STEDMAN CATERS: SOME NEW THOUGHTS ON AN OLD THEME

EVIDENCE of the breaking of new ground may usually be regarded as a favourable sign, for although all innovations do not have equal value or permanency, yet enterprise and a desire for new things are healthy symptoms of a living art. With equal satisfaction we may contemplate the reploughing of old familiar terrain and the consequent raising of some new crop upon land that has long been fallow.

More than a passing interest, therefore, is deserved by the short treatise (all too short, indeed) on Stedman with which Mr. David Parsons has favoured us. It happens that we may couple with this two new compositions of Stedman Caters sent recently to a correspondent by Mr. A. W. T. Cleaver. Both these gentlemen, working independently, have arrived, if not at exactly the same result, at least at the same conclusions, namely that new plans for peals of Stedman Caters and Cinques are not only possible but are long overdue.

The ringing of Stedman Caters (to confine ourselves for the present to nine bells) has in the main always followed a rather stereotyped plan. Tittums and Handstroke Home positions have predominated, and the fixing of a bell in 2nds place, found to be of prime importance to the composer, has become a convenience both for ringer and conductor. Quite early on it was recognised that the finest music in the Tittums was the 7689 course end, and that there was little virtue in the Handstroke Home without 7698. Both these pleasing manifestations depended on keeping the 6th in fifths place, or, as is sometimes said, behind the 9th in the Tittums and behind the 8th in the Handstroke Home. But to enjoy the course end music there was an inevitable sacrificing of any attempt at music elsewhere, and the middle of the course was, as it were, blank and devoid of melody.

It was Henry Hubbard who pointed the way to a new musical effect. He showed that by fixing the 6th in seconds place (instead of the customary treble) it was possible, in the Tittum position, to secure 68 dodging behind in the 7th six of the course and 96 dodging behind in the 13th six of the course. Here, indeed, is a very attractive musical effect, and there can be no doubt that it brightens in great measure the rather dull passages of the middle of the course. But the price has to be paid. The incomparable 7689 is gone, and the nearest we can get to it is 7589, a sequence not unattractive but falling short of the quintessence of bell music provided by the presence of the 6th.

Sir Arthur Heywood, that great authority on Stedman, gave much thought to the music of Stedman Caters, and in 'The Bell News' of July, 1891, he wrote at length on the construction and musical possibilities of peals in the method. He deprecated the use of the treble as seconds-place bell and strongly advocated the Hubbard plan. He recognised quite openly the loss of the 6th at the course end, making use of the next best, the 5th, but clearly considered that the all-round gain was sufficient to justify his plan. Not content with this, however, he suggested the placing of the 5th alternately in 5ths and treble's-place at course ends, so that one might secure, during the moving of the 5th, the termination 975 at the 11th six.

During the last 60 years we have seen many bold experiments in Stedman Caters, and among them there comes readily to mind the splendid 5.009 by Stephen Wood, that gallant gentleman who gave his life on duty in an air raid. Mr. Wood's peal, with its four sets of twin bobs in the main blocks, is a thing of great beauty and a challenge to the conductor; and if it does not solve precisely the problem of the music in the middle of the Tittum course, it provides novel effects in the Handstroke Home courses, where, in addition to the normal 7698 at the course ends, we find 9876 in the 11th course and a 68 in the 12th course.

This brings us back to Mr. Parsons and Mr. Cleaver. The latter, discarding a fixed bell in seconds-place, is clearly occupied with the possibility of musical positions other than Tittums and Handstroke Home. The former, also anxious to get away from tradition, says: 'I should like to see the use of fixed 2nds place bell compositions come to be regarded only as a stepping stone for first peals.' There is much to be said for this view, and much to be said for a new look at Stedman Caters. Perhaps someone may yet produce us a course that gives us 7689, a 96 and a 68 all in one block, if only to show that there is life in the old dog yet.

Two years ago Putney could not produce a band of ringers on a Sunday. On Christmas Day the present band rang its 25th quarter in 1960 on the bells. The previous best year for quarters was nine in 1917. Putney ringers would like to hear of any tower that has exceeded 25 quarters in 1960.

The bells of Winchester Cathedral will not be available for open practice on January 11th.

Congratulations to Ann Fellows (aged 15) and Linda Hughes (16), on ringing their first peal of Surprise (Yorkshire), at Shirley, on December 17th. They only started learning Yorkshire less than a month previously.

Congratulations to Mr. T. Brock, of Kessingland, Suffolk, who rang faultlessly in the quarter peal on the newly hung bells of Kessingland on Christmas morning, having not touched a rope for 15 years.

Will ringers who rang 25 peals or more during 1960 please send details, to the Editor, of the respective totals rung on tower bells and handbells, with the numbers conducted in brackets?

Mr. Ivan Kay has completed 25 years as captain of St. Thomas', Moorside, Oldham. The celebration peal on Christmas Eve enabled him to ring his first touch of Yorkshire Surprise Major.

Bolton ringers have enjoyed the friendship of Mr. John Froome who, during the past three years, has proved to be a good companion in either a peal, practice or Sunday service ringing. The best wishes of the local companies go with him to his new appointment in Berkshire.

March bellringers' hopes of ringing a peal on Christmas Eve were frustrated by the indisposition of one of the band. Had it been rung it would have been the third by the Sunday service ringers, the first being as far back as 1819 and the other in 1957. With help of another ringer a good half peal was rung.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Christine Harbott writes most enthusiastically of Kaye Webb's contribution to B.B.C. 'Women's Hour' of December 21st, concerning her interview with Mr. Paul Taylor and visit to the Loughborough Bell Foundry. 'It was most interesting,' she writes, 'to hear the voice of "Old Bill," to hear handbells and also to hear Kaye Webb describe the foundry as having a cathedral-like atmosphere! There was also a recording of Loughborough Parish Church bells—superb bells on which good rounds were rung.'

That famous sporting personality, A. N. Other, made his appearance by ringing the tenor to a quarter at King's Norton, Birmingham.

Organised by Miss Jill Lane, Merrow, Surrey, ringers raised over £9 for the A. H. Pulling Memorial Bell at Guildford Cathedral by carol singing and handbell ringing.

The Christmas Eve quarter peal of Grand-sire Doubles at Barnes was conspicuous as being a first quarter for three of the band, a first 'inside' for two others and a first as conductor. We hope to hear more about this band.

An attempt was made on December 17th to ring three peals on the bells of the three Cleres in Hampshire. The morning and evening attempts at Burghclere and Highclere were successful but the afternoon attempt on the heavy six at Kingsclere came to grief at the end of the second 720 after 50 minutes of really good ringing.

The postal authorities did not co-operate kindly with our request that notices for the issue of December 30th should be received in 'The Ringing World' office by Saturday, December 24th. We cannot think that secretaries failed to see the notice asking for this early posting, which was printed in black type in issue of December 16th and can only attribute the number that were received too late for insertion as due to congestion at the G.P.O.

MR. ROGER FRY'S ORDINATION

As briefly announced in our last issue, Mr. Roger O. Fry was ordained a deacon by the Right Rev. Edward Henderson, Bishop of Bath and Wells, at the parish church of St. Michael and All Angels, Yeovil, on Sunday, December 18th. His was the only Advent ordination in the diocese, and in consequence the service took place in the church where he is to serve as curate. This was the first ordination to be held at this church.

One of the most popular ringers in the West Country, Roger was appointed to succeed Mr. J. T. Dyke as secretary of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association, and he held this appointment until 1958, when he entered Salisbury Theological College for his training for ordination. His period as general secretary of the Bath and Wells was marked by a thorough reorganisation of the Association's rules. Also at this time he was Ringing Master of St. Michael and All Angels, Twerton-on-Avon, where he had taught a young band to ring. With his arrival at Salisbury, the College Change Ringing Society was re-formed and has in the last three years trained some 30 ordinands to ring. When Roger left Salisbury he had been senior student for six months, his training having been interrupted through illness.

The crowded congregation for the ordination service included ringing friends from a wide area, many having braved the early morning fog. Mr. and Mrs. Tom Lock had travelled from North Mymms the previous evening. Friends and relatives from Bath, Corston and Twerton made the journey, not without incident, during the morning.

The Archdeacon of Wells (the Ven. H. Bryant Salmon) preached the sermon on the duties of the priesthood. As is customary the Bishop was celebrant at the Holy Communion at which some 130 people made their communion. Preb. G. W. Battersby, diocesan director of ordinands and bishop's chaplain, read the Epistle and the newly-ordained deacon was the gospeller.

St. Michael's, although possessing a fine, sturdy tower, has, as yet, no ring of bells. However, a small daughter church at Chilton Cantelo has an 8 cwt. ring of five.

Ringers and friends everywhere will join me in wishing Roger a long, happy and blessed ministry. J. J. J.

ALPHABET FOR BEGINNERS

By T. J. LOCK

YOKE.—Yoke is the old fashioned name for stock, or even headstock. The heavy piece of wood or metal to which the bell is bolted or otherwise fixed is the yoke. At the ends of the yoke are the fittings on which the bell swings toward and froward. A dictionary definition for this word: 'Yoke—to suspend (a heavy bell) on a yoke.'

YORKSHIRE SURPRISE.—Some ringers, including conductors, consider this to be one of the easier methods in which to follow and check the coursing order of the bells. This may, however, not always work out in practice, as the considerations are confined to the bells as they reach the front or the back and the conductor could not always tell what a bell should do after leaving the front or the back. You will see, with the figures of a plain course of Yorkshire Surprise Major in front of you, that the bells do lead and lie, to some limited extent, in their natural coursing order, enough for the conductor to watch and check. A similar condition also applies to this method when extended to Royal and Maximus. But when each of the bells leaves the front or back its work is not the same. Another interesting feature of Yorkshire Surprise is that when a bell is, say, making places in 3-4 it 'lets through' its coursing bell which may be on its way to places in 5-6. Whilst here this latter bell 'lets through' the bell it is coursing, i.e., the bell which has just made places in 3-4.

PERSONALITIES OF THE EXERCISE - 1

MR. ALFRED B. PECK,
 Ancient Society of College Youths.

It is only fitting that the first person in a new series should be someone who has been a personality for over 50 years. In fact, as far back as March, 1911, when the first issue of 'The Ringing World' was published, Alfred B. Peck's photograph was shown then as a leading ringer.

Born at Bedford in 1883, Alfred went to the Hotspur Trust Elementary School, and eventually sat for the entrance exam to Bedford School, but failed. (His friend, Harry James, passed and later went to Cambridge.) He was taught to handle a bell at St. Paul's, Bedford, by Frank Webb, about 1899. However, when he was able to ring the tenor behind, he moved to London in 1900, and was very fortunate to find lodgings near St. Stephen's, Rochester Row.

At that time, the band there, under the conductorship of men like H. R. Newton, J. W. Golding and C. T. P. Brice, was making ringing history. After about a year, Alfred plucked up courage, and asked them if there was any chance of joining them. He was told, 'Yes,' and he was the only learner he made very quick progress and his sixth peal was London 'inside.'

Alfred's first peal was Stedman Triples on the tenor in 1902, and since then he has rung well over 300 peals, though he has not kept a record since 1936. Of these he has conducted 10, and though he has had the chance to call many more, he has declined in favour of the many conducting experts with whom he rang. Amongst his many peals as conductor have been Stedman Triples from a working bell, and two peals of London. He also took part in a non-conducted peal of Stedman Cinques at Cornhill in 1911.

However, it is not mere numbers which have appealed to Alfred, but the quality of his peals. Amongst his records have been some exceptionally fine performances, as he has been a remarkably fine heavy-bell ringer.

In 1909, at the age of 26, he rang St. Paul's Cathedral tenor to Stedman Cinques and was the youngest but one in the band. In 1922 he rang the seventh at Appleton to the record peal of Stedman Caters, and in 1923 he rang the tenor to the 12,675 of Stedman Cinques, at Southwark, a performance lasting 9 hours and 47 minutes. But undoubtedly the peal of which Alfred is justly proud is 'turning in' the 62 cwt. tenor at St. Paul's to the only peal of Cambridge Maximus on the bells in 1925, the heaviest bell 'turned in' to a peal single-handed. He is also very proud of ringing the tenor at Luton to the first peal of London in Beds, his native county. In addition he has 'turned in' the tenors to Maximus at St. Mary-le-Bow, Cornhill, Southwark and Cripplegate, St. Sepulchre's, Holborn, to Cambridge Royal, and Westminster Abbey to London and Cambridge. He also rang in the first peal of London Royal (No. 1) at Stepney in 1907. His biggest disappointment was on April 12th, 1912, when after ringing the 11th at St. Paul's for 3 hours 55 minutes, the tenor man collapsed in the last course but one.

By profession he was a pianoforte maker for 30 years, and supervisor of blind tuners for the Royal National Institute for the Blind for 20 years.

He has been an ardent supporter of the College Youths since 1904, and was Master in 1910, and secretary from 1937-57. He is most staunch in his support of the Society, and although normally a friendly man, he will defend any criticism of the Society with the utmost vigour. He has been a regular Sunday service ringer at St. Paul's for a great number of years, making the fairly long journey from his home in Reigate every Sunday.

Now in the eve of his long career, he enjoys meeting friends in London. He is very popular, and has a fund of good stories about the older generation of ringers. May his enthusiasm continue for a long while yet.

Golden Wedding Bells At Ambrosden

To mark the occasion of the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Turner, of The Row, Ambrosden, Oxfordshire, a touch of 720 Grandsire, followed by call changes, was rung on the bells of Ambrosden Parish Church, on December 17th. Mr. Turner has been a ringer for the past fifty years and a most regular Sunday service ringer. After the ringing Mr. Gordon Taylor (Ambrosden tower captain) presented Mr. and Mrs. Turner with an electric fire as a mark of appreciation from the ringers.

THIRTY YEARS AGO

'Ringing World,' January 2nd, 1931, recalls: A peal of 14,480 Bob Major at St. Paul's, Oldham, in 8 hours 24 minutes, on January 4th, 1784.

Death of Henry Johnson, on January 7th, 1890, at the age of 80.

First peal of Grandsire Cinques, at Cirencester on January 7th, 1767.

THE TOWER IN CONTROL

Complaints are often made that ringers do not play an adequate part in the life of the parish. The converse is the case at Twerton-on-Avon, Bath.

Here the St. Michael's, Twerton, Guild of ringers have recently rung a quarter peal in three methods. Included in the band were:—

| The Vicar | Sidesman |
| Two curates | Sunday school teachers |
| P.C.C. secretary | Chorister |

Box For 'Ringing World'

Instead of demanding 6d. a rope from those ringing peals for 'The Ringing World,' Carbis Bay tower has a box with an indication that at the end of each year the P.C.C. treasurer will forward its contents to 'The Ringing World.' With gratitude we acknowledge the sum of £1 6s. 3d. from this source.

Advocating other towers to adopt the box system, the Rev. A. S. Roberts writes, 'This year we have rung one 10-bell peal and one 6-bell. This would have been 8s. for "The Ringing World." The box system has done better.

'This idea might spread as a way of helping the Central Council, and five hundred boxes might easily bring in seven or eight hundred pounds a year. Even this appears a small proportion of the 5,000 or so towers in the country.

'I am convinced that the Central Council should give a lead in the raising of money for itself as a body so as to keep its paper in a sure position without so many suggestions that those who ring peals (news) should collect small sums. Gifts, bequests and competitions might well bring in large sums. I can see the time when the C.C. should have a central office with a full-time secretary. Such a person could be of tremendous value to visit dioceses and rural deaneries and even parishes.'

BALDOCK RINGERS' DINNER

For the first time for some years the peal attempt in the afternoon of the Baldock ringers' dinner was successful. The dinner was held at the Rose and Crown, and was considered to be well up to the standard of previous years.

In his welcome, the chairman, Canon F. G. Brenchley, commented upon the probability of a group photograph of today's ringers being confused with a similar one of last century, and turning to more serious topics, hoped that the Guild members would remain loyal during the silence when the tower must be repaired.

Mr. W. C. Hughes, president of the Hertford County Association, proposed 'St. Mary's Guild,' praising the achievements of the ringers and expressing the best wishes of the Association to the Guild.

In his reply, Mr. E. G. Buck thanked Mr. Hughes, and reviewed the past year at Baldock, also asking for every member's loyalty during the silence. In the past year the Guild had rung fourteen quarters, each containing a 'first' of some kind, yet this was not exceptional, for this had been the case with each quarter rung during the last five years.

At very short notice Mr. D. Salisbury proposed the toast of 'The Visitors.' Mr. H. S. Bonnett being unavoidably absent. Mr. A. R. Agg, honorary general secretary of the Hertford County Association, replied, gracefully hoping that the new strength in the tower would mean new strength in the band.

Instead of the usual ringing and talking there were some games, ably organised by Mr. B. Scoot. J. S.

WHITSTABLE, KENT.—On Dec. 18th, 1.260 Plain Bob Minor: W. Gray 1, K. Triplow 2, Mrs. L. James 3, S. James 4, J. C. Baldwin (cond.) 5, H. Palmer 6. For Evensong, and as an ordination compliment to Rev. C. R. Chad Coussmaker, curate at St. Luke's, Newtown, Southampton.

ESSEX RINGERS' WEDDING

Two well known members of the Essex County Association—Mr. Terry Earle, of Stisted, and Miss Wendy Richards, of Ilford—were married at St. John-the-Baptist Church, Leytonstone, on December 17th. The Rev. C. G. Day, Rector of All Saints', Stisted, officiated, in the presence of many ringing friends.

The bride was beautifully attired in a white lace gown with a silver tiara and carried a bouquet of white carnations, lilies of the valley and freesia. The honeymoon was spent on the South Coast, after which the bridegroom is returning to Germany, where he is stationed in the R.A.F.

The bridegroom is well known as a peal ringer and was a member of the band who established a six bell record at Stisted. He is also a member of the College Youths. The bride is a member of the band at St. John's, Leytonstone, and was taught by Mr. Wilmington. [Photo: G. Hollis, Ilford.]

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

'CHRISTMAS BELLS' BROADCAST, 1960

Dear Sir.—Vividly remembering the correspondence in eight issues of 'The Ringing World,' between January 1st and March 25th last, concerning the Christmas bells' broadcast of 1959, and the somewhat scathing comment some of those letters—mine not the least—contained, I would like to be one of the first to offer congratulations to all concerned in the 1960 broadcast. It was twenty minutes of very enjoyable listening and I do not suppose it could be much improved upon unless we had had two less eights, and one ten and one six substituted, the six for a five shorter duration than the others.

Though the programme was 'canned' this time, I am sure it was better; we must remember that the great majority of listeners to it know nothing whatever about bells and ringing them.

These points on the 1960 broadcast occurred to me:—

Sheffield.—Did not 'come over' clearly: it was difficult to follow the bells—in fact, I think, some were 'drowned.' Some of the smaller bells dominated the first eleven. This is not remarking on the ringing, of course; I have no doubt that it was very good.

Ottery St. Mary.—Good.

Ballymena.—(Call changes.) Well struck, but quicker-called changes would have improved things, especially if we could have had the finishing sequence, 4, 6, 8, broken up—it went on for too long. The fourth was dominant, especially so at handstroke. Dove says tenor E—it sounded more like F to me. What is it?

Hampton.—Very good striking: fast ringing.

Birmingham.—Striking very good, indeed, perhaps the ringing in the programme. The eighth dominated the first eleven.

Edinburgh.—Very good.

Swansea.—Rich-toned bells, rung fairly slowly, and regularly, too, until near the end. In fact, the slip which occurred then and its recovery proved that the ringing was hand made and not mechanical!

Bethlehem.—We know that these bells are not rung but merely chimed—and jangled. I remember being hauled over the coals by one of your correspondents last Christmas time for my remarks about these bells then. I would like him to know that I have not 'missed the romanticism of it all.' In any case, that is another matter altogether. I still have the same opinion as I had then—that the sound of these bells is a din compared with ringing as we know it in this country. Nevertheless, I would not think of suggesting that we discontinue broadcasting these bells in our future Christmas programme. Oh, no!—but I would suggest that the length of time given to them 'on the air' should be much less than that in the 1960 broadcast—some of that time could have been better given to other bells in the broadcast—or to a six from somewhere, an additional tower.

But to conclude—I am sure that if future broadcasts are on a par with the 1960 one nobody, ringers or others, will have cause to complain as I am sure that at least ringers have had in the past.—Yours sincerely,

CLAUDE RUSH

'THE RINGING WORLD'

Dear Sir.—Mr. C. W. Woolley, in a letter recently published, asks 'The Ringing World' Committee to state what its future policy will be. If he had done it the honour of reading the many reports presented to and approved by the Central Council he would already know. However, for his information and any others who are in any kind of doubt, I will state the position as briefly as possible.

It has been the endeavour of the Committee to make the paper stand on its own feet and pay its own way. That has always been, and still is, its policy. We have repeatedly pointed out that it would be unrealistic to rely upon the indefinite continuance of voluntary donations. Whilst we are deeply grateful to those who have helped to lighten our task, we would stress that we have never made an appeal for such donations—they are the spontaneous gestures of generously-minded people who have appreciated our difficulties, and they have ungrudgingly made their gifts to enable the paper to continue publication.

One need not labour what the difficulties have been, for all readers of this paper will be aware that several national papers have been compelled to cease publication. We have been affected by exactly the same difficulties which confronted them, and it has been necessary to economise and watch every penny or expenditure. Advertising rates have been increased, the price has been raised (twice), and the Committee was reluctantly compelled to accept an offer from the Editor to work at a reduced salary. All these efforts have kept us with a balance on the right side. The present year has been an anxious one for the Committee, for we were not enjoying the full effect of the increase in price made at the beginning of the year. We are hopeful that next year when the full effects will come into operation there will be no reason for undue anxiety, always provided there is no further drop in circulation, or increase in costs.

Mr. Woolley's arithmetic stands in need of a little correction. He states that an increase of 1d. on the price would produce £4 3s. 4d. per week per 1,000. Would it? Is he not aware that publishers and newsagents are not actuated by the same high motives as the Editor and his staff, who work for little or nothing? No, they take a goodly proportion of whatever increase is made in the selling price. Is it necessary for us to repeat once again that the best way to help 'The Ringing World' is to become a postal subscriber? This request has been made over and over again, but we would point out that for every two postal subscribers there are three who get their copies from other sources.

Regarding Mr. Woolley's comments on the style of presentation of peal reports, we should hesitate to make the change he suggests unless it became absolutely necessary. Tradition dies hard, and we well remember the uproar we caused when we proposed to alter the style of the heading on page 1.

Mr. Woolley does not seem to think that the publication of quarter peals is important. We do not agree. These quarter peals are just as important to those who ring them as are peals rung by more competent ringers. And, most important, they generally constitute ringing for Sunday services.

Reports of outings and meetings may not always be written in high journalistic style, but we are grateful to those who send them in—and we think most readers are glad to have news of activities in other parts of the country.

I am happy to report that although the Central Council owns, and is therefore responsible for 'The Ringing World,' the Committee has not yet made any appeal to the Council for a subsidy, and that is in part due to the kind donations which have been 'Gratefully Acknowledged.'

Finally, I would assure Mr. Woolley that 'The Ringing World' Committee does not lie down on the job, but is always actively at work thinking and rethinking of ways to keep the paper alive, and how to improve it, with solvency always our objective.—Yours sincerely,

J. FRANK SMALLWOOD,

Convener,

'The Ringing World' Committee.

'BONS MOTS'

Dear Sir.—Several good ideas to improve the circulation of 'The Ringing World' have been put forward in the last few years. I wonder what readers think of an idea which recently occurred to me, viz.: to run a feature similar to 'Homo Sapiens' in the magazine 'Punch'? This would provide an opportunity for (a) contemporary happenings and (b) happenings of bygone days to be reported.

Perhaps an annual prize for the best entry in each of the two sections would stimulate further interest, e.g., a year's free subscription to the 'R.W.' This would probably not be necessary, however.

To start the ball rolling, I am appending two incidents from the 1960 Rambling Ringers' Reunion:

(1) 'I haven't asked you into this peal next Whitsun, Mr. Master, because I wanted to save you the embarrassment of having to refuse.'

(2) 'Ladies and gentlemen, the relatively small number of members who have attended today emphasises a point which has been mentioned before, namely, that we must choose one of the three cities, Derby, Nottingham or Leicester, to ensure fifty members attending.'

Speaks for another five minutes and ends thus: 'Therefore, ladies and gentlemen, I propose Lincoln for next year.'—Yours faithfully,

D. MOTTERSHEAD.

Wilmslow, Cheshire.

NOTE.—Similar 'Bons Mots' from other readers would be welcome.—Ed.

BRIDGING THE GAP

Dear Sir.—Early in the summer of this year in your columns appeared a small advertisement, announcing that from a certain date the address of Mr. Peter Crook would be c/o his daughter, in Kelowna, B.C., Canada. I was unsuccessful in making contact with this gentleman before he left England, but I wrote to him at Kelowna, and asked if he would mind calling on my father's younger sister who lives in this town, and whom I have not seen since 1913. I was then a small boy, 5 years old.

Mr. Crook duly called on my aunt, as his letter in 'The Ringing World' of August 12th stated; in fact, he called many times, and since then he had called on her sister, my Aunt Alice, who still lives in Moorside, Oldham, and told her quite a lot of news of her sister in Canada.

On behalf of all our family, through the medium of 'The Ringing World,' I should like to express our very sincere thanks to Mr. Crook for any trouble he went to; we are all extremely grateful to him in bridging this gap of 6,000 miles for us, not least my aunt in Canada, as her recent letters state.

With all good wishes for the New Year to ringers everywhere, and to the Editor and staff of 'The Ringing World.'—Yours sincerely,

T. OGDEN.

METHODS OR VARIATIONS

Dear Sir,—It was, I believe, the notorious Dr. Goebbels who during the last war said: 'If you go on telling a lie, or pressing a theory long enough, it eventually becomes the accepted thing!'

After 'The Ringing World' correspondence some months ago, I thought we had heard the last of this nonsense from Mr. Cyril A. Wratten about 'methods versus variations,' but evidently, judging from 'The Ringing World' of December 16th, he thinks the same as did Dr. Goebbels re theories. Whatever Mr. Wratten likes to say about plain courses and variations, change-ringing is only one of two things: either it's call-changes or it is method ringing. No one has ever rung a peal of call-changes, and no one has ever rung a peal in no method—that is obvious! Therefore I for one do not accept his arguments.

I have stated before, and it will bear repeating, that we can ignore all this 'baloney' about plain courses as having no bearing on the truth of meaning of what is a variation. Whether you alter the coursing of the bells by a call, or by a slight difference in a plain course—if one is a variation, they both are!

If Mr. Wratten is logical he will recognise that many of the newly-named Surprise methods are merely variations of Yorkshire, Cambridge, and so on, and until he does I am not prepared to accept his theory in relation to Doubles.

I still want to know from him and his Central Council bureaucrats what these six-scores of Northrepps, April Day, Old, etc., are when rung to peals by themselves. If they are not methods when rung in with such as Plain Bob, they must be 'call-changes' according to him; they can only be in one of those two categories!—which is it? Call them variations, systems, or what you will, they are still methods! No amount of juggling with words, arguing about plain courses, or bringing in the Central Council will alter that fact. The dictionary is a greater authority, in my estimation, than either Mr. Wratten or the Central Council.

Many of these were known and accepted as methods producing true six-scores long before Mr. Wratten or the Central Council were ever thought of. I am firmly of the opinion (though no doubt Mr. Wratten will be the last person to admit it) that all this 'Doubles bunkum' from him is merely an attempt to belittle and play-off 5- and 6-bell ringers against 8, 10 and 12: in other words, it is just snobbery!

The Central Council was never formed with the purpose of turning it into a sort of trade union dictatorship, as some would have it become. The day that comes into being I, for one, cease to recognise it, and I know I shall not be alone in doing so!

We can go back 200 years and find instances like that of Northrepps v. 'Honeybourne,' Chace versus Stedman Slow Course Reversed in a typical example—Chace is in the old 'Campanologia Improved.' It was Chace before it was Reversed Stedman Slow Course, so my old books tell me. St. Nicholas' is another. As long ago as 1926 Mr. Mathias Hobbs, of Barton Segrave, Kettering, claimed to have got this method out, and he named it (as well as rung it to peals) as Barton. It has also been rung as 'Canterbury St. Simon's.' So which is it?

About that same time I recall an argument in 'The Ringing World' about St. Clement's and St. Simon's, the late Mr. Joseph E. Sykes claiming that as change-ringing began on five bells and not six, and no one called plain bob by a different name on six to five, St. Clement's was not really St. Clement's but an extension of St. Simon's, and he published seven 720's as a peal of St. Simon's Minor. What would Mr. Wratten term that—an extension, a variation, or what?

Both names have been accepted, just as have those of these six-scores of Doubles to which Mr. Wratten takes exception to being called methods, and this has been so for years. A precedent has therefore been set up, however much Mr. Wratten likes to argue around it.

What has been accepted in the past is bound to be accepted in the future, without the Central Council making itself look ridiculous and creating uncertainty, as it did for a long time about Bob Triples and other so-called 'irregular' methods, first by recognising them, then not, and later again recognising them. If they produce true extents, that to me is all that matters.—Yours sincerely,

P. AMOS.

Weston Favell.

LONDON AND SUBURBS
PRACTICE NIGHTS

Dear Sir,—I wish to notify the following inaccuracies in your recently published list of practice nights in London and suburban towers:—

Harlington.—8 bells, practice every Thursday, at 8 o'clock.

Harmondsworth.—6 bells. There has been no resident band for donkey's years. If any ringer would like to ring on this very pleasant sounding although 'rough' six, I would be only too pleased to hear from him and to arrange a band. We try to ring there once a month for service, although this is not always possible because of lack of support.

Haves.—6 bells. These bells are not now rung as the tower is reputed to be unsafe, although there are doubts as to whether this is justified.

I would like to make a plea for increased support from members of the Middlesex County Association at the practices of the weaker towers in the South West Middlesex area. Being a Harlington ringer I would cite our situation as an example.

For many years the resident band were call changers only, and very prejudiced against anything else. However, in the past few years our captain, Lionel Grice, has trained a band of young change ringers, as the old band faded away. After considerable work the band reached the required standard and so the tower was affiliated to the Middlesex County Association. A Guild meeting has been held there annually in the summer in the past few years, and the rather belated Guild report says, 'Progress in change ringing is being made at Harlington.'

True enough, but the actual support we receive and the interest the Guild displays in us is practically negligible. The band is now stuck at the Bob Minor stage, and however much we flog Grandire Triples we never seem to be able to achieve that elusive quarter peal. So please, let's have some help from those local Guild members who are proficient. Although we cannot offer visitors Cambridge Royal, we would appreciate a few sincere offers of help, so that eventually we can ring the first ever all-Harlington peal on the eight bells. After all the tower is easily accessible. I would recommend all Middlesex members to read Rule Two, Section Three. 'The objects of the Association are... the promotion and advancement of the art of change ringing.'

I would thank our Master, John Mayne, for his visits earlier this year and his attempts to teach us Stedman Triples.—Yours, etc.,

DENNIS C. MORGAN.

FALSE COURSEHEADS IN TREBLE BOB METHODS—
F SETS AND F GROUPSBy D. R. CARLISLE, G. A. HALLS
and D. J. MARSHALL

The Corrigan publication 'Half-lead system of extracting false courseheads in Treble Bob methods' contains most interesting information, but for brevity the authors have concentrated on giving instructions rather than theoretical explanations. For example F-sets and F-groups are mentioned and used, but the theoretical justification is not presented. In addition, the table of F-groups and F-sets is somewhat misleading since it includes some errors.

It is the purpose of the article to elaborate a little on F-sets and F-groups and indicate their usefulness (within the limits of the authors' modest knowledge). The reader is assumed to be able to derive false courseheads (F.C.H.'s).

F-sets.—The sixty incourse F.C.H.'s may be divided into sets of four such that if a method produces one member the other three must appear. These are called F-sets. Each of the four members may be different, or two pairs, or all four members may be identical. (For convenience the members are labelled F. 1, F. 2, F. 3 and F. 4.)

To derive F. 2 given F. 1.—Suppose lead one of the plain course of a method is false with (i.f.w.) lead two of course 12453678 we denote this by F. 1. 24536 (1/2), so 23456 (lead 1) i.f.w. 24536 (lead 2). It follows that the converse is true. 24536 (lead 2) i.f.w. 23456 (lead 1). Thus, keeping the same relationship, 23456 (lead 2) i.f.w. 25346 (lead 1).

So from F.C.H. 24536 (1/2), which we denote F. 1, there immediately springs another F.C.H. 25346 (2/1) which we call F. 2 and is the coursehead by which F. 1 is transposed to produce rounds: the false leads being interchanged.

To derive F. 3.—We know that a course rung from its coursehead (say 12345678) contains the same rows in reverse order as the course rung from its course end. In the case of a method with 2nds place lead heads the course end is 24365, thus:

Lead 1 of 245678 contains the same rows as lead 7 of 2436587.

Lead 2 of 245678 contains the same rows as lead 6 of 2436587.

Lead 3 of 245678 contains the same rows as lead 5 of 2436587.

Lead 4 of 245678 contains the same rows as lead 4 of 2436587.

From F. 1. 245678 (lead 1) i.f.w. 2453678 (lead 2) so, taking the leads which contain the same rows as these in reverse order we can write:

2436587 (lead 7) i.f.w. 2546387 (lead 6), and, using the same relationship, 2345678 (lead 7) i.f.w. 2635478 (lead 6).

Thus we have another F.C.H. 26354 (7/6), which we have derived from F. 1, and this we denote F. 3. By examination of the above process it can be seen that F. 3 is derived by transposing 24365 by F. 1 and transposing the result by 24365.

The leads in which F. 3's falseness occurs are symmetrical with F. 1's false leads. If the leads of a course are spaced round a circle the line of symmetry will join the course head with the middle of the 4th lead.

In the case of 8th place methods the same transpositions are used to find F. 3 but the leads in which the falseness occurs will depend on the lead head order. It can be shown that the line of symmetry passes through the lead head 17856342. For example, suppose for an 8ths place method with Plain Bob lead head order, F. 1 is 34562 (2/3) than F. 3 will be 46325 (5/4).

To derive F. 4.—F. 4 is obtained from F. 3 in the same way in which F. 2 is obtained from F. 1.

WYCHBOLD, WORCS.—On Dec. 18th, 1.320 Wychbold Pleasure Bob Doubles; Lynda M. Powell 1. Sheila McDougall 2. P. Catermole 3. J. E. Pullon 4. A. D. Cook (cond.) 5. L. H. G. Gittins 6. For carol service.

A POT-POURRI FROM 'CHURCH BELLS'

NOTE.—'Church Bells' was a Victorian penny weekly periodical on church matters generally and having either one or two columns devoted to bells, ringing and ringers. The volumes ran from Advent to Advent.

During the period April to July, 1957, extracts which I had taken from two volumes—1875-6 and 1879-80 were published in 'The Ringing World.' The title of the article was 'Ringing in England 80 years ago.'

I have now looked through the volume 1872-3 and made the following notes which show, amongst other things, how fixed were the views of the paper on prize ringing matches, and how forthrightly the Editor dealt with correspondents who were impatient.—CLAUDE RUSH.

West Ham, Essex.—Monday, November 21st, 1737, the Society of Eastern Scholars rung, in this steeple, a compleat peal of 15.120 Bob Major in 8 hours 40 minutes.

Appeal for a Church Bell.—An appeal is made to all interested in, and possessing, those most beautiful and desirable aids to our churches worship, Church Bells, to assist me in purchasing a bell for a little church, the incumbency of which has just been presented to me by the Bishop of Rochester. The parish itself is an island six miles long by three broad. The population is scattered and entirely poor. We have not one resident farmer. The people are, as a rule, regular churchgoers. The church has a small belfry but unfortunately no sound issues from it calling them to prayer and it is to aid us in supplying this most pressing want that I am emboldened to ask the help of all lovers of Church Bells. If any readers are interested... Henry Hayes, Incumbent of Canvey Island, Leigh, Essex.

Revival of Ringing in Cornwall.—A correspondent had informed the paper that 'The Western Morning News' had contained information that the bells of St. Columb had been comparatively silent for 30 years and had last been revived by a 'prize match,' seven bands competing for £13. The paper goes on at length to decry ringing for prizes—'grieved to hear it,' 'our advice to the good people of Cornwall is to shut their generous pockets against such demands. Can they be ignorant that it is the publicans who are the chief promoters and originators of ringing matches? And while the parsons and churchwardens allow the Sacred bells of the church to be prostituted to such ungodly uses... they are... the aiders and abettors of all the evils and utter uselessness of such gatherings. We cannot congratulate the good people of Cornwall on such a revival: far better let their bells continue to be silent.'

Reform in a Country Belfry.—In a long letter (long letters seemed to be the rule those days) 'A Country Curate' from Whitburne, Worcester, shows how he was spurred on to go in for bellringing there (six bells). He got the ringers to the belfry—they had not rung for six months—and was amazed to find that a 'bottle' of cider also turned up. He says, '... a bottle in this country is a thing of capacity: in the present case holding ten quarts, which startled me tremendously.' He promptly ordered it down again! Apparently after 12 months that tower became altogether respectful and efficient. Only two of the former band of ringers then remained.

Change Ringing in Devonshire.—On Wednesday, November 27th, 1872, the Society of Scientific Change Ringers of St. Mary's, Penzance, Cornwall, visited Plympton St. Mary, Devon, and, under the direction of their leader and tutor, Colonel Trelawny, R.C.R., achieved some highly creditable performances of Grand-sire Triples on the splendid ring of the church, tenor reputed weight 33 cwt., D. by Purdue, 1614. 'Much joy and satisfaction were evinced by the more intelligent of the population at this unusual occurrence (scientific change ringing being but little practised in the district), which was greatly enhanced in the evening by an handbell entertainment at the Parish Schoolroom by the same band in conjunction with one from Devonport, under the direction of Mr. W. Banister, before a fashionable audience who, by their oft-repeated applause, manifested a high degree of joyful gratification. These social meetings contrast very favourably with the unseemly gatherings at prize ringing contests...

Halifax, All Souls.—A peal of Bob Major on Saturday, November 30th, 1872, is shown as the first in that method at Halifax since 1811.

St. Alphege, Greenwich.—The first of Stedman on these bells—Saturday, November 30th, 1872.

Three on the Tenor.—St. Giles', Cripplegate, Thursday, November 23rd, 1732, the Society of City Scholars, 6,012 Caiors. The list of ringers shows three men on the tenor. The names of four churchwardens also appear!

Ilkley, Seconds!—Peal of 5,040 Minor in seven methods, Saturday, December 7th, 1872, in 3 hours 1 minute 25 seconds. 'This is the first time such a length has been rung on these bells.' E. Snowdon on the fourth, W. Snowdon fifth, J. W. Snowdon tenor (conductor). Tenor 11 cwt.

St. Nicholas', Brighton.—Particulars of two peal boards are given. One peal was rung December 14th, 1815, the other January 18th, 1816, both commemorating royal occasions. Then the following appears: 'The above Inscriptions were copied from two boards formerly in the tower of St. Nicholas' Church, Brighton (fitting into the point of the arch as shown by their shape), but sold at the repair of the church to W. Johnson, Marine-Store Dealer, 10, Russell Street, over whose store-house they now hang.'

'It's not fair to abuse all Ringers.'—This is a long letter from George Musket, C.Y., London, referring to letters, then recently published, in 'Church Bells.' He says, 'From the tone of the letters... it appears to me that ringers in general are looked upon as a lot of fellows who, like school-boys, require the assistance of a master in the church-tower to teach them good behaviour, and also to ring for what they can get in the shape of money... I, as a ringer, earn about £2 per annum and spend about £10. I and my brother-ringers have often toiled for hours and hours in some church-tower... What recompense do we get? We get the credit of being a drunken, dissipated, ignorant set of men, not fit to sit in decent society. It would have been better for us to have studied foreign languages... When we descend we are looked upon as Common bell-ringers by the churchwarden or parishioners, who possibly might be a cheese-monger or a rag-merchant... Our clergymen take great notice of the singers of the church: why not notice the ringers? Our clergymen can mingle with the throng in a cricket-field and applaud the greatest rough who makes a fine drive for six or eight or five, or some crack bowler... and yet good ringers who have studied, composed and rung long peals, and called them, are not even looked at... I hope our friends will be a little lenient in their remarks upon ringers; and if they mix up with them a little more, perhaps they will find them a better class of men than what they think...' (A reply from Mr. Troyte will come later.)

Prostitution of the Bells of the Parish Church of Headcorn, Kent.—Under this title a correspondent writes: 'This little place was made "merry" on Monday evening last by the church bells ringing out a peal of rejoicing at the decision of the Bearsted bench of magistrates in a game-trespass case from Headcorn. The ringers were "liberally treated" by several friends... The Editor added a note asking why the parson did not "manfully do his duty" such ringers should never be allowed to handle the ropes again.' In a subsequent issue the Editor gave notice that the Vicar did not know of the ringing until he read of it in a local paper.

Bredgar, Kent.—Tablet in the belfry:—

My Friendly Ringers
I to you declare
You must pay one penny
Each oath you do swear.
To turn a bell over
It is the same fare.
To ring with your hats on
You must not dare.
MD. CC. LI.

Quarter Peal—10,080 Changes! Bromley, Kent.—Janry ye 7. 1773 the Peal of Bells in this Steeple was taken down, recast and augmented from 5 to 8 and on May ye 29th they were finished. In which a set of Youths of Bromley in Kent join'd in articles to learn to Ring, and ye 22nd of Sepr 1774 they rung a half-quarter peal of Bob Major... 3 hrs. 4 mins. and their names, age and trade is as follows: Jo. Cowdrey—Cordweaver, 24. 1; Jo. Chapman—Carpenter, 18. 2; Jo. Day—Breeches Maker, 25. 3; Jo. Heath—Brick-layer, 26. 4; Hry. Sale—Carpenter, 18. 5; Thos. Kelly—Gardener, 21. 6; Wm. Chapman—Carpenter, 23. 7; Wm. Cook—Cordweaver, 25. 8. He call'd the bobs. And on 14 Febr'y 1775 the above said youths rung a quarter peal of Bob Major which is 10,000 and 80 changes. They completed it in 6 hours and 13 minutes.

'It's not fair to abuse all ringers.'—This was another long letter, this time signed Charles A. W. Troyte, of Huntsham Court, Bampton, N. Devon. It includes: 'I am proud of the name of a ringer, but as a brother to men like Musket, Wood and Haley, not as a brother to the prize-ringers of Yorkshire or the "pulley-haulers" of Devon and Cornwall. The College Youths I have never seen abused in your paper: but Mr. Musket knows that abuse is richly deserved in other quarters... There cannot be any doubt that we as Change-ringers, are not appreciated by Clergymen, Churchwardens or parishioners. They cannot see the difference between either ourselves or our art and Round-ringers and their labour... I sincerely hope that Mr. Musket's and my own feelings will spread, for we both know only too well how many steeples there are into which we would neither of us enter, and how many ringers there are with whom neither of us would associate.'

W. Wigram also contributes a long letter on the subject, saying that it was not surprising if ringers were abused... 'We have read of Church-bells being rung as a requiem to a beer-shop which was deprived of its licence, in the County of Gloucester: of bells being rung on the occasion of a law suit with a railway company in the County of York: over a racing event in, I think, the same county... I offer my acknowledgments to Mr. Musket and to those like him who keep prize-ringing out of London.' Referring to clergy taking up ringing, he says, 'My own Clerical friends say that they are too old, too ignorant of the subject, too busy to learn... I venture to say to the Clergy, "Go to the Belfry" and to the ringers "Go to the Parsonage and represent to your Clergy what Scientific ringing is..."

St. Peter's, Earlsheaton, near Dewsbury, Yorks.—Peal of 16,608 Kent T.B. Major (Tenor 14 cwt.), 9 hours 48 minutes, 'thus beating by 768 changes the record held by St. Matthew's, Bethnal Green.'

Hand-bell Ringers before Royalty.—The Royal (Poland Street) Temperance Hand-bell Ringers (Mr. Duncan Miller's band) who were honoured some time ago to appear before the Queen at Osborne, received the additional distinction of appearing at Sandringham House, Norfolk, on December 26th, 1872, before the Prince and Princess of Wales, the Duke of Edinburgh, General Sir Wm. Knollys and most of the leading aristocracy of the neighbourhood. A full programme of very diversified music was performed on the 76 bells...

Hampstead.—The new church of St. Stephen has lately been presented with a ring of ten bells from the foundry of Messrs. Taylor, the tenor, note D, weighs 27 cwt, and the total weight of the peal 123 cwt. 2 qrs... the bells and organ were formally inaugurated on St. Stephen's Day (26 December), 1872... The day was a great success: the very weather favoured for the sun shone brightly... the church was crowded. After all the arrangements had been made, the death took place of one of the eldest inhabitants of the parish, a gentleman who was born in Hampstead when it was a little village in the rural part of Middlesex; and as his funeral passed the church on 26th, the ringing was stopped and the tenor tolled.

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

No. 2595 Vol. LVII

FRIDAY, JANUARY 13, 1961

Registered at the G.P.O. for transmission as a newspaper. 8d.

LOOKING BACK ON 1960

GLANCING through 'The Ringing Worlds' of 1960 it seems evident that as regards the number of peals rung the year has been one of the most successful. Apart from the large number rung for the wedding of Princess Margaret and Mr. Armstrong-Jones, there has been a consistent flow week by week. Most Associations have one or more regular peal bands; another thing is with many of these a couple of attempts on a Saturday is fairly regular. Relatively few of the failures come to light, but there are bands that lose at least as many peals as they score. It would indeed be interesting to learn from some of our outstanding ringers their numbers of failures, especially those who have rung more than 50 peals in the year. This would provide Professor Dodge with a practical basis for his theories.

Notable among the failures was the attempt for the record length of Bob Major by the Cheshire band. The attempt at the 40,320 had this characteristic: it was the first time since the early record at Leeds in 1761 by 14 men that an attempt for this had been made on church bells, as all previous attempts had taken place at the Loughborough Bell Foundry. Great hopes were expected of this attempt which was being made at Over, Cheshire, where on the same day (November 4th) in 1950 the record length of 21,600 Bristol Surprise Major was established. The failure was at the 11,000 mark after 6½ hours' ringing. Another record-breaking band to meet with defeat was that which attempted five Surprise peals in a day, a miscall of Yorkshire at Highclere, Hants, ending the bid for notoriety. There was, however, a record length of Bob Major—22,400 changes rung at Kirby-le-Soken by Frank Lufkin's band.

The Central Council meeting at Folkestone provided ringers generally with a big surprise. Upon the recommendation of the Standing Committee, peals of Minimus were accepted. The amazing thing was that this recommendation was not debated and was placidly accepted by the Council. There are now signs that certain of the leaders of the Exercise are beginning to rue the day.

The first reaction to this new privilege was generally to ignore the situation. Two months later two different couples from High Wycombe and Leicester took advantage of the new decision by ringing a peal of Plain Bob Minimus on handbells. Since then two more handbell peals of Bob Minimus have been rung at Oxford and Bristol, both by Surprise ringers, and another tower bell peal was rung on the anniversary of the first peal of Minimus. As the year ebbed to its end the news came of a ringer holding four bells in his hand, ringing a peal of Minimus 'for the novelty.'

Through the fine co-operative spirit of Mr. Paul Taylor, peal attempts at the Loughborough Bell Foundry seem to take place three or four times a week. Loughborough is the Mecca of peal ringers from surrounding towns; certainly no tower has figured more frequently in 'The Ringing World' to peals, and many of these are peals of Royal of distinction. Loughborough's peals certainly have the spice of variety. On this question of frequency in the peal columns in 'The Ringing World,' the year has seen another record eclipsed. Mr. Ernest Morris, of Leicester, has exceeded the peal total of the late Mr. William Pye, and is now drawing near to his 2,000th peal. Ernest Morris stands in a unique position. His pen has done much to bring knowledge of bells and ringing before the public in this country and America; no other contemporary writer has made such a contribution.

There is no diminution in the number of tours both in search of peals and those for towers and good ringing. This year David Hoar's band was in East Anglia, Tom Lock's in Oxfordshire, Robin Leale's and Pat Cannon's in the North, Wilfred Williams' also in the North and across the border after ringing a controversial peal at Derby, the Cheshire men were in Worcestershire and neighbouring counties. Pipe's Pilgrims were in the Lake District, the Rambling Ringers toured the South from Hampshire to Kent, and a party most unkindly and undeservedly referred to as 'Bond's Bashers' went through the Lake District to as far north as Inverness, where a quarter peal was rung, and back home down the East Coast, with much ringing in Northumberland and Durham.

A characteristic of the age is the large number of ringers' dinners. Most Associations and University Guilds now support an annual dinner. At one time there were relatively few; perhaps it is one of the indications of the prosperity of the age. Comment was made from time to time of the high proportion of ringing recruits from grammar schools and universities. Prophets foretell that there will have been a big waste of public funds if this new recruiting field fails to produce outstanding men and women for the Exercise. Will they become Servants or Personalities?

We have now crossed the threshold into 1961. Will the year produce anything really big for the Exercise? Attempts are already planned for more Everest-seeking efforts for the extent of Bob Major and also for five peals of Surprise in a day. The year also coincides with the golden jubilee of 'The Ringing World.' To all the enthusiasts who are planning special events we wish the very best of luck for 1961. And even those who do not aspire to great things but just nibble like the Rabbits' Guild, we wish that happiness and enjoyment may accompany their ringing.

Christopher L. Bell, a youngster in the Hunts District, was recently introduced to peal ringing. He deserved the congratulations he received at the end of the first successful attempt. Having scored three peals, in the same number of weeks, he is proving to be a safe and reliable ringer. And he should with his surname of Bell.

We are sorry to learn that Mr. John A. Freeman, the beloved Master of Lincoln Diocesan Guild, is still ill with bronchitis, and has had nearly two months in bed.

Those interested in name peals will note the performance at Hertford on New Year's Eve when four Christines rang with four Christophers.

We conclude our 'Alphabet of Beginners' series this week and express our thanks to Mr. T. J. Lock for his research in providing this interesting and at times humorous feature.

The band who rang the peal of Yorkshire Surprise Maximus at Ashton-under-Lyne on December 27th are indebted to Mr. Denis Mottershead who stood down when they met one short for Stedman Sextuples!

At a moment's notice George A. Reading turned out for a peal at Redbourn to complete the band. Afterwards he went home to have his breakfast! The band wish to express their appreciation of his first attempt for a peal.

On Christmas Eve, as a birthday compliment to Mr. L. G. Brett, Double Norwich Court Bob Major, with 56 courses, 56 calls, and 5,056 changes, failed through the indisposition of one of the band. We are glad to hear that he has since recovered.

The grand old ringer of Bretforton Worcs. is Mr. J. C. Perkins, in honour of whose 82nd birthday a peal was rung on December 3rd. Failing eyesight has necessitated Mr. Perkins' retirement from ringing after an innings of over 60 years, which included periods as Ringing Master of Bretforton and the Southern Branch of the Worcestershire Association. After the peal Mr. Perkins met the ringers and regaled them with stories of past achievements and listened to the achievements of the present generation.

BELFRY GOSSIP

The name of the Surprise peal, Nettleham, in honour of the wedding of two Lincoln ringers, Geoffrey Parker & Margaret A. Swann, at Lincoln on December 26th, was selected by them after Geoff's home village and their future home. On the first day of their honeymoon they rang in a peal of Stedman Cinques at Birmingham.

Mr. John J. L. Gilbert, of Sheffield, celebrated his return to fitness with a peal on each of the last two days of the year.

The receiver of the brown braces wishes to thank the thoughtfulness of the kind anonymous Christmas donor.

In the quarter peal for Rye Grammar School's carol service, six present members and one former member of the school were ringing.

Mr. Gordon A. Halls has now 'circled' Derby Cathedral to peals and is the first ringer to do this.

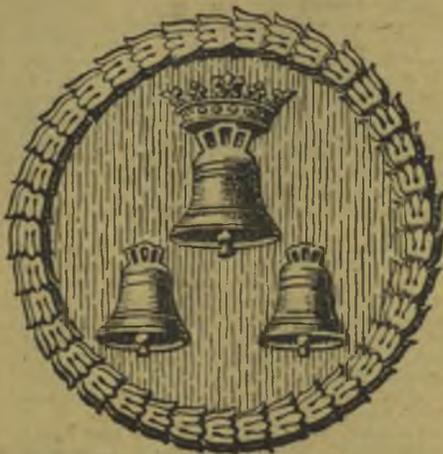

Congratulations to Mr. F. J. Lambert, of Burwash, who has been awarded the Royal Horticultural Society's gold medal and certificate. The medal is awarded for 40 years' continuous service as a gardener to the same family. Mr. Lambert's total of years is 47.

Three of the band which rang a peal in seven Surprise methods at Warsop recently are 14, 15 and 16 years of age, respectively. The progress of these promising youngsters is due to the efforts of Mr. Herbert T. Rooke, a most exacting task master, who has raised the standard of striking at Warsop to a very high level. Practically all the band at this place are College Youths, and they can be depended on to maintain the high standards of the Society.

To celebrate the 80th birthday of Mr. H. Dransfield, a life member of the Yorkshire Association and a well known member of the Barnsley and Halifax Associations, a few friends met at Earlsheaton, where his whole ringing career has been spent, on December 31st. Looking remarkably fit, Mr. Dransfield took part in one or two touches. A splendid tea was served in the school room by his two daughters and to a warm vote of thanks Mr. Dransfield replied. Further ringing concluded a very happy gathering.

OXFORD GUILD'S 80th ANNIVERSARY

January 17th is the 80th anniversary of the founding of the Oxford Diocesan Guild. A meeting of branch secretaries was held at Radley recently to make suggestions for the appropriate celebration of the anniversary. The suggestions included:—

- (1) That the service at the Guild festival on July 1st should take the form of a service of Thanksgiving and include a sung service of Communion.
- (2) That as many members as possible should attend the Guild luncheon (300 attended that for the 50th anniversary).
- (3) That as many peals as possible, preferably by local bands, should be rung for the Guild during the week January 15th to 21st. Reports should be sent to the general secretary so that all the peals could appear in one issue of 'The Ringing World.' If peals are out of the question quarter peals should be considered as an alternative. Each church should endeavour to ring at least two peals during the week.
- (4) That Sunday, January 22nd, should be kept as a Ringers' Sunday in all parishes with rings of bells. Special prayers of thanksgiving for the gift of bells, remembrance of donors of bells, past ringers and thanksgiving for their work, present ringers and for the work of the Guild that all may be done to further the Glory of God.
- (5) That each branch should try and make as complete a history of its own area as possible and all ringers should be asked to let the branch secretary know of any stories relating to past ringers. The general secretary would also be glad of any old books or records or stories concerned with past ringers of the Guild.
- (6) That all the bells of Oxford should be rung on a given date at the same time. This is subject to discussion by parties concerned.

RAMBLING RINGERS' REUNION

The winter reunion was held at Birmingham on December 10th. Ringing took place at St. Chad's (8), Cathedral (12) and St. Martin's (12). Possibly the best ringing of the day was the last, a touch of Spliced six on the back eight at St. Martin's. These must be one of the best eights of their weight in the country. The dinner was held at the Imperial Hotel, and the attendance was rather disappointing, only about 30 being present. Of late these dinners seem mainly to comprise touring members. This, of course, was not the idea of the reunion, it was arranged so that people no longer able to tour could meet past friends, etc. We hope that next year's reunion will have a better representation of past touring members. At the meeting the following officers were elected: President, John E. Cook; Ringing Master, Denis Mottershead; Deputy Ringing Masters, John Fielding and Alan J. Frost; honorary secretary, William A. Lacey; committee member, Alan Cattell. Next year's reunion was voted once again for Nottingham. The meeting closed with a vote of thanks to Miss Carol Eustace for the efficient way in which she had carried out the duties of honorary secretary and also to the incumbents and ringers of Birmingham for the ringing arrangements. The usual social evening then followed. J. E. C.

A NORTHUMBERLAND TOWER

'Observer' from St. Michael and All Angels', Newburn, Northumberland, reports: There are now five regular bellringers and five trainees. The oldest member of our team is Mr. R. Swan, who is now 76 years of age and has over 50 years' service as a bellringer at Newburn. His experience and patience have been of great value to our younger members. During the last few weeks, three of our 'regulars' have done sterling work in the repairing and redecorating of the belfry. Messrs. D. Johnson and M. and P. Welford have spent three days of their Christmas holidays plastering and painting the interior. The rest of this report, however, is not quite so encouraging. The six bells require new bearings, the bell ropes are worn and need renewing. However, these problems are to be brought before the Church Council at the next meeting so we are hoping that our next report will tell of the end to our fears and worries!

PERSONALITIES OF THE EXERCISE - 2

MR. THOMAS E. SONE,
Kent County Association.

In a county which has produced many well known and first class ringers, few have done as much for the 'rank and file' as Mr. Thomas E. Sone, of Paddock Wood, Kent. Most of his peal ringing has been done with a resident band, and a large number of ringers owe their first peal of 'first in the method' to his organisation and enthusiasm.

Tom, as he is affectionately known, was born on July 14th, 1895, at the village of Northbourne, near Deal, Kent, and learnt to ring in 1909, under the tuition of his father, Mr. C. H. Sone, at Marden, who called his first peal at the same tower, Grandsire Triples on January 19th, 1911. His first peal as conductor was his fourth peal, Kent Treble Bob, at Headcorn in November, 1919, but he did not take any real interest in peal ringing until 1925. He has now reached a total of 650, of which he has conducted 356, and they have been rung in 162 different towers, with 595 ringers.

In conducting he has made a specialisation of calling a fresh composition as often as possible, and he has called some 227 different compositions (145 one parts). Many of these were supplied to him by the late Arthur Knights, and were rung for the first time. He has made a particular study of Holt's Original, having called it no fewer than 45 times (5 times round the circle), and once non-conducted. He has 'completed the circle' in 16 eight-bell towers and one ten-bell tower, and has conducted a peal from most of the bells in the eight-bell towers.

In his early days transport arrangements were not as easy as they are today, and most of the band reached the tower on a bicycle or motor cycle—distance no object! He has always appreciated the loyalty of his own stalwarts, who have worked with him to 'keep the flag flying' in days gone by.

He has called peals from Doubles to Maximus, and among the peals he is particularly proud of calling are the first peals for the Kent County Association of Erin Caters and Grandsire Cinques in 1931, and Double Norwich Caters in 1948.

For the last 36 years he has been district superintendent of the Mid-Kent Water Company, and has led a busy life in charge of the water supply for 12 parishes. He has served his local Association as Central Council representative from 1933-59, and rarely missed a meeting.

Tom is very popular with everyone he meets, and has endeared himself to all by his genial personality. He has always been willing to help a young ringer along the road to success. Although there are no bells at Paddock Wood, he has been a Sunday service ringer at Staplehurst, Marden and Linton, and since the war he has been a regular attender at All Saints', Maidstone.

He is expecting to retire from work next July, and hopes to continue his peal ringing more actively, as long as his health allows. However, his record in the past is such, that he will long be remembered and respected for his practical help and encouragement, spread over the last 50 years.

ALPHABET FOR BEGINNERS

By T. J. LOCK
"Z"

ZEAL.—This passionate ardour is the pursuit of anything can, of course, apply to bell ringers. There are many ringers with zeal but unfortunately they are often not well known because they do not desire the lime-light of publicity—this is a great pity. You will all too often come across someone who, imbued with the best qualities of a ringer and spending hours in leading and instructing, including travelling miles to do so, still prefers to remain, in present day phraseology, a back-room boy. Such a person could be considered as part of the backbone of the Exercise and it is regrettable that there is usually no means of showing recognition of his efforts. But each one of us can make the tasks of this class of ringer more rewarding and less arduous by exhibiting, at least, an equal amount of zeal. We would need to display our earnestness by being regular and punctual on Sundays and practice nights, helping to pull up the bells and keeping the ringing chamber and belfry clean and tidy, sharing in the various other jobs to be done, endeavouring to progress in the art by diligent study and practice, and working for and promoting the objects of our Associations. Then, when we have reached a sufficient standard, backed by experience, we will find joy in passing on to others the knowledge which has been passed on to us. To possess the qualities of zeal and zest will enable any one of us to reach the zenith, the reward for which is without doubt a most happy life of service to others.

In Memory Of Arthur Morris

Many readers who have visited St. James' Church, Shirley, Solihull, will remember Arthur Morris.

Born in Shirley in 1882, he gave a life's service to the church and was a ringer for 55 years and for many years was Ringing Master and tower keeper.

As a memorial to him and his wife Ellen, an oak wall book-case with a bottom hinged door to form a writing surface has been donated and erected in the belfry and is fitted with a plate bearing the inscription:—

'In memory of Arthur Morris, for 55 years a ringer, died March, 1957, and his wife, Ellen, died July, 1958.'

On Sunday evening, December, 18th, a short dedication service was conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. K. W. Breed, in the presence of Mrs. K. Watts, their daughter, who is a ringer, the St. James' company of ringers and members of the Parochial Church Council. After the service a touch of Grandsire Triples was rung.

THE BELLS HER FRIEND

Miss A. Henson, of West Bridgford, Notts. who had often commented that the bells were her friend, received this year a Christmas card giving an arrangement of 'The Chimes,' by Charles Dickens. The story on the card reads as follows:—

High up in the steeple of an old English church hung the chimes. Their voices rang out loud and clear, telling of the Christmas season. 'Amen!' said Toby Veck, the poor messenger whose stand was just outside the church door.

'Amen to the bells, father?' asked his daughter, Meg, with a laugh.

'Many's the kind thing they say to me,' he replied. 'How often have I heard the bells call. "Toby Veck, keep a good heart, Toby Veck."'

Meg smiled and departed, while Toby started out to deliver his messages. It was the last day of the year, and wherever he went, people spoke of the New Year. But Toby was sad thinking of the unhappiness in the world, and it was with a heavy heart that he returned to the church. There, to his astonishment, he found that the door to the bell tower stood ajar. He went in, feeling his way in the dark like a blind man. Up and up, round round, until he came out among the bells.

'You chimes have cheered me often,' Toby said. 'If you only knew how often you have kept me company.'

'Never!' cried Toby. Then he asked, 'Who are you?'

'The voice of Time,' came the answer. 'The spirit of the chimes.'

'How have I wronged you?' asked Toby.

'You are sad because of the unhappiness in this world,' was the reply. 'But you do not help others less fortunate than yourself. You have no pity for those who have sinned. He who turns his back on his less fortunate brothers does a wrong to us, the chimes.'

'Then I am indeed sorry,' said Toby, 'for I have always loved you. Chimes. What can I do to repair my wrong?'

'You must never doubt the good in another, for misery can be so great that even the purest can sin. You must believe that there is a sea of time, that will rise one day and sweep away all who wrong or oppress others.'

'I do believe it,' cried Toby happily. The bells began to ring loudly. The voice was gone, and Toby was alone with his friends, the Chimes.

BENTLEY COMMON REPEAT THEIR DINNER

The success that attended the first dinner of the Bentley Common, Essex, ringers which was pictorially featured in the 'R.W.' was repeated on December 10th, when a company of 48 sat down to a sumptuous meal.

Guests included Mr. R. C. Heazel, Master of the Essex Association, who had rung a peal at Brentwood in the afternoon. Ringers and friends were present from Brentwood, Ingrave, Shenfield and South Weald.

During the meal, background music was provided by a tape recording of popular light music, and carols and Grandsire Doubles on handbells by members of the Bentley band.

Mr. R. J. Brown, the tower master, was M.C., and after the dinner made a short speech of welcome to the guests and thanks to the ladies, to which Mr. R. C. Heazel replied on behalf of the visitors.

The entertainment consisted of a number of games, songs by a vocal group from Ingrave and an amusing charade acted by the Bentley ringers. The evening ended with 'Auld Lang Syne' at 11.30; it was agreed everyone had an enjoyable time.

OBITUARY

MR. GEORGE LAVERS

The death occurred after a short illness on December 23rd of Mr. George Lavers, of Plympton St Maurice, Devon, at the very early age of 37. He leaves a widow and three children, and is also survived by his father, his mother having predeceased him by about three years, and three married sisters.

George was brought to the belfry to learn to ring at the early age of about 6. He never became a great ringer, but was very interested and could always join in a touch of Grandsire Triples, and there was never a more jovial face to be seen at our meetings. At the time of his death he was an unattached member of the S.W. Branch of the Guild of Devonshire Ringers. During the last war he saw active service in the Royal Navy.

He was one of a very old ringing family at Plympton St. Maurice: his grandfather was a ringer for many years, and his illustrious father, whose friendship is treasured by everyone who knows him, is one of the most active and best known ringers in the county.

The Lavers family is reputed to be the oldest in Plympton. Some years ago it was decided by the Council to plant a tree in the Castle Grounds to commemorate some occasion. To prevent any favouritism it was agreed the youngest male of the oldest family should perform the ceremony. After much research it was agreed the Lavers were the oldest family, and George was the youngest male. When, however, the planting ceremony was about to take place George was nowhere to be found, and one of his sisters carried out the operation.

There was a large attendance at the funeral at Plympton St. Maurice on December 28th, which was conducted by the Rector, the Rev. De Shalto. The coffin was draped with the Union Jack, the deceased having been a member of the Territorial Army, and his unit was represented by four N.C.O.s.

Close family mourners were the widow, his father and three sisters. The large number of ringers present included Messrs. T. G. Myers (captain, St. Andrew's and honorary secretary and Ringing Master of the S.W. Branch of the Guild of Devonshire Ringers), Alan Collings, W. Marks, H. Milford (general treasurer of the Guild) and D. Wheeler, all representing St. Andrew's, Plymouth, Messrs. W. Wonnacott, Peacock, and G. GeHy (Plympton St. Maurice), the last two being also members of the surpliced choir which attended. Messrs. W. Edworthy (Plympton St. Mary), O. Thomas, F. J. Blagg, W. Collier, H. H. Thomas (honorary secretary, Emmanuel and chairman, S.W. Branch of Guild) and Mr. and Mrs. George Godard, representing Emmanuel, Plymouth, and Mr. R. Bould (Tavistock). A wreath was sent from the S.W. Branch of the Guild, and from Emmanuel Church ringers. The funeral chimes were rung by Mr. W. Wonnacott.

Our deepest sympathy is extended to his widow and family, the eldest, Dority, aged nine, having recently started to ring, his father, his three sisters, and other members of the family. H. H. T.

'R.W.' January 9th, 1931:—

Alderman J. S. Pritchett, Presiding Master of St. Martin's Guild, celebrates his 76th birthday.

After a lapse of 78 years, members of the Society of Cambridge Youths ring a peal at the Church of St. Mary the Great.

Figures of the 17,687 Grandsire Cinques rung at Painswick on November 8th, 1930, are published. (These prove to be false.)

THE LADIES' GUILD

Central District

The last quarterly meeting in 1960 was held at Stanmore on the last day of the year, when the weather, the ringing and the attendance were all of a high standard. Ringing commenced at 3 p.m., under the mastership of Mrs. Lock, and we were pleased to welcome Mr. Frederick E. Dukes, who was over from Ireland with his family. The service was followed by an excellent tea in the Church House, provided by the young Stanmore ringers, to which 30 members and gentlemen sat down.

After tea Mrs. Lock thanked the Rector for taking the service and for the use of the bells, the mysterious organist for accompanying the service, Mr. E. Leversuch for making the arrangements, and the Stanmore ringers for the tea. The gentlemen then returned to the tower and a short business meeting was held by the ladies. An apology for absence had been received from the secretary, Mrs. Bullock, who had two children ill with measles.

Six new members were elected, and the meeting discussed the arrangements for the annual district meeting to be held at Reading on April 29th and the Guild meeting at St. Clement Danes' on January 21st, to dedicate the new peal board commemorating the Ladies' Guild peal of Stedman Caters.

Ringing continued until 8 p.m., and was generally so good that we should have liked to go on longer. Methods rung ranged from Grandsire Triples and Plain Bob Major to London Surprise Major, and included a touch of Double Norwich by a gentlemen's band, which did not come round, and a touch of Stedman Triples by a ladies' band, which did! It was a most successful meeting in every way, and a fitting close to 1960. C. W.

SWINDON DISTRICT OUTING

The last outing of the year for the Swindon District was organised by Mr. E. Sutton, when eleven towers in the Devizes and Trowbridge areas were visited on December 27th. Icy roads caused the drivers to proceed cautiously and when only two cars arrived at the first tower we wondered how the rest were getting along.

Pofterne was the first tower and here Mr. and Mrs. F. Wilton greeted us; then on to Urchfont and the lovely ring of eight in the warmest church visited during the day. We were pleased to find the other travellers awaiting us, also Mr. E. Hitchings, secretary of the Devizes Branch, and some friends from Cheltenham who accompanied us all day. Market Lavington and West Lavington were next, followed by a sandwich lunch.

Great Cheverell and Erlestoke were taken in our stride, then came the outstanding tower of the day at the beautiful old church at Edington. These bells have to be rung to be believed and the sight of a brilliant Spliced Surprise Minor ringer, swinging off the ground on the tail end of the tenor in a course of London, warmed the hearts of all present. Our new Ringing Master, Brian Bladon, swapped bells and a good course of London was successfully brought round.

Bratton came next, then, after a break for tea, North Bradley proved to be a popular tower, a course of London Surprise Major being the highlight of the ringing there. Hilperton and Holt completed the towers for the day. All agreed it had been a very good trip with some excellent ringing and a contrast in bells, from the heavy six at Edington to the light and fast ring at Hilperton. The Spliced Surprise Minor specialists excelled with touches in 8 and 10 methods, but it was unanimously agreed that the course of London Minor at Edington was the highlight of the tour. Thanks were expressed to Eric for organising the trip, to the local ringers and incumbents. R. L.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

OUR VOCATION?

Dear Sir.—May I comment on one or two points in Mr. Cox's letter ('Ringing World,' December 30th, 1960)?

I have read and reread the following sentence from my previous letter—it is the sentence which puzzled Mr. Cox. 'Bob Major rung on Sunday for a service is not necessarily a better offering to God than a good peal of Stedman on Saturday.' This seems to me a quite clear statement of fact. It in no way denies that Sunday's Bob Major may be a better offering than Saturday's Stedman; the sentence merely states that, because a bit of ringing takes place on Sunday before a service, this piece of ringing is not, ipso facto, a more worthy offering to God.

Mr. Cox writes thus, 'But when Mr. Freeman suggests that a good peal of Stedman on Saturday is likely to be accorded the same degree of divine approval as Bob Major rung for a Sunday service then I must take issue with him, and frankly, I can find nothing in his letter which supports such a contention.'

I can only again refer to my previous letter which made no suggestion to the effect that one piece of ringing, whatever the method, was more deserving of divine approval than another—and therefore it is not surprising that there was nothing in my letter to support the contention that Stedman on Saturday is likely to be accorded the same degree of divine approval as Bob Major on Sunday.

I make these comments because I want to clear up any ambiguity and also to disclaim any responsibility for the opinions which Mr. Cox suggests that I hold. What I was trying to suggest was that it is not the time and place that gives value to our ringing but that those who ring have offered and continue to offer their lives in response to God's calling them to be his disciples and servants. All of us who profess and call ourselves Christians and who are bellringers will offer our ringing as part of our service to God—just as every other bit of life is offered—daily work, leisure, talents and abilities. Ringing, whenever it is done, will be offered to God by the person whose life is God centred.

This seems to me to make irrelevant the distinction that is sometimes made between Sunday service ringing and other ringing—peals, practice, meetings, etc. The distinction, with ringers as with the rest of humanity, is between those who offer themselves to God and those who don't; not between ringing for service and ringing peals.—Yours faithfully,

MICHAEL FREEMAN.

METHOD NAMING WITHOUT METHOD

Dear Sir.—Look here! This really will not do! The 'Ringing Worlds' last month have made me mad at you.

That method-naming stuff was just a waste of time.

And printing it, Dear Sir, an editorial crime.

Dear Sir, pray hear! I trust that you'll be kind and heed a mere beginner, who has to speak his mind.

Smith and Dragon Major! A phoney sounding lot!

Nomenclature gone crazy; the authors should be shot.

Dear Sir, look to! The trouble's gone too far. Call in the Central Council these fancy names to bar.

Compel these smart conductors to send their methods in.

And let the C.C. name them, or throw them in the bin.

DISLEY-TYPE PETER.

Cheshire.

MINIMAL PERFORMANCES

Dear Sir.—One reads with amazement and admiration of the performances of Elijah Roberts tapping out twelve-bell peals, often with another person calling the bobs, but what can one say about Plain Bob Minimus with a 'one-man band'? We have read of such stunts in 'music' but we hardly expected such in change ringing.

No doubt someone will shortly ring the following (with the	12
2 making seconds over the	21
(treble) 1,260 times and call	21
it a peal of Plain Bob Ridiculous	12
12 or this, 2,520 times and	12
— call it a peal of	—
21 Original Sin.	—
12 There seems to be no legitimate	—
— reason why no! Bob Minimus	— appears to be aptly named, for what more minimal activity could one do in ringing than repeat a handful of changes 210 times? Is it not utterly absurd for there to be 186 more repetitions than there are changes in the Plain Course?

One peal of Bob Minimus, rung as a 'test case' only, is understandable—but who would have believed that ANYONE would ever have wished to emulate it!—or dared!—Yours truly,

W. BIRMINGHAM.

Slough.

YOUNGEST PERSON TO CONDUCT A PEAL OF MAJOR FOR LLANDAFF ASSOCIATION

Dear Sir.—In connection with the query by Mr. Bryn Taylor ('Ringing World,' page 848) under above heading, I am glad to be able to inform him that he is probably the youngest person to conduct a peal of Major in South Wales.

While laying no claim as such, I have assumed that I was the youngest conductor in that area with Doubles at 16 years and 3 weeks, Holt's Original—Grandshire Triples, at 17 years and 3 months, Oxford Bob Triples at 17 years and 8 months, Minor at 18 years and 3 months, and Major at 18 years and 5 months.—Yours faithfully,

DONALD G. CLIFT.

Harrow, Middlesex.

ENTERPRISE IN DERBYSHIRE

Dear Sir.—On reading the article by 'Jafus' on page 865 of 'The Ringing World,' 'Enterprise in Derbyshire,' I feel that another name should be added to the list of advisers and instructors of the ringers of Chelmorton, Mr. A. Richardson, of St. Peter's, Fairfield, has done a great deal in training the Chelmorton ringers in the art of campanology. He has been to most of the practice nights since the dedication of the bells in June, 1960, and as I have accompanied him on most occasions I have seen the amount of time and work he has put in to help them.—Yours sincerely,

A. G. KIRK.

Burbage, Buxton.

A PROUD MOTHER

Dear Sir.—We cannot boast record peals or numbers of towers, but one event made us very happy at Shiplake on New Year's Eve. It was rounds rung by the following band: Mrs. Waller 1, Vanessa Waller 2, Lynda Waller 3, Geoffrey Waller 4, Jane Waller 5, Mrs. Healey 6, Edmund Waller 7, David Baylis 8.

The ringer of the treble is the proud mother of the ringers of No. 2, 3, 4, 5 and 7: Vanessa, the youngest of the family, is 12 years.—Yours truly,

ERNEST H. SMITH.

Shiplake.

'NEWMARKET' SURPRISE MAJOR

Dear Sir.—The method pealed as Newmarket at Long Sutton on December 5th is no newcomer to the Exercise. It was practised as 'Leodride' by the Leatherhead band before the war and has cropped up elsewhere as 'Southampton' and 'D.S.s.' The first peal was rung at Stoney Stanton, Leicestershire, on July 16th, 1948, conducted by Mr. H. J. Poole, when it was named Stanton.

The publication of the method brought forth a tirade against the use of double changes in Major methods. To judge from some of the methods rung and published in the last twelve years, it had, regrettably, little effect.—Yours sincerely, Frome. GEORGE W. MASSEY.

Dear Sir.—In reply to Mr. R. C. Noon, re the above, the method was first rung at Stoney Stanton, Leicestershire, July 16th, 1948, and published as Stanton 'S' Major. Composed by John Reeves and conducted by the late H. J. Poole. E. W. TIPLER.

Lutterworth.

Dear Sir.—The method rung on December 5th at Long Sutton, Lincs, as Newmarket has been rung before. It is Stanton Surprise Major, and was first rung on July 16th, 1948, at Stoney Stanton, Leicestershire. The report of this peal appears in the 'R.W.' of August 13th, 1948, page 334, and the method can be found in the issue of September 10th, 1948, page 386.

Mr. Noon may note that I have not only a complete list of the names of Surprise methods which have been rung to peals, but also a complete list of the methods. However, this information may also be obtained from the Records Committee of the Central Council. The convener of this committee is Mrs. G. W. Fletcher.—Yours faithfully,

Harrow, Middlesex. JOHN R. MAYNE.

STEDMAN CATERS

Dear Sir.—Re Peal 5.007 or 5.019 Stedman Caters, by D. E. Parsons (No. 4), printed on page 837, I wish to state A, 1s, 4, 6s, 7, 10s, 11, 12, 13, 14, does not produce course end 432651, 315462978 is produced from 1, 4, 6, 7, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 365214879 is produced from 1s, 4, 6s, 7, 10s, 11, 12, 13, 14, which means from the two callings: 1s reverses 98, 6s reverses 61, 12s reverses 42. Also he should check his B column and use a Bob instead of a Single.—Yours faithfully, Gillingham. WILLIAM A. J. KNIGHT.

Mr. D. Parsons replies: 'Owing to the layout of this peal in my original manuscript, I am afraid that the end of the starting course of the peal was deleted, and also missed when I checked the proof.'

The correct calling for course A should be 1s, 4, 6s, 7, 10s, 11, 12, 13, 14, 17, 18, 19, 21, 24 to produce 432651978 from 231456789.

I should like to thank Mr. Knight for pointing this error out and apologise for any inconvenience it may cause.'

STEDMAN CINQUES ON HANDBELLS

Dear Sir.—Mr. T. J. Lock's reference to the above in connection with the late Mr. William Pye and his 12 bell peals for the Middlesex County Association is interesting, for I took part in many of these peals during the period 1910-1929.

The peal which stands out most in my memory was rung at Haggerston on May 4th, 1914, when a short course peal of 69 courses, the first ever rung on handbells, was performed in 3 hours 20 minutes, by G. R. Pye, William Pye (conductor), B. Prewett, W. Shepherd, E. Pye and A. W. Grimes. The footnote was modest but it was certainly a peal that brought out Stedman Cinques at its best.—Yours sincerely,

Addlestone. WILLIAM SHEPHERD.

FALSE COURSEHEADS IN TREBLE BOB METHODS

By D. R. CARLISLE, G. A. HALLS

F. Groups.—Some F-sets are so related to others that if a method produces one of these F-sets it will always produce the others. Such F-sets together are called F-groups.

Consider a method with Cambridge 2nds place lead headorder and suppose it has a F.C.H. 34256 (1/2). This is F. 1 of an F-set whose other members are F. 2. 42356 (2/1), F. 3 42356 (7/6) and F. 4 34256 (6/7).

From F. 1 we know that lead 12345678 is false with lead 15748362, and we can find what leads are false with the other leads of the plain course by maintaining the same relationship:—

Plain course lead heads.

12345678	15738264	18674523	14263857
13527486	17856342	16482735

False lead heads

1	2	3	4
15748362	18634725	14273658	13567284

We find from the above table that false leads with tenors coursing occur with leads 4, 5 and 6 of the plain course in addition to the first lead.

From these we find, apart from F. 1 34256 (1/2), the additional F.C.H.'s 63254 (4/5), 35426 (5/6), and 42635 (6/4). From each of these F.C.H.'s we can form another F-set. These four related F-sets comprise an F-group.

In the above example of an F-group containing four F-sets it will be found that two of the F-sets have identical F.C.H.'s but their falseness occurs in different leads.

Below are written out all the 60 in-course F.C.H.'s arranged in F-sets and F-groups. The choice of F. 1's is quite arbitrary, so the arrangement adopted is that given by Mr. Maurice Hodgson with the necessary corrections.

Each block of 4 F.C.H.'s is an F-set and the letters identify an F-group. The F-groups which contain two or more identical F-sets, but where the falseness may occur in different leads of the sets, are marked *, e.g., if a method with, say, Cambridge lead head order has a F.C.H. 23564 (4/5) (i.e., F. 1 of M) then it will always have 23564 (5/6) in addition.

The value of F-sets and F-groups:

1 The conception of F-sets forms the basis of half lead system of extracting F.C.H.'s.

2 The falseness of a method can be described completely, and very briefly, by the F. 1's of its F.C.H. F-sets. It is difficult to see any value at all in publishing the F.C.H.'s of a method without indicating the false leads.

3 When checking a composition it is only necessary to check F. 1 and F. 3.

4 When deriving falseness by the whole lead system a knowledge of F-sets and F-groups provides a very useful check on the accuracy of the working.

5 The conception of F-sets indicates that symmetrical compositions (i.e., a composition whose reverse variation is identical with the original and could aptly be called palindromic) are more likely to be true to very false methods than asymmetric compositions. Compositions of this type need only be checked against one member of each F-set.

A typical example of a 5-part palindromic composition is Middleton's Cambridge. All 5-part and 3-part palindromic compositions can be derived systematically.

It may have been noticed that many compositions in very difficult methods, including Spliced Surprise, by contemporary composers are palindromic.

A SAMPLE OF EVERYTHING

A PARTY of ringers, mainly of the Raving variety, aided and abetted by two of Adderbury's youngsters, spent an interesting day in the Cotswolds and Oxfordshire on December 17th. A sample of everything was on the programme: from 'restoration' work to a peal attempt.

The writer's arrival at Adlestrop, just over the Gloucestershire border, was preceded by the Deddington contingent. We were heralded by the voice of our Suffolk tenor king wafting from the louvres giving instructions on roping. The bells are a good Rudhall five, and had not been rung in full peal for some years. A check was made on the fittings, and a set of new ropes recently purchased by the Vicar was put on. Ringing is not easy since all five ropes fall directly against a wall, and we left amidst showers of sally fluff.

A second bit of restoration followed at Little Compton, Warwickshire. The five here are of poorer tone than Adlestrop, and we understood they had not been rung since the war. The Vicar is to form a band, however, seeking help from the next village, and since he doesn't lack enthusiasm it should not be long before this forgotten little ring is properly rung and cared for again. The bell chamber showed signs of sad neglect, and until recently was a pigeon haunt. The frame, made partly of iron, is basically sound though badly rusted, but some of the fittings, stays in particular, are dangerously worn-out and need replacing. After minor repairs, oiling and rope splicing, the bells were tried singly, and were finally rung to a few short touches, though not without effort. Ringing is from the ground floor of a small saddle-back tower, and owners of 'Dove' may care to note that the bells are not hung anti-clockwise. The Vicar entertained us to a very welcome drink after our ringing.

Back in Oxfordshire, touches on the six at Spelsbury were performed in semi-darkness in one corner of a huge barn-like tower. The electricians working in the church had cut the supply. Moving on, near Charlbury, we rounded a bend in the road to be confronted by a flood. The leading car stopped, but the other shot past and lurched through the flood water at an alarming speed. The parting of the Red Sea had nothing on it! One local got drenched, another hurriedly dismounted from his bicycle, and a third stood tapping his head, as the saner members of the party passed in the other car.

We could only conclude that our Ringing Master was anxious to have a bite in Witney and set sail on his umpteenth peal attempt of the year. The peal was to be two-method Minor at Standlake—Plain Bob and Reverse Canterbury with Chris Clarke at the helm. Our tenor king, now known to many members of the Exercise as 'Newmarket' was relegated to the fourth. The ringing took some time to settle down, but what looked like a satisfactory conclusion never came; the peal was lost in the last extent due to a shift course. It was a disappointment to everyone, especially Mark Sayers, who was trying for his first peal.

Our two non-pealers had walked the seven miles from Witney for a ring at Standlake, before they were whisked most of the way back to ring on the tiny six at Ducklington, where we consoled ourselves round a huge coke stove.

At Brize Norton the Vicar joined us for Grand sire Doubles, in whole pulls, and a course of Slough Big Bob was particularly well executed. Later, our miserable efforts to find Coombe tower in the darkness were eventually rewarded by a very fine six, and some were seen to lick their lips at the mention of a possible peal attempt there in 1961.

Finally, after enjoying a ring at Cassington, we were greeted in force by the locals at Yarnton, where we were pleased to learn a new band has been formed to ring their heavy anti-clockwise six. (Dove owners, please note.) Our day was not complete until the Mann from Newmarket had turned the tenor in; indeed we wonder how long it will be before he challenges A.P.C. for the crown!

The visitors would like to express their thanks to everyone who gave them permission to ring and to those who patiently awaited their arrival at the towers, for a sample of everything.

Call Changes And Hunting

Dear Sir,—With regard to Mr. Chadock's article on call changes, might I suggest that his way is a little too simple. Not only does he tell every bell where to go but also introduces the method of ringing by following a particular bell, this being the downfall of many learners when they progress to Plain Hunt by asking 'Which bells do I follow?' instead of 'Which way do I go?'

A much simpler way is the one where only the pair of bells concerned in each particular change are named as follows: to go from 123456 to 123546 the command being '5 with 4.' Having first explained that the bell which is called first gains a place and the bell which is called second loses a place over the first bell named. The other bell concerned, 6, hearing the command and knowing the above instructions follows the bell which is losing a place, namely the second bell to be named.

e.g., 1 2 3 4 5 6
1 2 3 5 4 6 5 with 4
1 3 2 5 4 6 3 with 2
Queens 1 3 5 2 4 6 5 with 2.

Not only in this way does the learner find that to gain or lose a place he has to ring quicker and slower, respectively, this being a gradual approach to Plain Hunt and Plain Bob, but also that he is not confused with a long string of instructions, having only three words to listen to, which, if delivered clearly, concisely and at the correct time, are no trouble at all to understand.—Yours sincerely,

MALCOLM PHIPPS.

Chesterfield.

THE RINGING WORLD

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

No. 2596 Vol. LVII

FRIDAY, JANUARY 20, 1961

Registered at the G.P.O. for transmission as a newspaper. 8d.

THE HOADS OF REIGATE

FIFTEEN months ago George F. Hoad, an old Reigate ringer, died tragically after a road accident. Since then his widow has kindly presented three of his ringing books to the Surrey Association library, one a copy of Hubbard's 'Campanalogia,' the others manuscripts containing touches and peals. Browsing through these old books conjures up all sorts of thoughts on what young ringing circles were like in those days. A clue, at least, is given by some words on the flyleaf of Hubbard that were written by a previous owner: 'James Dale Ringer, March 14th 1878. One of a School of all Fools'!

Originally the Hoad family hailed from near Ulverston, Lancashire (where according to George's brother Francis there is a Hoad Hill with an obelisk on top), and then settled as farmers at Rudgwick in Sussex for several generations. During the agricultural depression in the 1830's, their grandfather gave up farming and moved to Reigate, and so it was that their father, Francis T. Hoad, senior, learned to ring there in the '60's and his sons after him in the '90's.

There were seven boys and a girl in the family born from 1873 onwards, of whom five were taught to ring: Francis (the eldest), Bill, George, Harry, and Charles who died a few years ago. Frank and George are probably best known among ringers. Three of the family are still with us. Bill lives at Reading, while Frank, a most engaging personality and a strong churchman who still works at gardening every week, lives with his sister, Mrs. Miles, in Reigate. Frank can no longer stand to ring, but like most elderly people he loves to reminisce, and when he gets going tells his stories with great gusto and humour.

On August 6th, 1900, Frank and George were in a peal of Treble Bob at Dorking with Bert Langdon, Bill Weatherstone and others. Afterwards these two managed to catch a train to London, but being late the brothers had missed their last train, and started walking back home to Reigate. By the Red Lion they came upon an old motorised 'contraption broken down,' and gave a hand to push it up the hill. Eventually the driver got it started, and as reward gave them some whisky and water to drink, on which they had to keep on walking.

Frank was courting at about this time. He grins, and with a wicked look in his eye tells of the occasion he went specially to Betchworth to ring, and as usual left his bicycle at a nearby cottage. However, the ringers never saw him that night: he had gone indoors and was talking to Miss Arnold. They were married in 1903, '... a wet year, just like 1960.'

Around the 1900's Frank and other Reigate ringers often used to walk the nine miles to Rusper and back for a Sunday afternoon peal. 'Yet, you know, when Monday morning came we never felt the worse for it. No! We used to have to walk off to work, better off than if we'd sat about all day Sunday doing nothing.' 'Why did you walk rather than cycle?' 'See, we used to stop and get a drink at the Six Bells, then sometimes we used to get on at Rusper wi' some of them . . . of course, if you were on your feet you were safe, but if you got on a bicycle you might fall off down those dark old lanes at that time.' Later Frank moved to Rusper, while Rev. Mr. Sinnot was Rector.

Many stories are told of this 'fighting parson,' a down-to-earth-and-no-humbag personality. Alf Bull, of Horley, tells of a tea that was promised to a peal band on a strict no-peal-no-tea basis. 'Got your peal?', he asked. 'No, er—something happened. . . . 'No excuses, now'; and true to his bargain offered his tea to all comers who were out walking in the village. Once, after a Sunday peal, says George Marriner, of Leatherhead, he gave the band five shillings' worth of beer across the road on condition they rang for service.

George had left Reigate in 1902 to work on the L.N.W. Railway at Bangor. Imagine a parson these days acting as self-appointed personnel recruiting officer for local industry! That was what the Vicar of Bangor, Rev. T. L. Jones, did to try and build up a band of proficient change-ringers at his church. While there, George met many well-known Midlands names, and joined them on trips to Ireland in Whitsun, 1902, and December, 1903.

He conducted a good many of his peals, and like his father always called Holt's Original to Grandsire Triples. He was a great dabbler with figures, and although his manuscripts appear to contain nothing very outstanding of his own, there is much of interest in Plain Bob, Grandsire and Stedman methods, dating apparently from about 1911 onwards.

How many places, how many faces, have these well-thumbed pages seen? How much gaiety have they witnessed, and how much discipline in ringing? Much of both, one suspects. More than that, the same kind of qualities are required for success in life as for success in ringing, and the ringing achievements of these old folk reflect, as it were, their greater achievement in character. It is a great privilege to talk with them.

F. E. ROBERTS.

Holme Pierrepont, Nottingham, ringers wish to inform Putney ringers that they rang 37 quarter peals in 1960, 25 being in their own tower and 12 at other churches where there were no bands of ringers and they had been asked to ring at special services. The band, which is only three years old, is fortunate in having two very good teachers.

Rotherham handbell ringers raised £20 for church funds by ringing carols and traditional melodies outside the Parish Church on Christmas Eve.

The peal rung at Horsham on December 27th was the 50th peal together by Ernest Treagus and Raymond P. Wood and the 51st together by Ernest Treagus and Edgar R. Rapley.

Deddington, Oxford, handbell ringers raised, this Christmas, £43 4s. 6d., a record sum. The Society proposes 'to curb' its spending during 1961 in order to get its chromatic scale of 42 handbells 'done-up.'

We are pleased to note that Miss Judy Moir, of Leyland, Lancs. is again in our quarter peal columns with a quarter at Broughton. She has been absent for six months, due to a back injury.

Congratulations are extended to Feckenham (Worce) ringers in ringing their bells for service on Christmas Eve. The band have only been ringing for three months and the bells go very badly and require considerable exertion, even for rounds. This was the first service ringing at Feckenham since 1937.

For three successive years a Northamptonshire team have attempted to ring a combined peal of St. Thomas' and Canterbury Pleasure Doubles on December 29th, the festival day of St. Thomas of Canterbury. The first, at the Holy Sepulchre, Northampton, failed owing to a shift course, the 1959 attempt did not materialise and the last one, at Cogenhoe, by an intruder who pushed his way behind three ringers to ask a question of Derek P. Jones. In view of these failures it has been asked has St. Thomas of Canterbury no desire that a peal should be rung in commemoration of his festival?

BELFRY GOSSIP

The quarter peal at Teignmouth marks an epoch as it was the first ever by a resident band of Sunday service ringers. Since the conductor retired ten years ago to take up residence at Teignmouth, six quarters have been rung, but previously at least two experienced visitors have been in the band.

The Ashford District of the K.C.A. finished up 1960 by ringing six peals in the last week.

Willesborough, Kent, has rung over 100,000 changes for services during 1960.

Mr. A. P. Cannon rang his 100th peal of Double Norwich Court Bob Major at Raunds on December 30th. All these peals have been rung in different towers. Of these, he has conducted 79, all on the seventh or tenor.

The peal of Grandsire Triples at Frindsbury, Kent, on December 10th is believed to be the 50th peal on the bells. Had the peal been rung a week later it could also have been rung on the 40th anniversary of the dedication of the bells.

About 50 ringers and friends attended the Christmas party of Rotherham Parish Church bellringers on December 30th. A good meal was followed by games and dancing. Guests included visitors from Harthill, Dore, Thryburgh and Sheffield.

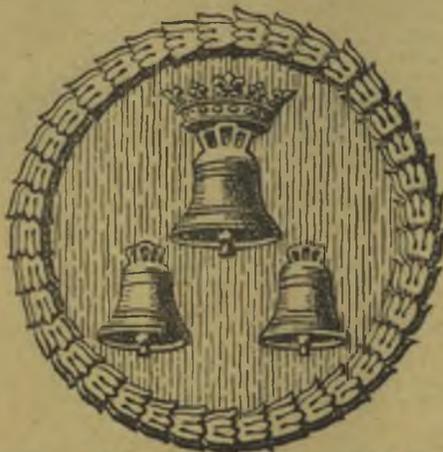

Mr. A. J. Hughes, who has returned to 14, Robert Street, Bangor, Caerns, writes that the 10,400 Treble Bob Major rung at Rhyl on February 9th, 1924, is still the longest peal rung in Wales, notwithstanding the South Wales claim regarding their 6,000.

We are still waiting for a number of prominent peal ringers to send in their totals for 1960. All ringers who rang 25 peals or over are invited to send totals of peals rung and conducted on tower- and handbells. The best record so far for 1960 is 107.

Miss Diana Lawless, a member of the Christmas week Northamptonshire touring band, rang in all eight peal attempts during the week as well as in an additional peal at Leicester Cathedral. She is to be congratulated on her prowess.

SYNTHETIC BELLS GRANTED TO KIDDERMINSTER

Permission to install apparatus for recorded bell music in the tower of St. John's Church, Kidderminster, was granted at the Worcester Consistory Court on January 4th by the Chancellor of the Diocese (Mr. P. T. S. Boydell).

Before the Chancellor gave his judgment he was addressed by Mr. W. B. Cartwright, on behalf of the Worcestershire and Districts Association of Change Ringers, who denied the statement, made at a previous hearing, that bellringers were not obtainable. There was plenty of material from which ringers could be obtained in any parish of this type,' he said, and all that was needed was a little sympathy and encouragement from the clergy and a bit of enthusiasm by the teacher.

After stating that the Worcestershire Association would have been only too pleased to give any advice and help if they had been asked, Mr. Cartwright expressed the opinion that it would have been better to have gone to Messrs. Taylor and Co. or Mears and Stainbank for advice instead of John Smith and Sons. He thought the question of obtaining a ring of bells for the church had not been properly investigated. Mr. Cartwright concluded by calling the Chancellor's attention to the views of the Central Council upon the installation of synthetic bells (1956 Handbook, page 17).

In his summing up the Chancellor said he had had a report from the Central Council for the Preservation of Churches and also from the Diocesan Advisory Board, deprecating this type of installation, viz.: the using of gramophone records in the way proposed, so that meant the Advisory Board, the Central Council for the Preservation of Churches and the Worcestershire Association of Change Ringers were all of the same mind. He, too, was of that opinion and he was not in favour of putting in such apparatus unless there were exceptional circumstances.

In connection with the present application the Chancellor said that he was not wholly satisfied that there was no alternative to the installation of this apparatus, but he thought that the parish could not really afford a ring of bells at the moment.

LENIENCY OF PREDECESSOR

He was prepared to say there were special circumstances in this case, such special circumstances arising out of the fact that his predecessor had been rather lenient in granting faculties of this kind (as there were several lots of synthetic bells in the diocese) and he (the Chancellor) felt that perhaps it was not fair on the present applicants that they should suffer from a change in policy, as change there would be now he was Chancellor.

The Chancellor also said that he rather thought if the present petitioners had known his views they might not have applied and they had only done so because other people had succeeded in the past and that they felt it was fairly certain they would get a faculty.

In granting the faculty he made it subject to certain conditions.

These were:

- (1) The faculty would be granted until further order, which meant it was not a final order and that there must be no nuisance, no music playing and no offence given.
- (2) There, in fact, was to be no nuisance.
- (3) They were to play only records of the size suitable to the area and there was to be no playing of music, such as a recording of Messiah, which had happened in another place.
- (4) The petitioners should pay the Court costs.

The Chancellor made it quite clear that any future applications of this sort would not have much chance of success if they came before him, unless the circumstances were very special.

This letter appeared in 'The Wolverhampton Star,' signed by 'Some shoppers who stopped to listen': 'May we, through your paper, thank the St. Peter's Church, Wolverhampton, bellringers for their lovely ringing on New Year's Eve.'

PERSONALITIES OF THE EXERCISE - 3

MR. LEONARD STILWELL, Sussex Association.

There must be very few ringers who have the resources for supplying information about ringers, past and present, as Mr. Leonard Stilwell, of Worthing, Sussex. He has all copies of 'The Bell News' and 'The Ringing World' from 1870 to date. These facilities are available to the Central Council, for he is able to spend much time on biography work and hunting up tower records. He is always very willing to supply details of peals rung by any individual, and takes great pains to get their records correct.

Leonard was born at Pulborough, Sussex, in 1890, and learnt to ring there in 1903. His first peal was Grandsire Triples on October 4th, 1904. He was educated at Pulborough Church School, and later at Horsham Grammar School (now Collyer's), and is very proud to have conducted the first peal rung by a band of all Old Collyerians. From 1906 to 1939, he was with a firm of corn merchants at Windsor, and one of his early friends was Mr. Bill Welling, of Old Windsor. In 1909 he joined the band of Windsor Parish Church, and rang peals with Bertram Prewett and Charles T. Coles before World War I. During this war he saw service with the R.A.F. in France.

He has been a prolific peal ringer, having scored 646 up to December 12th, 1960, of which he has conducted 65, and also rung in four non-conducted peals. During the 1930's he was a member of Alan R. Pink's band, and rang many new Surprise methods in the Windsor district; in fact he has rung 44 different peals of Surprise Major. One of the achievements of which he is most proud is calling a peal of Grandsire Triples at the Curfew Tower, Windsor Castle.

In 1939 he returned to Pulborough, and took over his brother's bakery business, from which he retired in 1949. After a few years in Horsham, he moved to Worthing, and now rings at Heene. During the last few years deafness has somewhat curtailed his peal ringing, but he still enjoys ringing the treble to a good peal. Good service ringing has always been his aim, and he disapproves of turning this into a practice.

He has taken part in many tours, and these have enabled him to ring in every county in England and Wales (except Radnor), as well as in Scotland and Ireland.

Leonard has a most friendly disposition, and is always willing to help anyone in any way he can. His many friends hope that he will continue in good health, and enjoy many more years in the belfries he has served so well. APACE.

SURPRISE PRACTICES IN SURREY

The first year of monthly meetings at Ash, Surrey, has been completed. Starting in a humble way with Cambridge, Beverley and Surfleet, the regular participants now take their ropes, with few or no qualms, for Canterbury, Durham, London, York, etc. Attendance has ranged from seven to eleven. This is disappointing because there must be many more ringers in the area who could either assist those learning or benefit from the practice available. However, the meetings will continue as they have been most enjoyable and helpful.

In response to many requests Surprise Major practices will commence in January, 1961. These will be held on the third Thursday of each month. The Provost of Guildford has readily given permission for the bells of Holy Trinity, Guildford, to be used for the practices. As at Ash all ringers interested will be welcome.

Bedfordshire Association

The A.G.M. of the Bedford District was held at Bedford on January 7th. Ringing took place at St. Peter's and Goldington in the afternoon and again at St. Peter's in the evening. Thirty-eight ringers were present, representing 20 parishes in Bedfordshire. Mr. J. H. Edwards was re-elected chairman and Mr. R. L. Piron secretary. The next meeting will be at Elstow, on February 4th.

Sheffield and District Society

There was a good attendance, especially of young ringers, at the meeting held at Sheffield on January 7th. A variety of methods was rung at St. Marie's in the afternoon and in the evening good use was made of the Cathedral 12, including Cinques, Maximus and a course of London on the back eight. After a good tea the company were entertained to handbell ringing. The next meeting will be at Killamarsh on February 4th.

LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION

Blackburn Branch

The annual meeting of the Blackburn Branch was held at Clitheroe on January 7th. Those who attended had the opportunity of ringing a variety of methods, ranging from Bob Minor to London Major, with the addition of rounds and call changes for the beginners.

Without any doubt, the highlight of the afternoon was the tea. The first course of piping hot soup was followed by an inexhaustible supply of hot sausage rolls and meat pies, with scones, cheese and biscuits, and a wide variety of cakes for those whose appetites were still not satisfied. There was only one complaint: that, when they provide a tea, the Clitheroe ringers set a standard so high that other ringers in the Branch feel that they could never compete with it.

The business meeting was presided over by the Ringing Master, Mr. Norman Smith, who, in his opening remarks, wished everyone a happy New Year and welcomed the visitors. Mr. V. J. C. Wood volunteered to arrange a peal to mark the retirement from the ministry of Canon Dodd, who has been Vicar of Immanuel, Oswaldtwistle, for many years, and a good friend to the Branch.

The secretary's report for 1960 was approved, and Mr. John Pilkington was re-elected to serve as Branch secretary and member of the Association Committee for a further period of two years. Statements of accounts for the Bell Maintenance Fund and the Charles W. Blakey Memorial Fund were accepted and it was proposed that Mr. L. J. Williams be asked to act as auditor for the Memorial Fund.

Six new members were elected, three being from St. Peter's, Burnley, two from Clitheroe, and one from Blackburn Cathedral. It was proposed to hold the 1962 annual meeting at Church Kirk. The meeting concluded with a very well deserved vote of thanks to the local ringers for making the arrangements and the tea, and to the Vicar and wardens for allowing the Branch to ring. J. P.

UNIVERSITIES ASSOCIATION IN LONDON

AFTER a provincial excursion, the Universities Association held their winter reunion and annual meeting in London on January 7th. A full programme of ringing was arranged, the main attraction being St. Clement Danes', and it was at this church that a service was held, conducted by the resident chaplain, the Rev. Tom Ryder.

The dinner was held at 'The Victoria,' Buckingham Palace Road, and the president (Mr. Paul L. Taylor) had more than 60 members to support him. Guests included the Masters of the Ancient Society of College Youths (Mr. Michael Moreton) and the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths (Mr. Dennis Beresford). The first president, Mr. E. H. Lewis, also attended.

Speech-making was limited to the toast of 'The Society,' proposed by Mr. Beresford, who, although a Midlander, had pleasure in welcoming the members to London.

'When the Society was founded 15 years ago,' said Mr. Beresford, 'people were not convinced of its usefulness and some even thought it was an excuse for not paying territorial subscriptions. I feel you have an important part to play in the work of the University Associations and the Exercise as a whole. The annual reunion and the summer tour are good opportunities for the exchange of views.'

The great work of the Society, contended Mr. Beresford, was not merely to teach members to ring but to teach them how to teach others. This missionary work, like Sunday service ringing, was one of the main ideas of their Society. He thought it was very important to have a basic knowledge of ringing before proceeding to higher methods. A poorly-struck peal in a higher method was worth much less than a well-struck one in a standard method like Bob Major.

The honorary secretary, Mr. Dermot Roaf, who replied, said during the past year the U.A. had rung five tower bell peals. This had been swollen by Reading University Guild publishing three peals under the name of the U.A. Two handbell peals had been rung, one being Plain Bob Minimus by two members of the Oxford University Society, because their Society would not accept it. He expressed his pleasure at such good support from members and welcomed the guests.

PROFIT OF THE YEAR

An adjournment was made to another room for the annual meeting where a number of controversial subjects provided entertainment for the company. The president kept everyone amused.

Financially the past year had been most successful, there being a profit on the year of £7 0s. 6d. and the Society having a balance in hand of £47 11s. 5d.

There was a formidable list of new members, viz.: Bristol, S. M. Young; Cambridge, R. Hough, M. C. Hughes, N. R. Waite; Durham, Sally Buchanan, Janet Cleave, J. Halliday, C. F. Hopkins, M. Marshall, P. Newing and C. J. Rees; Leeds, W. J. Couperthwaite, F. Fairbank, W. R. Reed, M. G. Swift, F. K. Williamson; Leicester, M. Moore; London, M. L. J. Jordan, J. A. Haas, M. Erik; Manchester, D. Baker, I. N. Goldthorpe, E. M. Poulter; Nottingham, D. Hopkins; Oxford, N. J. Martin, A. J. Thomson; Reading, E. J. Manley, P. Millhouse; Wales (Aberystwyth), G. Graney, R. Hedges, C. Lewis and P. Smith; (Swansea), D. Lloyd.

THIRD PARTY INSURANCE

Considerable discussion took place regarding the insurance of members on tour up to 50 or at the annual dinner of 100. The Ecclesiastical Insurance Company quoted £15 p.a. for personal insurance and £5 p.a. for third party (including damage to bells up to £500 at one church and £2,500 in all) at all the Society's activities. The meeting decided to limit the insurance to third party and to raise the money by an extra charge on the Society's functions.

Details of the 1961 tour, for which the organisers were Miss Cross and Mr. and Mrs. G. Dobbs, were presented. The charge would be 23s. per night or £9 for eight days. Headquarters would be at Tring and a guarantee had to be given of a minimum number of 35. Accommodation was available for up to 50.

The next annual dinner of the Society is to be at Manchester in response to an invitation from Manchester University Society. The decision to go there was carried by the president's vote.

Mr. Brian Threlfall took exception to undergraduates having cheaper tickets for the dinner than members. He proposed that all members should be treated alike.

Mr. G. Dodds pointed out that at the last dinner there were only five undergraduates present; this year there were 11.

Mr. R. F. B. Speed explained that the object was to get as many new members as possible at the dinner.

The proposal was defeated.

PEALS OF MINIMUS

Mr. R. F. B. Speed proposed that the Society should not accept peals of Minimus.

Mr. W. Moreton pointed out that peals of Minimus were accepted by the Central Council and their Society had agreed to abide by the rules and decisions of the Council. He thought it would be better to wait for the Central Council meeting.

Mr. Brian Threlfall thought the Council did not reach a decision but let it go by default.

Mr. Dodds expressed the view that peals of Minimus should be considered on their merits. Some were certainly more worthy than, say, Bob Doubles with four callings, he said. He thought it would be better for so called peal of Minimus to be published as performances and be accepted as peals or otherwise according to the decision of the Central Council.

It was decided not to include peals of Minimus in the Society's records, and to exclude the peal rung 'in hand' by two members of Oxford University Association.

A vote of thanks was passed to Mr. Brian Threlfall for organising the dinner.

'R.W.' January 16th, 1931.

Leading article draws attention to the fact that 1931 is the tercentenary of Fabian Siedman and suggests it be commemorated.

Recalls first peal of Grandsire Cinques, conducted by Benjamin Annable, rung at St. Bride's, Fleet Street, January 19th, 1725.

'London Youths' rang 6,200 Oxford Treble Bob Royal at Shoreditch, January 19th, 1767.

Cambridge Youths rang 6,600 Bob Maximus, January 21st, 1788.

The Ladies' Guild

The Beds and Northants Branch of the Ladies' Guild met at Finedon on December 31st, with Miss K. Rivett in charge of the ringing. About 20 ringers were present but only seven ladies attended the business meeting after tea.

Mrs. K. Spavins took the chair and the secretary, Miss K. Rivett, thanked the Vicar, Canon J. C. Gill, for taking the service and those who had arranged tea.

The annual meeting is due to be held in Bedfordshire on April 29th, Milton Ernest was proposed as the tower for this meeting.

A CHRISTMAS PEAL WEEK IN NORTHAMPTONSHIRE

For the third successive year the week after Christmas brought an unusual amount of peal activity for the Peterborough Diocesan Guild. The first peal was due to be attempted at Harlestone, but on arrival there, we were told that due to a defective tenor clapper ringing was temporarily restricted. However, the Rector very kindly contacted the Rector of Maidwell and obtained permission for us to ring there instead. Fortunately this year everyone had mechanised transport so we soon reached Maidwell and rang a good peal in the 'steady seven' on this pleasant Gillett six.

In the evening we were happy to welcome to Northants again, for the third year, the 'Servant of the Exercise No. 51' direct from Winchester, who, with one exception, set 'a pace' for the rest of the week. Our venue was Welford—a pleasant but stiffly-going ring not often pealed these days. We were a little dismayed in the belfry to see the sally of the fourth high up out of reach—the rope having broken and been knotted to the wheel! However, by unearthing a large box the tallest ringer present was just able to reach it and so the peal was rung with the fourth ringer seen only dimly up in the darkness of the tower! A binding Hastings stay did not help and credit must be given to Robin Wilson on his handling of this bell. An intrusion by some village children nearly brought disaster but apart from this all was plain sailing and a good peal was rung.

A GOOD PEAL IN A BEAUTIFUL BELFRY

The first peal on Thursday was due to be rung at Great Brington, but after rolling out six good extents of Cambridge on these beautifully-toned bells, perhaps we were a little too confident and the seventh extent came to grief through a miscalling after over 2½ hours' ringing. A little disappointed but not deterred we went on to Daventry for the evening peal. David Marshall, one of Pat Chapman's leading pupils, made a good job of calling this peal and ringing the tenor, and we were grateful to Pat for his generosity in standing as reserve to allow others to ring in this peal. The belfry at Daventry is surely one of the best kept in the country, and was gaily decorated for the season—complete with illuminated Christmas tree!

Friday was a successful, if uneventful, day with peals at Weedon and Raunds, whilst Saturday morning was reserved for Finedon. These magnificent Gillett and Johnston bells have rather a reputation for poor going after prolonged ringing, but after a cautious start the ringing proceeded at a brisk but easy pace to bring round the peal within three hours! Indeed the 'tenor king' expressed a preference for this tenor rather than Raunds' he had rung the previous night. (Surely the first person to do so!) Credit and thanks for his part in this achievement must be given to the local tower keeper, Charlie Richardson, who was up early to make a very thorough job of greasing and oiling the bells for us.

So we bade farewell to our 'stamp collector from the south' and eventually completed our Christmas peal ringing with a peal on the pretty five at Twywell (where, incidentally, the fourth is the heaviest bell in the tower!).

For the success of this week thanks are due to all who helped out with transport to some of the more remote towers in the county, and especially to all clergy and tower captains who welcomed us to their towers.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

LEARNERS AND THEIR PROGRESS

Dear Sir.—A matter of general importance was raised in recent correspondence from Dennis C. Morgan ('R.W.' January 6th). Whilst I have replied to his comments as far as one Association is concerned, I think there may be other ringers who feel they are in similar difficulties. Accepting that these such people are keen and eager to make progress with their ringing, it is a wrong notion to expect conductors, instructors or even the more advanced ringers to visit their tower all the time. I will admit, however, that the future of ringing lies with the experienced ringer in so far that he must make known to the learner all the 'facts of life' in respect to ringing. One medium is through Association ringing meetings. On the other hand, the vast majority of experienced ringers have in their younger days travelled miles and miles to other towers to ring. I know I have. And I also know that had my wife, a past president of the Ladies' Guild, not ventured around to other towers she would not have passed the Plain Bob and Grandsire stage, although she had an excellent instructor.

So, as I see it, the plea to our learner ringers is to visit other towers as much as possible at practices and meetings and so become competent at their own expense and not always at the expense of others. Also, a concluding word of advice, do not give up through a disappointment or failure.—Yours faithfully,

T. J. LOCK.

Honorary Secretary,
Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild.

CENTRAL PRACTICE TOWER ADVOCATED

Dear Sir.—It would be an impertinence to comment in detail on Mr. Dennis C. Morgan's letter, regarding help he desires from the Middlesex Association, since I know nothing of the circumstances of which he writes.

I do feel, however, he may be expressing an all too common attitude of mind adopted by ringers from somewhat backward towers who feel themselves neglected by more experienced ringers.

Ringing is happily on a mainly voluntary basis and so-called experts are not under some form of direction, however desirable such direction might appear to be. Consequently, therefore, as Mohammed is not likely to go to the mountain, hopes are better placed in the mountain going to Mohammed.

In short, the ideal situation is that in every district of say ten miles by ten miles there should be at least one tower where a good weekly practice is held. The persons running such a practice should do everything possible to cater for ringers of all sorts—rounds to advanced methods. There is far more future in this sort of thing than for an individual expert to go alone to a backward tower.

Transport is no longer an insurmountable problem and I know from experience that enthusiastic learners anxious to make progress, whether in simple methods or some further step towards advanced ringing, will undertake a journey most faithfully week by week in order to make personal progress. That which they learn in a tower where more experience is available must surely help them when they attend their own practice night at some other time of the week.

Do not, therefore, stay at home and have a good weep because no one comes along to help you, but rather bestir yourself and go to a tower where you can get some practice.—Yours truly,

P. A. CORBY.

Sevenoaks, Kent.

CHRISTMAS DAY BROADCAST

Dear Sir.—As a humble bellringer who has never yet rung on 10 bells or been in a tower where there are 12 bells I was disappointed with the Christmas morning broadcast. Some of the trouble, I feel, was caused because the recording was not made at the best place.

I hope that in future years we may hear some good Minor ringing or some well struck Doubles from a village belfry. After all we are celebrating Our Lord's birthday—born in a stable with a manger for a bed.—Yours sincerely,

J. WARD.

Coddington, Ledbury.

CENTRAL COUNCIL RINGING FILM WANTED

Dear Sir.—Most of us at some time feel that if only we could communicate in a lecture to the local youth club and other bodies some of the interest and fascination of ringing new members would readily come forward.

Could not the Central Council sponsor and finance a short film (say 20 minutes) to give some idea of the weight and size of bells, methods of handling and structure of change ringing? (Think what Disney would make of the 'blue line' unfolding itself across the screen!) Surely there is in the Exercise a ringer who is also an amateur cine photographer, who could make such a film cheaply, using the resources of his own cine club.

The Central Council could recoup its outlay by loaning copies of the film for showing to various societies and groups on the same basis as many local authorities hire out other types of educational films.

If the members of the church won't climb the spiral staircase to discover our art, we must take some representation of that art to them.—Yours faithfully,

H. REYNOLDS.

LEEDS BELLS—A 200th ANNIVERSARY

Dear Sir.—I was interested to see that the College Youths' band which rang the peal at Leeds, Kent, gave the weight of the tenor as 18½ cwt.

When we had completed our peal the visitor in the band asked me the weight of the tenor, to which I replied, 'I expect she would be glad to be about 15 or 16 cwt., but we always call it 20 cwt. in E. because everyone always does.'

Mr. Dove follows the tradition and gives the weight as 20 cwt., so I wonder where the College Youths' band got the 18½ cwt. from or whether it was just a guess.

The bells in this historic tower are still in a wooden frame on plain bearings. They go well in wet weather but at other times some of them slip wheel and play other tricks. The circle is excellent, especially for such short draught of rope, and somewhat surprisingly so in a very large tower. Often such conditions with an old frame seem to produce an overlarge circle with ropes coming down in all sorts of odd places. The notes of some of the bells, to put it kindly, are a bit wild, but one has the feeling they could be tuned into quite a reasonable ring.

1961 is an historic year for Leeds as the 200th anniversary of the ringing of the extent of Bob Major by James Barham's band of fourteen men occurs on April 7th and 8th. It is hoped that it will be possible to arrange a commemoration peal, but there is no intention of emulating Mr. Barham or his worthy twentieth century would-be successors.—Yours truly,

P. A. CORBY.

Sevenoaks, Kent.

QUARTER PEALS OF 10,080 CHANGES

Dear Sir.—Regarding the 'Pot-pourri from Church Bells,' by Mr. Claude Rush ('R.W.' January 6th), his article includes a Quarter Peal of 10,080 changes rung at Bromley, Kent, in 1775. A similar report is to be found in the belfry of St. Thomas' Church, Stourbridge, Worcs. 'On Monday, November 8th, 1773. Was rung in this tower a complete quarter peal of Bob Majors Containing 10,080 changes in 6 hours and 20 minutes by the following persons:—Jam's Bishop treble, Edward Pardoe 2nd, Ino. Milward 3rd, Ino. Gadd 4th, Ino. Pardoe 5th, Ino. Watkins 6th, Samuel Green 7th called, Jam's Dovey tenor.'

Berrow's Worcester Journal of November 25th, 1773, gives a full description of the performance:—

'On Monday, the 8th instant was rung at Stourbridge, in this County, in six hours and twenty minutes, a complete Quarter peal of Bob Majors, being 10,080 changes, by eight young men of that Town, upon eight of the most musical and best hung Bells within a Hundred Miles of the Place; and being by some thousands more than ever were rung within the same distance. So great was the Pleasure and astonishment that many were induced to express their Approbation, who before had a Dislike to music of that kind! —Yours sincerely,

MARTIN D. FELLOWS.

Stourbridge, Worcs.

THIRD PARTY RISKS

Dear Sir.—The peal at Beckenham on December 31st might have failed because of that bane of all peal ringers, 'the intruder' to the belfry. After an hour's ringing the black gowned verger appeared in the doorway, stood there for a minute or so while the ringer of the sixth vainly tried to 'shoo' him out. He then broke through the circle of ropes and strode across the belfry to the ringer of the ninth, who happened to be conducting the peal, and told him that 'he was going home now and proposed to lock the church up because it was New Year's Eve and there might be irresponsible revellers about who might get up to mischief if the church were open and he hoped we could let ourselves out.' Had quite a conversation before he left and it is a tribute to the band, which included two first peelers, that the ringing proceeded quite smoothly throughout the interruption.

Similar interruptions have not always been so fortunate in their result. The incident was reminiscent of one which took place 15 years ago on Armistice Day—Sunday, November 11th, 1945—at St. Peter's, Wotton, Liverpool. A band, including the late George R. Newton and the late J. C. E. Simpson, who was conducting, was in the last course of a peal of Superlative when the Vicar came into the belfry, stood in the doorway for a moment and exclaimed, 'Ha! Mr. Newton.' He then strode across the tower just to tell George 'It's all right for you to come here for your monthly meeting next Saturday,' and then disappeared downstairs leaving behind some very ragged ringing which was only 'sorted out' just in time.—Yours sincerely,

P. W. CAVE.

METHODS OR VARIATIONS

Dear Sir.—Perhaps Mr. Amos would be good enough to let the Exercise know the correct names for Cambridge and Bristol Surprise Major when they are rung with 6th's place bobs. Or are they only call changes?—Yours sincerely,

LETTERS—Continued

SOME THEORETICAL CONSIDERATIONS

Dear Sir,—With regard to Mr. Amos' letter on page 12, regarding 'methods v. variations,' I think there are plenty of words which could well be used to describe various ways of producing new methods from old ones. In Roget's 'Thesaurus,' we come across some very interesting words, of which the following are a selection: alteration, mutation, modification, modulation, etc., etc.,

I think that a good word to use for methods produced by stoking 'places wrong' into the dodging of a 'places right' method would be: relation, this term could also be applied to such methods as New Cambridge, produced by moving 12 places from mid-section to cross-section. Thus Biddenden is a relation to Yorkshire. New Cambridge a relation to Cambridge. Childwall to St. Clement's. Thelwall to Double Oxford, etc., as relations one to another are all members of a family. Where these places wrong are used to a great degree, perhaps the term mutilation would be more applicable.

We speak of Double Bob being the 2nds place variation of Reverse Bob, yet both are individual plain course methods in their own right. Similarly, Hereward is the variation of Double Oxford, produced by having a plain hunt half-lead, i.e., 1sts instead of 7ths at H.L., this again is a method in its own right.

If a band rings a peal of an 8ths place L.E. method using 4ths place bobs, when 6ths place bobs are usual, they cannot call it any new name. But if we ring Plain Bob Doubles using all sorts of funny bobs and singles we can use nine different names!

As a lead of Yorkshire Major contains 32 changes, and Biddenden has only six rows different from Yorkshire (in each lead) we can call this an 18 per cent difference from the parent method (roughly). However, April Day is P.B. with Grandsire single for Bob, and has four rows differently produced at the lead end out of 20 (i.e., two leads), this being a 20 per cent difference from the original, but with the further complication that any given bell is now in a different position of its 'blue line' while in Biddenden you don't swap lines when the work in 56 comes along although two places wrong are made and the dodge is done the other way round.

I conclude by saying that it seems, from theoretical considerations only, that it is more difficult to ring April Day as Plain Bob with Grandsire Single, than to ring Biddenden as Yorkshire with places in 56 wrong.

I should like to hear other people's views on the matter.—Yours, etc.,

'FARMER.'

Manchester.

P.S.—Roget has many more really 'cracking' words which might well be used to describe some methods!—'F.'

VALIDITY NOT QUESTIONED

Dear Sir,—Had Mr. Amos read the correspondence in 'The Ringing World' regarding Doubles sufficiently carefully, he would have observed that no one has questioned the validity of April Day, Northrepps, etc., as methods. What has been debated is whether they are different methods.

It is perhaps fair to draw an analogy with compositions, of which many are produced bearing marked similarities to those already rung. Although subsequent versions are perfectly legitimate compositions, they are quite properly submitted as variations.

I hope Mr. Amos will continue to derive pleasure from ringing Northrepps and Old Doubles, as I have myself, but to continue arguing whether they are separate methods or merely variations on a theme seems to me quite futile.—Yours sincerely, ANTONY BROOKS.

METHODS OR VARIATIONS

Dear Sir.—I'm sure that, to many of our younger ringers, the correspondence on 'Methods or Variations' is getting a little involved, and it is to them that I am writing to try and clear the 'fog of battle.'

The Central Council exists to give guidance to the ringing fraternity in general, and is not a dictatorship. In its Decisions it says that a method must start and end in rounds, and have the same number of leads as working bells.

53412 If we consider the 2nd in the 35142 first lead of Plain Bob Doubles,
31524 it is seen that it strikes two 13254 blows in 5ths, two in 4ths and 13524 two in 3rds. in the order
31254 5. 5. 4. 3. 4, 3.

If the order is altered to 54312
5. 5. 4. 4. 3. 3. the method is changed to Reverse Canterbury. 45132

If the Reverse Canterbury 41253 order is now altered so that 41253
54312 an extra blow in 5ths is struck
45132 and one less in 4ths, produc-
41532 ing 5. 5. 5. 4. 3, 3, the method
44523 produced is Place Bob.

If St. Simon's is compared 41253
41235 with St. Nicholas' and Westminster, similar differences apply, then, if St.
Simon's front work is varied to give St.
Martin's and St. Osmund's, and then these variations are applied to St. Nicholas' and Westminster, four more methods are produced.

By these slight variations in the structure of Plain Bob and St. Simon's, new methods are produced with their own coursing order, affected only by calls, with differing work for each Plain Course.

The same type of variations can be applied to any method to produce new methods with different work to the Plain Course. A comparison of Cambridge with New Cambridge gives one example. This cannot be applied to Minor as a repetition of changes will occur, but it exists in Major, Royal and Maximus form.

Now the question, 'When is a variation a new method?' To me, and I have rung many peals of Doubles, it is when the variation produces a different Plain Course to the original, and I think that is generally accepted.

The acid test seems to be, then, not as Mr.
Amos states, can an extent of 120 changes be produced, but can a Plain Course differing from any other method be rung. A Bob or Single, whichever type may be used, exists to produce an extent of a method. It has no effect on the structure of the method beyond altering the coursing order, and this alteration of coursing order does not constitute a new method.—Yours sincerely,

V. GRIFFIN.

ST. MARY'S, BEAMINSTER

Dear Sir.—I would like to thank Major Samson for his letter (p. 835) and interest shown in Beaminster's ring of bells. I must make it clear now that it is not a 'maiden' ring as about half of the eight were 'touched' by the tuner's chisel, presumably in 1887.

As it is the purpose of a bell to be heard, it is only fitting that it should speak with the best voice possible, and why should not musical ears be considered? After all it is the tune and not the tonal characteristics which will be altered. I am assured by the bell founders of this, and the bells will still be readily recognised as the Beaminster ring.

Major Samson admits the bells would sound better but insists that they should be left alone! With regard to the one-eighth turning would he rather the bells were continued to be rung in their present position and run the risk of a cracked bell?—Yours faithfully,

JOSEPH T. BARRETT.

A PLEA FOR DOUBLES RINGING

Dear Sir,—Although I cannot agree with much of the substance of Mr. Percy Amos' letter in 'The Ringing World,' I do feel that part of what he says is worthy of support and careful consideration. I have always been of the opinion that Doubles ringing must be viewed in an entirely different light from ringing on the higher numbers. Our art had its beginning on five bells, and many of the methods which were practised in those early days have survived more or less intact in districts where there are considerable numbers of five-bell towers.

It is all very well for method specialists to point out that there are plenty of very interesting methods and principles which comply with theories that have been evolved for the higher numbers, but it cannot be expected that there will be very many country five-bell bands who will aspire to Smithfield, Undershaft, etc.—and why should they bother? Some of these methods would make many of our most proficient eight-bell ringers think hard!

In the case of some five-bell towers, there are eight-bell towers nearby to which a beginner will be attracted and may eventually become attached, but this is not always so, and there are hundreds of ringers who will never consider themselves other than Doubles ringers. This applies particularly to an area like this diocese, where approximately 50 per cent of the rings are of five bells, and consequently Doubles ringers constitute a large proportion of our Guild membership. Most of these ringers would never agree to any drastic change in the traditional attitude to five-bell methods, and I hope that Central Council members who, though 8-, 10- and 12-bell ringers themselves, represent Guilds and Associations whose members include five-bell ringers, will safeguard their interests and respect their views.

There can be few who would agree with one very prominent member of the Exercise who maintains that there has never been, and can never be, a true peal of Doubles rung because there are 42 repetitions of all the changes. I'm afraid there are far too many who are willing to accept the views of the 8-, 10- and 12-bell ringers who occasionally condescend to ring on five bells and then think they are experts. Perhaps they are experts in the modern view, but Doubles ringing is not a modern art.—Yours sincerely,

PATRICK I. CHAPMAN.

Re-opening of Redcliffe Church Bells.—The issue of January 11th, 1873, refers to the adding of two trebles to the ten, the cost being between £200 and £300. Redcliffe now possesses one of the finest peals of bells out of the metropolis and in the County of Gloucester; there are only two other churches favoured with a peal of 12—Painswick and Cirencester. The special service to commemorate the adding of the two bells was on December 31st, 1872.

St. Nicholas', Brighton.—May 24th, 1779—11.088 Bob Major. 6 hours 50 minutes.

St. John's, Cleator Moor, Cumberland.—New ring of six in a new church opened Sunday, December 15th, 1872, by ringers from St. Michael's, Workington ('pulley-hawley men'). We are sorry that these new bells were not opened by change-ringers, so as to incite the new ringers to study the noble art thoroughly—an art very little understood and appreciated in Cumberland.

Westham, Sussex.—On New Year's Eve 31 December 1872) our ringers met for their usual two-hours' practice after which they adjourned to the National School where the vicar had prepared some substantial refreshment. They afterwards resumed ringing till only five minutes remained of the old year when the bells were set and the vicar, in a short prayer, asked God's blessing for the coming year: this was followed by the Lord's Prayer in which all present heartily joined.

Half-muffled Peal at Waterford, Ireland.—Monday, January 5th, 1873, at Waterford Cathedral, as a tribute to the late J. Lock, Esq., County Inspector of the Royal Irish Constabulary. Rounds were followed by whole pull and stand, corresponding with deceased's age. This is probably the first muffled peal ever rung in Ireland.

Carillon Machine at Worcester Cathedral.—Installation completed Saturday, December 1st, 1872. Constructed and installed by Gillett and Bland, Croydon. It is due to Messrs. Gillett and Bland to state that they were the first to introduce Carillons into this country. The carillon machine now in our Cathedral is the second manufactured by the firm upon the new principle... they are also making clock chimes and carillons for Bradford Town Hall at a cost of £4,500 without any fixings.

Payment to Permanent Ringers Essential.—A letter from Rev. H. T. Ellacombe, Clyst St. George, Devon, begins: 'It is quite a mistake to suppose that a regular attendance of ringers for all the required services of the church can be maintained without a well-regulated payment... Why are they not paid as well as the organist and other church officials?... In my earliest edition of "Belfries and Ringers" published 25 years ago I pointed out the advisability of having an endowment fund for the payment of ringers... I speak of ringers proper (not bell-haulers) for all the services of the church, including chiming... A notion seems to be current about that many are endeavouring to establish voluntary bands of ringers without pay or reward. What I maintain is, if such were they, they are playing an unjust game and building on a sandy foundation... Another correspondent, signing himself "Round at Hand," includes, "I have noticed how differently those who ring gratis are treated to those who sing gratis."

St. John's, Manchester.—On Sunday, January 1st, 1873, the bells of the above church were opened having undergone thorough repair by Messrs. Warner, of London (foreman Mr. Boswell).

St. Giles', Cripplegate.—Monday, January 1st, 1873, the Cripplegate Society of Ringers held their annual dinner at The Golden Lion, Bre Street. The entertainment included tunes on a splendid peal of handbells (upwards of 60) lent by Mr. W. Allen.

Wargrave, Berks.—A Learner and Lover of the Beautiful Science of Change-ringing writes: 'Monstrous, indeed, have been the use and desecration of the most valuable pieces of Church furniture... our belfries and bell-ringers have been almost un-cared for, and the natural result has been that thousands of pounds worth of precious metal have been... devoted at times to commemorate horse-races, boat-races and, in days of yore, even bull-fights.' He was writing expressing his pleasure at being present at the Wargrave Annual Bell-ringers' Supper at the Vicarage on New Year's Day, 1873.

Hundon, Suffolk.—This ring of bells (tenor 10 cwt., F.) has been rehung by Mr. F. Green, church bellhanger, of Tuddenham, Suffolk. (? Which Tuddenham.—C. R.)

Worth, Sussex.—Reference to 720 Minor, rung August 28th, 1845, includes: 'Note.—John Alcorn, Clerk and Sexton, was present at the casing at Mr. C. Oliver's, near Old Bethnal Green Church, on 2nd October, 1844, and was also present at the weighing of the bells at the bottom of the tower shortly before Xmas. The expenses of making the frame and the wheels, recasting the bells, and putting the whole up, cost £135, and the timber found by the parish.'

St. Peter, Old Windsor.—Reference to the dedication of a new (sixth) bell, presumably in 1872, the following appears: 'The ringers of this parish are a remarkably well-conducted set of young men and are always invited to join with the men of the Church choir in a supper at the Vicarage on St. Peter's Day, and during the Christmas Season.'

Great St. Mary's, Cambridge.—After the funeral of Professor Sedgwick on February 1st, 1873, touches of Grandsire' Caters were rung, in all about 4,000 changes; the bells fully muffled for the first half and half-muffled for the rest.

'Disgraceful Treatment of Ringers at Hingham, Norfolk.'—In the issue of February 22nd, 1873, under this heading, the paper says: 'We are grieved to hear that a party of ringers from Norwich lately visited Hingham in the hope of being able to ring the Church bells, but that the ringers of the place mobbed and hooted them from one end of the town to the other and would not let them ring: which is doubtful if they could have done as the bells are in such very bad condition.'

St. Mary, Leaton, Shrewsbury.—New ring of five opened Friday, February 7th, 1873.

'What Ringing was and Ringers were in London in 1726.'—A correspondent, J. R. Haworth, quoting from a weekly, Old and New London, writes of the bells of St. Bride's, Fleet Street: 'In 1710 ten bells were cast for this church by Abraham Rudhall of Gloucester and, on 11 January 1717, it is reported that the first complete peal of 5,040 Grandsire Caters ever rung was effected by the London Scholars. In 1718 two treble bells were added, and on 9 January 1724 the first peal ever completed in this Kingdom upon 12 bells was rung by the College Youths, and in 1726 the first peal of Bob Maximus, one of the ringers being Mr. Francis (afterwards Admiral) Geary. It is reported by the ancient ringers, says our trustworthy authority, that everyone who rang in the last-mentioned peal left the church in his own carriage. Such was the dignity of the "Campanarium" art in those days. When St. Bride's bells were first put up, Fleet Street used to be thronged with carriages full of gentry who had come far and near to hear the pleasant music float aloft.'

Re-opening of Church Bells at Lezant, Cornwall.—Thursday, February 20th, 1873. The church and tower having been thoroughly restored and two of the bells, the tenor and the fifth, which were cracked, having been recast, have been rehung with the other four by the Messrs. Hooper, sons of the late well known Mr. Hooper, of Woodbury, Devon. The original ring was cast in the 18th century by Messrs. Pennington, whose foundry was in the adjoining parish of Stoke Climsland.

'A Friendly Word to Ringers.—Now that we are in the season of Lent, we would remind our ringing friends that, as Churchmen (which they all, of course, profess to be) they would be acting in unison with the intention of the Church, if they give up all thoughts of ringing for mere practice and amusement (excepting the usual ringings and chimings for Church services) until Easter Day: they then will all the more enjoy and appreciate a joyous peal on the morning of the Resurrection of our Saviour.'

St. John the Baptist, Harrietsham, Kent.—December 8th, 1746.—10,080 changes 'of that admired Peal called Bob Major Double' in 7 hours...

Cheriton Bishop, Devon.—The setting of the bells to rights was entrusted to Mr. Thos. Hooper of Woodbury. He died before the re-opening—February 22nd, 1873.

Burnsall, Yorks.—A report appears of 1,440 of Oxford and Kent T.B. before Sunday evening service, March 2nd, 1873. At the end the Editor adds a note congratulating the ringers on their progress and successful trial of skill, but we think they might have deferred their experiment to a week-day. We would ask if they joined in Divine Worship after their fifty-minutes' excitement.'

With one exception the band that rang a peal of Spliced Surprise Major at Drighlington, Yorks, on December 31st were members of Bradford Cathedral Sunday service band.

Regarding London ringing practices those at St. Olave's, Hart Street, only occur during London University term time. 'This means,' writes Derek E. Sibson, 'that there is no ringing for about three weeks over Christmas and Easter, and none from the beginning of July until the beginning of October.'

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD LOOKS BACK 80 YEARS

RINGERS in possession of an Oxford Diocesan Guild annual report will read on the title page 'Established 17th January, 1881,' which means that this week the Guild celebrates its eightieth birthday, and its members, quite rightly, decided that this important milestone should not pass unheeded. Consequently steps are being taken to recognise this anniversary, and as a result of a recent meeting of the officers and the secretaries of the Guild's fourteen branches, a general appeal was made to the towers to ring, wherever possible, a peal this week in commemoration of the Guild's foundation.

The East Berks and South Bucks Branch of the Guild always recalls with pride the fact that it was the 'baby' which eventually blossomed into manhood as the Oxford Diocesan Guild with a membership in the region of 2,000.

When in the 1870's great efforts were being made to bring order into ringing affairs, and to establish societies pledged to maintain a proper discipline in our belfries and to cultivate the art of change ringing, there were centres of interest in change ringing in the Diocese (which comprises the counties of Berkshire, Buckinghamshire and Oxfordshire), but most of the Diocese was barren. Although possession several excellent rings of bells change ringing was almost non-existent. Buckinghamshire was a most backward county, but we do read of performances of Grandsire Doubles and Plain Bob Minor at Farnham Royal, near Slough, mainly due to the efforts of Reuben Flaxman and the now famous J. J. (Joe) Parker, composer of the well known '12-Part.' Berkshire had two active centres, Appleton and Maidenhead.

The two famous ringing families of White and Holfield were already making news, and with assistance from friends in Oxford, these Appleton men were ringing peals of Grandsire and Stedman Triples and Caters, and Kent T.B. Major. The Boyne Hill (Maidenhead) company was practising change-ringing and it wasn't long before, under the conductorship of W. A. (Bill) Garraway, peals were being recorded. Reading did not appear in the news at this time, but shortly afterwards some well known Reading stalwarts, such as W. Newell, R. Swain, T. Newman and J. M. Routh, began to appear in peal reports.

Only in Oxford was there any activity in Oxfordshire, where many of the standard methods were being rung and frequent 'date' touches performed. The University Society also had some promising young men who were later to make their mark in the Exercise, H. A. Cockey, C. D. P. Davies, W. S. Willett and G. F. Coleridge. The Rev. F. E. Robinson was already prominent, and the Oxford ringers often went to Drayton to ring peals with him on his own bells.

By now change ringing had been started at Slough, and the brothers W. H. and A. C. Fussell began to appear in print. This remote corner of the Diocese found it more profitable for progress to join the old West Middlesex Association, and, helped by George Newson and other well known 'Cumberlands,' peals soon began to be achieved. When, however, the Oxford Guild came into being in 1881, the Slough ringers transferred their allegiance to their own territorial Guild.

THE OXFORD GUILD'S FORERUNNER

Such was the position when early in 1879 an important event occurred. In March an association had just been formed known as 'The Society of Change Ringers for East Berks and South Bucks,' with Maidenhead as the centre of activities. It was 'open to all parishes in a large surrounding district for the encouragement of change ringing and promotion of order and reverence in belfries.' The Vicar of Boyne Hill (Rev. A. H. Drummond) was president, and a set of rules was drawn up and officers appointed.

On Easter Monday, April 14th, 1879, the first quarterly meeting was held at Boyne Hill, when ringers from Maidenhead, Slough, Farnham Royal, etc., attended. The first annual meeting took place on July 26th, 1879, with the usual routine. The Rev. F. E. Robinson gave instruction in bellringing (College of Campanology, please note!) and the Rev. A. H. Drummond preached about ringing.

A fortnight previously the 'Slough Branch of the West Middlesex Association' rang several 120's of Grandsire Doubles at Egham—they had then been change ringers for three years. They were blossoming out and in August and January repeated these performances at Old Windsor and Wraybury. Meantime, J. J. Parker was composing 'complex' peals of Bob Minor and his Farnham Royal band was ringing them.

FORMATION OF A DIOCESAN GUILD

The first step towards the formation of the Oxford Diocesan Guild was a public meeting in Reading on November 13th, 1880. The programme included 'Change ringing at St. Mary's... by an experienced band from Drayton and Appleton, under Rev. F. E. Robinson as conductor.' One of the first objects was 'to improve the class of ringers in the Diocese.' About seventy sat down to tea, and 'the excellence of the ringing afforded a treat to the ringers of the neighbourhood, such as they have seldom, if ever, enjoyed before.' The meeting unanimously decided to form a Guild, and a representative committee was formed to implement the decision.

THE GUILD'S BIRTH

On January 17th, 1881, a general meeting was held in Oxford—with no ringing! (The College authorities would not oblige.) The Archdeacon of Berkshire presided, and a large number of clergy attended. A very lively meeting ensued with the Archdeacon of Buckinghamshire pressing for the inclusion of 'round-ringers, whilst a majority considered that 'the art of change ringing was the only sure way of raising the tone of ringers.' Others felt that those whom it was desirable to influence would be excluded; so it was ultimately decided 'to admit the round-ringer as a probationer, and on payment of one shilling annually to grant him all the privileges enjoyed by a change ringing member.' The Rev. Dolben Paul was the first secretary and the Rev. F. E. Robinson first Master. The meeting was anxious to encourage the formation of local branches.

FIRST ANNUAL FESTIVAL

A very successful gathering was the first festival held at Reading on Wednesday, July 20th, 1881. The day began with a service at St. Mary's at 11.30 a.m., when the Dean of York preached on the text 'Their sound is gone out into all lands.' He said that we had shaken ourselves free of the superstitious use of bells, and were reclaiming them from a merely scientific use, which had been degrading them. He rejoiced to see a Guild formed which would join together the scientific and religious uses of church bells. About 150 clergy and ringers sat at the dinner. Ringers came from Reading, Wokingham, Oxford, Wantage, Wargrave, Burnham, Maidenhead, Farnham Royal, Hurst, Sonning, Sandhurst and Caversham. Thus was the Oxford Diocesan Guild created on very solid foundations, and it can justly be proud of its great contributions to ringing.

SOME PERSONALITIES

The Guild has been served most faithfully by its chief officers. In its 80 years of existence it has had only four Masters, six secretaries and four treasurers. The Masters have been Rev. F. E. Robinson (1881-1910), Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn (1910-1933), Canon G. F. Coleridge (1933-1946) and Rev. C. E. Wigg (1946-). Mr. Robinson was the first ringer ever to ring 1,000 peals. Mr. Jenkyn was the first Central Council librarian (1913-1933) and won the M.C. for gallantry in World War I. Canon Coleridge was the third president of the Central Council (1921-1930) and a 'great' ringer in both build and performances as a 'back-end' ringer. He was so big, in fact, that when the C.C. met at Warwick no bed could be found big enough for him! Among the Guild secretaries was another famous heavy-bell ringer, R. T. Hibbert (1917-45), followed by his son, W. Hibbert (1945-1956) and Miss Marie Cross. The Guild's treasurers have also distinguished themselves by long service, viz., Rev. Dolben Paul (1881-1891), Rev. R. H. Hart-Davis (1891-1923), A. J. Wright (1923-36) and A. D. Barker (1936-). The Guild has also provided a second president of the C.C., Mr. F. Sharpe, the Guild's Deputy Master.

Among the notabilities one must mention J. J. Parker, the famous composer; J. W. Washbrook, whose feats have been unsurpassed; Walter Judge, conductor of the record peal of Stedman Cinques; George Holfield, senior and junior, of Appleton, composer and conductor, respectively, of the record peal of Grandsire Caters; 'Dick' White and his son Francis, whose bellhanging craftsmanship unsurpassed—to say nothing of Dick's skill as a long length heavy-bell ringer; John Evans of Hughenden, who conducted many of the Guild's early Surprise peals; William H. Fussell, a 1,000-pealer and the only ringer to score a peal in every county in England and Wales, organiser of the 1934 ringing tour of Australia and New Zealand; and one of the Guild's original members, Mr. Frank V. H. Sinkins, aged 96 this month, whose father raised the famous 'Mr. Sinkins' pink when he was Master of Slough Workhouse, and named it after his wife, Frank's mother. This flower, incidentally, is now incorporated in the Slough borough coat-of-arms.

FINANCIAL AID

The Oxford Guild has always been generous with its funds. When 'The Ringing World' was in financial straits, and since, the Guild made it some very general grants in the hope that other Associations would follow its examples, but, alas! there was no response.

In 1924, the Guild instituted a Restoration Fund, and since then no less than £1,270 has been given away in grants to towers having their bells put in order or augmented.

We have no room to list the Guild's magnificent ringing performances, but we congratulate it on its worthy past, wish it a happy 80th birthday year and hope that it will have many successes in its commemorative peal attempts, and go on to even greater achievements before it reaches its centenary.

GRESLEY'S CHRISTMAS OUTING TO NEEDWOOD FOREST

At the suggestion of the Vicar, who was unfortunately too ill to accompany them, Gresley ringers, joined by three friends from Derby and Duffield, visited four towers in the upland stretch of Staffordshire known as Needwood Forest, in brilliant wintry sunshine on the extra Christmas Bank Holiday.

The recently rebung, light five (7 cwt.) at Rangemore came first. These bells are pretty and go well, but are rather odd-shaped. They are housed in a modern spire. The Riel shook up what was left of the ringers' Christmas dinner by taking some switchbacks at 75 m.p.h., en route for Yoxall! Mr. Wright and his son, Arthur, and daughter-in-law Pamela, met us here, and joined in the ringing on this pleasant old six, which seem heavier than 13 cwt.

The way led past the magnificent Hoar Cross Church, 'the Cathedral of the Forest,' but our next call was on the heavy 5 (18 cwt.) in the pretty village of Abbots Bromley. Thanks to the preparation of Mr. Handley, who ran with us, these bells went better than we had been led to expect, and Gresley's fifteen-year-old tenor king, David Eames, qualified for a chocolate medal by turning in the tenor!

The huge watery expanse of the Blyth Reservoir was crossed in the sunset on the way to the last tower, Blithfield, set in a park, with a prettily decorated church, and a nice little six (9 cwt.). Frosty moonlight lit our way via Rugeley to a welcome high tower at Alrewas. The day was pleasantly rounded off by a visit to a comedy film show in Burton.

D. P. J.

The footnote to the peal at Winchester (page 2) should read '625th tower for a peal by the tenor ringer.'

A peal in 14 Minor methods at Cawthorpe rung in 1883 has at last been surpassed. On New Year's Eve one in 26 methods was rung

A LEAF FROM THE PROFESSOR'S NOTEBOOK

TAMWORTH HERALDS 1961 WITH A RING OF TEN

Occasionally I have the privilege of looking through Mr Dodge's sheaves of notes. Much of the information contained therein is beyond me, but the other day I came across a page that I flattered myself, was right down my street. Here it is set down exactly as I saw it:

Extents of Plain Bob Minor Useful to the Young Conductor.

* Round blocks.
Each twice repeated for 360. (Except, of course, for Round Blocks.)

Notes

- 1 There must be an equal number of Singles in each part.
 - 2 D must always be a Single.
 - 3 *B and C could be Singles or Plain.
*A could be a Bob or Single.
*E could be plain, Bob or Single.
- * Without affecting the relative positions of 5 and 6.

Having studied the page in some detail and making sure that I understood it I turned to the Professor, and after apologising for interrupting him I said:

'Let me be sure I have got this right. Here are nine extents of Bob Minor which are based on the same plan. The S Group have a Single at the first lead and the B Group a Bob. The relative positions of the tenors are the same in all 720's but the calls affect the positions of the other bells. These are 6-part peals doubled by Singles at the end of the 3rd and 6th parts.'

'6-part extents,' corrected the Professor. 'Let me further point out that to obtain a 720 in these 6-part extents (your definition being both incorrect and incomplete) an alteration must be made at an interval of 360 changes by changing or omitting certain calls and that although the half-way stage is most frequently chosen this need not necessarily be so. In fact, in the above nine extents the alteration could be made at B, C or E in any of the first three parts with a similar alteration three parts later, providing the following rules are observed:

- (1) If the lead is Plain or Bob a Single must be substituted.
- (2) If the lead is Single a Plain must be substituted.

(At E this could also be a Bob.)

'Note that if a Plain is substituted for a Single (or vice-versa) then the same two bells will be in 3-4 at both points, a fact that may help the young conductor who forgets to count the number of parts, especially when not making the alteration at the half-way stages.'

'An interesting point emerges in connection with these two groups,' continued the Professor. 'Those that end with a Single (namely, S 3 and 4, and B 1 and 6), may be turned into 3-part extents by omitting the Single at the part-end, repeating the calling and ending with a Bob.'

'Of course,' I observed, 'not all these extents are your arrangements.'

'Good heavens, no!' exclaimed Mr. Dodge.

'None of them is. I have simply grouped them together for the purposes of memorisation and classification. They may be found scattered about in various publications beginning with S3 and the 3-part variation of B6, both of which appear in "Clavis" of 1788.'

'Why do you say they are "useful to the young conductor"?' I asked.

'Well,' replied the Professor. 'The plan is basically the same throughout, five leads with the tenors apart are sandwiched between five leads with them coursing. Having memorised the position of the tenors in one part he has memorised them for all the 720's. The plan (really S5) can be called as a Sunday service touch (or on any suitable occasion) until the conductor is quite familiar with it—particularly memorising the position of the tenors between A and D.'

Mr. Dodge then went on to point out the advantage to the young conductor of knowing whether the bells were 'In-course' and 'Out-of-course.'

'Seeing,' he went on, 'that an odd number of Singles throws the bells "Out," this knowledge not only tells him whether two bells have "swapped" places but often allows him to correct others with greater certainty.'

'And how is he going to know this?' I enquired.

'Let us first take the tenors coursing each other "the right way round," i.e., the 5th after the 6th. If the bells are "In" the order of the others will follow 432 (324 or 243) and if the bells are "Out" 234 (342 or 423). It may be useful to remember (he added), that 432 and 423 will come round with a Bob and Single at "Home" respectively. Later on when he moves on to Major the novice will learn that with 6th in 5th and 5th in 6th the order of 2, 3 and 4 will be 234, etc., for "In" and 432, etc., for "Out."

'But supposing the tenors are not coursing?' I asked.

'Some conductors are clever enough to make a "spot check" of a given row, say, at a lead head. This involves sometimes doing an awkward transposition mentally, sometimes a double transposition, which is beyond the powers of the young conductor who already has enough to do. If the novice remembers that when the bells are "In-course" the coursing order of the bells is also "In" he will be in a better position to understand the next part of my explanation.'

'I hadn't realised that last fact myself,' I said.

'No? Well 65432 is the lend-end of a plain course of Bob Minor (which must be an "In-course" row) and you should have known, as I have already pointed out above, that when the bells are coursing 65432 a Bob "Home" will bring them round and therefore the bells must be "In."

'I see,' I said humbly.

'The procedure then is to watch the coursing order of the four bells following the 6th. (Ignore the treble, of course—and in Major 7 and 8 as well.) Where 5-6 are not coursing the 5th will be either the 2nd or 3rd bell in these four. Transpose the 5th with the last bell of the four, or, if you do not like the term "transpose" and are a more practical ringer, imagine the last bell to be coursing in place of the 5th. The three remaining bells will then give the "nature" of the leads as though 5-6 were "at home."

'Could you give me an example, please?' I asked.

'Certainly! I will give you two! Take the lead 136245 with a coursing order of 32546. The four bells coursing after the 6th are 3254. If the 4th was in place of the 5th it would read 324. Therefore, the lead 136245 is "In-course." Now take the lead 153264 with a coursing order of 52463 and the bells following the 6th, 3524. If the last bell (4th) was in place of the 5th it would read 342. Therefore, 153264 is "Out-of-course."

Here I had to leave the Professor, and cogitating upon his explanation on my way home I supposed that most, if not all, was familiar to many conductors. In the hope that at least some of it will be of assistance to many others, like myself, I have pleasure in forwarding it for publication. H. C.

Oxford Diocesan Guild, now 80 years old, has plenty of youngsters to carry on its tradition and add to its laurels. There were four firsts of Cambridge Surprise in the peal at Stoke Poges rung for the East Berks and South Bucks Branch, the parent body of the Guild. All these young men are well under 20, two being only 14.

The year 1960 was one of special significance to Tamworth, Staffordshire, as it marked the 1,000th anniversary of the death of St. Editha, patron saint of the magnificent Parish Church, and the quarter-centenary of the granting of the Charter to the borough by Queen Elizabeth I.

Special services and various events of celebration took place during the year and to commemorate permanently these two anniversaries, the Mayor (Councillor C. A. Walton) launched an appeal for the addition of two treble bells to the existing ring of eight in the tower of the Collegiate and Parish Church of St. Editha.

A committee was formed, with the Mayor as chairman, to raise the £850 required, and the order was placed with Messrs. John Taylor and Co.

A great deal of work was done, both individually and collectively, by the committee, the local ringing band and other willing helpers; their aim was to have the new bells installed in the tower and ready to ring out the year 1960 and welcome 1961, which was achieved.

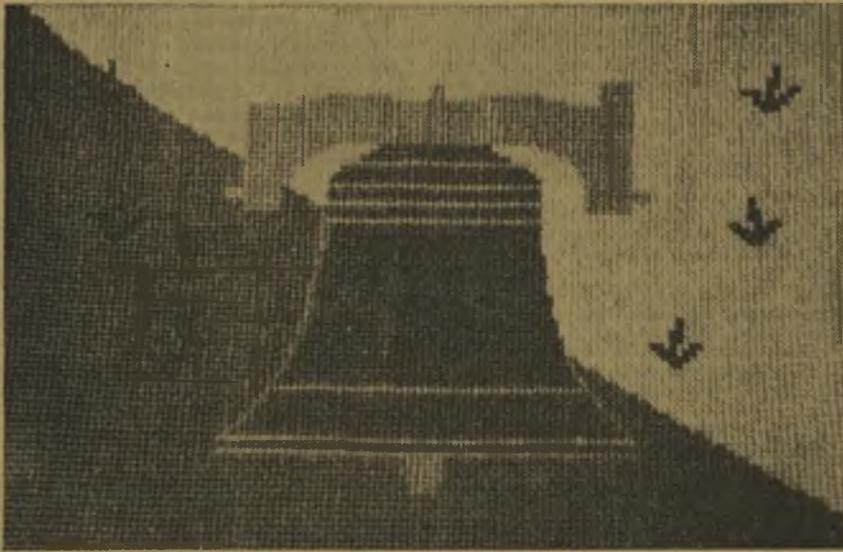

On December 31st at 3.30 p.m. the two additional bells, each duly inscribed, were dedicated by the Archdeacon of Stafford (the Ven. Basil Stratton) after the Vicar of Tamworth (Rev. Alfred Jones) and the churchwardens had accepted the gift from the Mayor. A number of ringing friends and visitors from various parts of the Midlands attended the ceremony, and made good use of the opportunity to take part in ringing on the newly-formed ring of ten bells. Their appreciation was unanimous.

At 11.30 p.m. the local band assembled to ring out 1960 and ring in 1961. The Mayor was in attendance, and expressed thanks for all that had been done, also offering his good wishes for the New Year. The captain of the tower (Mr. George Peers, jun.) handed to the Mayor the sum of £33 from the tower members, which was additional to approximately £125 raised by their various efforts. Ringing then commenced, the twelve sonorous strokes of midnight were rung on the tenor bell, bringing Tamworth's year of commemoration to its close, and 1961 was heralded by the joyful sound of the ten bells.

BELL DESIGN ON CATHEDRAL KNEELERS

ANYONE who has visited the new Cathedral at Guildford must have noticed, even if only in passing, the number and variety of handworked kneelers. Upon closer inspection it was apparent to me that the designs ranged from the Lion of Surrey to electricity pylons, from Mothers' Unions to Guide, Scout and Sunday school emblems, from Santa Claus to Calder Hall and from bee-keepers to gardeners, nurses and music makers. Bellringers were conspicuous by their absence.

Making further enquiries, I found anyone could assist in making these kneelers, and, what was more, the ladies in charge of this work were prepared to design a special 'bell' kneeler. They borrowed a Guildford Diocesan Guild badge and finally brought out two designs. One showed the badge, complete with lettering, together with three flames of the Holy Spirit (to Whom the Cathedral is dedicated), as shown in the accompanying photograph; the other design was of a smaller Guild badge and three bell ropes, all designs of these kneelers are superimposed on a blue and white, diagonally separated background.

Each kneeler is worked exactly as the diagram indicates and measures 16" x 10". It is at the sides of the kneelers that the imagination is used. The sides of one bell-kneeler represent salties, another has methods—as Oxford Treble Bob and Double Bob—on it! I found I was expected to pay for the materials I worked with, about 15s., but the sum payable for the kneeler to be professionally upholstered, about 20s., was optional.

The completed Cathedral will need about 1,700 kneelers and there are, at present, only 800 kneelers finished. There are well over 50 designs to choose from, and about 100-200 kneelers are in process of being worked. If persisted with a kneeler takes about two months to complete, but there is no time limit, each embroiderer or embroidress (yes, there are a lot of men who share in this work!) works at his or her own speed. One lady returned her kneeler, completed, after 20 years!

There are about 9 or 10 bell-kneelers completed, or in the process of being worked, done by ringers throughout the diocese. One ringer is at present working on her third kneeler, and another kneeler is being done by four young ladies from Aldershot! The embroidery is kept as simple as possible, mine is just plain cross stitch, worked in wool on Italian hemp canvas. If there is anyone who is interested in assisting in this work, please contact Miss B. Taylor, Diocesan House, Quarry Street, Guildford, Surrey.

Congratulations to Mr. David J. Smith, honorary secretary of the Witney and Woodstock Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, on his engagement.

AN ENCOURAGING REPORT FROM OXFORD TOWER

Deddington, Oxford, ringers, held their annual dinner at the Unicorn Hotel, Deddington, on New Year's Eve, when 20 ringers, members and guests, sat down to dinner. The guests included the Bishop of Dorchester (the Rt. Rev. D. Loveday), the Vicar (Rev. Dr. M. Frost), Mr. Huntriss, Miss Roberts and Miss Weaver.

At the meeting which followed the secretary's report showed that ringing in Deddington was fast 'going from strength to strength' and was as 'alive' today as it had ever been. Sunday service ringing had been maintained one hundred per cent and practices held on most Monday nights. Excellent work was being done by the captain (E. E. Pearson) and vice-captain (W. Ivings) to improve the ringing and to further the art of change ringing.

A highlight of the year has been the training of four new recruits to Sunday service ringing standards. Also a delight was the progress of younger ringers who were fast catching up with 'The Masters.'

Deddington ringers could be said to lay claim to two arts: Church bell ringing and handbell ringing. Art number two was far from 'dormant' and plus other engagements throughout the year the highlight was the Christmas tune ringing visits to houses in the parish. This proved as popular as ever and the ringers would like to thank all who heard them play, for their interest, hospitality and donations.

The treasurer's report showed a balance in hand of £45 16s., which Dr. Frost said 'was not as good as the balance of 1959 but was good considering that the ringers had spent £109 14s. 2d. during 1960 on many purchases, etc., to improve the tower, and included new ropes (£31 10s.), strip lighting (£16 6s. 4d.), endowment policy on the bells (£10), plus many other expenses that go to make a happy tower.'

Election of officers for 1961 was as follows: Chairman and treasurer, Rev. Dr. M. Frost; captain, E. E. Pearson; vice-captain, W. Ivings; secretary, C. C. Clarke.

It was fast drawing towards the end of the year when the ringers adjourned to the belfry for the traditional 'ringing out of the old and the ringing in of the New Year.'

OBITUARY

MR. J. A. FREEMAN

With great regret we record the death of Mr. John A. Freeman, of Lincoln, on Wednesday, January 11th, aged 76 years. He had been Master of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild since 1947, and Master of Lincoln Cathedral band since 1929. Mr. Freeman had represented the Lincoln Guild on the Central Council since 1945.

MR. GEORGE HORNER

Mr. George Horner, of the York Minster Society, died on January 7th, aged 85 years.

For 54 years George was a ringer in York Minster, being elected a member of the Minster Society in 1898. He was appointed assistant secretary of the Society in 1905 and secretary two years later, which position he held until his retirement in 1952. He will be well remembered by the older ringers and he was the organiser of the pre-war Snowdon dinners which were held in York.

Mr. Horner learned to ring at the Parish Church of SS. Philip and James, Clifton, York, in which parish he lived for the whole of his life. He was a regular attender at this church for many years and was Sunday school superintendent.

By occupation Mr. Horner was a railway clerk and for many years, prior to his retirement, was chief staff clerk at the York railway carriage and wagon works.

The funeral service was held at Clifton church on January 11th and was attended by many of his former associates and members of the congregation. At the close of the service members of the Minster Society rang handbells. The interment was in the churchyard of St. Stephen's, Acomb. H. W.

MR. JOHN MAIN AN APPRECIATION

John Main, of Finedon, Northants, whose passing was reported in 'The Ringing World' last month, was a dear friend with whom my father and I had many happy meetings between the wars. Christmas with grandparents at Finedon always meant a touch of Surprise ringing for Sunday service, for Finedon was a tower where the standard of ringing was respected far beyond its diocesan boundaries.

This was in no small measure attributable to a simple, lovable and endearing personality, in the form of John Main. A treasured photograph in the family album is of John Main, John King (is this the same John King who rang in the memorial peal?) and my father, after a peal at Finedon in the 1930s.

We last saw John two years ago, on a special visit to his house in Finedon, and his wonderful devotion to his church and bells was not in the least diminished in spite of his inability to take an active part in the belfry.

He spoke with great joy of the occasion when he moved into his 'old people's bungalow,' and his parish priest found time to bless the new home and its occupants.

John Main was a great man, whose religion, stripped of all sentimentality and undue emotion, was warm, alive and completely natural. T. C. B.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

In spite of the short notice the first quarterly meeting of the Ashford District, on January 7th was well attended and some fifty members gathered at All Saints', Biddenden.

The service was conducted by the Rector, the Rev. A. B. Allen, and Mr. J. Longman was at the organ. A good tea was enjoyed at 'The Chequers.'

In his summary of the District's activities in 1960 the secretary (Mr. C. T. Hillis) said the year had been a very successful one. Over 50 new members had joined the Association; 30 peals had been rung in 24 of the District's towers. Nine meetings had been held, and had been well attended. Six new members were elected to the Association.

Mr. J. Willis, the chairman, thanked the Rector and the organist for their kindness, and Mr. S. G. Waters, genial young captain of the Biddenden ringers, for making all the arrangements.

Some good ringing was enjoyed on this fine eight (tenor 23 cwt. in D) until 9 o'clock. C. T. H.

BARNES

Dear Sir.—The story behind the first successful quarter peal at Barnes goes back to early 1953 when a band, of which I am the only original member left, was convened under the tutelage of Mr. Nevil G. Hollingworth.

The bells had been silent since before the war and it was decided to overhaul them and put them in good order and this was done under the inspiration of Rev. P. Steed, the then Rector.

By the Coronation in June in we could ring passable rounds and no one, except Mr.
Hollingworth, had handled a rope before the previous March. Progress was reasonably continuous but we lost more members than we could rapidly replace and every two paces forward were followed by one backwards.

In 1957 we, unfortunately, lost the help of Mr. Hollingworth and then for some time matters went from bad to worse and on many occasions the two or three 'regulars' felt like giving up. But we knew that if we did it would probably mean the end and that also meant breaking faith with all those who had encouraged us.

In 1959 matters took a turn for the better when Putney came to us on practice nights because their bells were being rehung. To them we owe a great deal. More especially, in 1960, our thanks are due to M. C. Cuthbert, from Mortlake, who has pushed us through many a plain course and touch. He, too, is busy at Mortlake with a mixed band of ringers and learners, who are starting regular practice once more. So it is encouraging that there is ringing in three neighbouring towers in South-West London and even more so that the ringers are all young people with an average age in the early twenties.

This brings the story up to date and encouraged by the Rector, Rev. A. C. Heath, and a P.C.C. willing to grant money for ropes, etc., and a congregation which, on the whole, does not actively object, we hope, Mr.
Editor, that others also will hear more of us and come to know the reason why we ring.—Yours faithfully,

J. HARROLD.

Barnes.

MORE BELFREY GOSSIP

The Rev. Brian Druce, who was ordained at Advent, was a member of the Witney Ringing Society for some years.

An attempt was made on December 31st to ring three peals of Kent Treble Bob at Brightwalton, Appleton and East Ilsley. The morning attempt was successful, but at Appleton Plain Bob was substituted owing to one of the band having to drop out. The attempt at East Ilsley came to grief after 55 minutes owing to a miscall.

The band who rang the peal at Stoke St.
Mary would like to thank the Rector, the Rev.
Peter Howell, for the excellent tea afterwards and also for allowing them to visit the other two rings in his parish—Thurlbear with its lovely heavy four (tenor 17 cwt.) that can only be chimed at the moment, and Orchard Porthman's four bells (tenor about 8 cwt.). The visit gave the Rector (who has just left Twenton-on-Avon, where he was curate) a chance to ring on two of his rings of bells for the first time and with ringers who have had pleasure of ringing with him many times at Twerton.

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

No. 2597 Vol. LVII

FRIDAY, JANUARY 27, 1961

Registered at the G.P.O. for transmission as a newspaper. 8d.

OUR GOLDEN JUBILEE

THIS is the Golden Jubilee year of 'The Ringing World.' On March 24th, 1911, Mr. James Sparkes Goldsmith published the first number, and except for stoppages arising from the restriction of newsprint and the printers' strike publication has been continuous.

On March 24th, 1961, 'The Ringing World' Committee hope to publish a souvenir issue to commemorate this great occasion in the life of a journal that has probably passed through more vicissitudes than most publications, but nevertheless since it has been in the possession of the Central Council of Church Bell Ringers has steadily accumulated a financial reserve to meet any unexpected buffet (but not too many of them!).

This issue of March 24th will be of 24 pages plus a four-page cover, in two colours. Special contributions for this issue, reminiscent in character, would be appreciated by the Editor. Another feature we hope to include is a list of readers who have taken the journal week by week from No. 1. If space permits, we should like to give up to ten lines about each of these old worthies. What we want are briefly those details ringers like to know—age, tower, ringing offices held, peal totals. We expect to find some instances of husbands and wives, where the wife took the paper from No. 1 before marriage and then the couple had a joint copy.

On the third Saturday in June there is to be a special gathering of ringers from all over the country at Guildford to honour the memory of the founder. His grave at Pyrford, which has a small church without a ring of bells, will be visited; there will be a special service in the new Cathedral of Guildford, where the sanctus bell is a memorial to him; finally, the day will conclude with a social evening. Ringing will be possible in many towers in the Guildford area on that day.

Because of this commemorative gathering the Guildford Diocesan Guild are forgoing their summer festival. Headed by Mr. C. W. Denyer, the Guild Executive are making the necessary arrangements in consultation with Mr. F. I. Hairs, 'The Ringing World' Committee representative.

At the Central Council meeting at Stoke-on-Trent on Whit Tuesday a reference will be made to the Jubilee. The form it will take has not been decided, but the theme will be one of thankfulness that the Exercise has had such a vehicle as 'The Ringing World' to knit it more closely together and promote the goodwill and fellowship of church bellringers the world over.

ST. CLEMENT DANES': A SUCCESSFUL EXPERIMENT

WHEN the restoration of the church and bells of St. Clement Danes', Strand, was completed late in 1958 it seemed unrealistic to suppose that the bells would be rung on Sundays with any degree of regularity, although it was hoped that enough past and present members of the Royal Air Force would come forward for ringing to take place at least once a month. With various subtractions, for personal and Service reasons, and some welcome additions, those who assembled on the afternoon of January 4th, 1959, have also rung for Evensong on the first Sunday of every subsequent month; by no means all connected with the Royal Air Force, they have nevertheless loyally supported the gatherings, mostly travelling long distances to do so, and I am most grateful to them all.

This, however, is by no means all the story. Throughout the same period Wilfrid Wilson has made himself responsible for ringing for Mattins on the second Sunday of the month, and quarter peal attempts, mostly successful, have been made consistently, in many of which visitors to London have taken part. In addition, lists kept in the belfry show numerous other visits, notably by Frank Gant and his company from Hornchurch (11 times), the University of London Society (10), bands arranged by Alan Bagworth, who is also a 'first Sunday' regular (9), and the Middlesex County Association (6). Altogether, out of the 208 possible occasions during 1959 and 1960 on which the bells could have been rung for morning or afternoon service, ringing took place 103 times, and it looks as if this record will be even bettered during 1961.

One of the conditions on which I undertook to co-ordinate ringing arrangements at this church was that all who wished to ring there, on Sundays or at other times, would be welcome so long as I knew in advance and was satisfied that they were responsible people. This has, I think, been amply fulfilled, and so far as Sunday ringing is concerned my thanks are due to those members of every Society in and around London who, collectively or individually, have co-operated to turn a tentative experiment into a great success. Is there a moral in this, I wonder? E. A. B.

Members of the Guild of Devonshire Ringers rang a 720 of Kent Treble Bob Minor at Stockland, Devon, with their president, Preb. E. V. Cox, on January 13th to celebrate his sixty years as a ringer. It was in this tower that he was taught to ring by the captain of the call change band, when his father was Vicar of the parish.

Who was the young lady from Bristol, who was stranded in Gloucester and rescued by a bachelor from 'the foggy, foggy dew'?

Miss P. Phillimore, tower secretary of Pewsey, Wilts, asks what is the highest number of towers rung in by the same band of six from a village or town church.

Douglas Burnett, Master of the Truro Diocesan Guild, has passed the Lay Readers' Examination for the Diocese of Truro and is to be publicly licensed by the Archdeacon of Cornwall at St. Ewe on February 12th.

If 'Observer' from St. Michael and All Angels', Newburn, Northumberland, cares to get in touch with Mr. Joe Thornley, 50, Carlton Street, Farnworth, near Bolton, he may be able to help with the question of bell-ropes.

When the New Year had only begun 16 minutes before, one of the young Durleigh, Somerset, ringers was heard to ask the captain, 'When do you want this year's Association subscription?'

Handbell ringers at Waltham Abbey called at nearly a thousand homes during the eight nights prior to Christmas and collected £60 10s. towards the Abbey's restoration fund. The handbell team also rang some carols during Matins on Christmas Day.

After the peal of Grandsire Triples at Madeley, Shropshire, on January 14th the ringers met the Vicar and the rest of the Madeley band in the Six Bells Inn where they were entertained to an excellent tea by Miss Diana B. Lewis, whose 21st birthday was the reason for the peal. Afterwards Mr. J. L. Stanier, on behalf of the Madeley ringers, presented a silver rose bowl to Miss Lewis to mark the occasion.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Mr. and Mrs. F. I. Hairs, who took part in a handbell peal of Bob Major on January 15th, their 45th wedding anniversary, rang in a peal of Stedman Caters on handbells on their wedding day. They have decided not to attempt one of Minimus for their golden wedding!

The recent peal at St. Giles', Cripplegate, rung by members of the Ancient Society of College Youths, is the first peal of Maximus on the bells.

The bells and morning service from All Saints', Stamford, are to be broadcast in the Midland and Northern Home Services on Sunday, February 5th.

The double dagger against the name of Mr. Herrick B. Bowley in the peal of Yorkshire Surprise Maximus at Leicester Cathedral (see page 34) should read 350th peal.

On October 31st, 1953, Mr. Francis R. Lowe 'circled' Derby Cathedral to peals by ringing the treble to a peal of Stedman Caters. Will Mr. Gordon Halls please note? (Page 24, Belfry Gossip.)

By ringing her first peal at Crayford on January 14th, Miss Jean Barnett became the fourth generation of her family to take part in a peal there. Also in the band were her father, both grandfathers and her godfather, who conducted the peal.

Lt.-Col. D. L. Scott, R.A.M.C., of Fircroft, Sunnyside, Fleet, Hants, appeals for a set of 12 second-hand handbells, for a group of ringers he is starting in his unit. He feels that handbells might be a wonderful way of providing music (particularly Christmas music) when stationed abroad.

The late Mr. F. Tubb, in whose memory the quarter peal at Finchley was rung, was first made a member of the Finchley band in 1907, and served as a member for 5 years, retiring from active ringing two years ago. He was by no means a prolific ringer, but in his prime he was a solid and reliable six bell man, as the peal boards in the tower will show. Although his attendances of his latter years were not regular, the band will miss him and feel that yet another of the links with the past has been broken.

BELLS FOR NOTTINGHAM UNIVERSITY SOCIETY

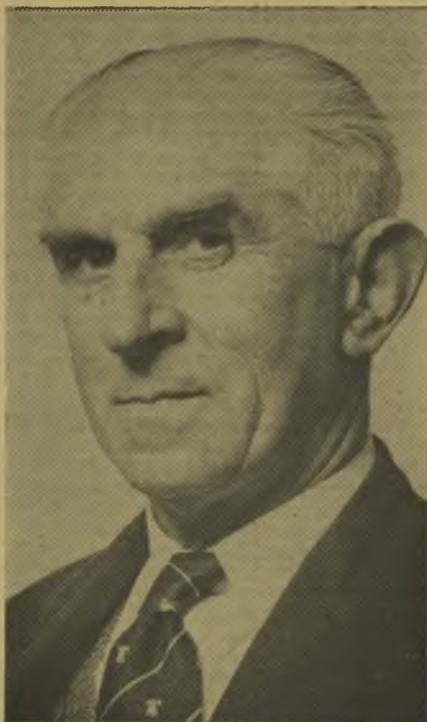

Since its foundation, the Nottingham University Society has sought a tower where it could practise regularly and be responsible for the ringing, and it was thought that it might be possible to ring at All Saints' (8), if the church authorities would give their permission. The Vicar, the Rev. J. N. D. Perkins, welcomes the possibility and allowed representatives of the Society with their president, Mr. Paul Taylor, to inspect the bells. They found that the bells, although suffering from the effects of 40 years' neglect (they were cast in 1864 by Taylors, of Loughborough), could probably be made ringable again with a little effort at very little initial cost. Last February, the Vicar invited the chairman, Mr. Bruce Grainger, to report on the situation to the P.C.C. with a view to allowing the Society to attempt the necessary work.

Early in the Christmas term, after the architect had made a favourable report on the tower fabric, the University bellringers moved in and spent several weeks cleaning the bearings, replacing missing fittings and removing a great accumulation of dirt. Finally, on November 24th, Mr. Taylor pronounced the bells ringable and they were rung for the first time for 40 years. Although some of the bearings are a little oval all went well, except that in the first touch, of Stedman Triples, Mr. Taylor had great difficulty in keeping the sixth up. This was because the rope had been lowered on the wrong side of the pulley and the fault was quickly remedied! We are very grateful to Mr. Fred Salter, of St. Peter's, Nottingham, and Mr. Michael Rose, of Attenborough, for the loan of bell ropes for this occasion, and to All Saints' P.C.C. for buying a new set of ropes with distinctive salices in University colours.

So far, 14 volunteers from the parish are learning to ring so that ringing may continue during University vacations, and we have begun to practise on Wednesdays at 7.30 p.m. with ringing for Evensong on Sundays at 5.45 p.m.

The bells will be open on Saturday, February 18th, before the Society dinner. They will be rededicated on the following day during Evensong by the Bishop of Southwell. Any communications should be addressed to the secretary of the Bellringing Society, c/o The Societies Room at the University. B. G.

PERSONALITIES OF THE EXERCISE - 4

MR. LESLIE G. BRETT,
 Suffolk Guild.

The county of Suffolk is situated in a rural and agricultural area of Britain, and many of its ringers are farm workers. If it was an industrial district, many of these ringers would be much better known than they are at present. Much of the transport is by push-cycle, and for that reason their ringing is largely confined to their own county. Amongst the best of these ringers is Leslie G. Brett, of Framsdon, Master of the Suffolk Guild, who has done much to maintain the high standard of ringing for which the county is noted.

Leslie was born at Framsdon on December 24th, 1904, and was educated at the Helmingham village school, which he left at the age of 12 to become a farmer's boy, working seven days a week for only 7s! He was taught to handle a bell at Framsdon in 1922, and learnt the rudiments of change ringing from W. G. Crickmer, who rang in the 16,608 Oxford Treble Bob at Debenham. His first 720 of Minor was at Bedford in October, 1922, and his first peal was Bob Major at Framsdon on January 5th, 1923.

About this time, the Helmingham band were beginning to practise London, and Leslie is very proud to have rung in the first peal in this method at Helmingham on September 27th, 1924, in which there were seven 'firsts.' He well remembers this peal, as summer time was ignored by most farmers, and he had to work until 6 p.m. On this occasion he had been assisting with threshing operations on a warm day, with plenty of dust. His 'wash and brush-up' consisted of water from the engine's water butt, and handkerchief for a towel, and no time for tea! However, a good peal was rung, and Messrs. G. H. Cross and G. A. Fleming are the only other surviving members.

His peals total to the end of 1960 is 479 (conducted 156) and amongst this number have been 100 peals at Framsdon and Helmingham. The Helmingham band were famous from 1925-1939 for scoring peals in new Surprise methods, and Leslie rang in 46 of them, conducting 9.

On one occasion, in 1926, he cycled over 80 miles, and rang peals of London at Earl's Colne and Colchester, Essex, in one day. Many of his early peals were rung under the conductorship of the late W. G. Rumsey, T. W. Last, G. Whiting, and he rang 300 peals with that fine ringer and conductor, the late Leslie C. Wightman.

He is very proud to have rung one peal with William Pye—London at Elveden, and also to have rung in James George's 1,000th peal on tower bells, Cambridge Maximus at Ipswich, it being Jimmy's first peal of Cambridge 12, and Leslie's first on 12.

He served as district secretary of the Debenham District for six years, and since 1957 he has been rightly honoured by being elected General Master of the Suffolk Guild.

Leslie is of a very modest disposition, and if he had been living in some other part of the country, where peals are easier to get, it is safe to say that he would have scored twice the number of peals he has done already. He is a first class striker, a competent conductor, and, equally important, he is a very pleasant chap with whom to ring, and to enjoy his company. May he continue in good health, and so enable him to build upon the fine record he already holds.
 APACE.

THE JUBILEE OF 'THE RINGING WORLD'

Guildford Guild's Plans

An announcement was made at the annual meeting of the Guildford District of the Guildford Diocesan Guild, held at St. Nicokas' belfry, Guildford, on January 14th, of plans to celebrate the 50th anniversary of the foundation of 'The Ringing World.'

Mr. C. W. Denyer (Guild Master), who presided over an attendance of more than 50, said the actual date of the anniversary was March 24th, and it was proposed to hold a celebration meeting in the Guildford area on the third Saturday in June. There would be ringing in various towers around Guildford, a visit to the grave of the founder of the journal (Mr. J. S. Goldsmith) at Pyrford churchyard, a service in Guildford Cathedral where there was the Goldsmith memorial bell and they hoped by then the Pulling memorial bell. Tea would be served in St. Nicolas' Hall, Guildford, to be followed by a social evening. In view of these circumstances the Guild's summer festival would not be held.

Mr. Denyer also presented a report on the Pulling memorial bell. He said an order had been given for the bell, which would weigh 12½ cwt. and cost £625. The Guild had collected and had funds available of £500, which meant that another £125 had to be found. The Cathedral authorities had informed them that they could not meet the cost of the electric wiring, etc., which would mean raising another £125. His immediate concern was meeting the cost of the bell.

The District Ringing Master (Mr. H. A. May) said eleven peals had been rung in the District during the year and he congratulated Pat Laycock, Clive Johnson and Elizabeth Stevinson on ringing their first peals. Mr. S. A. Ponting (honorary secretary) reported an improved financial position. The officers were re-elected. Twelve new members were elected.

When nominations were asked for as Guild officers, Mr. Denyer said he would not be standing as Guild Master as he would have held the office for three years. On the proposition of Mr. A. C. Hazelden, the meeting nominated Mr. Harold A. Pitstow.

Congratulations were extended to Godalming on their large number of young ringers. The service was held at St. Mary's Church, conducted by the Rev. E. O. Ware, and ringing took place during the afternoon and evening at the three churches in the centre of the town.

LEADING PEAL RINGERS OF 1960

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Border, of Coventry, head the list of peal ringers for 1960. Mr. Border has 107 peals to his credit and his wife 78. The next lady is quite low down—Miss Carol Fernley, who rings at Norbury, Cheshire, with 44. Mr. Border is also the leading conductor with 68 peals.

John A. Anderson, the young Birmingham ringer, just reached the century, to be followed by George E. Fearn, secretary of St. Martin's Guild, with 97.

The Leicester contingent is headed by Ernest Morris, of St. Margaret's, Leicester, with 95. He was unsuccessful in another 18 attempts. Mr. Morris also heads the list of handbell peals with 17. To critics of peal ringing, he would reply that he rang for three services every Sunday throughout the year and never missed one.

Another Leicester ringer—from St. John the Divine—is close behind him—Mr. John M. Jelley with 89. The Home Counties leading ringer, according to our records, is John R. Mayne with 75, followed by Bernard F. L. Groves (Maidstone) 71 and A. Patrick Cannon (Dorking) 68.

Cheshire's leader is Brian Harris with 75. There are five members of the Norbury band in the list. During the year 28 peals were rung at their tower, one of which was the 300th in the tower.

East Anglia is headed by Roderick W. Pipe with 68, Lincoln by Jack C. Millhouse 65, Hampshire Geoffrey K. Dodd 53, and N.E. coast J. Alan Ainsworth 52. There are two one-armed ringers in the list—Basil Jones 65 and Reginald W. Rex 56.

Veterans have a fair representation, apart from Ernest Morris. Included is the convener of 'The Ringing World' Committee, J. Frank Smallwood, James Bennett and Len Stilwell.

EAST GRINSTEAD GUILD

For various reasons the company was smaller than usual at the annual dinner of the Guild held at the Culverden Arms, Tunbridge Wells, on January 14th. This was a pity, as both meal and entertainment were excellent. By unanimous agreement there were no speeches. The artistes were Mr. Roy Large, of Tonbridge, whose baritone voice is a joy to listen to and the Rev. R. W. Lax-West, rector of Northiam, who is a member of the Magic Circle. His magic and after-dinner stories caused much amusement. The highlight of his show was when he had Joan Garnett lying on a board resting on two chair backs and after 'putting on the spell' took one chair away. He repeated the illusion thus making a fitting conclusion to an excellent evening.

THE ST. MARTIN'S GUILD

The annual meeting of St. Martin's Guild for the Diocese of Birmingham was held on January 7th in the new St. Martin's Hall, the chair being taken by the Master, Mr. Edgar C. Shepherd. The chairman welcomed several visitors from Coventry and Worcester and also Mr. J. Frank Smallwood.

The following new members were elected: Michael Lister (Packwood), Miss Ann Fellows (King's Norton), Geoffrey Davis (Edgbaston), Charles A. S. Webb (Northfield), Mrs. Bery Park, Mrs. Rosemary Waterhouse and Maurice F. Edwards (Yardley). The tower elections of the following life members were duly ratified: Tony Price (Sunbury-on-Thames), Mrs. Marion Ainsworth (Newcastle upon Tyne), A. Rex Agg (Hitchin), Edward W. Colley (Four Oaks), Miss Alice Lester and Geoffrey Pullin (Packwood), Albert M. Tyler and Frank Hansford (Bristol), Eric Naylor (Bath), Arthur Gibb (Rushdon), Arthur D. Barker (Slough), and Thomas J. Setter (Yeovil).

The Guild has received a very generous donation of £20, from an anonymous donor, to cover the cost of a new peal book. This was an expense that the Guild would have had to meet, and the balance sheet shows an increased balance instead of a depleted one, due to the kind friend.

All the officers of the Guild were re-elected to serve for the year 1961, viz.: Master, Edgar C. Shepherd; Ringing Master, John Pinfold; trustees, Alderman A. Paddon Smith, J.P., and Edgar C. Shepherd; auditors, H. H. Fearn and S. O'C. Holloway; librarian, Edgar C. Shepherd; honorary secretary and treasurer, George E. Fearn.

A proposition to increase the subscription to meet growing expenses was passed with one dissentient. The annual subscription for resident members is now 5s., and for life members 10s.

It was decided to hold the next meeting at Kingsbury, on April 8th, subject to the approval of the incumbent.

Mr. Frank W. Perrens will occupy the chair at the Henry Johnson Dinner to be held on March 4th at the White Horse Hotel. Early application for tickets is essential as the number is strictly limited to sixty.

The meeting closed with a vote of thanks to the Rev. Canon Bryan S. W. Green for the use of the hall for the meeting.

GUILD OF DEVONSHIRE RINGERS

East Devon Branch

A quarterly meeting of the East Devon Branch was held at Buckerell on January 14th. Ringers attended from Honiton, Clyst, Hem-yock, Luppitt, Cotleigh, Honiton, Sidbury, Ottery and Dunkeswell. The service was conducted by Rev. H. Smith, and the tea was arranged and served by the young girl ringers of Buckerell. At the meeting nine new members were elected and four certificates were presented by Mrs. Woodley (the chairman's wife) to Miss J. Collins, Mrs. L. White and Miss D. Pratt (Buckerell), and Mr. M. Squire (Honiton).

BARNESLEY & DISTRICT SOCIETY

Fourteen new members were elected at the annual meeting of the Society at St. Mary's, Barnsley, on January 14th, with Canon A. P. Morley, honorary president, in the chair. The officers were re-elected, viz.: Mr. Noel F. Moxon, president; Mr. Harold Chant, treasurer; Mr. J. W. Buxton, honorary secretary; Messrs. H. Rusby and W. Womack, auditors. The annual outing will be held on June 3rd. The next meeting will be at Ossett on February 11th. The vote of thanks, proposed by Mr. Moxon, included thanks to Canon Morley for conducting the service and for the excellent tea served in the Rectory rooms.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

CHRISTMAS DAY STANDARDS

Dear Sir.—I was surprised by Mr. Rush's comments on the Christmas Day broadcast in your issue of January 6th. Although I mean no criticism of the ringers concerned, as I am sure that they gave of their best, I think that a great many people would agree with me that the ringing from four of the towers was comparatively poor. If Mr. Rush really thought that the striking from three of them was 'good,' 'very good' and 'regular,' as he says, then I would suggest that his standards are not nearly high enough to justify his setting himself up as a critic in your columns.—Yours faithfully, ROBIN G. LEALE.
Surbiton, Surrey.

FALSE COMPOSITION

Dear Sir.—I regret that the composition of 5.057 Grandsire Caters, peal No. 3685 in the Norwich Diocesan Association's report for 1952 is false, for leads in the 26th and 34th courses repeat.

If the 25th and 26th courses are called 1. 2 (62354879) and 2. 3. 4 (25364879) a true peal of the same length results with the 7968, 7869, 978 and 879 blocks intact.

I am indebted to Mr. Roderick W. Pipe for drawing my attention to the error. Unfortunately he, too, has conducted this composition and to him and his band and to those who rang with me. I offer sincere apologies.—Yours faithfully, NOLAN GOLDEN.
Norwich.

P.S.—Again, since the same turning course was used in an earlier peal, No. 5569 in the N.D.A. report for 1951, page 33, is also false.—N.G.

WHAT THE DICTIONARY STATES

Dear Sir.—For the benefit of Mr. Cyril A. Wratten, and/or any others who may be in any doubt as to the dictionary version of the word VARIATION, may I be granted space to quote? This is what the latest copy states: 'Variation is: the act, fact, or process of varying; modification, change, or deviation in form, condition, appearance, or extent. A thing which is somewhat different from another of the same kind. In mathematics: a relation between two quantities so that one changes with the other in the same ratio. In music: the repetition of a melody, or theme, with changes or embellishments in harmony, rhythm, etc.'

In view of this, it is, I contend, futile of anyone to argue that some of the newly named Surprise methods are not merely variations of others.—Yours truly, P. AMOS.
Weston Favell.

U.A. AND PEALS OF MINIMUS

Dear Sir.—At the meeting of the Universities Association on January 7th, it was decided that peals of Minimus were not to be included in our records. We should like the peal rung at Oxford on November 2nd to be credited to 'Non-Association' and not to the Universities Association.—Yours faithfully,

D. J. ROAF.

Honorary Secretary, U.A.C.R.

Trinity College, Cambridge.

5,160 PLAIN BOB ROYAL

Dear Sir.—Re the peal of Plain Bob Royal, published on page 16 of January 6th issue of the 'R.W.'
The second course after the turning course which produces the course end 34256 should read W M H. and not M H. as printed.—Yours faithfully, F. HODGSON.
Darlington.

F GROUPS

Dear Sir.—May I explain that the labelling of the course heads on page 63 of Corrigan's publication as F.1. etc., was inserted by the publisher himself and should be ignored. It bears no relation to the manner in which these designations are introduced on page 62, according to which F.1 is the false course head found by the system set out, and can thus be any of the four members of an F-set. There are many errors and omissions in the booklet, arising from A.J.C.'s illness at the time of production. The contributors were asked to omit every unessential word to save him work, yet for some reason he sub-edited and set two versions of my scheme. After I had returned a corrected proof of the versions most resembling my original manuscript, he accidentally pied the type and printed the other version with its errors and omissions uncorrected.

The theoretical basis for the grouping of F-sets might well be made more widely available than it has been so far, but I doubt whether publication in this paper would be justified. The exposition employs the algebra pertaining to group theory, and would be readily intelligible to only a minority of your readers.—Yours sincerely,

M. HODGSON.

Chesham, Bucks.

CORRECTION

Dear Sir.—In the table of F groups, published on January 13th, F.2 of S should be 34625.—Yours faithfully,

D. J. MARSHALL.

Long Eaton, Nottingham.

LITTLE COMPTON, WARWICKS

Dear Sir.—Referring to the interesting report of an outing ('R.W.' January 13th), I fear the Vicar of Little Compton was somewhat adrift when stating that his bells had not been rung since the war. To my knowledge they were rung as recently as Easter Tuesday, 1957, by a band of which I had the privilege to be a member. Adlestrop was also visited on the same day.—Yours sincerely,

E. T. PAUL FIELD.

Knole, Langport.

Dear Sir.—I do not wish to damp the spirits of the Raving Ringers, but the bells of both Adlestrop and Little Compton were rung in full peal as recently as 1957, when I visited these towers and others nearby on a day's tour.

With just another reference to Mr. Williamson's performance on four handbells, I should like to ask whether the bells were rung 'hand and back' or just tapped on one side?—Yours faithfully,

R. D. SHORT.

Bridgwater, Somerset.

LEADING SERVICE BANDS

Dear Sir.—Is it possible to have a list of leading service bands? I would suggest something on the following lines:

(a) A list of bands that rang all bells for all the usual services during the year (indicating the number of bells and number of services);

(b) A list of bands that rang peals during the year; and

(c) A list of bands that rang, say, five or more quarter peals, indicating the number rung for services.—Yours faithfully,

H. W. COX.

Saxilby, Lincs.

NOTE.—In view of the large number it would be better if these lists were compiled by Guilds and Associations. We should like to hear of bands that have exceeded Willesborough's record.—Ed.

METHODS OR VARIATIONS

Dear Sir.—Mr. Amos asks in his letter ('R.W.' January 6th) what April Day is when to a peal by itself. We have the problem of whether or not the call is a part of the method and as I understand it a call is not a part of the method but merely a means of enabling to be rung changes which are otherwise unobtainable. A peal of Plain Bob Major rung with a 6ths place bob instead of the conventional 4ths place is still Plain Bob Major. Similarly, Double Norwich C.B. Major is still Double Norwich whether a 4ths or a 6ths place bob be used. Thus Plain Bob Doubles with a 3rds place bob is still Plain Bob; it is unnecessary to change the name to April Day, but necessary only to specify which call is used.

In most single hunt methods the effect of the call takes place between the two leads or divisions, between the lead end of one lead (treble's handstroke) and the lead-head of the next lead (treble's backstroke), the actual work of the leads being unaltered. However, in 'April Day' the internal work of two leads is altered at a call and in order to obtain all possible callings it is necessary to employ a special start to the first lead of the first course. Thus half a bob is rung at the start and half a bob at the end of the extent, surely a most irregular arrangement.

With regard to the terms method and variation, I think the most obvious thing that a method must possess is its own plain course. If the plain course be altered only slightly then a different method is produced. There is no need for the term variation in this context and the use of it is only confusing. After all, it could be said that every method was a variation of plain hunting, the only difference being in degree of complexity. Add dodges and places in small doses and then add a treble bob hunt for the treble and London Surprise Major becomes a variation of plain hunting. If we use the term variation here the problem will arise as to when a variation is sufficiently different so as to qualify for the title method.

The normal position for a call is at the treble lead or thereabouts, but in Double Norwich C.B. Caters the effect comes within the lead when the treble is in 4-5 up:—

1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9
2 1 4 3 6 5 8 7 9
2 4 1 6 3 8 5 9 7
—4 2 6 1 3 5 8 7 9
2 4 6 3 1 8 5 9 7 etc.

Would it then be possible to ring a composition of Plain Bob Major in which the following type of call is used?—

1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8
2 1 4 3 6 5 8 7
2 4 1 6 3 8 5 7
—4 2 6 1 8 3 7 5
2 4 6 8 1 7 3 5 etc.

If so, is there any record of this being done?

I have long wondered why we do so illogically tolerate the names St. Simon's Doubles and St. Clement's Minor for what is the same method on different numbers of bells. For extensions on higher numbers of bells, I believe that the name St. Clement's is used throughout. Is there perhaps an historical reason? In any case I think it is about time that the position was sorted out.—Yours sincerely,

JOHN S. BARNES.

Sutton-Courtenay, Berks.

ANOTHER 100,000 CHANGES IN 1960

At the annual belfry meeting of the St. Mary's, Willesborough, Guild of Change Ringers on January 17th, the captain, Mr. Mark S. Lancefield, reported that with 113,004 changes for service ringing in 1960 the 100,000 mark had been passed for the sixth year in succession. Not only that, but three new Minor methods and ten new Doubles methods brought the totals to 29 Minor and 25 Doubles methods, viz.: Plain Bob, Double Bob, Reverse Bob, Canterbury Pleasure Bob, St. Clement's College Bob, College Bob, Oxford Bob, Double Oxford Bob, Double Court Bob, Hereward Bob, London Bob, Horsmonden Bob, Cumberland Bob, Brentford Bob, Childwall Bob, Thelwall Bob, Lytham Bob, Wavertree Bob; Kent Treble Bob, Oxford Treble Bob; Cambridge Surprise, Ipswich Surprise, London Surprise, York Surprise; Kentish Delight, Oswald Delight, Old Oxford Delight, Dover Delight and Barham Delight Minor; and Plain Bob, Reverse Bob, Canterbury Pleasure Bob, Reverse Canterbury Pleasure Bob, New Bob, Reverse New Bob, Huntspill Bob, Reverse Huntspill Bob, St. Simon's Bob, Reverse St. Simon's Bob, St. Martin's Bob, Reverse St. Martin's Bob, St. Nicholas' Bob, Reverse St. Nicholas' Bob, Winchendon Place Bob, Reverse Winchendon Place Bob, St. Bartholomew Bob, Reverse All Saints' Bob, Union Bob, St. Faith's Slow Course Bob, Stedman Slow Course Bob, Stowe Place Bob, Uffingham Bob, Coxwell Bob and Grandshire Doubles. In addition Kent and Oxford Treble Bob, Plain and Double Bob, St. Clement's and Double Oxford, Oxford Bob and Hereward, and College and St. Clement's had been rung spliced.

Three beginners had left but another three gained, and of the six beginners now in the band two had already rung the treble for a Sunday service, three more would be ringing for service for the first time during January and the sixth was making good progress.

R. J. C.

ST. DAVID'S DIOCESAN GUILD

St. David's Cathedral ringers at their December meeting were addressed by Mr. R. C. Warburton, of Fishguard, the Diocesan Ringing Master, who is also instructor to the tower.

In the course of his address he said that many towers failed because members could not make up their minds to respect and obey the captain. This he had often noticed as a visiting ringer in many of the 250 towers where he had rung. Senior members should always be ready to back up the captain in helping beginners.

Another tower problem was the absence of progress. Two towers he knew of had had bands of young ringers executing rounds very well, but some said they did not want any of 'this change ringing.' While they held that point of view, he did not feel it was any use coming to ring with them again. There was a sad ending to the story: after some six months he went to one of the towers and found that most of the young ringers had become bored with rounds and found village dances more interesting than ringing.

BATH AND WELLS DIOCESAN

The annual meeting of the Bath Branch was held at St. Michael's, Broad Street, on January 14th, a large company of ringers and friends being present.

Members stood in memory of Mr. W. J. Prescott, late tower master at the Abbey and Mr. F. Cannings, of Bathford. Visitors were welcomed from Chippenham, Bristol, Warmley, Southampton, Swindon, and also present was the general secretary, Mr. G. Salmon, from Wells.

All the officers were re-elected. The secretary (Mr. Alan Lee) reported on the past year's activities and the treasurer (Mr. Terry Milson) stated that a balance of £25 would be handed over to the Association.

Twenty-eight new members were elected: Freshford 3, Bathwick 1, Twerton 2, Weston 8, St. Saviour's 14. This is the first time for 30 years that St. Saviour's has had any Association members and this is a most promising start.

CHURCH OFFICERS ALL

A band of church officers from St. Michael's, Twerton-on-Avon, Guild of Ringers, who recently rang a quarter peal in three methods.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD

North Dorset Branch

Some 36 ringers attended the North Dorset Branch annual meeting at Gillingham on December 3rd. The Vicar, the Archdeacon of Dorset, presided.

Branch officers were re-elected as follows: Chairman, Rev. R. G. Chaffey Moore; vice-chairman, Rev. R. A. Wells; honorary secretary, Rev. R. N. Longridge; committee, Mr. J. Ralph and Mrs. E. Wright; Ringing Masters, Messrs. W. C. Shute, B. Ridout. On the resignation of Mr. A. Woods as Ringing Master, Mrs. Godley was elected in his stead, a happy appointment and a just reward for Mrs. Godley's skill and enthusiasm.

Meetings in 1961 were suggested for Shroton, Kingston Magna, Bradford Abbas and the annual meeting at Mere.

The honorary secretary in his report mentioned that membership of the Branch was 166, and that more ringers had attended the meetings during the past year. Two new members were elected and a new band at Stourton Caundle was affiliated.

R. N. L.

NOT UNPEALABLE

On January 14th the first peal on the bells of All Saints', Wilbarston, Northants, for more than 30 years was rung. For the past 25 years these bells had been stated to be 'unpealable.' A hour was spent discovering and remedying various causes. Ringing these bells with tight ropes and 'driving' them is certainly the answer to a successful pealer—plus knowing the METHODS (capitals, Mr. Editor) well beforehand. Thus another unpealable ring has been conquered!—P. A.

IN THE RUGBY AREA

A party of nine ringers including members of the Bristol University Society and ringers from Whitnash and Warwick had a day's ringing in the Rugby area on January 7th. Although the ringing was nothing to write to 'The Ringing World' about the party felt they had enjoyed the visits and gained valuable practice. Many thanks are due to the organiser, Ian C. Maycock. Towers visited were Church Lawford, Bilton, Newbold-on-Avon, Dunchurch, Willoughby, Newnham, Daventry, Staverton, Priors Marston and Napton-on-the-Hill.

PORTSMOUTH CATHEDRAL GUILD

The Guild of Ringers of St. Thomas of Canterbury, Portsmouth, held its fourth annual meeting, supper and social in Cathedral House on January 16th. The Guild Chaplain, the Rev. E. Lowman, presided, in the absence of the Provost (the Very Rev. E. N. Porter Goff).

The founder chairman's report indicated in detail the steady advancement of the Guild, numerically, financially and ringing-wise, continuing since the rehanging and augmentation of the bells and the founding of the Guild. The treasurer gave encouraging figures—the donation by the Guild to the Augmentation Fund this year being over £17.

To the great regret of all, Mr. F. Burnett, for many years tower captain and belfry keeper, was unable, by reason of his recent illness and operation, to continue in office. His work for Cathedral ringing was greatly appreciated, and he was unanimously elected an honorary life member of the Guild.

The founder chairman, Mr. A. York-Bramble, also withdrew from his office with that of deputy tower captain: feeling that, with the establishment of the Guild, opportunity should be made for sharing these duties. He also wished to be free to give more attention to the work of the Cathedral School of Ringing. He received a message of esteem from the Provost and a unanimous vote of appreciation and thanks from the meeting; and was elected vice-president of the Guild.

Other elections for 1961 included: Chairman, Cdr. C. F. Jackson, R.N.; tower captain and belfry keeper, N. Haile; treasurer, M. C. Bickel; secretary, R. Harris; assistant belfry keeper, C. Harris; committee, Miss S. K. M. Knight, F. Burnett, D. Boreham, and the tutor of the ringing school, Mr. L. Stillwell was elected honorary life member in appreciation of his kind writing up the Guild peal book.

Guild members contributed items of entertainment to the social, following supper; and Mrs. E. Jones received the thanks of all for her great help with the refreshments.

WINCHESTER & PORTSMOUTH DIOCESAN GUILD

The highlight of the annual meeting of the Andover District, held at Whitchurch on January 14th was the election of four new ringing members from Sydmonton, previously regarded as an unringable tower. Here a new band is being formed and this is the first time in the District's history that members have been elected from this tower.

The service was conducted by the Rev. Hamilton Lloyd, who, in his address, stressed the point that ringers should attend, if possible, the services they rang for. The usual Whitchurch tea was enjoyed. Mr. A. W. Alliston presided at the business meeting and Goodworth Claford was selected for the next meeting on March 18th, with Andover bells after tea. The District outing on Easter Monday will be in the Wesbury area. The future of the Alliston Cup contest was discussed and was left to the executive meeting.

WHO HAS A RIGHT TO RING THE BELL?

Three members of the band at St. Michael and All Angels' Church, Newburn, Northumberland, write that apart from their ring of six bells they have a seventh bell which is over 1,000 years old and is rung for funerals and Holy Communions, etc. This bell is rung by the vergier, the churchwardens and a sidesman who recently put a young boy on to chiming it, and then followed an accident.

We feel that it is our right to take over this bell and to ban others from interfering. Can we, as bellringers, obtain such authorisation? I think you will agree with me in saying that it is our job.

(Signed) M. B. WELFORD,
D. M. JOHNSON,
PETER WELFORD.

NOTE.—While we sympathise with Newburn ringers, we feel that they have no right to claim to ring this bell. The decision as to who shall ring the bell rests with the incumbent.—Ed.

OBITUARY

THE DEATH OF MR. J. A. FREEMAN

Members of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild are mourning the loss of a beloved Master.

Although he had been in failing health for some time only those close to him realised the end was near. Jack Freeman was much more than Master, he was a kindly friend to all ringers with whom he came in contact. Since he was elected Master of the Cathedral company in 1929 visiting ringers will remember the smiling welcome that was always extended to expert or learner.

Those of us who have served with him in the administration of the Guild have been impressed by his obvious desire to do the right thing; even if we did not always agree we respected the sincerity behind all his words and actions.

Ringings was his great love and for more than 30 years he held various offices in the Guild, always bringing a quiet wisdom and friendly approach to all problems.

His ability as a ringer and conductor is well known: his impressive list of performances appeared recently in the series 'Servants of the Exercise.'

The Lincoln Diocesan Guild has been fortunate in having three outstanding Masters in its 61 years of existence. Rev. H. Law James was the first, 1899 to 1932, followed by Rupert Richardson, 1932 to 1947, and John A. Freeman was the natural successor.

It was with regret that the members at the 1960 annual meeting heard that he would not seek re-election in 1961.

Jack was a great churchman and for many years he rang each Sunday for Matins and afternoon Evensong at the Cathedral then for evening service at St. Peter-at-Gowts, where he also sang in the choir.

It was at this church that the funeral service took place on January 14th, there was a large number of ringers present. Guild officers, Branch officers, and members from the far corners of this scattered diocese.

The simple but impressive service was conducted by the Vicar, Canon Houlden and the lesson was read by the Dean of Lincoln, president of the Guild.

In the evening a very good half-muffled peal of Stedman Cinques was rung at the Cathedral, conducted by his son, as Jack would have wished. The band consisted of one representative from each Branch and the more senior members of the Cathedral company.

With the passing of John A. Freeman, much loved and respected Master, we turn a page of Lincolnshire ringing history, saying with sincerity, 'Well done, thou good and faithful servant.'

J. B.

'A SAINT OF THE EXERCISE'

With the death of John Ashley Freeman, Master of the Lincoln Cathedral Ringers since 1929 and Master of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild since 1947, the Exercise has lost one of its most devoted members.

The practical highlights of Mr. Freeman's ringing career have been published in previous articles in 'The Ringing World,' but even greater than his absence from the tower will be the loss of a sincere leader and a churchman of the highest integrity.

Most members of the Cathedral company have known no other Master and it is due to his care, advice and passion for progress that such a measure of success in the Lincoln District was achieved during the years of his Mastership. Under his leadership anyone showing interest was given every opportunity to progress. Nothing gave him more pleasure than to see these opportunities accepted and to help young ringers to further their experience.

Following the Rev. H. Law James and Mr. Rupert Richardson as Master of the Guild, John Freeman determined to follow their example to continue the advancement of methods and the quality of ringing in the Lincoln Guild and the higher standard reached during his leadership is a tribute to him. His last visit to the belfry, although he was far from well, was to help his company to ring Londinium S. Maximus and it was typical of him that he enquired frequently of the progress of this during his final illness.

Many ringers will remember Mr. Freeman's dry humour and kindly advice. He was a devoted churchman, ringing on Sunday at the Cathedral and for the services of his own parish, St. Peter-at-Gowts, and serving in the choir and on the Parochial Church Council.

A life devoted to God and to ringing surely makes him one of the 'Saints of the Exercise.' May his soul rest in peace. J. L. M.

ANOTHER APPRECIATION

A friend writes:—The passing of John Ashley Freeman will leave a gap, not only in the Lincoln Diocese but also in the Exercise at large. Only the third Master of the Lincoln Guild, he was called upon in 1947 to continue the work of a well-loved friend and popular Master, Rupert Richardson. He succeeded splendidly, for the gifts of leadership were in the man, who was aware all his life of the true source of power.

By trade a joiner, he brought the same dignity to his daily work as he did to his life-long interest of bellringing. He was first and foremost a churchman, and he regarded his ringing primarily as a part of the service he could render to God. Hence the Master of the Diocesan Guild and the Master of the Lincoln Cathedral company was often to be found at the rope's end on the six in the parish church of St. Peter-at-Gowts, where he performed yeoman service in a number of ways.

He carried out the duties of Master in a large diocese very effectively. He had presence, and he could draw people to him. The humblest ringer was always catered for. His Mastership of the Cathedral company meant a great deal to him and he had an excellent relationship with successive deans of Lincoln. The Cathedral ringers flourished under his guidance. The years before and immediately after the war saw him in his prime—who knows what might have been accomplished had not the war intervened?

His first love was probably Stedman. He was a skilful conductor in this method, and called nearly all his peals of Stedman, both on tower bells and handbells. He would undoubtedly have been in the front rank of double-handed Stedman ringers had the opportunities come to him much earlier in life. In the field of Spiced Surprise, he was a pioneer. Had not William Pye declared, after scoring a peal in twelve Surprise methods, that if his band wanted any more, they could ring it themselves? Mr. Freeman, with his progressive mind, did want more, and he trained a band to achieve it. It is unlikely to be generally known that he repeated the composition in sixteen methods to himself almost daily throughout the war years. Yet his special niche in ringing history will probably be his part, when over sixty years of age, in the record peal of London Surprise Major. His was a splendid performance. He knew the construction of London as few do, and it was an inspiration to watch him sort out a muddle in that method.

Mr. Freeman was blessed with a happy home life which, with his wife, he was ready to share generously. Very many ringers have enjoyed good company at 95, Sincil Bank, Lincoln, where the fires of life burned brightly, particularly members of the Forces during the war.

One of Mr. Freeman's duties as a member of the Cathedral body was to ring Great Tom of Lincoln on special occasions. On Wednesday, January 11th, it tolled to mark his passing into the higher service. All who knew him will wish to extend their deepest sympathy to his wife, two sons, and his brother in their loss.

MR. GEORGE LAVERS

AN APPRECIATION

It came as a very great shock to read in 'The Ringing World' of the passing of George Lavers, of Plympton St. Maurice.

I last saw George at a meeting at Kea, Truro, a few years ago. He was then his usual cheery, robust self, and this makes the shock of his death, after a short illness, all the greater.

George, as has already been said, came from a great West Country ringing family; it was he who 'banged the drum' while his father, Mr. 'Bill' Lavers, piloted me through my first six score of Grandsire at Plympton.

George was not a prolific peal ringer and perhaps not so well known in wider ringing circles, but what he lacked in knowledge of change ringing he made up for in his ability to strike perfectly practically any bell of any weight and condition. He was quite happy to take a rope on rounds or call changes if it meant helping a stumbling learner along.

I shall always remember him as one of the most good natured chaps I have ever known; one who would 'do anything for anybody,' and will always remember the many happy occasions when we rang handbells together.

My deepest sympathies are extended to Mabel, his wife, his three children and his father and sisters at this sudden tragic loss.

R. A. SOUTHWOOD.

MR. LANCELOT LAWRENCE

The death occurred on December 19th, 1960, at his home in Chapel Road, Attleborough, Norfolk, of Mr. Lancelot Lawrence, aged 70 years.

Mr. Lawrence was a great churchman and, in more recent years, was in charge of ringing at Attleborough. He taught all the local recruits to ring and his death has left a gap which is very much felt, there being nobody there at present to replace him. Besides his interest in bellringing, he was keenly involved in the activities of the local Toc H branch, to which he introduced tone ringing on handbells.

Mr. Lawrence formerly worked for the G.P.O. and was widely known and respected in many Norfolk villages. To his widow, two daughters and his son we extend our sympathy.

The funeral at Attleborough on December 22nd was attended by ringers from Attleborough and district, including representatives of the Norwich Diocesan Association of Ringers, of which Mr. Lawrence was a member and correspondent for his tower. The funeral was followed by cremation at Norwich.

MR. C. H. WICKENS

We regret to announce the death of Mr. C. H. Wickens, of Twineham, Sussex, aged 58. Captain of the local tower, he was a prominent member of the Sussex County Association. His son-in-law, Mr. R. C. Knight, is captain of Burgess Hill tower. The funeral service was at Twineham last Friday.

MR. F. W. BRINKLOW

We regret to learn that Mr. Frederick W. Brinklow, of Oxhey, Herts, died on January 20th.

THE LADIES' GUILD
Sussex District

The 24th meeting of the Sussex District was held at St. John the Baptist, Southover, on January 14th with an attendance of about 24 members. After a short service, conducted by the Vicar, tea was enjoyed, followed by the business meeting. Apologies for absence were received from Mrs. Hairs and Mrs. and Miss Dowling. Five new members were elected.

Mrs. Percy was unanimously re-elected vice-president. Miss Beeny, unfortunately, was unable to carry on the secretaryship and Miss S. Beresford was elected her successor. The committee is composed of Miss Everest, Miss Stevens, Mrs. Reynolds and Miss Granger.
Next meeting, Willingdon, on April 8th.

EAST RIDING RINGERS' DINNER

On December 31st, 23 ringers from Cottingham, Ferryby, Hessle, Kirk Ella, Sutton-on-Hull and Walkington assembled for a dinner at the Beverley Arms Hotel. During the afternoon ringing took place at Walkington (6) and St. Mary's, Beverley (10), and included numerous methods to suit all standards. Everyone was then ready for the excellent Christmas dinner, which was followed by an informal social evening. Later the ringers returned to their respective towers for the midnight ringing. At Kirk Ella, Orpheus Doubles was found to be very suitable for the half-muffled ringing before midnight, and the New Year was welcomed in with a brisk touch of Cambridge, the standard of which augured well for the ringing in 1961.

30 Years Ago

'R.W.' January 23rd, 1931:—
False peal at Painswick commented upon—its conductor states 'The Painswick Youths, not being affiliated to the Central Council, make their own Rules and Decisions, and still claim to have rung the greatest number of true changes on twelve bells.'
Mr. James George, by ringing a peal on January 3rd, now has rung a peal on every date of the year, including December 25th and February 29th.

CHILDREN'S T.V.

FROM STRENGTH TO STRENGTH

THE year 1960 will be well remembered by the Ashford District of the Kent County Association for two reasons: firstly, we had the great honour and privilege to be hosts to the Central Council at their Whitsun meeting at Folkestone, and secondly because it has been one of the most enterprising and encouraging years in the District's history, with the standard of ringing raised and the numbers of newly-affiliated towers and new members increased. Responsible for most of this good work during the year has been the active District secretary, Mr. Crawford T. Hillis, of Willesborough, together with his District representatives, Mr. Alan Berry, of Folkestone, and Mr. Joe Batchelor, of Little Chart.

To deal first with the towers in the District in union with the Association, the number now stands at 29, which is probably the highest it has ever been, although at Tenterden, Pluckley and Brabourne the bells are awaiting attention, and at the last two towers are not at present being rung. Last year saw the re-enrolment of Wittersham, Lympe, Aldington and Mersham, the last-named re-appearing after an absence of many years. Of the towers that are not yet in union, six of them contain bells which are not at present being rung for various reasons, three have no ringers and four have local bands. With the influx of new towers there has been an encouraging increase in new members; 1960 saw 60 new members join the Association.

There has been no substantial restoration work during the year, but plans have been set afoot for restorations in three of the District's towers. At Tenterden the sixth bell, which cracked earlier in the year, is to be recast, and the remainder retuned and rehung; this is to take place this year, and it is hoped that it will be possible to ascertain the exact weight of the tenor of this noble ring of eight, which is always reputed to weigh 30 cwt. At Mersham, which was a hive of ringing activity many years ago, the eight bells are to undergo a thorough restoration. News has also come through recently about the heavy ring of five bells at Ivychurch, where a bell fund is in existence and where complete restoration is also to take place. These bells have not been heard for 25 years or more.

A good standard has been maintained at the meetings, including the A.G.M. at Ashford, where the sixth bell was almost unringable owing to gudgeon trouble (the bell has since been rehung). This is mainly due to the great assistance given to everyone by the District Ringing Master, Mr. John R. Cooper, of Ashford, whose thorough and capable organisation of the ringing is always appreciated. Nevertheless, it has been in the service touches and peal ringing that the District has really excelled itself. In service touches, Willesborough is still in top form, with over 100,000 changes in over 30 different methods. It is no coincidence that this is the tower of the well-known Kent veteran 'Old Ted' Ruck, sole remaining founder member of the Association, by whose resourcefulness the tower was put into its present position of high esteem.

The peal ringing year has also been one of the most successful and prolific in the District's history. Thirty peals have been rung in 24 different towers, which means that the District has contributed nearly one-quarter of the Association's peals for 1960. Again, Crawford Hillis has been responsible for many of the successes in this field—he rang 48 peals in 1960 (including his 100th), a majority of them being in the District; he has conducted 14 of these. At the other end of the table, Nicholas J. Davies, of Ashford, has called two peals, including his first as conductor, but neither of these was in the District. Altogether ten Ashford District members rang their first peal—eight of these in the District and two of them in towers in the Canterbury District; this is also a record achievement.

Three of the outstanding peals in the District deserve mention. The first was a peal in three Minor methods at Little Chart, in which two youngsters of 13 and 15 rang their first peal, both ringing 'inside.' The second was a peal of Spliced Surprise Minor by 'The Giants' at the heavy ring at Smarden (tenor 18½ cwt.), which was a fine all-round performance considering that it was brought round in 2 hours 56 minutes. The third was a well-struck peal of Cambridge Surprise Minor by members of the District at Great Chart, in which there were two firsts of Surprise. Previous to this 'The Giants' had failed on two occasions here, when ringing London Surprise Minor and Spliced Surprise Minor.

Perhaps, however, the most outstanding amount of ringing took place during the last two weeks of 1960. On December 19th a peal was rung at Cheriton (Grandsire Triples) and on the 21st a quarter peal of Kent Major was rung at New Romney. December 22nd heralded the only failure, when a peal of two Minor methods came to grief at Woodchurch; however, this was made up by two Minor methods at Bethersden on the 27th, three Minor methods on the difficult ring at Wittersham on the 28th and Cambridge Minor at Great Chart on the 30th. On December 31st three peals were rung, viz.: Cambridge Major in the morning at Benenden, Yorkshire Major in the afternoon at Frittenden and Grandsire Triples in the evening at Ashford. The Frittenden peal was arranged to enable Crawford Hillis to ring a peal in all the ringable towers in union in the District.

And now that 1960 is almost a myth, we look forward with enthusiasm to 1961 in the hope that it will be another year of success and achievement, not only for our own Ashford District but for all Districts of all territorial Associations.

'MARSHMAN.'

The peal at St. Margaret's, Westminster, on January 14th, in honour of Mr. Reuben Sanders' 87th birthday anniversary, was well worthy of the occasion. Reuben performed throughout the peal with his customary ease and accuracy and the band hope that he may enjoy many more such happy ringing anniversaries.

We regret to learn that Mr. Thomas H. Taffender is ill in hospital.

All Hallows', Twickenham, has changed its practice night from Wednesday to Thursday, so as not to clash with St. Mary's practice nearby.

There will be no practice on Thursday, February 9th, at Leicester Cathedral, due to a social gathering of the Cathedral Society. Visitors please note.

Mr. Horace M. Day (79), of Market Deeping, who was confined to bed with bronchitis, was to stand in the memorial peal at Market Deeping for Mr. J. A. Freeman, Master of the Lincoln Guild. The two spent their early working life together.

Mr. T. E. Sone rang his first peal at the age of 15 at Marden on January 19th, 1911. In the peal was Mr. Frederick S. Macey, who cycled about 40 miles, from Sittingbourne, to participate in the peal. The two rang on the 50th anniversary peal on Jan. 19th, 1961.

The bells of Maitland, N.S.W., are reputed to be one of the most difficult to ring. A peal was rung by Sydney friends of Miss Maureen Threlfo, secretary of the local ringers, on the occasion of her marriage on January 14th. The conductor, Mr. T. W. Goodyer, is the first to ring the tenor to a peal single-handed. Congratulations to him and the two first pealers.

The peal at Ashtead, Surrey, on January 21st will probably be the last peal on the bells before their removal to Loughborough. There they are to have their canons removed, be quarter turned and rehung in a cast-iron frame. Although more than 300 peals have been rung on the bells this was the first to be conducted by a lady. Marilyn Gibbs called the peal with unflinching confidence and precision.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Newton Nottage can be proud of its band of school-age boys and girls. Three of them with their instructor rang in a peal of Stedman Doubles on January 21st. It is just two years since the band took their first steps in change ringing. Since then 17 peals have been rung, including Grandsire Triples and Doubles in 14 methods. They are the present holders of the Swansea and Brecon Diocesan Shield, and they have created such interest in the parish that Messrs. Taylors have been instructed to rehang the bells and add two trebles.

The band who rang in the peal at Packworth on New Year's Eve would like to associate with it the name of Maurice Hughes, who stood down to allow a visitor to ring.

Correction.—The ringers of 8 and 9 in the peal of Cambridge Royal at Macclesfield on New Year's Eve were Edward Jenkins and Robert B. Smith and not as submitted.

The general secretary of the Ladies' Guild received 117 names for tea for the meeting at St. Clement Danes' on January 21st. Is this a record?

We are planning to publish next week peals rung by the Oxford Diocesan Guild during their 80th anniversary week. The youngest who rang a quarter, writes Miss M. R. Cross, was eleven and the oldest ninety.

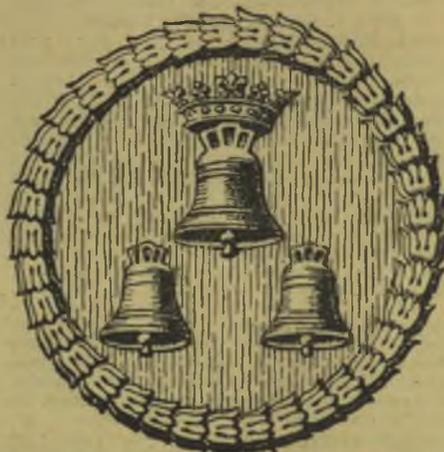

'The Church Illustrated' for January has an article on bells generally by Philip Addison. The picture, we hope, will not be taken as an example of how to stand preparatory to ringing, with hands two feet apart on the sally.

Mr. C. Tovell, secretary of the Western Branch of the Norwich Diocesan Association, is now recovering at his home after being in hospital, over Christmas, for an internal operation. He thanks all his ringing friends who have written to him and hopes to be ringing again with them by the summer.

Wentworth (Yorks) church handbell ringers toured the parish at Christmas and collected £13 10s., which was divided equally between the Belfry Fund and Refugees. During a recent practice they were 'shot' by a local cine-camera enthusiast making a film of Westworth.

NOT ONE ABSENT FROM 1926 PEAL BAND

The ten ladies who rang in the only peal on ten bells, 5,067 Stedman Caters at St. Clement Danes' on Wednesday, January, 20th, 1926, in 3 hours 30 minutes, reassembled at the Church on January 20th, 1961, to take part in the rededication of a peal board to replace the one destroyed by enemy action during the last war.

The band consisted of Miss E. E. Chapman (Mrs. R. Sanders) 1. Miss N. E. Shorter 2. Miss P. Upsher (Mrs. N. Tomlinson) 3. Miss F. E. Orr (Mrs. A. Diserens) 4. Mrs. R. F. Deal 5. Miss E. Hardcastle (Mrs. J. Davis) 6. Mrs. F. I. Hairs 7. Mrs. A. D. Barker 8. Miss E. K. Parker (Mrs. G. W. Fletcher) 9. Miss R. Hawkesworth (Mrs. R. Fardon) 10.

Ringling commenced at 3 p.m. and such was the number of ringers attending that a relay system had to be adopted (10 up and 10 down) thus ensuring that as many as possible were able to get a pull, and at the same time putting a check on the over enthusiastic ones who want to ring in every touch.

At 3.45 p.m. the original band (with one exception) rang a perfect course of Stedman Caters, prior to the dedication of the board, the exception being Mrs. G. W. Fletcher, who was unfortunately unable to climb the stairs, her place being taken by Mrs. P. Staniforth (president of the Ladies' Guild).

The dedication ceremony was performed by the Rev. H. L. O. Rees (of St. Mary Abbots', Kensington), a former chaplain-in-charge of St. Clement Danes', who very kindly officiated at the last moment owing to the present Chaplain (the Rev. T. Ryder) being laid aside with influenza. At the service which followed the Rev. H. L. O. Rees gave a most interesting address on the use and misuse of the words 'Ritual' and 'Ceremony.'

Catering for tea had proved a difficulty as so many places in the City are not open on Saturday afternoons, but anticipating a gathering of about fifty, a hall had been procured and the members of the Central District had undertaken to provide the tea. When the names for tea started to pour in (they eventually reach 117), there had to be hurried arrangements made for the transport of extra china, teapots, urn and so on, to say nothing of food, but evidently the company of some 125 were satisfied, for there was food left over and to spare.

The thanks of the Ladies' Guild to all those who had helped to make the meeting such a success were voiced by the president, especial mention being made of Mr. Barker for his suggestion, Mr. Coles for his work and Mr. W. Dobbie for fixing the board in position, Mr. A. E. Barnett and Mr. Hairs, and to the various clergy who had helped with the service and had given permission for their bells to be rung. Mrs. Lock and her helpers were also accorded a hearty vote of thanks for their catering, and Mr. and Mrs. Rose, who had not only made and brought with them 180 cakes, but Mr. Rose had volunteered to be O.C. Hot Water, with the result that there was plenty of boiling water for tea when members were ready.

In her remarks Mrs. Staniforth mentioned that it was rather amazing to think that after 35 years the same ten ladies were still not only able to be present, but also, with the exception of Mrs. Fletcher, were still able to ring. Mrs. Diserens, who had had an operation only a fortnight previously, had been determined to ring and although a ringer was standing by in case of emergency, she had rung in the service touch. It was that determination which had stood the ladies in good stead thirty-five years ago, and it was now up to the younger members to carry on the tradition. Mrs. Fletcher, who had conducted this one and only ten-bell peal rung by the Ladies' Guild, had been the backbone of the Guild for many years, first as secretary and then as president, and it was hoped she would be able to be present next year, when the Guild celebrates its 50th anniversary.

Members came to this meeting from a wide area, and, in fact, eight of the twelve Districts were represented. Miss E. Steel, president from 1928 until 1948, came from Bedford, and quite a large contingent arrived from the Western District (including members of the 'Supporters' Club'). Others came

MR. FREDERICK E. DUKES, A.M.I.E.E.,
Irish Association.

Those of us who have had the pleasure of visiting Ireland since the war cannot fail to have been impressed by the happy attitude found in the Irish belfries. The Irishman really enjoys his ringing, and is always delighted to welcome fellow ringers from Britain. This happy state of affairs is largely due to the jovial personality of Mr. Frederick E. Dukes, who has been general secretary of the Irish Association since 1941.

Born in Dublin on May 23rd, 1912, Fred learnt to ring at St. George's, Dublin, in 1928, under the instructorship of that great ringer, Gabriel Lindoff. In 1934, his work took him to Cork, and he joined the band at St. Finbarre's Cathedral. He carried out repairs to the bells, with the help of the local company. He returned to Dublin in 1937, after a severe accident, and attached himself to St. George's, and St. Patrick's Cathedral bands. In 1944 he moved to Drogheda, and this became his home tower. The Drogheda band have been most successful in cup competitions, very popular in Ireland. His teams have won more trophies for good striking than any other bands.

Since 1945 he has been a representative on the Central Council, and in 1954 was elected to the Standing Committee, and a member of the Literature and Press Committee. His pleasant Irish 'burr' is always listened to with respect, and one of his proudest moments was when the Council visited Ireland in 1958. The unqualified success of this meeting was largely due to his organisation, and also to Mr. John Dunwoody, of Holywood, Northern Ireland. When Fred attends Council meetings he scorns modern transport, and always brings his bicycle over to visit the various towers!

After leaving school in 1928, Fred entered the service of the Great Southern Railway, in the electrical engineering department. He worked his way up to become chief electrical engineer to the Great Northern Railway in 1944. Following amalgamation of this railway, with the Ulster Transport Authority in 1958, he was one of the number of senior officials who were retired. He is now the electrical engineer for Goulding (Fertilisers) Ltd. He has been an A.M.I.E.E. since 1942.

Fred's first peal was Grandsire Triples at St. Mary's Cathedral, Limerick, on August 1st, 1938, the first peal on the bells, and his present total is 189 from 5-12 bells. Fifty-one of these have been rung for Associations other than his own, as advanced peal ringing is difficult in Ireland. He has conducted 77 peals, including (on handbells) Doubles in 2-10 methods, Stedman Doubles, Kent Minor and 4 methods of Minor, all firsts for the Irish Association. He has also taken part in the first peals in Ireland of Pudsey Major, Dublin Major and Bob Maximus. Also the first ever of Holywood and Pontefract Delight Major. He has rung Cambridge from Minor to Royal, and is looking forward to scoring Cambridge Maximus. He has also rung London, under the conductorship of Harold Poole.

One of his 'brain-children' was founding the 'Irish Bell News' in October, 1951, and he has been its editor ever since.

His wife, son and daughter are also ringers, and in addition to ringing, he is a first class swimmer, being honorary instructor in life-saving to Drogheda Grammar School. He also holds the floating championship of Ireland, and his daughter holds the plunging championship.

Altogether Fred is a man of a most charming disposition, and has many varied activities. He is a delightful companion in any company, and his visits to England are all too infrequent. Good luck to his enthusiasm. Apace.

REDEDICATION OF ALL HALLOWS', TOTTENHAM

The fabric of this ancient parish church in North Middlesex has recently undergone extensive repairs, and, happily, considerable attention has been given to the bells.

On Sunday, January 22nd, a special service was conducted by the Vicar of Tottenham, the Rev. W. F. C. Clarke, M.A. In the presence of the Mayor and Mayoress and a large congregation, the Archdeacon of Hampstead, the Ven. H. J. Matthews, M.A., was asked to rededicate the tower and bells, with the words following:

'Almighty God, who didst put it into the heart of David, King of Scots, eight hundred years ago to build this tower as a witness to faith in thy beloved Son, Jesus Christ: Grant that now, repaired and renewed, it may stand for years to come as a continual reminder of thy power in our lives and our sure hope in Thee, through the same Jesus Christ our Saviour.—Amen.

Almighty God, be pleased, we beseech thee to accept the offering of these bells: bless, sanctify and hallow them to thy glory and service, that they may call thy faithful people to praise and worship Thee, through Jesus Christ our Lord.—Amen.

In the faith of Jesus Christ we dedicate afresh these bells to the glory of God; in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost.—Amen.'

At the end of the service, and as the Mayor and congregation were departing the bells were rung to a touch of Stedman Triples by Miss R. Foreman 1, Miss P. Rowe 2, A. Cutler 3, Mrs. T. J. Lock 4, J. R. Mayne (cond.) M. J. Rowe 6, T. J. Lock 7, E. J. Rowe 8.

Of the old ring, the treble and fifth were recast, the tenor was removed and a new treble added to make a lighter ring. For those who keep such records, the ring of eight bells now has a tenor in F sharp, weighing 13 cwt. 2 qr. 0 lb. It is a bell (the seventh of the old ring) which was cast by Philip Wighman, London, in 1696. In addition to the lesser weight of metal, Messrs. Mears and Stainbank have rehung the bells in new fillings and framework at a lower level in the tower with the open louvres well above the bells, thus effecting a great improvement.

To those who know All Hallows', Tottenham, with affection, a sum of £1,000 is still needed for repayment of loans, and contributions would be gratefully acknowledged by the Vicar, The Priory, Church Lane, N.17.

MASHONALAND DIOCESAN GUILD

December 14th saw the formation of Africa's first Diocesan Guild, when some dozen ringers and beginners met in the Cathedral Hall, Salisbury, S. Rhodesia, under the chairmanship of the Dean of Salisbury. This constitution is largely based on that of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, a copy of which was obtained from the honorary secretary of the Central Council.

At present there are no ringable bells in Rhodesia; but Salisbury Cathedral has a ring of ten from the Whitechapel Foundry, a gift from an old ringer who lives in Salisbury, and work has started on a bell tower which should be finished by the end of 1961. Meanwhile, the bells are hung in their eventual frame, out of doors, beside the Cathedral, and are regularly clocked for services. The clocking apparatus is to be scrapped when the tower is built.

During the past year a start has been made in teaching beginners on handbells (the foundry made us a present of ten), and in spite of the difficulties caused by the great distances we travel in this country, quite a lot of progress has been made. Several of the earlier recruits can now ring the trebles or tenors confidently to Bob Minor, and two of them do most of the instruction of the fresh recruits who appear from time to time. Progress would certainly have been faster if those of us who thought ourselves beginners in England ten years ago and more had not found ourselves the experts here, and if these so-called experts were able to attend practices more frequently. At it is, some of us live from 50 to 100 miles from Salisbury. We suffer also from the lack of an experienced conductor.

However, we have on occasion rung plain courses of Grandsire Triples and Bob Major, and we have called (and made) bobs in Bob Minor with two 'experts' and a beginner. We hope to have enough ringers properly conversant with Plain Bob by the time the tower is finished for us to put the bells into changes as soon as they can learn to handle a bell. Our position is very like that of many towers in England, when the ban was lifted; but our experts are fewer and less experienced.

Officers of the Guild are as follows: President, the Bishop of Mashonaland; vice-president, the Dean of Salisbury; Master, H. P. Raynor, P.B. 729, Marandellas; honorary secretary/treasurer, K. S. Cross, P. O. Box 766, Salisbury, S. Rhodesia.

Ringers visiting Rhodesia, or coming to live here, will be welcome. Handbell practices are held every Wednesday in the Cathedral vestry or the cloisters at 5.30 and 7.30 p.m.—H. P. R.

BATH AND WELLS DIOCESAN

That bells were the best propaganda the church had was a point made by the Rev. E. W. Eyden, Rector, when he preached at Shepton Mallet church on the occasion of the annual meeting of the Frome and Mid-somer Norton Branch.

Following tea, provided by lady friends of Shepton ringers, the Rev. A. G. Durston presided at the business meeting. The honorary secretary (Mr. E. J. Chivers) presented the accounts which showed a substantial increase due to higher affiliation fees (eight bell towers one guinea, six bell towers 10s. 6d.). There were now 28 towers affiliated, more than at any time before, more members, new interest and progress being made. Thirteen new members were elected.

Officers elected were: President, the Rev. A. G. Durston, honorary secretary, Mr. E. J. Chivers; Ringing Master, Mr. R. G. Beck; Assistant Ringing Master, Mr. F. Savage. Votes of thanks were passed to all at Shepton Mallet who had helped to make the meeting such a pleasant one.

GLAMORGAN WANDERERS VISIT FIVE COUNTIES

Following tradition, Glamorgan Wanderers started their 1960 tour on August 29th from Weston-super-Mare by ringing on the light eight at St. John's Church. Before lunch there had been ringing on the magnificent 23 cwt. eight at Banwell and at Axbridge. At Cheddar, Mr. John Hunt joined the party and the ringing included some Kent T.B. Major and Cambridge. The party contented themselves with Triples at Wedmore and concluded the day's ringing on the rather noisy six at Crocombe.

Tuesday's programme included Stedman Triples and Grandsire Caters at Evercreech; Kent T.B., Little Bob and Grandsire at Ditcheat; Castle Cary (a little rough); Cambridge and Plain Bob Minor at Henstridge; Stalbridge and Sturminster Newton. The night was spent at the greatly improved Marnhull youth hostel.

Before leaving Marnhull we rang at the Parish Church. The two Shaftesbury towers—St. Peter's and the swaying Holy Trinity—were followed by Fontmel Magna and Compton Abbas. Because of a puncture only seven members reached Blandford. The last tower of the day was Cranbourne, a smooth-going eight.

An old friend of some of the band, the Rev. Kenneth C. Davies from Basingstoke, joined in Thursday's ringing in villages on Salisbury Plain. Unusual was Woodford, with ringing on a very awkward circle in the organ loft. Some enjoyable Cambridge was rung at Upavon and the night was spent at Marlborough youth hostel.

The presence of Don Exel and his wife for the day resulted in Spliced Surprise Major (Cambridge, Yorkshire and Lincolnshire) being rung at Chippenham. The only 12 of the tour—Trowbridge—impressed all the company. The night was spent at Bath youth hostel, with ringing at two towers.

For many the last day proved most gruelling. After a long search the anti-clockwise six at Swainswick were found. A hard ride brought us to Chipping Sodbury and then Iron Acton. After visits to Stapleton, Westbury and Henbury, St. Matthew's, Kingsdown, concluded a very enjoyable tour.

The band consisted of Geoffrey B. Stickland, Brynley Taylor, Nigel Lamping, W. James Goodfellow, Edmund Hartley, Alan W. Smith, Christopher Beer, Roger Havard, Geoffrey Upstall, Robin Lee, Alan Thompson and Robert V. Hughes. R. V. H.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

A pleasing feature of the Bicester and District Branch meeting at Bicester on January 21st was the number of young ringers present. The standard of striking was, on the whole, higher.

The day was the birthday of the Branch secretary (Mr. C. H. Kinch) and he kindly provided the tea for 42 members and friends, which was served by Mrs. Palmer and the ringers' wives. As Mr. Kinch entered the hall he was accorded musical honours.

At the meeting, tribute was paid to the memory of James Franklin Haynes, of Charlton-on-Otmoor, who died on December 28th, as a result of a fall in his home. An active ringer before the war, he had not rung for some years, due to a hand injury.

The secretary welcomed the visitors, especially Mr. H. Werritt and party from Norton, Herts, as they were ringing together in the immediate post-war years. The vote of thanks included the Branch president, the Rev. C. P. Sherwood, who conducted the service, and the Rev. V. W. S. Leatherdale, who preached on Christian unity. Mr. C. Smith was the organist and Mr. Frederick Sharpe read the lesson.

GUILD of DEVONSHIRE RINGERS

Successful Branch Meeting At Teignmouth

The Mid-Devon Branch held their annual meeting at Teignmouth on January 14th. A large number of members attended from towers in the Branch and visitors included the president, Rev. Preb. E. V. Cox. Both eight-bell towers were available.

The service, held at St. Michael's, was conducted by the Rev. D. E. Hood (Vicar), the lesson being read by the president. The Vicar, in his address, based his remarks on the parable of changing water into wine, and he thanked the visitors for their work in various towers.

After a sumptuous tea in the Church Hall, the business meeting followed, with Mrs. D. E. Hood in the chair. Hearty votes of thanks were accorded to the two Vicars for the use of the bells, the organist, and the Mothers' Union for preparing the tea.

Certificates were presented by the president to Messrs. Michael Coombe and John D. Prowse, and apologies for absence were received from Messrs. W. Simmonds (Ringing Master) and H. C. Spencer, and Mrs. R. W. Dunn.

The secretary, in a comprehensive report, stated that there had been more members, and more peals had been rung. The membership stood at 89, and of these 25 were of school age. Eight peals had been rung and it was gratifying to learn that these had been in even bell methods. The report regretted the passing of Mr. C. F. Austin, of Paignton. The treasurer's report showed a balance in hand of £7 5s. in the General Fund and £2 12s. in the Instruction Fund.

The officers were re-elected as follows: Chairman, Mrs. D. E. Hood; secretary and treasurer, Mr. D. P. Roberts; Ringing Master, Mr. W. Simmonds; to the General Committee, Messrs. A. Goss, H. C. Spencer and W. J. Harvey. Eleven new members were elected, and Mr. M. J. Bray, who was serving in the Royal Navy, was transferred to the list of non-resident members.

The next meeting will be held at St. Saviour's, Torre, with visits to Cockington and Upton (subject to permission).

from Cheshire, Leicester, Nottingham, Manchester and Lyme Regis, while the Home Counties were well represented. There was even one visitor from Australia, and we hope she enjoyed what we think could be termed a typical ringers' gathering.

As this was such a large gathering it was not possible to have everyone seated at tables for tea, but this was really no drawback, as people could wander round the hall and there was opportunity for everyone to see the old newspaper reports of the peal which the band had brought along, and the cartoon showing the various members in the act of ringing was particularly appreciated. At the conclusion of the meeting Mrs. Hairs, speaking on behalf of Mrs. Fletcher, thanked the members of the Guild and said how much they had all enjoyed meeting again. She asked Mrs. Lock, who had been responsible for getting the board replaced, if she would accept a copy of the peal card which had been printed 35 years ago.

After tea ringing was available at St. Giles-in-the-Fields and at St. George-the-Martyr (where Mr. H. O. Rogers had extended a cordial invitation to members to join with the London County Association).

The collection at the service, which had been taken by representatives of four of the Ladies' Guild Districts, amounted to £6 and this was given to the R.A.F. Benevolent Fund.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

FIRST RAISED IN 1948

Dear Sir.—I have followed with much interest the recent revival of the controversy on 'Methods or Variations' in regard to Doubles, because I believe I was the first to raise this particular issue, in 1948, after Mr. Alan Pink had claimed the first peal in 42 Doubles methods. This included, amongst others, the usual variations of Bob Doubles like Old Doubles and April Day, which merely use different bobs.

The view I expressed then was that a 'method' with no separate plain course could not exist. This obtained little or no support at the time, so that it is gratifying to find here is now an increasing number of people who hold that opinion. Perhaps in the fullness of time my other contention, that there can be no true peal of Doubles or Minor, will also find more general favour!

To forestall any lengthy replies on one aspect of the subject, perhaps I may add that after 33 years' membership of the same local band (at an 8-bell tower) I have probably rung more Doubles than many who regard themselves as 5-bell ringers.—Yours sincerely,

E. A. BARNETT.

THE HAINES OF WILTON

Dear Sir.—It may be interesting to note that at the annual meeting of the Salisbury Diocesan Ringers' Guild (Salisbury Branch) on January 21st, three of the Haines family, of Wilton, were elected amongst the four Ringing Masters.

There are at Wilton (near Salisbury) five of the family who ring, namely:

Frank, the father, aged 75, a life member of the Guild, who has been a ringer for 65 years and is still very active.

Cecil, his eldest son, many years captain of Wilton tower, and re-elected Branch Ringing Master.

Arthur, the youngest son, a very competent Doubles/Minor conductor, last year's Ringing Master (having to retire due to pressure of work).

Raymond, Cecil's son, aged 17, a very keen ringer for the past nine years: elected Branch Ringing Master.

Edward, Frank's stepson, aged 22: elected Branch Ringing Master.

We now await Arthur's daughter to take an interest and then look out, quarter peal columns, etc!—Yours sincerely,

EDWARD A. HAINES.

Wilton.

CHRISTMAS DAY BROADCAST

Dear Sir.—I do hope, like your correspondent, J. Ward, that Christmas Day ringing in future years may include some good Minor ringing. I confess I am a Minor ringer, but I do appeal to the people responsible for these broadcasts to listen to our recording of these broadcasts, or alternatively, get among the Halifax or Barnsley Districts members. I suggest for a broadcast either Shelley, Cawthorne or Saltsome.—Yours, etc.,

J. BURGESS.

Friezland.

RESTRICT MINIMUS PEALS

Dear Sir.—I think peals of Minimus should be confined to towers of five or less bells, but to ring Minimus in towers of eight, ten or twelve bells does not make sense. Regard with woe the day when Bob Singles becomes a reality! I wonder what we will be calling peals rung on two bells: 2.500 extents?—Yours protestingly,

D. BROOKS.

Putney.

CENTRAL PRACTICE TOWER

Dear Sir.—The 'ideal situation' envisaged by Mr. P. A. Corby has been operating in the Loughborough District of the Leicester Diocesan Guild for over a year.

Copt Oak is an isolated hamlet situated centrally in the Charlwood Forest area, and consists of a few cottages, the usual public house, and scattered farms, therefore the possibility of raising and keeping a band together is very remote, and realising this the Vicar has given every encouragement to other ringers to visit his church, and by so doing to increase and assist the three local youngsters who had evinced interest.

Frequently this small belfry has contained in their 'teens' ringers and occasionally over 20 have been present at the weekly practice on Tuesday nights, and regularly five and six (sometimes more) towers are represented; so that in addition to propelling juniors from the start of handling a bell, through to call changes and plain hunting, there has been ample scope for the more advanced to advance farther, an opportunity readily accepted, to wit, recently on one night, Plain Bob, Oxford Bob, St. Clement's, Cambridge, Chester, Ipswich and Bourne were rung; in fact through the connivance of an energetic 'Hon. Sec.' a manual of methods has become a necessity, as one 'blue line' is sufficient incentive to have a go.

I can agree transport is much easier now, and I have seen six cars parked outside the church on these practice nights, the owners bringing friends and picking up and returning the locals. The action was commented on very favourably by the Vicar, who has relinquished the office of chairman of the District, as he will shortly be leaving the parish, and he expressed his gratitude and strongly recommended such co-operation in other parts where numbers were few and difficulties were being experienced similarly.

If I may be permitted to add a personal note, I have been ringing for over 40 years, and have learnt more new methods during the past year than before, so, Mr. D. C. Morgan, do not despair—the solution is in your own hands.—Yours faithfully,

H. O. OVER.

Hugglescote, Leics.

METHODS AND THEIR FALSE

COURSE HEADS

Dear Sir.—Messrs. Carlisle, Halls and Marshall have doubtless produced a useful article on falseness in treble bob methods. I disagree, however, with their generalisation that there is no value in publishing f.c.h.s of a method unless the incidence of falseness is also given. Numerous conductors possess compositions which they know to be true to all suitable methods with, say, F-groups BE, or BDK, and are interested in knowing the f.c.h.s of new methods.

I do not see the point of publishing the incidence of falseness as the authors have attempted to do for Sawley Surprise Major. This information is of use only to the composer, who is capable of determining quickly such information for himself. In fact, I am certain that he will check published f.c.h.s of any method he wants to use, as a precaution against typographical or other errors.

What is essential is for conductors of peals in new methods to ensure that details of the methods are correctly published in 'The Ringing World.' Our Derbyshire trio have failed to do this for Sawley, for I have seen no correction to the figures given on page 716. I presume that the method should be:

58 14 56 36 14 38 14 38. L.H.B.

—Yours sincerely,

GEORGE W. MASSEY.

Frome, Somerset.

WHEN GEO. GILBERT WAS SUSPENDED

Dear Sir.—The article on the bells of Avington, in the issue of December 23rd, reminds me that on Monday, August 4th, 1913, I was one of a band intending to ring three peals of Minor in a day. In the party were George Gilbert and Charles Edwards, who are both deceased, also the two Crouchers (only one left) and Alfred Ekins, son-in-law of C. Edwards.

After scoring the first peal at Old Alresford we arrived at Avington about 1 o'clock. After ringing about 120 changes George Gilbert was suspended in the air, as the tenor he was ringing set rather far back. His remark was, 'All right, I'll be there in a minute.' By the time George had slithered down the rope we had all set up. Amidst laughter we dropped the bells, and made our way up amongst them.

At that time it was quite possible to pass an envelope between the cracks of the 3rd; the 4th also was badly cracked. It is not necessary to describe the sound of such a ring—three dustbins, one bucket and a tin tray. An attempt at Tichborne afterwards proved that the bells there had not been oiled for a very long time. The ringers came from Farnham (3) and Aldershot (3).—Yours faithfully,

HUBERT J. CHAFFEY.

P.S.—I believe that the Manor House was the home of Shelley.—H. J. C.

STUNT RINGING

Dear Sir.—This latest effort of a one man peal is one of the best stunts yet, even better than the Cambridge University Guild's efforts with Bob Minor rung simultaneously on handbells by six men.

Throughout the history of change ringing there have been stunt performances—people ringing handbell peals on dung-heaps and in bed. On tower bells there have been peals of Triples rung on seven and Caters on nine bells.

I personally feel that these stunts add some life to the ringing Exercise, although I have no time for the four different sets of ringers who have rung Plain Bob 210 times repeated on handbells; at least our one man band did go one better and ring two methods.

I am told that there are some hundred odd Minimus methods. Why don't these handbell experts study these and ring about 40 of them in their peal: this would be worth while.

Mr. Birmingham might note that our first four bell tower peal (the test case) was in five methods so that each method had only 42 repeats—no more repeats than the recent peals in Oxford of Undershaft and Smithfield Doubles.

I have always been interested in stunts, and one day hope to take part in two peals of Bob Doubles on ten bells or two of Cambridge Minor on twelve. The only sensible way to look at it is if people are daft enough to do it let them get on with it.—Yours faithfully,

GEOFFREY K. DODD.

Highclere.

ST. MARY REDCLIFFE

Dear Sir.—I read with interest the reference to the addition of two trebles at St. Mary Redcliffe, Bristol, in 1872 (page 49, 'The Ringing World' January 20th, 1961).

For those who probably do not know, there is something of interest long before that date.

It is recorded that in 1480 there was a ring of six at Redcliffe, and a heavy one at that. Treble 11 cw.; 2 qr. 22 lb., 2nd 14 0 2, 3rd 19 2 16, 4th 29 3 23, 5th 44 2 16, tenor 62 2 24.

What interest there would be among our tenor turners if those bells were now available!—Yours faithfully,

F. HANSFORD.

COLLECTION OF SURPRISE METHODS

Dear Sir.—For some time now the Exercise has felt the need of a Collection of Surprise Methods. Corrigan's series has been out of print for a number of years, not many copies being in circulation.

Mr. Eric Critchley has, with the help of Mr. Shirley Burton, written and classified all the right place Surprise methods. Compositions have been collected, others being composed, especially for the collection, by Mr. Burton, Mr. Stephen Ivin, Mr. R. F. B. Speed, and other notable composers, so that the majority of the methods can be rung to peals.

The total number of methods in the collection is 7,178, the compositions totalling 224. Each method is given complete with false course heads, classification according to quality, suitable compositions and name (where a peal has been rung).

The Ringers' Magazine has been asked to publish this work, the cost of normal printing being such that it would not prove economically possible. It has been decided to divide the work into five parts, each containing approximately 1,400 methods and 50 compositions.

It is hoped to have the first part completed within the next two months, the remaining parts being issued at similar intervals. The cost—2s. 6d. per part, with a special price reduction for Guilds and Associations making bulk orders.

Would anyone interested please contact me at the following address.—Yours sincerely,

10, The Avenue, WILLIAM BUTLER, Old Windsor, Berks.

LEEDS TENOR BELL

Dear Sir.—Re Mr. Corby's letter (January 20th) concerning Leeds tenor bell. I would put its weight as an honest 17½ cwt. and no more. This would compare very favourably with the tenors at Brenchley and Penshurst, which weigh 17 3/4 in E and 17 2 1/4 in E flat respectively, and have approximately the same diameter (47½ inches). All three tenors in question were cast by the celebrated Joseph Hatch, of Ulcombe; Leeds in 1617, Penshurst in 1619 and Brenchley in 1610.

It may, however, be found that Leeds tenor is less than the 47½ inches quoted by Stahl Schmidt (1887), as the worthy historian's measurements are inclined to be on the optimistic side; in which case the weight would be correspondingly less.

Leeds bells have a rather chequered history. Originally a heavy ring of four, the three smaller bells were by John Wilnar, 1638, and the tenor by Joseph Hatch, 1617. These were rehung and augmented to ten in 1751 by the addition of six new trebles, cast by Robert Culbin, the gift of the Hon. Robert Fairfax, of Leeds Castle. These remained until 1910, when they underwent thorough restoration including the recasting of the old 7th and 9th and the rehanging of the entire ring by Alfred Bowell, of Ipswich.

Although I have not inspected the bells, I believe the old 1751 frame is still in use—if this is the case it speaks very highly of Catlin's workmanship, for I gather it is still in excellent condition.—Yours faithfully,

NICHOLAS J. DAVIES.

Kennington, Ashford.

Mr. F. B. Lufkin's 500 Peals

On December 29th Mr. F. B. Lufkin rang his 500th peal. Of these he has conducted 334, using 160 compositions. His peals have been rung with 772 ringers, 75 being first pealers, in 180 towers. Long lengths include 6,000, 9,000, 12,740, 18,000 and 22,400 changes. Two silent peals were rung. Details:

Maximus 3 (conducted 1), Cinques 12 (4).

Royal.—Bob methods (3 different) 22 (16), Treble Bob methods (3) 15 (12), Surprise methods (7) 21 (8), Caters 27 (23).

Major.—Bob methods (14 different) 98 (73), Treble Bob methods (4) 46 (38), Surprise methods (18) 83 (24), Spliced Bob 1 (1), Spliced 2 Surprise 1 (1), Spliced 6 Surprise 1, Spliced 10 Surprise 1.

Triples.—27 (27).

Minor.—1-42 methods 132 (112), Doubles—6 (4).

Handbells.—Minor 4.

GOD-CENTRED LIVES

Dear Sir.—The Rev. Michael Freeman states that when a man's life is God-centred everything he does, including both peal ringing and service ringing, is an offering to God. I do not dispute this. What I do dispute is the conclusion he draws from it, namely, that it is irrelevant to distinguish between the two types of ringing.

Mr. Freeman is apparently not prepared to deny that one offering may be of more value than another. A man whose life is God-centred will always seek out the better thing. This involves making comparisons. It involves distinguishing between the good and the not-so-good. It requires a peal ringer to ask himself whether he would not be better employed in helping to raise the service ringing standards in his own and neighbouring towers.

There is a small but important minority of ringers who give far more time and thought to peal ringing than to service ringing. Meantime, throughout the length and breadth of the country there are towers in which the bells hang silent on Sundays, or in which the service bands languish for the want of worthwhile assistance. While such things continue there will be those of us who will persist in saying that the bells are provided primarily for service ringing, and that ultimately it is service ringing, and service ringing alone, that really matters.—Yours faithfully,

H. W. COX.

Saxilby, Lincoln.

NOTE.—This correspondence is now closed.—Ed.

OXFORD UNIVERSITY SOCIETY AND MINIMUS

Dear Sir.—I should like to correct an impression that will have been gained by readers of the account of the Universities' Association's visit to London, in your issue of January 20th.

It is there reported that two members of the Oxford University Society rang a peal of Plain Bob Minimus for the U.A., 'because their Society would not accept it.' I was at the U.A. dinner and I believe in fact that in his speech Mr. Roaf merely hazarded a guess that this had been the case, and meant it more as a merry quip than anything near the truth.

I hope this is so, for there was never any attempt to 'credit' the peal to the Oxford University Society. Thus the question as to whether the Society would accept it or not never arose.

If this error has found its way into any official record of the U.A. meeting, I hope that it will be corrected forthwith.—Yours faithfully,

NICHOLAS MARTIN,

(Master,

Oxford University Society).

PUDSEY SURPRISE MAXIMUS

Dear Sir.—Re peal of Pudsey Surprise Maximus by P. Border (page 56). A bob at wrong, either in Plain Bob or Surprise with a 4th place bob is the same. Your course end 325467890ET with a bob produces at the wrong lead end 3247596E8T0 with a single reverses two and three as 234. Just take 325467890ET in Plain Bob Maximus and single the next lead, which is wrong, your lead end 2347596E8T0.—Yours faithfully, WILLIAM A. J. KNIGHT.

A Noted Peal Of Minor

The peal in 125 methods rung at Felkirk, Yorkshire, on January 20th, displaces the handbell peal in 109 methods rung at Adwick-le-Street, Yorks, in November, 1955 (though this is still the record on handbells). The most methods rung in seven extents on tower bells were rung at Copt Oak, Leicestershire, in 1951.

The most methods in 5,040 changes, previously were 113 Doubles methods, rung at Hambleton, Bucks, in August, 1960. The most methods rung in nine extents were at Copt Oak in 1951 (126 methods in 6,480 changes).

The band would like to associate Mrs. Jo Moreton with the peal. She was in the earlier peals when 'working up' for the attempt, but has been in hospital and has not started to ring again yet.

OBITUARY

MR. F. MERRICK

The death at the age of 65 of Mr. Fred Merrick, of Waldridge, Suckley, Wores, which took place in hospital on January 6th, after a short illness, came as a severe shock to his many relatives and friends.

Fred had lived in the Suckley district nearly all his life and had been a ringer there for 40 years. He was a member of the Western Branch of the Worcestershire Association and Ledbury District of the Hereford Diocesan Guild. He was also a member of the Suckley P.C.C.

Since 1919 he had been a member of the Worcestershire Special Constabulary, being the holder of the Long Service Medal and four bars. During the First World War he served in the 7th Battalion Worcestershire Regiment, and later joined the Cradley Branch of the British Legion.

He was a very keen ringer and regularly attended the Branch meetings, and had taken part in about 30 peals; he also devoted much time to training a band of learners at Suckley and in 1956 he successfully piloted them through their first peal (Grandsire Doubles) which he conducted. This was the first peal on the bells by a local band and his first as conductor. He also took part in the Sunday service ringing at Cradley, Mathon, Colwall, Coddington, Bosbury and St. John's, Worcester.

By his death the church has lost a staunch supporter and worker, the district a conscientious public servant and both the Worcestershire Association and the Hereford Diocesan Guild a very loyal member. Sincere sympathy is extended to his widow and family.

The funeral took place at Suckley on January 10th, and was largely attended. The service was conducted by the Rector (Rev. E. W. Rogers); apart from the widow and family, representatives of the Parochial Church Council, Special Constabulary, British Legion and parishioners, the congregation included the following ringers: Messrs. J. Ward (Coddington), E. Wilson (Chaines), J. Lane and G. Gwynne (Bosbury), R. L. Price, D. and W. Hinksman and T. Cooper also representing C. Bowers (Bromyard) E. Price (Colwall), F. Davis (Whitbourne), J. Gwilliam (St. John's, Worcester), C. Deakin (Leigh), Mrs. F. C. Pugh representing Mr. F. C. Pugh (Hallow), J. Cale, W. Cale and W. Huband (Suckley). An apology was received from Mr. F. Hyde, secretary of the Western Branch of the Worcestershire Association.

At the conclusion of the service the bells were rung half-muffled. F. H.

THE REV. H. S. BRIGGS, M.A.

Portishead and Wraxall ringers joined forces to pay their last respects to the Rev. H. S. Briggs, M.A., by ringing a well-struck quarter peal of Grandsire Triples at Portishead (with the bells half-muffled) during the evening of January 23rd, the day of his funeral.

Mr. Briggs, who was well known and well loved in N.W. Somerset, served for many years as curate at Portishead before becoming Rector of Wraxall. On retiring, some years ago, he returned to spend his remaining days within the shadow of the church at Portishead. Ever a great friend and champion of the bellringers, Mr. Briggs himself loved the music of the bells. Our condolences are extended to Mrs. Briggs, who in her younger days was a noted ringer. As Miss M. E. N. Jukes, she took part in the first all-ladies peal ever rung—at Cubitt Town, London, in 1912.

A. J. G.

Suffolk Guild

Ringling ranged from rounds to Double Norwich at the annual meeting of the North West District, held at St. Leonard's, Horringer. The Rector (the Rev. Mr. Timmins) conducted a shortened Evensong, and 14-year-old June E. Wright was a very good substitute organist. February's practice will be at Great Barton and March's at the Norman tower, Bury St. Edmunds. Next District meeting Elveden, April 15th.

ALL SAINTS', STAMFORD, BELLS TO BE BROADCAST

By J. H. BLUFF

This is Stamford's quincenary year and next Sunday the bells and morning service from All Saints' Church, Stamford, are to be broadcast in the Midland and Northern Home Service. While this church is not prominent for peal ringing, its history and beauty justify the ringer's interest.

The origin of this fine church is shrouded in the mist of antiquity, like that of the town of which it is so elegant an ornament. Certain events are dated by old chronicles, which show that a church stood here in Saxon times. Domesday Book in 1072 has an entry: 'in Pontland (Borough land) to the Church of St. Peter belonged one caracute (120 acres) of land, and to the Church of All Saints half a caracute.' In 1087 William II distributed moneys to various churches up and down the country and All Saints' shared in this disbursement.

Francis Peck, in his notable work 'The Antiquarian Annals of Stamford' (1727), records that in 1176 Achard de Stamford, who had the patronage of the living, bestowed it upon the Priory of St. Michael, which stood on the south side of the river not far west of the present Stamford Town Station.

A list of incumbents shows the Priory exercised this right almost exclusively until their house was dissolved by Henry VIII in 1536. For the benefit of those who travel along the new Stamford bypass from south to north the ruins of this building can be seen just after passing under the first bridge.

The Church of All Saints stands well, on an island site, rising from west to east, and dominating the market square. It retains much of its thirteenth century glory, in the arcading of the south and east walls. The imposing battlements date from the last quarter of the fifteenth century, when extensive restoration was carried out by the brothers William and John Browne, wealthy merchants of the 'Staple of Calais,' who lived in the parish. The restoration was necessary to repair the damage caused by the War of the Roses, which in all probability deprived this church of its Early English high pitched roof and tower (at the south-west corner).

To the end of that period must be assigned the present very fine tower and spire which reaches to a height of 152 feet. The tower rises at the north-west corner of the church in three plain stages above a basement with panelling in the lowest stage, and within the battlemented parapet rises a crocketed octagonal spire with three tiers of lights, an object of delicacy and beauty which can be seen from all the approaches to the town.

In the interior of the church some of the thirteenth century work is seen at its best. The south arcade and the arcade between the chancel and chapel date from approximately 1225. The three pillars on the south side of the nave, while conforming to the early English style of clusters of free shafts banded midway between base and capital, are all different in their overall shape, and the deeply moulded arches of the south arcades also contribute to the general effect of richness, and contrasts with the plainer pillars and arches of the Perpendicular style north arcade. The north side of the church was entirely rebuilt in the late fifteenth century.

SUBSTANTIAL REPAIRS

The following extract from the church vestry book, dated 1902, is of interest, as carrying forward the story of the building: From 1871 to 1874 two works of substantial repair were effected; at that time all the pillars were under-pinned and masses of concrete were laid to make a solid foundation. The south wall was faced back into its vertical position, from which it had deflected by about twelve inches. The cost of these two works of restoration was between £2,000 and £3,000. It was at this time that the gallery at the west end and north side of the church was removed, and the groined roof of the tower was entirely renewed.

In 1878 improvements were made in the chancel. The pulpit was removed from the south side to the north. The low screen of Mexican onyx was added. The old reredos was removed and the present one depicting the Last Supper was added.

In 1886 the vestry was built by the subscription of parishioners.

In 1888 the oak screen in the tower arch was erected and in 1890 the oak panelling in the chancel was added. The handsome oak porch at the north entrance was presented by a parishioner in 1902.

The font is of grey Purbeck marble octagonal in design and elaborately carved, and dated from about 1500. The large canopied niche in the north wall carries a figure of St. Peter, which was given by the daughters of a late choirman and churchwarden.

THE BROWNE FAMILY

Looking east over the chancel arch is a shield, with a heart in gold and a letter B: this was to perpetuate the name of the Browne family, whose association with the parish was of such lasting benefit.

Between 1936 and 1938 many of the roof timbers had to be renewed, and the repainting and gilding of the angels of the choir roof and the roof bosses in the nave (where the crest of the Browne family will be found, a stork on a woolpack) is of that date.

The church possesses several good specimens of memorial brasses. On the east wall of the north aisle are fixed those to early members of the Browne family connected with All Saints', the largest are of John Browne, who died in 1442, and Margery, his wife, who died in 1460. He wears a sleeved gown and mantle and stands on two woolpacks, as a symbol of his trade. Then there are John Browne the younger, in alderman's mantle, and his wife, Agnes.

The best, however, lie in their original position in the chapel: these are of William Browne, founder of Browne's Hospital, and of Margery, his wife. In his will of February 17th, 1489, he directed that his body should be buried in this chapel, in which the warden and confrater of his hospital in Broad Street were to offer Mass for his soul. The brass depicts him in a long gown and his wife in flowing robes; at his feet are two woolpacks and over his head is his motto 'X me spede' (Christ speed me). Over his wife are the words 'Dere lady help at nede,' and at her feet a little dog. Near their brasses is another, in memory of Margaret Elmes, a grand-daughter of William Browne.

On the south wall is a small headless brass, which formerly lay in the middle of the chancel, in memory of Henry Wykys, Vicar of All Saints', 1479-1508. He is interesting as having the Manor of Burghley by Stamford; he bequeathed it to Margaret Chambers, daughter of his cousin, John, who sold it in turn to Richard Cecil, father of Queen Elizabeth's Lord Treasurer, who built the present mansion (Burghley House).

All the stained glass windows are modern, some being very good; especially the great west window, given in 1888 by Edward J. Browne, of Boston, U.S.A., a descendant of William Browne. It depicts a company of saints with incidents from the lives of the more important ones—John Baptist, the Blessed Virgin Mary, St. John, St. Stephen, St. Mary Magdalene, St. Paul—and the coat of arms of members of the Browne family, and of the borough of Stamford.

To the south of this window is one by Kempe, depicting the Diocese of Lincoln and its three neighbours, Peterborough, Lichfield and York; each being represented by its patron saint and cathedral—St. Hugh of Lincoln, St. Peter of Peterborough, St. Chad of Lichfield, and St. Wilfrid of York.

THE BELLS

Finally, back to the tower which contains a beautiful ring of six bells, the tenor weighing 14 cwt. 1 qr. 17 lb. The treble and third were undoubtedly given by John and Margaret Browne—the inscriptions reading:

Treble: Hic nova campana Margareta est nominata.

Third: In multis annis resonet campana Johannis.

Fourth: Newcastle, 1726.

Fifth: God save the King; Tobias Norris cast me, 1674.

They were rehung by Taylors, of Loughborough, in a steel frame, made for eight, in 1925. The bells are rung regularly every Sunday for services and on Tuesday night for practice, by a team of nine ringers, three of whom are ladies. The service of the four oldest members of the team totals 190 years.

There are no records of any peals being rung before 1925, and only twelve since that date.

Joint Meeting At Edenbridge

Over 60 members of the Tonbridge District and the Kent District of the Ladies' Guild were entertained to tea in the usual 'Edenbridge style' when a joint meeting was held at Edenbridge on January 7th. The generous spread was prepared by Mrs. E. Leigh, ringers and wives of the Edenbridge band. The service, conducted by the Rev. E. A. Graham, was well attended. Ringing was continued until 8 p.m. and varied from call changes to three Spliced.

BELLS OF ABERDEENSHIRE

Part II of 'The Church and other Bells of Aberdeenshire' by the late F. C. Eccles and Ranald W. H. Clouston, offers no inducement to the young ringer seeking new rings of bells, but is a faithful record of many bells, some centuries old, resting in bird-cage bellies.

Of the old bells mentioned there are a number by the Dutch founder, Michael Burgerhuys, but what is regarded as one of the finest bells of the county is that at St. Triduana, Kinnellar, cast by Peeter Vangen, Ghein.

A bell of tragedy is that to be found at Premnay, which was a deathbed bequest of George Isaac Carpenter, who with his five children died of diphtheria in September, 1878.

An unusual history has the bell at Tough, purchased by the parishioners in 1734, on the understanding that 'they were to have the use of it (without paying anything to the officer) for themselves and their posterity at their several funerals, ay and so long as the bell should last.' The parishioners came to arrangement with John Mowat, bell founder of Old Aberdeen, for him to supply one of the old music bells of King's College—Wilson's bell 'and the bad money in the box' being taken in part payment (Sessions Record). This bell is regarded as the last survivor of the 12 bells cast by order of Bishop Elphinstone for the great steeple of King's College, Old Aberdeen.

LOSS TO GREAT MARLOW

The two oldest members of the Great Marlow belfry, Messrs. H. Buckingham and W. E. Yates, died within a few hours of each other on January 21st.

Mr. H. Buckingham, who was 91, was an active member until he could no longer climb the belfry steps four or five years ago. His peal ringing was little, although he rang in one a few weeks before his 80th birthday. He was most regular at service and practice ringing.

Mr. W. E. Yates was 88 years old when he died and one of the old school, having rung and conducted peals with such noted men as J. W. Washbrook, W. H. Fussell, A. H. Cocks, W. H. Theobald, J. S. Hawkins and many others. He had not been an active member since just after the return of ringing in 1946, only ringing on one or two occasions. Maybe he had his own reason for this, but it is thought he did not like the introduction of ladies to the belfry. Nevertheless, he was a Christian man, and served his Church faithfully for many years.

May they both rest in peace.

Both men were laid to rest on January 26th and in the evening the bells of All Saints' Church, Marlow, were rung half-muffled and a quarter peal of 1,260 Grandsire Triples was rung in memoriam by the following members of the tower: Ann Cook 1, John Young 2, Paul R. Dean 3, Brian D. Price 4, Eric G. Silvey 5, L. Joseph Young 6, Richard E. Dean (cond.) 7, Arthur Boarder 8.

MR. THOMAS WILSON

The death occurred on January 20th, at his home, at 118, Langham Road, Blackburn, of Mr. Thomas Wilson, in his 68th year. He joined the Lancs Association in 1911 and was for many years the ringing secretary.

On the death of his father during the second war years he took over the captaincy of the Blackburn Cathedral tower, a position he held up to his illness about two years ago. He was a prominent Freemason and a highly respected citizen, being for many years a sidesman at the Cathedral. He was also a member of the Ancient Society of College Youths.

The funeral service was held in the Cathedral previous to interment at St. Leonard's, Samesbury, the Provost, the Very Rev. W. Kay, officiating. On the eve of the funeral the ringers of the Cathedral rang a half-muffled quarter peal of Grandsire Triples: K. Earnshaw 1, A. Tomlinson 2, F. Longworth 3, J. Skeats 4, G. Wignall 5, F. Heyes 6, M. J. Halliwell (cond.) 7, G. Atkinson 8.

ARCHDEACONRY OF HALIFAX

On January 7th the Guild held its annual meeting at Mirfield. The ten bells ran fairly well, but the tuning of the smaller bells left much to be desired. There was a really good attendance, people coming from a wide area, and ringing was of rounds and call changes. To Surprise. An enjoyable tea and lively business meeting were had after a short service, conducted by the Vicar.

The committee elected for the year are as follows: J. Pearson, chairman; F. Linfoot, Ringing Master; D. Smith, secretary; A. W. Bond, treasurer. Committee members, R. Senior, D. Kirby and R. Pagdin. Next meeting, All Souls', Halifax, in March, if possible.

BEDFORDSHIRE ASSOCIATION

The Biggleswade District, at its annual meeting on January 14th, at Biggleswade, elected a new chairman—Mr. L. Bywaters in place of Mr. B. Sims, who wished to retire. Back in office are Mr. A. Smith (secretary), Mr. A. Sinfield (treasurer, Belfry Repair Fund), and Miss S. Percival (Press secretary). The general committee now consists of Messrs. G. Mayes, R. Houghton, R. Sharp and M. Lockey. It was also decided that Mr. M. Lockey should act as organist at District meetings in the absence of the local organist.

Thanks were expressed to the Vicar, the Rev. R. B. Griffin, who conducted a short service and to those who prepared tea. Ringing included Cornwall Surprise. Visitors were present from the Bedford and Luton Districts. Next meeting, Clifton, February 18th.

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

No. 2599 Vol. LVII

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 10, 1961

Registered at the G.P.O. for transmission as a newspaper. 8d.

'THE BELLRINGER'

THERE comes a time to every man, one may suppose, when shelves must be tidied, papers sorted, and ruthless sacrifice made of much matter that has accumulated. In the time of the new year the urge came to us to approach this not too pleasing task, and in the process—not so much tidying up as the removal of the dislocation from one place to another—we lighted on an interesting relic. It was a copy of 'The Bellringer,' dated March 1st, 1907. Forthwith (like Sherlock Holmes gloating over the papers of 'The Musgrave Ritual' and forgetting his spring cleaning) we stayed our task and sat among the litter, engrossed in this relic from past days.

Its pages measure eight-and-a-half inches by eleven, much the same as our journal was before it increased its dimensions; but 'The Bellringer' has 40 pages printed on good quality paper. The tinted outer cover bears a florid heading incorporating a scroll, impressions of York Minster and Norwich Cathedral, and a recumbent classical figure exhibiting the motto 'Palnam qui meruit ferat.' The paper cost 3½d., and the joint editors were Walter Hunt and William Willson.

This number was evidently a special Birmingham one, and indeed it coincided roughly with the date of the Henry Johnson commemoration dinner. The outer page, therefore, has a photograph of St. Martin's Church, and inside we find articles on this famous centre of ringing, a memorial note on Henry Johnson illustrated by an engraving of the old gentleman, and a biographical sketch of Albert Walker with a lively portrait of that gentleman to give it spice. The paper had its own topical cartoon, and the present one shows the shade of (one presumes) Henry Johnson revisiting the Bull Ring and being offered a copy of 'The Bellringer' by a small, neat newsman who, without doubt, resembles Mr. Walter Hunt.

For the rest it will be found that 'The Bellringer' follows the traditional style of 'The Bell News.' There are peal reports, quarter peals and miscellaneous performances, accounts of meetings, church news, and three pages of lighthearted gossip and opinion by 'Jingle,' the pen name of the other editor, William Willson, noted for his facile pen, his robust wit and his power of making readable gossip out of nothing. (It may sometimes be felt that another W. W. would do us all good!) The composition pages give figures of peals by Lindoff, Knights, Carter and Henry Wilde, and also a new method by Arthur Craven called 'Ruby Surprise,' of which the author says: 'This is not half a bad method. It is arranged out of Yorkshire and New Century. . . . It will extend to Royal and Maximus.' No peal in a method of this name appears to have been rung, but one wonders if the figures have not since appeared under some other title.

The Learner's Page is conducted by 'Sphinx,' and has the very laudable and enterprising sub-title of 'From Rounds to London Surprise,' reminiscent in its romantic prospect of the Victorian novel 'From Housemaid's Cap to Coronet.' There is no question of the earnestness of the instruction, however, and in this number the learner is presumed to have got as far as Plain Bob Doubles. Figures in heavy type are used to illustrate the effect of bobs, and emphasis is laid on the cyclical nature of the work in plain courses.

The journal seems to have begun life as a weekly, but by No. 6, Volume I, it had already been converted to a monthly. The difficulties attendant on the maintenance of a ringers' paper were already becoming discouragingly clear, and despite the promise of stout support, indicated in the correspondence columns, 'The Bellringer' did not survive to complete one year of service. Writing in 1914, Mr. Walter Hunt confessed: 'There are many intricacies in connection with details for the ringing Press which are oftentimes quite foreign to the average consumers of printer's ink. Owing to this defect in our working we failed to meet smooth waters, and reluctantly had to call "Stand".' It was an honest admission of a gallant failure.

William Willson had a nationwide reputation both as ringer and popular writer. Walter Hunt, with perhaps not so great a reputation, was a prominent figure in Midland circles, a capable ringer and a lover of music, and of a robust, genial character. He was one of the party that assisted Albert Coppock in the revival of the Society of Sherwood Youths in the mid '20's. One of our treasured memories of Mr. Hunt is of his appearance at the first annual dinner of the resuscitated Society, carrying a saxophone, into which, after dinner, he breathed the very fumes of hospitality with great gusto and infinite good nature.

Now here we sit, nearly 40 years afterwards, amid our untidy papers, looking at Walter Hunt's journal, and calling up innumerable visions of many pleasant things.

Southwell Minster, according to 'The Leicester Mercury,' is to have a ring of 12, with a tenor weighing about 25 cwt., the work being entrusted to John Taylor and Co. The old bird cage in the Minster is being removed and a new ringing chamber installed.

A 15-bell chime has just been completed by John Taylor and Co., for Port of Prince Cathedral, Haiti.

In response to pressure from many friends in all Districts Mr. C. W. Denyer has consented to be renominated as Master of the Guildford Diocesan Guild.

A photograph of John Blaikie ringing at Dunholme belfry and an interview with him appear in 'E.M. Gas,' the magazine of the East Midland Gas Board. John is an internal auditor for the Board at Lincoln.

It is hoped that in March the London Training Colleges Guild will become a constituent part of the University of London Institute of Education Students' Association, thus widening its scope. This Guild has no connection with the University of London Society.

Owing to the clapper of the tenor being away at Loughborough, only nine bells were available at Newark for the annual District meeting on January 21st. Methods up to Yorkshire Surprise were rung on the front eight and a course of Double Norwich Caters concluded the proceedings.

Former well known Guildford ringer, Mr. Charles Willshire, aged 95, is living at Mansouville, Quebec, with his daughter, Mrs. Allam. His health is not good. Mr. Willshire is the oldest past member of the Central Council and served from 1903-1913, representing the Winchester Diocesan Guild.

'Dee Vee,' who was elected a member of the Ancient Society of College Youths at 'The Coffee Pot,' London, in February, 1924, has at last rung a peal for the Ancients—Sedman Triples at St. Mary's, Nottingham, on January 14th. He last rang a peal in this tower in 1928. As usual his dogs listened in from his car close by.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Bro. Richard Eric Elson was installed as Worshipful Master of the Edwinstowe Lodge, N.3998, at Nottingham on January 13th. On the following day a peal was rung at St. Mary's, Nottingham, in honour of his installation and also for Bro. Colin Harrison as Master of the Howe and Charnwood Lodge, 1007. Unfortunately Colin Harrison was indisposed and could not stand in the Masonic peal, his place being taken by W.Bro. David Vincent, of High Legh, near Knutford.

St. Paul's Cathedral bells are being mounted on new bearings. They will be silent for about one month.

After the Shropshire annual meeting a pair of brown leather gloves was left in St. Mary's tower, Shrewsbury.—Write: Mrs. M. C. Poyner, 16, Hawthorn Road, Shrewsbury.

Cracks in the tower of Pulham St. Mary's Church, Norfolk, has necessitated a suspension of ringing activities. An initial appeal for £1,500 has been launched by the Rector, the Rev. C. F. J. Huggins.

Last week we recorded the first peal on the bells of Emneth, Norfolk, which were hung by Thomas Osborne, of Downham Market, nearly 200 years ago, and except for additions to the frame and new bearings they still hang in the same frame.

Last week the Epilogue on Anglia I.T.V. was given by the Rev. William Ives, of Brooke, Norfolk, who is an honorary member of the Norwich Diocesan Association. The bells were heard in rounds rung by the locals and Mr. H. W. Barrett. Up to two years ago this tower had been silent for many years, but there is now a service company, although not yet change ringers.

On January 21st, Mr. James H. Musson conducted two in memoriam peals. One was at Norton Disney to the memory of Mr. J. A. Freeman, Master of the Lincoln Guild, and the other in the evening at his own tower at Silk Willoughby in memory of an old ringer and chorister of this church, who was buried that day. Both peals took 2 hours and 37 minutes.

PEAL RINGING FOR OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD'S 80th BIRTHDAY

So far 32 peals have been recorded as having been rung for the 80th birthday of the Oxford Diocesan Guild during the week of the actual anniversary of the foundation of the Guild—January 17th, 1881. These have ranged from Grandsire Caters, at Appleton, to one of Minimus, at North Aston, which was the first peal on the bells. There were three peals of Surprise Major.

The two Universities in the Guild's area both paid their tribute with peals—Oxford University one of Minor in four methods at St. Cross, Oxford, and Reading University Grandsire Triples at Boyne Hill. Most distant tribute came from Wakefield, Yorks, a peal conducted by a former Master of Oxford University Guild—Mr. W. F. Moreton.

The band that rang a quarter peal at Stony Stratford, Bucks, for Oxford Guild's 80th birthday was composed of pensioners. The total ages of the six were 427 years with an average age of 71. The membership of the Guild totalled 224 years, an average of 35 years.

Miss Brenda Hall (16), who rang her first peal at Burford, is believed to be the first lady member of Burford Church ringers to ring a peal. According to the conductor, she rang like a veteran.

In the Newbury Branch area of five attempts only two were successful.

Outstanding was the peal at Warborough which was the first peal for all the band except the conductor, Mr. Frank Absolom. The method was Plain Bob Triples.

The peal at Great Marlow was by the Sunday service band and it is interesting to note that the last all local peal in this tower was in 1898.

The peal at Great Tew was the first of Major by a resident band in the Banbury and District Branch.

The band who rang in the peal at Chenies wish to associate it with the life and devotion of the Rt. Rev. C. T. T. Wood, honorary assistant bishop of St. Albans, a great friend of the ringers, who was interred the previous day.

Four of the band who rang in the peal at Northmoor were members of the local band.

The compositions rung in the peals at Stoke Poges for the peals of Oxford and Kent Treble Bob by Henry Johnson is on the In and Fifth plan, page 88. Treble Bob part II, and has the sixth in fifths for four courses, and in sixths for the other 13 course ends.

The conductor, Mr. Arthur D. Barker, was inspired by the late Acland J. Perkins, of Beddington, over 50 years ago, to be the first to call this composition from a non-observation bell. In the absence of any other information, this is now claimed for both methods.

Woburn's anniversary ringing coincided with an 80th birthday compliment and his 50 years' service as doctor in the parish of Dr. Selborne Bailey, who a few years ago had the bells rehung at his own expense. Three quarters were rung.

BATH AND WELLS DIOCESAN Cary Branch

The annual meeting of the Cary Branch was held at Ditcheat, on January 28th. Some 65 members attended the business meeting, including the general secretary, Mr. G. Salmon, the treasurer, Mr. E. Naylor, and several associate members.

The Branch officers were all re-elected as follows: Chairman, Rev. G. S. Robinson; Ringing Master, Mr. H. J. Sanger; Assistant Ringing Master, Mr. H. P. Sparks; secretary, Mr. L. McCreadie.

The secretary's report gave the membership of the Branch as 184, and the balance sheet showed a balance of £36 to be handed to the Diocesan treasurer.

Ten new members from Bruton and one from Horsington were elected, and certificates were presented by the chairman to members from Bruton, Castle Cary, Ditcheat and Evercrech.

Meetings for the ensuing year were provisionally fixed for Marston Magna, Kingweston, Batcombe, and the annual at Evercrech in January, 1962.

PERSONALITIES OF THE EXERCISE - 6

MR. FRANK L. HARRIS,
Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild.

Some ringers are born, others are made, and when someone is born into a family where their father is respected as a good and meticulous striker, then that person has a distinct advantage. Such a person is Frank L. Harris, of Hordle, Hants, who was taught to ring in 1936 by his father, Leonard Harris, of Britford, near Salisbury, Wilts, his birthplace.

Leonard Harris was not one who rang a great many methods, but what he did ring he took care to see that the striking was as good as possible. This maxim he installed in his son, with the result that Frank, too, is always careful to insist on a high standard of striking, and will not tolerate anything else. He often tells a story of one occasion when his father started for a peal with the well known William W. Gifford, and the band rang rounds for ten minutes before he was satisfied that the correct beat had been attained!

Frank was born in 1921 and educated at Bishop Wordsworth's School, Salisbury. After a fairly long spell of call changes at Britford, he learnt to ring Grandsire and Stedman at St. Martin's, Salisbury. He rang his first peal in this tower in 1937, Grandsire Triples, conducted by F. W. Romaine, and it was rung to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the first peal in that city.

His total peals to December 31st, 1960, is 270, of which he has conducted 140, and they have been rung in 140 different towers. There is no doubt that the very high standard of peal ringing in West Hampshire and South Wiltshire is largely due to his efficient leadership. Although he has conducted Spliced Surprise Major from 2-8 methods, he has a particular liking for odd-bell methods, and he has called Holt's Original, Carter's Odd Bob, Erin Triples, Spliced Erin and Stedman Triples, and Original Triples, and has also called Stedman from Doubles to Cinques. Other peals of which he is justly proud are calling Grandsire Triples and Caters at Exeter Cathedral, and ringing Major on the back eight. He has also rung five peals at Sherborne Abbey, of which he has conducted three.

By profession he is a civil engineer, and has worked for the municipal boroughs of Salisbury and Chelmsford, and now holds the position of deputy borough engineer at Lymington, Hants. During the war he served with the R.A.F. He has been secretary and Ringing Master of the Salisbury Branch of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild for several years in the past.

He married in 1950, and he met his wife, Jean, through being asked to call her first peal at her home tower of Damerham, Hants. Jean is a first class striker, and has taken part in many of Frank's best performances, including Grandsire Triples and Caters at Exeter. They now have two children.

Still a comparatively young man, he has the opportunity, ability and interest to go on to even greater things, and those who know him will agree that the high quality of his peal-ringing band in the West will always be maintained. Good luck to his future efforts.

SURREY ASSOCIATION

The annual meeting of the Southern District was held at Bletchingley on January 21st. Ringing commenced soon after 3 p.m., and continued until approximately 4.45 p.m., when tea was partaken in the hall, there being 37 ringers present, of whom 12 were visitors.

At the business meeting the Ringing Master, the secretary, the treasurer and the auditor were re-elected to office en bloc, there being no other nominations. Following a ballot, Miss F. Hankey and Messrs. W. Dunn and A. G. Clark were elected as general committee members.

The ringers then attended Evensong with the Rector officiating. A robed choir was in attendance. This was followed by further ringing, until 9 p.m. Ringing ranged from rounds to Yorkshire Surprise and Double Norwich Court Bob Major.

GIRL GUIDES' RINGER'S BADGE

Through representations made from Mr. F. G. Edmans, of Bletchley, the Girl Guides' Ringer's Badge has been altered. In the Bletchley band there are six learners, all with hopes of getting their ringer's badge.

The new rules for the badge are:—

- (1) Ring rounds correctly.
- (2) Raise and lower a bell, preferably in peal.
- (3) Ring one standard method on an 'inside' bell.
- (4) Explain the technical terms used in ringing in her own tower.
- (5) Describe the parts of a bell and how it is rung.
- (6) Show that she understands the importance of rope maintenance.

OBITUARY

MR. ADOLPHUS ROBERTS

We regret to announce the death, suddenly on January 30th, of Mr. Adolphus Roberts, of Stoke, Coventry, aged 90. The funeral service was at Stoke St. Michael's, on February 2nd. An obituary will appear in our next issue.

MR. FRANK SINKINS

Probably the oldest bellringer in the country. Mr. Frank Sinkins died at St. George's Hospital, Tooting, S.W.17, on January 31st. He celebrated his 96th birthday the previous day. He did a great service to ringing in the Slough area.

MR. J. H. FOREMAN

A keen bellringer and secretary of St. James' Society of Change Ringers, Thorley, near Bishop's Stortford. Mr. James Henry Foreman, died suddenly in the early hours of January 23rd. He was 56 years old, and took part in the ringing for morning service and in the choir on the day before his death.

He learnt to ring at Framlingham, where he was born. A singer of considerable ability, he was also a member of the Thorley Dramatic Society and took an interest in the Antediluvian Order of Buffaloes, being a member of the Waytemore Lodge, Bishop's Stortford.

The funeral was at Thorley on January 28th, when ringers were present from Thorley, Stansied and St. Michael's, Bishop's Stortford. A quarter peal of Grandsire Doubles was rung with the bells half-muffled, by H. M. White 1, T. Camp 2, P. Warboys (cond.) 3, E. Milkar 4, F. Bird 5, R. Hayden 6.

MR. FREDERICK W. BRINKLOW AN APPRECIATION

When I received the news of the death of Mr. Fred Brinklow on January 19th, it was a very great shock, as I had met Fred only a few days previously and he looked so fit and well, and full of his nonsense, all to do with ringing; it was indeed a shock.

Fred was 75. We went to the same school as youngsters, sang in the church choir as juniors and later as seniors, and when our voices broke found our way up the belfry stairs to begin another kind of schooling. Whereas our learning at school was in our day helped along with the cane, in the belfry it was oral tuition, which was at times worse than the cane, and now to think this long and happy association has ended so suddenly is difficult to realise.

Of the many tower bell peals Fred rang (about 500) were included Surprise methods. A to Z, but it was as a handbell ringer that Fred excelled. Outstanding was a peal of 16 Spliced Surprise Major methods, in which he rang the tenors.

Whether ringing the tenors to Triples, Major, Caters or Cinques, he always reminded me of a high-stepping horse, so clean and precise, but not 'showy.' Ringers should hear the record of Five Spliced Surprise, and tune their ears to 7-8, then they will understand what I mean.

By profession Fred was an electrician, self-employed and was well known all over the district. His work was like his ringing, absolutely first class and his bright and cheery manner endeared him to everybody he came in contact with.

To his wife, so courageous in her trouble, deep sympathy is felt. A. H.

MR. JOHN A. FREEMAN AN APPRECIATION

My first visit to Lincoln Cathedral was at a time when John A. Freeman's band was enjoying the summit of its peal ringing fame. Our own rather motley visiting party received the warm welcome that is customary in Lincoln, but first the local band asked for

CHICHESTER'S BELLS EN ROUTE FOR FOUNDRY

CHICHESTER CATHEDRAL bells, one of the oldest rings in the country, lined up on the lawn preparatory to their removal to Loughborough, for a major overhaul. The work will cost nearly £2,000 and includes a new frame in place of the timbers, riddled with deathwatch beetle.

The bells range in date from 1583 to 1729. Their inscriptions are:—

Treble and 2, R. Phelps, 1729.

3, I. W., 1583.

4, G. Eldridge, 1674.

5, 1665. 6, W. P., 1665.

7, I. W., 1587.

Tenor, Richard Phelps, 1706.

Weight of tenor, 1 ton 1 cwt. 1 qr.

The initials W. P. on the 6th are those of William Purdue, who subsequently emigrated to Ireland. His initials appear on some of the bells in St. Mary's Cathedral, Limerick. He died in 1673 and there was at one time a tomb in that Cathedral bearing the following inscription:

Here a bell-founder, honest and true,

Until the resurrection lies perdue.

MARSTON (OXON) RINGERS' DINNER

This year the ringers of this famous five-bell tower decided to hold a dinner on January 14th. A few guests were invited from neighbouring towers, as well as the Rev. H. C. Benson, from Beckley.

A peal was attempted during the afternoon in honour of the occasion, but was unfortunately lost. However, the afternoon's disappointment was soon forgotten when the evening's events began. The Vicar (the Rev. Paul Rimmer) said Grace and the excellent meal began.

A social evening followed, in which everyone danced or took part in games. Various songs had been written beforehand and were well and truly sung. The evening was a great success and it is hoped to hold another dinner next year. E. R. V.

LEEDS & DISTRICT SOCIETY

The January meeting of the Society was held at Wakefield Cathedral, where the lovely-toned twelve bells were put to good use, and methods from Plain Bob to Superlative Surprise were rung.

Owing to the inclement weather—snow had fallen heavily during the day—the members present only numbered about 20, but they enjoyed the ringing. At the business meeting Mr. Irvin Slack thanked the Provost and churchwardens for their permission for the Society to hold their meeting at the Cathedral. Mr. Wilfrid Moreton replied on behalf of the local company and said that he would pass on the Society's thanks to the Provost and churchwardens.

a few minutes to ring a half-muffled touch in memory of one of their members who had died that morning. It was the finest Stedman Cinques I had ever heard, conducted by one who was among the very few masters of this lovely art in all its ways.

Now, he too is gone. There cannot have been many servants of bellringing so completely equipped and yet so modest. On the following Sunday evening, we went to the little six-bell tower of St. Peter-at-Gowts' to find the Master of the Cathedral company taking part as a regular member of the band, in what was his own parish church and where he also sang in the choir. These things one does not soon forget.

During the years that followed, there were few ringers I more enjoyed meeting. Often in obituary notices, published in this journal, it is implied that so-and-so was not a great peal ringer, and all the more loyal church servant for that. Men like John A. Freeman expose this implied inconsistency of the one with the other as the false assumption that it is.

Of those who could rightly be called 'Gentlemen of the Exercise,' he was perhaps the most accomplished. Among his equals, as a conductor, in all branches of ringing skill, there can be few who have enjoyed disjunction with so little affectation. The company of ringers will seem older and greyer for his passing. R. B. M.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

THE HOADS OF REIGATE

Dear Sir,—I, too, was one of the imported band by the Rev. T. Lewis Jones and rang several peals with George Hoad. I was staying at the same address. I reached Bangor in 1903. W. H. Barber had been and had gone over to Dublin, then to Edinburgh and afterwards to Newcastle. Among others were the brothers Pegler, J. H. Midwinter, John Grundy, W. H. Dyer and George Forster, Mr. Philip W. Davis was an old member of the band but left for the Birmingham district. When I first met him, Morris J. Morris was the leading local ringer and was largely instrumental in forming the N.W. Association of C.R. along with W. T. Pegler, the Rev. T. Lewis Jones and others in 1903.

We used to have a number of visiting clergymen ringers who rang in peals with us, the Revs. H. J. Elsee, A. H. F. Boughey, C. Carew Cox, C. C. Marshall (president of the Yorkshire Association), also Mr. E. H. Lewis, Alderman J. S. Pritchard, and many others.

I was with the band ringing Sedman Caters on the old ten bells at St. Patrick's, Dublin. We were ringing faultlessly, but slowly, and eventually Gabriel Lindoff, who was conducting, said, 'We can ring the peal but if we do you'll miss your boat.' It was decided to bring the bells into rounds which was done and we adjourned for refreshments and caught the boat back to Holyhead. George Hoad was ringing the tenor. Mrs. Hoad was staying at the Cranes before they were married. George was a quiet gentlemanly person and a superior craftsman. The Railway Company did not want to lose him and he would have had early promotion if he had stayed on. I was a great friend of George's.

Before the First World War there was a good band who rang up to Cambridge for service, but we did not succeed in ringing a peal of it. Visiting bands are always welcomed at St. David's. W. T. Pegler was the first Master of the North Wales Association. Mr. Oliver Pegler is trying to teach a band change ringing. He is now getting a little help and support from members of the U.V. of N.W. Ringing Society, which is very welcome. Glanadda was formed into a parish in the year 1907 and the writer and his wife were the first couple to be married in the church on December 20th, 1907.—Yours, etc.,

A. J. HUGHES.

Bangor, Coerns.

LITTLE COMPTON, WARWICKS

Dear Sir,—I have read Mr. Field's and Mr. Short's letters in 'The Ringing World' (January 27th) referring to the bells of St. Denys', Little Compton. I should like to point out that these bells were rung on St. George's Day (April 23rd, 1960), during a St. Nicholas' Old Marston ringers' outing to Stow and Moreton-in-the-Marsh area. The ropes were not in a good condition but thirty minutes' ringing took place.—Yours sincerely, ROY H. JONES.

Old Marston, Oxford.

'BELLS OF BRISTOL'

Dear Sir,—A friend of mine tells me somewhere in a tape magazine he has read of a documentary tape recording entitled 'Bells of Bristol.'

Presumably some ringer or band of ringers in the Bristol area will know of this. Several of us in the Mansfield District of the Southwell Diocesan Guild would like to hear it. Could it be hired or borrowed? Please mention running speed.—Yours faithfully,

S. E. DENBY.

Mansfield, Notts.

METHODS AND VARIATIONS

Dear Sir.—Of that word variation, it may be said—'any fool knows what that means'! I am not so certain that some do, and I hope the dictionary definition sent to you for publication will help these to clarify the position on the topic; as well as other simple illustrations if I may give them? (1) Most people know that one of the jobs of a surveyor is to take levels—incidentally, my job!

Now if I move the staff a fraction off the bench-mark, it means I have created a variation of its value, and the person at the other end with the instruments has got a different reading—and the same applies to changes on bells, whether I move the changes by way of a bob or single, or by altering the plain course! Therefore, to argue that the latter is not creating a variation, but that the former is—is just sheer nonsense, and is just not true. It is an attempt by certain ringing personnel to set up a dictionary of their own as a way of 'getting round' things to cover their 'case'—if they have one; at least Mr. Wratten seems pretty quiet!

No. 2. illustration to prove the points raised is mixing colours. If I add a dash of red to white. I have created a variation, and a different colour—I have no longer got white or red, but pink; similarly if I add a 'dash' of Grandsire to Plain Bob I have created something different by variation, and I've got April Day. Reverse it, and add a 'dash' of Plain Bob to all the work of a Grandsire single joined together (yes, even though it may be argued that that gives a Plain course) and I've produced Reverse St. Bartholomew, and therefore something different by varying again.

A dash of black added to white will give me grey—just as a 'dash' of Plain Bob added to Reverse Canterbury will give me Southrepps Pleasure, or vice versa will give me Kennington. Who would think of going into a hardware shop and ask for 'a tin of white-pink variation,' or 'a tin of black-grey variation'? Any shopkeeper would think 'such a customer had gone off his topper'—that is equivalent to Mr. Wratten's argument!

Now, we recognise these by other names—pink, grey, green, purple, and so on, because we have by varying (or mixing) created something different, and that equally applies to April Day, Northrepps Pleasure, Clifford's Pleasure, Old, and so on; yes, and even to those with a plain course 'of their own,' such as St. Nicholas' (or Barton) which is only made up of a 'dash' of Reverse Canterbury in the middle of St. Simon's—that is why we don't describe it as 'Canterbury St. Simon's,' as did one man in a peal some years ago; we entitle it to a name of its own, because, by varying, we have made it something different, and that also applies to higher numbers which are, in numerous cases, bits of one method and bits of another, like some colours!

Arguing about Plain courses is like arguing about basic colours—it does not alter the fact that if you take a bit of one and mix with another, you've created something different by the act of varying, and your correspondent 'Farmer' has quoted several good examples—Thelwall versus Double Oxford, and Childwall versus St. Clement's, to mention two.

To be logical, if April Day should be named 'Plain Bob April Day variation,' then Thelwall should be named 'Double Oxford Thelwall variation'; and Biddenden 'Yorkshire Biddenden variation,' and so on, and all this bunkum about Plain courses and 'methods being in their own right' has got nothing to do with the true meaning of the word variation. Every method is within its own right if these are as repeats in an extent—that is the acid test, not all this other twaddle!

Many of these methods have stodd the test longer than some of the Central Council's Decisions (Bob Triples, Woodbine Treble Bob, Grandsire Major and Minor for example—recognised, not recognised, recognised). And they are older than Mr. Wratten, Mr. Griffin or Mr. Brooks.

As for Mr. Griffin's remark about 'fog of battle': there is no 'fog of battle'—only to one-track minds, and only they look upon this topic as being 'futile,' or 'getting a little involved.' Only by disabusing their minds of bias, can they, as it were, 'see through the theodolite clearly!'

Mr. Brooks should have addressed his remarks—but to continue arguing whether they are separate methods or not seems futile—to Mr. Wratten. He it was who revived this argument by that bold and uncalled for statement to Mr. Cattermole: 'Please, variations not methods!' When challenged that they must be one of two things—either call changes or methods, there being no third form of change ringing, he hasn't the decency to answer one way or the other—and the same goes for the other questions which, I suppose, have got him 'foxed!'

Likewise, I wonder whether Mr. Wratten can tell me the names to these methods given below.—Yours sincerely,

P. AMOS.

FOR OUR JUBILEE ISSUE

Will those who have been readers of 'The Ringing World' since No. 1, on March 24th, 1911, please send brief personal details to the Editor.

QUADRING AND SAWLEY SURPRISE MAJOR

Dear Sir.—On behalf of the Records Committee of the Central Council, I wish to point out that the method rung at Epworth on January 7th, 1961, as Quadrang, has been rung before. It is Wellington Surprise, and was first rung at Aldershot, September 28th, 1957, conducted by A. R. Pink. The report of this peal appears in the 'R.W.' of October 11th, 1957, page 651, and the figures of the method are on the same page. Although it is not specially stated that Wellington is the 2nds place variation, this is in fact the case, and doubt on this point will be removed by reference to the composition of Wellington appearing in the 'R.W.' of October 25th, 1957, page 696.

My reference to Sawley Surprise Major, rung at Sawley on October 8th, 1960, is this: 'We had several corrections to the falseness of this method but none to the place notation which was wrongly printed. Perhaps we could be informed of the correct notation.—Yours faithfully,

JOHN R. MAYNE.

SOUTH AFRICAN NEWS LETTER

GRAHAMSTOWN, 1960.—The Cathedral of SS. Michael and George stands on an island in the centre of this small city, which lies in a shallow saucer, encompassed by hills. The 180 ft. spire is a landmark from all sides, and beneath it is the oldest and heaviest ring of bells in the country. John Warner shipped an octave, tenor 25 cwt. 2 qr. 15 lb. in E flat, on the sailing ship Seagull in 1878; the cost, £1,400, including carriage, was raised partly by friends in London. Less than 60 years had gone by since the first white man had settled the Eastern cape (1820 British settlers) and less than 40 years since the town was founded amidst the bloodshed of the recurring native wars.

Today it is a quiet academic place, often called the 'City of Saints' from the numerous schools, colleges and churches: Rhodes University faces the Cathedral, and close by is St. Paul's, the only Anglican theological college in the Union. Now it is true that Durban has the best bells, Cape Town the most ringers, and Grahamstown could provide the finest learner material; the only snag is the 500 miles that separate them.

Early in November, I motored up through the Knysna Forest, Outeniqua Mountains, and Port Elizabeth, whose collegiate church of St. Mary looks exactly right for a light eight, but there is only one bucket in that lovely tower; onwards through miles of pineapple fields until breaching the last hill, there lay Grahamstown. Architecturally it is unlike any other S. African town, for although the settlers were English the appearance as a whole is Scottish. Stone faced buildings which line the main street were not allowed to rise more than two stories; this contributes greatly to the soaring magnificence of the tall spire.

The great west door into the Cathedral is under the tower, to the right is a cupboard housing the chiming ropes, and on the left a small door gives access to a spiral stone staircase of 63 steps up to the ringing chamber. On entering, through a corner doorway, the first impression is of light. The room is 15 ft. square and 21 ft. high; three of the four walls are pierced by six windows from floor to ceiling, however, not a single pane opens, nor are there air vents, or louvres! From the centre of the room a very stout ladder rises steeply up to the bells immediately above. There is no intermediate floor, and the rope circle is almost two straight lines, although the third is behind and 20 inches away from the treble. There are no rope guides. Two gas brackets (fish tail burners) once gave light, and the cream washed walls are liberally covered with signatures, some going back to 1894.

THREE ASSOCIATIONS MEET

One of the best attended District meetings in the area for a long time was that held at Stockton-on-Tees Parish Church on January 28th, by the Southern District of the Durham and Newcastle Association, the Northern District of the Yorkshire Association, and the Cleveland and North Yorkshire Association. Over 50 ringers were present, some from York and Scarborough, and others from Durham.

There was an encouraging attendance of beginners, who were catered for in the ringing, and methods included Stedman Triples and Caters, Grandshire Triples and Caters, Cambridge Surprise Royal, Kent T.B., Plain Bob and a course of Superlative. A feature of the meeting was the ringing of all ten bells by a team of ladies.

Canon C. N. Wardle-Harpur, the Vicar, conducted the service, and in welcoming the ringers commended the enthusiasm which had brought some of them such a long way on a particularly nasty day.

The vice-president of the Southern District, Mr. F. Cooke, presided at tea, and the Vicar and churchwardens were thanked for the use of the bells by Mr. T. Cooke. The ladies were thanked by Mr. E. Pannell for providing tea.

The next meeting of the Durham and Newcastle Southern District was fixed for April 22nd at Heighington, and the Yorkshire Association members were reminded of the Easter Monday meeting at Bedale.

Seven of the bells are on one level, the exception being the third in her cage above the fourth, and all of them except the sixth swing north-south. Small wonder that Canon Ridout, who rang handbells here in 1914, found the frame loose: yet I doubt if the eight have ever been rung together. The frame has an interesting history, for it was once the bridge over the Fish river at Fort Brown. After the floods of 1874, these timbers were recovered from the sea shore 50 miles away, and hauled back by oxen to become the tower scaffold and bell frame. On the floor above is the clock which chimes on the 4th, 6th and tenor. All the walls of the belfry have two large arches, each 3 ft. by 17 ft. high, with slate louvres beginning at the bottom of the bell frame, the weakest part of the structure.

The floor under the bells is lined throughout in sheet lead, perhaps to keep out the rain, but certainly it has not kept wood worm out of the floor, frame, sliders, stays, and oak headstocks; only the wheels seem immune. One novelty is the garner hole, a plain one inch hole through the sole of the wheel, no chamfered entry at all. Clappers hang from their staples by leather baldricks.

The future prospect for this old eight is not a rosy one, short of rehanging lower down the tower. Before leaving Grahamstown I was invited to speak at St. Paul's College, and later to the Cathedral Guild. This resulted in 15 recruits in the belfry next evening, and two of them have been attending practice at Cape Town during their vacation.

To be able to ring without a fault after 13 years' absence from a belfry is no mean achievement, and John Boham and his wife, Frances (née Humphrey), were able to do just that. They came to Woodstock from Johannesburg for a fortnight's holiday in December, and it was their first tower since St. Mary's, Willesden, and St. Mary Abbots', Kensington, respectively. On their second visit we had some of the best striking heard here for many a year, and were happy to score a quarter peal on the evening of their departure. We are now trying to entice them to move down to the Cape, where they have purchased a seaside building plot for the future.

News from Southern Rhodesia.—The tower of St. Mark's, Que Que, has been completed and the frame can take six bells. Four of them are memorial gifts and have already been ordered from the Whitechapel foundry; tenor is to be 5½ cwt. in C sharp.

For those ringers who delight in making and breaking records the writer has now rung in all towers in this 'Continent' and believes he may be the first to do this to a continent. V. S.

HERTS COUNTY ASSOCIATION

St. Albans District

The annual meeting of the St. Albans District was held at St. Albans on January 21st. During the afternoon at St. Stephen's, methods ranging from Plain Bob Minor to Norwich Surprise with the addition of rounds for beginners were rung.

Approximately 40 St. Albans District members were present at tea, although only fifty per cent of the District's towers were represented. The secretary's report commented on the lack of support at meetings and practices. The treasurer's report was favourable.

Election of officers for 1961 was as follows: Honorary secretary, Mrs. Amy Coburn; District Ringing Master, G. Penney; General Committee members, G. Dodds and F. Jacklin.

Mr. H. V. Frost, the chairman, asked for silence for the late Bishop C. T. T. Wood, assistant to the Bishop of St. Albans, and for the late Mr. F. W. Brinklow, of Oxhey.

The new District Ringing Master then thanked the Vicar for the use of the bells and the organisers for the tea.

Further ringing at the Cathedral, ranging from rounds to Stedman Cinques and Cambridge Major on the back eight, concluded a successful meeting. C. M. R.

SHROPSHIRE ASSOCIATION

Doubled Membership

AFTER ringing in the afternoon at Atcham, Montford and St. Chad's, the service for the annual meeting of the Shropshire Association on January 28th was held in St. Chad's, at which the Right Rev. W. A. Parker, Bishop of Shrewsbury and president of the Association, gave the address. About 70 attended the business meeting in St. Chad's Parish Hall, 20 Shropshire towers being represented, and visitors were present from Chester, Hanley, Wastaston and Sutton Coldfield. The Rev. Mr. Shannon, of Montford, acted as chairman, as the Bishop was unable to stay.

In his report the Ringing Master, Mr. H. Poyner, said that 1960 had been a very busy year, and one of much expansion. The paid-up membership had more than doubled. Two most encouraging features were the number of members of school age and the increased interest and support of six-bell ringers, especially as most of the towers in the county are sixes. Twenty-eight peals had been rung during the year, a total only bettered in 1948 when 29 were rung. He asked members to be thinking about the year ahead; if the Association was to continue to expand, willing people would be needed to help overcome the difficulties of local apathy and shyness, and to share the responsibility of running the Association.

The treasurer, Mr. F. H. Bennett, presented the balance sheet, and said that the finances of the Association were very satisfactory.

Twenty-four new members were elected, most notable being eight from Hodnet and six from Moniford. Honorary life membership was conferred on five members who have served their church and Association well for forty years. These were Messrs. E. V. Rodenhurst (Prees), A. Hickman and W. Lycett (Market Drayton), E. Drew (Claverley) and A. Prichard (former Ringing Master).

Officers re-elected were: Messrs. H. Poyner (R.M.), F. Hector Bennett (treasurer), R. Newton (D.R.M.) - Mrs. M. C. Poyner was elected secretary, and Mr. R. Newton was elected as a second C.C. representative. Thanks were expressed to Messrs. J. Griffiths, of Chester, and E. Colley, of Sutton Coldfield, for their service as tellers.

On view was a design for an Association badge, and it was agreed that quotations should be obtained.

LINCOLN DIOCESAN GUILD

West Lindsey Branch Dinner

The annual meeting and dinner of the West Lindsey Branch was held at Gainsborough on January 21st. Ringing on the bells of the Parish Church preceded Evensong, which was conducted by the Vicar (Canon J. E. Roberts) who also gave the address.

A company of some 80 members and friends sat down to dinner in the Old Hall and at the business meeting which followed the president (Canon J. E. Roberts) took the chair, supported by Mr. C. H. Baker (vice-president), Mr. G. E. Feirn (Ringing Master), Mr. G. L. A. Lunn (secretary and treasurer), Mr. J. M. Blaikie (Guild representative), and Mr. M. L. Mann ('Ringing World' correspondent).

The first act of the meeting was to stand in silent tribute to the late Master of the Guild, Mr. J. A. Freeman.

In his review of the year, the secretary reported a sound financial position, with 103 paid up members out of a ringing membership of 115. The Ringing Master reported a further increase in peal ringing with 12 tower- and three handbell peals. Striking had been good and three members had rung their first peal.

Meetings for the year were agreed as follows: February 11th, Stow; May 13th, Corringham; July 15th, Oswston; September 16th, Brigg; November 18th, Upton. It was also decided that the annual outing should be to Derbyshire on June 24th.

All the officers were re-elected, Mr. G. L. A. Lunn being congratulated on having completed 21 years as secretary. Ten new members were also elected.

The social evening which followed included a demonstration of tune ringing by the Haxey Handbell Ringers. Party games and dancing, ably organised by Messrs. D. G. Crosby and H. Dove, were enjoyed until a late hour.

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

Farnham District

The Farnham District held their annual meeting at the Queen of Hearts Restaurant, Farnham, on January 21st and 82 ringers were present. The District officers were all re-elected with the exception of Mr. W. H. Viggers, who was succeeded as Deputy Ringing Master by Mr. T. Page.

Major E. Bragg, in his report, said that it had been an average year, and five peals had been rung, but he appealed for more District support at meetings and practices.

As a new venture it was agreed that the District committee should arrange a 'striking' contest at a six bell tower in the area.

Mr. C. W. Denyer, Guild Master, told the meeting of the position regarding the bell which is being hung in Guildford Cathedral and said another £200 was needed urgently if the full cost of the hanging was to be met before the Cathedral is dedicated in May.

A TOUCH OF KENT AROUND HYTHE

Ten ringers, each on holiday from school or university, found themselves pursuing a roundabout course, tower hunting, in the Hythe area, on January 3rd.

An eight-bell tower saw us off, with Plain Bob Major and Grandsire Triples being struck fairly well. This was heartening as this is the first time an eight has been included in our vacation trip. One by one, Newtoning (6), Saltwood (6) and Burmarsh (6) turned Cheriton from the lead. However, after Burmarsh, two car loads of ringers disappeared quickly, but they were soon run down having lunch in a nearby pub.

A tricky set of dodging around the roads of Romney Marsh in rather wet conditions between Newchurch (5), Lympe (6), Aldington (6) and Sellindge (6) was successfully accomplished. We were called in to tea at Sellindge, and the day's ringing finished by running out to Stowing (6), where, unfortunately, tiredness changed places with good striking.

NOTE.—Any ringer who would like to attempt a touch of Vacation Surprise in Kent is asked to write to J. C. Baldwin, 20, St. Anne's Road, Tankerton, Whistable, for the composition. J. C. B.

Enthusiasm for ringing at Ingrave, Essex, has only been ripe for the last four or five years, and the band is steadily making progress. When the band rang its first quarter in February, 1960, it was believed to be the first on the bells (which were installed in 1737) by a local company. Since then two more quarters were rung in January this year.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD

Salisbury Branch

On January 21st 40 members and visitors met at St. Paul's, Salisbury, for the annual meeting. The Rector (the Rev. T. E. Dobson) conducted the Guild service and in his address said how appropriate it was that this was in the middle of the Week of Prayer for Christian unity, for the bells, each with its own note, must be rung in harmony to proclaim the Church's message to all who heard, and that was a picture of how the churches must work together. The Rector joined the ringers for tea in the parish hall, after which the Branch chairman (Mr. H. A. Roles) presided at the meeting.

A moment of silent prayer was kept in remembrance of four members who had died during 1960: Mrs. Hibberd, Frank Taylor, Harry Prout and George Norton.

The honorary secretary (Miss Y. L. Eloie) presented her report, recording three quarterly and 4 practice meetings held at 13 towers; the second Branch outing, to Chippenham and Steeple Ashton; 10 certificates of proficiency gained; and the affiliation of new bands at Broadchalke, Coombe Bissett and Tisbury, bringing the Branch membership up to 146. Messrs. F. Haines, of Wilton, and W. Roberts, of Berwick St. John, had been elected honorary life members, and we had said goodbye to Brian Lawes, who left Salisbury on January 2nd for Medina, W. Australia. (May we take this opportunity of commending this very keen and popular member to any ringers 'Down Under' whom he may be able to meet?) The accounts were presented, showing a satisfactory balance.

At this point the chairman presented the honorary secretary on behalf of the Branch with a Revelation suit-case and a travelling clock to mark her ten years' service in office. In thanking the members for this unexpected and undeserved gift, the secretary said that many others had done very much more for ringing, mentioning the examples of her own uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hazelden, and saying that credit was due to the team work of the Branch, with an active committee and a businesslike chairman who had been in office exactly as long as she had.

The dates and places for 1961 meetings were eventually adopted. Subject to necessary alterations they are: March 4th, Coombe Bissett; April 22nd, Codford St. Peter (quarterly); May 27th, Semley; July 15th, Winterslow (quarterly); September 9th, Wilton; October 21st, Shrewton (quarterly); November 25th, Martin; the 1962 annual on January 27th, at St. Martin's, if the bells are then available. The possibility of filling a coach for the Guild Festival at Calne on May 13th will be explored; and it is hoped to explore Hampshire on an outing on October 7th.

The chairman and secretary were re-elected together with vice-chairman (Mr. A. Trimley) and auditor (Miss M. Page). Mrs. H. Abrahams undertook the work of assistant secretary to organise the outing. Messrs. Cecil Haines, Leslie Page, Edward Haines and Raymond Haines were elected Ringing Masters, and J. Lewis and Mrs. Abrahams additional members of the committee. Messrs. Herbert Abrahams and Arthur Haines did not feel able to stand for re-election as Ringing Masters owing to demands of their employment, and were thanked for the good work they had done, as was Mr. Ronald Marlow, of Fordingbridge, for arranging extra practices for eight bell ringing.

The evening ended with more ringing at St. Paul's and St. Thomas', where the heights of Yorkshire were reached.

LONDON PRACTICE NIGHTS

Holy Trinity, West Hill, Wandsworth (8) and Putney (8), Wednesdays, 7-8 p.m. not 7.30-8.30 p.m. in term time only. Visitors welcome.

Strange but true: the first quarter of Major ever rung on the bells of St. Andrew's, Plymouth, was 1.280 Plain Bob, on July 7th, 1929 (Thanksgiving Day for the recovery of King George V). After a break of nearly 32 years the second quarter was rung on January 22nd, Messrs. S. O'Shaughnessy and three ringers took part in both.

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

Chertsey District

The comparatively new band of Chertsey ringers were hosts to the Chertsey District on January 28th, for their annual meeting. Well over 50 people attended which was most encouraging considering the rather depressing weather.

The service was conducted by the Rev. G. S. Archibald, himself a ringer, and an excellent tea followed in the Church Hall. In the absence of the secretary, the Ringing Master, Mr. R. Collins, dealt with most of the business, with the Vicar in the chair. As there were no other nominations the District officers were re-elected en bloc.

The news that Mr. C. Denyer was not standing again as Guild Master was received with much regret and on the proposal of Mr. Collins it was agreed to support the Farnham District's nomination of Mr. F. Hawthorne, a well known and respected member of the Chertsey District. The rest of the officers were nominated.

The Ringing Master reported a membership of 109. Most towers had managed to hold their own during the year, and improve their ringing standard. The average attendance at meetings had risen to 37, which was a great improvement on 1959. Mr. Collins was pleased to announce that East Molesey bells were ringing again. That District dinner was very successful and it is proposed to make this an annual event.

Seven new members were elected. Mr. J. King's suggestion that a District practice should be held each month at various towers was approved.

Having read in 'The Ringing World' of the Guild's proposal about the jubilee celebrations, Mr. Collins expressed concern in the fact that the summer festival is not to be held this year.

Mr. W. Shepherd closed the meeting with the usual votes of thanks. He thought it was the best A.G.M. he had attended for many years, with some new faces and a few of the old ringers whom he had taught to ring in 1951!

THE NORWICH ASSOCIATION ASSOCIATION

All the officers of the Northern Branch were re-elected at the annual meeting at St. Giles-on-the-Hill, Norwich, on January 7th. They are: Mr. A. G. Bason, chairman; Mr. J. R. Smith, Ringing Master; Mr. C. Bird, secretary; Mr. W. Clover, Mr. G. Sayer, standing committee; Messrs. P. M. Adcock, H. F. Carter, F. C. Goodman, D. W. Pardon and R. W. Balls, Branch committee.

Mrs. F. N. Golden was transferred from an honorary and John Knights from a probationary member to ringing members, and the belfry elections, prior to peals, of the following were ratified: Messrs. D. Cubitt, of Norwich; P. S. Stearman and N. Wright, of Corputsy; G. M. Brewin, of Rothley; and D. T. Darby, of Humberstone, Leicester, and Shirley Parsons, of Cheltenham.

Meetings are to be held on April 15th, July 8th, October 14th, January 6th (annual) and Wymondham Abbey ringing day, June 10th.

The chairman proposed a vote of thanks to the Rev. Father D. E. Rac for conducting the service and the use of the bells, Mr. Mitchell the organist, the choir boys and Mrs. Golden and her helpers for arranging and serving the tea.

The Barkingside band honoured Mr. I. Attwater, an esteemed member, and Mrs. Attwater on the occasion of their diamond wedding with a peal at Woodford, Essex, on January 14th. Four members of the band rang their first peal. Good work, conductor Leonard W. Bullock!

HANDBELLS AT HOME

FOR my 21st birthday, my mother and father gave me a set of handbells. This was a gift which gave me real pleasure, for at that time all my peals had been scored on handbells, and although I was capable of a peal in the tower certain circumstances, followed immediately by the wartime ban on the traditional use of church bells, effectively prevented any attempt. In the event, my present was of no practical use, for on the great day when a man, as he thinks, achieves a degree of independence, I found myself stationed in one of the less salubrious parts of the West African coast. At the end of the war, all ringers were quite naturally anxious to get things going in the towers again, and although the handbells received some attention, with a peal or two scored upon them, they remained, whilst useful on occasion, more a treasured possession than anything else.

A reference back to a leading article of a decade or so ago, entitled The Ringer's Wife, will show that it concluded by remarking that the ultimate sacrifice a ringer's wife was expected to make was that of her good name. 'Old So-and-so's not ringing much these days,' it ran, or words to that effect, 'I expect it's his wife.' Like 'dat puddy tat' in the song that caught on before the present beat and what-have-you, 'Old So-and-so' happened to fit my case—extremely closely, as a matter of fact. I rang less, far less, after my marriage, the point being reached where the score in a given year stood more than once at: Children, 1; Peals, nil. Yet I still think I was well aware of what I was about; now I have three sons, and the family, my wife included, has started on the handbells in earnest.

My wife never took all that kindly to tower bell ringing, not to mention any other sort, but she managed Stedman Cinques and London, due mainly, as she would admit straight away, to the encouragement of an excellent band. Perhaps the highlight of her career as a ringer came during a Central Council meeting at Exeter one year, when the well-known Wilfred W—, in what we have always been sure was a case of mistaken identity, invited her to stand in a peal of Bristol, which she naturally declined as gracefully as possible in the circumstances! Handbells were another matter, and she never made much progress with them; but now the situation has changed. My two older boys have lately been accompanying me to my local tower, and they have known of the existence of the handbells in the house for years, since we have always found it most appropriate to bring them out at Christmas time.

At this point I must make the firm statement that I have recently developed a tremendous respect for Bob Minimus. There's nothing like it for teaching beginners. We practise daily. My wife, taking the tenors, was terribly afraid of two bells at first; previously one had always seemed more than enough, and being somewhat temperamental as well, she had to be guided with extreme care—not the least bit of pushing, which puts off so many learners. Gradually she learned how to make seconds over the treble and dodge with another bell at the same time; to ring the parted lead; to dodge together behind. Surprisingly, we ran into a great difficulty there, for it was a week before she could run into rounds with a confident flourish. We solved that one by practising Bastow Little Court Bob Minimus, where the tenors start off with a dodge. An excellent method, Bastow. We have grown so fond of it now that we ring Spliced Plain and Bastow on four, with bobs and singles—the lot, in fact. Repetition of changes doesn't worry us. My eldest son is tackling Minimus lead by lead, and for myself I can honestly declare that at last I'm grasping what really happens, better than I ever did years ago when I was carried along by more experienced ringers. Therefore I recommend this method of teaching to those ringers who are blessed with wives who shy at the suggestion that they should try a pair.

Many really competent ringers are sometimes heard to confess that they can't ring handbells. Have they ever tried—right from the very bottom of the ladder? You can take a horse to the water, says the proverb, and I reckon mine's taking a little sip now. However, I must be careful, she won't like that analogy, and it might be safer to quote the Spaniards, who have a proverb for every situation, when they remark: Poco a poco se va lejos, or Little by little one goes far. We're not expecting to emulate the Gofstons, but at any rate a family peal of Bob Major or even Royal 'in hand' one day begins to move within the realm of possibility.

One of the best-struck handbell peals in which I've taken part had in the band that perspicacious gentleman who reports so delightfully upon his visits to Professor Dodge. I wonder if he might consider it worth while to take up this matter with the sage? In case I put pen to paper or, speaking more correctly, tap the alphabet's false teeth again on some future occasion, please take note that my pseudonym, in ringing circles at any rate, shall be

The peal rung at Twyford on February 4th, to mark the Oxford Guild's 80th birthday, particularly recalled the work of Frederick Dentry, captain of the tower 1913-1944 and secretary of the Sonning Deanery Branch 1918-1928 and member of the Oxford Diocesan Guild from 1888 to 1960. This tower has only had four captains since the bells were installed in 1913. The present captain, Mr. H. Smith, and Mr. W. Hunt, another captain, took part in the peal, and it was listened to by Mr. F. Wigmore, tower captain 1944-1948, who is the only member of the original band alive.

We regret to learn that Mr. A. C. Hazelden is in St. Luke's Hospital, Guildford, suffering from an attack of hæmorrhage.

'The Irish Bell News' starts Volume IV with an attractive new cover. It has passed its ninth birthday and maintains its original subscription of 2s. 6d. per annum.

Another young ringer of the Sherburn-in-Elmet band has joined his friends as a peal ringer. They extend their congratulations to 13-year-old Peter Copley, who rang his first peal at Huntington on February 4th.

Mr. William Pratt, who has been president of the Irish Association since 1947, has signified his intention of not letting his name go forward for re-election in 1961. 'The Irish Bell News,' in a tribute, writes of the unselfish manner in which he has conducted the affairs of the Association. Mr. Pratt is 77.

That great stalwart of Wymondham ringing, Mr. William Clover, rang a peal on the Abbey bells on January 28th to commemorate the 50th anniversary of his first peal. The band included Mr. George Sayer, who made a welcome return to peal ringing after a 15 month lay off owing to illness.

The Great Glenn Handbell Ringers collected £86 at Christmas by ringing selections around the village. This money has been distributed as follows: Dr. Barnardos' Homes £25. Wireless for the Blind £20. Leicester Spastics £10. Cancer Research £10. Great Glenn Evergreen £5. League of Friends £5. Leicester Boys' Home £5.

BELFRY GOSSIP

With the peal of Ulverscroft Surprise Royal, Mr. Ernest Morris completed 300 peals at the bell foundry tower, Loughborough, which is a record for peals in one tower by any individual ringer. These include all the standard and a large number of, Surprise methods from Doubles to Royal. Mr. Morris has conducted peals here from a level 5,000 Forward Major to 13,440 Bob Major, and also a number of other long lengths, viz., twice 7,008; 9,760 (400 Singles) Bob Major, 6,720 Little Bob, 9,120 Ilkeston (extent); and rung in 9,600 Worcester (extent tenors together) and the tenor to 10,976 Bristol Surprise.

Putney practice night has not been changed. It is still Mondays, 7.30 to 9 p.m.

A sign of the times! At the annual meeting of the Northern Division of the Sussex Association 42 new members were elected. Is this a District record?

In an attempt to ring the fastest peal ever rung, a peal was brought round on handbells at Derby in 59 minutes. Although the attempt was umpired and well rung, the band are not counting it because at that speed every change sounded the same.

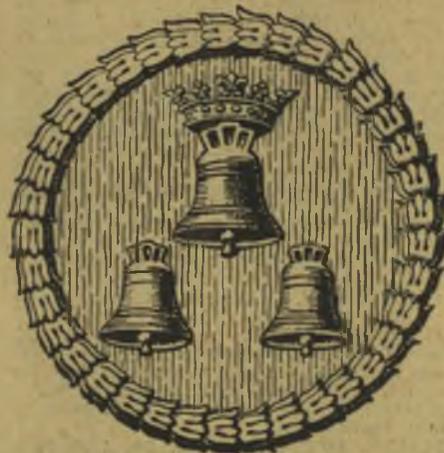

A word of congratulation is due to Messrs. W. E. Critchley, S. Burton, W. Butler, and others, who are embarking on the much needed task of publishing a classified collection of Surprise Major methods, together with impositions.

Many of our readers have enjoyed the article in 'The Times' of February 4th, 'Beginner in a Bell Tower.' The writer and his wife apparently ring in a West Country 10 bell tower. Articles from his pen would, we are sure, be appreciated by 'Ringing World' readers. Few beginners have such a descriptive flair.

For the enthronement of Dr. Say as Bishop of Rochester, on February 1st, the Cathedral band rang two touches of Grandsire Caters. Those taking part were: Dr. Norris 1, R. A. Cochrane (Hatfield) 2, W. A. J. Knight (cond.) 3, J. W. Coleman 4, E. G. Wharton 5, T. Beaumont 6, C. J. Gould 7, R. E. Norris 8, C. E. J. Norris 9, K. S. Ryan 10.

Our Jubilee Issue

Our jubilee issue on March 25th will consist of 24 pages of reading matter with a special cover.

In addition to our list of continuous readers over the past 50 years, for which we invite 10 lines of ringing biography, readers are requested to contribute to the following:—

(a) The greatest ringing event during past 50 years. (Not more than 20 lines.)

(b) The finest ring of bells cast during that period and reasons. (Not more than 10 lines.)

(c) The best contribution to the advancement of ringing during the period. (Not more than 20 lines.)

(d) A sonnet on ringing.

Please write on one side of a sheet of paper and do not mix your contribution with other editorial matter.

We feel certain that our jubilee issue will make a wide appeal to ringers who are not regular readers. To enable the Editor to assess the print order, will secretaries of towers and ringing organisations notify their requirements as soon as possible.

SOUTH DERBYSHIRE & NORTH LEICESTERSHIRE ASSOCIATION

The A.G.M. of the South Derbyshire and North Leicestershire Association was held at Shardlow on January 14th. Ringing commenced at 3 p.m. and continued until 4.30 when a short service, conducted by the Rev. R. Bagnall and the Rev. D. Rice, was held in the church. Following the service, tea, provided by the good ladies of Shardlow, was taken in the Legion Hall.

The Association president, the Rev. D. Rice, was in the chair for the election of officers for 1961. Those elected were: Chairman, Mr. F. Hinds; honorary secretary, Mr. R. Barker; honorary treasurer, Mr. E. Willows; Ringing Master, Mr. B. R. Manning; committee, Miss B. Manning, Messrs. M. Fern, J. Foster, J. S. Knighton, E. Thomas and A. Whiting; auditors, Miss J. Copeland and Mr. L. Jones.

Reporting on the financial status of the Association the honorary treasurer said there had been an increase in funds for the fifth successive year. Altogether fifty ringers were present representing 14 towers, including visitors from Chesterfield, Derby Cathedral, Duffield, Matlock, Liverpool and one visitor from far off Cumberland.

ANNUAL DINNER

Five incumbents from towers within the South Derbyshire and North Leicestershire Association were guests at the Association's first annual dinner held at the Dog and Duck Inn, Shardlow. They were the Revs. R. Bagnall (Shardlow and Elvaston), W. G. Cook (Aston-on-Trent), D. V. Jones (Alvaston), A. T. Hammond (Lockington) and the Association's president, the Rev. D. E. Rice (Chellaston).

Forty members and guests sat down to enjoy a hearty meal, ably supervised by mine host, Mr. Leslie Walmsley. Following the dinner the president, during his speech proposing the toast of 'The Association,' decried the use of 'artificial bell music,' that is the replacing of bells by playing records. He said everyone knew what a typical parson was but asked 'What is a typical bellringer?' commenting on the 'galaxy of beauty' present at the dinner.

Mr. J. S. Knighton welcomed the visitors on behalf of the Association, thanking, in particular, the Vicars of the towers in the Association for the use of the bells during the past year. The chairman, Mr. F. Hinds, then thanked the Rev. W. G. Cook (Vicar of Aston-on-Trent) for the use of his Vicarage room for committee meetings and Miss Bernice Manning presented him with a pipe, smoker's companion and tobacco from the committee members for his kindness. After dinner all took part in games organised by Mr. F. Hinds to conclude an extremely enjoyable evening.

PERSONALITIES OF THE EXERCISE - 7

MR. AUBREY L. BENNETT,
Devon Guild.

All of those many ringers who have had the pleasure of taking part in peal ringing tours in Devonshire have been very grateful to Mr. Aubrey L. Bennett, of Buckfastleigh, for making the necessary arrangements to ensure a happy week. He has not had the opportunity for ringing many peals—his total to date is 53, but he has been happiest in helping others to enjoy their ringing. He never spares any pains when organising ringing for others, and he has the happy knack of being able to get permission at 'difficult' towers. When he does take part in any ringing, his striking is everything to be desired.

Aubrey was born at Buckfastleigh on November 30th, 1895, where he has lived for most of his life, and was educated at the local council schools. He learnt to ring there in 1911, starting with the usual well-struck call changes, and learnt half-pull ringing at Wilton, Taunton, Somerset, between 1916 and 1919. This band was later to build up the best band in the West Country, for they scored a local peal of Bristol about 1925.

His first peal was at Netherton, Worcs, on May 1st, 1920, being Stedman Triples. This was rung while he was working for a short time at Dudley. He is one of two survivors of the band who rang in the first resident peals of Double Norwich and Oxford Treble Bob Major for the Devon Guild in 1937. Both of these were conducted by the indefatigable Charles R. Lilley. He is very proud of a peal of Stedman Caters he took part in at Christ Church, Swindon, in 1932.

He has served the Devon Guild very well indeed, being secretary of the Mid-Devon Branch from 1935-1958, and was general treasurer of the Guild from 1948-1956. He was also a representative on the Central Council from 1945-1953, and again from 1957-1959.

From 1922 until February, 1935, and from July, 1947, until his retirement in November, 1960, he was employed on the outdoor staff of the Buckfastleigh Post Office, and from February, 1935, to July, 1947, he was rent collector and general clerk, and later rating and valuation officer to the Buckfastleigh U.D.C.

He is keenly interested in the affairs of the church and is captain at Dean Prior tower, Buckfastleigh, which contains a fine ring of six, and where Robert Herrick was once Vicar. He is a sidesman, a member of the Church Council, and a representative on the Totnes Ruridecanal Conference.

Among his other interests are life auditor of the Buckfastleigh Rugby Club, and chairman of the Rugby Supporters' Club. He is also local secretary of a well known friendly society, and is very keen on cricket.

Altogether the picture of Aubrey Bennett is of a very kindly, unassuming man, well respected by all who know him, who really enjoys serving others. Those who have enjoyed their ringing in glorious Devon will always be thankful for his willing help and advice, and hope he will continue in good health to continue his unselfish work.

MORE BELFRY GOSSIP

Writing in his parish magazine the Vicar of Cheritsey, the Rev. G. S. Archibald, states: 'Church bell ringing is an art which requires enormous concentration as well as some physical ability and must be taken very seriously. At the same time I can honestly say that the ringers I have met in various parts of the country are, without exception, the nicest and most friendly people one could wish to meet.'

Miss Marion Cook, who rang in her first peal at Pakefield on January 30th, was taught to ring at Leiston by Mr. James Bailey and advanced as far as being able to ring 720 Bob Minor before going to a Teachers' Training College in London. On completion of her studies she took a teaching appointment in London for a further 3 years, and did not touch a bell until coming to Pakefield School, just a year ago. Her longest length at Pakefield, previous to the peal, was about two courses. The band agreed after the peal that she rang remarkably well.

30 Years Ago

R.W. February 20th, 1931:—

London lost a peal of twelve bells when the ring at Christ Church, Spitalfields, was destroyed by fire on February 17th, 1836.

Oxford University Guild was founded 59 years ago.

A photograph taken in 1878 at Huntsham Court, Devon, shows G. H. Phillot, of Cheltenham, C. A. W. Troyte, of Huntsham Court, Jasper W. Snowdon, of Leeds, Rev. A. du Boulay Hill, Master of Winchester College, 'Squire' Proctor of Benington, Rev. R. H. Dyke, Acland Troyte, Mr. C. D. P. Davies (before he had taken Holy Orders) and Mr. W. P. Fulford, of Exeter.

LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION

The annual meeting of the Bolton Branch was held at St. Paul's Church, Walkden, on January 28th. For many years the annual meeting was held at Bolton Parish Church but, owing to a crack which has developed in the tower, the meeting was transferred to Walkden.

Canon Norburn, Vicar of Bolton and Rural Dean, who usually presides, sent an apology, and the chair was taken by the president of the Association, Rev. R. D. St. John Smith. Mr. Geoffrey Fothergill was re-elected Ringing Master, and he and Mr. John F. Wood were elected to serve on the Association's committee.

Congratulations were accorded to Mr. Arthur Burton, who until recently was leader of St. Paul's, upon completing 50 years as a ringer at the church. Superintendent of the St. John Ambulance Brigade, Mr. Burton has recently been promoted from serving brother to an officer of the Order. A peal is to be attempted in honour of the occasion.

Mr. Peter Crook gave an account of his visit to British Columbia and of his daughter's, as well as his own, ringing activities. Mention was made with regret to the loss to the Branch by the departure of Mr. John Froome, of Hurst, near Reading. During his three years with the Branch, Mr. Froome had been of great assistance.

A feature of the meeting was the large number of young people present. The sumptuous hot meal was enjoyed and those who had prepared it were appropriately thanked. Next monthly meeting, St. Mary's, Deane, February 25th. P. C.

COMPTON DANDQ, SOMERSET.—On Jan. 28th. 1.440 Minor (720 Cambridge, 720 Kent and Oxford): P. Bridle 1, F. C. Mogford 2, P. N. Tubbs 3, J. K. Laver 4, J. H. Gilbert (cond.) 5, P. M. J. Gray 6.

CUMBERLANDS LOOK FORWARD WITH CONFIDENCE

A NOTE of confidence was struck by Mr. Dennis Beresford, the Master, in his speech at the annual dinner of the Society of Cumberland Youths, held at the Euston Tavern, London, on February 4th. A company of over 80 included visitors from Newark, Lincoln and Birmingham.

Supporting the Master and Mrs. Beresford on the top table were the Rev. Meredith Davies, of St. Leonard's, Shoreditch, the Rev. and Mrs. J. M. Evans (Walton-on-Thames), Mr. E. A., Mrs. and Miss Barnett, Mr. W. R. Winterton, Mr. M. P. Moreton (Master of the Ancient Society of College Youths), Mr. J. Hawkins and Mr. T. W. White.

The loyal toast was followed by that of 'The Church,' submitted with wit by Mr. W. R. Winterton, who gave a particularly cordial welcome to the Rev. Meredith Davies, 'in coming to this dinner on a Saturday night when he should be writing his sermon,' and also to the Rev. J. M. Evans. He expressed the company's regret that the Vicar of St. Martin's could not be with them.

As a master of anecdote, the Rev. Meredith Davies kept the company highly amused. In a more serious vein, he urged that the Church had to progress and move with the times. In the course of his work he met 4,000 Borstal boys last year, and at Wormwood Scrubs something like 39,000 prisoners passed through. Only a small minority of them had any conception of the Church, and they could only touch a fringe of them.

They talked about speed, space ships and outer space, and it was all part of this materialistic age, continued Mr. Davies, but they should all be concerned with their own spirituality because it was only on a spiritual basis that life would continue.

THE ONLY PLANE

'You bellringers at times cause discords in the minds of many people, and it is good that it should be so because the community will only advance when it realised that the spiritual plane is the only plane. Although the Church may be ancient, I am proud to express its humble bleat that the spiritual life will grow as men and women are prepared to accept this plane as a projection into the future.'

The new secretary of the Cumberlands, Mr. F. J. Matthews, proposed the toast of 'The Society,' and reminded the company that the Cumberlands were now over 200 years old. There was a time when everyone ringing at St. Martin's was white-haired, wore a blue serge suit with a watch-chain suspended from the waistcoat. Such a scene was but a memory. Today they had lady members: they were very welcome—indeed they were a part of their Society. As a Society they had a lot to be thankful for in their leader: with his keenness and enthusiasm the standards of ringing and striking were improving.

'We have a good leader; let us give him the support he needs as Master of the Cumberlands,' concluded Mr. Matthews.

A SUCCESSFUL YEAR

The Master in his reply said last year they were able to look forward perhaps a little optimistically to the year ahead, but this year he thought they could look forward confidently to what was before them.

'We have had a successful year. We rang a total of 12 peals, and what is gratifying is that 50 people took part in them. One was a peal on handbells of Grand sire Caters. We also achieved for the first time a peal of Yorkshire Surprise Maximus and Spliced Surprise Major in four methods. Although these peals give us pleasure they also mean that we are progressing and achieving a higher standard.'

'Last Saturday at our annual meeting we had quite a number ringing on 12 bells for the first time, and it was a delight to listen to it. That is what we want in all our ringing.'

'Our main object is to provide bands to ring for services. This year we have been unfortunate as our headquarters have not been available to us. I am not certain this is a disadvantage as we have visited our old friends at Shoreditch and St. Clement Danes'. Our standard of striking has improved and we can look forward to going back to St. Martin's with a higher standard of ringing.'

200TH ANNIVERSARY PEAL INVITE

The Master mentioned that he had received a letter from the secretary of St. Paul's, Bedford, mentioning that 200 years ago this year a peal of Bob Major was rung by the Society at St. Paul's, Bedford, and inviting the Society to their tower. The Master said he would do his best to take a band to accept the invitation. He was sure they would agree with him when he said it was a very nice thought.

The Master, in a welcome to 'his friend the Master of the College Youths,' said they were looking forward to the day when they would revive the competition between the two Societies. One of the things they hoped would come out of this increasing rivalry would be increasing friendship.

The Real Ringer's Answer

'Overtones,' the publication of the American Guild of English Handbell Ringers, tells of the visit of Bill and Nancy Tufts to 'The Thatched Tavern' at Applton.

Nancy was invited to join the locals in tune ringing. Picking up a bell, she saw there was no note on the handle. She tried another bell with the same result. 'Look here,' she said, 'these bells have no notes on the handles. How do you know which is which?' Frank White, in rich Berkshire dialect, replied: 'Us uses our ears; us don't need notes on handles.'

'It is a great honour to be re-elected as Master for a second term, particularly as strong views were expressed as to the office going round. At the annual meeting we elected a new secretary in Frank Matthews, and it was remarkable that Frank's grandfather was elected Master of the Society 50 years ago and remained in office for 21 years.'

The toast of 'The Visitors' was submitted by Mr. A. J. House. Mr. Michael Moreton, the Master of the College Youths, replied, and said most of them would agree that there were many towers in London that were undermanned and had not the number of keen ringers required.

The number of young men who learnt to ring in the villages and small towns, and then moved to London and were then lost to ringing was quite large. There were also large numbers of young people in London who had nothing to do with their leisure and were very good material to fill the empty towers.

WEEK-END COURSES

The Central Council had been giving attention to week-end courses, and these courses in various parts of the country had been a success. He felt that a course in London would do more good than in other parts of the country when travelling was difficult.

Mr. Moreton said he failed to understand why that bitterness of the past should have existed. He thought that rivalry and a determination to do the best to improve the standards was to be encouraged provided it did not develop into animosity and hatred.

A course of Yorkshire Surprise Major was rung on handbells by E. A. Barnett 1-2, Miss Joan Beresford 3-4, Dennis Beresford 5-6, Peter Beresford 7-8. There was also an entertainment by Malcolm MacDonald (baritone), Joan Houghton (soprano), Sheila Lawson (comedianne) and Diane Blaber (at the piano).

THE COMPANY

In addition to the top table, there were present Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Hawthorne, Mr. and Mrs. J. Raithby, Mr. and Mrs. W. Exton, Mr. and Mrs. T. Bevan, Mr. and Mrs. F. Goodfellow, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Tester, Mr. and Mrs. G. Hart, Mr. and Mrs. P. Eves, Mr. and Mrs. P. Humphries, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Francis, Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Kirkby, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Collins, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Matthews, Mr. and Mrs. Sarkar.

Mesdames R. Lathbury and A. Beresford. The Misses J. Warner, R. Yeld, N. Shorter, Jo Beresford, R. Foreman, C. Whitfield, M. Ponton, H. Talbot, J. Cox, S. Parsons, J. Langton, M. Ladd, D. Deverell, M. Harte, I. Lemare, M. Prockson and E. Yardley.

Messrs. D. Leach, G. Paul, M. Lewis, I. Ogilvie, D. Hart, R. Brockington, C. Rogers, T. Tall, D. Kibble, G. Drew, H. Eggleston, B. Jeffrey, N. Steere, P. Beresford, A. Cutler, D. Gibson, J. E. Warner, I. Oram, P. Bond, A. R. Ling, A. J. House, B. Baker, J. Cooper, A. Mason and W. Prockson.

SOUTHWELL DIOCESAN GUILD

The 14th annual meeting of the Newark District was held at Newark on January 21st. Ringing took place on the six bells at Balderton, from 2.30-4.30 p.m., under the direction of the Ringing Master, Mr. P. H. White. A very enjoyable tea was prepared by the lady members of the Newark Parish Society of Ringers, and served in St. Mary's Rooms, Newark, after which the business meeting took place, presided over by the Vicar of Newark, Canon J. H. D. Grinter.

The secretary read his report for 1960, which contained many challenging remarks. Three new members were elected, one each from Elston, Balderton and Staunton-in-the-Vale.

Officers for 1961 were elected as follows: Chairman, Mr. F. W. Midwinter; honorary secretary, Mrs. C. W. Reed; Ringing Master, Mr. P. N. White; committee members, Mr. W. L. Exton and Mr. J. D. Clarke.

Mr. Midwinter expressed thanks to the retiring secretary, Mr. W. L. Exton, and said how sorry he was to see him relinquish the post, as Mr. Exton's work had always been most untiring.

North Muskham was confirmed as the place for the March meeting, and the meeting was closed with a vote of thanks to the ladies for preparing the tea, and to Canon Grinter for taking the chair and giving permission.

THE SUFFOLK GUILD

The accent was on youth at the annual meeting of the North East District held at Halesworth on January 28th, when over 30 members attended. Ringing included Stedman Triples, Double Norwich and Cambridge Surprise Major. In his welcome at the service, the Rector (the Rev. E. J. Button) expressed his pleasure that Halesworth bells were rung regularly for service by the young band which had been formed.

There was only one change in the election of officers: Miss Marion Branch, of Halesworth, is the new District secretary, replacing Mr. A. R. Bridges, who had moved from the district. One new member—John Canham, of Halesworth—was elected. Next quarterly meeting Leiston; ringing meeting Wenhamston, with Blythburgh first.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

STRUGGLING BANDS AND VISITING

Dear Sir.—Mr. Phil Corby's letter in 'The Ringing World' (January 20th), suggests that struggling bands go out visiting to improve their ringing.

I would start by saying how I appreciate the help that I have had in various towers, including Sevenoaks. I have a car at present and can often get over to Sevenoaks for a practice. I could not if I depended on public transport as there is no way of getting to Sevenoaks from Ash by public transport in under 2 hours.

If I want to go to Northfleet I cannot get home again without waiting for an hour for a bus in Gravesend—before I had the car I often bicycled and have very often walked home after the practice. That is my point of view.

The local ringers are practically all young—they are also in the choir, and belong to several other organisations which take up their spare time. They are also very shy to go visiting where they are not known, though I am always urging them to come out with me. Neither would one visit help at all—but what I would suggest is a possible compromise of 'Mohammed and the mountain,' an occasional visit of four or five really experienced ringers to boost our morale and get us really into method ringing and return visits to help out the other towers and get more practice.

There is, of course, the genuine snag with people like myself who are married and do not like to be out too often. We have our home responsibilities as well.

I am not grumbling, and I fully realise that without private transport we are just as cut off from the outside as the outside is to us. We can keep plodding on and perhaps one day we shall get further along the road of bellringing. We do manage fairly regular service ringing, and practise to the best of our ability.—Yours truly,

JOHN V. MULLER.

Ash, near Sevenoaks.

P.S.—Ash is about 8 miles from either Northfleet or Sevenoaks.—J. V. M.

'QUADRING SURPRISE MAJOR'

Dear Sir.—The method rung at Epworth, Lincs, on January 7th, 1961, under the name of 'Quadrang' is not new. The first peal of it was rung at Aldershot, Hampshire, conducted by Mr. A. R. Pink, on September 28th, 1957, when it was named Wellington, after a certain British general.

This is the second recent instance of duplicated methods, of which there are numerous earlier examples. Unfortunately, no subsequent correction can ever change the original erroneous publication, and future queries on the names Quadrang, Newmarket, and the like, are bound to occur.

Although a number of ringers have made their own collections of the methods scattered through the pages of 'The Ringing World,' it is not high time that the Central Council published a complete collection of those surprise methods rung to date?

Publication of the long-awaited collection prepared by Mr. Trollope was finally discarded ten years ago, for financial reasons, but a very much simpler collection, on the lines of the now out-of-date booklets of the late Mr. Andrew Corrigan, would meet today's needs, admirably. It should be restricted to those methods which have been rung and named, and could be kept up-to-date by regular supplements, to be published as necessary.—Yours sincerely,

GEORGE W. MASSEY.

Frome, Somerset.

THE CHRISTMAS BROADCAST

Dear Sir.—There has been a happy absence of what I would term 'nasty' letters in 'The Ringing World' over the past few months, but Mr. Robin Leale has again excelled himself in a tone which does him little credit.

I have had the pleasure of knowing Claude Rush for many years, and may I say that few people, in East Anglia at any rate, have done more for bells and ringing since the war than he. I am sure that his observations on the Christmas Day broadcast emanated from an intense interest and love of bells and ringers, and were certainly not intended to be taken as a yardstick for future broadcasts or to offer advice to such knowledgeable people as Mr. Leale.

We in Australia are unable to tune in to the Christmas bells, but read with great interest any news published about them. I hope my fellow ringers here won't look upon Mr. Leale as a typical example of the fraternity in Britain.—Yours, etc.,

Melbourne.

G. W. PIPE.

PRESENTATION CERTIFICATE

Dear Sir.—Some time ago I arranged and rang in a peal for the last service of a visiting Australian parson at our church. A sheet from my wife's 'Record Book' was purloined, filled in and handed to the parson and his wife after the service. The thanks we got for this was a little overwhelming, and it was promised pride of place in a glass frame on the wall back home in Australia.

I have often thought of this; we ring a peal—for us it's another tick in the book, another page filled in, another method—but if it's rung for a complete outsider, a loved vicar, a birth, a bride and groom, etc., what have they to show for it!

I think there is a need in the C.C. publications of a certificate on the lines of a diploma that can be filled in by the conductor for a peal, or quarter even, and handed to the person or persons for whom it was rung.

The skyline block on the front page of 'The Ringing World' could be a heading for such a form.

Well there's the idea, perhaps other ringers would care to comment on it.—Yours sincerely,

WILFRID S. PALIN.

GRANDSIRE CATERS WITHDRAWN

Dear Sir.—I wish to withdraw the peal of Grandsire Caters rung at Grundisburgh on November 2nd, 1957, the composition being false, and I apologise to all those concerned.—Yours faithfully, RODERICK W. PIPE.

King's Norton, Birmingham.

RECORD LENGTH ATTEMPT OF GRANDSIRE CATERS

Dear Sir.—I give notice to the Exercise that, by kind permission of the Rector of Grundisburgh (Rev. R. W. Schofield), an attempt to ring 23,111 of Grandsire Caters will be made on Saturday, March 4th, 1961, at Grundisburgh, starting at 8 a.m. I enclose the composition.—Yours truly, FRANK B. LUFKIN.

For composition see back page (120).

SOME EXTENSION THOUGHTS

Dear Sir.—Mr. J. S. Barnes, in your issue of January 27th, asks why we 'illogically tolerate the names St. Simon's Doubles and St. Clement's Minor for what is the same method on different numbers of bells.' During all the discussion and argument about method extension there was very little, if any, mention of extension from an odd number of bells to an even, or from an even number to an odd: from Doubles to Minor or from Minor to Triples, for instance.

The particular case of extension from Minor to Triples is explained in the preface to the C.C. 'Collection of Triples Methods' (1934): 'Every Minor Method on the Plain Principle can be turned into a Seven-bell Method by adding a Bell-in-the-Hunt. The seven-bell variation will bear exactly the same relation towards the six-bell Method that Grandsire Triples does towards Bob Minor.' The committee which produced this Collection did not include the attached method, presumably because it does not have triple changes throughout but a double change at the treble's lead. (Plain Bob is omitted too.)

1 2 3 4 5 6 7
2 1 4 3 6 5 7
2 4 1 6 3 7 5
4 2 6 1 7 3 5
2 4 6 7 1 5 3
4 2 7 6 5 1 3
2 4 7 5 6 3 1
4 2 5 7 3 6 1
2 4 5 3 7 1 6
4 2 3 5 1 7 6
2 4 3 1 5 6 7
4 2 1 3 6 5 7
4 1 2 6 3 7 5
1 4 6 2 7 3 5

1 4 2 6 3 7 5

Now if St. Simon's Doubles is the contraction of St. Clement's Minor, then this attached method must be the extension to Triples. But the extension to Triples in the Triples Collection has a bell-in-the-hunt (besides the treble), three lots of thirds under the treble and a triple dodge in 1-2, just as in the Minor. Working on the same principle from St. Clement's Minor, by adding a bell-in-the-hunt, the following Doubles method is produced:—

1 2 3 4 5
2 3 1 4 5
3 2 4 1 5
3 4 2 5 1
4 3 5 2 1
3 4 5 1 2
4 3 1 5 2
4 1 3 2 5
1 4 2 3 5
1 2 4 5 3

This will be recognised as Double Grandsire. In the same way it will be seen that Colledge Minor contracted to Doubles with a bell-in-the-hunt becomes Reverse Grandsire.

There are, of course, a number of anomalies in Minor-Major names. Double Oxford and Hereward seem obviously related to each other, but London Bob Minor becomes Pershore Bob Major, Double Court becomes Double Norwich. Edinburgh Delight Minor and Major are not 'related,' I think. The Minor was rung first, by the way, in Cheshire, at least in 1935. And one of the new St. Clement's Major variations (Schofield, I think) rung in the recent 29 Major method peal seems like an extension of one of these new Minor methods with four places made at once (Fairfield is it?).—Yours sincerely,

WILFRID F. MORETON.

UNIVERSITY OF BRISTOL SOCIETY DINNER

THE University of Bristol Society held its annual dinner on January 28th in the Senior Common Room of the University, where once again all attendance records were broken, over 130 people being present. Throughout the day ringing had taken place in many enthusiastically-crowded Bristol towers, where London, Oxford, Bristol, Stedman Cinques and Cambridge Royal were some of the methods rung. Members from the Reading, London, Oxford and Southampton societies arrived in the course of the day and were warmly welcomed, especially as they much increased the general standard of method ringing.

The dinner took place after a short, delightful service at St. Michael's, held by the Rev. Vivyan Jones. The various courses of the dinner proved as good as anticipation had imagined them (thanks go to John Baldwin for choosing the menu so expertly—it was not 'bangers and mash' as ominous rumour had threatened!).

After the toast 'The Queen', Professor Brocklehurst, president of the Society, rose to welcome all those present, especially the large number of old members who had come back in honour of the occasion. The secretary, Mr. Ian Maycock, said how very delightful it was that Mr. Frederick Sharpe, the Dean of Bristol and the Rector of St. Michael's, had been able to attend; he also welcomed the Masters of Oxford, London, Reading and Southampton Universities and read out apologies from Cambridge and Manchester.

The speaker for the occasion was Mr. Frederick Sharpe—and, of course, his witty stories kept everyone in peals of laughter. In between the jokes he imparted some very sound advice and said how encouraging it was to see the art of bell ringing kept alive; this enthusiasm among young people at Universities and elsewhere was something which had hardly existed ten years ago; it showed a growing interest in all matters connected with the church and the importance of this interest at such times as these could not be sufficiently stressed.

'The Ringing World,' however, had had a very hard time and he begged everyone to do more for the paper; the interest was there as had been shown by the success of the 'Beginner's Handbook,' which was going through another edition.

The Master of London University, Mr. Jeff Pratt, then rose and, after an amusing introduction, congratulated the U.B.S.C.R. on its success last term when all of nine quarter peal attempts had been won. Finally Mr. John Baldwin, Master of the Bristol Society, welcomed all those present, and gave a brief summary of the year's events. It had been a year of consolidation, he said, rather than of outstanding progress. There had been the usual doubts about the new session, but the Society had gained five new members, three of whom were experienced ringers.

Much enthusiasm had been shown towards ringing practices and outings: the standard on six bells was quite passable, but much was to be desired on eight. Last term eight-bell practices had either been thwarted or those held had been poor. However, attendance at city practices had continued the good relations with the town ringers.

Outings this year had been very successful: apart from cycle outings there had coach trips to Tewkesbury and Wells, the summer tour, Michael Sprackling's Kent tour, and a combined tour with Southampton Universities to the Isle of Wight, on which Bristol immediately blotted their copy book by arriving too late to catch the ferry. Relations, however, between the Universities were now back to normal!

The Master regretted that that afternoon the Society had lost what would have been its seventy-fifth peal. However, during the year five attempts had been successful and Albert Tyler was thanked for his invaluable help to the Society. In conclusion he quoted from 'The Ringing World' of last November:

'It is the ability of a ringer by his handling, striking and dependability in the method being rung that counts in the belfry and by that yardstick he is judged in the eyes of his fellows. Because of this guiding principle there is a responsibility placed on the Universities to produce worthy practitioners in the Exercise.'

Bristol, he said, was fulfilling this responsibility.

Afterwards the guests adjourned to the lounge, where the more energetic gave a short handbell exhibition. However, someone else was also feeling energetic, for at twelve midnight 'the tenor king,' repeating his pre-war success in a certain London tea shop, performed 20 'press-ups,' while demonstrating to many onlookers that he is still in his prime. And this memorable event brought another very enjoyable annual dinner to its close.

WINCHESTER & PORTSMOUTH GUILD

Basingstoke District

In spite of the wretched weather, there was a good attendance at the annual meeting of the Basingstoke District held at Basingstoke on January 28th. The service was conducted by Canon F. A. Sanders, Rector of Overton, who spoke on the true Christian Fellowship to be found in ringing.

After an excellent tea, provided by the Basingstoke ringers, Canon Sanders presided at the business meeting. It was reported that membership had fallen to 71, but there were signs that it was again increasing. As only three teams had taken part in the competition for the Alliston Cup, it was agreed, with the donor's consent, that the future of the cup be left in the hands of the Executive Committee of the Guild. A suggestion that an annual report might be produced for the District received no support. The meeting was in favour of a donation being sent from the Guild to the A. H. Pulling Memorial Fund.

Provided the necessary arrangements can be made meetings will be held during the year at Yateley, Kingsclere and Overton.

Apart from visitors—they were welcomed from as far afield as Hillingdon and Wareham, Reading and Southampton—the absence of experienced ringers was very noticeable. It is all too clear that ringers in the District face an uphill struggle.

SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Northern Divisional Annual

Growing interest in the Northern Division was evidenced at its annual meeting at Horsham on February 4th. Ringing commenced at 2.30 p.m., and by service time the spacious tower was full to capacity.

The Vicar, the Rev. Peter Gillingham, who took the service, congratulated the secretary on the singing of her members. He also presided at tea (at which 64 sat down), but owing to another engagement was unable to stay to the meeting.

Mr. R. Johnson (Master of the Association) took the chair at the business meeting, at which Mrs. E. L. Hairs was unanimously re-elected honorary secretary, Messrs. G. Francis and D. Mitchell committee, A. J. Butcher auditor, and G. Francis Ringing Master.

The balance sheet was passed with great satisfaction, showing a balance of £37 odd. Affiliation fees were also good—£38 11s. as against £12. Another encouraging sign was the election of no less than 42 new members!

In proposing a vote of thanks to the Vicar and the organist, the Master said they could not overlook the good work done by the officers of the Division, especially the wonderful way in which the honorary secretary (Mrs. E. L. Hairs) had pulled the Division up again from a very low ebb.

Ringing continued until 8 p.m. and ranged from rounds to Bristol Surprise, and the standard of striking also showed a gratifying improvement.

ESSEX ASSOCIATION

South-Western District

St. John's, Leytonstone, proved an attractive setting for the A.G.M. of the South-Western District on January 14th. The overflow gallery was needed to accommodate 100 members, plus another 20 ringers who were just 'passing through.' A welcome return was made by 91-year-old Dick Stannard, who once again, after an absence of 5 years, was able to take his stand in a touch of Stedman.

The Rev. G. Earl, of St. Mary's, Leyton, conducted the service. His interest in bells had been shown previously when he composed, for the service, an extra verse to the hymn 'We love the place, O God' as follows:

We love the peal of bells;
Whose music never cloy;
Which of Thy sweetness tells;
And speaks of Heaven's joys.

At the business meeting officers re-elected were: Mr. J. H. Crampion, Master, Mr. C. E. Wilkington, secretary, and Mr. J. Sitch (Brentwood) and Mr. M. Hallett (Rayleigh), committee members.

The secretary reported that membership had continued to rise and now stood at 315, plus 21 life members. Honorary members numbered 75. He drew attention to the time and effort given by tower masters in their training of young people and supplying a steady stream of new members. Twenty peals had been rung and 160 quarter peals for Sunday service. Eight young members had rung their first peal and three their first as conductor. The monthly 10 bell District practice at Walthamstow had been well attended and very successful: 12 new members were elected.

Full support was given to a proposal to hold a District outing in June, the venue being Oxfordshire.

Sincere thanks was extended to the Leytonstone ladies for the excellent manner in which they had catered for one and all. The next meeting will be held at Epping on April 8th.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD

Dorchester Branch

At the annual meeting of the Dorchester Branch at Dorchester on January 21st, the honorary secretary (Mr. R. H. Duke), in his annual report, said it was hoped that repairs to the tower of St. Peter's, Dorchester, would begin during the present year.

The bells of Charminster were now in the hands of Messrs. Taylors, at Loughborough, and it was hoped that they would be ready for ringing, after augmentation to eight, in the spring. Frampton bells were ringing after repairs to the tower. The tenor of Abbotsbury was cracked and estimates had been received for work to be done on these bells. Efforts were being made to reform the band at Litton Cheney, after a lapse of several years. Membership now stood at 156—138 ringing, 13 associate, 5 honorary.

The following officers were elected: Chairman, Rev. C. E. C. Brinkworth (Rector of Castistock); vice-chairman, Rev. E. B. Brooks (Vicar of Fordington); honorary secretary and treasurer, Mr. R. H. Duke (St. Peter's, Dorchester); Ringing Master, Mr. J. W. Rose (Wyke Regis); Deputy Ringing Masters, Mr. J. Slade (Presion) and Mr. E. Amey (Charminster).

Eight new ringing members were elected, viz.: Miss M. Smith, Miss E. Kingman, Mr. F. Burt, Mr. M. Bryan, Miss A. Shakesford, Mr. K. Adams, Mr. G. Franklin, and Mr. A. Day. Mr. F. Stedman was elected a life member, and the Rev. K. W. Meiklejohn an honorary member.

It was suggested that meetings during the year should be held at Frampton, Wyke Regis and Charminster. Branch practices were arranged for, subject to confirmation, as follows: Preston, St. Peter's, Dorchester, Bere Regis, Piddlehinton, Wyke Regis (April 8th) and Wool (April 15th), otherwise at fortnightly intervals, commencing on February 4th.

The Guild service at St. Peter's Church was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. K. W. Meiklejohn) who, in his address, spoke of the unity and team work among ringers and appealed for the same unity of purpose among Christian Churches.

THE LATE MR. FREDK. W. BRINKLOW

As previously reported, Fred Brinklow died suddenly at his home at Oxhey on January 19th. His death came as a grievous shock to his many friends, and great sympathy will be felt for his widow. For, up to the time of his death, he had been a very fit and active man in spite of his 75 years, and young in mind and spirit.

Fred learned to ring at Oxhey just over 60 years ago. He was one of the original band trained by George N. Price, who died only recently. Price's ability and drive, together with the excellent material he had to hand, led to the formation of one of the best local bands of that or any other time. The Oxhey Society flourished from 1900 to about 1927, but after the Great War Price moved and virtually gave up ringing. Their heyday was in the dozen years or so up to 1914. By 1908 they had rung many purely local peals of Grandsire, Stedman, Double Norwich and the three (then) standard Surprise methods, Superlative, Cambridge and London. Bristol was added in 1910. They also practised Eryri, a form of Bristol in which the treble has a double-dodging hunt, but no composition was available in this method until Harold Cashmore obtained one, by parting the tenors, in 1935.

Fred's first peal, Grandsire Triples, was rung on August 10th, 1901. This was also the first for the brothers William and Henry Hodgetts who, with Fred, rang their first handbell peal in July, 1902, when Price called the same composition, Holt's Original. These four, with Hubert Eden and others, later rang a number of handbell peals: Stedman Triples (a number of different compositions, including Carter's Odd-bob), Caters and Cinques, also Double Norwich and, in 1909-10, three peals of Superlative, being only the third band to ring peals of Surprise 'in hand.' George Price, himself an able conductor, encouraged others to do so, and many of his ringers called peals both in the tower and on handbells.

Fred became a good back-ender, and from 1908 onwards rang the tenor to many of his peals. By December, 1913, when he rang his last peal until after the war, he had rung 131 peals. Those who may think this a moderate number for 12 years' active ringing must remember that in those days the railway was about the only means of public transport: for the ordinary ringer nearly all journeys had to be made by pedal cycle or on foot.

In 1927 Fred called a peal of Superlative 'in hand.' In this Ronald W. R. Picton (1-2) rang his first peal and Harold G. Cashmore (3-4), who had learned at Oxhey in the post-war years, his first 'in hand.' Henry Hodgetts rang 5-6.

ALPHABET IN SURPRISE

In the 1930's a Surprise band, under Harold Cashmore as conductor, rang many peals, a great number being in new methods and rung without previous practice. Fred was a regular member of this band. One of his ambitions, to ring Surprise methods right through the alphabet, was not realised until December, 1955, when, at the age of over 70, he learned and rang a peal of Xavier Surprise.

As a ringer Fred was absolutely first-class, both in handling and striking; the latter surprisingly, since he suffered from deafness which increased so that at one time, until he acquired a hearing aid, it threatened to cut him off from ordinary conversation. Yet however little he could hear, he always knew exactly what was going on 'up top' (a source of amazement to some of those he taught!) and his striking was always faultless.

As a conductor he had few ambitions, but he achieved that of becoming the first to call the four standard Surprise methods on both tower and handbells. He always called from the observation bell, and was safe. He never sorted out muddles, for one of the main tenets of the old Oxhey school was that this was not part of the conductor's job—it was for the ringers themselves to avoid making mistakes. This may well account for their success and explain why Stedman Triples was for them a stock method, both in the tower and 'in hand.'

In 1932 I was fortunate in coming to Bushey, and took part subsequently with Fred in many peals in the tower and something over 50 peals on handbells, some 45 of which were in Surprise methods. Harold Cashmore conducted nearly all these peals and all the spliced. Henry Hodgetts rang up to and after the war, his place being taken during the war by Edwin Jennings, later by my wife, and finally by the late Ernest C. S. Turner, who rang in the war-time series. The latter called Fred's last handbell peal, Stedman Triples, on July 29th, 1953. Before the war we rang Cambridge, London, spliced Surprise from two to six methods and Bristol. In the war another series was rung up to 6-spliced. Afterwards peals of Superlative, Yorkshire, two new methods, Jersey and Felstead, and spliced in various numbers of methods up to 16, the latter being rung in October, 1952, when Fred was 67. Cambridge and London, strictly silent and non-conducted, followed.

Fred rang his bells as a pair, learning his methods by studying the combined diagram, not by construction; consequently he could only ring leads he had previously studied. While it is easy to translate a single 'blue line' into words and learn it by heart, this cannot be done with two. Visual memory and practice are needed, so Fred was always rather slower than the rest to learn; but once he had got a grip he made few mistakes. All but about three of his handbell peals (two Stedman and one Bob Major) were rung on the tenors. If it had been required he would undoubtedly have gone far on an 'inside' pair, but this would have wasted his extraordinary talent as a tenor man. He was a wonderful judge of speed, nearly all his handbell peals on eight taking from ten to 20 minutes over two hours. His rhythm was very near the ideal 'strict time' or metrical beat, so after a few courses the bells would be going as if being rung by a machine.

Fred's last peal was rung at Northchurch—Cambridge Surprise, July 2nd, 1960. He rang as well as ever. Altogether he rang 460 peals—every one of them, I believe, good ones.

No appreciation of Fred as a ringer would be complete without some reference to him as a man. His cheerful, friendly nature and humour, and his obvious enjoyment of life, endeared him to all. Of late, especially, he had become an institution whose presence in a peal band or on an outing would add greatly to the enjoyment of those taking part. We shall miss him very much. C. W. W.

MR. BRINKLOW'S PEALS

The late Mr. F. W. Brinklow rang 460 peals, of which he conducted 28. He had completed the alphabet in Surprise methods. Of his peals 'in hand'—109 (conducted 9)—he rang in peals in 8, 9, 12, 14 and 16 Spliced Surprise methods.

His tower bell peals included three peals of London Surprise Major rung in three different counties in one day (April 24th, 1905) and also the first peal of London Surprise Royal (No. 1 version). He was the first man to call peals in the four standard Surprise methods on both tower- and handbells. He rang in two Frederick peals—Stedman Triples and Kent Treble Bob Royal. Details:—

OBITUARY

MR. ADOLPHUS ROBERTS

An outstanding personality in the old Warwickshire Guild and afterwards the Coventry Diocesan Guild died suddenly on January 30th at the age of 90. He was one of the oldest members of the Ancient Society of College Youths, having joined on September 24th, 1889, and rang his first peal for the Society on December 27th, 1889.

'Bob,' as he was known to a very wide circle, and who learnt to handle a bell at the age of 10, started his ringing career with St. Michael's Junior Society on September 9th, 1887, being a founder member. He rang his first peal (Bob Minor) on May 25th, 1889, at St. Mary-de-Lode's, Gloucester.

He moved to Birmingham in 1891, and rang his first peals of Grandsire and Stedman Caters at Aston. The same year, with a band of College Youths, he rang in the first peal of Stedman Triples in Wales at Llandaff Cathedral. His first peals of Cambridge, Superlative and London Surprise came in 1891.

About 1896 he moved to Stourbridge, and helped to teach a band at Old Swinford. During this time there was a crack band at St. Mary's, Kidderminster, and Bob was soon invited to take part in their peals. He rang over 60 peals with them before he moved to Wolverhampton and joined the St. Peter's band. He later moved to Beeston, Notts, to work for the Humber Motor Co. After about four years the company moved to Coventry, and took Bob with them.

On his first morning in Coventry he met up with Ned Johnson, who invited him to join Stoke St. Michael's band. Here he met J. F. Smallwood, who was at that time the kingpin at Stoke. This was in 1908. The Warwickshire Guild had only been formed a year and, to use Bob's own words, was a very rickety child, scarcely able to walk. He met with hostility on all sides, but this soon levelled out, and in his first year in Coventry he took part in four peals. About this time Canon C. C. Cox was making his presence felt in the Guild. Bob rang in the first peal of Cinques (Stedman) for the Guild at St. Peter's, Wolverhampton.

I met Bob about two weeks before he died, when he was very alert and appeared to be quite fit. He reminisced about the peal of Stedman Triples which was rung for his silver wedding in May, 1918. After serving in Palestine in the first World War he returned to Coventry, and Stoke St. Michael's. He rang over 250 peals—100 of these were for the Warwickshire Guild—and conducted about 35 of them. His last peal was of Stedman Triples at Stoke on his 84th birthday.

He met with an accident about three years ago which left him with his right arm practically useless; this ended his ringing, but did not prevent him from calling in at Stoke on practice nights. He would not tolerate bad striking at any time, and was always ready to help others. His last sincere hope was that the Coventry Diocesan Guild would be controlled by efficient officers, and his regret was that no provision had been made in the plans of the new Cathedral, Coventry, to build a tower to house the lovely 12 bells still in the old Cathedral tower. His last attendance at a Guild meeting was at Whitnash in October, 1960, when the Guild paid tribute to its veterans, of which Bob was one.

Officers and members of the Guild were present at his funeral at Stoke St. Michael's on February 2nd. Before the cortege left the church, members rang a course of Grandsire Triples on handbells. The bells are not ringable at the moment as the tower is being overhauled, so there will not be a peal to bid Bob farewell. He will be missed by all who knew him. J. L. G. H.

Mr. Russell S. Morris, of Leicester, rang in 73 peals during 1960, all on tower bells. He conducted three.

GOLDINGTON, BEDS.—On Jan. 28th, 1.260 Grandsire Doubles; Mrs. R. G. Corby 1, Mrs. M. Marshall 2, J. H. Edwards 3, L. E. Duffield 4, R. G. Corby (cond.) 5, A. Lumbis 6. Rung half-muffled in memoriam Tom Wildman, former people's warden.

MR. FREDERICK PARR

With deep regret we record the passing of Mr. Frederick Parr, of Killamarsh, on January 25th, aged 83 years.

Mr. Parr was the last surviving member of the Killamarsh team, which rose to great heights in change-ringing under the leadership of the late Mr. Charles Severn in the early years of the present century. He rang his first peal on April 22nd, 1911.

A keen churchman, he was a member of the Parochial Church Council and a churchwarden until sickness overtook him.

He was a most conscientious Sunday service ringer, and looked upon this as a duty as well as a service. Very rarely absent, he placed this above all his other activities. He prided himself that he never once let his team down. His guidance will be greatly missed.

After the funeral on January 28th the bells were rung half-muffled by the local band. E. E. M.

MR. SIDNEY 'GUNBOAT' SMITH

Nettlebed, Oxfordshire, has lost a village worthy who was a keen sportsman by the death on January 30th of Mr. Sidney 'Gunboat' Smith. A ringer at Nettlebed since the 1920's, he was the brother of the late Mr. J. Smith, captain of the tower.

In spite of heart trouble in the last few years he would always make the band up whenever asked, and during the writer's eight years as captain he never let the tower down. Climbing the belfry ladder was no doubt against doctor's orders, but nevertheless he still came and to make his work as light as possible was generally placed on the treble, although he would have taken any bell in the tower. He was a good Doubles ringer, a good striker and neat handler.

For some years it had been customary for the ringers to have a drink with Sid at his home on each Christmas morning. Last Christmas the band was welcomed in by Mrs. Smith to find that he had had a nasty attack during the night. Although he was his cheerful self, alas it was the last time most of the band saw him.

The funeral service and cremation was on February 3rd, and in the evening a quarter peal of Grandsire Doubles was rung with the bells half-muffled by B. Sadler 1, J. Pinchin 2, R. Hope 3, R. Cummins 4, N. Belson (conductor) 5, R. Smith 6. N. B.

Essex Association

The annual meeting of the Northern District was held on January 28th at Coggeshall, when 79 members and visitors attended.

The Rev. F. N. Brown, Vicar, conducted the service, and Mr. Gunn was the organist. Tea was served in the Lecture Hall by St. Peter's Women's Guild.

During the business meeting Mr. H. A. Pratt was again elected Master and Mrs. M. E. Moore secretary. Two new committee members were elected, Mr. Alan Syder and Mr. Peter Wood.

The last year had been very successful: increased membership; more peals and quarter peals; better average attendance at meetings; and a new tower affiliated to the Association.

A MEMORY OF SOUTHWELL

IN December, 1953, there appeared in 'Belfry Gossip' the following, with reference to Southwell Minster:—

'A band of Grandsire Triples ringers were attacking, rather furiously at times, for upwards of three hours before the order came for evacuation. Readers will no doubt feel assured to know that this Norman stronghold, and the bells, withstood the assault and are apparently no worse for the invasion.'

This was attributed to some Surprise-ringing wag, following the report of the first peal ever to be rung on Southwell bells by an all-local band.

However, in 1961, by the mere stroke of the pen on a cheque by a local benefactor, the famous old Rudhall ring of eight is no more. Early in the New Year it was removed from the central tower of the Minster and taken to the Loughborough Foundry.

Local ringers are somewhat in the dark as to what is happening to them, but it is understood they are to be dispatched to the melting pot and made into a ring of 12, probably ready for ringing by Christmas, 1961. This news was received with mixed feelings in the district because Southwell, as it has been known for the past 240 years, will be just a memory.

Gone will be the old ringers' gallery with its wide, open space across the tower and approximately 60 foot drop in the church below (this is to be filled in), and gone will be the lovely old ring of eight bells, with its glorious-toned tenor of about 28 cwt., reputed to be a maiden bell cast by Abraham Rudhall at Gloucester in 1721.

The ringers' gallery with its anti-clockwise ring of eight, the fine old Norman arches behind the ringers, and the protective wire netting on the balustrades made this tower unique in the country. Many famous ringers have 'conquered' Southwell in their day, and quite a few failed. Many gallant attempts were made, some successful, some otherwise, and the first peal of Southwell Surprise Major was rung here in January, 1954.

The first peal on the bells was Grandsire Triples, conducted by Francis E. Dawe, about 1895 or 1896. The last peal on the bells was in the same method and rung by a local band last December.

Originally there was a mixed lot of ancient bells here, of which little is known, for on November 5th, 1711, a violent thunderstorm passed over Southwell in the evening and fire broke out in the south-west tower which spread to the roof of the nave and the central tower; the organ was destroyed and the bells melted. The marks of the fire can be seen to this day on the walls of the towers. In May, 1712, Thomas Clay, of Leicester, agreed to salvage the metal, and cast a ring of eight bells 'to be well tuned, well toned and pleasant sounded.'

However, Clay's bells could not have come up to expectations because in January, 1719, many of the inhabitants of Southwell signed an agreement to contribute money to have them recast. Rudhall was approached, and he agreed to recast the eight old bells and make a new ring 'that shall be in the judgment of any three or more understanding and judicious persons in musick, as good and tuneable and to have as sweet and harmonious notes or tones as the bells at Newark,' which were lately cast by him. Rudhall's bells were hung in the Minster in the autumn of 1721, and the cost for the whole job of casting, transporting from Gloucester to Southwell and hanging in the tower, came to £170 17s. 6½d.

In 1819 it appears the fourth and fifth bells were recast by T. Mears, of London, and the second seems to have been recast in 1849 by C. and G. Mears, London. In 1897 the bells were rehung by John Taylor, of Loughborough, and two more added to hang 'dead' in the tower to enable the National Anthem to be played by mechanical chimes.

These two bells accompanied the eight ringing bells to the foundry in 1961, and when they return they will be the first ring of 12 bells in Nottinghamshire.

As there are to be 13 bells in the new ring, one of the great advantages will be the possession of a good front or middle eight. And this, with the addition of the new floor, will be a boon to teaching local recruits, which has long been a stumbling block at Southwell.

The bells were rung for the last time on New Year's Eve, and so with the passing of 1960 there came the end of another chapter in Southwell's long history. With 1961 a new chapter begins, and whatever the future holds for the old Minster with its new bells and a host of lusty youth in the vicinity to be tempted for training, there will at least be plenty of scope for pioneering—and it should be exciting!

Margate ringers held a dinner on February 7th in honour of two of their veterans. Mr. H. Lade, now 82, has completed 60 years of ringing at St. John's Church, Margate, and Mr. P. Page (76, and rang in a complimentary quarter of Stedman) has a membership of over 50 years in the Kent County Association.

In the front page article 'The Bellringer' (see page 89) the year Mr. Walter Hunt made his observation about the difficulties of maintaining a ringing paper is 1941 and not 1914 as inadvertently appeared.

We are sorry to learn that Mr. John Hill, of Hillingdon, has been confined to hospital for several months. His address is North Ward 3, Harefield Hospital, Harefield, Middlesex, and he would be pleased to hear from friends.

Mr. William Lampard, ringer at St. Peter's Cathedral, Adelaide, rang in a quarter peal at Adelaide, prior to leaving to spend a year in England. Knowing of his enthusiasm, it will not be long before he turns up in an English belfry.

A welcome visitor to Sydney was Miss Charlotte Brown, of Lyme Regis, who is assistant purser of R.M.S. 'Stratheden.' We understand that she rang in two N.S.W. towers and left Sydney with hopes of a ring at Melbourne Cathedral.

The combined practice at Bramley, Hants, on February 11th, came to a sudden end. There was a tremendous thud and on investigation it was found that the gudgeon of the 7th had broken and the bell was lying in its pit. And who was ringing the 7th? Why the local churchwarden.

Ipswich 'Evening Star' has given prominence to Mr. G. E. Symonds' suggestion to make St. Mary-at-the-Quay Church a school of campanology. There are six nicely tuned bells there, but the tower needs strengthening after the German bombs. If this was carried out a golden opportunity would be presented to the Boys' Brigade, whose headquarters are at the church, to learn ringing.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Biggest ringing disappointment, over the Oxford Guild's 80th birthday, was the loss of a peal of Cambridge Royal at Slough in the last course. The band, in ringing 3 hours 15 minutes, had rung longer than any of the published peals. Taught to handle a bell 12 months ago, David Hilling (14) was ringing 'inside. Better luck next time, David.

The six Girl Guide learners belong to Great Horwood and not Bletchley. (See page 97.)

Mr. T. W. Goodyer, the well known Sydney conductor, has been appointed an assistant actuary of the Mutual Life and Citizens' Assurance Company, Ltd.

Mr. T. Haines has succeeded Mr. E. Billings as honorary secretary of the Northampton branch of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild. His address is 10, Northampton Lane North, Moulton, Northants.

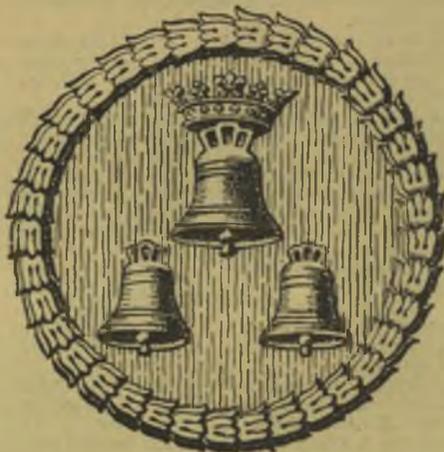

Two experienced English ringers are now ringing in Adelaide. They are Mrs. Jean Ireland, who rang in her first Australian quarter on January 30th, and Mr. John Woolley (a brother of Mr. Christopher Woolley). This quarter was listened to by the crowd of between 15,000 to 20,000 watching the fourth test match about 300 yards from the Cathedral.

The quarter peal at Burgess Hill on February 3rd, in memory of Mr. Charles H. Wickens, was rung by a band composed of ringers who had rung in a peal which he conducted. Because Twineham tower is cracked ringing at this his own tower is not possible. Mr. Wickens' record of service here is commendable—ringer, chorister, sidesman and, at the time of his death, churchwarden.

Here is a coincidence! After a peal at Castleacre, Norfolk, on February 4th, three ladies were conversing with the band. One recalled a christening at Happisburgh 20 years ago, when, because of the snow, a godmother could not reach the hall where the ceremony took place and she acted as deputy. The baby of 20 years ago was Gilbert E. Larter, a member of the band.

Our Jubilee Issue

Our jubilee issue on March 25th will consist of 24 pages of reading matter with a special cover.

In addition to our list of continuous readers over the past 50 years, for which we invite 10 lines of ringing biography, readers are requested to contribute to the following:—

(a) The greatest ringing event during past 50 years. (No more than 20 lines.)

(b) The finest ring of bells cast during that period and reasons. (Not more than 10 lines.)

(c) The best contribution to the advancement of ringing during the period. (Not more than 20 lines.)

(d) A sonnet on ringing.

Please write on one side of a sheet of paper and do not mix your contribution with other editorial matter.

We feel certain that our jubilee issue will make a wide appeal to ringers who are not regular readers. To enable the Editor to assess the print order, will secretaries of towers and ringing organisations notify their requirements as soon as possible.

RAVING RINGERS' REUNION

THE Raving Ringers chose Gloucester as the base for their 1961 reunion, held on the week-end of January 6th/8th. Nine Ravers gathered outside Gloucester station on the evening of January 6th, and sped by varying means to Sandhurst, where the first Ravers' quarter peal was rung on the 15 cwt. eight, conducted most expertly by our versatile tenor king. After this successful attempt, the Ravers, tired and hungry, went back to Gloucester to greet the late arrivals and to find their night's lodging.

An early start was made on the Saturday as 14 Ravers piled into the hired minibus and set off for the 13 cwt. six at Brockworth. The second call of the day turned out to be the highlight as the twelve at Painswick rang out to Grandsire and Stedman Cinques. Here we were grateful for the help of local ringers. Randwick and the six at Woodchester followed before an excellent lunch at Stroud. Seven towers were visited during the remainder of the afternoon, including Moreton Valence where the Ravers' carpentry service was called into operation to deal with an extra floor that had conveniently been placed between the bells and the ringing chamber. Out came a varied assortment of drills, hammers and screwdrivers as, aided by the light of an ancient spirit lamp and numerous ends of candles, our expert carpenters set to work to make rope holes through the new floor so that ringing could commence. January is not the most ideal time of the year to hold a ringing tour and our combined driver and Ringing Master must be complimented on his driving which, surprisingly enough, got us safely through dark and storm to the scheduled towers on time.

Saturday evening was spent celebrating the reunion in traditional Ravers manner as Findlay Road, Gloucester, echoed to the strains of the Ravers' songs, bringing back happy memories of previous summer tours. In the early hours 14 tired and hoarse Ravers made their ways to varying parts of Gloucester for a much needed night's sleep.

Sunday's programme included ringing for morning service at Barnwood, a Chinese lunch, climbing through thick mud to reach Churchdown, a delightful six with tenor cracked, and at Quedgeley. Farewells came after an excellent tea and evening service ringing at St. Mary-de-Lode, whose ringers and friends deserve special thanks for help with accommodation. We also single out the organisers and Ringing Master who, considering what they were up against, made a marvellous job of the reunion. C.C.

PERSONALITIES OF THE EXERCISE — 8

MR. J. ALAN AINSWORTH,

Durham and Newcastle Association.

The Durham and Newcastle Association have always been fortunate in having a number of talented ringers and conductors to assist in keeping the good name of the Society well to the front. Foremost amongst these names was the well known William H. Barber, who had few equals in calling difficult and unusual compositions, such as Carter's Odd-bob whilst blindfolded. It seems only natural, therefore, that Mr. J. Alan Ainsworth, of Fenham, Newcastle, should be following the same path, and interesting himself in calling complicated peals of Triples. Although only 25 years of age, being born on October 2nd, 1935, at Sheffield, he has already conducted Holt's Original, Carter's Odd-bob, J. O. Lancashire's 'Marvel' and J. W. Parker's Odd and Even Bob and Single 10 part, amongst others.

Alan's family moved to Newcastle-on-Tyne in 1939, and he was educated at Wingrove Elementary School, winning a Founder's Scholarship to Dame Allan's Boys' School in 1946. He was taught to handle a bell at SS. James and Basil's, Fenham, in company with his great friend, Eric N. Harrison, by Messrs. Kenneth Arthur and Tom Crowe. This was in 1948, and he rang his first peal in October, 1950, four Minor methods at Whickham, Co. Durham.

Within a year of this, he had rung peals of Cambridge Superlative, Yorkshire and London Surprise Major, Cambridge Royal and Kent Maximus, being still only 16. He acknowledges much help and encouragement being given him by Messrs. John Anderson and Denis Bayles. His present total of peals to date is 264, including one handbell peal, of which he has conducted 80.

In addition to the peals of Stedman Triples he has called, he is very proud of taking part, with a Kent band, in excellently struck peals of A. J. Pitman's 'all the work' Spliced Surprise Major in 4, 5, 6 and 7 methods, conducted by Mark S. Lancefield. He has also fulfilled his ambition of 'turning-in' Newcastle Cathedral tenor to Cambridge Royal, and Bob Royal. Once on a peal tour in 1955, he rang 14 Surprise Minor, conducted by C. Edward Jeffries, in which he learnt 10 of the methods the night before!

Since leaving school he has been employed as an insurance clerk, and did his National Service with the R.A.S.C. at Aldershot, from 1954-55. In September, 1958, Alan married Marion S. Capey, who is a good ringer, and learnt to ring at St. Cuthbert's, Edinburgh. So far she has rung 70 peals, being a member of the Newcastle Cathedral band.

For the past three years, he has been honorary secretary of the Fenham Guild, and chairman and Ringing Master of the Northern District of the Durham and Newcastle Association since 1957. Amongst Alan's other interests are classical music, and he has a good collection of long-playing records, especially of orchestral and vocal pieces of the last two centuries, up to and including Bach and Handel. He has also been a member of the Fenham Church choir since 1944, first as a treble, then a bass, and for the last four years as an alto.

Alan is a young man who is a great credit to his Association. He is particularly keen on good striking, and will not tolerate low standards in any form. He has the age, talent and ability to continue his good work, and make a lasting name for himself. Good luck to him! APACE.

THE ROVING RINGERS

A company of about 50 members attended the 14th annual reunion of the Society of Roving Ringers held at Shrewsbury on February 4th. Ringing took place at Atcham, Cound, Montford and at both St. Mary's and St. Chad's, Shrewsbury.

After dinner at the Lion Hotel, the president was 'enchained' and the business meeting began with the officers' reports. The new officers were elected as follows: President, Mr. W. A. Kingcott; Master, Mr. G. Harris; hon. secretaries, Mr. M. C. Austin and Mrs. R. Short; hon. recorder, Mr. C. E. Lewington.

The emphasis of the meeting was to keep the business as informal and short as possible. It was decided that the summer tour should be in Northumberland and Durham. After the votes of thanks, especially to Mr. A. Bennett for his assistance in arranging the week-end programme, colour slides and films of previous tours were shown.

The following morning the Society rang at St. Mary's and St. Chad's, and a very enjoyable week-end concluded with ringing at Condober and Berrington.

SHEFFIELD AND DISTRICT

Almost 40 people sat down to tea at Killmarsh Rectory when the Society held its February meeting. Ringing was under the energetic supervision of the Ringing Master (Mr. J. J. L. Gilbert). The company were thrilled after tea by well-struck touches of Triples, Major and Surprise Minor rung on handbells by the officers of the Society.

EXETER CATHEDRAL SOCIETY

St. Peter's (Exeter Cathedral) Society of Change Ringers have decided to include an annual dinner in their activities and the first of these was held at the Queen's Hotel, Exeter, on February 4th, where the ringers and their ladies sat down to a sumptuous meal.

Mr. A. T. Truman was a genial chairman and the secretary read apologies from the president (the Very Rev. Marcus Knight, Dean of Exeter), Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Thompson, Mr. S. Skinner and Mr. R. T. Perry. It was, however, pleasing to see such a strong gathering present and he hoped it would be the first of many a happy occasion.

The honorary treasurer, Mr. C. P. Yates, proposed the toast to the visitors and among those honoured were the head virger of the Cathedral, Mr. C. Dean. Mr. Yates reviewed the past year's events, especially the restoration of the bells, their first major overhaul since 1902, and looked forward to a happy future for the Society.

The head virger, in his reply, referred to the happy relationship which existed between the Cathedral staff and the queer folk who pulled the ropes and suggested that his was the only T.V. set in the city which had bell interference!

The entertainment was supplied by novelty handbell ringing, which mystified a few, but mainly amused the company. Mr. Norman Mallett's tape recorder also contributed to a very successful evening.

OXTED, SURREY.—On Jan. 29th, 1.260 Grand-sire Doubles: E. Nixon (cond.) 1, Susan Mothersele 2, Mrs. M. Haworth 3, A. Newham 4, E. Jarrett 5, A. Nowers 6. First quarter 2, 3 and 6.

ARCHDEACONRY OF STAFFORD SOCIETY

On Saturday, January 21st, the Society held its quarterly meeting at Cannock, a mining town on the edge of the famous Cannock Chase. The mild January weather helped to bring together the largest gathering of ringers and friends seen at a meeting of this nature for many years.

Throughout the afternoon ringers packed the tower, which tended at times to make good ringing a little difficult. The ringing was arranged by the Ringing Master, Mr. E. Malin, who ensured that the eight bells, tenor 14 cwt., were put to very good use. Methods ranged from Grandsire Triples to Bristol Surprise Major and rounds and Queens for the learners.

The Rev. David Bishop conducted a short service and in his address extended a welcome to the Society and thanked ringers for the good work they did reminding people of what was going on in church. Bells were the voice of the church, he said, proclaiming to the world the joyful news of the Christian Gospel.

Tea was taken in the Church Hall, where more than 130 people sat down as guests of the Cannock ringers. They were joined by the Rev. L. H. Townshend, Rural Dean of Rugeley and Vicar-designate of Cannock. A bountiful spread covered the tables and we are all indebted to Mr. George Bradbury, the Cannock ringers and their many helpers who worked so hard to make the meeting a success.

During the business meeting the secretary criticised the poor attendance at the annual dinner, which had not been a financial success. It was very disappointing, he said, and in view of this the Society must seriously consider whether it really wanted an annual dinner. After a rather negative discussion it was eventually resolved to try once more this year and see if any better support would be forthcoming. A pleasant feature at the conclusion of the business was the election of 18 new members to the Society, seven from the Wednesbury band alone. D. J. T.

WINCHESTER & PORTSMOUTH

Upwards of 60 members and visitors attended the annual meeting of the Christchurch District on February 4th, when Canon R. P. Price conducted the service in the Priory, and Rev. T. Eric Evans, senior curate at St. Peter's, Bournemouth, and himself a ringer, gave the address. He told of how a woman had been converted as the result of hearing the sound of bells. The newly-formed District choir led the singing.

Mr. F. Price, District chairman, presided at the annual meeting, and at his bidding the company stood in silence in respect of the death of Mr. F. Feltham, captain of Hordle tower since 1940.

A satisfactory balance in hand at the end of the year was reported by the honorary secretary and treasurer (Mr. W. T. Godfrey) who mentioned that membership, at 115, was the highest since 1948. Mr. Alex Fry, of Ringwood, who formed the District's choir was unable to continue as leader as he was going to live in Maidstone. His successor is Mr. Lewis Cobb, of Ringwood. Reports from eight out of the 13 towers in the District showed that steady progress was being made in the training of beginners and that in all towers the bells were rung regularly for divine service on Sundays. Seven peals had been rung and Mrs. F. J. Marshallsay had rung her 600th peal.

A programme of practice and quarterly meetings was arranged and the meeting concluded with the chairman proposing a vote of thanks to all who had helped to make it such a success. Ringing on the Priory bells included Cambridge Surprise Maximus.

RUTLAND BRIDE OF CENTRAL COUNCIL MEMBER

TWO well known members of the Peterborough and Southwell Diocesan Guilds, Miss Jean L. Hoy and Mr. Brian N. Buswell, were married at All Saints' Church, Oakham, Rutland, on January 28th. The Rev. H. V. Prytherch, Rector of All Saints', officiated in the presence of many ringing friends.

The bride was beautifully attired in white figured brocade, trimmed with white fur, with a bouffant style veil and headdress and carried lilies of the valley and white freesias. The bride's six sisters attended her.

The honeymoon was spent in London, and the couple are to reside at 5, Meadow Road, Keyworth, Nottinghamshire.

The bridegroom is a Central Council representative for the Southwell Diocesan Guild, and the bride was for some time secretary of the Rutland Branch of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild.

A peal of Grandsire Triples was rung in their honour following the wedding.

SOCIETY OF ROYAL CUMBERLAND YOUTHS

The Master, Mr. D. Beresford, presided at the annual meeting of the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths on January 28th, when the following officers were elected:

Master, D. Beresford; honorary secretary, Mr. F. J. Matthews; honorary treasurer, Mr. F. E. Hawthorne; senior steward, Mr. A. R. Ling; junior steward, Miss D. Deverell; trustees, Mr. T. H. Francis and Mr. P. N. Bond; auditors, Mrs. R. F. Deal and Miss M. Prockson; dinner secretary, Mr. I. Zass-Ogilvie.

The finances of the Society were considered and it was decided to increase the entrance fee to 10s. The next annual dinner will be held on February 3rd, 1962.

A vote of thanks was passed to the Vicar of Shoreditch for the use of the bells, on which some excellent ringing was enjoyed during the afternoon, and the ladies of St. Martin-in-the-Fields' canteen who provided the tea.

DRAGON MAJOR

Dear Sir.—With reference to the peal of Dragon Major, it looks like an attempt to compose a peal of Stedman Major, but, writing out a plain course, we notice that the sixth and third bells are both 'Quick' bells, and the other six do all the Slow Work in a plain course of 72 changes, which contain the backward change half-way.

It is difficult to see how a bob can be made without one bell making three blows in 6ths place. I hope that the conductor will give us at least two sixes, showing the effect of the bob, together with a copy of the peal.

In a 'Ringing World' in 1951, a plain course of Double Stedman Major, 72 changes arranged by F. C. S., in which all the bells alternately do 'Quick' and Slow work, starting with a full set of six changes, was published, as below. This has never been rung to a peal.—Sincerely yours,

E. WEATHERLEY.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

BEFORE THE OXFORD GUILD WAS FORMED

Dear Sir.—Reading the article on the formation of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, one gets the impression that the East Berks and South Bucks Society was a flourishing territorial association, which in 1881 developed into the Oxford Diocesan Guild, it then being the only territorial association in the diocese. This is incorrect, for at the time of the formation of the O.D.G., the E.B.S.B.S. consisted only of the Boyne Hill band and a few other ringers from outside. Also, there was a successful territorial society in the diocese, for the Sonning Deanery Guild had at least six attached towers. I think it more likely that the idea of a Diocesan Guild came from this area, and Appleton and Drayton.

Briefly, the situation in the diocese in 1880 was as follows: The Oxford Society, formed in 1734, and active since that time under various titles, was peal ringing, with J. Field as conductor. The Oxford University Society, formed about 1871, was also active, ringing peals with the Oxford and Appleton ringers.

In Berkshire, the Rev. F. E. Robinson was at Drayton, and the Appleton Society had for many years been ringing peals without the aid of the Oxford ringers. There was little activity in Reading, but the Sonning Deanery Guild had been formed in January, 1880, and included Arborfield, Hurst, Sonning, Wargrave, both Wokingham and other bands. With this Guild we associate the Rev. Dolben Paul, Vicar of Bearwood. The E.B.S.B.S. had met with little success and, apart from the Boyne Hill band, had only a few members from Burnham and Farnham Royal. Ringers from Slough and Windsor made up the Slough Branch of the West Middlesex Association, formed in 1874. In Buckinghamshire the Long Crendon Society had been peal ringing since 1857.

At the public meeting held at Reading in November, 1880, there were ringers from Appleton and Drayton, Oxford University Society, Oxford City, Oxford District, Reading District and the E.B.S.B.S. The O.D.G. was formed as a union of all these societies. It is not correct to say that the E.B.S.B.S. developed into the O.D.G. Nor can it claim to be the original territorial society in the diocese, for as such it was a failure, and this distinction must lie with the Sonning Deanery Guild. It was only after the formation of the O.D.G. that the E.B.S.B. Branch became territorial.

The Long Crendon Society recorded several peals during the years 1879 to 1881, but did not join the O.D.G. until 1884, when J. W. Washbrook went there and called a peal of Grandire Triples. Slough remained attached to the West Middlesex Association until 1886, when their bells were augmented to eight, and it is only in recent years that Windsor became attached. Slough ringers did not immediately transfer their allegiance to their Diocesan Guild, but continued to benefit from the help given by W. Baron, instructor to the West Middlesex Association.

I hope that the above brief notes will help to clear away any false impressions left by Paudian's article.—Yours sincerely,

FRANK T. BLAGROVE.

Windsor.

IVYCHURCH

Dear Sir.—Might I make a correction in your leading article by 'Marshman'? The bells of Ivychurch have been rung on several occasions since the war. I myself having rung there at least twice.—Yours sincerely,

E. J. ROWE.

London, N.

LINDLEY'S ERIN CATERS FALSE

Dear Sir.—I have recently been sent a composition of Erin Caters which is attributed (and I have no doubt correctly) to me. Investigation, however, shows that a six in the eighth course runs false with one in the handstroke position. In order to avoid disappointment, could you warn your readers against using compositions of Erin, attributed to me, and using regular nine course blocks with two cells in each course?

I understand that the composition has been rung at least once. I should like to apologise to the ringers concerned.—Yours faithfully,

E. J. LINDLEY.

Epsom.

'ANOTHER NAME IN THE BOOK'

Dear Sir.—May I ask the Surprise Major bands why they do not follow the precedent set by the band that rang the first peal of 'Cambridge Surprise Major (Burton variation)'? They realised that they were ringing a variation of Cambridge. It seems that the only reason for ringing a peal of, say, 'Fordcombe,' a trivial variation of Lincolnshire, as a distinct method is to get 'another name for the book.'—Yours faithfully,

PAUL CATTERMOLE.

Witton, Worcs.

PUDSEY SURPRISE MAXIMUS

Dear Sir.—If Mr. W. A. J. Knight (page 84) cares to have another look at the composition of Pudsey S. Maximus (page 56) he will note a pair of brackets enclosing the last course end, indicating that the change is the course end (and as such is not rung, hence the brackets) and not the 'Wrong' lead-end.

53426 is the transposition from course end to course end for a single Wrong. Transpose 32546 by this gives (42536).—Yours sincerely, BRYAN PATTISON.

Durham City.

'FALSE' PEAL OF DOUBLE OXFORD MAJOR

Dear Sir.—It has been pointed out to me that the peal of Double Oxford I withdrew at Washington, Lincs. was not in fact C.C. Collection No. 23 but No. 13, which is true. This was published in the 1958 Lincoln Diocesan Guild report. I thank Mr. J. R. Ketteringham for pointing this out and apologise for not being more thorough before my previous letter.—Yours faithfully, JACK L. MILLHOUSE.

Lincoln.

COMPOSITIONS FOR SHACKERSTONE AND RAVENSTONE

Dear Sir.—Compositions for Shackerstone and Ravenstone Surprise Royal have appeared in recent issues of 'The Ringing World.' These are claimed as having been composed by Mr. Burton. The first is the composition used for the first peal of Cambridge Maximus with the addition of two sets of three homes; the second is an insignificant variation of a very well known peal of Cambridge Royal. Surely in these cases both the 'composer' and the conductor are to blame. Whoever is responsible is either very ignorant or lacking in standards. Incidentally, I wonder how Mr. Warwick selects what composition to call? Has it ever struck him that even ill-named perversions of Yorkshire Royal would yield good music to reasonable compositions?—Yours sincerely, RICHARD F. B. SPEED.

Stretton-on-Dunsmore.

MODERN CHURCHES AND BELLS

Dear Sir.—I wonder if many ringers feel as despondent as I do at the lack of provision for bells in new churches. I think of the church I serve as assistant curate, with a small bell hung from the chimney; a new church nearby with an electronic device in a concrete pencil; or of the architect who advocated nylon ropes for the open towers of his churches in Coventry. Now recently the Rev. Peter Hammond has written a book* on church architecture which deserves to lead to a great improvement in modern churches. He deals boldly with the question, what is a church for? and tells us to plan according to function and not according to the tradition for long Gothic buildings.

But good as his book is on the problem of arranging the church round the altar, he seems to have given little thought to church towers. They may, he says, 'be said to serve two distinct purposes; first, as a support for a bell which can be rung to summon parishioners to services; secondly, as a landmark, by which the church building can be readily identified from a distance.' And goes on to doubt 'the need for towers and bells when people have watches and know where the church is.

My reaction to this is to feel that we are called to much thinking. Firstly, we must be sure what bells are for: it is for ringing clergy to decide where they fit into God's scheme of things and tell us when called on to preach at meetings or to meet architects and those building new churches. Here we might start with Dorothy Sayers' well known introduction to 'The Nine Tailors' where she called ringing 'the one loud noise that is made to the glory of God.' So we share in the priesthood of all men by offering for the church the worship of metal and rope and stone and wood. Can we say just why we might have an electric organ but not electric bells?

Secondly, we need much technical thought on the problems of bells in modern churches. We have yet to see a really modern tower with a ringing peal (the campanile at Biggin Hill is planned traditionally) to show us what can be done with modern styles and modern engineering and acoustics. Could we save on the cost of towers by putting the bells nearer the ground and leading the sound upwards?

Dorothy Sayers went on to say, 'England, alone in the world, has perfected the art of change ringing and the true ringing of bells by rope and wheel, and will not lightly surrender her unique heritage.' We need much theological and technical thinking to make sure that change ringing does not vanish amid the present rash of Swiss and Swedish towers.—Yours sincerely,

A. S. D. GRAHAM (Rev.).

DIFFERENT USES OF WORD 'PEAL'

Dear Sir.—Re Mr. Barnett's letter, obviously in the present day use of the word peal, there can be no true 5.040 of Doubles or Minor, as each change must be repeated 41 or 6 times, respectively.

It is, I think, interesting to note that in former times the word peal had two meanings, one was 'method' the other was 'extent.'

Taking this second meaning, one can say that with the exception of James Barham's band's performance in 1761, there has never been a peal of Major, and probably never will be one of Caters, etc.

This second meaning accounts for the recent references to 'half quarter peals' and 'quarter peals' of Major of 5.040 and 10.080 changes.—Yours sincerely,

'FARMER.'

METHODS AND VARIATIONS

Dear Sir,—I am really getting a little tired of the utter balderdash Mr. Amos keeps writing. For one who uses the word 'logic' so freely, he seems singularly incapable of using it, and it is consequently rather futile to argue with him. However, as I am accused of keeping quiet through lack of a case, perhaps I may be excused for trying to do so.

My contention (and, it seems, not only my own) is that each method must, per se, have a plain course, a plain course which is, moreover, different from the plain course of any other method. The differences may be slight, e.g., those between Plain Bob and Reverse Canterbury, or between Yorkshire and Biddenden, but differences (or variations, if Mr. Amos prefers that word) there must be.

Now Plain Bob and April Day Doubles both have the same plain course. You can call the method Plain Bob or April Day (in the Clavis Campanologia of 1788 it is called Old Doubles), but to call it by both names—and half-a-dozen more—doesn't seem to me to be particularly logical.

Mr. Amos assures us that 'we can ignore all this "baloney" about plain courses as having no bearing on the truth of meaning of which is a variation.' Quite right. Mr. Amos, but we're not arguing about what constitutes a variation, but rather about what constitutes a method. Mr. Amos contends that even if two 'methods' have the same plain course, as long as the courses needed for an extent are linked together in a different way, the two resultant six-scores are in different methods, or, to quote his own words, that 'every method is within its own right if there are no repeats in an extent.' Perhaps Mr. Amos would like to tell us whether a 60 of Grandsire Doubles called P.B.P.B.P.B. is a different method to a 40 called P.S.P.S., and are they both different to an 80 called P.B.P.S.P.B.P.S.? And while he's writing, perhaps we could have an answer to my earlier question—are Cambridge and Bristol Surprise Major not Cambridge and Bristol when they are rung with 6th place bobs in place of the usual 4th place bobs?—Yours sincerely,

CYRIL A. WRATTEN.

Dear Sir.—Now that Mr. Amos has disposed of 'variations' I'd like to emphasise 'methods.' At the risk of repeating my previous letter, which attempted to show how true methods are obtained, the requirements of a method are (a) That it should have a plain course, (b) That the plain course should have as many leads as working bells.

Now Biddenden has a different plain course from Yorkshire, and Plain Bob is different to Reverse Canterbury. The differences are only slight, true, but they give a different plain course to each method.

Now let us study a plain course of April Day and Kennington. They are identical to Plain Bob: in fact, they are Plain Bob. The call does not alter the method, whichever type of call is used, otherwise Holt's Bob Single would justify Grandsire Triples being given a new name, as this call is completely different from the recognised Grandsire calls.

The calls to give a touch in any method are not an integral part of that method, they exist to alter the work of certain bells in the plain course of that method in order to produce fresh changes to those rung in the parent plain course. Once this alteration takes place, the affected bells continue on the path of the plain course, doing the work of the method.

To sum up then, if a peal should be rung of Plain Bob, April Day and Kennington, the method rung in each case would be Plain Bob, i.e., 2nds, 3-4 down, 4 in 5ths and 4-3 up. Therefore, this peal would only be in one method, with three different types of Bob. I would recommend to any young ringer the Collection of Doubles methods published by the Central Council. There are over eighty fairly easy methods there, each with its own plain course, apart from the harder principles. In fact, a peal in all the principal methods would be a difficult task.—Yours sincerely,

V. GRIFFIN.

Swindon, Wilts.

DISPUTE OVER PEAL TABLET IN CONSISTORY COURT

THE removal of mural peal tablet during redecoration of Farnham Parish Church and placing it in the ringing chamber was the subject of a petition at a Consistory Court at Guildford on February 14th, heard by the Chancellor of the Diocese (the Worshipful Kenneth Macmorran).

The petition was presented by Mr. Bertram Eric Garfath, of 26, Howard Street, South Norwood, against the Rector, parish councillors and bellringers concerning the position in the church of a memorial to Mr. Garfath's grandfather.

By permission of 'Farnham Herald.'

TWO PEALS

The memorial bears the inscription: Winchester Diocesan Guild of Change Ringers

'In affectionate remembrance of Henry Lewis Garfath, for 20 years a member of the above Guild, who died March 17th, 1906, aged 51 years, this tablet was erected by members of the Guildford District of the above, as a token of respect of a faithful ringer.'

Below are details of two peals and the names of ringers.—One on November 10th, 1805, of 5,040 Grandsire Triples in commemoration of the glorious victory obtained over the fleets of France and Spain, off Cape Trafalgar by Lord Nelson.

The second, also Grandsire Triples, was rung on October 21st, 1905, and conducted by Henry Lewis Garfath.

Mr. B. E. Garfath told the court that Mr. C. W. Denyer, captain of Farnham ringers, was wrong in believing the tablet to be a matter for the ringers only. It was referred to in all the old documents as the Garfath Memorial and it was also the concern of the family. The family had been consulted in the positioning of the tablet when it was first erected.

It appeared to have been moved with the unilateral authority of the Rector and without any faculty.

In its new position in the ringing chamber the tablet was normally seen only by ringers and the members of the family could not have free access to it.

Mr. Garfath petitioned the court to order the tablet to be restored to its original position.

In this he was supported by his wife, Mrs. Mary Garfath, and his son, Henry Lewis Garfath, who said they visited Farnham about three times a year and always went into the church. They knew nothing about the tablet being moved until they found it had gone.

DEDICATED BY BISHOP

Mr. Garfath maintained that although the tablet appeared to have been placed in the church without a faculty, it had been dedicated by the Bishop and had remained in position for 50 years and was therefore 'in ordinary.'

The Chancellor remarked: 'You say the parish authority, in moving the tablet, have committed an illegality. They might retaliate by saying that your ancestors committed an illegality in putting it there.'

Mr. Charles Denyer said there would be no objection to any member of the public going into the ringing chamber to look at the tablet provided a ringer was there. He did not consider the tablet was of great interest to the general public, but it was to ringers and was now in a position where it would be seen by the many ringers who visited the tower.

The Rector, the Rev. Hedley R. Wilds, said that last June the architect for the alterations addressed the congregation for an hour and answered questions. That meeting was advertised in the local Press and the parish magazine. No objections to the proposals were raised.

THE FORTY-FIRST

During the Rector's evidence, the faculty for the alterations to the church and amending documents were examined. It transpired that no memorials were mentioned in the faculty but that the amending documents mentioned 40. The Garfath memorial, the 41st, was not mentioned.

Announcing his decision, the Chancellor said that a curious set of circumstances had been revealed, and both parties appeared with hands which were not altogether clean.

'I have no idea what my predecessor would have said if the matter had come before him in 1906,' he said. 'Looking at it from the point of view of the present day standards of furnishing, which are much stronger than then, I doubt whether I would have allowed it to be put up in a church. It is not a work of art and not well executed from the point of view of lettering and there are other details I would have required amending. Nevertheless incorporating, as it does, some historical interest, I should not order its removal from the church even if I were asked to do so.'

CONSIDER OTHERS

'I feel somewhat strongly that this is mainly a ringers' memorial. I appreciate the jealousy of the Guild of Ringers in all matters pertaining to their art and while I cannot see that this is an appropriate adornment to the ringing chamber, it commemorates a man who was closely associated with it and that the bells were rung on two historical occasions.'

The Chancellor rejected Mr. Garfath's appeal and said that if a proper petition was made to him, and there were no objections to it, he would issue a new citation to cover the retention of the tablet in its present position. He suggested that the Rector and churchwardens should, in making the petition, consider the legal position of the other tablets which had been moved during the redecoration of the church.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION
Lewisham District

Over seventy members and friends attended the quarterly meeting held at St. Mary Cray on January 28th. Ringing in a variety of Minor and Doubles methods during the afternoon and evening was under the leadership of Mr. I. H. Oram, District Ringing Master.

The service was conducted by the Rev. W. F. Willoughby, the Vicar of St. Mary Cray. Mr. E. Barnett read the lesson and the organ was played by Miss Strouts.

The District was pleased to have Mr. A. G. Hill, recently elected a vice-president of the Association, in the chair at the business meeting. Customary matters received attention, including the election of ten new resident practising members, and Mr. E. Barnett received the company's congratulations on having completed 64 years' membership of the Association.

INGHAM, SUFFOLK.—On Jan. 22nd, 1,260 Grandsire Doubles; J. Y. Parker 1, Mrs. H. Ivings 2, W. B. Smith 3, A. F. Ballam (cond.) 4, H. Ivings 5. Rung half-muffled in memory of Mrs. Smith, a faithful church worker.

DEATH OF FRANK V. H. SINKINS

G.O.M. OF RINGING

THE death on January 31st of Frank Victor Horace Sinkins on the day after his 96th birthday removed from the Oxford Diocesan Guild one of its most earliest, members and one of its most revered sons.

Born in 1865, Frank Sinkins commenced ringing in the original St. Mary's Parish Church at Slough, with its light ring of six bells (tenor 9½ cwt.), and rang his first peal upon them in April, 1888, and his last peal at Burnham, with the late George Gilbert conducting, in August, 1951, at the age of 86 years. He was still ringing regularly when well into his nineties, a wonderful record of service to the bellry.

To hear him reminiscing of the ringers with whom he rang in the nineteenth century, of the miles he walked with the late William H. Fussell for a bit of ringing, of the Slough he knew as a boy, and of his own most interesting life story was a pleasure indeed.

Sinkins is a name known better to gardeners than to ringers. When Frank Sinkins was a boy his father was Master of Slough Workhouse and Infirmary (since enlarged to become Upton Hospital) and a keen amateur gardener. As a result of his experiments he produced the flower now known universally as 'Mrs. Sinkins Pink' and named it after his wife, Frank's mother. Slough has since achieved borough status, and this flower is now incorporated in the borough coat of arms.

STARTED AT 11

A choirboy and bellringer (at the age of eleven) at Slough, Frank Sinkins rang call changes until, as he relates, a rather shocking incident led to the introduction of change ringing. Ringing had taken place prior to a Confirmation service, and two of the 'old boys' visited a nearby public house for a drink during the service. Both got well inebriated, and one staggered into the ringing room, with 'Look at those funny little things hanging down from the ceiling' and grabbed a bellrope. Down came the bell—in the middle of the Bishop's homily!

After the service the Rector sent for the captain and demanded to know the reason for this irreverent misconduct by the ringers. The outcome was the 'sacking' of the culprits, and the younger members, who had heard about the new art being practised in Uxbridge and Hillingdon, sought to introduce it to Slough. With George Newson as instructor, it was little wonder that the Slough ringers were soon, 1886, clamouring for two trebles, which a beneficent churchwarden was persuaded to purchase, and by 1888 peals of Triples were being rung, conducted by George Newson. At this time he walked the seven minutes to Beaconsfield nearly every week to practise.

Frank Sinkins followed his father's profession, and became workhouse master at Huntingdon in 1889. Here he got little ringing, if any; so on various occasions, such as Bank Holiday week-ends, he invited his Slough colleagues and other members of the 'Cumberlands,' to which he then belonged, to Huntingdon for ringing week-ends, which gave him the chance to score a few peals and enjoy a bit of ringing. In 1901 he succeeded his father as Master at Slough and he was soon ringing peals again—nearly all of Grandsire or Stedman—in that district. He was a man of great principles, and his determination to sanction only what was correct put him at variance with the Board and he was forced to resign. He always smarted under this injustice, but he revealed it to only his closest confidants.

PROFESSIONAL MUSICIAN

He then became a professional musician, playing the violin in the orchestra of Her Majesty's Theatre in London. He had a special affection for the music of 'The Quaker Girl,' as he took part in its original production. He knew well Lionel Monckton and Edward German, and Sir George Elvey, organist at St. George's Chapel, Windsor, composer of the harvest hymn, 'Come, ye thankful people, come.' He always declared that it was because Sir John Stainer, St. Paul's organist, said Stedman Cinques should be rung as it was the best and only suitable

12-bell music, that the Stedman tradition was established at St. Paul's. [Perhaps a older College Youth could confirm this.]

Before the 1914 war Frank Sinkins was in the South Bucks Territorial Unit and served with it in the First World War until he was invalided out in 1917. He then worked for a short time for the Army and Navy Stores Department and then did clerical work for the American Expeditionary Force, receiving an excellent commendation. From 1920 he was a Government auditor with the Ministry of Labour until he retired to spread the evening of his life in Slough. While in London he rang at St. Mary Abbots', Kensington, where he found a College Youth band. He thus was obliged to fall in line, and left the Cumberlands to become a member of the Ancient Society.

AMBITION UNFULFILLED

While at Slough during and after World War II he rang regularly on the new (1913) ring of eight in the also new Parish Church. One of his most cherished ambitions was to see a ring of ten bells at Slough before he died, and he so strongly expressed this desire that the writer, to give him happiness, successfully undertook the task. Frank, however, never scored a peal on the ten. He was in the first attempt in 1951, and rang for just over three hours when his legs gave way—he was then aged 86. He did, however, ring another peal, his last, on a lighter ring of bells at Burnham.

When his housekeeper died a few years ago he went to live with his daughter in Streatham, where he continued his ringing, almost to the end of his long life. He loved good striking, and would not go on if the ringing was poor.

He rang in all 42 peals: Grandsire Triples 20, Stedman Triples 13, Double Norwich 1, Kent T.B. Major 1, Grandsire Caters 1 (in Edinburgh) and Stedman Caters 1 (at Kensington).

HIS FUNERAL

Over 20 ringers attended his funeral at Slough on Monday, February 6th, conducted by Rev. E. W. Perkins, chairman of the E. Berks and S. Bucks Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, which was also represented by Mr. A. D. Barker (general treasurer), and Mr. G. Swift (Branch Ringing Master). The bells were rung fully muffled with the tenor open at backstroke, and a course of Grandsire Triples was rung over the grave. A quarter peal came to grief through a shift course. Towers represented included Slough, Windsor, Old Windsor, Chalfont St. Peter, Stoke Poges, Clewer, Maidenhead, Bray, Marlow, Farnham Royal and Streatham.

The Slough bellringers met on the evening following his 96th birthday to ring for him a birthday 'quarter,' but, on learning of his death a few hours previously put on the muffles and scored a half-muffled 1,344 of Gainsborough Surprise Major. An 'In Memoriam' peal of Stedman (his favourite method), lost after an hour's excellent ringing on Saturday, February 4th, was rearranged for Wednesday, February 15th, at Stoke Poges.

Those of us who were privileged to be his friends will ever remember him as a most loyal Sunday service ringer and a splendid example of a Christian gentleman. May he rest in peace, and light perpetual shine upon him.

PALUDIAN.

OBITUARY

MR. JESSE H. SCOTT

A ringer for 55 years, Mr. Jesse H. Scott, of Woolton Hill, near Newbury, died on February 5th, aged 70. Until a fortnight previously, he had been very active in teaching a new band.

When Mr. Scott and his brother, Norman, were taught to ring in the early part of the century Woolton Hill was a call change tower. He persuaded the church to hire an instructor from Newbury for 12 lessons and at the end they could ring Bob Doubles. Further progress was made with the arrival of Mr. H. Baalam and in 1925 the only peal was rung on five bells—Grandsire Doubles with Jesse ringing the tenor.

With the addition of a new treble the band progressed rapidly and methods up to Cambridge and London Surprise were rung for Sunday services; two of the promising youngsters then being Tom Lock, secretary of the Middlesex Association, and Reg. Rex. This band created a deep impression at Oxford Guild meetings during their Surprise ringing.

For a number of years Jesse was the village baker and it was during this period that a Woolton Hill band, of which the writer was a member, again attained the heights of Cambridge Minor for Sunday service ringing. Marriage and moving from the village broke up the band.

The funeral service on February 9th was attended by a number of ringing friends, by whom the deceased will always be remembered at Woolton Hill. G. D.

'COLLEGE' NEWS

The Exning (Suffolk) School of Ringing is the latest to become affiliated to the College of Campanology. They recently scored their first peal. (Master—Mr. A. Mann.)

The principal of the College, Mr. A. York-Bramble, has been elected the first vice-president of the Portsmouth Cathedral Guild; and invited to serve on the P.C.C. with special reference to representation of ringing interests.

Missenden Abbey College of Adult Education (Bucks Education Committee) has invited four tutors of the College to undertake the ten sessions of lectures and demonstrations in their course on Campanology, over the first weekend in June next.

The College representative in the U.S.A.—Mr. James Lawson, the carillonneur—who has recently moved from Chicago to New York, writes that he hopes to be visiting this country again, next summer, and to look up his many friends.

Congratulations to Giles Beresford Thompson, of Manchester, a junior student of the College, who has just taken the prescribed oral and practical tests for the 'Student's Certificate' (at Wakefield), with the loss of only one point in all; and secured the 'Certificate of Merit.' R. B.

BEDFORDSHIRE ASSOCIATION

A larger attendance of District members than usual was present at the annual meeting of the Luton District held at Woburn on January 21st. The Rev. T. N. Gunner took the service with Miss Anne Spavins playing the organ. Mrs. Spavins and Anne later served tea for about 30 ringers.

The secretary reported at the business meeting on the successful past year with 11 meetings and an average attendance of 32. Membership stood at 132, of whom 107 were performing. The balance in hand was £5 more than last year. The two ringing contests had been a great success. Westoning, the winners of the trophy, had a young and fresh band of learners. It was felt that the interest stimulated by the cup would be helpful to Sunday ringing.

In place of Mr. P. Newing, who had left the district, Mr. R. R. Churchill was elected chairman. Mr. K. G. Spavins was unanimously re-elected secretary, and the District committee comprises Mr. Smith (Luton), Mr. and Mrs. Sinfield (Totterhoe) and Mr. R. Churchill (Husborne Crawley).

GUILD of DEVONSHIRE RINGERS
South-West Branch

The annual meeting of the S.W. Branch was held at Lifton on January 28th, when between 50 and 60 ringers attended from various parts of the county and North Cornwall. Ringing was under the direction of Mr. T. G. Myers, and consisted of Grand sire Triples, Stedman, Plain Bob and Kent, with rounds for the encouraging number of beginners present.

The Guild service was conducted by the Rector, the Rev. Mr. Welchman, and was described by the Rev. John Scott, chairman of the N.W. Branch, as one of the brightest and most interesting ringers' services he had attended. An excellent tea was served by Mrs. Whitford, a daughter of Mr. Brimacombe, captain of the Lifton ringers, and other ladies.

At the business meeting an apology was read from the Rt. Rev. Norman H. Clarke, Bishop of Plymouth, who was that afternoon dedicating the rehung bells of Bigbury. He expressed sincere thanks to all the ringers who were giving so much of their time to keeping the bells going.

The meeting stood in sympathy with the relatives of the late Mr. George Lavers, of Plympton St. Maurice.

The honorary secretary and treasurer, Mr. T. G. Myers, gave his reports, both of which were most satisfactory. During the year eight peals had been rung and 20 quarter peals. The treasurer's report showed a credit balance of over £28, a slight increase on last year. Mr. Myers was warmly thanked for all he was doing for the Branch.

Election of officers resulted in the re-election of Mr. H. H. Thomas (Emmanuel, Plymouth) as chairman and Press officer; Mr. T. G. Myers as honorary secretary, treasurer and Ringing Master; Mr. O. Thomas (Emmanuel) auditor, and Mr. J. P. Sims, (captain, Emmanuel) on the General Committee with two new members, Mr. R. Bould (Tavistock) and Mr. W. Lavers (Plympton St. Maurice). Retiring members were: F. E. Day (Emmanuel) and H. Milford (St. Andrew's), now Guild auditor and treasurer respectively.

A Guild certificate was presented to Miss Margaret Sheppard (Tavistock) and four new members were elected: Miss Priscilla Drake and Mr. B. Perry (Emmanuel), Miss Carol Boucher (unattached) and Mr. William Battin (unattached).

It was hoped during the next twelve months to have meetings at Revelstoke, Plympton St. Maurice and Emmanuel, with a joint meeting with the Mid-Devon Branch at Buckfastleigh.

Before making a start on his long journey to return home, the president, Preb. Cox, said how delighted he was to be present, and congratulated the Branch on having so many young people present, and on having such a successful meeting.

The votes of thanks included one to Mr. Brimacombe, the local captain, with the wish that he would be restored to good health.

CANON A. C. BLYTH,

President, Cambridge University Guild

As I have known Blyth since undergraduate days I have been asked to write a few lines about him. He was a scholar of Christ's College, and although rowing was his main activity, and in fact he became captain of the College boat club, he did a certain amount of ringing and in 1910 he became secretary of the Guild for a year. He was one of the few who, at that time, were ringers before coming into residence, and I well remember our rejoicing over a 720 of Minor, which the Guild rang on the light six at Great St. Mary's in which we both took part. He was severely wounded in the war, but in 1928 he became a fellow of Selwyn College, and served as Chaplain, senior tutor and finally vice-Master.

In 1932, Mr. Boughey, who had been president of the Guild for more than 50 years, became ill and had to give up his rooms in Great Court, Trinity, which had always been regarded as the headquarters of the Guild. Members then realised that it was essential to find a resident don if the Guild was to be saved from the decay which often occurs to solely undergraduate societies. After Mr. Boughey's death in 1936, Blyth rose to the occasion, despite the extremely full and satisfying life he was already living. After being elected president in 1937 he began to enter into the Guild's activities as though they were the one interest in his life.

I shall always remember what a pleasure it was to return to Cambridge for a night or two, and how his hospitality would rise to the occasion. In 1949 the Guild held a dinner to celebrate 70 years of existence, and largely due to his influence as chairman, this function has become an annual event. His association with Canon Woodward led to the Guild undertaking to ring St. Andrew's bells for Sunday services and to this belfry becoming the Guild's headquarters. In due course, it also led to the bells being rehung.

One of his ambitions was to be the first to ring a peal by a 'one-college' band. After many practices this was accomplished in 1952, when a handbell peal of Bob Major was rung by an 'all-Selwyn' band. This was followed, in 1954, by 'all-Selwyn' tower-bell peals of Double Norwich and Cambridge Major, much to his pleasure.

He always attended the Guild annual ringing week, and one always felt that here was a president, respected and loved by young and old members alike. His shrewd mind was able to sort out many difficulties. In particular, I remember that, when the Pearson collection of priceless ringing books was left to the Guild with conditions which the University library was unable to accept, he arranged things so that the books are now on the shelves of the University library.

He was a man of few words, and his way of stating his point of view sometimes gave offence, but it was soon realised that his advice was very sound. How did he manage all this, and how did he become so proficient a ringer after so long a lapse? One can only imagine that it was because of his brilliance, and his power to give to each of his activities the attention most people give to one activity alone.

It is pleasant to know that on the night before he died he attended the Guild practice at St. Andrew's as was his wont, and that he rang in a true course touch of his favourite method—Stedman Triples. E. M. A.

THE BELLS OF SUFFOLK

FOR over seventy years 'The Church Bells of Suffolk,' by John James Raven, D.D., who was Vicar of Fressingfield, has been the principal book on the county's bells. A most comprehensive work, it took over forty years to compile. Now, in spite of all Dr. Raven's hard work, the passage of time has inevitably made the book out of date. There is no doubt, however, that it will forever remain as the record of bells of the county as at date 1890, for it is a volume of detailed information.

The author probed deeply to get material, not only concerning the bells themselves, but into their history and founders. The publication was limited to 50 copies imperial quarto and 500 super royal octavo.

One wonders whether Mr. Ranald Clouston, who has done and is doing so much for Suffolk church bells, will one day publish an up-to-date 'Raven,' or a 'Clouston.' It would not surprise me—he has been into so many towers with his expert knowledge and keen eye.

But the late H. Munro Cautley F.S.A., A.R.I.B.A., until recently surveyor to the Diocese of St. Edmundsbury and Ipswich (i.e. the Suffolk diocese), wrote a book, 'Suffolk Churches and their Treasures,' first published 1937, the latest edition being dated 1954, price 3 guineas, and his section on church bells, though comparatively short, is pleasantly arranged and full of rich interest.

So far as is known, the earliest bells remaining in Suffolk, he writes, is the clock bell at Hadleigh, which is inscribed AVE MARIA GRACIA PLENA DOMINIUS TECUM (Hail Mary, full of grace, the Lord be with thee). This bell most probably dates from the end of the 13th century. It is true that there are a few bells with narrow and long waists, which might be a century older, but as they have no inscription or marks on them, this is pure conjecture.

Of the 14th century there are certainly several bells in Suffolk, probably the earliest being those at Worlington (near Mildenhall) and Gt. Bradley (between Newmarket and Haverhill), the former inscribed JOHANNES GODYNGE DE LENNE ME FECIT and the latter RICARD DE WYMBIS ME FECIT.

About the middle of the century we have bells at Assington (near Sudbury), Barnardiston (near Haverhill), Monks Eleigh (near Lavenham) and two at Parham (near Framlingham)—the last two named places each having a bell inscribed ASSUMPTA EST MARIA IN CELUM (Mary has been received into Heaven). The Assington bell has the interesting inscription HOC SIGNUM SERVA NPE MARIA THOMA (O Christ, Mary, Thomas, preserve this signal). The second bell at Parham and the bells at Aampton (near Bury St. Edmunds), Bromeswell (near Woodbridge), and Wissett (near Halesworth) are perhaps a little later in the century.

The next group would seem to range from 1390 to 1410, and comprises 22 bells as follows: Barking (near Needham Market)

(two), Butley (near Woodbridge), Clare, Cornard Magna (near Sudbury), South Elmham St. Peter (near Halesworth) (three), Hawstead (near Bury St. Edmunds), Ilketshall St. Margaret (near Bungay) (two), Ipswich St. Stephen (two), Nedging (near Needham Market), Oakley (near Eye), Peasenhall (near Saxmundham), Pettistree (near Wickham Market) (two), Sibton (near Yoxford), Ufford (near Woodbridge), and Westerfield (near Ipswich) (two).

There are many 15th century bells; of these, those at Bildeston, Brockley (near Bury St. Edmunds) (three), Lakenheath (near Mildenhall) (two), Mildenhall and Stowmarket, bear the royal arms as altered after 1413. They were probably made during the next few years. On the Brockley second is a lovely medallion inscribed IHU MERCI LADI HELP.

Of other pre-Reformation bells it is interesting to record that there are cast on the bells of Bradfield Combust (near Bury St. Edmunds) and Saxmundham the emblems of the four Evangelists.

On the bells at Stratford St. Mary (between Ipswich and Colchester) and Ubbeston (near Halesworth) appear the rare and curious foundry shield of William Culverden, his name expressed in a rebus by a culver or pigeon with DEN above it. Lastly, but obviously pre-Reformation, is the Cratfield (near Halesworth) clock bell inscribed VIRGINIS EGREGIE VOCOR CAMPANA MARIE (I am called the bell of the Glorious Virgin Mary), PREY FOR THE SOLE OF WILLIAM ALEYS.

One of the most famous families of bell casters was the Brasyers, of Norwich, whose bells range from 1424 to 1513. These fine Norwich bells are all inscribed in hexameters and are notable for their beautiful lettering: over a hundred remain in Suffolk and a typical inscription as at Charsfield (near Woodbridge) is HEC FIT SANCTORUM-CAMPANA LAUDE BONORUM (This bell is made in the praise of good saints).

A bell foundry existed in Suffolk itself at Bury St. Edmunds in the middle of the 15th century but these bells are not nearly so numerous or fine as those made at Norwich at the same period. The heaviest of them hung in Suffolk is at All Saints', Sudbury, which weighs about a ton and is inscribed STELLA MARIA MARIS—SUCCURRE PISSIMA NOBIS (Star of the Sea, most holy Mary, succour us).

A welcome foreigner is the beautiful Mechlin bell at Bromeswell (near Woodbridge), which bears, in addition to a bold ornamental border, four medallions representing the Annunciation, the Flight into Egypt, the Presentation in the Temple and St. Michael and the Dragon. Its inscription is JHESUS BEN IC GHEGOTEN VAN CORNELIS WAGHEVENS INT IAER ONS HEEREN MCCCCXXX (Jesus am I, cast by Cornelis Waghevens in the year of our Lord 1530). An earlier Flemish bell at Whitton (near Ipswich) is dated 1441, while Leavenheath (near Boxford) has a bell made at Stockholm as late as in 1801. Of about the same date as the Bromeswell bell is the little clock bell at Stoke-by-Clate inscribed SURGE MANE SARVIRE DEO (Rise in the morning to serve God).

In the reign of Edward VI the Commissioners appointed to record church goods returned as then existing in the county of Suffolk 1,721 'Great bells' and 91 sanctus bells, the latter being referred to in the section on sanctus bell windows (see the section on these windows following this present section on bells). It is doubtful whether there are 1,900 bells in Suffolk today (i.e. 1938) and in view of the large number of post-Reformation bells existing, it speaks eloquently of the large number of older bells which must have been sold, recast or seized by the Crown in the years following the Reformation. (My guess is that there are about 1,940 such bells in Suffolk today (1961). If I am right, Munro Cautley's 1,900 in 1938 is not very far out.) C. R.

Featured in 'Segas,' the house journal of the South Eastern Gas Board, is an interview with Mr. F. E. Collins. Our readers knew of Mr. Collins as a past Master of the College Youths, his various offices in the Surrey Association and on the Towers and Belfries Committee of the Central Council, but few knew how he earned his bread and butter as foreman of the mechanical department of the Croydon work of Segas.

The peal of Cambridge Surprise Royal at St. Mary Redcliffe, Bristol, on February 18th, was rung after meeting short for Stedman Cinques.

We have had an inquiry as to the present record for 'number of towers in a day, where each member of the party rang in every tower.'

Fifteen-year-old David Eames is the first local ringer to 'circle' Church Gresley, Derbys, tower to quarter peals.

The new treble bell, in memory of Mrs. Flo Field, was cast at the Whitechapel foundry on February 15th, in the presence of the captain of the Long Sutton ringers, the donor of the bell, and other friends.

By ringing the treble in the peal at Tonbridge, Kent, on February 5th, Mr. E. J. Ladd 'completed the circle' in this, his 15th tower. The peal was rung as a welcome to the new Bishop of Rochester.

An unusual outing had the ringers of SS. Peter and Paul's, Ash, near Sevenoaks, on February 11th. It was to the P. and O. liner 'Himalaya' in the Port of London. Tea was provided by their Petty Officer host and they were conducted over the ship from the bridge to the galley.

Mr. E. Barnett writes: 'With reference to the recent dedication of the new board recording the ladies' peal of Stedman Caters at St. Clement Danes' 35 years ago, it is interesting to recall that the cost of the original board was partly met by a donation from an old gentleman in Australia, who had rung a peal for the St. James' Society at Dartford in 1876, which was conducted by John Cox. He had read a report of the peal in an Australian paper.'

BELFRY GOSSIP

The first peal of Spliced was rung 50 years ago at Edenham, Lincs, on February 15th, 1910. It consisted of 14 methods. The band was as follows: Arthur I. Holmes 1, Rev. H. Law James (cond.) 2, John W. Lake 3, James Osborn 4, Fred Blood 5, Rupert Richardson 6. 'Of the band,' writes Mr. W. A. Holmes, 'only Mr. J. W. Lake survives. He no longer rings owing to trouble with his hands, but he is still interested in ringing.'

Mr. Ernest Morris has now rung his 2,000th peal, which was a new method, Morriston Surprise Royal.

The name of the treble ringer in the quarter peal at Putney on February 4th (see page 111) was A. Millidge and not, as published.

'A listener' added his contribution of 1s. to the donation sent with the quarter peal from Aston Cantlow, Warwickshire. Practical appreciation of bells.

The peal at Swavesey, Cambs, on February 11th, was rung as a farewell to the Rev. E. Williams, former sexton and ringer at Swavesey Church, who has been visiting this country after 30 years in Australia.

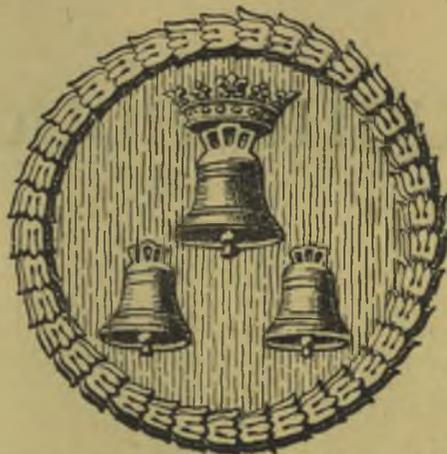

Mr. P. Amos writes that the claim for the lightest five church bells known must now go to Wansford, Northants, with a tenor slightly under 3 cwt. The bells are a minor five and provision has been made for a sixth at some future date.

A new campanological statistician is Mr. Malcolm Phipps, of Chesterfield, who informs us that the peal of Spliced Surprise Major rung at Conisbrough, Yorks, on February 4th (page 108) was his 25th peal. His peals have been rung in 17 different towers with 69 different ringers.

Patrol Leader Virginia Drake, of the 13th Plymouth Company of Girl Guides, has just been presented with her Campanologist Badge. Virginia commenced ringing at Emmanuel Church just over two years ago. This badge, as far as is known, has only once previously been presented to a member of a Plymouth company; she too was a member of Emmanuel ringers, but left the city about three years ago. Virginia's elder sister is also a ringer at Emmanuel.

Our Jubilee Issue

Our jubilee issue on March 25th will consist of 24 pages of reading matter with a special cover.

In addition to our list of continuous readers over the past 50 years, for which we invite 10 lines of ringing biography, readers are requested to contribute to the following:—

- (a) The greatest ringing event during past 50 years. (No more than 20 lines.)
- (b) The finest ring of bells cast during that period and reasons. (Not more than 10 lines.)
- (c) The best contribution to the advancement of ringing during the period. (Not more than 20 lines.)
- (d) A sonnet on ringing.

Please write on one side of a sheet of paper and do not mix your contribution with other editorial matter.

We feel certain that our jubilee issue will make a wide appeal to ringers who are not regular readers. To enable the Editor to assess the print order, will secretaries of towers and ringing organisations notify their requirements as soon as possible.

HAILE SELASSIE'S NAME ON A SUSSEX BELL

At the Whitechapel foundry the five bells of Bodiam, near Battle, Sussex, have been recast and a sixth bell added. The Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia has given £300 towards the cost of the restoration of the bells and his name has been inscribed on one of them.

The Rector of Bodiam was, before ordination, Major-General A. E. Cottam and head of the British Military Mission to Ethiopia from 1943 to 1949 and became a personal friend of Haile Selassie. The Rector is a ringer.

The new sixth bell has been given by Messrs. Guinness Hop Farms Ltd., who provided a donation of £250. Guinness' own extensive properties in the parish. Two of the other bells have been named 'The All Souls College, Oxford, Bell' (after the patrons of the living) and 'The St. Giles Bell' (after the patron saint).

The bells were originally cast in 1761. The oak frame of the period, which showed signs of decay, has been removed and will be replaced by a steel frame. Bodiam bells have been silent for more than two years and the village is hoping to hear them again at Easter.

GRANTLEY HALL COURSE

With Messrs. W. F. Moreton and N. Chadock as tutors, a course on 'The Art of Bell Ringing' will be held at Grantley Hall Adult College, near Ripon, under the auspices of the West Riding County Education Committee from Friday, March 17th, to Sunday, March 19th.

There is room for 30 students and ringing will take place at Ripon Cathedral (10 bells), one eight bell tower and three sixes.

Subjects dealt with will be conducting, method structure, method ringing, change ringing on handbells, initial instruction, elementary composition, maintenance of bells and fittings.

All in fees: Students in West Riding £2 2s., others £3 (who might obtain a grant if permission for them to attend is received from their local education authority). Applications to the Warden, Adult College, Grantley Hall, near Ripon, Yorks.

PERSONALITIES OF THE EXERCISE - 9

MR. FRANK E. HAYNES, M.A.,
The St. Martin's Guild for the Diocese of Birmingham.

Most of our University ringers can be divided into two groups—those who can and those who try. None of them are ever casual about their ringing, and their enthusiasm so often infects others. One of the older generation of the first kind is Mr. Frank E. Haynes, of Smethwick, Birmingham, who is not only well known for his excellent ability as a twelve-bell ringer, but also for his scholarly and witty speeches at ringers' dinners.

Frank was born at Trumpington, Cambridge, on June 26th, 1906, and was educated at the local church school, and the Perse School, Cambridge. In 1925 he obtained an Open Scholarship in Classics to St. Catherine's College, Cambridge, gaining his B.A. in 1928, and M.A. in 1932. He was taught to handle a bell in 1923 at Trumpington by Miss Kitty Willers, and rang his first peal on Armistice Day, 1925, it being six methods of Doubles. From 1926-29 he rang numerous Surprise Minor peals with Albert E. Austin's band. Ringing at the University was mainly confined to handbells, in which Frank was joined by Messrs W. H. J. Hooton, Stephen H. Wood and Christopher W. Woolley. He soon became very proficient, and rang peals of Plain Bob from Major to Maximus, Kent Treble Bob, Little Bob, and Double Norwich. The tenors were often rung by a 'learner'—on one occasion by Richard Woolley, now the Astronomer Royal. At this time, however, Frank was more interested in cricket, tennis and rugby, but he did sufficient ringing to hold his interest.

Gaining his University Diploma of Education in 1929, he took a post at Holy Lodge Grammar School, Smethwick, and thus came into fortunate contact with the St. Martin's Guild, who were then ringing many handbell peals of Stedman Cinques. He joined the Bull Ring company, under the conductorship of Albert Walker, and has been a regular member ever since. It was not long before Frank rang his first peal of Stedman Cinques at St. Martin's and Cambridge Maximus at Wolverhampton, both in 1929. In 1933 he was invited by Albert Walker to join the Stedman Cinques handbell band, and rang each pair in turn to his first six peals of Cinques 'in hand' between January and September. Albert also taught him to call Stedman, and he called a peal of Stedman Cinques for the first time at St. Martin's in April, 1934.

Up to date his total of peals is 640, of which he has conducted 165. A large number of these peals have been of Surprise Major with George Fearn, but he admits that he cannot stand the pace these days! Amongst the peals of which he is proud of calling is the first peal of Stedman Caters rung by the Cambridge Youths, rung at Great St. Mary's on September 10th, 1951, the first 12 bell peal on tower-bells by the Cambridge University Guild, being Stedman Cinques at Great St. Mary's on September 1st, 1955, and the first peals of Cambridge Maximus by the same Guild, rung at Aston on January 10th, 1959.

Frank has called peals of Stedman, from Doubles to Cinques, and Cambridge from Minor to Maximus. He enjoys ringing the treble to Maximus, as at Exeter to Cambridge on April 30th, 1949, conducted by Wilfred Williams. He also has the unusual distinction of having 'circled' the four Birmingham city towers of St. Martin's, St. Philip's, St. Chad's and Bishop Ryder's, now demolished. A member of many Associations, he is particularly proud of membership of the Ancient Society of College Youths, which he insists is the Society!

Amongst the offices he has held are Master of the C.U.G. from 1928-29, Ringing Master of the St. Martin's Guild from 1934-43, and Master from 1956-58. He has also served on the Central Council since 1952, and is now one of the vice-presidents of the St. Martin's Guild.

Frank has a very likeable personality, and is very good company both inside and outside the tower. He is a great credit to the University which nurtured him, and the St. Martin's Guild which developed him. Although he says that he has several times almost given up ringing to take up some other hobby, there is fortunately no danger of taking him seriously on this issue. May he long continue as a prominent member of the Exercise.

APACE.

MOSSLEY HONOURS TWO RINGERS

About 100 ringers, relatives and friends attended a social evening in the Parish School, Mossley, Lancs, on February 18th, to honour two ringers connected with the church—Mr. H. Jackson with 61 years' service and Mr. E. Garside with 50 years'. Mr. H. Pickles, the ringers' secretary, in a happy speech recalled the services these two veterans had given to the church and Sunday school and his remarks were endorsed by other friends. Both Mr. Jackson and Mr. Garside suitably replied. Supper was served and this was followed by dancing until 11.30 p.m. when 'Auld Lang Syne' was sung.

Prior to the social two 720's of Kent T.B. Minor and Oxford were rung by Messrs. H. Jackson (cond.), E. Garside, H. Pickles and J. Radcliffe from Mossley Church and Messrs. J. Burgess, A. Farrant and G. Perrin from Christ Church, Friesland, Yorks. It was exactly 50 years ago that day that Mr. Jackson was married, but he had been a widower for three years.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION Rochester District

Some 60 members attended the Rochester District at the Abbey Church of St. Mary, Isle of Sheppey, on January 21st. There were rounds for the many learners and for the experienced up to Cambridge Surprise, ringing being supervised by Mr. L. Harmer. The Vicar, the Rev. R. D. Wain, conducted the service and tea was kindly given by the young ringers at the Minster and their mothers.

The business meeting, with the Vicar in the chair, was noteworthy for the record number of new members elected. These came from the following towers: The Minster, Tunstall, Stockbury, Gillingham, Rainham, Northfleet and the new band at Rodmersham. Mr. A. Dunk gave full details of the K.C.A. committee meeting at Maidstone. Votes of thanks were moved to all who had helped to make the meeting a very happy success by Mr. F. J. Cheal and Mr. A. Dunk, who also welcomed the younger members to the Association.

OXFORD UNIVERSITY SOCIETY

THE O.U.S.C.R. annual dinner was held on February 4th. A large number of members, old and new, were there as well as many guests from other Societies. A good meal was provided and the Founders' Library at New College made a very pleasant setting for the evening. The president, Rev. C. E. Wigg, unfortunately had flu and was unable to be there to take the chair, but his place was ably filled by Dr. Sutton, the Society's senior member.

The first speech of the evening was from Mr. John Wardle, who proposed the toast of 'The Church.' He spoke fluently in spite of feeling that he was proposing his own health, having been told so often from the pulpit that he was the Church. He ruminated on relations between ringers and clergy and told a relevant and amusing story about sharks and another about bricks.

Dr. Lee, the Vicar of St. Mary the Virgin, the University church, replied. He thought that bells were a definite asset to a church—bringing both ringers and others into the church. As this was the last occasion on which Dr. Lee was to be present as Vicar of St. Mary's, Dr. Sutton proposed his health and wished him success in his new office.

The next speech was from Mr. Robin Elliott. He explained that he was making his speech at short notice as Mr. Andrew Stubbs, last year's Master, was seriously ill with mumps. Having expounded the complicated and invidious distinction between guests and visitors he made them both welcome. He welcomed Dr. Sutton, Dr. Lee and the various city ringers, who were present. He said how pleased he was to see all the visitors from other Universities, especially the Masters, but he was unable to think of anything sufficiently scandalous to say about them. After apologising for the lack of funny stories he proposed the toast of 'The Visitors.'

Mr. John Baldwin, the Master of the Bristol University Society, replied telling several of the funny stories absent from the previous speech and thanking the Society on behalf of all the visitors and guests.

Mr. John Taylor, the Master of the Cambridge University Guild, then proposed the last toast. He was disappointed to find that the beards, which he thought had become a badge of office in the Oxford University Society, seemed to have disappeared, but nevertheless he proposed the toast of 'The Society.'

The Master, Mr. Nicholas Martin, replied, thanking Mr. Taylor and welcoming all the guests (and visitors). He had been alarmed to find that the O.U.S. had become the Oxford University Guild in 'The Ringing World,' but assured the company that it still retained its own identity. He pointed out that Mr. Elliott had only consented to speak if he could sit near the port, which was accordingly passed round to him, and made various comments on the associations of ringers and drink. He apologised for the few peals rung and mentioned various outings and the very successful Easter tour. Having waded through his fourteen pages he sat down and the official part of the dinner finished.

The rest of the evening passed enjoyably and it was generally agreed that the dinner had been a success.

BARNSELY & DISTRICT SOCIETY

Wishes for a speedy recovery were extended at the Barnsley and District Society's meeting at Ossett on February 4th to Mr. D. Smith, who is in hospital. Another absentee was Mr. J. W. Buxton. Ringing ranged from Minor to Royal. Next meeting, Kirkburton.

WANTS £2,500 FOR SAFFRON WALDEN BELLS

Mr. L. E. Pitstow, of 4, Highfields, Saffron Walden, has undertaken the big job of raising £2,500 outside Saffron Walden. This is to enable the ring of 12 to be rehung in a new cast-iron frame on ball bearings. The P.C.C. will not allow Mr. Pitstow to appeal in Saffron Walden as they fear that money will be diverted from the roof restoration fund, which has as its objective the raising of £22,000 to restore the roof and stonework of the church.

As the bells are not ringable—a gudgeon of the 11th bell is broken and the frame worn—eaten—it was not possible to ring the old year out and the New Year in, in the traditional manner. Not to be outdone Mr. L. E. Pitstow enlisted the help of some ringers and rang handbells in the Market Square from approximately 11.45 p.m. to 12.15 a.m. In the picture, from left to right, are: Mrs. L. E. Pitstow, L. E. Pitstow, L. Mumford, S. Wright and H. Cranwell.

Mr. Pitstow is anxious to hear of any fund or charitable trust to whom he could apply. Any help would be more than welcome.

THE LADIES' GUILD

Southern District

An all-ladies service touch was rung at the annual meeting of the Southern District held at Aldershot on February 11th, and in the evening methods up to London Minor were rung at Ash. After the Guild form of service, an ample tea was provided by the local members.

At the business meeting Mr. Hawthorne was elected vice-president for the ensuing year, with Mrs. C. Harbott (20, The Street, Ashtead) to continue as secretary. It was agreed to make a contribution to the Pulling Memorial Bell Fund and to add to it the collection taken at tea, amounting to 12s. The success of the meeting was due in no small way to Miss Nancie Bragg, who made all the local arrangements.

GIRL GUIDES' RINGER'S BADGE

Dear Sir,—Rule (3) 'Ring one standard method on an "inside" bell' is surely an unfair one.

This would make all Girl Guides who ring in towers where call changes only are rung ineligible—and let it not be said that making call changes is not bell ringing.

Take, for instance, in some towers where when rising all bells strike on the 3rd pull, not before not after, double strikes together (if their hanging allows), when up, go into changes and maybe down without even perhaps setting them to finish it off, all bells stop at the same stroke—surely a Girl Guide ringing in this would be a 'ringer.'

Where Girl Guides hold loyalty as a rule would not 'Ring in 75 per cent of Sunday service ringing for 3 months' be a better rule?

Rule 2 would be better as 'Raise and lower a bell in peal.' With a rule you can hardly have a preference.—Yours, etc.,

GERALD PIDGEON.

H.M. Yacht 'Britannia,' Portsmouth.

'THE BELLS OF ST. MARY'S'

Dear Sir,—The death recently of Douglas Funder, who wrote the famous song 'The Bells of St. Mary's' is of more than passing interest to Southampton. It was the bells of St. Mary's, the mother church of Southampton, which inspired this song, written by him and the Australian composer, A. Emmett Adams, during the Great War of 1914-18, when they heard them sounding across the water of the docks. The sister of A. Emmett Adams, who was in this country from Australia in 1956, attended the great service of consecration when the sixth St. Mary's Church was opened.

The well-known song is now the college song of the New York State Maritime College. For many years now these fine bells have been in the care of Mr. J. W. Faithfull, captain of the ringers at St. Mary's, Southampton.—Yours sincerely, K. S. B. CROFT.

METHODS OR VARIATIONS— COMPROMISE?

Dear Sir.—The parties in this correspondence are hardly likely to agree on what constitutes a method or a variation, and are reduced to the hair splitting of the meaning of words. Most readers know perfectly well what the real situation is, and are prepared to give as much credit to those who ring Plain Bob with n different calls as to those who ring St. Simon's, for example, with n different slight variations to the plain course, so it is immaterial which are methods and which variations.

Even the C.C. Collection of Doubles Methods does not appear consistent, as Reverse St. Bartholomew is not included (presumably because the plain course could also be achieved by ringing Grandsire and calling four consecutive singles), yet St. Bartholomew is in, when this could also be achieved by ringing Reverse Grandsire and calling four singles. Or is it because St. Bartholomew does not use a bob that is a plain lead of another method? But does this matter? Many standards on six bells or more were already relaxed to give variety to Doubles ringing (e.g., four blows in one place), and it seems better in fact than devising an awkward asymmetrical bob to avoid using the plain lead of another method, or some other 'undesirable' feature.

The most satisfactory way out, I suggest, is this: many relaxations have been made to permit a variety of Doubles methods; keep the individual plain course requirement for six or more, but relax it for Doubles, where it is more, but barely workable anyway, and contrary to old traditions in many ways.—Yours faithfully, DEREK P. JONES.

Casile Gresley.

MEMORIAL TO MR. W. POSTON

Dear Sir.—On November 2nd, 1959, Bridstow and the Hereford Diocesan Guild lost a fine ringer and a great churchwarden in Mr. William Poston ('R.W.' page 712). To commemorate his life, the Church Council has decided to erect a small plaque in bronze or stone in the church.

Locally he was known for his loyalty to his Vicar and church—he was gardener to nine Vicars and churchwarden for 22 years—but pre-war ringers will remember him for the able and vigorous band he maintained in this quiet corner of Herefordshire.

It is felt that many of those who knew 'Bill' may like to make a contribution towards the plaque, which will cost about £30, any excess going towards new bell ropes. If so, it would be much appreciated, and should be sent to Mr. D. D. Lewis, Wilstow, Merryvale, Ross-on-Wye, Herefordshire, or to the undersigned at Bridstow Vicarage.—Yours sincerely,

REV. F. I. TURNEY
(Vicar)
F. E. ROBERTS.

PRESENTATION CERTIFICATE

Dear Sir.—In answer to Mr. Palin's plea for a presentation certificate, has he any particular objection to the cards produced by 'The Ringing World'? The design at present is a pleasing one (I like it best of those I have seen) and the cards can be posted if necessary—only 2d. for printed matter.—Yours sincerely,

MISS J. SANDERSON.

Letchworth, Herts.

The first peal on the rehung bells of Blaby, Leics, took place on February 16th. There has only been one previous peal on the bells—Grandsire Doubles, conducted by Ernest Morris on November 23rd, 1920.

KIRBY-LE-SOKEN AND NELSON

Dear Sir.—The method rung as Kirby-le-Soken Bob Major on January 28th, 1961, is St. Leonard's Bob Major, and it was first rung at Watlington, on November 5th, 1960, conducted by Alan R. Pink. This peal was published in the 'R.W.' of November 18th, 1960, page 764. The method is given in the footnote of the peal.

Perhaps, Mr. Editor, you will allow me a little space to elaborate this matter. In my opinion, the responsibility for ensuring that methods claimed as new are actually so, rests fairly and squarely upon the shoulders of the conductors of such peals. It is not good enough merely to ascertain in retrospect whether the claim was justified. Such a course not only confuses the reader (present and future), but wastes valuable space in this journal, and time and effort on the part of persons like myself who appear nowadays obliged to write on such matters nearly every other week. Also, and this is the most important point, the error remains in print for all time, serving as a constant source of confusion for years to come. This point has been admirably put by Mr. Massey in his letter of February 17th, and I wish to associate myself with his letter in its entirety, including the need for a new collection of Surprise Major methods.

Nevertheless, the absence of a suitable collection of methods does not excuse conductors their responsibility, and certainly not in the present case, as a good collection of Plain methods exists. If people are going to ring new methods, then it is their duty, either to keep accurate records and not make slips or omissions, or to submit their methods, before they are rung, to someone who does. Anything short of this is grossly irresponsible. Not that I wish to be inundated with such requests, but I would rather that than have to write to 'The Ringing World' so frequently. If requests are made, a S.A.E. would be appreciated as this sort of thing tends to get a trifle expensive.

The publication in the 'R.W.' of February 3rd, page 88, of the figures of the peal of 29 Plain Major methods raises another matter. One of the new methods appended is named Nelson. This name cannot stand, as a peal of a different Plain Major method named Nelson was rung at Accrington on June 24th, 1960. It may be argued that the method rung in the Spliced peal should be called 'Nelson College Major' while that rung at Accrington is called 'Nelson Bob Major.' I do not, however, think this distinction good enough, and there is no precedent for such a procedure. Moreover, the descriptive terms used for Plain methods—College, Imperial and Court—are not precise terms in the same way as Surprise and Delight, and it is at times arguable what terms are appropriate to a Plain method. Therefore, I do not think two Plain Major methods can be allowed the same proper name, even if they differ in construction. In view of the fact that only a few months separate the two peals in question, and also that some ringers took part in both peals, this appears as another irresponsible act.—Yours faithfully, Harrow. JOHN R. MAYNE.

NOTE.—G. W. Massey and Giles R. Thompson are thanked for their letters on this subject.—Ed.

PEAL OF ERIN CATERS WITHDRAWN

Dear Sir.—I wish to withdraw the peal of Erin Caters rung at Wakefield on October 15th, 1960, as the composition is false. I extend my sincere apologies to the band.—Yours sincerely, Wakefield. W. F. MORETON.

FALSENESS IN PEALS

Dear Sir.—We would like to thank Mr. G. Massey for his comments on our article, and we apologise for the error which he points out in the published form of Sawley S.M.

Our generalisation that publishing F.C.H.s without the incidence of falseness is of no value was perhaps too sweeping. We agree that it has some limited value, but very little compared with that of the complete falseness.

Mr. Massey's assertion that a conductor merely needs to know the F groups to which his compositions are true, can produce some startling results. Suppose for example that a conductor has Middleton's amongst his compositions. He will know that this composition is true to F groups B, D and K. He will also know that Cambridge has F groups B, D and E, and will therefore conclude that Middleton's is not true to Cambridge!

If, however, he does not ignore the incidence of falseness, he will know that Middleton's is true to F groups B, D and K in all leads, and to group E in all but lead 4, and that the falseness of Cambridge is B (F1 2/3), D (F1 2/5 and 7/3) and E (F1 7/7).

This way of thinking can have even worse results. We know of a case where an eminent conductor wanted a composition for X Surprise Major, which he knew to have F.C.H.s Y and Z. In his own collection of compositions he had one which appeared to suit because it was for a method which had the same lead head order, and also had F.C.H.s Y and Z.

Unfortunately, since the incidence of falseness in the two methods was different, he conducted a false peal.

By requesting the full information, we are not asking for any additional work to be done, since deriving the F.C.H.s entails deriving the incidence. One reason alone why the information is vital is that it will enable composers quickly to determine all the methods to which their compositions are true. We know that a composer can quickly derive full falseness for himself, but can he do this quickly for the 7,178 methods which are about to be published? Our estimate is that it would take one man 12 months' full time work.

It will have been noticed that a few well known composers are able to publish a composition for a particular method and then add a long and impressive list of other methods for which the composition is true. This is because they have derived the full 'truth' of their composition and have available the full falseness of all classified methods.

In conclusion may we express our thanks for the magnificent task carried out by Eric Critchley and Shirley Burton in compiling a complete list of all the right place Surprise Major methods and their F.C.H.s, and may we ask them to allow us to share in the full fruits of their work, by publishing not only the F.C.H.s, but the incidence of falseness.—Yours faithfully,

D. R. C., G. A. H. and D. J. M.
Derbyshire.

RESPECT FOR DOUBLES RINGERS

Dear Sir.—When Mr. Pink rang his peal in 42 method/variations he was probably justified in claiming the 'first in 42 methods,' but since then Mr. Blagrove has so raised the standard of Doubles ringing that in comparison these variations are as worthwhile as Bob Minimus. If more Doubles ringers followed Mr. Blagrove's example then perhaps they could expect more respect than they get at present.

What would the Central Council rating be if Mr. Amos rang a peal containing 80 plain course methods and 40 variations?—Yours faithfully, Swindon, Wilts. ANTHONY R. PEAKE.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

President: Mr. Frederick Sharpe was re-elected on the proposition of Mr. E. H. Lewis, seconded by Mr. A. A. Hughes.

Vice-President: The Rev. A. G. G. Thurlow was re-elected on the proposition of Mr. R. S. Anderson, seconded by Mr. F. I. Hairs.

Hon. Secretary and Treasurer: Mr. E. A. Barnett was re-elected on the proposition of Mr. J. F. Smallwood, seconded by Mr. A. A. Hughes.

Hon. Librarian: Mr. F. W. Perrens was re-elected on the proposition of Mr. F. I. Hairs, seconded by Mr. J. F. Smallwood.

ELECTION OF HONORARY MEMBERS

The Standing Committee recommended the re-election of the following retiring members: The Earl of Shaftesbury, Messrs. J. T. Dyke, J. P. Fidler, A. A. Hughes, D. Hughes, Mrs. C. C. Marshall, Messrs. E. C. Shepherd, R. F. B. Speed, L. Stilwell, P. L. Taylor, A. Walker, T. W. White and J. Willis.

The Committee also recommended the election of Mr. W. F. Moreton.

The recommendations were adopted on the proposition of Mr. J. F. Smallwood, seconded by Mr. N. Chaddock.

The Honorary Secretary gave notice under Rule 6 (ii) on behalf of the Standing Committee that the election as life members under Rule 6 (i) (b) of Messrs. J. T. Dyke and A. Walker would be proposed in 1961.

ELECTION OF HONORARY AUDITORS

Messrs. A. A. Hughes and H. N. Pitstow were re-elected on the proposition of Mr. R. S. Anderson, seconded by Mr. F. E. Dukes.

LOSS OF MEMBERS THROUGH DEATH

The President reported the death of the following members and past members of the Council, the assembly standing in silence: Messrs. R. B. Blanchard (Surrey), H. C. Chandler (Middlesex), R. E. Chichester (Devon), J. Clark (Hereford), A. H. Cocks (Oxford), A. N. Hardy and C. J. Matthews (Royal Cumberland Youths), R. S. F. Murphy (Irish), A. H. Pulling (Honorary), and A. W. Searle (Devon). Tributes were paid to the memory of Messrs. Cocks, Murphy, Pulling and Searle.

MINUTES OF THE LAST MEETING

The Minutes as published in 'The Ringing World' of March 18th, 1960, and circulated to members were adopted on the proposition of Mr. E. A. Barnett, seconded by Mrs. P. J. Staniforth, subject to the following amendments:—

Reports.—Insert after 'Methods Committee': 'Literature and Press Committee, ('Ringing World,' June 5th, 1959, p. 369). Adopted on the proposition of Mr. E. C. Shepherd, seconded by Mr. F. E. Dukes.

Alteration of Rules.—For 'A. D. Baker read 'A. D. Barker'.

Motion (c).—The sentence 'The motion, as amended was carried' to appear at the end.

REPORTS

These have been published in 'The Ringing World' as shown:—

HON. SECRETARY AND TREASURER

(June 17th, 1960, pages 418-9)

Adopted on the proposition of Mr. E. A. Barnett, seconded by Mr. F. E. Dukes. It was agreed that the Secretary should inform the Devon Association of Ringers that the Council would be pleased to consider an application from the Association for affiliation to the Council.

HON. LIBRARIAN

Adopted on the proposition of Mr. F. W. Perrens, seconded by Mr. J. T. Dunwoody.

BALANCE SHEET AND ACCOUNTS

Adopted subject to audit on the proposition of Mr. E. A. Barnett, seconded by Mr. F. I. Hairs.

TRUSTEES OF THE CARTER RINGING MACHINE

 Adopted on the proposition of Mr. A. A. Hughes, seconded by Mr. R. S. Anderson. Thanks were expressed to Mr. D. Hughes for demonstrating the machine during the year.

STANDING COMMITTEE

 Adopted on the proposition of Mr. E. A. Barnett, seconded by Mr. R. S. Anderson.

'THE RINGING WORLD' COMMITTEE

 Adopted on the proposition of Mr. J. F. Smallwood, seconded by Mr. R. S. Anderson. Messrs. J. F. Smallwood, R. S. Anderson and F. I. Hairs were reappointed. Mr. W. G. Wilson was added to the Committee.

'THE RINGING WORLD' ACCOUNTS

(June 17th, 1960, pages 420-1)
 Adopted subject to audit on the proposition of Mr. E. A. Barnett seconded by Mr. F. I. Hairs.

LITERATURE AND PRESS COMMITTEE

 Adopted on the proposition of Mr. E. C. Shepherd, seconded by Mr. F. E. Dukes. The Committee (Messrs. E. C. Shepherd and F. E. Dukes) were reappointed.

BIOGRAPHIES COMMITTEE

 Adopted on the proposition of Mr. J. Willis, seconded by Mr. W. H. Viggers. The Committee (Messrs. A. C. Hazelden, L. Stilwell, W. H. Viggers and J. Willis) were reappointed.

PEAL BOARDS COMMITTEE

 Adopted on the proposition of Mr. W. Ayre, seconded by Mr. J. P. Fidler. The Committee (Messrs. J. W. Clarke, W. Ayre and J. P. Fidler) were reappointed.

BROADCASTING AND TELEVISION COMMITTEE

 Adopted on the proposition of Mr. H. J. Sanger, seconded by Mr. J. T. Dunwoody. Messrs. H. J. Sanger, N. Chaddock, G. E. Fearn, J. T. Dunwoody and the Rev. A. G. G. Thurlow were reappointed and Mr. H. N. Pitstow was added to the Committee. The Council's thanks were expressed to Mr. A. A. Hughes for his past services to the Committee.

RECORDS COMMITTEE

(June 24th, 1960, pages 435-6)
 Adopted as amended on the proposition of Mrs. G. W. Fletcher, seconded by Mr. F. I. Hairs. Mrs. G. W. Fletcher and Mrs. C. C. Marshall were reappointed and Messrs. F. T. Blagrove and J. R. Mayne were added to the Committee.

PEAL ANALYSIS COMMITTEE

 Adopted on the proposition of Mr. W. Ayre, seconded by Mr. H. Miles, with the inclusion of a peal of Minimus but the omission of a peal of Menor in which two ringers exchanged bells. Arising from the latter, it was agreed that Mr. W. B. Cartwright be asked to consider redrafting the appropriate item of 'Conditions Required for Peals' (page 19 of the Council's Handbook) to remove any possible ambiguity. The Committee (Messrs. W. Ayre, H. Miles, H. L. Roper and the Rev. K. W. H. Felstead) were reappointed.

PEALS COLLECTION COMMITTEE

 Adopted on the proposition of Mr. W. E. Critchley, seconded by Mr. G. E. Feirn. Messrs. W. E. Critchley, G. E. Feirn and A. J. Prankin were reappointed and Mr. R. F. B Speed was added to the Committee.

SUNDAY SERVICE SURVEY COMMITTEE

 Adopted on the proposition of Mr. N. Chaddock, seconded by Mr. P. M. J. Gray. Mr. N. Chaddock, Dr. D. N. Layton, Messrs. F. B. Lufkin, W. F. Moreton and the Rev. A. G. G. Thurlow were reappointed to the Committee.

TOWERS AND BELFRIES COMMITTEE

(July 1st, 1960, pages 450-1)
 Adopted as amended on the proposition of Mr. E. H. Lewis, seconded by Mr. J. Freeman. It was agreed to submit to the Central Council for the Care of Churches, for their comments, the proposed amendment to paragraph (a) of the draft joint statement. The Committee (Messrs. F. Sharpe, J. W. Clarke, F. E. Collins, J. Freeman, E. H. Lewis, W. Osborn and the Rev. J. G. M. Scott) were reappointed with the addition of Messrs. B. Austin and B. D. Threlfall.

METHODS COMMITTEE

(July 1st, 1960, page 451)
 Adopted on the proposition of the Rev. K. W. H. Felstead, seconded by Mr. C. K. Lewis. Mr. B. G. Warwick said on behalf of the Leicester Diocesan Guild that two methods referred to in the report, Lyme and Whitwick Surprise Royal, would be renamed. It was agreed that the Secretary should write to the Secretary of the North Staffordshire Association regarding Gainsborough Surprise Royal. The Rev. K. W. H. Felstead and Mr. C. K. Lewis were reappointed and Messrs. F. T. Blagrove and J. R. Mayne were added to the Committee.

REAPPOINTMENT OF THE STANDING COMMITTEE

The Honorary Secretary announced the names of the ex-officio members:—Mr. F. Sharpe, Rev. A. G. G. Thurlow, Messrs. E. A. Barnett, F. W. Perrens, E. H. Lewis, G. W. Fletcher, A. A. Hughes, H. N. Pitstow and all conveners of committees.

The following were elected to the Committee: Messrs. R. S. Anderson, W. B. Cartwright, P. A. Corby, Miss M. R. Cross, Messrs. F. E. Dukes, J. T. Dyke, J. Freeman, F. I. Hairs, C. K. Lewis, T. J. Look, P. J. Stanforth and Mrs. P. J. Stanforth.

ALTERATION TO RULES

On behalf of the North Staffordshire Association Mr. R. S. Anderson moved the following amendments of Rules, and in the absence of the seconder the Honorary Secretary formally seconded:—

(1) To add the following new Rule 2, and renumber the existing Rules 2 to 18 as 3 to 19 respectively:—

'2. The Council shall:—

(i) Use its best endeavours to guard the rights and generally promote the welfare of the Exercise both in its scientific aspect and as a branch of church work.

(ii) Encourage and assist the development of the Art in its scientific, mathematical and historical branches.

(iii) Arbitrate so far as may be deemed advisable in such matters of dispute or perplexity, as shall be submitted to its judgment.'

An amendment proposed by Mr. V. Bottomley, seconded by Rev. J. G. M. Scott to delete the words 'guard the rights and' was lost and the motion was carried.

(2) To amend Rule 14 (Procedure at Meetings) by inserting the words 'representing Territorial Societies' between the words 'Twenty members' and 'shall.'

The Rule to read:—'At the meetings of the Council and President or Vice-President shall take the chair, and in the event of their absence the members present shall elect a Chairman for that meeting. The Chairman shall have a casting vote. Twenty members representing Territorial Societies shall form a quorum. Every new member, whether Representative, or Honorary or Life, shall, before taking his seat, be introduced by a member to the President or Vice-President, or, in the absence of the President or Vice-President, to the Chairman of the meeting.'

The motion was lost

MOTION

Proposed by Mr. D. A. Bayles, seconded by Mr. W. Ayre:—

'This Council reaffirms the principle that a peal may not be credited to more than one affiliated Society. It accordingly instructs the Editor of "The Ringing World" and affiliated Societies to keep their records in line with the Council's Peal Analysis, adopting the procedure laid down in the Council's Handbook of 1956.'

After discussion, Mr. P. A. Corby proposed and Mr. J. Freeman seconded that the matter be left on the table. This was credited.

PLACE OF NEXT MEETING

Invitations had been received from the North Staffordshire Association to visit Stoke-on-Trent and from the Norwich Diocesan Association to visit Great Yarmouth. It was agreed to accept the former.

OTHER BUSINESS

The Honorary Secretary drew attention to the item (f) (ii) of 'Conditions required for peals' on page 19 of the Council's Handbook, that in the case of an attempt to surpass a record peal of 6,720 or more changes, notice shall be sent to the secretary of the society under whose title the record peal was rung. It had been brought to notice that this had not been complied with on two recent occasions.

VOTES OF THANKS

On the motion of the President, the thanks of the Council were expressed to the Mayor of Folkestone, the Lord Bishop of Tonbridge and Mr. J. Willis, Vice-President of the Kent County Association, for their welcome; to the Vicar of Folkestone for the use of his church for Holy Communion and to the Lord Bishop for officiating; to Messrs. A. Berry and J. R. Cooper, Dr. E. S. J. Hatcher, Messrs. C. T. Hillis, T. C. Phillimore and J. Willis of the Kent County Association for local arrangements; and to local incumbents and tower-keepers for the use of their bells.

After the meeting the members were guests of the Mayor and Corporation of Folkestone at tea.

LINCOLN DIOCESAN GUILD

West Lindsey Branch

A wedding delayed the start of the West Lindsey Branch meeting, held at Stow on February 11th, and a merry 'peal' was rung for the happy couple as they left the church. The Rector (Rev. W. Nicholson) conducted Evensong and extended a cordial welcome to those present. Tea was served in the Methodist School room to some 40 ringers, among whom were visitors from the Central Branch.

The vice-president (Mr. C. H. Baker) presided at the business meeting, when the subject of group practices was raised. The secretary (Mr. G. L. A. Lunn) thought it might be possible to arrange for an instructor through the local education authority, as had been done elsewhere. It was agreed to postpone a decision until a more representative opinion had been obtained.

WINCHESTER & PORTSMOUTH

Alton and Petersfield District

Over forty members and visitors met at Petersfield for the annual meeting on February 11th. The eight bells were kept going during the afternoon and evening with methods ranging from rounds to Cambridge Major. The service was conducted by the Rector, the Rev. J. S. Long, the lesson being read by the secretary, Mr. C. E. Bassett.

An excellent tea was served by the wives and friends of the Petersfield ringers, followed by the business meeting, presided over by the Rector. The meeting closed with a hearty vote of thanks to the Rector for his address and warm welcome, also to all others for making the meeting a success. R. T. J.

NORWICH DIOCESAN

All the Branch officers and committee members were re-elected at the annual meeting at the Eastern Branch at Lodden on February 11th. They were: Mr. E. R. Goate, chairman; Mr. P. G. W. Newstead, secretary; Miss D. Lidbetter, Ringing Master; committee, Messrs. A. Bird, C. Bailey, J. Forder, J. Gorrod and B. Willgress; Association's Standing Committee, Rev. G. C. Galley and Mr. W. B. Duncan. A membership certificate was presented to Mr. Arthur Cooper (Gorleston) by the president (Mr. N. Golden), and Miss V. J. Cooper, of Beccles, was elected a non-resident ringing member.

Great regret was expressed at the absence, through illness, of Mr. H. W. Lidbetter, of Acle, and the secretary was instructed to write to him accordingly. Votes of thanks were passed to the Vicar (Canon C. R. Ninham), the Rev. G. C. Galley, who preached at the service, and the organist (Mrs. J. Robertson). Also to Mr. and Mrs. Barrett and their helpers for the tea arrangements.

Next meeting, Ranworth, April 22nd (subject to permission).

BEVERLEY SOCIETY'S RECORD YEAR

A record year for recruitment was reported at the annual meeting of the Beverley and District Ringing Society, held at Beverley on February 11th. During 1960, 30 new members joined, bringing the membership to 120, representing 28 towers in Yorkshire and Lincolnshire. There were increased attendances at the monthly meetings, which had included the first visit of the Society to Wakington.

Forty-two ringers attended the meeting and the 10 bells at the Minster were rung to a variety of methods during the afternoon, prior to a service in the Minster, when the Vicar, Rev. E. B. Bull, welcomed the Society. Tea was served in St. Mary's Church Rooms, and was followed by the annual business meeting, at which the president, Mr. A. E. Sellers, took the chair.

Officers elected were: President, Mr. A. E. Sellers (Beverley Minster); vice-president, Mr. H. Parker (Bridlington); Ringing Master, Mr. J. Johnson (Kirk Ella); Assistant Ringing Master, Mr. R. Ducker (Sutton-on-Hull); honorary secretary and treasurer, Mr. K. Kirk (Kirk Ella); assistant secretary, Mr. G. Pvbis (Cottingham); committee, Miss J. Gray (Wakington), Mr. F. Dale (Hessle), Mr. J. Parker (Bridlington), Mr. C. Robinson (Sutton-on-Hull), and Mr. A. Taylor (St. Mary's, Beverley).

Thanks were accorded to Mr. J. M. Harrop (Howden) and Mr. I. N. Goldthorpe (Kirk Ella), who relinquished the positions of Ringing Master and assistant secretary, respectively, after two years in office. Further ringings at St. Mary's concluded an enjoyable meeting.

SURREY ASSOCIATION

Fifty ringers from 16 towers were represented at the Northern District's annual meeting at St. John's, Croydon, on January 28th. Ringing was supervised by Mr. F. E. Collins, the Vicar conducted the Association's form of service and Mr. H. N. Pitstow was organist.

Mrs. Collins and her helpers prepared an excellent tea, and Mr. Collins was in the chair for the business meeting. The secretary's report stated that the highlight of the year was the meeting of tower captains to inaugurate a scheme for helping bands struggling in the first stages of change ringing and the commencement of the first course of instruction at Walton-on-Thames.

Retiring District officers were re-elected, four new members elected, and the collection for the Bell Fund totalled 30s.

OBITUARY

MR. S. SMITH
AN APPRECIATION

I was sorry to learn of the passing of 'Gunboat' Smith, of Nettlebed, near Henley-on-Thames. He was, indeed, one of the characters of the village, and, although only a ringer in a modest way, he is never likely to be forgotten by those ringers who made his acquaintance.

He came to the village in 1912 from Chalgrove, where he learned to ring with his older brother, Jim, under the tuition of the late 'Freddie' Woodward. In 1914 Sid Smith went straight to the war, and Nettlebed did not see him again until 1922. He followed his vocation as a baker, but found time to interest himself in the belfry sufficiently to get the six bells rehung by White's, of Appleton, and to introduce change ringing to the tower, where previously nothing but call changes, rung from tablets on a stand in front of the ringers, had been the custom. By much perseverance, he succeeded in getting the old ringers to ring plain courses of Grand-sire Doubles for service.

By this time his brother, Jim (who died a few years ago), found employment in Nettlebed, and his experience and tremendous enthusiasm soon created a band of youngsters capable of ringing Stedman and several Minor methods. As Sid had now become steward of the village Working Men's Club his time available for ringing practice was severely restricted, and he got rather left behind, but his enthusiasm never waned, and he was always willing to do what he could for the belfry.

He was not only a ringer, but a keen sportsman, and the writer well remembers his still playing a good game of football for the village eleven when he must have been about 40 years of age. Although Sid Smith was an 'unknown' to the Exercise at large, it should be placed on record that he was instrumental, both in getting Nettlebed's bells rehung and in introducing change ringing to this remote Oxfordshire village, where it has continued ever since.

MR. THOMAS MALE

We regret to announce the death on February 4th at his residence, 21, The Butts, Warwick, of Mr. Thomas Male, in his 77th year. He had been a ringer at St. Mary's Church, Warwick, from 1902 until 1946, when he was forced to give up ringing for health reasons, but he maintained his interest in the art until the end. The funeral service was at this church on February 9th.

MRS. BEATRICE STEWART

We regret to learn of the sudden death, on February 23rd, of Mrs. Beatrice Stewart, the beloved wife of Mr. Martin Stewart, of Ferndown, Dorset. She will be remembered as a charming hostess by very many ringers who visited Mr. Martin Stewart at the Nurseries. Much sympathy will be extended to him and the family.

REV. A. L. MINNS

We regret to record the death, on February 27th, of the Rev. Arthur Leonard Minns, Rector of Holy Trinity, Chester, the news of whose passing reached us as we were going to press. He was a ringing member of the Chester Diocesan Guild. His church, a new building, situated on a housing estate, is of traditional design, and has a tower designed to accommodate six bells.

Mr. Minns was aged 52, and leaves a widow and four children.

2,000 PEALS

ABOUT 9 p.m. on Monday, February 27th, a big event took place in English ringing—a man had rung for the first time in his 2,000th peal. This honour has fallen to Mr. Ernest Morris, of Leicester. Last December Mr. Morris surpassed the total of the previous record holder (1,969), Mr. William Pye, of Walthamstow. The ringing Exercise has been waiting for the news of the 2,000th peal, and it burst forth in the B.B.C. breakfast-time magazine 'Today,' on Tuesday last week. All ringers will join with us in offering our sincerest congratulations to this grand Leicester ringer of 71.

This month 'The Ringing World' celebrates its jubilee, but throughout that long period the name of Ernest Morris has been familiar to its readers. He appeared in No. 2 issue with one of his compositions. Not only has his name appeared more frequently in our peal columns than any other ringer but from his pen there has been a steady flow of articles dealing with history and the lore of bellringing. The former verger of St. Margaret's, Leicester, is known on both sides of the Atlantic—indeed you will find his portrait not only in the Mitchell Tower of Chicago University but in the Antipodes, in the belfry of Christchurch Cathedral, New Zealand.

The 2,000th peal of Ernest was carefully conceived. Brian G. Warwick, Leicester Guild's secretary and a leader of the Monday night bands at the Loughborough Bell Foundry, had a new composition of Surprise Royal for the occasion, which he appropriately named Morriston Surprise Royal. Thus a district near Swansea will be perpetuated all the time change-ringing holds its place of affection among English men and women.

And who were the men who helped Ernest to this glory? Names our readers are familiar with: G. Ronald Edwards treble, Brian G. Warwick (conductor) 2, Ralph Clifton 3, Ralph E. Kington 5, Joseph W. Cotton 6, A. James Poyner 7, John A. Acres 8, Russell S. Morris 9, John M. Jelley tenor. It was a good peal with good striking throughout, and the bells were brought round in 2 hours 25 minutes.

The event was anticipated by the Press. Photographers were in waiting, and Mr. Paul L. Taylor was called from his home to join in the congratulations. What a happy picture they took! Grey-haired Ernest holding his bell-rope and shaking hands with the reigning sire of England's famous foundry. This was followed by the celebration drinks in Mr. Paul Taylor's home—for Ernest a modest mug of cider—and then he was whisked away by car to Leicester to give a B.B.C. recording, one of many he had given, but never before in exactly the same spirit of triumph and of the fulfilment of a personal ambition.

THE BELLS OF TODMORDEN

TODMORDEN, lying on the boundaries of Lancashire and Yorkshire (but nevertheless completely in Yorkshire), has within its boundaries four rings of eight bells. These are probably as diverse in character as any other town of 17,000 inhabitants. Entering the town from Lancashire, via Rochdale, the visitor first comes across St. Peter's, Walsden. With the exception of the tower this church was entirely destroyed by fire in 1948 and the frame was damaged. Mears and Stainbank were given the job of rehangng the eight bells, cast in 1872 by William Blews, of Birmingham, who operated from the 'Chandelier and Gas Fitting Works' from 1852 to 1886. The tenor here weighs 9 cwt. and was rung behind to the first four peals between 1872 and 1926. Seven years later it was turned in to Cambridge Surprise Major and then rested behind in the next peal in 1958, again Grandsire. Only nine peals have been rung on this light ring, hung in two layers.

Passing down the valley we next see the magnificent spire of the Unitarian Church. This building was erected in 1869 at the expense of the Fielden brothers, who were local mill-owners. The tenor here weighs 14 cwt., and the bells were cast by Robert Stainbank. Sixteen out of twenty-seven peals here have been Grandsire Triples, although there have been peals of Superlative (1930), Cambridge (1931) and Bristol (1960) rung here.

Christ Church, or the New Church, as it is known locally, contains 11 bells, all cast by Taylors of Loughborough, in 1897, at the expense of a benefactress, to mark the jubilee of Queen Victoria and in memory of her brothers and sisters. The tenor weighs 23½ cwt., and to get them all on one layer the wall had to be cut away to allow the tenor to swing whilst the flight of the sixth was removed to allow free movement. Twenty peals have been rung on this rather loud eight, ranging from Grandsire to Superlative but only one has been rung in under 3 hours, which was Double Norwich, in 1927, with Edward Jenkins on the tenor. The other three bells are for chiming purposes only and on one occasion 'Money is the root of all evil' was heard issuing from this tower!

Cross Stone is on the hillside, down Halifax valley, and holds a ring, with tenor of 9½ cwt., cast by Charles Carr (bell and brass founder) in 1910. This firm operated from Smethwick (not, as some ringers suggest, Carlisle). The first peal was rung here the day after the bells were installed, as with the other towers in Todmorden, this was Grandsire, some four months before the bells were consecrated. All told 44 peals have been rung on this handy octave, in all the standard Plain, Treble Bob and Triples methods, and Cambridge, London, Superlative and Yorkshire Surprise. Bristol will, no doubt, be rung to complete all the standard methods, but the writer is of the opinion that the bells have not the weight to do justice to the music of Bristol.

BELFRY GOSSIP

To celebrate the 90th birthday of Mr. William Henson, a quarter peal was rung on Market Bosworth, Leics., bells on February 25th. At this church he had been a service ringer for 62 years and a sidesman for 40 years. In early life he drove the carrier's cart weekly to Leicester, and at the age of 83 decided to build himself a new bungalow!

Mr. J. Walden is the new Master of Lincoln Cathedral band.

Ernest Morris, in reporting his 2,000th peal, wishes to associate the names of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon and Pat Halls, of Derby, who helped so much in new Surprise Royal methods and other peals. Thank you, Gordon and Pat.

The time taken in the peal of Yorkshire Surprise Major, rung at Dorchester Abbey for the 80th anniversary of the Oxford Diocesan Guild (see page 90) was 2 hours and 59 minutes and not as printed.

Miss Ruth Blackshaw writes, in reply to Mr. W. S. Palm, of Faversham, that a pleasing presentation frequently employed at Holme Pierrepont is to mount an ordinary peal card printed by 'The Ringing World' in a 4s. 11d. frame. Recipients have been really pleased and proudly show it to their friends.

The seventh bell at Bramley, Hants, has been rehung by Messrs. John Taylor and Co., to the great satisfaction of the local band. Ringing is back to normal—Sundays 10.30 a.m., 5.30 p.m.; practices, Tuesdays 7.45 p.m. Visitors are always welcome.

There was a good turnout of members for the social evening held on February 24th, by the South Derbyshire and North Leics Association. The main item was a film show given by British Railways, to whom thanks are accorded and also Mr. L. Walmsley, of Shardlow.

Mr. C. E. J. Norris writes: 'The peal of Yorkshire Surprise Royal (page 122) rung at Rochester Cathedral on February 4th was first in the method on the bells. It was one of the finest peals on these bells since the late James E. Davis called Cambridge Royal here for the first in the method on the bells on December 26th, 1929. I heard both the peals.'

The bells of St. Magnus' Cathedral, Kirkwall, Orkney, will be heard on the Scottish Home Service on Monday, March 13th, at 8.5 p.m. The programme is entitled 'The Bells of St. Magnus' and listeners will be able to hear the unusual story and tune of these bells and the voice of the Orcadians who are connected with them.

The quarter peal rung at Owslebury, Hants, on February 10th, was rung by the Warnford Sunday service band.

It is hoped to erect a peal board in memory of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Wolstencroft in Ashton-under-Lyne belfry.

A.B.C. Television have presented the Bishop of Coventry with a cheque for £5,000 for Coventry Cathedral rebuilding to mark the fifth anniversary of the opening of their programmes in the Midlands.

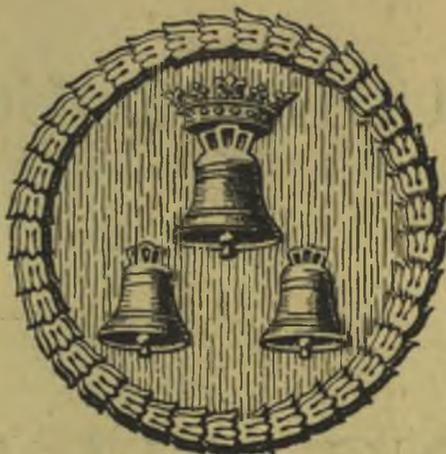

The University of Bristol Society, in the light of its recent Central Council membership, has appointed Mr. Patrick J. Bird, of 3, Belmont Road, St. Andrew's, Bristol 6, to co-ordinate activities. It is hoped to organise more tours and reunions to bring members into closer contact.

Mr. Harold W. Dunsden points out that the footnote to the peal at Streatley (page 140) 'First peal on the bells since 1903' is incorrect. He writes, 'In our belfry in Blewbury, we have a peal board recording a peal of 5,040 Grand-sire Doubles, rung at Streatley by the Blewbury band on January 27th, 1906, some three years later.'

The band of twelve ringers at Claverley, Salop, Parish Church, includes eight members who are also choristers. On Sunday evening, February 26th, the band divided and officiated at two churches simultaneously for Evensong. Five members went to Ryton Parish Church, near Shifnal, and rang on the five bells there. Four of this number, with the assistance of three lady members of Claverley Church choir, then sang Evensong. The six ringers who remained at home rang on the back six at Claverley and four of that number then took their places in the choir to sing Evensong. The Claverley band includes the lay reader and church treasurer.

Our Jubilee Issue

Our jubilee issue on March 25th will consist of 24 pages of reading matter with a special cover.

In addition to our list of continuous readers over the past 50 years, for which we invite 10 lines of ringing biography, readers are requested to contribute to the following:—

- (a) The greatest ringing event during past 50 years. (No more than 20 lines.)
- (b) The finest ring of bells cast during that period and reasons. (Not more than 10 lines.)
- (c) The best contribution to the advancement of ringing during the period. (Not more than 20 lines.)
- (d) A sonnet on ringing.

Please write on one side of a sheet of paper and do not mix your contribution with other editorial matter.

We feel certain that our jubilee issue will make a wide appeal to ringers who are not regular readers. To enable the Editor to assess the print order, will secretaries of towers and ringing organisations notify their requirements as soon as possible.

LIVERPOOL UNIVERSITY SOCIETY CLAIMS WORLD RECORD

On Thursday, February 16th, 1961, four members of the Liverpool University Society set up what is thought to be a new world record for ringing handbells non-stop, by ringing for 12 hours and 1 minute, as part of the University's 'Panto' (Rag) week celebrations. This beats the previous record (set up last year by Manchester) by 32 minutes. Ringing consisted of rounds, call changes, courses of Grandsire Triples and Grandsire Doubles, touches of Bob Doubles, and attempts at Reverse Canterbury Doubles, Bob Minor and Original Major.

Ringing commenced at 9.20 a.m., outside the Adelphi Hotel, and went on till 9.26 p.m., the ringers moving around the city centre, accompanied by various people with collecting cans. The band were Michael Pilgrim (1-2), Geoffrey H. Pullin (3-4), Peter S. Bennett (5-6) and Frank Anderton (7-8).

Credit must be given to Mr. Pilgrim who, prior to the attempt, had never rung handbells before and could only ring rounds on tower-bells, but, in the course of the day, he managed to learn to hunt the trebles to Grandsire Triples and Original Major. It was originally intended that he should only come along and make up the eight, from time to time, to relieve the monotony of six (as in the last record) but, after the first hour, he needed no further pressing to continue all day.

An upshot to this was heard the next day by a friend of one of the ringers. Apparently he overheard a conversation between two workmen who thought that the ringing was for an open-air service, but on being enlightened commented that 'they worked very hard for it and they weren't doing anyone any harm.' It seems rather a pity that all Rag stunts are not as acceptable to the public.

The ringers would like to take this opportunity of thanking Miss Marjorie Webster, of Walkasey, for the loan of the handbells.

SPALDING RINGERS' DINNER

As in previous years, the ringers of SS. Mary and Nicholas', Spalding, were entertained to dinner at the Greyhound Hotel on February 9th, by the Parochial Church Council. A short business meeting preceded the meal when the Vicar thanked the ringers for their loyal support. The bells had been rung for 109 services, apart from special occasions, and the captain, Mr. J. G. Ames, had been present 107 times, for which he was duly congratulated. There were two changes of officers: Rev. R. S. Bennett (curate) being appointed chaplain, and Mr. E. T. Chapman elected secretary, in place of Mr. M. Bennett.

After an excellent meal games were organised by the Rev. R. S. Bennett, with assistance from one or two other members and the evening closed with some handbell ringing.

MRS. ELSIE L. HAIRS,
Sussex County Association

One of the most active lady ringers during the last 50 years is Mrs. Elsie L. Hairs, of Groombridge, Sussex. It was quite a coincidence, and a good omen, that on the very day she was born at Guildford, Surrey, on October 22nd, 1892, the Surrey Association held a meeting there! She is the daughter of the late Frank Bennett, who rang over 1,500 peals, and was one of the cleverest conductors of all time.

Mrs. Hairs learnt to ring at St. Alfege's, Greenwich, London, S.E., and rang her first peal on handbells in August, 1911. She actually rang 75 handbell peals before ringing her first tower-bell peal, which was Stedman Caters at Hillingdon, Middlesex. In 1916 she married Frank I. Hairs, and rang a handbell peal of Stedman Caters at Guildford on her wedding day. They have rung a large number of peals together, and their daughter, Olive, is married to Edwin A. Barnett, secretary of the Central Council.

Her present total of peals is 320, and has included a number of interesting and unique performances. She took part in the only peal of Stedman Caters rung by an all-ladies band at St. Clement Danes, Strand, on January 20th, 1926, and also the first all-ladies peal of Surprise—Cambridge Major at Crayford, Kent, on March 31st, 1928. Amongst her interesting peals on handbells have been Superlative Major, Carter's Odd Bob Stedman Triples, and 8,099 Grandsire Caters. On one occasion she rang three handbell peals in three methods, and had a 60 mile bicycle ride, all within 12 hours! She has also rung the four standard methods to a peal on 8, 10 and 12 bells, and also Cambridge Maximus. She rang in the first handbell peal rung by married couples, rung at Edmonton on December 7th, 1919, conducted by the late John Thomas, and also repeated this performance on tower-bells, both methods being Grandsire Triples. She also took part in a similar peal of Cambridge Royal on tower-bells.

In addition to an active peal ringing career, she has found time to do her full share of duties, and has held several offices. A keen member of the Ladies' Guild, she was the first secretary of the Central Division, and while she was peal secretary of the Sussex County Association she wrote out all the peals rung by the Association up to the start of the last war—some 3,000 odd. This was done in case the original peal book got destroyed. She has been secretary of the Southern Division of the Sussex Association, and at present holds the office of secretary of the Northern Division, doing the job with her usual efficiency.

She is very proud of the fact that she is the only living lady member of the Ancient Society of College Youths, and has rung several peals for the Society. Among her most treasured possessions are a letter from the late Sir Arthur P. Heywood, congratulating her on her handbell ringing at the social after the Central Council meeting in 1912, and a letter from the late Canon Helmore, of Canterbury, and one from the Ancient Society of College Youths on the occasion of her rescue of her husband from the river at Surfleet in 1923.

Mrs. Hairs has been one of the pioneers of lady ringers, and has set a splendid example to all her sex, both in practical ringing and of service to others. All her many friends will wish her, and her husband, Frank, good health and good luck for the remainder of their long married life together. APACE.

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

Leatherhead District

A letter from Mr. C. W. Denyer, announcing his decision not to seek re-election as Master of the Guild was read at the annual meeting of the Leatherhead District, held at Leatherhead, on February 4th. The meeting, presided over by Mr. Frank Oakshott, thought that Mr. Denyer should continue the work for the Guild that he had begun, such as the Pulling Memorial Bell, the talks on amalgamation with the Surrey Association and 'The Ringing World' jubilee meeting.

The secretary was accordingly instructed to write and express these views to him and ask him to reconsider his decision. He was then duly nominated. (Mr. Denyer has since agreed to accept nomination.—Ed.)

The balance sheet and report for 1960 showed that the District was keeping its end up. All the District officers were re-elected, with one exception. Catherine Powell was now attached to Esher and Mr. C. Munday was elected assistant secretary. Mr. Parrott proposed that the District should vote some of its balance to the Pulling Memorial Bell Fund, and after discussion it was agreed that £20 be given, subject to the A.G.M.'s sanction.

Twenty-seven new members were elected and the election of five compounding members ratified. After the usual vote of thanks to the clergy for conducting the Guild's form of service and for the tea, a collection was taken for the Pulling Memorial, which realised £1 10s. 6d.

LINCOLN DIOCESAN GUILD

The annual meeting of the Elke Deaneries Branch took place at Spalding on February 11th. The bells were rung to a variety of methods until the service, conducted by the Rev. R. S. Bennett, the lessons being read by the Vicar of Bicker, and the organist was Mr. Colin Martin.

An excellent tea was served by the local ringers' wives in the Day School to 47 members. In the absence of the president, Rev. D. G. Jakeman, the chair for the business meeting was taken by Mr. R. C. Noon, assisted by Mr. B. B. Tyrrell, secretary and treasurer.

After the adoption of the secretary's report and statement of accounts the officers were all re-elected with the exception of Mr. S. E. Bennett, who wished to retire as Branch representative on the Guild Committee. Mr. J. E. Allen was elected to fill the vacancy.

It was agreed to fix a maximum price of of 2s. 6d. for teas for schoolchildren, any deficiencies to be met out of the general fund, with the hope that more would be encouraged to attend meetings. Also that grants be made to assist in purchasing new ropes in towers from the Belfry Repair Fund, such applications to be presented and considered at any Branch meeting. Seven new members and one honorary member were elected.

Mr. J. G. Ames proposed a vote of thanks to all concerned in the arrangements for the meeting, after which ringing was resumed till 9 p.m.

AUSTRALIAN REVIEW - 1960

By G. W. PIPE

EVEN though most of our ringing brethren in the Exercise are at this time of the year experiencing the British winter perhaps a quick tour around 'Sunny Australia' (where as I now write temperatures are in the 100's) will at least warm the heart and bring forward next summer a week or two!

We'll start at Perth Cathedral in Western Australia, where very marked moves were made towards the end of the year to have these bells swinging again. According to one of their team (who chime at present) the reputed unsafe tower is nowhere near as bad as was feared. This weakness has always been labelled on Perth, even before the Great Adventure days, but apparently if the Cathedral architect has his way this almost brand new Warner eight will be ringing very soon. However, chiming has gone on through the year and in Melbourne we were able to teach (rather hurriedly) a St. George's boy to handle a bell correctly.

A journey of over 1,600 miles east across the Nullabar Plains brings us to Adelaide. These ringers, who were just feeling their feet at the end of 1959, enjoyed great success during 1960. This has been a prime example of enthusiasm, good churchmanship and ambition achieved. No less than sixteen quarters were scored in Adelaide, fourteen at St. Peter's Cathedral and two at St. Andrew's, Walkerville, a northern suburb. These comprised Bob Major 1, Grandsire Triples 3, 2 each of Grandsire and Stedman Doubles and Kent Minor and one each of Oxford, Kent and Oxford and Cambridge Minor, as well as three of Bob Minor. In every case one or more 'firsts' have been recorded, whilst four conductors have shared the honours.

At both towers membership is approximately 12 and it is particularly good to see such progress at the Cathedral, where, with a 41 cwt. tenor, the ringing of the eight to changes is certainly a specialist job. Enid Lloyd-Roberts is passing on her conducting knowledge to Bill Pitcher and Hervey Bagot and no doubt her immaculate handling to any learner that comes along. These three, with their band under Bill Pitcher, deserve our warmest congratulations for such marked progress.

The Adelaide ringers visited Melbourne in June and November and besides the methods rung in quarters have taken part in and practised in their own tower both Cambridge Minor and Stedman Triples. Their hopes for 1961, apart from maintaining their Sunday service and striking record, are for Major and Stedman Triples and perhaps a peal on their glorious eight. Brian Cox, a gifted heavy-bell ringer is being coached along to turn in the tenor, having succeeded already in one or two courses of Bob Major. We wish Adelaide luck for 1961.

THREE SPIRES

Five hundred miles south east is Melbourne, with not even a ringable four in between! In this city stands two fine examples of 19th century ecclesiastical architecture. Both St. Paul's (Anglican) and St. Patrick's (R.C.) have three spires and with both churches containing rings of bells this is probably the only instance in the world where this occurs.

Melbourne has had a varied and in some ways rewarding year. Practising members (sharing the ringing at both Cathedrals) number about 25 with a good sprinkling of learners, though some difficulty has been experienced in getting hold of some 'young blood.' It must be said that St. Patrick's bells are in very poor condition with unfortunately little chance of their being overhauled, whilst St. Paul's are already overdue for a visit to the foundry. This has definitely retarded all stages of ringing and the St. Paul's Society has pledged itself to work hard for this renovation work anticipated for next year.

Methods practised have included Stedman Caters and Bob Royal and peals of Kent and Little Bob Major and Cambridge Minor have been scored. Quarters of Kent and Double Norwich Major, Grandsire and Stedman Triples have produced some good striking, notably the Stedman, which was almost faultless. Again we have enjoyed inter-State visits especially one to Adelaide in April, and visitors from England as well as from other States have been especially welcome.

Sydney lies about 600 miles N.E. of Melbourne, where it is said the surf is a little better but the beer definitely weaker! But the Sydneysiders have the edge on Melbourne for rings of bells so the intending migrant must take his pick! Three peals and thirty quarters were rung during 1960, mostly of Doubles and Minor, but with thirty-two ringers taking part with six conductors.

Randwick (a steel ring) practises regularly on the back six and the eights of Burwood and Darling Point and the sixes of Turramurra and Parramatta are faithfully rung Sunday by Sunday. The two sixes at Christ Church and St. Benedict's have no regular band so ringing here is restricted to saints' days.

The centre of Sydney's ringing may be said to be at the noble Basilica of St. Mary, where a fine octave is found. Ringing through the year has included Cambridge Minor and Stedman Triples and it is most pleasing to note that Kent and Double Norwich Major are now being practised. Three of Sydney's leading young ringers, Messrs. Fryer, Watson and Clarke, have rung quarters of the latter in Melbourne and we wish them luck in their future ambitions.

Last year also saw the retiring of John Cummins from the Editorship of 'Ringing Towers' and we heartily thank him for doing such a splendid job for so long. Some very capable ringers and conductors may be found in Sydney and it is hoped that in 1961 these people will really get together and continue the high standard of progress attained in the early '50's.

Two more sixes, at Yass and Maitland, are found in N.S.W. and again last year with visits from the Sydney ringers encouragement has been given to these bands (100-200 miles out) to keep their bells ringing on Sundays.

About 800 miles north of Sydney lies our Queensland outpost—Maryborough, and to 'grab' this tower is really an achievement! (No 'after-supper job' this, A.P.C.!) Queensland has an area over seven times that of the British Isles and one ringing peal. However, this octave is sounded out week by week to call changes and the N.S.W. ringers hope to make the journey in 1961.

Before taking our leave we must call at Hobart, in Tasmania, some 1,300 miles south of our last tower. Managing the two octaves in Hobart has always been a struggle and congratulations must go to Mr. Sidney Smith (whose brother, Bert, rings at Kirby-de-Soken, Essex), for his endless patience in maintaining Sunday ringing. These are two interesting eights and it can be recalled how much the 1934 English ringers enjoyed themselves in this very lovely island. So that's the round for 1960 and who knows what 1961 will bring? The first peal of Double Norwich or a peal of Royal, perhaps, or some promising recruits? Maybe some further move towards arranging a second 'Great Adventure'—let's hope so!

THE BELLS OF ST. GILES', ASHTEAD

In the early eighteenth century the tower contained three bells but in 1725 these were melted down and a new ring of six cast. They were the gift of Edward, Lord Dudley. This ring of six was again broken up in 1873 when the present ring of eight bells was installed. The tenor weighs 14 cwt. 8 lb. in the key of F. The original plain bearings of 1873 were replaced in 1932 by modern self-aligning ball bearings. The six largest bells are hung in the original timber frame of 1725, the two new trebles of 1873 being installed in a frame of flat steel.

Over the years the ring of eight bells in the combined timber and steel frame has given wonderful service and, in fact, in 1957 the local band scored the three hundredth peal on the eight bells. This was, incidentally, the first peal ever rung by the resident Sunday service band as distinct from a local resident band.

None of the bells has ever been quarter turned while the original wrought iron clapper staples remain in the crowns.

Some two years ago it became evident that the bells and frame needed expert attention and reports were obtained from the only two firms of bell foundries now in business. Both advised that an entirely new metal frame should be installed while in addition the bells should be quarter turned and supplied with all new fittings. The work would include the removal of the cast iron clapper staples and supplying new metal headstocks, wheels clappers, etc.

It was considered prudent to discontinue peal and quarter peal ringing although service ringing has continued uninterrupted. The cost of the work envisaged by the bell foundries was in the neighbourhood of £1,500, which at the time seemed a very formidable sum. But the local ringers were undeterred and set about raising what cash they could. The salvage of waste paper was organised on a whole parish basis, the local ringers went carol singing at Christmas, 1959 and 1960, a beetle drive and jumble sale were organised, appeals were made to local tradesmen. In fact, any effort considered of value was tried and the cash began rolling in.

At that time the Parochial Church Council of Ashted decided to organise a scheme of planned giving and one of the objects of the appeal was the restoration of the bells.

Now after fifteen months of intensive effort the ringers themselves have raised nearly £700. The Parochial Church Council have voted during the past two years partly out of the planned giving campaign the sum of £650, while an anonymous gift of £100 has just been received on behalf of the bells appeal. In fact, the amount required is in sight and the Church Council have decided to have the work put in hand forthwith.

One or two final peals and quarter peals on the bells are being rung, but when the bells are removed from the tower a silence of four to six months will begin. In the meantime, the local ringers intend to keep themselves in form by use of handbells and visits to neighbouring towns. The time will soon come for the bells to be returned to the tower when all ringers will again be welcome and visiting hands will be sure of a ring on these lovely bells which in the past have been so much sought after.

As the local ringers, consisting mainly of teenagers, have been so enthusiastic in their efforts to raise money it is considered only right that to them should go the honour of ringing the first peal on the restored bells.

AMBITIONS AND THANKS

Dear Sir.—In almost every walk of life we see and admire people with ambition. Some set their aim very high, some even at the impossible, yet who would progress must of necessity have some goal to aspire to.

In ringing we have certain prominent men who, with earnestness and zeal, set out with certain aims. Some are merely ambitious to ring every bell in their own particular tower to a peal; others with wider interests try the same at neighbouring towers. Then there are others with 'pet' methods to ring the extent on all numbers—5 to 12 bells; while others have the desire to ring as many tenors as possible. In recent months we have noted some who aspire to ring methods (or should one call them variations?) of the 'so called' Surprise with a different initial to their names.

The late Rev. F. E. Robinson, not content with 1,000 peals, endeavoured to get a like number of Stedman Triples. The late 'Uncle Joe' Sykes had a similar ambition to ring every possible number of changes of 'Yorkshire Glory'—Kent Treble Bob Major—from 5,000 to 6,000 and all composed by his friend, Arthur Knights, as well as 'bagging' all tenors in this and other distant countries.

The late James George had the desire (and he is not the only one) to ring a peal on every date in the year. In like manner—now fulfilled—the present writer had the ambition to ring a full peal of 5,000 changes at all possible churches in his native Leicestershire with 5 bells and over. To accomplish this task it meant overcoming many difficulties, such as travel to outlying places, finding bells sadly neglected (especially the fives and sixes), sometimes entailing more than one journey to oil bearings, tighten up frames and fittings, mend wheels, splice ropes, etc., and in many cases only securing peals under great difficulties and punishment by way of blisters, aching limbs and wet shirts!

It is gratifying, however, to be able to record that in some instances, at least, these visits have resulted in interesting the locals to get things restored and bells augmented.

In attaining this ambition I have to record my deep appreciation in years gone by to my Billesdon friends who assisted me with transport to many distant places, both in Leicestershire and 'just over the border,' and in some instances by repairing wheels and fittings and supplying ropes, etc. Also to Ratby and Groby friends in like manner in many of the towers around their district.

Forty or fifty years ago I never had the ambition to ring a multitude of peals, but as time went on the enthusiasm of the late Harold Poole (who lived a few doors away from me) in fetching me out for handbells as well as tower-bells for practices and peals on all sorts of occasions, prompted my desire to ring 1,000 peals—he eventually conducted my 1,000th (Stedman Cinques) on handbells.

Of later years, the enthusiasm of Brian Warwick, with my friends of the 'Wednesday' and 'Monday' bands at Loughborough Bell Foundry and other places, increased my own ambitions to even greater efforts.

Through all this I have ever kept before me—and tried to carry out—my late father's advice and instructions, particularly that given to me in St. Margaret's Church, Leicester, when a youth. He said, 'I want you to make the name of Morris one to be honoured here in this church, up in the belfry, and in "The Ringing World."' So I went on and on till now, in completing 2,000 peals, I feel I have not let my father down, nor the church, nor the ringing fraternity.

As will be seen, my peals range on all numbers in a great variety of methods, and the lower numbers of bells have not suffered for the sake of the higher! I have truly enjoyed helping with humble peals of Doubles and Minor, with local lads, as much as I have with the experts in Cinques and Maximus, or in the 'Surprise' class.

Unlike most prolific peal ringers, I have never been on a peal ringing tour, my work as verger of a large city church not allowing me either the time or the money for such pleasures.

It is quite impossible for me to say 'thank you' to all friends—too numerous to mention by name—who have helped me to fulfil this great ambition; nevertheless, I do so now through the medium of these columns, and thank the Editor for his many helpful kindnesses.—Yours, etc.,

Leicester.

ERNEST MORRIS.

TWO CAPTAINS IN 73 YEARS

Dear Sir.—In 'Belfry Gossip,' in your issue of February 17th, Twyford claim to have had only four tower captains since 1913. Records show that change ringing started at Goring in 1888, since when there have been only two tower captains. The present captain, Mr. L. G. Haines, has held office since the former captain, Mr. John Bower, died in 1941. Mr. Bower was responsible for teaching the original band, who rang their first 120 of Grand sire Doubles in 1888, and there has been a regular change ringing band since that date. Is this a record?—Yours faithfully,

WILLIAM J. IRVING.

CLEARING HOUSE FOR COMPOSITIONS

Dear Sir.—Mr. R. F. B. Speed's letter (page 131) resurrects the perennial argument which occurs in the correspondence columns of 'The Ringing World.' I am not suggesting that anyone should have the nerve to claim the peal of Shackerstone S.R. (page 10) as his own—the composition is too trivial to be termed such—but it is generally very difficult, especially for the younger composers, to ascertain whether a composition is original or not.

Few people have access to a comprehensive collection of the peals published during the last fifty years. In my own case, as a comparative newcomer to ringing, the only peals to which I have access are those published in the 'R.W.' during the last three years or so and the Central Council Collection of 1950. It is thus very likely that any original (to me) composition that I produce will have been published before. In all innocence (some might say, naively) the young composer will publish his peal as original, only to be subjected to bitter attacks in these columns from certain eminent members of the Exercise, alleging plagiarism. Yet I consider that the composition was just as much an achievement on his part as it was by the original composer.

Surely this is a matter for the conscience of the individual composer. If he has, to the best of his knowledge, never seen a composition similar to one that he has produced, then I consider that he is entitled to call it his own until such time as someone finds an earlier composer, and this information could be given with a little less righteous indignation than is often the case.

The only answer to the problem, as far as I can see, is for the Central Council to set up a clearing house for compositions (and methods too, perhaps), to which a composer could send his peals to ascertain their originality.—Yours faithfully,

D. J. FORDER.

Eastleigh, Hants.

COMPOSITIONS FOR SHACKERSTONE AND RAVENSTONE

Dear Sir.—In reply to Mr. Speed's letter on page 131 of 'The Ringing World' of February 24th, I should like to explain that the two compositions mentioned should be credited as 'Arranged by'. Taking the Shackerstone first, it is true that the composition is one of Cambridge Maximus with 2 sets of 3 Homes added, but the credit is due to the arranger, surely, for knowing where to add them in order to avoid falseness. Shackerstone has 3 false course-ends (24365, 32564, 46253).

With regard to Ravenstone, which has no falseness, I do try, as far as possible, to ring alternative compositions. Very often in a peal of Surprise Royal with a clean-proof scale one finds the second in sixth for one course. In the composition rung to Ravenstone the sixth is in sixths for 7 courses (half the peal), the fourth for 4, the third for 2, and the fifth for one. I, personally, like the third in sixths better than the fourth and (of course) the second. The composition is W. Pye's Cambridge Royal, but a block of 3 Homes is added when the sixth is at Home and omitted elsewhere.

I hope this clears up Mr. Speed's first paragraph. In his second paragraph he asks two pertinent questions, (1) How do I select what composition to call? This is easy to answer. Mr. Burton has a large collection of Surprise Royal methods in card index form and on the back of the card for each method is attached a suitable composition. Both he and I try to get some variety. After all, we should not expect every peal of Yorkshire or Superlative Major to be composed by Pitstow, should we?

Mr. Speed's second question is certainly provocative. 'Has it ever struck him that even ill-named perversions of Yorkshire Royal would yield good music to reasonable compositions?' he asks. I suppose that there is a degree of sarcasm in the use of the word 'perversions.' Both Ravenstone and Shackerstone are pure Yorkshire above the treble, but below the treble they differ vastly from the parent method, with a considerable amount of difficult backward hunting. Surely we are not expected to ring Yorkshire Royal every week?

'Does Mr. Speed really think these methods are ill-named? Both are names of Leicestershire villages, and Mr. Speed's criticism is certainly in very bad taste on this point.'

Lastly, Mr. Speed implies that these two methods produce poor music. In the case of Shackerstone, I should be glad to hear from Mr. Speed of a more musical composition within the limits of the falseness. As for Ravenstone, I think I have already answered that one earlier by stating its musical qualities (2nd never in sixths, 3rd there for 2 courses—which I like as it gives the dominant dodging behind with the mediant) and again I should be glad if Mr. Speed would let the Exercise know of some compositions of clean Surprise Royal methods (without the 2nd in sixths) without reference to the old firm of Messrs. Sedgley, Sedgley & Sedgley, Ltd. When Mr. Speed replies I hope he will inform the Exercise why he thinks these compositions are not reasonable.—Yours sincerely,

BRIAN G. WARWICK,
Hon. General Secretary,
Leicester Diocesan Guild.

LETTERS—Continued

COMMENTS ON RECENT LETTERS

Dear Sir.—Recent call change correspondence suggests that while Queen's is the old thirds, Whittington has a few 'variations.' Some bands jump to it and some attain it by a slow half-pull movement nowadays.

Many years ago, 'Turn again Whittington, Lord Mayor of London' was rung thus: 2, 3, 4, 2, 3, 4, 3, 5, 2, 4, 6, and repeat, on the back five of a ring of six, followed by 'Turn again Whittington, thrice Lord Mayor of London': 1, 3, 5, 2, 4, 6, 5, 3, 1, 2, 4, 6, and repeat. The tower was occasionally visited by one or other of the 'snobs' of the Exercise, i.e., one who doesn't remove his coat unless something more intricate than Cambridge is being offered, yet never did a 'snob,' who only entered the tower out of a Whittingtonian quality—curiosity—get away without admitting defeat. The local band were, incidentally, known to the younger set as 'The cat's whisker.'

Correspondence on page 28 reminds me of an incident recorded by a well known bishop. Passing a public house one afternoon, the door opened and a half drunken man staggered out with a not too gentle push—the door closed. Realising that he stood before a clergyman and maybe, hoping to recover lost dignity, he asked, 'Mishter, whish road do I take for heaven?' The answer, of necessity, was brief. 'Turn to the right, and keep straight on.' And that is just about as much as many learners get from their instructors when they ask for direction when they reach that most difficult time in between handling a bell and ringing changes in Plain methods. Instructors who refuse to teach which bells to follow must either have super intelligent learners, or must lose a lot who could become 'super snobs' or just useful standard method ringers. Teaching one or two with a good band can of course be a ropesight adventure.

Not that any advance in teaching methods is expected by anyone; I, myself, will remember being called by the late Dean Dwelly to answer why certain ringing was being done in a certain way—and, begging leave, quoted the late Lord Holden:

'Who seeks to please all men each way
And not himself offend,
He may begin his work today,
But heaven knows when he'll end.'

Mr. Percy Cave's letter recalls a time just after the war when the tower he mentioned was without a Sunday service band, and visitors, to the great joy of the Rector and the parish, kept the bells ringing by arranging Sunday afternoon peal attempts. One of the ringers on (I believe) this occasion went 'jumping mad,' the good Rector fearing an apoplexy or worse in the good man, left them: he told me afterwards: 'I only wanted to welcome them.' You really should have locked the door, Mr. Cave, and spared a man from being vituperated from his own belfry.—Yours faithfully,

E. L. HUMPHRISS.

PEAL WITHDRAWN

Dear Sir.—The committee of the Ely Diocesan Association wish to withdraw the peal rung at Histon, Cambridgeshire, on December 27th, 1958, on page 88 (1959) of 'The Ringing World,' as this did not conform with rules of the Central Council.—Yours, etc.,

THE GARFATH TABLET

Dear Sir.—With reference to the account of the Consistory Court held in Guildford on February 14th, the tablet bears the name of a member of my family, a man well loved and remembered by his family and his memory greatly respected by his many ringing friends in the Farnham and Hereford Districts.

I was greatly distressed when visiting the church to find the tablet gone, but was somewhat relieved to find it placed in the ringing chamber above.

I remember when I became a ringer at St. Andrew's, Farnham, being told by the older ringers that it was at first suggested that it be put in the ringing chamber, but on the suggestion of the then Rector it was placed in the church; he wished, in addition to it being a memorial to Mr. Garfath and recording events of national and local interest, to pay tribute to the ringers who, at that time, were being regarded more as church workers than had been the case for many years.

It seems two wrongs have been committed (both no doubt with good intent) which no right can efface, but it would be a great gesture if those in authority caused the wind of change to blow again, returning the tablet with the blessing of all to the place from which it was removed for no apparent reason.—Yours faithfully,

A MERE VARIATION

Dear Sir.—The latest letter by Mr. P. Amos appears to be a mere variation of his former ones, except that he has written it with a 6th place bob on this occasion. LEICESTER'S GREETING

Dear Sir.—Driving through Leicester on a recent Tuesday morning, I was waved at enthusiastically by an elderly (hatless) gentleman on the pavement, who had evidently spotted the bellringer's badge on the front of my car.

Owing to the traffic and the fact that it was some seconds before I realised why anyone should wave to a complete stranger, I'm afraid I did not stop, but would like to thank whoever it was for his greeting, which brightened up an otherwise tedious journey of six and a half hours.—Yours faithfully,

N. I. WRIGHT.

Morpeth, Northumberland.

SHERWOOD YOUTHS

A meeting of the Sherwood Youths Society was held on February 25th at West Bridgford in the afternoon and Lenton in the evening. About 20 members and visitors from as far as Balderton, Greasley, Derby and Keyworth took part in ringing methods, including Yorkshire, Double Norwich, Siedman and Cambridge at Lenton. We were glad to see Mr. and Mrs. Buswell, from Keyworth.

THE NORWICH ASSOCIATION

Southern Branch

Over 40 ringers and friends attended the annual meeting of the Southern Branch held at Bunwell on February 4th. The service, which was conducted by Rev. D. H. Mee, had many references to bells and their ringers.

Following tea in the school, Dr. P. H. A. Jonason presided at the meeting, supported by Mr. Nolan Golden (president) and Mr. W. Love (general secretary and treasurer of the Association).

The officers for 1961 were elected as follows: Chairman, Dr. P. H. A. Jonason; secretary, Mr. C. F. W. Philippo; Ringing Master, Mr. W. G. Saunders; Standing Committee, Mr. F. C. Arnold and Mr. H. B. Fuller; Branch Committee, Miss B. Syrett, Messrs. C. R. Catchpole, W. J. Flatt, L. J. Minns and F. C. Roper.

Next meeting, Redenhall, April 29th. It was decided to hold an evening meeting each month, the first of which will be at Pulham Market on March 4th.

HERTS COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Northern District

The annual District meeting was held on a dull, windy, rain-spattered afternoon, so perhaps it was not surprising that few came to Hitchin if they were only just recovering from influenza or just about to succumb to it. The bells were raised and rung until the arrival of a photographer from one of the local papers, shortly followed by the Rev. G. N. O. Walsh, who conducted the service, with Mr. P. Wells at the organ. In the prayers the Vicar particularly mentioned those who were unable to be at the meeting because of sickness.

An excellent tea had been provided by Mrs. C. A. Agg and her helpers, members of the local tower, at Church House. At the business meeting which followed Mr. A. R. Agg was chairman, and Miss J. Sanderson deputised for the District secretary, Mr. Buck, a victim of the flu.

The District report was encouraging. The quarterly meetings were a success, particularly in August at Wallington, and membership had been maintained. Sunday service ringing had slightly improved, despite Norton's silence (due to new places and times of services). Coltered bells were to be recast and rehung, the first major restoration since Norton in 1947. Later in the meeting a grant of £10 was made from the fund. The combined bands of Sandon, Rushden and Wallington were making steady progress. Mr. W. Lawrence, of Stevenage, had completed sixty years of service to that tower; Mr. and Mrs. W. Barrett, of Barley, celebrated their golden wedding on December 12th.

Only 37 quarters were rung, compared with 49 the previous year. Peals were the same as before, 21, including the first peals of Kelshall and Codicote Surprise Major.

District officers for 1961: Secretary, Mr. E. G. Buck; 'R.W.' and Press representative, Miss J. Sanderson; General Committee, Mr. L. B. Scoot and Mrs. C. A. Agg; District Committee, Messrs. G. W. Critchley, B. L. Marks, C. M. Orme, D. Taplin and Miss J. Sanderson. Mr. C. A. S. Harwood is District Ringing Master.

New members: the Misses E. Jackson (St. Ippolyts), B. Learner (Hitchin), P. Langley (Stevenage), and the Rev. D. C. Ritchie (Norton). Non-resident life members: Mr. M. Stanforth (Stotfold), Mr. B. Woodruffe (Fairfield, Derbys), Miss P. Bourne (Accrington), and Miss H. K. Snowden.

Ringing continued until 8.30 when the octave was lowered in peal.

BEDFORDSHIRE ASSOCIATION

Biggleswade District

The meeting of the Biggleswade District at Clifton on February 18th was well attended by ringers from all parts of Bedfordshire and Hertfordshire. In all 19 towers were represented.

After 1½ hours of ringing the Rector, Rev. E. Hall, conducted Evensong, with Mr. M. Lockley at the organ. Tea followed in the Church Hall, during which the business meeting was held, with the Rector in the chair. Southill was chosen for the next meeting, on March 11th.

Mr. G. Mayes was Ringing Master and methods rung ranged from Plain Bob and Grandsire to Bristol and Spiced Surprise. The special methods were Rutland Surprise and Double Oxford Major. The successful meeting was brought to a close at 8.30 p.m. when the bells were rung down in peal.

30 Years Ago

'R.W.' March 6th, 1931.—

A hundred and thirty years ago a peal of 7.001 '5.040 Double Bob Royal 10-in' was rung at St. Mary's, Nottingham, conducted by William Doubleday Crofts. There were two men on the ninth and two on the tenor.

On March 8th, 1737, only a little more than twenty years after the first recorded peal, the Norwich men rung a peal of 12,603 Grandsire Caters at St. Peter Mancroft in 8 hours 15 minutes.

A hundred and thirty years ago a peal of 7.001 Grandsire Caters was rung at Kingston-on-Thames.

'History and Art of Change Ringing,' by E. Morris, is published.

UNIVERSITY OF LONDON SOCIETY ANNUAL DINNER

THE annual dinner of the University of London Society was held on January 21st at the Ayrton Hall of Imperial College. A full day's ringing had been arranged at three well known London towers, and a demonstration of the Carter ringing machine was very ably given by Mr. Douglas Hughes to a privileged gathering at the Science Museum.

The dinner itself was an excellent four-course meal, and had a record attendance of 74 members and friends. The chair was taken by the president, Mr. Philip Gray, whose lively sense of humour and witty interjections did much to make the dinner an enjoyable and memorable one.

He extended the Society's welcome to visitors from Reading and Southampton University Societies, and remarked that it was the first time the dinner had been held at Imperial College, thought by some to be the premier college, although he himself was aware of a claim for that title by the Royal College of Needlework!

Dr. D. N. Layton, in proposing the toast of 'The Church,' said he, too, was of the opinion that Imperial College was an excellent and appropriate venue for the dinner, since the first meeting of the Society, in 1945, was held there, five members being in attendance. Also Imperial College is closely connected with the Imperial Institute, with a ring of bells in the 'pile of architecture,' and he hoped the authorities would not condemn the tower as unsafe without the buttressing of the adjacent buildings.

He then exhorted everyone to be grateful to the Church as the guardian of our faith, and pointed out that although the Church provides us materially with bells for ringing it is a service to the Church, as well as a hobby, so that the toast to the Church can be very properly drunk.

In reply, the Rev. Maurice Dean, Rector of St. Olave's, drew attention to the recent international change ringing in the upper circles of the Church, involving the transference of the Archbishop of York to Canterbury, and the Bishop of Bradford to York, and reminded everyone that moves in the upper hierarchy influence the lives of both Church and Community. He noted especially that all Archbishops make a great contribution to international confidence, and that Dr. Fisher, with his unique capacity for turning the flanks of difficulties, illustrated this in his recent visit to Rome, which he hoped would bring closer mutual understanding.

The Rector hoped that one day a Commonwealth of Churches would be formed, and said he thought the Prime Minister had shown remarkable statesmanship in his choice. In conclusion he thanked the Society for its goodwill, and especially its contribution to St. Olave's, which he hoped would be returned in some small part.

Mr. Nicholas Martin, Master of the Oxford University Society, in proposing the toast of 'The Society,' gave a witty address, which included a clever analysis of the Society. He looked upon 'London' as the capital, having an essential criterion of more 10- and 12-bell towers per square yard than elsewhere. By 'society' he conjured up a picture of keen, efficient young ringers, categorised into a Master, secretary, 'friendly' treasurer, and the 'plebs.' The Master he considered to be a glorious, impregnable individual, who issues orders, but who becomes easily harassed when hunting round to find members to ring peals. This, he pointed out, led to the creation of a Society of liberal-minded, individual individuals.

Mr. Michael Rose, the Society's treasurer, in his carefully prepared reply, took the theme of the difficulty in gauging to what extent a visiting ringer could be regarded as 'competent,' without hurting anyone's feelings. He illustrated this with a reference to a peal in the West Country, at the end of which one of the less expert ringers apologised to the conductor for missing his sally halfway through; the conductor, however, remarked that this was his only well-struck blow in the whole peal.

BIG ARRAY OF GUESTS

Mr. Geoff Pratt, proposing 'The Guests,' expressed the Society's thanks to Mr. Albert Hughes for his kind interest in the Society, and for offering another tower where the bells are to be soon reopened, and to Mr. D. Hughes for ably demonstrating the Carter ringing machine.

He thanked Mr. Michael Morton, Master of the College Youths, for his renewed interest in the Society, and Mr. Dennis Beresford, Master of the Cumberland Youths, to whom he extended the Society's wishes for another year of improved ringing. On behalf of the Society he welcomed A. Tumber and P. Wilkinson, Masters of the Southampton and Reading University Societies, as it was the first time that representatives from these Societies had been invited. He apologised to Mr. John Baldwin, Master of the Bristol University Society, for a clash in the two University dinners, that was luckily prevented. He congratulated Mr. Nicholas Martin, of Oxford, on his excellent speech, and pointed out that he could not travel around London much to find ringers, since the distances involved were too great (up to 10 miles). He welcomed Mr. James Taylor, Master of the Cambridge University Society, adding that his own home town was Cambridge, and that they were old friends.

Mr. John Baldwin, in replying for the visitors, thought the London Society was probably one of the most flourishing Societies connected to a University, and expressed his privileged feelings to extend the guests' thanks. He considered this a compliment to his own Society.

Mr. Philip Gray, in his concluding speech, spoke of the uncertainty of the summer tour, which had now been provisionally decided and was to take place in Cheshire and North Wales.

The majority of the company then adjourned to a local ale-house, where stories were told, and both old and new acquaintances made. Thus ended a memorable and enjoyable day in the Society's history.

NOTTINGHAM UNIVERSITY SOCIETY ANNUAL DINNER

The first annual dinner of the Nottingham University Society was held on February 18th. During the afternoon eight towers, in and around the city, were open and attracted good crowds of visitors. Undoubtedly the largest numbers of the day were at All Saints', where the bells have recently been reopened by the Society, and the ringing was followed by Evensong, conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. J. N. D. Perkins. The dinner, attended by 60 ringers representing a large number of Societies and Guilds, was held in the Portland Building of the University. After the meal the chairman, Mr. Bruce Grainger, proposed the loyal toast and introduced the speakers. The health of the Society was proposed by Mr. Dermot Roaf, of Cambridge, secretary of the Universities Association, who welcomed N.U.S. into the 'big nine'—a select body of those Universities holding a beltring dinner. Mr. David Friend replied on behalf of the Society and spoke of some of the Society's activities during the year.

The president, Mr. Paul Taylor, proposed the health of the guests, and welcomed especially the Rev. and Mrs. J. N. D. Perkins and the Rev. N. Cribb, curate of All Saints'. Mr. Dermot Roaf, Mr. A. York-Bramble and representatives from the Universities of Sheffield, Cambridge, Southampton and Bristol, as well as representatives of the Society of Sherwood Youths and city ringers. Mr. Perkins replied, and in a witty speech spoke of the gratitude which his church owed to the Society for their efforts. He hoped that the happy association of the University with his parish would long continue.

In conclusion, the chairman thanked everyone for their support and especially the secretary, Mr. Martin Bishop, for all the arrangements he had made. He hoped that next year's dinner would be as great a success.

OBITUARY

MR. WALTER J. PREBBLE

In his 94th year, and several months after an operation, Mr. Walter J. Prebble, of Hythe, died in hospital on February 16th.

Although not a peal ringer, he was of great value as a regular and dependable service ringer. He started beltring at Stowling Church on four bells at the age of 14, and spent most of his life in Hythe, taking an active part in ringing as late as October, 1957.

On the occasion of his 90th birthday, in July, 1957, thirty ringers and friends from neighbouring towers attended the celebration, and were entertained at the vicarage. In the evening a quarter peal was rung in his honour. Always good humoured and young in heart, Mr. Prebble's chief joy in life was beltring. He was a guest on the annual outing of the Hythe ringers last July.

The funeral service at St. Leonard's Church, where he had rung for so many years, was attended by eleven of the local band. Half-muffled touches of Grandire Triples were rung before and after the service.

MR. J. W. TOYNE

On February 12th, Jack Toyne, of Messingham, died in the War Memorial Hospital, at Scunthorpe. Born at Grayingham, Lincs, in 1906, he went to live at Messingham more than 30 years ago. He became a member of the church choir and did many practical jobs in and around the church and church hall.

It was only after the 1939-45 war that Jack learned to ring, but his enthusiasm was such that Messingham bells were soon made into six and there was a young band being taught to ring them. Jack became their leader and his example of regular attendance at meetings, practices and ringing for service impressed itself upon the rest of the band. In all he rang only about half a dozen peals before in his mid-forties he became a victim of arthritis. This, together with other illnesses, caused him to give up ringing—but he was quite often to be seen at meetings talking to his many friends. Many ringers in North Lincolnshire owe much to Jack Toyne for his kindness, his enthusiasm and his constant courage.

On the day of his funeral a half-muffled 720 of Plain Bob Minor was rung at Messingham, with the following taking part: Stanley Whiting 1, Jill Allison 2, Rev. Michael Freeman 3, Michael Whiting 4, Jack Bray 5, George Moody 6.

UNIVERSITY OF WALES SOCIETY

On February 17th and 18th the U.W.S.C.R. held a short tour of mid-Wales, based at Aberystwyth.

Friday morning—fair weather, fine scenery, five-to-a-car, full speed for Barmouth. After adding five ropes to the three already there, we rang a peal of Plain Bob Major. We 'lunched' on tea and biscuits, and hurried back to ring at Llanbadarn. An abortive peal attempt was followed by general ringing, including a miscalled touch of Oxford Bob Triples which, surprisingly, came round by itself.

On Saturday, a much enlarged party set off for Machynlleth, the only eight in the day's programme. The next stop was in Newton—an excellent light six. After lunch we went southwards to Llandinam, a somewhat rough but quite ringable six, which, incidentally, is not listed in Dove. Here we attended evening service, and then went on a couple of miles to Llanidloes, where we found a good ring of six awaiting us.

At this tower, we held a business meeting. Mr. Colin Lewis was elected secretary for next session and Mr. Trevor Lewis re-elected as Ringing Master. We also acquired four new members.

After the meeting, we went on to the last tower, Nantmel, where a brief ring sufficed us before parting to go our various ways.

APPLETON RECORD STILL REMAINS

The attempt to beat the Appleton record of 21,363 Grandshire Caters in 1922 at Grundisburgh last Saturday was called off. According to the national Press, 5,759 changes were rung.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION Maidstone District

The first quarterly meeting for 1961 was held at St. John the Baptist's, Harrietsham, on January 14th. Ringing commenced sharp at 3 o'clock, nearly 20 members having been welcomed on time by the local captain, Mr. J. Betts. By service time the ringing chamber was crowded, some 40 odd ringers having arrived.

A very pleasant service followed, conducted by the Rev. Mr. Finch. During this a course of Grandshire Triples was rung in place of an address. Mr. J. Betts then invited the company to his home and entertained them with a most sumptuous tea in the running buffet style.

Dr. John Hatcher, general secretary, presided at the meeting and expressed his pleasure at the large number present.

Mr. A. Waddington, District representative, presented his report on the recent committee meeting held in Maidstone.

Twelve new members were elected; also Miss Barbara Manship was elected a non-resident life member.

Closing the meeting, Mr. A. Waddington thanked the Vicar for his welcome. Mr. and Mrs. J. Betts for their most generous hospitality and Mr. W. Mattingley, of Linton, for playing the organ for service.

HARSTON, CAMBS.—On Feb. 12th, 1,260 Plain Bob Minor; M. Turner 1, I. G. Stracey 2, C. W. Cook (cond.) 3, C. J. Bird 4, J. G. Gipson 5, M. E. Stracey 6 For Sune Eucharist

WINDSOR, BERKS.—On Dec. 24th, 1,260 Grandshire Triples: Monica Blagrove 1, F. T. Blagrove 2-3, A. J. Glass 4, K. Buckingham 5, B. Taylor 6, E. S. T. Farr (cond.) 7, J. Painter 8. Also on Jan. 14th, 1,260 Stedman Triples: F. S. T. Farr (cond.) 1, Monica Blagrove 2, A. J. Glass 3, G. Jenkins 4, K. Buckingham 5, B. Taylor 6, F. T. Blagrove 7, J. Brooks 8.

SOUTHWELL DIOCESAN GUILD

Mansfield District Annual Meeting

Fifty-five ringers representing 13 towers attended the meeting held at Mansfield on January 21st. The very foggy weather kept the attendance lower than usual. A short Evening song was conducted in church by the Rev. H. Pettegill, and an excellent tea served in Grove House by the local ladies.

Mr. S. W. Fossey, District chairman, presided at the business meeting. The following five ringing members were elected: A. L. Rawson, F. G. Rawson (Selston), M. Kirk (Kirkby), and Miss A. C. Rooke and Miss I. Cooke (Warsop). Rev. A. M. P. Wilson, of Mansfield, was elected an honorary vice-president.

The secretary's report and balance sheet for 1960 were read and approved. Officers were re-elected en bloc, viz: Chairman, S. W. Fossey; honorary secretary, D. H. Rooke; committee, A. J. Brown and D. J. Beach; Ringing Master, H. T. Rooke.

Next meeting at Kirkby, March 25th; District cup contest, Selston, May 27th. It was decided to invite J. H. Pailing and W. L. Exton to act as judges.

The meeting agreed to Mr. H. T. Rooke's proposal to hold a joint meeting at Warsop, on either July 1st or 8th and to invite neighbouring Societies to participate. Towers open: Creswell and Cuckney in afternoon, Warsop afternoon and evening, Mansfield and Mansfield Woodhouse evening. Provisional fixtures for the District for one year in advance are to be printed in the Guild report. As far as possible meetings will be held on the fourth Saturday of the month. The Bell Fund collection amounted to £1 1s. 3d.

Ringling was resumed after the votes of thanks in a wide variety of methods up to Yorkshire Surprise.

D. H. R.

BEDFORDSHIRE ASSOCIATION

The February meeting of the Bedford District was held at Elstow on February 4th. Ringing during the afternoon and evening was in a variety of methods, ranging from rounds and Plain Bob to Cambridge Surprise and York Surprise.

The Rev. Peter Hartley took a short service, which was followed by tea and the business meeting.

A WILTS AND GLOUCESTER OUTING

From Lechlade, Glos. we have received a report of an outing on February 4th, which started from Cricklade (a difficult five), on to Ashton Keynes and crossed into Gloucestershire, to ring at South Cerney (6) and Siddington (6). After lunch at Preston, there was sunbathing by some on the roof at Amprey Crucis, before tackling the hard-working five. Hatherop's were regarded as the best bells of the day. The party were too tired to bring forth the splendour of the heavy eight at Fairford and the heavy six at Kempford. Thanks are accorded to tower captains and incumbents for permission to ring.

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

No. 2604 Vol. LVII

FRIDAY, MARCH 17, 1961

Registered at the G.P.O. for transmission as a newspaper. 8d.

THE NIGHT BEFORE

THERE is not a man or woman who has not during life experienced that feeling of pent-up excitement on the eve or just before an unusual event. We remember such occasions, particularly during our school days—the concern before an examination, a great sporting event, or before a first peal. Later in life came to us those dramatic minutes to zero, for within our ranks there are many who saw active service in one of the world wars, when eternity seemed so much nearer. But there are occasions far happier—the night before marriage, when both parties are expecting so much from life and hoping and praying that they will not let their partner down.

It is with such feelings of almost quivering excitement that we approach our Jubilee issue. There seems so much to be done still, like the bride putting the final touches to her trousseau. Will the missing articles arrive, or those two special advertisements? Having done special numbers before, the Editor is familiar with many of these difficulties, but each one brings its own particular problems. One thing is rigid—the time of going to press. It is no use anyone ever ringing up after 12 noon on a Tuesday with news, correction or advertisement: it can't be done. Rarely a week goes by without the Editor or his assistant having to say: 'Next week.'

We are endeavouring to make this 50th anniversary issue something special. Something never provided previously for 'The Ringing World' will be an outside cover to the 24-page issue, with the name in gold, and instead of the usual leader a facsimile of the front page of No. 1 will be reproduced. A number of special articles have been written. Naturally, much of the issue will centre on the founder and first editor, Mr. John Sparkes Goldsmith, his life and Southover Church, where he learnt to ring, being the subjects of two special articles.

Another article deals with the life of the second editor, Mr. J. Armiger Trollope. And what a loyal and faithful lieutenant he was to Jack Goldsmith! There are articles from his pen in the earliest numbers—indeed throughout that first and long editorship of over 30 years he was constantly writing, and during the second war period largely wrote the paper. The affection of the dying editor to Jim Trollope is conveyed in a note written just before his last operation: 'A thousand thanks, Jim, for all your kindness and for your friendship.' The story of J. A. T. has been written by one of his pupils, a man on whom 'the mantle of Elijah' has fallen and an esteemed and fluent writer on ringing topics. There has also been a digging into the life of the present editor.

The success of a newspaper depends very largely on 'its faithful readers.' There are more than 50 of that original band of No. 1 readers not only still with us but still able to enjoy the paper week by week. While we have only been able to devote a few lines to each of these ringers—perhaps a telling phrase—there is sufficient to recall them to their friends. Some of these are great men of the Exercise; others are quiet, humble men—there is only one woman—whose service to the Exercise has been confined to their own tower, District and Guild. To the present editor they are equally as precious as those who make headlines, and such an issue gives one an opportunity of giving them somewhat belated recognition.

There are other articles to make this issue memorable—a survey of the ringing press, the improvements in ringing in the past 50 years, some well-written sonnets and other features, together with the peals, quarter peals and news of the week. We feel certain that there will be a big demand for this anniversary number. It is an issue that will appeal to a much wider circle than our ordinary readers, and we ask tower secretaries and others to place their orders at once if they are not to be disappointed.

We cannot conclude this last Editorial of the first 50 years without an expression of the spirit of thankfulness. An unseen guiding hand has enabled difficulties to be surmounted. The outbreak of the first World War was a big setback to the financial stability of the journal, and few men have faced life with greater courage than the founder. It was not merely these difficulties of production; his wife was for many years an invalid, and it was with loving care he watched over her. The wisdom of those four leaders—Messrs. E. H. Lewis, A. A. Hughes, G. W. Fletcher and R. Richardson—who acquired 'The Ringing World' for the Central Council and met the substantial accumulated debt to the printers must be acknowledged with gratitude. The chances of survival of the journal are sounder with the resources of the Central Council behind it. We can see no reason if the Exercise continues to extend its goodwill, and there is a readiness to support the journal indirectly, why it should not enter into the second half of its century with courage and optimism. 'The Ringing World' has one great mission—the knitting together into one family ringers the world over. And let it not be forgotten that their pleasures should constitute a dedicated art to His service. Such thoughts imbued some of our brethren 50 years ago, and the torch they lit is being carried fearlessly into the great unknown by men and women of this generation. Yet, it is a great privilege for us to serve our Church in our art and our own special family through the pages of 'The Ringing World.'

HEADS OR TAILS

By JOHN SEGAR

Ringers couple together two words of opposite meanings. The extent of Plain Bob Minor can be rung with calls at Wrong and Right. Stedman has Quick and Slow bells. In and Out are used for various reasons. Handstroke and Backstroke is the first pair of opposites to be explained to a learner. No instructor would use these words the wrong way round, but among those who conduct or compose Surprise Major, there are many who persist in using the wrong word of a pair. In 1960 'The Ringing World' printed forty-six place notations. These were the subject of an article by Mr. Wilson. At the end of thirteen notations there was information about the falseness of the methods. I am sorry Mr. Wilson did not deal with this also as it was confusing. We were told that 12436578 is a Course-head and also that it is a Course-end. Somebody must be wrong.

1	123456
	153624		X
2	156342	B	153624
	146253

Over fifty years ago I prepared some small cards for composing Minor. Between the head and the end of card No. 1 there is an X for the ten changes missing from a lead of twelve. Alternatively the X is for twenty-two changes between the head and end of a treble bob lead. The method need not be named as the card is correct for forty-five methods. If it represents a plain method there is a choice of five cards, any of which is legitimate if placed second.

My selected No. 2 has 156342 at its head. When a conductor calls a bob much too late one of the protests will be from the ringer who says he had made seconds before the call. This is exactly the fault with card B. Seconds had been made before the line was drawn and it is too late for a call. Those who say 156342 as the first lead-end based upon the drawing of the line as in diagrams and card B should admit that a call is impossible and anything longer than a plain course is also impossible. Those who prepare cards, as Nos. 1 and 2, can play with sixty of them and obtain extents in many methods, separately or spliced. Mr. A. R. Pink and one other, not identified, are correct in stating 12436578 is the head of a course. The remainder say it is the end. They are in the majority but they are wrong.

SHEFFIELD AND DISTRICT SOCIETY

The annual meeting of the Sheffield and District Society was held at Ranmoor on March 4th, when the melodious ring of 10 bells was put to good use in methods up to Stedman and Double Norwich Caters, and London and Bristol Surprise Major. Reports of the secretary, treasurer and Ringing Master revealed a satisfactory year's working. One major change in the rules, which was carried unanimously, was the election of a new president each year, thus providing an opportunity for suitable members to serve the Society in this office.

Mr. Fred Cardwell, of Handsworth, was elected president, and Mr. Frank Brunt, of Thrybergh, president-elect to serve as president the following year.

Next meeting, Ecclesfield, April 8th.

TEN COMMANDMENTS FOR THE BELLRINGER

REMEMBER Wednesday evenings to keep them wholly for the practice.

THOU SHALT NOT tarry without the gates.

THOU SHALT hearken to the sound of thy striking and keep thy bell within her place.

THOU SHALT NOT bump the stay of thy bell lest it break and thou be carried up to the heavens.

THOU SHALT NOT follow one rope too long, for the eyes are the windows of the mind and if they be glued to one rope how shall the mind be lighted.

THOU SHALT NOT rely completely upon thy helper, but cultivate thine own understanding, for he that listeneth for his helper from place to place shall stumble and perish, but he than counteth his own places can in no wise strike in the wrong place.

THOU SHALT learn thy methods well.

THOU SHALT NOT contemplate thy homework nor thy housework nor thy boy friend nor any characteristic of thy fellow ringers, lest when the bob is called thou be taken unawares and be utterly confounded.

THOU SHALT NOT break any covenant with the band to follow after thy wife nor thy best girl nor thy second-best girl nor thy friend nor thy enemy, for the band will not hold him worthy that turneth his 'yea' to 'nay.'

HONOUR thy band and thy Ringing Master and forget not that regular attendance is also expected of thee on Sundays.

P. F.

At the conclusion of the peal at Leicester Cathedral on February 27th, Harold G. Jenney was heartily congratulated on ringing a peal again after a lapse of two years. Harold, now in his 80th year, has rung many peals of Maximus in different methods, but this was his first peal of Yorkshire Surprise Royal. He has been a member of the Cathedral Society for nearly 50 years, and now very rarely misses practice and Sunday service ringing. He is a true 'Servant of the Exercise.'

BELFRY GOSSIP

A good friend of the ringing fraternity has been Mr. F. L. Cobb, publicity officer to the B.B.C. We wish him many happy years of retirement. His successor is Mr. Brian Mulliner.

Northampton Grammar School has now entered the list of ringing schools. A band of their pupils, all under 16, rang a quarter peal at Gayton.

Mr. W. F. Gladman, who learnt to handle a bells 40 years ago at Studham, Beds (four bells), has just rung his first quarter at Totternhoe. He was reintroduced to ringing by his son-in-law and daughter (Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Sinfield).

The current issue of 'Ringing Towers,' the journal of the N.S.W. Association, contains an appreciation of the work of Mr. John Cummins, who has resigned, after six years in office, the post of editor. Since his resignation there has been a delay of five months in publication. The acting editor is Mr. W. D. Watson, 17, Norton Street, Randwick, Sydney, N.S.W.

The name of Mr. Ronald Marlow, of Fordingbridge, should be associated with the peal of Grandsire Cinques rung at Christchurch Priory, on February 25th, as he organised both this and the previous attempt, made on October 29th last year. Unfortunately, Mr. Marlow was prevented from ringing in the successful attempt owing to illness. Mr. Alan Buswell, of Portsmouth, now staying in Bournemouth, completed the band at short notice and had the satisfaction of ringing his first peal on 12 bells at the first attempt.

An alarming and unfortunate experience occurred at St. James' Church, West Teignmouth, on Sunday, March 5th. A tremendous thud was heard while ringing was in progress. An inspection revealed that the gudgeons of the tenor had broken and the bells was found lying in the pit. It will be some time before ringing can take place in this tower. Birmingham ringers, who were due here on April 11th, will, in consequence, be unable to ring.

The peal rung at Holbeach on February 13th (see page 154), was Biddenden Surprise Major and not as printed.

At the annual meeting of the Elloe Deaneries at Spalding (see page 161), the number of new members elected was 17 and not seven as printed.

Appealing for ringers, the Rev. D. V. Clatworthy, Vicar of Pensford with Publow, said that with watches, clocks and radio there was only one reason left for ringing church bells today, the best of all—'to sound forth the glory of God. You, who read this, will you learn to be a ringer for the love of God, or are you already thinking of an excuse?'

Sympathy was expressed at 'The Henry Johnson' commemoration dinner on Saturday week, to Mr. & Mrs. Alan Ainsworth, Mr. J. E. Anderson and Miss I. Thompson. They were motoring down from Newcastle to attend the function when, after travelling 50 miles, the big end of the motor car failed. In consequence hopes of Birmingham had to be abandoned.

There was a court sequel on March 7th to an incident that followed the practice meeting at St. Cuthbert's, Great Salkeld, Cumberland (6), on January 11th. Mr. William Mallinson (70), retired bank official, who pleaded guilty to having an offensive weapon with him, was bound over to keep the peace. The allegation was that as Mr. Thomas Lambert (80), the tower captain, was leaving the church Mr. Mallinson rushed at him and prodded him in the thigh with a sword. In court Mr. Mallinson said the sword was never out of the sheath, except to show it to the bus driver.

Crayford, Kent.

RINGING TOURS

The following coach tours have been arranged, and applications for tickets, accompanied by remittance, should be made as soon as possible and not later than May 6th, 1961, to E. H. Edge, Bradwell House, 177, Congleton Road, Scholar Green, Stoke-on-Trent.

WHIT SUNDAY, May 21st.—Leave headquarters 1.45 p.m. Ringing at Broughton (8), Eccleshall (8), Stone (8), Uttoxeter (8). Arrive back at headquarters 9 p.m. Total cost, inclusive of high tea and gratuities, 16s.

WHIT MONDAY, May 22nd.—Leave headquarters 9.30 a.m. Ringing at Alton (8), Bake-well (8), Buxton (8), Cheadle R.C. (8), Leek (10), Youtgreave (8). Arrive back at headquarters 8.30 p.m. Total cost, inclusive of lunch, high tea and gratuities, 24s.

WHIT MONDAY, May 22nd.—Leave headquarters 9.30 a.m. Ringing at Clive (6), Hodnet (8), Market Drayton (8), Whitchurch (8). Arrive back at headquarters 5 p.m. Total cost, inclusive of lunch and gratuities, 17s. 6d.

INDUSTRIAL VISIT—WEDNESDAY, MAY 24th

Arrangements have been made for a party to tour the factory of Josiah Wedgwood and Sons, Ltd., on the morning of Wednesday, May 24th. As numbers are strictly limited applications for inclusion in the party should be sent as soon as possible to E. H. Edge, Bradwell House, 177, Congleton Road, Scholar Green, Stoke-on-Trent.

MR. FREDERICK LEAKER'S 80th BIRTHDAY

In recognition of over 60 years' ringing at St. Mary Redcliffe, Bristol, two presentations were made to Mr. Frederick Leaker in the belfry on February 19th. Both gifts were of premium bonds and were made by the Vicar. One was on behalf of the churchwardens and the other from his ringing friends. In making the presentations the Vicar referred to Mr. Leaker's 80th birthday and his record of ringing in Bristol, of which he could be truly proud. Returning his thanks, Mr. Leaker said he hoped to be spared to serve his church for years to come.

His birthday was on the previous day, a happy day for Fred socially and in the tower. Alas, an attempt for a peal of Stedman Triples on his favourite bells, the old Temple eight, now installed in Bristol Cathedral, came to an untimely end after 1½ hours, and an attempt at a quarter was thwarted by the arrival of the B.B.C., two courses from home.

Peals of Cambridge Royal at St. Mary Redcliffe, Stedman Caters at St. Stephen's and Bristol at Kingham were scored as a tribute to him.

SWANSEA AND BRECON GUILD

Ringing was of a high standard at the quarterly meeting of the Southern District, held at St. Mary's, Swansea, on March 4th, and ranged from Doubles to Cambridge Major. About 30 ringers attended.

Canon Harry Williams, in his address at the service, told a graphic story of Bishop Gwynne's 50 years in the Sudan. Mrs. Whitworth and her lady assistants were thanked for a very nice tea, which was followed by a short business meeting.

PERSONALITIES OF THE EXERCISE - 11

MR. JACK L. MILLHOUSE,
Lincoln Diocesan Guild.

One of the most prolific peal ringers in the country since the war has been Mr. Jack L. Millhouse, of Lincoln. He has taken part in some really remarkable performances, and yet, at the same time, he has not forgotten to help any member of his Guild who wishes to ring a peal in some simple method. His own tower of St. Giles', Lincoln, has always been a strong tower for teaching beginners, and continually providing good ringers for Lincoln Cathedral, and other towers in the District. The constant progress made in this tower gives him as much pleasure and enjoyment as does calling a peal of Spliced Surprise with a more seasoned band.

Jack, who was born on April 17th, 1916, first learnt to ring at Lincoln Cathedral in 1934, when they decided to teach a new band for the Church of St. Giles. This was the old St. Peter-at-Arches, in the centre of the city, and was removed to a new housing estate. He was made a member of the Cathedral Company in 1936, then under the brilliant leadership of the late John Freeman, who was a first class conductor. He joined the St. Giles' tower, when the bells were installed in 1938, and he has always rung for four Sunday services ever since.

His first peal was on the treble at Navenby, Lincs, on February 23rd, 1935, and his first peal as conductor was at Elston, Notts, on September 19th, 1936, this being seven Minor methods. He scored his first Major as conductor by calling Double Norwich at East Markham, Notts, on October 23rd, 1937. His present total of peals, to the end of January, is 836, of which he has conducted 440.

Among the interesting performances he has taken part in are peals of Spliced Surprise Major in 16, 22 and 32 methods, which were records at the time, and he has conducted quite a number of four or more methods. In 1948 he took part in the present record length of 14,144 London Surprise Major, rung at Heydour, Lincs, and he has been a very keen exponent of Spliced Minor ringing, having taken part in peals of 70, 100, 104 and 125 methods, the last three being then records.

Since the war, in which Jack served in the Royal Navy, he has turned his attention to handbell ringing, and his rung a lot of peals of Stedman Caters and Cinques, and more recently has rung peals of Spliced Plain Major in hand, in 27, 36, 42 and 50 methods, conducted by George Fern, though some of these have unfortunately turned out to be false. He called the first peals of Yorkshire and Pudsey Royal and Maximus for the Lincoln Guild, and has also called the first peal for the Guild of nearly 50 different Surprise Major methods.

Jack is employed in the furnishing business, and is a member of St. Giles' P.C.C., as well as Ringing Master of his church, and holds the same office for the Central Branch of the Guild. He has been a member of the Central Council since 1960.

He is a keen supporter of the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths, and has rung quite a number of peals for this Society in his own area. He particularly enjoyed the Cumberland peals of Stedman Cinques at Southwark Cathedral, and Cambridge Maximus at St. Martin-in-the-Fields. He has rung peals on all the rings of eight in Lincolnshire, except four, and has rung peals on a large number of the 12-bell towers in the country.

Jack, being of a jolly and friendly nature, is very popular with all his many friends. He sets an example to all keen peal ringers of what their duties should be. He teaches beginners, holds various offices, and calls peals in any method to suit the band and occasion. Everyone will wish him good luck for his 1,000 peals, which are now not far distant.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Ashford District

Some 40 ringers and friends enjoyed ringing on the fine six (tenor 18½ cwt.) at Smarden on February 25th, on the occasion of the Ashford District meeting.

Miss V. Relf reported on the praiseworthy efforts being made by the Tenterden ringers, backed by the borough civic authorities, in promoting a Local Industries Exhibition, in aid of the Bell Restoration Fund. She also reported that arrangements for the Association dinner, to be held at Tenterden on September 30th, were well in hand.

Mr. A. Waddington showed members the long-awaited certificate of membership, now available at 1s. each. He had also made available programmes of meetings and events in the District for 1961, artistically produced by the Printers' Guild of Ashford North Modern Boys' School, at the instigation and expense of Mr. J. Batchelor.

Mr. Batchelor voiced the thanks of the gathering to the Rev. J. Watts, Vicar, for conducting the service; to Mr. F. G. Deveries, the organist, and his choir for lending their services; to Mr. P. Reeves, for making the local arrangements; and to mine host and hostess of 'The Chequers,' for providing such an excellent tea.

C. T. H.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD

About 50 members and friends attended the quarterly meeting of the West Dorset Branch at Whitechurch Canonicorum on February 25th. Ringing included the usual Triples and up to Surprise Major, under the leadership of Mr. D. Bishop, Branch Ringing Master.

The Guild service was conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. G. V. Syer, and the lesson and address given by Rev. Canon C. Carew Cox. The Rev. J. S. Arthur, Branch chairman, presided at the business meeting. A warm welcome was expressed to Preb. E. V. Cox and to a large number of visitors. Grateful thanks were voiced to the local ringers and their wives for giving a wonderful tea.

Nine ringing members were elected from Thorncombe. The honorary secretary stated that Thorncombe had nearly half the money for a sixth bell, and it was decided to give the day's collection (£1 10s.) to this tower. A brief report of the general committee meeting was given and it was decided to run a coach to the Guild Festival at Calne, on May 13th. Next meeting, Powerstock, April 15th.

NEWBOLD-ON-AVON, WARWICKS.—On Feb. 10th, 1.260 Grandire Doubles: Bernice Frodsham (first quarter) 1. T. G. Pickering 2, Joan M. Cheney 3, C. Underwood 4, A. G. Eveleigh (cond.) 5, P. M. Edgson 6. Rung for Confirmation.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH, SHENSTONE

THE small village of Shenstone, Staffordshire, lies to the south-west of where two main roads cross, the A38 and the A5 being about three miles from the city of Lichfield. The two towers in one churchyard are well known landmarks for some miles; one, together with an attached 13th century doorway, is all that remains of a Norman church built on the hilltop, and demolished in 1852. The following year a new church, dedicated to St. John the Baptist, built in red brick faced in stone and capable of seating 600 people, was consecrated a few yards to the south of its predecessor.

Of change ringing history, Shenstone can boast nothing, as the bells have always been manned by call change ringers. Peals have occasionally been rung on them by visiting bands, however, but the writer has only been able to trace three as yet and additional information, if any, would be welcomed.

In August, 1909, the Rev. E. V. Cox conducted Holt's Original from the 3rd, in 3 hours 3 minutes with a band drawn from Lichfield. It only took 2 hours 49 minutes to ring Thurstans' Four-Part with a mixed band of whom the conductor was Thomas Bloore, ringing the 6th, in June, 1914. The last peal on the bells appears to be Parker's Twelve-Part rung on March 20th, 1937, in 2 hours 48 minutes, by the following ringers: P. George Golder (first peal) 1, Harold Smith 2, George E. Oliver 3, Howard Howell (50th peal) 4, Barnabas G. Key 5, Aubrey M. Pickering 6, Harry Boswell (conductor) 7, and Albert J. Hubble 8. Since the last war at least two attempts have been made by ringers from Lichfield, both lost through the shocking state of the bells.

It would appear that in 1813 the younger Thomas Mears supplied a ring of six, with a tenor weighing approximately 9 cwt. These bells, of course, were hung in the old tower. In 1864, John Taylor and Co. recast the tenor, and in all probability rehung the six for the use of the newer building. Interest in bells is evident by the fact that only the following year, J. Warner and Sons added a treble and tenor, at the same time recasting the 4th, the resulting eight being hung in a new wooden frame. The fifth bell must have been unsatisfactory as in 1898 James Barwell, of Birmingham, was recasting it, together with the 6th, and rehanging the whole ring on the Warner frame. Therefore we have four foundries, of different periods, represented in only eight bells, and one can imagine that except to the tone-deaf the resultant noise must have been most unsatisfactory.

The writer had the good fortune to ring on this collection of eight bells in April, 1951, but being only his 7th tower 'away' his bell tone knowledge was nil. It was soon observed, however, that the bells were very rough going and that their fittings and the ringing room were in a sad state of neglect. In 1953, the eight bells, being unringable, were removed to the Loughborough foundry. In view of the mixed and really bad composition of the bells, an agreement was reached for a new 'Minor' ring of three bells to be supplied in exchange for the old bell metal. (Apparently, since found to be so bad that not all could be re-used by the foundry.) The 'Minor' three bells were supplied together with new fittings throughout and hung on ball bearings. The Warner frame was retained, being in good condition but was strengthened where necessary. These bells have since been little used except as '5 minute bells.'

About three years ago a new incumbent arrived who was soon determined to see more bells in the church tower, and an order has now been placed with the Loughborough foundry to supply two new trebles to make up a 'Minor five,' these to cost about £500; this amount has already been found from within the parish. There is now an enthusiastic move afoot to raise the £380 necessary to pay for the addition of a new tenor, which will have to be about 9½ cwt. in A, to provide what should be an excellent example of a modern ring of six.

If present arrangements go according to plan, these bells will not hang silent through lack of ringers. The writer has volunteered to train the seven people, together with the Vicar, who have come forward to learn, and a weekly lashed clapper practice has commenced on the three bells in readiness for the imminent arrival of the new ones this year. During the past few weeks, these recruits have spent several evenings a week cleaning out about 10 years' accumulation of dirt, and in completely redecorating and refurbishing the ringing room, and are an example to all who regularly ring an dirty bellfries.

It will be obvious that any donations, however small, will be most gratefully received by the Vicar, Rev. J. Ormston, The Vicarage, Shenstone, near Lichfield, Staffs, towards the above efforts. The dedication and future ringing arrangements will be announced in due course in this paper.

C. M. S.

DURHAM AND NEWCASTLE ASSOCIATION

A programme of ringing from 2.30 until nearly 9 p.m. was arranged for the meeting of the Western District held at Winklaton on February 9th. There were two breaks—for the service, conducted by the Rector (the Rev. B. J. G. Fox), and the excellent tea, provided by local ringers' wives and the young girl ringers. All were appropriately thanked—Mr. W. Tyson, the Rector and Miss M. E. Marriott and the ladies.

The large attendance enjoyed the ringing, which ranged from rounds to Surprise Minor, Beverly proving to be most popular.

ST. PETER MANCROFT

The officers of St. Peter Mancroft Ringing Guild, Norwich, were re-elected at the annual meeting on February 13th. These are: Mr. A. G. Bason, Ringing Master; Mr. F. N. Golden, Deputy Ringing Master; Mr. C. Bird, secretary and treasurer. Mr. Christopher Sayer was elected a member, and the accounts showed a balance of £42 2s. 8d. Weekly practices are on Mondays, 7.45-9 p.m. Thanking the members for their loyal support to the church, the president (the Rev. F. Jarvis) said he would like to see more members of the church take up bellringing.

STANDARD NOT GOOD ENOUGH FOR RECORD PEAL

As briefly recorded in our last issue, the attempt for 23,111 Grandsire Caters at Grundisburgh, Suffolk, on March 4th, was called off by the conductor (Mr. Frank B. Lufkin).

In his report on the attempt, Mr. Lufkin writes:—

The attempt started at 8.10 a.m., and in the fifth course I called a bob a lead late so 'stand' had to be called. A fresh start was made and the difficult courses were rung satisfactorily, but near the end of the first part a trip occurred, which had to be corrected, and I considered this was not good enough for a record peal, so the bells were brought round and a peal of only 5,759 changes rung.

The band, during the afternoon, rang a peal at Stonham Aspal.

Thanks are due to:—

- (1) The ladies who supplied the hot drinks at the conclusion of the peal.
 - (2) The lady who supplied breakfast for four members, who arrived early.
 - (3) Mrs. Sylvia Pipe, for the lunches for the complete company, afterwards.
 - (4) Jim Pipe and Ron Steward, who acted as engineers and general organisation at Grundisburgh.
 - (5) The Rector of Grundisburgh for the privilege of the use of the bells, his welcome and his invitation to come again and finish the job.
 - (6) Mrs. Button for her part before the afternoon peal.
 - (7) Billy Button, for his welcome after the peal.
 - (8) To all folk of Grundisburgh and Stonham Aspal for their general welcome.
- Failure there was yet successful in making new friends and renewing old friendships, so a thoroughly enjoyable time was had by all. Thank you, Grundisburgh and Suffolk.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

East Berks & South Bucks Branch

About 70 ringers attended the monthly meeting of the East Berks and South Bucks Branch at Chalfont St. Peter on February 25th, when the Guild service was conducted by Canon McKenzie, who in his address spoke on the history of Chalfont Church and its bells. Mr. W. Birmingham read the lesson and remembered in prayers were Jesse Harrison (79), H. Buckingham (91), W. E. Yates (88), F. Sirkins (96) and G. G. Gilbert (73). A collection for the Guild Restoration Fund realised £1 4s. 4d.

Ringings were under the direction of Messrs. W. Cornwall and E. G. Swift and the Branch gave a welcome to Mr. G. Harris and three young ladies from Denham. Many thanks are due to Mrs. Swift and her helpers for an excellent tea.

E. G. S.

HERTS COUNTY ASSOCIATION

St. Albans District

A pleasant afternoon and a delightful 15th century church attracted a good number of District members to the meeting on February 18th, at Monken Hadley. During the afternoon and evening, ringing ranged from rounds and standard methods to more complicated methods, including Bristol and Yorkshire Surprise Major and Erin Triples.

The service, including an excellent address, was conducted by the Rev. Mr. Wood. The business meeting was held in the tower with Mr. G. Dodds as chairman, minus a chair. Wheathampstead was decided on for the next meeting and Hull Surprise Minor was chosen as the special method.

BROADCAST PROBLEMS IN VANCOUVER

Dear Sir.—We have been reading with interest the difficulties arising from the plans made to broadcast Christmas ringing in the British Isles. We, too, here in Canada, have had our problems.

During the four years our Society has been in existence we have tried to continue the good habit the early band at this tower established, of having these bells broadcast at New Year's Eve. The first two years C.J.O.R. radio station carried the broadcast quite successfully. Since then our broadcasts have not been as we would have wished.

This past New Year we were heard from coast to coast on C.B.C., but the commentator, I think in an honest attempt to use all the information he had acquired from us, talked all the way through the ringing!—which to this point had consisted only of the 12 strokes of midnight and a few call changes. At about four minutes after 12, just as our conductor called us into Grandisre Triples, the broadcast was switched to an 'on the street' report and dance music. That was the end of the bells! We were glad to note the several letters of protest which resulted. I am sure there are many English people in Canada who would have enjoyed hearing 15-20 minutes of change ringing.

Ours is also a problem of educating the public, as change ringing is a comparatively new art in Canada. I think next year we will decide what we want to do in a broadcast and then see if any of the local radio stations are willing to co-operate.

Another point: we have found that in a live broadcast—perhaps because we are keyed up by excitement—our ringing has far surpassed any we have ever done before!

We hope to improve these broadcasts and to this end we find the Christmas broadcast comments in 'The Ringing World' most helpful.—Yours sincerely,

(Mrs.) J. FRANCES BODIE,
Chairman.

The Vancouver Society of Change Ringers

DOES IT JUSTIFY A NEW NAME?

Dear Sir.—Plenty has been said concerning methods and variations in Doubles ringing in your columns recently, and I do not wish to add to the confusion, but I would like to point out that the only difference I can see between Lubbesthorpe and Zouche Surprise Royal is the substitution of 8064975231 for 4064972531 in the 17th change of the plain lead and a similar alteration at the 23rd. The plain course of each method is identical except for these two changes.

Surely this very slight alteration of the position of two bells for one blow does not justify a new name for the method, considering the large number of combinations available with 10 bells.

Even the variation from Plain Bob to Reverse Canterbury P.B. Doubles is a bigger step than that.

Perhaps Mr. Warwick would let us know whether he used the same composition for both peals and whether he regards the phrase 'Rung without previous practice' really justifiable, under the circumstances.—Yours sincerely,

CHRISTOPHER BROWN.

Portbury.

EMNETH BELLS

Dear Sir.—I noticed on page 96 it is recorded that the bells of Emneth, Norfolk, were cast by Thomas Osborne, of Downham Market, nearly 200 years ago. Emneth Church records, however, show that the frame dates back to 1619, in which hung three bells. Other bells were probably added as the timbers in the oldest part of the frame show room for more than three. Also large pieces of stone have been cut out of the tower wall in the shape of bell swinging arcs.

Another record shows that William Dobson, of Downham Market, in 1807, melted down some bells, then cast and hung the existing ring of five, the tenor of which measures 3 feet 5 inches and weights about 12½ cwt., in between the keys of G and G sharp.

It is not known what happened to the remaining bell metal, but it is believed that it was sold and the money used to replace the church roof, which had, at that time, been destroyed and the tower badly split. The tower is now held together by a chain at ringing chamber height (about 50 feet). The bell frame is the original one apart from various top additions. The tenor bell hangs in roller bearings, fitted by Bowell, and the top four in ball bearings, fitted by Mears and Stainbank about ten years ago. Until last year the 'go' of these four was bad, the third having a lop sided bearing and catching the frame at one side.

Thanks to the local tower master, Mr. A. K. Phillips, who has replaced clapper fittings, straightened the third bearing and added various iron fittings, the bells are now in good ringing condition and have been a delight to ring to two peals so far.—Yours, etc.,

GRAHAM J. MANN.

Elm, Wisbech.

BELLRINGER'S BADGE FOR GIRL GUIDES

Dear Sir.—With regard to Gerald Pidgeon's letter in 'R.W.' page 146. I do not agree with his suggestion that 'method ringing' should be abandoned from the syllabus, if the 'home' tower of the prospective candidate is a 'call change' tower.

Whilst I agree that call changes and the method of rising and lowering he mentions does much to better good striking and handling, it does little for ropesight and half pull changes.

In most areas in this country there are associations who hold ringing meetings, and in many places practice meetings, where a Guide would be made welcome to complete her proficiency test. Surely it is a test of her keenness to put herself out to learn method ringing, especially if it is not practised in her own tower.

None of the proficiency test badges are won without some effort. I had to 'travel myself' to complete my Rangers' Bellringer's Test (Community Service Bar) as my 'home' tower was a 'call change' tower. (Rangers are the senior branch of the Girl Guide movement, and the test is similar but more advanced.)

I would suggest to Mr. Pidgeon that the syllabus is set out by H.Q. to cover the majority, and to create incentive as well as further the art of bellringing, and that he leaves rules as they are, as his other two suggestions are rules for the Rangers already.—Yours sincerely, EDNA G. PANNELL.

Beaminster St. Mary's.

P.S.—Incidentally, Mr. Pidgeon's 'home' tower.—E. G. P.

MODERN CHURCHES AND BELLS

Dear Sir.—The Rev. A. S. O. Graham is despondent at the present day tendency to design and build churches without towers or any provision for the installation of bells.

In Bournemouth I know of at least four churches which boast fine towers, built with intention of housing a ring of bells; such bells have yet to be hung therein, although three of the churches were built over 70 years ago. Three of the four towers possess bell frames and in two of them a fine tenor bell is hung for ringing, but I doubt if the remaining bells will ever be installed unless a kind benefactor comes along with the necessary money.

This is a great pity, for one church, the newest of them, stands in a fine position and the bell music from the tower would be heard over a wide area of newly developed North Bournemouth. In addition to the above mentioned churches, there are at least two others which have bell towers planned and, indeed, the foundations for the same already built.

Mr. Graham also finds difficulty in opposing electric bells while accepting an electric organ. The answer to this one seems to me to be that the church organ has been accepted for many decades—ever since the 'box of whistles' operated by one person supplanted the musicians of the church orchestra.

We ringers are justified in resisting such a substitution in our belfries, but only as long as we do our best to ensure that the bells we do possess are rung regularly Sunday by Sunday.—Yours faithfully,

ARTHUR V. DAVIS.

Bournemouth.

THE 'RINGER'S GUIDE'

Dear Sir.—I am now preparing the third edition of 'Dove' and would be glad to have any genuine corrections as soon as possible. This applies, particularly, to practice nights, many of which have changed or been discontinued. I am anxious to show the practice night, where this is regular and unlikely to be changed.

The majority of my weights have been verified by the bell founders and I am aware that many of them differ from local legend, which is almost invariably wrong, so please do not write to tell me that 'Dove' is wrong because 'the locals say their tenor weighs a ton, or such-like.

Neither is it necessary to tell me of augmentations which have been reported in 'The Ringing World,' yet it is surprising how many ringers do so.—Yours faithfully,

R. H. DOVE.

THE HENRY JOHNSON COMMEMORATION DINNER

A LIMITATION of the number of diners to 60 resulted in a smaller gathering than usual at the 73rd annual 'Henry Johnson' commemoration dinner, held at the White Horse Hotel, Birmingham, on March 4th. The numbers were augmented after the meal. The chairman this year was Mr. F. W. Perrens, who is president of the Coventry Diocesan Guild. Everything possible was done for the visitors' comfort by Mr. G. E. Fearn, the Guild's honorary secretary, with a full programme of ringing. The highlight of the evening was the satirical verse written by Mr. Rodney B. Meadows, at the expense of prominent members of the St. Martin's Guild.

The toast of 'The memory of the late Henry Johnson' was submitted formally by the chairman, who said there was one incident he would like to relate, which took place at the first of these gatherings, following the death of Henry Johnson. The chairman was Mr. A. P. Heywood, afterwards Sir Arthur, who after extolling the virtues of Henry Johnson and his great achievements in connection with ringing, finished by asking everyone present to stand and repeat, 'that his memory may be ever preserved with us.'

After the toast had been honoured the chairman asked those who had been attending these dinners for 40 years to stand. Those who rose were Messrs. Albert Walker, A. Paddon Smith, J. Frank Smallwood, Edgar C. Shepherd, Bernard Ashford and Albert Jones.

The toast of 'Continue prosperity to the St. Martin's Guild' was submitted by Mr. Rodney B. Meadows, who, to the delight of the company, read some verses entitled 'The great debunker of Birmingham or Summoned by peals.' In a more serious vein he said there was no Guild held in greater affection than St. Martin's or one better able to teach them about good ringing and good company. He had learnt and was still learning more from the Guild than any other body, and he owed the Guild a debt he could not repay.

* AN ACHING VOID *

The Master of the Guild (Mr. Edgar C. Shepherd) replied and said wandering around the city recently he made his way round the back streets and came across a great vacancy where Bishop Ryder's Church once stood. There was an aching void and it came as a great shock to him to find that the church had gone. It was an historic church—a church where Frank Smallwood started his ringing and 40 years ago it was where their old friend, James George, was Ringing Master. He understood that the bells were still in the city and would eventually appear in another tower.

The Guild had had a reasonable amount of ringing success in the past year. A great deal of that was due to their secretary, and they to hand it to him for his enthusiasm and indomitable pluck in collecting ringing bands. He would like to associate with him their Ringing Master, Mr. John Pinfold, and it was a privilege to see the way he managed visitors and members on practice nights.

Mentioning that they had some very promising young people in the Guild, Mr. Shepherd said he saw a youngster of 13 on practice night first ring the third to Bob Minor. Then he rang the third to Stedman Caters and later Cambridge Royal. There was a new band at his own tower, Solihull, and a prosperous band at Aston. The lady ringers at King's Norton handled their bells well and were ringing Surprise methods. A great deal of credit was due to Miss Alice Greaves and Mr. Rodney Pipe.

The prosperity of a Guild did not rest on ringing performances, but other things. Punctuality was one—in not letting down seven, nine or eleven other people; in courtesy to those seven, nine or eleven people with whom one had the privilege of ringing. He was very proud of the young people they had in their Guild, and felt that wherever they went they would be good ambassadors of the Guild.

CONGRATULATIONS TO ERNEST MORRIS

They had had the privilege, in the past year, of entertaining other Guilds—the Railwaymen's Guild and the Universities' Association. He would like to send greetings from that assembly to Mr. Ernest Morris, who had completed his stupendous feat of 2,000 peals. It would not be long before someone else reached 2,000 peals and then they would have closer congratulations to give.

The toast 'The Visitors' was given by Miss Muriel Reay, who recalled that it was at a dinner in honour of the 80th birthday of Henry Johnson that the Central Council owed its formation. Sir Arthur Heywood had gathered together the leaders of the Exercise and after they had dined very well he put forward his idea of a Central Council, and as the company were largely his guests they could not refuse. They were unfortunate that some of their ringers from the north could not be with them as their car had broken down. From London, they had a number of ringers, including Mr. Wilfrid Williams and Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Collins, from the west Mr. and Mrs. Bowden, and from the east Mr. Jack Millhouse and his sister, and Mr. and Mrs. Walden. On behalf of the company she congratulated Mr. Walden on being appointed Master of the Lincoln Cathedral company.

Mr. Jack Millhouse, who replied, said he remembered, in his earliest days of ringing, visiting Birmingham for a week-end. He was told by his tutor to go to St. Martin's and tell Mr. Walker that his tutor had sent him. He was invited to ring the seventh to Stedman Cinques and was feeling very nervous when Mr. Walker, from the eighth, gave him great encouragement. Since then he had enjoyed St. Martin's hospitality on a great many occasions. For instance, there was nothing like a couple of peals in a day and a couple of hours of ploughing at Hall Green afterwards.

LOOKING BACK TO No. 1.

In submitting the toast of 'The Ringing World,' Mr. John McDonald appropriately referred to the forthcoming jubilee and that No. 1 of the paper was published on March 24th, 1911, price 1d. In the editorial of page 1, the editor set out to give the aims of 'The Ringing World.' These were 'to use its columns for the information, instruction and elevation of all those who take an interest in the art of change ringing, and in the business and social side of the organisations which promote the art.' The editor stressed that there were two things which would also contribute to the success of the paper. One was that the paper should be received promptly each week by ringers, and the other that there should always be up-to-date news.

The peals in the first number included one of Treble Bob Maximus on the Kent variation rung at Sheffield. Included in the band were Clement Glenn, William Morris (conducting) and William Binger on the tenor. Another peal was Stedman Caters at Winchester, with Septimus Radford on the eighth and Alfred Pulling conducting off the tenor; Grandfire Triples at Erdington, Kent Major at Dublin, and Bob Major at Smethwick. In the same issue there were 10 peals, including one on handbells.

There were two big differences between the peals reported in that issue and peals rung today. One was that every peal of Minor was rung in at least seven methods. The other—and this was rather sinister—there were only three women ringers in peals compared with 40 in this week's issue—and that is excluding quarter and half peals.

An amusing item was a report of a touch of 1,008 Bob Major rung on handbells at Shifnal. The ringers stood—if that was the word—as follows: Smith (in the parlour) 1-2, Brown in the bakehouse) 3-4, Jones (down the cellar) 5-6, Samuel (in bed, and calling it) 7-8. Apparently, the names had been changed to protect the innocent, but the facts remained.

The issue contained a competition to get more subscribers for which the prize was a set of handbells. The post-free quarterly subscription was then only 1s. 8d., so it might be possible to buy sufficient copies and still show a profit. All of them should do their utmost to promote sales of the journal, not merely for the anniversary but to pay the debt they all owed to 'The Ringing World.'

Mr. T. W. White, in his reply, stated that a really attractive issue was being planned for the jubilee that would appeal to people not normally among the ranks of readers. He asked all tower and District secretaries to push this issue and send their orders forthwith. While they all naturally wanted to see a bigger circulation—it was now double the circulation ever enjoyed during the time of the first editor and 2,000 more than during Mr. Trollope's editorship.

It was with a sense of thankfulness, added Mr. White, that they looked back on the past 50 years, and he felt that it had been a great privilege to be editor. As a result he had gained a very large number of friends—not only in this country, but in all parts of the world. Only that morning he had received a letter from Sydney and another from Canada and during that week from Cape Town and the United States. These were not merely 'letters to the Editor,' but from friend to friend that created a bond of affection the world over.

The concluding toast of 'The Chairman' was proposed by Mr. J. Frank Smallwood and acknowledged by the chairman.

THE COMPANY

THE GREAT DEBUNKER or SUMMONED BY PEALS

By RODNEY MEADOWS

(Presented by him at the Henry Johnson dinner on March 4th.)

In a tower in the Midlands of England
An outspoken debunker holds sway.
He has no time for past reputations
Or for styles that don't follow his way.

I approached him one day on this topic,
'Surely Birmingham ringers are grand.'
He replied, and with scarcely a twinkle,
'There's not one that I'd have in a band.'

'Now take Border, a terrible mauler,
Arthur Pearson, he just calls the bobs.
And, as for those two lads from Handsworth,
Well, they're only a couple of yobs.'

'Did I say there were two lads from Handsworth?'
As a matter of fact there are three.

John Anderson's not a bad youngster,
'Till he starts scoring peals without me.

'Roddy Pipe's getting far too ambitious.
Spliced is fine, and I'm not one to nag.
But what's wrong with a good peal of York-shire?'
They all count one more in the bag.

'Albert Walker is no good on 12 bells.
Edgar Shepherd's all right—with his pen.
As for Haynes, he just comes when he wants to.
What on earth good is twenty past ten?'
In our Saturday peals in the winter,
When the ringing is not up to scratch,
I keep thinking, up there at the Hawthorns
There's a London band, watching the match.

'In Ralph Edwards we've quite a good striker
And his ringing shows no lack of guts.
I'll agree he's just fair on a tenor.
Any other bell, can't ring for nuts.'

'On 12 bells our ringing's appalling
And most of it's far, far, too slow.
I have been in some peals with young Hampton,
Where he hasn't struck one decent blow.'

'The Ringing World' may be essential,
But there's nothing much in it for me.
All those outing accounts, utter waddle,
Who wants to know where they had tea!'

I said, 'Surely you've good Sunday ringers?'
'Sunday ringers? I'd give them the sack,
Take Bill Froggatt, far too quick at handstroke,
Or Muriel, too slow at back.'

'Percy Richards afloat on the treble
Is not an encouraging sight,
Lloyd and Chaplin get awfully muddled
And Pinfold's a left over right.'

'If it weren't for the peals I keep fixing,
The whole thing would come to a stop.
John McDonald gets more and more casual,
While Sid Holloway just lives in his shop.'

'The ringers of old, at St. Martin's,
Were not the experts that one thinks.
It may be their performance was faultless,
If they rang nothing but Stedman Cinques.'

So, I turned round on our great debunker,
I said, 'George, I just don't understand,
Out of all this collection of ringers
There's not one you would have in a band?'

'Can no one come up to your standards,
Is there no one who does, or once did?'
He pondered, and said, 'Percy Laffin,
Maybe Laffin, and me, and Our Kid.'

30 Years Ago

R.W. March 13th, 1931.—
First peal at St. Martin-in-the-Fields was 6,006 Grandsire Cinques, rung by the London Scholars on March 14th, 1727, and on the following day, 6,314 in the same method was rung by the College Youths.

Sixty years ago 10,176 Oxford Treble Bob Major was rung at Kenninghall, and forty years ago the first peal of Duffield Maximus was rung at Birmingham.

RESTORATION AT ST.
MICHAEL'S, CORNHILL

ST. Michael's, Cornhill, London, is a church which has always held an honoured position in ringing circles. The present church was the last work of Sir Christopher Wren, and the stately pinnacled tower, said to have been inspired by Magdalen College, Oxford, was completed in 1721, when Wren was 90. It was here that the then record length of Stedman Cinques (8,580) was rung in 1861, to be followed in 1913 by a non-conducted peal of Stedman Cinques; here, too, that the first peal of Cambridge Maximus in London was rung in 1911.

But no major work has been carried out on the bells since the beginning of the century; some of them were known to be cracked and their 'go' was far from satisfactory. It was therefore decided when the gudgeon of the 11th broke, one Sunday morning in July, 1958, that this would be a good time to approach the church authorities with the suggestion that a complete restoration should be carried out.

It was felt that it would be a great pity if the unique tone and character of the bells were lost by having them all recast, and it was eventually agreed that only those bells which were actually cracked should be recast.

London ringers are very happy about the way in which Messrs. Mears and Stainbank have managed to preserve the character of these bells. The 6th, 9th, 10th and tenor (now 42 cwt.) were recast so as to blend in with the remaining eight, which were cleaned by sandblasting, and the result is a ring of twelve, with an individuality and grandeur of its own. The bells were rehung in an entirely new metal frame, which replaces the old wooden one. The louvres were blocked up at the same time, thereby eliminating one of the defects of the old bells, which was that some of the small bells, which were hung above the rest, used to 'shout out' above the others, which spoiled them for the person listening outside.

The work of rehangng was completed in October of last year, and since that time they have been rung every Sunday morning. The rehangng of the bells was only part of a great task of restoration, carried out by the church, which included the redecoration of the interior, major repairs to the organ, and cleaning of the exterior stonework. The redecoration included the ringing chamber, which, with its white walls, light blue woodwork and modern lighting, is now one of the smartest in London.

The church was crowded in the evening of February 14th, when the rededication of all these works was carried out by the Bishop of Stepney. Touches of Stedman Cinques were rung, before and after the service, by members of the Ancient Society of College Youths, and a quarter peal was rung the following Sunday morning to mark the event.

OBITUARY

MR. SIDNEY ROMANS

With regret we announce the death of Mr. Sidney Romans, of Gloucester, at the age of 92 years. Until a few years ago, when he was troubled with failing eyesight, he rang at Gloucester Cathedral and St. Mary-de-Crypt. He was the last founder member of St. Michael's Juniors, with whom he rang some of their first peals. In all he rang about 150 peals, conducting two.

He joined the Customs and Excise as a young man and his work took him to Wales, London and abroad. While in London he joined the Ancient Society of College Youths. On his retirement, in 1931, he returned to Gloucester and continued his earlier ringing activities. He was elected Master of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association, 1934-1938, having joined the Association 1887. He leaves a widow and two daughters.

The funeral took place at St. Catherine's Church, Gloucester, on March 1st and was attended by his widow and family friends. The Gloucester and Bristol Association was represented by Messrs. W. H. Trueman (Master), W. B. Kynaston and A. L. Barry (past Masters), C. W. Martin and T. Borham (vice-presidents), C. Rouse (general secretary), H. Newman, W. T. Cox, Mrs. W. Jones (representing Mr. W. C. Jones) and Mr. A. E. Waite.

MR. H. R. STEVENS

A well known Surrey ringer, Mr. Herbert Richard Stevens (known to his friends as 'Pop'), of 79, Station Road, Chertsey, died on March 4th, aged 91.

Born in April, 1869, and celebrating his diamond wedding seven years ago, Mr. Stevens did not commence ringing until 1906, when he was 37. For 10 years he was captain of the ringers of Chertsey Parish Church, and later became verger. At one time his family frequently provided five out of eight ringers at the church, the others being Miss N. Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. Crocker and Miss J. Crocker. He rang his last quarter on his 80th birthday and then blindness set in, which caused him to retire from ringing.

The funeral service was at All Saints' Church, Chertsey, on March 8th, and was followed by interment in Chertsey Cemetery.

TWICKENHAM, MIDDX.—At the Church of All Hallows, on Dec. 24th, 1,344 Plain Bob Major: Ann Muir 1, Margaret Westcott (first of Bob Major 'inside') 2, Jill Baron 3, R. Goodman 4, Gillian Neal Smith 5, Dr. A. J. Muir 6, Dr. D. J. Neal Smith 7, R. G. Leale (cond.) 8. Rung for the Feast of Christmas.

WEST HOATHLY, SUSSEX—On Feb. 3rd, 1,260 Grandsire Doubles: D. J. Tanner (first quarter) 1, J. A. Howard (cond.) 2, D. Martindale 3, J. Leonard 4, D. Slater (first 'inside') 5, A. Dawes (first quarter) 6. A birthday compliment to Alison Hilary, daughter of the 5th ringer, also a 21st birthday compliment to the conductor.

Mr. Philip J. Evans has rung peals of Grandsire, from Doubles to Cinques. The family was completed on March 2nd, with Triples at Broughton, Staffs.

THE BELLS OF ALDERTON, WILTS

It was Easter Saturday, 1959, that two ringers from Twerton, Bath, called at the little Church of St. Giles, Alderton, and inquired, from the people decorating the church, whether their bells could be rung. No one seemed to know, except to say that the bells had not been rung very much since the last world war, but we were sent to find the tower captain and only ringer left in the village, Mr. B. Watts. Having secured the key we ascended the tower but the bells would not move or swing because of twigs and rubbish, but Mr. Watts promised to clear the bell chamber if we would care to come back in a week or two. This we did and brought along enough ringers to ring all five bells.

The captain met us and explained that he had cleared the bell chamber of all the rubbish and no less than 47 jackdaws' nests and had now barred the birds' way with strong wire netting. The bells were rung up singly and then to a few rounds, all going well, except the rope on the fourth broke and the ringer fell in a heap on the floor.

Since then the bells have been rung a few times and one or two quarter peals were successful. On February 18th of this year, a full peal was attempted, but was brought round after 23 extents, owing to the second running dry, but the attempt on March 4th was successful and a good peal resulted.

It is interesting to note that the back three bells were rehung on ball bearings about 1930, but the front two still retain their plain bearings. The frame is good and strong, but some of the timber in the bell chamber floor has had to be renewed (after the writer fell through it and showered those in the ringing chamber with rubbish).

Now the bells in this beautiful village ring out once more, they are a tuneful ring outside, but a little loud inside. But thanks are due to all of those people who have helped to put these bells back into something like ringing order, especially Mr. Watts for his hard work, and Mrs. Watts for having the ringers in to tea everytime we have been to ring.

UNIVERSITIES' JOINT MEETING

Saturday, February 25th, was the occasion of the second joint meeting of Northern University Ringing Societies this session, when past and present members from Liverpool, Leeds, London, Manchester, Nottingham and Sheffield Universities descended on Sheffield.

During the afternoon there was ringing at Ranmoor (10) and Dore (8), and surprises included a broken rope and Spliced Major. The way in which about 40 people were transported from one tower to the next in five small vehicles was also rather remarkable. After tea there was two hours' ringing on the 12 bells at the Cathedral, where the excellent ringing chamber is ideal for meetings. Much of the ringing here was of a surprisingly high standard, and ranged from plain hunting to Stedman Cinques and Cambridge Royal.

Although the meeting officially ended at 8.30 p.m., handbells were still being rung at 1 a.m. in one of the local halls of residence—so ended a very successful event.

Our thanks to the local companies for the warm welcome we received in each belfry.

SATURDAY PEAL

The bells hang silent now but soon shall sound. For on this day eight ringers gladly meet. To make the bells to rise in merry round And ring a peal both well struck and complete. All stand ready now, salutes one by one Fly up to meet the bells and then descend; The hours go by until the setting sun The peal completed sees, and day to end. Well satisfied the men go on their ways, Tomorrow they again display their art. To tell the people that the day of days Has come again another week to start. A peal brings pleasure both to man and boy. But Sunday service ringing brings more joy.

CHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD Record Attendance At Wirral Branch A.G.M.

Over 100 ringers attended the annual meeting of the Wirral Branch held at St. Saviour's, Oxtou, on February 18th. Members were present from 14 Wirral towers, and there were visitors from Liverpool, Nantwich and Maccolesfield. Methods up to Cambridge Surprise Major were rung and the Ringing Master (Mr. T. Rogers) ensured that all present had an opportunity to enjoy a ring.

The Guild office was conducted by the Vicar (Rev. P. J. Pasterfield), who also preached. The local ringers kindly provided tea in the Parish Hall.

At the ensuing business meeting the following officers were elected: President, Rev. J. M. Lloyd, Vicar of Eastham; president-elect, Rev. S. G. Barton, Rector of West Kirby; chairman, Mr. W. R. Stanley (West Kirby); honorary secretary and treasurer, Mr. A. J. Martin (Oxtou); Ringing Master, Mr. T. Rogers (Wallasey); Assistant Ringing Master, Mr. C. B. Pemberton (Bidston); auditor, Mr. V. T. O. Boase (Wallasey).

The honorary secretary's report revealed continued interest in the art and a fairly steady influx of recruits. Eleven monthly meetings had been held and there was an average attendance of 63. A full social programme (dinner dance, two outings and a social) had been arranged during the year and thoroughly enjoyed.

LLANDAFF AND MONMOUTH ASSOCIATION

Fifty-five ringers attended the Llandaff Branch annual meeting, held at Cowbridge on February 11th. Ringing was supervised by the Branch Master, Mr. Alfred Hannington.

The service was conducted by the Vicar, Rev. E. C. T. Lewis, using the Association's form of service, and Mr. Alfred Morgan was at the organ.

Local ringers' wives prepared the excellent tea, which followed. At the business meeting, Mr. R. E. Coles was re-elected as Branch secretary, and Mr. Alfred Hannington was made the official nominee for the office of General Ringing Master at the annual meeting on Easter Monday.

St. Mary's Church, Whitchurch, was chosen for the next Branch meeting.

NORWICH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION Western Branch

Forty members, representing 18 towers, attended the annual meeting of the Western Branch held at St. Margaret's, King's Lynn, on February 25th. Among those present were the president (Mr. Nolan Golden), general secretary (Mr. W. Love) and Ringing Master (Mr. H. W. Barrett).

Ringing was under the supervision of Branch Ringing Master Mr. G. Cooke, and the service was conducted by Canon A. Aitken, who, prior to his address, extended a very cordial welcome to all present. The president read the lesson. Tea was prepared and served in the Priory Hall by relatives of the local band.

The chairman, in opening the business meeting, welcomed back the president and Branch secretary after their stays in hospital. He thanked the officers and members for their efforts during the past year. Eight new members were enrolled. The following officers were re-elected: Rev. R. G. Dodson, chairman; Mr. G. A. Cooke, Ringing Master; Mr. C. Tovell, secretary.

An interim meeting will be held at Great Ryburgh on April 8th, and the next quarterly meeting at Swaffham on May 27th. Dates for other meetings are August 26th, November 25th and February 24th. The usual votes of thanks were passed.

OUR AIM.

It is customary, whenever a new journal makes its appearance, for those responsible for its birth to offer some explanation to justify its entry into public affairs, or to make an apology for trespassing upon the public notice. Little explanation, we feel, is necessary to justify the coming of The Ringing World into a sphere in which there is a demand for a journal which shall record faithfully and promptly the doings of those engaged in the pursuit of bell-ringing.

If little explanation be necessary, still less is there need for apology. We do not hesitate to say that the legion of bell-ringers throughout the country have long been awaiting a journal which shall be in the truest sense a "newspaper," which shall reflect their opinions, which shall keep them in touch, week by week, with the doings of their colleagues throughout the country, and which shall cater for all grades of the Exercise—for those who are struggling with the early difficulties of Grandsire Doubles as well as for those who have reached the goal of ambition in the achievement of London Surprise or Cambridge Maximus; for those who are only upon the threshold of those intricate mathematical problems in Composition as well as for those who are steeped in the science, and whose delight it is to revel in a maze of figures complicated enough to turn the brain of the uninitiated.

We fully recognise the service which has been done in the past by other journalistic enterprises. Efforts involving self-sacrifice have been made by men devoted to the Art, but there never was a time when ringers generally felt that their requirements were more inadequately met than they are to-day, and yet bell-ringing was never more in the ascendant than at this moment. Great feats are being accomplished, which a few years ago were undreamed of, composers are constantly conquering new worlds, yet the interests of ringers are being, to a large extent, neglected. It will be our endeavour, with the co-operation of the ringers themselves, to remedy this position of affairs, and it is because of the demand that exists, and of which we possess ample evidence, that we feel no apology need be proffered in stepping into the arena to-day and appealing for the support of church bell-ringers throughout the country.

What is to be our aim? We intend to use our columns for the information, the instruction, and, we hope, the elevation of all who take an interest in the Art of Change Ringing and in the business and social side of the organizations which promote that Art. There are two things in the

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

No. 2605 Vol. LVII

FRIDAY, MARCH 24, 1961

Registered at the G.P.O. for transmission as a newspaper. 8d.

THE FAMILY LINK

By FREDERICK SHARPE
President of the Central Council

IN very few walks of life is there so much friendliness as in the Art of Ringing. It is one of the outstanding features which impress newcomers to the Exercise, and is a constant source of amazement to the laity. At any gathering of ringers this is at once apparent, and onlookers often express surprise at the interest we take in each other and of the knowledge we have of one another's activities. This is chiefly due to the influence of 'The Ringing World,' for our ringing journal has probably done more than anything else to knit together ringers into one big family. It is the one means by which we are able to keep in close touch with each other.

Today we celebrate our Golden Jubilee, and we do this in a spirit of great thankfulness, not only for the survival of our journal after passing through many crises and vicissitudes, but also in gratitude that it has progressively improved during the past half a century despite severe handicaps.

On March 24th, 1911, Mr. James Sparkes Goldsmith published the first number, and with very few exceptions publication has been continuous. Mr. Goldsmith owned and edited the paper until his death in 1942, when its ownership was acquired by the Central Council. Its affairs are now managed by a committee of the Council, under the able leadership of Mr. J. F. Smallwood. The influence of 'The Ringing World' on ringing cannot be over-estimated. Reports of peals and of other ringers' progress create a stimulus to greater efforts by many more. They arouse the initiative to compete and excel.

Of the many arts practised in the Middle Ages, few have survived, and notably among them is the Art of Ringing. For generations it was passed on like a true folk art from father to son, with no text books or standardised form of instruction. Yet, in its simple form, it spread throughout the length and breadth of the land. The 17th century saw the birth and growth of change-ringing, and this received its first great impetus through the excellent pioneer work of the early ringing societies, and through the writings and publications of men like Richard Duckworth and Fabian Stedman.

The 19th century saw the founding of diocesan and other territorial associations of ringers, the birth of the Central Council of Church Bell Ringers, and a further great expansion of our art. The need for a ringers' journal became apparent. Several publications appeared, and did much good work, but none of them survived. It needed a man with courage, foresight and personality to produce such a journal. Fifty years ago James Sparkes Goldsmith rose to the occasion, and the influence of the paper he founded was never greater than it is today.

The value of our journal in keeping ringers in touch with one another was probably never more vital than at the time of Mr. Goldsmith's death, occurring as it did during the grim years of the second World War, and during the wartime ban on ringing. At this time of crisis the journal was saved for the Exercise by the prompt action of those who with outstanding courage and determination undertook the responsibility for its continued publication, and few realise the magnitude of their task. The Exercise owes a tremendous debt of gratitude to Messrs. E. H. Lewis, G. W. Fletcher, A. A. Hughes and the late R. Richardson, who acted so wisely immediately after Mr. Goldsmith's funeral.

'The Ringing World' is a specialist paper, catering exclusively for the relatively small section of the public interested in bells and ringing. This creates problems not encountered in the ordinary course of journalism. Its readers, too, have many and varied interests in the different branches of our art. They also range from the raw recruit to the most advanced ringer. One of the most difficult things is to keep a true balance to suit the majority and yet to meet the needs of all in the limited space of 16 pages, and within the available financial resources. Our Editor and 'The Ringing World' Committee have these problems constantly before them, and to them also we owe a great debt of gratitude. The finances of the paper, too, create a constant need for vigilance, and have often been a great source of anxiety. We are not likely to receive an attractive take-over bid from a national newspaper. 'The Ringing World' belongs to the Exercise, and is run by ringers for ringers. Its existence is of vital importance to us all: without it we should lose contact with each other. We need greater support. We need the support of all ringers. A much greater circulation would make possible the publication of more technical articles and reports, and our journal would have a much wider appeal in consequence. We look forward to a new decade with confidence, desiring even closer ties with the Church it is our privilege to serve, and in gratitude for all past blessings.

HOMAGE TO THE FOUNDER AND EDITOR FOR 31 YEARS

AT the comparatively early age of 64 the ringing Exercise lost a man who was both a good ringer and at the same time a good journalist, two qualities which are come by only once in a generation.

Born on January 13th, 1878, at Southover, Lewes, Sussex, John Sparkes Goldsmith was the fourth generation to become a ringer. His father, who was parish clerk at Southover, died when John was quite a boy, and his mother took over the duties of parish clerk and started John on the right road by allowing him to toll the bell for deaths and funerals. As soon as Jack was old enough (in her mind) she almost insisted that he took up ringing. An apt pupil, Jack was soon to ring his first peal at the age of 15, when he rang the treble to Grandsire Triples on April 8th, 1893, to be followed by three more peals the same year. 1898-99 were Jack's most prolific years for peal ringing, for by the end of 1899 he had rung 132. At the time of his death his total had reached 463.

In 1901 he took part in a tour of Ireland, and called the first peal of Surprise rung out of England. This band consisted of John Buffery, William Short, George R. Pye, Isaac G. Shade, William H. Barber, John S. Goldsmith, Ernest Pye and William Pye.

With several ringing papers becoming defunct and the gradual decline in quality of 'The Bell News', John Goldsmith decided to start a new ringing paper, but no one would venture on such a task unless he was not only sure of himself but was also capable of handling the not inconsiderable problems that arise in the publication of a paper. After months of hard work the first issue of 'The Ringing World' was published on March 24th, 1911. Four days later the founder of 'The Bell News' (Hervey Reeves) died, having been editor for 30 years.

The background for this enterprise came from his previous journalistic training. He served his apprenticeship in Sussex and from an Eastbourne paper went to Woking in 1903, and was eventually in charge of 'The Woking News and Mail'. It was not long before a column for bellringers made its appearance in the paper. 'The Woking News and Mail' belonged to the Woodbridge Press, Ltd., and he persuaded them to be the printers of 'The Ringing World'. Throughout the 50 years they have been the only printers of the journal.

RINGERS' DAY

Four months after the first issue Jack Goldsmith proved that he was not only a ringer and a journalist but also an organiser of some degree. With the Festival of Empire in full swing at the Crystal Palace, London, Jack organised a 'Ringers' Day', which proved an outstanding success, ringers attending from all over the country.

Although the Central Council at their meeting at Whitsun, 1911, refused to recognise 'The Ringing World', he was by no means dismayed, and it is true to say that he gave the Exercise by far the best report of any Central Council meeting up to that time.

When World War I broke out, Jack had a very anxious time, as 'The Ringing World' was only just beginning to establish itself, and therefore had to find other work. After giving typing and shorthand lessons, he was appointed to be in charge of the Woking Food Office, and was later with the Inland Revenue Commissioners.

With the creation of the Guildford Diocese in 1927, Mr. Goldsmith was one of the leading lights in the formation of the Guildford

JOHN SPARKES GOLDSMITH
1878-1942

Diocesan Guild of Church Bell Ringers, out of the old Winchester Diocesan Guild, in the following year. He was the founder secretary, with the late Major John Hesse, as Master. In 1936, upon his resignation as secretary, he was appointed a vice-president of the Guild. Under his guidance the Guild was very firmly established. He was elected an honorary member of the Central Council in 1927 and remained a member until his death.

The tercentenary of the birth of Fabian Stedman occurred in 1951 and Mr. Goldsmith promoted, through 'The Ringing World', a memorial, which took the form of the restoration of the bells at St. Bene's, Cambridge, at a cost of over £500. The money was collected through 'The Ringing World'.

'A GREAT ADVENTURE'

The main break he had from the cares of editorship occurred in 1934, with the visit of English ringers to Australia. The party included W. H. Fussell and Rupert Richardson. The story of this tour he wrote, mail by mail, for 'The Ringing World', and it was afterwards published in book form under the title 'A Great Adventure'. Thirteen peals were rung, six being on handbells at sea.

Jack always regarded as an outstanding performance in his ringing career the peal of Grandsire Cinques at St. Paul's Cathedral, Melbourne. He was still weak from a bad attack of influenza when he was called upon to conduct the peal, the band being composed of six tourists and six of the local band.

He had other sea trips later, his last being in 1938, when he went to Egypt. He was at sea at the time of the Munich crisis—a wireless message was received, ordering the ship home at full speed, with all lights out.

On the outbreak of World War II John was placed in charge of Woking Food Office. Although that was a full time job he still found time to write his leading articles and supervise the 'make up' of 'The Ringing World'.

Early in 1941 he entered hospital for a serious operation, which was a success. In November of that year he attended the annual dinner of the College Youths, at which he proposed the principal toast, but complained afterwards of not feeling well. Returning home he took to his bed for some days, later resuming work at the Food Office.

HIS LAST RINGING

The last ringing J. S. G. did was on Sunday, December 14th, 1941, at Horsell, Surrey. The occasion was the 200th anniversary of the dedication of Horsell church bells. The wartime ban prevented the church bells being rung, but members of the Guildford Diocesan Guild were invited to take part in the service and ring handbells during it and after its close. Tea was served in the Vicarage, and before leaving the ringers rang another touch for the benefit of Mrs. Woodward (the wife of the Vicar), who had missed the ringing in church. The ringers were A. C. Hazelden 1-2, A. H. Pulling 3-4, J. S. Goldsmith 5-6, Mrs. Hazelden 7-8.

In February he was taken seriously ill and shortly afterwards resigned from the Food Office. A large number of Woking people subscribed and presented him with savings certificates. The ringers of England showed their affection and esteem by subscribing over £500. Before his final operation he left a note to Mr. J. A. Trollope thanking him for his services to the 'R.W.', particularly since the war and especially during his illness. 'I can now tell you that the paper has never really been a financial success... Once more, old man, a thousand thanks for all your kindness and for your friendship.'

His death took place on June 1st, 1942, and it was at Pyrford, where his wife is buried, that his funeral took place. Homage to his memory will be paid there, on June 17th next, by the ringers of England. There will also be a service in Guildford Cathedral, where the sanctus bell to the crypt chapel is a memorial to him from the Guildford Diocesan Guild, which he served so well.

He married in September, 1903, Miss Louise Baker, and her sister married the noted Sussex ringer, Mr. Keith Hart. For many years of their married life she was an invalid and his loving devotion and tender care towards her was admired by his friends. His sacrifices on her behalf were many. She died in 1938, leaving a son and a daughter.

One of the last letters he wrote expressed the hope that he would be able to attend the wedding of the present honorary secretary of the Central Council, but he unfortunately died 12 days before.

BEST CONTRIBUTION

Mr. C. Wallater, Willerhall, writes: 'The best contribution to ringing during the past 50 years is the continued publication of "The Ringing World".' He regards the greatest ringing event during the period the ringing of the Bristol Surprise Major record at Over.

THE TOWER OF JACK GOLDSMITH'S EARLY RINGING AND HIS COMPANIONS

By GEORGE P. ELPHICK

SOUTHOVER can justly be proud of two things: its bells, which are the finest ring of ten in Sussex, and having produced one of the most outstanding ringers of this century—the man to whom the whole Exercise owes a debt that cannot be measured—John Sparkes Goldsmith. The church and tower, as many members of the Exercise know, were very near to the heart of the late John S. Goldsmith, and are situated on the southern edge of Lewes, the county town of Sussex.

Southover is outside the old town wall and by the grounds of the ruined St. Pancras' Priory. The original church seems to have been dedicated to St. Pancras, being no doubt a timber structure of Saxon workmanship, and is considered by some authorities to have stood where the infirmary chapel of the Priory was later built. The stone altar of this chapel still remains among the overturned walls of the ruins. The Priory when completed must have been one of the most magnificent in England, as it was 420 feet long and had a vaulted ceiling above the high altar, 93 feet high. In 1537, when it was razed to the ground by order of Thomas, Lord Cromwell, it possessed five great bells.

OLD TOWER FELL DOWN

The parish church of St. John the Baptist, Southover, lies a few yards to the west of the Great Gate of the Priory and retains a 12th century arcade between the nave and south aisle. The first record of a tower is in 1620 where an old map shows one at the south-east corner of the church. As to bells hung in the old tower there is a record that the treble was the gift of Richard Colbrond soon after 1510. The churchwardens' accounts of 1560 confirm the presence of three bells and in the following year a ring of four. By 1697 the bells were in a bad way as was the tower, and the following year, on Sunday morning, February 6th, the old tower fell.

It is assumed that the bells were unharmed for we find that it took two men a day to lower them. In 1714 the foundations of the present western tower were laid and the building was carried up to the first loft at a cost of £240. The tower, now 58 feet high, is as steady as a rock, being built of chalk faced with brick and having two stone buttresses. The work appears to have been carried out by W. Stephens, a mason, who cut his name and the date, 1714, on a stone at the top of the north buttress.

It was not until 1738 that the parish decided to finish building the tower and at the same time to recast the four old bells and add two new ones. The four old bells weighed 31 cwt., and when recast with the new bells provided a ring of six, with a tenor of 15 cwt. 19 qr. 21 lb.

CAST AT WHITECHAPEL

These bells were cast by Samuel Knight at the celebrated Whitechapel foundry in 1738, the year before his death. Samuel, who was the last of his line, learned his trade at his father's foundry at Reading and commenced founding on his own in 1689. Between 1708 and 1710 he moved to London and took over the Whitechapel foundry. The frame and fittings were made by Robert Catlin, a carpenter and bellhanger by trade, who succeeded to Samuel Knight's business at his death. If his bells are a clue to Robert's character, he was a thorough, neat and tidy workman, as well as being an excellent ringer. For his name is mentioned several times in the peal book of the College Youths.

By 1778 two more bells must have been added, for it is recorded that on July 15th that year the first recorded peal on the bells was rung by seven ringers from Horsham and James Wilson from Cuckfield. The method was Grandsire Triples, and was conducted by Thomas Lintott, the leader of the Horsham band.

Benjamin Burfield has the honour of being the earliest local ringer to be known by name, having learned to ring in 1820 when he was 19 years old. A cobbler by trade, he lived at

THE CHURCH OF ST. JOHN THE BAPTIST, SOUTHOVER.

51, Priory Street, quite near the church. He lived to see a great change, for in 1839 the bells were recast by Thomas Mears. A fine ring of eight, with a tenor of 17 cwt. 1 qr. 20 lb. in E, was provided and the 3rd and seventh were maiden bells.

OPENING OF BELLS

The bells were opened on Monday, October 28th, 1839, at 11 a.m. by the local ringers. In the afternoon a quarter peal of Grandsire Triples was rung by a band from Brighton, conducted by a Mr. Tester, and this was followed by touches rung by bands from Uckfield, Waldron and Chailey.

It was to the Swan Inn that the ringers returned for dinner at 5 p.m. This may seem at first sight rather strange to all who have rung at Southover as the King's Head is regarded as the bell-ringers' inn. The King's Head is to us, even to this day, 'Jack's' home, the home of the first editor, John Sparkes Goldsmith.

Among the company of seventy or eighty were both churchwardens as chairman and vice-chairman, Mr. Eagles and Mr. John Verrall, who gave the fifth bell, the Lord of the Manor, Mr. William Verrall, who gave the seventh and tenor, and the founder, Thomas Mears. We have a portrait of Thomas Mears in the ringing chamber and by the twinkle in his eyes it appears that he knew how to enjoy himself. His presentation of eight handbells to the Guild was the surprise of the evening. These bells were soon put to good use, changes being rung on them.

THOMAS GOLDSMITH

Mr. Thomas Goldsmith, the newly-elected parish clerk, was one of the company. He possessed a copy of Shipway's Treatise on Ringing, which is now in the library of the Guildford Diocesan Guild. He was a wheelwright by trade, having his workshop opposite the church where now is a jobbing builder's small yard. His son, John Goldsmith, followed his father's trade and was the first licensee of the King's Head.

The next record of local ringers' names is on the earliest peal board remaining in the tower. Under the date December 6th, 1869, it records a peal of Grandsire Triples (HoK's Original) by the Lewes Society of Change Ringers. The names on the board are: T. Goldsmith 1, J. Brooks 2, C. Warner 3, J. Priory 4, J. Goldsmith 5, J. Box 6, J. Acton 7, C. Wren 8. The ringers of the 3rd and 6th were Brighton men and J. Brooks came from Chailey. This infers that the others were Southover men.

Thomas Goldsmith was then 65 years old and this is the only record we have of his having rung a peal. Three years later, Ann, his wife, died at the age of 70 years. Thomas also died when he had reached his three score years and ten, on April 12th, 1875, and was buried alongside the tower of his beloved church, leaving his son, John, who rang the fifth in the 1869 peal, to carry on.

JOHN SPARKES

On January 13th, 1878, John was presented with a son by Emma, his second wife, who was a Devon woman. He was christened John Sparkes, his second Christian name being his mother's maiden name. Little did his parents dream of the vital part he would be called upon to play in the Exercise. Of him it may be truly said that he had ringing in his blood.

Between 1883 and 1885 Southover was caught on the whirlpool of restoration so prevalent at that time. The church was enlarged by means of a new chancel, the old gallery at the west end was removed and the church reseated with oak pews. About this time the young ringers could not see eye to eye with the old. The old were content with call changes and the memory of the old Grandsire band, for ringing was on the obb, whilst the younger generation were ambitious to learn change ringing. The ringing fraternity throughout the land was in a state of turmoil, and out of it came reform; from a secular sport it came into its rightful place as a part of the work of the Church. In 1884 the tide reached Sussex and the Sussex County Association of Change Ringers was formed early in 1885.

THREE RINGERS

There were three ringers mainly responsible for the revival of change ringing at Southover—Robert James Dawe, Alfred John Turner and John Sparkes Goldsmith.

Alfred John Turner was born on October 12th, 1872, at Halland, and came to Lewes in 1880. He rang his first peal on June 27th, 1891, covering with the tenor to Stedman. It was about this time he taught Jack Goldsmith to handle a bell, a thing of which he was very proud. He joined the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths in November, 1894, and rang in all 387 peals in 52 towers. He was captain of the Southover Guild of Ringers for 21 years and died in his 72nd year on January 30th, 1944.

The first reference to young Jack Goldsmith with regard to ringing is in 1887, when he was nine years old, special permission being given for his release from Southover Day School for a quarter of an hour on saints' days to chime a bell for the 11 o'clock service. His mother had taken over the office of parish clerk when Jack's father died three years previously and it was she who insisted or inspired him to become a ringer. In time he learnt to chime three bells; a rope in each hand and one round a foot.

CALLED FIRST PEAL AT 16

Jack rang his first peal on April 8th, 1893, when he took the treble to Holt's 10-part of Grandsire Triples. In the same year he rang the treble to two peals of Plain Bob Major and another of Grandsire Triples. It was early in the next year that he rang his first peal 'inside' and soon after he rang his first peal of Stedman. By November 27th he called his first peal when he was but 16 years old.

In 1895 he rang in peals of Grandsire Major, Double Norwich Court Bob Major and Grandsire Caters. In the next year he rang in peals of Union Triples and Superlative and in the following year added Siedman Caters. Kent Treble Bob Major, Cambridge and London Surprise Major. He had the distinction of calling, for the first time, a peal of Superlative on his 21st birthday at Southover, and a few months after of ringing his 100th peal at Arundel.

While as a peal ringer he was outstanding, yet more outstanding was the quality of methods rung. All this time he was working hard at his profession, for on leaving school he was apprenticed to his uncle, who owned 'The East Sussex News.' He developed into an excellent reporter and an expert shorthand writer and typist. He married Louise Baker at Southover, on September 12th, 1903, and, of course, a peal was rung—Bob Major.

AT WOKING

Towards the close of 1903 he was appointed in charge of 'The Woking News and Mail' and soon afterwards became the manager. His opportunities for peal ringing became more and more curtailed as the demands of his profession increased. During this time he was weighing up the pros and cons of publishing an improved ringing paper. He knew the risk for he had seen two ringing papers fail. Finally, on March 24th he first published 'The Ringing World.' He aimed at giving up-to-the-minute news and punctuality in publishing and coupled with his flair for writing up material 'The Ringing World' was firmly established.

The First World War hit 'The Ringing World' rather hard, but Jack carried on by giving typing and shorthand lessons as well as later working in the local Food Office. To help over another difficult patch he worked for the Inland Revenue Commission. He still kept in touch with his home tower, invariably visiting it when in Lewes. His mother had a very warm spot in Jack's heart and usually a peal was rung at the parish church in honour of her birthday. On September 1st, 1923, he conducted the longest peal on Southover bells—5,929 Stedman Caters, which he also composed, being 77 times 77 changes and was rung in honour of his mother's 77th birthday. For her 80th birthday a peal of Cambridge Surprise Royal was rung. In March, 1931, he had the sad duty of laying his mother to rest, near his father, under the shadow of their much loved tower.

TO AUSTRALIA

In 1934, Jack's great ambition was realised when the Australian tour took place. This was the first break that occurred in the leading articles of 'The Ringing World.' There is no doubt that the voyage did him good, for he loved the sea and liked to have trips when he could, his last one being to Egypt in 1938.

The Second World War came and he went back to Woking Food Office to earn sufficient to keep his beloved paper going, which is a memorial to the greatest ringer Southover has produced, whose last ringing was on handbells at Horsell Vicarage on Sunday, December 14th, 1941. He died at the age of 64 and was buried alongside his wife at Pyrford church, leaving behind a son and a daughter, as well as his memory.

ROBERT JAMES DAWE

Robert James Dawe, or 'Bob' as we knew him, was born at Bishopstone, a small hamlet between Newhaven and Seaford, in 1870. He began his ringing career at Southover in 1889 and was a carpenter and joiner by trade. As a youngster he used to tramp each week to Ringmer, about three miles away, to learn his change ringing from the Rev. C. D. P. Davies, the curate. On May 9th, 1891, he rang his first peal—Grandsire Triples, Davies' 10-part—and about six weeks later his first of Stedman Triples.

In 1892 Bob Dawe moved to Eastbourne and two years later to Brighton, where he lived for the next 12 years and began his great friendship with Frank Bennett. He was Southover's contribution to the St. Peter's Surprise ringing band at Brighton and with them he rang in the first peals of Westminster, Norfolk, Bristol and Oxford Surprise Major ever rung.

He rang in all 483 peals, over 160 of them being rung at Southover and conducted 23. But far more important than his peal ringing was his service ringing. He was punctual and regular to the last degree; he also did good work for the Sussex County Association, being secretary of the Southern District for seven years and a representative on the Central Council from 1909-1911. He was captain of the Southover band when he died on January 4th, 1937.

The Southover Church Bellringers' Guild was formed on September 9th, 1898, and this followed a meat supper provided by the Rector, the Rev. W. E. Richardson. The Guild's first minute book records the following ringers being present: J. S. Goldsmith, M. Glascoe, T. Moppett, A. J. Turner, H. Mockett, W. Pelling, S. W. Shoemith, J. F. Stedman, W. Baker, G. Richardson, R. J. Dawe, C. Parker, J. Hillman and A. Stedman. The Rector was elected president, Jack Goldsmith secretary and Alfred J. Turner captain.

Jack remained secretary until he left the town on December 1st, 1902. His services were recognised on February 21st, 1903, when he was presented with a testimonial and a marble clock in appreciation of all he had done to place the Guild on a sound footing.

COMPTON BISHOP, SOMERSET.—On Feb. 14th, 1.260 Doubles (Reverse Bartholomew, Reverse Canterbury, Plain Bob and Grandsire): J. Brinson 1, H. Spencer 2, B. Peters 3, A. Hooper 4, H. Hooper (cond.) 5, J. Loxton 6. An 83rd birthday compliment to Mr. B. Hooper, also silver wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. A. Hooper. Also on Feb. 24th, 1.260 St. Simon's Doubles: T. Feltham 1, B. Peters 2, Ann White 3, H. Hooper (cond.) 4, J. Brinson 5, J. Loxton 6. Rung half-muffled in memoriam Mrs. Carpenter, interred this day. Also on Feb. 26th, 1.260 Reverse Canterbury: T. Feltham 1, Ann White (cond.) 2, B. Peters 3, A. Hooper 4, H. Hooper 5, J. Loxton 6. Rung for morning service, and 18th birthday compliment to Miss Ann White.

The years have moved on to Jubilee Since 'The Ringing World' began to be; And here we revive (amid hairs gone grey) The memory of that launching day.

For 'Unforgettable, Unforgotten,' John Goldsmith's wisdom had begotten This journalistic enterprise, This blessing to the Exercise.

Now, held in the Central Council's care, All ringers should take their rightful share In backing the Editorial Committee, Appreciative of their perspicacity.

And what of the Editorial Chair Whose occupant must full bravely bear The burden of wielding the 'pencil blue' Against an occasional protest or two?

To him, a fair-minded commendation Is due; along with real approbation For pages, bristling with wide variety, News, records, and comments too, in satiety.

And if the price now to some seems high, It could be lessened if they'd but try On this jubilee of its publication To double the journal's circulation!

All thanks, then, be offered to those who strive To keep the Art and the Science alive By this weekly paper. So here's 'Go ahead' To 'The Ringing World' yet through the years unread!

CONTRASTS

Metallic sounds invade the frosty night; 'Tis winter—and the bells sound strangely clear. Their crisp and frantic notes attack the ear From far away, their message all alight With urgency—as if to strike the dark And sleeping acres with their rhythm stark.

But now, 'tis summer, and the bells go gay Bestir the hazy pastures with their song— Their joyful music rides the hills, along The river bank, the woods and fields of hay. As if to welcome sun and sky so blue. With summer breezes, gossamer, and dew.

The seasons come and go, the bells remain, Reminding us of this, their own domain.

A. D. COOK.

Wychbold, Droitwich.

SONNET

From gnarled tower, attenuated spire, With crockets gay or broached gaunt and plain, The brazen arcs of sound rebound again Down squalid streets: impatient soaring higher To humble hamlets on the mountain top, They weave, to ears attuned, the silken strands Of polyphonic patterns. Countless bands Of toiling ringers watch with care the drop Of writhing ropes, interpreting with skill (Born of an age of practice) bobbing strands: A weird fantastic dance. Can other lands Boast of the pleasure or partake the thrill? While God gives me permission, there am I Flinging His music to His open sky.

THE HISTORIAN OF THE EXERCISE WAS THE SECOND EDITOR

BY WILFRID G. WILSON

The Exercise has always been fortunate in having among its members people who are expert in one or more of those aspects which are important to it. We must have, of course, experts in the industry of bell founding and tuning and bell hanging, but we have also had among our ranks members who stood out among their colleagues for their skill as ringers or conductors in the tower, as handbell ringers, as solvers of those mathematical problems which confront the composer, as antiquarians, as historians, as teachers in and out of the tower and as writers. No one would suggest that Mr. Trollope was an expert in all these branches of our art, but he was among the best in many of them. In the one which is probably of most use to posterity, that is the ability to write learnedly and expertly, and yet readably about the Exercise, he excelled.

Jabez Armiger Trollope, known to his friends as Jim, was born at East Dereham, Norfolk, in 1876, and educated at King Edward VI Grammar School, Norwich. While there he learnt to ring—not in the easy way that we do nowadays, but without help from existing ringers. What attracted him to bells and ringing? He himself did not know—perhaps it was a reaction from his strict chapel and family upbringing. But he has written that 'from my earliest infancy church bells came in some indefinite and mysterious manner to have had an influence over me.'

SELF-TAUGHT

However, he and his school friends, John and George Burton, came across a book by Benjamin Lomax (1879) called 'Bells and Bell-ringers,' which gave a very rudimentary account of ringing. And they began to work out changes experimentally before they had ever met a live ringer. They taught themselves to handle a bell and to ring changes on three bells at the 5-bell tower of Mountgate in Norwich, still without meeting other ringers. At the same time they started to make a set of handbells for themselves. The first attempt was a weird lot of contraptions, with two hammers, one on each side of a metal plate. Jack and I started for a 5,000 of Bob Singles on them, but we gave it up as altogether too monotonous and not worth while. (Surely still true.—W. G. W.) Ultimately they made a set out of door bells and cast the fittings out of zinc, after wood had proved a failure. In January, 1893, they rang seven 720's of Bob Minor on them—the first peal by all, conducted by J. A. T.

After that progress was fast. In April, joined by C. E. Borrett, they rang Bob Major 'in hand' and in June another, composed and conducted by J. A. T., and their first tower-bell peal, also Bob Major. Within 12 months, in addition to tower-bell peals, they had rung 'in hand' peals of Grandsire Triples, Major and Caters, Canterbury Pleasure Major, Bob Royal and what was for a long time the record length 'in hand' of 11,200 Bob Major, composed by J. A. T., and conducted by C. E. Borrett.

IN W. PYE'S BAND

His final peal total was between five and six hundred. He became a member of the well known band that rang at St. John's, Waterloo Road, before the 1914 war, and between the wars was a member of W. Pye's band that rang peals of Spliced Surprise in all numbers up to 12 methods, at a time when this was pioneer work.

He served in France in the First World War in the Royal Corps of Signals and many a postcard of his from the front was stopped by the censor, who did not recognise a peal composition as quite harmless.

The attraction that writing had from the first for him is shown by what he called his first 'very crude' attempt to write a book on ringing. This, written in 1894-5, and dedicated to the record handbell peal band, is a collection of compositions of Plain Bob on all numbers, from five to twelve. Divided into sections, according to the type of peal, it contains, among other composers' material, many of his own compositions, obtained in 1893, when he was 16-17 years of age. No wonder that about 1900 he was appointed by the Central Council as their representative to deal with problems in Plain Bob.

TECHNICAL WRITER

In 1897, aged only 21, he was elected a member of the Council representing the Norwich Association. This would be considered young for these days, let alone for the 19th century. In 1900 he was made an honorary member, a position he retained till his death. His work for that body is best shown by a list of the technical publications he helped to write: 'Collection of Doubles, Minor and Triples Methods,' 1907; 'Doubles and Minor,' 1931 and 1935; 'Plain Major and Caters Methods,' 1926; 'Triples,' 1935; 'Treble Bob Peals—Major to Maximus,' 1909. His services were enlisted by Miss Margaret Snowdon in the Snowdon series of books he wrote 'Stedman' and 'Standard Methods.' He was engaged on 'Grandsire' at the time of his death and this work was completed in his name by his two pupils, Ernest Turner and the writer, and published in 1948.

He set up home with his sister in Ealing in 1904. He joined the Ealing Amateur Photographic Society and became a silver medallist. When I first met him in 1926 he was in charge of the bells at Christ Church, Ealing, where he later became a churchwarden, and he taught Ernest Turner and me all we knew about ringing, and introduced us to the Middlesex Association, of which he was a vice-president. Visitors to the tower were always amazed to learn that the quiet little man ringing rounds, or helping a beginner, was the J. A. T., whose article they had read in that week's 'R.W.'

BROUGHT PAST TO LIFE

His greatest work for ringing was as a writer—both on the scientific side and as an historian of ringing and ringers. He had the ability to bring the past to life and to clarify complicated problems in composition. The amount of his printed work is far overshadowed by the quantity of his manuscript volumes and I hope in due course to preview extracts from them for the benefit of readers of this paper. Meanwhile I can only give a list of the MSS. which he left to the Central Council library and which will indicate the extent of his work in this field:

'A History of Ringers and Ringing in the Eighteenth Century'—written in the 'grand historical manner.' All bound in large quarto volumes—full of beautiful copperplate writing, with pen and ink drawings by the author of all the churches named.

Volumes I. and II. are not immediately available, but I will describe them at a later date.

Vol. III.—Deals with the name and origin of the Ancient Society of College Youths: compositions and chronology of the eighteenth century: London bells and towers in the 18th century and the general condition of the London Exercise in that century. (420 pages.)

Vols. IV, V and VI.—London Bells and Bell Towers. (618 pages, 660 pages and 640 pages respectively.)

Vol. VII.—London Ringers and Ringing in the 17th and 18th centuries. (634 pages.)

Vol. VIII.—Ringing in the Provinces in the 18th century. (527 pages.)

Vol. IX.—Dealing with 18th century methods, peals, compositions, etc., authorities quoted, bells in war, indices, etc. (662 pages.)

Vol. X.—The Clavis Campanalogia: compositions, 1750-1800: ringing at the end of the century, etc. (512 pages.)

Vol. XI.—Ringing in the Provinces at the end of the 18th century. (400 pages.)

Vol. XII.—An appendix—dealing with peal books, rule books, peal boards, chronology of events and peals, etc. (500 pages.)

BOOKS ON CHANGE RINGING

A Collection of peals of Plain Bob, 1894-5. Method Construction, four volumes. Bound. (About 1,000 pages.) Partly in MS. and partly cuttings from articles in the Ringing Press.

Surprise Major Methods, two volumes. Comprising the history and theory of Surprise Major and a collection of over 800 methods, with compositions. Written in collaboration with E. C. S. Turner. (About 1,000 pages.)

Notes by the way and other articles in 'The Ringing World,' from 1925 onwards. Seven volumes.

One final volume must be mentioned. A Bibliographica Campanorum, 1935, being a catalogue of books, etc., relating to bells, bell ringing and bell ringers. (308 pages.) All indexed. Showing the tremendous number of authorities from which he had obtained his information for his history and clearly of great benefit to future writers in our art.

His published book 'The History of the College Youths' was just a selection of appropriate extracts from his MS. history.

I have gone at some length into the matter of J. A. T.'s MSS., because it is only a knowledge of this which makes it possible to realise how he was able to keep our journal going, week by week, on the death of Mr. Goldsmith and at a time when there was a ban on ringing and, therefore, no meetings, no peals, no outings and almost nothing from which to produce a weekly paper. He had for very many years been a close friend of Mr. Goldsmith and a regular contributor to the Ringing Press.

EDITORIAL EXPERIENCE

In 1931, when the editor was a member of the party that visited Australia, J. A. T. had his first experience of editing the paper. During that time 'Notes by the Way' was a regular feature and at the end he wrote in 'R.W.': 'Tomorrow the editor will be back in England. It only remains for me to say how much I have enjoyed the brief time I have been in harness. Mr. White and I, who have jointly been responsible for the paper, have worked together in the completest harmony.'

Thus it was that during Mr. Goldsmith's last illness, as in previous emergencies, J. A. T. was able to fill the breach and never once did the paper fail to come out. Perhaps I can end by quoting from the letter which Mr. Goldsmith left behind for J. A. T.:

THE TORCHBEARER FOR THE LAST 15 YEARS

IT is said to be in the best tradition of British journalism that an editor should be an anonymous figure. How far this is appropriate when the journal is a specialist one is open to question, and indeed all three editors of 'The Ringing World' have been well known to ringers up and down the country. The first two were practical ringers of outstanding, all-round ability, whereas Mr. Tom White had gone far in his profession long before he became interested in bells. It is only natural, therefore, that few readers of this paper can have more than a slight inkling of Tom White's background and career, known personally though he is to ringers in all parts of the British Isles through his appearances at meetings, dinners and, of course, the annual gatherings of the Central Council. On such an occasion as this it is surely appropriate that the mask of anonymity should be lifted.

Thomas W. White was born at Guildford on July 22nd, 1894, the son of T. H. White, Editor of 'The Surrey Times.' He was educated at the Royal Grammar School, Guildford, and while he was there one of the most famous ringers of this century, Alfred H. Pulling, became the school caretaker. It is interesting to speculate on what might have happened if young White had come under his influence in those days, for the band at Holy Trinity, Guildford, was one of the foremost in the country.

After leaving school he went to the Woodbridge Press, spending some time in the printing and reading departments before becoming a junior reporter. Not long after this the First World War broke out and in the same year he joined the Queen's Royal Regiment, serving until May, 1919, and being mentioned in dispatches. He took part in 1915 in one of the famous landings of the ill-starred Gallipoli campaign, that at Suvla Bay, and later served for three years in Mesopotamia. On demobilisation he returned to 'The Surrey Times,' becoming chief reporter in 1923, and deputy editor in 1931. In 1946 he was appointed editor of the paper and became a director of the Woodbridge Press, both of which offices he still holds.

INTRODUCTION TO 'R.W.'

Mr. White's connection with our art began in this way: when John Goldsmith knew he would be taking part in the historic tour of Australia in 1934-35 he was able to arrange for J. A. Trollope to contribute the front page articles and for his own daughter to deal with the notices, but to undertake the editorial side he approached the Woodbridge Press to see if they would release Tom White. This arrangement continued for six months, and in the early days he was asked to report the College Youths' dinner. Mr. Trollope invited him to see the ringing that day at the church of St. Mary-le-Bow, Cheapside, and thus was born his desire to learn to ring. At the age of 40, therefore, when a good many of us feel disinclined to undertake much that is new, Mr. White became a pupil of Alfred Pulling's at Guildford, progressing well enough to ring his first peal, Grandire Triplex, in November, 1937. His total is a modest one, ten peals in the standard methods, but, of course, peal ringing has been only incidental to his service to the Exercise. In June, 1937, he was elected honorary secretary and treasurer to the Holy Trinity Society, a position he held until January this year.

Although Mr. White's official connection with 'The Ringing World' ceased for many years on John Goldsmith's return, his interest in the art it served thus continued to thrive. He had gone to Norwich with J. A. Trollope to report the Central Council meeting in 1946, and when the second major crisis in the life of the journal within a few years arose, with Mr. Trollope's resignation during the meeting, the obvious course was for the Editorial Committee of the day to ask Mr. White to take over responsibility for the next few issues. It is no criticism of his predecessors to say that from the first the hand of the trained journalist became apparent, and fifteen years later he continues in office with undiminished vigour and enthusiasm.

THE EDITOR

His task has not been an easy one—indeed this could no doubt be said of everyone who has edited a ringer's journal. Apart from the unfortunate circumstances in which he took over, his knowledge of the subject, as he confesses, was limited; no back numbers were available, and then and for some years afterwards paper restrictions were in force, necessitating much ingenuity, particularly when the rush of post-war peal ringing began to get into its stride, to overcome as far as possible the space limitations. He had not had many years in office when the finances of the paper began to cause anxiety, and the editor accepted his share of the economies which it fell to a newly-elected Editorial Committee to introduce.

VARIOUS CHANGES

Various changes of layout have been made to help towards these, such as the introduction of a three, instead of a two, column page setting, and the use of smaller type for notices and quarter peals. Mr. White does not claim to be perfect, indeed he freely admits that errors of one kind or another occur in most issues, though not all these can be said to be his fault. But like his two predecessors he has left his mark indelibly on the character of the paper. It would not be unfair to the memory of John Goldsmith to say that in his day 'The Ringing World' tended to cater mainly for those whom an august newspaper refers to as 'The Top People,' while under J. A. Trollope the emphasis was on the impersonal, and lay more in the historian's direction—necessary, though much (but not all) of this may have been during the war years. Tom White has broadened the appeal of the paper to a considerable extent; should anyone doubt this let him reflect that for some years past the weekly circulation has been 50 per cent above the highest reached under the first editor and 2,000 more than when he took office. Undoubtedly some of this increase has arisen from the endeavours of the Editorial Committee, and others, in bringing home to ringers generally the need to support their own paper, but all this would have no lasting effect if the reader did not regularly find much of interest in it.

Throughout his life, Mr. White has been influenced by the Church and his leading articles have often reflected his views on the duties and obligations to the Church which being a ringer imposes. He, himself, is very proud of his association with Holy Trinity, Guildford, of which he is now Rector's warden. Indeed, the diversity of his activities, past and present, is astonishing. For 23 years he has been a member of Guildford Rotary Club, of which he is a past president; he is president of Guildford Chess Club—chess, at which he plays for Surrey, he regards as his greatest weakness—and he is also a freemason. From the late 1920's he has taken a deep interest in social work, being a founder member and one-time secretary of Guildford Council of Society Service. For a time he was secretary of the Personal Service League, whose object was to provide clothing for distressed areas at a time when unemployment was rife, and he held the same office on the Advisory Committee of the Surrey Scheme for Jarrow, as well as being a member of the Guildford Work Scheme. For 11 years, from 1933 onwards, he was a member of Guildford Education Committee, later serving on the South-West Surrey Divisional Education Committee, of which he is still a member. He is now a governor of his old school, the Royal Grammar School, and has similar connections with the Guildford County School for Girls, Stoke Church of England Secondary School (of which he is also vice-chairman), and Sandfield Schools, of which he had been chairman for the past 15 years.

WORK UNENDING

So long as they receive their copy of 'The Ringing World' regularly each week, it is probable that few readers give much thought to the exacting nature of the task of the editor of a journal such as this. For one thing the work is unending; during the past fifteen years there has been only one in which Mr. White has taken a holiday entirely free from all responsibility, for unfortunately there is no ready-made deputy on the spot or nearby, able and willing to step in. Consequently, when he is away, copy has to be forwarded for him to deal with, a regrettable state of affairs to which there appears to be no easy answer. Apart from this, the round of annual meetings, ringers' dinners and, particularly the Central Council meeting (which he is proud to attend as an honorary member), all involve considerable work afterwards in the preparation of reports for publication. The Exercise is indeed fortunate in having Tom White to undertake this work. May he long feel able to continue.

Mr. White married, in 1923, Kathleen Dorothy Hill, daughter of the headmaster of Stoke C. of E. School. Of their three children only the eldest, T. Mark White, has taken to ringing, and before leaving for Watford was conductor of the band at Holy Trinity, Guildford. Another son is a regular soldier in Cyprus, and their daughter, Miss Alison White, is in charge of P.E. at Portsmouth Northern Grammar School, and has played hockey for Hampshire.

CONGRATULATIONS FROM CANADA

Mrs. J. C. Sullivan, of Galt, Ontario, who was a ringer at Basingstoke 68 years ago, when she was known as Miss Alice White, writes:—

'I would like to congratulate 'The Ringing World' on 50 years of splendid work, which has kept ringers and their doings in constant touch, ever ready to help old and young in their work for the Church. To me, with failing sight, it is a pleasure to hear bells on the radio, for I can listen with keen interest at any time to bells. Doubtless, much has changed since I rang peals in 1890, when it was quite an unusual sight to see a young girl ringing tower bells. The views of the many ringers are most interesting, and I think Dr. Neal Smith and his daughter are a credit to the Exercise.

'How I miss my collection of various bells. When I came here everyone made a lot of fuss about them and though I desired no publicity the Press and visitors came to see them, with the result that I was transferred to a quieter wing and the bells not permitted. After 68 years' collecting and many blessed by various clerics, one by Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, I can now only dream about them.

'My best wishes to all ringers and may the circulation of your paper continue to soar.'

R. ALICE SULLIVAN.

NOTE.—Mrs. Sullivan, as Miss Alice White, was the first lady to ring a tower-bell peal.—Ed.

THE GALLANT EVER-FAITHFULS — FIRST ISSUE READERS WHO ARE STILL SUBSCRIBERS

ATKINS, E. M., Teignmouth. General secretary of Guild of Devonshire Ringers. His early ringing was at Isham, Kettering, followed by that for the Cambridge University Guild. For many years he was mentor at St. Augustine's, Kilburn, and at Teignmouth he is surrounded by a group of keen youngsters. His composition of 5,040 Plain Bob Major is probably the most popular in the method for young handbell ringers.

BARKER, Arthur D., Wexham, Slough. Born 1890, hon. treasurer Oxford Diocesan Guild, member of Central Council since 1924. Prominent Freemason.

BARNETT, E., Crayford. 'I remember James Parker and Frank Bennett paving the way for "The Ringing World" in London, where old habits died hard. Frank, who was then ringing not less than 100 peals a year, never sent another for publication in "The Bell News," and Jim, who was ringing about 50, probably did the same.'

BATES, A., Farningham, Kent. Will be 75 in April. Among the 'old uns' he has rung with were the late E. Barnett, J. H. Cheesman, W. Weatherstone, T. Groombridge and J. George. Has 12 of the old cup-shaped handbells with ball clappers.

BLACK, Robert G. (72), Geddington, Kettering. Started ringing at Geddington in 1902; rang first peal at Geddington, December, 1911; peals to date 135. From Doubles to Royal (conducted 50). During 1914-18 'The Ringing World' sent to him on active service. From 1922-26 secretary and treasurer Kettering Branch; 1926-49 general secretary and treasurer, Peterborough Guild; 1926-38, Central Council representative. Now trustee Kettering Branch, Peterborough Diocesan Guild.

BOTTRILL, William, Luton. Peals, 184 (54). Ex-Chief Inspector, Metropolitan Police. Taught by William Willson at Anstey, Leicester, 1906-7. First peal at Anstey, 1907. Associations: Midland Counties, Leicester, Oxford Diocesan, Middlesex, Sussex, Kent, London, Bedford, also Cumberland Youths. Founder member, National Police Guild. Rang in first ever police peal (1912), first Masonic Cinques (1926) and Maximus (1931), first Cambridge Maximus in Oxfordshire at Christ Church, Oxford (1931), six William peals, many police peals, including Stedman Cinques (1934).

BREARLEY, John R. Age 75, captain of Bolsterstone ringers, South Yorks. since 1920. Peals 155.

BUDD, J. B. (82), Scarthoe, Grimsby. First tower Knaresborough, Yorks. in the mid-90's. During 1914 and 1916 member of St. Peter's, Leeds; later St. Andrew's and St. James', Grimsby; 11 years St. Mark's, Worsley. Most active period 1950-54 with Cathedral Society, Chester, when more than 50 peals were rung. 'Well enough to serve the Church as before.' First peal Grand sire Triples, Thirsk, March 19th, 1910. Peal total 108, from Doubles to Royal.

BURNETT, Ernest, Darlington. Learned to ring at Sharow, near Ripon, in 1902. Rang his first peal in the following year and conducted his second (Kent). A few years later he was captain of the ringers at St. Oswald's, West Hartlepool, and in 1930 moved to Kirby Stephen. For the past seven years he has been in charge of ringing at St. John's, Darlington. A regular attender at local meetings, his cheerful friendliness makes him a welcome visitor in any tower.

CLAYDON, Frank, Earl's Colne, Essex. Has taken 'The R.W.' from No. 1 and looks forward to receiving it each week with the greatest interest.

COCKEY, J. Lewis, Swindon. 'I was a member of the Rammoor, Sheffield, company at the time of the first issue, and the conductor, Sam Thomas, sent a quarter peal to "The Bell News," who did not publish it. I well remember him saying: "Never mind, we will send the next one to the new paper." During World War I he had the paper sent to him at Suez and on the Somme, and then in hospital.'

COLES, A. W., North Mymsms, Hatfield. Past vice-president and Master of Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild.

COX, Canon C. Carew, born 1882. Learnt to ring at Stockland, Devon, taught by his cousin, Preb. E. V. Cox. Master of Salisbury Diocesan Guild since 1940, also president Clerical Guild. Vicar, Lyme Regis, for 26 years. Rang 137 peals (conducted 55).

COX, Preb. E. V. (79), Axminster, Devon. Formerly attached to Stockland (Devon). Fenton (Stoke-on-Trent), Tamworth, Rushall (Walsall), Bampton (Devon), Bramford Speke, Ottery St. Mary. Now unattached, but rings in several towers and also helps to instruct. Secretary Oxford University Society, 1902-03; clerical secretary and treasurer, Society for the Archdeaconry of Stafford, 1910-15; secretary, N.E. Branch, 1920-22; general secretary during 1924; president from 1933, Guild of Devonshire Ringers. Peals 144, including one silent Holt's Original. (23).

COX, W. T. (79), Gloucester. Rang his first peal at Dunsfold, Surrey, in 1903; afterwards moved to Guildford, and member of St. Nicolas' band. Rang half-muffled peal of Grand sire Caters for passing of Edward VII. Moved to Coventry 1912, Gloucester 1940. Ringer at Cathedral and St. Mary-de-Crypt. Rang peals from Grand sire to Bristol Surprise and with Mr. Goldsmith. Hopes to ring for many years to come.

CROOK, Peter (75), Bolton, Lancs. Started ringing 1905 at St. Peter's, Bolton; later St. Mary's, Deane, and finally Holy Trinity, Bolton (in charge). Vice-president and treasurer of the Lancashire Association; 35 years secretary of Bolton Branch; Central Council, 1927-29, 1939-50. Peals 481.

CROSS, George H., Chardstock, Axminster. Former Master of Society of Royal Cumberland Youths, writes that through a ringer, employed by a wholesale newsagent, he purchased both 'The Bell News' and 'The Ringing World' for 1ld. a week! During World War I received 'R.W.' in Mesopotamia, Egypt, Belgium and France.

DENNIS, T. Reginald, Cambridge. Maintained his continuous 50 years' contact by Mr. Goldsmith forwarding copies to him whilst on active service in France. In 1914 he had the pleasure of ringing the first peal of Bristol in Hampshire, with Mr. Goldsmith at Portsmouth when he attended his first meeting at Winchester as a Central Council representative for the Ely District.

DUFFIELD, William Lant (92), Long Stratton, Norwich. Started ringing at the age of 17 at Tharston, Norwich. Has led the service ringing in each village where he lived, until he retired about one year ago. These parishes include Tasburgh, Tharston, Saxlingham Nethergate and Long Stratton. Rang about 70 peals, including Maximus and Royal, and a family peal with five of his sons at Long Stratton. Joined Norwich Diocesan Association in 1891 and is a member of the committee. For 20 years chairman of South Norfolk Branch.

DYKE, Joseph T., Chilcompton, Bath. Bought No. 1 copy from a small shop near St. Paul's College, Cheltenham. Continued from W. H. Smith's bookstall, Burton-on-Trent railway station; then from Midsomer Norton, Somerset. From there the 'R.W.' was sent to him by his headmaster during 1914-18. The headmaster even continued to buy it for him after he was posted 'missing' in 1918. About 1925 he became a postal subscriber and has continued one ever since.

EDWARDS, H. C., Stony Stratford, Bucks. 'When our conductor, Mr. C. A. Valentine, showed us a letter which said that a new ringing paper was being published, straight away about ten of our local ringers ordered it. Now I am the only one of that ten left, but I still have my copy each week and I don't think I have ever missed a week.'

EVANS, J. William (85), Prenton, Birkenhead. Is the sole survivor of the band who rang at the opening of St. Saviour's, Oxtou, bells on May 23rd, 1895. He was then with eight others, including the late G. R. Newton, walking to Woodchurch to learn to ring. After the opening they started taking 'The Bell News' and 'The Ringing World' from the first number. This church had the first all-metal frame in the county, which was put in with the ring of eight (tenor 20 cwt. 1 qr. 16 lb.) by J. Taylor and Co.

FLETCHER, Edith K. (Mrs.), Born Crawley, 1891; started ringing at age of 14. First peal (Superlative) Edmonton, 1909. Conducted first peal 1,910 Stedman Triples from non-observation bell. Founded Ladies' Guild 1912; its secretary for 35 years and president for nine. Served on Central Council since 1914; life member since 1952. Her perspicacity in tracing Guilds and Associations which had not paid for their notices saved 'The Ringing World' hundreds of pounds shortly after purchase by Central Council. Married Mr. G. W. Fletcher in 1928.

FURBANK, E. W., Brentwood, Essex. Life member Essex Association. Rung over 300 peals, many with Pye brothers.

GOODENOUGH, Horace E. C., St. Albans. Started to ring in 1906 and took 'The Bell News' and 'The Bellringer' until 'The Ringing World' appeared. He has been a member of St. Albans Cathedral band for 52 years and was its conductor for 34 years. His greatest thrill was when St. Albans Cathedral bells were augmented to 12 on May 6th, 1935.

GOODSHIP, Gilbert R. (73), Burstall Hill, Ipswich. Has rung 119 peals. Learnt to ring at St. Giles', Reading, joining Oxford Diocesan Guild 1905. Served in Berkshire Yeomanry and Royal Berks in World War I. Joined Irish Association in 1919; Midland Counties 1921 (instructor and foreman, Basford); College Youths 1924; K.C.A. 1925; Middlesex 1925 (instructor, Harrow Weald, and instrumental in rehanging bells and augmentation to eight); Little Missenden 1938 (instructor and foreman when bells augmented to six in 1948); Suffolk Guild 1955 (instructor, Offton, 1959). To all towers he went as instructor and started new bands from scratch.

HAIRS, Frank I., Groombridge, Sussex. Helped Jack Goldsmith for some time before the first issue by distributing handbills and generally making the 'coming event' known in London.

HARDING, Gilbert H., Trowbridge. Was secretary of Devizes Branch at time of first issue and cycled round the Branch with specimen copies of the first issue. Motto of 'Ringing World' then was 'to publish news when it is news, not history.'

'My dear Jim,—In case anything unexpected happens to me, I am leaving this note to tell you how deeply grateful I am to you for all you have done for 'The Ringing World,' at all times, but particularly since the war and especially during my illness. I know you will say you do not want thanks, but without you at this moment there would not have been a "R.W."; so that not only my thanks but the thanks of all ringers are your due.'

Until he gave up the editorship, in 1946, at a time when he was affected by the illness from which he died in 1947, aged 71, he continued to maintain as editor the high standards which all his life he had set himself. At the time of his death, that other great historian of our art, Mr. Ernest Morris, wrote: 'I was truly amazed at the great amount of data he had most assiduously collected. His whole life must have been spent in visits to the British Museum, and other sources of information, and I should say no one ever put so much time and energy into this side of our art. His work too on the practical side is too well known for me to reiterate and his knowledge in the field of composition was boundless... his collection of MSS. books and records... are priceless and irreplaceable.'

Those of us who realise the difficulties involved in keeping going a weekly paper, especially during the war-time ban, will know that there is no exaggeration in the last words of our first editor and we can best show our thanks and appreciation by continued and increasing support of 'The Ringing World,' which, since its acquisition by the Central Council in 1942, has been truly 'our journal.'

HAZELDEN, A. C., of Guildford. Convener, Biographies Committee, Central Council. First contact with ringing in 1896 at Sundridge, Kent. First peal, St. Lawrence's, Seal Chart, 1900; moved to Guildford that year and other peals followed with great rapidity.

HIBBINS, Ernest George. Born in Stamford, Lincs, 1889. Employed 46 years by British Railways. Elected member of Ely Diocesan Association July 8th, 1911. Served as peal secretary, Ringing Master, on Diocesan and Cambridge District committees. Peals: tower, 203 (London and Bristol S. Major, Grand sire and Stedman Cinques and Cambridge S. Maximus) (96); handbells, 10. Regular ringer at Great St. Mary's, Cambridge, and Master of the Cambridge Youths.

HISCOTT, W. G., Addington, Liskeard, Cornwall.

HOLMES, W. T., Welwyn Garden City. Born Skelton-in-Cleveland, N. Yorks, 1888, and joined Cleveland and N. Yorkshire Association 1907, ringing 28 peals with them. At Cocker-mouth, 1914, re-formed Cumberland Association and rang 11 peals for them. Since 1936 lived Welwyn Garden City. President Herts County Association 1956-57; rang eight peals for them. Still rings for service every Sunday.

HORTON, Bert (73), Wolverhampton. Started ringing in 1904; joined the Society for the Archdeaconry of Stafford in 1905 and is now an honorary member. Rung about 250 peals, called a few, and had the honour to ring in some early Masonic peals.

HOUGH, Sidney, sen. (82). Has been attached to St. John-the-Baptist's, Knutsford, since 1895. Rang for all national occasions since diamond jubilee of Queen Victoria. Trained local call-change ringers into change-ringers and he conducted first peal by local band in 1912; also for his golden wedding, when in addition to himself band consisted of three sons and two daughters. Chairman for many years of Stockport, Bowdon and Mottram Branch, of which he is now a life member.

HUGHES, Albert J., Bangor, Caerns. Learnt to ring at Smethwick and rang first peal in 1900; retired from peal ringing in 1941 for health reasons. Rang 265 peals. Member of 13 different Associations. Left Birmingham for London and later went to Bangor. District secretary of North Wales Association; twice Master, and Central Council representative. Rang in first peal of Royal by a Masonic band, first of Cambridge Royal in Wales and first of London Surprise in Dublin. Still attends belfry when able to help and instruct.

HUMPHREY, H. S., New Romney, Kent. Taken 'The R.W.' from No. 1 and also 'The Bellingrings'.

INSKIP, E. Pearl, Bromham, Beds. Started to ring in 1906 at Bromham, under the late C. Mortimer. Rang his first peal in 1908 and joined the Kempston band in 1920, where there was then a stoney band, and has been leader ever since. Rung over 200 peals and conducted the longest peal in the county. During four years in France (1915-1919) never missed a single copy of 'The Ringing World.'

JENNER, W. Has been ringing at Waldron, near Heathfield, Sussex, since 1893.

JENNEY, Harold G., Leicester. Hopes to celebrate personal jubilee as ringer at Leicester Cathedral this autumn; introduced to ringing at Ripley, Derbys, 1907; first peal Heanor, 1909. Highlights: 12.896 Cambridge Major, 10,400 Real Superlative Major.

KEYTE, J., Freeland, Oxon. Born July 1st, 1890, at Blockley, then Worcestershire. Held a rope with another ringer in muffled ringing for the passing of Queen Victoria, and has since rung on all possible royal occasions, the last being a peal for Prince Andrew's birthday. For 40 years secretary of Chipping Norton Branch, O.D.G. Rings at two churches on Sundays.

LEWIS, F. J., sen., Cirencester, Glos. Has enjoyed reading every number of 'The Ringing World.' Been ringing at both churches at Cirencester for 63 years, but was in World War I with R.G.A., stationed in Bombay. Here he had the job of chiming the eight bells at St. John's Church, Colabra. Rung 119 peals on five to 12 bells, conducted 59. Son and grandson both good ringers; grandson Peter leader of Cirencester Grammar School ringers.

MACEY, Frederick S. (72), Sutton Valence, Kent. Member of Kent County Association since 1904 and a trustee of the Association from 1945. Taught to ring at Rainham, Kent, by the late George Gilbert, being one of his first pupils. Total peals to date 87 (7). Conducted first 'Frederick' peal for the Kent County Association, rung at Rolvenden, Kent, June 20th, 1926.

MARRINER, George (77). Rung 288 peals. Still regular service ringer.

METCALFE, Thomas, Dalton-in-Furness, Lancs. Taken 'The R.W.' from first copy except when overseas on war service in 1914-18 war. Tower captain at Dalton and celebrated 60 years of service ringing at this parish church in January, 1960.

MORLEY, H. S., Selby Abbey Ringers. Had an excusable gap in his 50 years: from March, 1918, to January, 1919, he was a prisoner-of-war in German hands and could not obtain a copy. Until he was taken prisoner he received 'The R.W.' weekly in France while serving with the Rifle Brigade.

MORRIS, Ernest, Eyres Monsell, Leicester. Was prominent in No. 2 of 'The Ringing World' with a composition of Bob Royal, and has been prominent with performances, compositions and articles ever since. During the 'ban' period on ringing supplied a full-page article every week for over 12 months. His articles included 'Bells in English Life,' 'Uses and Abuses,' 'Ringers' Rules,' etc. Stood in the 12 secretaries' peal of Stedman Cinques arranged by Mr. Goldsmith at Southwark Cathedral.

NORRIS, Charles, Chatham. First went into belfry in 1904: first peal March 5th, 1910. Served under ten rectors at St. Mary's, Chatham, and still hon. secretary. Joined Rochester Cathedral company 1922; served under six deans and is still steeplekeeper. Number of peals 183.

PECK, Alfred B., Reigate. Joined Ancient Society College Youths 1901 (Master 1910-11, secretary 1937-1957, Central Council 1933-1957). 'Very proud and humble to think that I was privileged to be a ringer at St. Paul's Cathedral.'

PERRENS, Frank W. Born 1891; learnt to ring at Willenhall in 1910, and first peal in the following year. After years as Ringing Master of the Coventry Diocesan Guild is now president. Librarian to Central Council, having been a member since 1927, with gap of two years. Peals rung total nearly 550.

RUMENS, H., Walthamstow. Started ringing at Walthamstow in 1904, rang first peal in 1907 and has taken part in 48 peals. Most of these peals have been Caters and Royal at St. Mary's, Walthamstow.

SAUNDERS, Tom, East Peckham, Tonbridge. Rang 233 peals from Doubles to Maximus in 50 different towers. Member of local tower for 60 years, K.C.A. (Tonbridge District) 58 years, and was District secretary for five years.

SEAR, H., Bletchley. He has taken a ringing paper regularly since 1898. He rang three peals with Mr. Goldsmith—two of Stedman Caters and one of Double Norwich Court Bob Major. In one of the peals Mr. Goldsmith's glasses fell on the floor. He said to the conductor: 'Carry on.'

SEGAR, John (68). Had completed 50 years' Sunday service ringing in Retford, Notts, before moving to Skegness recently. He composed the 5,152 Spliced Surprise Major, all the bells all the work of 14 methods, 5,040 Spliced Triples with 360 calls, and extended the record length of Bristol Surprise Major to 21,920 changes. Three Central Council publications were compiled by him—the Four-way Table, Spliced Triples and the Blue Line system of F.C.H. Several years before he rang his first peal he could tap on handbells 45 methods from Minor to Maximus. In 1913 tapped 7,200 of Minor in ten plain methods (record number of methods) and 5,040 Minor in seven Surprise methods.

SHEPHERD, William, Addlestone, Surrey. Born 1883; commenced ringing 1893; College Youth 61 years; Central Council representative, Winchester Guild, 1920-23, Guildford Guild, 1928-29; vice-president Guildford Guild. Longest peal, 19,738 Stedman Caters on handbells, 1912. Rang in peal of Stedman Caters in the Editor's office on September 10th, 1915. Met with an accident in 1926 that stopped him peal ringing for nearly 20 years.

SIMMONDS, William, 100, Hartop Road, Torquay.

SMALLWOOD, J. Frank, Darley Dale, Derbys. During the first world war, when he served overseas for four years, James George used to send him 'The Ringing World' each week. Of Jack Goldsmith, who was a personal friend, he writes: 'He was a delightful ringing companion, first-class ringer and conductor, and brilliant after-dinner speaker.' And these attributes are also to be found in the convener of 'The Ringing World' Committee.

STEWART, A. F. Martin, Ferndown Hill, Ferndown.

STILWELL, Leonard (71), Worthing. Started ringing 1903, and rang first peal at Pulborough October 6th, 1904. Total peals, 648 (65). Taken all issues of 'The R.W.' and now has them bound. Also took 'The Bell News' from 1906 and 'The Bellingrings' in 1907. Attached to Pulborough Church 13 years, Windsor Parish Church 33 (27 years a sidesman), Henley-on-Thames (1914-16), Horsham eight, and is now at Heene, Worthing. Divisional secretary, trustee, Central Council representative, peals secretary to Sussex County Association, Biographies Committee and honorary member of Central Council.

SYMONDS, Geo. E., Ipswich. Secretary of St. Mary-le-Tower Society, Ipswich, for 40 years. Was in London for four years and a member of the Waterloo Society. Always enjoyed articles of J. Armiger Trollope. Also rang for ten years at Framlingham and seven years at Beccles.

SYMONDS Stedman H., Lavenham, Suffolk. Has every copy of the 'R.W.' still in his possession, except one, accidentally destroyed. Started ringing 1901, conducting 1903. Conductor of Lavenham band since 1907.

VALANCE, Thomas Hubert, St. Margaret's, Stoke Golding. Has rung approximately 80 peals, from Minor to Royal. The office he has held is 'critic and bone-picker' but never a controversialist.

WALKER, Albert (84). The modern Henry Johnson of Birmingham, who joined St. Martin's Guild in 1897. As a conductor of Stedman Cinques he has not been surpassed. He also conducted the first peal of Stedman Sextuples, served as Master of St. Martin's Guild and is now vice-president.

WALLATER, Christopher, of Willenhall, Staffs. Born Christmas Day, 1882. Ringing Master, Society for the Archdeaconry of Staffs, 1926-27. Inaugurated scheme for recasting and augmenting bells of St. Giles', Willenhall, from 8 to 10.

WALTER, Sidney, Secretary, Wickham-breaux, near Canterbury, band. Says his band has taken 'The Ringing World' regularly since March 24th, 1911.

WIFFIN, Lewis W., Braintree. Joined St. Mary-le-Tower band, Ipswich, in 1901, and rang first peal same year. Since then has rung 672 peals (93). Sole survivor of band who rang first peal of Cambridge Maximus, A College Youth for 59 years and for a term a representative on the Central Council.

WILSON, Louis A. (85), Wootton Bassett, Wilts. He has taken a ringing paper since 1896. 'I have spent my life in getting various rings of bells increased and in order, and rejoice to see the younger generation enjoying ringing them. Still actively teaching others to carry on.'

WINCH, Alfred H. (81), Leatherhead. Rung over 300 peals; rings when health permits.

YORK-BRAMBLE, Albert. Began learning change-ringing in the 'oldest' 12-bell tower—Cirencester. First peal, Grand sire Minor, 1913, while at Bristol University. Rang (after the Kaiser War) in the first two (and only) peals by officers of the Forces. Peals up to Surprise Royal. Main interest in the teaching of ringing and in method structure. Member of College Youths since 1914, of Universities' Association and others. Co-founder and principal of the College of Campanology; hon. vice-president of the Portsmouth Cathedral Guild of Ringers.

BARNSELY & DISTRICT SOCIETY

Three new members from Penistone and Wakefield were elected at the Barnsley and District Society's meeting at Kirkburton, near Huddersfield, on March 11th, when 11 towers were represented. Mr. Noel F. Moxon was in the chair and the vote of thanks was proposed by Mr. Joseph Burgess. Next meeting: Monk Bretton, near Barnsley, April 8th.

A SURVEY OF THE RINGING PRESS

By E. A. BARNETT

THE RINGING WORLD.

March 24th, 1911.

IT is just 80 years since the first paper devoted exclusively to the art of change-ringing made its appearance. Beginning as a monthly in February, 1881, and becoming a weekly 14 months later, 'The Bell News,' however much it fell away in its later years, served the Exercise manfully until it disappeared during the first World War.

None of us today can visualise what it was like when our art had no paper of its own. Up to the early 1870's, (except possibly for some very brief and occasional communication in 'Bell's Life' (which was in fact a sporting paper) or some such journal, the only means of correspondence that existed between ringers was private and personal. 'The natural result of all this,' said one whose ringing career began in 1870, 'was that the Exercise was thoroughly unorganised. In London and the leading towns there were individual conductors and composers who knew one or two other conductors or composers up and down the country, but beyond this there was no general intercourse or cohesion between the various local units of the Exercise. And so each local company developed solely on its own lines; and while in many centres such as London, Norwich, Birmingham, Painswick and others, change-ringing well kept up its head, there were often co-existing developments of a less desirable nature, such as jealousies, quarrels, narrowness of outlook, accompanied by failure in general to realise and appreciate the uplifting power of the science and, above all, its position and responsibility as pertaining to the Church of God.'

FILLING THE GAP

The gap began to be filled when there came into existence at about the time the writer of these words, the Rev. C. D. P. Davies, learned to ring, the publication from which extracts have recently appeared in these pages, 'Church Bells.' Here again the title was misleading. To those who have the opportunity of reading it, 'Church Bells' presents a fascinating picture of church life of the period, but the column for ringing, under the sub-editorship firstly of the Rev. H. T. Ellacombe, had little in it calculated to advance the interests of ringing generally. The space available for anything in the way of instruction was nearly always fully occupied by Jasper Snowdon with his scientific or historical articles, invaluable though these were. The Rev. C. D. P. Davies, whose many services to ringing included 20 years as secretary of the Central Council, later succeeded to Mr. Ellacombe's position on the paper.

However unsatisfactory 'Church Bells' may have been from the point of view of ringers, it doubtless led many of them to the realisation that what was wanted was a voice of its own by which the Exercise could express its mind and its ideals, and thus it paved the way for 'The Bell News,' edited for nearly 30 years by Hervey Reeves, of Walthamstow, who was a native of Worcester and a skilled practical ringer and composer, though he gradually gave up his connection with these aspects of ringing, and at the end of his life was quite unknown to the vast majority of his readers.

I suppose it is true to say that most of those who will read these lines have never seen a copy of 'The Bell News and Ringers' Record: A Weekly Journal of the Ringing Exercise; and Compendium of Information for the Clergy and Churchwardens.' To those for whom history is not, in the late Sam Goldwyn's phrase, 'bunk,' it is a treasure house of information. The development of method ringing; the formation of many Associations; abstruse scientific articles answering hitherto unsolved problems, such as whether five- and ten-part peals of Grandsire Triples with common bobs and singles were possible; setting down the results of the patient investigations by Itewood, Earle Bulwer, J. J. Parker and others into the construction of peals of Stedman Triples; revealing for the first time the use of certain sets of reversed course-ends in Superlative, and so forth; controversies; early ringing tours; historical conduct of a ringing journal which ringers rightly demand, and which it is our determination to carry out; indeed, the two points are essential to the success of any newspaper. One is that the journal shall be punctually in the hands of its readers week by week, and the other that passing events shall be recorded promptly. To accomplish this end we must necessarily rely to a large extent upon the help of the ringers themselves, but we feel sure that those who make themselves responsible for supplying reports will appreciate, just as much as those who have the pleasure of reading them, that there is far more interest in a short paragraph given in the issue immediately following the event than in a long report which appears three or four weeks later, when it has entirely lost its freshness. On our part, chief consideration will be shown to those contributions which arrive promptly after the event, and, while we do not desire to pass over anything of interest in the ringing world, we are convinced that the majority of ringers will be at one with us in seeking to carry out this determination.

No enterprise could have been embarked upon with more generous wishes for success than have been received in connection with The Ringing World. From north, south, east and west, since first the proposal to establish this journal was made known, have come messages of encouragement, and to our friends throughout the country we wish to express our gratitude for their kindly wishes. We certainly do not intend to boast as to the future career of The Ringing World. We shall be content to leave it to the calm judgment of the ringers themselves, feeling sure that they will appreciate at its proper value any merit that may be shown in extending their interest in what is happening in connection with the bells of our land.

The furtherance of the Art is the first object of this paper, and all that relates to its progress will find in it the warmest support. In addition to giving all news promptly, all matters relating to the Exercise will be dealt with freely and without prejudice, and we invite contributions to our columns of small items as well as of the necessarily longer reports. The Ringing World will be open for the fair and impartial discussion of all matters appertaining to the interests of ringers. We feel sure that the space set apart for this purpose will be appreciated, but we shall have to insist that all communications shall be accompanied by the name and address of the sender, although, of course, not necessarily for publication. On our part we intend to spare no pains to keep the pages of The Ringing World interesting to beginners as well as to the ringers of riper experience, to make them "newsy" as well as instructive.

In conclusion let us say we do not venture upon this undertaking without the realisation of difficulties to be faced and obstacles to be overcome. With the kindly help of those in whose interest this journal has been established, however, we are prepared to undertake the task, and the promises of support, in number most remarkable and from quarters most unexpected, which have been received, make us sanguine of success. There is unanimity of opinion that a "live" journal for bell-ringers is needed and, from the expressions which have reached us, our humble efforts to supply a distinctly long felt want will, we confidently believe, commend themselves to the approbation of the great majority of ringers throughout the country. At any rate we place the first number of The Ringing World before our readers, content to leave it to their judgment and in the hope that the spirit in which the work has been undertaken will perhaps be recognised and appreciated.

articles by Jasper Snowdon; portraits of the leading ringers of the day—some, like John Cox, Henry W. Haley and Henry Johnson, almost at the end of their careers, others such as J. W. Washbrook, James Parker, Gabriel Lindoff, George Williams and John Carter, up-and-coming men who have since passed into history; these and much more are to be found in its pages. As the title suggests, not everything there was connected with ringing. Who, one wonders, was 'The Ringer in Parliament,' who for a few weeks in 1887 contributed a fascinating account of the doings at 'The Palace of St. Stephen's,' with its glimpses of men like Gladstone, Morley and Labouchere, and when Parnell and the Irish Nationalists were such a thorn in the flesh of the Government of the day? The first lady composer; who nowadays recognises the name of Miss E. Cruwys Sharland, whose date touches of Grandsire Triples were rung at Tiverton in 1884 and 1885? Nearly 75 years were to elapse before Miss Stella Hughes became the next lady to put her name to a composition, that of a peal of Stedman Caters.

Dear Sirs,—As a Church Officer of St. Paul's, Cross Street, Tadmorden, and one who has taken a great interest in the Peal of Bells which you recently hung in the Church Tower, I am pleased to be able to tell you that the bells are giving the utmost satisfaction, in fact I hear nothing but the highest praise and recommendation on all sides. The day after you completed the work, a peal of 5000 changes was rung on the bells. This of course was a creditable performance on the part of the Ringers, but it also proves how well balanced and how accurately the bells must be. I am sure the tone and the workmanship leave nothing to be desired. All our people and neighbouring ringers too have a good word for them. I understand you will be ever here when the bells are consecrated and you will have the satisfaction of having this letter verified.—Yours faithfully, (Signed) JOHN O. SAGER.

particularly during the first 20 years of its life; indeed I would say that perhaps because far fewer peals were rung, and more space was available for other matter, it was better produced and contained more real news than any other ringing paper has ever done. Like all the others, it had its financial troubles—the editor had said in the very first issue that 'the commencement of an enterprise of the character of a journal, especially one devoted to the interests and fancies of a class, is not, as a rule, devoid of anxiety and care on the part of those who become its sponsors'—and it has been freely rumoured that Sir Arthur Heywood helped it out of some, at least, of its difficulties. Certainly he did so on one occasion, as will be seen later on.

William Willson who, as we were recently reminded, used to write a column under the name of 'Jingle,' revealed in later years that he would occasionally receive a card from Hervey Reeves: 'Dear Friend, The circulation is not so good. Can you kick up a row in the next issue? Any subject you like, only make it hot and strong.' 'And,' said Willson, 'I would oblige, the circulation would go up, and what did it matter if I got the blame?' Hence, no doubt, the celebrated controversy on the long peal of Double Norwich at Kidlington in 1899, which he began. Certainly criticism did not trouble him.

It cannot be said that the appearance on September 16th, 1896, of 'Campanology,' the first of three rivals of 'The Bell News'—all of which that paper completely ignored—was entirely opportune. The editor, William Bedwell, of Lewisham, who modestly described himself in the first issue as a well-known ringer, conductor, teacher and steeplekeeper, said in his opening remarks: 'We feel no apology is needed to introduce "Campanology" to the very large number of exponents of the Exercise in the British Isles, and those conversant with the subject of Bells and Bell Ringing, inasmuch as the necessity of a bright and cheerful journal, devoted exclusively to these particular objects, has for years past been plainly manifest'; but although signs of decline were undoubtedly appearing, the older paper had not yet outlived its usefulness. To a present-day reader 'Campanology' seems too similar in character and layout to 'The Bell News' to have had a chance of lasting success, notwithstanding the optimism sounded in the second issue, so reminiscent of recent events in the London press.

'THE BELLRINGER'

'The Bellringer' was very different in its make-up. There is no doubt that by 1907 'The Bell News' needed stirring up, and the new paper could truthfully say, in the first issue on January 5th of that year, that the Exercise 'has too long been subject to the vagaries of a press circumscribed in the narrow confines of private monopoly.' No one long acquainted with the art of ringing, it went on, would care to assert that the confraternity had been treated to the respect its intelligence and members deserved, or catered for with any degree of satisfaction. Many had failed to support 'Campanology' from a mistaken sense of sympathy for the old against the new. 'Campanology' had died, said 'The Bellringer,' but while it lived it had stimulated a healthy rivalry that made many forget the previous stagnation, with the result that on its death decadence had reigned once more.

There is little doubt that William Willson was responsible for those comments. As Mr. Edgar Shepherd reminded us, he had transferred his allegiance to 'The Bellringer' as co-editor with Walter C. Hunt, whose inspiration the paper really was. But even the trenchant pen of 'Jingle' could not prevent the cracks from appearing. By the fifth issue the editors confessed that the money they had set aside, which they were prepared to lose at the commencement, was rapidly vanishing, and while they were ready to work for nothing, they were not prepared to lose pounds a week at the same time. So 'The Bellringer,' too, closed its doors and 'The Bell News' continued as before. Peals were published later and later, notices of meetings tended not to appear until after the date on which the meetings were held and, one gathers, whether Saturday's issue would appear on Saturday was often a matter of doubt. Thus when John S. Goldsmith made up his mind to start a new ringing paper, circumstances could hardly have been more favourable. It is ironical that four days after 'The Ringing World' first made its appearance on March 24th, 1911—a Friday, no doubt to obtain the tactical advantage of publication a day before its rival—Hervey Reeves died. To all intents and purposes 'The Bell News' died too, though the owners were to continue it for five more years, largely, according to J. A. Trollope, in the hope that they could sell the copyright.

FIGHT FOR RECOGNITION

When the new paper first appeared it was well received by some, and with goodwill by many, but there lurked a fear, doubtless brought about by the two previous failures, lest the rivals should kill one another and the attempt to give the Exercise two papers should result in it having none at all. An attempt made at the Central Council meeting in 1911 to pass a motion which would have given 'The Ringing World' recognition equal to that accorded to 'The Bell News' for the publication of official reports and communications, and that any peals published exclusively in 'The Ringing World' should be counted in the Council's peals analysis, was strongly opposed both by the Analysis Committee, who thought it would mean extra work for them, and by the president. Indeed, Sir Arthur Heywood told the council, in effect, to choose between himself and 'The Ringing World,' and ultimately 'the previous question' was moved and carried, the majority of members abstaining from voting.

J. A. Trollope, who undertook to propose the motion, has recorded the condemnation with which Heywood's action was received, and in his view it did far more good to 'The Ringing World' than it did harm. The secretary, the Rev. C. D. P. Davies, acted in fact as if the motion had been passed, and in the following year a motion expressing satisfaction at this and extending a welcome to 'The Ringing World' was passed without opposition. Sir Arthur Heywood's attitude seems in fact to have been based on a misunderstanding as the following letter from him to J. A. Trollope, which for obvious reasons has not hitherto seen the light of day, will show. It forms a fitting conclusion to the story of 'The Bell News.'

'Doveleys,
Rocester, Staffs.
May 6th, 1912.

'Dear Trollope,—Mr. Davies tells me you propose again to raise the question of unequal treatment of the two ringing papers. I am sorry because the subject seemed to cause some heat. I should like to make clear my own position in the matter. Personally I wish "Bell News" would cease. I do not know whether its recent transfer to Mr. G. Carter (about whom I know nothing whatever) means that the Reeves have gone bankrupt and that he has taken the business over as all he could get to balance money owing him, or whether he is a capitalist bringing fresh support to a failing concern—anyway the paper seems to be going on, at all events for the present. I have suggested that the two should combine. It is a great nuisance having two papers, and this is by no means counterbalanced by the tonic influence of each on the other. "R.W." is a much better paper in every way. So far as I know, however, it is under no agreement to put in all C(entral) C(ouncil) notices free, as is (or was under the old management) "B.N.": a concession I obtained voluntarily from old H. Reeves when he wanted £10—he offered in return an undertaking that he would put in all our C.C. notices free until Doomsday or the "B.N." came to an end, whichever should occur first. So I wrote out an agreement which he signed and which Mr. Davies now, I think, has among the C.C. papers. Probably this concession will now be repudiated.

'Again, when the C.C. started H. Reeves flatly refused to be at the expense of reporting the proceedings fully, and we felt that this really was an absolute necessity. At first, for some years if I remember rightly, and before there were any available funds, I paid a reporter . . . Now this report is not a matter the Council ought to be burdened with. The ringing papers should themselves provide a verbatim report. If "R.W." would start doing this, of course the Council would at once stop having their own reporter and "B.N." would have to follow suit and give a similar report or take a back seat. The Council do not have the proceedings reported as a favour to a particular paper but to save their own face.

'Then it is said: but you send your report to "B.N.", why not send it also to "R.W."? This is where I come in, as I endeavoured to explain at Leicester.

'Keeble (Benjamin Keeble, of Romford) is a very poor reporter, though he does his best, and the construction of an intelligible report from his notes is far the most troublesome thing I have to do in the year . . . there are a mass of grammatical and other mistakes to correct and the speeches have to be put into passable English.

'Now what I said plainly at Leicester was that I would not and could not do this work twice over. I am a busy man and, with a correspondence always heavy, I find this correction a great burden—for it is also a very anxious matter, with so erratic a report, to attempt to represent all the speakers justly.

'I am quite ready to send the report to "R.W." instead of "B.N." (I do not care a fig which paper has it) or give up the whole thing and leave the papers to report what they choose. In fact I will gladly do exactly what the Council will decide by any resolution, except the one thing they wished to resolve last year, viz.: that I should send a copy of the report to each paper at the same time. That I can't and won't do . . . If "R.W." was half smart they would put on a good reporter and produce as full and a much better result than we do! We should at once drop our C.C. reporter and, as I have said, "B.N." would have to follow suit, and peace would be established. You will recognise that parts of this letter . . . are for your private consumption alone.—Yours very truly,

ARTHUR HEYWOOD.

THANKFULNESS

The story of 'The Ringing World' is naturally bound up so much with the lives of its three editors, about whom much appears elsewhere in this issue, that I propose to say little more than that not least of the paper's service to the Exercise, particularly in John Goldsmith's time, has been its reports of the debates at the Council meetings and of the speeches at other important ringing functions. The limitations of space are undoubtedly a greater handicap now than they were in the paper's early days, and reports inevitably need to be condensed, but I often have the impression that this has been carried a little too far. That is a minor point, however, compared with the valuable part 'The Ringing World' has played in keeping our art alive and thriving; and no future historian can fail to be thankful to those members of the Central Council, Messrs. E. H. Lewis, A. A. Hughes, G. W. Fletcher and R. Richardson, whose action on John S. Goldsmith's death in guaranteeing his executors against loss, becoming responsible for £200 for the goodwill, blocks, etc., bearing any losses from June 5th, 1942, and undertaking to collect outstanding debts (some £700, of which £619 was eventually collected), saved the Exercise from the disaster of having no paper of its own. Had 'The Ringing World' gone under at a time when the ringing of church bells was itself banned, the clock would have been put so far back that it is doubtful if the art would ever fully have recovered.

It would be wrong to conclude this survey without any reference to the several other periodicals devoted to ringing which have made their appearance since the end of the second World War and are happily still going strong. First in the field was 'The Ringing Towers,' the monthly journal of the New South Wales Association. Beginning in 1947 under the editorship of William M. Rowe, who was also the Association's first secretary and whose enthusiasm, aided by several English ringers in H.M. Forces, was largely responsible for the revival of interest in and around Sydney which took place at that time, it has continued faithfully to chronicle the activities of our friends in Australia and New Zealand, and a number of copies find their way to England each month. The present acting editor is Mr. W. D. Watson.

In October, 1949, 'The Belfry,' a quarterly magazine published by the Maidstone District of the Kent County Association, made its appearance, with Frank P. Wright as editor. He was succeeded within a year or two by Mr. Reginald L. Sils, who is still in office and under whose guidance a varied combination of local news and both interesting and thoughtful articles continues to appear. These remarks apply equally to 'The Irish Bell News,' also a quarterly, which came out in October, 1951, and of which Mr. Fred E. Dukes has been editor throughout its existence. Regrettably, but inevitably, there are a good many ringers whose interest does not extend over the whole range of ringing activities; and while we in this country may tend to think of 'The Ringing Towers' and 'The Irish Bell News' as supplementing 'The Ringing World,' those papers play a far more valuable rôle than does this journal in the territories which they serve. Along with 'The Belfry' and Mr. William Butler's enterprising 'Ringers' Magazine,' they deserve the support of all who have the wider interests of ringing at heart.

CHILDREN IN BELFRY

The greatest ringing event during the past 50 years occurred when the belfry opened its door to schoolchildren. All over the country, the 'invasion' was on, and where it was welcomed and encouraged and handled with knowledgeable care, particularly in step by step progress, the bells ring out their message. Where it was not welcomed, the bells are already silent or nearly so. Our Central Council had its own special opportunity to give the young people a 20th century organisation, leading, when proficient, to the older Associations and Guilds.

We 'optimists' look to the day when the Council can say to the B.B.C., 'Go anywhere you wish for your Christmas broadcast—you can't go wrong.'—E. L. Humphriss, Woolton, Liverpool.

ALBERT J. PITMAN

That remarkable and versatile composer, Albert J. Pitman, deserves consideration for the credit of providing the best contribution to the advancement of ringing. From one aspect alone, Spliced Surprise ringing, Mr. Pitman has contributed material which, I have not the slightest doubt, has influenced many an ordinary ringer into becoming a much better ringer. To be able to ring Spliced is a refreshing experience, it adds interest, it encourages advancement in the knowledge of the art and it produces better conductors. But Mr. Pitman has also provided scores of compositions for those who do not care for Surprise ringing, and which still can be regarded as advancement. And fancy producing a 5,040 Scientific Triples for the Exercise to accomplish!—T. J. Lock.

PLACE NOTATION

Place notation known as the 'Corrigan line.' Think of all the columns of figures printed to explain a new method. Few had the eyesight or patience to follow figures through. Today those interested can get what they want almost at a glance.—P. Laffin, Stockport.

Advancement in 50 years

THE LADIES

I consider the greatest contribution to the advancement of ringing in the 'R.W.'s' 50 years of life is the advent of ladies into our belfries. They have brought charm, grace and harmony into our midst, where previously these attributes were not very evident. I can remember when there were no lady ringers. It was many years before I met one. Now one meets them everywhere. Bless them.—Charles J. Sedgley, Ipswich.

There can be no doubt that the emancipation of women has been the best contribution to the advancement of ringing, during the past 50 years.—Madeline M. Croft, Southampton.

WAR-TIME BAN

Although it was not exactly a contribution to the advancement of ringing, I venture to suggest that the war-time ban on tower-bell ringing in the second world war led to the notable progress in our art which has taken place since 1945.

Method ringing on handbells became popular and was widely practised during the period of the ban; by this means many new recruits were introduced to the Exercise, some of whom are leading ringers of today. Furthermore, double-handed ringing would seem to lead to method change ringing being studied and approached from an entirely different angle, besides setting a very high standard of striking.—Arthur V. Davis, Bournemouth.

BALL BEARINGS

Ball bearings must be a great contribution to advancement. Many young bands have been encouraged by easily rung peals today; in days gone by the same bells would have meant a more gruelling job. In fairness, plain bearings can be quite all right if properly attended to, but they will not look after themselves.—P. Laffin, Stockport.

GREATEST RINGING EVENT DURING PAST 50 YEARS

I consider this to be the All England Ringers' Meeting at Messrs. Gillett and Johnston's Bell Foundry at Croydon, in March, 1928. There was a record assembly of ringers (2,400 from nearly 450 towers), addressed by the Archbishop of Canterbury, and supported by many clergy, ringers and non-ringers. On view was the largest bell ever cast in England and the biggest in the world that has ever been tuned. To enter the foundry there was, at one time, a queue of hundreds of ringers, and to report the occasion a supplement to 'The Ringing World' was necessary!—T. J. Lock.

IN WEST COUNTRY

Mr. A. L. Bennett, of Buckfastleigh, a reader since spring of 1918, says perhaps the two most important things that have happened in the West Country, during the life of the paper, has been the addition of two trebles at Exeter Cathedral, to increase the ring to 12, and the recasting of the bells at Buckfast Abbey with the addition of the great bourdon bell. It this latter case the first peal of Stedman Cinques was rung on the present ring in 1937, in which the late Mr. Goldsmith rang the treble. I also had the privilege of taking part in one peal with him, this being one of Double Norwich Court Bob Major at St. Giles-in-the-Fields, London, during Whitsuntide, 1939.

GREETINGS FROM 'OVERTONES'

Sincere greetings, congratulations and a peal of good wishes for the future. 'The Ringing World' has had an influence in promoting good bell music and campanological fellowship not only in Britain, but here in America. We are all grateful to have had it for the past fifty years and send special thanks to Mr. T. W. White for his good work as editor.

In wishing the Rev. K. C. Davis every success in his new appointment as Vicar of Tadley, Hants, Mr. G. Dodd writes: 'By a coincidence there is already a ringing incumbent at Tadley New Church, which is now being built—the Rev. M. P. Simcock, who was previously chairman of the Andover District of the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild. Neither church has a ring of bells.'

There is a badge for campanology under the Duke of Edinburgh's award scheme.

The method rung in the peal at Bolsover on February 24th (see page 155) was Superlative Surprise and not Yorkshire, as submitted.

The Sunday service band at All Souls', Halifax, have put up another fine performance with a peal of 5.472 Spliced Surprise Major in nine methods.

According to the list inside Berkeley, Glos. tower, there has only been one previous peal of Royal (Plain Bob) to that of Yorkshire Surprise Royal on March 11th rung on the bells and that the last peal was in 1951.

The Gloucester and Bristol Association are to run another course at Hartpury in September in conjunction with the Gloucestershire Education Committee. Philip Gray is again in charge of organisation.

Beachcomber of 'The Daily Express' has a leg-pull at record lengths, etc. He writes: 'During a 12-hour bell-jamboree in the Midlands, a lady who was hard of hearing said after five hours of it: "Beatrice, I think there's someone at the door."'

'Owing to unfortunate circumstances due to the breakage of a gudgeon or rather hard going bells, our team of ringers (and all ringing) has been absolutely "flat on its face" for over six months,' reports a correspondent from Brampton, Devon.

Vigorous efforts are being made by East Bridgford ringers in raising money for their bell fund, for which £250 is needed. The handbell team are giving concerts and dances have also been held, which have so far raised £60.

BELFRY GOSSIP

So effective are the silencers provided for West Bridgford bells that the Rector, walking through the churchyard one evening last week, thought he heard the bells of St. Peter's, Nottingham, some two miles away, and then he remembered that it was his own tower's practice night.

'X. Y. Z.', whose column appears in 'The Suffolk Mercury', refers to the unsuccessful long peal attempt at Grundisburgh. The writer asks: 'Wasn't it raisins, startin' up pains in the tenor's tummy, that stopped the long ring at Deb'num some years back.'

Mr. A. Clayton, Ringing Master of St. Mary's, Putney, informs us that a charge of 10s. is made for the privilege of visiting bands ringing at Pershore Abbey. 'Surely we have reached a very low ebb when one group of Christians starts using another as a source of profit,' he adds.

To wind up an enjoyable practice meeting of the Devon Guild at Dean Prior, Buckfastleigh, on March 11th, a quarter peal of Plain Bob Minor was attempted and lost when about two leads from home. Those taking part were A. L. Bennett 1, Rev. P. Angold 2, Miss Y. C. Porter 3, Rev. W. P. Dowling 4, Rev. A. de Guingand 5, and W. G. Lavers (cond.) 6.

David Eames, of Church Gresley, gives every promise of being a good heavy bell ringer. He is 15½ years of age and of slight build, but rang the 28 cwt. tenor at Hoar Cross to a peal without a misblow. He had previously had suitable practice at Beverley Minster and Manchester Town Hall.

Prior to the baptism of John Peter, second son of Frances and Arthur Hibbert, on March 5th at Chapel-en-le-Frith, his parents, godparents and grandfather rang a touch of Plain Bob Minor. The band was Harry Laffin (godfather) 1, Frances Hibbert (mother) 2, Gladys Richardson (godmother) 3, Arthur Hibbert (father) 4, Alex Richardson (godfather) 5, Peter Laffin (grandfather) 6. After the service, performed by the Vicar (the Rev. R. C. Austin), relatives and friends were entertained to tea at Ashdene.

HIS HAPPIEST HOUR - 2,000 PEALS BEHIND HIM

EVERYBODY associated with change ringing has heard of Ernest Morris, of Leicester. And now at the age of 71, he has crowned his career as a ringer by being the first man to ring 2,000 peals. This has been accomplished within a span of 55 years.

In a sense Ernest was born into ringing which he inherited from his father, the late Josiah Morris, known to his intimates as the tenor king. And Josiah was with 17-year-old Ernest when he rang his first peal in August, 1906, at St. Andrew's, Grimsby, and again a member of the band on August 28th, 1947, when he rang his 1,000th peal—Stedman Cinques in hand at St. Margaret's Church, Leicester.

While ambition to ring more peals than any other man might be worthy, this has not been his sole objective. First and foremost is his love of ringing and demonstrating his mastery of a bell. He has rung peals in 135 churches in Leicestershire on every possible ring of bells and many of these have been tough propositions, necessitating more than one attempt; over 50 were first peals on the bells. Then there was his love of young ringers—St. Margaret's belfry, throughout his long association, has invariably had its quota of young people being disciplined into the art by Uncle Ernest. Many groups of young ringers are grateful to him for shepherding them through their first peal of say Doubles. In a sense it was not the calibre of the peal that counted with him, although his peals range from Doubles to Maximus with a big variety of Surprise methods, but the spirit of helpfulness which an experienced member of a team would make.

IN LONG LENGTHS

In his younger days the name of Ernest Morris was to be found among bands attempting record lengths. These included conducting the longest by the Midland Counties Association of Doubles (6,600), Minor (10,080), Bob Major (13,440), Kent Treble Bob (10,912) and Oxford Treble Bob (7,480). He also conducted the longest length of Bob Major for the Central Northants Association, one of 7,488, and another of 9,760. He called the record peals of Little Bob (6,720), Little Canterbury (6,720), Spliced Treble Bob (Ilkeston arrangement, 9,120), and rang in 9,600 Kent and Oxford Spliced. He also took part in the record peals of Cambridge Major (7,008 and 12,896) and the record 12,633 Stedman Cinques at Christ Church, Oxford.

Among his unusual peals are those with four sets of brothers, four fathers and sons and five fathers and sons. His peals have been spread over 273 towers in 24 counties for 35 Associations and Guilds.

Invariably one finds that leading peal ringers are also good officials of their Guilds and Associations. Mr. Morris was honorary secretary of the Midland Counties Association from 1925, until it was divided into Diocesan Guilds in 1945. He is now honorary treasurer of the Leicester Diocesan Guild and for many years has acted as consultant for bells on the Advisory Committee for the Leicester Diocese.

HIS WRITINGS

With a penchant for historical research—perhaps his post as verger and clerk of St. Margaret's Select Vestry, Leicester, gave him the opportunity to develop this side of his nature—he has a complete record of every bell in Leicestershire. From his pen has flowed a consistent series of articles and books on ringing. Appearing in 'The Ringing World' have been 'Chimes and Christmas', 'Bells in English Life', 'English Towers and their Bells'.

His first great work was 'History and Art of Change Ringing', which was followed by 'Legends of the Bells'. In recent years there has been published 'Bells of all Nations', 'Towers and Bells of Britain' and 'Tintinnabula'.

Bells are not his only subject. He has written entertainingly on church fountains, decorative door knockers, sanctuary knockers, horse brasses, wool churches, windmills. There is a great demand for his services as a lecturer and he has made a number of appearances on radio and television to tell an interesting story about one or other of the subjects of which he is regarded as an authority. Another of his

ERNEST MORRIS' CONTRIBUTION

Dear Sir.—Maybe with a little local bias, I would suggest that Mr. Ernest Morris has made a very great contribution towards the advancement of ringing by a dedicated service. As an author of books on bells and ringing he must have done an enormous amount of research work and devoted all his spare time to the writing and to practical ringing.

He has achieved a great ambition in attaining the gigantic total of 2,000 peals, but it has not all been a question of personal glory. He has gone out to the villages with their five and six bells and has rung and conducted many peals on the smaller numbers, which would never have been rung had it not been for his willingness to accede to requests to help in filling the role of conductor. His life has been given to ringing in many capacities, and he has shown an enthusiasm which few have equalled and which could well be copied.

Leicester. HAROLD G. JENNEY.

A Misunderstanding

A misunderstanding arose over arrangements for a peal of Grandsire Triples at Edenham and one of Bob Major at Heydour. The result was three ringers turned up at Edenham on March 11th and five at Heydour. Through 'The Ringing World' the three convey their apologies to the other five and thank Mrs. Holmes for providing a splendid tea.

THE CONDUCTOR'S STORY OF THE 2,000th PEAL

At the beginning of 1961, when it became apparent that 'Uncle' Ernest would soon be reaching the unique landmark of his ringing career, the conductor asked him what he would like for the occasion. 'Oh! nothing out of the ordinary. Just the usual "Monday band with the customary new method." When the music was given out after the peal on February 20th, it was realised that with a handbell peal with the 'Barrow Boys' (Barrow-on-Soar) on the Thursday and a peal of Grandsire Triples at Threacston on the Saturday, the following Monday would be THE day. The handbell peal at Barrow was duly accomplished, but, sad to say, the Grandsire Triples came to grief after 20 minutes' ringing, and so it was a very sad Ernest that the conductor met on Sunday morning. However, a peal of Plain Bob Major 'in hand' on the Sunday afternoon was successfully brought round (much to the annoyance of the conductor's wife and family!).

And so the stage was set. No special preparations were made. By Ernest's own request, it was to be the ordinary Monday band. In any case, it was not certain to be the 2,000th until 4 p.m. the previous day. Nevertheless, 'The Leicester Mercury' on Monday night had a middle page article, with photograph, titled 'Ernest Morris Attempts His 2,000th Peal Tonight.' Before the peal started the Leicester 'Evening Mail' reporter was taking notes and at the conclusion both 'The Mail' and 'Mercury' took photographs and after a celebration drink at the Bell Foundry House—thanks to Paul Taylor, without whose enthusiastic co-operation the peal would not have been possible—Ernest was taken to Leicester to make a recording for the B.B.C. programme 'Today,' which was heard on both editions on Tuesday morning. It was nearly 11.30 p.m. before a very tired but jubilantly happy Ernest reached home, where 'Auntie' Beattie was waiting to congratulate him. She has shared in many of his joyous ambitions.

For the peal, all the band rang in their usual positions and was quite clear of trips. We decided to name the method Morrison (a village near Swansea), in honour of Ernest and I hope that the Exercise will agree that this is a reasonable enough name for this peal.

Now that this landmark in the history of ringing has been reached, the question is who will be the next? Whoever it is, I am sure that Ernest Morris will be the first to congratulate him.

B. G. WARWICK.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD

The quarterly meeting of the North Dorset Branch was held at Shroton, also known as Iwerne Courtney, on March 4th. Twenty-three members from 13 towers, including visitors from Cheltenham, were present. Methods rung ranged from Plain Bob Doubles to Kent, together with some rounds and call changes for beginners.

The Branch was welcomed at the service by the Rector, the Rev. Dr. R. M. Taylor, a former chairman of the Branch, and an excellent tea was provided later in the village hall.

At the business meeting five new members were elected, viz: the Misses Margaret Jukes and Lorrain Jenkins, and Messrs. Michael Percy, Kenneth Jukes and James Dunster.

Arrangements for the annual festival of the Guild at Calne were discussed and it was hoped to arrange a coach if there would be enough support.

Ringing was resumed later at Child Okeford and Iwerne Minster

EDGAR SHEPHERD RECALLS

I recollect very well my brother, Hubert Shepherd, bringing home No. 1 of 'The Ringing World.' At that time I had not commenced to ring, but I recall reading the paper with great interest, and being particularly struck with the very first name in the peal columns, Tom O'Hara, and admiring the tall collar of that good-looking young fellow, Mr. A. B. Peck.

By the year 1915 I was buying my own copy of the paper, and I took great care of all the preceding numbers. The articles on Bob Major by Trollope, on the composition of Grandsire Triples by Davies, and the proof of Treble Bob by Lindoff (all in the early volumes) interested me vastly. It was through 'The Ringing World' (in 1916) that I struck up acquaintance with Ernest Morris, and the point of contact was something arising out of the ringing of Minimus!

My scrap book of cuttings from the journal starts in 1914, with a note on a novel form of Single for use in Plain Bob Minor, and pasted in succeeding pages are numerous extracts cut from the paper and sent home from Flanders during the soldiering days. Among these it is interesting to note a letter from W. A. Cave, 'from a dug-out in France' giving some views on the length of peals and on starting courses in Siedman Caters.

Moving from home, and many changes in domestic life, caused me to dispose of most of the early volumes of 'The Ringing World' (a matter I now regret), but I have the original Volume I, as we took it in 1911, and this I bound myself as a real labour of love some years ago.

When young, I venerated and revered the contributors to our paper and regarded (in imagination) the unseen J. S. Goldsmith with awe. Later, the privilege of meeting him brought the realisation of his kindness and courtesy. He had his finger on the pulse of the Exercise, and his leaders were masterpieces of direct expression.

I feel that the greatest of all the contributors to 'The Ringing World' (and indeed perhaps to all ringing literature) was J. A. Trollope. It is a fascinating study to pursue the trend of his writings (and his controversial correspondence) right from his early days, and to perceive the mental struggles, the indecisions and the doubts, out of which arose his magnificent grasp of method construction. Of ringing history he had a vast wealth of material, and it is by means of this and his incredible energy and industry that he was able to keep the paper going in what must now seem a miraculous manner.

Some day, perhaps, someone will write us a history of ringing literature and journalism. We may then learn more fully of the events leading up to the dramatic and stormy entry of 'The Ringing World' into the life of the Exercise, to take the torch from the exhausted and falling 'Bell News,' and to mark out Jack Goldsmith for a place among the very first servants of the Exercise.

1,000 TOWER RINGERS

Dear Sir,—It would be interesting to know how many ringers there are who have rung in a thousand or more towers. If any ringer who has 1,000 or more towers to his credit cares to write to me within the next month giving details of his present score, I shall be pleased to prepare a 'League Table' which might be of sufficient interest for publication in 'The Ringing World.' It would also be interesting if the ringer also gave the year in which he, or she, first started ringing.—Yours sincerely,

E. T. PAUL FIELD.

'RINGING FOR SERVICE'

We do not believe that the only good work done by the Sunday Service Ringing Committee of the Central Council lies in the production of this little book; but even if it were, the formation of that committee would be amply justified. This is a publication whose importance will surely prove to be quite unrelated to its modest size, for it must be the first really authoritative work ever to be put into the hands of ringers for their guidance in administering their work—that is unless one counts Ellacombe's book on Belfries and Ringers, which, first published nearly a century ago, had no concern with Sunday service ringing. 'It is certainly desirable that the ringers, as officers of the church, should be in attendance (at Sunday service); but that cannot be expected of men of that grade, unless they are paid for it...—yes it's about time we replaced Ellacombe on Belfries and Ringers.

Here is a book, now, full of sound matter. There is encouragement and commendation for those whose towers are well and regularly manned; there is hope and advice for those who are not so lucky; there is probably something to prick the consciences even of a band of paragons. It is a book written by a group of perfectionists, but would it be worth anything if it were not? The writing is concise, clear and often pithy: 'technical competence is not to be thought of as leadership'; 'being late for ringing is equivalent to being late for a church service...'; 'change ringing, or more advanced ringing, at any price is a foolish doctrine for service ringing.'

The people who compiled 'Ringing for Service' may be perfectionists, but they are emphatically not ringing snobs. They are writing for the Spiced Surprise Maximus bands and for the rough-rounds-on-five bands, and they are not writing down to the latter from the dizzy heights of the former or sniping at the first with the inverted snobbery sometimes found among the second. They are interested only in helping the Exercise to see that there is good ringing, everywhere, every Sunday, and if every belfry table and every tower captain's bookshelf (or better still his pocket) carries a copy of this little book, they will have done that cause a notable service.

It remains to say only that the book is admirably laid out, in good print and clear, readable format, and that the illustrations, some of them very witty, do much to emphasise the message of the print.

A VOICE FROM THE REMOTE LAKE DISTRICT

Improved modes of travel have undoubtedly helped to advance our ringing and we now constitute a small but very interesting ringing community.

Over the past 50 years two giants have appeared among us. William Robinson, of Ambleside ('Cocker' to his friend), and Nicholas M. Newby, of Ulverston. 'Cocker' was indeed a giant among ringers, he loved to bring his 'Grandsire' home at hand and for which he was famous throughout Lancashire. His service as a committee man in the Association must have been an ordeal for anyone: it entailed a start at 6 a.m. on Saturday morning and return near the same time on Sunday morning, 15 miles of walking and everybody knew that he caught the 3.33 a.m. train from Preston.

Nick Newby succeeded him. Who in the North has not heard of Nick? If you are coming to the Lakes, write to Nick, he'll fix you up. If you live in the Lake District join one of his classes; he runs two a week.

The unbounded enthusiasm of these two stalwarts has advanced ringing in the Lake District very far.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

'A FRATERNITY SECOND TO NONE'

Dear Sir,—In its fifty years of existence 'The Ringing World' has fulfilled many functions, but there is one about which no reference has been made as far as I can recall and it not only made a big impact on me, but let me see that by taking up ringing I had joined a fraternity second to none.

The Great War of 1914 started and in the issue dated August 21st, 1914, reference was made to a suggestion that a list be published of ringers serving in the Navy or Army in the war. This suggestion was carried out and the first name on the roll of honour was Capt. C. F. Jerram, R.M.L.I.

I enlisted on November 6th, 1914, and in the issue dated November 20th, 1914, under the roll of honour appeared—'Pte. J. P. Fidler, of Norbury, Cheshire, 9th Batt. Royal Scots, now at Olympia, Edinburgh,' but I was not aware of this at the time. On church parade, Sunday morning, November 22nd, my name was called out and I was ordered to report at the Orderly Room. Naturally I wondered what was amiss. On arrival at the Orderly Room I was introduced to Mr. Sampson, leader of the ringers at St. Mary's Cathedral, Edinburgh, who, having seen my name in that week's issue, had gone to Battalion H.Q. to seek me out. I told him I could ring rounds only, but that made no matter. He took me off to St. Mary's and soon I had made friends with Will Fyfe, Robinson, etc. In due course I was taken across to St. Cuthbert's to meet Mr. C. S. Heathcote, Cleveland Ellis, and the Whitsons, and ultimately Tower Taylor, of Portsmouth, who was stationed at Rosyth. Incidentally, as a result of Mr. Sampson's call at the Orderly Room, I was excused church parade so that I could go to St. Mary's.

Being such a novice at that time I should not have had the courage to have gone up to those towers, but owing to 'The Ringing World,' and thanks to it, I was soon made to feel one of them and, what is more, I was never at a loose end. In those days our pay was 1s. per day, so for the best part of the week my pocket was empty and as the Army food left very much to be desired, had no money to supplement it, but Will Fyfe, up at Bruntsfield, and Mr. Sampson saw to the supplementing.

Frequently I have wondered how many benefited in a similar manner through 'The Ringing World's' roll of honour. Then, later on, when stationed in Essex, I was contacted by the late Rev. H. T. W. Eayre, of Great Totham, then secretary of the Essex Association, met the Saver family and eventually Charles Howard, Bill Keeble and Frank Claydon. Billy Eayre, as he was affectionately known, had a car, a rarity in those days, and most Saturdays found me reporting at Great Totham Vicarage, so that I could go to a meeting somewhere, for Mr. Eayre rarely missed attending a District meeting.

Since National Service came in, those ringers who took advantage of their ability to ring also made many friends. Yes, being a ringer has many advantages.—Yours, etc.

Loughborough. JOHN P. FIDLER.

CUMBERLANDS AND EIGHT SPLICED

Dear Sir.—Regarding the footnote to the peal of eight spliced rung at Gravesend, Kent, by the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths as the first of eight spliced for the Society, a peal of eight spliced was rung for the Society at Hunsdon, Herts, on October 4th, 1953.

The band was W. C. Marshall, R. J. Sharp, C. E. Jeffries, A. J. Lancelfield, F. G. Huckstepp, M. W. Marshall, M. S. Lancelfield (conductor) and Harry Parkes.—Yours sincerely, F. G. HUCKSTEPP.

I should also like to agree with Lt.-Col. Scott, R.A.M.C. (Belfry Gossip, January 27th), that handbells would be a very good way of providing music in overseas units, especially one situated, as is my own, within three miles of the foothills of the Himalayas.

MORE IMPORTANT POSITION TODAY

Dear Sir.—I remember vividly the thrill, as a student, of opening the paper on its arrival, week by week, to note performances and digest the 'correspondence'—generally followed with the eagerness akin to that engendered by exciting instalments of a serial story! Incisiveness without bitterness seemed the key-note of those days; and would that it prevailed today!

However, the paper occupies a more important position in the realm of ringing today than it ever has done, and both as a private individual and an officer of the College one urges the fullest support; because without it the uniquely British art of change ringing might well lapse; but with it this traditional and invaluable service to the Church cannot but develop and flourish. Every good wish for the paper's future.—Yours sincerely,

ALBERT YORK-BRAMBLE.

Southsea.

WANTS METHOD CHECKED

Dear Sir.—In your issue of March 3rd, on page 140, is the report of a peal of Xingu Surprise Minor and at the bottom of the column the method is given as:—

—36—14—12—36, 12, 34—

H.L. 38, L.H. 12, 1645.

Presuming that the half-lead should read 36 and not 38, will the conductor, please, verify these figures.

As it stands at the moment the method contravenes the Central Council's rules for regular methods: the 4th in the first lead has four blows in 3rds place.—Yours faithfully,

WILFRID F. MORETON.

OBITUARY

MR. RICHARD D. LANGFORD

With regret we record the death of Mr. Richard Dean Langford, of Crewe, on March 5th, at the age of 69. In his passing the Chester Diocesan Guild mourns the loss of a faithful servant and a beloved friend.

A member of a ringing family, he followed in the footsteps of his grandfather (a ringer at St. Alkmund's, Whitchurch), and of his father, and became the leader of the band at Christ Church, Crewe. A member of the Chester Diocesan Guild for 54 years, he served as secretary and Ringing Master of the Crewe Branch for 30 years (1922-1952), and represented the Guild on the Central Council.

Those of us who had the privilege of being associated with him or of working with him during that time were endeared to 'the Dean' by the bright and cheery manner which he brought to the activities of the Branch. He took a particular interest in young ringers, and was always ready with helpful advice and words of encouragement, wherever necessary. His ability as a ringer and conductor was widely known, and although the total number of his peals is not recorded, he had rung 114 peals for the Chester Diocesan Guild.

A loyal churchman, he had served for many years as a member of the Parochial Church Council, a representative to the Diocesan Conference and a sidesman at Christ Church.

The esteem in which he was held was shown by the large number of his friends, from ringing and church circles, who attended the funeral on March 8th.

A devoted servant of the Church and a Christian gentleman has passed to his rest. We are the poorer for his passing; a gap, which will be difficult to fill, has been left in our ranks, but we thank God for the example of his life. May he rest in peace.

W. K.

ODE TO RINGING

Men meet in a room, and women too,
All sure of what they've come to do;
No tools or chattels do they carry,
Not great men they, just Tom, Dick and Harry.

Their room is like no other room,
Where ropes across the shadows loom;
These may number from four to fourteen,
But no difference this makes to what they mean.

The Master will then to his fellows turn;
With 'Take hold!' all other thoughts they spurn,
They take the ropes, and then anon
'Look to! One's going—she's gone!'

The quiet is broken by a gorgeous sound,
Whilst the shadows chase each other round:
Soon ropes and sounds will intermingle,
With music to set your blood a-tingle.

This music you hear, the music of the bells,
To the ringers a wondrous story it tells
Of the Glory of God, and to all it's bringing Their offering to Him, the art of ringing.

Cambridge.

Granddaughter Carrying On

Mr. Harry Prout, who died last July, had until then been a subscriber from 'The Ringing World,' No. 1. His grand-daughter, Nancy Wilcox, of the Warsop tower, who is 21, hopes to continue his subscription for the next 50 years. The late Mr. Prout was a member of the Bath and Wells Association, Gloucester and Bristol, Salisbury and Southwell Guilds and the Ancient Society of College Youths.

GUILDFORD GUILD PLAN SPECIAL RINGING

APRIL 12th, the day of the enthronement of the fifth Bishop of Guildford, Bishop-Designate George E. Reindorp, will be a day of ringing throughout the Diocese. At the annual meeting of the Guildford Diocesan Guild of Church Bell Ringers, held at St. Saviour's Hall, Guildford, on March 4th, the Master (Mr. C. W. Denyer) told the 150 ringers present that the Guild wanted the bells in every church in the Diocese to be rung for at least half an hour as a welcome to the new Bishop, who was president of the Guild.

The Bishop-Designate sent a message to the meeting. It read: 'Bells have called people to worship since Old Testament times. I look forward to hearing them ring all over the Guildford Diocese. The College Youths are ringing a peal on the solemn occasion of my consecration at Southwark Cathedral.'

CATHEDRAL BELL FUND

The annual report stated that the bell being hung in the New Cathedral to the memory of Alfred H. Pulling was being cast at White-chapel. In addition to the cost of the 12½ cwt. bell and fittings they still needed another £200 for electrical connections and the hoisting tackle. These were the responsibility of the contractors building the Cathedral; they asked all members and friends to give and give again, so that there would be no outstanding account when the consecration of the Cathedral and bell took place on May 17th.

The Master said the amount now needed was £150. On the day of the consecration of the Cathedral they wanted all the bells of the Guildford Diocese and the Surrey Association of Church Bell Ringers to ring.

The meeting approved of the sum of £20 being donated from the Leatherhead District Funds to the Pulling Memorial Bell.

The report gave the total membership of the Guild as 638, comprising 547 ringing and 91 honorary. The year was a steady one. In three of the four Districts the work had been progressive, but the Guildford District needed more support at meetings.

A faculty had been granted for the re-hanging of Ashted bells in a new frame, the work being entrusted to John Taylor and Co., of Loughborough, who recast and rehung the bells of St. Michael's, Aldershot. The White-chapel Foundry was overhauling the eight at Shere and Grayshott, and it was understood that they were later to supply an additional bell at Stoke D'Abernon.

PEAL TABLET DISPUTE

The Master reported on the Consistory Court hearing of the dispute arising from the Garfath peals tablet in Farnham Parish Church. The Chancellor made no order as to fees and these incurred by Farnham Parochial Church Council amounted to between £75 and £100.

The meeting decided to vote £5 towards this cost. It was emphasised that peal tablets could not be erected in a belfry without a faculty. For a detachable peal board a faculty was not necessary.

Officers re-elected were: Master, Mr. C. W. Denyer (Farnham); honorary secretary and treasurer, Mr. S. Russell (Ash); assistant honorary secretary, Mrs. G. Chapman (Aldershot); honorary auditor, Mr. P. G. Sherwood (Ash).

31 PEALS

The Peal Recorder (Mr. E. J. Bragg, Aldershot) said 31 peals had been rung during the year. They were rung by 99 ringers in 16 different methods, in 22 towers, and with 13 different conductors. Mr. C. J. Beadle (Farnham) conducted his first peal at Frensham, and this was the 1,000th for the Guild. Thirteen members rang their first peal, the most first pealers for a number of years.

New members were elected from Shalford, Shere, Cranleigh, Ash, Chiddingfold, Farnham, Aldershot and Epsom.

The Master stated that on June 17th the Guild were to be hosts to ringers from all over England in connection with the golden jubilee of 'The Ringing World.' There would be a pilgrimage to the grave of the founder and first editor, Mr. J. S. Goldsmith, Evensong at the Cathedral and a social evening afterwards. The Master recalled that Mr. Goldsmith was the first secretary of their Guild. The annual dinner of the Guild would be held on April 15th and an autumn festival in the Farnham District on September 30th.

Previous to the meeting there was ringing at Guildford churches. A service was held in Holy Trinity Cathedral Church and the singing was led by a robed choir of ringers from the Farnham District. The Rev. C. G. Stables officiated, and gave an address, and the organist was Mr. Stanley G. Ponting. Tea was served in St. Saviour's Hall by ladies of St. Saviour's parish, arranged by the Rev. W. L. and Mrs. White.

CANON R. F. WILKINSON

Members of the Southwell Diocesan Guild are offering their best wishes to their chairman, Canon R. F. Wilkinson, on his pending retirement as Rector of West Bridgford, Notts, after 20 years in office.

He has done much bell restoration work in Notts, especially in post-war years. His own church, which formerly had three bells, now has a ring of eight, hung in 1958. In the church is still the old bell of 1499, cast by Richard Mellers, of Nottingham. The octave includes seven of the bells from Perchthorpe in Thorseby Park.

In 1946, when the old Midland Counties Association was dissolved, Canon Wilkinson, with the co-operation of the old North Notts Association, was instrumental in forming the Southwell Diocesan Guild, which embraces all the towers in Nottingham and has now four flourishing Districts. A farewell peal to him has been rung.

Gratefully Acknowledged

The Editorial Committee acknowledges with gratitude the following donations towards the cost of producing 'The Ringing World':—

LONDON COUNTY ANNUAL

The London County Association's annual meeting was held at the Association's old headquarters, St. Clement Danes', just 21 years after the annual was last held at this church. Ringing in the afternoon was at this church and also St. Giles-in-the-Fields.

Mr. W. D. Grainger conducted the service, at which the organ was played by Mr. A. J. Boyack. Both are members of the Association and those present began to realise how long Mr. Grainger had been a member when, in his address, he referred to attending at St. Clement Danes' to ring in the whole pull and stand at the passing of the late Mr. John Carter, the famous composer. A course of Grandsire Caxers was rung on handbells during the service by Messrs. H. W. Rogers, W. G. Wilson, A. D. Barker, Mrs. O. L. Rogers and Mr. F. E. Hawthorne.

Tea, business and a social evening was then held at the George Hotel, Strand.

At the business meeting, Mr. W. G. Wilson was elected to the chair in the absence of the Master, Mr. T. H. Taffender, who was in hospital. One of the important items of business dealt with was the temporary suspension of the rules relating to the Northern and Southern Districts. The principal object of this is to allow greater flexibility of operation and to strengthen meetings and service ringing throughout the whole area of the Association. It was explained that whilst most of the meetings had been well attended, certain areas were weak in local support and one of the aims of the temporary change was to rectify this. The venue for the next meeting was decided as St. Mary's, Leyton, E., on April 8th.

The officers elected for 1961/62 were: Master, T. H. Taffender; Deputy Master, F. W. Mead; treasurer and librarian, W. G. Wilson; secretary, H. W. Rogers; assistant secretaries, Miss M. Powell and S. Bullock; stewards, C. M. Meyer and Miss June Mead; trustees, C. W. Otley and J. A. Hales.

Two teams entered for the handbell competition for the 'Dawe' Cup, which was won by Isleworth.

50 YEARS AGO

'R.W.' March 24th, 1911.—

After doing duty for over 30 years as steeple keeper at Tonbridge Parish Church, Mr. George Rabbitt has given up the office, and his services have been recognised by the ringers, who have presented him with a handsome pedestal clock. The presentation was made by the Vicar (the Rev. Canon C. G. Baskerville).

The new tower and bells added to the Parish Church of Caerphilly (St. Martin's) were dedicated on March 14th, by the Bishop of Landaff, the occasion providing further proof of the zeal of the church workers in the parish of Caerphilly, and reflecting additional credit upon the energy of the Rector, the Rev. Cannop L. Price, M.A., who is clerical honorary secretary of the Landaff Diocesan Association of Change Ringers.

MR. R. F. B. SPEED,

'Four Winds,' School Lane,

Stretton-on-Dunsmore, Rugby, Warwicks.

MR. PHILIP A. CORBY,

Kent County Association.

Some ringers are born with a ringing silver spoon in their mouth. They are fortunate enough to learn where there is a good band, and they have plenty of opportunity for peal ringing. Their progress, if they are capable, is assured from the start. This was not so with Mr. Philip A. Corby, of Sevenoaks, Kent, who is a director of a London Building and Civil Engineering company. He has gained the high position he holds in the Exercise through the hard way, and it is entirely due to his own skill and ability that he has reached the eminent position he has held for the last 20 years.

Philip was born at Sutton, Isle of Ely, Cambs, on June 22nd, 1917, and educated at the John Henry Burrows Intermediate School, Grays, Essex. He learnt to ring at Laindon Hills, Essex, in May, 1931, starting with call changes until 1933, but by cycling to Orsett, Stanlord-le-Hope and Foobing, he mastered Grandsire Doubles and Bob Minor, and visits to Barking taught him Grandsire Triples.

In January, 1935, he moved to Sydenham, Kent, and joined the bands at Penge and Beckenham. He rang his first peal at Cudham on May 30th, 1936, being Bob Royal, conducted by Thomas Groombridge, jun. He soon started conducting, and called a peal of Bob Major on April 24th, 1937. It was not long before he was called peals with those well known Kent worthies, Bert Audsley, Fred Cullum, the late Harry Hoverd, and the Barnetts. In this department he has few equals. Philip is one of those gifted ringers who can take the last bell left, and call a peal of anything he can ring. He is very clever at 'picking up' trips, an essential qualification for any conductor, though few have his ability in this direction. His present peal total is 622, of which he has conducted 377, including 318 different compositions. They have been rung in 228 different towers, and 16 peals on handbells, including Stedman Caters. He has rung peals in 39 different Surprise Major and Royal methods, calling 36 of them, including London Royal. Many of these have either been rung for the first time or first for the Kent County Association, for whom he has rung 358 peals, calling 221 in 80 Kent towers. In Spliced Surprise Major he has rung 46 from 3 to 11 methods, calling 30 of them.

He is particularly proud of two performances, the first being Pitman's four-spliced with all the work rung non-conducted at Dore, Derbyshire, on June 6th, 1959, and the second, the first four-spliced ever rung with all the work at Lambeth on April 19th, 1947, composed and conducted by Harold Cashmore, the band including Charles W. Roberts, Maurice Hibbert and Ernest Turner. This was also the first peal he rang, as man and wife, with Lucille M. Hubbert, whom he married a week earlier. Lucille is a competent ringer, who learnt at Edmonton under Mrs. E. K. Fletcher and John Thomas, and at Oxford under John E. Spice. Their first peal together was at Edenbridge on October 6th, 1945. Lucille's 100th peal was Philip's 500th, rung at Enderby, Leics, on November 22nd, 1954. They have two children, Andrew, aged 12, who has rung three quarter peals, and Judith, aged 10, who is a member of the Ladies' Guild on the strength of ring 1-2 to Grandsire Triples, and is now learning to handle a bell.

Amongst other outstanding peals is a peal of Bristol at Heavitree, Devon, on July 9th, 1948, rung almost without a mistake, and he is very proud to have rung a peal with three generations of the Barnett family, the youngest being his goddaughter. This was rung at Crayford on January 14th, 1961.

Philip has taken his share of offices, and is always pleased to help others. He was Master of the Southern District of the London County Association from 1938-39, and also Central Council representative from 1939-45. He was C.C. representative for K.C.A. from 1952-53, and again from 1960. From 1953-57 he lived in Melton Mowbray, and was captain of the local band from 1955-57, C.C. representative for the Leicester Guild from 1954-59, and also vice-president of the Guild from 1956-58. Since 1957 he has been a member of the Standing Committee of the Central Council, and a committee member of the K.C.A. from 1945-53 and from 1957 to date. He joined the Ancient Society of College Youths in 1937.

In late 1957 he moved to Sevenoaks, and has been captain of the local band since 1958. They have a very good band, and rang a course of London for Christmas Day, 1960. This is largely due to the long years of spade-work and enthusiasm of Miss Doris Colgate, honorary general secretary of the Ladies' Guild.

Like many peal ringers, Philip enjoys taking part in peal tours, and started a series of tours, which have subsequently been taken over by Tom Lock. They visited Devon in 1948 and 1949, Sussex in 1950, and Wores in 1951. He has joined the party for some of the time most years since. On one tour at Folkestone, in 1945, arranged by F. C. W. Knight, he called 12 peals in 12 attempts during the week, and in 1945 he called 31 peals for the K.C.A., only equalled by John H. Cheeseman, but never surpassed.

Philip takes his ringing very seriously, and insists on a high standard at all times. At the same time he is always glad to help someone through a first peal or first in the method, however simple. His businesslike manner in the belfry has earned him the respect of all who know him, and he is probably one of the few ringers whose friendly rivals can find little to criticise. In every direction he is a first class example to all.

THE 143rd FOURTH OF MARCH AT APPLETON

MORE by good luck than judgment, Fourth of March fell on March 4th, a happy coincidence as this year marked the centenary of the augmentation of the Appleton bells, sufficient reason for the celebrations to be on an even larger scale than in previous years.

The day started well, both as regards the weather and the success of the peal in the morning, conducted by Brian, youngest of the ringing Whites. Visitors from all parts of the country enjoyed themselves during the afternoon, ringing on the famous ring and being refreshed at 'The Plough,' whose only failing was its inability to supply the wife of a well known Oxford ringer with a cup of tea.

The landlord of this hostelry, assisted by local ringers and friends, was responsible also for the excellent spread, which greeted us as we converged for the evening's festivities. Over 120 sat down to the meal, held for the first time in the village hall, with the Rector, the Rev. A. Tindall-Hart, in the chair.

When it was apparent that all had had their fill, the loyal toast was drunk, and Sir Basil Blackwell rose to propose the toast of 'The Church.' Departing from the usual formula he confined his attention to the church at Appleton, reminding the company of its debt to those who had provided this heritage. Although caught unawares by this novel approach, the Rev. C. Elliot Wigg, drawing on his many years' experience as Master of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, gave a fitting reply. He spoke of the large part played by the Appleton ringers in the life of their church, and the opportunity they had always provided for visitors from neighbouring towers to gain experience in change ringing.

Mr. F. Sharpe, speaking next, gave an account of the history of Appleton ringing, recalling the traditions of the White family, and the many records gained in this village. On behalf of the Exercise, he wished them every success for the future, and gave the toast 'The Appleton Society.'

In his response, Frank White referred to the ringer who had said, 'It will be worth the cost of the ticket just to hear old Frank try to make a speech,' but did not reveal which relation of his it was. After welcoming the company, he thanked the Rector for his continued support and co-operation. Masterfully living up to the reputation accorded him through the columns of 'The Ringing World,' by an American lady handbell ringer, he entertained us with a story of old Appleton in 'real Berkshire.'

Not quite sure whether he was qualified to propose the toast of 'The Visitors,' Mr. W. Hibbert welcomed ringers from a formidable list of towers throughout the country, mentioning in particular Mr. A. A. Hughes, from the Whitechapel Foundry, who, voicing in his reply the feelings of all present, expressed thanks for the excellent arrangements for the day and his hopes that he would be there again in future years.

After the tables had been cleared away, Fred Sharpe sang the traditional Fourth of March song and the informal part of the evening began. From the Appleton ringers came tune ringing on handbells, and a lapped course of Grandsire Caters, which was going beautifully until a clapper fell out—it happens in the best of families—their reputation being restored at a second attempt.

The well-loved Appleton songs—'The Long Peal,' 'The Nightingale,' 'The Midnight Peal'—were all sung enthusiastically by soloists and chorus alike. As the evening progressed, old acquaintanceships were renewed and new friends made, while from all parts of the hall came reminiscences of previous Fourths.

All too soon it was time to leave; as we steadily drifted away enquiries could be heard for tickets for next year's celebration, when the completion of another year in the history of Appleton bells will, no doubt, be suitably remembered.

THE LADIES' GUILD
Western District

The annual District meeting was held at St. James', Bristol, on March 11th, when there was a fair attendance of members.

Afternoon ringing was followed by a short service conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. E. Hopkins. Tea was taken in the Church House, after which the business meeting was held. Officers were elected as follows: Vice-president, Mrs. H. L. Parfrey; secretary and treasurer, Miss B. Johnson; committee, Mrs. D. Bennett, Mrs. de Jong, Miss R. Webb, Miss N. Williams; Central Committee representative, Mrs. Bennett. Four new members were elected: Miss J. Reason, Miss C. Ritchens and Miss Burt (all from Twerton) and Miss J. Kelley (Wrington).

Fixed ahead are an evening practice on May 3rd and a joint meeting with South Wales District in June. See 'Ringing World' for details.

ST. DAVID'S DIOCESAN GUILD

A quarterly meeting was held at St. Ellyw, Llanelly, on March 11th, attended by 55 members. The Vicar, Canon Howard Williams, officiated at the service, the organist being Mr. D. Pugh. The Ringing Master, Mr. R. Warburton, proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the ladies of the church, who prepared such a nice tea.

The Vicar opened the business meeting by welcoming the Guild to Llanelly. A touch on the handbells was given by Messrs. G. Thomas, R. Warburton, A. Hoare and E. Morris. The Master of the Guild, Mr. G. Thomas, announced the monthly practices: one at Llandeilo for eastern members, and the other at Haverfordwest for the remainder.

A collection for the Bell Restoration Fund realised the sum of £2 4s. 6d. One new life ringing member and seven probationary members were elected.

LATE NEWS

Greetings From American Handbell Ringers

Dear Sir.—On behalf of the members of the American Guild of English Handbell Ringers, I am sending to you our congratulations and best wishes from this side of the Atlantic, during your 50th anniversary celebrations.

We are very much aware of our indebtedness to you for furthering the art of bell-ringing and for sharing so generously what you have created and learned through the years.

Bellringing is now bringing joy and beauty to thousands of lives in this country, and we want you to know that we are trying our best to equal the same enthusiasm and high standards of the art which you have set in years past and are maintaining at the present time.—Cordially,

ROBERT HIEBER,
President, A.G.E.H.R.

Restoration Of St. Benedict's, Cambridge

Dear Sir.—I think the greatest achievement among ringers during the last half century was the restoration of the bells and tower of St. Benedict's Church, Cambridge, in 1931, to mark the tercentenary of the birth of Fabian Stedman, the father of change ringing.

Not only did the ringers of the world pay the cost of restoring the bells, but they had to make the tower safe, as it was in a very dangerous state. This called for a considerable amount of ingenuity on the part of the Central Council experts, such as constructing a reinforced concrete corbel course round the tower, lowering the bell frame 12 feet and grouting the walls, thus making Stedman's famous bells ringable for many years to come.—Yours faithfully,

F. NEALE.

EASTER

By REV. P. T. ROBBINS

MOST familiar events and places have associations for people—associations which sometimes take the form of a mental picture which springs to mind whenever the event or place is mentioned. Say 'London,' for instance, and many people will immediately picture the dome of St. Paul's Cathedral, or the river with its bridges, or Trafalgar Square.

There is a particular mental picture which the word 'Easter' always produces in my mind. I think of an ancient church, with a simple, strong, stone tower, with the flag of St. George flying bravely above; beneath in the churchyard is a sea of daffodils; and one can hear the bells ringing. Oddly enough this picture, fanciful though no doubt it is, and probably built up from dimly-remembered pictures on Easter cards, takes us right to the heart of what Easter really means.

First the church and tower. There is a church of some sort in every parish, and it is there as a standing reminder of God. The country church tower among the trees and the town church spire above the chimney pots alike remind heedless, busy people of the things of God, and the tower, if he has eyes to see this, tells how men ought to lift their hearts and hopes to God on high. Easter likewise is a reminder about God. To the first Christians it was the thing on which their whole faith in God rested. They were not too sure about Jesus after Good Friday. The Resurrection convinced them that Jesus was God's Son; God was in Christ; the whole life and death of Jesus was something which God had done. For us, too, Easter should be much more than a welcome opportunity for a holiday; it should be a tremendous reminder about God. For so much of our lives we forget altogether about Him. We even wonder whether there really is a God at all. But once upon a time there was an empty tomb, and the One who had been in it was raised from the dead by God. Let us never forget that.

Then there are the daffodils round the church. They may in fact be over by Easter, but the flowering of bulbs in spring always cheers our hearts because it speaks to us of the return of life after the deadness of winter. But winter is by no means the gloomiest thing we see. The world contains a lot of deadness: fear, frustration, anxiety, suffering, that continual falling short of goodness and happiness that all of us experience, and above all the gnawing certainty that everything in our life is bound to be terminated by death. But Easter tells us of the new life which is to come after the winter of this present one. We think of when God raised Jesus to new life—a new life which was not just a continuation of the old one, but something new, higher and finer. At Easter we recall that this new life is the high hope and destiny of all us who believe and trust in Christ.

Finally the bells. Bells ring out with both a proclamation and a summons. 'Hear what we have to say,' they call, 'and come!'. It was in this spirit that the early Church set out upon its task. Their faith and their joy were not things to be kept quiet or enjoyed in private: they were things to be proclaimed fearlessly and insistently and shared with all men. And why? Because men as they were were doomed to death and destruction, and must be summoned to share in the wonderful gift of life which God was offering. Thus they preached, and converted. And so it is today. Both as ringers and as plain Christians, we have the privilege and duty to proclaim both our faith, and also the wonderful grace and the mighty acts of God in which we put our faith, and to summon others to believe and to share in God's gifts.

And so on Easter Day, when those who are more fortunate than this writer go to their towers to ring—some at dawn for the earliest service of the day, others later in the morning, and all once again for Evensong—remember how you are a living part of this symbol of Easter—the church and its tower, the signs of new life outside, and the sound of ringing—and pray that up and down our land, and indeed wherever bells are rung on this joyful day, the sound may be in people's ears as a reminder of God, and of the hope and new life which are in Him, a proclamation of His truth, and a summons to faith and service.

MANCHESTER UNIVERSITY GUILD DINNER

AN attendance of 44 was recorded at the Manchester University dinner on March 11th, at Rowntree's Restaurant. Previous to this 12 members of the Guild nearly distinguished themselves by ringing 3 hours of Stedman Cinques at the Town Hall before the president called Stand. The time of the breakdown (5.30) proved most convenient.

After an excellent dinner the loyal toast was proposed by the president, Mr. Derek Ogden, who was in the chair for the evening.

The toast to the Guild was proposed by Canon R. L. Hussey, who hoped we wouldn't be as unfortunate as the ringer recently mentioned in the 'Daily E . . . s' who was jabbed with a sword by an irate listener. Mr. G. Fearnough replied and suggested Canon Hussey might follow a nineteenth century example and fill the tenor bell at Salford with ale, to the Guild's obvious advantage. The visitors were toasted by Mr. G. F. Wix and in reply Mr. R. B. Smith kept the gathering in suspense for several minutes with a tale of the dangers of non-ringing wives.

Following the speeches came the Guild's annual meeting. The president apologised for the absence of the Ringing Master, who had contracted mumps, and wished him a speedy return to health. He mentioned the new successful venture of the Northern Universities meetings and that the Universities Association proposed dinner in Manchester next January when they intended to give the North a 'looking over.'

The Master's report was read by Mr. John Soanes and mentioned, in glowing terms, the successful tours and service ringing, and also the many notable peals lost.

The following officers were elected for 1961-2: President, Mr. Derek Ogden; Master, Mr. John Soanes; secretary, Mr. B. Sheppard; committee, Messrs. P. Baker, D. W. Jones, R. J. Johnston; auditor, Mr. Neil Bennett. Five life members were elected.

GUILD of DEVONSHIRE RINGERS

The Mid-Devon Branch held a successful quarterly meeting at St. Saviour's, Torre, Torquay, on March 18th, when all the towers in the Branch were represented, together with visitors from the South West Branch.

Under the supervision of Mr. W. Simmonds, the Branch Ringing Master, the bells were kept going throughout the afternoon, the ringing ranging from rounds for the beginners to Cambridge Surprise Minor. One interesting feature was the ringing of two six-scores of Grandsire Doubles by a ladies' band.

There was a full choir present at the service which was conducted by the Rev. G. E. Porter (Vicar), who warmly welcomed the visitors. After a bountiful tea, prepared by the ladies of the parish, the business meeting followed. Mr. W. J. Harvey was voted to the chair in the absence of the Branch chairman, Mrs. D. E. Hood, who had to return home earlier in the afternoon.

Messrs. R. Pearse, of Torre, and J. Burton, of Babbacombe, were elected members of the Branch, and it was resolved to hold the next meeting at Ilington and Widecombe-in-the-Moor, on July 22nd, subject to permission. With regard to the suggested joint meeting with the South West Branch at Buckfastleigh, it was resolved to include Dean Prior and that the date be Saturday, May 13th, if suitable to the South West Branch. After votes of thanks to all who had helped towards the success of the meeting, there was further ringing at Upton Parish Church.

BEDFORDSHIRE ASSOCIATION

A successful meeting of the Biggleswade District was held at Southill on March 11th, although the attendance at tea was rather disappointing. A short service was conducted by the Rector, Rev. F. Ginever, with Mr. M. Lockey at the organ.

Methods rung ranged from London Surprise to rounds for the probationers.

THE LADIES' GUILD

Kent Branch

The annual meeting of the Kent Branch of the Ladies' Guild was held at All Saints', Staplehurst, on March 11th, jointly with the Maidstone District. Fifty members attended the service, taken by the Rev. T. H. Vickery, who, in his address, praised ringers for their work.

After the tea, provided by local ringers, the Maidstone District meeting was held with Mr. Vickery, father of the Rector, who was unable to attend, in the chair. Seventeen new members were elected to the Association and one life member. Dr. Hatcher spoke about the District party, an annual event, coming off soon, and also the Association certificate which will be available at the annual general meeting at Maidstone on Easter Monday.

On behalf of the Ladies' Guild, Mrs. Mitchell thanked the Maidstone District for allowing them to join their meeting. In reply Mr. P. Carter welcomed the Ladies' Guild, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Barnett and thanked the Rector, the organist and Mr. Vickery.

After the gentlemen had returned to the belfry the Ladies' Guild meeting started with the election of five new members. The officers re-elected were: Vice-president, Mrs. E. M. Mitchell; secretary, Mrs. W. H. Dobbie; committee, Mrs. E. A. Barnett, Mrs. P. A. Corby, Mrs. F. J. Cheal, and Mrs. R. Wratten taking the place of Mrs. C. Tester, who had resigned. Central Committee representatives, Mrs. Barnett and Miss M. R. Andrews. Also a 'Ringing World' correspondent, Miss J. F. Barnett. Next meeting, Dartford, on April 22nd.

J. F. B.

WORCESTER.—On March 11th, at St. John-the-Baptist, 1,260 Grandsire Triples: J. J. Stanier 1, S. T. Holt 2, J. Whitall (first quarter) 3, D. Price 4, J. Slater 5, R. Woodyatt (cond.) 6, D. Beacham 7, C. Skidmore 8.

At the annual meeting of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association to be held at Moreton-in-Marsh on April 8th, members will be asked to decide between two propositions for a memorial to Frank Skidmore—a library to be called 'The Skidmore Library' or that the incumbent of St. Ambrose's, Bristol, be asked to name something to be used in the Church of St. Ambrose as a memorial to Frank Skidmore.

The annual general meeting of the Ladies' Guild will be held at Bedford in July.

The peal at Stonham Aspal, Suffolk, on March 4th (see page 170), was conducted by Dennis A. Chapman.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Pipe, of Melbourne, are 'coming home' for three months in April. They hope to meet many ringing friends at the Central Council meeting at Stoke-on-Trent, on Whit Tuesday.

The Rev. A. J. Vincent, of Kenwyn Vicarage, Truro, has been elected general secretary of Truro Diocesan Guild, in succession to the Rev. W. H. R. Trewheła, of Crantock, Newquay.

Gretton, Northants, band has rung its first quarter since its recent affiliation to the Peterborough Diocesan Guild. The ringers wish to express their appreciation of the services of Mr. C. Green, of Glaston, over the past six months, for his help and encouragement.

With his usual aplomb, writes our Brighton correspondent, Henry Stalham rang in a quarter of Stedman Caters for his 89th birthday, on March 17th. Both Messrs. Len Stillwell and Herbert W. Woolven would like to be associated with the compliment and we are sure there are many others.

In sending a peal of Doubles containing 4 variations of Plain Bob, 2 of Canterbury Pleasure and one of Grandsire, Mr. Roy W. Spencer, of Oundle, comments: 'It seems to me that the real point is whether or not this peal was worth ringing. Doubles methods (or variations), struck well—as this peal was—are far preferable to more ambitious methods scrambled through.'

BELFRY GOSSIP

At the fifth attempt, a peal of Double Norwich Court Bob Major has been scored in Australia, conducted by George W. Pipe, on the front eight of St. Paul's Cathedral, Melbourne. In the band were six 'firsts' and a first 'inside' and these people are to be congratulated on their splendid performance. Special mention must be made of the efforts of the three 'Sydneyiders'—John Fryer, Bill Watson and Ralph Clark (his first above Bob Doubles).

Fourteen-year-old Alan G. Kirk, of Fairfield, Buxton, has made a good start in conducting by calling a peal of Minor in three methods on March 14th.

On March 9th a team of schoolboys rang the bells of Rotherham Parish Church for the Grammar School's annual Founder's Day service. Assisted by boys from Kimberworth Secondary School, Grammar School boys rang Grandsire Doubles, Bob Minor and Little Bob Minor, also call changes on the back eight.

The ringers who stood in the quarter peal at St. Matthew's, Clapton, on March 12th were very thrilled to hear the bells 'come round' because they knew that Charles Gray had scored his first quarter for 30 years. Maybe old friends of Charles will be pleased to know this.

The course on bellringing held at Grantley Hall and opened by the president of the Yorkshire Association, Archdeacon C. O. Ellison, was again a great success. There were lectures and activities in various important phases of our art, and ringing at five towers varied from four bell change ringing exercises to London Surprise Major. A detailed report will be available soon.

A popular friend of ringers is the new Bishop of Guildford. At the consecration of the Very Rev. G. E. Reindorp, Provost of Southwark, as Bishop, by the Archbishop of Canterbury, last Saturday, a touch of Grandsire Caters was rung before the service and Stedman Caters afterwards. Mr. F. E. Collins was the conductor. Later in the day there was a peal attempt.

FIRST PEALERS' PSALM

BY ANOTHER DAVID (MARSHALL)

1. I was glad when they said unto me:
We will go into the House of the Lord.

2. Yea, we will go into his Belfry: and Ring a Peal of Stedman.

3. But now I repent me of my foolish ways: I have been misled by the wiles of them who wish to see their name in 'The Ringing World': I wish I had not consented to ring in this peal.

4. I have never rung a peal before: Never have I stray'd from the ways of righteousness.

5. Twice do I ring each Sunday: never have I written provocative letters to the editor of 'The Ringing World': But now I am fallen into wickedness.

6. Yea, I am in the company of peal-ringers and wrongdoers: I am trying to ring a peal.

7. My bell is become exceeding heavy:
My arms are as of lead: My throat has a raging thirst: How long must I suffer this agony and torment.

8. I have been ringing for ninety minutes:
The time goes by so slowly.

9. Yea, the clock face mocketh me: There are ten score minutes in every hour.

10. I pray that soon I will be delivered:
That I may be saved from the fruit of my iniquity.

11. But what is this I hear, am I to be saved already: I hear the sound of an approaching pile up, a noise of great confusion.

12. The treble man cries in vain, who is doing their first half turn: But no one answereth except the tenor man, who shouts listen to the striking.

13. Is the conductor dumbfounded, why does he not shine in all his glory: and tell everyone what to do.

14. Is he not the greatest in Derbyshire:
is he not the leading Conductor.

15. Perchance he is confounded by the tongue of Jafus: When he calls Bob there is no bob.

16. Suddenly his eyes light upon me, his voice rasps out like a cornflake: Go down before the fourth into the slow: Wake thyself up and close your backstroke leads.

17. I am confused and smitten with despair: I know not whether I am going up or coming down.

18. He yells, know ye not whither thou goest: Turneth ye the seventh at backstroke.

19. Yet not all these men are transgressors:
There is one called Burley the Righteous, who calleth on his Maker for inspiration.

20. Now the bells fireth, their clappers beat out on their lips in tumult: a still small voice calls stand.

21. With acrimony and rancour they fall upon me: Recriminations come from every side. I say they hem me in on every side.

22. And now it is six o'clock, so potman set them up: Before the night is o'er we will have a few more rounds.

23. There is a moral to this story: Which they do not teach in the College of Campanology.

24. If you are of a peace loving nature, and wish to spend your days in tranquillity:
Then dismiss all ambition to become a bellringer.

25. Glory be to our bellringing forefathers and to their sons: and to the bells we ring upon.

Let them sing out in all their glory: For ever- and ever-more.

PERSONALITIES OF THE EXERCISE - 13

MISSES GRACE & KATHERINE BURCHNALL,
Southwell Diocesan Guild.

WHERE have been many examples of married couples, parents and children, brothers and sisters ringing peals together, but the record of the Misses Grace and Katherine Burchnell, of Sutton-on-Trent, Notts, must surely be unique. They are twins and have rung every one of their 282 peals together!

Born at Branston, Lincs, on June 10th,
1897, they were educated at Lincoln High School, one of them finishing as head girl.
In 1919, when their father retired from farming, they went to live at Sutton-on-Trent, but did not learn to ring until 1924. The hells had been increased from five to six (and later made eight), and the late Mr. E. A.
Midwinter asked them to join the band. Their first peal was Bob Minor, rung on January 24th, 1925, and was the first peal on the bells. Since then they have rung 57 peals in this tower, which include all the peals on the bells, except one. They were joint captains of Sutton-on-Trent after Mr. Midwinter's retirement, until their resignation in 1960.

They have a very high reputation for being excellent strikers, and are extremely safe in a peal. Few of their peals have been of their own arranging, and they think with gratitude of the late Arthur Knights, of Chesterfield, who invited them to stand in many peals of Treble Bob with his band, and also of the late John Flint, of Bolsover, who was most kind in fixing up peals for them in Surprise Methods before the war which they had no opportunity of practising locally.
They also made several visits to Handsworth, Sheffield, for peals with Fred Watkinson and his band. More recently, Mr. Harold Denman has given them many invitations to ring peals at Gamston, and they have rung over 100 peals with him. Mr. Jack Millhouse has also included them in several 10-bell peals.
Jack has often mentioned that he was very grateful to them, in his early attempts at conducting, for they could always be relied upon not to make any mistakes!

They would also like to thank Mr. 'Mick' Exton, of the Southwell Guild, who has been a great help to their local band, and has always been willing to put learners through their first touches. They have always been able to maintain a good Sunday service band, and the bells at Sutton-on-Trent have been rung regularly for two Sunday services.
Katherine has conducted one peal of Minor, and Grace has conducted three. Five of their peals have been rung with an all-ladies band. They have rung many peals of Yorkshire. Two of their peals on which they look back with pleasure are a Coronation peal for King George VI in 1937, which started at 6 a.m., and which included Jack and Tom Vessey, also twins, and a similar peal for the Coronation of Queen Elizabeth in 1953.
Some years ago, while staying in London for Easter, they were invited by Mr. William H.
Hewett to ring at St. Margaret's, Westminster, and he called their first quarter peal of Stedman Caters.

They are both very keen workers for the Church, and have been members of their P.C.C. for over 30 years, and also producers of the Church Drama Group. In fact their loyalty to their local band has always been uppermost in their minds.

The Misses Burchnell, in their quiet manner, have done a lot to maintain good ringing in their own District of the Southwell Diocesan Guild, previously part of the North Notts Association. They are very grateful to all those ringers with whom they have come in contact, for they have met with nothing but kindness wherever they have gone ringing, and always been made most welcome. In return it is very certain that those particular ringers hold the twins in very great respect, both for their unfailing cheerfulness and reliability, as well as for setting such a perfectionist standard in their ringing. APACE.

From more than one quarter we have had news of misunderstanding on the part of the newsagents. Ringers have asked for their 'Ringing World' and have been handed a paper with a somewhat similar sounding title having to do with roller skating. It's funny!
The passing craze of rinking is as nothing compared to the science of ringing. Our art will flourish when roller skating is as dead as the dodo.

FIRST SUBSCRIBERS

MAULDEN, Willoughby E., Framlingham.
Joined the Norwich Diocesan Association on January 16th, 1908, and rang his first peal —Oxford T.B.—at Framlingham on September 29th, 1909. Of this band he is the sole survivor. Rung about 200 tower- and 40 handbell peals.

SEDGLEY, Charles J., Ipswich. Born
King's Lynn, 1887, where he learnt to ring.
Took part in second peal of Cambridge
Surprise Maximus. Ringing Master, Suffolk
Guild, from formation, in 1923, to 1956.
Member Central Council, 1927 to 1956. Peals rung 344 (conducted 86), including 16 different methods of Maximus.

Godalming In The News

The progress of the Godalming band, which has enabled them to ring a quarter peal (reported in this issue), is due in no small measure to the hard work of the Guildford District secretary, Mr. S. G. Ponting. The ringer of the treble, who rang very well, is only 10 years old.

HIGH SPIRITS AT DERBYSHIRE ASSOCIATION DINNER

TO present a formal report of such an informal function as the Derbyshire dinner is no mean task. This dinner bristles with surprises, and the unexpected invariably happens.

This year was no exception. Such was the demand for tickets that, owing to the limited accommodation of the Corporation Hotel, Derby, many were disappointed that their applications had to be turned down. Large parties, however, attended from various Districts: one from Buxton, led by Alex Richardson and Colin Gould; another from Bolsover, led by Ben Cooper, and there was, of course, a very big contingent from Derby itself.

After an excellent meal, Mr. J. F. Smallwood introduced the guest of honour, Mr. W. B. Cartwright, Master of the Worcestershire Association. He warned Mr. Cartwright that it was the general practice to shoot any speaker down in flames if he exceeded his allotted ten minutes, and referred to two dark and sinister characters who seemed to spend the period between one dinner and the next collecting information about people, which could be twisted, magnified and distorted by such low cunning and diabolical ingenuity as to completely destroy the reputation of the victims. He said he would not be surprised if, before the evening was over, Mr. Cartwright was consulted in his professional capacity as a lawyer by some of those who would, he felt sure, suffer at the hands of these two conspirators.

Mr. 'Bill' Cartwright received a very warm welcome; and was obviously affected by the warnings he had received. However, he did bring greetings from the Worcestershire Association, and conveyed them to the company with a warmth which was much appreciated. He did not propose to refer to the late Sir Arthur Heywood, for he did not know that gentleman, but he would like to congratulate the Association on its progress, and the quality of its performances. Although this was his first visit to the Derbyshire dinner, he could assure them it would by no means be the last.

This concluded any semblance of formal proceedings, the floor was cleared, and fun and games became the order of the evening. The Derbyshire choir was assembled, and under the brilliant conducting of Mr. R. Carlisle, of Basford, gave an excellent account of itself. Most of the words of the songs (sung to well known tunes) were of the usual scurrilous nature. The first Pealers' Psalm, by another David (Marshall) was very cleverly rendered, thanks to the excellent pointing by Mr. R. Carlisle. See page 221.

'CAPITA MAGNISSIMUS'

The award this year went to Mr. David Marshall, of Sawley, and Mr. Gordon Halls, supported by holders of this Order, all wearing their badges, read the preamble, followed by the citation.

The citation stated: 'We first became aware of your outstanding ability when we heard of the daring exploit in which you made a gross profit of £200 from the wreckage of your own car. No, you didn't smash it up yourself, but parked it in the middle of the main street of Cheltenham, where some important driver couldn't fail to hit it...'

'As a writer of letters to "The Ringing World" you have exercised great ingenuity. Here, one of your techniques is to write a conglomeration of figures relating, at least you say they relate, to some new method. Of course, no one can understand what you are writing about. Certainly not the editor. This enables you to write again, several times, gaining publicity by pointing out all the "printing errors."

'If there are any recriminations forthcoming you have an excellent alibi—you blame the other David Marshall who comes from Rugby.'

Referring to his job at Sawley, as Ringing Master, the citation added 'that everything now came under "Marshall Law." 'The Vicar, having read Dorothy Sayers' "Nine Tailors" and Ernest Morris' "Bells of All Nations," was well equipped and indeed ambitious to become a bellringer himself. This you could not tolerate so you devised a scheme to frustrate the Vicar's ambition.

'Knowing the simplest plans are always best you encouraged the Vicar to have a lesson in bell-handling, impressing on him the necessity to hold firmly on to the sally at all costs. This had the desired result, and the Vicar of Sawley was very nearly the first space man.'

THE ANTHEM

The choir sang the 'Capita Magnissimus' anthem, the last verse which went as follows:

David Marshall number nine,
Wrecking clock chimes is his line.
And the Parson in a rage
Sacked him for his vandalism.
Marshall liked his ringing job,
And refused to give it up.
So that David still stays on
And the Parson's gone to Osmaston.

One of the items in the evening's entertainment was choosing a Beauty Queen, 'Miss Derbyshire Association.' The judges were Mr. W. B. Cartwright and Mr. J. F. Smallwood. After careful deliberation they declared Miss Susan Turner (of Sawley) the winner. It was a sight for sore eyes to see our staid, legal luminary investing this very charming little lady with a band consisting of a sally, which he at first placed round her neck! It was afterwards placed in a more suitable position.

More fun and games brought a happy evening to an end, all too quickly, and to Gordon Halls, Denis Carlisle and their latest recruit we extend our congratulations on an extremely well organised affair, and thanks for their unsparing efforts to ensure our enjoyment.

JAFUS.

THE BAND

The bronze waits, slider-poised, its stillness caught
In light sieved through the louvres by gusts of cold
Steeple-wind; ropes twitch as the band take hold Down in the ringing room; the chime-wires, taut, Frustrate the whirring clock. Grasping the third,
Perched on a box, the pig-tailed youngster stares Earnestly at the treble, who prepares To shout 'Look to!' Bent, somewhat deaf, grey-haired.
He 'counts 'un up, and counts 'un down again'
And still calls men to worship. Last of all
The captain, on the tenor, takes the strain,
And ponders on the length of touch to call.
'She's gone!' Upward the quickened sally bounds

As the bells swing and settle into rounds.

HERTS COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Northern District

'What a lovely day! It's just right for going to a meeting.' So thought more than 30 ringers on March 4th, and they came many miles to Norton. Ringing began promptly at 3 o'clock and the bells were kept going until it was time for the service, which was taken by the Vicar, the Rev. D. C. Ritchie, who is himself a ringer.

Despite a request for names for tea, three times the number expected arrived but the ladies who were preparing it rose to the and there was sufficient food even if there was very little room to eat it.

Mr. F. Plummer was chairman of the business meeting which followed. Elections were: Members, A. Buck and Miss C. Dear (Baldock), T. Hatchett and L. Hatchett (Sandon), Miss G. Sims (Norton); non-resident life members, R. Edwards (Erdington), T. Hyde and P. Rogers (Hentlow). No coach will be run from the Northern District to the A.G.M. at Hertford this year. It is hoped that it will be possible to arrange a District social in the autumn. Thanks were expressed to the Vicar and Mrs. Ulrich (organist). The secretary made two corrections to the District report: Cottered are to be returned and rehung, but not recast; Stevenage St. Nicholas' bells have been restored since Norton's.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD

Marlborough Branch

The most successful meeting of the Marlborough Branch for a long time was that at Overton, which was attended by 50 ringers. The Guild service was taken by the Vicar (Rev. F. Smedley), and despite a far larger number than had been expected the organisers coped magnificently with tea.

At the meeting Captain Robinson, R.N., of Overton, reported on the Guild committee meeting, mentioning ways and means of broadening the experience of new recruits by ringing in different towers, the recognition by 'Outward Bound' movement of bellringing as a character-building activity among young people, and making the fact more widely known that bellringing was an accomplishment, for which a badge was given under the Duke of Edinburgh's award scheme. On behalf of the company Capt. Robinson was thanked by Mr. T. A. Palmer (secretary).

After the usual votes of thanks ringing was resumed on Cambridge, Kent T.B., Stedman, Plain Bob Minor and Doubles, Grandsire, rounds and call changes.

'TRUE ROMAN SPIRIT'

Dear Sir.—Omnia Britannia, it would seem, in tres partes est divisa. With the advent of the trans-Pennine express perhaps our trans-paludian Liverpoolian friends will feel the urge to indulge in a little exploration. They will discover that their implied prehistoric preconceptions are wildly astray: that there is, in fact, land east of Manchester and that the world is anything but flat.

Rather reluctantly, sir, but with true Roman spirit, we must bow our heads and our pride to the yoke, ceding our record of 12 hours' continuous handbell ringing, as published in the taciturn annals of 'The Ringing World,' Vol. LVI, July 15th, 1960, p. 481 (ad papyrus conditum), reading from front to back and from left to right.—Yours sincerely,

W. BRUTUS READ,
NERO G. SWIFT,
FLAVIUS K. WILLIAMSON.

FAMILY TOWER CAPTAINS

Dear Sir.—With reference to Mr. Irving's letter in your issue of March 10th regarding tower captains, I am afraid I must disappoint him in so much as he cannot claim a record.

Here at Kelvedon my grandfather, William Elliott, was made tower captain in 1886, and on his death in 1937 my father, Joseph Elliott, was appointed captain—a position he still holds. Therefore, not only have we had only two captains in 75 years, but both from the same family! Incidentally, the Elliott family has been ringing at Kelvedon since the late 1700's—about 190 years.—Yours sincerely, ALAN R. ELLIOTT.

Kelvedon, Essex.

A MEMORY TO BISHOP RYDER'S CHURCH

Dear Sir.—When reading the report of the Henry Johnson dinner, my thoughts wandered back to 1925 and I, like Mr. E. C. Shepherd, felt the loss of Bishop Ryder's Church. At that time (1925) I left our small village in Buckinghamshire to find employment in the city of Birmingham. Grandsire Doubles was my limit but I was made welcome at Gem Street by Mr. James George, who at that time was trying to teach a young band Stedman as their first method. The year 1927 saw me back at my old tower in Buckinghamshire and the start of Stedman Doubles for another band, which resulted in peals of Stedman Doubles being rung in North Bucks, one with 40 different callings.—Yours, etc.,

J. E. WHITLOCK.

Wolverton, Bucks.

GUIDE TO SUNDAY SERVICE RINGING

Dear Sir.—May I, through your columns, draw attention to the Central Council's new publication, 'Ringing for Service' (price 1s. post free), a guide to the efficient organisation of the Sunday service band.

This booklet, which is well illustrated, will be invaluable to tower captains and those responsible for maintaining Sunday service ringing.

Ringing Associations may consider it worth while having a stock of the booklet to issue to any tower needing help or guidance.—Yours, etc.,

NORMAN CHADDOCK.

Rotherham.

LUBBESTHORPE AND ZOUCHE SURPRISE ROYAL

Dear Sir.—In reply to Mr. C. Brown's letter on page 179 of 'The Ringing World' of March 17th, it is quite true that there is very little difference in the 'blue-lines' of Zouche and Lubbesthorpe Surprise Royal, but the fact remains that they are different methods and therefore must have a different name. There are, of course, many people who argue in exactly the same way, but what is the solution? At present, a different method must have a different name to avoid confusion. When we rang Lubbesthorpe we certainly did not ring Zouche (although we rang something very, very similar).

Different compositions were, in fact, used for these peals.

The phrase 'Rung without previous practice' means just what it says. None of the band had ever struck a blow of either method before the attempt for the peal, and both peals were rung without a practice attempt—without even a second start.

Perhaps Mr. Brown would also give us his views on Yorkshire, Braunstone, Biddenden and Wye—four methods with different names and yet differing no more, really, than Zouche and Lubbesthorpe.—Yours faithfully,

BRIAN G. WARWICK.

XINGU SURPRISE WITHDRAWN

Dear Sir.—I wish to withdraw the peal of Xingu Surprise Minor, rung at Countesthorpe on February 11th, 1961, as it would appear that it is impossible to obtain a true extent in this method.

I would like to offer apologies to all who may have been caused inconvenience or heartache, and thanks to all those who have pointed out to me the error of my ways.—Yours sincerely,

JOHN M. JELLEY.

GETTING TO KNOW YOU

Dear Sir.—Having had the privilege and pleasure of ringing with most of those included in Mr. Meadows' verses, I now feel I know them much better.

I have yet to catch hold (of) with Rodney, but if his ringing is as delightful as his writings, well, I've missed a real treat; yet I tremble to think of his verdict on my helfrymanship or peal ringing habits. After all, who doesn't get a hole in their sock sometimes. Thankee Mister Middlers!

IVYCHURCH BELLS

Dear Sir,—I was interested to read the letters of Messrs. E. Rowe and J. Acres re Ivychurch, and apologise for the slip that occurred in the article in question. I was relying entirely on local information gained when I visited Ivychurch and inspected the bells in September of last year, and since I am acquainted with ringers who rang there before the war and who found them almost unmanageable then, I wrongly assumed that this was the last time they were rung.

The bells in their present condition could probably be rung with a lot of difficulty, but the fittings are very poor and two of the wheels are broken. Added to this, the bells are hung far out from the headstocks and there is a long rope-draught to the ground floor (the tower being about 80 feet high).

The bells themselves were originally cast by John Wilnar in the first quarter of the 17th century, but the fourth bell was recast by Samuel Knight a century later. I measured the diameter of the tenor as 44½ in., note F, so it would probably weigh about 14½ cwt., although Mr. Dove seems rather optimistic in crediting it with 17 cwt.

The wooden bell frame was originally constructed for four bells to swing parallel to the four walls of the tower, and took the shape of a 'hollow square.' The present timbers are thus older than the present bells. The frame was altered (without doubt, by Wilnar) to accommodate the augmented ring by shortening the pit of the old second bell, and adding a new pit in the space provided next to the old treble pit. The old treble was now placed in this pit and the new treble placed in the old treble's pit. Similar instances occur at the 5-bell towers of Bredgar and Ruckinge, and a modified example to carry six bells at Brabourne.

I wonder if Messrs. Rowe or Acres rang at Kingsnorth (5, 10 cwt. in A flat) on their Kent tour? These bells are in better condition than Ivychurch's, although the old fittings are present with horizontal iron 'peg' stays and vertical iron sliders. However, an 'unringable incumbent' resides here at present, and the bells are only swing-chimed, as at Ivychurch. They were, however, rung before the war.

To any ringers wishing to ring at Newchurch (5, 12 cwt. in G), near Ivychurch, they may be interested to know that only the front four are ringable, and that with a lot of effort. (It required three of us to ring the treble up 'right'!) The wheels are far too large, and the draw of rope so great that the sallies all lie on the floor before ascending at backstroke, although the ropes are not too long.—Yours faithfully,

'MARSHMAN.'

GUILD'S AUTHORITY?

Dear Sir.—Recently it has come to our notice and we are sure to many more that read 'The Ringing World,' that a controversy is in progress over Surprise Royal compositions.

We have not, unfortunately sufficient knowledge to join in this argument. We have, as has the rest of the Guild, been drawn into it. We have been led to understand that when the honorary secretary of a Guild writes under that designation that he is writing for the whole Guild!

We should therefore like to enquire at what Guild meeting the views subscribed by the honorary secretary were voiced and approved.—Yours sincerely,

JOHN E. COOK.

TWELVE BELL TOWERS

ST. MARY THE GREAT, CAMBRIDGE.
ST. MARY THE GREAT is the University Church of Cambridge; it is a vast church with an impressive tower which rises above Market Hill, an area liberally sprinkled with a gaudy array of stalls. Nearby, bathed in dignity, is a group of buildings incorporating the Senate House, Caius College and that remarkable and lovely structure, King's College Chapel.

The church, as seen today, has been rebuilt on older foundations, and the fabric dates mostly from that period notable for ecclesiastical architecture, being commenced in 1478 and finally completed in 1608—that year witnessing the laying of the last stone of the tower.

St. Benedict's Church originally held the University's bell patronage. It so happened that nearly 600 years ago the then Rector of St. Benedict's, Allen, quarrelled with the Chancellor as to the right of the University to the use of the bell. (It is believed that this church—attended much later by Fabian Stedman—did, in fact, possess five bells at that time.)

The turbulent waters on which the Rector and Chancellor were unhappily engaged were, to an extent, calmed by the timely intervention of Hugh de Balsham, Bishop of Ely, who decreed that the 'bell' in question should 'be rung in a civil and honest manner,' but with the condition that the clerk of the church be satisfied for such ringing in the usual manner.

However, this arrangement did not last: the University removed its patronage from St. Benedict's Church to that of Great St. Mary's, and thus it has remained ever since.

This 'Great' edifice possessed a chime of eight bells for many years, but details of that ancient octave appear to have vanished in the mists of time. Bowtell gives us one clue, for his account preserves this inscription: JOHANNES YORKE ME FECIT IN HONOREM BEATE MARIE, and from this we glean information that the bells—or some of them—were cast in the 14th century.

A SMALL TING-TANG

The parish book for the year 1514 mentions 'an obligation for Tho. Church, bell-founder of Bery.' Next we hear of John Warren, a versatile man, who made a small 'ting-tang' for Great St. Mary's Church in 1607. He is better known for his work in connection with the erection of the tower, and his little bell marked the completion of this stately sentinel from which 12 bells are heard today. Warren gave much of his time and labour in forwarding its erection, and he lived but one year after its completion.

His son, John, caused a tablet, in memory of his father, to be placed beneath the tower, and it is a most beautiful testimony of the deep regret felt at the passing of this enthusiastic builder-cum-founder:—

A speaking Stone

Reason may chance to blame

But did it know

Those ashes here doe lie

Which brought the stones

That hide the steeples shame

It would affirme

There were no reason why

Stones should not speake

Before their builder die.

For here John Warren

Sleeps among the dead

Who with the Church

His owne life finished

'A MERRY DIN'

Queen Elizabeth loved bells, and to commemorate her visit to Cambridge on August 4th, 1564, 'a merry din' was created on almost every bell in the town—that is, all with the exception of St. Mary the Great; and for their oversight or unwillingness to arrange that the bells be rung on this auspicious occasion the churchwardens suffered a fine of 'ijs. ijd. to the Queen's Almoners servant for not ringing at the Queen's coming.' A few years later—in 1587—the ringers were paid the sum of xijd. for ringing 'at the triumph.'

It would appear that during the reign of Elizabeth I St. Mary's Church possessed four bells, and there were termed as 'forbell, myddell bell and great bell,' together with Thomas Church's tenor, the latter being recast in 1595. These were later augmented—'the foure belles,' which were suspended from a frame badly in need of repair, emerging as 'five TUNABLE belles. . . . Evidently those bells, before recasting, were of such doubtful quality that they would have driven an Elizabethan madrigal composer mad! Another bell was added at some time, but the name of the founder and the date of its installation are uncertain.

The year 1667 witnessed further augmentation, Robard Gurney making two new trebles for the church. Much later, at a meeting of church officers held on November 16th, 1721, it was agreed that the services of a bell founder be obtained in order to have the bells recast: and at another meeting on June 15th, 1722, it was further decided to increase the weight of the eight bells, the tenor not to exceed 28 cwt. At the same time it was agreed that a new frame, wheels and other fixtures be provided. The bellfounder in question was Richard Phelps, of Whitechapel, creator of a great bell at St. Paul's, Cathedral.

TWO ADDITIONAL BELLS

Apparently enthusiasm ran high at this stage, and it seems that money was no object, for yet another meeting on August 2nd, 1722, agreed that two additional bells be added to make a ring of ten. The founder was paid £71 12s. for the new bells, and these were delivered to the church on the 25th day of the same month. There is no record testifying to the tuneful merits of this ring, but Ludlam, who graduated as 11th Wrangler in 1748-9, and who seemed to enjoy criticising everything and everybody, was disgusted with them and condemned their creator in no uncertain manner.

The Whitechapel foundry passed from Phelps to Thomas Lester, under whose direction it experienced difficult times. It became a flourishing concern, however, after Thomas Pack joined Lester, and later, under the name of Pack and Chapman, the old established foundry was 'on the job again' at Great St. Mary's, Cambridge.

This firm recast the tenor, which emerged from the fiery furnace as a 'maiden' bell on Valentine's Day, 1770. It is a splendid bell and weighs 27 cwt. 13 lb. The tenor, of fine tonal quality, mesmerised Cambridge, and two ringers, Chas. Day and Jno. Paris, successfully raised money for 'two tribbles to make a peal of 12.' Pack and Chapman duly obliged.

Friend Ludlam again enters the scene, his bewailings and grumbings undiminished.

Promptly finding fault with the young bells, he stated most vigorously: 'The best bell, the best peal of bells in the world are in this town [contradicting himself] and yet they [Pack and Chapman] never regarded them. They undertook to cast two bells, one of which should be an 8ve and 4th, the other an 8ve and 5th or 12th, to the tenor of St. Mary's, Cambridge, which is D in the modern opera pitch. They did send two things called bells; but neither ringers, singers, nor the Professor of Music at Cambridge, have been able to determine which note they speak; the general sentiment is that they speak no note at all.'

Ludlam was irritated—perhaps reasonably so—by the fact that the new trebles were made much too thick and heavy—for fear that they should have insufficient power—and were, indeed, acknowledged by some as being a blot on the fair name of the ring.

To conclude the history of the bells: William Dobson, of Downham Market, recast the 11th in 1825, and it is a very fine bell, understandably so, for founder Dobson was held in high esteem in his occupation.

Number seven was recast by Taylors in 1923, and in 1954 this firm introduced the offending trebles to the melting pot and rehung the ring in a new cast-iron bell frame supported by a foundation of heavy rolled steel girders.

The treble and second retain their original inscriptions testifying to the initiative and generosity of Messrs. Day and Paris, and other bells are inscribed with their respective founders' and various churchwardens' names. They constitute a ring of 12, satisfying both to the ear and in their handling.

CAMBRIDGE YOUTHS

Shortly after 1722 a peal was rung on the bells—then ten—and a Society of Cambridge Youths was established in 1724. A year later, on November 5th, a peal of 5,040 changes of Grandsire Triples was achieved, and another peal in the same method materialised on October 22nd, 1734.

The Society had several eminent men on its registers, and a few of these ringers are mentioned below:—

Charles Mason, D.D., Fellow of Trinity College and Woodwardian Professor (1725); John Roper, apothecary, afterwards a major in the Army, killed at Val 1747 (1728); Richard Dawes, M.A., Fellow of Emmanuel College, a celebrated critic (1730); Samuel Roe, M.A., Fellow of Trinity College, Vicar of Stotfold, Beds, author of works against enthusiasm, etc.; James Gifford, Mayor 1757-8 (1738); John Incarsole, a gentleman totally blind but an excellent ringer and musician (1767); John Bow-(tell, bookbinder (1773); Humphrey Argent, organ builder (1777); Maurice Rocket, boot-maker (1839); John Carr, innkeeper, a native of Waltham Cross, who was well known in East Anglia as a ringer (1843); others included a hairdresser, a common-carrier, stone-cutter, carpenter, house painter, bricklayer, farrier, farmer and a weaver.

THE PEALS

From 1770 to 1852, 14 peals were rung on the bells, the first on the 12 consisting of 5,610 changes of Grandsire Cinques, on Christmas Eve, 1770. Then followed: 5,220 Bob Royal, January 29th, 1773; 5,120 Grandsire Caters, November 10th, 1774; peals of Bob Major on March 14th, 1779, and May 15th, 1781, respectively; a 'dumb peal' for Lord Robert Manners, M.P. for Cambs, May 20th, 1782; 6,600 Bob Maximus, January 21st, 1788; 6,000 Treble Bob Royal, February 16th, 1790 (bookbinder Bowtell rang the tenor); 7,002 Grandsire Caters, October 31st, 1791 (Bowtell again bringing up the rear); a 'dumb' peal for Louis XVI of France, January 25th, 1793; 5,039 Grandsire Caters, February 14th, 1793; Holt's Original, June 2nd, 1797; a 'dumb' peal of Grandsire Triples for the Duke of Northumberland, 1847; 5,040 Grandsire Triples, March 11th, 1850; and 5,039 Grandsire Caters, February 16th, 1852.

A peal of 5,040 Plain Bob Major was rung on January 27th, 1897 (conducted by G. F. Woodhouse). This was followed by 5,111 Grandsire Caters on August 18th, 1905 (conducted by George R. Newton); 5,040 Stedman Triples, July 11th, 1906 (Rev. F. E. Robinson); 5,040 Stedman Triples, October 3rd, 1910 (Rev. H. S. T. Richardson); and 5,040 Double Norwich Court Bob Major on June 21st, 1912 (Rev. H. Law James).

Two peals were rung by visiting ringers on August 4th, 1913, comprising 5,280 Cambridge Surprise Maximus and 5,019 Stedman Cinques, conducted by William Pye and John H. Cheeseman respectively.

A peal of 5,021 Grandsire Caters came round on July 14th, 1924, and 5,039 changes in the same method was achieved on August 24th, 1924, both peals of which were conducted by E. G. Hibbins.

Recent peals rung in the tower are: 5,019 Stedman Caters on August 18th, 1945 (conductor, John E. Spice); 5,003 Grandsire Caters, March 24th, 1951 (Charles W. Smith); 5,079 Stedman Caters, September 10th, 1951 (F. E. Haynes); and the first peal after the bells were rehung consisted of 5,019 Stedman Cinques on September 1st, 1955, conducted by F. E. Haynes.

T. A. BEVIS.

A SONNET

The bells were hanging in the silent tower,
When up the steps there came a band of ten.
Each in his way all set to ring with power,
And bring sweet music to the world of men.
Firmly they grasp the ropes, and with fixed gaze
Upon their leader look for his command;
Then at his word, the bells all leave their slays,
And speak their message over all the land.
'When mirth and joy are on the wing we ring,
And at the passing of a soul we toll,
A peal of merry notes for brides we bring;
When danger fills the air, our notes we roll,
Anon we tell to all men far and near.
The birth and death of each succeeding year.'

OBITUARY

MR. CHARLES SMART

We regret to announce the death of Mr. Charles Smart, of Leatherhead, at the age of 84 years, who passed peacefully away in his sleep whilst staying with one of his daughters at Merstham, Surrey, on February 22nd.

The funeral took place at Leatherhead Parish Church on February 27th, and was attended by his two sons and two daughters, family friends and several Leatherhead ringers.

Mr. Smart commenced his ringing at Sandhurst, Berks, and was well known in that District for several years. A change of occupation caused him to give up ringing until after the first world war. He went to Leatherhead in the early 1920's and soon attached himself to the local band, where he was a very valued and welcome addition, being a regular Sunday service ringing. He was not a great peal ringer, but was always ready to stand in if needed.

On Sunday, February 26th, at Leatherhead Parish Church, 1,280 Plain Bob Major was rung as a tribute to his memory, by A. H. Winch 1, G. Marriner 2, Mrs. H. Oatway 3, Rev. E. B. Wood 4, W. E. Oatway 5, B. Hawkins 6, G. P. T. Peters 7, A. H. Smith (cond.) 8.

MR. C. O. MOORE

Mr. Charles Oakley Moore, sometime general secretary of the London County Association, died on Sunday, March 12th. He was also a Past Master of St. Clement Danes' Lodge of Freemasons and a Past First Principal of St. Clement Danes' Royal Arch Chapter.

THE EARL OF SHAFESBURY

We regret to announce the death, in hospital at Salisbury, on Saturday, of the Earl of Shaftesbury, was 91 years of age. He was Lord Lieutenant of Dorset from 1916 to 1952 and president of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild. The Earl was elected an honorary member of the Central Council in 1937 and remained so at the time of his death.

GUILD of DEVONSHIRE RINGERS

Mid-Devon Branch

On March 18th the Mid-Devon Branch held a quarterly meeting at Tor Parish Church, Torquay. Over 40 ringers attended from the Mid-Devon and South-West Branches, including ringers from Babbacombe, Buckfast Abbey, Dean Prior, Emmanuel, Plymouth, Paignton, Plympton St. Maurice, St. Andrew's, Plymouth, St. Michael's, Teignmouth, Tavistock, Torre, Townstal and Upton. The six bells were kept going during the afternoon with ringing to suit all tastes and under the direction of the Branch Ringing Master, Mr. W. Simmonds.

A short service was held in the church, conducted by the Vicar, Rev. G. E. Porter, who gave the address. The organist was Mr. K. P. Ward, and the choir, which led the singing, was formed from the regular Tor Church choristers and a number of the visiting ringers.

After the service an excellent tea was provided by the Tor ladies' sewing group. A business meeting followed, with Mr. W. J. Harvey in the chair owing to the unavoidable absence of the Branch chairman, Mrs. D. E. Hood. In the evening, further ringing took place at Tor and on the eight bells of Upton Parish Church.

WINCHESTER & PORTSMOUTH DIOCESAN GUILD

Visitors were present from as far afield as Hitcham, Bucks, and Bradford-on-Avon for the quarterly meeting of the Andover District held at Goodworth Clatford, on March 18th. Ringing reached Cambridge Surprise on the pretty ring of six.

At the business meeting Mr. A. W. Alliston was elected chairman until the annual meeting, as both the chairman and vice-chairman had resigned. New members elected included three ladies from Highclere, one from Sydmon-ton and the fifth from this previously unringable tower.

Next meeting, May 27th, Sydmon-ton, with Burghclere after tea. It is hoped that all towers in the Branch will compete for the Aird Challenge Cup in August.

THE IRISH ASSOCIATION

Southern District

The annual meeting of the Southern District of the Irish Association was held in Limerick, on St. Patrick's Day. Every tower in the District was represented and also in attendance were Mr. F. E. Dukes (general secretary) and Mr. J. T. Dunwoody (Ringing Master).

The bells of St. Mary's Cathedral were put to plenty of use during the day, by the visitors and locals. During the afternoon six teams competed for the R. R. Cherry Cup for good striking. It was won by St. Mary's Cathedral 'A' team, who had 27 faults. Mount St. Alphonsus, Limerick, were second, with 38 faults. The judges, Messrs. Dukes and Dunwoody, favourably commented upon the high standard of all teams. Based upon the number of blows struck, the maximum percentage of faults was 5.8 per cent., the winners having only 1.34 per cent. Mr. Roy McCormack acted as District Ringing Master for both the contest and for the day's ringing.

The business meeting was held after lunch in the National Hotel, Limerick. It was presided over by Mr. C. Galbraith, District chairman. The Dean of Limerick, the Very Rev. M. J. Talbot—himself a ringer—welcomed all the visitors to the ancient city. Before business was dealt with a tribute was paid to the late Mr. Ernest Harris, of Waterford, a life member.

A well deserved tribute was paid to Mr. Pratt, who, because of health, has decided not to seek re-election as president. Good wishes were sent from the meeting to Mr. Pratt and to Mrs. Dukes, who by the time this report appears will have undergone an operation.

A prolonged discussion took place as to the 'open-hand' stroke lead being used for call changes and in competitions. The meeting asked for clarification on the 'open-lead.' The rule in regard to judging the striking states that the basis should be as laid down in Snowdon's 'Ropesight.'

The election of officers resulted as follows: Vice-president of Executive Council and chairman of District, Mr. Cyril W. Galbraith (Limerick); District Ringing Master, Mr. Tom McDonald (Cork); District secretary and treasurer, Mr. George Bingham (Limerick); assistant secretary, Mr. Paddy Hanley (Limerick); to Executive Council, Messrs. G. H. Ellis and R. McCormack.

After tea the results of the Cherry Cup competition were announced and the cup presented to Mr. G. H. Ellis, captain of the winners, St. Mary's Cathedral, Limerick. They now compete in the all-Ireland final for the Murphy Cup on April 22nd.

The attendance shield was presented to the captains of Bandon and Mount St. Alphonsus, Limerick, who scored 100 per cent. for 1960, along with St. Mark's, Dundela, Belfast, by Rev. Canon McCann.

SOUTHWELL DIOCESAN GUILD

Newark District

The meeting at North Muskham on March 18th attracted a good number of ringers, with visitors from the North Notts, Nottingham and Mansfield Districts, and also from Lincolnshire. The bells were kept going during the afternoon and evening to a wide variety of Doubles and Minor methods.

At the service, the Rev. Mr. Snow, new Vicar of North Muskham, welcomed the company to the church, and apologised for not coming in the ringing room as he was in the midst of a Sunday school party. An excellent tea was served in the Newcastle Arms, overlooking the River Trent, and the business meeting was held afterwards in the church. Four new members were elected from Balderton and one from Newark, and the Rev. Mr. Snow was elected a vice-president. Orston was confirmed for the May meeting, where it is proposed to hold the District elimination contest for the Crawford Cup.

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

No. 2607 Vol. LVII

FRIDAY, APRIL 7, 1961

Registered at the G.P.O. for transmission as a newspaper. 8d.

SURVIVAL

THE history of ringing journalism, if such a work were ever written, would have to start away back in the 18th century, where snippets of bellringing news occupied the sporting columns of various papers. Before the middle of the 19th century 'The Era' was publishing short accounts of peals and of prize ringing, and later on 'Bell's Life' was much used by ringers for the recording of their doings. 'Church Bells,' a weekly Church paper, devoted a whole page each week to ringing matters, under the direction of H. T. Ellacombe, but with the coming of 'The Bell News' as a monthly paper in 1881 the Exercise saw for the first time a journal devoted entirely to its work in all its aspects.

During the closing years of the 19th century, and well into the first decade of the 1900's, Harvey Reeves conducted 'The Bell News' with great vigour and enterprise. The paper provided excellent service for its readers, a splendid medium for their discussions and disputes, and it had an important influence on the growth of the Central Council. With the illness and final incapacitation of Harvey Reeves 'The Bell News' rapidly declined. By 1911 its service (and with it, of course, its circulation) had so deteriorated that but for the financial support of Sir Arthur Heywood there would have been no ringing journal at all.

At this moment John Goldsmith set before the Exercise the kind of paper everyone was waiting for. Goldsmith was a highly-trained journalist and a skilled ringer, and he had qualities of vigour, tenacity, directness and commonsense that were to make him the representative, as it were, of the best type of ringer of his day—or, indeed, of any other age. 'The Ringing World' did not, however, immediately commend itself to all the leaders of the Exercise. Within a few weeks of its birth it was the subject of a fierce debate at the Central Council meeting in Leicester, an angry discussion in which the president, Sir Arthur Heywood, after expressing the view that it would have been better if the paper had not been started, threatened to resign. The reasons for the president's strange attitude, although certainly not inspired by selfishness, are difficult to trace; but the incident as a whole was extremely beneficial to 'The Ringing World,' and Goldsmith was sufficiently alert to make the most of the free advertisement.

But when Goldsmith launched his frail bark into the sunshine of 1911, with the coronation of George V close at hand and a brilliant summer to follow, neither he nor any man foresaw the stupendous international disasters that were to disrupt the nations, or could forecast the mighty social revolution that should transform the pattern of our lives and sweep even well-known and reputable newspapers and journals into oblivion. Through these 50 years of world-staggering events 'The Ringing World' has persisted; a miracle of survival it may well be called. In its infancy it survived the first Great War and the shortages of paper and news; incredibly it persisted from 1940 onwards when there was no ringing; it might have perished when Goldsmith died in 1942, but it lived; and during the last ten years it might have succumbed to economic persecution, yet it is still with us.

To what do we owe this preservation of what is so vital to the unity and welfare of the Exercise? First, undoubtedly, to the affection for his paper that John Goldsmith inspired in his readers, an inspiration that brought together those determined men at the graveside of the beloved Editor to pay him the supreme tribute of saving his creation from extinction. Secondly, to the devotion of succeeding editors and 'The Ringing World' Committee, backed by a body of subscribers determined to lend all the support possible.

'The Ringing World' is not perfect, nor can it universally please. Man can do only what it is given him to do, and few can doubt that the planning and production of the paper are based on a sincere desire to present the best possible offering. We may, indeed, with profit at this time, recall the prayer of the old Indian craftsman:—

'If there be good in that I wrought,
Thy Hand compelled it Master, Thine;
Where I have failed to meet Thy thought,
I know, through Thee, the fault was mine.'

This provides a sobering thought, and may well urge us once again to consider, on this occasion of rejoicing, whether our own offering has been worthy, and what we may yet do to serve more fully the journal that has done so much for us.

CLAVERLEY'S PHANTOM BELLRINGER.

By GODFREY BOOTH

[With acknowledgment to the 'Bridgnorth Journal.']

At a recent practice at Claverley there were the names given of seven ringers taking part in a touch of Grandshire Triples, as mentioned in a local newspaper. Now there is nothing in that to interest the average man, but to a bell-ringer it has special significance.

You see, it takes eight bells to ring Grandshire Triples, but, if you count, there are only seven names. Yet nevertheless it is quite right, and that is what I was going to tell you about.

Claverley bells go back many centuries, but the biggest, the tenor, was recast and rehung in 1702. It was taken over immediately by John Dovey, captain of the team.

He was a fine type—the village notary, cobbler and saddler. He and he only rang the tenor bell during his lifetime, and he and only he has rung it since. He rang it last Sunday!

Dovey died at 78, of heart failure, still captain of the band of ringers, with his rope in his hands, as he would have wished.

'DEAD MAN'S RAGGED PEAL'

Ringers are a close-knit brotherhood with some ancient but little-known customs. When a ringer dies, his rope is detached from his bell, coiled in his coffin and goes to the grave with him, while overhead his comrades ring what is called the 'Dead Man's Ragged Peal'—a half-muffled peal with a gap where the dead man's bell should come in.

So it was for Dovey, but with a difference. Where the gap should be there was no gap! The ropeless tenor had come in, and continued to come in as true as a hare on its appointed courses.

The ringers stared at each other wildly and stopped the peal. Later, in conference, they decided they must have been mistaken, and repeated the peal on the Sunday.

Once again Dovey's bell came in, and this time there was no vestige of doubt. Ringers have recognisable individual touches, just as, say, cricketers or pianists have, and every man there recognised Dovey's technique unquestionably. They would have known him from a thousand.

Once having got over the initial shock, and having liked Dovey all his life, they soon accepted the idea of his continuing bellringing from his grave. (You can see it on the left, halfway from the lych gate to the church.)

They were simple, God-fearing men, and seven ringers, and Dovey became a matter of course; and as the older men died younger men came in, with Dovey on the tenor an accepted institution and no longer a matter even for comment.

NEVER LATE!

They are a close-mouthed fraternity, and so Dovey has continued down the centuries, never late or absent, or a fraction out of timing, while generations of ringers passed by, right down to the present day.

Dovey has been threatened with disturbance once—in 1909, when the Rev. Mr. Bates became uneasy and got the 'Poltergeists and Occult Review' magazine to send an investigating committee down. This was headed by an Oxford professor of philosophy.

He knew it all, the lot. He said that a ghost, if there was one, could ring a ghostly bell, and if he did, it would give a ghostly note; but no ghost could exert the positive fact-pounds of energy even to ring an actual handbell, let alone a 16 cwt. tenor.

He took his motley committee crew up the tower and put them on the bell ropes and climbed the ladder to the bell chamber trapdoor to watch the tenor while they started a frightful jangle. Nothing happened for a bit, probably because Dovey couldn't sort out his place in that disorganised ringing.

But come in he did, eventually, and very tragically, too.

You see, the professor, being a professor, was a bit absent-minded; in fact it's almost a condition of being a professor in one thing that you are a bit barmy in something else; he forgot, however, how many fact-pounds of energy it took to swing the bell up. It came down with the same number, and as it only cleared the trapdoor by three inches on its downward sweep, when the professor popped his head through—the bell took it off!

The bloodstains are still in the sandstone walls, and some odd teeth on the bell loft floor.

HEADLESS CORPSE

The bells fell silent as the ropes slipped from nerveless hands when the headless corpse sagged back down the ladder, spouting blood at every rung.

Of course there was a furor, but it was kept local. The inquest, with a village jury, was glossed over and hushed up, and the committee departed, never to return.

The ringers, however, were furious, particularly when they found the Rev. Mr. Bates was considering the ceremony of exorcism, with bell, book and candle.

It was a brave thing in those days for villagers to defy one of the omnipotent trio—the squire, the doctor or the parson. But they plucked up their courage, and a few pints of home-brewed, and told Bates that if he interfered with their star ringer they would shove him up the ladder like the professor.

This really frightened Bates, and he left, being followed in, 1910 by the Rev. Mr. Guy, a broadminded man, who said: 'Be he man, ghost or devil, if he rings my church bell at the right time I shan't interfere.'

So Dovey continued undisturbed. He rang alone during the 1914-18 war, with the ringers in the K.S.L.I., and was in the band when it restarted, right up to World War II, when church bells were stopped.

They didn't know how to stop Dovey, but Ernie Drew, the postmaster, removed the clapper, and Dovey continued to swing his bell, silent except for the faint creaking of the peals.

He was on the job for V.E. Day and has never missed since. So next Sunday, when you hear Claverley's bells across our smiling Shropshire countryside, remember there are seven ringers—and Dovey on the tenor, where he always has been and, I suppose, always will be.

COVENTRY GUILD'S RINGING MASTER MARRIED

For the first time in the history of the Coventry Diocesan Guild, members of the Guild were able to witness the marriage of their Ringing Master, Mr. Harry Windsor. His marriage to Miss Joyce Elliman, a ringing member of Holy Trinity, Hatton, took place at this church on March 25th.

There was a very large assembly of ringers present for the happy occasion. Mr. F. W. Perrens, the president, and all the officers of the Guild, together with some 76 Guild members and visiting ringers, made a memorable gathering.

The bride was attired in a pale blue full-length dress and her bridesmaids were in pink. A joint team of Hatton and Wolvey ringers rang the newly-married couple out of church, after which the bells were 'fired.' Throughout the reception the bells were rung.

Before going on their honeymoon the bride and bridegroom visited the ringers at tea, where they were congratulated and given a rousing send-off to the tune of 'For they are jolly good fellows.' To the pleasure of everyone, the happy couple returned to the church to ring for the first time as Mr. and Mrs. Windsor.

Mr. Windsor, as Ringing Master, has proved to be an adept instructor. He has introduced many young ringers to the mysteries of method ringing, and many of them are now proficient in ringing and conducting.

A special word of thanks is due to Hatton ringers and friends of the church in organising a tea for over 30 visitors, particularly Mrs. Holcroft and Mrs. Adams for their work.

Mr. and Mrs. Windsor will be living at Wolvey in about two months' time. P. A. O.

REV. JOHN SCOTT CHAMPIONS RINGERS

The Rev. John G. M. Scott, Vicar of Clawton, Holsworthy, Devon, has worthily championed the cause of ringers in reply to a letter from Mr. G. R. Hall, Stapleford, Cambridge, that appeared in 'The Church Times.'

Mr. Hall wrote: 'With the coming of the better weather, those churches fortunate enough to possess a "ringable" peal of bells await the arrival of those bands of itinerant ringers who prowl the countryside, more particularly on Saturday afternoons, in search of a tower wherein they can exercise their art.'

'Let me hasten to add that I am much in favour of keeping alive any worthwhile ancient art, including bellringing; but what annoys me greatly is the attitude, so common today even among ringers, that they expect to find the bells and ropes in good order (in fact, everything laid on) so that they can disturb the peace of a Saturday afternoon, often for hours at a time. One presumes that these itinerant bands at least have the decency to drop a coin in the church "expenses" box.'

'On the other hand, those churches who receive these visitations might well consider imposing a levy of, say, £1 per hour upon these ringers; they would then have to pay for their sport, and perhaps appreciate it more than having it "on the cheap," as seems the practice today. When one takes into account the cost of such necessities as bell ropes, and the fantastic sums expended by parishes in rehanging their bells, one wonders how any Diocesan Ringers' Association would react if approached for a contribution towards such heavy expenses incurred by a church whose tower their members had visited.'

THE REPLY

Mr. Scott, in his reply, wrote: 'Very few ringers in these days are paid. Even fewer of those who disturb Mr. G. R. Hall on Saturdays do not ring for service in their home towers. It has been for many years thought reasonable by the Church for such men and women to practise their art (or, if you prefer it, their "sport") at other towers and places without having to hire bells.'

'The fact is that ringers are felt to pay the Church in service, and it is my belief that with very few exceptions they do. If they express disappointment at finding the bells or ropes in bad condition might it not be the sort of disappointment Mr. Hall might feel at finding a sanctuary with brass dirty, carvings worm-eaten and fabrics moth-eaten through neglect?'

'But most of all, Mr. Hall is unjust to the Diocesan Ringers' Associations. So far as my experience goes, these bodies almost invariably put the collections at their services and meetings into a fund for the very purpose of making grants to parishes in their area which need help for their bell restorations.'

THE BELL

Have any of our readers met this song before? Mrs. Mary E. Simpson, of 33, Dorset Street, Leicester, who is now 73, recalls learning and singing this song while at school. It is forwarded to us by Mr. Ernest Morris.

I was hung in my place when the village was young.

And the houses were scattered and few,
In the old dingy belfry for ages I've swung,
Yet my song is the same as when new.

Chorus:

And so I sing ding dong, dong ding.

Or utter a solemn tone.

Ding dong, dong ding, for the bride I ring (sung quickly).

Ding dong for the passing soul (very slowly).
Sextons five who have served here have aged and died.

And the sixth now is tugging at me,
But he'll soon be so worn he'll be hustled aside.

Making room for a younger than he.

Chorus.

So I watch from my tower as the pageant moves by.

With its joys and its sorrows and fears.

But it's all one to me in my solid truth.

Aye, if the world is in gladness or tears.

Chorus.

We express our special thanks to Mr. Gerald C. Hemming and his band who rang the peal of Lincolnshire Surprise Major at Salford Priors on March 25th, to celebrate the golden jubilee of 'The Ringing World.' The peal was also memorable for Mr. Geoffrey J. Hemming as it was his 100th peal of Surprise and he completed the 'circle of the tower' to peals. Similar appreciation is expressed to our friends at Darley Dale for our birthday peal and also to Mr. Peter Crook, of Bolton, who conducted a peal at Scorton in honour of 'The Ringing World.'

An error occurs in the list of handbell peals rung by Mr. Ernest Morris. There were only two of Surprise Major (Cambridge 2).

Congratulations to Mr. C. W. Cook, who after 40 years of ringing has completed his century of peals. The 100th peal was rung at Harston, Cambs.

The new Society at St. Stephen's, Westminster, rang a quarter peal on handbells recently, the first quarter by the Society, writes Mr. Michael P. Moreton.

The founder of 'The Bell News' was Mr. Harvey Reeves. We regret that this name had been altered to 'Hervey Reeves' in the jubilee issue.

Miss Sandra E. Chesterton is to be congratulated on her 16th birthday and in conducting for the occasion her first peal of Plain Bob Major at Aylestone on March 15th. Her friend, Marie Davenport, conducted her first quarter on March 26th, also for her 16th birthday.

A life member of the Lancashire Association, Mr. Fred Robinson, who joined the Association in 1900, has died. To his memory a peal of Oxford Treble Bob Major was rung in his tower, St. Leonard's, Walton-le-Dale, on March 18th.

We are sorry to hear that Mr. Harold Chant is in hospital undergoing treatment for jaundice, but hopes to be out the week after Easter. 'Professor Dodge,' despite his mathematical complexities, has found time to visit one who has so often been interviewed by him.

BELFRY GOSSIP

In the Guildford Guild library there is a book presented by the late Mr. J. S. Goldsmith entitled 'The Church Bells of Sussex,' by Amherst Daniel-Tyssen, published in 1864. The book contains the name of Thomas Goldsmith, grandfather of the founder of 'The Ringing World,' and is followed by the words 'With the Editor's compliments.' This book was the first of the series of county histories of bells.

The ringers of the quarter peal at Hands-worth, Birmingham, would like Miss Elizabeth Yardley to accept their effort as good wishes for a speedy recovery from her recent operation.

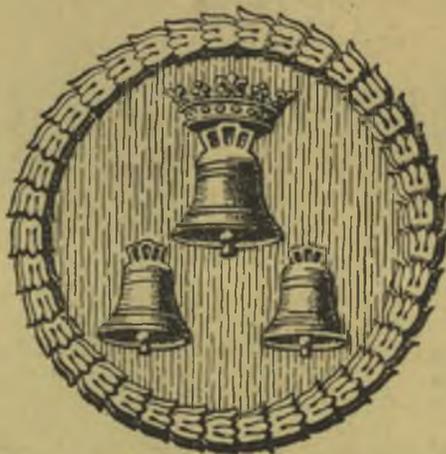

A presidents' peal is unusual. The Hertford County Association rang one at Hemel Hempstead on March 25th. The peal was the idea of the present president, Mr. W. C. Hughes, who tried to arrange such a peal at the back end of 1960. Circumstances prevented it; March 25th was a much more suitable date, with very good results.

Lt.-Col. C. F. Jerram, of Helford, Helston, Cornwall, although 79 years of age, is engaged in teaching a band of six whose total years amount to 354. Three of them are over 70 and he commends septuagenarians to those who cannot get youngsters to stick to ringing. Col. Jerram's name headed the list of ringers serving in the 1914 war mentioned by Mr. J. P. Fidler in his article in the jubilee issue. He is a first subscriber, but has not been continuous for 50 years.

The dedication of the augmented ring to six bells at Filton, near Bristol, on Lady Day, was an occasion for which the Rector had waited 21 years. It would not have been possible for the band to ring at the service if the nine learners had not received such great help from Messrs. Tony Bennett, A. V. Bennett, P. Parry and S. Riches in instruction or for the use of bells in various towers, before Filton bells were available. A word of thanks is also due to Messrs. John Taylor and Co. for a fine ring of six.

NORTH STAFFORDSHIRE'S WELCOME TO CENTRAL COUNCIL

Dear Sir,—Once again the annual meeting of the Central Council is imminent, and this time it has fallen to the lot of one of the smaller Associations to act as hosts.

On behalf of the North Staffordshire Association of Change Ringers, I extend a very hearty invitation to all the representatives to visit us in the City of Stoke-on-Trent. I am sure that this district, which has not previously had the privilege of entertaining the Council, will show something of the hospitality for which North Staffordshire is noted.

The Bishop of Lichfield has very kindly consented to officiate at the Communion service, and the Lord Mayor of Stoke-on-Trent will extend a civic welcome to the Council in the Town Hall.

It is quite possible that not many members of the Council have previously been in this district, therefore I hope that the new experience will be very gratifying.

The Association is making plans for the entertainment of its visitors. Tours are being arranged, of which details will be published separately, and there will be a great number of towers available to satisfy even the most ardent 'grabber.'

We in North Staffordshire trust, therefore, that on Whit Tuesday next we shall have the pleasure of meeting a record number of representatives.—
Yours faithfully,

G. W. BIDDULPH,
Chairman,

The North Staffs Association.

GUILD OF CLERICAL RINGERS

Felstead (Southampton), R. Fry (Yeovil), J. B. T. Homfray (Cheltenham), R. N. Longridge (Bourton), C. J. B. Marshall (Crewkerne), I. J. Richards (Llanarth), P. T. Robbins (Lower Halstow), Canon F. A. Sanders (Overton), Canon B. F. Sheppard (North Petherton), R. D. St. J. Smith (Astley Bridge), H. F. Warren (Exford), E. B. Wood (Leatherhead), and for part of the time C. R. C. Coussmaker (Southampton), K. C. Davis (Nateley Scures).

PERSONALITIES OF THE EXERCISE - 14

MR. PATRICK I. CHAPMAN,
Peterborough Diocesan Guild.

The Peterborough Diocesan Guild, since its foundation in 1924, has always had a nucleus of good ringers available, and an interesting point is that these keen members, in addition to being active peal ringers, have always managed to find time to do their share of instruction work. The present popular Master of the Guild, Mr. Patrick I. Chapman, of Daventry, Northants, is one of the most enthusiastic of these ringers, and the excellent progress of the Daventry band, under his leadership since 1957, has given him much pleasure. He is particularly proud of the achievements of two of his pupils, Alan Frost, of Kettering, who rang in the peal of Scientific Triples and frequently rings at St. Paul's Cathedral, and also David Marshall, aged 15, of Daventry, who recently called a peal of Cambridge Major, and rings London.

Pat was born at Kettering on December 30th, 1931, and was educated locally. He was taught to ring at the Parish Church by Messrs. C. W. Bird and R. F. Turner in 1945. He rang his first peal at Rothwell, being Bob Major, on December 26th, 1946, a few days before his 15th birthday. His total of peals to date is 297 (including 28 on handbells), and he has conducted 10. He does not enjoy conducting, but has been interested in composition, and has composed several good peals, mainly Yorkshire. Of his peals, 142 have been Surprise peals, including up to 10 Spliced Major, and Maximus up to 4 spliced. He took part in the record peal of 14,560 Yorkshire Major at Loughborough Bell Foundry in December, 1957, conducted by Stephen Ivin, and also 10,080 Minor on handbells. He has rung over 94,000 changes on the 4th at Loughborough Bell Foundry, in five attempts for the elusive 40,320 Bob Major, one attempt lasting for 28,850 changes.

Pat is a very good heavy-bell ringer, and has rung tenors at Sherborne Abbey to New Cambridge, St. Peter Mancroft, Norwich, to Kent Royal, Buckfast Abbey to Cambridge Royal, Hoar Cross to Minor, and Wellingborough to Cambridge (regarded as the toughest job in Northants!).

In 1956, he moved to Daventry, and became a work study engineer, employed by British Tinkem Ltd., and is now a section leader. In addition to teaching a lot of ringers, he has been Ringing Master of the Kettering Branch of the Peterborough Guild, Guild auditor, and a member of the Central Council since 1954.

Pat has always been a keen Church worker, and while living at Kettering was a member of the P.C.C., and helped to get the bells rehung in 1955. He is now churchwarden at Daventry Parish Church, and a member of the Diocesan Conference. On October 27th, 1955, he married Joan Morris at Kettering. Joan can do a little ringing, but her main contribution is providing coffee, meals and accommodation to ringers, often whole peal bands, and sometimes without notice! Indeed it could be accurately said that they both keep 'open-house' to all ringers. Everyone will wish them good luck in the impending arrival of their firstborn.

Pat will always be grateful to those who initiated him into the art, and helped him in his early stages. He has made many friends all over the country, and feels duty bound to pass on his knowledge to others, and indeed loves doing this, so that his learners may also enjoy the same pleasures of belfry comradeship. He regards peal ringing as serving a dual purpose. Apart from the pleasure he derives, he considers it the best possible practice for service ringing. In this opinion, many ringers would agree with him.

APACE.

LEEDS & DISTRICT SOCIETY

After a lapse of ten years, some 30 members of the Leeds and District Society visited the Church of St. Matthias, Burley, on March 25th, when the eight bells were kept going in a variety of methods ranging from Plain Bob to Cambridge Surprise.

An excellent tea was provided by the ladies of the church. At the business meeting the Rev. H. H. Huxham welcomed the Society, and hoped the members were enjoying the ringing. Two new members were elected, viz.: Mr. David Cowman and Mr. John Barrow, both of Idle Parish Church. The vote of thanks on behalf of the Society to the Vicar, the ladies and churchwardens was ably proposed by Miss Grace Beardow.

The officers for 1961/62 were elected as follows: Messrs. T. Strangeway, president; A. Smith, L. Drake and J. Gibson, vice-presidents; D. Thorp, secretary/treasurer; I. Slack, Ringing Master; R. Lumley and I. North, auditors.

The next meeting—the annual—is hoped will be held at Leeds Parish Church on April 29th.

CASTING PULLING MEMORIAL BELL

Although Mr. C. W. Denyer, Master of the Guildford Diocesan Guild, announced at the annual general meeting that Messrs. Mears and Stainbank were to cast the Alfred Pulling Bell on Friday, March 17th, due to unforeseen difficulties at the foundry the date was changed to Wednesday, 15th. As far as possible this information was passed on but apologies are offered to all who were disappointed at being unable to attend.

At mid-day on the 15th, four members of the Guild were met at the Whitechapel Foundry by Mr. W. A. Hughes and conducted through the works to the casting shed, where the mould stood ready. In a short while the crucible furnaces were tapped, and at a temperature more than ten times that of boiling water, the molten metal flowed into the large ladle in which it was conveyed the short distance to the mould.

Hoisted to its pouring position the foundry proceeded to remove the dross and when satisfied of the purity the molten metal was poured into the mould. In a few minutes the Alfred Pulling Memorial Bell, for the new Guildford Cathedral, had been cast and was now left to cool, before being tined, fitted with clapper, etc., and transported to and hung in its place of duty, a tribute to a great ringer. W. F. O.

TO THESE WE ACCORD OUR SINCERE THANKS

'Congratulations on a first-class Golden Jubilee issue of "The Ringing World." There must be many people like myself who will treasure this copy for many years.'—B. J. ONGLEY, Goostrey, Crewe.

GOOD WISHES FROM IRELAND

Dear Sir.—On behalf of the Irish Association of Change Ringers and the 'Irish Bell News,' I write to congratulate 'The Ringing World' on achieving its golden jubilee and also to you, sir, on the wonderful golden jubilee number just received.

We wish the journal every success and look forward to it attaining its centenary with greater circulation.—Yours faithfully,

FRED E. DUKES.
Honorary Secretary,
Irish Association.

Julianstown, Co. Meath.

'Many congratulations on an excellent, most interesting Jubilee number, and best wishes for continued growth.'—Ian H. ORAM, Orpington, Kent.

'A splendid production—congratulations to all concerned.'—A. J. PITMAN, Lillington, Leamington Spa.

'May I take this opportunity of congratulating you on the Jubilee issue? It is an extremely interesting one.'—A. S. RICHARDS, 6, Links Road, West Wickham, Kent.

'Please accept my heartiest congratulations on an absolutely first-class issue to mark the 50th anniversary. In this issue we see the last 50 years synthesised in a masterly way.'—H. W. ROGERS, Isleworth.

'May I take the opportunity of complimenting you and your staff on the Jubilee issue, which is a very fine production.'—Derek E. SIBSON, London.

The officers and members of the Southampton District, Winchester and Portsmouth Guild, congratulate the editor and staff on the Golden Jubilee issue and wish 'The Ringing World' the best of luck for the next 50 years.

'I would like to congratulate you and your staff on the Golden Jubilee number of "The Ringing World"—not sullied by "modern journalism" and readable from the title to publishers' name.'—W. F. STENSON, Crewe.

'Hearty congratulations on your Golden Jubilee issue . . . May you be spared for many years to carry on your good work.'—Albert WALKER, Birmingham.

BASILDON BELLS

On February 4th, on the occasion of the wedding of the daughter of the organist, the four bells of Basildon Church, Berkshire, a stone's throw from the River Thames, rang out for the first time for four years.

Preliminary work beforehand consisted of greasing and oiling the bearings, tightening up sundry bolts, fitting a new stay to the treble, and in the ground floor ringing room the removal of a large and very heavy oak cupboard, a table, motor mower, and a guard gate to a trapdoor on which the ringer of the third has to stand.

The bells hang in a wooden frame, remarkably sound considering the years of neglect, placed diagonally across the square tower, leaving room for two more bells should augmentation ever become a financial possibility.

Treble and second were cast by Mears and Stainbank in 1876, and weigh 5.0.14 and 5.2.25 respectively.

Third is inscribed 'ISAIAH MATHEW, FRANCES RIGGS W H K 1665' and is given as approximately 7 cwt.

Tenor is inscribed 'THE LADY LY GOT GAVE THIS BELL HK 1621 IN TRUE DESIER FOR TO DO WELL' and is given as approximately 10 cwt.

(The Y is actually an X with a horizontal line through.)

These bells have a pleasing tone, and their 'go' is not bad considering the little use they have had. That they are 'pealable' under the new ruling is for the experts to decide.

SOUTHWELL DIOCESAN GUILD

Eight towers, apart from local ringers, were represented at the Mansfield District meeting at Kirkby on March 25th. Ringing commenced at 4 p.m. and continued until 7, when a short business meeting was held in the belfry.

Mr. H. T. Rooke presided and four new ringing members and one non-resident life member were elected. These were Messrs. N. Kirk, J. Harrison, A. Harrison and Miss G. Harrison, all of Kirkby, and Mr. D. Kirk, of Ruskington, Leics.

Final arrangements were made for the District cup contest to be held at Selston on May 27th. A collection for the bell fund realised 12s. The customary votes of thanks were accorded to the Rector for the use of the bells.

Ringing was resumed until 9 p.m. in a wide variety of methods, ranging from Plain Bob to Reverse Stedman.

Birmingham University Society

At the A.G.M. of the Birmingham University Society of Change Ringers, held on Tuesday, March 14th, the following officers were elected for the year 1961-62: Chairman and Ringing Master, Geoffrey Davies; secretary and treasurer, Charles A. S. Webb (address: term time c/o Union, Edgbaston; vacation, 4, Baxter Street, Hanley, Stoke-on-Trent).

First Readers

AYRE, Walter, Hemel Hempstead. Convener of the Peals Analysis Committee, who had the first issue, could not say with certainty whether he had all during the 1914-18 war, when he was on active service. He writes: 'At first some people received "The Ringing World" instead, as roller skating was the fashion at that time.'

FLINT, T. R. (82), Lynwood Cottage, 17, Central Avenue, Worksop.—Learned to handle Warsop bells in 1897 and became leader the same year. Joined the Midland Counties in 1906 and rang his first peal that year. Peal total 36. Obligated to retire in 1954 through acute rheumatism.

Mr. Goldsmith As An Example

'The Bell News,' of January 1st, 1898, under the heading 'Current Topics,' by Plain Speaker, had this tribute to John S. Goldsmith, who was then only 19 years of age:—

'The peal record of Mr. J. S. Goldsmith, of Lewes, given in the last number, is one which that gentleman can look upon with complacency. He is only 19 years of age but has rung 50 peals! Performances in which figure Superlative, Cambridge and London. I think this very noteworthy indeed. Mr. Goldsmith is an example of the most unflinching perseverance. Now, my young friends all over the world, here is a pattern for you. Determine to excel.

'You must not suppose for one moment that this grand record was obtained easily and without great application. By no means. Mr. Goldsmith was one who strove to do his best under all circumstances. If you are ringing rounds only, or call-changes maybe, ring well: do your best always. Then you will find by-and-by that it is difficult for you to ring badly. The lessons of perseverance will make you efficient. I must compliment Mr. Goldsmith upon such an excellent record.'

Best Appreciation of our Jubilee Issue!

JACK GOLDSMITH'S LAST PEAL

Dear Sir.—In the homage to John Sparkes Goldsmith, mention is made of his last ringing being on December 14th, 1941, but nothing was said of the date on which he rang his last peal. In these circumstances I have wondered if his last peal was on September 20th, 1941, details of which are below.—Yours faithfully,

GEORGE H. CROSS.

TWO NELSON BOBS

Dear Sir.—With regard to the 'Nelson' (?) letter, the method on the left is C.C.C. No. 132 and was first rung at Accrington, Lancs, on June 24th, 1960, and named Nelson Bob. The method on the right was rung in the 29 methods peal at Heptonstall on October 29th, 1960, and was named Nelson College Bob after F. John Nelson, a member of the band.

When I wrote my first letter on the subject I mentioned that only seven methods were named after members of the band, having assumed that Nelson as reported was Nelson Bob C.C.C. 132. However, this erroneous impression was corrected by Derek Ogden a few days later, who gave me the 'gen' on the methods, a long time before the figures were published.—Yours, etc.,

'FARMER.'

Manchester.

THE LATE MR. E. PRIOR

Dear Sir.—The quarter peal rung at Finchley on March 12th in memoriam the late Ernie Prior was the outcome of a rather embarrassing experience. Ernie had been, of late years, in the habit of coming up to ring with us when he was able; also he was invaluable in helping to make up a band for weddings. We used to see him every few weeks, and he last rang with us around Christmas time.

Imagine my embarrassment and complete surprise when I rang his home on March 10th to book him for a wedding when his daughter who answered, after some little pause, said: 'I'm terribly sorry to have to tell you that Dad died on January 28th.' I also learned that Mrs. Prior was very ill at that time, so much so that she was unable to attend the funeral, which took place at Golders Green Crematorium. Under these circumstances it is clear why no one in the ringing world was informed.

Ernie was one of a strong family of ringers. He was one of the old Hampstead and Gospel Oak bands. He also had happy associations with the Holloway band at the time of George and Reuben Charge. Latterly his ringing was done mostly at Finchley, as he had to take great care due to a weak heart, and so only did a little at a time; but he always enjoyed his ringing.

I feel that not only on behalf of the Finchley ringers, but on behalf of all his ringing friends, I would like to offer to Mrs. Prior and her family our deepest sympathies.—Yours, etc.,

L. E. T.

24 TOWERS IN A DAY

Dear Sir.—In answer to your recent inquiry as to the present record for number of towers in a day (Belfry Gossip, page 144), I believe the record is 24 towers. I was responsible for organising an outing when it was hoped to visit 25 towers, but we were unable to locate the key at one church; a brief account of the outing appeared in the 'R.W.' of May 13th, 1955, page 295. There were about 20 ringers in our party, and of these about 14 participated in ringing at every tower. A reasonable standard was maintained throughout the day, ranging from Grandsire to Bristol.—Yours faithfully,

IAN H. ORAM.

Orpington, Kent.

TO SPRING POETS!

Dear Sir.—

A not uncommon sight to see
Your columns filled with poetry;
Sometimes lengthy, sometimes terse,
Mostly rather boring verse.

But cannot ringers spare the time
To make quite sure their poems rhyme?
Can't they make a stanza scan,
And avoid putting as many words in the last line as they possible can?
—Yours faithfully,

R. N. PITTMAN.

King's College, Taunton.

1914 PEAL AT SHENSTONE

Dear Sir.—In 'The Ringing World' for March 17th, page 178—St. John's Church, Shenstone, Staffs—C. M. S. refers to a peal of Stedman Triples which was rung on Whit Tuesday, June 2nd, 1914. The band was E. Marlow, T. Hill, F. J. Cope, C. Wallater, C. Waitman, Thomas Bloore (cond.), E. J. Tyler, J. H. Gallimore. The ringers of 1, 2 and 7 were from Wood Green, Wednesbury. 3rd and tenor from Lichfield Cathedral, 4th from Willenhall, 5th and 6th from Sutton Coldfield.—Yours, etc.,

C. WALLATER.

Willenhall, Staffs.

CALL CHANGE FESTIVALS

Dear Sir.—It has been suggested that information regarding our call-change festivals will be welcomed by those whose holidays bring them to this part of the country. I am pleased, therefore, to append details of a few of the competitions which will be held in Devon during the current year.

Devon Association.—Eight-bell for 12 teams at Chittlehampton, April 22nd; Six-bell: North at Stoke Hartland, May 13th; South at Broadhempston (near Totnes), May 27th; Final at Shirwell (near Barnstaple), June 10th.

Inter-Deanery for the South Deaneries of Plympton, Woodleigh, Totnes, Ipplepen and Moretonhampstead at Stoke Gabriel (near Totnes), April 15th (for the first three teams in the previous year's Deanery competitions). Ipplepen Deanery Six-bell at Paignton (back six), April 29th.

My own annual invitation festival—this year in aid of the Historic Churches Preservation Trust—at Modbury, June 24th, when 20 teams will compete in the presence of the Bishop of Plymouth and the secretary of the Trust.

The Association's annual 8-bell festival on Paignton bells, October 7th.—Yours faithfully,

B. E. BARTLETT, Hon. Secretary,
South Devon Ringers' Association.

GRAMOPHONE RECORDS SALE

Dear Sir.—You may be interested to know that all but a few of the 200 of the reissue of the gramophone record of 5-Spliced Surprise Major methods, made by Messrs. Hodgetts, Woolley, Cashmore and Brinklow some 25 years ago, have now been disposed of, in just under 12 months. I am grateful to all who have supported this venture, and hope that they will continue to derive much pleasure from hearing this superb exhibition of handbell ringing.—Yours faithfully,

E. A. BARNETT, Hon. Secretary,
Central Council of Church Bell Ringers.

30 Years Ago

'R.W.', APRIL 3RD, 1931

Peals Analysis shows a big increase in peal ringing.

First 'silent' peal of Surprise Minor ever rung took place at St. Mary's Church, Bucknall, Staffs, and was rung on Saturday, April 6th, 1897.

50 Years Ago

'R.W.', APRIL 7TH, 1901.

One sees from time to time some curious records in belfries, but that in one of the Manchester towers will take some beating. In the belfry are many marble tablets, recording past performances in the Art, among them being the first peal of Oxford Treble Bob Major in the City. In contrast is a board written in chalk recording that:—

On Tuesday, January 31st, 1911, was rung in this Tower

A PEAL OF SMALL BOB MINOR, Consisting of 12 changes, in a few minutes.

The Late William Pye's Peals

In view of the outstanding performance of Mr. Ernest Morris, a correspondent sends us a list of 1,969 peals rung by the late William Pye.

THE TOWER OF JACK GOLDSMITH'S EARLY RINGING AND HIS COMPANIONS

OUR last instalment concluded with the formation of the Southover Church Bell-ringers' Guild and the appointment of Jack Goldsmith as hon. secretary. The deputy captain was William Pelling, who came from a family of ringers. Like Jack Goldsmith, 'Bill' Pelling's father was a ringer and parish clerk of Chailey, about eight miles north of Lewes. He was born in 1862, and as a lad learned to chime a bell and eventually could chime three—one in each hand and one by a foot. About this time Chailey had a strong change-ringing band. He left Chailey at the end of September, 1891. The following year he joined the College Youths and came to Lewes about 1895. He rang one peal for the College Youths and 80 for the Sussex County Association.

Of the other first members, Tom Moppett was brother to the late George Moppett, who was elected two years later. George was the local baker, and long after he gave up active ringing he always occupied the position of chief carver at the Guild's annual dinners.

S. W. Shoemsmith, or 'Steve' as he was usually known, rang his first peal on February 2nd, 1901, and another peal in the same method (Grandsire Triples) the following year. Alf Stedman was an odd-job man working for the Rector, William Baker a postman, George Richardson kept a confectioner's and general shop and Jack Hillman was a blacksmith.

MAYOR'S DAY

The Mayor's Day was the highlight of the civic year, and it transpires that by 1898 it was the established custom to ring the bells when the Mayor was elected. We are told that the bells were rung at mid-day and in the evening, and that the ringers were paid two guineas for doing so.

The first recorded outing of the newly-formed Guild was in 1899, when in July the towers of Hurstpierpoint and Steyning were visited, Seaford being visited the following year.

The next recorded outing was in 1906. A brake was hired from Chapmans and another from the old Bear Hotel. The towers of Wivelsfield, Burgess Hill, Hurstpierpoint and Ditchling were visited. Ditchling bells having been silent for several years, the ropes became decayed and resisted the long pulls and the strong pulls of the Southover men, for they broke four out of the six ropes. Laughton, Hellingly and Hailsham were visited the following year by the same means. The series continued until 1913.

The annual outing as an institution was revived in 1919. In 1939 the foundry from which the bells came was visited as part of the centenary celebrations.

One of the best means of measuring the virility of a Guild is by the number of new ringers that join. In 1900 eight ringers were elected, among whom was W. H. Paris, an organist, who became master of the Chailey Union Workhouse. Also at the same time was H. H. Ebrall, a clerk by profession, who became hon. secretary in 1902, holding this office until he emigrated to Perth, Western Australia.

BAD ATTENDANCE

There are many references to the irregular attendance of members in the minute book. Things came to a head in 1900, for a special meeting was called on March 5th to consider the case of Mr. C. Parker, who only attended five times out of 43 possible attendances for service ringing between November and March. He was asked to resign. From the number of possible attendances given it would appear that the bells were rung more often than not three times on each Sunday. This would suggest morning, afternoon and evening services.

The first record of the Guild's annual meeting being opened with prayer occurred on October 8th, 1900, this being done by the recently-appointed Rector, the Rev. D. Lee Elliott. During a discussion on reviving interest in change-ringing, the Rector offered to provide each member with a copy of 'Ropesight' if he did not already possess it, and also promised to award a medal to each ringer if a local band could ring a peal before the end of the year. This they failed to accomplish until 1902. The meeting passed a rule that the ringers should attend church at least once on a Sunday. Ringers, being what they are, did not fit in with the rule, and by January, 1901, the secretary was instructed to affix a paper on the notice board so that those attending service could enter their names. This rule appears to have wisely faded into the background.

CHRISTMAS BOXES

A custom that has now lapsed was the collection of Christmas boxes for the ringers, the collector invariably being given 5s. for his trouble. The object of the collection was to secure a better attendance of members. We read that the Christmas boxes collected in December, 1902, were shared out with great exactness, for members received six and one-seventh farthings for each attendance they had made. The Guild's register of attendance appears to have been commenced about this time. The collections continued until 1914; they were revived in 1919 and finally lapsed in 1923.

The year 1902 saw the young Guild on the top of its form, partly due, no doubt, to the encouragement it received from the Rector. On March 15th they rang the first peal on the bells by an entirely local band. It was conducted by R. J. Dawe, who called Parker's Twelve-Part of Grandsire Triples. The ringers were Stephen W. Shoemsmith 1, John S. Goldsmith 2, Alfred S. Langridge 3, William Pelling 4, Richard W. Hoather 5, Alfred J. Turner 6, Robert J. Dawe 7, John F. Stedman tenor.

Southover ringers apparently were not going to rest on their laurels, for in the same year eight members were admitted to the Guild. Among them were the brothers Sturt—George and Frank—who were bakers. Frank rang his first peal on Boxing Day, 1902, his brother George on February 2nd the following year, both peals being Grandsire Triples.

In 1902 the new ringing floor was erected. The old wooden staircase was removed and an iron spiral staircase substituted. The first peal in the new ringing chamber was called on June 21st, 1902. To take off the bareness of the walls matchboard panelling was erected, also the peal boards rehung.

BEST SUITS SPOILED

The Guild's handbells had many adventures, for it is recorded that one Christmas, as the custom was, Jack Goldsmith and Alf Turner with others went to various villages calling on the gentry and ringing tunes and carols. For some reason or other, Jack and Alf became separated from the rest and found great difficulty in carrying the box containing the bells along the river bank in attempting to take a short cut home. What they did not know was that a day or so before the sludge had been dredged up on the bank. Of course the night was dark, the box was heavy, and to cap it all they had to wade through the mud and rushes deposited on the path, arriving home with their best suits ruined almost beyond repair.

By 1905 the bells were causing great anxiety to the steeplekeeper. A meeting was called, and Mr. John Thornton Rickman suggested that it would be a good opportunity to add two bells, making Southover the second tower in Sussex to possess a ring of ten. Mr. Rickman said it would cost £355 to carry out the suggested improvement, and that he and his mother would give the two trebles, leaving £120 to be raised by the parish. In the event of difficulty in raising this sum they would contribute between them another £60.

The order was given to Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, who made an excellent splice with the two trebles. They were rehung in a new oak frame and the back eight bells were quarter turned. It was on Friday, February 23rd, 1906, that the bells were dedicated after Evening-song, there being a good company of ringers from surrounding towers present. Three weeks later a peal of Grandsire Caters was rung—the first 10-bell peal in the tower.

WOMEN RINGERS

The bell ropes were requiring attention in 1914, and at a meeting in September the churchwardens disclaimed responsibility. The ringers persisted in their request for new ropes, which were eventually supplied by the wardens in November, 1919. The war years of 1914-18 saw many changes. David Turner became steeplekeeper for a short time and was killed on active service, as well as Walter Moor and Wilfred Anson, son of the late rector. Lady ringers were introduced in 1916. They were the Misses Alice, A. and R. Ward, and they progressed as far as ringing rounds and call-changes.

On the announcement of the Armistice, Charlie Errey was the first ringer to reach the tower. He pulled all the bells off and let them lower themselves. It must have been a rather awe-inspiring sight with ten bell ropes uncontrollably flying through the air, as well as the din of clashing bells. Jack's mother became treasurer of the Guild in 1919 and held office until her death on March 3rd, 1931.

Charlie Errey resigned the post of secretary on account of 'Old Father Time' in 1922, and in August was presented with a gold bell watch pendant, inscribed 'Southover Church Bell-ringers' Guild; Charles Errey, hon. secretary, 1914-22.' In the same year Bob Dawe became captain, a position he held until his death, and William Ward secretary for the next six years. Mr. C. J. Rugg, son of the late Ald. Rugg, a past Mayor of Lewes, was elected secretary in 1928, and it was he who revived the annual outings in 1930. The third local peal was rung on January 27th, 1932,—Grandsire Triples. The ringers were Alfred J. Turner treble, Cecil J. Rugg 2, John H. Crees 3, Alfred J. Morris 4, Douglas H. S. White 5, Richard C. Hide 6, Robert J. Dawe (conductor) 7, George P. Elphick tenor.

The Guild maintained its position through the years that followed, the two great events of the year being the annual dinner at the King's Head and the annual outing; until 1939, when the centenary of the back eight bells was celebrated by a visit to the Whitechapel Foundry where they were cast; and by special permission of the police, 100 leads of Grandsire Triples were rung, conducted by Jack Goldsmith, the founder of the Guild, followed, of course, by a dinner which was attended by many well-known members of the Exercise, the local ringers and their friends.

The Guild prepared for the difficult times that lay ahead by an intensive drive for new ringers. A band of ladies came forward and were taught both tower- and handbell ringing. By their aid the tower bells were kept going until the ban on tower bell ringing came. But Southover still kept the lamp alight, for change-ringing on handbells became part of the evening service until brighter days returned.

SAMUEL KNIGHT

Dear Sir,—The sixth paragraph of the article dealing with Southover bells in our Jubilee issue should read: 'Samuel Knight at his celebrated foundry.' The words: 'took over the Whitechapel Foundry' should never have been written. My apologies, especially to Mr. A. A. Hughes.—Yours sincerely,

GEORGE P. ELPHICK.

Lewes.

Miss Mikaela Erik has rung each of her 25 peals with Mr. Derek E. Sibson. Her 25th peal at St. Olave's, Hart Street, on March 18th, was also the 25th together by Mr. Sibson and Mr. Michael R. Rose.

OBITUARY

THE EARL OF SHAFTESBURY

Since the foundation of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild of Ringers, in 1882, the Guild has had only three presidents: the Earl Nelson, Capt Acland (earlier known as John E. Troyte, editor of the revised edition of Troyte's 'Change Ringing,' and the Earl of Shaftesbury, who held the office for just over forty years.

The death of the last-named on Lady Day, at the ripe age of 91, will be keenly felt by all members of the Guild. No one could have graced the presidency with more dignity than he. A fine type of English gentleman of the old school his aristocratic bearing—in which no trace of patronage was ever met—and the sincerity of his eloquence, backed by a devout churchmanship, left everyone easy and happy in his presence. Up to 12 years ago until illness intervened he was no sleeping partner in the Guild's activities. With all his manifold commitments he was to be seen at many of the annual festivals and found time to be present at some Branch meetings. Nothing would satisfy him until he had mastered the handling of a bell himself and it was our joy, no less than his, when he could share in the ringing with us. The ring of eight at his own tower, Wimborne St. Giles', was his especial pride.

To such a personality the Guild owes a volume of gratitude and it is safe to say that the inspiration received from him has sustained it through many adversities and been the—perhaps unrealised—background of its progress.

We commend his soul to the keeping of his beloved Master and pray that he may be granted the reward of life and light eternal.

C. CAREW COX.

Shaftesbury. Master, Salisbury Guild.

MR. CHARLES W. BIRD

The death occurred, at St. Mary's Hospital, Kettering, on March 15th, of Charles W. Bird, after a short illness, at the age of 74.

Mr. Bird was a ringer at Kettering Parish Church for 58 years and a member of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild since its formation. He was one of the last remaining members of the band which, under the leadership of the late David J. Nichols, became one of the best in the Midlands between 1900 and 1930, ringing many peals at Kettering and surrounding towers on eight and ten bells.

His first peal was one of Bob Minor at Kellmarsh on December 20th, 1905, and his final total was about 160, all on tower bells, and ranging from Grandsire Doubles to London Major and Cambridge Royal. He was not a conductor, and possibly never called a bob in his life, for, as he used to say, there were plenty of others keen to call in his young days and he never needed to bother.

In 1912 he became a member of the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths, and rang a peal with the Society in that year at St. Anne's, Highgate.

Being a farmer until 1940, for many years he made an annual visit to the Smithfield Show, and invariably managed to get in a peal, or other ringing, with the late William Pye or Charles Coles. One of which he was particularly proud was Cambridge Royal at St. Clement Danes' in 1925, and he never tired of telling of his visits to the belfry at St. Paul's Cathedral.

A man of great patience, he was particularly good with beginners in the early stages, and the writer remembers with gratitude the help given to him when he first embarked upon learning to handle a bell. Though he never became reconciled to the Catholic teaching and practice at Kettering after 1911, Mr. Bird was always to be seen at Evensong on Sundays and was a sidesman for many years.

His beloved wife predeceased him by about ten years, and having had no children his last years were years of loneliness, when ringing was his greatest pleasure.

Several of his former colleagues were present at his funeral on March 20th, and the bells he cared for as steeplekeeper for so many years were rung half-muffled to his memory in the evening.

May he rest in peace.

AN INSIDE STORY OF EARLY ISSUES

By JOHN H. GOLDSMITH
(son of the founder)

I was delighted to have the golden jubilee issue of 'The Ringing World' and I am very grateful to you for sending me a copy. It took me back to the milestones on the 'R.W.' road, between 1911 and 1942.

I can remember quite clearly, even at this distance in time, the launching of the first issue, when as a small boy barely seven years old the pile of wrapped copies ready for the post seemed a mountain of at least a million. And I remember even before that—it must have been a Sunday, I think—when my father and mother spent the whole day addressing envelopes to potential subscribers, announcing the new journal. And, as small children often do, I sensed that something was afoot that was supremely important to my parents. I still remember those milestones.

I remember, too, that when I was about 12 years old I began to address the postal wrappers for the 'R.W.' and was paid sixpence a week for the job. What a job it was! The book of addresses, arranged alphabetically, seemed as long and as large as the family Bible. I remember what a tremendous effort of will it was to settle down at the kitchen table with address book, a pile of wrappers and some pen carbons (I did two weeks' supply at a time) knowing that I simply had to finish the lot 'before bed-time tomorrow night.'

My handwriting was never good: it became unreadable by the time reached letter 'S.' I hated the 'S' list because there were more subscribers under this letter than any other, although 'W' ran it close. I can still recall the heart-lightening relief with which I reached the 'free list' which came last in the book.

'THE MOOR'

Denis—

We know you're very poor,
You'd have shouted, your greetings
Up to 'The Moor.'

From 'Three Well-upholstered Friends,' St. John's, Cumberland.

My friends, I read your message well,
And wondered who had sent it;
I fancy 'twas Miss Vera Bell—
She thought I'd ne'er ha' kent it!

And Eleanor, too, was in the scheme,
And also there was Edna;
But, though I understood your theme,
A point or twa I didna.

Ye sent it frae 'The Moor,' ye say,
But leave to folks' opinion
Whether ye mean up Cleator way,
Or Princeton's dark dominion!

Another thought has just occurred—
Perhaps 'the Mare' ye're thinkin',
Where ye went back upon your word,
And didna join our drinkin'.

Does 'well-upholstered' mean a girth
(I trust he will excuse it)
To equal that of auld John W—?
Right well then could ye lose it!

Farewell then, friends, my kind regards,
Pray think me not a menace:
Nae doubt ye've guessed wha sent these words:
'Twas rhymin', rantin' Denis.

JENKINS DELIGHT

As I cam' down frae Oldham town,
I chanced to meet wi' Teddy;
Said I to he: 'Are ye for a brie?'
Said he: 'I'm always ready.'
(brie = brew)

My father was obliged, as you may well understand, to check my work. This was usually done late on Wednesday night—publishing day was Thursday—and what he had to say to me next morning was both private and very much to the point. But, as you and hundreds of his friends will recollect, he was a man of almost infinite patience: he always paid up.

I well remember, some of the names you print in the golden jubilee number—the first issue subscribers—and I used to know their addresses by heart. For example, the Rev. Canon C. Carew Cox, A. W. Coles, J. T. Dyke, Frank Hairs, A. C. Hazelden, A. B. Peck and Ernest Morris, and Albert Walker (the first of the 'Ws'). And, of course, others, for example, Jim Trollope, Bert Hughes and Rupert Richardson. And then, of course, there was that slightly remote, elevated and august hierarchy known as the College Youths. As a boy, I could never quite see why they were called 'Youths'; they all looked very old to me.

As I grew older—and by the age of 16 or 17, one begins to know and understand adult motives—I saw that the 'R.W.' and all it stood for was my father's consuming passion; other events, his livelihood and the pattern of living were moulded above all by the requirements of 'The Ringing World.' Only a single-minded devotion to his paper and to the Exercise could have overcome the difficulties—both private and professional—which constantly took toll of his energies. He had a very good mind; but I suppose the qualities which brought him so many warm friendships were his humanity, tolerance and sympathy. He was a respecter of persons, whoever they were, and he himself was untainted by so much as a thread of false dignity.

He cared little for his outward appearance and usually had his hair cut only when he had told him that he simply could not go to a meeting 'with his hair as long as that.' But what did that matter; he loved ringing. Not least among the sacrifices he made on account of my mother's health—and I never once heard him utter a word of complaint—was that he was obliged to forgo many of the peals in which he could have taken part. And this was so for as long as I can remember.

I was never really interested in ringing. If this was ever a disappointment to my father he never said so nor did he ever try to persuade me to take it up; that he took a liberal view of other people's inclinations was obvious in his relations both with his family and with the great variety of people and opinions with whom he dealt as editor of the 'R.W.'

One's private recollections of a lifetime range over the whole spectrum of feeling—proud, happy, sad, poignant—but at this moment of writing to you I am both proud and grateful that my father's memory is still so widely and so affectionately held among ringers. Every good wish to them and to 'The Ringing World.'

ARCHDEACONRY OF HALIFAX GUILD

The March meeting was held at All Souls', Haley Hill, a tower not visited by the Guild for many years. Ringing began at 2.30 p.m. and continued until 8.30, with a break for a service, tea and a business meeting, and ring-from rounds for the numerous learners present, to Surprise Major. The ringing was reasonably good.

At the meeting, tribute was paid to the work of the Rev. Arthur Minns, who died recently at Chester. While living in Halifax he gave a great deal of time and effort to the work of the Guild and was, in fact, a strong force in its foundation.

Next meeting at Cross Stones, Todmorden, May 6th.

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

No. 2608 Vol. LVII

FRIDAY, APRIL 14, 1961

Registered at the G.P.O. for transmission as a newspaper. 8d.

LADIES IN THE BELFRY

THE belfry is not a fit and proper place for any female, as it might lead to questionable actions taking place... The belfry is not, in the strict sense of the term, part of the church.'

Who said those words? The Rev. J. Ferguson, Curate-in-charge of the Church of SS. Peter and Paul, Dagenham, during the absence of the Vicar.

Now, ladies, what do you think of that opinion? Before you 'go into action,' however, we must tell you it was said nearly 50 years ago.

In 'The Ringing World' of September 15th, 1911, appeared a letter stating that the Vicar's deputy absolutely forbade their only lady ringer entering the belfry under any circumstance, and gave the above as his reason, notwithstanding her father was captain and she also had a brother who was a member of the band.

The ladies of that day, represented by Miss E. M. G. and Mrs. Whittington, expressed their opinion in no uncertain manner. They saw no more harm in ringing with young men than in doing any other church work where young men and young women had to work together, nor had they seen any conduct that any lady need be ashamed of.

Of course, there were letters from the men, the majority supporting the ladies, but one from Arthur Cox supports the curate. He wrote: 'I think the Vicar is in the right and the ringers are wrong. . . . Because a woman has no right in a tower which is not really a part of the church. Those towers where they ring on the ground floor are part of the church; but no ringer is going to make me believe that a tower where you ring hidden from the church is a part of the church—it is all nonsense. What the ringing world wants is a better class of men to learn to ring, viz., the middle classes, then things would go better. My objection to lady ringers are these:—

- '(1) They will do men out of their hobby.
- '(2) They will be given all the privileges, while the gentlemen ringers will have to "take a back seat" and look on.
- '(3) They will do as that Vicar at Quorn (Leicestershire) once said, "Cause all the trouble".'

The leading article of September 29th, 1911, deals with the subject, and one paragraph says:—

'As to whether church bellringing is a suitable hobby for ladies to follow is a question upon which there may be, perhaps, some divergence of opinion, but in these modern days the fair sex enter so largely into pursuits which were once looked upon as the exclusive domain of mere man that there is no need to make a special exception of our art.'

Later, Mr. Goldsmith says:—

'Among all the correspondence which we publish this week there is only one letter which supports the view that the belfry is not a place for ladies, and the reasons given are certainly not very serious ones. . . . and ends his article by:—

'The belfry is no place for snobbery. There is no class distinction in the ringing chamber; and equally, it may be said that, in the practice of change-ringing in the perfectly decorous atmosphere of the belfry, there is nothing that is unfit for a lady.'

In the issue of October 6th, 1911, more men enter the fray. Mr. Thos. V. Horner writes: 'In what condition can a man's mind be in to make such a statement as this? How about having females in the choir and also female organists? As the clergyman in question contends that the belfry is not part of the church, would he please let us know what is?' Then we have Mr. H. Hoskins' comment: 'When one pauses to think what St. Alfege's, Greenwich, would have done without Miss Christabel Airey and her sister, the daughters of the late Astronomer Royal, one can only suggest to the objecting cleric concerned "evil be to him who evil thinks".'

Mr. H. Sharp and Mr. F. J. Parker take Mr. Cox to task. Mr. Sharp says: 'If Mr. Cox himself is of the class he would introduce to the Exercise, I should say that the sooner the ladies oust them the better, as such snobbery will not assist in improving the quality of the ringing, nor the morals of ringers. I would like to see many more added to the ranks of lady ringers, and would like nothing better than to take a back seat occasionally and see them ringing touches and peals entirely on their own, without the aid of mere man.' Mr. F. J. Parker is a man of very few words, and asks: 'He wants a better class of men to ring, but why on earth does he wish to exclude women? There is room for all in the ringing world, and what is wanted is more men and women, not snobs, but good ringers, whatever their station of life.'

In the issue of October 20th, 1911, there is a long, rambling letter, signed by 'Inconsistent.' In it he says: 'On the principle of admitting and welcoming ladies to the belfry there is, I imagine, no difference of opinion, or very little. And yet there may be circumstances which render it advisable, and even necessary in the interests of the ringers and possibly of the ladies themselves, to say "No" to their being admitted. Consequently, strange as it sounds, while welcoming lady ringers on principle, I have recently made a rule that they shall not be allowed in the belfry under my control.' You may wonder why he took this line; well, my opinion is he was afraid of what the neighbours would say.

By this time 'The Essex Times' had devoted some attention to the matter, and referred to the article upon the subject as well as the letters which were published from two lady ringers. The Rev. H. Drake, then Rector at Braiseworth, Eye, got into communication with the Rev. J. Ferguson with a view to getting a statement for publication. As no statement ever appeared, one can assume that Mr. Drake's efforts were not successful.

We recall an occasion in the early 'twenties when a Branch meeting was held at Marple, and the then Vicar said he would not allow ladies to ring with men. This fairly upset the party, and at the business meeting, with the Vicar in the chair, Mr. and Mrs. W. Wolstencroft fairly let rip; if we remember rightly, Mrs. R. Deal (then Miss E. Tongre) was there, and added her opinion very forcibly.

The Vicar had been a missionary and this was the first church he had been in charge of that possessed bells, and it had been a shock to him that afternoon to see mixed bands ringing. When he realised his mistake he was man enough to apologise to the members for his action, which he saw was uncalled for: J. P. F.
