On Monday we left our luggage at the hostel and cycled first into Monmouth, where the ringing was not special. We picnicked at Skenfrith beside, and in, the river before ringing at the very interesting church; the altar stone was originally a butcher's slab. It was here that a past Master was almost killed by falling masonry during a touch of Grandsire Doubles. From Skenfrith on to Garway, an old church standing in a field, with a detached 13th century tower. At Llangarron, the local shop reopened to serve us with ice lollies, and the local pub was visited for quick refreshment. The rise here was good and the general standard of ringing had at last improved; we rang some St. Clement's, Stedman, Grandsire, as well as rounds, and then returned to the hostel (now easier to find!).

On Tuesday morning we left Welsh Bicknor and cycled to Bridstow (a light eight with a mediæval fourth), where the ringing was fairly good. To reach King's Capel it was necessary to cross the river and, rather than go miles round by the road, we decided to trace the existence of a footbridge. We pushed the cycles across two fields and found a miniature suspension bridge, very springy and seemingly unsafe. However, we all survived the crossing, and after another field we came to the church, which has a fairly light six. On these we rang Cambridge, Plain Bob and Grandsire Doubles, before going on to lunch in Ross.

QUAINT ENGLISH HOBBY

After lunch we rang at Weston-under-Penyard's fairly light six, and then on to Huntley (another light six), where we rang Cambridge. St. Clement's and Grandsire Doubles. Blaisdon was the next tower and by this time we were thankful that it was so near Huntley; the striking was again shoddy, probably because of the exhausting day's cycling, and we tried nothing ambitious on the nice six bells. From Blaisdon we went to Longhope, where we met several villagers and also a Canadian, who was staying in the village, and he came to see the 'quaint English hobby' of bellringing.

We rang a variety of Doubles methods and just as we were leaving we were told of a 5cwt. six at Aston Ingham, and so six of us cycled as fast as possible, considering faulty gears and the day's cycling. We rang Grandsire Doubles at the locals' speed and Bob Minor at twice the locals' speed (the former sounding better). The night was spent at the youth hostel at Mitcheldean, where the warden came from a Devon hostel and had met some of the U.B.S.C.R. before.

A DEVON RISE

From the youth hostel we went to Linton, where there are six bells instead of the five we expected; we had a Devon rise and call changes and some good ringing, including London, on the fine Taylor rehung, bells. At Upton Bishop, the next tower, a rope broke in the first touch; it was replaced with a spare left for such an emergency and we were able to go on ringing. We then went on to Newent (a heavy six, which sound good when rung slowly), and after lunch we again visited Redmanley D'Abotot, where we were met by two local ringers who rang with us in some Kent, Oxford, Grandsire and Bob Doubles, and then invited us back for raspberries and ice cream in their delightful old cottage.

After this welcome break we went on to Bromsberrow (a light six), which we found difficult to control, and where another rope broke, so cutting short the ringing time. To the heavy eight at Ledbury, which are in a detached tower, we did not do justice in our attempts at Grandsire Triples and Plain Bob Major, but perhaps some of it was due to tiredness? From Ledbury on to Much Marcle, where we rang Double Oxford for the first time in the week, and then the Vicar invited us all back to have cider in the Vicarage before going on to the hostel at Rushall, where there was much hilarity, and locking in dormitories, and usual last night gaiety.

We had only two towers planned for the last day, but we passed Woolhope just as the Rural Dean was outside and so we asked permission to ring. There was an anti-clockwise ring of six, with a mediæval fourth, and we rang for an hour before going on to Hampton Bishop, where there are six bells, rung from the ground floor, behind the organ. We went on from here to Hereford, where our last tower was St. Nicholas', with six bells. The ringing was good, thus making a suitable ending, and then we went on to a marvellous tea laid on by the Vicar. After tea we left on various trains to different parts of the country.

Altogether this was a most successful tour and our thanks are due to the secretary, for arranging it, and to the incumbents at the various churches. J. M. C.

THE ST. MARTIN'S GUILD Summer Meeting At Tanworth- In-Arden

The quarterly meeting of the Guild, held at Tanworth-in-Arden on July 1st, was marked by the absence of the Ringing Master, Mr. John Pinfold, and the secretary, Mr. George E. Fearn, the former holidaying in the West Country and the latter temporarily indisposed. For compensation the day provided brilliant weather. The summer sun bathing the village green with its magnificent chestnut tree, the facade of 'The Bell' and the fine old tower in a flood of light, provided an environment from which it was very difficult to tear oneself away even for the attractions of the beautiful ring of eight at the disposal of the members.

The service in the church was conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. D. W. Lee, and the Master, Mr. E. C. Shepherd, read the lesson. Refreshments were very kindly provided by the Tanworth ringers in the village hall, and the thoughtful gesture that added cooling orange drinks as an alternative to tea was much appreciated.

The business meeting was attended by more than 50 members. The Master presided, and with Mr. F. E. Haynes deputising for the secretary, the business was despatched in a very short time. Miss Mary S. Thorling and Mr. Philip Rophera were elected full members of the Guild, and it was decided to hold the next meeting at Yardley. The Master thanked the Vicar, the organist and the local ringers and helpers for their respective shares in building up a delightful afternoon.

After the meeting the bells were kept going in a sufficiency of methods, Mr. J. A. Anderson acting as Ringing Master. Both the beauty of the eight bells in the tower and the hospitality of the 'ninth'—'The Bell' over the way—were adequately sampled, and each appreciated in due measure.

'Public Appointment of Ringers.—At the evening service on Ascension Day, 1873, at Over, Cheshire, the following interesting ceremony took place: The Vicar, the Rev. N. Jackson, had been for some time troubled by his ringers. Their refractory temper at length culminated in an act of distinct disobedience. On this, with a spirit worthy of all praise, he summarily dismissed them and forbade them again to enter the belfry.'

A new band was formed, and on this Ascension Day, after they had rung rung Evensong, they went to the service, first walking to the chancel steps. Here the Vicar handed to each of them a new Prayer Book, their names written inside. The Vicar said: 'In the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost. By virtue of my office as Vicar of Over I give thee — authority to ring No. — bell to the glory of God.'

They then retired to a seat 'which had been allotted to them and which henceforth they will be expected to occupy at every service.'

The Rev. F. M. Cunningham, Rector of Witney, Oxon, then addressed the congregation and ringers from the chancel steps. He pointed out that the incumbent has as much control over the belfry as over the prayer desk and pulpit, that every part of the church is equally holy and that, 'if the ringers would shrink from coarse language and from bringing beer and tobacco into their present seat, they must equally shrink from carrying them into the ringing loft,' that all work done in a church is holy work—whether that of the priest, the decorator of the altar, the bellringer or the cleaner. Then he went on to the lessons taught by church bells when rung for various occasions. 'We cannot but feel that there was an example set that evening in the village church at Over which might profitably find many imitators.'

'Churches of London suspended for not Ringing at the Coming of the Archbishop.—Thomas Arundel, Archbishop of Canterbury (A.D. 1396-1413) who, passing by the high street of London did not only look and wait for the ringing of the bells for a triumph of his coming, but took great snuff, and did suspend all churches in London (not only with the steeple and bells but also with organs) so many as did not receive his coming with the noise of bells'

'Rules and Regulations for ringing The Bells of the Parish Church of Maidstone. To commence May 29th, 1840.

'This is a belfry that is free,
And for all that civil be:
There is no music play'd or sung,
Like unto Bells when they're rung.
Then ring your Bell well, if you can,
Silence is best for every man;
But if you ring in Spur or Hat,
You pay sixpence, be sure of that:
And if a Bell you overthrow,
Pray pay sixpence before you go.

'The Bells to be rung under the direction of the Minister and Churchwardens, and only by persons properly qualified.

'No admission to the Belfry except by a key, to be left with the Sexton; and no ringing without his knowledge.

'Days of ringing according to the usage of the Parish: Queen's Birthday, Accession and Coronation Days, Assizes, Mayor's Day, May 29th, Nov. 5th, Christmas Day, New Year's Eve, Thanksgiving Days, Public Rejoicings and Archbishop's Visitation and Confirmation. N.B. To be paid for by the Corporation of the Parish, according to the general custom.

'Bells not to be rung before Eight o'clock in the morning, nor after Ten o'clock at night except on New Year's Eve or great National Events.

'Any dispute between the Sexton and the Ringers to be referred to the Minister and Churchwardens, and nothing to be done contrary to their decision.

'At Fairs, and other Public times, no Strangers (except professed Ringers) to be admitted to the Belfry without leave of the Minister and Churchwardens.

'The Bells to be rung by the usual Persons, for practice or recreation but not after Ten o'clock at Night.'

Notice by the Editor.—'In common with other periodicals, we decline to return any communications, whether accepted or not. We request our country correspondents to write very legibly.'

Later, another notice: 'Many of our kind friends seem to be quite ignorant of the mode of working a weekly periodical—they seem to think that their contributions can be immediately attended to and inserted with telegraphic dispatch. We request them to be more patient; reports are inserted as soon as possible, but we reserve to ourselves the liberty of curtailing, weeding and clipping, according to the best of our judgment, and timing as suits us, or rejecting altogether.'

Still another (and the Editor of 'The Ringing World' may agree in general with this one, at least!):—

'We have received several slips about ringing, but they are useless to us unless our friends send the dates and headings of the papers whence taken. We earnestly request our correspondents to write very plainly and intelligibly, particularly the names of persons and places; also to write only on one side of the paper, leaving a good margin at the top.'

'Disgraceful Ringing at St. Mary's, Ware, Herts.—We are grieved to hear from a correspondent that on Monday evening, April 6th, 1873, the bells of the parish church of Ware were set a-ringing by a person who had just gained a great will cause, tried in the Probate Court, London'

Plympton St. Maurice, Devon.—Easter Tuesday, 1873. Bells reopened after overhaul by Hooper and Son, of Woodbury.

Change-ringing at Oxford.— . . . the University Society has lately [i.e., to April 26th, 1873] succeeded in ringing a peal of 720 changes . . . at Iffley, near Oxford, in the Grandsire Method.

The Society at present consists of about 22 members, most of whom can ring Grandsire Doubles fairly well in the tower, and five or six are tolerably steady at Triples. . . .'

'The Bells of St. Michael's, South Carolina.—When the British took Charleston in 1780, they stabled their horses in the church and, unhooking the bells, sent them off to London where they were dumped on Tower Wharf and left unnoticed for many years.

'At last the vestry of St. Michael's received a letter bidding them expect their bells by a certain ship sailing from London. The people went in procession to bring up from the ship their beloved bells, which they never expected to listen to again, and with prayers and thanksgivings they were replaced in the tower. The pious benefactor never made himself known but he is supposed to have been some British officer who was present at the taking of Charleston.'

Time went on and then came 546 days of bombardment of Charleston. Houses and churches were shattered, but St. Michael's spire and its bells remained. However, the people themselves took the bells down and sent them to Columbia to be cast into cannon, but a General, perhaps shocked at the desecration, pronounced them unfit for the purpose and so the bells were set aside for safe keeping, but soldiers broke them up.

The population of Charleston eventually resolved to get a new chime. They did not know from which foundry the broken bells had come. An enquiry made in London showed that the (now) Mears and Stainbank foundry had cast eight in 1759 for this church. The proportions of the metal, sizes, etc., were all entered in the books, and the firm was engaged to turn out a new ring to be as near as possible like the destroyed one, so that the Charlestonians might think they were hearing their old bells. Such fragments of the old bells that could be found were sent to London and put into the new ones, which were duly sent to Charleston and hung in St. Michael's.

'Bells in Tune.—The Rev. Canon Bowles, at Bremhill, Wilts, says: 'Here are 6 bells which could be pronounced by every ear a musical peal: but no set of bells are ever cast quite in tune—in general the third is too flat and the fourth too sharp, the effect of which is doubly discordant. The only certain mode of having a peal perfectly harmonious is to tune the bells by a monochord divided into intervals. A peal of bells can thus be brought to musical perfection and anyone, without knowing the reason, would perceive the sweet effect. This mode of after-tuning is never practised, and therefore a peal gives all its discord, often for centuries, as the bells happen to be cast.'

'Tuning of Bells'—reproduced from Gentleman's Magazine.—'Mr. Gardiner informs us that the tuning of bells is a difficult task inasmuch as some of them do not emit a distinct or homogeneous tone. As all bells utter more sounds than one, they should be so cast that the key note predominates over every other sound, and that the harmonics should be the twelfth or seventeenth above the low note. This combination produces that sprightly ringing tone which everyone admires. But there is a great caprice in bells—they utter all sorts of tones. The tenor of St. Martin's, Leicester, gives out the minor third, which imparts to it a mournful effect. The lively bell at St. George's is in the note A which is not a foundation note. An attentive listener may hear the key note F murmuring a major third below.

EAST GRINSTEAD GUILD

On July 8th the East Grinstead and District Guild paid their first visit to Burgess Hill and held a small but most enjoyable meeting. Ringing on this nice toned but odd struck octave was enjoyed until 5 o'clock, when the party made their way to 84, Park Road, where Mrs. Beresford and Sue served tea on the lawn.

Mr. B. E. Jeffrey took the chair for the business, the main item being future meetings. Burstow not being available, it will be Worth and Crawley for the August meeting, and members decided to make their own tea arrangements.

A pleasant surprise awaited the company when they came to pay for the tea, for Mrs. Beresford refused to take anything and suggested that a collection be made and the money put to some fund. A sum of £1 5s. was realised and it was decided to give 10s. to the rope fund, and 15s. to 'The Ringing World.'

RINGERS' DAY AT FESTIVAL OF EMPIRE

A big tea party

'A huge success.' This phrase by no means exaggerates the result of 'Ringers' Day at the Festival of Empire,' organised by 'The Ringing World.' It was, we venture to think, the largest ringers' gathering that has ever been held, and, while it was essentially a day for the rank and file of the Exercise, the party was none the less representative in its character.

Ringers travelled from all parts of the country to participate in the unique event, for never before had they had the opportunity as ringers of joining in so large and popular a gathering arranged for their special benefit. To the Crystal Palace they came in ones and twos and larger parties, and when we say that ringers were present from places as far apart as Cardiff and Norwich, as Sheffield and Brighton, our readers will appreciate how widespread was the interest shown in the occasion. A large proportion of those present made it the occasion of a full day's excursion, such as, for instance, the company from Bridgend, in Glamorganshire, who left home on Friday midnight, and departed from London on the return journey at 1 a.m. on Sunday.....

SUMMER - TIME OUTINGS

ST. MARY'S, APSLEY

The last Saturday in June is always considered by the Apsley ringers to be a fortunate day for good weather, and this year when it coincided with midsummer day it was no exception. The party, including visitors (of many years' standing) from neighbouring towers, left Apsley at 6.30 a.m. to reach Amesbury, Wilts, within a few minutes of scheduled time, at 10 o'clock. Here we were met by Mr. J. K. Robbins and another member of his band and rang various methods up to Cambridge Surprise Major until 11 a.m., when a move was made to Longbridge Deverill, where hangs a handy ring of eight. Here the key was produced, as arranged, by Mr. W. A. Avery. An enjoyable hour was spent, an excellent course of London being a feature of the ringing.

On to Warminster, where lunch was the first item to be dealt with, and then to the Church of St. Denys, with its 28 cwt. tenor, where Mr. M. G. Kneeb was waiting for us. Methods rung here included 3 leads of Bristol. A lovely run through the country brought us to Upavon, with its magnificent ring of six and a most homely welcome from Mr. C. Drewitt and the Vicar, who showed us his interesting church. Then to tea in the Village Hall, the caterer being Mrs. F. T. Swatton, and what a tea it was! During the rest needed after this a vote of thanks was passed to the organiser and then the annual photograph. An evening run in the sunshine brought us to Kintbury, 10 minutes before time, but the verger was here and later Mr. R. J. Radbourne. Full use was made of the bells, and later handbells could be heard coming from certain lawns, and it was about 1 a.m. when we reached home.

To those who helped to make a perfect day we should like to mention Mr. W. C. West and Miss Y. L. Eloie.

LUTON, BEDS

Several ringing and non-ringing friends joined the ringers of Luton Parish Church on the occasion of their outing into Suffolk on July 1st.

The choice of towers was admirable. First came Long Melford, a particularly lovely village, with one of the most beautiful churches in the country, its tall clerestory windows (a feature of Suffolk churches) giving the magnificent nave an air of dignity and elegance.

We passed on to Lavenham, another delightful spot, and, like thousands before, were charmed by the famous bells, and who could help being impressed by that most imposing tower?

A short ring at Stowmarket preceded lunch, after which the fine octave at Debenham was much enjoyed. The distance from Debenham to Framdsen is not very great, and we were assured that we should have no difficulty in finding our way, but if this assurance was intended as a compliment, events proved that it was entirely undeserved! However, we did manage to get a short 'pull' at Framdsen before going on to Woodbridge, where an excellent tea was dealt with in a most expert manner, perhaps because we do not neglect our practice in this direction!

Refreshed, we set out for the last tower of the day, the very pleasant light ten at Grundisburgh, where we renewed acquaintance with members of the Pipe family. The homeward journey was broken for refreshments, after which the miles soon rolled by, and we reached home in good time.

Due thanks are tendered to incumbents, for permission to ring on some excellent bells, to the local ringers, who so warmly received us, to our driver, for his willing co-operation, and to our secretary, for his efforts in arranging an excellent outing.

'R.W.' July 17th, 1931.—

The ring of twelve bells at St. Chad's, Shrewsbury, were opened with a peal of Grandsire Cinques by the College Youths on July 18th, 1798.

The first peal by a band of ladies was rung at Cubitt Town, London, on July 20th, 1912.

ST. MARY'S, EASTBOURNE

Following a well established custom at Eastbourne, the second Saturday in July is reserved for 'the outing.' This year, after the usual multitude of stops to pick up friends from outlying districts, two coaches headed for the newly cast ten at Maidstone. After some delay the bells were set going by one section of the 49 strong party, while the remainder pondered over the regimental standards in the church, or attempted Bach fugues on the organ.

Leaving Maidstone we were soon clambering over the roof of Rochester Cathedral to meet Charlie Norris in its spacious ringing chamber. All ringers were again catered for, although the Ringing Master was hard put to satisfy the demands, which ranged from rounds to Cambridge.

Bromley was the next call, where we rang on the two octaves, meeting at St. Luke's Tom Newman, and at SS. Peter and Paul crowding into the small tower with Percy Spice.

Passing through scenery, which the South-down men grudgingly admitted to be excellent, the coaches reached Westerham, and the day's ringing was concluded. On the green the statue of a Westerham man, General Wolfe, who led the Royal Sussex Regiment over the Heights of Abraham, excited some comment from the Sussex ringers.

After thirsts had been finally quenched, the hole in Georgie's bucket was again investigated, Clementine again laid to rest, and countless men (and their dogs) went to mow an equal number of meadows.

FARNHAM DISTRICT

Both ringing and a day at the seaside were combined in the Farnham District annual outing on July 1st. Bognor was chosen as the seaside destination and on the way the two coaches of ringers and their friends stopped at St. Mary's, Fittleworth, to be welcomed by the Vicar, and St. Nicholas', Arundel, where, in spite of the heat, everybody enjoyed the beautiful bells.

After an afternoon of sizzling on the beach and swimming in the sea the evening was spent ringing the bells of St. Mary's, Walberton, and later St. Mary's, Easebourne. A wonderful day with perfect weather and perfect organisation, thanks to D. W. Wright, the District Secretary.

R. E.

MELTON MOWBRAY DISTRICT

Ringers of the Melton District held their annual outing to the Newark area on July 8th.

Leaving Menton at 1.45 p.m. the first tower visited was Elston, with a handy ring of 6, then on to North Muskham. An excellent tea was enjoyed at Eydens Cafe in Newark. After tea Winthorpe was visited. Here the ringers were alarmed by the weird noises in the bell chamber. Richard ascended the ladders to investigate, but all he could find was a large wooden frame which was dry and evidently creaked and groaned when the bells were rung.

At Barnby-in-the-Willows we were greeted by a loud bump overhead, which only proved to be a ladder which had fallen over. Balderston was the last tower visited: the lovely kept bellry was much admired and also the grand ring of bells.

Arrangements were made by Mr. R. H. Cook, assisted by the District chairman, Mr. R. E. Manton.

SUMMONED BY BELLS

By THE REV. A. H. GINEVER,
Vicar of Waltham St. Lawrence

A WELL-KNOWN poet and writer has recently given us an account of some of his experiences and impressions in life from the early days up to the present in a book titled 'Summoned by Bells.' The title gives you at once a certain clue as to the sort of book it is before you have started to read it; the author is the sort of person who has known from his earliest years the language of the bells, a language which has spoken to him and to which he has responded.

At school, for instance, bells often summon children to their meals and to their duties, summon them to bed and to rise, summon them to the House of God. Bells at all sorts of hours and for all sorts of purposes: bells for freedom and detention; constant companions for young and old; for sorrowing and rejoicing. Later in life the author of the book knows and loves the message and language of the bells as they ring out their invitation to all and sundry to come together for the worship of Almighty God.

To the sensitive mind, to the sensitive soul, how real, how moving is the language of church bells—how deeply they speak to the innermost feeling, directing our thoughts and prayers Godwards, reminding us of the mercies and love of God upon which we are entirely dependent.

How valuable a ministry is that of the bellringer, who faithfully sees to it that the message rings out far and wide, speaking to men and women of spiritual things, reminding them of things we tend to overlook in the busy, workaday world. The inspiration of the bells which summons us to God's presence is beautifully expressed in the famous picture by the French artist Jean François Millet entitled 'The Angelus.' The scene is a peaceful and pastoral one: away beyond the fields is to be seen the little village church, and from its tower issues forth the message to all within hearing, to offer prayer to our Father in Heaven. Two workers stand in the field bareheaded, bowed in prayer, remembering Him Who gives us all.

That is the ministry of bells at its best; that is the valuable language that speaks to the souls of men. It is just as much a ministry as the ministry of the preacher and teacher in church and school.

It is impossible to measure or calculate the deep impression that the language of bells makes on the human mind. It is impossible to measure or calculate the effect of a preacher's message, however simple or learned it may be.

This is shown in a striking and simple story of a lay preacher who was asked at very short notice to take a service and preach at a small country church. 'Look unto Me and be saved' was his text. The address didn't last long but it was long enough to impress considerably a young man in the small congregation. He was a young man seeking to get right with God.

The preacher caught sight of him and looked straight at him and said: 'Young man, you look very miserable, and you will always be miserable if you do not obey our text—but if you obey this moment you will be saved!' He shouted: 'Young man, look to Jesus, look! look! That young man felt there and then the darkness of doubt removed and in its place the light of Jesus breaking through.

That is but a glimpse into the life of Charles Haddon Spurgeon, one of the greatest preachers and exponents of the Christian faith the Church has known. The simple message of the preacher went home—a message heard and obeyed. So can many a simple message of the bells summon a lonely and wandering soul to find Him who is the Saviour and Shepherd of our souls.

SOME OF THE OUTINGS

HOLY TRINITY, GUILDFORD

For their 1961 outing the ringers of Holy Trinity, Guildford, chose what must prove to be the hottest day of the year. The first tower to be visited on July 1st was St. Mary's. Reading. This well known and beautiful octave provided the ideal beginning to an arduous but enjoyable day. Newbury was reached at 11 a.m. and the ringing of the ten bells on St. Nicholas' was not of the order favourably to impress a critical listener. Being piloted by a very careful driver in a brand new coach was the reason for a late arrival in Marlborough. Here, on the heavy six of St. Mary's, the quality of the ringing improved, ending with a good touch of London.

The afternoon's blistering heat combined with rather difficult handling of the bells to effect an early stoppage to ringing at St. Paul's, Salisbury. The proprietor of the Cups Hotel kindly put bathroom and bedrooms at our disposal for a much needed wash. At Romsey Abbey the long climb to the ringing chamber had its ample reward in the sound and sight (for those sufficiently agile to climb further) of the bells of which Hampshire is justly proud. Here, Ann Cox (who, when in Guildford, frequently gave sterling help with both service and practice ringing) met the party. The last ring of the day was a course of Superlative, which concluded an hour's enjoyment on the fine octave at Alton. The comment, 'I'd love a peal here,' illustrated the general appreciation of the tone, 'go' and audibility of the bells. The only sad note on the outing was the fact that we visited some noteworthy towers and passed through glorious countryside with a far from full coach. S. G. P.

ST. MARY'S, HITCHIN

St. Mary's, Hitchin, ringers and their friends had a prompt start to their outing on June 17th. So successful was it that we arrived early at St. Mary's, Wymondham—the Abbey—and had time to ramble around and admire the grey towers, one at either end of the church, before climbing to ring the lovely, stately octave. Afterwards came St. Remigius, Hethersett, which is tucked away up a leafy lane, and its light eight (tenor 9½ cwt.) reminded many of Norton, in Hertfordshire.

Into Norwich, for lunch, then across the market to ring at the famous St. Peter Mancroft. To our shame we broke the stay on the third, and had to ring the back eight only. Later we went to St. Giles', a most enjoyable octave, particularly when rung at a good pace.

During tea the organiser was thanked and afterwards we went to Hingham, the last climb of the day, with a pleasing medium weight octave in a spacious ringing chamber. The time keeping was excellent and this added to the enjoyment of the typical grey churches with long, but worthwhile climbs to large ringing chambers. J. S.

ST. MARGARET'S, IPSWICH

Leaving Ipswich at 6 a.m. on July 8th the long run to Nottingham, our rendezvous for the day, was started in very unfavourable weather. However, on reaching the first tower for ringing, St. Giles', West Bridgford, the climatic conditions had greatly improved. Our pilots, Messrs. H. Lewin and D. Nichols, were awaiting our arrival and the bells were soon going to Cambridge. We thoroughly enjoyed this easy going eight, but found them rather difficult to hear owing to the efficient way the louvres had been insulated to reduce the sound from annoying people in this very densely populated area. (The people were there long before the bells.)

The next call was St. Mary's, Nottingham—but sad to relate our performance on this noble ten was not impressive, but morale improved by the ringing a beautiful touch of Stedman Triples. A short walk brought us to the very modern Co-op. restaurant, where lunch and tea had been arranged: both good meals, nicely served.

The first tower after lunch was St. Peter's and Fred Salter there with a very cordial welcome. A very pleasant hour was spent on this lively, quick running ten. Whilst taking leave of old friends some of the party became mislaid—detached so to speak, the remainder going on to Basford and Hucknall, putting both these full-toned peals to good account.

All too soon we had to take leave of Nottingham, but previous to moving off Mr. E. Blake voiced the appreciation of the party to John Munnings, for making all the arrangements, and to our two pilots, for their generous and useful assistance during the day. A very pleasant run home on a fine evening brought another successful outing to a close. G. R. G.

TALGARTH, BRECON

The ringers of St. Gwendoline's Church, Talgarth, were joined by ringers from Llanarth, Glasbury, Eardisley, Gilwern and Brecon for their outing to Swansea on July 12th.

Cadoxton-juxta-Neath, the first tower, was reached by 10 a.m., where touches of Grand-sire, Stedman, Bob Minor, Kent and Cambridge were scored. Some of the striking, however, left much to be desired. At Neath, where the party rang before splitting up for lunch, some good touches were scored on the easy-going six (tenor 8 cwt.).

In the afternoon and evening three towers were visited—Gorseinon (8), where some good ringing was enjoyed; Sketty, where touches of Oxford Bob, Grand-sire and Stedman Triples and Bob Major were rung. After tea in Swansea came the best ring of the day, on the new eight at St. Mary's, Swansea. The bells went well to a touch of Kent T.B. Major.

The outing was organised by the Talgarth captain, Mr. D. H. Bennett, to whom the thanks of all are due. M. R. T.

COTTON AND MENDLESHAM, SUFFOLK

The Cotton and Mendlesham ringers' annual outing, along with friends from neighbouring towers, introduced us to part of the Bedfordshire countryside.

Felmersham (8), the first tower, was reached unfortunately behind time, resulting in a clash with a short service. A quick ring was had before visiting Turvey (8).

An excellent lunch was provided in Kempston, after which ringing was continued at AH Saints' (8).

The eight at Toddington presented a cracked seventh, which has evidently been in such a condition since the 1920's. Tea was taken in Woburn, before going to Husborne Crawley (8), which proved to be the best ring of the day. The last tower was Barton-le-Cley (8).

A stop was made on the journey home, during which the handbells were rung, to complete an enjoyable day's ringing. Our thanks to Mr. Chilvers, for arranging the outing, and to incumbents, for the use of the bells.

BROMLEY VICAR RETIRES

A memorable incumbency comes to an end with the retirement this month of the Vicar of Bromley, Canon W. H. Murray Walton. The ancient parish church fell victim of a direct hit from a bomb and was almost completely destroyed. With great engineering ingenuity the tower was restored and now stands as a dignified campanile slightly apart from the glorious new church which has arisen from the ruins of the old. The eight bells, by Thomas Jannaway, which for some 200 years had been rung by successive generations of Bromley Youths, were destroyed, and in 1946, as almost the first part of the restoration, a splendid new ring of eight was installed by Gillett and Johnston.

The church was completed and a great service of rededication and thanksgiving took place on December 14th, 1958, immediately following which the first peal was rung on the bells. Several peals have been rung since, the latest being on July 11th—a peal of Cambridge, the first of Surprise on the new bells—as a farewell to the Vicar, during whose incumbency these historic events have taken place.

Canon Murray Walton has welcomed the Kent County Association to several annual general meetings and numerous District meetings. He and Mrs. Walton will be living at Long Crendon, Bucks, and ringers will wish them a long and happy retirement.

The ringers who took part in the peal were kindly entertained at the Vicarage afterwards by the Vicar and Mrs. Walton.

Mr. Alan Buswell has had the rare privilege of visiting Brownsea Island and examining the four bells in St. Mary's Church. The bells were cast by John Warner and Sons in 1855 and 1856 and it is believed that they were last rung in 1937.

OUTING

SHEFFIELD CATHEDRAL

It was dull and showery at 8 a.m. on July 8th, when Sheffield Cathedral band left for their annual outing, but the weather later turned warm and bright. The first stop was at Howden Minster, where some excellent ringing on this fine octave was enjoyed. The next call was the pleasant 6-bell ring at Easttrington. Here can be seen a stained glass window showing the ringers in action.

Lunch, taken at an hotel (which shall be nameless) in Beverley, proved to be quite a long and stylish affair, but lacked the real substance and delayed the party's arrival at the Minster. However, an hour's ringing on these fine bells was very much enjoyed; the oscillation of the tower, due to a heavy ring in a slender tower, causes handling to be a bit tricky sometimes.

Kirk Ella, the home tower of Messrs. Perret and J. Rank, founder members of the Sheffield University Society, was next visited. In this beautiful church amid pleasant surroundings the party did not do justice to the fine-toned six. After tea at Beverley, a longish run brought us to Epworth, the birthplace of John Wesley. Ringing here on the light eight was much enjoyed and of a high standard. After the usual call for refreshment, the run home followed, arriving in Sheffield at 10.30. Methods rung included Grandsire and Stedman Doubles, Triples and Caters, and a variety of Minor, Major and Royal, a fair standard being maintained.

Last year the trip was purely for ringers, 320 miles being travelled in private cars, but this year's party included non-ringers, 150 miles being covered, all within the boundaries of our home county, Yorkshire.

Our thanks are extended to incumbents and local companies of the towers visited.

The new Sunday service band at Bolney, Sussex, have rung their first quarter peal exactly one year after their first practice on open bells. There were six ringers ringing their first quarter peal.

The peals rung by the late Mr. F. W. Burnett at Portsmouth Cathedral totalled 89 and not 39 as inadvertently appeared on page 481.

With the peal of Doubles at Hordle, Mr. Alan A. J. Buswell has completed the 'legitimate' Grandshire family from Doubles to Cinques.

The meeting of the Suffolk Guild at Rattlesden and Drinkstone is on September 30th and not as stated on page 474.

The number of changes in the quarter peal of Double Norwich Court Boh Major rung at Bray on July 9th (page 483) was 1,264.

Five peals were scored during a Manchester area peal week between July 17th and 20th. Mr. Robert B. Smith conducted Cambridge Surprise Royal at Stockport.

The visitors to Hodnet on Saturday, July 15th, were not met because the captain did not know they were coming. Please accept his apologies.

Visiting Lechlade Church for Sunday morning ringing on July 16th, Miss H. Mason was able in the evening to complete the band for a quarter peal. The conductor writes expressing Lechlade ringers' thanks to her.

Mr. Bert Luck, the leader of the ringers at Canterbury Cathedral, has received a message of appreciation from the Archbishop of the peal that was rung on the evening of the Archbishop's enthronement. After his long and tiring day, the Archbishop had retired early to bed, and had great pleasure in listening to the bells.

The band who rang the peal at Oldswinford, Worcestershire, would like to associate it with Milles France Lebreton and Annick Roquet of Le Mans, France. The peal, owing to the unfortunate death of Mr. Johnson, had to be rung half-muffled, but was originally intended as a compliment to the above young ladies.

BELFRY GOSSIP

For over 65 years the name of York has been associated with Rothwell, Northants, belfry, and on July 5th a quarter peal of Grandshire Triples was rung there for the 83rd birthday of Mr. A. J. York and the 70th of Mr. A. E. York. Their loyalty to the tower and Guild over this long period has never been wanting, and they still ring regularly for Sunday service and practice. Mr. A. E. York is the captain of the ringers, a position he has held on and off for the past 40 years.

Mr. F. Preston has completed 50 years as a ringer at Kingswinford, Staffs. Congratulations!

The ringer of the fifth in the peal of Grandshire Triples at Brierley Hill (see page 465) was Mr. C. Frederick Jukes and not as printed. The conductor sends his apologies.

The Rev. R. E. A. Lloyd, Rector of Fulmer, sends the astonishing yet true piece of information: Married at Fulmer Parish Church on July 22nd, John B. Reis to Sally Bell. (Both are ringers.)

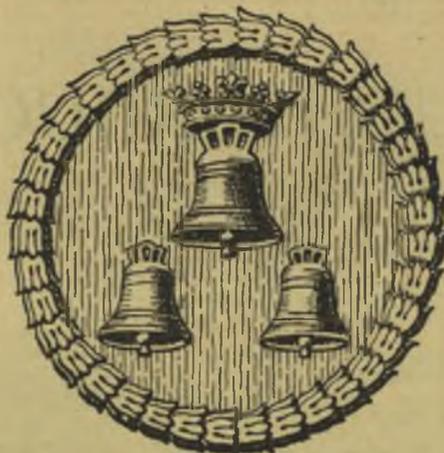

Wing-Commander Donald Perrens, D.S.O., D.F.C., who is a master at Eastbourne College, was awarded the O.B.E. in the recent birthday honours list. He is the son of the esteemed librarian of the Central Council, Mr. F. W. Perrens.

The death of Preb. Battersby, Rector of Weston-super-Mare, will be regretted by a very wide circle of people. Weston is the largest civil parish in the Bath and Wells Diocese, and the Sunday morning and evening services were attended by between 300 and 400 people. A memorial quarter is recorded in this issue.

Mrs. Nancy Poore Tafts, the author of 'The Art of Handbell Ringing' and a former editor of 'Overtones,' is in this country and staying until August 15th at The Chantry, Llangollen, Denbighshire. Last year she had a most memorable holiday, hearing some excellent tune ringing by the Norbury and Ecclesfield ringers, the Whites, of Appleton, and the ringers of St. Mary's, Launton.

ARCHBISHOP'S 'DEEP APPRECIATION'

A copy of 'The Ringing World' of July 14th, containing a record of peals and quarter peals rung in honour of the enthronement of the Most Rev. A. Michael Ramsey as 100th Archbishop of Canterbury, was sent by the Editor to His Grace. The following reply has been received from the Rev. John Andrew, Chaplain to the Archbishop:

'My dear Mr. Editor,—I am commanded by the Lord Archbishop of Canterbury to thank you for your most kind letter of good wishes, and for the copy of "The Ringing World" in which there are mentions of the peals rung when His Grace was enthroned.

'As a great lover of the sound of the bells of his churches, the Archbishop was particularly gratified with this lovely way of greeting, and I think you ought to know how deeply he appreciates this.

'Perhaps a mention in your magazine of His Grace's pleasure and delight may be some recompense for all the kindness of the many teams who took part up and down the country.'

PEAL OF 32,704 CHANGES RUNG

Longest Length By One Set Of Ringers

Ringing history was made at Loughborough Bell Foundry Campanile on July 15th, when the longest length ever rung to a peal by one set of ringers, consisting of 32,704 changes of Plain Bob Major, was accomplished in 15 hours 30½ minutes.

The peal was conducted by Mr. Robert B. Smith, of Marple. The band consisted of Bernard F. L. Groves (Maidstone) treble, John M. Jelley (Leicester) 2, Neil Bennett (Ashton) 3, Patrick I. Chapman (Daventry) 4, Barrie Hendry (Birmingham) 5, A. Peter Whitehead (Marsden) 6, Derek Ogden (Manchester) 7, Robert B. Smith (Marple) tenor.

We are sure the Exercise will extend to the band its warmest congratulations. Details and photograph next week.

PERSONALITIES OF THE EXERCISE — 30

MR. THOMAS G. MYERS,
Guild of Devonshire Ringers.

The promotion of change-ringing in the south-west corner of England has always been a difficult and challenging task. The counties of Devon and Cornwall are both strongholds of call-change ringing, and in most parts of the area this method produces excellent striking. Unlike other parts of the country, the Devon Association of Call-change Ringers exists to promote competition ringing between local bands, and whereas amongst change-ringers the best striking is usually done by mixed parties, it is the reverse with the call-change men. They always ring as a local company, and would be upset with a mixed band. This is all to the good, and through the 87 years since the Guild of Devonshire Ringers was formed the scientific men have always had to try to aim at a high standard of striking. Such is the enthusiasm of the call-change ringers for good ringing that they will always give applause and credit when a scientific band do give a polished performance with the 'tenor-behind.'

In the south-west area of Devon no change-ringer's name is more respected by the call-change men than Myers. During some competitions, in days gone by, when it was known that 'the Myers are listening,' it has put even the call-change men on their mettle! Mr. Thomas G. Myers, of Plymouth, son of the late G. Harry Myers, is very proud of the work which his father, his brother A. William Myers, and himself, have done to attain this reputation.

Tom Myers was born in Plymouth on September 29th, 1906, and learnt to handle a bell as a small boy during the first world war at St. Andrew's, Plymouth. He owes a great deal to his father as, during those war years, there was no 'open' ringing in Plymouth, and he and his brother William were taken up to the belfry by their father, who was also in charge of the turret clock, and given a few minutes' practice each day, between 12 noon and 1 p.m., on a tied bell. After ringing was resumed again Tom mastered change-ringing, and rang his first peal—the treble to Grandsire Triples at St. George's, Stonehouse, Plymouth, on July 19th, 1922, conducted by his father. (These bells were unfortunately destroyed during the last war.) At the time, aged 15, he was the youngest to ring a peal in the West of England. His first peal of Major was also rung at Stonehouse on March 16th, 1927, being Plain Bob. On September 21st, 1929, he scored his first peal as conductor—Grandsire Doubles at Meavy, and on June 21st, 1930, he called his first 8-bell peal at Revelstoke, with Holt's Ten-Part peal of Grandsire Triples. Being in the watch- and clockmaking business—he succeeded to the business founded by his father in 1894—he has not always been free on a Saturday, so opportunities for peals have not been too frequent. However, his present total is 196, including two on handbells, of which he has conducted 80.

Many of his peals have been rung for specific purposes, to commemorate national events, and many of them have been in his home tower of St. Andrew's, where hangs a very fine ring of ten, with a 35 cwt. tenor. He rang this bell to a peal of Grandsire Triples in 1926, when he was 19, and took part in the first peal of Royal there in 1927, when his father conducted from the tenor, at the time the heaviest tenor 'turned in' to a peal for the Guild. He conducted Bob Royal from the tenor for the coronation of King George VI on May 12th, 1937, and also conducted the same method on May 24th, 1938, when his brother, A. William Myers, rang the tenor. After the last war Tom conducted two outstanding peals—Bob Royal on November 15th, 1949, to celebrate the bicentenary of the bells (1749–1949), and his father rang the treble, becoming the first to 'circle the tower'; and probably the most historic peal that will ever be rung at St. Andrew's was rung on the patronal festival day, 1957, to commemorate the reconsecration of the restored church after serious war damage in the blitz. On this occasion his brother, A. William, became the second one to 'complete the circle.'

In days gone by, opportunities for ringing peals in anything else than the four standard methods were very few, unless with a band of visitors, so Tom has had to travel to other parts to progress. He is thus very proud of taking part in the first peal of Cambridge Royal in Devon at St. Andrew's on July 13th, 1937, conducted by C. H. Kippin, and it was Tom's first 'touch' of Surprise Royal! The same year was a highlight for the Guild, as he took part in the first peals of Oxford Treble Bob and Double Norwich, rung by a resident band, both conducted by C. R. Lilley. The first time he ever heard Maximus will always revive pleasant memories for Tom! He took part in a peal of Kent T.B. at St. John's, Croydon, and it was his first attempt for a 12-bell peal. The St. Martin's Guild for the Diocese of Birmingham, on a visit to Exeter in 1947, gave him his first peal of Stedman Cinques. Proudly he remembers it 'as near a perfect peal on 12 bells as is likely to be rung on bells of such weight.'

Another peal which delighted him was a perfect peal of Stedman Cinques at St. John's, Croydon, on June 28th, 1947, composed and conducted by C. W. Roberts. At this tower, too, Tom also rang his first 'touch' of Cambridge Maximus in 1950; this enabled him to complete the Cambridge family from Minor to Maximus, which he has also done in Plain Bob and Stedman. He has twice called peals of Grandsire Caters at Truro Cathedral, and also taken part in the first peals of Bob Royal and Oxford T.B. Royal there, too. His list includes peals as far away as Holy Trinity, Guildford, Newcastle Cathedral, Christchurch Priory, St. Mary Redcliffe, Bristol, and St. Patrick's, Dublin. One of his recent achievements, of which he feels justly proud, is being the first Devon ringer to conduct a peal from every bell in a tower. This was accomplished at Bridgerule; and he has rung in all the ringable 6-, 8-, 10- and 12-bell towers in the county.

Tom has had 34 years' unbroken service as an officer for the Guild, and he has been a general committee member since 1927, and secretary, treasurer and Ringing Master of the South West Branch since 1946. He has been a member of the Central Council since 1948, and conducted the first 'officers' peal for the Guild, this being its 1,000th peal. He has been a sidesman and member of St. Andrew's P.C.C. for 20 years, and from 1943–46 he was in charge at Emmanuel, Plymouth. Before he relinquished the captaincy to Mr. J. P. Sims, he had raised the ringing from rounds and call-changes to well-struck Grandsire Triples. He is always teaching people, and the numbers must run well into three figures. In 1960 alone it was 28, of which only two continued into 1961!

Tom Myers is the right man in the right place. An excellent bell-handler and a fine back-ender, he is the best advertisement for 'scientific' ringing amongst the Devon call-change men. He sets a high standard of striking himself and he expects others to follow his example.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD West Dorset Branch

The West Dorset Branch were fortunate in having a lovely day for their quarterly meeting at Askerswell on St. Swithin's Day. This was the first time the Guild had ever been to visit this charming place, and all were full of praise for the delightful, easy-going and tuneful six. Eight towers of the Branch were represented, with visitors from Isleworth, Yeovil, Hampreston, Wellington and Yetminster. Mr. W. T. Godfrey, of Milford-on-Sea, was warmly welcomed, having been a member of the Branch for some years.

The new Guild Office was used for the first time by the Branch, being conducted by the Rev. O. L. Willmott, and the lesson read by the president, Canon C. Carew Cox.

Tea, served in the school, was generously given by the people of Askerswell, and included fresh Scottish salmon. Members subscribed £2 6s. 6d. towards the cost of a sound-reducing floor for the tower, thus showing their appreciation of an excellent meal.

Canon Cox presided at the business meeting. The next meeting was fixed for Beaminster on September 16th. Mrs. A. Scott was elected an honorary member, and the following young ringers of Askerswell were elected members: Juliet Willmott, Susan Savage, Bill Hansford and Stewart Ascott. Canon Cox proposed a hearty vote of thanks to all who had made the meeting so very pleasant.

The Canon briefly outlined the coming celebrations to mark the 80th anniversary of the formation of the Salisbury Guild. The Guild festival would be held in Salisbury on May 12th, 1962. There would be a service in the Cathedral and the Bishop would give the address. He urged that a start be made in January to make preparations to make the year really memorable, with peals and quarter peals especially on September 14th, which was the actual date of the formation in 1882. He also suggested that every tower should have a ringers' Sunday either on September 9th or 16th, 1962.

The hon. secretary thanked the Canon for presiding, and said they could not close without mention of the late Preb. E. V. Cox, for his wonderful personality which was always full of fun. When he attended their meetings, a very neatly written card always came with the correct numbers for tea in ample time for due arrangements to be made.

On returning to the tower members listened in the churchyard to part of a tape-recording of the Spliced Surprise peal of Major rung silent and non-conducted at Silverdale last Whit Monday morning. Comments were just full of admiration!

Dorchester Branch

The summer quarterly meeting of the Dorchester Branch was held at Wyke Regis in fine, hot, sunny weather. The eight bells were available for ringing until 4 p.m., when the Guild service was conducted by the Rector, Canon F. E. Pratt. Tea was served in the Church Hall by the wives and associate members of Wyke Regis, to a company of 35 members.

The meeting was conducted by the Branch chairman, the Rev. C. E. C. Brinkworth. The next meeting will be held at Charminster, on the recently-augmented eight bells, on September 16th. Branch practices were arranged as follows, subject to confirmation: July 29th, Preston; August 12th, Piddletrenthide; August 26th, Cattistock; September 9th, Piddlehinton.

Under any other business the meeting unanimously agreed that associate members should be allowed to vote at meetings, and the hon. secretary was asked to inform the general secretary so that the proposal can be put before the Guild committee and the next A.G.M. The hon. secretary proposed a vote of thanks to the Rector and all who had contributed to the success of the meeting.

TWO RINGING BRIDES FROM ASH, SURREY

Dr. G. D. Mackenzie — Miss Sylvia Sherwood

A brief announcement was made in our last issue of two Ash, Surrey, ringers being brides in the church they served with great faithfulness as ringers. The first was Miss Sylvia Christine Sherwood, of East Wyke Farm, who married Dr. G. D. Mackenzie. The daughter of the tower captain (Mr. E. Sherwood), she was by training a nurse. Her husband has a practice at Wem, Shropshire.

Given away by her father, the bride wore a full-length rose-patterned satin brocade dress and a white rose headdress. She was attended by her cousin, Miss Caroline Woodhatch, and the best man was Mr. Jack Marshall. At the reception at the Hog's Back Hotel, the toast of the bride and bridegroom was proposed by Mr. C. W. Denyer, Master of the Guildford Diocesan Guild. The honeymoon was spent in Majorca.

Mr. C. J. Harwood — Miss A. E. Goodchild

The second wedding, the next Saturday, was between two local ringers—Miss Audrey Eileen Goodchild and Mr. Charles James Harwood. At both services the Rector (Rev. H. M. Inslay) officiated.

Miss Goodchild, who was given away by her father, wore a brocade dress cut on princess lines, with a pearl headdress. The bridesmaids were her sister, Daphne, Miss Elizabeth Harwood (the bridegroom's sister) and little Miss Carol Baldrey. Mr. A. Knight was the best man.

After a reception at Normandy Village Hall, the couple left for their honeymoon on the Isle of Wight. In honour of the two weddings a peal of Minor in seven methods was rung on July 8th (see page 488).

LINCOLN DIOCESAN GUILD

Despite a day of almost continuous rain, some 40 ringers attended a joint meeting of the West Lindsey Branch and the Ladies' Guild held at Owston Ferry on July 15th. Evensong was conducted by the Vicar (Canon L. D. Ravins), who also gave the address.

Following tea in the Vicarage, the Branch business meeting was presided over by Canon Ravins, and a particular welcome was accorded to Mr. J. Bray, attending for the first time as Master of the Guild.

A reminder was given by the secretary (Mr. G. L. A. Lunn) to those towers which had not yet sent in their donations to the memorial fund for the late Mr. J. A. Freeman. The Ringing Master (Mr. G. E. Feirn) reported on the Central Council proceedings, and the meeting ended with a vote of thanks proposed by the secretary of the Ladies' Guild (Mrs. A. Richardson).

The ladies thereupon retired to hold their own meeting, leaving some of the gentlemen to ring handbells while others returned to the tower.

NORWICH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION

A pleasant meeting was held at Reepham (6) on July 8th. In the absence of the Vicar, a short service was conducted by the president, Mr. F. N. Golden. Tea was partaken at Hill House, there being 24 members present.

At the business meeting Mr. C. Goodman suggested that the Association hold ringing competitions to encourage interest and improve striking.

Susan Walker and William P. Callow, of Marsham, were elected ringing members, and the belfry election of Diana M. Price as a N.R.L.M., prior to a peal at St. Peter Mancroft on June 8th, was ratified.

It was decided to hold the next meeting on October 14th at Lyng.

The chairman (Mr. A. G. Bason) expressed thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells, to Mr. W. Ford for arrangements made, and to Mrs. H. Vardigans for an excellent tea.

In the evening there was also ringing at Salle.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

EAST AFRICA CALLS

Dear Sir.—I would be most grateful if you would publish this letter in your admirable paper as an appeal to all Christians and lovers of bellringing.

A new church is nearly completed at Kilifi and will be consecrated by the Archbishop of East Africa on August 25th. The tower, roof and walls are finished, as the enclosed photograph shows, and it only remains to fit the doors and other furniture.

The final cost will be about £3,200, of which we have collected £2,600 locally, and expect to collect the rest before the end of the year. We are a small but growing congregation of about 100 Africans and 20 to 30 Europeans (increasing to 80 in the holidays), and as this church is a memorial to Krapf and Rebmann we have designed it with a reinforced concrete framework so that the tower can take a ring of six bells hung for ringing.

This feature makes it unique among churches in Africa north of the Union, and is a fitting tribute to the two pioneers who opened up the whole of East Africa to the light of Christianity.

Krapf and Rebmann were German Lutherans recruited by the Church Missionary Society. Krapf landed at Takaungu, three miles from Kilifi, in 1843, and eventually founded his mission station at Rabai in Kilifi District in 1846, where he was joined by Rebmann. They aroused world-wide interest by their discoveries of the snow-capped mountains Kenya and Kilimanjaro, and this attracted the great explorers and led to the opening up of these territories to civilisation.

Messrs. Taylors, of Loughborough, have quoted the following prices c.i.f. Mombasa for a ring of six:—

Tenor (14 cwt.)	..	£590
5th	..	£450
4th	..	£350
3rd	..	£300
2nd	..	£260
Treble	..	£244

Total: £2,194

Diocesan Guilds may feel that this is a worthy object for a contribution, which should be sent to Mrs. A. Kelly, Secretary/Treasurer, Kilifi Church, P.O. Box 29, Kilifi, Kenya, and crossed 'Kilifi Church Bell Fund.'

Or there may be good bells hanging idle in towers too weak for ringing which could be offered for the cost of packing and transport, or at a valuation.

We believe that Africans will take readily to change-ringing and that a ring of bells will be a great inspiration to the Christian life of this country. And there is at least one expert now in Kenya who could instruct us in the Exercise.

—Yours faithfully,
W. F. P. KELLY,
 for Kilifi Church Committee.
 Kilifi, Kenya.

ARCHBISHOP'S COMMENDATION

Dear Sir.—I have been asked by Mr. Paul Kelly to add a word to his letter.

In the last eight or nine years, some 70 or 80 new churches have been built in Kenya. Some of these have been small but very worthy buildings in the depths of the countryside. Others have been larger buildings in the growing towns. The church at Kilifi, which I am to consecrate in August, is unique among them all, and I would warmly commend this appeal from one to whom the inspiration and zeal for this erection has so largely derived. The introduction of change-ringing into this part will be a most welcome thing.—Yours sincerely,

LEONARD ✠
 Archbishop of East Africa.

LEARNING WITH CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY

Dear Sir.—In your issue of July 22nd, 1960, you were kind enough to publish an account of our experiences as learners, entitled 'Learning with the Cambridge University Guild—Beginners' Progress.' Now that we can ring a few methods without 'L' plates, we are sending a further series of misadventures, in the hope that they will amuse your readers, learners and experts alike.

As in the previous account, the remarks in inverted commas were made by instructors and tower captains; the rest is self-explanatory.—Yours faithfully,

G. M. CHAMPNESS,
R. L. TAYLOR.

BEGINNER'S PROGRESS, PART II, OR, SO THIS IS CHANGE-RINGING!

'Well, you should be safe on the third, it had a new stay only last week': But when did it last have a new slider?

'Three over four, five over six, six over three': Fire the bells.

'This is one of the most musical changes': Pity it's a muffled practice.

'Hold up': Then try to pull off hurriedly.

'Shorten your rope at backstroke': Ring your bell down.

'This is all': But the treble is still in third's place.

'Take the second to Grandsire, it's only hunting': Until someone tries to call a touch.

'Fit in for St. Clement's: here, you take the treble': Oh dear, I still can't count.

'Can you two hunt the treble and second simultaneously to Grandsire?': Yes, every single pull.

'But we always raise in peal; catch hold': And after all that it's up wrong.

'Well, we should have you ringing "inside" by Christmas': Happy New Year! Shall I drum?

'You've looked up Plain Bob, haven't you? Take the second': Well, I did know it in theory.

'Keep that tenor up, can't you—it's only 13 cwt.': Well, it feels more like 30.

'It's just like Doubles, with two extra dodges': And two more bells to forget to dodge with.

'You should know the calls by now; I'm not going to tell you what to do': So I didn't do it.

'You two fit in somewhere so that I can stand behind the treble': Usefulness at last!

'BLINDED WITH SCIENCE'

Dear Sir.—Mr. Amos' arguments are becoming progressively more absurd. If one accepts his statement that St. Nicholas' is Spliced St. Simon's and Reverse Canterbury, then my next peal of Yorkshire I might as well call Spliced Cambridge, Painswick, Leeds and Newmarket, spliced at the cross-section—to the uninitiated a very fine performance. I would have blinded them with science, which is exactly what Mr. Amos is trying to do.—Yours faithfully,

DAVID J. FORDER,

Eastleigh, Hants.

BENTLEY COMMON, ESSEX.—On July 9th, 1,260 Doubles (Plain Bob and Grandsire): Miss L. Doone 1, W. R. Chandler 2, R. J. Brown 3, V. J. C. Dale (first in two methods as cond.) 4, Miss B. Fisher 5, For Matins.

KINGSTON SEYMOUR, SOMERSET.—On July 10th, 1,296 Cambridge Surprise Minor: C. Kortright 1, Mary Powell (first of Cambridge 'inside') 2, D. G. Yeo 3, L. Derrick 4, J. Brain 5, M. J. Horseman (cond.) 6.

ST. DUNSTAN'S DOUBLES

Dear Sir,—I must thank Mr. Amos for sorting out the confusion I got into when I tried to interpret his letter of June 9th. It is obvious that there are at least three St. Dunstan's Doubles.

The first and original one is that which I gave in the 'R.W.' of June 23rd, and which was first published by Stedman in 1677.

The second is that given by J. Monk in 1766, which has the same plain course as the above, the same single, but a different bob.

The third is that given by the Central Council, and which we both agree is incorrect.

Therefore we both agree that the 12345 plain lead or method of St. Dunstan's 21354 Doubles is as shown. Mr. Amos 23145 rings it with a different bob, but this, 32415 of course, does not make it a different 34251 method.

43521 The rest of Mr. Amos' letter has 45312 been answered many times before. A 54132 method is defined entirely and only 51423 by its plain course. The use of a 15432 different bob does not give a different method. Plain Bob and April Day 14523 are one and the same method.

Any alteration in the plain course gives a different method. I agree that the method of Biddenden is a mere variation of the method of Yorkshire, but since the plain course is different, it is a different method.

Cambridge Surprise Major is Yorkshire above the treble and Pudsey below the treble. It is therefore a different method to both.

St. Nicholas' Doubles is Reverse Canterbury above the treble and St. Simon's below the treble. It is therefore a different method to both.

Plain Bob is St. Simon's above the treble and Reverse Canterbury below the treble. Presumably Mr. Amos therefore says that Plain Bob is Spliced St. Simon's and Reverse Canterbury!

Mr. Amos is being very helpful in using the title St. George for a method which is the same method as Winchendon, when the same title has been used for a method which is the same method as All Saints' Doubles.—Yours sincerely,

FRANK T. BLAGROVE.

Windsor, Berks.

FOOTNOTES TICKLE ISOLATED RINGER

Dear Sir,—Isolated as I am from ringing, my solo ringing enjoyment is 'The Ringing World.' I have recently been reflecting on the footnotes to peals, and I am tickled pink no matter which copy of 'The Ringing World' I read! Are there any rules for footnotes?

Picking up a 'Ringing World' at random, one peal celebrates Whitsun and a 70th birthday—curious combination! Another celebrates three birthdays—a 70th, an ordinary birthday (presumably) and a 21st. Why stop at three? Why not include Bill Brewer's, Jan Stewer's and all the rest? There are peals for babies—do they enjoy them? The same father was in two such peals—no sign of either father or mother in another! There was a peal for a couple married in another church several miles away! Two peals for an engaged couple—they took part in one, but neither took part in the other. In one peal we are told it was the conductor's 65th peal-tower in the county. So what? Where is the magic? Someone has a peal for passing his examinations in mechanical engineering. What examinations? What next? Will the 11-plus figure soon? Shall we one day have a peal (as compensation? as consolation?) for someone who fails an examination?

Enough!—although there are others! How crazy can a footnote be?—Yours sincerely,

HUGH FALKNER.

REDUNDANT BELLS AND THEIR DISPOSAL

Dear Sir,—We have seen in recent issues of 'The Ringing World' an advertisement to the effect that five bells, complete with fittings, are for sale, and that tenders should be in excess of £1,000. Surely such redundant bells should not be offered to any sister church at more than scrap value at the very most, for there must be many churches in this country which have towers suitable for these bells, but which are not exactly wealthy and could ill afford a complete new ring of bells.

There is at least one church in Berkshire, near Winkfield, which would consider building a campanile to support its south wall if it could hang some bells there. In fact a substantial donation has been promised towards a tower if it should contain ringing bells. It would, however, be a far more Christianlike act if redundant bells could be given to sister churches which could use them—what a fine example that would be to non-practising Christians in these days, when so many people who have so much material property would sell something which has been entrusted to them, something which was originally a gift to someone else.

Perhaps at some future Central Council meetings some committee could be set up which could investigate the possibilities of transferring usable rings from closed and redundant churches to places which would see that they are well used for calling people to their church. Such transfers should be made strictly on a non-profit basis, however, for not only would any commercial flavour be unwelcome morally, but we may suffer even more losses than have been experienced in recent years—for example, the famous 'Marlborough' bells from St. Helen's, Worcester, and the pre-Reformation bells at Boughton Aluph, and several others.—Yours faithfully,

GEORGE DENZIL.

INTO WEST SUSSEX

A small party of ringers from various towers in Kent, Surrey and Staffordshire met on June 24th to visit the beautiful countryside of West Sussex and enjoy its bells.

The day started, however, in Surrey on the six bells of Ockley, which are rung from the ground floor. Crossing the county boundary, we arrived at Warnham (an octave recently rehung by Mears and Stainbank): George Francis met us here and joined in a respectable course of Bristol. Among various Doubles methods rung at Itchingfield was St. Nicholas—St. Nicholas is the patron saint of this church, with its wooden bell turret. The spire of the Victorian church of Slinfold houses a six of mixed vintage, which Mears' have rehung and retuned into a most pleasing ring. Due to a large amount of week-end traffic we were late arriving at Billingshurst (8, 12½ cwt.), and our performance of Double Norwich and Yorkshire seemed to suffer as a result.

After lunch, we visited the Church of St. Peter-ad-Vincula, Wisborough Green, which possesses a good Taylor six, sounding better outside than in. Our next call was to Kirdford, where the ring of six is rung from a gallery; this was followed by Fittleworth (a light ring of mediocre tone).

The tea break was rather long, as Storrington could not be visited, several of the bells being out of action, but this permitted an extended stay at Washington: unfortunately, this fine Taylor six is seldom rung, but a call here is well worth while. Thakeham possesses a good product of the Croydon foundry, and from here Charlie Skinner led us to Shipley, where the bells hang in a central tower capable of holding 12 comfortably, and thence to West Grinstead Church, with Cecil Longhurst awaiting us: another good Gillett ring here (tenor 8 cwt. 7 lb.). To conclude our trip we visited a couple of octaves—the heavy ring at Horsham, and finally Ruspur, where we were pleased to have Ted Coward, of Dorking, stand in a course of Cambridge.

To all who helped towards the success of the outing we extend our grateful thanks.

'OWD BAT-ER' 'BATED'

(BY YOUNG BAT)

There is something more in attending ringing meetings than merely ringing bells. One important aspect is not only meeting old friends but making new, and new experiences.

The meeting of the Chester Branch at Farn-don on July 8th was somewhat unique, for after ringing at St. Chad's and tea, it was announced that St. Chad's, Holt (Denbighshire), would be available after tea. A number trooped off across the ancient and historic Dee Bridge, dividing Cheshire from Denbighshire and England from Wales, into Dyma Cymru, with its pointed buttresses and water cuts of the 14th century.

On entering St. Chad's, Holt, hanging on to the wall outside was a young bat and inside the church were two more, one in a pew; all created a great amount of interest. Miss Nancy Kempell please note: nice to see you amongst 'the quarters' again. Both churches celebrate the ancient custom of rush-bearing festival.

OBITUARY

MR. A. F. BAILEY

With the passing of Mr. Allen Frank Bailey, the ringing company of St. George's Church, Stockport, has lost a fine conductor and ringing Master, whose place it will be difficult to fill.

Joining the band in 1929, after filling a similar post at St. Thomas', Pendleton, he soon became leader, and by example in regular attendance at practice and Sunday ringing did much to preserve the tradition of earlier days that St. George's bells should ring twice on a Sunday. Except for the wartime ban and a very few unavoidable occasions, this continuity of Sunday ringing has been maintained.

One of the famous Bailey family of Leiston, he learned to ring at an early age, and his first peal (Major) in 1911 was the first ever to be rung by eight brothers. Many similar peals followed, both in the tower and on handbells, culminating later on in Kent Maximus and Stedman Cinques 'in hand' by six brothers—a feat not likely to be repeated in the foreseeable future.

Wounded and taken prisoner in the first world war, Allen safely returned to Leiston in 1919, and a year or two later moved to Manchester, where he joined the Pendleton band, and rang in numerous peals with the late J. W. Washbrook, Harry Chapman and others. He loved handbell ringing, and gradually got a band together, which practised first in Long-sight, Manchester, and later in Stockport, to which town he moved in 1929 after his marriage. His fine leadership soon produced a band which rang several 'first "in hand" in the method' peals for the Lancashire Association and the Chester Diocesan Guild. Well over a hundred peals followed, ranging from Triples to Maximus, during the 1930's. The second war broke up the band, and he made no attempt to revive it after the war, declaring that he had finished with peals, and he kept his word.

He maintained, however, his connection with St. George's, and did much to hold the company together during the ban and to build up its strength again when ringing recommenced. In 1959 Allen's health began to fail, and it was no longer possible for him to ascend the 82 steps to the ringing room. A rather distressing illness followed, necessitating frequent visits to hospital, but he maintained his cheerful manner even in pain. Visited by friends, and a close reader of 'The Ringing World,' he kept in touch to the end, which came suddenly on July 8th.

The funeral service at St. George's, followed by cremation, was attended by numerous ringers, four of whom rang handbells in the church as the cortège passed from the chancel to the porch, a fitting farewell to one who had done so much ringing with handbells. The service was conducted by the Rev. J. M. Pennington, who is learning to ring, and a short address given by Canon Wilfrid Garlick, the Vicar, in which he said: 'Allen Bailey's physical shape and his character were alike—square.' Surely this sums up the man in few words, for a more honest conductor or more competent general in handling ringers, and modest with it all, would be hard to find.

A VISIT TO ST. MARGARET'S CHURCH, KING'S LYNN

By T. A. BEVIS

THE west towers of St. Margaret's Church, King's Lynn, project stately proportions in splendid dignity above a motley arrangement of grey, brown and red roofs of a royal town and port—like a motor hen caring for her brood—a town which has tasted of fortune and misfortune for over a thousand years.

Looking north, they command a vista of the swirling outfall of a great tidal river—the Ouse—the waters of which tumble playfully through a maze of mist-enveloped creeks, sandbanks and mud: a concoction known as the Wash.

Towering 82 feet above their ancient flint-patterned neighbour—the Guildhall—louvered windows of the large of these two venerable sentinels (the 'twins' are not identical), direct the bells' message over warehouses, docks and river, on which Saxons sailed home with their treasure; westward the bells' voices sound across the rich, flat expanse of marshland—an area containing several remarkable churches.

To the south, the visitor, peering above ornamented battlements, perceives the winding course of the Ouse on its perpetual journey through the low Fenlands in the direction of Ely and beyond to Bedford. The east affords a different view: of Greyfriars delicate lantern tower rising above lofty trees. The wooded slopes of Norfolk's Breckland and the Royal Estate of Sandringham paint a pleasing picture on nature's continually changing canvas.

St. Margaret's Church is an unforgettable fane. Two-hundred-and-forty feet long it has survived cannon, unruly elements and, more recently, witnessed with despair the wild rampages of an angry Ouse in flood. It has unhappy memories of the time in 1643, when a Parliamentary gun aimed a heavy missile which crashed through the roof and spread havoc into the impressive nave. In 1741 the nave suffered once again when the spire of the south-western tower collapsed during a severe storm. Flood water marks on the church walls tell their own story....

OVER 800 YEARS OLD

The church was founded over 800 years ago by the first Bishop of Norwich, who decreed that it be built in the shape of a cross—a design, which, despite many structural changes, has been retained. Very little remains of the Norman building, and that portion which has been spared—the base of the south-west tower—is exquisite, having a profusion of arches and clustered pillars. The middle stages of this tower were erected in the 13th century and the top storey represents the grandeur which blossomed in the 14th century. Of magnificent dimensions, the north-west tower was almost entirely rebuilt in the 1500's, but one arch displays the enduring handiwork of Norman craftsmen.

St. Margaret's has much to attract the visitor. At one time it was adorned with a central lantern, 132 feet high. If only the incongruous 'stump' of this former lantern could grow.... then, indeed a cathedral-like edifice would be born. An eagle-lectern dates from the 15th century and the high altar is constructed of cedarwood from the Lebanon. The organ is quite 200 years old, but the great glory of the church are four central arches, set at the beginning of a fine chancel clerestory, which has a gallery walk. Ethereal light fills this place and a round east window sparkles like a gem above a gilded rearedos.

Here are two of the largest brasses in the land; they perpetuate the memory of Alan de Walsoken and Robert Braunch. Space will not allow a description of them—suffice to add that the brasses are without an equal. One displays an engraving said to be the oldest illustration of an English post-windmill.

The ringer will return to the north-west tower: a few steps lead to a commodious ringing chamber—actually a 'box' constructed within the upcurve of three arches. It is very neat and tidy and wood panelling between the arches has been painted a satisfying pastel blue. The overall effect is creditable and speaks highly of the interest of a youthful team, infused with the enthusiasm of their present leader, Miss Freda Greaves.

ST. MARGARET'S CHURCH, KING'S LYNN

'A NOBLE RING'

There are ten bells—a noble ring—six of which (including the tenor) were cast in 1776 by Lester and Pack, of London. Two trebles were added by Mears and Stainbank in 1867, this firm recasting the eighth bell in 1893. Number nine was introduced to Thomas Osborne's melting pot in 1800.

Weights are: Treble 6 cwt. 1 qr. 19 lb.; 2nd 7-2-23; 3rd 8-2-3; 4th 8-2-14; 5th 9-2-0; 6th 12-2-2; 7th 14-3-1; 8th 17-0-10; 9th 20-3-10; tenor 29-2-9. As might be readily imagined, the tonal qualities of this ring are good. The tenor's sonorous vibrations echo along the streets of dockland in the stirring key of C.

Prior to 1776 there were eight bells, the tenor of which turned the scales at approximately 28 cwt.

Several peals have been rung in the tower, five by ringers of St. Margaret's Church. The earliest recorded peal materialised on January 20th, 1746/7; this comprised 5,040 changes of Cathrons Trebles, in three hours and forty minutes. The team who participated were: Jno. Atkins, Jno. Streets, Mes. Atmore, Jno. Parkinson, Joshua Raven, Wm. Moore, Anthony Berry and, in the rear, Char. Hill.

This was followed by another peal by a Lynn company on February 23rd, 1770, the method being 5,040 of Plain Bob Major, in 3 hours and 28 minutes, conducted by Jno. Parkinson.

What a din ensued on November 5th, 1796, when the bells joined in a duet with fireworks and rang 6,000 changes of Plain Bob Major under the conductorship of Jno. Bodham, in 4 hours 10 minutes.

On January 12th, 1894, a peal of 5,024 Bob Major was rung for the Norwich Diocesan Association, in 3 hours 28 minutes, by local bellringers. It was composed and conducted by J. W. Sedgley.

To commemorate the coronation of Queen Elizabeth II, a peal of 5,040 changes of Plain Bob Royal was completed on June 2nd, 1953, the conductor being Norman Harding.

TABLETS OF REMEMBRANCE

Three tablets affixed to the south wall are to the memories, respectively, of John William Sedgley, who died on May 7th, 1922; William George Curston, died December 19th, 1922; and William J. Eldred, who expired April 5th, 1953. The last named was Branch secretary for the Norwich Diocesan Association for 25 years.

The tower is in possession of an interesting collection of minute books, these recording the activities of local ringing companies from the year 1854. Many quarter peals and long touches have been scored and from year to year strong teams of ringers have usually been available to take part in these. In 1958 St. Margaret's Association comprised 30 persons, including nine ladies.

A name often to be found in later records and one which will always be associated with St. Margaret's Church is that of Tom Greenacre, a loyal gentleman and a pillar of strength to his tower. He passed away quite recently.

Leaving Lynn Regis by way of the fortified South Gate and turning towards Lincolnshire, one enjoys a final glance at the ancient port and its skyline of crazily-tilted derricks busy at their task unloading holds of ships from Scandinavian countries. Above the raucous sounds now muted by the fleeing miles preside those majestic white twins, ever watchful of the turbulent waters of the Ouse.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD

Salisbury Branch

Winterslow is a scattered village ten miles from Salisbury, on the line of the ancient road from Old Sarum to Winchester, but not easily accessible by modern buses, and the Church of All Saints is rather 'off the map' as regards ringing. It has a pleasant ring of six (tenor 11½ cwt.) rung from the church porch.

When the Salisbury Branch held their summer quarterly meeting there on July 15th, however, visitors looked in from a surprising number of places, and there were ringers from Romsey, Eling, Catherington and Chippenham, as well as the Rector of Tadley (Rev. K. C. Davis), who took a very short service, in the unavoidable absence of the Rector of Winterslow. Our visitor from farthest afield was Mr. Dennis Millward, of Buckley, Flintshire, on holiday in the neighbourhood, who thanked the Branch for their welcome, saying that one of the things one gets out of being a ringer is that in every part of the country one can meet friends.

An application was received for membership from the newly-formed band at St. James', Ludgershall, who are anxious to go on to change-ringing. Miss Wendy Bird (of Bishop's Cleeve and Salisbury Training College) was also confirmed as a non-resident member, elected on ringing a peal for the Guild. Preliminary arrangements were given for the Branch outing into Hampshire on October 7th.

MARRIAGE OF MISS KATHLEEN KNIGHT

Miss Kathleen Knight, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Knight, of Gosport, was married on July 8th at St. Mary's Church, Alverstoke, to Mr. Roger Baldwin, of Portsmouth.

Kathleen and Roger are members of Portsmouth Cathedral band. It was at Alverstoke Kathleen learnt to ring and rang her first quarter peal.

Before the service, at which the Rev. Barry Oakley officiated, a quarter peal of Grandsire Triples was rung. After the wedding breakfast, Kathleen and Roger took part in handbell ringing, and before they left for their honeymoon the church bells were rung to Cambridge Surprise Major, Double Norwich Court Bob Major and Stedman Triples. The honeymoon was spent in Alderney, C.I. H. A. N.

LINCOLN GUILD TO HONOUR LATE MASTER

At the annual general meeting of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild it was unanimously decided that a memorial to the late Mr. John A. Freeman should take the form of a Master's chain of office. It was also agreed that a suitable wall plaque should be placed in the Ringers' Chapel at Lincoln Cathedral. A special committee has been set up, and it is hoped to have the memorial completed by next April.

Any friends who would like to associate themselves with the Guild may send contributions to Mr. R. F. Smith, Wendover, Station Road, Waddington, Lincoln.

HERTS COUNTY ASSOCIATION Northern District

As many will remember July 1st was a scorchingly hot day in one part of the country. In spite of this, and the difficulty of getting to Barley and Barkway, there was a good attendance at the quarterly meeting of the Northern District. The meeting began on Barley's pleasant six, with plenty of ringing for all. Everyone was impressed by the excellent tea provided by Mr. and Mrs. Barratt and Mr. and Mrs. Howard in their own homes—normal tea arrangements being impossible—and the only pity was that even ringers' appetites were unequal to the quantities!

The business meeting was held in the churchyard. The following new members were elected: the Misses M. Pine, M. Roden, A. Roden and A. Sanderson, all of Sandon. Miss P. Hannah and Mr. D. Hagger, of Wallington. Miss A. Blackwell, of Hitchin, and Mr. T. Thrussell, of Pinton. Mr. G. Johnson (Stevenage) was re-elected, and Mr. D. P. Jones transferred to non-resident life membership.

The places for the next meetings were not certain and it was left to the secretary to make the necessary arrangements. The District Committee was asked to consider the recent Central Council decision on peals of Minimus. Congratulations were expressed on the progress made by the combined Sandon and Walling-on bands. After the meeting ringing continued on Barkway's octave. J. S.

OUTINGS

LINCOLN CATHEDRAL

Lincoln was left just after 10 o'clock on June 17th for the first outing, arranged by the Cathedral band's secretary, and after a short stop for lunch Ashton-under-Lyne was reached at 1.20 p.m.

The ring of 12 at St. Michael and All Angels' Church at Ashton, with a tenor weighing 27 cwt., is rather noisy inside, also some of the bells are a little odd-struck, thus making our first touch of Stedman not of the highest standard. After the initial touch of Stedman there followed a half course of Cambridge Surprise Maximus and another touch of Stedman, by which time the quality of the ringing was considerably improved. We concluded our ringing here with three leads of Treble Bob Maximus, setting the bells up at backstroke. We were joined at Ashton by the niece of Mrs. G. H. Randles, who was our guide to the Town Hall, Manchester, our next tower.

Here one ascends to the ringing chamber by means of a lift; it was generally agreed that a similar arrangement would not be amiss at our home tower. The bells are a magnificent 12 and easy going for their weight (tenor 43 cwt.), and this proved the best ring of the day. Our ringing was good except for a slight upset in the closing touch of three leads of Bristol on the back eight; but after a fresh start this, too was well rung, and our ringing ended with a fine lowering of the back ten in peal. Other touches were two of Stedman Cinques and another half course of Cambridge Maximus. We had been welcomed at the Town Hall by Mr. Benson.

After a leisurely tea at the Old Nag's Head, the final tower of the day was St. Mary's, Oldham, where we rang from 6 to 7 p.m. We had various reports of these bells—none of them reassuring—and the bells lived up to them. The church has a rather slender tower, in which a 35 cwt. 12 are arranged in four tiers. This is obviously not conducive to easy handling; bells 1, 2, 11 and 12 were the most difficult to handle, and consequently our striking was not brilliant, but we did our best and achieved, among other things, a half course of Yorkshire Surprise Maximus. Our closing touch was three leads of Treble Bob Maximus.

As one of the company put it, ringing here was a challenge! The acoustics inside the tower are excellent—but they need to be! Some of us ascended to the bell chamber and were somewhat awe-inspired by the 13 ton feat of constructional engineering which constitutes the frame.

On our homeward journey, the highlight was the relating by that popular raconteur, Mr. Chambers, of the 'Horace Saga.' Arriving in Lincoln just after 11 o'clock, we retraced our route round the city, bringing to an end a most enjoyable outing. G. P.

EMMANUEL CHURCH, PLYMOUTH

Once again the second Saturday in July has come and gone, and so the annual outing of the Emmanuel ringers, Plymouth, is now behind us. We were away to a good start just after 7.30, with the good wishes and a wave from our Vicar, the Rev. P. Young. We just squeezed on the 8 a.m. ferry at Torpoint, arrived at Lanivet, just beyond Bodmin, for a welcome cup of coffee, and were speeding over Goss Moor on our way to our first ring at St. Mawgan-in-Pydar. Here the Rev. T. McCabe, assistant priest at Emmanuel, opened the day's ringing with well-chosen prayers. From here to Falmouth for lunch, each going his own way. In the afternoon we rang at St. Budock and St. Gluvias, then back to Falmouth for our usual high tea.

At St. Budock we were met by Miss Pengelly, who has trained a young band here. The Rev. Trevor McCabe said he felt he, too, could welcome us there as it was his church, his home, and the home of his wife (a niece of the ringers' secretary) and where they were married in 1959. At St. Gluvias we were met by the two youngest little ladies who have ever received us in visits to well over 200 towers. They were aged about 13, duly apologised for the absence of the captain, remained with us during the 45 minutes' ringing and one, being a little braver than the other, accepted an invitation to join with us in some rounds.

Will go to Corrigan's Nos. 51, 88, 102, 103, 146, 178, 192, 204, 226, 259, 276, 306, 317, 329, 354.

At tea, Mr. J. P. Sims, the captain, gave the usual vote of thanks, and also a special welcome to Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Sone, of Paddock Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas, of Budock, Mrs. McCabe's parents, and our usual friends. Mr. H. H. Thomas (hon. secretary) mentioned that Miss Sylvia Sims, the captain's daughter, would be leaving in September to attend Salisbury Teachers' Training College. She was a grand ringer, a 'chip off the old block,' and he felt their loss for two-thirds of the year would be the gain of the ringers of the church she decided to adopt in Salisbury. He called on the Rev. T. McCabe to make the presentation, which took the form of a Parker pen and propelling pencil, and this he did with some nicely-chosen words. Mr. T. G. Myers and Mr. W. G. Lavers, by their request, were also associated with the gift. Sylvia thanked us all and said she would miss us very much. Miss Sims has been ringing about seven years, and can ring Grand sire, Stedman and Plain Bob on six, eight and ten bells.

On the homeward journey we rang on the grand eight at Probus and also at Lanhydrock, the church being in a beautiful setting by the mansion house on the estate. All five towers visited have rings of eight, St. Budock and St. Gluvias having had their rings of six augmented since the war.

The Emmanuel ringers have now rung at every 8-bell tower in Cornwall on their various trips which began towards the end of the war, probably a unique record for a band. The total number of towers is now 207, including four where we have rung twice, and we have in the belfry a complete record. H. H. T.

The above are one and the same composition adapted to three different Lead Heads; they may not be original. Even so, conductors who have not seen them may find them useful, as they are fairly comprehensive. 'A' is a rearrangement of one I used for York Surprise at Debenham in 1939, so it is not exactly new, and 'D' has been recently used for Truro Surprise by Mr. Ron Noon.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION

The healthy interest being taken by younger members of the Eastern District was demonstrated at the annual meeting held at Howden on July 15th, when there were three nominations for the office of Ringing Master and five for the two vacancies on the District committee. Forty-six ringers, representing 16 towers, were present.

The service was followed by an excellent tea, provided by the ladies of the Harrop family, who also supply five members of the local band.

Mr. A. E. Sellers, vice-president, was in the chair at the business meeting, when the following new members were elected: Miss J. Burgess (Hesle), Messrs. F. C. Hobson (Kirk Ella), D. P. B. Mills (Cottingham), W. P. Hudson (Howden) and F. Edkins (Sherburn-in-Elmet).

Mr. A. Sheppard was elected Ringing Master, Mr. S. M. Woodhead on general committee, Messrs. J. J. Taylor and D. Johnson (three years) and K. B. Sissons (two years) to District committee.

Acknowledging a vote of thanks, the Vicar said he would like to invite the general Association to hold a meeting at Howden in the very near future. Walkington (if possible) was selected for the next meeting on September 2nd.

ALBERT

*'And when the last Great Scorer comes
To write against your name,
He'll not ask if you won or lost,
But how you played the game.'*

IT is in the nature of things that generation succeeds generation, and that notable men come and go. Many there are who leave an unmistakable mark upon the period in which they are at the height of their powers, and not a few whose work and example influence to an important degree those who follow. In Albert Walker we find an example of one whose force of character has impressed itself equally upon the several generations through which he had lived. His early ringing career placed him among men who had known Thurstans, Lates and Johnson, and his latter years brought him intimately among the brilliant young men of today. And his impact on the young men of today has been as forcible and as potent as it was upon the elders at St. Martin's 60 years ago, when he dared to assume the office of bob caller and to teach Birmingham afresh the art of conducting Stedman.

His was an astonishing career, full and varied both in its ringing content and in the wide contacts he made with all the notable exponents of the art, and it carried him into the inner fastnesses of all the great ringing centres of the land. His modest home in Baker Street was the resort of innumerable fine handbell ringers, and it was here that were performed so many of those splendid peals of Cinques that helped him to amass the impressive total of five-and-a-half centuries of 12-bell peals. Of Stedman Caters and Cinques he was the arch-exponent, delighting not only in the broad sweep of the majestic music so wrought on 12 bells but also in the intricate opening or turning course or the unexpected twist given to the calling by the ingenuity of Carter. Nowhere can his complete mastery of Stedman be more clearly defined than in a scrutiny of the long and involved turning course in the peal of Sextuples. This intricate and delicate piece of transformation was rung immaculately by those brilliant exponents, and it was called with equal precision and competence by Albert Walker.

But for Albert, in his ringing, as in his daily work, the game was the thing; the game must be played, not too solemnly, perhaps, but with intensity and enthusiasm; and steps must be taken to ensure that the great game should go on in capable hands. He for ever laboured for the encouragement of the beginner, even at times when the learner at St. Martin's might not be sure of a kindly welcome; he sought by exhortation and personal demonstration to increase the supply of conductors, and great is the number who have called their first Stedman Caters and Cinques under his patronage and guidance. It can be said that he never neglected an aspiring beginner, nor did he ever make a learner afraid.

And so, at the end, in almost his last conscious thoughts, his mind ran on the satisfaction he felt in his successors; and, honoured by his professional Association, and fresh from the accolade conferred on him by the Central Council, he might well have uttered the noble words of Mr. Valiant-for-Truth: 'I am going to my Father . . . My sword I give to him who shall succeed me in my pilgrimage, and my courage and skill to him that can get it.' As for 'the marks and scars,' Albert knew that games must be lost as well as won, but no one knew better than he how to turn defeat into victory and despair into triumph.

As the funeral service proceeded in all its beauty and simplicity, amid the circle of close friends, there was a growing feeling of Albert's presence with us; and as the handbells moved off into changes there was a consciousness, as it were, of the scrutiny of his keen and kindly eye. Through the mind ran a procession of intimate pictures of this gigantic little man: waiting with his cigarette and red waistcoat outside St. Martin's tower; trotting round the billiard table with his cue; leaping lightly upon the '39' bus, with the valedictory remark: 'I shall be in "The Baldwin" at half-past nine.' One almost heard again the lively quip or jest that came in humorous aside during the hours of the peal, and the notable occasion when the peal of Cinques had run well into the handstroke and he astonished the chamber with the nonchalant announcement: 'I'm not going to call any more bobs; you know the rest.' And lastly, there is the picture of him sitting in the Tamworth Arms, after peal or practice, beside his loved consort, who is surely among the gentlest and most gracious of all the wives of ringers.

The handbells are running steadily into rounds and another course is completed; there is no more to be done but Stand. And the words of another great Christian soldier spring unbidden to the mind: '. . . And having done all, to stand.' The committal soon carries from us the frail garment that had for so long sheltered the generous soul: the game has been well and truly played here on earth, and we may well believe that the trumpets sound for him on the other side.

While staying in Norfolk Mr. Brian Cox, of Adelaide Cathedral band, South Australia, had the pleasure of ringing his first peal. At short notice, the Rector of Bunwell, who is a ringer, placed the bells of his church at his disposal. Mr. H. W. Barrett informs us that Mr. Cox rang very well and he was surprised to learn that it was his first peal.

The peal of Plain Bob Major at Tuxford, Notts, on July 22nd, was Mr. William L. Exton's 100th peal in Nottinghamshire.

Messrs. John Leppard and Derek Slater, who rang in a peal at West Hoathly, are the first ringers from this tower to enter the list of peal ringers.

The first peal on the new ring of eight bells at Atherstone, Warwickshire, was an in memoriam peal to Mr. Albert Walker. The method rung was Rutland Surprise Major.

Mr. Brian D. Price informs us that circumstances have changed and he is not going to Radley College. He has accepted an assistant housemastership at the Lord Weymouth School, Warmminster, which is next to the Minster Church.

Six local ringers participated in the peal of Grandsire Triples at Edenbridge on July 22nd to mark the 50th anniversary of the installation of the present ring of bells. Thanks are expressed to Mr. E. C. Leigh, who entertained the band to tea.

The band who went to Banwell to attempt a peal on July 22nd would like to convey their sincere thanks to Messrs. W. Rice and W. Day for arranging the wonderful supper in the Bell Hotel afterwards. The sorrows of losing the peal were dissipated by the supper and handbell ringing.

The well known composer of Spiced Surprise and other peals, Mr. A. J. Pitman, of 29, Taylor Avenue, Lillington, near Leamington Spa, has been ordered by his doctor to give active ringing a rest for a while. We feel sure the Exercise at large will join local ringers in wishing Mr. Pitman a speedy recovery to full health again.

BELFRY GOSSIP

'The Cork Examiner' tells of an extraordinary accident. A Mrs. P. Collins, of Shanadune, Co. Cork, was attending her husband's funeral at Castlehaven when a portion of a church bell broke off and struck her a glancing blow. Her injuries might have been more serious were it not for the bell fragment striking a window ledge before hitting Mrs. Collins.

The band who rang the complimentary quarter peal at Blewbury, Berks, on July 23rd would like to associate with it the name of Mr. Alf Greenough, who should have made up a Triples' side, but was prevented through indisposition.

'The Irish Bell News' gives in the current issue the life story of Mr. Frederick Bogan, of St. Finbarre's Cathedral, Cork, the Association's new president. Mr. Bogan was taught to ring in 1934 by Mr. Fred Dukes, who was then Ringing Master of St. Finbarre's Cathedral. He succeeded Mr. Dukes as captain in 1937. This is the first time that Cork has provided the Irish Association with its president.

A photograph of the band that rang the longest length of 10,176 Kent T.B. Major at South Wigston, on December 26th, 1901, has been renovated and reframed by Mr. Ernest Morris, to whom the company extend grateful thanks. Two other long peals have been rung in this tower, viz.: 11,008 and 17,104 Double Norwich Court Bob Major.

The peal arranged by the 'Monday' band at the Loughborough Bell Foundry on July 24th was to have been Stedman Caters. This was requested by Joseph W. Cotton (the popular secretary of the small Midland Counties Guild), as the peal was to be his 800th. Unfortunately, Peter Staniforth was unable to take part at the very last moment, and so, with G. Ronald Edwards acting as witness, the remaining ringers rang a peal of Stedman Triples. By a coincidence, it was Brian G. Warwick's 200th peal on the bells, his 150th with Joseph Cotton, and his 100th with A. J. Poyner.

'CLERICAL PEAL' BOARD UNVEILED

The fourth annual meeting of the Warwickshire Guild was held in the historic town of Warwick on Saturday last, and advantage was taken of the occasion to unveil a handsome tablet recording the peal of Stedman Caters, rung at St. Mary's, Warwick, on October 11th, 1910. After the Rev. C. D. P. Davies (the composer and conductor of the peal) had given the history of the previous clerical peals, the Lord Bishop of Worcester performed the unveiling ceremony, which was followed by a touch of Stedman Caters, in which three of the clergy who rang in the peal took part, viz.: Revs. C. D. P. Davies, C. C. Cox and E. V. Cox, the Rev. C. C. Cox conducting.

The peal band: Rev. G. F. Coleridge 1, Rev. J. F. Hastings 2, Rev. H. S. T. Richardson 3, Rev. C. Carew Cox 4, Rev. E. V. Cox 5, Rev. F. J. O. Helmore 6, Rev. C. D. P. Davies 7, Rev. H. Law James 8, Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn 9, Rev. H. A. Cockey 10.

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

After an interval of several years, the Guildford District of the Guildford Diocesan Guild held a meeting at Haslemere on July 15th. Bishop Dale (the Rector) greeted the ringers, expressed some surprise at the large number of very youthful members, and then bade the company 'make a joyful noise unto the Lord.' Owing to the youth and inexperience of many present a good number of rounds were rung before tea, but Grandsire and Stedman Caters and Bob Royal were managed with the help of visitors from Slough and Hampton.

At the business meeting, which followed Evensong, the Master (Mr. C. W. Denyer) expressed everyone's appreciation of the most cordial welcome given by the Haslemere captain, Mr. F. Bowden, and his wife. At the conclusion of ringing several who had thoroughly enjoyed Haslemere's beautiful bells voiced regret at having to return to their own 'lumpy' bells on the morrow.

SURREY ASSOCIATION

The Northern District's quarterly meeting at Ranmore on July 8th was a most successful and enjoyable one despite the relatively small number present, the standard of ringing during the afternoon being well above the average for a meeting. The Association's service was conducted by the Vicar, and the organist accompanied the hymns. Tea was followed by a routine business meeting, at which the ratification of the election of five members prior to successful peal attempts was made.

Other interesting items were the notification that the band at St. Martin's, Epsom, had requested a course of instruction and that the matter was receiving attention, and the receipt of a detailed report from Mr. N. Bagworth on the state of ringing in the District. Mr. Bagworth was thanked for his work. The report has been studied by the committee and will be dealt with at the next committee meeting. Suggestions were made for amending the striking competition and these too will be considered by the committee.

The business meeting concluded with votes of thanks to all who had made it such a happy occasion and ringing continued until 8.30 p.m. W. P.

Taylor (bell founder), Bernard J. L. Groves, John M. Jelley, Neil Bennett, Patrick I. Chapman, David J. Marshall (umpire). Kneeling: Barrie Hendry, A. Peter Whitehead, Derek Ogden and Robert B. His peal total has now reached the figure of 306, of which he has conducted 36. His best performance as conductor is probably Bristol Surprise Major at Hyde, Cheshire, when he was 16 years old. Previous long lengths that he has taken part in are Spliced Surprise Major in 10 methods (9,568 changes), 6 methods (13,440 changes) and Double Norwich C.B. Major (10,000 changes).

Second.—John M. Jelley, aged 23 years. Commenced ringing at South Wigston, Leicestershire, in 1949, and rang his first peal at South Wigston in 1953. His present total is 453, of which he has conducted 99. Although he has not taken part in any long length peals previously his peals include some fine performances, the best being Scientific Triples. He has taken part in 50 different Surprise Major methods and 31 of Surprise Royal, completing the alphabet.

Third.—Neil Bennett, aged 22 years, Ringing Master at St. Peter's, Ashton, where he started ringing in 1954. He has rung about 130 peals, of which he has conducted 15. He is a member of the young 'Manchester band' which, in recent months, has featured in some fine performances of Spliced Surprise Major (16), Royal (6) and Maximus (3). His only previous long peal was 10,000 Double Norwich C.B. Major at Fairfield in 1957.

Fourth.—Patrick I. Chapman, aged 29 years. Master of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild and captain of the ringers at Daventry, where he has built up an extremely good Sunday service band. His peal total of 305 includes peals of Spliced Surprise Maximus in 4 and 9 methods, as well as Superlative Surprise Maximus. On the 4th bell at the Loughborough Bell Foundry he has rung at least 133,000 changes in long length attempts.

Fifth.—Barrie Hendry, aged 22 years. Started ringing in December, 1949, ringing his first peal in July, 1953, and his first as conductor in May, 1954. His peal total of about 140 includes peals on all numbers from 5 to 12 bells, all of these being lower bell peals. He now works in Birmingham, where he rings regularly in the peals at the Cathedral. This is his first successful long peal, although he rang in the attempt which went to 28,850 changes, and also in one of 7,000 changes.

His peals of Surprise Maximus include 9 Spiced and Lincolnshire.

Sixth.—A. Peter Whitehead, aged 21 years. Has been ringing now for seven years, ringing his first peal in May, 1959, at East Crompton, Lancashire. His total at present is 75 and the peals of Spliced Surprise he has rung in are the same as those in the case of Neil Bennett. This year he took part in the record peal of Spliced Surprise Major (13,440 changes) rung at Norbury, Cheshire.

Seventh.—Derek Ogden, aged 28 years, chairman of the Manchester Branch of the Lancashire Association and president of the Manchester University Guild. This was his 200th peal, of which he has conducted 80. During the last 12 months he has been the driving power behind the peals of Spliced ringing in the Manchester area. This year he has conducted Mr. Albert J. Pitman's 16 Spliced Surprise Major and also his own compositions of 6 Spliced Surprise Major and 55 Spliced Plain Major. His handbell peals include Belgrave and Yorkshire Surprise Major, which were the first in the North of England.

Tenor.—Robert B. Smith, aged 23 years. Taught to ring by Michael J. Pryor (Jock) at Marple, starting in 1955. Rang his first peal, with Bernard Groves, at Burbage, Derbyshire, in October, 1956. [Since then they have rung 171 peals together so that the same performances are included in each of their totals.] Peal total at present stands at 313, of which he has conducted about 40.

Mr. R. B. Smith, the conductor, writes: 'I would like to thank Mr. C. Kenneth Lewis for the composition of 40,320 Plain Bob Major, which is, in the opinion of all the band who rang in the attempt, "a masterpiece." We would commend it to any band who makes an attempt at the extent in the future.'

CONGRATULATIONS

Dear Sir.—I would appreciate it very much if you would allow me, through 'The Ringing World,' to extend my heartfelt congratulations to Bob Smith and his band on their gallant attempt to ring the full extent of Bob Major.

Although they did not completely succeed, they did put up a very fine record by bringing the bells round at 32,704, thus giving the ringers in the next attempt something worth fighting for.—Yours faithfully,

NORMAN V. HARDING

Book Review

'THE ART OF HANDBELL RINGING'*

This attractive and useful little book is written by an author who has gained an extensive experience of handbell tune ringing not only in her own country but by personal contact with the leading handbell ringing bands in Great Britain.

She is a leading exponent of the art of tune ringing in U.S.A. and chairman of the Publicity Committee of the American Guild of English Handbell Ringers to which some 500 teams and individuals are affiliated.

The book includes practical and helpful suggestions on how to arrange music, how to organise and manage a handbell group, and the care and maintenance of handbells and other equipment.

Although actual music scores are not included in the book, the comprehensive bibliography gives a list of all published music scores for handbells and the addresses from which they may be obtained.

The effective way in which the author deals with all aspects, human and technical, of running a handbell team, reflects her experience and dedicated enthusiasm.

The book will be especially useful to those who are about to acquire a set of handbells and embark on tune ringing for the first time. More experienced leaders will also find much valuable information in this clearly and concisely written, and well indexed manual.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Rochester District

Some 50 members, from 14 different towers, attended a quarterly meeting of the Rochester District on July 15th, held at All Saints' Church, Frindsbury. Good use was made of the ring of eight bells (tenor 16 cwt.) before and after the service.

In the absence of the Vicar, the ringers' service was conducted by Canon Mitchell, now retired, who gave a most inspiring address. Tea, kindly given by the Frindsbury ringers, was partaken of in the Vicarage School. A short business meeting followed, with Canon Mitchell in the chair, and Mr. A. Dunk acting as secretary, as Mr. T. Barton was away on holiday. One new member (Miss B. Hancock, of Frindsbury) was elected to the Association.

Votes of thanks were accorded to the chairman, to Mr. C. Jarrett (captain of the Frindsbury ringers), to those who had kindly given the tea, and to Mr. A. Dunk, for carrying out the secretary's duties.

More ringing followed to 8.30 p.m.

PERSONALITIES OF THE EXERCISE — 31

MR. A. LESLIE BARRY,
Gloucester & Bristol Diocesan Association.

In many parts of the country, particularly in the South and West, a ringer's first introduction to change ringing is through Grandsire Doubles and Triples. If there is a ringer in a particular area who is prepared to arrange and conduct peals of Doubles and Triples, a lot of ringers will have a chance of a first peal who otherwise might never get the opportunity. Such a ringer is Mr. A. Leslie Barry, of Gloucester, who has probably conducted more peals of Doubles, with a larger number of first pealers, than any other ringer alive today.

Leslie was born at Stroud, Glos. on October 10th, 1904, and was taught to handle a bell there in 1920 by Hubert Scrivens, who took part in the record peal of 13,001 Grandsire Cinques at Painswick the same year. His first peal was in December, 1922, when he rang the tenor at Stroud to Grandsire Triples, conducted by Albert Wright, who conducted the 13,001, also the unfortunate 17,000 odd, afterwards found to be false. Leslie rang quite a lot of peals with Albert Wright, both at Painswick and Stroud. His present total of peals to date is 336, of which he has conducted 210, including Grandsire from Doubles to Cinques. He has rung nine handbell peals of Doubles, all of which he conducted, usually from 3—4.

Most of Leslie's peals have been rung in the Grandsire and Plain Bob method, because his peal ringing life has been spent mainly in spade work amongst learners and first pealers. In one year, for instance, he called first peals for no fewer than 40 ringers! On many occasions a peal of Doubles has contained five 'firsts,' and sometimes six 'firsts' in Triples and Caters, and he has been very pleased when some of his beginners have scored their 'first as conductor.' Three examples of the fruits of his instruction are called to mind. Many years ago, while working at Tetbury, Glos, he found the local band ringing plain courses of Grandsire Doubles. In six months Leslie had called a peal for them, with five 'firsts'! Again, at Cam, near Dursley, he helped a similar band, and conducted the first peal on the bells on February 25th, 1931, also with five local 'firsts.' Some 18 years later, on August 18th, 1949, he repeated a similar performance at Cranham.

Two other peals of interest are in Leslie's list. In 1924, at the age of 20, he conducted the first local peal rung by a local band at Stroud for 82 years, and he is very pleased with having conducted the Coronation peal of Grandsire Cinques at Painswick in 1953, with a representative band of the Gloucester and Bristol Association, which included five 'firsts.'

Leslie has been secretary of the Gloucester Branch of his local Association for a short period, Branch chairman, and a representative on the Association's Management Committee. He was honoured by being elected Master of the Gloucester and Bristol Association from 1953-1955, and has been a Central Council representative since 1953. He is also a loyal member of the A.S.C.Y., and is a regular attender at the annual dinner. At present he is Master of the joint bands at Gloucester Cathedral and St. Mary-de-Crypt.

Leslie takes a keen interest in Trade Union affairs—he is a tailor and is vice-chairman of his branch, and has been region delegate. He plays a fair hand of cribbage in the local league, but apart from a little gardening, he hasn't much time for other hobbies. His grown-up family of two sons and one daughter are not ringers—they regard one ringer in the household as sufficient!

His continuous spade work for his Association in the humbler methods has often brought good and lasting results, and his example in helping beginners for nearly 40 years is rightly appreciated by his fellow ringers.

RINGER — ARTIST

Mr. W. Linter, of Fareham, Hants (Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild), who was one of the 'missionaries' who took part in the 'Great Adventure' to Australasia in 1934, and who took part in several historic peals on that occasion, is also an artist in oils, who has painted a number of pictures of merit. The story of 'The Great Adventure' was published in a series of articles by the late Mr. Goldsmith as the events happened, in 'The Ringing World,' and later issued in book form. An account is also in Ernest Morris' book, 'Bells of All Nations,' which, although now out of print, can be seen in most public libraries.

Mr. Linter has painted a number of pictures of his ringing friends, and some of these pictures are preserved in their respective bellfries. Thus, some years ago he painted a portrait of the late George Williams, which hangs in the belfry of St. Mary's, Southampton, another of Wilfred Andrews (captain of the Winchester Cathedral band for fifty years) hangs in the Cathedral belfry. He also did one of his own father's 90th birthday party which hangs in the belfry of Swanmore Church.

And now his latest picture has been accepted for exhibition and is on view—until August 20th—at the Cumberland House Museum and Art Gallery, Eastern Parade, Southsea. This is of Mr. Ernest Morris, of Leicester, who recently completed the great total of 2,000 peals. After the exhibition is over this picture will eventually be hung in the tower of St. Margaret's Church, Leicester, in which church 'Uncle Ernest' was baptised 72 years ago this month, and where he has been connected ever since.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

QUARTER PEALS AND THE LOCAL BAND

Dear Sir.—In reply to letters from Messrs. Bowden and Mann on page 495: First Mr. Bowden. I fail to see how there would be any implied slight on local ringers, as I feel sure there have been many cases where the locals have proudly proclaimed that a peal of something plain has been rung by a local band, but the same local band has not taken umbrage when a visiting band has come along and rung a peal in a complicated method. And, if there was no local band, as is many times the case, there would be no chance whatsoever of hearing the bells.

Mr. Bowden is quite at liberty to pull my leg in quoting G. K. Chesterton, even if G. K. C. is slightly distorting the English Dictionary with his definition.

Turning to Mr. Mann's letter and his comment that it is the thought behind the action, I may say that it was the thought behind my action in writing to the 'R.W.': the thought that people can get misled with regard to the state of ringing in various districts.

I refrain from passing any further comment on Mr. Mann's letter, as, if I say too much, I fear I shall not get my leg pulled, but my neck, for daring to stick it out. What a difference in the tone of two letters on the same subject.—Yours faithfully,

F. HODGSON.

LITTLE METHODS

Dear Sir.—I have unearthed my piscatorial equipment and I am now casting round for bait to catch these scarlet herrings in Mr. Moreton's letter.

With regard to Crayford L.C. I 123456 concede all his points, let us in- 213465 vestigate another little method. 214356 For example consider Kent L.C. 124365 This method is not in the C.C. 142635 Collection. I wonder why? What is there to be said for it? Its music? Its movement? or perhaps the fact that hunting has no connection with it?

Regarding the methods of the 'transient strain' let us consider one of them, Caithness.

This method is Bourne with a modified slow work. Admitted it has two pairs of rows in which only two bells cross, but it has not got place making without end in 3/4, and it has the capacity to bring up all the 'music' of six bells.

As for the points of principle, I find the unofficial rule quoted a little illogical. This is surely a variation of the old theme 'Is a bob part of a method?' If a bobbed lead of Ockley is rung then surely the method of Ockley has been rung just as much as if a plain lead had been rung. Only if Capel was rung would any question of doubt arise.

Of Mr. Mohammed's run making, I can only comment that a record in batting depends on more variables than records in other spheres, particularly in the condition of the wicket.

This should be fairly well known by now especially in the part of the country where we gather they know how to make wickets.

To conclude I cannot agree that to ring even a method such as Tollesbury makes record breaking easy. It is still one more variation to be remembered, another name for the conductor to call.—Yours faithfully,

P. SALTmarsh.

GRANDSIRE ON EVEN NUMBERS

Dear Sir.—May that controversialist enter the realms of controversy once again? This time at your invitation, and on the side of Mr. D. J. Hunt. Like Mr. Hunt, I see nothing wrong in ringing Grandsire Major— or Minor or Royal for that matter, having now rung three of Minor and one of Major and shortly hoping to attempt another of Major—a 5.728, composed recently by Mr. Ernest Morris.

How much of this scoring of Grandsire on even numbers is due to prejudice and how much to other reasons? I would say a good three-quarters of it is due to prejudice—just as it was at one time with Plain Bob Triples and Caters, and methods of Doubles like St. Vedast, with three blows at lead and 2nds and 3rds places, instead of the more customary two blows, with 3rds and 4ths places: It is time we did break the back of this prejudice; and all the arguing about there are other and better methods is besides the point!

From the first of my taking up ringing (41 years ago now) I can remember having it 'drilled into me' by my tutor (the late Mr. William Rogers, of S. Giles', Northampton, who was a good 10 bell ringer) that it was 'wrong to ring Grandsire on even numbers'—as I have no doubt the same has been drilled into the minds of thousands of others who have not stopped to ask themselves why it should be considered wrong, but took it for granted. They listen to all this biased baloney about 'bad musical qualities,' that it is 'wrong to ring a method with six blows behind at a bob or four at a plain lead,' that much positioning is monotonous, etc., etc., forgetting to ask themselves—Does that affect the truth of the changes? and Are there not times when I have rung consecutive Bobs in other methods causing dodges in 6-7 to a monoxy? They listen to all this prejudice nonsense, forgetting entirely where the man-in-the-street comes into the picture on this question of 'quality' of ringing. It is so much bunkum to suggest 'that quality depends on the method you ring'; even many advanced ringers are agreed on that!

I recall going for a peal a year ago when one (whom I have rung lots of peals with) asked 'What are we going to ring?' 'We are going to ring your first 720 of Grandsire Minor in this peal,' we replied! 'Aye, what—me ring that rubbish; not I,' he commented! We assured him we were in earnest, and after a bit of arguing he rang it.

At the end of the peal he looked across the belfry and remarked: 'I liked your Grandsire Minor, it's more musical than I had been led to believe!'

Not long after that, we put him through a full peal of it, and he enjoyed it and asked for more. Since then we have heard the same comment from a familiar name in Lincolnshire, where we went for a peal, but lost it through a broken rope, not long ago.

In conclusion, might I say, being one of the 'wicked sinners,' that I object to Mr. P. I. Chapman's 'judge and jury verdict' about Grandsire on even numbers, printed under his name in the Peterborough Diocesan Guild Report: Mr. Chapman may not wish to ring these methods himself, but if others choose to, may I ask—What business is it of his to say otherwise, Guild Master or no? Let bureaucracy and prejudice be overthrown—we see enough of this in the political world, without having it creeping into ringing! Ringers are entitled to please themselves entirely what they ring in the name of true changes, since it is all voluntary.—Yours sincerely,

P. AMOS.

CHURCH UNITY AT MELBOURNE

Dear Sir.—A delightful thing happened recently at Melbourne. We saw in an air mail 'Ringing World' that every bell should ring for the enthronement of the Archbishop of Canterbury—so we rang at St. Patrick's (R.C.) Cathedral and afterwards at St. Paul's Cathedral. It was the St. Paul's boys' idea, but we still wonder if there will be repercussions if their authorities discover it. Actually I wouldn't think so, for our two bands are so beautifully integrated that it took me six months to discover which ringers belong to each tower. We rang for the Pope's enthronement; they rang for the Primate of Australia's death. I think this will at least prove we are generous and tolerant down here!—Yours sincerely,

FLORENCE C. BROWN.

St. Kilda, Victoria.

IRRELEVANT FOOTNOTES

Dear Sir.—Mr. Faulkner's letter on page 511 has drawn attention to the many different footnotes to peals (and quarter peals) that are printed in 'The Ringing World.' Not only do these footnotes occasionally appear irrelevant, but quite often some of the ringers who took part in a peal discover for the first time the supposed reason for ringing when they read the peal report. It is reasonably certain that a number of these footnotes are not composed until the peals have been successfully brought round, and are added as an afterthought in order to suggest that the peals were rung other than for the reason that the band wanted to ring and would have done so in any case.

With regard to the question 'How crazy can a footnote be?' I suggest that a competition be held to find the most original or amusing footnote, with the editor, at his discretion, printing the best entries in Belfry Gossip or in a separate column, not necessarily linking the footnote to the peals or quarters for which they are supposedly rung.—Yours faithfully,

R. I. VAUGHAN.

'MY WORD'

Dear Sir, do you pay 'postage due' On certain letters sent to you. They must be overweight! I mean the ones; we can't unravel They're always postmarked 'Weston Favell' (With Blagrove as the bait!).

Interpreter, step forward, pray, We have not got the time to stay And read through all these troubles, We need a little breathing space To weigh the merits of the case Pro/Con St. Dunstan's Doubles.

But in the meantime can we plead For letters easier to read And somewhat less abstruse? Be lucid in communication We have scant time for meditation At least, that's my excuse!

Dear Sir.—Does anyone know what connection perfume has with ringing?

The other day a lady friend was giving us all in the office a spot of expensive perfume and said it was 25s. a bottle. One of them promptly replied, 'This is a Bob a Touch.'—Yours faithfully,

OBITUARY

MR. ALBERT WALKER

We deeply regret to report the death of Albert Walker, who passed to higher service at the age of 85, on July 21st after a short illness. He had a sharp attack of bronchitis which affected his heart. His end was peaceful, and his loss is mourned by his wife, Mary, his daughter, Winnie, and his son, Fred, to whom the sympathy of the whole Exercise will be extended.

During his lifetime, Albert suffered three very serious illnesses, and it was due to the loving care and skilful nursing of Mrs. Walker that he was spared to us for so many years. Birmingham will not be the same to ringers without him for he enjoyed a popularity which reached out all over the country. He was always young in outlook, and his ready wit was a tonic to all who came into his company. His efforts to stimulate interest in 12 bell ringing have been written about in this journal many times, but it is true to say that no man did more for 12 bell ringing since change ringing began. His name will go down in history with those of Johnson, Thurstans and Lates.

Many ringers up and down the country will remember with gratitude that it was Albert Walker who gave them the opportunity to ring their first peal of Stedman Cinques. He was ever ready to help and advise budding conductors, and would go to infinite trouble in writing out touches and peals for their guidance. We mourn the loss of a great man, a fine ringer and conductor, and a wonderful friend. He will be greatly missed, but never forgotten.

The funeral took place at Robin Hood Crematorium on July 24th, the service being conducted by Canon Bryan Green, Rector of Birmingham. A course of Grandsire Caters was rung on handbells by F. E. Haynes, F. W. Perrens, J. F. Smallwood, E. C. Shepherd and G. E. Fearn. There was a representative gathering at the ceremony, which included Alderman A. Paddon Smith, W. B. Cartwright, F. E. Collins, A. G. Mason, E. Sutch, J. Garner-Hayward, B. D. A. Woolley, E. T. Lloyd, R. C. Ingram, J. Corbett, E. T. Russell, C. Bragg, C. Dale, H. H. Fearn, G. C. Chaplin, C. Skidmore, W. Leeson, J. Bragg, W. E. Box and J. Anderson. Owing to short notice, many who would have desired to attend were prevented from doing so.

A memorial service was held at St. Martin's Church, Birmingham, on July 30th, at which Canon Bryan Green paid an eloquent tribute to Mr. Walker's sterling qualities as a churchman and ringer. A half-muffled peal of Stedman Cinques was rung at St. Martin's on July 25th. J. F. S.

LADIES' GUILD ANNUAL MEETING AT BEDFORD

THIS year it was the turn of one of the newer Districts of the Guild to act as hostess for the annual general meeting, which took place at Bedford on July 1st. Once again members travelled long distances in order to be present, including one enthusiast and her husband who started off at 4 a.m., and only one District was not represented, this being due to illness.

During the morning three towers were open, Kempston (8), Bromham (8) and Biddenham (6), and even the two members who were hiking from tower to tower agreed that Miss Rivett had been very successful in her arrangements for the ringing throughout the day.

The committee met at 1.30 p.m., and their deliberations went on too long for some members to get to Goldington (6) for a ring before ringing for service at St. Peter's, Bedford. The Guild service was conducted by the Rev. Mr. Faulkner, deputising for the Vicar, who had another engagement. For the first time for several years there was no address at the service, Mr. Faulkner explaining that he always understood ringers preferred their service without a sermon, but he did extend a very warm welcome to the Ladies' Guild.

Members of the Beds and Northants District had prepared an excellent tea at St. Peter's Hall, where Mr. Edwards, chairman of the Bedford District of the Bedfordshire Association, also extended a hearty welcome to the Guild and a warm invitation to visit Bedford again.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

At the business meeting, which followed tea, the president, Mrs. J. Staniforth, took the chair. Mrs. Barnett proposed, and Miss Edwards seconded, that the president, secretary and treasurer should be re-elected, and this was carried. The auditor, Mrs. Short, was unable to be present at the meeting as she was abroad, but she had written to suggest that now she had moved to Somerset it might be better to elect an auditor who lived nearer the treasurer. On the proposition of Mrs. K. Lock, seconded by Mrs. Savoury, Mrs. Slade was appointed, a very hearty vote of thanks being passed to Mrs. Short for her work during the past nine years and to her father, Mr. Bailey, who had so kindly deputised when Mrs. Short had been unable to audit the accounts.

The treasurer gave a résumé of the Guild's finances. Although the expenditure in 1960 had exceeded income by just over £7, it was agreed that the position was not entirely unsatisfactory as this had been caused by an item of expenditure which would not recur.

Two additions to rules were passed. Added to Rule 4 was the sentence, 'Nominations for officers should be forwarded to the General Secretary not later than four weeks before the Annual General Meeting.' The following addition to Rule 9 was also agreed, 'Nominations for representatives should be forwarded to the General Secretary not later than four weeks before the appropriate Annual General Meeting. The sum of £2 is to be paid to all representatives attending a meeting of the Council.'

The details of the 50th anniversary dinner, to be held in London on October 27th, 1962, were discussed at some length, and a sub-committee empowered to make all the necessary arrangements.

The next annual general meeting was fixed for July 7th, 1962, at Darlington.

TWO GREAT EVENTS

Two events of 1961 were mentioned at this meeting. Several members commented on the success of the gathering at St. Clement Danes' on January 21st, when the peal board, to replace the one lost in the blitz, was dedicated, and when all ten ladies who rang in the peal 35 years previously were present. Inspired by that occasion some of the members had got together to plan the first peal of Royal for the Guild, the outcome being a successful peal of Cambridge Surprise Royal, rung at St. John the Divine, Leicester, on Saturday, May 20th. Miss Steel congratulated the members of the band, and they in turn thanked Miss Muriel Reay, who had made a special effort to enter the peal in the peal book in time for the meeting.

Mrs. Lock drew attention to the fact that a member of the Central District, the Hon. Barbara Gibbs, had been awarded the O.B.E. in the Queen's Birthday Honours List, the second time a member of the Guild had received this honour.

Miss Rivett was thanked for the excellent arrangements she had made for the day, and she and her helpers for preparing and serving tea. Votes of thanks were also accorded to all the incumbents who had given permission for the towers to be open and to Mr. Faulkner for taking the service, and to the organist.

Members then went to St. Paul's, Bedford (10), and to Elstow (6) where ringing continued until 9 p.m.

MRS. BLANCHE MYERS

The funeral took place at St. Andrew's Church, Plymouth, on July 28th, of Mrs. Blanche Myers, widow of the well known Harry Myers, who died in March last year, and mother of Tom, Will and Fred Myers, all ringers at St. Andrew's. The service was conducted by Prebendary Cooper, Vicar, and the Rev. Mr. Warren, assistant priest. The principal mourners were her three sons, Mrs. Lamb (daughter), Mrs. Will Myers (daughter-in-law) and Mr. Lamb (son-in-law). There are two grandsons.

Muffled touches were rung, ringers present being Messrs. W. G. Lavers (Plympton St. Maurice), a vice-president of the Guild of Devonshire Ringers, H. Milford (treasurer of the Guild), S. O'Shaughnessy, A. Collings, W. Marks and the Misses Yvonne Porter and Joyce Marks, representing St. Andrew's ringers. Messrs. H. H. Thomas (chairman, S.W. Branch of the Guild and secretary of Emmanuel ringers), J. L. Blagg, F. R. Hocking, F. E. Day, representing Emmanuel ringers, A. Bennett (Buckfastleigh), R. Roberts (St. Columb) and J. White (Saltash).

The deepest sympathy of all ringers in the West goes out to the Myers brothers and their sister in the sudden passing of their mother, so soon after the death of their father.

It was very sad that she was not spared to see the photo of 'Tom' and the write up of his ringing career by Mr. A. P. Cannon in 'Personalities of the Exercise,' published on the very day of the funeral. How she would have enjoyed reading it! She died in the house where she had lived all her married life, the business of watch and clock repairer having been founded in the last century by her late husband, and now carried on by her eldest son, Tom. One wonders what she had to put up with in all these years—a husband and three sons all campanologists, no keener in the West Country, but she enjoyed it all. She must have spent many hours sitting in the car outside churches; she must have listened to many debates, but in her capacity of always the listener, she was indeed the centre pin of this great united family of bell ringers. Barely a week passes but that I find myself in Tom's shop for a little yarn, and although I don't think she ever met my wife on more than one or two occasions, she always enquired after her, my son, daughter-in-law and grandchildren. Such was her character; such was her thought for others.

We mourn her passing very deeply, the passing of one who for nearly 60 years was the patient wife of a ringer, and who had three sons to follow in their father's footsteps. By her understanding she must have done much for bellringing in the West. H. H. T.

MRS. L. DUKES

We regret to learn of the death on July 7th of Mrs. L. Dukes, mother of Mr. F. E. Dukes, honorary secretary of the Irish Association. Mrs. Dukes, who was in her 87th year, was an honorary member of the Association, and was a regular attendee at Association meetings in pre-war days. Her last attendance at a ringing function was the Central Council reception at Dublin in 1958. All her three children became bellringers.

How Bells may be Correctly Tuned.—An extract from Rev. W. L. Bowles' History of Bremhill, 1828, includes: Mr. Lawson Huddleston of Shaftesbury, with many and extraordinary accomplishments, had a kind of passion for bells. To oblige any clerical friend who had 6 bells in his church he would pass weeks and days in the belfry chipping and modulating the sound of every bell till they answered exactly the intervals of the monochord. The bells of the church of Knowle were so tuned by him, those of Shaftesbury and of St. Cuthbert's at Wells. I had often heard of the music of the Colerne bells, a small village about 6 miles from Bath . . . they are perfectly tuned . . . the first he tuned. He went to school there. He also tuned sheep bells to exact musical scale. . . .

How Bells are Sounded in Russia.—They are not rung but struck. The clappers alone are movable. Notwithstanding the sameness of the Russian ringing, an accustomed ear easily distinguishes the meaning of the various sounds produced by the numerous bells that usually hang in the smallest belfry. . . . Wedding peals are utterly unknown, and tolling for the dead also; but the bells clang in a particularly mournful manner as the funeral procession approaches the cemetery. On the death of a priest the great bell is tolled all the time they are laying out the corpse. When the archbishop of a diocese is on his way to visit a place, a tremendous clanging and clashing is kept up from the time that his carriage is within hearing of the bells until he has reached and entered the church which he always does before he goes into any other house.

St. Gabriel's, Pimlico.—5,024 Kent Treble Bob Major in 3 hrs. 8 mins. on Tues., 27 May, 1873. 'the first in that method on the bells.'

St. Peter of Mancroft, Norwich.—'May the 2d. 1715. Here was rung by the ringers call'd Norwich Scholars, that most Icomparable Peal called Grandsir Bob Triples, it being the 3d whole peal that they have rung, but the first whole peal that ever was rung by any Ringers whatsoever. It has been studied by the most Acute Ringers in England (but to no effect) ever since Triple Changes were first Rung, but now at last it's found out to the truth by John Garthon one of the said Society and Rung by him and the rest of the Society in 3 hrs. 18 mins. . . . 5,040 changes and not one Bell misplaced or out of Course. . . .'

Another such peal, August 26th, 1718, and a peal of Stedman Triples, October 25th, 1731—3 hrs. 40 mins. 'Willm. Scott, in his remarks upon the ringing of this peal did Elegantly Sing viz.—

As for the sweet and Pleasant Treble, she By Melchior well was Rung that Beil and call'd the Bobs so free;
Bloufield the 2nd: Palmer 3rd did ring;
Ather Rung 4th and was not Loath, but made her for to Sing.
Gardener the 5th did sway: Footer the 6th did play;
the 7th round Cris. Booty bound, and made her to Obey;
the Tenor fine and neat, brave Porter so compleat did ring her out and turn'd about that Cymbal loud and great.'

'This Ring was made a peal of Ten by an Addition of two Bells, Subscrib'd for by the Gentlemen of ye Parish and was Rung for the first time on the 20th of June 1736.'

'On March the 8th 1737 was Rung a Peal of Grandsire Caters, which for the excelency of its Ringing, Harmonious Changes and ye Number of them was certainly Superiour to anything of its kind ever done in the world. . . . 8 hrs. 13 mins. . . . 12,600 changes, by 9 men. The Tenor singly, by a young Ringer, 8,000, then a second rung her to the End of the Peal. . . .'

Wed., Nov. 22nd, presumably 1775, 5,170 Grandsire Cinques, 4 hrs. 7 mins. (Presumably the 12 bells were opened June 21st, 1775.—C.R.)

Mon., Mar 16th, 1778, 6,240 Oxford Treble Bob Maximus, 5 hrs. 22 mins. 'This excelled every attempt hitherto known on 12 bells in England. . . . Tenor C. 41.'

Mon., Jan. 20, 1817, 5,016 Norwich Court Bob Maximus, 4 hrs. 2 mins. ' . . . allowed by Judges to be a Performance which, if ever equalled, can never be surpassed.' The first such peal in England. Two men on the tenor.

Tues., Feb. 13th, 1827: 5,040 Oxford Treble Bob Royal, 3 hrs. 52 mins. ' . . . the first Peal ever accomplished on these Bells by one Man Ringing the Tenor the whole time.'

Thurs., Jan. 18th, 1844: 7,126 Stedman Cinques, 5 hrs. 17 mins. 'Attracted the notice of the public and is allowed to exceed any other performance ever attempted in England upon Twelve Bells.'

Handbells.—Mon., April 11th, 1831: 2,520 Stedman Triples. 'This astonishing piece of science was accomplished in a very superb style in the scientific principles of hand-ringing, and to preclude all doubt of the Truth that might Have been entertained owing to the difficulty of the process, it was rung in the presence of James Trueman, an impartial Umpire, who was prepared with the requisite documents to ascertain whether it was worthy of record, consequently its truth Cannot Be Controverted. . . .'

The Tower Bells, Bolton.—Messrs. John Warner and Sons, London, have cast the Town Hall tower bells which have for some time been fixed in position. . . . The firm received an order for four quarter bells and one hour bell to weigh seven tons and they succeeded in casting them just six pounds under the prescribed weight. . . . The hour-bell is 1 cwt. 12 lb. heavier than the hour-bell supplied to Leeds Town Hall:—

	Tons	cwts.	qrs.	lbs.
2nd	8 3 25
3rd	12 2 1
4th	8 2 11
Hour Bell (B sharp)	4	2	0	13

'NOTICE.—We take this opportunity of informing our Readers that we wish to decline opening our columns to reports of mere "round-ringing" and "call-changes." Such performances scarcely deserve the name of ringing; and however clever the ringers of such may think themselves to be, and may be considered by their neighbours, it is only the praise of those who are ignorant of the noble art or who never heard change-ringing proper. Still, we are at the same time free to confess that such simple ringing is very pleasant to musical ears when it is well done and the bells are good for anything and worth listening to.'

St. Michael at Coslany, Norwich.—'Whereas by Publick Contribution two smaller Bells were hung up in this Steeple making therein a Peal of Eight on the 5th day of February anno 1725. [the bells are dated 1726] . . . a Remarkable Peal was Rung . . . called the Quarter Peal of Oxford Treble Bob, all Eight in, or the Union Bob, consisting of 10,080 changes, which they Rung in 6 hrs. 28 mins. on 1st of Apl anno 1727.'

Mon., Dec. 18th, 1815.—5,040 Norwich Court Bob, 3 hrs. 20 mins.

New Ring of Bells at Biddulph, Staffordshire.—'A few years ago the five bells belonging to this church were damaged by fire . . . they have lately [i.e., to July 12th, 1873] been replaced and augmented and were formally opened by a band of ringers from Congleton—Grandsire Doubles. Inscriptions:—

- (1) My gentle note shall lead the cheerful sound—
Peace to this parish—may goodwill abound.
- (2) May all in truth and harmony rejoice
To honour Church and Queen with heart and voice.
- (3) Prosperity attend old England's shore;
Let Biddulph flourish now and evermore.
- (4) With loving voice I call to church and prayer
And bid the living for the grave prepare.
- (5) For mercies undeserved this peal is raised
So may thy name, O God, through Christ be praised.
- (6) To the honour and glory of God. This peal of six bells was given to the parish of Biddulph by Robert Heath, Esq., of Biddulph Grange, 1873.'

Oxford, Magdalen College.—Tues., July 1st, 1873: 5,120 Kent T.B. Major, 3 hrs. 19 mins. 'There has not been a peal of Treble Bob rung in Oxford for upwards of 30 years, this being the first known on Magdalen Bell.'

A Substitute for Church Bells.—Apparently there appeared in some newspaper an article wherein Dr. Ferdinand Rahles, of South Hackney, had suggested using steel bars instead of bells. According to him, they had been introduced into the U.S.A. and Germany, and he suggested that a great demand might come from England and the Colonies. He said that the tone was very pure, distinct and melodious—equal to, if not better than, a bell. They would be comparatively lighter and so would not put such a strain on towers, would be cheaper to hang, would not be liable to crack, and more easily 'set in motion.' Three or four bars, whose weight would not exceed 100 lbs., would cost £11 or £12.

The Editor added a footnote pointing out that if the only object of bells is to make a noise, a 'lot of old frying pans would do, therefore it is vanity to talk of such substitutes.'

Oxford Society of Change-Ringers. one of the oldest change-ringing Societies in England, rang its first peal, Grandsire Caters, at Christ Church Cathedral, New Year's Day, 1733.

St. Giles', Norwich.—Thurs., April 15th, 1813. —6,272 Treble Bob Major, 4 hrs. 7 mins. 'For bold and regular striking was allowed by all impartial judges to be a masterly and unrivalled Performance.'

Tablet on wall at St. Giles':—
'Near to this place John Webster fell,
Beloved by all who knew him well;
The most ingenious noted Ringer,
St. Giles' sixth Bell round did bring her.
He closed the Peal, struck well his Bell,
Ceasing the same down dead he fell.
November the 17th, 1670.'

'UFFCULME.—By the kind permission of the Vicar and churchwardens a Prize Ringing Match will take place on the beautiful peal of bells at the above parish church on Thurs., 31 July, 1873. After the above, 2 extra prizes will be given for Change-ringing to consist of Thirty Doubles. First £1 10s., second 15/-. Entrance fee 2/- per set. Dinner, 1/6 each, will be provided by H. JOINT MEETING AT TOTTENHAM

The first joint meeting between the London County Association and North Southwark Diocesan Guild and the Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild was held at Tottenham on July 8th, when two rings of eight were available—'All Hallows', Tottenham, and 'All Saints', Edmonton. Both towers were well filled with ringers from all quarters and members of the other active London ringing Societies were present. It gave pleasure to the organisers that the attraction was a success even though, in fact, it was mostly a gathering of known friends and acquaintances.

About fifty were able to attend Evensong, conducted by the Rev. F. C. Clarke, in 'All Hallows' Church, and partake of a really nice 'birthday' type of tea, very kindly prepared by Mrs. Clarke and her helpers, in the Priory. The 'speeches' were, by arrangement, kept to a minimum, and on behalf of the Middlesex County Association Mr. J. R. Mayne, Master, extended a very warm welcome to all members of the London County Association and requested that kind regards and best wishes be sent to Mr. T. H. Taffender, Master of the London County Association, the man who has done so much for London ringing for so long, who was unavoidably absent through being in hospital. Mr. H. W. Rogers, secretary of the London County Association, suitably acknowledged the welcome and said he would be pleased to convey the message to Mr. Taffender on the following day. He hoped this first joint meeting would be followed by many more.

The ringing comprised courses and touches of several methods to suit all tastes and was under the direction of Messrs. F. Mead and J. R. Mayne. For this pleasant and enjoyable occasion thanks are due to the Revs. F. C. Clarke and S. W. Knight for the use of the bells and the Priory, to Mrs. Clarke and helpers for the refreshments, and to Mr. H. Dutton and Miss G. E. Newcombe for making all necessary arrangements. T. J. L.

The quarter peal in five Doubles methods, rung on July 16th (see page 506), was at Peterchurch, Herefordshire, and not Peterstowe, as reported.

SOME JULY OUTINGS

ST. PAUL'S, BEDFORD

At the early hours of 6.45 on July 22nd, ringers and friends met at St. Paul's Church, Bedford, to set off on their annual outing. More ringers were picked up en route at Houghton Conquest, Maulden, Woburn and Banbury, where a stop was also made for coffee.

Ringing started on the delightful ring of eight at Hampton, Worcestershire, where the bells were already up. Two more ringers, who had motor-cycled from Bristol, joined the party at this tower. Next came the magnificent twelve at the Bell Tower, Evesham, where Kent and Yorkshire Maximus were rung, finishing with Bristol Surprise Major.

After an excellent lunch in Evesham, there was a long drive into Gloucestershire and to the best kept village of Painswick. Grandshire Cinques started the ringing, then followed some well struck Spliced Surprise Major. At Stroud, the party found their own tea and then met at the Church of St. Lawrence. Ringing commenced with an 'unusual' touch of Grandshire Caters. Here, also, the ringing was of a high standard—three leads of Clifton Royal, Yorkshire Royal and Superlative.

Cirencester, with the oldest 12 in the world, was next visited, but time would permit only very little ringing and so when the bells had been lowered a start was made for home.

The whole outing was a great success with very pleasant rides through the beautiful Cotswolds. The weather was perfect, and the bells and ringing good.

Mr. A. E. Rushton, president of the Bedfordshire Association, thanked those who had made the arrangements—Stephen and Avril Ivin and Bryan Pattison, and Ernie, the driver of the coach, who took part in the ringing. Thanks are also due to all the incumbents and local ringers who met us.

STOURBRIDGE GRAMMAR SCHOOL SOCIETY

Twelve members of the Stourbridge Grammar School Society and two friends visited Messrs. John Taylor's Bell Foundry, at Loughborough, on July 19th. Arriving at 11 a.m. we were met by Mr. Marcon, who showed us round this birthplace of many fine rings of bells; and we were privileged to see the fine new twelve for Southwell Minster, which were in the tuning shop. The highlight of the visit came when we were invited to tap these glorious bells with wooden mallets; a course of Bob Minimus being brought round on the back four! Our visit ended with six members ringing a quarter of Bob Minor on the back six of the campanile.

On the return journey we stopped at Broughton Ashley (6, 18 cwt.), where a good course of Cambridge Minor was rung on this glorious old ring, and also at Sapcote (6, 9½ cwt.), where we were made very welcome by Mr. M. E. Brown and the Vicar; the latter providing some very welcome soft drinks. Thanks are due to Mr. Paul Taylor, incumbents and local ringers.

SOUTH NORFOLK

For their annual outing this year, 40 ringers and friends from different parishes in South Norfolk left Diss at 7.30 a.m. on July 15th for a tour in Essex.

After an hour's ringing on the eight bells at Great Baddow we moved on to Rayleigh, another nice eight.

Lunch was taken at Southend, and the afternoon's programme included Great Wakering (6) and Thorpe Bay, a grand ring of eight. Back to Southend for tea, then an hour's ringing on the ten bells of Prittlewell Parish Church. Our sixth and last tower was Coggeshall, which had been rebuilt since the war. The new ring of eight here were much enjoyed.

On the homeward journey a stop for 'refreshments' was made and Diss was reached at 11.30 p.m. As in former years Mr. William Flatt, Ringing Master at Redenhall, made the arrangements and everyone agreed the outing was one of the best ever. Grateful thanks were accorded to him. We also extend our thanks to the ringers who met and welcomed us.

A. G. H.

BECCLES, SUFFOLK

Cambridge was the venue chosen by the ringers of St. Michael's, Beccles, for their annual outing on July 22nd. Although half-an-hour late at St. Andrew's, Terry, our under-grad. friend, who had made all the ringing arrangements was patiently awaiting us. The bells were quickly put to good use. St. Bene't's famous bells followed.

After lunch, a short ride brought us to the recently rehung six at Shelford. Back to the city to ring at St. Mary-the-Great, and the fine eight at the Roman Catholic Church.

The last ringing of the day at Long Stanton, followed tea. The Rector, his wife and ringing daughter made us welcome and the light eight were soon going merrily. The best thanks to Terry, incumbents and local ringers.

HUNTS DISTRICT

The visit of the Hunts District to the Leicester area for their annual outing on July 1st was most rewarding. The weather was very warm, we rang on good bells and the feeding arrangements were excellent. Regretfully, we were without our Ringing Master, who came to see us off.

The squat tower of Great Glen and its bells reminded us of our own tower, Holywell. At Oadby ringing coincided with a wedding; we enjoyed the ringing in this church, where branches of oak are still festooned in the chancel on May 29th to remember the restoration.

After lunch the two towers of Wigston were visited. The modern, red brick tower of St. Thomas' was climbed and Stedman Triples safely negotiated. There was plenty of evidence of a keen band here; the ringing chamber being in a well-cared for condition. We found, also, a very fine ring of eight at All Saints'. In the heat of the afternoon Triples methods went well, but the fight against Surprise methods was a little exhausting.

Tea at Thurnby was followed by a visit to St. Luke's belfry, approached by an outside staircase, via the roof gutters. At the last tower, Billesdon, we found the rope circle to be a little 'off centre,' but a local band with more experience, no doubt, could get some good music from these.

Once again our thanks are due to Harold Peacock who arranged things, with the help of Julian Pawley, and, of course, the incumbents of the churches, without whose aid no ringers' tour is possible.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Lewisham District

The summer quarterly meeting of the Lewisham District was held at Bromley Common on July 22nd, and was attended by about 40 members and friends.

The service was conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. R. P. Appleton, and the lesson was read by Mr. E. Barnett.

Mrs. Appleton kindly organised arrangements for tea and the Vicar presided at the business meeting at which he was elected an honorary member of the Association. Apart from the usual business, a very warm welcome was extended to several guests, one of whom, Mr. A. V. Jakobsson, had come to England from Sweden, specially to study our form of beltringing.

Ringing before and after tea was under the leadership of Mr. I. H. Oram, District Ringing Master.

BEDFORDSHIRE ASSOCIATION

The Bedfordshire Association held their summer festival at Maulden on July 15th. Members were present from each of the three Districts and visitors came from as far away as Newcastle.

There was ringing on the eight bells until tea, which was prepared in the Church Hall by local ladies. As it was a festival, there was no business, but a short report of the Central Council meeting was given by the two representatives.

The Rev. Mr. Cousins conducted Evensong, then ringing continued until 8.30 p.m., when the bells were lowered in peal.

REDEDICATION

SHAROW, NEAR RIPON

The Church of John the Divine, Sharow, near Ripon, was consecrated in 1825 and then had a ring of six bells, which came from the Whitechapel foundry. This ring was augmented about 1876 by two trebles from Warner's foundry. In 1928 the whole ring was rehung and the bells quarter turned, the timber frame being retained. Since that time the timber frame has decayed and a new cast-iron frame has recently been installed by John Taylor's at a cost of just under £1,000.

On Sunday, July 9th, the president of the Yorkshire Association (the Ven. C. O. Ellison, Archdeacon of Leeds) visited Sharow to preach at the morning service and to perform the rededication ceremony. The Rev. E. G. Parry, Vicar of Sharow, conducted the service, and Mr. John A. Brown, vice-president for the Northern District of the Yorkshire Association, was the organist. The lessons were read by Mr. G. Pearson and Miss L. Chapman, both members of the Sharow company of ringers.

Immediately after the dedicatory prayers the bells were rung for about two minutes, in rounds and Queen's, with closed leads, by the local ringers. After the service the bells were again rung in like manner and a number of parishioners responded to the Vicar's invitation to visit the ringing room. The level of the bells has been raised by about two feet and the circle of ropes has been altered and improved.

The ringing room has been skilfully and tastefully redecorated by some of the local ringers and it is now a most pleasant and tidy room. Amongst those present were Mr. Edward Hudson, honorary secretary of the Northern District of the Yorkshire Association, and Mr. Arthur Bashforth, a member of the General Committee.

At one time Sharow possessed a very active band of change ringers. In 1875 their leader, Thomas Clarke, was present at the inaugural meeting of the Yorkshire Association; after his death Walter Pick was leader for many years and until the outbreak of war, in 1914, the church had a capable standard methods band.

Since those days there has been little change ringing at this tower and there have been periods when the life of the church in the parish has ebbed to a very low level. The recent restoration of the bells is part of a larger scheme which includes the preservation of the external stonework, the furnishing of a side chapel and a much overdue redecoration of the interior of the church. Due to the efforts of a number of keen churchpeople a very considerable sum of money has been raised for these objects in a relatively short period, and it is hoped that the work will be completed by mid-September.

HERTS COUNTY ASSOCIATION

St. Albans District

A very tuneful, easy going eight, set in North Mymms Park and a picnic tea! What more could any ringer wish for. These were the original thoughts for the meeting on July 1st. However, Mother Nature prevented the picnic by creating a storm. Yorkshire, Cambridge, Double Oxford, rounds and standard methods, including a non-U touch of Bob Major, which came round at hand, were rung to the accompaniment of thunder and lightning.

There was no service, and owing to a lack of cafes Hatfield was invaded for tea. A short business meeting was held in the belfry. Mr. G. Dodds being chairman. Kimpton was decided upon for the next meeting and Yorkshire Surprise Minor was proposed as the special method. Members were reminded by the secretary, Mrs. Coburn, that annual subscriptions were due on January 1st each year. Mr. S. Huckle proposed a vote of thanks to the Vicar and local band.

C. M. R.

Mr. Herrick Bowley, Ringing Master of Leicester Cathedral, has been laid off ringing by his M.O. He is able to maintain a watching brief and it is hoped his rest cure will be short and effective.

CHURCH BELLS & THEIR PRESERVATION

IN 1952 the Central Council for the Care of Churches passed a number of resolutions on church bells, which were circulated to all diocesan advisory committees, to give them general guidance on the preservation of old bells. In the report of the Central Council for the Care of Churches, published under the title 'Churches and Their Furnishings,' Mr. Ranald W. M. Clouston reviews the resolutions in the light of experience gained in the past eight years.

One of the problems not covered by the earlier resolutions, points out Mr. Clouston, is that of the musical properties of old bells; in the eight years there have been a number of cases where bells cast before 1750 were considered not to be suitable musically for retention in a restored ring. In some instances, the other bells in the ring were comparatively modern bells of inferior tone, and the desire of the parish was to have all these recast and obtain a ring on a par musically with a completely new ring. Over the years, there has been a great deal of discussion on the relative merits of various types of tuning, the modern type, based on Canon Simpson's experiments, and the earlier 'old standard.'

For centuries bells were cast largely on a trial and error basis, and it is therefore not surprising that there are many bells which are ancient but are well below any recognised standard of tone. Bells cast in the late 16th and 17th centuries, with a few notable exceptions, are generally too thin, and have harmonics or overtones which cannot be altered to fit in with any special consideration. This is especially so where a bell has had its note sharpened appreciably in the past by chipping the lip. The process, when carried to excess, is extremely injurious to the tone, and there is no known way of rectifying this defect.

In the case of bells cast before 1550, which are uncracked but will not fit in with the others, the recommendation is to preserve them, if possible, for use as single bells. If use as single bells is impossible, they should then remain disused in the church as part of the historic treasures of the church. For those cast in the period from 1550 to the middle of the 18th century, provision is now made for obtaining information on the rarity and archaeological value of the bell, and the opinion of the bell-founder on the musical properties, so that, in special cases, an application to recast such a bell can be supported.

When a bell is permitted to be recast and the inscription band on the old bell is not preserved, it is recommended that the old inscription, with any ornamental borders, shields, crosses, etc., should be reproduced in facsimile on the new bell so that the latter will show the origin of its predecessor and also the date of recasting.

As our church towers get more and more ancient, the structural difficulties in getting them to stand bells swinging in a full circle increase. Fortunately modern methods and materials greatly assist the architect in achieving this aim. In a number of recent cases, it has been deemed advisable to mount the bell frame on a reinforced concrete grillage or girdle, which has the additional duty of holding the tower walls together. Now that every church is in charge of an architect appointed under the Inspection of Churches Measure, it is recommended that the bell-founder should discuss with the architect the problem which each has to face in a particular tower where a frame has to be altered or bells rehung, and that the faculty application should contain a note of the result of such a discussion.

On the problem of preserving ancient bell frames, emphasis is laid on the point that they must be sound and fit for continued use. Some old frames are so decayed in their members and, more particularly, at the joints that, when the bells are swung, there is undue movement which prevents the bells being easily rung. In addition, in extreme cases, this can cause a battering-ram effect on the tower walls. With bells swing-chimed through a small arc a lower standard is permissible than with those swung through a full circle of changes; but even with the former Mr. Clouston has seen some frames which were not safe to carry just the vertical dead load of bells as well as that of the frame itself.

When an ancient frame is unfit for continued use but is worthy of preservation, then consideration should be given to fixing a new frame immediately below it and leaving it disused in situ. Where this is not possible, an alternative might be to hoist the old frame to a higher level for preservation. This will, of course, be more expensive, on account of the lifting operation: the design of the tower will largely dictate what can be done.

On the question of the retention of canons, Mr. Clouston comments: 'Virtually all old bells were cast with canons, or loops, on the head of the bell, by which the latter were clamped to the headstock. These give such bells an æsthetic completeness which the modern flat-topped bells lack: where possible, and on all really early bells, they should be retained. They are sometimes ornamented with a moulding or a face, but they are also prone to contain cavities and areas of bad casting. For this latter reason the bell-founders prefer to have bolts direct through the crown of the bell. The ringers would prefer them removed entirely, as this allows the bell to be hung so that it can be rung in a full circle in a shorter time and with less effort. This latter point is important when the bell is of some size.'

The article also pays tribute to the work of our Central Council, and quotes the statement of policy agreed between our Council and the Central Council for the Care of Churches and the principal bell-founders in regard to bells and bell frames.

Finally, we quote the ruling given in the article on faculties. 'A faculty is required for recasting or rehangings bells, for the addition of new bells to an existing ring, for the sale of bells and for major repairs to a bell frame. Minor works of repairs to frames and quarter turning of bells may be covered by an archdeacon's certificate. The Diocesan Advisory Committee must be informed of the proposals and can refer cases of difficulty to the technical panel of the Central Council for the Care of Churches.'

The first peal on the heavy six at Edington, Wilts, was not rung without considerable hard work by all concerned. The diameter of the tenor, cast by Abraham Rudhall in 1723, is 53" and therefore weighs, at least 25 cwt. The timber frame, which is supported on beams from the ringing chamber, moves and creaks very considerably, and as the sallies nearly go round the wheels the noise is terrific! There have been two previous attempts by other bands recently, one band ringing a half peal in 1 hour and 50 minutes. The tenor has the unusual habit of being quick both ways!

The peal rung at Downham on May 11th was for the Essex Association. Will Peals Analysis Committee please note.

Another maiden tower has been 'conquered'—Aspley, Nottingham, where the first peal was rung on July 31st. Four of the band were ringing their first peal.

The band at Salford Priors are very grateful to Mr. Raymond Selby, of Cleeve Prior, for his help during recent months. Five members of the local band took part in a recent quarter peal.

A promising young ringer is David P. Hilling, who at the age of 15 has called his first peal—at Stoke Poges. To select Stedman Triples for his first peal attempt as conductor is exceptional and is deserving of a special word of congratulation.

For their summer tour the Universities' Association are making their headquarters at Tring. The party assemble on Friday, August 18th and the 'week' concludes on August 26th. There will be peal attempts at Leighton Buzzard, Stoke Mandeville and Tottenhamhoe.

Mr. A. V. Sheppard, of Cape Town, has had a hectic six weeks seeing Africa. He has been in South West Africa, Angola and Bechuanaland, and is now flying to Uganda. He hopes to be in England in a week or two at Leigh-on-Sea, Essex. With him is Mr. Roy Towler, who flies into London on September 2nd for five weeks at Eastbourne. Before the war he was secretary to the North Notts at Retford.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Slough Parish Church's bell-ringers, who scored a 'local' peal of Yorkshire Surprise Major at Old Windsor on August 1st, desire to express their appreciation of the co-operation of the Rev. T. D. Herbert, Vicar of Old Windsor, and Mr. Derek Stone, belfry captain, for permission to 'borrow' their bells for the attempt. As Slough Parish Church stands adjacent to a hospital, peal attempts are naturally severely restricted, so the ringers are grateful for Old Windsor's 'good-neighbourly' action.

'Ringing Wet' (see page 542) was dedicated to Miss Margaret Ladd by a teaching colleague.

Mr. A. Clayton, of Putney, is entering Salisbury Theological College next week to start his training for the Ministry. We wish him every success.

Correction.—The peal rung at St. Thomas', Oxford, on July 25th (see page 521), should read: 'Rung for the Festival of St. James.' Our correspondent sends his apologies.

For the benefit of those who ring peals on the fine ring at Great Waltham, Essex, the correct weight of the tenor is 22 cwt. 2 qr. 18 lb.; not 26½ cwt., as stated in most recent peals.

Probably the most isolated of our readers is Mr. J. F. W. Read, who is at the Chartered Bank of North Borneo, North Borneo, and receives his paper weekly by air mail. He is shortly returning to England to Carlton-on-Trent, Newark.

The first peal on the recast bells of St. Mary's, Harrow-on-the-Hill, was rung on July 29th, conducted by David J. King. There were two first peelers and two others first in the method, including Miss Patricia Laycock, who was home on vacation from Guildford.

The ringers in the peal of Cambridge Surprise Maximus at Leicester Cathedral on July 31st would like to associate the name of Mr. Herrick B. Bowley, Cathedral Ringing Master, with the peal. He is indisposed and unable to ring for six months. We wish him a speedy and complete recovery.

'R.W.', August 11th, 1911:—

BELLS SOLD TO BUILD A STEEPLE

We have heard before of church authorities who sold their bells to buy an organ, but what a strange working of the mind it must have been that determined the village of Sholfleet, in the Isle of Wight, to sell its bells to build a steeple. They had a tower which was one of the finest specimens of Norman architecture in the island, but a hundred years ago they thought they would improve upon this fine pile by crowning it with a steeple. The only way of 'raising the wind' was to sell the bells, and so the bells were parted with. It is not recorded whether this was on the advice of the local builder who wanted the job to put up the spire, but the poet has left his impression of the good folk of Sholfleet of that period in the following couplet:—

The Sholfleet poor and silly people
Sold their bells to buy a steeple.

And now they are still looking round for means of 'raising the wind,' this time for the purpose of taking the steeple down. The spire has become unsafe, so unsafe, in fact, that there is no time to be lost in removing it if disaster is to be averted, and the Vicar has, therefore, advanced the money for its immediate demolition. The bells have gone, the steeple is going, and the money has got to go. Ah, me, 'tis a sorry world, my masters—at Sholfleet!

OBITUARY

MR. P. E. CLARK

Mr. Percy Edward Clark, of 1, St. Mary's Place, Ealing, who died in the West Middlesex Hospital on July 22nd, aged 83 years, was Master of the Ancient Society of College Youths in 1924.

Born at Ealing, Mr. Clark was until two years ago an active member of St. Mary's Church, and was also prominent in London ringing circles, being for many years a member of the St. Paul's Cathedral band. He was from 1913-1943 caretaker of the Ealing Boys' County School, which was attended by Mr. W. G. Wilson and the late Mr. Ernest J. Turner. He was connected with the Ealing Philanthropic Society and was its president and secretary in his younger days. He is survived by his widow and two sons.

THE NORWICH ASSOCIATION

Eastern Branch

The Eastern Branch held its summer meeting on July 15th at Pakefield, where hangs probably the easternmost ring of eight in the British Isles. These bells were soon ringing to suit all tastes and talents under the direction of the Branch Ringing Master, Miss D. Lidbetter.

The service was conducted by the Rector, Rev. F. L. Grant. Fifty members and friends attended this popular venue, a feature of which is the lavish teas provided. Visitors included a ringer from Sussex.

The business meeting was presided over by the Branch chairman, Mr. E. R. Goate, who was supported by Association and Branch officials. Miss M. Kindred, Miss J. McBride and Mr. H. Meadows were elected ringing members.

After discussing various venues, Kessingland was selected for the next meeting on September 16th.

The members heard with regret the news of the death of Mr. George Lee, a pre-war member of the Kessingland company and one who had been a great help to the Pakefield ringers in the early days of their forming a company after the restoration of their church.

The Association president, Mr. Nolan Golden, gave a brief talk on the recent Central Council meeting and also put to the members a subject raised at the last meeting of the Northern Branch, namely competition ringing for the purpose of improving striking. A lively discussion followed and whilst no resolution was forthcoming the matter will go to the Standing Committee.

Votes of thanks were accorded the Rector, the organist, Mr. Peter Kindred of the local band and Mrs. Kindred, who with her friends had arranged the wonderful tea.

PERSONALITIES OF THE EXERCISE - 32

MR. and MRS. S. J. IVIN,
Bedfordshire Association.

In a decade when several young ringing stars have proved their ability, there have been very few ringers of his youthful years who have accomplished what Mr. Stephen J. Ivin, of Houghton Conquest, Bedford, has done. Successes, which usually do not come until after long years of experience, have been achieved by Stephen before he was 21. In any generation his progress would have been regarded as phenomenal, and 30 years ago would have been practically impossible. When the famous William Pye, then nearly at the end of his wonderful ringing career, conducted the first peal of 12-Spliced Surprise Major in 1930, he was known to have said that he would not attempt a greater number of methods. Yet Stephen, even allowing for the fact that peals of Spliced Surprise are fairly common today, conducted a peal of 12-Spliced with a resident band of the Oxford University Society on May 13th, 1958, when he was only 20½ years of age!

Stephen, who was born on December 21st, 1937, at Northampton, learnt to handle a bell, while he was still 10, at Houghton Conquest. His instructor was the late W. Watts, and he learnt change-ringing through the encouragement of the Maulden ringers, and in particular the help he received from C. Edward Jeffries, the well-known Bedfordshire conductor, and also Sid Foskett, of Bedford. Such was his progress that he rang his first peal on August 8th, 1949—Bob Minor at Stagdsden—aged only 11! On August 12th, 1954, aged 16, he scored his first peal as conductor—Bob Major at Maulden. Within another 16 months—on December 29th, 1955, just after his 18th birthday—he became the youngest ringer to call a peal of Spliced S. Major, this being three methods at Maulden.

During this time he was being educated at Bedford School, and later obtained an open classical scholarship to Merton College, Oxford. After completing three years of the four-year course, he decided to resign of his own accord, and is now employed as a semi-conductor technician with Texas Instruments Ltd., the largest manufacturers of transistors in England.

Stephen's present peal total is somewhere over 200, of which he has conducted over 100, and they have included some notable performances. He is particularly proud to have been included in the band which rang eight and nine methods of Spliced S. Major with 'all the work.' rung at Willesden during 1956, when he was still aged only 18. The nine was rung, for the first time, less than a week after publication of the composition, conducted by R. F. B. Speed. Three months before he was 20, he conducted the record length of 14.560 Yorkshire S. Major at the Loughborough Bell Foundry in September, 1957. While up at Oxford he did a great deal to further the advancement of the University Society, and twice called peals of 6-Spliced S. Major, with five people 'inside' ringing their first peal of Spliced on both occasions. He was very pleased to have had the honour of conducting a peal of Yorkshire S. Royal at St.

Paul's, Bedford, in which seven of the band were local Sunday service ringers. He has had experience, too, at an early age, of ringing a tenor to Surprise Maximus. Twice he had the pleasure of ringing Yorkshire Maximus at Leicester Cathedral, one of which he conducted, and he has also rung Birmingham Cathedral tenor to Cambridge Maximus, and the same bell to Lincolnshire S. Major. He has the unique distinction, so far, of being the only ringer who has twice conducted an attempt for the elusive 40,320 Bob Major at Loughborough. On one occasion over 29,000 changes was reached when he stopped the ringing, only because he considered that it was not then good enough for a record length. Stephen has the ability to be able to 'sort out' a trip in a difficult method, when he considers it justified, and in his age group he has very few equals in this direction. For the past four years he has been peal secretary for the Bedfordshire Association and, for a term, he was 'non-resident' Master of the O.U.S., whom he also represents on the Central Council.

In the field of composition he has produced some very interesting and original peals, which are frequently rung. He has supplied Shirley Burton's collection, soon to be published, with a lot of first compositions for a particular method, many of which were previously considered unpealable. He has usually found something fresh for all the 'old favourites' in the Surprise Major class, including Cambridge, Bristol and London.

In 1960 he married Avril Thackray, who was then an established ringer of ability. Avril learnt to handle a bell and rang some changes in Bedfordshire, thanks to George Hutchings, of Kempston, but her enthusiasm was really kindled by 'Uncle' Herrick Bowley and the Leicester Cathedral band. She was educated at the Dame Alice Harpur School, Bedford, and the Domestic Science College, Leicester, and is employed in the age-old ringer's profession of school teaching. She rang her first peal—Bob Minor—at Biddenham, on January 12th, 1956, and so far has rung 70 peals, 13 of which have been Surprise Maximus. She is particularly proud that one of these peals of Maximus was rung at Southwark Cathedral, and also of ringing a peal of 8-Spliced S. Major at Bletchley, Bucks, in 1959.

Their other hobbies are a delight in motor-cycling, and as Stephen's father is a veteran participant in motor-cycle racing, he is hoping that one day he will lose enough weight to have a try at it himself!

Like many people in all walks of life with a particular gift, Stephen is sometimes inclined to be temperamental, but outside the tower this is usually forgotten, and he is very interesting and informed in any discussion. Ringers of his calibre are still rare, even today, so that his friends forgive his occasional annoyance. To have achieved what he has done, all before his 24th birthday, shows him to be an outstanding and competent ringer who has already made his mark and will continue to give the Exercise the benefits of his genius.

APACE.

RINGING WET
DEDICATION TO A WELL KNOWN
LADY RINGER FROM KENT

I ask you to bear with me, stranger, for the saga I tell is true—
 It will come back again in your memory as you sit down there in your pew.
 No, it's not the smoke of the battlefield, or of shipwreck's sullen roar.
 But of wild events that turned my mind in the village church bell tower.

The time was even, snow lay thick, and the pond, they say, was hard;
 Our bellringers' cottage was cosy and warm—
 then—sudden a knock was heard.
 There stood Sexton Blake in a terrible state—
 he clutches for support on the door.
 'The woodworm have been in the belfry, and the bells have crashed to the floor.'

'It's Evensong in half-an-hour, and we wondered if you and your gel
 Would come to our aid in the belfry, p'raps
 by hand-ringing a bell.'
 So Ernie got dressed like the clappers and young Maggie followed tout suite,
 And in no time at all, in a thick snow fall, were plodding up the street.

Now its nigh two miles if you follow the road, cut by half if you go past the pond.
 Then up thro' the spinney by Ada Doom's
 Folly and the village lies beyond.
 Our valiant three gave nary a thought to the bite of the wind and snow,
 And turned to follow the woodland path,
 stepping it out in a row.

But the path was covered a foot or more—familiar landmarks were gone,
 And by pure mischance our little band started walking over the pond.
 Now last, but not least, in their footsteps
 she trod, our Maggie followed in haste.
 When the strain on the ice, not once, twice, but thrice—she was in it up to her waist.

Both Sexton and father held out eager hands, and soon she was safely ashore,
 Their pleas to turn back she ridiculed from a stubborn and trembling jaw—
 'I'll ring those bells if it kills me—we can't let the village down!'
 So they struggled on in the bitter storm, and presently came to the town.

Oh, the wicked wind had had its way—yes, the skirts of our lass were dry;
 Oh, the wicked wind and its hidden ice—her skirts were as stiff as a pie.
 They mounted the stairs with minutes in hand, and she tried not to scrape the walls,
 But her knee came high and the garment rang like a bell from old St. Paul's.

Both humane men...but ringers first—the thought hit them both like a flash,
 They twisted the rope round her waist three times—the fluffy bit looked like a sash.
 Then up to the loft and a good heave-ho; her heels beat a wild tattoo,
 The villagers entered to music by Bach, and music by Gor-ray too.

Pay heed to my story, young feller-me-lad, and when next you hear the bells chime
 Think of poor Maggie there kicking her heels and her torso all covered in rime.
 Oh, yes, she's the village belle all right—you can raise your hat to her name,
 Her assets are frozen, a fine carillon, but such is the price of fame.

KATHLEEN AND ROGER ON THEIR WEDDING DAY

TWO popular peal ringers, Miss S. Kathleen M. Knight and Mr. Roger Baldwin, photographed after their wedding on July 8th at the Church of St. Mary, Alverstoke, Hants. Kathleen's dress was of white brocade, while the five bridesmaids were in lavender and pale yellow. The honeymoon was spent at Alderney, Channel Islands, where there are six bells. The couple will be greatly missed by their fellow ringers at Portsmouth Cathedral, but their loss will be Nottingham's gain, since Roger is carrying out post-graduate research at the University there. Their new home is at Flat 6, Lancote House, Radcliffe-on-Trent, Nottingham. A report of the wedding appears on page 514.

THE BELL SONG

By ANTHONY BRODE

Proposals to build an hotel next to Winchester Cathedral have produced fierce local arguments, which included the statement 'I am loath to cross swords with an expert on bells.'

It is all very well for a city to boast
 Of a castle, a close, and a college,
 But another hotel is required to play host
 To the seekers of culture and knowledge.

United in welcoming tourists to town,
 Divided on matters of siting.
 Some of us citizens cannot calm down
 Debating is duller than fighting.

Choosing one's weapons is tricky it's true,
 When it comes to a fight very few'll
 Stand up to the damage a ringer can do
 In a campanological duel.

Recall (if you meet one) experience tells,
 Whatever the arms you are using,
 Be loath to cross swords with an expert on bells.
 The risk is too great of your losing.

LEEDS & DISTRICT SOCIETY

Only a small number of members attended the meeting at Chapel Allerton on July 29th due, no doubt, to the peak holiday period. The very fine ring of six bells was raised at 3 p.m., and ringing continued in a variety of methods until 5.30 p.m.

Tea was obtained at a local café, and afterwards a business meeting was held in the tower. Mr. Robert Brown, of Drighlington, was elected to membership.

Mr. J. Gibson thanked the Vicar and churchwardens for allowing the Society to visit the tower, and Mr. L. Clarke for his excellent arrangements. In reply, Mr. Clarke said that he was always delighted to have the Society at the tower, but unfortunately some local residents had 'phoned the Vicar's wife and complained about the bells being rung; in fact some of the callers had been most abusive.

Mr. Gibson proposed that the bells should be rung until 8 p.m.; Mr. Slack seconded the motion. Ringing then continued until the Vicar ascended the tower and requested that the ringing should stop. The bells were lowered at 7 p.m.

Next meeting: Rothwell, August 26th.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

BELLS FOR EAST AFRICA

Dear Sir.—As one who has had a great deal to do with new and restored rings locally, the following might be of use to Kilifi, Kenya (letter in July 28th issue).

Taylor's estimate is apparently only for the bells. The frame, fittings and erection would be at least another £1,000—the whole cost £3,000 to £3,500. Therefore, one asks, why have a 14 cwt. tenor?

Cut that by half and you pretty well halve your bill, and get just as good a ring. Taylors recently installed a 6-bell ring with a 6 cwt. tenor near here, which is a joy to hear, whilst his own tenor to ten at the Foundry is only about 6 cwt. (not everybody's meat probably).

Offhand one would say that if a church can afford a 14 cwt. tenor, they don't need any help. Cut it to 7 and one would feel more like subscribing. Possibly the idea is to some time add two trebles, but even then 14 cwt. in these days is an outsize.

In the account of the 6-bell peals in the same issue the average weight of the tenors in the 13 towers mentioned is only 10 cwt., ranging from 5 to 16, whilst in 18 8-bell towers it is only an average of 14 cwt., and that includes two of 23 and 26 cwt.—Yours truly,

C. F. JERRAM (Lt.-Col.).

Helford, Helston,
Cornwall.

EXTENSIONS OF MAJOR

Dear Sir.—Perhaps some of your readers of the 'R.W.' may be wondering how we obtain these unusual lengths from the well-known composition of Bob Major by E. M. Atkins (Twelve-Part).

The standard block is:

W	B	M	H
—	—	—	—	} A

This can be varied to:

—	2	—	—	} B

or this:

—	1	—	—	} C

Now if we substitute Tenor 4 times 'in,' and 7th 4 times 'out' for any of the bobs 'Before,' this will lengthen the block by 160 changes.

It is only necessary to have two 'A' blocks to reverse 5-6 at the singles—the rest may be composed 'ad lib.'

Singles at * in first and seventh parts (or these blocks may be inserted anywhere so long as they occur half a peal apart) and single at † in fourth and tenth parts (quarter peal ends) or at three parts distant from the blocks with two singles.

The maximum on this principle is 7,776 changes 2A 10B, substituting the parted tenors for each of the bobs 'Before.'

A peal of 5,248 changes was rung on April 23rd at Leicester as 10A, 1B, 1C, with parted tenors for the 'Before,' in block 'C.'—Yours sincerely,

JOHN A. ACRES.

Leicester.

P.S.—At what stage could it cease to be attributed to E. M. Atkins? I doubt if he would recognise some of the variations—or perhaps would not want his name associated with them!—J. A. A.

LONG PLAYING RECORD OF MELBOURNE CATHEDRAL BELLS—1961

Dear Sir.—I feel sure that all ringers in Great Britain and elsewhere will be pleased to hear of the release this week of a new long playing record of church bells.

The disc has been published by the W. and G. Recording Company in Melbourne, carrying serial No. WG-A-1039 and comprising six tracks at a speed of 33½.

We in Melbourne feel quite proud of this record and we hope that it will bring many sales both overseas and in Australia. Early next year the Cathedral is launching an appeal for £50,000, included in which is an amount for the complete rehousing and retuning of the bells, and also extensive repairs to the fabric. It is hoped that royalties from the sale of these records will augment the ringers' contributions to this worthy appeal.

Featured on the record (Side 1) are Grand-sire Caters, call changes on the back eight and Kent T.B. Minor on the middle six, whilst on Side 2 we hear Stedman Triples on the front eight, call changes on the twelve and Stedman Doubles on the 'pretty six' (bells 3, 4, 5, 8, 10, 12 of the twelve); a total of 45 minutes plus.

This fine sounding ring of thirteen (tenor 31½ cwt. in C sharp) is heard at its best, especially in Grand-sire Caters, and whilst we realise that the actual ringing is far from perfect: it is faithful reproduction of our Sunday service striking. Close inspection of the written account on the back of the album will also no doubt reveal a few inaccuracies, but we would ask readers to make allowances for these!

May I say that we welcome wholeheartedly criticism of the disc in general and hope that many ringers and non-ringers will be able to purchase one for their collections.—Yours, etc.,

GEORGE W. PIPE.

SPLICING DOUBLES

A Leicester reader has asked us about splicing Grand-sire and Stedman Doubles. Mr. Wilfrid G. Wilson writes it is possible (and, of course, not original) because both Grand-sire and Stedman Doubles are real Doubles methods. All the rows of the plain course are made up by changing two pairs of bells from the preceding row. Therefore all the 60 changes are 'in course' or position. That is why to get either 120 of either method you have to have at least two singles. The introduction of a single turns all the rows into 'out of course' or negative or odd rows until the next single change. So if you ring 60 changes in one method (without singles) and then in between two singles ring 60 of the other method you will have all the 60+ rows and all the 60- rows making a true 120. You can have no repetition so long as one of the methods (all 60 changes of it) is between two singles so that it is of the opposite nature to the others.

This leads to another long series of articles on in and out of course changes. Very briefly four. Rounds is considered an even row. If next row is caused by changing 2 (or 4 or 6) pairs of bells then it also is even, and so on. (Even plus even=even; this is an obvious fact when dealing with numbers.) If the next row is caused by changing 1 (or 3 or 5) pairs of bells then it would be an odd row (even plus odd=odd) and the bells would be out of course.

Plain Bob Doubles is not a real Doubles method—you get your odd and even rows mixed up, therefore you can get 120 without singles. But both Grand-sire and Stedman will only give you even rows unless you use singles.

WHY NOT PLAIN BOB DOUBLES?

Dear Sir.—Now that Grand-sire Doubles in 240-change blocks in peals is becoming popular, I can see no reason why peals of Plain Bob Doubles cannot be rung on this plan.

I submit one or two examples of 240 blocks by myself, which may be of interest to Doubles ringers who are probably bored stiff with the usual four callings. Of course, eight variations of calling may be obtained from each, by starting from different leads.

2 3 4 5	2 3 4 5	2 3 4 5
3 5 4 2—2	2 3 5 4—1	2 3 5 4—1
2 4 3 5—3	5 2 3 4—4	2 3 4 5—1
4 5 3 2—2	4 3 5 2—3	5 4 2 3—3
P 5 2 4 3—1		P 2 5 3 4—3

All repeated twice.

Yours faithfully,

JOHN PLADDYS.

P.S.—Each change is repeated once only throughout the 240.—J. P.

MORPETH'S CURFEW

Dear Sir.—I have always enjoyed reading 'The Ringing World,' but the letter of F. Hodgson, of Darlington, on page 439, made me feel very grateful to him, as he expresses in his last paragraph what really was a tower grab described as a complimentary quarter peal.

At Morpeth, for local or royal rejoicings the bells are rung on the day, not the next day or a few days after, and we have a few peal cards recording such occasions. Other ringers have come to ring our bells and have started pealing through the time of curfew, thus slighting a tradition that means much to Morpeth.

On May 25th, Mayor's Day, the bells were pealing out of our shuttered tower. I stood outside, hoping they would stop for the 8 p.m. curfew. There was no curfew, and on Mayor's Day, too. The next day I was told they continued pealing until 9.15 p.m.

There was no peal in June. Perhaps they have filled their book or 'circled the tower.' In my father's time, peals, though rare, were started at 3 p.m. or 5 p.m. I hope they will now give Morpeth a rest.—Yours, etc.,

J. S. ARMSTRONG.

Prostitution of Church Bells at Ipswich.—We grieve to hear that the 6 bells of St. Mary Quay, Ipswich, were rung at intervals during the two days of the races held 17th and 18th inst. [apparently July, 1873] Why did not the Vicar and churchwardens do their duty and stop such an abuse? A few years ago the Vicar of Doncaster manfully did his duty in a similar case, and set an example to be followed.

Glass Bells.—... a few years ago Messrs. Powell of Whitefriars made one for a new chapel in Borrowdale. It was the gift of a lady, but she soon cracked it by tolling.

Hurworth-on-Tees, Durham.—July 26th, 1873. First anniversary of opening of the six bells (tenor 17 cwt.).

Johnson Hern, formerly of Norwich, but then of Hurworth, writing on the progress of the Hurworth ringers says: "We practise on the bells Tuesdays and Saturdays and on Thursdays we meet in the schoolroom and, with black-board and chalk, we have mastered the method of Bob Minor... let me tell any young beginner that change-ringing is not learnt in the steeple but with paper and pencil at home... I would not have troubled you with this long letter but for the hope that, by giving it publicity, other ringers in the counties of Durham and Northumberland, and Devon and Cornwall, may be stimulated to greater exertions, as I am sorry to find that though there are many fine peals in these counties, the noble art of change-ringing is but little and imperfectly known."

Handbell Ringing at Birmingham.—Wed., July 30th, 1873, at second attempt, 5,040 Grand-sire Triples, 2 hrs. 52 mins., in presence of 3 witnesses, one the author (Joseph Spencer), the first peal in Birmingham ever accomplished on hand-bells.

Bodelwyddan, North Wales.—Mon., Aug. 4th, 1873, Liverpool ringers, 5,040 Grand-sire Triples, 3 hrs. 7 mins: "On this new ring of bells from the Whitechapel Foundry and presented by the Lady Dowager Willoughby de Broke."

Chimes of Derby.—The celebrated chimes of All Saints' Church, Derby, have recently [to Aug. 23rd, 1873] been put into good order by Mr. Smith, church clockmaker... under musical supervision. They now play seven tunes.

East Bergholt, Suffolk.—On Mon., Apr. 23, 1821, was rung on these bells 120 changes of singles by making the Tenor the quick hunt and the Treble the half ditto, by the following persons: Saml. Orris, sen., Treble; Wm. Bird, second; T. Stollery, third; Thos. Orris, fourth; Sam Orris, junr., Tenor. N.B.—Sam Orris, sen., called the peal.

(The merit of this ringing arises from the fact that the Bells have neither wheels nor ropes. They are in an ancient cage, in a shed in the churchyard; and are rung by handling the stock, the ringers standing by the side.)

(The tenor is reputed to be 25 cwt. and the bells are still hung the same and rung as shown above—turning full circle, I have been told that they may be seen being rung any Sunday in the summer months at 6 p.m. East Bergholt, being adjacent to Flatford, made for ever famous by the artist John Constable, attracts many visitors, particularly during the summer, and there is usually an audience for the bell-ringers in spite of the volume of sound! C.R.)

Prostitution of Church Bells.—Aug. 2nd, 1873, for two days, prize ringing at Holmfirth, Yorks; prizes £24.

The paper adds a note: "If parsons and churchwardens have not the pluck to refuse such ungodly uses of the goods of the church entrusted to their keeping, they had much better apply for a faculty to remove and sell all their bells but one..."

The Bonnie Bells of Bonnie Dundee.—For a short time this afternoon [i.e., Aug. 0th, 1873] the two peals of St. Paul's and the Old Steeple will be rung simultaneously to try the effect...

Bath Abbey Church.—New chiming apparatus recently [to Aug. 30th, 1873] erected; ten bells. "The light and cheerful sounds of the chiming for service form a marked contrast to the heavy and monotonous tolling of the tenor bell as formerly practised."

John Bunyan.—Extract from Southey's 'Life of Bunyan.'—He had taken great delight in bell-ringing, an exercise in which it is now difficult to see any harm, but which he began to think a vain and sinful practice, probably from its being connected with the externals of the Established Church; still, he so hankered after his old amusement that, though he did not pull a rope himself, he would go and look at the ringers, not without a secret feeling that to do so was unbecoming the religious character he professed. A fear came upon him that one of the bells might fall; to secure himself against such an accident, he stood under a beam that lay athwart the steeple from side to side, but his apprehensions, being once awakened, he then considered that the bell might fall with a swing, hit the wall first, rebound, and so strike him in its descent. Upon this he retired to the steeple-door, thinking himself safe enough there, for if the bell should fall, he might slip out.

"Further than the door he did not venture, nor did he long continue to think himself safe enough there; for the next fancy that possessed him was that the steeple might fall, and this so much disturbed him that he dared not stand at the door any longer, but fled..."

Wrotham, Kent.—Mon., Aug. 25th, 1873. Visit by the Dartford Society—good change-ringing on the eight bells.

"It is some years since there has been any scientific change-ringing done there and it seemed to give general satisfaction to the local inhabitants."

Pett, near Hastings, Sussex.—

Here lies George Theobald, a lover of bells,
And of this house as that epitaph tells
He gave a bell freely to grace the new steeple
Ring ovt his prayse therore' ye good peal.
Obijit Oo^{mo} die Martij Anno Dni 1641.

Symbolism of Bells.—Extract from 'Hone's Mysteries,' etc. "Bells being made of brass, and being therefore more shrill than the trumpets under the law, denote that God was then known to the Jews only, but now to all the world; that, as they are more durable, they signify that the preaching of the New Testament endures longer than the Jewish trumpets and sacrifices, even unto the end of time, and that they represent preachers which call men to the faith. The bell denotes the preacher's mouth, according to the words of St. Paul, "I am become as sounding brass," and the hardness of the metal implies the fortitude of the preacher's mind according to the passage, "I have given thee a forehead more hard than their forehead." The clapper, sounding the bell by striking on both sides, denotes the preacher's tongue, publishing both the Testaments; and the preacher should on one hand correct vice in himself; and on the other side reprove it in his hearers. The hand that ties the clapper denotes the moderation of the tongue. The wood on which the bell hangs signifies the wood of the Cross. The iron that ties it to the wood denotes the charity of the preacher who, being inseparably connected with the Cross exclaims, "Far being it from me to glory except in the Cross of our Lord."

The wheel that puts the bell in motion signifies the preacher's mind which, connected with the Divine law, passeth it upon the people by constant preaching.

The bell-rope denotes the humility of the preacher's life. The rope tied to the wood in which the bell hangs signifieth that the Scripture descendeth from the wood of the Cross. The rope being formed of three cords denotes that the Scripture consisteth of a Trinity—History, Allegory and Morality.

The descent of the rope from the wood to the hand signifies the descent of Scripture from the mystery of the Cross in the preacher's mouth, and that it comes to his hand because the Scripture should produce good works.

The upward and downward motion of the rope denotes that the Scripture sometimes speaks of high and sometimes low matters, sometimes mysteriously and sometimes plainly. Again, the downward motion signifies the preacher's descent from contemplation to action; also the downward motion signifies the Scripture when it is expounded literally; and the upward motion when it is expounded spiritually."

Flint, North Wales.—"A very melodious peal of six bells has recently [i.e., to Aug., 1873] been fixed in the parish church." Inaugurated by Chester Cathedral Society of Change-ringers Wed., Aug. 20th, 1873.

Kingston-on-Thames.—Mon., Aug. 4th, 1873: "Fine peal of ten... a new fourth bell successfully re-cast and re-hung by Mr. G. R. Banks, church bell-hanger, 103, Lower Kensington Lane, Lambeth."

From 'Old Paper'—Effect of Bells on Napoleon. "He was riding late one day over a battle-field, gazing stern and unmoved on the dying and the dead that strewed the ground by thousands about him, when suddenly "those evening bells" struck up a merry peal. The Emperor paused to listen; his heart was softened; memory was busy with the past; he was no longer the conqueror of Austerlitz, but the innocent, happy schoolboy of Brienne; and dismounting from his horse, he seated himself on the stump of an old tree and to the astonishment of Rapp, . . . burst into tears. . . ."

The Old Bells in Durham Cathedral and how they used to be Rung.—In the west end of the church and of the north alley over the Galilee door, is a heltry called the Galilee steeple wherein did hang four great bells which were never rung but at principal feasts or at such times as the bishop came to town.

"Every Sunday in the year a sermon was preached in the Galilee from one in the afternoon to three, previous to which at twelve the great bell of the Galilee tolled three quarters of an hour, and rung the fourth quarter till one of the clock, that the people of the town might have warning to come and hear the word of God preached. There were certain officers of the said house who were always charged, whenever the said bells were tolled, to be in readiness to ring them: viz.—two men of the kitchen were charged with ringing one bell, and four men of the church, who did lye always in the church, were charged with the third bell; and five others were to ring the great bell, viz.—two of the bake-house, two of the brew-house and two of the kiln. [Arithmetic seems a bit wayward here!—C.R.]

"And in the latter days of King Henry VIII the house was suppressed; and after that time the bells were never rung. In Queen Elizabeth's reign Dean Whittingham perceiving them not to be occupied or rung a great while before his time was purposed to have taken them down and broken them for other uses. When Thomas Spark, the bishop's suffragan, residing at Durham, and keeping home at the same time, did send into Yorkshire for a workman, and caused three of the said bells to be taken down, hung up in the new work called the Lanthorne and made a goodly chime be set on the saide bells, which cost him in charges thirty or forty pound, which chime endureth to this day, otherwise the said bells had been spoiled and defaced. But Christopher Hodson, a London bell-founder, got hold of them, and six out of the present peal of eight bear his name and the date of their casting by him in 1693. The two other bells were later, and have the name of Dean Digby and the dates 1780 and 1781 upon them."

The bell which remained in the Galilee tower, as mentioned in the foregoing quotation, we believe to have been the sanctuary bell, the use of which is thus described in the same work:—

"In the old time before the house was suppressed, the abbey church, the churchyard and all the circuit thereof, was a sanctuary for all manner of men that committed any great offence, as killing of a man in his own defence.

"Certain men did lye in two chambers over the north door for the purpose that when any such offenders did come and knock they were instantly let in at any hour of the night and did run quickly to the Galilee bell and toll'd it, that whosoever heard it might know that some had taken sanctuary."

[History of Durham Cathedral, 1743.]

'Clocking.'—The danger of this manner of sounding a bell is mentioned in the volume a number of times.

REFLECTIONS ON ST. JOHN'S CHURCH, PETERBOROUGH

By T. A. BEVIS

HENRY IV's heraldic antelope seems about to spring at the visitor to St. John the Baptist's Church, Peterborough. This graceful carving adorns a delightful porch, which has three arches, two allowing processions through the churchyard.

The main body of the church is equally as attractive as the two-storied porch. Of spacious and free flowing dimensions, the building was erected in the 15th century, following complaints from parishioners that they were unable to attend their parish church on account of floods. Much of the material was taken from a chapel, formerly sited near the impressive Cathedral, a stone's throw away.

St. John's has many fine points of interest: lofty curvilinear windows in the south aisle have different tracery designs, no two alike. Beneath the tower are suspended 16th century embroidery, depicting scenes of the Crucifixion. A remarkable chest in the vestry is carved in high relief, showing the Crucifixion—minus the figure of our Lord; it is dated 1569.

Crocketed pinnacles set on octagonal turrets at the angles of the tower lend a pleasing silhouette to the Peterborough skyline. A slender spire was removed many years ago so as not to endanger the tower, the mass of which depends on support from four arches.

RINGING CHAMBER ONCE WORKSHOP

At one time the eight bells were rung from a stage raised about 12 feet above ground level. The ringers now have a considerable climb to the ringing chamber, in which a stairway has been fixed for them to descend in order to reach the level of ringing activities.

This area, mid-way in the tower, was formerly the church's workshop, complete with bench, etc. An interesting carillon apparatus—not in use—is confined to a corner; this sturdy machine was installed in 1877 and is by Gillett and Bland.

The heavy ring of bells handles well. It was rehung in 1909 by Gillett and Johnston, who also recast the treble and second. The bells were again rehung in 1948.

William Dobson, of Downham Market, Norfolk, cast the original octave in 1808, and inscribed them with his favourite inscription, e.g., the fifth: 'Our voices shall with joyful sound make hills and valleys echo round' (this is given to several fifth bells produced by Osborn and Dobson).

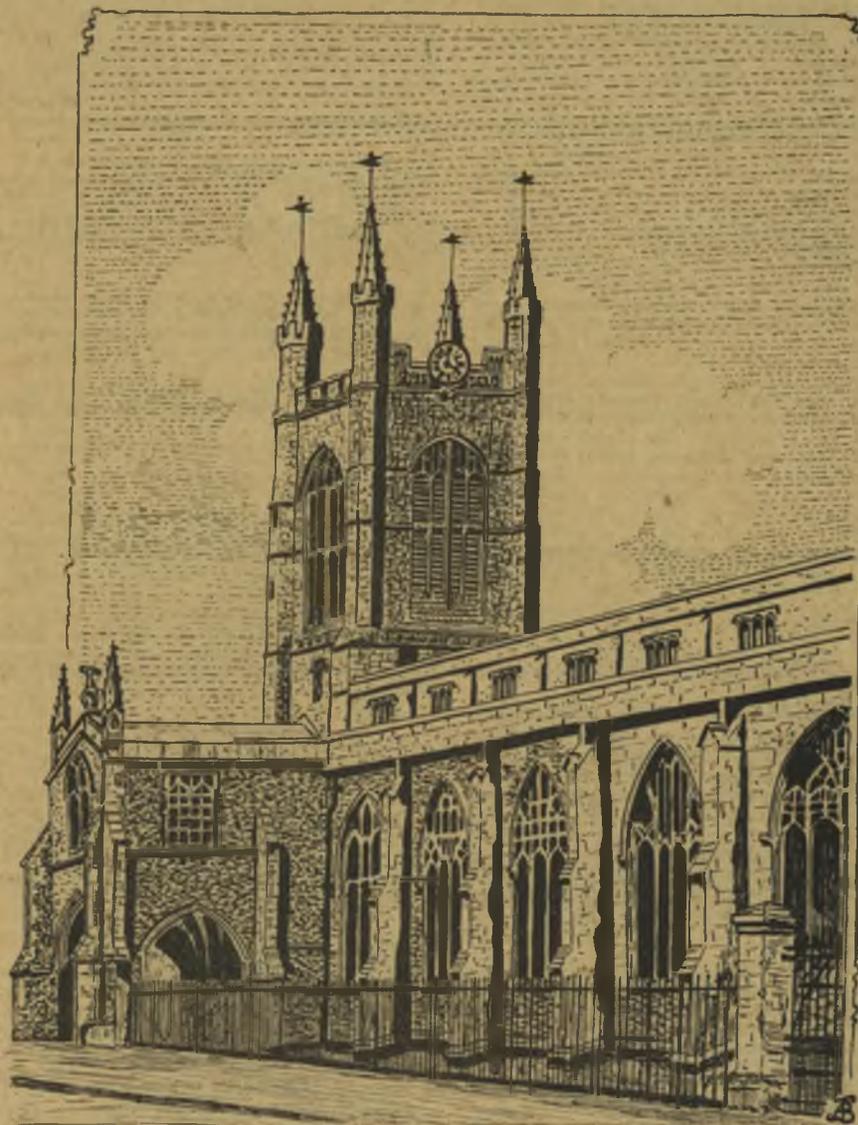

The sixth was donated by William Elliott and French Lawrence, M.P.s, 1808; the seventh by William Strong, D.D., Archdeacon of Northampton, and the tenor (26 cwt. 2 qr. 22 lb. in C) by the Rev. Joseph Stephen Pratt, LL.B., Prebendary of Peterborough Cathedral. There is also a sanctus bell which is regularly used.

BELL NEARLY LOST

Mr. Herbert Goakes, towerkeeper, explained to the writer that the seventh bell was taken away to a foundry in 1925 and due to unforeseen circumstances remained there for about five years. Eventually the foundry concerned were compelled to inform the Church Authorities that if the bell in question was not recast or removed it would be broken up as it was taking up valuable space. Fortunately at this time a new Vicar, the Rev. R. M. Gibson, was appointed to St. John's and through his timely efforts the long lost bell was at last recast in December, 1930, and dedicated on January 30th, 1931.

St. John's Church is Mr. Goakes' second home. A ringer here since 1920, he is widely respected and is indeed a pillar of strength in many directions in connection with church work, and his advice and experience is often called upon. He says that bellringing in Peterborough suffered a severe setback on the departure, some years ago, of Mr. William Rose, a gentleman well known among the campanological fraternity.

Two other stalwarts of St. John's have given an impressive number of years in service to the church; they are Mr. E. Warner and Mr. S. E. Wright, both of whom have rung the bells of the parish church for 51 and 50 years respectively.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH, PETERBOROUGH.

SEVEN PEALS

Records testify to seven successful peals, the first, Grandsire Triples, rung on April 8th, 1920, conducted by Frederick T. Cooke. This was the thirteenth attempt by a local team, and it materialised following a 'snap decision' after a hard day's work by all concerned.

Tom Tebbutt conducted a peal of Stedman Triples on June 16th, 1920. Several years elapsed before the next achievement, this being a peal of Grandsire Triples on December 27th, 1947, conducted by Ernest E. Whitmore.

The first peal of Bob Major on the bells occurred on April 8th, 1948, this at a service of dedication after the rehanging of the bells made possible by the gift of Herbert J. Amies and Minnie J. Amies.

This was closely followed by an extent of Grandsire Triples on May 27th, 1948, conducted by William Rose.

Frank Warrington took the helm to a peal of 5,088 Kent Treble Bob Major on March 3rd, 1949, and on May 12th, 1949, 5,040 Grandsire Triples was rung under the conductorship of William Rose.

The bellringers of St. John's benefit through the munificence of a legacy bequeathed by Matthew Wyldboare who, 200 years ago, had the misfortune to be lost in the nearby Fenlands (a common occurrence in those days), but was guided to safety by the sound of Peterborough bells. A team meets each year on March 15th when the bells are rung to perpetuate his memory.

CITY'S BELL FOUNDER

Peterborough's only bell founder, Henry Penn, whose earliest work (1703) is to be found at Holcot, Northants, was entrusted with the task of casting the four largest of the ten ancient bells of Peterborough Cathedral, into 'a tunable peal of ten, adding a little metal it required.' He was permitted to take the other six bells as his honorarium for 'founding, hanging and framing.'

Five of Penn's bells have been sold and the survivors are not allowed to be rung in the traditional manner, due to the opinions of a legion of architects as to the alleged insecurity of the fabric. The present five (tenor 30 cwt. in D) were rehung and quarter turned at a cost of £300 in 1899, and have been rung only once since that time—on the occasion of a wedding.

There is no documentary evidence as to the precise spot of the Peterborough foundry; it is strongly believed that it was situated on the east side of Bridge Street, adjacent to the River Nene.

Penn had an unfortunate end in that he suffered a seizure while mounting his horse at St. Ives, following his acquittal from the Assizes, in connection with alleged inferior workmanship in the eight bells supplied to that town. It was recorded that Penn's death was no loss; he was a vile man and gave trouble whosoever he was concerned.

Judging his existing bells, Henry was a good founder, and one cannot help feeling a sense of pity for him. He sent several bells from Peterborough to Huntingdonshire, and yet it was meanly recorded in the burial register of St. Mary's Church, Huntingdon: '1729, Henry Penn, stranger, July 23rd.'

A Mr. Stanley, of Peterborough, in 1835 cast a small treble for: Holme Church. He was an ironmonger and occupied a shop in Long Causeway. This experience did not whet his appetite so it may well be that the bell at Holme is unique.

Another Peterborough citizen has been directly and indirectly concerned with bells. He is Mr. Jack Belt, rope maker, who retired last year at the age of 84. Mr. Belt has produced bell ropes for Messrs. Snowdens, who specialise in tent-making. His ropes protect works of art in Burghley House, and they ring the bells at several churches in the district.

To conclude: the saddleback tower of St. Mary's Church, Peterborough, contains a ring of six bells (tenor 8 cwt. 0 qr. 3 lb. in A). The adjoining parish of Woodstone and Stanground each have a ring of six bells (tenors 8 cwt. 1 qr. 8 lb. in A flat, and 12 cwt., F sharp, respectively)—all ringable.

ARCHDEACONRY OF HALIFAX

The July meeting of the Archdeaconry of Halifax Guild was held at Shelley on July 1st. The six bells were kept ringing in the afternoon to various methods up to London Minor, and proved of value to a number of learners present, as well as testing the ability of others of a higher standard of proficiency.

At 5 p.m. the ringers adjourned to the school, where the local ringers had kindly provided cups of tea, and the sandwiches had to be shared out for the benefit of those who had forgotten to bring some.

Mr. P. Birkett presided at the business meeting, and Mr. R. Senior read the minutes of the last meeting, deputising for Mr. D. Smith, the secretary, who was away on holiday.

Ringling was resumed after the meeting and continued until 9 p.m. About two-dozen ringers attended and 13 methods were attempted: on the whole a very satisfactory meeting. F. L.

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

A joint meeting of the Chertsey District and the Ladies' Guild was held at Thames Ditton on July 22nd. Some 50 ringers attended on a glorious afternoon, the ladies being well represented by the Farnham District contingent. Ringing up to Cambridge took place before the service, which was taken in the absence of the Vicar by the Rev. G. S. Archibald, Vicar of Chertsey and a ringing member of the Guild. The day being the Feast of St. Mary Magdalene, the sermon was on that theme—a refreshing change from 'bellringers' sermons.'

After a splendid tea, laid on by Mrs. Hawthorne and helpers, the two brief business meetings were held. Further ringing, which included Double Oxford, St. Clement's and Cambridge, took place till 8.30.

JAN GATES, OF PARRAMATTA

Miss Jan Gates, aged 22, is featured in an article in 'The Parramatta Mail' of June 14th, entitled 'Her Song—The Sound of Bells.' Jan has been learning to ring for five years at All Saints', Parramatta, and her ambition is to ring a peal—so far she has rung two quarters. Her instructor is Mr. Bob Ferris, the newly-elected chairman of the Australian and New Zealand Association of Change Ringers.

Jan works as a colour and interior decorator for a Sydney firm. Trained at the National Art School, she advises on furnishings, tiles and colours for various stores, hotels and clubs.

MEMORIES OF OUTINGSST. PETER MANCROFT

May 27th, 1961.

Norwich, Dereham, Swaffham, Lynn, Towers we know, now an outing to begin Memories on passing; thro' sunshine and shower

On our way to visit Sutterton's tower.

Flat, fertile land, the land of the Fens, Roads that are straight where once there were bends,

A village small, winding stairs to the spire, Bells calling for service, 'for sermon' and 'fire.'

On then to Lincoln the Church of St. Giles, 'St. Peter at Arches' now built in new style; One church demolished, the new one renamed, A fine ring of bells, for a city world-famed.

Now, to the Cathedral, rising high on a hill, A ring of twelve with Great Tom hangs there still;

Our Lady's tower, where the 'Lady's bells' hung.

Destroyed 1834, were for Lady's Day rung.

A chapel for ringers to the right of the door, Painted records on the wall, date to 16 one 4, Peals and touches rung, records tell the story, And add an odd page to the majesty and glory.

280 feet high a spire crowned tower St. Wulfram, of Grantham, where we spent an hour;

Rhymed beffy rules, made two centuries ago, Make history for ringing, just to let us know:

'If any overthrow a bell,
As chance that well he may,
Because he minds not ringing well
He must his sixpence pay.'

St. Mary and St. Nicholas', ring of eight, Spalding's Parish Church, with a spire great; A Sanctus bell on the Nave gable rings To summon the people to church for 'sacring' (sacrament).

One verse more before we go. From Grantham's records quoting;

'And when the bells are down and ceased
It should be said or sung
May God preserve the Church and King
And guide us safely home.'

ELLAND, YORKS

Once again the weather was fine for the annual Whit Monday outing of the Elland (St. Mary's) ringers when, with other ringing friends and members of the congregation, we set off for Nottinghamshire.

Our first call was Rotherham, where Mr. N. Chaddock had everything ready for us. Here we rang Cambridge, Superlative and Bob Royal, whilst the non-ringers watched the annual Sunday Schools' procession through the town.

From there we went to East Retford for lunch and a ring on the ten bells there. Some fast ringing on the light eight at Sutton-on-Trent was enjoyed, and at Newark we did justice to the fine ring of ten.

Tea was taken at Newark, and afterwards, whilst the ringers were in the tower, the rest of the party made their way to Kelham and were shown round the College Chapel. The last tower of the day was Mansfield, voted the best of a very good lot. Methods rung were Cambridge, Yorkshire, Superlative, Stedman, Grand-sire, Plain Bob, Little Bob and Double Norwich.

F. L.

ROTHLEY, LEICS.—On July 23rd, 1.320 Plain Bob Doubles: R. Yates 1. M. Kitching (first 'inside') 2. R. Guest (first quarter) 3. N. Bishop 4. G. M. Brewin (cond.) 5. P. Plowright 6. Rung to mark the visit of the Rev. Mr. Pearson, from South Africa. The treble bell is dedicated to the memory of his father, a former Vicar of this parish.

ST. GILES', LINCOLN

It was soon after 9 o'clock on the morning of July 22nd that 'Trottie's' splendid new coach found itself fully loaded with a party of ringers and friends from St. Giles', all eager to discover what lay in store for us at the seven towers we were to visit during the day.

Our first ring was at Ilkeston, and the eight were soon tapping out touches of Spliced and Stedman. Here we seemed to have coincided with market day and, as the stalls are sited immediately below the church, tension soon arose in the area as the changes rang out. One unfortunate stallholder had to reckon up a list of items five times before he achieved success: another was heard to remark: 'Those bells!' A short journey brought us to the light eight at West Hallam, where the tightness of the circle seemed to bring out a friendly and light-hearted atmosphere.

A longer ride to Melbourn followed—the intervening journey being used for the hasty devouring of sandwiches. Once the idea of ringing in the choir stalls had been mastered our visit was much enjoyed, and we were all impressed by the solid splendour of the Norman work in the church; its tranquil setting was also much admired. Barton-under-Needwood presented an unexpected problem. We reached within a mile of this village before we discovered that it was necessary to negotiate a railway bridge limited to a three-ton load before we could gain our destination. Our driver, after a brief glance at the weighty mob behind him, refused to risk anything, and so an eight-mile detour made us a little late in arriving at Barton. Here we were very pleased to be joined by Mr. and Mrs. E. Colley and son, who had been anxiously awaiting our arrival. Our lateness necessitated a curtailment of our stay, but it was long enough for all those who wished it to have a ring.

Tea at Lichfield was the next item on the agenda. During this meal, which was much enjoyed, we were joined by the Master and secretary of the Shropshire Association, Mr. and Mrs. H. Poyner, whom we welcomed as old friends. The ten at the Cathedral, as had been anticipated, proved the highlight of the day's ringing. Their weight gives them a sonorous quality which is well matched by their easy 'go.' Tamworth, our next tower, was our second ten. Again ringing was very much enjoyed, and ranged from Surprise Royal to rounds. Our last tower brought us back into Derbyshire, and was at Sawley, which has another light eight, where we peacefully concluded our day's ringing at 9 o'clock.

The homeward journey was, as usual, somewhat disturbed by the customary sing-song, led by the back-seat chorus. The old favourites were dredged up from the depths of our memories and emerged with variations both in tunes and lyrics from last year's versions. So ended another St. Giles' outing, and once again we found ourselves saying 'the best yet.' Thanks are due to our organiser, Mr. J. L. Millhouse, and to those who allowed us to ring at the different towers, for another memorable day. C. D.

THE RECORDING

IT all germinated in Australia. Wendy Nichols, a Sydney ringer, in order to interest her pen friends in Guildford sent coloured photographs of Sydney and Melbourne scenes, the annual ring at Parramatta, and ringers at Maitland and St. Mary's Basilica, Sydney. Accompanying the films was a tape-recording; personalities of ringing in New South Wales were introduced, names became a reality, and the Australian accent, strange to many English ears, was made familiar in a most friendly manner. But it did not end there: there was a request that the recording and transparencies should be returned with an appropriate greeting on the reverse side of the tape.

Guildford ringers felt that such an opportunity should not be missed. With Stanley Ponting as chief technician, and the Editor to do the connecting links, a programme lasting nearly half-an-hour was devised, so as to give our Australian friends some idea of a typical English tower, not making great pretensions but fulfilling its duty by Sunday service ringing.

The recording started with the Guildford Chimes heralding the striking of 9 a.m. These chimes, which were composed in 1843 by George Wilkins, are regarded by some as the most musical combination yet devised for eight bells. The broadcast opened with fraternal greetings to all ringers in Australia and New Zealand, and the wishing of every success to the recently-formed Australia and New Zealand Association of Change Ringers.

There were special greetings to Bob Ferris, the chairman of the Association, Tom Goodyer, secretary and Ringing Master, to George and Di Pipe, of Melbourne, who on their recent visit to England did much useful propaganda on behalf of Australian ringing, to Monica Collins, once a ringer in Guildford, whose name is inscribed on a marble peal tablet in the ringing chamber, recording a memorial peal to Alfred H. Pulling, who was for many years the conductor at Holy Trinity and the greatest ringer Guildford has produced. Finally, there was a sincere 'Thank you' to Wendy Nichols for devising such a friendly link, and mention of the coincidence of the films and recording from Australia arriving on the Editor's birthday.

These brief introductory greetings over, a short description of Holy Trinity Church followed. The Editor told of a ringing chamber adorned with peal tablets, both marble and wood, and the two earliest peals painted on the walls. The church was the third on the site, the story runs. On April 23rd, 1740, Guildford Fair Day, the steeple fell, crashing through the roof of the nave. Three of the six bells were broken. The news of the catastrophe was told the sexton, who replied: 'It can't have happened, I have the key of the tower in my pocket!'

The rebuilding took 23 years. So impoverished was the town that a special Act of Parliament was promoted for permission to sell the rectory and church lands. The replacement of the bells was even longer, but on May 29th, 1769, in honour of the augmentation of the ring of bells from six to eight, a peal of Grandsire Triples of 5,040 changes, composed by the 'ingenious' Mr. Holt, was rung by the youths of the town. That peal is recorded on a large mural tablet; a similar tablet, recording a peal of Grandsire Triples rung in 1813, also by youths of the town, is painted on the opposite wall. What remains a mystery is how these youths of Guildford were taught Grandsire at a time when travel was difficult and there was no evidence of change-ringing having been practised in other Surrey towns.

Personal introductions of various members of the Guildford company followed. The bells were then heard in a touch of Stedman Triples, conducted by Harold A. May. We in Guildford are interested to hear what those 'down under' think of the touch. That morning there were just eight ringers—the chance was taken and Guildford think they have given Australia a reasonable standard. Whether it is sufficiently good to hold the 'ashes' we know not!

The next part of the programme came from the Saxon Church of St. Mary, where the bells are also rung by the Holy Trinity Society. There was another brief description of the church from the Editor. The tower was built about A.D. 1030, and the ascent is by steps carved in solid chalk, followed by walking across a beaten earth floor to the ringing chamber. This might well be likened to a box. In the centre of the circle is a large clock case, and much of the ringing in this tower, with its bells dating back to 1750 from the Whitechapel Foundry, is by ear. The circle runs anti-clockwise. There then followed an extent of Grandsire Doubles.

There were still a few more feet to be recorded, so an adjournment was made to Trinity belfry. Those who had dodged the first interview were roped in to make their contribution. Among them was Anne Garnett, who had spent a year of her life in Australia when she was 15 and before she became a ringer. The handbells were then produced, Grandsire Triples was rung, and it was left to Stanley Ponting to wind-up the message. In it he extolled the recording of bells and individual speech of members as a means of drawing ringers in distant parts of the world together, and expressed the hope that the Guildford recording would be the forerunner of other inter-Continental messages.

Last week in 'The Ringing World' we recorded the initiative of Melbourne Cathedral band in producing a record of their bells. The programme is comprehensive with Grandsire Caters, call-changes, Kent T.B. Minor, Stedman Triples and Stedman Doubles. It promises to be a valued addition to recorded ringing.

Finding that the company had met short a peal attempt at Farningham, Kent, Mr. Albert Bates, now 77, kindly offered to stand in for a quarter peal. An enjoyable quarter followed, which was Miss Maria E. Kirby's first of Minor as conductor. Mrs. K. W. Kirby, mother of the conductor, was delighted with her birthday quarter, which was only achieved through Mr. Bates' kindness.

Congratulations to Mr. Cecil W. Pipe on his 500th peal, which was called by his younger son, Roderick.

The first peal on the 12 bells at St. Nicholas', Great Yarmouth, was rung on August 5th. The Rector, the Rev. Gilbert Thurlow, rang the ninth.

A very successful peal week was arranged by Mr. W. Eric Critchley in Yorkshire, during which seven peals of Surprise were rung, including two of Spliced four and six methods.

Two noted ringers and their wives have peals in this issue in honour of their silver weddings—Mr. and Mrs. John E. Bibby, of Frodsham, and Mr. and Mrs. Nolan Golding. We would all like to join in with the best wishes.

When the Mid-Devon Branch of the Guild of Devonshire Ringers held their meeting at Manaton, high up on Dartmoor, such was the importance of the occasion that the lady organist closed the village shop in order to play for the service.

Miss Elizabeth Smith, of Nottingham, had an unusual 21st birthday compliment. She took part in her first peal in honour of the occasion and it was also the first peal on Aspley bells. To capture a maiden tower for a 21st birthday falls to very few ringers.

Mr. J. B. M. Pattison writes from the C.E.R.N., European Organisation for Nuclear Research, Geneva, where he finds life very enjoyable and the laboratories lacking practically nothing in perfection. Alas, there is no proper ringing to be had!

BELFRY GOSSIP

Recently Mr. R. Fisher, of All Saints', East Meon, who at 94 must surely be one of Hampshire's oldest ringers, fulfilled a long felt ambition by ringing at the local practice at Winchester Cathedral, when some of the younger members of his band also attended. Having learnt to ring when East Meon bells were rehung in 1890, Mr. Fisher still rings regularly on Sundays. His age exceeds the combined ages of the seven youngest members of the band.

The name of the ringer of the 2nd in the peal at Hordle, Hants, on July 14th (see page 503) should read Christine M. Harbott.

The City of Bristol Festival of Ringing will be held on October 28th. Programme includes a civic luncheon, lecture, Cathedral Evensong and ringing, available in most towers in the city.

Seventeen ringers from the East Riding of Yorkshire concluded on August 5th an eight day cycle tour of Lincolnshire and adjoining counties, during which 340 miles were covered and 36 towers visited.

St. Clement's Triples has come to the fore at Sydney, N.S.W., with a quarter rung at St. Mary's Basilica on August 6th. This is believed to be the first in the method in Australia.

Mr. Frank C. Price arranged during July a peal tour of Norfolk. Peals rung included Stedman Cinques at St. Peter Mancroft, Lincolnshire, Rutland, Yorkshire and Plain Bob, in which S. Parkman Shaw III had the honour to be the first American male to ring a tower bell peal.

When 'Tired' wrote to 'The Sydney Daily Telegraph' asking for a law to prevent church bells ringing for more than five minutes, because when he came off night duty and settled down to sleep on Sundays the bellringers start the day's performance, another reader replied. 'The worst offenders are the power-driven lawn mower louts.'

A SWEDISH VISITOR

At the church at Skarpnacks, near Stockholm, Sweden, is a ring of four bells with a tenor weighing about two tons. The bells, which have wheels but no stays, sliders or ropes, are rung for Sunday and other services by being rotated; they are counter-balanced to make ringing much easier, but it is not surprising that two men are needed to manage the tenor by gripping the wheel. It can safely be said that nowhere else on the Continent, since there have been no reports of any ringing on the ring at Rotterdam, has any attempt been made to introduce ringing on something approaching our own style. East Bergholt is no longer unique!

Earlier this year an approach was made through the British Council to Mr. E. A. Barnett, secretary of the Central Council, for a programme to be arranged to enable the leader of the ringers, Mr. A. V. Jakobsson, to study change ringing during a visit to this country, in order to introduce it in his own tower. It was not then known how the bells were rung, but a copy of 'Hints for Beginners' was sent out and from this it emerged that while the differences from our own bells were too great for direct assistance to be offered, a programme could be compiled to let Mr. Jakobsson see various aspects of English ringing and perhaps obtain some ideas on how our system could be adapted for his own bells.

The tour began on Friday, July 21st, with a visit to Crayford to see how the bells are hung and for a demonstration of raising, lowering and bell-handling. On the following day Mr. Jakobsson attended the quarterly meeting of the Lewisham District of the Kent County Association at St. Luke's Church, Bromley Common, where he replied in excellent English to the welcome extended to him and showed a number of photographs of Skarpnacks church, which aroused great interest. The bells, incidentally, are hung in the open at the top of the tower, the architect having decreed that they should not be covered in, despite pleas to the contrary.

On the Sunday he watched the ringing for Matins and Evensong at St. Mary's, Battle, Sussex, where one of his sons was on holiday. Monday, July 24th, found him at Crayford again for handbell ringing. He took part in rounds on 6, 8 and 10, and performed very creditably on 5-6 for several courses of Original Minor. Tuesday was spent visiting the Whitechapel Bell Foundry and being present at the College Youths' practice at St. Paul's Cathedral, and on Wednesday, 26th, his last full day in England, he attended the Cumberlands' practice at St. Olave's, Hart Street.

Mr. Jakobsson appeared to enjoy his visit very much and would, I am sure, be pleased to see any ringers visiting Sweden; especially those who fancy their chances of turning Skarpnacks tenor in to, say, Double Bob Maximus, the figures of which he took back with him. Here indeed would be the ideal place for four-bell enthusiasts.

THE NORWICH ASSOCIATION

The Southern Branch visited North Lopham for their summer meeting and some 40 ringers made full use of the pleasant eight. The Rector, Rev. C. E. Beevers, conducted the service and gave an interesting address.

In the absence of the chairman, Mr. Nolan Golden presided over the business meeting. It was mentioned that a proposal had been made in one of the Branches to consider holding a ringing competition as a possible aid to improving striking.

During the evening a visit was made to South Lopham with its fine tower, and much interest was shown in the six bells, which have not been rung in living memory. It is hoped that it may be possible, some time in the future, to restore these to ringing order again.

Next meeting Thetford, Saturday, October 21st.

PERSONALITIES OF THE EXERCISE - 33

MR. WALTER F. JUDGE,
Oxford Diocesan Guild.

The Oxford Society of Ringers, serving the city of Oxford, has been in existence for well over 230 years, and has included amongst its members several well known and excellent ringers. Since the first war, the name of Mr. Walter F. Judge has gradually come to the front, and through the brilliance of his conducting and performances he has ensured for himself pride of place amongst the Society's many ringers.

Walter was born into a ringing family on November 16th, 1895, at Kidlington, a few miles north of Oxford. His father, the late Harry G. Judge, rang the treble to the 17,024 Double Norwich at this church in 1899, when Walter was only three years of age, and two of his three brothers also became ringers. The cottage in which he was born was on the boundary of the churchyard, and was 'open house' to all ringers, including the Rev. F. E. Robinson and James W. Washbrook, though he was too young to have had the pleasure of ringing with these famous characters. His father taught him to handle a bell, and he rang his first peal—Grandsire Triples—at Kidlington on November 6th, 1912, conducted by the then George Hollifield junior. During the first war he served with the Oxfordshire Yeomanry and Machine Gun Corps (Cavalry), and was in France with the B.E.F. from 1914-1919. After the war he rang his second peal—Stedman Triples—on July 16th, 1919, conducted by his brother William, and his first peal as conductor was Grandsire Triples on December 30th, 1922. Both of these peals were rung at Kidlington, the latter being his fourth peal.

Walter's peal total to date is about 578 (including one handbell peal), and of these he has conducted 350. These include two existing record lengths, namely 16,271 Grandsire Caters at Appleton, Berks. in 1932, and 12,663 Stedman Cinques at Christ Church, Oxford, in 1946, which he also conducted. He has conducted peals of Grandsire and Stedman from Doubles to Cinques, Cambridge from Minor to Maximus, and Yorkshire from Major to Maximus, and his list includes 135 of Stedman Triples (conducted 91), and 55 of Stedman Cinques (conducted 32). Like many an older generation ringer, he prefers ringing Stedman to any other method, especially when it is well struck Cinques.

It is, however, in the field of Spliced Surprise Major that Walter has shown his skill and ability as a conductor. He has conducted peals in 4, 6, 8, 10, 12, 14, 18, 20, 22 and 25 methods. The 25 methods was the record at the time, until surpassed by the Lincolnshire men with 32, and later the Yorkshire men's 53 methods. Walter is capable of calling most methods from any bell in the 'circle,' and although so competent as a Surprise and 12 bell conductor, he is pleased to call a peal of Grandsire or Plain Bob for a beginner. He recalls with pleasure the peal of Cambridge Maximus rung at Exeter in 1949, a ring of bells where one needs a little more ability than the blue line and ropesight.

Walter is not one to forget those Oxford worthies of days gone by, who have helped him along the road to success. He will never forget such men as the late Francis E. Taylor, Victor Bennett and Dick White, who in his younger days were such a steadying influence on his rather impetuous nature. It was good to know such men, and he gratefully acknowledges a great deal to many others, especially William C. Porter and Frederick A. H. Wilkins, who have been most loyal over the years.

Naturally Walter has been closely associated with the Oxford University Society, and has rung with most of their members since the early 1920's, many of whom are now domiciled all over the world. He remembers Sidney Taylor, of Merton College, now in Canada, with whom he rang many peals in the early 1930's. Also Peter Raynor, of St. John's College, now in Southern Rhodesia, who was a brilliant scholar, and enjoyed his 'pint' with good company. Of the lady ringers of the University Society, Walter regards Miss Betty Spice (now Mrs. P. T. Robbins) as probably the most outstanding ringer of her sex. He will always remember the masterly way she rang the tenor to a peal of Stedman Cinques at Trowbridge in August, 1948.

When Walter was 14, after being educated at the Kidlington C. of E. School, he was apprenticed to the confectionery (flour) trade, and on returning from the 1914-18 war he joined the chef and first cook of Keble College, who had just opened up a business of their own in Oxford. He remained with them until the end of 1960, when he retired after over 40 years' service. He acted first as foreman, and later as production manager, and during that time the staff had grown from the original 3 to 160 at the time of his retirement. Many members of the University Society will recall the 'Cake Factory' during World War II rationing period!

Walter has served on the General Committee of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, and also represented the Oxford Society on the Central Council. He is very proud of being Ringing Master of the Society since 1930, except for two short periods, and he has a most loyal band of ringers at Christ Church Cathedral, the 12 bells being rung regularly to Grandsire and Stedman Cinques and an occasional course of Cambridge Maximus. His other hobbies include sport (he has played most games in his younger days), miniature rifle shooting, and in his youth his three brothers and himself were members of the local brass band, playing the cornet, tenor-horn, euphonium and bass.

Walter's greatest pleasure through the years has been in meeting ringers and making many friends throughout the country. Although such a great ringer himself, he is the first to acknowledge the help and kindness he has always received from others. By his continued enthusiasm, backed by the loyalty of his own ringers, he has helped the Oxford Diocesan Guild, and in particular the Oxford Society, to maintain a place in the forefront of the Exercise.

APACE.

WOTTON UNDERWOOD, BUCKS.—On Aug. 5th, 1.260 Grandsire Doubles: J. Ewers 1, L. J. Gregory 2, J. Eustace (cond.) 3, L. Busby 4, H. G. Rand 5, W. H. Ayris 6. Rung half-muffled in memoriam H. Parrott, a ringer at this church for over 40 years, interred at Wotton this day.

THE PLAIN COURSE IS NOT THE METHOD!

Dear Sir,—Dare I differ with bureaucracy? Well, like the late Mr. Gilbert Harding (for whom I had great admiration both as a writer and a T.V. personality), I am not one of those 'poor mutts' who takes for granted everything bureaucracy says is right, got to be, or thinks it can ram down my throat—that is why I must beg to differ with your correspondents, Mr. Forder and Mr. Blagrove, whose arguments about the plain course I do not accept, only in the case of 4-bell ringing where it can be mathematically and truthfully laid down that the plain course is the method, because you have done the extent of the work possible!

But 5- and 6-bell ringing is on a totally different plane to 4, 7 and 8 on a different plane to 5 and 6, and 9, 10, 11 and 12 on a different plane to all the others: the fact that some methods on the lower numbers will not truthfully extend into the greater ones is one mathematical proof—there are other points to be taken into consideration.

Therefore you cannot, as some C.C. members seem to think, put them all on one plane and say 'the rules for one shall apply to the lot.' That may sound all right in theory, but it just does not work out in practice!

Again, Central Councils, both in ideas and personnel, change with the years. I am not one who accepts the idea that everything 'modern' is the 'best': their deliberations can alter from time to time, as indeed they have done over recognition or otherwise of Plain Bob Triples. Grandsire on even numbers, Doubles with three and/or four blows at lead, and last but by no means least, 4-bell peals.

I am, as a result, not guided by what bureaucracy thinks, only by mathematical facts, and these tell me that when I have rung a plain course of Grandsire or Bob Doubles I have not rung all the work possible on five bells, only a part of it: therefore I do not accept the theory 'that the plain course is the method'—it is not! That kind of argument reminds me of how the 'Jehovah's Witnesses' set about trying to interpret the Bible, by picking passages and saying: 'That's the Bible'!

To determine anything as being a method it must be taken as one whole, not in bits and pieces as Mr. Blagrove tries to do re St. George's Doubles, by pricking out the three leads where no calls are made, and saying: 'Those three leads are the method.' What if we altered the calls and made the three leads of Winchendon into something else—an Extreme, for example? There would then be no plain leads at all. On the other hand, the whole work of the 120 could be rung like Undershaft or Smithfield, with no calls—what then is the plain course? The extent, obviously! Or, alternatively, the Old Doubles call could be made the plain lead, and the plain lead of Winchendon become the bob, since there is no hard and fast rule as to which shall constitute a bob as in the case of Reverse St. Bartholomew, where a lead of plain bob is the bob. I suppose Mr. Blagrove would then say: 'We have rung Old Doubles'?

No, Mr. Blagrove, three leads is not a method any more than is one lead, or a plain course. Only 12 leads (the extent and all the work possible) is the method. The question of calls doesn't come into it, because you can alter these or have no calls at all, as in the case of Smithfield Doubles. Here I guess someone will try to rush in and say: 'Ah well, that would be ringing a silent 120.' Not necessarily so!

I notice Mr. Blagrove still does not produce the evidence of another peal rung to a method named St. George; and until he can confirm these facts we who rang the peal at Wootton are not accepting his deliberations. On the contrary, if what he states was rung as 'St. George' was only part of a peal, it does not comply with his Central Council's rules to the effect that the band who rings the first peal in a method shall have the right to name it; and ours, therefore, on that ruling, must stand as the St. George's Doubles, and I suggest it is the other band whom he and his Central Council instruct to rename the extents they rang: the evidence, place and date, and number of extents rung we are still awaiting. If these are not forthcoming, our claim to have rung the first peal of St. George's stands good. And on Mr. Blagrove's other point, about one name for two methods, have not the Central Council themselves created a precedent in that they have done exactly that with Antelope and St. Dunstan's? Come, Mr. Blagrove, be a bit consistent, please!

And as my friend Mr. Alan Pink pointed out to me in a personal letter some time ago, they have of late years refused to recognise methods (like St. Fridiswise) with a plain course of 20 changes, while at the same time accepting Original with only ten changes—not that I am an opponent of either; I believe in all ringers ringing what they like providing it produces true extents and there are no repetitions.

One final point, to give Mr. Blagrove something else to think about: Did Stedman devise the method some call 'Stedman Slow Course'? A book I have in front of me tells me that Shipway gave it that name in 1816 long after Stedman died, and that it was previously known as Reverse Chace, and in J. Monks' 'Campanologia Improved' of 1766 it is given as Chace and Reverse Chace—so what?—Yours sincerely,

P. AMOS.

Weston Favell.

THEY believe in starting them young in Yorkshire. A reporter covering a wedding at St. Mary's, Ecclesfield, a lovely old church with a ring of eight in the central tower, found that the ringing came from this youthful group, 'who tell us that it has been our privilege to "man" these bells for the past six to 12 months.'

The towerkeeper, Mr. L. E. Smith, asks the Editor to publish the photograph 'in thankful recognition of the services rendered by these young people over the past year.' But it is not 100 per cent. feminine at Ecclesfield. There are Tony Coldwell (16) and Gordon Sharpe (17), who have done yeoman service for several years and now have to share the tenor (about 15 cwt.).

'The tenor is a bit too much for us at present,' writes one of the girls, and adds: 'The lads will have to watch their attendance figures or it will soon be an all-lady band.'

As to the ringing, it is Queens and Whittingtons on Sundays, but on practice nights plain hunting on seven bells is indulged in with the tenor covering. We look forward to the day when the band can claim to be change-ringers.

EAST GRINSTEAD TACKLES NOISE PROBLEM—SEQUEL

Dear Sir.—From time to time we read in the Press and also in 'The Ringing World' of towers where the noise of the bells in the locality leads to many complaints. Here, at East Grinstead, our tower is in the middle of the town and is no exception. One annoyed member of the public even threatened to get a petition for the bells to be considerably silenced.

However, under the expert advice of Frederick E. Collins, the local ringers spent some twelve months or so blocking up the louvres. This was no mean task as the louvres are 20 ft. in height above the level of the bell frame and 12 ft. or so wide. 'Windows' were also made to be opened for Sunday service ringing.

There is no doubt that the sound outside has been reduced very considerably, and we are now excellent friends with the inhabitants in the surrounding houses!

This, however, leads to another problem—an irate gentleman of the town (who happens to be a R.C.) is contemplating canvassing a signed petition because from where he lives (not far from the church) he can't hear the bells sufficiently. We are extremely happy to hear of the last complaint and do hope that this is a sign of the times.

It would be interesting to know if any other tower has had a similar case.—Yours sincerely,

FRANK H. HICKS.

East Grinstead, Sussex.

COMPLAINTS FROM GODMANCHESTER

Dear Sir.—The following is an extract from 'Newsman's Diary' in the 'Hunts Post' of August 3rd:—

THOSE BELLS

Church bells were pealed for more than three hours in a Huntingdonshire town on Saturday. Many people were disturbed and wondered whether the Noise Abatement Act might cover church bells.

I think it unlikely that it does, but it remains undeniable that bell ringing on Saturday brings pleasure to few and discomfort to many.

Is there no way the ringers can enjoy their ringing without annoying everyone nearby?

The town in question is Godmanchester, and the bells were rung for 2 hours and 20 minutes, when, in fact, the peal was lost. Two peal attempts only are made here each year and these are always 'advertised' in the Parish Magazine a month previously, by the Vicar, for the benefit of those who wish to visit faraway places on that day.

We, the local ringing fraternity, feel this is all quite reasonable, but unfortunately there still exists an antagonistic element, which it appears now has the support of the local Press.—Yours faithfully,

A. J. DAVEY.

Godmanchester.

'PLENTY OF TIME' TO ACHIEVE EXTENT

Dear Sir.—On behalf of the band that rang the 22,400 of Plain Bob Major in 1960, I would like heartily to congratulate the band that rang the peal of 32,704 on July 15th, 1961.

The average age of the band leaves them plenty of time to succeed in their original intention in due course.—Yours sincerely,

FRANK B. LUFKIN.

Holland-on-Sea, Essex.

CHURCH UNITY AT BIRMINGHAM

Dear Sir.—It would appear that an old Birmingham custom has spread to Welbourne ('R.W.' 4-8-'61), and very pleasant reading it makes.

Our original five bells at St. Chad's (R.C.) Cathedral were opened in 1849 by a band brought down by the great William Chattell, of St. Philip's Church as it was then, and the many peals rung and meetings held by St. Martin's Guild and other Associations after the augmentation to eight in 1877 are now part of ringing history.

One recalls with pleasure the help and advice given by the late Albert Walker to that great friend of ringing, the late Monsignor Roskell, before and during the recasting and rehanging of our bells in 1939-40 and the ready assistance and magnificent ringing by the Guild before our Sunday band was re-formed.

Passing on, there were the days of the Guild's 'Surprise practices' on Wednesday evenings, when the proceedings were more often than not enlivened by the 'bon mots' of a very eminent ringer, some of which were recently immortalised in the 'R.W.' by Rodney Meadows, 'Easter Sunday, 1943, when, the bells being set at back stroke ready to go straight off, H... for reasons of his own pulled off the third, the bell solo being drowned by the explosive remark from brother G... 'Our kid's spoiled it!' and another occasion when a cheese sandwich (complete with wrappings), in the interval between ringing, found its way mysteriously from the coat pocket of one brother and after due stripping into the stomach of the other. It is tempting to narrate what followed.

There are still many worse ways of spending an evening than being in and out of the 'Green Man' whilst another good peal is being put in the bag and the top of the spire on the bell tower is rocking gently as if nodding approval, but I had better shut up as someone will soon be getting ideas and a familiar voice will be heard on my telephone: 'Could we come for a peal on Monday (or Saturday?)'!—Yours sincerely,

W. E. BOX

(St. Chad's (R.C.) Cathedral)

Harborne, Birmingham.

50 Years Ago

'R.W.' August 18th, 1911—

Only one peal has ever been rung upon the lonely island of Lundy, and that was conducted by the Rev. F. E. Robinson. The island has a rugged history, and the controller of its destinies for the last half century has been Mr. Heaven, the patriarchal proprietor, who has been both king and priest. Mr. Heaven built the church, and in it used to minister to the spiritual needs of the islanders. Failing health has now necessitated his removal to the mainland.

Lundy Island is situated in the Diocese of Exeter, but separated from the mainland by a particularly choppy part of the Bristol Channel, which caused a late Low Church Bishop, who went to hold a Confirmation on the islet, to perpetrate the worst pun of an otherwise well-spent life. After a rough passage, in which he had thrown up everything but his bishopric, the unhappy prelate was heard to moan: 'I now believe that we must all pass through purgatory to reach Heaven.'

PLAGIARISM?—OR NO?

Dear Sir.—Last September the following composition of New Cambridge Surprise Major appeared in the 'R.W.'

M B W 23456

Twice repeated.

Below is the same peal, starting from *, set out beside a well known peal of Yorkshire which we rang recently. The similarity of the 'calling pattern' makes one ask:

(a) Are the two compositions the same?
(b) Is the New Cambridge only an 'arrangement' of the Yorkshire?

(c) Are the two peals entirely different compositions?

(d) If they are different, what makes them different?

Obviously the composer considers his peal original, or he would not have appended his name to it. May I ask others qualified to do so kindly to answer the questions and to explain simply the reasons for their answers.—Yours faithfully, HONEST INQUIRER.

BUCKLEY BELLS SILENT UNTIL CHRISTMAS

Dear Sir.—Messrs. John Taylor and Co. began dismantling the bells at St. Matthew's Church, Buckley, on August 14th. The headstocks will be sent to the foundry for the fitting of new gudgeons and ball bearings; in addition most of the angles will be renewed.

Messrs. Taylors say the bells will be put in ringing order again before Christmas. The Vicar and churchwarden regret that several parties of ringers who wished to ring at Buckley in August and September will not now be able to do so; these have been notified. Will other organisers please note.

An organised appeal for funds is not being made, but gifts would be gratefully received.—Yours faithfully,

DENNIS H. B. MILLWARD

(Captain and People's Warden).

Buckley, Flintshire.

'NOBODY DAFT ENOUGH'

Dear Sir.—The following conversation was overhead in 'Ye Olde White Bull,' Ribchester, after a Blackburn Branch meeting:—

Customer: 'T' bells have been going a long time today. It there owt special on?'

Landlord: 'I've no idea what's on, but they've been ringing since this *morning.'

Customer: 'Have they got a record on, or summat?'

Landlord: 'No, I think they must have some way of setting 'em to ring like that.'

Customer: 'Ay, they must have. Well, there's nobody daft enough to pull them b... things for so long, is there?'

* Actually ringing commenced at 3 p.m.

Not wishing to start an argument, the ringers maintained a discreet silence. However, we thought it might be interesting to readers of 'The Ringing World.'—Yours sincerely,

JOHN PILKINGTON.

THE NEW WINE AND THE OLD BOTTLES

CHANGE AND CALL CHANGE, 19th CENTURY

By the Rev. J. G. M. Scott

AS I said in 'Introducing the New Member,' the early history of the Devonshire call-change associations is not easy to discover. The small local bodies with which we are concerned have not left behind them, as the Guild has done, a full library of minutes, reports and records, and one has to infer a good deal from the Guild's references to the activities of the other side, and from bits and scraps of newspaper clippings. But Mr. Shepherd's letter has made me feel bound to dig rather deeper into what I dismissed, for the sake of brevity, in rather general terms in the earlier articles.

Call-change ringing in the bad old days was perhaps not so black as it was painted, but it was pretty murky all the same. Ellacombe may have been biased, but in so far as call-change ringing was identified with prize-ringing (which it probably was quite closely), there was grave need for reform. What, for all his diatribes, Ellacombe does not show very clearly is that the worst evil was not the ringing for money prizes; if it had been, as we shall see, things might have gone very differently later on. The worst evil was that the old ringing matches were generally arranged by or through the local publican, who would make a book on the result. This made the pub not merely the place towards which the ringers would drift but the second centre of interest in the proceedings, and sealed the link between tower and taproom which always worried the Church.

That Ellacombe at least saw change-ringing as the only answer is clear enough from his quoting, with full approval from a correspondent, 'All endeavours to improve the morality of the belfry must promote the improvement and diffusion of good change ringing.' He and others made great play with the word 'scientific'—so much so that it has stuck with the call-change ringers to this day. It was the raising of the Exercise to a pursuit of the mind, the elevation of intellect over brute force or manual skill, that they saw as the improving influence. Mr. Shepherd may have access to 'The Bell News,' June 22nd, 1889. In the account of the Winkleigh rededication he will find this feeling very strongly put in the speeches of Northcote and Pearson—remembering that this was a round-ringing tower.

To the Christian of the 1870's, the things of the mind were morally superior to those of the body, however odd that may seem to us today, and in all the writings of Ellacombe and his like there is a strong streak of call-consciousness and paternalism which gives them their very unmistakably Victorian tone. As we shall see, the Guild in its early days was strongly imbued with this feeling, and showed a condescension towards call-change ringers which is never so plain as when, in the rather florid accounts of outings from Exeter and elsewhere, the comments of the local ringers are recited in dialect for the sake of a laugh.

THE GUILD A PANACEA

The foundation of the Guild was hailed by Church authorities as the panacea for all belfry diseases. Under Bishop Bickersteth in particular the Guild was given a tremendous amount of support from high places, and few opportunities were missed of pushing its virtues. I have in an old scrap-book a very full set of cuttings from 'The Bell News' and from local papers recording openings of new and restored rings in Devon from 1884 onwards, and they follow a consistent pattern for some 20 years. The preacher is probably the Hon. and Rev. J. S. Northcote or the Rev. Maitland Kelly; the opening peal is often rung not by the local ringers (even when there is mention of a local band ringing later on) but by the Guild band from Exeter or Plymouth; there is a tea or supper afterwards at which somebody, perhaps the Bishop or an Archdeacon or perhaps the Vicar, expresses his thanks to the preacher and the Guild ringers for coming, and hopes that the local band will lose no time in joining the Guild and learning this noble science of change-ringing.

During this time—and it was some 30 years—the Guild's success in the second of its aims was spectacular. By bringing to the attention of the Diocese and the clergy the need and the possibility of belfry reform it brought about the final eradication of the old prize-ringing matches, which were very firmly put down by Bishop Bickersteth and the Archdeacons. The 1892 report prints a letter from the Bishop to the Rural Dean of Totnes on ringing matches couched in very strong terms indeed. Relations between change-ringing and call-change ringers appear to have remained good; the call-change ringers were clearly impressed with change-ringing, especially as demonstrated by Robinson, Washbrook, Coleridge and the Pistows on their tours. But against change-ringing itself the opposition seems to have been hardening. It was still being said that call-change ringing was doomed to go the way of the matches. An excerpt from 1885 reads, 'Although the progress towards perfection may be slow, yet we may hope it will be none the less sure that in the future our belfries will be irreplaceable, and the art of change-ringing universal.'

Perhaps of more importance than any resentment or innate conservatism, however, was the belief that change-ringing was not possible for a country band. However wrong-headed this belief may have been, it was certainly there; the first record known to me of any call-change association is a cutting from 'The Western Morning News' dated February, 1903, reporting a meeting at Kingsteignton which founded a Ringers' Festival in that area. Here the Kingsteignton captain said, 'The shifting of the population in the rural districts made change-ringing an impossibility, and so made membership of the Guild of Ringers beyond the reach of ringers in those districts.' This is contradicted, one might say, by the records of such villages as Benington in Herts, and Kelly and Huntsham in Devon. Yet I do not believe it to have been entirely untrue.

INFLUENCE OF THE SQUIRE

The shifting of the population was in the early 1900's very great indeed, and vast numbers left Devon for the Dominions at that time. There was only one class of men who could do anything to keep men in the villages, and that was the squires; and it may not be a coincidence that Benington had its Proctor, Kelly its Kelly and Huntsham its Troyte. Mr. Wilfred Boucher, a member of the Central Council, has told me that Maitland Kelly engaged his father as coachman from a large number of applicants when he heard he was a change-ringer; and it is sad to see how, at Huntsham, the band which Col. Troyte had brought to such a fine pitch numbered only two, three years after Troyte's death, and the following year vanished from the Guild reports. In the days when a big house would have a staff of eight or ten men, not counting those on the home farm if the squire farmed it, the squire could control quite a high proportion of the hired labour of the parish, which may explain why change-ringing flourished so well in a few villages and very little in others. A look through the Guild reports will show how the city bands continued for year after year but the villages had very variable fortunes; to take a random sample, of the 11 village bands in union in 1894, only three were still going 20 years later, and less than half if you count Withycombe Raleigh and Colyton, which are not strictly rural places. The call-change ringers in the little villages do not seem to have opposed change-ringing because they thought it bad but because they thought that for them at least there was no future in it.

I have already mentioned the Kingsteignton meeting of 1903. By this time the call-change ringers were striking out on their own. In 1887 the Guild had turned down a proposal to admit round-ringers to membership on the grounds that it would not be advisable 'to lower the standard of proficiency.' By 1900 the Report admitted that 'nothing as yet has been invented to take the place of the ringing-matches,' and expressed concern at its failure to supply the needs of all Devon ringers. But in fact something was moving on the call-change side, and that was the Deanery Festivals. These seem to have begun in the early 1890's, and at first they were not competition-ringing festivals; the Guild looked on them with favour, but took no action to encourage them so far as I know. They had some success, and although most of them later became competitions one of them—perhaps the first—remains in its original form—the Tamar Valley Guild of Ringers, which was founded in 1891.

PURGED OF PRIZE MONEY

In 1906 the call-change ringers were moving towards competitions again after the long period without them. They were this time competitions purged of money prizes and run under the auspices of the Church. But against them the Guild set its face. One cannot blame it; the worst evil of the old matches—the gambling—could so easily creep in again unknown, and the Guild commented, 'the system is open to grave abuse and is undesirable. The committee hope that encouragement will not be given by the clergy to this form of competition.' There had been a change of heart among the call-changers, in fact, for which the Guild did not give them credit. The abuses did not materialise, and the competitions flourished. But the Guild continued to oppose them, and it was a very long time before the Guild lifted its sentence of 'immediate expulsion' from members who took part in competitions.

This is the background of the relations between the new wine and the old bottles in Devon. On the one hand change-ringing, centred upon the towns (though not confined to them), encouraged by the clergy, at times almost enforced by the ecclesiastical authorities; on the other the call-change ringers, belonging to a people who do not like being told what is good for them, who are very conscious of being different from townspeople, who do not like being dictated to by the clergy but will side with their clergy against higher authority. If I said that the latter disliked the former, I should have been wrong; relations, as Mr. Shepherd says, were throughout surprisingly good and courteous. What was mistrusted, and still sometimes is, is change-ringing itself, and particularly when upheld as a superior tradition. Which explains why Mr. Shepherd can put on record the reminiscences for which I am most grateful, and why I at the same time can find in the records the storms and tensions which are now happily no more than history. Perhaps the Devon character comes best out of the story, keeping in individuals a high standard of charity in the hottest of ideological battle.

THE LADIES' GUILD

Central District

Benington is a most attractive Hertfordshire village, perhaps because it is a little further from Stevenage than the notice in the 'R.W.' would imply, but a large number of the ladies managed to find their way there. In fact the men were heavily outnumbered all the time on July 29th. Ringing began rather late, but everyone had plenty of ringing before the service began. The Rev. R. Ashley Longbotham conducted it, and Mrs. K. Lock played the organ.

After tea the 17 ladies banished the men and boys to the tower while the business meeting was held. There were no new members elected, and the place of the next meeting could not be decided, though it was agreed that it should be in the southerly or easterly area on September 30th. A report was given of the A.G.M. at Bedford, and early notice of jubilee dinner on October 27th, 1962. Some anxiety was expressed that the hotel could only accommodate 80 or 90 diners. Members were reminded of the joint meeting at Hillingdon on October 21st.

There being no further business the meeting closed and members returned to the tower for more ringing. J. S.

THIS WEEK'S OUTINGS PAGE

LYME REGIS, DORSET

Members of St. Michael's Guild, Lyme Regis, with their wives and families, started off at 6.30 a.m. on July 29th for the long trip to Oxford. Picking up friends en route, a stop was made at Frome for coffee. Then on to a point just short of Oxford, where a side road provided an ideal spot for our picnic lunch.

Arriving at All Saints', Oxford, the lightish eight were set going to rounds and methods up to Bristol rung. Then a short walk to St. Aldate's and a musical six, which were thoroughly enjoyed. Here Robin Pittman showed us the fine floral display gracing the quadrangle of his old college, nearby Pembroke.

Next we tackled the 12 at Christ Church Cathedral, and with the help of Walter Judge we acquitted ourselves very well with rounds, Stedman Caters and Cinques. Some hefty members were then detailed to pull up the heavy six at St. Mary-the-Virgin's, whilst the rest tested their skill on the very light eight at St. Ebbe's. A shuttle service between the two towers enabled all to ring at both before a well-earned tea at the Forum restaurant.

The highlight of the day's programme was the privilege of ringing on the ten bells in the fine tower of Magdalen College. Rounds, Grandsire and Stedman Caters were nicely rung in an all-too-short stay.

A pleasant homeward run in the evening sunlight through the Vale of the White Horse brought us to Wincanton and refreshments. After dropping off our friends, Lyme was reached about 11.30 p.m.

The co-operation of everyone in keeping to the organisers' time-table was a big factor in the day's successful outcome. Our thanks, through this medium, to the various incumbents, tower captains, the president of Magdalen College, Mrs. Massey of Frome, and Robin Pittman for his great help with arrangements in Oxford.

DARTFORD AND DISTRICT

Continuous rain spoilt the last outing of Dartford and District for non-ringers to Cambridge some six or seven years ago. This year's outing was there on June 10th; there was a clear sky and it was not too hot, and the only rain was at night.

The 20 ringers and a dozen non-ringers reached Trumpington ahead of schedule (the only occasion), and while waiting for the arrival of Mr. Bullman watched a Canadian visitor taking rubbings. This light eight gave some difficulty at first, but the bells were quickly mastered and pleasant ringing followed. Parking presented a difficulty at Cambridge and lunch was obtained behind time.

There was simultaneous ringing at both St. Andrew's and Great St. Mary's as we were joined by ringers from a choir outing. At the R.C. Church of Our Lady and the English Martyrs, Mr. Quinney was waiting for us. Although the time was short, owing to a wedding, the visit was amply rewarded (tenor 36 cwt.). Before starting for home there was a tea break at the Dorothy Café.

Still behind schedule, we arrived at Ickleton to be greeted by handbells. The Vicar (Rev. J. B. Hall) and three of his ringers were patiently awaiting us, and the eight bells (18 cwt.) were set going to Kent T.B. and Stedman. Trying to catch up with time, we abandoned Double Norwich in order to help the local band.

The last call was at Harlow in Essex, where Mr. Elliott told us that a peal had come round only half-an-hour or so before. The day's ringing concluded with some very good Major.

In spite of bad timekeeping and one or two 'jinxes,' all were agreed that another well-organised outing had taken place, with a good selection of towers and bells and ringing up to our usual standards. Thanks are due to clergy and to all those who so patiently waited for us at the various towers.

CHEW DEANERY

On July 29th, a party of a dozen ringers from the Chew Deanery of the Bath and Wells Association visited Gloucestershire for an enjoyable half-day tour.

After negotiating the A38 traffic jams without serious incident, we met at Gloucester Cathedral, where the ten bells were soon sounding out to Grandsire Caters over the city. Stedman seemed to have forsaken us, and the best touch here was three courses of Oxford Bob Triples.

On to Charlton Kings, where the octave goes well after the restoration. Bob Major and many Triples methods were enjoyed, Stedman having returned to us. The next tower was at Bishop's Cleeve, where we found a very pleasing octave but a little difficult to handle. A near-perfect course of Court Bob Triples was our speciality.

After feeding the inner man, our last tower was Tewkesbury Abbey. A fair rise of all 12 bells was accomplished; a couple of courses of Grandsire Cinques and a couple of touches of Grandsire Caters completed our ringing.

Thanks are due to Mr. Trevor Newberry for obtaining the use of the bells and arranging the route; also to those who met us and made us so welcome.

GRAPPENHALL BRANCH

Leicestershire was the objective of the annual outing of the Grappenhall Branch of the Chester Diocesan Guild on July 15th. The coach left Runcorn at 6.45 a.m., picking up friends at Frodsham, Weaverham, Great Budworth, Grappenhall and Northwich.

Before reaching the first tower, Whitwick, there was a short stop for light refreshments at Newcastle-under-Lyme. At Whitwick we had the pleasure of ringing a happy couple from the church after their wedding. The next tower was Anstey and here, with the help of some local ringers, a nice course of Cambridge Surprise was rung.

Lunch at Leicester Co-op, and then one hour to ourselves, which enabled the ladies to do some shop window gazing. A short run brought us to Syston, where our highlight was two good courses of Stedman. At Melton Mowbray, with its elegant central tower and beautiful church, some of the party rang their first touch on ten. Although we can't say we were good it was, at least, an experience to ring on this nice ten. Our last tower was Asfordby (a delightful six); here we enjoyed ourselves.

Methods rung were Cambridge Minor and Major, Plain Bob Minor, Major and Royal, Kent Minor, Major and Royal, Grandsire and Stedman Doubles and Triples.

Our thanks are due to all those kind and patient people who met us at the various towers, and also to our two organisers—Chris. Jones and Michael Thompson—whose first effort this was. A grand job, well done.

SOUTH WEST ESSEX

The 12 bells of Saffron Walden, Essex, are at present out of action (the appeal fund is still open for those who wish to contribute), and the annual Great Ringing Day, well over three centuries old, has had to be abandoned for this year at least. The popular coach outing, organised by the South West Division of the Essex Association in support of this event, had therefore to be diverted elsewhere, and the chosen venue was Oxfordshire, on June 24th.

The majority of ringers came from Leytonstone, Waltham Abbey and Walthamstow, each tower providing seven or eight. After the long initial run, the morning's ringing was confined to the eight at Bicester. Following lunch, the afternoon's ringing opened on the ten at Banbury's curious round sandstone tower, which appears to be gradually dissolving. Something for everybody, up to Cambridge Royal, was rung on these very enjoyable bells.

Bloxham's tuneful octave (22 cwt.), followed by a similar eight at Great Tew, completed the afternoon's activities. The setting of the latter church must surely be one of the most beautiful in the country, approached by a long private drive and surrounded on all sides by magnificent trees in a clearing, with no habitations visible.

After tea at an hotel near the gates of Blenheim Palace, ringing took place on the day's heaviest ring, at Kidlington. The final stop in the area for well-earned refreshments enabled those so inclined to disport themselves awhile on a grassy bank in the inn garden before the long journey home.

Once more, the success of the annual tour was due to Lionel Woods for going to so much trouble in covering the whole route by car beforehand. Thanks are also extended to those who allowed us to ring and who met us at the towers.

A DEVON GUILD OUTING

A small number of members of the Guild of Devonshire Ringers held a very enjoyable half-day amongst some of the Totnes Deanery towers on August 5th. Leaving Buckfastleigh soon after 2 o'clock, the first tower to be reached was Broadhempston, where the bells were found to go reasonably well despite the rather long draught of rope; ringing here was enjoyed.

The fine ring of six at Staverton, with a tenor of 21 cwt. in E flat, proved to be quite a tender. Nevertheless, good justice was done, and it is quite true to say that these bells would make a very fine octave with the addition of two more bells. The last call was at Dartington—the best bells of the afternoon.

Methods rung throughout the afternoon were Grandsire, Stedman, Plain Bob Doubles and Plain Bob Minor. The thanks of the party are due to the incumbents and steeplekeepers for having everything in readiness. This happy party then separated, the Abbey contingent returning to Buckfast and the remainder adjourning to a local hotel to enjoy an excellent tea.

A POT-POURRI FROM 'CHURCH BELLS'

New Bells and New Clock, St. Peter's, Higham-on-the-Hill, Leicestershire.—Opened on Tues., Sept. 2nd, 1873. Five bells—2nd, 3rd and 4th the old ones; new treble and tenor by James Barwell, of Birmingham.

West Tanfield.—A peal of 6 bells is about to be [i.e., to Sept., 1873] added to this church. The late Rector, Rev. J. Hall, M.A., left £200 for this purpose, and the deficiency will be supplied by his brother, W. R. Hall, Esq., of Newbury, Berks. The work is entrusted to Mr. J. Mallaby of Masham . . .

Rev. H. T. Ellacombe contributes a letter: . . . it is a continued source of profit to the bell-founder. I believe the mischief is often caused by boys . . . they will often try how heavy a blow they can give by swinging the clapper beyond all reason and then pulling it with all their might . . . in that way the clapper strikes a severer blow than it does in the case of legitimate tolling or ringing when the bell is in full swing . . . It may interest your readers to know, what perhaps some will be surprised to hear, that all the carillon bells in Belgium are clocked, from the smallest to the largest. I have lately [i.e., to Sept. 27th, 1873] visited nearly all the towers there which possess carillons: all the bells are rigidly fixed, and for the keyboard the clapper of each bell is connected by a wire fastened to the flight of the clapper; and so closely are they adjusted that I could not put my little finger between the clapper and the side of the largest bell of the carillon at Antwerp—Gabriel—which is 6' 4" in diameter. So that the distance through which the clapper passes is so small, and the blow so gentle, that no damage can be done: it is just the same with all the other bells.

'But there is another source of mischief connected with "clocking" by the ringing-rope—that the clapper is pulled all athwart, and the rope gets chafed over the sides of the ground truck which thereby gets worn, and the clapper-bearings get loose and injured; therefore my advice is to inhibit "clocking" altogether.'

Ilkley Parish Church.—Sun., Sept. 7th, 1873. The morning and evening offertories were devoted to the cost of augmentation and renovation of the bells, £100 of the £330 needed still being required.

'Before the services the present six bells were heard for the last time. . . . A Farewell Echo-peal was rung at the close of the evening service. (The Echo-peal is ringing whole-pull changes with back-stroke muffled as recommended by Mr. Troyte. We agree with him entirely on the solemnity and striking effect of it.)'

'Change-ringing at St. Giles and St. George, Camberwell.—We are requested to state that the ringers who perform on hand-bells on Sunday evenings at a public-house in Camberwell are not the ringers of the above churches, who have, we are pleased to hear, always strictly abstained from playing hand-bells on Sundays.'

WHETSTONE BELLS

Messrs. John Taylor and Co. have completed their work on Whetstone, Leicestershire, bells and they were rung again on July 23rd. All the bells have been fitted with new turned steel gudgeons and totally enclosed ball bearing rollers. The ringers have cleaned and painted the frame.

A garden fête, opened by Mr. Ernest Morris, was one of the money raising efforts to meet the cost. The total sum raised was £292 15s. 11d., and included 15 guineas from the Leicester Diocesan Guild. This was sufficient to meet the cost of the work undertaken.

Of the six bells at Whetstone, the oldest is the fifth, which, writes Mr. Morris in the parish magazine, has this inscription:—

'IHS: NAZARENVS = REX: IVDEORVM
= FILI: DEI = MISERERE: MEI 1623'

Translated this is: 'Jesus of Nazareth; King of the Jews; O Son of God; have mercy on me.' No. 4 has the same inscription but is dated 1640, and both were cast by the famous Leicester bell founder, Hugh Watts, whose foundry was in St. Margaret's parish and who was churchwarden there in 1615. He was Mayor of Leicester in 1633, in which year King Charles I visited the city and Hugh Watts entertained him.

The tenor bell was cast by T. Mears, of London, in 1824, and the 3rd was by the same founder in 1834. Neither are inscribed beyond the founder's name.

These four bells remained until 1913, when two trebles were added from the Taylor foundry, of Loughborough. They are inscribed:—

'In Memory of George Buxton
Sarah his wife and family presented by Joseph Buxton surviving son

THE FLIGHT TO BERLIN

All week long, the haunting sound of great bells rang across the divided city of Berlin. At 3.30 pm. on a Wednesday, the smallest bell of the brand-new chime in the tower of Gedächtnis Kirche, on the Kurfürstendamm, began to peal at three-second intervals. A second bell joined in, then a third, a fourth and a fifth.

From the 350-year-old Nicolai Church in Spandau, and from the newly-built Kirche am Lietzensee in Charlottenberg, every one of the 400 Protestant churches in West Berlin joined in the chiming. And then from the East, other bells took up the refrain.

Despite the disapproval of the Communist authorities, the bellringers of East Berlin rang out their jubilant responses. Starting at 5.30 p.m., the bells of Marienkirche began chiming over Karl Marx Platz in such a joyous cacophony that the East German functionaries in the 'Red Town Hall' could hardly hear themselves talk.

The message of the bells in Berlin was to tell the world last week that divided Germany is still one nation. The Evangelical Churches of Germany were celebrating their tenth annual Kirchentag (Church Day).

OBITUARY

MR. JOHN SMART

The death has occurred at Horsham, Sussex, of Mr. John Smart, after a short illness, at the age of 90.

Mr. Smart, a blacksmith, was a well known ringer at Huntingdon for many years, and was a member of the Ely Diocesan Association. In the late 1920's and early 30's he rang regularly at All Saints', Hartford, near Huntingdon, where he taught the local band, and in 1932 called a peal of Plain Bob Minor, which was a first peal for all the band except himself, and is probably the only peal ever to have been rung on the bells.

He had been living at Horsham since 1944.

COMPETITION RINGING IN THE HINCKLEY DISTRICT

THE younger element of the District met with considerable opposition when first they broached the subject of competition ringing. Why shouldn't we pursue our art in this way? they inquired of their elders, tactfully pointing out that their ideas were not without precedent elsewhere. The District had long been noted for its progressive approach to matters of this kind, and had established many innovations within the Guild. But to the more conservative amongst the elder members this was a slightly different matter. The dignity of the Church must be preserved, they reasoned, and what went on elsewhere was no concern of theirs. Nevertheless, the youngsters were not to be easily deterred from their objective, and with the assiduity of youth they won their case.

Having once come to a mutual understanding as to the desirability of such a project, the two rival factions joined forces in the best traditions of the Guild, and before long the necessary rules and regulations were drawn up to assist them in putting their ideas into practice. Suitable judges were appointed, and a challenge shield—given by one of the members—was to be presented to the successful contestants.

Thurlaston village is a quiet and lovely place, set deep in the heart of Leicestershire, and it was here, to the parish church of All Saints, that the District members came one Saturday afternoon three years ago to hold their competition, and to fill the village streets with a music known and loved by Englishmen for centuries.

One after the other, the six teams climbed the narrow spiral staircase to the ringing room, there to issue forth their challenge to a hundred practised and critical ears below. A belfry can be a lonely place indeed on an occasion such as this, and more than one team's hopes were dashed that afternoon by the nervousness of one or more of its members. But a team of older gentlemen from nearby Earl Shilton were not to be put off, and with uncanny precision they won their way to victory.

One can well imagine the shrill voice of a choirboy ringer, calling across the vestry to his Rector the following morning, as he struggled into his surplice three minutes after service time: 'We were second in the striking competition, sir!' And the Rector, more concerned with the announcement of the first hymn, made some meaningless remark, quite unaware of the nature of competition ringing.

The eight bells of St. Mary's, Barwell, were chosen the following year, for it had now become an annual event. Due to the somewhat distant location of the nearest public house, the judges had to be content with carrying out their unenviable task from the privacy of a closed car, parked somewhere in a field. For every official judge there were, of course, many more, all self-appointed, judiciously marking down the faults from well-chosen vantage points.

The ringing was of a slightly higher standard than the previous year; the teams perhaps benefited from their earlier experience. It was therefore quite unexpected when a team from All Saints', Sapcote, composed mainly of young girls, carried off the shield after a performance that was by far the finest of the afternoon.

Stoney Stanton were again adjudged runners-up, and the Rector was no doubt later informed of this triumph by the same small boy. Perhaps this long-suffering clergyman, having taken pains to enlighten himself on the subject, replied with the remark "Well done! Try striking a little harder next year."

And so the competition has come and gone again for the third successive year. This time the eight bells of St. Catherine's, Burbage, provided the competitors with plenty of opportunity to prove their capabilities. The event is now an established part of the Hinckley District calendar, and is a worthy monument to those young enthusiasts who fought so hard to establish it. Furthermore, they have had the good fortune to see their efforts copied elsewhere in the Guild. This year, the original champions, Earl Shilton, were successful for the second time. And Stoney Stanton?—well, they took second place again. Doubtless the Rector will hear all about it in the morning.

GUILD of DEVONSHIRE RINGERS

Mid-Devon Branch

The summer quarterly meeting of the Mid-Devon Branch was held at Manaton, high up on Dartmoor, on July 22nd. Relays of ringers kept the six bells ringing all the afternoon, whilst those waiting and resting lounged on the banks of the lovely churchyard. The service was conducted by the Rector, the Rev. C. E. G. Green, who gave an address of welcome. Such was the importance of the occasion that the lady organist closed the village shop in order to play for the service.

The meeting was conducted by the Branch chairman, Mrs. Hood, the company first standing in silence in memory of the late president of the Devon Guild, Preb. E. V. Cox.

The secretary outlined the arrangements for the joint meeting with the South Devon Association to be held at Brixham on September 2nd, and the meeting empowered him and the Ringing Master, Mr. W. Simmonds, to invite 25 members of the Guild to that meeting. The call change ringers would invite 25 of their ringers.

New members elected were Rev. J. H. Nicholson (Vicar of Tor), Phyllis Kellond, Frank White, Mary Bushby, Pamela Pell, Jacqueline Rudd Dr. Gent and Keith Burton.

The next meeting would be held at Buckfast Abbey on Saturday, September 23rd, at 2 p.m. Guild certificates were presented to Rev. B. Prior, Rev. H. Williams and Rev. R. Rotter, all of Buckfast Abbey.

Further ringing was enjoyed at Ilstington.

Miss J. Elaine Dixon, of Abingdon, called her first quarter peal at Radley, Berks, on August 13th. The quarter had an added interest to her as it was her mother's first quarter peal. Are there any other cases on record of a daughter calling her mother's first quarter peal?

Six Browns took part in a quarter peal at Hale Magna, Lincs, on August 11th. They're still marching on.

We are informed that Mr. Frank E. Darby is the first to complete peals of Superlative from Minor to Maximus. The Minor came last—at Addington on August 5th.

At the request of the authorities the 12 bells of St. Paul's Cathedral, Melbourne, were rung to Whittington chimed as the Lord Mayor of London drove through the Australian city.

Will the acting secretary of the University Training College Guild please send his name and full address to the editor if he wants a reply to his letter before the new term starts.

Miss J. E. Armstrong, of 21, Duncan Gardens, Morpeth, is compiling a list of places where the curfew is now rung. Will any readers who can help please communicate.

The conductor of the handbell peal at Crayford on August 12th would like to thank Mr. and Mrs. F. I. Hairs for their help and encouragement during recent months at handbell practices at Groombridge.

Correction.—The peal of Stedman Triples rung at the Bell Foundry, Loughborough, on July 24th (see page 520), was rung for the Midland Counties Guild and not the Leicester Diocesan Guild as published.

The quarter peal at Elmley Lovett, Worcs, was rung after numerous attempts to make the bells pealable. The band had hoped to ring a full peal to mark the Vicar's 25th year at Elmley and Hampton Lovett, but the bells went so badly that the quarter peal was really well-earned, and a peal would seem to be impossible. [Challenge to A. P. C.?

BELFRY GOSSIP

Newcastle Parish Church, Staffs, is undergoing a difficult time regarding ringers. According to 'The Evening Sentinel' unless more ringers can be found the bells will no longer ring out. If the bells are silenced it will be for the first time (except during the war) in their long history, which dates back to the 18th century.

Will anyone who possesses a Central Council Collection of Minor Methods, 1907, please communicate with the editor.

With reference to the peal at Hutton, Essex (page 536), the conductor offers his apologies to the ringers of 2 and 4. Their surnames should read Tiffin.

Recent visitor to 'The Ringing World' office was Mr. Victor Shepherd, formerly of Cape Town. He tells us that he hopes to make his home permanently in this country.

A correspondent informs us that Mrs. S. Kathleen M. Baldwin was actually taught to ring by Mr. A. C. Hazelden at St. Nicolas' Church, Guildford. She, however, made very much more progress when she got into Portsmouth ringing circles.

The problem of keeping track of these married girls is at times difficult. The conductor of the University of London Society's peal of Bourne Surprise Major at Brentford (see page 535), sends his apologies to Marilyn M. Barton (née March).

Two quarter peals were rung to the memory of the 34 boys and two masters from Lanfranc School, Croydon, who died in the air disaster on August 9th—at St. John-the-Baptist Church, Croydon, and at Christ Church, St. Leonards-on-Sea.

An amusing drawing appeared recently in 'The East Anglian Daily Times' in an advertisement for motor cars. It was headed 'Who wants to be a campanologist?' The illustration was of three monks ringing and one, as the text says, 'having a tremendous lift in life.' It seems apparent that the artist has never been inside a ringing chamber.

PEAL RINGING WEEK-END IN DERBYSHIRE

Late on Friday evening (August 4th) six weary ringers arrived at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. A. G. Grime at Breadsall, four having travelled from Bristol and the other two from Birmingham. After enjoying Mrs. Grime's excellent cooking we retired, looking forward to Saturday's peal attempts.

Our programme showed Lincolnshire at West Hallam on Saturday at 10 a.m. Much to our disappointment, the expected reinforcements from Derby did not arrive, and after pulling the bells up and waiting for an hour we gave up all hopes of attempting a peal and adjourned to the local inn where a very enjoyable hour was spent at the billiard table. After lunch we were joined by Jafus and Bunley Morris at Crich, where London was attempted; but fate was against us. The conductor decided to 'call it a day,' after an hour's indifferent ringing on the rather odd struck eight. Compensation, to some extent, for this failure was provided by Burley, who arranged for us to ring at Brassington and Bradbourne, two very pleasant sixes, and then on the eight at Ashbourne, which are rung from the chancel steps. Here we were met by Joe Woolley and Harold Sherrat, and later at Derby Station by Dick Bowden.

On Sunday morning, after the chores of washing and wiping dishes and exercising the dog had been completed we went into Derby to ring for morning service at St. Alkmund's. In the afternoon the band was strengthened by Ralph Edwards and Ron Bullen and we scored our first success—a peal of Yorkshire on the fine eight at Ilkeston, conducted by John Gilbert. The band would like to offer this peal as a compliment to Ted Gobey on his 84th birthday, which was to take place during the week.

At Darley Dale on Monday morning a slight change was made in the plans. We were to have rung Rutland, but decided to try the London again. This time we were rewarded with a good peal. Jafus was in his usual high spirits—he offered to sell us the Darley Dale yew tree!

Halesowen was reached about an hour later than intended, due mainly to Bank Holiday traffic, and the navigator getting lost. When we arrived, however, George Fearn, Ralph Edwards and Pat Chapman were still there and a good peal of four Spliced was rung, expertly conducted by Peter Border. This proved to be a very satisfactory finale to an enjoyable week-end, and our sincere thanks are due to the Rev. and Mrs. A. G. Grime, who made us so welcome at Breadsall, and also to Lis Bowden, for going to the trouble of arranging the programme for us.

BEVERLEY AND DISTRICT SOCIETY

For the first time since May, 1952, the historic Church of All Saints, Burstwick, was the venue of the Society's monthly meeting on August 12th. Favoured by a gloriously sunny day, sandwiched between two days of heavy rain, 35 members from 12 different towers, together with a visitor from the Oxford Diocesan Guild, were present to renew acquaintance with the Vicar, Rev. E. E. C. Hollis, who had made many bellingringing friends whilst at Priory Church, Bridlington, before moving to Burstwick in January this year.

The Vicar warmly welcomed the Society in opening his address during the short service and expressed the hope that the meeting would arouse interest in the village and lead to the formation of a team of ringers. An excellent tea was served in the Institute by Mrs. Hollis and a small band of helpers, and was thoroughly enjoyed. At the business meeting which followed, two new members were elected, Miss P. Teal and Miss P. Collinson, both of Walkington.

The day's ringing on the easy going six ranged from rounds to the selected methods for the day, St. Clement's, Beverley and Surfleet, the latter two methods also being spliced with Cambridge. The success of this meeting suggests that the Society's next visit to Burstwick will not be delayed for a further nine years.

PERSONALITIES OF THE EXERCISE - 34

MR. W. ERIC CRITCHLEY,
Yorkshire Association.

Those ringers who master Spliced Surprise—and these days they are many—must realise that they are faced with a very difficult task, more especially if they are conductors, if they want to increase the existing record of 53 methods rung at Conisborough, Yorks, on June 24th, 1955. The methods were changed every lead, and the composer and conductor of this extraordinary feat of memory and concentration, called from a working bell, was Mr. W. Eric Critchley, of Doncaster, Yorks.

Eric was born on July 10th, 1923, at Askern, Doncaster, and was educated at Doncaster Grammar School, and later at Doncaster Technical College. He commenced work as an analytical chemist with the old L.N.E.R., but left in 1948 to become a teacher of chemistry at Mexborough Secondary Technical School. He is now head of the department of science and mathematics at Cantley, Doncaster.

Eric's first introduction to ringing was in 1938 at Campsall, where a new ring of eight had just been installed. He was taught to handle a bell by Herbert Bradley, and started ringing call changes, eventually calling the first lead of Grandsire Triples row by row. Later he used to cycle to the bi-weekly practice at Arksey, under the benign leadership of George Clark, and, for the first three months or so, was only allowed to ring the treble to Grandsire Triples. He also used to attend practice nights at Pontefract and Barnby Don, but soon after all ringing ceased at the onset of the war. When ringing was resumed, Eric was living just outside the boundaries of Doncaster, and so joined the band at St. George's. When he first went there the ringing was confined mainly to Stedman Triples (known locally as 'Doncaster Surprise'), but within a few years, assisted by an influx of youth, they rang twelve quarter peals in twelve different methods with a local band for Sunday service.

His first peal was in three Minor methods rung at Barnby Don on May 19th, 1945, and he conducted his third peal—Grandsire Doubles—at Bentley, Doncaster, on July 11th, 1945. In those years just after the war, Eric, in company with Frank Reed and Ernie Padgett, went ringing everywhere, and thought about nothing but arranging peals! One of his friends, however, was sometimes unreliable! On one occasion this friend was cycling to Howden for a peal, but when nearly there he changed his mind, and carried on to Hull, another 30 miles further on, to a meeting! They got a local man to ring the tenor for Grandsire Triples, but he was so slow that after ringing 3½ hours they still had over a part of Parker's Twelve-Part to get through, so Eric set them up!

Late in 1946, Eric made the acquaintance of that well known conductor, J. Edward Cawser, who invited him to ring the treble for a peal of Yorkshire at Howden. This was the beginning of a long friendship, and of a sound training in both good striking and Surprise ringing. During this year Eric made his first venture into composing, and conducted his own composition of Bob Major at Conisborough on November 9th, 1946. He was taken on the Cheshire ringers' tours in the next few years, and it was on one of these, in 1949, that he was introduced to Spliced Surprise, being A. J. Pitman's famous four with 'all the work,' conducted by C. Kenneth Lewis. His first peal of Spliced Surprise as conductor was at Conisborough on December 29th, 1951, his 200th peal, and the following week he conducted one of his own compositions in six methods at Thorne.

Another good friend of Eric's was J. Frederick Milner, of Southwell, Notts, a man who, by his kindness and hospitality, has endeared himself to many over a wide area. Fred made many long journeys to ring in Yorkshire, and took part regularly in the multi-Spliced peals. Eric was keenly interested in this fascinating branch of the art, and 1954-55 was a great time for his peal band. The Lincolnshire men had just rung 32 methods—Eric's own composition—but two weeks later, on March 5th, 1954, he composed and conducted 36 methods at Hands-worth, Sheffield, and within the next year his band had rung 42, 48 and finally the record of 53, all composed and conducted by himself.

In 1950 Eric had taken up handbell ringing with the Jackson family, of Hatfield, Yorks, and they had rung many peals of Bob Major. Later on, in company with Wilfrid F. Moreton and Howard Scott, he began practising Spliced Minor on handbells, and under the expert guidance of Wilfrid Moreton the number of methods in their handbell peals shot up at a most alarming rate! Five months after the 53 Spliced Surprise Major, they broke the record for Spliced Minor by ringing 109 methods in seven extents.

Eric's present peal total is now 539, of which he has conducted 223, and in addition to his many peals of Spliced Surprise he recalls with pleasure a peal of Cambridge Maximus at St. Patrick's, Dublin, and also the first attempt for the 40,320 Bob Major, which he organised at Loughborough in November, 1954. His favourite peals have been those composed by A. J. Pitman in 'all the work,' for four to nine methods, and he has conducted his four methods from all positions, including the treble, and was also a member of the band which rang it 'silent' at Dore, Derbyshire, on June 5th, 1959.

For a few years from 1947, Eric was secretary of the Doncaster and District Society, and is ringing captain of St. George's, Doncaster. He has been peal secretary of the Yorkshire Association since 1950, and is a representative on the Central Council, where he is convener of the Peals Collection Committee. He has also derived a lot of pleasure from composing, and has supplied compositions for many new methods for the collection of all the right-place Surprise Major methods, which he has compiled with Shirley Burton.

Eric is a man who has applied his mathematical training to the problems of composing and ringing the harder Surprise methods. His success has been achieved through the loyalty of a very clever peal band, who have set themselves a very high standard. In his Sunday service band, too, he has created enthusiasm, and helped them to get the maximum amount of interest and pleasure. The combination of these two facets of a brilliant ringing career might well be emulated by others.

EAST RIDING RINGERS' SUMMER TOUR IN LINCOLNSHIRE

EARLY on Saturday, July 29th, 17 ringers set sail from Hull on the start of their eight day cycling tour of Lincolnshire and the adjoining counties. On the way to Lincoln the bells of Elsham (6) went well to Plain Bob and Kent, but the less experienced members of the party had difficulty with the long ropes at Kirlton-in-Lindsey. Ermine Street gave us a fine view of the Cathedral on the last few miles before entering Lincoln. Here the light six at St. Peter-at-Gowts' contrasted with the heavier tuneful eight at St. Giles', where the ringing chamber has two entrances with separate stairways. After over fifty miles of cycling the party retired to Lincoln Youth Hostel for the night.

On the Sunday a pleasant ride along the Lincoln Ridge brought us to Harmston, where we rang for Matins and after the service the Vicar invited us to have our packed lunches in the grounds of the Vicarage. The rope circle at Ruckington (6) was really a rectangle and the striking in a touch of Cambridge was good despite two bells being odd struck. Heydour bells, famous for the record length of London Major rung on them, sounded well to touches of Stedman and Grandsire. The ride to Grantham Youth Hostel was hurried in order to be in time for supper. After supper the ringing of a plain course of Plain Bob Major on handbells in the Nag's Head had a mixed reception!

Monday's itinerary was a tour of towers in the Grantham area, beginning with the magnificent ten at St. Wulfram's in Grantham itself. During the cease of the back eight the bell chamber door was opened to give the full effect of the 'cease hum.' At Hough-on-the-Hill the ringing was interrupted by a visit from the village policeman to see what was going on. The fine heavy six at Brant Broughton were much enjoyed by all the party, and on the return route to Grantham, Fulbeck (6) and Caythorpe (8) were visited.

BLACKSMITH REHUNG BELLS

Time was cut short at Denton, the first tower on Tuesday, due to difficulty in locating the key. Here the local blacksmith has rehung the bells, probably accounting for their 'rough go.' Our first tower in Leicestershire was Waltham-on-the-Wolds, followed by the fine ten at Melton Mowbray. Ashby Folville bells were rung well although the treble had no stay. The hostel at Loddington was the best encountered on the tour and after supper some of the band visited Belton (6) and later joined with a local ringer for a pint in 'The Rising Sun.' One cyclist escaped injuries when he went straight on at a 'T' junction, returning to the hostel after dark.

The ride to Edith Weston in Rutland, the first tower on Wednesday, was by farm tracks and a ridge road giving a splendid view of the smallest county in England. Preston (5) was then visited, permission to ring being kindly given at short notice. The visit was well worth while to this, the tidiest village in Rutland. Uppingham (8), Glaston (6) and Seaton (5) were visited on the way to King's Cliffe. Here the Rector said that a high standard of striking was expected as the sound of these bells was much loved by the villagers. On commencing to raise in peal it was realised that no sound proofing separated the bells and ringing chamber. A ride across the village brought us to the hostel for Wednesday night.

Thursday was the turning point on the tour, when the A.1 took us part of the way to Deeping St. James (6) and Market Deeping (6). Two local ringers joined the band at Bourne (6). Thurlby (5) and Edenham (8) were on the route back to Grantham for the third night there.

WORRIED BY DARK CLOUDS

Half the cyclists took the train to Sleaford on the Friday morning, having been worried by the ominous dark clouds. Those who cycled enjoyed the warm sun, which eventually appeared. During the ringing of the bells at Sleaford (8), Tattershall (6), Coningsby (6) and Horncastle (6), some of the group scouted around for food for the evening meal at Woody's Top Youth Hostel high up on the Lincolnshire weids. This hostel, a converted barn, has no gas, electricity, or water laid on, primus stoves being used for cooking. With the help of the lady members of the party an excellent meal was had by all.

Saturday morning saw the tour breaking up, some of the less hardy cyclists taking fright at the heavy rain and catching the train home from Louth. The heavy eight here were not mastered, although a good touch of Plain Bob was rung on the back six. With only eight members of the party left, Caistor (6), Ulceby (6) and Barrow (8) were visited on the return to New Holland and the ferry for Hull. The strains of Grandsire Doubles drifted across the river from Holy Trinity, and so the eight remaining ringers paid a short visit: a plain hunt on twelve only just came round!

Methods rung on the tour included Cambridge, Beverley, Kent, Oxford and Fulbeck (at Fulbeck); and ringing ranged from rounds to Little Bob Royal and Stedman Caters. Thirty-six towers were visited, and only five members of the party visited every tower and cycled all the 340 miles. It was a busy tour, but enjoyed by all, thanks to the good organisation by I.G. We should like to express our thanks to the incumbents and ringers of the towers which we visited for their co-operation and for allowing us the use of their bells.

Towers represented were Cottingham, Beverley Minster, Hessle, Kirk Ella, Sutton, Walkington and York Minster.

BELLS SOLD TO PULL DOWN TOWER

In our '50 Years Ago' reference on page 541 the case of Shalfleet was quoted, where the bells were sold to build a steeple. A correspondent writes, giving a similar case from Cornwall:

'Mevagissey Church has no tower or bells because the tower was pulled down, the money being found from the sale of the bells.

'The old name of Mevagissey was Porthilly, hence the rhyme:—

"Ye men of Porthilly,
Why were ye so silly,
In having so little a power?
Ye sold every bell,
As Gorran men tell,
For money to pull down your tower."'

SHORT COURSE CATERS

Dear Sir.—I send copy for a short course of Caters, giving plenty of movement in and out, also a composition having the back bells kept in musical position. I think this principle quite as good as Erin and possibly may be of interest to ringers of Caters.—Yours faithfully,

A. J. PITMAN.

A 'CRAMP PEAL'

Dear Sir.—A plated copper cup, about 8 inches high, such as presented to contest winners, has recently come into my possession. The cup appears at least 50 years old and was dirt encrusted and pitted, but cleaning and polishing has much improved the appearance and revealed the inscription, 'This cup for the best cramp peal.'

Should any of your readers know what a 'cramp peal' is or be able to throw any light on the origin of this relic, I would be pleased to hear from them.—Yours faithfully,

MAYOR'S DAY PEAL AT MORPETH

Dear Sir.—I really cannot let Miss Armstrong get away with describing the Mayor's Day peal at Morpeth on May 25th as a 'tower grab' or, indeed, as a quarter peal! The peal was rung at my instigation as a genuine and sincere compliment to one who has been a civic leader in Morpeth for 50 years.

Written permission to ring was granted by the Town Council, the band was composed of ringers who have enjoyed the occasional use of the bells for many years past, and I have in my possession a letter of thanks and appreciation from Alderman Sanderson, to whom a peal card was sent.—Yours faithfully,
NICHOLAS I. WRIGHT.

Morpeth, Northumberland.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH, PETERBOROUGH

Dear Sir.—In your article 'Reflections on St. John's Church, Peterborough,' it is stated that the bells of Peterborough Cathedral have only been rung once since 1899 and that for a wedding.

To my knowledge they have been rung twice, on Armistice Day, November 11th, 1918, and at one meeting of the old Peterborough Guild, the date of which I cannot remember. Mr. F. Dainty, who was a gardener to the Dean, obtained the necessary permission. The late Mrs. H. J. Poole, then Miss Phyllis Hare, and I had the pleasure(?) of ringing on both occasions.—Yours, etc.,
Surfleet. A. RICHARDSON.

50 Years Ago

'R.W.' August 25th, 1911.—
Another lady has joined the circle of conductors, Miss Lilian Wilson having scored her first success in this direction, by calling a peal of Kent Treble Bob Major at South Wigston. Two of the few peals rung last Saturday were conducted by ladies, Miss Parker having called a peal of New Cambridge, which was her father's 250th peal.

Hearty congratulations to Miss Elsie Bennett, upon having rung her first peal. After several disappointments, success was achieved on Tuesday evening, the peal being rung on handbells at her parents' residence at New Cross, S.E. Miss Bennett has the distinction of being the youngest lady to take part in a peal, and her father, Mr. Frank Bennett, must, indeed, be proud of his daughter.

A hundred and twenty years ago next Tuesday, 5.376 'Cambridge Surprise 8-in' the first in the North of England, was rung at Keighley. The ring of ten bells, which replaced the original twelve at York Minster, was opened on August 19th, 1765.

MANCHESTER UNIVERSITY GUILD IN YORKSHIRE

EXAMS over for all but one of us, a four day tour of Yorkshire was the ideal way of forgetting the worries of student life.

We left Manchester on June 16th and journeyed to Skipdon, our first tower, stopping on the way to pick up John Pilkington. The market in this pleasant town supplied the provisions for lunch, which was eaten near the very picturesque ruins of Bolton Abbey. The sheep in the nearby field were in fine voice, to the great amusement of the Master of the Guild.

After lunch came Ilkley, the home of some famous ringers, followed by Collingham's light eight, which ran away with us. Acomb, on the outskirts of York, has a six which could be improved by putting a layer of insulation between the bells and the ringing room. We then went in search of a meal and sustenance for the night and met the remainder of the party.

Saturday's ringing started at Selby Abbey. Next, to Kirk Ella, where the red carpet was laid out, not to welcome us, but in readiness for a wedding. The afternoon's ringing started at Holy Trinity, Hull, where the Wilberforce ring was not rung at all well.

After a conducted tour of the twisting streets in the industrial section of the city, we arrived on the road to Beverley. On the superb ten at the Minster two very good courses of Grandsire and Stedman were brought round, regarded as the best ringing of the week-end. After ringing, we were taken to see the bourdon bell, Great John, and to hear it ring out in all its majesty. Then we went to the other end of the town, to St. Mary's bells, a very fine ten, on which courses of Grandsire and Stedman were rung. These towers brought the day's ringing to an end. We then went to Bridlington, where the party went in search of food and drink. It was soon after the meal and before the drink that members of the Guild witnessed the phenomenon observed on a previous tour in Scotland, i.e., Wandering Lamppost!

Sunday's ringing started at Bridlington Priory, where we joined the local band for morning service ringing. Sufficient time was allowed to play a game of beach cricket before ringing at Whitby Parish Church, where Grandsire and Stedman were successfully rung but Bristol came suddenly to grief. The last tower of the day was Fylingdale, where a pleasant eight hangs in a tower that sways considerably. The ringing here was for evening service, which members of the Guild attended.

Monday morning was bright and clear, so two members decided to go for a swim; however, only one swam—the other got cold feet! Pickering, the first tower, was reached after a very hilly journey across the moor. Here, a visitor to the church was surprised to see people ringing the bells and not a mechanism! At Helmsley we were rejoined by Brian and his grandfather, Arthur Tomlinson; however, the bells were not of good tone. The very pleasant six at Wath were heard at their best from the sunny churchyard. The final tower of the tour was Ripon Cathedral, where the effect of a hectic week-end's ringing took its toll and the Queens at the end of the fall was poor.

Although the striking was not all it might have been, this was a successful and very enjoyable tour and we are grateful to David James, who organised everything so well, and to everyone who made us so welcome.

CURIOUS SUBSTITUTES FOR BELLS

By ERNEST MORRIS

TO us in England, the pealing of our church bells has become, through centuries of usage, a national institution. Handel is reported to have declared that the 'bell' is the Englishman's national musical instrument, and for ages England has been called the 'Ringing Isle.' This is not only from the number of our church bells, but also from the peculiar way of 'ringing the changes' in methods unknown in other countries. Therefore, it would seem out of place for us to use any other substitute for church bells, but in other lands we find interesting customs.

Among the Jews, it will be remembered, although small bells were known, solemn assemblies were always summoned by a blast on a silver trumpet. Thus ran the Divine Command: 'Make thee two trumpets of silver, of a whole piece thou shalt make them: that thou mayest use them for the calling of the assembly, and for the journeying of the camps.' (Numbers x, 2.) In a later verse in the same chapter we read: 'In the day of your gladness, and in your solemn days, and in the beginnings of your months, ye shall blow with the trumpets over your burnt offerings, and over the sacrifices of your peace offerings.' The Ark of the Lord was brought up to Jerusalem amid the sound of trumpets, and in a similar way the fall of Jericho was celebrated: and so, in a word, the Jews were as familiar with the blare of the clarions as we are of bells.

Huc, the Lazarist priest, who travelled Mongolia in 1844, found the same means employed for summoning the worshippers of Tibet. Thus is described the call of the assembly: 'When the hour for prayer is come, a Lama, whose office it is to summon the priests of the Convent, proceeds to the great gate of the Temple, and blows as loud as he can on a sea conch, successively towards the four cardinal points: upon hearing this powerful instrument, audible for a league around, the Lamas put on the mantle and cap of ceremony and assemble in the great inner court. When the time is come, the sea conch sounds again, the great gate is opened, and the living Fô enters the Temple.'

STONES AS SUBSTITUTES

In Hawaii conch shells are blown to call people to church. At Willoughton and Thorney, in this country, are preserved two trumpets, which were said to have served at one time for calling the people together. Stones, suspended in frames, are used in Abyssinia as church bells, while in some South African mission churches a piece of old railway line is suspended from a nearby tree, serving the same purpose. During the last war the troops in some camps were called to divine service by sounding suspended empty shell cases in a similar fashion. In one Welsh village an outside triangle (similar to those used in orchestral music) is beaten loudly at service times in lieu of the church bell.

Symandra, a long piece of wood pierced with holes and struck with a mallet while suspended on a cord, was used in ancient times, and is still used in some ancient monasteries in Greece and the East. A few of these 'Symandra' may still be encountered in mediæval churches, notably in Spain, where they are sounded during the three days of the Passion in Holy Week, when it is not permitted to ring the large church bells. Such an instance is described by St. Francis Xavier who, when alluding to the custom he found at Socotra, says: 'They use no bells, but wooden rattles, such as we used during Holy Week, to serve to call people together.'

WOODEN CLACK

In some places, as in Mexico, the people carry wooden clacks on holy days, which they rattle to scare away evil spirits. The Hon. Margaret Collier describes the custom she witnessed on Holy Saturday in an Italian village: 'The next morning early, men go about hammering bits of wood and crying

"Come to Mass in memory of Christ's death," and this called tric-a-trac." Aubrey, in the Lansdowne MSS., describes a similar practice in Oxfordshire, and wooden clacks are mentioned in inventories in mediæval Lincs.

A rattle of ponderous size (matraca) is suspended in one of the lofty arches of the famous Giralda tower in Seville, one of the minarets left by the Moors upon the surrender of the city to the Christians way back in the year 1248. This rattle is composed of four elongated boxes attached equi-distant to a common axle-tree in such a way that, when the apparatus is revolved by means of a crank, a series of iron hammers fall successively upon each box. When kept in continuous revolution, these boxes emit a rhythmical series of sounds not unlike the explosion of a bundle of crackers. When set in motion this instrument produces a great noise. In a quiet locality it might be audible, like the call of the muezzin, within an area of half a mile or so. In a noisy metropolis, however, sounds produced by percussion upon a hollow instrument, as in the case of a drum, would have but limited carrying power.

Suspended above the nine great bells in the beautiful steeple of Toledo Cathedral is another massive rattle, worked by a curious mechanism, which it is the custom to sound continuously for forty-eight hours before the 'Gloria in Excelsis' of the Saturday before Easter. The Rev. H. T. Ellacombe records that in the Fiji Islands bells are made by hollowing out the trunks of certain trees and then cutting into sections three or four feet in length, with bevelled ends. These are called 'lali.' When placed upon a resonant of elastic body and struck with a mallet a roaring hum is produced. Explorers state that these wooden gongs can be heard fifty miles away—really they are primitive radios and the messages they send actually go by vibration and not by sound. Similar contrivances are in use in South America and Africa.

WOODEN BELLS

In his 'Book about Bells,' Tyack states that the Greeks, as early as the eighth century, began to employ enormous pieces of wood much as we do bells, and these are used even to this day. Wooden bells are preserved in at least two churches in the British Isles. These were probably intended to be used as models, although they may possibly have been made for special use during Holy Week.

The hagogisideron—a piece of iron, fashioned like the symandra, was also used in olden times.

Earthenware bells have been used, especially for learners on the carillon, in Belgium, Saxony and elsewhere.

The human voice, as is well known, is used by Mohammedans and throughout Islam. The muezzin, from the summit of the minaret, summons the people to prayer by a musical chant, which, in that clear Oriental air, is said to ring out to a surprising distance. St. Jerome speaks of Alleluia being sung to let the people know service is about to begin, something like the introductory voluntary played by our organists.

In the primitive church during the times of persecution, the use of bells, or any other announcement of divine worship was, of course, impossible, but in their stead trusty messengers, called 'runners,' passed from house to house of the faithful, briefly stating the time and place appointed for their next meeting. Tertullian alludes to this in his 'De Fuga in Persecutione': 'If you cannot assemble by day, you have the night, the light of Christ luminous against its darkness: you cannot run about them one after another, be content with a church of three.'

FROM YORKSHIRE

In 'Notes and Queries,' 1873, the Rev. J. Pickford, M.A., refers to a small church of Holbeck Lunds, near Hardrow, Yorks, which is situated in the moorland, in a primitive spot. When the time was come for services on Sunday, the clerk used to climb up to the place where the bell should hang (this being missing) and, thrusting his head through the hole in the gable, would cry lustily, 'Bol-lol, bol-lol, bol-lol,' in order to summon the parishioners to service. In the small town of Holywell, North Wales, a curious custom used to prevail. The church lies in a hollow, much lower than the town proper, and the church bell could not be heard until close to the churchyard. A man was therefore sent walking through the town with a large bell strapped round him, and a leather pad upon his right knee, against which the bell struck as he walked, to remind people that it was time for church. After a time, however, when the churchyard became full and a new extension for burials became necessary, a cemetery was opened at the top of the hill. From that time the cemetery chapel bell rings for the church service, instead of the church bell.

Another curious Yorkshire custom was formerly in vogue at the small hamlet of Fordon in the East Riding. The building that served as a church possessed neither turret nor bell, and the services were very occasional, performed by the clergyman of a neighbouring parish, who rode over on horse back. Having tethered his horse, donned his surplice, he used to walk to the top of the hill where the little church stood, and then to crack his whip several times to let the countryfolk know he had arrived and service was to be held.

USE OF A FLAG

It was no uncommon thing to hoist a flag on the church tower to inform intending worshippers of the service, and we read that the tending of this flag was a special duty for which a small wage was paid; 10s., for example, being given yearly in Sutherland to an old woman for hanging out the flag! In several churches on the rocky coasts of Scotland there are old ship's bells doing service for the usual church bells, and these were mostly recovered from wrecks of ships stranded nearby. The famous Cathedral of Iona was, until a few years ago, served by a ship's bell, and in the Seilly Islands four of the five churches possess old ship's bells, as did the churches of Sutton Bridge, Lincs, and St. George's, Manchester.

Down in the mountains of Bulgaria, peasants have no money to invest in church bells, and they needed something to sound the summons. At Doubnitsa, the town whence hailed the brigand Zandansky who captured Miss Stone, they have solved the problem thus. One of the iron yokes used for harnessing the oxen which serve everywhere as horses do with us, is suspended from a chain, and this then from the pole that crosses the Cathedral porch. A simple iron bar then serves to beat the gong, and so call the faithful to devotions.

Some churches in England have substitutes for bells in large tubular gongs, similar to orchestral tubes but larger in size. [We have three sets in Leicestershire: Glenfield, Ashby de la Zouch, and St. James the Great, Leicester.] Other churches have hemispherical bells—like huge saucers—struck by chime hammers. For quality of tone and carrying power the ordinary church bell is unrivalled, but for small belfries where space is limited, hemispherical bells are the most suitable. They are usually fitted with a chiming apparatus which enables one person to manipulate a full set. Those are infinitely better than the horrid substitutes some churches have recently installed of gramophone records of bells amplified by loud speakers. To insert in a church tower a machine to call folks to service, or a gramophone reproduction of church bells—is nothing short of desecration and a sham. The human touch is immediately lost, quite apart from the impropriety of such an innovation.

In 'Pot-pourri from "Church Bells"' 'R.W.' August 4th, 1961, page 529, we read of a suggestion put forward for steel bars in lieu of church bells. They were introduced into the U.S.A. and Germany and, said Dr. Ferdinand Rahles, their tone was pure, distinct and melodious. One can only agree with what the then editor added: 'If the only object of bells is to make a noise a "lot of old frying pans would do." Therefore it is vanity to talk of substitutes.'

SOCIETY OF CAMBRIDGE YOUTHS

Bells of a varied quality were experienced by the Society of Cambridge Youths during their outing on August 12th, the party consisting of 26 ringers and a few non-ringing friends.

The first bells encountered were the ancient eight at Great Waltham, where ringing included Double Norwich, Grandsire, Yorkshire, Cambridge and Stedman.

The new eight at Coggeshall proved to be a joy to ring, the only drawback to the older members being the narrow, winding iron staircase. Methods rung here were Plain Bob, Grandsire, Double Norwich and Surprise.

The journey to Colchester was prolonged by half an hour due to extremely heavy traffic, making lunch there even more welcome. The afternoon's ringing commenced on St. Peter's pleasantly turned eight, which responded well to Plain and Treble Bob methods.

We then repaired to rural ringing again, starting at Stoke-by-Nayland after a 64-step climb to the ringing chamber. This rather flat eight seemed loath to strike very well, and refused to ring London or Cambridge, and the finishing touch of Stedman had to be made a plain course after three tries. We left with the afterthought that they would have gone better had they been rung faster.

Tea, at Hadleigh, was followed by speeches and Mr. J. W. R. Quinney (secretary and treasurer) welcomed Canon J. Fison, president of the Society, and also friends from Over, Meldreth and other Cambridgeshire villages. In his reply, Canon Fison expressed the wishes of all in thanking Mr. Quinney for making the arrangements.

We had been warned that Hadleigh bells were hard going and were not surprised when nothing other than Plain Bob and Grandsire succeeded. The one attempt at Cambridge finished when the 2nd rebelled against so much dodging and the rope wedged firmly in the pulley. Several ringers attempted to ring the 7th, the hardest going bell of all, but combined with the difficulty of ringing the middle bells, the poor unfortunates were to be pitied. We gladly heard afterwards that the local ringers are hoping to have the bells rehung, and we wish them luck in their quest, as these well toned bells will benefit from easier movement.

Lavenham completed the round trip of towers, perhaps the most beautiful of all; although bewildering to the younger ringers to attempt to ring anti-clockwise, at the same time recalling memories for the older members of the days at Great St. Mary's before re-linging, when they were also hung anti-clockwise. Cambridge, Yorkshire, Grandsire and Stedman were rung to good effect, although new ropes on the 3rd, 5th and 7th bells made ringing difficult for strangers. The ringers dispersed for liquid refreshment until the coach left at about 9.30 p.m. We reached Cambridge at about 10.45 p.m.

We thank incumbents and local ringers for their co-operation. P. J. B.

HAMPSHIRE RINGING OUTING

A company of about 20 ringers from towers as far apart as Highclere and Putney and Reading spent August Bank Holiday ringing at eight Hampshire towers.

Proceedings started on the ground floor rings at Bentley and Binsted, followed by another six at Bramshott, rung from the centre of the church. After lunch at Hindhead, the good six at Blackmoor were well tested and Doubles and Minimus were rung on the five at Selborne.

The highlight of the day was the fine eight at St. Mary's, Liss, where a good course of London was among the methods rung. Tea was taken in this village. The eight at Hawley were not so easy to strike, but despite this London and Cambridge were managed and we were pleased to see again Charlie Pound. The last tower—Newton Valence—proved to be a good five. Our thanks go to Hazel and Cherry White, for organising such an enjoyable day.

ST. SAVIOUR'S, EASTBOURNE

Michael started it all really, bemoaning the fact that there was no ringing anywhere on August Bank Holiday. Alan and Godfrey took up the implied challenge and the result was a trip into Surrey which, although based on Eastbourne, became a sort of East Sussex combined effort. A round dozen towers were represented by ringers of all shapes and sizes, including that august and friendly personage, the Master of the Association.

By coincidence, the morning towers were all rings of eight—Chiddingfold, Shere and Wonsersh, and with a gratifying number of youngsters present many rounds and Grandsire touches were rung before proceeding to other methods. At Wonsersh an astonishing assortment of bags and bottles made an appearance as everyone stoked up in readiness for the afternoon's ringing. This started on another eight, Cranleigh, where we made the acquaintance of William Beeson and admired the spick-and-span belfry and ringing chamber.

At Ockley, the six required more attention to handling, and we were glad to sit down to tea. Newdigate with its Christmas card wooden tower was next, and in the churchyard we pleased passers-by with a shaky course of Grandsire Caters on handbells. A reference to Sussex Treble Bob on an old peal board caused some discussion. Charlwood (6), our final call, produced some of the best striking of the day, with Double Court and Cambridge Minor.

After a brief halt the hilarious journey back to Sussex commenced, and many choruses, old and new, assaulted the ears of the unfortunate driver. A vote of thanks to 'the organists,' was received with deafening applause. H. R.

NORTH CORNWALL RINGERS VISIT S.W. DEVON

On August Bank Holiday, the ringers of St. Andrew's Church, Stratton, rang at nine towers, arriving at the first, Lamerton, at 9.30 a.m. Then on to Bere Ferrers, with its very nice six, in a tiny ringing chamber, about seven square feet. It was here that we joined forces with the Plymouth contingent and a well struck touch of Kent was brought round.

At 11.45 Buckland Monachorum, the old home of Sir Francis Drake, near Buckland Abbey, Reuben Sanders turned the tenor in to Plain Bob Major. We then adjourned to the local for refreshment and to consume the sandwiches and pasties.

A locked church caused delay at Tamerton (6) and only a short ring was possible. St. Budeaux proved to be a very good six and then came Eggbuckland, where the bells had recently been rehung by Mears, and a very good job, too.

A run across country, of about 10 miles, brought us to Brixton, the roughest six of the day, and where a bellhanger is badly needed. On then to a local beauty spot, Wembury, its church, St. Werburgh's (with a light six), being poised on the edge of the cliff, and commanding a good view of the Edystone lighthouse. The last tower, All Saints', Plymouth, was the highlight of the tour. The local ringers are well known in Devon for their high standard of striking at the call change contests. After some fairly good method ringing, it was suggested that we ring the Devon competition peal, '60 on thirds.' This was achieved, much to the surprise of several of the local band, who were listening outside. We thought we had finished ringing for the day, but we were joined by Plymouth men for refreshment and they asked us to go to the tower and ring the 60 again (three of them and three of us). The result was acclaimed as very good. It was a very nice day, greatly enjoyed by all. W. G. L.

FARINGDON, BERKS

For their outing into Hampshire on August 12th, Faringdon ringers were joined by friends from Buckland, Hinton Waldrist, Stanford-in-the-Vale, Shrivensham, Highworth, Wanborough and St. Albans.

Ringings took place before tea at East Garston, Highclere and Andover, and afterwards at Collingbourne Ducis and Hungerford. Thanks are accorded to all who helped to make this outing a great success.

DEDICATION

LITTLE SHELFORD, CAMBRIDGESHIRE

All Saints', Little Shelford, now has a ring of six bells, and these were dedicated on May 20th by the Lord Bishop of Ely, the Rt. Rev. Noel B. Hudson. The service, a modified Evensong, was conducted by the Rector, Canon E. H. Sibson, and the Archdeacon of Ely, the Ven. E. H. Kirkpatrick, read one of the lessons. During the service rounds were rung by the local ringers, and the Bishop then gave an address.

After the service, there was a short period for ringing before tea, which was provided by the wives of the local ringers. About 40 visitors then returned to the tower and made good use of the bells for the rest of the evening. Everybody agreed that they were a very pleasant six.

The previous ring of five bells was in a wooden frame, which had for some time been rather unsafe. When it was decided to rehang them the ringers undertook to provide the money for a new treble, and it carries the inscription, 'The Gift of the Ringers, 1961.'

The date of the second is 1703, and of the third 1701, but both these had to be recast in 1895. The fourth was given in 1612 by the Earl of Southampton, whose family had occupied the Manor House. Unfortunately, this bell was found to be cracked and so has been recast with a facsimile of the original inscription, 'Ricardus Holdfeldy me fecit Henrie Wrylesley Earl of Southampton 1612.' The fifth has the inscription, 'Cristofor Woodgate C.W. 1701,' and the tenor, which weighs 8 cwt. 3 qr. 19 lb. in G, is of the same date. The work has been carried out by Mears and Stainbank, of Whitechapel.

WEDDING

MR. P. J. BIRD—MISS M. J. CLARKE

A well known Bristol ringer, Mr. Patrick J. Bird, B.Sc., was married on July 29th at St. Augustine's Church, Rumney, Mon, to Miss Mary J. Clarke. The bride, like the bridegroom, is a teacher in Bristol.

Before the service the bridegroom's friends from Bristol rang the bells and the bridegroom also took part in a touch of Single Court Minor. Ringing after the service was by the local band.

The service was conducted by Canon C. K. Smith and Dr. David Heighton was organist.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore an all white classic line, full length dress of satin dupion, made by her grandmother. She had a pearl of diamanté coronet and full length veil and carried a bouquet of peach roses, white lilies of the valley and white stephanotis. A friend of long standing, Miss Margaret Stephens, was her bridesmaid. Mr. Alan Baskerville was best man. Ushers were Messrs. Peter and Adrian Bird and Robert Clarke. The reception was held at Wentloog Castle, and the honeymoon spent at Tenby.

HOLME PIERREPONT, NOTTS

Holme Pierrepont ringers had an enjoyable outing into Yorkshire on August Bank Holiday. Ringing started in the very small tower at Monk Bretton (6), with just enough room to stand providing one pulled straight down. The fourth was loose and awkward to ring. A much better six was at Royston and also Felkirk, where there was no stay on the treble.

We would prefer not to mention the next tower. It was only after oiling by the Ringing Master that bells could be rung in rounds. We were quite pleased to find at Horbury there was a nice clean belfry, sally backstrokes and a fine ring of eight. Many methods were rung here—Bob Major, Grandsire and a few 6-bell methods, in which the tower captain took part, with his closed backstroke leads.

Crofton bells, a wonderful six, were the best ring of the day, and ringing included London Scholars', Cambridge Minor, Kent and Oxford. At Wragby we rang before a large audience, who asked innumerable questions. Fortunately there was no really bad ringing at this tower. Kirkby, the last tower of the day, made an enjoyable finale. Most of us were tired the next day, but it was worth it.

To the Ipswich Journal. 1 Sep 1753.'

Bell News from America.—A chime of bells known as the Eldridge Chime has been installed in Gracechurch, Lynn, Massachusetts—nine bells in key E with a flat second.

They are called (treble to tenor) The Children's Bell, The Burial Bell, The Marriage Bell [this is the flat second!—C.R.J.], The Easter Bell, The Rector's Bell, The Holy Communion Bell, The Christmas Bell, The Holy Baptism Bell and (tenor) The Donor's Bell.

'Ring of Bells.—Note by the Editor. "A Liverpool College Youth" asks the meaning of the term. It is the old and proper word for a set of bells—the word "peal" used to be limited to ringing only. "The Ring of Bells" is a common public-house sign: you never met with it as "The Peal of Bells"

Mansfield.—The ringers 'struck' for higher pay after Christmas, 1872. The demand was resisted and they resigned. A young band was formed. They progressed well, practising for 2½ hours a night three nights per week—a severe trial to neighbours round the churchyard, and it is simply wonderful with what forbearance they endured the noise.'

They also practised on a set of hand-bells 'which the boys have bought for themselves out of their ringing fees. . . . They are to be admitted and constituted the Parish Church Ringers by a religious service next month.' (I.e., Nov., 1873.)

OBITUARY

PREB. E. G. BENSON

With deep regret we announce the death of Preb. Edward Geoffrey Benson, M.A., Rector of Presteigne for 11 years and Rural Dean of Kington. Preb. Benson collapsed and died suddenly while on a short visit to his son at Sheffield, on August 5th. He is survived by his widow and three sons.

Preb. Benson was a graduate of St. Catharine's College, Cambridge, and after taking his degree went to Cuddesdon Theological College in 1927 and was ordained a deacon, and a priest in the following year. While at Cambridge he was a member of the Cambridge University Guild. The livings he had held were Tewkesbury from 1928 to 1932, Quatford 1932-36, Burghill 1936-1950 and Presteigne 1950-61. In March this year he was instituted as Prebendary of Cublington in Hereford Cathedral.

His services to the Hereford Diocesan Guild of Bell Ringers had been of great value. He was vice-president of the Guild for many years, had served on the Diocesan Advisory Committee. He had twice represented the Guild on the Central Council and was a member at the time of his death. With the Clerical Guild he was a popular member. Shortly before his death he rang with the Sussex tourists when they visited Herefordshire.

The Bishop of Hereford, Dr. T. Longworth, was present at the funeral service at Presteigne on August 8th. The service was conducted by the Rev. W. R. Chignell, Vicar of Kington, and the committal service at Burghill by the Archdeacon of Hereford, the Ven. T. B. Randolph. In his address the Bishop said Preb. Benson would be greatly missed. He had been active in many ways and had been vice-president of the Diocesan Guild of Bell-ringers and a valued member of the Diocesan Advisory Committee.

Bellringers were represented by Messrs. A. T. Wingate, W. Gittens, A. Williams, F. Sandford, J. Hope and Mrs. E. Chandler. On the following night a memorial quarter peal of Grandsire Triples, with the bells half-muffled, was rung by representatives of the Guild from Hereford, Leominster and Ross-on-Wye Districts. A memorial peal of Cambridge Surprise was rung at Burghill on Sunday, August 13th, by a band of visiting ringers, conducted by A. P. Cannon.

Stawley, Somerset.—The ring of three ancient bells has lately been augmented to five by Messrs. Taylor. Dedicated Thurs., Sept. 25th, 1873. 'The church and churchyard were tastefully decorated. The bells were ably rung by Mr. Troyte's band from Huntsham.'

Sheffield.—On Tues. 14 Oct 1873, five of the St. Peter's Society of Change-ringers, with Mr. Hulme of Macclesfield; H. Madin of Staveley; and J. W. Snowdon of the Ilkley Amateur Society of Change-ringers rang on the bells of St. Peter's Church, Sheffield . . . 5120 Kent T.B. Major . . . 3 hrs. 18 mins. Tenor 14 cwt. in G . . . conducted by C. H. Hattersley' (ringing the 2nd).

York Minster. . . . A new peal of bells was given by the late Stephen Beckwith M.D. in 1843; and the Great "Peter" bell was purchased by public subscription in 1845 . . .

Bells not Tolloed during the Commonwealth.—An extract from Brown's 'Antiquitates Vulgare, 1725'. . . . In a vestry book belonging to the Chapel of All Saints, Newcastle-upon-Tyne it is observable that the tolling of the bell is not mention'd in the parish accounts from 1643 to 1645 when we find it ordered to be toll'd again. At a vestry holden 21 Jan 1655 whereas for some years past the collecting of the duty for bell and tolling hath been forborn and laid aside, which hath much lessened the revenue of the church, by which, and suchlike means, it is brought into dilapidations . . . and that those who desire to have the use of the bells may freely have them as formerly, paying the accustomed fees. . . .

Slapton, Devon.—'Some Devonshire . . . ringers have lately been desecrating the church bells at Slapton . . . in prize-ringing fooleries . . . with FIVE BELLS!!!'

The method might logically be called 'Little Reverse Canterbury Pleasure Bob,' but a shorter name is obviously preferable, especially when it is rung Spliced, with, for example, Reverse Canterbury.

THE ACHIEVEMENT FACTOR

The Professor Assists In Solving A Problem

I WAS troubled. It wasn't that I found it impossible to explain to my wife that the prize piece of china simply came apart in my hand, nor that I could see no way of extricating my favourite knight from the diabolical pin under which it had, rather perversely, placed itself in my correspondence game. These were worries enough to be sure. But this was even more serious. I went to the Professor: perhaps he could help me. I told him that at the last meeting I had heard two ringing friends of mine arguing over the respective merits of the peals they had rung during the previous week. They had turned and asked me which I thought was the better achievement of the two. I had to admit that I didn't know. Now, as I told Mr. Dodge, I hate to make such an admission.

'I promised,' I said to him, 'to give them an answer later.'

'In other words,' said the Professor, 'you begged to defer!'

'Very clever,' I replied. 'But what would your answer have been?'

'Curiously enough,' he began, 'this is a subject...'

'To which you have given a great deal of attention?' I interrupted.

'Yes,' he said, looking at me rather suspiciously. 'How did you know?'

'Never mind,' I answered. 'Please continue.'

'There is no doubt that a peal by a local band is always more creditable than one rung by a "mixed" band. A team of experts who meet to ring a simple method on good-going bells may add to their peal quota, but can scarcely be said to have reached a high standard of achievement. They may have the satisfaction of ringing a well struck peal, but can be likened to a symphony orchestra with an international reputation, which plays "Poet and Peasant" just to show how good they are or a Strauss waltz to demonstrate the quality of their strings.'

'I once heard the Vienna Philharmonic, conducted by Bruno Walter, play some Strauss waltzes,' I observed. 'I thought they sounded rather nice!'

The Professor snorted.

'Wait till you have heard them play Schubert's "Great" C Major,' he retorted. 'something that is worthy of them.'

'You don't suggest,' I said, 'that there is more achievement value in, say, a local band scoring its first peal of Bob Minor than there is in a team of "experts" ringing a multi-method peal?'

'It is possible,' he replied. 'At any rate there could be a greater sense of achievement in the first case. The quarter peal columns of "The Ringing World" are full of the names of proud ringers many of whom have rung quite simple methods. Some of these names which appear in our journal for the first time in this manner may be names that will at some future period be familiar throughout the Exercise, but it is doubtful whether, in many cases, their sense of achievement will be greater at any time than when they read this first report in minute print.'

'There is always a sense of achievement,' continued the Professor, 'in breaking fresh ground. "The first in the method," "The first peal on the bells," "The quickest peal." These are types of footnotes constantly appearing in the peal columns of the "R.W." I am not so sure that this desire to achieve something fresh or to do something different does not lead at times to a distorted sense of value. There is a vast difference between ringing (say) a peal of Surprise Royal or Maximus in a new method and one of Minor in a single new method, especially as in the latter case bands sometimes resort to methods of doubtful value and are, in most instances, capable of ringing a peal in at least seven methods. A band that can ring a peal in seven Minor methods should never be satisfied with less.'

'Of course,' he went on, 'method difficulty must always be taken into consideration when assessing the achievement factor, although allowances must also be made for the ability and experience of the members of the team concerned.'

'Surely,' I objected, 'isn't that equivalent to saying that the school orchestra which struggles through the Minuet and Trio from Mozart's E flat Symphony on Speech Day is achieving as much as the professional symphony orchestra that performs Beethoven's Eighth?'

'And why not?' demanded the Professor. 'Doesn't it all depend upon how well each performs within the limits of the powers at its disposal. I have heard some pretty grim renderings of the "Eighth" and, I may add, some equally grim performances of Yorkshire Royal and Stedman Cinques!'

'And I,' I countered, 'have not exactly been enamoured with the school orchestras (nor with every peal of Minor) that I have heard!'

With great restraint we avoided coming to blows!

'Bands sometimes attempt peals,' he continued after a time, 'that are really beyond their capabilities. Difficult methods badly struck with many mistakes cannot really be classed as great achievements, even though they may look nice in print. On the other hand, a well struck peal in a simple method on rough going, odd struck bells may give great satisfaction and be a first class job of work, though it may look modest in the peal columns.'

'Of course, the sense of achievement may differ in individuals in the same peal. For instance, a young ringer securing his first peal may, and indeed most certainly will, derive from the peal greater enjoyment (satisfaction, sense of achievement, call it what you will) than the veterans that complete the team, although some of the veterans would be less than human if they did not share the young ringer's pleasure.'

'I have,' said Mr. Dodge, much to my surprise, 'prepared no formula for the evaluation of the Achievement Factor. If, however, you think carefully over what I have said and take all the points mentioned into consideration, it may help you to decide your difficult problem.'

I thanked the Professor for his assistance. I was able to go back to my two ringing friends the following week and tell them which of the two peals I considered the greater achievement.

One of them had broken down after 1½ hours, anyway!

Taunton ringers honoured the 89th birthday of their very old friend Mr. J. Pugsley by ringing a well-struck quarter of Grandsire Caters on Minehead bells on the day after his birthday. For more than 40 years Mr. Pugsley was Ringing Master of the Dunster Branch of the Bath and Wells Association and also captain of Minehead tower. The present captain, Mr. W. Middleton, rang the tenor to the quarter. Afterwards the band and friends adjourned to the Hobby Horse Hotel, where the health of their old friend, who had thoughtfully sent a message for this to be done at his expense, was duly honoured. Another greeting came from the Vicar, Canon Bennett, who has had a ring of bells at his last three churches—Wigan, Maidstone and Minehead.

A Chelmsford correspondent informs us that it was the 'Bishop of Springfield' who was among the first to congratulate (with a quarter peal at Widford) the Bishop of Chelmsford on his nomination to the See of Winchester.

Three children of Dr. and Mrs. M. H. Churchill, of Pulham Market, Norfolk, are keen ringers. They are Robin (14), Anne (11) and Catherine (10). Catherine was the youngest ringer present at the South Norfolk District meeting at North Lopham recently.

The quarter peal for the wedding of Miss Mary E. Keen to Mr. John Clark, reported in our last issue (page 571), was rung at St. Paul's Church, Sketty, Swansea. In view of the size of Swansea we regret that our report was not more explicit.

Mr. H. Denman, of Rockley, Retford, inquires if there are any ringers with a longer service at one church than Mr. H. M. Turner. He has just completed 70 years of ringing at South Anston, Yorks. A fine record, Mr. Turner!

Mr. E. T. Chapman, of Spalding, is pleased to hear that his nephew and former pupil, Peter M. Shipley, of Kessingland, Suffolk, was successful in his first peal attempt, rung at Wenhampton on August 19th. Four other members of the Kessingland Sunday band also took part.

BELFRY GOSSIP

A farewell quarter peal was rung on the bells of Adelaide Cathedral on August 1st to Mr. Hervey Bagot, who is now on his way to England where he hopes to take up a position as assistant research physicist. There are two other members of the Adelaide band now in England—Mr. Bill Lampard, living in Bristol, who has already rung in 100 towers, and Mr. Brian Cox, who rang his first peal at Bunwell, Norfolk, in July, and had an enjoyable week with Pipe's Pilgrims.

The peal at Hose on August 19th was specially arranged for Mr. Ernest Morris to ring with his old friend Mr. William Smith, of Turramurra, New South Wales, who is on a visit to his native country. They last rang in a peal together at Long Clawson in 1927.

Mr. James R. Lawson is now back in New York after his visit to Europe, during which he played on carillons in Vasteras (Sweden), Mons (Belgium), Ghent (Belgium) and Copenhagen. He heard the carillons in Mechelen, Amsterdam, and the Glockenspiel in Munich. While in London he was present at a ringing practice at St. Lawrence Jewry.

To call attention to the smallness of his State pension, Andre Philippe (34), a cripple, bolted himself, his wife and three young children in the church tower at Warnignes-le-Petit, near Valenciennes, Northern France, and rang the bell for three days and three nights. After being taught change-ringing, Andre might be considered as a candidate for the next attempt at Loughborough for the extent of Major.

Miss J. Elaine Dixon, of Abingdon, who called her mother's first quarter peal with her own first quarter as conductor (see page 572) has been eclipsed by Miss Catherine Powell, of Stoke D'Abernon, Surrey, who rings at Esher. On January 10th, 1959, Catherine, who was then 14, called her first quarter as conductor, in which both her father and mother rang their first quarter peals. The band was: B. R. E. Powell 1, R. L. Caporn 2, Majorie E. Powell 3, Mary White 4, Catherine Powell 5. The method was Grandsire Doubles.

ABBOTSBURY CHURCH BELLS

The six bells at St. Nicholas' Church, Abbotsbury, Dorset, have accumulated (if that is the correct term) over a long period. The oldest, fifth of the present ring, was cast by Robert Austen in 1636, the tenor was added in 1666, made by Thomas Purdue, the fourth by William Knight in 1724; the remaining three are the work of Thomas Bilbie, of Cullompton, Devon, and were cast in 1773.

They were rehung in 1897 by Mr. Stokes, of Exeter, in an oak frame, which is still in good order and will continue to carry the bells after the retuning by Messrs. Taylor's, of Loughborough, who will also recast the tenor, which has lately been found to be cracked.

The bells are to be removed in October, and it is hoped that they will be returned and ready for ringing by Easter, 1962.

The raising of the necessary £900 to enable this work to be carried out is a major effort for this Dorset village of approximately 400 people, but already a good start has been made by means of a fete in the Vicarage gardens, which realised £200, and a coffee morning, organised by Mrs. W. Hurdle, of the Abbey House, which brought in £40.

With these totals and various donations the total at the time of writing is £260, and the Vicar, the Rev. Baden P. H. Ball, and his committee of churchwardens, ringers and P.C.C. members, are busy devising ways and means of raising the remainder as quickly as possible.

If any ringers who have rung with us at Abbotsbury would like to help, we shall be very grateful for any small contributions. Our belfry treasurer is Norman J. Hayne, 4, West Street, Abbotsbury, Weymouth, Dorset, and we hope to see many of our former visitors up to the end of September, 1961, and after Easter, 1962—any ringer is always welcome at Abbotsbury.

J. H. HAYNE
(Tower Correspondent).

AUGMENTATION SCHEME FOR SOUTH YORKS TOWER

A £4,000 scheme, involving repair to the tower, augmenting from six bells to eight, has been approved by the Parochial Church Council of Sprotborough, South Yorks.

Mr. E. Short, the tower captain, informs us that instructions have been given to a local builder to start the work of repairing the tower as soon as possible, and Messrs. John Taylor and Co. are to supply the main girders to support the frame.

The scheme proposed by Messrs. Taylor's is to lower the bells in the tower 15 feet so that they will have the support of the main buttresses of the tower. The present six bells are to be augmented to eight with a tenor of 8 cwt. (the original weight).

'I have got the backing of many people in the village,' writes Mr. Short, 'and I think the scheme to have the octave will definitely go through. We have raised over £1,000 and have decided to go forward with the bells as soon as the work on the tower is finished.'

SHEFFIELD AND DISTRICT

The Society held its August meeting at Chesterfield 'on Bank Holiday Monday, where the fine ring of ten bells attracted a gathering of about 60 to 70 ringers, including visitors from Birmingham, Bradford, Calverley, Eastington, Sussex and Southwell.

Mr. J. J. L. Gilbert, the Ringing Master, most ably organised the ringing to suit all, from rounds to Yorkshire Royal, Cambridge Royal, London and Bristol Surprise Major.

A short business meeting was held in the ringing chamber after the tea break. Mr. F. Cardwell, president of the Society, presided. Mr. N. Chaddock moved a vote of thanks to the Vicar and church authorities for the use of the bells and to the local ringers for having everything in readiness for the meeting. He especially complimented the Chesterfield ringers upon their well-kept ringing chamber and fine oak door with a bell-shaped window.

Mr. Sam Scattergood informed the gathering that the oak door had only recently been installed. It was given by a Chesterfield lady in memory of her relatives who were ringers in the Bristol area some years ago.

The meeting closed at 9 p.m. Next meeting, Hope, September 2nd. E. C.

PERSONALITIES OF THE EXERCISE—35

THE REV. JOHN G. SCOTT,
Guild of Devonshire Ringers.

The present happy relations which exist between the Guild of Devonshire Ringers and the Devon Association of Call Change Ringers is largely due, from the change ringing angle, to the personality and friendliness of the Rev. John G. Scott, Vicar of Clawton, near Holsworthy, and Rector of Tetcott with Luffincott. Mr. Beric Bartlett, of Upton, Torquay, secretary of the Devon Association and the new Central Council representative for his Association, asked him to talk to the call change ringers, and the result has been an enthusiasm on their part to affiliate themselves to the C.C. The articles which have appeared in 'The Ringing World' on call change competitions and Devon ringing generally, which John has written during the last few years, have made fascinating reading, and have done much to welcome the call change ringers into the wider ringing fraternity.

John Scott was born at Charlton, London, S.E., in 1925, but his home has always been in Devon, and he loves the Devon countryside and friendly people. After being educated at the Pilgrims' School, Winchester, and Sherborne School, he spent three years as a telegraphist in the Royal Navy. Later he went to St. Edmund Hall, Oxford, where he read history, and took his theological course at Bishops' College, Cheshunt, Herts. He first learnt to ring while at Oxford University, and during the vacations with the local call change band at Buckland Monachorum. His knowledge of change ringing progressed at St. Andrew's, Plymouth, where he learnt a great deal from Tom Myers. John rang his first peal—Bob Minor—at St. Thomas', Oxford, in 1949, conducted by Frank C. Wright, and has since rung about 25. He has not yet conducted a peal, though he has made two attempts, and is not sure whether he lost the peal or vice versa! He is very pleased to have rung the 27 cwt. tenor at Crediton to a peal of Bob Major (no easy job), and also in taking part, at Wolborough, Newton Abbot, in the first peal of Surprise Major by resident Devon ringers. He 'strapped' the tenor at Exeter Cathedral to a peal of Grand sire Caters in November, 1953. While at Bishops' College, Cheshunt, he rang rounds and call changes on the 12 bells at Southwark Cathedral, and all the other 11 ringers were his own pupils—a very creditable performance.

John has held several offices with the Guild of Devonshire Ringers, including chairman of the Exeter Branch from 1951-53, and chairman of the N.W. Branch from 1959, librarian since 1955, Central Council representative from 1954, in which he serves on the Tower and Belfries Committee, being adviser on bells in the Exeter Diocese. He contributes to the Council debates in a forthright and interesting manner, and this year he was rightfully elected vice-president of the Devon Guild. But a position of which he must be the only change ringer in the country to hold is that of honorary secretary of the Tamar Valley Guild of Call Change Ringers since 1960. He once took part in a competition, with a scratch band, which came in 4th, and thus entitled him to a certificate, of which he is very proud. One day he hopes to compile something on the Church Bells of Devon, but it will take a long time, as the county is a large one, and has over 370 rings of bells, the most in any one county.

In 1954, John married Claire Isles, whom he met with the O.U.S.C.R., and they have three children. His other interests include a study of local history, bee-keeping, and anything to do with the sea. His father was a captain in the Royal Navy, before following in his son's footsteps, and taking Holy Orders. John has been known to compose libellous songs about other ringers, and some of these he has sung at Central Council socials!

John Scott is a splendid character, an ideal parson, and a man who would create goodwill wherever he lived. His efforts to promote good relations between the two Societies in Devon have borne good fruit. Still a young man, he is obviously destined for high office in the years ahead, and his perceptive knowledge of human nature in ringing matters will always ensure him a position of affection and trust.

AN EPOCH-MAKING DAY IN DEVON

During his long term as president of the Guild of Devonshire Ringers, the late Preb. E. V. Cox worked very hard in his endeavours to bridge the gulf, which had existed for many years, between the Guild and the Devon Association of Call-change Ringers.

It was evident on August 19th that his untiring efforts had come to fruition. At the Church of St. Edward, Egg Buckland, formerly in the Deanery of Plympton and now within the city boundary of Plymouth, a competition was arranged by the Devon Association on these bells, only recently restored and rehung.

Three towers of the South West Branch of the Guild were invited to take part. One, Plymouth St. Andrew's, entered at the very last minute, 14 teams taking part, each having to ring 60 changes on thirds, with the rise and fall in not less than 15 minutes. Before ringing commenced a service was held, conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. Mr. De Cergiat. The draw for the order in which the teams were to ring took place outside the south porch. Ringing started about 3 p.m. From 4.30 onwards a splendid tea was provided in the Village Hall, the proceeds of which, and collection at the service, were for the Church Restoration Fund.

At 7.50 p.m. the Plymouth St. Andrew's team took their place in the ringing chamber, and by so doing were the first in the South West Branch ever to take part in a contest. When ringing was completed for the day, about 9 p.m., the judges arrived at the church porch to announce their decision, for which certificates were awarded to the eight leading teams, the first three being Plymstock 'A', West Alvington 'A' and Plymouth St. Andrew's.

The relationship between the two Associations was greatly strengthened that evening. It is hoped that this state will continue, especially as some members of the Association have expressed their desire to acquire some knowledge of method ringing.

A LINK WITH SQUIRE FORTREY

The handbell peal of Minor rung at Wigston Magna on August 20th was, in its humble way, one of historic interest. It was intended to ring Major but, meeting short, Minor was decided upon as the bells (14 of them) were only on loan for the week-end by special permit from the Leicester City Museum. These form part of a set of 'cup' handbells presented to the Leicester Scholars in 1777 by Squire William Fortrey, of King's Norton-by-Galby, in recognition of their ringing 10,080 'Cators in ye Tittoms.'

Squire Fortrey was a great admirer of church bells and did much to encourage improvements in rings of different parishes. He rebuilt the church of Galby and placed in it, in 1741, a ring of six bells. He did the same at King's Norton, hanging a ring of ten bells, later reduced to eight owing to the strain on the tower. In 1738 he gave two new bells to St. Margaret's, Leicester, making them ten.

Later he promised a set of handbells to the Society to ring 10,000 changes, and the Leicester Scholars, having rung 6,012 Caters in 1776, set about this record. We are told that—

'It was Agreed on By the Leicester Change Ringers to go for a peal of Ten Thousand and Eighty Cators in ye Tittoms, Which They Did Every Monday Morning, and after a Tryal of several They Completed Their Desires. Four Times They Rang Eight Thousand, and Once they Rang Nine Thousand, and then ye Man that Rang the Third Mifsed his salley, and ye peal was Lost. Another Tryal Twook place on the 25th Day of February 1777 and 5000 Changes was Rung in the morning and In ye afternoone of ye Same Day they Completed the Great peal of 10,080 Grandsire Cators in ye Tittoms, in Seven hours and Twelve Minuets, the Next Day the Society met and Cheard [chaired] Three of ye Oldest Members Through the principle streets of the Town, and the Inhabitants of ye Town made a Subscription, and it Ris to the Eight [rose to the height] of Thirty Three pounds and upwards which Names are here wrote Under—Begin from St. Margret's Church.' [22 columns of names follow.]

Nottingham Society, not to be outdone, the following year—March 3rd, 1778—rang at St. Mary's, Nottingham, 10,260 Grandsire Caters, and we understand Squire Fortrey generously gave each company a set of 'cup' handbells, which is still in existence.

In 1771 Fortrey gave a treble bell to Houghton-on-the-Hill, and his name is mentioned in connection with other bells in the county.

In 1753, when John Holt published his 'broadsheet' of peals which contained the treble leads of his six- and ten-part peals of Grandsire Triples, his six-part of Union Triples and his three-part peal of Plain Bob Triples without a single. Mr. W. Fortrey, of Galby, is shown as a subscriber of two copies.

The 'cup' handbells presented to Leicester went from hand to hand, and after a chequered career finally finished up in a pawnshop! The late Joseph S. Needham, of St. Saviour's, Leicester, discovered them and redeemed the pledge. One of the bells was found to be cracked, and Mr. John W. Taylor, sen., personally recast this owing to its peculiar shape. On the death of Mr. Needham, his widow gave the bells to the Leicester City Museum, where they have remained ever since. Only one other peal is known to have been rung on them, but this was later found to be false in its composition. E. M.

THE RETURN OF THE NATIVE

GUEST of honour in this picture—he is facing the camera—is Mr. William Smith, of Turramurra, New South Wales, who attended the August meeting of the Melton District of the Leicester Diocesan Guild at Waltham. A native of Long Clawson, Mr. Smith was a frequent peal ringer until he left for Australia. On August 20th he rang the treble to a 20-method peal at Hose with his old friend Ernest Morris.

Another visitor to the Waltham meeting was Mr. J. F. George, of Ilkeston, who was born at this village 75 years ago. Both enjoyed the meeting immensely.

A short service was conducted by the Rev. A. G. L. Lancaster, and Mrs. M. Owen was the organist. An excellent tea was served to over 40 by the wives and friends of the ringers, and subsequently Mr. R. E. Manton presided at the business meeting, at which it was proposed to hold the next meeting at Bottesford on September 9th and the annual dinner at Melton in December.

ney, Australia; C. Matthews, the Waltham captain, and R. E. Manton, the Melton District chairman.

AFTER MANY YEARS!

Of the peal, Mr. Ernest Morris adds the following reminiscence:—

On November 12th, 1927, members of the Framland Society of Leicestershire rang the first peal on the heavy five bells of Long Clawson, in which two William Smiths took part. One was resident at the neighbouring village of Hose and the other had then recently come to this country on a visit to his native heath from Turramurra, Sydney, Australia. This peal was conducted by Ernest Morris.

Mr. Smith, of Hose, died in December last. Now after the long period of 34 years Mr. Smith, of Australia, is again visiting his homeland, and to mark the event a peal was arranged at Hose in which—to the great satisfaction of all concerned—Mr. Smith and Ernest Morris stood side by side once more. This was Mr. Smith's first peal for 34 years, but 'Uncle Ernest' has scored 1,545 during that period.

'R.W.' September 1st, 1911.—

Many and varied are the causes of losing a peal, but a painful one has now to be recorded. One afternoon recently, a peal was in progress at—well, never mind where, but in a country tower. The ringing was proceeding merrily and the bells were only two courses from home, when, to the astonishment of the other seven, a howl came from the gentleman in the neighbourhood of the fourth rope; there was a flourish of arms and a rope end was snapping uncontrolled about the belfry. When the rest of the band had recovered from their astonishment sufficiently to set their bells, and inquire what was the matter, they learned that a wasp had settled upon a bald spot on the cranium of the fourth man, and incon siderately used its sting. From what trivial causes are peals lost! But that fourth man does not agree that a wasp sting is a trifle when it is on a bald pate.

REDUCE NOISE TO A MINIMUM

Dear Sir.—I read with interest the letters of Frank Hicks and A. J. Davey in a recent 'Ringing World' on the question of noise from the bells of churches, particularly in residential areas.

The boarding up of louvres, and if possible in such a manner that they can be opened for Sunday and special service ringing, seems to be the answer to avoid complaints from residents, who, after all, have a legitimate cause.

Mr. Davey refers to the Noise Abatement Act, and seems to doubt whether it has any jurisdiction over noise made by church bells.

For what it is worth, I contacted a gentleman in the legal profession, and who may, one day, be arrayed in ermine. He assured me that church bells were not exempted in the Act, and as he saw it there was no defence in law.

If his advice is taken seriously, and I take it as such, it beholds every one of us to reduce the noise and/or annoyance to a minimum.

It would be very interesting to know the percentage of complaints received of the noise of bells ringing for Sunday service; my experience is that they are negligible.

I believe I am correct in saying that no complaint has been made relative to the bells of St. Mary Redcliffe concerning Sunday ringing, but practice and peal ringing—yes, quite often.—Yours faithfully,

FRANK HANSFORD.

Winterbourne Down, Bristol.

ORIGINALITY IN PEALS

Dear Sir.—I hope I can be off some assistance to Honest Inquirer ('R.W.' page 559).

Firstly, I must make it quite clear about the truth of these peals. The first peal quoted is false to New Cambridge (see 'R.W.' 28-10-'60) and so, incidentally, is the other, both having courses false to 32465. The first peal was claimed as a composition of Lincolnshire and is also true to Yorkshire.

Similarity of appearance is often a help in ascertaining originality. Sometimes peals look different, but are not. Take for example these two identical peals:

	B	W	H		O	H	1
52436				—	25346	2	—
35264	X	2			43624	2	X
63254		3			32654

In spite of the similarity of pattern the peals quoted by Honest Inquirer are not reversals or transpositions of each other, nor slight variations. They are not the same nor is one an arrangement of the other.

If Honest Inquirer reverses one of the compositions, and then removes all blocks of three, he will find both peals basically the same—B. W. twice repeated—an old basis for a three-part. However, they are built up differently—one contains many homes and is not true to Lincolnshire. I would not myself use the Yorkshire as evidence against the originality of the Lincolnshire.

In the latter peal if the three consecutive wrongs are omitted, and three homes added after the before, the same changes are produced. (An improvement, I feel, as many conductors don't like too many changes of 5ths place bell.) Start with two homes and you have the well known peal by W. Barton. There is no difference whatsoever between them, just a slight alteration.

Finally, I would repeat what Messrs. Barnett, Speed and other experts have said—that there is little scope for newness in many methods, and the composer's first duty is to collect a vast quantity of peals and see how they can be varied.—Yours sincerely,

Cheadle, Cheshire. P. G. K. DAVIES.

THE REV. SCOTT'S THEORIES

Dear Sir.—The Rev. J. G. M. Scott has certainly produced a lengthy reply to my letter, and he admits he has to infer a good deal from bits and scraps of newspaper cuttings, much of which cannot be classed as authentic information.

Not all the old ringing matches in Devon were fixed up by or through the local publican, and I quote one at Dartmouth in 1872, when the competitors dined together in the market, under the presidency of the Mayor of Dartmouth. Another competition in 1882 held at Crediton, was followed by a dinner at the King's Arms Hotel, where the prizes were distributed by the Rev. Preb. Smith.

The Rev. H. T. Ellacombe would often call on the Shepherd family for their help in his schemes, but some of his writings and utterances about ringers and their drinking bore no relation to fact.

I have referred to the account of 1889 when Winkleigh bells were rededicated, but failed to find the word 'scientific' in any of the speeches. This word was more widely used by call change ringers to denote the difference in ringing technique. When visiting various towers in the county I was often asked, 'Are you a scientific?' By the way, did you notice the ringers dined together, then the toast 'Success to the Winkleigh ringers' was given! Not much tension or storm here between ringers, and no hard feelings.

The accounts of Exeter outings have varied over the years and the local papers often indulged in a little Devon Dialect, but the ringers cannot be blamed for newspaper humour. Ringers as a body whether change ringers, call change ringers or round ringers are all skilled exponents of our art and the first and foremost object of ringing is for Sunday services. For generations we have had to live down quite a lot of stories regarding drinking and smoking in the belfry, of forsaking the pew for the pewter, etc., but my point is that these are isolated cases often exaggerated by people who should have known better, coupled by tactless publicity. The Revs. M. Kelly, J. S. Northote and C. Pearson were three keen clergymen who worked hard for the Devon Guild, and who were known to me personally for many years, but circumstances prevented them doing much essential spade work, so they had to rely on the Exeter and Plymouth Districts for practical progress and instruction away from these centres.

I am of the opinion that it is quite time the alleged bad conduct on the part of ringers should cease verbally and literally. Ringers are well aware that a large percentage of towers have ground floor ringing rooms easily accessible, while many more can be seen from the interior or exterior of the church, yet they are constantly reminded that the ringers of the old days were 'not very nice to know.'

Now that the Devon Guild and the Devon Association are represented on the Central Council I sincerely trust they will work together in friendship and harmony.—Yours sincerely,

WILLIAM SHEPHERD.

Addlestone, Surrey.

MR. BLAGROVE EXPLAINS

Dear Sir.—Might I ask your readers to consider the following peals.

The first consists of fourteen extents each of Plain Bob, Grandsire and Stedman. Most ringers would call this a peal in three methods. The second consists of fourteen extents each of Plain Bob with common 4ths place bobs, Plain Bob with common 3rds place singles and Plain Bob with both bobs and singles. I would call this a peal in one method, with two types of call. Further, the first person to say this was Stedman in 1677. Mr. Amos, however, would call it a peal in three methods; Plain Bob, Old and Norfolk.

St. Simon's, Reverse Union and Reading Doubles can be spliced into one true extent of 120 Doubles. I would call this an extent of Spliced Doubles in these three methods. Mr. Amos, however, would call it a new method and give it a name—St. Matthew. What should we call an extent of Spliced Cambridge, Ipswich and York Surprise Minor?

If Mr. Amos would be a bit more consistent in his reading, he would find that I have never said that a peal had been rung in a method named St. George. I merely said that the name had been used before. He then goes on to quote and invoke a Council 'rule' that the band which rings the first peal in a method has the right to name it. There is no such rule or decision of the Council. A band might be just capable of ringing a method which they name after their own village. If they ring it and publish the fact, then it would be a very selfish act for a peal band to ring it and rename it. A Doubles method might be rung and named for the first time by being included in a multi method peal. Does Mr. Amos suggest that he has the right to ring a peal in the method and rename it?

When the Doubles Collection was published in 1952, I immediately wrote to the 'R.W.' and pointed out that the method published therein as Antelope was incorrectly named. The method has no resemblance to the correct Antelope Doubles, and should be named Imperial Doubles, under which name it was first rung at Clewer in 1952. I have also said that the St. Dunstan's Doubles, published by the C.C., is incorrectly named. How, then, have I been inconsistent? Mr. Amos should stick to facts and truth, and not quote imaginary rules and make false insinuations.

The C.C. will recognise peals containing St. Fridiswise Doubles (which has the same plain course as St. Dunstan's). I too believe in all ringers ringing what they like, and the C.C. will accept any method for a true peal, even Stedman's Plain Changes.

Stedman did not publish Stedman Slow Course Doubles. The Campanologia of 1788 included Stedman Slow Course Minor, so names, presumably, because of the Whole Turns and Half Turns.

Shipway looked at it, contracted it to Doubles and extended it to Triples, etc. He published it in his Campanologia of 1813 (1816 edition is a reprint).

Most ringers call it Stedman Slow Course. If Mr. Amos thinks it should be called Reverse Chase—so what? —Yours sincerely,

FRANK T. BLAGROVE.

SUSSEX TOURISTS' TENTH ANNUAL

A Yorkshireman's Story

ON Sunday, July 16th, I joined the coach at Guildford, with Miss Wyman and other friends aboard. This was the tenth tour organised by Miss Wyman, and on the last evening Mr. Len Stilwell provided these facts and figures: 270 towers in 36 counties had been visited, over 170,000 changes rung in touches brought round. Len and Bert, with Florrie, had been on all tours; Florrie and Len Stilwell had now rung in every county in England and Wales.

These details were given after Bill Daniels had presented to Miss Wyman, on our behalf, an electric blanket as a token of appreciation and thanks for all she had done in organising the tour.

Hereford was reached about 4.30 p.m., after lunch at Faringdon, where Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Kynaston and Bill joined the party. Our headquarters, Castlepool Hotel, was in a cul-de-sac near the Cathedral, and after tea we attended the Cathedral for evening ringing, after short prayers by the Canon. Some went to All Saints' rather than climb the 178 steps or more to the large ringing chamber, to ring for evening service, where Mr. A. T. Wingate and other local ringers were waiting for us. Mr. A. Bashforth, from Thirsk, had now joined us for the week.

After a good breakfast on Monday morning the programme proper had started, with Mr. Harman as Ringing Master for the morning. He welcomed everyone to the tour. Ludlow (Salop), our first tower, has a very nice octave, but ringing is restricted because of the hospital nearby. There is no local band. At Knighton (Rads) we found the treble and second out of action. Despite some very long ropes (one tall man knelt down to ring) some good touches were brought round. The Rev. E. G. Benson met us at Presteigne, a fine old ring of Rudhalls, and joined in the ringing.

Eardisland (Hereford) has a light eight by Taylors, 1953—a pleasure to ring. Some good touches, with local men and girls taking part, followed. After a good tea, we were back to ring at All Saints', Hereford.

TUESDAY.—John Eisel, a student at Hereford School, joined us. Our first tower, Burghill, did not produce our best ringing. A missing key at Bromyard curtailed ringing on these anti-clockwise bells. Bewdley eight went well ringing as the tower is badly cracked and takes a hand sometimes in the ringing. London would not go, but that could have been chicken and lemon meringue pie!

Leominster's 10 were enjoyed by all. Rev. E. G. Benson again met us and joined in ringing Stedman Caters and Cambridge Royal. Much interest was shown in the old clappers, with their long flights, which hang in the ringing chamber. On the way back six of the party left the coach to ring at Holmer, then walked the mile to the hotel in time to join the other at St. Nicholas' for practice, where they have quite a few young learners. Mr. Cheesman and Mr. Cutler were Ringing Masters for the day.

WEDNESDAY.—Mr. W. B. Kynaston and Mr. Eddie Rapley were in charge of the ringing. Colwall and Malvern Link, both with nice eights, gave us some good ringing. After a good lunch of steak at the Nag's Head on the moors, we were ready for Madresfield (6, long draught), Powick (6) and Upton-on-Severn (8), all of which produced good ringing and good bells. Paul Webb and Ray Daw, who had been following us around by car, took part in the ringing. In the evening three of the party joined the Cathedral band in a quarter attempt to welcome the new Dean, but were unsuccessful.

CHARMED WITH WALES

THURSDAY.—In the other tours on which I have been there has always been a long day, the high spot of the week. This year, however, words fail me. How can one put into words the beauty of the Golden Valley, Brecon's mountains, Swansea bay (as seen from Tycock), our pleasure at meeting again Mr. and Mrs. Roderick, G. I. Lewis, Arthur Hoare. Mr. R. J. Thomas, from Aberavon, came especially to apologise for his Vicar not answering Miss Wyman's letter, having mislaid it. Then tea at Mrs. Whitworth's, the new eight at Swansea, and the heavy eight at Ebbw Vale, where we were late and allowed to ring until 9.30 p.m. All I can say it was great and, Florrie, you have done it again. Other towers visited that day were: Devynock, where the Vicar greeted us; Llandeilo, where the bells hang in two threes and all swing the same way; Cadoxton-juxta-Neath (Glam), a very nice six, easy to ring. Colin Lewis, the Rector's son from Glasbury, joined us for the day and the Ringing Masters were Messrs. C. Longhurst, B. Daniels and Miss M. Lewis.

FRIDAY, my last day, produced good scenery and good bells (and some of the other sort). Glasbury, the home of Colin Lewis, proved to be a nice octave; Llangorse bells were hard work, but very much enjoyed by the people of the village who are trying to raise enough money to have them rehung. (Nice tone tenor, Pat.)

The hotel where we had lunch had still some old price labels, viz. whisky 20s., brandy 16s., rum 17s. 6d., gin 11s. 6d. per gallon. ('What price Selwyn Lloyd?')

TWO FUNERALS

Running into a funeral at Llangatock (the Vicar had written Miss Wyman to try and stop us), we went on to Llanfeigan, where another funeral had just taken place. We waited in the village for 100 odd cars to come down the narrow lane from the church. The Rector had given us permission and told the family we were coming. We were allowed to continue on the delightful and easy going eight. The tower is 15th century and contains a fireplace 4ft. wide. Lit by oil lamps and candles the church is only used in the summer.

Back to Llangatock (8), time was too short for us to justice to this ground floor ring. We would like to say thank you very much to the people of these places for allowing us to ring. At Talgarth, our last tower, Mr. D. H. Bennett (Master of the Swansea and Brecon Guild) was awaiting us. Tea, then ringing on this easy going six, was enjoyed by all.

This is where I leave off. Thank you, both tourists and readers, for putting up with me. Till next year, cheerio all.

IRVIN SLACK.

Miss Wyman concludes the story: Afer good-byes and thanks to the hotel manager on the Saturday there was ringing on the home-ward journey at Broadway, Chipping Campden (where the bells required a lot of ringing), Chipping Norton (a very good eight). After tea, at Witney, there was a presentation to Tom, our coach driver. To Mr. Frank Oakshot Miss Wyman tenders her apologies for not giving him an opportunity to be Ringing Master.

During the week nearly 1,000 miles were travelled, ringing took place in 29 towers in 10 counties, 15,282 changes were brought round in about 20 methods. Thanks are also accorded to incumbents and local ringers.

FREEDOM OF CHOICE

Dear Sir,—Mr. Amos knows there is nothing to prevent him ringing Plain Bob on odd numbers or Grandsire on even numbers (they can be quite nice for a change), also that there is nothing to prevent him ringing anything else he fancies and calling it whatever he chooses—Tripe and Onions Doubles, for example (or omit the words 'and Onions'), just as caprice may move him.

'It is not the man who says the most who has the most to say.'—Yours faithfully,

BERNARD C. ASHFORD.

Stourbridge, Worcs.

OBITUARY

MR. TOM ASCROFT

The death occurred at his home, 53, Queen's Park Road, Heywood, Lanes, on August 16th, of Mr. Tom Ascroft, at the age of 85.

Mr. Ascroft was a lifelong member of St. Luke's Church and served his church in many capacities, including those of churchwarden, vergier, superintendent of the Sunday School, member of the Church Council and manager and caretaker of the day school.

His greatest love though was bell-ringing, and he commenced as a ringer at the church in 1898, and was a life ringing member of the Lancashire Association. He was a regular Sunday service ringer until he was well on in his seventies, and rang on all occasions of local and national interest, the first time being for the Boer War peace and the last being for the birth of Prince Andrew last year.

A half-muffled quarter peal was rung in his memory on the day of the funeral.

PREB. E. G. BENSON

AN APPRECIATION

Preb. Edward G. Benson was Vicar of the parish of Burghill 1936-50, and his sudden death came as a shock to the many who knew him in and around Burghill, as it must have been to his parishioners at Presteigne, where he was Rector. He was also a Prebendary of the Cathedral Church of Hereford and Rural Dean of Kington.

He was a great campanologist and recently toured some of the Cotswold towers with the Burghill band of ringers. The love of bell-ringing and the visits to the churches of Herefordshire and Radnorshire were among his many joys. He was no mean authority on church history, and showed it in helping to compile the booklet on Burghill Church. The creation of the Chapel of St. John-the-Baptist and improvements to the high altar were in his time in that parish.

We who knew him well remember his fine qualities, both as a priest and a friend, with affection. He was a man of God—a godly man.

LETTERS—Continued

THE NOISE PROBLEM

Dear Sir,—Mr. F. H. Hicks' letter on the 'Noise Problem' is most encouraging to ringers who see the danger of ignoring this subject and I would like to inform him that at Ecclesfield we had a similar problem and sequel.

Prior to 1952, when our bells were rehung, they were a heavy going, anti-clockwise ring seldom used and the renewed activity soon brought the usual grumbles. Immediately we introduced clapper stays and car tyre muffles on practice night, which seemed to help for a time, but a couple of District meetings and a peal aroused difficulty, despite the sympathy expressed for our enthusiasm. This, combined with pigeon trouble and soaking wet ropes from a rainy season, led us to experiment with boarding up the louvres almost completely.

Since then we have dispensed with the muffles and now ring 'open' all the time, which, beside Sunday and practice night, includes nearly every Saturday; for if we are not ringing for a wedding or two, we have friends coming along for a peal or long touch practice. The only complaint has been from a lady who lives over a mile from the tower and 'can only hear the bells if there is no wind or it blows in the right direction.'

Many a 'noisy' tower would benefit from ringers taking an interest in the matter and, like East Grinstead, getting the job done.

Only recently while attending a meeting at Peniston I was surprised how much better the bells sounded than I remembered them, and on looking up at the louvres, there was the answer—'boarded up.'—Yours faithfully,

L. E. SMITH.

Ecclesfield, Sheffield.

OUTINGS

RHYTHM AND STRIKING

A DAY AMONG HALF-TIMBER IN WORCESTERSHIRE

Worcestershire is well known for its half-timbered church towers. Two of these, Dormston and Kington, in adjacent villages, hold ancient rings of three bells. On August 22nd three intrepid ringers set out on a tour of inspection.

At Dormston the bells hang in a massive frame which was apparently constructed with wood from another bell frame, as two timbers bear the numbers VII and VI. The tenor is a 15 cwt. bell, inscribed SANCTA MARIA ORA PRO NOBIS, with crowned capitals, and weighs about 5 cwt., note D. The two smaller bells are 17th century, notes F sharp and G. After much rope splicing and breaking, the bells were raised and rung in rounds, although they were not at all easy to handle.

Kington tower is about 7 ft. square and is perched at a rakish angle on the west end of the nave. The three bells are all by William Huntback, 1693. The tenor is 4½ cwt. in D. They are 'long' bells and of pleasing tone. Much tightening of slack bolts was done, vast quantities of oil used and numerous large knots replaced by splices. The bells were raised and sixes rung on them.

During the ringing a local lady arrived—an ex-Wimborne Minster ringer—and scored her 'first on three.' The ropes fall in a straight line, about 1 ft. apart, just inside the main doorway, but in spite of the cramped arrangements the bells go very well. We were told that it was 40 years since the bells were last raised!

After our efforts, a cup of tea in the Rectory was very welcome, as was the invitation to ring at Kington for harvest festival. P. C.

BURGHILL, HEREFORDSHIRE

Burghill Parish Church ringers, with friends and ringers from Gloucester, visited six churches in the Cotswolds for their annual outing.

The light bells at St. David's, Moreton-in-the-Marsh (8, 12 cwt.), and the heavier, majestic ring at St. Edward's, Stow-on-the-Wold (8, 22 cwt. 2 qr. 24 lb. in D), were rung before lunch. At Stow four members of the party entertained patrons of the White Hart by ringing courses of Grandsire Triples on handbells. At Bourton-on-the-Water (8, 12½ cwt.) the non-ringers went to see the model village.

The 'navigators' experienced some little difficulty in locating the next tower. However, with the additional aid of a small map and the coach driver's keen sense of direction, we arrived at Chedworth (6, 11 cwt.) in time to ring before tea.

St. Mary's, Fairford (8, 17 cwt.), is one of the great 'wool churches,' so named from its erection by one of the wool staplers or merchants of the 15th century. It has a lofty lantern tower and the bell ropes hang near the organ. Holy Trinity, Watermoor (8, 19½ cwt.), the last tower of the journey, provided some enjoyable ringing on nicely-toned, easy-going bells.

From a ringing point of view, the highlight of the day was two courses of Stedman Triples at Bourton-on-the-Water. Thanks are due to Mr. A. Leslie Barry and Mr. W. C. Jones for their help in arranging the tour, and to the respective incumbents and secretaries. F. M.

STOWMARKET DISTRICT

On August Bank Holiday a small party of ringers from the Stowmarket district spent the day in Cams and Hunts.

Ringling took place at March, Doddington, Chatteris and Somersham, followed by picnic lunch. The eights at St. Ives, Bourn and Royston followed, and the final tower on the home-ward journey was Fulbourn, where ringing was confined to the back six owing to tower repairs.

Methods rung were somewhat limited with a small party. Sincere thanks are accorded to all who met us and helped with the ringing, to Eric, the organiser, and finally to all incumbents. R. E. L.

By NORMAN CHADDOCK

'In ringing, the hand is used to swing the bell, the eye to enable its proper position to be maintained amongst the ropes and the ear is required to judge that both these faculties are rightly used, and at the same time the attention of the mind must never be relaxed from consideration of the method on which the changes are being produced. The ear must therefore criticise the work of eye and hand, in order that if they be defective, the swing of the bell may thereafter be made longer or shorter as required.

JASPER W. SNOWDON, 1875.

The most important skill for a ringer to attain is good rhythm and striking. Simple methods well struck sound pleasant. Any ringing which is badly struck irritates both performers and listeners.

Good striking is a question of rhythm and timing and can only be attained if each ringer can hear his own bell, and indeed all the others, amongst the changes. He is thus aware of any inaccuracies and can correct them.

Accurate rhythm and striking is obtained by ear rather than by sight. The eyes tell the ringer which rope to follow, but only the ear can tell the ringer whether his bell is being accurately placed in each change.

In ringing methods, the rhythm of the whole set of bells should be constant (i.e., 123456-123456—123456123456, etc.), with equal intervals of about ¼ second between each succeeding note plus an extra ¼ second for the open lead every other change. The time of ONE PARTICULAR BELL, however, throughout the changes varies according to whether it is hunting up, hunting down, or staying in one place (as at lead, in 2nds or behind).

Study the following changes from Plain Bob Minor and note how the intervals between successive blows (or notes) of ONE PARTICULAR BELL vary as described above.

Row 1	Handstroke	351624
" 2	Backstroke	315264
" 3	Handstroke	132546
" 4	Backstroke	135264
" 5	Handstroke	312546
" 6	Backstroke	321456
" 7	Handstroke	234165

For convenience we will disregard the open lead which has the effect that there is normally a slight pause before pulling the sally, whereas the backstroke should be pulled straight down.

In order to make the timing intervals clearer the above seven changes (or rows) have been written out below one after the other as they would be rung. Each space between two numbers represents the normal interval between two bells (about ¼ second).

Hand-	Back-	Row 6	Row 7
stroke	stroke, etc.	321456/—/234165, etc.

IN THE FIRST THREE ROWS.

(a) Count the time intervals between No. 2 striking once and the succeeding blow. She is hunting down and the number of time intervals is 5 (=1½ seconds).

(b) Count the time intervals between No. 5 striking once and the succeeding blow. She is hunting up and the number of time intervals is 7 (=1½ seconds).

IN THE FIRST TWO ROWS.

Count the time intervals between No. 4 (or No. 3) striking once and the succeeding blow. These two bells are lying still (No. 3 leading full and No. 4 makings 6ths) and the number of time intervals is 6 (=1½ seconds).

Consider No. 6, which dodges 5-6 up at the 4th row (135264). The time intervals between this bell's consecutive blows are as follows:—

- 2nd to 3rd row=7¼ sec. intervals. Hunting up.
- 3rd to 4th row=5¼ sec. intervals. Dodging back to 5ths.
- 4th to 5th row=7¼ sec. intervals. Hunting up to 6ths.
- 5th to 6th row=6¼ sec. intervals. Making 6ths.
- 6th to 7th row=5¼ sec. intervals. Hunting down.

Every succeeding time interval in the above is different to the previous one and three different time intervals occur.

Obviously this calls for a lot of skill. How is it done? In order to make a bell ring later at the next blow, it must be held on (or over) balance longer before pulling off for this blow. In the case of a tenor bell which may not be swinging a full circle, extra weight must be put on at the previous pull so that the bell will rise higher in order that the next downward pull may be delayed slightly, thus making the succeeding blow later.

To make a bell strike earlier it must obviously be pulled off sooner. In the case of the heavier bells this may mean checking so much on the swing before the required earlier blow that the bell is prevented from swinging a full circle. On the succeeding pull extra weight must be applied to swing the bell up to normal height. A quicker blow can only be achieved by reducing the arc of swing of the bell.

With a heavy bell this process often involves taking up rope at the backstroke and letting it out for succeeding slower blows and varying the position at which the sally is gripped at the handstroke. Failure to do this means ringing some blows with bent arms, leading to loss of power.

If the above processes are done correctly the row when the dodge is done will sound

and not 1 3 5 2 6 4

Here No. 5 has failed to check properly back to 3rds place and No. 4 has failed to hold up into 6ths place but have struck in 3½ and 5¼ place respectively.

The above illustrates the ambiguity of the statement that change-ringing should not be attempted until PERFECT bell control is achieved. In actual fact, perfect control is rarely possible until after doing a considerable amount of change-ringing. The early stages of change-ringing, probably 2-, 3- or 4-bell exercises, should, however, be done on silenced bells.

Apart from physical skill, accurate striking requires every ringer to try to count the beats from the lead at every change and see that if, for instance, his bell is to strike in 6th place, it strikes on the 6th beat, etc. The ringer should at least be conscious of the general rhythm and time interval between the various bells.

When plain hunting from 2nds to 6th place and back to lead in minor (if rung with open leads), something like the following should be going through the ringer's mind:—

123456123456—123456123456—123456123456—123456123456—123456123456—123456123456—

The heavy type numbers are the sounds of the ringer's own bell if properly placed on the beat. The other numbers are the beats of the other bells (not the actual sequences or changes).

One must listen to all the bells, not just one's own and the bell one is following, to get the correct rhythm.

A variety of exercises can soon be devised to give inexperienced ringers practice in rhythm and striking on open bells, once reasonable bell control has been achieved.

BEDFORDSHIRE YOUNG RINGERS

A reunion of Bedfordshire Young Ringers took place on Easter Monday, when an expedition into North East Hertfordshire proved to be a very happy occasion.

Towers visited in the morning were Baldock and Wallington: at the second tower the six bells were as responsive to the ringing of St. Albans Delight as Baldock bells seemed unresponsive at efforts to ring the eight. In the afternoon, Rusden provided the quaint experience of Doubles ringing with a treble bell half a tone sharp. Latter, hopes of completing a course of Southwark Surprise were relinquished when at Walkern it was seen that only practitioners of 'one-upmanship' could be expected to handle the rope of the second, and then only from the top platform of the five-foot step ladder provided.

The unusual attraction of the day was the opportunity to visit St. George's, the new church at Stevenage. A vivid expression of this age, this edifice is complete with electro-mechanical means of calling people to worship. For those in the B.Y.R. party familiar with a keyboard there was permission to strike out upon the apparatus, for all to hear, the amplified sounds of vibrating rods—all very ingenious. The irony is that this apparatus should be designed to imitate, imperfectly, that which it seeks to supplant. Never mind, live ringers were awaiting the party at St. Nicholas', Stevenage, and in their company the day's ringing closed, with methods on the pleasant-sounding eight.

That the outing was a reunion was not forgotten, and reminiscence and talk of the future flowed later that evening over coffee; talk of youth hostels and towers afar mingled with the chatter of toddlers late home for bed. The forces dispersed with the feeling that, thanks to the organising effort of Michael Stephens and thanks to the welcome of Hertfordshire people, the day had been a happy one. R. W. S.

ART AND THE BELLFOUNDER

By ERNEST MORRIS

THE study of marks, initial crosses, lettering and inscriptions on church bells is a most interesting pursuit. Quite true it is that 'an old bell, by its inscription, medallions and ornaments, relates the history of the past better than a mutilated stone.'

But apart from any historic or antiquarian interest, one can find on such bells gems in the art of illuminating and decoration. These trade marks, word stops, floral bands and such like frequently reach a high level in artistic merit. This is, of course, mainly true of the mediæval period, but even in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries bellfounders adorned their bells with rich and varied ornamental borders.

On mediæval bells we find two variations; Gothic capitals and black letter 'smalls,' sometimes used together and called 'mixed Gothic' style. Some of the Early London founders used very effective sets of lettering, and special mention must be made of the beautiful and highly ornamental letters on bells of the middle of the fourteenth century London founders. Leicester founders of this period used fine ornamental lettering, which was handed down for two centuries. Thomas Potter, of Norwich (1404), used a very elaborate alphabet in which the letters were filled with grotesque figures and other devices, and a handsome set was used by a Bristol founder about 1450.

Above and below the lettering it is not uncommon to find beautiful ornamental bordering, ranging from the simple fleur-de-lis to most elaborate designs and running arabesques, with figures of grotesque men, animals, birds, and the like. A further embellishment adopted in mediæval times was the surmounting of each letter, or more often the initial letters, with a crown, and numerous examples of this style still exist. Later on came the decoration of bells by adding the donor's coat of arms, through this form is restricted. However, arms of cities, dioceses, and saints are frequently met with.

Continental bells and those of the East, particularly China and Japan, are much more elaborate in ornamentation than those of this country. One may see thereon not only the inscription, but often intricate and beautiful designs. Symbolic, allegoric, fantastic and heraldic art finds a place on these castings. One huge bell in Pekin, weighing over 50 tons and cast over two thousand years before the Christian era, is so beautifully made that its inscription—which consists of all the ancient Chinese lore and shown with many thousand symbols both within and without—can be read by a blind man!

Ancient bells rarely have the names of their founders, but a study of the stops, stamps and trade marks is often the means of ascertaining by whom they were made, and also their approximate date. Some founders merely used their initials, sometimes in a shield or circle, along with other devices. Inscriptions, too, varied as time progressed, from the early invocation to some patron saint to pray for us (ora pro nobis) or for a blessing upon the church and people, down to the quaint and interesting couplets telling the use of the particular bell inscribed, as for example:

'Men's death I tell, by doleful knell.

On Sabbath all, to church I call.

I toll the funeral knell,

I hail the festal day,

The fleeting hours I tell.

I summon all to pray'; and so on.

Other bells commemorate some great event of local or national importance, or maybe sing their donor's praise. As time went on a severer style of both lettering and ornament took place, and the plain Roman alphabet with simple lines around the bells, or at most a plain lozenge or key pattern, was used. This, naturally, is speaking broadly, for many founders went from the ornamental style to plain, then suddenly returned to the decorated.

In the process of cleaning and rehanging the bells of the astronomical clock of Hampton Court Palace, an almost indecipherable founder's mark was discovered on the two quarter bells, which has been identified as that of William Culverden, an early sixteenth century founder. It is a very elaborate shield with a rebus device of the most subtle description which long defied solution until Mr. A. D. Tyssen, an authority on bell history, discovered its meaning. The centre of the shield is occupied by a large bell on which the letters 'fown' of the word 'founder' are visible; below are a 'W' and the figure of a bird. On either side are inscribed the words 'In dno cofida,' with a trefoil and 'de' below; and on the base a mark like two P's conjoined, one being reversed. The name of Culverden being known as that of a founder from his will, it was ingeniously pointed out that culver is an Old English word for 'pigeon,' the kind of bird represented; this combined with the letter 'W' & 'de' gives us 'W. Culverden.' The significance of the text is apparent, for the Vulgate of Ps X (11) runs: 'In Domino confido,' etc. The other two marks are still unexplained, but the trefoil may indicate reference to the Holy Trinity—Culverden having relations with the Priory of that name in Aldgate. His work has been identified in a number of instances, notably at King's College, Cambridge, Chobham, Surrey, Wimbledon and elsewhere, from 1510-23. His will, dated 1522, is curiously worded after the style of the period, and the following are extracts:

'I, Willm Culverden, citizen, and brazier of London, and parishoner of the parische of Sanct Botulph without Algate of London, bein in my goode hole and parfite mynde (lawde and praise be to Almighty God) make and ordeyne this my put testament and laste will in manner and fourme following, that is to wit...

...and my body to be buried in the church or churchyard of Sanct Botulph aforesaid when and in such place as myn Executours by the advyse of myn overseer underwritten shall thinke most convenient. . . . Item. I bequeth towards the mayntenance of the brotherhood of Ihu kept w'in the church of Sanct Botulph wherof I am brother. . . . xijd. Also I bequeth to the Abbey of Westmynster where I was brought upp in my youth, to be bestowed in the same church for the welth of my soule xxxiijs. viijd. yf it may be borne of my goodes after my detts be fully paide or ells not.'

After giving details of other bequests, etc., he says that his moulds and implements be sold to Thomas Lawrence, another bellfounder, for £120. The two quarter bells mentioned above (at Hampton Court) weigh respectively about 1½ and 2 cwt. The hour bell, weighing about 17 cwt., is of earlier date, being cast by Thomas Harrys (1478-80), whose work is still to be found in and around the city. He used very simple marks, usually with a Maltese cross, and his capitals were crowned like those of Culverden. The clock itself is a curious timepiece and appears to have been constructed in 1540, this date being engraved on a bar of the original wrought iron framework, together with the marks N.C., which are thought to refer to Nicholas Cratzer. In 1575 the dial was repainted by George Gaver, and in 1649 an additional dial was placed on the western side of the tower. In 1711 the clock was repaired by Langley

Bradley, of Fenchurch Street, but in 1835 an extraordinary transposition was made. The works of the old clock were removed and have since disappeared. In their place was fixed a movement with this inscription: 'This clock, originally made for the Queen's Palace at S. James' Palace, for many years in use there, was A.D. 1835 by command of King William IV altered and adapted to suit Hampton Court Palace by B. L. Villiamy, clock maker to the King.'

Worse than all, the previous dial was taken down and stored away in a workshop at the Palace, the gap left being filled in by a painted board! In 1879, however, a new and sufficient clock movement was provided, the dial found and replaced by Mr. James Thwaites.

During World War II we heard and saw much of the swastika, and it is not surprising, therefore, to find this device used on new bells in Germany. Thus at the Church of St. Mary, of Koenigsburg, it is used with this prosaic inscription:

'Cast in the year of rebirth 1934
May my chimes give thanks to Merciful God
Who gave us a leader in our time of need.'

The swastika, also known as the fylfot, gammadion, or cross cramponée, is of ancient origin, having been used by the votaries of Buddha, six hundred years before Christ. Later it was associated with Scandinavian mythology, being known as the Cross of Thor, or Thor's Hammer.

Since Thor was the God of Thunder, the swastika is sometimes used with the idea of protection against thunderstorms, particularly among German peasantry. Subsequently this device of pagan origin became connected with Christianity, and is found in mediæval English heraldry and ecclesiastical art. It is found on one of the earliest monumental brasses in this country (A.D. 1277), that to Sir John D'Aubernon, at Stoke D'Aubernon, Surrey, and also on later brasses in Kent and Essex.

It also became incorporated in the foundry mark of the Heathcote family of bellfounders, of Chesterfield, from 1502 to 1643. The only other founder who used the fylfot or swastika ornament was Thomas Bett, who was Mayor of Leicester, 1529-30. Their bells are still to be found in Lincs, Nottinghamshire and surrounding districts.

As stated above the study of marks, stops, crosses, floral bands and unique lettering will well repay the searcher, and much can be learned from the wide variety of decorations used, which could be applied to any or all works in the illuminating art.

St. Michael's Galleywood, Essex.—Mon., Sept. 29, 1873, the ring of 8 by Warners opened by ringers of the Benington Society—5,060 changes in 10 methods, 'a feat in scientific change-ringing that has never before been heard of.'

Termination of the Chesterfield Bell-ringers' Strike.—... things are now comfortably settled with the Vicar and Churchwardens and the Ringers. . . . We are pleased to see that the churchwardens' promise to white-wash and make the belfry decent . . . the ringers agreed to subscribe 10/- a year to a local hospital, and by-gones are to be by-gones. . . .

Longston, Derbyshire.—Oct. 10, 1873: New Ring of 5 bells by Taylors and presented by Mr. Wright opened by Bakewell ringers after a short Dedication Service by the Vicar, preparatory to the reopening of the church a few days afterwards.

St. Gregory's, Bedale, Yorks.—Wed. Oct. 15, 1873—opened after overhaul and two trebles added. Work by Thomas Mallaby of Masham. A ring of 8 and a prayer-bell.

Brookfield, Lancashire.—Sat., Oct. 18, 1873—peal of 5,040 Grandsire Triples, 3 hrs. 1 min., followed by presentation of a watch to Richard Ainsworth, instructor of the Gorton Change-ringing Society. 'Some splendid music was played by the hand-bell ringers upon their new set of 74 bells . . . vote of thanks to Richard Peacock, Esq., the donor of the church and bells. . . .'

Belfry Rules.—'We are often asked for Rules. . . . In Ellacombe's "Belfries and Ringers" there are rules . . . much too long. . . . We have just (i.e. to November 15th, 1873) been favoured with a copy of Belfry Rules at Dundee, which we gladly reproduce. . . . It is especially necessary to exclude all persons who are not ringers. Exceptions there may be occasionally, but the loungers or youths at the idle corner are most objectionable.' The Dundee rules include: Care to prevent injury to bells, frame, apparatus and building, no

'clocking' or 'clapping,' no one present without proper permission, doors locked, no smoking, no liquor except water. Any ringer or probationer having misconducted himself after being warned by the steeple-keeper to be dismissed. One practice night per week or extra if the steeple-keeper approves, but he should bear in mind that 'every residenter is not a lover of bell-ringing' therefore on 'extra' nights the clappers should be lashed. Belfry to be closed to all during services and choir practices. Feelings of sick persons in the neighbourhood to be 'tenderly considered.'

Bingley, Yorks.—Last ringing on the six bells, which are to have a new treble and a new tenor added (November 15th, 1873).

Long Melford, Suffolk.—September 26th, 1768. Within this steeple was rung complete: A Peal of Treble Bob, and the music sweet, by the Melford company as Doth appear; and if their Names you'd know, why here they are:—

James Ward, as first, the Treble he Did ring:
Samuel Scott the Second he Did nicely Swing:
Young Cutts the Miller with the third Did Play;

Jeremiar Heard the Fourth Did Sway:
And the fifth was rung by John Pearson;
William Smith, the Sixth, being Next in turn:
John Corder the Seventh, and the Peal Did Call:

George Cadge the Tenor which completed them all.

within three hours and ten minutes space, it was all over, and each Bell had Runn its Race, the changes were five thousand and Six Score, them Being Doone there was no neede for more.

May 10th, 1768.—10,080 Bob Major in 6 hrs. 17 mins.

Prize ringing.—'Bob Single,' a correspondent, referring to prize ringing, mentions matches at Wellington and Milverton, Somerset. He goes on, 'May I ask if there was ever a ringing-match got up without the help of an inn-keeper? . . . men have been known to stand and ring continuously for over 12 hours and strike 20,000 changes simply out of love for the art; but such as these are content to ring only for ten minutes for the love of a few shillings. . . . Art has no enemy except ignorance.'

Society of Royal Youths.—Formed Wednesday, November 15th, 1873, with 16 members.

Laxfield, Suffolk.—The fine ring of bells which has for twenty years been out of repair has been entirely rehung by Geo. Day and Son, church bell hangers, Eye. Two new trebles have been supplied by Warner and Son, bell foundry, London. The six bells were opened in October, 1873—tenor 18 cwt.

The Minster, St. Albans Verulam, Herts.—Thursday, December 19th, 1765—5,040 Bob Major—3 hrs. 20 mins., 'being the first ever completed in this church.' Another peal, of Grandsire Triples, 5,040, was rung about 1808, but the record was lost when the old ringing chamber was destroyed in 1833.

St. Peter's, St. Albans.—Monday, August 21st, 1865, by the Ancient Society of College Youths, 5,079 Sedman Caters, 3 hrs. 26 mins. 'Rung in Commemoration of the return of the Honble. Henry Cowper, M.P. for the County.'

Tuesday, May 26th, 1767.—5,040 Grandsire Triples, 3 hrs. 10 mins., 'being the first ever completed here. . . . In 1787 two more bells were added by Mr. John Briant.'

The Ancient Society of College Youths held their 230th anniversary in this tower, July 1st, 1867. . . . rang 5,000 Kent T.B. Royal in 3 hrs. 27 mins., 'being the first peal in that method on these bells.'

'John Lewis, of this parish, Nonconformist, added two bells to complete the peal of twelve and rang them on Tuesday, May 19th, 1868. He died Wednesday, May 27th, 1868.' He was Mayor 1856-7. His son rang the second in a peal of Grandsire Triples, April 2nd, 1870.

Announcement by Mr. Sottenstall, of Sowerby, Yorks.—'He wishes it to be known that he has composed a peal in three parts which produces as many changes as there are verses in the New Testament.'

OUTING

ASHBRITTLÉ & SAMPFORD ARUNDEL
The Ashbrittle and Sampford Arundel ringers had a very happy day on their outing to South-East Devon. Two schools of thought were represented; Ashbrittle are method ringers, Sampford Arundel ring call changes. Both towers are in small villages, so the experts from the adjoining Deaneries who came with us were extremely welcome.

We rang in six towers—Stockland, Colyton, Seaton, Sidmouth, Ottery St. Mary and Dunkeswell—and the ringing ranged from call changes to Cambridge Surprise Minor. A traffic jam outside Honiton prevented our ringing at Offwell, for which we had planned.

Our thanks are due to the incumbents and tower captains who made everything easy for us, and especially to Mr. Stanley Bristow for the trouble he took to ensure that everyone rang in every tower according to ability.

The Bishop of Coventry is visiting the Church of St. Gregory, Tredington, near Shipton-on-Stour, Warwickshire, on September 22nd for the millenary of the church and the chaplain of Jesus College, Oxford, takes the harvest Sunday service on September 24th at 11 a.m. Tredington has six bells (tenor 16 cwt.), hung on ball bearings. A special welcome is extended to teams of bellringers throughout the year and those interested should contact the Rector (the Rev. Gower-Jones) or the chief bellringer (Mr. C. Matthews).

Three peals were rung during the Universities Association tour—at Leighton Buzzard, Cheddington and Totternhoe.

The ringers of a quarter peal of Plain Bob Major at St. Mary's, Ealing, on September 3rd, send their best wishes to Miss Frances Elizabeth Fulwell, daughter of the tower captain, Mr. A. Fulwell, married on September 2nd to Mr. M. B. B. Houghton.

We are still getting correspondents who, in submitting peals for publication, fail to conform to the recognised pattern. This indifference to repeated requests means, not only extra work at the editorial desk, but is the frequent cause of essential omissions from the report.

It would seem that Mr. Bob Smith now has a rival to contend with: As a result of two 100 per cent. successful peal weeks, a North Staffordshire 'personality' rang 25 peals in August. He modestly admits, however, that this has been a really exceptional month, and as holidays don't last all the year round he doesn't quite expect to attain the 300 mark this year!

There have only been two responses to the appeal by Mr. W. F. P. Kelly, of P.O., Kilifi, Kenya, for the Kilifi Church Bell Fund. Towards a cost of £3,200 about £2,600 has been collected. One who responded was a Mr. Hobson, serving in the R.A.F., Nairobi, who is a ringer. We should like to see more ringers supporting this venture. Kilifi is, however, a long way to go for a tower grab!

BELFRY GOSSIP

Prompted by two learners from Lincoln Christ Hospital Girls' High School at St. Giles' Church, Lincoln, inquiries were made as to the possibility of Old Girls of the school making a peal attempt. The following band was collected during the summer holiday: Mrs. Croft (Southampton), Mrs. Colley (Sutton Coldfield), the Misses Burch-nall (Sutton-on-Trent), Mrs. Parker (Nettleton) and Miss Dillamore (Lincoln) and a successful peal of Plain Bob Minor rung at Blankney. The organiser was told to hurry along the learners for a Major attempt next year.

Mr. Brian G. Warwick has rung his 750th peal.

It was intended to attempt a peal of Triples at Hanbury on August 21st. The company met one short and a peal of Minor was rung. Peter J. Brown kindly stood down.

Joining London University Society in their North Wales and Cheshire tour this year was Mr. Bryan Cox, a graduate of Adelaide University.

In submitting a peal of Minor at Launceston, Mr. E. J. Ladd questions whether it was the first peal on the bells, which were cast by John Taylor and Co., in 1911.

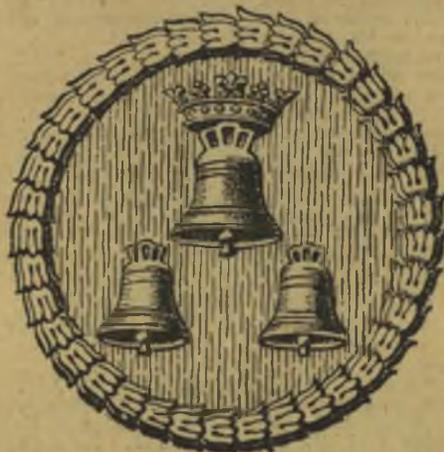

We present to our readers this week the first of a series of articles entitled 'Treble Bob for Beginners,' by Wilfrid G. Wilson. Subsequent parts are Kent Treble Bob, Oxford Treble Bob and Bobs in Treble Bob.

We have no doubt that the ringers of the Northern Province will celebrate the enthronement of Dr. Coggan as Archbishop of York on Wednesday, September 13th, and we suspect that ringers from the South will be glad to join in.

We have received a quarter peal of 1,260 Grandsire Doubles (with 4, 6, 8 covering), rung on August 27th, half-muffled in memoriam a parishioner. Unfortunately the name of the place where this was rung is not recorded, and the name and address of the sender is not given. Even the postmark did not help us. The cancellation was so complete that the place of posting was indecipherable.

ELY ASSOCIATION HAVE BELLS WITH ORGAN

Members of the Ely Association from the Ely, Cambs and Hunts Districts joined hands on August Bank Holiday to enjoy a day's ringing in North Bucks, and with the help of Mr. D. E. R. Knights, late District secretary, a most enjoyable day was spent among towers around Blechley. The weather was on its best behaviour, and Mr. R. Adams, organist at Over, added to the pleasure of the trip, with a series of organ recitals at the churches visited. Fenny Stratford, Blechley, Loughton, Stoney Stratford, Shenley, Wolverton and Newport Pagnell comprised the programme.

Mr. Knights met the party at Fenny Stratford, and with his car piloted the party. Of the churches visited four were sixes and the remainder eights. At Fenny, standard methods, including Cambridge and St. Clement's, were rung. Our guide, however, slipped up on the way to Blechley, and after a turn round St. Mary's was reached in time for some good ringing, which included an excellent touch of Stedman, in which the veterans, Messrs. Marks and Sear, took part.

Thence to an excellent lunch at the Fountain Inn, Loughton. The village church, detached from all main arteries of traffic wore a peaceful aspect, and the bells, not too tuneful, were offset by a sweet little organ, which our organist exploited to his heart's content. Shenley (another six) was next on the list, had many admirers, and most of the able bodied folk made pilgrimages to inspect the frame and fittings kept in apple-pie order, as well as enjoying a ring on these 'well tuned cymbals.'

Stoney Stratford was reached in due course and good ringing included Stedman, J. W. calling his famous B.B. and C. variation here. Here again our organist got busy and, supplemented by the ladies and a gent or two, gave one the impression that choir practice was on, in the organ loft. After an excellent tea, the anti-clockwise circle at Wolverton caught some napping, but on the whole ringing did not suffer much. The steepness of the belfry stairs severely tested those with arthritic knees, and were worthy of a place in the 'keep fit' curriculum. Lastly, Newport Pagnell was reached and touches of Stedman, Bob Major, Superlative, etc., ended a splendid day's ringing, on this majestic ring.

With ringing appetites thus sated, attention was turned to convivialities, and at the Cannons the party adjourned till closing time. With a good piano at his disposal our organist kept customers as well as ringers in cheerful mood with an excellent repertoire of music and song, and even earned the grateful thanks of the landlord. Through the medium of the 'R.W.' all join in a very big 'Thank you' to Mr. and Mrs. Don for the arrangement of a very pleasant day's outing, and not forgetting those in attendance at the various churches.

THE SUFFOLK GUILD

The summer quarterly evening meeting of the West Central District was held at Rickingham Superior on August 19th. The belfry of the now unused church was crowded with about 35 ringers, including friends of the Norwich Diocesan Association from Thetford, Caston and Pulham St. Mary. We were also pleased to welcome members from the Ipswich and Bury districts, and also Leslie G. Brett, the Suffolk Guild Ringing Master.

Ringing was under the guidance of the District Ringing Master, Mr. Robert E. Lester. During the first touch the treble rope broke, just short of the wheel, causing a delay while the deft fingers of the Ringing Master short spliced as a temporary measure. Afterwards ringing started with a swing, with methods to suit all tastes.

During the evening two carloads visited Thornham Magna for a quick ring. The new set of ropes, with each tuft of a different hue, a gift of Lord Henniker, gave colour to the belfry.

Reluctantly, members made their various ways home at 9.30 p.m. after a most enjoyable evening. Our thanks to the District secretary, Mr. Hubert A. Mitson, for making the necessary arrangements. E. H.

PERSONALITIES OF THE EXERCISE—36

MR. ARTHUR V. PEARSON,
St. Martin's Guild for the Diocese of Birmingham.

When a ringer scores his first peal, and then does not ring any more for seven years, it is usually assumed, during this period, that he has lost interest. Sometimes, however, if that ringer starts again and is encouraged by the right people, his enthusiasm is rekindled, and he is able to develop into a first class ringer and conductor. Such a person is Mr. Arthur V. Pearson, who lives at Wombourn, Staffs, and who was born in Fulham, London, in 1918, though he has never rung there yet. He was educated at Fulham, obtained his school certificate, and when his parents moved to Wolverhampton, he learnt to handle a bell at Penn in 1931, ringing his first peal there—Grandsire Triples—the same year. He rang no more peals until 1938, partly because he had taken an early interest in golf, at which game he got his handicap down to 6!

In 1938 he went to work in Ipswich, and was fortunate enough to meet Messrs. C. W. Pipe and C. J. Sedgley. Although Arthur was still only in the elementary stages of ringing, these two stalwarts gave him every help and encouragement in the higher methods. He was very pleased to become a member of the famous St. Mary-le-Tower Society, and eventually rang a peal of Cambridge Maximus with them in 1939. This very quick progress was unknown to his Staffordshire friends, who did not realise Arthur's potential. Shortly after scoring his peal of Cambridge Maximus, he returned home, and Mr. Howard Howell, of Walsall, was making up a band for a peal of Bob Maximus. As Arthur's peal of Cambridge had not yet been published in the 'R.W.', he was not invited to stand in, as they did not think he was good enough!

After the war interval, he began peal ringing again in real earnest, and conducted his first peal—Cambridge Major—in 1948. His present total is 762, of which he has conducted 166, and he can count amongst them a large number of interesting performances. He has rung 591 peals of Surprise in a wide variety of methods, and on all numbers, mostly with George Fearn and the Birmingham band, and whilst with Tom Lock's touring party. He has done extremely well in the field of Spliced Surprise Major, having rung 41 peals and conducted 31 of them from 4-12 methods. He has rung over 100 peals of Stedman Cinques, has called peals on all numbers from Doubles to Maximus, and he was one of the three who first completed ringing peals of Surprise Major with all the letters of the alphabet.

The one peal about which he feels more elated than with any other was rung in December, 1959. The band had met at St. Chad's R.C. Cathedral, Birmingham, for Lincolnshire, but Henry Fearn said he wouldn't start for this method! Accordingly Arthur was persuaded to call 4 Spliced, but did not have a composition with him. He wrote down one of Pitman's peals from memory, gave it to Brian Woodruffe for checking, and they rang a very good peal. Unfortunately for Henry, as peals at this tower usually start at 1 p.m., he was too late to see the Villa! Another peal of which he is very pleased about is calling 12 Spiced Surprise at Shirley, Birmingham, in February, 1960, as these bells are very fast turning.

Arthur was secretary of the Stafford Archdeaconry Society in 1947 and 1948, and when he is at home he is attached to the band at Claverley, Shropshire. They are a company who are very keen, regular attenders, and enjoy a good social side, so important in keeping a band together. By profession Arthur is an installation and service manager for a subsidiary company of the B.M.C. group, and travels abroad very extensively. He has recently been on business in Norway, Sweden, Finland, Germany and Russia (Moscow), and is shortly going to Rumania. His photograph was actually taken on Ostbanen Railway Station, Oslo, Norway, on July 24th!

Arthur has a quiet and unassuming manner and has shown that providing a ringer has the necessary ability and enthusiasm and, more important, gets in touch with the right people, all the interesting fields of ringing are open to him. He has taken advantage of the opportunities which have been offered him, and accordingly has become a popular figure in the Midlands. APACE.

'R.W.' September 8th, 1911.—

The ringers of St. Clement's, Hastings, are on strike. The cause is said to be a picture placed over the cross on the altar in the Lady Chapel. A local newspaper thus describes the event, which occurred on Sunday week:

'The strike broke out with dramatic suddenness on Sunday among the bell ringers of St. Clement's with the immediate result that the Old Town was bereft of the customary peals in the morning and evening, and people who have been in the habit of regulating their habits by the bells of the Parish Church were nonplussed and their households thrown into a state of chaos. In fact the whole Sunday social organisation of the Old Town was thrown out of gear by the refusal of the bell ringers to perform their duties.'

Charles Middleton, of Norwich, whose name will for ever be associated with Cambridge Surprise Major, died on September 14th, 1886.

A VILLAGE INDUCTION SERVICE

The induction of the new Rector of Rattery, South Devon, a village lying about midway between Exeter and Plymouth and almost on a parallel with Robert Herrick's church at Dean's Prior was a memorable occasion for local ringers.

The church stands on a hill. Its five bells 'go' remarkably well although there is a long draught. Before the service some excellent call changes were rung by local ringers, assisted by visitors from neighbouring towers, among whom was a popular lady ringer from the mother church of Plymouth, who fully appreciated the opportunity of ringing in a new tower.

The Lord Bishop of Plymouth took part in the service and gave the address. At the conclusion of the service he personally thanked the ringers. After a particularly happy tea in the Parish Hall, there was further ringing and one of the last acts of kindness of the evening was the offer of the local skipper to bring the writer home in his car, an offer which was gratefully accepted.

FIFTY-EIGHT YEARS' FAITHFUL SERVICE

A RINGING career of 58 years has closed with the retirement through ill-health of Mr. Harry Parrish, of Kirklea, Leyburn Road, Middlesbrough, the captain of the Middleham belfry, North Yorkshire.

Bellringing and the name of Harry Parrish at Middleham are synonymous. There is little doubt that but for his efforts this art might well have been lost to Middleham years ago, and what will hurt him most in his enforced retirement will be a silent belfry, if that day ever comes.

Harry was 16 when he joined the team of change ringers gathered together by the late Dr. H. C. Pauli in 1901. These were the days when youth had to provide its own entertainment and recreation, and Harry found bellringing an absorbing pastime.

There were the practices, two a week, the Sunday duties, and the outings to ring at other churches. These journeys were made in a wagonette drawn by two horses.

4 a.m. HOMECOMING

One especially memorable day's outing he recalls was that to Pateley Bridge. The party of ringers set out from Middleham at 6 a.m. At Kirkby Malzeard they rang the church bells for their breakfast, which was eventually served at the Shoulder of Mutton Inn (now closed), just across the road from the church.

After this welcome repast the party travelled on to Pateley Bridge where the bells were rung and lunch taken. Then another carriage and pair was hired for the journey down Nidderdale to Birstwirth for more ringing. Back to Pateley Bridge to pick up the original transport and tea. The journey home took them until 4 a.m. the following morning.

On the death of Dr. Pauli, just after the 1914-18 war, Harry took over the captaincy of the Middleham ringers, a position he has held until now. He has taken a leading part in upholding the art of change ringing and as a member of both the Yorkshire and Cleveland and North Yorkshire Associations, he has rung at belfries many parts of Yorkshire and South Durham.

MANY PEALS

He has taken part in hundreds of peals in many methods, ranging from 720 to 5,040 changes. Peals have been rung in his honour, the most recent being a peal of Grandsire Triples of 5,040 changes, rung by members of the Yorkshire Association on the Middleham bells, 'as a compliment to Mr. Harry Parrish, who has been a ringer at this church for 52 years.' That was on May 4th, 1955.

At one time there were three Parrishes in the Middleham team—Mr. Harry Parrish, his sister, Miss J. Parrish, and their nephew, Mr. R. Parrish.

Harry Parrish also popularised handbell ringing, of which he has been a keen and competent exponent and leader. He recalls with pleasure having rung the handbells one Christmas with his Middleham team for Mr. Neville Chamberlain, who was staying with Lord Swinton at Swinton Castle, near Masham.

His activities for the church have not been confined to bellringing for he has been a devoted member of the church choir at Middleham for well over 50 years. For many years he was actively associated with the local Boy Scouts and was a founder member of the Toc H movement in the town.

Naturally enough Harry Parrish has also taken a keen interest in the history of the bells of Middleham, and has in his possession belfry records from 1901 when, in December of that year, it is recorded:

'A movement, having for its object Belfry Reform and the promotion of the art of change ringing, began to take a practical shape in a complete renovation of the ringing chamber and the institution of regular practices on silent bells by probationers of both sexes.'

60 YEARS WITH THE CLEVELANDS

In 1901, after renovations and improvements to the ringing chamber, membership of the Cleveland and North Yorkshire Association of Change Ringers was sought and granted to the Middleham band, and the autumn meeting of the Association in 1902 was held at Middleham. Members arrived by brake from East Witton and Richmond and by train from Guisborough, Harrogate, Middlesbrough, Otley, Saltburn, Sharow, Stockton and Thirsk.

'A course of Grandsire Triples was rung on handbells in the presence of the congregation, an incident probably unique in the annals of bellringing,' a report tells us, though this has been done on many occasions since that time.

But the early years were not altogether plain sailing for the new band. They continued up to 1904 by just meeting and practising for they were one of two bands of ringers operating in the town, and it was the old band that rang the church bells for the services. This state of affairs at this time was changed and the new band of ringers came into their own.

OLD BAND RESIGNS

An entry in their records, made in June, 1904, reads:

Rang for service for the first time, being in possession of the belfry, a plain course of Bob Doubles. The old band being in disagreement amongst themselves could not ring and would not resign so were requested to do one or the other by the Rector. They resigned.

The day before the Rector's ultimatum the new band, or method change ringing band as they were known, were called together by the Rector, the Rev. H. G. Topham, and asked to ring for the services. They agreed and Dr. Henry C. Pauli was appointed Ringing Master.

The entry in the records of this meeting ends with the rather cryptic message: 'Here is the death and burial of Churchyard Bob.'

The first peal of 5,040 changes was rung on November 29th, 1906. By 1909 such peals had become a common occurrence. The longest touch on the six bell ring came on April 22nd, 1910, when the first even 7,200 was achieved.

A 'TRAGEDY'

There was a 'tragedy' during practice on July 16th, 1910, however, for on that day it is recorded 'the treble fell out.' The old wooden frame which held the six bells was found to be so decayed that it was decided that the bell should not be rehung. Subsequently at a meeting 'of the churchmen of the parish it was decided to have a new peal of eight bells at a cost of about £570.'

The ring of eight bells, costing £600, with a tenor bell of 18 cwt., was made by John Taylor and Co., of Loughborough, and is fitted in a steel frame. The bells were provided chiefly through the generosity of the Rector, the Rev. H. G. Topham and his family, and were dedicated on June 23rd, 1911.

Since that time bell ringing has continued at Middleham, with varying fortunes, and it is hoped that, although Harry Parrish will no longer be climbing the belfry steps to take charge, it will long continue to thrive and bring pleasure to those who take an interest in it.

JOINT MEETING AT PENISTONE

The Yorkshire Association (Southern District) and the Barnsley District Society happened, by coincidence, to desire a meeting at Penistone within a week or two of each other and after a compromise over the date had been agreed, a very successful joint meeting was held there on August 12th. A brand new set of ropes added a further touch of brightness to a newly decorated belfry, and it was noted that the Barnsley Society had the laugh on the others in coping with a 'fistful' of Yorkshire rope-end.

This handy ring of eight was put to good use and many methods were rung, including a course in an appropriate method, Penistone T.B. Minor. Cawthorne's ring of six was open before tea and the six of Hoylandswaine after tea. These additional towers were well patronised.

The Vicar of Penistone, who paid a short visit, extended a warm welcome and regretted not being able to stay for the meeting. The meeting opened with an appropriate prayer by Barnsley Society secretary, Mr. J. W. Buxton. Mr. N. Chaddock (vice-president, Southern District, Y.A.) took the chair and welcomed the presence of several visitors from the Western District, Lincolnshire, Derbyshire, Manchester and Northampton. He was particularly pleased to see Mr. Dan Smith, late vice-president of the Southern District and secretary of the Barnsley Society and Ringing Master, also Mr. Harold Chant, now happily recovering from his illness.

Messrs. R. Sheekleton, D. Scargill and S. Ramsden were elected members of the Association. The sum of £1 ls. 6d. was collected for the bell Repair Fund. It was decided that the Southern District should hold their next meeting at Campsall, near Doncaster, on November 18th. Votes of thanks were proposed by Mr. J. Seager and Mr. H. Chant, and before offering a closing prayer Mr. J. W. Buxton commented on the success of this joint effort and hoped for similar get-togethers in the future.

LEEDS UNIVERSITY UNION CAMPANOLOGICAL SOCIETY

It is generally felt that the last academic year was the most successful one yet in the history of our small but thriving Society. We were well represented at the Northern Universities' meetings at Manchester and Sheffield as well as at several local meetings. The Easter term saw the first annual dinner of the Society and it is hoped that subsequent ones will be as enjoyable and well attended as this one was.

Three peals were rung during the year: one of four Minor methods at Wragby and two of Plain Bob Major 'in hand' at Leeds. One of these peals was the first of Major 'in hand' for all the band. Several quarters in a variety of methods on tower bells and 'in hand' were brought round, including one of Spliced Minor at our own tower—St. Matthias', Burley.

Robin Brown and Stella Trotman became engaged during the year, as did Keith Williamson and Josie Hutchings—we wish both couples every happiness. Quarters and peals were rung in honour of both events.

At the A.G.M. the retiring president and founder member, Keith Williamson, together with the vice-president, Keith Goldthorpe, secretary, Mike Swift, and treasurer, John Todd, were sincerely thanked for doing a really first class job. New officers were elected as follows: President, W. R. Read; vice-president, M. G. Swift; secretary, W. J. Couperthwaite; treasurer, J. F. J. Todd.

REQUESTS OF INTEREST TO RINGERS

By ERNEST MORRIS

ONE of my hobbies is genealogy and in my research into family histories I find many curious and interesting bequests in wills of various people, especially in the 16th and 17th centuries. Only a few days ago I read one, in which the testator left: 'My worst suit to my friend —; my best suit to friend —; my breeches to my eldest son; the bed, whereon I now lie to my eldest daughter...; £5 to my youngest daughter... at 21 or marriage.' In 'Beerbohm's Evening Corn Trade List, March 22nd, 1911, is quoted a will which will be of interest to our Wath (Yorks) friends. It runs thus:

'Mr. Tuke, baker, of Wath, near Rotherham, by his will, dated December, 1810, bequeathed one penny to every child who attended his funeral; one shilling to every poor woman in Wath; ten shillings and sixpence to the ringers to ring one peal of "Grand Bobs," which was to strike off while they were putting him into his grave; to seven of the oldest navigators one guinea for puddling him up in the grave; to his natural daughter four guineas per annum; to his old and faithful servant, Joseph Pitt, twenty-one pounds per annum; to an old woman who had for eleven years tucked him up in bed, one guinea only; forty dozen penny loaves to be thrown from the church leads at 12 o'clock on Christmas Day for ever; two handsome chandeliers for the church; and twenty pounds for a new set of chimers.' Wath has for many, many years been noted for its six bell ringing.

LEGACIES FOR BELL ROPES

At Ansley, Warwickshire, it is stated that 'the sum of 6s. 8d. yearly' was charged upon a small cottage and croft, late in the occupation of George Izon, to find bell ropes for the church bells (but by whom is not known), which cottage and croft in the year 1765 was purchased of the parish by the late John Ludford for £30, which—together with other bequests—was expended on rebuilding the Poor's houses, and the income is now paid to the Overseers of the Poor. Thus the endowment for bell ropes has lapsed, having been diverted to other purposes.

There are many similar instances in wills left by goodly disposed persons for bell ropes and the like, perhaps one of the best known being that of a 'croft' left by Jno. Billingsley, of Birmingham, in 1629. This 'croft' is now in the heart of a busy thoroughfare and greatly appreciated in value, so it is very unlikely St. Martin's, Birmingham, will ever be silent for lack of bell ropes. The late Mr. Albert Walker was one of the trustees for this endowment.

At St. John's, Peterborough, in addition to various bequests to bells referred to in the churchwardens' accounts, there is a modern one which takes effect on March 15th annually.

Matthew Wyldbore, Esq., sometime Member of Parliament for the city, died March 15th, 1781. By his will, he made the following bequest: 'I also charge and make chargeable the estate which I bought of the Rev. Mr. Bates, lying in the parish of Peterborough, with its hamlets, with an annual payment of five pounds to the Minister of the said parish to be annually disposed of on the day of my death to the ringers of the said parish church of Saint John the Baptist in Peterborough, as the said Minister shall think best, on condition that the said ringers ring one peal or more of the said bells on the same day.'

Mr. Wyldbore is buried in this church, where there is a mural marble tablet to his memory. It is said that his health was much improved by the exercise of bellringing—hence his bequest!

ORIGINALITY IN PEALS

Dear Sir.—The following may help 'Honest Inquirer' ('R.W.' page 559).

The peal of New Cambridge is false to that method, but true to Yorkshire and the falseness was pointed out by Mr. R. F. B. Speed in your issue of October 7th, 1960.

Taking the two compositions as peals of Yorkshire and comparing them I find that, strictly speaking, the two compositions are the same.

If we take each composition and remove the Q sets we are left with the touches:

'A'	'B'
2345678 (7)	2345678 (11)
5738264 (6)	5738264 (1)
8674523 (5)	8674523 (2)
—6423857 (4)	4263857 (3)
3547682 (3)	—2357486 (4)
7852364 (2)	7836245 (5)
2684735 (1)	6485723 (6)
*4365278 (11)	5243678 (7)
—5738426 (10)	3728564 (8)
—7826543 (9)	—7864352 (9)
6483752 (8)	4582736 (10)
3542678 (7)	2356478 (11)

Twice repeated.

Now, touch 'B' is merely touch 'A' starting from the ''. To reverse the touch read upwards from the '', inserting the bobs in the reversal at the same distances from the course head as they are from the course end in the original, e.g., the first bob is at the 4th lead head before the course end, therefore the first bob in the reversal will be at the 4th lead head after the course head. (The figures in brackets may help.)

It should be noted that it is not always possible to substitute one set of courses for another set as can be done in these cases.

As stated above, strictly speaking the two peals are one, but I would be content to regard them as two peals on the same plan. --Yours faithfully,

C. KENNETH LEWIS.

RECORD LENGTH OF SURPRISE MAJOR

Dear Sir.—The last published record length of Surprise Major was Bristol, 21,920 changes. I have examined a number of methods, mostly unknown, and find that Mr. Blagrove's C.P.S. No. 136 was to 22,976 changes with plenty of true leads to spare. As this is not of general interest I shall welcome any inquiries addressed to me.—Yours faithfully,

JOHN SEGAR.

HIS IDEA!

Dear Sir.—There would be no need for striking competitions if tower masters were more ruthless. Why not start a strikers' union—it could be run on E.T.U. lines?—Yours, etc.,

'A FLAT.'

We learn that one of the most notable lords of the manor of Cowley, Gloucestershire, was one named Henry Brett. He was an eccentric man, and was notable for his fondness for bellringing, which he gratified by constantly travelling about the country with a company of ringers. So costly was this amusement that in the end he is said to have thus dissipated a splendid fortune—a reminder of the musical tastes of Henry Brett is to be found in the ring of six bells which he gave to the Church of St. Mary, at Cowley, in 1730.

TREBLE BOB FOR BEGINNERS

By WILFRID G. WILSON

I INTRODUCTION

The Central Council's 'Handbook for Beginners' dealt in an elementary way with the Grandsire and Plain Bob methods on the lines of the earlier 'Notes for Beginners.' Articles in these columns have extended the series to Stedman ('R.W.' January 1st, 8th and 15th, 1960) and Double Norwich ('R.W.' August 26th and September 2nd and 9th, 1960). The four so-called standard methods are usually reckoned to include Treble Bob, but not Double Norwich, but the latter was dealt with out of turn for various reasons. Musically it is probably the finest of the even bell methods—certainly on eight bells. It is the method which can best lead from Plain Bob to a large number of other plain methods, many well worth ringing, but sadly neglected by the Exercise. And it is an easy introduction to the use of internal places to obtain different methods. Now we must fill the gap and turn our attention to Treble Bob.

Depending upon the way the places are made there are two popular variations of Treble Bob—Kent and Oxford. The latter was the form of the method which first became popular, especially in the eastern counties, but the Kent variation is the more widely practised nowadays. As will be seen the regular coursing order of the bells is maintained far more in Kent, thus making the method easier to ring and to conduct. But the basis of the two methods is the same, so we will try first to explain the Treble Bob principle and then deal with each of the two variations.

II TREBLE BOB PRINCIPLE

We have seen that in plain 123456 methods the treble has a regular 214365 path from the lead, through the various positions 2nd, 3rd, 4th, 426153 etc., until it reaches the back 642513 (6th or 8th, etc., according to the number of bells). After a whole 654321 pull at the back it then hunts 563412 in a regular path down to lead 536142 again. A plain hunt on six bells therefore gives us the 315264 figures inset here. 132546

Now let us write the same 123456 thing out again giving

123456 the treble a dodging path—
214365 dodge in 1-2, 3-4 and 5-6
123456 up and then, after a whole
214365 pull at the back, in 5-6, 3-4
241635 and 1-2 down, before leading 426153 again. Another word for dodging
241635 is 'bobbing' (as in the ex-
426153 pression 'bobbing and weaving')
462513 so that we can now see the 645231 reason for the name Treble
462513 Bob.

645231 And let us make all the other 654321 bells dodge likewise. The first etc. half of the lead will be as this inset. But we can see at a glance that this won't do. We have repeated every pair of rows and the whole idea at the back of change ringing is the ringing of changes without repetition. So we must make some alterations to ensure that there is no repetition. But we must do this without altering the path of the treble, which must retain its fixed dodging path as the basis of our method. The way we make our alterations determines the variation of Treble Bob that we obtain.

UNIVERSITY OF LONDON SOCIETY—ABROAD

'Pysyll Rhaidar and Wrexham Steeple, Snowdon's Mountain, without its people, Overton Yew Trees, St. Winifred's Well, Llangollen Bridge and Gresford bells,'
'Seven Wonders of Wales.'

THIS year's summer tour, from August 12th-20th, took place in North Wales and Cheshire, during which we visited four of these wonders. We stayed in a women's training college in Wrexham, where good food, hot water and wash basins were abundant. We were told that the college was in sight of the Welsh hills—a fact we did not discover until the fifth day, when the sun first shone! For most of the time it was cold and miserable, but ringing spirits were not damped while drinking ones were.

The company this year was rather smaller than usual, but contained plenty of variety. There was the Yorkshire party, who preferred chance to maps, and Harlech was not on any itinerary. Alternatively, there was the lady who did not believe in main roads and could not be convinced that they are usually the quickest way between towers. We also welcomed Bryan Cox, a graduate of a very distant university—Adelaide. We were all car-borne, and only a flat tyre marred the whole tour.

The majority of this company joined up sometime in Chester on August 12th. Here we rang at 3 churches, St. Mary-on-the-Hill (8), St. Mary-without-the-Walls (8) and the Cathedral (10) (despite the efforts of a local newspaperman!). We then found our various ways to Wrexham.

On Sunday, after early Communion, we split up to ring at Wrexham, Pulford, Holt and Gresford, where a well struck quarter peal of Oxford Bob Triples was lost due to a late start. The rest of the day was spent reminiscing and ringing handbells, although some energetic members (not the youngest) climbed Moel Famau—over 1,800 feet. After supper the majority adjourned to England for refreshments, lack of which on Sundays 'abroad' is disappointing.

A PINT OF LIME JUICE

From Monday to Friday we spent the time rushing from one tower to another, with a brief break at lunchtime in a local public house. One gentleman delighted in surprising the various bartenders each day by asking for pints of lime juice. Apparently, 'No one before, in my time as a publican, has asked for such a thing.' We also caught the aforesaid person winning a game of dominoes—we now know where he was brought up!

On Tuesday we were honoured in being allowed to ring at Liverpool Cathedral (12). All the men suddenly became 'strong' each trying to grab the tenor of the heaviest ring, but a good touch of Erin Cinques was rung. We climbed the 347 steps (by lift) and were taken into the immense belfry, where we could walk around the bells whilst ringing was in progress. Another esteemed member of the Society was actually seen with a torch, contemplating taking a rubbing of the tenor as it swung. The same member, Mr. Ranald Clouston, on arrival at a Flintshire church, found that someone had, in his absence, removed a bell from the churchyard. But he found the incumbent who assured him all was well. On the way to Liverpool we rang at Bidston (6), near Birkenhead. Very few touches came round here as the bells are very light, the tenor being only 5 cwt.

Wednesday was dull and chilly, but we started the day well at Bangor-is-y-Coed (6), with plenty of detective work. As no one met us we hunted high and low for the keys and then for the lights. Eventually all was well and the bells pealed out over the River Dee, which flows by the churchyard. That day we also rang at Gresford (8) and last a well struck quarter peal of Oxford Bob Triples!

THE PEAL ATTEMPTS

Four peal attempts were made—2 of which were successful. Yorkshire Surprise Major at Northrop, and Plain Bob Major at Oxtou, Birkenhead, were gained. The attempt for Grandsire Caters at Wrexham was lost after 1½ hours; our spies say the treble and tenor managed to cross over, but this did not convince everyone! At Shotton the attempt for three Minor methods failed, but a quarter peal of Cambridge Surprise Minor was scored.

Luckily Thursday was sunny and we made our way to the west coast, via Llanfyllin (6) and Machynlleth (8), where the first touch of the tour of Stedman Triples came round. We arrived at Barmouth (8), with our own ropes, but only needed to use two of them. The scenery was really wonderful and made some of us wonder why we had not been to Wales before.

Methods rung ranged from rounds to six Spliced Surprise Major, via a touch of Original Major, which did not come round, and Grandsire Doubles, with various trebles. Friday was the president's wedding anniversary and in honour of this a touch of Spliced London, Oxford and Bristol was attempted—in vain. The standard of ringing was reasonably good, but no one could claim, by the end of the week, not to have been asked, 'Listen to it.'

Friday was spent in the countryside of Cheshire, finishing up with ringing at Eccleston (8). This is rather an ornate church with lovely bells and there was good ringing here. Earlier in the week we rang at Bodellwyddan, Flint's (8), the 'marble church', with slender, white spire, which according to the architect was unsafe so we could only ring for half an hour. But our esteemed and inquisitive member on investigating found the tower swayed only because the bell frame was not fixed to the floor! Also at this church we broke a rope and our short members came into their own.

THE MINUTE'S SILENCE

On the Friday night and Saturday morning the traditional party was held with all sorts of hilarious games. The singsong was not forgotten, although the chief songster was absent due to his marriage later that morning (accordingly the usual minute's silence was held). But no one will ever forget the Yorkshire version of 'Who killed Cock Robin?' Saturday dawned hazy for most of us and we had to pack up to move on for the last day. Our last tower in Wales was Llangollen and the organiser had carefully arranged a late start here! We journeyed to the lovely, old town of Shrewsbury, where we spent the night. On the way we rang at Oswestry (8), where we helped ring for a wedding, and Bictou (6), where half an hour was spent trying to find the key. At dinner that evening we presented Rex and Anne Agg with a set of flowered table mats at a small token of our grateful thanks in arranging such an enjoyable tour, which allowed coffee time and exploring time. On the Sunday morning we helped ring at St. Mary's (10) and St. Chad's (12), in Shrewsbury, before dispersing to various parts of the country.

We must also thank all incumbents who allowed us the use of their bells and to everyone who helped make the Society's first tour outside England such a happy one. We all left very tired, but jolly, especially as we could now proudly say we knew how to pronounce 'it'. J. A. H.

OBITUARY

MR. CHARLES GREEDY

Many ringers will be saddened by the passing of Mr. Charles Greedy at the age of 83. For over 44 years he was a ringer at St. Woolos' Cathedral Church, Newport, Mon., and for most of the time tower warden.

Mr. Greedy was a Somerset man and was well known in many towers of Somerset and Devon, and had rung and conducted peals both in the West of England and South Wales.

He was very proud of the ring of twelve at St. Woolos', their easy going and tone. Whenever a party of visitors came to St. Woolos' he always endeavoured to meet them and renew old acquaintances and make them welcome.

In addition to being the tower warden, he was also a sidesman of the Cathedral. He was recently made an honorary life member of the Llandaff and Monmouth Association of Change Ringers. A most loyal and sincere worker for both the Church and the Exercise, he will be greatly missed.

On August 30th, the day of the funeral, members of the Llandaff and Monmouth Association rung the 12 bells of St. Woolos' half-muffled. On returning to the Cathedral, after interment, the bearers rang a quarter of Grandsire Doubles half-muffled, the band being Messrs. P. Mason 1, L. Baynam 2, D. King (cond.) 3, D. Pike 4, C. Baynam 5, J. James 6. A peal is being arranged in the near future.

MR. DUNCAN McNEIL

Some readers may have learned from the Press of the tragic death on September 29th of Duncan McNeil, Ringing Master of St. Michael's, West Retford, Notts.

Duncan, together with his wife, Mary, and 11-year-old daughter, Elizabeth, were returning from a motoring holiday in Scotland, when they stopped the car to allow Elizabeth to go to a farmhouse on the edge of the road. It is believed she went to tell the farmer that pigs were straying on the road. Whilst she was at the front door a cattle truck ran into the back of the car and both vehicles plunged into a stone wall, and were completely wrecked. Mr. and Mrs. McNeil were killed instantly.

Duncan was physics master at King Edward VI Grammar School, Retford. He was keenly interested in amateur dramatics, and was well known in Retford for his performances in the Little Theatre. He was in charge of the electrical department of the School Theatre Club. Duncan took up ringing in 1953 when it recommenced at West Retford. He was a natural teacher, and was soon appointed Ringing Master. As such he taught very many people to ring at West Retford, many of these being pupils at the Grammar School. He had recently taught a young band to ring, including his daughter, Elizabeth. He was not a keen peal ringer, although he had rung three peals at West Retford, two being all local band, taught by himself. In 1958 he was appointed chairman of the North Notts District of the Southwell Diocesan Guild, and was keenly interested in the Guild's affairs.

He was a keen churchman and had sung in West Retford church choir for several years.

Readers will readily appreciate the suffering and loss sustained by Elizabeth. She had just taken her 11-plus exam, and to help her education and welfare, the headmaster of the King Edward VI Grammar School, Retford, Notts, has launched an appeal fund.

Mr. and Mrs. McNeil were popular and well liked in and around Retford, and they will be greatly missed.

SWANSEA AND BRECON GUILD

A quarterly meeting of the Southern District was held at Gorseinon on September 2nd when there were 25 present, including three visitors, from Yeovil, Cardiff and Yorkshire. A service with a sermon was conducted by the curate, Rev. Geraint Hughes, who took the place of the Vicar, on holiday. Tea was provided by the ladies of the church, who were thanked by Mr. David Lewis, of Cadoxton. The Rev. G. Hughes presided at the meeting after which there was ringing till 8.30.

THE BELLS OF TULIP TOWN

By T. A. BEVIS

WHEN we think of tulips we think of Spalding, for there is no other town in the land which has given its all to this popular flower: and in return, the tulip having thrived and developed in the neighbourhood of that prosperous Lincolnshire town over for over 200 years, has well and truly placed Spalding on the nation's floral map.

Sprawling each side of the River Welland, Spalding is the ideal centre for those who possess more than a passing interest in horticulture and agriculture; it is also convenient to any who delight in the grand old churches of Fenland, for within a 15-mile radius of the town are glorious fanes to be discovered at Crowland, Long Sutton, Holbeach, Pinchbeck, Gosberon, Surfleet, Boston, and many more.

Spalding, too, has a rare gem in her floral crown. The writer possesses fragrant memories of a stroll through the gardens of Ayscoughfee Hall, admiring the colourful display—tulips, of course!—and at the same time listening to the bells ringing in the nearby steeple of that most impressive church dedicated to Our Lady and St. Nicholas.

Dating from 1284, the Priory church has just about everything. A bewildering array of arches rise to support a hammer beam roof. There are no less than four arcades and the church is almost as wide as it is long. It has an interesting array of windows—particularly the widely splayed lancets of the chancel.

Of impressive proportions, the tower has a goodly display of Early English work. Graceful pinnacles lend support to flying buttresses, which give the impression of flinging themselves at the delicate ball-encrusted 15th century spire.

NOTED RINGERS

The porch gate and a sanctus bell are to the memory of Sgt. Richard Mackman, who died at Alexandria, 1915, and his brother, M. E. G. Mackman, killed in France during the First World War. Their father, Richard Mackman, vergier, and a very capable ringer, was for many years captain of the local team. Mr. J. G. Ames is the present captain, and has been a ringer at Spalding since 1919.

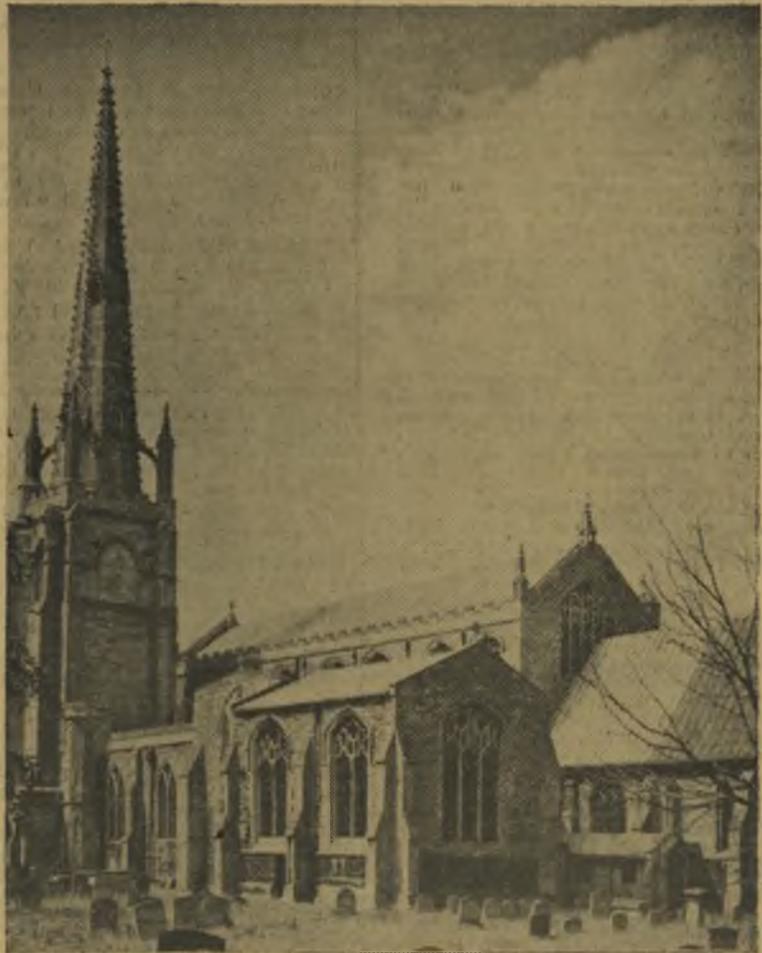

A new wooden floor has greatly improved the ground floor ringing chamber, at one time open to the south aisle.

James Stanley Wright rang the bells from 1841-1909 and his memory is colourfully perpetuated in the beautiful rendering of a single light stained window, showing an Abbot of Crowland and no less than 16 bells. A useful addition, the clock is in memory of A. J. Farr, who was captain for several years, and who died on December 8th, 1956.

The ropes form a very good circle and the bells, contained in a steel frame, handle well—and ring well! They were originally a mixed octave, the treble and second being cast by Warners (1885)—previous to this date there was a ring of six. The third was by Osborn (about 1800), the fourth by Warner (1904). Number five is dated 1733 and the sixth 1744. The seventh claims to be granddaddy of them all, it first seeing the light of day in 1648. The tenor in F (originally by Osborn, 1801) is usually given in peal reports as weighing 16 cwt., but Dove has it at 15 cwt. 1 qr. 12 lb.

John Taylor introduced all these bells to the furnace in 1926 and they were rehung at a cost of £2,200 the same year. The octave is suspended approximately 12 ft. below its former position, thus reducing the strain on the steeple. A service of dedication of the recast bells took place in the parish church on March 7th, 1926, conducted by the Rev. B. G. Nicholas, assisted by the Rev. H. Law James, Vicar of Surfleet.

The tenor is dedicated in the name of the church's patron saints, St. Mary and St. Nicholas; seventh is in the name of the Angel Gabriel; 6th, St. John the Divine; 5th, St. Peter; 4th, St. John the Baptist; 3rd, St. Thomas of Canterbury; 2nd, St. Martin; treble, St. George: 'May the men who fell in the field of Honour and who died to save England be ever held in remembrance.'

THE CHURCH OF OUR LADY AND ST. NICHOLAS, SPALDING.

Many peals—and more recently Surprise methods—have been rung on the bells and various records are fixed to the tower walls, a few given below.

FIRST PEAL 1804

The earliest consisted of 5,040 'Plain and Treble Bob,' rung on February 23rd, 1804, the time recorded in true stop-watch manner: 2 hours 57 minutes and 38 seconds! The team was J. Sharpe, J. Robinson, D. Page, F. Woolley, W. Sawyer and J. Cepe.

Two peals in seven methods were rung on February 12th and May 24th, 1884, respectively, conducted by R. Mackman, who also conducted three other peals before the augmentation to eight.

On May 13th, 1886, the octave sounded forth to its first peal of Grandsire Triples, Mr. Mackman being the conductor. This was followed by an extent of Court Bob Triples on January 24th, 1888, under the helmanship of the previous conductor.

A former captain, the late Mr. R. Jarvis, conducted a peal of Grandsire Triples on February 26th, 1895. Other peals were scored from time to time: one of these—Plain Bob Major—was rung in honour of the 100th birthday of George Jarvis, who at that great age was still active as churchwarden. The occasion occurred on May 29th, 1936, and the conductor was Mr. J. G. Ames.

RUPERT RICHARDSON'S LAST PEAL

Another notable peal was that of 5,056 Double Norwich Court Bob (conductor P. A. Corby) on September 26th, 1946. It was the last peal rung by Rupert Richardson, a former Master of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild. Mr. Richardson passed away on January 13th, 1947.

Richard Mackman was a member of the Guild for 50 years and following his death, in 1934, a peal of Siedman (half-muffled) was brought round on June 22nd of the same year.

The tower is in possession of an interesting book which records all ringing activities from 1883. Another intriguing item is to be seen attached to the west wall: it is an ancient handbell bearing strange symbols, and was used 200 years ago by the town crier of Whaplode, Lincs.

It is well worth visiting Spalding in spring-time when thousands of flower lovers from far and near converge on the town and feast their eyes on the splendour of a glittering Lincolnshire carpet designed by man and inspired by nature—narcissi, hyacinths, daffodils and the all-important tulip—second only to the radiant Tulip Queen on her magnificent processional tour.

Visit the gardens of Ayscoughfee Hall and if you are lucky you may hear the music of Spalding bells.

DURHAM AND NEWCASTLE

Gainford, one the county's loveliest villages and where there is no band to ring regularly, was visited by the Southern District for their meeting on August 26th. Members from Yorkshire were among those who rang touches in a number of Doubles and Minor methods, from Plain Bob upwards, in the afternoon and evening.

The Vicar (Rev. Ieuan Samuel) conducted the service, and the vice-president (Mr. F. W. Cooke) presided at the business meeting, after tea, when it was agreed that the next meeting should be held at St. Cuthbert's, Darlington, in November.

Further ringing after tea included touches of Double Oxford and London Surprise.

AFTER 49 YEARS!

At the meeting of the Leicester District of the Leicester Diocesan Guild, held at Groby on August 26th, Mr. John W. Spencer, of Melbourne, Australia, attended specially to meet his old friend and instructor, Ernest Morris, whom he had not met for 49 years! It was on August 24th, 1912, that these two veterans stood together in a 7-method Minor peal at Groby, which was a farewell to Mr. Spencer, who left for Australia the following week. This peal was conducted by Ernest Morris and so, almost to the date, 49 years after, these two (with Victor and Ernest Geary who were also in the 1912 peal) met again.

Mr. Spencer joined the Melbourne Cathedral band and rang several peals there, the most noteworthy being the historic peal of 5.038 Grandsire Cinques rung on November 11th, 1934, when six Australian ringers and six of the 'missionaries' took part, during the 'Great Adventure' tour. Mr. Spencer recalled his first peal—also conducted by Ernest Morris—which was the first rung at the neighbouring village of Kirby Muxloe on June 19th, 1909. With Ernest Geary, who was also present at this 1961 meeting, they are the only survivors of that peal.

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

THE LOCUM

WE have all at this time of year sent for our family doctor or waited in his surgery, only to find that a stranger has taken his place for the holiday period. And almost always we have felt disappointed that our old family friend and confidant has not been at hand when we needed him and that we have had to confide in and depend upon a—to us—new doctor. If we stop to reflect we may well conclude that our own doctor is as much entitled to a holiday as we are ourselves, though somehow it seems most unfortunate that he has to have his holiday just when we needed him. And if we think still further we may realise how difficult it must be for the newcomer. He is expected to treat us correctly and sympathetically when he knows nothing of our background or medical history and while well aware that he is but a temporary occupant of his position and will never know the result of his care and attention.

Readers of 'The Ringing World' are for two weeks this year in the position of the unhappy patient described. Hitherto, editors of our journal have taken their work on holiday with them. They have been able to a certain extent to get the routine work done beforehand or they will have to catch up on it when they return. But for last minute matters they have arranged to deal with business during their holiday. Not only must they do 52 weeks' work in 50, but even then the remaining two weeks are not clear of the inevitable concern associated with the regular weekly production of a technical journal.

This year it has been the endeavour of 'The Ringing World' Committee to see as far as possible that our Editor has his holiday reasonably free from the cares of office. How far we shall be successful in that remains to be seen. And how far we shall succeed in pleasing our readers is perhaps even more doubtful. But whatever the result may be, for this week and next there is a locum in the editorial chair. So if your notice of meeting is not very accurate, your donation to 'The Ringing World' is not acknowledged promptly, your initials are incorrect in the peal columns (heinous offence), or the number of changes in your peal of Plain Bob Major is not divisible by 16, then please console yourself with the thought that for the other 50 weeks in the year all these things are dealt with efficiently and accurately. And if, in spite of this plea, you still wish to write a letter of complaint to the Editor, will you please blame the locum, so that Mr. White is not visited with the errors and omissions of another.

In undertaking this stand-in arrangement we are sure of one thing only—that the whole Exercise will join us in wishing our Editor a very happy and health-giving holiday.

W. G. W.

OUR SERVICE TO RINGERS

IT is difficult for the Editor to write about our paper—partly because modesty forbids and partly because he is so much aware of the dependence of the Exercise upon its continued existence that he may well assume that others are also aware of it. But an unusual letter came in his post this week which highlights another way in which our paper has been useful to ringers. The Rev. Michael Freeman, of Messingham, Lincs, writes referring to an advertisement which appeared at the beginning of the year for holiday accommodation at Torquay. He recommends the private hotel concerned as a very good place to stay—comfort, good food, convenient situation, friendly atmosphere and reasonable terms. The proprietor, he says, has good ringing contacts, but non-ringers will be glad to know that he doesn't talk ringing from morn until night!

We are, of course, doubly pleased to get this letter: pleased that Mr. Freeman enjoyed his holiday, and even more so that our advertising department has justified itself so well. So to our advertisers we say, please continue to support us, and to our readers, please support our advertisers. And help us to find more of them—for our good and your own.

STONE, STAFFS, RINGERS AT LIVERPOOL CATHEDRAL

The annual outing of St. Michael's ringers was this year spent in the Liverpool area. Leaving Stone at 7.45 a.m. the party arrived at Prescot, the first tower of the day, well on time. We were welcomed by two of the local ringers, and the bells were soon going to Stedman Triples. Touches of Kent Major and Plain Bob were also brought into rounds. Leaving our Prescot friends, the short journey to Liverpool was made, with the Cathedral ring the high-spot of the day.

We were soon on our way by lift to the ringing room, and received a warm welcome from Mr. Joe Ridyard and other members of the Cathedral band, who were raising the great bells.

Before ringing we were taken up to view the bells, and after seeing them, our confidence in ringing them was nil. A little nervously, we took the ropes of the front octave, and found the bells a pleasure to ring, a well struck touch of Stedman being rung. With a Liverpool ringer on the tenor, rounds on the 12 was attempted, but proved a little too much for the treble ringers, so we went back to the front eight, with a good touch of Bob Major. Grandsire Triples concluded the ringing, and we left the fine Cathedral for New Brighton for lunch.

Leaving non-ringers on the front we made for St. Hilary's, Wallasey (6), and enjoyable touches of Minor were rung; Edwin Jones met us. After tea we left for home with a call at Nantwich on the way. We were met by the local captain, and the lovely-toned eight provided the nicest ringing of the day.

Methods rung during the day ranged from Grandsire, Stedman, Plain Bob, Kent, Erin and Bob Triples.

We are indebted to the Dean of Liverpool and incumbents of towers visited for their kind permission to ring their bells, and the local ringers who met us and made us so welcome, with a special mention of Mr. Ridyard, who made the visit to the great Cathedral possible. Thank you, 'Joe'.

RINGING VERSE

We do not know whether the recent increase in ringing verse submitted to us is inspired by John Betjeman's 'Summon'd by Bells' or is merely the sense of rhythm bursting forth. But we think that the following, by the late J. Armiger Trilope and published many years ago, will bear repetition:

YE LAIE OF YE ANTIENT RYNGER

I
Ye menne of ye Tower of Sainte Ioseph
Of ye village of Sumthyngforde, (See Note I)
Were assembl'd onne daie, in ioviale waie,
Adowne ye festal boarde; [Glasses
And with Pipes, and with Songyes, and with
They were merrie with onne accorde.

II
Then, warm'd with ye festiv spirite,
Their fancyes flighte tooke wynges,
And they tolde Grete Thynges of their doynge,
And of menne of olde did they synge,
And ye 'Famous Pele of Stedman's Cinques,
That ye Colledge Youthes did rynges.
[(See Note II)

III
Then upp spake an Antient Rynger,
Of hoarie miene was hee.
'Ye talke,' quoth he, 'of your doynge,
And what fine fellowes yee bee,
But lysten, and I will tell you,
Of ye thynges that have happen'd to mee.'

IV
Then a hushe fell over that meetynge,
For they'd heard ye yarne before, [started,
And they knew, when ye olde manne was
Hee was goode for an hour or moore;
And those at ye furthest corner
Began to crepe to ye doore.

V
'It was,' quoth that Antient Rynger,
'In ye summer of Forty Two,
Wee ascended ye towere of Saint Ioseph,
Eight lustie merne and true.
To ryng of ye pele of Bobb Maiors
Forty thousand three hundred and two.
[(See Note III)

VI
And I was ye Manne at ye Tenor,
And ye bobbes were call'd by Mee,
And ye ingenious Composition,
I had worked out latterlie:
And ye seven obey'd allye orderes I gave
With grete fidelite.

VII
We started at six of ye mornynge,
And range through ye reste of ye daie,
And ye folloyng Mornynge was breakynge
When ye manne at ye fyth gave waie:
So I tooke his rope in addition to myne,
Though that's nothyng to me but plaie.

VIII
Mornynge was wanyng to evenynge
Ere ye Third and ye Sixth felle oute,
So I tooke onne rope with my elbowe
And wounde ye other aboute
Ye parte that I usually sitt onn;
And contain'd ye bobbes to shoute.

IX
Then an hour or two laps'd sans excitement
And a peale I'd begun to compose,
When another manne's rope fell vacante,
I really forget now whose,
So I took yet taile end in my mouthe
And call'd ye bobbes through my nose.

X
Ye dawne of ye fyth daie was breakynge
When ye peale at length came rounde,
And settyng ye eight bells I was ringynge
I look'd about mee and found
Seven prostrate, lifeless figures
Scatter'd about ye grounde.

XI
'Saje Ryngers! Telle Mee trulie
Have I not glorie wonne?'
Hee look'd around, about ye boarde,
But answer came there nonne,
By two's and three's they'd all clear'd oute,
And left him nere a onne.

Note I.—The name of this place does not appear in any atlas, and its position is doubtful. One learned commentator has identified it with Prospero's island, mainly on the grounds that it 'was full of sweet sounds that give delight and hurt not'; but in other quarters this opinion is bitterly contested.

Note II.—A song written by the late James Dwight, and at one time popular at College Youths' meetings.

Note III.—The veracious historian who condescends to prose informs us that the actual number attempted was the extent of the method, 40,320, not 40,302; but the deuce is in it if the poet is not allowed a little licence.

CORSTON AND TWERTON OUTING

Thanks to the kindness of the Rev. R. O. Fry, who made all the arrangements, a party from Corston and Twerton towers spent a pleasant afternoon in the Yeovil area on August 26th. They met at Ilchester to enjoy a ring on the very pleasant five, and then went on to the somewhat heavier five at Chilton Cantelo. The next tower was Mudford, where the heavier bells, though very tuneful, were more difficult to handle. The Rector, who welcomed us, was an interested spectator of the proceedings, with a running commentary by Mr. Fry.

Tea in the Church Hall at St. Michael's, Yeovil, was a truly generous spread, prepared by three members of the Young Wives' Group; this was followed by Choral Evensong, conducted by the Rev. R. O. Fry.

In the evening visits were paid to the eights at East and West Coker, the merits of which are too well known to need elaboration. Methods ranged from rounds for the beginners to Cambridge Minor. Our grateful thanks are particularly due to Mr. Fry for making all the arrangements, to the Young Wives for preparing the tea, to the various incumbents for permission to ring, to the people who met us at the various towers and not least to the organist for her efforts at the service.

Having attended a recent meeting at Bolney, Sussex, we can attest to the keenness of the local ringers, to the interest of the 'History' and the usefulness of the pencils, referred to in a letter in this issue.

The quarter peal at Reading on August 31st was Mrs. Thurmott's first. Mr. W. Hibbert writes that she and her husband, Maurice, will be sadly missed at St. Laurence's, but their loss will be Bicester's gain, as they go to live there this autumn.

Unless you are a genius, the only way to master mathematical problems is to get down to them with pencil and paper. We would impress upon beginners in our art that this is also the way to get the benefit out of our technical ringing articles.

Mr. Anthony A. Upton, of Knowle, Warwickshire, has been accepted for training for the Ministry and goes to Wells Theological College on October 24th. He will find at least one other ringer there—Mr. Iain Lipscomb. We wish Mr. Upton well in his chosen vocation.

We believe that our 'Servants' and 'Personalities' series have proved popular among our readers. There are, however, a number of well known ringers who have not replied to invitations sent them for their biographical details. We are sure that this is due to a most becoming modesty, but we ask those concerned to realise that we are interested in reading about them and they need not be too modest.

A news cutting tells us that Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hawthorne, of Thames Ditton, have been 'summoned by bells,' but this time, we are sorry to say, it was the fire brigade. We hope, Frank, that the damage has been put right and the insurance company has been generous.

'The Wiltshire Times' for August 25th publishes a long and interesting account of the bells of Edington and the recent peal there. The account was written by the peal organiser, Mr. Geoffrey K. Dodd, of Highclere, Hants, and a large photograph of this fine church was included.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Some of us, while admiring the new Guildford Cathedral on the day of the ringers' visit to Pyrford in memory of J. S. Goldsmith, were standing near to the Pulling memorial bell. An elderly lady, not a ringer, was heard to remark, 'What a lovely name for a ringer!'

Is it chance that the series of mishaps on the U.A. tour should be continued afterwards in the Nottingham area or is it really due to the presence of a well-known cleric?

Correction.—The ringer of the third in the quarter of Stedman Triples at Hughenden, Bucks. on August 9th (page 587) was Mr. B. W. Willgress and not as submitted and printed.

A lady's coat was left in the ringing chamber at Easthampstead, Berks, after the combined practice on August 19th. Will the owner please collect or contact S. G. Scott, Linden, Skimped Hill, Bracknell.

The ringers in the quarter peal of Grandsire Triples at St. Giles', Oxford, on September 3rd, send compliments to two couples married on September 2nd—Dermot J. Roaf to Caroline Hughes and Christine M. Woodward to Geoffrey Lanegan.

Mr. H. J. Blacker, B.Sc., only son of Mr. Harold Blacker, popular chairman of the Chippenham Branch of the Gloucester and Bristol Association, is to be ordained in Lichfield Cathedral, on September 24th and will be taking up duties at Wednesbury Parish Church, Staffs.

The peal at Goole, Yorks, recently was for the ruby wedding of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Taylor and also Jack's 40th peal! The ringers taking part would like to place on record their appreciation of a splendid tea before the peal and ample refreshments afterwards—in the usual Mrs. Taylor fashion.

Of the quarter peal at Newbury on September 3rd, Mr. Reed writes that this is the first time the ten have been rung to a quarter by an all-resident Sunday service band—a just cause for pride. They welcome Mr. W. Butler's recent move into the district and send their good wishes to Mr. Ted Curtis, in hospital in Reading.

S.F.E. WHITSUN TOUR

THE programme for the Society of Friends of the Exercise Whitsun tour was headed 'Devon and Cornwall,' but the first tower was at Buckland St. Mary in Somerset. A 'splinter group,' travelling westwards by another route, joined the local practice at Walton, near Street, and were told that this heavy five had not yet been rung to a peal.

Upon arrival at our headquarters, the King's Arms, East Budleigh, we found that our title had led to some confusion, as the Diocesan Advisory Office in Exeter had received a letter from an incumbent who said that 'a party of Quakers' wished to ring on his bells! Our thanks are due to Mr. E. Maurice Atkins for sorting out this misunderstanding.

We also discovered, when bedrooms were allocated, that Jacqueline Purnell was to share a room with John Hunt and John Gilbert, she having been confused with David Purnell. This problem solved, the 'K.A.' settled down to the disturbed type of slumber which prevails when the Society is in residence.

Saturday morning brought the sound of cows passing beneath the windows on their way to milking and the city dwellers, unused to such sights of the countryside, gazed down in wonderment from above. We were soon in the holiday traffic on the A.30 to Bridestowe, and then along pleasantly contrasting lanes to Stowford, where the ladies rang Stedman Doubles. Our next call was Lifton, where an hour's ringing on this splendid eight gave us time to ring Spliced Surprise Major, as well as Triples for the benefit of those who like to ring the tenor behind, with a good beat.

The afternoon took us to Launceston, first to another good eight, St. Stephen's, and then to the less well known six of St. Thomas'. Back into Devonshire, our enthusiasm was dampened by a broken rope at St. Swithin's, Pyworthy, but we soon recovered upon reaching Holsworthy, where the ringing concluded with a demonstration of the automatic chiming mechanism playing 'Holsworthy Church Bells.'

On Sunday morning the party joined local towers for service ringing. One enthusiast, on a borrowed bicycle and, with trousers tucked into socks in the best tradition of the local inhabitants, pedalled with great effort to Lympstone, only to find that there was no ringing. Some bathed at Sandy Bay.

We were privileged during the afternoon to ring the bells of Exeter Cathedral for Evensong and the Society brought round Stedman and Grandsire Cinques in good style. Two quarter peals were rung for evening service, at St. David's, Exeter, and Exminster.

Monday's programme comprised a succession of sixes, commencing with Talaton and Payhembury: the Gillett tenor at the latter tower sounded much heavier than its true weight of 15 cwt. Whilst travelling between these towers, we saw a hen pheasant and her family of chicks, the chicks scuttling back and forth at the foot of the steep roadside bank as we drove slowly past. This was an unusual sight even in such truly rural surroundings.

At Feniton we saw some ingenious bell-hanging, where a new treble had been hung above an existing five. The space for the additional bell was so restricted that a section of the roof timbers had been removed to accommodate it and its rope ran between the flanges of the tenor below.

Awliscombe proved heavy going and unmusical, and the six at Honiton nearly deafened us so we were glad to arrive at Luppitt, where the well kept ringing chamber is a credit to the local band, who rang a peal here last year, which included five 'firsts.'

The signpost said 'Dunkeswell ½ mile' but, by a miracle of navigation the writer expanded this to three miles before arriving within sound of this peculiar ring, where 3-4 strike almost the same note. There was some speculation as to whether they were in this unmusical state when rehung in 1959. Hemyock bells were well worth ringing, but the same could not be said of Culmstock, only eight of the day.

We finished in Somerset, as we began, on the excellent Gillett six at Churchstanton and said 'farewell until next time.' But that was not the end of the story, for some were accidentally reunited at Bristol Temple Meads Station at the witching hour of midnight, and the last weary 'savage tourist' climbed into bed as the cocks were announcing the arrival of Tuesday morning.

PERSONALITIES OF THE EXERCISE—37

MR. GEORGE E. FEIRN,
Lincoln Diocesan Guild.

Farming and peal ringing do not always go together. The daily duties of a farmer are such that he cannot usually spend as much time as he would like in the belfry. However, Mr. George E. Feirn, of Kinton Lindsey, Gainsborough, Lincs, has managed to do both very successfully, because since 1943 he has run a farm of 55 acres, of which 44 are arable, and he has also found time to conduct a large number of multi-spliced peals of Minor and Major, both on tower- and handbells. In this branch of our art he is one of the country's leading exponents, and his wonderful memory has helped to put the Lincoln Guild in the forefront for these types of peals.

George Feirn was born at Bigby, Lincs, on April 10th, 1914, and was educated at Brigg Grammar School, and at the Midland Agricultural College at Sutton Bonington, Notts, which is now part of Nottingham University. He first learnt to handle a bell at Grasby, which has a four-bell tower, in 1931, but later returned to Bigby, where he was taught change ringing by the late George W. Blanchard, who conducted George's first peal at this tower on December 10th, 1932, consisting of four 720's of Kent T.B. and three of Plain Bob Minor. He was also given encouragement by Archdeacon Parry, who was then Rector of Bigby, and also a member of the Central Council. He is proud of his first peal as conductor, because it was a handbell peal of Bob Minor, rung at Barnetby on June 22nd, 1933. Very few ringers call a handbell peal for their 'first.' While at Sutton Bonington he rang several peals at the Loughborough Bell Foundry, under the conductorship of Colin Harrison, and also conducted his first eight bell peal at this tower. George's present peal total is 440, of which he has conducted 225, and of this total 144 have been on handbells, with 98 as conductor.

Ringing Spliced peals has always interested George, and he has conducted 65 of these, including Minor, Major and Royal. On June 16th, 1939, he conducted the first ever peal in 100 methods at Bassingham, and followed this up by calling 102, 104 and finally 125 Minor methods in nine 720's at Bigby. This was the record until Mr. Roland Beniston called 126 methods at Copt Oak, Leicestershire, on June 30th, 1951. On handbells, in company with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bray, he rang several multi-method Minor peals, culminating in 105 methods on June 30th, 1947, and 106 methods on August 8th, 1955, again the record for three months, until the Yorkshiremen rang 109 methods in November, 1955. He has also composed and conducted many multi Plain Major methods 'in hand' up to 27 methods. Actually his band had rung up to 50 methods but, by an unfortunate error in the composition, 12 multi-Major peals were found to be false, though this in no way detracts from the brilliance of the performances.

One peal which George is very pleased with was Original Major rung at Walesby on May 29th, 1938, which he composed and conducted. It was the first one rung with 4th place bobs, and there were 720 of them! These calls can come as often as every two changes, making this a very clever performance.

George holds several offices with the Lincoln Guild. He has been Ringing Master of the West Lindsey Branch since 1945, peal secretary since 1948, a member of the Guild Committee from 1947, and he has been a Central Council representative since 1945, serving on the Peals Collection Committee since 1957.

In 1944, George married Frances Blanchard. Although she is not a ringer, she enjoys being hostess to all ringers who visit Cleatham House Farm. The keeping of poultry is a main feature, and there is a breeding flock of about 2,000 birds. Mrs. Feirn takes a very active part in this side of the farm work, and has thus enabled George to give more time to his ringing activities. Despite his many fine achievements, George is of a very modest and retiring nature. His knowledge of composing and conducting has been gained mostly through hard study and self-instruction, and reflects credit on him for his perseverance and enthusiasm, coupled with the loyalty of his friends.

APACE.

FILM ON BELLRINGING

Dear Sir.—The Central Council Committee, of which I am convener, has been commissioned to investigate and report on the possibilities regarding a film on bellringing. Many readers of 'The Ringing World' will no doubt be able to contribute useful ideas or even technical assistance towards such a project. I shall therefore be grateful if anyone with definite ideas or able to help in any way will communicate with me or with 'The Ringing World' so that all aspects regarding a bellringing film may be taken into account.

There would be little purpose in going to the expense of producing a film unless it was likely to be put to some general use. A film could possibly cover three main aspects, either as a whole or in separate parts:

- 1. Publicity and educational, for showing to non-ringing audiences.
- 2. A film designed to introduce non-ringers to bellringers with a view to obtaining recruits.
- 3. A film for ringers—covering instruction in the main branches, with perhaps emphasis on bell control and elementary change ringing on tower- and handbells.

The first part could include anything connected with bells and bellringing likely to stimulate the public to interest and understanding and it might be possible to obtain the co-operation of some non-ringing body or commercial enterprise in a film of this nature.

A film purely on bellringing instruction would have to be financed by the ringing fraternity so a great deal of thought and care must go into its production to be sure that it really would meet a need and be of real use to a good number of people.

The method of presenting the material in the film needs careful thought. Greater interest might be created by interweaving a narrative and introducing imaginary characters and such a production would call for literary ability as well as technical knowledge of bells and ringing.

The detailed technical arrangements of production would call for specialised knowledge in sound reproduction, photography, etc.

A decision would also have to be made on what type of film, 8 or 16 mm, black and white or colour, sound or silent, should be used and various factors would have to be taken into account in deciding this.

There are many other factors to be considered and the above mentioned ones need further expansion. The ideas and suggestions of readers will be very welcome.—Yours, etc.,

NORMAN CHADDOCK,

Broom, Rotherham.

TREBLE BOB FOR BEGINNERS

By WILFRID G. WILSON

III KENT TREBLE BOB

This is the simplest variation of Treble Bob. Let us divide the lead of the method into sections of four rows each—four when the treble is in 1-2, four when the treble is in 3-4, and so on. And let us examine the first section.

Dodging only

1 2 3 4 5 6
2 1 4 3 6 5
1 2 3 4 5 6
2 1 4 3 6 5

Kent variation

1 2 3 4 5 6
2 1 4 3 6 5
1 2 4 3 5 6
2 1 4 3 6 5

We may not alter the path of the treble, so in the first section we may not alter the path of the second either. If we alter the positions of five and six we shall have 65 striking at back stroke, which is unmusical. Therefore, let us alter three and four. Instead of these two bells dodging let three make thirds and fourths places and four make fourths and thirds places. At the end of the first section we still get the row 214365, but we have avoided the repetition with a minimum of alteration.

Now let us look at the second section of Kent, starting from 214365. The treble moves into the 3-4 position and as we must not interfere with its dodging path we cannot make our necessary alteration in this position. We could, of course, make a variation in the 5-6 position, but, while at this point we should not get the unmusical 65 at backstroke, we might at other points in our composition. And as we left the 5-6 position unaltered in the first section, let us try to keep it unaltered all the way through. That leaves the 1-2 position in which we have in our example the second and the fourth. Let one of them lead full and the other make second's place over it—instead of dodging. This alteration corresponds to our 3-4 places in the first section and has the desired effect of cutting out the repetition.

Now let us look at the third section—starting from 246153. To avoid repetition in this section we could not, even if we wished, make our variation in the 5-6 position, because we must leave the treble to its dodging path. We have the choice of varying the 1-2 or 3-4 positions. As the previous section had its alterations in 1-2 our forefathers decided to continue using this position. In our example the second and sixth are in this 1-2 position and we can again let one of those bells lead full and the other make seconds over it.

We have now got halfway through our lead of Minor and the treble starts its dodging path down to the front again. In the fourth and fifth sections we make our variation in the 1-2 position as we did in the second and third sections. In the fourth section the second and fifth are the bells concerned and in the fifth section the second and the third. In each case the second makes seconds place over the other bell which leads full

Now we get back to a section where the treble has to dodge in 1-2. So we must make our variation elsewhere. The natural position to do this is in 3-4 to correspond with the alteration in the first section of the

At the end of this section and the beginning of the next lead the treble leads a whole pull. If the bell that dodged with it (No. 2) were to make seconds, as in Plain Bob, then the other bells would dodge and rounds would come up. But we do not want rounds after one lead, so we let the bell in sixth place stay in that place at hand- and backstroke. The other bells will plain hunt into the row 142635. Here is the whole lead we have rung, with lines dividing it into the sections we have discussed. If we repeat the process from our new lead end 142635 we shall get to 164523; thence another repetition will give us 156342, another 135264 and a fifth lead will bring us back into rounds. This will be a full course of Kent Treble Bob Minor. As there are five working bells, there are five leads and each of these bells does the same work, merely starting from and finishing at different parts of the cycle.

Space prevents us writing out the whole course here, but, using this lead as a model, you should write out the full course just once. If you use squared paper and fill in the path of the treble first that will help to prevent mistakes. If you also fill in at the treble's full lead the starting rows of each lead, as given above, that will be a further safeguard to ensure that your figures are correct.

Having written out a whole course— $5 \times 24 = 120$ changes—let us follow the work of one bell throughout the course. It doesn't really matter which bell we take. Snowdon, in 'Standard Methods,' uses the second, and draws his 'blue line' along the path of that bell. The Ringers' Diary uses the tenor (in Minor the sixth). When we are first learning to ring we are far more likely to be ringing the second than the tenor, so let us draw our line through the work of the second.

It starts with a dodge with the treble in 1-2. It has to, as we may not alter the treble's path. Then it leads a whole pull. That allows the treble to get away from the front and another bell (the fourth in this case) to get to the front. Make seconds place over this bell. Lead a whole pull again. Seconds place over the next leading bell (six in this case). Lead again. Seconds over the next bell (five). Lead again. Seconds again (over three this time). Lead again. Then the treble appears on the front again, so performe dodge with it in 1-2. This work is called 'The Slow' and consists of alternate leading and seconds place over each of the other bells in turn (four of them in Minor, six in Major and so on). This slow work starts with a dodge with the treble in 1-2 and ends likewise, so that makes it easy to tell when to start and when to finish it. After dodging with the treble, make third's place, then fourths place. This is called 'First places up.' Dodge 5-6 up, whole pull behind, dodge 5-6 and 3-4 down. Then lead a whole pull. No dodge on the front because the treble is not there to dodge with. Again make thirds place and fourths place. This is called 'Second places up.' Dodge 5-6 up and down; then 3-4 down. Lead again. This time as you get to 3-4 up the treble will be coming down into that position, so you must dodge 3-4 up with it instead of making places. Carry on with the dodging work in 5-6 up and down and again in 3-4 down. This time it is with the treble which is going up and it is a warning that next time you go down through the 3-4 position you must make places. Lead, dodge 3-4 and 5-6 up and 5-6 down. Then places in fourths and thirds—called 'First places down.' Lead. Dodge in 3-4 and 5-6 up and 5-6 down. Places in fourths and thirds again—called 'Second places down'—and as you go down to the front again you are back to where you started and have to dodge with the treble and go in Slow again.

A little practice will show that this is quite simple. Apart from the easy Slow work described above, you dodge always in 3-4 and 5-6 up and down except when you make places in 3-4. And you do that going up when you come out of the Slow and again the next lead. And you do that going down when you go into the Slow and in the lead before that. In each case the treble will be nearer to the front than you are and that is a useful guide. At other times, if you are not dodging in 3-4 with the treble, it is behind you in 5-6 (or 7-8 in Major).

The only real difference in ringing Kent Treble Bob Major instead of Minor is that it is much longer. Instead of a lead of 24 changes and five leads in a course, you have a lead of 32 changes and seven in a course, making 224 changes. Additional dodging takes place in 7-8 up and down. There are four sections in each half-lead, instead of three, but the variations to avoid repetition in the extra two sections merely add two more sets of lead and seconds place to the work of the bell in the Slow.

ANOTHER LINK WITH SQUIRE FORTREY

The history of the Nottingham cup handbells, referred to in the article on Squire Fortrey ('R.W.' September 1st, 1961, page 590), is brought up to date with the following note, sent us by Mr. Edwin H. Lewis. Another coincidence which would be too much to expect in a novel!

The bells, which were given to Nottingham, came into the possession of E. H. Lewis some 39 years ago through his brother-in-law, the Rev. H. S. T. Richardson. It was the intention of them both that they should go back to St. Mary's Church, Nottingham, where they could be sure that they would be kept in the tower and be entered on the church 'arrier.' Mr. Lewis, considering that this could now be done, returned the bells on August 28th in a glass-fronted cupboard, in which there is a plate engraved as follows:

These Bells
formerly belonging to Lawyer William Doubleday Crofts and his Cupboard were given by Edwin H. Lewis in memory of his brother-in-law
Harold S. T. Richardson, Priest and Bellringer.
Mr. Lewis' father's first curacy was at St. Mary's, from 1869-1871, when he became Vicar of St. Ann's, Nottingham. His father-in-law, Archdeacon Richardson, was Vicar of St. Mary's from 1886-1900.

BELLS FOR EAST AFRICA

Dear Sir.—I read with interest Lt.-Col. Jerram's helpful suggestion for Kilifi bells (August 11th issue). Evidently it was not clear in my letter that Taylors' quotation was C.I.F., Mombasa, complete with all fittings, except the frame, which is being made from local seasoned hardwood by the chairman of our committee, Mr. W. G. Lillywhite. The only extra cost will be the transport from Mombasa docks, 40 miles (£3).

Another point is that the framework of the tower and church is reinforced concrete, designed by structural engineers for a ring of this weight, which was considered an above average, but not outside, six bell ring. It would seem a pity to underbell it, now that it is finished, especially as it has a special purpose as a memorial to two great pioneers. Our church was consecrated by the Archbishop of East Africa on August 25th in the presence of a congregation numbering about 100, of whom the majority were local Africans.
—Yours faithfully,
W. F. P. KELLY,
Kilifi, Kenya.

KILL THE BOLNEY BOGEY

Dear Sir.—In the early part of this century a firm of bellfounders recommended that a new frame be installed for the ring of eight bells at Bolney. However, the old frame continued in service. Another firm, when estimating for work in 1946, wrote to say that a new metal frame would be the answer, but the P.C.C. could not afford the cost and the old frame creaked on. Now this year yet a third firm has estimated for a new metal frame to dispel the bad 'go' of the bells.

Can you please help us to kill this bogey, which has been around for over half a century? Please read on.

The bells were silent for some months until June, 1960, when a young band, composed of choristers and servers, began training under the instruction of ringers from the Southern Division of Sussex. The original six made good progress in spite of the badly going bells and, indeed, it was a very thrilling moment when they rang for their first church service on Christmas morning last year.

Since then two more boys and two more girls have commenced training and are progressing well.

What excitement there was when the instructor called, 'This is all,' at the end of the evening's struggle for a successful quarter peal, which was the first for each of the 'original six.' This was in July, 1961.

The P.C.C. has a heavy burden of expenditure following the architect's five year inspection of the fabric. However, having listened to a glowing account of the young ringers' enthusiasm and progress they agreed to place an order for a new bell frame, when £750 has been raised towards the final cost. The ringers hearing this news 'set to' right away on money raising efforts.

The Vicar and ringers searched through all the old churchwardens' accounts and old minute books to get information for compiling a 'History of Bolney Church.' This they compiled, complete with photographs, and sold at the church fete for 2s. 6d. each. There are still a number of copies available.

Five gross of specially engraved pencils are being sold, all profits to the Bell Fund. A jumble sale is to be organised by the ringers and Christmas carol ringing, too.

Several parishioners have given handsome donations (and so have the owners of the other 'Eight Bells' in the village!). Another couple in the congregation have given all the sixpences they saved in a whisky bottle.

Bolney is a small village, where the number of possible recruits to the belfry is small, therefore we cannot afford to lose the present youngsters owing to badly going bells.

Can readers help us in our efforts? A donation to the Rev. E. Matthias, The Vicarage, Bolney, Sussex, or to either of the undersigned, will be gratefully acknowledged. Or would you prefer to buy a pencil or a history of the church?

Please help these loyal Sunday service ringers.

Thanking you in anticipation.—Yours, etc.,

S. and H. BROWN
(Joint Captains).

KENT RINGERS IN EAST SUSSEX

On August 9th, a party of ringers, mainly young, had a busy and enjoyable day at Hawkhurst, Ticehurst, Wadhurst, Speldhurst, Leigh, Shipbourne, Wateringbury and Hunton. A feature of the day was that at each tower a different ringer acted as Master. G. B. T. sends thanks to the incumbents concerned and to the drivers.

NOISY BELLS

A correspondent writes: Many years ago 'The Ringing World' published an account, I think, of Boston tower, when the roof was being built and the bells hung on a new level.

The bells, I think, must have been finished before the tower, or the tower roof off before the bells. Anyway, the result with the roof off was stated to be a vast improvement, letting out the sound for miles and keeping it away from the immediate neighbourhood.

Remembering this, when a tower in my neighbourhood (Cornwall) was to have a new roof, I went into the matter with the head of the bell firm and the architect.

We all agreed that the ideal tower was one with no louvres and no roof! but for the rain, and the following compromise was decided upon.

All openings in the tower to be blocked up; the new roof to be made with a square opening, over which was to be placed a pent roof; the top of this pent roof not to come above the battlements of the tower. That would let all the sound out upwards, where it was wanted.

Alas, that particular tower could not be done, as, when stripped of its lead, the architect found the roof could not be condemned.

But a similar idea has recently been carried out in a new tower, with, I believe, perfect results.

I do not imagine that any church can afford to condemn a roof. But where roofs have to be rebuilt it is worth thinking about and I know the two bellfounders would be sympathetic.

As a compromise, louvres, which ought never to have been invented, ought to be abolished and windows blocked up, leaving a small opening above the level of the bells.

The old Cornish fashion of flat slated windows, with a few holes cut in patterns, was ideal.

Louvres, unless properly made, which they hardly ever are, only attract the rain into the bell chamber.

To keep, at least, sallies and ends dry in a wet climate is quite simple. Have a block and whip in the belfry ceiling and hoist your ends up when not in use. The difference between the one left down for chiming and the rest is quite remarkable.

SURREY ASSOCIATION

Northern District

Another hot summer day welcomed members and visitors to Esher tower for the quarterly district meeting. Ringing, under the direction of Mr. Norman Bagworth, catered for all tastes for an hour when a move was made to Kingston for the service. This was held in St. James's Chapel and was taken by the Vicar. Miss Margaret Lewis and her helpers had an excellent tea waiting and among those who enjoyed it were the Vicar and organist.

At the routine business meeting, chaired by the District Master, Mr. F. E. Collins, the highlight was the election of eleven new members. These included seven from Walton-on-Thames, at which tower the Association had given a course of instruction earlier in the year. Especially welcome was the Vicar (Rev. J. M. Evans), himself one of the recruits. After the usual votes of thanks ringing at Kingston concluded a very pleasant day.

Robin Leale's Team Tour Hereford District

HALF the party were on time at Hampton—the meeting point for Robin Leale's 1961 touring team. Such rare punctuality was taken as a good omen and we set off in high spirits only 20 minutes late.

The first tower of the tour was Evesham, where we had planned to attempt Treble Twelve. Unfortunately, because of illness at home, one of the band couldn't make it and, even with Geoffrey and Gerald Hemming who met us at the Bell Tower, we were only eleven. One of the visitors stood out and we rang a peal of Cambridge Royal, with Philip Mehew on the box showing us that he 'didn't care a fig' and pushing the tenor along at a fine pace. After a couple of settling-down courses for the less experienced, the ringing was pretty good and marred only by too many trips from the more experienced! However, the result was a fair peal which enabled two of the tourists to score their first of Surprise Royal and Geoff Hemming to need only two more to 'circle' his home tower for the fourth time.

We were delighted to be met at the Kerry Arms Hotel, Hereford, where we were spending the week, by Wilfrid and Jo Moreton, who were in the city for a few days. The hotel turned out to be very comfortable without being too expensive; in fact, just what we wanted.

After various cold baths, press-ups, etc., we rang for morning service at All Saints', Hereford, and then half the party went to look at the River Wye—allegedly one of Britain's finest salmon rivers. Unfortunately it came on to rain just as we got there and the fish must all have taken shelter under the bridge for we didn't see one.

Our afternoon peal attempt was at Burghill and Mr. F. Morris, the local captain, asked us to ring half-muffled in memory of the Rev. Preb. E. G. Benson, who had died so suddenly on holiday and been buried at Burghill a few days before our visit. A full obituary has already appeared in this journal and here suffice it to say how sorry we all were that Preb. Benson would not be joining us, as planned, for our attempt at Presteigne—his last living—late in the week. A good peal of Cambridge was achieved, after which the band were treated to some real Herefordshire hospitality by Mr. Morris, whose wife had sent lemonade for everybody.

We got back to Hereford in time for Evening ringing at the Cathedral, where we were responsible for some very indifferent touches. This strange old ring seems to get odd struck as the years go by.

The rest of the evening was spent in eating, drinking and a game of baseball, in which Deason's Demons beat Cannon's Crocks by 13 home runs to 9.

Monday dawned bright and early for eight of us, but the other three—Robin and the ladies—didn't put in an appearance at breakfast and condescended to wake up only after repeated bashing on their various doors. So it was decided that as Pat Cannon had the best alarm clock plus the loudest voice he would be official 'knocker-up'—a duty he successfully performed for the rest of the week.

The morning's towers included Whiney-on-Wye, Clifford (where the Vicar recorded some Superlative) and Glasbury—the first in Wales for some people. After lunch, we map-read our way to Llanfeigan, which is almost completely isolated in the mountains and an ideal spot for 40,000. (Take your own light, though!) The bells are superb and a clinking peal of Belgrave was polished off. The evening tower was Ebbw Vale; these magnificent bells have already been eulogised frequently and we hope our ringing did them justice. At any rate, it was a great pleasure to meet so many of the local band who turned out to welcome us.

Tuesday was a two-peal day. The morning attempt at Knighton succeeded after some re-hanging and rope alteration had been carried out. The party then moved on to Eardisland, where we were welcomed by Leslie Evans—a true personality of the Exercise to whom post-war Herefordshire ringing owes so much. Eardisland is considered by many to be the most beautiful village in England; a lot of ringers would say that it has bells to match!

There are certainly none better weight-for-weight and we were inspired to ring a tip-top peal of Bristol. After tea came the quaintest tower of the week: Pembridge has a noisy old five rung in a detached all-wooden campanile rather similar to Brookland in Kent.

That evening we went again to our favourite Hereford restaurant—the Wing Hong. Although the food was not typically Herefordshire there was plenty of it and the service was good. We never really decided whether Prawn Chow Mien was better than Lobster Foo Yong. Both were delicious although one literary member of the party preferred grilled steak. (This is an interesting point and it might well account for the fact that there are so few Chinese tenor kings.)

Next morning a good peal of Rutland was scored at Presteigne—a pleasant eight which went 'like clockwork.' We were very pleased to meet Mrs. Benson and to be able to express to her the sympathy not merely of ourselves but of the whole Exercise. She had asked us to ring open and those of us who had known Preb. Benson agreed that that was what he would have wanted.

Llanfihangel Rhyddeishon lies in the depths of darkest Radnor Forest, which is not really a forest at all but an area of rolling mountains. It was at this tower that 'five-peals-in-a-day' were first rung. Nobody could understand why except that the place is so remote! After a short ring, two of the three drivers decided to take a short cut shown on the map as going 'over the top' to New Radnor. The third driver knew the district quite well so decided to go by road! The four in this car waited at the tower for half an hour and then attempted rounds on six. Since double-handed ringing was not anybody's strong point, the rounds weren't too good. However, the villagers said it was the loveliest tune they'd ever heard on the bells—so everyone was pleased. Two hours later, just as the mountain rescue squad was about to be alerted, the two missing cars arrived very much bespattered in mud and carrying so much assorted foliage that we thought they'd been camouflaged for a private military exercise. Apparently, the metalled road had literally disappeared and most of the journey was made through semi-jungle. At one stage, Hector Bennett's Mini-Minor got bogged down in bracken so high that, had it not been for a loud horn, the car and occupants would have been lost without trace!

The evening was less eventful and Old Radnor, Kingon and Lyonshall—all sixes—were grabbed on the way back to Hereford.

Thursday morning brought the first tragedy of the week! Ross was the tower and Ralph Edwards had specially journeyed from Bristol to ring the tenor to London. After just over an hour's average ringing, the treble rope broke just below the sally and that was that. Maps and Dove were hurriedly scanned and Linton was selected as the target for a 'knock-knock' grab. The Vicar was most agreeable and even suggested that we also ring at Upton Bishop—his other parish—which we did. Linton has a very attractive new six and we would recommend any tourists to try them.

Yorkshire was the method for the afternoon attempt at Monmouth. Perhaps it was because the bells didn't go too well or perhaps we were getting tired; anyway, the peal was not exactly outstanding. We called at St. Weonards for a pull on the way home. When the oil lamps were lit we discovered that the bottoms of the sallies were just about floor level, which made things a bit difficult for those over two feet tall.

It must have been pay day in Hereford for that evening our noisy (but sober) party became quite inconspicuous.

Cradley, Mathon and Colwall were the next morning's towers. Nothing of note happened except our failure to ring past the first lead-end of a touch of Spliced Kent and Double Norwich.

The afternoon peal of Superlative at Ledbury proved that we were getting tired for, although the bells were good, the ringing was not up to the high standard achieved at the start of the week. A grab at Sretton Grandison and another feast at the Wing Hong completed the day.

Saturday morning produced a really spectacular fire-out at Leominster! We started for Cambridge Royal in fine style, with Phil Mehew on the tenor. It was so soon after his cold bath that he had to ring fast to get the blood circulating again. One experienced listener said that the ringing varied between very good and excellent. (And who are we to argue?) The seventh course-end rolled up beautifully after 1 hour 35 minutes and the peal was 'in the bag'—famous last words! A few leads later we went from rhythmic Cambridge Royal to well struck firing in just one whole pull. The noise was magnificent and everyone was so enthralled that nobody bothered to sort it out!

We had enough time to wander round the huge Priory Church at Leominster and were most intrigued by 'Ye Olde Ducking Stool,' in which people who talked too much used to have their spirits dampened. Various suggestions for its present-day use were made...

The tour continued via Kimbolton and Eye to Ludlow, where the grand eight went very well to some five-spliced. In the evening we rang at Leintwardine (not very exciting), Wigmore (where a touch of Original produced a multi fire-up) and Aymestrey.

Back in Hereford for the last evening we enjoyed a final visit to Wing Hong (incidentally, the author is not an advertising agent for this restaurant) before going back to the hotel.

After a Matins ring at Bromyard, where the local band kindly gave up the bells to us, the party broke up—homeward bound.

It was a good week—good company, good bells, good scenery and, most important, good administration by Robin. In conclusion, we would like to thank all the ringers who made us so welcome and the incumbents who allowed us to use their bells.

J. D. R.

N.B.—A special note of appreciation must go to Canon Fireup, who has kindly consented to a certain memorial ring of bells being hung in his church tower. We understand that arrangements are proceeding apace.

TALGARTH RINGERS IN GLOUCESTER DISTRICT

At 8.15 a.m. on Wednesday, August 30th, a party of ringers and their friends from Talgarth, Glasbury, Gilwern, Old Radnor, Eardisley and Brecon left Talgarth on their annual tour.

The first tower, St. Mary's, Ross, was reached shortly before 10 a.m. Here, on the ring of eight (tenor 24½ cwt), some Grandsire and Siedman Triples and Bob Major were rung. After ringing the party left Ross at 11.15 and made their way along the M.50 to Gloucester, where everyone went their separate ways to lunch.

After lunch the next tower visited was at St. John-the-Evangelist's, Slymbridge (6 tenor 12½ cwt), where touches of Grandsire, Siedman and Cambridge Surprise were brought round. After the ringing, a tour of the Wild Fowl Trust at Slymbridge was very much enjoyed by all.

Tea was taken in the Parish Hall, and was supplied and served by the ladies and friends of the local band. This was followed by a session of handbell ringing, when the company were entertained by a course of Grandsire Triples and tunes.

On returning to Gloucester the ringers went to ring at the Cathedral. Unfortunately ringing was confined to the 'back eight,' owing to the treble rope breaking. However, the ringing was still very much enjoyed and we were all sorry to have to make our way home.

The thanks of all the ringers are expressed to the incumbents, who granted us permission to ring and also to Mr. D. H. Bennett, the Talgarth tower captain, who organised the tour.

JASPER WHITFIELD SNOWDON & YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION

By the GENERAL SECRETARY

Mr. L. W. G. MORRIS

THIS year, members and friends of the Yorkshire Association attending the Jasper Snowdon Commemoration Dinner at Bradford will have an opportunity of visiting Ilkley, his home town, to enjoy a ring on the bells, and to view his grave and memorial window. This has been made possible by kind permission of the Vicar, the Rev. E. C. Cook, M.A., and ready co-operation of Mr. W. H. Crawshaw, of the local company, to whom sincere thanks are due.

It may, therefore, be appropriate to refer briefly to the dynamic personality of Jasper Snowdon and the part he played in establishing the Yorkshire Association of Change Ringers.

Much has already been said and written in praise of his sterling qualities, strength and force of character, and outstanding ability. Apart from the practical side of ringing, of which he was no mean exponent, he possessed an extensive insight into the complex theoretical issues and, aided by an inherent literary brilliance, originated a series of text books on ringing that are today acknowledged as authoritative works, widely known and extensively used throughout the Exercise.

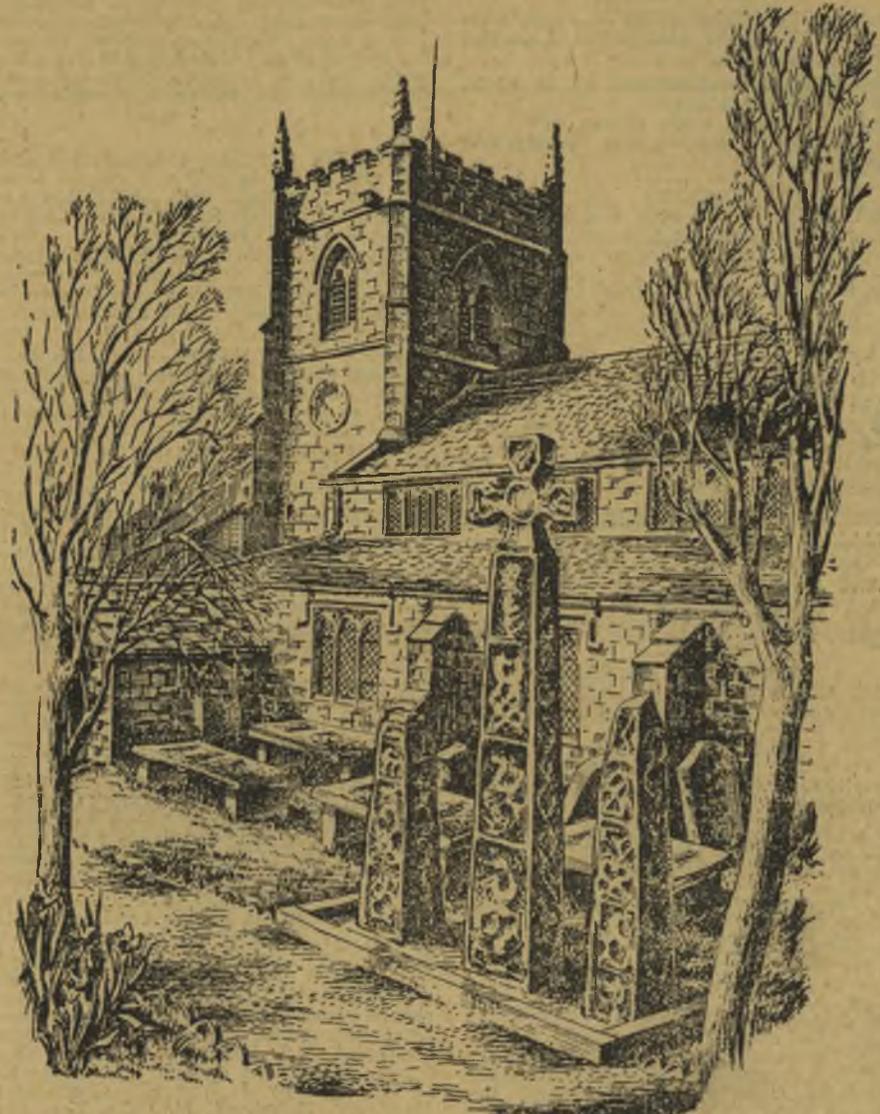

His early works were mainly designed to introduce the art of change ringing to beginners. Subsequent ones, notably Treble Bob, Part I, dealt extensively with the proof of Treble Bob, being the first clear exposition of the subject, and it still forms the foundation on which many of our modern composers build up systems of composition and proof in the ever widening range of Surprise methods.

Jasper Snowdon was born at Ilkley on June 18th, 1844, second son of the Rev. John Snowdon, Vicar from 1842-1878. He first took up ringing in 1861—exactly 100 years ago—being taught, he afterwards wrote, to ring Oxford Minor by the negative means of learning off the course by heart. Finding this unattractive, and at variance with his own theories, he relinquished ringing for nine years when, following the break-up of the local company of the day, he founded the Ilkley Amateur Society in 1870, and under his leadership, so rapid was the progress made, he conducted its first peal (Minor in seven methods) on December 7th, 1872.

FOUNDATION OF THE YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION

Research into the records reveals that at this time a movement originated in the county in favour of holding periodical, friendly meetings of ringers at various places. At these meetings Jasper Snowdon was a regular attendant, and as each gathering proved more successful and satisfactory than the preceding one, it was agreed at a meeting held at Bradford in January, 1875, to form a definite organisation. At a subsequent meeting held at York, delegates were appointed from the various companies, who met to form a Constitution and draw up a code of rules. At that meeting Jasper Snowdon was unanimously voted to the chair, and at the following meeting held at Birstall on October 30th, 1875, he laid before it a set of proposed rules, which was adopted, and he was unanimously elected first president.

This was born the Yorkshire Association of Change Ringers, which prospered and expanded rapidly under his guidance and sage counsel, the resident membership increasing from 104 in 1875 to 419 in 1885. By this time he had become a national figure, and his lamented and untimely death not only came as a stunning blow to the members but was mourned throughout the Exercise. His stature and prestige was such that change ringers throughout the land contributed to the cost of erecting a memorial stained glass window, which is to be found in the north-west aisle of Ilkley Parish Church. Part of the window depicts a bell in the 'down' and 'set-up' positions, while other sections show it at various levels in flight. Underneath is a plaque bearing the following inscription:

ILKLEY PARISH CHURCH

To the Glory of God
In memory of Jasper Whitfield Snowdon
Historian and Expositor of Change Ringing
Died November 16th, 1885. Aged 41 years.
This window was inserted in A.D. 1887 at the sole cost of the Change Ringers of the Country.

His grave is on the north side of the church, close to the north-western corner of the vestry. On a stone basement are four slabs, one to the memory of his father, another to his mother, another to an elder sister who died in infancy, whilst the fourth bears the inscription:

Here resteth Jasper Whitfield Snowdon who died November 16th 1885 aged 41.
Second son of the Rev. John Snowdon and Margaret his wife.

Year by year the bells so softly
O'er the graves shall music pour
Where the dust of Saints is garner'd
Till the Master come once more.

The centre of each slab is occupied by the shaft of a cross, which spreads out into a floriated head, while in the corners of the cross in the latter slab are arranged four bells bearing the words SPES—MEA—IN DEO—EST (My hope is in God). The whole plan of the tomb is from the designs of his brother, William Snowdon, who succeeded him as president, and held office for the next 25 years. Like his illustrious brother, he was first and foremost esteemed as one of nature's gentlemen, and under his influence and guidance the creation of his brother—the Yorkshire Association, our heritage—went from strength to strength.

It is fitting that such names should be remembered, and on October 14th this year the Bradford Cathedral company have the honour to act as hosts to fellow members, friends and guests who assemble to pay tribute to Jasper Whitfield Snowdon and other past officers of the Yorkshire Association.

CHESHIRE RINGERS IN EAST ANGLIA

Our party was unfortunately reduced to eleven this year, but we assembled at The Crown and Anchor Hotel, Ipswich, late on the evening of Friday, August 11th; ready, willing and (as it proved) able to ring the bells in and around Suffolk.

Glorious sunshine greeted us on Saturday morning as we made our way across town to the Church of St. Margaret where the bells were off in good time to the music of Lincolnshire. This handy eight saw the first peal of the tour round in 2 hours and 35 minutes, which proved to be the quickest peal of the week. We were very pleased that George Symonds was able to make our number up for the attempt for Cambridge Maximus at St. Mary-le-Tower in the afternoon, and we were more than pleased to see how well he is still ringing at 86 (now just four peals short of his century of Surprise Maximus peals). It took us 3 hours and 37 minutes to complete a peal on these famous bells that saw the first peal of Surprise Maximus round just 53 years ago. Some members of the party went along to the practice at St. Margaret's in the evening, while the remainder went dancing.

It was once again a fine morning, to which we awakened on Sunday, breakfast being followed by a journey to Stonham Aspal, where we met William Button and Leslie Brett. Here we enjoyed their company as we rang Cambridge Royal, Stedman and Grandsire Caters for service. We meandered along the lonely Suffolk lanes, passing through several picturesque little villages on our way to Elveden, a church set in a little 'Garden of Eden'. Even the 'wild life' here seems to contradict its definition, grouse and partridge observing the progress of our vehicles with interest. The bells at Elveden are in keeping with the surroundings and must surely be of the best in the country for their weight. Everybody 'sat back' and enjoyed a peal of Yorkshire, which took 3 hours and 24 minutes. An invitation to 'grab' Euston (a pleasant five), was eagerly accepted by those members who had not previously rung in a five-bell tower, before a dash back for dinner at Ipswich.

On Monday it was rather overcast as we made our way to Helmingham, where the 'old men' rang a peal of London in 3 hours and 1 minute. Sandwiches and ale at the local refreshed all those who were to take part in the attempt for Cambridge at Framdsen in the afternoon. A second start had to be made after about 15 minutes' ringing, due to a rope coming untucked. The peal over, those who had earned something to eat and those who had stood out were regally entertained by Mrs. Brett, before returning to Ipswich.

Tuesday saw us bound for Debenham, where Peter Laffin had everything ready for our attempt. We rang what is perhaps the slowest peal on these fine toned bells, but it was enjoyed by those listening outside and those taking part. Grundisburgh bells (a very fine 10) were a joy to ring to Yorkshire Royal, which seemed to be no sooner started than finished!! Some of the party joined the local company at the 'Tower' practice, where Cambridge Maximus and London Royal were rung. The 'rebels' saw '101 Dalmatians,' drinking again?

We were a few minutes late arriving at Leiston, the home of many famous ringers (notably the Bailey brothers and Gabriel Lindoff). It was a pleasure to listen to these bells to the familiar music of Bristol and a peal was duly completed in 3 hours and 19 minutes. Following lunch, we set out for Ufford, with rain falling lightly, which meant that Denis Moutershead had to stop to put his trousers on!! Much has been said about the quality of the bells at Ufford, and we were not disappointed with the music when London was being rung. Our 100 per cent record was maintained when this came round in 3 hours and 5 minutes. Dinner over, the youngsters were again on the move to a practice at St. Clement's, Ipswich (a tuneful ring which are no trouble to ring).

A long journey into Norfolk, on Thursday morning, rewarded us with two peals. The first, at Saxlingham Nethergate (an easy going light eight) was Gainsborough Surprise and took 2 hours and 55 minutes. A late start had been arranged at St. Peter Mancroft, Norwich, and it meant that a little siesta could be enjoyed by all. Maximus, late in the week, we found to be a bigger job than anticipated, but a peal of Yorkshire was completed in 3 hours and 47 minutes.

The anti-clockwise eight at Foxearth caused a little confusion, on Friday morning, as a large clock case in the centre of the ringing chamber hides ringers from one's view. After a shaky start, the ringing settled down and a peal of Yorkshire was completed in 2 hours and 50 minutes. The collapse of England's cricket team at the Oval did not deter the band ringing at Long Melford on Friday afternoon and a peal of Superlative gave no trouble. Ted Jenkins kept everybody very much awake, on Friday evening, when he told of an interesting escapade he had when serving in H.M. Forces.

The surprise of the week came on Saturday, when we attempted a peal of Cambridge Surprise Major at St. Ives, Huntingdonshire. No, we didn't lose the peal, but we were thrilled to ring such a glorious ring of bells, as well as keeping the record of 100 per cent success intact.

Our thanks are extended to all those who had so readily made their bells available, and to all who made us so welcome on our arrival in East Anglia. R. B. S.

BELLS THAT HAVE MADE HISTORY

By ERNEST MORRIS

THROUGHOUT all ages, in all countries and among all people, bells have been the subject of veneration, symbolism, superstition, emotion and influence. They have been used for every sort of occasion, both grave and gay: for warnings, for rejoicings; in times of calamity, in times of general thanksgiving: as 'time-tellers' and preachers, calling all and sundry to 'watch and pray.' From earliest times much superstitious feeling hung around bells, and many pretty and curious legends are known respecting them. Some point to their power of punishing wrongdoers: many tell of sunken bells still tolling their warnings beneath the waters: others speak of their power in driving away evil spirits and thunderstorms: and again of their ringing unaided in times of great disaster.

Almost every writer, statesman and poet has at some time or other been touched by their emotional influences, and touching instances can be quoted from every country and clime. They are bound up by the daily round and common task of mankind, and as such have in many instances become objects of historic interest. Not only the great bourdon bells of many tons' weight, but ordinary church bells and even handbells and ship bells have played their part in great local, national and maybe worldwide historical events.

In the last-named instance, the bell of the famous German cruiser Emden had a most chequered history. This vessel was launched in 1908, and during the Great War did much damage to British and Allied commerce. It was while conveying Australian troops to England that the Australian cruiser Sydney learned that the Emden was at Cocos Island, and drove her ashore at the North Keeling Island on November 9th, 1914, destroying her with the loss of 230 of her crew. Commander Müller, who was among those saved, and who had put up a gallant defence, was allowed to retain his sword. This was the first actual fighting done by any ship of the Australian Navy, and relics from the Emden were distributed to various cities of Australia. The bell, broken and battle-scarred, was displayed in the Garden Island Navy Depot, Sydney. In 1932 it mysteriously vanished, but later was discovered buried in Hyde Park, Sydney. For safety it was then placed in the museum, yet even so was stolen again on April 28th, 1933. Eventually a young German was sentenced to imprisonment on a charge of stealing the bell. After such an adventurous career the bell was eventually restored to the German people by the Hon. Stanley Bruce, Australia's High Commissioner in London, who made a special journey to Germany for that purpose.

The bell of the German battleship Hindenburg, sunk at Scapa Flow, was restored to the German Navy. It was carried over by the British cruiser Neptune on August 3rd, 1936, in recognition of the graceful act in restoring the drums of the Gordon Highlanders.

The bell of H.M.S. Canterbury, which has been through tempest and battle, has now been placed in the peaceful surroundings of Canterbury Cathedral. An impressive service, attended by 5,000 seafarers, was held in the Cathedral on June 9th, 1934, when the bell was presented. The service was broadcast on the wireless, when doubtless many more thousands 'listened in.' On the stroke of three, Admiral Percy Royds, who commanded the Canterbury during the Great War, struck six-bells. The psalm beginning 'They that go down to the sea in ships' was chanted, and Tennyson's 'Crossing the Bar' was sung as an anthem. Every morning at 11 o'clock a serving or retired seafarer strikes six-bells on Canterbury's bell, and thus its presence there reminds all seafarers that the longest voyage and the strongest gale comes to an end.

From the small ship's bell to the great bell of Moscow is a far cry, yet even that great monster has 'a tale to tell.' Russia is a land of many 'great' things, and it is not surprising that among the campanistic objects Russia should surpass in greatness all of them. Many and varied descriptions have been given of this great bell, but I will give this, and the raising of it to its present position, as described by the great engineer who did the work. Augt^e de Montferrand, in his book (printed in English, of which I possess a copy), p. 13, et seq.:-

'The Great Bell of Moscow, known by the name of the Tsarine Kolokol, or Queen of Bells, is the largest known up to the present time. It was cast in 1733, by the orders of Empress Anna Ivanovna, to replace that of the Tsar Alexis Michaelovitch, broken at the time of the fire at the Kremlin in 1701. The extraordinary size of this bell, which is 20ft. 7ins. in height, and 22ft. 8ins. in diameter, the beauty of its form, and the value of its metal, cause it to be an interesting monument, under the double consideration of the religious ideas which are attached to it, and the high degree of perfection in the art of casting in metal to which the Russians had arrived: in those rather remote days.

'This immense bell, the weight of which is 12,000 poods (about 193 tons) was cast with success on the same spot where it lay when I went to Moscow on the 25th of March, 1836, to raise it from the earth, where it had lain buried for above a century. It had been stripped of its mould, and placed regularly on a strong grating of iron, which I was able to recognise after having ordered the excavation of the earth surrounding it. This grating was fixed upon twelve piles of oak, which evidently had formed part of the lower construction of the mould. It was in this position that the chiselling of those parts of the sculpture which were not complete were commenced. In all probability one would be led to believe that steps had been taken to build over it a tower in which it was proposed to hang it. This new tower was intended to communicate with that of Ivan Veliki, by several galleries constructed at various heights, to form useful passages between the two buildings, and, perhaps, also to tie them together and give them a solidity capable of resisting the trembling which the vibration of so colossal a bell must necessarily cause.

'This project was about to be put into execution when at this time (1737) the terrible fire, which devoured a part of the city, communicated with the construction of wood which surrounded the bell. The carpenter's shop in which it was contained being burnt, it was covered by a quantity of blazing rafters, which could not be put out, so great was the violence of the fire. This was the cause of the fracture of the bell which we now see. The records of the time relate that, having become extremely hot, it cracked when it was reached by the water the inhabitants with over-great deal threw on it to save it, and which occasioned a contrary effect to that which they had expected. The charcoal and blackened wood which I found in the surrounding ground, and particularly close to the bell, left no doubt as to the truth of the narration of the accident. But that which still better dispelled all the unlikely versions which have been repeated for so long a time on the subject, was the discovery made twenty-four years back of two inscriptions which were found in some excavations near the steeple of Ivan Veliki. The first of these says that:-

"In 1651 the Tsar Michaelovitch ordered that a bell should be cast of the weight of 320,000 lbs. and that this bell, after being in use till 1701, was destroyed in consequence of a violent fire which broke out in the Kremlin."

'The second inscription informs us that:-

"The Empress Anna Ivanovna ordered the ancient bell to be recast, and 80,000 lb. of metal to be added to it, with which to found the new bell."

After giving various details of his great undertaking to raise the bell, Augt^e de Montferrand goes on:-

'All my preparations being finished, the work took place on the 23rd of July in the presence of a great concourse of people, of his Eminence the Governor General, the principal authorities of the city, and members of the committee of works of the Kremlin Considered as a work of art, this bell is remarkable for the beauty of its form, and for its bas-reliefs which are of the schools of Bouchardon and of Coysevox. These bas-reliefs represent the portraits, at full length and of natural size, although not finished, of the Tsar Alexis Michaelovitch and the Empress Anna Ivanovna. Between these portraits, upon two cartouches surmounted by angels, two inscriptions are dedicated, roughly sketched, of which only a few words without connection are legible. The upper part is ornamented by figures representing our Lord, the Virgin, and the Holy Evangelists.

The upper and lower friezes are composed of palms, treated in a broad style, and with a great deal of art.

The Queen of Bells is exhibited in the grand square of the Kremlin, near the steeple of Ivan Veliki, upon an octagonal pedestal of granite. The broken piece of the bell has been placed against the pedestal so that people can easily see the interior.

It is not generally known that there is a chime of Russian bells in England. This is at Pinner Hill House, Middlesex, and an inscription records: 'The five bells of the respective weights of 281½, 159, 66½, 37 and 17 lbs. were made by Demetrius Samgin, bellfounder, Moscow, and purchased at the Great Exhibition in Hyde Park by A. W. Tooke, who placed them here A.D. MDCCCLXIX.' These bells, which are very melodious, are attached to the clock, and chime the hour and quarters. There is also a Russian bell in the Round Tower of Windsor Castle, which was brought from Sebastopol as a war trophy after the Crimean War and presented to Queen Victoria. It was tolled at her funeral, and those of King Edward VII, King George V and King George VI.

Received are copies of the August issue of 'Overtones,' the magazine published by the American Guild of English Handbell Ringers. The title seems as ambidextrous as handbell ringers have to be. Reference is made to our own jubilee issue last March and our familiar front page heading is reprinted. The Guild also prints its congratulations to Ernest Morris on the completion of 2,000 peals.

Mr. J. Tomsett is to be licensed as a lay reader at a service in Guildford Cathedral this month. His many ringing friends in West London will wish him well.

On his recent holiday down south, Mr. N. V. Harding, of King's Lynn, scored six peals. He was especially pleased to meet old friends at Holy Trinity, Guildford, where he has twice 'circled the tower.'

We note from our peal reports that the well-known Diserens family of Reading has been augmented by the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Diserens. Congratulations! Another good ringer, we hope.

The band which rang the peal at Rothwell, Northants, on September 2nd, would like to associate it with the christening on Sunday, September 3rd, of Nigel Brian Austin, son of Mr. Brian Austin, one of the ringers at this tower.

Mr. Beric Bartlett, of the South Devon Ringers' Association, tells us that he has not been translated to the secretaryship of the Devon Association as indicated in Personalities of the Exercise No. 35 in our issue of September 1st. We regret that he was promoted 'apace.'

We have received from the Central Council a copy of a thesis written by Mr. William Richard Denton for his M.A. at San Francisco Theological Seminary. It is entitled 'Bells and their use as a means of Christian education,' and 60 copies of its 140 pages about tower bells and handbells have been mimeographed for private circulation.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Mr. Ernest Morris tells us the following story with reference to the Russian bell at Windsor, referred to in his article this week: An instance of misbehaviour by one of the choirmen of St. Margaret's, Leicester, when on their annual outing, nearly led to his imprisonment in Windsor Castle. He struck this Russian bell with his walking stick and almost at once up rushed one of the Guards to arrest the culprit. It took a great deal of explaining by the Vicar and organist to assure them it was only an unthoughtful prank and eventually, after a lot of persuasion, the incident passed over. The bell is only tolled on the death of the Sovereign.

The 'Staffordshire Advertiser' prints a picture of Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Key and their family, June (20), Pamela (14), Peter (13), Lucy (12) and Angela (9)—all ringers—in the ringing room at Gnosall, Staffs. A peal by the family is among Mr. Key's ambitions for the future.

The presence of Capt. and Mrs. A. D. Sayer at Ambrosden during leave from Germany has been of great help and encouragement to the tower and also to Bicester Branch and tower. Local ringers hope to see them at Ambrosden again at the end of their German tour.

Our photograph this week of Devon ringers 'getting together' is not provided with the names of those shown, but his many friends will be glad to recognise among them Mr. E. Maurice Atkins, of Teignmouth, formerly of Kilburn. We are glad to publish this account of the joint meeting of exponents of two branches of our art.

The quarter peal rung at the Cathedral, Sheffield, on September 10th, was a farewell to Warrant Officer S. Philbrick, R.A.F., who is taking up duties at Henlow, Bedfordshire. For the last few years he has been stationed at Norton, Sheffield. He has been a regular ringer at the Cathedral during his stay. The company had great pleasure in presenting him with a pewter tankard after the quarter peal, in which he rang the third faultlessly.

MARRIAGE

Mr. D. J. Roaf — Miss M. C. Hughes

Both the Cambridge University Guild and the Oxford University Society were well represented among the many ringers present at the parish church at Chalfont St. Peter on September 2nd for the wedding of Dermot James Roaf and Mary Caroline Hughes. Dermot was taught to ring while at school at Winchester and at St. Giles', Oxford. He obtained a First Class Degree in Mathematics at Oxford in 1958, and since then has been engaged in research in theoretical physics at the Cavendish Laboratory, Cambridge. His dual allegiance to Oxford and Cambridge Universities makes him ideally suitable for the post of secretary of the Universities' Association, which he has held for the past three years. Caroline is a graduate of Cambridge University in geography, and holds an Education Diploma. The writer is not sure whether she was introduced to ringing by Dermot or to Dermot by ringing.

The six bells at Chalfont St. Peter were rung before and after the service by the local band, and several guests accepted an invitation to ring with them. The marriage was conducted by the Rev. J. Sturdy, curate at Hitchin. The bride wore a full-length dress of ivory wild silk, and was attended by her sister and the bridegroom's three sisters. Mr. Nicholas Gray was best man.

About 150 guests attended the reception, which was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Hughes at Gerrards Cross. A marquee erected on the lawn in case of rain was fortunately not needed as the sun shone throughout the afternoon.

When Dermot and Caroline left for their honeymoon in Italy, Caroline's luggage was almost left behind. However, Dermot had his faithful rucksack, well known to those who have attended O.U.S. ringing tours. They will make their home at Oxford, where Dermot has been elected to a Fellowship at Exeter College.

NORTH WALES ASSOCIATION

The half-yearly meeting of the North Wales Association was held at Llandudno on September 2nd. It was a glorious day, and members were tempted to spend part of the time on the promenade rather than in the belfry. Some 30 or more members were present at the service in Holy Trinity Church, conducted by the Curate.

The bells were rung some time before the service, and one lucky couple had them for their wedding bells. After tea, graciously provided by the ringers of Llandudno, the meeting was presided over by Mr. Albert J. Hughes, of Bangor. In his address he spoke of the state of ringing in North Wales. The Bangor area was hampered by distance, and monthly meetings could not be held, but in the Wrexham area these were possible and were well attended. Mr. Fred Evans (Ringing Master) corroborated, and said there had been a great improvement in recent years and we were still going ahead.

The minutes of the annual meeting were read by the secretary, Mr. W. Cathrall. From the matters arising, Mr. Dennis H. B. Millward asked if it were known whether there had been increased sales of 'The Ringing World' since his appeal at Portmadoc, and whether we could help our paper in some other way. It was stated that sales could not be assessed at this meeting. Mr. W. H. Lewis proposed that a donation of £1 ls. be sent to 'The Ringing World' from our funds. Mr. Albert J. Hughes then suggested that a retiring collection be made in addition. Both these met with approval and were carried.

Votes of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells, to the assistant curate for conducting the service and for his address, to the ladies who waited at tea, to those who provided it and to the chairman for presiding were carried.

Our best wishes for the successful outcome of a pending operation, and our congratulations on his approaching birthday, were extended to Mr. Albert J. Hughes. Towers represented were Wrexham, Hope, Gresford, Buckley, Mold, Llandudno, Rhyl and Bangor, with visitors from Bristol and elsewhere. D. H. B. M.

PERSONALITIES OF THE EXERCISE—38

MR. EDWARD V. RODENHURST,
The Shropshire Association.

The county of Shropshire, being mainly rural, has always had its 'ups and downs,' especially in pre-war days, and progress in change-ringing has largely depended on the enthusiasm of individual ringers, who have created interest amongst others. One of the best-known ringers in the county, and indeed over a much wider area, is Mr. Edward V. Rodenhurst, of Prees Green, near Whitchurch, Salop. He has as great a knowledge of bells and ringing in the county than anyone, and his views are always listened to with interest and respect. What he has not been able to ring in Shropshire he has travelled outside to find, but has always tried to imbue members of his Association with his own enthusiasm.

Ted, as he is affectionately known to all his friends, was born at Heath House Farm, Stanton-on-Hine Heath, on October 30th, 1896, and was educated at Old Hall School, Wellington, Shropshire. He started ringing at an early age with the call-change bands at Stanton and Shawbury, a few years before the first war. In July, 1912, the Rev. E. C. Pigot was inducted to the living of Moreton Corbet, and as the bells had not been rung for 17 years he wanted them started again. The local wheelwright repaired the broken wheels, a set of locally-made ropes was provided, which were like cart ropes, with big 'swingboat' sallies, and Ted offered to train a band. For two years he remained in charge, and the bells were rung twice every Sunday. On September 6th, 1912, he joined the old Salop Archidiaconal Guild at their annual meeting at Shrewsbury. Ted has had correspondence with Mr. Ernest Weatherby in Quebec about this, and he had seen the notice of the meeting in the 'Bell News.' To show willing at his first meeting he pulled up all the ten bells at St. Mary's and then raised the 40 cwt. tenor of the old 12 at St. Chad's unaided! And he was still nearly two months short of his 16th birthday! A few months later he asked the well-known Charles R. Lilley, who had come to live in Shrewsbury and was Ringing Master, to bring a band over to Moreton Corbet and call his first peal. They came on December 14th, 1913, bringing their own ropes, and rang three Doubles methods, with Ted on the covering tenor. The oil lamp smoked badly and the soot settled all over the church, but the Rector was very good tempered about it all!

By cycling into Shrewsbury for practice Ted was soon able to ring the four standard methods, under the expert tuition of Mr. Lilley, and had rung several peals of Minor, Triples and Major before joining H.M. Forces in the first Great War. He served 2½ years on the Salonica front with a 6in. howitzer battery of the Royal Garrison Artillery and was invalided home at the end of 1918. He suffered badly from dysentery and malaria, and unfortunately lost the sight of his right eye. After being 'demobbed' he joined the Stanton band, who had by now taught themselves to ring Bob Doubles from 'Ropesight,' with the treble ringer shouting 'Dodge' every lead! With Ted's help the band, who were mostly ex-Servicemen, soon learned to ring seven Doubles methods and six of Minor for services. He often visited Coalbrookdale and Market Drayton, where Messrs. William Saunders and William Weatherby kindly allowed him to call touches and quarter peals of Grandsire Triples. He scored his first peal as conductor at Coalbrookdale—Grandsire Triples—on June 17th, 1922, with the excellent band that William Saunders had built up there at that time.

Ted's present peal total is 659, from Doubles to Maximus in many interesting methods, and he has conducted 48 on six, eight and ten bells: 200 of these have been rung for the Shropshire Association. Amongst these peals have been four long lengths of Kent T.B. Major—7,488, 9,344, 10,400 (longest length in Wales) and the record 17,280 rung at Over on July 21st, 1923, conducted by that great little man the late Robert Sperring. His favourite method is Double Norwich, in which he has rung 67 peals.

When the Shropshire Guild was re-formed on a county basis in 1926 Ted was appointed assistant secretary to the Rev. F. Tennyson, a post he held for two years, and some time later he acted as Ringing Master for one year.

In every parish where Ted has lived he has started the ball rolling to get the bells rung. This has happened at Stanton in 1920, Hodnet in 1931 and Prees in 1959. After Hodnet bells were rehung the Rev. J. R. S. Taylor (afterwards Bishop of Sodor and Man) asked him to train a band, which he did with the help of Mr. Walter Lycett, then of Stanton. Two of those whom he taught from scratch, and of whom he must be justly proud, were the brothers Fred and Tom Price, who later removed to Market Drayton, and have rung peals of Surprise up to London. Fred Price is the esteemed captain of this excellent band, one of the best local bands in the country both for method ringing and striking.

Ted has been engaged in farming operations for most of his life, and is now semi-retired on a small place of his own with two acres of land near Prees. He is never short of a job, attending to his flock of Sussex Cross and working in his garden. He married his wife, Ina, in 1937 who, although not a ringer herself, is interested in his ringing activities. She gives the poultry their evening feed if he is out ringing on a Saturday, and is always pleased to get refreshments for any ringing friends who happen to call.

At one of the meetings which Ted attended in his early days he met William Rock Small, of Tipton, Staffs, a well-known Midlands ringer of 50 years ago. Mr. Small told him that he would have to travel for his ringing, and he has done that ever since! Over 450 of his peals have been rung outside his home county, but he has always found time to help others and to teach beginners. He is very well known and much respected amongst the fellow members of his Association. His kindly and friendly manner makes him one of nature's gentlemen and has endeared him to all with whom he comes in contact. APACE.

Northern District

The September evening meeting was held at Hinxworth on the 3rd. The meeting started with Evensong, conducted by the Bishop of St. Albans, who was spending a day in the village. Although it was very hot, several members from both Hertfordshire and Bedfordshire came along to ring on these very odd struck bells, although a course was as much as anyone wanted before going outside to sit on the grass.

AN HISTORIC DAY IN DEVON RINGING AT BRIXHAM

IT was an historic day for ringing in Devon when on Saturday, Sept. 2nd, 1961, ringers from 14 towers representing Devon Association and Devon Guild members met at St. Mary's, Brixham, for a joint gathering.

The pattern for the afternoon was set when four ringers from each 'camp' went together into the belfry to raise the bells in Devon style, complete a call-change peal and lower the bells. It was adjudged a good peal by critical listeners. Two 6-bell peals and two 8-bell peals were then rung, the call-change men ringing 60 on 3rds and Queens peal, the change-ringers Grandsire Doubles and Stedman Triples. The Vicar of Brixham (Rev. H. T. Yeomans) gave an address of welcome in the church and then led the company in prayer.

A very fine tea, kindly prepared by the Brixham lady bellringers, was then served in the Parish Hall. Short speeches were made by Mr. B. E. Bartlett (secretary of S. Devon Association), Mr. W. Simmonds (Ringing Master, Mid-Devon Branch of Devon Guild), Mr. W. G. Lavers (vice-president of Devon Guild), Mrs. Hood (chairman, Mid-Devon Branch of Devon Guild) and Mr. E. M. Atkins (general secretary, Devon Guild). Good wishes for the meeting were expressed on behalf of the Rev. J. H. B. Andrews, of Chittlehampton, the Guild president.

After tea two more call-change peals were rung by mixed bands, and later five call-change ringers stood in for plain hunting on seven. The meeting was a most happy affair and many friends were made. The Guild men look forward to another peal in Queens, whilst the Association men are eager for the next opportunity in which to unravel the mysteries of half-pull ringing.

CLAWTON RINGING DAY

While the concrete in the rebuilt upper part of the tower's north wall was hardening, Clawton (Devon) bells were silent for over three months, and when the time came for ringing again the Clawton ringers invited others to come and rejoice with them on Saturday, September 9th. Although harvest kept many bands away, there was a good number of ringers there, including some from Bridgerule, Stratton, Parkham, Hartland and Saltash. Wilfred Boucher and Bert Chubb came with a good crowd from Launceston, and St. Stephen's was represented, too. Tom and Fred Myers and Tom Laves came from Plymouth, and Bill Simmonds came right across the county from Torquay with three others and his model bell, which he set up on the Vicarage lawn.

Clawton opened the ringing at 2 p.m., and the bells were kept going from then till just before the whist drive which ended the programme at 8, except for the service of thanksgiving, the tea and the tug-of-war. Skittles and a shooting gallery did good business as well among the sideshows, and at 6.30 four teams lined up for the tug-of-war. Clawton and Bridgerule pulled off first, and Clawton finally won in two pulls, each of them very hard, inch-by-inch affairs which were a credit to Clawton ringers' independent spirit, for being without an official trainer they found themselves with no less than three unofficial ones, who were by no means unanimous. Two teams then took the rope, under the titles of Launceston I and II, though each contained a sprinkling of ringers from other towers, and the winners with little trouble were Launceston I. The prospect of the final gave Clawton some qualms, for Launceston's anchor-man looked about as easy to pull about as a 30 cwt. bell on Aggett's patent self-aligning bearings; but the local band managed to turn him in quite well in two steady touches.

SUBSTITUTES FOR BELLS

Dear Sir,—Mr. Ernest Morris's recent article on substitutes for bells (page 576) brings to mind some of the sights I saw a few weeks ago in Angola and S.W.A.

Bells are quite common even in the remotest parts, and at Vungu Vungu on the banks of the Okavango River the Finnish R.C. mission have three bells properly hung for chiming in a tall, substantial tower. They are visible from the ground floor ringing chamber, and the 'ropes' are rawhide thongs—insect proof!; the draught is 70 feet. The tenor is about 30 cwt. and, like almost all the bells in this former German colony, they came (quite recently) from the Bochum Glocke Gieserei.

Elsewhere at schools, church huts and on farms, anything metallic is used—a disc from a harrow, a ploughshare, a car wheel, and perhaps most bell-like, a steel gas welding bottle with the end cut off.

Less than 300 yards from St. Mary's at Woodstock (8, 12 cwt.) there is a mosque, one of many in Cape Town, where the call of the muezzin comes from a gramophone record. This amplified sound issues from loudspeakers hung round the minaret, and during Ramadan (New Year) is played at daybreak.

Public objection to the noise is occasionally expressed, but the ethics of an unworthy, sham performance would never worry Islam.—Yours, etc., V. SHEPPARD.

OLD RINGERS AT INDUCTION

Dear Sir,—I would like to thank the Rector and the local ringers for arranging some ringing for Janet Cleeve, Sally Buchanan and myself on September 13th, when we visited Market Overton to ring for the induction of the Rev. Walter Boulton (late Provost of Holy Trinity, Guildford) as Rector. It was a perfect finish to a most enjoyable day to ring on those lovely bells.

We would also like to thank the three ringers who most kindly came along to complete the band at Market Overton: we could not have done anything without their help.—Yours faithfully, ERNEST R. WARNER.
Woking, Surrey.

NOT MENTIONED

Dear Sir,—I wonder whether anyone who listened to the enthronement of Dr. Coggan as Archbishop of York noticed that in the bidding prayer at the close of the service he asked the congregation to pray for everyone connected with the work of the Church, from bishops, archdeacons, clergy, down to lay readers, choristers, churchwardens and parochial church councillors, but made no mention whatever of ringers!—Yours sincerely, E. BARNETT.

BRIEF NEWS FROM U.S.A.

Dear Sir,—This is rather a tardy communique, but I thought our ringing friends would like to know that the Groton boys rang a quarter peal of Stedman Triples on the last Sunday of the term. Later in the summer Parkie Shaw rang a full peal of Bob Major in England. (I wonder how many Americans have done so?)

We were delighted to have been given funds to have our bells recast at Whitechapel into a ring of ten (tenor 18 cwt.). This will be done within the year.

It was a great disappointment to me not to be in England this summer, but next year I will bring ten boys and hope to see many ringers there.—Sincerely yours,

RUSSELL YOUNG.

PERSONALITIES—35

Dear Sir,—I'm afraid that owing to my being away from home when I applied 'Apace' with certain information I led him astray and did a good friend an injustice. My first peal was conducted by Rodney Meadows; Frank Wright was conductor in the two previous but unsuccessful attempts to guide me through a peal in the autumn of 1949, and Rodney finally succeeded in June, 1905.—Yours, etc.,

JOHN G. M. SCOTT.

WIRRAL RINGERS' WEEK-END AT STRATFORD

An all-male party of Wirral ringers, with Tom Horridge, of Crosby, had an enjoyable week-end in the Stratford-on-Avon area. The party left at 7 p.m. on August 25th, in three cars, and arrived at the holiday camp about midnight, to be met by Peter Bennett, who had made arrangements for our stay.

After a 7.30 a.m. breakfast, an early start was made on Saturday, with Dick Warburton, in his bubble car, as guide. St. Peter's, Wootton Wawen (a lovely six), was reached at 9.15 a.m. Aston Canlow (another six), has a ladder approach to the ringing chamber, which was no easy feat for the oldest member, Jim Williams.

The weather was warm, and a short halt for refreshments was acceptable before off to St. Mary Magdalene's, Tanworth (a good eight). Here we said goodbye to Dick Warburton and were joined by Peter Bennett. As another tower had to be filled in before lunch—St. James', Shirley—there was only time for a quick snack before being at St. Peter's, Wolverhampton, by 3.30. This is the home tower of Jim Williams, and he was delighted to see his new friends enjoying their all too short stay.

Dinner, arranged by Gordon Williams, at the Rock Hotel, Tattenhall, was a very enjoyable meal. Returning to camp, the evening finished with the ringers becoming choristers.

Through the kindness of the captain and local ringers, the Sunday morning ringing on the grand ten at Holy Trinity, Stratford-on-Avon, was entrusted to us. We also rang for 3 p.m. Evenson on the light eight at St. Giles', Packwood. Our sincere thanks are accorded to all who helped to provide us with such a pleasant outing.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Members of the Tonbridge District of the Kent County Association were able to enjoy one of the warmest days this summer for their meeting held at Brenchley on September 2nd, consequently some people were a little reluctant to climb the steep ladder up into the belfry!

A service, conducted by the Very Rev. A. C. S. Trivett, was held, which was followed by the business meeting. Mr. B. V. Collison was elected to take the chair. A proposal was made by Mr. Collison that the day of the annual meeting should be changed. This was discussed and members gave their views. It was then agreed by the members that the proposal should go forward to the committee meeting. Mr. W. Dobbie asked if some members would take part in a quarter peal at Brenchley in honour of Mr. A. Wenban's 75th birthday, as he learned to ring at Brenchley many years ago (before becoming the captain at Seal Chart).

Tea was taken at Matfield, and was followed by handbell ringing in various methods, including a course of Double Norwich. The remainder of the time was spent in the tower.

We were very pleased to welcome Mr. E. A. Barnett and family.

A WEST MIDLANDS PEAL WEEK

A very enjoyable peal tour in Staffordshire and Shropshire was organised by Bob Warrilow during the last week of August. The nucleus of the band was the 'four mad youngsters' and the three almost as mad old stagers who reluctantly took turns at standing out of our 6-bell peals.

The magnificent church at Hoar Cross, with its fine, heavy six, was our first stop on Monday morning. We decided on Plain Bob for the benefit of the tenor man, and that proved quite adequate for tiring him out. It was entertaining to see one ringer produce his 'safari' kit and ring the peal in it. Refreshed by tea (it was then 3 p.m.!) we went on to Marchington (a good light six) and scored London Minor. It was very noticeable how much faster these bells turned than did those at Hoar Cross!

Tuesday morning found us at Kingsley, where we were welcomed by Mr. Twigg. He also ordered us lunch, and after a peal of York Minor and a brief introduction to skittles by our expert we arrived to do it justice. We then travelled across to the picturesque village of Alton, and soon had the fine octave going to Lincolnshire.

Wednesday was our busiest day, so we set off bright and early into Shropshire. At Moreton Corbett we managed four Surprise Minor methods, accompanied by jet aircraft screaming round the tower and by a long visit from the local police sergeant. Our conductor claimed that he was 'one degree under' after a night at an auspicious Stafford address, but sandwiches and a pint at Hodnet soon put him right. Mr. E. V. Rodenhurst met us at Prees, where a well-struck peal in three Surprise Minor methods was scored. We gathered that the two who had been 'rested' from this peal were causing chaos to a lady's jam making by visiting her at the crucial moment! Richard Morris met us and joined in our evening peal at Cheswardine. Yorkshire went very well here, and this was agreed to be our best peal of Major of the week. As if three peals in a day were not enough, we then hastened to Market Drayton in time to join the last few minutes of practice night before having a square meal.

Bucknall was our Thursday morning tower. We added Wednesday's two peals together and rang seven Surprise Minor methods. Lunch in a Chinese restaurant gave Geoff the idea of learning a later peal by translating the various three course blocks into Chinese-type hieroglyphics. The afternoon was spent at Keele ringing Ipswich Minor, after which a fine meal, provided by Mrs. Warrilow, and some liquid refreshment was followed by a comparatively early night.

The fine five at Doveridge claimed our attention on Friday morning, and three Doubles methods were rung to a peal. David Brunning joined us again for the afternoon at Rocester, where we rang New Cambridge on the musical octave. On Saturday morning we rang a very musical peal of St. Clement's Major at Silverdale. Arthur Pritchard conducted Little Bob Royal at Newcastle-under-Lyme for us, and here we also had Alan Steele and Peter Jones who joined us for the day; also, Fred 'circled' his third tower of the week and completed a day of 'fourths and back' after ringing the very-much-fixed second bell in the morning peal.

Like all good things, it had to come to an end, and we reluctantly broke up on Saturday evening. It was an enjoyable venture and many ideas for future tours were evolved. Our thanks are due to all the incumbents for their willingness to receive us, to Bob for his excellent organisation, to 'Bennie,' without whom transport would have been impossible, and last but not least to the manufacturers of adhesive plaster, which brought palliation to many a tender blister!

POINTS FROM PEALS

By The Rev. K. W. H. Felstead

Since it is more than a year now that the article appeared, I can hardly call this 'Points from Recent Peals'. But better late than never, I hope, unless you don't like facts and figures.

Firstly, a very belated 'thank you' to several readers who corrected me over my mention of Belton, Lincs, last time. Apparently there are now two Beltons in that county with bells. The 1911 peal was rung at the 5-bell tower (SS. Peter and Paul). The peal I was referring to was at the 6-bell tower, All Saints'. So that clears that point up. Whilst talking about 'first on the bells', there have been quite a large number since last I wrote. Here is a list of them: Lewtrenchard, Thanington, Hillesden, Ashley, West Bridgford, Alveston, Cotterstock, Leverton, Walkhampton, Chislet, Cottesbrooke, Tillingham, Sutton Benger, Oaksey, Welford-on-Avon, Coningsby, High Ham, Hatfield Heath, Barston, Wilbarston, Alderton, Askerswell, Beckwithshaw, Aspley and Stockbridge. Some four or five years ago I counted the number of towers which were still virgin territory for a peal. The total was about 1,150 (including 590 with five bells and 542 with six). I now find the number to be a few over 900 (including 471 with five bells and 411 with six). So the number is steadily being reduced. But at the present rate it will still be about 20 years before there are none left! Of course, some are unringable, and I expect this applies to most of the 23 8-bell towers at which I have not yet recorded a peal. Some time I must go through Dove's book to see how many he lists as such. I think this will give quite an accurate result, for even though some down as 'unringable' are actually all right, I am sure about the same number thought to be ringable are not.

Just about half the 'unconquered' 6-bell towers are in Devon and Cornwall (155 in Devon and 46 in Cornwall); Yorkshire comes next with 25, then Wiltshire with 19. Others with double figures are Norfolk (18), Gloucestershire (12), Somerset (11) and Dorset (10). I think it remarkable that Somerset, the county with the second highest number of 6-bell towers (over 180) has so few virgin ones. 'Unconquered' 5-bell towers are found more evenly spread over the country. This is chiefly due to the fact that although the West Country has a very high proportion of 6-bell towers, 5-bell towers are much less frequent. Apart from Northampton, Suffolk and Norfolk have the greatest number of these, and it is the last of these which has the most 'unconquered' ones—49.

Actually, 16 counties still have double figures of 5-bell towers which have not had a peal on them, and there are still almost half these towers in the whole country virgin territory. As far as 6-bell towers are concerned, the proportion is less than 20 per cent. Even so, there is still plenty of scope for 'first peal on the bells' grabbers to do their worst! [Their best, we hope.—Ed.] One thing about it these days, not many false claims for 'first on the bells' are made. Perhaps it is because so many take the trouble to check up with me beforehand nowadays. And I am very pleased to be able to help in this way. But occasionally there is a slip up. Thus I have recorded a previous peal at Saltash, Cornwall, on December 12th, 1927. So unless the bells have been recast since then, the one in June was not the first on the bells. Later I shall give several corrections of faulty footnotes about the dates of previous peals, etc.

Now, let us turn to landmarks in various towers. Peals are rung at such a rate at the Loughborough Bell Foundry that some outstanding point is reached nearly every time I write (no wonder, when the average number of peals per year these days is between 50 and 60). Anyway, I recorded the 900th peal at the Foundry in April last, so it is quite likely that it will have heard its 1,000th by the end of 1962. I expect someone will have the idea of making the 1,000th peal here the 40,320 Plain Bob Major! That would certainly be a fitting tribute to a famous ring of bells. In the past year four towers have passed the 300-peal mark in my records. They are Birmingham Cathedral, Hazel Grove, Appleton and Ashted. I should strictly say 300 since 1881 in the case of

Our fortnight's tour started at Lincoln on August 12th, where we met at the youth hostel. The Cheshire contingent had arrived—three by train, sharing a coffin in the guard's van, two had cycled from near Buxton and one had arrived via Kent; our Cambridge friend came before the curfew was enforced (i.e., 10 p.m., hostel closes). On Sunday we rang at the Cathedral for morning service and at St. Botolph's for after-service ringing. A peal attempt at Bassingham did not come off and was stood up after two extents.

Grantham's ten were visited for evening ringing; the handbell ringers in the party then had a practice, kindly arranged by Denis Frith. The night was spent at Grantham Youth Hostel.

On Monday, Grantham, Colsterworth and Greetham were visited, Kent Major being managed at Grantham and a peal scored at the latter tower. Kingscliffe Hostel was the night's resting place. Tuesday brought us the unusual eight at Oundle and a peal at Spaldwick; then we finished the day at All Saints', Huntingdon, before retiring to Houghton Mill Y.H.

Although it is only two miles by crow from Houghton to Godmanchester, the road takes five miles, the road party arriving considerably earlier than the crow-flying party! A broken rope at Longstanton put paid to our peal attempt. After dinner four Cambridge towers were visited: St. Andrew's, St. Bene't's, the R.C. Cathedral, where Bob Major was managed on the 32 cwt. eight, and St. Mary-the-Great's, the first and last for I have not included peals rung before that year in their totals (I have so far located 19 older peals at Birmingham Cathedral, and I am sure there are more than that, and 7 at Ashted, which may be complete since the first peal was not rung there until 1874). The Appleton figure does include all peals known since I believe my figures to be as complete as possible, thanks to the help of Miss M. Cross, who has kindly supplied me with the peals prior to 1881. As far as Hazel Grove is concerned, all the peals have been rung this century, and the only doubt is when the 300 was passed, for I made the footnote claim for the 300th peal the 301st. Perhaps there was a false peal withdrawn which I did not notice. Perhaps anyone interested will kindly check with me.

Four towers have had 200 peals published in 'Bell News' and 'The Ringing World'. They are Isleworth, Loughborough Parish Church, Ashton-under-Lyne (St. Peter's) and Newcastle (St. John's). At the first of these I have also 13 older peals; at Loughborough 2, at Ashton 26, but none at Newcastle, although the first I have is not claimed as first on the bells (1884), so it is possible there are others, even though the footnote claimed the 200th peal. I confirm the 150th peals at Kidlington and South Wigston, as far as my records go. Ashton-under-Lyne (St. Michael's) has also passed 150 peals since 1881, so both Ashton churches are in the news this time. Here again there are older peals, and I have so far located 65 of these, thanks mainly to the help of Mr. R. M. Edwards, sd the true total here is over 200.

Towers reaching the century mark this last year are Gamston, Thurcaston, Claines, Lincoln Cathedral, Chester (St. Mary-without-the-Walls), Derby (St. Andrew's), Netherseale, Northfleet, Rotherham, Stisted, Acton and Macclesfield (Christ Church). Gamston and Stisted deserve special congratulations, for they join the very select body of 6-bell towers with 100 peals. There are six of these now. I appear to be one 'out' at Acton. The claim for the 100th peal came when my tally was 99. I should be pleased to compare notes. The 50 is up at Birch-in-Rusholme, Southampton (St. Mary's), Shepshed, Tong, Frindsbury, Woolton, Harston, Buckley, Hillingdon (St. John's), Grantham, Aldershot, Watford, Buckley, Leeds (St. Peter's), Ickleton, Stonham Aspal, Downham, Ringwood, Brencley and Broughton (Staffs). Some of these were claimed and some were not. Forty of the peals at Tong were rung before the first world war.

Trumpington was the first tower of the day on Thursday; this was followed by a peal at Bourn then a long ride to Strettham, then to Ely Y.H. for the night.

The heavy six at Sutton were the first bells for Friday; Haddenham, and then a long ride to Over for dinner and a peal on the light eight. The antics of two of our leading apple-scumpers had to be seen to be believed en route for Willingham.

Saturday was a day of rest with only one tower, Alconbury. Sunday was similar.

Monday brought rain and a 20-mile ride from Coddington for a peal at Loughborough Foundry on the back six. We were only four hours late for the heavy six at Wymondham, but managed to make up time on the gated road to Barrowby, this including a foot-deep ford. At Grantham Y.H. Bob Smith and Phil Davies were waiting for us, and made our numbers up again, as John Kennet had departed for Rugby on Sunday morning. Practice at Grantham, and the Chequers were visited in the evening.

At Heydour, Oxford T.B. was stood up due to a miscall, and a change of positions and Cambridge were attempted. This didn't go, and neither did Plain Bob—three peals lost in one hour! However, we made up for this with a peal in seven Minor methods at Silk Willoughby in the afternoon. Sleaford was the last tower of the day, and then a long ride into the wind back to Grantham. We decided to go for Little Bob at Caythorpe in the morning but were short of a composition: one was produced, however, by Phil lying in bed making jottings on his suitcase! An article in the 'R.W.' on 'Favourite positions for composing' should make interesting reading!

Wednesday brought us Barkston, Caythorpe, where the peal was duly rung (composition: Trad.), Fulbeck, where John Cook met us, and finally Brant Broughton. Fulbeck Bob was rung at Fulbeck.

On Thursday, Jack piloted us round farm tracks and footpaths, visiting Branston, Notten, Metheringham—for a peal of seven Treble Bob Minor methods—and finally Blankney.

The last day of the tour dawned bright and clear, and the new tower at Waddington was visited, followed by Navenby, where the peal attempt 'fired' up, and Leadenham (the writer's 200th tower), where 66 per cent. of the band did not want to go for a peal: however, an extent or so of Cambridge had to be crunched out before the conductor believed us to be serious. The tour ended on a depressing note (for some, anyway) with the complete dissolution of the peal band and three people deciding to go home that night. Saturday brought windy weather and the trek home. 'Farmer' was last seen heading south on a saddled pig, his reputation having suffered on identifying sugar beet as 'smelly cabbages'! Statistics: 41 towers, eight peals and 500 miles. Finally, our thanks are due to the incumbents for the use of their bells, local ringers who met us and helped us out when numbers were down, and to our organisers, composer and conductors. G. B. T.

BARNESLEY DISTRICT SOCIETY

Barnsley District Society held a cup contest at Hoylandswaine, in Sheffield, on September 9th. Three teams entered and ten towers were represented. The judge (Mr. Tom Hilton) gave the result as follows: Barnsley 115 faults, Cawthorne 46 and Shelley 44. Shelley were therefore declared the winners, and Roger Tarbatt, aged about 13 years, received the cup on their behalf, this being his first contest. The cup was presented by Mr. Noel F. Moxon. The judge and marker were thanked by Mr. Trevor Tarbatt. Mr. Edwin Atkinson thanked Mr. John Whitehouse for making all arrangements, and everyone who had helped. This concluded the business meeting and ringing followed. The next meeting is at Royston, near Barnsley on October 14th. J. W. B.

TREBLE BOB FOR BEGINNERS

IV OXFORD TREBLE BOB

The real difference between the Oxford and Kent variations of Treble Bob is slight, but the effect it has on the order of the bells is such that many ringers have to make a real effort to ring Oxford if they have been brought up on Kent. Let us see the first section of Kent and Oxford put side by side for comparison.

First section
Kent	Oxford
123456	123456
213465	214365
214365	213465

Instead of the double places of Kent (thirds and fourths with one bell and fourths and thirds with the other) one set of places (thirds with one bell and fourths with the other) is made in Oxford in the middle of the section. This avoids the repetition perhaps more simply than the Kent variation, but it does mean that, after it, the direction in which the bells concerned are travelling has been reversed. In the example given the third has left the front, made fourths and then gone back to the front. The fourth has left the back, made thirds and gone back again. The Slow work is exactly the same and the dodging elsewhere is the same. Variations to avoid repetition in the other sections (with the treble in 3-4 and 5-6) are as in Kent, by the bell in the Slow leading and making seconds place alternately. And then in the last section of the lead there is a corresponding difference in the place making as shown in this example:

Last section
Kent	Oxford
231546	241536
213456	214356
123465	123465
214356	213456
124365	124365

Space once again prevents me from writing out a whole course, but here is the first lead and you are advised to use it as a guide to writing out the full course, as you did in Kent.

Now if you follow the work of the second you will find that it starts with the Slow work, in between dodges with the treble just as in Kent. After this hunt out to fourths place. Make fourths and back to lead. Then dodge 3-4 and 5-6 up and 5-6 down. Hunt down to thirds place. Make thirds and hunt back. Dodge 5-6 up and 5-6 and 3-4 down. Lead. Dodge 3-4 and 5-6 up and 5-6 down. Lead. Hunt up to and make fourths place, go down to dodge with the treble and go in Slow again.

The difference in the places can be shown thus:

1st lead after Slow	3rds & 4ths places up.	Kent
2nd lead after Slow	Ditto.
2nd lead before Slow	4ths & 3rds places down.	Oxford
1st lead before Slow	Ditto.
1st lead after Slow	4ths place and lead.
2nd lead after Slow	3rds place and back.
2nd lead before Slow	3rds place and back.
1st lead before Slow	4ths place and in Slow.

The same principles for ringing Oxford Treble Bob Major apply as in Kent. The only difference is the extra dodging in 7-8 and the longer Slow work entailed by the two extra bells.

CHELFORD, CHESHIRE, TOUR

For their annual tour, Chelford ringers, their wives and friends went to Shropshire. Calverhall was first visited, where Mr. Ellison met us, with the bells already up. Stoke-on-Tern was our next tower, where a thoughtful Vicar had left a note telling us to 'help ourselves' to the bells and to stay as long as we wished. After dinner at Shrewsbury we made our way to Pulverbatch, where everyone was as interested in the view from the churchyard as they were in the ringing. Leaving Pulverbatch behind, we continued up hill and down dale to Stokesay, where we were met by the churchwarden, Mr. G. Atkins, who is also custodian of Stokesay Castle, which is 'next door' to the church and which proved very popular with the non-ringers. From there to the Stokesay Castle Arms, where tea (and what a tea!) was waiting. I doubt if anyone could have done justice to what was spread before us. After 'crawling' back to the coach, we made our way via Church Stretton, Shrewsbury and Market Drayton to Norton-in-Hales, where Mr. Bill Talbert was ready and waiting for us. From there to home, tired but happy, and thankful that the weather had been kind to us once more. Methods rung ranged from various Doubles and Minor methods to Bob Major and Stedman Triples, not forgetting 'Churchyard Bob' for the learners. Thanks are due to all tower captains and incumbents who helped to make this tour a success. F. G. F.

MORE BELFRY GOSSIP

Miss Susan Chaddock is going to Nottingham University in October—an asset to local ringing.

In honour of the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. A. Arnold, 720 Plain Bob Minor was rung at Capel, Surrey, on September 2nd. In it 10-year-old Elizabeth Rumbold rang her first extent. Until prevented by disability, Mr. Arnold was a ringer at this tower.

Another week-end course in bellringing is to be held at Grantley Hall, the West Riding County Council Adult College, near Ripon, next April (27th to 29th), the week-end after Easter Monday. Applications should be addressed to the Warden of the College.

At a cost of over £300, sound control and weather protection measures are being undertaken at Rotherham Parish Church. The louvres are being bricked up to the arch-spring with 9 in. brickwork covered with insulating material. The upper portion of the louvres will be fitted with wooden shutters which can be opened on Sundays and closed on practice nights, thus protecting the interior from weather and improving outside sound effects.

Mr. ALFRED STONE

A loyal and active member of St. Andrew's tower, Wiveliscombe, Somerset, Mr. Alfred Stone died suddenly on September 5th. He was the last of the old ringers and served during the Great War, 1914-18. On September 9th, the day of his funeral, a quarter peal of Grandsire Triples was rung, with the bells half-muffled, to his memory and also to the memory of Charles Greedy, of Newport, a native of Wiveliscombe and a frequent visitor to the tower.

OBITUARY

Mr. HARRY BAXTER

By the death at his home in Kettering on September 10th, the Peterborough Guild and the Kettering Branch in particular have lost a dear friend in Harry Baxter who, when his health was good, was a keen enthusiast and peal ringer. He was born at Broughton in 1901 and was taught to ring there by his father, the late Mr. Horace D. Baxter. On the resumption of ringing after the 1914-1918 war he began to visit Kettering, where he was encouraged by the leader of the then prominent band, the late Mr. David J. Nichols, soon becoming efficient on the higher numbers and ringing many peals, conducting quite a few. One peal of which he was very proud was the first peal for the recently-formed Peterborough Diocesan Guild, on February 9th, 1924—Bob Major at Desborough, which he conducted.

He was a very hard-working Branch secretary of the Kettering Branch from 1926 to 1946, and was a representative of the Guild on the Central Council from 1932 to 1946. His health not being good, he resigned both offices. Although he rang his 75th peal in 1926, his total was only in the 90's, of which 72 were rung with the writer. The exact number is not to hand, but included peals from Doubles to Stedman Caters and Cambridge Royal. He had to leave off work two years or more ago and had not enjoyed good health since. He was a very modest man and one it was a pleasure to have had as a friend. Harry was a foreman in a boot and shoe factory, and worked and lived at Rothwell for several years, during which time he was a member of the Rothwell band.

The funeral service was at Kettering Parish Church on September 13th, followed by cremation. Besides the family mourners (his wife, two sons and one daughter) were many ringers and friends. The bells were chimed before the service and were rung half-muffled following it. They were also rung half-muffled on the previous evening.

May he rest in peace.

R. G. B.

THE LATE CHARLES GREEDY AN APPRECIATION

It was with deep regret that I read of the passing to the higher life of Charles Greedy.

About 1926 I obtained a position with a firm at Newport, Mon, and secured lodgings opposite St. Woolos' Cathedral Church. The first Sunday morning after my arrival I made my way into the tower, and was greeted by the late Fred Attwell, who was then captain.

I enlightened Fred of my capabilities, to ring the treble or tenor to Grandsire Triples, when a voice with a Somerset accent from a person sitting on a seat behind the tenor rope said: 'That's all right, take your coat off and fix up.' The owner of that voice, I found out later, was Charles Greedy, who also did most of the conducting.

As I had come to reside in the town, I was invited to join St. Woolos' band, and Charlie, as he was affectionately known, went out of his way to explain and tutor me in 'inside' bell work.

In January, 1927, he called my first peal, which was Grandsire Caters, at St. Woolos', and also my first peal on an 'inside' bell of Grandsire Triples at Llangibby.

It was never too much trouble to him to explain the same thing over and over again to us juniors, and he would go anywhere to help any youngster to improve his standard of ringing.

Through his efforts the standard of ringing advanced in that District, and the Llandaff and Monmouth Association has lost yet another of its revered members.

I had the pleasure and privilege of standing in many peals round Monmouthshire which Charles conducted, and he was one of the stalwarts of that time.

I had not had many opportunities of his company during the past 30 years, but I owe much of my early tuition to his help.

My sympathy goes out to his family, especially his son, Fred, whom I knew and rang with in those early days.

ALL SAINTS', BABBACOMBE, OUTING

All Saints', Babbacombe, ringers made a 7.30 a.m. start for their fourth annual outing with a party of 16 conveyed by Dormobile and car. Chulmleigh was reached on time, and a good rise in peal was followed by a well-struck 168 of Grandsire Triples. The bells, rehung in 1958, were acclaimed a fine ring. Owing to illness near the church, ringing could not take place at Chawleigh (6), so the party proceeded to Cheldon Barton (4), where Bob Minimus was rung. After negotiating some severe gradients and fording a stream, West Worlington (6) was reached, where access to the churchyard is under the arch of the former ancient church house. The bells here were most pleasing.

Less than 400 yards from West church we rang at East Worlington (6) (I wonder if there are two ringing rings in Devon closer than these?), but the bells were light and unmusical. A short stop was made for lunch and handbells. The bells of Meshaw (6, 6 cwt.) proved to be the best of this weight our ringers had ever rung. Romansleigh (6) and Mariansleigh (6) followed. Stedman at the latter tower being excellent. The stately tower of Bishop's Nympton against a perfect summer sky almost caused the colour photographers in the party to wreck the strict time schedule, but the bells were raised in peal and a good 120 of Grandsire convinced the gathering that it would be almost impossible to strike this fine ring badly.

The local Rector joined in call changes at Molland, where the second bell dates from 1562, and the tenor (16 cwt.) was considered to be the heaviest mediæval bell in the county. The last scheduled tower was South Molton (8), with its magnificent ring (tenor 24 cwt. 3 qr. 12 lb.). The rise was disastrous, but a good touch of Grandsire Triples partially redeemed this and the lower was fair. The local captain here persuaded us to go on to North Molton (6) after tea, a truly superb six.

Thanks are due to A. C. Goss (captain of Townstal) for driving us in his Dormobile, John Kelly (captain of Paignton) for his masterful handling of tenors, and for all the help received from tower captains and incumbents.

THE LADIES' GUILD
Western District

A quarterly meeting was held at Nailsea on September 9th. Ringing began at 3 p.m., followed by a service conducted by the Rector of Failand. Tea was provided in the Church Hall, during which votes of thanks were passed to the Rector and organist, and to Mrs. Strong and Mrs. Quint for a very generous tea. During the business meeting the following new members were elected: Miss Overend (Frome), Miss Mary Hall (Bristol), Miss J. Purnell (Bristol), Miss Mary Powell (Nailsea) and Mrs. M. Horseman (Farmborough).

Besides a quarter peal of Grandsire Triples, rung by members of the Western District on April 21st, the District has held two very successful evening practices during the summer in Bristol and Wrington, and arrangements are in hand for a further two during October and November, notice of which will appear in 'The Ringing World.' The next quarterly meeting will be held at Twerton (Bath) on Saturday, December 9th. B. J.

30 Years Ago

'R.W.' September 18th, 1931.—An astounding proposal is that a tablet should be erected by public subscription at Painswick to commemorate the ringing of 17,687 changes of Grandsire Cinques in 11 hours 36 minutes on November 8th, 1930, which had proved to be false.

Ten Nottingham and three Newark men opened the new peal of ten bells at Grantham on September 19th, 1775. It took all 13 of them to get the bells through a peal of Grandsire Caters, there being two men on the ninth and three on the tenor.

50 Years Ago

'R.W.' September 15th, 1911.—Among the peals recorded in this week's issue is one rung at St. Mary Abbots, Kensington. A good story relating to an incident at this church was told on Monday in one of the London dailies. It does not relate to the ringers, but concerns the choir, and is worth repeating.

'Some churchgoers,' runs the story, 'take more interest in the choir than the pulpit, and this tendency was once sternly rebuked by the verger of St. Mary Abbots, Kensington. The present Lord Chief Justice has for years sung in the choir of this church. An American lady attending the morning service asked the verger if he would kindly point out to her the person of the distinguished chorister. The verger replied: "Well, mum, that is the Vicar, and them's the curates, and I'm the Verger; but as for the choir—as long as they does their dooty, we don't inquire into their hantecedents..."'

ST. DUNSTAN'S, CANTERBURY, RINGERS' OUTING

Saturday, August 19th, proved to be a fine day for the annual outing of the above tower, which this year centred around Romney Marsh. The organisers had observed strict secrecy, so there was great speculation as to the towers to be visited. Our first call was at Lympne (6, 10½ cwt. in G), with its shrill new treble and long draught, which caused one or two persons a little difficulty. Burmarsh (6, 9-3-12 in G), with two mediæval bells still ringing and one cracked one in the churchyard, was much enjoyed. Tea was taken at Rye (and a good tea it was, too!), and many took the opportunity of visiting the glorious Church of St. Mary, though the bells were not put to use. On again, the bells of Stone-in-Oxney (6, 13 cwt.) well rewarded our long climb to the ringing chamber. With a little tuning these bells could be one of the most attractive sixes in the area. The last tower, Hothfield, does not live up to the 'bad' reputation it has got (the bells weren't rung for donkeys' years until earlier this year). In many ways these were the best bells on the trip, though one person did aspire to break the treble stay. After an hour's ringing here, the party departed for Canterbury where, after a vote of thanks to the captain (Mr. Derek Chatfield), the party dispersed. Methods had ranged from rounds to Cambridge Minor, and also tune ringing on handbells, ably performed by Mr. and Mrs. Stockbridge. D. L. C.

BELLS THAT HAVE MADE HISTORY

By ERNEST MORRIS

LIBERTY BELL

PERHAPS the most noted bell in America is the 'Liberty Bell'—not because of its size, but for its being one of the best loved bells in the country. The Independence Bell was cast in London by Thomas Lester and reached Philadelphia in August, 1752. Within a month it was cracked, and then recast by Pass and Stow, of Philadelphia. This was not entirely satisfactory, so it was again recast. In 1753 it was placed in the belfry from which it was to ring in and ring out the shifting scenes in the mighty drama of a nation's freedom.

Since its first hanging in the State House in 1753, the bell has been removed four times. In 1777, to avoid capture by the British Army, it was taken via Trenton and Bethlehem to Allentown, then Pennsylvania, and kept there till Philadelphia was evacuated, whereupon it was brought home. In 1885 it was taken to New Orleans Exposition. In 1893 to the World's Fair at Chicago. In 1895 to the Exposition at Atlanta. On all these journeys the old bell was everywhere recognised as the embodiment of the spirit of the nation. The bell is 12 feet in circumference round the lip, 3 feet from lip to crown, 3 inches thick at the soundbow and weighs 2,080 lb. It is still suspended from its old yoke or headstock, and its inscription 'Proclaim Liberty throughout all the land, unto all the inhabitants thereof. Lev. xxv, 10.' It was under this bell that the representatives of 13 colonies first 'proclaimed liberty,' and this bell, with its iron tongue, started the tidings throughout the world. It was subsequently cracked when sounding a fire alarm. Later it was suspended, under the direction of Mr. Clinton H. Meneely, by a chain of 13 links, from the ceiling of the hall of the State House in Philadelphia. It is now housed in the main corridor of the Independence Hall.

In the centennial year, 1876, a bell weighing 13,000 pounds, to represent the original 13 states, was made by the Meneely Bell Co. and set up in the tower of the State House above Independence Hall, just where the old bell was suspended. It bears the same inscription as the old bell, and is now in constant use sounding the hours of the day. The Meneely Bell Co. also cast another copy of the 'Liberty Bell,' weighing 2,000 pounds, for Mr. Henry Ford. This was placed in the tower of the Institute of Technology at Dearborn, Michigan.

The celebrated New England patriot, Paul Revere, made excellent bells and sent his son to England to learn the art of bell casting. Of the 200 or more bells he cast, many are still in use. But perhaps the most famous bell connected with him is the large town crier's bell from Bedford, Mass., with its wooden handle and very penetrating tone. Some years ago the bell connoisseur who previously owned this bell had the following inscription traced on its surface:—

'This bell was rung on the morning of the 19th day of April 1775, to arouse the people and farmers and tell them that Paul Revere had brought news that the British army was coming to destroy stores of ammunition at Concord, Mass. and to attack them at Lexington, and there they met the foe. Here commenced the Revolutionary War in the early morning hours.'

The late Dr. Arthur H. Nichols, writing on some American bells and their founders, says: 'Now it is certain that Revere was a practical ringer, having been a member of the Guild which had charge of the eight sweet-toned bells of Christ Church (Boston) cast in 1744 by Rudhall. Paul Revere was born in January, 1735, and died in 1818.

THE SECOND LICHFIELD DIOCESAN RINGING FESTIVAL

WOLVERHAMPTON and district was the venue for this year's festival, held on September 9th, the Stafford Archdeaconry Society acting as host. Members of the two visiting Associations, the North Staffs Association and the Shropshire Association were fortunate in having a glorious morning to travel into the area by their various conveyances.

The first tower of the day was Walsall, in its pleasant park-like surroundings above the town. Several of the younger generation sampled their first twelve bell ringing on this handy Taylor ring (26 cwt. 0 qr. 18 lb. in D). Kent Treble Bob Maximus went well, but Stedman Cinques seemed reluctant to come round. Then a hectic drive through the town past innumerable traffic lights (some showing red) to Penn with its country village atmosphere. Ringing here was interspersed with weddings, but the light eight were rung to a variety of methods during the morning. Sedgley was the last tower before lunch—a mixed ring, some being products of Carr's (Smethwick) foundry. Although these bells have not been rehung since 1902, they went well to Double Norwich and Stedman Triples.

The main Birmingham-Wolverhampton road had to be crossed to reach Coseley, first to a local hostelry, where some had lunch and satisfied thirsts after a hard morning's ringing, and then to Christ Church, with its Taylor eight (11 2 5). The crowded belfry here was evidence that the festival was gaining momentum. Bradley's musical Taylor octave was put to good use before the journey back across Wolverhampton to Tettenhall. Many admired this fine modern church (rebuilt after a disastrous fire in 1950), particularly the wonderful feeling of spaciousness it gave. The 15 cwt. eight did justice to the rest of the building, judged by some, in fact to be the best of the day.

AT ST. PETER'S

The tower at the Collegiate Church of St. Peter, Wolverhampton, was the last open before tea. Ringers were now in great profusion, on the steps outside admiring the scenery, on the stairs hoping to get in, not to mention those in the ringing chamber. The ringing, however, did not do justice to this majestic tower (33 0 21 in C), except perhaps the Stedman Cinques shortly before the service.

The short service for ringers was conducted by the Rev. G. A. C. Brown, who deputised for the Rector (Canon J. Briery). After the service the company of over ninety sat down to tea in St. Peter's Church Hall. Mr. D. J. Tranter, the hard working organiser and secretary of the Staffordshire Association, welcomed the visitors to the festival. Mr. G. W. Biddulph (North Staffordshire chairman) proposed a vote of thanks to our hosts, which was seconded by Mr. H. Poyner, who also invited us to Shrewsbury next year. He told us that similar weather as the last two years would be ordered and that a welcome awaited us in Shropshire.

The formalities over in record time—four minutes flat—a return was made to the more serious business of ringing.

Willennal was first, with its Gillett and Johnston ten, where Erin Caters and Cambridge Royal were among the methods brought round. It was good to meet veteran Mr. Chris Wallater once again, this time on his home ground. The only six of the day were provided at Bushbury and a very pleasant ring they proved to be. Stedman Doubles completed the cycle from Cinques down.

The day's ringing was concluded at Codsall—unfortunately too dark by now to be able to see the exterior of this restored church. Seven spliced went well on this musical eight—the only ground floor ring of the day.

All thanks are due to Mr. Tranter and the Staffordshire Association for their efforts in organising the excellent day's ringing, which we thoroughly enjoyed. We look forward with anticipation to completing the round with next year's visit to Shropshire.

PERSONALITIES OF THE EXERCISE—39

Mr. FRANCIS C. MOGFORD,
Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association.

In the city of Bristol, which has more rings of bells in its area than anywhere else in the country, the most popular ringer, a man liked by everyone with whom he comes in contact, is Mr. Francis Cecil Mogford. Nothing is too much trouble for him, and he is delighted to do anything to further the cause of ringing. For a number of years now, he has been steeple-keeper at St. Stephen's, Bristol, steeple-keeper and tower captain at Publow, North Somerset, and tower captain at Compton Dando, the next village.

Cecil, as he is so well known to all his many friends in the West Country, was born on July 19th, 1911, in the pretty Somerset village of Winscombe. His parents moved about a little during his early years, chiefly in the Bristol and Chew area, until finally settling down at Belluton, near Pensford, Somerset. After his schooldays, he spent some months on a farm, but was later apprenticed to cabinet making, with a well known Bristol firm, and remained there until joining H.M. Forces in 1940. His service with the Pioneer Corps took him to North Africa, and later to the European Zone, particularly in the Brussels area!

It was in 1928, when Cecil was taught to ring by the tower captain, Ted Watts, on the heavy ring of six at Publow. His first peal was Grandsire Doubles in July, 1931, and his first as conductor was also Grandsire Doubles in 1934. Both were rung at Publow. Up to date Cecil has rung 205 peals, and has conducted about 25-30 of them. They have been rung mainly in the humbler methods, but include Kent from Minor to Maximus, Cambridge Minor, and Minor in up to 10 methods. Like many West Country ringers, his favourite method is Stedman, and he has also rung Erin Triples and Cinques, and is looking forward to scoring Caters. Over 50 of his peals have been rung at St. Stephen's, Bristol, of which about 25 have been on the tenor. However, he was very pleased to 'complete the circle' on the 10 bells at this tower by ringing the 9th last November. He has also rung the 50 cwt. tenor at St. Mary Redcliffe, Bristol, to several peals of Caters and Cinques. Though not making a regular practice of it, Cecil can and sometimes does ring two bells. He can hunt one and two to Grandsire Doubles, which proves very useful if they meet short on a Sunday.

There are many stories about some of Cecil's escapades, in and out of the belfry. On one occasion when he was oiling the clapper of the tenor at Publow, with the bells up, he overbalanced, and fell head first inside the bell! Fortunately he was on the right side, and the bell stayed set, enabling Cecil to scramble to safety. He often tells the tale of how he might have saved the fine 10 bells at St.

Nicholas', Bristol, from destruction during the war. He was a fire warden on duty there on the night it was blitzed. But one of the best of Cecil's stories is the incident when he was mistaken for a missing bridegroom, and nearly landed into the matrimonial home! Practically everywhere Cecil is seen, his faithful servant—his motor-bike—is with him. It has taken him many miles through the West Country, riding for peals, quarters, outings and services. Cecil is, of course, very proud of being a member of the Ancient Society of College Youths, and enjoys fixing the occasional peal for them, and attending the dinner.

In August, 1939, Cecil married Nellie Drake, who is Welsh, and they have two daughters, Margery, aged 21 and Susan, now 14. He is a keen member of the British Legion, and they are fortunate to have him on their Welfare Committee. If anyone needs help, he will never give in until something is done.

Cecil has no real hobby outside his love for church bellringing, and it would be true to say that no one in the Bristol and North Somerset area, can surpass him in his activities. His enthusiasm and desire to serve others knows no limits, and it is never too late to ask him for his help. This willingness to serve others, coupled with his genial personality and unflinching cheerfulness, has made him a delightful West Country character.

BRITISH COLUMBIA RINGER VISITS BUCKFAST ABBEY

Westminster Abbey in Mission City, British Columbia, is the only other Benedictine Abbey in the world which has a ring of bells, apart from Buckfast Abbey in Devon, the ring being one of ten by Mears, with a tenor of about 23 cwt. One of three ringers who have been instructing the monks there is Mr. F. J. Westlake, formerly of Kingsbury, Somerset, who is at present home on leave.

On Wednesday, September 13th, accompanied by his brother, Mr. H. G. Westlake, he paid his first visit to Buckfast Abbey, and both fully appreciated the opportunity of being shown around, and afterwards taking part in the practice ringing with the Community ringers. The ringing ended with a well struck 504 of Plain Bob Triples, in which Mr. Westlake and his brother took part, the others being Mr. A. L. Bennett, Revs. A. O. Mowan, D. P. Angold, H. MacWilliams, A. de Guingand and W. P. Dowling, who acted as conductor.

'R.W.' September 22nd, 1911.—

Woking, known to most ringers as the place where 'The Ringing World' is produced, and to others as the town where the first crematorium in England was established, has no great campanological repute, but although it lacks attractions as a spot where much tower-bell ringing can be obtained, the first peal of Stedman Caters has been rung in the parish. This was accomplished on handbells on Sunday. The attempt was first made beneath the apple trees in a beautiful old orchard, of which Mr. F. E. Dawe is the fortunate possessor, but the vagaries of the sound in the open air, together with the fact that the light of September days would not have held out, resulted in the peal eventually being rung indoors.

30 Years Ago

'R.W.' September 25th, 1931.—

Mr. Robert H. Brundle, who reached the age of 80 years on Friday, celebrated the event by ringing a peal of Cambridge Surprise Maximus on Saturday. Mr. Brundle is the oldest ringer to ring a peal of Surprise Maximus.

PIPE'S PILGRIMS' TOUR

THE 1961 tour began in now familiar style, with a small party leaving Grundisburgh by coach at 6 a.m. on Sunday, August 6th. With further additions to the party at Ipswich and Colchester we had a good trip up to London, where we were very pleased to welcome Mr. Brian Cox, from Adelaide.

Thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Barker, who joined us at Uxbridge, we were able to make an unscheduled stop at Beaconsfield, and ring on the eight for morning service, before continuing on our way to Oxford. Several others met us here, including Mr. and Mrs. Harold Schofield and their daughter, Gillian, from Bradford.

After lunch we had a busy afternoon, with ringing at six towers. First on the list were the two tens at Magdalen College and New College, where we rang half-courses of Cambridge Royal and touches of Grandsire Caters. Ringing on the heavy eight (28 cwt. in E flat) a high standard again, despite the very long draught.

In the afternoon came the highlight of tour, the lovely, easy going ten at Christ Church, Swindon. A course of Yorkshire Royal came to grief here; though Cambridge Royal and a touch of Grandsire Caters were more successful. We rang our first touch of spliced at Lambourn, the next tower, and did justice to a magnificent tea at the nearby inn afterwards. The two eights at Faringdon and Bampton completed the ringing for the day.

On Tuesday we were joined by some young ringers from Birmingham, and by Peter and Ruth Border, with baby Helen, for the day. The first eight at Deddington were much enjoyed, and these were followed by the 24 cwt. eight at Great Tew. Next were the very fine eight (20 cwt. in E) at Hook Norton, the best of the day.

unable to ring at Southam, so Harry Windsor kindly invited us to ring on the bright little six at Harbury.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY

At Warwick, we were honoured by a visit from Mr. Frank Perrens and Mr. J. L. Garner-Hayward, where an hour's ring on the excellent eight of St. Nicholas' was very much appreciated. At tea a special birthday cake was brought in for Mrs. Barker, and all the company joined in wishing her a happy birthday. Ringing on the ten at St. Mary's after tea was curtailed, but two half-courses of Cambridge Royal, touches of Grandsire Caters and rounds for beginners were completed in the allotted time.

Another long ride brought us to the unusual church at Banbury (a pleasant easy going ten). The last ring of the day was the majestic eight (27 cwt. in D) at Bloxham, where the bells went surprisingly well for their weight.

Yet another early start enabled us to commence ringing at 8.45 a.m. on the eight at Wantage, followed by the pleasant ten at Newbury. The enthusiasts were again quick to spot an opportunity, and obtained permission to ring on the six at Speen, after lunch. At Blewbury we were met by Mr. Wilfrid Wilson, who came on with us to Wallingford afterwards. Even a single in spliced failed to produce an explosion at Harwell, though we were caught by a heavy fall-out of rain when we came out.

THE WHITES ENTERTAIN

The famous tower at Appleton, with which the name of 'White' is traditionally associated, was found with some difficulty and a variety of methods was rung on the light ten. A very enjoyable hour was spent in the 'local' afterwards, where the White family entertained us with a first class display of tune ringing and change ringing by 'lapping' on handbells.

A short run on Friday brought us to Kirtlington, a very good eight of 15 cwt. Ambrosden came next, and then Buckingham, with its spacious belfry and rather old-fashioned ring of eight (27 cwt. in D).

In the afternoon a course of Rutland was rung at Wicken, with the eight at Winstow following. The last tower was officially Haddenham, where the bells are in need of attention, but we had a short ring at Woodstock on our return, by kind invitation of the local ringers.

Back to the hotel a social evening had been arranged, and there was a presentation of a garden chair and a ringer's car badge to Jim and Sylvia Pipe in appreciation for all the work and organisation which had gone into the tour. By general consent it was an unqualified success. The evening was rounded off with handbell ringing, and a film show of past tours, presented by Harry Windsor.

MARRIED COUPLES' 'SPICED'

Several goodbyes were said on Saturday morning as we made treks for home, ringing at Wallington, Henley and Sonning on the way.

As it was Mr. and Mrs. Barker's wedding anniversary, it was fitting that they should ring a married couples' touch of spliced, which Arthur himself called at Marlow after lunch. The 26 cwt. eight at Bray were the last bells of the tour, and very majestic sounding too. After tea a small group went to Stoke Poges, where they rang a quarter peal of Stedman Triples for Mr. and Mrs. Barker, while the rest of the party were homeward bound, arriving in Grundisburgh at 10 p.m.

One's chief recollections are a very pleasant company, good bells, good food and a warm welcome everywhere. To all who met us and who helped make the tour a success, we should like to extend a very big 'thank you.' Next year we hope to tour Devon.

at Merton College did not come up to the usual standard, probably because ringing round the gallery here was a unique and even an unnerving experience for some.

The two light eights at All Saints' and St. Ebbe's were in marked contrast to Merton, and touches of Double Norwich, Kent, Little Bob, Cambridge and Stedman were all successful. Mr. Philip Walker, who had kindly arranged the ringing and shown us round Oxford all afternoon, welcomed us at his home tower, St. Giles', where he keeps the belfry in excellent condition. A short trip brought us to Woodstock, our headquarters for the week.

BURFORD BEST OF TOUR

Monday morning dawned bright and fair, and we were soon on the road to Burford. The beautiful eight (17½ cwt. in E) were considered by many to be the best of the tour, and we certainly took full advantage of them, a feature of the ringing being a well struck course of London. We had quite an audience at Fairford, where the ropes hang in the centre of the church, but ringing was of

A feature of our visit to Kingham was a ladies' touch, which even a mere male must admit was quite good! Others, in disgust, however, preferred to watch the nearby cricket match! A delightful ride through lovely countryside brought us to Bourton-on-the-Water. As on Monday, we rang a touch of spliced on the eight here, followed by a marvellous tea afterwards. After yet another good ring, at Watermoor, the day finished with a visit to the lovely village of Bibury, where the enthusiasts just couldn't resist getting permission to ring on the six here!

Ringling on Wednesday commenced at 8.45 a.m., owing to a 10 o'clock service at Adderbury. The fine toned eight (24 cwt. in D) were rather difficult to handle, due to the short draught. An hour's ride through some pleasant scenery brought us to Daventry, where we were greeted by Pat Chapman. The anticlockwise eight provided some amusing misunderstandings in the first touch, but they were soon mastered, and good touches of London, Superlative and Stedman resulted. We were

BODELWYDDAN BELLS

Dear Sir,—Contrary to the report of the University of London Society's tour 'abroad,' the bells of the 'Marble Church' had not been condemned as unsafe before the Society rang there, although they have been as a result of their visit.

Replying to my application to ring there later in the same week as the U.L.S., the Vicar wrote as follows:

'We have just recently carried out some repairs to the spire and the architect will not give the "all-clear" until he carries out a further inspection. I am afraid that this will not be before August 17th, as the architect lives in Cheltenham. So please accept my reason for not allowing any bellringing at the present time.'

How the Society obtained permission to ring is not clear, neither are the grounds for their theory that if the spire is unsafe it will do no harm to ring for half an hour.

Hoping to persuade the Vicar to give permission to ring, as apparently the Society had succeeded in doing, I called but found that an alarming report had been given by the secretary of the Society for the Preservation of Ancient Buildings and that the bells must on no account be rung for fear of damage to the spire.

It now transpires that the secretary of the S.P.A.B. was a member of the University party, which means that by way of thanking the Vicar for the privilege of ringing his bells, Randal Clouston alarmed him as to their safety and effectively closed the tower to both visitors and 'locals' alike.

A report of this nature, in my opinion, casts a reflection upon the bell founders, who installed the bells in 1872 and who in more recent times rehung them on ball bearings.

About four years ago I encountered a similar case at Bradbourne, Derbyshire, where a certain London architect—I believe he also had some connection with the S.P.A.B.—had warned the Vicar that one day he would find his tower split from top to bottom as though it had been struck by a bomb.

His grounds for this lurid forecast were simply that the bells were hung direct on iron girders instead of the bearings resting on castings in accordance with modern practice, yet they must have been so hung for at least seventy years.

Fortunately the late Vicar did not seriously believe this and I had little difficulty in convincing him of the stupidity of it, and I have been pleased to read that this pleasant ring of six has been rung regularly since our visit.

All too often, however, the opinion of self-appointed and self-opinated 'experts' results in rings being silenced or ringing curtailed. I can think of a number where worn bearings have been the pretext upon which ringing has been stopped altogether and far from resulting in the bells getting rehung it has meant that the ringers have drifted away, interest has been lost and the bells may lie idle indefinitely.

Recently I came across a case in Shropshire, where a party of visiting ringers 'thought there was too much vibration' and the upshot is that only curtailed Sunday ringing is now allowed.

I suggest that visiting ringers are not qualified to judge how much vibration there should or should not be.

At the same time it would be interesting to know what makes bells safe to ring on a Sunday, but unsafe on week days. Similarly why was it safe to ring Bodelwyddan bells for half an hour only? What would have happened if the U.L.S. had rung for thirty-one minutes?—Yours, etc.,

R. H. DOVE.

TIME FADES MEMORY

Dear Sir,—In reference to your account of the S.F.E. Whitsun tour, the reference to the ingenious bellhanging at Feniton should have read Buckerell.

This work was carried out by Mears and Stainbank in 1949. The bells at Feniton, 2 miles away, are all on one level. I had the pleasure of meeting the S.F.E. at Buckerell and rang a touch with them, and also took some of the party up to the bell chamber.—Yours faithfully,

F. H. PARR.

WINCHESTER CATHEDRAL

Dear Sir,—Quite a number of visitors to Winchester Cathedral, who arrive after the commencement of ringing, have had a disappointing wait at the outer door, which we have to keep fastened. Sometimes they have been unlucky enough not to be able to get in until we come down at the end of the ring.

We would like to make it quite clear that it is not ringers, but the general public, whom we are obliged to keep at bay. Those who do not already know how to gain access should either be at the door at 7 on practice night, or 9.45 or 2.25 on Sunday, or let us know that they are coming so that we can arrange for somebody to let them in. In case of urgency a 'phone call to the undersigned would be appropriate up to about 15 minutes before the above times.—Yours sincerely,

W. O. HAYTHORNE,
Honorary Secretary,
Winchester Cathedral Ringers.

TWO RINGS OF BELLS AT SALTASH

Dear Sir,—How pleasing to read Points from Peals by Rev. K. W. H. Felstead after such a long break. I was particularly interested in one part of the article concerning the occasional slip up, and he writes: 'Thus I have recorded a previous peal at Saltash, Cornwall, on December 12th, 1927.'

That peal was one of Plain Bob Minor, conducted by the late C. R. Lilley, and I was one of the band. It was rung at the Church of SS. Nicholas and Faith.

The peal on June 21st, 1961, was rung on the bells of St. Stephen-by-Saltash, and those who took part were assured that it was the first on the bells, and this we believe to be correct.

Incidentally both peals are recorded for 'The Guild of Devonshire Ringers.' Apparently Saltash has two rings of bells.—Yours truly,

T. G. MYERS.

COLCHESTER MEETS NOISE DIFFICULTY

Dear Sir.—I was very interested to read the letters in recent 'Ringing Worlds' from Messrs. F. Hicks and F. Hansford, on the problem of excessive noise outside from church towers as we have had recent experience of this modern problem here at St. Peter's, Colchester. Ever since the war we have suffered restrictions on practice night and peal ringing, due to the close proximity to the church of a Repertory Theatre where there are performances every evening except Sunday. Until recently our practice has had to cease at 8 p.m., and any ringing on a Saturday by 5 p.m.; this has made it difficult to keep our company up to strength.

After it was pointed out to the church authorities that service ringing at the tower was likely to decline, they agreed to have the louvre windows sound insulated, and this has been recently completed. The material used was insulation board (Tentest), with a cavity left between filled with vermiculite; a portion in the middle of the louvres (about 7ft. 6ins. x 4ft.) is hinged at the top and capable of being opened when required to hear the full effect of the bells on Sundays and other occasions. We are very pleased that this has made a considerable improvement outside the tower, so much so that our Vicar has had the approval of the theatre of the work done and a donation from them of £10 towards the cost.

Any visiting ringers are very welcome to join us on our practice nights, which, from now onwards, will be Thursdays, 7.30 to 9 p.m.—Yours sincerely,

HARRY J. MILLATT,
Colchester, Essex.

65s AT BACKSTROKE

Dear Sir,—I have, for some time, heard that 65s at backstroke are bad or are unmusical and again I read it in W.G.W.'s article on Treble Bob and again I cannot see why.

A listener outside the tower is not to know whether a row is back or hand and I'm sure many ringers, musical or otherwise, would not mind.

Can Mr. Wilson or anyone else tell me why 65s are frowned upon?—Yours faithfully,

GRAHAM C. GRANT,
Frome.

THE LATE MRS. A. KING

Dear Sir.—May I, through your columns, express the sorrow felt, not only by members of the Bedfordshire Association, but by the very much wider circle to whom she was known and loved, at the recent death of Mrs. A. King, of Luton.

Our sympathy with Mr. King is mingled with pride at the fortitude with which he has borne his great loss, after 68 years of happy married life.

Aged 90, she had not enjoyed good health over the last year or so, but bore her troubles with great spirit, as befits one who, in all those years, had been an inspiration to all who knew her—charming, friendly and sincere, an excellent example of British womanhood. She was laid to rest on September 4th. May she rest in peace.—Yours, etc.,

ALFRED E. RUSHTON,
Luton, Beds.

The Ancients' Peal Tour of Northamptonshire

Two hundred and twenty-five years ago, Benjamin Annable, with a band of College Youths, went to St. Peter's, Northampton, and rang the first peal on the bells, and this year members of the Ancient Society from various parts of the country joined with members from Northamptonshire in a week's peal tour, commencing on Saturday, August 26th. Unfortunately St. Peter's, Northampton, bells were not available, but none of the party doubted Benjamin Annable's wisdom in choosing this delightful part of England for an excursion from the capital.

We were welcomed to the first tower, Tichmarsh (8, 17½ cwt.), by Canon Luckcock, who takes a keen interest in ringing, and we rang a peal of Yorkshire Surprise Major on these pleasant bells. After a visit to the local hostelry, we made our way to the Royal Hotel, Kettering, which was to be our headquarters for the week, and cautiously sampled the local brew, by name Phipps, not knowing either its strength or quality. However, we need have had no fears, for it proved to be both pleasant to drink and not unduly potent, and on the following morning, with no after effects to dispel our first impression of it, we pronounced it a fine brew.

At 9.30 a.m. we joined the service ringing at the Parish Church (10, 23 cwt.) and were given a warm welcome by Mr. Bob Turner. Grand sire Caters, a course of Superlative and more Grand sire Caters sounded out well on the morning air, and the bright sun which shone for us most of the week really imparted a holiday atmosphere everywhere. At 10.30 we went to a village just outside Kettering, by name Warkton (5, 8 cwt.), and again joined the local ringers in ringing for service, on this lovely ring of bells, Grand sire and Stedman Doubles.

LULLED BY THE MUSIC

An early lunch, and we were on our way to Daventry, where we were met by Mr. Patrick I. Chapman, Master of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild, who had made all the arrangements with regard to obtaining permission to ring throughout the week, and to whom we are extremely grateful. Cambridge Major was proceeding very smoothly on this 19 cwt. ring, and with half-an-hour to ring the music had lulled us into a pleasant sleepiness. The treble man perhaps dreamt most of all, for turning round in 2/3 he caught us all unawares, and within a change or two we had stopped.

We rang for Evensong, and before returning to Kettering were entertained to a splendid tea by Mrs. Chapman, and met young Dominic. The residents' lounge echoed that night to Stedman Caters on handbells, kindly lent to us by Pat Chapman, and we heard tape-recordings of St. Paul's Cathedral and were kept highly amused by anecdotes from Mr. J. Frank Smallwood until a late hour.

Monday morning found us at Irchester, where we were met by the Rev. A. M. Watson, and London Surprise Major seemed to be going all the way until a missed call dashed our hopes and prevented us enjoying any more of this good ring, whose tenor is 21 cwt.

Yorkshire Surprise Major at Oundle in the afternoon was rung, however, and this is believed to be only the second peal of Surprise on the bells, which are difficult to ring well.

Later in the evening some Stedman Cinques were rung on the handbells and a course of Cambridge Surprise Major also, but by midnight we were moving towards our rooms in view of the earlier start to be made the following day.

9 a.m. was the scheduled time of start at Kettering, and it was not much later that we began the peal of Stedman Caters, which proceeded uneventfully under the watchful eye of Mr. Frank Darby. In the afternoon, however, the warm weather was beginning to have its effect, and Bristol Major on the fine ring at Raunds (22 cwt.) became of poor quality, causing us to stand the bells before completing the peal.

Wednesday morning took us to Finedon (8, 21 cwt.), and we had received a warning that this might be one of the hardest towers in which to ring a peal as the bearings sometimes run dry. London Surprise Major was rung for over an hour, when two bells changed course; but a further touch of Stedman Triples practically removed our doubts that we might have been able to complete the peal, for by the end of the touch the tenor man was having difficulty, and we felt sure that two more hours of London would have been impossible. We met the Rector after the attempt and received a warm welcome from him.

PEAL BOARDS TELL A STORY

Irthlingborough (8, 10 cwt.) was the afternoon tower, and we were met by Mrs. Bigley. The peal boards here speak for themselves of the famous band which at the turn of the century was ringing peals of London Surprise Major, by no means common in those days, and we rang a peal of Rutland Major on these beautiful bells. Afterwards Mr. Arthur Bigley entertained us to tea, and we rang some Grand sire Caters on his lovely set of Shaw handbells with him, and we also heard a record of some tune ringing which he had made. He had celebrated his 60th birthday only two days earlier, having been a ringer at Irthlingborough for 40 years, and we should like to wish him many happy returns of the day.

Haselbech has a beautiful church in a lovely setting, and it was perhaps the greatest disappointment of the week that the peal attempt here on Thursday morning, for Spiced Surprise Major in six methods, came to grief when two bells changed course after two-thirds of the peal had been rung. Lunch in Market Harborough brightened our spirits however, and in the afternoon Mr. Frank C. Price called his first peal of Surprise Major as conductor, London being the method, at Welford (12 cwt.).

It was after the peal here that we were in for our greatest shock of the week. Stopping on our way back to Kettering in Husbands Bosworth at an inn, the landlord announced that he had no beer, no draught beer that is, and we had no alternative but to visit the next house of refreshment which we came to, in the same village. One of our number, after ordering his drink, asked the landlord what food he had and was told that there was no food in the house. He exclaimed: 'What a place!' and the landlord nearly gave him a black eye. It was only after hasty explanation of our previous experience that he calmed down.

On Friday morning we rang a peal of Pudsey Major at Higham Ferrers (8, 23 cwt.), where we were kindly met by Mr. Deighton. The bells here are very good and the peal was followed by lunch in the Green Dragon.

The afternoon attempt was at Burton Latimer, and a miscall brought to an end the Lincolnshire on this ring of eight (10 cwt.), which sound heavier, and an early start was made on the final evening's celebrations.

TUNING THE GLASSES

Just before closing time we were ushered into a small bar apparently reserved for residents bent on drinking through the night, and shortly before 12 somebody rashly suggested that changes on beer glasses was the proper thing to do. After a few rounds to try our handles for length and some subtle drinking to tune our glasses, we settled down to a sparkling course of Plain Bob Minor, the band sitting as follows: Wilfrid F. Moreton treble (a ½-pint glass), Alan J. Frost 2 (another ½-pint), Gordon Benfield 3 (an 8 in. diameter lampshade), Michael P. Moreton 4 (a ½-pint partly filled with water), Stewart F. Kimber 5 (a pint nearly empty), Frank E. Darby tenor (a pint half full). On completing the ringing, everybody inadvertently took a drink, and thus at one draught destroyed the tuning of this interesting six. However, Gordon Benfield, balanced precariously on a chair to reach the third, continued to toll the lampshade which had a beautiful tone; and none of us will forget the look of startled amazement on the night porter's face when he walked in to take our orders for the next round.

Saturday morning, and almost sadly we bade farewell to the hotel and to Kettering, and made our way to Desborough (8, 10½ cwt.), where the Vicar came up to welcome us. Spliced four was rung, and perhaps would have been completed but for a late call which sent one bell in the wrong direction, and 'Stand' was called.

In the afternoon, however, a good peal of Cambridge Major was rung at Rothwell, and these fine bells very aptly concluded a week in which all the bells were of a high quality; and we left Northamptonshire with a deep impression of the warm welcome which we received, of the beautiful churches, many of which have fine spires, of many well-cared-for belfries, and of pleasant English countryside.

PERSHORE RINGERS NEEDED SPANNERS AND OIL CANS

On September 5th a party of young ringers from the Pershore Deanery set out in search of some of Worcestershire's less well-known towers. The first port of call was All Saints' Church, Spetchley. Here hangs a pre-Reformation four (tenor 5½ cwt. in B). These rarely-rung bells go quite well and when we had put ropes on they were rung to rounds, Kent and Oxford Minimus, Siedman and, of course, Spetchley Court Bob. Ringing here is made more interesting as it is always accompanied by a steady trickle of dust and twigs from the ceiling.

Recent correspondence in 'The Ringing World' has included the subject of place-names but no mention has been made of the next tower visited, White Ladies, Aston, a small village with a pleasant old church. The tower is weatherboarded and contains a ring of three in a 15th century frame, rehung last century by Barwell. The tenor is inscribed: '+ Sancte Jacope Ora Pro Nobis.' with crowned heads as stops. She was cast in the 15th century and weighs about 7½ cwt. The notes of the bells are: Treble, G; 2nd, D sharp; tenor, C sharp. The ropes fall in a line among the pews at the west end! Much work was done in the tower before the bells could be raised, but rounds were scored with reasonable ease!

The last tower visited was St. Bartholomew's, Naunton Beauchamp. The three here have a tenor of 11 cwt. in G sharp. Much tightening of bolts and greasing of bearings was undertaken but unfortunately the frame was not stable enough for the bells to be raised, as an alarming amount of movement was noticed before the treble was half-way up. CRAWFORD CUP CONTEST

Warsop again won the final of the Crawford Cup contest decided at Gamston on September 9th. Their faults totalled 28. Other finalists were Holme Pierreport 69, Ordsall 85, Whatton-in-the-Vale 95. A most pleasing feature was having Mrs. C. M. Crawford, widow of the donor, to present the cup to Mr. H. T. Rooke, who, in thanking Mrs. Crawford, said that everybody had tried hard. The judges were Messrs. H. Chant and D. Smith, and the test piece 360 changes any method.

The presentation took place after a nice tea in the school, served to a company of nearly 60, with the Rev. W. D. Willatt (Rector) in the chair.

A minute's silence was observed before the meeting as a token of respect to three members who had died in the past two months—Mr. O. Street, Mr. S. Mason and Mr. D. McNeil and his wife, who were killed in a road accident.

The Rector was elected a vice-president, and Miss Thelma Staples, of Kirkby-in-Ashfield, a ringing member. The collection for the Bell Fund was £2 2s. 8d., and Clayworth was selected for the meeting on October 14th. Before ringing was resumed, the Rector, the judges and the ladies (for the nice tea) were all sincerely thanked.

BEDFORDSHIRE ASSOCIATION

There was not a large attendance at the Biggleswade District meeting at Northill on September 9th, but the ringing, directed by Mr. L. Bywaters, ranged from Bob Minor to London and Wells Surprise. A service was conducted by the Rev. T. A. Frost, with Mr. M. Lockey at the organ. Tea followed in the Church Hall, prepared by a local ringer's wife,

GUILD of DEVONSHIRE RINGERS
Exeter Branch

On September 9th the quarterly meeting of the Exeter Branch of the Guild of Devonshire Ringers was held at Tedburn St. Mary. About 25 members and visitors attended, and the six bells were rung to Grandsire and Stedman Doubles, Plain Bob, St. Clement's, Cambridge and London Surprise Minor.

During the service the Vicar paid tribute to the work of the late president, Preb. E. V. Cox. Tea and the business meeting followed at the Vicarage, after which a course of Grandsire Caters on handbells was rung. Whitestone was later visited by some members for a short ring on the bells. N. M.

North Dorset Branch

The quarterly meeting was held at Bradford Abbas on September 9th. Twenty ringers were present from seven towers of the Branch, including visitors from other towers. In spite of a tendency to 'jump' on the part of some of the ropes, methods were rung up to London Surprise, not excluding rounds for beginners. The bells go very nicely and sounded well over this lovely corner of Dorset.

At the service the Branch was welcomed by the Rector, the Rev. L. J. Chesterman. At the business meeting after tea mention was made of the Blandford ringing festival on October 28th and the annual meeting of the Branch at Mere on December 2nd. R. N. L.

An attempt for 13,216 Yorkshire Surprise Major at Allendale, Northumberland, on September 16th was brought round at 9,088 changes, when the bearings of the 6th and tenor started to rung dry. However, this beats the existing long length record for the Durham and Newcastle Association, set up by the same band on the same bells in April this year, by 352 changes.

H.R.H. Prince Philip is to open Bow Bells on December 20th.

The ring of six at Hever, near Edenbridge, was reopened last Saturday. There was a barbecue afterwards.

The time taken in the peal of Bob Doubles, rung at Horton on August 5th (see page 617), was 2 hours 40 minutes. The conductor sends his apologies.

St. George Cathedral, Cape Town, is to have a ring of ten bells with a tenor of 25 cwt., similar to the ring supplied to Salisbury Cathedral, Rhodesia. The contract has been placed with Messrs. Mears and Stainbank.

Hereford Cathedral band are losing Mr. Arthur W. Davis, for many years a member of the company and a prominent officer of the Diocesan Guild. His impending departure formed the basis for an informative article in 'The Hereford Evening News' about ringing at the Cathedral and members of the band.

Miss Margaret A. Ladd, our esteemed correspondent for the Tonbridge District, regrets that an error occurred in her report of the meeting at Brenchley (see page 639). The name of the ringer for whom a quarter peal was fixed and rung at Brenchley was Mr. F. Acott and not Mr. A. Wenban. Apologies to all concerned.

Staines, Middlesex, has now five members of the Skipsey family in its band—Edgar, Jean, John, Linda and Freddy. The band rejoice in the birth of a daughter to secretary Jean, and look forward to the day when there will be a 'Skipsey Minor band.' Because of the birth, Edgar was unable to conduct the quarter on September 17th.

BELFRY GOSSIP

In sending his apologies to those members of Cambridge University Guild who went to Evesham for a peal on September 9th for his failure to arrive, Mr. W. T. Cook adds: 'Unfortunately I missed the train at Paddington through underestimating the capacity of London Transport for keeping its passengers waiting.'

The clock face of Buckland-in-the-Moor, near Ashburton, Devon, has, instead of numerals, the words 'My dear mother.'

The peal of Yorkshire Surprise Major rung at Soberton on September 16th enabled E. Winifred Keys and W. T. Beeson to ring their 50th peal together.

The good wishes of not only those who rang in the quarter peal at Harpenden but also from their many ringing friends will be extended to Mr. and Mrs. J. Desmond Painter, who are going to Nigeria.

The Chaddocks, of Rotherham, and the Schofields, of Bradford, rang a peal of Yorkshire Surprise Major at Conisborough. Each provided a father, mother, son and daughter.

The 200th anniversary of the casting and hanging of Upham, Hants, bells was marked by a special service on September 17th. In place of a sermon the Rector (the Rev. A. Catley) obtained permission from the Bishop for an address to be given by the District chairman (Mr. L. W. Stead) on bells and bellringing. Mr. Stead's address was much appreciated, as well as the ringing, by visitors from Southampton, Bitterne Park, Eling and North Stoneham.

Readers will have noted that peals have been relegated to the second half of the journal. This is an idea of 'The Ringing World' Committee in their search for something new. Whether it will be permanent depends on readers' reactions. One member doubted if ordinary articles were of sufficient merit to oust peals from their customary position. Influencing the committee were the favourable comments of the rearrangement of contents in the Jubilee issue.

OBITUARY

MR. H. BARLOW

The Lancashire Association has lost one of their oldest members by the death of Mr. Herbert Barlow, of Oldham, which occurred September 15th whilst on holiday at Morecambe.

He was in his 84th year and an active ringer until quite recently, when an accident and difficulty in climbing steps prevented him taking part in the ringing, but his interest remained to the last. A keen striker who would let anyone know who wasn't, he had rung 85 peals for the Association, including 10,000 Kent Treble Bob Major at Moorside, 1922, where he started to ring about 1897. In 1923 he joined the St. Mark's, Glodwick, band, having moved to the district in his business.

On his retirement he became the captain at Oldham Parish for some time until he had to give up. He was also a honorary life member of the Lancashire Association. Herbert was also a keen and reliable tune ringer and for many years a member of Moorside handbell team. He was the G.O.M. of the Rochdale Branch and was loved and respected by a large circle of friends who will sadly miss his cheerful presence at their meetings, social events and coach trips on annual outings, etc.

He is survived by two sons, his wife having predeceased him by many years.

The interment was at St. Thomas' Church, Moorside, Oldham, on September 21st and among the many ringers present was Mr. S. L. Parry, representing the Lancashire Association. A course of Grandsire Triples was rung over the open grave by his fellow ringers—I. Kay, Vernon Sykes, Edward Jenkins and John Walmsley. Floral tributes included those from Moorside ringers, Moorside handbell ringers and Oldham ringers, and the Lancashire Association. In the evening a quarter peal of Stedman Triples was rung half-muffled on the bells he loved at Moorside, a fitting tribute to a grand ringer and a gentleman. May he rest in peace.

MR. MARK WHITMORE

A keen worker, both in church and parish, Mr. Mark Whitmore, of Griston, Norfolk, died on September 2nd, aged 77 years. Nearly 40 years ago he came to Griston from near Bromsgrove, Worcs. and for practically all that time was churchwarden.

He was almost unknown in the world of ringing, but in his own parish he had done a great deal to keep our art alive in that he taught a considerable number of ringers, especially in his earlier years, and almost to the time of his death he cared for the bells of the church he loved and served. Ringing owes a great deal to him and people like him who, almost unnoticed, keep things going in remote country villages.

The funeral, attended by local ringers, took place at Griston on September 5th. At the memorial service on September 10th the Vicar, Canon H. E. King, took his text from the parable of the talents: 'Well done, thou good and faithful servant.' He said that Mark Whitmore was indeed a superb example of a faithful and reliable servant; he had never let anyone down and he could always be relied upon in church and parish. His advice was sought by many.

Prior to the memorial service a well struck quarter peal was rung to his memory.

THE LADIES' GUILD

Eastern District

About 30 members and friends were present at the Eastern District meeting held at Cavendish on September 16th. Methods rung included Plain Bob, Double Court, Treble Bob and Cambridge.

At the business meeting it was decided to take a collection at all future services for the bell or rope fund of the church visited for the meeting. There was a demand for badges among members, who were also in favour of a District theatre visit after Christmas.

The next meeting will be at Long Stratton and Dickleburgh on December 9th. (Norfolk ladies, book this date—the Eastern District includes you!) Votes of thanks were extended to Canon Barnard, for the use of the bells and for conducting the service and to Mr. E. Hotine for playing the organ.

A. E. J. L.

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

The Chertsey District met at Egham on September 9th, but probably owing to the very short period for ringing before the service, only 23 turned up to the tea and meeting. The service was conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. S. C. Strong.

At the business meeting Mr. J. King reported that the coach booked for the summer festival had been filled, and a number of ringers would also be travelling separately.

Several requests to run another District dinner had been received, but it was felt that the high cost prevented a number of people coming. After some discussion it was agreed to try to run a social evening, with a buffet supper.

Two new members from Egham were elected and six junior members from Chobham. Further ringing after tea, which attracted about 40 ringers, was notable for the fact that not one touch of Grandsire was rung!

MARRIAGE

MR. A. STREETER—MISS F. HANKEY

Two very popular local ringers, Mr. Alan Streeter, District Master and local tower captain, and Miss Freda Hankey, were married at St. John the Evangelist, Redhill, on September 23rd, the Vicar (the Rev. S. G. Dyer) officiating.

The local band rang the bride in with touches of Bob Minor and Grandsire Triples. After the service the Association officers, under the direction of the Master (Mr. F. Darby), rang the newly-weds out with some delightful Stedman Triples.

At the time for Freda and Alan to leave for their honeymoon, members again gathered at St. John's and rang a quarter peal of Bob Major in their honour. Unfortunately there was insufficient time to attempt a peal.

The Surrey Association members and particularly the local band wish them both a long and happy married life.

LADIES' GUILD

Kent District's Joint Meeting

Ringling at Chilham on September 9th was enjoyed not only by the Ladies' Guild and the Canterbury District but also by many tourists, who had attempted the climb to the belfry, although visibly fatigued by the first few steps!

The service was taken by the Rev. Peter Robbins, Vicar of Lower Halstow and a ringer, who gave an excellent sermon. This was followed by a large tea provided by local people.

The Canterbury District had a short meeting and then the men left the ladies to theirs, which was attended by 20. Mrs. W. H. Dobbie was congratulated on her first handbell peal, and the meeting elected two new members. Mrs. Mitchell reported briefly on the annual general meeting at Bedford in July, then all returned to the belfry, where eight members of the Guild rang a course of Cambridge.

Next meeting Rochester, October 21st.

SOUTHWELL DIOCESAN GUILD

Newark District

Whatton-in-the-Vale was chosen as the place for the September meeting, and approximately 40 ringers took part in the ringing on this pleasant six at some time during the afternoon and evening. A variety of Surprise and Treble Bob methods was rung, with plenty of rounds and simpler methods for the less experienced. Tea was served in the Griffin Arms, followed by a very short business meeting, presided over by Mr. J. W. Raithby, in the absence of the District chairman. The next meeting, to be held in November, is to be a joint one at Newark, with the Central Branch of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild.

A MUCH-PRIZED RING

THIS week we publish a quarter peal of Minimus which we feel sure will be prized as many a peal. It was rung at the Church of St. Mary, Brownsea Island, which, while only four miles from the centre of Bournemouth, lies in Poole Harbour, where the impressive Castle commands the entrance to all shipping.

The late owner, Mrs. Mary Bonham Christie, who died recently at the great age of 96 years, kept the island as a bird sanctuary and quite private during the latter years of her life. All familiar with the Boy Scout Movement know that it was on this island that Lord Baden-Powell founded the Movement.

An approach was made by Alan A. J. Buswell and Arthur V. Davis to Mr. John Christie, the present owner, to see the church, inspect the four bells hanging there and, if possible, to ring them. Permission was given on condition that the ringing was in connection with the Beating of the Bounds ceremony to take place in Poole Harbour on September 2nd.

The bells were found to be in fair order: they were cast in 1856 by John Warner and Sons, of the Crescent Foundry, London, with a tenor of 7½ cwt. in C, the four being in a minor key. Evidently it was planned to add a tenor bell, for there is a chiming apparatus in the belfry for five bells.

After tightening of bolts, greasing of bearings and substituting more reliable ropes, the quarter peal was rung in 45 minutes. The bells have a good tone and are hung in two low-sided frames with the bells swinging east to west. The clappers are unusual, being constructed of wood with a metal ball and flight.

The church is a little gem, and upon viewing it through the Gothic windows from the ringing chamber, it is difficult to believe that it has not been used for several years. During the war years the island was garrisoned by an anti-aircraft battery; it is said that the duty of those troops was to divert the enemy's attention from more important targets nearby by lighting flares at different points. Bombing caused much damage; the little church, so much used by soldiers during the war, now has a leaky roof and damp walls which will, unhappily, do much damage unless soon repaired.

On all sides one sees signs of the happy and prosperous days of just over half-a-century ago, when the Squire and his lady occupied the family pew at the west end of the church and the tenantry filled the building, as there was a time when the island had a population of 270 inhabitants. The four bells probably rang in many Christ-masses and New Years—at any rate, there is a fine fireplace in the ringing chamber and signs that the ringers knew how to make themselves comfortable.

Prior to attempting the quarter peal the ringers were shown over the Castle by Mrs. John Christie. It is a handsome building, erected by master craftsmen who loved their work, and is in keeping with the lovely setting.

Regretfully we left the island, grateful to Mr. Christie for the privilege we had enjoyed, and hoping that one day the Church of St. Mary, Brownsea Island, and its bells will be restored to their former glory.

AN ENCOURAGEMENT

THE policy of 'The Ringing World' Committee is not to accumulate a substantial profit but to maintain a reasonable balance on each year's working. In accordance with this policy, the Committee decided, as was announced last week, to carry the extra ½d. postage for the next six months and then review the position. This will cost in the neighbourhood of £240.

Had the Committee been minded to play for safety it would not have taken this step. The extra postage was not the only increase which had to be met. Some months back the printers of the journal had given notice of new prices that would operate from the beginning of October. These are equivalent to 10 per cent. of labour costs and in a full year would amount to £375. There was also a review of the Editor's salary.

The aggregate of all these three items is below the profit made last year. The Committee are hopeful that the flow of income from all sources will be maintained. So far this year signs are encouraging. The sale of the journal is in advance of the corresponding week last year, and ringers have shown their practical interest in production costs by supporting the Gratefully Acknowledged column.

The Editorial Committee feel that their action in meeting the postage increase will not only be appreciated by our regular subscribers but will result in attracting new readers. Many of our towers are well filled with young ringers; it is our hope that they will be persuaded as their efficiency advances to join the world-wide family of ringers by becoming regular readers and subscribers to 'The Ringing World.' They have to carry the torch to the next generation and should be reminded of their particular responsibility. This is an appropriate week to join—the first issue of a new quarter. Subscription rates are advertised on the centre page next to Belfry Gossip.

TWERTON'S 100th PEAL

In this issue we record the 100th peal rung at Twerton-on-Avon. It had been hoped to have an all local band peal, but Jim Jefferies, who works at Southampton, was involved in a crash while riding his motor cycle.

Twerton ringers are most grateful to Cedric Brown, of Corston, for standing in at a moment's notice. The band was truly representative of the church's life and included the P.C.C. secretary, two choristers, two sidesmen, the organist and choirmaster, the youth club treasurer, the verger, the crucifer and a Sunday school teacher.

The first peal on the bells was Grandsire Triples in 1888 and ringing has been fairly even since then.

An analysis shows 60 peals of Triples (Grandsire 43, Stedman 14 and Plain Bob 3) and 40 of Major (Plain Bob 23, Double Norwich 5, Kent T.B. 3, Cambridge Surprise 3, Gainsborough Little Bob 1, Grandsire 1, Superlative Surprise 1, Rutland Surprise 1, 4 methods Spliced Surprise 2).

WINCHESTER & PORTSMOUTH Southampton District

At the autumn meeting held at Bishopstoke on September 16th four teams entered for the Alliston Striking Cup. The judges—Messrs. Forder, House and Marshall—placed St. Michael's, Southampton, first, followed by Bishopstoke, Romsey and Eling. The method was Grandsire and all except Bishopstoke rang Doubles. Southampton will represent the District in the final in October.

The Guild service was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. G. H. Rose), with Mr. R. C. Kippin as organist. Tea in the Rectory was prepared by Mrs. Chapman and helpers. This was free, but a collection for the Roof Fund realised £2 17s. 6d. At the short business meeting nine new members were elected from Upham.

ARCHDEACONRY OF HALIFAX

September 2nd was a really warm day when the Guild met at Kirkburton and people found it a little too hot in the small ringing room. A break was made for tea and the business meeting followed. Unfortunately the annual meeting cannot be held at Halifax and it was agreed to try for Ripponden, with Northowram as an alternative. The meeting decided to send a letter of welcome to the new Archdeacon of Halifax, the Ven. Lister.

Ringing was resumed and more and more people arrived. We hope our next meeting at Queensbury on November 11th will be equally well attended. D. S.

LADIES IN THE BELFRY (correspondence)
To the Editor, Sir.—Having read 'E. J. B.'s' letter on 'Lady Ringers,' I think that the Vicar is in the right, and the ringers are wrong (not because he is a Vicar, that makes no difference), but because a woman has no right in a tower which is not really a part of the church. Those towers where they ring on the ground floor are part of the church, but no ringer is going to make me believe that a tower, where you ring hidden from the church is a part of the church, it is all nonsense.

What the ringing world wants is a better class of men to learn to ring, viz., the middle classes, then things would go better. My objections to lady ringers are these:

1. They will do men out of their hobby.
2. They will be given all the privileges, while gentlemen ringers will have to take a 'back seat' and look on.
3. They will do as that Vicar at Quorn (Leicestershire) once said: 'Cause all the trouble.'—Arthur Cox.

PERSONALITIES OF THE EXERCISE—40

MR. DENIS A. BAYLES,

Durham & Newcastle Diocesan Association.

One of the leading ringers in the North of England is the hard working general secretary of the Durham and Newcastle Association, Mr. Denis Alan Bayles, of Chester-le-Street, Co. Durham, though he is an East Anglian by upbringing, a part of the country which has provided so many fine ringers, who have eventually 'emigrated.' He is particularly keen on the teaching aspect of ringing, and has some decided views on this subject. He considers that the average recruit can be given both strokes before the end of his first night in the belfry, and is prepared to demonstrate this at his own tower. He believes wholeheartedly in giving recruits encouragement, and his learners are urged to attend on Sundays and participate in the ringing as soon as they can ring rounds.

Denis was born in Derby on January 18th, 1922, but his family moved to Acle, Norfolk, in 1929. He was educated at Great Yarmouth Grammar School, and when the school was evacuated to Retford, Notts, in June, 1940, he was due to take his higher school certificate a week or two later. To crown it all he ran a temperature of 102 degrees in the middle of the examination, and took several of the papers in bed! Nevertheless he gained a Norfolk Major Scholarship to Imperial College, London, to study chemistry, graduating with second class honours, and eventually gaining the Associateship of the Royal College of Science and the Associateship of the Royal Institute of Chemistry.

When Acle, Norfolk, bells were rededicated after restoration on September 6th, 1933, Denis was a server and in the choir, and the ground floor ringing chamber roused his interest. In 1935 (aged 13) he began to learn the art, his instructor being the late John R. Wilkinson, the local captain. Once he had mastered Bob Minor he began to go further afield, and was greatly encouraged and assisted by Billy Barber, of Reedham. During term time he also gained experience on the higher numbers at St. Nicholas', Great Yarmouth. On June 27th, 1936, Denis was setting out with a party for a quiet day on the river, but just as they were about to start Billy de Ville, of Halvergate, came along and asked him to deputise for someone in a peal at Halvergate, so he rang the treble to three methods of Minor for his first, conducted by R. H. Hewitt, of Gateshead. He soon developed an interest in conducting, and eventually became conductor at Acle. Denis' first peal as conductor was four methods of Minor at Acle on Easter Sunday, 1938, and although most of the local band rang a peal, including his sister, Brenda, they were never able to attempt one with a completely local band.

When the war ban on Sunday ringing was lifted from Easter, 1943, Denis had transferred to a post at Washington, Co. Durham, and soon established contact with Newcastle Cathedral and Chester-le-Street, eventually becoming a member at the latter tower. He continued to practise regularly with the Newcastle Cathedral band, and learnt a great deal from them. He wishes he could have known W. H. Barber and his contemporaries at the height of their powers. In 1946 Denis moved to an appointment in St. Albans, Herts, and soon joined the Cathedral band there. He greatly enjoyed the practices, which lasted from 7.30-9.30 p.m., and he also attended the weekly practices at St. Peter's, and travelled to Bushey every Thursday, where he gained valuable experience from Harold Cashmore and his colleagues. He was privileged to ring several peals in Herts.

In 1947 Denis married Margaret Elliot at Chester-le-Street, and early in 1948 he returned to Tyneside as chemist to the Bushing Company, Hebburn, a subsidiary of A. Reynolds and Co. Ltd. He rejoined the Chester-le-Street band, becoming Ringing Master, and also attended the weekly practices at Newcastle Cathedral. At this time there was a resurgence of peal ringing, and Denis took part in a number of peals where new ground was broken, or where methods such as Cambridge Royal were rung again after a long interval. In 1949 he became a College Youth, and took part in a peal of Stedman Cinques for the Ancient Society. Denis has been general secretary of the Durham and Newcastle Association since 1951, and a Central Council representative since 1959. This has involved some organising which he quite enjoys, and three notable functions with which he has been connected stand out in his memory. These are the Central Council meeting at Newcastle in 1954, the 80th anniversary dinner of the Association in 1957, and the University of London tour of Northumberland and Durham in 1959. In all this work, Denis has been ably supported by his wife, particularly where catering has been concerned. He was overjoyed when she learnt to ring a few years ago, but she is loath to demonstrate this outside her own tower.

Since August, 1956, Denis has been a lecturer in organic chemistry at the Rutherford College of Technology, Newcastle. This job has proved more satisfying, as it has enabled him to extend his interest in teaching, which had previously been confined to ringing. One consequence of longer holidays has been that he has been able to spare time to join one or two London University tours, of which he is almost a founder member.

Denis' peal total, including one on handbells, stands at just over 260, of which he has conducted 153. These range from Doubles to Maximus, with a fair variety of methods, including the first peal of Albanian Surprise Royal at St. Peter's, St. Albans, in 1947, which he composed, and he has conducted a number of peals of London. He has called very few compositions more than once, his list does not include any 'stunts,' and he has yet to 'complete a circle.' It has always seemed to him more important to produce the best results, and he has been content to ring where he felt that he could make the best contribution to the band, and this has resulted in a preponderance on the heavier end. Denis is very proud of the fact that, since 1935, he has rung for an average of 100 services per year, apart from the war-time ban, along with the fact that he has never really worn the 'unattached' label.

In his quiet way, Denis has set an example of what a good Association man should be like—a regular Sunday service ringer, an enthusiastic instructor, with an ability to take his place with the best in a peal band. Such conscientious devotion to duty makes Denis Bayles one of the natural leaders of the Exercise. APACE.

BRISTOL UNIVERSITY SOCIETY IN ESSEX

FOR their fourth annual 'ringing holiday,' the older members of Bristol University Society continued their traditional anti-clockwise movement around the country and visited Essex. The party comprised: Brenda and Michael Sprackling, Bridget and David Heighton, Mary and Patrick Bird, Barbara Stephens, Jane Tuffin, Judy Atkinson, Roy Blackler, Will Searrot and Brian Wylde. The growing number of married couples seems in keeping with the present trend at Bristol! As usual the tour was designed for cycling, but this year we had two cars for the aged and unfit. Everyone took their turn on the bikes, but it seems that after this year we shall bid farewell to the cycle tour of our University days and succumb to the comforts of motor-ing and hotels.

Traditionally we chose the best week of the summer and from the movement we met at Wendens Ambo on August 27th the sun shone from the cloudless blue sky. At the parish church we found a pleasant ring of six. They are not rung often and the Vicar was pleased with our help, not only in ringing for Even-song, but also for providing David as an organist and forming three-quarters of the congregation. Saffron Walden provided our base for the next three days and the youth hostel and hotel were within convenient waving distance of one another.

On Monday we set off in high spirits and lovely weather. Ickleton (quite a nice eight) provided a fine beginning, and Duxford (6) were also enjoyed. At Whittlesford (6) a small door in the ringing chamber gave access to the roof and attentions were divided between sunbathing and ringing. At Sawston we managed Sawston Imperial and afterwards enjoyed lunch in the sun on the lawn of a nearby hostelry.

Both Stapleford (6) and Shelford (5) were pleasant rings, as was Harston (6), where a local ringer thought we were 'going to ring for three hours—you can carry on if you like!' At Foxton (5) we were invited to inspect the bells and found them loose on both headstocks and wheels, consequently they were rather difficult to manage. The day's programme ended with 'a cuppa at Foxton Vicarage,' but the Vicar treated us to such a gigantic and satisfying meal that we left Foxton late in the evening with full stomachs and happy memories.

SWAY RATHER FRIGHTENING

Elmdon (6) was the first tower on Tuesday. The girls didn't stay long, finding the tower sway rather frightening. With cracks in the walls showing definite movement and rather poor bells we were all glad to move on to Chrishall, a nice light six. Great Chishill's five were hard going on their plain bearings, but it appears that they are quite easy after 60 years' experience! At Barley (6) we rang Ipswich and then found a good eight at Barkway.

Anstey's are not the best of sixes, but the women managed to struggle through Bob Doubles. The men decided to show them how by ringing 'Sixty on Thirds,' but due to the close hand-stroke leads they had successfully lowered the bells by the half-way point! In the ensuing rise the treble rope broke and the girls certainly had the last laugh! At Clavering (6) the entrance to the ringing chamber via caged steps was interesting, but the bells were none too easy. By the time we reached Arkesden we were tired and enthusiasm for finding keys had waned. The belfry door was locked, so we made our made home a little earlier.

Wednesday was our 'easy' day and after a good ring at Newport (6) we had time for Kilifi Memorial Church, Kenya, where it is proposed to hang a ring of six. The appeal of Mr. W. F. P. Kelly for assistance towards meeting the cost of the bells—estimated at £3,200—appeared in our issue of July 28th (page 511). Donations to Mrs. Kelly, secretary/treasurer, Kilifi Church, P.O. Box 29, Kilifi, Kenya.

coffee. Manuden (5) had knotty ropes, but was otherwise quite good, while Stansted has a picturesque tower, but the eight bells are odd struck. Great Easton's six are very nice and refreshments offered by a local lady were welcomed. At Great Dunmow we had a short but good ring on the delightful eight before making for our various places of accommodation. The cyclists were ferried in by car and Jane Cook joined us for the evening at 'The Saracen's Head,' where we had a most enjoyable 'Summer Dinner and Reunion.'

Thursday was another busy day but we got off to a poor start at High Easter (6), where the tenor clapper was missing, but Great Waltham (8) made up for our disappointment and here the ringing was quite good. At Little Waltham (6) we rang half-muffled before making our way to Broomfield's circular tower, where we enjoyed a good six. After lunch at Great Baddow (8), we didn't do justice to the bells, but at Sandon (6) Waltham Delight was rung a little late in the day. Danbury (6) meant a long uphill climb for the cyclists, but both the view and the bells were much appreciated. Maldon's triangular tower was disappointing, but nevertheless the ring of eight was enjoyed and with help a fair course of Cambridge was rung.

By Friday the party had started to thin out, but we started well at Goldhanger (8), although the second slipped wheel twice—apparently for the first time in its history! At Tollesbury the Rector rang with us on the nice little six, and the Rector was again a ringer at Tolleshunt D'Arcy (6), but here we found the bells rather noisy and out of tune. S.L.H. 118 was mis-navigated, not for the first time, on the way to Inworth's (5) brick tower. The excellent lunch time 'refreshment' stood us in good stead at both Feering (8) and Kelvedon (6), but Witham's Chipping Hill were a beautiful eight. Great Totham (6) proved difficult to find, but well worth it both for the ringing and the organ. A memorable week was brought to an end by singing the Magnificat, accompanied by David.

Memories of such a wonderful week are many, but 'The West' were thoroughly beaten at 'arrows' for the first time ever, and the battle of the sexes was also prominent this year. It is hard to decide who won the rounds in ringing, driving and navigation, but it will suffice to say that the lads preferred the comparative safety of bicycles or the sports car, while the girls were in charge of the saloon! We must all thank Michael for his tireless and excellent effort in organisation, and also all the incumbents and ringers who gave us such a welcome.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

POINTS FROM PEALS

Dear Sir,—The Rev. K. W. H. Felstead's articles are interesting and he has tabulated a mass of information, which can be of great use to those who seek details of peals rung in their own particular town or tower. I am sometimes asked how many peals have been rung on a certain ring of bells, but who can supply the answer more quickly and correctly than Mr. Felstead?

Recently the Vicar of Chertsey, who is a ringer, mentioned to me about bygone peals on the bells and the fact that no summary or record is to be found on the walls of the tower or anywhere. During the period 1905-1919 I took part in five peals there, but there have been peals by many bands before and after those dates. The local press and the U.D. Council librarian are also interested, and in order to record church bell history fully I would very much like to obtain details of peals other than the five already mentioned, so that a true record can be available in some complete form.—Yours, etc.,

WILLIAM SHEPHERD.

Addlestone, Surrey.

SOUND CONTROL

Dear Sir,—In an editorial 'The Rotherham Advertiser' calls attention to the Noise Abatement Society, which advocates among other things that church bell ringing should be restricted to a few minutes before each service and that bell ringing practice should be carried out with mufflers on the bells.

'Do-good' societies, whose members are filled with a burning zeal, continues the editorial, 'are always in danger of developing "crankism" and the Noise Abatement Society appears to be veering that way.'

To meet such possible onslaughts ringers and church authorities everywhere would be well advised to be sure that their house is in order by taking proper measures for sound control, ensuring that a good standard of striking is maintained and that the hours and duration of ringing are reasonable.

If possible rings of bells which are particularly tuneless should be improved and ringing unconnected with local and church affairs at times likely to provide antagonism from tradespeople and commercial offices, etc., avoided.

Once our house is in order, we must then rigorously resist any attack on the church's privilege with respect to the ringing of church bells—particularly on Sundays, local practices and practice meetings.—Yours, etc.,

NORMAN CHADDOCK.

Rotherham.

EXPLANATION WANTED

Dear Sir,—Would 'J.D.R.', author of the article on the Herefordshire tour, be good enough to explain the final note to his article.

I assume that anything printed in 'The Ringing World' is intended for the general consumption of the Exercise, but I can't, for the life of me, understand that note.—Yours faithfully,

THE EDITOR—THE LOCUM—HOLIDAYS

Dear Sir.—I am quite certain that all readers of 'The Ringing World' were delighted to learn that we have a ringer in our midst capable of being a 'locum,' and I am also certain that they were equally delighted to know that because of this 'our Editor' was able to go on holiday, knowing that the editorial chair was well and truly filled.

To our 'locum' I would like to offer congratulations on the two editions which he edited. I am sure the Editor returned to his chair feeling much refreshed and quite free of complaints from readers.

I noticed in the last edition that some kind friend mentioned my holiday in 'Belfry Gossip.' Whoever it was I would like to say 'Thank you,' and would also like to take this opportunity of expressing my thanks to all those who helped to make my holiday so enjoyable.—Yours sincerely,

NORMAN V. HARDING.

King's Lynn.

NOT MENTIONED

Dear Sir.—Mr. Barnett's letter in a recent issue is interesting.

For a long time, I have thought that if those who ring were given equal status with those who sing, it might be a little less difficult to keep the bells going twice on Sundays.—Yours sincerely,

KITTY WILLERS.

Trumpington, Cambridge.

NOT MENTIONED

Dear Sir,—It is quite true, as Mr. Barnett states, that no mention was made of the ringers in the Bidding Prayer at the enthronement of Dr. Coggan. After mentioning the clergy, the prayer continued, 'Pray we also for the lay readers, churchwardens, church councillors and all who bear office and serve diligently, both men and women in our parishes and religious houses.'

I would like to think that we ringers were included in 'all who bear office and serve diligently'

Presumably there would be a similar bidding prayer at the enthronement of Dr. Ramsey as Archbishop of Canterbury! Was any mention made of ringers on that occasion?—Yours sincerely, HAROLD WALKER.

Clifton, Yorks.

FILM ON BELL RINGING

Dear Sir.—I have had several responses to my letter asking for suggestions re the above and further contributions are welcome.

With the possibility of agitation against church bells a suitable film on bell ringing can be of great value in educating uninformed people about bells and bell ringing in all its aspects.

Since such a film or another film might include a section likely to interest possible recruits, I should be grateful if readers interested would send to me or to the editor for publication, an imaginary narrative, with fictitious characters, relating the experiences of two or more recruits progressing from learning to handle a bell to perhaps ringing their first peal.

This narrative should facilitate the film to bring out the various processes of learning and instruction, in a suitable manner. Perhaps someone might volunteer a prize for the best effort.—Yours, etc.,
N. CHADDOCK.

Sawley, Derbyshire

On August 19th the Sawley bellringers held their annual outing and rang at four Derbyshire towers. The first was Edensor (6), in Chatsworth Park, the bells of which have not been rung regularly for eight years. Next came the only eight of the day, at Fairfield, followed by the six at Burbage a short distance away. The last was Chelmorton, where a fifth bell was added last year. We would like to thank all who gave permission to ring, and those ringers who joined us during the afternoon. J. H.

MR. WILFRED WILLIAMS' TOUR OF THE WEST COUNTRY

THE party assembled on the evening of Friday, August 25th, at 'The George' Hotel, Crewkerne, and before very long the choir was practising the songs that were to become so popular later in the week, in fairly successful opposition to a dance band.

Our first peal attempt was at Crewkerne, where it was discovered that one of the ropes was unpealable. We were treated to a masterly demonstration of how new ropes are put on by leading bell hangers (it is, apparently, professional etiquette to start with the wrong end), but after that a peal of Yorkshire was scored without mishap.

After Peter Border had shown us what cider was for, we had a rather hurried journey to Cullompton. Ralph Edwards joined us here, and London Royal was the method called for. Two fire-outs and twenty minutes later the band decided to ring Cambridge instead, and a good peal was the result.

It was through the gathering darkness that most of the band made their way to 'The Bell' Hotel at Barnstaple, where we stayed for three nights. Here we found Jack Phillips firmly entrenched on his native soil, and all proceeded merrily until it was realised, towards midnight, that one carload was still missing. The police were phoned, but it appeared that the absentees had not yet been gaoled. They finally turned up in the small hours, happy and unrepentant, cheerfully explaining that the beer in Cullompton was so good that they didn't like to leave any behind.

A GOOD PEAL

On Sunday, we had the morning off. After lunch, we went to Braunton, which claims to be the biggest village in the country, and where the carved oak pews are absolutely marvellous. Here some of the party spent the hot afternoon ringing a peal of Lincolnshire, which was very well rung, while the non-pealers visited Ilfracombe. They were kindly invited by Derek Jewell to have a ring at Combe Martin.

The scenery between Ilfracombe and Combe Martin is magnificent, as is the tower of Combe Martin Church. It is said that this village has the longest main street in the country. Pealers and non-pealers met up back in Ilfracombe for tea, which had been arranged for us by Jack Phillips, and after tea we visited a place which claimed to be—yes, you've guessed it—the oldest pub. Soon we were ordered to stop playing darts and go and ring, which we did at Holy Trinity Church, Ilfracombe.

Monday morning was one of the high-lights of the week, for we rang a peal of Rutland on the fine bells of Pilton. This tower has a long tradition of call change ringing, and the walls are adorned with certificates won at striking competitions—so the band knew they had to be on their mettle, as the striking would be listened to very critically by the local ringers. Here we had our first experience of the West Country tail-end, which is spliced back into the rope and therefore cannot be adjusted. This was overcome by tying knots in the tail-ends, and the band did not disgrace themselves with their striking. There had only been one peal on the bells before, in 1922, called by J. W. Washbrook.

Another even rarer peal tower was visited in the afternoon—Great Torrington. It is believed that the only previous peal here was rung in 1906. The tail-ends again caused trouble here, and the captain of the local band was rather chary about allowing knots to be tied in the ropes, but all these difficulties were somehow overcome, and, after a false start, a first rate peal of Bristol was rung. Some of the non-pealers went bathing at Westward Ho! Meanwhile, a representative of 'The North Devon Journal and Herald' arrived, and took in practically everything we told him without a murmur. For some curious reason, he was specially anxious to delve into Jack Phillips' murky past.

A SARTORIAL LAPSE

I regret to say that an eminent scientist, commonly known as 'lechy-da', considerably let down the dignity of our party by appearing in a saloon bar in Torrington after the peal with his shirt tails hanging out. The senior bell hanger was particularly put out at this sartorial lapse. We all went to Bideford in the evening to ring for a short time, and then returned over the 23-arched mediæval bridge to Barnstaple. Derek Jewell had an argument with the police on the way back, but otherwise all was well. The day was completed by a spirited rendering of Dr. Edwards' well known song, 'At the name of Wilfred.'

On Tuesday morning the party converged on Tawstock Church, which is set in breathtakingly beautiful surroundings. The entrance to the central tower is quite unusual, but was safely negotiated by the peal band, who got down to ringing London without any fuss. Inside the church is the old ringers' jug, which bears the inscription, '1812. Success to ye hearty ringers of Tawstock. The youngest ringers shall carry the jug.' The non-pealers soon found out why the youngest ringers had been selected. Tawstock has no inn, and although Bishop's Tawton is only a short distance away across the river, the nearest way to it is close on three miles. As the old song has it:

'Why weep ye by the tide, poor Will?

Why look so pale and thin?

'Alas, good sir,' poor Will replied,

'I cannot get across the tide

To reach the nearest inn;

As for the rest, beyond a doubt,

The reason why I'm pale and thin,

Is that I can't get Stout.'

The junior bell hanger and your correspondent left William weeping by the tide, and undertook the hazardous journey round by the bridge. They finished refreshing themselves just in time to hear the peal come to a sudden end; the seventh clapper had broken when there were only five courses to ring. So they walked briskly back, and were duly picked up.

IN CORNWALL

We then headed for the English/Cornish border, and called in at Clawton on the way to see Rev. J. G. M. Scott. On arriving at Launceston, half the band found that they had been sent to the wrong tower, and had to be rescued, but eventually Pudsey got under way, and despite a number of missed dodges and the sudden appearance of the Vicar holding up a note to say we must finish by 7.30, it was duly rung. After this the band were pleased to be invited by Wilfred Boucher to have a ring at St. Mary's, Launceston, and eventually, after a call at 'The Hole in the Wall' at Bodmin, where Giles Galley and your correspondent were able to revive happy memories of their soldiering days. Truro and 'The Royal' Hotel were reached at a late hour. The choir got going here again, and the health of an eminent churchman was drunk for the third and last time.

On Wednesday morning we went to Carbis Bay, where we were welcomed by Rev. A. S. Roberts. They have just begun work here on the foundations of the new nave. A fast peal of Pudsey Royal was rung, while the non-pealers swam in the sea, and then we were all given an excellent lunch by Mr. and Mrs. Roberts, for which we were extremely grateful. We then went on to the tiny church of Towednack, which is in the middle of nowhere particular. The start of the peal was delayed here by a funeral, but eventually the band got going with a peal of Cambridge, which was rung without incident. Meanwhile, the non-pealers completed the alphabet by ringing at Zennor, before going on to Penzance. We should have rung at Penzance, but by the time people had finished eating and drinking, it was too late, as there was a service. So we did some more eating and drinking, and then went back to Truro, where the choir was again in good voice.

A GREAT DISAPPOINTMENT

The peal of Superlative in the 'quaint old Cornish town' of Helston on Thursday morning would no doubt have been better if some of the band had gone to bed earlier the previous evening. In the afternoon came the chief tower of the week, Truro Cathedral. The bells here are difficult to hear inside the tower and do not go as well as they used to, but in spite of this some magnificent Yorkshire Royal was being rung on them when, with only four courses to go, the clapper of the 2nd fell out. This was a great disappointment. It was not until late in the evening, after we had joined the Kenwyn ringers at their practice, that all the members had sufficiently recovered from their disappointment to take part in yet another choir practice.

There was another failure on Friday morning, when Spiced Surprise at Kenwyn was lost fairly early on, due to a rope coming untucked. In the meantime, the junior bell hanger, with local labour, replaced the clapper at Truro. 'It was a joy to watch,' said an eye witness afterwards. 'Mr. Bailey is obviously a real craftsman who loves his job. There was no hurry in his work, nothing slapdash—everything very calm, methodical and un rushed.'

We then journeyed through glorious scenery to Plymouth, where we were met by Tom Myers, and where the magnificent ten at St. Andrew's were soon set going to Yorkshire Royal, which was successfully rung. A rather misty journey brought us to 'The Queen's' Hotel at Exeter, our last resting place. When we got back to the hotel, we found our attempts at conversation considerably damped by the presence of the ubiquitous television, so there was nothing for it but to go to bed.

TWO FAILURES

It is sad to have to record two failures on our last day, 'yet I state but the facts.' Woodbury was the morning tower, where the hanging of the bells came in for much critical appraisal. Rutland was attempted here, and after a false start it settled down quite well, but was marred by the presence of 'Mr. Bob,' and was called round after 2,432 changes. Meanwhile, the senior bell hanger and 'lechy-da' renewed old acquaintances in the neighbourhood.

In the afternoon at Ottery St. Mary we were again delayed by a funeral, and we were here joined by Ralph Edwards—no suggestion of any connection is intended. These beautiful bells are rung from the ground floor of a very fine church, said to be modelled on Exeter Cathedral, and the presence of a lot of visitors was disturbing to the band, who were ringing London—so much so, that the peal eventually 'went up the spout' quite suddenly, after some good ringing.

In the 'Handle Bar' of a nearby inn afterwards various ringers tried their hands at skittles, and then most of us called in at a meeting at Clyst Honiton on our way back to Exeter. Back in the hotel, we met many of Tom Lock's party, who were just starting on their tour, and the lounge was much livelier than on the previous night. On Sunday morning we all went home.

I am sure I speak for all the party when I say, 'Thank you very much, Wilfred, for making all the arrangements for such a wonderfully enjoyable week.' We are also all very grateful to Derek Jewell and Douglas Burnett for their share in the arrangements, and to all others who helped to make this a really memorable tour.

W. T. C.

Mr. W. Hibbert and Mr. Frank White have been on holiday in Cornwall, staying with Charlie Sangwin. Just before leaving Bill Hibbert mentioned that he was in a peal attempt of Stedman Cinques the following day. As quick as lightning John Sangwin replied: 'Good job we've rung a brave bit of Stedman this fortnight—will give confidence.'

Four members of the South West Branch of the Devonshire Guild had a memorable day on September 24th when they were able to ring in three Somerset towers—Shepton Beauchamp for morning service, then in the afternoon Grandshire and Stedman Caters and Bob Royal at Wells Cathedral and finally South Petherton for evening service. To those who made the arrangements and assisted in the ringing 'W. G. L.' expresses the thanks of the party.

THEY RANG FOR THEIR OWN WEDDING

Mr. Trevor Allen Bevis, whose writings on Churches in the Fenland and other areas are well known to our readers, was married at St. Wendreda's Church, March, on September 23rd to Miss June Elizabeth Peel, of March.

Mr. Bevis who is tower-keeper and secretary, has been ringing at St. Wendreda's for 17 years. He taught Miss Peel to ring six years ago. The bridegroom is a member of the staff of 'The Cambridgeshire Times,' and the bride is employed by Barclays Bank Ltd.

Five bridesmaids attended the bride and the service, which was choral, was conducted by the Rev. A. C. Turnbull. Immediately after signing the register the happy couple joined their fellow ringers and took part in the ringing of their own wedding bells.

During the afternoon a team of ringers representing the Ely Diocesan Association commenced a peal on the bells and the newly weds departed on their honeymoon, spent in London and the Isle of Wight.

Mr. and Mrs. Bevis will make their home at 'Trevune,' Burrowmoor Road, March.

The 200th anniversary of the casting and hanging of the six bells at Upham, Hants, was marked by a special service in the Parish Church on September 17th. With the Bishop's permission, in place of the sermon Mr. L. W. Stead, the Southampton District chairman, gave an address on 'Bells and Bellringing.' Ringers from St. Mary's, Southampton, and Bitterne Park, Eling and North Stoneham rang before and after the service. A letter of thanks has been received by the Southampton District from the Rector (the Rev. A. Catley) thanking the District for their practical interest in the anniversary.

The death has occurred at Donington, Lincs, of Mr. George Dawson, aged 97, who was for some years a ringer at this church.

Mr. Alick Cutler has completed 250 peals on the bells of St. Mary's, Willesden. Few have surpassed such faithfulness to one tower.

The Ladies' Guild rang a very good quarter of Plain Bob Major at Bristol Cathedral on September 11th, conducted by Mrs. Elizabeth A. G. Bowden.

Congratulations to our well known contributor Trevor A. Bevis on his marriage to another member of St. Wendreda's, March, band.

The College Youths rang a peal at Bishop's Stortford on September 16th to honour the 90th birthday of probably their oldest member, Mr. William T. Prior.

Mr. A. J. Culley, ringing captain at St. John's, Devizes, since 1942 and a ringer for 30 years, is dead. An in memoriam quarter was rung on September 25th.

Mr. Peter S. Bennett is no longer a teenager. At Halewood, Lincs, a band of teenagers rang him out of their ranks with a quarter peal, on his last day in their ranks.

Miss J. E. Armstrong, of Morpeth, acknowledges letters on the local curfew received by her from Mr. A. J. Davey, Godmanchester, Hunts; Mr. Ernest Morris, Leicester; and Mr. W. R. Birchall, Huyton.

BELFRY GOSSIP

From Dorset we hear a happy story concerning Mr. W. F. P. Kelly, now in Kilifi, Kenya. When last on leave in England he spent about two months cleaning rust off the metal frame in a six bell tower near Beaminster. He then cleaned out the tower and painted the frame. Needless to say, he was a practising ringer and we hope he soon will be again at Kilifi.

Pucklechurch, Bristol, band have lost their captain, Mr. Tom Mitchell. He had been a ringer for 70 years.

Congratulations to Mr. Wilfred Lee on completing 50 years' service as a ringer at St. Wilfrid's, Calverley, Yorks.

The reunion of the Bedfordshire Young Ringers took place on August Monday and not as stated on page 595 of the 'R.W.' The error is regretted.

The Rector and local ringers referred to in Mr. E. Warner's letter on page 639 are those of Oakham. Mr. Warner regrets the omission. Their act was very much appreciated.

Leek, Staffs, is losing two of its band, Miss V. Gould and Miss M. Haycock, who are going to college. There are hopes that it will not be long before recruits will build up the band.

The 50th anniversary of the installation of Hillingdon bells is being celebrated on October 21st when the Bishop of Kensington will give the address at a joint meeting of three Guilds—Middlesex, Oxford and Ladies'. An invitation to tea has been received from local folk, and a big attendance is expected.

On September 24th, eight Leicestershire ringers attempted a quarter peal of Yorkshire Surprise Major for the Harvest Festival service at King's Norton. The tenor of the rough going eight, which were hung in the present frame in 1741, is 21 cwt. Unfortunately the tenor rope cast wheel two courses from the end and set itself. The ringing was of a good standard and the band were: G. W. Mason 1, C. Faulkes 2, J. E. Cooke 3, E. Morris 4, J. M. Jelly (cond.) 5, B. S. Chapman 6, R. B. Smith 7, R. K. Mason 8.

EAST GRINSTEAD GUILD

The 15th annual outing on September 9th was almost perfection—a lovely day, good bells and nearly perfect timing. The coffee break just spoilt the punctual arrival at Privett. There was an awkward moment during the raise, when the rope coiled round a young member and lifted him off the floor. The 'alleged' rough going octave was found to be quite good. At Alresford we found the locals waiting, with the bells up, and some good ringing was enjoyed, while the hungry in the cafes ate and listened. An hour on the six in their squat tower at Ropley passed all too soon and we were away through the lanes in an abortive attempt to get a 'grab' at Froxfield.

After a good meal at 'The Welcome Inn,' Petersfield bells were put to good use for an hour, then on to Rogate with a good six in a wooden tower. Here the clock has to be wound up, or the weight fouls the second bell. The last tower was the pretty little octave at Easebourne, where the Vicar kindly showed the company round the church and the remains of the old Priory. A touch of Superlative made us late away on the trek for home, but everyone was happy after a good day, and after the other sort of 'rounds' in 'The Cowdray Arms,' we had a certain air hostess crawling on her hands and knees in the coach, but only in search of a 'lost' hand-bag!

FURNESS RINGERS' OUTING

September 16th saw the Furness and South Westmorland ringers in the Southport area. We were blessed with a fine but very windy day, and arrived at the first tower, Leyland, in good time. Soon the fine Gillett ten were being rung (too slowly, apparently) to various methods. At Eccleston touches in methods up to Cambridge were rung on the odd-struck but pleasant six. Here, too, the flower bedecked church was much admired.

Parbold's 19th century church stands in a beautiful setting, but the ringing members of the party had little time for gazing, especially when the wind was howling with icy blasts round every corner. A course of Yorkshire was managed, whilst the non-ringers played the organ and sang. Southport was reached early in the afternoon, and after a few hours spent in various bays, the part met to ring at Christ Church. The bells here are a fine sounding eight by Mears and Stainbank. Again Yorkshire was attempted and successfully brought round. At an early hour the whole party, tired but happy, climbed into the coach for the long journey home, to the accompaniment of handbells and various other forms of music. Our thanks are due to the organisers, the incumbents and local ringers.

ELLAND, YORKS

Elland ringers enjoyed their outing in Wensleydale on August 19th. The route was via Harrogate, Ripley, Grantley Hall (where some of the company attended a course), Kirby Malzeard and Marsham, to the first tower, Middleham, where there is a good ring of eight. From Middleham we made our way to East Witton for tea at the Red Lion, followed by an evening of good ringing at the church there. We look forward to our next visit to this delightful part of Yorkshire.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

For the first time in living memory the North Berks Branch held their autumn meeting at Letcombe Regis on September 23rd. The service in St. Andrew's Church was conducted by the Branch chairman, the Rev. M. F. Gibbs, the lesson was read by Major J. K. C. Cross, and the address was given by Canon H. Pickles, the Rector of East Hendred. One of the local residents said afterwards that she had not heard such lusty singing during the whole of the 25 years she had worshipped at the church!

After the service the company of 102 (one of the largest numbers at a Branch meeting for some time) had tea in the Village Hall, which was served by members of the P.C.C. At the business meeting the proposed memorial to be placed in St. Nicholas' Church, Abingdon, to the memory of the late Albert E. Lock, for many years honorary secretary and treasurer of the Branch, was discussed. The honorary secretary (Mr. G. W. Bishop) said that he regretted having to report that no progress appeared to have been made in making the locker seat, which it had been agreed was the form the memorial should take, and the meeting agreed to ask the contractors to do their utmost to complete the work in time for the memorial to be dedicated on November 26th, when other memorials to the late Mr. Lock were to be dedicated.

It was agreed to hold the annual meeting of the Branch at Appleton on May 26th. The thanks of the Branch to the churchwardens and P.C.C. for their hospitality were expressed by Miss M. R. Cross, the honorary general secretary.

After the meeting ringing took place at Childrey, Ardington, West Hannev and Wantage, and at Letcombe Regis, where ringing has recently been restarted after the bells have been silent for some years.

K. L.

LEYLAND
St. Andrew's Leyland, ringers had an all-day outing on August 19th. First ringing was at a noted tower, St. Michael and All Angels', Ashton-under-Lyne. The A.57 road was then followed via Glossop and the Snake Pass to the Ordnance Arms Hotel, Hathersage, for lunch.

Two Derbyshire towers were selected for the afternoon—All Saints', Bakewell, and Fairfield. After a picnic tea there was an hour's ringing from the ground floor at St. Mary's, Cheadle.

OBITUARY

MR. FREDERICK OAKHILL

Another link with the past has been lost by the death of Mr. Frederick Oakhill, of Wotton-under-Edge, at Torquay on September 22nd, at the age of 84.

Fred learned to ring as a lad at Tortworth and joined the Gloucester and Bristol Association as a member of the Wotton-under-Edge band in 1900. He held office as secretary of the Wotton Branch when it was formed in 1910, and was its chairman for 1921-23 and 1935-38 and represented it on the management committee 1925-27 and again 1933-35. In 1948 he was made a vice-president.

Mr. Oakhill participated in many recorded peals in mid-Gloucestershire and despite advancing years took part in special ringing at Wotton-under-Edge in 1956 to celebrate the 200th anniversary of the installation of the bells. A painter and decorator by trade, he leaves no family, his wife, who was well known to Gloucestershire ringers, having died in 1958.

Cremation was at Torquay on September 27th. He will be remembered with respect and gratitude for many years. May he rest in peace among the eternal towers.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD

West Dorset Branch

The September meeting at Beaminster was honoured by the attendance of Mr. W. C. West, honorary secretary of the Salisbury Guild. Eight towers of the Branch were represented, and total attendance during the day, including visitors, was about 40. The Guild service was conducted by the Rev. J. S. Arthur and the lesson read by Canon C. C. Cox. Tea was served by Mrs. Pannell and some of the Beaminster ringers.

The business meeting was brief. The A.G.M. of the Branch was fixed for Bridport on December 2nd. The Guild service is to be at 4 p.m., instead of the usual 4.30 p.m.

Canon Cox proposed a comprehensive vote of thanks to Mr. Arthur for the use of church and bells and very useful address, to Mrs. Pannell and ringers for the tea, and Mr. Roy Gunning for playing the organ. Ringing consisted mainly of Stedman Triples, Cambridge could not be brought round!

A THOUGHT FOR THE SECRETARY

WHO would be a secretary—the easiest job to get and the hardest job to lose? No matter what sort of a hash one makes of it, the secretary is always re-elected unanimously. After a few years, arranging meetings is just routine work, for no matter what snags arise one knows just the chap to ring up, write to, or call on, and everything is O.K. The only headache is the ringers' universal reluctance to send a p.c. for tea.

But when it comes to arranging outings out of one's area, when you do not know the state of the bells, the local conditions, or the right chap to ring up, write to, or call on, then the fun begins. The writer has just had an experience that nearly sent him 'up the wall.'

It was the local tower outing, just a half-day trip, with four towers and tea. The coach was booked and the four towers applied for, all with stamped envelopes for reply. The first tower said we could have the bells, but could we call earlier; the second, the bells are under repair; the third, we have a wedding at that time; and the fourth never answered at all. One tower recommended a café for tea: a letter to them, with the usual s.a.e., failed to get a reply; and so with only 14 days before the outing the poor secretary just had a coach and one doubtful tower.

It took all Saturday afternoon, covering 76 miles on the scooter, to sort things out. The route was reversed and altered; other towers, personally applied for, were put in. The most suitable café was closed, but through the back window said that they could cafer for us. The doubtful tower was notified of the change of time, and everything was in order—or was it?

The following Wednesday the doubtful tower wrote to say that the altered time was not acceptable. That meant another Saturday afternoon, and 40 miles on the scooter, to get another tower. The Vicar gave his permission, but had to see his ringing captain. A stamped envelope was left for a reply, and this arrived, three days before the outing, with a letter to say that the bells would be rung for our wedding on August 26th and that the fee would be three guineas. It took seven phone calls to sort that out. So the day arrived, and all went well until the second tower. When the secretary rang the café to confirm the tea arrangements he found to his horror that he had dropped a real clanger. Owing to a misunderstanding during the back window conversation, the café had forgotten to mention that they only had 'counter service.' What a horrible mess the tea was! Everyone, including the Vicar and his wife, took it in good part, but the poor secretary just wished that he could quietly disappear, and has asked himself ever since: 'Is it worth it?'

C. A. B.

HARVEST FESTIVAL

PROBABLY only Easter and Christmas draw more people into our churches than does the Harvest Festival. The miraculous yearly cycle of sowing, first green haze of crops and buds, lush spring growth, golden ripening and gathering in has reached its end once again, proving to us that the earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof, and rightly bringing us to our knees in wonderment and gratefulness. What a time to be a ringer; to be able to ascend our towers and to make the bells swing and shout for joy over the lands that have given such gifts and to tell the people that God has given them their daily bread. Small wonder that one hears of parishes where the ringers can find little time for ringing their bells for most of the year but gather in full force at Harvest Festival to make the bells speak.

What a time to have a ringing week-end, and where better to have it than among the Mendips and vales of Somerset; travelling from Shepton to Ditchet to Evercreech to Mells to Backwell to Chewton Mendip, and having the privilege of making those incomparable bells sound forth over meadow, pasture and orchard from their breath-takingly lovely towers glowing in the autumn sunshine. To be able at the same time to view and scent in each church the array of marrows, apples, tomatoes, corn sheaves, potatoes and eggs, tastefully displayed amidst the misty blue of the Michaelmas daisies, is a pleasure which alone makes it worth while being a ringer. What could be more appropriate to finish such a tour than to stand in awe for a few moments in the nave of Wells Cathedral before going aloft and paying a final homage to the Festival on the greatest of all Somerset bells?

Such a week-end could hardly be anything but memorable, and the 20 or so members of the University of London Society who accepted Mike Rose's invitation to share in it will not soon forget it.

Thank you, Mike, and thank you, Somerset. P. G.

PERSONALITIES OF THE EXERCISE—41

One of the best known, respected and competent ringers in the Exercise is Mr. Edward Patrick Duffield, of Colchester. Of powerful build, he is an excellent bank-ender, and has the unique record of being the only man to have rung both the 11th and tenor to peals at St. Paul's and Exeter Cathedrals.

Ted Duffield was born at Tasburgh Mills, near Norwich, on December 21st, 1898, and learnt to ring on the five bells in the round flint tower of St. Mary's, Tasburgh, where his father, William L. Duffield, and uncle, Arthur E. Fuller, were ringers, and had, a few years previously, been instrumental in getting the bells increased from four. Learning at the same time were two of his brothers, William Charles, now residing at Lamas, Norwich, and James Frederick, who lives in Norwich. Both of these brothers became well known ringers in Norfolk, although Jim, a truly first class ringer and striker, is, regretfully, seldom seen in a belfry these days. There were five beginners who started to learn on those five bells, and of the four who survived the First World War three progressed to ringing peals of London and Bristol, methods not so widely practised in those days. To teach these five beginners, Mr. Duffield sen. engaged, firstly, Albert G. Warnes, and afterwards Philip Sadler, both Norwich worthies, who made the eight mile journey on the weekly practice night. Albert, a cobbler by trade, rode a bicycle, whilst Philip did the journey on foot, and would arrive back in Norwich well after midnight.

From the age of eight, Ted travelled daily to school in Norwich, firstly at the King Edward VI Middle School and later the City of Norwich. After arriving home from school he would do the eight mile journey to Pulham Market for eight bell practice, under that well known Norfolk character, Frederick R. Borrett. Ted and his two eldest brothers were driven by Mr. Duffield sen. in a horse drawn trap. These visits quickly led to a first peal on January 18th, 1912—Bob Major, conducted by F. R. Borrett. Double Norwich followed, and soon after, Stedman Triples, conducted by Albert G. Warnes. There had to be a family peal on the five bells at Tasburgh, and this was duly made possible by the advent of a fourth ringing brother, John R. Later on, with the assistance of yet another brother, Harry T. S., Ted had the rare and gratifying experience of ringing a peal of Minor at Long Stratton with his father and four of his brothers. During the first war, Ted was commissioned into the R.A.F., and later took part in an officers' peal of Grand sire Caters at South Croydon.

ASSOCIATION WITH WILLIAM PYE

In 1919, whilst living in London, Ted joined the College Youths, and was soon introduced to 12 bell ringing. He soon came under the watchful eye of William Pye, and from 1920 until Bill's last peal in September, 1934, he was associated with the great man in a considerable number of meritorious performances, of which he is justly proud. During the first of several ringing weeks with Bill, and within the space of 27 hours, he scored his first three peals of Surprise Major—Bristol, Superlative and London, rung in that order. Although London Major has always been a favourite method with Ted, twelve bell ringing has ever been his true delight. Apart from the large number rung with Bill Pye, and his associates, he has rung quite a few with the College Youths. After moving to Colchester in 1925, he rang a number of Surprise Maximus peals with the famous Ipswich company, who, at that time, practised a wider range of methods than any other 12 bell band.

Of Ted's total of 420 peals, no less than 88 have been of Surprise Maximus, with 48 peals of Stedman Cinques, and 59 of London Surprise. Whilst never making any claims as a conductor, he has called some 54 peals, including London from a working bell. On three occasions, he has taken part in two peals of Surprise Maximus in a day, and on August 5th, 1929, he rang the 11th at Ashton-under-Lyne to the record peal of Cambridge Maximus in 11 hours and 33 minutes. It was mainly Ted's persuasion that induced Bill Pye to attempt to turn in Exeter tenor to Cambridge, and he 'strapped' the tenor for Bill in the resultant peal in 1932. Since then two further peals of Maximus have been accomplished on this grand twelve, Cambridge in 1949, in which he rang the 11th, and Yorkshire in 1956, when he rang the tenor from the box, ably assisted by Richard E. Price. Before one of these peals, he had not rung a peal for a year! In peals of Stedman Cinques at St. Paul's Cathedral, he rang the 11th in one, and he well remembers ringing the tenor single-handed in another, on a day when the temperature reached 84 degrees in the shade! Ted conducted the only 'Edward' peal to date, this being Stedman Triples at Gravesend in 1929. During his travels, he has rung peals in every English county except Derbyshire and Nottinghamshire, and has joined some 33 ringing Societies.

MR. EDWARD P. DUFFIELD,
The Essex Association.

FIRST PEAL AT BUCKFAST

One of Ted's most interesting experiences was an interview in 1929 with the then Lord Abbot of Buckfast, to seek permission to attempt a peal on the twelve bells, which, at that time, hung in the partially finished tower, and were rung from the narrow gallery round the tower at about the level of the nave roof. Eventually permission was given, and an excellent peal of Stedman Cinques was rung in 1930, receiving much approbation from the Brethren, particularly the ringers, who had never before heard the full peal rung in changes by an expert 12 bell band. This proved to be the only peal rung on the original twelve, and was an unforgettable experience, by reason of the wide dispersal of the ringers, and the awesome 'drop' from the narrow gallery round the tower wall to the ground level floor below. In 1937, he again visited the Abbey, to take part in the first peal on the grand new bells hung in the completed tower, with the original bell chamber now serving as the ringing room.

For two years, 1934-36, Ted was Master of the Ancient Society of College Youths, and he also served the Essex Association in a similar capacity, for the same period of time. Throughout the 36 years spent in Colchester, he has been a regular Sunday service ringer at St. Peter's, and for over 20 years he was tower captain. Like most members of his family, he has been engaged in the flour and provender milling trade, and so remained until his retirement in 1955. In 1956, he was elected to the Colchester Borough Council, being re-elected in 1959.

Ted has few ringing ambitions beyond the natural ones of good striking and interesting methods, but he admits a keen desire to ring a 12 bell peal in as many towers as possible. To date, he has yet to ring a peal at York Minster, Liverpool Cathedral, St. Martin-in-the-Fields, Leicester Cathedral and Hull. His present total is 56 towers, and he would like to make it 60.

Although Ted is now approaching the veteran stage as a ringer himself, he gives it as his firm opinion that there are, today, more good young ringers than at any time in the past, due possibly to the vastly greater opportunities for practice, combined with present day ease of travel.

Ted Duffield, in the course of his extensive travels, has made a wide circle of friends, and is very popular. He is a first class striker at any position in 'the circle,' and although he does not ring as many peals these days as he used to, he can be guaranteed to ring with the same ability which earned him a place on the 11th in many of William Pye's finest performances of Maximus. His friends will hope that he will continue in good health to enable him to fulfil his remaining ambitions.

COLLEGE YOUTH'S 90th BIRTHDAY

Mr. William T. Prior, who has been a member of the Ancient Society of College Youths since December, 1898, celebrated his 90th birthday on September 9th. At Bishop's Stortford ringers from Stansted and Bishop's Stortford rang touches on the day, and the following Saturday the College Youths rang a peal of 5,040 Plain Bob Royal by H. J. Tucker, a College Youth and an old Bishop's Stortford ringer.

William is a member of an old Essex family, and he and his elder brother, Walter, who died several years, learned to ring as boys at Stansted. The brothers throughout their lives were active ringers at Stansted and the neighbouring church of St. Michael, Bishop's Stortford. At these two churches they rang many peals and also with the Saffron Walden company in its heyday.

Although for some years William has been unable to climb the steep stairs at Bishop's Stortford, he still takes a great interest in the art, and it is a great joy to hear him relate the ringing exploits of 60 or more years ago.

A CURIOUS CLOCK

A recent paragraph in Belfry Gossip about the clock face at Buckland-in-the-Moor leads me to recall the unusual, tower clock at Wootton Rivers in Wiltshire.

At the time of Queen Victoria's Jubilee, the villagers decided to commemorate the event by subscribing for a clock, but the estimate was beyond their resources; whereupon a local character Jack Sprat, who was well known for his inventive turn of mind, offered to make the clock himself. All he asked for was as much scrap brass, iron and steel as could be found.

The somewhat sceptical inhabitants of Wootton Rivers complied, and old farm implements, brass bedsteads and other junk arrived at his cottage. The only part of the mechanism which was to be professionally made was the escapement, and this was ordered from London; it failed to arrive, however, and Jack Sprat made that too. The result is a unique and reliable tower clock, provided with six sets of elaborate chimes, and in place of figures on the face, the words GLORY BE TO GOD.

The tower also contains a light ring of five bells, tenor 3½ cwt., all cast in 1793 by Robert Wells, of Aldbourne.

E. G. C.

Eighteen months ago Cosgrove, Bucks, had just three ringers. Suddenly they were overwhelmed with recruits, ranging in age from nine to 17 years. 'After a struggle,' writes Mr. E. R. Lambert, 'and with a little assistance we have now a regular Sunday service Bob Minor band and several good Doubles ringers.' Such reports are stimulating.

TENTERDEN HONoured BY THE KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

BELLS IN A GREEK MONASTERY

IT was appropriate that Tenterden should be selected as the venue for this year's dinner of the Kent County Association. This old borough has provided a wonderful example of its love of the old bells of St. Mildred's Church, with its 30 cwt. tenor. Almost within a week of the issuing of the appeal for the renovation of the bells the £2,110 necessary had been subscribed, and later this month the new Archbishop of Canterbury will perform the rededication ceremony.

The town hall of more than a century and a half ago had a capacity audience for the dinner, held on September 30th. Mr. John Willis, the chairman of the Association, presided and his guests included the Mayor and Mayoress of Tenterden (Major L. and Mrs. Chalk) and the Vicar (Canon H. Willis). The arrangements were admirably made by Mr. C. T. Crawford Hillis (Ashford District secretary) and Miss V. Ralph.

Proposing the toast of 'The Church,' Mr. P. A. Corby said: 'When we ringers of the Kent County Association think of the Church we think of the clergy and all they do for us and the ready permission they give for us to ring the bells.'

FEW UNRINGABLE PARSONS

'I like particularly a phrase recently introduced "unringable parsons." There are a few about, but fortunately they are in the minority and, generally speaking, we get the utmost co-operation from the clergy of Kent, and it always a source of pride the way the Kent County Association is organised; it is a stroke of genius that the senior clergy throughout the county should be president and vice-president.

'As far as the senior clergy are concerned there have been two major changes since our last dinner. Archbishop Lord Fisher, who was our president, on one memorable occasion graced our board. He has been succeeded by Dr. Ramsey and it was a great privilege to ring a peal at Canterbury Cathedral on the evening of his enthronement. The Archbishop took some pains that his appreciation should be conveyed to the ringers. He sent a very charming message to us through the precentor. 'In the Diocese of Rochester we have our "new boy bishop," who knows something about ringing, having been associated with the ten bell tower at Hatfield, and it was a source of pleasure to him when one of his ringers at Hatfield came to his enthronement and made up the band to ten, otherwise they would have been one short.'

ARCHBISHOP'S VISIT

Canon Willis, who replied, said he hoped Tenterden bells would soon be back from the Whitechapel Foundry. Four were already back and they were to be rededicated by the Archbishop of Canterbury on October 29th at 6.30 p.m. There would be a very large congregation so they had to limit attendance to those with tickets. Would those who would like to be present apply to him for a ticket.

'I suppose there are clergy and clergy's wives who are allergic to bell ringing. Certainly my wife and I are not among them as one of the most thrilling moments in my life was when the ringers of Tenterden rang a peal of welcome at my induction, a little over a year ago. Fortunately in Tenterden we have a Mayor and Mayoress who are bell lovers and when trouble descended on their bells the Mayor, and not the Vicar, issued an appeal and raised the money in almost a week.'

AS PROPOS the article by Mr. Ernest Morris on Russian bells, the Rev. C. R. Chad Coussmaker sends us these photographs taken by him in July, 1960 (and for which he reserves the copyright), in the great Russian monastery of St. Panteleimon, on the Holy Mountain of Athos in Northern Greece.

The bells there, numbering about 20, were hung when the monastery was enlarged in the mid 19th century; the smaller bells are used as a clock-chime, the larger (like those illustrated) are sounded only on days of the greatest rejoicing. They are operated by chains attached to the clappers, visible in one photograph.

The detailed, decorative castings may be noted: that in close-up is apparently the Prophet Isaiah, who is held in great veneration by the Orthodox Church, and is, in company with many of the Old Testament heroes, given the appellation 'Saint.'

The toast of 'The Kent County Association' was proposed by Mr. T. W. White, who said the picture of Kent as presented through 'The Ringing World' was a good one—their meetings were well attended, their peals were many and in a good variety of methods, and their service quarter peals appeared weekly. These all denoted life and vitality and Kent could hold its head up with the great ringing counties of the land.

TWO DECISIONS

In a reference to 'The Ringing World,' Mr. White said the Editorial Committee had made two important decisions—to meet the extra 4d. on postage and not charge it to subscribers and to change the format, so that ordinary news appeared in the front of the journal and peals were recorded in the latter pages. The committee hoped that the first of these would result in an increase of postal subscribers and a prompt renewal of subscriptions. In regard to the latter the first reactions had been favourable although it could not be denied that many readers regarded peals as news and the most important thing in the journal.

Mr. N. J. Davies, who replied, said the success of the Association would only be obtained by all ringers working hard for its welfare and not depending on a few at the top. Their young people could be their best ambassadors to the outside world, because they met people of all classes and people of the best age to take up ringing. They owed a debt to their officers, on whose shoulders rested responsibility for their Association; they had also much for which to thank people who rang peals, which was a specialist job, but there was no reason why young bands should not club together and ring peals.

There were plenty of churches with less than five bells. He suggested that the four bell towers should be visited, the bells rung and inspected where it was possible, and suggestions should be made for these to be augmented.

In proposing the toast of 'The Guests,' Mr. S. G. Waters, of Biddenden, mentioned that in their company there were many who were also members of other Associations—the Universities, the Cumberlands, the Ancient Society of College Youths, the Surrey Association and the Ladies' Guild. Their Mayor was a great friend of ringers and they were indebted to him for what he had done for Tenterden bells.

MAYORESS A RINGER

The Mayor of Tenterden, who replied, said his closest acquaintance with bell ringers was through his wife, who was once a ringer at the Parish Church of Old Bexley. He was perfectly certain if he had known her in those days he would have been a voluntary bell ringer.

He was very pleased that Tenterden bells were to ring out again. He had listened to them for 60 years and as they knew four were already back and the Archbishop was coming to dedicate them. There was simply a magnificent response when the appeal was made; they wanted £2,110 and they practically got it in a week, which, for a tiny place like Tenterden, was wonderful.

During the evening a touch of Grandsire Caters was rung by Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Barnett, Mr. and Mrs. W. Dobbie and Mr. P. A. Corby. At the conclusion of the speeches there were presentations—to the Mayoress, chrysanthemums presented by Miss Josephine Hardy; to Miss V. Ralph, chocolates, the chairman remarking that the success of the evening was largely due to her initial efforts; and cigarettes to Mr. Crawford Hillis, the secretary of the Ashford District.

Great promise is shown by 15-year-old Frederick Shalcross. This week we record a peal of London Surprise, which he conducted off a working bell. Possibly he is the youngest ringer ever to do so in this method.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

BODELWYDDAN BELLS

Dear Sir.—Mr. R. H. Dove's letter, appearing in your issue of September 29th, clearly calls for an answer.

As the report of the University of London Society tour, page 608, makes quite clear our ringing on these bells was restricted to half an hour on the advice of the architect.

I like to investigate such restrictions to see if they are in fact justified or if they can be raised; and so before ascending the tower I found, in discussion with the Vicar, that he was not clear why it was in force and suggested that I might care to let him have any comments as a result of my visit.

Ringling disclosed that the tower and tower way was slight, but inspection of the bell frame showed that two wedges had been driven in between the top of the timber frame and the east wall by the seventh and tenor bells. The latter swings E.-W. and the former N.-S. Also there was some relative movement between the bell frame supporting beams and the walls.

These wedges clearly had been inserted to limit the frame movement and no doubt Mr. Dove will be the first to agree that they are definitely harmful. It should also be unnecessary to state that the Bodelyyddan marble church, with its fine spire, is one of the more important structures in North Wales.

In a written report to the Vicar, dated August 27th, I suggest removing these wedges and anchoring the frame support beams firmly to the walls with gunmetal anchors. I make no mention of restricting ringing.

Dealing with some of the points made by Mr. Dove: I have no connection with the S.P.A.B. I am, however, the author of 'The Church Bells of Flintshire,' which appeared in 'Archaeologia Cambrensis, 1951,' and in which this ring of bells is detailed. For the last seven years I have been a Bishop's representative on the Diocesan Advisory Committee for the Care of Churches for St. Edmundsbury and Ipswich. Since 1958 I have been honorary technical consultant on bells to the Central Council for the Care of Churches. As a chartered mechanical engineer my technical training and the above appointments should make the label 'self-appointed and self-opinionated "expert"' inappropriate in my case.

In 1955 when the quinquennial inspection of churches was about to be commenced I undertook to make detailed inspections of all the 500 sets of bells in the Diocese of St. Edmundsbury and Ipswich, of which about half are rings of bells. To date I have reported on the state of 223 sets of bells in the diocese. As a result of these reports to the parish, the Archdeacon concerned, and the Diocesan Advisory Committee, I am pleased to say that quite a bit of bell restoration work has been undertaken. Suffolk is, alas, a relatively poor county and overhauling rings of bells is an expensive business, especially when new frames are required. Where I have found bells in a bad or unsafe state I have said so, in others, such as Covehithe, where I found the ring in quite reasonable order through not rung in changes for many years, I have obtained a band and proved that all is in fact in order.

Mr. Dove mentions worm gudgeon pins as a pretext on which ringing has been stopped altogether. Obviously the degree of wear is a material factor and whether the bell or the ringer is likely to be harmed if one of the pins did shear.

Clearly an active band of change ringers is highly desirable to help raise the necessary funds to have the bells overhauled and to keep interest alive, but the work should be undertaken long before the bells get into really bad going order. If this is not done then the ringers' liaison with the P.C.C. is possibly at fault.

In the wider field the grounds for refusing permission to ring is often given as technical but sometimes one cannot help feeling that there is a personal one, too. Imagine how frightful it must be for a Vicar and some of his parishioners who are only moderately keen on bells, with homes close to a church with a well known ring of bells? Is he to grant permission to ring to all who care to apply?

Clearly Mr. Dove was refused permission to ring before my visit to Bodelyyddan on August 14th, 1961.—Yours, etc.,

RANALD W. M. CLOUSTON.

Radlett, Herts.

Dear Sir.—For the past five years I have helped in the organisation of the Manchester Young Ringers' annual outing on Easter Monday. For our outing last year we went to North Wales.

Long before we applied for permission to ring at the various churches, I made some inquiries about St. Margaret's, Bodelyyddan. According to some of the local Welsh ringers, the architects found a loose pinnacle on the tower and stopped all ringing, but I was informed that the masonry had now been repaired and that ringing had been resumed. With this information from a very good and reliable source, I then wrote to the Vicar of St. Margaret's, Bodelyyddan, requesting permission for the use of the bells for an hour's ringing. I had a reply back from him informing me that there had been a loose pinnacle and that they were awaiting the architect's inspection before any ringing could be resumed.

Later on during the summer months of last year, I had the pleasure of ringing on this very nice and attractive octave, for evening service. The local ringers gave me the impression that they were alarmed at the Vicar's attitude towards would-be visiting bands. Mr. Dove's letter does not alarm me in the least, and I should not be surprised to read many more letters in 'The Ringing World' relating to this matter.

I would like to suggest that the Central Council looked into this business, as I, personally, have tried to arrange a visit to Bodelyyddan, without success, since 1955, and I have always received the same excuse, or variations of same, for not being allowed to ring.—Yours faithfully,

ALAN WARD.

LOOKING BACK ON 65's

Dear Sir.—It may interest Mr. Graham C. Grant that the subject of 65's was explored a few years ago, and that so far as I can remember, no reason was advanced as to why they are 'frowned' upon.

In fact, Mr. Desmond Painter, in a masterly exposition on the subject of 'Music in Bell-ringing,' quite rightly pointed out that 65's sounded no worse, and were in some cases not so bad, as 6 anything else. The objections to 65's are based upon prejudice (or ignorance) and, in fact, more than half the ringers who object to them would never notice them if they didn't see the tenors coursing the 'wrong way.'

Unfortunately, their presence gave E. Bankes James the excuse to foist upon the Exercise his arrangement of ringing three 720's rolled into one. The propagation of this pernicious practice, which had it been introduced by someone who was not such a prominent member of the C.C. hierarchy, would have quite rightly been shot down in flames, strikes at the very roots of six bell ringing since it introduces rounds in places other than the 720 ends and encourages peals in a minimum number of methods.

Furthermore, Cambridge Surprise, which was intended as the principal beneficiary, doesn't even require the arrangement as A. G. Driver's tables already had 8 720's of that method in which 65's do not occur at backstroke, as was recently pointed out to me by Mr. A. D. Barker, of Slough.—Yours sincerely,

H. CHANT.

Wakefield.

RINGING AT PERSHORE

Dear Sir.—On reading the report of the Pershore Outing in 'The Ringing World,' we cannot appreciate the selfish attitude of these ringers in 'tower-grabbing' for their own pleasure, no doubt at no cost, when they would not let the Putney ringers visit the Abbey, without payment of a fee. This does not seem a very Christian or decent attitude.—Yours sincerely,

DAVID C. BROOKES.

Putney, S.W.

ALAN B. MILLIDGE.

BRADBOURNE BELLS

Dear Sir.—In his letter on page 648, Mr. Dove refers to the safety of the tower at Bradbourne as regards to ringing, and mentions that the late Vicar did not seriously believe that the tower would split from top to bottom if ringing was permitted.

I would say that the resumption of ringing at Bradbourne was in no way attributable to the late Vicar; in fact when he heard that the bells were being rung, he informed his successor that they must not be, as the tower was unsafe. As a matter of fact, this gentleman had very little use for bells or ringers. I wrote an article on ringing for the Diocesan Leaflet last year, to which he wrote a letter; some extracts I will quote.

'I think Mr. Morris will own that he sees the matter from the standpoint of a ringer, and that the parson's view needs stating also.'

'First, as to their regrettable "come and go" attitude, let me give two examples. At one church I know well, the ringers were exemplary in their attendance, but never dreamt of staying for service, late comers often saying they were just in time to see the ringers "turning out."'

'At another church the ringers never appeared on a Sunday morning and only rang in the evening when it suited them, which in practice was not more than half a dozen times in the year.'

'Moreover, bells should be chimed for services, not rung, as indeed should be obvious. It is a mistake to think that chiming is a mere clumsy substitute for ringing—it is a recognised practice of using bells and to ring always is the voice of the superlative, leaving nothing to mark great festivals and other occasions for rejoicing. But left to themselves, ringers will never chime because it is for them a monotonous drudgery, whereas ringing is great fun, as enjoyable as playing football, tennis, or a musical instrument. I fear this is really the attraction in many cases, rather than a wish to serve the Church and ring to the Glory of God.'

The fact that the bells at Bradbourne are now rung is due to the efforts of a Vicar who is interested in ringing. When he took over the parish, he asked me to look over the bells to see if ringing was possible. After two nights tightening the frame, releasing the clappers (which had rusted tight), greasing, etc., we eventually raised the bells. They are now available to anyone.

There are only a few houses in the parish and hardly any young people, so the chances of forming a local band are very remote.—Yours sincerely,

B. P. MORRIS.

Honorary Secretary,
Derbyshire Association.

A CHANCE OF A NEW RING OF SIX

Dear Sir.—Knowing that many of the readers of 'The Ringing World' will be sympathetic towards a church bell problem, I venture to ask if you will be good enough to publish this letter.

In Colchester, the home of bell founder Miles Graye, our parish—All Saints—has an unsafe bell frame. To reconstruct this and hang a ring of six small bells to replace the present three will cost approximately £1,500. In addition to this we are faced with heavy roof repairs, and it is the financial strain of these two burdens which brings us to appeal to your readers.

Inasmuch as we hope to give pleasure to many bell ringers on completion of the work, may we ask for their support of our cause, for which we shall be most grateful. All donations will be acknowledged.

If we achieve our object, the new ring will be the third only in the ancient borough of Colchester.—Yours faithfully,

DEREK H. ABBOTT.

Stanway All Saints'
Parochial Church Council.

Universities' Association 1961 Tour

FOR their 17th annual tour the U.A. this year visited the Tring area, ringing being in five counties. Various trends discernible over the last few years were continued: the increase in numbers attending and towers available seems to be almost at near maximum, while there is a decrease in the number of car breakdowns, visible male knees and strange methods concocted for the tour.

The ringing activities started on Friday afternoon (August 18th) on the pleasant five at Weston Turville, followed by Wendover's, which are rather noisy in the ringing chamber. Arriving at the headquarters, Pendley Manor, we discovered that it was opened as a 'Residential Centre of Informal Education for Adults' (!) and we were introduced to the cooking, of which the staff are so justifiably proud. The excellent organisation was immediately evident, since a plan of the vicinity was provided with the church, school and museum prominently marked—also four of the 13 local hostels. The rest of the evening was spent 'locally'—most ringing on the Chandler eight at Tring.

Saturday morning saw a band of experts depart to ring a peal of Stedman Caters at Leighton Buzzard, while the 'others' rang at Winslow, North Marston, Stewkley and the early Taylor eight at Newton Longville. The party was reunited on the pleasant Gillett six at Whaddon, and Spliced was among the achievements on the excellent 'Taylorised' eight at Wicken, the sole tower visited in Northants. After this, Buckingham came as a disappointment but spirits were mixed at Maids Moreton, with its excellent six, 15th century sedilia and opportunities for puns. Padbury was visited on the way back and the evening was spent socially—furthering our 'informal education' with table tennis, handbells and bridge. Dermot found all three absorbing, especially as it was noted he has the same style in each.

AT WHIPSNADE

All departed to their allotted towers on Sunday morning and, the afternoon being pleasant, a rather risky excursion to Whipsnade was organised. Here was seen a specimen of the animal prominent on one of the, by now, famous pairs of braces; that on the other pair, however, proved of greater interest to some. Ringing in the evening was again 'assistance' of local towers, including a quarter of Stedman Caters at St. Peter's, St. Albans, during which a slider became dislodged, to the surprise of the ringer at the end.

Dermot's organisational skill was severely tested on Monday, due to the complexity of the programme and the efforts of one of the young members, yet most people had an idea which party they were to be in. The elite departed only to fail a peal of spliced at Stoke Mandeville, while half of the remainder visited Hardwicke, Swanbourne, Little and Great Horwood. The other half rang at Wingrave, the Saxon church at Wing, where some of us had plenty of opportunity to appreciate the architecture—some 'anti-tower-grabbing' activities being directed against those who were at their correct tower by some who were not! A similar confusion on the other circuit seemed to set a precedent for touches considerably longer than appropriate. That great unifier, lunch, settled matters, and the party, complete again, went on to Bleichley's plain, solid church, rebuilt in a period of little church building, where Richmond Bob Major was attempted. The good Mears six at Wavendon was followed by the fine eight at Newport Pagnell, Great Linford, (a six by Joseph Eayre, 1786) and Stoney Stratford.

After a well-earned meal at Pendley some went to enlarge their repertoire of Surprise Minor methods at Apsley, while others contented themselves with London and Superlative at Berkhamsted.

Most of the party set off for a more leisurely day on Tuesday, starting on the excellent Taylor eight at Hughenden, where Bristol and Pudsey were duly 'tapped,' the select few ringing a peal in four Minor methods at Cheddington. In this latter the College Method for ringing trebles in cupboards was conceived and developed, to be expounded later, it is understood, in the Manual (R.V.). The rest of the morning was spent by the main group at West Wycombe, where, tiring of the bells, most investigated the interior of the church with its wall paintings, and the ascent of the tower, where a plan to leave Malcolm for posterity in the golden ball was thwarted. Meanwhile the hon secretary managed to gain access to the caves but was so disgusted at missing one of the Hell-Fire Club orgies that he disappeared for several hours. A picnic lunch was consumed on the hill-top despite trouble with the wind, wasps, canned beer and England's performance in the final Test. Afternoon ringing was at Beaconsfield and Woodburn Green, where we were generously provided with a buffet tea by Ivor Trueman. The final tower before dinner contained the pleasing 12 at High Wycombe, where methods up to Cambridge Maximus were rung. Local practices invaded that evening included Totternhoe and Northchurch.

PLANNING AHEAD

The final peal attempt was successful on Wednesday morning, Cambridge Major at Totternhoe, while the rest headed towards the great Metropolis, ringing first at Chesham, where a huge beam splits the circle, and we split the fourth clapper. A small yet select few unfortunately failed a quarter of Cambridge at Chalfont St. Giles; the others visiting Amersham and Chenies, the former with its Drake monuments and the latter with those to the Dukes of Bedford. A red triangle (not on a 'Hal.' sign!) determined the place for lunch and afterwards Cambridge Royal was rung at Rickmansworth (a fine 10 just back from Whitechapel!). Spliced was again rung at Bushey, where we were met by Chris Woolley, before visiting Watford, Langleybury and King's Langley. After dinner Paul and Dermot soon disposed of the business meeting, during which it was confirmed that the next dinner is to be in Manchester, the 1962 tour in Shropshire and the 1963 tour in Hampshire. The meeting was then able to express its gratitude to the incumbents, the ringers who met us and especially to Miss Cross, Geoffrey and Joyce Dodds for their excellent arrangements.

Harpenden was the first call on Thursday, followed by the St. Albans towers. London was among the miscellany of methods at St. Stephen's but five spliced failed at St. Michael's. The Cathedral ringing was divided into two sections; the first, for lesser breeds, included Erin and Stedman Cinques, and these humbler folk were despatched to Wheathampstead, where a silent single upset some London Minor. It was later rumoured that the best ringing at the Cathedral was some Grandsire Cinques in the first half!

Yorkshire Royal at Leighton Buzzard was a good start to Friday's excursion, to be followed by Glasgow at Woburn and five spliced at Hushorne Crawley. Lunch was enlivened by local fauna, a ferocious dog beating a hasty retreat on Jumbo's appearance, and later some befriended a donkey which emitted a noise reminiscent of some well-known conductors. The splendid church at Luton was the afternoon's first stop; here the London Royal which had been causing so much furtive swooting was at last attempted. After this, in reply to a charitable 'Some seemed a little unsure,' one member of the band agreed, adding, 'and the rest didn't know the method.'

On the way to Houghton Regis a subtle diversion into a factory entrance enabled us to shake off the hot pursuit of the Rabbits' Guild, but it was a reunited party which made its way to Dunstable, and the navigation of the previous lap was forgiven, despite local connections with the Peasants' Revolt. At Winghoe the cleric managed to 'persuade' five others to ring Orpheus; one is tempted to ponder the significance of this choice. The evening was spent socially after a pilgrimage to a place twixt the Grand Union Canal and Tring Station.

During Saturday morning the party began to disperse, most staying for a ring on the steel bells at Waddesdon. The anti-clockwise eight at Long Crendon was followed by Haddenham, where Jumbo managed to break a rope in six spliced, and Dinton—again anti-clockwise. In the afternoon we rang for a wedding on the difficult eight at Thame, followed by Great Milton, where sufficient were left to ring London. Finally some stalwarts invaded the Oxford Guild meeting at Benson, where we were generously allowed to 'crash' tea and ring Bristol in the third anti-clockwise ring of the day. J. G. U.

'R.W.' October 6th, 1911.—

Two North Country ringers, whose business takes them to many parts of England, had a rather amusing experience recently in Sussex. They walked one Sunday from Seaford to the ancient village of Alfriston, where there is a ring of six. They made themselves known to the local ringers, but were not invited to have a pull. When eventually they suggested they would like to take a rope they were politely told that, as the bells 'required careful handling,' visitors were not allowed to ring them.

So there was nothing left but for the two gentlemen concerned to take themselves back to Seaford. Those bells must indeed require very careful handling if Messrs. Ben Thorpe, of Ashton-under-Lyne, and Joe Sykes, of Huddersfield, may not be trusted to ring them. But it is only an example of the exaggerated ideas which some 'stony' men get when they have never pulled a bell outside their own tower.

PHILADELPHIA 'LIBERTY BELL'

With reference to Mr. Ernest Morris' article on the Philadelphia Liberty Bell, Mr. A. Hughes writes to him: 'I have seen the one at Philadelphia several times and it is a horrible casting. The original, which came from here (the Whitechapel Foundry) in 1752, could never have been as bad as the one in Independence Hall. As you know, Thomas Lester made very clean castings.

'We sent out last year to Houston, Texas, a modern Liberty Bell, which was moulded from the original strickle which was used in 1752. The lettering is also that used on the original bell. The headstock is of elm, which had been seasoned for about 15 years, and the gudgeons are fitted in and secured with the old style iron hoops. Every bit of ironwork is hand forged. The threads are the old wide pitch used in the 18th century and the nuts were hand made to suit.

'The bell was ordered as an advertising campaign to collect funds for more intensive research into the cure of muscular dystrophy, a horrible disease which mostly attacks young children. The bell has been mounted on a specially made truck, which tours the country appealing for funds to obtain liberty from muscular dystrophy.'

TITANIUM AS BELL METAL

Arcturus Manufacturing Company, Venice, California, has made bells from titanium. They polish to a beautiful silvery lustre. The clapper of one of their bells, which is about 24 inches in diameter, $\frac{1}{4}$ inch in thickness and weighs a little under 50 lbs., is made of a phenolic resin-wood flour mixture, about as large as a croquet ball and covered with thin leather.

Four of these bells have been installed at Peace Lutheran Church, Pico River, Los Angeles.

Titanium, among other things, is used to make gas pressure vessels for Atlas missiles. [From the journal of the Electrochemical Society, September, 1961.]

NORWICH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION

For the first time, the Eastern Branch met at Kessingland on September 16th, where Messrs. Mears and Stainbank have recently restored and augmented the ring to six. Many favourable comments were heard as to the 'go' and tone of the bells. The Rev. Giles Galley conducted the service and members were sorry to learn that Miss Doris Lidbetter, Branch Ringing Master, was in hospital as the result of an accident.

The short business meeting was presided over by Mr. E. R. Goate, who welcomed Mr. Nolan Golden. Subject to satisfactory arrangements, the next meeting will be held at Great Yarmouth. The votes of thanks included one to Mr. R. C. L. Brown, who, with his mother and other ladies, arranged the splendid tea.

GUILD OF DEVONSHIRE RINGERS

The quarterly meeting of the East Devon Branch was held at Dunkeswell, when there was an attendance of 50 members and friends, including an encouraging number of young ringers, and members from Bampton and Aylesbeare Branches. The service was conducted by the Rev. Mr. Williams, Vicar. Tea and the business meeting were held in the Village Hall.

A minute's silence was observed in memory of the late president, Preb. E. V. Cox.

It was decided to hold the next quarterly meeting at Awliscombe and the monthly practice at Buckerell on October 3rd. Mr. Woodley, Branch chairman, presided over the meeting.

Methods rung during the afternoon and evening were Cambridge, Kent, Single Court, Bob Minor, Stedman and Grandsire.

THE PEAL AT CHRIST CHURCH, OXFORD

A correspondent writes:

The peal recorded in our columns at Oxford Cathedral must have been the quickest on the bells. While in itself not a virtue, it can be said that, as a rule, fast ringing is better than slow ringing. But if it is fast, it must be wellnigh perfect or there is no case for it.

On this occasion 9, 10, 11, 12 were rung faultlessly throughout, and on only two occasions did any of the others make a trip or hold up the rhythm in any way. A peal of Cinques on bells of this size can only be rung at this speed when the four back bells 'keep rolling along,' and even then the speed is not by design but just happens. Fast ringing, when the leads are not kept open, and there is a lot of clipping and near-firing, is unjustified.

Dr. C. T. Brown, who until recently was captain of Wareham and Ringing Master of the Wimborne Branch of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild, sails for the Antarctic on December 2nd. For 18 months he will stay at the Royal Society base camp, Halley Bay. Among those who will miss him will be the young band of ringers he has built up almost entirely from scratch.

The Ancient Society of College Youths rang a peal of Stedman Cinques last Saturday at St. Paul's Cathedral to mark the enthronement of Dr. R. W. Stopford as Bishop of London.

The peal of Stedman Cinques at Evesham by Cambridge University Guild on September 9th (see page 653) was rung on the tenth anniversary of the rededication of the bells.

The peal of Treble Bob Minor in seven methods rung at Cawthorne, Barnsley, on September 30th was of special interest to the conductor, Mr. Noel F. Moxon. It is 30 years since he rang his first peal and it was in the same seven methods.

The bells of St. Peter's, Dorchester, Dorset, are now ringing again after an enforced silence of five months, owing to repairs to the tower and roof. Mr. R. H. Duke, captain, hopes that the visiting bands who were disappointed will come again another year.

Mr. Jabez Preece, of Staunton-on-Arrow, Leominster, completed 50 years as a reader of this journal last month. In September, 1911, he received a specimen copy from Mr. J. W. Jones, of Newport, Mon, and at once became a subscriber.

Many people while on holiday in Devon have noted with interest the round church of St. James, West Teignmouth. Since March 5th the tenor bell has been lying in its pit in the bell chamber. The only satisfactory solution is a complete rehanging of the bells. This the P.C.C. are prepared to do and so far the appeal fund has raised £425. Mr. F. J. Pillar, captain of the tower, of 14, Paradise Road, Teignmouth, appeals to ringers for their help and will personally acknowledge any gifts received.

BELFRY GOSSIP

When Shrewsbury ringers had their outing on September 16th they discovered that Dolgelley bells were ringable again. An engineer concerned with the building of the new power station at Trawsfynydd is helping to train a new band. Except for the treble, the other seven bells run easily enough and local learners, who at one stage seemed to outnumber the visitors, watched Bob Major and Grandsire Triples with great interest.

Mr. B. W. Willgress, of Acle, Norwich, writes expressing his thanks to the ringers of South Buckinghamshire while he was staying at Hughenden. He hopes later to score a peal in the area.

As a compliment to one of our Australian ringing friends, Turramurra Surprise Major has made its appearance. The first peal in the method has been rung at Loughborough and it enabled the conductor, Mr. John M. Jelley, to complete the Surprise Major alphabet.

St. John's Church, Redhill, is sending three ringers to University this year. Ann Williams goes to the Royal Holloway College, University of London. Michael Atfield to Christ Church, Oxford, and David Mundy to Peterhouse, Cambridge. All are change ringers, while Michael and David aspire to Surprise.

Cowfold, Sussex, ringers are very proud of their centenarian, Mrs. Julia Woolven. This week, her 102nd birthday was honoured by a quarter peal. Now the same six ringers also rang for her 100th and 101st birthdays. They modestly suggest that they have done something that no other six ringers have done in ringing together for a 100th, 101st and 102nd birthday of the same individual.

Carhampton, Somerset, band report a big step forward. For the 50th anniversary of the ordination of the Vicar (the Rev. T. S. Dawson) five of the local band rang their first peal. It was intended to be an all local peal, but owing to the indisposition of Mr. B. G. Williams Mr. H. W. Lloyd, of Dunster, stepped in at short notice to conduct. The regular assistance given by Mr. Lloyd on practice nights is chiefly responsible for the advance of the band.

NORTH WEALD

The absence of four ringers delayed the start for half an hour when North Weald ringers decided to proceed without them on their outing into Suffolk on September 2nd.

There was some fine ringing at the first tower, Stoke-by-Nayland, until a rope jumped one of the wheels and forced us to curtail activities. The light six at Higham suited the ladies, who began and ended the day in fine form. Cambridge, Oxford and Kent Spliced were brought round and there were some Doubles for Jim Bingham to cover in splendid style.

A stop was made to look at East Bergholt bells in the churchyard, before ringing on the light bells at Holbrook. Lunch was an individual affair at Ipswich. At Barking we were surprised to find, waiting at the church, Andy Crowson, of Woodford, who had hitch-hiked from Woodford. Barking bells are about the same as our own and everybody had a ring.

Owing to hold-ups in traffic, Preston was given a miss. At Monks Leigh the ringers stand on a platform set around the tower and at a height of about 10 feet. There are 'crash barriers' in front in case any feel height conscious. The bells rang quite well although a little oil on the bearings would have made a world of difference.

A wonderful tea was obtained at the Spinning Wheel restaurant, Hadleigh. Afterwards we went through narrow lanes to Polstead, our last tower, where we enjoyed every minute of our stay and had one of the best rings of the day. Thank you, Geoffrey, for the excellent arrangements.

STRATTON

On September 16th an enjoyable outing was arranged by the Stratton ringers for visitors who came from Basingstoke, Appleton, Plympton and Saltash.

Ringings commenced at Hartland (a glorious six), then on to Bideford for lunch, where Yvonne joined the party, and some good ringing was had on the fine octave. The next tower was the lumpy eight at Pilton, then to Exmoor and the glorious eight of South Molton.

At Chittlehampton, a very fine tower, some time was lost trying to find who had the key. Ringing for the day was concluded at Great Torrington, all being agreed that it had been a perfect day.

Charles was annoyed at the size of the pasty, purchased in the local for 8d., and didn't fail to express his disgust to the landlord.

TOR PARISH CHURCH

The ringers of Tor Parish Church, Torquay, had their first outing since the band was reformed two years ago, on September 9th. Of the present band, only three are over the age of 16. Accompanied by the Vicar, the company was strengthened by the presence of John Kelly, of Paignton, and Don Roberts, his wife and daughter, of Babbacombe. We set off from Tor Church in three cars and Bill Harvey, the tower captain, brought up the rear on his ancient motor cycle, which has existed mainly for ringing expeditions since it was demobbed from the British Army after the war.

We reached Berry Pomeroy, at present one of the 'silent' towers in South Devon and were joined by two very welcome visitors from Burnley. The bells were rung to rounds and call changes on the eight, Grandsire Doubles and Bob Minor and the striking was far better than we had dared to hope considering that the young ringers have had little experience outside their own six bell tower with a tenor of 8½ cwt.

After tea at Totnes, we visited the Parish Church, which contains the heaviest ring of eight in the county (tenor 28 cwt.). We were further strengthened here by the appearance of Aubrey Bennett, Yvonne Porter and the local captain, Mr. Jim Browne, and two of his ringers.

Again the striking was remarkably good and those present joined in rounds and call changes on the eight, Grandsire Doubles and Triples and a course of Bob Minor on the back six.

At the end of the hour's ringing at Totnes we returned to Torquay, greatly satisfied with our afternoon's ringing. Next year we hope to travel farther from home and visit some more of the fine towers in Devon.

WEST COUNTRY RINGERS IN LONDON

Twenty ringers from Twerton, Corston, Warnley and Bristol spent September 16th in London, the journey being made by train.

The ten bells at St. Dunstan's, Stepney, gave much pleasure during the morning and thanks are accorded to Messrs. Weedon and Sheldrick for looking after the visitors. The newly restored bells at St. Lawrence Jewry (tenor 24½ cwt.) were rung after lunch and proceedings finished with an excellent fall in 'Devon' style. Mr. A. Hughes is thanked for arranging ringing at these two towers.

At St. Giles', Camberwell, where we were met by Mr. C. Jones, some of the Westminster band had just been ringing for a wedding: they stopped and rang with us—a very great privilege. Ringing the tenor to Cambridge Major was Mr. Reuben Sanders, now 87 years of age. Methods rung included Grandsire and Stedman Caters and Bob Royal.

A former Vicar of Twerton (the Rev. J. W. Higgins), with the local band, met us at Greenwich and ringing was followed by a supper at the Vicarage. 'Blue Bells of Scotland' were rung on handbells around a bonfire in the garden, where the local youth club were holding a barbecue. Before leaving Greenwich the Vicar and Mrs. Higgins were sincerely thanked. Thanks for this happy day are also offered to Mr. Tom Lock, who supplied information and maps.

The Rev. C. Elliot Wigg, president of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, has been appointed by the Bishop of Oxford an honorary canon in Christ Church Cathedral, Oxford, in recognition of his services to the Guild.

V BOBS IN TREBLE BOB

Those of us who always seem to find difficulty in making singles will be glad to know that they are not necessary in Treble Bob. The reason for this will, I hope, form the subject of a further article, still to be written, on the In and Out of Course of the Changes. Put very briefly, however, half of the possible changes in any method are In Course, or positive or even—just as half the ordinary numbers we use (2, 4, 6, 8, etc.) are even—and half are Out of Course, or negative or odd (as 1, 3, 5, 7, etc.). Singles are needed when plain leads and bob leads produce only rows which are even, or a combination of odd and even rows which cannot otherwise be altered to give all of the possible total number of changes. But in Treble Bob both odd and even rows are obtained by the ordinary operation of the method, so it is only necessary to use Bobs to obtain the full extent of changes possible.

In both Kent and Oxford Treble Bob the bob is made at the full lead of the treble and in exactly the same way as in Plain Bob. Its effect on the blue line seems to the ringer, however, to be different from Plain Bob and also different according to whether he is ringing Kent or Oxford. Here is the first lead end of Kent Treble Bob Minor, shown plain and bobbed:

	Plain	Kent	Bobbed

The bell which is leaving the Slow is unaffected. It makes its First places up in the normal way.

The bell which is going in to the Slow is unaffected. It makes its Second places down in the normal way.

The bell which is doing its Second places up stays in fourths place for another whole pull, then makes thirds and goes in to the front. The next lead it will make places down and go in Slow. It has done thirds and fourths places up, then fourths and thirds places down.

Because of the fourths place, the bells in 5-6 (and in Major in 7-8 also), having already dodged once, have to dodge again at the lead end. This puts them into the position in which they would normally (at a plain lead) dodge together. This means that instead of having one dodge together they have three dodges together and find themselves back in the same positions as in the preceding lead. So they repeat the work of the lead they have just rung. As we have seen in previous articles a bob affects the position of three bells, so if we call bobs at this first and the two subsequent leads they will affect the second, third and fourth. The bells in 5-6 (and 7-8 in Major) will continue to ring the same lead over again and we shall have a touch of three leads.

Here is the first lead end of Oxford Treble Bob Minor, shown plain and bobbed:

	Plain	Oxford	Bobbed
	241536		241536
	214356		214356
	123465		123465
	213456	Call Bob	213456
	124365		124365
	142635	Make 4ths	142356
	416253		413265
	146235		143256
	412653		412365

The bell which is leaving the Slow is unaffected. It makes its ordinary fourths place and goes down to lead again.

The bell which is going in to the Slow is unaffected. It has made fourths place and goes in to dodge with the treble and stay in Slow.

The bell which has come down from the back and made thirds place then makes the bob (fourths place), makes thirds place again and goes back to 5-6. The next lead it will make fourths place and go in Slow.

The bells in 5-6 (and in Major in 7-8 also) do two extra dodges as in Kent and repeat the work of the lead they have just rung.

AMALGAMATION TALK IN SURREY

A SCHEME for the amalgamation of the Guildford Diocesan Guild and the Surrey Association has been prepared by a joint meeting of both bodies held earlier in the year at Leatherhead and has been circulated to the various towers in the two areas.

As the Surrey Association is the older body, the proposed title is the Surrey Association and the Guildford Diocesan Guild of Church Bell Ringers. The Association would operate through five Districts, the suggested initial constitution being as follows:—

Farnham.—Aldershot, Ash, Bagshot, Bentley, Crondall, Farnborough, Farnham, Frensham, Grayshott, Hawley, Pirbright, Seale, Worplesdon and Yorktown.

Chertsey.—Chertsey, Chobham, Egham, Hersham, Horsell, East Molesey, Oatlands Park, Ockham, Old Woking, Ottershaw, Send, Thames Ditton, Walton, Weybridge, Stoke D'Abernon, Cobham, Kingston and Esher.

Guildford.—Albury, Bramley, Chiddingfold, Cranleigh, Dunsfold, Ewhurst, Godalming, Guildford, Hascombe, Haslemere, Merrow, Puttenham, Shalford, Shere, West Clandon, Witley and Wonerham.

Northern.—Addington, Ashtead, Banstead, Beddington, Carshalton, Croydon, Epsom, Ewell, Leatherhead, Mitcham, Mortlake, Putney, Richmond, Southwark, Streatham and Wimbledon.

Southern.—Betchworth, Bletchingley, Buckland, Burstow, Charlwood, Coulsdon, Dorking, Godstone, Horley, Kingswood, Limsfield, Merstham, Nutfield, Redhill, Reigate, Oxted, Newdigate, Ockley, Capel and Ranmore.

If a tower felt unhappy in the proposed set-up, an application to transfer to another District would receive sympathetic consideration.

Before any merger could take place, the general approval of 75 per cent. of each Guild attending a meeting was necessary. Special meetings for this purpose would be convened by both bodies, and only members attending the meeting would be entitled to vote. If both meetings favoured fusion, a Merger Committee would consider such matters as constitution, rules and subscriptions.

Of the two bodies, Guildford Diocese has the larger membership and is entitled to four members on the Central Council, whereas the Surrey Association has three. The new body would only be entitled to four members (maximum). Financially, the Surrey Association would contribute more to the common pool as Guildford had spent very freely in providing a memorial bell at Guildford Cathedral to the late Mr. Pulling.

The Guildford Guild was created after the Division of the Diocese of Winchester when it was then held that the area of the old Guild was too large. The proposed area would extend beyond the Surrey County boundary and take in the Hampshire parishes of the Guildford Diocese. The respective centres would be Croydon and Guildford, and the suggestion is that such functions as the A.G.M. and dinner be held alternately at each place. It must be recognised, however, that communications between Guildford and Croydon are not good, but these can be surmounted by private cars and coach travel.

There are two main reasons for the amalgamation. The first is financial, as a large number of ringers in the Metropolitan fringe area have divided loyalties and pay subscriptions to both bodies. The other is that pooling resources would strengthen the financial position of the joint organisation. The prospect of amalgamation has been explored previously.

At one time the claim of the Surrey Association to all towers within the administrative county was a source of irritation to the deaneries in the centre of the Guildford Diocese, and if the Surrey Association attempted to usurp their claim to the whole county it would be resented. Another objection was if once a member from Guildford joined the Surreys by virtue of ringing a peal for them he would be expected to pay an annual subscription in the future. These animosities of the past seem to have died.

There is, however, one matter that has not been solved. The Guildford Diocesan Guild of Church Bell Ringers is part and parcel of the fabric of Guildford Diocese. The Bishop is president; the Guild is consulted on matters appertaining to bells by the Advisory Committee; it is very closely associated with the building of 'its' Cathedral and provided for it a memorial bell for Mr. Goldsmith and another for Mr. Pulling. The Diocese recognises its ringers in the same way as bodies like the C.E.M.S.; it approved of its ringers' service. Will that happy relationship have to be severed? As the main title is the Surrey Association there might well be established an alliance with Southwark Diocese. The matter would be simplified if the Districts were formed on the diocesan pattern. They are not. In each of the proposed five Districts there are towers in the Guildford Diocese, while in two Districts there are no Surrey towers and in a third only one tower. The fact remains that if the Guildford Diocese was recognised as one unit the area left over in Metropolitan Surrey would be much smaller in towers but would possess Kingston, Croydon, Wimbledon, Reigate, Richmond, Putney and even Southwark.

AUSTRALIAN RINGERS
AMUSED

Adelaide, South Australia, ringers are amused by some correspondence that has been going on recently in 'The Church Guardian,' the paper of the diocese of Adelaide. A clerical columnist, writing under the pseudonym of 'Contra Mundum' had said that the worst thing about bell ringers was that they clattered out of the belfry just as a service was about to begin and headed for the nearest bar. His remarks misfired as nearly all our ringing is done on Sundays and in South Australia all hotel bars are closed on Sunday.

But we were amused that the Cathedral organist, Dr. J. V. Peters, should leap to our defence in the following words:

'In the September issue of "The Guardian," "Contra Mundum" is reported as saying that bell ringers "clatter out of the belfry just as a service is commencing—and seek spirituous consolation at the pub."

'I have, Sir, a good working knowledge of most of the hostelrys in this diocese, but to date I have failed to discover one which is prepared to accommodate a thirsty bell ringer or organist at the time of the statutory services.'

MORE BELFRY GOSSIP

An attempt for a peal of Grandsire Caters to mark the centenary of the first 10-bell peal at Appleton (October 11th, 1861, in which the late Rev. F. E. Robinson took part) came to an end after two hours' good ringing owing to a missed call.

Stoke D'Abernon, Surrey, is to have a sixth bell, although space in the bell tower is limited. The bells are completely exposed to the weather and in consequence the frame is to receive anti-rust treatment. Electric lighting is to be installed in the bell chamber, calculated to make a beacon by night as well as making the swinging bells visible after dark.

Pupils of Lady Hawkins' Grammar School, Kington, Herefordshire, rang for the founders' day service on September 29th. In the belfry with them were Mrs. E. Chandler, assistant Ringing Master of the Kington District, and Mr. E. Giddings, a Kington ringer. The pupils were R. Dayns, Adrian Davies, Robin Hughes, Marilyn Rawlings, Jennifer Cartwright, Richard Lloyd and Maureen Davies. A picture appeared in the 'Hereford Times' of October 6th.

Last June Miss Merrilyn Chambers came with her mother to England from her home in Australia to visit relatives at Ingrave, Essex. She became interested in ringing and had her first 'pull' at the parish church on June 22nd. Keen and quick to learn, she was soon ringing for Sunday services and during the week whenever possible. On the Sunday before she returned she rang her first quarter—Grandsire Doubles from the treble.

PERSONALITIES OF THE EXERCISE—42

MR. WILLIAM C. SHUTE,
The Salisbury Diocesan Guild.

A pioneer in bringing change ringing to all parts of Dorset, and one of the most untiring instructors in the country, Mr. William C. Shute, of Ferndown, near Wimborne, has done more to advance beginners in this area than anyone. It would be true to say that Bill's life, during the last 36 years, has been devoted to encouraging and helping others, and although he has always shunned the limelight, his enthusiasm and unselfishness has earned him the respect, gratitude and affection of every ringer in this predominantly rural county.

Bill Shute was born in the village of Buckhorn Weston, near Templecombe, on November 1891, and learnt to ring there in February, 1908. At that time, and up to the formation of the North Dorset Branch of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild, nearly all the ringing in this area was rounds and call changes. During World War I, Bill served in France with the Welch Regiment, and after demobilisation he lived and worked in Loughton, Essex, in the early 1920's. He frequently visited the famous Surprise Minor band at Leytonstone, and learnt to ring many Minor methods, which served him in good stead in later years.

His first attempt for a peal was 7 Surprise Minor with this band, but it was unfortunately lost, and he did not ring his first peal until about 1925, when he returned to Buckhorn Weston. Bill's first peal as conductor was Grandsire Doubles at Zeals, Dorset, on September 25th, 1926, and since then the majority of his peal ringing activities have been in the humbler methods, in which many of the band have scored their first peal or first in the method.

FIRST BRANCH RINGING MASTER

The North Dorset Branch was formed in 1924, and soon after Bill became their first Ringing Master. He set to work, often ringing seven evenings a week, to help learners and raise enthusiasm for change ringing. He still holds this post, after 36 years' continuous service, and even though now he lives outside the Branch. He is, of course, a long-standing member of the Guild Committee. His success in this job was reflected in the fact that for a number of years attendance at the quarterly branch meetings was usually around 70 ringers.

To show their appreciation of his untiring efforts his friends in North Dorset presented him with a gold watch in 1948 in remembrance of over 20 years' service. No place was ever too far for Bill to go for instructing a band, as long as he could get back in time to start work the next morning. In his earlier days, his mode of transport was a bicycle, and he has been known to ride to Yeovil (15 miles) to work, on to Evershot (9 miles) for practice in the evening, and then 24 miles home afterwards! Thanks to his teaching, the Evershot band rang a local peal in 21 Doubles methods, just prior to the last war. Two well known Dorset ringers, Messrs. H. D. Bishop and E. T. P. Field, were both taught by Bill, and he called their first peal in 1932 at Buckland Newton.

'THE UBIQUITOUS SHUTE'

His activities have not been confined to Dorset. Mr. Joseph T. Dyke once referred to Bill as 'the ubiquitous Shute,' and he has done much good work in South Somerset and South Wiltshire. Perhaps one of the most telling pieces of evidence of the esteem in which he is held is the warmth of the welcome he receives in a tower which he has not visited for a long time. He has a wonderful memory for incidents of the past, so doubtless there are many who could recall having shared these incidents with him.

Mr. Edward Chant speaks of an occasion in 1937, of which he and Bill are the only survivors. After cycling to Durweston for a peal, and finding that the bells could not be used, they cycled to Fontmell Magna, and rang a peal of Grandsire Doubles there. It is not reported at what time the peal ended, but Bill apparently set off on his bicycle for home at Ferndown (some 24 miles away) at midnight!

Bill Shute has not kept a record of his peals, but they must number around 300, and he conducted 100 out of his first 200. They have included Plain Bob from Minor to Maximus, Cambridge Major, and a large quantity of Doubles and Minor in various methods, most of which he conducted, unless they were called by one of his pupils.

MAYOR ON THE TENOR

One peal of which he must be proud was Grandsire Triples which he conducted at Bridport for the King George V Silver Jubilee, 1935. All the band were ex-servicemen of Dorset, and the Mayor of Bridport, Mr. W. S. B. Northover, rang the tenor. Another worthy performance in which he took part was the first peal of Major at Sherborne Abbey on December 20th, 1930, before the bells were rehung, and the tenor was rung in masterful fashion by the great Joe Dyke. Bill also called the first peal in seven Minor methods for the Salisbury Guild at Iwerne Courtenay in January, 1936.

One of Bill Shute's characteristics is a fierce determination to pull his pupils through their difficulties, whether in Grandsire Doubles or some Surprise Minor method. The on-looker is always amazed at his ability to ring, conduct and instruct at the same time, with absolute confidence. Yet, for all this, he is a most modest man, and dislikes attention being focused on himself. It can be truly said that he has always put other people's interests and ambitions before his own. His personality does indeed stand out from the rest, and he has dedicated his particular gifts to the benefit of others. If there were any medals given for bellringing, Bill Shute would most certainly have earned one. If there were any medals... APACE.

THE SUFFOLK GUILD

The autumn meeting of the West Central District was held at Rattlesden on September 30th. Ringing under the guidance of Mr. Robert E. Lester suited all members present.

After a short service, conducted by the Rector, an excellent tea was provided by the local lady ringers. At the meeting the chairman, Mr. L. Last, welcomed all visitors to the District, and also the lady ringers, as probationary members to the Guild.

After tea ringing continued at Rattlesden and Drinkstone until nine o'clock.

Next meetings: Wetherden, Saturday, November 25th (evening practice); Palgrave, Saturday, January 20th, 1962.

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY GUILD WEEK IN SUSSEX

WITH very few exceptions, the best company one can enjoy is that of ringers and for me the Guild week has confirmed this once more.

The week started under two clouds. It was the first since the death of our last president, A. C. Blyth, and many of us learned after meeting of the tragic death of Geoffrey Benson, a short time before. However jolly the company their absence was always felt, and particularly when we met for the evening meal.

Wednesday began with Holy Communion in nearby Cold Waltham Church and finished, like the other days, at the 'Labouring Man,' equally near. We rang on the fine eighties at Arundel and Chichester first and then at Havant. After lunch there was a peal attempt, the last of the week owing to our numbers being low, and unfortunately we lost Rutland after an hour. The band arrived at Portsmouth in time to ring Cambridge Royal on the fine ten.

On Tuesday there was ringing at Chiddingfold, Godalming, Shalford and Witley, and two Guildford towers sandwiched lunch. I have never seen a rope spliced so quickly as at St. Nicolas' here, when Roger Leigh tackled a broken one.

PORT-HOLES IN TOWER

A peal attempt at Ranmore was successful, despite the 'go' of the fifth. The tenor man stood sideways to avoid the wall and as there were circular port-holes in the tower, about six inches in diameter and four feet above the floor, there was speculation as to what shape he ought to be if he wanted to use them in order to bend at backstroke.

We got back so late we were all in the 'dog house,' though our meal was excellent as usual. However, a course of Cambridge Major came round in hand that evening, though tiredness caused us to abandon the idea of a first attempt at Stedman Triples.

Thursday found us at Haslemere, where, I think, we tried to ring 'too fast,' Grayshott, Hawkley, Privett and East Meon. Monday was a good day and saw some good ringing from Billingshurst to Horsham, 'Apace' at Dorking and a good beat knocked out of the ten at Reigate. Stedman Triples went for an hour and a quarter 'in hand' that evening, breaking down well before 10.30.

Friday took us south to Brighton, for ringing on both tens there, and five other towers.

THE VICAR'S MOLE

It was a fairly uneventful week, but there was no weakness or deficiency in it. The most unusual event occurred after Sunday's ringing at Fittleworth, on the first day. Here the Vicar invited the Guild to beer and sherry afterwards, and the agricultural statistician amongst us laid a trap for the mole that was ruining his lawn!

My garbling of the programme must not be taken as a slight to our organisers, Messrs. Brian D. Price and Threlfall, to whom we owe very hearty thanks, for an enjoyable week, and finding first class accommodation.

We wish to thank the many incumbents and tower captains who made the week possible, and the ladies of Lodge Hill, Pulborough, who made it so comfortable and who cook so very, very well. We were very happy from August 19th-26th. J. H. F.

NORTHAM, SUSSEX.—On Oct. 1st, 1,260 Grandsire Doubles: Wendy Hughes 1, Mrs. G. Reece 2, I. Cunningham 3, R. Seeley 4, W. Button (cond.) 5, R. Barnes 6. For Harvest Festival.

SOUTH YORKSHIRE WEDDING

[By courtesy of The Sheffield Telegraph.]

Two well known South Yorkshire ringers, Miss Marion Archer and Mr. Ian M. Holland, were married at their own tower, St. Mary's Church, Handsworth, on September 9th.

The ringing celebration started the previous evening with a peal attempt at Dronfield, which unfortunately came to grief after two hours.

Ringling at Handsworth the following morning commenced with a course of London, in which the bridegroom took part, pending the arrival of the conductor, apparently suffering from the effects of the previous evening's celebrations. Despite this, he made good work of calling the successful peal of Yorkshire.

The bride was attired in a white lace and tulle crinoline, with bouffant veil mounted on a crystal coronet, and carried red roses. She was attended by her sisters, the Misses Hilary and Sylvia Archer, who wore short blue lace dresses, with blue flower petal headaddresses. The best man was Mr. Keith Hodgson.

The bride's going away suit was pale blue, with pearlised bronze accessories. The honeymoon was spent at Thornwick Bay. Their future home is being built at Dronfield and is not quite completed.

COWBRIDGE, GLAM, RINGERS' OUTING

With over 20 Sunday service ringers to draw on, Cowbridge had a wide range of ages for their outing on September 23rd. There was Geoffrey, not yet in his teens (but ringing Triples), and his grandfather, a veteran call change expert. As to ringing ability, at one end there was Ted Coles, with over 100 peals up to Cinques to his credit, down to the writer, who still after 10 years was only able to bump the tenor round.

A damp day and it was through the morning mist that the first tower was reached—Ebbw Vale, with the heaviest 8 in Wales. Grandsire went creditably here, but there were two mishaps—young 'Jonah' slipped on one of the smart Taylor mats and nose-dived under the table, and Ted failed to set the seventh first time.

From Wales' heaviest eight to Abergavenny, with the finest 10 and a great gaunt barn of a ringing chamber. Our shaky rounds did the bells scant justice. Framed on the walls was the cheque for £2,316 for the bells made out to the bell founders.

At Ross-on-Wye we could not ring long: a chiming mechanism would not disengage and the seventh was making an ugly 'gboick' every blow. We regretfully called it off. Chepstow, our last tower, was different. On the back eight Grandsire Triples were rung and, with some local assistance, Stedman Triples. Many thanks to David and Jacqueline King and the band for their welcome: and also to those who met us in other towns, and Bert Thomas, who organised it all. I. D. D.

BEQUEST OF INTEREST

THOMAS NASH, OF BATH

By ERNEST MORRIS

(See also page 607)

The following singular bequest made by Thomas Nash, of Bath, to the ringers of the Abbey Church there, is contained in a codicil to his will, proved in Doctors' Commons, 'I do hereby give and bequeath to the Mayor, the Senior Alderman and Town Clerk of Bath, for the time being, the sum of £50 per annum, in trust, payable out of the Bank Long Annuities, standing in my name at the Bank of England, for the use, benefit, and enjoyment of the set of ringers belonging to the Abbey Church, Bath, on condition of their ringing, on the whole peal of bells, with clappers muffled, various solemn and doleful changes (allowing proper intervals for rest and refreshment) from eight o'clock in the morning, until eight o'clock in the evening on the 14th May in every year, being the anniversary wedding day; and also the anniversary of my decease, the ring a grand bob major and many mirthful peals unmuffled, during the same space of time, allowing the same intervals as above mentioned, in joyful commemoration of my happy release from domestic tyranny and wretchedness, and for the full, strict, and due performance of such conditions, they, the said ringers, are to receive the sum of £50 per annum, in two payments of £25 each, on those respective days of my marriage and decease. And now that dear divine man (to use Mrs. Nash's own words) the Rev., of, may resume his amatory labours, without enveloping himself in a sedan chair for fear of detection. I further will and direct that the aforesaid ringers do enter upon office (for the first time only) the very next day following after my interment, and to receive £25, one half year's dividend for so doing. Written with my hand, the 14th day of May, 1813.—Thomas Nash.'

This inspired that ringer-poet, the late G. F. Margetson, to break out with:

'Come muse, let's sing of Tommy Nash,
Who found a wife at Bath;
Who gnashed his teeth while 'queathing cash
For ringers' gain and mirth.
Upon the 14th day of May—
His anniversary wedding day.

No joyous peals were they to ring,
But long, said, doleful knells;
His love had proved a wretched thing,
So muffled are the bells:
With proper intervals for rest
You're sure the ringers try their best.

Whole pull and stand they labour on,
From morning until night,
Not sorry when the hours are gone,
To see the end in sight:
Diversions then employ the cash,
Left by the will of Thomas Nash.

And since poor Tom has gone aloft,
They ring for his decease,
Most joyful peals come stealing forth
In praise of his release,
From all the miseries of life
By taking himself a wife.

Bob Majors now ring wild and true,
To tell poor Tom is dead,
Reminding them he never knew
To 'pause before they wed:
Great is the ringers' grief for Nash,
But tears subside where there is cash.'

WORMINGFORD, ESSEX.—On Sept. 23rd, 1,260 Plain Bob Minor: E. Leggett 1, A. Semken 2, Miss J. Semken 3, Miss J. Munson 4, N. Avis 5, P. Eirth (first as cond.) 6.

BELLS AND THATCH AT GODSHILL

By T. A. BEVIS

'THERE are so many places and institutions and joys and delights in this land of ours that it is not surprising an Englishman declared: 'A thing of beauty is a joy for ever.'

To describe the surroundings of, and approaches to, an ancient church is not always easy. Godshill, Isle of Wight, is a poet's and artist's paradise and the visitor to this practically unspoilt portion of Olde England understandably feels that the very ground on which he treads is indeed the Garden of Eden.

In summer months Godshill earns a living by opening its colourful back gardens and tempting visitors with home-made scones, cream buns and the inevitable 'cuppa'—a delicious experience when encircled by dahlias!

As the name implies the church stands at the top of a tree-fringed hill from which ethereal-like views are obtained of the southern heights of the Garden Island.

THE PANORAMA

The incumbent believes it to be one of the finest, if not the finest, of panoramas seen from a porch of an English church.

It is refreshing to observe a collection of charming old world cottages keeping the church company, thatched roofs of which testify to the excellent craftsmanship of local men.

The present fane is the fourth to be erected on the site, and claims to be the largest old church on the island. The edifice is 600 years old and is dedicated, as was its predecessors, to All Saints. An unusual feature, the 'double nave'—one row of pillars, centred—provided an area on the north side with sanctuary, this forming the parish church, while the corresponding side and sanctuary came under the jurisdiction of the Benedictine monks of Montesbourg.

Visitors should note the mediæval two-ply south door with plain ironwork, incorporating a massive and curious lock.

Like most ancient churches, the fane at Godshill possesses a varied collection of treasures. A wall painting, 'The Budding Cross,' in the Chapel of St. Stephen, depicts Our Lord crucified on a living tree; it was created in 1450.

There may be seen on the south wall a consecration cross and traces of 15th century lettering. The church also possesses a large canvas entitled 'Daniel in the Lion's Den,' reputed to be by Paul Rubens. It was given early in the last century by Lord Yarborough, who obtained the painting from Sir Richard Worsley's collection, the latter having purchased it from abroad for £1,500.

Owing to the ravaging jaws of the death-watch beetle, the church is at present burdened with heavy expenses.

A niche contains a sanctus bell inscribed 'Clement Tosier made me in 1703.'

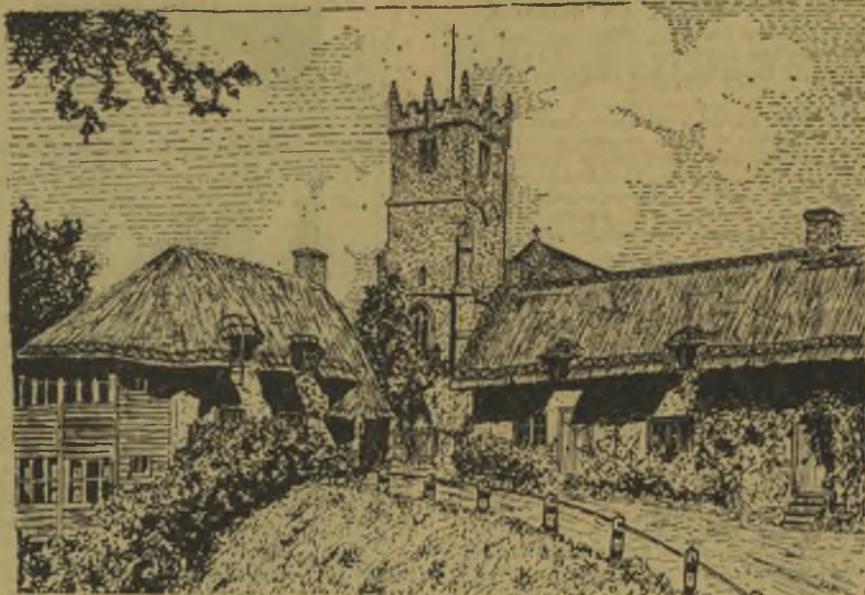

CANNON INTO BELLS

Mr. C. H. Denness, foreman of the bell ringers, informed the writer that a large frame was constructed in 1816 for six light bells, these having been partly cast from the old village cannon. (Isle of Wight villages each possessed a cannon to protect them from marauding Frenchmen, Spaniards, etc. The only surviving cannon on the island may be seen in the museum at Carisbrooke Castle.)

The present bells were rehung in 1887 by a Bristol firm and in 1934 Taylors completely overhauled them, two spare bays having been provided in the event of a possible augmentation.

Easy to handle, the bells are delightful to the ear. Weights are: Treble, 4 cwt. 0 qr. 17 lb.; second, 4-1-17; third, 5-0-0; fourth, 6-0-19; fifth, 6-3-12; tenor (Dove, 8-3-7, G sharp). They are rung from a comfortable chamber half-way in the tower, accessible by ascending a substantial wooden staircase.

Eleven peals have been scored, including two of Doubles, five of Plain Bob Minor and one of Cambridge. The first peal on the bells was achieved on Saturday, May 22nd, 1926. It consisted of seven different extents of Bob Minor and was conducted by H. Barton.

Evidently the ringers of long ago believed in being 'quick off the mark and on the make' for at the vestry meeting on July 8th, 1754, 'it was agreed from this time forward no more than one guinea be allowed in any one year for ringing the bells on the usual days for that purpose.'

MUTED BELLS

The writer visited Godshill twice during his stay on the island, the second visit of which imbued him with a perpetual memory of this fair place.

A son of the village had unexpectedly passed away and the bells were rung half-muffled as a tribute to the memory of this young man, whose family had been connected with the church for many years.

The village was still that evening... the sun had gone down in a blaze of glory, saturated in the autumn foliage of St. Boniface Down. Muted bells recalled to man's mind his fleeting moments on earth.

They also warmed the heart to that mysterious brotherhood peculiar to the bell ringer; particularly at that time did they reflect the friendliness of Godshill ringers (remembering with gratitude the kind hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Bailey).

Truly, nature and man—despoiler though he is—have been wonderfully kind to Godshill.

Bells, thatch and coffee—an admirable and satisfying combination.

HERTS COUNTY ASSOCIATION

All towers except four in the St. Albans District were represented at the meeting on September 16th held at Monken Hadley during the afternoon and Barnet after tea.

At Monken Hadley, Cambridge and Yorkshire Surprise Major, Erin Triples, standard methods and rounds were rung. After an interesting address by the Rev. Mr. Wood the party, approximately 30 strong, had tea at a Barnet cafe. The meeting at Barnet was the first for a long time and ringing reached Spiced Yorkshire and Cambridge Major.

Mr. F. Jacklin acted as chairman at the short business meeting, when it was decided to accept the Eastern District's invitation to have a joint meeting on October 14th at Hertingfordbury and Essendon.

A vote of thanks to the local incumbents was proposed by Mr. S. Huekle.

'SMACK 'EM IN TIGHT'

Brixham of the holiday-maker is quite a different place from the Brixham which lies clustered around the parish church of St. Mary, with its sturdy battered tower of 104 feet, a mile or so away on the hillside on the road to Kingswear and the River Dart. Brixham Quay formed the old haven under Berry Head for the one-time famous fishing fleets, and its village was tucked away inland sheltered from the 'sou-westerly' gales.

It was in this setting of the original village that the South Devon Association of call change ringers held its annual eight bell festival on October 7th—a miraculously fine day after a week of storm and rain. The Rural Dean, who is Vicar of Dartmouth, gave the address at the opening service to the members of the seven competing teams and friends. In it he suggested that ringers might go into their respective belfries, Sunday by Sunday, with the name of a friend in need in mind, so ensuring that their ringing was an offering of prayer and praise.

The service over, the captains drew for order of ringing and Paignton was first 'out of the hat,' followed by the home team and North Tawton to ring before tea.

After a generous tea organised by the Brixham ringers, during which they rang their bells and 'fired' them in congratulation to George Langworthy, an old Paignton ringer celebrating his jubilee wedding anniversary, Ashburton went in to ring with Upton, Kenn and King's Teignton to follow. In spite of what was later judged to be the best rise of the day (to the command of 'smack 'em in tight') Upton never really settled down in their top ringing and so spoilt a promising start.

Mrs. Yeomans, the wife of the Vicar, presented the awards at the end of the festival. North Tawton were placed first with 50 faults. Their top ringing was truly in prima style. (After a quick tea, they had taken the opportunity of running over to Torquay for a peal on Upton's well hung eight.) King's Teignton were placed second with 73½ faults, Kenn third (84), Upton (97), Brixham (182½), Ashburton (190) and Paignton (230).

The judges were Messrs. T. G. Daw (Ipplpen), H. G. Edwards and F. J. Stephens, both of West Alvington.

SLOUGH, BUCKS.—On Oct. 1st, 1,280 Lincolnshire Surprise Major: A. D. Rivers 1, Linda J. Kew -2, D. P. Hilling 3, W. Birmingham 4, Pamela M. Jervis 5, D. K. Walters 6, F. R. Scott 7, J. K. Ward (cond.) 8. First of Lincolnshire 1, 2, 3, 5 and 6. For the visit of the Bishop of Kalgoorlie (Australia).

Roving Ringers in the North-East

THE Roving Ringers' 15th annual tour was held from July 29th to August 7th, when for the first time the Society visited Durham and Northumberland. Some 250 miles were covered through some of the finest scenery in the North of England, throughout disproving the myth that the area consists only of coal-mines and steelworks.

All but two of the party met at Darlington, where ringing took place, both at Holy Trinity (6) and St. Cuthbert's (8), after which tea was provided by the local company, a most warm-hearted gesture which was greatly appreciated.

RIVAL CHOIRS

The last two members of the party joined us at Barnard Castle, to make the numbers up to 24. The hostel was alarmingly full, but the 'Cricketers' that evening was even more so. The initial renderings of the choir were not entirely appreciated by a rival singing party, but their protests were somewhat drowned in the strong harmonies of well known numbers, and after all, we had the pianist! The second house, held back at the hostel, was even more successful.

Sunday morning ringing was at the Parish Church, but the short time available was further restricted by a broken stay. The majority stayed to service and then cycled over to Richmond, our one and only Yorkshire tower, where good ringing was enjoyed on a very good going eight.

We were due to ring at Gainford for Evensong, and those with faith in the Ordnance Survey decided to take the short cut across the ferry. It was found on arrival, however, that this particular ferry was operated by foot—our feet! Fortunately the upper reaches of the Tees are shallow, and the afternoon trippers on the further bank maintained a polite but curious silence whilst bikes and a tandem made the crossing! The six bells at Gainford go very well considering they are seldom rung. A course of London and a good fall in peal completed the day's ringing, and the Rector came out to thank the company for their efforts.

Monday started at Staindrop, a fine church inside and an equally fine eight. Here the Master made the first of his many appeals for Glasgow, and even distributed the blue line to prove he meant it, but it was early days, and converts were few. St. Andrew's, Auckland, was the next eight, where ringing suffered somewhat as a result of springy ropes.

A LADIES' TOUCH

The route led on through semi-rural country, somewhat marred by open cast mining, to Brancepeth, with its rather unusual dedication to St. Brandon, set in the grounds of a large castle (W.D. owned, of course!). The bells go well, and this time it was the ladies' turn to bring home a touch of Triples, after spliced was found wanting.

The visit to Durham was memorable, famous as it is for its T.V. controlled traffic, its alarming gradients, and an almost complete lack of cafes! The town is dominated by the twin west towers of the Cathedral, where we rang on the heaviest eight (30 cwt.) of the tour. The ringing was not without incident, taking place literally amid the encircling gloom, lit by one solitary light. Those who went aloft to view well known local landmarks, the college, the jail, etc., came down to find the ringing chamber with no light at all, but eight pairs of lynx eyes were ringing Major well, whilst several couples had no complaints about the conditions!

Tuesday morning was spent leisurely in Durham, as the six at St. Nicholas' were pronounced unringable, so Houghton-le-Spring was our first tower. Here the party received a very cordial welcome from the Vicar, who was most insistent on having a short account of the tour and its reasons from our honorary recorder. Obviously the need for 'prepared statements' and P.R.O.s is drawing near!

CHESTER-LE-STREET PRAISED

At Chester-le-Street we were met by Mr. Dennis Bayles, and rang on the best eight to date, a fine 19 cwt. Taylor ring, which goes perfectly. In giving a brief historical survey,

Mr. Bayles pointed out that the church was for many years the seat of the Bishops of Durham, before the Cathedral held that distinction.

The road led on to Lanchester, which was reached by various wrong roads, and after ringing on the six the party started on the long climb across the moors, which coincided with the first rain of the week, to Edmundbyers. A fair hostel this; the wardens has been here since it opened in 1933, but veteran hostellers agreed that the beds were from an earlier period of history.

The road to Consett on Wednesday gave us a fine view of the town and the iron works. Whilst ringing was taking place at Christ Church the local Press interviewed the Master, Mr. George Morris, and we noted sadly in the report later in the week that we had 'played the bells' at various churches in the area. (But perhaps the reporter was a pianist?)

Two sixes followed: Whickham, with a tenor of no recognised note and a floating frame, and Winlaton, where three people managed to break the fifth rope. Rather indifferent ringing was improved on at Blaydon, and Ipswich Minor was added to the repertoire. The second night at Edmundbyers was enlivened by a fine vocal effort at the 'Punchbowl,' which was jointly shared by the Army, and later still the local lads gave us a further course of instruction in the language.

The following morning found the party at St. Aidan's, Blackhill (a light but hard going eight). These were thankfully exchanged for the R.C. church nearby, and once the clock chimes had been disentangled some enjoyable touches were rung. We left regretfully for Benfieldside (6) to be greeted by the B.B.C. who filmed and recorded the proceedings, accompanied by the threat of its appearing on T.V. that very evening.

BRICKLAYER WANTED ON HADRIAN'S WALL

After lunch we crossed the Northumberland border and after 16 miles of hard pedalling reached Hexham. The Abbey contains many treasures, including a Saxon crypt and a unique memorial to a Roman gladiator. The bells are a fine 21 cwt. eight and we made good use of them during the time available. The trip across the moors was a wet one. We passed Hadrian's Wall, now sadly in need of a good bricklayer, and, keeping a wary eye open for Picts and Scots, arrived safely at Bellingham Hostel, and a welcome fire. Despite 'no meals provided,' Mr. Short kindly brought along a huge grocery order by car, and the ladies provided first class meals.

A fine sunny morning with a strong tail wind combined to make a glorious cross moorland 20 mile ride to Rothbury, and a very good toned Mears eight. Owing to distance two towers only were scheduled for this day, and after lunch the party reached its most northerly point at Embleton (another mellow toned Mears six), where ringing included a touch of Spliced Doubles and Minor, and a method called Grandsire Doubles made its debut.

The North Sea looked cold, but Mr. Secretary and three other misguided persons went bathing, whilst another, not to be outdone by this publicity, was stung by a wasp. Friday night was spent at the palatial looking hostel at Rock Hall, where a fine sing-song was held in the Common Room.

Group photos were taken on Saturday morning, and after a pleasant coastal ride we arrived at Morpeth. The party were met by Mr. Nicholas Wright at the famous Curfew Tower, and the bells certainly lived up to their reputation as a grand light eight, which went well to all methods.

The next tower, Cramlington, provided a very pleasant surprise, a fine 19 cwt. Taylor six and a most satisfying find in an area where heavy rings are not the rule. The local shopkeeper, however, did not share our enthusiasm and made us move our bikes from his wall, with the ominous remark that if bells were a passport to heaven, he hoped he would go elsewhere. His sentiments were ours, and some good ringing, especially a course of Kent, followed.

Gosforth (the only 10 of the tour), came next, but the ringing was well below standard, and we certainly did not do justice to this fine ring.

The day ended at Jesmond, a most unusual tower (rather like some gigantic space rocket), but containing a good 18 cwt. Taylor eight. The eternal problem of ringing without upsetting the public has been solved admirably here, where the bells sound perfectly in the ringing chamber, but are scarcely audible outside.

CROYDON FOR REUNION

By this time the week-enders had arrived and the party moved into St. Margaret's Hotel for the week-end. At a short business meeting in the morning Croydon was chosen for the reunion, with Winchester as an alternative. Bands then split up to ring at the Cathedral and St. John's, with the local company. The eight at Whitley Bay were visited in the afternoon and further ringing took place in the city for Evensong, followed by a quick run to Gateshead (8), where a number stayed to Evensong.

Monday came all too soon, and after visiting the rather odd-struck six at Benwell, where the view from the tower was the best feature, we made our way to Fenham, with undoubtedly the best eight of the tour. In all there are 17 bells, all by Mears, of which nine are hung as a carillon. A perfect course of Rutland was an outstanding feature of the ringing, and all too soon our time was up and another tour was over.

Apart from the usual votes of thanks to the Master, our hard working secretaries and all tower captains and incumbents, a special word of thanks is due to Mr. George Deas, for his invaluable help and guidance in Newcastle.

We left the north-east regretfully, having more or less learnt the language, and when we return the Society has only two requests: a view of the Lambton worm, and a day at the Blaydon Races! J. B.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

102 At North Berks Meeting

In the absence of an incumbent, Canon H. Pickles, in his inimitable style, conducted the service, assisted by the chairman (the Rev. F. Martin Gibbs), at the North Berks Branch's meeting at Letcombe Regis on September 23rd.

Sincere thanks go to Mrs. Wilkins (P.C.C. honorary secretary), Mr. George Savle (churchwarden), Mrs. Mullins (Village Hall secretary), Jim Finch, and the band of willing helpers, for the success of the Branch's first meeting at Letcombe.

The sight of so many young people forming a majority of the 102 in attendance was heartening; and well done, Rachel (Wallingford new member), who, together with friend, walked the journey.

The correspondent for Letcombe, by the way, is Jim Finch. The Greyhound, Letcombe Regis, Wantage, Berks. Jim has joined the Guild and hopes to introduce some young trainees in the near future. G. W. B.

SHREWSBURY RINGERS IN WALES

Leighton (a loud six near Welshpool, which bells had been applied for but refused, on the grounds of weak foundations) and Machynlleth (a soft eight, with an awkward circle and a flat treble, but pleasant when in changes) were visited by St. Chad's, Shrewsbury, during their outing into Wales on September 16th.

There is no local activity on the lovely eight at Barmouth. Three ropes, brought from Shrewsbury, were used and while the fitting took place it was noticed that the stay of the third was on the wrong side of the third and cracked. The last touch finished when a learner, on the third, pulled too hard, making the slider jump the block but not cracking the stay any further.

An interesting discovery was to find that Dolgelly's bells were ringable again, although the treble needs attention as the rope is apt to eazwheel at the end of a hand-stroke call.

Thanks are due to John Terry for his efficient organisation, and to all the incumbents who gave us permission to ring. H. P.

RED MINIBUS TAKES RAVING RINGERS ON 1961 TOUR

THE Raving Ringers began their 1961 tour in style. Gone was the usual convoy of cars of precarious vintage and in their place appeared a sparkling red minibus. Into the minibus piled the main party in the early hours of Saturday, July 29th, and headed off from Reading towards Deddington to pick up further supplies. Here unfortunately we found that with all the equipment loaded in and on the minibus there were five Ravers with nowhere to go. The minibus zoomed off and the five deserted Ravers were forced to resort to the former tour transport, speeding north in the wake of the main party.

Eventually all were reunited at Burton-on-Trent, where the 28 cwt. ten rang out the first touches of the tour, including Stedman, Grandsire and Plain Bob. Glossop, in Derbyshire, provided the headquarters for the tour and the camp site was situated in a pleasant rural setting beyond the town.

Four towers were scheduled for the first full day's ringing, when the two Oldham towers were visited. We found the twelve at St. Mary the Virgin difficult to handle. The tower is impressively slender and the twelve hung in three tiers with subsequently a tight rope circle. We satisfied ourselves with rounds on the twelve after an abortive attempt at Cinques and completed our ringing with a service touch of Stedman Triples. After lunch the party moved to the eight at St. Thomas', Oldham, where we enjoyed good ringing and a hearty welcome. We took some time to find St. Peter's, Ashton-under-Lyne. We circled the tower several times convinced that there couldn't be any bells in it, and if it hadn't been for the imposing profile of Neil Bennett standing in the gateway we might have headed off. Evening service ringing was at St. Michael's, Ashton-under-Lyne (12), where Grandsire and Stedman Cinques were rung. Here again we were impressed by the welcome of the local band. An extra tower was also included in the 'welcome service' and after Evensong the minibus loaded up with Ravers and new found friends and headed towards Mottram, an imposing hilltop church. Here we rang our first touch of Yorkshire on the eight, returning to Ashton-under-Lyne to celebrate this triumph in Raving manner.

RINGING IN A DERELICT CHURCH

Seven towers were visited on the first Monday on tour, including Marple, in Cheshire, where two churches stand side by side, with the bells in one and the congregation in the other. It was the first time the Ravers had rung in a derelict church, but the ringing and novelty were greatly enjoyed. Disley and Bollington were also visited before lunch, and Macclesfield and Prestbury concluded the afternoon's towers. Norbury (Hazel Grove) bells were considered the best of the day, where Superlative and Stedman was rung. Stockport practice ended the day's ringing.

By Tuesday the Ravers were well settled in their northern habitat and (blister hardened) set out for Penistone in the West Riding. Here we had our first experience of Yorkshire tail ends, but they did not hinder a good course of Superlative. Silkstone and Cawthorne were also visited, with more Yorkshire tail ends. After an excellent lunch in Barnsley, where we had difficulty in retrieving our 'master' who was mistaken for Hiram Holiday by blushing waitresses, we enjoyed an hour's ringing at St. Mary's. We then headed for Royston, where we suffered our first broken rope. The ten at Ossett were greatly enjoyed and the evening's ringing pleasantly concluded at Wakefield Cathedral. We enjoyed a lovely supper supplied by Wilf and Jo Morton, to whom we extend grateful thanks.

LITTLE JOHN'S GRAVE

Wednesday's programme commenced with ringing at Hathersage, in Derbyshire, where half the party measured up Little John's grave whilst the other half pulled the bells up. Among the other seven towers visited, Dronfield will be remembered for a broken clock hammer and Thrybergh for being light enough to handle after an excellent 'rectory tea.' Rotherham was the last tower visited and a good practice and warm welcome were greatly appreciated.

Thursday again saw the red minibus, Raver pennant flying at full mast, heading for Yorkshire. After a precarious start at Holmfirth, where we rang by candlelight and managed another broken rope, we made for New Mill and Shelley, making up for the earlier start. Almondsbury, Batley and East Ardsley were also visited and we were later pleasantly surprised to find out that it isn't only Ravers who break ropes, as the rope of the eleventh neatly descended on a local ringer at Leeds.

Friday's programme included three good rings in the morning at Hayfield, Chapel-en-le-Frith and Buxton. Chelmsorton and Youlgreave were also visited and a great difference noted between ringing the 8½ cwt. six and 26½ cwt. eight. Bakewell concluded the afternoon's ringing and refreshed by a good tea, we left for Darley Dale. We were greatly honoured when 'Jafus' himself came to meet us and when he even complimented us on our ringing—with a name like ours, we are often misunderstood—the door of the minibus was not large enough to accommodate our extended craniums. Evening ringing was at Chesterfield, where we recorded our first course of Surprise Royal and later duly celebrated the achievement.

SURPRISE FOR WEDDING COUPLE

For the first time on tour we arrived behind schedule on the last Saturday and were disappointed in having to curtail ringing at Tideswell, in Derbyshire. Eyam and Brampton made up the remaining morning towers, with well struck touches of Hull, Norwich and London on these pleasant sixes. After lunch we were delayed by a wedding at Ashover, but managed to ring a surprised couple out of the church.

We arrived at Clay Cross, again behind schedule, but it was as well, as the church was also in use for a wedding. Staveley and Old Whittington concluded the day's ringing, where the 5 cwt six blankly refused to be rung at a fast pace. Here we also said goodbye to two Ravers, who were retiring south through the night to attend another wedding.

A working party, complete with tools of every description, was despatched on Sunday morning from the camp site to 'fix' a clapper in All Saints', Glossop, ready for morning service ringing. After climbing up through the bell chamber, rank with pigeon droppings, the clapper (which was found on the floor) was replaced and with two stayless trebles the good Gillett and Johnston octave rang for service.

The culinary experts were able to prove their worth after morning service when lunch was taken in camp before making for Wentworth. The village has two churches, the present one superseding a now derelict building adjacent to it. Ecclesfield was also visited before evening ringing at Sheffield Cathedral.

The last morning of the tour was spent in a hive of industry as belongings were sorted out and a miracle of packing accomplished in loading the van. Despite the usual last minute rush, however, the little red minibus arrived at Leek on time for the last ring of the tour.

INCIDENTS TO REMEMBER

During the ten days 56 towers were visited, though perhaps the events that will stick in Raving minds will be the night we couldn't find a tent on returning home in the early hours only to discover it trampled underfoot by cows, unappreciative of their southern visitors; or perhaps having crossed the Pennines one stormy night, arriving back in Glossop to find the camp afloat. Most of all, however, we will remember the wonderful hospitality that we met with throughout the tour.

The Ravers extend their warmest thanks to their hosts in Glossop, the incumbents and tower captains of the towers visited and the many northern ringers who helped make the tour not only highly successful but greatly enjoyed. Last but not least we must mention Chris Clarke and Howard Oglesby, who put hours of patient work into organising the tour. Their Raving comrades wish them to know that their efforts were greatly appreciated. Look out, 1962! C. C.

Joint Meeting At Hucknall

In a church beautifully decorated for the harvest festival a joint meeting of the Sherwood Youths and the Mansfield District of the Southwell Diocesan Guild was held at Hucknall on September 23rd. The many methods rung included Yorkshire and Superlative.

The beautiful playing by the blind organist was an asset to the singing at the service. There was a 'festival' tea—more than ample to eat. In all, a successful meeting.

Oxford Guild's Autumn Meeting

Another Survey Planned: Gift To 'The Ringing World'

ABOUT 140 ringers from all Branches of the Diocese, except: Sonning Deanery, came to the autumn general meeting of the Guild held at Blechley on October 7th. Ringing was available in 30 towers in Central and North Bucks and advantage was taken of these opportunities. The ages of ringers present ranged from 11 to over 80. Arrangements for the meeting and for ringing were made by Mr. H. Sear (honorary secretary of the North Bucks Branch) and Mr. J. Hall (honorary secretary of the Central Bucks Branch).

The Master (Canon C. Elliot Wigg) presided, supported by the Deputy Master (Mr. C. Sharpe), the honorary general treasurer (Mr. A. D. Barker), the honorary general secretary (Miss M. R. Cross), the honorary librarian (Mr. H. L. Roper) and the chairman of the North Bucks Branch (the Rev. Alan Campbell).

After prayers the Master welcomed the Guild to the North Bucks Branch, of which he is a member, and had a special welcome for the Rector of Blechley. He asked the meeting to stand in silence in memory of Mr. J. Turner, of Simpson, who had been a ringer for 50 years and whose funeral took place that day.

The Deputy Master announced the appointment, by the Bishop, of the Master as honorary canon of Christ Church, in recognition of his work for the Oxford Guild. 'I feel,' concluded the Deputy Master, 'that this is in some measure an honour for the Guild.' The announcement was received with applause.

In thanking the Guild, the Master invited those who could to attend his installation, which would be held on a week-day evening.

THE CHILTERN BRANCH

By a unanimous vote the meeting approved of the formation of the Chiltern Branch. This would consist of the following towers: Edlesborough, Ivinghoe, Marsworth, Mentmore and Slapton (Central Bucks Branch); Ellesborough, Great Kimble, Great Missenden, Monks Risborough and Wendover (East Berks and South Bucks); Aston Clinton, Bledlow, Stoke Mandeville and Weston Turville (South Oxon and Mid-Bucks).

Submitting the motion, Mr. D. Wheeler said the towers in the new branch had been holding regular meetings on the third Saturday in each month. The Branch had a nucleus of officers and a certain amount of funds. There were two members of Cheddington tower present, who, until the proposal to form a Branch, had never heard of the Guild.

The Master said the formation of a new Branch was an historic occasion. He thanked Mr. Wheeler for all that he had done and wished him every success.

GRANT TO 'RINGING WORLD'

The honorary treasurer proposed that a grant of £20 be made to 'The Ringing World,' remarking that the journal had served the Guild well during the present year. Mr. C. Kinch seconded.

On being informed that the Guild had about £100 in hand at the present time, Mr. H. L. Roper proposed that the grant be raised to £25. This was seconded by Mr. F. Vickers and carried.

Mr. W. G. Wilson, on behalf of 'The Ringing World' Committee, thanked the Guild for its grant each year and particularly for raising it this year.

SERVICE BOOK

The Master said he had read the first draft of the Service Book prepared by Mr. D. Smith and wished to congratulate him on its production.

Mr. Smith replied that the project had been going on for a long time. The old book had a very strong Victorian flavour. The new book contained not only prayers from the old book, but also introduced prayers in a modern idiom, new prayers, a shortened form of service for meetings, hymns and an Office for probationers somewhat on the lines of that used for choirs. Miss Cross had suggested that the service be duplicated and sent out to the Branches for criticism before the final draft is printed.

The Master pointed out that before the book could be printed it had to receive the sanction of the Bishop.

Mr. Smith said he wrote to the Bishop when he first began the work and the Bishop had asked to be kept informed of the progress of the work.

The meeting agreed to duplicate 25 copies for each Branch.

NEXT AUTUMN MEETING

The meeting accepted the invitation of the Chipping Norton Branch for the next autumn meeting to be held at Burford on October 6th, 1962. Suggestions were invited for 1963, and Windsor was named. The honorary librarian said that this should be left to the East Berks and South Bucks Branch.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

This item was introduced to get the feeling of the meeting as to the value and type of course, if any, required. Speaking from experience, Mr. D. Smith thought the courses should be encouraged. A suggestion was made by Mr. P. Pearce of a mobile training team and giving instruction in either bell handling or method learning.

Mr. A. Diserens, who said he gained a lot of valuable experience at Radley, felt that the type of course needed was for instructors rather than beginners.

The meeting favoured day or half-day courses rather than residential, and it was finally decided on the suggestion of the honorary general treasurer to refer the whole matter to the Branch secretaries' meeting.

A YEARLY SURVEY

The honorary general secretary said that the Bishop of Dorchester had suggested that another survey of ringing in the diocese should be undertaken so that an estimate of what had been done could be assessed and further steps taken as necessary.

Mr. H. Lawrenson suggested that a survey should be made each year. This was supported by the honorary librarian, who asked that the form prepared by Mr. C. Clarke for the Banbury Branch be used. This was carried.

50 YEARS IN MINISTRY

Mr. D. Wheeler announced that Canon G. Dixon, a vice-president, had just completed 50 years in the ministry, and 40 as Rector of Waddesdon. It was decided to send him a letter of congratulations and the best wishes of the Guild.

APPROACH TO MR. J. BETJEMAN

Mr. H. Lawrenson said the Newbury Branch had suggested that Mr. J. Betjeman should be approached and asked to write a new hymn for the Guild, particularly as he was a past member. This was agreed to.

The vote of thanks was proposed by Mr. D. Wheeler and there was a half-hour break before tea, which was prepared by the Mothers' Union and Young Wives' Group. The service touch was rung by members of the North Bucks Branch and shortened Evensong was conducted by the Master and the address given by the Rector of Blechley.

OBITUARY

MR. C. C. BISHOP

One of the oldest ringers of the Rochester District of the Kent County Association, Mr. Cecil Charles Bishop, of Upchurch, has passed away. He joined the Association in 1905 and before he took part in public life he was a very keen peal ringer.

It was on Easier Monday, 1913, that he had the honour of ringing in four peals of Minor in a day. All the peals were in seven methods and were conducted by Mr. W. H. B. Wilkins. A start was made at 6.50 a.m. at St. Mary's, Upchurch, and this was followed by St. Mary's, Newington, Bobbing and Tunstall. Mr. Bishop rang the tenor to the last two peals. The ringers were W. J. Wood, sen., Cecil C. Bishop, William J. Hyland, William Nye, James Nye and W. H. B. Wilkins.

At Upchurch he was chairman of the parish council and a member of the Swale Rural District Council. An active member of the church, less than 36 hours before his death he was at choir practice.

In an address at the funeral service at Upchurch, on October 6th, the Vicar (the Rev. W. McNeille Bradshaw) said Mr. Bishop had a sense of public duty far beyond what they saw in many places.

MR. HORACE E. WERRETT

Tower captain and steeple-keeper at Norton for the last eight years, Mr. Horace Emlyn Werrett died suddenly after a short illness, aged 45 years.

A native of South Wales, he lived in Derbyshire during the war, where he did a lot of ringing, and then moved to Letchworth.

All his family worked very hard to augment Norton's three bells to eight, and when this had been done most of the teaching was his responsibility. He taught many people to ring, and at one time there was a full band of lady change ringers. This probably accounts for the comparatively small number of peals he rang, though they ranged from Plain methods to Spliced Surprise.

He was buried near his father and close to the tower he served, leaving his wife, their son, his mother and his brother. A memorial half-muffled quarter peal of Grandsire Triples was rung by his friends on October 1st.

THE REV. G. R. CHANNER

News that the Rev. G. R. Channer, Rector of Revelstoke, Devon, died suddenly on October 1st was received with great regret by all ringers, to whom he was a great friend. He welcomed and thoroughly enjoyed ringers' meetings at his church, whether of the Guild or Association. His loss is felt very deeply by members of the S.W. Branch of the Guild of Devonshire Ringers. LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

MUSIC IN CONTRAST

Dear Sir.—To Graham C. Grant. I would say that if open handstroke leads are being rung, then it is obvious to any listener outside the tower with a quarter of an ear which rows are hand and which back—if not then mix 56's and 65's, however you like, no one will be any the wiser.

The old controversy raged furiously some four or five years ago, but has died down in later years.

Personally, I feel that the occasional 65 at back, unresolved as it is usually, adds slightly to the music by virtue of its contrast to 56's.—Yours, etc.,

GILES B. THOMPSON.

Chorlton-cum-Hardy,
Manchester.

65's AT BACKSTROKE

Dear Sir.—Surely the answer to Mr. Grant's query re 65's at backstroke is to be found in Mr. Norman Chaddock's excellent introductory article 'Rhythm and Striking' ('Ringing World', September 1st). 'In ringing methods, the rhythm of the whole set of bells should be constant (i.e., 123456123456—123456123456), with equal intervals of about $\frac{1}{2}$ second between each succeeding note and an extra $\frac{1}{2}$ second for the open lead every other change.'

If this rhythm is adopted, although the listener outside the tower may not know the two changes making a pair are called 'handstroke' and 'backstroke' he will notice there is a difference between the two.

If 65 occurs at the end of a handstroke change it will be in the middle of a two-change sequence and so sound inoffensive; if it occurs at the end of a backstroke change it will occur at the end of the two-change and the rising small interval, rising indeed from the key tone of the ring of bells, will give an extremely unfinished effect, particularly to a musically-trained ear. If the final notes of the two-change sequence are 56, the natural fall to the key tone of the ring will give a finished, and therefore very pleasing, effect.—Yours faithfully,

R. J. CARLTON.

Willesborough, Ashford, Kent.

P.S.—If the bells are 'cartwheeled' I agree it doesn't matter what you ring.—R. J. C.

WHY? WHY?? WHY???

Dear Sir.—I was glad to see Mr. Grant's letter (page 648), as it shows at least one critical reader for 'Treble Bob.' There are many things connected with the Exercise which beg the question 'Why?'

'Why, for instance, Bob Major lead ends? Why are only two odd-bell methods normally practised on the higher numbers? Why is (or was) Cambridge Surprise more popular than Yorkshire? etc. The answer is often merely that things have grown up that way and become accepted.

I am not a musician, neither am I particularly musical. But, while I have no objection, when listening to 'Abide with me' or 'Land of Hope and Glory' or even 'Tiger Rag,' to variations on the less important notes to give variety to different verses or renderings, my ear expects to find the main notes of the tune remaining the same. And the 'tunes' to which we have become accustomed in our even-bell ringing have the most prominent notes in the order 56 (or 78, etc.) at backstroke. Sufficient variation is obtained by the alteration of the smaller bells. Hence, to many of us the 'tune' sounds right that way and wrong the other way.

There were articles in 'R.W.' not long ago to show that 65's (or their equivalent) are not regarded as unmusical. That may well be so, but when ringing I prefer the accustomed 'tune' and I am sure that beginners, for whom the article was written, find things complicated enough to justify the retention of the simpler 'tune.'—Yours faithfully,

WILFRID G. WILSON.

Ealing.

RINGING AT PERSHORE

Dear Sir.—I was horrified on opening a recent 'R.W.' to see the letter headed 'Ringing at Pershore.' As Ringing Master at Putney at the time referred to, I feel I must offer an unconditional apology to all Pershore ringers for the insult paid to them. Perhaps unknown to the two Putney ringers, the outing which they have so falsely castigated was organised by Mr. P. Cattermole, who has given great assistance at Putney, since he has been studying in London. Furthermore, I very much doubt if the outing was a Pershore Abbey outing. It appears that we at Putney have not learnt Christianity very well if we only use it to further our own spiteful ends.

To all Worcestershire ringers my sincere apologies.—Yours sincerely,

A. CLAYTON.

Putney.

AN OPPORTUNITY TO HELP

Dear Sir.—I wonder how many ringers appreciate the great opportunity offered to them at this time to make a real worth while Christian gift to a church overseas. I mean the church at Kilifi, in Kenya, where a local District Commissioner—Mr. Paul Kelly—himself a bell ringer, has done some really hard work for the Africans and settlers in helping to build the church and has insisted all the way through that the tower should be constructed to take six bells.

We are called upon at harvest time to contribute to the various missionary societies. We sometimes wonder (I know I do) where the money goes. Administration perhaps? Well now we do know where the money could go. To help a Christian society in East Africa to have some bells to ring. Africans love making a noise to rejoice. Let them do it in our way, with a ring of bells and ring out a Christian message to a troubled multi-racial world—that all at home do care and are prepared to help. The address is Mrs. Kelly, Kilifi Church, P.O. Box 29, Kilifi, Kenya.—Yours sincerely,

PAUL JONASON.

East Harling, Norfolk.

A BISHOP'S PLEA

Dear Sir.—I see in your issue of September 22nd that notices of peals rung in churches at Llanveigan and Knighton are listed under the Hereford Diocesan Guild. I write to point out that these churches are both in my diocese and we have a vigorous Swansea and Brecon Diocesan Guild. Perhaps you would kindly rectify this in future issues.—Yours sincerely, ✠ JOHN SWANSEA & BRECON.

NOT MENTIONED

Dear Sir.—In giving the continuation to the Bidding Prayer used at the recent enthronement in York Minster (which is really no more than 'E. & O.E.' at the foot of a bill), Mr. Walker was no doubt quoting from the Order of Service, and if so I would point out that in delivering the prayer Dr. Coggan added 'singers' to those given special mention. It was this which prompted my letter.

Ringers, while acting in the discharge of their duties, are not perhaps as ornamental as the choir, but they are just as useful and just as worthy of mention.—Yours sincerely,

E. BARNETT.

10, Kings Close, Crayford.

PREVIOUSLY REPORTED

Dear Sir.—The composition used for the peal of 5.088 Lincolnshire rung at Holy Trinity, Guildford, recently seems to have been a three-part arrangement of mine, published in 'The Ringing World' some time in 1955 or '56.

A fortnight after the figures appeared I was told with some force that it was William Barton's peal, not mine. I grovelled abjectly by return of post. The two arrangements are, in fact, alternative forms of each other, and Barton had the idea first.—Yours faithfully,

H. POYNER.

Shrewsbury.

TESTING 6-5's AT BACKSTROKE

Dear Sir.—Like your recent correspondent, I have been brought up to believe that 6-5's at backstroke in Minor were to be avoided owing to the 'unfinished' musical quality of such rows. As these are followed immediately by other changes, just as if they had occurred at handstroke, it may be that these do not matter overmuch to the listener. To test both sides of the argument I, being required to conduct two peals of Delight Minor of very similar construction, deliberately rang one peal with all 5-6's at backstroke as usual, and the other one with numerous 6-5's, including a 720 (C.C.C. 78) where these even occur at lead-ends!

The opinion of the band was that the peal with 6-5's produced much more entertaining music, especially where rounds at handstroke seemed inevitable until the row came up with only one pair reversed as it were in the nick of time: it kept us guessing what would arrive next! We will never again avoid a Minor composition merely because it produces backstroke 6-5's.—Yours sincerely,

DEREK P. JONES.

Burton-on-Trent.

PETERBOROUGH DIOCESAN GUILD

Towcester Branch held its quarterly meeting on September 30th at the recently restored church at Easton Neston, this being the first there for about 40 years. The service was conducted by Canon D. H. Curtis (Vicar), assisted by the Rev. R. G. Richards (president) and the Rev. J. M. Warwick.

About 60 members sat down to an excellent tea provided by Major the Hon. J. B. Fermor-Hesketh in the grandstand of Towcester race course. At the meeting members were informed that Mr. G. Atkins was leaving the district and he was unanimously elected an honorary member.

Ringing on the eight bells (one of the finest rings in the county) continued until 9 p.m. in a variety of methods, from rounds to Bristol Surprise Major

A social evening followed and a hearty vote of thanks was given to Major Fermor-Hesketh, for his very generous hospitality.

With a £10 collection at harvest services, Athelington, Suffolk (population 40), has inaugurated a fund for the restoration of its three bells, described by Raven as a 'pretty little ring, "maiden" and in good tune.' For 18 months the bells have been silent, resting on the belfry floor.

TOM LOCK'S PARTY TOUR DEVON

FOR the keen ringer, and being one who finds pleasure in spending a whole week of his annual holidays amongst the bells, the anticipation of and preparation for a tour holds a certain amount of excitement. To have the tour in Devon adds to the interest and excitement, for the people who live in this south-western part of the country seem to be able to enjoy many of the good things which life holds for them. One ringer was actually heard to say that if it were possible he would come to Devon every year for a ringing tour. However, the party on this particular tour, arranged by Tom Lock, was last in Devon in 1949, so the visit was by no means out of turn.

The touring party numbered twenty-seven (ringers and non-ringers) and we were assisted by three of the king-pins of the Devon Guild—Aubrey Bennett, Norman Mallett and Fred Wreford, and others who knew of our whereabouts.

With headquarters in Exeter, where Parliament Street, varying between 35 and 45 inches wide, is believed to be the narrowest street in the world, the tour took place during the first week in September and the programme opened with successful peal attempts at Exeter St. Thomas', where Rev. Roger O. Fry was the first to call, 'That is all' to Double Norwich Court Bob Major and at Newton St. Cyres, where Alick Cutler completed his 50th peal of Yorkshire S. Major.

One the day following Sunday, September 3rd, we made our presence known to as many of the local inhabitants as we were able. By ringing for various services at the Cathedral, St. David's (twice), St. Mary's and Heavitree (twice) we, with the local ringers, found the hours of daylight well occupied. At St. Mark's we had the pleasure of ringing Grandsire Triples with the Vicar, Rev. C. J. Poulton, and members of his local band.

For Evenson at Heavitree a quarter peal of London S. Major, reported in a previous issue of this journal, was rung as an 88th birthday compliment to George H. Williams, an ex-Birmingham ringer who has been living and ringing at Heavitree for the past ten years.

DUKE OF EDINBURGH'S AWARD

There are other interesting things happening at this well known tower, as evidenced by some scale drawings hanging on the walls of the ringing chamber. Miss Patt Woodland is winning her way through the Church Bell Ringing (Campanology) Section of the Duke of Edinburgh's Award Scheme for Girls. She has nearly completed the first level by having rung rounds, raised and lowered a bell unaided, rung treble to two standard methods, demonstrated parts of a bell and how it is rung, demonstrated splicing of a bell rope and attended Sunday ringing and practice regularly for the preceding six months. There is a second level entailing a further six months, and the emphasis of the award is on genuine effort and individual progress.

On Monday we journeyed in a northerly direction to Broadclyst (six methods spliced), Cullompton (Cambridge S. Royal) and Uffculme (Yorkshire S.). Those who were not peal ringing moved on to Thoverton for an hour's exercise.

Whilst Bristol S. was being rung at Heavitree on Tuesday morning the remainder travelled along a Roman road to Alphington and then retraced their steps to call at Exeter St. Thomas', where it is recorded on a board John R. Hayman vice Edwin Shepherd rang the sixth in the first peal of Grandsire Triples there. It was noted also that whilst the Rev. Wm. Ellicombe (1780-1830 approximately) was Rector of Alphington six ringers sheltering in the belfry from a thunderstorm were struck by lightning. During the afternoon an attempt for a peal of four methods spliced was made at Witheridge, but this came to grief after 24 hours.

RECORDER v. T.V.

South Molton was visited before we returned to headquarters. In this establishment, by the way, because of no alternative room being available we had to persuade the other occupants of the lounge that a demonstration on handbells and a playback of our ringing at the various towers on Norman Mallett's tape recorder was preferable to watching the television screen—we did not win every time, however.

The party was split up for most of the next day for ten ringers plus made a distant journey to Plymouth, where, at St. Andrew's, an attempt for a peal of Yorkshire S. Royal was lost again after 24 hours. Those who were left half-way were not troubled by the human element for, in the morning, seven extents of Minor were rung at Dean Prior, where the bells ring out in memory of Robert Herrick, the poet (1591-1674), for they were hung in 1929 as part of his memorial.

In the afternoon a five thousand of Cambridge S. was completed at Buckfastleigh. It is not often that a first peal is recorded on a ringing tour, but this was duly accomplished at Dean Prior by Martin Lock after a very creditable performance. The Parish Church at Buckfastleigh has a very high situation and one of the ways to approach it is to climb up 195 steps. Having actually surmounted this obstacle we were able to hear quite clearly the monks, assisted by members of the Devon Guild, ringing Buckfast Abbey bells at their weekly practice.

A PERSONALITY!

A near crisis developed at the breakfast table on Thursday morning, when, on opening the additional copies of 'The Ringing World,' it was found that within our company was the Personality of the Exercise. One member threatened to return his own copy to the 'R.W.' office unopened! Poor Arthur's leg must have been pulled two inches longer, but we hear that he did not have to get a size larger in hats. He claimed that his wife gave the details whilst he was abroad on business.

Peal failure number three came to us later in the morning when at Clyst Honiton after three hours' ringing two bells had shifted in Pudsey S. There was competition in endurance at the early stages of this attempt for the hand had to overcome the sudden noise of jet planes, which seemed to be flying just above the tower. However, the day witnessed two successes. Rutland S. at Ottery St. Mary and Cambridge S. at Woodbury. Ottery St. Mary is, as quoted in 'The King's England' series of books by Arthur Mee, an exquisite church—to be seen to be believed—with two towers. Samuel Taylor Coleridge, author of 'And while old Otter's steeple rings,' was born here, his father being vicar and schoolmaster. The peal at Woodbury was faster than it would normally have been, but the band was pushed for time because of a choir practice. Whilst this peal was in progress others visited Sidbury for a ring and a real Devonshire tea.

PROCESSIONAL CROSS FROM ZEPPELIN

Friday's first peal attempt also ended prematurely. Bovey Tracey bells were stood up after ringing Tavistock S. for nearly 14 hours. This church, above the river Bovey, apparently replaces another church which was one of three built by Sir Wm. Tracey as an act of penance for his share in the murder of Becket. The rest of the party visited Ashburton and Ipplepen for short rings. During the afternoon two peals of Lincolnshire S. were recorded—at Wolborough and at Chagford. The church at Chagford contains a processional cross made from the aluminium of a Zeppelin brought down at Cuffley in 1916, the first to be brought down in England. The other scheduled call was at Moretonhampstead, where Rev. A. D. Coleridge, a nephew of the late Canon Coleridge, is Rector.

Saturday morning's attempt was at Exminster, where the eighth conductor of the week was successfully employed in calling London S. And he created a personal record when, in the afternoon, he conducted a second peal in the same day, this being three methods spliced at Newton St. Cyres, which we were privileged to revisit whilst the local band were on their annual outing. The patron saints of Newton St. Cyres, Julitta and Cyr, were mother and a young son, who suffered torture because they were Christians. Others of the party attended the Devon Guild meeting at Tedburn St. Mary and Whitestone, bringing the list of towers for the week up to twenty-nine.

So ended another pleasant and successful tour, for which we are indebted to all incumbents and ringers, especially the king-pins, concerned, who so kindly put at our disposal their bells for our use. We hope to visit Herefordshire and Shropshire for our tour during the same week next year.

RAILWAYMEN'S GUILD VISIT SOUTHEND-ON-SEA

THE autumn meeting of the Railwaymen's Guild was held at Southend-on-Sea on September 30th. Over 40 members gathered to take part in the day's programme, and although 17 apologies were received from those who were unable to attend all regions were represented. The weather was kind and helped to keep the excellent arrangements made by Mr. Roy Tomlin.

The few who arrived on Friday evening enjoyed the privilege of joining the local practice at St. Thomas of Canterbury, Brentwood, and afterwards saw Southend illuminations.

The first tower on Saturday morning was Holy Trinity, Rayleigh (8), where ringing was scheduled to commence at 11 a.m. During the hour spent here a high standard of ringing (and this includes all the ringing throughout the day) was really enjoyed by everyone. After refreshments, which were something other than jellied eels or oysters, the next tower visited was St. Augustine's, Thorpe Bay (another grand eight), and all too soon these were lowered in peal, and a move was made for St. Mary the Virgin, Prittlewell (10), where the bells were very soon ringing to Stedman and Grandsire Caters, Cambridge Royal and even Duffield Major—not forgetting Bob Royal and Kent.

Tea at 5 p.m. which was laid on at the Park Cafe, Prittlewell, followed.

The Master, Mr. Bertram Kynaston, in proposing a vote of thanks, expressed his pleasure with the day's programme, and thanked Mr. Roy Tomlin for the perfect arrangements made for the Guild's visit to Southend. He also thanked the incumbents of the churches for the use of the bells, tower captains and all those who had helped to make the meeting a success.

Supporting the vote of thanks, Mr. Syd Foskett expressed his pleasure at seeing with them Mrs. Seagar and Miss Hogg and hoped to see them again at the next meeting.

Before retiring to Prittlewell Parish Church for further ringing all were reminded of the A.G.M. at Derby on the last Saturday in April, 1962. J. A. H.

Marlborough Branch Outing

Two coaches were needed to accommodate all who participated in the Marlborough Branch outing on September 30th, which was organised by the Branch secretary (Mr. Arthur Palmer), assisted by the chairman (Mr. George Newman).

Heavy rain was falling at 8.30 a.m. when the party left for Lyneham, Wilts, where good use was made of the six bells. Touches of Stedman and Grandsire Doubles and Bob Minor were enjoyed at Kingston St. Michael, and lunch followed at Chippenham.

After ringing on the nice six at Bathford, a disappointment awaited us at Bathaston, as we were not able to ring. Following tea in Bath, St. Mark's and St. Matthew's churches were visited and in each tower 45 minutes' ringing was possible.

On the way home thirsts were quenched at Devizes and an excellent and satisfying day ended around 10.30 p.m., with thanks to incumbents and tower captains and not least to Arthur and George.

PACKWOOD BELLRINGERS' TOUR

PACKWOOD bellringers this year selected the Lake District for their tour and set off in the early hours of September 3rd, considerably augmented by ringing friends.

The first tower was Brereton, in Cheshire, where we rang for Holy Communion. At Sandbach, Cheshire the local ringers very generously let us take over the service ringing for Matins. An electricity power cut, resulting from a thunderstorm, caused us to ring in relative darkness. The ten bells at Kendal were rung for Evensong, and once again the locals stood down for us. Here an advance party of three joined the main party of nine, after a breakdown on the Lancaster By-pass.

Keswick was the centre for the tour and we travelled daily from there. On Monday, the first tower was Bridekirk. From there we went on to Aspatria—a much renovated church with a pleasant ring of eight. The six at Thursby proved rather a handful, but our efforts were much rewarded when the Vicar and his wife invited us into the Vicarage and provided us with a most excellent tea. At very short notice we were given permission to ring at Brampton. We ended our ring here with rounds for a local 94 year old ringer. Carlisle Cathedral practice concluded the day's programme.

TREBLE CREATES PROBLEM

Bowness-on-Windermere provided a fine ring with which to begin Tuesday's ringing. Many of our party were almost too tall to ring at Shap, where the roof of the ringing chamber is rather low. From Shap we journeyed to Bampton, where the fact that the treble strikes at least twice at every stroke did not facilitate the ringing. The eight at Kirkby Stephen were a considerable improvement, and the six at Appleby went very well to everything attempted. Penrith bells were undoubtedly one of the finest eights on the tour. Great Salkeld was the day's last tower and here we were joined by the local band.

Wednesday's ringing began at Cocker mouth on a very fine eight. At Cleator Moor we were joined by Mr. Tembey, who acted as guide for the rest of the day. Egremont, Hensingham, Workington and Crosthwaite, Cumberland, were the other towers of the day—all have eight bells and all are very fine.

The first tower on Thursday was Crosthwaite, Westmorland, where the Vicar had laid on a welcome cup of coffee for us at the 'local.' Heversham was the next tower, followed by Burton-in-Kendal and Kirkby Lonsdale. A trip over the county boundary into Lancashire saw us ringing at Hornby and Melling; finally into Yorkshire, where that method came round successfully at Sedbergh.

IN LANCASTER

Friday's ringing began on Langdale's excellent ring of six bells. Our advance party had not been idle and after staying in Lancaster overnight, on their way up, Lancaster Roman Catholic Cathedral and Lancaster Priory were available for us on Friday afternoon. Amble-side bells were a fine eight with which to end the day's ringing.

Saturday's ringing took us first to the fine eight at Arlecdon. St. Bees and Broughton-in-Furness were excellent bells with which to continue the day's good start. During the afternoon a visit was paid to the Lancashire Association's meeting at Dalton-in-Furness and Barrow-in-Furness. Ulverston and Flookburgh concluded the day.

On the return journey on Sunday we rang at Hawkshead for Matins—yet another excellent eight. At Liverpool we lost two of the party, but for the benefit of the remaining seven ringing at Liverpool St. Nicholas' for Evensong began an hour earlier than usual.

Methods rung on the tour were: Grandfire from Doubles to Cinques, Plain Bob from Doubles to Royal, and Stedman from Doubles to Caters. Minor methods included Kent, Oxford, Cambridge, London, St. Clement's, Double Court and Little Bob. Major methods included Little Bob, Kent, St. Clement's, Yorkshire, Bristol and Double Norwich.

An enjoyable week was spent and we wish to thank incumbents, tower captains and all those who met and helped us. Thanks again, to our three never tiring drivers.

A BRITISH COLUMBIA BRIDE

On July 8th a wedding took place in Christ Church Cathedral, Victoria, British Columbia, of Miss Margaret Horne and Mr. E. J. Moore. Margaret first learnt to ring in 1948, at the age of 13, and has been a regular ringer ever since then.

She has taken part in the ringing on many special occasions, including the visit of the Lord Archbishop of Canterbury, when he was so pleased with the ringing of the Cathedral bells that he asked to meet the ringers, and said how pleased he was to learn that the Guild included lady ringers.

Margaret took part in the ringing when Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip visited Victoria, and for the service ringing when Princess Margaret attended Matins.

For Margaret Horne's wedding, ringing commenced one hour before the service and the bells were rung again and fired as the bride and bridegroom left the Cathedral. The Very Rev. Brian Whitlow officiated in the presence of many guests. The reception, after the service, took place at the Empress Hotel.

The ringers who rang for the wedding were: Dr. Longridge, Ian Izard, Margaret Izard, A. Izard, E. W. Izard, Dr. Batten, Douglas Boniface, V. Donaldson, L. Kerridge, Mrs. Guthrie, B. Guthrie.

LADIES IN THE BELFRY

To the Editor, Dear Sir,—I have read the letters of 'E. J. B.' and others re the subject of ladies in belfries, and these, Sir, are my deductions: (1) That the person who would suggest anything wrong just because there happens to be a female in the belfry must have distorted views; (2) that that particular person is not fit for the society of any female outside his own family, and certainly should not be allowed to wear the garb of a profession which stands for the uplifting and not the damning of human nature; (3) that any lady ringer would show more brainpower than the person who suggests anything wrong, or the person who says that females should be kept out of belfries and middle class men brought in. If the interdict that devised the objections is a sample of what we might then expect, may all belfries be preserved from it. I think that is sufficient to sum up the whole case. It would be interesting to know what some of the clergy think about the matter. They seem very reluctant to say anything. If there is any defence let them defend the accuser. If not, denounce him.—Yours sincerely, Thos. Smith, Goole.

STRATTON, CORNWALL.—On Sept. 17th, 1260 Grandfire Triples: J. W. Sangwin 1, H. Heard 2, W. G. Lavers 3, H. Stacey 4, W. Hibbert (cond.) 5, F. White 6, C. Taylor 7, G. Halford 8. For Evensong.

BRISTOL, 1961

RECENTLY a ringer from Australia was planning to visit Britain for a period and wishing to do as much ringing as possible whilst here consulted 'Dove' to see where the most number of bells could be found in a small area. He naturally came to Bristol. There are, in fact, 27 rings of bells within four miles of the city centre, which is more than there are in the whole of Australia; for that matter it is more than there are in the whole of Scotland and five of our English counties as well. There are more rings of ten within half a mile of the city centre than can be found in the whole of fifteen English counties.

What better place could there be for holding a ringing festival? There is something for all tastes: a twelve, tens, eights and sixes; heavy bells and light ones; fine examples of the art of the 18th century bell founder (St. Stephen's and Westbury-on-Trym, for example) and also examples of very recent renovation and recasting at the Cathedral and Filton. On October 28th there will be an opportunity for connoisseurs of bells to come and taste these delights in a full day's ringing programme, during which almost all the towers will be open to visitors.

Bell ringing is a very public art and a ringing festival in a city as full of bells as Bristol must cater for the public as well as the ringers. The day therefore includes lunch with the Deputy Lord Mayor and the Archdeacon of Bristol, as well as Evensong at the Cathedral. A special feature of the day's activities will be a public lecture on ringing given by Mr. Frederick Sharpe, president of the Central Council, to which not only ringers but also members of the general public are invited. This will certainly be worth hearing.

We are looking forward to seeing you on October 28th.

HERTS COUNTY ASSOCIATION Northern District

The place for the quarterly meeting was St. Ippolyts (so many ways of spelling it that few agree) on October 7th. Ringing began promptly at 3, to speed a newly married couple on the way.

The Vicar, the Rev. E. A. Quinn, conducted the service, and Miss C. Taylor, the organist, played a brief prelude based on rounds and call changes before the last hymn.

The usual excellent tea had been provided by the Harris family. Sixteen ringers were able to do full justice to such a spread. Mr. L. B. Scoot was chairman for the business meeting. The elections of the following non-resident life members were confirmed: Messrs. D. Eames, V. Mephram and H. Tembey. Ordinary members were reminded that subscriptions must be paid quickly.

Two deaths were announced, a ringing member, Mr. H. E. Werrett, captain at Norton, and an associate member, Mr. E. G. Sanderson, churchwarden of Norton. The members stood in silence. More ringers came later, and the pleasant meeting, held in surprisingly good weather, ended about 8 p.m. J.S.

THREE PEALS IN 50 YEARS AT TORQUAY

Prior to 1911, the Church of St. Saviour, Tor Mohun, the parish church of Torquay, Devon, contained three bells, but for some years only two were in use as the other was cracked. In 1911 three new light bells were cast by Warner and Sons, and the cracked bell was recast. The six were then hung in a metal frame by Aggett and Sons, of Chagford, Devon. Later that year it was found that one of the two 'old' bells was cracked and this was recast by Warner and Sons. Therefore the ring consists of three bells cast in 1911 (Nos. 1, 2 and 3), two recast in 1911 (Nos. 4 and 5) and the tenor dated 1623.

Three peals have been rung on these bells, the first in 1956, and the one just rung to celebrate the 50th anniversary of the restoration of the bells is the first to have had three members of the local band taking part. A new change ringing band was formed two years ago and this was the first peal for two of this band, Keith Fursdon (16) and Neal Forester (15).

MR. GEORGE FEARN'S PEAL WEEK

LINCOLNSHIRE was chosen as the venue of George E. Fearn's 11th annual tour. This was partly because it was new territory for the company and also to satisfy the Brum Maestro's demand for 'more potatoes, please.'

The journey to Lincoln was made by car and motor cycle on Saturday, September 30th, and, as in previous years, Bristol was chosen for the first attempt, which was at St. Giles', Lincoln. On this fine Rudhall eight (which came from the old St. Peter at Arches Church in the city) our first peal was rung. A quick move to the house of Jack and Betty Millhouse for tea, and then on to the Cathedral, where Peter Border's shortened peal of Cambridge Maximus was enjoyed. By the time headquarters at Moor Lodge, Branston, had been reached, we felt a satisfactory beginning had been made.

On Sunday morning the Cathedral company was joined for service ringing. In the afternoon we went to Ewerby, in lovely Haverholme Park. Cambridge Royal was rung on bells which are deep toned for their weight (15½ cwt. in D).

LOCALS JOIN IN

Lincolnshire ringers joined in four peals, which were rung on Monday. London was as usual the morning method, and one peal was rung on the Mears eight at Sibsey, where it was impossible to avoid the sunshine streaming in the four large windows, and the other on the light eight at Bicker. The efforts of the band at Bicker had been tape recorded and the ringers enjoyed listening to the play-back as they descended the tower. After lunch at Boston, near the Stump of St. Botolph's, Rutland was rung at Sutterton and Donington, both good modern rings from Loughborough and Croydon respectively.

On Tuesday we travelled to the north of the county to Burton-on-Stather and were met by Mr. George Moody, the Branch secretary; London was successfully rung on this crisp eight. Afterwards we were met by Mr. Ron Chafer, who directed us to lunch at the Ferry Boat Inn.

A pleasant ride took us along the Humber bank to Barrow-on-Humber, where Mr. and Mrs. Crowder and their family welcomed us. Happily it was Mr. and Mrs. Crowder's silver wedding day and we were able to compliment them by a peal of six spliced. After enjoying the hospitality of the Crowders, we hustled back to Scothorne, where George and Norah Randles entertained us.

Our four towers on Wednesday were in the far south of the county. London was rung and enjoyed at Long Sutton, which is nearly 100 miles from Barrow-on-Humber and reminded us of the size of the county. Cambridge was rung at Pinchbeck, nearby, where Miss Anne Dernley stepped in at short notice to ring her first peal. Holbeach (with its long draught and good sound eight) was visited later for Bristol, while George Fearn and Peter Border joined the local band at Spalding for Lincolnshire.

FIRST FAILURE

Wednesday's late night was blamed for our first failure at Epworth, in the west of the county. We did not settle down in the first twenty minutes so a rest and lunch put us on form again for a good peal of Lincolnshire at Gainsborough in the afternoon. Returning to Lincoln we met the Lincoln Cathedral company at their local hostelry after their practice.

Edenham's well kept bells and belfry were appreciated on Friday for London. Lunch was taken at Folkingham and reminiscences were exchanged here with Mr. C. T. A. Bradley. Yorkshire was the method for the afternoon and peals were rung at Heydour and Caythorpe, preceding their harvest thanksgiving services.

Our final London was rung on Saturday morning, after a short trip to Wasingborough. Afterwards the company divided when some of the party went to Hull and the remainder tried for Cambridge on the fine bells at Bottesford, in Leicestershire. Unfortunately the tenor bell rope became untucked after an hour, and though a great effort was made for another hour we had to stop when purchase on the rope became impossible.

One again, an enjoyable week—on the social side we had great moments—a dancing exhibition by our leader, for instance. An anxious moment—or longer—ten minutes, when we were locked in Edenham tower after our peal was over. The lady who locked us in forgot she had done so! Personal records show that one of the company rang his 100th, two their 250th and one his 500th peal.

Our thanks go to the incumbents, ringers and friends in Lincolnshire. Their generous welcome gave an enjoyable and successful week.

THE LADIES' GUILD

The Central District of the Ladies' Guild held its meeting at the riverside Church of St. Mary's, Putney, on September 30th. During the afternoon an all ladies touch of Stedman Triples was rung.

The church was very tastefully decorated ready for the harvest festival and made a lovely setting for the short Guild service, which was conducted by the curate. Hymn singing was accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Lock.

We were the guests of the Putney ringers to a 'harvest festival' tea in the Vestry Hall. At the business meeting a letter was read from the Southern District, inviting members to Portsmouth on November 4th, when there would be ringing at St. Mary's, Portsea, in the afternoon and on the Cathedral bells in the evening. One new member was elected—Miss Susan Frost, of St. Albans. E. S.

At the Oxford Guild autumn meeting at Blechley on October 7th tributes were paid to the memory of Mr. Harry Turner, of Simpson, Bucks, who died last week at the age of 82. For 60 years he had been a faithful ringer at this tower.

Formed in 1959, the new band at St. Peter's, Droitwich Spa, has made considerable progress this summer. Friday practices are well attended and there is regular Sunday service ringing. On harvest festival Sunday two quarters were scored and Grandsire rung before 8 a.m. Communion. Special thanks are recorded to Mr. W. Raxter for his help on practice nights and in the band's nocturnal wanderings into rural Worcestershire.

Watford Grammar Schools' Society rang handbells all the way up the A5 on their outing on September 23rd.

Miss V. Relf had her name spelt wrongly in the account of the Kent County Association dinner (page 679)—a poor reward for her excellent work as organiser. Our regrets.

Two peals were rung in honour of the 21st birthday of Miss Carol Fernley, one of the young ladies who have brought prestige to Cheshire's enthusiastic juniors.

Correction.—The peal at Bredons Norton, rung on September 5th and printed on page 633, consisted of three extents of Cambridge Surprise and two extents each of Beverley and Surfleet Surprise.

According to a letter quoted at the Oxford Guild autumn meeting, Mr. Russell Young hopes to bring a party of boys over from the United States for the Oxford Guild festival in 1962.

By special request, a band of ladies drawn from the Western District of the Ladies' Guild rang for the Almondsbury Mothers' Union Deanery Festival on October 4th at Filton Church, Bristol. This ring of six has recently been rehung.

His friends in the Exercise will note the progress of Mr. W. Hibbert in ringing his first quarter of DOUBLES! This took place at Kingsclere, Hants, and he was one of five who made this excursion into a new realm. For three of the band (aged 13, 15 and 15) it was their first quarter. With the fatherly eye of Mr. Hibbert upon them, their advancement in the Exercise can be looked forward to with interest.

BELFRY GOSSIP

A great friend of Sheffield Cathedral ringers, Mr. S. R. Pentecost, has retired after 41 years as head verger. His retirement was marked by a quarter peal rung on October 1st which was also a compliment to Miss Barbara Elizabeth Long (daughter of Mr. R. J. Long, Cathedral ringer) and Mr. A. E. Hawksworth on their wedding. The ringing also coincided with harvest thanksgiving service.

Mrs. Mary C. Poyner is the first lady to ring a peal on Ellesmere, Shropshire, bells.

Our Australian readers will note the thrill of two Adelaide ringers (C. H. Bagot and B. R. Cox) in notching a quarter of Caters (their first) at St. Clement Danes'.

'Nor would we wish church bells to be severely controlled: few enough now hear the chime and come to church on time.'—'East Anglian Daily Times' editorial, September 25th.

As a birthday compliment to Mr. Harry Moss, Ringing Master at St. Mary's, Diss, 720 Plain Bob Doubles was rung at Blo-Norton, Norfolk.

First hung in 1833 and last overhauled in 1894, the bells of St. Mary's, Diss, are now receiving attention from Messrs. John Taylor and Co., of Loughborough.

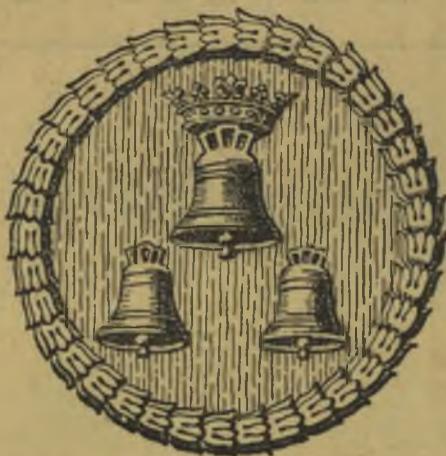

Mr. Clive M. Smith, of Lichfield, inquires if there are any other change-ringers besides himself who take a practical interest in the playing of chimes or carillons either in this country or abroad.

Well-known ringers (we might say personalities) assembled at Holy Trinity, Hull, on October 7th, for a peal of Yorkshire Surprise Maximus, so that the peal band could ring for the morning service on October 8th, at which the new Archbishop of York preached before the Lord Mayor and members of the City Council.

An open day at Rotherham on September 30th resulted in 500 members of the public making the not-too-easy ascent to the bells and ringing room. Almost £13 was collected for church funds. In the evening 50 members of the public watched the local band ring Caters and Plain Bob Royal.

GUILD of DEVONSHIRE RINGERS South-West Branch

The autumn meeting of the S.W. Branch was held at Plympton St. Maurice on September 30th, when some 50 ringers were present, and were representative of several other Branches in the county.

The service was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. Sholto-Douglas), and as there was no organist the Rector also proved himself quite an expert in this department. He extended a hearty welcome to all present and said he always admired the loyalty of the ringers in their service to the church. He had learnt to ring, but really never made the grade.

The business meeting was presided over by the chairman, Mr. H. H. Thomas (Emmanuel, Plymouth). The gathering stood in sympathy with the relatives of the late Preb. E. V. Cox (late president of the Guild), Mrs. Myers (mother of T. F. and W. Myers, St. Andrew's) and Mrs. Andrews (wife of the Rev. J. H. Andrews, who a few days before her death was elected president of the Guild). A cordial welcome was extended to all visitors, particularly one from Manchester.

The secretary was asked to write and congratulate the Rev. J. H. Andrews, of Chittlehampton, on his election as president of the Guild. Mr. W. G. Lavers, of Plympton St. Maurice, was congratulated on being elected a vice-president of the Guild, the chairman stating there was no one more worthy of this honour in the Branch. Miss J. Patterson, of Plympton St. Maurice, was elected a member. A letter was read from Mr. Aubrey Bennett, as to a proposed visit to Loughborough in May, and any interested were asked to contact him.

A discussion took place as to proceeds of sale of handbells bequeathed to the Guild by the late president, for use in the instruction fund, and the feelings of the Branch were noted by the representatives on the General Committee.

Touches of Stedman and Grandsire Triples, Plain Bob and rounds were rung during the afternoon and evening under the direction of the Ringing Master (Mr. T. G. Myers).

Hearty votes of thanks were accorded to the Rector, the energetic young captain, Mr. D. Farnham, and his ringers, for what they always did to make the gatherings at Plympton such a success, and to the ladies for such an excellent tea. H. H. T.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD

The quarterly meeting of the Dorchester Branch was held at Charminster on September 16th, when ringing took place on the recently augmented eight bells. Many expressed their satisfaction at the job done by Messrs. Taylors.

The service was conducted by the Vicar (Canon P. Anderson) and in his address he referred to the work of the late Archdeacon of Sherborne, Ven. J. C. Chute, who was for some time vice-chairman of the Branch and vice-president of the Guild.

Tea was served in the Village Hall by the Charminster ringers. The meeting was conducted by the chairman, Rev. C. E. C. Brinkworth, and members stood in silence in memory of Archdeacon Chute and Mr. J. Squire, a former captain of St. Peter's, Dorchester, who had died since the last meeting. Miss K. Adams, of Cattistock, was elected a member.

Next meeting, annual, St. Peter's, Dorchester, January 20th. Branch practices (subject to confirmation): Puddletown, October 7th; Cheney, October 21st; Leigh, November 4th; Upwey, November 18th; St. Peter's, Dorchester, December 2nd; Bere Regis, December 16th; Fordington, December 30th.

BELLS THAT HAVE MADE HISTORY

The Emperor Bell Of Cologne

A BELL with a chequered history, and perhaps the most famous bell in Germany, is the Emperor Bell of Cologne. It hangs in the south west tower of Cologne Cathedral and was originally cast from French guns captured during the Franco-German campaign, and presented by the German Emperor to the committee charged with the work of completing that Cathedral. It was cast by Herr Andreas Hamm at Frankenthal on October 3rd, 1874, after two failures on August 19th, 1873, and November 13th of that year.

It is 10ft. 8in. in height, 11ft. 2in. diameter and weighs 52,500 German pounds (over 25 tons). The clapper is 9ft. 10in. long and weighs 1,530 lb., and it is the heaviest bell hung for swinging ringing. The six arms forming the crown are decorated with angels' heads, and end where they join the bell in lions' feet. It bears a long inscription which—translated to English—reads:—

'William, the Most Illustrious Emperor of Germany, and King of Prussia, in pious remembrance of the heavenly aid granted him in the fortunate course and conclusion of the last French war, has ordered, after the restoration of the German Empire, a bell to be cast from captured cannon, of the weight of 50,000 lb., which is to be suspended in the house of God, now nearly completed. In accordance with this pious desire of the victorious prince, the society formed for the completion of this cathedral has caused it to be cast, under the Roman Pontiff, Pius IX, and the Archbishop of Cologne, Paul Melchers, in the year of our Lord 1874.'

Under the figure of St. Peter is the following:—

'Send I with brazen lips to the peoples heavenly message,

Souls upward soar, leaving earth; join, full of ardour, in song.

Thou, who through my deep voice of the fane the portals wide open'st

Ope thou of heaven the gate, heavenly guardian, as well.'

On the reverse side is the German Imperial coat of arms, beautifully executed, with this verse:—

'Emperor Bell I am named,
The Emperor's name make famed:
On holy ward I stand,
For German Fatherland.
I pray: O God grant it hence
Peace, welfare, and defence!'

In the first-named inscription is also the arch-episcopal coat of arms. During the Great War (1914-18) this great bell was consigned to the melting pot to make 'munitions of war.' In 1925, however, a new bell of about the same weight and design was cast to replace it.

In more recent times (1950) a great bell was cast by Gillett and Johnston, of Croydon, of the weight of slightly over 9½ English tons, and with a diameter of 8ft. 2in. It is of the note E, which is about the same pitch as Big Ben. This great bell, whose inscription round the sound bow reads 'That this World under God shall have a new birth of Freedom,' is now in the Rathaus tower at Schöneberg, West Berlin.

THE PETERBOROUGH GUILD

THIS week-end the focus of ringing generally has been on the Peterborough Guild, and at Northampton there was a large gathering of members to support the first dinner-dance held by the Guild. The gathering had a preponderance of youth—a healthy sign—and although it might be said that the speeches were delivered to a far larger audience than those present, touches of lightness held the attention.

The Peterborough is a large Guild of some 1,200 members operating through 11 Branches. Founded in 1924, it was built on a solid foundation of a number of old ringing Societies. The tradition of these early Societies was maintained last year, when more peals than usual were rung. Northamptonshire is a county that abounds with five- and six-bell towers—my Ringers' Guide gives 73 of each, but that figure is not now claimed as accurate. It is not surprising, therefore, to find that of the 109 peals rung 70 were in five- and six-bell towers. Generally speaking, the Doubles rung were multi-method, but it would be safe to say that in these the ringers were from the Guild's own people.

The peal list contains 22 peals of Surprise Major and five of Surprise Minor. Of the Surprise Major peals, six of them were the product of the week organised by Mr. G. E. Fearn, and in another six the composition of the band was predominantly from outside. Only one peal on ten bells was rung—Cambridge Royal at Kettering. Ten-bell ringing is very limited in the county, with only two towers offering such facilities.

Royal occasions accounted for quite a number of peals. The birth of Prince Andrew was honoured by peals at Naseby, Potterspurty, Moulton, Spratton, Deene, Staverton, Whiston and Daventry, and the wedding of Princess Margaret and Mr. Armstrong-Jones with peals at Daventry, St. Edmund's (Northampton), Wicken, Naseby, Stanford, Grafton Regis, Oxendon and West Haddon.

The story of the year will be more fully told next week with our report of the dinner.

THE NEW FORMAT

I think 'The Ringing World' is better with the reading matter at the front. As it was before, it seemed as if the paper was printed principally for those who rang peals and the rest of the items just to fill up.—H. T. R.

Congratulations to the brave soul who actually moved the peal columns! I note comments are invited. Here's mine: It's much more encouraging to the non-peal ringing fraternity to take the 'R.W.' if it doesn't start with a welter of peals.—K. S. B. Croft.

I don't like the 'R.W.' in its 'new look.' It is too much like it was during the ban when there were no peals to report. Let us have it again as Jack Goldsmith gave it us.—E. B.

I do not like the new arrangement. In practically all newspapers one turns to the sports page first, and knows where to find it; and so it is with me. I look for the 'Gossip,' expecting to find it opposite the page for Personalities, and then follow on with the letters. If you want to do something different I suggest that you might commence your peal and quarter peal columns with 'Special' or 'Outstanding Performances' which are worth special praise.—A. J. B.

I do not like 'The Ringing World' set up at backstroke.

Might I take this opportunity of saying how much I like the new layout of the 'R.W.' I hope it makes more people realise that the 'R.W.' is not only for peal ringers (a familiar grumble) and that more ringers will in consequence support the paper. I intend to say as much at our next District meeting.—B. S. P.

I'm not yet sure whether I like the rearrangement of the 'R.W.' features, but with peals at the back one might regard all the advertisements as being together.—J. H. G.

I would like to say that I prefer the previous layout of 'The Ringing World.' I feel that the peal columns give a more definite opening to the paper and, generally speaking, are of more interest than the other items.—C. W. R.

'ROUND THE CIRCLE' IN 18 TOWERS

Mr. T. E. Sone, of Paddock Wood, Kent, completed 'round the circle' in peals to his 18th tower on October 6th at Frittenden. Mr. Sone does not claim this as a record. When he completed his 17th tower he received a letter from a well known ringer claiming the same number of towers. Details:

DUDLEY & DISTRICT GUILD

Meeting at Dudley on October 7th, the Guild decided by a majority vote to extend its life for another year and review the situation after that time.

The officers for the coming year were: Master, Mr. F. S. Handley; secretary, Mr. M. D. Fellows.

Being a teenager, the secretary is hoping for the support of younger ringers in the area, as well as those of long standing, so as to arrest the decline which has been noticeable at meetings.

PERSONALITIES OF THE EXERCISE—43

MISS MURIEL REAY,
St. Martin's Guild for the Diocese of Birmingham.

One of the most enthusiastic lady peal ringers in the country is Miss Muriel Reay, of Northfield, Birmingham. All her peals have been rung on tower bells, and she holds the record for the most number in this category rung by a lady ringer. Her total to date is 570, of which no fewer than 500 have been rung with the country's most energetic peal organiser, George E. Fearn.

Muriel Reay was born in Birmingham, and educated at the Moseley School of Art, and later at the Birmingham College of Arts and Crafts, where she took an A.T.D. By profession she is a school teacher—the ideal job for a keen ringer—and at present she is the head of the art and craft department at Charlemont Secondary School, West Bromwich, Staffs.

She learnt to handle a bell at St. Bartholomew's, Westhoughton, Lancashire, in November, 1946, where she was working at the time, and her instructor was Albert Greenhalgh. Being eager to progress, she attended practices two or three times a week, within a radius of 20 miles, and was able also to ring in Birmingham during the school holidays.

Muriel's first peal was Grandsire and Stedman Doubles at St. Peter's, Hindley Lanes, on July 23rd, 1948, and it was called by Jack Ashcroft, who scored his first peal as conductor. She is grateful to Arthur Tomlinson, a famous Lancashire ringer, for calling many of her early peals.

On returning from Lancashire in March, 1951, to live in Birmingham, she soon took full advantage of the excellent opportunities available for peal ringing, and has averaged about 50 peals per year ever since. The majority of Muriel's peals have been rung in and around the Birmingham area, and she has not conducted any of them, preferring to leave that to others.

THE ALPHABET IN SURPRISE

Her list of peals includes at least 85 different Surprise Major methods, including all the letters of the alphabet, eight Surprise Royal methods, and six Surprise Maximus methods, and she has rung over 80 peals on 12 bells. In Spliced Surprise Major, she has rung several up to 10 methods.

Looking back on her list of peals, Muriel has an amazing assortment of memories. One which stands out more than most is of a peal of Cambridge Maximus, rung on tour, at the Waterloo Tower, Quex Park, Kent. The lighting used was an oil lamp, and the shadows of the ringers and their ropes made weird patterns on the walls! The many peals in which she took part at the now demolished church of Bishop Ryders, where she rang her second peal, have always provided some excitement and amusement. Conditions here were far from ideal, and on a wet night the rain used to come in and flood the belfry floor! Sometimes the ringers stood on little piles of newspapers to keep dry, and she well remembers, on one occasion, Rodney Meadows saying, 'George, I think I'll ring in the shallow end tonight!' The one electric light bulb used to sizzle, as the water dripped down the flex, and one wondered which would come to an end first—the peal or the bulb!

She would have liked to have paid her last respects to the late Albert Walker, so beloved by all, by standing in his memorial peal, but she was on holiday in Italy at the time. She is very proud to have rung in his 500th 12 bell peal.

Muriel's other hobbies are mostly connected with her work. She is very keen on photography, silversmithing, pottery, lettering and illuminating—something of a busman's holiday, but she enjoys doing craft work of any kind and spends a lot of time at it.

Muriel is a regular Sunday service ringer at St. Philip's Cathedral, and St. Martin's, Birmingham, and has set a fine example to her sex by the industriousness and continuity of her peal ringing. She is a very safe and reliable ringer, and it is quite possible that, if she continues in good health, she may well be the first lady to ring 1,000 peals. Her many friends will hope that she will eventually reach that honour. APACE.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION
Ashford District

About 50 visitors were present for the service, conducted by the Rev. F. Capener, and tea, kindly given by the local ringers, at Ashford on October 7th.

In his report and balance sheet the hon. secretary said membership and subscriptions showed an increase on last year's record: 190 practising members had subscribed so far, including 23 new members. Two new towers now showed subscribers. Peal ringing showed a decline, but service ringing appeared to be well maintained.

Two motions from the Rochester District— one to raise the subscription of practising members and the other to introduce a peal booking fee—were then raised, but found no support. It was felt that the unity and good fellowship of the Association were of more value than any moneys which might accrue. A motion from the Lewisham District to change the date of the annual general meeting found some support, but was lost on a show of hands.

All the officers were re-elected for the ensuing year. They are Mr. J. R. Cooper (Ashford), Ringing Master; Mr. C. T. Hillis (Willesborough), hon. secretary; and Mr. J. J. Batchelor (Little Chart) and Mr. A. Berry (Folkestone), District representatives. Three new junior members joined the Association.

It was decided to hold the next meeting at Little Chart on December 2nd, instead of Woodchurch as appears on the programme.

Speaking on behalf of the visitors, the chairman, Mr. J. Willis, thanked all those who had helped to make the meeting such a success.

As the bells of St. Mary's, Ashford, could not be rung before 3.45 p.m. owing to weddings, Great Chart and Willesborough bells were kindly made available earlier in the afternoon. In addition, Mr. Peter Bond managed to 'grab' Hothfield. C. T. H.

BEDFORDSHIRE ASSOCIATION

A meeting of the Bedford District was held at Goldington on October 7th. The Vicar (Rev. D. W. Janes) took a service for the ringers, Ringing in the afternoon and evening ranged from rounds to Cambridge and London.

Next meeting, Bromham, on November 4th.

KIMPTON CUP CONTEST

The third annual ringing competition for the Kimpton Cup was held on September 30th at Apsley. For a variety of reasons the entries this year were down to four. The test piece was 360 Minor, own choice of method.

Over 40 ringers and friends sat down to an excellent tea in the Church Room. After tea the Vicar of Apsley, the Rev. J. H. Diminey, welcomed the company and wondered if he was right in regarding the event as something of a ringers' 'local derby'!

Mr. A. V. Good introduced the judges—Messrs. A. P. Cannon and W. Ayre—and expressed pleasure at having these two well known ringers as judges once again.

Mr. Cannon commented that he found it a very pleasant change to be able to sit and listen to ringing rather than taking part. The ringing generally had been of a very high standard and all the teams had a good beat. The trebles had been rung well. He felt that good striking of the light bells was just as important, if not more so, than of the tenors.

Mr. Ayre supported these remarks and said that he was delighted at the uplift in the standard of ringing. He was all for anything that would help to get good striking for Sunday service ringing.

The teams which entered, methods rung and marking were then given as follows: Apsley (winners last year, Cambridge) 35 faults, King's Langley (Plain Bob) 74, Kimpton (P.B.) 83½, Hemel Hempstead (P.B.) 175. The Kimpton Cup was then presented to Mr. R. E. Shepherd, of Apsley, by the Rev. J. H. Diminey.

Mr. T. J. Lock thanked the judges for their services and remarks which he said would benefit all of the teams in their future ringing. The judges were presented with a small gift by Miss Ann Price, 7-year-old daughter of the Kimpton Ringing Master, as a token of appreciation.

Mr. J. G. Cull, on behalf of the Competition Committee and the Kimpton Guild of Change Ringers, thanked the Vicar for the use of the bells and also the Apsley band and their ladies for making the day's arrangements such a success.

A lively discussion on the future of the competition followed, the main points being whether the Hertford County Association should take a more active interest in the event and how more towers could be encouraged to enter a team. It was unanimously agreed that the competition should continue independently of the Association. On the question of the number of entrants, many thought that it had been wrong to hold the competition at Apsley, the home tower of last year's winning team. It was also felt that some were discouraged by the thought that the competition was 'prize ringing.' A further general feeling was that both judges should be 'out of county.'

The general tone of the discussion indicated that there is a lively interest in the competition and the various suggestions put forward were to be considered by the committee when organising the 1962 event, which is to be at Kimpton. The committee were nominated as follows: Messrs. W. Ayre, J. G. Cull, T. J. Lock, D. C. Price and T. J. Southam, with power to co-opt a further member, preferably from the eastern or northern part of the county.

The proceedings were very nicely rounded off by entertainment arranged by the Apsley ringers in the village club. Handbells, darts, tape recordings of the day's ringing and, of course, a bar, not forgetting the very tasty 'hot-dogs,' all helped to make September 30th a day to be remembered.

Lincolnshire Girl's Surrey Romance

FOLLOWING her acceptance of a teaching appointment at Frimley School, Surrey, four years ago, Miss Janet Mary Hanson, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Hanson, of 47, Pennygate, Spalding, and grand-daughter of Mr. J. T. Brown, for many years a well-known Spalding ringer, met romance. She has now married into a well-known ringing family, the Sherwoods, of Ash, and was at St. John-the-Baptist Church, Spalding, the bride of Brian Edgar, the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Sherwood, of East Wyke Farm, Ash.

Alas, there are no bells at St. John-the-Baptist Church but, thanks to the good services of Mr. Ronald Noon, the bells of SS, Mary and Nicholas', Spalding, were available in the evening, and it was here that members of the bridegroom's family and friends from Farnham enjoyed an hour's ringing in announcing the happiness of Brian and Janet.

To amplify our picture, the bride, who was given away by her father, wore a white figured brocade dress with short train and a flowered headdress. Her flowers were white orchids, roses, stephanotis and lilies-of-the-valley. The two bridesmaids—the Misses Sheelagh Needs and Aileen Bell—wore deep apricot colour dresses. Mr. Peter G. Sherwood was best man to his brother, and another brother, John, was an usher with Mr. Francis Hanson, the bride's brother. The Vicar, the Rev. Brian Taylor, officiated at the choral service.

A reception at Bromley Memorial Hall preceded a honeymoon car tour. Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Edgar's home is at East Wyke Farm Cottage, Ash.

LADIES' GUILD
Midland District

Meeting at Thurcaston, Leics, on September 16th, the Midland District received a résumé of the A.G.M. at Bedford from the president (Mrs. P. J. Staniforth). Discussion arose from a suggestion by Miss Thompson that due to lack of support at meetings lately, Branch meetings be held to overcome the difficulty of covering such a wide area as the District. The matter was referred to the A.G.M. Miss Thompson thanked the Rector for taking the service and use of the bells. Next meeting, Hinckley, November 18th; annual meeting, Nottingham, January 27th.

Beds and Northants District

Three new members from Turvey were elected when the Beds and Northants District held their meeting there on September 30th. One hour's ringing took place before the service conducted by the Rector (Rev. B. A. Butler), and again in the evening. Methods rung included Double Norwich, Stedman and Grandsire Triples. Next meeting, Higham Ferrers, November 25th.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION
Eastern District

The general opinion of the over 40 ringers who attended the autumn meeting of the Eastern District at Walkington on October 7th was that the new ring of six bells was of a very nice tone. The Vicar conducted the service, and expressed the hope that we would come again soon, and the ladies provided an excellent tea.

Six new members were elected, viz.: Misses J. Gray and S. Knight (Walkington), C. White and M. Dobson, and Messrs. J. Dobson and C. Warner (Hull). Next meeting, Beverley, in December.

BARNSELY & DISTRICT SOCIETY

Fifteen towers were represented at the Barnsley District meeting at Royston on October 14th. The Rev. K. Law, who presided, gave a warm welcome to the company. Nevill Crossland, of Cawthorne, was elected a member. The next meeting, on November 11th, will be at Holmfirth, near Huddersfield, by special invitation.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

65's AT BACKSTROKE DISAGREEABLE

Dear Sir,—I thought there would have been more replies to Mr. Grant's letter about 65's at backstroke, and am surprised at the one (from Mr. Chant) that you have had. It is quite untrue to say that 'a listener outside the tower is not to know whether a row is back or hand'—unless the ringing is 'cartwheel,' for surely the open lead makes the distinction evident, and the slight pause after the last blow at backstroke calls attention to the bells completing that stroke.

As a keen handbell ringer, I can assure anyone who has not had the experience of taking part in well-struck Bob Minor with clearly-marked open leads that 65's at backstroke stick out a mile—and personally I find them disagreeable, and always prefer, to ring touches that avoid them, but I would not care to enter into a discussion as to whether I find them unpleasant because they are in any true sense unmusical or because 56's 'seem' right through greater familiarity (taking the plain course as the norm). I cannot understand how this simple point of the effect of the open lead can have been overlooked when the matter was 'explored a few years ago'; unfortunately I was out of touch with ringing matters at the time.

Of course, an open lead is nothing without good striking. All who have heard the famous Spliced Surprise Major record (recently re-issued) agree that the rhythm is masterly, and the touch used abounds in satisfying roll-ups, but without the emphasis provided by the open leads the effect of these would be largely lost.

The open lead does not, of course, have to be exaggerated; my point is that provided it is observed, in well-struck ringing, the backstroke blow is a successor to the handstroke and completes it musically, and whatever the technical reason may be (musically speaking), the effect of this is that certain combinations—of which 65's in Minor are but one example—that are tolerable at handstroke become objectionable to the sensitive ear at backstroke. It is rather like ending a sentence with a preposition; although the practice is no longer frowned upon by grammarians as it was, it often sounds awkward and is consequently instinctively avoided by a good writer.—Yours sincerely,

A. R. PARGETER.

SHERBORNE ABBEY PEAL

Dear Sir.—John R. Mayne's recent performance of Six-Spliced at Sherborne Abbey must surely rank as one of the greatest heavy-bell feats of our time.

May I offer my congratulations to this fine ringer.—Yours, etc.,

GEO. W. PIPE.

Melbourne, Victoria.

A PARSON'S SUGGESTION

Dear Sir.—Mr. E. Barnett wonders why ringers were not specifically mentioned at the enthronement at York Minster, whereas 'singers' were.

Could the fact that one never hears of 'singers' leaving the church as soon as their part of the service is over have anything to do with it?—Yours sincerely,

D. G. BRUNNING (Rev.).

Usk, Mon.

RINGING AT PERSHORE

Dear Sir.—We would like to point out that the feelings expressed in a recent letter are not those of this tower.

We hope that the jesting letter, sent by two of our more irresponsible members, has not caused ill feeling between Putney and Mr. Cattermole and the Pershore ringers.—Yours sincerely,

C. F. MEW, Ringing Master,
B. J. BULL, Secretary.

BODELYDDAN BELLS

Dear Sir.—The Vicar's letter to me, dated July 27th, quoted in full in my letter, is in direct contradiction to Ranald Clouston's statement that the architect sanctioned restricted ringing, and it will be obvious that somebody is not telling the truth.

My application was made on July 18th, and it would be interesting to learn not only how but when the University of London Society obtained permission to ring three days before our proposed visit, when, according to the Vicar's statement, the architect had not yet given the 'all clear.'

It appears on the face of it a clear case of discrimination.

I hope I may never lose sight of the fact that permission to ring in any tower is a privilege and not a right, consequently I hope that the Central Council will not, as Alan Ward suggests, meddle in what is purely a domestic issue.

However disappointing the decision, if the Vicar says 'No' then 'no' it is, although I personally seldom take 'no' for an answer and I intend to try again whenever an opportunity arises.

I fear, however, that even Sunday ringing may now have been stopped and while I note that in his written report—sent after my visit—Mr. Clouston said nothing about restricted ringing, his verbal report three days before my visit had been interpreted—or misinterpreted—that ringing was dangerous.

Also the report on page 608 is rather ambiguous—as I read it, the architect was understood to have considered the spire unsafe to permit ringing, but that the Society considered it safe to ring for half an hour, which to me appeared nonsensical.

Further the report made no reference to the bell frame being wedged, but only that it was not anchored down.

The frame rust has been like this since it was installed in 1872 and in criticising the alleged 'condemning' of the bells I cited the comparable instance of Bradbourne, Derbyshire, where I told the Vicar, bluntly, that the architect was a fool.

The late Vicar had previously written to me expounding his views on ringing and chiming and I may say I was astonished when he not only allowed us to ring but came to the church to watch.

Evidently he has since changed his mind and the resumption of ringing at Bradbourne is not due to my efforts.—Yours faithfully,

R. H. DOVE.

HORNCHURCH BELLS AGAIN

Dear Sir.—After a lapse of three years and three months we are once again able to ring our own bells, and I would like very much to thank all those towers who have so willingly allowed us the use of their bells.

We have made many friends and have had only one refusal to our request for permission to ring for Matins. Through the kindness of Mr. E. A. Barnett, we have built up a monthly connection with St. Clement Danes—a connection which we hope to continue—and I think we can claim to have become a reasonably competent 10-bell band. We are especially grateful for this privilege.

I would also like to pay tribute to my own band: their loyalty and the fact that they did not object to regimentation has made organisation very easy.

We have remained a band in every sense. At one time it seemed that we would probably lose one young man to the Methodist choir, but he saw the error of his ways and since married a Sunday School teacher of the established faith, so all is well!

Our opportunities for peal ringing are rather limited and a rather sensitive neighbourhood has to be re-educated, but we shall be very pleased to welcome any visitors at any time. Our ringing times are every Sunday evening at 5.30 and on the even Sundays at 10 a.m. Practice night is at 7.30 p.m. on Tuesday.—Yours faithfully,

FRANK V. GANT.

Hornchurch.

'MENTIONED'

Dear Sir.—I agree with Mr. Harold Walker that ringers should certainly consider themselves included in the phrase 'all who bear office and serve diligently,' which formed part of the Bidding Prayer used in York Minster recently at the enthronement of the new Archbishop—if their consciences allow them to do so.

They may be interested to know that they are specifically mentioned in 'A Litany of Intercession for the Diocese,' published a short time ago by the S.P.C.K., in whose compilation the writer had a share. One of the suffrages reads: 'That it may please Thee to fill all Bellingers with reverence and godly fear, that, as they summon others to Thy house, they may themselves offer Thee the worship of their own skill and devotion.'—Yours sincerely,

C. O. ELLISON, President.

Yorkshire Association of Change Ringers.

OLD FRIENDS MEET

A recent holiday in Bournemouth provided an opportunity for 'Jafus' to visit two very old friends. The first was Joe Dyke, who, although now a prisoner confined to his bed, is as alert as ever. He is still able to enjoy a joke, and is completely up-to-date with current affairs. Joe, as is well known, was the inspiring force behind the excellent ringing broadcast from Evercreech every Sunday morning at 9.50 a.m. Several of his ringing friends, including Harry Sanger and Ron Beck, call to see him, and he looks forward to their visits. They take with them tape recordings of bells which Joe has not been able to hear, and provide him with some very happy moments.

The other old friend visited was Canon C. C. Cox, now retired after 25 years as Vicar of Lyme Regis. Although now an octogenarian, he is active, and able to enjoy a little shooting in his own grounds at the rear of his house. When it is remembered that when he went to Lyme only call changes were rung, and that now Lyme Regis possesses not only an attractive modern ring of bells, but also a band which can ring Surprise methods up to London and Bristol, we must accord to Canon Cox full credit for such a transformation. He was ably backed by that other stalwart George Morris, and at a practice, which 'Jafus' recently attended, Canon Cox took part in London, Bristol, Cambridge and Stedman—never making a mistake. Not bad for 80 plus!

RINGERS' STRIKE AT LEEDS

The bell ringers at St. Chad's Church, Leeds, says the Manchester 'Daily Despatch,' are out on strike as a result of a disagreement between one of their number and the Vicar. The trouble began one day last week when one of the ringers, Mr. Dean Swift, was asked by the Vicar, the Rev. C. C. Marshall, to sweep the belfry steps and tidy up the place generally. Swift refused, contending that his duties consisted solely of bell ringing and keeping the bells in order. The Vicar persisted, and as Swift would not give way he was discharged. A meeting of the ringers, some ten or a dozen in number, was at once called, and an ultimatum was sent to the Vicar, that if Swift was not immediately reinstated the whole body would come out on strike. Mr. Marshall replied that Swift would not be reinstated unless he would promise to obey instructions, and the men carried out their threat. Matters are now at a deadlock. The men say they are not really paid for their work, but only receive an acknowledgment, and they will not give in.

POINTS FROM PEALS

WE turn now to towers whose visits to the peal columns are rare and other points of interest. The claim for the longest silence since I last wrote on this subject is at Churcham, Gloucestershire. The footnote said first since 1887, but actually I have one in 1909 also. Even so, the tower is a very rare bird. Likewise, the footnote to the peal at Streatley, was not quite accurate. The recent peal was certainly the first since 1903 which has been published, but I have an unpublished one in 1906.

There are three more towers which had not had a peal since before the first war. I confirm that Roughtown had its first peal for 47 years—the only previous one I had was in 1914—and also that the peal at Ingham was the first for 48 years (again, the only previous one). The footnote to the peal at Bradfield, Berks, said 'First since 1912,' but actually, I find it was 1913 when the previous last peal was rung. The recent one was the seventh on the bells.

The peal at Barton-on-Humber, St. Mary's, raises a point in my records. It was certainly the first peal on the eight, but I had a previous one down for 1911 on six bells. I see I queried it at the time, and on looking it up, find it was published on page 678 of the first volume of 'The Ringing World' amongst several peals at the end of that year headed 'Peals rung before the appearance of "The Ringing World" but not previously recorded.' No church name was given and I think I put it down to St. Mary's (it was a first peal on the bells), because the weight of the tenor was nearly that of St. Mary's and not St. Peter's. However, since a peal of Minor was rung at St. Peter's a couple of months later, it is probable that the above peal should really be credited to St. Peter's also. Perhaps a Barton ringer would kindly let me know sometime. I suppose I also should mention Bradley. The footnote was quite correct—first peal on the recast bells, but there had been two peals in the tower before—in 1906 and 1907. So it is over 50 years since a peal was rung there.

APPEAL TO SUBSTANTIATE CLAIM

From just after the first war, in 1919, Strensham had its last peal before the recent one (not 1923, as claimed, unless the latter was not published). The only previous time the names Blaby, Alveley and Kessingfield had appeared in the peal columns was in 1920. I see the first is going great guns this year. The peal at Stoke Doyle said first since 1923. I had not a previous one at this tower and so should be pleased to have particulars of it from the conductor or Mr. Amos. The latter has often told me, in his usual robust style, that there are several peals in his area which were not published, but I fear has never been able to substantiate his claim by details when asked for them. Perhaps he will be able to do so this time.

We then come to East Molesey, where I confirm the last peal was in 1924. For an eight bell tower, its total appearances have been very few—six times between 1891 and 1924 and then twice recently. I also confirm that we recently had the first since 1925 on the 8 bells of St. Modwen's, Burton-on-Trent. Peals of Doubles were, however, rung there in 1946 and 1953. Before the first war this was quite a popular tower, having had 39 peals from 1881 to 1913. Another confirmation of their claim is at Wouldham, where the only previous peal was in 1925. In 1926, Misson appeared for its only other time in the peal columns, and in 1928 Long Clawson likewise (as claimed). Two towers last heard a peal in 1928—Harbury (its only other one) and Englefield. In the latter case, four had been rung between 1886 and 1901. The last tower which had not been in the peal lists since the 1920's is Jarrow-on-Tyne. Here, the first peal was in 1893, then silence until 1905, when two peals were rung. Another silence until a little burst of enthusiasm brought eight peals from 1926 to 1929, and now the silence is broken again.

LAST APPEARANCES—1930

The list of last appearances in the 1930's is a long one. First we come across Long Wittenham, whose only peal previously was in 1930. Similarly, Ingrave, in 1931. St. Saviour's, Bath (Walcot), had its most flourishing period for peals last century, when six peals were rung from 1890 to 1893. The years 1906, 1910, 1919, 1924 and 1925 each saw one peal each until the 1932 peal ended the occasional visit to the peal lists for another 28 years. Five towers appeared last in 1933. Penrith had its only other peal then. Both Laverstoke and Cucklington had also their first peal in 1930 and then the 1933 one, making three each with the recent one. The other two are Street and Sedbergh. The former had seven peals from 1904 to 1913 and then single peals in 1919 and 1931, all of these being Grandsire Triples. The 1933 peal was Double Norwich. The latter had also seven peals, from 1899 to 1908 and also one in 1932 before the 1933 one. In 1934, Knaption last appeared with the tower's only other peals (two of them), whilst seven towers have had a peal since 1935. Stoke Trister and Donhead had their only previous peals then. Arnesby had had another peal before that year in 1928 and Chewstoke, two, in 1929 and 1931. Corse had two peals in 1935 and a previous one in 1907, whilst Lockington had three older ones in 1909, 1921 and 1926. Westbury-on-Severn is the 'severnth' (!) tower. Here, a peal 'in the Grandsire Method' was rung in 1887 (I suppose Doubles, but it could have been Minor, for there is nothing in the entry to say which), and other peals in 1890, 1913 and 1928. All the towers which were last heard of in 1936, before their recent appearance, had earlier peals. Yalding had three before then—1913, 1930 and 1935; Crowle was very popular between the two wars, 30 peals being rung between 1920 and 1936, with one earlier still in 1905; Butcombe had six from 1923; North Collingham three in 1927, 1930 and 1932; and Selston five in 1909, 1911, 1930, 1933 and 1935. Two towers were last mentioned in 1937—Kirkthorpe had its only other peal then, and Long Sutton (Somerset) likewise.

When we come to 1938, we find several towers of which we have not heard in the peals columns since until lately. Tharston's only other peal was that year. Tideswell had four from 1930 to 1938, and Swanbourne one previously in 1937. Stoke Climsland seemed to work on one peal per 10 years, approximately, having previously had one in 1914 and one in 1927, whilst Marlesford had had a long silence from 1903 to 1937. Four peals were rung here from 1901 to 1903, and then one in 1937. Bolsterstone's record is unusual. Last heard in 1938 (as already indicated), there had been 76 peals before that, 40 before the first war and 36 between 1919 and 1937, so it was quite a flourishing peal tower. Of these 77 pre-second war peals, 26 (including the 1938 one) were of College Single Major. I'm quite sure no other tower has as many peals of that method!! I haven't had time to check, but I surmise that the 1938 peal was the last ever rung in this irregular method.

Finally, in this section, the towers last pealed in 1939. Glasbury-on-Wye is the first of these. The 1939 peal was the 28th there—13 before 1914 (from 1907) and 15 between the wars. Although an eight bell tower, no peal of Major has yet been rung there! It sounds as if the tenor is a bit awkward. The claim for first of Minor on the bells was quite correct—all the other peals had been Doubles or Triples. It is good to see Happisburgh getting going again after over 20 years' peal silence (four peals since May, 1960). From 1925 (first peal) to 1939 there were 10. Madley had seven peals from 1907 to 1939, so the peal last December now makes its total eight. Tolleshunt D'Arcy now totals four peals—in 1910, 1913, 1939 and 1960, likewise Darrington, in the years 1901, 1935, 1939 and 1960.

I don't usually include silences later than 1939, but one since 1940 deserves mention—Whitney (Herefords), a five bell tower, whose total of 18 makes it fifth amongst such towers. I hope its first peal for 20 years means that it is about to get going again.

Lastly, we come to a few points of interest of various kinds. I made the peal total at Oxendon (5), 11 when the footnote claimed the 10th. The footnote to the peal at Cross Stone (Tadmorden) on September 29th, 1960, said 100th peal in Tadmorden. I should be very pleased to have particulars of what towers are included in this total, for my total is much less than that. The peal at Wragby was not the 50th anniversary of the first peal on the bells. There was a peal 50 years before, but I had two before that, in 1902 and 1908. The peal at Chulmleigh was not the first since 1931. I have one in 1950. The peal at Lynstead was not the first in seven methods on the bells—one was rung in 1955. I think. Finally, is Nutfield Treble Bob Minor, College Exercise?

Suffolk Ringers Visit Essex

Ringers of Barking, Cotton and Mendlesham had an outing into Essex on October 7th. The towers were of interest. To start with there was the shingled cedar wood tower of Great Totham, followed by the triangular tower at Maldon. After an excellent tea at the Hope Inn, Tollesbury, ringing was resumed at Tolleshunt D'Arcy and Goldhanger. Thanks are specially due to Mr. Robert C. Lester, for making the outing possible, and Mr. C. W. Levett, for local arrangements, and, of course, the incumbents.

OBITUARY

MRS. CONSTANCE BLATCH

Ringers throughout the south of Essex will be grieved to hear of the death, on October 10th, of Mrs. Blatch, of Orsett.

Coming of a ringing family, Connie was the daughter of the late Harry Chinnery, of Orsett, and four years ago married Fred Blatch, of Fyfield, also a ringer. The following year they had the pleasure of hearing Orsett bells ring again after a silence of many years. The old, rough-going ring of six was turned into a handy little light ring by the attentions of the bellhanger, and Connie set to work to teach a young band, ranging in age from nine to 19 years.

In the last three-and-a-half years she had had the pleasure of ringing with six of her learners in their first quarter peals, and four of them have rung their first peal. In all, during that time, about 15 quarter peals and two peals have been rung at Orsett, and Connie had taken part in most of them. In the main they have been Grandsire and Bob Doubles, but recently a quarter peal in ten Doubles methods has been scored.

It is idle to say that Connie's place will be hard to fill, for she is irreplaceable. She was patient and unruffled with her learners, and was never absent from practice night or service ringing without some very pressing cause.

She has been laid to rest in the shadow of the tower where she learnt to ring, and which she served so faithfully for many years. At her own request, there was no half-muffled ringing. The Essex Association was represented at her funeral by Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Willmington and Mr. and Mrs. John Crampion, the local band by Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Hills, and the Ladies' Guild by Miss J. Hills. Also present were two very old ringing friends, Messrs. H. Smith and A. Reeve, of Fobbing.

In all, Connie had rung eight peals, two of them were on the rehung six at Orsett. She recalled with greatest pleasure the peal of Grandsire Triples by a predominantly local band at Fobbing, which was brought round in almost total darkness by the skill of the conductor, Sidney Bailey.

To her husband and to Mrs. Chinnery, her mother, we extend our deepest sympathy. The best way we can honour her memory is to continue the work which she began so well. May she rest in peace.

MRS. WINIFRED BIRKETT

AN APPRECIATION

Perhaps it is unusual to write of one who was a friend on just one single occasion, but the announcement that Winifred Birkett had been called to higher service saddened at least two of us many miles away from Liverpool. We met her after Ted had gone home and told of our plight, marooned in Liverpool, a whole day until midnight. We felt a bit forlorn that day, unshaven and nowhere much to rest. I was nursing a broken leg in plaster.

We rang at St. Nicholas' and Ted told us that he and Winifred would like us to come home for a meal; we naturally hesitated, but Winifred was outside the church and would brook no refusal. What a dear, kindly soul she proved to be; we might have been her sons. After caring for us, she insisted that we accept Ted's offer to go at midnight with us to the docks, where we caught our boat. By now she must have heard the wonderful invitation 'Come, ye Blessed of My Father... for I was a stranger and you took me in.'

ANDOVER DISTRICT'S CUP CONTEST

For 1922 to 1933 there was a competition for the Aird Cup, rung on the front six of St. Nicholas' Church, Newbury, followed by a slap-up supper, provided by Mr. Malcolm Aird, the donor of the cup.

This cup contest has now been revived. It is open to all towers in the Andover District and was held at Burghclere on October 7th, the judges being Mr. R. Crook and Mrs. D. Pearce, of Bucklebury.

After tea the judges announced the result: 1 Burghclere 'A' 4 faults (120 Grandsire), 2 Burghclere 'B' 16, followed by Highclere 'A' 19, Andover 22½, Longparish 37½, Highclere 'B' 43, Woolton Hill 48, Whitchurch 50.

Presenting the cup the Rector of Burghclere (Mr. Ince) expressed his pleasure that his teams were first and second. Ringing to suit all tastes followed at Burghclere, Newton and Highclere and ranged from Stedman Minimus to Mixed Triples and Major.

Gratefully Acknowledged

SIMPLE SIMON'S ACCIDENT

Simple Simon learned to ring.

At home he practised on a string.

Then the string caught in the door

Fractured Simon's lower jaw.

'Now tell me,' said the doctor stern.

Determined that the facts he'd learn.

'How did you get this painful blow?'

Said Simon, 'Coming out of slow!'

SOUTH WALES NOMADS

This year's tour of the South Wales Nomads, drawn from Newport and District and Llandaff, started on August 8th and was in two cars and a motor-cycle, the week being organised by Geoff Marchant.

Ringling on the first day was in Herefordshire and the party was joined by the Rev. K. C. Davies. Grandsire and Stedman Triples were rung on the excellent light ring at Bridstow, while the best striking of the day was on the superb six at Weston-under-Penyard.

Breconshire was toured on Wednesday. The two towers in Brecon are both good rings—St. David's a really good six and St. Mary's a Rudhall eight. Llanfagan bells are an eight universally praised by all who have been there. Thursday was again devoted to Herefordshire bells and among them was Stoke Edith (a magnificent Taylor ring), seemingly little used as we had to fit a rope to the fourth.

In Friday's programme were the fine eight at Aberavon, the six at Neath, where the go cannot be bettered and in the best ringing of the tour we were joined by Mr. G. I. Lewis. The day finished on the good light eight at Gorseinon—Stedman, Grandsire and Bob Major.

Saturday, the final day, was also spent in Herefordshire, towers visited being Clydcock (6), Tyberton (5), Madley (6), Eaton Bishop (6), Much Dewchurch (6) and Kingstone (6). Thanks are accorded to all incumbents, drivers, the Rev. K. C. Davies, Alan Smith and Geoff Marchant for his excellent organisation.

OUTINGS

ST. GEORGE'S, BECKINGHAM

Misty weather prevented the 19 ringers of Beckingham and other friends from enjoying to the full the beauties of the garden of England on September 23rd. It did not, however, spoil the excellent and varied trip Mr. P. W. Cave, tower master, had arranged.

The journey was by private cars and the whole party assembled for coffee half-way along the road to Canterbury. For one hour we enjoyed ringing in the Cathedral, which today is the focal point of the Church of England. Some of the less experienced had difficulty with 12 bell ringing, but were pleased to try. Methods rung were Treble Twelve, Stedman Caters and Grandsire Cinques.

After a good meal at the Old Coffee House we went to Wye and were very impressed with the spacious ringing chamber and pleasant sounding bells. Grandsire and Stedman Triples and Superlative were rung. Then came St. Mary's, Chilham, and a novelty in this tower was two spiked drums, dating from the 17th century, which were used to work the carillon. As in all towers, a very warm welcome was accorded at Biddenden. Here an enthusiastic band of young ringers have redecorated the ringing chamber.

At the Dorset Arms at Withyham we sat down to an excellent dinner, which included chicken. Ringing for the day ended on the beautiful eight at Coleman's Hatch, where good touches of Grandsire, Stedman and Double Norwich were rung. Our sincere thanks are due to Mr. Cave, as without his leadership and inspiration the tour would not have been such a success. The burning question now is 'Where are we going next year?'

BROMHAM, BEDS

It was the Bromham ringers and friends who started the season of local ringing outings this year, and therefore it was their privilege to finish the season with a most enjoyable half-day spent in and around Northants.

Three very fine octaves and two sixes, respectively, were visited. Some enterprising and rewarding methods were rung at Rushden and Market Harborough, but due to a misunderstanding of arrangements, ringing was curtailed at Rothwell, where full justice wasn't done to this very fine octave.

A really excellent tea was provided at Market Harborough, putting us in fine fettle to ring on the sixes at Newbold-on-Avon and Staverton. It was on the latter bells that it could be said that we excelled and it was here that the ladies came to the fore and rang an admirable touch.

Thank you, Kathleen, and the people who met us, for an enjoyable day.

K. C. F.

EAST MEON

On September 23rd, six carloads of ringers, comprising most of the East Meon band and a few friends from Petersfield, Haslemere and Liss towers, set off for a day's ringing.

First stop was on the light six at Swanmore, which was followed by ringing on the fine eight at Shedfield. Packed lunch was eaten in the fog on the seafront at Stokes Bay, and then the very tuneful eight at Alverstoke were rung for three-quarters of an hour. Bishopstoke proved the most elusive tower of the day, several cars having driven round it twice before seeing it. After tea at Curdridge, ringing followed on the fine, heavy eight there. All agreed that these were the best bells of the day, in spite of the 7th and tenor being up false after raising in peal.

Officially the last tower was Bishop's Waltham, but after ringing there, the party was given permission to ring at Soberton, this final 'grab' bringing to an end a most enjoyable day.

Ringing ranged from Kent and Stedman to rounds, and thanks are extended to the incumbents, tower captains and the secretary of East Meon band for making arrangements, and to two of the youngest members of the band for raising the money for the tea at their own children's fete.

J. E. C.

ROTHERHAM, YORKS

Good ringing was had by the ringers of Rotherham Parish Church, accompanied by two friends from Chesterfield and Sheffield, on the occasion of their annual outing.

Towers visited were Heptonstall (8), Skipton (8), Ripon Cathedral (10), Wetherby (8) and Tadcaster (8). Methods rung included Grandsire and Stedman Caters, Yorkshire and Cambridge Surprise, Double Norwich C.B., Plain Bob and Little Bob Major, Stedman and Grandsire Triples. An excellent dinner was had at Skipton, and tea taken at Ripon.

The glorious weather and beautiful scenery enhanced the outing, which had been well arranged by Mr. Norman Chaddock. Thanks are due to incumbents, tower captains and people who met us. S. A.

WATFORD GRAMMAR SCHOOLS

Watford Grammar Schools' Society had, as their first tower on their outing on September 23rd, SS. Peter and Paul's, Watford, Northants. The Vicar and local secretary informed us that the six bells there had not been rung for a year, as we found out from the dust! Some of the party of 24 ringers had difficulty with the length of draught and thick tailends, but a course of Cambridge was miraculously brought round, as was Stedman, Grandsire and Plain Bob.

A good touch for us of Grandsire Triples was rung on the anti-clockwise eight at Daventry, after lunch. The 30 miles to Ambrosden were quickly covered, but unfortunately ringing here had to be curtailed due to a death. The best ringing of the day was at Bicester, where we rang for 1½ hours and also had tea. The last tower was Thame, where a course of St. Clement's stubbornly refused to come round.

Back at Watford the representatives of the 13 towers parted after a successful outing, some lacking shoes, scarves and cigarette cases! Thanks are due to Vicars and Ringing Masters and everybody else concerned with the outing. J. M. B.

OUTINGSST. MARY'S, WALTHAMSTOW

All the participants in the year's autumn car outing of St. Mary's, Walthamstow, were contained within a Dormobile and one car, the former driven by Lionel Woods, coping nobly, as usual, with the mad fools who always surround him on the roads.

Despite small numbers—and an age range of 14 to 75—a satisfactory performance was put up on the heavy eight and ten at Bury St. Edmunds during the morning.

After a picnic lunch by the much-favoured weir bridge, at the foot of Mill Lane in Cambridge, ringing, including an excellent course of Double Norwich C.B. Major, took place at St. Andrew's. On leaving the tower we were lucky enough to meet Terry and Wendy Earle and with his welcome help we were able to achieve, at the R.C. church, what we feared would be impossible with our reduced numbers—a course of Bristol on this magnificent ring. This music along justified a visit to the tower.

The well-struck touches of Grandsire and Stedman Caters at Great St. Mary's were some of the best ringing of the day. With the help of two local ringers, a course of Grandsire Cinques was tapped round in true 12 bell compass—a rare event on an outing or meeting occasion. For 75-year-old Mr. Fred Maynard, for many years Master at Walthamstow, it was his first course of Cinques since 1915!

The homeward journey was pleasantly broken by a substantial buffet supper and song at the Good Intent, Sawbridgeworth, a place popularised by the annual trip to Saffron Walden's 'Great Ringing Day.'

In addition to the usual thanks our gratitude is due to Mr. J. W. Quinney, for his great help in making ringing arrangements at Cambridge. A. B.

GIGGLESWICK, YORKS

On October 1st Giggleswick ringers enjoyed a half-day outing into Lancashire and Westmorland.

First stop was at Low Bentham, with a heavy ring of six (19½ cwt.). On from there to Melling (6, 10 cwt.), where the bells are rung from a gallery and we were met by Mr. Gibson, the tower captain.

From Melling on to Hornby, the only eight of the day (12½ cwt.). A visitor from West Lancashire joined in the ringing.

Tea followed in the motor caravan we had hired for the outing. After tea we crossed the border into Westmorland. At Kirkby Lonsdale (6, 12 cwt.), the last tower of the day, we were met by Mr. Procter (local captain), Mr. Shaw (verger and tower-keeper) and Mr. G. Braithwaite, who joined us in ringing for Evensong.

Many thanks to all incumbents and tower captains, and also to Mr. Wright, for arranging transport. D. S. P.

REDE, SUFFOLK

Rede, Suffolk, where the bells have been silent since 1951, has had extensive repairs to its tower costing £3,000. On September 17th a service of thanksgiving and hallowing was held, the ceremony being performed by the Bishop of Dunwich.

But the three bells, one of them Elizabethan, can only be clocked. Mr. A. W. Rolfe informs us that on raising the bells a crack was noticed inside the tower so the bells are still not in ringing order and had to be clocked at the thanksgiving service.

At the tea afterwards in the Village Hall, the Rector (the Rev. H. V. Koop) thanked Mr. W. Goodship, secretary of the Cathedral ringers, and Mr. Rawlings, captain of the Barrow Church ringers, for their help in restoring and ringing the bells after their long silence.

Bowls and ringing have at times been allied by individual members, but the quarter peal rung at Dorking on October 15th by Surrey bowlers for the service to commemorate the golden jubilee of the Surrey County Bowling Association is probably unprecedented in ringing records. Our 'bob' paid homage to their 'jack'.

Ringling at Stoke Poges church is suspended for about a month whilst stonework is being replaced at the top of the tower.

The tenor at Piddletrenthide, Dorset (19 cwt. 4 qr.), was the heaviest tenor that A. P. Cannon has turned in to a peal. This took place on October 14th.

The Editor thanks the many readers who offered to lend copies of the 1907 edition of Minor Methods. The applicant has now been fully satisfied, having taken a copy of the information he required.

After ringing only 11 months, Robert Bolt (14), a scholar at Burley Grammar School, has rung a peal of Double Norwich Court Bob Major. He rang the fourth at Radcliffe on October 14th, in excellent style.

The peal at King's Lynn on October 14th was a farewell to Canon Aitken, who has been a good friend of St. Margaret's ringers. Neville Greenacre, who rang his first peal—and rang very well—is of the latest generation of the well known Greenacre family of ringers.

The Sherborne St. John's bells have gone to the foundry for retuning and there will be no ringing until further notice. Mr. J. Chesterman, of Leacroft, Sherborne St. John, Hants, appeals to those who have rung on the bells to send a donation to him towards the £300 still to be raised.

The quarter peal at Hillingdon on October 15th was the first 'in living memory' (theirs!) of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Fardon, who after an absence of nearly thirty years are renewing their interest in ringing. Aply enough the composition of the quarter peal was taken from the 5,019 composed by Mr. Fardon's father, George R. Fardon, a well known member of the College Youths.

BELFRY GOSSIP

After being silent since before the Second World War, the bells of St. John's, Tuebrook, Liverpool, were rung to a quarter peal by ringers of the Liverpool Branch of the Lancashire Association. The restoration was carried out by local labour, with help from local ringers. A local band is being trained and we hope that these fine bells will now be heard for many years to come.

From 'Alfred the Great' (dialect feature in 'Mid-Devon Advertiser'): 'Glad knows by the cows when 'tis time to go. Farmer's cows be as punctual at the gate as the bell-ringers outside the pub on Sunday mornin'.'

The peal attempt for Cambridge Surprise Minor at Shenley, Bucks, in honour of the appointment of the Rev. C. Elliott Wigg as an honorary canon in Christ Church, Oxford, was called round at the end of the fifth 720 owing to the fraying of the third rope.

Reminding our readers who might regard 'The Ringing World' as an atlas that Cosgrove is in Northamptonshire and not Bucks (see page 678). Mr. R. G. Black writes that the late Mr. Edwin Lambert was a tower of strength at Cosgrove for many years and he is pleased to see that they still have a band.

Walton, Somerset, bells, although last rung by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank in 1935, have defied many peal attempts. Twerton ringers, however, scored the first peal on the bells on October 14th. When the last attempt failed, the clock was set going by Messrs. Parfrey and Milsom, after a long silence. To their satisfaction it was still ticking when they visited the tower for the peal.

At Beckington, Somerset, harvest supper presentations in the form of books and book-tokens were made to Mr. Graham C. Grant, who is leaving for Harwell. For 17 years he had been organist and choirmaster. He started ringing with a new band of learners six years ago and has assisted to train many more youngsters since. The band wish him good ringing in Berkshire.

A WEEK IN CORNWALL BY ESSEX RINGERS

THE Rev. Jack Jose, Vicar of Perran-ar-Worhal, placed practically the whole of the top floor of his vicarage at the disposal of eight young ringers from Essex who spent the first week of September touring Cornwall, with their dormobile. Pressure on our space prevents us from recording all the Cornish towers and places of refreshment visited.

On the Monday, after a picnic lunch at Lizard Point, where handbells were rung, a peal in seven methods was scored at Mawgan in Meneage, which is believed to be the first peal on the bells.

Lunch of Cornish pasties on Tuesday was eaten in pouring rain on the cliff tops at Tintagel, and afterwards a peal in 14 methods was rung at Tintagel Church. A headlong dash to Truro followed, in order to join in the Cathedral practice. About 50 people were already in the belfry, so good use was made of the bells. Later, at the City Hotel, with our old friend, Alan Carveth and Bob Southwood, the same 50 people who were in the belfry were milling around a very small saloon bar.

On Wednesday, St. Mewan was the tower for the day's peal attempt, but 28 methods went adrift after an hour and a half's good ringing. Within a quarter of an hour of losing the peal we were enjoying an educational visit to St. Austell brewery.

TOO EARLY

The alarm was set at 5.30 a.m. on Thursday so that the more lunatic fringe of the party could find time to ring a handbell peal before breakfast. The bells were set in motion at 5.47 and by 6.18 a.m. the whole band had returned to bed.

A fair peal was rung that afternoon at Lansallos, the home of the leading call change band in Cornwall. Afterwards we were confronted by four of the local band outside, who told us we had spoilt the whole of the ringing by dropping the bells singly. An enjoyable social evening was spent with Friends of the Exercise at Truro.

Friday was taken very easily seeing the scenery around Land's End and the peal attempt at Zennor came to an abrupt halt after 26 minutes' ringing. The evening's ringing at Carbis Bay was for the harvest festival service, and we were made very welcome by Evangeline and the Rev. Arthur Roberts. The Rev. Jack Jose was our guest for the evening at Perran-ar-Worhal.

To round off the week's ringing a peal in 28 methods was brought round at Stithians, definitely the best six of the many sampled. The East Cornwall ringing festival at Eglosayle was visited during the afternoon. We responded to their request to ring handbells and the business meeting was opened with a very well received course of 'Scientific.' Qua friends from Lansallos took the first certificate, but we reluctantly had to refuse invitations to help them celebrate. On the journey home on Sunday we rang for Matins at Honiton, and for Evensong at Waltham Abbey, home being reached at 7.30 p.m.

Thanks are expressed to all who helped, including our friends in the Truro Diocesan Guild, the East Cornwall Bellringing Association and our splendid host, the Rev. Jack Jose.

A. S. H. & H. W. E.

The band that rang the peal of Minor at Ash on October 7th would like to place on record their appreciation of the marvellous tea they had after the peal, provided by Mr. E. Sherwood and arranged by Mrs. S. Russell.

HALIFAX ASSOCIATION

The October contest and meeting of the Halifax Association was held at Longwood, near Huddersfield, on October 7th. Four teams entered and the placings by the judge. Mr. T. W. Hilton, were Friezland, 20 faults, penalties 10, total 30; Meltham, 39 faults, penalties nil, total 39; Barnsley, 39 faults, penalties 10, total 49; Shelley, 54 faults, rang out.

Notes of thanks were passed to Vicar, judge, local company and W.V.S., who provided cups of tea. A collection on behalf of the W.V.S. realised 12s. 6d.

For the spring meeting, at which there will not be a contest, the secretary was instructed to write for Cawthorne bells.

SOUTH DERBYSHIRE & NORTH LEICESTERSHIRE ASSOCIATION Striking Competition

The third annual striking competition was held at Breedon-on-the-Hill, Leicestershire, on October 7th, when about 50 members attended. Six teams took part from towers within the Association. Mr. P. Staniforth, president of Leicester Diocesan Guild, was the judge. In his comments after tea Mr. Staniforth stated that ringing had greatly improved since last year. The winning team was Alvaston 'A.' Only ten points divided the first three teams.

ANNUAL OUTING

About 40 members of the Association enjoyed the annual outing, which took place on September 23rd, in and around Worcester.

Towers visited were St. John's, Worcester, Powick, where a band was asked to ring for a wedding as local ringers were on their outing, and Madresfield, where Mr. A. Whiting made himself very popular with a box of apples, kindly given by the Vicar. The last tower visited was Leigh. Some very good ringing was accomplished. Tea was taken in Worcester, and members finished the day off by calling at Ashby Wakes.

'RESERVED FOR MISS LEWIS'

Notoriety came to Miss Lewis, of Kingston, who organised an outing to the Isle of Wight on October 14th. The words 'Reserved for Miss Lewis' labelled the Portsmouth express at Waterloo and this attracted a happy band of ringers, including those from Wimbledon and Putney.

After an uneventful crossing two cars were waiting at Ryde and in these the island was toured. The sequence was Ryde (8), Brading (8), Whitwell (6), Niton (5), Chale (6), Showell (5), Brighstone (6), Freshwater (6) and Carisbrooke (8). A big disappointment was met at Newport, where the key to the tower could not be found. With heavy hearts the picture village of Godshill was reached and the six here produced the best ringing of the day.

The last tower was at Arreton (a discordant six, though the 'go' is good).

For some the climax came when we crossed to the mainland again—this time in the dark. Within half an hour we were all safely landed and once more were greeted with 'Reserved for Miss Lewis'—this time in the rear of the train.

To those who made the outing possible we extend our grateful thanks. A. C.

Stonham Aspal, Suffolk, Ringers' Outing

A half-day's trip into Norfolk by Stonham Aspal and district ringers started with an hour's ringing on the light eight at Saxlingham, followed by the odd-struck ring at St. Giles', Norwich, where some good ringing also took place.

All did justice to a hountiful tea at Yarmouth, before going to St. Nicholas' Church. Rounds on 12 for beginners and Treble Boh were rung, and on the back eight Cambridge, Superlative and Stedman—all very enjoyable.

A social hour was spent at 'The Wrestler' (of Nelson fame). Songs and harvest hymns were sung by the Stonham choir, all joining in. Many thanks to Bill Button, for a well-scheduled programme, and to incumbents and all who met us. L. G. B.

23 YEARS' SILENCE ENLED

Through someone saying that the tower was unsafe—that person is unknown—the bells of Astley Parish Church, Worcestershire, have been silent for 23 years. It has since transpired that the tower is perfectly safe.

After local ringers had spent several nights clearing out a vast accumulation of birds' nests and other rubbish that had collected round the bells, a party of about 20 ringers visited the church. A thorough examination and a tightening of bolts took place and the six bells (tenor 14 cwt.) were rung again. The visitors brought with them a set of ropes and this was fortunate as one of the ropes broke.

It is hoped that these bells, cast in 1728, will be ringing regularly on Sundays when new ropes are fitted.

RINGING FOR GUY

By ERNEST MORRIS, F.R.Hist.S., F.R.G.S.

THE church bells of England were in the past, even more than today, used to mark all sorts of national, ecclesiastical and local events. They were used as 'time-tellers' to rural England, as well as the conveyors of all the news both grave and gay, at times when trains, newspapers, telephones and wireless were unknown. Perhaps no more picturesque usage was that of the regular annual commemorating of 'Guy Fawkes' Days.'

The plot to blow up Parliament was designed to be carried out on the assembling day in February, 1605. The meeting was adjourned until October and finally until November 5th. The conspirators procured an adjoining house which gave access to the chambers under the Parliament House, where gunpowder was stored, while the actual execution of the plot was entrusted to Fawkes. As we know, the news of the plot unexpectedly leaked out, and Fawkes was found and seized after a desperate resistance. The rest of the conspirators fled, but were hunted down and either captured or slain.

The discovery of Gunpowder Plot, as it was called, was ordered to be commemorated by Parliament the following year. This was done by general rejoicings and huge bonfires lit all over England. Dummies representing 'Guy' were burnt, and the church bells were rung. Many quaint accounts for payment to the ringers can be found in various churchwardens' registers. The earliest notice is at St. Margaret's Church, Westminster, dated 1605, and is, of course, a reference to the rejoicing which followed immediately on the realisation of Parliament's escape.

It states:—

'1605. Paid to the ringers for ringing at the time when the Parliament should have been blown up . . . 10s.'

An early reference is at St. John-the-Baptist's, Stamford, thus:—

'1608/9. Itm. Paid for Rynging the Vth of November . . . Vjd.'

and at the neighbouring village of Leverton, Lincs:—

'1610. Itm. pd. for bread and drinke for the ringers the fife of November . . . ijs. ijd.'

At Harlington, Middlesex, there is half-an-acre of land now called 'Pork Acre,' which was originally given to the Church to secure perpetual ringing on November 5th by providing a leg of pork for the ringers on that day. At Bridgnorth, Shropshire, the Chamberlain's accounts show:

'For candles spent by ringers upon the 5th of November 1643, ringing all night in commemoracion of the great deliverance from Gunpowder treason . . . 5d.'

To Hugh Farr for ringinge at the Castle church that day and night . . . 5s.

To William Pulley for ringers at the high church in this town the same time . . . 20s.'

At Chelton, in the same county, in 1648 is recorded:—
'For ringing the 5 of November by the consent of divers parishioners of good credit . . . 9s.'

The following song was used in some parts of England, particularly in the north:—

'Hollo boys, hollo boys,
Let the bells ring;
Hollo boys, hollo boys,
God save the King. . . , etc.

At Lincoln they rang not only the bells, but had their favourite sport of bull-baiting, which commenced on the Castle Hill, where the bull was rung at 11 o'clock. Peals are still rung on this anniversary at many places, though the custom is dying out. Sometimes the bells are 'fired' or clashed together simultaneously, and this is described as 'shooting old Guy.' There is a bell at Owmbly, Lincs, inscribed:—

LET US REMEMBER THE 5 OF NOVEMBER.

With grotesque masks and the like the children love to dress up dummies, parading through the streets begging for coppers, and crying: 'Please remember the Guy.' In the evening they have bonfires and the Guy is burnt amid the cracks and bangs of multitudes of fireworks.

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

At the Chertsey District meeting on October 21st at East Molesey, it was only possible to use seven bells as the treble was out of order. The ringing was mostly Minor and Doubles, although some Triples, without a tenor behind, was successfully accomplished. The service was taken by the Vicar of Chertsey, the Rev. G. S. Archibald.

The tea, at 'The Bell,' attended by 35 people, was kindly paid for by East Molesey church. At the business meeting Mr. J. King reported that it would be possible to hold a social, with supper, on December 9th, although he had not yet found an entertainment. In connection with this the nomination meeting at Walton would now be on December 2nd.

The proposed amalgamation with the Surrey Association was discussed, many points being raised. It was stressed that everyone should attend the special general meeting(s) called to vote on this, or otherwise be prepared to accept the decision taken. Several new members were elected, and the meeting closed with votes of thanks to the Vicar of Chertsey (himself a ringer), particularly for his inspiring address, and to the organist.

Ringing in the evening included Killamarsh Treble Bob, Double Oxford and Double Court Minor. C. M. P.

UNIVERSITY OF WALES

The Michaelmas term meeting was held on October 21st at Talgarth and Llanfeigan and was attended by representatives from Aberystwyth, Swansea and Lampeter, as well as a number of other friends.

The service, held at Talgarth, was taken by the Vicar, the Rev. T. James, and the lessons were read by the Rev. I. J. Richards and Mr. David Beard (Aberystwyth).

Tea was provided in the Church Hall by the ladies of Talgarth, to whom we are most grateful, and was followed by a business meeting. It was decided that in future notices of meetings should be inserted in 'The Ringing World' and one notice sent to each college. The following college secretaries were appointed: B. Couzens (Swansea), M. Holt (Lampeter), C. A. Lewis (Aberystwyth). The following new members were admitted: Miss J. Williamson (Aberystwyth) and Messrs. J. Armitage, B. Huggett, A. W. Brooksbank and T. Lewis (St. David's College, Lampeter).

Methods rung ranged from Grandsire and Reverse Canterbury to Cambridge and London, a total of ten or more being scored.

The Society's thanks are accorded to the Rev. T. James, for taking the service, and the Rev. I. J. Richards, for presiding at the meeting.

The next meeting will be at Cardiff, during Rag Week, when it is hoped that Mr. Trevor Lewis will organise the two days. C. A. L.

PERSONALITIES OF THE EXERCISE—44

MR. C. EDWARD JEFFRIES,
The Bedfordshire Association.

A leading ringer and conductor in the Bedfordshire Association since the war, Mr. C. Edward Jeffries, of Bromham, near Bedford, is a very lively and likeable personality, with a delightful sense of humour. Half-an-hour in his company is a real tonic, three hours is an education, and he is very popular with all his friends.

Eddy, as he is affectionately known, was born in Edmonton, Middlesex, on April 16th, 1914. His parents moved to Bedfordshire, and he was educated at Blunham and Sandy village schools, leaving at 13, as he says, 'having learnt nothing!' However, he has since proved himself to be an astute business man in the grocery trade. He has recently built up a successful business of his own, which turned out very profitably, and he is now manager of a local Co-operative Stores.

Eddy was taught to ring at Tempsford by Charles Ball in 1933. His first peal was Bob Minor at Maulden on April 22nd, 1936, after many attempts, and was conducted by one who was a life-long friend, C. Henry Harding, until his untimely death in 1957. He soon started conducting, and called his first peal at Westoning on December 8th, 1936, with three Minor methods. It is in this branch of the art in which he has shown extraordinary skill, and he has developed an amazing ability for correctly steering a peal—in a variety of methods—to a successful conclusion. For business reasons Saturday meetings and peal attempts have been generally impossible, yet in spite of this, he has rung 340 peals, of which he has conducted 170.

PEALS AT WILLESDEN

Very wisely, probably because his Association has always fostered good six bell ringing, Eddy had a thorough grounding in Minor methods, and did not ring a peal of Surprise Major until November 9th, 1947, when he rang Yorkshire Major at Dorchester, Oxon, conducted by Walter F. Judge. This set the ball rolling, and it was not long before he was invited to ring with the talented company who ring regular peals at Willesden. He is very proud of having known, and rung peals with, such well known ringers as Charles W. Roberts, Harold G. Cashmore and Alick Cutler. He has rung peals in 44 different Surprise Major methods, including such 'brain-teasers' as Glasgow, Kensington, Benington and Banstead.

Many of the peals he has conducted for the Bedfordshire Association have been the 'first in the method,' and he is one of the select few resident members who have called both London and Bristol for the Association. He is proud of his first peal of London as conductor at Husborne Crawley on April 21st, 1949. This was the first to be rung in the county by a resident band for over 20 years, when the first resident peals were scored by the Luton and Woburn bands. In fact he has called several peals of London in the county, which were mainly due to his energy and ability in coaching a band.

TOURING WITH TOM LOCK

Eddy has had a long and fruitful association with Maulden, Beds, a popular tower for peal ringing. He conducted the 100th peal on the bells, and has called no fewer than 50 peals on this handy ring, this number being achieved on July 20th, 1960. He is very pleased to remember the happy days spent from time to time with Tom Lock's touring party, with whom he rang and conducted many peals, especially the seven peals of Aldenham which he called. He wonders, ruefully, if this is a record! Another memorable event 'on tour,' which he recalls with pleasure, is a peal on the magnificent bells at Chewton Mendip, Somerset. Eddy has achieved success in odd-bell ringing, as well as Surprise Minor and Major. He has called Holt's Original and Parker's One-Part Grandsire Triples, notable performances which are becoming increasingly rarer. He has taught quite a number of ringers, but thinks he has offended just as many! At present he is teaching a young band at St. Peter's, Bedford, on Wednesday evenings, and if there is any real talent there, Eddy will most surely develop it.

Eddy's other hobbies and interests are a study of astronomy, a liking for serious music and indulging his creative ability by occasional bouts with a Meccano set! By his brilliant conducting, not too serious attitude, yet mingled with complete confidence, he has earned himself a high place amongst the country's leading ringers of the post-war revival. APACE.

MAJOR HESSE WEEK-END

The 14th annual gathering to honour the memory of the late Major J. H. B. Hesse was held at Writton on October 21st.

A peal attempt at Yatton on the Friday evening was lost after an hour and half's ringing, but on Saturday Stedman Caters was rung successfully at Writton.

Mrs. Hesse afterwards entertained the party to tea, and thanked those taking part. Mr. H. Sanger, in his vote of thanks on behalf of the company, recalled the services rendered to ringing by Major Hesse, which it was so fitting to commemorate in this way each year.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Knight, Messrs. R. G. Beck, J. Brain, J. Chilcott, E. J. Chivers, L. Derrick, C. E. Lewington, G. Prescott, G. Salmon, H. J. Sanger, S. G. Smith and W. H. Kingcott. J. B.

DEDICATION

ST. MARY'S, CARDIGAN

The county of Cardiganshire has now its second ring of bells with the dedication on September 9th of three recast bells and the opening of the restored ring at St. Mary's Church, Cardigan. The dedication was performed by the Bishop of St. David's.

In his sermon the Bishop said the bells were a challenge to the church, to see that they were put to proper use. There were church towers with bells but no ringers and there could be no chimes unless there were people prepared to give their time and service as bellringers.

The lesson was read by Mr. F. Sharpe, president of the Central Council, and the dedication was followed by the ringing of a course of Stedman Doubles by Messrs. Gwyn Thomas (Tenby, Master) 1, E. H. Thomas (Llanely, secretary) 2, R. Warburton (Goodchurch, Ringing Master) 3, W. A. Hughes (bell founder) 4, F. Sharpe (Lanton) 5, Major R. Pateman (Cardigan) 6.

The recasting of the three bells and the provision of a new frame of Burmese hardwood, with new bell gear, had been carried out by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank. This was only part of a £3,000 scheme, which included the provision of a new heating system.

Members of St. David's Guild rang the bells at the conclusion of the service.

On the Sunday a thanksgiving service was held and the Vicar (the Rev. J. Ernest Jones), in his sermon, had a special word of thanks for Mr. F. Sharpe, for his great help in the bell restoration scheme.

PETERBOROUGH GUILD HOLD THEIR FIRST DINNER

THE Peterborough Guild rallied in a splendid fashion to support the dinner-dance of the Guild, held at Northampton Town Hall on October 21st. More than 135 ringers and friends were present and an excellent meal was followed by speeches, in which interest never flagged. Afterwards, dancing was greatly enjoyed by the young people present.

Canon G. F. Turner, the president, was in the chair, and with him were Mrs. Turner, the Ven. R. C. O. Goodchild and Mrs. Goodchild, Mr. F. Sharpe and Mrs. Sharpe, Mr. Paul L. Taylor, Mr. P. J. Chapman (Master) and Mr. Burley P. Morris (former Master) and Mrs. Morris.

The Master, in proposing the toast of 'The Church,' said he was thinking in particular of their part of it—the Church of England, to which they all belonged and whose bells they were privileged to ring.

The art of bellringing had its beginnings at a time when relationships between Church and people were in a very poor shape, and in the main their art developed apart from the Church, until the last quarter of the last century. The Church then began to take an interest in its ringers and the ringers to draw closer to the Church.

UNION COMPLETE

'We like to think,' said Mr. Chapman, 'that since those early days the union has been completed and that the Church looks upon its bells and ringers as an essential part of its life. But does it? How many of the new church buildings have made provision for bells? Very few, indeed! Is it too late to persuade the diocese that something should be done at Corby, for instance? Or shall we have there something akin to the sham bell mechanism which was installed in the new Parish Church at Stevenage recently? I am confident we shall not, and that those in authority in this diocese will reject any such deceptive substitutes as unworthy of a place in God's house.'

'It must be fairly obvious to everyone that things are changing in the Church, and that the pattern of worship so long established and familiar is giving way to new concepts. The emphasis now is on the family of the Church, and it is essential that we as ringers play our full part in the family life as real members of the family. Then, I feel sure, we will have gone far towards solving the problems of recruiting which have existed for so long. There is a slogan "The family which prays together stays together" and this applies very much to the team of ringers.'

The Archdeacon of Northampton, who replied to the toast, said he supposed bellringing was one of the things that the Church took very much for granted. Despite what people did England still possessed her bells. Henry VIII was said to have sold 100,000 lbs. of bell metal to a certain John Claw and Oliver Cromwell took possession of all the bells he could find to make cannons.

SPEAK FOR THEMSELVES

'We must never forget,' continued the Archdeacon, 'the tremendous service you do for the Church in a quiet way, for you let the bells speak for themselves. The bells speak, apart from the services of the church, at the great moments in people's lives.'

In the Middle Ages the bells spoke for the activities of man. There was the plough bell, the reaping bell, and when people used to cook their bread in the lord of the manor's oven, a bell was rung to say that the oven was hot. This contact with the daily life of the people was still reflected and he hoped they would hang on to the areas where they had a stronghold and continue to do this work for the Church, and treat this work as a real vocation. It was really a sacramental act and not a pastime. He also hoped they would all be missionaries, particularly among young people, for bellringing.

The Archdeacon said he had been in the United States for 2½ months and bells were one of the things he missed. They had these 'ersatz' bells, which was not ringing. He hoped they would be helped in the stewardship campaigns in the diocese, because it was one of the ways people could give service to God.

BELLS IN THE MODERN CHURCH

Mr. Frederick Sharpe proposed the toast of 'The Peterborough Diocesan Guild.' He said on the question of bells in new churches, one member of their Guild, who was an architect, was preparing an article which was to be published in the architectural press relating to the subject. It was possible to put a small ring of bells in these modern towers. The draft of the article was complete and they were going to have a committee meeting on it. The architect was Mr. Brian Austin.

He would like to congratulate the Peterborough Diocesan Guild on many things—on their progress and on their enterprise in holding that dinner-dance, which he hoped would be repeated annually and go on for many years. Another example was the excellent course they rang at Knuston Hall, which was very enjoyable.

Reading their report he noted that it had been an exceptional year for peals and he noticed that Sunday ringing had been maintained, although there were still one or two bad spots. The good record of Sunday ringing was due to the good work of the Diocesan Guilds. If one searched the county bell histories, written about 1880, they would find it was exceptional to ring bells for Sunday services. They were rung at festivals and on special occasions, but rarely rung for Sundays. He found that the average then was 3 or 3½ per cent. The survey told them that it had risen to 70 per cent and that was entirely due to Guilds such as theirs.

The long looked for revised book on Minor methods was in the Press. They had reached a stage when the proofs were being read for a second time. The Council was also engaged on 'The Preservation of bells, bell frames, etc.. Handbook.' They would have a committee meeting on that book in a fortnight's time and they hoped to put it in the hands of the printers very shortly.

BOOM PERIOD FOR FOUNDRIES

In regard to bell restorations the quinquennial surveys were bearing much fruit. He forecast a boom period for bell restorations. The essential things had been done to the fabric of buildings, and it meant that the P.C.C.s could now turn their attention to bells.

Another important matter was sound control. If by chance their bells were too loud they must control them and their revised booklet would deal more fully with this subject than the old.

Northamptonshire was one of the first counties where peals were rung, and they had a good change ringing tradition. They did not have it in Oxfordshire, although it existed in the city of Oxford. There were peals rung in Kettering in 1729 and in Northampton in 1739. The Peterborough Guild had sprung out of the older societies and it was better to grow by evolution and not revolution. Their healthy state was due to their Master. He was well known to them as a heavy bell ringer: he was also a churchwarden and a good churchman, and also a great teacher and in that respect he remembered David Marshall, who at the age of 15 conducted a peal of Surprise. Their secretary and treasurer was seriously ill and he hoped they would convey to him their greeting, wishing him a speedy recovery. Their president had also done very much for the Guild and it gave him pleasure to couple his name with the toast.

MESSAGE FROM Mr. G. W. JEFFS

Canon G. F. Turner said he went to see their secretary and treasurer (Mr. Jeffs) in the Rockingham Road Hospital, Kettering, that morning and he asked him to convey to them his love and deep regret at not being with them.

'Our Guild must be very proud to hear Mr. Sharpe speak as he did,' said the president, 'because it does show that in this diocese our Guild is really doing something. One of the first remarks passed to me from Mr. Sharpe was how very impressed he was at the number of young ringers in the diocese and it gave him very great pleasure to see so many there.'

'We in this diocese have inherited some of the most beautiful churches in this country. We shall carry on that tradition and do our part in the evangelistic work of the Church so that the Gospel news can be conveyed to the people by church bellringers.'

The toast of 'The Visitors' was proposed by Miss Shelagh R. Collins, who welcomed Mr. and Mrs. Sharpe, Mr. Paul L. Taylor, the Archdeacon of Northampton and Mrs. Goodchild and the Editor of 'The Ringing World.'

Mr. Taylor, in his reply, said he was very much in agreement in having bells in new churches. The mention of the early bell founders reminded him that it was the bell founders who first made the guns.

Mr. Burley P. Morris, a past Master of the Guild and now secretary of the Derbyshire Association, proposed the toast of 'The Ringing World' and said that it was through their journal that ringers throughout the Commonwealth had been united in one family. He impressed upon the company the importance of getting more readers, especially postal subscribers.

The Editor, in his reply, mentioned that it had been a very good quarter for new postal subscribers. He hoped the generosity of the Editorial Committee in meeting the increased postal rates and not passing it on to subscribers would be appreciated by a great influx of more readers.

At the conclusion of the speeches the chairman thanked Mr. Eric Billings, for making arrangements for the gathering. The evening concluded with dancing to music by Leon Marcel and his Rhythm, with Mr. B. E. Frost, Ringing Master of the Northampton Branch, as M.C.

LITTLE MISSENDEN RINGERS

Little Missenden owes much to its lady ringers and they were warmly praised by the tower foreman, Mr. S. J. Orchard, at the ringers' dinner held at Little Abbey Hotel recently. 'We could easily raise a ladies' team,' said Mr. Orchard. 'The girls will form the background of future ringers.'

Mr. Alan Peek, proposing 'The Church and Clergy,' said they were all privileged to work in one of the loveliest churches in the country, with a refreshing and vigorous leader, so that they could look forward to the future with confidence.

The Vicar (the Rev. F. F. C. Roberts), who replied, stated that at the future arts festivals the ringers would be asked to play a prominent part.

Speaking on behalf of the visitors, Mr. E. G. Swift, foreman of Chalfont St. Peter tower, described the art of campanology as holding the bond and band of friendship to an international degree.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

'METROPOLITAN SURREY'

Dear Sir,—Your editorial on the Surrey amalgamation falls into the common error which has pervaded the atmosphere of territorial Associations for far too long. It may not be commonly realised by others who do not pay county rates that there exists a County of London and that Surrey, Kent and Middlesex no longer meet at Westminster Bridge.

Your editorial states that Putney, Southwark and Sireatham would remain in Metropolitan Surrey. As an ex-officer of the London County Association, I feel that this remark must not go unchallenged. The towers mentioned are without any shadow of doubt within the boundaries of the County of London and, I would therefore submit, within the territory of the London County Association. With regard to Diocesan affiliations the London County has the subsidiary title of the North Southwark Diocesan Guild.—Yours faithfully,

PETER J. HUTCHINGS,

Paddock Wood, Kent.

Mr. WILFRED WILLIAMS' 'BOOZING' TOUR

Dear Sir,—Every week I look forward to reading my copy of 'The Ringing World,' but when I read the rubbishy write up of Mr. Wilfred Williams' peal tour of the West Country, I began to wonder whether it was a peal tour or a pub crawl.

I'm quite sure most ringers aren't a bit interested whether 'Peter Border knows what cider is for, some liking the "beer" in Cullompton, visiting the oldest pub in Ilfracombe, Tawstock doesn't have a pub and the "handie bar" of a nearby pub,' etc., just to mention a few references made to pubs in his write up.

So next year, Mr. Williams, let's have a write up that's about ringing and not a lot of trash about your pub crawling companions.—Yours sincerely,

R. KINGSLEY MASON.

Knighton, Leicester.

SPANNERS AND OIL CANS NEEDED

Dear Sir,—I would like to point out that the heading to the article 'Pershore ringers needed spanners and oil cans' should have read 'Spanners and oilcans needed in the Pershore Deanery.' The outing was, in fact, by the Droitwich and Stourbridge young ringers. It will be evident that the letter submitted by Messrs. Brookes and Millidge is therefore irrelevant, and hardly 'decent.' They may be further interested to know that the express purpose of the outing was to carry out repairs at the towers visited, with much labour and grease expended.

Pershore Abbey bells are usually rung only by visiting bands, the local hand ringing at St. Andrew's for Abbey services. It hardly seems reasonable to ask the church to buy ropes for bells which are mainly used by visitors for their own enjoyment, and it is for this reason that a fund has been opened.

May I make it clear that this letter contains my own views, and is not an official reply by the Abbey ringers.—Yours faithfully,

PAUL CATERMOLE.

St. Peter's, Droitwich Spa.

AMALGAMATION TALK IN SURREY

Dear Sir,—Members of the Surrey Association may have been surprised to learn the details of a proposal for amalgamation with the Guildford Diocesan Guild from the leading article in last week's 'Ringing World.' I regret that the writer was under a misapprehension in stating that the information had been circulated to towers in both areas.

There is no harm, of course, in making these details public providing that the membership of both Societies and the Exercise at large realise that the scheme for amalgamation is still in the exploratory stage. At the moment the most significant question is whether a practical scheme is possible which meets with approval from both memberships and safeguards both Societies' traditions and interests. The details of any one scheme, therefore, are not as important at this stage as the search for a common basis of agreement. If and when this is found, the representations of both Societies will meet to prepare a joint policy statement for simultaneous issue to both Societies.

It is proposed to arrange for the members of Surrey and Guildford to consider this statement at separate meetings and indicate their approval or disapproval of amalgamation. The details, such as District boundaries, organisation, funds and rules would be considered by a joint sub-committee and presented for approval at a later date.

The suggestion to consider a merger came originally from the Guildford Diocesan Guild and sub-committees were empowered by both Societies to examine the whole question. The discussions have been held in a most friendly atmosphere and it is perhaps a little unfortunate that the writer of the article should choose to comment on the severing of happy relationships when it has been the concern of all involved to establish and maintain them.

Neither Society finds any compelling need to amalgamate in order to survive as a unit and the pros and cons for amalgamation need quiet consideration by each member. Whilst the present confusion of diocesan and county boundaries exists, negotiations such as we are engaged in at present will require considerable tact and understanding by both parties and by the Exercise in general.—Yours sincerely,

RAYMOND PARSONS,

General Secretary,
Surrey Association.

Lingfield, Surrey.

PREMATURE

Dear Sir,—Your leading article in 'The Ringing World' of October 20th re the suggested amalgamation of the Guildford Diocesan Guild and the Surrey Association was unfortunately wrongly timed. The information used in this editorial was a report by the Guildford Guild Sub-Committee which met the Surrey Association Sub-Committee last February and which the members attending the A.G.M. agreed should be circulated to Guildford Guild towers and officers. The document sent to you, sir, was for your own information as a member of the Guildford Guild Executive.

It was intended to hold a further meeting of the two sub-committees after both Association Executive Committees had met, and then to issue a joint statement to the members of both bodies simultaneously. This, your leader, has forestalled.

The relationship between the officers of both Guilds is most cordial and it is hoped that, whatever the outcome of the present discussions, this cordiality will continue. It is not yet time for individuals to ventilate their opinions in the Press. What is eventually decided must be for the betterment of the Exercise.

Both the Guildford Guild and the Surrey Association officers are alive to the many ties and loyalties that bind them to the past.—Yours, etc.,

C. W. DENYER,
Master,

Guildford Diocesan Guild,
S. T. A. RUSSELL,
General Secretary.

Note.—The report sent to the Editor was not marked confidential, but contained a request 'to discuss the matter in your towers.'—Ed.

THE LADIES AT ROCHESTER

Dear Sir,—Having just returned from a meeting at Rochester Cathedral, I should be most pleased if, on all future occasions, a person be placed at the foot of the tower (as at Canterbury) for the express purpose of admitting ringers. If this had been the case on a recent evening I should not have had a fruitless journey.

Also, I should like to mention that this is the first Ladies' Guild meeting, joint with the Kent County Association, I have been to, at which there was no official welcome; in fact the ladies were more or less considered a nuisance, it even being suggested that they may have been the reason why no tea was provided! and were they not capable of holding a meeting on their own!!—Yours faithfully,

ELIZABETH CHAPMAN (Mrs.),
Canterbury, Kent.

Mr. W. C. SHUTE

Dear Sir,—As an old pupil of the above, it gave me great pleasure to see Bill mentioned in dispatches, in a recent issue of 'The Ringing World,' and I heartily endorse the praise accorded to him.

When learning to ring I know that I was a very dull pupil and it was only Bill's patience and enthusiasm that prevented me from giving up the struggle. Bill's attitude towards learners was well illustrated when I called (I cannot say conducted) my first quarter peal.

Having taught a new band of ringers at Buckland Newton, Bill decided that five of us, with his assistance, should ring our first quarter for Harvest Festival Evensong, 1932, and we naturally thought that he would do the conducting. With Bill on the fifth and myself on the fourth, the bells nicely tapping the opening rounds, Bill turned to me informing me that I was calling the quarter. On protesting that I could not do so, Bill said, 'Call each bell observation twice, two 120's yourself observation and call yourself to make the bob three times.' With Bill calling the few bobs when I missed and cancelling a few more which should not have been there, we got our quarter safely.

May I conclude by publicly saying a very big 'Thank you' to a grand gentleman.—Yours sincerely,

E. T. PAUL FIELD,
Knole, Langport, Somerset.

ST. THOMAS' CHURCH, NEWPORT, ISLE OF WIGHT

By T. A. BEVIS

NEWPORT (we cannot bottle) and nearby, watching over the Solent, Cowes (we cannot milk)! Quite true! The market town of Newport is 'capital' of the Isle of Wight and is situated but a few miles from East and West Cowes, home of the most famous yacht club in the world.

Newport has a solid buttress in its southern flank in that impressively situated Norman castle at Carisbrooke (donkey and all) vying for prominence with the village church and, a short distance away, set amidst a profusion of red-bricked shops and dwellings, rises a finely proportioned tower, attached to a church dedicated to St. Thomas.

The writer had the good fortune to meet Mr. Upton, who, although no youngster, continues to work in a leather shop opposite the church. This upright gentleman—a highly respected member of the old school of bellringers—volunteered information that approximately 100 years ago the mediæval fane was demolished by an over-enthusiastic Vicar, who deemed that the mellowed beauty of the original building was not at all in keeping with the regal dignity of Queen Victoria—who was a frequent visitor to Newport. Thus grew the new church.

The little body of King Charles II's daughter rests before the altar, the site marked by a brass. A magnificent model of the church can be seen in the aisle and by inserting sixpence in the meter, bells can be heard ringing to a system of changes.

Until 1809 St. Thomas' Church possessed a ring of six bells. A year or two before that date a desire was expressed to augment that number to eight, and on April 19th, 1808, a meeting of inhabitants of the borough of Newport at the Vestry proposed and met with unanimous consent to erect two treble bells in the tower, and recast the third and fifth.

The church possesses an interesting list of subscribers—people of all ages, crafts and professions—and donations altogether totalled £145 16s. 7d. One ringer, William Rayner, himself had saved ¼d. a day for 22 years, and at long last had the satisfaction of seeing his name numbered with his enthusiastic and benevolent townfolk, having patiently amassed throughout those long and hopeful years the sum of £16 14s. 7d.

Would that a little of his enthusiasm be evidenced in these grasping, carefree and tumultuous times. Eight Newport ringers donated 8 guineas towards the funds.

February 14th, 1809, was a great day for Newport. The new octave rang out for the first time, change upon change, interwoven in the melody of Grandsire Triples. Capably handled by the Union of Newport Youths, the bells successfully completed a ten-course peal, composed by J. Holt, in two hours and fifty-seven minutes.

The bells have required very little attention in recent years (Warners rehung them in 1916); nevertheless they 'go' quite well. Distraction is caused, however, by noisy ropes, these forming a very good circle in a comfortable and spacious chamber mid-way in the tower.

Four of the bells are inscribed with unusual and somewhat lengthy verses:

Treble.—

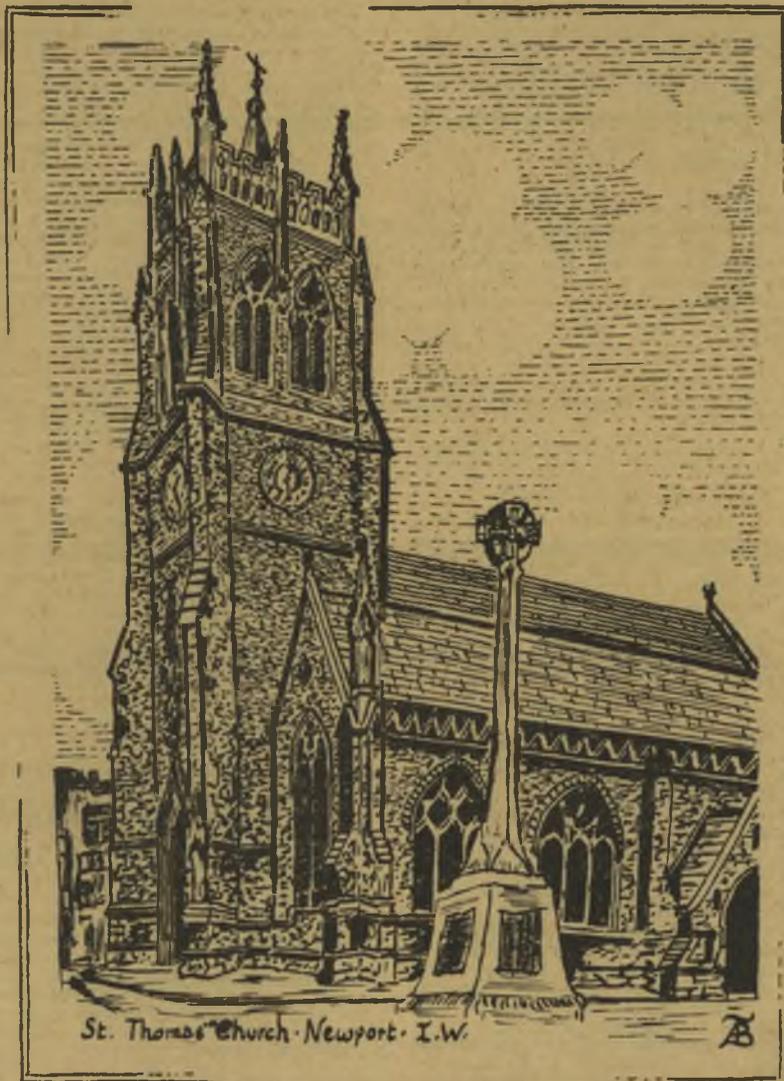

'In sweetest sound let each its note reveal;
Mine shall be first to lead the dulcet peal;
When female virtue weds with manly worth,
We catch the rapture, and we spread it forth.'

Second.—

'The public rais'd us with a liberal hand;
We come with harmony to cheer the land.
May each subscriber in these numbers live,
And Unions ever feel those joys they give!'

Third.—

'May George long reign who now the sceptre
And British valour ever rule the seas;
Does battle wage? Do sanguine foes contend?
We hail the victor—if he's Britain's friend.'

Fifth.—

'May England's cost the pride of Commerce see,
And Britain's pride be always to be free!
May Peace return to bless Britannia's shores,
And Faction fall, to raise her head no more!'

The remaining bells do not possess inscriptions of particular interest, but are worth noting for their date of casting: Fourth and sixth, 1674; seventh and tenor (13 cwt. 3 qr. 26 lb.). 1675.

RECORDS IN COPPERPLATE

The ringers are in possession of two or three beautifully produced record books, and entries are delicately written in copperplate. They date from January 30th, 1771, and therein are contained all activities which took place in the tower, from 'The Peal of Plain Bobb' to peals by married men and peals by bachelors.

Various peals have been rung at St. Thomas' Church, and among these the most creditable effort would appear to be an extent of Stedman Triples, on May 10th, 1928—the first and, as yet, only peal in that principle by a resident company of ringers on the Isle of Wight. The same team also rang a peal of Grandsire Triples (Holt's Original) on June 3rd, 1930, in honour of King George V's 65th birthday.

On February 13th, 1936, an extent of Grandsire Triples materialised under the auspices of the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild to commemorate 50 years' service by Walter Scott, a Newport ringer. At that time he had rung the bells for 52 Mayors.

Also recorded in the ringing chamber are two peals, on May 22nd and May 23rd, 1923, at St. Mary's Church, Carisbrooke. They were of Stedman Triples and Kent Treble Bob Major, respectively, both being rung in the evening of each day and 'were brought round in a masterly manner to commemorate the centenary of the death of William Rayner, a prominent ringer of Newport.'

Many good Newport men have trodden the steps in St. Thomas' tower; most have left a beneficial influence, but none, I feel, were more zealous and devoted to their church than that gentleman of yesteryear who accumulated halfpennies for augmentation funds, and who had earlier presented a handsome Record Book to his campanological companions, with whom he had obviously enjoyed so much of his time.

William Rayner had engraved upon his gift these very appropriate words:

'THE ART IS GREAT—THE MUSIC SWEET.'

FOOTNOTE.—The writer desires to thank the ringers of All Saints' Church, Freshwater, Isle of Wight, and regrets his brief stay did not enable him to take notes of the impressive church and equally impressive bells.

TALGARTH, BRECONSHIRE.—On Oct. 18th, 1,206 Grandsire Doubles: B. L. Jones 1, S. V. Edwards 2, C. F. M. Wedgewood (first quarter) 3, W. C. Smith 4, D. H. Bennett (cond.) 5, E. J. Smith 6.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION AT GOOLE

The autumn meeting of the Yorkshire Association took place at Goole on September 23rd, being attended by over 80 members and friends representing all the four Districts. Following the statutory meeting of the committee an enjoyable service took place, conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. G. W. P. Adkin, at which the address was given by the Assistant Bishop of Sheffield (the Right Rev. G. V. Gerard).

Following an excellent tea in the Parish Rooms the business meeting was held, when the chair was taken by the president, the Ven. C. O. Ellison (Archdeacon of Leeds), supported by the general secretary (Mr. L. W. G. Morris) and the honorary treasurer (Mr. V. Bottomley).

Apologies for absence were received from Miss D. M. Killingley, and Messrs. T. W. Strangeway, B. Suttou, F. A. Slaveley, W. E. Critchley, H. Chant, F. Hodgson, A. E. Marsh and A. Bashforth.

A vote of thanks to the Vicar and churchwardens for the use of the bells was unanimously accorded on the motion of Mr. H. Walker, seconded by Mr. P. Birkett, and a similar vote of thanks to the local company and all who had contributed so much to the success of the meeting was proposed by Miss M. E. Wilkinson, and seconded by Mr. N. Chaddock.

In reply, the Vicar said how pleased he was to welcome so large a gathering, and to see so many young people present. Rather than be thanked, he thought it more appropriate to say thank you for coming to Goole, in the hope that the next visit would not be so long delayed.

Mrs. J. J. Taylor responded for the local company, and in a charming speech said what great pleasure it had been to entertain members of the Association in their tower after so many years.

On the motion of Mr. J. Seager, seconded by Mr. H. Foster, it was unanimously agreed to endeavour to arrange the next meeting, due to be held on January 20th, at Leeds.

The president reported that the committee had considered an application for a grant from the Bell Repair Fund from Sprotborough, where it was proposed to restore the six bells, and to add two more to complete the octave. It had been decided to make a grant of £5. The committee had also considered the existing rule, which fixed £5 as a maximum, and on behalf of the committee the president gave notice of motion to amend the maximum figure to £10. This will come before the next general meeting for discussion and settlement.

THE IRISH ASSOCIATION

Blessington was selected for the summer meeting of the Eastern District on September 23rd. It was over two years since the bells had been rung and the ropes were in a poor condition.

There was evidence of hard work by the Rector, the Rev. E. S. Despard, who personally repaired the wheels of the bells by replacing broken rims with new timber. He also had three broken crown staples replaced with forged staples, which were bolted through the crowns of the bells concerned.

The local people showed great interest. In fact some of the them were given instruction in ringing and before the day's proceedings concluded were actually ringing rounds with the visitors. It was also a pleasure to see the Rector ringing.

The bells could not be rung for long spells, owing to the difficulty with the tenor—even with two men on the rope, particularly Paddy Mills and Michael Dwyer, who seemed to enjoy it. Nevertheless, some good call changes and plain hunting were rung.

After tea, the Drogheda 'Dukes' box, as it was called, rang 120's of the Grand sire Doubles on Fred Dukes' additional handbells—tenor size 18 in G, which brought the schoolhouse down.

Good wishes were extended to Mrs. Dukes for her forthcoming operation, and to Mr. McManus on his retirement.

The secretary reported that arrangements were well advanced concerning the Snowdon dinner, but following a visit to Ilkley he was sorry to find that the plaque underneath the Jasper Snowdon memorial window had deteriorated considerably. The opinion of a professional sign writer had been obtained through the good offices of Mr. W. Barton, when it was found that restoration was a much more involved problem than anticipated.

Mr. G. Benfield complimented the secretary on his write-up of Jasper Snowdon and the Yorkshire Association, and added that he thought the Association should do something about restoring the plaques commemorating both Jasper Snowdon and his brother, William Snowdon. This was supported by Mr. W. Barton and agreed to.

On the motion of Mr. J. Seager, seconded by Mr. F. Jackson, Mr. Brian Entwistle (Queensbury) was elected a member, and the following as out-county members: Christine Townend (Stalybridge), F. John Nelson (Manchester), Derek Marshall and Frederick Shallcross (Ashton-under-Lyne) and Ivor Jenkins (Poynnton, Cheshire).

The president reported that an appeal to the Charities Branch of the Inland Revenue authorities in respect of the liability to tax on the interest of investments had not been upheld. Mr. N. Chaddock announced that a further course in bellringing had been arranged at Grantley Hall Adult College, near Ripon, on April 27th-29th.

Mr. H. Walker reported the death, at the age of 87 years, of Mr. T. W. Robbins, of Escrick, a member of the Association since 1894.

This concluded the business, and further ringing was enjoyed.

30 Years Ago

'R.W.' October 30th, 1931.—

Exactly a hundred years ago next Sunday a peal of 6,160 Double Norwich Major (the longest in the method up to that time) was rung at St. Michael Coslany, Norwich.

One hundred and twenty years ago today the first double-handed handbell peal was rung. It was Oxford Treble Bob Major at Sheffield.

Next Thursday is the 110th anniversary of the first peal of Superlative rung at St. Peter's, Huddersfield.

50 Years Ago

'R.W.' October 27th, 1911.—

A remarkable performance, unique in the annals of ringing, was accomplished at St. Margaret's Church, Leiston, Suffolk, on Saturday, October 21st, when eight brothers Bailey rang a peal of Bob Major. There are eleven boys in this wonderful family, but it is no less extraordinary that so many of them should have taken up the art. They are excellent ringers and strikers, and we may expect to see further Bailey peals before long. In the peal of Bob Major the treble was rung by Allan, the youngest of the brothers, and the rest stood in the order of their ages, Edgar, the eldest, ringing the tenor, which is a bell of 20½ cwt. The peal was attempted the previous week, but was lost after more than an hour's ringing.

Further interest attaches to the performance last Saturday, as it was the 27th anniversary of the opening of the bells, and the peal brought the total number rung in the tower to exactly 100. Ringers generally will join in the congratulations already extended to the eight brothers by the residents of Leiston, who are very proud of their bellringers.

(The band was Allan, Frederick, Leonard, James, Norman, Ernest, Charles and Edgar.)

Chester Diocesan Guild at Dinner

Recording Of Bells For Guild Library

THE annual dinner was overshadowed by the sudden illness of the general secretary (Mr. H. O. Baker), who it was reported was now happily much improved and hoped to be home very soon. The arrangements were taken over by the Master and the event proved as attractive as ever, some 100 members and friends being present.

The guest of honour was the Rev. H. W. Lewis, Rector of Daresbury, and the suggestion was made that, as his church had a close association with Lewis Carroll, he was appointed because of his name. For the uninformed in Daresbury Church there is a very beautiful stained glass window, which contains representations of the characters in 'Alice in Wonderland.'

In his speech the Rector asked his hearers to remember that the clergy were human beings. He besprinkled his remarks very liberally with stories and anecdotes which tended to prove this statement and that very often they were able to laugh really heartily at themselves. Another of his remarks, which might be pondered, was that without the church there would be no bells for us to ring. He mentioned the change in status of the parson and asked was it right for the clergy to be blamed for the empty churches? He gave some idea of the difficulties of parish life and said how necessary it was for a parson to have a sense of humour. It just was not true that they were gloomy people.

The Master in his remarks made reference to the illness of Mr. Baker, general secretary, and said how glad everyone was that he was improving and asked Mrs. Baker, who was present, to convey the gathering's good wishes to him. He dwelt on the affairs of the Guild during the past year and the annual festival at Macclesfield.

75th ANNIVERSARY

He suggested that recordings might be made of the bells of the diocese and kept in the Guild library. Next year we should reach the 75th anniversary of the founding of the Guild and arrangements had been made to hold a service in the Cathedral on November 17th, 1962, at which the Lord Bishop would preach. He hoped that there would be a good number present and referred to the founder, Archdeacon Barber, who ruled his clergy with a rod of iron; many clergymen attended the inaugural meeting because they received an instruction from the Archdeacon to do so.

The Master mentioned that the late general secretary, Rev. John Kingdon, was in hospital and he was asked to write to him conveying the Guild's regards and good wishes for his recovery.

Mr. R. C. H. Sibley ably proposed the toast of 'The Ladies' and remarked that it always seems to come at the end of the list and he considered it should be very much higher. He was a little puzzled by the toast as ladies are an integral part of the Guild and take their full part in its activities. He divided the ladies into three categories: clergymen's wives, who allow their husbands to take Guild services on Saturday afternoon, when they might be more usefully occupied in taking their wives shopping; Guild officials' wives, who had to put up with their absence from home on Guild business; and the ladies who take part in the work of the towers and were the mainstay of many towers. There were also the ladies outside the Guild who were, however, usually members of other church organisations and who were so often called upon to provide tea for the ringers.

Dr. E. V. Woodcock replied to the toast, and in her remarks said that it seemed to her that ringing was the only activity in which there was no separate standard for ladies so that women were not completely emancipated. As a ringer herself she must not forget the long suffering ringers' wives and such an evening was an opportunity for them to share in their husbands' activities.

During the course of the evening there was a programme of songs, humorous items and handbell ringing under the direction of Mr. A. J. Martin. E. H. L.

Congratulations to the ladies of the Towcester Branch on ringing their first quarter. A peal cannot be very far distant!

Winchester & Portsmouth Diocesan Guild

Alliston Cup Striking Competition

Following earlier elimination contests, one Sunday service band from each of six of the Guild's eight Districts met at New Alresford on October 14th, to compete for the handsome trophy which Mr. A. W. Alliston, of All Hallows', Whitchurch, has kindly presented to the Guild for annual competition.

The adjudicator, Mr. Frank Darby, of Croydon, and his marker, Norman Hayes, of North Stoneham, were already sequestered in their listening post when the captains drew for order. As three of the competitors were to ring Doubles and the other three Triples, there was much speculation as to what complicated equipment would be used to balance the score. Someone suggested that Harold Chant and the Professor might be somewhere around with their formula for a 'Compass Factor.'

The first victims were sent up to the ringing chamber, to be confronted by none less than Charlie Kippin, who assured them his job was only to see that they played fair. (His restraint from commenting on the ringing, whilst in progress, was appreciated by all.)

In due course a few rounds issued forth, then a stop to make adjustments to ropes, and then the 'Test':

Six whole pulls, the touch of Grandsire, six whole pulls and stand, followed by a gradual return of pulse rates to normal. The other five bands followed in turn: the Doubles bands rang 240's and the Triples 238's, their opponents sitting or walking in the sunshine, listening, criticising, hopeful or just resigned.

By about 4 p.m. the agony was ended and everyone suddenly became interested in tea. This had been prepared in a nearby hall, by some of the Competition Committee and some local ringers.

After tea came the presentation. Mr. Alliston formally handed the cup to Roger Savory, the Guild general secretary, expressing the hope that keen contests and a high standard of striking throughout the Guild would follow.

Opening his review of the afternoon's performance, Mr. Darby recalled Harold Chant's formula for the ideal adjudicator—'such a paragon of virtues that he probably does not exist'—apologised for his own shortcomings and then proceeded to pronounce judgment, and to give some constructive criticism of each band's ringing.

The winning District, after allowing for the 'Compass Factor,' was Southampton, represented by the Bishopstoke band, who had rung Triples in such fine style that nobody doubted the result. (Note.—It was reported in the 'R.W.' page 662, that St. Michael's, Southampton, won the eliminating round; they did, but subsequently withdrew, leaving Bishopstoke to represent the District.) Following closely were Basingstoke District (Overton band) and Andover District (Andover band), both of whom entered Doubles. The other Doubles band, Petersfield, made fourth place, and the Triples bands from Winchester and Fareham were in 5/6.

The applause which followed Mr. Darby's observations was a tribute as much to his good judgment as to his wit.

Mrs. Kippin was then called upon to present the cup, which she was specially proud to do, seeing that it was coming to her District. Most of the company then returned to the tower, where, later on, we had the pleasure of watching Mr. Darby call a touch of four Spliced Surprise Major with such calm assurance that any pin-pricks he may have inflicted were forgiven.

Somebody managed to make a recording of some of the ringing, including part of the winning touch, which we hope will survive to compare with future efforts.

NORWICH DIOCESAN

The attendance (only 19 for tea) was disappointing at the quarterly meeting of the Northern District held at Lyng on October 14th. Had the juke box, the music of which accompanied the tea, been advertised, it would certainly have drawn the crowd. Nevertheless, the ringing on the five bells was enjoyed.

Mr. F. N. Golden, the president, who was in the chair for the business meeting, thanked the Rector of Elsing, the Rev. H. G. Keet, for conducting the service and his interesting address.

Belfry elections of the following were ratified: Messrs. R. R. Savory, R. C. Kippin, D. Kippin, S. Parkman Shaw III (U.S.A.), T. Chapman, J. Hill, J. E. Chilcott, B. F. L. Groves, Basil Jones, B. Harris, F. E. Wilshaw, F. Shallcross, A. P. Whitehead, R. B. Smith, D. Mottershead, Miss A. Cox, Mrs. J. Lock and Mrs. T. Chapman. Elected ringing members were Mr. and Mrs. Quincery (Reepham) and Mr. K. Duesbury (Sprowston), and as honorary members the Revs. W. B. H. Chandler and H. G. Keet.

Members were sorry to learn that Mrs. Curson was in hospital.

Annual Branch meeting: Hethersett, January 6th (subject to permission).

THE LADIES' GUILD

The last two meetings of the Sussex District were held at Cuckfield in July and Westham in September. We were sorry that there was not a good attendance at Cuckfield, especially as our president, Mrs. J. Staniforth, had travelled from Leicester to be with us. However, we were very pleased to meet her, and we hope she enjoyed her visit. The informal meeting was taken in the pleasant gardens of Ockenden Manor, after a 'Sussex tea.'

At Westham, the rather heavy going bells were rung until tea time by the few ladies present, helped by the gentleman! Several young members were elected. In the evening we rang at Christ Church, Eastbourne.

The College Youths' peal at Northwram, Yorks, was rung by a band of Masonic brethren. A splendid tea was provided by Mr. and Mrs. Cyril F. Sutcliffe assisted by Mrs. Hartley, the wife of a Halifax ringer. The band was assembled from a wide radius and the evening was spent pleasantly reminiscing.

Miss Margaret Ladd, from Tunbridge Wells, was welcomed at Kilbroney tower, Rostrevor, during her summer holiday.

Mr. Leonard Collins, foreman of the Stoke Mandeville tower, is the Ringing Master of the Oxford Diocesan Guild's latest branch—the Chilterns.

Headed 'Double Dodge,' the following appears in 'The Irish Bell News': 'Heartiest congratulations to Tommy McMorrán, St. Patrick's Cathedral, Dublin, on his marriage.'

Before Miss J. Midgley returned to Calgary, Alberta, she rang in a quarter peal of Grand-sire Triples at Ottery St. Mary. Her visit home was much appreciated in the West Country.

Another 50th anniversary peal was rung at Leiston, Suffolk, on October 14th to commemorate the performance of the eight brothers Bailey. Of that band Sid and Jim are still going strong.

The band who rang the peal of Minor in seven methods at Norbury on October 17th appreciate the act of Miss Carol Fernley, who stood down when they met one short for Major.

The handbell ringers of St. Mary's Church, Launton, gave a very successful recital of sacred music at All Saints' Church, Huntingdon, on behalf of the fabric fund. Seventy-six handbells were used and the programme included chime tunes, mediæval carols, foreign carols, traditional English carols and well known hymn tunes. Mr. Frederick Sharpe conducted. A similar recital was given at St. David's Cathedral. On both occasions there was a full congregation.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Frodsham, Cheshire, bells were rehung and augmented to eight 50 years ago (October 9th, 1911). To honour the half-century, during which time 208 peals have been rung, a peal of Superlative Surprise Major was rung on October 11th. This was the same method as the first peal, which was rung on November 11th, 1911. Mr. E. H. Lewis conducted this peal and he is the only survivor of the band which contained such famous names as H. W. Wilde, W. Bibby, H. Chapman, R. Sperring and J. Morgan.

Miss Stanley, the secretary of St. Thomas', Belfast, is studying at the Royal College of Music, reports 'The Irish Bell News.' Miss Patricia Robinson, of 50, Elmwood Avenue, Belfast, 9, is the new secretary.

The vehicle registration letters for Bournemouth are BEL. A reader writes: 'If anyone can afford £5 for a special registration number we shall be able to put the BEL(LES) on the road.'

Mr. Desmond Painter, writing from Hussey College, Warri, Nigeria, writes that he has been finding life most interesting and enjoyable. Alas! there are no bells nearer than Southern Rhodesia.

The prominent Stanwell, Middlesex, ringer, Mr. C. B. Fynes, conducted a quarter peal in seven Surprise Minor methods for his 20th birthday. This was done while ringing the second and third bells at Stanwell Parish Church.

It is rather significant to note that after the visit of three touring bands in two consecutive weeks the lounge bar of a certain hotel in a far-west cathedral city is being redecorated. From now on, all touring bands will be halted on the Devon/Cornish border, and searched for water-pistols and other lethal weapons.

A popular member of Steeple Claydon, Bucks. tower is Mr. John Hodges, whose wedding to Miss J. Grace on October 17th was marked by a quarter peal. John has been secretary of the P.C.C. for the last six years and also sings in the choir. The St. Michael's ringers wish him many happy years of ringing in his new parish.

SHELLEY CUP CONTEST

Warsop won this year's Shelley cup contest held at Shelley, near Huddersfield, on October 21st. The judges were Mr. Percy Hawthornthwaite and Mr. Trevor Tarbutt, with Mr. Albert Goldthorpe as marker, and four towers competed.

The order of ringing and marking was: Barnsley 96 faults, Friezland 144, Meltham 64, Warsop 54. The presentation of the cup was made by Councillor Addy, who handed it to Mr. H. T. Rooke. Each member of the team received a cruet set. The Vicar (the Rev. A. Crow) presided, and the vote of thanks was proposed by Mr. J. W. Buxton.

A WELSH AUGMENTATION

The bells of St. John Baptist, Newton Nottage (Porthcawl), were hung in a fine iron frame in 1905. Messrs. John Taylor and Son have lifted them out and removed the headstocks and rope wheel blocks to the foundry, where they have been fitted with ball bearings. Two new trebles have been cast to complete the octave. Meanwhile the local ringers have scraped and painted the ironwork and everything is now in new condition.

The dedication is to take place during the morning service on Sunday, November 19th. The ancient Parish Church has just sufficient seating accommodation for the normal parish congregation, so it has not been found possible to extend an open invitation to ringers. Instead, the bells will be open for ringing in the afternoon after 3.30 p.m., when it is hoped that many ringers will attend.

LETTERS

RINGING AT PERSHORE

Dear Sir,—It is a pity that Messrs. Brookes and Millidge should rush into print without being sure of their facts, and as Mr. Clayton rightly points out, the outing in question was nothing to do with the Abbey ringers, but simply one organised in the Pershore area, which happens to be a large one.

One other point requires clarifying; the small charge per rope made to visiting bands is a ruling made by the Abbey authorities, and as such is one over which the local band have no control. Even we, who might be considered almost 'local,' willingly pay this.

On behalf of the Diocese, I thank Mr. Clayton for his letter, and appreciate it, but hasten to assure him that memories of past Putney visits to Worcestershire, to say nothing of my own personal reception on various occasions in his tower, are too happy for us to be very concerned about the original letter.—Yours sincerely,

J. D. JOHNSON,
General Secretary,
Worcestershire Association.

Dear Sir,—Being Ringing Master at Pershore Abbey, I wish to disclaim any connection between the Abbey ringers and the band from the Pershore 'Diocese,' who went on a tower grabbing and smashing trip.

If your two correspondents who feel so strongly about it would like to find this phantom band I will give them a clue. Whybold is in the Pershore 'Diocese.'—Yours sincerely,

ALBERT GRINNELL.

ST. MARTIN'S GUILD

The quarterly meeting of the St. Martin's Guild for the Diocese of Birmingham at Yardley on October 14th was well attended by ringers representing many towers of the Diocese; a pleasing feature was the presence of a large number of young ringers. For some, it was their first ringing meeting, and ten new members were elected.

Before the formal business the Master (Mr. Edgar C. Shepherd) referred to the death of Albert Walker. By his passing, he said, the ringers had lost an intimate and much loved friend, and the Guild an able ringer. The members stood in silence as a token of respect to his memory.

An apology from Mr. John Pinfold (Ringing Master) was received with regret and the hope was expressed that he would soon be restored to health.

Four ringers of Solihull Parish Church—Jill and Graham Palmer, Gillian Shilcock and Christine McLaren—were elected members. Roger Tingley, of Harborne, was also elected, and Erdington Abbey provided six new members. Teresa and Richard Wilkins, James and John Insley, Paul McEvilly and Philip Walters.

The tower elections as life members, prior to a peal at Shirley, of Michael J. Fellows, Raymond H. Daw, K. Peter Jones, J. David Atkinson and Robert J. Warrilow were duly ratified.

Life membership elections of the following were also ratified: Alan E. Bagworth, Wimbeldon, Mrs. Kathleen E. Chilcott, Wallington, Brynley A. Shackleton and Reginald G. Hooper, of Bristol, Trevor N. Bailey, Tottenham, and William T. Cook, of West Ealing.

It was decided to hold the annual meeting on January 6th at St. Martin's, the secretary to endeavour to obtain the use of St. Martin's Hall for he business meeting. The annual Henry Johnson Commemoration Dinner will be held in the Connaught Room, at the Imperial Hotel, on February 24th.

The Master proposed a vote of thanks to the Vicar of Yardley, Canon Charles Crowson, for the privilege of using the lovely ring of bells, and to Mr. A. H. Fitter and his lady helpers, for their hospitality in providing the very welcome tea.

MILTON MALSOR BELLS

THREE miles south of Northampton, just off the A43, lies the village of Milton Malsor. It is a pleasant and unusual place. Pleasant, because of its wealth of old stone cottages, and unusual in that its shape is that of a circle within a semi-circle and because it is quite easy to walk round the village without realising it.

From every part of the village the lovely crocketed church steeple dominates the scene, and the church itself is a building of outstanding beauty and interest. Its splendid east windows, including two 'wheel' windows, have made the church famous and are frequently referred to in books on church architecture.

Milton Malsor is justly proud of its five old bells—a 'maiden' ring cast in 1686 in Northamptonshire by Northamptonshire men. The bells have a clear, musical tone, and the treble bears this inscription in Latin: 'O Sing unto the Lord a new song.' The implication of this is that the present ring is a recast of a still older one.

For many years the 'go' of the bells had been atrocious and, on careful examination two years ago, the ring was found to be in an extremely dangerous condition. The frame rocked like a ship at sea when the bells were rung, in spite of being wedged to the tower walls (!), and was completely riddled with 'beetle.' Early this year the bells were removed to Loughborough, and will be returned to the tower this month.

Fortunately the bells themselves proved to be in good condition, and it has not been necessary to recast any of them. All, however, will have to be quarter-turned so that the clappers will strike on new and unused parts of the soundbows. The bells will be rehung on a new steel frame and will be provided throughout with new fittings of the most up-to-date type.

A team of young ringers is now under tuition by Mr. P. I. Chapman, Master of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild, and is eagerly looking forward to ringing 'rounds' or 'calls' by Christmas.

The present Rector of Milton Malsor, the Rev. G. E. Hubbard, in his younger days as a student was a member of the St. Clement's Youths. He used to ring regularly for services at St. Clement Danes', Strand, London, and, in company with members of the Ancient Society of College Youths, in many London towers.

G. E. H.

RICHARD PHIPPS

ON the north-west flank of Bromyard Downs, Herefordshire, in well wooded parklands stands an empty and slowly decaying country mansion. Buckenhill House; once the gracious home of Richard Phipps, brewer of Northampton. The visit of the College Youths to that area confirms that the name and the brew still exist.

Richard Phipps came from brewing in Northampton to semi-retirement and to live the life of a country gentleman at an early age in conditions of wealth and prosperity. As master of Buckenhill House 1881-1911 much has been said and become legendary in the dreams of the elderly in the taprooms of Bromyard.

One of his first generous acts on arrival at Buckenhill (a large estate comprising the mansion and ten farms), was to establish an orphan boys' school. Converting part of his large house to schoolrooms and dormitories, providing teacher and matron, he took thirty boys annually every February from Dr. Barnardo's Home. He clothed and fed and gave education. On completion he gave them a start in life. Many went to Canada in those years of emigration, thoughtfully equipped to stand on their own for twelve months. Others learnt trades in the estate workshops—masons, carpenters, tailors, painters, shoemakers; and others again were trained as coachmen, stockmen, footmen, gardeners and foresters. All were given their opportunity and found their place. One of the teachers was a Mr. Austin, a well known Worcester musician; who travelled weekly to give the boys music lessons. It became part of Sunday morning custom to watch 'Dicky Phipps' boys' march to morning service behind their own drum and fife band. One of these boys later became church organist for several years.

In the 1890-1910 period, a large restoration scheme was undertaken and fulfilled in the Bromyard Parish Church of St. Peter. Now was the time that Richard Phipps, a regular and devout worshipper, fulfilled his Christian principles by his continuous generosity with gifts of money, materials and labour. The work included the rehanging of the ring of six (Rudhall, 1751). The original canons were removed and the fifth recast by Barwell, of Birmingham (1895). The work in the tower was done by a Mr. Greenleaf (Greensmith). A new entrance and floor to the ringing chamber. A tower clock by Smiths, of Derby (1899). The removal of the old box pews for the present serviceable seating; new tiled flooring; work on the organ, together with outside work on the fabric completed a heavy expenditure, which is still justified today. Richard Phipps was the donor of the ceiling over the choir. His masons shaped new corbels, and his carpenters made the moulded oak decoration from seven year seasoned timber, grown at Buckenhill. This ceiling is the floor of the ringing room. His masons also constructed the buttresses to the north wall of the church.

The above gracious giving was apart from his annual bounty of gifts to the poor of the district—food and clothing, fuel and bedding—soup kitchens in the extremes of frost and snow. The bellringers also received an annual donation of money. His head gardener, one Joseph Rogers, took part in the first peal (?)—120 changes of Bob Doubles in 1903 at Bromyard tower. I have in my possession his 1881 edition of Snowdon's Diagrams, signed and dated on the fly leaf 'October 16th, 1886.'

Richard Phipps collapsed and died on Shrub Hill Station, Worcester, journeying to Northampton to vote in the 1911 General Election. His passing, followed so soon by the 1914-1918 carnage, was the end of a magnificent era in the local history of Bromyard and its Parish Church. All that was good and kind and of feeling for less fortunate fellow men was shown by this very human Christian gentleman. Would that all men would try and emulate his charity.

RHODESIA HAS A RING OF TEN BLESSED

LAST Sunday was a great day in African church life when the Bishop of Mashonaland (the Rt. Rev. Cecil W. Alderson) dedicated the tower and bells of St. Mary's Cathedral, Salisbury, Rhodesia.

The tower, built on a reinforced concrete base through donations by the Dulverton Trustees, is at present isolated from the Cathedral, but the extension of the nave will eventually bridge the gap.

The bells are the spontaneous gift of a visitor from England, who deplored the absence in Rhodesia of the sound of English church bells.

The bells were cast by Messrs Mears and Stainbank, and supervising their hanging and the installation of the clock provided by Messrs. Thwaites and Reed was Mr. S. M. Baker, a Salisbury horologist, who visited the Whitechapel Foundry last year to learn how to hang the bells.

The clock, the largest made by Messrs. Thwaites and Reed during the last 30 years, has dials on four sides of the tower. The clock will not be in operation until next January. The chimes will repeat the notes of Big Ben.

At the blessing of the bells the Bishop said, '... that through this and many succeeding generations they may sound loud and clear and call together Thy faithful people to the praise and worship of Thy holy name.'

At the consecration of the tower the Bishop says that 'at the sound of the bells, rung from this tower, all who hear them may hear Thy voice, remember their calling and turn to Thee.'

Before and after each inscription is a figure of an English rose and an African lily, and just above the soundbow on each bell is a border of London Pride.

Much activity in training ringers has taken place. The Ringing Master of the Mashonaland Diocesan Guild is Mr. Peter Raynon, and Mr. Collins is in charge of ringing at Salisbury.

UNIVERSITY OF LONDON SOCIETY

The general meeting of the University of London Society was held on October 21st. Ringing during the day took place at St. Mary Magdalene's, Holloway, St. Vedast's, Foster Lane, and St. Michael's, Cornhill.

This was the first occasion that the bells at St. Vedast's had been rung since the church's restoration, and in fact this century, and the sound of the bells came as a surprise rather than a pleasure to the unfortunate occupants of neighbouring offices at louvre-height. Ringing here was opened with Bob Minor, and concluded with a christening touch of St. Vedast Doubles, although a Bob course of Aldermaston Surprise might have been more appropriate. A picked band rang at the home tower of St. Olave's, Hart Street, before the service.

The business meeting, preceded by tea, was presided over by Dr. Denis Layton in the absence of the president, Philip Gray. Main topics of discussion concerned financing and issuing of annual reports, and other financial questions. Douglas May, much to the Society's regret, announced his resignation from the office of Master, owing to unavoidable circumstances, and Paul Cattermole (honorary treasurer) was elected to take office for the rest of the year. Marcus Barton was elected honorary treasurer.

The annual dinner is to be held on January 20th. The meeting was well supported, and the Society is very pleased to welcome an encouraging number of freshers.

PERSONALITIES OF THE EXERCISE—45

MR. WILLIAM SHEPHERD,
Guildford Diocesan Guild.

One of the 'old school' of ringers, who, although he is now somewhat handicapped by illness, is still able and keen to serve the Exercise, is Mr. William Shepherd, of Addlestone, Surrey, a vice-president and founder member of the Guildford Diocesan Guild. From time to time during the last few years, there have appeared over his initials a number of interesting articles. They have been mostly of an historical nature, dealing with ringing in his early years in Devon, but others have shown certain spotlights on human nature, including the appeal of bells to non-ringers.

Bill Shepherd was born on September 7th, 1883, in the parish of St. Sidwell, Exeter, and within sound of the Cathedral bells, where his father and uncle were leading ringers for many years. They were in the building trade, and did much to further the cause of change ringing in Devonshire. After receiving his education at St. Sidwell's Church School and St. John's Grammar School, Exeter, Bill worked in the Devon County Education Offices as a junior clerk from 1898-November, 1900, and then left for London to enter the offices of the old London and South Western Railway. After 43 years' service, mostly in the accountant's office, he retired on pension in 1943.

Bill was taught to ring by his father, Ferris Shepherd, in 1893 at Exeter Cathedral. This was before the bells were rehung, and when the 'go' was bad. He also learnt at St. Sidwell's, where another 'boy' named William Temple, was also receiving lessons from his father. Young Temple eventually became Archbishop of Canterbury, but he failed to ring Grandsire! Opportunities for peal ringing in Devonshire at that time were very limited, but before leaving the district Bill rang his first peal (Grandsire Triples) at Withycombe Raleigh on August 7th, 1900, conducted by his father.

Moving to London in late 1900 gave Bill just the chance he needed, and he was fortunate to have as his 'landlord' Ted Horrex, who soon introduced him to 12 bell ringing at several towers, including St. Paul's. On his 18th birthday, James Pettit, conductor at St. Paul's, called his first peal of Stedman (Caters) at St. Margaret's, Westminster, in 1901. During holiday visits to Exeter, he scored his first peal as conductor—Grandsire Triples at Heavitree on Sept. 10th, 1902, when he was just 19, and three months later he proved to the Exeter ringers that a 'mere lad' could 'turn in' the 25½ cwt. tenor to a peal of Bob Major. In those days, young ringers did not have the same opportunities as today of showing their skill. He also rang 'Grandison' single-handed on dedication day the same year.

Bill's peal total is 311, of which he has conducted 122, and most of these were rung prior to 1926, his last being in 1947. In 1912 he rang 54 peals, this being his best year. He has been a very capable handbell ringer, and 133 of his peals have been 'in hand' conducted 73. Undoubtedly the performance of which he is most proud of taking part in is the 19.738 Stedman Caters at Guildford on August 31st, 1912, conducted by Alfred H. Pulling. This still ranks as the record peal on handbells. Amongst other peals of note was the first short course peal of Stedman Cinques rung 'in hand' (69 courses) on May 4th, 1914, his first handbell peal, on December 22nd, 1907, which was the first for the Surrey Association, and the Shepherd family handbell peal on February 11th, 1910. Another peal worthy of note was rung at Arklow in 1904, when four Shepherds took part in the first peal of Bob Major in Ireland, and J. W. Washbrook rang two bells and conducted.

SIX AMBITIONS FULFILLED

By the time he was 39, Bill had fulfilled six ambitions—100 peals on tower bells, 100 on handbells, 100 of Stedman, 100 conducted, 100 peals conducted, 100 of Triples and 100 peals on even bells (on 6, 8, 10 and 12). He has completed 61 years as a member of the Ancient Society of College Youths, and served on the Central Council for the Winchester Guild from 1920-23, and for the Guildford Guild for 1928-29. Other offices he has held in the past include District Ringing Master Winchester Guild, 1908-21, and District secretary Surrey Association, 1916-19.

Bill has done a vast amount of teaching work in his younger days, particularly when living in Hersham, Surrey, from 1904-1914, where he was a member of the good local band there until 1926. Many places he visited were quite remote, without rail or bus services, which meant many miles of walking on dark roads. One of his greatest pleasures was tuning on handbells, with his father and brothers. They used 57 bells, and played from music (scored and arranged by his father) and were much in demand.

Amongst other interests, Bill has been actively engaged with Friendly Society work, from 1913 onwards. He became District Grand Master of the Oddfellows twice, and was appointed by the Minister of Health to the Surrey County Insurance Committee in May, 1929, and served on every sub-committee during his 20 years' service. He also undertook T.B. Committee work for the Surrey C.C. and became chairman of his district. He is a vice-president of his local bowls club, honorary auditor of his local football club, and a member of the British Legion, having served in the First World War with the Devons and the London Irish Rifles.

Bill Shepherd has placed Sunday service ringing first, teaching and instruction second, and meetings and peals third. Through an unfortunate fall at Waterloo station some years ago, he has developed a serious and rare bone disease, for which there is no cure, and he is seldom free from pain. However, he remains very cheerful, is happy in seeing his District carrying on the good work, and occasionally attends local meetings. Sixty-eight years' dabbling with various branches of the art and the joy of visiting churches and towers in all parts of the country have given him much pleasure.
