\section*{OUTING}

\section*{ST. DUNSTAN'S, CANTERBURY}

There were no empty seats on the 41 -seater coach which took members and friends from Canterbury on the annual outing, which this year was based on the Rochester and Gravesend area. Sunny weather and good towers were the order of the day and the amount of liquid refreshment taken-in various forms-must have been measured in gallons.

The first tower contained the excellent 18 cwt . ix at St. Werburgh's. Hoo, which were the first of many bells rung that day to have passed through the hands of Mr. Bowell, of Ipswich Mr. Bowell also restored the bells at the next tower at Shorne, where there are frames for eight. The six that hang ( \(6 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{cwt}\).), by \(T\) Mears, were put to good use in spite of the long draught of rope
The party then broke off for Greenwich waterfront. which they took over for the purpose of a packed lunch. After a brief rest they were on the road again, to Cobham, which took some finding. but the church with its magnificent collection of brasses and superb magnificent collection of brasses and superb The bells ( 6.14 cwt .) were not the best of the day A quick journey through the cement country of Kent brought us to Halling, where the fine Bowell six (11 cwt.) had some of the best ringing of the day.

After copious draughts of tea and an unintentional trip to the wrong end of the next village, Snodland, the pleasant six \((8 \mathrm{cwt}\). 3 gr .16 lb . in G), augmented from a chime of five in 1920, were soon ringing out over the Medway, bringing the day's ringing to a close. When two members had satisfied their curiosity as to the nature of the adjacent New Jerusalem Church, complete with its frame for six bells (only one hung). it was homeward bound with a brief stop at Lenham to lay the dust in our throats. A word of thanks was expressed to the organiser. Mr. Derek Chatfield, captain of St. Dunstanis ringers, for his efforts.

\section*{GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL ASSOCIATION}

On September 24th Cowley bells were obtained for a meeting of the Cheltenham Branch. They are a tuneful light six by various Rudhalls but are exceedingly difficult to ring. An inspection of the frame suggests that repairs are necessary, but as the tower is very close to Cowley Manor, now dedicated to education, the prospects are uncertain. Heavy ropes and a long draught contribute to the difficulties, and most ringers present were content with one short touch.
were content with one short represented, and
Most local towers were reser visitors from Aldbourne. Ross, Cirencester. Gloucester, Bromyard and Lechlade were recognised. The secretary had departed for Cornwall but, anticipating the course of events, had arranged for us to adjourn to Leckhampon, where more orthodox ringing was enjoyed.

\section*{BROWSING THROUGH CUTTINGS}

\(\mathbf{M}^{\text {R }}\)R. ALAN A. J. BUSWELL, of Cosham, Portsmouth, has made a selection from the 5,000 newspaper cuttings in eight volumes that form a part of the archives of Messrs. Gillett and Johnston and made a comprehensive volume of 378 pages written in longhand. Many of the cuttings are of general interest and do not relate to G. & J.

One of the first cuttings relates to the death 50 years ago this month of Mr. Arthur Anderson Johnston, head of the firm, which occurred while playing golf on Mitcham Common. During the years of World War 1 this Croydon firm changed over from making clocks and bells to munitions and had 1,500 women employees. Five days after the signing of the Armistice the 1,500 women marched to Croydon Town Hall, headed by a "tin-can band." Here Mr. Cyril Johnston presented to the Mayor a loyal address conveying congratulations to the King and Queen on the victorious issue which had been achieved " by our gallant troops in conjunction with our allies."

Prominence is given to the peal of 5,201 Grandsire Caters on March 15th, 1919, at St. Peter's Croydon, by 10 Army officers. Alas, it was afterwards proved to be false. The band was composed of members of the Ancient Society of College Youths and stood as follows: Capt. J. H. R. Freeborn, 4th Yorks and Lancs, treble; Lieut. E. M. Atkins, R.E. (cond.) 2; Lieut. A. E. Reeves, R.O.C., 3; Second-Lieut. E. P. Duffield, R.A.F.. 4; Lieut. A. YorkBramble, R.A.F., 5; Major J. H. B. Hesse, R.A.S.C. (M.T.) 6; Second-Lieut. M. C. Duffield, 3rd Norfolks, 7; Major the Rev. Cyril W. O. Jenkyn, M.C., 8; Lieut. Cyril F. Johnston, 3rd Grenadier Guards, 9; Capt. the Rev. B. H. Tyrwhitt-Drake, C.F., tenor. The report indicates that there was a previous Army officers' peal of Kent Treble Bob Major at Putney on March I5th, 1919.

Another early peal of interest was one of Double Norwich Court Bob Major at Edenbridge in November, 1919, by eight people employed at the Bell Foundry, Croydon. They were Walter Wise 1, Miss E. K. Parker (described as the premier lady bellringer in the world)? Arthur Mason 3, Charles Dean 4, Sidney Roper 5, David Wright 6, Cyril F. Johnston 7, William S. Smith (conductor) 8. These bells, which were cast in 1911, were the first ring of bells to be tuned by the Croydon foundry on Canon Simpson's principle.

The College Youths' 282nd anniversary dinner in 1919 was at the Talbot Hotel, London Wall, with the Master, Mr. Albert A. Hughes, in the chair. The company was limited to 130 by accommodation available, but proceedings were very different from today as there was a strong musical programme. "Capt. J. H. R. Freeborn gave a splendid rendering of some fine old songs, including 'Come into the garden, Maud,' 'Songs of Araby' and "Take a pair of sparkling eyes' and was rapturously encored. Lieut. P. C. Judd was loudly applauded for his contributions, including 'Stonecracker John' and 'Twankydillo,' and Lieut Cyril F. Johnston's humorous contributions greatly pleased the company. A double encore was necessary for the contribution of Mr. W. H. Judd, of Southend, of 'Ringers' Reminiscences' with its topical allusions. Everyone felt that the revival of the College Youths' anniversary dinner had been a great success and worthily re-established the traditions of the festival."

A cutting that will cause amusement to lady readers is a report of the Ladies' Guild meeting at St. Peter's, Croydon, in May, 1920. The report states: "Before commencing, some of the ladies removed their hats. They apparently took the view that as they were in the belfry there was no impropriety in disregarding the common rule that women should not be in church with uncovered heads. There is a division of opinion on this subject. Some Vicars hold very strongly that lady ringers should keep their hats on."
"The Liverpool Daily Post" of June 19th. 1922, records that "Mr. Harry Withers, the well-known English carillonneur, has lately been much in request in this country and abroad for the inauguration of new carillons. Mr. Withers is a blacksmith's mate at Bournville Works, and and has been a change ringer since boyhood. He claims to have rung peals in over 300 English churches, and for 26 years has not missed his weekly ring. In Great Britain there are four carillons with claviers-Loughborough, Cattistock, Aberdeen and Bournville."

The augmentation of Westminster Abbey bells from six to eight and the rehanging and retuning of the other six enabled the octave to be rung together for the first time to celebrate Princess Mary's wedding. "The Pall Mall Gazette" of February 28th, 1922, describes them as a real joy to the musical. "The tenor bell is the doyen of them all, for it was given to the Abbey in 1430 by John and Elizabeth Whitwell and William Rus. In the time of Queen Elizabeth I two other bells were added by the celebrated Dean of Westminster, Gabriel Goodman. who had a good many encounters with the fiery-tempered Queen, and always came off best in the conflict."

From the " Daily Mail," January 6th, 1923: "A special composition based on Leicestershire folklore is being composed by Mr. W. W. Starmer, one of the leading English authorities on bells, for the dedication of Loughborough war memorial-a 100 ft . tower with carillon.

\section*{UNIVERSITIES ASSOCIATION TOUR}

As it appeared to a Rabbit

\(\mathbf{A}^{\mathrm{N}}\)epitome of the luxurious living at Westminster College, Oxford, might run thus: Tea, coffee, sugar, milk always waiting in the pantry of every house: well-equipped rooms, comfortable beds, two pillows, two towels (large), soap "The food was excellent, my dear. We had "o Accommodation on future tours will need to be very good indeed to escape uncomplimentary comparison.

The College enjoys an enviable site, overlooking from the west "that sweet city with her dreaming spires." The spires endure, but the cacophony of Oxford's traffic surely shat fers the dreams. A pleasing feature of the College is an extensive alpine garden of some distinction.
Immediately apparent was the perfection of Marie Cross planning, a model for or ganisers. The president, Paul Taylor, in spite of being "proper poorly" the was-and blaming that holiday in Rumania), chaired a more than usually hilarious business meeting, and Makolm Melville, new in the role of secretary was quite the heud prefect, "drest in a little brief authority," conscripting even the present writer.

Some "old familias faces" (no offence) were missing, but there was general delight in the presence of "Uncle", Harry Miles, beret and all, fit and hale, still cracking his jokes and enjoying his Stedman, not least the touch of Caters he conducted at Banbury. Besides the officers. the U.A. is fortunate in its corps, or core, of faithful regulars: Shelagh Collins, calmly sailing her course as a sturdy vessel before a fair breeze: Ranald Clouston, often viewed from below climbing a ladder, unchallengeable authority in his own field; "Jumbo" Seager. a bevy of lunch bags in either hand, the right for sandwich wrappings and other cast-offs, the left for "spare food" no one ever know's what becomes of the spare food: Joyce and Geoffrey Dodds, the former coming to the boil occasionally, of course, bu: both invariably patient with the Rabbit underworld: Beatrice Boyle, breezily from Cornwall: the Macks from Devon, a Minor band for the future, and looking well for the U.A.: Phyllis Holborn, craftily feigning ifnorance of methods before competently ringing them,
Of the guests, the specially popular Ted Hudson, of Ripon, was chosen to say " Thank you very much indeed " io Marie, on behalf of everyone. The occasion being semi-formal. his shirt and trousers evidently agreed to a truce. remaining in teemly association throughout bis speech. The performing young entry-to-be showed great promise, and an ample supply of the very young indeed surely guarancees the future of the U.A. Genuine Rabbits (their Guild insists on the capital) were few. but distinguished exponents of their craft and mystery.
A moment's seriousness. At the well-atended Corporate Communion at Radley the Rev. Malcolm Melville assisted the celebrant. and E. Hudson was the server.
The country was lovely, the weather good, and there were splendid rings of bells to satisfy the most critical, among them Fairford. Cirencester, Banbury, Swindon and Adderbury With the abilities of the party ranging from a band capable of eight-spliced to Rabbits capable of anything. the quality of the ringing was inevitably mixed. Outstanding were Grandsire Cinques at St. Laurence's, Reading. half-muffied because of the sudden death of the tower master the previous day, eight-spliced at St. Mark's. Swindon. Rutland at Adderbury, Bristol ai St. Mary's, Reading.
As numbers were smaller than usual and the weather for the first few davs uncomfortablv hot, it was decided to attempt no peals. The tour was quite a strenuous one, for the special privileze of the bells at Merton, Magdalen, New College and the University Church on Sunday afternoon accounted for the few hours of leisure usuallv enjoyed, and most people were out ringing most nights, besides enjoying conviviality in the ad hoc bar at the College and elsewhere.

Verbal snapshots of a few of the lighter moments may appropriately be attempted. Memorable was the tea in the garden of the School House, Radley, on that blazing afternoon when we assembled-the long table was evocative, but the forms were missing, and we had cups and saucers, not mugs. We enjoyed the occasion when Denis Bayles, on the seventh for Triples having nearly dodged with the tenor superbly put everyone right from the sixth. "They're all out of step except me"; after the Cambridge Maximus at Christ Church, "Uncle" Harry (82) on the treble. Helen Dodds ( \(10 \frac{1}{2}\)-remember the half, please) with comparable confidence ringing the second in rounds: the-well-orthodox entry through the tower door at Marlborough by the Rev. Roger Keeley, beefily assisted by Frank Mack, to enable ringing on the "unringable" (sic-" Dove ") eight; Geoffrey Dodds' nimble swoop to save Ted Hudson's dignity and tis trousers when he set his hell at backstroke at Swindon: Aldbourne, with no cafe, but Coffee Morning in the Methodist schoolroom, apparently presided over by the Vicar, and eagerly invaded by the parched U.A. The Sunday afternoon tour unfortunately prevented a first-hand description of Phyllis Holborn propelling a punt, skilfully but wrong end foremost, Oxford fashion, with Paul Taylor on the cushions.

On Saturday, after the official end of the week, all who could joined a tour of eight fives and sixes organised by the cheerful and ubiquitous John Sawtell, of Trowbridge. This proved a light-hearted epilogue, and included treble-dominated ringing at Lydiard Millicent and even more curious sounds at Ogbourne St. Andrew, where the treble is cracked, and apt to drop, and the tenor welded.

It was a very enjoyable week indeed and, if plans mature, the U.A. will meet at Salisbury next year, that failing, in South Wales.

\section*{North Dorset Branch}

The annual meeting of the North Dorset Branch was held this year in Somerset on September 17 th and was most successful. Thanks are due to the organiser, the Rev. R N , Longridge. Some 20 ringers took part and a number of non-ringers, and all enjoyed the outing. Towers visited were Barton St. Divid. Radstock, Newton St. Loe, Bath Abbey Twerton-on-Avon and Midsomer Norton. Mr. W. C. Shute, in charge of operations, catered for ringers at all stages.

\section*{West Dorset Branch}

West Dorset Branch of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild held its quarterly meeting a Thorncombe on September 17 th , when members were present from seven towers and visitors were welcomed. The fine ring of eight produced some good ringing. A service was conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. Mr. SimWilliams, and the lesson was read by Mr Jordan (churchwarden and ringer). While tea was enjoyed in the Village Hall, served by the local ringers' wives members listened to the recording of the Washington peal. The business meeting was presided over by the chair man. Mr. C. W. Powell. The annual meeting wis fixed for Lyme Regis on November 26th, and practice meetings at Symondsbury (November 9th). Whitchurch (November 21st) and Bradpole (December 14th).

Methods rung during the day ranged from rounds to Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Cambridge, Lyme, Superlative and Doubl Norwich.

HANDBELL GREETING

ON a bright, sunny day, Mr. John R. Mayne was married to Miss Marguerite Dalraine at the King's Road Evangelical Church, BerkLuamsted, on September 24th.
The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a long full-skirted dress of white lace with a long veil held by a floral coronet. and carried a white and gold shower bouquet of roses, stephanotis, lilies of the valley and freesias.
Mr. David Redfearn was best man The ceremony was conducted by Mr. P. D. Warren, who also proposed the toast to the happy couple at the wedding breakfast
There being no tower bells at the church. the couple were rung out after the wedding with a course of Spliced Surprise Major on handbells, performed by the other four members of John's Surprise Royal band. Towards the end of the reception the handbells were again brought out; Stedman and a touch of Spliced Surprise Royal were rung.
To celebrate the wedding. a peai of Cambridge Surprise Maximuṣ was rung at St. Albans Abbey in the evening. An attempt for Bristol at Berkhamsted Parish Church was, unfortunately, lost halfway.

\section*{OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD}

\section*{South Oxon Branch}

\section*{On September 24th a bus left Wallingford} to pick up ringers for a branch outing to the towers around Loughhorough. During an interesting tour of John Taylor and Co's bell foundry at Loughborough the party were shown the new ring of eight bells for Leigh-on-Sea. After the tour we went up into the campanile, all 35 of us, 10 iry our hand on the first bells of the day. The ringing here was quite good considering that we were not used to light bells or ten-bell ringing, but in the end we were ringing some Stedman.

After lunch we were at the parish church. and the bells were soon going to rounds. Grandsire and Stedman Caters. These bells were thought to be the best of the day. On to Hathern (a new eight. \(9+\) cwt.), where we settled down to more relaxed ringing. We could not only bring Double Norwich round but managed to get a course of Cambridge Surprise. Then to Shepshed (another eight. 15 cwt.). where Grandsire Triples was the est method rung. At Whitwick. the last tower of the outing. we had the best striking of the day, a course of Cambridge Surprise Major. By this lime the ringers were getting a hit tired and the ringing was the same. We broke the homeward journey at Banbury for efreshreeas.

\section*{RINGING CONDITIONS IN CANADA}

A WEEK ago I returned from a seven-month vacation in Canada This was not intended to be a visit devoted primarily to ringing, and therefore I did not plan my trip to include a visit to every single tower; nevertheless, I did visit all the towers except those in Vancouver and Mission City, B.C These are, incidentally, the only two Canadiun rings in Roman Catholic churches- the others are all in Anylican churches. 1 was made extremely welcome at those lowers at which I rang; the feeling of fraternity among bellringers is just as strong in Cunada as it is in England.

The first tower that 1 visited was that of Christ Church, Calgary, Alberta. Ihere is a Lisht eight there, and the bells handle very well. It was gratifying to note that there was a large number of Canadian-born ringers, including novices, at this rower-quite a rarity, since in the other towers that I visited there were very few Canadian ringers, the ringing being carried out almust entirely by Englis! emigrants. The tower captain at Calgary himself a ringer from Gruntham, Lincs, has. however, done a great deal to promote interest in the Exercise in those parts.

\section*{REPLICA OF WESTMINSTER ABBEY \\ 1 next visited the ring at Christ Churen} Cuthedral. Victoria, B.C I considered these the finest bells 1 had the privilege of ringing They are a replica of those in Wegtminstel Abbey (tenor 29 cwt .), and the ringing chamber is remarkable for its great size. There are a lot of English people in this part of British Columbia. and so, as might be expected, the band is chiefly English Ringing is arranged by a farnily which has been in charge of the tower for several years
Finally 1 visited the two rings in Quebec City, Quebec. The two towers there are perhaps the least frequently visited by English rourist ringers, but are certainly worth the trip. The Anglican Cathedral of the Holy Trinity (the first to be built outside the United Trinity (the first to be built outside the United Kingdom) has eight bells, and so has the Church of St Matthew. The bells in both towers were silent for many years until an Englishman, with no previous knowledge of ringing. took it upon himself to learn to handle a belt and to learn the principles of change ringing. A small band has gradually been formed, but even so only the cathedral bells are rung at all regularly.
Those in St. Matthew's were last used about five years ago Last year some workmen were repairing the church roof and broke tht slider of one of the bells in order to maki the entrance to the belfry big enough to per mit the passage of the timber for the roof The slider had not even been replaced, as frtend and I discovered when we tried to rin the bell up! Another bell had been sabotaged by nailing a piece of wood into the frame as to impede the swing of the seventh Fur ther evidence of the ignorance of the local contractors about ringing matters was shown by their replacing broken wooden stays with welded iron "stays," which had to be cut off and proper ones substituted before the bells could be rung' All in all, little support of any kind can be expected from the city's citizens. who are almost all French Canadians totally unused to change ringing.

\section*{PROBLEMS OF SUB-ZERO} TEMPERATURES
Ringers in Canada share a common difficulty due to the very cold winters, especially In Alberta and Quebec. The lubricating grease has been known to solidify at the very low temperatures common in Canada. making bell.
ringing very arduous and occasionally impossible. Bel maintenance is also very ditticult in these conditions, because of the sub zero temperature of the belfry, and even simple job like lashing the clappers for prac tice becomes a major operation! Vacations also deplete the band quite considerably and the towers are all usually very short-handed in the summer months, since even at the bes; of times there is usually a shortage of ringers The ring at Mission City is rather exceptiona in this respect. because the bells are rung by monks who practise the art all the year round.
Canadians are, on the whole, inclined ic be very tolerant of the church bells, but seem to take very little active interest unless a ringer is prepared to take them to a practice and explain the mysteries of the art. (The same state of affairs, of course. largely obtain, in England, 100.) Youngsters especially, with their Canadian willingness to ery anything new can be persuaded to take bell-handling instruction. but the initiative always seems to be made-by the ringers; and in those towers where the ringers do make the effort to cull recruits there are many more learners. The forthcoming tour by a band of English peal ringers should do much to promote interest as in the case of the peal at Washington U.S.A.

In this connection I would like to say tha: 1 would like to see more of a liaison between Canadian and Engish ringers: I know of onls one tower which regularly receives "Tht Ringing World" Interes in bellringing ac tivities on the other side of the Atlantic could well be strengthened Also, communication well be strengthened Also, communication do well to be increased: distance makes frequent visits out of the question. but the written word still remains one of man's bes' modes of expression

PETER H. MACKIE

\section*{MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION}

Christ Church, Southgate, made a tvpically rural setting for the meeting of the \(N\). and E. District on September 17th The attendance before tea was well below average owing to the large number of members engaged in ringing for weddings The service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. Murray McLeod). whilst Mr Willis accompanied at the organ. More people arrived by tea time and at the business meeting the provisional election of Miss Catherine S Maylott. of St. Albans, as Miss Catherine life member prior to a peal of a non-resident life member prior io a peal of ratified.

Miss Ruth Foreman gave details of the in ennial dinner to be held at Church House Wesiminster, Oll October 15th. \section*{Famham District}

A chain of coincidences marked the quarzerly meeting of Farnham District held at St. Michael's Yorktown. on October 1st The church was beautifully decorated for harvest festival the following day whilst the patronal festival was but two days previously The 40 visitors thus had the opportunity of ringing for both festivals The Guild form of service was taken by the Rev John Cook, with Mr L Smith as organist The Vicar (the Rev Paul Barber) gave the address in which, with the aid of a leaflet of the original service. he gave an outline of the dedication of the tower and bells exactly 91 years before An excellent tea was organised by Mrs Collings, wife of the verger.
A short business meeting followed the mann item being the manning of the Cathedral bells. Afterwards all returned to the tower for further ringing until 9 p.m With three anniversaries this proved to be one of the most successful meetings held at Camberley (Yorktown) and much appreciated by the sroall local band.

\section*{REMARKABLE "DOUBLE*}

Dear Sir,-There are many old ringers with wonderful records of service. One is Mr. J. T. Gascoigne, late of North Muskham, who commenced ringing in 1900 and was a regular tinger until 1965, when he retired. Almosi every event of national importance in that period, including the relief of Mafeking, saw him taking part in the ringing.

In addition, he was largely instrumental in getting the bells at North Muskbarn restored and augmented in the 1930's

A regular chorister for a similar period. Mr. Gascoigne is anxious to know whether his record of bellringer and chorister is unique There may be several who can beat either one or the other, but is there anybody who has exceeded this remarkable double?. If so, it will be interesting to hear from them.-Yours faithfully.

\section*{IN AGREEMENT}

Dear Sir,-I am entirely in agreement with the views of Mr Wilfrid \(\mathbf{G}\). Wilson on the subject of "The Ringing World." expressed in his letter on page 620 of last week's issue I would not like to see it become a ". glossy magazine,; and feel that it does its job admirably in its present form.

With regard to the front page illustration. the traditionalist in me wants to retain it al though 1 am not enamoured of it, so if the committee decide that one of Mr. Pipe's designs is more suited to this "computer age" then I for one would raise no objection. Yours faithfully.

\section*{STANDARDS FOR CUMPOSERS}

Dear Sir,-I wonder if Mr. Knox, as an established composer. would care to justify the publication of his composition of Yorkthire. on page 648?
Comparing this with similar peals 1 find that those with 12 C.C.'s and no 82's on 83 's, or thoce with 14 C.C.'s and 82's or 83 's, are relatively common. whereas Mr Knox's peal has only 12 C.C.'s and three courses each of 82 's and 83 's as well as 24 singles, which number is far in excess of the usual.

I think that the more experienced composers should set standards for the less experienced to emulate

There are peals with 14 C.C.s and no 82 s or 83 s. so what is the point of producing anything less musical but not much simpler?
I do not possess a great knowledge of composition, but am merely making an empirical judgment.-Yours sincerely.

Dear Sir,-My thanks to Mr. Smith for drawing attention to the Surprise peal (Adelaide) as the first to be rung on the rehung ring at Bolney, Sussex.
May I therefore through your columns withdraw the footnote to the peal of Yorkshire rung at Bolney on September. 3rd, 1966. claiming this to be the first Surprise peal rung since the rehanging of St. Mary Magdalene's bells.-Yours sincerely,

\section*{MR. T. J. LOCK'S TOLR}

Dear Sir,-Following the report of Mr. I J. Lock's tour in Cheshire and North Wales. it should perhaps be stated that the church recorded as St Mary's. Handbridge. should read St. Mary-without-the-Walls.
Incidentally, this was the last church to be built by the Duke of Westminster, a new Darish being created at that time.
St. Mary-within-the-Walls. on the opposite side of the river. was for many years associated with that brilliant ringer Robert Sperring, who "rang all the bells all the time." - Yours sincerely.

\section*{KING'S LANGLEY CONGRATULATFD}

Dear Sir.-1 would like to congratulate the King's Langley band and their captain, Brian Barker (last year's president of the Herts County Association) upon winning the Kimpton Cup competition on September 24th. The support and goodwill of this band since the competition was inaugurated in 1959 is much appreciated and our Kimpton band were quite as delighted, and far less surprised. when King's Langley won the cup for the first time this year as when Kimpton won it for the first time in 1965

Several bands were unable to enter the competition this year because they were one short and thus missed not only an afternoon (and evening! of good fellowship. but an opportunity to make their own Sunday service band more striking-conscious. It is well worth the effort of planning ahead to make sure an entry is possible The difficulty may be over uhich ringers to choose from a large band This is overcome by entering two, duplicates being allowed.
This year Kimpton decided to do this at the last minute, the second ream being all ladies-has a ladies band participated in competition ringing before?-who were so pleased to hring round a 360 of Bob Doubles with reasonahle striking that being placed sixth (last) did not matter. Some moral may he drawn however from the fact that the winning hand was entirely male. It ties up with judge Pat Cannon's graphic description of the sweat which falls even in mid-winter from the brows of the West Country call change ringers after only ten minutes of reallv good striking-good striking on six means hard work. Ladies. we must work harder '
Apologies to any ladies who have the last sentence waved under their noses underlined in red!-Yours sincerely.
Kimpton, Herts.

\section*{GIANTS RING HERF?}

Dear Sír,-The church at Landwade. Cambridgeshire, but in the Diocese of St. Edmundsbury and Ipswich, has two bells hung with levers in a three-bell frame set on the first floor of the tower, which is 27 ft . 4 in . above the ground.

The sallies on both bell ropes extend from 4 ft , below the first floor to 2 ft . 6 in . above the ground, a total length of 21 ft .

It is a bit hard to appreciate what the reason could have been for having them this length other than decorative effect.-Yours sincerely,

Radlett.

\section*{KIMPTON CUP WINNERS}

King's Langley has the distinction of being the only tower to enter a band every year in the Kimpton Cup competition. They have been placed second three times and third once. but this year they carried home the rophy with, as one of the judges put it, "beautiful ringing " in their touch of Single Oxford.
This year's event rook place on September 24th, again at Kimpton. and followed the usual programme. with the test piece 360 Doubles or Minor. Eight entries were rereived but unfortunately two teams had to drop out shortly before the day. The judges were Mr. A. P. Cannon and Mr. C. H. Kippin, both of whom have judged on previous occasions The draw for order of ringing was carried out this year prior to the competition. and times had been arranged where necessary 10 tit in with ringing for weddings at the competitors' home towers. This proved a welcome innovation. The anti-clockwise six of the neighbouring rower at St . Paul's. Walden. were oper for general ringing during the afternoon.

A buffet tea was served by the local lady ringers and friends in the new Church House. Among those present were the Vicar of Kimpton (the Rev. K. G. Martin), the churchwardens and Mr. John Wells, Kimpton tower captain. who is in his 86th vear. Apologies were received from Mr. K. R. Dunstan, president of the Hertford County Association, and Mr A. R. Kench. a member of the cup committee.

The Vicar welcomed the ringers to Kimpton and said how pleased he was to see towers from many parts of the country represented. Mr. Cannon, in his comments upon the ringing, said a weakness in several of the teams was poor leads; a wide lead would often result in a bunching up of the other bells. Another general comment was that it is necessary to put some work into ringing, and that it is no good just letting the bell ring and the rope slide through the hands. Over* all. however, the standard seemed to be improving every year. Mr. Kippin, speaking in support, said ringing competitions had become much more popular over the last few years. and had resulted in a higher standard of striking.

The Rev. K. G. Martin presented the cup and certificate to Mr. B. M. Barker, captain of the King's Langley band, and certificates \($ 0\) the runners-up.
Results.-1 King's Langley, Single Oxford, 103 faults; 2 Baldock, Cambridge, 152: 3 Cheshunt. Grandsire Doubles, 186; 4 Hertford. Grandsire Doubles, 240 : Kimpton, Kent. 244 ; 6 Kimpton Ladies' band, Bob Doubles. 273.

Mr. J. G. Cull expressed thanks to the judges for their services, and Margaret Lander presented them with a small gift as a token of appreciation. The date for the next event was agreed as September 30th, and the following were nominated as cup committee for 1967: Messrs, B. M. Barker, J. G. Cull, D. C. Price, E Newnham, T. J. Southam and A. R. Kench.

The formal programme was rounded off with a talk on "Great Adventure II " by Mr. T J. Losk, illustrated by slides. There was pleasure, too, in hearing recordings of some of the ringing on the tour.

Ringers then adjourned to the local. where the winning band filled the cup, which was passed round in traditional manner. So ended another cup day which the writer feels again fulfilled the object of the competition " promote a greater interest in the art of change ringing and to provide an incentive through friendly competition to attain good striking."

\section*{CAMPINGOLOGISTS' AUGUST TOUR}

CAMPINGOLOGISTS* "AT HOME*

FRIDAY night in the orchard of Rydon Farm beneath the high Devon sky; a new moon hides, shy geese laugh and in two tents you lie. Apples fall, thump, a barn owl hoots as dew wets the dry. A cask of ale sings, sizzling. fermenting, lamenting the ansence of Webb.

Saturday's breakfast in a morning made brighter than bright by cider last night. Davies moans. Davenport still sleeps as Bennett hunts for his trousers. In the afternoon Yorkshire is rung in the beautiful (so typical of Devon) church at Ottery St. Mary.

There is ringing for morning service on Sunday at Woodbury From there to Ladrum Bay for sun and Sunday papers. After lunch the lightest ring in the world, at Bapton Lane. Later it's a ringers' evensong at Withycombe Raleigh, when three campers and Frank Mack ring Grandsire "in hand" during the service Still later to the Holly Bush.
On Monday the sleepv shallowing sound of a swarm of wasps hunting in earnest for sweetness, humming at the flap of your tent, is your reveille. No one eats much breakfast this morning-the day is won by the hunters Davies plans revenge. Davenport sleeps on as Wilde washes the dishes.

Clyst Honiton is awakened by the sound of Cumbridge competing with low-flying aircraft. Rutland in the heat of the afternoon is your 50 th peal.

Tuesday, hlack Tuesday. The wasps rout the camp. transferring their nest to Warrilow's hed whilst he sleeps, scorning the D.D.T. cards of Davies. Camp is abandoned for Exminster, where spliced is lost, as is Lincolnshire at Bovey Tracey.

Wednesday is a brighter day. The marauders are fooled by resiting the breakfast table, pint pois filled with beer being left in its place. Four campers delight a retired couple in the village with handbell ringing, earning goodwill and a bottle of sherry for the rest.
At East Rudleigh a competent peal of spliced by an alli-tent band: then on to Buckfast Abbey for a ring on the twelve, where we were joined by the Bowdens, the Friends and Frank Mack. New back to Dawlish Warren. where there's Bennett on safari in tull Indian Army tropical kit. In the evening it's your Army tropical kit. In the evening it's your noisoned Warrinow
After breakfast on Ihursday it's your A.G.M with sherrv and cake Then on 10 meet Bird al Uffiombe for chewing gum and Stedman Tribles.
On Friday. in Brixham's high brown lowes Yorkshire won't go. Saturday's attempt, too is a tale of woe but there's the practice as Exetcr Cathedral, bing. bang, bong, boomworth a hundred lost peals. On Sunday you must say goodbye. Goodbye to the hospitality of John Glanville and thank you. Thank vois to Frank Mack and the Bowdens for therr heln Helped by no one, vour organiser was. Wilde, who maintained the high standard planning which campingologists have come to expect. Expect well see you in Kent next five leads after 325476.

\section*{ODD VENTURES}

Comments on some toacbes that are different. GRANDSIRE TRIPLES

More than 50 years ago the late James \(E\). Groves composed and conducted a 5,093 Grandsire Caters in which the last call, a single, produced 32547698 , and rounds came after seven more plain leads. It was not popular, for the long plain course at the end of the peal proved intolerably boring, and the ringer of the 3rd did not relish his long spell in the hunt.

However. some small entertainment may be got from this device, and here are three touches of Grandsire Triples each having the peculiar property that gives five plain leads with the 3rd in the hunt. No. 2 provides perhaps the best music, but No, 3 is easy 10 memorise and is very handy for an odd few minutes.

Dabblers in composition may like to attempt to compose a quarter peal that ends in this manner.

\section*{LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION STRIKING FINALS}

The final of the striking compctition was held on October ist at Aughton, and despite a change in the weather a good crowd turned out and some very good striking restulted.
A wedding at St. Michael's held up the sixbell section, but a ground-floor ring and some good marshalling by the locals helped to put things right and ten teams finished by 5.30 . The judgas. Ivor Nicholls. Neil Lomas and Dennis Mottershead) placed them in the following order: St John's, Mosslev, St. James: Leyland. Westhoughton and Blackhurn Cathedral (joint third). Christ Chureh. Todmorden. St. Peter's, Burnley, Flixton, Adlington St Micbael's, Aughton, and Rainford.
The eight-bell section was at Christ Church, and here the judges were Cyril Crossthwaite and Neil Bennett, and the result was a win for Hyde, followed by St. Michael's. Ashton, and Accrington.
The usual bigh percentage had not sent in names for tea. but the ladies at Christ Church rose to the occasion magnificently and over lon sat down to a splendid tea. It was generally thought to be a very successful meeting.

\section*{SEVERN BRIDGE BRINGS SOUTH WALES NEARER}

When it was announced that the Severn Bridge was to be opened on September 9th, a member of the St Peter's (Exeter Cathe dral) Society of Change Ringers immediately suggested that we should take advantage of this new route to extend our ringing activitie: into South Wales Schedules were prepared for September 24 th giving possible towers times and routes. The first included Chep stow. Newport, Ebbw Vale and Abergavenny while the second kept further south and em braced Cardiff and Llandaff

It was decided to try the first route and we were fortunate in obtaining permission to ring at all the towers planned except Chepstow where an abundance of weddings made it impossible to adjust the schedule to include this particular tower.
The reports of long queues at the bridge were making us worried about our timetable especially as we had squeezed in at the las moment the light eight at Caerleon. so when we started off and ran into thick mist it seemed our plans would be completely upset However, time passed quickly as our Ringing Master (Fred Wretord) had a fund of stories to tell. and our fears were groundless We arrived at Caerleon by 11 o'clock but withou seeing much of the new bridge. We could not even see the River Severn!

Caerleon has a delightful eight. dainty and musical. We had received prior warning o the susceptibility of the stays to breaking and so special care was taken, and this undoubtedly improved the striking. We were joined here by other Cathedral members. who had elected to spend the week-end in Mon mouth. Stedman Triples. Little Boh Major Plain Bob Major and Triples were brough round in fine style. Our next tower was Al Saints'. Newport Here again we enjoyed oul ringing. The trip from All Saints to St Woolos' is not a iong one. but to avoid the heavily congested centre of Newport it was decided to cut across by Little Switzerland By deviating slightly we arrived in olenty of time to enioy lunch at the Six Bells
St. Werolos' was one of the towers which made the trip worthwhile and the Erin Cinques and Grandsire Cinques went beautifully, as did the Plain Bob Maximus We were enjoying the ringing so much that we were a little late in getting from Newport tc go up the valleys to Ebbw Vale. The bells of the Parish Church of Ebbw Vale are com parable in weight to Heavitree and Broadclyst, and opinion was divided as to the music made by each set of bells. It would he indiscreet to say which found most favour. In addition to the usual standard methods. Bristol was brought round successfully
No doubt you may be thinking that this tour was made up of ringers who are easily satisfied. and few superlatives have been left for our last tower. at Abergavenny. It is said this ring of ten is the finest in the country, and we are all agreed that they are better than any we had rung before. Touches of Grandsire, Stedman and Plain Boh Caters came round without any trips. and also plain Boh Roval. An attempt was made for Cambridge Royal but it came to grief.

By now the sun had set and we were 130 miles from home. The fog had thickened and visibility was down to ien vards in placeshut our spirits were high The pleasure of ringing these fine bells was still with us as we set of for home, having had a meal We were plagued with the fog until we reached Cullompton. and the hands of the clock had nassed midnight before we rolled into Exeter The day had been a very memorable one and without doubt. our finest outing.

We would like to thank Clive Bryant for making the arrangements and all those people who looked after us so well, and also the incumbents We sincerely hope that one day we shall have the nleasure of visiting this part of the country again.

LILLINGTON, DORSET.-On Sent. 14th, 1.260 Doubles (ihree methods): J. W. Marshall 1. Mrs. M. M. Godley 2. E. H. Amey 3. Miss M. Lush 4, T. F. Collins (cond.) 5

Ringers are welcome at St . Giles-in-theFields. W.C.2, each Thursday, to ring for the lunchtime service between 1 and 1.25 p.m.
The new ring of cight bells at Amblecote, Stourbridge, by John Taylor and Co., were dedicated by the Bishop of Worcester (Rt. Rev. L. M. Charles Edwards) on October 2nd.
The neal at Balderton on October Ist was arranged as a ladies' peal. but unfortunately Colin Reed had to be called unon at the last moment to deputise for his wife. The seven ladies are grateful to him.
The peal at Erdington. Birmingham, on October 1st for St. Martin's Guild was rung in honour of the ordination to the priesthood of the Rev. J. C. Bacon, former curate at St. Barnabas'.
The quarter peal rung at Kenilworth, Warwickshire, on September 11th, was intended to be one of Minor, but due to the inability of Mr. C J. Royal (in whose honour it was rung) to rouse himself for Sunday service ringing the rest of the band had to be content with ringing Doubles on the back five.

The three bells at Si. Michael's Church, Caerwvs, Flintshire, installed in 1787, which recently have been tolled by the Rector the Rev. Trefor Jones), are to be operated elecerically. According to "The Chester Chronicle" they were cast by "Fecit" of Loadon!!

\section*{ARCHDEACON ELLISON HONOLRED BY YORKSHIRE}

The Yorkshire Association held its last general meeting of the year on September 17th at Bridlington. There was ringing at Nunburnholme, Flamborough and on the magnificent eight at Bridlington Priory. It is the writer's view that the Priory bells are not easy to handle. He would even go so far as to say that they need more ringing than Halcy Hill's. Despite this there was some good ringing, and particularly the service touch.
After the service there was an excellent ca in the Church Hall. At the subsequent business meeting the most important item was the presentation of a cheque by the president, Mr. Vernon Bottomley, to the retiring president. the Ven. C. O. Ellison. The cheque was from the Association and the president said the response had been wide and generous. In giving a cheque they were sure to avoid giving an expensive white elephant." He understood that the Archdeacon and Mrs. Ellison had ordered a tea service, half a dinner service and some rose trees. He was pleased to say that the Association was not bidding Mr. Ellison goodbye, as he was still on the committec.

Expressing thanks, Mr. Ellison said he had indeed ordered rose irees and the china tea and dimner services. Even then he had some money left over, and he now proposed to buy new umbrella and two large breakfast cups. With such an array he would be reminded of his happy years as president of the Yorkshire Association at breakfast. dinner and tea, whilst the rose trees and umbrella would also ensure this in both fair weather and foul.

The date and place of the next general meeting were given as January \(2 l\) at at Sheffield. field.

\section*{WILBLRTON BELLS REHANGING}

The sir beils of St. Peter's Church. Wilburton, Cambs, are soon to be cleaned, retuned, etc., and rehung in a metal frame with all modern fittings by Taylor's of Loughborough at a cost of over \(£ 17700\). At present the bells are in an oak frame supplied by \(F\). Day and Son of Fye. Suffolk, probably in the 1880 's. This frame has become rather rickety. causing the bells to be somewhat difficult to handle. Quite a nice sum is in hand but more money is needed for the Restoration Fund. If this should meet the eve of any who in the past have had pleasure in ringing here (and hope to ring here again when the bells are reconditioned), any sum they can spare will be thankfully received and acknowledged by George Markwell, Twentypence Road, Wilburton, Ely, Cambs.

\section*{"ROYAL" WEEK}

St. Martin's Guild (Birmingham) Ringers' "Roval" Week proved arduous with the greater time taken to ring peals of Royal and the considerable mileage which had to be covered between towers. Out of the 15 attempts, only one was unsuccessfut-that at Bradford Cathedral on the Wednesday morning, when Pudsey Royal would not go. and the bells were swood after 1 . hour and 10 minutes.

\section*{FLOWER FESTIVAL AND EXHIBITION}

A flower festival and exhibition of church needlework was held at St. Mary the Virgin's, Shenfield, Essex, on September 23rd, 24th and 25th. The needlework, designed and made by the Needlework Guild. included a new altar frontal depicting the Benedicite, a 5 ft . wedding knecier, stoles, pulpit falls, cushions and partly completed work commissioned foi West minster Abbey. Some 30 flower arrangements had as their themes the Sacraments and the seasons of the Church's year.

The opening was preceded by a 720 ct Bob Minor on the bells. On the Saturday afternoon a full programme was provided by the organists and ringers, during which a quarter peal of Spliced Surprise Minor (1.390) in eight methods was rung on the tower bells, followed by two courses of Grandsire Caters of handbells rung in the chancel. A choral concert by the Allegro Singers in the evening concert by the Alegro Singers in the evening was. well supported. Sunday services and ringing were as usual, and the festival concluded with choral Evensong.

About \(£ 300\) was raised at the festival, and after expenses are paid the remainder will be given to Trueloves Home for Crippled Boys at Ingatestone, about three miles from Shenfield. The ringers taking part were: Miss \(P\). Harpole, G. Goldwin, R. Harpole, D. Houghton, D. Isgrove. H. Oliver, C. Tiffin, L Turner and H . Turner.

\section*{4 PROMISING YOUNG RINGER}

Peter Dodd, of St. Mary's, Bocking, rang his first quarter peal of Bob Minor at Gosfield on October 3rd. Peter, who is 13 and very small in stature, rang his bell remarkablv well and earned the hearty congratulations of the rest of the hand. It is hoped to see more of his ringing activities in the near future.

The neal of Dotibles for the Norwich Dio cesan Association on August 29th was rung at Tharston, and not Thurston.

CRAWFORD CUP CHANGES HANDS
The 1966 final of the Southwell Diocesan Guild Cup contest was held at Gamston on September 24th. Eight teams took part. two from each District except the Mansfield and North Notts Districts. A buffet tea got under way after the ringing had started. Over 70 people were present. and a raffle in aid of the Diocesan Bell Repair Fund realised \(£ 1\) 15 s.
The judge, Mr. Harold Chant, said how pleasant it was to be at a contest where not only was there some excellent ringing but all of it was of a reasonable standard.
The trophy was won for the first time by Wollaton "A" team. with a total of 38 faults for the test piece of 360 changes. Second were last year's winners, Warsop, with 44 faults. Other placings were Shelford ( 54 faults). Newark (76). Wollaton "B" (79), Balderton (84). Gedling (110) and East Retford (115). Simon Humphrey accepted the cup on behalf of Wollaton "A "from the Guild chairman. Mr. F. W. Midwinter.

A comprehensive vote of thaniss was promosed by the North Notts chairman, Mr. H. Denman. Further ringing took place after tea and the bells were lowered, one stay short, just after \(8.30 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}\).

\section*{WEEK-END IN LONDON}

London ringers were bosts to a small group of ringers from Lincolnshire during an enjoyable week-end. Mr. Brian Bull, of Putney, recently engaged to Miss Janet Hudson, from Stow, Lincolnshire. arranged a comprehensive ringing tour.
The bells of St. Andrew's. Holborn; st. Vedast's, Foster lane; St. Olave's, Hart Street: St. George's, Southwark; St. Mary's, Barnes; and St. Mary's, Merton, were rung by a mixed London and Lincoinshite band, and service ringing was undertaken at Mr . Bull's "home tower," St. Mary's, Putney. where, unfortunately. a quarter peal of Cambridge Major, special for the occasion, was lost in the early stages.
On behalf of the Lincolnshire group I would like to nay gratefu] tribute to London for the hospitality, particularly to Brian and Janet, and to Mrs. Bull, from whom we received veritable V.I.P. treatment.
We hope that future visits in both dircetions will be organised.
H. J.

\section*{TEWKESBURY RINGERS' GOOD DAY}

On September 24th a party of local ringers left Tewkesbury to visit Malmesbury's lovely Abbey, where they had a good hour's ringing before going on to the old church at Lydiard Tregoze and St. Mark's, Swindon. After lunch the party visited Bishopstone and Stratton St. Margaret. Tea was served at Swindon, and then the visitors made their way to the heavy six at Purton, finishing rioging for the day at 7.30. Refreshment was taken at Cirencester on the way back to Tewkesbury.

"The Ringing World' was tounded to the year 1911 by John Sparkes Coldsmith who remained its proprietor and editor unul his death in 1942.

\section*{PLANNING FOR THE FUTURE}

THE democratically-elected committee entrusted by the Central Council to produce a brighter and better "Ringing World" met at Derby on October 8th, having had more than three months to assimilate the opinions of the Exercise and to submit new ideas for improvements. Two days before the committee met he members received a 12 -page typed document setting out "the scope and content" of the journal and the financial obligations involved. This had been prepared by Messrs. D. Beresford and G. W. Pipe. There were also cover designs and mock make-ups for the committee's consideration which had been sent to the convener, and Mr. Pipe told the members that these had involved 92 hours' work.

Many of the points raised in the report had been considered by the committee previously, and to enable the new members to appreciate the present position the convener outlined past activities and the general policy of the committee. Indeed, Mr. R. S. Anderson extended the fullest co-operation, sympathetically considering the points raised by Mr. Beresford and answering if possible the questions submitted. There were two sessions, proceedings concluding at 4.45 p.m.
The first point considered was the title block on the front page with its silhouette of towers, domes and steeples. There was a general opinion that the time had come for a change. To enable the committee to have as wide as possible a choice, Mr. Anderson produced the various designs submitted on the occasion of the previous competition. The choice was a clear, clean-cut design of Mr. Pipe's, free from a background of towers, bells and wheels. This the Editor considered could be appropriately adapted.
Finance was involved in the next step. The two alternatives considered by the committee were a 24 -page issue at regular intervals and a tinted cover with a picture of a church or bells on the front page and 16 pages inside. Both issues would cost approximately the same, about \(£ 50\) more than the present price of a 16 -page paper. The Editor expressed the view that the 24 -page issue was of better value and it would still be possible to have an appropriate picture on the front page.

The question of the quality of paper used came under very close scrutiny. The Editor assured the committee that the unsatisfactory paper introduced because of delivery difficulties due to the seamen's strike would not be repeated. An adequate supply of the uality used in that week's issue was now available and this was of the same texture as that on which "The Times" was printed. "Times" reader Mr. Denis Bayles produced his copy, and

Mr. Smallwood, after a solemn professional examination with the current issue of the "R.W.", declared that the paper was practically identical. At any rate, these assurances satisfied the committee.

There was still a feeling that a tinted paper issue should not be dismissed without a trial, and the Editor was instructed to produce such an issue in December. The committee empowered the Editor to produce up to twenty 24 page issues during 1967, provided the material available was suitable.

The basis of the success of "The Ringing World" and also the Exercise is the family atmosphere created. The personal angle was very real and the admirable series of "Servants of the Exercise" and "Personalities of the Exercise," written respectively by J. Frank Smallwood and A. Patrick Cannon, helped and stimulated this family feeling. The continuation of such a series was long overdue. To meet the demand it was suggested that Associations should select an appropriate personality for a picture and biography and also submit an appropriate picture for a front page illustration which it was hoped would be a regular feature of 24 -page issues. If a church was selected for a picture an article about the tower and/or its ringers should be included in the same copy.

It was felt that the Bellfounders' Page could be made more interesting with better co-operation. This and Gossip could be enlarged if there were live correspondents and a readiness on the part of readers to send information to the Editor. Personal news is very valuable. Such items as people going up to universities, marriages and deaths are of great interest to readers.

With more space available a great range of special articles will be required. A beginners' corner and a technical page might be regular features. We also hope that the call-change ringers of the West Country will have their interest in the journal. It is also suggested that "This Week's Anniversary" should be introduced, dealing with the anniversary of some famous ringer or event. A volunteer with an interest in the historical side of our art is required to cope with this proposed feature.

It was generally agreed at Bath that "The Ringing World" should have a better sale and 10,000 copies was the objective mentioned. We are continually meeting people who have allowed their subscription to lapse. The sale of the paper can only successfully be stimulated locally and much depends on local officials. There is a genuine desire on the part of the committee to keep the selling price of the journal as at present. This will only be achieved by creating other sources of revenue.

\section*{TUITION OF BEGINNERS}

By D. C. Jackson, Southampton
\(M^{R}\) Chaddock has invited us to communicate, via "The Ringing World," concerning the tuition of beginners in our art, in order to assist him in the preparation of in order to assist him in the preparation of an official manual. That few have so far accepted the invitation is an indication of a malaise which has existed in the Exercise since time immemorial, namely, that the average change ringer is a selfish personality. interested only in the furtherance of his own capabilities.

In putting forward a few thoughts upon tuition in bell ringing, I would first like to call upon certain items of information which have recently appeared in our journal:-
1. The annual sale of " Beginners' Handbooks" is 3,051 (page 392).
is 5,650 (page 540 ). The weekly sale "Ringing Worlds" is 5,650 (page 540 ).
3. Beginners regularly become proficient enough in bell handling to be elected members of Guilds (see sundry reports of District bers of meetings).
4. "The Ringing World" could have a circulation of between 6,000 and 10,000 (page 386 and 387).
5. Mr. Percy has the courage to admit (and perhaps other C.C. representatives will now endorse this statement) that many rings of bells are not fully manned on Sundays, and that there is no national move to remedy this situation.
6. The specific reference to the general lack of ringers in the South and West of England. (Leading article, page 569.)

I would submit that the above indicate that there is no shortage of entrants to the Exercise, but that the wastage rate is so enormous that no one dare compute and publish it. Other additional references I would regard as
7. Mr. Lewin's reminder about selfishness in our belfries and lack of tact in teaching (page 476).
8. Mr. Everett's reminder that District secretaries should exert themselves more for the less capable (page 492).
"Doubles Collection" has initiated interest "Doubles Collection" has initiated interest (pages 387 and 428). pages 387 and 428).
10. Mr. Kenchington's reminder that some towers frequently have to resort to call changes in rreference to remaining silent on the Sabbath (page 540).
All this information indicates that we, the roficient 5,650 of the Exercise who read proficient 5,650 of the Exercise who read \(\therefore\) The Ringing World," are guilty of the ageold crime of neglect of the less able. I the annual 3.051 learners could become enthusiastic treble ringers, and that the uncounted hundreds of Grandsire and Bob Doubles ringers, who sometimes have to ring call changes, and who find a collection of other Doubles methods so interesting, would, with a little guidance and willing help from the proficient, become as enthusiastic and progressive as the remainder of us. The circulation of "The Ringing World" would rise slightly as their names appear in the quarter peal columns. as would the sale of C.C. publications as they enter the (as yet) unreachable realms of Bob Minor or even Kent.

The foregoing preamble is thus just an introduction to the point that all towers should regard their learners as the most important members of their band-the people who will be the responsible ringers of the future.

The stages of instruction should therefore be very carefully thought out in advance, and 1 would put forward the following for discussion on the subject:-
1. Appointment of a captain who is not necessarily the best ringer. The ability to conduct is not essential: the ability to otconduct is not essential: the ability ganise, understand and sympathise is.
2. Introduce the band to the idea that a set of learners must be acquired once every year or every two years, and help and friendship must be offered them.
3. Set up a standard system of recruitment. e.g.: Announcement in church and posters in hall; illustrated talk to Youth Club, W.I.. Rotary, etc.; advertisement and article in local newspaper; invitation to all members of a particular year group in the local school: circulation of Scouts, Guides and Duke of Edinburgh Award schemes to prepare for qualification for badge. Whatever the scheme used, I would emphasise that a group of beginners be taught. Allow for a definite wastage, and if possible select your learners from your applicants.
4. For the first session prepare a set talk on the bells and belfry, take them amongst the hells, arrange for another ringer to ring one bell, and allow them each to chime a bell. Before departing. in the case of young recruits, issue them each with a duplicated letter to their parents explaining practice times, Sunday ringing, etc. Request a note of permission for their children to participate in all these activities. Also record all names and addresses in a suitable book, since this induces the feeling of belonging to an organsation. Finally indicate to them that a subscription of is. is required at the next session, and with this purchase one copy of the "Beginners' Handbook" each.
5. Arrange a definite day and time for each practice session. preferably prior to practice night, so that recruits become accustomed to devoting that specific evening to ringing. Initiate the highest standards of punctuality and attendance. Do not accept any absentecism unless you have received prior notice, and hence make sure that everyone is conversant with your address and telephone number. The slack attender rarely lasts long, and it is better to lose him now before you have wasted time and effort. Still upon this point. I strongly recommend that one also initiates the feeling that you are devoting hours of your valuable time for their benefit, and that they should be grateful that you can spare them this time. At all costs the modern idea that the instructed are "doing you a favour" by occasionally attending should be obliterated. All this may require a stricter relationship between learner and tutor than is at present the custom.
6. With the aid of a model, visits to the belfry, blackboard drawings, photographs, etc., link the movements of the rope in the ringing chamber to the movements of the bell in the bell chamber, during the raising of a bell, ringing of a bell. and lowering. Provide reasons for each step in your instruction.
7. Divide bell handling into a series of progressive steps, starting with one of the rope movements. After verfecting this. start on the second. then link them together. (Apply 6.) During these weeks ensure that the bell is silent. This will be partly for the benefit of the neighbours and partly to reserve the achievement of hearing one's bell until the achievement of hearing ones bel

I cannot concur with the idea of allowing a learner loose upon a raised bell to discover his own method of handling, or presenting him initially with a lowered bell and helping him to raise and set it. Both of these techniques are favoured. I understand, by some of our leading ringers.
8. After about six weeks the learner will be able to "set" his bell with the instructor's aid. (Again apply 6.) A session should now he devoted to the learner "setting" his own bell and then practising until he can repeat this several times, consecutively. The competitive spirit can be utilised here, and a norm of say 20 consecutive "settings" at handstrike could be aimed at.
9. Learners should not be allowed to sound their own bell on a practice night solely hecause they can handle correctly and set their bell. A series of practice rounds on th silenced bells should be employed to provide practice in bell control at varying speeds. Call changes and place making can be introduced here so that the learner is familiar with these techniques on practice night. It is at this point that all the other ringers can participate and demonstrate some of the comradeship which is the distinct characteristic of the Exercise.
10. The organisation of the practice evening is the primary task of the captain, and if of suitable personality he win realise that the learner's first open rounds will be one of the great events in his life. Thus the occasion should be more than a mundane few minutes of rounds. The general feeling of fellowship and friendiness among ringers is another distinct impression that the learner should carry home with him on that night.
11. On successive practice nights, presuming that there are at least five learners remaining, the ringing should be arranged around them. I would go so far as to suggest that rounds should be rung alternately with methods throughout the evening. This will prevent (a) discouragement of learners at this stage, and (b) the need for too many learners to ring at the same time.
12. The routine described in 11 should be repeated on practice nights for possibly two months, but certainly for at least one month. The aim of this programme is to improve bell handling and striking, and until this is achieved I, would discourage any attempt to "push", the learner through plain hunting. A band will soon become accustomed to an arrangement of two months per year beiing devoted to this routine. Once a tradition is established it will be accepted unquestioningly.
13. I would not try to defend my scheme of work as perfect, and certainly \(I\) would expect to have an amount of wastage. By stage 8 some will have found that they and ringing are incompatible and, luckily for all will have departed. By stage 11 I would aim to retain at least five learners capable of hell handling These are the people whom the Exercise cannot afford to lose, but they will certainly leave if they are treated as something undesirable, and are fobbed off with five minutes of rounds only per week

By now it will be only the physical challenge, and the will to achieve a difficult tech nique, that has maintained interest. I would contend that only a planned introduction to change ringing will awaken and stimulate the fascination that grips all of us still remaining in the Exercise
14. For reasons which I enumerated in my lefter on page 245. I would recommend the introduction initially of the Plain Bob method rather than Grandsire. However. it is the method of introduction that now concerns us. During stage 12 the time pre viously devoted to silent practice should now be utilised for method instruction. This should be carried out on handbells. for reasons that should be obvious, following a well-planned system. Above all I would stress that every learner must write out his methods from first principles. and should not yet be introduced to books containing printed blue lines.

As a conclusion, may I stress that I would oppose the forcible introduction of any one person's set of ideas into a voluntary organisation, since it is variety that makes it progressive and alive. However, we do suffer that my ideas may encourage some of us to concentrate on our one great failing. neglect of learners. As a final throight, can I sugges that it was only by complete chance that the majority of the 5.650 of us survived stage 12 and conquered stage 14.

\section*{LONDON PEALS}

Miss Mary R. Andrews, secretary of the Lewisham District of the Kent Cointy Association. writes that she has consulted the secretaries of the towers in her Disirict most concerned in peal ringing. and they are all very strongly against the suggestion to alter

\section*{HATS IN THE BELFRY}

FOR the past 250 years a battered old hat has hung 45 feet up in the tower of Grea Bromiey Parish Church. Essex. It is generally accepted that the hat was placed on the wall just beneath the floor of the ringing chamber when the captain of the bellringing team of 1716 died. It is not known why this custom started Since that day in 1716 five more hats have been hung in the Bromley belfry from time 10 time. Nobody knows when the second hat was fixed on the wall, but the third one ar rived in 1825. The other three appeared on the tower wall in 1913, 1919 and the last one in 1935.

A local historian has made a detailed history of the church since moving to the village in 1943. but has been unable to discover why the custom of hanging hats of dead captains started.
The custom is unique. Nobody has heard of it being observed at other churches anywhere in the country

The origin of it will always remain a mystery.

While there has been a marked improvement in the space occupied by Notices. we still do not get our full complement of "Birth, Marriages and Deaths." Many like their engagement announcement to appear in association with the quarter peal column and ignore the appropriate place. The display advertisement among Notices, at a very low figure compared with the general run of advertisements in local papers, is becoming more popular. We hope this source of revenue will increase. There might well be a cime when a charge will have to be introduced for quarter peals; if revenue from this source is maintained this might be avoided.
Sales revenue will never be enough to finance journals like "The Ringing World." Readers should know that the printing and dispatch bill of a 16 -page paper is \(£ 148\) a week. The return from the publishers, that is sales through newsagents, is 9 s . a quire ( 26 copies) or a fraction over 4d. a copy. We get a better return from postal copies, but even if all copies were dispatched through that source it would fall a long way short of donations of \(£ 676\) we received last year. We are now reaping a little from the prudence in the past. which this year should be about \(£ 500\) in interest on investments. Despite these difficulties "The Ringing World" is putting on a bold front : is planning to spend very much more on larger papers, confident that such is the family spirit of the Exercise that it will not be let down

\section*{A MANCHESTER OUTING}

Thirty ringers and friends from Manchester Cathedral and St. James'. Birch-in-Rusholme, went by coach to Nottinghamshire and Derbyshire for their annual outing on September 24th.
The first tower. St. Peter's, Nottingham, contained the new twelve, and ringing consisted of rounds, Grandsire Cinques and Stedman Caters At the beautiful Church of St. Mary. Newark-on-Trent, more Stedman Caters was rung and also Plain Bob and Kent Royal.

When we arrived at St. Mary's. Sutton-inAshfield two weddings were in progress. AlAshfied two weddings were in progress. Although the time was curtailed, Cambridge
Major and Double Norwich as well as Grandsire and rounds were rung.

We then travelled to Chesterfield, where we had a substantial meal before ringing at our last tower, St. Mary's. The party managed to ring Grandsire Caters. Stedman and Double ring Grandsire Caters, Stedman and bouble Norwich, before having to lower the beautiful bells for Evensong.

Grateful thanks are extended to the organisers and the tower captain at the churches we visited for the very pleasant day.

DEVIZES RINGERS VISIT DORCHESTER
For their second outing this year Devizes ringers and those of Southbroom spent a pleasant day in Dorset. At St. Peter's Church. Dorchester. Mr. R H. Duke made the party most welcome and an enjoyable time was spent on these bells

Tea at a café was followed by visits to St , Andrew's, Preston, where Canon W. J. Smith and some of his ringers were waiting for us. After 40 minutes' ringing here we made our way to St Lawrence's Church, Upwey, where the former Vicar, the late Rev. A. S. Bryant. was known to some of the party when he was at Southbroom. Incumbents and captains of towers are thanked for having everything in readiness and for enabling us to have a very enjoyable time.

\section*{BOURNEMOUTH RINGERS AT} GUILDFORD
The weather was not very promising on the morning of October 1 st . when a party of ringers from St. Peter's, Bournemouth, left hy coach for their annual tour with friends from Ringwood. Lymington and Milford-on-Sea. After a stop at Winchester for refreshments Guildford Cathedral was reached at noon
The bells were put to good use with call changes. Grandsire Caters and Plain Bob Major. The opportunity was taken to view the Flower Festival which was taking place. by which time the sun was shining. The next tower was at Dunsfold, where various Doubles and Minor methods were rung on this good ring of six. After tea the light ten at Haslemere were rung to methods up to Stedman Caters. The evening stop was at Liphook for liquid refreshment to round off an enjoyable day. Bournemouth was reached by 11 p.m. Thanks are due to the incumbents for allowing the hells to be rung. and special thanks to Colin Conway, of St. Peter's, for making all the necessary arrangements.

\section*{CRANTOCK, CORNWALL}

Crantock ringers and friends were in the Plymouth area for their annual outing oll Octoher 1st. Before lunch at Plymouth ringing took place at Buckland-Monachorum and Tamerton Foliolt. We had never experienced so many weddings on an outing as in Plymouth, and in consequence the route had o mouth, and in consequence the route had o locals for a wedding. Then on to Egg Buckland and Plymstock but judging by the shields and prizes displayed in the latter belfry we are douhtful if our ringing reached the standard set by local ringers Back to Plymouth for tea, and on the homeward journey ringing at St. Budeaux. with fish and chips at Lanivet.
For this most enjoyable day, our thanks go o incumbents and ringers who met us. J.R.

\section*{CHESTERFIELD TO CHESTER}

The Chesterfield District's annual outing on September 10th this year was to Chester, and a happy band of 55 members assembled for what proved to be the best outing to date.
The coach left for Baslow to pick up three more passengers and then wound its way along the narrow High Peak roads until reaching Great Budworth, the first tower. Here a wedding was in progress but after the ceremony we rang on the melodious eight-much to the surprise of the bridal party.

Tracks were then made for Chester Zoo, where we enjoyed lunch. During the afternoon non-ringers stayed at the Zoo whilst the ringers visited two light sixes at Shotwick and Backvisited two light sixes at Shotwick and meal must have proved too good, because at the first tower one of our strongarmed party broke a stay, and at the second we procured a broken rope. Thus we were doomed to ring Doubles instead of Minor all the afternoon.

We returned to the Zoo at 5 p.m. for more sustenance and once more boarded the coach for the last stage of the journey. On the way home we called at St. Peter's. Macclesfield. for a short ring on their light but easy-going eight. We returned home in a happy frame of mind, arriving in Chesterfield at 10.45 p.m.

Congratulations are due to Malcolm Phipps for such a well-organised day. Methods rung: Grandsire. Stedman. Plain Bob. Oxford. Kent, Grandsire. Stedman Plain Bob. Little Bob, Oxford. Kent. Cambridge and Plain Hunt

\section*{A NOVEL "FIRST"}

Dear Sir.-I think you may find interest in the fact that last Saturday (October 1st) we accomplished at Washington Cathedral a " first " for the Exercise itself, though a rather undistinguished one
By 5 p.m. Roger Bailey had successfully guided our yoked bells (audible within about 100 yards of the cower) through 720's of Cambridge and Oxford, two of Kent, and into the second of the concluding three of Bob Minor. Suddenly the carillon on the floor below us began a one-hour recital. completely drowning out the sound of our bells. Ringing Plain Bob, it would have been no problem to continue the peal, but it was apparent that our ringing would be most unwelcome to the carillonneur and to any listeners, especially during rests and pianissimo sections of the recital. Therefore, we felt it best to defer to the scheduled recital, which all of us, in the excitement of ringing a peal, had forgotten, and Roger quickly brought the bells truly round, having completed 4,044 changes.

Peals are lost regularly and for a number of unusual reasons However, this is unquestionably the first time a peal has ever been lost because of competition from a carillon-for this is the only tower in the world containing both sets of bells:-Your sincerely,

RICHARD S. DIRKSEN,
Bellmaster,
Washington Cathedral, D.C. U.S.A.

\section*{NOTICE WANTED ON BELFRY DOOR}

Dear Sir,-In my travels up and down the country I am often at a loss to understand why so very few towers advertise their ringing times outside the belfry door. Some towers do put a notice either in the church porch, the church magazine or outside the tower door. The vast majority do nothing.

I am not throwing stones at anyone. only iust making a polite suggestion to the Exercise in general that a little co-operation in this matter should not be difficult. If towers advertise their practice nights where the notice can be seen, it helps visiting ringers like myself and also saves ringers running round trying to find the incumbent or some other church officer to seek the necessary information as to when ringing takes place.

There are plenty of struggling bands up and down the country who would welcome help with their ringing on Sundays or practice nights. Surely somebody can put up a notice outside the tower saying when ringing takes place; and. if the bells are unringable or there is no band, say so! One cannot always go by "Dove's" or even the local Association report.

Six years ago I rang at Bath Abbey. They were then short of ringers. I rang there quite by accident. They had a notice outside the belfry door stating their practice night, which was not every week, also all the Sundays throughout the year! It was morning ringing one Sunday and evening ringing the next. If only other towers did that, they might find larger numbers in the belfry.

Finally, I have just returned from a most enjoyable holiday in Shrewsbury. I should like to thank all those good people in Shropshire. Staffordshire, Denbighshire and Cheshire for making me so welcome. and also to the touring party from Oxford for letting me ring with them while "on tour." - Yours faithfully.

\section*{ADVERTISEMENTS PROVIDE LUXURIES}

Dear Sir,-May I thank Mr. Amos (page 652) fc: two things. One, for having read my letter (page 620)-even if he did not understand it-and the other for the probably unintentional compliment, "You are no window dresser, Mr. Wilson."
Mr: Amos had no need to remind me of the six years of war-three of my own six years in uniform were spent abroad. but in line with his above-quoted comment, I have never worn the little buttonhole badge I was given.

Mr. Amos is so far off beam that I doubt the value of a reply, except that I would not wish other readers to draw the same conclusions. Of course I want advertisements in "The Ringing World," for the sake of the income they would bring which would pay for the luxuries other journals are able to enjoy. My own publishers would confirm my pressure on them for "Ringing World" advertisements. The point I made was simply that "The Ringing World" cannot get advertisements on this scale. I am sure that you, sir, have never refused an advertisement from a man who wanted to sell his car. But if he wanted a quick and profitable sale be would not rely on "The Ringing World." I do not recall seeing an advertisement from Mr. Amos for his rare breeds of poultry!

I do not have to look in my own church magazine to know what is done there. I duplicate it and staple it inside printed covers full of advertisements. But it circulates among 500 families all living near the advertisers.
Of course it is an individual's right to criticise. My letter was to counter the effect you. sir, feared might come of certain criticism and, if possible, to ensure that future criticism. when made, was valid. As for talk about democracy, my present work enables me to see and learn more of its workings than Mr. Amos has ever dreamed of.
1 doubt the value of trying further to answer more of the tortuous thinking of Mr . Amos-it's too devious for me.-Yours, etc.,

London.

\section*{SIXTY YEARS AGO}

Dear Sir,-Many peals have been rung and many changes have taken place to the persons who have rung them since I made my first attempt for a peal. This was on the bells of the Holy Trinity, Nottingham, as long ago as July 25 th, 1906. The method was Grandsire Triples and conducted by Samuel Wesley (the conductor at this church).

We had almost completed our task and were expecting the words "This is all." when the man on the third, Joe Wooley (conductor at All Saints'. Nottingham), set his bell. He was still grasping the sally with his head leaning forward, and we at first thought that he was ill. then he said that the music of the organ (the organist was preparing for the dedication the next day) had completely taken his control. With that we decided to grant him pardon.

A second attemp: was arranged to take place immediately after the dedication on Julv 26th. which was reputed to be the hottest day of 1906. I remember fixing the tower flag to the large chamber window to shade us from the cun's rays. 5.040 well struck changes were accomplished in 2 hours and 45 minutes. Yours faithfully.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD AND "THE RINGING WORLD"
Dear Sir,-About this time last year the Oxford Diocesan Guild came under fire in "The Ringing World" on account of its funds. Members of the Guild have asked that you publish the enclosed extract from the Report for 1964-1965 in the hope that it will clear up the misunderstanding that had arisen:-
"In August the Guild came under fire in 'The Ringing World,' when we were criticised for being ' mean' over a grant to the paper I think that it would be wise to mention here the following details, as I have found that even members of the Guild are not aware of certain facts. Guild funds stood at \(£ 1,971\) 6 s . 9d. at the end of 1964. Of this, \(£ 1,792\) 2 s . Id. was the amount of money in the Restoration Fund. Of this sum \(£ 800\) is in trust for the Jenkyn Bequests, \(£ 50511 \mathrm{~s} .7 \mathrm{~d}\). is invested on behalf of the Restoration Fund, and practically all the remaining \(£ 485\) 16s. was earmarked for grants made for unfinished restoration work in the Diocese. None of this money can be used for anything except restoration work This means also that with the \(£ 56\) in the Reserve Fund the Guild has approximately \(£ 1,826\) out of \(£ 1,971\) invested for the good of either bell restoration in the Diocese or for the good of the Exercise. That we work within the limits of our annual income, give \(£ 40\) to "The Ringing World,' and also transfer \(£ 25\) to the Reserve Fund so that we can give help where needed is due to the excellent management of the honorary treasurer. It is most important that all memtreasurer. It is most important that all members should be aware of these facts and that we should understand what the balance sheet really means. We do not own the money, we are trustees for it"

MORE ATTENTION TO THE CHURCH
Dear Sir,-I believe that anything you can do to bring "The Ringing World ", up to date would be all to the good.

I would like to see a little more attention paid to the Church in the magazine, as I have felt for some time that our art is inclined to become just a little secular at times. A few articles on theological matteers might remind a lot of people that ringing is primarily a service for our Church.

Ringers are just as vital to the Church as the choir, and that fact is not always realised, I regret to say. A firm reminder to everybody concerned at times would do no harm. -Yours sincerely.

\section*{"IN ROPESIGHT"}

Dear Sir,-In partial answer to Mr. Harry Corbishley, the last chapter of Jasper W. Snowdon's' "Ropesight " is devoted to bell rope splıcing.
This was not, however, a part of the original work of 1879. but was added by the author's brother, William Snowdon. when the fifth edition appeared in 1900.-Yours faithfully.

\section*{ST. KATHERINE'S SOCIETY'S THIRD TOUR}

WITH Lincolnshire and Yorkshire as the hunting-or, dare it be said, grabbingground for the Society's third annual tour, we assembled at the unrealistic hour of \(7 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}\) at Croydon on September 3rd. We numbered 15 bleary-eyed ringers and two "gonks"thus dispelling all rumours that Janette had been brought along as a mascot!
Crammed into three cars. we set off in cavalcade and arrived at Grantham, where, sandwiched between weddings, we rang Stedman, Grandsire and Cambridge on the ten. Following lunch. we wended our way north, and at Doncaster climbed the first of the many long staircases we were to encounter during the week to tackle the heavy eight. The rigours of travelling are probably to blame for our poor striking here, although a good course of Bristol was rung. The ten at St. Giles', Pontefract, were visited next ; striking improved here and Boh Royal was added to the day's methods. And so to York. where. after pursuing circuitous routes, we found a place to eat and. eventually, our digs. Here we were joined by Tom Metcalfe. the Pride of Flookburgh, and Ian Wickens who had journeyed up by train that evening from Charlwood

TWO CATHEDRALS
Sunday morning found us ringing for the service at York Minster, while in the afternoon we rang at Whixley. This, our first six-bell tower, proved a good choice: we were also recommended to visit Aldborough and did so successfully. The day's ringing was concluded at Ripon Cathedral for Evenson5s. After a somewhat hair-raising return journcy with more than our fair share of " \(Z\) " bends, we ensconced in a suitable hostelry with a surfeit of sandwiches. Handbells were rung, to the delight of the publican

Ringing began in carnest on Mondav. though with a false start. With no one 10 meet us at Pocklington and unable to find the key, we moved on to St. Mary's, Beverley. while two carloads grabbed a tower en route by way of compensation. The afternoon's ringing began on the good light six at Walkington after which. appetites whetted, we made our way to Cottingham. Here we stood in the rain while one of the locals departed for the key. The wait proved worthwhile, for some enjoyable ringing was had here. after which we made our way to Hull. Holv Trinity proved more difficult to find than our directions had suggested, so, navigators having abdicated responsibility, we enjoyed a splendid. if unexpected, tour of the city. Hull proved to have a fine ring, as also had Howden, the last stop of the day.
Tuesday saw us branching into West Yorkshire. At Acomb we rang in cramped conditions, and quality varied. Stedman grinding to a halt, but Kent and Oxford Spliced proved more successful. At Collingham. on the light eight (requiring careful handling), We were gratified to be informed by a local ringer that we were the best strikers he had heard on the bells! At Wetherby, four-spliced Surprise was achieved, and with this to our credit we headed to Birstall, where we found the only Yorkshire tail-ends of the week. All agreed the bells were superb, and a first attempt at

Erin Triples was a great success. And so on, through Batley and Dewsbury (where we had occasional altercation with point-duty policemen), to ring at Ossett. The day was rounded off at Wakefield by participating in the Cathedral practice. Having accustomed ourselves to 14 ropes in one chamber, we achieved some good ringing with the added strengch of the local band

INTO LINCOLNSHIRE
On Wednesday we departed from York to Lincoln. Ringing en route was at Selby, where Lincoln, Ringing en route was at Selby, where in the evening. The remainder of the day was occupied with tower-grabs and the Society's annual general meeting. Conducted in traditional style, the assembled company discussed (when persuaded to) the election of officers, next year's tour and the annual reunion.
Thursday, our first full day in Lincolnshire, proved interesting. After cramming ourselves into the tiny chamber at St. Peter-at-Gowts' Lincoln, we visited Wraghy, where three bells were rung kneeling. Louth presented us with a heavy eight requiring skilful handling. and a heavy eight requiring skilful handling, and after lunch we made our way to St.James'
Grimsby. Here. two bells proved difficult to handle: investigation aloft showed that an additional frame for the two bells had been strapped to the existing one, an admirable economy, but unfortunately the considerable movement of this new fixture failed to justify it Pausing for a short time at the four-bell it Pausing for a short time at the four-bell tower at Stallingborough, we continued to Caistor, where Antelope was rung for no apparent reason. And so to Lincoln Cathedral and the second 12 -bell practice which we were fortunate enough to be allowed to invade As at Wakefield, we enjoyed ringing of a high standard and would like to express our thanks to both bands for their courtesy on these occasions

A DAY IN NOTTINGHAMSHIRE
Friday took us westward and into Nottinghamshire. Starting the day at Brant Broughton, we graduated from this heavy six to the ten at Newark, giving not only a demonstration of ringing hut also a Press report. After lunch, Southwell Minster was visited. The anti-clockwise 12 came as a shock to some Roger for one, setting out to raise the four with his back to the third. At Mansfield Woodhouse all will remember the odd-struck bells. on which we nevertheless managed some good striking. Worksop also provided interest as Oxford Bob Triples was rung with the ringers of the back four sitting down. East Retford proved to have a fine ten, and we were surprised to hear that the church's restoration programme included some attention to the bells. Tuxford, the last tower of the day, possed a pleasant ring, where good striking was achieved.
Saturday took us south of Lincoln. Waddington bells proved a useful six and Caythorpe (a good eight), had two stays missing. The fine light ten at Ewerby were substituted for Hough-on-the-Hill, and Sleaford. Ruskington and Harmston were three well-chosen towers. Back in Lincoln, the four at St. Mary-le-Wig. ford and the six at St. Botolph's were both rung before all assembled at St. Giles'. Here. at the umpteenth attempt. Glasgow was finally added to the week's methods. The tour was brought to a close in traditional fashion later that evening, and some members, in signing the hotel's visitors book, inserted home tower for full address. and number of bells and tenor weight for room number!
Sadly, an isolated incident marred the week -the discovery on Sunday morning of the theft from one of the cars of three cameras. After a successful week this was extremely regrettable, especially as the occupants suffered the further inconvenience of missing ringing at Boston that morning. Homeward bound, further towers were visited-Croyland Abbev was grabhed shortly after lunch, and we were fortunate to be allowed to invade Baldock. thus fufilling an ambition for Alan and Christine, and Hitchin
The week proved hectic but successful and was enjoyed by one and all. A vote of thanks is due to the organisers, drivers and to all local ringers and incumbents. For future reference. it can be reported that all ropes, stays and. as far as we know, bells, were left intact-an improvement on last year!

\section*{HAROLD CHANTS BOOK ON METHOD SPLICING}

\section*{Reviewed by A. S. Hudson}

\(I^{T}\)is an unfortunate fact that where specialised theoretical treatises are concerned, the knowledge and understanding of the author usually far exceeds that of the reviewer. This is most certainly the case with the present work. Method Splicing, Part I. Minor work. "Method Splicing, Part I. Minor Methods." hy H. Chant, published by John Hilton of Tonbridge at 8 s . 6 d .
It will not have escaped the attention of the bell-ringing public that in the opinion of many authorities there is a long unsatisfied need for definite texts on the many theoretical aspects of change ringing. Method splicing is one such aspect of the general therry nt composition, and this book concerns what is probatly the most intricate of all splicing probably the most intricate of al] splicing problems, that of obtaining a true extent. The fact that Minor methods are being considered is in some ways incidental to the general problem
Mr. Chant begins by considering Plain metheds. heginning with the "opposite half" splice across a single. passing via course splicing, three lead splices and cross splices to grid splicing, or as the author remarks "a new use for old methods." The succeedin, chapter he devotes to Treble Bob methods, discussing one-lead. three-lead. five-lead (course) and six-lead splicing. At this stage he digs up a few more old methods and finds new uses for them
The last part of the book concerns Alliance methods, and first of all explains how Little methods are required in conjunction with them in order to produce an extent. Following this procedure. Trehle Bob and Plain methods are integrated, then Treble Bob methods are broken down into Little and Alliance methods with the same changes in the lead, and finally all the techniques are brought together in some most ingenious extents.
I had, of course, met several multi-Minor extents before and had studied them at length to see how they were put together. Consequently it was with a cheerful heart that I tackled Chapter 1 on the Plain methods. The techniques in this chapter are very well explained and simple to follow. I was not at all happy about the new use for old methods, and let it pass in the hope of later clarification. With relief we sailed into the familiar waters of the College Exercise group, and then the pace hotted up until I floundered in grid splicing again After some study this hecame clear and. accepting the author's invitation. I felt canable of arranging some simple extents on the same plan myself.
The section on Alliance methods was fascinating in the extreme and the section entitled "At work with paper and pencil" provided the information necessary to make use of all the previously explained techniques.
This hook is a most valuable addition to the ringing library. It is a pleasant surprise to find a subject deali with in considerable detail, indeed it must be one of the first books to do so. The iendency of modern texts to be written down to the beginner has continued too long: the standard methods were first described a long time ego and the works have not as yet become dated. Mr. Chant's work describes multi-Minor splicing in detail and completely, a rare feature today. A considerable amount of previous knowledge and interest is. of course. reauired, but without interest is. of course. reauired, but without trouble to open the hook at all.

The layout is perhaps somewhat lacking, and the tables a little cramped. I do not like Roman numerals at all-up to XX nerhaps, but beyond this, no. As for XLVIII, it is quite meaningless to me. It is not always easy to find the required diagram since several pages of text may ensue hefore the diagram appears, and I cannot agree that most of the table on page 88 is self-explanatory. These, however, are relatively unimportant criticisms and I must congratulate Mr . Chant and his publisher on nroducing a first-rate text book on a most difficult suhject. It is to be hoped that other works in the series will attain the same high standard.

MR. JOHN A. RUSSELL
The Canterbury District has been shocked and grieved to learn of the sudden passing of Mr. John A. Russell, of Birchington, which occurred on September 30th.

Jack, as he was known to us all, had been a ringer at All Saints' for many years, was captain for 21 years, and was one of the local ringers who re-formed the Quex Park Society some years ago, being its secretary at the time of his death. He was appointed people's warden at All Saints' three years ago He was beloved by all who were attached to the church and to many of the local parishioners.

To ringers in the Canterbury District he was loved as their chairman, an office he had held since its inception in 1946 , and a more popular figure could hardly be found. He knew his meeting procedure thoroughly, was never lost on a point, could keep a meetine in the way it should go, and at the same time was patient. humorous. kindly and helpful to any speaker, in fact the ideal chairman.
A tribute to his pobularity was seen at the funeral held at All Saints'. A large congregation, which included many of his Post Office colleagues, parishioners and ringers from a wide area, attended the service, which was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. F. V Fordham), assisted by the Rev. J. M Stephens, The lesson was read by his fellow churchwarden. Mr. T. A. Walker.

Much sympathy has been expressed to Mrs. Russell. who has two young boys, for whom a trust fund has been set up and to which many contributions have been made.
So we leave him with a thought given by the Vicar in his address, "He was a man who the Vicar in his address, He was a man who anced, and loving his God first, the rest slipped easily into place."

\section*{MR. THOMAS G. DENNIS}

With great regret we record the sad and sudden death on September 11th of Mr Thomas G. Dennis aged 65 years, in Brook Hospital, Ashford Kent, having been taken seriously ill the previous Friday night.
For many years Tom had been a well-known figure at Rainham and was known as a keen churchman and a willing worker for local organisations All his life he had been a regular worshipper at St. Margaret's Parish Church, Rainham, where he was a sidesman. Sunday. School teacher, a member of the Parochial Church Council and Toc H, besider being a very useful member of St. Margaret's bellringers. Tom only missed attending church or ringing when his working duties called for him to skipper his barge upon the waters of the Rivers Medway or Thames.
He had been a member of the Kent County Association since 1924. His cheerful manner and wise counsel and willing help will be missed in the belfry, where he acted as tower chaplain always taking prayers before service ringing. The deepest sympathy of many friends is extended to his widow, son and daughter-in-law.
The funeral service at St. Margaret's Church, Rainham. on September 17th, was conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. James Clifford, assisted by the Rev. R. Etheridge. Among the ringers who attended. representing St. Margaret's Church ringers and the Rochester District of the Kent County Association, were: Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Cheal, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Nayler. Miss E. Cumberworth. Messrs. P. Thomas, K. Williamson and D. Baldock. Thus on a fine and sunny September afternoon Tom. our dear friend, was laid to rest near the church he had loved and served so well. Before and aftor the service and on the two Sundays since his passing the bells of St. Margaret's have rung the half-muftled message: "We peal in muffled sadness for loved ones laid to rest." mulled sadness F. \section*{KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION Tonbridge District}

The Tonbridge District held their annual meeting at Tonbridge on October 1st. Ringing could not begin at the usual time owing \(t 0\) a wedding, but a few touches were rung before a service held at 4 p.m. conducted by the Rev. R. Huddlesdon. Forty-five members and friends enjoyed tea at the Parish Room provided and served by the lady members and wives of the Tonbridge band before adjourning to the Vicarage for the business meeting. The Rev. R. Huddlesdon was invited to take the chair, and he tendered apologies for absence from Canon and Mrs. Bewes, who are in Israel.

The last quarter peal on Old Headington, Oxford, bells, before being rehung, was rung on October 2nd, and was a compliment to Mr. and Mrs. Robin Trebilcock on the birth of a son.

The first member of St. Nicholas Society, Marston, Oxford, to ring 50 peals of Doubles in one tower is Mr. Alec Gammon. To mark the occasion he conducted a peal of 50 Doubles methods, which was a first for the Guild.

Mr. Ernest Weatherby's 95 th birthday at Plumb Hall, Alhambra, California. U.S.A., was remembered by friends at Market Drayton, where he was captain for many years. A quarter peal of Cambridge Surprise Major was rung on September 24th.
"Not many of the learners who attended the Yorkshire Association District practice at Kildwick had had the advantage of such tuition," writes our correspondent, and slyly adds "and apparently never before heard such lung power as that of Vernon Bottomley. Fred Munday and Maurice Thurmott." More anon!

\section*{DIAMOND WEDDING AT MARESFIELD}

Members of the Sussex County Association on October 8th honoured Captain (Church Army) J. R. and Mrs. Martin, on the occasion of their diamond wedding celebrations, with a peal in the morning This was rung at nearby Fairwarp, and there was more ringing in the afternoon with a beautifully struck quarter peal of Stedman Triples. The band were afterwards invited to the Village Hall (opposite St. Bartholomew's Church) to partake in the actual celebrations

\section*{CUMBERLAND YOUTH'S WEDDING}

The wedding of Mr. Andrew J. Strathdee and Miss J. Wendy Smith took place at SS Peter and Paul's Church, Harlington, where they are both ringers, on September 10th. The service was taken by the Vicar.
The bride wore a full-length classical-stvle dress and train of heavy white brocade. She carried a bouquet of pink roses. She was attended by Miss Janet Strathdee, the bridegroom's sister, who wore a long princess-line dress of pale pink heavy brocade. and carried a bouquet of matching carnations. The best man was Mr. Derek E. Sibson.

The reception was held in the nearby Church Hall. As the couple left the church the bells were rung by members of the local band and friends.

The honeymoon was spent near Eastbourne, and the couple will make their home at Cowley Peachev, near Uxbridge

Later that afternoon a congratulatory peal was rung at Chiswick by members of the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths. of which Andrew is a member, conducted by the best man.

\section*{BLESSED ARE THEY}

This week we received a letter from one of our elderly readers who had spent 50 weeks in bed. There are many who have sympathy with the work of Mr. John Euston for the veterans, and we commend to them the following anonymous verses that came our way:

Blessed are they who understand
My faltering step and shaking hand.
Blessed who know my ears today Must strain to catch the things they sav Blessed are they who seem to know My eyes are dim and my mind is slow. Blessed are they who looked away When tea spilled on the cloth that day. Blessed are they with a cheery smile Who stopped to chat for a little while.
Blessed are they who never say
"You've told that story twice today."
Blessed are they who make it known That I'm loved, respected and not alone And blessed are they who ease the days Of my journey home, in loving ways.

\section*{PLIGHT OF RIPON CATHEDRAL}

Pleading for more young people to become ringers at Ripon Cathedral, the Dean (the Very Rev. IF. LI. Hughes) writes in the Cathedral magazine: "Bells carry a message, and I am perpetually grieved by the silence of the Cathedral bells on Sundays. My cheeks burn with shame as I hear the Sharow bells pealing across the River Ure. and our melancholy ding-dong. the only Ripon answer.
"We must make a major effort to get a band of ringers again. Our deserted belfry must be manned once more. Our two or three remaining ringers have made valiant efforts to train young ringers, but these vanish away train young like smoke.

The trouble in Ripon is that the very young go away to college or to work elsewhere and the college students are birds of passage." says the Dean, and he thinks the only hope is in the 18-25 age group among those who have settled to work in the city.
"JACK" CAME BEFORE "BOB"
Two well-known Hawkhurst ringers. Mr. J Davis and his son, have been to the West Country, not for ringing, but bowls. They were members of a bowls party playing in tournaments each afternoon and evening. Unfortunately by the time they returned to their hotel for dinner it was too late to get in any tower snatching

\section*{INDUCTION WAS REUNION}

The induction of the new Rector of Barley Herts, the Rev. A. S Lockett, was preceded by a quarter peal of Boh Minor rung by members of St. John's Church, Hillingdon, Middlesex. Mr Lockett was previously curate at St. John's. and many other Hillingdon friends made the long journey to take part in the service After the service a touch of Cambridge Minor was rung, in which the Rev. David Hoare. of Ampthill. Beds, who was present at the induction. took part. Several of the Hillingdon band were delighted to thus meet and ring with an old friend.

\section*{"SUDDENLY RETURN"}

A band of ringers in a North Yorkshire village were ringing a ground-floor six for the wedding of a village girl. Having rung the bride into church, they adjourned ot the home of the local captain for a welcome cun of coffee. A somewhat speedy return to the church was made. the ringers entering the church during the singing of a hymn whilst the register was being signed. The hymn was "Love divine." and as the ringers re-entered the church the lines sung were "Suddenly return and never. never more thy temples leave."

\section*{"AGONISING EXPERIENCE'}

Miss Ann Gardner, of Washington Cathedral band, writing to Mr Fred Price of Southbourne about her first peal, states: "It was really an agonising experience, what with my blisters and the heat. But it made me realise how short quarter peals are! We rang one on Monday for Labor Day, and the time simply whizzed by. Of course, that was partlv hecause of the method. Kent Treble Bob Minor, with which I was rather unfamiliar. so that I had to think all the time instead of looking at the clock."
Ann has now left Washington for college. so will be absent from ringing for many months. She has taken with her "The Washington Peal" (record) to listen to when she \\ \section*{Donated by \\ \section*{Donated by \\ \\ JOHN TAYLOR & CO., \\ \\ JOHN TAYLOR & CO., Loughborough, Loughborough, Leicestershire.} Leicestershire.}

We broke new ground on the tour this year
By staying where there wasn't any beer,
But some scouting work was done by a fewThe Talbot was found to supply drinks for the crew
Talking of drink, poor Win had a blow, A pint for a lady-never-oh no.
A half in each hand, there's a thing now, Alternately sipping-avoiding a row.
Arriving at Handbridge. I thought "Somebody new,"
When peering beneath the long hair that grew. I realised I had really seen him last yearDear Michael, you really must cut it, 1 fear. When Bill found out we were going to Retreat
He searched out a text. simple and neat. The back of the car is the place for to show. But not on his own car, there's a limit, you know.
We have with us now a new Tenor King So let us stand up and his praises do sing. He can't have the two or the treble no more A back-ender, Ron, or at least on the four.
The Reverend came-spent nearly a week.
The Sisters ali thought him ever so meek, But Dotty and I could tell a tall tale
If we cared 10 , but on second thoughts-no sale.
Talking of Dotty-she's called Dorothea-
The name is a mouthful, but she'll do for us here,
If only she'd grow. it is such a bind Lengthening the tail-ends, time out of mind. She also has brought her own tower captain And Arthur has brought his brolly, for rain. It's stayed in my car till I'm sick of the sight, You'd better remove it, or we'll have a light.
Gerald seems only one moan to have foundThe birds are a little bit thin on the ground He looked at the locals, decided no go, The lack of a car restricted his show
Dennis the Menace is here for to ring,
He's always so quiet. there's never a thing On which I can comment-if only he would Kick o'er the traces, 'stead of being so good.
Ian likes fish and chips, so if you hunger for food
Follow him, and then the repast will be good But it doesn't give him any extra pull.
Liverpool tenor made him look a bit of a fool.
If you want a good route o'er the dale and the hill
The Dave is the one-he never is still.
He always rings round near the front of the
He changes his shirt, then enjoys a good meal.
Ii you're a left-handed ringer, then better look out
My next guest, Ron Sharp, is liable to shout. Never mind, Ron. we all do our best.
We even forgive you for ringing in your vest.
Dick Price is back. with a wife this year,
That's caused the other girls many a tear.
He should look at the road instead of Andrea. Then he wouldn't have got any dents in the rear.
I've left out Tom, that will never do.
This year again we've pulled him through!
But seriously we thank you very sincerely,
We hope you will continue to organise yearly.

\section*{LEEDS AND DISTRICT SOCIETY}

The September meeting was held at Idle ot the 24 th . After debate on the merit of Bradford's trolley-buses. ringers ascended the steps to raise the bells in peal.
Unfortunately a wedding was due to start at o'clock, and although the happy couple had the benefit of free ringing, the cercmony interrupted the meeting for about half, an hour.
Once again numbers remained constant at about 13, and although it is disappointing not to see more members attending meetings. it must be stressed that all those who were present enjoyed the ringing.

Sandwiches were eaten in the nearby schoolroom, and at the short meeting thanks were conveyed to the local company for the cups of tea. Some subscriptions for the year wete also collected.

ST. ALBANS DISTRICT'S RALLY TESTS DRIVERS' KNOWLEDGE

\section*{AS in past years, October 1st saw a simall} gathering of cars on Nomansland Common for the annual outing. After being asked questions on the Highway Code and a few general knowledge questions, the car crews were given a set of written instructions and questions to find answers to, plus that sealed envelope " in case of emergencies," and set loose, when ready, on the county.
Those who managed to start in the right direction found themselves crossing Waterend Ford and heading to Welwyn and then on to Tewin. It was cross country to Ware, and after a short stretch of main road the route was via smaller roads to Roydon and up to the edge of Harlow. It was on this stretch that some of us began to pass familiar cars travelling in the opposite direction !! It is amazing how much confusion and laughter that causes !
At Harlow we knew we must be near the end. but the last clue, a pub situated on a corner as we turned of had many of us fooled. It was a case of cars in all directions as some returned 10 answer the question. others carried on with much uncertainty and laughter to follow the final directions and arrive at Sawbridgeworth to hand in answer sheets and then wait for all the cars to arrive, and the final results.
Tea was in a café nearby. There was more laughter when it was discovered one of the last to leave Nomansland nearly arrived before most of the others put together! On checking answers it seemed that counting the spokes in the cartwheels at one point in the journey seemed to be too much of an effort for some ! Many failed to see " where the knight left his horse "-the "hitching rail" in the forecourt of the Crusader in one small village! Several had been stumped by the question before starting. "Where do the six main roads from London (A.1, A.2, etc.) eventually finish?" And a big surprise was the fact that not one of the drivers could name the six six-bell towers in the county!!

At long last the final missing car appeared. The points were added and the results announced. The first prize went to-need you ask-the family Dodds, with their usual high marks. Second to Tony. Kench and Julia. and third to Graham Sillis, Babs and the South Mimms girls.

Geoti Dodds spoke for all when he thanked this year's organisers, Gerald Penney. Eric Edmondson, Graham Ridgeway and Marian Perry, for all the hard work put in by each to make what we all agreed was certainly a very enjoyable outing; the route chosen was extremely pretty-and even the weather cleared for us.

Ringing at Sawbridgeworth followed, and then we made our way to end the outing by joining the Bishop's Stortford practice.

\section*{BELLS AND RELIGION}

DO bells serve a practical use in the ethics of religion? It is certain they do not improve, neither do they discredit, assembly of congregations. Firstly, it must be accepted that ail who are members of the Church will readily agree that church activities have a purpose: to further Christianity and strengthen the Church, while at the same time providing suitable amenities for social discourse, etc. Therefore it is logical-though difficult to envisage-that bells, too, have a useful purpose in activities of the Church and its ultimate aim.

Observing from a mundane angle, one appreciates the value of bellringing, inasmuch it provides a form of fascination to people from all walks of life and is an important means of introducing young people to the Church. It is not so much a sport as an obsession. Nowadays the art is increasingly accused-by ringers and non-ringers alike-of having lost spiritual attributions; some even go so far as to declare that bells never possessed spiritual qualities. If they did, then one might insist that these qualities must be considerably enhanced by the strange, mystical appeal of scientific change ringing.

Prior to the Reformation, bells were an accepted and valued asset among society. The sick and dying heard and were comforted; the worker in the field put down his tools for a while; assembling armies paused; but, more important, bells troubled the conscience of the unfaithful. Bells announced times of the Church's commitments with God, and imparted to man the condition of himself and his neighbour. Although bells inevitably became associated with custom, never have they lost their intimate appeal to mankind. This is as true today as yesterday. There are some who loathe bells, but countless others love to hear them. Even people who care not for the Church and its concern for men's spiritual welfare are emotionally disturbed by the sound of bells.

Attendance at divine service, however desirable, is not the be-all and end-all of true religion. Ringing of bells serves no practical part in church services. In this respect service ringing must be regarded as a complementary act heavily weighted by tradition. But that act in itself, on Sundays and on any other day of the week, can have far-reaching effects.

Bells are able to touch men's hearts in unusual ways. That is the real purpose of the sound with which we are so familiar. It is unwise to attempt to confine God within four walls. Neither is it desirable-nor indeed is it possible-to confine the music of bells within church steeples. Bells, like sympathetic human action, symbolise the kernel, not the husk, of religion. Their sound, imbued with tradition and mystery, and armed with ihe strong voice of faith. reaches out to the people. probing into inaccessible minds Therein, unseen despite those fascinations involved, is our real purpose as bellringers.
T. A. B.

\section*{PUNCTUALITY}

\(I^{T}\)T used to be the custom for some towers to keep a register of attendances, a practice which, perhaps, is not so popular now. There were also strict rules governing absentees and latecomers to service ringing and practices, etc. Many of the bands were a "closed shop," rules regulating the number of members to (say) 10 for an eight-bell tower, and other ringers joining the tower being placed on a waiting list for a vacancy among the full members and known as "probationers," whatever their ringing ability. Of course, there was a financial aspect to this arrangement, during the year the treasurer would collect a percentage of the fees paid to the ringers for ringing at weddings, funerals and on other special occasions, and place it in the Ringers' Fund. At Christmas time a collection was made among the parishioners on behalf of the ringers; this usually authorised by the Vicar who, poor man, would be expected to head the list with a substantial subscription.

What on earth has this to do with punctuality, you will say. Well, on Christmas Eve the money was shared out between the members of the band after certain dues had been met such as Guild subscriptions and. if agreed, a Christmas box to the probationers, etc. Then the register of attendances would be produced and the attendance record of each member read out by the secretary. Fines for absence and lateness were imposed and paid there and then, the money so collected being shared out again or, more likely, paid to the treasurer as a starter for the following year's fund. Fines were heavy, e.g., 3d. for an absence (unless sick), 1d. for up to five minutes late, 2 d . for up to ten minutes late, and the member considered "absent" if over ten minutes late. The amount a ringer would take home after the share-out would be perhaps \(£ 3\) at the most but this sum in those days would be very useful indeed, especially at Christmas time.

Returning to the main subject of this little article, however, one wonders how many of us would stand for a register of attendances and a system of fines such as this today. We enjoy much shorter working hours, a five day week, better transport facilities, etc., yet would it not be true to say that unpunctuality and irregular attendance imped the progress of many a band more than anything else? How often is the band very "thin on the ground" at the beginning of a practice when the learners are needing some decent rounds or a well struck course of something for their first attempt to hunt a bell? Absence and unpunctuality are sometimes unavoidable but how many of us can say "Not Guilty" when the skipper draws attention to the slackness which, perhaps, is creeping in?

\section*{Youth at the Helm Maintains Tradition}

FHE accent was very much on youth at the triennial dinner of the Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild held at the Church House Restaurant. Westminster, on October 15 th. London ringing is today led by youth, with the Masterships of the Middlesex, the Ancient Society of College Youths and the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths headed by young men under the age of
It was a theme constantly referred to during the evening, and the leaders of the Church present in the persons of the Bishop of Willesden, the Archdeacon of London and the president of the Association, the Rev. \(G\) C. Taylor, Rector of St. Giles-in-the-Fields, beamed their approval. With more than ever young people becoming interested in the Exercise the future of change ringing is being built on a sure foundation. But the proceedings at the dinner had all the dignity that behts an Association entering its 70th year, and the stentorian voice of the professional toastmaster provided the appropriate background to a series of very good speeches.

The president's comment afterwards that it was the most enjoyable of the Association's dinners that he had attended was fully endorsed by the company of over 100 present. The organisation left nothing to be desireda tribute to Miss Ruth Foreman, Mr. F. W. Goodfellow and Mr. W. S. Deason, the new Master, who undertook most of the work.

\section*{THE COMPANY}

Supporting the president (the Rev. G. C Taylor) and Mrs. Taylor on the top table were the Bishop of Willesden and Mrs. Graham Leonard, the Archdeacon of London and Mrs. Sullivan, Mr. J. D. Rock, Master of the College Youths, and Mrs. Rock. Mr. W. S. Deason. Master of the Middlesex Association, and Miss B. Walpole, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Coles, Mr. and Mrs. T. W. White.

Proposing the toast of "The Church," Mr W. H. Coles said he had heard it said that there was no need for a toast of "The Church." as they were all part of the Church He feit, however, that they liked to have "The Church" on their toast list. as it gave them an opportunity to pay tribute to the clergy and the Church officials. He thought that apart from ringing for church services. which they claimed as a priority, they had their practices and peals and were privileged to have the use of very expensive instruments for their ringing, which they were apt to take for granted.

MISS RUTH M. FOREMAN, Assistant Secretary.

\section*{She welcomed the guests with a witty speech.}

\section*{PROUD OF THE CHURCH}
"The Middlesex have always been proud of our association with our Church," continued Mr. Coles, "and we can point to the fact that the Bishop of London is our patron and the Bishops of Kensington. Stepney, Willesden and the Archdeacon of London vice-presidents. Our president is the Vicar of an important church which adds lustre to our Guild.'

The Bishop of Willesden replied and said he did not know whether they would be prepared to honour this toast "South of the River," but he was delighted to be with a body that did believe in the Church and did drink that toast with a certain amount of confidence.

His qualification for being present was that he actually learned to ring a bell and progressed as far as rounds! There were two reasons why he did not advance further. The first was that his Vicar left the parish when he (the Bishop) was a deacon and the burden on his shoulders was so great that he did not have time to continue. The other was that one of the learners held on too long to his rope and did not let go in time but he landed squarely in the font. They would be glad to know that the damage was confined to a broken little finger. But that incident put him off ringing.
He could remember the occasion when he would nip round the back of the church and lock the helfry door. His wife and he lived within 50 yards of the church and never suffered at all.

\section*{A PRE-REFORMATION TENOR}

Another reason he was pleased to be with them was that he had his name on a bell when he was Vicar of Ardleigh. They rehung the whole ring and on the sixth bell were the names of the Master of the ringers, the churchwardens and the Vicar. Some of them might have rung at Ardleigh. The foundation of this ring of eight was a very fine pre-Reformation teno: bell cast in 1415 and in its original condition It was one of the oldest bells in Essex. The bells were all tuned to the note of this tenor.
Bishop Gordon Lennard gave an emphatic denial that the Church of England was dead or dying. One of his privileges as a Bishon was that he went about confirming people.
"Din't say the churches are empty," he said The majority in North London were nos. People went there because they were members of the family of God and one of the most encouraging things of the Church of England today was the quality of the laymen. There was a discipline which far exceeded anything in the past and it was with a good deal of confidence that he responded to the toast.

The toast of "The Middlesex County Association" was proposed by Mr. J. D. Rock Master of the Ancient Society of College Youths. He and his wife, he said, had lived in Middlesex for four years and they had a strong affinity with the Middlesex County Association. His wife learned to ring in Middlesex; thev had only rung one peal to-gether-at Cranford for the Middlesex County Association. They first met at a very unromantic tower at Brentford.

\section*{HAPPY RINGING}

When \(I\) first arrived in the London area as a country bumpkin 1 took up residence at Bedfont and I did my early ringing at Feltham. 1 had many years of happy ringing in that area and heard a lot of criticism about the College Youths. In the main it was that they grumbled too much and drank too much. He could assure them that they did not grumble too much and. as to drinking, there was a young College Youth who went into a wellknown hostelry. The landlord said to him "What are you going to have? "He replied "A gin and tonic." Supplying the drink, the landlord said "That will be 5s. 9d." "No," answered the Youth. "you said "What are vou going "to have?" A stranger joined in and said "I am a solicitor. You invited him to have a drink. You can't charge him." The irate landlord concluded by saying "Take your drink and get out of my house and don't come in again." Two hours later the Youth came back The landlord said "I cold you never to come back." The Youth: "I've never been here beforc." The landiord: "You must have a double." The Youth: "Thanks. brandy."

Mr. Rock congratulated his friend of long standing, Bill Deason, on being elected Master of the Middlesex Association. He would also like to congratulate him and the band who rang a quarter peal at Westminster Abbey, as recently his Society had failed in a peal of London there He listened outside and felt that their knees were knocking in the first course. but it was well rung afterwards.
" 1 might add we have a young Master of the Middlesex, a young Master of the College Youths and a young Master of the Cumberlands with us. I think it is a bealthy sign that we have young officers as we have more young neople coming into the Exercise than ever before."

\section*{" THE GRANNIES}

A few years ago. as young and irresponsible ringers, we did not get much credit and we decided to form a little Guild called "The Grannies." Anybody who got on in a successful way was elected to the Grannies Guild.
There were a lot of people who did not think much of ringers who did not ring 20 or 30 peals in a year or 12 spliced, but he would say to them, Think of the work of those old people in the past who could do none of those things hu: created an Association like theirs and his Society. In giving them the toast of "The Middlesex" he asked them to remember those officers who had done so much in the past 10 make the Association in the present happy state it was today

The Master said in 1960 he became a "granny." He had that year the pleasure of taking part in a peal tour in Somerset. American tourists were present as they were adjusting their ropes and one of the tourists scid in a broad American accent: "Say, do you think the little fellow will last?

\section*{JOHN MAYNE'S RECORD}

That speech was usually devoted to what the Association had done in the past. As they only had their dinners every three years he did not want to look back but to look ahead. The only reason he was in office was because John Mavne gave up. During the seven years he was Master 437 peals were rung and of those peals 222 were conducted by John Mayne. That meant that over one half were conducted by one man and it was a very fine achievement. It was a rather dangerous position for them when that man left and it was going to make a big hole in their peal total. They did thank him for all the work he did for the Association.

Peal ringing played an important part in the development of change ringing and he was sure it would continue to do so. In fact he could say that without peal ringing the Exercise as they knew it would not exist. Certainly it would not be possible to keep "The Ringing World " going without peals, and without "The Ringing World "the Exercise would fizzle out
Peal ringing was most important but they had in therr area considerable difficulty in peal ringing as they had a high density of population He did not think they could expect the general public to put up with their tower's singing of open bells. They must do everything they could to deaden the noise so that they could continue their peal ringing.

\section*{GUESTS WANTED}

The toast of "The Guests" was proposed wittily by Miss Ruth M. Foreman, who was one of the organisers of the dinner. That dinner, she felt. was one of happiness because they only asked their guests to come because they wanted them.
Welcoming the Bishop of Willesden, she hoped that when he next visited Hendon he would not nip round the back and lock the belfry door. To the Ven. Martin Sullivan she could not recall that the Middlesex had had an Archdeacon at their dinners before. They appreciated John Rock-a worthy Master of a great Society-forgoing a peal at Cripplegate to be with them. The Editor of "The Ringing World" was also thanked.

Apart from the officials, Miss Foreman recounted that they had with them the Beresfords, the well-known members of the Society of College Youths. Norman and Mrs. Bagworth, Roydon Davis and Mr. Goodship. The curate at Willesden had kindly deputised for his Vicar. They also thanked their president for being with them. and Mrs Turner. "He was always here when wanted and missing when not!"

NEW ZEALAND MEMORIES
The Archdeacon of London, who was previously Dean of Christchurch Cathedral. New Zealand, replied. He recalled that it was 43 years ago when he first held a bell rope in his hand. He was then a member of a ringing team 12,000 miles across the sea. Because the tower was considered to be unsafe the bells were only chimed. Hymn tunes were rung and he knew some 26 tunes. He longed for the day when there was nobody in St. Paul's Cathedral and he could climb the stairs and chime eight bells!
Later he was Dean of a Cathedral in New Zealand that had a fine ring of bells that were properly rung. The ringers were very proud to belong to the Ancient Society of College Youths and he missed meeting those ringers every Sunday at \(10 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}\)
"In reply to your generous toast let me pay tribute to your skill. As a layman I am enormously impressed that you can ring 5.040 changes and not make mistakes. In 1944-45

MR. W. S. DEASON, the new Master,

\section*{who has proved that "the little fellow can} last out."

I came to work at St. Martin-in-the-Fields The ringers there went into the tower to do their service and 1 assure them that they were not forgotten. The message of the bells both over the countryside and in cities is very real."

He would like to mention how much "The Ringing World " was appreciated not only in this country but throughout the world. It bound the ringers into a great fellowship. He was associated with a ringer who spent much of his savings in coming to England. He was q faithful subscriber to "The Ringing World" and in consequence when he came to this country he was not only passed on from tower to tower but host to host. It was a wonderful fellowship.

At the conclusion of the speeches there was handbell ringing. The guests sat around small tables and spent a particularly happy hour together.

\section*{EAST GRINSTEAD & DISTRICT GUILD}

The annual outing of the Guild was held on October 8 th . leaving Tunbridge Wells well before 8 a.m. With a coach load of 41 people. 38 being ringers, we had one stop for coffee before arriving at Westbourne, Sussex (8). Then on to St. Mary's (10) and St. Michael's (10). Southampton, where we were met at the latter by Canon Felstead. and here the sun decided to break through the clouds for several hours.

An hour's ringing at Romsey Abbey (8) preceded a high tea in Romsey. A two hours' journey brought us to Billingshurst (8), the last tower of the day, after which liquid refreshment was taken before the last few miles home.

Thanks must go once again to Charlie Bassett for organising an enjoyable day's outing, and to Ted Baker for driving us and "keeping us on the straight and narrow."

\section*{KENT COUNTY ASSOCLATION}

\section*{Canterbury District}

The annual meeting of the Canterbury District was held recently in Canterbury. Ringing at churches in the city preceded the service held in St Dunstan's Church, which was conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. A. L. Lawler. The address was given by the Rev. C. W. Donaldson. Following tea in the Parish Hall the annual business meeting was proceeded with. A welcome was given to visiting ringers, who included the general secretary and Mrs. Corby.
The District secretary, Mr. E. C. Phillimore. presented his annual report, which showed a slight loss in membership. due mainly to unpaid subscriptions. In his report the Ringing Master said that the meetings had been well attended, especially by the younger element, which gave great hope for the future
The secretary had intimated that he did not wish to stand for re-election, and Mr. Keith Davis was elected in his place. Mr. Phillimore was thanked for his past services. On nomination Mr. B. J. Luck was elected as chairman of the District, the office being vacant due to the recent sad loss of Mr. J. A. Russell, of Birchington. The retiring representatives on the Kent County Association Committee, Messrs. Eades and Chatfield, were re-elected
It was reported that the bells of Preston-next-Wingham were at the bell foundry, and it is hoped that these bells may soon be heard again after a silence of about 50 years. The only person present who had rung on them was 83 -year-old Mr. S. Walter. Votes of thanks were expressed to the various clergy, the Cathedral authorities and, not the least. to those who had prepared an excellent tea.
Next meeting: Eastry. November 5 th.

\section*{Maidstone District}

The annual meeting of the Maidstone District was held on October 8th at All Saints'. Maidstone. Over 70 members attended, including visitors from the Lewisham, Tonbridge and Ashford Districts. The service was conducted by the Rev. Peter Bond. Tea was provided in the College Rooms.
The Rev. Peter Bond was chairman for the business meeting. The secretary presented the District report, noting that there had been a rise of over 30 members compared with last year. Officers were then elected. Mr. M. year. Officers were then elected. Mr. M. G. Evenden and Mr. B. Groves Ringing Masters, Mr. A Waddington and Mr. P. Carter District representatives, and Mr. \(\mathbf{P}\) Muchlinski "Ringing World" representative. A general vote of thanks was then given hy Mr . A. Waddington At the conclusion of the business meeting the Washington film was shown. followed by further ringing.

GREATER LONDON PEALS
Dear Sir,-Having noted your considerable efforts over the last few years to cut down the space taken up by peals in "The Ringing World," it causes me some surprise that you should be advocating a system for recording Greater London peals which would very often involve the use of an extra line of print, as in "Waltham Forest, London.-At the Church of St. John the Baptist, Leytonstone," in the issue of August 26th. In any case it is doubtful whether many of your readers are interested in knowing in what London boroughs towers are situated.

I do, however, see the need for consistency: and I would suggest that there are three ways in which peals rung in Greater London could be reasonably and consistently recorded. Firstly, each tower could be referred to by the district name, followed by "London" though it would be necessary to make the distinction between Hayes (Bromley) and Hayes (Hillingdon). Secondly, one could follow the old pre-L.C.C. county boundaries, so that the district name is in all cases followed by Midlesex, Surrey, Kent, Essex or Hertfordshire, except for towers in the City, which has always heen independent. Or, thirdly, postal counties could be used. counting all towers in the London postal area as "London."
Of these, ringers possibly will be most ready to comply with the third suggestion. though I myself do not feel strongly on the matter provided that consistency is achieved.-Yours faithfully,
C. M. ROGERS.

Isleworth, Middlesex.

\section*{FIRST PEAL AT RIPE}

Dear Sir. - With reference to the footnote to the recent peal at Ripe (page 645), 1 should like to point out that I took part in the first claim to being the first peal since 1961 is therefore incorrect.

Also, with reference to the peal at Abbotsbury on May 27 th (page 420 ), the fifth was rung by John \(\mathbf{W}\). Blackwood and the tenor by myself, and not as published.-Yours faithfully,

\section*{ALAN R. BALDOCK.}

\section*{UNUSUAL HANDBELLS}

Dear Sir,-Reading your article regarding handbells played in a case or cabinet, I take this opportunity to recall that when my father was a young man he designed a cabinet into which he screwed 12 bells, a complete set cast by W. Blews and Sons, Birmingham, which opened out like a small table on four legs, one of which I have by me at this very moment.
They were struck or rather tapped off, with two hammers, which consisted of two small canes about a foot long to which were attached leather discs about the size of a penny and, believe me, one could play anything from changes to "Auld Lang Syne."-Yours sincerely.
R. H. MANSELL.

\section*{PLEA FOR MINOR AND DOUBLES RINGERS}

Dear Sir-Computing the statistics stated in Dove's "Guide," it is seen that 65.72 per cent of our belfries contain five or six bells. Of the 1,624 rings of eight bells, it is reasonable to assume that in half of these the bands are unable to ring more than Doubles and Minor, or perhaps only call changes. For this reason I would regard it as unfortunate that Mr. R B Smith concluded his excellent series of articles with the statement in Part VI: "We will only consider Major methods in detail." This article then completely ignores the Doubles and Minor ringer. Although 1 will agree that the theory of Major methods does not preclude participation by these ringers, I would advance the theory that most people will only put pencil to paper if they can see that the result will be of practical use to them. We have in Part VI, I fear, another example of our magazine being directed at a privileged minority
If then this article was directed at the \(\mathbf{1 . 6 2 4}\) eight-bell towers, together with the 240 tens and twelves where Major methods can be rung. may I now comment upon the examples chosen. It would appear to be a tradition amongst ringers that one progresses from Grandsire Triples to Bob Major. to Stedman, and to Kent as the ultimate in most towers. Tradition is, of course, the lifeblood of any organisation, but I would submit that the particular examples here chosen emphasise that lack of planning and disregard of educational principles, which is a prominent feature of our instruction. That an article aimed at beginners should discuss Double Norwich. Cambridge, and London Major is a further example of the erroneous application of this tradition
So that my letter may not be construed as completely destructive. may, I olfer the following suggestions. The traditional series of methods has no educational justification, and if we are to accept Plain Bob as our basic method we must revise the initial sequence we put before our learners. I would suggest inas the next logical step would be the Introduction of Little Bob, which has identical place making. and has dodges in positions encountered in Plain Bob. Following this, a plain method with internal places could be employed to produce a variation from plain hunting with occasional dodges. I find that Double Uxford is very suitable, providing an introduction to Yorkshire or Cambridge places, and the back work of these methods. By this stage I would suggest that experfence of method ringing would be developed enough to absorb easily would be developed enough to absorb easily of Little Bob will easily ring the treble in any Treble Bob method, and Grandsire with its complicated work at bobs and singles also presents less difficulty.

I would agree with the critics that the tra: ditional methods offer the best "bell music," but surely it is more important with our knnwledge of learning processes to applv these to produce a logical development in change ringing. Thus we might retain more of our ringing. Thus we might retain more of our learners. Who find bobs and singles in Grand sire so insurmountable, and who leave becausnone of us will make any attempt to understand this difficult Finally may 1 make a plea to Mr. R. B. Smith to renumber his article Part VII, and to prepare a new Part VI. devoted to Minor and Doubles ringers, and dealing with a number of plain methods, differing enough to provide an interesting selection, but not complex enough to preclude their application by the average band. - Yours sincerely. U. C. JACKSON.
Iotton, Southampton.

\section*{CHORISTER-RINGER RECORD}

Dear Sir,-Whether anyone living can equal or beat the record of 65 years both as ringei and cho-ister, achieved by Mr. T Gascoigne and mentioned in J W. Raithby's letter. do not know. However, "The Ringing World * of November \(4 t h\), 1933 , recorded the death of William Taylor of Wrotham, Kent, at the age of \(92 \frac{1}{2}\), who had been a ringer until he was 86 and a member of the choir there for 75 wears. When he learned to ring is not stated, but it seems most probable that he rang for at least as long as Mr. Gascoigne, whose own record is a remarkable one.Yours sincerely, E. A. BARNETT.

\section*{RAILWAYMEN'S GULLD Autumn Meeting at Nottingham}

\section*{Saturday, September 24th, proved to be} one of the best-attended meetings since the inauguration of the Guild. The programme for the week-end was certainly an excellent one and included a visit to the following towers: Bulwell (8), Basford (8), St. Mary's, Nottingham (10), All Saints' (8). Bridgford (8) and St. Peter's. Nottingham (12).

On the Sunday, for morning service at All Saints' (8), a successful quarter peal of Grandsire Triples was rung as a tribute to the late Mr. A. J. Pitman. The ringers were W. J. Thomas, E. J. Morris, J. A. Hoare, C. A. Bassett G. Jennings. W. B. Kynaston (cond.l. S. Foskett and E. J. Franklin.

Lunch was arranged at the C.W.S.. Nartingham. and tea was served at Ali Saints. Church Hall, Mrs. Foskett and Mrs Thomas being mainly responsible for the oreparations. Much hard work was evident from the excellent tea served, and Mr. H Walker thanked them at the short business meeting
The Master (Mr. F. Hodgson) was in the chair and apologies were received from 17 members. The minutes of the last autumn meeting were read, and Mr. S. Foskett moved the adoption. Three new ringing members and two associate members were elected. Mr. Kynaston in his vote of thanks included incumbents of the churches visited and those responsible tor the excellent arrangements made.

\section*{ISLE OF WIGHT RINGERS}

The annual outing of the Isle of Wight ringers took place on September 24 th , when a tour was made of mainland churches.

Despite a foggy crossing, the party was well on time for the first stop, at Hordle, where we were joined by iriends from Hornchurch. A short halt was made for coffee on the run to Swanage, where ringing on the pleasant cight was much enjoyed. By this time the sun had appeared and some of the party had a picnic lunch on the promenade.
Wareham was our next objective and here we sped a bridal party on its way with a well struck touch of Stedman Triples. Further ringing at Ringwood preceded a splendid tea at the Star Inn. A quick run through the New Forest brought us to Lymington and our last ring of the day. Refreshments followed, and the party then boarded the last boat to Yarmouth.

Our thanks are due to the incumbents of parishes and to captains of towers for their kind reception, and to Mr. T. East for his most excellent arrangements. T. East for his

\section*{BRABOURNE-BELLS AND BALLIOLS}

By J. S. T. DAVIES

\section*{The church from the south}

BRABOURNE is one of those places that one is hardly likely to come across when going from \(\mathbf{A}\) to \(\mathbf{B}\); indeed, one would be much more likely to find it if one got lost on the journey for it lies on one of those parts of Kent where roads are narrow, signposts are few, and the rural scenery is at posts best. With the rolling North Downs as its best. With the rolling North Downs as Folkestone as a stage, few villages could be blessed with such an abundance of nature; the straggling village street winds among the foothills and is overhung by a few old houses. whose stecp-pitched peg-tiled roofs seem to be bending and cavorting in sympathy with the old yew in the churchyard. But it is for neace and quiet that most people visit Brabourne: standing in the middle of the village street one can almost hear the silence, and is hardly credible that the main arterial it is hardly credible that the main arterial road to the Channel ports is less than four miles distant
Let us now find the church, which is situated at the east end of the village, nestling under the slopes. We enter the churchyard on the north side past the sentinel yew. and it is plain to see that the Normans designed this fortress-like building with its heavy walls, small windows and massive square tower. But let us have a closer look at that tower; its ugly, bald parapet rises no higher than the church roof. yet the keen eye can see that it was once a stage or two higher. Inside. however, it is the chancel that attracts most of our attention. This really is an architectural gem, with a perfectly preserved Norman priest's door in the north wall. and above it what is regarded as the oldest window in any church, complete with its original glass. This window, hardly more than a deeply-splayed slit, thows a myriad of soft hues into a chancel that must have seen more of the making of our historical heritage than most.

> HEART SHRINE

The highlight of the chancel is the simple. delicate heart shrine on the south side, and there is little doubt that it contained the heart of John Balliol, founder of the Balliol College. Oxford. father of John Balliol le Scot, King of Scotland. The story goes that on the death of John Balliol in 1269 his wife had his heart embalmed in a casket of silver and ivory which she wore day and night. It was eventually buried with her in the Abbey of Dulecor. near Dumfries. but 40 years later the Abbey was desecrated. The younger Balliol, on his defeat by Edward 1. was exiled. but not before he had resided at Brabourne. then a royal manor. His younger brother, a then a royal manor. Mis younger brother, a devout Cluniac, then took charge of the heart. and the chancel at Brabourne was aptly chosen for its last resting place, is it was one of the few churches in England attached to a cluniac monastery-in this case. Monks Horton.

Descended from the Balliols were 18 generations of the renowned Scot family. For cen turies their seat was at Scots Hall, a magnificent manor house on the outskirts of the parish, and the charitable disposition with which they held their offices of high esteem was large reflected in their benefactions to this jewel of a church. Here lived that Sir William Scot uho was with the King on the Field of the Cloth of Gold: in these peaceful precincts walked Sir Thomas Scot, who was so powerful in Kent that he raised 4.000 men in 24 hours when the Spanish Armada came Another Sir William. who died in 1524, was Knight of the Bath. Lord Warden of the Cinque Ports and Constable of Dover Castle. offices also held by his father. Sir John Scot The list is endless. and it is with great awe one realises that they all came back to sleep in this humble little place that they loved. under a fine gallery of brasses.

\section*{TENOR'S FINE TONE}

The massive Norman west tower gave wav in the 15th century, when the upper stages were removed. To strengthen the lower the arch was rebuilt, and an angle buttress of gigantic proportions was placed at the south west corner. At this time records show that there were four large bells and one herse bell in the tower. Whether these bells remained until 1605 is not known, but in that year the present \(11 \frac{1}{2}\) cwt. tenor was cast by Joseph Hatch. the celebrated local hellfounder, and ringers alike still agree that its fine tone dictates the ring. Half a century later, in 1656, four smaller bells were cast by Joseph's nephew, William Hatch, and thus the basis of the present ring was formed.
At the close of the 17 th century. however. the tower was again giving rise to some concern. and in 1699 it was thought prudent to remove the bells altogether. Work soon commenced on rebuilding and strengthening the upper stage of the tower. and new leads bearing the date and appropriate churchwardens' initials were laid in 1700. A new bellframe was made by Mr. Finn (a local man whose descendants have been ringing in the tower for two and a half centuriest. and the bells rehung therein by John and William Walke, bellhangers, the work heing completed in 1702
Two other alterations only have taken place since this date. In 1774, bells numbers 3 and 4 were recast by Messrs. Pack and Chapman of Whitechapel, and in 1917 the Whitechapel Foundry recast William Hatch's old treble, added a new hell to make six. and modified the frame accordingly. This new bell was called the Canada bell, being given by subscription to commemorate the sojourn of Canadian troops in the parish who fought in the Great War, and the Canadian hospital at Monks Norton.

We are nearly at the end of the history of Brabourne, but a word or two should not be omitted about the fine old belfry staircase. Fabricated from a massive oak split across its length, with the triangular block steps neatly pegged together, it is helieved to be coeval with the Norman tower and thus has survived two rebuildings

\section*{FIRST PEAL CONDUCTED BY EDWARD}

\section*{RUCK}

The first peal on the bells ( 5.040 Bob Minor) was rung on January 26th, 1936, half-muffled in memory of the late King George \(V\). being conducted by that grand old man of Kent ringing. Edward Ruck. Even at that time it was noted that Finn's frame was nearing the end of its useful days, the fifth bell being particularly hard work to ring. Now, after a silence of two years. the hells have revisited their birthplace at Whitechapel for retuning and refitting and have been skilfully rehung by Harry Parkes in a cast iron frame on a concrete ring beam foundation. An excellent result has been achieved, the bells being easy to ring despite the long draught, and their rollicking music echoes with a new mellowness over the fields and pastures. During the simple dedication service there seemed to be a unanimous feeling of final achievement and quiet satisfaction: it was as though the spirit of the long-deceased Scots was alive and was saying: "Well done! You have striven to maintain the heritage which we have handed down to you."

So reader. when you are next heading towards the Channel coast, why not turn off beyond Ashford and head towards the village under the Downs? You may not find all the seaside amenities. but you will find this little enclave of English history and you may catch that same spirit of peaceful contentment that is alive in Brabourne today.

\section*{THE MAINTENANCE OF BELL ROPES}

By NEIL D. LOMAS

ONE of the most important aspects of towerkeeping is the maintenance of bell ropes, and in view of the high cost of replacement it is important that their life should he extended for as long as possible. A system which will help !owards this is outlined below. Since all rope maintenance denends on solicing. instructions are given for making two different splices which alf towerkeepers should be ahle to do

It shou'd first be pointed out that a shon splice should never he used in any position below the garter hole. although this is in fact frequently done. presumably because it is thought that a short splice is easier to make than a long splice, but this is not actually the case. The only place where a short splice is acceptable is within the wheel. when the rooe is too short to tie to the spokes pronerly. To replace the tail-end the hest procedure is to make two eve splices. linked logether. close to the sally so that replacement can subsequently be effected any number of times without the rope available for splicing becoming too short
It is not necessary to keep a long solice awav from the pullev or rope guides, and indeed it wnuld usuallv not be possible to do so. although it would obviously be wise to avoid purting a tuck actually in the garter hole

The following sustem of "planned maintenance has been found quite satisfactory in practice. Initially the rope should be put on with the sally in the lowest convenient position. so that when chafing starts in the garter hole the rope may be moved upwards a few inches, leaving no doubt that the bad part is out of harm's way. This can be done two or three times before the sally becomes too high for comfort. When this occurs. the old chafed part should be cut out and the rope rejoined with a long splice. when the process of moving the rope upward in stages may be repeateG. After this has been done it will probably be found that a considerable length helow the pulley will be getting worn. so the too should be cut off below the garter hole at a distance of about four feet less than the length of spare rope above the garter hole. The portion which has been removed should then be spliced back on. upside down. so that the unworn rooe which has spent its life tied round the spokes will now be in the position previously occupied bv the worn part and the part which was in the garter hole will be well ahove it. and hence of no concern.
Bv adopting this procedure, when it is finally decided to scrab the rope, it will be well and truly worn out. and there should be practically no grod rope thrown away.

\section*{A LONG SPLICE}

To make a long splice it is first necessary to unlay each of the ends to be joined for a distance of about 15 inches for a normal hell rope or a little longer for a heavy one. The ends should then he "married." with strands from each rope alternating as in Fig. 1. The two ropes should be pressed closely into mesh With one another. and two adjacent strands tied together with a half-hirch to nrevent the whote assembly from falling apart One strand should then be unlaid away from the junction and the apnropriate one from the other rope laid in its olace io with'n about three inches of its full length. When laying the strand in, its twist should be maintained in keen the Dart which was to the outside still in that position. These two strands should then be temporarily tied together, and the process reDeated with the remaining two strands from the mint of juncture in the obposite direction. This will result in the situation as in Fig. 2. shown here with the strands unknotted. for the sake of clarity. The ends of the strands should then he cut off as rearired. to leave each ahnut three inches Inng. when the nroress of tucking may bepin. This is the mint rifficult part of the orocess to dpscribe and illustrate, although it is easy enough to perform.

The two adjacent strand ends should be split into two approximately equal parts, still maintanning their twist, each for a distance of about three-quarters of an inch back from the point at which they cross Two of the resulting half-strands, one from each part, should then be tied round each other twice, in the direction of twist of the strand. This is shown in Fig. 3 somewhat distorted for the sake of clarity. In practice it will be found that the "knot" occupies nearly a full turn of the rope The knot should then be pulled up tightly great care being taken with an old rope not to break the strands. There will now be four half-strand ends protruding. each of which should be passed over the strand from beneath which it emerges, in the direction of twist and tucked under the next strand. The method of tucking is shown diagrammatically in Fig. 4. The ends should then be pulled tight and cut off. leaving about half an inch projecting. The process should be repeated at each of the other two positions to complete the splice.
With a little practice it will be found that the entire operation will occupy less than a quarter of an hour

\section*{FOUR-STRANDED ROPE}

In the case of four-stranded rope the process is basicaily the same, but one rope should be initially unlaid about twice as far as the other so that the removal and replacement of the strands may be carried out once in one direction and twice in the other for different distances, giving four tucks which may be arranged at approximately equal intervals

To splice a three-stranded to a fourstranded rope the four-stranded rope should be dismantled into its individual yarns for about two feet, and these should then be reassembled into a three-stranded rope. each strand being twisted in the appropriate direstion. A splice may then be made in the usual way. This process is, however, best avoided if possible as the result is usually not very neat.

There is some difference of opinion over the question of whether or not ropes should be treated, to lubricate them and render them more pliable, and there are nearly as many concoctions in use as there are advocates of treatment. It is in fact more difficult to make a satisfactory splice in a greasy rope. and in these conditions it would probably be wise to unlay the rope for splicing for considerably more than the 15 inches previously suggested. A diligen' towerkeeper who inspects his ropes regularly. and is prepared to splice them when necessary, will drobably obtain the same life from them whether they are treated or not.

\section*{TAIL-END}

To replace the tail-end and by the use of two interlinked eye splices, the old tail-end should be cut of about 18 inches below the sally, and an eye splice made with a small loop. The new tail-end should then be (Continued on next page)

threaded through the loop, and the joint completed with another eye splice. Rope from above the sally is not really suitable for replacing tail-ends. as it is usually too hard for comfort, but rope of the correct grade can be obtained from the manufacturers.
To make an eye splice, the end of the rope shouid be unlaid for about six inches \(A\) beginner may find it useful to put a simple whipping round the rope where the unlaying finishes. to prevent further unlaying while the splice is being made. The rope should then be doubled back 10 form the eye, when tucking may be commenced. The actual tucking is the same as that used in a short splice. i.e.. the strands being tucked are passed over one and under the next of the strands of the standine part of the rope. against the lay, rather like weaving. The difficulty with an eye splice it to make the firsi tuck neatly, and the actual procedure for doing this can only be learned by practice. It is shown in Fig 5 in two views, one from each side, and it will be seen that one strand, that marked "C." is tucked once more than the other two, to bring all three strands into a suitable position for the first complete luck to be made Two full tuck- should then be made, after which about one-third of each strand should be unlaid and a further tuck made with the remaining two-thirds This should then he thinned again in about the same proportion, and a final tuck made. Thus there will he nine ends protruding when the splice is complete, and they should be cut off fairly close. Any fluffiness may be removed by the brief application of 3 flame.

Before attempting to splice an actual be!! rope for the first time it is advisable to practise on a few odd pieces of rope. A. towerkecper who makes a splice which pulls out ten minutes before the end of a peal is liable to find himself becoming very unpopular

\section*{CHELSEA RINGERS GO INTO ESSEX}

CHELSEA ringers and friends spent an enjoyable day in Essex on September 3rd the first tower being at Bocking with ringing scheduled to start at \(11 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}\) We arrived in good time and after rounds and touches of Stedman and Grandsire Triples a pre-arranged Stedman and Grandsire Triples a pre-arranged quarter of Grandsire Triples was successfully accomplished whilst the experts retired to the "local" to judge the performance over a pint.
Soon we were on our way to Sudbury for lunch at the Four Swans. There was a slight delay here because Alan Patterson's wife तecided to faint into her coffee. but a few minutes spent sitting in the open air soon put her to rights again and we struck out towards Lavenham. This was the high spot (literallv) of the outing, particularly for the non-ringers who climbed to the top of this marnificent tower to sample the view. Rounds. Stedman and Grandsire Triples and Bob Major were rung here.
Once our feet were firmly on the ground again we made for Thaxted. This groundfloor ring was found to be a little difficult and the ringing was consequently below the usual standard. We attracted a good deal of attention from people who had come to see the church. and for some this was their first experience of ringing with an audience. there being at least 15 snectators at one time. Just before six o'clock we departed to the Bull for an excellent tea. Thus fortified. we headed for the last tower of the day, at Bishop's Stortford. where Grandsire and Stedman Caters and Cambridge Major were enjoyed.
The outing was a general success and our thanks are due to the organiser and the incumbents and local ringers.

\section*{TREVOR BAILEY'S SCOTTISH TOUR}

NCE again this small band of intrepid explorers set out from East Anglia to visit foreign parts. Ireland was visited last year and it was now Scotland's turn. The assembly point on Friday, August igh, was the Loughborough Bell Foundry and naturally there was ringing on the light ten. The night was spent at the Great Central Horel. An early start was made the next morning for Carlisle via the M. 6 motorway. Out only ring of the day was at Ambleside and on the beautiful bells we rang Plain Bob and Cambridge Major and a good touch of Stedman Triples

Our journey continued along hair-raising roads and pouring rain-virtually the only rain we had during the whole week-to Carlisle. That Sunday morning we waited outside Carlisle Cathedral hoping there would be some ringing, but the annual holidays were in progress and no one materialised. Nothing daunted. we set off to the North. crossing the border just before midday and. after lunching at what appeared to be a genuine Scots Castle at Beattock. we reached Glasgnw in time to ring at St. Mary's Cathedral for evening service. Here we were welcomed by Mr. Winderham and his band and we joined them in Bob Roval and Grandsire and Stedman Caters on the excellent ten

\section*{HUNT THE KEY AT INVERARAY}

Monday morning found us dodging the rush-hour traffic en route to Paisley to ring on the pleasant-toned if rather rough-going eight. Yorkshire and Double Norwich were in our repertoire here before moving off for uhat was to be the highlight of the tour-a ring at Inveraray After a delightful drive along Losh Lomond and Loch Fyne we ar: rived at the tower only to find that the key of the ringing room was missing
A game of hunt-the-key-to-fit-the-lock then followed. involving a gentleman known as the Burgh Workman, and this culminated in the discovery of the correct kev. Having gained admittance. ropes which had heen loaned bv kindly towers at Sleaford and Beccles were quickly fitted, loose nieces of concrete knocked away. weak points discovered and avoided in the ringing room finor and the hells raised On these morions bells, with a tenor of 41 cwt . we rang Grandsire Caiers and Plain and Kent Trethe Boh Roval. We were joined here bu a few visitors who had heard the bells heing raised. these including Ian Holland formerly of Sheffielf. Annther visitor to the helfry was the local policeman. who complained that he cnuldna hear himself think hecanse of the hellis However. he left on amicatile torms with us. The night was spent at the Gerrge in Inveraray.

Thnse who did manage to rise in time for breakfact the next morning were grepted by a bequtifil dav frr our drive along the Pass of Brander and the west coast of Argvll to Fnrt William Here we investigaied rimours of a ring of four and found that the hells did indeed exist and were rung regularlv until fairlv recently. but are now unforturutely out of action due to a damaged beam. Our iomirnev enntinued round the font of Ben Nevis. then throum the Great Glan hy Larh Lnchv Aft-r drivine around in circles we finally Iorated nur hotels and settled down for a quiet night

THREE-SPIICEU AT INVERNFSS
Ringing at Inverness Cathedral the folInwing morning was interrupted by the local Press thirsting fnr knowledge of our activities. but we did attemnt some three-spliced among our by now traditiona? Plain 30 h .

Granasirs und Double iJorwicu. is was a pleasure to ineet and ring with scime of the local ningers here, who Lav; aj upkill task in maintaning ringing in this solated tower though help is provided by some ziembers of the St. Cuthbert's, Edinburgh, zompany.
For the journey to Dundee, some travelled via Aviemore. Pitlochry and the Pass of Killiecrankie, while others braved the hillier route through Tomintoul and Balmoral, but all arrived safely in spite of exhaust systems failing and peculiar nolses from front suspensions.

Thursday morning saw us ascending the endless stairs to ring on the pleasant Mears octave at St. Paul's Cathedral. Dundee Despite rumblings from above and sallies which persisted in falling in unexpected places, some good ringing was enjoyed here, including an excellent touch of Double Norwich.

\section*{HARDER THAN PREACHING}

In the afternoon we rang at Dunblane, where we wert met by the new minister. who observed that ringing appeared to be even harder work than preaching On the tuneful modern eight we rang inter alia a touch of Original Major and a half-course of Superlative. We then retired to Stirling for the evening's entertainment. which included a Chinese restaurant and a verv erratic lift at the hotel

The next morning we investigated yet another ring of four-that at the magnificent old Church of the Holy Rond, near Stirling Castle Unfortunately this ring. which was last rung in 1928, was also nut of action. so we contented ourselves with attempting to master the intricacies of bowls on a green near the church. which we learned was the oldest in Scotland After lunch we made our leisurely way to Alloa, some climbing the Wallace Memorial on the way. Here. after a little difficulty in getting the 13 cwt . tenor up right, we reached the highspot of the tour, ringing-wise. bv attempting a course of london Major This onlv failed when the conductor went wrone and tried to put everyone right by him' Other ringing here included Stedman and Double Norwich, but conditions were far from ideal due to the excessive heat and the small unventilated helfry
After staying in Alloa for some excellent liquid refreshment. We made nir wav across the Forth Bridge to Portobello. where we were due to stav for our last two nights Most of the party that evening saw the Frinburgh Military Tattoo at the Castle. The next morning saw us at St Cuthbert's where we indulged in Double Norwich. in which we were nleased to have Philip Gray and his wife from Bristol taking part. and a bob course of Stedman in whith a local lady ringer foined us. This conclurled the week's ringing activihurgh before us we were prevailed unon to visit Rose Street. which contains no less than 26 pubs (we onlv visited one). after which some climbed Arthur's Seat. the hill in Holvrond Park. while others succonfed in getting lncken in another nark. The week was roninded off at the hntel. presenting Trevor with a small token of our aopreciation for having arranged the rour once more. As Sheila. Tom and Gerald were all eelchrating hirehnays that week-end we ended with g hirthrays that week-end we ended with suitable celohration hefore returning to Eng. land the followine dov.
The party included Tom Arock. Sheila Chinerv. Rosemary Syirer. Alan Snyearlhary Norman Coseev. Barrv Pirkin. Christine Johnson. Tom Newell. Richard Hunt, Trevor Bailey. Gerald Parsons and Richard Brnwn.

\section*{East Riding Ringers Navigate River Thames}

CYCLES were left behind this year, and youth hostel wardens given a rest, when ringers and friends from the East Riding of Yorkshire took to the luxury of four Jhames cabin cruisers for a week's tour. The journey south to Bray was made in a variety of cars, including John Rank's rather splendid 1938 sixcylinder Bentley.

Bray in heautiful sunshine up river for the first tower, at Great Marlow.

\section*{ROCKED CLEAR}

Herc, after motor launch "Melaine" had gone aground in shallow water and been rocked clear by more knowledgeable memhers of the public on the bank. we joinesd the local company for an hour's varied ringing. We were also pleased to meet again ex-Kirk Ella ringer John Perrett.
Sunday morning was extremely wet. umhrellas. shorts and sandals heing the order of the day. Spirits were high though and we enjoyed the good-going eight at Wargrave. The weather cleared with almost unbelievahle abruptness after lunch and various garments were soon out on deck drying. Sunday evening found us supplying a full hand for Evensong ringing at St. Laurence's. Reading.
Goring-on-Thames and Streatley were reached hy Monday morning. Linda Sherwood findirg herself in deeper water than expected in a vain attempt to retrieve Howard Palmer's mallet head. A warm welcome by the Vicar and some good ringing on the very excellen: light eighi at Goring, where perhaps John's touch of Plain and Little with renors parted. Queens and Tittums excelled. A quick ring at the rather odd-struck six at Streatley and on to Wallingford, where a touch of Double Norwich and a course of Yorkshire were voted best. A number of ringers found the Thames far too tempting on such a hot, sunny day.

\section*{CHASE SEQUEL}

On Monday evening the sprightly Rank sprained an ankle chasing across rough grassland in search of "other than male" company. This was to hinder him only slightly in his pursuits during the remainder of the week !
Sutton Courtenay's six were rung and enjoyed that evening hefore returning back over the river to the Red Lion at Culham. Here. a fine glass-fronted piano. fully illuminated from within. was put 10 good use by our resident pianist. Kelth Goldthorpe. A rather portly "Geordie" gentleman on crutches. claiming to be the noisiest \(b-\) (justifiahly) in Culham. gave us renderings of "Cock Robin and a jolly evening. followed by the Robitable coffee on "Melaine."

Tuesday, and Oxford our turning point, but not hefore some pretty shocking striking at All Saints'. High Street. Magdalen College's easy-going ten were most enjoyable and we did fairly well here. On to New College, where the very raising of the back eight should have warned us of the poor striking which was to follow. Nothing secmed to be going here so we left with tails between our legs and tongue in cheek for Merton College. Not surprisingly perhaps, ringers were a little scarce here. but those who braved the balcony scene did not fare 100 badly

\section*{PERSPIRATION LOST}

Wednesday's ringing started at the fine Norman church at Ifflcy. where the students of huilding and architecture in the party found plenty to enthuse about. St. Helen's. Ahingdon. had to be omitted due to a sitting of the Quarter Sessions. The Georgian church with anticlockwise elight at Benson were scheduled for the evening and again we joined with the local ringers for their practice. Six hardworking individuals attempted a quarter of Cambridge at Lewknor, transport being kindly provided by friends in the area. This came to grief when two crossed on the hack, but not before a lot of perspiration had been lost. On Thursday we paid our halfpennies to get over the toll hridge at Whitchurch and so ring the 9. cwt. sis there. Mapledurham's six were rung quite well to a fair variety of methods. Admired here were the altar backcloth and carpet and embroidered hassocks. With a hapov farewell from the Vicar and his small son. John Rank managed to reverse Captain Ben's craft into some old jetty stakes and shoot Ron Ducker neatly off the stern into the water. This made the number for this distinction up to a Douhles band! Treble. and first to go, D. P. B. Miles (twice !). Rohin Page-Jones. Ben Cooper (distinguished by choosing " a lock) and the only lady to accomplish this feat-Susan Harrop.
At Sonning we again joined with the locals for their practice and had some quite fair striking of standard methods, but Yorkshire proved very elusive

\section*{BEST BELLS}

Friday's ringing included Shiplake, and surely the best bells, ringing and weather of the week at Henley. The ale was not so good but the chicken and mushroom pie salad made up for that. Cookham's eight were rung with speed and confidence. The getaway being cimilar. found Graham Smith and John Rohinson left behind (for their sins) and arriving back at 1.30 a.m. after a moonlight saunter. Saturday. 9,30 a.m.. found us back at the boatyard tidying up the week's debris and accounting for the breakages. The officisl ringing programme was completed by ringing the heavy eight at Bray, but a telephone call bv the Commodore ensured for us an excellent lunch and ringing at Wavendon for the journey back north. A meeting at Earl Shilton. Leicestershire was joined by some and enjoyed all the more for the flower festival which was taking place.

Altogether it truly enjoyable week. Perhaps only standard methods on eight with Cambridge and Yorkshire, more variety on six, but the standard being generally good. The handbells were used well. courses of Grandsire Triples and Caters being rung for most lock-keepers-some by request on the way back! Nightly parties with rousing sing-songs to Keith's accordion accompaniment-with no warden to shout "Lights out"-must have seemed unending to those whose need of sleep was greater than others.

To all clergy for permission to ring. local ringers for opening up towers-particularly the gentleman at Oxford who popped up.at every tower-and to John Rank for organising a grand " affair"-very many sincere thanks.

SPLASH.

\section*{St. Andrew's, Headington}

Work is to start on October 31st on the hells of St. Andrew's. Headington, Oxford and Messrs. White of Appleton have been instructed to provide a new steel frame, possibly with two extra bays. with the view of eventually having an octave.
For the past ten years the ringers have been devoting their wedding fees to this object With their other personal donations they have now collected over \(£ 450\) for this fund.

Whilst the bells are out of action it 15 hoped to ring at Islip on Sundays at 10:15 a.m. and hold practices there on Tuesdays at 7.45 p.m. Mr. Tom Smith, of 196. London Road. Headington. Oxford, will he pleased to receive the donations promised and also supply any further information desired.

\section*{Atmosphere of Change in Durham and Newcastle}

THESE are times of change, and continually events are bringing reminders of this fact. On the first week-end in October many people in Newcastle were riding on the city's trolleybuses for the last time before diesel-engined buses took over on the last remaining route. So ended a 30 -year chapter in Newcastle's transport system. Not far away railway enthusiasts were running a "special" as the last train in the Wansbeck Valley before the rails were torn up. This was the last remnant of the route into England built by the North British Railway Company of Edinburgh and opened on May 1st. 1865
At this time on Saturday, October 1st, in Newcastle, there was held the annual meeting of a society older than those trolley-buses but not quite as old as that railway line, for the Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association, as it now is, was founded in August, 1877. In contrast to the other two, this Society was looking forward to a continuing and useful existence and confidently making plans to celebritte its 90 th birthday in 1967 . To that end a small sub-committee has been set up to receive suggestions and to formulate proposals.

\section*{CHANGE}

In a changing worid adaptation is needed from time to time and during the coming year proposals are to be discussed to reduce from four to three the number of Districts into which the territory of the Association is divided. It is felt that the outcome should be a better grouping of the cowers geographically and each District should be a stronger unit than it is at present.

The theme of change could be detected in the address given by the Rev. R. H. Gurney Rector of Gateshead, at the special service held in Newcastle Cathedral. He cited the recen attempt to obtain an injunction against church bells as evidence of a change in attitude in some quarters. Against such attitudes it was little use to quote the rubric in the Book of Common Prayer laid down when few people had any means of telling the time of services except for the bells.

He believed that Christians were still justified in ringing bells today as they had done througl the ages and he believed that the bells had a two-fold message. On the one hand they should proclaim Christian joy and on the other, in passing bells and half-muffled peals, they gave a stern reminder of the transitory nature of this life on earth. It was necessary for ringers to respond to the call of the bells as well as sending out the call to others. The Provost of Newcastle, the Very Rev. C. C.
Wolters, conducted the service, and Mr. J. T. Wolters, conducted the service, and Mr. J. T. were rung during the service and a collection for the Bell Restoration Fund amounted to four guineas Ringing took place in the afternoon on the eight at Fenham and on the ten at Gosforth. Coming in from a dismal October day outside, the interior of All Saints'. Gosforth. was a splendid feast of light and colour with the floral displays of its flower festival. The whole church seemed to be bustling with activity and alive, and visiting ringers were pleased to be able to add their efforts to supnort this. Ringing after tea took place at the Cathedral and St Mary's, Gateshead At the Cathedral the ringing included a half-course of Cambridge Maximus, where all taking part were locals or very near locals. This was a new "high" for ringing at an annual meetint in the post-war period in Newcastleanother reminder of changing times.

The business meeting was held in the afternoon in the library of the Cathedral. The president. Mr. W. Tyson, was in the chair and president. Mr. W. Tyson, was in the chair and the attendance was about 50 Reports o year's work were presented and adopted.

\section*{HUNG DEAD}

The secretary's report noted the completion of the restoration at Winlaton and contrasted the co-operation of the Rector there with the reluctance of the Vicar of St. Andrew's. Newcastle. to give information. It had been learned that the bells were to be recast and hung dead. Canon Corden had moved from Gateshead to Shildon and a meeting had been held at Shildon after many years of exclusion Good progress by the Shincliffe ringers in raising money was noted and the starting of a fund at Sedgefield was recorded.
The treasurer's statement showed that the balance in hand had declined from just over \(£ 75\) to just under £68. The general fund showed very little change but payment from the Bell Restoration Fund had reduced that fund by about \(£ 10\). Subscriptions had been increased for the year under review but this increase in income had been more than offiset increase in income had been more than offset The whole question of this printing would have to be reviewed in the near future, as the pre sent report would be the last to be printed by Dressers of Darlington before they shut down at the end of 1966. Printing is yet another field where changes are taking place.

CODE OF CONDUCT FOR PEAL RINGERS
The Ringing Master's report gave an ac count of the fifth one-day ringing course held at Lumley Castle. He felt that a great deal of good had been done by these courses and he was very grateful for the support of all those who had assisted in the running of the classes. It seemed that the time had now come for a pause and no course on these lines was scheduled for 1967 . He was looking for alternative ideas. Asked for advice on St. George's tower and bells, he had been able to arrange a visit by Mr. Alan J. Frost of the Towers and Belfries Committee and a comprehensive report had been submitted to the consulting engineers. Standards had been quite good at ringing meetings and he was pleased to record much good progress ty younger ringers. He suggested a code of conduct for peal ringers, to reduce complaints conduct for peal ringers, to reduce complaints times and proper publicity beforehand
The peal report recorded a total of 48 peals - 35 on tower bells and 13 on handbells.
castle Cathedral being the most frequent with five peals. Seventy-nine ringers took part in the peals, six ringing their first on tower bells and five their first on handbells. The leading individual totals were M. Maughan 30, E. N. Harrison 24 and A. G. Craddock, J. Crowther and R. A. Yeates 22 each. There were 17 conductors, with the leaders being \(M\). Maughan 15 and A . G Craddock 10. Wilfred Williams \({ }^{\circ}\) touring band accounted for five of the peals, but local ringers had rung six-spliced Surprise Major for the firs: time and a new record length on handbells
The election of officers showed no change and the confirmation of the District officers showed only those changes that had been necessary by the death of Mr. F. W. Cooke and the removal from the area of Mr. S. Zvegintzov. The list for \(1966-67\) is thus: President, W. Tyson; secretary, D. A. Bayles; treasurer, E N. Harrison; Ringing Master, K. Arthur; editorial secretary, K. W. Cheeseman: auditor, F. Ainsley: trustees, J. Anderson and T. Cooke

District officers.-Northern: Chairman. G. \(S\) Deas; secretary. Miss G. Douglas. Southera: Chairman, T. Cooke; secretary, secretary. Miss M. A. Thow Western: Chairman, C. T. Lamb; secretary, H. P. Thompson, Meetings were arranged for 1967 as follows: Social, Chester-le-Street, January 14th. Halfyearly, St. George's, Jesmond, June 3rd. Annual, Chester-le-Street, October 21 st.

Fifteen new members were elected
The meeting was adjourned from the library and was resumed after the tea in Bainbridge's restaurant. The president then proposed an omnibus vote of thanks to all who had provided the facilities or given of their services for the annual meeting. To this the Provost replied.
The meeting concluded with ringing at the Cathedral and St. Mary's, Gateshead

\section*{Competition for the Novices}

A RINGING COMPETITION with a difference was held at Meldreth in Cambridgeshire on September 30th. This was intended for the novices who could ring rounds and call changes and who were just beginning change ringing. The invitation was "to take part in a friendly competition to see which ream could ring the most accurate and welistruck rounds and changes." The test piece was either five leads of Original (plain hunting) Minor, or six leads of Original Doubles with tenor behind. with not more than a minute's rounds at the beginning and end. Most teams in an orthodox competition will consist of accomplished ringers who are putting a gloss on a polished performance, but these rules were devised to encourage the novices to show what they can do.

A lot of teaching is going on in the area, and many of the competitors have had only a year's experience of ringing. Bands which were short of ringers could combine, and one experienced ringer was available as substitute in case any team met one short. Fach team had 10 declare if any member had rung a quarter or more, and if the substitute rang, so that the judge could take that greater experience into account
Mr. Philip Mehew acted as judge, Mr. John Gipson timekeeper and conductor if asked. Mr. Frank Harper was " Lord High Substitute," and the organisers were Miss Jean Sanderson and Mr. Barry Couzens. The B.B.C. was interested. but later decided it was not worth sending a recording team for a minute or two's broadcasting. A report was to have been sent, but nothing was heard.
We received an extraordinary amount of help. The local paper mentioned the com:petition. and Miss M. Bowen generously offered refreshments at Topcliffe's Mill for the sorial afterwards when the judge would announce the results and award the certificates.

There were four of these, so that all teams should have something to remind them of their efforts-if the judge thought fit! Mrs. Gwen Thurley wrote each one out in a style similar to the Devon certificates and would accept only gratitude for her time and skill. Four teams entered: Cottered. Little Munden (both from Hertfordshire), Saffron Walden and Wendens Ambo (Essex) and Whittlesford (Cambridgeshire). Additional practices were arranged and all the teams decided to ring Doubles. None of the competitors had rung at Meldreth in the last ten months, if at all, so all faced the same novelty. All the teams chose Original (plain hunting) Doubles. with the tenor behind.
Whitlesford were drawn first and after starting well had a regrettable pile-up in the fourth lead. which orevented the test piece being completed. Little Munden were next, and although they started roughly picked up well. A combined team from Saffron Walden and Wendens Ambo settled well with good speed and rhvthm. Cottered, with help from two Little Munden ringers, took a long time to settle, although the rhythm was fairly good until the sixth lead, which had almost everyone lost. yet they finished in good rounds. which was most commendable. Whittlesford were given another chance to prove they could do it. and this time they did much better.
At the social afterwards the judge was most helpful. Many of the mistakes were due to the beil dropping at backstroke. and he advised a little more pull at hand to remedy this. Apart from that he was pleasantly surprised by the standard. and awarded the certificates to Saffron Walden and Wendens Ambo first, with 36 faults: Littie Munden, second. with 71 faults: Whittlesford, third, with 72 faults for their second effort: Cottered and Little Munden, fourth, with 105 faults.

\section*{CATTERICK POPULAR VENUE FOR SNOWDON DINNER}

GOING farther north than it had ever done before, the Yorkshire Association held the annual Snowdon Dinner this year at Catterick Bridge, in the North Riding, and the venture proved so popular that 130 ringers sat down to dinner on October 15th, and a good many applications for tickets had to be refused

The dinner was preceded by ringing at Bedale (8), Richmond (8), Northallerton (8) Catterick (8). Kirby Wiske (6) and Bolton-onSwale (6). There has been little ringing at Catterick or at Bolton for some time, and at Bolton a certain amount of work was necessary to enable the bells to be rung. The afternoon's pouring rain did nothing to damp the spirits of the hundred or more ringers who shuttled between the towers and eventually gathered at the Catterick Bridge Hotel for dinner

Here the Association's president, Mr. Vernon Bottomley. presided, and with him at the top table were his predecessor. Archdeacon C. O Ellison. and Mrs. Marshall, widow of Archdeacon Ellison's predecessor. It was an hilarious evening. the president setting the :one with a reference to the superior appear ance of his type of man and those who had their heads covered with nasty, greasy stuft called hair!

Proposing the toast of "Church and State," Mr. Edward Hudson kept the ball rolling with a few specimens from his immense store of stories with cricketing or ecclesiastical backgrounds. That his two great interests cricket and ringing. occasionally get mixed was shown by his story of a dream in which he found himself calling a touch leg. middle and off.

The toast, he pointed out. provided a wide range of subjects, and he illustrated this bv ranging from references to eminent North Riding churchmen-St. Wilfrid. Coverdale, Wycliffe and Langton-to parodies of one of the poems of Lewis Carroll (who was the son of a North Riding parson).

He welcomed the gathering to the North Riding for the first time, and cheerfully informed his friends from across the northern border that Yorkshire was going to take over a little more of Durham. and in the course of a year or two they would have another ring of ten in the county when Stockton became a part of Yorkshire under a boundary change. "I have had nothing whatever to do with this," he added.

The response was by the Archdeacon of Cleveland, the Ven. S. F. Linsley, who brought the greetings of the Archbishop of York and the Bishop of Whitby.

Archdeacon Linsley said there was an infinitely greater amount of humour in the Church than there was in the State, and wen on to prove it himself with recollections of his former parish in the East Riding.

\section*{INTRIGUED}

There were three points about the gathering, he said, which intrigued him. First, it was said not so long ago in his hearing that the art of ringing was dying out. "You are going to nail that one
Second, he could not find any typical ringer. One could tell a clergyman or a policeman but it was impossible to say that of ringers. They were of all kinds and ages.

The third point was that about one-third of the company was under 30 , and half of them were women
"I am quite certain that anyone who says the art of ringing is dying out is just talking nonsense, and in this Church and State business an awful lot of nonsense is being talked. It is a very great experience to see this assembly of ringers and I am going to congratulate you and say it is a very wonderful thing
"It is said that the churches are emply. I an emply church. I went to 12 harvest festivals in : row, and there would be about 2,500 people attending those festivals.
*When you look at some aspects of the State and then at the general picture of the Church as it really is now. there is a great deal about which we can be encouraged.
"It strikes me we have a lot of solid, good stuff in the Church that doesn't publicise itself, but serves it in a voluntary capacity, who are the core of the nation. There is a great deal. obviously, amiss with the Church, there always will be, but don't let us fail to see the tremendous amount of voluntary service that is given to the Church.'

In his parish there were two police colleges, and when he went there and heard some of the stories about crime in the State it frightened him. He had asked one chief constable what the answer was, and he had replied. "When they come to you, they will have less need of us." That was a tremendous tribute.
"You can turn to any department of the State's life. or the country's life. and the Church, quite frankly, has no need to bow her head. Compared with some of the other sections of life. I think we have an awful lot to be thankful for "Your job is to ring to call people to worship, and the note of ringing is surely a clear note of thankfulness, a note of joy and thanksgiving," he said.

\section*{JASPER SNOWDON}

Archdeacon Ellison, who proposed "The memory of Jasper Whitfield Snowdon and other past officers of the Association," brought with him specimen pieces of the tea and dinner services and the umbrella which were gifts from the Association on his retirement from the presidency.

Jasper Snowdon, he said founded the Association and was its president for ten years. He was succeeded by his brother William, who was president for 25 years. followed by Canon Marshall, president for 35 years, and then by himself for 19 years. All their presidents, he pointed out, had come from the diocese of Ripon, for Ilkley was in that diocese in Snowdon's day. Archdeacon Ellison recalled a number of the Association's former officers. and paid tribute to its present officers, adding the hope that it would be a long time before any of them became past officers.
The toast was drunk in silence, and in place of a response a course of Grandsire Caters was rung on handbells by Howard Scott 1-2. Eric W Critchley 3-4, Fred Hodgson 5-6, Wilfrid E. Moreton 7-8, and Ronald Ducker 9-10.

Proposing the toast of "The Visitors," Miss Deris \(M\). Killingley (Richmond) referred to the presence of members of the Durham and Newcastle. Association, and said she had for a long time wanted an opportunity to say something in public about that Association. When she first started to ring she was invited to attend practices in Darlington and was most kindlv received.
"It is in keeping with the traditions of the Exercise to receive people kindly in strange towers, but to go week after week messing up people's practices is quite another thing. I would like to say a very personal thank vou to the ringers in Darlington and farther north."

\section*{DIOCESAN BOUNDARY}

The secretary of the Durham and Newcastle Association, Mr. Denis A. Bayles, replying. fended off Ted Hudson's grasp at Stockton's ten-bell tower. "In the Association's title there is the word "diocesan." There is no proposal to muck about with the diocese. Stockton remains ours." he declared.

He spoke of the excellence of the arrangements for the day, and said his only criticism was that he was "planted" on the fourth at Catterick "But even then I was told I could call the touch and stop when I had had

As a member of "The Ringing World ' Committee, he asked for support of the committee's work. They could do very little to improve "The Ringing World " without the help of all sorts of people. They wamted the help of people who would write articles and report such proceedings as this dinner. People who could do neither could at least subscribe to the paper. which would improve its financial position and give the committee scope to do a lot of things they wanted to do.

Before Mr. Bayles replied to this toast, a touch of Plain Bob Major was rung on handhells by a family of ringers at St . Cuthbert's. Ormesby - Kenneth and Margaret Lawson and their daughters. Anne and Enid.

The president expressed the thanks of the Association to those who had organised the dinner and the ringing. referring especially to Arthur Bashford (Kirby Wiske), on whom most of the burden had fallen, and Ted Hudson and Elsdon Metcalfe (Thirsk), who helped with the bells at Bolton-on-Swale. He also thanked the incumbents of the several churches for allowing ringing during the afternoon, E.P.

\section*{MR. R. F. LAYTON}

With sorrow we record the passing of Mr. R F. Layton at his home at Banstead, Surrey on October 2nd, who collapsed and died while dressing to attend morning service. He celebrated his 80 th birthday in August last

Reginald Frank Layton learned to ring during the second world war when the call went out for recruits in Banstead belfry. He was primarily a Sunday service ringer and, fond as he was of ringing. he regarded is chiefly as another service he could give to the church he loved. He was a server for 60 years and also held the office of secretary to the Parochial Church Council for many years

Illness long and at times serious, cut short his activities in the belfry but his interest remained, and he served ringing in the only way he could by working for it at home. He was auditor for the Northern District of the Surrey Association for many years, but his greatest work was the Association peal book. which he had written with such skill, care and patience. It is a very fine work, and his memory will live in this book among those who knew him A course of Grandsire Triples was rung on handbells at the funeral. and a quarter peal of the same method was rung. half-muffled. the previous evening on Banstead bells.
His sons. Peter. Denis and Michael, and his daughter. Elizabeth, are ringers, and to them and their mother we extend our sincere sympathy.

\section*{NORTH WEST SUFFOLK HAVE NEW RINGING MASTER}

Because of other commitments, Mr. L. Wright tendered his resignation as Ringing Master of the N.W. Suffolk District at the annual meeting held at Fornham All Saints on October 15th. Friends from the Wisbech area and Ipswich were welcomed and a variety of Doubles and Minor methods was rung.

An appropriate address for the choral service had been prepared by the Rev. W. G. Peck. who spoke of bell founders in the Bury area in the 12 th century. Tea was served by West Stow friends in the Village Hall.
Officers re-elected at the meeting were: Mr. C. Hancock chairman, Mr. A. F. Ballam secretary, and Mrs. G. Reeve Press secretary. The new Ringing Master is Mr. John Underwood. The chairman, secretary, Ringing Master and Mr. R. Rose were elected to the Guild Executive, and these and Miss \(G\). Reeves constitute the local committee.
Thanks were accorded to the workers in the past year, and ringing in the evening was at West Siow. when both Minor and Doubles methods were enjoyed.
Meetings fixed for 1967 are: Elveden, January 14th; Barrow. April: Horrineer. July: and Ixworth, October. Evening meetings: Felsham, November 12th; and Brandon, December 10th.

\section*{S.W. Branch}

THE autumn meeting of the S.W. Branch was held at Ermington on October 1st by kind permission of the Vicar, the Rev. William Rowe.

The bells were available from 2.30 p.m, and ringing included Cambridge, Oxford, Kent Plain Bob Stedman, Grandsire and rounds on the six bells. The service was conducted by the Vicar, who also gave an address. The lesson was read by Mr. R. A. Southwood, hon secretary of the Branch. During the service 60 changes of Grandsire Doubles were rung on handbells by R. A Southwood, T. G Myers (chairman of the Branch) and D. R Bould (Ringing Master) The organist was Mr. G R. Field.

Tea was served by the ladies of the church in the Parish Hall. The business meeting was presided over by Mr. T. G. Myers, who welcomed the visitors.

All present observed a one minute's silence to the memory of the late Vicar of Modbury the Rev H. S. H. Read, at whose parish this meeting should have taken place. This was a sincere token to the memory of one who held all church bells and their ringers very close to his heart.

New members elected were: Mrs. June Smith (St. Andrew's, Plymouth), Messrs. Ian and Christopher Luckeraft, Diccon Pearce and John Steere (Stoke Damerel. Plymouth), Miss Janet Edworthy (Plympton S:. Mary) and Mr Donald Bedford. Mr. Roy H. Jones (Marston. Oxfordshire) was elected an honorary life member.

The Ringing Master commented on the instruction programme at Stoke Damerel, and praised the young ringers there who had worked so hard redecorating the belfry. Mr. Bould stressed that other more experienced members of the Branch must encourage these young ringers by their support at practice meetings.

The chairman accorded thanks to the Vicar, the ladies, under the leadership of Mrs. Blackler. for an excellent tea, the choir, organis: and local ringers. Other business discussed was a proposed Gift Day for the Exeter Cathedral Fund, which would include a combined service with the rest of the Guild and the Devon Association. Ringing continued at Ermington until 7.30 p.m. and then at Yealmpton.

\section*{GUILD of DEVONSHIRE RINGERS \\ East Devon Branch}

A quarterly meeting of the East Devon Branch was held at Luppitt on October 8th Ringing in various Doubles and Minor methods preceded a service conducted by the Rector, the Rev. F. Prowse, a past chairman of the Branch. Although he is unable to take an active part in ringing these days, the Rev. F. Prowse retains a keen interest in ringing. After the service about 35 members sat down to an excellent tea provided by the ladies of the parish.

During the meeting the chair was taken by Mr. F. J. Sage, the Branch chairman, supported by the vice-chairman. Mr. John Arbury, whom all were pleased to see ringing again after his serious operation.

The usual business meeting was conducted and three new members and one life member elected. The meeting concluded with a short talk on the history of Luppitt bells by the chairman. Apologies for absence were received from Mr and Mrs. R. C. Woodlev. the Branch secretary and his wife, who are on holiday in North Africa, also from Mr A. Hodge

Next monthly practice meetings: Luppitt, November 8th; Ottery St. Mary, December 12th; and Shute on January 10th.

The Winchester and Portsmouth Guild is holding an extraordinary general mecting at Winchester on November 19th.

Frost. hon. secretary of the Northampton Branch of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild, and Mr. Christopher Holmes. The bride began her ringing career at St. John the Baptist's, Kingsthorpe, and consequently roped in the bridegroom.

On a beautiful autumn morning the church was well filled for the service, which was conducted by the Rector, the Rev. W. P. A. Maltor. The bride was given away by her father and attended by two bridesmaids.

Many ringers were present and rang for some time after the service. A quarter peal some time after the service. A quarter peal end. It is intended to put this right soon.
After the reception in the Village Hall, attended by 100 guests. the happy couple left for the honeymoon in Cornwall. It is pleasing to announce that their future address is still in the village. \section*{West Lindsev Branch}

The quiet old village of Stow-in-Lindsey was the venue for the September meeting of the West Lindsey Branch. The earliest ecclesiasical building here was built by Egfrid in A.D. 768. and is reputed to have been the Saxnn cathedral of the diocese of Lindsey. The greater part of the present fine cruciform church belongs to the 11 th and 12 th centuries. The central tower houses a good ring of six bells (tenor 10 cwt .)

The numerous local ringers, while not being advanced in change ringing, are very enthusiastic about Sunday service ringing and are the current holders of the West Lindsey Branch cup Good friends from surrounding Branches and from neighbouring Guilds again supoorted the meeting and assembled with us for Evensong in the nave of the church, conducted by the Rector.

The hearty appetites were more than satisfied by the sumptuous spread prepared hy the local people. Mr. C. H. Baker presided at the husiness meeting and proposed the vote of thanks.

\section*{SEVFRN BRIDGE OPENING}

On the occasion of the opening of the Severn Bridge on September 8th by H.M. the Queen, the Vicar of Olveston, the Rev, Ronald Goodsell, gave permission for a peal to be rung in his church, which lies on the English side of the Bridge. The peal started immediately after the short service of dedication by the Bishop. The band, which came from the London area, offered the peal to the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association but Mrs M. Wratten, their peal secretary, felt that the Association could not accept it as none were members of the Association. As all the band were members of the Middlesex County Association. the peal was therefore rung for that Association.

The band thank the Vicar for his permission to ring the peal on this historic occasion, and also the verger. who entertained them to coffec and enabled them to see the start of the opening ceremony on his TV set.

\section*{HAD ANNUAL OUTING TO SNOWDON DINNER}

This year Rotherham Parish Church ringers made the Snowdon Dinner at Catterick the final venue of their annual outing. Accompanied by six friends from Handsworth and Wentworth, the first ringing took place at St Nicholas'. Thorne. where Mr. Leaske and several of his young ringers joined in the ringing on the handy eight
The next tower was Selby Abbey, where the visitors were greatly impressed by the at tractive and well appointed ringing room and the melndious bells. After an excellent lunch the party pressed on to St. Peter's. Harrogate and sampled the new light eight in the town centre.
Ringing during the day varied from rounds to five-spliced Surprise Major, Stedman Caters and Cambridge Royal Thanks are due to all those whose hospitality and trouble taken helped to make the day's outing most enjoyable in many ways.

\section*{TO PERTH, W.A.}

St. George's Cathedral. Perth. W.A., will have another acquisition of strength by the departure on November 1st from this country of Anthony R. and Heather A. Mann. Thev have been living at Corsham, Wilts. Edgar C. Shepherd invited them to spend a day at Warminster on October 11 th and the result was a handbell peal. Edgar tells us that he has not rung a peal "in hand" for ten years and he knows of no record of a previous handbell peal at Warminster

\section*{A REPEAT}

It is regretted that the peal of London at Frome on November 10th was published twice, but it is the usual story of the conductor and the organiser being disorganised. Someone also seems to be under the impression that the tenor ringer at West Coker, Somerset. is " nver the hill" -the time of the peal should have read " 2 hours and 47 minutes" and not 4. 3 hours and 47 minutes" on this 12 cwt . ring of eight.

\section*{A YORKSH,RE EXPERIMENT}
\(\mathrm{A}^{1}\) ' the September meeting of the Western District of the Yorkshire Association it was decided that in order to help the more struggling ringers of the county a special evening practice would be held specifically for those who had little opportunity for advancement in their own locality. The Yorkshire Association having an entrance qualification of having rung 720 changes or having "covered" a quatter peal, most of those attending Yorkshire Association meetings have already reached a certain degree of proficiency. A plea was made for this evening practice to be held in the Skipion area and a date and tower were duly arranged.
Thus on October 1st many people converged on Kildwick, the Western District Ringing Master. Maurice Thurmott, having written to all the towers in the vicinity and explained the purpose of the practice and inviting those interested to attend. The numbers surprised and encouraged the organisers and the enormous task of ascertaining the ringing abilities of those present began. Throughout the evening about 25 to 30 learners attended the practice. It had been arranged tentatively that Bob Major and Stedman Triples would be the practice methods, but as most of those attending had previously rung Doubles or Minor it quickly became evident that plain hunting on eight bells would be the most advantageous in order to acquire an eight-bell rhythm; although a few courses of Bob Major were rung and the odd course of Stedman Triples
Not only had many of those attending never had the advantage of such tuition, but they had apparently never before heard such lungpower as that of Vernon Bottomley, Fred Munday and Maurice Thurmott. Consequently many comments were made, some in awe but

\section*{THE MELLOW FRUITFULNESS OF THE COTSWOLDS}

DAVENTRY ringers enjoyed a Cotswold outing on October 1st. We had hoped to ring at Chipping Campden, but a wedding coincided with the time requested, and Ebrington (6) was substituted for the first tower. The heavy six at Broadway followed a most pleasant descent of Broadway Hill. which revealed at every turn a breathtaking panorama of the Vale of Evesham and the surrounding countryside, bathed in the autumn sun. We had been warned that the tenor here was.\(\ddot{ }\) a fortnight late at back" and some of those who rang it remembered to make allowance for it.

Friends from the one-bell tower of Shirley. Croydon joined us here and accompanied us to Bourton-on-the-Hill, where the Rev. W. E. Gladstone welcomed us. Here the treble ringer stands directly in front of and back to the tenor man in the anti-clockwise "circle." but nevertheless methods up to London Minor were rung without fatality !

This was the last of the three sixes, and after tea at Moreton-in-Marsh we rang on the fine modern Taylor eight, the ringing including a good course of London. The grand old-style heavy eight at Stow-on-the-Wold inspired some very good ringing, which conspired some very good ringing, which concluded with three leads of Bristor, we were glad to meet Mr. Dowdeswe
The last tower of the day was Bourton-onthe Water, which has a ring of eight almost the identical twin of that at Moreton. Our ringing here was well below the' standard set at Moreton. Perhaps we were tired, but it had been a wonderful afternoon, with some of the very finest countryside in the land to see, all in its prime and mellow in fruitfulness. Those glorious villages and little market towns, unmatched in the kingdom, and it seemed they all had chosen to pack their gems of churches with the fruits of the earth and of their labour We were glad to add the music of the bells to their offerings, and we thank them for the privilege.
none very flattering! These comments were, however, richly enjoyed by those present who regularly suffer from these tongues and lungs, and the resulting atmosphere was one of general goodwill.
The time had sped quickly to 9 p.m., and a good "lower" on the back six bells was applauded by the listeners. Such was the success of this venture that it was immediately decided to hold a second practice at Ilkley. if possible, on November 5th. The date being duly noted, fireworks were to be provided by the aforementioned gentlemen!
It would be useless to hope that all of those attending the first practice would attend the subsequent practices, but if sufficient representatives of, say, four towers were to attend and become the backbone of new, strong bands, how worthwhile it would be. One sad feature was that the "experts" were provided by only two towers-Bradford and Dewsbury (some of the latter kindly passing on newly-acquired skills), which meant that most of these people were ringing in every "touch" for three hours. One can only hope that this is not a true reflection on the concern of the proficient ringers for those less fortunate. Thanks are perhaps due to Ruth Richardson (11 years) and Stephen Munday (12), who rang for most of the three hours with the minimum of mischief! J.E.B.

\section*{A LINCOLNSHIRE WEDDING}

THE magnificent Church of St. Mary the Virgin, Stow.. Lincs, was the setting on October 8th for the wedding of two wellknown local ringers-Mr. John F. Underwood of Haxey and Mrs. Kathleen Mary Butler of Sturton-by-Stow The arrival of the guests and bride was heralded by St. Mary's bells, rung by the local ringers.
The service was conducted by the Rev. J. W. Parker, and the singing of the hymns "We love the place O God," "O Perfect Love" and "King of Glory" was led by the choir of St. Mary's, Stow.
The bride wore an ocean blue dress and coat and carried a decorated ivory prayer book. The bride's cousin. Miss Janet M. Hudson (a ringer at St. Mary's Putney), was in attendance. Mr. Geoffrey Hill, friend of the groom, was best man, and the groomsmen were Mr. Alan Marshall. Mr. Melvyn Rose (ringer at All Saints'. Betion) and Mr. Brian J. Bull (ringer at St. Mary's, Putney).

A quarter peal of Cambridge Surprise Minor was rung later that evening (mainly by guests) at St. Helen's, Willingham-by-Stow, as a compliment to the couple, who left for a short honeymoon in the Peak District, Derbyshire.

\section*{Mr. Walpole's Week-end in Wight}

THE "rig idea" was a week-end ringing on the cheap on that little island somewhere off the South Coast. Keith Walpole (Wheathampstead) thought he knew where it was so he did the organising. Anyway. on Friday evening, July 9 th, eight ringers plus tents and baggage started the journey to Portsmouth Keith was driving a Morris Oxford (reputedly his father's), into which were piled the tents, Fred Ellis and Tony Smith (Wheathampstead), Paula Healing (Essendon). Sue Cowan (Harpenden), the baggage and Gill Brearley (Wheathampstead). The car was hotly pursued by a motor scooter with Malcolm Petit (Hatfield) and Andrew Wilby (Harpenden).
The midnight ferry for Fishbourne was caught at Portsmouth. From Fishbourne we sped through the back streets of Ryde, roared down the road to Brading and eventually found a camping site. Such was the co-operation and efficiency of the party at 2 a.m. that the tents went up almost without the help of the putter-upper-in-chief (Keith).
By 9 a.m. that day we were at St. Mary's, Brading. After an uncertain start on this 10 cwt. eight there was some good ringing. including Stedman, Kent and Little Bob. Mr. East, who met us, joined in the ringing.
St. George's, Arreton, presented a problem, as the car party drove past the church without seeing it, and they mistook the scooter passenger's gesticulations to the church behind the "pub"! Anyway, after some refreshment the ringing was reasonable (including London), considering the general odd-struckness of the bells.
We then went on to Shanklin for a swim and lunch. For some of the party it was more swim than lunch, but for Fred Ellis there was no swim at all as he had craftily forgotten his "swim kit"

We arrived early at All Saints'. Godshill. and were met by the local captain. An almost perfect rise was followed by an equally good touch of Cambridge. Ringing also included Oxford T.B. and Plain Bob. On then to Whitwell and the seven cwt. six at St. Mary the Virgin's. The hells were rather disappointing after Godshill so we did not stay long but invaded the local store for the lollies.
Brighstone proved to have a very pleasant seven cwt. six recently augmented from five. We had a good rise and another excellent touch of Cambridge. As was inevitable, a touch of spliced all-sorts came to grief in the plain course of Little Bob after ringing London, Cambridge, Primrose, St. Clement's, Double Bob. etc. Before ringing on the excellent eight at St. Mary's, Carisbrooke, we met the Vicar (the Rev. Mr. Potts), whose daughter Iearned to ring when they lived at Harpenden. Grandsire, Plain Bob and three leads of Kent were rung although by now everybody was getting tired !

The bells at the last tower of the day, St. Thomas's, Newport are reputed to be rough. 14 and we can confirm this! The tenor here, only 14 cwt., goes like 40 cwt .
After some well earned refreshment we went back to camp. changed, and then went into Shanklin for the evening. Two of the party reached camp at \(2 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}\). after being marooned in Shanklin, but we were up early again in the morning to ring for service at Ryde on the 26 cwt. eight. Afterwards we struck camp (not in temper!) and retired to the beach at Ryde, where even Fred had a swim in a borrowed pair of trunks!
A pleasant afternoon was later spoilt by rain, We caught the 5 p.m. ferry back to Portsmouth, arriving in time to join the local band in ringing for Evensong. It was raining most of the way home, much to the chagrin of the scooterists !

Our thanks go to all incumbents and those who met us and made the week-end possible, and also to Keith, who managed all the arrangements perfectly except for the weather!

\section*{ATTEMPT FOR STEDMAN CINQUES RECORD}

Dear Sir,-The Provost of Birmingham, the Rt. Rev George Sinker, has kindly agreed that a further attempt may be made on the bells of St. Philip's Cathedral. Birmingham, to surpass the record of 12,663 Stedman Cinques rung by members of the Oxford Diocesan Guild at Oxford Cathedral on Acgust 24th. 1946
The attempt will be made on Saturday. November 12th 1966, commencing as soon as possible after 9.45 a.m., the band being Messrs, Stubbs. Smith. Purneli, Jones. Goodman. Fellows, Fellows. Eisel. Borden. Barron. Anderson and Ainswor:1. Messrs. R. W. Pipe, S. J Ivin and G. E Fearn have agreed to act as umpires. John Chilcott has produced and David Parsons is checking the appended composition which. It is hoped will prove of interest to both listeners and ringers
It is suggested that a suitable rendervous, during the approved hours, for any ringers in Birmingham that day should be the Trocadero in Temple Street.-Yours faithfully.

\section*{CODE OF CONDUCT FOR PEAL RINGERS}

\(\mathbf{M}^{\mathrm{R}}\)R. KENNETH ARTHUR, the Master of the Durham and Newcastle Association, at the Association's recent annual meeting, stressed the importance of a code of conduct for peal ringers, which we feel is deserving of wider publicity than the Tyneside and the adjoining two counties.

Since the passing of the Noise Abatement Act, 1960, stated Mr. Arthur, more people than ever have become sensitive to everyday noises and, although there is no mention in the Act of church bells constituting a statutory nuisance, indiscriminate ringing can put ringers in bad odour, and incumbents may be forced by local feeling into a position of either closing towers altogether or drastically restricting ringing.

On two occasions recently in the Durham and Newcastle area peal attempts have been interrupted and stopped as a result of complaints and Mr. Arthur attributes the fault in both cases to a lack of foresight in organisation.

The day, the time and the giving of advanced publicity are important factors in making arrangements. In this respect Mr. Arthur proffers the following advice:-

Attempts at towers in business areas should be made at week-ends, early evenings or on half-days;

At places where ringing is infrequent, the church authorities should be approached well in advance and be made fully cognisant of the fact that a peal means three hours' continuous ringing;

Where possible, prior notice of special ringing should be given to the public through the local press.

It is also a great advantage if a peal can be associated with an event of either local or national importance or in connection with a red letter day of the church.

A notice outside the church telling the reason for ringing is also helpful in local relations. Invariably the first question when the bells are rung is, "Why are the bells ringing?"

Sound control in the bell chamber is essential. It is the duty of ringers to draw their incumbents' attention to it and tell him where he can get advice. The publicity given to the Newton-le-Willows protest has produced some good indirect results and one incumbent in the Greater London area has, inconsequence, approached the Central Council for advice. There have been others.

We would implore conductors of peals not to hesitate to stop the ringing where the striking is inferior. The Central Council gives guidance as to the extent in which a fault can be corrected. There have been occasions when unholy mix-ups have occurred creating an intolerable din. These have invariably been sorted out by a dexterous conductor and after a few minutes the band has settled and the peal has been continued as if nothing had happened.
Rarely are the cases of mix-ups and bad striking resulting in an inaccurate presentation of the method reported to the Guild or made public through "The Ringing World." In the hundreds of peals rung there must be countless borderline cases apart from the flagrant breaches of the rules, and one of the problems before the Exercise is how to introduce into peal ringing a sense of honour and integrity.
The writer has a recollection of a peal of Stedman where a purist in the band told the conductor in no uncertain terms that he was not going to record the peal in his list. The peal was duly published and somebody scored his first of Stedman Triples. It was unchallenged publicly; never reported to the Peals Analysis Committee and remains in the annals of the Exercise as a true peal. Some might say, "Let sleeping dogs lie." However, one of the eight ringers had an uneasy conscience and was determined not to sully his record of peals.

We have digressed from Mr. Kenneth Arthur's observations but he urges that compliance with a simple code of conduct should be the duty of all ringers in the interest of their respective Guilds and Associations and also of the local inhabitants whose sympathy it is necessary for all ringers to retain and foster.

\section*{CHALLENGE OF GUILDFORD GUILD'S NEW MASTER}

\section*{More at Meetings : More Peals and Quarters : More Recruits}

THE popularity of the Guildford Diocesan Guild's dinner is undiminished. Held at the Newlands Corner Hotel on October 22nd, it altracted a larger company than in previous years and a cordial welcome was extended to the new Guild Master, Mr. P. G. Smart, and his wife. Angela. Young people predominated. the speeches were limited to four and the dance which followed revealed the versatility of the young people in our belfries.

This year the guest of honour was the Rev. T. H. Dart, Vicar of St. Michael's, Aldershot, a tower that has for years abounded with young life and where ringing was so infectious that the Vicar felt compelled to join in. Mr. 1 L. Hayns was the toastmaster.

\section*{ATTENDANCE AT MEETINGS}

The Guild Master in proposing the toast of *The Church and the Exercise " said they had a wonderful attendance that evening of 150 and he supposed there were present 100 ringing members. Why could they not have better attendances at meetings? Today there were a large number who came for half-an-hour, signed the attendance book and disappeared. Meetings were held not only for ringing but for an exchange of views and if the officers did not know what they were thinking about how could they carry out their duties? Attendances at meetings had diminished from 60 to about 10 who were members of the Guild. At the annual general meeting they got about 150 and from that it could be concluded that there were only two occasions when the members really met-at the annual general meeting and the dinner.

A drive for new members was in process and he had already welcomed a number. He reminded the company that they would not get new members by merely sitting in their belfries and waiting for them to come along: There were several organisations they could approach. Both the Girl Guides and Boy Scouts had ringers' badges, and they could approach the companies and troops in their area and offer to train any of their young people for the badges. There was, however, an individual responsibility over recruitment and he submitted a challenge to every ringer present to find at least one recruit during the coming year.
Regarding peals, they had only had 18 rung this year. It was by peals and quarter peals that their standard of striking could be im proved. Some people regarded striking as a by-product of the method: it was all wrongstriking should come first. He implored towers to introduce a monthly quarter peal like they did at Ash: it would result in an improvement in ringing.

Concluding, the Master thanked the Dinner Sub-Committee for their organisation. It was an extremely good meal well served.

\section*{" ROUNDS FOR THE VICAR}

The Rev. T. H. Dart, Vicar of St. Michael's, Aldershot, said he was overwhelmed by being asked to reply to "The Church" as he had not a purple cassock, but he had certain qualifications for speaking about the Church, as a choirboy, he was pushed into a holly bush.
When he entered their belfry at Aldershot the cry invariably went up "Rounds for the Vicar.' but lately, since he and his wife had become grandparents, it had been changed to "Grandsire Triples." At St. Michael's. Aldershot, he had found a new method of pulling the tenor ten times when "Stand" was called. which had become known as "Aldershot Surprise." He knew it was a new method because it gave the heaviest bell its name. He had always wondered why it was called ten-or; now he knew (laughter).
Their Master had issued a challenge to bring in new recruits. It was easy to forge:, when ringing, that their whole purpose was to to out and get people inside the church-to call them to worship. One of the tests of a good tower was whether the attendance on practice night and on Sunday compared favourably with each other. Their duty as ringers and churchmen was to challenge people to come and worship.
There were people who complained about ringing. "Do not be ashamed of your Church or the ringing Exercise. Those two things go hand-in-hand, and 1 count is a great privilege to reply to the toast."
Mr. W. H. Coles, father-in-law of Mr. Frank Price, proposed the toast of "Continued Prosperity to the Guildford Diocesan Guild.' He said he had been ringing for 45 years and his tutor was John Hunt, that stormy petrel on the Central Council who did much ringing in Guildford and took part in the record peal of Stedman Caters "in hand." That record still remained. He remembered John Hunt telling him that it was originally intended to go to 21,000 but during the peal he said to Alfred Pulling, the conductor: "If you go beyond 19,000 I will put my bells down." The peal was accordingly called round about 19,000 .

They were extremely fortunate in having young men to take office. In the past they had had some illustrious leaders-Alfred Pulling, John Goldsmith and Major Hesse-all of whom he knew and rang with. Officers were only as good as the rank and file allowed them to be. If a man stood out in the Guild it was because he was surrounded by good men.

\section*{" YOUNG GEORGE "}

Mr. Coles had a special greeting for the Bishop of Guildford, who regretted he could not be present. He knew the Bishop when he lived at Harlington, where his father, the Rev. Hector Reindorp. was Rector. "He was responsible for augmenting the bells, and when he retired we rang a peal and dedicated it to his life's ministry. We knew the present Bishop as 'young George' and when I tell you that my daughter used to ride on the handles of a very large hand roller pushed by the Bishop you will realise what a grand chap he was.
Continuing. Mr. Coles said: "I was privileged when your bells at the Cathedral were installed and dedicated to speak about them on the B.B.C. I thought your effort as a Guild was wonderful, and while you did not subscribe the major sum involved, you gave the inspiration In that broadcast I said I thought these bells would ring out for peace and joy for hundreds of years to come."

\section*{STARTED RINGING WITH GUILD FORMATION}

Mr. W. H. Viggers, a Central Council representative of the Guild, replied. He said he became a ringer the day the Guild was founded. He left the choir on December 31 st, 1927, and Charlie Denyer took him into the belfry to see the ringers and join them, so his ringing career was the exact age of the Guild. The first meeting he went to was at Merrow and Clandon, where they rang call changes, and Mr. Hazelden told some of the old ringers to ring like some of the young recruits.
He remembered in his first peal he had to make a bob in Oxford Bob and he was ringing the same method to a peal at Shepton Mallet, which was called by Joe Dyke. At the end Joe called a single and they called out "What do you do now?" Joe replied "Same as a bob, you fool."
They had their Cathedral bells but they still wanted someone to provide the lift. Charlie Denyer did much towards getting the bells and it was a sad thought that unless a lift was provided he would never get into the belfry. The same applied to Mr. Albert Harman. There were three outstanding ringers commemorated in the Cathedral. There was the Guild Library, which was a memorial to Mr. Charles Hazelden. the Pulling bell in the Cathedral ring as a memorial to Alfred Pulling, and the Sanctus bell. which was a memorial to John S Goldsmith. He coupled with the roast the names of Charles Denyer and Harold Pitstow, who sent their apologies.

A touch of Plain Bob Major was then rung
Margaret Lewis \(1-2\), John Couperthwaite 3-4, Keith Williamson 5-6. Tom Page 7-8. The evening concluded with dancing.

\section*{BATH AND WELLS DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION \\ Frome Branch}

Members of the Frome Branch took advantage of a glorious day to hold the autumn meeting at the little Church of St. Leonard on Mr John Christie's private estate a Marston Bigott, three miles out of Frome, on October 8th. After an hour's good ringing on the delightful bells members from a wide area attended Evensong conducted by the Vicar of Marston-with-Witham, the Rev. L E. Mitchell-Jones. He welcomed all present and in his address he mentioned that the bells were just one of many methods available to voice the word of the Church outside.
A really wonderful spread confronted ringers at the Village Hall for tea, those responsible being the ladies of the church. The business meeting commenced with members first standin silence in respect of Mr. W. Rossitter, of Leigh-on-Mendip. who recently passed away. During the meeting six new members from two towers were elected and the Branch an-

\section*{OBITUARY \\ MR. GEORGE PULLINGER}

Gcorge Pullinger's many friends throughout the country will be very sorry to hear of his death, at 75 , on October 23 rd, in the belfry of St. Mary's, Cheltenham.

Having rung in a good touch of Stedman Caters and listenced to some good rounds on 12. George refused a rope for Grandsire Cinques, and before the bells were pulled of again his distress was evident. First aid was expertly applied, but the five-minute bell (the tenor) for Matins had deeper significance for the ringers whose exertions had proved unavailing.

Until George's retirement seven years ago, he and Mrs. Pullinger lived at Bishopstoke, Hants. where for many years George had served St. Mary's faithfully they then moved to Willingdon. Sussex. None who heard George's excellent striking and saw his superb bell control can have failed to wonder whether they. with two arms, could ever achieve the standard he reached with his one.

The ringing fraternity is indeed the poorer for his passing, and it is to be hoped that the deep sympathy of their many friends will be of some encouragement to Mrs. Pullinger in continuing her solitary path after many years of happiness with George.

\section*{MR. JOHN WELLS}

Mr. John Wells, a life member of the Hertford County Association. died after a short illness on October 16th, aged 84 years. John Wells lived all his life at Kimpton and was associated with the Parish Church as a member of the choir and a bellringer from the age of ten. His father was verger for 40 years.

John had served on the Parochial Church Council and Parish Council and had a remarkable memory of village history over the past 70 years. His ringing had been mainly confined to his home lower, where he rang his first quarter peal at the age of 75. Although John gave up active ringing ahout five years ago, he continued to take a keen interest in the Kimpton Guild and held the position of tower captain until his death.
A half-muffled quarter peal was rung in memoriam by Guild members prior to Evensong on the day of his death.

\section*{HERTS COUNTY ASSOCIATION}

The October meeting of the St. Albans District took place at St. Paul's Walden and King's Walden on the 15th. The lovely autumn day seemed to encourage many to turn out. The back-handed six at St. Paul's Walden were tackled in the afternoon, methods up to Norwich being rung. A very short service was held.
After tea in the local pub a business meeting was held in the church. with Mr. Reg. Darvill in the chair. Miss Margery Cartledgi= was clected a new member. It was announced that the November and December towers for the meeting had heen reversed, so it will be Saniridge on November 19th and Harpenden in December. The final practice meeting for this year is to be at St. Peter's. St. Albans, on Monday, November 7th. The tickets for the District dinner at St. Michael's Manor, S:. Albans, are now on sale at 25 s , each from any committee member. Numbers have been limited to 65. so it's "first come, first served."

Keith Walpole announced that Sandridge bells were at long last ringing again for Sunday service every second and fourth Sunday a: 8.45 a.m.: help would be appreciated. St. Paul's Walden practice night has been changed to a Thursday. The meeting finished with votes of thanks. Evening ringing was at King's Walden.

\section*{CHESTER GUILD DINNER AND DANCE}

THE annual dinner-dance of the Chester Diocesan Guild was held at Bowdon Assembly Rooms on October 15 th. The guest speaker. Canon J. Saunders, Archdeacon of Macclesfield, spoke of the influence which bellringing has had, and is having, upon poetry and music. His toast of "The Guild" was replied to by the Master, Mr. John Worth, who welcomed all the visitors and made a special mention of those non-ringers who assist in the production of the annual report.

Reporting briefly on the state of the Guild during the year. the Master said that the whole-day annual festival had been well received by members, and would be continued in that form To help with recruitment, all incumbents in the diocese had been approached and space was given to the Guild in the Diocesan Leaflet. A band drawn from members of the general committee had succeeded in ringing a peal of Grandsire Cinques at Macclesfield on the previous Saturday.
"The Guild had been hopeful that the appeal for the Cathedral bells. for which the Guild is responsible, would by now have been well under way. We are in the hands of the Dean and Chapter and the Cathedral architect: the general secretary, Mr. Henry 0 . Baker, has left them in no doubt as to our feelings of frustration !"
In concluding. Mr. Worth thanked the Guild officers for their work, and the Archdeacon for his good wishes.
The proceedings ended as they had begun, with handbell ringing (Double Norwich and Oxford Royal).

\section*{FATHERS AND SONS PEALS}

Dear Sir ,-I was interested to read of the peal of Cambridge Maximus by six fathers and six sons at Evesham on September 17th. and would add my congratulations to those they have undoubtedly already received.

It took me back to January, 1928, when six fathers and six sons met and rang a peal of Stedman Cinques at St. Leonard's, Shoreditch, standing in the order of father and son: Barnetts, E. sen. and E. jun. 1-2. Taffenders. T. H. and T. W. 3-4. Mathews, J D. and C. J. 5-6, Bevans, R. and T 7-8, Hibberts, R. T. and W. 9-10, G̈roombridges, T. sen. and \(T\). jun. 11-12. The conductor was Mr. J. D Matthews
The original band included F. and J. F. Tillett. of Ipswich. but a few days before the peal one of them met with an accident. Mr. Taffender and his son were contacted and came at very short notice. I always admired them for this.
William Hibbert. Thomas Bevan and myself are the only survivors, all the fathers and three of the sons having passed away.
It also reminded me of a father and son peal of Grandsire Triples at Erith about 1920, which, in a weak moment, we published as the "first ever," only to be told the next week that a tablet in (I think) Richmond tower records a similar peal there. conducted by that celebrated conductor of the Cumberlands in the 1700 s , George Gross jun.! Yours sincerely.

PEALS BY OFFICERS OF THE FORCES
Dear Sir,-Mr. Alan Buswell's research into the Press cuttings collected for the firm of Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, formerly bell founders, reveals some interesting occurrences, as illustrated in your leading article in "The Ringing World "issue dated October 14th. 1966. With particular reference to two " Army Officers' "peals in 1919. For the record, may one offer a brief note of correction and additional information?
Strictly speaking, they were not peals by Army officers only, since R.A.F. officers were included They did not take place on the same day. as the article would indicate. The Croydon (St. Peter's) effort in Grandsire Caters followed the Putney peal of Kent Treble Bob Major a little later. As you say, the Grandsire composition proved false. But there was a second Caters attempt at Croydon with, of course, another composition, and this was successful. A photograph of the bund appears in the late Ernest Morris's "History and Art of Change Ringing.'

And so were rung the first (and to date the only) peals by officers of H.M. Militant Forces. They are both credited to the Ancient Society of College Youths.-Yours very truly, Southsea.

\section*{JUSTIFYING A YORKSHIRE \\ COMPOSITION}

Dear Sir,-In his letter on page \(668, \mathbf{M r}\). Morley appears to mention everything about my composition of Yorkshire Surprise Major except that it is a regular three-part and, in doing so. seems to miss the point completely.
My aim was to produce a simple regular three-part of conventional length without parting the tenors. Whereas it is comparatively easy to assemble 14 combination courses into a one-part composition, the restrictions imposed by a regular three-part make this task difficult, if not impossible. It is possible. however to include 12 combination courses at the expense of also including some less musical courses.

My composition contains 12 combination courses. This is three more than in any other regular three-part (with tenors coursing and of comparable length) so far published. I feel I am justified in providing such a peal for those who prefer three-part compositions, because a quick scan of the peal columns of "The Ringing World" has revealed that of the peals of Yorkshire Surprise Major rung so far this year, over a quarter are recognisable as three-part compositions with a maximum of nine combination courses.
Another point raised in Mr. Morley's letter is the question of 82 's and 83 's. Whilst courses containing 82's and 83's would not be included to the exclusion of more musical courser, I would be careful about making sweeping generalisations. For example, the first part of my composition contains two courses with course-ends 45263 and 65234. In my opinion the first of these two is the more musical.

Regarding the number of singles in mv composition, if one believes that singles are permissible, then I cannot see that it matters if there are 4,24 or 44.

Whilst agreeing that we need standards for composers, can we also have standards for critics of compositions?-Yours faithfully,

High Wycombe, Bucks.

\section*{WASHINGTON PEAL CONDUCTOR'S} ORIGINS
Dear Sir.-Through the columns of "The Ringing World" I would like to extend my sincere thanks to the ringers of North America, who. during my recent visit, sheltered and fed me and without exception went out of their way to make me welcome. I would, however. point out in passing that I have my origins in Lincolnshire, not Lancashire, and whatever the University of London may think of me, they are, alas, stuck with me!-Yours sincerely,

\section*{NO NEED TO CHANGE}

Dear Sir-I have been a reader of "The Ringing world" since its inception and am satisfied with the set-up, paper and type, though often opposed to the views of correspondents. There is no need to change anything material in this production; any change would probably be for the worse. Don't do it.-Yours faithfully,

(62 years a ringer.)

\section*{ODD VENTURES-GRANDSIRE TRIPLES}

Dear Sir,-In reply to E. S.'s "Odd Ven-tures-Grandsire Triples" (page 669), here are two contributions:

1,259 GRANDSIRE TRIPLES
Having a single at the last call and ending with the 3 rd in the hunt for five leads after 325476.

Start calling "Holt's Original" until the "bob lead" 3546.37 , then call bob at 4 and \(S\) at 3.-Yours faithfully,

LOUIS HEAD.

\section*{120 STEDMAN TRIPLES CURRECTION}

Dear Sir,-May I point out that the written description of the calling positions in Mr . Whitaker's 120 of Stedman Triples on page 648 contains a slight error. If the figures are correct then the calling positions for the 6th are: Six times in \(6-7\) down; In and Out quick: Five times in \(6-7\) up; 6-7 up with a single: 6-7 down with a single; two times in 6-7 up.

It is not possible to call a bell 6-7 up with a single and a further twice with bobs.-Yours sincerely,
D. C. JACKSON.

Eling, Hants.

\section*{"OLD AS THE HILLS"}

Dear Sir,-Surely Mr. Percy Whitaker is not claiming originality for his "composition" of 720 Stedman Triples? ("The Ringing World," September 30th.)
One well-known old ringer showed me this touch several years ago. and it was as old as the hills when his grandfather showed it to him!
In any case, for such a short touch. the music of Queens and Whittingtons is hardly worth the sheer monotony of 678 and 468 behind for bob-after bob.-Yours sincerely,

JOHN PLADDYS.
King's College, London.

\section*{THE BELLS OF MORDEN, DORSET}

Dear Sir,-Having read Mr. Dalton's letter concerning the Morden bells and our quarter peal, I feel I must take up a few points with him.
First of all, we did (as we always do), apply to the Vicar of Morden for permission to rope these bells and ring them for about 45 minutes.
We then went to Morden and met an elderly gentleman who was in charge of the tower and bells. He assured us that he had rung the bells as long ago as 53 years. Both of these men were more than pleased that we were going to ring their bells. The Vicar sat on a stool between the treble and second ringers throughout the quarter peal. In my ignorance I thought this would be permission enough I am sorry I omitted to get an "all clear ". from Mr. Dalton or his bellhanging friends.
Regarding the tenor, we did not drive any wedges into this poor old bell, we did as we said-tightened the headstock bolts by turning the nuts around; that's the only way I know to tighten a bolt. I rang this bell throughout the quarter peal with no trouble at all, no flopping or rolling or anything of the sort.
You state there is the start of a crack in this bell that goes over the crown and halfway down the waist. Well, I'll take your word for that, but if this is so, this is not the start of a crack my friend, this is the finished article.
The driving in of wedges or dressing all the bells up in a new set of ropes at a cost to the good people of Morden of some \(£ 20\)-odd will not help, or the ringing of the bell with a soft pedal, as you appear to think you can do, if only for a short time. No, there is only one answer I am afraid, that is a lot of money and one melting pot.
You will be interested to know that the bells of Morden have been rung again recently by an extremely competent band. I have heard no mention yet of a cracked bell from them.
Finally, I must thank you for assuring us that the bell was cracked before we, the Charminster band, ever went into the tower. If I dare to suggest anything to you at all it would be that the next time you find something like this you tell the Vicar or other interested persons. After all, it is not top secret. is it?-Yours faithfully,

ERNEST H. AMEY,
Captain of the Charminster Ringers and Deputy Ringing Master of the Dorchester Branch, S.D.G.R.

\section*{DOUBLE ENTRY}

Dear Sir,-In reply to Helen Y. Price's letter ("The Ringing World," October 14th) regarding towers entering two bands for competitions, we at Hughenden, Bucks, entered two bands in the East Berks and South Bucks striking competition three years ago, one team all ladies and the other all male ringers. Yours faithfully, Hughenden, Bucks.
ROLAND BIGGS.

\section*{HENDON'S TRIBUTE CUT SHORT}

Hendon. Middlesex, ringers arranged to ring a quarter peal of Grandsire Doubles with the bells half-mufled for the victims of the Aberfan disaster on Sunday, October 23rd. Miss Ruth Foreman reports that they had got as far as half way when the clapper sheered off just above the ball. While the ringers were disappointed, members of the congregation seemed satisfied that their church had chosen this method of showing some of the sympathy it felt.

\section*{UNIVERSITY OF LONDON SOCIETY}

The October meeting of the University of London Society was held on October 15 th. The peal ringing fraternity got oft to a bad start losing Spliced Surprise Major at Stamford Hill in the morning. Towers open for general ringing were St. Augustine's. Kil burn, where the Belgian bells were much admired. St. James', Clerkenwell (8). St Vedast's. Foster Lane (6). where we we invaded by the Middlesex Association. St . Botolph's-without-Bishopsgate (8) and St Olave's, Hart Street (8). The service was conducted by the Rector of St. Olave's (the Rev. M. Dean) assisted by the secretary. Mr Dean preached a moving and appropriate sermon, which showed how relevant bells and ringing were in the space age.

After an excellent tea, ably organised by the Misses Adrienne Gibson and Isabel Dean, the meeting was opened, the president, Mr. D. J R. Martin being in the chair. The president welcomed the visitors and new members. mentioning the fact that this year the Society was coming of age. A proposal was made by the Master, seconded by the secretary, that Mr J. Seager be elected to the vacant vice-presidency. A second nomination, that of Mr. D. Sibson, was put forward without the prior knowledge of the chairman or committee, by Mr. A. Smith, seconded by Mr. E. F. P. Bryant. After considerable discussion it was decided to hold no election and to amend the constitution if possible to prevent a repetition of this

It was confirmed that the day tour in Kent would take place on December 3rd, and Mr. N. J. Davies had kindly offered to ar range this. The annual dinner would be on February 25th. reverting to the second Saturday in February in following years. The annual tour would be held in Ireland either in the last week in August or the first in September. Thanks were expressed to Mr A. Thirst for his help in producing the report, to the Editor (Mr. T. Pett) and also to the incumbents of the churches visited, and to Mr. J. Euston, and the Rev. M. Dean. D. C.

\section*{NORWICH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION}

A pleasant meeting of the Northern Branch was held at Holt on October 22nd, when well over 50 members attended.

The service was conducted by the Rev Giles Hunt. and in his address he mentioned that as a learner ringer he had found a fellowship of teamwork and good feeling existed between ringers. The art of bellringing was two-fold, firstly for and as part of the Church. and secondly to further the art of bellringing.

New members elected were the Rev. Giles Hunt, the Rev. D. Tuck, Donald Copeman, Maurice Hovel1, Peter Morse. Frank Sheldrake (all of Holt). Ursula Stubhings (Intwood) Mrs. Mabel Frances Gidney (Holt) was electtd an honorary member.
The Rev. P. Kelly reported that the committee had done a survey on cowers in the area. He wondered if a voluntary subscription of ios. a year would be practical for the Belfry Repair Fund? The chairman, Mr. G Sayer, proposed the vote of thanks. C.B.

LOCKING. SOMERSET.-On Oct. 2nd, 1.260 Doubles (four methods): Yvonne Cridle 1, Jane Markham (first in four methods) 2. June Legg (cond.) 3 , R. Jones 4, J. Coombs 5, A. Skinner 6. For Harvest Festival.

\title{
Society of Roving Ringers’ Annual Tour

THE Society of Roving Ringers this year took the bold step of starting their annual tour on the 12 bells at St. Mary the Great, Cambridge on August 20th. The ringing here was not as bright as the weather and did not really do justice to the bells. However, Cambridge Royal was successfully brought round and. of course, "Eternal" Grandsire, Adrienne's speciality, was also rung. Ringing continued with some good six-bell ringing at Stedman's tower, St. Bene't's. where Stedman Dedman's tower, St. Bene t's. Where Stedman ringing was concluded with ringing bv candlelight on the heavy eight at the Roman Catholic Church of Our Lady and the English Martyrs.

\section*{MASTER'S PREROGATIVE}

Sunday dawned as bright and fine as Saturday, and this was refected in the ringing when a good course of Pudsey was rung at Trumpington for morning service. On the way to the next tower the Ringing Master, exercising his prerogative, demonstrated that the tour had really started by falling of his bicycle in the middle of the road. Fortunately he survived to supervise ringing at the next tower, Soham. where Grandsire and Stedman Caters and Cambridge and Yorkshire Royal were rung. The last tower on Sunday was St. Mary's, Ely, where ringing for Evensong was half-muflled owing to the recent death of the Dean's wife. The most effective ringing here was the service touch of Grandsire Triples rung in whole pulls. Sunday night was spent at Ely Youth Hostel, an old Army camp situated at Witchford.
On Monday the weather took a turn for the worse and capes and sou'westers were the order of the day. After a long push to Mildenhall, Cambridge and Yorkshire Royal and good Grandsirc Caters were rung. At Bury St. Edmunds Cathedral the bells were found a little more tricky, and the Grandsire and Stedman Caters needed careful listening. The route to Elveden was through the King s. Forest, which, according to the road signs, was inhabited by deer, but none was seen. The ringing at Elveden included Stedman Triples and a good course of Bristol, and at Thetford a good course of Rutland, rounded off ringing for the day. Thefford Youth Hostel proved to be an old railway station, where the warden's morning wakening cry was "All change on number three platform." coupled with the loud blowing of a guard's whistle.
The first tower on Tuesday was St. Mary's, Kenninghall, where the ringing was disrupted for some minutes whilst a broken rope was hastily spliced. There followed the shortest ride of the tour, only one and a half miles to Quidenham, where Ealing was successfully accomplished but an attempt at four-spliced Surprise Major came to grief. After lunch. the 12 cwt six at Attleborough provided some good six-bell ringing, when Norwich Surprise Minor and Orpheus Doubles were rung. The last tower of the day before the hostel at Norwich was Hethersett, where an attempt at four-spliced once again came to grief. However. Grandsire and Oxford Bob Triples. were both successfully accomplished. On arrival at the hostel it was found that the warden's bark was worse than her bite and 2. most enjoyable evening was spent by all, at a cost of 3 d . per head.

\section*{LIGHTENED BICYCLES}

On Wednesday morning the weather seemed uncertain of itself. perhaps uncertain of the projected route, which proved to be a circle, returning for a second night at Norwich. This meant that lightened bicycles made cycling easy and, for the first few miles at least the company was very lighthearted. This lightheartedness was enhanced. for eight ringers at any rate. owing to the fact that a touch of six-spliced was successfully brought round at St. Giles' Norwich. Wroxham provided some interesting ringing, where London, Plain Bob. Grandsire and Stedman Doubles and another of Adrienne's specialities, this time "Eternal" Spliced Minor and Doubles, were rung

The next two towers were swapped owing to a wedding, so Marsham was the first. Courses of Bristol and Lincolnshire Surprise Major were rung here. The next hour's ringing was most enjoyably spent on the ten at Aylsham, where a good half-course of Cambridge Royal and Grandsire and Stedman Caters were rung On returning to Norwich another hour was spent on the 12 at St. Peter Mancroft. The Ringing Master here expressed his delight at some good Stedman Cinques and then called this lovely 12 into Whittingtons before calling "Stand" for the day. Some of the company however, their appetites apparently not satiated after the hostel supper. went to the practice at St. George's, Colegate, where they were made very welcome

At the first tower on Thursday, St. Michae! and All Angels. Coslany. the bells were found a little difficult but Stedman Triples went well here and Rutland was brought round. A course of Wembley was successfully negotiated at Loddon but Royal ringing at Beccles did not seem to click, and good Siedman and Grandsire Caters were rung. The last tower of the day was St. Nicholas', Great Yarmouth where good Grandsire and Stedman Cinques and a half-course of Cambridge Maximus were rung. The latter was achieved to everyone's rung. The latter was achieved to everyone's been rung by the Society on tour. The night was spent at Great Yarmouth Youth Hostel. after savouring the delights of the fun fair.

At St. Margaret's. Lowestoft, the first tower on Friday morning. Stedman and Grandsire spliced. Cambridge. Pudsey and Watford were brought round Next was the delightful six at Blythburgh, where the church was crowded with visitors who had come to the flower festival. Needless to say, an audience had soon gathered to witness the ringing of Norwich and Cambridge Surprise Minor. At St. Margaret's, Leiston, a touch of eight-spliced Surprise Major was brought round. Ringing ended on the very good six at Saxmundham, and a very pleasant evening, though not al. ways peaceful. was spent at Blaxhall Youth Hostel
On Saturday the week-enders started to arrive in their cars ta assist with the ringing. Wickham Market and Bredfield, the two morning towers, provided a variety of six-bell ringing but this was not thought to have brought on the rain. London Royal was brought round at Grundisburgh in the afternoon, also by the touring band. though the:e was a little prompting by the week-enders in certain cases. Cambridge Royal and a ladies' course of Stedman Caters were also rung here. The lovely eight at Woodbridge provided the heaviest bells of the day, which must have been somewhat of a surprise. because the ringing here did not really do justice to the bells.

\section*{LUXURY}

On completion of the day's ringing, 20 bicycles hurried towards Ipswich and the unbelievable luxury of a hotel, a hot bath and a sumptuous dinner. At the meeting which followed the dinner the president was elected to take the chair and, having been installed and decorated with his badge of office, called upon the Ringing Master, who gave his report of the week's ringing. Discussion of the venue of the 1967 reunion then took place. when it was decided to go to Reading. This was chosen as a central meeting place to try and attract older members to discuss the Society's 21st tour. to be held in 1967, when it is hoped that some special arrangements can be made.

Sunday was another day of service ringing in and around Ipswich, the morning towers heing St. Clement's. St. Margaret's, St. Matthew's and St. Mary-le-Tower's, with St. Andrew's, Rushmere, and St. Mary-le-Tower's in the evening. It was here that the Society had the honour of ringing Cambridge Maximus with C. J. Sedgley and G. E. Symonds, two famous names from the Ipswich of 40 years ago.
An extraordinary meeting was held on Sunday evening, when it was decided that an extra reunion would be held in Leicester in November in order that the number of reunions could catch up with the number of tours. so that the 21 st reunion would follow the 21st tour
The Bank Holiday Monday was the last day of the tour, the first tower containing the ten at Stonham Aspal. There followed the lovely eight at Lavenham with some good ringing to whet appetites for lunch. The final tower of the tour was at Long Melford. where the band seemed to diminish very rapidly after every touch.
The final "goodhyes" were said with the feeling that this was indeed a memorable tour and with the hope for a bright future.
Thanks are due to incumbents and local ringers. Special thanks are due to the Ringing Master. Roger Astmore for his competent handling of the ringing. which made the tour most enjoyable for everyone

TARZAN.

\section*{Oxford Diocesan Guild Appoint Stewards}

TO represent the Guild at Branch meetings, the Oxford Diocesan Guild at its autumn general meeting at Wantage on October 1st decided to appoint Branch stewards. These would represent the Guild at its respective meetings.
The Master (the Rev. C. Eliot Wigg), who presided, reported on the meeting of the subcommittee appointed to consider this matter, which recommended their introduction.

Supporting the suggestion. Mr. Foster advocated naming them "Assistant Masters."
The hon secretary (Miss Marie R. Cross): For me, this means something else, too!

The meeting finally decided to call them "Guild Stewards," and first appointments to July. 1967 were:- Wunt (Newbury).-Reading Sonning. N. Berks and Newbury Branches.

Mr. H. Oglesby (Hitcham).-E. Berks and S. Bucks. Chiltern, Central Bucks and Sonning Branches.
Mr. J. Baldwin (Wantage).-Vale of the White Horse. N. Berks. Newbury. Oxford. Witney and Woodstock Branches.
A nomination has yet to be received for the Central and Northern Branches.

\section*{GRANTS}

Longeot.-After Mr. C. R. Miles had put in a very strong plea for a grant to this tower as an incentive to get something done. it was decided to make a provisional grant of \(£ 50\) provided that a firm estimate for the work was obtained during the next 12 months.
Theale.-A report on this tower was made by one of the young Theale band, which had the task of raising \(£ 560\). A grant of \(£ 50\) was made with the best wishes of the Guild.

Bierton.-In reply to a question put by Mr . D. Wheeler. the Deputy Master replied that some action was being taken.
SUPPORT OF "THE RINGING WORLD"
The proposal of Mr. A. D. Barker (general treasurer) to make a grant of \(£ 40\) provoked a discussion During the debate it was explained that the original grant had been made to help tide the paper over a difficult period.
The hon secretary pointed out that the Guild, since 1960, had given over ten per cent. of its working money to the paper.

Mr. W. Butler commented that the best way o help was for each to get another subscriber. He proposed that a nominal grant of £5 be made for this year. This was seconded by Mr. Cantwell and carried
Mr. W. G. Wilson, on behalf of "The Ringing World" Committee, thanked the Guild.

REPORTS TO BE ABRIDGED
Suggestions were invited by Mr, P. Walker (Editor) for the 1966 Guild Report. Mr. W. Birmingham produced a report in which the peals had been recorded by photostat and asked if this might be possible. Mr. Walker replied by quoting figures and said it was as costly and not as satisfactory as the present method.
The hon. treasurer said the Report cost 7s. 6 d . per copy to produce and Guild and nonmembers only paid 2 s . 6d, a copy. The balance was met from members' subscriptions.

Mrs. J. Rance proposed that the Report be printed in an abridged form not to exceed £36. and this was carried.
The Deputy Master (Mr. F. Sharpe) thanked Mr. W. G. Wilson for producing the duplicated reports, and the Editor for his excellent repart for 1964-65.

\section*{ALTERATIONS TO RULES}

Among the alterations to rules adopted was hat Guild officers must be nominated six weeks befor: the annual general meeting in writing to the general secretary, but existing officers might nominate themselves for reelection without other nomination. The making of grants has been referred to the General Committee with the request that their recommendations be referred to the annual or mendations be referred to the annual or general meetings. Alsn referred back to the next year's subscription should not he placed on the agenda of the annual general meeting unless a motion had been submitted for its alteration.

CONFIDENCE IN COMMITTEE
Mr. A. Diserens spoke concerning the discussions which went on at general meetings after the general committee had made recommendations. The general committee did not make any recommendations without careful thought and discussion. He asked the members to have confidence in their committee members after they had elected them.
A grant of \(£ 5\) was made to the Churchill peal board and the election of three members of the Washington, D.C.. band before a peal was ratified.
Proposing the vote of thanks, Mr. K. Leach thanked the Wantage ringers for their arrangements, and the ladies who prepared tea. The Vicar (the Rev. J. H. Schaufelberger), who preached at the Festival Evensong, and the choir and blind organist, "whose wonderthe choir and blind organist, "whose wonderthe congregation along," were also thanked.
An invitation by Mr. A. Diserens to hold the autumn meeting for 1967 at Reading was accepted.

\section*{Witney and Woodstock Branch}

About 60 members and visitors attended the autumn meeting of the Witney and Woodstock Branch at Woolton on October 15th. The Rev. L. C. Perfect in his address at the service gave a short history of bells and their modern uses, of their insistence and of ringers becoming messengers.

Mr. Perfect, who presided at the meeting following tea in the absence of the Branch chairman. hoped it would not be too long before the Branch again visited Woolton. A discussion took place on the 1967 programme. It is hoped to hold the competition in Lechlade tower and so make a "day out" if it is well supported! Eleven new members were elected, ten being from Ducklington, a six-bell tower. This is a newly-formed band. six-bell tower, This is a newly-formed band.

Evening ringing was at Wootton and Tacklev.

\section*{WATFORD RINGERS ENJOY THE COTSWOLDS}

The lovely Cotswold country has proved a great attraction to ringers of the Watford District of the Herts Association this year.
On a perfect day in early summer the Watford Parish Church band, accompanied by a few ringing and non-ringing friends, visited and rang at Chipping Norton, Stow-on-theWold (where a very satisfying lunch was also partaken of), Blockley, Broadway (looking at its best) and Moreton-in-Marsh: tea here, with a call at Banbury on the way home. Ringing to suit all capabilities from rounds to Cambridge Royal. Thanks to Dennis Laud for a well-planned day out.

The venue of the District outing not yet decided, a unanmous wish to revisit this area was gratified and, on October 1st, with Don Bartholomew again at the wheel, the coach headed for Cheltenham, where Cyril Wratten and Valerie Willard met the party. Several had their first pull on 12 here. Stedman Cinques left a little to be desired but Grandsire went well on these bells, voted by all a good 12 for their weight. Lunch at Doris's Café. then to Bishop's Cleeve. Prestbury, and Burford, with tea at the Cotswold Arms
As the shadows lengthened. Witney Church in its spacious serting was the last call. A feature of this outing was that all churches visited had central towers. As in the first trip, ringing was arranged to suit all, and in the eight-bell towers a special method for the day was Watford Surprise Major. Many thanks to Geoff Seaman, District secretary, for all the arrangements and to Cyril Wratten for invaluable help.

\section*{BELFRY GOSSIP}

Miss Williams and Miss Barnes have reluctantly given up active ringing after many years of faithful service at Christchurch Priory. We note from the District newsletter four or five recruits are in training to seplace them.
The peal of 43 Doubles at Little Missenden, Bucks, on October 16 th was Mr. A. K. Fortin's 50th tower for a peal. The peal was also rung to mark the end of the Little Missenden Arts Festival.
Mr. D. Ellisdon calis attention to a heading in the "Daily Telegraph" of October 19th: " \(£ 2.500\) Tower Grab," and adds. "I assume this is not the start of a third "Great Adventure.'
Mr. Gordon Lane rang his 100 th peal at the Bell Foundry Campanile on October 11th. and not on September 13th, as submitted for publication in the issue of October 7th. The ringer of the seventh in the peal was David, and not Daniel F. Moore

A peal attempt was proposed at Painswick on October 22nd with John Chilcott as conductor. but in view of the Aberfan disaster the band decided, after consultation with the Vicar, to ring a half-muffled quarter peal of Stedman Cinques as a mark of respect to those who lost their lives

\section*{MR. IAN H. ORAM'S 500th PEAL}

Mr. Ian H. Oram, the peal secretary of the Kent County Association, rang his 500th peal at Bromley Common on Thursday. September 15th. The method, Lincolnshire Surprise Major, was conducted by one of his teenage pupils.

Ian's first peal was at Hordle. Hampshire. in 1954, when he rang the treble to four Minor methods, conducted Mr. A. Patrick Cannon. Since then Ian has called peals in Minor up to 42 Surprise methods and Major up to 10. all the work. He will always ring and call from the last bell left. His peal total so far this year is 56
Over 400 of his peals were rung for the Kent County Association. In ringing peals in nearly 200 towers in the county he has rung over 50 at St. John's, Erith, over 25 at West Wickham, and more than anybody else at his home tower at the Church of the Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin Mary, Chislehurst, where he is captain.
Good luck and congratulations.
T.L.

\section*{ONLY TWO RETURNED AFTER 30 YEARS}

On October 8th the Framsden and District party made their half-day trip to Lincolnshire. when ringing ranged from rounds to threespliced at Surfleet, Pinchbeck and Spalding.

Pinchbeck visitors book records that the Helmingham company visited these towers in 1936. when a bounteous tea was enjoyed on the lawn of Glyn Garth. Unfortunately, only Bill Button and Les Brett were left to enjov the return visit Again an excellent tea was served at Surfleet by local ringer Charles Rawding.

To the delight of all, Mrs. Richardson was able to join the party, as also was that exSuffolk peal enthusiast, tearaway Ted Chapman. who so ably assisted in making this trip so successful.

To Ron Noon, who met us at Spalding, and the incumbents, our many thanks. It is hoped our East Coast friends get in a few hours' sleep.

\section*{FROM REJOICING TO MOURNING}

The peal at Cannock, Staffs, was originally arranged as a wedding compliment to Michael W. Fairey (Pinging Master of the Society for the Archdeaconry of Stafford) and Miss Anthea C Richards, who were married at Little Aston. Stafis, on the same date, but due to the Aberfan disaster it was felt only right and proper that the peal be rung half-muffled as a mark of respect for the victims.

\section*{LEICESTERSHIRE HALF-DAY}

Thurnby, Leicestershire, ringers were joined by friends from Billesdon and Humberstone for an afternoon's ringing in Northamptonshire on September 17th. Bells were rung at Dingley. Brampton Ash and Stoke Albany before tea. and Islip and Lowick after tea. At Brampton our usual fine of one penny per stroke was waived when it was discovered that something was clogging the works of the tenor and it could not be set. The best ringing of the afternoon was at Islip. The anti-clockwise ring at Lowick was a new experience to many of the party.
Methods ranged from Plain Bob to Cambridge, with rounds for learners.

CULHAM, OXON, BELLS SILENT
The architect came recently to St. Paul's Church, Culham to inspect the bell frame and the tower He found that the damage to both was fairly extensive and he informed us that ringing would have to cease. The College and the village hope that this temporary silence will not continue for more than a year, but as yet we do not know how long the restoration will take Visitors to the area will therefore have to pass Culham by. at least for the time being.

Ringing at the Parish Church was carried out by the Culham College Society of Change Ringers, who now hold their practice at Milton on Fridays at \(7.45 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}\). Service ringing is on Sundity at Milton at 10.30 a.m. during term time only. Visitors are most welcome and arc asked to get in touch with our secretary. D. R. Baxter., J.C.R., Culham College. Abingdon. Berkshire, to tell us when they are coming.
M. J. H.

\section*{Mr BARCOMBE'S CHURCHES}
rung S. Brook writes correcting the peal rung at Barcombe, Sussex, on page 581 . The dedication should be St. Mary not SS. Mary and Bartholomew, and the tenor weight 9 cwt. 2 lb . not 7 cwt 2 gr .9 lb . St. Bartholomew's Church is at the other end of the parish. with only one bell. He suggests that the mistake arose from R. H. Dove's " Church Bells of Britain."

\section*{GEDLING TOWER CAPTAIN IN} HOSPITAL
We are sorry to hear that Mr. J. Dawson, captain at Gedling. Notts, tower, is ill in hospital. At the last meeting of the Bingham District at Shelford it was reported that he had had his operation and was feeling much hetter. Miss Ruth Blackman. the hon. secretary has sent the District's best wishes to him for a speedy recovery.

\section*{POTTON'S EXAMPLE OF MODERN} YOUTH
An enthusiastic group of young people (all under 20) have more or less taught themselves how to ring at Potton, Beds. With no older ringers to guide them and the village situated away from any centre of ringing, they have proved that they have the enthusiasm and ahility to make up for what may be lacking locally.
It says much for their enthusiasm when most would have given up, just by the "go" and tone of Potton bells.
They are all regular attenders at the Association District meetings. and that is not an easy task as the village is on the extreme eastern county border, and public transport renders no great assistance.

Well done, we say. and keep on trying. Let's hope they receive the encouragement they deserve.

\section*{SMART WORK FROM HEREFORDSHIRE}

Ten months after his first bell-handling lesson, S. B. Bell (age 17), of Bank Crescent, Ledbury, conducted his first quarter peal. It was one of Doubles in four methods (Plain Bob. Reverse Canterbury Pleasure, Grandsire and April Day). The quarter peal was rung at Eastnor. Herefordshire, on October 18th to commemorate the 900th anniversary of the Battle of Senlac.

\section*{UNIQUE EVENT IN YORK}

In pleasant contrast to the many complaints of the "noise" of bells, York Minster Society of Change Ringers has been entertained to dinner by one who "did enjoy the Minster bells" An invitation was received from Sir Christopher Furness, Bart. in September, for the members of the Society to have dinner with him after practice on October 18 th. Eighteen of the twenty active members were able to accept.
Sir Christopher, accompanied by his son, Captain Furness, met the ringers in the belfry and watched the ringing of Grandsire Cinques and Grandsire and Stedman Caters. Captain Furness went up to see the bells and later studied Wilfrid Wilson's "Change Ringing." This ringing coincided with the golden jubilee festival service of St. Luke's Parish Church, West Hartlepool. which Sir Christopher knew in his childhood when it was no more than a "tin tabernacle." St. Luke's has no bells, but Sir Christopher's love for them began with the 21 cwt. ten in the neighbouring Church of St. Oswald.
Practice usually finishes at 8.30 p.m. but Sir Christopher asked for the bells to be lowered a few minutes earlier to allow time tor a drink before dinner at 8.30. Sir Christopher, among his many and varied interests. is a railway enthusiast: the menus were printed on coloured postcards of a locomotive, Warship Class Type 4 2,200 h.p. Diesel-hydraulic. The main item on the menu was turkey cooked in gin.

Reference to Debrett had disclosed it was Sir Christopher's birthday. After a short speech of thanks and good wishes. the president presented him with a print of the south front of the Minster, signed by all those present. and four members rang a course of Grandsire Triples on handbells.

To close the party. Sir Christopher asked for what he called "the national anthem ot Yorkshire "-. On Ilkla Moor bar t'at." The rendering may have been more enthusiastic than musical, but it went through all eight verses, It was not Sir Christopher's first acquaintance with ringers; he said he had entertained the Truro ringers some years ago.

The York Minster Society is greatly indebted to him for a most enjoyable evening.
M. E. W.

\section*{BADGE WINNERS AT BASINGSTOKE}

Two Girl Guides and two Boy Scouts who have been trained at St. Michael's. Basingstoke, have been awarded the bellringer's badge. They are Ruth Taylor (15), Jean Taylor (12), Peter Mart (13) and Timothy Mart (12).

Mr. Andrew Taylor, who acted as examiner. found that the Girl Guide badge test was much stiffer than that laid down for the Boy Scouts. and some knowledge and practice of change ringing was required. In the case of the Bov Scouts, change ringing is part of the senior bellringer's badge. The successful candidates were pictured at the ropes in the "Hants and Berks Gazette."

\section*{IN MEMORIAM PEAL AT WEST DOWN}

The recent peal of Stedman Doubles at West Down (page 673) was rung as an " in memoriam" peal to the late William Phillips. uncle of the tenor ringer, who was for manv years a ringer at St. Woolos' Cathedral, Newport. Mon.

\section*{PETER MANCROFT 1966 OUTING}

Dereham, Swaffham. Narborough, Lynn,
Another journey we begin
To where a ring of ten we ring,
St. Mary's, Melton Mowbray.
Centuries old Sanctus bell.
Carillon that chimes as well,
Four-foot thick "Norman" walls that tel Of ancient history.
On then to where the bell has birth, From mould and core and factory earth, Small bells, bells of greater girth,
Are made and tuned in Loughborough.
"Their sound has gone out into all lands," Their bells are rung by many hands In towers and steeples by varied bands, Surprise methods and changes.
The parish church with ring of ten,
Peal boards recording feats of men,
Stedman Caters a record when Eighteen thousand changes were rung. \((18,027\).)
Mount Sorrell. "St. Peter's," a good rint of eight.
Sileby "St. Mary's," its history great,
The Vicar there met us and facts did relate, While the bells were merrily ringing.
Another day had come to its close;
Before it ended, a thought for those Who worked, arranged all and the route chose:
Our grateful thanks to all.
D. L. M.

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

\section*{"THE PEAL IS A SACRED COW!"}

\(B^{\text {R }}\)ROWSING through some past "Ringing World's", it is evident that there is repeated trouble from the public about our ringing. The curse of it to the nonringing fraternity is partly the noise level, but more especially the length of time which bell-ringers ring when ringing goes on for hours on end as in a peal.
What are some of the facts? Most towers are in the middle of built-up areas - as we would expect churches to be. Peals take anything from two and a half hours to three and a half hours or more. The ringing fraternity itself is conscious of the noise level, or else efforts would not be made in some towers to erect shuttering, brickingup, using sound-absorbing material, and the various devices for reducing the noise level. Why, at the Loughborough Bell Foundry, I understand all this is so effective that the bells cannot even be heard outside. It's a bit like putting a 100 watt electric bulb inside an opaque shade!
There must be thousands and thousands of folks who enjoy our bells, but haven't the faintest idea of the mechanics of composition. No repetition of a change, or an "extent", means nothing to them. They couldn't care less. But they do appreciate rounds, the going into changes, and the coming into rounds again before stopping. In fact, they appreciate the "touch", though they probably don't know that that is what it is called. When bells go on ringing for hours on end, with, to them, no particular reason, they get thoroughly fed up. Peals may well have done more harm than good! No wonder incumbents are pestered. No wonder incumbents oft-times restrict ringing to 45 or 60 minutes, peals to one a year, or even no peals at all.

What is the prime cause of all this? It is simply that today, as in the past, we accept the peal as requiring 5,040 changes on seven bells or less, 5,000 (or more) on eight bells or more. What a pity that the 720 was never regarded as the peal! And what good fortune that 40,320 is beyond the range of most! To many ringers, the peal is a selfish achievement at the expense of the outside world. And what is there in it after all? It is mainly a feat of endurance. I've done it several times myself, and each time I do it I wonder why I bow down to such conservatism. For we stubbornly hang on to the tradition of our forefathers, regardless of the public interest.
How pedantic to select 5,000 changes as the minimum for any peal on eight or more bells. 5,040 would have had some reason behind it. But then, some peals go on to 5,200 plus. There is no limit. The issue is purely one of endurance. In that respect I see little difference between pole squatters, or people who spend months alone in a cave, and peal ringers.
Don't think I am entirely against such feats. As a glider pilot possessing a "Silver C" certificate and badge, amongst the things I had to do was to remain airborne in a glider for a minimum of five hours. Crazy you might say, especially when I tell you I did this in the bitter cold in Germany, in an open cockpit, mid January. But then, this interfered with no one, and was purely my own affair.

Peal ringers can do what they like in battened-up towers, isolated towers, or in homes with handbells, or anywhere where they are not a nuisance to others. It's all due to the slavish acceptance of the 5,000 or more. The peal is a sacred cow!

Wouldn't it be more sensible to pin our peals to a 720 . or even a 1.260 , and be hanged to the 5.000 (except behind bars)? Let it be noted that there are half as many quarter peals again as peals published in "The Ringing World." And just why should a peal in "The Ringing World" take up three and a half times the space of a quarter-peal, just because it carried on four times as long, and was probably eight times the nuisance?
What about it all?
REBELLIOUS.

\section*{Worcestershire & Districts Assn. Dinner}

SATURDAY, October 22nd, was not only the date of the annual dinner of the Worcestershire Association but was also the last day of Summer Time. It is becoming something of a tradition to hold this even on that day-the advantages of having it so need no explaining!

The, dinner was again held in the Co-operative Hall, Worcester, and was attended by 127 members and friends, including visitors from Bournemouth and Leicester. This hal! has been the venue for the past six years but redevelopment plans make it seem likely that another hall will have to be found for next year.

One of the features of the Worcester dinner is that speeches are kept to a minimum and, following the loyal toast, the Rev. J. G. Barnish. R.D., rose to propose the toast of "The Association." Mr. Barnish is Rector of All Saints'. Worcester and is also Diocesan Director of Religlous Education. Remarking that bellringing is part of our national heritage and that no church is complete without a ring of bells, he said that today people are very concerned with freedom. Before he came to Worcester he was Vicar of Cleeve Prior. and there he had found that the parishioners had also been very concerned with freedom three centuries ago when, during the time that it was illegal to have church bells rung, they had gone ahead and ordered four new bells from Bromsgrove.

\section*{MEMBERSHIP}

Mr. Barnish also referred to some points from the secretary's report for the previous year and said that members must not he complacent that the Association had a membershif of over 500 . As the secretary had pointed out, there were over 1.000 hells in the area and if all were to be rung there should be many more members.

Replying to the toast, the Rev. H. L Davies. chaplain to the Association. also stressed the need for new members. He said that on: of the features of bellringing was the way it attracted people from all walks of life and of all ages. Mr. Davies went on to sav that he was glad that the Rector of All Saints' had been invited because it gave the Association an opportunity of thanking him for the way in which his church and bells were always at their disposal for the annual service each Easter Monday.

The only other toast was "The Chairman." this position being occupied by the Association's president. the Very Rev R. L. P Milburn. Dean of Worcester. The toast was proposed by the Master of the Association. Mr. W. B Cartwright. who said that once again it was his duty to thank the Dean for his interest and the help he gave them.

\section*{COMING HOME}

In his reply. the Dean said that members would probably be interested to hear that he had now retrieved one of the early Cathedral bells which had been disposed of to various places in the country in the last century, when the new ring of 12 was installed. This particular bell had gone to Holy Trinity, Worcester, now a redundant church, and so the bell had come back home again. It was interesting to link this with Mr. Barnish's remarks earlier in that this bell came from almost the same period It was dated 1640 and inscribed Cod Save The King -the King being Charles 1. beheaded in 1649 . As to the bell's future now that it was back it would probably go on show.
After the interval the company was entertained. Traditionally the first item is change ringing on handbells, and L. J. Haines. M. R. Ashmore, D. G. Franklin and D. Beacham rang courses of Bob Major, Grandsire Triples and "Scalded Witch." This was followed by John Hinton playing tunes on his boxed handbells, and then John's 10-year-old son Philio gave a short piano recital. Following this, the professionals took over. and Eric Williams, and his party kept the company amused for a further 45 minutes.

\section*{SURREY ASSOCIATION AID TO LEARNERS}

\section*{THE SURREY ASSOCIATION is no stranger} in the realm of teaching learners. Assistance to struggling towers has been given in the form of special monthly practices. in some cases ranging over several years. The Association provides an instructor and a team of competent ringers to assist the local band. In this way some eight towers have been helped
This year a committee of the Northern District, Mr. Christopher Mew, saw a need for instruction in the theoretical side of change ringing. He undertook to give a course of six lectures on elementary change ringing.

The series followed this pattern:-
(1) First steps: Plain hunting, methods and principles, method construction. the lead. place notation.
(2) Method construction, the plain course, transposition of lead-ends
(3) The nature of the bob, the effect of the bob. types of bob. position of bob, subsequent work.
(4) The single, coursing order, conductingposition of calls, "observation" bells and position; writing down simple touches, text book styles.
(5) Results of calls, transpositions, simple touches.
(6) Types of compositions, simple proof of Bob Major, aids to ringing, bibliography, test paper.
The lectures took place in the Vestry Hall at Putney on consecutive Wednesdays in September and October each session lasting for about \(1 \frac{1}{2}\) hours. Diagrams and figures were written out on kitchen paper. previously ruled into squares, and a blackboard was used. This appeared to make points made in the lecture more clear. Squared paper was provided for the pupils to carry out exercises. Duplicated notes were distributed covering all aspects of the lectures and, when made up in the folder, provided a useful and comprehensive manual of reference.
The attendance at the lectures was most gratifying: thirty-eight different people attended from 13 towers. Ten persons attended all six lectures. A short test was given at the end of the course and one-third of the papers scored 80 per cent. or over: the top mark was gained by a lady ringer- 95 per cent.
These lectures have undoubtedly been a success and the Surrey Association is most grateful to Mr. Mew for the time and effort he has put into them.

\section*{REDEDICATION}

\section*{LECHLADE GLOS}

THE rededication of the rehung ring of six at St. Lawrence's Church, Lechlade, was performed by the Bishop of Gloucester on Saturday. October 22nd, in the presence of a large congregation which included ringers from a dozen lowers, one party having made the journey from Bedford. The Loughborough Foundry was represented by Mr. J. P. Fidler.
After the choir, clergy, churchwardens and Bishop had entered in procession during the singing of "O Worship the King," the Vicar (the Rev. H. R. Radeliffe-Cox) welcomed the visitors and thanked all those who made it possible to carry out the work.
The service included Psalm 122 and wellknown hymns. which were sung with great gusto. "Lifted high within the steeple." set to the tune "Austria," went particularly well.
Immediately following the dedication prayers a touch of Grandsire Doubles was rung under the direction of Mr. W. F. Scudamore, Association Ringing Master. The band included Mr W. Godwin (Ringing Master, Cirencester Branch). the other members being local ringers.
One group of prayers was led by the Rev. F. F. Rigby, Rector of Bromsberrow and chairman of the Association. The collection swelled the Bell Restoration Fund by \(£ 1910 \mathrm{~s}\).

After the service, refreshments were served in the school by the ladies of the P.C.C., following which the ringers returned to the towe and kept the bells going until 7 p.m. All agreed that Messis. Taylors had done an excellent job both in improving the "go "of the beils and in mellowing their tone.

On the previous evening a most successful dance was held in the Memorial Hall in aid of the Bell Restoration Fund. A profit of \(£ 40\) was realised and a draw, for which nearly 3.000 tickets were sold, brought in a further £70. Coupled with the draw was a competition for guessing the total weight of the bells in pounds. A sealed envelope from the foundry was opened and the weight was anncunced as 5,943 lbs. The winner was Mr. Mike Cook. tower secretary of All Saints'. South Cerney, who was only 1 lb . short We were all surprised to know that the tenor, which has been reckoned to weigh varying amounts from \(14 t \mathrm{cwt}\) to \(17 \mathrm{cwt}\). does in

\section*{SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD}

\section*{Marlborough Branch}

The October meeting of the Marlborough Branch was held jointly at the two Ogbournes, St. Andrew and St. George, on the 22nd. In the unavoidable absence of the Ringing Master (the Rev. R. Keeley), the ringing was under the direction of Mr, F. Read (viceman), and visitors were present from Nailsea and Backwell (Somerset). Stratton St. Margaret. Swindon and the Royal Air Force, Wroughton. Unfortunately after an hour's ringing the treble clapper came adrift and, breaking the slider in the process, brought the proceedings to an abrupt close.
After the Guild service. conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. H. W. Dunn), move was made to Ogbourne St. George, where tea had been provided in the Village Hall.
Thanks were expressed by the chairman (Mr. G. Newman) to the Vicar, the organist (Mr. Wiltshire) and, not least, to Mr. and Mrs. White and their tea helpers.
Ringing was resumed on St. George's heavy five until 7.30 p.m., this bringing an eventful afternoon and evening to a very wet end.

\section*{College of Campanology's 10 years of Usefulness to Exercise}
"Pro Deo et Ecclesia"
NOTICE, in a recent issue's advertisement columns, of the dissolution of the College of Campanology, evokes not only a sense of regret but also an attempted review of what this society of ringing people may have meant to the Exercise.

Born ter years ago in a surge of optimism the College sought. by practical means, to institute a remedy for what was being recognised by many conscientious ringers of that time as no longer tenable; namely, the lack of rational and more carefully detailed ways of ringing training, especiallv with the increase in practice of more complex ringing methods.
The project was envisaged almost simultaneously in Eire and in Britain; but, as the latter's Press invitation came out first. Irish support was generously given to it.
The proposed College had three main ob-
(a) The collection of up-to-date information on all theoretic and technical aspects of ringing, for dissemination in lectures, pamphlets and book form: this last being planned as the nine "Parts.
(b) The raising of standards of training by definitive demonstration, by affiliaion of Ringing Schools and by courses of instruction of three kinds:-
(i) The One-day Instructors'
(ii) The Week-end All-grades Residential Course.
(iii) The Three-monthly Serial c) The building up of "Panels" of Tutors and Examiners, through whom the standards could be maintained, and certificates of proficiency awarded as desired
Invitations were issued, both by letter and through the columns of "The Ringing World." to join those putting forward this project in drawing up a constitution for, and estab. lishing, the proposed College. To arouse immediate interest a draft script of "Part One" of the proposed Manual was submitted to "The Ringing, World." and comment. constructive criticism and suggestions were invited from the Exercise generally.
Unfortunately one or two well-known ringers look the (mistaken) view that the provisional rough draft was to be set up as "The Law of the Medes and Persians that altereth not "for ringing: and that the College would be some sort of body of opposition. Indeed there was some attempted ridicule in reference to the proposed certificates of proficiency (similar to those issued by many Ringing Associations) as "speech day presentations of parchments tied up in ribbon. In fact the College has certificate awards-the tests being clear-cut. and the purpose-maintenance of set standards. However, the College has awarded for meritorious service four honorary fellowships

The ultimately adopted constitution of the College of Campanology" demonstrated the fallacy of the initial criticism. Ringing is, of course, a voluntary service, just as has been the service for the College of all its or tests Far from being "in opposition" in any sense, the College claims to have endeavoured to be co-operative, for example in the arranging of courses in any given ringing area together with the local bodies.

FIRST RESIDFNTIAL WEEK-END
The first residential week-end was that at Dillington House. Somerset, run in conjunction with the local education authority. It made ringing history, in so far as it has proved to be the "parent" of the now well-established form of week-end ringing course, often organised entirely locally
A direct development of one of the College week-end courses was an invitation from the Director of the Royal College of Music to confer as to their proposal to introduce Campanology into the College syllabus. The Principal had a discussion with the Director and his Registrar, and was able to offer several proposals which the College of Music noted for consideration. and expressed great interest therein. Future action was bound up with the Director's visit to the U.S.A.. however and remained "under consideration."

Another request for guidance was from the Boy Scouts' Association in regard to proficiency badges in bell ringing. In complying the College made reference also to the Central Council as an advisory body.

\section*{AN INDICATION OF WORK}

For several years the College called for fairly detailed reports annually from its members. and from these was compiled an annual or triennial return, appropriately. The following particulars, are taken from the last rendered return. i.e. end of second triennial period: Correspondents (local representatives) 20; tutors 36; examiners 12; College officer in 35 counties in Great Britain. Northern Ireland and Eire: also in Southern Rhodesia Tanganyika, U.S.A. Australia and New Zealand Affiliated Schools of Ringing 5 (to that date - ); Learners instructed 736 : Beginners helped 542 ; Locations or centres of instruction active 16 : Courses run by the College and/or individual members 48 Recommendations to promote College activity 213.

Talks (not courses) including broadcasts on ringing subjects 163 ; Special efforts to promote Sunday service ringing (specified in the constitution of the College) reported as wel distributed: Tower irspections and reports by College consultants and members 143. One or two bell augmentations reported as directly due to members' advice and 'or perseverance The issue of leaflets on college work, publications and courses has proved helpful. Part I of the Manual series has run through two editions and inquiries are reported as still being made conceming it Entitled "Bell Handling and Control in the Elements of Change Ringing, it is a compendium of ex. perience of several leading ringers and tutors Introducing some quite new "mechanics" in ringing training it shows how instruction in bell control and in method ringing can be given effectively before any specific method Itself is attempted. Part II-"Method Structure in Change Ringing " is patently unique in its coverage and treatment of this sub ject. High praise has been reported in these columns from leading figures of the Exercise (Vol. Ixii. 1966, pages 339 and 490 .) Experts in their various fields had promised to contribute to the remaining seven parts, but some are no longer with us and others have not found the time. (The remaining parts were planned as: III-" Introduction to Method Ringing on Tower Bells": IV-"Handbell Change Ringing ": V-_ Composition and Proof ; VI-"Calling and Conducting"; VII-" Belfry "The Art of the Carillon ": IX-" Historical, Bells, Towers, Records"). However, arrange ments have heen made for continuance of dis tribution of current editions and of any future issues on this plan

The foregoing factors and others, including the Founder-Principal's intended retirement and the real difficulty in securing the voluntary scrvice of younger people to carry on the work, led the Administrative Committee to approach the College Governors (12) and active members and affiliated schools for a policy decision. The conclusion was that it might be preferable to effect dissolution of the College now. while those experienced in handling its gffairs are still in office. So this was the decision. the "official " notice (referred to above) making immediate dissolution effective. Three members of the College Administrative Committee are to continue to "stand by" until the end of 1966 to deal with any outstanding matter that might arise It is understood that any (necessarily small) it is understood that any (hecessarily smani) financial accounts of the College is to bo offered as a donation to the funds of "The Ringing World." It is intended to offer to the Central Council for its archives a portfolio of papers giving information as to the foundation and activities of the College during the ten years of its life. And points from its didactic experience and results are to be at the disposal of the Sunday Service and Education Committee of the Central Council, on request at any time up to the end of 1966.
Looking back it may be asked "Has it all been worth the effort?" It has been honoured by a Bishop as its patron, and a world-famous ringer as its first president. Its 12 governors have included some of the bestknown ringing personalities in the Exercise, while its members include some in various parts of the Commonwealth. The following unsolicited extract comments are indicative:

\section*{TRIBUTES}

When it (the College) no longer exists they (the Exercise) will realise what they have lost It has given much valuable service, and the work which it has begun will live on afterwards" (Lifelong ringer, tutor and officer of ringing socicties and retired member of Central Council.)

I am sure that the results of (these) great efforts will not just die away. I should be surprised if the high standards (the College) has set have not permeated throughout the country and done much good in that way." (Retired president of a university ringing society and local tower officer.)

In ten short years the College has exercised tremendous influence in the educational and instructional field, and I am sure that the very many who have responded to its challenge have never regretted it. There can be no doubt that the College has won for itself a permanent place in the annals of ringing. ". (Retired officer of Universities Association and of county ringing association.)
And from Canon Gilbert Thurlow. president of the Central Council: "Colleges and Societies of many kinds come into existence to meet a need: they flourish and then inevitably their work is completed. What is of real importance is the lasting value of their work. And undoubtedly the work of this College is of very great lasting value.
To constitute an important step in the pro: gress of any great human art (painting. music, science) is to become part of human history. To be able to say that (one) has made a conribution to history is to say something important I personally am most grateful to you. and I am sure the many who have benefited must be grateful also Senior officers of the College wish to thank publicly all who have supported and encouraged it throughout its life.
A. Y.B.

\section*{LLANDAFF AND MONMOUTH ASSOCIATION \\ Monmouth Branch}

On a warm, sunny, autumn day the last Monmouth Branch meeting of the year was held at Chepstow on October 8th. A large crowd of ringers gathered here from both sides of the River Severn. an area fast becoming known as "Severnside" hecause of the new bridge. Around the tea table was a happy mixture of accents, Welsh mingled with "Forest" and "Somerset."
The choral service was conducted by the Vicar. the Rev. J. Barrie-Evans, and Master Richard Shore read the lesson. One new member, Roger Bastin. of Newport. was elected It was reported that the quarterturning of Bedwellty bells had been completed.
Next meeting: Marshfield, January 14th, 1967.

\section*{SPLICING-SOMETHING NEW}

Sir.-I was most interested in Mr. Lomas's very clear article on splicing. How true the old saying: "Different ships, different long splices"! Though I'd always supposed the reference was to wire, of which I know three different methods.
But though I've been splicing rope for at least 70 years l've never come across Mr. Lamas's finish for a long splice in hemp. The orthodox finish has always seemed a poor show for a bellrope, as it gives three lumps nearlv as big as the single one of a short splice. and it never therefore seemed worthwhile, at the expense of a goot deal of good rope, But Mr. Lomas's finish puts a new complexion on it and completely overcomes this handicap. I'd be interested to know whence he got it Did he invent it or has it been passed down or does it appear in any book?
My one doubt would have been as 10 whether it would not require serving over. But obviously the author has complete knowledge of it and seen it in action, and indeed my criticism applies equally to what one might call the old standard method of finish. Halved and quartered ends are likely to pull out on a bell rope and from the very nature of Mr. Lomas's finish, where there is no direct pull on the half strands, this is less likely than in the "orthodox" finish. where the strain is direct Thank you, Mr. Lomas. One is never ton old to learn.-Yours faithfully.

\section*{HALF-MUFFLED RINGING FOR} WEDDING
Dear Sir,-Mr. Peter Pavey asks in "Belfry Gossip" if any other towers besides St. David's, Exeter, have rung half-muffled for a wedding. Long Sutton, Somerset, bells were rung in this fashion about 18 months ago, although the reason for so doing was slightly different from that given at Exeter. A friend of the bride's father was to be buried in the churchyard earlier on the day of the wedding In view of the fact that both burial and wedding were to take place on the same day and in the same church the family asked of the wedding bells could be rung half-muffled. Naturally, permission was given for this to be done.-Yours faithfully.
C. J. B. MARSHALL.

\section*{CONGRATULATIONS, WITH MISSING METHOD QUERY}

Dear Sir,-Since I was the first person to conduct a peal in 100 Minor methods, I would like to congratulate Anthony R. Peake on his achievement in being the first to conduct a peal in 100 Major methods. Also mv congratulations to the rest of the band who made Mr. Peake's feat possible.

1 can only count 99 methods published, so 1 am wondering if one was lost during transit. -Yours truly.

GEORGE E. FEIRN.

\section*{CONFUSION IN COMPOSITIONS}

Dear Sir.-This is the first time that I have written to "The Ringing World "and I put pen to paper in the hope that certain points which confuse me and almost certainly confuse others may be clarified. I find that in many publications, Central Council or otherwise. whilst clear, concise explanations are given of the elementary terms and to some extent of the more complicated. the links between the two are usually dealt with somewhat summarily. Allow me to explain, by some practical examples, what I mean.

A little over three vears ago, three ringers just capable of Plain Bot decided that if they were going to ring peals they would have to form a band and conduct their own. With the help of the "Lancashire" book they found out about coursing orders. It also stated that the best peal to start with is How-lett's:-
\(\mathrm{W}, \mathrm{M}\) and \(5 \mathrm{H}(-\mathrm{S}--\mathrm{S}), 5 \mathrm{H} . \mathrm{W}\) and 5 H twice repeated.
They picked out the lead-ends for this and it did not come round There is a W missing. From "Ropesight," which explains very simply how to set out the course-ends in columns and how to check them, they were able to find where the missing \(W\) went and also to prove it was true.

The above points out the first lesson, never ring a peal without first proving it.

Proof of Plain Bob abounds, but what happens to the proving columns in more ambitious methods like St. Clement's or Yorkshire. where a bob before cuts out leads, not puts them in, and which column do you write the false course-ends in? I have yet to find this explained.

The articles I have read on proof use most of the space deciding if it is false lead-heads or false lead-ends they are trying to find. - Who cares?-call them what you like and explain (with examples) in simple words how to get and use them.
An example of not explaining is taken from a C.C. publication. The Blue Line System of Extracting False Course-heads." This is the one I find easiest to follow on this subject but-page 1 states the user of this system must write out a skeleton course. Why? It it not referred to again. Page 6 says read off the false course-liead." How?

An example now of what can happen to a composition. A gentleman I know is planning to call 5,040 Plain Bob Royal by R. W Pipe ("Ringing World." page 640). He has worked out from a plain course that the calling positions for the tenor are 1: \(9.10 \mathrm{up}, 4\) : make the bob, 5 : run out. 8:7.8. down and 9 : 9.10 down also the 6 without explanation at 9 are all bobs. When \(I\) tried to explain that this was not the way to call this peal I was told that Mr. Pipe knows more about ringing than I will ever know (true). and he would not put in print anything which was wrong, but what will they say when the peal comes round 1762398450?
Mr. Smith is guilty of four unexplained bobs at home ("Ringing World," Dage 50, (1). 5,056 Double Norwich by R. D. Bradley ("Ringing World," page 696), the standard 1.4.5.6. Where is \(H\) and \(O\) and is the " \(X\). a double bob as in Siedman?
I hope these few examples of hard work and confusion may be of some help to the people who write future articles for "The Ringing World."-Yours faithfully, Stafford.
F. BEECH.

\section*{STRUGGLING BEGINNERS}

Dear Sir,-I note with keen interest all that is said about teaching beginners in the coiumns of this journal and elsewhere. Yet near vall seem to present the case of teaching beginners at a tower where there is an abundance of ringers. Why not a thought to a "teacher" to a tower where all the ringers are "beginners"? From personal experience I try and give help at the weekly practices at two towers, usually with the help of another comparatively experienced ringer.

Teaching up to the plain hunt on five is fairly easy-then comes the difficult part. For example, four learners and two "teachers" ringing a plain course of Bob Doubles can sound really terrible-and this after careful explanation and writing out. One struggles on, week after week, until it seems to have been learned. Then, the next step is the 720. You discover that your beginners have been learning the plain course by numbers. (How else, I suppose? Ropesight is impossible in such a situation.)
At both the towers in question there is one thing that I've noticed missing in the so-called experienced towers-and that is a real warmth of fellowship. There is none of that nervous tension-do I really know my London Major "bob" work? Am I striking my bell pro. perly? I enjoy trying to teach at these iwo towers despite the difficulties that are to be overcome. It's worth it, too! The smile of pleasure on the face of one of these beginners when he'd just completed his first quarter peal was something far more rewarding than if I'd rung a peal in umpteen Minor methods.
Perhaps I set my ultimate standards too low. What does concern me is that there are "silent" or struggling towers adjacent to strong towers. Which gives more satisfactiona strong, active tower with a high standard adjacent to a struggling tower, or a strong. active tower from which its members gives constant help to their struggling neighbaurs?

Two or three years ago I was at a strong tower and asked the ringers there, "What about your near neighbours"? The answer, "Oh, we don't ring there : they only ring rounds and call changes." That answer was, to me, appalling. Are we neglecting the struggling towers to a level of incompetence? Do we just shrug our shoulders? After all. we are all ringing, or trying to ring, the bells of our churches, which give one message, whether there are three or twelve bells, and that is the message that they are the voice of the Church to the outside world. With this message in mind, perhaps our "experienced" ringers will look again and see if they can help out more at our silent and struggling towers. - Yours faithfully,

MICHAEL KING.
Wentworth, near Rotherham.

\section*{HILLINGDON JOINT MEETING}

THE date was booked at the local ringers' meeting in January. So was the Church Hall. The Vicar put the date in his diary. So did the organist. Thus the plans were made for the annual joint meeting of four Guilds at Hillingdon on October 22nd. Came the week and feverish activity was the order The belfry was swept and dusted, the bells oiled and greased. Numerous ladies were detailed to cook, cut up. serve, wash up and generally work themselves to a standstill All seemed to be thought of.
Then Blow No. 1! Bill Birmingham, our M.C., couldn't make it. He promised to send the tools of his trade for another io step into his shoes. Blow No, 2 ! Bill Coles was going to the Guildford dinner instead of the Hillingdon tea. He would let us have his tape if George Hart would play it. George would and more! The weather forecast was tine and dry. Little did we realise what that really meant. At about five o'clock onwards it meant teeming wet rain!! And it didn? stop.
Hanfield's six bells were open at 2.30 p.m with Frank Corke's cheery face to welcome the visitors. John Hil] had St. John's ten going soon after three and good practice was had, the level of the ringing remaining reasonably good for a mixed gathering of this kind.

The service was short and bright, with the ringers outsinging the choir. The Vicar surprisingly (to the locals) commenced his address with some lines of Housman's "Shropshire Lad" about the bells of Bredon. It was a new approach to the well-worn theme of bells and worship and indeed was greativ appreciated-a well thought out talk which left its mark on those who heard it.
Sixty-eight in the congregation. plus choir and clergy, plus those too late for service visitors, signalled panic stations in the Church Hall. By the time the Vicar said Grace there were 90 hungry (and thirsty) customers to be coped with instead of the 60 -odd anticipated

\section*{SET OF TANKARDS}

After a warm welcome to the four Guilds. the Vicar presented an inscribed tankard to the captain of St. John's Guild to commemorate the Guild's two recent successes in the towerbell section of the Richmond Music Festival. It looked as though it would he several years before the shield presented by the Festival could be won outright, so there was a chance of a set of tankards if the Guild continued its successes! The tankard was donated by Mrs, Grace Goodfellow on this occasion! Among visitors from London were Mrs, Davis and Mrs. Sanders. brought down by Jack Euston. It doesn't seem long ago that Reuben Sanders rang one of his birthday peals at Hillingdon. Memories of visits by Gcorge Kilty were rekindled by the presence of Mrs. Kilby The four Guilds were well represented. including a good sprinkling of general officers as well as officers of local Districts. Reg Darvill. of St. Albans, was taught to ring at Hillingdon, and here was his own son. Ken. looking remarkably like his father did in thase early days. Old friends. Marjorie and Norman Genna. paid us one Marjorie and Norman Genna. paid us

\section*{THE SOCIAL}

It is always a bit of a surprise to some of the locals that the social evening goes so "thank vou for one of the best evenines "thank vou for one of the of David Price. ye young local ringer. has imoroved very much since we last heard him. and he conn had his audience singing. Norman and Mrs, Randall and son John gave great enjoyment with a variety of pieces on two violins and piano John Hill told of the visit recently of Middlesex ringers to Westminster Abbey, where they rang a quarter peal of London Surprise Major George Hart had recorded this and played some of the latter part of the quarter. Bil Coles was also heard on tape giving his broad cast talk on handbells. This included some remarkable tune ringing by Mrs. Hughes. We had the pleasure of listening to Mrs. Hughes. accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Lock, it one of the recent Hillingdon suppers.
The now famous cricket match was again won by the Oxford Guild, who soundly thrashed their Middlesex opponents. So the hattered old china cup, which is the trophy for the winners. will remain in Slough belfry And so to bed

\section*{GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL ASSOCIATION}

The quarterly meeting of the Stow-on-theWold Branch was held at Stow-on-the-Wold On October 22nd The chairman, the Rev L. W. Potter, R.D., presided.

The Rev, O A. Griffiths (Moreton-in-Marsh) the Rev R. W N Harris (Temple Guiting) and the Very Rev. E. J. Camier (Lower Staughton) were elected honorary members of the Branch. Mr A. Rigg (Moreton-in-Marsh) and Mr P. Clifford (Stow-on-the-Wold) were elected as performing members.
The Branch secretary (Mr. L. C. Dowdeswell) reported that visiting ringers from Saf fron Walden, on ringing at Adlestrop on August 28 th reported that the treble bell was loose on the headstock and that repairs were needed to the wheel. Mr. P. R. Coveney, the secretary of the Chipping Norton Branch, carried out the repairs and the treble bell is now in good working order. It was decided to send a letter of thanks to Mr. Coveney. The fourth bell at Bledington had been repaired by Mr F. White of Appleton. and the bells are now available for ringing.
It was decided to start weekly practices at Stow-on-the-Wold on Thursdays and the Rev \(P\). Newing, of Blockley, and Mrs. Newing had volunteered to assist in the effort to provide more ringers It was also proposed to start practices at Moreton-In-Marsh on Fridays.
The secretary was asked to write to the Rector of Temple Guiting, inviting his tower and ringers to join the Association.
A short service was conducted by the Rural Dean. After tea some excellent touches of Grandsire and Stedman Triples and Plain Bob Major were rung. A party of ringers. who were the guests of the Rev. Peter Newing. attended the meeting, and expressed thei: pleasure in joining in a most enjoyable gathering.

\section*{BATH AND WELLS DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION}

There were cight entries for the first striking competition promoted bv the Bath Branch and held on October 29th. viz.: St. Michae with St. Paul's. St. Mary's. Bathwick, A and B Corston A and B, Twerton, Dunkerton and Keynsham
A very enjoyable afternoon resulted. Mr Harry Sanger, from Evercreech, was the judge and he pointed out to each band the varions reasons for their faults although he was pleased to say there was no noor ringing. The result was: 1 Corston B with 18 faults, 2 St . Michael with St. Paul's (24), 3 Corston A (24). but not quite such polished ringing as No, 2. lt is hoped to make this an annual event.

\section*{MR. J. HALL}

Ringers in the Cleveland and North Yorkshire Association have lost their oldest member with the death on October 12th of Mr Jack Hall at the age of 86 years. Jack Hali began his ringing career at the turn of the century and along with my grandfather. the late Mr. Tom Metcalfe was instrumental in teaching the ringers on the new bells at Ormesby in 1908. He conducted the first peal on these bells in 1910; it was Grandsire Triples and was rung by the local ringers he had helped to teach.

During the first world war his job took him to Tyneside, where he rang with the late Mr . Bill Barber I understand he was one of the umpires in Bill Barber's famous peal of Stedman Triples at St. Mary's. Gateshead. which Mr Barber conducted blindfolded. After 1918 Jack returned to Teesside and his ringing with the Cleveland and North York. shire Association often cycling 30 or 40 miles to ringing meetings He rang over 100 peals and was an active ringer till he was 80 years old.
As a token 10 his memory a half-muffled peal of Bob Major was rung by the local ringers of Ormesby on the bells which meant so much to him and on which he had rung so many times.

\section*{MISS ELIZABETH WILLS}

With deep regret we record the passing of Elizabeth Wills at the early age of 19 at the Nuffield Orthopædic Hospital. Oxford, on October 20th.
Flizabeth. whose home was at 31, Norton Way. North Letchworth, Herts, was a firstyear student at St. Hilda's College. Oxford. and had gained her University Blue for swimming last March. A few weeks later she was admitted to hospital, where she stayed, except for a few days spent at home, until her death She was taught to ring at Norton some six years ago by the late Horace Werrett, but when this band was wound up in 1964 she joined the Baldock band. where she soon made rapid strides. Her ability to pick up a new method was in context with everything that she did and that went for swimming, hockey. tennis and social work as well.
Liz, as she was affectionately known, rang a few peals her first being a peal of Plain Boh Minor at Wallington on February 13th. 1961. Her many activities prevented her taking part in many more

I did not think that when I sat opposite her at the Hertford County Association's annual general meeting last April at Watford that I would be wrio: ing this some seven months later. She then told me she had just rung Spliced Surprise Major on a University tour.
Her humour will he sadly missed, as will her ability in Oxford and in Baldock, and. of course, her punctuality: she had the farthest to come and was alwavs first to arrive.
To her parents and sisters. Caroline and Sally, both of whom have been taught to ring, we send our sincere sympathy in the passing of a true and great "gel."
E. G. B.

\section*{NORWICH DIOCESAN}

For their meeting on October 15th the Branch paid its first visit to Tharston. After ringing in the afternoon a short service was conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. T. C. Mac-naughton-Jones, with Mrs. Macnaughton-Jones as orgarist.
Tea was arranged and served hy Mrs. 11. Duffield and helpers. followed hy the husiness meeting, with Dr. P. Jonason presiding.
Later, ringing took place at Tasburgh and Forncett as well as at Tharston and was much enjoyed on these three fives.
Next meeting: Diss.

\section*{ST. JOHN OF BEVERLEY, WHATTON-IN-THE-VALE}

\section*{By W. L. EXTON}
"Colston's cracked pancheons, Screveton's egg-shells, Bingham's ro-rollers and Whatton's merry bells."

\author{
-An old rhyme.

WHATTON-IN-THE-VALE is a small Nottinghamshire village, straddling the main Nottingham to Grantham road, and situated about midway between the two. A village firmly divided between old and new, with a fine and beautiful church, dedicated to .St. John of Beverley.
Perhaps its main claim to fam is the Cranmer Memorial Chapel dedicated to Thomas Cranmer, Archbishop of Canterbury, who was baptised in this church and worshipped here as a boy. Thomas Cranmer left for Cranmer at the age of 12 and as far as is known never returned, but amongst, his many writings in later years he recalled the joy of bearing Whaton's merry bells across the meadows.
Of the bells Cranmer heard nothing is known, all the early records have since disappeared, and in 1590 Henry Oldfield came from his nearby Nottingham foundry to cast (oi perhaps recast) the present tenor bell. This extremely fine bell, pessimistically given as 13 cwt .24 lb . in E (diameter 44 inches), bears continuing witness to the skill of Henry Oldfield. Satisfaction must have been given. for in 1618 he was recalled and cast the front four bells to complete a ric. of five, these bells remaining as a ring of five for nearly 300 years.

In 1870 the sLort central tower, summounted by its equally short spire (viewed from the west end (as illustrated), was completely rebuilt, the old segmental arch from the south wall being removed and rebuilt into the north side of the tower The bells presumably were removed and replaced during this operation.

\section*{AUGMENTED TO SIX}

The frame and fittings deteriorated during the ensuing years. for on October 30th, 1912 a parish meeting was held in the Church School Room. when it was decided to rehang the beils. A committee was appointed and from estimalıs submitted that of Messrs. Gillett and Johnston of Croydon was accepted. The bells had their canons removed, were quarter turned and cuned on the Simpson five tone principle, and rehung in a new iron frame. Following a further meeting on August 8th. 1913, it was decided to add a new treble bell and so complete a ring of six bells.
As far as can be ascertained the bells have been rung for service and practice from that time until the present day, with only a short break during the last war.

About two years ago the ringers decided that the time had come when consideration must be given to the possibility of rehanging the bells on ball bearings. The existing brass bushes had become worn and loose, the gudgeons loose and scored and, despite the weekly oiling. the "go". was not all that could be desired. Permission to raise the necessary money was granted by the Parochial Church Council. although they could give no financial help due to other commitments.
During the next two years money was raised by various means. carol singing (and ringing), lectures for the Rural Community Council, a coffee evening and finally a skittles and putting tournament.

\section*{"DO IT YOURSELF "}

In order to reduce costs, a " do it yourself," scheme was considered and, following a discussion with Mr. P. Taylor, and the granting of permission by the Parochial Church Council. a start was made on August 30th, with the dismantling of the bells and their fittings.
The work commenced with the tenor and the fifth, the wheels, clappers, pulley blocks and slider mechanisms being removed. timbers inserted across the frame below the bells and built up to the bell mouths, thus allowing the headstocks and bearings to be dismantled. The fittings were lowered to the ringing room, carried down the spiral staircase and delivered to Loughborough.
The process was repeated on the four remaining bells in turn. During the time the bells were out of action the grease and oi! was scraped from the bells, the frame and the fioor, the bells and frame washed with paraffin and the floor with a detergent. Following this the frame was painted with rotorista, undercoat and gloss paint.

During the first week in October the headstocks. complete with their new bearings. the clappers rebushed and the pulley blocks complete with new pulleys and bearings were collected from Loughborough. Before leaving the foundry the tenor headstock was weighed and found to turn the scale at 2 cwt . 1 qr .16 lb ., and in view of this it was decided to raise the headstocks by block and tackle rather than carrying them up the stairs.

By the following Sunday, October 16th, the restoration was sufficiently advanced to allow the bells to be rung for morning service. During the ensuing weeks the remainder of the work and redecoration had been completed, and the bells will be rededicated by the Archdeacon of Newark, the Ven. Brian Woodhams on November 11th at 7.30 p.m.
All the money for the restoration, except for a donation of \(£ 15\) from the Parochial Church Council, has been collected by the ringers themselves. If any ringers are interested in our project, which now includen the provision of two additional bells to complete the octave, donations would be most gratefully received The above pen and ink drawing has been used to illustrate a Christmas card, and these are available (3s. per half dozen, 6 per dozen, plus 6d. packing and postage) from \(\mathbf{W} \mathbf{L}\). Exton. St. Ouens, Whatton. Nottingham.
In conclusion thanks are due to Messrs. J. Taylor and Co.. Loughborough, and to our friends in the Derby Association and Southwell Guild for their kind assistance and encouragement during the whole of the work, and to all ringers and friends who have enthusiastically supported our fund-raising efforts.

\section*{THE ST. MARTIN'S GULLD}

THE quarterly meeting of the St. Martin's Guild was held at Yardley on October \(15 t h\), and was preceded by a striking competition. The crocketed spire of the competition. The crocketed spire of the Parish Church of St. Edburgha contains a beautiful ring of eight bells, and the ringing, being of a higher standard than is usually attained at open meetings, gave pleasure to those who like to stay outside the tower and listen.

The result of the competition, with comments upon the ringing, was given by Mr. Peter Border. who stated that the ringing generally was superior to that of last year's competition. The chief fault seemed to be a tendency to "clip" at backstroke. The band of Erdington Abbey, who rang a touch of Stedman Triples, were recorded the lowest number of faults
In the unavoidable absence of the Master, Mr. Frank W. Perrens (vice-president) occupied the chair at the meeting. Messrs. P. Tovey and M Kirkham, of Aston, and Messrs. R Harris and P. L. D. Grove, of Solihull. were elected resident members of the Guild. The tower elections, as life members, of Miss D. M. Chapman (Bristol) and Messrs. R W. Sweet (Bristol), P. Bridle (Long Ashton), R. A. J. Inglis (Nottingham) and H. J. F. Muncey (Cambridge) were duly ratified. For the next meeting. the annual, it was decided to seek permission to use St. Martin"s Hall on the first Saturday in January, 1967.
The Ringing Master, Mr. Alan Ainsworth, extended an invitation to any band in the diocese to visit St. Martin's by arrangement. on a Tuesday evening, for a special practice. at which they would be assisted in ringing any method they desired.
The conditions at Yardley being ideal, both for ringing and judging a striking competition, it was agreed that permission be sought to hold a similar competition there in October,
The Vicar of Yardiey, the Rev. David Edwards, who joined the ringers at tea, gave a warm welcome to the Guild.

Mr. Harold Fitter was heartily thanked making the excellent arrangements, and gratitude was expressed to Mrs. Fitter and ber helpers for preparing tea.

\section*{ELSTOW OUTING}

\section*{With Apologies to John Bunyan} SINCE the days of John Bunyan, who was born at Elstow, Bedfordshire, and became an enthusiastic bellininger there, the fine old English art of campanology has thrived at Elstow's ancient abbey church and in recent years an annual outing has been arranged.
Now in this year of grace it was decided that a visit should be made to a county many leagues in the south. a place renowned alike for its natural beauty, its bells and its bellringers. At the appointed time, therefore, on October 8th, a large party assembled at a prearranged mecting place and set out for this land of tree-clad hills and verdant plains.
Guided by one Robert of Elstow, who hath a fair knowledge of the terrain, being a student of theology in that distant place, the party proceeded south at a modest speed, there being a good deal of fog in the low-lying areas, and came in time. to a great city, a place where dweiled many hundreds of thousands of people, and where merchandise in wondrous variety was offered for sale. Hampered by the fog and by the density of the population (for people spilled into the very roadway, there being insufficient houses to contain them), the party pressed on for many a weary mile until at last they found themselves clear of the great city and in open country. And now, as by a miracle, the fog lifted and a most wonderful sight presented itself, for they beheld the sought-for land, itself, is they beheld the sought-for land, this garden of England," in all the rickness of its varied splendours.
And soon, at a place called Westerham. they, stopped and practised their art on the splendid ring of eight bells. And presently they came to sevenoaks, and the time being around noon, they refreshed themselves according to their various needs. after which they made their way to needs. after which they made their way to the Parish Church. where they were received by Philip of the House of Corby, a leader among the ringers of these parts. And there also was Andrew, son of Philip, and there was much hand shaking and gestures of welcome. and both hosts and guests did join together and ring unon the bells that most delightful method called London Surprise Major, and many other methods.
And this was the pattern of the day, and now the party were joined by Bob Sherlock and Fred Budgen, both dwellers in this part. who had an uncommon knowledge of the lav of the land hereabouts. and they happily attached themselves to the party for some hours and directed and guided them to Seal and Leigh. both places of wondrous charm and beauty. and at these places. too, the bells were rung And towards evening they came to a place called Brasted. where formerly lived one Edwin Lewis, a great servant of the art of campanology. and this place having a very fine set of six bells, they made merry in their accustomed manner, as they did also at nearhv Sundridge. but here there was much creaking and groaning in the timbers of the bell fram?

And now it was time to say farewell to this hospitable and beautiful land. and so they retraced their steps and made their way homewards, pausing only at a place of public entertainment. where they refreshed themselves most plentifully, not only to assuage the thirst of the present. but as a sure guard against further thirst in the near future!
And they reached their various homes with grateful hearts, and long will they remember their welcome in that distant place. A.E.R.

\section*{SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD}

A quarterly meeting of the Dorchester Branch was held at Piddletrenthide on October 15th, when the heavy ring of five bells was rung to a variety of methods.
The Guild service was conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. J. E. B. Cattell, and Mr. Blythe, of Puddletown, played the organ. Ladies provided an excellent tea at the Vicarage for a company of 31 , and welcome visitors included the Master of the Guild (the Rev. R. N . Longridge). Guild secretary (Mr. J. T. Barrett) and Mrs. Barrett. The Branch chairman (the Rev, C. E. C. Brinkworth) presided man the business meeting.

Duplicated.-The conductor of the peal of Beverley at West Wickham on June 16th regrets that he submitted it twice.
In the peal rung for the Ely Diocesan Association at Chicheley on May 8th (page 529) the ringer of the second was George E. Bonham. David E. Rothera rang the third, and not as printed.

The handbell peal at Melksham, Wilts, on September 25 th, while the first at Melksham was not the first for the Salisbury Guild for 30 years. Mr. Dan Matkin has recollections of quite a number.

ISLIP, OXFORDSHIRE, & WESTMINSTER ABBEY
In the peal columns will be found a record of a peal rung for the Oxford Diocesan Guild in a new Surprise Major method at Islip, a lovely village north-west of Oxford, to commemorate the 900 th anniversary of the founding of Westminster Abbey by Edward the Confessor.

Perhaps Islip's greatest claim to fame is that here, more than 950 years ago, was born the Confessor, son of Ethelred the Unready, and fifth in succession from Alfred the Great (whose statue at Wantage is in the area of the same Guild). Edward's mother, Queen Emma gave Islip to him on his first birthday: 60 years later he in turn presented the hamlet to Christ and St. Peter at Westminster. To the Dean and Chapter of Westminster Abbey Islip still belongs, and visitors will know of the lovely Islip chapel there.

Islip has already given its name to a method so this could not be used again. When givine permission for the peal, the Rector (the Rev. A. W. Blanchett) asked that the method should he named Githeslepe, by which name the hamlet was known when given to the Abbey all those years ago. A difficult name, perhaps but who can say that this Saxon form is inappropriate in view of its association with those carly Saxon kings.
W. G. WILSON.

\section*{BELL METAL 160 YEARS AGO}

Turning out old account books from the cupboards of the Whitechapel Bell Foundry, Mr. Douglas Hughes found in one dated September. 1801, the following note at the top of the page:

Price of bells to gentlemen 19d. per pound Ditto to Ship's Chandlers 18d. per pound. "I do not know." writes Mr. Hughes. " whether it was a question of soaking the rich or denigrating the ship's chandlers.
"Incidentally, 19d. per 1h. seems a very good price for 1801 , This comes out at \(£ 817 \mathrm{~s}\). 4 d per cwt. In 1939 we were selling bells at \(£ 77 \mathrm{~s}\). per cwt. so it seems our margins must have been tightened considerably."

\section*{WHY NOT A BELL OF YOUR OWN?}

Many ringers are amusing themselves and instructing their pupils nowadays by hanging small bells in model frames. Here is an opportunity for someone to acquire for himself a nice little 1 cwt. bell which is also a piece of history. At present in the possession of the ringers of a small Devon parish who are raising moncy for a treble to augment their ring of five, this bell is an Exeter foundry casting, probably by Thomas Byrdall and dating from about 1570. Like many bells of this date, it bears a nonsensical inscription: the religious upheavals of this period made any inscription. English or Latin, unsafe.

The bell's canons are missing, but it is otherwise perfect, and anyone interested should get in touch with the Rev. J. G. M. Scott. The Vicarage. Newton St. Cyres, Exeter. Offers should bear some relation to the present scrap price of bell-metal, which is in the region of £28 per cwt.

If they can't find a buyer for it, the owners are planning to sell the bell for scrap; this would be a great pity, as the bell is of no little historical interest, but as it is not a church bell there is nothing to prevent this from happening.

RICHARD YATES.
a typical nine-year-old, who rang his first peal at Maids Moreton on October 7th. His father is Mr. W. A. Yates, of Buckingham.

\section*{OVERSEAS SUBSCRIPTION RATES} INCREASED

\section*{GABRIEL LINDOFF}

From the "Irish Bell News": "It will be 25 years on November 7th since Gabriel Lindoff died. Let us therefore be thankful on that day for his life on this earth, for the foundations laid by him in Ireland in regard to bellringing and change ringing. and for the man himself who not alone in Ireland, but in England too. left his work and made many respected friends

How he would rejoice that ringing and change ringing in Ireland did not cease with his decease, but that it is now generally in a more flourishing and advanced state, due to more flourishing and a

\section*{BELLS IN STOCKHOLM}

\section*{By BRIAN AUSTIN}

ALTHOUGH the National Church of Sweden is in communion with the Church of England, information about its activities possibly does not extend beyond the unisual feature of female ordinands. It was therefore with interest that in the course of an architectural study tour in Sweden in October both new and old churches were visited
Unlike most churches in Great Britain. Swedish churches are invariably locked. and the clergy. hampered by language difficulties, were not over enthusiastic in giving permission to investigate the church tewers

Bells can be heard throughout the day in Stockholm. where all the medixval and Renaissance churches seem well equipped.
In Stockholm Cathedral Church of S! Nicholas (the Stork Kyrkan) is a large bell dated 1631 in the north aisle. It is five feet in diameter, but why it was there and not in the tower is not known.
It was encouraging to find a new church, St. Mark's. Skarpnacks, Stockhoim, with a belfry and a ring of six bells. These were complete with metal wheels and apparently rung by hand.

However, hefore a ringing band is arranged to "grab" this tower it should be pointed out that both the bell chamber and the ringing chamber werc open to the elements. The Vicar managed to convey that he would have preferred a more practical solution at the exnerse of the æsthetics!

If a roof and floor were provided and if a ringer were to reside in that part of Stockholm long enough to train a band, change ringing could possibly be inaugurated. It is rather doubtful if such circumstances will ever exist, and the discovery of a possible ring of six must presumably remain a point of in. terest only.

At least the Church of Sweden realises the relevance of bells as a prelude to worship in 1966.

\section*{MFMORIAL TABLET TO FRED ROGERS}

On October 23rd, during Evensong at St . Mary's, Portsea, a memorial tablet was dedicated to the memory of the late Mr. F. W. Rogers. who was for 46 years a ringer at Portsea.

He was remembered in a quarter peal. rung half-muffled for the victims of the Aberfan disaster, at Portsmouth Cathedral that day for Evensong. The Battle of Trafalgar and the death of Lord Nelson were also commemorated.

\section*{LONDON COUNTY ASSOCIATION AND RECORDING OF PEALS}

After a very full discussion. the committee of the London County Association unanimously agreed to onpose any alteration in the present method of recording peals. The reasons for the decisions were:
(a) The Greater London Council is a purely administrative body and therefore county boundaries remain, and
(b) Postal addresses remain unaltered.

It follows also that locally the churches continue to be identified as heretofore and are likely to remain that way, at least for a very considerable time. V.D.

\section*{KENT UNIVERSITY SOCIETY}

At a meeting on October 27th it was decided to form a bellinging society at the University of Kent at Canterbury. About ten members have had some experience of change ringing, and the following officers were elected: Ringing Master. Derek Carr: secretary, Hannah TalbotPonsonby; treasurer, Michael Tong.

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

\section*{A COLOURFUL CHARACTER IN LONDON RINGING}

\section*{Mr. William H. Hewett}

TALKING to "The Times" in 1959, the late Mr. A. A. Hughes gave as his only regret the disappearance of the "odd, colourful characters we used to have years ago." The death of William H. Hewett has removed probably the last of them from the London scene. A taxi-driver for many years, with a dry sense of humour, he could keep one amused for hours with stories of some of his fares. Despite a reputation of never being on time for a peal he was a splendid ringer and conductor, who figured in the "Leading Conductors" series in this journal, on April 7th, 1939 (a series which could well be reprinted for its historic interest alone).
He deserves to be remembered for several reasons. He rang at Westminster Abbey on Armistice Day, 1918, the last time the old six were rung. In fact one bell, I am told, could only be chimed - the Abbey bells at that time were hardly ever used. He criticised this state of affairs so effectively to the Abbey authorities that his advice was sought soon afterwards by Sir Edward Knapp-Fisher, and it was not long before there was an announcement made that an anonymous donor, later revealed as Lord Lee of Fareham (who also presented "Chequers" to the nation), was giving a new ring of eight to the Abbey. It was also Mr. Hewett's suggestion that the Kent County Association's memorial to members who died in the first World War should take the form of the addition of two trebles to the then ten at Canterbury Cathedral; and he must be given the credit of being the first to advocate the holding of joint meetings between Associations.
In Bill Hewett's heyday St. Margaret's had an excellent band, most of them doubtless now forgotten by the Exercise in general but, in my time, men like Reuben Sanders, a superb heavy-bell ringer and striker who died earlier this year: James E. Davis. with over 1,000 peals to his name; George M. Kilby. one of the band who pioneered Spliced Surprise Major ringing beyond the four standard methods; and Edwin F. Pike, a gentle character for whom somehow everyone felt sorry. I recall being taken by my father to a practice there, about 1931, when Pudsey Royal was being practised, an almost unheard of method in those days (Mr. Hewett in fact called the first peal of it). One of the band set up towards the end of a course because that was where his diagram had run out and he hadn't realised he had only to reverse an earlier part of it! Times change - but no band would ring St. Margaret's bells better today, if as well.
Others will, I believe, write of his ringing career, but one or two highlights are worth mentioning. His peal total at the time of the 1939 article was 465 , of which he had conducted 91. so that in all he must have rung over 500 . These included 7,392 Cambridge Maximus and 10,440 Cambridge Royal. About half his peals were on ten or twelve bells; at the other end of the scale was the first peal on the pre-Reformation five at St . Bartholomew's, Smithfield. But it is for his long and devoted service to St. Margaret's, Westminster, that he will most be remembered by those who knew him.
E. A. B.

\section*{THE PEAL BOOKS}

The Peal Books of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association of Church Bell Ringers, by a decision made at the annual meeting held at Berkeley in 1965, are now discontinued and with the exception of the record peal of 143 Minor methods rung at Castle Eaton on December 2nd, 1963, the last entry is a peal of Doubles rung at Great Barrington on December 27th. 1958. This was the 2.720 th peal for the Association, thus there are recorded 2,721 peals in the eleven volumes.

Until the late A. E. Reeves became peal secretary in 1934 the writing up of the peals had not been done by the peal secretary; in fact, there is no record of any peal secretary until 1921 when G. Condick of Bristol became the first holder of the office. In that year peal fees and affiliation by Parochial Church Councils were also instituted. Peals had been written up before 1921, by the end of 1920 there had been rung for the Association 1,020 peals and of these only 200 had been written, the work being done by one, John Beams, who would appear to have continued doing it until 1929. I know nothing of John Beams, who he was or where he lived, but he did do a good job of writing.

In 1922 Albert Wright, who lived at Pitchcombe, Stroud, took office and continued until his death in November, 1934; he did not himself write up any of the peals.
It was in 1934 that Alf Reeves took on the job, of catching up on what must have been a large number of unwritten peals, and his last entry in the books was a peal at Newland. in the Forest of Dean, dated 25th April, 1957; it was of Minor and was peal No. 2,626 . The books were then right up to date and the job was handed over, a work well done, a lasting memorial to a great man. Alf Reeves was succeeded by F. S. Wilton, who held the office for five years, during which period 354 peals were rung, but of these only 58 were entered in the book.

Eric Sutton took on the formidable task in 1962 of trying to catch up on these arrears, but by the date of the A.G.M. in 1965, when Mrs. Wratten became peal secretary, ansther 320 peals had been rung, and there were now 616 peals which had not been written up, with the rate of peals still increasing.

The Management Committee gave a lot of thought to the problem, Eric Sutton was willing to go on writing, and the A.G.M. were to be recommended to agree that when the present book became full the writing up should cease but the A.G.M. thought that it was too much to expect, and decided to stop at once; their resolution is written into the book, it is the end of a long and beautiful work.

The books had at one time been kept in the Vestry of St. Thomas's Church in Bristol, and in 1930 the Association spent \(£ 410 \mathrm{~s}\). Od. on a steel cabinet and the books were transferred to the basement of Church House. Bristol, where they were locked up, out of sight, and available for inspection only on application to the Association's secretary. I was only asked once for the key. and once went myself to inspect and dust the books. In later years one of the books had always been on show at the annual meetings. generally the one in use at the time. At one time I kept a book at Churchdown, and by a letter to "The Ringing World" made it known that anyone could see it there, but no one came.

Now the books have been deposited into the care of the City of Bristol Archives, and when St. Nicholas' Church becomes a museum it is hoped that one volume will be on display there. The books remain the property of the Association, and are available for inspection at reasonable hours by any member of the public-it would be best if possible to make prior application to The Bristol City Archives Office, The Council House, Bristol, quoting No. 24.701 .

There are eleven books covering (1) 1879-1897, (2) 1897-1902. (3) 1902-1909, (4) 1909-1917, (5) 1917-1919 and some between 1886-1889, as well as a "Toli of the Great War". The next six volumes are all styled "New Series" and are numbered I to VI. They contain: (6) 1919-1924. (7) 1924-1928, (8) 1928-1935. (9) 1935-1947. (10) 1947-1952. (11) 1952-1958.

The first cost of a peal book that I have been able to find was \(£ 215 \mathrm{~s}\). Od. in 1925 , but that was not the first volume; in 1951 the last of the books cost \(£ 1614 \mathrm{~s}\). 9 d . and a very conservative estimate of the price today would be in the region of \(£ 50\). On one occasion I had to send a volume by post, and it was insured for \(£ 1.000\) just in case. It is hoped that now that the books are available many more will avail themselves of the opportunity to examine the work of Alfred Reeves and the others who have done so much mork for the G. and B. Association.

CHARLES ROUSE, Hon. Secretary.

\section*{COLLEGE YOUTHS’ 329th ANNIVERSARY DINNER}

\section*{A YEAR OF GREAT ACHIEVEMENTS REVIEWED-GIFT OF HANDBELLS-PRAISE TO THE CUMBERLANDS-ONLY LADY}

A
YEAR of exceptionally brilliant ringing was reported to the Ancient Society of College Youths at its 329 th anniversary dinner at the Albert Restaurant, Albert Embankment, London, on November 5th. A capacity attendance of 204 welcomed the Master. Mr. J. D. Rock, as he was escorted to his seat by Mr. A. J. Frost, senior steward.

Peals reported included:
Cambridge Maximus, St, Paul's Cathedral: Cambridge Maximus, Liverpool Cathedral, at which Peter Border rang the tenor single-handed Three peals of Stedman Cinques rung simultancously in the City of London: Cambridge Maximus at Manchester Town Hal!.
According to custom, the Master proposed the toast of "The Church " and welcomed the company to "Swinging London" and expressed the hope that when closing time came it would not be too "swinging."
There was some significance about the year -66, he said. It was in 1066 that Edward the Confessor built Westminster Abbey, and in 1666 there was the Great Fire of London. 1966 would be remembered as the year the College Youths left the Bridge House tot their annual dinner. They would return ic the City of London next year and had already booked Bucklersbury House in the heart of the City of London.
He made no apology for associating ringing with a toast of "The Church." He considered that their meetings and organisation was as much a part of the Church as some of the other activities. In the past it had been considered that their ringing was a little divorced from the Church. With that he entirely disagreed. All of them owed a tremendous duty to the Church and as ringers their interests were centred around the life of the Church.
He was a parson's son and purposely he had taken wine with the clergy and the sons of clergy present. He did so because since the age of ten his main interest apart fron. work had been in bells. He recalled that in 1942 Leslie Evans in Herefordshire got about eight young men and taught them to ring. and they had a wonderful time cycling around visiting the churches.

\section*{ACHIEVEMENT}

The great benefit of ringing was the thrill and satisfaction of achieving something. Many of them worked in humble jobs that did not kive them much satisfaction, but they did ring and obtained a great sense of satisfaction from it. "There is nothing more satisfying han completing a really good peal. It might be quite ordinary but when it happened it was well worth it."
In ringing they met a lot of interesting people and they were pleased to have with hem that night George Fearn. the only man alive to ring 2.000 peals. There was also Peter Border, who had turned in Liverpool tenor to a peal single-handed, and Pat Cannon. who had probably rung a combined total of different towers to peals and peals more than any other man. There were also some who thev missed at this gathering who were no longer with them-Ernest Fenn, who was Master of the Society for seven years, and the cheerful face of Reginald Dennis.

The Ven. Martin Sullivan. Archdeacon of London. replied and said quite a number of people in the City of London told him that he was an Australian. When he replied that he was a New Zealander they commented that thev lived close together. There were 1,800 miles of sea between them. If one told a Scotsman that he was Welsh and it did not matter as they lived close together there would be 1 strong nrotest.
The Archdeacon said he rang bells in his youth, but it was not scientific ringing but rounds and hymns. For 329 years their

\section*{THE MASTER, MR. J. D. ROCK}

Society had been sending out the message of sound over city and countryside week by week and they would never know how many hearts had been stirred by that message. Their service was one of the imponderables.

\section*{FAMILY CONNECTION}

The toast of "The Ancient Society of College Youths" was proposed by Mr. W. A Hughes, of the Whitechapel Bell Foundry who said that many members of his family, both past and present, had taken a close interest in the Society's activities. Some of them might remember that his father was fot many years a treasurer of the Society and also a Past Master, and his father before him was likewise a treasurer and a Past Master.
"My other grandfather, W. D. Smith, was also a Past Master," continued Mr. Hughes, " and, strange to relate, his father and one of his grandfathers were members of the other London Society-the Society of Roval Cumberland Youths.
When founded, change ringing was practised as a sport, but over the years it had become more closely bound in the service of the Church. He believed that the vast majority of ringers would agree that it must be the fundamental principal behind their activities Although territorial and diocesan associations had been formed to cover most areas in the country, their Society held a unique position among ringers, with a membership drawn from all parts of the country and abroad. The suc. cess of their Socicty relied on the hard work of the officers and the enthusiasm of the members, and it was remarkable that since 1892 it had had only four secretaries and the last had only just completed his first year of office.

Mr. J. G. A. Prior, making his first reply as secretary, followed in traditional lines by reporting on the year's activities. He said they had thought that the unexpected change of venue and the inevitable increase in the price of tickets would have led to a marked decrease in the attendance, but their fears were groundless and the number present that night of 204 was well up to standard.

\section*{APOLOGIES}

These had been received from Bishop Wand, Dean of Westminster. Canons Gilbert Thurlow and M. Stancliffe. the Revs. J. McCulloch and N. Motley. Messrs. Nelson, Sloan, George Symonds. T. G. Fox, Albert Tyler, Harry Miles, Henry Hodgetts, A. York-Bramble, A.

Richards, W. Moreton, F. E. Hansford, Comdr. Tim Watt and George Pipe. Henry Hodgetts now 83, mentioned dinners at the Bridge House more than 60 years ago, which were like Lord Mayors' banquets and tickets were only 3 s .6 d . each.

Since the last meeting they had elected 32 new members, viz. \(H_{:}\). E. McDonald, Victoria, Australia; M. R. Ashmore, Harrow; S. G. Scott, Bracknell; D. Kirk Stedman Johns, Brecon ; B. Rogers, Walton-on-Thames ; J. R. Dyke, Wallingford; A. M. Faulkner Woodford: A. D. Sansom, Cranford; D. L Cawley, Whitstable; M. J. Uphill, Putney; M. C. Hughes, Knowle; C. T. \section*{NOTABLE PEALS}

It has often been said that we are not a peal ringing Society but each year the secretary reports quite a healthy crop of peals. This year we have recorded a total of 32 peals, including some of more than usual interest. In December last there was a peal of Bristol at Westminster Abbey to mark the beginning of the Abbey's 900th anniversary year, and those who know the Abhey bells will appreciate that this was a fine performance, especially by the tenor man. Jack Crampion. There is to be another peal attempt at the Abbcy to mark the close of the anniversary year. In March there was a peal of Cambridge Maximus at St. Paul's Cathedral, the first of Maximus there for very many years to which John and Michael Chilcott rang the tenor in splendid style."
In July, to mark the City of London Festival, three peals of Stedman Cinques were rung simultancously and for the most part the bands consisted of members who regularly ring in the City.

In August, at Liverpool Cathedral, there took place what must surely rank as the finest heavy bell performance in living memory, perhaps of all time, the ringing of a peal of Cambridge Maximus with Peter Border on the tenor (Applause.) We are very proud of the fact that the peal was rung for the Society and tonight we would like to offer to Peter and the rest of the band our sincere congratulations."
In October there was a peal of Cambridge Maximus at Manchester Town Hall in honour of the 84th birthday of Lester Gray. "We are delighted to have Lester with us tonight looking as spry and youthful and as cheeky as ever." At St. Giles', Cripplegate, also in October, the Society rang a peal of Spliced Surprise Maximus in four methods, the first to be rung in London.

\section*{OBITUARY}

The company stood while the following who had died during the year were remembered: H. F. Ashley, Bulkington (joined 1950): James Brackley, Old Woking (1951); Vincent T Cherrill, Reading (1946); Alfred J. Clayton, Beddington (1900): Peter Crook, sen., Bolton (1924); Peter S. Davis. South Croydon (1952): T. Reginald Dennis Cambridge (1911): Ernest G. Fenn. Barking (1899): Colin Harrison. Loughborough (1928); William H. Hewett, Camberwell (1915); Leslie C W. \section*{COLLEGE YOUTHS-Continued.}

Hobart E. Smith, Ipswich (1942); John W Ward, Melbourn, Cambs (1930).

After referring to the highly successful meeting in Gloucestershire, arranged by Mr. Leslie Barry, the secretary said that for next year they had accepted the invitation of Tom Chapman to so to Northamptonshire.

\section*{GIFT OF HANDBELLS}

During the year we have had the splendid gift of a set of 12 handbells, arranged for tune tapping, in special case, which are a link with Matthew A Wood, who was Maste of the Society over a hundred years ago. We had no knowledge of the existence of these handbells until Mrs. H. K. Nicoll, last surviving daughter of Matthew Wood, now an old lady of over 90 . wrote to Whitechapel Bell Foundry to say that she would like to present the bells to the Society. Needless to say we were delighted to accept the gift and the handbells are here tonight for your in spection. They have been cleaned and put into good order by Mears and Stainbank, who have also had a commemorative plaque affixed to the lid. It is interesting to note that the bells were ordered for Mrs. Nicoll by Matthew A Wood, who was Master in 1856 and 1859 from Mr. Arthur Hughes, the then head of the foundry. who was Master in 1907, and that there is a note in the case written by Mr W. D. Smith. who was Master in 1891, 1903 and 1904. Mr. Arthur Hughes and Mr. W. D Smith were the grandfathers of Bill and Douglas Hughes. We are deeply grateful to Mrs. Nicoll for her gift and to Bill and Douglas for the work they have done."
Concluding, Mr. Prior mentioned the golden wedding of Frank and Elsie Hairs, who were both members of the Society Never before had such an event taken place and under the present rules there could not be another. Only nine ladies had been elected to membership and Mrs Hairs was the only survivor. They all hoped they would be present at next year's dinner when both of them would have completed 50 years' member ship. each having joined in 1917.

Mr. P. A. Corby proposed "The Visitors and Kindred Societies" and said "bearing in mind the recent article in "The Ringing World' it had been suggested that a soulful rendering of "Come into the garden, Maud would more readily fit in with the mood of the evening than an ill-starred attempt to cover up the blatant and piratical speechpreaching activities of the top brass."

\section*{CAMPANOLOGICAL CAULDRON}

In thanking Canon G. R. Dunstan for the hospitality on St. Benedict's Day at Westminster Abbey, Mr. Corby said this would be the last time the Canon would be with them in his present capacity as superintendent of in his present capacity as superintendent of the belfry. Westminster Abbey. He was shortly moving into the wild and uncharted Midlands to become Canon Theologian of Leicester Cathedral. During this special year at the Abbey the lid of the campanological cauldron had boen slightly lifted and Canon Dunstan had been able to sec. no doubt to his intense horror. that there were a few misguided ringers who offered their loyalty to ringing organisations other than the Society Alas, at Leicester he would find that the gullible natives had been subjected to the proselytising activities of some who should be nameless, but were not entirely unconnected with the present toast.
- However from the proper grounding in the true faith that he has received from Harold Pitstow. we feel sure he will not become a deviationist and his affection for this Society will remain unsullied.'

There were no fewer than 31 countiesEnglish and Weish-reptesented that night including a group of 14 from the Liverpool area, under the flag of leek and crossbones manfully displayed by Tudor Edwards.

In a welcome to the Master of the Cumberlands Mr. Corby said they admired the energy and enthusiasm Mr. Beresford had brought to his task. "I have been honoured by his Society by being asked to compere a number of remarkable performances in the realm of non-conducted and Spliced Surprise Major and of hearing some really first-class ringing.

Canon Dunstan and Mr. Dennis Beresford replied. The latter spoke of the great privilege the Cumberlands had had this year in ringing at the Abbey and the privilege exringing at the Abbey and the privilege ext tended to him of attend of the Ancient Society.

THE MASTERS OF 300, 200 AND 100 YEARS AGO"
This concluding toast was proposed by the Master, who said William Stewkly was elected Master in 1666, having loined the Society in 1658. Among the members in Stewkly's time were Sir Francis Withins, Sir Martin Lomly Sir Richard Everard M.P John Brereton (son of Lord Brereton) and Sir Henry Tulse. later Lord Mayor of London.
The year 1766 fell in the period when there were two Societies of College Youths- the "Ancient" and the "Junior." At this period -he Junior Society was the more active: but they had no record of the name of either Master.

George Mash was elected Master in 1866. He joined the Society in 1858, and was only 26 years old when he became Master. He wus for a long time steeplekeeper at St. Saviour's Southwark (now Southwark Cathedral), a job which his father James, his son, George, and his grandson. Thomas, also did. He was a man who was respected by all for his good nature and invariable courtesy. He took part in 85 peals, including the first peal on the in 85 peals, including the first peal on the bells of St. Paul's Cathedral, and was a foundation member of the St. Paul's Cathedral Guild. He died in 1893 at the early age of 53 having been Master of the Society three times Durng the evening a touch of Stedman Cinques was rung in impeccable style by W. T Cook 1-2, W. Wilson 3-4, M. V. Chilcott S-6 J E. Chilcott 7-8, P. A. F. Chalk 9-10, M. P. Moreton 11-12.

FORMEK COMMITTEE MEMBER'S VIEW
Dear Sir,-The last part of Mr. Howard Freeborn's letter in the issue of the 4 th inst. (" any change would probably be for the worse ") has been proved true by the new heading of that issue If this is the committee's start of "improvement" then I dread to imagine what "The, Ringing World " will be like in a few years' time. That style of beading would, to my mind, be cuite suitable for a supermarket's list of cheap offers, as that particular style looks cheap and is out of place.

Is it another of the committee's "improve ments "" to relegate the founder's name to the seventh page, or are they going to drop the seventh page, or are they going to drop of space cannot be the reason, as there is over an inch of space to spare on the front page alone.
Apart from local ringers, I have just had the opportunity of mecting some London ringers, and the consensus of opinion is " cheap."
If you - want to lose more readers ther carry on with the "improvements," but I would again quote Mr. Freeborn- "Don't would again quote Mr. Freeborn-'Don' do it"-Yours sincerely. F. I. HAIRS. Groombridge Sussex.

\section*{PREVIOUS DESIGN}

Dear Sir-May I he allowed to say a little about the proposal for a new design for the front page of "The Ringing World"?

This is not a new idea As long ago as Whitsuntide, 1953, when the Central Council met at Bournemouth. I urged ․ The Ringing World " Committee to make such a chanze and. at the same time. I submitted to Mr. J. F. Smallwood a design for this purpose which was drawn by Mr. C. Cullen, who is a ringer and one of the leading commercial artists in london. He is the gentleman who wrote. without charge in beautiful and dignified lettering, the Ringers' Roll of Honour for World War II.
"The Ringing World " Committee were not keen on accepting my proposal at the time but assured me that the committee had already thought of making a change in the layout of page one, and that such a change would be made soon. That was 13 years ago!
Has this design by Mr. Cullen been considered recently? If not, why not? If it has been considered and rejected I should be glad if the drawing could be returned to me as soon as possible.-Yours sincerely.

\section*{UNORIGINAL}

Dear Sir--How can Mr. John Pladdys have the audacity to state that Mr. Whitaker's com. position of 720 Stedman Triples is not original when he frequently publishes unoriginal "compositions" of Plain Bob Major? I refer in particular to a recent "composition " of his published on page 670 of "The Ringing to me several years ago by my old friend M. B. R. Douglas and was as old as the hills when his grandmother, Mrs. Nellie Spriggs, showed it to him!

In any case, wno wants to conduct (or even ring!) a one-part peal containing is courses of unmusical 468's for the sole purpose of obtaining Queens and Whittington? The composition also possesses the unforgivable fault of having six consecutive calls at Wrong. a step which appears to be only necessary for handbell compositions.-Yours faithfully,
London. W.C.

THE "NEW" "RINGING WORLD"
Dear Sir,-For many weeks readers of "The Ringing World ', have been subjected to so much propaganda on the subject that they have been brain-washed into thinking that a change in the journal's title was called for; so much so that they have been led to believe that Mr. Pipe's splendid new design was something they could hardly wait to admire. "The Ringing World ". Committee have put in hours of work and travelled hundreds of miles, we are told, in their efforts to produce, an improved and attractive "Ringing World," an improved and attractive "Ringing World," whose increased appeal would boost its sales. What a hoax!

When I saw this first result of their delib rations I was horrified and dismayed. "The Ringing World " now has the appearance of a cut-price third-rate parish magazine. whose founders' aim was to produce, without any regard for the eye of the reader, the cheapest magazine possible. The new type is most unattractive, and the background which we have enjoyed for as long as we which we have enjoyed for as long as we unrelieved inanity is quite unworthy of both our art and its journal.

What was wrong with the original design?or did familiarity (only) breed contempt? Perhaps some member of "The Ringing. World" Committee would tell us what criticisms had been made to them, or what induced them to, foist this abomination upon "Ringing World" readers. Let us hope that this is only an experiment and that it is not intended to be an irrevocable decision.
There must be others besides myself who feel that it was most fitting that the background to the journal of our activities as church bellringers should have been Canterbury Cathedral. the centre and "father" church of religion in these islands, and of the whole Anglican Communion, and that it should be reinstated-or are we to see in its deletion that the committee is recognising the present lamentable trend towards the secularisation of ringing, when the lure of a peal is greater than that of duty to God and His Church?
If this new design is the committee's first sten towards the new and more attractive "Ringing World" we have been led to anticipate, then heaven preserve us from the second and subsequent ones.-Yours faithfully.
Stoke Poges.

\section*{RINGER-CHORISTER RECORD}

Dear Sir,-In your correspondence columns of August 28th 1966. someone asked if there was anyone who could equal or beat the record of \(\mathbf{M r}\). T. Gascoigne as ringer and chorister mentioned in Mr. J. W. Raithby's letter. I may say that I have been a chorister for 66 years and a ringer for over 65 , and am pleased to say still carrying on in both capacities. Yours truly.
H. JOHNSON.

St. Nicholas' Church, Hereford.

\section*{AN OMISSION}

Dear Sir,-1 believe the composition of Plain Bob Major by Cornelius Charge on page 717 ("Ringing World"" October 28th. 1966) is printed incorrectly. Surely three courses called Ws. 3 H should be inserted as the 11 th. 12 th and 13 th courses in each part, the two final courses being as printed.-Yours sincerely,

EDWARD C. STEELE

\section*{UNJUSTIFIED CRITICISM}

Dear Sir,-May I through the courtesy of this column raise the matter of touring parties making, adverse criticism of the towers they have visited.
I would like in particular to question the remark of "D.R.M.," of St, Katherines Society (page 685). concerning St. James's, Grimsby: "Here two bells proved difficult to handle; investigation aloft showed that an additional frame for the two bells had been strapped to the existing one, an admirable economy but unfortunately the considerable movement of the new fixture failed to justify it."

The admirable economy referred to was part of a major reconstruction of the tower and augmentation costing the economical sum of \(£ 5,000\), approximately. How any touring party can justify such a remark after only one hour's ringing is beyond me, especially as we have at Grimsby 9 - and 10 -year-old learners who handle these bells with aplomb. This does not of course mean that our 9- and 10-yearolds are better ringers than the St. Katherine's Society: it just means that each and every single bell in a peal has to be handled in a differeat manner.
A week or so before the visit of the party named we had had a visit from a Herts ringer well versed in the question of frame movements, etc.-the whole ten bells ringing in peal produced the CONSIDERABLE MOVEMENT of \(1 / 64\) th of one inch.

May. I, with respect to D. R. M., suggest that his remarks about St. James's bells after one hour's ringing are, to say the least, stupid and ill-informed, and that he should in future stick to ringing bells and leave remarks about moving frames, etc.. to the people who are experts in this field.-Yours faithfully,
F. KENNINGTON.

St. James's, Grimsby.

\section*{BRISTOL FESTIVAL}

Dear Sir,-The organisers of the fourth Bristol Festival were gratified when several people thanked them for an enjoyable day. However. it appears to have been marred by one thing
At 12 noon a 40 -minute service had been arranged at the Cathedral, which was very well supported, the Dean obviously going to some trouble to give a special sermon about ringing. Also at 12 noon a "tall fellow with glasses,", who I assume to be Mr. C. Barrie Dove, of Leeds, and "a shorter chap with a bowler hat," who is assumed to be Mr. P. John Hall, of Weston-super-Mare, knocked ar the door of the Vicarage of St. George's Church. East Bristol, to ask if they could ring. The Vicar was out, and his wife was doubtful whether she ought to give them the key. However, on being told that they were "University ringers," she did let them have it. In her own words, "It hardly seemed worth it-they only rang for five minutes." St. George's bells were, of course, available as one of the advertised towers from 2.30 to 3.30 p.m.

To make matters even worse, at the social in the evening the prize of a fountain pen was awarded to the person who had rung at the most towers during the day. This was claimed by Mr. Dove with 15 . How he had the cheek to take it beats us !
The organisers of the Festival and the officers of the Bristol City Branch take a very dim view of this, and are convinced that such snatch and grab tactics whilst a service is being held cannot do the Exercise much good. However, we shall take all precautions possible to ensure that there is no repetition of this sort of thing during the next Festival.-Yours sincerely,

Secretary. Bristol City Branch.

\section*{LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION REVIVE ANNUAL DINNER}

LTHOUGH the menu card read "Annual Dinner," it was in fact almost 30 years since the Lancashire Association had held a dinner. The event was revived on October 29th at the Victoria Hotel, Preston, when almost 120 people sat down to enjoy an excellent meal
On the top table the president and his wife (Canon and Mri. A. Hodgson) were supported by Canon J. M W Adam (Vicar of Preston). Mr. Vernon Bottomley (secretary of the Central Council and president of the Yorkshire Association) and his wife, Jeanne, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dunkerley, Mr. and Mrs. N. Newby. Mr. and Mrs. J Woods, Mr. and Mrs. F Reynolds and Mr. and Mrs. C. Crossthwaite.
Visitors included A. R Peake, B. Bladon W. E. Gearing, F. E. Jones, P. Toombs and the Misses A. D. O'Brien and L. M. Weaver (Gloucester and Bristol). A. G. Keen (Salisbury D.G.), T. Lewis and I. Oram (Kent C.A.), W. A. Theobald (A.S.C.Y.), T. N. J. man (Yorkshire).
In proposing a toast of "The Church," Mr. N. Newby (vice-president) stressed the essential relationshyp between ringers and the Church, and pointed out how all ringers, not merely in this country but also overseas, were drawn together by a common interest through the pages of "The Ringing World." Perhaps other branches of the Church could learn much from the ringers. He also commented on the large number of young people present-among whom were to be found some of their best ringers.

\section*{SINCERITY OF MESSAGE}

Replying, Canon Adam said that he was expected to be witty but not too lengthy (both of which he complied with admirably). He recalled how, when he was still a boy, the sound of the bells of Doncaster Parish Church had drawn him to walk two miles to the church. Ever since then he had loved the sound of bells, and today in a world where noisc was ever on the increase the sound of bells stood alone in the sincerity of their message. No one who heard bells could mistake their message. They might ignore it, but they could never be in any doubt where the sound came from or what it proclaimed He thanked all ringers for this act of Christian witness, and urged them to carry on the good work-the wardens would always be glad to pay for any broken stays !

The health of "The Lancashire Association" was proposed by Vernon Bottomley. who hails, of course from the other side of of the Pennines, where tea is "mashed" instead of "brewed" In drawing attention to the privileges of belonging to an association he emphasised the importance of setting high standards in all that they did. This might make recruitment harder. but he felt that it was often necessary to be ruthless in order to achieve good standards of ringing. In punctuality as well as striking, in attendance as well as progress, they must set the highest standards. Above all, he stressed the importance of the example set by Association officers, tower leaders and secretaries. His advice to all office holders was: "Get out before you lose interest, not when you have lost it."
Vernon was thanked for his toast by, the president, who also gave him the best wishes president, who support from Lancashire in his new job of secretary to the Central Council. It was a great pleasure, he said. to see such a good and enthusiastic gathering as that, the first dinner to be held by the Association for so many years, and he warmly thanked Cyril Crossthwaite and his wife for their work in organising it. He also praised the officers and committee for the excellent way in which they conducted its business.

\section*{" PLAY THE GAME}

He then went on to discuss the relationship between ringers and the public. Generally speaking, the public accepted the sound of bells as par: of our Christian heritage-but occasions could arise when prolonged and frequent ringing would not be acceptable. He therefore urged ringers to accept this possibility and to "play the game" whenever it arose. Commenting on the relationship between ringers and clergy, he suggested that whenever the Vicar came into the belfry, aithough he could not be expected to take a rope, he mighr well appreciate being asked to say a prayer before ringing began. This at least would be something in his own line. All the speakers were thanked for theis efforts by Cyril Crossthwaite and in proposing the toast of "The Guests," he par* ticularly welcomed Fred Dunkerley, who had done so much for the Association in the past. He was also gratified to see so many eminent visitors, particularly two of the "tonup" band from Wiltshire.

Throughout the evening. Frank Reynolds acted as master of ceremonies in a most able manner and kept the proceedings going at just the right pace.
In between speeches the gathering was entertained to some delightful tune ringing by Nick Newby and his two sons, Nick jun. and Keith.
After the formalities had ended there was plenty of time for the meeting of old friends and convivial fellowship, and the general consensus of opinion was that the cvening had been a great success.

\section*{RINGERS' ANNUAL TOUR, 1966}

\section*{THIS year's tour was once again of three} weeks' duration, comprising the last week in July and the first two weeks in August.

The first week was mechanised and held in Cheshire. In all. approximately 80 towers were visited. In spite of the weather doing its worst. this week was much enjoyed.
The second two weeks' was to be a cycling one of the West Midlands, the tour stretching from Shropshire to Gloucestershire. After the Saturday most of the mechanised party left, and on the Monday we were reduced to four and then to three: All hopes of a ringing tour seemed ended and a cycling-onlv tour. with suitable visits, seemed the order of the dav. However, three more joined us. We then rang at all the sixes and eights but did not. of course, ring at the tens and twelves unless this coincided with practice night.
The third week was better, with ten members, but with this number it was still an effor: to get through the programme. "This is all "was called on the Thursday with one day yet to go. It seems almost impossible that in a space of four years we have fallen from having two separate Spliced Surprise Major bands on tour to this !evel!

Next year the tour is to be reduced 10 two weeks, the last week in July and the first in August. The venue will be South East England.

\section*{WINCHESTER & PORTSMOUTH}

\section*{Striking at Bishopstoke}

The Guild's annual striking competition was held at Bishopstoke on October 29th. Hopes for a record number of competing teams this year were not realised and it was particularly disappointing that last year's winners, St Mary's, Southampton, had to withdraw at the last minute. Seven teams were in the final line-up--Ringwood. Alton and Fareham to ring Triples, and Eling, St. Mary's Liss. Kingsclere and Bitterne Park, Southampton, to try Doubles. Mr. C. H. Kippin was the judge, and Canon K. W. H. Felstead. Master of the Guild, acted as belfry marshal

After the ringing. 80 people sat down to ted in the Church Hall Before proceeding with the competition business the Master paid tribute in the memory of Mr. George Pullinger. The news of Mr. Pullinger's sudden passing at Cheitenham on the previous Sunday came as a great shock to many present. Canon Felstead recalled that the Guild owed much to the diligence and keenness of George Pullinger. who had held every office open to him in turn, including that of Master and Guild representative to the Central Council. The assembled ringers stood in silence.

Mr. Kippin gave the results of his afternoon's judging, dealing with each team's effort in order of ringing. Ringwood. who rang 252 Double Grandsire Triples with 141 fanlts, were the winners of the Alliston Cup: Eling ( 174 faults) were runners-up, followed by St. Mary's. Liss, Kingsclere, Alton. Fareham and Bitterne Park in that order.

The Master thanked Mr Kippin for again acting as competition judge.

\section*{OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD \\ Striking Competition}

The Oxford Guild once more held its striking 'competition at Radley, Berks, on Octoher 2Ind. As only six Branches were represented the semt-linals were cancelled. Mr. W. G Wilson and Mr. W. Parker acted as judges.

The results were as follows: 1 Reading (St. Mary's) \(23 \frac{1}{2}\) faults. 2 N. Berks (E. Hagbourne) 441 3. E. Berks and S. Bucks (Burnham) 47, 4 Witney and Woodstock (Eynsham) 60t, 5 Oxford City (Headington) 61t, 6 N. Bucks (Stoney Stratford) 147.

The Stoney Stratford band was a very young one. at least three of the members being under 15 years. They had offered to represent their Branch.

The judges in summing up stressed the importance of the 2nd ringer in setting the pace of a band and commented on the fact that most bands lost marks early in the test because of the inaccuracy of the 2 nd. A band needed its best ringer on that bell as he had to set (as soon as possible) the speed which was needed by the rest of the band.

Mr. Peter Pearce, in the absence of the Master. thanked the judges, the Vicar of Radley, and the young ringers under Miss D. Pollard for the excellent tea

\section*{ESSENTIAL DETAILS MISSING}

Dear Sir-ll would like to refer to the report of the peal of Spliced Surprise Major rung at Heptonstall and published on page 677. The Central Council's Decisions. putlished in the Handbook, state that "reports of peals shall state the number of method; rung and the number of changes from one method to another during the peal." No details of the number of changes were given details of the number of changes were given and I feel that it is an unwise step to start publishing peals in this manner.-Yours sincerely, Putney.

\section*{Mr. WILFRED WILLIAMS' TOUR of the NORTH EAST}

\section*{By TUDOR P. EDWARDS}

TTHE venue chosen for this year's tour was the North East in the Tyne-Tees area. but a suggestion that it should be a T.T. tour was quickly squashed. The vanguard of the party assembled at the Crown Hotel, Bawtry on the Friday. and included Wilfred Williams, Bill Theobald, Jim Pipe, Ralph Edwards, Ted Jenkins. Tudor Edwards, Ken Hesketh and Leslie Barry. We also had Maryl Crossthwaite and John Fielden with us for the first weekend.
Sprotborough's was our first tower on the Saturday and it was decided to ring Pitman's four-spliced, all the work. in memory of the composer, who had died the previous week.

A quick lunch and we were off to Selby. our next tower. Here we were joined by Pat Cannon and George Thoday, who had just finished a tour of Yorkshire. We also met the remainder of the tour party and also Mr and Mrs. C. H. Kippin, and some of them had a quick ring before we started the peal.

Both the Abbey and the bells are magnificent and a good peal of Cambridge Royal was rung. Afterwards we spent a pleasant evening at Selby and then said goodbye and John and Maryl before travelling on to York, where we were stopping for the night.

\section*{PETER AND PAT MEET}

On Sunday morning we rang for Matins at York Minster and we are grateful to the Minster band for letting us join them tor ringing on the magnificent 12 . Then on to Harrogate for lunch and to meet Peter Border, who was suitably congratulated on his performance at Liverpool by the other tenor ringer, from Dorking.
Birstwith's was the afternoon tower and, after a slight detour by some of the band, a peal of London was duly rung. By conducting the peal Peter joined an elite company of conductors including H. Poole, R. F. B. Speed. R. Leale and J. Freeman, who have succeeded in getting Pat through a peal of London.
After the peal we returned to Harrogate and had the pleasure of joining the local band for ringing for Evensong on the delightful if somewhat loud bells at the Parish Church. Then on through appalling weather to Stockton-on-Tees where we were to stay to Stockton-on-Tees where we

The Parish Church at Stockton was our first tower on the Monday morning and the method chosen yas London Royal. However London did not seem to so, and Cambridge was quiekly substituted. This proved to be a wise decision and a very good peal was rung on the grand ring of ten. Bristol was rung at St. Cuthbert's. Darlington, in the afternoon, in spite of the conductor. After finding Wilfred, who had somehow got lost after the peal, we returned to Stockton to meet Stan Mason, who had just arrived.

An advertisement for a well-known brand of kitchen appliance which we were to see quite a few times during the week, and stating that "Cannon is the world's best cooker.; was the cause of much amusement amongst all bar one of the party.

\section*{PUBLICITY}

Following the peal of London at Ormesby the following morning. Wilfred was interviewed by the B.B.C. and the interview was broadcast a number of times during the following days. We were also the subject of an article in the local Press, in which it was stated that Peter had rung Liverpool. Cathedral tenor to 75.280 changes. On reading this, Peter said that 5,280 was enoligh for him.

The afternoon peal was at Skelton-in-Cleveland and a peal of Yorkshire was rung on the bells which although relatively quiet inside the tower are by no means quiet outside, and it was very pleasing to be complimented by a lady living immediately beneath the tower on the quality of the ringing. In the local hostelry afterward we were able to listen to Stan's tape recording of Wilfred's interview, which had been broadcast while the peal was in progress. and also to a recording of part of the peal. Stan was to take recordines of most of the peal attempts and it is helpful to listen to and constructively criticise ringing immediately on completion of a peal.

Wednesday morning saw us at West Hartlepool, where we received a very warm welcome from the local incumbent and also had a group photograph taken by the local Press. Because of the awkwardly placed clock case the smaller members of the band were placed smaller members of the band were placed Cambridge Royal was rung.

\section*{A highlight}

A hurried lunch and we were on our way to Newcastle for one of the highlights of the week-a peal at the Cathedral The peal was to be rung in the evening and, after booking into our hotel, we made our way to the tower. A number of the party were a little late in arriving at the tower due to the evening traffic, but we were soon away ringing Cambridge Maximus on the fine bells. A good peal was rung without incident and a pleasant hour was spent afterwards in the "Post Office" in the company of some of the local ringers. We were all quite taken by the friendliness and atmosphere of this hostelry and we were to visit it time and again during our stay in Newcastle.
The week so far had been highly successful with 100 per centage success in our peal attempts. Leslie's score sheet at this stage was also quite impressive-no peals. nine new towers and ten new breweries. However, things were not destined to proceed as smoothly for the next day or so.

London Royal was going quite well on the pleasant ten at Gosforth the following morning, but after approximately three-quarters of an hour's ringing the stay on the second fell out with a loud crash and the peal was lost in the resulting confusion. This was our first failure of the week and Bill remarked that it was the first time this week his prayers had been answered.

\section*{SECOND FAILURE}

Following a leisurely lunch hour we made our way to Fenham for the afternoon attempt. The bells and all connected with them are a fine example of the best of the bellfounders work and the only possible complaint is that they are a little loud in the tower. We started off ringing London but our efforts did not mateh our surroundings. Cambridge was substituted but this was not to be ous day, as after about an hour's ringing an irate local gentleman entered the tower and that was the end of the attempt

That evening we had a ring on the heavy six at Wylam, just outside Newcastle, thus enabling Pat to complete all the ringable bells in Northumberland. Afterwards we met Jack Fielden, who was on holiday at Whitlev Bay, and a pleasant time was had by all discussing the relative merits of two wellknown bell foundries.

The Watch Tower at Morpeth was the venue on Friday morning and Bristol the method. Before starting. Eric went up to the bell chamber to fix the shutters over the louvres as the tower is right in the centre of the busy town The ringing went very well but with nearly two-thirds of the peal com pleted a loud banging on the trap door of the ringing room and the efforts of someone to get in nearly resulted in the conductor being lifted off her feet. This caused a momentary lapse of concentration and the peal was miscalled. Unfortunately the louvres had not been completely blocked and the ringing was causing considerable inconvenience to local office and shop workers, and it was probably best that the peal had been lost, so that no further trouble was caused by continued ringing.

On the way to Whitley Bay for the afterinon attempt we had a ring on the grand, if extremely noisy, six at Cramlington. A number of the party who arrived at the towe: early were conveniently situated near the local turf accountant's, and a certain horse with Weish connections proved quite profitable.
Our run of ill luck continued at Whitley Bay, where eight-spliced was lost after an hour's good ringing. After the attempt we said goodbye to Peter, who was off to collect his family, and also to Mike Maughan, whn had joined us for a number of peals during the week and was now off on Tom Lock's tour.

\section*{FIFTH SUCCESSIVE LOSS}

Bishopwearmouth's was the Saturday morning tower, and again ill luck was with our efforts, for with four courses of Lincolnshire rung a large piece of plaster came away from the wall in the room above the ringing chamber and in the resulting confusion the peal was lost.
Five successive losses-and we were beginning to wonder if we would ring another peal during the week. As we had time to spare we were able to have a short ring at Sunderland Parish Church. We at last broke our series of bad luck by ringing a good peal of Yorkshire Royal on the fine Gillett ten at Roker in the afternoon.
Sunday morning saw us joining the Cathedral band for ringing for Matins. The apparent difference between the Cathedral hells when they are rung to Cinques as compared to Maximus is quite remarkable and there were quite a number of the party who wished we had rung Cinques earlier in the week.

After a farewell visit to the "Post Office" for lunch we set out for Blackhill. where the afternoon attempt was scheduled at the Roman Catholic Church. However, on arrival we found that recent damage to the tower made ringing impossible, but as compensation we were able to have a short ring on the interesting eight at Blackhill Angltcan Church.
We then started retracing our steps to York and a number of the party made a slight detour to visit the magnificent Cathedral at Durham on the way. For Evensong we rang on the extremely fine eight at Northallerton.
During the course of a pleasant evening spent at the hotel at York Wilfred was presented with a gift as a small token of our thanks for arranging yet another tour.

All 100 soon our final day was with us. In the morning we rang a College Youths peal of Bristol in the semi-darkness of All Saints' Pontefract Then the long journey to Hull Parish Church for a peal of Stedman Cinques on the fine 12 with Pat ringing the tenor in his own unmistakable style.
Thus ended another of Wilfred's toursgood company, good bells and good ringing. We would all like to express our gratitude to Peter Rock, Eric Harrison, Eric Critchley and all the others who helped to make the tour a success. Our thanks also to all the local ringers and incumbents.

\section*{HERTS COUNTY ASSOCIATION Northern District}

For the first time for many years the District visited Royston on October 29th: it was an evening meeting under the direction of Mike Trigg and over 40 people attended during the two hours the bells were available. The number of young people present was most encouragin: and it is hoped they will attend more District meetings in the future.
The evening's ringing finished at \(8.45 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}\)., when most of those present made their way to the Star. Melbourn, mine host being Ben Scoot, one-time Baldock ringer and a good friend to the District.

\section*{OBITUARY}

MR. W. H. HEWETT

\section*{An Appreciation}

Dear Sir,-To those who have frequented the ringing chamber of St. Margaret's, Westminster, even at any time during the period of the last 60 years, the absence of William H. Hewett will be keenly felt. It has rightly been said that the great reputation at St. Margaret's, after his taking over the leader: ship from another London stalwart, the late James E. Davis, was due to Bill Hewett.
His quiet disposition did not reveal how much he had done for such a long time, for not only did he regularly maintain Sunday service ringing in this famous ten-bell tower, but adequately fulfilled the responsibility of arranging ringing on these bells for State and Parliamentary occasions in addition to innumerable society weddings. Really, his duties have been unique in the annals of campanology.

William H. Hewett was a very respected member of the Middlesex County Association and London Drocesan Guild. His membership commenced in 1905 and his first peal -at St. George's, Camberwell, on April 21st, 1906 was rung for the Association. This and many other of his peals were rung under the conductorship of the late William Pye.

After conducting thousands of people around the streets of London in his taxi-cab and conducting scores of ringers along the paths of various methods. Bill has truly earned his rest.

\section*{MR. GEORGE PULLINGER}

\section*{An Appreciation}

It was with great regret that I read of the tragic and sudden death of George Pullinger. During my residence in Hampshire I had the privilege of ringing with George at his own tower at Bishopstoke and at the farfamed tower of North Stoneham. the latter tower then having only eight bells.

It was a pleasure to see the masterly way he handled his bell through a peal, with only one arm. And almost 50 years to the day of his death I can well remember ringing my first peal of Double Norwich at Bishopstoke where George faultlessly rang the third. This peal was conducted by his old friend George Williams.
H. BADGER.

\section*{MR. DONALD THOMPSON}
'With the death of Mr. Donald Thompson at the age of 88 years on October 31st, St. Paul's, Bedford, lost one of its most faithful ringers and its chief link with the past.

At the age of 17 Don rang his first peal on the tenor of the old ring of eight in 1895. It was at ringing the tenor behind that he excelled until only a few years ago, his more recent ringing being confined to hunting the treble, which he could still do very well if the other beils kept right.

During the last few months he had been eagerly awaiting the rehanging of the bells and sadly, missed this by only a few weeks. He last rang at Bromham onlv eight days before his death, and a quarter peal was rung there as a tribute \(t 0 \mathrm{him}\) on the eve of his funeral

\section*{PETERBOROUGH GUILD ANNUAL DINNER}

THE 1966 annual dinner of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild was held in the Assembly Room at the Town Hall, Northampton, on October 22nd. The chair was taken by the president, the Rev. Ernest G. Orland, and he was supported by the Rt. Rev. A. R. GrahamCampbell (Assistant Bishop), Mr. E. A. Barnett (past secretary of the Central Council) and Mrs. Barnett, Messrs. H. Peacock (Ely Dioccesan Guild), J. H. Bluff (Guild Master) and E. Billings (Guild secretary).
The toast of "The Church" was proposed by the Guild Master, who spoke about ringing being the most fascinating of all sports. Eishop A. R. Graham-Campbell replied and in his preface spoke of the only sad faces at a dinner belonging to those who had to make a speech. He went on to say how grateful he was to have been asked to speak about the Church at this dinner. especially in view of the present day criticism of the Anglican Church as "a noble ruin." He made the point that people had been saying for over 300 years that the Church of England was dying. but it nevertheless had shown a tough vitality and, for a "falling " Church, it had learned the trick of rising again.
In conclusion, he stated that ringers had a real place in the life of the Church-the Church existed for the worship of God, and ringers called people to church and reminded those who were unable to go of the Church's message; and, further to this, that ringing should be an act of worship in itself.
Mr. E. A. Barnett proposed the toast of "The Peterborough Diocesan Guild " and began by saying how fortunate the Guild were in its choice of secretary He mentioned that the Peterborough Guild was unique in that the Rutland Branch was formed in 1933 and this was reported at the time in "The Ringing World" as the last part of England coming under the wing of organised ringing. He under the wing of organised ringing. He in covering the whole of the Peterborough Diocesc and not being divided by different ringing bodies within its own boundaries.
The president of the Guild replied, quoting the objects of the Guild. He stated how well they had been carried out-especially the first three, but continued on a more sombre note, speaking of the perennial problem of maintaining and furtherins the art of change ringing, and of the difficult task of training learners to be good and faithful members of a band. He concluded his remarks by suggesting that more activity should be undertaken by the Guild as a whole in this field.
The toast of "Our Guests" was proposed by the Guild secretary. who explained how he tried to invite each year guests who were representatives of all the various aspects of organised ringing. In reply, Mr. H. Peacock. ganised ringing, In reply, Mr. H. Peacock. three of his Guild's towers were within sight of Peterhorough Cathedral. He expressed the thanks of all the guests for the hospitality they had received.

A very successful evening was rounded off by the entertaining act of Mr. N. Ayris, magician.

\section*{DURHAM AND NEWCASTLE DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION}

The Southern District had an enjoyable meet ing at St. John's, Shildon, on October 22nd, with a good attendance, which included the Association's president, Mr. W. Tyson. An enthusiastic band of beginners at St. John's under the leadership of Mr. George White. has made many improvements to the belfry, and everything in the tower was in excellent order.

From rounds and call changes for learners to Bristol. Lincolnshire and Spliced Surprise Major. there was a good variety of ringine at all stages.
At the meeting which followed tea, the Association's Ringing Master. Mr. Kenneth Arthur, outlined the scheme for scrapping he Association's present four Districts and substituting three. Under the suggested division. the Southern District would lose Brancepeth (eight) and would gain West Hartlepool, with two eights and a ten-bell tower. This met with general approval, but Mr. Arthur stressed thot the proposals he had outlined had not yet been finally determined

Next year's programme of meetings was settled, and there was further ringing until 8.30 p.m., when the Shildon ringers served refreshments, and some of the keenest stayed on for handbeli ringing.

In the peal at Coddington, Notts (page 732) the name of the ringer of the fifth was inadvertently omitted. He was J. Edward Brown. Apologies.

With a peal of Maximus at Holy Trinity Kingston-upon-Hult, on November 5th, Geof frey W. Randall completes the Cambridge circult of Minor to Maximus.

The Society of Rambling Ringers are reducing their tour next year to two weeksthe last week in July and the first in August. The venue will be South East England.

The peal of 12 -Spliced Surprise Major rung ar Ashton-under-Lyne on October 12 th was a memorial deal to Mr. Peter Wycherley's mother-in-law.

The last ring on the bells of St. Andrew's. Headington, Oxford, before being dismantled. was on October 30 th . when they were rung half-muffled in sympathy with the vietims of the Aberfan disaster.

Corrections.-The peal at Erith. Kent, on page 730 was 5,184 Yorkshire Surprise Major and not London, as printed. The handbell peal at Halling, Kent. on page 732, should have Stuart Sandford ringing \(9=10\).
To the list of strange requests at weddings must be added an incident at Thurnby, Leics, when the ringers were asked by the best man to stop ringing because the bridal group could not hear the photographer's instructions.

In aid of a new sixth bell at Blaby, near Leicester, a choral evensong was held on October 29 h . A Northampion ringer who attended and rang on the five states it was "good music and singing of the very highest order."

\section*{ROPES CUT AT MORPETH WATCH TOWER}

Four of the eight bell ropes in Morpeth Watch Tower have been severed by vandals Three were cut immediately above the sally and one about a foot above. The ropes were installed last April and the damage is estimated at \(£ 22\)

A spokesman at the Morpeth Borough Surveyor's Department said (as reported in the "Newcastle Evening Chronicle" of Novem ber 1st): "It is sheer wanton and wilful damage, done, we assume, by youths who have nothing better to do. It has certainly not been done by children. This is obvious from the height at which the ropes were cut."

The clock tawer door was locked as usual. but the vandals found a way of forcing it of its hinges. The door has now been fixed more securely and a new lock fitted.

\section*{NEW SPLICED MAJOR RECORD}

Another advance has been made in Spliced Surprise Major. Anthony R. Peake's band rang at Malmesbury Abbey on November 5th a peal in 110 methods. This is the greatest number of Surprise and Major methods yet rung to a peal, and included nine methods not rung previously. Congratulations to all.

\section*{DIAMOND JUBILEE, OF HIS FIRST PEAL} OF STEDMAN
Few ringers live to have the distinction of Major J. H. R. Freeborn. of Cambridge, and formerly of Oxford. On October 29 th he rang in a peal of Stedman Cinques to mark the 60th anniversary of his first peal in the method. This was a Cambridge University Guild peal at Saffron Walden. The peal was also to celebrate the Major's 79 h birthday which took place the previous day.

\section*{NEVER BEFORE}

Recently we have recorded a number of very young ringers scoring their first peal. This week from the private campanile of Mr. A. A. Jopp. at Stoulton (tenor 107 lb . in C) comes a peal of Plain Bob Minor in which eight-year-old Paul Jopp was ringing his first peal and his hrother Andrew (aged 13) was conducting To Andrew's query. "Is this a record for two brothers aged eight and 13 to ring their first peal and first as conductor respectively on their own bells?" we would reply "Unquestionably."

\section*{ELUSIVE STEDMAN}

Among the many who have found success at Stedman elusive is Mr. A. R. Sage, of Clevedon. He selected a party to ring a quarter at Calne Parish Church on November 1 st in honour of the silver wedding anniversary of his daughter. Mrs. Gwendoline Tur ner. With one exception the band came from the Chew Deanerv Branch: the quarter was lost after 35 minutes. A similar misfortune befell Mr. Sage's party on April 19th, also at Calne (Mr. Sage's old cower). To the ringers who made these special journeys Mr. Sage extends his sincere thanks.

FIRST PEAL ON BELLS SINCE 1911
The peal at St. Thomas', Salisbury, is the first of Stedman on the bells since George Williams took a band there on Easter Monday April 14th, 1911, and conducted Thurstans' peal.
There have been a number of attempts including a special endeavour five years ago to mark the jubilee of the 1911 peal. but all have been unsuccessful. It is inconceivable that the hand who rang so long ago would have imagined that it would take so long for others to emulate their achievement!

\section*{FROM THAMESSIDE TO CENTRAL} AFRICA
A letter to the "Daily Mirror" asking for an old bell for the little church to he opened a Palanye, Botswana, Africa. on Christmas Fve, has been responded to by Burrell and Co.. chemical colour manufacturers of Millwall, London. They have offered a 3 cwt. hell recast for them in 1892, and also to pay the shipping cost. Burrells believe that the original bell was used as a work bell during the construction of the famous "Great Eastern" steamship built there in the 1850's.

\section*{PEAL CONCENTRATION IN HERTS}

During the past month Hertfordshire has seen an invasion of ringers each Saturday for the purpose of ringing two eight-bell peals. The arrangements were carried out by Mr. Martin Press Five attempts were successful. only onc attempt being lost halfway. One ringer was heard to comment that this was the "Press Peal Month": indeed it was. Our thanks to Martin for organising this unusual peal tour! and to all incumbents for the use of their bells.

\section*{LICHFIELD DIOCESAN FESTIVAI.}

In September, 1960, the first Lichfield Diocesan Festival was held in North Staffordshire, and on September 17th it was again the turn of the North Staffordshire Association to be hosts to the other two Associations in the Diocese of Lichfield- the Shropshire As sociation and the Stafford Archdeaconry Society.

This year the festival was centred on Uttoxeter and included some towers in the "Churnet" and "Dove" valleys. Ringing started in Cheadle, where there are two churches with bells and both having the same dedication-St. Giles. The Parish Church has a ring of six with a tenor of 14 cwt . in F . and the Roman Catholic Church a typical ring of eight bells- 14 cwt . It is perhaps fortunate that the two rings are tuned in the same key of F, as the bells are within earshot of each other

After lunch, ringing continued at Mayfield (a ring of six) in a church which some people had difficulty in finding: Ellastone (a tricky six); Alton (a new Taylor eight) and perhaps the best ring of the day; and Leigh (also a recently cast ring with six bells).

The annual service was held at Uttoxeter and was followed by a three-course meal in the Church Hall. Evening ringing was at Uttoxeter (an octave with the tenor slightly out of tune.), Rocester (a good light eight rung from the ground floor) and Alton, where a course of Glasgow was rung.

Thanks are due to our friends in North Staffordshire for their organisation of this festival, and to incumbents and tower captains.

Whilst an enjoyable day was had by all. it should be remembered that this was a diocesan festival. and perhaps next year a more representative gathering of ringers will be possible.
J. H. A.

\section*{RINGING MASTER MARRIES TOWER} SECRETARY
Octoher 22nd, the last day of British Summer Time, was marked by the wedding of two Little Aston ringers, Michael W. Fairey and Anthea \(C\). Richards. The bridegroom is Ringing Master at Little Aston and also Ringing Master of the Stafford Archdeaconry Society. The bride is secretary of the Little Aston ringers.

The Vicar, the Rev. H. H. Follis, officiated at the choral service, the bridegroom having been a member of the choir for many years. The bride, who was given away by her father, Mr. C. L. Richards, wore a full-length white satin gown with fur-trimmed sleeves. Her long shower veil was held in place by is white rose. The matron of honour was ber sister, Mrs. Annette Corner, who had flown from Geneva for the occasion. Mr, Neil Fairey was best man to his brother.

The local band, many of whom had been taught to ring by the bridegroom. rang before and after the service. Some 75 guests attended the reception at Penns Hall Hotel, Sutton Coldfield Despite a frantic search. the familiar green Austin Cooper car could not be found and the newly-weds got off to a rather rapid start to their married life.

\section*{KNARESBOROUGH ACTIVE}

We are pleased to hear of activity at Knaresborough. Yorks, where the bells have rarely been fully rung. The band is composed of old and new ringers and it is hoped to have eight-bell ringing for Christmas.

\section*{Shorter Peals would mean Lowering the Standard}

WVHEN the article by "Rebellious" advocating the shortening of peals was selected, the Editor expected that some pertinent letters on the subject would be received. So far no reader has written supporting the views of "Rebellious."
R. C. Stevens points out that peals today are cheaper and easier to obtain than 50 years ago. Transport facilities are far better and towers which were considered inaccessible without a good deal of walking now receive many visitors because of the motor car and public transport.
"Rebellious" has said that three hours' ringing is too much for the public ear. He has, however, mentioned that many towers have had to install some form of sound control. This can be done in such a way that the bells can be practically inaudible outside, and yet with a slight adjustment, inside the belfry, the bells can be made to sound and drown the entire parish, if desired. This question of disturbing the public can be overcome if the local ringers have their interests at heart.

On the question of length Mr. Stevens says: "Our friend questions why we stick to our forefathers' tradition of 5,000 changes for a peal. Surely a standard was set when peals first started, and ever since that date we have kept to that standard. Are we now to lower the standard set by these people? I trust not. It is my opinion that if people want to ring a shorter touch, they are at liberty to do so. As a peal ringer myself, however, I am very much against dropping our standards. Let the peal remain at a minimum of 5,000 changes, or, dare I say, lengthen it so that the peal is even more sacred than it is now."

Mr. Stevens concludes with this point: "If a peal is to be regarded as anything over 1,260 changes, as suggested. it will in some cases lower the standard of striking. A band will put up with bad ringing for this time, but very few people will ram a less experienced ringer through 5,000 changes."

Samuel J. Harris, of Wigston, Leicester, adds a touch of humour by a postscript: "It seems as if your sacred cow has turned out to be so much "bull!!" He makes some good points as follows: "This is not the first time this subject has been broached, but isn't the attitude just typical of this day and age? Oh, yes! let's cut down the length and we shall all be in the peal columns without having to do any graft; in fact we shall have practically got something for nothing!"
"I would be so bold as to suggest that the writer of the article has practically answered himself. He goes into details of his gliding achievements for which he is to be congratulated. Let me ask him if he would be satisfied with having gained his 'Silver C' with a couple of 'hops' and a circuit from a winch launch. Of course he wouldn't. So why then lower his ringing standards which have been set and maintained for 200 years? I personally would never subscribe to this lowering; I prefer to earn my peals."
Robert C. Kippin, of Cove, Farnborough, who describes himself as "one of the many selfish peal ringers accused of annoying the general public," gives a logical answer to "Rebellious." He writes:
"Firstly, let us get the facts straight. True, the majority of towers are in built-up areas, but most of the towers at which peals are regularly rung are either so situated that the sound of the bells does not annoy, or have efficient sound control.
"Secondly, the general public dislike 'touch' ringing more than peal ringing since a continuous noise can become more acceptable to the ear than an intermittent one. Also, the standard of striking in peals is generally far higher than in touches, especially at ringing meetings, where the general standard of striking is appalling.
"Why do we ring peals? Not because it is a feat of endurance, as your correspondent suggests, but because it is the only way that really good ringing can be achieved in many cases. Agreed, 5,000 is an arbitrary number of changes to select as the minimum; when you come to think of it 6,000 or 7,000 would have been just as good. But to fix our 'peal' standard at 720 or 1,260 changes would be to defeat the object of the Exercise, since it is often after the first thousand changes of a peal that the best ringing occurs, especially on an unfamiliar ring of bells.
"What would happen if 'peal' ringing were restricted as is suggested? The best ringers, deprived of their good ringing, would soon drift away from the Exercise, and the Exercise, weakened by the loss of their best ringers, would eventually collapse. So, you see, peal ringing is a very necessary evil if the ringing Exercise is to continue in being at all.
"As far as 'The Ringing World' is concerned the reason that peals take up four times as much room as quarter peals is that the striking is usually four times as good!
"Finally, may I suggest that 'Rebellious' would be better employed ringing a few more peals rather than filling up valuable space in our paper with abstruse questions. The more peals you ring the more you enjoy them,"

\section*{Queen Mother Present at Aldgate Rehallowing}

UUEEN ELIZABETH the Queen Mother, the Lord Mayor of London (Sir Lionel Denny) the Bishop of London and the Archdeacon of London were among the congregation at St . Botolph's, Aldgate, on November 8 ch for the rehallowing of the church. which was badly damaged by an unexplained fire in August 1965, and the restoration of the bells, which had been silent for eight years.

The work on the bells was substantial. The front four were cast by Thomas Lester in 1744 and the others also came from the Whitechapel Foundry of Lester and Pack. The sixth bell did not respond to tuning and had to be recast. All the canons were removed and new fittings provided. The existing oak frame which is over 200 years old, has been replaced by an iron frame hung at a lower leve to combat the oscillation, which was notorious

The contract has been undertaken by the Whitechapel Foundry, the report on the work necessary being prepared by Mr. William Hughes. An innovation to enable the bells to be rung on week-days by electrical motivation has been designed by Mr. Douglas Hughes, the apparatus being set to ring Sted man Triples. The rehanging of the bells was undertaken by Mr. W. Theobald.

\section*{RINGING PLANS}

Ringing before the service was under the direction of Mr. Philip Corby. and those taking part were Mrs. Corby, Miss Colgate, Messrs. John Rock, E, A. Barnett, Alan Frost, W. Williams, J. Phillips, J G. M. Prior and Alan Tubbs. It included four-spliced and, as the distinguished visitors apptroached Aldgate.. Stedman Triples. It is hoped to ring the bells each Sunday for the 10 am . Communion service, the arrangements being in the hands of Mr. P. A. Corby. On two Sundays a month he is hoping to have College Youths bands and other offers would be welcome.

There were two processions, the first being the Lord Mayor's headed by the City Marshal and including Common Councilmen, Sheriffs and Alderman of the Ward.

Her Majesty and her suite were timed to arrive five minutes later. The Queen Mother was accompanied by Ruth Lady Fermay and Captain Peter Norman. Preceded by the churchwardens. Her Majesty processed along the aisle with the Bishop of London (the Rt Rev. R. Stopford). Behind them came the Rector (the Rev. Derek Harbord) and the Archdeacon of London (the Ven. Martin Sullivan).

Six hymns were sung during the service the singing being led by the Renatus Harris organ of 1676. which has been rebuilt as part of the restoration work. The firs lesson was read by the Alderman of the Ward. Sir Bernard Waley-Cohen, a former Lord Mayor, who launched an appeal in 1964 to get the bells ringing again. This lesson was King Solomon's great prayer at the dedication of the Temple. The second was read by the Archdeacon and the prayers offered by the Rector.

\section*{SILKEN ROPES FROM ELIZABETH I}

The Bishop of London, in his sermon. out lined the history of the church, stating that a church had stood on that site since Saxon times and there were three other churches in London dedicated to St. Botolph, who was Saxon saint. The Bishop mentioned the links between the Church and the first Queen Elizabeth. In 1553 Queen Mary and Princess Elizabeth entered the City through Aldgate and paid 4d. to the ringers. On the Palm Sunday following, Princess Elizabeth was imprisoned in the Tower, and when she became Queen in 1558 she did not forget the bells of Aldgate that brought so much pleasure to her, and presented to the tower silken bell ropes.

The building escaned the Great Fire but in its turn became ruinous by 1740 . There was no alternative but to rebuild and the architect was George Dance. the architect for the Mansion House
As to the work of St. Botolph's today, the Bishop said it was there the City and the East End of London met. In their crypt they had developed work on four evenings a week for homeless men. and also two years ago he inaugurated a series of weekly lunch hour services conducted by a Free Church minister services conducted by a Free Cheonformists in the City.
Speaking about the bells, the Bishop said that when the appeal was launched the Queen headed the subscription list and the City Corporation made a valuable and generous gif!. The Whitechanel Foundry, which had looked after the bells since 1570, was commissioned o carr; cut the wirk

We thank God for many things; not merely for 3 building with so much history that has been restored. In this service we rededicate the building for the worship of God and we thank Him for all the skill of the craftsmen that has gone into the restoration and we pray that God will rehallow this and we pray that God building for His service."

The bells rang out again as the distinguished guests left the church and went to Sir John Cass Technical College for tea. Here a number of presentations were made to the Queen Mother and included Mr. William Hughes and Mr. W. Theobald. Among those present was Mrs. Hughes, the widow of the ate Mr. A. A. Hughes, who was a churchwarden of St. Botolph's.

\section*{OSWY STREET CUP COMES HOME}

THE fifth Oswy Street contest was held at West Retford on October 22nd. All the eight teams found difficulty with the oddstruck bells and faults were plentiful.

The rules of the contest had been drastically revised by the District Committee to cope with the record entry from four counties Each band rang a practice piece of 72 changes or less, a test piece of 360 changes and, apart from preliminary icunds, no other ringing as all. To further simplify the contest, penalty faults were entirely removed (under the old rules these could be acquired in no less than three distinct ways).

East Retford had to ring first, as three of their band were tea ladies. Their unreadiness was the conductor's fault ; he had spent so lone putting the bells to rights in the morning that he was late home for dinner. Judge's comment: "Too many clips, not enough rounds before starting the test piece. 115 faults.'

Shelford followed with more Oxford Treble Bob, but in much finer style. "Some chipsnot a bad effect altogether. 60 faults.
In the absence of Warsop. Derby Cathedral " \(A\) " rang with common consent, as they had a meeting to attend. Cambridge Surprise, rung very slowly; a peal at the same rate would have taken' \(3 \ddagger\) hours. "Rather high. 134 faults."

The first closed-lead ringing of the day was provided by Roughtown, who rang the favourite method for the contest. "Scrappy in places. 115 faults.

Derby Cathedral "B " rang Plain Bob and " never really got going. 174 faults." Back to Oxford for Friezland, with closed leads: "Basic rhythm O.K. Faults frequent. 106 faults." Fast Plain Bob from Sawley, whose test piece was a big improvement on their practice: "Good rhythm. Chipping frequent. 83 faults."

Most were at tea when the winners, Warsop. rang their 360 of Oxford. "A pleasure to listen to," said the judge, Harold Chant, and gave them so faults
When announcing the results, he said that the ringing had been very interesting to listen to though by no means up to the standard of the recent contest at Gamston.

Accepting the cup from its donor, Mr. Benjamin Street, Herbert T. Rooke. conductor of the Warsop band, said what general satisfac tion it would give to Nottinghamshire ringers that the cup had come home at last. In previous contests the winners had always been Yorkshire or Derbyshire teams. Oswy Street himself had been a fine ringer and had done much for ringing in and around Relford. The cup presented by his son served not only to perpetuate his memory but also as an incentive to ringers to improve and be more critical of their standards.

A fine tea was prepared in the Ebsworth Hall by the North Notts Tea Committee and helpers. A raffle for the Diocesan Bell ReDair Fund reatised \(£ 25\) s.

The District chairman, Mr. Harold Denman. expressed his delight at the increased popularity of the contest and hoped for even more entries next year. He moved the votes of thanks.

\section*{RIVALRY BETWEEN ESSEX \\ AND SUFFOLK}

FRIENDLY rivalry between Essex and Suffolk in multi-method Minor ringing was a theme at the 13th annual dinner of the Essex Association at the Shire Hall. Chelmsford, on October 29 th The Master (Mr. R. G. Heazel), who was accompanied by his wife, presided over a company of 120 . Guests of honour were Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Pipe, the Archdeacon of Colchester and Southend and Miss Welch. Also on the tod table were Mr and Mrs. H Turner and Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Clark.
Following an excellent meal, the toast of "The Queen " was proposed by the Master, who then proceeded to give the toast of "The Church:' He spoke with deep regret of the death of the Bishop of Colchester, the Rt. Rev F. D. V. Narborough, and mentioned that he had represented the Association at the funeral. On a much more joyous occasion in his capacity as Master he had attended the service in York Minster when Eric Gordon. Provost of Chelmsford Cathedral, was appointed Bishop of Sodor and Man. A suitable response to the toast of "The Church " was made by the Rev. W. N. Welch, Archdeacon of Southend.
The toast of "The Essex Association" was proposed by Mr. George W. Pipe, Master of the Suffolk Guild. Mr. Pipe spoke of the longstanding friendly relationship between Essex and Suffolk ringers. He ventured to comment that possibly one of the reasons for being invited to the Essex dinner was so that certain Essex ringers could get some hot news on how to ring Multi-Minor, following upon the Suffolk Guild's feat of ringing Spliced Minor in 148 methods, beating the previous record held by the Essex Association by three methods.

Replying, Mr. Donald E. Cobb, Master of the South Western Division, congratulated the Suffolk Guild on their recent Spliced Minor accomplishment, but pointed out that the conductor of that series of peals was an Essex man, who had learned to ring in an Essex belfry. The theme of Mr. Cobb's speech was preparing and planning for the future. He spoke of the urgency to recruit and teach new ringers and appealed to all to do heir hed that in a few years' time he would be able to come in a few years time he would be and speak to a company much greater than at that day's gathering and acclaim the Essex Association second to none.
Mr. Andrew S. Hudson. Master of the South Eastern Division, in proposing the toast to "The Life Members. Guests and Artistes." thanked the life members elected in 1966 for their loyalty to the Association and hoped that they would continue their membership for many years. He thanked the guests of honour, Mr. and Mrs. G. W Pipe and recalled that at a Christmas social in Suftolk where Mr. Pipe was giving a film show on Australian ringing. his impressions of Australia being upside down were quickly confirmed when the first slide of the evening showed a band of ringers standing upside down on the ceiling with the ropes going through the floor. The Glee-Ward Singers, who provided popular tunes in between the speeches, were also thanked by Mr. Hudson. The Ven. A. V. G.
Cleall, Archdeacon of Colchester, replied for Cleall, Arc
With the speeches over, everyone was free to renew old and make new acquaintances, There was general agreement that the 13 th annual dinner was undoubtedly the hest. P . G. B

\section*{North Muskham Captain's 70th Birthday}

Charlie Copp, the genial tower captain at North Muskham, Notts, took part in his 70th birthday peal at North Muskham on November 4th. He rang his first peal at his own tower on January 7th. 1950, and the birthday pea was his 75th. Very few ringers who start as late in life continue over the years as Charlie has done.

\section*{MR. W. H. HEWETT}

Appreciations were ably expressed to the memory of William H. Hewett, of Westminster, in our last issue.

Biographical details have now been received from John Euston. Bill was born at Cam verwell on June 4ih, 1886, and died on October 30th. 1966. He attended St George' Church and School and learned to ring with Jim Davies. When Jim became tower secretary of St. Margaret's he recruited Bill as a junior 10 Si. Margaret's Society about 1905 and he had been a regular ringer there ever since.

His first peal was at St George's. Camberwell, on April 21st. 1906, and his first at St. Margaret's-Stedman Caters- on July 27th, 1907. From 1916 Bill was in charge at St. Margaret's and the Abbey bells. At 6 a.m. on November 13th, 1918, he was called to prepare the Abbey bells (then only six) to signa the end of World War I. He collected a band and they rang at 11 a.m. Later he organised the first touches on the restored and augmented ring at the Abbey.
Throughout all the years Bill managed to keep logether a friendly voluntary band at St. Margaret's, and in 1963 he and Reuben Sanders were each presented with a cheque by the Rector (Canon M. Stancliffe) in recognition of their valued services" to the nition
On Thursday evening. November 3rd. hls body was received into St. Margaret's Church by the Rector (Canon M. Stancliffe), who conducted the service, and in a short address commended to the many ringers present Bill's service to the Church. A course of Grandsire Caters was rung by Mrs. F. Hairs 1-2, W. G. Wilson 3-4, E. A. Barnett 5-6, J. Euston 7-8 F. Hairs 9-10.

Among those present were Mesdames E Deal. E. Davis. E. Sanders and Stiffell. Mr and Mrs. F Hairs, Mr. and Mrs. G. Hart. Mr. and Mrs W. Oatway, Mr. and Mrs. N Bagworth, Mr and Mrs R. The interment was at Camberwell New Cemetery the next day.

\section*{GEORGE PUILINGER}

Appreciations
As were many members of the Exercise, I was shocked to hear of George's sudden demise. 1 knew George in the '20's when I was a schoolboy and he an attendance officer. He carried out this iob with meticulous efficiency and soon struck fear into the local boys, wrongly, as I later found out. To him I was lways Master Hill.
As a choirboy I saw George regularly in his place at least once each Sunday after ringing for service With the breaking of my volce 1 was invited to try my hand at ringing It was the late George Grant who taught me to handle a bell My first introduction to change ringing was when the hand met one short for Grandsire for a special service. I was put on the treble knowing little about it : George steered me through whilst keeping most of the band as well.
After leaving Bishopstoke 1 cycled to meetings all over the county with George, beine pushed into this or that method always with the warning: "If George Williams is there he will want to know if you have looked it up." This psychology worked.
I was tutored in conducting and at 16 called 5.040 Grandsire Doubles and the next year 5,040 Triples (Holt's ten-part) with a local band George never liked peal ringing-the strain was too muci for his one arm-but he was always the first to stand in for someone's "first " and to assist a learner in some wav
Once you gol to know him. the dour impression he gave soon went and he was al

Here are two handy touches of Stedman Caters. The second is only a simple extension of the first; and, indeed, working from this opening course, it is not difficult to construct a number of longer touches, all leading to 312456978 and then home, as shown here.
The homing course may, owing to the number of calls, seem complicated, but this is not so. The bob at 6 holds the 6th in 9ths place just long enough to enable the 8th to come up io it. With 68 behind it is a simple matter to keep calling bobs until the 9 th comes from the front and reaches \(6-7\) up. The ear will recognise the termination 968 and that will be the signal for a plain six. The bells will run round two rows after 315274968 , so that he six-end 312456789 (shown in the touch) will not be reached
There is another calling that will return 312456978 to rounds, and that is bobs at 3. 4. \(5.6,8\). This will be two sixes longer than the one given here and will not provide such a musical ending. but it is useful to keep in mind as an alternative.

German Nurses at Chertsey District Meeting
In spite of unpleasant weather a very happy meeting was held as Walton on November Sth. Canon Evans, himself a ringing member, gave the 30 -odd ringers present a warm welcome, and the excellent tea warmed the inner ringer. We were pleased to have two German student nurses as our guests at service and tea; they originally came to rub brasses but were caught up in :he Chertsey District "scrum."

\section*{Letters to the Editor}

MR. R. B. SMITH REPLIES TO CRITICS
Dear Sir.-It was not my intention in Part VI of my article on Plain Bob to "direct at a privileged minority " as Mr. Jackson sug* gests. The title of the part was "The inHuence of Plain Bob on other methods " and quite honesily 1 believe that the influence on Doubles and Minor is not significant. This dous not mean that I consider Doubles and Minor ringing so be insignificant; 1 am one of those who learned to ring at a six-bell tower. The fact that we only had six bells did not stop six of the band taking part in peals of Cambridge Maximus, and many more have rung peals on eight and ten bells. It. as Mr. Jackson suggests, most people are nut orepared to look further than the ends of their noses then they have only themselves to blame.
Mr Jackson suggested that the examples I gave did not fit in with tradition; they were not intended to! There is no point in writing about learning Plain Bob unless you can show why it should be learned thoroughly early in one's change ringing career Little Bob and Double Oxford are backwaters in which people can stagnate: it is so easy to become entangled with the weeds and forget that the aim of most ringers is to be competent in the standard methods
I would further point out that the title "For the beginner" includes many people who do not consider themselves to be "beginners" in the strict sense of the word. We are always beginning new phases in ringing, and Part Vi of my article is intended for those who are progressing from Plain Bob to other methods. In this respect each of the articles is intended for people at different stages oi learning

With reference to writing an article on Doubles and Minor ringing. I would be quite happy to do this, but ihere are many people who are better qualified to write on this than 1 am.

Referring to the letter from Mr. Segar, 1 would like to make the following points
(1) He omited to say that his motion before the Central Council in 1956 deploring the use of \(\mathbf{X}\) for bobs at 5 in Double Norwich was rejected.
(2) His reference to use of lead-head and lead-end can be explained in the following manner:

It is generally accepted by ringers that when the treble leads full at the end of a block of changes (in a treble dominated method) the backstroke lead is called the lead-end The composer, however, tinds it more convenient to call this the lead-head (generally speaking) As lons as this is understood by both groups. it does not matter terribly, as in "spliced" ringing the lead-head and the lead-end are one and the same row. In ringing LXL, for example. the row 14263857 is the end of a block of London and the beginning of a block of Cambridge or Superlative (sorry about the X !
I am pleased to have had the comments from Messrs. Jackson, Segar and others, mind.-Yours sincerely.

ROBERT B. SMITH.

\section*{BOURTON-ON-THE-WATER}

The bells of St Lawrence's, Bourton-on-theWater, are not now available for ringing owing to defects in the chiming apparatus An announcement will be made in "The Ringing World" when the bells are again available for peals and visiting bands.

\section*{BELIS IN STOCKHOLM}

Dear Sir,-With reference to Mr. Brian Austin's comments in your issue of November 11th, if he has access to "The Ringing World " of August \(18 \mathrm{th}, 1961\), he will see a brief account of the bells of Skarpnacks Church (four at the time with a tenor weighing about two :ons-have they now been augmented to six? ) and of a programme of visits 1 arranged for the then leader of the ringers there. Mr A. V Jakobsson, who came to this country under the auspices of the British Council to study change ringing. Until recently I had a number of photographs of the tower and bells, which are counter-balanced to make ringing easier, although the tenor requires two men to grip the wheel. As Mr Austin says, the bells are hung in the open at the top of the tower; apparently the architect decreed that they should not be covered in. despite pleas to the contrary. Architects-perhaps 1 should say non-ringing ones-are evidently the same the world over!
Amongsi other functions. Mr. Jakobsson attended one of our District meetings and replied in excellent English to the welcome he received. His knowledge of the language was derived from school only. I doubt if many of us would care to make a speech is a foreign language in such circumstances! Yours sincerely. E. A BARNETT

\section*{TIPS FOR VISITORS TO THE WEST COUNTRY}

Dear Sir, - I have just ended a five months tour in the West Country. I should like to extend my sincere gratitude to the ringers of South West Devon for the wonderful reception 1 received at every one of the many towers I visited. I was taken on many outings and feel most grateful towards the call change ringers who patiently suffered my striking and most apologetic towards the method fraternity for my crossing over in two peal attempts.
May I give a warning to touring bands planning to visit the West Country? Closed lead call changes are rung in the majority of towers, with every effort made towards perfecting striking. Method ringing is regarded as an unnecessary complication. Bad striking is not iolerated when it could be improved by simpler ringing. and many up-country touring bands have made method ringing become unpopular by striking badly. Devon men must wince when they see reported "Ringing ranged from eight-spliced down to call changes
Ringers when requesting bells for a peal must mention the length of time the bells will be heard. In the West Country a peal denotes any length of ringing. Three hours of bad striking is not soon forgotten when only one hour was expected.-Yours faithfully. DONALD A. BEDFORD.
Crawford, Lanarkshire

ATTEMPT FOR 25,088 PLAIN BOR MAJOR
Dear Sir,-By kind permission of Mr. Paul Taylor an attempt will be made on Saturday. December 3rd, 1966. commencing as soon as possible after 9 a.m. at the Loughborough Bell Foundry, to ring 25,088 Plain Bob Major. The band will stand as follows: James W. Belshaw (Yardley, Birmingham) 1, Maurice F. Edwards (Yardley, Birmingham) 2. Alan R. Baldock (Eastbourne) 3. George Pluckrose (Lyneham) 4. Ronald R. Warford (Selby) 5, Ronald J Snack (Amersham) 6. Robin Brown (Rothwell Yorks) 7, C. Barrie Dove (Leeds), conductor 8.-Yours faithfully,

MORE ABOUT MORDEN BELLS
Dear Sir,-Evidently Mr. Amey chooses to miss my points about his band's activities at Morden and to poke fun instead. But the facts and injustices remain; the ringers of that quarter peal trod not on my toes, but heavily on the toes of Mr. Amey's colleagues in the Wimborne Branch of the S.D.G.-and then making it worse by taking a lot of credit, in their "Ringing World " article. which did not belong to them.
The tenor was as loase on the stock alter Mr. Amey's attention as it was before. (Why else would the ringers, who to my knowledge visited Morden after Mr. Amey's band, have confined their ringing to the front four?) 1 dislike Mr. Amey's implication that I withheld information of any defects which knew about from the Rector I did not, although surely it would have been fair to assume that the S.D.G.'s belfry inspector had mentioned the state of the tenor when reporting on the bells at the Rector's request. It is sad that the Rector apparently failed to pass on the information when giving permission to ring.

Morden bells by the way, are of some interest and include two pre-Reformation castings:
Treble.-Added by Warner. 1890.
Second.-By James Wells of Aldbourne, 1807.

Third-Probably 15th century.
Fourth - Cirra 1400 (a lovely casting but poor in tone).
Tenor.-By Thomas Purdue, 1663
The beils were tuned and rehung in the present two-tier frame by the Warner foundry in 1890. The crack in the crown of the tenor was probably started then and has spread since, no doubt to ringing loose on the headstock. There is surely little point in recasting the bell in the present circumstances. Its tone has certainly been affected but there is still some resonance-and the other four bells are not particularly musical. - Yours faithfully, Dot CHRISTOPHER DALTON. Note.-This correspondence is now closed. -Ed.

\section*{Sussex Meeting Disapproves New Heading}

At the Northern Division quarterly meeting at Lindifeld on November 5th the question of practice meetings was discussed at some length but failed to reach a decision as to their usefulness. The matter was left to the annual Divisional meeting in February.

Under "any other business" the new heading of "The Ringing World " was treated to some criticism and a resolution was passed regretting the alteration and suggesting a return to the original design.
The service was taken by the Rev. Michaed Stedman, who welcomed the ringers and gave an interesting address. The local captain (Mr A. J Drew) was thanked for his help with the arrangements. The ringing proved to be a little above the usual meeting standard. One visitor who was not very welcome was fog !

\section*{FOURTH BRISTOL FESTIVAL}

THE fourth Bristol Festival of Ringing was held on October 29 hh and, as has now become traditional the day dawned with bright sunshine, which persisted throughout the day

A bright and early start was made when the bells of the first two towers were raised at 9.15 a.m., despite being advertised as 9.30 . It is estimated that about 50 people were present at each of the first two towers, which are situated at extreme ends of the city. Conversation with the multitudes revealed tha: some people had left home the preceding evening and stayed the night in Bristol. Journeys had been made from Gloucestershire Somerset, Devon, Cornwall. Kent. South Wales, Wiltshire, Staffordshire. Leicestershire. Derbyshire. Dorset. Oxfordshire and Yorkshire and prohably other parts of England and Wales Bristol's amateur bellhanger, John Slater, had been working to a very tight schedule during preceding weeks in order to put Horfield -Bristol's only ring of five-back on the list of ringable towers. Work was completed the day before and scores took advantage of this, the second occasion that the bells had been rung since 1944 -and a very pleasant been rung since 1944 -and little five they are. too?

\section*{CONGESTED}

The late morning towers were so congested that it became a ratter of two minute rounds or 40 Grandsire Doubles and out, in order to avoid sending people away without a ring. There was a good cacophony of sound on College Green as the service touch of Stedman Triples mingled with ringing at the Lord Mayor's Chapel-only a couple of hundred yards away -where ringing had extended beyond the advertised time.
A shor: well-attended service was held in the Cathedral at noon. which included a short but very appropriate address by the Dean, the Very Rev D E. W. Harrison, about the origins of ringing and reference to bells in the Bible

The organising committee had learned hy hitter experience that it is not worth all the work and worry to arrange a luncheon, so everyone was left to make their own arrangements. The afternoon gave a choice of thre routes-a country tour and other tours on the west and east sides of the city. The country tour proved surprisingly popular, which will be useful to bear in mind for the fifth festival.

For those who wanted a change from ringing visits had been arranged to the Cathedral central tower which houses four ancient bells in a massive wooden ten-bell frame. and also to the University tower to see the \(9 \frac{1}{1}\) ton "Great George." Unfortunately the lights could not be switched on at the latter so it had to be viewed by torchlight

Tony Bennett-the festival publicity officerhad by no means been idle, and as a result of his efforts comprehensive reports of the festival were published in local newspapers In addition, Mark Puckle, of the B.B.C. recorded an interview with Philip Gray, which was broadcast on the Home Service Radio Newsreel at 7 p.m. on the Saturday evening. The programme also recorded short recordings of ringing at Westbury. Horficld and Redcliffe Television cameras were in evidence at SS
Philip and Jacob's, where a film was taken of Philip and Jacob's, where a film was taken of Bowden ringing the model bell which is hung on the wall.

> In the evening a room had been hired up- stairs in the Crown and Dove in the Horsefair, Bristol. Again this was well attended. with over 100 people enjoying the evening's light entertainment and renewing acquaintance.

The three foot long , hunting horn, a relic of Wratten's Wringers" peal tour, was produced to herald the arrival of Mr E. F Hancock and part of his family. who gave a demonstra*ion of tune ringing on handbells Before the handbells were put away a plain course of Grandsire Caters was rung by Reg Hooper 1-2. Jim Taylor 3-4, Albert Tyler 5-6 Ralph Edwards 7-8 and Jennie Taylor 9-10 which lefi everyone with no doubt in their minds that Ralph prefers \(8-7-9-70\) roll-ups 10 7-8-9-10's ! ! !

Next. Nick Simon held everyone's Inscinated attention by attempting to play a course of Grandsire Royaı on the piano. With clockwork precision he proceeded as far as the eighth lead when, unfortunately. his concentration broke. However, this remarkable performance leff teveryone speculating as to how it was done.

\section*{PRESS-UPS}

A return bout of press-ups between Bristol and Leicester was the next item on the agenda Bristol being represented by Richard Sweet (formerly known as Cap'n Crunch) and Leicester by their tenor king. Kingsley Mason. Coats were removed and the floor was cleared for the grand contest Over 100 referees echoed a resounding count as both figures strained muscle and sinew. which culminated in a deafening roar as Kingley collapsed at 24 . Thus Richard retained the crown he had gained a few months sarlier in another Bristol hostelry Shouts of "Send tor Cannon" were heard At 9.30 Philip Gray, chairman of the Bristol City ringers, gave a warm welcome to all who had supported the festival, and thanked the organisers-John Hunt and Richard Sweetfor their efforts A precedent had been set at the previous festiva! whereby an award was made to the person who had grabbed the most towers during the day. Starting at 20. and decreasing in Dutch auction style, a show of hands was asked for. which revealed that this year's top grabber was (surprisingly enough! Mi Barrie Dove with 15. though it was later learned that he rang ar one or two churches instead of attending the service and sticking to the advertisec programme. Mr, Dove walked the length of the room, accompanied by some appropriate applause, to receive the prize of a fountain pen. He also corrected what he considers a vulgar term by saying that he does not grab towers he visits them.

A ratfle had been held during the evening. the proceeds of which were 10 go lowards the \(£ 9\) it had cost to arrange the day's events. The first prize of a bottle each of sherry and ginger cordial stayed in Bristol-going to M E. F. Hancock of Redcliffe. Barrie Dove was once again in the limelight as he collected the second prize of a bottle of sherry The third prize-a bottle of ginger cordial- went to Mrs. Parker, of Ubley, Somerset Guest celebrity, Bill Hibbert. of Appleton fame, was retrieved from the "Ladies" to start the community singing by giving his rendering of "*The Farmer's Boy. Singing continued until almost midnight, terminating with a Worcestershire folk song and a recitation concerning a certain Arctic Maiden. We were warned to leave the premises swiftly and silently as a party of policemen had booked bed and breakfast for the night !
So ended what must surely be the most \(n\) joyable and most successful Bristol Festival yet It is difficult to gauge with any accuracy how many ringers participated during the day in one way or another, but a conservative estimate is considered to be around the 200 mark. We said in the first place "the more the merrier," and we were proved right, \(\mathrm{D}, \mathrm{J}, \mathrm{H}\),

\section*{LAST YEAR'S LEADING PEAL RINGERS MARRY}

\(0^{N}\)Saturday, October 15 th. the marriage took place at St. Ambrose's Church. Bristol, between Gillian M. Hussey, the Ringing Master at St. Ambrose's, and D John Hunt. the Ringing Master of Bristol Cathedral and popular secretary of the Bristol City Branch of the Gloucester and Bristol Association.

Both Gill and John learned to ring at st. Ambrose's, and it has been a joy to see their friendship. which has stood the test of time and many peals together, blossom forth and tinally reach this happy state of marriage
The church had been decorated mosi heautifully for the occasion by Mrs. Hussey and her helpers and it was pleasantly full of ringers and friends for the service. which was conducted bv the Rev. Roger O. Fry
The bride was given away by her father. Mr. F. R Hussey. secretary of the St. Ambrose's band. She wa tresset in a ful- gtin cown of white velvet with a train and a threequarter length veil held in place with a diamond liara, and carried a bouquet of cream roses and tangerine carnations. She was attended by three bridesmaids in dresses of tangerine velvet, and a page boy. The best man was Mr Richard W. Sweet, and the organist. another old ringing friend. Dr. Tony Bennett.

The bridegroom and best man with many of the guests joined in the ringing before the service. but the service touch was by St Am brose's hand afterwards As they left the church the happy couple were greeted with an arch of handbells and showered with contetti, rice and computer clippings

The reception was held at the Kingswood Hotel and attended by 70 guests. The honeymoon was spent in London They attempted two quarter peals the following day which unfortunately came to grief. probably due to post wedding nerves. However, later in the week they succeeded in scoring a couple of peals and in doing a little grabbing in the City.
As the wedding ceremony commenced the Bristol University Society started for a peal at Bristol Cathedral and scored a neal of New Cambridge as their wedding tribute, and as the happy couple sped off in the direction of London eight old friends returned to the tower at St Ambrose's and rang a spanking peal of Yorkshire conducted by Tudor Edwards. The band were very sorry that the Rev. Roger 0 Fry, who had arranged the peal, could not ring because of a torn ligament in his wrist. However he gave the band moral support by listening to the peal and joining them afterwards at the bride's house, where thev were entertained most handsomelv.
The local band too. showed the esteem with which thev hold John and Gillian by presenting them with a set of door chimes and on the Sundav following the wedding by ringing a quarter peal of Bob Major prior to Evensong.

\section*{NATIONAL POLICE GUILD}

The annual general meeting of the National Guild of Police Ringers was held at Leicester, a favourite meating place in bygone years. on October 29th. Ringing was available at the Churches of St. John the Divine. All Saints and St. Mary de Castro and also at the Cathedral

Lunch was enjoyed at the City Police headquarters in London Road. and the guests inquarters in London Road the Assistant Chief Constable (Mr. J. R. Webster) and the Rev. J. Hughes.

At the business meeting which followed lunch. Cheltenham was selected for the next annual general meeting on September 23 rd, 1967. The day proved to be most enjoyable.

GRAND OLD MAN of KENT MISSES HIS CENTURY

EDWARD S. RUCK, THE LAST FOUNDATION MEMBER OF K.C.A

A BRIEF announcement was made in our BRIEF announcement was made in our last issue of the passing of Edward Stephen Ruck, of Willesborough, on November 7th. within less than eight months of his century.
In the church where he had consistently and faithfully worshipped for almost half a century at Willesborough, the funeral service took place on November 11 th, conducted by the Rev. G Williams, who in his address spoke of Mr. Ruck both as a ringer and Christian The lesson was read by the Rev. P. T. Robbins of Charing. The service concluded with the ringers' hymn, "Unchanging God who liveth," with Mr W. P. Garner as organist.

A course of Grandsire Triples was rung on handbells over the open grave by Rev. P. T. Robbins 1-2, T Sone 3-4. P. A. Corby 5-b T. In addition to those already mentioned. ringing friends present included Mr. J. Willis (vice-president of the Kent County Association). Mr A. Berry (secretary, Ashford District), Mr. and Mrs. T. Cullingworth, Messrs T. Sone. F Macey, L Head. B. Baker, N Davies and J. Marsh Edward S. Ruck ("Old Ted," as he was known affectionately. and wished to be called in the latter years of his active ringing lifel. was born at New Romney, Kent. on June 20th, 1867 ; in his own words, "a yellowbelly from the Marsh.

He was the youngest son of five children of Edward Ruck of New Romney, a fellmonger by trade, who removed to Mersham, just off the Marsh, when young Ted was only a year old. His father being an able ringer and conductor, young Ted was taught to handle a bell at an early age and was only eleven years old when he fist rang for Sunday service.
On May 18th. 1880. he was present at the inaugural meeting of the Kent County Association of Change Ringers and made a foundation member, an event which has proved to be of more significance than anv other throughout his long and varied ringing career and for which he will be most remembered He rang his first peal, one of \(5,120 \mathrm{Bob}\) Major at St. John the Baptist's Church. Mer1895 he married Bessie Jell, of St. Margaret's 1895 he married Bessie Jell, of Mersham until 1916, when he came to Willesborough Ile was the father of two children. One of whom. a daughter (Mrs. F. Newton, of Willesborough). survives. Two of his grandchildren, Molly and "Dick" Newton, he taught to ring at Willeshorough. His only son. Edward John. dedicated and nopular choirmaster and organist at Willesborough from 1927 until his death in 1952.

\section*{CAPTAIN AT WILLESBOROUGH}

In Aupust, 1930. then a sprightly 63. Ted conducted the first peal at St. Mary's. Willesborough, one of Bob Minor, just after the rehanging and rededication of the hells, and during the ensuing years. as captain. he built up a band of young ringers, mostly boys from the choir passed on from father to son. canable of ringing many Plain and Surprise Minor methods at the outbreak of the last war. During this period, and again after the war. until his last Deal at Willesborough in 1954 at the age of 87 . he rang and conducted many peals at Willeshorough and in the Ashmany District. He was 80 when he last conducted a peal at Willesborough and "turned in "the tenor, not a heavy or awkward bell, hut-all enors need "turning in," as many young ringers discover to their dismay
He iast entered the belfry at Willesborough on the occasion of his 95th birthday. on June 20th, 1962, and rang the treble to Boh Minor. Thus ended an active ringing career of 84 years.
He had been a consistent attender at the meetings of the Ashford District and the annual general meeting of the Kent County Association and also at the meetings of the Romney Marsh and District Guild during its active years down on his home territory on the Marsh.
Although a strict disciplinarian in the belfry and no respecter of persons when the striking was not up to standard, "Old Ted" was always ready to admit when he was wrong himself. After setting his bell he would ponder for a while with his head on one side and then remask "I believe I missed," or "I believe I should have . . -and he would often seek advice from one of his pupils whom he considered to have become more knowledgeable in the art of ringing than himself.
Before ringing for morning service he never failed to walk to his pew for prayers. he never seemed to be in a hurry yet he was never late, except in unusual circumstances. By his example in so many ways "Old Ted": must have influenced for the better many persons in his long and orderly life. We thank God for the privilege of having known him for so long.

\section*{AN APPRECIATION}

It was in the early 1930's, as a schoolboy that I first became acquainted with Edwaid S. Ruck. He was a familiar figure in and around Willesborough as he went his rounds as a part-time insurance agent and canvasser for a local drapery store. He walked everywhere, his easy gait being recognisable at quite a distance and, on meeting or passing. a cheerful greeting from him could always be expected.

In 1934, when I first commenced ringing, I came to know him better, even though for a while our relationship was not entirely one of mutual admiration. However, he was a patient man with anyone he thought was striving, to improve and as my ringing prostriving to improve and as my ringing progressed. in line with a number of my schoolmates whom he was also teaching, so our friendship grew, later on to become one of deep respect

During the war years. when I served abroad, he corresponded with me, keeping me informed of events on the "home front", and also on my excursions "down under" kept in touch with me until he was no longer able to do so. 1 still possess most of his letters. which invariably ended with the words "God bless you." and thus it was as if by some divine intent that these should be the last words I heard him say when, in the company of a ringing friend, 1 visited him at Hothfield Hospital a few weeks before his death. He was then almost blind and deaf. It was characteristic of "Old Ted." a real gentleman, one of nature's best. and a true Christian to the end. God bless him. A.J. L.

\section*{ANOTHER APPRECIATION}

When the Kent County. Association was formed at a meeting in the Chapter House at Canterbury on May 18 th . 1880, the Rev. R. B. Knatchbull-Hugessen. Rector of Mersham. was elected secretary. Present at that meeting was Edward Stephen Ruck, who was to celebrate his 13th birthday on the following June 20th. His ringing career was only finally completed on November 7th, 1966. when be died at Hothfield Hospital in his 100 th year.
He lived most of his life at Willesborough, the next village to Mersham, and for several years in his great old age a birthday meeting was held at Willesborough, when "Old Ted would preside at a grand tea party with birthday cake and candles. At the last of these occasions he was helped up the belfry stairs and took the treble for a course of Boh Minor in which another of those taking part was a he lives to old age will be able to recall this link with a founder member of the Kent County Association.
Soon after this "Old Ted "was taken into Hothfield Hospital and was very happy in the loving care he received. Although for the last two years or so increasing deafness and failing sight overtook him, he remained unti then his usual cheerful and outspoken self Always of a philosophical turn of mind, he would often say in these later days. "Old Ted is ready to "go, but the Lord is not ready to take him.
His whoie life was centred around a limited local area, but nevertheless his pupils were to journey to the far places of the earth The number of ringers he taught at Willesborough is legion, and he leaves those who to this day maintain the tradition of regular and competent Sunday service ringing and loyal and cheerful service to the Church

Another foundation member of the As sociation, Charles Slingsby, from nearby Al dington, died at the age of 104, and the last but one foundation member, Philip. Hodgkin, of Headcorn, died in 1941, leavine "Old Ted" of Headcorn, died in 1941, leaving "Old Ted" to carry the torch alone for another 25 years
He was for long a member of the Kent County Association Committee and just after the wat was created a vice-president in recog nition of his special status as last survivin foundation member. When he was able to attend the committee meetings he could be relied upon for the provocative remark to sum up a difficult discussion, and when, later attendance at committee meetings became im possible for him, he always sent a message of greeting with his apology for absence.
The "Young Ted" who became ". Old Ted" will be remembered by the Kent County Association for the secure place he has in its history. Eighty-six-and-a-half years' membership is not a record likely to be equalled verv often. We thank God for his long and useful life. May he rest in peace.

Hon. Gen. Sec., K.C.A.

We are victims of another peal hoax-at Feltham (on page 763). Will those concerned delete peal from records.
With the peal at Armley Mr. R. H. Dove has rung peals in all the eleven towers in Leeds and is the first ringer ever to do so. It has taken 32 years to complete!
Hurstpierpoint, Sussex. ringers can take a just pride in the peal recorded this week, which is the firsi on the bells for 18 years. The ringers of the front six were members of the local band.

Those who watch the B.B.C. TV series of Blue Peter" on Mondays and Thursdays at 5 p.m. will have seen John Noakes, the programme presenter. have a ringing lesson at Kingston upon Thames. There was also some ringing on the ten bells.
Congratulatory peals have been rung in two towers for local ringers having completed 50 years in the art-Charles Ball, captain of Barton Stacey. Hants, and Isaac W. Smith, of Fairfield. Buxton. Best wishes to them both for many more years of ringing.
A correspondent asks if Shoreham, Kent. ringers were supporting the commuters in their protest against their usual train not stopping there. A Press report reads: "Wives of the 'rebels. Were there with car headlights blazing and hooters blaring. Church bells rang in the distance."

\section*{THE EARL AGAIN}
"The Ringing. World" gains notoriety hy again appearing in the weekly column of the Earl of Arran in the London "Evening News." The Ladies' Guild is singled out for the following extract:-
-The reporter (a lady?) wrote: 'We expected a challenging address, but we were more than a little startled when the preacher announced his text: "With my body I thee worship. We listened with absorbed attention while Mr. Scott presented an aspect of ringing some of us had not considered before. It was a most memorable service." Comments the Earl: "I'll say it was. Does this explain the "pair of shoes found in a belfry near the second rope after the peal on July 23 rd '"?
From our post-bag we gather that many of our readers enjoy his column as much as the Earl dous our pages. One suggests that appreciation should be expressed by conferring honorary membership of the Central Council upon him. and another that he should be invited to contsibute a column to the brightes "Ringing World."

\section*{WILLIAM H. HEWETT}
"We hope to put some form of memorial in the cower of St. Margaret's, Westminster, as a reminder of the church service of William H. Hewett," writes John Euston. His association with St. Margaret's dates from 1905, and here he conducted his last pealStedman Caters- on January 17th. 1959, for Reuben Sanders' 85 th birthday. It may be for the memorial we can have his collection of reports and "Ringing Worlds " bound and a bookcase made. Donations may be sent to John Euston. 28. Fairmile Avenue, Streatham S.W. 16.

ROPE BREAKS AS NEW RECTOR TOLLS
During the induction of the new Rector of Chedhurgh. Suffolk, between Bury St Edmunds and Haverhill. the bell rope broke. As the bell was silent when the Rector went to toli. the Archdeacon. a Rural Dean and a churchwarden went to assist. But the hell remained silent and finally the rope broke.

The Bishop of St. Edmundshury and Inswich (Dr. Leslie Brown), who carried out the institution, recalled that a similar happening occurred at his first service as a deacon when he went to toll for evening prayer.

Raven's book shows that Chedburgh has one bell-by T. Osborn, 1797.

\section*{BATHWICK PROTEST AT PEAL}

With reference to the front page article of November 4 th concerning a "Code of Conduct for Peal Ringers," the Vicar of St. Mary's. Bathwick. Somerset. certainly believes in one of the points recommended. In the November parish magazine he published the following under "Notes on the Calendar"

Saturday. Nor 5th.-Anglican/Methodist Conference-as a further inducement to attend the conference, let me warn you that a peal of bells will be rung from St. Mary's Church some time during the morning for about three hours non-stop. Personally I athout three hours non-stop. too glad to get away from it. I like bells when they ring for a service, or to celebrate a wedding, or ring in the New Year, or things like that, but a 3 -hour peal just for, the fun of it is too much of a good thing."

Despite the above warning, during the peal a nearby woman resident collected 200 signatures of protest which she showed to the tower captain and said she would present to the Vicar!!

\section*{BUXTON RINGER'S 50 YEARS IN BELFRY}

The peal rung at Fairfield. Derbyshire, on October 29th was specially as a compliment to Mr. Isaac W. Smith of the local band. This year marks his completion of 50 years as a Sunday service ringer.

Mr. Smith began his ringing at Elton, near Matlock, a village with a melodious ring of five, but he later moved to Buxton, where he joined the band at Fairfield (then a ring of six) Here, when work permitted, he became an active and faithful member not only of the ringing team but also of the church. When the six bells were augmented to eight in 1949 he mastered the awkward step to the higher number of bells and rang the treble to the first peal of Major on the new bells in 1950. In more recent years occasional visits to Strat-ford-on-Avon have enabled him to try his hand on ten bells.

He has always been very interested in ringing and has set an example to many by his atten dance for Sunday service ringing. For a num ber of years now he has spoken of giving up ringing and constantly exhorts the youngster: in the tower to "stick to it." But "Ike enjoys his ringing and will, we hope, stick it himself for a long time yet.

After the pea' of Little Bob Major on October 29th a small celebration took place in the belfry. Ike expressing his appreciation and thanks, and the ringers wishing him many enloyable ringing times to come.

\section*{EASTBOURNE'S RINGERS REMEMBER}

\section*{THE FIFTH}
"Gunpowder. treason and plot" were certainly not forgotten by youngsters of all ages at St. Mary's, Eastbourne, who combined on the traditional day to celebrate the demise of one Guido Fawkes.

To a chorus of "Ooohs" and "Aaahs" fireworks ranging from the humble sparkler to ear-splitting whistle-stops and super-rockets were despatched Unkind weather brought the evening to a premature close but no before piping, hot soup and hot dogs had been served in the hlaze of a monumenta; honfire built on the chalky side of the South Downs.

\section*{SURREY ASSOCIATION FAVOUR POSTAI. ADDRESSES}

The committee of the Surrey Association has considered the redesignation of peals rung within the area administered by the Greater London Council and is in favour of the standardisation on a national basis of the descriptions of the localities in which peals are rung. They are not, however, in favour of introducing the new boroughs for Greater London peals "Although no formal decision was made, postal addresses seemed the acceptable method." writes Mr. W. Parrott, the hon. secretary.

\section*{BELLS AND THE P.C.C.}

In a small parish on the Northants-Rutland border, the P.C.C. has informed the new Rector that the Council had made a "rule" that at no time shall the bells be rung for more than an hour.
Our correspondeni asks "Has the P.C.C. the legal powers to decide how the organ shall be played, which hymns or psalms shall be sung or the length of the sermon? If not, why the bells?

There are no houses near the church and the bells are not so noisy as to constitute a real nuisance. The last peal here was two vears ago and, before that. in 1945 One of the three peals in the 1930 's was notorious. On the very :troke of 5,040 changes down came the ffth rope as the conductor shouted "That is all." And certainly it was only just all!

\section*{RANG HIS SECOND PEAL AFTER 31 YEARS}

When a person rings his first peal he does not think that he will have to wait 31 years to ring his second. This has happened to Mr. Jasper Newman of Old Whittington, Chesterficid.
Thirty-one years ago Jasper rang his first peal-Grandsire Doubles at Old Whittingtonto celebrate the silver jubilee of the late King George \(V\) and Qucen Mary. This was for the old Midland Counties Association. Since then the Midland Counties Association has been disbanded and Jasper is now vice-chairman of the Chesterfield District of the Derby Diocesan Association.
On Saturday. October 29th. he rang his second peal. This time it was Kent Treble Bob Minor at Clay Cross, in memory of the victims of the Aberfan tragedy. This peal was also memorable for other members of the band. For two it was their first peal of Treble Bob Minor another two their first neal in the method. and for the conductor. Malcolm Phiops. it was his firs! peal in the method as conductor and also his looth oeal.

\section*{BELFRY REFORM IN 1966}

By PHILIP A. CORBY.

THERE are ringers now of age who are without experience of the V2 rockets which were devised by the Germans o wreak damage to property and to disturb the morale of people living in London and the crowded south-east. The first one knew of those devilish monsters was a loud bang and, alas, the damage had already been done. The people who were subjected to these attacks over a period of many months assumed a stoical nonchalance that enabled them at the sound of the explosion to look up from the activity of the moment and make some such remark as "There's another one" and immediately resume the task in hand.

The same endearıng trait pervades the ringing Exercise today. Ringers seem to be a smug, comfortable, overfed, too easily satisfied collection of people, impervious to rockets and bangs and unwilling to rise to any challenge. however provocatively it may be expressed. Nevertheless, : refuse to be discouraged and I shall proceed undaunted to another saga in the diatribe I started some time ago.

Some eighty or ninety years ago the Exercise saw the first of the County and Discesan Associations formed, as at least one Association puts it, "to promote belfry reform and encourage the good old English art of change ringing." The movement spread rapidly throughout the country and in many areas this was for the first time a means of bringing together ringers from various towers in a locality. Until that time organised ringing was in the hands of the great ringing sncieties in London, and of local societies of somewhat similar type in some provincial centres, operating with greatly varying degrees of efficiency and competence.

Ringers are perhaps still not noted for an over-close relationship with the Church, but even so one hears of behaviour in belfries of long ago that would hardly be in keeping with the standards that have generally been adopted in more recent years. In short we may conclude that the promotion of belfry reform has met with at least some success. Our adversary the devil is, however, ever watchful and we face a new peril of bad belfry behaviour which certainly warrants attention.

I refer, of course, to the worst excesses of "tower grabbing." Other correspondents have at different times put out in these columns commendable codes of behaviour for those who undertake the organisation of outings. There is, of course, little encouragement for those who write to "The Ringing World" to suppose that the readers take the slightest notice of the contents of any articles, however commendable.

Nevertheless, good advice has been given which, if followed, might spare unpleasantness and sometimes disgust to those who are in fact the hosts and beneficiaries of the tower grabbing and outing fiends. Let me say at once I see no great harm in knocking at the Vicar's door in a remote country parish to ask if a party of ringers who happen to be passing may have a short ring. Provided always, of course, that there are no local ringers who are likely to be upset by such a proceeding: provided always that behaviour in church or open belfry is quiet and orderly: provided always that the people who are ringing can competently manage what they undertake: provided always that the bells are rung to a touch of respectable length and not iust scrambled up and down: provided always that everything is left as it is found: provised always that every member of the party finds a small coin to place in a collecting box. In such places people are often glad to hear the bells when there are no local ringers and they are only rung by chance at infrequent intervals.

As for formal outings, the queerest things do happen. You only have to be the captain of a tower for a few years to find out. Some parties arrive and the leader introduces himself to the person who has come to meet them. He may make some attempt to discover what his host is able to ring and not take no for an answer when the host declines to take part in a touch on the grounds that "I can ring here anytime." The correct response to this one is "Of course you can, but not usually with us, so do please join us in just one touch."

More often, alas, they barge into the tower talking amongst themselves without a word to the host except to say "Which is which?" They proceed to bash their way through various touches, blandly assuming that all is well and never apparently aware that their standard of performance may be well below that of the local band. Sometimes one has seen a visiting party ploughing through in a touch beyond their capabilities when several members of the local band have been sitting round the tower, never asked to strengthen the band or perhaps stand behind some of he weaker members. Yes, in matters of behaviour there is still scope for belfry reform.

But what of practical aspects of belfry reform? For a start there are many towers, perhaps the majority, where the bells are much too noisy outside Harold Cashmore once said that one of the miracles of the twentieth century was that we were allowed to ring bells for three hours at a stretch. Considering the volume of noise often to be heard he was indeed right. There is also plenty of scope in the matter of internal acoustics. In practically every major restoration in the last thirty years there has been an ad lib application of concrete to provide structural strength and stability to take the weight of the bells in the tower. Fortunately, the mediaeval builders were without this particular obsession, perhaps because reinforced concrete was unknown. You would not provide bare concrete floors and walls in :he auditorium of a concert hall so that the orchestra could hear their instruments echoing three or four times over, so why put bells in a concrete drum? Several fine new rings of bells have been subjected to this treatment since the war and completely ruined for pleasurable ringing as a result.

What have the ringing Associations, or indeed the Central Council, done about this? Alas, many ringers seem to be so insensitive as to be unaware of the problem-they would happily pull away at a set of dustbins. Strangely enough ringers of a former generation objected to metal bell frames on the basis that the tone of the bells would be affected. This has proved to be an old wives' tale and like ball bearings metal frames are now not ever mentioned. The clever ones have sometimes omitted to find out in advance whether the bells are on plain bearings or ball bearings before launching off on their views and in most cases it is only the steeplekeeper who really knows which they are. Much ink has been spilled on these subjects but never a word about the demon concrete!

And if affairs in our own towers could sometimes benefit from a little investigation how do we stand in the affairs of our various Associations? Many of us, now past our first youth, continue happily with our long-established notions on what is good for our members. Bells available at 3 p.m. Service complete with the bells on Aaron's robe at 4.15 , tea with the usual dry sandwiches and mothy cakes in an age when afternoon tea is no longer fashionable are youngsters like savouries rather than sweets, followed by a business meeting which is often a monotonous monologue by the district secretary with the Vicar putting in his corny funnies, or is sometimes a grand debate about nothing in particular between retired trade union official types. By 7 p.m. the business is over and there is further ringing of ghastly Grandsire Triples massacred by all the stay-benders in sight with never a word of advice or encouragement from those who should know better, interspersed with courses of Surprise rung by superior types with their noses in the air. Need we be entirely surprised if peals and tower grabbing expeditions are organised on meeting davs?

Would we perhaps do better with organised practices possibly on week days or un Saturday evenings, starting at, say, 6.30 until 8.30 p.m., with concentrated ringing aimed to provide adequate practice for learners at all stages with competent assistance and supervision available. If we doubt the efficiency of this type of organisation let us glance with envy at the activities of the University Associations.

I hope I have now put out sufficient provocation to start the ink flowing, but I could always have another go at the Central Council!

Three Bishops at Bath and Wells First Dinner

THE first ever dinner of the Bath and Weils Diocesan Association was held on November 12 th at the Town Hall, Wells, when no less than 202 members and their wives and wisitors enjoyed a splendid meal.
The Master, the Rev. H. F. Warren, of Exford, ably directed proceedings, and he was supported at the top table by the Lord Bishop of Bath and Wells (Dr. E. C. Henderson). the Bishop of Taunton (the Rt. Rev. F. H. West), Bishop D. J. Wilson, the Archdeacons of Bath and Wells, together with Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Shepherd, Mr. M. Heymann, and the permanent officials of the Association.

Following the loyal toast, Mr. Heymann proposed the toast of "The Church." He reminded members that the Church was much wider than the Church of England, and we should remember that we all worship God in our own way, irrespective of our various religious persuasions. He spoke of the change of heart amongst the various denominations today, compared with even ten years ago, instancing, in his ringing experience, the friend: ship in Limerick between the Catholic und Church of Ireland cowers which kept the bells of both churches ringing. This was the sort of progress which we should remember and strive to emulate in our service to the Church.

In his reply, Dr. Henderson recounted briefly the histories of a number of his predecessors, whose portraits hung on the walls above the assembly, and he wondered how the Church looked to them today. Perhaps as an institution it did not take itself quite so seriously as it used to, which he thought was a good thing, but in other ways he felt it tended to get its priorities wrong and put the cart before the horse. Despite its shortcomings he loved the Church. and its heritage and ideals should be cherished and sustained at all costs.

\section*{THE EPISCOPAL SWANS}

The Bishop hoped his swans would be invited to the next dinner, as they knew ar more about ringing than he did. He felt we could well learn a lesson from them and try to remain calm and unruffled on the surface, whilst paddling like hell underneath!

The roast of "The Association" was proposed by Mr. E. C. Shepherd, who confided to the company that after living in the West Country for four years, he had now learnt the language of the locals! Reviewing the history of the Association. he spoke of the traditions resulting from 76 years of service, and of the ringers who had helped to build those traditions. ringers of the calibre of Joe Dyke, a stern man but a great teacher, and Major J. H. B. Hesse. a clever engineer and an authority on bells and bell frames, both of whom acted with a firm conviction of service to the Church.
Some say that ringers' work has little significance in these days, continued Mr. Shepherd, but do not be deceived. Ringing was but one of the many contributions to worship and as such our standards must be high. He had read the annual report. which he said contained both the successes and the failures, which one expects to find. but he felt that the Association was meeting the challenge and that its aims were there for us all to follow and support.

\section*{ONE FOUNDER MEMBER}

In his reply, the general secretary, Mr. Gwilym Salmon. took up the theme of the last speaker, and referred to the service given by such past members as William Gigg, from Taunton, W. J. Prescott, of Bath, and Stephen Wood from "over the border" in Bristol Today only one founder member was still with them, Mr. J. Pugsley, now over 90, of Minehead, whom they remembered with affection. Mr. Salmon spoke of the success of the affiliation scheme instituted by his predecessor Mr. (now the Rev.) David Hoare, which had resulted in a present membership of some 200 towers and 1,800 members.
Today earlier morning ringing was becoming more pronounced, due to the popularity of the Family Communion service, and this was a challenge they had to meet. The question of standards was being helped by the growing popularity of striking competitions, pioneered by the Chew Branch, which had now spread to Bath and Frome. He hoped other Branches would follow suit, and that they would all try to work towards the high standards which Mr. Shepherd had outlined previously.

The toast of "The Guests and Visitors" was proposed by the peal secretary, Mr. George Massey. In humorous vein he spoke of the galaxy of talent present, including, as he said, "a full house of Bishops""! He wondered if they all moved diagonally! In addition to \(\mathbf{M r}\). and Mrs. Shepherd. Mr. Norman Knee from Warminster, Mr. Bill Coles (Hillingdon) and Mr. Philip Gray from Bristol were all cordially welcomed.

\section*{TOWER KEEPERS PRAISED}

The Ven. J. du Boulay Lance, Archdeacon of Bath, replied, and thanked the Association for the invitation to the dinner. In an amusingly partisan speech he contrasted in various ways the superiority of Bath over Wells. He was, he said, fascinated by the language used by ringers (laughter) and, although he confessed himself unable to ring. he paid tribute to the way in which Somerset tower keepers looked after their belfries. It was obvious, from what he himself had seen in his own church inspections, that their work was a labour of love.

The speeches over, the company adjourned, and after a short interval the evening concluded with a showing of the Washington Film. followed by a most enjoyable selection of hymns and tunes by members of the talented Arscott family from Taunton. Their orogramme ended fittingly with "Auld Lang Syne" and "The Queen."

The excellent support given by members from all parts of the diocese, and their obvious enjoyment of the evening. was adequately summed up bv the Master who. in thanking those responsible for the arrangements, expressed the hope that the dinner would become an annual event in the Association calendar. This sentiment was fully endorsed by ail present.

\section*{KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION}

A by-meeting of the Maidstone District was held at Ightham on November 12 th . Ringing in various Doubles and Minor methods preceded a service, conducted by the Rector, the Rev. Mr. Watkins. Later about 37 members sat down to an excellent tea. provided iree of charge by the local ringers. The whole of Ightham band was elected into the Association at the business meeting.

Ringing continued after tea on the light ring of six until 8.45 p.m.

MR. G. H. CLAYDON, New Zealand
George Henry Claydon passed away on Nov. 12th, at the age of 81 . George came to New Zealand in 1911 from Sutton Coldfield, Birmingham, where he rang at St. Martin's-in-the-Bull Ring. He arrived at Napier, in the North Island, but he could not resist the call of the bells and after a few weeks he came to Christchurch to ring on the only active ring of bells in New Zealand. His ability was soon recognised and he was appointed Master of the Christchurch Cathedral Society of Bellringers: he was to fill the office many times over the years.
George Claydon was a true pioneer of change ringing and while others in England were ring ing peals, he was laying the foundation, as it were, in the most southern part of the Empire Over the years he trained many to ring, but setbacks, such as transfers, etc., were heartbreaking. He persevered and today his work in the past is bearing fruit in that the Christchurch Society is very strong and known throughout the Commonwealth.
George rang regularly at the Cathedral from 1911 till 1952, and then whenever he was able to. He loved handbells and at times a party would visit his home to ring a "touch" or two with him.
He was a former member of the Cathedral choir, also an organist of some standing. The years will pass, but George Claydon's efforts to foster change ringing in New Zealand were recognised in the 1940 as when he was elected a life member of the Cathedral Society of Bellringers.

Those of us who have rung with him will always remember him with love and affection.
G. NELSON SLOAN.

MR. A. E. RICHARDS
With the death of Mr. Albert E. Richards, of Farndon, Cheshire, on October 5th, the Chester Diocesan Guild and the Ches!er Branch, in particular, lost a valued and esteemed member. During a long association with the Guild he had acted as Chester Branch treasurer, and in recent years was vicepresident. He was also for many years organist and captain of the bellringers at Farndon.

Although his activities had been restricted in latter years, owing to failing health, he maintained his interest in ringers and ringing to the end.

He was a life member of the Guild, and will be rememhered for his gentlemanly and courteous manner and his ever readiness to further the cause of the Exercise. It gave him particular pleasure to play the organ for the Guild services.

The funeral look place at Farndon on October 8th.

\section*{MR. W. STONE}

With great regret his many friends heard of the sudden death of Bill Sione at Kidlington. Oxon, in his 90th year. He was the oldest member of the Oxford Society of Change Ringers, and rang many nals with such stalwarts of the past as the Rev. F. E Robinson. J W Washbrook. and others.

Married to the daughter of the well known ringer. H. Judge, of Kidlington, he lived in Oxford and was a member of St . Giles' tower for many years His record of deals is unknown. but he always oreferred the heavy end, and his name annears as the ringer of the tenor in a veal of Stedman Cinques at Christ Church. Oxford. in 1903.

Always willing to help the beginner, he will be remamhered for the assistance he界ave when Mr. H. Miles revived the Oxford University Snciety after the first wnild war.
He last rang at Kidlington in 1956, and a quarter peal was rung there as a iribute on the day of his funeral.

\section*{MR. H. LEWIS}

The death of Mr. Harry Lewis, of St. Mary-within-the-Walls, Chester, on November 9th, is recorded with deep regret.
He was a life member of the Chester Diocesan Guild, and in latter years had been tower captain at St. Mary-within-the-Walls. Prior to this he had been a member of the Handbridge and Cathedral band.
Ill-health had prevented his taking an active part in ringing for a number of years, but he maintained his interest and. despite his illness, remained cheerful to the end.
The funeral service took place at St. Mary-within-the-Walls on November 14th, when :he service was conducted by the Rt. Rev. E. Mercer. Bishop of Birkenhead (former Rector), assisted by the Rev. W. G. Hurlow, priest-1ncharge.

\section*{MR. JOHN H. GARTSIDE}

With the passing of Mr. John H. Gartside, the Church of St. Laurence, Chorley, and the Lancashire Association have lost a stalwart. He was approaching eighty years of age and had been a member of the St Laurence's band since taking up ringing about 1910, and had rung in 158 peals for the Lancashire Association. Usually in peal attempts, he was to te found ringing the tenor, which he always handled comfortably and skilfully. He always appreciated and admired the very best striking in any method, and had a very good ear and sense of pitch. It was not unusual for him, when visiting a new tower, to listen first outside and estimate the weight, note and founder-usually quite accurately.
In addition to his interest in campanology he was an accomplished pianist, and it was a pleasure to hear his playing, by ear, marches, waltzes, classical music and tunes from the good old music hall days. The circus, too. held an attraction for him. and he would travel many miles to see a performance.
He was a plumber by trade and a bachelor. and appeared to be rather lonely over the last few years, having lost. in the space of a few months, his sister and brother-in-law, with whom he lived. and several staunch ringing friends. including the late Benjamin \(\mathbf{A}\). Knights, who had joined him in many peal attempts.
Until recently he had enjoyed good health: after taking part in a peal to mark his 73rd hirthday, he told the conductor he felt more like 33 years of age than 73. He was one of the few remaining members in the Preston Branch of a generation who did much to improve the standard of ringing. and widen he variety of methods, at a time when travelling was not nearly so easy as it is now. and funds not so plentiful.

\section*{In and around Cumberland}

Arranged by Kevin M. Price, a party of ringers from the Lake District rang on October 29th in eight towers in and around Cumberland. The day was not without misfortunes. The tenor rope broke at Orton. and at Shap ringing was difficult through there heing one long length instead of a double rope beneath the sally Yorkshire cail-ends were met at Bampton, where the ropes were bound with cellotape!
Ringing was of a high standard on the elorious 18 cwt . eight at Penrith. but at Great Salkeld ringing hardly got bevond rounds because of a broken rope The four bells at Lazonby were regarded as the best of the dav and on leaving the church a local shouted. "By gum! You certainly ring those bells well:" It was \(a\). Thursby ( 6 ) that the best ringing of the day was achieved. Kent Trehle Bob going weli on the recently rehung bells At the las: lower. Aspatria (8) we were ton tired to raise the bells pronerly However Plain Bob was rung. and the Vicar seemed duly impressed with our ringing. J. Whallev. Dorothy M. I. Nicholls and B. Maudslev are chanked for driving us.

\section*{KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION}

\section*{Lewisham District}

Nicholas Hawksmoor's Church of St. Alfege, Greenwich, dating from 1711, was the scene ot the District's annual meeting on October 22nd. This church was damaged during the war but has since been carefull restored. The tower was added in 1730 and contains ten bells of which the front nine were recast in 1954, the \(23 \frac{3}{2} \mathrm{cwt}\). tenor of 1824 being retained. The whole ring, by Mears and Stainbank, was rehung in the old frame. making ringing of the front bells somewhat tricky.

The Association's form of service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. C Morrison), who gave an address. He was assisted by Peter Simms at the organ, and the lesson was read by Ian Oram

About 60 ringers and friends look tea in the famous Nava! College. and this was fol lowed by the business meeting. for which Mr. A. G. Hill, vice-president, was voted to the chair. Amongst the apologies was one from Arthur Richards, then in Farnborough Hospital awaiting an operation. The meeting sent a message wishing him a speedy recovery.

As usual the secretary had prepared a printed report, which showed a slight decrease in membership, possibly accounted for by unpaid subscriptions. Mention was made of the success of the joint practices once a month the first being held at Biggin Hill in August Repair work nad been completed at Eynsford and Foots Cray
Five resident one associate and four nonresident life members were elected, and the re-election of Miss Mary Andrews as District secretary was received with acclamation The office of District representative had been filled with distinction for many years by Mrs. Barnett and Miss Freda Cannon, but this year's meeting decided on a change to a couple of enthusiastic young members. Paul Smith and Tony Lewis, who relinquished the positions of Ringing Master and "Ringing World " correspondent in favour of Colin Tester and Ian Oram respectively. All the retiring officers were thanked for their hard work.
A lively discussion resulted from a suggestion that the Association had its own Master: the meeting felt that such an office was unnecessary, but recommended that a rule should b : formulated for the election of a chairman for each annual general meeting and similar occasions. Provisional permission had been obtained for a meeting at the Church of the Annunciation. Chislehurst. on January 28th. A moment's silence was observed in memory of a life member. J A. G. Robertson, through whose efforts the bells at Lewisham were restored
The vote of thanks particularly mentioned Miss Freda Cannon, Further ringing from rounds to Cambridge Royal followed in the tewer.

\section*{LEEDS AND DISTRICT SOCIETY}

The attendance at the Calverley meeting on Octoher 20th doubled the September attendance at Idle, although the belfries are only a few miles apart.

The hells ware brought up in peal at 3 p.m and a short touch of well-struck Grandsire Triples started the afternoon's ringing Plain and Little Bob. Kent. Douhle Norwich, Cambridge Major and Stedman Triples were Cambridge Major and Stedman Triples were rung. Some. time was also given to rounds and call changes.
A very good tea was enioyed in the nearby school. and after a short business meeting. members returned to the belfry until eight o'clock.

Next meeting: Ossett, on Novemher 26th.

\section*{WHAT IS IHE BRISTOL SUCIETY?}

Dear Sir,-In recent months we have seen an increased numoer of peals accredited in "The Ringing Worid" to a nondescrupt body called "ine Bristol Society:" Obviously it cannot be a territorial society as the title suggests, as peals have been rung for it in Goucestershire, Somerset and Loughborough as well as in Bristol. In one instance Barrie Dove's band rang a peal under its name at Loxton, Somerset. As iar as I know only one member of that band had any connection with Bristol.

This raises another point: How were they elected? It might be of interest for prospective members to know who the elected officers are and how one may become a member. Therefore, if members are elected, what are the requirements of membership?

Unless an inaugural meeting has been held and a body of officers elected, can it be properly termed a "Society"? If this is not the case all peals acct dited to it should now be termed "Non-Association." As a further point it seems questionable that two elected officials of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association have seen fit to ring peals for the "Society" in Gloucester and Bristol territory.
To some people one point may need clarifying: the Society of St. George's Youths is a Society, with an elected Ringing Master, on the lines of the Ancient Society of Painswick Youths. Its centre is St. George's, Upper Cam, Glos.-Yours sincercly,
A. TUBE.

\section*{RINGER-CHORISTER}

Dear Sir,-With reference to the recent correspondence regarding ringer-chorister records, Mr. James Marriott, people's warden of St. Mary's, Launton, who is 82 years of age. has been a chorister here for 74 years, and a ringer for 69 years: he has seldom missed a service. Out of 10 ringers at Launton, seven are choristers; and we once had 14 choristers among 15 ringers. Among the ringers today we have two churchwardens, one lay reader, four members of the P.C.C., one verger and three servers, in addition to the seven three servers, in adisters.-Yours truly.
Launton. Oxfordshire.
REDERICK SHARPE.

Dear Sir,-I am in complete sympathy with Mr. Michael King's letter on "Struggling Beginners.' \({ }^{\text {b }}\)
When I was one of five beginners in an otherwise unmanned five-bell tower in Not. tinghamshire we raised our standards from rounds and call changes to multi-Doubles methods quarter peals in a short time During these months and afterwards we were regular in attendance at Guild and Association meetings and several practice nights were also regularly attended to gain experience on higher numbers of bells.

We learned a great deal from these flourishing towers (and. indeed. we are grareful). which was to their advantage later when their own numbers diminished so that we were needed, to ring certain methods

Two years ago our five-bell tower suffered a loss of four members owing to departure to college. Throughour all this time help. though frequently promised, was almost nil Is this because it is a five-bell tower? Would it have been different with a six-bell tower? As Mr. King said, "Helo is needed "-and it is always apprecisted.-Yours faithfully,

\section*{Guildford}

\section*{OFFICLAL VLEW ON EAST MORDEN} CRURCH
Dear Sir,-East Morden Church is one of the lowers covered by the Wimborne Branch of the Salisbury. Diocesan Guild. As one of the Branch Ringing Masters, I would tuke to put forward the Branch's side of the controversy which has developed.

The facts as stated in Mr. Dalton's letter (October 7th) are largely correct.

Branch members were nor very pleased to read in Belfry Gossip (September 16th) of the implied criticism that but for some encouragement East Morden bells would be ringing regularly, for the following reasons:
1. The bells were known to be in a oad state of repair this being confirmed after a visit, at the Vicar's request, by Mr. R. W. Young, one of the appointed Diocesan belfry inspectors. The necessary repairs were arranged to be carried out by a local firm under his supervision.
2. At the time that the quarter peal was published Mr. Young stated quite definitely that the bells were not in a fit state to be rung-metal guide stays had to be replaced, bolts were missing on two bells, nuts from some of the other bolts, and one wheel was loose. The building work had not been completed. As far as I know Mr. Young then removed the ropes to prevent further ringing.
3. East Morden had already approached the Branch for assistance in teaching a band from scratch. This the Branch was considering to do when the bells were ringable, as had been done at Poole.
4. One local tower as long ago as last vear offered to ring for service once a month, again when ringable.
It is not disputed that the various bands were given permission to ring: one visiting band were told that they could ring after this, if they brought their own ropes. Mr Young has tried to persuade the Vicar of the seriousness of the situation, but the Vicar either does not understand. or else prefers the sound of the bells to their safety.
I hope that this clarifies the situation.Yours faithfully.

ROSS G. W. ROBERTSON.
Tarrant Keyneston, Dorset.

\section*{100 MAJOR METHODS PEAL}

Dear Sir,-May I thank Mr. Feirn for his kind remarks and for pointing out that one method is missing from the report. To put the record straight. this method is Thombury It has been said and written many times that "ringing is 2 team effort " and this must be especially so in peals such as these. where it would be impossible to carry a passenger. would like 10 thank all the members of the band for their help and enthusiasm throughout the series; it nas been evident from the confident way in which they approached each new step that all the "homework" had been well and truly done. Especially would I mention Liz Bowden, who ioined us as a reserve, and without complaint has rung treble or learned large numbers of methods to ring "inside" as required, and also Ted Venn, who has alternated between second and seventh as required
Finally, my thanks also to W. Eric Critchley, John Segar. Cyril S. Wratten and Shirley Burton for their help with compositions and methods.-Yours faithfully.

ST. KATHIERINE'S SOCIETY'S APOLOGY
Dear Sir, As Ringing Master of the st. Katherine's Society, may 1 , through your columns, apologise to Mr. Kennington, of St. James', Grimsby, for our remarks on the bells of St. James
When writing a report of a tour certan peculiarities of the towers visited tend to stick in your mind, and sometimes, as in this case, are inadvertently blown up to some extent in the write up, thus giving offensive criticism where none is intended. I know this, baving experienced several such criticisms of my home ower.
I would in no way condemn St. James' bells, as they are a rather fine ten, although, to be perfectly hones., there is visible movement of the additional section of the frame housing bells Nos. 2 and 3, in relation to the rest of the frame. This was noticed by several members of the party, after having obtained permission to see the bells.
I agree with Mr. Kennington in that each bell of a ring normally has its own peculiarity, and, certainly, any reasonable ringer should be able to correct for it in a few pulls. The 2 and 3 at Grimsby are far from difficult. 1 must say that I have rung easier bells, but I have also handled bells infinitely worse.
May I, once again, apologise to Mr. Kennington for the adverse criticism and for any bad feelings resulting from it, and hope that my "statement of fact" is more acceptable. Yours faithfully.

Ringing Master, St. Katherine's Society and Nottingham University Society.

\section*{AUDIO VISUAL AIDS FOR INSTRUCTION}

Dear Sir--Regarding Mr Jackson's exrellent article, "Tuition of Beginners," there is one serious omission the lack of reference to the use of audio-visual aids in his Instruction " 3, 4, "6 and 14. My film, Ringers Required" was specifically made for these very purposes and, quite beside the use of it, I am sure it is not beyond the capabilities of the Education Committee to aciditionally prepare a set of different illustrated lectures on coloured slides, which might illustrate with written notes some of these points.
"Ringers Required " shows in 28 minutes a band of learners going through all the 14 points Mr. Jackson has listed. thus under his point 3 the film would succinctly and entertainingly show the recruits what lay before them. Why not use it? For those loath to venture forth with the necessary 30 s., might I suggest. if they live within range of certain television stations, who will shortly be televising a 14 -minute version of the film (see a forthcoming advertisement in "The Ringing World "), that they should look-in on these transmissions and make their own decision. The film is being provided as a service to the ringing fraternity and not for personal gain.Yours sincerely.

\section*{RECORD PEAL OF STEDMAN CLNQUES}

Dear Sir,-Once again 1 took the opportunity of listening to the lovely bells of St. Philip's Cathedral. Birmingham, on Saturday. November 12th. I was fortunate this time to bear both start and finish. From my usual position one can hear the bells in perfect rhythm,
Starting off at 1020 a.m., I returned about eight o'clock, by which time they were well towards the end, which came about 8.50 p.m., thus concluding a splendid peal by 12 enthusiastic campanologists. - Yours truly,

Handsworth

\section*{MORE LETTERS}

CHARGES FOR QUARTER PEALS
Dear, Sir, -1 was appalled at "The Ringine World "Committee's suggestion that at some time sooner or later a charge may have to be made for all quarter peals inserted in the columns of "The Ringing World."

The people who participate in ringing quar ter peals do not need a reminder from the committee or anyone else as to the financtal position of "The Ringing World." The people who need reminding most are the pea ringers whose names appear in print regularty to the tune of two and three peals a week.

Taking the same issue on October 21st, 1 noted that there were 48 tower bell peals and seven peals "in hand," but donations were only received from ten peals ( \(£ 1\) 18s.). In the quarter and half peal columns there wer 93 and donations were received from 68 ( \(£ 11\) 8s.).

If a charge were made at 6d. per person per rope (peals and quarters) and 6 d per person per pair of handbells, this would have yielded \(£ \delta 7 \mathrm{~s}\) (tower) plus 14 s . 6 d . (hand) \(=\) \(£ 91 \mathrm{~s}\), 6 d . for all peals published, and \(£ 1519\) s. for all quarter and half peals published. The grand total would have been \(£ 25\) os \(6 d\). agains! the Gratefully Acknowledged " £13 16s.

Let us remember that our aim first and foremost is to ring our bells to the glory of God and that peal ringing is another form of en tertainment which should take second place If every member of each peal band paid 6 d per rope to local tuwer funds. 6d, per rope to local Association or Guild funds and 6d. pe rope to "The Ringing World" it would stil be a very cheap form of entertainment agains a minimum of 10 s at a theatre or 4 s . to see - first-class Association football match.

This is a controversial issue which is bound to bring a wide variety of views both for and against. Whenever I participate in a quarter or peal attempt I usually try to encourage the band to make a small donation to "The Ringing World."

By all means introduce a levy if it will help in any way to keep the cost down, but let us have it on a fair and square basis-peals and quarters not just quarters.-Yours faithfully

\section*{REPLIES TO STEDMAN CRITICS}

Dear Sir,-In reply to my two Stedman critics (Nov. 4th) I must thank Mr. Jackson for drawing attention to where the two singles are made. I was a bit careless there, to think it sufficiently understandable as it was.

As singles in Stedman touches usually sp. pear perhaps it would have looked better entered as ths at a single and then 6ths at a single, followed by a further two bobs in 6-7 up, etc.
In reply to Mr. Pladdys, it is now such a long time ago since I first wrote my version of this louch that, who knows, perhaps I was that "grandfather" you mention and. in any case, "old as the hilis" or not, the challenge is open to you. Let's see you produce a rouch in any method or principle which produces these "three stars," Tittums. Whittingtons and Queens, in no more than 120 changes. and you can have as much Yorkshire pud with Yorkshire relish on as you like, as a rewardl-Yours sincerely.

PERCY WHITAKER.
Otley, Yorks.

PEALS BY TIME AND NOT BY CHANGES
Dear Sir,-I happened quite by chance to be reading some "Ringing Worlds" in nonringing company and the title style came undet discussion. A unammous comment was that the old style was far better and much more in keeping with the "art." and that if any change was to be made it should have gone to the opposite extreme and been ultra-modern whereas the new heading was a poor attempt at a compromise. Some said that the new style would be more in keeping with a racing gazette I know that non-ringers' views are not really important in this matter. but thes are certainly interesting.

The front page article of November 11th echoes some of the thoughts that have passed through my mind many times. While I would not go so far as to regard 720 as a peal 1 do think that 5.000 changes are 100 many What about ringing a peal by time rather than bv changes? If a peal had to be not less than two hours and not more than \(2 \frac{1}{6}\) hours of true changes it would make for more skill in conducting choosing a composition to suit not only the band but also the bells altering the speed of ringing during the deal to make the chosen competition fit into the time allowance, etc. etc But how does one break tradition?
Another point that has often occurred to me; in towers where the bells are loud enough for complaints to be reasonably iustifiable. why cannot deals be rung with muffiled bells alwavs? After all it would only be another form of sound control. Are there any other objections besides the iradition that mufiled peals are for the dead?-Yours faithfully.

\section*{"RERELLJOUS" HAS A COLLEAGUE!}

Dear Sir. - Well done, Rebellious! This is a brave attempt to live up to reality. The times have gone when the good old British Empire was at its height. and man travelled the countryside in a horse and coach. No one really worried about peal ringers, and with little else to do they must have appreciated the sound of the bells drifting across the village green.
Now in 1966. with the pink patches on the world map dwindling fast, people dislike the sound of church bells ringing for hours on end, shattering what little peace they get. Why, we have reached the point where a Newton-le-Willows television engineer phones up his M.P. every time he hears the bells ring.
However, is sound control the real answer, for we are defeating God's purpose in bell ringing merely to achieve our own ends? We don't like to admit it, but we are using churcit bells to gain status in the ringing fraternity, and pride in ourselves.
Let us face reality, and ask: "How many peals are rung to the Glory of God?" For every peal that is rung to the Glory of God there are many more that are rung just to see if a band can ring a certain method.

Is it not time we reconsidered the purpose of the peal? As a suggestion we might consider, as Christians, both God and our neighbour by asking ourselves before ringing a peal: "Is this peal really necessary?"-Yours faithfully
West Kirby, Cheshire.

\section*{Theale Bell Restoration Fund}

The ringers of Holy Trinity Church, Theale, Berks, are energetically working for their Bell Restoration Fund and have already raised over \(£ 200\). The autumn sale they organised made a profit of \(£ 53\) and a further \(£ 2\) was realised by selling rags and woollens left over from the sale. They have also made a profit of i4 from the sale of Christmas cards.

\section*{BARKINGSIDE OUTING}

New ventures are often pursued with an attitude of apprehension. and Barkingside's first ringing outing on the first Saturday in October. was no exception Firstly. the tour was arranged at very short notice. when the Woodford ringers had to cancel their tour Secondly, it was a difficult task to recruit sufficient outside ringers to help make the ringing a success Mhirdly the question of new towers. long draughts and heavy bells for young ringers had to be considered and finally. the old. old problem of navigation and the weather.
However we need not have worried. everything. except the weather. planned out well and all were safely delivered home. tired but happy after an enjoyable day

Now what of the towers? Fyfield's lovely little six where the voung members of the band felt quite at home and an all-ladies band. with two local learners, rang some very well-struck call changes. probably the best winging of the day

Bury St Edmunds and Mildenhall. where local enthusiasts welcomed us and tolerated our courses of Grandsire and call changes: what a pity we had not a band to do real justice to these two tens

Ely, where we were greeted by a ringer from Darlington and. later, two of the locals: Cambridge and Stedman were rung here with their help.

And so to our last tower of the day. at St . Neots, the first arrivals tryine to send the later on※s away from St Mary's, when only one rope was seen in the "ringing" room: however, a consultation in "Dove" and a trip to the Vicarage solved the mystery and gave us the opportunity to ring this fine heavy eight. Bob Triples went well here. and also the call changes for the learners
A good day indeed, completed in traditional style with fish and chips and liquid refreshments on the way home
Our thanks to the incumbents for letting us ring. to the locals for meeting us, to Woodford ringers for arranging the towers. to the four stalwarts from Walthamstow and last but not least the four drivers whe successfully nezotiated all roads to get us there and bacl safely.

\section*{A NORTH CORNWALL TOUR}

\section*{REDEDICATION}

\section*{WHATTON-IN-THE-VAL}

\(D^{4}\)URING a special service on November 11th the recently rehung bells at the church

CORNWALL is said to be the land of "he saints, but with great reality what was called a North Cornwall tour might well have been an All Saintstide tour for not only was it this season, but four of the five churches at which peals were attempted were in a parish with a saint's name.
The organiser was Alan Carveth and the first attempt was at St. Wenn on November 6th, when Denis Stevens stood in for one who obviously could not be there on a Sunday afternoon, but, alas, the conductor's rope started unravelling below the sally and parted when a peal of Doubles was about half way. An unfortunate keginning.
The band planned in two days to attempt peals at four towers at which no peal had ever been rung, and as far as is known only two had ever been attempted. They met at Padstow at \(10 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}\). on Monday. The ringers here benefit from a bequest made to them by Nicholas Watts, who died on August 21st, 1632. He stipulated that twelve shillings a year be paid to the ringers to ring a muffled peal on the anniversary of his death. This is known as Watts Knell. The bells were cast by John Rudhall at Gloucester in 1798. Three and five have been recast. They were rehung by Aggett in 1922 and again by Taylors since tne last war, and as the church and tower are an exception to the usual Cornish granite structure, being built of a softer stone, they have a character of their own. Bob Minor went without a hitch, and the peal was rung to mark the engagement of Evangeline Roberts. and by a strange coincidence a newspaper cut ting of the Carbis Bay band of some years go, including Evangeline as a teenage ringer, was pinned up in the tower.
After a snack lunch at a local we left for St. Minver. The spire could be seen about two miles away across the River Camel, but the journey is some ten miles by road. St Minver has a good six. completely recast and restored by Taylors a few years ago. It was intended to ring mixed Minor, but two attempts lasting in all about three quarters of an hour convinced us that our luck was out. Whilst the rest were meditating, a remark by Ron Bould that he would call us a peal of Grand sire Doubles was taken as serious and we let him! There is no doubt that this was more appreciated in a village where ringing with the tenor behind is at least understood. A local ringer who had his head through the tower screen curtains for a considerable time favourably and remarked on what he called "treble rest." St. Minver is a stronghold for competitive ringing

The night was spent at the Cornish Arms Pendoggett, some two miles away. The evening was convivial and prolonged, and at midnight we decided we had better go to bed.

The Tuesday morning peal was at St. Endellion, the only prebendal foundation :emaining in Cornwall. The church is certainly well cared for and is very beautiful, and the six bells are truly delightful, having been completely recast and rehung by Messrs. Taylor and Co. since the war. The decision of our conductor was Plain Bob, although we had been thinking of greater things, but how wise he was, for perfect striking and rhythm is everything in this part of Cornwall. The result was a well nigh perfect peal which equalled the day, for when we came out of the church we basked in sunshine, and in the branches of a tree over our seat there sat a tabby cat who had evidently enjoyed the peal as much as we had.
A snack lunch had been ordered at St. Kew Inn. where to our amazement the landlord's wife had made six Cornish pasties which, in length, were the complete diameter of a large dinner plate. Whether or not six ringers have ever been seen before seated at a table in a bar doing justice to piping hot pasties with knives and forks is doubfful. We rather feared for our afternoon attempt of five Doubles methods. St. Kew bells have been rehung by Taylors since the war. but the tower is tall and the draught long. Also, as at all the towers we visited, the rope ends were spliced in, but an adjustment can be made to give the exact length needed by applying the "Cornish roll" under the sally provided it has not got to pass through a guide. All ready. a successful peal was rung. At one stage the Vicar appeared through the curtains, but noting our concentration he departed to reappear to leave a note of welcome and comments to the effect that the ringing was "sounding fine." We valued this appreciation.
We broke up at St. Kew Arms. with special thanks to Alan. Already a reunion has been suggested.

\section*{North Herts Half Day}

At lunch-time on October 22nd ringers from North Herts, with friends from Saffron Walden and Melbourn enjoyed a quiet run through pleasant leafy lanes in autumn sunlight to Swaftham Prior. Over 30 people had assembled here during which time there had been much frantic searching for the key.
The rower of St. Cyriac's houses quite a pleasant ring of six, but the hanging leaves much to be desired. The non-ringers and those who suffer from a nervous disposition watched the masonry fall amid the ruined church below as 45 minutes' ringing flew by.

More friends arrived at Burwell, where there is a very light eight with an extra long draught. which presented difficulties to learners. However. Yorkshire and Stedman went very well. At Fordham, after an awful rise, the 16 cwt . six were rung to London and Norwich.
Tea was taken in the cars outside the church and when Soham was reached it was dark and raining. Seven more people awaited us here having met one short twice running for a peal attempt. Stedman and Cambridge Roval nroved most enjoyable to performers and audience alike.
A short dash through heavy rain brought us to Chippenham, Cambs. It was here that the young element in the party thought that a visitor from the fiery world below had arrived. This turned out to be the verger lightso amongst the fragrance of wood smoke ended a vleasant half day's ringing. "The Rutland," Newmarket. was chosen for a short natter before a wet ride home.

\section*{Bromley Ringers' Tour}

Dawn had barely broken when 13 Bromlev ringers and two friends from Hayes left on October lst in two cars and a Landrover for our first tower of the day, Radlett. Here on the lightest six yet cast by Mears we enjoyed a ring unmarred by the likely disaster of bent stays? At North Mymms, with the assistance of the tower captain. Tom Lock, we were able to achieve a course of Stedman Triples.

Our arrival at St. Stephen's, St. Albans, was greeted by torrential rain and only the bravest to thirstiest-forsook the shelter of the cars to go to the pub at lunchtime. At St.
Peter's the tenor went up wrong, but otherwise we managed quite well. A veil should be drawn over our performance at the Cathedral. At Wheathampstead 36 feet of unguided rope soon revealed the good handlers, but after the initial shock we enjoyed some of the best ringing of the day here.

At Sandridge we became embroiled with a wedding party but on disentangling ourselves had an enjoyable ring. Tea was by now top priority, and thanks go to Michael Foster fo making the arrangements for a really excellent meal. Our last two towers for the day were at Hatfield, where we acquitted ourselves fairly well on the ten, and at Essendon. where the 10 cwt . six rounded the day off very pleasantly

Our thanks go to Sheila Copping, who so ably made the arrangements, to our drivers. Michael O'Callaghan, Frank Gates and Richard Weam, and to all the incumbents and tower captains for allowing us to ring of St. John the Beverley, Whatton-in-the-Vale, the subject of a recent special article, were rededicated by the Archdeacon of Newark, the Ven. Brian Woodhams.

The service took the form of a shortened Evensong and, following the lesson, the Whatton ringers assembled beneath the tower. The Vicar prayed for the bells and for all who will ring on them, and the Archdeacon, at the request of the churchwarden, rededicated the bells and handed them over to the ringers bells and handed them over to the ringers care and charge. The ringers then ascended the tower and rang the bells in rounds for wo minutes.
In an address the Archdeacon spoke on the bells of the churches at which he had served, much to the enjoyment, and at times amusement, of the large congregation of villagers and ringers.
After the service the bells were open for general ringing, and many of the ringers, in cluding Mr. H. Marcon, representing Messrs. \(\mathbf{j}\). Taylor and Co., took the opportunity of trying the bells. Satisfaction on the restoration and "go" of the bells was the general comment.
On
On Sunday evening, prior to the Remembrance Day Evensong, a quarter peal of Plain Bob Minor was rung half-muffled by Mary D. Gaydon (first quarter) 1. Pamela C. Clarke 2. W. L. Exton (cond.) 3. J. D.

\section*{INSCRIPTION ALTERED}

One interesting discovery during the cleaning of the bells was the inscription on the treble bell. A local village tale that "All Gave Me" meant that the new bell was made from the metal taken from the remaining five bells dur ing tuning and removal of the canons was well and truly quashed.

It was discovered that the inscription had been altered by the filing away of the initia letters T. H. H., and the bell had been zast with the inscription "T. H. Hall Gave Me." When the bells were rehung and augmented in 1913. T. H. Hall was the local squire, who lived at Whatton Manor. From the list of donations it would appear that he headed the list with \(£ 20\), but as the treble bell cost \(£ 55\) someone must have decided this was rot sufficient and had the inscription amended Perhaps it was a good thing the name fitted W.L.E.

\section*{Highclere Bellringers' Festival}

Sunday. November 20th, proved to be a red letter day for the Highclere ringers, for their fifth bellringers' Sunday. The 7.30 ringing for Holy Communion service consisted of :wo courses of Bob Major, the first by a local band for Sunday service for many years.
For the 10.30 ringing for Matins a course of Kent Treble Bob Minor was rung with the help of a distinguished ringer on the tenor. Mr. A. P. Cannon, who made our day when Me said it was better than the courses rung at Dorking. Considering we have only practised for a month in this method we felt this was indeed a compliment.
The method chosen for the afternoon was Plain Bob Triples and, for the first time since we have made the afternoon peal attempt, five of the local team were in the band.
A very good peal resulted with two of the band ringing their first on eight and three more their first of Plain Bob Triples, and we were pleased to have the help of three friends from Kingsclere who have given valuable help in eight bell ringing at many of our recent practices.
The service in the evening was very much in the hands of the ringers. The captain, Mr. G. Dodd. read the lesson. two others acted as sidesmen, handbells accompanied the singing of two of the hymns, these being played hy two 14 -vear-olds and one 12 -year-old-Philip Tailor, Keith Joiner and Peter Furness.
The Rector in his sermon praised the ringers for their ringing-it was obvious from his knowledge of the subject he had taken great pains over it-and the choir sang a specia anthem,
G. -

\section*{BELFRY GOSSIP}

The Spliced Surprise Major record has been pushed a little further with a peal in 120 methods at Longney. Glos, in 2 hours and 48 minutes. Another great achievement.

Hythe. Kent, is losing a faithful servant by the departure of Mr. W. Bidnell. During his 44 years as a ringer, he has been tower secretary for 15 years.
Mr. Harry Badger writes that it was in 1926 that he rang his first peal of Double Norwich with the late George Pullinger at Bishopstoke, and not almost 50 years ago as mentioned on page 759.
We are asked to state that the handbell ringing at the Lancashire Association dinner (page 757) was by Nick Newby and his two sons, Nick junior and Cliff.

From Fordingbridge. Hants, we leam that a memorial quarter peal has been rung regretting the loss of the silhouette outlines of church spires, etc., that formerly adorned "The Ringing World's" front page.

The peal of Doubles rung in two methods at Steep, Hants, included three ringers of the service band-treble, 14 -year-old Janet Wilson; tenor, John White (13), ringing their first peals! with Mrs. Ann Hall on the 3 rd, ringing her second peal. All three performed very creditably.

\section*{ANCIENT SOCIETY OF COLLEGE YOUTHS}

At the business meeting of the Society on Notember 8th at the "Rising Sun," Carter Lane, E.C.4, the following were elected officers for the ensuing year: Master: Mr. A. J. Frost; secretary: Mr. J. G. A. Prior; treasurer: Mr. C. G. J. Watts; senior steward: Mr. P. A. Corby, junior steward: Mr. A. N. Stubbs; trustees: Messrs. J. F. Smallwood and J. A. Waugh. Mr. W. T. Cook was elected librarian.

\section*{POLICE TRIBUTE}

A band of ringers, all police officers in Somerset, rang a commemorative peal of Grandsire Triples on the bells of East Coker Parish Church on November 16th. It was their tribute to P.C. Nathaniel Cox, on the 90 th anniversary of his murder by poachers. The peal, preceded by a short service, conducted by the Rev. George \(\underset{W}{E}\). Mullard, was organised by Mr. Gilbert W. Rendell, of Hardington Mandeville. After the service, a floral spray was laid on Nathaniel Cox's grave by Inspector F. T. Sandy, of Yeovil, in the presence and on behalf of the police officers. Addressing his congregation of police officers, Addressing his congregation of police offers, you lead, and I believe maximum protection should be afforded the policeman at all times," and he called attention to the forthcoming trial in London of three men accused of killing three police officers.

\section*{SOMERSET RINGERS THE OTHER SIDE \\ OF THE SEVERN}

Portbury ringers and friends took advantage of the new Severn Bridge on October 1 st to visit the Newport-Chepstow area. Ringing started on the tuneful six at Penhow, where the congregation enter the church through the rope-circle. Over the bill at Magor, we found the six "go" very heavily and it is impossible to hear the bells unless the trapdoor in the roof is raised.

All the other towers visited had octaves. At Caldicot restoration work was in progress, and the splendid tone of Caerleon's bells impressed those accustomed to treat such light bells with suspicion. Our best striking was on the majestic Warner octave at All Saints', Newport. Machen bells sound harsh in the hazardous ringing chamber, and at Marshfield the bells unfortunately cannot be heard distinctly inside and our striking did not do justice to the bells. Our thanks to incumbents and those who met us.

\section*{LIVERPOOL UNIVERSTTY SOCIETY WEDDING}

Mr. Malcolm Phillips, a well known member of Liverpool University Ringing Society, was married to Miss Muriel Hastings at Wigion Congregational Church, Cumberland, on October 29th. The bride also attended Liverpool University, and, although not a ringer, it can be said that they met through the University Ringing Society.

Several ringing friends made the long journey to Wigton for the occasion and a quarter peal of Yorkshire Surprise Major was quarter at Carlisle Cathedral prior to the rung at

The bride wore a full length gown of brocade with a short veil. and was attended by her sister Dorothy. The reception for some 50 guests was held at the Skinburness Hntel, a picturesque hntel on the Solway Firth The couple will live at King's Norton. Birmingham, where the bridegroom is employed.

\section*{RING OF SIX STEEL BELLS RESTORED}

Burton-on-Trent,with its variety of five rings, can now add a usable ring of six steel bells at Horninglow. These Naylor-Vickers bells were installed soon after the church was opened in 1866, the two trebles being added later. They fell into disuse between the wars, but in recent years a great local effort has been made to rehang the bells on ball bearings, repair the fittings and strengthen the frame.
This task has been mainly carried out ry Mr Kenneth Forbes, and the work on the tenor was just completed in time for the church's centenary. The bells go extremely well and have a distinctive though not unpleasant tone when heard outside the tower though the treble is not exactly in scale. The noise in the ringing chamber is great, making conducting difficult. It is hoped to remedy this defect in the future.
The centenary was commemorated by a quarter peal on the bells, in which Mr. John Scattergood, the present captain, who has been training the local band, rang the tenor This quarter was the first in the tower for over 40 years, and the only one in living memory. The local men who have undertaken this task deserve congratulating on a very good job.

\section*{ANOTHER DAY TO REMEMBER}

Congratulations to Martin Turner on his ringing the treble to a peal of Stedman Triples at Kidlington on November 12th. Martin is only 14 years of age and learned to handle a bell at Wolvercote under the guidance of Wilf Godwin. This was about 18 months ago He has now accomplished several Doubles and Minor methods and is adept at extending these methods to Triples and Major when he visits an eight-hell tower, which is quite often, as his grandfather is Walter F. Judge, who conducted his peal It was Martin's first peal. a previous attempt at Kirtlington on October 22nd failing in the eleventh part through the tenor rope breaking. His parents are shortlv moving to Standlake, near Witney. Oxon. but he will still \(b\) a able to continue ringing in Oxford as he is a pupil at Magdalen College School.

\section*{SURPRISE ON RECORD}

Andrew G Craddock, of Newcastle on TYne. had a surprise when he purchased the Kinks' latest single record "Dead End Street" (Pye 7N 17222). On playing the "flip" side he heard rounds on six rung very distinctly as an introduction to the song "Big Black Smoke." The rounds were also rung at the end!
Perhaps (suggests Andrew) Ray Davies, who is one of Tin Pan Alley's leading song writers, and also lead singer for the Kinks. has had some association with bell ringing. He wrote both sides of this disc.

\section*{GREMLINS DEFIED}

While spending a week-end with Mr. Arthur G Mason. one of his Australian huddies. the Rev. M. C. C. Melville rang his first peal of Stedman Triples at Erith (page 746). Luck seems to have been with him to add elusive Stedman to his collection, as the following week a band met for a peal of London. rang six changes. and down came the sixth rope ! This was the first time in living memory that a rope had broken in a peal attempt at Erith "So the gremlins. or whatever it is which causes peals to fail. did their best. but did not quite succeed," comments our correspandent.

\section*{RINGING FOR * THE ARCHERS"}

Ringers from Evesham. Pershore and Worcester went on November 13th, at short notice, to ring the hells at Hanbury for a B.B.C. recording for the "Archers" programme.
The ringing will possibly be heard shortly, when the theme of the programme will be concerned with recruiting some new bellringers at "Ambridge." Good touches of Yorkshire and Stedman Triples were rung. followed by a fall in peal and the minute bell. There was also a microphone in the ringing chamber, and we were asked simply to discuss the ringing as we would normally Hanbury church and bells have been used before for the "Archers" programme The bells are a very nice Taylor eight (tenor \(12 \frac{1}{2}\) cwt.).

\section*{CHORISTER-RINGER RECORD}

At Frome there is a ringer with an even At Frome there is a ringer with Mr Gascoigne of North Muskham, reported in the issue of October 14 th . He is Mr. W. H. Mills, born in 1882, who was a choirboy from the age of nine and a ringer from is at Marston Bigot, two miles from rrome. which he still visits on alternate Sunday mornings to ring and sing.

He joined St. John's ringers at Frome in 1914 and continues to ring regularly each Saturday practice and Sunday evening Mr, Mills rang for the relief of Kimberley. Lady: smith and Mafeking. for the death of Queen Vicioria and for all national events since then.

Before 1912 the five at Marston, in an old elm frame were in very bad repair: the new treble and steel frame made it a lovely light six much enjoyed by scores of ringers since then.

Mr . Mills served in France and Italy in the 1914-18 War. and hopes to celebrate his diamond wedding on Boxing Day this year.

\section*{SEVENTH GRANTLEY HALL COURSE}

The seventh annual week-end course at Grantley Hall Ripon. Yorks. On November 11th-13th, was perhaps the most successful ever held, with 35 ringers present and a further 17 unable to secure a place Lecturers were Messrs. F. Sharpe. W. F. Moreton, N. Chaddock and E Hudson Mr Mr . Bottomilary of the Central Council. and new secretary of the Central Council, and nev, Yorkshire Association president. was present on the first evening to welcome students. A full report will be available in due course.

DIAMOND JUBILEE OF RINGING
The recent quarter peal rung at Frittenden, Kent, was to celebrate Mr. G. Grant's 60 years of ringing. Although retired, George has continued his membership of the thriving band at Headcorn. where he was captain for a number of years. His efforts in maintaining a strong Sunday service band over the past years have resulted in rapid progress.

\section*{CAPTAIN'S 1,000th ATTENDANCE}

Mr. Derek P. Jones has made his 1.000 th ringing attendance at Church Gresley, Derbyshire, having been in charge of the ringing since the bells were installed nearly eight years ago. The occasion was marked by a quarter peal in 11 methods and a presentation quarter peal hand by Mr. David Parry (vicecaptain), of "Shell Guide to Britain."

\section*{ON THE END OF A BELL ROPE}

The ringing chamber buzzed with conversation. Suddenly an enthusiastic voice rose above the murmur: "Band for Grandsire Doubles, please! Yes, you on the treble, Amaryllis. Derek, you're calling."
I took my place behind the treble's green sally, took the tail in my left hand and waited for the others to go to their places. Rosemary stood behind me, saying, "I'll keep you right." The others were ready.
"Look to, treble's going, she's gone."
I was aware of my voice sounding loudly in the sudden silence. Then the bells' voices came bouncing down the scale from treble to tenor. I wondered casually why the sally was wet.
"Tenors behind!" called Derek. The order of the bells changed slightly and I felt happy, but nervous.
"Go, Grandsire Doubles!" I heard Derck's voice again and Rosemary muttered in my car: "Second takes you....don't let her drop. That's right . . over fourth now." She stopped speaking and I fixed my attention on the flickering green sallies.
"You're pulling too hard. Now lead." Rosemary's voice was calm, but I was beginning to panic.
"Oh, help!" I thought. "I'm behind check her in . that's it. Ow! I'm pulling my arms of!!
"Single!" called Derek and I realised that Rosemary was speaking. "Let it stay longer on the balance. You do not need half that strength."
"Slow down," I told myself. "I'm sure to be wrong... Oh, I'm supposed to be leading." Derek had called a bob and Rosemary went on telling me where my places were Soon I got more into my stride. My bell control grew better. I went on, handstroke, backstroke, again and again. My bell moved to the back and checked in towards lead, on and on. In a minute \(I\) was sorry to hear:
"That's all!" then a few minutes later: "Stand."

\section*{OUR COVER PICTURE}

Our cover picture shows the great church of St. Peter Mancroft, Norwich, from the Market Place. Entirely rebuilt and finished in 1455 it is remarkable for the excellent quality of its exterior and is one of the prides of East Anglia.

The fine western tower contains one of the notable rings of 12 in the country, with a tenor of 37 cwt .99 lb . in C . It may be of note, too, that the ringers' jug or "gotch" is itself of dignitied proportions, holding 36 pints!
"Mancroft" is justly famous for its performances and its ringers. The first true peal ever recorded was rung in this tower-"Gransır' Bob Triples" on May 2 nd, 1715 , by the Norwich Scholars in 3 hours 18 minutes. The names of John Garthon and the rest of the Society who took part are recorded on a richly ornamented circular panel. Above, two angels with floral bouquets hold an elaborate crown. There is also an inscription: "Practice Makes Perfect."

Many famous ringers have been connected with this tower. The first true peal of Stedman Triples was conducted by Thomas Melchior, of the St. Peter's band. Later came Samuel Thurston who introduced a number of first peals to the Exercise. He rang the tenot to Norwich Court Bob Maximus on July 4th, 1825 , and conducted the first peals of Superlative and London Surprise Major.

Within a decade or two was Henry Hubbard, whose compositions are still popular. Indeed this interest in composition has been exemplified by many contemporary Norwich ringers. One calls to mind J. Armiger Trollope, the previous editor of "The Ringing World" and probably the historian of the Exercise whose research into London ringing and the history

Treble swung easily up, over the balance and stayed. Rosemary smiled and moved off. I knotted the tail and felt sorry for people who did not ring.

AMARYLLIS BELL-RICHARDS.
of early ringing societies embrace many volumes of manuscript largely unpublished. Another Norwich son was George H. Cross, who for a number of years was the Master of the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths.

Of those with us today we honour J. Nolan Golden, president of the Norwich Diocesan Association and the ringer of more than 1,000 peals, and finally the present president of the Central Council, Canon Gilbert Thurlow, who in the past delved into the history of Norwich churches. Now from the quietness and seclusion of the Cathedral Close, in those rare occasions that he can retreat from the demands of a busy world, he can enjoy the majesty of the bells of St. Peter's.
The great market church of Mancroft has in its present form dominated the scene of trade activity for five centuries, like similar churches at St. Martin's, Birmingham, and St. Mary Redcliffe, Bristol. And it is fitting that beneath its sturdy background the Lord Mayor and citizens of Norwich should at this season of the year assemble to welcome the Christ Child.

The Art and Science of Change Ringing on Church and Hand Bells

\section*{WILFRID G. WILSON}
"The need for a modern textbook on change ringing fit to put into the hands of the latest recruit and acceptable to the progressive ringer has been felt by instructors for a long time, particularly during the last twenty years as the Exercise reestablished itself after the war and the ban on ringing. The wait has been worthwhile, for Faber's invitation to Mr Wilfrid G. Wilson has resulted in a volume on the theoretical and practical aspects of our art as valuable as any yet written... Here is a book to be recommended most strongly"' The Ringing World

\section*{Stedman Cinques Record Back in Birmingham}

THHERE was much jubilation in Birmingham on the night of Saturday, November 12th. A record peal of \(15.699^{\prime}\) Stedman Cinques had just been successfully completed on the bells of St Philip's Cathedral, and so recaptured for the St. Martin's Guild the record which they had lost to the Oxford Guild in 1946
Before 1946, the record had belonged to the St Martin's Guild for 65 years, commencing with a peal of 9,238 changes at St. Martin's in 1881 This peal was composed by Henry Johnson, who took part in it on his 72 nd birthday It was later improved upon in 1901 with a peal of 11,111 changes, again at St. Martin's.
During this era Stedman Cinques had enjoyed a very special place in Birmingham ringing-firstly under the leadership of Henry Johnson and John Carter and later under Albert Walker. so the Guild could perhaps have been excused if they bad thought that the record was theirs by divine right! However, it was eventually wrested from them by Walter Judge and his band who rang 12,663 changes at Christ Church. Oxford.
The task of organising the peal belonged to Alan Ainsworth who must have found his job considerably easier than his predecessors did. In the two previous records the band had been drawn from many parts of the country, and one notes that Mr. Judge carried out an 4 almost ceaseless correspondence to set his hand together." The present band included nine who were regular ringers at the Cathedral. and of the remaining three. Basil Jones and Bot Smith came from Cheshire and Andrew Stubbs from London.

\section*{INTEREST IN THE START}

It was a typical grey November morning as the band assembled outside the tower. but everyone seemed to be in good spirits: The official meeting time was 9.30 a.m. since it was not possible to start until after \(9.45 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}\) owing to a service. The Master of the Guild Mr. Richard Ingram, was present to offer the band his oreatines and best wishes. and a num ber of University ringers had come along also to hrar the start Frank Havnes had specially travelled up from Cambridge to listen to the peal-and also to check that the umpires were doing their job! The band lined up for photoeranh and then with the umnires. ascend \({ }^{\text {nd }}\) the tower to begin the serious business of the day.
The bells had first to be raised and then tried in rounds for the ropes to be adjusted. sc that it was not until 10.15 a.m. that everything was ready Since it was desirable that the peal should be finished by about 9.15 p.m... this meant that the peal had to be restricted to 16.491 changes (see \({ }^{4}\) R.W". D. 719). After one 16.491e's rounds. the bells went into changes at \(10.19 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}\). .. the band standing as follows: Alan Ainsworth treble. Andrew Stubbs 2. Norman Gondman 3 Martin Fellows 4. John Eisel 5. Basil Jones 6. David Purnell 7. Bob Smith 8. Michael Fellows 9 Clifford Barron 10. John Anderson 11. Peter Border tenor
The opening course. which brought the bells into the Tittums. was rung very confidently in a time of just over \(5 \frac{1}{2}\) minutes. The ringing had not quite settled down at this stage, but by the third course a good beat had started to develop, and this was to be a feature of much of the remainder of the peal. The pace was gradually increasing and at the end of the first hour the courses were being rung in just under \(5 t\) minutes At this point a turning course brought the bells into the 8790 e posicourse brought the bells into the 8790 E position, but it had no effect on the bright and lively ringing. After a further seven courses, another turning course was called to bring the bells back into the Tittums, this time the fifth replacing the sixth in fifth's place.

\section*{TURNING COIRRES AT HOURLY}

\section*{INTERVALS}

It should perhaps be mentioned here that this type of composition. with turning courses at hourly intervals. had specifically been requested by the band. The reason for this was that they were all experienced Surprise Maximus ringers. and they felt that a change of position every hour would help to maintain position every hour would help to maintain interest and concentration. This. of course presented difficulties for the composer, and presented difficulties for the composer, and threatened to make things awkward for the conductor too. However, it was unanimouslv agreed that John Chilcott had done a first class job in producing a composition that conformed to these specifications and at the same time kept the back bells in interesting and musical positions. Moreover, he had done much to ease the burden for the conductor by making all turning courses virtually identical and by making it possible to bring the bells round in a very short time from any position

It might be considered by some that it was an error of judgment to request such a composition. entailing as it did an upheaval of the back bells. and slightly unfamiliar coursing orders. However, the band were vindicated by the actual result, because although the Tittums and Handstrokes were rung with just that little and Handstrokes were rung with just that littie bit more confidence, the variations had no and the parts provided the band with a good yardstick for following the progress of the peal.

One notable feature of the peal was the way in which the speed varied, following ver; closely the pattern of the record peal of Cambridge Maximus last year. As on that occasion, the speed increased at first and then. around lunchtime, began to ease up. The slowest ringing of all (apart from the first course) again occurred in the early afternoon. corresponding to the period at which the band perhaps realised how much lay ahead, even though one peal had already been completed There were a few very slight trips at this point but they amounted in mn mnre than miedonges and were corrected by the ringers concerned in no more than a whole-pull.

As the afternoon progressed and the band began to get their second wind so the speed increased again, and then steadied at just over \(5 \frac{1}{4}\) minutes per course. The ringing throughout the day had been excellent. and by teatime it was still of a very high standard, and everyone appeared to be in a good frame of mind. The only sustenance taken had been boiled sweets, and this mainly by those on the front end. It was on one such occasion that Norman found a sweet tantalisingly out of reach, to the great amusement of the others.
At 6.49 p.m. the Oxford record was passed, and 20 minutes later the length of the false peal at Southwark was exceeded. so that new ground was now being broken. It was noticeable, however, that fatigue was taking its effect because the trips, although still of a minor nature, became rather more frequent. A contributory factor was the poor ventilation of the tower, which had been a problem all day, owing to the heating in the church below. The only means of lowering the temperature was by opening the window behind the front bells, causing those nearby to shiver whilst those on the back bells were still too warm.

Certainly conditions were not ideal, and they affected one member of the band sufficiently for him to ask the conductor to shorten the peal ( 18 courses had still to be rung). Alan immediately omitted the next three bobs at "19," these being the last three in the penultimate part. This now meant that the Maximus record \((16,368)\) could not be beaten, and it was therefore sensible to omit both sets of three bobs at "19" in the last part, even though the ringer was now looking better.

\section*{A FINE FINISH}

The effect of this. quite naturally, was to disturb the ringing somewhat, so that for a time it departed from its previous high standard. though it must be stressed that it was still very acceptable. However, when Alan announced at the beginning of the last part, that only seven courses were left, the band pulled themselves together once again and the last few courses were rung in fine style The final course took only five minutes and eight seconds, and the bells came triumphantly into rounds at 8.49 p.m The 15,699 changes had taken exactly \(10 \frac{1}{2}\) hours.

The peal attracted a number of visitors during the day, but it was disappointing to note that these were nearly all locals. or former Birmingham ringers such as Frank Haynes, Stan Mason and Susan and Philip Rothera, John Chilcott had also heard most of the peal. taking a keen interest in the ringing and in the musical qualities of his composition. In any event. the ringers were eagerly greeted with wedl-deserved congratulations by the crowd who had gathered outside at the end, and were escorted down to "The Troc" for some muchneeded refreshments.
The three umpires-George Fearn, Stephen Ivin and myself-are unanimous in stating that this peal was a very fine performance, and one that. on all counts, far exceeded the minimum requirements for a new record. All the band rang exceptionally well, but special mention

\section*{An Astounding Peal of Doubles}

CREAT WISHFORD, situated some three miles from Wilton and six from Salisbury, has one of the most unusual rope circles in the country. This ring of five has musical properties, but is difficult to hear in the belfry

The bells were examined in 1965 by the writer, who found that they were as difficult to ring as reputed to be, and a full peal would be an achievement. But a quarter peal had been rung there, a performance of which the band could be justly proud.
We ascertained that the quarter peal band had no real intention of trying again and then made an application for the peal attempt to the Rev. Hurst Bannister, a ringer and former Master of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association, and also to Mr. E. Hayes, the captain of both the Wishford and Wilton towers. Permission was readily granted.
An experienced band of Doubles ringers from North Hampshire and Dorking was organised, and it was also decided to attempt a peal of Minor on the tricky six at Wilton, which if successful would be the first of Minor on the bells.

\section*{CONCRETE BLOCKS AND PLANKS}

We arrived at the tower at \(1.15 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}\). on November 19th. complete with concrete blocks and short planks with the intention of mak ing a platform for A.P.C.. who was to ring the tenor, so that he could face the other ringers. Our efforts were in vain, as we found his head would not fit in the doorway. He could thus make no use of the platform but faced down the stairs with his back to the other ringers!

The ropes are placed as follows: treble and second ringers face the wall: No. 3 is in the middle of the room: with No. 4 pushed up in the corner and the tenor ringer is obliged to look down the steps. The ringing room is 8 ft . 6 in. square, out of which about two square yards is taken by a clock case, with its attendant pendulum, weights and wires
The bells are as follows: Treble, 2, 3 and 5 James Burrough, Devizes. 1751: 4. Mears and Stainbank. 1887. According to "The Church Bells of Wiltshire" the tenor weighs 14 cwt .
The peal started just hefore \(2 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}\). and a fast pace was set by the tenor ringer. At the halfway a change was made to Grandsire but, with the extra dodging, the pace began to tell and a change back to Plain Bob for

STEDMAN CINQUES RECORD-continued must be made of Alan Ainsworth's faultess handling of the peal throughout. The back bells also deserve praise for the way in which they maintained a very good rhythm. which was essential for the success of the peal. Bob Smith added yet another record to his very impressive list and Andrew Stubbs, whose first long-length it was, rang as if he did this sort of thing every Saturday

I have no wish to attempt to compare the quality of this peal with that of the Oxford peal and, in any case, I have no bapsis for so doing. However, for those who wish to judge the peal for themselves, a tape-recording was taken of the ringing at various times throughout the day, and it is proposed to make a record from this, details of which will be published later. It is being financed by individuals connected with the peal, but surely it is a venture which it would be well worth while a venture which it would be well worth while for the Central Council to undertake in the future, since it is a unique means for preserving ringing history, and one which is far more effective than any written account the last 11 extents produced the best ringing when the conductor's advice on "steadying them up" was taken by the fit tenor man.

Congratulations were extended to the band by Mr. Haines, and his hospitable cup of tea was much appreciated, before dashing to Wilton for a 5.45 p.m. start for the first of Minor on the bells.

Ringing here with the long draught is not easy but, with six extents behind us, our tenor man again put on the pressure in the last 720 and we were all set to record a peal in 2 hours and 35 minutes. With only two leads to go and the last single to call. down came the fourth rope and our bid for fame by ringing peals on two of the most difficult rings of bells in Wiltshire in one day was over.

However, we are grateful to Mr. Haines and the Wilton ringers for the chance to try and will remember for many years the first peal on the difficult bells at Wighford. which can truly be described as "man's bells.

\section*{THE LADIES' GUILD South Wales District}

The South Wales District held its autumn meeting at Ross-on-Wye on October 22nd. The lovely ring of eight bells drew a crowd of ringers from places as far apart as Bristol and Swansea Mr. Jack Webb, tower master at Ross. was early in the tower to welcome visitors. and the bells were well used until service time. This was taken by the Rev. II P. Clay, curate at Ross, and afterwards the company gathered in the Central Café for tea, Thanks to the curate, organist and to Mr Webb were expressed by Mrs, C. Coles, Miss Sarah Byford and Miss Sally Guest.

Five new members were elected. viz. : Mrs. A. Paton and daughter Susan, of Mitcheldean. Mrs. Beaven, Miss Monica Greenway and Miss Anne Butcher, all of Ross-on-Wye.

During the evening, an outing arranged bv Mr. Leslie Weller joined in the ringing activities. Brisk business was done over the tivities. Brisk business was done over the sale of badges and the payment of subscriptions. Members decided to try to hold the annual District meeting at Aberavon on January 28th next.

\section*{HEREFORD GUILD}

The autumn meeting of the Bridgnorth Branch was held at Broseley on November 5 th. Ringing was under the direction of the Branch Ringing Master, Mr, A. Jones, who saw to it that the encouraging number of young ringers present had every opportunity. The service was taken and the address given by the Rev. F. Pope (curate). A good tea was enjoyed at the Foresters Arms.

\section*{DISPUTE OVER BRISTOL UNIVERSITY PEAL}

\section*{An unusual course adopted by the Master} (Mr. Nicholas W. H. Simon) in requesting that a peal rung for the University of Bristol Society should not be published has caused divided opinions among local ringers. The peal, one of Grandsire Caters, was rung at Si Stephen's, Bristol. on November 5th, conducted by Mr. John Parsons.

Shortly after we received the report, Mr. Nicholas W. H Simon (the Master) wrote asking the Editor to withhold publication as complaints had been made to Mr. Albert Tyler. captain of the tower. "Several good ringers heard the peal and all have pronounced the ringing to be the worst they have ever heard." he wrote.

We notified Mr. Parsons of the Master's complaint and in his reply he stated that the Master's opinions were entirely without foundation. At the committee meeting on November 2nd the Master told them that he would be unable to ring in the peal attempt. The committee decided that the attempt should go ahead as it would enable two of the band to ring their first peal. On November 3rd the Master agreed that Mr. Parsons should conduct the peal and on November 6th he complimented the band on its performance

In refuting the objection Mr. Parsons stated that as the Master gave him the responsibility of conducting the peal it remained his prerogative to decide the validity of the peal.
On November 18th we received a letter from the Master stating that the committee of the University Society had declined to recognise the ringing on November 5th as constituting a peal on the grounds that it was well below the standard expected by the Society - and the Exercise in general-of a peal.
Mr. Parsons' reaction was, with the support of six members of the Society, to call an extraordinary general meeting at which the matter could be discussed by all members.

His view was: "In the absence of concrete evidence 10 prove the falseness of the peal, only the conductor shall have the right to withdraw the peal. and that it is his integrity and standing as a ringer which is at stake and not the standing of the Association."
The extraordinary general meeting of the Society was held on November 25th, when the following motion was put:
"This Society considers, following the best traditions of the Exercise, that in any peal rung for the Society the decision as to its quality shall remain the privilege of the conductor. and that any subsequent decision to the contrary may only be made at a properly constituted general meeting, having due regard to the conditions required by the Central Council, and after having heard the evidence of all interested parties."
The motion was passed and back-dated to October.

Informing the Editor of this decision, Mr. Parsons concludes: "At present, therefore, the peal rung at St Stephen's, Bristol, stands as a peal, and until I receive any written objection (which I do not expect to receive) the report of the peal lies in your hands just like any other peal report."

\section*{Record Attendance at E. Berks and S. Bucks Dinner}

THERE was a record attendance of 154, despite the organising committee having to decline several late requests for tickets, at the fifth annual dinner and dance of the Eas Berks and South Bucks Branch of the Oxford D.G., held at the Beech Tree Hotel, Beaconsfield.

An excellent meal was followed by short, lighthearted speeches, under the genial chairmanship of the Rev. S A. C. Dickens (new Branch chairman). Welcoming the Branch president, the Bishop of Buckingham (the Rt Rev. C. Pepys) and Mrs. Pepys, he expressed the hope that they would "let their hair down" and enjoy the evening. There were also words of welcome to the Guild Master (Canon C Elliot Wigg) and Mrs Wigg, Rev. Michael Ware (Boyme Hill) Mr W. Eutler (former Branch secretary) and Mrs. Butler, and friends of the London County Association and the Middlesex County Association. among whom were Mr. Wilfrid Wilson (L.C.A.) and Mrs Wilson. Mr. John Hill (Master, S.W. Middlesex) and Mrs. Hill. Mr. F. Goodfellow (treasurer. Middlesex County Association) and Mrs. Goodfellow. Apologies were received from Miss M. Cross and Mr F Sharp.

The chairman called for a few words from the president who said it was a complete surprise being asked to speak: he thought he had "got away with it" for once: he went on to say how much he appreciated the work of the ringers, and what a joy it was to hear the bells when he visited churches.

The Master was then invited 10 present the Guild and the Branch striking competition certificates to the successful towers. He congratulated the winning teams. and said he has very hapov associations with the Beaconsfield and Wycombe Districts, for he had done much of his carlier ringing in this area He then presented the third award for the Guild competition to St. Peter's. Burnham. They also won the Branch six-bell competition certificate with St. Michael's and All Angels. Hughenden, second. Hughenden also received the cerificate for first award for the Branch eightbeli competition He thanked Mr . Ernest Gosling for designing and writing the lettering on the certificates

\section*{OVATION AND FLOWERS FOR MISS HAGUE}

Mrs. Dickins then presented a bouquet to Miss Doreen Hague. the popular Branch secretary, who received such prolonged and tremendous applause that Mrs. Dickins' words were completely inaudible They were: "From your colleagues on the organising committee. in appreciation for the enormous amount of work and for your enthusiasm that has made this dinner and dance such a success."

Rev. Michael Ware submitted the toast: "Our Bell Ringers." He had delved into the adverse ringing activities in the 16 th century, when bellringers in country parishes were noted for their inebriation, and to say a man was a ringer was tantamount to calline him a drunkard; they used their belfry as a club house. So ringing before church was just a convenient way of meeting before going off to a public house for the rest of the day.

A feud between the parson and the ringers over the ownership of the belfry key was frequently the case, but not many clergy were so stupid as the one who changed the lock of the tower door, so stopping ringing altogether, but making the whole village so resentful that churchgoing was at a very low ebb. until the incumbent capitulated. Now all that had changed and a ringer was a highly-respected member of society
"I believe," continued Mr. Ware. "that there is still a divided opinion about bellringers and churchgoing. Some ringers attend church regularly. others don't But today we have our Diocesan Guilds which attract members from all walks of life bound together by a common bond of skill and knowledge. They are dedicated men and wemen who render invaluable service to the Church."
Mr. William Butler in his reply took up Mr. Ware's point about ringers and their church attendance How often did the clergy visit the belfry, he asked,-sometimes? Was it a case of "East is East and West is West and never the twain shall meet"? At his church they had a new curate who visited the belfry every Sunday morning and said Office prayers. This had made a world of difference in the relationshin of the ringers and the church.

The bells had been passed down by their forefathers and it was up to this generation to take care of them and to pass them on to the coming generation in good condition. It was also their duty to teach new ringers, as we had been taught in the past.
"About ringing," he said "I am sure that most of us give of our best ringing on Sundays, but do we consider the local residents on practice nights? If not, we should. for bells can be very noisy.
With the speeches over the dining room cleared: young and not so young enjoyed dancing until almest midnight.
One thing is obvious, that with the evergrowing popularity of this annual event larger accommodation will be required next year.

The meeting of the Newark District at Sutton-on-Trent on November 19th was well attended, with several visitors, including Mr. George Foster, of Bromley, formerly of Southwell, with his son and friend. A short service was conducted by the Vicar, Canon R. T. Keal, who afterwards joined everyone for tea in the Church Hall.

At the business meeting Mrs. Kathleen Holmes, of Balderton, was elected a ringing member. and Miss Sheila Copping, of Bromley. a non-resident life member. The District chairman. Mr. F. W. Midwinter, reported on the progress of the new band at Southwell Minster, whilst asking for support from anyone who had time to heln with the teaching. He also mentioned the forthcoming visit of the Central Council to the Guild in 1967.

Ringing on the eight bells was under the competent guidance of Mr. Peter Wakefield, the District Ringing Master, and the newly redecorated ringing room provided a warm and cosy welcome.

\section*{FROM GERMANY}

Dear Sir, -In adopting a new design for the title block of "The Ringing World," you were doubtless prepared for criticism, for it could not be expected that one design should meet with the approval of all readers. Yet even allowing for a reasonable difference of opinion, the lefters published on the subject on page 756 are completely unworthy of the signatures appearing beneath them.

1 cannot see how a, style which is similar to, if not better than, the headings of the better English newspapers is, at the same time, atyle "suitable for a supermarket's list of cheap offers," which gives the journal :he appearance of a cut-price, third-rate parish magazine." The greater prominence of the words "Official Journal of the Central Council of Church Bell. Ringers" more than compensates for the loss of the rather undisinguished etching of Canterbury Cathedral, and the "bells" which were part of the former background were by no means fitting for the journal of a fraternity which squirms at the ignorance of the general public. That Jack Goldsmith's name has been removed from the front page may seem inexcusable to his friends, but it would probably be more important to John Sparkes Goldsmith to know that the work he began was being continued by a living Exercise and not hindered by prejudice.
The new design may not be perfect, and the old certainly was not, but the unreasoned outbursts of Messrs. Hairs and Birmingham against simplicity and dignity are ill-founded and in bad taste. It appears that we require standards for critics of printing as well as of composition.-Yours faithfully.

\section*{DONT TAKE CRITICISM TOO MUCH} TO HEART
Dear Sir,-I read with interest the howls of protest already received against "The Ringing World" Committee's attempts to improve our journal.
It is perhaps significant that a similar protest arose when supermarkets (to quote one analogy used) first came into being, but it must be admitted that they continue to flourish whether we like it or not. Perhaps the only criticism that can be levied at the moment is that the space so saved has not yet been utilized to the tull: this no doubt will soon follow.

With all due respect to the late Mr. J. S. Goldsmith. I can't see that any harm has been done. I have only been a subscriber to "The Ringing World" for the past 15 years and, apart from the articles which I have read in "The Ringing World," I have no personal knowledge of the gentleman. In any case, is it not the new readers we are attempting io attract to our journal?
The present committee was elected by the members of the Central Council after much debate, and as such deserve our full support, in this a most difficult task. It is only right that they should be kept informed of public reaction, but to me this seems at present to be extremely onesided. I hope they will not take this criticism too deeply to heart, but will continue to attempt to improve both the journal and the circulation.
If they try and fail they will be forgiven but if they do not try they will be condemned and rightly so.-Yours faithfully.

BELLS AND THE P.C.C.
Dear Sir.-I should like to correct the inaccurate statements in the carping contribution to Belfry Gossip on November 25th as it so obviously concerned my church at Harringworth.
This small parish on the Northants-Rutland border happens to have a tower which was recently examined by the church architect. The tower is not unsafe, but is in need of repair, and the necessary church repairs are being attended to. Unil the tower is repaired the architect. who has not forbidden ringing, has recommended to the P.C.C. that ringing be confined to about an hour at a ringing be confined to about an hour at a accepted this as a sensible arrangement. This ensures that the band in this parish of Harringworth and the Rutland Branch can continue their weekly practices and training of learners,

Far from there being no houses near the church there is the old Rectory (not occupied by the present Rector), the Manor House, at least ten cottages. the inn and the village shop all clustering within a hundred yards of the church. Not one of these inhabitants has ever complained of bell ringing.
If the Belfry Gossip correspondent would like to contact me I shall be only too pleased to arrange for him to be taught hoth ringing and manners in any of our practices, which we hope to continue until our lower is repaired, by, which time our learners hone to ring peals in their own tower.-Yours faithfully,
A. C. SCHOLES,

Tower Captain.
Note.-We trust our correspondent will contact Mr. Scholes direct and make amends.-Ed.

\section*{PEAL RINGING}

Dear Sir,-I cannot agree with the following paragraph that appeared on page 769:
"As far as "The Ringing World" is concerned the reason that peals take up four times as much room as quarter peals is that striking is usually four time as good!'
A quarter peal has many advantages over peals and I am convinced that better striking takes place-the band settle down quicker and ring at a far better speed. From my czperience the speed in a peal alters considerably due to the fact that it takes longer to settle down and tiredness creeps in towards the end.
Evening peals are a sheer waste of time and effort unless a 5 p.m. start can be made. I can well remember rushing home from work to ring a peal one hot summer's evening. The peal was lost due to the time rush.
Personally, I think peals "a bore" and quarter peals very enjoyable because I find the standard of ringing is better and tempers do not get frayed-something I cannot tolerate anywhere, never mind in the belfry. - Yours sincerely,

\section*{"UNJUSTIFIED CRITICISM"}

Dear Sir, - I would like to congratulate Mr. David McLean, by means of your columas, on his excellent and very accurate report of the St. Katherine's Society cour of 1966. Obviously a lot of work went into the preparation of this account and I was therefore most dismayed to read Mr. Kennington's unwarranted attack on it.

Mr. Kennington states it is beyond him that a touring party can make a criticism about the handling characteristics of bells after only one hour's ringing. I am sure members of the Society will acknowledge the superior skill of Grimsby's 9- and 10 -year-olds in handling the two bells in question, but how much easier things might have been for us if Mr. Kennington had had a proficient steeple-keeper; someone well versed in the subject of frame movement, perhaps? I to not profess to having any bell hanging qualifications to my credit, but in my capacity as a ayman it struck me as being a little odd that I could unscrew one of the nuts securing a key frame timber with my fingers!
Ringers are notorious for exaggeration, I admit, and one often reads two very conflicting reports about the same thing, but if frame movement can escalate from \(1 / 64^{\prime \prime}\) to \(\mathbf{3}^{\mathrm{Nm}}\) (which it was when I measured it) in one week, one shudders to think what it migint be now. some two months later, and cannot share Mr. Kennington's complacency. Perhaps I- am another stupid, ill-informed St. Katherine's Society ringer, but how long does one have to ring at a tower before forming an opinion about the "go" of the bells? A plain course of Grandsire Caters at St. James', Grimsby, was enough for me to do this.
The comment about these bells was, in my humble opinion. completely justified and I suggest Mr. Kennington takes it a little more seriously and does something about it. In conclusion I hope next year's report will be as good, if not better than this one, and that we do not get adverse publicity from people who obviously operate on a different wavelength from us.-Yours sincerely.

\section*{IS THERE A STAVERTON SURPRISE MINOR:}

Dear Sir,-It was a most pleasant surprise, when reading in the peal columns recently, to find a peal of Staverton Surprise Royal rung at Daventry. We at Staverton had no idea of such a plot or that Mr. Speed had composed such a method.

We are indeed honoured and flattered and congratulate the experts on their achievement, especially the composer and the conductor, in what must have been a fine performance. I would like to know if the method can readily be adapted to Minor and a true extent of 720 changes obtained. If so, it may well be that a peal of Staverton Surprise Minor may be rung on our bells in the not too distant future.-Yours faithfully.

STANLEY F. WEBB,

Dear Sir,-Now that a peal may be regarded as a "sacred cow" (vide the leading article. November 11th), may we expect to see an increase in the number of peals rung of the crease in the number of peats rung of the following Surprise Major methods: Jersey, Guernsey, Alderney. Devon and Hereford.-

\section*{MORE LETTERS}

CORRESPONDENCE REVIVES MEMORIES
Dear Sir, - I was interested to read the letter by my old friend, C. M. Williams, concerning Mr. Pladdys' composition of Bob Major. I have no recollection of showing Bob Douglas this particular composition, although I have shown him several, including some of my own

I think that splatting the tenors for 15 courses simply to produce Queens and Whittingtons is rather pointless as these 468 courses are very musical in themselves; as well as the backstroke 468 's, there there are "internal" ones, halfway through the fourth lead, for instance. In any case, I think that 45 courses, 5,040 Bob Major, with the tenors together, are more monotonous.

Meanwhile, it is only over the last few years that eight-bell peals, of Bob Major or anything else, have had the tenors parted at all. Mr Pladdys' peal, and others like it, have, I think, a better claim to originality than some of these "compositions" of Surprise Major and Royal and certainly than the 120 Stedman Triples; I would put it stronger than Mr. Pladdys, and question the originality of any touch of 120 Stedman Triples.

1 agree entirely with Charlie's comment about the six consecutive bobs. Wrong. From be footnote to the composition, it would seem that the composer aimed to produce the full six courses with the tenors together and 46 reversed (supposedly very musical, but it's a matter of opinion). This was the shortest way to do it, I should say, bearing in mind that he was also trying to cram in all the \(7468^{\circ} \mathrm{s}\), 2468 's. etc., etc., into the 5,088 changes. On the whole, it's not a bad peal, although, as Charlie Williams rightly says, being a one-part has disadvantages from the conductor's point of view.

I am sorry to come up against Charlie in this matter, but I think that Mr. Pladdys comment about the Stedman Triples was fair: several of my own compositions of Bob Major are on the same plan as his, and they are as reasonable as any. Incidentally, I have many happy memories of ringing with Charlie, John "Perce" Lott and Jack Euston, on that grand old ring at St. Margaret's. Westminster, after the war. Charlie had to give up active ringing last year because of trouble with ris hearing, and I know I speak for all the ringers in this area when I say how much he is missed in ringing circles. We wish him all the best in his retirement. and thank him for the endless time and effort he has eiven for the progress of our art.-Yours sincerely,
A. \(R\) ELEANOR SPRIGGS (Mrs.).

\section*{POOR QUALITY PEALS}

Dear Sir.-While reading the recent articles in the "R W." about peal ringing, the following thoughts have occurred to me.

With reference to Mr. Stevens' remark that a tand will put up with bad ringing for 1.260 changes but not for 5.000 it does not seem valid when every week numbers of neals of very poor quality are rung and recorded. I know this is true as I have been unfortunate to be in some such attempts

Also. I wonder, how many of the "regular" peal ringers are regular instructors or helpers at their local practice, and ring each Sunday at their parish church before attending the at their service?
I am not against peal ringing, but I feel that peals in church towers should only be rung for special church festivals and suitable local celebrations.

And finally, if chureh bells are to be rung, it should be to the glory of God; if this is not the case then they should not be rung at all.-Yours sincerely, I. G. STRACEY.

\section*{WRATTEN'S WRINGERS' WREUNION}

THHE fourth W.W.W was held on the weekend of November \(12 \mathrm{th}-13\) th in Hertfordshire, an area which to some of the more rustic members of the party was alarmingly near the big smoke. The party consisted of Peter Bridle, Di Chapman. George Cousins. Jnhn and Gill Hunt. Tony Kench. Richard Sweet. George Thoday and Cyril and Margerv Wratten, all of whom could be found happily reuniting away in The Bell at Hemel Hempstead on the Friday evening.

Miraculously the whole band managed to get :o Rickmansworth by 9 the next morning for the first oeal. After only half persuading Walter Ayre that ringing Surprise with singles is not a sign of juvenile delinquency. We set off to ring Roddy Pipe's excellent composition of Cambridge Royal with 12 courses of 6587 s 6578 's, 5687 's and \(5678^{\prime} \mathrm{s}\). Afterwards someone muttered "Too much music," but I don't think it was Walter.
After Chinese nosh for some and beer fot others in Watford, we went off to St Peter's. \(\mathrm{St}_{\mathrm{t}}\). Albans, where the guest ringer was Alan Carveth. and the method, appropriately. Albanian. This good old-style ten has a distinctioli that must be fairly rare, of having once been a twelve until the trebles were sold in 1881. Anyone looking at the visitors book there now will find that Gill forgot she had got married and thought she was still a Hussey. George Debenham let us in before and out after, complete with stopwatch. and joined us for a drink before we eventually got to The Swan at Wheathampstead for a social evening that inevitably included darts and Richard's reminiscences.
On Sunday morning most of the party managed to grab St Albans Abbey before the day's peal. which was Belgrave at Hemel Hempstead, half-muffled, for Remembranct Sunday A very late Chinese lunch followed. to the accompaniment of what must have been the Chinese top ten before the Red Guard got at it. Most of us were content to relax. but not George Thoday, who spent his usual hour and a half documenting the peal, giving out little gems of information from time to time such as "That's 492,000 changes I've rung this year so far," and "You've now moved, up to being my 26th leading peal ringer." There then came what was for some a hair-raising sortie into the horrors of London traffic for a quarter peal for Evensong at St Giles', Cripplegate, before departing.
Thus ended another W.W.W.. and we would like to thank all those who met us, gave us permission to ring, bought us drinks, and otherwise contributed to a most enjoyable week-end. Wratten's Wringers have now rung 63 peals in four years, including 34 different Surprise Major methods, and are still, going strong. We look forward to next year's peal week, which will be based. for a change, in

\section*{HANDBELL TUNE RINGERS' RALLY AT NORBURY}

On October, 8 th a very successful rally and "get together" of handbell tune ringers was held at Norbury Church School, Stockport. In all, 14 bands with 717 bells and approximately 140 ringers took part, and the proceedirgs were opened by the Vicar after which each band played one piece. Bands ringing were:-
All Saints' Church, Marple: Ashton-underLyne Girls' Grammar School: Ealing. London; Ecclesfield, near Sheffield: Hunshelf Secondary Modern School, Yorkshire; Kingsbury Parish Modern School, Yorkshire: Kingsoury Church Stockport; Silverdale. Lancashire: Skipton Parish Church, Yorkshire; The St. Mary Ringers, Loughborough; St. Thomas's Church, Moorside. Oldham i Thurlstone, Yorkshire: Warburton Lymm. Cheshire
Following a break for discussion an excellent tea was served by Norbury ladies, after which ringing continued until about 8.30 p.m. Altogether 49 pieces of all kinds were played, tanging from "Jug Rock" to "The Heavens are Telling." It was most interesting and instructive to watch and to listen to the various bands. each with their own method and style of ringing and with their own ideas as 10 which music was most suitable for the occawhich music was most surtable for the occasion. The day was rounded of by the Norbury ringers rendering of the hymn tune "Sovereignty.

This gathering, which was in no sense a competitive one, would be the first meeting of so many tune ringers since the last competition was held at Belle Vue, Manchester. in 1925. Was held at Belle Vue, Manchester. in Great credit is due to the organiser, Mr. Wm. Hartley, and his band at Norbury, and also the ladies who provided such a first-class tea. Another rally has been arranged for Saturday. A successful quarterly meeting of the Eastern District was held at Sherburn-in-Elmet with Tadcaster on November 19th. On a penetratingly cold, damp November day, over 30 members turned up to keep themselves warm ringing the eight belis at Sherburn from rounds through standard methods to Cambridge.

The service was conducted by the Vicar. the volunteer organist being Miss Rosemary Bailey, fiancée of Rev. F. Ross. A buffet tea had been arranged by the local ladies, which was to be praised later by the Association's president, Mr. Vernon Bottomley. He recommended this arrangement for future meetings, and it was generally agreed it made for much more informal mixing of members

Four new members were elected to the Asso-ciation-Michael Hawtree. Hessle; Jane Carruthers and Michael Balchin,. York; Maris Stephenson, Sutton-on-Hull.
The District's vice-president urged that officers and committee members should set an example and attend meetings 100 per cent. He invited the members to make suggestions. to improve meetings and ringing generally.
Evening ringing took place on the lovely eight at radcaster - with a apologies to the Western District for encroachment. It is hoped to hold the February meeting at York.

A UNFORESEEN CIRCUMSTANCES

By "FIFTH OBSERVATION"

\(\mathrm{A}^{\mathrm{N}}\)N atmosphere of wet mackintosh pervaded the cramped little ringing chamber. In this atmosphere sat four assorted ringers, who were waiting for two more. Each was whiling away the time in a different manner; Bob, the amateur artist. was constructing a winter landscape (to be entitled "Frozen River") in his mind's eye; Ernie, the veteran, with veteran unconcern, was immersed in a crumpled copy of the local rag which had travelled with him in his overcoat pocket from Abbotscray; Dick, the conductor, was writing down columns of figures in a red notebook; and Phil, the novice. was making cat's cradles from a length of string he'd discovered on the floor, and wishing to goodness that Tibby and Chris would buck up before it was too late to start altogether.
Outside the rain teemed down in grey unremitting streams; every so often a capricious little wind would fling a handful of drops eastward to beat a resounding tattoo on the ringing chamber window; the dull light of the afternoon was already fading from the sky.
Lanky. Dick unwound himself abruptly from his sitting posture. "C'mon," he yawned, "let's do something, for heaven"s sake... We ll get the bells up individually. Phil, raise the treble."

The rain teemed down in grey unremitting streams; James Tibbald, insurance agent, Triples expert, tower captain of St. 'Burga's, shuddered as he withdrew his head from under the bonnet. Through the windscreen he made a despairing face at Christopher Catchpole: who, sensing that something was required of him, emerged with some reluctance from the warmth of the car.
"Not found anything. then?" he said, turning up his collar.
"Can you see anything?" rejoined Tibby, and returned his gaze to the engine.

To Chris, who worked in the dispensary of Knapton's the Chemists of Abbotscray, an engine was simply an ensine. He looked blankly at it.
"No."
"D'you know what to look for?" snapped Tibby; the rain was finding its way, slowly but surely, down the back of his neck.
"No," admitted the unhappy Chris.
"Then go and find a telephone box and ring the Golden Hawk."

Chris groaned. "Supposing there isn't one? We're at least two miles away from
"There are such things as private houses with private telephones," replied Tibby implacably.
"But where. . . .?"
"Go," said Tibby.
Chris went.

Bing-bing-bing! said the treble.
"I say, I don't like this bell," said Phil, endeavouring to set it. "It's sort of fineset at hand. Look, I can set it at back as easy as easy, but at hand it-oops! See what I mean? It bounces."

Dick had raised the fifth and was knotting the tail-end.
"Catchin' sally too low," he replied automatically.
"I am not," declared Phil. "Am I, Bob?"

Bob, on the edge of his "Frozen River," was miles away. Dick crossed to the the treble, removed the rope from Phil, set the bell with maddening accuracy in one stroke, and withered its erstwhile manipulator with a glance.
Ernie turned a page of the local rag. "Ave ter go fer a peal o' Minimus," he remarked to the band at large, "or go 'ome."
Phil was seized with a new hope. "Can't we go for Minimus?" he asked-"on the back four?"
The look of disgust on Dick's face was sufficient response.

Chris came back. He looked as one newly emerged from a cross-Channel swim; soaked, but triumphant.
"I've 'phoned," he called, as soon as he was within hailing distance of the car, and broke into a victorious canter, shaking the rain from his eyes as he came.

Tibby leapt from the driver's seat. "You got through? Well done! How?"
"Farm," panted Chris. "Very obliging. Sending a Land Rover-to pick us upand G.H. are sending a truck-for the car -in about an hour, they said. Can't think why they've got to be so long over it. I couldn't have been more exact with my directions..
"I'm practically sure," broke in Tibby portentously, "that I've hit on the reason for this-er-technical hitch. While you'd gone I took a good look at the fuel-pump. and- We're being fetched, did you say? You clever boy! When?"
"As soon as the farmer gets back from town," Chris replied.

Bob was examining sixteenth century brasses in the chancel; Phil was rendering "Fight the good fight", very badly on the harmonium: Ernie and Dick were not to be seen-the latter being up among the bells, the former being en route on his motor-scooter for the Thatched Cottage, Carside, where cheap meat teas were to be had.

Outside, the rain spattered in sharp handfuls from the darkening sky. A little wind, stronger than of late, sighed through the branches of the Vicarage elms, and brought with it the penetrating and unmistakable tones of a powerful internal combustion engine breasting an incline. The whine approached, steadied. dropped to a purr; there was an iron clang, loud cheerful converse, an engagement of gears; footsteps in the porch.
Phil" abandoned the "Good Fight." "Bob!" he called as the door opened. "They're here!"
Four panting people negotiated the spiral staircase in impatient procession and erupted, one by one, into the rinsing chamber.

The ringing chamber was untenanted.
"Where's Dick?"
"Where's Ernie?"
"I'll bet they're upstairs," said Tibby, peeling off his mackintosh, flinging it upon the nearest bench with a gallant gesture and making for the belfry staircase.
Tibby going up met Dick coming down. "Oof!" said Dick. "Dick!" said Tibby. "Quick," and retraced his steps to the ringing chamber, Dick following hard on his heels.
They found Chris relating the saga of the technical hitch to a suitably impressed audience of two. "So there's a couple of chaps from the farm keeping an eye on the car," he was saying, "until such time as G.H. condescend to.
"For heaven's sake," snapped Dick, "where Ernie?"
Tibby, Chris and Dick looked accusingly at Bob and Phil, who looked at each other. "Sloped off, I suppose, while we weren't looking," volunteered Bob, after a moment. "That wouldn't be difficult," remarked Dick tartly Chris felt very weary. He sat down heavily on Tibby's mackintosh.
"Well, what do we do? Wait?"
"Phil was scarlet with suppressed emotion.
"Doubles?" he said in a small voice; " on the back five. . .?"
Tibby raised an eyebrow at Dick, who nodded. "Time for a quarter," he announced. "Plain Bob 'n' Grandsire. Phil, take the second. The rest fill in."

The quarter peal was duly accomplished in forty-three minutes. Not an intrinsically distinguished quarter peal; the Exercise has been on many occasions known to produce better struck Plain Bob and Grandsire Doubles. But it was Phil's first of Doubles, Bob's first in two methods and Dick's two-hundredth tower for a quarter; so it was a satisfied if weary band which packed itself into Dick's little fourseater for the journey home. And Ernie? He coasted in from the Thatched Cottage to find the quarter well under way; so he turned about on his axis and spent a convivial evening at the Plough and Harrow. Carside, where splendid pints were to be had.

\section*{IN MEMORIAM}

\section*{MR. GEORGE PULLINGER}

At noon on Saturday, November 19 hh , the ashes of the late George Pullinger were laid to rest in the "Garden of Rest" at the Parish Church. Willingdon, where he had spent the last seven years as a ringer and churchman. He was 74 years of age. The Vicar, the Rev. W. Greenfield, officiated at the committal service, which was private.

This was followed at 1.30 p.m. by a memorial service and for this the bells were rung open, in accordance with deceased's wish. The Vicar officiated, assisted by the Rev. A. N Olwen, and Charles Percy was the crucifer. It was regretted that Canon K. W. H. Felstead was unable to attend.
Psalm 23 was sung to the tune of Crimond, and also the Ringers, Hymn. The lesson was read by Mr. R. W. R. Percy.
The Vicar based his address on the words of the psalmist: "The Lord ordereth a good man's going and maketh his ways acceptable to "himself."
"Many of you present this afternoon," he said, "will have known George Pullinger in many capacities: and as you reflect on the words of the psalmist you, from your own deep knowledge of his character and personality. will be able even more than I to appreciate just how these words are true of the life he lived.
"He was at heart a countryman manifesting in his character all the steadfastness and stability which we have learned to associate with people reared in a rural setting. He was a good and kind and gentle husband too ...how gentle, how understanding, how unselfish were his goings in this field of human experience!
"He saw clearly that the future of the craft which he loved so well was to be preserved in the hands of the young. In his gruff way, with a twinkle in his eye, and his lovely Hampshire accent, which he never lost. he would teach the young ringers the way they ought to go... Yes, the Lord ordered this good man's going."
Ringers present at the service included the Master of the Sussex C.A. and Mrs. Johnson, the hon. general secretary and Mrs. Betty Percy (vice-president, Ladies' Guild, Sussex District), Mr. F. I. Hairs (Past Master) and Mrs. E. L. Hairs (hon. secretary, Northern Division), Mr. S. E. Armstrong (Past Master and vice-president) and Mrs. Armstrong, Mr G. M. Fitzhugh (hon. secretary, Eastern Division). Mr, and Mrs. A. R. Baldock. Messrs T. Barlow, C. Brettel, F. Dallaway, H. Hobden. B. Linacre
Mesdames J. Biscoe, J. Finch, J. Percy, S. Percy, D. Russell

Mr . and Mrs. Price (Southbourne). Mr. and Mrs. Conley (Dover), Mr. and Mrs. Kippin (Farnborough). Mr. and Mrs. Dart (Bristol), Mr. J. Chesterman (Basinestoke).
An in memoriam peal of Grandsire Triples was rung at Hailsham by eight members of the Ladies' Guild, Sussex District.

Mrs. Pullinger wishes to thank all the ringers and friends for their attendance. and for the letters of svmpathy from those unable to attend, especially Nolan Golden. G. E. Fearn and Canon K. W. H. Felstead.

\section*{PERCIVAL CYRIL RICHARDS}

The news of the sudden death of Percy Richards. of Wollaston, Stourbridge, on November 14th at the age of 68 , came as a great shock to his colleagues at St. Martin's, Birmingham. He had been a member of St . Martin's Sunday band for 15 years, and was present for the morning ringing on November 13th. In the early hours of the following morning he died from a sudden attack of thrombosis.
Percy commenced to ring on the six bells at Wollaston some 40 years ago, and had rung about 60 peals, mostly for the Worcestershire and Districts Association. In Wollaston churchyard a stone in the shape of a bell, inscribed to the memory of Percy's father, records that he had been a ringer at that church for 25 years.
The cremation took place at Stourbridge Cemetery on November 17th and, in addition to the family, the funeral service was attended by Mr. Charles Stinton. representing Wollaston ringers, Mr. Bernard C. Ashford (Worcestershire and Districts Association) and Mr. George E. Fearn (St. Martin's Guild).

Percy leaves a widow, a daughter, and a son Charles, zn accomplished ringer who now lives at Isleworth, to whom the St. Martin's ringers extend their deep sympathy.

\section*{MR. ERNEST BARTRAM}

Ringers in the Melton District were shocked to hear of the sudden death on November 19 th at his home, 9, Oxford Drive, Melton Mowbray, Leics, of Mr. Ernest Bartram. He was 70 years of age.
He had a long connection with St. Mary's Church. having rung there for 42 years, and although he had not been able to take part in any actual ringing for several years he was still very interested in ringing activities and looked forward each week to "The Ringing World."
In his younger days he had taken part in many peals and over 50 of these were rung for the Midland Counties Association. He rang frequently with the late Mr. F. H. Dexter, of Leicester Cathedral.
During the war Melton bells were lowered and put in the churchyard for safety. He and put in the churchyard for safety. He raised the fund for their rehanging bearings and for two to be recast.
A large congregation attended the funeral service at the Parish Church on November 23 rd. The interment was in Thorne Road Cemetery. In the evening a half-muffled quarter peal of Plain Bob Caters was rung.

\section*{Leicester Ringers in Shropshire}

On one of those fleeting, glorious October days the Leire. Leics, band visited Shropshire for their annual outing
Broseley was reached almost on time but the Grandsire Triples was somewhat marred by the treble ringer's conviction that it was Treble Bob. Other methods were rung satisfactorily. The eight at Much Wenlock were in some respects the best bellis of the day, but at Church Stretton neither the bells nor the at Church Stretton neithe
After a short lunch-break came Stanton Lacey (6), where from a good rise we wen straight into Cambridge. A good standard was maintained here.
The 139 steps to Ludlow's ringing chamber eft some "fair bellowed"-but it was worth it. How well the magnificent bells match the grandeur of this church. Grandsire, Stedman and Kent went reasonably well., Fortified by steaks. we crossed the Clee Hills to Cleobury Mortimer (a pleasant six). Mist provided navigation difficulties on the homeward journey. Special thanks are due to David Simoson for his flawless arrangements. C.S

\section*{BELFRY GOSSIP}

The rededication of Wittersham, Kent, bells, fixed for December 11th, has been posiponed because the floor of the ringing chamber requires attention.
In the report of the memorial service for Mr. W. H. Hewett, the ringer of handbells 7-8 was \(\mathrm{Mr}_{\mathrm{i}} \mathrm{M}\) Oakshet: and not Mr. John Euston as was inadvertently stated on page 771

The ten bells of East Retford were rung in rounds by pupils and staff of the King Edward VI Grammar School prior to the Founders' Day Service on November 16 th . Touches of Doubles and Minor were also rung.
John R. Snuthey of Aldenham. made a very creditable introduction to peal ringing at St . Mary's, Putney, on November 19th. He rang an "inside" bell to Lincolnshire Surprise Major "splendidly throughout," to quote the conductor.

The ringers in the peal at Wincanton on November 12th were pleased to associate it with the wedding of Miss Pauline Chilcott. daughter of the tower captain of Wincanton, and Mr Guy Busk, who were married the same day at Stoke Trister.

Approaching a local school for recruits for Croydon Parish Church belfry, Mr. R. C Croydon Parish Church belfry, Mr. R. 13 pupils who wished to start ringing. These together with his other learners give him 20 recruits.

\section*{THROUGH MARGARET'S EYES}

Margaret Goodyer writes her impressions of English ringing in "Ringing Towers" under the heading "A visiting Australian lady ringer. She states:

Ringing standards varied of course just as they do here, but mostly the striking was good. It was disconcerting to make a clip and find seven pairs of eyes raised despairingly heavenward so that you were flummoxed and made a few more clashes; whereupon the conductor stood the team.

I went to one tower where methods ranged from Bob Doubles to Bob Minor. Calls came when the treble was at the back, which made it a fascinating memory game to keep in mind till the treble lead that you'd to make a bob. The dialect made it fascinating for me to guess whether to 'Bob,' 'Single' or 'Stand.'
sat in St. Paul's Cathedral one Sunday afternoon listening to faultless Stedman Cinques rung effortlessly. Afterwards in a Lyons tea shop, a well known College Yourh, sitting with furled umbrella resting between his knees, muttered, 'Poor ringing today. Very rough. Pity you couldn't hear better.' If there could be better ringing, I've yet to

\section*{PETER BOND GOING TO GREAT YARMOUTH}

The Rev. Peter N. Bond, who is at present chaplain to the Missions to Seamen at Tilbury, is expecting to move to Great Yarmouth at the beginning of February to be priest-in-charge of St. James Church. Peter will be the third ringing parson at Great Yarmouth in recent years-Gilbert Thurlow was rector of St Nicholas' and largely responsible for the restoration of the bells, and Giles Galley served his title there.

\section*{OXFORDSHIRE SILVER WEDDING}

The bells of St. Nicholas', Piddington. Oxon, did not ring out when Rev. C. Edwards married Hilda Busby and Ernest G. ("Son') Jones from Ludgershall on November 22nd, 1941, due to the wartime ban. The occasion of their silver wedding was time to make amends and a quarter of Doubles in eleven methods was rung there on the exact day. Ringing with "Son" were his brother-in-law, Len Busby, and the Piddington captain, Jim Eustace. Chris Clarke was the conductor.

Afterwards, "Son" and Hilda (who also rings) entertained the band, with family and friends, to a sumptuous supper at the home of their daughter and son-in-law. Wendy and Chris Taylor. It was very fitting that "Son's" best man, Harry Butler, should again he present on this occasion to propose the silver wedding toast. The band join with him in wishing "Son" and Hilda all the best for the next 25 , and express their thanks for a most enjoyable evening

\section*{A "PIGGY BANK" FOR HAROLD}

At a coffee evening organised by East Retford ringers recently, the "skittling for a pig' competition was won by the District chairman. Mr. Harold Denman. The pig was a rather large "piggy bank" stuffed with sweets Othes prizes were mainly won by N . Notts ringers. even though half of those attending were from the congregation. Rev L. R Harris. Vicar of Sturton-le-Steeple (also a ringer), won the darts competition and then entertained the company with folk-songs to his own guitar accompaniment. Over E 17 was raised, and other efforts are planned in the near future for restoration work.

\section*{A YORKSHIRE CENTENARY}

The quarter peal of Superlative recently rung at Longwaod, Yorks, was for a special service to mark the centenary of the foundation of the parish. During the service the Rural Dean of Huddersfield dedicated the new parish centre
Unfortunately, one of the band. Brian Ellis, was struck down with a stomach ulcer a few days before the service. but to the delight of all concerned his place was taken by Mr. Frank Linfoot, of Elland. Frank's presence was particularly pleasing since without his kind but unobtrusive help at practices during the last three years the Longwood ringers would never have been able to venture into the realms of Surprise.

The best wish of the band along with hopes for a speedy recovery go to Brian.

\section*{AUSTRALIAN NEWS}

From the current issue of "Ringing Towers" we learn that Sue Wright. a Sydney ringer, very popular with the Great Adventure 11 narty. was married on November 14th to John Nydam. They have opened a hairdressing salon at Earlewood.
The birth of a son to Sandra and Ralph Clark, also of Sydney on November 11 th is annther hadpy announcement.
Philip Tubbs, of Winchester Cathedral, while conducting a quarter of Sterman Doubles on the back six of Adelaide Cathedral called the bells round after half-an-hour, because two bells had crossed over He is on a business trip and has also rung at Perth.
Clare Masefield returns home shortly from Perth to Kidlington. Oxford
The three ringing Gondvers, with William Watson. Clare Masefield and Carolyn Lee. spent a week in Oueensland during the August spent a week in Oueensiand during the August of Bob Doubles at Maryborough.

\section*{A HEREFORD WORTHY}
"The Hereford Evening News" of November 24th had a feature article concerning the record of Mr. Harry Johnson (73) as ringer and chorister.
Of his 65 years as a ringer, Mr. Johnson has been ringing for 35 years at St. Nicholas Church, Hereford. He has been a choristeı for one year longer Harry started his working life as a railwayman at Abergavenny, hut learned to handle a bell at his native village of Allensmore, Herefordshire.

Apart from his ringing activities he works on two allotments in his spare time and plays bowis and skittles.

\section*{EAST RETFORD BELLS}

Knowledgeable ringers in the area and beyond are at a loss to understand how the writer of a recent article should describe Easi Retford bells as "fine The back eight were cast in 1835 by \(T\). Mears and the two trebles added in 1890 by J Taylor. The note of the treble is more than an octave above the eighth. and a well-known Lincolnshire conductor has described the bells as "nothing special"
At the last quinquennial inspection it was discovered that a great deal of restoration work to the fabric ot the church was essential. An appeal for \(£ 15,000\) was accordingly launched: this sum includes the recasting of the bells. After one year, \(£ 8,000\) of the total has been raised or promised.

\section*{WINTER SPORTS IN DEVON}

The traditional type of Devon ringing competition is essentially a summer affair Half the fun consists of propping up the churchyard wall and listening to the other people with confident scorn or gloomy admiration, and nobody wants to do that in pitch-darkness and heavy drizzle with a force 7 gale behind it, which is what one generally gets on Saturday evenings in Devon during winter.

The winter knock-out cup was established a few years ago to fill the half of the year during which the big competitions are impossible, and it works like this.

Devon is divided into three areas-North, East and South-to save travelling during the preliminary rounds. In each area the bands are drawn against each other, and it is then up to the captains of the towers drawn together to arrange for date and a time; each ream supplying one judge On the appointed evening. the visitors come with their judge, have oie practice, and then ring off against the home team, the winners going on to the next round. By early spring there are three teams left, one from each area. ind these three meet in a cup final to settle the competition and the destination of the cup.

This year 35 bands are entered: one advantage of this type of competition is that it encourages the less expert. Nobody wants to be thrashed into the ground by West Alvington with 150 people listening outside, but it's not so bad in private. For all that. every area has some strong talent: the South. biggest and most numerous of the three. has West Alvington Plymstock. Yealmpton and Widecomoe among its entries, and the iwo bands from Meavy have been doing some verv good ringing lately as well: the East has Talaton. Down St. Mary. Kenn and Witheridge among its ten bands: and the North has the redoubtable West Down. Swymbridge (Derek Jewell didn't sound too hanny to hear that Combe Martin had drawn them in Round 1) and Pilton amnne its twelve It certain'y looks like heing a very interesting winter in Devon With all this to keep us at home. who'd want to go skīing?

\section*{SHOREHAM BELLS NO PART OF COMMUTERS' PROTEST}

Mr. E. A Barnett, as a vice-president of the Kent County Association, protested to "The Daily Telegraph" over the suggestion in their report that Shoreham bells were being rung in support of the commuters \({ }^{\circ}\) demonstration against the decision (later reconsidered) not to stop trains there

Shoreham bells were being rung for the Monday practice and Mr Barnett concludes "the report is a reflection on both the incumbent and the ringers of Shoreham and imolies a lack of responsibility and of appreciation of the nurpose for which bells are installed
"The Daily Telegraph" in an apology stated that the story was supplied by a local correspondent who is usually very reliable He knew the bells were heing rung during a normal practice session and he intended to make this clear in the storv which he telephoned. but it was late at night, he had a lot of work to do and forgot to include it.

It was a wet November afternoon when ringers from 19 towers assembled at Burmarsh. Ringing started at 3 p.m.. and the church was full for the service, conducted by the Rev. N. G. O'Connor. assisted by the Rev \(J\) M. Murrell. Those who braved the perilous bridge over the marsh dyke were rewarded by a splendid tea, entirely home made by the ladies of the Burmarsh band
The Vicar took the chair at the short business meeting, at which the guests were welcomed. apologies read and nrogramme cards for 1967 dictributed. Mr John \(\mathbf{R}\) Cooper voiced the thanks of the meeting to all the clergy and the Aurmarsh band for their warm hosnitality throughout the day
Ringing continued at Burmarsh while other intrepid ringers visited Ivychurch. The hells have been silent for 20 years and those who visited this tower were sorry they could not express their oninions of the hells to Mr. D. Lawley. whose work had made them

\section*{GAMES FOR RINGERS' PARTIES}

\section*{By D. A. B.}
1. Completion of Limericks. A year or two ago this produced this effort from one of the teams competing.

A ringer named Christopher Cox
Stands only five feet in his socks.
When the tail end is short
It is clear that he ought
To put two feet of Cox on a box!
Last lines are required for the following: A ringer who's far from retiring,
To London Surprise is aspiring,
But he gets in a fix
When he's done 6-5-6
In Stedman a ringer called Joe
Dodged in \(4-5\) and should have been "slow,"
But he did the daft trick
Of going in "quick,"
A would-be young ringer named Flo, Pulled the sally but didn't let go.

With a yell of despair
She went up in the air,
2. Happy Handbell Families. This is a simple variation on "Happy Families," where instead of making out cards for the normal family - Mr. Smith, Mrs. Smith and Baby Smith - one makes out cards for handbell bands: Bob Minor 1-2, Bob Minor 3-4 and Bob Minor 5-6. The game is played in the usual way with the players exchanging cards face downwards as they mill round in the middle until the whistle is blown. Then everybody shouts to find the partners for their own cards. When a set is made up the three players must sit on each other's knees in the correct order, the 5-6 on the bottom and the 1-2 on the top. The last team to do so is eliminated. Use of methods with similar-sounding names adds to the confusion. Examples are Double Bob, Double Court, Double Oxford, Oxford Bob, etc.
3. Who does What? A tape-recorder is required for this one. Choose six people to form a band for Minor. Record each of them reading the instructions detailing the other five ringers to their bells, something like this: "We will ring a course of Cambridge Minor. i will ring the treble, Joe Smith will ring the second, Mary Brown the third, and so on." Each ringer substitutes I for his or her name when giving the instructions. The other people have to write down the band and the way it is placed. Too simple? Well, try recording at \(3 \frac{3}{3}\) i.p.s. and playing back at \(7 \frac{1}{2}\) i.p.s.
4. Filling the Holes. A tape-recorder is also required for this. Recordings are made beforehand with "holes" in, and contestants in teams equipped with handbells try their hand at filling the holes. Care should be taken to use the same set of bells for recording and filling and also to make sure that the taperecorder has been warmed up to run at the correct speed. Simple exercises are rounds on eight with one bell missing in turn in each whole pull, starting with an 8 and working up to 1. There will thus be a whole pull to be filled in by each bell in turn. There are obvious variations for the teams. One person can have all eight bells on a table, four persons a pair each, etc.

\section*{BELLS - TRUE AND FALSE}

\section*{By GILBERT THURLOW}

A N article being widely distributed describes one of the various forms of electric bell imitations, such as are being advertised today by their makets.
An advertiser must put up the best case he can for his products. Equally, purchasers must be wise as serpents in assessing advertisers" words. We are all used to "goods of quality," "Mine washes whiter," and so forth. Not everyone is so accustomed to assessing the claims of experts, especially where church furnishings are concerned. Here, claims to cheapness and saving of trouble can tempt the unwary.
The advertisement before me, for what are, oddly, called church bells (without "quotes")-although plainly they are not the objects which for a thousand years have been thus called-makes three statements which call for comment:
"The advantages are . . . it is not essential to have a large tower for a ring of eight bells as would be required for cast bells."
But a large tower is NOT required for a proper ringing peal of real bells. They do not need a tower at all. It is easy to erect such a ring on any subsoil strong enough to support a church, and they can be got into a space as small as 11 feet square by about 22 feet high.
"The price (of electric bells) is reasonable," BUT, if you want to imitate the sound of real bells cheaply, this can be done for a mere fraction of the MINIMUM price quoted in the advertisement.
You can easily ring REAL handbells into a microphone connected to speakers outside. All you need is a set of handbells, which many churches and people possess already, a microphone and speakers which any competent local man would willingly erect -and perhaps give to the church-and three or four people willing to share the simple and exciting task of ringing the handbells together. A co-operative local effort like this is much more fun than spending hundreds of pounds on an electric installation.
"Only one performer is needed. One seldom finds a team of ringers on new estates or even in the older churches."
How dull is the first statement! How incorrect the second! Worship is a family affair. Its essence is the team. How dull would be a P.C.C of one! Or a choir or congregation or youth group of one! How dull one lonely man trying to imitate the team work of the belfry.
As to the second statement-one has only to read the annual reports of the diocesan and other ringers' guilds to see that the numbers ringing today are as great as ever they were, and often far greater than ever before.

Many ringers live on estates and ring in estate churches where these have beils, or commute to the city (just as for work or business), where the bells are there instead. Decline in village ringers is part of the decline of the village, but here also the belfry is often as full of life as ever it was.
Quite the most important matter in this is the human side. A church is a place of life in a community. Virtually everything in church could be electronically imitated-anthems could be sung by King's Chapel choir, a sermon by an Archbishop could be preached, prayers could be sung by Peter Pears and lessons read by John Gielgud, in any church every day: stipends and costs of organists, organs, chorrs, clergy, could be eliminated-how incredibly dull, how unthinkable, the result would be.
And who, having read such articles as Giles Hunt's on new life at Hoit, in the September "Churchman," could wish for an electronic belfry! We need churches which give people MORE to do. not less. How are we to attract teenagers to church? Give them something worthy to do! Let them ring REAL bells, with the art. science. sport, the exciting effort of worthwhile team work, which this brings.

You only need enter church after church with its healthy band of ringers of alı ages and types, to see Christianity in action, compared with which the substitute is a miserable parody.

\(\mathrm{A}^{\mathrm{F}}\)FTER several mishaps and some fairly severe financial blows due to thoughtless buying it occurred to me to pass on a few tips to those ladies who have not yet done a lot of ringing -especially ringing in strange towers.
Firstly, although it may sound a little obvious, when ringing away from home try to bear in mind the type of ringing event on which you are to embark. The clothes which you might wear for a practice or "tower-grab" could prove fairly unsuitable for a meeting which embodies a service. Secondly, when buying new clothes always test them for ringing by reaching up at backstroke, and also hy performing any odd (i.e. peculiar) movements which you know to be part of your ringing style. Clothes should not need to have belts or zips unfastened for ringing. it you think that the shop assistant will find all this bordering on insanity-do not worry, she will! Do not, however, "explain" why you are doing this, experience has taught that anything you say will only alarm her further. All this is worthwhile for, if you have an instructor like mine, it will be far easier to bear than to hear later, in the tower: "Get your arms up at backstroke and do not ring with bent elbows!" followed by quite deafening ripping sounds.
You must bear in mind when visiting other towers the possibility that you may have to climb ladders, crawl through tunnels or tread very uneven steps to reach the ringing chamber. So, you think, that narrows the choice to flat heeled shoes and slacks. However, if there is to be a service or the bells are a ground foor ring these may not be so suitable. Where there is to be a service it is usually desirable to have head and arms covered. A large bag could hold quite a few spares-fold away slippers, head scarf, cardigan: and if you feel conspicuous remember a model carries such a bag of accessories with her! Shoes need attention as many churches and halls have beautiful floors which could be ruined by pointed or metal heels.

Certain clothes are not suitable wear for any belfry, but test whether yours leave a bare midriff, rise alarmingly at backstroke or show great expanses of petticoat. No trews should be too tight regardless of the dimensions of the wearer and on the question of suitability it may be wise to remember the words of the poel, Ogden Nash:
"So clothe your lower limbs in pants,
Yours are the limbs, my sweeting.
Sure, you look fine as you advance-
Have you seen yourself retreating?"
So if the pants fit, wear them! When ringing peals make sure nothing is tight or rubbing, particularly anything with short sleeves or sleeveless. Do not wear your best or fine woollens as the friction will ruin them. Before ringing remove any jewellery which might clank loudly or any which might hang you (long, heavy chains round the neck, for instance).
Some towers at meetings, etc., smell awful. This is rarely, if ever, the fault of any ladies present. The ladies could help though by getting to work on their menfolk and dispelling any idea that it is manly to smell unpleasant. To quote the aforementioned poet: "A little talcum is always walcum." Very strong or exotic perfume (for the ladies, of course!) is out of place in the belfry. Finally, looking gorgeous and feeling comfortable it only remains for us to polish up the ringing.

\section*{BATH AND WELLS DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION}

The bells of St Mary's Church, Taunton were made good use of at the annual general n:eeting of the Taunton Branch on December 3rd. The Vicar (the Rev. D. Morey), who is also chairman of the Branch, conducted the Guild service and gave an encouraging address on "What is right with the Church."

Tea followed in the Corfield Hall and was enjoyed by some 60 members and friends, including some from over the Devon border The Vicar presided over the business meeting at which the present Branch officers were reelected en bloc for another year, with grateful thanks for their services.

Mr. R. Arscott was elected as Assistant Ringing Master and it was decided that the qualifying rule for the election of new performing members should be more strictly adhered to in future.

Creech (St. Michael's), Lyng and West Monkton, Wellington and Milverton were suggested as places for meeting next year, subject to the approval of the respective incumbents

\section*{Farnham District}

Only half of the District towers were represented at the nomination meeting held at Aldershot on November 26th. A service was conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. T. H. Dart, who is a ringer, and a high tea was provided.

The Guild Master, Mr. P. Smart, was in the chair for the business meeting at which three new members were elected. Nominations for which there is no contest were: District Master, Mr. T. Page; secretary, Mrs, B. Simpson; assistant secretary and treasurer, Mr. K. Williamson : auditor, Mr. W. Viggers: committee member. Mr. M. Church. There were two nominations for Assistant Master Mrs. J. Kippin and Mr. M. Church.

As the monthly advanced Major practices were not being too well patronised, it was decided that the next would be a Minor practice.

It was agreed to curtail evening ringing at the nomination meeting next year and introduce a social evening.

\section*{GUILD OF DEVONSHIRE RINGERS}

The N.W. Branch held its annual meeting on November 19th at Bridgerule and visitors were present from Westleigh. Barnstable, Stratton and Shebbear College.
The Vicar (the Rev. S A. Piggotl) conducted the service and his address concerned church bells of Devon and Cornwall. Mr. and Mrs. W. Vinnicombe provided a splendid cooked meal for the company.

Silent tributes were paid at the start of the business meeting to the memory of Mr. S. Stacey and the Rev. W. H. R. Smale, who had died during the past year. The report of the secretary, which reviewed a successful year, was adopted. All officers were re-elected, It was agreed to support a gift day from the Wranch to be held at Exeter Cathedral in the near future.
The chairman, the Rev. J. ShepheardWalwyn, proposed the vote of thanks and methods rung in the evening were Grandsire, Stedman, Plain Bob and Double Norwich.

\section*{BORN 1866 \\ STILL GOING STRONG:}

M R. ROBERT E. YENDALL, the oldest resident of Fenham, Newcastle upon Tyne. celebrated his 100th birthday on November 28th and to commemorate this unique occasion a peal of 5,056 Yorkshire Surprise Major was rung on the bells of the Parish Church of SS. James and Basil, Fenham.

Mr . Yendall was born in the parish of St. David's, Exeter, in 1866, but came to Newcastle with his family at an early age. He entered the G.P.O. in 1880 as a boy messenger and retired in 1927 after more than 40 years service. He has always been keen on music and the sound of bells has featured largely in this interest. Although never a tower bell ringer, he has revelled in handbell tune ringing and has organised several such teams in the area. While in the G.P.O. he formed a teain among local officials and in later years he has trained groups from the local Y.M.C.A. Boys' Club and from the Nuns Moor Veterans: Club. This latter team comprised his "boys" (all over 70 years of age!) and it was presented on Tyne-Tees Television on several occasions.

During the 1939-45 War, when nearly all of he ringers at Fenham were on active service Mr. Yendall undertook the duties of chiming the bells for Sunday services, and he thus ensured a continuity of belfry service there. He is still very active and sings regularly with the veterans' choir, visiting places as far afield as Edinburgh and Harrogate for concerts and outings. A mass of congratulatory messages was displayed, including telegrams from H.M. the Queen, the Postmaster-General and the Minister of Social Security. A surprise item was "Happy Birthday to You" on handbells by Mr, and Mrs, K. Arthur, and the whole company joined in singing these words of felicitation to a Grand Old Man.

\section*{LUTON DISTRICT'S STRIKING CONTEST}

The Luton District held its annual striking contest at Caddington on November 26th. when the mounting interest in such events was reflected by eipht bands competing and a total attendance of around 60
From 3 until 4 p.m. the bells were open for general practice, and the competition was concluded by 5 p.m., when a short service conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. D. Clendon), was "entered into" with nicely controlled enthusiasm.

Tea in the Parish Hall was followed by the great event of the day-the judges (Miss \(V\). Willard and Mr. H. Whitney) presenting their findings.

Totternhoe, who have made rather a habit of "lifting" the Newing Trophy, were declared the winners, with Husborne Crawley ( 14 points behind) a good second, and Westoning an even better third, only one point separating the second and third teams.

After thanking the judges, the District chairman congratulated Totternhoe on once again winning the trophy It was a delight and an education to hear rounds struck with such elegance and precision, though he hoped that competitors would become even keener in the future; the more the joy and satis faction of really good striking was realised the better for ringing as a whole.
The thanks of all concerned are due to Mr . R. R. Churchill, who again organised this event.

NORTHAMPTON DEATHS
During the past month the Peterborough Diocesan Guild has lost two of its old mem-bers-Mr. Reg Cowley of St. Edmund's and. on November 24th, Mr. W. R. Parker of St. Peter's, Northampton

The secretary of Northampton Branch, Mr. 3. C Dean, was taken ill during the dark days of the last war and died indirectly as the result of gas in World War I. Mr. Reg Cowley took on the job to get things going again and was very successful. Although not a brilliant ringer, he was good and safe on the treble and helped at Si. Peter's very often after the war.

Mr. W. R. Parker served St. Peter's for some years as a sidesman and for over 50 years as a ringer. Always on time and a very reliable ringer, he was respected and esteemed by all who came in contact with him. The bells of St. Peter's were rung half-muffied by a combined band of St . Peter's and All Saints' ringers on Monday evening, November 28th. the day of the funeral.

\section*{LADIES' GUILD}

Despite the dull weather the Ladies' Guild (Kent Branch) held an enjoyable meeting at Milton-next-Gravesend on November 19th. The service was conducted by the Rev. K. Stuart and the collection, which amounted to £2 Os. 6d., was in aid of the Tower Fund.
An excellent tea was provided by Mrs. Mitchell and her helpers. Mrs. Mitchell thanked the gentlemen for their support and asked them to encourage any lady ringers who they knew to join the Ladies' Guild. They then returned to the tower for further ringing while the ladies held their business meeting
Six new members were elected and arrangements for the A.G.M. at Lincoln were given out. After votes of thanks, surplus food was sold, adding 10s. to the Tower Fund.
The ladies then joined the gentlemen in the ower, and ringing continued until 8 p.m. under the guidance of Miss J. Hayward,

\section*{A Ring of Five in Northern Italy}

W
HHILE on a working holiday in Italy this summer I was offered the opportunity of ringing the bells in the local church-a ringable and well-tuned ring of five, in better condition than is great many of our bells in England. This was at Rivoli Veronese. a village steeped in history, being the site of major battles by Frederick Barbarossa and Napoleon Bonaparte. Rivoli is quite a small place-not on mosi maps of Italy, population about a thousand- but has nevertheless go a band of half a dozen or so skilled ringers. of average age about 35 . They practise on of average age about 35 . They practise on to be heard ringing bells at all times of the day ano night.

The bells were cast in Verona about 1900. with a lenor of about 12 cwt . and are huns in a metal frame for ringing in the English fashion-with headstocks, wooden wheels, bal bearings; all the bits and pieces that go to make the fittings of an English bell except for stay and slider. which they have probablv never heard of and would regard as an un necessary and breakable complication.

Like many Italian bells, they are hung in openings in the side of the tower: \(1,2,3,5\) round the outside. with the fourth in the middle of the tower. The difference between these and other Italian bells is that these are rung full circle in changes (of a primitive and melodious nature), whereas Italian bells are generally rung only half up, and individually The ropes have no sallies, are so long that The ropes have no sallies, are so long that they lie entwined on the floor even when the bells are up at backstroke, and are just as easy to control as the conventional English rope-being fairly thick and soft

Ringing commenced with the bells down; they were raised individually or in peal. then brought together to ring "alla scala," i.e "rounds." This is sometimes varied by occasional firing. superbly accomplished, and then the conductor ("il maestro") begins to call a method, such as "Ave Maria," or, as some people would call it, a tune. The bells all slow down from 30 changes a minute to sixty strokes a minute. and bells are rung only when one's number is called by the conductor thus: \(1-2-3-2-2-4-5-1-5-3-1-2-4\) (which is a random sequence invented by me merely as an illustration) Frequently two bells are called to ring at the same time, or one bell to ring twice in succession. which to an Englishman appears exceedingly difficult especially in the case of the tenor. but is regarded as quite easy by the ringers At other times a bell might not sound for as much is one minate, for which period it has to be kept balanced. without the assistance of a stay. Then, at the end of a tune, one returns to rounds drops the bells a little. and lets go allowing the bells to drop themselves This nevertheless in a very orderly fashion. This nevertheless in a very orderly fashion.
because the tail-end of the rope is on the because the tail-end of the rope floor and keeps the rope straight

I did not inquire whether such ringing was common in Italy-I like to think that it is not and do not suppose that these ringers would be likely to know the answer Nevertheless. it would seem likely that there are several such towers of ringable bells in Italy, unmentioned by Dove. which might well offer material for an interesting ringing tour It was fascinating to see that the English are not the only people to ring their bells full circle with rope and wheel, to see the skill with which the ringers controlled their bells delightful to listen to such beautifully struck and melodious changes. and a great privilege to be invited to ring

\section*{YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION Southern District}

The District members made a rare appearance at Kirkthorpe on November 19th and the six bells were rung to a range of methods from rounds to London Minor during the afternoon. Members then went to Wakefieid, where the more than ample tea prepared by Mr. W F Moreton was nobly tackled!

Two items came under discussion at the meeting-the clash of dates with the Eastern District and the idea of an evening practice. Members were asked to give their local District Committee members their views in time for the committee meeting in early January.
Ringing was continued on various comhinations provided by the Cathedral's 14 bells. "Numbers grew somewhat by "de serters " from the Eastern District's meeting, which seemed to emphasise the need for revision of the meeting dates.

\section*{THE BRISTOL SOCIETY}

Deas \(\operatorname{Sir},-\ln\) answer to A. Tubb's letter "What is the Bristol Society?" I am one of who has rung a peal for "the Society." As I understand the situation, the Bristol Society is a group of fair-minded ringers. living mainly in the Gloucester and Bristol Association's territory, who object to paying a peal booking fee to the Gloucester and Bristol Association when, in fact, official peal booking by the Association has been discontinued. This surely is a reasonable attitude, and not ringing peals for the Gloucester and Bristol Association merely a democratic way of registering disapproval of what is obviously an unfair system.
I know of no other Guild which extorts a peal booking fee and then fails to report the peals in a Guild peal book.-Yours faithfully,

\section*{THE BLANK SPACE}

Dear Sir,-It would appear from recent correspondence that not all of your readers have been "hoodwinked "into accepting the "blank space" now current under "The Ringing World In fact. am I right in assuming that so far you have not received any appraisal for this change?

1 myself am not averse to change provided a better alternative is found, but to my mind the committee who have recommended this present layout show as much imagination as the "blank space."
In view of the fact that one wishes to increase the circulation of "The Ringing World." one would have thought a serious effort would have been made to make the front page more attractive than it was before, but it seems the reverse has now taken place.
If the committec does not have a better design to submit for publication, then a competition ought to be held and if this proves unfruitful a return to the original design is obviously indicated.-Yours faithfully,

\section*{PLADDYS SEEKS IDENTTTY OF} CORRESPUNDENTS
Dear Sir-At the outset, let me state that no one in this area has ever heard of either "C M Williams ", or "Nellie Spriggs"; if this lady exists and is prepared to produce concrete evidence that my composition is not original, I should bc interested to hear. Otherwise, also "Mr. Williams'" arguments are not worth being taken seriously if he is not prepared to disclose his true identity.
Many people like ringing peals of Bob Major with the tenors parted in this way. On the two occasions that I have conducted a peal of Bob Major on this plan the band seemed quite satisfied. Having the 6th in 7ths place for part of the way does something to relieve the sheer monotony of 78 coming behind again and again. Next, I cannot sec why six consecutive bobs Wrong should be reserved for handbell ringing. Why should this be any worse than six consecutive bobs Home? Since I particularly wanted the six courses with 46 reversed, there was no shorter way, within the 5.088 changes, bearing in way, whind that I also wanted all the 2468 's. 7468 's. etc.-Yours sincerely,

King's College, London.

\section*{WAIT FOR THE FINISHED ARTICLE}

Dear Sir.-I suppose that we are bound to have no end of gloomful complaint when anybody tries to change anything. and I dare say that it is quite useless to go on asking people to give "The Ringing World" Committee 3 chance.

Many of the people who have written to you complaining about the new heading were at Bath; all of them had a chance of knowing that a new heading is not to be the only change that is to be tried. In fact as far as I can remember the plan was that the new heading was to be accompanied by a photograph on the front page, and all Associations have been asked to help by sending prints for this purpose. Can't the complainers wait to see the finished article before they clamour for the mixture as before?

However. I can't help thinking that it might have been a good idea to bring out a completely new front page when the photographs were available, rather than change it piecemeal. I believe that with a picture the new heading will be far more attractive than the old: on a page of unrelieved print it is good still, but not notably better.

If you are determined to shoot the pianist, gentlemen, by all means do so, but let him at least play more than one note. At present he's hardly finished adjusting his music-stool - Yours faithfully.

\section*{TUTORS' HANDBOOK}

Dear Sir.-There is one quite important aspect of a ringer's development which I think probably needs some comment, and that is his awareness Most of this, in the early stages of change ringing, is occupied in picking up ropesight. When his repertoire is methods begins to develop, it is very helpful if the learner can further cultivate his awareness so that his actual "method ringing" is based very largely on it. Not only does this give him a good sense of rhythm. but any method, however high its tortuosity, no longer seems anything like so formidable as it would when learned purely by the more empirical blue-line process In this respect, Minor ringing and conducting has a greater basic value than is probably realised by many people.

I believe the above can also be helpful, later on, in enabling the learner to clear the hurdle between methods which are in common use and more advanced ones which are not so frequent. His approach to his learning is just as important as the content, however ; that is why I think it is important to start putting over the foregoing at as early a stage as possible. Hence my submitting this for consideration both by the committee concerned and by readers in general.

Finally, what I have tried to describe above may be a considerable way from representing the ultimate in development of awareness and dexterity in this general field. After all, two of the essential characteristics of the true jazzmen (early 20th century) were (a) not being able to read a note; (b) a coherent. ensemble ability for composing their music actually concurrent with playing it.-Yours faithfully,

\section*{POINTS AROUT MEETINGS}

Dear Sir,-As I have attended 43 Association mectings in four and a half years, I consider myself qualified to comment on \(\mathbf{P}\). \(\mathbf{A}\). Corby's remarks. My attendances have been confined to the Leicester, Derby, Midland Counties, Coventry, Dudley and Districts and Staffordshire Associations and the St. Martin's Guild of whilch the last-mentioned appears to maintain the highest standard. I think this is attributable to two facts- that meetings are held quarterly, with interest and attendance far greater, and that the Guild has a weekly practice night, which has always been of a very high standard as regards instruction and help in method ringing and striking. This is due in no small part to the excellent help given by the present Ringing Master, Alan Ainsworth. who has followed the late Mr. Jchn Pinfold so ably.
In commenting on meetings held by the other Associations mentioned. I would like to state that in answer to P. A. Corby the teas provided are always very welcome, very cheap or free, and of a very high standard. The attendance, punctuality and supervision of ringing often leave much to be desired Perhaps one reason is that committee meetings are held during ringing by some Associations and the Ringing Master is either not present at the beginning of the ringing to welcome visitors and ascertain what can be rung or, if present, does not exercise his authority, I would add that at some meetings I have been, as a visitor, made very welcome, but at others my husband and I have been the only ringers present for the firs: half-hour
My final comment relates to people who cannot handle a bell in rounds without assistance. I consider it is the responsibility of their own tower to instruct them in this; if they do attend meetings they should confine their activities to observing more competent ringers. I am always willing to assist method learners in any way and found Grandsire Doubles with J. Martin Thorley's eldest daughter (aged 10) on the treble at Thurlaston recently a pleasure. 1 hope when my children reach the age of 10 their striking and bell handling is of that standard.-Yours faithfully,

VIVIENNE M. RIGBY.

\section*{RECORDS OF ATTENDANCES}

Dear Sir,-I was interested to see the bit of gossip on page 792 about someone having attended 1.000 times and marked the occasion by a quarter peal. I have never kept a record. but as nearly as I can estimate my \(1,000 \mathrm{~h}\) could have been the day I took part in ringing for the funeral of William Lampard, whose total attendances at Winchester Cathedral, we calculated at the time, were about ten times that figure. Maybe some more interesting records will come to light.-Yours faithfully, W. O. HAYTHORNE

\section*{EAST DERBYSHIRE AND \\ WEST NOTTS ASSOCIATION}

About 30 ringers from a dozen towers attended the monthly meeting at Blackwell on November 19th. The methods rung in the afternoon and evening included touches of London, Cambridge. Norwich, Woodbine and Double Court. One of the younger members, Leslie Crafts. of Sutton-in-Ashfield, called his first touch of Plain Bob.

After a welcome tea, provided by the ladies the Rector, the Rev. Mr. Stappard, thanked the ringers and mentioned that his new baby daughter in the nearby rectory had slept throughout the afternoon! The vote of thanks was proposed by Mr. F. Adcock.

\section*{MORE LETTERS \\ CALLING POSITIONS IN DOUBLE} NORWICH
Dear Sir,-In reply to Mr. Beech's letter, I offer the following explanation. The calling positions employed for Double Norwich are In (I), Fifths (5), Home (H), and Out O) These refer to the position of the tenor when the bob is made, and correspond to \(\mathrm{W}, \mathrm{B}, \mathrm{M}\) and \(H\) in Bob Major and other second's place methods. The reason for not adhering to the traditional notation is that the system numbering the lead applies only to methods having the same lead-head as Double Norwich: although the same calling positions are employed in all eighth's place major methods, these do not always fall in the same order. Hence the numbering must be amended if it is desired to use a given composition for a method with a lead-head other than that for which it was originally intended.

We may illustrate this for second's place methods using Howlett's peal. In addition to methods such as Bob Major with lead-head 13527486. this peal can also be used for plain Major methods with lead-head 16482735 ie.g Hereward Bob) and 18674523 (e.g. Ashbourne College Bob). In all these methods the calling positions are at \(W, M\) and \(H\), and the composition can be used for all the methods when written out under these headings.

Should one choose to call the bobs by the number of the lead, it would be found that in Bob Major the calling positions were at leads 1. 6 and 7; in Hereward at leads 3, 4 and 7 and in Ashbourne at leads 2. 5 and 7. Using this notation, then. it would be necessary to set out the composition in three different ways, one for each of the different methods.

There have been a number of letters in ine past regarding the use of " \(X\) " for single bobs I think it is true to say that it is now the accepted convention that this symbol is used for calls which alter the length of the course; in this case, calling a bob at the fifth lead of the course causes the immediate appearance of a course end two leads early.-Yours faithfully,
R. D. BRADLEY.

\section*{HIS AMBITION-THE PERFECT PEAL}

Dear Sir,-The recent comments on peal ringing have been most interesting and on reflection I can only conclude that the "peal" means different things to different people.

For me, the ambition is to ring the perfect peal, which makes it a sort of distant objective, so that all peals are only stepping stones to the zenith of perfection, which is "the" peal. If this peal should be accomplished by a band I had trained and rung with Sunday by Sunday the pleasure it would give would be even greater.

Ideas of perfection vary Some years ago, attending a Devon Association eight-bell competition. I listened to a 20 -minute call chanze "peal" and thought the top ringing was perfect. The judges awarded faults which averaged out at 14 Commenting on the particular "peal," the spokesman for the judges said all 14 faults were incurred on the rise and fall and the top ringing was perfect. If the same judges were to score no faults on one of our peals, making allowances only for open handstroke leads, then for me it would be a perfect peal. On these terms a perfect peal would indeed be a zenith. Some months ago we rang three courses of Stedman Triples and on the above standard incurred some 10 faults. Although this ringing was the best we had ever accomplished, it was the best we have given 200 faults to peal length !\(\begin{array}{ll}\text { would have given } 200 \text { faults to peal length } \\ \text { Yours sincerely, } & \text { D. J. ROBERTS. }\end{array}\)

\section*{Devon Association of Ringers}

\section*{ANNUAL MEETING}
"RINGING is a dying, art," croak the Jeremiahs. But it's hardly true in Devon, where at the Devon Association of Ringers annual meeting the secretary, Mr Edgar Cole, reported an increase of 17 towers affiliated, bringing the total to 86 . Another tower was added during the meeting
The Association, which covers the callchange ringing fraternity in Devon, met under its president, Mr. Oatway, and the chairman, Herberi Pidler, who is one of its representatives on the Central Council. During the last few years attendance at this meeting has increased enormously, and there was a fine crowd representing some of the famous bands in the county, and including some of the art's most colourful characters. Harry Dockings from Down St. Mary was there: Mervyn Phillips from West Down had plenty to say. always worth saying but not invariably popular -was it his Welsh blood or was it the triumph of ringing the tenor to the Association's first peal. I wonder? There was the apparently indestructible Bill Miners, whose loss of a leg has not the slightest bit discouraged nim from climbing to Widecombe belfry: Arthur Tapper from Yealmoton, John Hine from Plymstock, and too many more to name them all. And, as always with call change ringers, the whole gathering seethed with enthusiasm.
One of the chief tasks of the meeting was the arrangement of the D.A.'s competitions for next year: one eight-bell. to be held at Newton St. Cyres on April 22nd. and :he three six-bells, Landkey on May 13th. Stoke Fleming on May 27th, and the final at Ilfracombe on June 10th. This last brought up an animated argument about the rights of holding a six-bell competition on the back six of an eight, but it was decided in the end that it would be a pity to lay down the law against it, for many back sixes can produce passing fine music.

Another suggestion struck at a very longstanding rule of the Association-that a tower affiliated as an eight-bell tower may not enter in six-bell competitions, and vice versa. It seemed almost as though some of the eightbell people were afraid that West Down would come along with eight men and clean up the eight-bell shield: so Ivor Hookway of West Down, thought anyway. and said they ought to be ashamed of themselves. but the old rule remains. It isn't so rigid as it sounds, as the DA only controls the two county-wide competitions. and its rules do not govern the host of invitation and deanery events which host of invitation and deanery events which rule apply to the winter knock-out cup.

Another lively discussion concerned the suggestion that a sub-committee he set up to draft rules for judging the Association's competitions. This was carried, and a strong committee it is, with Messrs Pidler. Miners. Hine. Tapner and Tom Wright. who was suggested to Mervyn Phillios "because everybody knows that Tom trains his own judges already very successfully!"
One of the Association's weaknesses (in some people's opinion) was revealed by a question from a member from Colaton
Raleigh. There, he said, they had a keen new band, eager to get out and around, but in the Aylesbeare Deanery the Association was dead. and there was nothing for them. But the Association has no control or even influence over the Aylesbeare Deanery or any other Deanery Association: they are quite distinct bodies: and with no machinery at its hand the Association was not able to help

Still, it set people thinking, and maybe the news will filter back to the Aylesbeare area by roundabout sources and something may result in the end. With a subscription of 9 s per tower the Association doesn't come heavily on its members for financial support. and if an instruction fund could supply the travelling expenses, there's ample keenness to supply the man-power to instruct and stiffen areas where things have got into low water

In response to the Exeter Cathedral appeal, the Association agreed to unite with the Guild in an effort by all the ringers in the diocese to collect money which will be brought io a special service at the Cathedral. This kınd of co-operation. commonnlace today would have been almost unimaginable twenty years ago, when call change ringers and "scientific" kept themselves in verv separate compartments divided by a party-wall of suspicion and pride. Now. it is not at all unusual to see Devon ringers wearing the badges of both hodies: several towers are affiliated 10 both and more than one method ringing band is entered in the knock-out cup of all this happy ranornchement the West Down deal is a delightful symbol: and 1 have it on the authority of the West Down band (and there is none better) that it was a fine niece of striking.

A lengthy discussion followed a request from the Tewin band to chance Districts and join the Eastern District This was mainly due to transport being easier to Eastern District meetings. They also felf they were not getting as much satisfaction from the St. Albans District as they could from the Eastern District. The Ringing Master. Mr Gerald Penney, said in future he would like to be told of any complaints or suggestions. The matter was adjourned until the next meeting at Harpenden on Decemher 17 th.
The Ringing Master asked for it to be put on record that there was a very warm welcome from the St. Peter's ringers at the last District nractice of this vear on Novemher 7th. The votes of thanks especially mentioned Mr. Trevor Hawkins. of Sandridge, for olaying the organ and the Incal ringers for the tea. Numhers increased slightlv in the evening and ringing continued until 8.15 p.m.

\section*{Southern Ringers Tour Scotland}

FIGHT members of the group deparied trom Wareham, Dorset, at 7 p.m. on August 20th with the intention of camping that same night in Kidderminster. This was not to tel The brakes failed on the "minibus" before 50 miles had been covered. Fortunately Mr. If (1erry) Swatton travelled with us. We "limped" to Brinkworth, Wilts, with no brakes, where Terry carried out repairs whilst his mother produced tea and biscuits. At 1 a.m., Sunday, he announced that the vehicle was ready for a test run, during which the water pump failed. We were, by this time, resigned to the fact that we would be unable to cariy on until at least midday Sunday when it was hoped the repairs would be completed. No content with repairs to the "minibus" Terry also arranged for ringing at Brinkworth Church (6) for morning service. His wife also entertained us to coffee and even offered to cook us a lunch (Knights of the Road of the Highest Order).
Repairs completed we were "on the road" again at \(2 \mathrm{p.m}\). Two more ringers, complete with cooking utensils, were "collected" at Stafford at 6 p.m. The long journey north then began. The light was failing towards 8 p.m. and the tents were pitched just oft the M.6, near Sandbach, Cheshire. This was to be the last rain to fall on us for eleven days.
The weather improved early on Monday, and breakfast was cooked at \(6.15 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}\). and journey continued at \(9 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}\). Lunch was taken at Penrith, where extra sleeping "comforts" (i.e Lilos and inflatable pillows) were bought by some of the party. The municipal camp site at Edinburgh was reached at 7 p.m., where we joined up with three more ringers, making the party complete, consisting of Graham, Mary and Ruth Elmes and John Blackwood (Wareham. Dorset). John Longridge (Okeford Fitzpaine). Jeffrey Claughton and Lewis Cobb (Ringwood), Christopher Dalton (Leigh), Gcorge Bonham and Boh Bellamy (St. Neots), Philip Mehew (Stotfold), with Frank and Jennifer Beech (Stafford) completing the party

\section*{DISAPPOINTMENT}

The ringing side of the holiday began on Tuesday, 23rd, when the first call was at Fettes College to ring on the \(2 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{cwt}\). ring of five. This was followed by an hour on the glorious bells of St. Cuthbert's. Two holiday makers from Oxford joined us, where methods up to Yorkshire were rung. As the Edinburgh Festival was raking place at the same time we were unable to ring at St. Mary's Cathedral, which was a great disappointment.

Repairs to the seventh bell at St. James' Leith, prevented any ringing so the afternoon was spent in the swimming pool at Portobello before having a grand "cook-up" in camp. (In passing, we would mention that conditions are not the best in the municipal camp site-overcrowding and rather soft, damp ground!) A 720 of Plain Bob Minor was rung on handbells by Frank and Jenny Beech, plus John Langridge, to pass the time.

Wednesday morning (24th) saw us at Alloa, having used the new Forth Road Bridge to save time. The bells are difficult to listen to inside the belfry; however. the standard methods and a very good course of Brissol were rung.

Following a liquid lunch ringing took place at Dunblane Cathedral, where some excellent striking was heard in methods up to Bristol. Many local inhabitants were outside to listen and meet the ringers. They were most impressed. The evening and night were spent at Amic Farm. near Strathyre, following meal and singsong round the "camp fire."

\section*{DUNDEE}

Fog had descended by the time we arose on Thursday morning. but it did not deter Graham and Bob from climbing a mountain before breakfast. Having broken camp at 10 a.m. a start was made for Dundee. After touring the town we eventually found St. Paul's Cathedral. where the first course of London was rung. Following lunch ringing took place in "the old steeple," but the striking was not of the highest standard. A newspaper reporter visited the lower during the ringing to find out what was going on and made many notes. Camp was made by a river at Ballinluig, where Frank showed his cooking skill by making pancakes for supper.

Friday was a very warm, sunny day, which was spent in rather a lazy way. Canoe races were taking place at Aberfeldy Rapids, which we watched for part of the morning before heading for Loch Tunnel, to have a "photo" session and a drink. The afternoon was spent swimming in a stream near Pitlochry and catching up with the "washing." Following tea the journey was to Braemar, via the Devil's Elbow. The day was rounded off with a singsong in the local hotel, with Lew at the piano. Camp was made on the edge of the golf course.

\section*{MOUNTAINEERING}

The sun was very bright when we woke on Saturday to head further north. The whole party climbed to the top of the Cairngorm ( \(4,084 \mathrm{ft}\).) during the afternoon before partaking of a grand meal in the Aviemore Hotel, where there was some disagreement with the management over prices, but it ended reasonably friendly. Camp was finally made reasonably friendy. Camp was miles from Inverness.

It was very cold on Sunday morning. Nevertheless breakfast was taken before heading for Inverness, where we were due to attempt a quarter peal before morning service at the Cathedral. Stedman Triples just would not "go" and the attempt failed after about twenty minutes. The remaining time was spent ringing from call changes, including the local ringers, to Yorkshire Surprise Major.

Halfway now and it was time to head more towards home. Sunday afternoon saw us travelling along the banks of Loch Ness. The "monster" did not oblige us with a call when Mary and John Longridge went for a swim in the Loch. A good camping site was found near Fort Augustus, and the day was rounded off with a good "cook-up" by Graham, football and handbells.

We left camp at 10.30 on Monday, 29th, to head for Inveraray, via Glencoe and Glen Orchy. Unfortunately low cloud and "Scotch mist" spoilt any chances of good views. That evening we inspected the bells at Inveraray and decided we would have to work on them the following day

PEAL ATTEMPT
Tuesday, 30th, was "the great day" in our minds as we were 10 attempt a peal on the ten at Inveraray. We started work early in the morning with cleaning out the tower, sorting and fitting bellropes, etc. It was decided, owing to the condition of the floor, to ring in the room immediately below the bells. It took some time to get accustomed to the poor light and noise from the bells. However, by unchtime we were ready to start. The attempt of Plain Bob Royal came to grief when the rope boss above Graham Elmes fell out, utting his hand and making the bell get out of control and causing the ringing to suffer. The noise was so great, the ringers could not hear the conductor's voice and there was no alternative than to set the bells.

General ringing continued for another hour before removing ropes. It is a pity that these beautiful bells are allowed to stay in the tower, which is now falling apart. One member of the band remarked that there would be room in his home tower for them, to which one of the local inhabitants replied that be wished we would "take them on."

Ringing completed we headed to Loch Lomond, where the tents were pitched on a farm near Tarbert. Our lost peal was forgotten when the girls served un an excellent curry for supper. Glasgow Cathedral was ihe first tower visited on Wednesday. August 31st. Touches of Grandsire and Stedman Caters and Cambridge Surprise Royal were rung before heading for Paisley. We were due to attempt a peal but as some of the band were unable to find the church on time we had to make do with a quarter peal of Yorkshire Surprise

Major. After fighting the dense traffic of Glasgow's rush hour, camp was made just south of Hamilton.

\section*{LAST EVENING}

The following morning we found ourselves surrounded by a herd of cows. Following breakfast the tents, etc., were loaded and a start was made for Ambleside; we arrived at 5.30 p.m. One and a half hours on the glorious eight took place in various methods, including Surprise Major. Unfortunately a broken rope and the tenor completely drying up marred the evening. As it was our last evening as a complete party, we spent the later hours of the evening in "The Royal Oak" with much merriment.
The night was extremely wet and uncomfortable. The camp site was flooded in the morning causing us to "break" camp at 6 a.m. without breakfast. After lunch at Stafford ringing took place on the ten bells, including Caters.
All ringing and farewells completed, the Hampshire and Dorset contingent headed for home, Wareham being reached by 11.30 p.m. It was very pleasant to sleep on a bed with a solid roof over our heads.
This report would not be complete without expressing sincere thanks to John Blackwood and Ruth Elmes, who made the arrangements. John's estimation was so accurate in that the mileage on paper before leaving was 1.640 and in fact the miles recorded on the vehicle was 1.642. The route was planned by John Blackwood and Lewis Cobb, who was the driver.
Should anyone in the future consider attempting a similar tour we would advise them to: (a) obtain towers for ringing well in advance: (b) keep away from official camoing advertised; (c) most essential, keep luggage and clothes, etc., to an absolute minimum.

\section*{Marlborough District A.G.M.}

At the annual meeting of the Marlborough District at Marlborough on November 19th youth predominated in the good attendance. The afternoon ringing was at St. Mary's Church, under the direction of the Ringing Master (the Rev. R. Keeley), and he conducted the service, with the new Rector (Rev. J. Walsh) reading the lesson and giving the address.
Mr. George Newman presided at the business meeting, and the new Rector, in acknow ledging his welcome, said although he had learned to ring he had not seriously practised the art. He wished the Branch continuing success.

Several encouraging features were mentioned by the honorary secretary (Mr. T. A. Palmer), in his annual report. Twelve monthly meet ings had been held, a representative party at tended the Guild festival and the annual uuting had been well supported. The Ringing Master's report showed that steady advances had been made in change ringing and a number of peals had been accomplished. A Branch peal of Grandsire Doubles had been rung at Aldbourne. There were still towers where, for various reasons, ringing was in abeyance or very infrequent, but tnese dificulties could no doubt be overcome in time.

The chairman, honorary secretary and vice chairman (Mr. F. Read) were re-elected. Be cause of uncertainty as to future commitments Rev. R. Keeley would not accept the Ringing Mastership, but agreed to continue on the Guild Committee. Mr. F. Read is the new Ringing Master.

Six new members were elected from Aldbourne. Chisledon and Collingbourne Kingston. Concluding the meeting, the chairman thanked everyone for support throughout the year and those responsible for that meeting, and tea prepared by the ladies. Ringing was then resumed at St. Mary's.

PETER HOLDEN,
The Oxford Diocesan Guild.
THE Oxford Guild contributes once again to this series by the introduction of a young member of the Witney and Woodstock Branch. Peter Holden was born at Sunderland on October 16th, 1947. His family moved to Oxfordshire, and he eventually went to Witney Grammar School, taking his "A" levels this year, and passing in four subjects. He is now a student apprentice at the G.E.C. Birmingham, prior to reading Mechanical Engineering at London University next year.

Peter was taught to ring at the Parish Church of Northleigh by Ted Patching, the secretary of the Witney and Woodstock Branch of the Guild. At the age of 15 he rang nis first peal. This was when he rang the treble to a peal of Plain Bob Minor at Great Barrington, Gloucester, on May 5th, 1952, which was conducted by Mr. D. Kay Adkins.
It was a great blow to the Northleigh band when Peter left as he was an unfailing Sunday service ringer. He was not only missed for his ringing but for the immense amount of time he spent in the belfry over the years helping others, and also helping to keep the tower, bells and ropes in good repair. Both his father and sister are ringers, and it is interesting to note that his sister has entered campanology as her hobby for the Duke of Edinburgh's A ward Scheme. Peter's hard work and study in the art have earned for him a total of 45 peals during the three years following his first peal. Perhaps when this modest youngster reaches his century he will be prepared to send to "The Ringing World" details of the peals he has taken part in.
A noteworthy record for one so young, and one which includes four peals which he has conducted. His first as conductor was a peal of Plain Bob Minor rung at Northleigh on January 30th, 1965, with the bells halfmuffled in memory of Sir Winston Churchill Peter is also a keen and proficient handbeli ringer, and enjoys both tune and method ringing.
Congratulations to you, Peter, and credit to all those who have helped you to build up such a fine record.

NORVING.

\section*{Taysom's Travellers in Wiltshire}

THIS year it was not possible for Taysom's Travellers to visit Devon, but on October 15th we spent a day in some of the rural parts of Wiltshire. Ringers from Warmley. Frampton Cotterell, Twertoa and Batheaston took part.

The day started at Poterne, where we were shown a Saxon font that was discovered when the church was restored in 1872; also of interest was a set of handbells presented to the church by Charles Burden, who was a College Youth and a member of St. Paul's Cathedral band. The tower here is very large and could house a ring of 12 quite easily; instead there is a pleasant 17 cwt, six in E , rehung on ball bearings in the existing massive oak frame by Taylor and Co. about five years ago.

Durrington has a very interesting ring, as it was augmented to six in 1953 by Mears and Stainbank, but had been a five since 1660 . The present fifth is the oldest-1602, by Wallis of Salisbury, the second and third 1617 by the same founder, while the fourth is 1654 and the tenor 1660 , both cast by Lott of Warminster. The weight of the tenor (not given in "Dove") is 11 cwt .2 qr .26 lb . in \(G\).

At Upavon we encountered our first groundfloor ring, a lovely-toned six hung on plain bearings in a large tower, where there would be plenty of room for more. On to Collingbourne Ducis, with another ground-floor ring of six with a long draught of rope. Although the light ones are a little springy and the back ones are near the wall, the bells are a very pleasant ring.

We enjoyed our ring at Burbage in an upstair chamber overlooking a lovely church. The five were rehung earlier this year by local labour and go very well, but the scale of the bells is most odd. For example, the fourth is in A. while the tenor, although given as 14 cwt . in \(G\), is in fact \(G\) sharp. The ringer of the tenor is out of sight behind the clock case to the treble and second, while the ringer of the fourth has a 6 in . high radiator to contend with as it is directly beneath the rope. The alternatives are to stand behind it and stand a fair chance of losing the sally. stand in front and hit your nose, stand on it (which is uncomfortable) or do as your humble scribe did and stand one foot behind and one foot in front and finish with cramp in both legs.
The scenery in Savernake Forest was beautiful with the differently-coloured leaves. The Church of St. Katherine is situated in a lovely setting, although it has not many houses around to keep it company. The bells are worth a visit, being a musical five that go very well indeed. The last ring was at East Kennett. Here we found a sweet miniature five (tenor \(4 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{cwt}\). in C ) hung in a miniature tower with spire and rung from an equally miniature ringing room, A couple of years ago these bells were given a good overhaul and the ropes are new, so it is a great pity that the local ringers have now fizzled out and these little bells are again unrung. The bearings are dry and handling is a trifle hard, but nothing that a drop of oil will not put right. Anyway. these bells gave us a happy ending to a happy day.
Sincere thanks to all who met us and made us so welcome.
A. F. L.

A peal has been rung for the restoration of the tower of St. Michael's, Bristol. There are six new gargoyles and one is a likeness of the Rector, the Rev. Mr. Vyvyan-Jones!

Two ringers were asked this question while standing outside a Cambridgeshire church one Sunday morning: "Are you coming to our next service or are you bellringers? this significant?

In West Herts a programme for the development of Surprise Major is proving very successful. A first fruit is a quarter peal of Rutland at Hemel Hempstead on November 27th.

After a peal attempt at Ely on November 19h a pair a gloves bearing the name William F. Mock was found in the belfry. They can be reclaimed from Brian Hullah, 42, Chapel Street, Ely. Cambs.

According to Mr. G S. Valentine there are now only two ringers who served in the 1914-18 war now left in the Northampton band. They are Mr. W. Austin (aged 81) and Mr. Valentine (73).

Should results prove satisfactory. Aldbourne Village. Wiltshire, will be shown to viewers in Holland by the Dutch Television Service on Christmas Day. The film presents a typical English village with its bells ringing and people going to church.

\section*{BATS IN THE BELFRY}

An S.O.S. from the London Zors
Many ringers must wish there was some way of reducing the bat population, which is just now settling down into winter quarters.
The Council for the Care of Churches has been asked by a member of the staff of the Wellcome Institute of Comparative Physiology to make known the fact that they are faced with an acute shortage of study material. They have recently undertaken a programme of work on the behaviour and reproductive physiology of British bats, and in order to meet this need would be glad to visit any church in the Home Counties to collect specimens.

As their object would be to make a clean sweep of all the bats in the churches visited. this would seem to be a most favourable offer, advantageous to the ringers, the Zoo and the bats, because we understand that the purpose of the inquiry is scientific observation.
Ringers should telephone or write to: Mr. Paul Racey, Wellcome Institute of Comparative Physiology, Regents Park, London. N.W.1. Primrose 3333.

\section*{GOLDEN WFDDING AT SAXLINGHAM} NETHERGATE
The many friends of Mr George Poyntz, of Saxlingham Nethergate, will join in congratulating him on his golden wedding, which was celebrated on November 24th. George was made a member of the Norwich Diocesan Association in 1909 and has rung in 65 peals for the Association
In the late 1940's he suffered from severe osteoarthritis of his hips, and in 1952 underwent operations for the fitting of artificial hips. He was one of the early people to have this operation, which was at that time still very much in the experimental period. Despite his disability he continued regular ringing and in 1955 rang two further peals. George's main trouble at the moment is that of getting into the belfry, but when he can get there he still rings the tenor perched precariously on a stool, and he still knows how to strike his bell.

His golden wedding was celebrated with a peal of Plain Bob Major. For one of the local ringers it was his first peal, and for the present Ringing Master (Mr. T. R. Simmons) it was his looth.
Thanks to the generosity of George, the remainder of the evening was spent in traditional style in the Prince of Wales.

\section*{WHAT A FIRST PEAL:}

The majority of first peals are of Doubles. Minor or Triples. Not so for Caroline Mackie of Wellesbourne Hastings, Warwicks. who is in her last year at Cheltenham Ladies' College. Caroline has been ringing just over a year and rang her first peal at the first attempt at Kingham, Oxon, on November 26th. It was Spliced Plain Major in three methods (Plain Bob, Gainsborough Little Bob and Little Bob) with 176 changes of method, and she rang the third, The conductor, MrC. A. Wratten, reporting on this very promising start, writes that Caroline made scarcely a trip throughout.

\section*{FIRST PEAL AT 73}

The peal recently rung at St. Bride's Major, Glamorgan, gave members of the local band great pleasure on completion as it was Bill Gibhons' first peal at the age of 73 years. Throughout the peal he struck his bell well. Bill. a call change ringer from Saltash, joined the Bridgend band a few years ago, where he is a regular service ringer.

Mr. D. J. Roberts, of Torquay, sends us these reasons for a peal
- A most satisfying way of spending three hours.
2. A desire to surmount difficult physical conditions.
3. A desire to surmount difficult mental

The joy of effecting mathematical permutations.
5. The rewarding aspect of team spirit and comradeship.
6. To proclaim the important festivals and anniversaries of the Church.
7. To proclaim important secular festivals and anniversaries
8. To complete 100 peals in a year.
9. To complete 2,000 peals in a lifetime
10. To improve the standard of ringing.
11. The culmination of many practices.
12. To show strength of the Exercise o Guild.

21 YEARS AT ST. MARY REDCLIFFE
The recent peal of Stedman Cinques rung by a College Youths band at St Mary Redcliffe, Bristol, was rung to mark Mr. Emlyn Hancock's 21 years' association with Redcliffe tower. Fred made contact with Redcliffe when the bells were restored after the war. and was instrumental in forming the Redcliffe Guild. Following the peal, members of the band were entertained to tea by Fred and Mrs Hancock, and all would like to thank them for a most enjoyable day.

\section*{UNLUCKY 13 AGAIN}

Four attempts were necessary to enable Les H. and Raymond F. Arscott. of Taunton. to ring their 13th peal cogether. Success came from a five methods Doubles peal at High Ham on November 26th. The unsuccessful attempts were Stedman Triples, Cambridge Surprise Minor and Minor in four methods.

\section*{100th PEAL TOGETHER}

The peal at Leigh. Surrey, on November 26th, was the 100 th together for Mr. A. P. Cannon and Mr. G. K. Dodd. their first together being at Amesbury, Wilts, in December. 1948, this being Mr. Dodd's first peal. Amongst their peals together have been several "first on the bells" at towers which were previously regarded as unringable.

\section*{MISAPPREHENSION}

The Editor's attention has been drawn to a misapprehension that Mr. G. W. Pipe spent 92 hours on designing the front page coves Probably this arose from the wording in the Editorial, "Planning for the Future," in the issue of October 21st. The word "these" applied to Mr. Pipe's work in the preparation of the report and the inquiries necessary, as well as the design for the heading. To those who took the same view the Editor expresses his regrets.

In order that ringers shall have an oldfashioned Christmas the convener has asked the Editor to revert to the old heading for the issue of December 23rd! The heading will be again discussed at "The Ringing World" Committee meeting in January.

\section*{NINETEEN TOWERS TO COMMEMORATE} GUY FAWKES
THERE are four members of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild at the Rutland High School. They normally attend on Saturday mornings, but November 5 th was their half-term and so a full day of tower grabbing had been arranged for them to commemorate. as the official programme stated, "that ,other great native of YorkGuy Fawkes." The only known native of York living and ringing in Rutland is the secretary of the Rutland Branch of the Peterborough Guild and mother of one of the four High School girls
The first tower on our list was at Medbourne in Leicestershire, where we started off very modestly just after nine o'clock with rounds, Plain and Original Minor. Our next tower was at Ashley in Northants, where the rest of the dedicated grabbers joined usGerald Reynolds with a contingent from Cannock, Robert Woodward up from Somerset, and Colin Banton from Derby, the latter making up a Minor band of exiled Yorkiststhree of each sex and five with the same name. The next three towers completed our stay in Northants-Weston-by-Welland (a delightful little five). Brampton Ash. where, despite an unsettable tenor, we managed recognisable Bob Minor, and Dingley, the church in a private park with a reputed difficult five, when ten-year-old Katharine (probably the smallest gir! at Rutland High School) competently trebled a course of Grandsire, Back into Leicestershire for the rest of the day's towers the last three before lunch being Great Bowden. wheie we struggled with London on the nice-toned six, Lubenham. where we rang some wellstruck Stedman Doubles, and Husbands Bosworth, the penultimate five of the day.

Lunch was taken in various forms at Lutterworth and here we had our first eight-bell ringing of the day. The delightful bells lend themselves to good striking and we think that we did justice to them-the only disappointed ringer being our youngest grabber. Penelope (nine) who found the sallies just that bit too high. Then followed eight successive sixes-at Bitteswell and Leire both light and bandy sets of bells. Broughton Astley, heavy and deep-toned but easy to handle (we rang some good St. Clement's here), Croft, another very easy-running set, Narborough. where Paddy justified her topbilling by ringing the 21 cwt. tenor (at her age!) and keeping the third rope on the wheel, Whetstone. Countesthorpe (another set of bells which are easy to ring well: we obliged with well-struck Single Oxford and Grandsire Minor) and Great Glen. reached only just in time by Robert's carload. who seemed to have found the only gated road within sight of the city of Leicester.
Then we set off back in the direction of Rutland, calling at Billesdon and Skeffington en route Billesdon bells are very easy to ring but quite difficult to strike properly because of but quite difficult to strike properiy because or are sandwiched together-but we succeeded in ringing some creditable Bob Major as well as rounds. We found Skeffington to have an even better five than Caldecote. where most of the Rutland learners are being introduced to change ringing. This made a grand total of 19 towers in the day. of which three of the High School girls (Christine, Cynthia and Patsy) scored 18, and the fourth (Katharine (by far the smallest) scored 17. although she rang changes in quite a few. On returning to Rutland the bulk of the party headed for the School House in Lyddington for food and fireworks.

\section*{Joint Meeting at Warsop}

The Mansfield District meeting at Warsop or November 26 th was joint with the East Derbyshire and West Notis Association. The attendance was good and those present sampled the hospitality and variety one would expect from this popular tower. Variety in the ringing: methods from Grandsire and Plain Bob to London and Wells Surprise were rung during the afternoon and evening, when the ringing chamber was. at times, uncomfortably full; hospitality: in the church service, when the Rev. David Leaning welcomed everyone before delivering an extremely well chosen "Eve of Advent" address. and at tea, where approximately 45 people enjoyed the excellent meal prepared by the ladies.
A further welcome was extended by the District chairman to the E. Derbys and W. Notts memhers, and to the visitors and friends from neighbouring Districts and Associations. Following the business meeting, thanks were expressed all round, before the company adjourned to the tower where ringing continued until 9 p.m.
Next meeting: District annual, Mansfield, January 28th, 1967.

\section*{" GLORY TO GOD IN THE HIGHEST"}

\author{
By the Rev. P. M. FREEMAN

I HAVE to confess to a certain impatience with those who sigh regretfully over the approach of Christmas because "it won't be the same now that the children are grown up -after all, Christmas is the children's time, isn't it?"' True, my children are not yet grown up, and we can still pretend with pillow cases hung over the end of the bed, with glasses of milk and mince pies placed in the hearth. Then comes the opening of the presents and the five of us sharing the pleasure of all the surprises. Will Christmas lose its meaning when the pillow cases are left in the drawer and there is no glass of milk for the white-bearded traveller to drink? Surely, most of what happens at Christmas is a by-product. to be enjoyed and remembered certainly; but the reason for the celebrations remains constant for young and old alike-Jesus, the Son of God, is born in Bethlehem.

Maybe this is what we have forgotten-that Jesus was born there. I know that when we stop and think about it, we remember; but one of the complaints of recent years has been that people "cash in" on the Christmas festival. There is so much advertising, so much pressure upon us to buy this, that and the other, that the central figure of Christmas has been pushed into the background. Surely this points the contrast between what Jesus stands for and what the world stands for so very often-between Jesus who gives His life for the world and the world which wants "to cash in:"

For all of us, when we are caught up in the enjoyments of Christmas Day, there is a temptation to forget that He, who was born at Bethlehem, grew up to be mocked, humiliated, betrayed. deserted and nailed to the cross. What happened to Jesus was utter and miserable failure when judged by the standards that human beings usually adopt. Even though we may be well aware of the danger of forgetting Jesus, even though we shall go to our parish churches to celebrate His birth, we too can push Him into the background because we over-sentimentalise the story, because the story is so familiar that we have forgotten to look closely at what happened in Bethlehem, because we forget that the child who lies in the manger will one day hang upon a cross.

The other temptation that presents itself is to push the world into the background, to be so caught up in the "eat, drink and be merry" atmosphere that we delude ourselves into thinking that the world is not such a bad place after all. It is easy to forget that there are people still living in refugee camps, that men, women and children are being killed and maimed in war, that children are starving, that human frailty, cruelty and thoughtlessness cause pain and suffering to millions. It is this world into which Christ is born; it is this world which crucifies Him.

So we stand and watch at the stable door. There we see the child, Jesus; born in conditions of poverty, destined to grow up in obscurity until he challenges the attitudes and standards of the world in which He lived; and so, He is crucified. And already, at Bethlehem, we can see foreshadowed in the coming of the shepherds and the Wise Men the words of Jesus to His followers: "My kingdom is not of this world." "The way I do things," He seems to say to us, "is not the same as the way the world does them." Jesus, born in humility, comes to serve His fellow men, to help them whenever they need help and, in the end, to die for them. All this He does in a world which praises achievement and success, which applauds the realisation of ambition and rewards merit.

What does Jesus ask of those who come to worship Him? See the shepherds come-humble, simple men, who knew the responsibility of caring. That was their job, to care for the sheep; yet in the midst of doing it, they were alert to hear the angels' song: "Glory to God in highest heaven, and on earth His peace for men on whom His favour rests." They were not too busy to hear. Yet how often God can be excluded from 1:e because of lack of time or busy-ness or because we can convince ourselves that there are some areas of life into which God need not be admitted. Perhaps the shepherds remind us always to be aware of the nearness and the compassion of God for the whole of our lives.

Then the Wise Men approach, having travelled hundreds of miles across the waste desert-land; and they stand before the manger and offer their gifts. I had never realised quite so clearly before that, at the end of their search, the Wise Men do not ask for anything-they give. "When they opened their treasures, they presented unto Him gifts." How often we draw near to Jesus, not to give, but to ask, to receive, to find comfort. Perhaps the Wise Men received much from their experience at Bethlehem, but they set.out on their journey in order to give.

As we hear the familiar story of Our Lord's birth at this Christmastide, as we listen once more to the message of the angels, see God Himself coming in Jesus to share our lives; see the shepherds, aware of God seeking them out in the very midst of their working lives; see the Wise Men, journeying because they want to offer themselves to God. See all this and know that God comes to us so that we might give ourselves to the task of making a reality the message of the angels: "Glory to God in highest heaven and on earth, His peace."

\section*{REHALLOWING of SHEFFIELD CATHDERAL BELLS}

\section*{By Herbert O. Chaddock}

THE Diocese of Sheffield was formed in 1914 out of the large Diocese of York, and the Parish Church of St. Peter, Sheffield, was chosen to serve as its Cathedral.

The Old Church, as it was called, very much blackened with tive centuries of industrial smoke, and rather gloomy inside, was not quite the pride of the city as its Cathedral should be.
In 1935 the Provast (the late Dr. A. C. E. Jarvis) effected certain restorations and renewals. The Shrewsbury Chapel, built by the fourth Earl in the 15 th century, was handed down to the successors, the Dukes of Norfolk, and in 1933 handed over to the Vicar and churchwardens, was restored and became the Lady Chapel. The St. Katherine's Chapel was restored, along with other minor improvements, and on February 25th, 1937, the new Bishop's Throne was dedicated by the Archbishop of Canterbury. The completion of these works introduced more beauty and light into the church and was an inducement to proceed further.

NEW NAVE AND ADDITIONAL TOWER At a mecting of the Cathedral Council the Provost was given permission to secure the necessary funds to embark upon the enlargement in accordance with the designs of Sir Charles Nicholson. This meant pulling down the old nave and building a new one at rightangles running north to south, and included a new additional tower and spire in line with the old one, and on the west side of the new nave.
The Provost had only \(£ 360\) in hand but by April. 1937, the foundation stones were laid. one by the late Princess Royal and one by Miss Fanny Tozer, who gave the beautiful Chapter House in memory of her father. The sacristy, song school and vestries were completed and the new Chapel of the Holy Spirit partly built. but on the outbreak of war in 1939 work had to be suspended.

Although the city received considerable damage from enemy action, the Cathedral was virtually undamaged. So much other essential building was necessary at the cessation of hostilities that work on the Cathedral was delayed. However, by June, 1948, the Chapel of the Holy Spirit was completed and consecrated, a day of great joy to Dr. Jarvis. who was now seeing his plans taking shape. He decided to retire and leave the completion to a younger man.

After much consideration the authorities under the new Provost. the Very Rev. J. Howard Cruse, decided, owing to the higher costs and other factors, reluctantly to abandon the original scheme and adopted the design submitted by Messrs. Ansell and Bailey, architects, of Guildford. All the previous work had been ably carried out by Messrs. Longdens, of Sheffield, and they were given the contract to complete the work, which was begun in August, 1963.

\section*{RINGERS' VANTAGE POINTS}

We, the ringers, from our vantage points on the roofs, watched the process of building in our weekly visits with great interest for the next three years. The west end of the church was pulled down and the nave extended, a beautiful lantern tower being incorporated in the roof. A new lower at the south-west corner was also built, its base providing a fine exterior, and also an interior porch and entrance.

A new Church Hall has also been provided at the north-west corner, directly connected to the church. Owing to the slope of the land the rear of the hall roof is at ground level and the roof itself made into a garden.

\section*{LIGHTNESS AND BEAUTY}

The new building is of Derbyshire stone; all the old exterior stonework has been cleaned Work on the interior included the whole being cleaned and renovated, and the floor repaired. The oak pews, pulpit and furnishing pickled and finished in a honey shade, together with the extra windows and modern lighting, transformed the interior to one of colour, lightness and beauty. The maintenance of the churchyard. which is of natural stone paving, with expanses of turf, has been taken over by the City Parks Department, who do a fine job and can be relied upon to add some colour and neatness in the spring.
As the building neared completion it was found that \(£ 50,000\) was required for it to be free from debt. However, Sir Stuart Goodwin, a local industrialist, promised half the sum if the rest could be found within six weeks. An appeal was made in the city and to all the parishes in the diocese, who at a special service brought their gifts which, logether with other donations, produced the required sum.

THE REHALLOWING
Tuesday, November 15th, was chosen for the day of rehallowing, and a great service had been arranged, with Princess Margaret as the guest of honour. The ringers had instructions to do their part, but a few days before the great day it was found that one of the strap bolts, holding the 11th bell to its stock, was broken. making it unsafe to ring. However, an appeal was made to Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, who quickly supplied a new and Staingank. Who quickly supplied a new the manual assistance of one of the ringers, soon had things put right.
Ringing took place before the service to welcome the processions of Clergy, University, Civic, the 342 -years-old Company of Cutlers and a congregation of 1,450 , and the Princess. The ringers were reserved excellent seats where they could see and take part in a beautiful and impressive service. The Bishop of Sheffield (the Right Rev. John Taylor) knocked three times with his pastoral staff on the outside of the great south-west door before being admitted by the Provost, and later marked part of the new stonework with a cross of consecration.

The sermon was delivered by the Archbishop of York (Dr. Coggan). Towards the close of the service the ringers returned to the tower and attempted a peal of Bob Royal, which was brought round after a little over three hours' good ringing, owing to a shift course.

\section*{EARLY HISTORY}

The shaft of the "Sheffield Cross," now in the British Museum. provides definite evidence that Christianity had been established here by the ninth century, and it is thought that the complete Cross stood on the site of the present Cathedral. There is no mention of a church in Sheffield in the Domesday Book. Early in the 12 th century William de Lovetot, the first of his family. succeeded to the Manor, He founded the Priory of Worksop and built a sturdy Norman church in Sheffield.

During the Barons' War the town and castle were burned down and Lovetot's descendant, Thomas de Furnival, complained: "They have burned my house and taken away my goods and done other great damage." The Norman church was replaced by an Early English one and dedicated by Wickwane, Archbishop of York about the year 1280 . This stood until the 15 th century. when it was destroyed and a new Perpendicular style church was built. A few of the stones from the two ancient churches are embedded in the chancel walls. This church was cructform in shape, with its tower and spire rising from massive central piers, and contained seven altars. During the passing years it has been altered and enlarged, but the tower and chancel are still part of the original building.

\section*{THE BELLS}

The first account book of the church burgesses, 1557-1573, refers to a little bell and later to "Ye Sanctas Bell," also the 1st. 2nd and 3rd bells. A 4th bell was given by Gilbert, the seventh Earl of Shrewsbury, in 1606.
A new ring was set up in 1689, but how many bells there were is not known, probably five or six, as the Cutlers' Company contributed one bell. cast by Houmfrey Wilkinson of Lincoln. There were eight tunable bells in 1764, but the tenor weight is unknown, probably about 33 cwt .
In 1799 a new ring of ten bells (tenor 30 cwt.) was hung in the tower, but these must have been unsatisfactory as in 1804 they were replaced by another ten (tenor 41 cwt.) by Thomas Mears of Whitechapel. Two trebles were added in 1868 . In 1922 all the bells were returned to Whitechapel, the 7 th and 10 th found to be cracked and were recast, the remainder being returned and all hung on ball or roller bcarings. The frame, sound and sturdy, is of timber.
About six years ago the tenor bell was fitted with a new balanced clapper and staple, also much of the louvred openings in the tower were covered with suitable material by some of the local company, resulting in a great improvement in the sound of the bells. It is hoped that in the near future a more modern set of clappers will be fitted and other necessary work done to the bells, which all go very well, and, if perhaps a little oldfashioned, are to us a joy to ring
And so, after 1,000 years of Christian worship on this site, one cannot help but think how fortunate we are today to go Sunday by Sunday and ring to the glory of God, and on most Sundays attend Evensong in such a beautiful church, where we know our efforts are appreciated

"The need for a modern textbook on change ringing fit to put into the hands of the latest recruit and acceptable to the progressive ringer has been felt by instructors for a long time, particularly during the last twenty years as the Exercise reestablished itself after the war and the ban on ringing. The wait has been worthwhile, for Faber's invitation to Mr Wilfrid G. Wilson has resulted in a volume on the theoretical and practical aspects of our art as valuable as any yet written... WHO DECIDES QUALITY OF PEAL?
Dear Sir,-With reference to Mr. Stracev' letter (December 9th), who shall decide whether a peal is of too poor a quality to be recorded and on what criterion shall their judgment be based? Am I right in thinking that the prerogative remains with the conductor?

The Central Council Handhook gives " conditions required for peals" in which no reference whatsoever is made to standards of striking. It does state that "t anv objection which may be taken to a peal shall be raised in writing to the conductor and the Association." Suppose, then, that the conductor still refuses to withdraw what others consider to be a substandard performance. It would appear that the decision must be taken by the accredited Association, especially as in another section of the Handbook we read "that the attention of Associations be called to the desirability of accurate striking."

How, then is an Association to decide? Is it to take the word of one of its members against another? Is a "court " to he set up where judgment will be pronounced? If so, by whom? The thought horrifies me. I can see no simple solution but to accept the conductor's word and to let his reputation stand or fall by it.

Is there a precedent where a peal has been refused by an Association on the grounds of poor striking alone? If so I, for one, should be interested to hear of it and to know the general circumstances. If not, then can we accuse the Associations of complicity in the very poor quality performances referred 10 by Mr. Stracey?-Yours sincerely, Kingswood, Bristol.

\section*{ROPE SPLICING}

Dear Sir,-I would like to thank Li.-Col. Jerram for his interest in my article on rope maintenance I did develop this method of finishing a long splice myself, based to some extent on the usual method, as given in the "Admiralty Manual of Seamanship," but 1 would emphasise that I claim no originality for it. To do so would be as hazardous as to claim authorship of a simple peal of Bob Major. This method of tucking must surely have been used elsewhere

With regard to the security of this splice. I have done quite a number of them during the past 15 years, and I have not served any of them. In fact every rope at Wilmslow at present has one, and I can say that I have never known one to pull out.

I would also like to say that the method given for replacing a tailend, by the use of two eye splices. Was given to me by Peter Laflin, of St. George's. Stockport. He, I believe, brought it to this part of the country from Suffolk.-Yours faithfully,

MEETING PROBIEMS OF THE AGE
Dear Sir -I had the pleasure of knowing and ringing with Phil Corby in the area and at the time of the V2 rockets to which he refers at the beginning of his article. The "stoical nonchalance " of those days differs from the "same endearing trait" of today, however, in that in the 1940's there was determination to carry on despite the dangerstoday we just carry on because we cannot be hothered (or are too frightened) to examine ourselves, our bands and our Associations to see if what we are doing is appropriate in the 1960's.

Facts must be faced-we are not the oniy voluntary organisation with problems of falling membership, irrelevant customs and outdated administration The root of the prohlem with many of these organisations is the same as ours-affection and respect for the past clouding the fact that 19 th century rules and ideas do not necessarily fit the conditions of the 20 th century. The recent reappraisal and reorganisation of the Scout and Guide and reorganisation of the Scout and Guide for.
The last part of Phil Corby's article touches a particular concern of mine-the dreary round of meetings. What are they for? What do they do? Whom do they benefit? I have yet to receive really satisfactory answers. It really is no use ringers complaining that the meetings are poorly attended because "people" cannot be bothered. We are all "people" and the responsibility is ours.

So let us be honest and courageous and support Phil Corby and those like him, who are genuinely concerned about the many problems facing all ringers. Don't be petty when experiments fail, don't be small-minded in debate and don't misjudge the motives of those who are trying to achieve what is necessary if we are to survive.
May he keep prodding and provoking so that the rest of us can be stirred up from our smug, comfortable, overfed and too easily satisfied state.-Yours sincerely,

DENNIS L. HALL,
Hon. Sec. Southern Division,
Sussex County Association.

PEAL RINGERS AND SERVICE RINGING
Dear Sir.-I read with interest the "Sacred Cow" article concerning peal ringing, and noted relevant comments in subsequent correspondence. Like any other controversial topic, here must, of course, be much diversity of opinion and legitimate views on all sides of this question.
Following on this, though, I think it would be of interest to readers to read a few views on the position of peal ringing, in relation to what I hope I may be excused for believing to be the prime object of our art, i.e. Sunday service ringing. Undoubtedly most regular peal ringers eive of their utmost in this way. Others. perhaps happily in the minority, make little or no contribution at all. Do these latter feel any obligation at all to ring regularly for Sunday service, or do they regard the church bells purely as instruments for their pleasure and entertainment?
Since beçoming a District secretary I have been to the length of reading the objects of our Guild, something which I had never thought of doing before. To my surprise I could not find the word "peal" anywhere mentioned in those objects.- Yours sincerely, RONALD D. HUGHES.
Markfield, Leicester.

Dear Sir,-During recent weeks we have been reading a lot about sound control. May I point out that any form of sound control or belfry improvements and replacements is bound to cost money? Country parishes have frequently inherited a church like a small cathedral and the upkeep costs are a constant source of worry to parochial church councils.
Ringers generally seem most reluctant to serve on these councils and are generally absent from the meetings which elect them. If this is the case we have no right to complain if belfry needs are at the back of the queue when P.C.C. funds are allocated, or if the councils adopit the attitude that the most effective and cheapest form of sound control is not to ring the bells.

I was most interested in Mr. Corby's sug gestion of evening practice meetings. He may remember that such a meeting was arranged at Chiddingstone some two years ago In spite of the fact that it proved most helpful and encouraging to myself and my fellow novices, the idea was never followed up. I have never been able to understand why. Yours sincerely, \(\quad\) P. R. EVEREST.
Chiddingstone, Kent.
SWAFFHAM PRIOR'S RUINED CHURCH Dear Sir, - I would like, through your columns, to make a few comments on the North Herts half-day outing to this part of Cambridgeshire (page 790). I am certain your correspondent has painted a far from satisfactory picture of ringing conditions at Swaffham Prior. The account relates how non-ringers "watched masonry fall amid the ruined church as 45 minutes' ringing flew by," and really, sir, this must be an exaggeration

There are, of course, two churches in the same churchyard at Swaffham Prior, St. Cyriac's being the ruined church that possesses the tower housing the bells. Apart from some attention by Ely Diocesan Association members in recent years, I doubt whether any substantial work has been done on the bells since they were installed by John Briant of Hert ford in 1791 (the bell chamber confirms this !). Despite their somewhat dilapidated condition, the bells go quite well, and bands from Cambridgeshire have rung several peals here in the last two or three years. I have stood in the ruined church while ringing has been in progress and cannot say that I have detected any evidence of falling masonry
Although there is no local band in the village, visiting ringers are usually made welcome, and the villagers appreciate hearing the bells. Certainly the Church of St. Cyriac is in a decrepit state, but I don't think that reports of outings should attempt to assess the condition of buildings, that is a task for the architect. Perhaps the North Herts writer will exercise a little tact in future reports, or else have the prudence to warn the singers that the tower is falling around them.-Yours faithfully, BRIAN B. HULLAH.
Ely, Cambs.

\section*{HOAX PEALS}

Dear Sir.-There appears to be an increase in the number of hoax peals in "The Ringing World." The latest addition to the list is Much Hadham (page 812).
As a member of Much Hadham band, may I say to the person responsible-for goodness sake grow up and act sensibly. Hogx peals must be stopped.

\section*{BRISTOL UNIVERSITY PEAL}

Dear Sir-May I be allowed to correct and clarify some points in your report of the dispute of the peal at St. Stephen's. Bristol? It is quite beyond me to know how Mr. Parsons knows what went on at our committee meeting on November 2nd since he is very far from being a member. In fact I only decided to cancel the peal on November 4th, because so many of our good ringers were away. I was unable to raise even what I considered was an adequate Triples band let alone a ten-bell band. Mr. Parsons then asked if he could call a peal, so I gave him the bells never dreaming that he would consider going for Caters.

I did not compliment the band on its performance; I complimented Mr Parsons on a tremendous feat of conducting, since the people who complained to me said the ringing was so bad that they were unable to distinguish whether the bells were in Tittums or hand-stroke-home.

A committee meeting was then held at which it was decided that the peal was not of a sufficiently high standard to be recognised by the Society. It is of significance that two of the committee rang in the actual peal and that by now two other members of the band had withdrawn from the peal-by letter to Mr. Parsons. We, of course, had no objection to Mr. Parsons publishing his peal so long as no mention was made of the University Society

Mr. Parsons then managed to muster enough support-with the aid of three ringers who. quite apart from being bad ringers, have since only been once on a Sunday this term-to call an extraordinary general meeting. If objections were made, the motion passed meant that yet another meeting would have had to be called. After the unpleasant atmosphere of the one just held, at which Mr. Parsons accused the committee of attempting to bribe him, amongst other things, the objectors decided it just was not worth it ; which is why Mr. Parsons has received no written objec-tions.-Yours faithfully,

NICHOLA'S W. H. SIMON
Master, University of Bristol Society.

\section*{HE HEARD ONE HOUR}

Dear Sir, - I would like to comment on the peal rung at St. Stephen's, Bristol, on November 5th for the University Society. I heard the ringing for nearly an hour, all told, and in my opinion the striking was consistently appalling. It took several minutes' listening appalling. It took several minutes listening tinct notes and, on many occasions, there were ten bells between successive blows of the tenor In almost every change there were at least two bells striking simultaneously. At no time was I sure whether the bells were in the Tittums or the handstroke position-there being no clear roll-ups or course-ends.
I made a strong verbal complaint to John Parsons the next day about the quality of the ringing; if he does not accept this then let me formally object through the columns of "The Rormally object the

Mr. Parsons' object in ringing this peal, I believe, was to give as many of our learners as possible a chance to ring a Society peal. To embark on a ten-bell peal when seven members of the band have had little or no experience on ten bells is sheer folly, and does not justify three hours of protracted bad striking.
Finally. I would like to emphasise that this performance is in no day indicative of the general standard of Bristol University ringing. -Yours faithfully,
M. G. R. ZOBEL

Tower Secretary, U.B.S.C.R.

With very sad hearts we at Twerton heard of the passing at the early age of 35 of the Rev. Peter Howell in hospital at Taunton. While he was with us he rang as often as his duties allowed and became a very good treble and tenor ringer. His proudest ringing moment came on December 20th, 1960, when he completed his only quarter peal along with the Vicar, a nother curate, the P.C.C. secretary. the organist. a sidesman. a choirman and the Tower Master.

In 1961 we had the honour af ringing a peal for his induction at Stoke St. Mary with Thurlbear and Orchard Portman, three little villages near Taunton.

We shall not only remember him as a ringer but for all the hard work he did for us youngsters in the Youth Club and the church.

The funeral service for Mr. F. W. The bells. which were halfmuffied, were rung before the service by some of his many friends, and also, after the service, a course of Stedman Doubles was rung.
Mr. Lack. who learned to ring about (w) years ago, was a respected member of the Ely Diocesan Association. which he joined in 1921. He had given faithful service to the District and Association, being elected to the committee in 1933, representing the Association on the Central Council from 1951 to 1959, and was Deputy Ringing Master and Ringing Master for the Hunts District for many years. In 1964 he was elected president of the District. a position he held at the time of his death.
For the Ely Diocesan Association Mr. Lack rang 89 peals. Until the past few months he was a most regular attender at meetings, and many members will recall the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Lack when they visited Great Staughton for meetings or peals.
In his active life he served in many spheres, He aided his church as churchwarden, treasurer and secretary and on the Ruridecanal and Diocesan Conferences. For 35 years he was a manager and for 11 years chairman of the village school.

With great regret we record the death of Mr. W. E. (Ernie) Mathews, a member of he Cobham Surrey, band for the past 49 years, on December 11th. He was captain from 1946 to 1955 and for the past 11 years he had served as treasurer.

Ernie will long be remembered for the way he gave his help and support unstintingly to the younger members. He was an ever-present member for Sunday morning service ringing and rang at Guildford Cathedral as a memher of the Leatherhead District team. "The general feeling in this area seems to be 'Give us back the spires' on 'The Ringing World title page, and 1 agree. But congratulations on this week's cover; obviously the spires would be out of place over a picture. But could we not have them back over the front page when it consists only of a leading article? "-Cyril A. Wratten.
"I would like to congratulate you, sir, and your Editorial Committee on what must surely be the most sparkling issue of 'The Ringing World published so far. . . . It is clear to me from conversation with ringers in this area that the majority are very satisfied with the front page as it has been for the last few weeks. This now established, it was with complete delight that we unwrapped the latest issue to find a splendid photograph of 'Mancrof: " on a tinted background."-James R. Taylor, Whitchurch, Bristol.
"I wondered long and hard about the new heading of our journal until I received the issue of December 9 th with the magnificent picture of St . Peter Mancroft, Norwich, on the front. To have produced this fine photograph under the old-style heading would have been quite incongruous. and the new lettering sets of the illustration very well without drawing the eye away from it. \section*{SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD}

To complete its activities for 1966 the Marlborough Branch held an evening meeting at Mildenhall on December 3rd. This break with tradition was a popular move, as was shown by an excellent attendance, members being present from Aldbourne, Marlborough, Collingbourne Ducis, Chisledon and Collingbourne Kingston, with one visitor from Wroughton.
Ringing was under the direction of Mr. F. Read, and special emphasis was laid on the practice aspect of the meeting. Besides method ringing there were ample opportunities for learners, in rounds and call changes. The success of the venture was most encouraging and will probably lead to similar efforts in 1967.

\section*{CHRISTMAS AND THE OLD FOLK}

At Christmas time most people think of the old folk, and John Euston's thoughts go back to those veterans he met at St. Botolph's, Bishopsgate, on June 18th, when many noted personalities were present. And the ringing was good-seven with an average age of 78 with ons youngster rang a course of Cambridge Major.

There was the simple and moving service conducted by the Rev. Stanley Moore, during which he read out the names of many "departed." The Rector remembered most of those present from previous years and hoped to see them all next year. He made a special note of the 90 years difference in age between Arthur Reeve (93) and Chris Harbott, who came along with his father, Martyn, and an 85 -year-old veteran.

John Euston was not umindful of the many to whom he owed thanks, from the parson downwards, and Leonard Warner, the organist. The catering was again in the hands of Mrs. Davis and her helpers-and those who provided cars were also thanked.

During the evening George Symonds saw for the first time in the St. Margaret Society's peal book a record of a peal he conducted at Westminster over 60 years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stenson were also present, and Frank brought best wishes from Ernie Weatherby (ex-Market Drayton), who is now in California, and Dr. H. and Marjorie Whipple, of Santa Fe, New Mexico. Another traveller present was Len Stillwell. of Great Adventure Il. The passing of Edith Fletcher was linked with the presence of five members of the Ladies' Guild who rang in the Guild's first peal of Stedman Caters.
There was a comment by Harold Hazell on the many years of devoted service Arthur Barker had given to the Central Council, and in connection with the care of aged parents the services of Mrs. G. Barker and Mrs. J. Kippin were mentioned. Concluding his report. John Euston hopes to meet all again on June 24th, 1967.

\section*{BELFRY GOSSIP}

Mr. George E. Thoday, of Cambridge, rang his 100th peal in 1966 at Maldon, Essex, on November 23 rd.

The peal of Plain Bob Major rung by the Cambridge University Guild on December 1st was rung entirely by undergraduate freshers.
Mrs. M. M. Legget, of Ridgeover House, Coker Hill, West Coker, is the new hon secretary of the Ilchester Branch of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association.
With the peal of London Surprise Major at Cuckfield on November 25 th . Reginald Johnson, the Master of the Sussex County Association. completed an ambition of many years, to ring 25 peals of London. He had not rung a pea: of London since before the war. Preb H. M. Cannop Price, Rector of St . Giles', Newcastle, Staffs, has been appointed Provost of Chelmsford Cathedral. The Pro-vost-elect is very bell-minded and some of his ringers are hoping to make the journey for his installation on March 4th.
The ladies of the Southwell Diocesan Guild have scored their second peal-Minor in four methods at Babworth. Notts, on December 3 rd The previous peal was at Balderton in 1959. Congratulations !
The ringers of the peal at East Ardsley on December 3 rd would like to associate with the peal the name of Mr. Rodney Stephenson. who was unable to take part due to illness in the family, and to thank Mr. Adrian Holliday for standing in at extremely short notice.

MEARS & STAINBANK, WHITECHAPEL BELL FOUNDRY, LONDON, E. 1

\section*{LOST AFTER 5i \(\frac{1}{2}\) HURS}

The attempt for 25,088 Bob Major at Loughborough Bell Foundry on December 3rd came to grief after almost 11.060 changes and exactly five and a half hours, when one of the band sank back into the window frame and threatened to faint on the spot. Franticallyscreamed coursing orders proved useless, con fusion ensued and . . . hic finis fandi!

Although a late start was made the ringing had quickly settled down and as the hours rolled by success had seemed assured. Bellack had mastered the Indian rope-trick and most of us had gone through the pain barrier.

Tribute must be paid to Barrie Dove's competence in conducting and the band wish to acknowledge their gratitude to Joy Watkin, who was doing a first-rate job as umpire though it did seem from the posture she assumed at one stage that the peal would have to be recorded as "in memoriam"!
"All change!" Joy was drafted in to ring the treble: but a course and a half of Putney was enough to prove that Plain Bob was too much in our thoughts. We returned to our own bells and, as some consolation, scored a good, fastish 5,040 with Barrie calling Carter's for the \(n^{3}\) time.

Finally, our sincere thanks to Mr. Paul Taylor for making the attempt possible, and to Mr. and Mrs. Watkin for their handsome entertainment.
R.B.

\section*{RAVERS' FAREWELL TO THEIR TENOR KING}

On the afternoon of Saturday, November: 26th. eight members of the Society of Raving Ringers rang a peal of Plain Bob Major at St. Mark's. Swindon, as a farewell to Heather and Tony Mann, who have recently emigrated to Australia.

Tony was a graduate and founder member of the Exning School of Tenor Ringing and, with instruction from people like Pat Cannon, he soon became the "tenor king" of the Society.

It is sad to relate that the now famous East Anglian grin will no longer face you from an English tenor box or that the familiar "baarb" will be heard again on these shores. The method rung at Swindon was aptly chosen, for it was said of Tony that Plain Bob was the only method he could ring well, conduct well and look "intelligent" in when making mistakes.
Tony was also a proficient handbell ringer and while stationed at Bushey often featured in some of the Bushey band's peals. The experience he gained in this country will no doubt be of great value to Australian ringing. On behalf of the whole Society I wish Tony and Heather all the best in their new life in Australia.

\section*{GREAT YARMOUTH'S SCOUT AND GUIDE RINGERS}

Two 15-year-old Scouts (8th Great Yarmouth), learner members of the St. Nicholas' Company at Great Yarmouth, Roger Newstead and David Wright, were recently examined by Mr. E. R. Goate, of Beccles, and qualified for their bellringer's badge. It is believed they are the first in the immediate locality to do this although Angela McBride of the some Company received her Guide's badge some time ago, prior to gaining her Queen's Guide Badge.

80 YEARS A RINGER

That grand old man of Ipswich, Mr. George E. Symonds, of 57, Mornington Avenue, has this month completed 80 years as a ringer.

It was in December. 1886, that he started ringing on the tiny five at Brome, Suffolk (tenor 7 cwt .), and from this humble beginning worked up to calling peals in 14 different methods of Maximus and three of Cinques. His total of peals rung in the last century was 27, of which he conducted 16, including one silent. The first Royal occasion for which he rang was Queen Victoria's first jubilee, in 1887.
George has also a very good record as a chorister, joining the choir a ycar ol two before he started ringing, but his service had not been continuous. However, he finished as a chorister with over 40 years' service in an Ipswich church under six vicars and the same number of organists.

Mr. Symonds send his congratulations to all long-serving Church workers.

\section*{200 PEALS ON 12 BELLS}

Mr. Edgar C. Shepherd rang his 20nth peal on 12 bells at Evesham on December 3rd. He rang his first at St. Martin's. Birmingham. A. years ago and the band included some of the fine old Birmingham ringers. Standing in were Tom Russam, James George, John Neal, Samuel Grove and, of course, Albert Walker. Ernest Morris rang the treble and Jim Shepherd (from Swindon) drummed. Edgar writes:
"We finished at 9.50 p.m., and because of the state of the licensing laws at that time there was a glorious scuttle down the stairs !" His list is as follows:

Cinques. - Stedmar 138, Grandsire 2. Erin 1

Maximus-Cambridge 40, Yorkshire 9, New Cambridge 1, Lincolnshire 2, Lindsey 1. Prittlewell 1, Solihull 1, Pontefract 1, Pudsey 2, Spliced (cond. 2) 1.

\section*{DONATED BY JOHN TAYLOR & CO, LOUGHBOROUGH, LEICESTERSHIRE}

"OUR " "RINGING WORLD"
"World," not "ust country, not just yours or mine, "ours," yours and mine. Thank you, our "Ringing World" Committee, for your bold efforts in providing the above with a " new suit"-several, in fact-for our journal a very specialised journal Last week's was very good; this week's (December 9th), of glorious and happy memories, is smashing. And in any case don't give it drainpipe trousers, Or mini-skirts, but the latter long enough to cover the subject but short enough to be interesting.

There seems to be just a few who, no matter what is done for them (and you know well enough) will never be satisfied -so why bother about them?
It is high time that we settled down, accepted and appreciated what is being done for us.
They want. or should do, to listen to a parody on Keith Stolls signature tune to "Time for Old Time Dancing," with apologies to and acknowledgment of and appreciation for.
\end{abstract}

\section*{TIME FOR OLD TIME}

Time for old time "Ringing " in the New Regime,
We'll struggle through a "peal " or two with " sallies" hand in hand.
A "tour" of glamour in the grand old manner,
" Ring " a while in old time style and listen to "the bells";
"A peal" and " a touch " and " a quarter" or two,
"Old and new methods" we know will please you.
"A peal of good Stedman" we know you'll adore,
"Plain Bob and Grandsire" and come back for more;
"Change" with your ladies, "dodge" with your Loo.
There"s "quarters " for everyone, "touches" for you;
Will carry you back to the "ringing" romance,
So "ring" all good "methods," "That s all " and then "Stand."

YOUNG BAT-ER.
Crewe.

\section*{GUESSING THE PEALS, CHANGES AND RINGERS}

The result is announced of a novel competition organised by the North Notts District of the Southwell Diocesan Guild for the benefit of the Diocesan Bell Repair Fund. Competitors were required to forecast the number of peals. the number of different ringers and the number of changes in the peals rung for the Guild during the three-month period from August to October, counting all peals published in "The Ringing World " by December 2nd.
The correct figures were most closely approached by Mr. S. Walklate of Derby- 28 peals, 90 ringers, 141,295 changes. Mr. Walklate, who bought the ticket for 6 d . when with the Derby Cathedral team at the Oswy Street contest in Retford recently, has thus received the prize of \(£ 10\).
The total proceeds of the competition were \(£ 22\).

The Vicar (the Rev. J. H. A. Charles) conducted the service and an excellent tea was provided in the Church House by the local company and their wives. Mr. C. W. Powell presided at the business meeting and tributes were paid to two past members-Messrs. W. J. Bailey (Beaminster) and F. Norris (Burton Bradstock). The annual reports and accounts were presented by Mr. J. Davis and adopted with thanks for his services Officers elected were: Chairman, C. W. Powell: vice-chairman, Rev. O. L. Willmott: hon. secretary and treasurer, J. Davis; committee, T. T. Barrett, D. Ellery; Ringing Masters, D. Bishop, H. Keeley and F. Knight. Lists of meetings and practice meetings were adopted subject to confirmation and the next practice meeting is at Bradpole on Jan. 10th.

Under any other business the new headin: of "The Ringing World "was discussed. The alteration was regretted and a request made 10 return to :he original design

As relief from the monotony 2534 of the standard six-scores of S 4325 Grandsire the blocks of 240 changes S 4325 provide useful material. One of S 5243 the best and most popular is S 3452 Ernest Morris' arrangement, which - 5234 is usually rung starting with three S 4352 singles. \section*{THE PROFESSOR}

IT BEING a long time since the Exercise had had the benefit of the Professor's opinions and comments, I visited him recently so that any erudite extracts might be passed on to a grateful. public.

After the usual preliminaries he meandered (metaphorically) around the whole gamut of what he called "current campanological claptrap."
He was, it appears, not entirely dissatisfied with the recent "face-lift" of "The Ringing World." although somewhat sad 10 see the last of the "residual relic of Victoriana" on the front page. He confessed. however, that in its new guise of Spartan nakedness the format "grew on him". whilst at the same time reminding him. somewhat uneasily, of the heading of the financial section of a popular newspaper which he refrained from mentioning "for reasons of national security."
What had surprised him. he maintained. was the comparative mildness of the change. After the "fanfares and multitudinous discussions and dissertations" he had expected at least a colour section with strip cartoons, crossword puzzles and the like. If suspected a bit of Professorish sarcasm here.) The final result was something of an anticlimax. There was nothing wrong with the old paper. he said. that a little thought and a few good articles could not cure.
(I argued with him here, as nothing stifles discussion so quickly as agreement.)
He had noticed, with regret. the demise of the College of Campanology. In the few years that it had existed it had served a useful purpose. and although he, the Professor, had heen at times somewhat critical. not to mention sceptical. of the institution. he was always pleased to see evidence of individuality and initiative in an era in which both were heing strangled. The College had. among other things. drawn attention to. and devised, a system of leaching bell-handling to beginners. and its most recent puhlication was. he understood. a useful contribution to ringing literature.

At this point. with an arr of anticipation and expectancy that must have been displayed in uncovering Tutankhamen's tomb. he revealed a tape-recorder which had heen buried under a collection of bric-a-hrac on a sidehnard in the corner. This surprised me, as I was aware of his abhorrence of what he was pleased to term "modern diaholical contraptions." and indeed his childlike helplessness with any mechanical device. I firmly helieve he allowed his beard to grou hecause of his inability 10 insert a blade into a safety razor without placing attachment of finger to hand in jeopardy. He helieves that a cultured mind is incompatible with technical aptitude. and regards me as an insensitive moron because of my dexterity with a screudriver.

After I had helped him to unravel the tape which had become entangled with a set of handbells he kept on the sideboard. we managed to get the machine working and the sound of church bells came forth: there were eight and they were ringing Grandsire Triples. There were street noises, so that the recording had evidently been made in the open. Suddenly voices. Apparently the Professor had been doing a B.B.C.!
Professor: "How many bells do you think are being rung?" Answer (after a long pause): "Fourteen \({ }^{\text {" " }}\)
P.: "No, there are eight."
A.: "Sounds to be more."

\section*{MOVES AROUND}
P.: "Do you like the sound of bells?"
A.: "Oh, they're all right, yknow, so long as they don't waken me up of a Sunday morning, ykoow. They don't play no tunes, do they?"
P.: "No, they ring changes."
A.: "I wish they d play tunes."
P.: "Have you ever heard of Grandsire Triples?"
A. : "No, who's he?"
P.: "ll's not a he, it's a system of ringing changes A sort of arrangement of permutations."
A. "Oh aye, like the pools."
P.: "Have you ever actually seen bells being rung?"
A. "Yes; my wife's half-bruther's uncle's a ringer. I've bin with him."
P.: "Oh. indeed: and where does he ring?"
A. ". St. Luke's in Crossgate."
P.: ..Im not familiar with the church: how many bells are there?
A.: "Two. The wife's half-hrother's Uncle Bill rings em both at once: one with his hands and the other with his fect.

After this startling revelation the interview finished. It was followed by a succession of similar recordings ranging from Doubles to Maximus. Nost of these recordings were accompanied by the interview. The Professor shut off the machine

What," I asked. "do you hope to gain by these interviews?"
"Quite a lot. I have spread my net far and wide and am at the moment in the process of tahulating and classifying the information I have gained. You will have noticed in the short time you have been listening that most of the interviewers have little idea of the number of bells being rung. many have little or no notion of the mechanics of the actual ringing, others would like the bells in play tunes. Many like to hear the bells, others are indifferent. whilst a minority are actually opposed to bellringing."

It is natural." he continued. "that in small villages and isolated communities the residents should be familiar with the local ringers. often knowing each one hy name. Often they are. to a surprising extent, quite knowledgeable with regard to change ringing itself. In towns the people interviewed often showed abysmal ignorance. 1 did. however, find one or two exceptions. Iisten to this recording made in quite a large town."

He again switched on the tape-recorder. Bob Major was heing rung. partially drowned by much traffic noise. Voices
P.: "Could you tell me how many bells you think are being rung.'
A. : "I should sas eight."
P.: "And you would he right. Do you like the sound of hells?" A.: "Yes. I am very fond of them.
P. "Goed! Have you ever heard of Grandsire Triples?"
A. : "Er-les. Inn'i it certain changes rung on seven bells?" P.: "Excellent! Perhaps you have relatives who are ringers?"
A.: "No."
P.: "I don't suppose you have any idea what the bells are ringing now?
A.: "It sounds like Bob Major."
P.: "Amazing!'"
A.: "Not really. I'm the head-ringer here and that's what they were ringing when I came down from the tower a few moments ago!"

The Professor will have his little joke.

\section*{YORKSHIRE SCHOOL MA'AM TELLS HER METHOD}

\author{
By Margaret E. Wilkinson

SOUTHAMPTON is a long way from Yorkshire. Perhaps Mr. D. C. Jackson does not realise many of us would feel it presumptuous to try to add anything to Mr . Chaddock's knowledge and experience. However, I will mention a few points I have found useful and ask Norman's forgiveness if he knew then all before I saw a bell rope.
For about ten years I have been teaching girls from Queen Margaret's School to ring the 13 cwt. eight at Escrick. Most of the time I have no more help than can be given by the senior girls who are iust managing indifferent rounds. I use the back six open and keep the two trebles silenced most of the time. Each summer, of course, the seniors leave school and in the autumn there may be 20 beginners again. We have rather less than one hour per week, and alternate Sunday ringing for Evensong.
I have tried most methods of teaching. The important thing to remember is that no two pupils are alike: one must always be seeking new ways of explaining or trying other methods if the pupils do not respond. On the whole I find the following best:-
1. Show them the bells and explain how they work.
2. To the whole group of beginners, demonstrate the ringing of a bell and explain every detail-position of feet, body, balance of body, use of weight of shoulders (more necessary for girls than boys), arms, wrists. hands and grip. The most difficult part in this demonstrating is getting them to watch one"s hands the whole time insteading of looking one in the face!

Teach backstroke, usually a dozen pulls or 4. Teach handstroke. First teach them when to let go. I take the tail end in my left hand and grip the sally with my right at approximately the right height for the pupil. I then make her grasp my hand so that when I open my fingers she must let go. ton. After two or three pulls like this I say \(\because\) Now catch it yourself. Another dozen or so pulls should be sufficient.

Put the strokes together. Give the pupil the tail and start as in (3), but instruct: "As -oon as you feel you can do it, start catching.

Take no notice of my hand. I am keeping out of your way." Usually by the third pull they will catch, untidily at first, but after a time or two they are ringing the bell with, of course, the instructor keeping control.

This ( 3,4 and 5) will have taken about five minutes, longer than I can give each pupil each week.
As soon as I judge it to be safe they may practise with one of the senior girls supervising. It is impressed on everyone that if a stay is broken at this stage it is the instructor's fault, not the pupil's. It seldom happens.
I feel it is very important that the instructor should watch the rope so keenly that every error is corrected before its result appears. but yet not touch the rope unless an error is made.
1 take the beginners, a car load at a time, to York Minster on Sunday mornings to see the ringing and the bells. Then I take them to my home for colfee and teach them a little ahout change singing and usually get them plain hunting on six handbells. Most of them leave school before going beyond plain hunt on six tower bells. A few have rung 720 Bob Minor. York Minster ringers give me what help they can, but the girls' fime is when most people are at work, so this is confined to Sundays.

\section*{VARIOUS TIPS AND TRICKS}

Dropping the bell off balance so that the rope goes slack is almos: universal. If the pupil rides, tell her to keep contact with the bell as with the horse's mouth. Or tell her not to pull at all above her head, only below her waist level. Make sure your own pull on the other stroke is sufficient to bring the bell the other stance.

Most of the time the instructor's hand, when needed, should be on the pupil's hand rather than the rope, so that the pupil feels what is needed

I like to teach raising a bell at an earlv stage, and lowering soon after; they are safer when they can do this.

As a precaution I tell them if they are in trouble and no one is free to he!p, just to step back and keep hold of the tail end. I demonstrate this.

Give an exercise in lifting the bell up to balance and back to set several times, just feeling its weight.

Use the two silenced bells for following as though ringing rounds while actually more advanced work is being done on the other six. This is nearly as good as ringing rounds.
Competition in consecutive setting both at hand and back.
Liken the use of body weight to rowing a boat.

To cure pushing the rope forward with straight arms, make them lift a chair at arms length and compare that with lifting it under the arm.
On rare occasions when I just have one or two pupils for an extra ten minutes, I make them follow me as in rounds, but I count aloud and vary the speed as though ringing changes.

I keep a mirror in the ringing chamber. I can say: "You are doing so-and-so, take the mirror and get it right."

Try and get them to watch critically.
Use the tenor to demonstrate the difference between checking and lifting and what happens if you do one without the other.
Always show the contrast; copy the pupil's fault and show the difference between that and what is required.

Always explain the reason, and danger if applicable. Never allow a swinging rope or moving feet.
If I have a beginner at the Minster the first stage will take longer because of the conditions. but then it become a more normal teaching situation.

Mr. Michael King, in his reply to Mr. Jackson, raises the question of standards. Let no one suppose I am satisfied with our efforts on Sunday evenings, although the Rector comes up almost every time and tells us how nice it sounds. We sre doing our best and trying to improve. Without us the bells would be silent This is very different from claiming to have achieved a peal or quarter peal which was not. in fact, of acceptable standard.

We were all heginners once.
I sometimes wish some experienced ringers in the teaching profession could find it suitable to take appointments at Queen Margarer's School.

\section*{BATH AND WELLS ASSOCIATION}

\section*{Chew Branch}

The annual meeting of the Chew Branch was held on December 3 rd at Wraxall (8). In the athence of the Rector the service was conducted hy the Rev. W. H. Young, from Fuiland, and afterwards about 50 members and friends, together with visitors from Axhridge and Bath, enjoyed tea at the Rectory. In his annual report, the secretary. Mr. D. G. Yeo. reported a membership of 170 plus four honorary and three associate members. Subscriptions were still expected from a further six towsers. who were invariably late in paying up.

Officers elected were as follows: Chairman and Ringing Master. H. W. Knight: vicechairmen. C. Bishop. J. Brain and L. Derrick: secretary and treasurer, D. G. Yeo; reporter, J. Brain.

Meetings were fixed. subject to permission, as follows: Quarterly (March), L.ong Ashton: practice meeting: Easton-in-Gordano (Januiry). Chew Stoke (f ebruary). The 1967 wriking competition will probably be held at Clapton-in-Gordano in May. Nine new members were elected, five from Chew Magna. one from Long Ashton and three from Portishead. Mr. K. Lewis, of Backwell, was re-elected.
Mr. J, Gilbert. of Long Ashion, was nominuted by the Branch to serve as general secretary in place of Mr. G. Salmon, who was retiring at Easter. 1967 . Mr. Gilbert also anked for members reactions to an organised course of instruction, either for a week-end or for a day or half-day only, similar to those already held by various other Associations. Response was lukewarm, and from the spirited discussion that followed it was obvious that members' interests lay first and foremost in increasing the scope of metheds rung at meetings. Mr. Lee pointed out that a monthly Surprise practice was held at selected towers in the Deanery on the first Wednesday of each month, to which all were welcome.
After the usual votes of thanks, ringing continued at the Parish Church until shortly before 9 p.m.

\section*{Ilminster Branch}

The annual general meeting of the llchester Branch took place on December 3rd at Mara tock. Somerset.

Ringing took place from 3 p.m. on the lovely 25 cwt. eight at the Parish Church of All Saints and varied from rounds to Kent Treble Bob and Cambridge Surprise Major. The service at \(4.30 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}\). was conducted by the Rev. C. Norris. who regretted the absence of the Vicar (the Rev. J. M. Cartwright). The organist was Mr. Alan Richards. Between 50 and 60 sat down to the excellent tea provided by the ladies.
It was with regret that members heard Mr. Roger Fox resign from the post of hon. secretary, and a "big hand " was given in recognition of his services in the past. A vote of thanks was passed to all retiring officials and also to the Martock members for theis hospitality.

Officials elected for 1967 were as follows: Chilirman. the Rev. C. J. B. Marshall, Long Sutton; vice-chairman, the Rev. J. M. Cartwright and Mr. T. J. Setter; Diocesan representative, Mr. Roger Fox ; Ringing Master, Mr. W. E. Turner, Hardington Mandeville (Tel. West Coker 359); Assistant Ringing Master. Mr. H. Gaylard: hon. secretary, Mrs. M. M. Legget. Ridgeover House. Coker Hill, West Coker (Tel. West Coker 208).

It was decided to carry on with the monthly practices at towers in the Branch in rotation as this arrangement had proved quite successful and the number of members had increased. A plea for help came from more than one fower where the problem was that they had " competent rounds and call change ringers and others willing to learn," but "how do they learn method ringing? "' It was suggested that method ringers willing to do so should form a group to go to any tower wanting them and try to insiruct as far as they were able. This situation seems fairly common, and any help would be welcome
After the meeting ringing was resumed until 9 p.m.

\section*{HERTS COUNTY ASSOCIATION}

\section*{St. Albans District}

More than 40 ringers with guests and friends assembled for the annual dinner of the St . Albans District at St. Michael's Manor Hotel, St. Albans, on December 3rd An excellent turkey meal provided a most satisfactory start to the proceedings. The company, mellowed with good food, stood to drink the loyal toast, which was proposed by Mr. R. D. R. Brown, District secretary, who was also a very capable toastmaster.
Mr. R. W. M. Clouston then showed, by stating some rather disturbing statistics, that the Church was not in as strong a position as it would like to be. He urged ringers to give all the support that they could and called for everyone to rise and toast "The Church."
The Rev. D. G. Harper of St. Michael's, St. Albans, replied in a somewhat lighthearted vein. Three arguments, he thought, could be put forward to show that ringing is a good thing: it gives pleasure and friendship to ringers, it pleases most non-ringers and it also pleases the Vicar. He thanked the District for inviting both himself and his wite District for inviting both himself and his and also for its service to the Church.
A toast to "The Hertford County Association" was proposed by Mr. A. P. Cannon, introduced as "Tenor King," corrected by heckling visitors to "Ex-Tenor King.". In his own inimitable style he presented a history of the Association as detailed, if not more so, than any known by the members present. He also raised several points concerning its more recent activities, which ranged from peal ringing to the less glamorous task of teaching learners.
Mr. K. R. Dunstan, the president, said but a few words in reply, the reason being that he had been asked 10 propose the very toast that had just been drunk! This was a most unfortunate error, which set him at a delinite disadvantage.

A final toast, to "The Visitors." came from Mrs. L. Coburn, who echoed the words of Mr. Harper by emphasising the camaraderie that exists among ringers.

\section*{KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION Rochester District}

Over 60 members attended the Rochester Branch meeting on December 3rd at Stockhury. where under the watchful care of Miss J. Hayward, District Ringing Master, various Doubles methods were rung on the five bells (tenor 15 cwt in F ).
The Rev. S. M. Evans, Vicar of Bredgar, conducted the ringers' service and the collec tion was devoted to the Bredgar Bcll Fund. The excellent tea was kindly given by Stock: bury ringers. An announcement was made by Mr. L. Mitchell concerning the rehanging of Newingion bells and the opening of a fund for this purpose. Mr. T. Barton. District secretary, proposed the vote of thanks.

\section*{HIS FIRST GRANTLEY HALL COURSE}

Attending the seventh Grantley Hall weekend bellringing course was Mr. H. N. Thompson, a retired schoolmaster and a newcomer to ringing. He writes that be was urged to intrude on the course by the thought of the three silent bells in his own parish church and the almost silent bells up Dales.
" In my freshness to this study 1 was very much on the fringe of a firmly coherent body of students, all so resolute in learning and practice- 8 a.m. was not too early or 11 p.m. too late.

It came as a shock to me that of the 38 on the course 1 could not, at first, tell who were ringers and who were not-guessed one young lady was accompanying someone on the course, to find her ringing competently amongst the most advanced. and the "schoolgirl" who was never benind when volunteers for a new experience or a difficult cask were called fo:And one seemingly elderly lady who stepped into the thick of the learning and ringing duing the practical session in the tower. Ones perception needs training as well as one's ringing.
One cannot but speak with delight and profit of the patient instruction on mental and physical techniques and of minute and detailed exploration on muted bells, leading to correct and competent ringing.
It is delightful to recall the detailed and profound explanations Mr. Frederick Sharpe was able to give from personal acquaintance of the founding and tuning of bells and the theory behind all this and his wonderful collection of bells.
As I held on to the elementary fringe of the course, 1 saw all too little of Mr. N. Chaddock, but appreciated how alert he was to every detail of organisation. I was absorbed by Mr. W, F. Moreton's facility in making bell control more easy to grasp and his patience when one was "slow on the uptake.
Truly 1 gained from this week-end course more than 1 had dared to anticipate, and the experience among ringers has been a joy, which, by the way. was the opinion expressed which, by the Way. Was the opinion expressed by the Lace Makers' course running side by by the Lace Makers' side with the ringers'.

The memorial commemorating those memhers of the Essex Association who fell in World War II was dedicated in Chelmsford Cathedral at Choral Evensong on November 29th. About 45 ringers and friends attended the service, which was conducted by Canon Hewitt of Chelmsford Cathedral. The guest choir came from St. Laurence's, Barkingside. After tea in the Girls' Friendly Society Hall, Mr. R. C. Heazel, Master of the Association, thanked Mr. and Mrs. R, J. \section*{DODD AND DODDS COMBINE}

Dear Sir.-At last we've done it! We've proved we are two different people! We really blame ourselves for the start of it. Geofirey K. called the first peal of Minimus and Geoffrey (.S) wrote an article about the whole business. Thareafter, confusion reigned. Geoffrey K . found he was supposed to be a handbell ringer and occasional composer, and Geoffrey (. S) was supposed to ring many odd Doubles methods in peals-and we rang in Hampfordshire."
We each chose our awn witnesses to prove our independent existences. Geoffrey (. S) gathered his brother (dug out of ringing retirement for the occasion), his wife and his daughter: Geoffrey K . brought a second to his surname. The place chosen was neutral ground. the delightful church at Cranford, Middilesex. Geoffrey (.S) was given first say, for the first three and a half \(720^{\circ}\);, when Geoffrey K. took over the argument for the remainder.

Everything went so well that we are now thinking of trving for a Major peal together You see. Geoffrey has a daughter, aged tell, who is learning to ring; each of us has. So it is perfectly clear that we must have them both in with us-if only to clear up the confusion that is bound to arise. Yours sincerely,

GEOFFREY DODDS,
GEOFFREY K. DODD.

\section*{HOAX-AN EXAMPLE OF NASTINESS}

Dear Sir.-I should like to protest in the strongest possible terms against the recent hoax peals that have appeared in "The Ringing World." It is a great pity that whoever is responsible has nothing better to do than make a public display of his (or her) malicious and mean sense of humour. A greai deal of ill-feeling and suspicion has already been created hy that which has already appeared in print, and quite withour reason or necessity.
Sufficient bad feelings already exist in some quarters, and when people are trying to resolve their differences amicably the sort of abomination just published hardly makes for ar improvement in the situation. Most ringing "politics" seem to come under the heading of "dirty linen," and the present examples are typical. This sort of nastiness in the columns of "The Ringing World" not only goes down very, badly and gives the wrong impression of ringing as a whole to newcomers to the Enging as a whole to newcomers to the Exercise who may only be recent subscribers to .- The Ringing World, but it also is totally unnecessary. Keep your petty little squabbles and differences out of "The Ringing World" and either keep quiet altogether or else at least keep them confined to the area and people concerned.-Yours faithfully,

ROBERT E. HARDY.
Elstree, Herts.

\section*{A EEW WORDS OF APPRECIATION}

Dear Sir,-lt is clear to me from conversation with ringers in this area that the majority are very satisfied with the new front page as it has been for the last few weeks. This now established, it was with complete delight that we unwrapped the latest issue to find a splendid photograph of "Mancroft" on a tinted background. The new heading was just right in this setting. whilst the old one could never have been. Let us hope you will in future see fit to place photographs of topical interest on the front page as well as some more of the purely decorative typa.

The variety of interest of the contents of this week's issue was so great that tower captains should have little difficulty in persuading more of their learners to become subscribers, using it as a sample. To maintain this standard you will need many more contributions of letters and articles than have been coming in lately. It would he a good idea to publish an eye-catching appeal for more copy ats a regular feature.

Finally, although I support the general nature of the changes you have made recently, I suggest that the committee ought to reconsider the method of presentation of the peals. My own view is that the layout is tasteless and untidy. Alphabetical classification by Associations is the wrong way to do it: any other way would be better, provided that it had a logical basis. The most sensible way to classify is firstly by the number of bells changing, i.e. Maximus, Cinques, Royal, Caters, Major, Triples, Minor, Doubles, Minimus. with the handbell peals included with the tower bell peals; and then to subclassify alphabetically by Associations.

To readers who disagree with the above assertion I point out this weel's example, the recent record peal of Stedman Cinques. Effectively camouflaged by being sandwiched between peals of Doubles and Bob Major, how would anyone find it who did not know which Association it was rung for?-Yours faithfully.

JAMES R. TAYLOR.
Whitchurch, Bristol.
Note.-Other readers have shared Mr. Taylor's views on the printing of peals. particu. larly St. Martin's Guild. who feel that their many 12-bell peals should have greater prominence. If it is the wish of readers to devote more space to peals we will revert to it.-Ed.

\section*{GOOD SHOW, GIRLS}

Dear Sir,-Quite a long showing of girl ringers in action appeared in the B B C s East Anglian News, "Look East," on Wednesday. Decemher 7th, featuring one of the Whittlesey (Cambs.) towers, I think St. Mary's.
The eight bells (tenor 18 cwt ) were being rung, and the B.B.C.'s interviewer had a conversation with three of the girls while they were ringing. Two of them were on the lighter bells, but the other, Lesley, was on the tenor.

I think all three did well to answer questions while ringing-especially Lesley, who was \(\because\) on view ": a long time- and 1 would offer congratulations to them for the show they gave.

The item was to have been included in the news of December 6th but had to be postponed a day because time had run out.-Yours sincerely,

CLAUDE RUSH.

COME TO BEVERLEY, MR, CORBY:
Dear Sir, - Thank goodness for the "stirrers" of the Exercise! Apathy has always been the worst enemy of progress in any field. and it was with considerable delight that 1 read the leading article in which Philip Corby resumed his attack on our poor conduct and ringing standards.
Splendid, Mr. Corby! I agree with nearly all you say, bu! I do feel that you must have been just a little unlucky in your choice of ringing meetings. Venture into Yorkshire, sir. and visit a meeting of the Beverley and District Society. I could guarantee you courses of Surprise containing one or two comparative novices, and no unusually elevated noses: Grandsire Triples, in which the stay-benders are kept to a minimum, and expertly advised: and perhaps cven a good tea and a (usually') brief and efficiently-run business meeting.
But you hit the nail squarely on its obvious head when you say that the formation of territorial Associations in many cases brought ringers from neighbouring towers together lor the first time. Sudly, the Association meetings temain all too often the only occasions when such bands come together, a sign that they are not only unwilling to help their neighbours. but that they also have little idea of how to help themselves. For instance. I have been doing a little research, armed with map and "Dove" on an area not very far from Sevenoaks. I found three towers, all on the same four-mile stretch of main road, and all having the same practice night, if - Dove " is to be believed. Within a ten-mile radius there were seven towers with the same practice night. while two weekday evenings remained completely unused. Does this encourage intertower assistance?

1 also recently saw in "The Ringing World " that seven Districts of the Gloucester and Bristol Association were to hold meetings on the same day, thus losing, presumably, any support that they might have gained from border-line members of other Districts.
Coming as 1 do from an area in which some of us are prepared to travel nearly 20 miles and back for a practice night, or 80 for a meeting, this appears to me to be a very serious state of affairs. If such towers as I have mentioned were prepared to pool their time and resources, your university-type practices (and what a fine idea they could prove. Mr Corby!) might take place two or three times each week.
May we ask "The Ringing World " to make a first step? We hear complaints that practice nights are not well enough publicised. Why not encourage tower secretaries to pubish changes as soon as they occur? Even keeping "Dove" up to date is at present a haphazard job; let us know, at least, where and when our help might be used.
Let us see a little action in all these matters We could serve each other much better thas we do at oresent.-Yours faithfully.

CHRISTOPHER J. EASTON:

\section*{MR. GEOFFREY K. DODD'S FEAT}

Dear Sir, We have recently read in "The Ringing World" of many feats and records. In your edition of February th a feat in the peal of Pink's Doubles at Longparish. Hampshire, on Wednesday. November 23 rd . 1966, appears to have passed unnoticed.
1 do not know of the placings of the ropes in this church but I note that Mr. Geoffrey K. Dodd not only conducted the peal but also rang the second and the fifth.-Youss faithfully,

Charney Bassett. Berks.
Note-The copy was published as sub-mitted.-Ed.

\section*{THE CHANGE IN 20 YEARS}

Dear Sir. - There are several things in Mr. Corby's leading article in "The Ringing World " of December and which require furher comment.
He may well be correct in saying that ringers today seem to be smug, comfortable. overfed and too easily satisfied-but this is not a symptom peculiar to ringers and ringing organisations. The least that can be said in thei defence is that in their youth they did at ieast enliven the Exercise with their enthusiasm. The years immediately following the last war produced a large number of young and enthusiastic ringers. four years of wartime silence meant that everyone conld start from "scratch." Not all of them "stayed the course" but this initial burst of enthusiasm has carried many of them on for 20 years to become the backbone of our Guilds and Associations.
Today we have an entirely different situaioo. The young person being taught to ring is presented with a very clearly detined structure. His instructor will probably be one of the good and faithful majority. whose own ability does not go beyond the occasional course of Cambridge, who has been somewhat torgotten by the younger ringers in their pursuit of more intricate methods. We cannot expect he will retain all his old enthusiasm, the ringing meeting has become his main interest outside his own tower. Like Mr. Corby. I have serious doubts that our present system of ringing meetings is the best than can be devised, simply because the enthusiasm has gone out of them. Most of the ringing at meetings seems to have little more purpose than the idle chatter that goes on far too long between the touches. If this situation is allowed to further deteriorate it will be worse than useless to take a beginner io a Branch meeting and, in time. this will defeat all the purposes of our Guilds and Associations.
There is still enthusiasm in the Exercise: for evidence of this has any one issue of "The Ringing World" before that of December rh been able to report a peal of Spliced Surprise Major in 120 methods and a record peal of 15.699 Stedman Cinques? Somehow we must find a way to bring the enthusiasm of the few back into the activities of the many.

One point of disagreement I have with Mr. Corby, and that his unnecessary remarks of the efforts of those people who provide tea at ringing meetings. How do the people in a small country village cope with those who will not send in their names for tea? The obvious answer is to let them go without, but. Christian charitv being what it is, one of the good ladies will find a loaf from somewhere, and the local tower captain will have to go without sponge sandwich for Sunday ea. More elaborate arrangements will have to exclude those who just "turn up."
This criticism apart. there is much good sense in Mr. Corby's arricle. and we will await bis comments on the Central Council !-Yours sincerely.
E. G. ORLAND.

Gayton Rectory. Northampton.

\section*{COMPLAINT OVER DRAYTON BELIS}

Dear Sir.-I have read with interest the recent correspondence regarding the length of present-day peals and also the inconvenience it causes to local inhabitants and business houses of many towns where the bells are not sufficiently shuttered

To show that this is not also a recent problem I enclose an extract from "Highways and Byways in Berkshire " by Frederick L. Griggs written and published during 19016 , and con cerning the delightful bells at Drayton. Berkshire. I trust that this may be of interest to your readers.- Yours faithfully.

\section*{" BELLS. BELLS. BELLS}
"Also Drayton possesses an undoubtedly loud peal of eight bells on which according to records preserved under the touer astonishing campanological exploits, have been achieved. But if the truth may be rold, active campanology is not always an unmixed delight to the passive audience. There was a certain farmer in Wales who. interrogated on the subject of an absentee landlord. observed that he had no objection to absentecism in moderation. I would rather see hin in his riding boots than in his slippers.' was his homely way of putting it. In the like manner, a peal of bells capable of "astonishing cam panological exploits: which are not suffered panological exploits, which are not suffererd off. They charm the occasional visitor, but to the constant resident four hours of then at a stretch on a summer evening that might have been quiet are a weariness of the flesh. The sweet church bell 'is in its right place when it "sounds over hill and dell." but clanging and crashing at short range for hours together, it distinctly palls even on the ear ol the robust while to those who have headaches it appears to cause unmitigated agony. Moreit apper. lest I be accused of airing an individual fad. be it added that when the campanological professors go on tour to neighbouring villages as happily they do on occasions. similar opinions are expressed there. In fact bellringing seems really to appeal. like many other noises, principally to those who cause this din.

Note.-Readers will remember that Drayton was the Rev. E. E. Robinson's tower. the scene of many long length exploits.-Ed.

\section*{GEOFF'S GLOUCESTER GRAB-III}

THE Romans had a ford across the milewide River Severn bui we were able 10 make use of that beautiful piece of engineering. the new Severn Bridge. On October 29h. a fresh autumn day, a convoy of cars carrying 23 ringers from Frampton Cotterell, Alveston, Westerleigh. Churchill. Bridswater, Cossington. Panteg, Rumney. St. Werburgh, Bristol and Taunton set out to enjoy some of the bells on both sides of the river between the bridge and Gloucester. It was interesting o notice the - local. bellfounders, Evans of Chepstow and Rudhall of Gloucester, although some Evans bells have been trallsported across the Severn by boat.
Lydney (8) was a good beginning. then to Awre (a nice six). where were were mistaken for a wedding party. On discovering her mistake, the lady siald: "Oh well, I need not cut the grass till next week, then.

After lunch. on to Littledean (a snappy six but with uncomfortably long ropes). Here we ventured off the standard methods for a course of London. Blaisdon was next (a light six which needed a surprising amount of pulling), and methods up to Cambridge were successfully brought round. Our last stop before tea was at Minsterworth: brand new opes provided a challenge to the ringers but the bells went well and sounded good outside.
So to tea in Gloucester. It was a pity that it was dark at this time, as we were retracing our path within sight of the earlier towers, hut on the opposite side of the meandering river. The chancel ring at Hempsted was rather hard to hear, hut we managed touches of Single Oxford. Little Bob and Stedmin Doubles, and also rang at Hardwicke (another nice six) where Double Oxford was included.
The last church was at Arlingham. again miles off the beaten track: it is reputed to have a ghost but we saw nothing.
Oar thanks to incumbents and tower capains and to Geoff Marchant for organising such a good outing.

\section*{Daventry Ringers Revisit Cotswolds}
so impressed were the ringers at the Chur=h of the Holy Cross. Daventry, by their outing to the Cotswolds on October Ist that a second outing was arranged before fog and frost made travel difficult. This took place on November 19th and just after midday two carloads of ringers left for Woodstock. On arrival we were joined by friends from South:m, and the tells were rung to Grandsire, Stedman and Cambridge.
The next tower was at Witncy, and as the route lay through Bladon. opportunity was taken by the writer and his passengers to visit the churchyard and the grave of Sir Winston Churchil!. The only sound here was that of the wind in the trees and the spade of the local sexton planting roses. We were joined at Witney by Mr. and Mrs. Speed and family, and rounds. Grandsire. Plain Bob and Superlative wers rung on the pleasant eight.
The highlight of the day was at the tower previously visited by the writer. Messrs. White have, as usual, done a very fine job on the seventh and tenor, and some excellent : inging was enjoyed on the fine bells, including a course of London. At Faringdon, where Mr. Price awaited us. a first-class rise followed by an excellent louch of Stedman was voted the best ringing of the day. The bells are a nice musical Taylor eight.
Tea followed at a local cafe before procecding to l.cchlade. The bells here. recentiy rehung, are an casy-going six for their weight Our las: cower was at Burford. where we arrived strictly on time to find Mr. Dixon awaiting us. It was here in 1950 on the occasion of the rededication of the bells that the writer recollects the then Bishop of Dorchester, during tea, announced the winner of the Grand National, run that day. The ringing included a nice musical touch of Stedman called by Mr. Dixon.
Our thanks are due to all the clergy and to those who met us.

\section*{WAR VETERAN OF THE CRIMEA}

IF you've ever been on Cape Khersones at Sevastopol you will probably have seen the bell that is there. It hangs from a metal beam between two stone uprights and faces the half-ruined monastery It is darkened with age and covered with verdigris.
There are two bands of ornament around its shoulder, and below them an inscription that is damaged in several places: " SEJ KOLOKOL VYLIT \({ }^{\text {• TAGANR NIKOLAYa }}\) ChUDOTVORTs. TAGANR IZ TURETSKOJ..ARTILLERII VESOM PUDU 1778 GÓDA LETA AVGUST ChISLA." ("This bell was cast by Nikolaj Chudotvorets in Taganrog from Turkish connon. Weight . . . poods. August 1778.")

For many years this bell hung in one of the towers of Notre Dame Cathedral in Paris. In 1854, during the Crimean War, Khersones Monastery was occupied by French troops. There were powder magazines and trenches. and from there French artillery bombarded Sevastopol. When the French left, they took the monastery's bell as a trophy. In Paris it was placed in one of the towers of Notre Dame.
In the Sevastopol municipal archives there is a blue-covered file: File No. 41. Return from France of the bell captured in the Crimean campaign and hung in a church tower in Paris. Opened 1898.
The first paper in the file is dated 1898. It records that a search had started for the Russian bell. A lively correspondence ensued between the guthorities of the port of Sevastopol and the French Government concerning the return of the bell to Khersones. The French Consul in Sevastopol, Louis Gai, and Divisional General Nioxe. director of the Army Museum in Paris, played a particularly active part in the negotiations. Then, on November 23rd, 1913, the bell was returned to its original home at Khersones, Louis Gal, the French Consul. was decorated with the Order of Anna. 2nd Class, and the Order of Vladimir, 4th Class. "for his assistance in obtaining the return of the bell to Sevastopol."
The bell was set up in a new wooden campanile, where it was also used as a warning signal. As soon as fog hegan to settle it was rung as a warning to shipoing, just as it had been before the Crimean War. Some of the older inhabitants still remember it being used as a warning during fog in the 1920's.

\section*{STRATTON RINGING FESTIVAL}

For many months the idea of a ringing festival at Stratton, Cornwall, had been in the minds of the organisers, notably of Harry Stacey, and this was held in conjunction with the Church Gift Day and Patronal Festival on December 3rd.
All towers within a ten miles radius of Stratton were open for ringing from \(10 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}\). to 9 p.m., and ringers from Devon, Cornwall and Somerset enjoyed a good variety of ring. ing from rounds to Stedman Triples.
The Rev. A. S. Roherts was the preacher at the evening service, which was attended by the majority of ringers (about 140 ).
Two striking competitions were held. At Marhamchurch the six-bell competition was won by Truro with a heautifully struck 120 Grandsire Doubles. Tavistock "B" were second, and Emmanuel. Plymouth, third. In the eight-bell competition Bridgerule were placed first. Tavistock second and St. Auste! third. Judges for both competitions were Messrs. Thorne Way and Vanstone. of the Devon Association. A draw for a chicken dinner was won by the Vicar of Calstock.

The success of the venture has encouraged plans for another festival next year.

On one side the bell is pitted by bullets, splinters and shrapnel. During the second slege of the city (i.e. by the Germans during the Second World War) the bell was there, on its hill, open to all sides. just as it had been during the earlier siege. Like a wiar veteran.
Now the fog warning has been modernised, But the Khersones bell is still in position, acting as a stand-by for the siren. Should the fog-horn suddenly fail. the old bell will start to ring. Its note is high and clear, just as it was 150 years ago.

Translated by C.A.W. from an article by V. Teplukhin in the November. 1966, issue of the Russian magazine "Ogonek.")

\section*{MEASURING SUCCESS IN 1966}

\section*{By E. G. H. Godfrey}

The end of the calendar year is the traditional tume for taking stock-for preparing bulance sheets and profit and loss accounts. Since bellringing has no close scason, this may be a good time for us to assess how well or how badly we are doing. It is essential that we sit back from time to time and look at what we are doing, why we are doing it and how we are going about it, realising that conditions change and that there is always room for improvement.

The following is a list of questions for your band. They are not in order of importance. but I hope that they may be helpful in making the hand think and that the answers you give may show you where greater effort is nceded in 1967:-
Has the striking improved?
Have you rung for Sunday services regularly throughout the year?
How many services have you missed ringing for, and why?
Do you have good relations with the Vicar and the churchwardens?
Do you take part in church activities such as fetes. clearing the churchyard?
Do all the ringers attend church at least once each Sunday
Are you punctual for service ringing and for practices?
How many new ringers have you taught?
How many ringers have you lost, and why?
How many ringers have rung their first quarter peal/first peal?
In concentrating on beginners have you ignored the experienced ringers or vice versa?
How many outings have you attended?
Do you help other towers?
Do you join in Association/Guild activities, and are all the band members?
Is there a fine team spirit or is there friction in the band?
Do you give visitors a warm welcome?
What new ideas has the band produced?
What new methods have you rung?
How many ringers have learned to conduct? Is the church satisfied with the ringing? Have the bells been properly cared for? Is it clear who the leader is or is there divided leadership with a tower captain in name only? How many weddings have you rung for and how does this compare with previous years? Many of us have a long way to go yet before we are satisfied and a lot of hard work seems to lie ahead in 1967. May we have the courage and determination to attempt it, remembering that our ringing is to the glory of

\section*{MR. J. E. GRENSTED}

A number of present members-particularly the older ones-of the Kent County Association will have happy memories of Mr. Joe Grensted who, at the age of 85 , died at his hoine at Borden on December Sth.

To his memory a half-muffed quarter peal of Grandsire Triples was rung for Evensong at Borden Church. near Sittingbourne, on December 11 th. Those taking part were: Wendy Austin 1, Doris Dobbie 2 , G. Kenward 3, E. Barton 4. G. Naylor (conductor) 5, B. J. Jemmett 6. S. Dobbie 7, T. J. Clark 8.
Joe took up ringing at an early age in the Sittingbourne area prior to emigrating to Canada some 55 years ago. He returned from Canada about ten years ago and made his home at Borden. He lost no time in visiting the local towers at which he used to ring in his carly years, to take a rope for Sunday service ringing and. on occasions, to stand in for a peal. This gave immense pleasure not only to Joe but also to his many friends. He will be missed.

\section*{MR. MICHAEL H. R. KING}

The tragic death of Michael H. R. King. of South Newington, Oxon, who was aboard the Greek ship "Iraklion" when it sank on December 8 th, will be received with deep regret by all those who knew him. Michael had been a ringer at South Newington for the past two years and was a regular member of the band.
He had just left Oxford University and was studying to be an architect. At the time of the tragedy he was on his way home from Greece. where he had been studying Greek architecture.
On December 16 th the regular North Oxon Doubles band rang a half-muffled peal at South Newington as a token of respect and to his memory. Our deepest sympathy is extended to his parents and his brother, Timothy, in their bereavement.

\section*{Central District}

Quality rather than quantity was the general fceling after the quarterly meeting of the Central District held at St. Mary's Church. Willesden. on October 29th. Although during the afternoon the attendance was poor, we were able 10 maintain a high standard of ringing both in methods rung and in striking. We were pleased to welcome Mr. and Mrs. Johis Jelley of Leicester.
Following the service, conducted by the Rev. C. S. Day, we sat down to an excellent tea prepared by the Willesden ringers, who had forfeited their afternoon's wedding money in order to give us, free of charge, a wonderful spread.
At the business meeting Miss Gillian Brearley. of Wheathampstead, was elected a member. After discussion. it was decided, as the next fifth Saiurday falls on New Year's Eve, not to hold a meeting on that day. The nex: meeting will therefore be the annual District mecting on April 29th, 1967, at All Saints' Church. Harrow Weald.

A fund has been started for rehanging the ring at St. Mary the Virgin's, Newington-nextSittingbourne.

The firct quarter peal on the recently rehung belts at Si, Botolph-without-Aldgate was rung on December 11 th, conducted by John Pladdys.

The bells of Manchester Cathedral will be heard on I.T.V. on Christmas Day. when the service will be televised live at 10 a.m.

The peal of Bob Minor at Thames Ditton on December 10th was rung by past and present officers of the Chertsey District as a farewell compliment to Dennis Blows and Ray Collins. who are leaving the district. With this peal Roy Collins has rung a peal in every tower in the District, and becomes the first person to do so.

Mr. Rohert H. Vigor, who stood in a peal of Stedman at Baldock on December 17th rang his last peal before the 1939-45 war. Quite a few of his peals had been rung with Pat Cannon. We are informed that he rang very well. especially in the light of the fast time recorded ( 2 hours and 54 minutes, with \(26 \frac{1}{2}\) cwt. senor), ss he had not had experience of this speed previously.

\section*{WHERE THERES A WILL}

Drayton Church, near Norwich, possesses three bells, historic but small, but with the ever-increasing population something more inspiring is needed, writes Gilbert Thurlow in "The Norwich Churchman."
"How easy it would be to say " We cannot afford bells' without even trying to discover what is possible. How easy to make one of the "with it" cliches an excuse for doing nothing! But retreat and retrenchment are not good enough for Drayton.
"Money is not the only way to success. Enthusiasm. technical "know how " and the spirit of self-help are at least as important. Drayton possesses such qualities in abundance in Michael Frost and his helpers.
"A first need was to obtain bell metal. Contacts were made with various possible sources. Redundant hells at Wood Dalling. together with the three ancient bells from Drayton itself, have formed the main source of metal.
- The frame for properly rung bells is a complicated affair, requiring skilf in its construction. But there is enough skill in Dravton to do much of the work involved, and this is being done by local people who combine enthusiasm with skill and technical knowledge. as a spare time job, under the supervision of the bellfounders, logether with kindly help from nearby ringers.
\({ }^{\prime}\) ' \('\) t is no use to have bells, we haven't any ringers. drone some church authorities. Drayton had no ringers. So they have done the obvious thing. A tean of would-be learners has gathered together. They have been learning the anf from experienced ringers equally enthusiastic to teach them at SI George's. Colegate. whose bells we made into a delightful ring of six in 1950 for just this kind of purpose."
And now the datz of dedication of the bells has heen fixed for Sunday, February 5th. and. according to information told to Canon Thurlow. enough Drayton people have come forward to form two six-bell bands.

\section*{"ENGLAND-BELLS FOR SOME "}

Under this alluring title Betsy Proctor, with two other Washington Cathedral ringers, telis of her trip to England last summer in National Cathedral School News." writes:-
\({ }^{*}\) Early in our stay. Mr. and Mrs. Peter Staniforth took us on a ringing week-end to Exeter for the annual meeting of the Ladies' Guild. We were elected members and invited to ring in the Cathedral with its 12 bells.
- That was the first of many experiences in strange towers. Of the 34 towers we rang in during our six weeks stay we encountered several towers that shook with the hells and some so small that we could lean against the walls while we rang. Three nights we rang a full peal, which is made up of over 5.000 different combinations or changes and takes Inicst three hours of steady ringing. We were made life members of three Diocesan Guilds and grew accustomed to badly blistered hands... We shall never forget the kindness and fellowship of the many British ringers. who accepted as friends and ringers in their towers three teenage girls from the tower of Washington Cathedral."

\section*{CONDUCTING MINOR}

By E. G. H. GODFREY
Much has been written about the calling side of conducting. Little has appeared. houever, about the conductor's other task of keeping people right. Many conductors seem to be able to correct slips by instinct. but for the benefit of those who. like myself, have little instinct. the following hints may mean less lost peals and quarters.

Before the peal or quarter :
1. Learn by heart the coursing orders.
2. Examine the construction of the methods in detail and try to anticipate the slips.
3. Know where the treble meets all the other bells.
4. Note whether the bells follow their coursing order to the front or back or how they vary from it.
5. Learn by heart what each bell does at each bob and single.
6. Train yourself to think and act quickly. During the peal or quarter:
1. Use standard callings.
2. Note which bell is on the front.

Remember which place bell you are. Knowing the coursing order, you can then work out which place bell the other ringers are.
4. Never relax your concentration even if all seems well.
5. Keep calm in emergencies and try to think.
6. Do not shout at the ringers, but give advice and make corrections calmly and confidently.
7. Demand a high standard of ringing. Do not nag any ringer -it is better to ston.
8. Ignore the clock. You have enough other things to worry about

\section*{MISSED HIS 75th BIRTHDAY PEAL}

For several years a peal has been arranged St. Mary"s. Apsley. early in December. as a hirihday compliment to Walter Ayre. This year's was to have heen a special occasion, being his 75th birthday, but unfortunately Walter was indisposed. His friends at Apsley Walter was indisposed. His friends at Apsley could not let this slip by and a quarter peal was rung with all good wishes. The peal, we trust, will be rung in the near future.

\section*{THREE 13-YEAR-OLDS FROM HUNTINGTON}

The neal of Plain Bob Minor at Holme-onSpalding Moor on Decenber 3rd realised a long-awaited ambition for the conductor. When Shirley Beanland, Lynne Clowe and Susan Mitchell learned to ring at Huntington in 1965 and made rapid progress, it was hoped to arrange their first peal attempt together. However, illness and other circunstances prevented this. and the first to ring one was Susanringing the second at Easingwold to a peal of Bob Minor on the back six, and to date has a total of eight peals to her credit. Next was lynne. who rang the treble at Huntington on August 28th-the one at Holme being her second. Now that Shirley has rung a peal. a!! three have rung one peal whilst still 13 years of ige, and also one with all three taking part.
Huntington are nroud of the performances put up by these 13 -year-olds. and we trust that they will long continue the well-established tradition of good ringing in Huntington.

WEM BELLS GO TO THE FOUNDRY
The bells of SS. Peter and Paul's Church, Wem, Salop, which have been silent for over four years, are now in the hands of Messirs. John Taylor and Co at Loughborough. A serious crack developed in the 14th century tower in 1962 and a \(£ 7.000\) restoration scheme. which includes the bells, has been embarked upon.
There is to be a steel frame to replace the old oak frame, and the bells are to be tuned and turned. Wem bells range from 5 cwt . to 13 cwr . each. Six were cast in 1768 and two more added in 1897.
Mr. Walter Thorold, who has been with Messrs. Taylors for 40 years, supervised the removal of the bells. "This has been a small job," he said. regarding lowering the bells 60 feet through three floors to ground level. He has done similar work all over the country and in such Cathedrals as Lincoln, York and Winchester.

\section*{I REMEMBER}

Mr. T. R. Flint, of Lynwood, 17. Central Avenue. Warsop, recalls when a choirboy of 12 he committed an offence which came to the notice of his headmaster and organist. who after administering a mild penalty concluded. "Flint, you'll be hanged yet!"
That was before World War I. The prediction nearly came true in 1952, when Mr. Flint was tolling the third while the choir walked to their places. To observe their movement he peeped through a hole in the floor through which the rope passed when the church had a ground-floor ring. Suddenly there was a nasty jerk from the rope around his neck. which left him sore for days. Vividly the words of his old schoolmaster came to mind, "Flint. you'li be hanged yet."
This is Mr Flint's 60th week in bed. He writes cheerfully that he is improving rapidly but canno: walk yet

\section*{HARD LCCK, BOYS:}

Four boys-Mike Suain (14), John Williams (14), Peter Chambers (13) and Andrew Bainham (13)-had hard luck at All Saints' Church, Newport, on All Saints' Eve. Thev were in an attempt for a quarter peal of Grandsire Triples, conducted by David Phillips (17). which went the fuil distance of \(1: 260\) changes but failed to come round as tho bells had crossed over. The boys were not involved.

\section*{NORTH DORSET'S HAPPY MEETINGS}

The following appeared in the secretarys report of the North Dorset Branch of the Somerset Diocesan Guild:
"Members' thanks are due. as always, to those concerned with the local arrangements where meetings and practices are held. Those who read the editorial in © The Ringing World' of December Ind will. I am sure. have been struck by a sharp contrast between our own experiences and those of the writer of that article. as least as far as our bodily and spiritual refreshment is concerned. And 1 dare to hone that neither our officers nor the rest who attend our meetings deserve quite the tone of censure used by that writer ; but that the atmosphere within the Branch is one of common effort helped on by advice and encouragement."

    INSTALLATIONS-ALL TYPES OF REPAIRS

[^6]:    Many ringers tried out the new bells on February 12th, when the Rev. D. Tuck conducted a short service and the Rev. M. C. C. Melville read the lesson. All were pleased to have Mr. Billy West there: although he did not ring, he ventured up to the ringing chamber. There are several willing to learn and it looks as if in the not too distant future there will be an up-andcoming band here.
    It is gratifying to know that Wiveton bells will still be rung for Sunday services and we wish Mr. West and his many helpers every success in their new venture. Mr. Bird informs us that the fund is stili some hundreds of pounds short and anyone willing to help should send a donation to Mr. W. West, Southfield, Norwich Road, Holt. The collection for the fund at the meeting was over £ 10.

    ## A MASTER'S MESSAGE

    By the Rev. F. F. Rigby, Master of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association, as a preface to the Association's 1965 report.

    SOME months ago, whilst visiting a shop in a nearby town, I heard two boys deep in earnest conversation. One had become a ringer and was obviously pleased with his newly acquired skill. He was explaining with great seriousness the fascination of this English art of change ringing, and urging the other boy to come along with him to the next practice. I left the shop, pleased that just one more boy had discovered something thrilling in life.

    The boy and his companion set me thinking. What is it, I wondered, which makes ringing such a fascinating hobby and interests such a wide cross-section of the community? Looking back on my own experiences, I could think of three reasons.

    First of all, there is something to interest the beginner, for learning to control a heavy piece of metal at the end of a thin rope has a fascination all of its own, particularly when the beginner has learned to control his piece of metal along with others. When this leads to the ringing of simple changes there is a feeling of accomplishment.

    Secondly, change ringing stretches the intelligent mind. To ring even the simplest method with a well struck rhythnt can give a feeling of elation, a sense of worthwhile achievement. For the mathematically minded, the many complexities of change ringing can be a source of delight for a lifetime, both inside and outside the tower. How well I remember the composer T. B. Worsley in his blacksmith's shop, with figures on his anvil and on papers littered around.

    Thirdly, there is amongst ringers a good companionship. Questions are not asked about which school you went to, about how much money you have or haven't got, or what your occupation is. The only test for membership of this club of good companions is: can you ring well and intelligently? If you can, then you are accepted. In its own way and because of this, a ringing community can be a good example of what a Christian community should be

    Those of us who enjoy ringing and its good companionship should remember that our hobby is something of a mystery to the beginner, made more mysterious still by the vocabulary we use. Young people get interested, just as the boy in the shop was interested. To sustain their interest we need to keep in mind that there are many mysteries to explain to them, demanding from us a great deal of patience. Education in many fields has risen rapidly this century. So in ringing. To maintain enthusiasm, we must offer a high standard of instruction to the rising generation of ringers.

    ## RECRUITMENT PROBLEM

    $\mathbf{A}^{\mathrm{N}}$N ever-constant theme is the question of recruitment and in many association reports this year there are warnings for constant alertness in all towers. In the years of prosperity with a fully-fledged band often of a Surprise standard the danger is very real if time is not found for training new entrants.

    The Rev. H. Lewis Davies, chaplain to the Worcestershire and Districts Association, devotes his foreword in the annual report to this subject. After pointing out that the onus of recruiting is a concern of all churchpeople if they want their bells rung, he presents reasons for the many disappointments. "By its very nature bell ringing requires an arduous and at times somewhat tedious apprenticeship before full mastery of the bell is achieved. Young people, who want to run before they can walk and expect to be fully-fledged ringers in a matter of weeks, come up against the inevitable feeling of disappointment. When the rather uninteresting middle period has been passed the rewards begin to come, but for many it is too late and they have fallen by the wayside. In these days homework and further education make their demands on the younger ringer and although he or she may find relaxation in the tower, the rat-race does not allow such a luxury, or the times of practice may not always fit in with the time-table.

    ## YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION

    ## Eastern District

    The first quarterly meeting for 1966 was held on April 2nd at Howden, where there is one of the finest rings in Yorkshire. The meeting was joint with the Selby and District Society. Afternoon ringing, under the direction of the Ringing Master, John Potts. included stardard methods, Double Norwich and Cambridge Major.
    The service at 4.30 was conducted by the Rev. Mr. Lickess, curate, who extended a warm welcome to both Societies and gave an interesting address on bells and bellringing. An excellent tea served in the Green Room. for which we have to thank almost exclusively the Harrop family. was followed by the business meetings of the two Societies. A welcome was extended to Mr. W. E. Moreton, general secretary of the Yorkshire Association, who reminded the gathering of the Association's annual general meeting at Ripon on April 30th, where eight towers were to be open for ringing, and the general meeting at Bridlington on September 17 th . Mr. D. S. Johnson called attention to the Joint Council of Yorkshire Ringing Societies' Festival at Beverley on May 21 st.
    Three new members were elected to the Yorkshire Association - Messrs. P. Muse (Goole). J. Dodgson (Selby) and C. Holmes (Kirk Ella).
    Nominations for retiring officers - to be ratified at the annual general meeting on June 18th-were as follows: Vice-president, $H$. Walker; committee, Miss M. E. Wilkinson, Miss J. Gray and Mr. R. Warford. This does not preclude other nominations at the annual general meeting itself.

    ## GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL

    ## ASSOCIATION

    THE weather was about as bad as it could be on April 16th, when the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association held its annual general meeting at the Chapter House, Gloucester. The meeting was the first to be held under the new rules and standing orders. Only 40 people had booked tea and half of these were visitors. The great question was, could the annual meeting be held? There must be 85 paid-up members to form a quorum this year. At the time of starting the Master and secretary counted just enough if no one asked "Are you all members?" So the meeting started and more came in to make a total of 110 members, and visitors in addition from Turramurra (Australia), Caston (Norfolk), Crewe, Harrow, Long Ashton, Heywood (Lancashire) and Pattingham (Staffs).
    Instead of a Master there are now two officers, a Ringing Master and a chairman, positions being filled for the first time by Mr. W. F. Scudamore and the Rev. F. F. Rigby respectively. All other officers were re-elected. Of the 21 vice-presidents, only 12 desired to retain the title, seven are now honorary life members and two have reverted to ordinary performing membership.

    ## RECOMMENDATIONS

    The following recommendations of the Management Committee were agreed to:That membership subscriptions remain at is for senior performing members, 2s. 6d. for juniors and 3 s . 6 d . for associates? that the affiliation fee payable by parochial church councils should remain at one guinea: that the peal books be housed with the Bristol City Archives pending the opening of St. Nicholas. Church, Bristol, as a museum in about two years' time. The books would remain the property of the Association and one of the books would always be on display.

    A recommendation that the Association donate the sum of 10 guineas to "The Ringing World" was doubled by an amendment, and a cheque for $£ 21$ has already been sent to the Editor.
    It was reported, in answer to a question that a peal tablet is being made to mark the record peal in multi-Minor methods rung at Castle Eaton.
    The Association service was at St. Mary de Crypt. Canon W. H. Houghton, the Rector, telling of his experiences in Christian work overseas to a very large congregation; $£ 810 \mathrm{~s}$, was collected, of which the Association recẹives $£ 5$.

    ## FILMS POPULAR

    After the service the two films. "Ringers Required " and "Washington Cathedral," were shown in the church; perhaps it was these which had drawn so many from such a wide area. It was a good finish to what had been a very successful day.
    Good use was made of the large number of bells available by more people than came to the meeting, as a number of visitors obtained permission to ring at several towers while the meeting was in progress. Members are reminded that the work of the officers can be eased if they will send in returns as soon as asked, and peal conductors are requested to send full details, including names of all ringers. to the peal secretary to save a lot of trouble later on

    The next annual general meeting will be held in Bristol on April 1st, 1967.

    Thanks are due to all those who helped to make it such a good day in spite of the terrible weather The Chapter House, however, was beautifully warm.

    ## SUFFOLK GUILD'S ANNUAL MEETING

    NEARLY 200 ringers attended the Suffolk Guild annual meeting, held this year at Lavenham on April 16th. The figure was more than double that of any previous year, the average attendance for the last 12 years being 80 . Visitors were present from Bradford, Croydon, Birmingham. Norfolk, Cambridge and Essex
    The ringing arrangements had been based for the first time more on festival lines, 20 towers being opened in and around Lavenham for the day. The renowned octave at the Parish Church recently restored by Messrs. Taylor was much enjoyed, as indeed was the service, conducted by the Rector, the Rev. Rex Bird, in this notable "wool" church.

    The address, given by the Rev: A. A. Muxlow. Vicar of Stowmarket, himself a ringer, was worthy of such a gathering and was described by Mr. Leonard Last at the meeting later as one which should be heard all around the Diocese!
    One hundred and eighty people sat down to a tea of home-made fare, and the business meeting which followed was presided over ty the chairman, Mr. John Blythe. In welcoming the visitors and members he com mended everyone on their support but regretted the absence, due to illness, of therr hard-working secretary, Andrew Beckwith. The good wishes of the whole Guild were extended to Mr. Beckwith

    The Ringing Master, George Pipe, supported the chairman's comments and expressed his gratitude to members for rallying round and providing this very encouraging upsurge of enthusiasm. He remarked on the high proportion of young members present and asked everyone to keep up the good work, especially in the western half of the county. Mr. Pipe felt that his challenge at the end of 196 had been accepted and he was optimisitic that the present membership of 350 could reach 500 (the pre-war level) by 1970.

    ## THE REPORTS

    The Ringing Master (Mr. G. W. Pipe) reported that in 1965 there was some definite progress in ringing with some excellent meetings. He had been able to visit 51 towers for either service ringing or meetings. Peals at 75, were the best since 1961. Congratulations were extended to 19 first-pealers and to Roy Groom of Henley, who did not miss a service ring and attended church each time afterwards.

    The general secretary (Mr. A. T. Beckwith) in his report mentioned the rededication of Lavenham hells, attended by about 300 ringers and thanked Capt. G. A. D. Cooper, R.N. (retd.). for his work as hon. treasurer of the Appeal Fund.

    Mr. R. W. M. Clouston, the technical adviser. reported on the state of the hells in a further 28 towers, bringing the total to date to 304 . Yaxley bells. which had not been rung for a number of years, were found to be in quite good order, hut the tower roof needed urgent attention. Peasenhall hells were in poor condition due to inadequate main tenance. Bungav's bell-frame had reached the end of its useful life. Stratford St. Mary needed a new metal frame.
    A treble has been added to make six at Mendlesham; the third at Little Thurlow has been recast and all the bells there are hung dead: the six at Rougham are to be over hauled, and money is being raised to get Kersey bells rehung. Stoke-by-Clare bells are now ringable, and with some secondhand pullevs from Lavenham will only be marginally worse to ring than they were hefore the heating system invaded the ringing chamber.

    The officers for 1966 were all re-elected and it was decided tha: the venue for the next annual general meeting be left in the hands of the committee
    Three new members were elected and the Master presented Capt. Geoffrev Cooper with his honorary memher's certificate in apnreciation of all his work in connection with Lavenham Church and bells.

    A lady member of the Bramford band had needleworked a very beautiful kneeler for use in the Cathedral at Bury St. Edmunds and this was displayed at the meeting. It depicted the Suffolk Guild's badge and was one of a whole collection representing the arts and crafts of the Diocese.

    Altogether a most happy gathering.

    ## THE ST. MARTIN'S GUILD

    The new Vicar of Aston, the Rev. E. C. Smith, welcomed the members of the St. Martin's Guild when they visited Aston for their meeting on April 2nd. Visitors included Mr . and Mrs. F. Bennett. Mr. E. Drew of Claverley and Mr. Wilcox of Shrewsbury.
    The following ringers were elected as restdent members: Miss V. Naylor, Miss $N$ Riley, Messrs. G. C. Paul, R. J. Parker, R. Clarke and D. Haynes. The tower elections, as life members, of the following ringers were duly ratified: Messrs. Norman Chaddock (Rotherham), Robert E. J. Dennis (Liverpool) and Brian J. Luff (Stourbridge).
    A sample pressing of the proposed new badge was handed round for inspection and it was decided, subject to the Bishop's approval of the use of the Diocesan shield which is incorporated in the design, to order a quantity of badges after obtaining competitive prices.
    The Ringing Master, Mr. J. Alan Ainsworth. invited the ringers of any tower in the Diocese to visit St. Martin's as a band on a Tuesdav evening by arrangement, when the ringers who regularly assemhled there for practice would assist in any method to suit the capabilities of the visitors.
    Next meeting: Tanworth in Arden on July 2nd (subject to permission).

    ## EAST DERBYSHIRE AND WEST NOTTS ASSOCIATION

    This Association at its annual meeting at Morton on Easter Monday elected two new officers in key positions. Mr. E. J. Starling, of The Meadows. Swanwick. succeeds Mr. T. H. Radtord as hon, secretary, and Mr. A Smithson replaces Mr. E. A. Harrison as Joint Ringing Master. Other prficers wele re-elected.
    In his address the president. Mr. B. A. Richards, asked the company to stand in espect to the memory of Mr. S. Alvey. who had recently died. He brought to the notice of the meeting the urgency of recruiting moie nembers, otherwise the annual subscription would have to be raised Twelve new members were elected. Kirkby hand again were the winners of the Jubilee Shield.

    A wide range of methods was rung on the light six (tenor 43 cwt.). The Rev. E. B. Teale conducted the service. and an excel tea was enjoyed in the Rectory Room.

    ## NORWICH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION

    Just on 30 members attended the meeting of the Northern Branch at Yaxham on April 23 rd. The service was conducted by the Rector, the Rev. David Moll, and the lesson was read by the chairman. Mr. G. Sayer. Neville John Burgess, of Wroxham, was elected a member.

    The Rev. W. F P Kelly deplored the fact that so manv bells in the Northern Branch were unringable and stressed that something should be done to get these bells ringine again.
    Yaxham bells were rung in the afternoon under the leadership of the Branch Ringing Master, Mr. Leslie Bailey, from rounds to London Surprise, as were Mattishall's in the evening.
    Good news was received of the health of the president, Mr. F. N. Golden.

    ## THE BISHOP ATTENDS ELY

    DIOCESAN FESTIVALTHE annual meeting of the Ely Diocesan Association was held on Easter Monday in the Wisbech area. Ringing commenced at March and Northwold at 10 a.m., and 20 towers proved a good assortment to the many visiting and resident ringers who were in attendance. In the afternoon all converged on Wisbech, the capital of the Fens, for the service at St. Peter's.

    The president of the Association, the Bishop of Ely, was present and gave the address. The service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. R. M. McCaughey), the lesson was read by the Rev. Giles Galley, and Mr. F. Wigmore was the organist.
    The Bishop expressed his pleasure at being present with members for their service and to see that many younger persons were being attracted to ringing He continued his address along the lines of the four prayers contained in the service sheet and gave some valuable ideas for thought. About 150 people were present for the service.

    Tea followed in the nearby Church Hall the Bishop joining about 130 members and friends for the meal. which was served by lady members and friends of the Wisbech District. The Bishop, who left before the meeting commenced, was thanked by the general secretary (Mr. H. S. Peacock) for his attendance and for giving the address. The Bishop in his reply said how pleased he was to be present.

    Canon A. L. Woodard, president of the Cambridge District, who is well known for his humour at meetings, presided at the business meeting. All the officers were re-elected and thanked for their services. These were General secretary ind treasurer, Mr. H. S. Peacock: neal secretary. Mr. G. Pearson: auditor. Mr A. J. Davey. Mr. T. A. Bevis was congratulated and heartily thanked for his work on "The Sentinel." the Association's quarterly mazazine, and despit- a threatened increase in the cost of production it was decided to carry on with the August and Derember editions.

    The Association's report for 1965 stated that there was very little to report on restoration work. but this rid not mean that nothing was being done. It was regrefted that so many towers were unrinpahle. Resident members had shown a steady increase: they welcomed 39 members from other Guilds and Assnciations.

    Lnsses by death were the Rev. I. G. Innes, of Denver. William Smnothv John W. Ward. Genrge Pratt and Jonas Halls.
    The neal secretary renorted that 65 peals had heen rune for the Association, which was monsiderahly in excess of last year's total of so. Seven memhers rang their first neal and one his first as conductor. A total of 146 memhers took nart in neals, and conducting was shared hy 25 people. Fnrty-seven towers were visited for neals and 13 visited for the first time. The leadina conductor was G. F. Thorlav (15) and leading neal ringer Mr. G. $F$ Bnoham (2.5). The first peal of Minev Surnrice rans runo and the first of eimht-Snliced Surnrise Mainr (this by a resident nand).

    ## THE LADIES' GUILD

    Fifteen members were nresent at the annual peneral meeting of the Kent District held at Rainham on Anril 16th. A delicious tea was served after the service conducted hy the Vicar. and Mrs. Mitchell nronosed a vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Cheal and all ladies whe had nrepared tea.

    Despite her hope of resigning. Mrs Mitchell was re-elected vice-president. Mrs. Dohhic remains as hon. secrerary, although at the meeting Miss Colgate deputiced for her. Plans for the annual general meeting at Exeter were discussed.

    ## THE ORIGIN OF TENOR

    Dear Sir,-One derivation of a ringing term to which I have never heard a satisfactory explanation is that of "tenor." As you know, it is the name given to the lowest-toned bell of a ring. People often ask why it is called tenor and not bass, as you would expect.
    To find the answer you have to look back to the early developments of music, during the 10th, 11th and 12th centuries. Music at this time was developing mainly in the churches, being limited to the singing of church services by the monks. The style and form of this music is known as "Organum"; it consisted of a plainsong type of melody known as the "Vox principalis" and a second part which was added, either a fourth or a fifth below. Other parts were sometimes added helow this, but they all moved in parallel. The second part was known as "Vox organalis." As time passed these parts continued to be developed and elaborated and added to. Another part added below became more and more stationary and eventually held one note. This part became known as the tenor from the Latin tenere, to hold
    It seems likely, therefore, that the name the monks used for their lowest choral part they applied to their lowest bell, and that this name has stuck.
    The lowest bell of a carillon is known as the bass bell. This is mainly because the carillon is a more orthodox musical instrument and when it was developed to its present form, around the 15 th-18th centuries, music had undergone many basic changes: the lowest part was then known as the bass.
    The word carillon itself was used originallv for the melody played. It is a French word derived from the mediaval Latin quadrilionem. a quaternary, because 'carillons were at first sounded on four bells. It is connected with the French clarine, a little bell, as well as the Italian quadrigllo (quadrille). a popular dance in the 1 toh century, the music for which was probably played on bells.
    I hope this may add something to the present "glut" of terminological explanations.Yours faithfully,

    ANDREW W. R. WILBY.
    Harpenden, Herts.

    ## COLLECTION OF SURPRISE, COMPOSITIONS

    Dear Sir,-Mr. Stephen Ivin has pointed out to me an error in my "Collection of Surprise tome an error in my copies still unsold will be corrected, but I would be grateful if in the meantime you could publish the following amendments for those who already have the book:
    (a) Delete note (3) against Blackburn. Harleston, Quenby and Rothley Surprise Major. (b) Amend note (3) on page, 13 to read "Composition No. 77 is true."

    ## PEAL WITHDRAWN

    Dear Sir,-It appears that since having the figures of Burghslere. Surprise checked some six months ago a different variation of the front work has somehow crept in and the front work has somenow comption is false in the composition used.
    My apologies to all the band, especially to those who travelled a long distance. I am still at a loss to know how the wrong variation was used.-Yours. faithfully,

    ## Letters

    ## A STALWART CHURCH WORKER

    Dear Sir,-Through the medium of "The Ringing World" I would like to thank Mr. J. and Miss K. Rooke, son and daughter of the well-known captain at Warsop, Mr. H. T. Rooke, for their kind thought and trouble they have taken in recording on tape recent services at Warsop Parish Church, including Easter Evensong. During my 87 years I have spent much happiness in the activities of the Parish Church, joining the choir at nine years old, learning to pull a bell in 1893, elected years old, learning to pull a bell in 1893 , elected leader of the ringers in 1897. the same year buying a set of 35 handbells for $£ 6$ (by Shaw of Bradford), all in good condition except one: they have recently been restored and are a pleasure to look at, let alone ringing them. I remember ringing. the clappers muffled with rags, for W. E. Gladstone (statesman). Needless to say the muftles were soon worn away. In 1913 I was instrumental for the recasting of the bells in iron frames. In 1920 I made and installed a chiming machine which proved of great use when ringers were not available. The same year I redecorated the organ and chancel with gold leaf. I have held the office of Sunday School teacher and have been elected to the Church Council. In 1948 I was appointed verger, a position which I had reluctantly $L 0$ resign at the age of 76 owing to illhealth. I am now confined to bed, and I bave to thank doctor and nurses for their skill and attention in saving my leg from amputation. and last. but not least, to the care and devotion. night and day, of a good wife aiding my recovery: also the Rector, ringers of Warsop and many friends who have paid constant and many friends who have paid constant visits. My sincere thanks to all of you. visits. My since Yours faithfully,
    T. R. FLINT.
    P.S.-I bought the first issue of "The Ringing World" and I still enjoy its contents which my wife reads to me.-T.R.F.

    ## THE BELFRY OFFICE

    Dear Sir,-In several towers, where I have rung lately the "Belfry Office" has not been said. We, as Church bell ringers, should surely feel the great need of God's help and blessing in our ringing. Was it not Christ Himself who said, For without Me ye can do nothing '"? (St. John $\mathrm{xv}, 5$.). -Yours sincerely,
    J. M. DURSTON.

    ## BUXTON, NOT COLLEGE BOB

    Dear Sir. - The correct name for the method rung as College Bob at East Bridgford on March 5th ("Ringing World" page 204) is Buxton. The first peal in the method was Buxton. at Fairfield. Buxton, Derbyshire, on December 26ih, 1959.-Yours faithfully, ANTHONY R. PEAKE.

    ## BEGINNERS' HANDBOOK

    Dear Sir.-I have just bought the "Beginners ${ }^{\circ}$ Handbook," although it is almost 60 years since I was a beginner. It does not give the Central Council's advice to instructors on which of three ways a learner should acquire the feel of his bell: (1) To pull it up; (2) Instructor backstroke only and learner handstrok: only: (3) Learner backstroke only and instructor handstroke only.
    There is no ringing in this district in a radius of 15 miles but a new band is starting from scratch with one instructor who has my sympathy and limited assistance. Will your readers please comment?-Yours sincerely.
    Lines.

    ## LEARNER PROBLEM

    Dear Sir,-I have, a vested interest in the "Learner Problem" as I am at present helping to teach an entirely new band, and some points occur in Derek C. Jackson's letter of April 15th which I should like to explore further. Broadly speaking, I agree with what has been said, but will presume to-enlarge a little on each point.
    Stage 1.-Presumably there are two learners plain hunting and one "inside" during this plain course of Grandsire, or else plain hunt could be rung with equal advantage. I would, however, regard three learners in a plain course of Doubles as being too many; it is not only nerve-racking for them, as they are not fikely to trust each other very much, but often sounds excruciatingly painful outside the tower. Where possible, I prefer to have one in the hunt and one "inside," for which purpose Plain Bob has equal merit.
    Stage 2.-When the learner can reasonably be expected to do so, I tell him to keep half an eye on the treble and to note what he is doing when it is leading. Thus, making seconds is particularly easy for him as he strikes directly over it. This will also simplify handbell ringing for him.
    Stage 3.-The shortness of the Grandsire plain course is not always a good recommendation. As one who teaches a learner initially to ring by counting his place, I spend half my time trying to prevent him from learning off all the numbers of the bells he follows. From my own experience I know that to follow the numbers is usually to hinder the acquisition of ropesight.
    Stage 4.-I agree entirely, adding that as well as the problem of "singles" the learner will always find the three calls of Plain Bob less of a burden than the six of Grandsire (where extra difficulty is often found in the rapid transition between being a hunting and a working bell).

    Logical extension need not be a problem, as I would always teach Grandsire as the second method (Grandsire Doubles = Plain Bob Minimus + extra hunt bell) before going on to Little Bob. Stedman and Kent. From Plain Bob Doubles 1 also regard Reverse Canterbury Doubles as an excellent exercise in place making.
    Much depends, of course, on having enough good ringers to fill three or four spare ropes and, if possible, to keep an eye on those learners whom the instructor cannot always be watching. If suitable help were not forthcoming from one's own band or friends from neighbouring towers it would probably prove interesting to raise the topic of an "InterTower Aid Scheme" at a meeting of the local Association: this would perhaps be a task for an enterprising Ringing Master with a liking for hard work. And could much of the faulty and "ill-planned amateur instruction" be due to a lack of encouragement and direction from the struggling and inexperienced tower captain or instructor?-Yours sincerely
    C. J. EASTON.

    ## THE IRISH 50th ANNIVERSARY

    Dear Sir.-I should have thought the easiest way of avoiding controversy over the recent peal at Longney would have been for you not to have published the footnote. This would also have deprived the band of the pleasure of turning to see who has risen to the bait in your next issue.-Yours sincerely,
    E. A. BARNETT.

    Note.-We will not entertain letters on this subject. To many of our readers the footnote was most unhappily worded.-Ed.

    ## THE BELLS OF HOLY TRINITY CHURCH, AMBLECOTE

    ## By Martin D. Fellows

    FORMERLY in the county of Stafford and the smallest urban district in the country, Amblecote is now, by virtue of the West Midlands Order, 1965, part of the borough of Stourbridge and therefore in the county of Worcester. The parish has always been part of the diocese of Worcester.
    For centuries the principal industries have been coal, iron, fireclay and "Stourbridge Glass." Amblecote fireclay is no doubt the best known in the world and is reputed to have been discovered in 1555 by wandering glass makers from Lorraine.
    The Parish Church of the hamlet was St. Mary's, Old Swinford, the mother church of Stourbridge as well as of Amblecote, but in 1842 the present church was built and Amblecote became a separate parish in 1845. The church is of a design that is not unpleasant for the period and is built of locallymade " buff" bricks and not, as local legend would have it, of fire bricks.
    The firs: bell to hang in the western tower was lent by the governors of the Free Grammar School of King Edward VI in Stourbridge, and "was to be returned when required." In 1859 the question of installing a ring of eight bells was considered. Nothing however came of it, and a single bell was installed, some dispute having arisen over the title to the bell lent by the governors. The new bell was cast by George Mears and weighed about 11 cwt. This bell was inscribed thus: "Spes tuttusimpa in coelis. John William Grier, Incumbent. Charles William Firmstone, William England, Churchwardens. 1859."

    FIRST RUNG ON EASTER DAY. In 1964 it was learned that a Miss Agnes Egan, of the neighbouring parish of Wollaston. had left provision in her will for the installation of a light ring of eight bells in the tower and, in 1965, John Taylor and Co. cast the bells. Work on installing the bells did not commence until March of this year and they were officially rung for the first time on Easter Day. On Easter Tuesday the first peal was rung on the bells by a band gathered from nearby towers.

    As the Bishop of Worcester is not able to visit the church for some time yet, the bells have not been dedicated. However, the Vicar, the Rev. John Hencher, is anxious that the bells are rung as much as possible and he has, therefore, in the meantime blessed them. Notice of the dedication will be given in "The Ringing World."

    Local ringers are being taught, and the practice night is on Fridays at 7.30 p.m. Service ringing takes place on Sundays at 8.55 a.m.

    Inscriptions on the bells are as follows:-
    On each bell: "John Taylor and Co., Founders, Loughborough, 1965."

    Treble: "To the memory of Agnes Egan, who gave this peal."

    Second: "To the memory of Orpah Egan."
    Tnird: "To the memory of Christopher Turner.,

    ## OBITUARY

    CANON G. DIXON
    Kingers of the Central Bucks Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild were well represented at the memorial service, on Low Sunday, in Waddesdon Parish Church, near Aylesoury, for Canon G. Dixon, who died in Hampshire at the end of March after two and a half years' retirement. Caron Dixon had been 42 years Rector of Waddesdon (1921-1963).

    In his address, the present Rector, the Rev N. Parker, said it was really a service of thanksgiving for his faithful ministry. Canon Dixon entered the ministry in 1911 and after ten years as a curate in London he was offered the living of Waddesdon by the present Duke of Marlborough, to whom he had formeriy beẹn tutor.

    The Central Bucks Branch was inaugurated in 1928 by the Rev. F. J. Amies, who persuaded Canon Dixon to become its first chairman. He continued as chairman for 30 years, during which time he missed only four meetings. He finally relinquished the chairmanship at a record gathering of ringers for the Branch in June, 1958, and became the first president of the Branch. During the next year or two he again presided at several meetings in the absence of his successor. Canon Dixon was a vice-president of the Oxfora Diocesan Guild.

    At the memorial service the Oxford Guild was represented by Mr. E. F. Gibbard, vicepresident of the Central Bucks Branch, and the Branch by Mr. J. W. Hall, hon. secretary, Ringiñ Masters Messrs. G. Edmans and F. Gregory and other ringers. Mr. D. Wheeler represented the Chilterns Branch.
    After the service the representatives above mentioned with one of the oldest ringing members of the Guild rang 360 Grandsire Doubles in memory of a well-loved priest and friend.

    ## MR. W. O. TALBOT

    Mr. William Oswald (Bill) Talbot had been a member of the Headingley company without a break since he came to Leeds in 1901 until his retiręment from ringing a couple of years ago. I heard him speak only once of his earliest ringing days, but I gathered he started ringing at Dudley and that he rang frequently with a well-known ringer of his day-W. Rock Small.
    About the turn of the century Headingley possessed one of the leading bands in the country; they rang the five standard Surprise methods every Sunday and it was customary to catch hold without knowing which method the conductor intended to call-there was none of the "How do I start" business.
    The Headingley belfry contains a handsome triple-panelled peal board-the work of the late Mr. Percy Johnson-recording a 5,024 London in $1904,5,024$ Double Norwich in 1910 (Bill rang the second to this), and $5,0.56$ Superlative in 1905, and there is a group photograph of the ringers with the peal board prior to its erection in the tower in 1916. Of this company there is now one survivor, "Jafus." Bill's last peal, Double Norwich, fully muffled for King George V, was at his own tower in January, 1936.
    Gardening, however, was his chief interest, and every. Sunday morning after ringing he would stride off to his allotment ("the garden ") down St. Michael's Lane. Three years ago, when he would have been 83 , he told me that he was digging his next door neighbour's garden as well as his own
    By that time he had gone in for motorcycling and I found it difficult to believe that he was an octogenarian-indeed I quite expected him to live to be 100 , but not long after his retirement he suffered a stroke from which he never fully recovered.
    R. H. DOVE.

    Fourtin: "Remember Winston Churchill of the 20th Century."
    Fifth: "Remember John F. Kennedy of the 20th Century.
    Sixth: "Remember Pope John XXIII of the 20th Century."
    Seventh: "Lewis Mervyn Charles-Edwards Bishop of Worcester 1965."
    Tenor: "I to the Church the Living Call and to the grave do summon all." (Weight 7 cwt . 1 qr .3 lb . in B.)
    The bells are of clear, crisp tone and are a pleasure to ring. Once again, John Taylor and Co. are to be congratulated on a firstclass job.

    ## BELFRY GOSSIP

    Mr. A. S. Besant, who has been a member of the Ewel!, Surrey, band for 14 years, has retired to Somerset.
    Miss Susan B. Baker, of Brampton, Huntingdon, left England on April 13th for a visit to Australia.
    An attempt for a peal of 13.440 Plain Boh Major was made at Hanbury, Worcs, on April 30th.

    The father and two godparents rang in the quarter peal for the baptism of David Christopher Godfrey at Addington.
    Tower captains taking part in the recent peal of Doubles by the Andover District were from Amport. Kingsclere. Longparish. Andover. Highclere and St. Mary Bourne.
    Miss Patricia Laycock, on a year's teaching exchange from Guildford to Edmonton, Alta. Canada, spent the Easter week-end in British Columbia, ringing in Vancouver and Victoria.

    The tendency to sit in front of a television screen instead of attending the local practice has become very rife in recent years."-Andrew T. Beckwith, General Secretary. Suffolk Guild. On behalf of the Swansea and Brecon Diocesan Guild, Mr. J. Arthur Hoare gives a correction to the Analysis of Peals for 1965. Instead of Caters five peals it should read five peals Royal (on handbells). These were Spliced and Plain Bob
    The Society of Raving Ringers gave a warm welcome home to their former Master. Mr. Ronald K. Russ, with a peal of Yorkshire Surprise Major at Hook Norton, Oxfordshire. This was the first peal of Surprise Major for the Society.
    Mr. A. R. Saye, who left Calne for Cleveland. Somerset, six years ago, came back to his former tower to ring a quarter peal for his 74th birthday. The quarter was also a silver wedding compliment to Mr. and Mrs. Knowles. Mr. R. Saye, a brother of Mrs. Knowles, was also ringing in the quarter peal.

    ## FIRST PEAL ON DEVON'S NEW TEN

    Members of the Guild of Devonshire Ringers were honoured by being asked by the St. Mary's Guild of Bell Ringers, Brixham, to ring the first peal on the recently augmented ring of ten at Brixham. The two new trebles, a Winston Churchill Memorial Bell and a Parishioners Treble Bell, were cast by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank.

    Members from four Branches of the Guild rang a peal of 5040 Plain Bob Royal conducted by Norman Mallett in the morning before the dedication of the bells by the Archdeacon of Totnes, the Ven. R. J. D. Newhouse, M.A. After the dedication a touch of Grandsire Caters was rung before attending the reception at a local hotel to ring handbells before some 200 ringers and parishioners. Visiting ringers then rang touches on the bells until the evening.

    ## UP-AND-COMING YOUNG MEN OF YESTERDAY

    Mr. Charles Rouse, general secretary of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association, in his annual report writes: The year has seen the passing of some who were once what we now call "up-and-coming young men." Perhaps in the year 2032 some hon. secretary may be writing about one or other of the young members of today, as I am writing about these men. James Parker joined us in 1900 when he was 16 and rang his first peal in that year. Alfred E. Reeves joined 13 years later and rang in 18 peals for this Association in his firs: year with us. But grand as these records are, they are surpassed by that of F.J. Lewis of Cirencester, still with us after 68 years of membership, so far as my records show. He is our oldest member in every way; he rang the treble to a peal of Grandsire Caters in 1898.

    There was another great man, Joe Dyke: he died on the same day as Alf Reeves. He went from Cheltenham to Somerset in the 1920 's. I lived almost next door to him for a number of years and came to Cheltenham in 1939 with a letter of introduction to the late Walter Yeend.

    ## A YOUNG CONDUCTOR FROM BRISTOL

    Although the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association has not been short of junior talent in the past. Mr. Richard W. Sweet submits a claim that David Rennolds. who successfully called a peal at St. Werburgh's, Bristol, on April 23 rd at the age of 13 , is the youngest member to call a peal for the Association. It was also the first peal for three other members of the band, all of whom. apart from Mr. Sweet, are still at school.

    The conductor, who has only been ringing for 12 months, shows great promise. He had rung one previous peal-Grandsire Triples at St. George's, Bristol. He and the ringer of the second were both taught to ring by Mr. Sweet.

    ## CONGRATULATIONS

    At Histon, Cambridge, the local band have scored their first peal on their own bells. Another congratulation is to the North Western District. Lancashire Association. Maryl R. Crossthwaite conducted the District's first peal at East Crompton of Plain Bob Major on April 17th.

    ## ROGER SAVORY IN AMERICA

    Members of the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild will send their warmest congratulations to Roger and Elizabeth Savory on the birth of a son at Morristown, New Jersey, U.S.A.

    He has taken advantage of his stay to visit Washington Cathedral and Groton School. As to his week-end in Washington, he had somt very good ringing on the Saturday morning Stedman Triples, Bob Major and rounds on ten. "The striking of the young Washington band was remarkably good and did credit to the tuition they have received both in the hands of Richard Dirksen and Fred Price of Bournemouth.'

    His wife and small daughter, Caroline, accompanied him on his visit to Groton School during the Easter week-end. On Easter Day he joined in several excellently struck touches of Stedman Triples and Caters. Roger writes: "Considering the high 'turnover' of pupils at such a school, I feel that Russell Young is doing a most remarkable job of teaching ringing to his young bands. Having attended several striking competitions in the South of England in the last few years. I can assure Mr. Young and his boys that they would put a great majority of English hands in the shade at such a gathering. We hope to see Russell in England in 1967, when the next visit of Grotonians is currenty scheduled for trying cut some of our English towers."

    ## SHERWOOD YOUTHS IN LEICESTER-

    ## SHIRE

    The Society of Sherwood Youths received a very warm welcome when they attended a joint meeting with the Melton District of the Leicester Guild at Melton Mowbrav on April 23 rd . A good address on "Bells Through the Ages" was given by the Vicar, the Rev. G. H. Codrington, at the service. Mr. Rooke, of Warsop, replied to the District chairman's (Mr. J. H. Cook) speech of welcome.

    ## PROGRESS FROM RADLETT

    Mr. Ranald W. M. Clouston reports good progress from Radlett, Herts. The local band rang their first quarter peal on April 24th and all of them, except Mr. Clouston, have learned to ring since the installation of the bells two years ago. Jill and Brian Denmark have already rung a peal of Minor. Brian called his first quarter on April 24th.

    ## PEAL BOARD DEDICATED AT BUCK. LAND-IN-THE-MOOR, DEVON

    On April 16th the Vicar of Ashburton dedicated a peal board at the Church of St . Peter, Buckland-in-the-Moor, to mark the occasion of the peal of 10,240 changes of Plain Bob Major rung there by the Guild of Devonshire Ringers on October 2nd, 1965.
    Twenty-five ringers and friends attended from the Exeter and Plymouth Branches, including five members of the peal band. Ringing took place before and after the service and was followed by tea and further ringing at Ashburton. Methods ranged from Grandsire Triples to Yorkshire Surprise Major.

    ## LECHLADE BELLS TO BE REHUNG

    The six bells of St. Lawrence's Church. Lechlade, Gloucestershire, are to be rehung in the near future. They were last rehung in 1911 by Day, of Eye, Suffolk, on plan bearings in an oak frame.
    The Loughborough Foundry have been entrusted with the work of replacing the present bearings by double-row ball bearings and the cumbersome timber headstocks by those of the cast iron box-section type. New wrought iron clappers are to be installed; also new wheel rims. stays. sliders and rope rollers. In addition, the bells are to be retuned and turned. They will then be rehung in the present frame, which shows very little sign of its 55 years of constant use.

    The oldest bell is the fourth, dating from 1593, followed by the tenor ( 15 cwt .), cast in 1626, and the fifth, dated 1635 . It is thought that these three bells were all produced by Purdues of Bristol. The second is a Rudhall bell of 1742 , and the third was cast at Aldbourne in 1802 by James Wells. Finally, the treble, cast by Warner of Spitalfields, was added in 1911 at the time of the last rehanging.

    The bells are rung twice every Sunday and are popular with visiting bands. If any kind reader would care to help this small parish to meet the cost of the work, donations would te very gratefully received by the treasurer of the Parochial Church Council. Prof. Burrow, Foxfield, Lechlade, Glos.

    ## PROGRESS FROM SCARBOROUGH AREA

    Members of St. Laurence's, Scalby, took part in five quarter peals during the past year. with the help of ringing friends from Scarborough, York and Hull. These included five first quarters, two firsts as conductor and a number of firsts "inside" and in the methods. The climax was reached on Easter Monday, when a quarter of Plain Bob Doubles was rung, the first by an entirely local band and containing a wide variety of firsts. Three local ringers also rang their first peal, the only Scalby-trained ringers yet to have done so. These achievements are particularly satisfying. since most of the ringers, including the two new conductors, learned to handle a bell at Scalby, in a rather "stoney" area of Yorkshire, within the last three years.

    Other activities during the year have included a Christmas social. two outings, ringing with the Yorkshire Association and the Beverley and District Society, and handbell ringing.

    ## DIANA BRADFORD, OF CHARING

    With the exception of the Rev. Stanley Evans, from Bredgar, an all-Charing band rang a peal of Bob Major at Tunstall on April 12th. Mrs. Betty Robbins calls our attention to the remarkable progress made by Diana Bradford, who rang the third. She only started to ring last May, then aged 13. at Charing, and made such rapid strides that she now rings all the standard methods up to Cambridge very competently "inside."

    Diana's only eight-bell ringing has been at meetings, and her peal of Bob Major, which she rang very well indeed, was only her third touch in the method on eight bells.

    ## CLERICAL GUILD-RINGING "WEEK"

    ## Complex Itinerary

    "HOCK-TIDE" is defined in the dictionary as the second Monday and Tuesday after Easter, during which in olden times some rather odd customs were observed. For some it is now the beginning of the ringing "Week" of the Guild of Clerical Ringers, which goes on to the following Friday. This year Brighton was an excellent centre. Our secretary had found us a small hotel, comfortable and homely, well up to his usual standard. We had several newcomers as well as the usual tally of members who come year after year.
    Normally our tours are planned to radiate in three different directions from a strategic centre. This year the track of our outings was as complex as the blue-line of a "way-out" Surprise method, weaving here and there without any apparent order but no doubt in obedience to deep, hidden purpose. By car or coach we went hither and thither along the coastal plain or over the downs to the flat country to the north of Brighton and always it seemed to be raining! Sometimes it drizzled; at others it poured. Accuracy must admit to one really fine morning but on the whole "sunny Sussex" seemed to be just a huge confidence trick. One other feature of this year's tour was traffic congestion. Our coach could never park near the church we were aiming for and we had to walk far more than usual. Memory recalls a long, long trek in very heavy rain at Upper Beeding on a road more like a canal than a highway.

    ## Wealthy Churches

    To the professional eye the churches and belfries reflected how wealthy this part of England is. Everything was in apple-pie order with money no object. At one church which shall be nameless. the collections of Low Sunday were $£ 91$ and this led nameless. the carlections of Lowns of the Easter Offering-£219. At once enquiries were made about the patronage of this particular living! On the rare occasions when the rain stopped we particular living! On the rare occasions when the beauty which draw so many to these parts.

    One interesting piece of belfrymanship was seen in new and unusually coloured sets of bellropes. Altogether we found 10 different varieties. The best specimen was a set of deep blue sallies with narrow yellow stripes-very smooth!

    Many of the churches had a dumpy assured look often found in Sussex. Their towers were squat with steeples set firmly low down on them. They conveyed a sense of security and endurance. To the delight of those who hate stairs there were plenty of ground-foor rings.

    The week's ringing got off to an excellent start at Arundel with a good rise and well-struck course of Cambridge Major. It looked as if this would be the tour of all tours. But for the rest of the week our ringing was like the curate's egg-good in parts. Our first evening ring, at the Good Shepherd, Brighton, was not without incident. No one knew Brighton well and a convoy of cars was soon lost. The leader stopped "to ask a policeman" and got a severe lecture for his pains on stopping on the main road. The law relented enough to direct him up a hill more like Somerset than Sussex to the church. There the electricity had failed. So Double Norwich was rung to candlelight. The clerical mind recognised the sources of light as the ends of altar candles-a good use in our opinion.

    ## Lost Peal Attempts

    We had three 10 -bell towers on our list and at the first, St. Nicholas', Brighton, touches of Grandsire and Stedman were followed by a half-course of Cambridge Royal-high class stuff for the Clerical Guild. At Southover, too, there was a good effort with well-struck Grandsire Caters followed by Bob Royal. This latter was by way of practice for the peal attempt at St. Peter's, Brighton, the following day. Had this come off it would have been a "first" for the Guild. Unfortunately, though it seemed to be well within the grasp of the band it was lost after half-an-hour's first rate ringing. Better luck next year!
    The other peal attempt was Bob Major at Burgess Hill. This was lost after two hours. Five of the defeated band wandered along the main street (in the rain) seeking liquid consolation. As they entered the only hostelry they could find they heard a loud female comment from behind the bar to the effect that "men are - useless." This seemed to be an apt comment on the lost peal. The lady in question was curious about the five strangers invading her pub at 12 m the morning. There were, of course, no dog-collars to be seen. Her guesses varied from income-tax inspectors(sic) to men who had come to see about the road. In order to enlighten her Roger Fry listed the various offices of her clients on the back of a visiting-card of Canon Felstead and handed this to her with due solemnity as the party left. An asonished "My Gawd" rang through the pub. It almost made up for losing the peal.
    We rang on a number of good eights of which Arundel, Henfield, Petworth and Hurstpierpoint stand out in the memory. Good bells produced good ringing in the usual methods though Stedman seems to be giving way to Bob Major as the staple diet of the Guild. At Bolney a touch of four-spliced was brought round-a record for the Guild, we believe. By way of contrast a veil of silence must be drawn over our performance on the anti-clockwise eight at Ditchling. There were some very pleasant sixes too with Cowfold outstanding both in the setting of the village and the bells.

    ## Annual Meeting

    We took over the hotel lounge for our annual meeting, the ladies of the party being banished to the hotel office. Proceedings followed the usual lines. Preb. Andrews presented a financial statement which showed that our balance was down from $£ 85 \mathrm{~s} .9 \mathrm{~d}$. to $£ 71 \mathrm{~s}$. 5 d . The officers were re-elected: President, the Rev. R. D. St. J. Smith; vice-presidents, Canons B. F. Sheppard and K. W. H. Felstead; secretary and treasurer, Preb. J. H. B. Andrews. The committee comprises the above with the addition of the Rev. I. J. Richards and the Rev. J. B. T. Homfray Next year's "week" will have Lincolnshire as first choice with Worcestershire as second. The president moved a resolution of gratitude to incumbents for allowing us the use of the bells and to those who met us at almost every tower. This was passed with enthusiasm because we felt that we were made really welcome.

    ## So to Home

    After the last evening's ring at Aldrington the Rev. M. C. C. Melville showed two good films, one of "Great Adventure II" and the other of the dedication of the Washington Ten.
    Next morning we packed, paid and set off for our last three towers. Needless to say it was raining. Characteristically, too, we were involved in parking difficulty ${ }^{\text {, }}$, his time with a coal lorry. Another pleasant ring and "good-bye" brought to an end a very good Clerical "week."

    ## Sir Arthur Heywood Memorial Service

    T
    THERE was a large gathering at St. Alkmund's Church, Duffield, Derbyshire, on April 23rd to honour the memory of Sir Arthur Percival Heywood, Bart., on the 50th anniversary of his death. The Derby Diocesan Association had spared no pains to arrange a festival of ringing on the day, culminating with the service. Some 18 towers were open and two circuits were planned for those anxious to ring in new towers. The service was followed by a buffet tea in Derby and evening ringing at the Cathedral and St. Peter's.
    The address at the commemoration service was given by the Rev. R. D. St. John Smith, Rector of Darley Dale and president of the Clerical Guild and formerly president of the Lancashire Association. He was well fitted for the responsibility as he is a native of Derbyshire. apart from being one of our most experienced clerical ringers.
    "This is an historic occasion and one which will undoubtedly remain in memory for a long time," he said, "for today, on the 50 th anniversary of his death, we commemorate one who was probably the greatest 'all-rounder. in the history of change ringing, Sir Arthur Percival Heywood, Bart.
    "It is as an "all-rounder" that I think Sir Arthur deserves the title of the greatest figure in ringing history. There were, even in his day and age, men who rang many more peals. There have been many greater conductors. There have been equally skilled composers. There have been other wealthy men who have given generously of their substance to forward the cause of change ringing. Others were associated with him in the founding of the Central Council of Church Bell Ringers. I know of none who have been so prominent in so many directions.
    "Arthur Percival Heywood was born on Christmas Day, 1849. His youngest daughter, Miss Effie Heywood, has written to me: "He was always keen on bells as a boy; I think it was when, after his marriage, he went to live at Duffield, that his real love of that church and the bells began. ${ }^{\circ}$ The Central Council Biography records that he himself began change ringing at Duffield in 1883 and that the following year he was responsible for the installation of the ring of eight bells, the back eight of the present ring of ten, I believe, which were opened on February 23rd, 1884.

    FIRST PEAL-FIRST BY ALL THE BAND "During a ringing career of some 30 -odd years Sir Arthur rang 152 peals; a modest total compared with those of keen peal-ringers of the present generation. His first peal was at Duffield on July 26th, 1884, and it was indeed a notable performance. A humble peal of Plain Bob Triples, it was the first peal on the new bells, and also the first peal by all

    SIR ARTHUR PERCIVAL HEYWOOD, BART. as a young man.
    "It is, I think, fairly obvious that service ringing meant more to him than peal ringing. His daughter writes: "He was always among the ringers on Sundays. ${ }^{2}$; and she goes on to say that her earliest recollection of him as a ringer was sitting with him while he had an early supper before going to the weekly practice at Duffield Church.
    $\because$ Sir Arthur was an engineer of no mean ability, and had his own workshops and an experimental light railway at Duffield. Obviously the scientific side of ringing appealed to his technical type of mind. His daughter says: - I do not think that music meant a great deal to him; it was the science and problems of change ringing that attracted him. In the technical field of composition he did indeed become outstanding; his compositions of Stedman, Double Norwich and the band-and it was conducted by Sir Arthur Heywood. Incidentally, he does not seem to have been particularly interested in calling peals, although he must have had considerable ability. for he called peals in a variety of methods, including London Surprise Major and Duffield Maximus.

    Bob Major have become, deservedly, among the best-known of all compositions. It is probable that his simple transposition of Thurstans' peal of Stedman Triples has been rung more frequently than any other composition in that method.

    ## HIS VISION-THE CENTRAL  COUNCIL

    "Well known as was Sir Arthur as a ringer and benefactor at his own church, and also as a composer of peals, he is probably even better known now as the principal founder and first president of the Central Council. Indeed the Central Council owes its existence to the vision of Sir Arthur, to his conviction that ringing societies throughout the country required a central organisation, and to his strength of character and power of leadership, which brought the Council into being in the face of considerable opposition. When he set out to found such a central organisation, Sir Arthur was batting on a very difficult wicket: a wicket made difficult by the general apathy of provincial ringers, by the active opposition of the London societies, who were largely a 'law unto themselves.' and by the aftermath of an abortive attempt to form a "National Society' a few years previously.
    "Writing about the foundation of the Central Council at the time of its golden jubilee in 1941. that talented ringing historian, the late J. Armiger Trollope, stated categorically that there was only one ringer in England who could have founded it in the face of the prevailing opposition, namely, Sir Arthur Heywood; and he did it. Sir Arthur had become president of the Midland Counties Association of Chang: Ringers in 1886, and he represented that Association on the Central Council from its formation in 1891 until his death in 1916. He was the first president of the Central Council, and up to the time that he died he never missed a meeting.
    "As a wealthy benefactor who took a keen interest in the ringing at his own church we may perhaps liken Sir Arthur to Charles A. W. Troyte, of Huntsham Court, Devonshire, but he reached far higher standards as a ringer than Troyte ever attained.

    A COMPOSER IN HIGHEST RANK
    "As a composer he was in the highest rank, and in this field his name will go down to posterity alongside those of Thurstans and Lates, Hubbard, Annable and Shipway, Johnson and Dains, Reeves and Knights, Craven, Pitstow and the rest of the great composers.
    "As a writer on the technicalities of ringing his style was at least the equal of such wellknown authors as the brothers Jasper and William Snowdon, the Rev. C. D. P. Davies and J. Armiger Trollope.

    THE GREATEST ALL-ROUNDER IN CHANGE RINGING

    "As an administrator and a leader of men Sir Arthur stands in a class by himself amongst ringers.
    "So we remember him today ; the great all-rounder in the service of ringing. In his service to ringing Sir Arthur was true to his character, for he was a generous benefactor to the Church in many other ways also, and he tonk an active part in much public and charitable work, notably in the affairs of the Derbyshire Royal Infirmary.
    "And what of the man in his home? Here he was an example of the Victorian tradition at its best; a devoted husband and a devoted father to his nine children, yet one who could be strict when occasion required. I like the little personal touch contained at the end of a letter I have received from one of nis nephews, who writes:

    I remember Sir Arthur as the genial head of a large and cheerful family where I used to stay from time to time. He used to show me the two gleaming and beautiful steam engines which supplied power for the house and estate, and he never forgot to press a 5 s . piece into my hand when the time came to say goodbye.'
    "We meet together today to thank God for the life and work of Sir Arthur Perval Heywood, the greatest 'all-rounder' among the servants of ringing. May his memory be an inspiration to ringers of all ages, an inspiration to press forward without faltering in our united service to the Church and to our Exercise.

    ## LONDON COUNTY ASSOCIATION

    The annual general meeting of the London County Association was held on February 19th. with the service at St. Clement Danes conducted by a member, the Rev. W. D. Grainger, and with Mr. H. G. Edwards, of St. John's, Waterloo Road, as organist. Tea and the meeting followed at the Edinburgh Tavern opposite.
    The Master, Mr. C. W. Ottley, who did not seek re-election. thanked the members for the honour bestowed upon him after 44 years as a member. He reported that eight peals had been rung during the year, a smaller number than usual; however, the main duty of members was in Sunday ringing and in this respect he thanked the "Sunday evening quarter peal company" for their efforts. Eight general meetings and two joint meetings had been hetd and 21 new members elected. A regular monthly week-day practice had been restarted, on the first Thursday in each month. at St. Mary Abbots, Kensington, at 7.45 p.m.

    The meeting stood in silence in memory of the following deceased members: Reuben Sanders (elected in 1914), Joseph T. Dyke, of Chilcompton (1921), and John W. Ward, of Melbourn, Cambs (1939) and also of a non-member, Thomas Thurley, of Chiswick. a great friend of the AssociaChiswick, a great friend of the Associa-

    The officers for 1966 are: Master, C. M. Meyer: Deputy Master: H. W. Rogers:

    ## BEDFORDSHIRE ASSOCIATION

    Despite menacing skies the attendance topped the 60 mark at the meeting of the Biggleswade District at Old Warden on April 9th. Due to unfortunate circumstances it was reported that the District outing would have to be abandoned and an evening meeting at Henlow arranged instead on May 14th.

    ## HERTS COUNTY ASSOCIATION A.G.M.

    ## Kenneth R. Dunstan Elected New President

    THE high standard of handbell ringing en joyed by the Hertford County Association was in evidence during the service at St. Mary's, Watford, on April 16th, when a touch of Spliced Surprise Major was rung bv Mrs. Kathleen Baldwin 1-2, Christopher Woolley 3-4, Roger Baldwin 5-6 and Gerald Penney 7-8. The service was conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. J. Downward, and the lesson was read by Richard G. Bell. Ringing during the day took place at Abbots Langley, Bushey Heath, Elstree, Rickmansworth King's Langley, Bushey, Harrow Weald, Watford and Langleybury. Unfortunately the eight at Aldenham were not available as completion of the work of rehanging had been delayed. The prompt efforts of Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, however, in repairing a broken gudgeon of the treble at Watford at short notice, enabled the ten to be rung. A smaller gathering than usual, numbering 125, enjoyed an excellent tea prepared by Mrs. Bell and her helpers before the business meeting was opened by the president, Brian M . Barker. In welcoming members and visitors, the president made special reference to G. William Critchley, the immediate past president, and Mrs. Critchley, who are now living in Middlesex. Also present was Mr. Frank Perrens, the librarian of the Central Council.

    The meeting stood in silence in respect to those members who had died during the year; these included Mrs. J. Banfield (associate) Messrs. J. Bray (Baldock), C. V. Hare (Hitchin), L. Seabrook (Abbots Langley) and D. C. Wellington (Hatfield).

    The president then presented a life member ship certificate to Cecil E. R. Evans, of Aldenham, in recognition of 50 years' continuous membershio of the Association.

    The more mundane business of the meeting was completed with exemplary despatch: the minutes were accepted without comment and the various reports were taken as read, having been published in the annual report. Even Howard Collings. who as treasurer had produced a profit of over $£ 15$. was not asked to comment on his stewardship. New ringing members elected were Jill Gordon, Jill Laud and Michael Eastman (Watford) and Miss H M. Evans (North Mymms). The Rev. Downward was elected as an associate member.

    ## VISITED EVERY RINGABLE TOWER

    Kenneth R. Dunstan (Langleybury) was then elected president for the ensuing year and was duly installed with his badge of office. Mr Dunstan thanked the meeting for their confidence and said that he hoped $t 0$ wisit as much of the county as possible during his term as president. Walter Ayre expressed members' appreciation of Brian Barker's efforts during the past year; these included the major task of ringing in every ringable tower in the Association, which he had successfully accomplished four days earlier.

    With one exception all the officers were reelected as follows: A. Rex Agg (general secletary), Howard Collings (treasurer), C. Anne Agg (peal secretary) and Jovce Dodds (librarian). Harold V. Frost did not seek re election as assistant secretary, and Mrs. Mary Cohurn was elected to office. Brian Barker paid tribute to Mr Frost, who had served the Association with a quiet efficiency for many years in a number of nositions including District secretarv. librarian, general secretary, president (1962) and as assictant secretary for the past six years. Mr Frost had also compiled a hooklet entitled "Ringing in Hertfordshire." which traced the develonment of the Association from its incention in 1884 and provided a concise historv of ringine throughout the countr. Some copies of this tooklet are still available from the general secretary. There were six candidates for the four renresentatives to the Central Cnuncil and a hallot was necessary. Thnce elecied were Walter Ayre. Rrian Barker, Richard Bell and Geoffrey Dodds.

    ## BOUNDARY REORGANISATION

    The acquiescent mood of the meeting continued even into the usually controversial resolutions for discussion. There were four motions on the agenda and each received a remarkably smooth passage. The first dealt with boundary reorganisation due to the implementation of the Greater London Act; South Mymms, which was previously an affiliated tower, was now within the county. while Barnet and Monken Hadley were now in the Greater London area. Accordingly it was agreed that these should be regarded as affiliated towers in order that they should retain their affinities with the Association
    The second motion sought to amend the complicated rule governing the tower election of non-resident life members, which stipulated that a major proportion of the band must be members of the Association. The proposition from the Northern District was that two resident members should be able to elect any number of non-resident members prior to a peal attempt, subject to their subsequent ratification. This was carried with hardly a murmur of opposition, thus presenting the Northern District with its first successful resolution for many years.
    An administrative measure to elect the Association's representatives to the Central Council in the second year of each threeyear term of office was agreed without dissent. Reginald Sheppard then lent weight to the Western District's motion that the Association should invite the Central Council to hold a meeting in the county, extolling the virtues of Hemel Hempstead as a possible venue. This item produced the liveliest discussion. but agreement was reached without difficulty. Walter Ayre, entering his 40th year as a Central Council representative for the Association, was asked to convey the invitation in person to the meeting at Bath.

    Any other business included a series of speakers advocating q variety of functions, including the Diocesan Festival in June, a "May Day" event at Kimpton on May 7th. a Flower Festival at North Mvmms on July 1st. 2nd and 3rd. and the handbell section of the St. Albans Music Festival in November. The Management Committee was empowered to use advertisements in the annual report provided that the income was found to be a significant contribution to the ever-increasing cost of nublication Mr . Woolley gave 3 hrief reminder of the inadequacy of hell fund grants before the meeting closed with the customary votes of thanks to all who had worked hard to ensure the success of the meeting.

    ## Letters to the Editor

    CHANGE RINGING IN NEWCASTLE AREA
    Dear Sir, -In reply to Mr. Arthur's letter cnticising my recent articles in Change Ringing in Newcastle Area," I regret that there were errors and omissions. I did, in fact, suggest that a note at the top welcoming additions and corrections would be reasonable. My main aim in publishing these articles (originally not intended for "The Ringing World ") was not to provide a standard work of reference but to present an item of some local interest.

    Having said this, I think some more detuiled defence is called for. There were three mistakes present due to my own carelessness If I had been wise enough to get someone like Mr. Arthur to read the articles before publication these could have been avoided. A number of "errors" were in fact where Mr. Arthur himself is wrong (or my views are at least tenable). There are also a few cases of somewhat (a year or two) inaccurate dates and one case where I think I was misled by an apparently reliable source.

    Mr. Arthur said that 1 "relied mainly on hearsay and even guesswork, in certain instances." This is a gross and unjustifiable exaggeration. There are in fact two cases, I think, where I was not quite conscientious enough with my sources and therefore went a bit wrong.

    There are various facts which I should have included to make my potted histories more complete. However, in some cases I deliberatelv avoided giving a list of the prominent ringers associated with a tower. Mr. Arthur (perhaps rightly) considered this a mistake.
    Mr. Arthur writes that "it is obvious that your contributor has not made his researches in sufficient depth. On the whole 1 con sider this wrong. I did in fact consult most of the obvious sources and some unobviolls ones (such as Somerset House). I spent weeks looking through Association reports: days through all the old "Bell News" copies and some "Ringing Worlds": I spoke to manv of the older ringers: where there were local Ringing Society record hooks I almost always consulted them. All this was interesting to me; I hope some other Newcastle ringers found the result interesting.

    I have also been criticised on the ground that my articles gave too pessimistic on outlook on ringing in Newcastle. There are two sides to this question. On one side there has been (as shown by a graph) a fairly continuous decline in Association membership in this area since the last war; very few towers here ring all their bells to changes on a Sunday. On the other hand. there are quite a few learners about (particularly in the Jesmond band): also the Tyneside peal hand is in quite reasonable shape.-Yours faithfully.

    ## OLDEST TO RING FIRST PEAL OF SURPRISF:

    Dear Sir-May I add my congratulations to Mr. Harold Wagstaff on ringing his first peal of Spliced Surprise Major at the age of 69 In reply to your inquiry, however, the late George Williams rang his first peal not long before the last war when he was, I think. 82. This was in the four standard methods. Yours sincerely,
    E. A. BARNETT.

    ## YORKSHIRE EXPERIMENTS

    Dear Sir, - While experimenting recently with compositions of Yorkshire Surprise Major, I discovered the following two peals. The first one was produced from one of six different sets of 14 combination courses; although it should be possible to obtain similar peals from the other sets, it seems that with none of them is it possible to connect 23 courses in a round black unless at least one course containing no roll-ups is included. Can enyone confirm that this is so whatever set of combination courses is used, and that in fact 100 roll-ups is the maximum obtainable in this length?

    ## CANTERBURY SURPRISE

    Dear Sir,-Having looked up Canterbury Surprise in the Central Council's "Collection of Doubles and Minor Methods " (1949 edition) and then turned 10 Snowdon's "Diagrams of Standard Methods" ( 1957 reprint), I am astonished to find that the two do not agree!

    Snowdon gives Canterbury Surprise as a seconds place method, but the Central Council's book gives Alnwick Surprise as the seconds place variation and Canterbury Surprise as the sixths place variation of the same method. Clearly both cannot be correct! Could you please tell me which one is wrongas it would be very awkward indeed if half a band turned up expecting to ring a peal of Canterbury only to find that the other half were ringing what they called Alnwick! Yours sincerely,

    VERNON BEDFORD.

    ## OUTING

    ## ST. MARY'S, BATTLE

    Leaving Battle at eight o'clock on Easter Monday, our first call was at Westerham, after a pleasant drive through Ashdown Forest Here Grandsire, Stedman and Yorkshire were rung. Si. Mary Cray was our next tower. remembered by some as a somewhat dingy ground-floor belfry. This has recently been transformed into a pleasant upstairs ringing room. Once we were accustomed to the deep set of the bells, Grandsire, Stedman, Plain Bob and London were brought round.
    A suitable hostelry was found for lunch before making our way north to the banks of the Thames to ring on the glorious eight at the Chapel of Unity, Gravesend. Our efforts here were not worthy of comment, and rounds for beginners was notably more successful than attempts for Stedman and London! Moving back south to Wrotham (another fine eight), some of our best ringing of the day took place in the form of a course of Plain Bob, a touch of Stedman and a half-course of Cambridge. Our last stop before tea was Snodland, where we were met by the Rector.

    Tea was taken at the Flower Bowl Restaurant. Maidstone, following which we arrived at Yalding 15 minutes late. The heavy six ( 18 cwt.) proved a little too much for some of the youngsters but a good course of London was achieved. Our last call was at Brenchley, where an odd-struck seventh and a tenor up wrong did not help the ringing. Our thanks to our most obliging driver Ted Baker, and most of all to 14 -year-old David Winchester for courageously undertaking all the arrangements himself and making a thoroughly enjoyable day of it.     ## AN OLD BELL DISCOVERED

    Dear Sir.-Whilst inspecting a sadly disused Early English chapel at Holwell, Herts, I came across the trap door leading to the little turret tower. Inside the turret $I$ found an ancient bell of somewhat unusual shape. As the turret measured only some four feet by four feet and was very dark, it was impossible to photograph the bell. The inscription reads: "ITI. SAPIS. POTAN. DATI. NONE."
    I would be very grateful if anybody could shed some light on the origin and date of the bell.-Yours sincerely.

    ## DERBY DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION

    ## 20th Annual General Meeting

    ovVER 70 members and friends were present when the 20th annual general meeting of the Derby Diocesan Association was held in Derby on April 16th. During the afternoon ringing was enjoyed at Horsley (6), St. Alkmund's (8) was the Cathedral (10) prior to the annual serand the Cathedral (10) prior to the annual service conducted by the Association's president, the Provost of Derby (the Very Rev. R. A Beddoes). Wives and families of the local company prepared an excellent tea in the Cathedral rooms, which was free of charge due to an anonymous member of the company covering the cost in celebration of his 30th wedding anniversary-a kind gesture which was much appreciated.

    In his opening remarks as chairman of the subsequent business meeting, the president congratulated the Association on the steady but quite considerable progress it had made over the last few years. Although he felt the Derby Diocese was sometimes rather slow at setting an example in clerical matters, when it came to ringing matters the opposite was much more the case. It was, however, all too easy to become complacent and he urged members to continue in making the Association go from strength to strength.

    The general secretary, Mr. B. P. Morris, reported that the membership of 405-389 ringing and 16 honorary members-was only one less than last year's record. It was, however, with regret that he recorded the death of two founder members-Mrs. E. Foulk (Duffield). who rang in the first peal of Bob Major by a ladies' band, and Mr. E. C. Gobey (Ilkeston). who was responsible for the Ilkeston variation of Treble Bob.

    ## P.C.C. SUPPORT BELL FUND

    In his report on the financial position the general treasurer, Mr. J. C. Woolley, regretted a slight loss of $£ 5$ on the year's working. Although the balance of $£ 77$ compared unfavourably with that of four years ago ( $£ 100$ ) he was confident this gradual decline in the reserves would be halted by the new subscription rates. As usual, the finances of the Bell Repair Fund, as presented by its treasurer. Mr. J. B. Stennitt, were in a much healthier position due to the continued financial support of over 80 P.C.C.'s. Although over £75 had been paid out in grants over the last four years the balance of $£ 350$ compared very favourably with that prior to the affiliation scheme ( $£ 30$ ).
    Reporting on the work of the bell consultants, the secretary. Mr. G. A. Halls, said 1965 had been one of their busiest years yet, with technical help and/or advice having been given to 11 towers, and a grant of $£ 25$ having been paid towards the repair of Chellaston bells. The success of the year was undoubtedly at Denby where, with the help of new bearings from Messrs. Taylors, the bells had been rehung, the entire operation of dismantling and rehanging having been successfully carried ou: by local labour.

    OUTSTANDING PEALS
    A rather lower peal total (52) than usual was reported by the peal secretary, Mr. D. R. Carlisle. Outstanding peals included non-conducted Yorkshire Royal and the first of London Minor by a local band at Sandiacre. The leading conductor was Gordon Halls, who was also the leading peal ringer with a total of 18. followed by Malcolm Phipps with 14. Following the education officer's (Mr. D. J Marshall's) résume of the instructional activities of 1965, the main event being the Association's first residential course held at Lea Green last November, the various reports and balance sheets were adopted with grateful thanks for all the work which had obviously gone into their preparation.

    ## TRIBUTE TO MR. A. MOULD

    On behalf of the company, the peal secretary (Mr. Carlisle) paid tribute 10 Mr . A. Mould who, after serving the Association most faithfully as Central Council representative for the last 12 years, was not seeking re-election. In recognition of his services he was unanimously elected a vice-president. A tribute was also paid to Mr. Carlisle himself, whe was also paid to Mr. Carlisle himself. whe not seeking re-election this time.
    With the addition of Mr. S. Walklate as trustee in place of Mr. Lowe, the other officers were all elected en bloc as follows: President. the Provost of Derby; vice-presidents, Messrs. F. Adams. J. Bailey and A. Mould: secretary, Mr. B. P. Morris. Gable End, i4 Greenway, Ashbourne: trustees, Messrs. H. Taylor and S. Walklate; peal secretary, Mr. D. Friend: treasurer, Mr. J. C. Woolley: Central Council representatives (after a ballot), Messrs. G. Halls. M. Phipps and D. R. Carlisle.

    ## OBITUARY

    ## MR. JOHN PINFOLD

    " If there be good in that I wrought, Thy hand compelled it Master, Thine Where I have failed to meet Thy thought, I know, through Thee, the fault was mine. I feel a great sense of personal loss in hearing of the passing of John Pinfold. Those of us who rang a great number of peals with him know the quiet carnestness and concentration with which he approached any job and how very rarely he made a mistake. He always aimed at ringing a touch or peal without making a mistake and, indeed, it was unusual for him to make a trip. Often at the end of a peal he would say, "with a quiet twinkle, "Another clean sheet." He was a very fine ringer. That stern critic, Alfred Paddon Smith, described Jack as a very accomplished performer, and Jafus, that shrewd judge of men and things, once said: "I like John Pinfold's style; he minds his own business and gets on with the job." These were no mean tributes.

    As a Ringing Master he stood in the front rank. He had no use for the slacker, and was firm in his condemnation af the latecomer and the indolent. But with the earnest learner he had a great sympathy and infinite patience. His polite inquiry of the visitor: - And what would you like to ring? " concealed his genuine pride in the practices at St Martin's Church. He delighted in the privilege of having around him a company that could offer to the beginner or the accomplished ringer anything he desired to practise. Tell me what you have looked up," he would say to the rather diffident learner, " and would say to the rather diffident learner, "and you shall ring it." And he expected his experienced and highly competent colleagues to give of their best in helping the young man or young lady who had come to learn.
    Those of us who knew John Pinfold intimately will remember with gratitude the example he set us of gentlemanly conduct, sturdy independence and unobtrusive application to hir work He represented all that was best in the older generation of ringers. He leamed his change ringing the hard way, but he learned it thoroughly, and applied it with such devotion as to make his contribution to the worship of the Church and to the cause of change ringing an offering of high and lasting value.

    ## MR. W. R. HUGHES

    St. Matthew's. Walsall, band has suffered a great loss in the death of Walter $\mathbf{R}$ Hughes. He joined the Walsall band and the Staffs Archdeaconry Society in 1902 and was one of the oldest ringers in South Staffs. Owing to ill-health he retired from service ringing in 1964 but continued to pay periodical visits to the belfry and take part in short touches, his last visit being on Palm Sunday. when he said to the writer. "l've just come to see if you want me." He died on April 20 th in hospital after being rushed there on April 18th.
    Not a great peal ringer, Mr. Hughes rang 59 for the Staffs Archdeaconry Society, mostlv rung in the 1930 s , after in 1929 . with T. J. Elton (his brother-in-law) and later Howard Howell as conductors.
    The funeral service at St. Matthew's was conducted by the Vicar of Walsall Before and after the service there was half-muffled ringing by his Walsall friends. An attempt for a peal of Grandsire Triples. half-muffled. on April 30th, was unfortunately lost after three hours' ringing
    Our deepest sympathy goes out to Mrs Hughes and her family.

    ## MR. JOSEPH LOVETT

    With deep regret his many friends in South Wales and elsewhere heard of the passing of Mr. Joseph Lovett, of Pentre, Rhondda, on Good Friday, after a short illness, at the age of 64 .

    He was the last remaining link with the famous band at St. Peter's, Pentre, whose performances from the early part of this century to the period just before the last war have never since been equalled by any local company in the area.
    "Jos," as he was affectionately known, was one of the band who taught themselves to ring on the grand ring of bells at Pentre, and reached, in those days when Surprise ringing was not the commonplace thing it is today, the heights of ringing the first peals by a local band of Cambridge and Superlative in South Wales. They also recorded many other fine achievements. Considering the relative remoteness of Pentre and the fact that they had no experienced tutor, these were indeed remarkable achievements. How true must be the inscription in the peal book at Pentre, "Perseverance is crowned with success." In all Jos rang 49 peals and all except one were for the Llandaff and Monmouth Association.

    He had not enjoyed the best of health for a number of years and had not been employed since 1941 due to the dreaded miner's disease of silicosis, but this terrible handicap never altered his cheerful nature. He was unable to climb the steps to the belfry in the last few years, but he still maintained his interest in ringing, and nothing gave him greater pleasure than welcoming visitors to Pentre and, after listening to their ringing, partaking of a pint of beer with them at the "Club." A faithful churchman, he maintained a deep interest in St. Peter's all his life.
    He was buried at Treorchy on April 14th. His many friends, both in ringing and outside, will miss him deeply, and none more so than myself, who spent many happy hours in his company Our deepest sympathy goes to his widow and family. May he rest in peace.

    ## MR. HARRY POUNDER

    "A remarkable old chap." is how our correspondent recalls Mr. Harry Pounder, of West Hallam, Derbyshire, who died on March 30th, a few days after a stroke.
    He learned to ring Grandsire Doubles on one bell more or less by rote and then after an absence of 15 years came back when a new band was formed about five years ago. Harry was then nearly 70 and learned to ring the method properly and also Plain Bob. Last year he managed a touch of Grandsire Triples. He rang in several quarters and was a faithful member of the Sunday service band until Christmas. when his wife became unwell.

    ## BATH AND WELLS DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION

    ## Frome Branch

    About 40 members and friends made their way across foggy. snow-covered hills to the tiny village of Ashwick, in the heart of the Mendips, for the Branch spring meeting. The resident Vicar, the Rev. G. H. Ridler, conducted Evensong, which followed a wellstruck service touch of Double Court.

    Immediately after an excellent meal served by the ladies of the parish, the business meeting, under the chairmanship of the Rev A G. Durston, commenced. Six new members were elected and the date for the corporate Communion at Paulton was fixed for June 12 th . and the next meeting, at Radstock June 12 th . an for July 9 th.

    After a general discussion ranging from the design of clapper mufts for learners to rules of the striking competition. Mr. Ron Beck congratulated the Branch chairman on ringing his first peal. a feat believed to be the first of its kind accomplished by the chairman in his own tower.

    JOINT COUNCIL OF YORKSHIRE RINGING SOCIETIES

    ## One Day Course/Conference at Selby

    STEP towards fulfilling another of the aims of the Joint Council of Yorkshire Ringing Societies took place on March 19th at Selby. A one-day course/conference was held for instructors, tower captains, ringing masters and anyone interested in the training of ringers. The event was the result of a wish expressed in the representatives of the ten societies n Yorkshire comprising the Council. A committee, consisting of Messrs. J. N. D. Chaddock, T. H. Foster and W. F. Moreton, had been formed to organise the course, which was attended by over 70 ringers. They were welcomed in Selby Abbey by the chairman of the Joint Council. Mr. Ted Hudson. He introduced those present to the Vicar of Selby, who opened the proceedings with prayer. The first session was "Teaching Bell Control," and demonstrations of their methods were given by David Johnson, Norman Chaddock and Fred Hodgson. A short but lively discussion followed, covering topics from "which hand to hold the rope end?" to "the use of a dummy tail end

    After coffee at the nearby Hawdon Institute, the course continued with an address by Vernon Bottomley on "The Organisation of One's Own Tower," which was published in "The Ringing World " on April 29th. A very lively discussion followed, finally revolving around the choice of methods to teach learners. It proved interesting to note that the list recommended by Mr. Bottomley was the-same as that which Mr. Moreton outlined in his demonstration after lunch. Everyone enjoyed the meal at the Corunna Café.

    Back to the belfry, where Wilfrid Moreton selected a band of six ringers to demonstrate "Bell Control to Easy Method Ringing." Showing some of the stages, the progress of the pupil through ringing a tied bell, ringing an open bell in rounds, call changes, to plain hunting, was followed Particular emphasis on correct striking caused one or two red faces in the demonstrating band, much to the amusement of the others. It was suggested that it was worth "letting the pupil know the numbers" if good striking was the result. The experience necessary for acquiring ropesight must only be given when the pupil has good control and can strike well. Afterwards, in the Hawdon Institute, Norman Chaddock addressed the course on "Ringing Meetings, their Function and Organisation. The Ringing Master's Job." (See page 242.)
    After the tea break the course split into small groups for the final session. on "Conducting Standard Methods." Mr Harold Chant took Spliced Minor: Wilfred MoretonGrandsire and Stedman Caters; John Gilbert --Plain Bob Minor: Fred Hodgson-Grandsire Doubles and Triples: Henry FieldenSpliced Surprise Maior: Eric Critchley-Stedman Triples; and Norman Chaddock-Plain Bob Major. The groups were scattered in various parts of the Abbey. Later all gathered in the belfry and each group had the opportunity to try something they had covered in their particular session.

    ## GUILD of DEVONSHIRE RINGERS

    ## Mid-Devon Branch

    There was a good attendance at the MidDevon Branch quarterly meeting at Teignmouth on April 23 rd . Touches of Grandsire, Stedman. Plain Bob Triples and Major were rung before the service conducted by the Rev. L. G. Folland (Vicar).

    THE WASHINGTON "TEN" REUNION
    Dean Francis B. Sayre and Rick Dirksen captain of Washington Cathedral Guild of Ringers, flew to London for the last six days of Washington Cathedral choir's stay in Lon-don-singing at Westminster Abbey. They ar rived in London on Wednesday, April 27th and that evening Dean Sayre gave a reunion dinner to the ten English ringers who went to Washington for the opening of the Cathedral bells. There was only one absentee-John Freeman, who was unable to attend.

    On the following day. Rick travelled to Rotherham and rang his first peal, 5,057 Grandsire Caters. Rick, already a member of the Yorkshire Association, was elected a member of the Sheffield Society of Change Ringers and an honorary life member of Rotherham Parish Church Company of Ringers He rang extremely well and it was a good peal

    Afterwards the peal band and the remainder of the Rotherham Company with the Rev Gerald Hollis gatbered at the Crown Hotel for a buftet supper and refreshments. It was a memorable occasion during which compliments were exchanged between the local ringers and their young American friend. Rick stayed the night with Mr. and Mrs. N. Chad dock and returned to London the following day.

    ## FIRST PEAL IN CANADA FOR OVER 20 YEARS

    The Lincoln Diocesan Guild has an outpost in Calgary. Alberta. After a gap of over ? years another peal has been rung in Canada, the first on the hells of Christ Cburch. Elbow Park. Calgary. This is through the initiative of J. Miehael Simpson. Four members of the hand had been previously elected members of the Guuld, and the tenor and rreble ringers were duly proposed and seconded hefore proceedings started. The peal-Doubles in two methods-was possible through Pat Laycock coming from Edmonton, Peter Mackie from near Warwick, in Calgary temporarily before going to Victoria, B.C., and Christopher Groome, of Huntington, York, and Burton Latimer.

    A party was held afterwards at the home of Miss Wendy Nichols. of Randwick. N.S.W.. and it was suggested that the peal should re in honour of her engagement. Wendy hopes to get married next December, hut hefore then plans to return to Australia for a few months.

    ## R.A.O.B. CENTENARY

    To commemorate the centenary of the G.L.E. Branch of the Royal Antediluvian Order of Buffaloes an appeal for names for a peal attempt has been made by Mr. Bill Stote of Coventry and Mr. W. A. Theobald of 34. Whitechapel Road, F.1. The attempt will be somewhere in London on Saturday. September 3 rd , and any ringing brothers who would care to particinate are asked to conlact Mr. Theobald. It is also hoped to arrange other convenient peals through local initiative.

    The culmination of this vear's centenary celehrations in Inndon consists of a family service at St. Clement Danes' on Sunday, September 4th. and although it has not heen possible to arrange a quarter peal as it is an "open" Sunday. by kind permission of Mr. E. A. Barnett anv ringing brothers visiting London are invited to join in the pre-service ringing.

    A TANGIBLE "THANK YOU" TO EDDIE BUCK

    Edde Buck, who has just retired after 13 years as secretary of the Northern District of the Hertfordshire Association, receiving the "thank you" from the members at the District meeting at Baldock on April 30th. It took the tangible form of a portable radio set. Our picture (by Neville Chuck) shows Mr. Ken Dunstan. president of the Association, making the presentation. Mrs. Buck was not forgotten; she received a bouquet from Christine Hutton, a young Baldock ringer.

    A company of over 40 was present: Canon Brenchley conducted the service and took the chair for the meeting which followed tea in the Church Hall. Routine business included the election of Peter Rumley (Stevenage) and Ann Trinder (Hitchin) as members.

    The heavy eight at St. Mary's Church were rung until $9 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. to a variety of methods including London, Mr. Richard Castledine being the capable Ringing Master.
    Next quarterly meeting: Knebworth. July 2nd; evening meeting Barley, June 4th.

    ## THREE BEAMINSTER VETERANS REMEMBERED

    The peal of Grandsire Triples at Beaminster on April 23rd marked the end of the life's work of three Beaminster men. Edwin P. Bailey was churchwarden for 40 years and ringer for 56 . He was succeeded by his brother, William J. Bailey, who had been a ringer for 36 years and held the office of churchwarden for 11 months. Thomas A. Gumning had been a ringer for 54 years. Grandsire Triples was the method rung by these three ringers, whose attendance at service ringing was wonderfully regular and punctual over a very long period.

    ## A LINCOLNSHIRE WEDDING

    The wedding of Miss Helen Hird. a member of Stow-in-Lindsey band, on April 18 th at her home church was a ringing occasion. She was married to Mr. J. D. Nicholson, son of a former rector, and as they left the church local ringers saluted them with handbells Later a quarter peal was rung by ringers from Gainsborough, North Wheatley and Saxilby.

    ## SEVENTY YEARS A RINGER

    To celebrate his 70 years as a ringer at St. John the Baptist Church, Buckminster, Leics, Mr. John Dawson rang a long touch with members of his family on April 23 rd. Taking part were Mrs. Norah Ward (daughter) 1, Mr. R. Ward (son-in-law) 2, Mr. Dawson 3, Mr. T. Ward 4, Mr. J. T. Ward (grandson) 5. Mr. E. Ward 6.

    Mr. Dawson was 86 last Christmas Day, and after the long walk from his home to the church felt tired, but as soon as his hand was on the bellrope he was happy and forgot his weariness. He has lived in the same house for 80 years and has been a widower for 18 years, his faithful dog, Judy, being his constant companion.

    Since the age of six he has attended the village church and apart from being a ringer he has been chorister, parish clerk, sexton, sidesman and parochial church councillor. He is the oldest ringer of the Framland Society of Ringers.

    ## AN APPLETON WFDDING PEAL

    St. George's Day this year was quite an event at Appleton, Berkshire. A peal of Grandsire Caters was rung as a compliment to Ted Drewitt on his silver wedding anniversary, a compliment to his son John on his wedding, and a compliment to Miss Alex Frost on her wedding; all three are ringers at this famous tower.
    Two fairly well-known ringers in this part of the world were invited and accepted an invitation to the wedding of Miss Frost at Christ Church Cathedral. Oxford, and the reception in the famous dining hall. When the peal was first mooted it was emphatically agreed by the conductor and the rest of the band that the two said ringers be omitted from the attempt, and this undoubtedly proved a wise decision, as they arrived at Appleton from Oxford in a very mellow mood and spent quite a pleasant hour in a car listening to some good Grandsire Caters. It is only fair to state that John's Drewitt's wedding and reception was the week before, and a happy time was had by all the local ringers, otherwise definitely no peal.

    ## BROMHAM OUTING

    The weather would have sent an Eskimo scurrying for the nearest igloo when Bromham ringers had their outing on April 16th and Buxton was reached in a blinding snowstorm. The morning's towers-St. Mary's, Crich, All Saints', Ashover, and St. Peter's, Fairfieldall stand high among Derbyshire hills. At Darley Dale the Rev. R. D. St. John Smitin was away from home but his daughter "d did the honours" and had already raised the bells.
    Tea was taken at Matlock. where we met an old ringing friend. Mr. R. Bullen. who had rendered great assistance in arranging the outing A very charming welcome was given by Miss J. M. Allen at All Saints', Riplev. and typical Derbyshire greeting by Mr. E. Fletcher at the last tower, St. Mary's, Ilkeston. For this enioyable day we are indebted to the organiser, Derek Hammond, the clergy, local ringers and the coach driver, whose task over the snow-covered roads was not always easy.
