brian Bladon was prevented from standing in the peal at St. Mary's, Redcliffe, Bristol, on February 14th, as his father was taken seriously ill. The band wish Mr. Bladon, sen., a speedy recovery, and are grateful to Mr. F. Cecil Mogford for taking a rope at very short notice. The peal enabled several to ring their first of Maximus, and a few their first of Kent. It enabled Mr. Malcolm Cloke to complete peals of Kent from Minor to Maximus, thus re-entering peal ringing circles after his stay in the Forces.

The 'Wakefield Express' has this advertisement: 'Sale.—Let-down ringer in good condition.' It seems obvious that there was one too many for the peal attempt!

Mr. Gordon A. Halls and Miss Patricia A. M. Forster were married on February 14th at Hastings. Both prolific peal ringers, it is surprising to learn that the church they chose is only equipped with recorded bell music.

Newark Parish Church is being featured on the B.B.C. Midland programme 'Sign-post' in March, probably the 3rd, at 6.35 p.m. The Vicar and the Ringing Master were interviewed by the producer of the programme about obtaining recruits for bell-ringing and about ringing in general. A recording of the bells was made.

Recordings of the bells of Swanage, Wool and Kingston Parish Churches, Dorset, will be used as illustrations in a broadcast in which Richard Butcher will describe the Isle of Purbeck as seen from a light aeroplane. Entitled 'Pilot's Eye View,' this will form an item in 'The Faith in the Isle of Purbeck'—a magazine programme about the part played by the Christian Church in this area of the West Country—to be heard on Sunday, March 8th, at 9.45 a.m. in the West Home Service.

BELFRY GOSSIP

The peal at Dalton-in-Furness to mark Mr. Thomas Metcalfe's completing 60 years in the tower as a ringer was arranged to coincide with the parochial tea, which was attended by Dalton members of the band. It was here that Mr. Roberts (senior churchwarden) presented Mr. Metcalfe, the head ringer, with a ringer's tie, scarf, and a cheque on behalf of the parish in recognition of his long service. There was also another presentation to him on behalf of the peal band and ringing colleagues—a pipe, pouch, tobacco and a sum of money. This was made by Mr. N. M. Newby.

Holy Trinity, Hull, bells are shortly to be augmented from ten to twelve.

In the ten Minor methods peal at Elston, Notts, on February 14th, Mr. Peter A. Sharpe, of St. Giles', Lincoln, had only rung one of the ten methods before. Well done, Peter!

The peal in honour of Mr. F. V. Sinkins' 94th birthday at Burnham on January 31st was rung by four of his London friends and four of his old friends from the Slough area. It was ably conducted by John Euston, who was calling his first peal. Tongues wagged over the meal (provided by F. V. S.). To complete the day the four London ringers went to Stoke Poges for more ringing.

Mr. Percy Amos returns his thanks through 'The Ringing World' to the anonymous donor who left addressed to him in Weston Favell Church belfry a parcel of books containing the late Rev. F. E. Robinson's 'Among the Bells,' a 'History of John Briant, Bell-founder of Hertford, 1794-1829,' and a new visitors book for Weston Favell belfry. He writes that when he first saw the parcel he thought that someone was playing a joke on him and had sent him a stack of Central Council Sunday Service Survey forms.

VITALITY IN COVENTRY GUILD

THE Coventry Diocesan Guild, at their last quarterly meeting at Bulkington on January 17th, said farewell to the Vicar (Rev. J. H. Dingley), who throughout his 31 years as incumbent at St. James' Church, Bulkington, has always made the Guild very welcome, and during that time has been a keen supporter and member of the Guild. He retires in March to a well-earned rest. In his address at the Guild service, he said how much he would miss the many friends he had amongst the bell-ringers. He had much to say of the loyalty of his own ringers and their regularity of attendance for Sunday service ringing. The president (Mr. F. W. Perrins) said on behalf of the members how much they had appreciated the welcome they had always received at Bulkington.

That the Coventry Diocesan Guild is in a flourishing state is confirmed by the fact that at the last two quarterly meetings 52 new members have been elected, and that over 60 per cent. of these are teenagers. The attendance at the meetings has shown a decided improvement, this being particularly so at the monthly meetings held in the two Branches. As an example, at the meeting at Whitnash on February 7th last, over 50 sat down to tea, and at the previous meeting at Warwick (St. Mary's) about the same number attended. Both these meetings were followed by a social, which obviously appeals to the younger generation.

MAKING HEADWAY

A number of young bands are making headway with their ringing, and to mention a few brings to mind Studley, with its new ring of six, and a band of more than a dozen led by Mr. Perkins who are coming on very well. Wootton Wawen, under Mr. Bennett, is also making good progress. Some of this band have already rung their first peal with their own conductor, and there's certainly more to come. The new eight of St. Nicholas', Warwick, after only 12 months since rehanging are being rung for all Sunday services by a most enthusiastic band of young people, and includes 15 teenagers. Much more will be heard of this band in the future. Exhall is another example with a recently rehung six and more than a dozen youngsters making good progress under Mr. Harrison. Harbury also comes to mind, with a band of young people, but they will be having a rest at the moment as their bells are at the foundry, and when they return it will be with the addition of a new treble to make another good six.

Rowington's bells have just been rehung and made into six. At the dedication service on Sunday, February 8th last, they were rung by a local band for the first time. These bells have been silent for some years, so we can look forward to some renewed interest here. Hatton is another tower which is getting into its stride again after a recent lapse. Stoneleigh with its rehung five is also getting into change-ringing with a new band after a silence of many years. Whitnash is another tower that has had a revival in recent years, and under Mr. Oram with a band of so many youngsters great things can be expected in the near future.

SCHOOLS AND RINGING

In Warwick during the last school term, three schools supplied the ringers for their own service from their scholars, and good ringing it was too. These young people had been trained at Whitnash, St. Nicholas' and St. Mary's, Warwick, during the past year. Honiley is another tower with a rehung five, and under Mr. Morris the ringers are making headway. St. Nicholas', Nuneaton, is making progress slowly under Mr. Beebe, with a band of young people. Newbold-on-Avon ringers are coming on fine, and have rung peals and quarter peals on their own bells, and some on others. This again is a young band full of enthusiasm, determined to get on to new methods—every success to it. In the same area comes Bilton, which has made good progress in recent years under Mr. Burnell, with a band of young people to help things along. Another tower that comes to mind is Kenilworth where, under Mr. Royal, a band of youngsters (some very young) are going ahead. They have already rung one peal and several quarters. Keresley has had help from Stoke St. Michael's for many years now, but despite that has a band for service ringing.

ANOTHER RALLY

Many other towers in the diocese have regular Sunday service bands, which after all is what the bells are for, and that is just what the Guild is doing its best to encourage; and to help this, another rally is being organised to take place at Holy Trinity Church, Stratford-on-Avon, on April 11th, to which are being invited all the Sunday service bands in the diocese, whether they be members of the Guild or not. The first effort of this kind took place at St. Mary's, Warwick, in 1957, and a tremendous success it proved to be. The Lord Bishop of Coventry will once again give the address at the Guild service. There will be a civic reception by the Mayor of Stratford-on-Avon in the Town Hall, followed by tea.

Mention should be made of the more experienced bands in the diocese. Allesley and Chilvers Coton stand out with their Surprise bands. Rugby, Leamington Spa, Stratford-on-Avon, Warwick (St. Mary's), Bulkington and Stoke St. Michael's, in Coventry, have good methods bands who can be relied upon for good striking and regular attendance on Sundays. It is regretted that there are still a number of towers with silent bells, mostly due to the state either of the tower or the bells; but when our Bishop's Appeal for £750,000 has been achieved no doubt some more towers will get the attention that is badly needed, and more bell rehanging. With so many young ringers being trained surely we shall have enough to help with the training of others in the coming years. I am sure that a similar story could be told of other Guilds.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

Reading Branch

The annual meeting of the Reading Branch was held at Reading on February 14th and was attended by approximately 60 members and visitors. The afternoon's ringing at St. Mary's was followed by an excellent tea prepared by local lady ringers and friends, after which the gathering adjourned to church for a service, which was conducted by the Rev. J. E. Brown, with Trevor Stroud, a member of the local band, at the organ.

The deputy chairman (Rev. W. F. J. G. Coles) presided at the business meeting. Miss M. R. Cross, the Guild general secretary, congratulated the band who rang the peal of Glasgow Surprise at Warfield, and also the Reading University Society on achieving their first peal as a Society. She also commented on the Survey of Ringing which had been conducted during the year, and spoke of the need to encourage on-coming youngsters and to help towers in need of assistance; much more could be done on the social side to promote enthusiasm.

Officers elected for the year were: Chairman, Rev. T. P. Rumsey; deputy chairman, Rev. W. F. J. G. Coles; Ringing Master, N. J. Diserens; deputy, D. Cobb; secretary, F. Lewis. After six new members had been elected thanks were expressed to all concerned with making this another enjoyable meeting.

Ringing continued in the evening at Caversham and St. Mary's and St. Laurence's, Reading, a half course of Cambridge Maximus being the highlight of the ringing at the latter.

F. W. L.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD

Dorchester Branch

Over 60 members, representing 13 towers, attended the annual meeting at Dorchester on January 17th. The Rector (Rev. P. J. Heaton) conducted the service and also presided at the meeting following tea. Tribute was paid to six members who had died during the year.

Twelve new members were elected, viz.: Miss C. Smith, Mr. A. Smith, Mr. V. Furge (Charminster), Mr. D. Willshire (Wyke Regis), Mr. E. Goringe (Cattistock), Miss W. Watson, Miss M. Hardy (Preston), Miss W. Bongard, Mr. G. R. Churchill, Mr. P. J. Short, Mr. A. H. Patterson, Mr. M. H. James (St. Peter's, Dorchester).

Officers elected were: Chairman, Rev. P. J. Heaton; vice-chairman, Rev. E. B. Brooks; hon. secretary and treasurer, Mr. R. H. Duke; Ringing Master, Mr. H. J. Ford; deputy Ringing Masters, Mr. J. Slade and Mr. J. Rose; assistant hon. secretary, Miss P. M. Boalch.

In his report the hon. secretary reported average attendance at quarterly meetings was 31, not quite so encouraging as in previous years, but even if numbers were not so good the enthusiasm was still present. He appealed for better attendances, saying that at least one from every tower should make an effort to be present. The statement of accounts showed a satisfactory balance.

Meetings for 1959 were suggested to take place at Cattistock, Puddletown, Litton Cheney and Piddlehinton, subject to confirmation.

The Rev. R. P. Farrow, expressing the views of the meeting, said he hoped that Mrs. D. P. Duke (mother of the hon. secretary) would soon be on the road to recovery. She had been ill for some weeks.

Ringing was resumed under Mr. J. Slade and Mr. J. Rose, deputy Ringing Masters. Fordington tower was also available for ringing.

Devizes Branch

The monthly meeting of the Devizes Branch was held at Hilperton on February 7th, 40 members and friends attending, including visitors from Chippenham, Taunton, Swindon, Stratton St. Margaret and Blunsdon.

The Guild service was conducted by the Rector (Rev. R. C. H. Corbin). The ringers were the guests at tea of the Hilperton ringers, their wives and friends, under Mr. Edwards. Votes of thanks were passed to the Rector and the ladies. The Rector in reply gave a hearty welcome to all present, saying he would always be pleased to see the ringers whenever they could come. Methods rung ranged from rounds to Cambridge.

PETERBOROUGH DIOCESAN GUILD

Wellingborough Branch

A large congregation of ringers attended the service held at St. Mary's, Higham Ferrers, on January 24th, in connection with the annual meeting of the Wellingborough Branch. The Rev. C. S. Ford (Vicar) officiated. Tea and the annual meeting, with Mr. W. E. Hargreaves in the chair, followed in the Parish Rooms.

Officers elected were: President, the Rev. W. C. Knight; secretary and treasurer, Mr. J. E. Skeritt; Guild Committee, Mr. H. Wooding and Mr. L. Priestley; Branch Committee, Mr. A. Wilson, Mr. E. Chapman, Miss C. Woods; Ringing Master, Mr. H. Wooding; auditor, Mr. W. E. Hargreaves.

New ringing members elected were Miss Jean Bennett, Miss Ann Chapman and Mr. J. R. Pentelow.

It was decided to hold the next meeting at Doddington.

STEDMAN AND JOHN O. LANCASHIRE

Dear Sir,—The recent death of the Leicester Cathedral ringer John O. Lancashire at the age of 94 brings to mind some of his accomplishments around the turn of the century, both as ringer and composer.

His speciality was Stedman, having rung 5-6 to a strictly silent handbell peal of Stedman Triples in January, 1898. This was followed by silent handbell peals of Stedman Caters in October, 1900, and Stedman Cinques in February, 1903. The two latter were the first ever rung silent. All three of these were rung in the presence of three competent referees. Incidentally, the weakest member of the Cinques band, after being involved in the bob at 1 at the beginning of the peal, was not affected by any more calls until the last course of the peal, when he was required to make the bob at 1. At their first attempt for the peal they got through to the last course only to see this member miss the bob!

Last October the writer had a request from Mr. J. Segar, of Retford, for details of a peal of Stedman Triples by J.O.L., referred to in 'Parker's Mysteries' as the 'most wonderful peal of Stedman yet produced'—obviously a different one by the same composer to that published in the 1903 edition of Stedman by C.D.P. Davies. After a lengthy search through the old Midland Counties Association reports, this was found to be one rung in 1901 with the fourth bell as observation. In it there are never more than two consecutive calls and only 22 of these in the whole peal, a truly remarkable composition.

During the search for the above peal two more of his Stedman compositions came to light, one rung in 1895 and the other in 1899. These are on the usual twin-bob plan, but all appear to have been forgotten over the years.

As stated by Mr. Ernest Morris in his obituary of J.O.L., he did not finally retire from his architectural activities until just over a year ago when he was nearly 93. About six weeks before his death, the writer received a letter from Mrs. Lancashire stating that he was almost totally deaf and blind, and realised he could not complete the work he intended doing on Stedman during his retirement. He expressed the hope that the writer would take over all his papers (some 400 foolscap sheets) and try to complete some of the work. These are now to hand and are being tabulated and arranged in some order where there appear to be possible connecting links. This is likely to be a long task involving many trial and error experiments to join up blocks of courses into true extents of 5,040 changes.—Yours, etc.,

Leicester.

Start slow from rounds, calling the S3 at the go-off.

4th observation, i.e., call the 3 when 4th is 'in slow,' and the 12 'in quick.'

As certain calls affect the 4th, the sixes are marked thus — — which this bell omits; the end of the line denotes the position into which it moves.

Never more than two consecutive calls, and only 22 of these.

First rung at South Wigston on November 2nd, 1901, conducted by Geo. Cleal.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

CLERGY AND RINGERS

Dear Sir,—Mr. Arthur Sayers criticises the clergy for not taking an interest in their bells ('R.W.', February 13th). I wonder whether he has stopped to consider why so many incumbents take this attitude? As a comparative newcomer to the Exercise, I was also surprised to find this indifference, usually coupled with an antagonism towards ringers. I did, however, take the trouble to inquire into the reasons for this, and found that the ringers themselves are often to blame. So many of them are notoriously slack in attending the very services to which they summon others. This bad habit, which alas seems to be quite prevalent, suggests that their main purpose in ringing is simply for their own enjoyment, and not as 'a service given to the Church,' to quote Mr. Sayers.

Can it be wondered then that many of my fellow-clergy lose interest?

But I will make my criticism constructive, and suggest that when ringers do not want to stop to service (and we quite realise that there are many valid occasions) they might make a little formal apology to the Vicar, such as one makes when leaving in the middle of a meeting. This simple courtesy (which after all is only the polite thing to do) would be greatly appreciated and would do much to change the attitude of the clergy, provided that such occasions did not arise too frequently!

My apologies to the great number of ringers who are also in their pew Sunday by Sunday. I only wish to point out to Mr. Sayers that there are two sides to the question, and that if there are incumbents who are not interested in their bells, then there are certainly many ringers who are not interested in their churchgoing!

Mr. Sayers' last remarks seem to have nothing to do with the topic and are in extremely bad taste, especially from a churchwarden.—Yours faithfully,

(Rev.) D. G. BRUNNING.

OXFORD GUILD OFFICE BOOK

Dear Sir,—Some while ago you kindly printed a letter from me in which I asked for material for the proposed revision of the Oxford Diocesan Guild Office Book. Since then we have written round to a number of Guilds and Associations and have received much encouragement and help. We have been able to reply to some, but may we now thank all those who have responded to our circulars?

People may be interested to hear that much has come to light that is very good indeed, and that when the liturgical experts have worked out an order of service the Oxford Guild should be in a position to enjoy an Office that is more in keeping with the times.

The work is by no means finished, and we would very much welcome comment and all further contributions of material, however small.—Yours faithfully,

DAVID J. SMITH.

SIMULTANEOUS HANDBELL PEALS

Dear Sir,—The letters from P. H. Langton and D. J. Roaf show that the calling of both peals was identical, and as they were rung in the same time it is obvious that every pair of blows made by each ringer was made simultaneously. This means the performance was equivalent to ringing a handbell peal with each ringer taking one bell only, a comparatively simple task and not nearly as difficult as the ringing of an ordinary peal double-handed.

Moreover, the calls would be (or should have been!) made simultaneously, and the necessity for two conductors is not apparent.

A further point is that if, as suggested in an earlier letter, the upper and lower sixes of a set of 12 handbells were used, every pair of blows would be a painful dissonance (a seventh) and, altogether, the performance would appear to have been a very unsatisfactory and futile one, and not one to write home (or to 'The Ringing World') about!—Yours faithfully,

G. A. PECK.

Rugby.

BELL IDENTIFIED

Dear Sir,—With reference to the letter of W. G. Lavers (February 13th issue), the inscription quoted appears on the seventh of the ring of eight at the Church of St. Mary, Battle, Sussex.

The ring was originally cast by Thomas Lester, of the Whitechapel Foundry (to whom the initials T. L. refer), in 1739, and is the heaviest ring cast by Lester for Sussex. All the bells have been recast, the seventh by Warner in 1890, and the remainder at various dates by Mears, who rehung the entire ring in 1885.

The weight of the seventh is given as 15½ cwt., whereas the tenor is 23 cwt. in E. The seventh is, one of the best bells of the ring, and is used as the hour bell of the clock.—Yours faithfully,

Pte. J. W. SMITH (R.A.M.C.).

Millbank, London.

PEAL WITHDRAWN

Dear Sir,—I read with interest and dismay the letters from William Rogers and Stephen Ivin in the issue of 'The Ringing World' dated February 6th.

From the information they gave it is now my duty to withdraw a peal of Spliced Cambridge and Superlative Surprise Major, rung at Cosely, Staffordshire, on December 11th, 1954, owing to its falseness.

I do not remember noticing Mr. Ivin's original letter on this matter—it probably appeared during a period when my time was fully occupied on non-ringing activities—but I have no intention of including a false peal in either my own records or those of my Society, and I agree with Mr. Border in that the action to be taken by the Central Council Committee concerned is quite clear.

I may say that, as this is the second time that I have been the innocent victim of such circumstances, I shall make absolutely certain of the position in any future attempts.—Yours sincerely,

ERIC E. SPEAKE.

Dudley.

RABBITS' GUILD

Dear Sir,—It was pleasant to read once again of the activities of the Rabbits' Guild after a long absence from your columns. Many true words are spoken in jest; I hope the Guild's secretary will continue to report progress of her members.

There is one point, though, to which I feel I must draw her attention, namely, the false dichotomy of Rabbit v. Ringing Master, which is a continual feature of the reports of the Guild. This seems to ignore the case, by no means rare, where ringing is in the hands of a Rabbit Ringing Master.

The hazards confronting an R.R.M. fully deserve the sympathy of the Guild. The feelings of terror experienced by an absolute beginner on being instructed to pull off his very first backstroke are nothing compared to the emotions of the mentor who is making his first attempt at teaching. Beginners, however, are not the only hazard; the R.R.M. may happen to enjoy the company of a variety of ex-Ringing Masters, prominent lady ringers, Surprise splicers, Cinques men and the rest in his tower, whose assistance is valuable though not always calculated to produce peace of mind in an R.R.M. Woe betide the man who is incapable of wearing the pants in his own tower in such company; it is better for him to admit that he's not really very good at Stedman Triples before it begins to rain bobs and he runs in the wrong way round.

Surely we poor hybrids have our place in the sun?—Yours faithfully,

A. B. TRICK.

Master, Confraternity of St. Nellie for R.R.M.s.

SEAR FAMILY MEMORIAL WINDOW

Dear Sir,—The Rector, churchwardens and parishioners of St. Mary's, Bletchley, are proposing to put a stained glass window in the west side of the south porch of St. Mary's in memory of the Sear family. This window is to be known as the 'Sear Memorial Window.'

You will be well aware of the long and devoted service of the Sear family as bell-masters and bell-ringers. Thomas Sear, grandfather of Harry, Fred and Walter, took office as bell-master in 1847. He was succeeded by his son, Redan, and then by his other son, Valentine, who in turn was succeeded by Harry Sear, who was supported by his two brothers, Fred and Walter. Walter Sear was secretary of the North Bucks Branch of this Guild for 25 years, and it was under his guidance that it grew to its present strength.

Harry Sear is the sole surviving member of the family resident in Bletchley. He still holds the office of bell-master and carries his 80 years very lightly in the ringing chamber. The present ringers think that this period of faithful service by one family should not go unnoticed.

The window has been designed by Sir Ninian Comper. There will also be a tablet recording the names of the Sear family.

Should there be any among the Exercise today who feel that they owe much to this family whose influence spread throughout the North Bucks and neighbouring areas, then perhaps they would like to make some contribution, however small, to this project. All contributions should be sent to Roger Cadamy, Esq., 10, Cottingham Grove, Bletchley, Bucks.—Yours faithfully,

MARIE R. CROSS,

Hon. Secretary, Oxford Diocesan Guild.

LETTERS—Continued

ST. CLEMENT DANES'

Dear Sir,—This is not an answer to Mr. Charles S. Smith's letter (page 112, February 13th) because I have had this letter in mind for some time, and anyway I know nothing about the Sunday afternoon arrangements at St. Clement's.

After the opening of the new bells I arranged, with the agreement of the church authorities and Mr. E. A. Barnett, to be responsible for seeing that the bells were rung at least one Sunday in each month for morning service. On the second Sunday in each month, therefore, with the help of friends, a quarter peal attempt is arranged—meet at 9.50 a.m. Our idea is always to ring something sufficiently within the capabilities of the arranged band, to ensure a high standard of ringing and a reasonable chance of getting a quarter peal. This is because poor ringing at St. Clement's would be a very bad thing for the Exercise, and I do not expect ten ringers to travel up to town at that hour on a Sunday without some inducement.

So far we have maintained this aim with three good quarter peals of Grandsire Caters. While if we had broken down we should have been very glad to offer a rope to any chance visitor, we should obviously prefer not to be interrupted until all chances of the quarter peal had gone.

If any prospective visitor to London would like to be included in one of these monthly attempts, I shall be very glad to try to oblige if he (or she) will let me know two to three weeks in advance and indicate the standard of method desired. That will give me time to arrange the rest of the band or to reply, suggesting a later date if the current month is already fixed up.

I have no official connection with St. Clement's other than as indicated, so this is the best I can do to help visitors.—Yours faithfully,

WILFRID G. WILSON.

GREAT YARMOUTH CLOCK CHIMES

Dear Sir,—The article by Rev. G. Thurlow on Great Yarmouth Clock Chimes is very interesting, and Mr. Brian Price is to be congratulated on his fine suggestion for the new chimes.

There would appear to be slight inaccuracies in the length of the notes as indicated by the ordinary and thick capitals in the article.

It is stated that theme 2 is twice the length of theme 1 but, as shown, theme 1 has the equivalent of 14 crotchets and theme 2 of 26.

Theme 3 has 24 crotchets and it would appear to be the intention of making the unit 12 crotchets. If that is so, should not the last two notes of theme 1 and the ninth and tenth notes of theme 2 all be minims, making theme 1 equal to 12 crotchets and theme 2 to 24?—Yours faithfully,

G. A. PECK.

Rugby.

PREVIOUS PEALS OF MINOR ALL SINGLES

Dear Sir,—With reference to the peal of Plain Bob Minor rung at Gamston (see Belfry Gossip, page 108), at least one previous peal of Plain Bob Minor with all calls being singles has been rung for the Southwell Diocesan Guild. See peal No. 407, rung at the Church of All Saints, Eagle, on July 8th, 1954, conducted by Frederick G. Hooper.—Yours faithfully,

W. L. EXTON.

Newark, Notts.

BROADCAST RINGING

Dear Sir,—I have been interested to read the correspondence about the broadcasting of ringing, and I wondered if I might air an idea about this topic.

The idea is that one or more of the programmes put out by 'Network Three' should be devoted to bell-ringing and ringers. It might be possible to provide link-ups on the lines of the Christmas Day broadcasts, but with a more generous time allowance, together with interviews with leading ringers about their experiences. I am sure that in these interviews practical tips about instruction and other matters would come much more readily than if the ringer concerned sat down to write an article for 'The Ringing World' (which too few of the best ringers do anyway).

Although I am not altogether happy about the functions of 'Network Three' as a substitute for the Third Programme, it seems as though it is here to stay, so it is up to us to try and make use of the facilities it provides. It seems that the purpose of 'Network Three' is to cater for minority audiences with special interests, and provided that the programmes are knowledgeably planned, there is no reason why they should not be for the enjoyment and benefit of us all. The point that I think should be emphasised is that to aim programmes exclusively at the novice would be fatal. This has been the tendency in one or two, though by no means all, of the 'Network Three' programmes I have heard, and caused, I fancy, by the producers not having sufficient knowledge of the subject themselves. At all costs we must avoid a programme which starts 'Now, listeners, this evening I am in a little room many feet above ground, containing a circle of eight brightly-coloured ropes disappearing through the ceiling.' However, I am sure that the Broadcasting and Television Committee could be relied on to look after that aspect.—Yours faithfully, ALEC W. FRY.

Romsey, Hants.

CLEATHAM IMPERIAL

Dear Sir,—With reference to the peal of 13 Spliced Major methods rung 'in hand' at Cambridge on November 28th, 1958, I would like to thank Mr. F. T. Blagrove for pointing out that the methods which were published as C.C. Nos. 258 and 259 have actually been rung and named Canterbury Imperial and Hackington Imperial.

If, as he also mentions in his letter in your issue of January 30th, the statement at the foot of page 33 of the C.C. Collection of Plain Major Methods is incorrect, and C.C. No. 257 has not been named, then the members of the C.U.G.C.R. who rang the peal would suggest that it be named 'Cleatham Imperial'.—Yours faithfully,

A. ROBIN HEPPENSTALL.

'THIS 'ERE COON'

Dear Sir,—I am a life member of the Derbyshire Ringers' Association and glad of it. It wasn't difficult, therefore, to offer apologies for my absence at a recent meeting at Breadsall. Hence the rhyme:—

'Apologies I here convey,
I cannot get the Breadsall way:
For to the Southwell I must go,
To ring the treble to and fro.

So whilst you're ringing out a tune
Please spare a thought for this 'ere coon:
And should you hear a clang, clang, clang,
That was Grandsire I nearly rang.'

'CHURCHES, ARTISTS AND PEOPLE'

This is the title of the 13th report of the Central Council for the Care of Churches, which has just been published (Church Information Board, 3s.). It contains a number of interesting articles dealing with the problems connected with our churches but far too few references to bells. However, one of our fraternity, Canon Noel Boston, of East Dereham, has contributed an informative article on the care of monumental brasses.

Miss Cunningham's article on redundant churches and the uses to which they can be put does affect us as ringers as there are a number of rings of bells connected with such fabrics, e.g., St. Mary-at-Quay, Ipswich.

Though the solution adopted at St. John Ousebridge, York, of rehanging the bells and using the fabric for the York Institute of Advanced Architectural Studies is very satisfactory from our point of view, this obviously cannot be afforded in quite a number of cases. Fortunately, the towers are often the best part of the fabrics, so there is a chance of them being retained even if the remainder of the church is demolished and the site sold. But unfortunately it can also be that the tower is appreciably weaker without the strengthening effect of the body of the church, and some doubt may exist as to whether it is safe to ring the bells in full circles.

Other articles deal with rebuilding church organs, church heating, and an excellent one on how to choose stained glass by the Dean of York.

The editorial by the Dean of Gloucester notes that the redundant church of All Hallows, London Wall, London, is to be associated with the work of the Central Council for the Care of Churches. Parts of it will be converted to house offices and the library, leaving the remainder as a chapel; but this scheme is not likely to be completed before 1960 at the earliest. Unfortunately this church does not have a ring.

The report also gives the names of all members of the Diocesan Advisory Committees, and among them the writer notes at least nine who are practical ringers, including two chairmen (Mr. J. W. Clarke, Chester, and Canon R. F. Wilkinson, Southwell). R. C.

121,474 Changes For Sunday Service

Sunday service ringing at St. Mary's, Willesborough, Kent, amounted in 1958 to 121,474 changes. Methods rung were:—

Minor (18).—Plain Bob, Double Bob, Reverse Bob, Canterbury Pleasure, College Bob, St. Clement's, Double Oxford, Oxford Bob, Double Court, Hereward Bob, London Bob, Kent T.B., Oxford T.B., Cambridge S., Ipswich S., Kentish D., Oswald D. and Old Oxford D.

Doubles (15).—Grandsire, Plain Bob, Rev. Canterbury P., New Bob, Huntspill, St. Simon's, St. Martin's, St. Nicholas', Winchendon Place, St. Bartholomew's, Rev. All Saints', Union, St. Faith's S.C., Rev. St. Simon's and Rev. St. Martin's.

Llandaff & Monmouth Association

The Llandaff Branch held its annual meeting at Pontypridd on January 24th. Fine weather encouraged 56 members to attend.

The Rev. Stanley Mogford, Vicar of Pontypridd, conducted the service, which was followed by an excellent tea in the Church Hall. Mr. D. J. King, general Ringing Master, gave a vote of thanks to the ladies of the local Mothers' Union for the catering of this meal.

During the business meeting Mr. R. E. Coles was re-elected secretary/treasurer. Radrly was chosen for the next meeting, with Aberavon as an alternative. R. E. C.

HANDBELL RECITAL AT MARCH

Mr. Frederick Sharpe and his talented team of handbell ringers from Launton, Oxfordshire, gave a recital at St. Wendreda's Church, March, Cambs, on February 7th, to a church filled to capacity.

The congregation soon fell under the magical spell of the bell music. Performing with ease, and masters of rhythm, the team confidently and expertly reproduced well-loved tunes in a manner which obviously bespoke hours of consistent practice. It was beautifully and reverently executed, and a joy to witness and hear.

Twenty-three pieces were rung, including medieval carols, chime tunes and music written for bells by English composers, and last but not least the ever-popular hymn tunes 'Sandon,' 'Old Hundredth,' 'Eventide' and others filled the hallowed building with melodious chords.

The church bells were rung before and after the recital, and the handbell ringers received refreshments in the schoolroom.

It was indeed music extraordinary, and the team, whose efforts evoked much admiration, are to be congratulated on their ability in their ancient craft; and special credit is due to the youngest member, Peter Allen, aged 13.

RAMBLING RINGERS' REUNION

Leicester was chosen as the place of the reunion of the Rambling Ringers on December 13th, and some good ringing was had at St. Margaret's, St. John's, the Cathedral and All Saints'.

The dinner was held at the Great Central Hotel, and a party of over 50 sat down for a meal. The meeting which followed was a rather long and heated one. The main items were the new rules and the behaviour of ringers on tour.

The election of officers was as follows: President, Patrick I. Chapman; Ringing Master, John E. Cook; hon. secretary, Carol Eustace (26, Vicarage Road, Rugby); deputy Ringing Masters, Denis Mottershead and Alan J. Frost; hon. peal secretary, Peter M. Giles, and committee member, Alan Cattell.

After this, an enjoyable social evening followed in the usual mad fashion. J. E. C.

ST. PETER MANCROFT

At the annual meeting of the St. Peter Mancroft Ringers' Guild on January 28th, the Vicar (Rev. K. Wilkinson Riddle) was elected president, and the following were re-elected: Mr. A. G. Bason, Ringing Master, Mr. F. N. Golden, deputy Ringing Master; Mr. C. Bird, hon. secretary and treasurer.

The Ringing Master paid tribute to the ex-president (Very Rev. J. A. H. Waddington) for the support he had always given to the Guild during his term of office.

The new president said he was honoured by being elected, and was sure all would work together to the glory of God. Mr. K. Brown and Mr. T. Bailey were elected members.

BARNSELEY & DISTRICT SOCIETY

Fourteen towers were represented at the Society's meeting at Wentworth on February 14th. Mr. Noel F. Moxon presided at the business meeting, which followed a very good tea at the George and Dragon. Wortley, near Sheffield, was selected for the next meeting on March 14th. A record crowd is asked for the annual outing to Loughborough Bell Foundry on July 4th. Arrangements for the shield and cup contest are to be made at a committee meeting at St. Mary's, Barnsley, on March 28th. The vote of thanks from the chair included a special one to Mr. George West and the local company for making the arrangements.

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

Despite the influenza outbreak which caused the absence of the District secretary and others, a company of over 40 sat down to tea at the annual meeting of the Guildford District at Guildford on February 14th. The nominations for District officers went awry. Mr. T. Mark White was unable to accept re-election as District Ringing Master as he had accepted another appointment which would eventually necessitate his leaving Guildford. A popular choice was Mr. E. R. John Wells, with past experience of the office in the Farnham District. Mr. Leslie Hunter because of ill health could not accept the post of deputy Master. Elected to the office was Mr. Leslie Warner, of Cranleigh. Mr. D. A. Kirk was re-elected hon. secretary.

Four new members from Holy Trinity, Guildford, were elected—Miss Ann Garbett, David Tubbs, Tony Hughes and Robert Hamilton, and Miss Joan Beazley, now at Worcester, was elected a compounding member.

The Guild Master's letter, containing matters for consideration by the Executive, was discussed. There was a strong vote against the abolition of junior membership, but the idea of fixed days for the Guild annual meeting at the summer festival was favoured. Regarding the annual dinner being a 'movable feast' and being held in the different Districts, the meeting reminded the Executive that the geographical advantages of Guildford should be considered before making a change.

Mr. A. C. Hazelden, who presided, thanked Miss Monica Collins and helpers for the bountiful tea, the Rev. C. A. Stables for conducting the service in St. Mary's Church, and Miss Janet Cleeve for acting as organist. Ringing took place at St. Nicolas' and Holy Trinity churches.

OBITUARY

MR. HERBERT KNIGHT AN APPRECIATION

I would esteem it a favour if I could pay a tribute to the late Mr. Herbert Knight, whom I first rang with at St. Michael's, Brierley Hill, Staffs, on November 17th, 1906, when he conducted Thurstans' One-part peal of Stedman Triples. He also conducted the same composition blindfold on October 12th, 1907, at St. Luke's, Blakenhall. Having rung more than 200 peals together I can vouch for Mr. Knight's sterling character and ability, also his valuable advice to learners. Herbert was a frequent visitor to St. Giles', Willenhall, where he rang his last peal; this was Plain Bob Royal, rung as a welcome to our Vicar (Rev. A. G. Bond), on December 29th, 1956.

LINCOLN DIOCESAN GUILD

Elloe Deanery Branch

The annual meeting of the Elloe Deanery Branch took place at Spalding on February 7th. The service was conducted by the Rev. R. W. H. Nind, the address being given by the Vicar (Canon M. H. R. Synge). Tea was served in the School, with Mrs. C. Rawding, of Surfleet, in charge of the catering arrangements.

Canon M. H. R. Synge presided at the business meeting. The balance sheet and belfry repair fund both remained in a healthy state. On a proposal from Mr. J. E. Allen it was agreed to invest £25 out of both accounts in Premium Bonds. There had been some membership lapses, but with new members elected during the year numbers remained steady.

At the election of officers, the Rev. R. W. H. Nind was chosen as president in succession to Canon M. H. R. Synge, who will be leaving shortly to take up an appointment in Lincoln. All other officers were re-elected. A collection for the belfry repair fund amounted to £1 5s. 6d. Quarterly meetings were arranged to take place at Holbeach, Deeping St. Nicholas, Long Sutton and Gedney.

In his votes of thanks Mr. J. Ames wished the retiring president every success in his new appointment.

BEVERLEY AND DISTRICT SOCIETY

The annual meeting of the Beverley and District Ringing Society was held at Holy Church, Hull, on February 14th, and was attended by 35 members. The service was conducted by the Society's chaplain, the Rev. G. S. Storer.

At the business meeting, the president (Mr. A. E. Sellers) welcomed the members, and in drawing attention to the growing number of young lady ringers now regularly attending the monthly meetings, expressed the hope that the significance of two further young ladies being elected members presaged a year of improved recruitment. In all, six new members were elected at this meeting.

Officers elected for the coming year were: President, Mr. A. E. Sellers; vice-president, Mr. H. Parker; Ringing Master, Mr. J. M. Harrop; assistant Ringing Master, Mr. R. Ducker; secretary and treasurer, Mr. K. Kirk; assistant secretary, Mr. I. Goldthorpe; committee, Messrs. F. Dale, D. Johnson, J. Parker, A. Taylor and F. Wilkinson.

The Society's thanks were accorded to three retiring officers—Mr. L. Rodmell, who relinquished the position of Ringing Master after 11 years in office; Mr. G. Braithwaite, vice-president for the past five years; and Miss J. Wilson, secretary and treasurer during the past year.

WHATTON-IN-THE-VALE'S FIRST RINGERS' DINNER

Whatton-in-the-Vale, Nottingham, ringers held their first dinner on February 7th at the Griffin's Head Hotel, Whatton. They began the event by ringing the six church bells from 4.30 until 6.30 p.m. A tape-recording was made to be played back later in the evening. The dinner was attended by 35 ringers and friends, including people from Grantham, Newark, Nottingham, Radcliffe, Daybrook, Shelford, Leicester, Rugby, Northampton, Bottesford, North Muskham, and even as far away as Crewe. The meal was excellently cooked and much appreciated.

After Mr. Tom Greasley had proposed the loyal toast, Mr. David Clarke introduced the Whatton ringers to the visitors. The recording of the bells was played back, and handbell tune ringing was given by Brian Buswell, Tom Greasley and David Clarke. A game of 'What's my Line?' was organised by Mr. David (Eamonn Andrews) Clarke, and the celebrity was Peter Giles. A vote of thanks to Pam and David Clarke for organising the dinner was proposed by Mr. Bill Midwinter.

LATE NEWS

The roof and vestry of Drayton Parish Church were gutted by a serious fire on Saturday afternoon. The choir stalls, made by the late Rev. F. E. Robinson, were saved, but the famous screen which he carved was destroyed.

AN ELEMENTARY HANDBOOK FOR BEGINNERS IN THE ART OF CHANGE-RINGING

VERY few elementary text books on ringing have been written in partnership, and the reason for this is not far to seek when one considers the diversity of opinion on many of the problems arising in the instruction of beginners. For a syndicate of four to attempt to write a book of this kind would seem to be a hazardous enterprise, and Miss Cross and her committee may, therefore, be well satisfied with the success they have achieved in 'An Elementary Handbook for Beginners in the Art of Change-Ringing,' the latest Central Council production.

The book is divided into three parts, and is prefaced by an introduction which makes it clear that successful use of the succeeding pages depends upon a thorough co-operation between teacher and pupil; the text must therefore be surveyed critically with this in mind: that the book is for the instructor as well as for the learner.

Part I deals with the bell, its parts, its mechanism, and how to handle it. It is pointed out, and quite rightly, that personal instruction is essential in the learning of bell handling; the explanatory paragraphs, therefore, will be found of great value both by the student for private study and by the instructor for periodic catechising. The 'Do's and Don'ts' of the business of ringing a bell are well covered, and apart from (i) 'Speed of Ringing,' which might have been omitted at this stage, the suggested order of instruction is logical. The notes on 'Where to look when ringing' and 'Watching other ringers in action' form valuable notes at the end of this section.

The illustrations include three views of a bell and a number of posed demonstrations to assist in making clear the correct positions of hands and body in ringing a bell. One may perhaps doubt the value of Nos. 10 and 11. In photographs of a rope in motion the effect is rarely elegant, and in these snapshots the eye of the pupil would seem to be fixed (a trifle undesirably) on the sally.

Part II deals with change-ringing, and this section has been adapted from Mr. W. G. Wilson's very popular 'Notes for Beginners.' As in the mechanical section, the stress is on the association of pupil and teacher, and the text is planned to assist both. The work starts with a consideration of plain hunting and leads on to the study of Plain Bob followed by Grandsire. It will be gratifying to many instructors to find some notes on the elementary study of coursing order, an important feature of change-ringing so often neglected by beginners. One would perhaps have welcomed a somewhat more detailed exposition of the actual process of hunting (which Jasper Snowden provides so successfully), but the authors seem to have taken the view that this, too, is a matter for the instructor, and their opinion is consistent with the aim and policy of the book.

Part II is short but significant. It touches briefly but earnestly on the duties of a ringer and the band to which he belongs. It provides not only a fitting conclusion to a book for beginners but also sets out considerations that should be read, marked and learned afresh by ringers of all ages and experience.

The book has unity and clearness of expression. It is free from pedantry and tautology, and its friendly language has managed to keep dignity nor lose the common touch. The Exercise owes a debt of gratitude to the Handbook Committee for their labours. E. C. S.

NOTE: Copies can be purchased from Mr. R. F. B. Speed, Four Winds, School Lane, Stretton-on-Dunsmore, Rugby, price 1s. post free.

THE BELLS OF ABERTAWE WILL RING OUT AGAIN ON EASTER SUNDAY

I WOULD first of all take you back to April, 1950, when the Rev. Harry Williams accepted the living of St. Paul's Church, Sketty, and his very first job was to have the eight bells retuned and rehung. Messrs. John Taylor and Co. completed this work by September of the same year, which coincided with the centenary celebrations of the church.

In September, 1958, the Rev. Canon Harry Williams (as he was then) was offered the living of the Parish Church of Swansea, St. Mary's, and he again accepted. Soon afterwards he set about the work of having eight bells put back into the rebuilt tower. The order was given to Messrs. John Taylor and Co., who have promised to have the bells ready for ringing by Easter Sunday, March 29th. Will ringers please note that the bells will be available for ringing on that day. (See Notices for further particulars.)

Let us appreciate the magnificent achievement by the Vicar of Swansea who, with the help of many townspeople, made it possible for two 8-bell towers to be available for ringing in eight years, especially as in these days of so much synthetic music, and also synthetic bells used in the country. There is still, however, another ring of six bells lying at the base of the tower in St. John's Church, Morriston; and it is hoped that in the not too far distant future these bells will also peal forth their 'call to worship.'

The Church of St. Mary was blitzed in February, 1941—the building, including the tower, was completely gutted by fire, and all the bells were melted down in the intense heat. It was no wonder the late Bishop of Bangor, the Rt. Rev. Dr. Edward Davies, who was then Vicar of Swansea, cried when he saw the destruction of his church.

Now the new St. Mary's has been rebuilt at a cost of £250,000, and about £12,000 has still to be found to clear the debt. On such a happy occasion it would not be right or proper to forget those associated with the ringing fraternity at St. Mary's who have now passed on. They are Messrs. Fred Curtis, E. Searle, Ned Davies, Phil Kneath, Jack Davies, Chas. Hoare, J. Jones, Jim Hoare, Syd Perry, Albert Edwards, Albert Williams and Alan Rose.

The work and responsibility of directing the rebuilding of the new church, which is of cathedral proportions, must be associated with the Lord Bishop of the Diocese, Dr. J. J. Thomas. This great church will be opened by Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth, the Queen Mother, on Thursday, May 28th.

J. A. HOARE.

The Society of Friends of the Exercise have rung their first peal—at Wrington on February 7th. This is a keen group of West Country ringers, who meet two or three times a year with headquarters at the King's Arms, Budleigh, to visit towers in Dorset, Wilts, Devon and Cornwall. The peal was the suggestion of 'Founder Friend' Cyril Savage. They desire to associate the peal with the enthronement of the Bishop of Bristol, which took place during its progress.

Next Sunday at 10 a.m. the retuned and rehung bells of St. Nicholas' Church, Hereford, will be rededicated by the Archdeacon of Hereford (Ven. T. B. Randolph).

The suggestion that Reading University Society may accompany Southampton University on their Norfolk and Suffolk tour on July 5th to 12th is a mistake. Miss M. Tilbury has written to Mr. Dermot Roaf, secretary of the U.A., and to Southampton, apologising for the error.

At last the Exercise has its beginners' official book in print. 'An Elementary Handbook for Beginners in the Art of Change Ringing' came off the press this week and will be available next week from Mr. R. F. B. Speed, Four Winds, School Lane, Stretton-on-Dunsmore, Rugby. Price 1s., post free. Profusely illustrated, we want to see a sale of 2,000 in the first 12 months.

To correspondents who have written desirous of joining the Rabbits' Guild—we have forwarded your letters to the secretary. For special reasons, explained in the report of the annual meeting, secrecy is observed regarding gatherings. We understand the Guild members assemble together at selected other meetings, and those desirous of joining will unexpectedly receive fraternal greetings from a representative or an official present.

BELFRY

GOSSIP

We regret to learn that Mr. T. Fowler, of Cookham, has been in the Astor Ward, St. Luke's Hospital, Maidenhead, since February 21st. The last report we received was that he is going on satisfactorily. He will be pleased to hear from ringing friends.

'A real tonic for a 'flu victim,' writes a correspondent in appreciation of our speeding-up process of dispatch.

This evening Mr. J. Frank Smallwood is addressing the new Leeds University Campanological Society on 'The importance of having a ringing paper.'

Visiting ringers to Bournemouth are cordially invited to practice nights. They are: St. John's, Surrey Road, Tuesday, 7.30 p.m.; St. Peter's, Thursday, 7.30 p.m.

Miss W. Nichols, of Randwick, N.S.W., writes that this is the centenary year of the Municipality of Randwick, but it is unlikely their ring of eight will be pealable before the end of the year. She is anxious to know whether their mother church, St. Jude's, Randwick, Glos, has a ring of bells. [No mention in Dove's.]

Unfortunately, the photograph we received of 'the most beautiful eight in the West Lindsey Branch of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild' would not reproduce satisfactorily. The names were Vivienne Richardson, Shirley Guymer, Wendy Spacie, Jean Blackburn, Joy Till, Dorothy Golland, Delia Smith and Mary Stapleton.

While the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Mann, of Goldhanger, Essex, took place on January 30th, the peal in honour of the occasion was not rung until February 20th. The thick fog on January 29th necessitated the arranged attempt being cancelled. Of Mr. Mann's 60 years as a ringer, 58 have been at Goldhanger. A son, grand-daughter and grandson (now learning) carry on the good work.

LET LOOSE IN AFRICA

By VICTOR SHEPPARD

WHILST South Africa is not rich in ringing towers—indeed in Dove's Guide it has the least of all ringing countries—the Exercise is kept alive and the future is not without hope. From Cape Town in the extreme south it is 425 miles to the university city of Grahamstown. Another 350 miles further on lies the port of Durban, and from here it is 850 miles to the capital of Southern Rhodesia, Salisbury.

GRAHAMSTOWN

Under such conditions the curious ringer must give his attention to the many single bells in church, farmyard, or ancient monument. The first ring of bells in Africa came to Grahamstown Cathedral from Warner's foundry in 1878, and was erected two years later in a frame made of timbers salvaged from the bridge at Fort Brown. The floods of '74 had swept this bridge down river to the coast; the beams, the gift of the Government, were hauled back 50 miles by oxen. I can find no record of any ringing taking place here, and the Bishop only ten years later wrote: 'We might have done without the tower and bells.' Silence descended there until Canon Ridout rang handbells in the belfry, which duly appeared in 'The Ringing World' of 1914, and later he wrote, in 1939: 'They are not in order, the frame loose and only chimed.'

The present Dean, the Very Rev. Hodson, from Helmesley, Yorks, told me in 1954 that they were very dirty, a clapper had fallen out, and a beam prevented the tenor from rising; it then looked rather hopeless for this eight (tenor 25 cwt.). Heartening news came early this year from Pat Cahill, whom Salisbury (Wilts) friends will remember. He writes that Mr. Eardley, from Stoke-on-Trent, and his son have fitted new ropes and unstuck the grease and rust of years; the gudgeons can at last turn. The architect is satisfied the tower is safe, and some beginners are receiving instruction. Ropes which fall in two parallel lines, and worm-eaten sliders which crumble at the touch of the stay, add to the excitement. They have done a fine job to get four bells rung on Easter morning and they deserve success.

CAPE TOWN

The Church of St. Mary-the-Virgin stands in a busy industrial suburb of Cape Town, but things were very different when Woodstock was a fishing beach and the tower was being built in 1897. The ship's bell, inscribed 'Batavia, Hamburg, 1788,' served the church until the Barwell eight arrived in 1902; these are almost identical with the same founders' ring at St. Luke's, Wolverhampton (tenor 10 cwt.). They got off to a good start with a few competent men, and 18 months later were of peal-ringing standard. With the settled conditions which returned at the close of the South African war, and the gold rush on the Witwatersrand, the band broke up and only desultory ringing took place for official occasions during the next 20 years.

A quarter peal of Doubles in 1925 was the outstanding event, though the handbells were active at concerts about this time. During the 1930's the tenor was put on ball-bearings by the ringers. After the last war a few immigrants came, and the band began to make progress; in the last three years some wheels have been renewed, and the writer quarter-turned the treble and second. They go tolerably well, but there's no denying that the bell-hanger would be very welcome.

The band meet regularly under Mr. W. Smith, formerly of Guildford, for practice and service ringing. Woodstock is now stronger than at any time since its opening years.

Although Cape Town can claim to have had the first ring of bells in South Africa, they were never hung for ringing: Thos. Mears cast eight (tenor 16 cwt. in F) in 1834, and they hung in St. George's Cathedral until the tower was demolished in 1952. Ringing, which had ceased 20 years previously (tower unsafe!), was done by means of a lanyard round each clapper, the bells were hung 'dead' and the ringers stood on the floor below, their changes painted on the wall. At present the treble hangs in a cote on the unfinished nave, and the rest stand in the churchyard. No wonder the fourth is cracked!

Fourteen years ago the Cathedral received a considerable bequest which was directed to be invested, and solely used, for the restoration of the bells; and to-day it would handsomely cover any expense. However, the authorities are not at all interested and shelter behind the technical-political impasse which at the moment prevents the completion of the nave and tower; an appeal to the new Archbishop met with polite interest.

How many churches would like this bequest?—it has now accumulated to about £8,000. I couldn't see the Rev. G. Thurlow sitting quietly by if he were here.

The only other installation of note at Cape Town is the 37-bell carillon from Loughborough in the City Hall. It is a 1914-18 War memorial. Opened in 1925, it has never been a great success because of the prevailing high winds in summer, when it is inaudible at street level. The tenor is 47 cwt. It has not been played for several years, though I have a programme from 1936 which says '... the recital to begin and end with the usual change-ringing.' The carillonneur of those days is now the town clerk, and he was able to show me his transposition of methods (Oxford and Kent) into musical notation.

It is here convenient to mention the city of Port Elizabeth, 420 miles from Cape Town on the way to Durban. A notable feature of the skyline is a high, square, red brick campanile, containing a Gillett and Johnston carillon of 23 bells with auto player mechanism; it has been out of action for several years.

DURBAN

Durban was the next place to have a ring of bells, when the city Church of St. Paul received a Taylor eight (tenor 14 cwt.). Cast in 1916, the bells were not dedicated until 1921. The small belfry was remarkable for its white sallies; now they are the usual stripes. The bells are in three tiers, with the second on the top. In 1930 Mr. Alex Young found some good call-changes there, and the band considered themselves the only real ringers in the country. Methods have never taken hold there and a call-change band still rings for service.

About two miles from the city is the suburb of Greyville, and in 1919 Taylors cast a ring of ten (tenor 18 cwt.) for St. Mary's Church there. They were dedicated before the earlier ring at St. Paul's. This is undoubtedly the best ring in Africa, the belfry is roomy and the ropes fall in a good circle. An unsuccessful attempt for a peal of Grandsire Caters on New Year's Eve, 1924, is the only evidence I can find of any ringing until Mr. Osborne, of Rugby, called a quarter peal of Doubles in August, 1955. There is no regular band here, although like St. Paul's the bells are in good order. Latest news is that adjoining road excavations have disturbed the foundations, and ringing is forbidden. Mr. Cyril Chambers, of Kidderminster, is the authority in Durban. The five clock bells in the Post Office complete the picture for this most English city of the Union. An interesting link at Durban is a Mrs. Stainbank, whose husband's great-grandfather, Christopher, became the partner of George Mears in 1865.

SALISBURY

Now to Salisbury, Southern Rhodesia, where the Cathedral is still being built. A bequest to provide for bells was in this case honoured, and a new ring of ten is at present in the White-chapel Foundry soon to be shipped out. The Dean has had several offers of help when they are ready, and the recent arrival of Mr. J. Crump, for Hornsey, London, should enable that lovely city to get off to a fine start. Cape Town, for reasons already stated, regret these bells are not going to be hung by the Foundry.

PEALS VERY FEW

Peals on tower bells have all been rung at Cape Town—Grandsire Triples in 1904, and Doubles in 1951 and 1953. Upwards of 20 quarter peals from this tower, all but one (1925) coming since 1950; a single quarter from Durban, and that is all.

In Grahamstown's belfry at the end of 1913, Canon Ridout, the Dean (the Very Rev. Vincent) and the Rev. Earle Bulwer rang several six-scores of Grandsire 'in hand.' By 1930, Canon Ridout had brought his band of mission sisters to peal standard, and in that year scored two 5,040's of Bob Minor 'in hand' at St. Margaret's Mission House, Johannesburg; and in the following four years they rang several six-scores and two quarter peals, all of Bob Minor.

RINGERS OF NOTE

The first method-ringing in South Africa was a 720 of Bob Minor in December, 1903, to welcome the birth of a daughter to Lewis Green. From his peal book which this lady still has, I find Lewis Green had rung six peals in the Stratford-Bethnal Green area, before going to Cape Town in 1899. He took part in the Cape Town peal of 1904, and returned to England in 1907 where in the next four years he rang 49 peals, mostly in the areas Reading, Caversham, Exeter and Chelmsford. Of these, Grandsire Caters at Walthamstow (April 22nd, 1911) included Mr. A. A. Hughes, and Triples at Bradninch, Devon (June 4th, 1910) was conducted by the Rev. Carew Cox; which serves to show the continuity and connections which delight us in far away places. As early at 1887 I find Lewis Green ringing with James Priest in Essex, and it is not surprising to find the latter arriving in Cape Town some ten months after him. He had been with Mr. Barnett, sen., a member of the Wanstead band, and was active from Bow to Chelmsford. At Woodstock he only took part in the 1903 and '04 performances but, like Lewis Green, was still able to appear when Alf Pye visited South Africa in 1934. His death in 1954 cut the last tie with the first change-ringing in Africa.

James Murray was born in Edinburgh, and began ringing at St. Mary's Cathedral there, and later at St. Mary's, Great Western Road, Glasgow, and Doncaster. He took part in the 1904 peal and became tower captain in 1906. After 1930 he ceased ringing, and died about five years later.

Ernest F. Behan, for whom the 1904 peal was arranged, had travelled widely. A pupil of A. E. Barnes at St. Paul's Cathedral, Melbourne, he was working in Johannesburg at the time, and later took lodgings with Canon Ridout. Eventually he returned to Queensland, went to New Guinea in the war, and thereafter took to a nomadic life around Australia; he died in Melbourne about 1949.

CANON RIDOUT

When I was in Johannesburg making enquiries about Canon Ridout, someone said to me: 'Oh, you mean the King of the Kaffirs.' This was a new aspect of the man who had learned to ring whilst at Cambridge, and later at Croydon. He arrived in South Africa, with a set of handbells in his luggage, in 1906, and spent his life in mission work for the native people in Johannesburg, where he is still remembered with love, and where in 1941 he was buried at the mission station. As well as teaching the mission sisters to whom I have referred, his

HIS VALENTINE!

A well-known ringer at Edgware, Middlesex, received the following verses inside a Valentine card:—

32 CHANGES OF VALENTINE CATERS

Before

Richard, I always think of you
When I hear a peal of bells,
The notes ring out so clear and true,
Each one a story tells.

Lead End

A 'Bob' will never 'touch' my heart,
He'll never 'lead' me 'wrong,'
But 'single' as I am just now
Seems to affect my song.

Out Slow

'Grandsire' can never worry me,
With him I'm quite at 'home';
I'd love to 'attempt' 'Beverley' *
'Four blows behind,' then roam.

In Quick

It would be a 'Major Surprise'
To hear that 'she has gone';
If she 'runs out' then I'll 'run in,'
'Before' she 'changes' her tone.

Hunt

Where'er you 'go' you may be sure
I'll 'follow close behind';
So why not stop your 'double dodge'
And 'end' this 'frame' of mind?

Wrong

My life is 'on the balance' now
This 'method' is not 'right,'
I have no future to 'look to,'
Except each Wednesday† night.

Down to Lead

I've 'hunted up' and 'hunted down,'
'That's all' that I can do,
And from this 'plain course' I'm quite sure
There's no one quite like you.

Home?

Oh Richard, do not 'let me down,'
My mind is 'set' on you.
Regardless how you 'start' or 'stand,'
To you I'll still be true.

four daughters were in the handbell band. At every vacation he would go to Cape Town or Durban, and one can imagine this good man torn between his life's work up country, and the attractions of those coastal towns with bells and ringers. Strangely, he never got a quarter peal at these places. His composition of 'Grandsire' is occasionally rung, having been introduced by Ernest Morris.

THE INTEREST FACTOR

Dear Sir,—Several lines of thought occur to one after reading your leading article of January 30th last, particularly with regard to the coefficient of frustration for which, apparently, Professor Dodge makes no allowance, yet which must have a profound if not always immediately obvious effect upon the value of his conclusions.

This 'Frustration Factor' crops up continually, whether we want it to or not, and it has to be taken into consideration when such investigations as these are made into any subject involving human activities.

Few, if any, have been as appreciative of the incidence of frustration as the renowned Herr Taubenhau, a famous chess player, who strode like a Colossus through international tournaments between 1870 and the outbreak of World War I, and died at a very great age in Paris, circa 1924.

Like all chess players, he knew what frustration was but, unlike so many of them, he harnessed it to his own service and took the utmost care to see that his opponents were on the receiving end, as witness, for example, his superb game against Herr Berger in the Hamburg tournament of 1886, which secured for him the Brilliancy Prize. He applied his theories to all aspects of chess and in his later years made his conclusions available to the world. His work upon the 'Interest Factor' (in chess) was directly coupled to the 'Frustration Factor,' and it is the purpose of this letter to show how his conclusions may be made to benefit change-ringers, particularly peal ringers and, more particularly still, peal ringers who wish to ring more than one peal in a day.

Adapting his work to our purposes we will define his units of frustration as B.F.U.s (Belfry Frustration Units), and for the measure of the exasperation and heat they engender we cannot do better than fall back upon our old friends the B.T.U.s (British Thermal Units), which increase as the square of the increase (from zero) of the B.F.U.s.

At this point it is as well to note the manner in which Herr Taubenhau's work can help us in regard to Professor Dodge's second and third sub-divisions (its application to his first sub-division is of course obvious).

In the second sub-division, 'Ropesight (difficulty) Interest,' we have only to instance the belfry at Little Taterfield, where the ropes fall in the order 15243, with the treble in one corner, the tenor in another and an enormous clock case in between, so that the ringers of these two bells cannot see each other at all, and can only see 2 and 3 respectively by bending forward and looking diagonally across, while the execrable tone of this wretched minor five, with flat treble and sharp second, can lead to such a rapid build-up of B.F.U.s, and in turn of B.T.U.s, as to cause a run off the scale if viewed in the light of Professor Dodge's third sub-section. Very fortunately, Herr Taubenhau's progression does not choke off.

Now, in order to make allowances for the varying circumstances in different towers we will introduce an abstract function ϕ , and proceed thus:—

$$I_1 = 12N - N^2 + F \times U \frac{T_1}{T_1 - T_2} \pm \alpha(\phi \text{Log}_e r) + P_h$$

Where I_1 is the Method Interest

N the number of bells

F the B.F.U.s

U the B.T.U.s

T_1 the higher absolute temperature

T_2 the lower absolute temperature

ϕ the transgression scale (as distinct from the progression)

ϕ the abstract function (obviously not constant)

P_h a constant, considered necessary by Herr Taubenhau, since its value (not constant) is important.

Note.— I_2 , I_3 , and I_4 will tie up equally well with Herr Taubenhau's thesis, and a little study will serve to show how beautifully concise was the old grandmaster's work.—Yours faithfully,

BERNARD C. ASHFORD

N.B.—Should any chess-playing ringer like to play through and study the Berger v. Taubenhau game referred to above, the score is to be found in G. H. D. Gossip's 'Collection of Modern Chess Brilliances' (1891). It ran to 74 moves, and history records that Herr Berger was never the same man again after Herr Taubenhau had done with him—surely a wonderful tribute to the old grandmaster's superb technique.—B. C. A.

WINCHESTER & PORTSMOUTH

The annual meeting of the Winchester District was held at Winchester on February 7th. Although the attendance was small it was representative of the District.

The chairman welcomed the members and friends, and asked the meeting to remember three friends who had been called to higher service during the year, namely Mrs. Sanders, Mr. E. Long and Mr. A. Bulpitt.

The secretary and treasurer gave their reports on the year's work, and these were adopted by the meeting. The officers were re-elected en bloc and eight new ringing members were also elected.

It was proposed to hold quarterly meetings as follows: April 11th, Preston Candover; July 11th, Cheriton; and October 3rd at New Alresford. Practice meetings would be arranged at the quarterly meetings. It was also agreed to hold the outing and dinner as in previous years.

Tea was served in St. Maurice's Hall, and afterwards the members attended Evensong at the Cathedral. After the service the 12 bells of the Cathedral were available for one hour.

RINGERS' REVIEW

Dear Sir,—The findings of the Central Council's review of Sunday service ringing will no doubt be published in 'The Ringing World' after the Southport meeting this year.

A few years ago, in the village where I live, no change-ringing band existed, and the likelihood of one starting must have seemed very remote to any change-ringers in the district. Now we have a flourishing band of some 16 ringers at our 6-bell tower, some of their names appearing regularly in our national journal. Why the sudden change?

Let me try to explain. Some time ago, a certain gentleman came to live in our village, and although he has never considered himself to be an outstanding change-ringer, his ability and willingness to teach young ringers is something which has to be seen to be believed. . . . I am sure at times he must have despaired, especially at my own feeble efforts, as later on when change-ringing had been mastered, he always told learners that I was the one he had given up hope for.

Once the early stages of change-ringing had been mastered he was able to reap his reward in watching us take our place (sometimes everybody else's place too) at meetings. How important these Branch meetings are to learners, especially if they are well-attended by some more notable ringers in the Exercise. Nearby practices were invaded by 'the mob,' and every encouragement was given to us so that we made progress.

Due to business commitments, our leader had to leave our District, but I am sure he will forgive me for using him as an example. We can never thank him enough for ourselves, but we can obey the words of our Saviour: 'Go and do thou likewise.' The future of the Exercise depends upon YOU and me: we may not be brilliant ringers or teachers, but we will never know unless we try and keep on trying.

I think that the great majority of people living in Britain today, given a fair chance to learn, could reach a standard of change-ringing higher than the one prevailing generally on Sundays at this present time. Although we do not claim to be outstanding, we have found some of the following ideas to be helpful.

(1) All our ringers were between the ages of 11 and 16 years when they started to ring. This is before the problems of G.C.E. and H.M.F. trouble them.

(2) All were members of the Sunday School and still are, six of them now teaching there.

(3) The majority are members of our Youth Group.

These may seem to be unnecessary qualities for a band of young ringers, but from August to November of last year, when we were unable to ring our tower bells due to loose fabric on the tower, we kept together, having other social activities.

Lastly, we must make our hobby and service something which others envy and long to do. I was approached last month by eight young boys in one day who all wanted to become ringers. We have taken on two to start with, but 'Anybody want some ringers?'—Yours sincerely,

ROBERT B. SMITH.

Marple, Cheshire.

SPICED CAMBRIDGE AND SUPERLATIVE

Dear Sir,—I feel I must reply to the letters which have been appearing in 'The Ringing World' about the Spiced Cambridge and Superlative 'false peals'.

Firstly, for Mr. Border's information, I was evidently dishonest for seven years before the falseness was discovered, so another year or two until the peal is withdrawn shouldn't matter. Don't get upset, Peter, this sort of letter is certainly no credit to you.

Secondly, for Mr. W. Eric Critchley's information, the peal concerned was crossed out of my own personal records as soon as it was brought to light; but as far as the Sussex County Association is concerned, I had a talk with the peals secretary and was asked not to withdraw it yet. So you see, Mr. Critchley, you were wrong on that point. As regards being disturbed at the attitude of mind shown, you should not lose any sleep on my account, and I can assure you that my letter was no excuse for lowering standards of peal ringing as you suggest.

While on this subject, Mr. Critchley, perhaps you would be good enough to let me know how many changes are actually false in this arrangement, which makes me wonder whether every peal that you have been in has been rung from beginning to end without a misblow. If so, you are a very lucky young man. I don't expect to find a ringer who can honestly say every peal he has rung is true. We all know of peal attempts where the bells shift course and the conductor puts them back within a lead. How many of these changes have been repeated? Nobody knows or cares, and as Pat Cannon would say, they all look alike in print. So why get all 'het up' over a few false changes in the arrangement; otherwise we might get conductors and others withdrawing peals in their thousands.

Thirdly, in reply to Mr. E. A. Barnett's letter, it's a great pity he spoils this by the sarcasm which had to creep in about being afraid of not qualifying for the 'Leading Peal Ringers' list. So, Mr. Barnett, for your information I get a lot of enjoyment out of good ringing, whether it be proved false or otherwise; and the number of peals rung does not worry me, but the quality does. It has taken me 35 years to ring a modest 200-odd peals, so your remarks in that direction do not fit.

Well, Mr. Editor, having got this lot off my chest, I sincerely trust the whole matter will be dropped and forgotten and the peal in question will be withdrawn and the usual apologies given in due course.—Yours sincerely,

W. ROGERS.

Rotherfield, Sussex.

BELLS ON THE CONTINENT

Dear Sir,—The story by Miss A. M. Reay, 'Bells on the Continent,' was very interesting. When I went to Bruges and Holland I couldn't console myself with the tunes of the bells; they sounded tinny, and I was glad I lived in England.

On my visit to Jersey last year, we were on a countryside tour. Imagine my excitement when we drew up outside an attractive tower looking like a ground floor tower. I eagerly awaited the courier's comments, saying to myself, 'At least six bells.' When finally he spoke—'The church on the left is very old; built in 1800 I believe'—and continued the drive, I nearly fell out of the bus window. I couldn't believe it: what! no mention of bells—and so English-looking too?

Yes, if you want to ring, the Continent isn't very gratifying.—Yours, A. HENSON.
West Bridgford, Notts.

A REPLY TO CRITICS

Dear Sir,—With regard to peals of Spiced Cambridge and Superlative, I wish to withdraw the peal rung at Hugglescote on April 23rd, 1958. This peal has, incidentally, already been withdrawn from the records of the Leicester Diocesan Guild.

Mr. Peter Border states that my original inquiry on the subject was a rigmarole. My dictionary gives the following three meanings of the word: (1) a succession of incoherent statements, (2) a rambling discourse, (3) a long-winded harangue of little meaning or consequence. With regard to (1) I think my statements were quite clear; with regard to (2) I did not ramble, and with regard to (3) I am of the opinion that it is of much meaning and is important.

Mr. E. Barnett implies that just because the Central Council publish something it does not mean to say that they will accept it, yet in the rules of the Central Council there is implied the following: 'You can only ring what we say.' The Central Council publish a book saying what you can ring, and then when it has been rung they say it should not have been rung. Anything published under the authority of the Council should be accepted by the Council. Incidentally, for Mr. Barnett's information, I do not ring peals for the sake of 'numbers,' and only four of my total for 1958 were Plain Bob and handbells.—Yours faithfully,

BRIAN G. WARWICK.

Glen Hills, Leicester.

ANOTHER PEAL WITHDRAWAL

Dear Sir,—In connection with the subject matter of my letter to the 'R.W.', February 20th, I have checked back through the reports of the Yorkshire Association intent on discovering any peals of Spiced Surprise Major rung to arrangements of the type now widely known to be false. I have found one—conducted by myself! I must therefore formally withdraw the peal of Spiced Cambridge, Superlative and Yorkshire rung at Conisbrough, Yorks, on November 10th, 1956, and tender my apologies to those concerned. If any of the band should like to be recompensed, I would be happy to arrange an attempt at the same tower for a true peal of those methods.

I should like to point out an error in my letter of February 20th. In the list of arrangements of Cambridge and Superlative, (c) should read SSCXSSC.—Yours sincerely,

Doncaster. W. ERIC CRITCHLEY.

SOCIETY OF ROVING RINGERS

The Society's 11th reunion, held at St. Albans on February 7th, was well supported, over 40 members being present. Travelling conditions were better than usual for the time of year, and most members were at St. Stephen's, the first tower, by 2 o'clock. Here it was colder inside the church than out, and coats were discarded rather reluctantly to ring on the recently recast six.

At St. Michael's we were warmly received by a cat. These bells proved rather difficult to strike; so did St. Peter's, where the afternoon's ringing ended. It was interesting to meet here a member of an earlier touring Society, the 'Nuts' of pre-war days.

Dinner was held at the Queen's Hotel, and after the meal a short, very amusing film was shown of last summer's tour. At the beginning of the meeting the president (Mr. T. Mark White) was presented with a new badge of office, which will supplement the existing 'improvisation.' The president thanked those members who had made the badge, which is a shield, bearing the 'coat of arms' of the Society, carried on a blue embroidered ribbon.

The secretaries, treasurer and recorder all tendered their resignations, and the following officers were elected: Master, Michael Horseman; joint secretaries, Michael Austin and Audrey Bailey; treasurer, Bernard Ongley; recorder, Cyril Lewington.

After considerable discussion, the Lake District was chosen as the area for the summer tour.

Sunday morning ringing was at the Abbey, where various false trails were followed before the belfry was reached. The Abbey ringers kindly gave a free hand here, giving all an opportunity to ring on the 12. In the afternoon a small party visited Tewin to end the weekend's ringing.

All incumbents as well as ringers of St. Albans, for the welcome in their towers and help to make the week-end an enjoyable one, are thanked.

TO ANYONE WHOM THE CAP FITS

A ringer of quite high renown
On one young lady oft would frown,
Because she found it quite a riddle
To bridge the gap around her middle.
'If she should come apart again
I'll set my bell!' he would complain.
Indeed, the problem used to stump her
Until she bought a long wool jumper.
She knows now, when you have to pull,
There is no substitute for wool.

Gramophone Records

Dear Sir,—On the subject of gramophone recordings, I should be grateful if any of your readers could please let me have details of any records known to them that have been made of ringing. Details required are: Methods being rung, where recorded, record number and make, and if still available, where copies may be obtained together with the price. This also includes recordings of tune ringing, 'chiming,' carillon playing, handbells, etc. Information on any of the old withdrawn records that any readers may wish to part with would also be welcomed.

Over the last few years an increasing interest in tape-recording has been shown by several ringers, and anyone who may wish to take part in the loan and exchange of ringing tapes are invited to send letters or recorded messages to the address printed below. My machine is capable of accepting 7in. reels and playing at speeds of 1½, 3½ or 7½ i.p.s.—Yours sincerely,

CLIVE M. SMITH.

SOUTHWELL DIOCESAN GUILD

North Notts District

The monthly meeting of the North Notts District was held at Everton on February 14th. About 25 ringers attended, representing eight towers. Tea was taken in the Vicarage, the Vicar and his wife (Rev. and Mrs. Usher) providing cups of tea.

At the business meeting seven new members were elected—two from West Retford and five from North Wheatley. It was decided to accept the invitation of the Doncaster and District Society to hold a joint meeting at Bawtry on March 21st. East Drayton was decided as the venue for the April meeting.

At the conclusion of the meeting the District Ringing Master (Mr. R. Hobbs) proposed a vote of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells, and to Mrs. Usher for kindly providing cups of tea. He also proposed the Vicar as a vice-president, and this was carried unanimously.

Methods rung included London, Cambridge, Annable's London, Hull and Bawtry Surprise. The first course and touch of a new principle—as yet unnamed—by Mr. G. Challens, was also rung. R. H.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD

Nine towers were represented at the quarterly meeting of the West Dorset Branch held at Bradpole on February 21st. The bells were made full use of before and after the service. The service touch was Stedman Triples.

The Vicar of Bradpole (Rev. J. T. Davis) conducted the Guild service and gave the address. Canon C. Carew Cox read the lesson. Tea was served in the Foresters' Institute by Mrs. Davis and helpers.

Canon Cox, the Branch chairman, presided at the business meeting, and announced that the Guild festival would be held at Devizes. It was agreed that the Branch should hire a coach and attend. Canon Cox also mentioned the peal board which would shortly be dedicated to the memory of the late Rev. F. L. Edwards in Kingston Magna tower. April 11th was the date decided for the next meeting at Symonds-bury, and the monthly practice will be at Broadwindsor on March 13th.

Method ringing did not extend beyond Bob Major, but it was good to see the progress made by those learning change-ringing.

A DAY IN SOUTH BUCKS

A mini-bus full of Reading ringers spent an enjoyable day in South Bucks in January. Ringing took place at Hambleton, Lane End and West Wycombe before lunch in High Wycombe.

In the afternoon the pretty light eight at Hughenden and the heavy six at Great Missenden were visited. After hot buttered crumpets for tea in Amersham, Beaconsfield was visited, and there the Rev. Mr. Reeves joined the party in a touch of Stedman Triples.

At the last tower, Stoke Poges, Mr. A. D. Barker kindly allowed the party to overrun time, which was appreciated.

Stunts And Interest

Dear Sir,—Mr. F. Hodgson, in your issue of February 20th, again raises the subject of the two handbell peals rung by the Cambridge University Guild, and condemns the performance as a 'stunt.' However, he and all those who are so ready to pass judgment against stunts, record peal lengths and the regular ringing of peals as a hobby fail to realise the great value that these pastimes bestow upon the Exercise. The general interest and enthusiasm which they arouse in ringing circles is a considerable factor in keeping alive the art of change-ringing; and Sunday service ringing must be the eventual beneficiary.—Yours faithfully,

Pembroke College, R. N. PITTMAN,
Oxford.

LONDON COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Annual Meeting

THIS event was again held at Southwark Cathedral and was preceded by ringing on the 12 bells of the Cathedral and on the eight bells of the Festival Church—St. John's, Waterloo Road. At the conclusion of the meeting ringing took place at St. George-the-Martyr's, Southwark.

The service was held in the Cathedral, conducted by the Precentor, singing being led by the choir from Sanderstead, Surrey.

At the business meeting seven ratifications of elections at District meetings were confirmed and six new members elected. The accounts, which showed a balance of some £93, were presented by Messrs. A. D. Barker and F. E. Hawthorne, who had carried out the audit.

Officers elected for 1959 were: Master, T. H. Taffender; secretaries, H. W. Rogers and Mrs. O. S. Rogers; treasurer and librarian, W. G. Wilson; stewards, C. M. Meyer and J. Mudd; trustees, J. A. Hales and C. W. Ottley.

It was the secretary's pleasant duty to announce that a suggestion for a joint meeting with the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths had been accepted, and that the agreed date was April 11th. An invitation to London ringers to join in the activities of the Railwaymen's Guild at their annual meeting in London on April 25th was also conveyed to the meeting. Good wishes to the L.C.A. from absent friends were extended by Mr. W. A. J. Knight, of Chatham, and Mr. W. Simmonds, of Torquay.

ISLEWORTH WIN CUP

The 'Dawe' handbell cup was secured by a team from All Saints', Isleworth. A course of Grandsire Triples was rung, which in the opinion of the umpires and endorsed by the assembled meeting was the best which had been rung in the competition for several years. The team which gained the trophy consisted of Miss Patricia Rogers, Mrs. Olive Rogers, Mr. Christopher Rogers and Mr. Harold Rogers. This is the first time, since the cup was first rung for in 1933, that four members from one family have entered.

An extremely well preserved and tastefully framed photograph of members at the 1926 annual meeting, taken outside St. Clement Danes', was presented to the Association by Mr. R. Newman. The thanks of members present were expressed to Mr. Newman.

ST. PETER'S, BOURNEMOUTH

The annual meeting of St. Peter's ringers was held in the belfry on February 12th after ringing practice, the Vicar (Rev. Mr. Fox-Robinson) presiding.

The Vicar thanked Mr. Eric Booth, the tower captain, for carrying out his duties so capably since he took over at a very difficult time last year, and expressed his regret that Eric had decided to resign owing to pressure of work.

Mr. Colin Conway was unanimously voted as captain for the ensuing year. Other officers re-elected were: Vice-captain, Mr. Michael Bozeley; treasurer, Miss Margaret Parker.

The meeting decided that Guild subscriptions should not be paid out of the belfry fund as had sometimes been done in the past but by individual members themselves. By doing this it was felt that members would become more interested in Guild activities, and would not merely be 'dead' members of something they hardly knew existed!

Nailsea Ringers Wed

The wedding of Mr. Clifford Kortright and Miss Ruth Gaunt took place at Chelvey Parish Church on February 24th.

The bridegroom is deputy Ringing Master at Holy Trinity, Nailsea, and organist at Chelvey.

All their ringing friends wish them every happiness.

OBITUARY

PHILIP GILLING

Philip Gilling, of Wrington, died in tragic circumstances at Frenchay Hospital on February 14th, soon after his tenth birthday, after being badly burned when an oil drum exploded the previous day.

He had been learning to ring at Wrington under the tower captain (Mr. Herbert W. Knight), his grandfather, and was also learning to be a server at his own church at Redhill, Wrington, where his funeral was held on February 19th. There were many mourners, including several ringers from the Chew and Axbridge Deaneries of the Bath and Wells Association. A course of Grandsire Triples was rung 'in hand' over the open grave by Mrs. W. H. Kingcott 1-2, Herbert W. Knight 3-4, W. H. Kingcott 5-6, David G. Yeo 7-8.

A half-muffled quarter peal of 1,277 Grandsire Caters was rung at All Saints', Wrington, during the evening by Miss Ruth Yeates 1, H. H. Yeates 2, T. Ferris 3, M. M. Collins 4, R. E. Smith 5, H. A. Price 6, J. Brain 7, C. H. Vowles 8, W. H. Kingcott (conductor) 9, M. Board 10.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Knight and Mr. and Mrs. Gilling wish to thank all those ringers who have written to them, extending their sympathy at their great loss. W. H. K.

MRS. B. E. RICHARDS

Mrs. Beatrice Emily Richards, wife of Gruffyd Owain, but better known to a very wide circle of ringers by her maiden name of Betty Nation, died at her home in Portishead on February 12th, aged 54. A long illness, with very much suffering, was patiently borne.

Betty was for over 25 years a member of the Wickwar, Glos. band, and had been a member of the Gloucester and Bristol Association since 1928. On going to Portishead to be married in 1954 she became a member of the local band, and was always very pleased to entertain ringing friends. A good and faithful Sunday service ringer, she will be sadly missed by all who knew her, and especially by her husband and her sister. Mrs. Richards had rung at least two peals of Plain Bob Minor for the G. and B. Association. C. R.

MR. HARRY NUTT AN APPRECIATION

Mr. Harry Nutt was a ringer at Christ Church, Frieze, for 39 years, a member of the Ancient Society of College Youths, the Halifax and District Association, the Lancashire Association, the Yorkshire Association, the Barnsley Society, and the Guild of the Arch-deaconry of Halifax.

He was tower keeper at Frieze until 1955, when his physical powers failed, and he always took immense pride in both his bells and his striking. A perfectionist, nothing but the best would satisfy him, either in striking or mechanics.

During the Second World War he invented and patented an apparatus that enabled the bells to be rung with the clappers fixed, and the motion, through impulses, activated electric bell mechanisms that were attached to two sets of handbells, six in each set, one set in the ringing chamber and the other set fixed inside the west end of the church.

Through the medium of these, and the assistance of those of our band not serving in the Forces, he trained a band of ladies to ring changes; and so, literally speaking, the bells of Frieze were never silent all through the war.

All his life he suffered the handicap of asthma, and since about 1930 rheumatism claimed him as a victim; but nevertheless, he was very seldom either late or absent from either service ringing, practice or contest. His patience, courage and fortitude have been an inspiration to us all.

During the immediate post-war years he rang in a number of peals with Mr. Fred Dunkerley, Ivan Kay and many others too numerous to mention; but his chief delight was perfect striking in a contest, whether it was we who were ringing, or another team that was beating our effort.

He made many friends, and kept them; his only enemy was himself, because he could not bear to think that he was a burden to anyone, either at home, at work, or in a tower.

He was always of a cheerful disposition, and we have spent many happy hours in his company. The funeral service was at Frieze, prior to cremation at Dukinfield, on February 24th.

The bells were rung fully-muffled before and after the service by Harold Jackson (Mossley) 1, George Perrin 2, Mrs. Mary Greenwood (Meltham) 3, Joseph Burgess 4, John Edward Fielding 5 and Arthur Farrand 6.

Representing the ringers at the service was Mr. Jack Smith, and amongst the congregation was Mr. Cyril Parkin, one of our retired ringers, and Mr. John Clayton. Present also were Mrs. Annie Earnshaw, wife of the president of the Halifax Association, and Miss Eileen Dawson, of Meltham.

We have all lost a friend.

MR. ED. J. THOMAS AN APPRECIATION

A ringer of St. Peter's, Carmarthen, and also a sidesman for many years, the passing of Mr. Ed. J. Thomas is regretted by many friends. He was also a founder member of the St. David's Guild and had held the office of both Master and treasurer.

Mr. Thomas was not much of a change-ringer, but nevertheless he was very enthusiastic about campanology. He possessed quite a lot of information about bells, and also a lovely set of handbells on a frame which he used for demonstration when giving lectures.

In Carmarthen town he was a popular figure, and his outspoken views and sense of humour delighted friends at the Guild's meetings. Not only his local band, but the many visiting ringers who come to the diocese will miss him.

As the cortège left the church, his own band (with the help of a few outsiders) paid tribute to him by ringing the bells half-muffled.

SHEFFIELD AND DISTRICT SOCIETY

A large number of towers, including York Minster, were represented at the Sheffield and District Society's meeting at Killamarsh on February 7th. Methods rung included Plain Bob, Stedman, Killamarsh Treble Bob and London Surprise Minor.

A lovely tea by local ladies was acknowledged by their request with a course of Grandsire Triples on handbells. At the business meeting it was decided to convey the Society's good wishes to 82-year-old Mr. F. Parr, the sole survivor of the famous Killamarsh band under Mr. Charles Severn. The annual meeting will be held at Ranmoor on March 7th.

CORRECTION

5,040 Stedman Triples (fourth observation), by John O. Lancashire (see page 142).

The last two courses before the final rounds 6157324 and 1654327 should have singles at 8 and not at 9.

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

Leatherhead District

At the Leatherhead District's annual meeting on February 17th, 1954, the secretary and his bride of one week were the recipients of two wedding presents—from the District and his fellow ringers at Leatherhead. This year, to mark their silver wedding, the members at the A.D.M. on February 14th were their guests at tea.

The Rev. C. Marshall took the Guild's form of service and gave his usual straight-to-the-point address. Miss K. Collins was organist.

Tea was prepared by the ladies in the renovated St. Nicholas' Hall, its additions being appreciated by them. Nearly 40, most of them District members, were present.

The Guild Master, Mr. C. Denyer, took the chair for the annual business meeting. The statements of accounts showed a satisfactory balance. The report gave membership at about the same figure as last year, despite no subscriptions being received from St. Martin's, Epsom, Newdigate or Ockley. Of the five peals rung, all had contained 'firsts' in one form or another, including three first peals.

The District officers were re-elected, with the Rev. E. Wood as representative on the general committee, and the general officers were all renominated.

Discussing the points raised by the Master, the meeting disagreed with the proposed abolition of the junior subscription and moved that it be retained and the voting right restored to them. The chairman came 'under fire' for the date chosen for the A.G.M., and for the future the second Saturday in March was recommended. The rest of the points were agreed on.

The usual votes of thanks included a special one to Mr. and Mrs. Smith for their hospitality, with best wishes for the next 25 years. Hopes were expressed for the speedy recovery of Canon Page, who was still suffering from an encounter with a thief in his vestry.

Ringling included a course of Superlative for Mary White, of Stoke D'Abernon, who was leaving for West Meon on the Monday.

EAST GRINSTEAD GUILD

The February meeting of the East Grinstead Guild was held at Tunbridge Wells, when a good company assembled. The service was conducted by the Vicar of St. Peter's (Rev. H. R. Ward), with Mr. Lamb at the organ. Forty-four people sat down to a bountiful tea, given by the local ringers and their wives, and served in the Parish Hall.

At the business meeting, with the Vicar in the chair, it was announced that the annual meeting would be at Coleman's Hatch on March 14th, and that the Vicar of that tower (Rev. J. R. Missen) was to be proposed as president of the Guild. Danehill was chosen for the April meeting.

Mr. Collison reminded the company that the main object of meeting at Tunbridge Wells that day was to say farewell to the Rev. H. R. Ward, who was retiring. He spoke of the work of Mr. Ward and of his interest in the local ringers and visitors to the tower. He always went into the tower and read the Belfry Office each Sunday morning.

In reply, Mr. Ward said that whatever work he had done, it had been a pleasure, and he hoped that he would find something to do in his retirement. He would still be living in Tunbridge Wells, and hoped to hear the bells continue to ring out. The tower collection amounted to 19s. 5d.

POINTS FROM RECENT PEALS

MENTION of peals in Northamptonshire in the last article in this series brought, not unexpectedly, a typically rather abusive letter from Mr. P. Amos! This happened before when I surveyed the peals rung in that county a few years ago. As I think I said then, the fact that there are a few peals rung which were not published 25 years or so ago will not change the overall picture, for there cannot be more than 2 or 3 per cent. as such. In any case, in the interests of accuracy, it would help to know the details of these peals—it would also substantiate his claims. But, despite being asked for them, I fear they have not been forthcoming.

Loughborough Bell Foundry continues to forge miles ahead of any other tower. I have recorded the 750th peal there on October 20th last! No less than 60 peals were rung there last year—a record even for that tower. Other landmarks since last time are Handsworth, Yorkshire, 150 peals (claimed for the peal on December 31st, but I made it the previous peal on December 20th—perhaps we can compare notes); Duffield, 250 peals (warning duly given last time!); Whitwick, 100 peals (as claimed in the footnote on October 27th); Accrington, 100 peals (again, I appear to have one more than the 'locals,' for I made it on December 6th not January 4th); and Silk Willoughby, 100 peals. The latter thus becomes the third 6-bell tower to complete its century, and they have all been rung since 1946! Congratulations to all these. Anstey will also join the centenarians with its next peal. Blankney reached the 50 mark on January 28th, and the following towers will do so with their next peal: Aldershot, Ringwood, Stanmore and Rothwell (Northants).

Turning now to infrequent visitors to the peal columns, we find Wollaton made its only previous appearance in 1914. Clayhidon (where the peal on December 13th was thought to be the first on the bells) actually had a single previous one on October 10th, 1920—also of Grandsire Doubles. There had been two previous peals at Ebrington, in 1919 and 1922, whilst Toddington has had a peal silence of nearly as long—1923. Seven peals were rung here from 1913. I confirm that at Ashbourne, the recent peal was the first for 35 years. Peals have been rare here. Since ringing journals began there have only been four—1889, 1920, 1923 and 1958. Perhaps that is not surprising since when the Sherwood Youths rang the first peal on the bells in 1821, the Ashbourne ringers so resented the performance that they had a free fight with the Nottingham men after they came out of the tower!

The only previous peal I have found at Feniton was in 1926. Yatton had four peals from 1902 to 1930, and then had to wait another 28 years for its fifth. At Wing, I had only recorded one previous peal—in 1931, but the footnote to this latter indicated that there had been another one in 1903. If that is so, it was not published, and so the record of it has perhaps been lost. Three towers last appeared in the peal lists in 1932—Calverton, Dickleburgh and Bramshott. Before the 1914–18 war, the first of these was a very popular centre for ringing, 25 peals being rung from 1905 to 1914. After this war, 11 more peals were rung from 1919 to 1932, and then, silence. Dickleburgh had five peals of Doubles from 1923 to 1932, and Bramshott four peals, the first in 1901.

It is always pleasant to read of peals rung in Australia. The peals at Sydney R.C. Cathedral and Ballarat Town Hall broke a silence of nearly 25 years. The only previous peals at both were rung on the famous Australian tour in 1934. Thurloxton was also last heard in that year (two peals here, 1930 and 1934). South Wingfield had an average of about one peal per annum until 1935 (apart from the war break); there were eight peals from 1903 to 1914 and seven from 1924 to 1935. Sympson had six peals as a 5-bell tower from 1904 to 1921, and then nine after augmentation from 1929 to 1936, and none since until the recent one. Tanfield's first peal came as long ago as 1891, and 11 more followed up to 1911. After the war, 15 were rung from 1922 to 1936. Hastings, St. Clement's, had two peals in this latter year. There had been one before them in 1912. Last heard in 1938 were Tilston (four peals from 1926 to 1938) and Bishop's Sutton (only peal).

Then the final group of towers which last appeared before the Second World War are Iden (with six peals from 1911), Norton-in-Hales (peals in 1908 and 1939), Shoreham (11 from 1907) and Welwyn with its only peal that year. Mention might be made of one or two towers which have not had peals for a dozen years or more. St. Peter-at-Gowts', Lincoln, had only had one peal since the last war until the recent one—in 1947. It has never been a prolific tower for peals, its total now being ten. Burgess Hill was quite popular before the first war, 27 peals being rung from 1904 to 1913. Thirteen more came from 1919 to 1937, then only one, in 1943, before the recent one. Freiston had nine from 1890 to 1912 and 16 from 1923 to 1939, then a single one in 1945 before the one a few weeks ago.

First peals were rung at the following towers since the last article—some were claimed and some were not: Wootton St. Lawrence's, Kirby Hill, Broughton (Hants), Moreton Pinkney, Clawton, Speen, Belfast, Dundela (St. Mark's), Hawkrigge, Odell, Findon and Brinkworth.

Finally, one or two points of interest noticed. At Whittlesey, St. Mary's, the only previous peal of Surprise was one of Suplative in 1923. After 21 consecutive peals of Bob Minor, Dersingham had a change—a peal of Bob Doubles! I notice that they have returned to their first love, however, with their last peal. Marston is now, I think, third in order of peals amongst the 5-bell towers, having 26 to its credit.

NORWICH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION

Eastern Branch

The Eastern Branch went to Loddon on St. Valentine's Day for the annual meeting, and the eight bells were kept busy by many ringers of varying tastes and talents under the watchful eye of the Branch Ringing Master (Mr. E. T. Chapman).

The service was conducted by the Vicar (Canon C. R. Ninham), the lesson being read by the Association president (Mr. F. Nolan Golden).

After tea the business meeting was presided over by the Branch chairman, Mr. E. R. Goate, who was re-elected to office, as were the Branch secretary, Mr. P. G. W. Newstead, and the Ringing Master, Mr. E. T. Chapman. Miss D. E. Lidbetter was re-elected to represent the Branch on the Association standing committee, and Mr. W. B. Duncan elected to fill a vacancy thereon. The Branch committee, Messrs. C. Bailey, Bird, Forder, Gorrod and Willgress, were re-elected en bloc.

The Rev. R. S. Phillips, of Kessingland, was elected an honorary member: Miss D. Shel-drake, of Norton Subcourse, Mr. W. Allford, of Lowestoft, and Mr. J. Kenyon, of Great Yarmouth, were elected ringing members.

Mr. Golden gave a summary of the results of the Sunday Service Ringing Survey so far as the Association was concerned.

Under 'Any other business' there were discussions on advance publicity for meetings, teaching methods, recruiting, etc.

Votes of thanks were accorded the Vicar, who was also congratulated on his recent appointment as a Canon of Norwich Cathedral, Mrs. Robertson the organist who stepped in at the last minute, and Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Barrett and lady helpers who organised the tea.

Southern Branch

The annual meeting of the Southern Branch was held at Diss on February 7th, attended by over 50 ringers and friends from Norfolk and Suffolk. The service was conducted by the Rector (Rev. L. O. Kenyon), who also gave the address, and the lesson was read by the president (Mr. Nolan Golden).

At the business meeting the following officers were elected: Chairman, Dr. P. H. A. Jonason; Ringing Master, Mr. W. G. Saunders; secretary, Mr. C. F. W. Philippo; standing committee, Messrs. F. C. Arnold and L. Last; Branch committee, Miss B. Syrett, Messrs. H. Moss, F. C. Roper, C. Catchpole and H. Fuller.

Reports on the activities of the Branch during the year were given by the chairman, Ringing Master and secretary, all of whom spoke of the need to recruit young learners.

The chairman thanked the Rector for conducting the service, Mr. A. G. Harrison for arranging the tea, and all who helped to make the meeting a success.

The next meeting will be held on May 9th at Brooke.

Gratefully Acknowledged

The Editorial Committee acknowledge with gratitude the following donations towards the cost of producing 'The Ringing World':—

Personal.—University of Wales Society 5s., Salisbury Guild (West Dorset Branch) 10s.

Peals.—Woodditton 2s. 6d., Hyde 4s., Litton Cheney 4s., Stone 4s., Huntingdon 4s.

Quarter Peals.—Penarth 2s., Kemerton 2s. 6d., Yatton 4s., Cranford 4s., Kimpton 2s., Friesland 3s., Nailsea 3s., Bentley Common 2s. 6d., Bristol (Marks) 3s.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

Sonning Deanery Branch

Owing to building operations, ringing was forbidden by the architect when the Sonning Deanery Branch met at All Saints', Wokingham, on February 21st, for their annual meeting. About 50 members attended the service conducted by the Rev. F. A. Steen, Rector. The Rev. H. Hartley, Vicar of Twyford, preached.

Tea was partaken in the Church House, followed by the business meeting, which was presided over by the Branch chairman, Ven. H. T. Shaw.

The Branch secretary in his report gave the membership as 152, but expected a falling off in numbers during 1959. He regretted many proficient ringers in the Branch did not attend monthly meetings as often as they should. They should set an example to the younger members.

All the retiring officers were re-elected, and the Ringing Masters, Messrs. W. J. Parker and H. Smith, were thanked for their work during the past year.

Miss M. R. Cross said insufficient interest was being shown in church bell-ringing by clergy of the Oxford diocese. In only 117 of the 329 towers in the diocese were the bells rung satisfactorily. This Branch was famous in the past for the fact that the clergy took an interest in the ringers, but she had a strong suspicion that this was not so now.

Mr. F. Sharpe congratulated the members on the well-attended meeting. The usual votes of thanks to all concerned with the arrangements of the day concluded the proceedings.

Ringing up to London Surprise Major took place at St. Paul's Church until 9 p.m.

Because of the close proximity of the main shopping centre it is not convenient to ring often at Chesterfield Parish Church on Saturdays, but special permission has been obtained for a meeting of the Chesterfield District of the Derbyshire Association next Saturday. It is hoped that many people will take advantage of this opportunity for a ring on these fine bells.

The gold watch competition organised by the Clewer, Windsor, ringers realised a profit of £16. The watch was won by Mr. G. Scares, of Marlow.

Leeds University Campanological Society are holding a youth-hostelling tour in East Anglia during the last week in July. The one-day trip on June 20th will be in North Staffordshire.

The Lincoln Diocesan Guild will celebrate the 60th year of its existence by a dinner at Lincoln on October 17th. Details will be announced later.

The Henry Johnson Dinner last Saturday was another happy reunion. Mr. Morris J. Morris, was was 90 last August, enjoyed his evening. It is unusual to have a nonagenarian present.

The quarter peal at Nailsea on March 3rd was rung for Mr. Leonard Derrick, who is making satisfactory progress after his recent operation; also as a wedding compliment to Mr. C. Kortright and Miss R. Gaunt.

By ringing a peal at Newdigate, Mr. A. H. Smith, secretary of the Leatherhead District of the Guildford Diocesan Guild, has now 'circled' his District, having rung a peal in each tower under his jurisdiction.

Miss Anne M. Deacon, of Cadeby, was chosen as District Belle Queen at the annual dinner of the Hinckley District on February 28th. We hope Queens and Tittums were rung in honour of the occasion, apart from the well-struck course of Stedman Caters 'in hand.'

BELFRY

GOSSIP

A very warm welcome was extended to the Northern District of the Essex Association by the Rev. H. F. Godwin (Rector) when they met at Yeldham on March 7th. Forty-three members were present, representing 21 towers. The Rector conducted the service, and his wife and lady helpers served an excellent tea. Mr. Pratt, District Master, presided at the business meeting.

Mr. A. Patrick Cannon has now rung 700 peals. His statistics are 553 different towers with 1,195 ringers. Milland, where the 700th peal was rung, was his 60th Sussex tower for a peal.

The band who rang in the first peal on the bells at Grittleton, Wiltshire, would like to associate it with the former rector, the Rev. E. H. Maish, who is making slow progress after a long and severe illness.

Would people sending up peal reports from Bristol please note that this city is in its own county and for a long while now has had no connection with Somerset or Gloucestershire, writes David Heighton.

The winter issue of the 'Ringers' Magazine' is sadly overdue, through circumstances beyond the Editor's control. He apologises to all the subscribers.

Mr. C. Chambers, of 71, Garmouth Avenue, King's View, Durban, is particularly anxious to obtain a good tenor man for St. Paul's Church, Durban. He writes: 'Most of the time we ring Grandsire and Bob Doubles, with a bit of Bob Minor and a plain course of Stedman Doubles.'

In our issue of February 27th there were two Burnham (Bucks) peals published, also an acknowledgment for a donation of four shillings. In order to avoid confusion, George Gilbert would like us to point out that the donation sent was from the Stedman band of January 31st.

LET LOOSE IN AFRICA

By VICTOR SHEPPARD

Two other names from the past—the Ven. C. E. Earle Bulwer, sometime of St. Mary's, Handsworth, Works, who teamed up with Canon Ridout's handbell band at Grahamstown in 1913, and Clement Warnes, who learnt to ring at Pulham St. Mary's, Norfolk. After arriving in Cape Town in 1898 he never returned home, nor did he ring at Woodstock, although living close to the church until his death in 1955.

Finally, I must mention a man who is still remembered in the older ringing circles of London and the West Country. Fred G. May, well known as a composer and conductor, was born at Avening, Glos, in 1875, and soon became active around Bristol and Gloucester. He was elected to the Central Council, and by 1920 had rung in more than 660 peals; then silence until 1925. In that year he arrived in Cape Town and found a struggling band; his attempts at teaching them were thwarted by erratic attendance. He was ringing until 1934, but never scored anything at Durban, or Cape Town, where he died in 1956.

ST. HELENA

It is now time to glance at some interesting byways, and probably the most romantic is the island of St. Helena, South Atlantic Ocean, 1,700 miles north-west from the Cape of Good Hope. This lovely, lonely volcanic island is the home of 5,000 coloured people intensely loyal to the Crown; it is known chiefly as the place of exile and death of Napoleon. (Incidentally, these notes are being written within sight of St. Helena.) In the steeple of St. James' Church, Jamestown, the capital, hang a clock bell by Warner, 1872, about 5 cwt., and a Taylor bell, about 6 cwt., commemorating the royal visit there in 1947. The timbers of this steeple are riddled by the white ant, the plague of the island.

In the country church of St. Helena-of-the-Cross is a ship's bell, inscribed Mutla, 1856, and the story I have pieced together of its history whilst attractive may not necessarily be the Gospel truth. The Mutla, a three-masted barque, called at Jamestown about 1904 with a cargo of Welsh coal bound for the Cape. She was condemned by the authorities as unseaworthy, and after being offloaded she was stripped. The bell went to the front door of the Bishop's house, and the hulk towed out to sea and sunk by gunfire—its last act of defiance was to cut the submarine telegraph cable on the ocean bed.

Most interesting of all is the single bell outside the Cathedral Church of St. Paul, 32 inches in diameter. It carries a decorated band on shoulder and waist. The inscription is: 'Buckeye bell foundry—cast by G. W. Coffin & Co.—Columbia Street East of Broadway—Cincinnati 1852.' It is hung 'dead' between brick columns in the churchyard, and has acquired a curious orange patina.

The old leper colony on Robben Island lies only seven miles from Cape Town in the middle of Table Bay, and the exquisite tiny white church is a sea mark for ships. It was built in 1841 by Richard Wolfe, the son of Wolfe of Quebec; and here a small Loughborough bell of 1874 hangs precariously in a wooden cradle on top of the tower roof.

The ship's bell, of H.M.S. 'Dominion,' the last of the pre-dreadnoughts of 1910 vintage, now proclaims public hours in the botanic gardens of Kirstenbosch, Cape; and in the country town of Ceres a small Barwell of 1873 speaks for the Dutch reformed church.

BELLS IN A TREE

Pietermaritzburg, a small town 40 miles from Durban, has four from Whitechapel, tenor about 4 cwt. St. Peter's Church, built in 1854, received these bells two years later, but they were not hung for another eight years due to the controversy involving Bishop Colenso. About 1864 the local blacksmith strapped them to the bough of a blue-gum tree standing in the church grounds, and ropes hung from the clappers. The following year when the Bishop returned from Britain, excommunicated, these ropes were removed and the church locked. Over the years the tree grew, the bells got further from the ground, and foliage curled into their mouths and prevented ringing.

There had been silence for many years at Pietermaritzburg, when during the afternoon of May 1st, 1955, a tornado hit the town, tore off roofs, chimney pots, and brought the gum tree down. Although the canons were broken on some, the damage was not very serious, and they now hang minus all canons, bolted to the arms of a cross of steel girders, set up where the gum tree once stood. In the city hall here on Sunday mornings, a rather worn mechanism chimes hymn tunes on the 12 bells. This carillon is said to be by Gillett and Johnston; the tenor is about a ton.

CONTINENTAL BELLS

So far, I have only dealt with the work of British founders, but as may be expected with a mixed population, many examples of Continental work can be found. The oldest I have seen comes from Claud Fremi, of Amsterdam, in 1697; that is 45 years after Cape Town was founded. It is 26 inches in diameter, and thick when compared with modern bells. This has probably saved it from cracking, as it is hung 'dead' above the entrance to the castle. It is clocked by hand at noon. The elaborate decoration, Latin inscription, and founder's mark, V.O.C., are beautifully executed.

The Dutch Reformed church, the Groote Kerk, in Cape Town had a 10 cwt. bell which fell down the tower in 1725; the following year it was recast by Jan Albert de Grave in Amsterdam, and together with a Mears of 1800, now sounds the quarters in the old tower. Less than a mile away is the German St. Martini Kirche, originally three bells: the cracked tenor was returned to Germany in 1913 and never seen again. Those remaining are so ornate that I really doubt if they came from a German founder. The canons are interlocked serpents and the whole surface is covered with long quotations and intricate patterns.

Quite different are the bells of Stellenbosch, the Afrikaans university town, 40 miles from the Cape. Here in the town square, hanging between tall brick columns, are three bells made by the Bochum Verein in 1805; they are plain, unattractive lumps of metal. German work from the same foundry is much in evidence in the Dutch churches of Pretoria. This city, 30 miles from Johannesburg, is the administrative capital of the Union, and the Groote Kerk there has three interesting steel bells. Hung for chiming in well-tucked-up cast-iron headstocks, with metal wheels and wire ropes, they are remarkable for length and pronounced flare—daffodil proportions. Their finish is very poor, with ugly, near-illegible lettering which, by the way, is in Dutch, thus showing them to have been made to order. Numerous casting blow-holes at the shoulders, and each headstock is lettered: 'The C.S. Bell Co. Hillboro. O. Steel Alloy church bells'—and thoroughly unpleasant they sound too.

TIME SIGNAL

The nationwide time signal is broadcast each morning from the clock in the Union Buildings, Pretoria, which has Westminster quarters and an hour bell by Taylors, 1913. Not far away, in the City Hall, is a fully automatic carillon of 32 tubular chimes, by Deagon, of Chicago. It can play different tunes hourly for a week, by means of a perforated paper roll. The less said about this horror the better.

Before I left this city, I experienced my most hair-raising tower ascent. It began with an 80 foot vertical steel ladder in a narrow brick shaft, and ended in the roof trusses of the nave, where a little 'un from Loughborough served the Catholic cathedral.

And last, the two most tantalising fragments of all, taken from newspapers early in this century: 'at Grahamstown, one John Jolly cast a set of bells for Basutoland . . . and at Bloemfontein some bells were cast by Thos. Peacock'; and there the trail faded out.

Thus far I have written on the past and present, but it is the future which concerns us all. The Union of South Africa has 2½ million white people: of these 65 per cent. are Afrikaans-speaking and members of the Dutch Reformed Church, 5 per cent. are various and 30 per cent. English-speaking. From this 30 per cent. take the Catholics, Baptists, Apostolics, etc., remember the distances between the three centres, and you will realise the small numbers who, hearing bells, know what it means.

Again, the country has no tradition of bells, and the oldest ring, at Grahamstown, have always been more or less derelict. The climate has a profound influence on the way of life, and leisure time is exclusively given over to outdoor sports. Very many people motor far and wide every weekend, and rugby and cricket achieve a status only rivalled in Britain by soccer.

It is under these conditions we think ourselves privileged to meet week by week, striving to improve, trying to pass on the noble Exercise—surely the tongue of light in the Dark Continent.

DILLINGTON HOUSE RINGERS' COURSE

The course, which is from Friday to Sunday, April 3rd to 5th, is planned for students over school-leaving age who wish to learn more advanced aspects of ringing, and also for future instructors in elementary ringing.

The instructors will be Mr. A. York-Bramble, Mr. Frederick Sharpe and Mr. Richard F. Speed.

Students assemble on Friday, April 3rd, at 8 p.m., and will be welcomed by the warden, Mr. Harvey Sheppard. Then will follow an introduction to the course, given by the three instructors and Mrs. A. K. Grabham.

Saturday's programme is: 9.45 a.m., Planned training in elementary ringing, by A. York-Bramble; 11.30, Belfry care and maintenance, Frederick Sharpe; 2 p.m., Planned training in elementary ringing, A. York-Bramble; Introduction to conducting, R. F. Speed; 5 p.m., Belfry visit, with a practical session; 8 p.m., Technology and theory of method structure (1), A. York-Bramble.

Sunday: 10 a.m., Technology and theory of method structure, A. York-Bramble; 11.15 a.m., Composition, R. F. Speed.

The fee, which includes full board and accommodation, is £3 3s. The non-residential fee of £2 6s. 6d. covers tuition and all meals except breakfast. Part of the course may be attended at a tuition fee of 4s. for each session, comprising an address and discussion.

Enrolment forms are obtainable from the Warden, Dillington House, Ilminster, Somerset, and the closing enrolment date is Friday, March 20th.

OBITUARY

MR. WALTER ALLWOOD

We regret to report the death on February 26th in the Scarsdale Hospital of Mr. Walter Allwood, of Chesterfield, aged 88 years.

A member of the famous Chesterfield company of 40 years ago, Walter was a good friend to many, and a good ringer who loved good striking (writes A. P. K.).

He was interred at the Boythorpe Cemetery, Chesterfield, on March 3rd. Handbells were rung over the grave by three of his young friends from Old Whittington, and Mr. A. P. Knights.

AN APPRECIATION

We would like to pay tribute to the late Walter Allwood, whose death has just been reported.

He was never one to say much of past times, although he confided to having rung over 200 peals. In 1925 he visited us at Old Whittington (Chesterfield), where there was a young band of raw recruits knowing very little of change-ringing. Walter took us in hand, and through his character, understanding and advice, made us what we are. He left his mark on many who knew him—his work lives on.

OLD WHITTINGTON RINGERS.

MR. ARTHUR JAMES LEWIS

By the death of 'Jim' Lewis, as he was affectionately known, the parish of St. Catherine, Feltham, Middlesex, has lost one of its most devoted servants and one who served the church there loyally for over 50 years in the capacity of choirboy, chorister, sidesman, server, churchwarden and in recent years, in a distinguished manner, as lay reader, in which capacity he was well known throughout the London diocese. He was a great benefactor of the church, and due to his modesty the extent of this will probably never be known or realised.

His ringing career was confined mostly to service ringing, and although in recent years a weak heart prevented him from being active in the belfry, his interest in bells and ringing continued, and he was the one chiefly concerned in supporting the recent scheme to augment the bells of Feltham to a ring of ten.

Prior to the funeral service the bells were rung half-muffled by A. R. Price and Mrs. A. R. Price, W. H. Coles, Stephen Gamble and Beryl Gamble. At the service the Bishop of Stepney in his address paid a warm tribute to one whom he described as a wonderful character. He pointed out that the packed church was in itself a tribute to his worth, and said that Jim Lewis had been a great help and inspiration to him personally since he came to the London diocese.

He had been in failing health for some time and it was typical that although far from well, he was about to take a Lenten service on Wednesday, February 25th, when he was taken seriously ill and unfortunately died before reaching his home. As could be expected, he was thus faithful unto death. Who will doubt that by now he will have received the crown of life?

W. H. C.

MR. GEORGE H. HEAD

With regret we report the death on February 22nd of Mr. George H. Head, of 21, Fountains Close, Hanworth, Middlesex.

MR. HARRY R. ROPER

The St. Mary-le-Tower Society, Ipswich, and the Suffolk Guild have been dealt a severe blow by the death of Harry R. Roper which occurred on March 2nd, aged 73 years. He was a pupil of the late Rev. Wm. C. Pearson, of Henley, Suffolk, who augmented his five bells to eight and rang over a hundred peals on them.

He took part in the first peals of the following Maximus methods: Superlative, New Cambridge, Yorkshire, Rochester, Little Albion Treble Bob, York, also peals of Duffield, Forward, Double Norwich Court Bob Maximus and standard methods.

Harry was most regular and punctual at all services and practices, setting a good example to his juniors.

For the Norwich D.A. he rang 13 peals, and 110 for the Suffolk Guild. The passing of a good ringer, as Harry was, will be keenly felt. The funeral took place in Ipswich Cemetery on March 6th. Among the floral tributes was one from his brother ringers of the 'Tower.'

MR. GEORGE N. PRICE

We regret to record the death on February 25th in Dulwich Hospital after a short illness of Mr. George N. Price, aged 85. He was cremated on March 2nd at West Norwood.

Mr. Price was an esteemed member of the College Youths and took part in many brilliant ringing performances in the early part of this century.

MR. TOM FOWLER

We regret to announce the death of Mr. Tom Fowler, of Cookham, Berks, at Maidenhead Hospital on Monday. This great stalwart of the Oxford Diocesan Guild would have been 71 years of age on March 21st. His funeral took place at Holy Trinity Church, Cookham, yesterday (Thursday) at 3.30 p.m.

MR. H. E. SEAGER

With regret we announce the death on February 26th of Mr. H. E. Seager, a keen ringer at Great Totham, Essex, for over 60 years. He will be sadly missed.

UNIVERSITY OF WALES SOCIETY FORMED

Subsequent to the peal of Cambridge Minor at Aberavon on February 19th, the ringers taking part founded the University of Wales Society of Change Ringers.

The first meeting of the Society was held in Trevor Lewis's car, travelling at 60 m.p.h. on the Jersey Marine! (not claiming this as a stunt, or wishing to upset Bill Cook in any way). The Society includes ringers resident in, and those who have passed through, the colleges of the University—U.C. Bangor, U.C. Cardiff, U.C. Swansea and U.C. Aberystwyth. It was also decided to include St. David's College, Lampeter, on an equal basis, although not a constituent college of the University. It was also unanimously agreed that Gwyn Thomas, of Tenby, should be made an honorary member for services to ringing in U.C. Aberystwyth.

The meeting was concluded on reaching Swansea with a visit to the rebuilt Parish Church of St. Mary, and an inspection of the tower and frame which is to house the new Taylor ring of eight.

Unfortunately, travelling arrangements could not be fulfilled according to plan, and the proposed peal attempt at Sketty had to be forgone.

A touch of 1,104 Plain Bob Minor was, however, rung before Evensong. Some of the band then spent the rest of the evening and early hours of the following morning at the inter-college Eisteddfod in Swansea.

CANWYD Y CLYCHAU I WYL DEWI SANT

Naturally enough, the festival of our patron saint was a call to great rejoicing, and eight members of the Society made a 'pilgrimage' to the isolated home of the Saint—St. David's—the smallest city in Britain.

A peal of Double Norwich was attempted on the fine Mears eight, and due to considerable reverberation of sound in the ringing room we had to ring very slowly, in order to distinguish each bell from the interminable hum. The first half came up in 1½ hours, but a quarter of an hour or so later the ringing collapsed, the noise of the bells preventing the conductor from 'sorting things out.' A course of Bristol was then rung, before thanking the Dean and local ringers and taking our leave.

The road then took us to Haverfordwest, and here, with Harry Jenkins and Dai Betts, we tried our hand at the deteriorating, anti-clockwise Bayley eight. Touches of Grandsire, Stedman and Little Bob, together with a course of Cambridge, with 'a couple of leads of Yorkshire thrown in,' were rung before saying goodbye to Tony Hutchins.

Thanks to Gwyn's hospitality, we spent the remainder of a very enjoyable day with handbells, and a brief business meeting. Ryan Price took the chair as a possible constitution and ringing programme were discussed. Ryan was elected an honorary member, and we finished the evening off with still more handbells.

The following morning, St. David's Day, ringing started with Double Norwich, Kent Treble Bob and Yorkshire for Matins. In the afternoon the Vicar of St. Mary's kindly allowed us to ring at Pembroke, and on raising the back six and ringing a course of Cambridge Minor we were greatly impressed. This did not last long, however, for on raising the trebles we found them to be a tone apart, the second being very flat and the treble perhaps slightly sharp. We rang courses of Bristol and Yorkshire before returning to Tenby, confirming on the way that Monkton were hung for chiming only.

A good quarter peal of Cambridge Major was then rung at Tenby for Evensong, before we took leave of our hosts. We would like to record our gratitude to the heart-warming Welsh hospitality and good food given to us by Gwyn Thomas, Ryan Price, Harry Jenkins and their good ladies.

Finally, if anyone has been through the University of Wales and would be interested in the Society, would they please contact the secretary, Derek Astridge, 13, De La Bèche Road, Sketty, Swansea.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

CLERGY AND RINGERS

Dear Sir,—I fully expected a reply to my letter regarding the attitude of some clergy to bells and ringing, and therefore the Rev. Mr. Brunning's letter came as no surprise.

Naturally, as ringers are only human and have their faults, no doubt non-attendance by some to the services for which they ring is one of them. I would, however, point out to Mr. Brunning that two wrongs do not make a right, and also that his counter-argument does not affect the facts which I stated in my letter.

Church-going, I think, depends as much upon the human element as it does upon the spiritual one, in spite of the fact that the latter should be the controlling factor. If this is so, then we have part of the reason for non-attendance at services both by some ringers and the public. If a parson finds that his ringers do not attend services there must surely be some reason, but if he pursues his calling and Faith irrespective of results, he will at least have satisfied his conscience.

In spite of Mr. Brunning saying that my last paragraph has nothing to do with the topic, I do not agree with him. What I said in it is felt to be true by many (apart from ringers and churchwardens): it may not be spoken of very often because those who believe it have not the 'guts' to say it. Whether one is a churchwarden or not is beside the point.

Of course ringers enjoy ringing. Both ringing and the service thereby given are meant to be enjoyable, and I hope always will be. I was a ringer at the age of eight, and have for several years now averaged over 300 miles each week going to service ringing, practices and peals, and I have enjoyed every bit of it. In addition, I have tried to attend services regularly, but I should consider it very unusual, and interfering, if I was expected to attend every service I helped to ring for in every church in which I rang.—Yours faithfully,

ARTHUR SAYERS.

Newbury, Berks.

RABBITS' GUILD

Dear Sir,—Mr. Trick is kind enough to express appreciation of the work of the Rabbits' Guild. He is wrong, though, in imparting to it hostility to all Ringing Masters. I would remind him that the Guild maintains a roll of honour to which worthy R.M.'s are admitted, by nomination or after examination, and I would assure him that the pretensions of any R.R.M. (Rabbit Ringing Master) who applies for admission to the roll are examined with the utmost sympathy. He secures election if he proves even to try to carry out his duties on the lines approved by the Guild. The essential word is 'try.' To fall short of honourable intentions is no disgrace. Cuniculum est errare.

Further, the Guild is much aware of the problem of the R.R.M., and actually has consideration of his plight on the agenda for its next A.G.M., which will take place during the octave of St. Francis. If enough interest is shown, a separate section for R.R.M.'s may be formed: it has been suggested that it should take for its emblem a rabbit couchant.—Yours faithfully,

B. M. W. D.,
Secretary, R.G.

SHROVE TUESDAY RINGING

Dear Sir,—I think the following will be of interest to our Nottingham friends. While doing a genealogical search I came across this note in 'Leicester Journal,' February 9th, 1788:

'On Shrove Tuesday morning a true and complete peal of 5,040 changes of Bob Royal, ten in, was rung on the deep-toned bells of St. Mary's Church, Nottingham, by a select band of the Sherwood Society in that town. The time, 3 hours 44 minutes—weight of the tenor 34 cwt. 2 qrs. 8 pounds. The performance was the first long peal in that method on these bells and was completed in the first attempt ever made there for the same.

'Be others pleas'd with trifling gee-gaw fights
Un-meaning—but let me behold a band
Selected, and of ten compos'd, with arms Ascending, and descending, stand, while health

Sits wreathing roses on their damask cheek,
And jocund pleasure dances in their eyes:
While every bell strikes true, and not a note
Of jarring discord hurts attention's ear.—
W-T-T'

Yours sincerely,

ERNEST MORRIS.

Leicester.

ANOTHER WITHDRAWAL

Dear Sir,—From recent correspondence in your journal it seems that a peal of Spliced Cambridge and Superlative, which I called at St. John's, Bournemouth, on November 12th, 1955, is false.

I herewith withdraw the peal.—Yours faithfully,

F. L. HARRIS.

A VETERAN IN CANADA

Dear Sir,—Soon after Mr. Peter Crooks arrived in Brampton to visit his daughter and other relatives, I had the pleasure of meeting him at his daughter's home, and in some way learned he was a well-known bell-ringer. I did not know that as I had been so long out of touch with matters of campanology.

Mr. Crooks went to the trouble of writing to 'The Ringing World' and mentioned having met me; he also gave me a copy of your paper with the letter printed.

He also sent me a copy of 'The Ringing World' dated October 31st, 1958, in which appeared two letters, one from Mr. William Shepherd and one from Mr. Chas. J. Sedgley. Except for minor details, both letters are correct, and I should like to express my appreciation to the writers for going to the trouble of writing to 'The Ringing World.'

My first remembrance of bells was when my father used to take me to St. Margaret's, Ipswich, every Sunday morning. For a great many years the bells of St. Margaret's were only chimed for the church services.

For many years my uncles George, Jack and Fred used to chime there: Billy Motts, a brother of the famous James Motts, was the leader. I did quite a lot of my ringing with James Motts, and many times one would look in his direction and he looked half asleep, but let a bell be rung the least bit out of place he was wide awake.

I used to spend all my spare time ringing at many churches in the surrounding country before I joined the St. Mary-le-Tower Society. Two boys of about my own age were allowed to chime the three bells at St. Stephen's, Ipswich. They were not supposed to be raised. We did quite a repair job on them, and to try them out we used to muffle them, and continued to do so until someone came to see where the noises were coming from. After that I was made a member of St. Mary-le-Tower Ringers. Beside my Uncle Charles my Uncle Albert was also a member until he died in 1906. I believe I rang in a half-muffled peal at that time.

My uncles Jack and Fred married sisters, and one widow still lives in Ipswich. My father's sister Alice married Willie Roughton, who was also a member of St. Mary-le-Tower. My aunt still lives at Harrow-on-the-Hill.

One of the peals that I rang was a half-muffled one by members of St. Mary-le-Tower and members of the Essex Association at Harwich, after the G. E. R. steamer 'Berlin' was wrecked off Holland.

When my family and myself left England in 1907 we went to Winnipeg, and even at that time there were many fine churches. I moved to Ontario about seven years ago, and the church in Brampton have only one bell each.

In 1954 I travelled by air and had a very enjoyable three weeks' holiday in England, visiting my relatives in Suffolk, near London and at Littlehampton.

When I was in Ipswich I listened to the bells of St. Margaret's being rung, as I had on many previous occasions, especially when the Sproughton ringers under Charles Mee were attempting a peal in a new method.

Then I climbed the steps I remembered so well and was given the treble to toll for the morning service; that was the first time I had a bell rope in my hands since 1912.

One thing, the numbers of new methods being rung now is amazing.—Yours very truly,

W. C. GILLINGHAM.

Brampton, Ontario.

THE LADIES' GUILD

Kent Branch

At Benenden on February 28th the Kent Branch held their first meeting of the year since their annual meeting on January 24th. There was a good attendance from 11 towers.

The service was conducted by the Vicar (Rev. A. Jessop Price), with Mr. J. R. Cooper at the organ.

A most enjoyable tea was held at the Vicarage, followed by some handbell ringing; then thanks were accorded to the Vicar, to Mr. J. Cooper, to Mr. R. J. Brown for making the arrangements, to Mrs. Jessop Price who arranged for the tea and to the local ladies who helped with it.

A short business meeting followed, at which two new members were elected, and the date and place of the next meeting was confirmed as a joint meeting with the Canterbury District of the Kent County Association at Ospringe on May 9th.

Ringling during the meeting ranged from rounds to Spliced Surprise Major. S. M. D.

West, J. Willis and J. J. Webb.

PRESENTATION OF NEW MEMBERS TO THE PRESIDENT

Messrs. P. Crook (Lancashire Association), R. F. B. Speed, L. Stilwell and T. W. White (Honorary Members) were presented.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

The Rev. A. G. G. Thurlow was elected Vice-President for 1958-60 on the proposition of Mr. F. W. Perrens, seconded by Mr. T. J. Lock.

Mr. F. W. Perrens was elected Librarian for 1958-60 on the proposition of Mr. E. H. Lewis, seconded by Mr. E. A. Barnett.

Both newly-elected officers returned their thanks.

ELECTION OF HONORARY MEMBERS

The Standing Committee recommended that Mrs. J. G. Steeples be re-elected and that three vacancies be retained. This was agreed on the proposition of Mr. L. W. G. Morris, seconded by Mr. F. Dunkerley.

LOSS OF MEMBERS THROUGH DEATH

The President reported the death of the following members and former members of the Council, the assembly standing in silence: Messrs. F. Bennett (Sussex and Royal Cumberland Youths), H. W. Brown (Bath and Wells), H. Chambers (Peterborough), J. Cooke, (Chester), F. Dench (College Youths), J. Hardcastle (Yorkshire), J. Holden (United Counties), J. E. Lilley (Devon), F. Precey (Salisbury) and Rev. C. J. Sturton (Midland Counties).

Tributes were paid to the memory of Messrs. Bennett, Brown, Chambers, Dench and Lilley.

MINUTES OF THE LAST MEETING

The Minutes as published in 'The Ringing World' of April 4th, 1958, and circulated to members, were adopted, with the addition of Mr. G. S. Joyce to the list of new members presented to the President, on the proposition of Mr. E. A. Barnett, seconded by Mr. T. J. Lock.

REPORTS

These have been published in 'The Ringing World' as shown:—

HON. SECRETARY AND TREASURER

(June 6th, 1958, page 366)

Adopted on the proposition of Mr. E. A. Barnett, seconded by Mr. W. F. Oatway. The President thanked Mr. and Mrs. Barnett for their work during the year.

HON. LIBRARIAN

The President appealed to those having books on loan to return them at an early date in readiness for the hand-over to Mr. Perrens. The report was adopted on the proposition of Mr. F. Sharpe, seconded by Mr. P. Crook. It was agreed that a letter of sympathy be sent to Mrs. E. S. Tarrant, widow of the Rector of Launton. The Rev. J. G. M. Scott paid a tribute to the President for his work as Librarian since 1953.

BALANCE SHEET AND ACCOUNTS

(June 6th, 1958, pages 366-7)

Adopted on the proposition of Mr. E. A. Barnett, seconded by Mr. A. A. Hughes.

TRUSTEES OF THE CARTER RINGING MACHINE

Adopted on the proposition of Mr. A. A. Hughes, seconded by Mr. L. W. G. Morris. The President expressed thanks to Mr. Douglas Hughes for demonstrating the machine on various occasions.

STANDING COMMITTEE

(June 6th, 1958, page 367)

Adopted on the proposition of Mr. E. A. Barnett, seconded by Mr. F. E. Dukes.

'HISTORY OF CHANGE-RINGING'

SUB-COMMITTEE

(June 6th, 1958, page 368)

Adopted on the proposition of Mr. C. K. Lewis, seconded by Rev. K. W. H. Felstead.

'THE RINGING WORLD' COMMITTEE

Adopted on the proposition of Mr. E. A. Barnett, seconded by Mr. F. W. Perrens. Mr. W. N. Park was added to the Committee, in the place of Mr. J. T. Dyke, to whom the thanks of the Council and best wishes for a speedy restoration to health were expressed.

Arising from a question by Mr. W. G. Wilson, Mr. W. B. Cartwright expressed the view that under the rules, power to co-opt given to the Committee in 1951 was ultra vires. After discussion, it was agreed that the position regarding co-option should be examined by Messrs. Barnett and Cartwright.

LITERATURE AND PRESS COMMITTEE

(June 13th, 1958, pages 383-4)

Adopted on the proposition of Mr. F. E. Dukes, seconded by Miss J. Stewart.

BIOGRAPHIES COMMITTEE

(June 13th, 1958, page 384)

Adopted on the proposition of Mr. L. Stilwell, seconded by Mr. R. G. Blackman.

'BEGINNERS' HANDBOOK' COMMITTEE

(June 13th, 1958, page 385)

Adopted on the proposition of Mr. W. G. Wilson, seconded by Mr. R. F. B. Speed. It was agreed that 5,000 copies should be printed.

BROADCASTING AND TELEVISION COMMITTEE

(June 13th, 1958, page 385)

Adopted on the proposition of Mr. H. J. Sanger, seconded by Mr. J. T. Dunwoody, Mr. Norman Chaddock was added to the Committee.

METHODS COMMITTEE

Adopted on the proposition of the Rev. K. W. H. Felstead, seconded by Mr. C. K. Lewis. Mr. Felstead said it was hoped that the Minor book would be published in a few months and the Triples book before the next meeting.

PEAL ANALYSIS COMMITTEE

(June 13th and 20th, 1958, pages 384 and 402)

Adopted as slightly amended, on the proposition of the Rev. K. W. H. Felstead, seconded by Mr. E. A. Barnett. An amendment to include a peal of Saturn Treble Bob Doubles was lost. Later it was proposed by Mr. C. K. Lewis and seconded by Mr. E. A. Barnett that a peal of Erin Doubles should be deleted from the Analysis. The motion was lost.

PEAL BOARDS COMMITTEE

(June 13th, 1958, page 385)

Adopted on the proposition of Mr. E. A. Barnett, seconded by Mr. F. E. Dukes.

PEALS COLLECTION COMMITTEE

(June 13th, 1958, page 385)

Adopted on the proposition of Mr. W. E. Critchley, seconded by Mr. G. E. Feirn.

RECORDS COMMITTEE

Adopted on the proposition of Mrs. G. W. Fletcher, seconded by Mrs. C. C. Marshall.

TOWERS AND BELFRIES COMMITTEE

Adopted on the proposition of Mr. E. H. Lewis, seconded by Mr. F. E. Collins. Mr. J. H. Crampion expressed thanks on behalf of a number of incumbents in Essex for work done by the Committee.

It was agreed that the President should enter into discussions with the President of the Central Council for the Care of Churches on matters of policy.

MOTIONS

(a) Proposed by Mr. N. Chaddock, seconded by Rev. J. G. M. Scott, and carried:—

'That a committee be appointed to investigate the state of Sunday service ringing, to find out the factors making for success and to report back their findings and recommendations so that together with the ringing Associations and Church authorities the Central Council may help to increase and improve Sunday service ringing.'

Messrs. N. Chaddock, P. M. J. Gray, F. B. Lufkin, Rev. J. G. M. Scott and Rev. A. G. G. Thurlow were appointed as the Committee, with Mr. Chaddock as convener.

(b) Proposed by Mr. F. T. Blagrove and seconded by Mr. F. W. Goodfellow:—

'That the conditions required for peals of Doubles shall be amended to read as follows:

(a) Peals of Doubles shall consist of 5,040 or more changes rung in:—

(i) True and complete six-scores without interval between any two six-scores and without rounds or any other row being struck more than once before the next change is made.

(ii) Round blocks of a multiple of 120, provided that such round blocks contain each of the different 120 changes the same number of times, without interval between such blocks and without rounds or any other row being struck more than once before the next change is made.

(iii) Combinations of (i) and (ii).

(b) Peals of Doubles may be rung with or without a covering bell, and no continuous leading bells are allowed.

'That the conditions required for peals of Minor shall be amended to read as follows:

(a) Peals of Minor shall consist of 5,040 or more changes rung in:—

(i) True and complete 720's without interval between any two 720's, and without rounds or any other row being struck more than once before the next change is made.

(ii) Round blocks of a multiple of 720, provided that such round blocks contain each of the different 720 changes the same number of times, without interval between such blocks and without rounds or any other row being struck more than once before the next change is made.

(iii) Combinations of (i) and (ii).

(b) Peals of Minor to be rung on six bells.' The motion was lost.

PLACE OF NEXT MEETING

On the proposition of Mr. F. Dunkerley, seconded by Mr. L. W. G. Morris, an invitation from the Lancashire Association for 1959 was accepted, the place of the meeting being left to the Association to decide.

OTHER BUSINESS

The Hon. Secretary gave notice of motion to amend Rule 11(i) by deleting all after the words 'Hon. Secretary' in line 9 and substituting the words 'not later than the 31st March before the meeting.'

Mr. C. W. Pipe drew attention to the desirability of making recordings of notable peals of bells.

VOTES OF THANKS

A vote of thanks to Mr. F. Sharpe, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Barnett and Mr. F. E. Dukes was proposed by Mr. J. T. Dunwoody, seconded by Mr. H. W. Rogers and carried.

On the motion of the President, the thanks of the Council were expressed to the Deputy Lord Mayor of Dublin, the Archbishop of Dublin and the President of the Irish Association (Mr. W. Pratt) for their welcome; to the representative body of the Church of Ireland for the use of the Synod Hall; to the Dean of St. Patrick's for officiating at Holy Communion that morning, and the Dean of Christ Church for opening the meeting with prayer; to Messrs. F. E. Dukes and J. T. Dunwoody, and Miss J. Stewart, for their work in arranging the meeting; to the Irish Association and Irish ringers generally for their kindness and hospitality, and to local incumbents and tower keepers for the use of their bells.

After the meeting the members were the guests of Bord Fáilte Éireann (Irish Tourist Board) at tea.

SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCIATIONEastern Division

In spite of the prevalence of influenza, the largest attendance for some years strained the resources of those providing the tea at St. Mary's, Eastbourne, whose roomy tower at one time held 57 members, representing 15 towers.

The service was conducted by the Vicar of Eastbourne (Rev. W. W. S. March) and the lesson read by the Master (Mr. R. V. Johnson).

At the business meeting in the Old Parsonage the members first stood in silence in memory of Doctor Bell, for many years Bishop of Chichester and president of the Association, and of George King, for 30 years captain of Salehurst tower.

The secretary (Mr. H. G. F. Reynolds) in his annual report stated that Westham and Warbleton towers had been welcomed to the Association in 1958, making a record total of 27 towers, or 70 per cent. of ringable bells in East Sussex. Thirty-five new members and three non-resident life members had joined, including a large number of teenagers. Sunday service ringing had in general improved again, and he was glad to note more quarter peals by local bands appearing in 'The Ringing World.' The meetings had enabled many young members to improve their handling and command of more advanced methods, but the attendance had dropped to an average of 27. The Ringing Master, Mr. L. Giles, had given '100 per cent. attendance.'

The report and balance sheet, showing an increased balance, were adopted.

The chairman announced that Mr. Reynolds did not wish to stand for re-election as secretary, and the meeting unanimously elected Mr. F. H. Becey, of Hellingly, who at the age of 20 must be the youngest-ever divisional secretary. Mr. L. Giles, Ringing Master, Mr. T. A. Hunnisset, hon. auditor, Mrs. B. Percy and Mr. C. Verdon, committee, were all re-elected.

The general secretary (Mr. R. W. R. Percy) read a proposed alteration to the rules dealing with finance. A lively discussion followed, culminating in a proposal from Mr. T. A. Hunnisset to be submitted to the annual meeting that the annual levy should be fixed and not left to the discretion of the hon. treasurer. In this way divisional secretaries would know how much of their income would remain in divisional funds.

The meeting thanked the Vicar and organist and those who had provided the excellent tea.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILDMarlborough Branch

Those with a flair for 5-bell ringing, especially heavy ones, were attracted to Ogbourne St. George's, Wilts, on February 21st, on the occasion of the Marlborough Branch meeting. The ratio of visitors was almost two to one members, and they came from Southampton, Bridgwater, Reading, London, Swindon and Steeple Ashton.

The Rev. H. W. Dunn (Vicar) conducted the service and also made all the local arrangements. Mr. G. Newman thanked the reverend gentleman for allowing the use of the bells.

After the service and tea further ringing took place at Ogbourne St. Andrew's.

The writer would like to thank all those who kindly made inquiries during his unhappy experience, and those who visited him in hospital, and would like to say he is now making a good recovery.

UNIVERSITY OF BRISTOL SOCIETY

For their long excursion of the term on February 14th, the University of Bristol Society took the unprecedented step of travelling by coach.

The first tower was Avening (6), nestling on the side of the hill; here ringing varied from rounds to London and Oswald. Then we proceeded to Minchinhampton with its truncated tower—a pleasant ring of six, where York was included in our Minor repertoire. The beauty of the countryside was appreciated as the coach made its way towards Painswick. Here a bob course of Grandsire Cinques was rung, followed, most aptly, with a plain course of Painswick. Rounds and Stedman Caters brought an enjoyable visit to an end. Striking was not very good, but considering the strength of the band it was not a bad effort.

Stroud was the next stop arranged so that members could satisfy their hunger before ringing on the ten. This again provided a good opportunity to improve striking on higher numbers. Grandsire and Stedman were again rung, together with a touch of Spliced Plain and Little Bob Major.

This completed our selection of towers but, of course, we had one more stop to make on the road. During our time here two members rang a selection of tunes on handbells together with a few attempts at method.

By the way, was the Society's bachelor Cupid's long-called-for resignation a consequence of the trip coinciding with St. Valentine's Day?

UNIVERSITIES UNITE

Sixteen members of the Leeds and Sheffield University Societies met together at Barnsley on the afternoon of February 21st. In spite of an interruption caused by a wedding, the bells were well used between 2 and 5 o'clock. It is to be hoped that the splicing in the church was more successful than our attempt at Plain and Little Bob! Thanks to John Segar, we did attempt Double Norwich, to the accompanying cry of 'Let's be progressive.' We lowered the bells! Even this proved unfortunate, owing to an anonymous member who has different ideas from the 'Tykes.'

Successful methods included Plain Bob, Stedman Triples, and Kent and Oxford T.B. The atmosphere was extremely friendly, and we look forward eagerly to the next joint meeting.

Thanks are due to the Vicar of Barnsley and to Mr. J. S. Rank, Sheffield secretary, for arranging the meeting.

Ambleside Vicar A Bishop

The Archbishop of York (Dr. Michael Ramsey) and 11 bishops took part in the consecration in York Minster of the Ven. Sidney Cyril Bulley (Archdeacon of Westmorland and Vicar of Ambleside) as Bishop Suffragan of Penrith. School children were among a party of 300 people who travelled from Windermere by special train for the ceremony.

In the evening at Ambleside Parish Church the local band rang a quarter peal of Grandsire Triples, this being the first quarter by the local Sunday service band since before the last war. The two lady ringers are the daughters of the late Mr. T. B. Newton, captain of the ringers for 20 years.

LEEDS & DISTRICT SOCIETY

The February meeting of the Society was held at Birstall and was well attended. The bells were kept going in a variety of methods from 3 o'clock until 9, with a short break for tea and the business meeting. Although this was not the nomination meeting, Mr. D. Thorp was nominated as the new secretary, as the present holder of this office will be in Lincolnshire by the time the annual meeting arrives.

The March meeting will be held at Armley—a joint meeting with the Yorkshire Association (Western District).

COURSING ORDER

THE new Central Council Handbook for Beginners contains some notes on Coursing Order, and this section, although written primarily to assist the learner in the art of ringing, serves as a timely reminder of the beauty of this phenomenon of the orderly movement of the bells among each other, and of the practical value of its study.

For the learner of the art of ringing some intelligent understanding of the coursing of the bells is indisputably valuable, and as his knowledge increases and his skill is extended to more and more complex methods, so can his eyes be opened more and more to the wonder of the delicate relationships between working bell, course bell and after bell, and to a realisation of the practical help afforded by these relationships in the ringing of difficult methods.

At the beginning of the study of change-ringing the coursing of the bells will assist greatly in acquiring the art of plain hunting. To the learner on a small number of bells the use of a course bell to assist in finding the way down to lead may not seem of very much importance, for the way is short and the eye capable of taking in the whole range of the circle of ropes. It would seem, none the less, valuable to study the use of the course bell for hunting and to study the simple relationship of bell movement in the hunting course on all numbers.

As soon as the student reaches the stage of ringing 'inside' he will find, either for himself or by wise direction, the principles attaching to a regular working with a course bell fixed for some length of time. This simple phenomenon will be apparent in Grandsire and Plain Bob, and in the latter, particularly, the learner may find much pleasure and profit in the discovery that the 2nd always goes to the 3rd on the front or at the back, and that the 4th always comes to the 2nd. It will not be long before the intelligent inquirer will find that only the intervention of the treble interferes with this routine, and that some change of progression is bound to come when the bells are affected by bobs.

Thus may be sown seed that will be more and more fruitful as the student progresses to advanced work. Much of the ease and comfort in the ringing of complex methods comes from what may perhaps be called economy of energy, and by this we mean making use of every available aid, so that neither brain nor eye is unduly taxed. An example will suffice to illustrate this point. The experienced ringer of Cambridge Maximus knows that he will find his course bell up behind when he gets there: that his after bell will surely come to him when his course bell goes away: that his course bell may be expected to come sliding through his up places and his after bell through his down places; and he knows that on coming across his course bell in the run-throughs he must plain hunt for a few blows. With these and a host of other observations forced on him by practice and study, he has assistance for his memory and practical aid in time of trouble. And most of this help arises from the simple study of coursing order suggested above.

These brief thoughts on coursing order might easily be expanded into a considerable thesis, for the subject is a vast and vital one. The basis of intelligent conducting is a thorough knowledge of this regular progression of the bells, and the principles of this are adequately displayed for the student in Mr. W. G. Wilson's book on Conducting. The mental transposition of the coursing order of the bells during peal or touch is a fascinating procedure, and it is interesting to note that on the smaller numbers of bells the transpositions are more frequent and sometimes the most difficult, while on the higher numbers of bells the infrequency of the calls retains a fixed coursing order for long periods.

So much for the utility of coursing order. There remains the intrinsic beauty of this remarkable interlacing of bells and their obedience to natural laws. It is this that gives us the repeated melodious terminations of Triples, the magnificent periodic roll-ups of Maximus, and the exquisite 7689 and 7698 interludes of the Caters methods. And finally, the very pattern on the paper is a thing of wonder, whether it be the simple partnership of bell and course bell on the front and back in Double Court Minor, or the complexity of London Royal where working bell and course bell, seemingly separated for ever, come together as if by magic in 9-10, or what may well be described as that magnificent game of leap-frog carried out with such solemnity in Yorkshire Maximus when working bell, course bell and after bell make places. Here, the philosopher might observe, is another manifestation of the beautifully balanced interrelation of Nature's processes, perfect in conception, and only to be marred (if at all) by man's imperfection.

THE YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION — Southern District

The first quarterly meeting of the year was held at St. Leonard's Church, Wortley, on February 21st. This church, in a small village famous as the seat of the Earl of Wharnccliffe, is a familiar landmark as it stands adjacent a rather dangerous 'S' bend on the main Sheffield to Huddersfield road. Despite the infrequency of buses and the fact that the trains no longer stop at Wortley Station, nearly 40 members and friends turned up and a good meeting was enjoyed by all.

The Vicar (Rev. F. V. Robinson) was at the tower door all afternoon welcoming members and making sure the long ladder to the belfry wasn't overburdened with too many on at once. He also showed ringers round the church when the tiny belfry got overcrowded, and all this personal attention was very much appreciated. The Vicar is very keen to have this light ring of eight bells fully manned once again, but recruitment is rather a problem in such a sparsely populated village. The bells are, however, rung on Sundays, a practice held on Thursday evenings, and any outside assistance would be warmly welcomed.

No meeting has been held, or a peal been rung on these bells for some years, but they responded very well in all methods from rounds and call-changes to Bristol Surprise.

A tea was provided in the Day School, and thanks are due to the Vicar and Mrs. Robinson for making the arrangements, which were by no means easy as there is no church hall, and this was their first experience ever of a ringers' meeting.

The Vicar, who took the chair at the business meeting, opened with a word of welcome. There was no controversial business, and the secretary announced that certain propositions mentioned in the minutes had been accepted by the general committee and would be fully discussed at their next meeting in March. Miss Janette Howes-Smith, of Harthill, was elected to membership of the Association. A collection for the Bell Repair Fund realised the sum of £1 0s. 3d. It was proposed that the annual meeting of the District be held at St. Mary's, Barnsley, on May 16th. Mr. N. Chaddock proposed the usual vote of thanks to the Vicar and local company, and in response the Vicar said it was he who should thank the company for visiting Wortley, as this was a new experience to him which he had thoroughly enjoyed, and he had learned a lot about ringers and ringing.

The number was further increased on returning to the tower by the arrival of a contingent of members of the Sheffield and Leeds University Societies who had been holding a joint meeting at St. Mary's, Barnsley, and finished early. The bells were, therefore, kept particularly busy with some good ringing until this successful meeting ended at nearly 9 o'clock.

RINGERS' RHYME

(With apologies to the Wool Secretariat)

The peal is lost! The ringers stand
Aghast at him who's failed the band.
'I lost my place, my feet is froze:
'I can't keep warm in cotton clo'es!'
So teach your learners ere they pull:
There is no substitute for WOOL!

B.B.C. TELEVISE RINGING

The B.B.C. sent a T.V. team to film the ringing at Baldock (Herts) on March 4th. The ringers were asked to be there, so they came, the only absences being due to illnesses. Two friends of the Guild also arrived. The result was that there were at least 15 ringers as well as the T.V. staff. Actually, only eight ringers were needed, but the B.B.C. had not realised what the response would be!

The film was for a feature programme in Wednesday Magazine—to be shown between 2.45 and 3.30 on March 25th—and the chief interest seemed to be the wide age range of the ringers, from June Dear who is 12, to Mr. E. Bradfield who will be 83 very soon. These were interviewed after Mr. E. G. Buck (the tower captain) and Mr. P. Mehew. The ringing was very short, only a few changes of Bob Major and Grandsire Triples, and a brief demonstration of learning to handle a bell. Nine-and-a-half hours were spent to obtain material for a film which will probably last only ten minutes or a quarter of an hour.

Why did the B.B.C. choose Baldock? It is believed that Baldock was chosen on the recommendation of the Rev. J. Catterick, of Ashwell, who has helped the B.B.C. in other matters; but Baldock is not too far from London, and that was a factor. The facts that the Baldock Guild are capable of ringing Surprise, that the octave is the heaviest in Hertfordshire, and that the church is attractive do not appear to have weighed very heavily in the selection.

There will be great interest in the television broadcast in the National network of a service from St. Cuthbert's Church, Edinburgh, on Sunday, March 22nd. The bells will be heard at 9.25 a.m.

Mr. Ronald I. Shepherd, of 5, Kenilworth Gardens, Staines, Middlesex, has accommodation in his car for London area ringers going to Dillington House bell-ringing course.

Six boys from Rotherham Grammar School rang Bob Minor and Grandsire Doubles on the bells of Rotherham Parish Church for the schools and founder's day service on March 5th.

Mr. C. M. Heathcote, hon. treasurer of the East Derbyshire and Notts Association, who has been recuperating in South Africa after a serious illness, is expected home in time for the Association's annual meeting at Blackwell on Easter Monday.

From Beaworthy, Devon, we hear that Mr. J. L. Queen has a promising band of boys, who although they have only been ringing four months rang about 1,400 rounds and call-changes for Matins on St. David's Day. Grandsire Doubles and Bob Minimus are being persevered with.

Some 28 years ago a peal was rung on the bells of St. Mary's, Lifton. In that peal were W. A. T. Brimacombe and J. H. Benoy, with W. Ball (now in Tasmania). After years of silence, with the help of Mr. W. Harvey the Lifton band have rung three quarter peals. Our quarter peal columns record their visit to Kelly, where in 1865 was rung by the Kelly Society 'a true and complete peal of three six-scores of Grandsire Doubles, being the greatest number of changes in the scientific or half-pull system ever rung in Devon by men of the county.' The ringers on that occasion were Maitland Kelly, J. Yole (conductor), E. Yole, B. Bloomfield, F. Yole and J. Willcock.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Last August, just two years after being instituted Rector of St. Mawgan-in-Pydar, Cornwall, the Rev. H. E. Hosking had the joy of seeing his ring of eight bells (except the seventh) recast and rededicated. He is now to be congratulated on ringing his first peal on them. It is good, too, to see the name of one of his churchwardens, Mr. A. H. Eplett, in the peal columns again.

Central Council members and wives are being entertained to dinner by the Lancashire Association on Whit Monday at Southport. Details of the attractive programme arranged will be published next week.

The recast bells of Bishop Latimer Church, Birmingham, will ring out on Easter Day. Originally an eight from Robert Wells, of Albourne, they have been recast into seven bells, and another bell in the tower has been retuned and retained as the fifth of the new ring. The new tenor is 14 cwt. 8 lb.

Prior to the 21st birthday peal at Hitcham, in the presence of the peal band and churchwardens the Rector (Rev. A. W. James) presented Howard Oglesby with a travelling case, not only as a birthday present but in recognition of his valuable work in connection with the church in addition to his duties as captain in the belfry. The party was held on the following day.

Over the last 12 months a group of 'Doubles' enthusiasts in the Taunton Deanery have been ringing quite a few peals of Doubles and have become known locally as 'Walford and his Rhythm Boys.' On February 21st they rang a peal of Bob Doubles at Luppitt (Devon), but it seems that the conductor was so engrossed in the ringing that he forgot when to call 'That's all.' An account of the peal in the 'Western Morning Times' read that they rang 55,040 changes.

THE HENRY JOHNSON DINNER

ARE A FEW FALSE CHANGES PERMISSIBLE?

CANON F. F. Guy Warman, Vicar of Aston, who was recently elected a vice-president of the St. Martin's Guild, was in the chair for the 71st annual Henry Johnson commemoration dinner, held at the Imperial Hotel, Birmingham, on March 7th.

The speeches were to the point and dealt with matters of concern and controversy to the Exercise at large.

The toast of 'The late Henry Johnson' was proposed by Mr. E. A. Barnett, secretary of the Central Council, who said 70 years after his death it was very difficult to assess Henry Johnson's value to the ringing world.

He was born in 1809 and died just a little before his 81st birthday, so his life span was almost the 19th century. His first peal was rung at Aston in 1830 and his last in the same tower 54 years later. In all, he rang 139 peals. This was no mean achievement for those days, as probably only four or five ringers had previously reached 100 peals.

OF GREAT MERIT

He was a practical ringer, and in May, 1842, he conducted Thurstan's Four-part—the first time it was ever rung. Jasper Snowdon, in his first edition of 'Stedman', frequently acknowledged Johnson's help in piecing together the early history of Stedman ringing. He had many compositions of great merit; to quote one—26,016 of Stedman Caters, the whole 240 courses in Tittums without a bell fixed in seconds, Snowdon says: 'It will have become evident that the composition of a peal without a bell fixed in seconds at the course end is a matter of some difficulty. The result of this has been . . . there are not many true peals with more than one bell in the position in question. But there stands one—as Sir Arthur Heywood calls it, "a magnificent composition"—pre-eminent above all others. It is the work of that grand composer Mr. Henry Johnson, and was produced in 1856, though never published until 1891.'

The dinner they were attending that evening was instituted during his lifetime—and it was not often that a man was so honoured. The first dinner was held on the eve of his 77th birthday, in 1876, on the suggestion of Charles Henry Hattersley, and the chairman at that time was the Vicar of St. Paul's, Burton-on-Trent, who was a practical ringer and the genius behind that hand which opened up Surprise ringing in the 1880's. He did not think he could do better than quote the address that was presented to him:—

'To Mr. Henry Johnson, sen.

'Dear Sir,—In presenting you with this portrait on behalf of your friends, admirers and brother ringers in Birmingham and throughout England, we feel we are making an inadequate acknowledgment of the invaluable time, immense labour and unwearying devotion of a lifetime which has been given to furthering the noble art and science of change-ringing.

'Your skill as a practical ringer and conductor, accompanied by your earnest desire to cultivate a high standard of excellence and good taste for true and correct ringing has not only been appreciated by your associates but is acknowledged throughout the Exercise.

'As a composer you have few compeers in the science, whether in the past or present, your compositions being marked by an originality and special merit which will commend them to the admiration of posterity, and will secure to your name a lustre as enduring as the art you have so well loved and so immensely benefited.

'Throughout an illustrious career, extending through more than half a century, your urbanity of manner and willingness to render the assistance so frequently asked for has won for you a deep and universal feeling of respect and esteem.

'That your declining years may be blessed with a well-earned repose, and be brightened by a sense of the appreciation which this presentation is intended to convey, is the sincere wish of the many subscribers on whose behalf we have the honour to address you.'

The toast was drunk in silence.

The toast of 'Continued Prosperity to the St. Martin's Guild' was given by Mr. J. Frank Smallwood. He said the Guild had been singularly fortunate in securing the right men for the job. He had seen some great men in the office of secretary—like Mr. Godden, Ald. Patton Smith and Mr. Reeves—and it would not be long before Mr. Geo. Fearn would have completed 20 years in office.

MORALITY IN RINGING

Mr. Smallwood said he had attended these dinners for over half a century, and he had heard many men speak of the merits and sterling character of Henry Johnson. He was a man who would have nothing to do with anything that was not true and would shun anything that was false. There were perhaps people today with not the same high ideals—and think a few false changes did not matter very much and could be glossed over. He hoped the day would never come when that was accepted, and they would always stand for a high code of morality, which had played such a big part in their peal ringing.

Johnson had to do all his work on his own—he had no text books to consult like present composers. It seemed to him that some of the present composers had slipped up rather badly and there had been a great deal of painful heart-searching over spliced ringing. They did not know how many false peals had been rung but there were some who were unwilling to withdraw those peals. It was a question of morality, and he hoped he would never live to see the day when false peals would be tolerated. He personally did not like spliced ringing and thought ringers should be satisfied with a straightforward method.

The Master, Mr. Edgar C. Shepherd, who replied, thanked the company for the toast of the continued prosperity of the Guild. 'We like to feel that we are prosperous, and I think we are. We have a great number of peals rung and they are peals of very good quality. We have some excellent young folk coming along and some very fine ringers to take our places when we have to give up. I should like to mention John Anderson. It does not seem long when he came to us for elementary instruction, and now we find him turning the tenor to Spliced Surprise.'

They had just seen the new bells arrive at Bishop Latimer's Church; and what a difference they were from the artificiality in two towers in Staffordshire where an apparatus to simulate the sound of bells was introduced.

RINGING PART OF THE SERVICE

There were two forms of prosperity—material and spiritual. With regard to ringers' connection with the Church, he liked to think that ringing was not something that took place just before the service. He had always held that ringing was part of the service. He knew that ringers did not attend all the services they rang for, but many attended services, and if they were members of the choir they had a bigger advantage still. He commended to them the advice given in the Beginner's Handbook.

During the past year they had pleasure in noting that 'Mr. and Mrs. Birmingham' had celebrated their diamond wedding. They wished

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

PRELIMINARY NOTICE

The third session of the 23rd Council (62nd Annual Meeting) will be held on Whitsun Tuesday, May 19th, 1959, at the Palace Hotel, Southampton.

In accordance with Rule 13, notices of motion, signed by two members of the Council must be received by the Secretary not less than six weeks previous to the meeting, i.e., by April 7th, 1959.

E. A. BARNETT, Hon. Secretary.

their good friend Mr. Albert Walker and dear Mrs. Walker every happiness. They had also noted that Ald. Paddon Smith had retired, and they would soon see him competing in growing vegetable marrows with 92, Etwell Road. Two fine old ringers had passed over in Mr. John Thomas and Mr. Herbert Knight.

Mr. Frank W. Perrins, who proposed the toast of 'The Visitors,' had a special word of welcome to the Rev. C. Smyth, Vicar of Bishop Latimer's Church, and also to members of the Editorial Committee of 'The Ringing World.'

'STATISTICITIS'

They had today a number of ringers who were suffering from 'statisticitis.' They seemed to pay so much attention to figures and he was wondering whether the statistics published in their journal were not partly to blame. They rang peals for their own pleasure. Having rung a peal, they should have gained some benefit from it in helping to raise the standard of their ringing. Whether the peal was true or false they had some benefit in improving their ringing, which to him seemed more important than putting the performance down as a peal.

He wondered about the standard of some of their footnotes. If a footnote represented the progress of a band or individual it was of some value; but what was the worth of footnotes like '25th peal together,' '100th peal in 100 different towers'? He would also suggest cutting out footnotes like 'circling the tower.' He often wondered if the peal would not have been better if the person was not so keen on 'circling the tower.'

Mr. Perrins concluded with a special welcome to Mr. and Mrs. Barnett, and thanked them for their work for the Exercise.

LEARNERS!

Mr. Paul L. Taylor, who replied, said a few days after Bishop Latimer's bells were hung, the bell-hanger played a few hymn tunes on the bells. The next day Mr. Geo. Fearn and his band tested the bells. The Vicar asked an old lady if she liked the bells. She replied in the affirmative, and added: 'They don't ring any tunes. I suppose they are learners.'

The toast of 'The Ringing World' was proposed by Mr. Frank E. Haynes and acknowledged by the Editor, who stated that the journal made a profit in the past year. Drives to publicise the journal had been made in the Barnsley area and also in the Coventry Guild. He would be pleased to help any District or Guild with specimen copies. The past year had witnessed an increase in circulation.

The concluding toast of 'The Chairman' was submitted by Mr. Albert Walker, who said that Canon Warman had been a good friend of the ringers since he came to Birmingham. He had Henry Johnson's stone erected in Aston Churchyard. Mr. Walker concluded that he had attended 60 Dinners; they had had many good chairmen but not one better than Canon Warman.

The chairman, in reply, said the Guild had been most kind in electing him a vice-president, which he felt was a great honour.

OXFORD UNIVERSITY SOCIETY AT DINNER

THE annual dinner of the Oxford University Society took place on February 7th in Oxford.

Of the ringing the writer knows little, having carried 'distance lends enchantment' to its ultimate conclusion; but some knowledge has been gleaned on reputable authority.

Christ Church, with its corrugated iron case (one of the few things that isn't smooth within its precincts), was the first tower on the programme, from 2 to 3 p.m., and here ringing included half a course of Cambridge Maximus. New College (3.30 to 4.30) produced Cambridge Royal, and Magdalen (4.30 to 5.30) a half course of Yorkshire Royal. St. Ebbe's and St. Thomas' also were in use during the afternoon for those who wanted to visit the less salubrious parts of the city or see the railway station. Ringing at the University Church (the writer heard part of what sounded like a good rise in peal) lasted from 5.30 to 6.30, and was followed by the service.

The dinner was held in the Union, 8 for 8.30, and again at 8.30 for 9 when the steward still found his dining room in a state of chaos. The appearance of the meal coincided with the disappearance of one who shall be nameless.

The president (Rev. C. Elliot Wigg) proposed the toast of 'The Queen,' and wishing, quite reasonably, to return home the same night, called upon Mr. Stephen Ivins to propose the toast of 'The Visitors.'

In a rather subdued tone, no doubt influenced by the presence of his fiancée and a port decanter, Mr. Ivins welcomed Dr. Lee (Vicar of St. Mary's), Dr. Sutton (senior member of the Society), Roger Keeley (Master of the London University Society), Hugh Neill and Stan Hood (Master and secretary of the Cambridge University Guild), Pat Bird (Master of the Bristol University Society), Walter Judge (Master of the Oxford Society) and Ted Moore (captain of All Saints, Oxford).

The speaker made one unfortunate comparison between himself and the Cambridge University Guild, both appearing to have a predilection for publicity, and he warned the Guild against the advisability of ringing compositions by its own members, should the desire to take up serious peal ringing make itself apparent.

Roger Keeley replied on behalf of the visitors, and after suitable flattery (which is always the host's reward) he informed us of his schooldays and holidays with Stephen's better half, which, although hardly relevant, caused some amusement. Mr. Keeley always obliges with a competent delivery.

Mr. R. A. Jackson regaled us with a 'back-to-the-wall' toast to 'The Church,' and provided a commendable impromptu speech—atoningly to some extent for his left-over-right propensities.

Dr. Lee replied, and encouraged us with the thought that ringers are bound with a unity which congregations would do well to follow. However unworthy we were to receive these remarks, we did so with gratitude to Dr. Lee for them and an excellent speech.

Hugh Neill, Master of the Cambridge University Guild, proposing the toast of 'The Society,' having had the words taken out of his mouth by Mr. Keeley, resorted to the only course left open to him, and associated himself with the latter's remarks.

AN INTERRUPTION

This he did absolutely and provoked some personal comments on his schooldays. It was during the delivery that we learnt of the activities of ex-O.U.S. stalwart Dermot Roaf in Cambridge; this indefatigable champion of justice and democracy appears to be guiding the C.U.G. at last on to the straight and narrow, after a considerable period in the wilderness.

Mr. Neill was interrupted by the prolonged ringing of an alarm clock (no prizes for guessing the owner, who held the offending object aloft to add effect to his subtlety).

A most eagerly awaited moment coincided with the elevation of the Master, Mr. James Pailing (or Jim, to his friends) to reply.

Having shattered the feminine company (he's not just a pretty face), he indicated the success he was achieving in the field of natural selection, and we were delighted to learn that the number of the opposite sex being instructed in New College beltry was increasing each time.

After a verbal tangle (in which the verb was lost) there followed a eulogy on Mr. Ivins which sounded, and probably was, sincere; it was indeed justifiable, and his help to the Society in the realm of spliced ringing cannot be lightly overlooked by anyone who wishes to advance in the art. In his survey of the year's ringing the Master mentioned the advance in Spliced Surprise and the peal in 12 methods rung at Dorchester.

An inordinate amount of quarter peals were rung and attendance and personal performances had been satisfactory.

After the speeches the company, mellowed and congenial, talked and rang handbells with varying success until midnight, when those remaining made their way to various parts of the city.

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

Chertsey District

Despite the unfavourable weather, an enjoyable meeting was held at Chertsey on March 7th, and was attended by about 50 ringers, including several from outside the District.

Following the service, conducted by the Rev. G. S. Archibald, tea was served in the Church Hall by the local ringers. A discussion was held on the subject of junior ringers' subscriptions and voting rights. Three new members—two from Esher and one from Chobham—were elected, and thanks were expressed for the excellent tea, and also to Mr. G. Lodge who has worked so hard in order to keep a band together to ring this difficult eight.

Before returning to the church, Mr. Harold Rogers and his family, from Isleworth, put many people to shame by their impressive performance on the handbells. Ringing continued until 8.45 p.m. in methods ranging from Grand-sire to Cambridge.

AMENDE HONORABLE

Dear Sir.—The Rabbits' Guild must beg a little of your space as an amende honorable for your printer's error. The suggested emblem for a possible section of Rabbit Ringing Masters is a rabbit not couchant but coachant.—Yours faithfully,

B. M. W. D.

HENRY JOHNSON DINNER

LOOKING TO YOUTH

Speaking not only to St. Martin's Guild but to the craft in general, the Canon said while they looked to the old men who had good, expert skill, the people to whom they really looked without any disparagement to the older ones were the young ones; and it was important that every possible measure should be taken to see that the Exercise moved with the times. There were certain things that could never pass away, but if a young person learnt what had gone in the past and became skilful, he would want to go forward and do something new. He thought it was extremely important. He did not know anything about Spliced Surprise, but if it was not a good thing it would die a natural death; if it was a good thing it would continue. He hoped the St. Martin's Guild would go from strength to strength.

As usual there was handbell ringing, but Stedman Cinques unfortunately did not come home, and Stedman Caters (a good touch) was rung.

The arrangements for the dinner were made by Mr. George E. Fearn with his usual efficiency.

JUNIORS AND VOTING RIGHTS

Dear Sir.—At a recent quarterly meeting of the Leicester Diocesan Guild, a proposed alteration to rule was put forward for consideration at the forthcoming annual meeting. If this proposition is carried, it will have the effect of withholding the right to vote at meetings from all junior members of the Guild, i.e., those under 18 years of age.

The fact that there is a real danger of this alteration being made effective is causing those of us with large numbers of young people attached to our towers a good deal of concern and anxiety. We feel that the younger ringing members of the Guild have just as much a right to voice their opinions in the running of it as the more established members, and that once this right is denied them their interest will flag and the very future of the Guild be imperilled.

Our opponents—among them a vice-president of the Guild—claim that in the past a few of us with large numbers of youngsters at our disposal have been influencing these youngsters' votes to our own advantage, and they are using this as their main objection to the present system.

There is, of course, a certain amount of truth in their claim. But surely it is the privilege of any instructor of young people to guide them along the lines he has found by personal experience to be the best. The assertion that we do this merely to our own advantage is, of course, ludicrous.

To some, this may seem a trivial domestic affair, but to us it is a very real problem. It would be interesting to hear what other ringers think on the subject, and whether other Guilds have experienced the same difficulties.—Yours faithfully,

JOHN VERNON.

Stoney Stanton, Leics.

Note.—The Guildford Diocesan Guild, where junior members have not the vote, will consider at its annual meeting the abolition of junior membership, thus conferring equal voting rights.—Ed.

RECORDINGS OF BELLS

Dear Sir.—The following is an extract from a list of special recordings made by E.M.I. The records are single-sided, 78 r.p.m., and cost 7s. 6d. plus 3s. 5d. tax. Postage and packing is 3s. 3d. for one to four records, and they are available from: Special Recordings Department, E.M.I. Records Limited, 3, Abbey Road, London, N.W.8.

TWO SIMULTANEOUS PEALS

Dear Sir.—In reply to R. N. Pitman (see your issue of March 6th), I have not yet to my knowledge condemned record peal attempts, or the hobby of regular peal ringing. In fact, I am one of those who have already rung a number of peals, both tower and handbell, each of which included non-conducted peals, which may by some people be regarded as 'stunts.' But let us face up to the facts of the 'simultaneous' handbell peals.

Whilst the ringers in question certainly held a handbell in each hand, they struck both bells in the same place at the same time, thereby reducing the mental effort to the task of keeping both bells in the same place, which reduces considerably the skill of ringing two handbells, and is not by any stretch of imagination the generally accepted way of ringing a pair of handbells in a peal or peals.

As regards the claim that Sunday service ringing will benefit, I know there have been, and still are—for which I have every admiration—ringers capable of ringing two tower bells, but I trust not 'simultaneously.' Nor do I want to hear 6-bell peals rung at a 12-bell tower on the same principle as the 'simultaneous' handbell peals, neither Sunday nor Monday.

Why do not all concerned face up to the facts and admit that ringing two 'simultaneous' handbell peals was an attempt to hoax peal, or all, of the ringing fraternity that a feat, not a 'stunt,' had been performed?—Yours, etc.,

F. HODGSON.

Darlington.

RANDWICK, GLOS

Dear Sir.—In reply to the query in Belfry Gossip from Randwick, N.S.W., Australia. There are four bells at the Church of St. John-the-Baptist, Randwick, Glos (tenor about 8 cwt.). My wife's father was a ringer at this church about 70 years ago. These bells were rehung in 1908 in an iron frame by Messrs. Taylor and go well. About 1929 I was ringing for Sunday service when the Rev. Mr. Cakebread, Vicar of Randwick, N.S.W., who was on a visit to this country, took the service at the Mother Church, and on his return to N.S.W. a stone was removed from the church of Randwick, Glos, to be placed in the church of Randwick, N.S.W.

My wife and eldest son were born in this parish.—Yours sincerely,

A. LESLIE BARRY.

Gloucester.

Mr. E. T. Paul Field and Mr. P. N. Bond are also thanked for their replies.—Ed.

ONE CWT. DIFFERENCE

Dear Sir.—Two reports of peals rung at St. Peter's Church, Burnham, Buckinghamshire, give a difference of 1 cwt. in the weight of the tenor. One report gives this as 13 cwt. 3 qr. 13 lb., the other report says 12 cwt. 3 qr. 13 lb. As the same ringer rang the tenor on each occasion, perhaps he found it easier to turn in to Superlative than to ring behind to Stedman.—Yours sincerely,

H. HALL.

Southgate.

SOUTHWARK TREBLE BOB

Dear Sir.—On a recent Saturday afternoon the following conversation between the writer (sitting in the barber's chair) and his hairdresser disturbed the momentary silence.

Barber: You're interested in campanology? I see you are wearing a bell-ringer's badge.

F.M.: Yes. Are you a ringer too?

Barber: No, not now. Where do you ring?

F.M.: At Burghill Church.

Barber: What 'peals' do you ring there?

F.M.: Usually Stedman and Grandsire on Sundays.

Barber: Do you ring Treble Bob? It is a very pretty peal.

F.M.: Do you mean Kent Treble Bob?

Barber: No, Southwark Treble Bob.

F.M.: Afraid I'm not familiar with that method.

Barber: Southwark Treble Bob is very popular in the south and is rung quite frequently there. It is a very pretty peal.

The writer could find no reference to Southwark Treble Bob in any of his books on bell-ringing other than 'Snowdon's,' and wondered if this method is considered pretty musically and whether it is popular with ringers in the South of England.—Yours truly,

F. MORRIS.

Burghill, Herefordshire.

P.S.—Snowdon writes: 'The method (Southwark) . . . bases itself on London Surprise'; and in the latest edition of 'Standard Methods' we read that the music London Surprise (Major) produces is poor.—F. M.

JUST OVER THE BOUNDARY

Dear Sir.—May I apologise to the Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild for ringing in a peal at Staines, Middlesex, for another territorial Association on February 14th.

Someone asked for which Association the peal was to be rung before we began, and I understood that it was to be a Middlesex peal. I should certainly not have started for it had I thought otherwise.

The custom, which has grown up in the Exercise, of regarding such peals as a slight on the Association in whose territory they are rung, is not a good one, but no one can deny that it exists.

Perhaps it would embarrass the other members of the band to have to deny openly or admit that this is an insult, so I will not ask them to do so, but as I have no quarrel with the Middlesex Association myself, I felt bound to state my own position and retreat as gracefully as possible from any battle which may be ensuing.—Yours faithfully,

M. P. MORETON.

SPLICED CAMBRIDGE AND SUPERLATIVE

Dear Sir.—In reply to the two questions addressed to me by Mr. Rogers in his letter to the 'R.W.', March 6th, I should like to give the following information: (1) The number of changes which repeated in his peal of Cambridge and Superlative was 51; (2) I don't know, but none to my knowledge.—Yours sincerely,

W. ERIC CRITCHLEY.

HINCKLEY DISTRICT ANNUAL DINNER

A DEPRESSING little industrial township of South Leicestershire, is how the guide books describe the ancient parish of St. Mary's, Hinckley; but there was certainly nothing very depressing about the weather on February 28th, when some 120 ringers and friends gathered for the 12th annual dinner of the Hinckley District of the Leicester Diocesan Guild, which was being held there for the first time.

The Parish Hall was beautifully prepared and decorated by the local ringers and an excellent meal was served. Those present included the Vicar of Hinckley (Rev. Mr. Platt) and Mrs. Platt, the Rural Dean (Rev. E. L. Fisher) and the two vice-presidents of the Guild, Mr. E. C. Turner and Mr. P. J. Staniforth.

The District chairman (Mr. Frank Measures) reviewed the past year's activities in the District with satisfaction. He spoke of the recent survey of ringing and ringers, which had been taken throughout the diocese, remarking that the Hinckley District, with its 26 towers and over 200 active ringers, was the equal of any in the Guild.

The Vicar, in welcoming the ringers to Hinckley, spoke of the revival of interest in ringing which had taken place at his own tower in recent years, and of the excellent support he received from his own band, both in the tower and in many other forms of Church work. He had, he said, realised the value of having so many pretty girls among his ringers; they made recruitment a lot less difficult and appeared to attract from local towers a great deal of useful talent, particularly of the male variety, on practice nights. He likened the relationship of ringers and clergy to that of the nuptial state, saying that while they did not always see eye to eye, they did as a rule get on quite well together.

The two vice-presidents both spoke of the warm welcome that they and their wives always received from the District. Mr. Turner recalled the very first dinner 12 years previous, when two halls had been hired to get around the rationing restrictions then in force.

Concluding, Mr. Measures, on behalf of the company, thanked Mr. Ballard and the local ringers for the excellent arrangements they had made.

A band had been engaged for the social evening, and dancing was arranged to suit all tastes, from the old tyme military two-steps to some remarkable variations of the modern cha cha. A competition to find the District Belle Queen was keenly contested, and Miss Anne M. Deacon, of Cadeby, was chosen the winner.

Mr. Gordon Bailey, of Burbage, assisted by his daughter, entertained with their whistling act, and despite the lateness of the hour, a well-struck course of Stedman Caters was rendered on handbells by Mrs. P. J. Staniforth 1-2, J. Vernon 3-4, P. J. Staniforth 5-6, A. Ballard 7-8 and M. Vernon 9-10.

With the release of large numbers of streamers and balloons towards midnight the proceedings developed into a minor carnival, concluding what was once again a most enjoyable occasion. M. V.

ROTHERHAM PARISH CHURCH

An appeal for £7,500 to complete the repairs to the stonework of Rotherham Parish Church—mainly the tower—has been launched. Already £5,000 has been spent on the south face of the tower during 1958. So far there has been no interference with ringing.

The clock has been overhauled and partially electrified by Messrs. Wm. Potts and Sons, of Leeds. The four huge cast-iron faces are also being reconstructed.

CUDDESDON THEOLOGICAL COLLEGE

Since the 1930's the Principals of Cuddesdon have encouraged their students to take an active interest in ringing, with the result that there are at the present time a number of clergy who, if they do no active ringing, at least have some knowledge of the rudiments of change-ringing and of belfry care and maintenance. There are other past students of the College who are taking an active part in the ringing in their own parishes and Diocesan Associations.

In the immediate post-war years, when the majority of students had seen war service, there was a keen and enthusiastic band who received great encouragement from the present Bishop of Lincoln (at that time Principal of Cuddesdon) and from the Chaplain (now the Principal). That band, among whom was the present president of the Bath and Wells Association, succeeded in ringing a quarter peal with the help of an outside conductor before they left, although most of them had no previous knowledge of ringing before they entered Cuddesdon. During the ensuing years the standard reached varied with each succeeding year and with the amount of time which the students were able to devote to ringing.

At the present time there are 55 students in the College. Of these, 29 can handle a bell, 24 can ring rounds and 7 can plain hunt, while 5 are ringing Bob Doubles. At the beginning of August, 1958, only one of the band had any knowledge of change-ringing, although three or four had some idea of what 'plain hunting' meant. It speaks well for the band that with very little outside help and encouragement they have progressed so far during the past six months that one has learned to conduct touches and that they can now ring 120's without any help from outside.

In addition to the weekly practices, several Saturday outings have been arranged, and at these help has been given by the 'rabble from over the river.'

Two members of the band are also actively engaged in acting as technicians for a teaching filmstrip for use both in the College and by the producer. This filmstrip is aimed at showing correct handling of a bell and for demonstrating the care and maintenance of bells, methods of soundproofing, etc. A. S. D. G.

HERTS COUNTY ASSOCIATION Northern District

Attendance at the meeting at Norton on March 7th was poor—the weather was discouraging—but the ringing was quite good. Bristol Surprise being rung, as well as the more common methods.

The Rev. G. G. S. Kenyon conducted the service; tea, arranged by Mrs. H. Werrett and her friend, was enjoyed in the School. A report of the general committee meeting was given afterwards.

The Misses C. Wills and R. George (Norton) and Miss M. Preece (Hitchin), also Mr. J. Leeming (Stevenage), were elected. There were three who were re-elected—Messrs. S. Lake and L. Blackburn (Pirton) and A. Parish (Royston).

There was some discussion about arrangements for the place of the next District meeting. The secretary announced also that a coach had been booked for April 4th—the annual meeting. J. S.

SULGRAVE, NORTHANTS.—On Feb. 25th, 1,296 Spliced Surprise Minor (720 London and Wells and 576 Cambridge and Beverley): G. Shellard 1, J. Linnell 2, W. J. Chester 3, M. Saunders 4, E. Lines 5, W. A. Yates (cond.) 6. First quarter of Spliced Surprise Minor by all the band.

AN OUTING IN NORTH-WEST ESSEX

Perfect weather favoured a party of about 20 ringers who invaded N.W. Essex for a day's ringing on February 28th. Nearly everyone arrived late at Newport, the first tower, but all had time for a short touch on the noisy, odd-struck six. Two more sixes followed—Arkesden, obviously seldom rung, and Clavering, with its unusual enclosed ladder to the belfry. Manuden's bells are rather unmusical, having a sharp tenor; however, it is not so noticeable when rung in changes. Our first eight was Stansed Mountfichet: this is an anti-clockwise, uninspiring ring, but various methods were successfully rendered. Great Easton bells made a very pleasant change after the previous poor rings.

Having partaken of lunch, we had the pleasure of a pull on the grand Dunmow eight, where Mr. Walter Smith met us: a rather erratic course of Bristol here. In complete contrast was the light Warner six at Ford End; although they go well, the tone is poor, but our striking was passable. The Vicar was waiting to meet us at Felsted, where the bells hang in a fine Norman tower; our ringing was of a very low standard, possibly due to the trickiness of the front three. Some of the best ringing of the day was enjoyed on the recently rehung six at Stebbing, and included courses of York and Chester Surprise. The eight at Great Bardfield can be best described as a pleasant six with two shrill trebles: still, it was a new tower for most of the party. Finchingfield is probably most well known for being a very picturesque village, but it also has a fair Gillett eight. One more visit before tea, to Wethersfield: unfortunately, these bells cannot be heard very well, and the striking tended to suffer in consequence.

Suitably replenished, we had a short pull on the live at Shalford, where there are hopes of adding a sixth bell in the not-too-distant future.

Our last eight was Bocking, where we were met by Mrs. Moore: a course of London was brought round on this rambling old ring. Rayne bells are seldom rung, but are nevertheless in fairly good order. The outing ended with two 5-bell towers: first, Black Notley, notable for the fine timberwork and a good, light Warner ring (Mr. Pratt welcomed us here); and finally, the round tower at Great Leighs, housing an anti-clockwise Miles Graye ring, which does not go too well—or perhaps we were just tired.

So ended another enjoyable outing, made particularly successful by the fine weather, but also by the welcome of the various captains and incumbents to whom we extend our grateful thanks. I. H. O.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD North Dorset Branch

Thirty-one ringers were present at the quarterly meeting of the North Dorset Branch, held at Compton Abbas on March 7th.

Ringing started at 3 p.m., and at the Guild service the Rector of Compton Abbas (Rev. R. G. Chaffey Moore), who is also chairman of the Branch, gave the address, the vice-chairman (Rev. R. A. Wells) read the lesson, the service was conducted by the Rev. R. N. Longridge (hon. secretary), with Mr. Geoffrey Spencer playing the organ.

After tea, provided by the ladies of Compton Abbas, and before proceeding to business, the Branch was regaled with tunes on handbells rung by the Rector's young band of handbell ringers.

At the business meeting, eight new members were elected, including three life ringing members from a neighbouring diocese. The chairman also welcomed Fontmell Magna tower back into the Guild.

Ringing continued afterwards, the towers of Fontmell Magna and Melbury Abbas also being available.

OBITUARY

MR. G. N. PRICE

To the present generation of ringers, the passing of George Newton Price conveys very little. The last surviving son of the Rev. Newton Price, first Vicar of Oxhey, G.N.P. was well over 80 years of age.

He first learnt to ring a bell at St. Matthew's, Oxhey, and was educated in the rudiments of change-ringing by the late Mr. Edward P. Debenham, of St. Albans. The fascination of figures, especially compositions of peals of quality, was with him something of an obsession. As a conductor he was unique, and many may equal but none surpass his masterly precision and correctness when calling a peal. The scope, however, to apply his talents was very limited, until with patience he trained a young band at Oxhey, in the tower of which are peal boards recording local peals of London, Bristol, Cambridge and Superlative, which in 1907 were considered quite outstanding events. Most of his peals were rung for the Hertfordshire Association and the Ancient Society of College Youths. The latter Society he had great love for, and he inculcated in his young band a kind of reverence for this ancient Society.

It was, however, with the older members of the A.S.C.Y. that his most noteworthy peals were rung, including several silent peals on handbells. In addition to the local tower bell peals mentioned above, he trained a few youngsters to ring handbells, and many peals of Holt's Original, Stedman Triples, Caters, Cinques, Double Norwich, and several of Superlative Surprise were rung. He called Carter's Odd-bob One-part of Stedman Triples from each pair of handbells.

In 1905 he took part in three peals of London in one day in three different counties—at that time it was a record. Cycling on the Sunday evening to Old Windsor, staying the night at the Bells of Ousley, a peal was rung early Monday morning at Old Windsor, Berks, the cycles were ferried over the river to Wraybury, Bucks, and then cycled to Islesworth, Middlesex, after which he cycled home to Oxhey.

In 1907 he called the first peal of London Surprise Royal at Stepney.

In 1912, on April 8th, he conducted the 12,160 Bristol Surprise at Knebworth. No doubt in his peal book are many more treasures—most of the peals mentioned above are from my own peal book.

As a man, unless you knew him well, you would say he was dogmatic and assertive; but the more you got in contact with him the better you understood him. It is true he had those characteristics but, strange to say, his youngsters all benefited from it, inasmuch no matter how good the ringing was he was never satisfied, nor were they. At the same time he had a most engaging smile and which, after a peal, expressed much more than words.

He quietly had a sense of humour. For example, the one occasion he took several of his youngsters to their first College Youths' dinner at the Bridge House Hotel (in those days there were no buses or motor cars on the street). When the dinner was over he called a hansom cab to drive them to Euston Station, and on the way said he would have some fun when he got there. His fun, however, was to offer the cabby 6d. for the fare. As quick as lightning the cabby jumped down, and a short and sharp argument took place. The cabby called the police, who quietly ordered G.N.P. to pay up. The cabby then drove off with a howl of 'Billingsgate.'

A somewhat different side of his character was shown after losing a peal of London in the last lead at Denham, Bucks, a lumpy ring, rung on the ground floor; and in those days, to ring them in rounds meant pull and hold all the time. He was never nearer to an apoplectic fit than then. He never did forget that peal attempt.

In 1883, the writer of these few inadequate lines was baptised by George's father in St. Matthew's Church, Oxhey, so can claim a close connection with a fine old English family all his life. The passing of George Newton Price is a loss to the Exercise. In his day he added lustre to our art, and is a reminder to us all of our transitory life.

H. HODGETTS.

MRS. JAMES FERNLEY

The sudden death of Mrs. James Fernley on Sunday, March 8th, after less than a week's illness and so soon after the death of her husband, was most unexpected. Like her husband, she was both a ringer at the Church of St. Thomas, Norbury, Cheshire, and a member of the Norbury handbell band, and her presence will be missed very much.

On the occasion of the funeral on November 11th, a well-filled church demonstrated in no small way the high esteem the parish had for her. As the cortege approached the church the whole pull and stand was rung with the bells half-muffled.

At the service, which was fully choral, the Vicar (Rev. E. Taylor), in a brief address, expressed sympathy with her daughter, Carol.

At the graveside a plain course of Grandsire Triples was rung 'in hand' by B. Harris 1-2, A. Potts 3-4, John Worth 5-6, P. Laffin 7-8. Amongst the ringers present were the local company, headed by Basil Jones, Brian Harris, Mr. and Mrs. L. Boumphrey, John P. Fidler, John Worth, Alan Potts, Barry Corbishley, Mr. and Mrs. C. Lawton, Peter Laffin, Robert Smith, Bernard Groves and others.

MRS. M. H. SHURCLIFF

One of the very few women members of the Ancient Society of College Youths, Mrs. Margaret H. Shurcliff, widow of Mr. Arthur A. Shurcliff, died on February 28th at her home, 66, Mount Vernon Street, Boston, U.S.A. She was in her 80th year.

The daughter of the late Dr. Arthur H. Nichols, of Boston, who was interested in English change-ringing, she developed a keen interest in the art.

She came over to this country for the first time in 1902 with her father, and met the College Youths. Her first peal was on handbells at the residence of Challis Winney, the band being Herbert P. Harman, George N. Price, Challis F. Winney and Margaret Nichols. Later in the day she rang 7-8 to a peal of Stedman. A little later she rang her first tower bell peal at St. George's, Southwark (Stedman Triples).

She later became interested in tune ringing on handbells and formed the Beacon Hill Ringers' Guild. To the people of Boston her band of handbell ringers became one of the traditional sights in Boston on Christmas Eve.

Years later she and a few others formed the American Guild of English Handbell Ringers and became its first president, an office she held until last year.

She was a great personality and an all-round talented woman. In her younger days she won the New England women's singles tennis championship for two years. She was a first-class carpenter and joiner and also a good blacksmith. She and her husband, with their own hands, built their summer home at Ipswich, Mass., and made all the furniture. She will be greatly missed in and around Boston.

It is interesting to recall that the current peal record book of the College Youths was the gift of her father, who also gave the pair of brass candlesticks used at every annual dinner, and which were used by the Duke of Wellington throughout his Peninsular campaign.

MR. HARRY NUTT AN APPRECIATION

I should like to support all A.F. said about this gallant ringer, and to pay my humble tribute to his memory.

Dogged by ill health practically all his life, he nevertheless held his own with many younger, healthier ringers by sheer determination and grit. Although he belonged to Friezland, a 6-bell tower, he often came over to Lancashire meetings, where he enjoyed himself on higher numbers and made many friends. He was fortunate in having a wife who understood him and his craving for ringing, and often accompanied him.

One peal with him I always remember. I was asked to call Stedman Triples at Almondbury, Yorks, in 1945. I asked Harry to cover and he accepted. Previously I was warned to take a good band because the locals were very keen on striking. All went well till the last quarter, when I saw Harry stagger back: I just called his name and he recovered instantly to finish the peal. When we got outside the locals congratulated us on a grand peal. None of us knew until then that Harry had been off work all the week. I could quote other incidents of his courage, but let this suffice.

I and his other friends will miss him very much in this district. May he rest in peace.
I. KAY.

MR. E. J. THOMAS AN APPRECIATION

It was with great regret and deep sympathy that I read of the passing of Mr. Ed. J. Thomas, of St. Peter's, Carmarthen. As a young soldier, I first met him having travelled down into Wales from Manchester on April day in 1945. Arriving in Carmarthen, I found that I had some time to wait for my next train to Llanybydder—a word which I could not pronounce properly.

I was tempted to pass my time away in the Elephant and Castle, under the shadow of St. Peter's Church, where Mr. Thomas was mine host. Whilst I partook of my black and tan I asked him if there were any bells at the church, to which he replied that there was a ring of eight with a tenor, and if I was a ringer I would be most welcome on the Tuesday evening practices.

The following Tuesday I met that other old stalwart, James Curtis, who was captain at that time. I became a great friend of the Curtis family and still am. V.E. day came and we honoured it by evening ringing and a great service in the church. Those were happy days for me, and I shall never forget Ed. J. Thomas and Jim Curtis. Alas, they are no longer with us, Mr. Curtis having passed to higher life about 1946. May the souls of the faithful through the mercy of God rest in peace.

J. THORNLEY.

MR. BERNARD MOODY

Mr. Bernard Moody, who passed away on March 1st, aged 70, was a loyal and faithful ringer at St. Giles' Church, Pontefract. He became a member of the Yorkshire Association in 1905, and had rung 37 peals. His early ringing was at All Saints' Church, but in the 1930's he joined the St. Giles' company, where his father had been a ringer.

Bernard Moody was a very quiet, reliable ringer, and Sunday by Sunday he was always in the belfry, and prompt: his last occasion was a month ago.

On the evening of March 5th the bells of St. Giles' were rung half-muffled. Prior to the ringing the ringers stood in silence, and the Vicar of Pontefract (Canon R. G. Clarke) offered prayers to his memory.

SHEFFIELD AND DISTRICT SOCIETY

Annual Meeting

As is usual, the annual meeting of the above Society at Ranmoor, Sheffield, was attended by upwards of 50 ringers, and the handy ring of ten bells was put to good use to the usual range from rounds to Surprise Royal. A well-known Oxford Guild visiting ringer expressed surprise at the predominance of youth and pleasure at the enthusiasm that obviously prevailed in the District.

In his report on a satisfactory year's working, the secretary asked members to be more conscientious in sending their names in for tea. It was agreed to allow towers who so desired to pay 'block' subscriptions (6-bell towers 9s., 8-bell towers 12s., 10-bell towers 15s.) to cover an unlimited number of members.

The formation of the Sheffield University Guild was welcomed, and special provisions for its members to join the Sheffield and District Society and to enter for the silver cup competition were agreed upon.

Regrets were expressed that Mr. Thomas Lee, who for 50 years so artistically maintained the peal book had, since 1954, been unable to continue this work. Members were asked to inquire and to convey to the president the name of anyone who might be suitable and willing to take on this task.

The fixture list for the years 1959/60 and 1960/61 were announced, and it was decided, when possible, to have an additional tower available during the afternoon to give more opportunity for everyone to have a good ring.

The meeting stood in silence for a few moments in respect of Mr. Walter Allwood, an old respected member, who died on February 26th. The officers of the Association were re-elected, except that Mr. Leonard Goodall was appointed assistant secretary. The next meeting will be held at Ecclesfield on April 4th.

By way of a postscript to the meeting, Mr. and Mrs. H. Kelly, of Handsworth, entertained some of the Society's officers in their home. Yarns were exchanged, last year's cup contest rejugged, and Jumbo's handbells, which only their owner can match in girth, were made good use of to Cambridge Minor, Grandsire Doubles, Kegmeg and Scalded Witch. S.C.

APPLETON RINGING DAY

'The Fourth of March this year,' announced the latecomer as he stepped into the tower, 'will be on the 7th.' 'Good,' said everyone, and made notes in their diaries. 'Appleton Ringing Day,' they said to a puzzled visitor, and went on to tell him how the first ring of six bells was dedicated on March 4th, 1818, how much the ringers then enjoyed themselves, and that they have continued to do so every year since.

This year was no exception, with the usual mixture of good ringing, good humour and ample refreshment. The peal in the morning came to grief. Ask not how in this village of bell-hangers, but look carefully to see who is having his leg pulled!

There was some very good ringing in the afternoon, and that precision of striking that stops idle chatter among the listeners. Tea over, and the bells finally lowered, the company gathered in ever increasing numbers (until the tavern was packed solid) to hear all the traditional Fourth of March songs and to listen to the Appleton handbell ringers. One by one the familiar items are rendered, interspersed with talk about ringing and ringers of the past and present, and with hopes for the future. For on the Fourth of March Day all that is good in our art comes out in surroundings of generous hospitality and friendship to all. Once one has enjoyed all this, one looks forward to the next year when, God willing, we will again drink with gratitude to the health of 'The Appleton Ringers, the Whites and the non-Whites.'

THE RELEVANCE OF EASTER

By the REV. CANON C. CAREW COX

EASTER is not a word for an idea. It is the word for the Spirit-impelled expression of Life. As an idea it is accepted, and welcomed, for the opportunity to enjoy a brief holiday; and a multitude of people, among them even some professing Christians, will be content with that superficial conception of it. But as the expression of Life it takes us back to the Garden of the Resurrection of Jesus Christ and throws an unearthly light on the path of men from that moment, which path is such a see-saw mixture of joys and sorrows, of hope and fear, of care and recklessness, of toil and rest.

For life interpreted by Easter means so much more than just living out one's allotted days on a circumscribed planet, surrounded all the time with spectacles of mortality. Mortal we are, but Easter is Easter because it proclaims the fact that 'mortality is swallowed up of life.' As from the Easter Dawn shines the lovely truth of the words once spoken to a woman mourning for the dead, and not only to her but to all those who have ever looked down speechlessly into a grave—'I AM the Resurrection and the Life.' Music indeed to stir the human heart!

'All, all that we ever loved, though it sleep in the silence,
At the touch of the Master shall wake and be music again.'
And though 'Memento Mori' remains true, it is met today with the Christian challenge 'Memento Vivere,' founded upon the proclamation

'Jesus lives! Thy terrors now
Can, O Death, no more appal us;
Jesus lives! By this we know
Thou, O Grave, canst not enthrall us.'

Yes. While Death inevitably must come to all, it is now the Gate to Life. That is the revelation of the Christian religion by the power and Love of God Incarnate. The stone before the tomb is rolled back by no human hand, never to be replaced. The voice of Him Who lives and has the keys of Hell and of Death speaks to the Church in time until time shall be no more: 'I have set before thee an open door and NO MAN can shut it.'

Consider then the abolition of controversy as a characteristic of the Resurrection life, visible in the movements of created Nature, which are so often unthinkingly accepted by many. But the trees, for example, break into foliage unhindered by controversy. No human arguments will make any difference to the wonderful expression of the Spring. St. Paul's words can have a place here—'Without controversy great is the mystery of Godliness.' For their are no controversies at the entrance to the Empty Tomb, because life itself is no subject for controversy.

How much more then ought this characteristic of the true life to be seen in the movements of man! Man, who, as it would seem, intoxicated with scientific knowledge, is endeavouring even to overcome the law of gravity!—a possibility which is unthinkable except in the spiritual sphere, where the Risen Christ becomes the Ascended Christ. So the prophecy 'I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto me' has the Easter quality. Hence, the Church on earth which exists as the spiritual medium between God and man has an undying function, not to convert the material into the spiritual, but to resurrect the spiritual in man out of the tomb where the tendency is to bury it and seal it down.

Let this be applied to the belfry and all ringers. Easter is to be the expression of life in the belfries; where movements are not mechanical, but the effect of human wills and emotions; the effect of personalities—however differing—uniting to share in the perfecting of an art and science which turns the bells into resounding handmaids of the triumphant Gospel.

So the belfry is to be no sort of tomb where anything can corrupt, enthusiasm decay, or controversies disintegrate fellowship. It is the little world, for the time being, in which ringers live and associate to serve; to give of their best. Where difficulties are only difficulties that are to be overcome; where the experience of failure can be turned into the joy of success; where any feelings of despair can be transmuted into confidence and new effort; where the individual becomes absorbed into the team—the few, maybe, as were the first apostles of the Resurrection—but the nucleus of a persevering, painstaking witness to the whole Exercise of the truth that as the bells are uplifted in the steeple with tongues to speak, so the Risen Christ is uplifting the minds and hearts of the men and women who move those tongues to proclaim Sunday by Sunday the Easter Anthem of the unconquerable Church.

FIRST PEAL PERFORMANCES

By F. T. BLAGROVE

The following amendments have been noted since the publication of the previous part.

Foreman's Course Triples.—5,040 at Greenwich, on February 21st, 1861, by the Greenwich Society. Method not known. (See page 767, 1958.)

Sowerby Exercise Major.—Should be credited to the A.S.C.Y. (Bradford Branch) not the Yorkshire Association. It was rung by 'eight members of the A.S.C.Y., London, also of the Yorkshire Association, from St. John's, Bradford.'

The following regular Caters methods have been rung to peals.

Canterbury Pleasure Maximus.—5,016 at Canterbury on May 24th, 1930, by the Kent County Association.

A few methods have been rung to peals on handbells, and not yet on tower bells, viz.: Single Norwich Court Royal (lapping), Spliced Twelve Plain and Little Plain Maximus, Plain Bob Fourteen and Kent T.B. Fourteen.

To the best of my knowledge, the schedule beginning on page 699, 1958, and continued on pages 767, 67 and the above, contains all those methods rung to peals, Triples and above, with the exception of regular Plain Major and Surprise methods.

If anyone knows of other methods or earlier performances than those listed above, will they please send details to me, in order that the schedule may be concluded, with the regular Plain Major and early performances in Surprise methods.

[To be concluded.]

The bells of St. Ambrose's Church, Bristol, will be heard in the West and North Home Services on Low Sunday, April 5th, prior to the Family Communion Service at 9.45 a.m. Mr. Reginald Hooper is captain of the ringers in this tower. The same day and at the same time will be heard the bells of St. Margaret's, Westminster, on the Home Service. The London veteran, Mr. W. H. Hewitt, is head ringer here.

The footnote to the peal at Twynning, Glos (see page 169) should read 'Rung as a 21st birthday compliment to Mr. Martyn Hawkes,' and not as submitted. Martyn's brother rang the second and his father the third.

Stratton ringers are still progressing, and for Sunday services now ring three methods—Grandsire Triples, Stedman Triples and Bob Major—thanks to an encouraging captain, the ever-popular Charles Sangwin.

Mr. A. G. Clark, of Tadworth, adds to the list of gramophone records 'Victory Day, 1945' (H.M.V. B 9417), which covers five towers and includes some well-struck Triples from Westminster Abbey.

Mr. P. D. T. Cattermole, of Droitwich, who recently climbed Wychbold (Worcs) tower to tighten the bearing bolts, informs us that all the bells are dated 1889. The footnote to the peal rung there on October 19th last is therefore incorrect.

Hackington Imperial Bob Major (C.C.C. Plain Major, No. 239) has been rung to a peal for the first time in the Loughborough Bell Foundry Campanile. The name is appropriate as Hackington is a suburb of Canterbury, which has the only octave in the city. The method is Double Bob with Canterbury places in 5-6 when the treble is at the back.

BELFRY GOSSIP

It is hoped to create ringing history on April 4th when, for the first time ever, a complete band, organised by Mr. Robin G. Leale, are flying to the Channel Islands to attempt peals at St. Anne's, Alderney, and St. Michael-du-Valle's, Guernsey. The other five are Messrs. A. P. Cannon, W. Deason, P. Mehew, E. J. Munday and J. D. Rock.

Charlton Kings ringers are proud of their pupil, 'Penny' Tyler, whose first quarter was rung faultlessly and is reported in this issue. 'Penny' had her first ringing lesson last October.

The 'Readers Digest' for April has a well-written article, 'The Joyous Ringing of Bells,' by Anne Decreson and Barbara Wace, in which there are many quotes from Mr. A. A. Hughes on ringing in general and bell-founding.

The composition by Miss Stella Hughes, of Walsall, which we give on our back page this week, has the merit of being the first we have published from a woman composer. Have the Ladies' Guild records of other women composers?

The Guild of Clerical Ringers are touring Kent for their week, which starts on April 4th with headquarters at Ye Olde Bull Hotel, Sittingbourne. The party will consist of the Revs. J. H. B. Andrews (Chittlehampton), E. G. Benson (Presteigne), A. C. Blyth (Cambridge), N. F. D. Coleridge (Tatworth), Canon C. C. Cox (Whitechurch Canonicorum), Preb. E. V. Cox (Axminster), S. E. Evans (non-resident, Rams-gate), J. B. T. Homfray (Cheltenham), C. J. B. Marshall (Leatherhead), P. T. Robbins (non-resident, Prestwich), G. Ruming (Prestbury), F. A. Sanders (Overton), R. D. St. J. Smith (Astley Bridge), W. H. R. Trehwella (Crantock), H. F. Warren (Exford), E. B. Wood (Leatherhead).

(4) Depart Southport 9.30 a.m. for Blackburn Cathedral; depart 12 noon via Wiltshire, Langho, Whalley to Downham for lunch; depart 2 p.m. for Haslingden; light refreshments at Duckworth Hall, returning direct to Southport at 5 p.m. Approx. cost 17s. 6d.

It is hoped to arrange ringing at local towers on all four tours. Applications for (1) and (3) tours to Mr. N. M. Newby, 45, Oakwood Drive, Ulverston, and for (2) and (4) to Mr. C. W. Blakey, 133, Ormerod Street, Accrington.

A dinner has been arranged for Central Council delegates and Lancashire Association officials, 7 for 7.30 p.m., to which each representative is invited to bring one guest along.

TUESDAY, MAY 19TH

An invitation has been extended to delegates by the Southport Publicity Committee for afternoon tea at 5 p.m.

The Lancashire Association invites all members and friends to a Social (dance and running buffet) in the Palace Hotel Ballroom at 8.30 p.m.

RINGING

Peals and general ringing arrangements for the three branches adjacent to Southport are in the hands of the following, to whom application should be made direct:—

Liverpool.—Miss G. I. Howlett, 10, Green Lane, Seaford, Liverpool, 21, Lancs.
Preston.—Mr. L. Walmsley, c/o Leyland Motors Ltd., Leyland, Lancs.
Wigan.—Miss M. E. Ridyard, 16, Vaughan Road, Birkdale, Southport, Lancs.

Ringling outside the above area is in the hands of the Branch secretaries concerned, i.e.:

Blackburn.—Mr. C. W. Blakey, 133, Ormerod Street, Accrington, Lancs.

Bolton.—Mr. J. Thornley, 50, Carlton Street, Farnworth, Lancs.

Rossendale.—Mr. J. Porter, Chesham Green Cottages, Chesham, Bury, Lancs.

Application should again be made to the above, direct.

E. A. BARNETT, Hon. Secretary.

SHARESHILL RINGERS DISBANDED

The Rev. E. R. Roe, Vicar of Shreshill, Staffs., has disbanded his ringers, states the 'Wolverhampton Express and Star.' He has taken this action because the ringers, who are all, with one exception, teenagers, do not combine ringing with church worship. There had been no unpleasantness, but for some months he had felt that the position was unsatisfactory.

Last year he had told them of his views, and had given them time in which to decide whether or not they were going to take a more active part in church life. The time was now up and there had been no improvement.

'I feel it is wrong for worshippers to see that the people who have called them to church are not staying for the service. I have no complaints about their abilities as ringers. Indeed, they are probably better than most teams of their age.'

Mr. Roe said that he would be pleased if the head ringer, Mr. H. Butler, about whom he had no complaints, decided to form a new team. In the meantime, Mr. Butler is carrying on by himself.

Ten Bells For Carbis Bay In Completed Tower

WHEN, in 1927, the late Archdeacon Hockley laid the foundation stone of the yet unfinished Church of St. Anta and All Saints, Carbis Bay, he referred to the adventure being part of a romantic story. A wooden mission church was then used for worship, but the local committee had rather daringly accepted a plan for a building which would still need for its completion four bays of the nave and the top stage of the tower with battlements and pinnacles. The tower was planned for the south-east corner, over the Lady Chapel sanctuary, and when the plans were submitted to the then Bishop of Truro (Dr. W. H. Freere), he queried the wisdom of spending money on what was to be a part of the tower carried up to a few feet beyond the level for the bells, with a temporary roof. The minute book shows how adamant the building committee was in its decision, although there was no suggestion for bells. The one ting-tang from the mission church was hung to a roof beam.

The Rev. A. S. Roberts was appointed priest-in-charge of the Conventual District in 1940. In 1946 a ring of eight (tenor 9½ cwt.) was installed, on which 26 peals have been rung. Sunday ringing is, of course, regular. In the summer many visitors pay a visit to the tower.

In May, 1957, a gift of £500 was made towards the completion of the tower. The challenge was accepted and the fund built up, but as the church is built of Cornish granite the same plan had to be followed, and it was realised how great the cost would be. At first it seemed to be a stumbling block, but nevertheless the effort continued. A few months ago the four pinnacles on the tower of Pendeen Church, near Land's End, had to be taken down and could not be replaced. These were generously given by the Vicar and Church Council to Carbis Bay. Each pinnacle weighs about 15 cwt. A Penzance firm of coal importers generously performed the major operation of transporting these the 15 miles to their new home. The problem of the high cost of dressed granite was still a real one until there came the wonderful gift of a large disused mine building on a farm at Trencrom, two miles from Carbis Bay Church. This was owned by Mr. J. Lionel Rogers, of Penrose, Helston, a leading layman in the diocese, who gave one of the bells at Wendron when the ring was restored in 1937. He readily consented that the building be demolished and the granite used for the church.

This has now been done, and some 250 cubic yards of large blocks are being transported to the church site. This is a quantity not only sufficient to complete the tower but to build the four bays of the nave also.

SOUND CONTROL

The Church Council has recently accepted a tender for the tower. Preparatory work has begun, and it is hoped that the dedication will be in the late summer. All the sound of the bells will escape through the tower roof. The present four sets of louvres are to be reused to form the lantern louvres, and the shutters behind them are to be reused in the lantern also. There are to be no openings in the tower walls. A white Cornish granite cross, six feet in height, will be built into the centre of the east wall, and the clock face raised to the centre of the south wall. It is considered that the experiment for the escape of sound will prove satisfactory as the greater part of the parish rises from the church, and with houses being built both opposite and behind the church the modification will be appreciated. It may well be that the experiment will prove a good example of what a bell tower should be, especially in residential areas. The planning has been most happily carried out, as the architect, Mr. K. E. Rundle, of Truro, was at school with the Vicar.

A further joy is that two trebles are to be added for dedication with the completed tower to make a ring of ten. The order has been placed with Messrs. J. Taylor and Co., who provided the present eight. The Church Council is happy to know that the only ten in Cornwall outside the Cathedral at Truro will be in the newest tower of the youngest parish in the diocese. Carbis Bay was created a parish in 1948.

With this work in hand it will mean some curtailment in ringing over the next few months, but due notice will be given in 'The Ringing World,' and it is hoped also to give good notice of the dedication so that those taking holiday in the far west may be able to include the occasion in their visit.

BURNHAM, BUCKS.—On Mar. 14th, 1320 Plain Bob Major: G. Cousins 1, M. Hatchett 2, Miss M. R. Jaycock 3, R. I. Shepherd 4, H. Orlesby 5, R. E. Dean 6, G. W. Debenham (cond.) 7, G. W. Limmer 8. A 72nd birthday compliment to Mr. George Gilbert.

A NEW DERBYSHIRE FIVE DEDICATED

The hilly, rather tumbledown region that lies between Burton-on-Trent and the rocky knolls of Charnwood Forest is sometimes called South Derbyshire or just Swadlincote. It is an odd countryside of clay pits, kilns, collieries and tips, shattered in places by mining subsidence, but it has several rings of bells: for example, the eights at Overseale and Netherseale, the sixes at Newhall and Lullington, and the derelict five at Hartshorne.

Church Gresley is one of the bigger centres of industrial population, but the 14th century embattled sandstone tower, standing at the north east corner of the Church of SS. George and Mary, had never held a ring, only three, possibly at one time four, old bells from the Nottingham Foundry. Even they had not been sounded for some years, as the timbers were riddled with death-watch beetle and the tower strained by subsidence: the church stands on a hill top almost surrounded by the great Gresley Colliery.

But at last, through the generosity of several local benefactors, the tower was restored, and Messrs. J. Taylor and Co. were commissioned to tune the three old bells and hang them in canon-retaining headstocks in a new steel frame. Two new bells were provided to complete a ring of five: one provided by the church and the treble by Mr. C. E. Robinson. Mr. H. Robinson enabled the tower, and Capt. Cyril Collingwood and Mrs. Frances Collingwood the bells, to be restored.

The long-awaited dedication day came on Sunday, February 15th, when the Lord Bishop of Derby, the Rt. Rev. A. J. Rawlinson, who is shortly to retire, paid what was probably his final visit to Gresley to perform the ceremonies during Matins. After the clergy and choir had processed to the tower, and the Bishop had sounded a bell and dedicated memorial plaques, the bells sounded out for the first time in rounds rung by D. P. Jones (ringing instructor) treble, D. Eames (13) 2, C. Heafield (13) 3, W. Woodward (Netherseale) 4 and J. W. Cotton (Overseale, secretary of the Midland Counties Guild) tenor.

After the service, visitors from Coventry, Lichfield, Burton and other parts of the Midlands had an hour's ringing on the new bells, which all agreed form a very pleasant-sounding and easily-handled ring. The ringers of the second and third at the dedication were two of a dozen or so local lads who have been trained at Overseale, and now ring good call-changes twice each Sunday without assistance. At the Wednesday practice, 7.15 to 8.30 p.m., they are learning the first steps in proper change-ringing: those named can already hunt the treble to Grandsire. In addition, they have put in much work to convert a gloomy and dirty ringing chamber into a bright, clean and well-appointed one.

DETAILS OF THE BELLS

Treble.—John Taylor and Co., founders, Loughborough, 1958. Given by C. E. Robinson in memory of his parents, Benjamin and Sarah. 3 cwt. 3 qr. 18 lb.

Second.—John Taylor and Co., founders, Loughborough, 1958. 'Thanks to God.' 4 cwt. 3 qr. 22 lb.

Third.—'God save our Church.' (Shield of Henry Oldfield, Nottingham, c. 1600.) 5 cwt. 2 qr. 18 lb.

Fourth.—'God save the Church.' 1639, 6 cwt. 1 qr. 19 lb. in A.

Tenor.—'I sweetly tolling men do call to taste on meats that feede the soule.' (Shield of George Oldfield, Nottingham, 1639.) 8 cwt. 3 lb. in G.

At Evensong on February 15th, the Vicar (Rev. K. Roy Upton) enrolled the young band, handing each ringer a membership card.

The following Saturday, February 21st, was the open day for visitors, and many came from as far away as Desborough to ring a large variety of Doubles methods, to partake in a short service conducted by the Vicar, and to enjoy a lavish tea provided by the Mothers' Union, organised by Mrs. Upton. Among those who sat down was the headmaster of the Secondary School, attended by most of the ringers. Ringing continued till 8 p.m.

Sunday ringing is at 10.30 a.m. and 6 p.m. Practice night is Wednesday at 7.15 p.m. Correspondence to the Rev. K. R. Upton, the Vicarage, Linton, Burton, or to D. P. Jones, c/o Castle Gresley Secondary School, Burton, Staffs. D. P. J.

MR. A. SMITH'S NOVEL 100

Mr. Alfred Smith, of Leeds, has an exceptional list for his first 100 peals. It reads:—

Maximus, Plain Bob 1, Cinques, Grandsire 1, Royal, Plain Bob 1, Yorkshire 6, Cambridge 5, Pudsey 1, Treble Bob 1, Caters, Stedman 1, Surprise Major, Yorkshire 14, Cambridge 16 (c. 2), Pudsey 2, Superlative 21 (1), London 3, Bristol 4, Chiltern 2, Painswick 2, Runnymede 1, Lincolnshire 2, Belgrave 1, Rochester 1, Four methods 3.

Major.—Double Norwich 3, Treble Bob 2, Plain Bob 4.

Treble to 7 spliced 1, and 5 spliced 1.

BARNSELEY & DISTRICT SOCIETY

Fourteen towers were represented at the monthly meeting at Wortley on March 14th. The afternoon's ringing was followed by cups of tea served in the School. The Vicar (Rev. T. V. Robinson) presided at the business meeting, and extended a hearty welcome to the Society. Members stood in silent tribute to the late Mr. Harry Nutt, of Friezland, a member for many years. Mr. Noel F. Moxon reminded the company of the many good services to the Society by the late Mr. Nutt, and expressed sympathy with his family and the Friezland ringers.

Two new members—Carl Hible and Peter Dixon, of Ecclesfield—were elected, and Wragby, near Wakefield, was selected for the meeting on April 11th. A comprehensive vote of thanks to all who made the meeting so successful was proposed by Mr. N. F. Moxon. Further ringing followed.

Gratefully Acknowledged

The Editorial Committee acknowledge with gratitude the following donations towards the cost of producing 'The Ringing World':—

Peals.—Cookham 4s., Rochester, Staffs 4s., Hartpury 1s. 6d.

Quarter Peals.—Clare 3s. 6d., Friezland 2s., Epping Upland 3s., South Petherton 2s., Clerkenwell 2s., Stratton 2s., Brampton 2s., Charlton Kings 4s., Wimbledon 2s. 6d., Streatham 2s., Barrow-in-Furness 4s., Aston Clinton 5s., Heston 3s. 6d., Breedon-on-the-Hill 2s. 6d.

THE LADIES' GUILD

South Wales District

The annual meeting of the South Wales District was held at St. Mellons on February 21st and was well attended. The service was conducted by the Vicar (Rev. Gower-Rees) and Mr. R. Addis read the lesson.

An excellent tea was served in the Church Hall by Mrs. Gower-Rees and her helpers. Mr. R. E. Coles most sincerely thanked these kind ladies on behalf of all present.

Welcomed at the business meeting was the District's oldest member—Mrs. Young, of St. Mellons—who has been ringing at Rumney and St. Mellons for more than 40 years. The secretary gave a favourable report for 1958. During the year ten new members had been elected and there was a paid-up membership of 48.

Miss Dorothy Atwell (All Saints', Newport) was elected vice-president. The secretary, Mrs. J. S. King, was re-elected. Committee members elected were Mrs. F. Bailey, Mrs. A. Whitworth, Miss Marion Davis and Miss Ann Scorrer. General committee: Mrs. R. E. Coles and Miss Dilys Hulbert. One new member—Miss Jennifer James (All Saints', Newport)—was elected.

Llantwit Major was proposed for the next meeting, with Whitchurch as an alternative.

Western District

The annual meeting of the Western District was held at SS. Philip and Jacob's, Bristol, on March 14th, and was well attended. After ringing in the afternoon a service was held, conducted by the Vicar (Rev. W. H. Frost).

Some 38 members and visitors were present at tea, which was followed by the business meeting. Two new members were elected—Miss Margaret Tate and Mrs. Elizabeth Bowden. The officers were elected as follows: Vice-president, Mrs. E. M. Parfrey; secretary, Miss B. Johnson; committee, Mrs. Bennett, Mrs. de Jong, Mrs. Massey and Miss Williams.

Members were asked to note the date of the annual outing—Saturday, September 12th.

Ringling afterwards included an all-ladies' touch of Grandsire Triples.

BATH AND WELLS DIOCESAN

Taunton Branch

About 40 ringers attended the quarterly meeting of the Taunton Branch, held at Rockwell Green on March 14th. The Vicar (Rev. L. Naylor) officiated at the Association form of service.

Tea was held in the Church Hall, followed by the business meeting, with the Vicar taking the chair, supported by Mr. A. F. Reed (secretary) and Mr. G. Coles (vice-chairman). Eleven towers were represented, together with visitors from Bridgwater, Cannington, Chipstable, Spanton and Portsmouth. Altogether 14 new members were elected. It was agreed to send a letter of appreciation to a former member of the Wellington band—Mr. F. W. Slocombe—for the services he had rendered the Branch.

The meeting stood in silence to the memory of Mr. J. Grant, of Taunton, who died shortly after the annual meeting held at Milverton in December.

A vote of thanks was passed to the Vicar and to Mr. F. Taylor, of Rockwell Green, who had made all the arrangements. G. W.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

CANON RIDOUT

Dear Sir,—The mention of Canon Ridout in the article 'Let Loose in Africa' recalls happy memories of some pleasant hours spent with him 24 years ago. From 1897 to 1899 he was curate of St. John's, Gainsborough (1), and during that time local records show he did much ringing in and around Gainsborough. It was, therefore, understandable that when Lea bells were to be rededicated in 1935, and the rector, his old friend, being on holiday in England, he should want to come. He wrote to Canon Forbes and was invited to spend a few days with him.

Now Canon Forbes was something of a character and 'ruled' Lea for 53 years. He was a likeable man, never varied his ways, and lived with his charming wife and daughter in a huge, old-fashioned rectory with 2 acres of garden immaculately kept without help.

The day he arrived a short note was sent to me saying would I go down to the Rectory that evening to meet a very famous ringer. This I did but rather nervously, my only attribution being enthusiasm. However, as the writer pointed out, we were on common ground there, and he talked and talked and simply fascinated me with his stories and explanations. After two hours I was politely told by Mrs. Forbes it was time for Canon Forbes to have his supper, but if we liked we could continue our talk the next evening. That night I eagerly looked forward to and thoroughly enjoyed. The following night was the dedication service. He read the lesson and took part in the ringing afterwards; and that was the last I saw of this fine gentleman, whose enthusiasm was certainly infectious. —Yours sincerely,

GEO. L. A. LUNN.

THATCHED CHURCHES AND TOWERS

Dear Sir,—While reading C. Messent's book on the Round Towers of England, I discovered that the Church of St. Lawrence, Ingworth, Norfolk, has a thatched portion of a round tower. The tower fell in the 1820's, and the base was rebuilt and given a conical thatched roof. The one bell hangs in a gable cote on the western gable.

There are many thatched churches in Eastern England. Hales, Heckingham, Acle (6) being good examples. Perhaps one of the loveliest of these is Holy Trinity, Barsham, Suffolk—a gem of architecture standing in a lovely wooded setting in the valley of the Waveney. The little round tower with spirelet is, in part, pre-Conquest, and considered by Julian Tennyson to be one of the most perfect round towers. It contains a very pretty ring of five (Mears, 1893, with a pre-Reformation 'Alphabet' bell as the fourth), with a 64 cwt. tenor in B flat. These lovely bells are now, alas, no longer allowed to be rung, and have only been rung to a peal twice (two methods in 1912 and three methods in 1956).—Yours faithfully,

PAUL CATTERMOLE.

Droitwich Spa, Wores.

MULTI-METHOD SPLICED EXTENTS

Dear Sir,—A peal of Spliced Minor on February 21st, rung at Fryerning, Essex, contained a 720 which was described as being in '14 methods, by C. K. Lewis.' This 720 was a rearrangement of a 720 of mine published a few weeks previous to Mr. Lewis's and was, in fact, thus described by him in the letter which accompanied, and was published with, his figures.

Although there is no doubt that the rearranged version is superior to the original, it would seem more logical to describe it as 'H. Chant, rearranged by C. K. Lewis.'

The whole subject of Spliced Minor ringing and particularly the theoretical aspect of arranging (or composing) is worthy of the closest study, and a thesis by some authority such as C. K. Lewis, under the auspices of the C.C., would make interesting reading. The development of some of the extents is quite fascinating—even exciting. Take, for instance, the one which now contains the greatest number of methods (26).

After starting life as an unassuming extent in a few plain methods it was gradually built up by Mr. C. K. Lewis over a number of years to a 720 containing 19 plain methods, who then by the original concept of combining Treble Bob with Plain reached a total of 22 methods. There it stood for a few years when, by the additional inclusion of Alliance and Little Methods, I managed to push it up to 23, and later to 24 and (by the inclusion of a bob lead) to 25.

C. K. Lewis then made an arrangement based on this to include 26 methods which, although I have not possession of his figures contains, I understand, the tenors coursing the 'wrong way' for a complete course. Working on a plan which owes much to a 720 by A. G. Driver, I made an arrangement in 26 with the tenors the 'right way' throughout.

In view of my expressed opinion on 6-5's, it should be clear that anyone who prefers my arrangement to Mr. Lewis's will incur my eternal displeasure but, in the event of it being rung and published, how should it be described? H. Chant's arrangement of C. K. Lewis's extension of H. Chant's extensions of C. K. Lewis's extent?

It is idle to pretend that my extensions would have been possible without the original 22 or (I like to think) Mr. Lewis's final arrangement without my own efforts. Quite frequently the addition of even a single method requires more thought (sometimes—if there be such a thing—original thought) than all the compiling that has gone into the extent before. Sometimes, indeed, quite a lot of hard work, much midnight oil and many sheets of foolscap (singularly appropriate!) are required to turn a bob lead into a plain one. So much we owe to the work of our predecessors that it is sometimes difficult to distinguish that which is original from that which is not, or to tell a transposition from an older extent.

It would, therefore, in many cases probably be better to describe a 720 with two names coupled together in the manner frequently adopted in musical composition: Corelli-Kreisler, Arne-Sargent, etc. In the case of a 720, the name of the person who had contributed most to the compiling of the composition could be followed by the name of the person who had made the final addition, transposition or arrangement.

Where the last person had merely made a rearrangement his name could be placed in brackets, thus: Driver (Lewis), etc. In fact this idea could be extended or adapted to other numbers of bells; e.g., Thurstans (Heywood), Middleton (Johnson), etc., and the procedure more or less standardised.

So far has Spliced Minor advanced that it is reasonable to expect that before long it may be possible to ring more methods in seven 720's than was rung in the present record of nine 720's. In order to achieve this it may be necessary to include extents which contain in certain cases methods with

(a) Bob leads only.

(b) 'Singled' leads only.

(c) 'Singles' in Treble Bob.

The Central Council has no ruling on these points and there are, no doubt, arguments for and against accepting them. Personally, although I am not happy on the subject, I am bound to admit that a method is only decided in the final two rows of the changeover from lead-end to lead-head, and that this must be the criterion in deciding whether a certain method has been rung or not. E.g., Reverse and Double Bob (Minor) are differentiated at the lead-end, lead-head by a 6th and 2nds place respectively, therefore if in the case of an arrangement which contains (say) plain leads of Double a 6ths place 'single' is made, are we entitled to call this lead 'Reverse'? (It certainly is not Double, which has a 2nds place 'single'.)

It would be interesting to find out other people's opinions and to get a ruling from the C.C. on these points.—Yours sincerely,

H. CHANT.

SWANSEA & BRECON GUILD

The Southern District's meeting at Gorseinon on March 7th attracted many visitors, two being from Leeds. The newly-formed University of Wales Guild, the St. David's and Llandaff Associations were also represented.

Mr. D. G. Williams presided at the business meeting; he asked all to stand in sympathy with the family of the late Mr. Frank Gordon. In answer to questions, Mr. A. Hoare assured the company that on the occasion of the visit of the Queen Mother for the opening of St. Mary's bells there would be opportunities for ringing for all. The vote of thanks to the ladies for the tea was proposed by Mr. Chris Hawkins, and the Vicar was thanked by Mr. A. Hoare.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD

Devizes Branch

The March meeting of the Devizes Branch was held at Great Cheverill. Owing to illness, arrangements for tea had to be cancelled at short notice. Ringing commenced at 5 p.m. and the service at 6 p.m. There was a good response from the members, 30 turning up, with visitors from the Swindon District. Owing to the illness of the Rector, the Guild service was conducted by Sir C. Chitham, who gave a welcome to all present.

It was good to see a large number of young ringers present. Methods rung ranged from rounds to Cambridge. S. C.

CONTEST RINGING IN NORTH OF ENGLAND

By NOEL F. MOXON

MANY ringers today recoil with horror when the words 'a ringing contest' are heard, for memories and stories of misdemeanour in bygone days are recalled. It must be admitted that their misgivings are not without foundation, as the prize ringings of the past century were frequented by men who were not loath to descend to unscrupulous methods to gain the handsome money prizes which were presented to the victors. Alas, many of the contestants were men who although good and consistent service ringers had scant respect for the Church and rarely attended a service. Unfortunately, the ill fame of the prize ringing of last century has been passed down to the present day, and the ringers who now arrange and participate in contests for which there is little or no tangible reward for the winners are still frowned upon by many of our leading ringers: the true reward of our present day contest ringers is the satisfaction that they are promoting good striking, an art which is sadly neglected in many towers.

The earliest record we have of a contest is in 1786, when on September 22nd the ringers of Oldham and Ashton-under-Lyne competed at Leeds Parish Church for a wager of 40 guineas, the test piece being Holt's peal of 5,040 Grandsire 'Tripples.' Oldham rang the peal in the forenoon in 2 hours and 46 minutes, and Ashton followed on with the same peal in 2 hours and 30 minutes. It was discovered that the last peal was some 400 changes short, so victory was pronounced in favour of Oldham. The Oldham and Ashton rivalry lasted into the next century, for these two towers rang against each other in 1808 at Flixton, near Manchester, for 40 guineas. The test was the same, Holt's Grandsire 'Tripples,' and Oldham were again the winners, the Ashton conductor making a miscall. Prior to the contest each team had rung four peals at neighbouring towers as a preparation for the great event.

Although there appear to be no more records of contests in the 18th century, such functions were fairly common, as a biographical sketch of Barnsley describes some rivalry. 'A public house in Barnsley now known as "The White Hart" was once "The Six Ringers," but was usually called "The Darfield Ringers." In 1787 the host, Thomas Kenyon, was a native of Darfield, a nearby village, and being a zealous ringer of that place did not care who knew it. He erected a massive sign, on which were gaily painted the portraits of the Darfield ringers, and proved a powerful attraction to the votaries of Bacchus but a sad annoyance to the Barnsley ringers who regarded it as a menace, there being warm contests between the Barnsley and Darfield ringers for the palm of superiority.'

BARNSELY CONTESTS

The earliest recorded contest at Barnsley took place on April 28th, 1810, when ten bands competed for two silver cups. This was a 6-bell contest, the test piece being three extents of 720 changes. The first prize was won by Wath St. Ann's College Youths, with Holmfirth as runners-up. Darfield, Birstall, Royston, Huddersfield, Eckington, Ecclesfield, Horbury and Darton also competed.

On June 5th, 1815, a prize ringing took place at Horbury, near Wakefield: the first prize a silver pint tankard and the second prize half-a-dozen silver spoons purchased by subscriptions by the gentlemen of the town. Thirteen companies assembled and took turn by ballot to ring 'two treble peals of 720 changes each.' Teams taking part with faults incurred were: Elland 47, Holmfirth 75, Birstall 43, Darton 126, Silkstone 51, Calverley 130, Dewsbury 21, Wath 26, Mirfield 90, Royston 72, Almondsbury 136, Sandall 123, Darfield 30. Dewsbury were awarded first prize and the second to St. Ann's Youths, of Wath, near Rotherham.

AN 8-BELL CONTEST

Eight-bell contests were also held in Yorkshire, for on August 25th, 1819, Birstall staged a contest to celebrate the opening of their new ring of eight bells, when the following seven companies attended on the occasion and took their turn by ballot in the following order to ring 2,496 or 2,528 changes of New or Oxford Treble Bob: 1, Sowerby and Halifax, a joint company, took the ropes and jumbled out; 2, Liversedge, rang 2,528 changes; 3, Otley and Keighley, rang 2,528 changes; 4, Bradford, rang 2,496 changes; 5, Huddersfield, rang well 2,300 changes but by a mistake lost the peal; 6, Leeds and Wakefield at the conclusion of the day and by candlelight brought round 2,496 changes; 7, Halifax concluded the opening with ringing 2,400 changes and lost the peal. When these elegant performances were over (near 12 o'clock at night), the first prize—a silver tankard value 12 guineas—was awarded by the umpires and censures, after summing up the faults, to the Leeds and Wakefield company. The second prize, a silver pint value 5 guineas, was awarded to the Bradford company.

ALL-ENGLAND CHALLENGE

Prize ringing contests were not always open to all and sundry, for on October 7th, 1812, Birstall and Darton competed for a silver cup at Royston, each team ringing three 720's; the prize was awarded to the Birstall ringers. Challenge contests at this time must have been held frequently, and culminated at Wragby in 1826, when on January 15th Wath ringers issued a challenge to all England for £30 a side. Darton accepted the challenge and won the prize. In the Darton team was John Senior, who died in 1861, having rung for 60 years and helped to win more than 30 prizes. Also in the team was William Johnson, of Mapplewell, nailmaker, who rang at Darton for 50 years; he died in 1845, aged 71. He was the proud possessor of a silver cup awarded for the champion tenor bell ringer of England, and his services were greatly in demand by various companies. Darton had a good team of ringers during the early part of the last century, ringing peals of seven different Minor methods and taking part in contests.

Many years ago a contest was to be held at Sandal, near Wakefield, and Darton were competing. One of the team, Andrew Briggs, was not selected for, being the secretary of a local Friendly Society, it was understood that he would be engaged at the Lodge meeting which was to be held on the day of the contest. Andrew, however, was annoyed when he heard he had been omitted from the team, and on the day of the contest walked to Sandal, a distance of six miles. When Darton were ringing their test piece Andrew, who had secreted himself near the ringing chamber door, called out 'Bob' in a loud voice, thus bringing the ringing to grief. It took some little time for the ringers to realise what had happened, but Andrew had escaped during the confusion and walked back to Darton.

The then Vicar of Darton was constantly making efforts to persuade his ringers to attend the services but without success, one excuse put forward that ringing made dirty hands and no washing facilities existed. The Vicar therefore had placed in the centre of the ringing chamber a wash bowl on a stand: the ringers used this bowl frequently—as a cuspidor!

The prize money for contests appears to have been considerable in the early days, and was usually collected from the gentlemen of the town at which the contest was held: a case in point being one at Wath-on-Deane on October 14th, 1822, when eight companies assembled, each ringing three 720's. Birstall were awarded the first prize, a silver tankard value £7, with Ecclesfield second, receiving £3. Other teams competing were Horbury, Penistone, Barnsley, Darton and Darfield; Kirkheaton received a money prize, having come the greatest distance. This contest must have occupied the greater part of the day or even two days, and ringers had often to take lodgings in the town.

THE BROKEN WINDOW!

A story from George Lewis tells of the Ecclesfield team who had to spend the night in an hotel, where accommodation being limited two ringers had to sleep in one bed. During the night one, being asthmatical, awoke gasping for breath and begged his bedmate to open the window to allow fresh air to enter the room. The man located the window in the dark but could not open it as there was no catch to be found. In despair, the suffering man cried: 'Break it, I will pay the damage in the morning.' Nothing loath, the glass was broken by means of a boot, and the gasping man immediately found relief. However, when next morning arrived the window was intact but the dressing table mirror was smashed to atoms!

When a new ring of bells was opened, the occasion was often marked by a contest, as was the case on May 10th, 1824, when the bells of Pudsey New Church were opened. Each company, on entering the town, rang a practice touch of 224 changes, and at 11 a.m. 11 companies competed for the prizes, the test piece being 1,728 true changes of Oxford or Kent T.B. Major, the time allowed being 62 minutes, with a forfeit of 10 penalties for each minute over or under the time. The contest concluded after 3 the following morning, when the first prize of £10 was awarded to Halifax—58 minutes 99 faults; Huddersfield were second with 58 minutes 111 faults, and received £5.

On April 8th, 1827, eight teams competed in a contest on the noble ring of ten bells in the Parish Church of Halifax, the winners being Oldham and Outram United, with Leeds the runners-up. This may have been a 10-bell contest, although some of the teams competing did not come from towers with more than eight bells.

A new name appears in the list of towers patronised by the prize ringers—High Hoyland, where on May 26th, 1828, eight companies met in a competition. Prizes were awarded to Holmfirth (£5), Darfield (£3) and Silkstone (£1). High Hoyland Church, near Barnsley, stands well away from the village—an ideal venue for peal and contest ringing. Unfortunately, the light six are unringable; several wheels are broken, the third bell is cracked, but the frame appears good. In 1875 a new church in the next village, Clayton West, became the parish church in place of High Hoyland, but ringing continued, as a code of rules dated 1900 hangs under the tower, and as one of the rules refers to intoxication, etc., this seems to point to misdemeanour by the ringers. All six ropes are now attached to the clappers, the being being chimed by 'clocking,' a situation which needs attention, although the Church Council are not prepared to spend money on the bells.

A time factor contest was held at Liversedge on December 28th, 1829, with a test piece of 2,528 changes of New or Old Treble Bob. Out of eight companies the final placings were Dewsbury, Birstall, Huddersfield and Elland.

OBITUARY

MR. THOMAS JOHN FOWLER

With deep regret we record the death of Mr. Thomas John Fowler, of Cookham, Berks, on March 9th, in his 71st year. John had been failing in health for several months, and on February 21st he had a severe heart attack. He was admitted to Maidenhead Hospital, where he appeared to be making satisfactory progress. He had another heart attack on the morning of his death.

John Fowler was known to us all as 'Uncle John,' and no man had so many affectionate nieces and nephews as John, for he was loved, respected and held in very high esteem by all who were privileged to know him.

T. J. FOWLER

By permission, 'The Maidenhead Advertiser.'

Born within the sound of Bow Bells, he came to the Berkshire village of Cookham with his parents when young, and at the age of 10 years joined Holy Trinity, Cookham, choir. Last year he achieved the wonderful record of having been a member of the choir for 60 years. For many years he was a member of the Parish Council; he was secretary to the Parochial Church Council and sat on many committees. During the First World War he served in the Army Ordnance Corps and held the rank of Warrant Officer. He was mentioned in dispatches.

Starting to ring in 1912, on his return to the village in 1919 he was elected tower captain, an office he held to his death. Cookham was a call-change band in those days, but in spite of strong opposition he introduced method ringing. It was due to his efforts that in 1926 the ring of six was augmented to eight as a memorial to Cookham ringers who lost their lives in the two world wars, one of which was his own son.

A staunch member of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, he was Ringing Master of the East Berks and South Bucks Branch for more than 25 years. For this and his devoted work for the Guild he was elected a vice-president in 1954, an honour well earned and of which he was justly proud. He was also a member of the College Youths.

John Fowler rang 62 peals, from Grandsire Doubles to Cambridge Surprise Major, not many peals at present day standards, but he much preferred to attend Branch practice meetings and to help and encourage those that needed it than to stand in a peal. John was a gentleman of sterling character and very sincere in his views. His advice to all ringers was—handle your bell correctly, listen to your striking, and attend Sunday service ringing and practices punctually and regularly. This he always did himself.

THE FUNERAL

On the Wednesday evening John was received to his beloved church by his Vicar, the Rev. Michael Westropp, where he rested the night.

Many ringers were in the large congregation who attended the funeral service on March 12th, which was fully choral and was conducted by the Rev. M. Westropp. Three of his favourite hymns were sung, including the ringers' hymn, 'Unchanging God who liveth.' In his warm tribute, the Vicar said: 'The guiding principle in John Fowler's life was his faith in God and his faithfulness to God, the latter expressed in a lifelong devotion to his church, in the choir, and in so many other ways; but his great love in service was the church bells: he was never happier than when ringing, teaching young people to ring, or servicing the bells themselves, or after a practice, just discussing them over a pint of beer. It is faithfulness such as this that Christ looks for in His followers, which is such an inspiration and example to others.'

At the interment, after the committal prayer, a well-struck course of Grandsire Triples was rung at the graveside by A. D. Barker 1-2, D. Dean 3-4, W. Lee 5-6, E. D. Poole 7-8.

Before the service the bells, half-muffled, were rung to well-struck touches of Grandsire and Stedman Triples by many ringing friends. After the service a peal of Grandsire Triples was rung to his memory by ringers from his own and neighbouring towers.

Among the many floral tributes were ten from ringers, which included one from the officers of the Oxford Guild and one from the East Berks and South Bucks Branch.

A quarter peal, half-muffled, of Grandsire Caters was rung at St. Mary's, Slough, on March 12th, and on March 18th at St. Giles', Stoke Poges, a peal of Stedman Triples was rung half-muffled to the memory of John Fowler. E. E. G.

AN APPRECIATION

The news of the sudden death of Thomas John Fowler has come as a great blow to me, as I was closely associated with him as a bell-ringer and church worker during my nine years' residence in Cookham in the 1930's.

At the monthly practices of the East Berks and South Bucks Branch he was ever ready to help and encourage beginners and stand behind them, if help was needed. A stranger or a shy and self-conscious person was always made to feel that he (or she) was welcome and needed.

In those days Tuesday practice nights in Cookham tower were, under his foremanship, something of a social occasion. Two or three ringers from Boyne Hill used to come over, and everyone—young and middle-aged—appeared to be enjoying their ringing immensely.

About the year 1933 Tom was responsible for the introduction of unpaid ringing at Cookham. He was untiring in his efforts to get new subscribers to 'The Ringing World,' for the ringer's own benefit, one felt.

'May he rest in peace.'

MR. GEORGE H. HEAD

AN APPRECIATION

The passing of Mr. George H. Head came as a shock to me because we became ringing friends in 1900, when he resided at Poltimore, near Exeter. Before coming to Devon he was a keen ringer in the Eastbourne District, where he took part in some good class peals, so he was an asset to bands in the Exeter District who were struggling to advance in method ringing. We stood in many peal attempts together, including two which came to grief after over three hours, and it was quite by accident that we were invited together in a peal—the only one we remembered scoring—back in 1902.

Mr. Head was fond of flowers, and being an expert he often helped to beautify the approach to a church by planting something which would please the eye. As a ringer he was quiet and unassuming, keen on good striking, and a good, faithful churchman. He generally greeted me with the motto of the City of Exeter, 'Semper Fidelis' ('Always Faithful'), and this could truly apply to George Head. R.I.P.

OBITUARY

MR. ERNEST GLADMAN

There were many friends and parishioners at St. Leonard's Church, Heston, on March 10th, to pay their respects at the funeral of Mr. Ernest Gladman, who died on March 5th at the age of 82. Wreaths were laid for the Heston band and the Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild. After the interment in the churchyard, a touch of Grandsire Triples was rung on handbells by H. J. Eldred (Ealing), F. W. Goodfellow (Hillingdon) and A. W. Coles (North Mimms), all of whom were old friends of 'Ernie,' as he had been affectionately known for almost countless years.

Ernest Gladman's family have been living in Heston for over 920 years, and during his lifetime of service to the church both as chorister and bell-ringer he always displayed great zest for life and never showed his years. He was always the life and soul of any party, as many will remember who have attended Heston outings and the 'Heston' suppers of the South and West District of the Association.

He was one of the two surviving founder members of the Middlesex Association, formed in 1897, and before that was a member of the old West Middlesex Association. He had been a ringer at Heston since 1898 or 1899.

Sympathy is extended to Mrs. Gladman who, badly crippled, relied much on her husband's devoted care and attention. Together with her, his friends will reflect in sorrow on the passing of Ernest Gladman. But, they will remember also with reverence and gratitude his particular quality of life and great service to the Church and ringing.

As a last tribute, on March 10th the Heston band rang a touch of Grandsire Triples half-muffled, and on Sunday, March 15th, a quarter peal of 1,260 Grandsire Triples was rung open. G. W. G.

MR. MAURICE WATTS

Wadhurst has lost an outstanding personality by the death on March 9th of Mr. Maurice Watts, who sang in the choir for 70 years and rang in the belfry for 56 years.

SINGLE!

THIS call is now heard frequently in peals and touches so that we accept it as a matter of course. Has this always been so? The evidence suggests that it most certainly has not, at least in peals. The fundamental significance of the 'in and out of course' of the changes was appreciated from quite early days, and hence the necessity for the use of at least two singles to obtain the extent of doubles. It is in relation to the use of singles in ringing on higher numbers of bells that the attitude of early composers often appears to have been rather strange.

In pure triples methods (e.g., Grandsire and Stedman but not Plain Bob) the rows are alternately odd and even. This suggested to many composers that the extent should be obtainable using bobs alone, and indeed, only one sort of bob. Considerable effort was devoted to the solution of this problem, and although its impossibility was suspected it was not until the discovery of the Q-Set Law by W. H. Thomson ('A Note on Grandsire Triples,' 1886) that this was proved. More recently, Professor R. A. Rankine, using Group Theory, has confirmed the correctness of this result. The position with respect to Stedman Triples is still uncertain. We know that a 'twin-bob' peal has to have singles, but no more comprehensive proof has yet been published. This does not mean that the Q-Set Law is not universally applicable but that the absence of a fixed 'hunt' bell in Stedman makes its application to the method particularly difficult. This curiously fluid character of the method has its compensations. Some years ago Dr. G. W. Slack obtained a regular two-part peal with two singles half-way and end, a type of composition which is not possible in Grandsire.

Whereas it can be surmised that the initial reluctance of composers to use more than the minimum number of singles in triples composition derived from theoretical considerations, their continued neglect on eight and more bells is far less comprehensible. Judging by the Central Council's Collections, for instance, the majority of five thousands of Major and Caters produced up to the beginning of this century contained bobs only. This was in spite of a comment by Shipway that if singles were used in peals of Grandsire Caters the fifth and sixth could be kept exclusively behind the ninth in the tittums and the music thus greatly improved. This reasoning applies, with equal validity, to many other methods.

The 1903 edition of 'Stedman,' in the Snowdon series, includes a table of starting and homing courses for Stedman Caters compiled by A. B. Carpenter. None of these turning courses contain singles and, as might be expected from this, no 'out of course' course ends are considered. Comparing this list with the countless variations used by John Carter and others in recent years, many of which involve singles, we may well smile at W. Snowdon's remark at the head of the chapter that the table 'will in all probability be found exceedingly useful.' In the following line the assertion that the table 'contains all the course ends with the treble fixed in second's place' ought to provoke a marginal note in red pencil. The table actually covers sixteen pages; it is a matter for speculation how many it would have covered had Dr. Carpenter admitted the use of singles.

Present day composers are far more aware of the utility of singles and have few, if any, inhibitions or reservations about their employment. The longest length of Cambridge Surprise Major so far obtained (13,280 by R. F. B. Speed) uses singles. It may be recalled that, somewhat surprisingly, there is a precedent for this. The longest length of Treble Bob Major with the tenors together (9,120, composed by James Lockwood and rung in 1876) was brought round by a single (actually an 'in-course' single).

Purists might, perhaps, argue that this ever-increasing use of singles is, in many cases, merely taking the easy way out, although it is generally accepted. Peal compositions have been obtained in several methods using singles alone, and we may yet find a band ringing a peal of Grandsire Triples containing no bobs.

CONTEST RINGING IN NORTH OF ENGLAND

By NOEL F. MOXON

FATHER AND SONS

In October, 1832, at Mirfield, the winners of a contest were Benjamin Thackrah and sons, an unusual combination, and although Benjamin had two ringing sons it is doubtful if he was the father of the remaining ringers. Benjamin was a Dewsbury ringer, and died on February 20th, 1851, aged 76. He assisted in winning 24 prizes on six and eight bells, and rang 50 peals. The opening of a new ring of bells at Meltham, near Huddersfield, was marked in April of 1836 by a contest, in which 14 sets of ringers entered for the various prizes. The final placings were Almondbury Old Set, £8; Saddleworth, £6; Kirkheaton, £4; Mirfield, £2.

Darton staged a contest on August 14th, 1837, with 12 teams competing, each ringing three extents of 720 changes, and the ringers from the little church of High Hoyland carried off the prize of £4.

There appears to have been little difficulty in securing large sums of money for prizes at this time, and one can well appreciate the keenness shown by the competitors when a sum of £8 was at stake, for one ringer's share, about 25s., would amount to over a week's wage. In August, 1836, Huddersfield ringers challenged Kirkheaton ringers to ring three Treble peals for any sum from £50 to £500! Huddersfield ringers must have had the backing of prosperous business people to be able to issue such a challenge; unfortunately no information regarding the outcome is available. A contest was held at Huddersfield on October 28th, 1839, when 'the principal streets were literally crowded with attentive listeners': ten teams took part, with Manchester and Halifax taking away the main prizes.

AN HONOURABLE ADIEU

Challenge contests were still popular, for in 1842 six ringers of Barnsley challenged six ringers of Darfield, the venue being Wragby, apparently a favourite tower for such matches, the test piece being 5,040 changes in seven methods. Barnsley were the victors, possibly gaining consolation for the indignities suffered by their predecessors of half-a-century earlier. Barnsley went to the nearby village of Silkstone on March 3rd, 1851, to take part in a three 'peal' contest: Dewsbury took away the first prize, Barnsley second, Kirkheaton third, Holmfirth fourth. Marsden, a Dewsbury ringer, a man of 71 years, having been a winner at 40 ringing contests, dressed his hat in ribbons and bade an honourable adieu to the ropes. Barnsley eventually were successful in an open contest, when at Ecclesfield in 1858 they received the first prize of £7. Their conductor was Thomas Dawn, innkeeper of the Hole in the Wall; he died in 1866, being a ringer for 30 years. Barnsley ringers, in common with many others, rarely attended the church services, and the Rector bitterly accused them of running down to the Turf for refreshment immediately after ringing, and demanded that this practice should cease. The ringers agreed to mend their ways, and ever afterwards they walked down to the Turf!

In keeping with the usual practice, a contest was held when 'A beautiful peal of six bells was opened at Harworth on March 10th, 1846, . . . the melodious sounds producing a feeling of joy and satisfaction to the inhabitants of this densely-populated neighbourhood': the first prize was awarded to Holmfirth and the second to Mirfield. When Batley Church received a new ring of six bells, cast by Messrs. Mears in 1852, the customary contest was held to celebrate the opening with 13 sets of ringers from the neighbouring churches taking part. Four prizes, of £8, £4, £2 and £1 were offered, and the final placings were Holmfirth, Mirfield, Shipley and Kirkheaton. The 'Leeds Mercury' stated that the decision of the judge, Mr. James Firth, of Liversedge, gave general satisfaction.

ALLEGATIONS AGAINST JUDGES

Such unanimity was not always the case, as can be learned from a contest held at Earlsheaton in July, 1853, when ten teams each rang 2,528 changes of Major. A surprise victory was scored by Dewsbury with 829 faults, whilst the favourites, Liversedge, were placed third with 986 faults. Dewsbury, who were not fancied for a prize, received a purse of £12, being loudly praised in the 'Leeds Intelligencer' for their fine ringing. However, the newspaper the following week published a letter from the Liversedge ringers alleging that the members of the Earlsheaton team had visited the judges' room on various occasions with refreshments, although it had previously been agreed that the room should be private. It was further alleged that should the Dewsbury and Elland teams complete the test piece they should be awarded first and second prizes, leaving the other teams only two prizes for which to compete.

A reply from the Earlsheaton ringers was promptly forthcoming, describing the 'allegations as a tissue of falsehoods from beginning to end,' and followed the denial with a good deal of unnecessary abuse which the editor refused to print. He also refused to print any more correspondence on the subject but accepted as an advertisement a further letter from Liversedge, repeating their allegations and describing the awarding of the prizes as the 'most infamous and roguish transaction that was ever witnessed in all their lives.'

NEWSPAPER PROTEST

Discontent was also shown when Ilkley bells were opened in 1846, this being a 6-bell contest. Eight teams competed and the Tong company received first prize, much to the disgust of the Holmfirth ringers, who in the following week published a letter in the 'Leeds Mercury' complaining bitterly of unfair treatment by the judges, and asserting that 'every ringer in the town declared that the Holmfirth ringing was far superior to that of any other party. Naturally the following week a letter was published from Geo. Robinson and Christopher Giles (or Illes), two of the judges involved, declaring that 'no unfairness was manifested towards the Holmfirth ringers.'

Barnsley again staged a contest in July, 1861, which occupied three days, the test piece being three extents of Minor. Fourteen teams entered but four withdrew, leaving the following who were finally placed by the judges: Ecclesfield 1,253, Kirkheaton 1,547, Saddleworth 1,620, Almondbury 1,832, Cawthorne 2,226, Silkstone 2,335, Calverley 3,713; Wath, sen., false peal; Wath, jun., rung out; Kilnwick, rung out. The prizes were £7, £5, £3 and £1 10s., £3 and £1 10s. The successful teams were Almondbury, Barnsley, Saddleworth and Silkstone; others included Kirkburton Senior and Junior, Armitage Bridge and Shipley.

(Much of the foregoing information is the result of the efforts of Mr. David Cubitt, of Wakefield, who has transcribed reams of data from old newspapers, and I am most grateful for his assistance.)

MATCH RINGING

For the next period, the latter half of the 19th century, I am indebted to Mr. Allan Robinson, of Mirfield, who looks back to the old days when they were keen on ringing, as they had two or three sets of ringers in a tower, and if you missed a bob you were out! In the early '80s it was all 'match ringing,' and up to 1893 money prizes were always offered. The sum of £20 in prizes was put up at a contest at Batley on May 26th, 1860. Judging from the large number of faults (the winners scored over 1,000) this would be a 6-bell contest with three 720's as the test piece, with 12 teams taking part. Six teams shared the prize money, which was allocated as follows: Almondbury, Calverley, Wath, Saddleworth, Dewsbury and Kirkheaton, with the newly-formed team at Cawthorne coming in last.

EIGHTEEN TEAMS

There appeared to be no scarcity of money in Dewsbury, for on April 2nd and 3rd, 1866, an 8-bell contest was organised, offering six prizes totalling £33 for a half peal of Major, the figures of which were given by the organisers. Enthusiasm was high at this period for at a contest at St. Peter's, Horbury, on September 28th and 29th, 1875, 18 teams competed, and it is noteworthy to find that three teams came from Kirkburton—No. 1 and No. 2 and Kirkburton Church ringers; what the state of affairs was in this village we cannot attempt to describe. Saddleworth, who now were quite a power in the prize-ringing field, were represented by two teams, as were New Mill. The winners were Kirkburton No. 1, North of England, Almondbury, Saddleworth Seniors, New Mill and Mirfield Tin Bobin Set.

A set of rules with competing teams was printed for the occasion by the Horbury Society of Change Ringers. No. 9 rule states: 'If any conductor, that goes into the steeple along with any set, speaks or rises from his seat, after the bells begin to ring, 50 faults shall be put down to the set he belongs.' No. 12 rule states: 'No person or persons will be allowed to go within the boundary walls round the church, except on business or by leave from the secretary or steepleman.' The committee certainly took every precaution to ensure no jiggery-pokery was possible. In addition to the North of England United, a team calling themselves All England competed but were unplaced.

Batley ringers staged a contest on June 5th and 6th in 1876 requiring each team to ring two 720's each differing in name and change. The printed rules were identical with the Horbury Society and form the basis of rules used today. Thirteen teams competed but five rang out, leaving eight sets to battle for the six prizes, and here class began to tell because the first three places were taken by United North of England, Yorkshire United and All England, followed by Calverley, Horbury and Mirfield. These two-day contests usually raised the problem of lodgings, and it often became difficult to accommodate all the ringers, one such case being at Saddleworth, where Tom Stead, of Kirkheaton, failed to find a bed for the night unless he slept with the judge. This Tom refused to do, preferring to walk the streets all through the night! Prize money still proved easy to obtain, for Liversedge on Whit Monday and Tuesday, 1891, offered 30 guineas in five prizes, Dewsbury, who always put up a good show, took away the first prize.

A new name now appears amongst the competitors, Friezland from the Lancashire border, who were to be a force in contest ringing for many years; this team annexed the first prize of £8 at Kirkheaton in 1893.

According to Mr. Robinson, prize ringing began to tail off in 1893, but the custom died hard as Huddersfield St. Peter's staged an 8-bell contest in 1899, offering 27 guineas in prizes. The test piece was 2,048 changes of Kent T.B. Major, and the winners were Almondsbury, Dewsbury, Earlsheaton and Lindley.

HEAVY WOOLLEN DISTRICT ASSOCIATION

In 1893 the Heavy Woollen District Association was formed, and organised two contests each year, one on six bells and one on eight bells; a silver challenge cup was purchased, to be held by the winners for one year, the members of the team receiving timepieces, medals, or watchguards, usually provided by the home tower.

The cup holders in the last century were Dewsbury, 1894-1896-1897-1898, with Liversedge, 1895, and Earlsheaton in 1899. New Mill won the cup in 1900, this contest being held at Holmfirth. No details of further contests are available until 1906, when Mr. H. Dransfield, of Earlsheaton, gives a report of a H.W. contest at Batley when his team, who were competing for the first time, were awarded the second prize, receiving six electro-plated tea pots; the winners, Almondsbury, took the cup and six marble timepieces.

Some time later an 8-bell contest followed at Lindley, and only Dewsbury entered, so a mixed band was formed to ensure the contest being held. Dewsbury won, and having apparently won the cup in three successive years for the second time they claimed the trophy. This action caused much dissension and probably led to the break-up of the Heavy Woollen Association. The cup is now preserved in the Crow Nest Park Museum, Dewsbury, perhaps a satisfactory end to its career, as many such trophies have unfortunately disappeared altogether.

PREFERRED THE MANTEL SHELF!

Mr. John W. Moxon, of Sandal, related to me of a contest for the H.W. cup held at Kirkheaton in 1896, which he attended with his father. His uncle, Jack Blackburn was ringing that Whit Tuesday with Batley Carr, and being confident of winning the first prize, a marble clock, cleared a place on the mantel shelf before he left home. Unfortunately, Batley Carr were drawn last, and after spending a long day awaiting their turn, broken by numerous visits to the local inn, the team were rather unsteady. Mr. Moxon recalls the crowd listening to the perfect ringing of Batley Carr who had the contest practically won, when three leads from the end there was a fatal slip and the band 'rung out.'

At the time when interest in the Heavy Woollen Association began to wane the Halifax and District Association was formed, the headquarters being at the Ring of Bells at Halifax. The object of the Association, according to the rules, was 'the encouragement of Scientific Change Ringing and Good Striking amongst its members by the means of Competitions or otherwise.' A silver cup, value £9 17s., was purchased on December 16th, 1904, the money being raised by subscriptions from 14 neighbouring towers. The present secretary, Mr. A. Farrand, gives details of the first recorded contest, which was held at Halifax Parish Church on January 12th, 1907. Test pieces were 640 Kent T.B. Major or 676 Grandsire Triples, and out of four companies, Brighouse won with 252 faults.

Eight- and 6-bell contests were held alternately from then until 1933, when only two teams entered; ever since, all contests have been for six bells. According to Mr. Farrand, 126 contests have been organised by the Association up to the present time and 42 different teams have competed. Previous to 1918 Earlsheaton were the most successful tower, with 14 wins, and during one remarkable spell took the cup seven times in succession.

Mr. W. B. Pitcher, secretary of St. Peter's Cathedral Society, Adelaide, South Australia, writes: '... Incidentally, we have noticed certain remarks in "The Ringing World" where both Sydney and Melbourne hold out various enticements to the ringing immigrant. But Adelaide can offer the heaviest bell in the Southern Hemisphere and the second heaviest eight in the world. We give pride of place only to Sherborne; and our tenor is Great Frederick —41 cwt.'

Cambridge University Guild's 500th peal was rung at Saffron Walden on March 7th.

His many friends will be sorry to hear that Mr. A. Charles Morris has been in Queen Elizabeth Hospital, Birmingham, for the past four weeks. A speedy recovery and a quick return to ringing is his friends' sincere wish.

While the peal attempt at Great Holland, Essex, broke down and the band had to be content with a quarter peal, there was a compensation in the excellent tea provided by the Rector. He is looking forward to a meeting being held at his church at an early date.

Regarding the peal at Llanelly (page 184), claimed as the first peal on the bells for 25 years, Mr. Patrick Cannon writes: 'I had the pleasure of calling a peal of Bob Minor here on February 6th, 1946, while stationed at the Royal Signals Depot, Abergavenny. The rest of the band came from Ebbw Vale.'

A farewell peal was rung at Farnworth, Lancs, on March 21st, to Mr. Gordon W. Limmer, of Burnham Beeches, and Miss Elaine A. Richardson, of Brigg, Lincolnshire, who during the past few months have been staying in Bolton on professional duties or courses. Mr. Limmer has rung five peals and Miss Richardson three, and both have been an asset to the District. They returned to their respective homes before Easter.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Mr. Harry Broughton, of Leicester, has rung his final peal, which was a memorial peal to Mrs. Phyllis Poole. Some years ago he had a bad attack of cerebral hæmorrhage. He has now been informed by his doctor that while he made a remarkable recovery a recurrence of the trouble might come at any time. Peal ringing was one of the things he had to give up, but he could not resist the temptation to ring in the peal to the memory of a beloved friend.

On April 5th the morning service at Finchley Parish Church, Middlesex, is being televised by A.T.V., and just prior to the service the bells are going to be heard.

Congratulations to 16-year-old John Rhodes, an enthusiastic member of the Calverley band, who conducted his first peal at Whixley on March 21st. In his short ringing career (slightly over two years) he has had 13 peal attempts and rung 12 peals. The only failure was the first attempt.

Mr. E. J. Brown has retired from the captaincy of Brant Broughton, Lincoln, ringers. An inexperienced band was formed here in 1957. The band's first quarter peal was achieved in February, 1958, and first peal last February. The new captain is Mr. C. (Phil) Pitchford. Practice nights are the first and third Thursdays of each month.

The bells of St. Mary's, Ely, will shortly be heard on the air in Canada. At a recent practice a representative of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation made tape-recordings of the bells and also of a practice in progress. The ringers were all scholars of local schools, who are under the tuition of Mr. John Pickett, a service ringer for over 50 years. Mr. Pickett was in 1910 a ringer at St. Michael's, Aldershot, with Mr. Geo. Gilbert. His present Vicar, the Rev. J. R. Rowsell, was also a former Aldershot vicar.

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

NEW CATHEDRAL BELLS

THERE was a larger attendance than usual at the Guildford Diocesan Guild annual meeting, held at Guildford on March 21st. Ringing took place at Holy Trinity, St. Nicolas', St. Mary's, Stoke and Shalford churches. The singing at the Guild service, held in the Cathedral Church of the Holy Trinity, was led by a robed choir of ringers, and the organ was played by Miss Janet Cleeve, a local ringer.

The Provost (Very Rev. Walter Boulton) conducted the service. In his address the Provost said: 'You have a distinct ministry in belonging to the Church of God—a ministry which is an art. Almost anybody can take a church service, but it is a very difficult art to ring bells properly and you have to give a great deal of time to the cultivation of that art. It is only people with a sense of vocation who stick the course and become first-class men in the art.'

'Most ringers are practising Christians and recognise that their work in the belfry is part of the Church's work. I hope that every ringer as he performs his duty in the church is reminding himself that it is to the glory of God and for the good of Christ's Church. It is only when we do things to the glory of God that they are worth while. The lovely bells peal out not because they are useful in calling people to church—that could be done by loudspeakers—but because it is to the glory of God.'

A company of 156 sat down to tea in Harvey's Restaurant, and the Provost presided at the business meeting which followed, supported by the Master (Mr. C. W. Denyer) and the hon. secretary and treasurer (Mr. S. T. A. Russell).

RESTORATIONS

The executive committee's report, presented by the Master, stated that bell restoration work had been carried out at Womersley, where two new treble had been added and the bells rehung. Farnham's bells were at the foundry for recasting and rehanging, and would be dedicated in the middle of the year. The ring at Ashted had had a peal-and-meeting ban imposed owing to clapper holes and the condition of the frame. A fine ring of six in a new frame had been put in at Binsted, and although in the area of the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild this was mainly through the efforts of the Farnham District.

All towers received the review of Sunday Service Ringing form circulated by the Central Council, and 85 per cent. of the forms had been returned. It seems from these forms that the Guild is operating successfully in most towers, and in the few exceptions, the pockets of inactivity will receive attention during the period ahead.

The membership of the Guild was 555 ringing and 101 honorary. Ringing members were Chertsey District 89, Farnham District 148, Guildford District 109, Leatherhead District 129, life and unattached 80.

CANON COLERIDGE'S BOOKS

The report of the librarian (Mr. A. C. Hazelden) stated that the total number of books in the library, not including bound volumes of periodicals, was 260. A series of books and papers, many formerly owned by the late Canon G. F. Coleridge, together with those belonging to the late Major H. J. Cann (nephew of Canon Coleridge), had been passed on to the Master (Mr. C. W. Denyer) by Mrs. Cann and were now in the library. The collection included valuable books by the late Rev. H. T. Ellacombe, and Mr. Hazelden said there was a strong reason to believe that they were at one time Mr. Ellacombe's personal property. They wanted somebody with a knowledge of heraldry to identify the coat-of-arms.

The peal recorder's report stated that 22 peals were rung during 1958, one more than the previous year. These were rung by 91 different ringers, of whom 22 were ladies. The peals were rung in 17 different towers with 13 conductors. Mr. P. G. Smart conducted his first peal and there were eight first-pealers, of whom seven were ladies.

IN MEMORIAM PEALS

Major Bragg (peal recorder) said he was very sorry to see that a peal rung in memory of someone was also described as the fastest peal on the bells. He did not think that personal pride should go into a footnote of an in memoriam peal.

The accounts showed a balance in hand of £37 11s. 11d. on the General Fund, £133 5s. 2d. on the Benevolent Fund and £115 4s. 3d. on the New Cathedral Bell Fund.

Mr. A. H. Pulling urged the Guild to build up the New Cathedral Bell Fund. Fifty years ago they used to look forward annually to visiting Winchester and ringing on the Cathedral bells. In 50 years' time ringers would be looking forward to visiting Guildford Cathedral and ringing on the bells there. He thought they should vote more money to the Cathedral Bell Fund and less to the Benevolent Fund. The Benevolent Fund did good, but now with a benevolent Government it was unnecessary.

Mr. G. S. Joyce asked the Provost if he was able to give any information regarding the Cathedral bells.

The Provost said the most optimistic thing they could hope for was to find a benefactor of the tower. The present building would be consecrated on May 31st next year. A possible date for the bells was five years' time.

Officers declared elected for 1959 were: Mr. C. W. Denyer, Master; Mr. S. T. A. Russell, hon. secretary and treasurer; Miss W. R. Hide, assistant hon. secretary; Mr. G. H. Brown, hon. auditor; Mr. F. Oakshott, liaison officer with the Surrey Association.

The meeting decided to fix the date of the Guild annual meeting as the second Saturday in March, that the names of all paid-up members be printed in the Guild annual report, and that the Guild annual dinner be held on October 10th. The election of Miss Angela Martin, of Bramshott, previous to a peal attempt, was ratified.

HALIFAX AND DISTRICT ASSOCIATION

At the request of a majority of members present at Calverley on October 18th, a ringing meeting was held at Meltham on March 7th. Towers represented were Batley, Cawthorne, Calverley, Friesland, Huddersfield, Lightcliffe, Shelley, Silkstone, Stainland and the local company.

Ringing to a variety of methods was continuous from 3 to 8 p.m., except for a break for the business meeting, held in the tower, with Mr. F. Webster, of Meltham, as chairman.

The meeting stood and observed one minute's silence in respect of the death of Mr. Harry Nutt. A vote of thanks to the Vicar, churchwardens and the Meltham company for the use of the tower and bells was proposed and passed. The secretary announced that the next meeting would be on April 18th at Earlsheaton.

A resolution was proposed and seconded to hold only two contests per year, but the secretary held that the resolution would involve a change of rules, and could only be submitted to the annual meeting.

Mr. H. Mann proposed, and the meeting fully agreed, that a mark of appreciation be recorded in the minutes re the work done for the Association by the late Harry Nutt.

GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL ASSOCIATION

Bristol City Branch At Dinner

Defying superstition, 45 members and friends of the Bristol City Branch held their annual dinner on Friday, March 13th, at the Ship Inn, Redcliffe. The customary toasts to the Queen and the Church were proposed by the Branch chairman (Mr. F. Hansford), who expressed his regrets that the Precentor of Bristol Cathedral was unable to be present.

Mr. S. G. Riches (general treasurer) proposed the toast to 'The City Branch,' and congratulated members on their present choice of officers. He spoke on several diverse subjects, including the great distances at which the bells of St. Thomas' could be heard, and how we should consider arousing the interest of the general public in Bristol in matters appertaining to bell-ringing. He expressed his hope that the bells of the blitzed Church of St. Nicholas would one day be recast and rehung to take their former place as one of the finest rings of ten in the country. In conclusion, he reminded members of the aims of the Association in cultivating Sunday service ringing and promoting the art of change-ringing.

Mrs. Joan Gray, in reply endorsed what Mr. Riches had said about the Branch officers, and in particular she paid tribute to the secretary (Mr. A. V. Bennett) for the hard work he put in as instructor at the St. John's School of Ringing. She stressed the happy relationship which existed between the University Society and city ringers, but pointed out that it was necessary to devise means of attracting new recruits in order to keep the towers fully manned when the University was not in session. The reasons why recruits were lost had been listed in some of the replies to the Central Council survey. She suggested that the time had come for the Gloucester and Bristol Association to take a lead from the Bath and Wells and endeavour to establish stronger links with the clergy.

Entertainment was provided by the Southville Handbell Ringers, under Mr. E. F. Hancock, who played several well-known airs and lapped a well-struck course of Little Bob Major. Grandfire Triples were rung 'in hand' by P. M. J. Gray 1-2, R. G. Hooper 3-4, A. M. Tyler 5-6, Joan Gray 7-8. R. J. B.

Swindon Branch

Snow usually falls for the spring quarterly meeting of the Swindon Branch, but 1959 proved the exception, and the meeting was held at Stratton St. Margaret in comparatively good weather on March 14th. Ringing was followed by the usual service, conducted by the Vicar (Rev. R. G. Wolsey), and the young lady ringers of Stratton provided an excellent tea in the Church Room.

The Master of the Association (Mr. W. H. Trueman) presided at the business meeting in the absence of the chairman (Dr. H. Craig), who was engaged on a Civil Defence exercise. Several new members were elected, and it was proposed that quarterly meetings should be held at Wanborough, Brinkworth and Bishopstone. Mr. T. Moulden, of Stratton, the oldest member of the Branch, was nominated as a life member of the Association. The syllabus of the course at Dillington House was read, but unfortunately the date clashes with the Association A.G.M. at Cheltenham.

Further ringing followed, methods up to Cambridge Major being rung. In addition to Branch members, ringers attended from Bradford-on-Avon and Malmesbury. W. B. K.

A YORKSHIRE JOINT MEETING

Although a little disappointing in terms of attendance, the joint meeting of the Leeds and District Society and Yorkshire Association (Western District), held at Christ Church, Armley, on March 21st, was in all other respects most successful and enjoyable. The bells were raised at the appointed time of 3 p.m., and apart from intervals—firstly to replace a broken rope and secondly for the tea and business meetings—were used to full advantage until 8.30 p.m. The new vice-president of the Western District was well and truly 'christened' when, having led the bells down in peal and called for the customary Queens change to be chimed in conclusion, the treble rope came coiling down upon his head!

The tea was a credit to the organisers and heartily enjoyed by all. It was pleasing to note that the number of teas ordered was well matched by the number of persons sitting down. An appropriate vote of thanks was accorded to the local company and ladies.

The Leeds and District Society business meeting was held first, and it was here that the secretary (Mr. J. M. Thorley) took his leave, retiring from office a month in advance owing to his removal from the district. The president (Mr. I. Slack) thanked Mr. Thorley for the capable way in which he had handled the job of secretary, and wished him well in his new surroundings. Mr. D. Thorp, of 6, St. Stephen's Road, Calverley, Pudsey, was elected to take over the secretaryship until the annual meeting, which is to be held at Leeds Parish Church on May 2nd, the usual last Saturday in April not being available.

Nominations were invited for the various offices, and were received as follows: President, Mr. T. W. Strangeway; vice-presidents, Messrs. L. Drake, J. W. Gibson and C. F. Sutcliffe; secretary, Mr. D. Thorp; Ringing Master, Mr. I. Slack, and auditors Messrs. A. I. Johnson and H. Lofthouse.

SIX NEW MEMBERS FROM IDLE

The Western District meeting followed, and the vice-president (Mr. W. Barton) began by expressing pleasure at seeing Mr. A. J. Coldrick, of Armley, present. Although 82 years of age and prevented from ringing by a physical infirmity he looked extremely well—may he continue to live a long and happy life.

Six new members were elected, all from Idle. The local company there are to be congratulated on this excellent sign of progress. By majority vote it was decided to hold the next meeting at Gargrave on June 20th, provided that the necessary arrangements can be made. This will be the annual District meeting, at which the following officers are due to retire: Hon. District secretary, Mr. A. E. Marsh; committee—Messrs. J. Ambler, P. Birkett and H. Lofthouse. Nominations should be sent to the hon. District secretary.

The vice-president announced the terms of certain propositions which had been discussed at the meeting of the general committee the previous week and subsequently referred to a sub-committee for consideration. A lively discussion ensued, during the course of which several useful opinions were expressed. A collection for the bell repair fund realised £1 1s. 7d.

ST. DAVID'S DIOCESAN GUILD

Because of the bad weather, the attendance was small at the quarterly meeting of St. David's Diocesan Guild, held at St. Peter's Church, Carmarthen, on March 14th. The Vicar conducted the service and presided at the meeting. A welcome tea was provided by the Church and served by members of the Mothers' Union, to whom, and also the Vicar, a hearty vote of thanks was passed.

At the meeting a tribute of respect was paid to two members who had passed on since the last meeting. The usual touch on handbells was given by four members. The meeting approved a grant of £10 to St. David's towards the cost of the sound-proofing project.

Proceedings were briefer than usual to enable members to have a final ring before finishing at 7 p.m. This limitation was necessitated because of a rehearsal of the service to be broadcast the following morning.

LONDON WEEK-END

Being invited by Wilfred Williams and John Chilcott to ring in an attempt for Stedman Cinques at Southwark Cathedral on March 14th, we arrived in Paddington very appropriately on the Cathedral's Express just before noon. A conducted tour through the Houses of Parliament and Westminster Abbey and a trip downriver occupied the time previous to the 6 p.m. start. A good peal was duly rung on these mellow, well-balanced bells. One notable feature of this peal was John Chilcott's ringing of the tenor: he looked as cool, calm and collected at the end as he did at the start (nice work, John). During light refreshments afterwards it was a pleasure to renew acquaintance with Tom Francis, who had listened to the last part of the peal.

On Sunday, after another sightseeing tour, we went to St. Paul's to hear the ringing for service. We arrived outside in time to hear the bells go off into changes, and the St. Paul's band lived up to their reputation by treating us to some really fine Stedman Cinques. During a short convivial with the St. Paul's band, it was again a pleasure to renew acquaintance with Alfred B. Peck and Jack A. Waugh after over 30 years. From St. Paul's we visited the Old Bailey and afterwards St. Clement Danes', where the wonderful restoration has to be seen to be believed. We arrived at St. Martin's-in-the-Fields in time for Evensong, where we saw the inspiring spectacle of a packed-to-capacity congregation.

Monday commenced with a visit to the Whitechapel Foundry, where we were cordially received by Mr. A. A. Hughes and shown round the foundry. We had the pleasure of trying out the new 12 for St. Mary-le-Bow. A notable feature was the rows of brilliant and shining handbells being made for export to the U.S.A.

The Tower of London, Covent Garden (where the smell of fruit and vegetables reminded us of home and the Vale of Evesham), the Opera House and the Albert Hall were visited en route to Paddington to board the Cathedral's Express for the two hours' run to Evesham. Ringing was not yet finished as we ran into Fred Wilkins, and enjoyed the pleasure of his company to Oxford, when quite a few peals were rung and lost!

To Wilfred Williams and John Chilcott we say 'Thank you' for the ringing arrangements you made for us on this enjoyable and memorable London weekend.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

THEOLOGICAL COLLEGES AND RINGING

Dear Sir,—As a student at present at Salisbury Theological College, I was very interested to read of the ringing activities of the students at Cuddesdon, and would wish to congratulate them on their progress. At Salisbury we have formed a Guild as well, and since last October we have held regular Wednesday afternoon practices at St. Paul's Church, Salisbury and Britford, through the kindness of the incumbents and with the much-appreciated co-operation of Mr. Manns and Mr. Lewis, the Ringing Masters at these churches. Like Cuddesdon, we have every afternoon free, and study in the evenings, and thus cannot join the local towers for practice. Of our 42 students, 25 can ring or are learning to ring, and many of the others are intending to start once the rigours of G.O.E. are past and done with. So far, our ringing has been limited to call-changes and Grandsire Doubles with the help of one visitor, but after Easter we should be able to make a start on Grandsire Doubles with an all-college team.

Obviously, we cannot expect to turn out first-class Surprise Maximus ringers with the little time available and with limited help, but I am hoping that we shall at least be able to teach a little about ringing, how a tower should be run, and how an incumbent should co-operate with his ringers and try to understand their art.

And this brings me to the real point of this letter. All too often, it has been my experience in dealings with clergy all over the country, they are, on the whole, ignorant of what goes on in their towers. How many have ever seen their bells, or really appreciate that they are alone responsible for these expensive musical instruments? How many have even an inkling of the work and effort needed to raise and maintain a regular loyal Sunday service band? How many of them ever think of visiting their towers on practice nights and Sundays to say the Belfry Prayer, and to have a friendly word of encouragement with their ringers? In my experience, the answer to each and every one of these questions is 'Surprisingly few.'

What is the solution? I doubt if there is any easy answer to that question; the local Diocesan Associations have done and are doing much to encourage parish priests to take an interest in ringing, but I feel that this encouragement would bear more fruit if given earlier—in the clergy-nursery—the theological colleges (parsons are not brought into the world by ecclesiastical storks, neither are they found under burning gooseberry bushes). May I suggest that the Diocesan Associations, under the guidance of the Central Council if necessary, should approach the Principals of the theological colleges within their territory, and ask that permission be granted for qualified persons to visit the colleges to give lectures on the subject?

In all colleges there are opportunities during the year for visiting lecturers to advance the claims of the Mothers' Union, the R.S.C.M., and so forth; I do not think that two extra lectures a year would be too crushing a burden to impose. Two lectures are suggested: one to be given by an incumbent who has a good, keen band of churchmen (dealing with the law relating to the tower, his own relationship with his ringers and what he expects from them, how he encourages them, and so on), and the other to be given by a Ringing Master who has charge of a tower where there is a good, loyal and regular band of church bell ringers (and here may I insert a plea for the type of ringing instructor who has proved himself by practical work and results over a period of years, not—please not—one of the plentiful supply of theory-pedlars who have an abundance of bright but unworkable ideas, and who have never produced other ringers themselves).

I do not suggest that this plan, if carried out, would be a cure-all for the problems of difficult relationships which crop up from time to time between ringers and their clergy—one does occasionally find the type of parson who is determined to be the head of his parish, with infallible knowledge on all matters; and on the other hand, ringers who cannot be persuaded to take part in the services for which they ring must not be surprised if they find themselves replaced by others who are churchmen first and ringers second. But I do believe that if handled properly it would bring abundant blessings on the Exercise in years to come, and would help to encourage the recruiting of ringers to meet the shortage which is evident in all parts of the country and which is desperate in some.

I shall be delighted to discuss the matter with any person who cares to write to me.—Yours sincerely,

ROGER O. FRY.

COLLECTION OF MINOR METHODS

Dear Sir,—In the Minutes of the Central Council meeting, held last year at Whitsuntide, is a reference to the proposed publication of the Minor Methods Collection which, it is stated, would appear in several months. Nearly 12 months have passed, and still there is no sign of the book. I think a statement from the committee concerned is long overdue.

If the script has not yet reached the hands of the printer, I suggest that the names of 'irregular' treble bob methods are included to avoid possible confusion caused by one method being known by more than one name.

I am sure Mr. H. Chant will be pleased to furnish names and details of the methods which should be included.—Yours faithfully,

N. F. MOXON.

VOTING IN GUILDFORD GUILD

Dear Sir,—May I respectfully point out that your footnote to the letter from John Vernon is not strictly correct and may lead to misunderstanding.

The rules of the Guildford Diocesan Guild do permit junior members to vote, but at District level only. They are not allowed to nominate Guild or District officers. This compromise was reached in 1957, after some considerable discussion in 1956, when juniors were entirely deprived.

So far as the Chertsey District are concerned, this has worked well.—Yours truly,

ROY COLLINS.

SPLICED CAMBRIDGE & SUPERLATIVE PEALS

Dear Sir,—With reference to the correspondence concerning the false arrangement of Spliced Cambridge and Superlative, my sole reason for this letter is to establish the truth of the Rotherfield peal, conducted by Bill Rogers on January 18th, 1951.

Strange as it may seem, Bill has been saved from calling the false arrangement on two occasions. He is a very lucky fellow.

In his first letter to 'The Ringing World' he mentions the episode which took place in the belfry at Marshfield, Gloucester, just before the peal was attempted. This was almost a repeat performance of that which took place eight years ago at Rotherfield, prior to the peal being rung.

I was aware of the falseness at that time. I took part in the peal, and can vouch for the truth of the composition rung. I do not keep a detailed list of my peals rung, but have a vague recollection that the peal was submitted to the 'R.W.' incorrectly—Bill was probably still in a 'flat spin' when he sent it up. I have, incidentally, written to him reminding him, and said I would write to the 'R.W.', which is the reason why no notice of withdrawing the peal has been published.

I would like to add here that I intend no reflections upon Bill Rogers. I have not seen him now for over two years; if I had, perhaps this unfortunate episode might never have occurred.

As a matter of interest, I would like to add that I was not aware until I read his letter in the 'R.W.' that he had nearly been caught on a second time, but for the timely intervention of Stephen Ivins.

I realise that I have little to substantiate my statement that the peal was true, as apparently nobody else clearly remembers. I have, however, over the intervening years, called the true variation four or five times, as back numbers of the 'R.W.' or K.C.A. annual reports will confirm, and I hope this will dispel any doubts as to my integrity in this matter.

For years I have been under the impression that the falseness of the arrangement was well known; I had no reason to doubt this until July, 1957. Whilst on tour in Sussex I happened to mention it, and was surprised to find that none of the company were aware of it. Shortly after this, Stephen Ivins wrote to the 'R.W.' explaining the falseness of the arrangement. Well done, Stephen!

Just how many of us did know, I wonder?—Yours faithfully,

MARK S. LANCEFIELD.

THAT EXTRA CWT.

Dear Sir,—Yes, Mr. Hall, the cwt. that fell off Burnham tenor between January 31st and February 14th made all the difference in the Superlative. As the Stedman report was sent in by me (the tenor ringer), I can only assume that my figures were so bad that the Editor could not distinguish my 2 from a 3. Correct weight: 12 cwt. 2 qr. 13 lb. in F sharp. Taylors, 1949.—Yours, etc.,

GEORGE GILBERT.

LEICESTER SCHOLARS' RECORDS

Dear Sir,—When going through the old Leicester Scholars' books for history records check-up, I came across the enclosed quaint 'Ringers' Song' and 'Rules,' which I feel sure will be of interest to many of our present ringers who may not have seen these before. I have copied exactly from the original as to spelling and notation.—Yours sincerely,

Shall be Deducted with exactness true,
And further more if any one beside Refuse by these our Orders to abide
From out the Belfrey shall be expell'd
And as an Alien evermore be held.

JUNIORS' RIGHTS

Dear Sir,—Your correspondent, Mr. J. Vernon, asks for opinions on the junior vote.

I was extremely surprised to hear that any Guild member should doubt the integrity of younger members by trying to abolish their right to vote over matters which concern them. In my experience they are quite able to appreciate matters put to the vote.

In this area, we of the younger generation are encouraged to take an active interest in the business of our Guilds and Associations, with the result that four local Guilds and Associations have a large number of officers under the age of 25. Because at an early age we were made to feel that we and the Guild belong to each other, by being allowed to have some say in Guild matters, we have become loyal members.

It is not the fault of juniors if they are numerically stronger at meetings than their elders, thereby being able to outvote them. We should all be happy to see young people taking sufficient interest in associations of ringers (or any other associations) to make the voting a fair representation of all age groups.

I emphatically support Mr. Vernon's views. Let's have democracy in this not-so-trivial matter.—Yours sincerely, Tunbridge Wells. ERIC J. BRUNGER.

WINCHESTER & PORTSMOUTH DIOCESAN GUILD

Dear Sir,—Rule 18 of the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild rules states that a booking fee of sixpence per ringer is due from all ringers taking part in tower bell and handbell peals rung for the Guild, and the conductor of the peal is responsible for collecting and forwarding these fees to the Peal Recorder.

These fees have not been paid in respect of the following list of peals, published in 'The Ringing World' as having been rung for the Guild: and at an executive committee meeting held at Southampton on March 21st it was unanimously agreed that unless the fees be paid before April 30th the peals in question will not be recognised by the Guild or included in the Guild records or reports.

50 YEARS AGO

From 'The Bell News and Ringers' Record' of April 3rd, 1909.

Peals recorded.—Superlative 1, Double Norwich 3, Treble Bob Major 5, Stedman Triples 4, Grandsire Triples 6, Minor 4, Doubles 2. Total 25. Handbell peals.—Grandsire Caters 2, Forward Royal 1, Stedman Caters 1, Bob Major 1, Grandsire Triples 2. Total 7.

Peals of Doubles provide plenty of material for correspondents. We learn: 'Forty-two six-scores of Grandsire Doubles is regarded in some quarters as an awful infliction both upon ringers and parishioners. It has been hinted that the everlasting monotony of such a performance is mental danger. The terrific strain upon the faculties, combined with the awful monotony, must develop a tendency to brain softening.' Now we know.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

On March 7th a very successful and happy gathering of over 60 members and friends attended a by-meeting of Rochester District at SS, Peter and Paul's, Shorne. This tower contains a handy ring of six (tenor 9½ cwt.) which is rung from the ground floor. Good use was made of these bells both before and after the service and tea.

The Vicar (Rev. M. G. Taylor) conducted the service and Mr. C. Jarrett (Ringing Master) played the organ. Tea was held in the Village Hall, there being no business meeting.

Mr. T. Barton thanked the Vicar and the ladies who had helped with the tea. For a change, handbells were rung to tunes until 6.30 p.m.; then tracks were made to the tower for further ringing, which ranged from rounds to Cambridge Minor.

ONE ROAD TO CAMBRIDGE

THE STORY OF A VILLAGE TOWER

WHENEVER a hiker lowers his pack to take a well-earned breather by the wayside, he thinks not only of the miles which lie behind but also of those unknown roads whose mysteries have still to be explored. As with a hiker, so with a ringer. There may be many milestones behind us, but any ringer worth his salt must often wonder what lies just around the corner or over the hill.

One 'never-to-be-forgotten' milestone in the life of many a ringer is the one which marks his arrival at Cambridge. And if a complete band arrive together, then the occasion is even more momentous.

When the ban on ringing was lifted in 1943, Saxilby had four bells and five ringers whose ability extended to chiming. Within a short time, however, the bells were being raised and lowered in the approved style, some new recruits had been found and, with the assistance of E. Collinson, from Harby, a start had been made on change-ringing. Of that band, John Blaikie (who was then tower captain), Martin Mann, John and John B. Nicholson are still members. David Crosby joined in June, 1946.

In June, 1947, two new trebles were added, the old bells were retuned and the whole set was rehung in a new steel frame. Taylors did the work. This was during the ministry of the late Rev. W. L. Mann, and the Sub-Dean of Lincoln (Canon A. M. Cook) dedicated the bells on April 19th.

Police Sergeant Fred Bishop happened along at this time, and took over as tower captain when John Blaikie reached military age. Mr. Bishop was the only member of the band who had rung changes on six bells, but some of the members were now making regular visits to the neighbouring 6-bell tower at Eagle. Here they were made very welcome and given opportunities to practise Doubles and Minor methods. By October they were ringing Bob Doubles in their own tower.

THE FIRST PEAL

In the meantime the first peal on the augmented ring of six had been recorded. This was on May 3rd, when Fred Bishop rang the treble for five members of the Frampton band—Rhoda Brown 2, Arthur Young 3, Albert Flatters 4, Wm. Wilkinson 5 and John Young (conductor) 6.

By the end of 1948 the local band were ringing Grandsire Doubles, St. Simon's Doubles and Plain Bob Minor. A number of new recruits were started from time to time. Some 'stuck'—most of them failed. Among those who did make the grade was the first lady member, Joan Leek, who started in July, 1948, and Harry Dove (March, 1949).

In December, 1948, the band scored its first quarter peal of Grandsire. The team on that occasion was David Crosby 1, John Nicholson 2, Fred Bishop 3, John Blaikie 4, John B. Nicholson (conductor) 5 and Ted Stroud 6. In April, 1949, the band was strengthened by the arrival in the parish of Bill Baker, who had been a regular ringer at St. Peter's, Lincoln, and shortly afterwards Single Court and St. Clement's were being rung.

But things did not always run smoothly, and all members of the band were shocked to hear—on November 8th, 1949—that Ted Stroud had been killed in a motor-cycling accident. A few weeks later Martin Mann was admitted for a lengthy spell in hospital, and in the following April Fred Bishop reached police force retiring age and left the parish. Once again, rounds, Queens and call-changes figured prominently in the Sunday service ringing. Bill Baker now took over at tower captain, and two recruits of this period who made the grade were Bill Cragg, who commenced in December, 1949, and Walter Cox (April, 1950).

A DIFFICULT PERIOD

Single Oxford was being rung in June, 1950, but members were still being lost. Joan Leek left the parish in June, 1950, to take up a nursing appointment, and Bill Cragg joined the Royal Navy in September, 1951. Mary Yardley started in June, 1952, but she was the last recruit of note until her sister Kathleen started in May, 1955.

The strength of the band was now down to nine, and enforced absenteeism through sickness and National Service resulted in 'No ringing' appearing in the records far more often than anyone wished. At other times only five bells were rung. Practices were kept going with difficulty and the only new method learned was Kent Treble Bob, which was being rung by early 1954.

Bill Baker had several bouts of sickness and eventually handed over the captaincy to Walter Cox in January, 1956. Either John Blaikie or Martin Mann would probably have been elected captain at this time, but they were both now living outside the parish, and their future as members of the band was probably thought to be more uncertain than time has proved it to be.

A group of new recruits started training on Easter Monday, 1956, and two of these—Shirley Guymer and Pamela Cox—are now established members, as is Mike Keyworth, who started in January, 1957.

'MOST NOTEWORTHY EFFORT'

John B. Nicholson was doing all the conducting at this time, but his most noteworthy effort was in June, 1956, when he conducted Mary Yardley to the altar. A quarter peal was tried on that occasion. The following year another quarter peal was tried. The baby brought us better luck!

Attempts at new methods met with little success, and the training of the new recruits was pushed on apace. Five members, however, scored their first peal on May 12th, 1956, when, with the very able assistance of George Feirn, two extents each of Plain Bob, Single Oxford and Single Court, and one extent of Kent were rung by David Crosby 1, Harry Dove 2, John B. Nicholson 3, John Blaikie 4, Walter Cox 5 and George Feirn (conductor) 6.

The next method to be really conquered was Double Oxford, and this was not until early 1958. The first touch of Stedman Doubles was scored in June of the same year, and the 1958/59 winter started with Cambridge just round the corner. But a start on the last stage of the journey was not made until the new year, and then, on January 29th, the first course by the band was rung by Mary Nicholson 1, Shirley Guymer 2, Pamela Cox 3, John Blaikie 4, Martin Mann 5 and Walter Cox 6. During the next few weeks courses were also rung by John B. Nicholson, Mike Keyworth and Harry Dove.

It has been a long road with many a twist and turn, and one thing is certain—no history is being made at Saxilby. No Wm. Sheppard of the future will entertain his readers with tales of the greatness or eccentricities of any of our members. Saxilby is but a tiny spot in the overall pattern of bell-ringing activities taking place in this country today. But, some of us think, it's not a bad spot! H. W. C.

DEDDINGTON, OXON.—On Sept 9th. 1.260 Plain Bob Doubles (with 7, 6, 8 covering): Yvonne M. Obbard 1, W. H. Minnear 2, W. E. Honour 3, W. Ivings 4, E. E. Pearson (cond.) 5, R. G. A. West 6, W. J. OBITUARY

MR. CHARLES W. F. CLARKE

Following a long period of indisposition and infirmity, the death took place of Mr. Charles W. F. Clarke, of Great Cornard, Sudbury, Suffolk, on March 13th, at the age of 81.

He was the last of the company that did so much excellent work to advance ringing at Thorington, Essex, where, with his great friends the late Geo. Andrews and W. J. Nevard, he did most of his early ringing.

His pleasant, unassuming manner earned him many friends. He lived for a time at Assington before coming to Sudbury. A good ringer and striker, he was there obliged to hide his light under the proverbial bushel, where the company was under the capable and respected late D. H. Elliott. He was always willing to turn out, and ready to walk the three miles each way to and from Sudbury. Mr. Clarke had rung several peals far and near.

Of late, failing eyes prevented him from reading, and the writer had visited him frequently and read over items from 'The Ringing World,' and it has given me much pleasure to allow him to recall his many excursions of years ago and experiences.

He was laid to rest with his wife, who died nine years ago, amidst signs of great respect and sympathy. A truly lovable character, may he rest in peace.

A quarter peal of Grandsire Triples was rung half-muffled at All Saints', Sudbury, as a passing tribute. A. A. F.

MR. MAURICE WATTS

In our last issue we briefly recorded the passing, on March 9th, of Mr. Maurice Watts, of Wadhurst, who sang in the choir for 70 years and was tenor soloist for 50 years.

He learnt to ring at Wadhurst in 1888. As the result of a serious internal operation, the doctor forbade him to ring, but such was his determination and effortless handling of a bell that he carried on, and completed 56 years in the belfry.

In the Church he held many offices, including churchwarden. He was a successful business man and prominent in local government: in sport he was an excellent shot, and in his younger days a footballer, cricketer and bowls player.

Every organisation in the parish was represented at the funeral service on March 13th, and as the coffin left the church local ringers paid tribute with half-muffled Bob Doubles, the sound that he knew so well. Before Evensong the following Sunday, a quarter peal was rung to his memory. We shall always remember him standing with his head bowed, leading the old six down in peal, a job he could do to perfection. C. A. B.

MR. EDWARD PHILLIPS

A fine ringer who put service ringing first, Mr. Edward Phillips has died at his home in Bryncoch, near Neath, aged 74 years. For 60 years he rang at Cadoxton and was respected by all who knew him.

MR. G. N. PRICE AN APPRECIATION

I should like to support all Mr. Hodgetts said about this very good ringer and teacher of many others. What I remember most about him was a peal attempt at Wymondham, near Norwich, on September 27th, 1913: 'G.N.' was conducting. After 20 minutes he said: 'Stand! Shall we ring something we can ring?' The little man next to 'G.N.' said: 'We have come here to ring Bristol.' 'Bristol it's going to be,' he replied, and Bristol it was—a good peal. He did a lot for the Exercise and young ringers. May he rest in peace.

ORANGES AND LEMONS

DICK, later Sir Richard Whittington, was Lord Mayor of London in 1406-7, and again in 1419, 1420 and 1423. It is not until 1605 that we find any reference to the legend of his being inspired by the sound of church bells, and that information comes to us in the records of the licensing of a play entitled 'The History of Richard Whittington, of His Lowe Byrth, His Great Fortune.' One can speculate as to how the play came to be written and come to any conclusion one likes best. It may be that the bells inspired Whittington, but it is equally likely that they inspired the playwright. Whichever way it was, one point must be kept in mind.

Before the Reformation very few churches were allowed to have a ring of more than three bells; and whether or not Bow was one of the more fortunate, and whether or not it was the Bow bells which Whittington heard, it is almost a certainty that it would be a ring of three bells which the playwright heard. But however that may be, it would not be the ringing of Cambridge Surprise or some other scientific change-ringing which inspired either Whittington or his historian. No! It would be the oft-repeated 'called' change, and that most likely on three bells only. 'Turn again: Whittington': one, two three; one, two, three; 'Thou worthy: citizen': one, two, three: one, two, three.'

It is a sobering thought that no more people go to church in places where there are eight or ten good bells rung in the best tradition than there are in parishes with only an odd and not so musical little thing swinging in an arch. But that is not to say that the ringing of a full eight is of no more worth than the single bell. But much depends on the manner of ringing. If then the attendance at church is not in proportion to the number of bells and the style of ringing, just where is the value of a full ring to be found? Surely it is dependent on the impression which the ringing makes on the listener. But what does the listener hear? Does one just hear the bells or does one listen to them? There can be very little doubt that people who are quite uninformed in matters pertaining to campanology only hear the bells. The question that then presents itself to ringers is—How can we ring so that people are made to listen?

It was not Kent Treble Bob on the bells of St. Clement's which inspired that wonderful party game of our childhood—nor Stedman on the bells of Shoreditch. Surely, it can only have been an oft-repeated but well-struck called change; and maybe there is a lesson for us today to be found in the sometimes despised work of our forbears. One thing can be certain, and that is that the constant altering of the order of the bells, however well it is performed, will never impress itself on the mind of the casual hearer; and if our ringing is going to have any lasting benefit at least some part of our Sunday effort must contain an oft-repeated called change which would impress itself on the mind of all who heard it. It would then be carried away in memory, and though the people who heard it might not be aware of it at the time they would recall it in days to come. And who can tell what saving grace such recollection might impart?

There is a place in every tower for a 'Signature Tune,' and the cultivation of that can only lead to better and more fruitful ringing. At present we ring too much for our own ears.

HENRY ALLEN.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION VISIT ISLE OF THANET

FOR the third time since the war, it was the turn of the Canterbury District to be hosts for the annual meeting of the Kent County Association on Easter Monday; but this time instead of Canterbury the venue was Margate, after an interval of 21 years. For many it was the first opportunity for a concerted attack on the Thanet towers: the recently recast octave at All Saints', Birchington; the unique ring of 12 in Quex Park; the ten bells of St. Lawrence-in-Thanet (an 11th century church with an interesting approach to the ringing chamber); the ring of eight at St. Peter-in-Thanet, which church has distinguished itself by building up a local band of 38 (thirty-eight!) ringers; and the octave at Margate Parish Church itself. Over 200 members from all parts of Kent attended.

THE SERVICE

The service at noon in Margate Parish Church was a glorious experience. The beautiful Easter decorations, the robed choir even on a Bank Holiday (the choirboys volunteering to come), the singing of the Ringers' Hymn and the great Easter hymns, not least the sermon by the Vicar (Canon S. A. Odum), which opened with the arresting words: 'Whether you like it or not, the plain truth of the Christian faith is this, that it is God who gives all power, it is HIS-STORY'; all this combined to give a deep sense of inspiration.

Second came the luncheon in the sun lounge of the Winter Gardens, and we were privileged to have with us as our guests the Mayor of Margate, his chaplain (the Vicar of Margate) and the Vicars of Birchington (Rev. Christopher Donaldson) and St. Peter-in-Thanet (Rev. Tom Prichard). It was an excellent repast, and everyone was in good humour and conscious of a glow of welcome. Both the Mayor and Canon Odum remarked with pleasure on the large number of young people present—a healthy sign for the future.

The third corporate activity was the annual meeting, under the excellent chairmanship of Mr. John Willis. Apologies had been received from Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Mitchell, Mr. F. S. Macey, Mr. E. J. Ladd, Mr. A. G. Hill, Jill and Geoff Waters (pressure of lambing) and Mr. G. H. Spice. After the minutes the secretary (Dr. E. S. J. Hatcher) presented his report, the company standing in silence while the names of members who had died during the year were read. Especially tragic was the untimely death of John L. Morris, to cut short a brilliant career and to rob the Exercise of an outstanding ringer and a potential leader of great promise.

THE SURVEY—NOTHING BUT GOOD

The report began by extending good wishes to Dr. Crick, the former Dean of Rochester, and Mrs. Crick on their retirement, and welcomed the former's successor, who as Bishop of Woolwich was already a vice-president. Summing up 1958, the activity and vigour of the Association was ramified throughout every District, and as an organised body was reasonably equipped to face the great challenge of the present, a challenge soon to be interpreted factually by the Sunday Ringing Survey. Later in the meeting it was announced that the towers of the county had responded well to the survey invitation, and the chairman remarked that it was a long time since any similar survey was made and that nothing but good would result.

There was an improvement in membership, with subscriptions from 1,045 practising members, the new members (166) still being offset by considerable 'wastage.' Of six towers affiliated during the year, Minster (Thanet) and Ulcombe were for the first time ever, while Hunton was one of the original founder towers of 1880. A full programme of 44 District meetings was carried through, a few of these jointly with other Guilds, and the annual dinner in Maidstone on November 22nd was attended by a company of 120, the president of the Central Council (Mr. Frederick Sharpe) being among the guests. Interesting events of each District in turn were mentioned, and to conclude his report the secretary recalled that at the request of the Bishop of Rochester the bells of the diocese pealed forth on the day of the great thanksgiving service in the Royal Festival Hall for the wonderful progress of church extension in the vast new housing areas, the tinge of sadness being at the dearth of planning eventually to build towers to the new churches in which bells could be hung. 'Still, we are extremely delighted that a ring of six bells is to be hung in the new church at Biggin Hill.'

REPORTS—DISAPPOINTING SALE

Mr. B. W. May, as treasurer, presented a most satisfactory report, noting, however, that the price of badges was to be increased to 3s. 6d. to meet their extra cost, and that the sale of printed reports was disappointing, only one member in ten buying one. The cost of their printing is the Association's heaviest item of expenditure, and it was regretful that at half their cost price the available copies were not eagerly taken up. Considerable effort goes in the compilation of the report, especially to bring it out in time for Easter Monday. This year such efforts had been thwarted as proofs did not arrive from the new printer until the Monday and Thursday of Holy Week. Incidentally, fewer peals were rung during the year, and on the comment that this would ease the pressure on space in the report, the secretary informed the meeting that he was utilising this to give an up to date summary of Association peals and details of first performances.

In the election of officers two changes occurred, Mr. A. S. Richards succeeding Mr. W. L. Rayner as hon. auditor and Mr. Ian H. Oram succeeding Mr. T. Cullingworth as peal secretary, Mr. B. W. May continuing as hon. treasurer and Dr. E. S. J. Hatcher as hon. secretary.

The date of the annual dinner had been fixed for Saturday, September 26th, in Rochester, just previous to the round of annual District meetings and, as far as possible, avoiding clashing with the dinners of other Guilds and Associations.

During the year four younger members had submitted designs for a new membership certificate, and it was announced that a sub-committee had been formed charged with the responsibility of selecting a winning design and supervising its printing.

INVITATION TO CENTRAL COUNCIL

Perhaps the most significant item of business came late on the agenda, for after consideration by the meeting it was unanimously agreed to extend a very warm invitation to the Central Council to hold their 1960 meeting in Kent, this being the 80th year since the Association was founded, and also fairly early in the period of office as secretary to the Council of Mr. E. A. Barnett, a vice-president of the Kent County Association and a member of a great Kent ringing family. Appropriately enough, under 'Any other business,' Mr. E. A. Barnett read a letter he had received from the Rector of Pluckley, giving warm thanks for the expert advice given to him by Mr. F. E. Collins, a member of the Council's Towers and Belfries Committee, who happily was present. Finally, Mr. P. A. Corby gave a hearty vote of thanks to 'everyone to whom it should be extended' for all that had been done to make the day such a success: Mr. B. J. Luck (District secretary), Mr. A. J. Dadds, of Margate, the Mayor of Margate, the Vicar of Margate and the incumbents of the other Thanet towers; for the service arrangements, especially the choir; to Mr. John Willis as chairman, and to Dr. E. S. J. Hatcher.

The sun shone as we poured out of the Winter Gardens. A breath of sea air, a cup of tea, and then resumption of ringing—a truly wonderful day and worth every ounce of effort put into its preparation. Perhaps 21 years will not be allowed to pass before we return to the Isle of Thanet for our Easter rendezvous!

NAILSEA'S BORDER VISIT

A first in the method by all the band, including the conductor, was recorded when on March 14th Nailsea ringers and their supporters toured towers on the Devon-Somerset border in a Microbus, expertly driven by Michael. Due to the poor weather, the journeys between the valleys were made up in the clouds.

The first tower, Luppitt (6, 10 cwt.), was located after a drive across the runway of a disused aerodrome, similar in surface to a certain bypass. The church is tucked away on the side of the hill and contains a first-class and well-struck ring of six bells. We were joined here by the remainder of our party from Warmley, and some good false touches were rung. A climb up the hill and down the steep slope took us to Upottery (6, 17 cwt.); ringing was delayed when it was discovered that the clappers had all been tied for the benefit of local learners. Once this was remedied good use was made of this rather heavy going six before adjourning for tea.

At Yarcombe (5, 17 cwt.) the low ceiling is not conducive to easy handling. The pleasing tone of the back four is offset by a notoriously sharp treble, rather jarring to the sensitive ear. In contrast, the five bells at Whitestaunton, rung in the vestry, proved very enjoyable and mellow. Ropesight is good, and a variety of Doubles methods were rung.

Darkness had fallen by the time the party reached Combe St. Nicholas (6, 14 cwt.), a surprisingly large church with a beautifully-carved screen, and without doubt the best six bells of the day. The standard of striking was good, and the elusive touch of London was brought round. The final call was Buckland St. Mary (6, 13 cwt.), where tower sway affects the ringing. A plain course of Double Stedman S.C. Minor—the 'poor man's Bristol,' as the cynics call it—came round (I think!), and a good fall ended a very successful afternoon's ringing.

We must thank Mary for her excellent planning, including tea, and incumbents and tower captains for making us welcome: last but not least Michael, whose 'first attempt' steered the Microbus on a perfect plain course (except for one dodge!).

Swansea ringers are delighted with their new ring of eight, which was rung for the first time on Easter Day. Forty people crammed into the small, partly-finished belfry at one time. Among the visitors was Mr. E. T. P. Field, who started at 4.30 a.m. for the 170 miles to Swansea. The opinion of Mr. J. A. Hoare, the captain of the tower, is that the bells are a grand ring—one of the most perfect he has rung on. They have a mellow tone and the movements are perfect, he told the local press.

Some 18 months ago a band was formed at Dunholme, Lincs, with Mr. John M. Blaikie as instructor, and has made good progress. This week we record the first quarter peal. These bells are now rung regularly on Sundays after years of silence.

The Church Council and parishioners of Petham, near Canterbury, have presented a chiming clock to Mr. A. Jarvis to mark his completion of 50 years as a ringer at All Saints', Petham. A quarter peal of Grandsire Doubles was rung on March 14th in honour of the occasion. In it there were three first quarters, one being by Mrs. Philpott, from St. Dunstan's, Canterbury, who is Mr. Jarvis' sister.

Very strong resentment is expressed by Cambridge ringers at a letter which appeared in a local paper stating: 'To see real unadulterated dirt at its thickest one should climb into the belfry. Here one may often hear colourful language which puts the mere railway porter to shame. Campanology is a very trying business.' Mr. T. Reginald Dennis comments: 'Of course we know in our travels some belfries could do with a good spring clean, but I draw the line about "colourful language," which I think is a definite slander on the Exercise as we know it today.'

BELFRY GOSSIP

The Tenby lifeboat was called 'into the hunt' on one occasion over the Easter holidays when a sailing craft manned by two Sea Scouts capsized in the bay. It was called 'out of the hunt' a little later after fishing the two Scouts out of the water and taking their boat in tow. The following evening, on Easter Sunday, one of the Sea Scouts proved that he was none the worse for his early dip by calling a quarter peal of Grandsire Triples at Tenby Church.

The peal at Swynnerton on March 7th (see page 200) was rung half-muffled in memory of Mr. Albert Hoggetts.

Kent County Association has 1,045 practising members. New members during 1958 totalled 166.

The new bell at Cromhall, Glos, to be dedicated soon, is named after the former Rector, A. D. H. Allan, and will be dedicated by him.

The name of the new Bishop of Bristol, for whose enthronement a peal was rung on Bristol Cathedral bells, is the Rt. Rev. Oliver Stratford Tomkins.

The T.V. film of some ringing at Baldock was not shown on B.B.C. T.V. on Lady Day. This was because the rest of the programme was too long. It was suggested to Canon F. G. Brenchley (Rector of Baldock) that the film be shown in the Wednesday Magazine of May 13th.

Leicester Diocesan Guild at their annual meeting last Saturday elected Mr. Peter J. Staniforth as president in succession to Mr. Paul L. Taylor. Mr. Arthur Rowley, who had been treasurer since 1946, retired, and Mr. Ernest Morris was appointed to the office. Mr. Frank Measures and Mr. P. L. Taylor are the vice-presidents. A motion to stop juniors voting was lost by 114 votes to 10.

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY GUILD

80th Annual Dinner

THE 80th anniversary dinner of the Cambridge University Guild was held on March 7th, and the writer must apologise for being so late in sending in this account of it—he can only plead that his 'chronic lethargy' has been worse than usual in the past few weeks. This delay has, however, its compensations, as will be seen later.

All the best ringers' dinners start on Friday and finish on Sunday, and the Cambridge University Guild's dinner has never, since it was first held in 1949, been an exception. Your correspondent followed some rather vague instructions on the Friday evening, and was rewarded by finding himself in a room in a building 'half way to Bedford' which was filled with members of the Guild and the sound of handbells. The members were in their turn being filled with coffee and biscuits, and it was clear that the other residents in the building thought we were mad.

Saturday morning 'dawned bright and fair,' although the weather soon deteriorated. It had been thought that it was a tradition of the Guild that it should snow on dinner day, but this year, for a change, persistent heavy rain was laid on.

TRADITION BROKEN!

Another thing that looked like becoming a tradition of the Guild was losing a peal at Saffron Walden, but this time, in spite of the efforts of some of the band, a peal of Cambridge Royal was scored. ('The rhythm of some of that peal reminded me of a young man named McNamara,' remarked one of the band afterwards.) The band will long remember the tenor ringer's acrobatics in opening a door when it was thought there were workmen on the church roof who wanted to come through. His performance even surpassed the famous 'rope-trick' performed at Chelmsford in 1957. While all this was going on, a more sedate band, who had risen later, rang a peal of Little Bob Major at Trumpington.

During the afternoon and evening there was ringing to be had at all four towers in Cambridge. This evidently mystified the citizens of Cambridge, judging by the following conversation overheard in a 'place of refreshment':—

Mild and Bitter: 'Them bells again! Bin ringing all afternoon they 'ave, all over the place!'

Stout: 'Yeah. 'n' 'smorning they was ringing in Trumpington too, and Saffron when I came by there with ole Charlie.'

Pint of Wallop: 'Spect it's weddings. Getting near April, 'y know—end of the ole financial year. Always get lots o' weddings 'bout this time.'

Stout: (Deleted by censor.)

The dinner itself was served in the Hall of Selwyn College as last year, and an excellent meal it was. It is difficult to imagine a more suitable place for a function of this sort. After the loyal toast, the president (Rev. A. C. Blyth) welcomed us all, and passed on apologies for absence from Major Freeborn, Dr. Poole and P. K. Williamson.

IN PARENTHESIS

(This is where the writer finds himself compensated for not having written this report earlier. In previous years, it was not until the following day that he was asked to write the report for 'The Ringing World.' This gave him an excuse to ignore completely whatever he remembered of the speeches, and instead to report what he thought should have been said. This year he was warned in advance, and took copious notes of the speeches. Now, however, after three weeks, he finds these notes quite meaningless, and is therefore once again able to give his pen free rein.)

BRAVE YOUNG EVESHAM RINGER

Sensible of the solemnity of the occasion, the London University Society felt it would be an insult merely to be represented by their Master, and so they were represented by their president (Mr. P. J. M. Gray), who proposed the toast of 'The Guild.' Before doing this he told us an anecdote about Mr. Khrushchev, spoke at length about the Central Council Survey of Sunday ringing, and eventually said that he thought the health of a University Guild should be measured by what the members do on 'going down' from their universities. It seems reasonable to assume that he expressed a certain amount of satisfaction at the activities of our non-resident members.

BEST HANDBELL BAND FOR YEARS

Replying to the toast, the Master (Mr. Hugh Neill) said: 'It is the privilege of Masters of University Societies to make the most boring speech of the evening, as all they have to do is to review the year's activities'—or words to that effect. No comment. Among other activities, he praised in particular the work of Robin Heppenstall in training the best handbell band the Guild has had for many years. This band has rung a peal in 14 Spliced Plain Major methods, and a peal of Bob Maximus—achievements which would do credit to any ringing Society. Other outstanding features of the year were the very successful Guild week at Bristol, the peal of Cambridge Maximus at Aston, and the Guild's 500th peal. The Master also reported that during term time the resident members had continued to ring for four services each Sunday, and that the standard of ringing had shown a good improvement.

Mr. W. J. Ridgman proposed the toast of 'The Guests,' and took away most of their characters. They included Canon Woodard, of Great St. Andrew's (in welcoming him, Mr. Ridgman said that only £170 was now needed for the bell restoration fund), Messrs. Dennis and Brown ('who had taught the Guild many things'), of the Cambridge Youths, Mr. J. (Hammers) Gipson and Mr. E. Bullman, of the Ely Diocesan Association, Mr. J. Paling (Master of the Oxford University Society), Mr. Gray (see above), Mr. J. Davis, from Reading University. (Continued in next column)

BRAVERY on the part of a 15-year-old Worcestershire ringer, Geoffrey Richard James Hemming, who dived into the River Avon to rescue a girl aged four, although he had a broken wrist which was still in plaster, has been recognised by the Royal Humane Society.

At a meeting of the magistrates on March 23rd, the Mayor of Evesham (Cler. Bert Godwin) presented Geoffrey with the R.H.S. life-saving certificate, and said the whole town was proud of him. Our picture shows Geoffrey receiving his certificate from the Mayor. With him are Brian Knight (left) and Charles Rogers who rendered assistance.

The rescue took place last August. Geoffrey, walking in a riverside playing field at Evesham, saw the child—Pat Newbury—floating downstream. He dived immediately, brought her to the bank and applied artificial respiration. She recovered completely.

Geoffrey, an experienced young ringer, is a son of Mr. Geoffrey Hemming, of Peewit Road, Hampton, Evesham, who is Master of the ringers of Evesham bell tower, a College Youth and one of Worcestershire's best-known campanologists. Mr. Hemming took a leading part in the restoration of Evesham bell tower and, as a committee member responsible especially for advising about the bells, successfully persuaded fund organisers that a ring of 12 was essential. Formerly the tower had ten. He got his way.

Geoffrey's grandfather, Ald. James Hemming, a former mayor of Evesham, was another prominent ringer. One of Evesham bell tower's present ring of 12 is named after him.

versity, Mrs. Gray and Mrs. Threlfall, and 'others too numerous to mention'—the writer apologises to anyone whose name he has forgotten.

Mr. Paling replied on behalf of the guests. His speech was brief and, for a change, to the point.

Suitable refreshments were available after dinner. Appropriately enough, these were served in 'The Tower Room.'

A great deal of ringing took place on Sunday, but your correspondent has run out of ink, so cannot describe it in detail. W. T. C.

CONTEST RINGING IN NORTH OF ENGLAND

By NOEL F. MOXON

Between the wars Liversedge were a great power in the competition, winning 13 contests, with Batley close on their heels with 12 wins. Much of the success of Liversedge (who now have won the cup 21 times) during the past 25 years must be due to Mr. Fred Hodgson who was conductor during this period. When sitting in the tower whilst Liversedge were competing, one was always struck by the carefree attitude of the conductor and the other ringers, very different from the grim and strained appearance of some other bands; but when Liversedge began the test piece it was very apparent they were in deadly earnest!

ONE SLIP FATAL

On one occasion, having been winners the previous year Liversedge had to change their method for a contest, and full of confidence rang Cambridge Surprise, but again came out top. Friezland, of whom little was heard during the early part of this century, began to provide serious opposition to the crack teams, and the standard of 6-bell ringing rose to great heights; even if a team had rung well during the test piece, a slight slip, although instantly corrected, was sufficient to place them well down the list.

Three contests are held each year—spring, summer and autumn—small prizes being awarded only at the summer event. Worthy of mention is the Halifax contest at Elland on April 1st, 1950, when eight teams competed and the test piece was shortened from 600 changes to 504. Meltham rang first, but Edward Earnshaw forgot about the alteration and called 600; Friezland followed on, and although aware of Meltham's slip rang 600 and were also disqualified. Shelley 'B,' who had the least number of faults of the remaining teams, were therefore the winners, but before the cup could be presented it was revealed that they had committed a breach of rules and therefore received 30 penalties. This brought Cawthorne into the picture and they were awarded the cup—their first win—but a hollow victory, and it was not until 1957 that they did eventually win the cup properly.

THE MELTHAM TEAM

This Society has been well served by Mr. Edward Earnshaw, of Meltham, who has been chairman for 32 years. A fine tenor ringer, he has had the backing of the Meltham team, where a sound reputation of good striking has been maintained. Included in the team is Mrs. Mary Greenwood, her husband Mr. Joseph Greenwood, and her father Mr. Charles Byram. Sheffield also has an interest in contest ringing, and although the cup which they possess is over 60 years old there is no evidence that prizes were included in the competition.

According to Mr. Sidney Palmer, the cup was first given by a Mr. Nicholson, of Treeton, to the old East Derbyshire Society, now amalgamated with the Sheffield and District Society. The cup had a varied career since coming into the possession of the S. and D. Society, who had once to take legal action to recover it from the last tower company to win it and who wrongly refused to give it up. The cup lay dormant for several years through lack of interest until revived after the last war. Contests have been held regularly in post-war years and the rules were revised in 1953, bringing them more or less into line with the West Yorkshire competitions; the test piece is 360 changes of Minor or Doubles, usually rung with open leads. During recent years Warsop have won the cup four years in succession, having attained a very high standard of striking, whilst Handsworth have three wins to their credit.

BARNSELY AND DISTRICT SOCIETY

In 1926 the Barnsley and District Society purchased a large oak shield with a silver centre depicting a ringer standing beneath a bell in the set position. The first contest was held at St. Mary's, Barnsley, with an entry of 11 teams. The bells at that time were heavy going, and one man collapsed under the tenor bell. Shelley were awarded the shield with Cawthorne runners-up. At Crofton in 1929 the number of entries fell to four, and when the judge announced his decision, Wath, Sandal and Shelley were astounded to learn they had all tied with 121 faults! On October 12th the three teams rang again, but Shelley proved easy winners; under their conductor, Mr. Andra' Hoyle, they continued until 1940 with great success, taking the shield away seven times.

Liversedge, scoring well in the Halifax Cup, turned to Barnsley for fresh fields to conquer, and met with great success, winning the shield in 1935–36–37–38. Friezland came to hear of the Barnsley Shield in an interesting way. Mr. Stanhope, of Cannon Hall, Cawthorne, had a friend near Friezland who spoke to him about the bells and ringers of this village, and Mr. Stanhope promptly responded with the prowess of the Cawthorne ringers. As a result of the conversation, the Friezland ringers visited Cawthorne, rang the bells, and hearing of the Barnsley Shield decided to enter the competition. They were runners-up in 1937, and in spite of the hold Liversedge had on the shield Friezland would not be denied, and carried away the trophy in 1939.

FRIEZLAND'S 'TRIPLE CROWN'

When the competition was resumed after the war, Friezland maintained their high standard of ringing, and up to date have scored five wins and three seconds. In 1949 Friezland won the 'Triple Crown,' the Barnsley Shield, the Halifax Cup and the Shelley Cup. Each year since the inception, a shield contest has been held, excepting the years when the ban was in operation, and in all 29 competitions have been held. The shield when enclosed in its case is fairly heavy, requiring two people to carry it, and some years ago a suggestion was put forward that a token silver cup be purchased to replace the shield, but the matter was not pursued.

In 1950, to commemorate the centenary of Christ Church, Friezland, the local company organised a 6-bell contest, and ringers from ten towers assembled to compete for the four sets of prizes, total value £30. The Friezland team opened the ringing as a prelude to the contest but, alas, broke down—a tragic occurrence which did not pass unnoticed by the visitors! At the close of the day the judges declared Liversedge the winners, with New Mill, Lindley and Shelley 'A' as runners-up.

HOYLANDSWAINE CUP

Besides the contests organised by Societies, competitions are run by local ringers, one such being Hoylandswaine, a small village near Penistone: a silver cup was purchased in 1924 and put up each year until 1935. The first winners were Wath-on-Deerne, who had a good team of ringers at this period, and in 1925–26–28 Cawthorne secured the cup. Other winners in the pre-war period were Shelley, Holmfirth, Meltham and Liversedge.

The cup lay dormant until 1948, when the Barnsley and District Society borrowed it and organised a September competition confined to towers within a 12-mile radius of Barnsley. Cawthorne have up to date scored five wins, other successful entrants being Silkstone, Shelley, Royston and Barnsley. Last year, 1958, the venue was Hoylandswaine, and it is hoped to annually hold the competition at this tower where the cup belongs.

At Shelley, near Huddersfield, the parishioners subscribed towards a handsome silver cup purchased in 1931, and contests are held at which attractive prizes are offered. Of the 14 contests held in all, New Mill and Meltham have each secured the cup five times, the latter team having won the last four contests, a remarkable feat considering the fierce competition.

Of the methods rung today, Oxford is the most popular, and when a change has to be made the year following a win, Kent or Woodbine are substituted. Plain methods such as Bob Minor find little favour, and some towers are unable to ring this method.

A KENT WEDDING

On Easter Monday the wedding of Miss Janet French to Mr. Kevin Hohl took place at the Church of St. Giles, Shipbourne, Kent. The service, which was fully choral, was conducted by the Vicar (Rev. R. W. Wilson) in the presence of a large congregation of relatives and friends, and immediately after the ceremony the bride and bridegroom were rung out of church by some ringing friends.

Miss French, who learnt to ring at Shipbourne, was for several years secretary of the local band, whilst Mr. Hohl was, until his service in the R.A.F., a member of the band at St. Peter's, Tunbridge Wells. Both the bride and the bridegroom are members of the Kent County Association and the East Grinstead Guild.

A peal of Cambridge Surprise Minor was rung at Shipbourne in the evening by friends of the Tonbridge District of the Kent County Association.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

THEOLOGICAL COLLEGES AND RINGING

Dear Sir,—With reference to Roger Fry's letter in your issue of April 3rd, with its quite excellent suggestions, it is worth noting that, at the request of the Central Council's Committee on Sunday Service Ringing, I have recently completed an inquiry covering all the English Theological Colleges. The following questions were asked:—

- (1) Have you a regular band of ringers amongst the students?
- (2) Have you a ringing instructor from a local church, in addition to the ringers in college?
- (3) Would you welcome the assistance of a local ringer as instructor?
- (4) Do you have an occasional lecture on ringing and ringers?
- (5) Would you welcome one if offered, if you have not one already?
- (6) Have you books on this subject in the library?
- (7) Do you hold regular ringing practices, and where?
- (8) Any other comments.

Analysis of the replies reveals the following:

(A) Some colleges find it impossible to include any kind of ringing instruction or practice in their curriculum, mainly because it is already overcrowded. These include Queens' (Birmingham), Westcott House (Cambridge), Chichester, Kelham, Lincoln, Mirfield and Wells. None seem hostile, and one or two note that keen students can ring if they want, to do so.

(B) Colleges where ringing flourishes. These include Cheshunt (whose Principal, Canon Trillo, is learning to ring), Cuddesdon, Lichfield and Salisbury.

(C) Colleges about which we ought to be doing something. These include: St. Aidan's, Birkenhead, wants a lecture. Ridley Hall, Cambridge, says men can ring with Cambridge University Guild, which it is hoped keeps in touch. Clifton has a lecture and books; no doubt Bristol University Society can keep in touch. Ely has six men who want to learn, and ask if they might do so at St. Mary's. Llandaff would welcome help from a local instructor, also a lecture. Oak Hill wants a lecture. Ripon Hall, Oxford, wants books for the library, and notes the existence of Oxford University Society, which it is hoped keeps in touch. Wycliffe Hall, Oxford, same applies. London College of Divinity wants a lecture in near future and thereafter regularly, and might start practising at a nearby tower.

Action is being taken with regard to class (C). Those clergy who attended colleges in the condition of class (A) are not necessarily lost for ever. Apart from the ever-present possibility of conversion in middle age, there are such activities nowadays as Diocesan Clergy Schools. I lectured at ours on 'Ringers in the Church' on April 6th.—Yours faithfully,

GILBERT THURLOW.

Great Yarmouth.

SHARESHILL RINGERS

Dear Sir,—May I be permitted to reply to the statement in 'The Ringing World' regarding 'Shreshill Ringers Disbanded'? I am certainly not carrying on by myself; the Rev. E. R. Roe received my resignation on March 13th. I quote an extract from my resignation:

'These young ringers, their parents, and myself, all agree that the action you have taken in disbanding the present band of ringers is far too drastic and out of all proportion.'

I have also sent a similar statement to the 'Wolverhampton Express and Star,' which was published. I hope this will clear any wrong impression it may have given to readers of 'The Ringing World'.—Yours truly,

H. BUTLER.

(Ex-) Tower Captain.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

Lecture To Branch Meeting

The monthly practice of the East Berks and South Bucks Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild was held at Boyne Hill in March, ringing in a variety of methods from rounds to Spliced Triples and Surprise Major being enjoyed by a large number of members and visitors.

After an excellent tea, supplied at a very modest cost by the local ringers, Mr. A. D. Barker gave a short lecture on the theory of change-ringing. He began with the handling of a bell, saying that the position of the feet was very important—a fact often forgotten these days—the rope should be kept straight, and an open handstroke lead should be kept, but closer on 10 and 12 than on eight—another point often forgotten.

He then dealt with method ringing, giving his opinion on the advantages of Triples over Major for a beginner, and the pitfalls of learning the bells rather than places. If anything was to be learnt, then the lead-ends of Plain Bob should be memorised, for they are the same for all regular methods, whether Surprise or Plain.

How to conduct Thurstan's peal of Stedman Triples was the next subject, the positioning of the hobs being discussed, and the inadvisability of calling odd touches of Stedman Triples. Mr. Barker also mentioned the in and out of course of the changes, referring all those interested to Snowden's Treatise on Treble Bob, Part I. He stated that he personally proved all the peals he conducted beforehand, and thus had not yet rung a false one.

Mr. G. Gilbert suggested that any of the younger ringers who had not been able to understand Mr. Barker should purchase a copy of 'Ropesight,' in which they would find all they wanted to know.

Mr. Barker mentioned the Dillington House course and suggested that members should consider the possibility of organising one in the Branch or Guild.

It is believed that this was the first time that a lecture of this sort has been given at a Guild meeting. Many thanks are due to Mr. Barker, although much of his talk was too complicated for some of the company.

The Guild of the Servants of the Sanctuary is holding its annual service and meeting at S. Nicolas, Guildford, on Saturday, April 25th, at 12 noon. Will members who would like to ring for the service contact Miss M. E. Collins, 3, Hawthorne Way, Burpham, Guildford, as it is proposed to arrange a quarter peal.

Randwick, New South Wales, the oldest municipality in Australia, as part of its centenary celebrations had the bells rung. Two quarters from this tower are recorded in this issue. One is especially noteworthy: Mr. J. Hammond walked into the tower and rang the tenor, a temperamental bell, without previous practice.

BELLS HEARD BY MILLIONS

A SHORT HISTORY OF ST. PETER'S, EVERCREECH

By HARRY SANGER

AT the foot of the Mendip Hills, some 25 miles south of Bristol, lies the village of Evercreech, famous for centuries for the magnificent tower of the Church of St. Peter, described by many authorities as the finest in this county famous for its splendid towers. Built in the latter half of the 15th century, it rises to a height of a hundred feet in graceful proportion and commands the eye from every entry to the village. In it is hung a fine modern ring of ten bells, with a tenor of some 21 cwt., and generally considered to be very much in keeping with the tower which houses them.

These bells of St. Peter's have been heard by millions of listeners to the B.B.C. Light Programme over the past six years, opening the programme on Sunday mornings, and apart from Bow Bells have been heard by more people than any other bells in the country. Little wonder, then, that the present generation of Evercreech folk is as proud of its bells as its forefathers were of the tower.

It is now ten years since the new bells were installed in the tower, and their popularity with visitors and the general public has prompted the writing of the story of 'The Bells of St. Peter's.'

A 500-YEAR-OLD BELL

Their story commences in about 1530, when the first bell was hung in the tower. It was cast by Thomas Geffries, of Bristol, and weighed about 13 cwt. Till 1949 it had been in use in its original state, with the exception of the removal of the canons, for a period of 500 years. It is now hung 'dead' and used as a service bell, and is one of the few survivors of this mediaeval Bristol foundry. The inscription, 'Sancta. Trinitas. Unus. Deus.', with rosettes and fleurs-de-lys interspersed, is round the crown of the bell.

The next mention of the bells is in 1634, when it would appear four bells were added, three lighter and one heavier than the 1530 bell. All records of the inscriptions on these bells have been lost, with the exception of the third of these four. The inscription on this bell was: 'R.T.T.H.R.—P. [with a bell design between the R. and P.] Anno Domini 1634. As this bell was recast over 100 years ago, we can only rely on written records for this date; but strangely enough the first initials are those of the churchwardens of 1632, Ralph Turber and Thomas Hayes, the final ones being those of the founder, Roger Purdue, of Bristol.

The churchwardens' accounts reveal nothing further concerning the bells till 1717, when we find the following entry:—

Item. A catalogue of those who subscribed toward erecting a new ring loft.

and in the following year, 1718, the bells were very much to the fore in village affairs, as these items indicate.

ST. PETER'S, EVERCREECH

Paid William Cockey, Bell-founder, for casting 716 lbs. of old metal at 18s. per cwt., and paid him for 587 lbs. of new metal added at 1s. per lb. A pair of new brasses for the second bell, 18 lbs. at 1s. lb., and a new clapper, 26 lbs., at 6d. a lb. 29 7 0

A RING OF SIX

The foregoing items give a clear account of the work carried out; as can be seen, a new treble was added making six bells in all, and the treble of the five was recast. The inscriptions on these bells were:—

1.—W. Cockey cast me. 1718.

2.—W. Cockey cast me. 1718.

Mr. Richard Hayes and Peter Hucker, Churchwardens.

An item in 1719 reads: Received by the parish's consent for the new metal added to the bells, £11 5s. 0d.; and in 1721: Paid Thomas House for splicing the clapper of the 6th bell, for lengthening the flight, and adding 7½ lbs. iron. for a key and a ferrule and 3 cleats as per bill, 10s. 0d. From this item it would appear that the sound of this bell, the tenor, was inadequate, and this work was done to make it a more satisfactory cover for the rest of the ring.

3d. RATE FOR RECASTING BELLS

In 1720 we find an entry: Paid for a door for the ringing loft, 5s. 0d. This door is still in use and in an excellent state of repair. The next item of interest appears under the year 1745/6, when there appears—

Item. Paid Mott for news of the bells, a pint, 2d. and the record of a rate made at 3d. in the pound, for repairing the church and recasting the bells. The work carried out on the bells was the recasting of the third and tenor, and this was done by T. Bilbie, of Chewstoke, at a cost of £44 4s.

These bells bore the inscriptions—
3rd.—T. Bilbie. 1746.

Tenor.—William Cozens, Gent., and Mr. John Perry, Churchwardens. T. Bilbie. Fecit. 1746.

An item in the accounts for 1759 reads as follows:—

Item. Paid for liquor at two meetings of the vestry held at landlord Clarks', 5s. 0d.

Whilst perhaps not associated with the bells, this item does indicate a custom of the times, and it might be interesting here to link this with the habits of ringers of those days. One often hears stories of the bad habits of the older generation of ringers, such as taking a drinking jug to the belfry and being heavy drinkers. Habits and customs of 200 years ago were completely different from those of today. It was quite a natural thing for the vicar and his associates to hold a meeting at one of the local inns, and to take liquor whilst there. The vestry in those days was responsible for much of the parish business and the clergy were very powerful. In this parish they were men of some substance.

RINGING STRENUOUS

Life in general was much more strenuous than it is today, and liquor, particularly beer or ale, was consumed in much greater quantities, and was in fact everyone's drink, especially among the poorer classes. Bell-ringing in those days was an extremely strenuous job; the modern metal frame and easy-running bearings were unheard of, and the manner in which the bells were attached to the headstocks often left much to be desired. It was quite a common thing to need two or three men to raise the tenor bell ready for ringing, and in some places, such as Queen Camel and Sherborne Abbey, it is recorded that it took five, six or even seven men to raise the tenor. From this it is easy to see that a comparatively short spell of ringing could create a very healthy thirst, and what more natural than that the everyday drink of the times should be on hand to remedy it. So, the more joyful the occasion, the more the bells were rung, the greater was the need for the jug and the merrier the ringers became. All very natural when viewed in the light of the times.

Again, in older times, ringing was of a much more secular nature than it is today. The bells were rung very much more for national and social occasions than they were for church services; in fact, in many places service ringing was a rarity. During the 18th and 19th centuries we find many entries in our churchwardens' accounts for moneys paid to the ringers for ringing for such things as the anniversary of the King's coronation and November 5th, etc.; for many years they received 7s. for ringing on November 5th and a much smaller sum for the King. A record of little more than 50 years ago shows that whilst the ringers of this village had two practice nights each week in the winter, they rang for Sunday service only once a month.

Times have changed since then, and chiefly through the influence of the diocesan ringing organisations, the bells of our village churches are rung at least once each Sunday, and in many cases for both morning and evening services, and with well-designed and cared-for frames and bearings, the need for belfry refreshment has ceased to exist.

So much for custom and usage. Let us return to the bells.

1761. £ s. d.
Item. Paid for making a new bell wheel and other jobs . . . 1 10 0

1782.
Item. Paid Henry Mathews for six bell ropes 1 3 7

These prices are in striking contrast to those of today when a single bell rope costs nearly £4.

OBITUARY

MRS. MARGARET SHURCLIFF AN APPRECIATION

Mrs. Margaret Shurcliff died on February 28th at her home in Boston, Massachusetts, U.S.A.

In 1902, Dr. Nichols took his daughter Margaret to England for a summer of bell-ringing. Miss Nichols became a member of the Middlesex County Association and the Ancient Society of College Youths. She rang her first peal at the Church of St. Matthew in Upper Clapton. This peal of Stedman, rung to celebrate the coronation of King Edward VII, was conducted by Mr. Brighton. Other members of the band included Mr. Pratt, Mr. Eden and the Brothers Pye. Her second peal, of Grandsire Triples, was rung at St. Mary's, Acton, and the third peal at the Church of St. Magnus, London Bridge. Quarter peals were rung at St. Mary Abbot's, Kensington, and in St. Peter's Church, St. Albans.

Miss Nichols also rang three peals 'in hand.' The first two, Grandsire Triples and Stedman, were rung in one afternoon at the home of Mr. Challis F. Winney. The ringers were George N. Price 1-2, Herbert P. Warman 3-4, Challis F. Winney 5-6, Miss Margaret Nichols 7-8. The peals were conducted by Mr. Winney and Mr. Price respectively. At the close of the afternoon, Mr. Hughes presented to Miss Nichols the set of handbells used for the afternoon's ringing. Four of the peals mentioned here were recorded in the 'Bell News' of August 23rd, 1902.

Some time after her return, Miss Nichols married Arthur Shurcliff (then spelled 'Shurtleff'), and together they pursued a life of wide and active interests. Their first public performance on the handbells was quite spontaneous. Awakened in the early hours of Armistice Day, 1918, they arose and took their bells into the streets to help proclaim the good tidings.

In the '20s Mrs. Shurcliff was one of a temporary band that came together each Christmas season to ring changes before and after the evening service at the Church of the Advent in Boston. In 1926 she went from her tower ringing to join her six children and their young friends who were ringing carols on handbells in the streets of Beacon Hill. Crowds gathered, and the interest in bell-ringing began to spread. This carolling has become a tradition, and the Beacon Hill Handbell Ringers, with changing membership, were led by Mrs. Shurcliff throughout her life.

So many other groups were started that in 1936 Mrs. Shurcliff organised the New England Guild of Handbell Ringers. In 1954 she formed the American Guild of English Handbell Ringers to meet the needs of ringing groups throughout the entire country, and initiated the Guild's annual ringing festival at Ipswich, Mass.

The bell towers in this country (with two exceptions) were gradually silenced by complaints of noise. Mrs. Shurcliff continued to ring changes 'in hand' whenever possible. (The rapid growth of ringing here has been in the direction of melodies, not changes.) This last summer we had the great pleasure of ringing some touches of Grandsire Triples 'in hand' with Mrs. Shurcliff and her daughter, Alice.

It was indeed a privilege to know and ring with Mrs. Shurcliff. Her art, enthusiasm and patience inspired many. The handbell ringing which she fostered in this country will be a permanent testimony to the life she lived so well.

Alice Dickinson (Mrs.),

MR. EDWARD PHILLIPS AN APPRECIATION

With great regret and deep sympathy I heard of the sudden death of Mr. Edward Phillips, who was one of the Cadoxton, Neath, ringers.

He was known to all as 'Ted,' and in the ringing fraternity as a very reliable and excellent ringer. It wasn't always that he was known for his knowledge of the art of ringing though, but to many it was his radiant smile, and I myself will always remember him in that way. He will be greatly missed in the district, and it will be very difficult to replace him. May he rest in peace.

ARTHUR HOARE,
'Swansea and Brecon.'

MR. WILLIAM RICHARDS

The death occurred on March 15th at Builth Wells of Mr. William Richards at the age of 76. For 30 years Mr. Richards was a ringer and sidesman at St. John's, Cardiff. He learnt to ring at Abergavenny. On coming to Cardiff in 1921 he joined the local band, and was a faithful member until he retired and went to live at Builth Wells in 1951. He retained his interest in bell-ringing by joining the local band, and also became a sidesman at the church.

A peal to his memory was rung on St. John's bells on March 30th.

MR. JAMES F. WHITE

The death took place on March 26th of Mr. James F. White, of the Pakefield, Suffolk, company, in his 85th year.

He had no pretensions, ringing only one peal on the old ring of five in 1938, but gave loyal service to his church as a ringer for 56 years, being punctual for Sunday service ringing—an example in this respect to us all.

When the church was restored in 1951, after being gutted by fire by enemy action during the war, the bells were augmented to eight and James White bore the cost of the new treble.

The many summer visitors to this tower will remember his courteous greetings. To us at Pakefield he will be remembered as Uncle Jim, one of nature's gentlemen and a loyal servant of his church.

The interment took place in the churchyard at Pakefield on April 1st, a course of Plain Bob Minor being rung over the grave by three of his fellow ringers. B. S. T.

GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL

A little incident took place at the quarterly meeting of the Cheltenham Branch at Bishop's Cleeve on March 21st. As the bells were not available after 7.30 p.m. it was decided to hold the business meeting last instead of immediately after tea.

A ringer arriving around 7.30 p.m. for the business meeting found his way into the church barred by a chair on which lay a postcard of the church. On the reverse side of the card was written: 'You are a gang of hooligans beneath contempt. Your work is no more to the glory of God than Bishop's Cleeve football team. I am instructing my solicitor.' It was signed by a comparative newcomer to the district, who lives near the church. We still wonder if the writer paid 4d. for the card!

We admit to one roughish touch of Bob Major, but apart from that the ringing was not too bad, and it had been a meeting of particular use to learners.

During the meeting five new members were elected: Mr. W. Drinkwater (Charlton Kings), Mr. H. Strang (Cheltenham, St. Mary's) and Godfrey Appesley, Nicholas Harris and Keith Birt (junior members from St. Mark's).

MEDWAY VALLEY VISITED

Shortly after 9 a.m. on March 14th, a group of ringers converged on Northfleet, Kent. They had gathered from Hertfordshire, Kent and North London, together with two enthusiasts who had travelled down the previous night from Handsworth (Birmingham) and Lichfield Cathedral.

The anti-clockwise ring of eight (tenor 15 cwt. in F) was enjoyed before going to the Chapel of Unity at Gravesend, which is one of the best eights in Kent. At nearby Cobham the six bells are tuned to the key of F with a 14 cwt. tenor, but this church is more famous for its wonderful collection of brasses. At short notice we were privileged to ring on the pleasant six at Snodland, a ground floor ring. We received a great welcome from the new vicar at Wouldham, where until recently it was thought that the six bells (tenor 13½ cwt. in F sharp) were unringable. We found them fairly easy to ring, and the Vicar is keen to have them rung regularly, having recently learned to handle a bell himself.

Unfortunately, at this point, Ian Oram had to leave us in order to attempt a peal at St. Clement Danes' that afternoon: but lunch being over, we reassembled for a short ring on the respectable eight at Frindsbury. Although the weight of the tenor bell at St. Mary's Church, Chatham, is 25 cwt. in E flat, the bells are scarcely audible inside the ringing room and are heard to advantage outside. Moving on to Hartlip, we enjoyed a brief ring on the six bells that sound over the area of this beautiful village. We paid a brief visit to nearby Newington, with its 12 cwt. six, and then followed an enjoyable five at Stockbury, where the local band were in the midst of their 'spring cleaning.'

Refreshments consumed, the 9 cwt. six at Bobbing were rung prior to moving on to Milton Regis. Here the 600-year-old church tower, which rises to a height of 94 feet, is massive, with walls over four feet thick. Despite all this stonework there are only six bells, with a tenor of 10½ cwt. At Sittingbourne touches of Double Norwich Court Bob Major and Stedman Triples were rung. The day's programme finished with two sixes at Rodmersham and Lynsted.

Ringing during the day ranged from Grand-sire Doubles to Soliced and London Surprise Major. Sincere thanks are expressed to Ian Oram for arranging the trip.

THE SUFFOLK GUILD

A District meeting took place at Great Barton on March 21st, when some 30 ringers were present from 15 towers. (Very encouraging indeed for the District secretary.) This had been a neglected District as far as meetings were concerned, and in November last, at its first meeting for quite a long time, only eight members were present.

The tea and business meeting were held in the Village Institute, presided over by Mr. H. Mitson, supported by the District secretary (Mr. L. Wright). Miss J. Wright was elected a ringing member. Mr. Philip Meyhew a non-resident member, and the brothers David, Raymond and Alan Fordham, of Great Barton, probationers.

For the next meeting place it was agreed to try and visit Bardwell in the afternoon and Ixworth in the evening on June 6th. A keen ringing enthusiast from Watton, in Norfolk—Miss Dorothy Wilton-Jones—cycled 27 miles without John to ring in one more new tower.

A MATTER OF TEMPERAMENT

RECENTLY we have seen a few spots of bother appearing in the correspondence columns of 'The Ringing World.' One ringer was called temperamental, perhaps with very good reason, but there have always been temperamental ringers. Let us quote a few examples. As far back as 1733 William Laughton wrote about 'Snarling Criticks' in his account of the Rambling Ringers' Club. Laughton was being taken to task for disloyalty to the College Youths. Mr. Ernest Morris, in his book, 'History and Art,' humorously says: 'We have these critics today (1931).' Another prominent ringer of the 1730's was Benjamin Annable. He is described by Mr. J. A. Trollope as domineering, ambitious of leadership, and possessed of a sharp tongue. Still, the things he did stamp him as a great ringer, and his name persists to this day in the Minor method Annable's London Surprise.

In 1899 we had the two greatest exponents of change-ringing the Exercise has ever known, viz.: Mr. W. Pye and Mr. J. W. Washbrook. Mr. Pye had called a 15,072 of Double Norwich on April 3rd at Erith in Kent, and in May the Oxford Guild announced their intention of beating this with Mr. Washbrook conducting. Mr. Pye journeyed to Kidlington to hear the ringing, and when the figures were published later he declared that some courses were never rung. This was tantamount to saying that the peal was a fake, and a long and bitter correspondence began in the 'Bell News.' Neither side would give way, but eventually the Oxford Guild said they would recognise the peal and the correspondence stopped. These two men met each other for the first time in Ireland several years later. Mr. J. S. Goldsmith, recording this some years later, 'We were a bit uneasy as such bitter words had been used, but when the two men were introduced they smiled and shook hands.' Mr. Goldsmith added, 'which is as it should be.'

Our last example was the most temperamental of all—the Rev. H. Law James. A skilled ringer, conductor, composer, and a master of theory, he was an eccentric but lovable character. There must be many ringers who will remember him. One of the big 'clangers' he dropped was when Cambridge Maximus was being taken up and practised. He declared that there was no reason why a Cambridge Minor ringer should not ring Cambridge Maximus. He was promptly told by one well-known ringer to take two Cambridge Minor bands into a 12-bell tower and try it. Needless to say, he never did.

Most ringers have heard of Arthur Knights as a composer, but in his younger days he was also interested in method construction. Arthur had got what he thought was a good new method, so he sent it to H. Law James for his opinion. The reply was: 'Your method is like a pig with one ear.' A. K. laughed as much as anyone over this unusual reply. Law James suffered a setback at the C.C. meeting in 1912 held in Manchester. One of his pet theories was that Stedman as rung was wrong and that the quick six was the bob. He held forth at length and the Rev. H. S. T. Richardson supported him. The late Sam Wood, of Ashton-under-Lyne, eventually got up and proposed that 'we ring Stedman as our fathers rang it.' This was seconded, and on being put to the meeting was carried by an overwhelming majority.

In conclusion, let us be fair in our criticism of others, and keep personalities out. One of the finest things about the Ringing Exercise is its good fellowship: let us keep it so.

Eye, Suffolk, church bells are awaiting removal by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, who have been given the job of overhauling them and recasting the Miles Graye tenor which has a 'hair' crack in the crown. The bells fund, organised by Supt. Claude Rush, now stands at £1,354. Of this £722 has been realised from the sale of 132 tons of salvage, mostly paper. The salvage drive ends on May 5th—the end of its second year. Then, after a few weeks, Mr. Rush will retire from the Police Force and take up residence at 31, Foxgrove Lane, Felixstowe, Suffolk.

Bishop Latimer's bells, Birmingham, will be dedicated by the Bishop of Aston on Monday, April 20th, at 7.30 p.m.

Seventeen-year-old Gordon Brown, who rang the second to a peal at Offenham, Worcs, struck his first blow in six of the methods. The way he rang impressed the band and was proof of how good a ringer he will one day become.

A welcome visitor to the annual meeting of the Middlesex County Association at Kingsbury on Saturday was Mr. A. J. Pitman, who came specially to hear a tape-recording of his peal of Scientific Triples.

The Bedfordshire Association have a new general secretary in Mr. J. M. Stephens, 33, Poplar Close, Leighton Buzzard. The Association at its annual meeting on Easter Monday decided to raise subscriptions to 1s. 6d. for members under 16 and 3s. for those over 16.

The band who rang the peal of Bob Major at Heavitree, Devon, would like to associate with it the name of Mr. Arthur Mitchell who, but for influenza, would have been a member of the band. He is the father of Harry Mitchell, for whose wedding the peal was rung. Both are members of the Heavitree band.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Mr. Harry Shire, in honour of whose 75th birthday a quarter peal was rung at Ilminster, where his father was tower captain. He has been associated with towers in Somerset and South Wales, and served for four years as assistant tower captain at St. Mary's, Rickmansworth. He is now a regular member of the Tewin band.

Never go to a meeting unless advertised in 'The Ringing World.' If this advice had been followed there would not have been disappointed ringers at Womersley last Saturday. The meeting appeared in the Guild fixture card, but not in 'The Ringing World.'

With the ringing of a quarter peal on Easter Day at Godshill, Isle of Wight, the late C. H. Denness was remembered. He was one of the band who opened the bells when augmented to six in 1887. He assumed the captaincy of the tower from his father-in-law. His son is the present captain. A daughter and a grandson are also ringers in the tower.

The Chester Diocesan Guild are submitting a motion to the Central Council at Southport as follows: 'That in any record attempt the bells shall be clearly audible outside the tower or other building in which they are contained and that during such an attempt neither food nor drink shall be partaken of by any member of the band.'

The band who rang in the peal at Leicester Cathedral on April 6th, as a farewell to the Rev. E. N. Devenport (Succentor), wish to associate the names of Peter J. Staniforth and Dick Grant with the peal. Peter was taken ill on the day of the peal and Dick kindly stood down. A good peal of Yorkshire Royal was rung and all were pleased to see Dick Prime ringing again after his illness.

BATH & WELLS DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION

A YEAR OF PROGRESS REVIEWED

DESPITE inclement weather, a large company of ringers assembled at Bath on Easter Monday for the 69th annual general meeting of the Association. Preceded by a touch of Double Norwich Court Bob Major, the service was held at the Church of SS. Michael and Paul and was conducted by the Rev. E. J. Rowe, chairman of the Bath Branch. A most appropriate address was given by the Rev. H. F. Warren, Master of the Association.

Following the service, members adjourned to the Red House Cafe, where, after luncheon had been taken, the business meeting followed. Opening with prayer, the Master asked for silence to be kept while those who had been called to greater service during the past year were remembered. Apologies for absence were received from the Lord Bishop of Bath and Wells, the Bishop of Taunton, the Archdeacon of Bath, the Rev. A. D. H. Allan, Messrs. J. T. Dyke, R. O. Fry and D. G. Yeo.

The Master said that, due to an indisposition, he regretted that he had not visited all the Branches. The newest addition to the administration of the Association was the introduction of a Standing Committee, which had already proved invaluable in the compiling of the Sunday service survey.

The survey showed many bright spots and many towers where help is needed. He challenged members to give their full support to the work of the Association and so prove wrong the comment which was recently made by a misguided cleric to the effect that ringing was a dying art.

'RINGING A BELL'

He then paid tribute to the work which Mr. H. J. Sanger had done in producing the publication, 'Ringing a Bell.' Being of a somewhat different character from any other book in print, it was enjoying a heavy demand by not only members of the Association but by ringers generally. It was an excellent booklet which could be commended to the use of all. In closing, he said how deeply touched he was when, on the occasion of his wedding, three peals and six quarter peals were rung to mark the happy event. 'This is an honour which I did not deserve but which I value very greatly,' he said.

In his report, the secretary (Mr. D. Hoare) thanked members for their excellent support during his first year of office. The Diocese, he said, had been the scene of much activity during 1958. Sampford Arundel bells had been augmented from five to six, and the fine ring of six at Publow was once more in full ringing order. Another restoration was also contemplated in a parish where the bells had been silent for over 40 years. Broadcasts had taken place featuring certain rings of bells and the all-round standard that had been achieved was very pleasing.

The secretary reminded members of their duty and of the fact that they should keep their ringing in its right perspective, placing churchmanship first. 'By so doing,' he said, 'we shall acquire that team spirit which is so necessary in our service to the church.'

Mr. G. Salmon, the treasurer, reported that, compared with last year, the accounts showed a decrease in the balance of £34, but that this was entirely due to the purchase of badges. Although peal booking fees were considerably down, the Branch returns, which were increased greatly on 1957, helped to swell the income. Certain changes had been made affecting the investments and these included the conversion of the 2½ per cent. Defence Bonds into the 5 per cent. issue and the reinvestment of the National Savings Certificates. The Bell Fund had benefited by three collections but no grant had been made.

PAROCHIAL CHURCH COUNCILS' SUPPORT

Mr. Salmon said that the committee had forwarded a circular letter to all Parochial Church Councils suggesting an increase of affiliation fees to a more realistic level so that the Association could do something of a more definite nature so far as instruction and more substantial grants were concerned. The response had so far been excellent and as a result many towers had allied themselves to the Association although they had never previously been affiliated. This meant that the Association would at least be able to make a start in the large task with which it is faced.

The meeting then passed on the report of the peal secretary, Mr. H. J. Sanger, who said that the peal total was considerably lower this year, 58 in all having been rung. However, the standard had been well maintained and the highlights were two peals of Bristol by diocesan bands and the first peal of Spiced Surprise Major ever rung by a resident band. The Cheshire men had also rung the first peal of London Surprise Royal for the Association at Wells Cathedral. Remarking that 1958 had only produced two new conductors, Mr. Sanger said that the Association was very short of prospective leaders and he commended conducting to the younger members as a very interesting and useful occupation.

He was pleased that he now had in his possession details of all peals which had been rung between 1890 and 1904 and would in due course have the records up to date.

Mr. R. H. Gardiner, the tower advisory expert, then told members of the work which he had carried out during the past year. He had received one inquiry from outside the diocese concerning the installing of a synthetic bell-recording apparatus. He had referred the matter to the committee, who without any hesitation recommended that one or two bells would probably cost no more than the recording apparatus, would cost virtually nothing in maintenance, possibly have a clearer sound and, what was more important, would call people to worship in a sincere manner as was intended.

The adoption of these four reports was then proposed by Mr. E. Naylor and seconded by Mr. V. Roberts and carried with acclamation.

The general secretary then read a brief summary of the Sunday service survey. It was in two parts. The first, which consisted of factual information and comments relevant to the diocese, had already been forwarded to the Central Council. Part II, constituted the proposed future policy of the Association and laid out in detail plans for the introduction of organised courses of instruction. Coupled with this was the suggestion that the Association should have certain persons available, who, upon request, would be prepared to speak at youth clubs and similar functions.

SELECTION OF INSTRUCTORS

It seemed quite evident by the survey that, generally, capable bands of ringers exist in towers where a competent person is in charge.

Commenting on the proposed arrangements for introducing organised instruction on an Association level, the secretary said that rather than appeal for instructors, the committee would be advised to invite persons whom they considered suitable. So many times in the past men had set themselves up as instructors without the necessary qualifications and the result of this had been that ringing had deteriorated to a deplorable level in one or two areas.

After several points had been clarified, Mr. M. White proposed the adoption of the survey in both parts. This was seconded by Mr. E. Naylor and carried unanimously.

The Master then told the meeting that Mr. Fry wished to resign from his position as Central Council representative. He therefore asked for a nomination to fill the post for one year. The name of Mr. D. Hoare was proposed by Mr. H. J. Sanger, seconded by Mr. S. G. Coles, and carried unanimously.

The meeting elected the following officers: Messrs. R. A. Gardiner and W. A. Osborn, advisory experts; Mr. H. J. Sanger, peal secretary; Mr. G. Salmon, treasurer; Mr. D. Hoare, secretary; and the Rev. H. F. Warren, Master.

Under 'Any other business,' Mr. Woodburn proposed that the Association should in the future deviate from their past policy of holding the annual general meeting in only six Branches. He felt that all the Branches should be visited in alphabetical order. After discussion, Mr. H. J. Sanger seconded the proposition, which was then carried.

Mr. Woodburn then proposed that the annual grant of £20 be made to help cover the Central Council representatives' expenses. Mr. E. J. Chivers seconded and the motion was carried.

CLOSING BELLS

Mr. W. Osborn said the bells of Clossworth were in an unsafe state and very soon something would have to be done for their safety. He wondered if, in view of the fact that they had such a strong link with ringing (the tomb of Purdue being in the churchyard), the Association could take a lead in launching some appeal. After discussion, it was agreed that the Association could do nothing until formally approached by the Parochial Church Council.

Mr. H. J. Sanger then proposed, and Mr. D. Hoare seconded, that the Master should write to the incumbent of Clossworth offering to co-operate at the appropriate time. This was also carried.

Members requested the secretary to write to Mr. J. T. Dyke and Mr. L. Derrick, both of whom were indisposed, expressing regrets at their absence and sending the best wishes of all present.

Mr. H. J. Sanger then proposed, and Mr. D. Hoare seconded, that a slight amendment be made to the printed form of Admission Service for Ringers, as this was technically incorrect. This was carried.

To conclude the meeting, the Rev. N. E. Mitchell, chairman of the Frome Branch, proposed votes of thanks to the Rev. E. H. G. Sergeant (Rector of St. Michael's), the organist, the Rev. E. J. Rowe, the Master and to Mr. S. S. Woodburn (secretary of the Bath Branch) for the excellent way in which he made all the local arrangements. D. H.

ANOTHER RECORD LENGTH ATTEMPT

THE IRISH ASSOCIATION

Northern District

Over 100 ringers attended the annual meeting of the Northern District at Hillsborough, Co. Down, on Easter Monday, when good reports of progress in the District were received and 20 new members elected. Next year's annual meeting will be at Enniskillen, Co. Fermanagh, with Canon G. Clements as chairman.

The outgoing District officers were elected as follows: District secretary, Mr. John T. Dunwoody (Holywood); assistant secretary, Miss J. Stewart (St. Donard's, Belfast); treasurer, the Rev. J. J. Fielding (Holywood); Ringing Master, Mr. H. Brown (Holywood); trustees of Bell Repair Fund, Messrs. W. Pratt (Holywood), R. G. Nelson (Hillsborough) and R. P. Hatch (Hillsborough).

After the meeting Canon J. Barry (Hillsborough) conducted a short ringers' service in St. Malachi's Church. Following lunch, the Cunningham Cup Competition was rung off with Miss Yong (Carrickfergus), Mr. Pratt and the Rev. F. J. Fielding acting as judges. Nine teams took part, the result being: 1 St. Donard's, Belfast, 12 faults; 2 St. Comgall's, Bangor, and St. Mark's, Belfast, 18 faults. After tea the Rev. E. G. Parke presented the cup to Mr. Warkington, of St. Donard's. The bells were later put to good use by mixed bands. J. T. D.

Southern District

Almost 90 bellringers and friends and V.I.P.'s, viz. Messrs. Fred Dukes, John Dunwoody and Miss Jean Stewart, attended the annual meeting of the Southern District in Waterford on St. Patrick's Day. The same number sat down to lunch before the meeting; both functions were held in the Adelphi Hotel.

All towers in the District were well represented and all entered teams for the R.R. Cherry Challenge Cup. The 'V.I.P.'s' were judges and were greatly relieved when the meeting at tea (also in the Adelphi Hotel) 'brought the house down' after the Ringing Master (Mr. Robert Walsh) announced the result in the following words: 'After 11 years, Bandon is the first team to take the cup out of Limerick.' Bandon's striking could be said to be almost perfect and their six-bell team has been knocking at the door for a few years now and it has at last been opened. The holders, Mount St. Alphonsus', were only seven points behind and their striking, too, was very good. In fact, all teams struck well in general.

The chairman (Mr. Cyril W. Galbraith), in his address, paid tribute to the committees, towers and individuals whose work brought a successful conclusion to the Central Council's visit to Ireland last year.

Officers elected were: Chairman, Mr. Cyril Galbraith (Limerick); Ringing Master, Mr. Robert Walsh (Doneraile); secretary, Mr. George Bingham (Limerick); assistant secretary, Mr. Paddy Hanley (Limerick); vice-president and Executive Council, Mr. Fred Hogan (Cork); representatives on Executive Council, Messrs. C. W. Galbraith, G. Bingham and H. Ellis.

The bells of the Cathedral of the Blessed Trinity were rung before lunch, i.e., 10.30 to 11 p.m.; during competition, 3 to 5.30; and after tea from 7.30 to 9 p.m. The theme was good striking, and 'fancy' methods were sacrificed accordingly. Nevertheless some touches of Bob Minor were rung.

On the previous night a team consisting of Cyril Foster, Cyril Galbraith, Jean Stewart, John Dunwoody (conductor), Tom Marsden, W. Cox, G. Bingham and N. Benson scored a quarter peal of Plain Bob Minor at St. Mary's Cathedral, Limerick. At tea, in Waterford, demonstrations of change ringing on handbells were given by the 'V.I.P.'s.

Eastern District

The best meeting since the District was formed was held on a beautiful Easter Monday at Arklow. The bells, the surroundings, the weather and the famous Arklow tea all added up to the success of the day. All towers were represented.

The honours, however, must go to Bobby Bruce, of Holywood, Co. Down, who left Belfast that morning and found on arrival in Dublin that his train to Arklow had left. However, he got a bus to Bray and there found a bread vendor who was going south. The vendor delivered bread 'here, there and everywhere' and eventually delivered Bobby in Arklow at 3.30 p.m. To compensate for his trials he got a lift back to Dublin in comfort and was offered hospitality for the night.

The business meeting started in the Malborough Hall and finished in the residents' lounge of the Royal Hotel. Officers elected were: Chairman, Mr. James McManus (Dublin); Ringing Master, Mr. Paddy Mills (Dublin); secretary, Mrs. F. E. Dukes (Drogheda); assistant secretary, Mr. Roy Huber (Drogheda); treasurer, Mr. W. D. Graham (Drogheda); vice-president and Executive Council, Harry Johnson (Bray); representatives on Executive Council, Miss Rita Dukes, Mr. James McManus and Mr. George McGregor.

Six teams competed for the Lindoff Cup—St. George's, Dublin, had two, one of which consisted of the 14th Dublin Company, Boys' Brigade, Bellringing Class. A very keen contest resulted in Drogheda winning the cup for the fifth year in succession, with Arklow close behind. Drogheda's team included 14-year-old Sandra Dukes.

The Ringing Master, Mr. William T. Shaw, acted in the tower and announced the result at tea in the Malborough Hall, where about 100 people sat down to the tea of cold ham and cakes provided by the Arklow Society. The judges were Messrs. Henry Ellis and George Bingham.

Plain Bob Triples and Grandsire were rung by the change ringers and 'Churchyard Bobs' by those outside that category.

'BELL NEWS,' APRIL 17th, 1909

Peals recorded: Treble Bob Maximus 1, Plain Bob Maximus 1, Grandsire Caters 1, London Surprise Major 2, Superlative Surprise Major 2, Double Norwich 2, Treble Bob Major 5, Bob Major 1, Stedman Triples 3, Grandsire Triples 7, Minor 2, Doubles 1. Total 28.

Handbell Peals: Grandsire Caters 1, Grandsire Triples 1, Bob Major 1. Total 3.

One letter on 'Peals of Doubles' suggests 'A little space in "The Bell News" occasionally devoted to five- and six-bell methods would certainly make the paper more popular to these ringers.'

THE SHARESHILL DISPUTE

Society Upholds Vicar's Action

In regard to the controversy arising between the Vicar of St. Mary's, Shreshill, and his ringers, we are informed that a meeting between the Vicar (Rev. E. R. Roe), three officials of the Society of Change Ringers for the Archdeaconry of Stafford, and the entire bell-ringing team has resulted in the Society upholding the Vicar's decision to disband the ringers.

Mr. Fred Bennett (secretary of the Society), of Pattingham, near Wolverhampton, said that after hearing both sides of the story the Society decided that the Vicar had not been unreasonable in asking the ringers to attend church services, and had treated them fairly before making his decision.

'He did not ask much of the ringers. All he asked was that they should attend a proportion of services. He did not, by any means, intend that they should attend all the services every Sunday,' Mr. Bennett said.

Mr. Bennett added that the ringers should be expected to take some interest in the church's affairs, and Mr. Roe had given his team every chance. At the meeting, each ringer was asked if he would be prepared to attend some services at the church, but each declined. Mr. Roe had no alternative but to stand by his decision.

Although the church now has no ringing team, an apparatus at the foot of the tower enables the Vicar to ring the bells himself. He cannot ring a peal, but is able to chime them.

Mr. Bennett said his Society would be prepared to send an instructor to Shreshill to train another team, but it would take at least 12 months' training before a new team would be capable.

MANCHESTER RINGERS IN YORKSHIRE

The fifth annual outing of the Manchester Young Ringers took place on Easter Monday, when 35 members set off by coach to visit Yorkshire. Some of the founder members no longer fit the description 'young,' but the average age was still only 21 years 8 months.

The first stop was at St. Marie's R.C. Church, Sheffield (8, 25 cwt.), where these humming bells were rung to standard methods and Bristol. At Sheffield Cathedral (12, 40 cwt.), Cambridge on the back eight and Stedman Cinques were most successful on the day's most awkward bells.

Lunch was arranged at Doncaster, and afterwards at St. George's, Doncaster (8, 30 cwt.), the really fine bells were not rung ideally, possibly due to the long, exhausting climb.

At All Saints', Pontefract, we rang at the strange tower between a ruined church and a modern chapel, where we found a very pleasing light eight (tenor 12½ cwt.). The evening meal came next, and was in itself so satisfying and exhausting that even the tower-grabbers had not the energy to visit an extra 6-bell tower only two miles off the route, and we finished the day's ringing on the excellent ten (tenor 18 cwt.) at St. Giles', Pontefract, where Grandsire Caters and Bristol gave the best striking.

Our thanks are due to all the clergy and ringers for letting us make use of their bells, and to Joan and Alan Ward for once more organising a very successful tour. D. O.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

WORLD TOUR IMPRESSIONS

Dear Sir.—Some while ago (possibly two years) letters appeared in 'The Ringing World' about the bells of St. John's Cathedral, Hong Kong.

During a recent cruise I was able to visit the Cathedral and view these bells, which were cast by Gillett and Johnston and given by the Hong Kong and Shanghai Banking Corporation and installed as a carillon (or 'chime') of eight—the heaviest is 25 cwt.—to commemorate the coronation of Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II. It was decided that the tower was not strong enough to carry a ring hung for ringing, a decision with which I think most would agree. They are operated electrically and set in motion by a press button on the ground floor. There is also a keyboard which is used for hymn tunes, set changes, etc., with cards provided.

About a year ago I wrote to the Dean of Hong Kong (Very Rev. F. S. Temple), and in reply I received a warm invitation to come and 'try the bells' and to call on him on arrival. The curate (Mr. Foster) met me at the tower and gave every assistance; he is interested in bells and acquainted with the Loughborough foundry and staff. It was a great pleasure to meet both the Dean and Mr. Foster. When the bells are being played it is difficult from the foot of the tower to decide what the changes are, and on ascending the noise becomes almost deafening, and this is also the case near the tower outside; but it could be a plain course of Triples. A practice at the keyboard is the nearest I managed to get to ringing on the Asian continent.

Earlier on, at San Francisco, I visited the Episcopal Cathedral of Grace, where permission was readily given by the bursar, Mr. Lampen, late of Romney, Kent, and the tower keeper, Mr. Mosley, late of Bolton, Lancs, to go up and view the carillon of 44 by Gillett and Johnston. Owing to space openings on all sides of the upper part of the tower, the carillon is (more or less) 'open to the wide,' so that several of the bells can be seen from outside at ground level. All I heard from them was the quarters and hours struck on the back bells.

The Cathedral stands on one of the highest points of San Francisco, and one can imagine the effect of the sound pouring down over the city from this carillon.

In the Philippines, a few miles from Manila, at the village of Las Pinas is the ancient church in which is installed the famous bamboo organ, 150 years old and still in use. It was built by a Catholic Father whose repeated requests for a pipe organ went unheeded by his superiors in Spain. Finally he decided to construct the pipe organ from bamboo himself—a task which took four years. The keyboard is in a box similar in shape to a harmonium and stands on a nearby gallery. Higher in the tower (open to all and sundry) are four bells—heaviest 2 to 4 cwt. approximately—hung in open spaces in the walls of the tower, with the lip of each flush with the outside of the wall, clocking system used for chiming. Inscriptions were beyond me, but probably Spanish.

I came across three other R.C. churches in the Philippines with bells similarly hung, one a cathedral with eight at least, as best seen from ground level outside.

Among the several calls in the Far East (including eight days ashore in Japan) was Shanghai, where it is necessary to observe the old slogan, 'Watch your step.' To wander around after midnight in Communist China is an easy way to qualify for a 'pair of bracelets.'

Travelling in four ships, including stops, it took a week short of four months to circumnavigate the globe—much less time than that occupied by Drake in 'windjammers.'—Yours,
Woodbridge, Suffolk. J. BENNETT.

RINGING AND CLERGY

Dear Sir.—I am sure ringers generally will be glad to know that a few of our theological colleges are taking an interest in bell-ringing.

Whilst many clergy are quite reasonable about granting permission to ring, many parsons feel shy at entering the ringing chamber and at a disadvantage because their ringers know so much more about the art than they do. How often does one hear the comment passed that the vicar very seldom visits his ringers? Whilst parochial clergy often give a good lead in the various church organisations, the tower is in many cases regarded as a watertight compartment.

One obvious solution to this apparent anomaly would be to include some knowledge of bells and ringing in the curriculum of the theological colleges. This possibility may be further extended at this year's Central Council meeting, and perhaps our regional Associations will take some responsibility. I think, however, the Central Council of Training for the Ministry would sympathetically consider suggestions from the Central Council to put bell-ringing on the syllabus.

One thing is certain, that a clergy better informed on bell-ringing matters would prove of immense help for the future prospects in the 'Ringing Isle.'—Yours sincerely, Elland, Yorks.

PAUL BIRKETT.

Dear Sir.—I should like to take Mr. Fry up on one point which has received some consideration lately in the Oxford Diocesan Guild, namely, that the clergy often expect too much from their ringers in attendance at services. For the ringers to be marching out as the choir file in does give a bad impression; but we cannot expect them to make their Communion frequently as well as arriving at least half an hour before the other services on Sunday.

The only general rule one can make, I think, is that ringers should be treated in this respect like the rest of the laity, and until we have two or three hands in each parish, to ask them to come to every service for which they ring is to have them in church as long as the clergy.—Yours sincerely,

A. S. D. GRAHAM.

Cuddesdon College, Oxford.

PEAL WITHDRAWN

Dear Sir.—It has been pointed out to me that my 5,056 Glasgow Surprise Major, published in the 'R.W.' March 13th, 1959, is internally false. I must therefore withdraw the peal rung to this composition on November 22nd, 1958, at Warfield, Berks.

I give my sincere apologies to all the band.—Yours faithfully,
Reading. N. J. DISERENS.

THEOLOGICAL COLLEGES AND RINGING

Dear Sir,—It is encouraging to read of the ringing activity at Salisbury Theological College, referred to by Mr. Roger O. Fry in his letter on page 223 of 'The Ringing World.'

Whilst I do not wish to anticipate the report of the Central Council Committee now in preparation, I may say that the report devotes some space to the need for action along the lines suggested by Mr. Fry. The report will also refer to action we have already taken in contacting Association officials in whose areas theological colleges are situated, and several of these officials have already replied to me promising to co-operate and let us know what progress they have been able to make.—Yours, etc.,

NORMAN CHADDOCK, Convener,
C.C. Committee on Sunday Service Ringing.

SPRING CLEANING AT CHESTERFIELD

Most ringing rooms could do with a good spring clean, and at Chesterfield this was recognised by Sam Scattergood and his willing helpers. After several years of activity by the builders who were working to save the famous crooked spire, and whose tramping through the ringing room had left their unmistakable mark, Sam thought it was time something should be done to clear up the mess; and so it was that one day recently he, together with Elsie Silcock, appeared at the church armed with buckets, etc., and started on a job which took them a whole day, with Sam and Malcolm Phipps fetching and carrying water up the stairs, and the lady on her knees scrubbing for dear life. A recent visit to this famous tower revealed a most gratifying state of affairs, and the ringing room was found to be spick and span and very comfortable—indeed, a model to be copied.

Chesterfield now possesses a very fine ring of ten bells, certainly the best in Derbyshire, and a ringing room equipped with a large set of beautiful handbells.

Whilst the work on the spire was going on Sam was quietly investigating what was underneath the ugly plaster on the ringing room walls, and began patiently chipping it off. He discovered some ancient arches, and was encouraged to remove all the plaster. The stonework was all cleaned and pointed, and is a great improvement on the old plaster. It is no wonder that after months of painstaking work many visits were paid to the Ringers' Retreat for refreshments.

It may not be generally known that Sam Scattergood is a direct descendant of the famous Samuel Scattergood, who was Master of the College Youths nearly 300 years ago.
JAFUS.

BELLS HEARD BY MILLIONS

A SHORT HISTORY OF ST. PETER'S, EVERCREECH

By HARRY SANGER

RESTORATION OF 1853

Nothing more of interest appears till 1853, when a general restoration took place as indicated by the following:—

	£	s.	d.
Paid Cary for rehangng the 2nd, 3rd, 5th and 6th bells in new brasses	8	8	0
John Carter for iron work and new hammers to the clock, W. H. Fowles for wheels and repairing the floors	2	2	0
Jeffries and Price for recasting and other work	81	4	0

The bells recast were the treble and fourth, and this means that with Cary's work the whole ring was rehung. According to a document written in 1902, the treble, second, third and sixth bells were again rehung in 1895 by Llewellyn and James, of Bristol.

In 1906 the wooden frame in which the bells were hung had got into such a bad state of repair that it was condemned, and in addition to this the second had become cracked. It was therefore decided to rehang the whole ring in a new metal frame and recast the cracked bell. At this time, some friends of the village, the Misses Cox, of Bruton, offered to give two additional bells to increase the ring to eight. The offer was accepted and the work entrusted to Messrs. Llewellyn and James. It was completed in 1907 and dedicated by the Lord Bishop of the Diocese.

PEALS ON THE EIGHT BELLS

Whilst there are no records of any peals being rung on the six bells, those on the eight are complete and numbered 21 in all. The first of these was 5,040 Stedman Triples on December 26th, 1907, conducted by the Rev. F. E. Robinson, and from then on peals were rung in a variety of methods, probably the most noteworthy of which was a 5,056 London Surprise Major, rung by a band resident in the diocese and conducted by J. T. Dyke, one of the foremost ringers of our time. The last peal on the eight was of Grandsire Triples, on April 26th, 1948, conducted by the writer.

Although the new frame and 'go' of the bells now left nothing to be desired, it was but few years before it was realised that what had been a reasonable ring of six, although of mixed origin, had by the addition of the new trebles produced a poor octave. In 1928 there was a move to retune all the bells, but nothing came of it, and it was nearly 20 years later before any vigorous effort was made to improve matters. By then, 1947, the tenor needed re-hanging and other work was necessary, so the ringers decided that if something could be done in the way of recasting the bells they would make themselves responsible for one of them.

A RING OF TEN

A scheme was put before the Church Council and estimates obtained; it was then agreed to recast the whole ring. The Diocesan Advisory Committee objected to the recasting of the 1530 bell on antiquarian grounds, and a new bell had to be provided to replace it in the ring. The farmers of the parish undertook to do this. John Taylor and Co. were entrusted with the work to include re-hanging on ball-bearings. The response to the appeal for funds was remarkable, added to which came the wonderful news that two generous donors had come forward and offered two additional bells to increase the ring to ten. With diocesan approval this offer was accepted and the bells were soon removed to the foundry.

It seemed strange for the next few months to hear no bells pealing for service, but the ringers occupied themselves visiting nearby towers and teaching new recruits on handbells and at the little tower at Maperton, by kind permission of the Rev. W. T. V. Langley, till in February, 1949, the bells were back in the tower with their new companions.

The service of dedication took place on March 12th and was performed by the Rt. Rev. W. H. Bradfield, Lord Bishop of the Diocese, before a large congregation which included ringers from many parts of the West Country. They had come to take part in the service and to hear what has since proved to be one of the finest examples of the bell-founders' art to be found in the West. In addition to dedicating the bells, two tablets were dedicated—one a mural recording the general restoration, and the other, cast in bell metal, recording the re-casting of the ringers' bell. The inscription on the latter reads:—

The seventh bell in this tower bears the inscription. Recast by ringers of this tower and the West Country. H. J. Sanger, Captain.

All the bells have their original inscriptions reproduced and in addition new ones denoting those responsible for recasting. The new trebles, the gifts of Douglas Bown Martin and Mrs. S. White, are family memorials.

The new inscriptions provide a lasting record of the wholehearted support given to this great work by every section of the community.

NEVER MISSED SERVICE RINGING

Following the dedication a touch of Grandsire Caters was rung by a representative band selected from the visiting ringers. The first peal on the new ring was performed on October 1st, 1949. It was of Grandsire Caters and was conducted by J. T. Dyke. Since then a number of peals have been rung in various methods, and the local band to date has never once missed ringing for both morning and evening services every Sunday, with additional ringing on the great festivals.

Looking back over this story of our village bells can but make us realise what a tremendous privilege we have enjoyed. We of this generation of Evercreech folk have by our united efforts raised a ring of bells of which we can be justly proud, as without doubt were those good folk of Evercreech who built the magnificent tower, in which they are hung, 500 years ago.

BURGATE BELLS RING FOR EASTER

At the request of the Rector, the ancient ring of five at St. Mary's Church, Burgate, Suffolk, rang out on Easter Sunday for Evensong. This was the first time for 30 years that these lovely bells have sent out their Eastertide message echoing across the Waveney Valley.

The usual intrepid assortment of ringers set out in 'Sputnik III,' and arrived at Burgate at about 2 o'clock.

The bells were rung, amidst a slow shower of miscellaneous debris, to Plain Bob Doubles, and, just before service, almost perfect rounds were rung for five minutes at about 15 whole pulls per minute. After the service the congregation were rung out and the back four lowered in peal, the treble meriting a solo item.

The return journey was accomplished safely, the party splitting up at Dickleburgh, two of the band to take part in Evensong ringing on the fine new six there.

ARCHDEACONRY OF STAFFORD SOCIETY

The March meeting of the Society took place at St. Paul's, Burton-on-Trent, on March 21st. St. Peter's, Wolverhampton, had been scheduled for this meeting, but when this proved impracticable Mr. B. G. Key and his ringers stepped nobly into the breach with an invitation for the Society to pay another visit to Burton-on-Trent. It was a most enjoyable meeting and attracted an attendance of 106. Most of those present attended the fully-choral Evensong, which was conducted by the Vicar of St. Paul's (the Rev. W. Willis Price). In an excellent address Mr. Price reminded his listeners that ringers have obligations to the Church beyond the regular ringing of the bells.

Mr. and Mrs. Key and their helpers had provided a bountiful tea and it speaks wonders for their arrangements when they were able to cater for an additional 25 beyond those who had sent in their names. Altogether 140 sat down to tea, this figure including members of the choir and the churchwardens. Following the meal the company stood in silence for a few moments as a tribute of respect to the memory of Mr. Herbert Knight, formerly of St. Peter's, Wolverhampton.

Ringng took place during the afternoon and evening on the lovely ring of ten (tenor 28 cwt.) at St. Paul's with the Ringing Master (Mr. Clive Smith) in charge. Well done and thank you all at St. Paul's for this very fine meeting.

The next meeting of the Society will be at Hoar Cross on May 9th.

A 60th ANNIVERSARY AT ERITH

On Easter Monday, April 3rd, 1899, a record length of 15,072 Double Norwich Court Bob Major was rung at the Church of St. John-the-Baptist, Erith, Kent, in 9 hours and 24 minutes, conducted by William Pye. The record did not stand for very long but was a great achievement, particularly in a belfry with no daylight or fresh air and lit by gas jets.

The ringers were Harry Flanders, George R. Pye, Charles Wilkins, Isaac G. Shade, Edgar Wightman, John H. Cheesman, Ernest Pye and William Pye. Incidentally, the same eight men rang at Erith the following Sunday a peal of London Surprise Major, being the first in the method for six of them, including the brothers Pye. This again was an historic peal, being the first in a method which William Pye was, in later years, to make all his own.

The 60th anniversary of the Double Norwich was commemorated with a peal in the method by Edgar Wightman, a member of the famous Suffolk ringing family, who migrated to Erith and was the composer of the long peal.

The 1959 peal is a happy link with the long peal, as the ringer of the treble, Edwin Barnett, when a lad of 14, heard most of the long peal. Indeed, he was appointed 'look-out' during the period when his father, the late Edwin Barnett sen., and John Garraw the Erith steeplekeeper, went off for the dinner. Of the 1959 band, five had rung peals with William Pye, including Herbert A. Audsley, who was in the 7,392 Cambridge Maximus at Bow.

WENDOVER, BUCKS.—On Mar. 29th, 1959, Grandsire Doubles: Selina Stephens (first quarter) 1, Monica Barrett 2, A. Fortin 3, W. D. 4, A. Hammond (first 'inside' and as com. 5, Sheila Howard (first quarter) 6. For Evensong.

CONTEST RINGING IN NORTH OF ENGLAND

By NOEL F. MOXON

Looking at the prize-ringing days in retrospect, one may be somewhat bewildered by the outlook of the organisers, the ringers and the general public. Dealing with the organisers who staged the contest and therefore had to collect money from generous residents in the town or village, it is difficult to imagine what they gained from the affair as there was apparently no entrance fee paid by the competitors and they received no gate money from the listeners, so monetary gain was not possible. Of the ringers taking part, many would lose two days' work, for contests were not always held at holiday times, and also incur travelling and subsistence expenses, so even a team collecting £5 to £8 would not result in 100 per cent. profit.

The people who lived around the church where the ringing was taking place must have been long-suffering to be able to bear the sound of bells from early morning until after midnight, often on successive days, but our newspapers carry no word of complaint. Probably the only non-ringers to derive any tangible benefit from the contest were the innkeepers who dispensed food and drink to the participants and their friends.

A PLAINTIVE PROTEST

However, one plaintive protest is handed down from 1848 when the Rev. Alfred Gatty, in his book 'The Bell,' writes of his experiences at a contest at Ecclesfield. 'Reader, has it ever been thy lot to be within close earshot of a ringing match, at which 8 or 10 sets of ringers contended for a silver cup or a purse of gold. We were awake at day break one fine summer's morning by a steady course of Plain Bobs . . . We rose early determined to combine an enjoyment of what we ascertained was a ringing match with our usual study avocations; but we found that we were not as steady as usual at our work and as time went on we became less so . . . we resolved to ride far away into the woods, and to be at peace . . . we returned in the early evening in the hope that the match would be over but before the Church was in light, the peal came. . . . Night came; but locks, bars and shutters did not exclude the sound; bed curtains could not shut it out. No hope arose from inquiry, for the Darfield and the Silkstone sets had still to ring. . . . Peace came at last but will it be credited that daylight had scarcely broken in the east, before the ringers were again at their task.'

Taking stock of the contesting teams, some well-known towers are still operating, with Silkstone and Liversedge reaching farthest back into the last century and others with 100 years of service to good striking still 'going strong.' A few have fallen by the wayside; one we regret, Holmfirth, with 150 years of good ringing—a grand record. This tower until ten years ago was manned by a team of elderly men who, it is said, ate sparingly at the Sunday tea table and would afterwards ring a perfect 600 or 504 of Oxford. Alas, in a short time, all but one were carried away, leaving no replacements. Recently a team of young ladies are learning to 'man' this fine ring of bells.

The all-conquering Dewsbury team have faded away; Darton, once a tower noted for peal ringing and prize ringing, is silent, as is Darfield, worried by coal mining subsidence. Barnsley ringers have for many years kept aloof from contest ringing but came back into the picture last year when they won the Hoylandswaine Cup. The finest record must go to the Wath-on-Dearne band, who combined multi-minor method ringing with prize ringing, and even in pre-war days were still a power in both spheres but now have withdrawn from the lists.

LADIES COMPETING

We have heard little in recent years of the Batley band who scored many wins in the pre-war era, but last year they made a sensational entry into the Halifax Cup with a team consisting of five girls and Mr. David Atkins, the tower captain. How the old prize ringers would have stared to see a bevy of young ladies approaching the tower to do battle for 'a purse of gold.'

Batley Carr, once the home of a fine ringing team, is now reduced to the unhappy state of 'chiming only.' Earlsheaton and Almondbury have lapsed into obscurity, temporary we hope. Kirkheaton and Kirkburton, although ringing regularly, have not competed for many years. A few towers are loath to enter competition ringing on the grounds that they would be outclassed by the skilled teams, and some years ago a system of handicapping was suggested but rejected on the grounds that it would not improve the striking of the weaker teams.

Year by year the contests continue to be held and we look forward to sunny days, when small groups of ringers congregate around the church listening with critical ear to the striking, some as unofficial judges noting faults in a small book, others with butterflies fluttering in young stomachs as their turn draws near, for the test of trying each bell 'three whole pulls' still causes the stoutest heart to quail.

If you are drawn last you ascend the tower with desperation, mindful of the fact that earlier in the afternoon the champions have rung an impeccable '720' and that the judge, locked away in an upper room at the Vicarage, will be reserving his most critical judgment for your performance.

In conclusion we must admit that one quality our forefathers possessed was keenness and in spite of the bitterness which occasionally crept into the prize ringing, we must not too hastily condemn them, and out of the subterfuge and chicanery of the last century there has emerged the contest ringing of to-day, during which we have made and maintained true friendship with many ringers.

I am very grateful to all my friends who have sent me details of contests, of which I have now nearly 60 up to the beginning of this century, and I shall be pleased to hear of any others which may be known to readers of this journal.

Many anecdotes have been handed down from the prize-ringing days, one from an old Cawthorne ringer, who gives his father's story of a contest at Penistone when the Cawthorne team rang so well that even the church organist marvelled at the music which poured from the belfry but, alas, a team from the Huddersfield district was awarded the first prize. Cawthorne ringers were angry at the apparent duplicity and even more infuriated when they later heard of the Penistone ringers each receiving a suit-length!

A tale is told of a contest at Bradfield, where it was arranged between the judge and a certain team that when it was their turn to ring a man was to go down to the Town Gate shouting 'Hot chestnuts ten a penny,' so that the judge would know who were ringing and mark accordingly!

OBITUARY

MR. CHARLES WILLIAM BELL

The West Country has lost an outstanding personality by the death of Mr. Charles William Bell, of Bath, who died on March 29th, one month short of his 93rd birthday, at the home of his elder son, Mr. Joseph Bell, 2, Homelands, School Lane, Bathaston.

For about 30 years he was tower master of St. Saviour's Church, Larkhall, Bath, and on November 15th, 1924, with a practice band and one additional, conducted a peal of Bob Major, the first and only peal of Major rung on the bells to date. He also arranged for the peal of Grandsire Triples rung at Colerne, Wilts, on July 25th, 1927, when Mr. Warren Sturgis, first assistant Master, Groton College, Mass. U.S.A., and his son, rang their first peal, being Parker's One-part of Grandsire Triples, and conducted by Mr. Arthur Prince. It was only through Mr. Bell's magnificent effort in keeping the seventh going that this peal was obtained.

In the early period of his career as a ringer, and with the encouragement of the late Mr. Henry Brown, of Bath, he at times took a day off, and would walk to Bristol to meet the Bristol ringers on festival days when all church bells were rung. Mr. Bell was a Bath Abbey ringer for many years.

On the evening of April 1st the body was received into Bathaston Church by the Rector (Rev. R. A. Evans), who took the funeral service the following day.

It is interesting to recall that Mr. Bell was the grandson of a famous Bath ringer, Mr. Joseph Bell, who rang in a peal of Grandsire Triples at St. James' Church, Bath, on Oct. 2nd, 1833. It was the grandson's privilege to conduct a peal in the same church, but it was not until after the peal that he discovered details of his grandfather's feat.]

MR. F. M. BLUNDEN

Friday, April 3rd, marked the passing of another stalwart of Sunday service ringing in West Sussex, when Mr. 'Freddie' Blunden died at the age of 63.

Until he retired two years ago, Mr. Blunden had faithfully served as tower master at St. Mary's Church, Storrington, for 36 years and, with Mr. 'Bill' Curtis, whom we laid to rest just over a year ago, was instrumental in maintaining a good regular service band of ringers over that whole period. Their splendid work is now being carried on by Miss J. Horton and Miss G. S. Smith.

Mr. Blunden was buried on April 8th, when the bells were rung half-muffled for the funeral service and later that evening to a quarter peal of Grandsire Doubles by the local band.

LLANDAFF AND MONMOUTH ASSOCIATION

Annual Meeting

A record number of 120 members attended the 66th annual meeting at Llandaff on Easter Monday. An encouraging feature was the predominance of young people, who kept the bells going in various methods until 4 o'clock. The Dean (the Very Rev. Eryl Thomas) conducted the service. After the service the visitors were invited to the hall, where the Bishop of Llandaff (the Rt. Rev. Glyn Simon) was waiting to receive them.

After partaking of tea the Bishop gave a short address of welcome and encouragement. Mr. D. J. Lewis proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the ladies who had provided and served the tea.

The Dean presided at the business meeting which followed. Apologies for absence were read from the Rev. S. J. Richards, Mr. N. James (the local leader) and Mr. L. Malings. The company stood in silence for two members—Mr. E. Phillips and Mr. F. Gordon—who had recently passed away.

In the absence of the treasurer, Mr. T. Roderick presented the balance sheet, which showed a credit balance of £6 19s. 4d., but pointed out that there would have been a debit if officers had claimed their full expenses. The balance sheet was accepted.

The secretary read the report he had sent to the Central Council Committee for the survey of Sunday service ringing. He then reported that 33 peals had been rung during 1958, which was above the average number.

Mr. G. I. Lewis, of Cadoxton, Neath, was elected Master for the ensuing year. The hon. secretary and auditors were re-elected.

Mr. D. King reported on the restoration of Chepstow bells: it is hoped the bells will be ready for Whitsun. Mrs. D. J. King reported good progress at Caldicot and Usk, and Mr. Hoffman on the young band at Whitchurch. It was proposed to hold the next annual meeting at All Saints', Newport.

Twelve new members were elected. The secretary read a circular letter from the Rev. A. G. G. Thurlow regarding ringing lectures and instruction at the Theological College, Llandaff.

Mr. J. Lovett moved a hearty vote of thanks to the Dean for all that he had done to make it such a pleasant meeting.

BELLS ON THE AIR

By PREBENDARY MARTIN WILLSON

THERE are few more deadly hindrances to good broadcasting than a tendency for speaker, singer or instrumentalist to be more concerned with what critical colleagues may think of the performance than with the real purpose of the broadcast (which is to enlighten or inform or entertain or inspire the listeners). I would guess that this tendency is at the root of many of the instances of poor striking or failure to set a bell or bells that occur in broadcast ringing, often when all has gone smoothly and well in rehearsal.

There is, of course, a proper place for the wish to uphold or increase the reputation of your tower when it goes 'on the air,' but it should always be subsidiary to the main purpose—to ring to the glory of God that He may use the beauty of well-struck bells to call listeners to join with the local congregation in an act of worship. For the hope is that listeners will find inspiration and help and a challenge to offer their lives in the service of their fellows. Ringers as members of a team with their own part to play need, just as much as clergy and choir and congregation, to look upward and outward, and not inward (in their case to what other ringers will be thinking of their performance). A cultivation of a right attitude to the task is essential to what I call the remote preparation for the broadcasting of bells at the beginning of a service.

In the immediate preparation the producer and the engineers will be concerned with three things:— (1) To find a microphone position which will give the listeners the perfect vantage-point for hearing the bells; (2) to ensure that they are 'stood' at exactly the right time; and (3) to put the ringers as much at ease about their task as possible.

The perfect vantage-point for the human ear to listen to bells is very often to be found at something like a quarter of a mile from their tower, but this would be no good to the microphone—the volume of sound needs to reach a certain level for radio transmission which is not likely to be attained at anything like that distance. From every point of view, the practical thing to do is to find the ideal spot in the churchyard. It's likely to be opposite one corner of the tower rather than opposite one face of it, and the captain of the ringers is often able to help producer and engineers by warning them of any tendency for particular bells to 'cry' when heard from one or other side of the tower.

The rehearsal is not a long-winded affair. If a 'touch'—a plain course or a fixed number of changes has been chosen and practised for the broadcast (or in the case of a call-change band a definite sequence of changes with a fixed and regular number of whole pulls on each change), the producer asks the ringers to go through their 'touch' three or four times. This gives time for different 'mike' positions to be tried out and for the producer to satisfy himself that each time the 'touch' is rung the duration remains constant to within a few seconds. The ideal arrangement is for the 'touch' to be preceded and followed by the minimum number of whole pulls in rounds. If the producer finds that the 'touch' consists of, e.g., 15 seconds of 'rounds,' 3 minutes 30 seconds for the changes and 15 seconds of 'rounds' before the bells stand, and that the ringers keep within 5 seconds of 4 minutes each time, he will quite confidently give the signal to start ringing exactly 4 minutes before the time when he wants the bells to stand. What he hopes to broadcast is the last minute of the 'touch' (in many methods you get some of the best music as the bells are coming home), followed by a very few rounds.

If the ringers are confident that real care is being taken to find the ideal 'mike' position and that they don't have to fuss with timing during the ringing of the broadcast 'touch,' they should be able to concentrate on giving their very best to the listeners. There is no better start to a broadcast service than a ring of bells accurately and rhythmically struck. And let there be no doubt at all—that there is nothing whatever to be said for being ambitious in the choice of method. Rounds perfectly struck may seem to some to be letting the tower down, but they are really to be preferred for broadcasting to change ringing which would get even 75 marks out of 100. Choose something which is well within your compass and aim at the perfect performance of it.

Mr. William Welling, of Old Windsor, was privileged to receive the Royal Maundy when the Queen for the first time since the Middle Ages distributed the Sovereign's gift of specially minted silver coins at St. George's Chapel, Windsor Castle. Is this the first time that a ringer has been so honoured?

The Surrey Association have a new general secretary. Mr. W. F. Oatway has retired from office and his successor is Mr. R. I. F. Parsons, of 4, Brookside, Carshalton.

The publication of the belated peal at Raunds last week has induced a member of the band to remind the sender that the conductor was Mr. Ronald C. Noon.

The peal of Cambridge Surprise Maximus, rung at Ashton-under-Lyne, Lancs, on Saturday, March 21st, was a memorial tribute to James Carter, for many years leader at this tower.

The conductor of the peal at Benfieldside,
Co. Durham, on January 20th, apologises to Miss Frances Thornton, who rang the second.
The report in 'The Ringing World' (see page 105) unfortunately gave her a masculine appellation.

The band who rang a wedding peal at Overseale on March 31st wish to thank Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Cotton and family for their hospitality after the peal, and also to extend to Mr. and Mrs. Mottram (the 'happy couple') the best wishes of the band for their future life.

The in memoriam peal to Mrs. Phyllis Poole on March 23rd was rung by several of the band who took part in her last peal before her tragic accident a year ago. The composition, 5,056 Double Norwich, by William Willson, and the tower, the Loughborough Bell Foundry Campanile, were identical on both occasions.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Unfortunately, owing to repairs to the tower, the bells of Chelmsford Cathedral will not be available for the annual meeting of the Essex Association on Whit Monday. It is hoped to make available further towers on a geographical basis so that people visiting Chelmsford may get a ring on their way to and from Chelmsford.

Owing to repairs to the roof of St. Mary-the-Virgin Church, Kelvedon, Essex, there will be no practices before July and August. The only ringing permitted is for Evensong on Sundays, when visitors will be welcome.

The Society of Royal Cumberland Youths, at their meeting at Shoreditch on April 11th, decided to hold their annual dinner on February 6th, 1960. It will probably be at Deacon's where the new surroundings were thought to be quite satisfactory. Two new members elected were Mr. F. P. Bryant (Hastings) and Mr. P.
Herring (Brookfield, Highgate).

The quarter peal at Blewbury, Berks, on April 10th, enabled Miss Elizabeth Jackson, of the British University Society, to score her first quarter on eight. Also taking part was Mr.
Charles Williams, of Welshpool, who had taken part in an attempt on a previous visit some two years ago. Mr. Williams, who is a very young 75-year-old, made the long journey back to Montgomeryshire the following day by auto-cycle.

In extending birthday wishes to Mr. J.
Elliott, of Kelvedon, his friends hope that it will not be long before he is back ringing again, and that he will have a speedy recovery.
He did succeed in ringing a course of Cambridge on Easter Sunday after an absence, through illness, of seven months. He was then ringing as good as ever. With warmer weather approaching, the band look forward to seeing and ringing with him regularly.

ALTERATION OF RULES

9. To amend Rule 11 (i) by deleting all after the words 'Hon. Secretary' in line 9 and substituting the words 'not later than the 31st March before the meeting.'

MOTIONS

10. (a) Proposed on behalf of the Chester Diocesan Guild by Mr. J. W. Clarke, seconded by Mr. A. J. Martin:—

'That in any record attempt the bells shall be clearly audible outside the tower or other building in which they are contained and that during such an attempt neither food nor drink shall be partaken of by any member of the band.'

- (b) Proposed by Mr. A. J. Pitman and seconded by Mr. G. I. Lewis:—

'That although true six-scores of Double Grandsire Doubles cannot be obtained without calls when the treble is behind as well as when it is on the front, in view of the fact that twelve-scores on the same principle as Pitman's twelve-scores of Grandsire Doubles have been obtained, Double Grandsire Doubles consisting of such twelve-scores shall be recognised by the Council.'

- (c) Proposed by Mr. W. F. Moreton and seconded by Mr. H. Miles:—

'That this Council considers the organisation of courses which would cater, possibly by means of simultaneous lectures, for the needs both of more experienced and less experienced ringers, and, if in favour of such courses, begins to hold them as soon as possible.'

11. To fix the place of the next meeting.

12. Any other business.

E. A. BARNETT,
Hon. Secretary.

26, Iron Mill Lane,
Crayford, Kent.

BEDFORDSHIRE ASSOCIATION

THE annual meeting of the Bedfordshire Association was held in St. Paul's Church, Bedford, on Easter Monday.

The chairman, Miss C. Steel, opened the proceedings with apologies for absence received from Messrs. P. Mewling and S. J. Ivin. The minutes of the previous annual meeting were read and signed.

The statement of accounts for the year ending December 31st, 1958, were, on the proposition of Mr. G. Amor, seconded by Mr. R. Piron, accepted.

A number of changes were made in the officers of the Association, the new general secretary being Mr. J. M. Stephens. Mr. A. C. Sinfeld was elected a vice-president as Mr. W. Stapleton wished to retire.

After much discussion for many years, it was decided to move the place of the annual meeting, 1960, to Biggleswade.

The invitation of the Hertford County Association to a joint summer festival in Hertford on June 13th next was warmly received.

A vote of thanks was expressed to Mr. J. M. Stephens and the Dinner Committee for arranging so successful an evening.

As it had become obvious from the Association's accounts that rising costs were not being met by subscriptions, it was decided that Rule 6 be altered as follows: 'The subscription of performing members under 16 years shall be 1s. 6d.; 16 years and over, 3s. per annum, etc.'

Mr. S. Foskett, the Association's C.C. representative, stated that he would be attending the Council's next meeting at Southport.

After the meeting, tea had been organised by Miss Anne Amor in St. Peter's Hall, followed by further ringing during the evening at St. Peter's and St. Paul's.

Vicar Halts A Wedding Peal Attempt

A fantastic report about a peal which came to an untimely end appeared on April 10th in the 'Slough Observer,' typical of the nonsense resulting from Press attempts to describe the activities of ringers. Great prominence is given to a wedding peal of Minor which the Vicar of Langley interrupted towards the end of the sixth 720, because he had received seven complaints from nearby residents. As the ringing was extremely good, it was a great disappointment to the performers, four Slough and two Windsor ringers.

Miss Jennifer Hussey, whose wedding it was, learned to handle a bell at Langley, a call-change tower, but, being at a local girls' high school with a Slough ringer, she sought to learn the art of change ringing with her friend, and soon learned to ring Plain Bob Major. Being also a regular chorister at Langley made it difficult to maintain an interest in both arts, so she had not done much ringing during the last two years, but now she is taking up residence in Slough it is hoped she can once again continue her change ringing progress.

As she was marrying Mr. John Bartlett, a well-known local sportsman, there was a large congregation of friends and church folk, and the reception was held in the Church Hall next door. The Vicar gave his consent for a peal attempt to be made, but as advance news of this reached the Press, two or three complaints had been lodged before the peal commenced, but the Vicar kindly allowed it to be attempted. The ringing was excellent, and several highly complimentary comments were made on it. However, the persistence of those who were trying to stop the peal made the Vicar enter the belfry and ask, 'How much longer is this going on for?' When told 'About another half an hour,' he said, 'Can't you cut it short?' After further explanation and an expressed desire to finish it 'now we've got so far,' the Vicar left, only to return five minutes later saying his name was mud, and he was afraid something must be done. The conductor had no alternative, therefore, but to let the bells run round at the end of the sixth extent to everyone's great disappointment.

No amount of instructing would be parsons at the theological colleges of the implications of a 'peal' can stifle determined local opposition tactics. Some good may however come from this 'storm in a teacup,' as the Vicar is now inquiring into the possibility and cost of having the louvers blocked up, which might open up the possibility of future peals at Langley which as the moment seems out of the question.

The band, whose efforts to give them a good send-off to their married life were frustrated, nevertheless wish Mr. and Mrs. Bartlett every future happiness, and thank Mr. and Mrs. Hussey for their kind hospitality. W. B.

MR. & MRS. EDWIN H. LEWIS

The whole Exercise will join in congratulating Mr. and Mrs. Edwin H. Lewis, who will celebrate their golden wedding on April 29th. For longer than this Mr. Lewis has taken a leading part in many different aspects of bells and ringing—indeed, his 100th peal had been accomplished a week previously, while during the 27 years he so ably filled the office of President of the Central Council, and since, Mr. Lewis has regularly attended the Council's meetings and become equally well known up and down the country. They were married at Southwell Cathedral, where Mrs. Lewis's father was Archdeacon, her brother, the late Rev. H. S. T. Richardson, having been a contemporary at Cambridge of Mr. Lewis and himself a prominent member of the Council for a good many years.

Many ringers have enjoyed Mr. and Mrs. Lewis's hospitality in the different places they have lived: at Frodsham in the early days; at Brasted when they returned from 'exile' in Scotland, and where 'open days' were often held, or at their present home in a very different part of Scotland. Let us hope they will continue to enjoy life in that delightful spot for many years to come.

THE DILLINGTON HOUSE COURSE

The thirty-three students who assembled at Dillington House on Friday, April 3rd, were told by the Warden, Mr. Harvey Sheppard, M.A., that ringing history was being made. It was his opinion that no residential course for ringers had been held previously, and as no details of a week-end with lectures held in Essex some few years ago are to hand, it is difficult to make a comparison. Certainly there was the feeling throughout the course in Somerset that something new was being attempted, and some people felt that a long-felt need in the Exercise was being satisfied. There have been numerous 'getting-togethers' of ringers in the past: at Central Council meetings, on ringing weeks, on day outings, at dinners and at meetings. Rarely, very rarely, have ringers met together to listen, ask and learn rather than to ring.

After dinner on the first evening the course was welcomed in the lecture room by the Warden, by Mrs. E. F. Grabham and by Mr. A. York-Bramble. The Warden told us about the purpose of Dillington House. It is a College for Adult Education belonging to Somerset Education Committee, and about forty courses on such different subjects as painting and bee-keeping are held during the year. We were given some practical advice about making beds and washing up as well. Mrs. Grabham is a local ringer and she told us a little of the history behind the course. She said that at one time she had been doubtful of the outcome of the venture for which she had been so largely responsible, but the fact that the lecture room was comfortably full gave great satisfaction. She hoped everyone would think the course worth while.

Mr. York-Bramble, the Principal of the College of Campanology, first of all thanked the Warden and Mrs. Grabham for the invitation to co-operate in the undertaking. He said that the College, though not alone in being invited to participate, alone responded (he understood) with concrete, practical proposals, and these were in the programme. He hoped the course would be rather a 'con-course,' a coming-together to share the results of others' experience and, if possible, to discuss them. In regard to the programme content, it had been decided to extend the scope of the subject matter as widely as possible, so as to:—

- Provide, at this first course of its kind, something of interest for all tastes in ringing matters.
- Give some idea of the wider field of study from which, in possible successive courses, subjects might be selected in turn for study in greater detail.
- Indicate, where the subject matter itself may be quite familiar to the student, new ways of presenting the matter as from the angle of the instructor.

Mr. York-Bramble said he was sorry that Mr. Ernest Morris had been prevented by the change of date of the course from coming to give a talk on the origin and development of change ringing. He mentioned a letter of good wishes sent by Mr. Morris and other letters from well-wishers who could not attend.

A VERY FULL DAY

The time table for Saturday included five lectures and a practical session in the belfry. This was clearly a very full day, and in the end time won. The last lecture had to be cut to about half the allotted time.

The first and third lectures were given by Mr. A. York-Bramble on the subject of 'Planned Training in Elementary Ringing.' We were taken step by step through a comprehensive course which was intended to teach a learner bell-control and the rudiments of change ringing. With the practical assistance of Mrs. Grabham and a bell rope tied from a convenient height, he showed methods for teaching such things as pulling the rope straight down and what to do in an emergency. Some of the demonstrations belonging to these lectures were given in the parish church of Ilminster during the afternoon—dodging and place-making on tied bells were two examples—and the opportunity was given to everyone to have a ring on the deep-toned bells.

The second lecture, in the morning, was given by the President of the Central Council, Mr. F. Sharpe, on 'Belfry Care and Maintenance.' Our appetites had been whetted by the display of photographs, foundry marks and handbells he had made in the library, and his lecture proved to be extremely interesting. In the first part of his lecture, which was illustrated throughout, Mr. Sharpe traced the development in the shape of the bell, side-tracking occasionally to tell an interesting story about some particular bell, like Great Tom of Oxford. In the second part of the talk we were instructed on the care of our bells and their frames. Mr. Sharpe was prevented from finishing his lecture by the lack of time, which disappointed his audience, but he was able to answer some questions before dinner.

Before the afternoon session began, the course assembled on the lovely lawn for numerous photographs to be taken, Mrs. Grabham was keen to take one of handbell ringing, so Mr. Sharpe obliged by producing twenty-six, and these were rung to rounds and the first change of 'twenty-six in.' There was no 'time' for the second change!

Mr. R. F. B. Speed, B.A., gave us an informed lecture on conducting. He told us, to start with, when in the ringing to call the bobs and singles, and secondly, and in some detail, how to check the correctness of a touch or peal by coursing order. There were too many questions to be answered immediately after this talk, so during the evening session almost an hour was given up to a question and answer session, a change in the programme which proved valuable. It was not until about 9 p.m. that Mr. York-Bramble began the first of his two lectures on 'The Technology and Theory of Method Structure.' The speaker had of necessity to prune his lecture drastically. He soon realised the general level of knowledge of his audience and gave us a detailed exposition on the structure of the most simple methods, beginning with the six changes on three bells. This sort of explanation is rarely made, but it would seem essential knowledge for everyone interested in method ringing. The meeting adjourned at 10.30 p.m., but the interest aroused by the lecturer was illustrated by the number of people who questioned him at that hour of the night.

Many people took part in the Eucharist at 8 a.m., at Ilminster, and some joined the local ringers in the tower and rang for a Eucharist at 9 a.m. At 9.50 a.m. a short service was held in the lecture room. The Rev. M. C. C. Melville, who is chaplain to the College of Campanology, conducted it and gave a brief but instructive address, which many appreciated.

After the service, Mr. York-Bramble was able to continue his discourse on Method Structure, and it fitted well with Mr. Speed's talk on 'Composition,' where the in-and-out-of-course of changes was described and used. Mr. Speed dealt chiefly with composing and proving touches and peals of Plain Bob Major.

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE FUTURE

Before lunch the Warden presided over a concluding meeting, when he thanked the lecturers and Mrs. Grabham for their advice and assistance. He gave everyone the opportunity to comment on the course, and two constructive criticisms were made. The first was that there should be more practical work; the second that some lectures might be given simultaneously, one lecture for more advanced, the other for less advanced students. The Warden pointed out the financial difficulty involved in this latter suggestion, but welcomed it for consideration. He hoped further courses would be held, some possibly at Dillington House, but perhaps of a different nature than this first experiment. Mr. York-Bramble's words of thanks to the Warden were acclaimed.

It was generally thought to be a valuable week-end. Not only were we made very comfortable externally and internally by Mrs. Sheppard, the Domestic Bursar, but we were stimulated mentally, and this, some would say, is the chief task of the teacher. While some people might, and did, quibble about a certain method of instruction or about generalisations on 'Q sets,' no one would disagree about major issues. The opportunity was given for opinion to be expressed and for opinion to be enlightened. Most, if not all, of the thirty-three students returned to their eighteen different counties satisfied, happy and hopeful of future courses.

GUILD of DEVONSHIRE RINGERS

The annual meeting of the East Devon Branch was held at Ottery St. Mary on Easter Monday and about 50 ringers attended. The service, which was held in the Parish church, was conducted by the Rev. Preb. E. V. Cox, president of the Guild.

At the business meeting Mr. G. C. Woodley took the chair. Officers elected for 1959 were: Mr. G. C. Woodley, chairman; Mr. F. H. Parr, vice-chairman; Mr. W. Webb, secretary and treasurer; Mr. C. D. J. Webb, assistant secretary; Mr. C. C. Turner, Ringing Master; Mr. F. H. Parr, Mr. P. Davis and Mr. C. J. Turner, representatives on the general committee.

It was proposed to hold the next annual meeting at Honiton on Easter Monday, 1960. Nineteen new members were elected and certificates were presented by Preb. E. V. Cox to Miss J. Real, Miss Kristina Shepard and Arthur W. Sage.

In his report the secretary said there was an increase in membership during 1958, there now being 117 performing members and two honorary members; he also said that the Branch was still in a very sound financial position.

THE SEARCH FOR GOOD MUSIC

Dear Sir,—The mention in a recent article of the inhibitions of composers regarding the use of Singles leads me to wonder whether another such inhibition could be responsible for a phenomenon that to me, and possibly to other comparative newcomers to our art, seems quite inexplicable.

It is this: one's first acquaintance with 8-bell ringing is probably through the medium of call changes. One becomes accustomed to the sound of well-known changes such as Whittington's and Queen's, with their characteristic -468s, and comes to expect the 7th to be moved down to make way for the musical descending thirds so typical of this mode of ringing. When one progresses to Grandsire Triples the same familiar changes are met again, as the part-ends of touches. But on learning to ring Major, one soon realises that these changes are no longer to be heard. The 7th is kept exclusively behind the tenor, with the 6th home as frequently as possible.

Why, I asked myself, should this be? Fearing some technical difficulty, I began to experiment on paper with touches of Plain Bob Major containing course-ends, with -2468, -3468 or -7568 behind, and found that the tenors could quite easily be parted and brought together without any outstandingly unmusical leads, and (I hope) without falseness. The quarter peal below is the sort of touch to which I am referring:—

1,264 PLAIN BOB MAJOR
2345678	W	5	4	B	In	M	H
4237568			4	1
34275
23475
23754			1
52734	—
27534	—	—	—
35724	—	—	—
3526478	—			1
42635		—	—
34256	—			1
23456

Why are such course-ends so seldom used in peal ringing? Apart from a few peals of Double Norwich by Nolan Golden, almost all compositions of Major keep the tenors together throughout, at least at the course-ends, and of 55 quarter-peal compositions in the Ringer's Notebook and Diary only two have the tenors parted, these for some reason being tucked away among 'Miscellaneous Callings'.

It may be that I am rushing in where the angels of the Exercise have good reason for fearing to tread. If so, I would be grateful to anyone who could explain where my ideas are in error. But at the moment it seems to me that much good music in Major ringing is as yet unexploited.—Yours truly, Beccles, Suffolk. TERENCE G. PAGE.

KNEBWORTH SURPRISE MAJOR

Dear Sir,—Knebworth Surprise Major is marked in Corrigan's Collection (second edition) as having a clean proof scale. This is not correct. False courses are 24365, 53624 and 65432 (groups b and K).

WILL CRITICS PLEASE NOTE!

Dear Sir,—At its annual meeting on April 8th the Guild of Clerical Ringers unanimously agreed to the following resolution, which I was asked to communicate to you:—

'That this Guild views with concern the practice of publishing expressions of personal grievance in the correspondence columns of 'The Ringing World,' and requests the Editor to exercise more care to preserve a Christian spirit between personalities in the Exercise.'

Yours faithfully,

THE ANCIENT BELL OF EVERCREECH

Dear Sir,—I was interested in Mr. Sanger's account of the above bell, which is stated to be 500 years old, but seeing it was cast circa 1530 this can hardly be correct. Its founder (Thomas Gefferies) was certainly founding in Bristol during that period, and as his business was from 1508 to 1546, the estimated date of 1530 would be as near history can take us. Can Mr. Sanger help in giving us some information regarding the gap of some 70 years?

ELY DIOCESAN GUILD ANNUAL MEETING

Dear Sir,—On behalf of the many visitors who attended the annual meeting of the above Guild on Easter Monday at Huntingdon, I should like to thank Messrs. W. J. Ridgman, H. S. Peacock and all officials concerned, for the excellent arrangements they made to ensure that everyone spent a happy day. The directions of how to get to the eleven towers open, neatly set out in type, and handed out by Harold Peacock, were much appreciated.

At the end of tea, and before the business meeting started, visitors were told that they could leave the hall if they wished and ring at the three local towers. A very sensible suggestion, of which many visitors availed themselves.

Thank you, Ely D.G., for a grand day.—
Yours sincerely,

A. PATRICK CANNON.

Twyford (Berks) Outing

Twyford ringers and friends from neighbouring towers had a very successful outing on Easter Monday. Towers visited were Lewknor, Thame, Long Crendon, Twyford (Bucks), Launton (a handy six much appreciated by the younger members) and Bicester (a fine eight, where remarkably well-struck Grandsire and Siedman Triples were the highlights of the day's ringing).

A visit to Ambrosden concluded a very pleasant day. We were met at every tower (many thanks to the local towerkeepers) and managed to keep on time, and occasionally a little before time, all day.

MEMORIAL CROSS AT MEASHAM

A processional cross, a gift of the three sons of a former Vicar of Measham, Leicestershire, was recently dedicated at Measham Parish Church by one of the sons.

The cross, of inlaid silver on an ebony staff, was in memory of the late Rev. John R. King, Vicar of Measham 1924-1943, and of his wife, the late Mrs. E. J. King. The Rev. J. R. King, who died just over a year ago, was a keen ringer and closely associated himself with the belfry during the nineteen years of his incumbency.

The service of dedication was taken by Rev. Canon A. King, Rector of Bradfield, Sheffield. His two brothers, who were present at the service and read the lessons, are Dr. John King, of Blackpool, and Mr. Alfred King, of Bury.

Preceding the service, the bells of St. Laurence's were rung to a 720 Bob Minor at the wish of Canon A. King and by ringers closely associated with the late Rev. J. R. King: G. W. Ridgway 1, Canon A. King 2, F. G. Bailey 3, P. W. Grice 4, J. W. Cotton (conductor) 5, W. H. Curson 6. Mr. J. W. Cotton was a member of the bands that rang in the three peals of the Rev. J. R. King.

PETERBOROUGH DIOCESAN GUILD

A meeting of the Kettering Branch was held at the pleasant six-bell tower of Isham on April 11th. Some well-struck touches of Minor were rung in at least eight methods, but, due no doubt to the absence of the Branch Ringing Master, Original was not on the schedule!

The Rector, the Rev. G. Carnell, conducted the Guild office—the last time the old form will be used—and gave an address on the text 'One Fold and one Shepherd.' Mr. Peter Fox was the organist.

Tea was served in the parish hall to about 20 members, and was an excellent spread. A short business meeting followed tea, presided over by Canon Turner. Four new members from Cranford were elected to membership.

It was agreed to hold the next meeting at Dingley on July 25th, and practice meetings at Burton Latimer, Rushton and Warkton, subject to suitable permission and arrangements.

SHEFFIELD AND DISTRICT SOCIETY

Methods from Plain Bob to London Surprise Major were rung at the Society's meeting at Harthill on April 4th.

Everyone enjoyed the tea provided by the local ladies in the Church Hall, and during the business meeting Mr. Thomas Lee was presented with a new pipe and pouch packed with tobacco, a gift from the Society as a token of appreciation for his 50 years of service in recording the peals rung for the Society. Mr. Lee said that he had found the task very interesting as it had enabled him to follow the careers of many well-known local ringers.

After the business meeting the ringers transferred to the eight-bell tower of South Anston, where ringing was resumed.

The next meeting of the Society will be held at Dronfield on May 2nd.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Mr. A. J. Pitman Hears His Scientific Triples

HONOURED guests at the annual meeting of the Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild, held at St. Andrew's, Kingsbury, on April 11th, were Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Pitman, who had made the journey from Cheltenham to hear a tape recording of the peal of Scientific Triples, the great ringing achievement during the year.

Mr. Pitman expressed his pleasure at hearing the recording and congratulated the ringers, 'I never thought they would ring it so well,' he said. 'I have heard about seven courses, and to my mind it is the most tricky and difficult thing ever done in Triples. I have had a bit of experience in that class of composition, and I might explain that there are 168 divisions with 30 changes in each.'

Mr. Pitman said he rang his first peal of Cambridge for the Association just over 20 years ago.

Later in the evening four members of the band stood up to receive the personal congratulations of the company.

The meeting, which was held in the Church Hall following the service and tea, was presided over by the President, the Rev. G. C. Taylor. Supporting him were the secretary, Mr. T. J. Lock, and other officers.

The company stood in remembrance of the following members who had died since the last A.G.M.: E. J. Butler (Colchester), G. F. Carter (Welwyn Garden City), T. J. Fowler (Crookham), E. R. Gladman (Heston), P. J. Johnson (Leeds), H. Knight (Wolverhampton), J. G. MacDougal (Hornchurch), J. L. Morris (Orpington), W. J. Paice (Wokingham), Mrs. M. Shurcliff (Boston, U.S.A.), B. H. Swinson (Jersey) and J. Thomas (Hinton-on-the-Green).

71 NEW MEMBERS

Mr. J. T. Lock, presenting the annual report, stated 71 new members had been elected, eight comprising the new band of St. John-the-Baptist, Hackney. This band had been instructed by D. Neal, Upper Clapton, who by his excellent training produced ringers up to sufficient standard for them to take charge of their new ring of bells.

During the year 209 quarter peals were rung in 35 towers, also three half-peals. This total included two quarter peals of Grand sire Triples rung for the Harvest Festival services by two separate bands at Heston, all being local members attached to the tower.

Fifty-six peals were rung on tower bells and one peal 'in hand', the outstanding performance being the extent of Scientific Triples, rung for the first time by a young band at the first attempt. Surprise Major methods rung to peals for the first time were Chelsea, Chiswick, Clacton, Hampshire, Highgate, Hornsey, Ickenham, Kilburn, Monmouth, Northwood and Wiltshire. Also peals of Berkeley Delight Minor and Wealdstone Little Surprise Major were first ever performances.

The first peal on the augmented eight at Stamford Hill was rung by the local band, whilst Hillingdon and Southgate also rang peals by their own Sunday service ringers. A peal in five Doubles methods at Stanwell was rung by a band with an average age of 15 years. The first 'Donald' peal was rung for the Association. J. R. Mayne had now rung peals in 100 different Surprise Major methods.

NEW RINGS OF BELLS

One augmentation, at Feltham, had been completed and dedicated, and T. Price was to be congratulated upon his achievement in raising the money and doing so much of the work by himself by designing, constructing and erecting the frame for the two new treble bells. New rings of bells had been provided at St. John-the-Baptist, Hackney, and St. Clement Danes. R. I. Shepherd deserves thanks for his successful work at Staines, where the bells of St. Mary's were rung more regularly. Towers where ringing was indefinitely suspended include Harrow-on-the-Hill, Hornsey and Pinner.

Mr. J. R. Mayne, seconding the adoption, pointed out that Mr. T. J. Lock had also during the year completed 100 Surprise Major peals.

Mr. F. W. Goodfellow presented the accounts. The Bell Restoration Fund had £32 10s. 5d. in hand, grants of £5 5s. each having been made to Feltham and St. Mary's, Upper Clapton. The Central Fund had a balance of £192 2s. 7d. It was decided that any two of the three trustees' signatures be required on cheques.

The Dinner Sub-Committee elected were Messrs. F. W. Goodfellow, E. H. Kilby, C. H. Neil, E. J. Lock and Mrs. Hart.

Officers elected were: President, Rev. G. C. Taylor; Master, Mr. T. Price; secretary, Mr. T. J. Lock; assistant secretary, Mr. J. R. Mayne; treasurer, Mr. F. W. Goodfellow; librarian, Mr. G. A. Parsons; trustees, Messrs. A. Cutter, F. W. Goodfellow and T. J. Lock; auditor, Mr. E. Hodgson.

A recommendation from the Central Committee that Messrs. A. W. Coles and W. H. Coles be elected vice-presidents was rejected, but Messrs. W. H. Coles and W. N. Genna were elected hon. life members. This honour was conferred on Mr. A. W. Coles 20 years ago.

Elected new members were Mr. Keith Randall (Ealing), Miss P. Martin, Miss J. Saunders and Mr. M. Pavitt (Kingsbury) and Mr. A. R. Mann (Newmarket) non-resident life member.

ALL SAINTS', EDMONTON

After discussion, the meeting decided to make a grant of 15 guineas to All Saints', Edmonton, where £3,000 is required for tower restoration, the recasting of two bells and general overhaul, and the provision of a new frame. Towards this, £1,630 had been raised. They hoped to get the bells back from the White-chapel Foundry by the summer.

The next annual meeting is to be held in the Master's Tower, Feltham, with Staines as an alternative.

Mr. W. H. Coles called the members' attention to the passing of Mr. Jim Lewis, of Feltham, and it was decided to send a letter of sympathy to his widow.

The service, which was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. F. G. Springford), assisted by the Rev. W. A. Bevis (curate), was beautifully sung by a special choir, and included an anthem by Byrd, sung unaccompanied. The President preached. They were thanked, as was Mr. D. D. T. Smith for local arrangements, Mrs. Smith and her helpers for the excellent tea, and Mr. Michael Moreton for providing the tape recording of the peal of Scientific Triples.

BARNSELY & DISTRICT SOCIETY

The Barnsley and District Society held their monthly meeting at Wragby, near Wakefield, on April 11th, twelve towers being represented. It was decided to hold the contest for the shield at St. Leonard's, Wortley, near Sheffield, on June 13th, which would be open to anyone, and the Hoylandswaine Cup on September 12th, 1959, at Hoylandswaine, for those within twelve miles' radius of Barnsley. Another proposition was to try to hold the Potter dinner again on October 24th. The next meeting would be at Bolsterstone, near Sheffield, on May 9th.

A vote of thanks was given by Mr. John W. Moxon for the use of the bells, and to Mr. John Brewon and local company for making all arrangements, and to the ladies for providing cups of tea free of charge. The Vicar responded.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION

The spring meeting of the Eastern District was held at Howden on April 4th and was attended by over 50 ringers, representing 17 towers, including visiting ringers from Barrow-on-Humber and Derby. The Vicar gave the address and acted as organist at the service.

After tea in the Church Hall, Mr. A. E. Sellers, the vice-president, presided at the business meeting, at which six new members were elected—Misses Angela Guy, Jane Wilkinson and Valerie Wilson, of Selby Abbey, and Messrs. Howard Sandham and Robin Rawson, of Sherburn-in-Elmet, and Ian N. Goldthorpe, of Kirk Ella.

Beverley Minster was proposed as the next place of meeting. A lengthy discussion took place about the suggested alterations to rules of the Association, and the overwhelming opinion was that the name of the Association should remain as at present and that nothing should be done to lower the standard of ringing.

After the usual votes of thanks the Vicar welcomed the Association to Howden where, he remarked, they would always receive a warm welcome. The meeting stood in silence in memory of Mr. F. Mason, of Cottingham, who had recently passed away.

THE ST. MARTIN'S GUILD

A quarterly meeting of the St. Martin's Guild was held at Sutton Coldfield on April 4th. The members were met by the Rector (Canon J. H. Boggan), who welcomed the ringers to Sutton Coldfield, and afterwards attended the tea and meeting.

It was a pleasure to meet Mr. William Anker, looking so well and apparently completely recovered from a recent serious operation. Until recently, when he was succeeded by his son, Mr. Anker served as head ringer at Sutton for many years, and though the eight bells sometimes go heavily, it is no reflection on the care bestowed upon them, but can be accounted for by the condition of the old wooden frame in which they hang.

Three young ringers of Aston Parish Church were elected members—Donald Finnemore, David Ingram and Maurice Ingram—the two last named being proposed by their father, Mr. Richard C. Ingram. Mr. Andrew N. Stubbs, of Handsworth, Mr. Alan J. Collins and Mr. Alex Simpson were also elected, and the tower election, as a life member, of Mr. John H. Allen, of Wolverhampton, was duly ratified.

The next meeting will be held at Packwood on July 4th.

BECKENHAM, KENT

For business reasons, Mr. Dennis Brown has been obliged to give up the post of Ringing Master at St. George's, Beckenham, Kent. The Rector has asked Mr. Percy Cave, late Ringing Master of St. Nicholas', Liverpool, to take over, and he has agreed to do so.

Since leaving Liverpool just under three years ago, Mr. Cave's ringing activities have been severely curtailed owing to the many other calls on his time, but lately he has been a regular attender at St. George's and has been helping Mr. Brown with the young band there.

It is an uphill task, but local ringers from other towers are providing willing assistance. Any ringer in the vicinity of Beckenham on Thursday evenings (7.45 to 9), or on Sundays (10.30 to 11 a.m. and 6 to 6.30 p.m.) will receive a warm welcome if they care to come up and lend a helping hand.

SHEFFIELD.—At All Saints' Church, on Mar. 29th. 1,260 Plain Bob Major: H. Hall 1, W. Holland 2. A. F. Knights 3, B. Hill 4, J. Lilleker 5, L. E. Boam 6, R. Hall 7, D. Holland (cond.) 8. First of Major for 1, 4, 5 and 6.

DEDICATION OF NEW SUFFOLK SIX

MARLESFORD, SUFFOLK

THE Church of St. Andrew, Marlesford, had four bells before about 1900, when a fifth was added and hung above the other four. During practice in January, 1957, the latest bell fell from its mountings and crashed on to the fourth below. This occurrence precipitated a general overhaul and the adding of a new treble to make a ring of six.

The work has been carried out by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank. This, with incidental tower work (a new floor under the bells, etc.) by a local builder, Mr. Scott Youngman, who had a local ringer, Mr. Henry J. Vince, as his labourer, has cost about £1,350 and, of this, about £600 has been raised so far.

The bells are now in a metal frame several feet lower in the tower than they were, but they have now been heard at a certain crossroad where they had not been heard before.

There were four bells here in 1553, but no mention of any in a certificate dated November 4th, 1547. Dove gives the tenor weight as 10 cwt. Messrs. Mears and Stainbank now give it as over 9 cwt.

The present overhaul afforded the opportunity of having the 1900 bell recast, as it was out of tune.

The Rt. Rev. Harold Morris, Lord Bishop of St. Edmundsbury and Ipswich, performed the dedication ceremony at a service on April 2nd. It was in the evening—dark and foggy—and, had it not been for the ringing of the tenor as the tolling-in bell, the writer might well have been late because the village and its approaches have a number of small road junctions which can confuse one who is not familiar with them.

The church was just about full, and the Vicar (Rev. Walter Gorin) conducted the service. The lessons were read by Mr. J. S. Schreiber (Vicar's warden) and Mr. G. R. Finch (chorister and bell-ringer). Mr. William Hughes, of the bell-founders' firm, was present when Mr. Finch handed a bell rope to Mr. L. A. Woolnough (people's warden). The two wardens then held their ropes, in turn, to the Bishop for the dedication of the new bell and the rededication of the other five.

KEENNESS IN DIOCESE

The Bishop in his address said bell restorations were much appreciated by the diocesan authorities. An advisory body exists to see that only things which are worthy shall be put in the churches of the diocese. This body was very keen on tower and bell restorations, and Mr. Ranald W. M. Clouston, a member of this body, has inspected a large number of the churches—a wonderful piece of work—and he hopes to inspect all of them in time.

The Bishop said his memory went back to his returning to England from the mission field when a schoolboy, and hearing England's church bells, so different from the gong—an iron on a tripod struck with another piece of iron or a stick—used to summon people to worship in many foreign lands. And recently he had lived this all over again when a small niece had come to England from Southern Rhodesia: she was thrilled with the English church towers and thrilled again when the bells rang on the first Sunday she was here.

Speaking of amplifying recorded bells from towers and saying how the bells of St. Margaret's, Westminster, could so sound forth from a tower away in the north of England, he said: 'A little bit phoney, isn't it? Not quite like your own church bells. I should hate to see them normally in our lovely old parish churches. Also, there is a danger with recorded bells apparatus. In one case some choir boys, usually so good, put on a rock 'n' roll record which sounded from the tower!'

Some people take ringers and bells for granted. Fortunately, we have a Guild of ringers who help out in various parishes—a real service to God, just as much as the churchwardens, the lay reader, the choir and, he might say, sometimes the clergyman himself. He found that, in general, ringers were devoted Christian people. He ended by saying: 'Thank-you for what you have done to add to the beauty of your old parish church, and to all who have done the work, including your own local craftsman.'

The collection was for the bells and came to £5 10s. Ringers were there from the District up to 20 miles away, and one, Mr. Urban Wildney, was there from Essex—a much longer journey.

Before the congregation dispersed they met in the Village Hut near the church for refreshments arranged by the Parochial Church Council. A little ringing took place that night, but the following Saturday was to be the ringers day for a real try-out.

WALKINGTON, YORKS

The Church of All Hallows, Walkington, now boasts a ring of six bells. During the last 12 months, the villagers have given £1,500 to enable the church's three old bells to be recast and three new ones to be added.

The dedication service was held on March 12th, the ceremony being performed by the Archdeacon of the East Riding, the Rev. F. E. Ford, and the sermon was preached by the Rev. R. Haw, Vicar of St. John's, Newland, Hull.

SWANSEA & BRECON DIOCESAN

A very successful meeting of the Northern Section was held at Llanelly, Breconshire, in beautiful spring sunshine, at which some 20 members took part in ringing under the instructions of the Ringing Master, Mr. John Williams, of Swansea.

The Guild service was taken by the Rector, Canon D. Parry Jones, who welcomed the ringers after a lapse of a number of years. Many thanks were expressed to the Mothers' Union for providing such an excellent tea. At the business three new life members were elected. It was decided to hold the next meeting at Llangatock. The collection for the restoration fund amounted to £1 6s. 6d.

OUTING

SWINDON AND DISTRICT

For the Easter Monday tour Swindon ringers chose the Salisbury area. At about 8 o'clock on Easter Monday three cars holding 16 ringers set out for Enford, where the lovely ring of six was put to good use. Next came Netheravon where, after a rather shaky climb for certain members of the band, some good touches were rung on the mellow ring of six. Then came Fittleton, where after having to 'break in' some good ringing was produced on these light bells. Unfortunately Durnford had to be cancelled, so the party made their way to Wilton (another light six) where, although several good touches came round, several pennies had to be paid into the 'punishment box.'

After reviving ourselves we proceeded to Chilmark, where we were joined by two more ringers and wives. After a rather shaky start by the ladies some good ringing was produced by the men on those beautiful but hard-going bells. Ringing followed at Zeals and Heytesbury. Tea and a so-called game of cricket followed before going to Wylve (the first five of the day), where Spliced Doubles were rung. The last tower of the day was Chitterne (All Saints'), where a dedication course of Reverse All Saints finished our tour. Methods rung were Grandsire, Plain Bob Doubles, Plain Bob Minor, Stedman, Kent, Cambridge, and Spliced Kent and Oxford, Cambridge and Beverley, London and Wells, Reverse All Saints, Double Oxford and St. Clement's.

Our thanks to all tower captains and incumbents, and to Mr. A. Peake (the organiser) for his work. L. L.

PROFESSOR DODGE

An exclusive interview by our Special Correspondent.

A wide range of subjects was covered, and although we shall be unable to include them all, we feel sure that those mentioned here will be of particular interest to many of our readers.

H.C.: I heard your investigations on the Interest Factor described by one ringer as 'Tripe!'. Have you any comment to make on this?

D.: Only that it is impossible to please everybody. Pre-conceived notions, like bad habits, once formed are difficult to eradicate, and any person who attempts to do this is deemed either a fool or a liar. I am, I hope, neither.

H.C.: Are you in agreement with the suggestion that a charge should be made for peals published in 'The Ringing World'?

D.: No! It would result in less peals being rung. You yourself, for instance, could not afford to ring more than one peal every three years if the charge was more than 3d. a rope. Moreover, some peals would remain unpublished; all of which would cut down the circulation of 'The Ringing World.'

H.C.: Have you, then, any alternative suggestion for improving the circulation?

D.: Yes, several.

H.C.: Would you be kind enough to give one?

D.: Certainly. Each Society, or at least each one that is affiliated to the C.C., could have one meeting a year set aside for the distribution of extra copies of the 'R.W.' These could be ordered in advance from the Editor (say ten or 20 copies) by some responsible person who would undertake to sell them to non-subscribers. No one could cavil at 6d. per annum, and many young ringers would receive, perhaps where the Society could afford it, their first copy free, and therefore be encouraged to become regular subscribers.

H.C.: It sounds feasible.

D.: All my ideas are! It may even be possible to persuade the Editor, on occasions, to publish certain items of news or interest connected with a particular Society when he knew it was its distribution day.

H.C.: Wouldn't that entail extra work for the Editor?

D.: Not necessarily. It would mean holding back the report of a meeting, or some item of news or an article or letter, one or two weeks. I wouldn't like to think that any idea of mine caused the Editor any extra work.

H.C.: What do you think of the new publication of the C.C., 'An Elementary Handbook for Beginners'?

D.: The photographs of Mr. W. F. Moreton are very good! The book is worth 1s. in order to possess these reproductions of this very fine ringer and teacher. The girl looks intelligent; I am afraid, therefore, that she is doomed to become a good ringer and so waste the best years of her life. Some lady ringers, however, are sensible enough to secure a handsome ringing husband—and most male ringers are handsome—and so combine most happily the joys of ringing and wringing.

H.C.: How do you rate the marriage mart in ringing circles as compared with other forms of time-wasting activity?

D.: The hazards are neither greater nor smaller. Some frustration must be taking place, otherwise a certain advertisement would not appear week by week in the 'R.W.'

H.C.: What is your opinion of the remainder of the book?

D.: It is a useful companion to Snowdon's 'Ropesight,' and embraces many things in small compass. I like particularly Part I, Section 2, on 'Learning to handle a bell,' and Part IV (brief and succinct), on 'The Duties of a Ringer.' Armed with these two books most learners would succeed in spite of well-intentioned instructors.

H.C.: Have you any comment to make on anything that has attracted your attention of late?

D.: Yes! I have noticed that there have been several peals of Minor during the last 12 months or so, rung in order to be able to claim the first peal in a given method. Now peals of Minor in single methods are all right for those incapable of ringing anything else; indeed, some ringers lack opportunity, or desire, to learn more than one, and 'first pealers' frequently ring one method; but acknowledged experts should make a point of ringing at least seven different methods.

H.C.: I don't see anything wrong in these peals.

D.: Oh, there's nothing wrong, but many old Minor ringers would have disdained ringing a peal of Minor in one method in order to claim a 'first in the method.' I think it was George Bolland who attempted to introduce a rule into the Yorkshire Association that any peal of Minor in less than seven methods should not be recognised or printed in the report! Now, of course, this measure is going to extremes, but I can well imagine that the comments of ringers of George Bolland's class, on the peals I have mentioned, would be unprintable. H. CHANT.
