HEYWOOD

FIFTY years ago. on April 26th, 1915, Sir Arthur Heywood died at his country residence at Duffield. Derbyshire, and the Central Council lost its Founder, its first and only President, and one who had led it and directed its deliberations for twenty-five years. Half a century, the devastations of two mighty wars. and the dislocations of an immense social revolution, have parted us very sharply from the days of Heywood and his contemporaries, so that to many his name may mean little more than that he was President of the Council and the author of a number of popular compositions of high merit and great utility.

But the importance of Heywood rests on more than these things. He was a wealthy man and one who took the responsibilities of his position very seriously. He took an active and generous interest in the Derbyshire Royal Infirmary, was a magistrate, Deputy Lieutenant for Staffordshire. and in 1899 he was Sheriff of Derbyshire. He was a talented architect and was widely known as an engineer. His interest in the possibilities of light railways in industry and commerce led to the laying down of the well-known 15 in . gauge line at Duffield Bank. a construction enjoyed by many visitors and studied keenly by Midland Railway officials. The engines and rolling stock were built in his own workshops. themselves erected to his own designs.
Early in life he took a great interest in ringing. He was an earnest churchman, and for many years was churchwarden and sidesman at Duftield. He became leader and conductor of the local band. and in 1887 he gave two treble bells to make a fine ring of ten. As a conductor he had no mean reputation, and his achievements include the calling of peals of Treble Bob, Double Norwich (Major and Royal). London Surprise and Duffield Maximus. These were notable performances for his day, but in addition he rang a number of peals with the famous Burton-on-Trent band when they were at the height of their fame. and the experience he gained with this remarkable company was sufficient to place him among the most competent practitioners of his age. But his peal ringing activities soon ceased, and a subject that fascinated him more, the investigation of the theoretical side of change ringing. began to occupy his logical mind. From this new activity came practical results and revelations that have had an important bearing. directly or indirectly, on the development of composition in the last seventy years.

His invention of "Duffield", a system for eight. ten and twelve bells, was a serious attempt to find an even-bell method more flexible than Treble Bob and more adapted for Sunday service touches than the Surprise methods. "Duffield" was not a success. but the book he wrote to introduce the system is one of the best organised and best written works in the whole of ringing literature. In it was found for the first time a clear exposition of proof by natural course-ends, a contribution of such value to the Exercise that this alone would have justified the publication of the treatise.
Heywood's theoretical explorations were wide, but it was without doubt the problems of Stedman that fascinated him, troubled him, and tinally challenged him to battle. In the middle of the century Thomas Thurstans had produced his classic four-part peal, and this was rung three years before Heywood was born. But there was not the slightest clue to the composer's mode of work or method of approach. The peal was there, but, says Heywood, "near upon half a century of apathy has cast around Stedman Triples a shroud of impenetrable mystery almost romantic in its completeness". It was for Heywood to draw away this shroud and disperse the mystery. The attack on the heartbreaking difficulties, the relentless assault on problem that succeeded problem, and the final triumph. are revealed to us in what is probably the most searching and most brilliant piece of investigation in the history of the Exercise. The results of all this work were embodied in a monograph entitled "Investigation into the Construction of Peals of Stedman Triples". It was the work of Heywood and Earle Bulwer, and it was printed in full in the 1903 edition of Davies' "Stedman", now unfortunately out of print. Some day, perhaps, the Council may be persuaded to honour its great Founder by republishing the "Investigations". Even in these advanced days they have a more than academic significance, and may well provide some instruction and intellectual diversion for the modern inquirer.

When Sir Arthur Heywood died his reputation as a practical ringer had been largely forgotten, and his investigations into change ringing theory belonged to a time long past. To most people he was President of the Council, a position he held with undisputed authority and with what some considered undue autocracy. The Council is his chief monument. and because of it his name will ever be remembered. The vision in which he perceived the need for such a body, and the skill with which he succeeded in bringing it into being, are such as to justify the declaration that only he could have done this work. But the whole of his life showed a clear determination to neglect no talent that could be used to good ends. and at his death the Rev. C. D. P. Davies, who loved him greatly, wrote: "He has left behind a sheaf of memories full of happiness. of kind-hearted actions innumerable and, above all. a noble example of fulfilment of the injunction. 'Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with all thy might.'"
E.C.S.

The Long Path to 145 Methods of Spliced Minor

$I^{T}$all started in late summer last year when two of the band suggested we should settle down to some serious Minor ringing during the winter months. After careful thought we agreed to a series of attempts up to 100 methods and the band was chosen. It was decided from the start that each ringer would keep to the same bell and that attempts, where possible, would be made on Friday evenings. Summer holidays over, the first attempt was for 40 methods at Downham on October 1st. Harvest festival preparations were under way as we arrived at the church, but by the time we were ready to starn all helpers had departed and the peal was commenced. Evervthing went well until we neared the end of the second extent when knocking, first on the west and then the south doos, terminated the proceedings. It transpired that an additional cauliffower (or cabbage, I'm not sure now) had turned up and its immediate installation became a necessity in the mind of its trans: porter. We retired to the "De Beauvoir."

Confident that we could ring 40 methods, a new extent was added and we attempted 60 methods at Rayne on October 14th. This proved too much and the attempt turned into a practice. A fortnight's rest didn't help much, as we lost the peal again at Sandon, this time in the second extent. The next week it was decided to practise another new extent and on November 12 th we rang our first peal in 82 methods at Little Waliham.

THE MAGIC 100

The next step was 100 methods and the magic three figures must have had their effect as the attempt at Sandon hardly got off the ground. The following week we rang 100 methods at Stisted and, encouraged by our progress, decided to see how far we could get. Spirits were high when. the following week we rang 105 methods at Downham. Two in a row, something must happen now-it did. Tollesbury December 3rd, Danbury January 7th and Rayne January 14th were all scenes of lost attempts for 116 methods. We blamed everything. the odd-struck bells, the long break over Christmas and the cold weather. Finally we rang it at Danbury on January ist, the conductor miscalling early enough to start again.

We expected the next extent, by Mr, Chant, with its six types of method, to prove difficult. so the next two weeks were devoted to practices. This move seemed to be paying off as, the attempt for 135 methods at Rayne on February 11 th sailed gaily into the third extent. Unfortunately at this stage one of the band failed to hear which method had been called and, needless to say, in the following confusion the peal was lost. Having got used to the bells at Rayne we decided to make them first choice for future attempts, and the following week (February 18th) rang 135 methods without mishap.

145 AFTER 15 ATTEMPTS

Due to other commitments it was impossible to get together as a band again until March 11 th, when we had a practice at Sandon for the final extent. This went better than expested and we arranged to attempt 145 methods at Rayne on Marcb 23rd. Our hopes of even starting for the peal faded as we sat outside the church waiting for the last member of the band to arrive. Eventually a start was made but the conductor soon became entangled in the bobs and singles of Bastow Little Court and "Stand" was called. We then rang the extent with comparative ease and adjourned to the Danbury practice. Two days later we were back again and rang a good peal in 145 methods.

During this series (which lasted nearly six months) we had 15 peal attempts and four practices. Six peals were rung in 82. 100 , 105, 116, 135 and 145 methods. Our thanks are due to the incumbents and local ringers who made these attempts possible and especially to the Rev. H. A. Clifford, of Rayne, who gave us the use of his bells as often and whenever required.

THE BAND

Peter G. Brown, treble.-Age 18, a junior trust clerk in the Westminster Bank. Learned to ring under Bert Brinkley at Springfield in 1962 and has rung 78 peals, including nineSpliced Surprise Major and Stedrnan Cinques. A Queen's Scout and keen ornithologist, he has just been clected to the committee of the Essex Association as a Press correspondent.

Aadrew S. Hudson, second. - Age 22. Learned to ring at Great Baddow in 1959 and made rapid progress, ringing his first peal (seven Surprise Minor "o inside ") in October, 1960. Obiained a B.A. at Cambridge Uniyersity and is at present employed as a physicist with the Marconi Company. Together with John McClenahan produced the "Complete Collection of Right Place Surprise Major Methods" in 1963. Master of the S.E. Division and an enthusiast for Stedman Cinques, in which method he has composed and conducted several peals.
Claire Dillamore, third. - Educated at Christ's Hospital Girls' High School, Lincoln, Claire learned to ting at St. Giles', Lincoln, in 1957 under Jack Millhouse and the late Sydney Chambers. Moved to Essex on completion of studies at Homerton Teachers' Training College, Cambridge, and teaches in Chelmsford. Has rung 125 peals, including Londinium Maximus, and deserves special mention, as prior to October, 1965, had not rung a peal of Minor in more than 14 methods.

Dennis A. S. Symonds, fourth-Age 50, the oldest and most experienced ringer in the band. A native of Lavenham, he was taught to ring at the age of eight by his father and grandfather, both well-known Suffolk ringers. Has rung 398 peals, which include 22,000 of Bob Major at Kirby-le-Soken on April 9th 1960, and 60 Surprise Minor at Stisted. Also took part in the attempts for the extent of Major at the Loughborough Bell Foundry and has the distinction of ringing in the longest attempt which was lost after 16 hours. Also employed by the Marconi Company, he is a section leader in the inspection department and a trustee of the Essex Association.
Joe E. G. Roast (conductor), fifth-Age 30, a senior architectural draughtsman with the Chelmsford R.D.C.. he was persuaded to take up ringing in March, 1950 , by his father. who was training a new band of ringers at Danbury. Has rung 388 peals ( 245 as conductorl and took part in what was then the decord peal of Minor ( 18.000 in 25 methods at Stisted in 1957). A Central Council representative since 1963 . his other interests include cricket and table tennis.

Patrick W. Saltmarsh, tenor. - Age 39, has been general secretary of the Fssex Association since 1965. Previous offices held were trustee and secretary, S.E. Division. An were trustee and secretary, in navigational aids. Pat is another "Marconi" man, who learned to ring at Sandon after the wartime ban was lifted. Taking up serious ringing in the mid-1950's, he developed a special interest in the contposition of Spliced Minor extents. Has rung 220 peals, including 60 Spliced Surprise Minor methods, several extents of which he composed. A forceful left-hand bat, he is cap. tain of the Marconi XI. J.E.G.R.

Leicester Cathedral Win Striking Contest

The annual Leicester District striking competition was held at Whetstone on April 2 nd. Five bands competed and the contest was won by Leicester Cathedral with only ten faults. Well-deserved congratulations to this band South Wigston came next with 18 faults, then Aylestone (22). Blaby (27), with Markrield sweeping along in the rear with 31 .
The trophy was presented to the winners after tea, by the adjudicator, Mr. Arthur E. Rowley, of lbstock, the mid-winter-type blizzard having thwarted matters for the other intended adjudicators.
Mr. Rowley emphasised that the whole spirit of the competition was most friendly and, light-hearted, and he hoped that the bands would accept his comments in the spirit of encouragement rather than criticism.

At the District meeting which followed, 42 members representing nine towers were present. A proposal to stage a long-alley skittles match between the Leicester and Hinckley Districts on the occasion of a future meeting found acceptance.

Mid-week practice meetings were discussed. The secretary, reporting on the District practice meeting held at Groby on February 22nd in which Plain Bob was the special method. said the object was to help those learners beginning change ringing. It was felt that the Groby learners had enjoyed this practice and had derived some benefit. Thanks were due to the experienced ringers who came along to help. Any tower band that would like a practice of this type is asked to apply.

A brief ressumé of the Blaby meeting in March was given. in which the secretary wished to place on record the fine rendering of choral Evensong He also commiserated with Blaby on their tenor being out of action owing to a clapper having dropped out. The ringers here are working to obtain a sixth bell; we all wish them well in this aim. This church is to be congratulated on its energetic tand of ringers and choristers.
Next meeting: Billesdon (joint with Syston District) on May 7th

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION  ASHFORD DISTRICT

By recent standards the meeting at Frittenden on April 2nd was poorlv attended. probably due to its inaccessibility, it beine the furthest outpost of the District. The Rector, the Rev. G. N. Manley, conducted the service, with Mr. J. E. Spree of Bethersden as organist.
Mr. H. Baker, together with the Rector, made the arrangements for tea, which was prepared by ladies of the $D$ seriet led by Mrs. Rose Wratten. At a short husiness meeting preliminary details of the ringing school to be held on May 21st at Cheriton were given. Mr. A. Berry proposed a vote of thanks to the Rector, the irittenden ringers, the organist and those who predared the tea.

Ringing then continued throughout the evening on the pleasant octave. A.P.S B.

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY  GUILD'S ANNUAL DINNER

FOR the first time in the history of the Guild the annual dinner was this year held Guild the annual dinner was this year held in St. John's College, though still on the traditional last Saturday of the Lent Term (March 5th). The novel arrangements aroused considerable comment. Which was on balance favourable and hence it is to be repeated in the future.

A full programme of ringing activities preceded the dinner. In the morning the Guild succeeded in ringing a peal of Yorkshire Surprise Major at Trumpington, but an altempt for Cambridge Surprise Major at Barkway by a band consisting mainly of visitors fell to pieces halfway ihrough. During the afternoon Cambridge's four towers-Great St. Andrew's, St. Bene't's, Great St. Mary's and the Roman Catholic Church- were open for genera? ringing, and Cherry Hinton was also available to lunchtime enthusiasts.

The president, Mr. W. J. Ridgman, was in the chair at the dinner. After the loyal toast, the loast "The Guild "was proposed, as is traditional, by a prominent member, being this year Major Freeborn. The Major is pecularly qualified to speak on the earlier history of the Guild ard be gave us the full benefit of his knowledge in a series of very interesting and of ten witty reminiscences ahout cur predecessors and their exploits in Cambridge. Ho went on to say that often now there are about ten or twelve experienced ringers resident at any one time, whereas 40 vears ago numbers would have been smaller. Rather than embarrass certain people, $\downarrow$ will not repeat Major Freeborn's views on beards for men under 50 years of age!

PEALS-80 PER CENT. SUCCESS

The Master, Mr. Kenneth Darvill, replied, and he look the opportunity of giving an outline résume of the Guild's activities during the oast year. About 20 peals ranging from Doubles to Maximus had been rung, including Stedman Cinques by an all-undergraduate band. at Birmingham Cathedral and Yorkshire Surprise Maximus at Great Yarmouth. No handbell peals had, however, been achieved.

Guild week this year had been slightly less well supported than usual, having been held in Cambridge. There had heen an 80 ver cent. success rate for peals, the most notable being Major Freeborn's 100th peal of Stedman "which only goes to show what you can achieve if you stick to your principles."

Since October the Guild had considerably changed in character. owing to the relatively sma! number of experienced freshmen coming up to replace the many undergraduates who had recently left. This had entailed considerable teaching of learners, but it was very encouraging to see these moving on to Sunday service ringing. Mr. Darvill expressed the considerable scope for improvement which existed in the standard of striking both at practice and on Sundays, and also mentioned the research currently being undertaken by one member of the Guild into the necessity or otherwise for singles in a peal of Stedman Triples. He concluded with the observation that, judging by the number of stays the steeplekeeper had stocked-up, wood must be considered a more stable currency than sterling!

The toast of "The Visitors " was proposed by Mr. Charles Hobson, the Guild's secretary, He welcomed Roger Powell, Master of the London University Society, and Roger Haythe London University Society, and Roger Fay-worth. Master of the Oxford University Society. Mr. Derek Williams, Master of the Bristol University Society. was particularly welcome, as the Bristol contingent had been

APRIL 1st COINCIDENCE

Dear Sir, - Who was G. J. Casar, for whom an " in memoriam" peal was rung at Chigwell on March 12th, 1966 ?

The combination of the Ides of March and the name Casar raises suspicion in my mind, and is made a certainty by the peal appearing in "The Ringing World," April 1st. I would suggest that the initials stand for Gaius Julius, a person whose itho visits to this country were hardly an occasion for rejoicing.

Perhaps the ringers of the peal can confirm or deny this. If my suspicion is correct 1 Want to say that 1 am appalled by a joke of this sort heing perpetrated, particularly by presumably intelligent members of a University Society. Yours sincerely Kingswinford.
JOḢN C. EISEL.

COLLEGF, BOB

Dear Sir,-Considering the number of years for which the method ( $x 16 \times 36 \times 3$. 6 ths 64523) has been accepted by the Exercise as College Bob, the introduction of another method of the same name (as in the East Bridgford peal, "Ringing World," March 25th) can cause only confusion. This new method differs in only two subsections (its method difters in only two subsections (its College Bob. but the difference in the front work is sufficient to render the method not even a true College one. Might we therefore suggest a change in the name of this newer method?-Yours sincerely,

CONGRATULATIONS TO RFCORD HOLDERS

Dear Sir,-As conductor of the previous record peal of multi-Minor, I would like to congratulate Joe Roast and his band on further increasing the number of methorls in seven extents in their peal at Rayne, Essex ("Ringing World," page 233).-Yours sincerely, snowed-up and unable to reach Cambridge for the previous Guild dinner. Two members of the Cambridge Youths were also welcomed. Mr. Hobson also expressed warm greetings to the Bishop of Fily pressed warm grectings to the Rev. R. N. Evans, Vicar of Great St. Andrew's, for whose valuable assistance and support the Guild were very grateful.

During the ceremony of the Loving Cup a touch of Stedman Cinques was rung on handbells by B. D. Threlfall 1-2, S. P. Darvill 3-4, Hadley Hunter 5-6, F. E. Haynes 7-8, K. J. Darvill 9-10, F. C. Hobson 11-12. This was much appreciated by all, not least by the waiters, whose mouths visibly gaped!

The Guild and its guests then retired to rooms in the college, where an enjoyable time was spent drinking, talking to old friends and. of course, signing menu cards. Unexpected entertainment was here provided by an ex tempore piano recital!
All too soon it as time for everyone to go their devious ways; some of these we afterwards learned had been a little too devious and resulted in two members of the O.U.S. spending the night in a police station: chacun à son gout!

METHOD TEACHING

Dear $\mathrm{Sir}_{\text {, }}$-There is a lot of truth in Mr . P. G. K. Davies' article on teaching ropesight and I think it excellent that our artention is turned to what is possibily the most neglected aspect of our art, that is the teaching which follows immediately the first solo effors at handling a bell. But I feel Mr. Davies is wrong in his emphasis on the "sight." His aim of teaching the methods used by good ringers is surely a good aim. but good ringers rely less on ropesight than on rhythm, so rhythm and striking ought to be the means an instructor uses to teach method ringing. 1 tried some years ago to show how rhythm could be taught and would be interested to know Mr. Davies' comments on the suggestions in that article, especially if he has tried them out.
I doubt whether good ropesight is acquired before a person can move his bell from, say, 2nds to 3 rds place, accurately, without looking. Put another way, if someone can tell where to ring by looking but cannot tell by rhythm. their striking is likely to be poor. Knowing where to look or seeing the pattern of the changes is a great help, but I doubt whether it is "the key to all method ringing."
Looking at one's own sally is a bad habit and I often teach people, when they are practising bell control, to ring with their eyes shut (this can improve style as well) or in look round the other ropes without a glance at their own. Looking at the floor is another thing instructors dislike pupils to do, but many experienced ringers do just this because they are ringing by rhythm. I am sure it is a good rule to give pupils, that they should look at the other ropes, and call changes give prastice at this as well as at moving position by rhythm. Plain hunting also gives practice at both these, but the pupil who does not pick up the " numbers" by observation after a few goes must be exceptional. It doesn't matter that he does know them, anyway, as rhythm and striking are the first objectives at this stage.

Which is likely to get the better result?
(1). "Youre in $6-7$ down, Bill."
(2). "Bill! $6-7$ down, 4 at hand, 5 at back.'
(3). "With the 4th, Bill, 5 at back."
-Yours suncerely,

SIR ARTHLR HEYWOOD MEMORLAL FESTIVAL.

Dear Sir,-It may not be generally known that the ringing festival to be held in and around Derby on Saturday, April 23rd, is 10 mark the 50th anniversary of the death of Sir Arthur Heywood.

The focal point of the activities will be a memorial service at Duftield Parish Church 8. 3.30 p.m. The preacher will be the Rev. K . D. St. John Smith.

Sir Arthur Heywood was for many years a bellringer at Duffield Church and was instrumental in having the bells augmented from eight to ten. The climax of Sir Arthur's career as a bellringer was the part he played in the formation of the Central Council. He was also its first president.
The Derbyshire Association issue a countrywide invitation to all bellringers, and particularly current Central Council members, to join with them in paying tribute to a great bell-ringer.-Yours faithfully,
G. A. HALLS.

Littleover, Derby.

Derby Diocesan Association Fully Maintains Its ## Reputation

$\mathrm{T}^{\mathrm{H}}$HE 14th Sir Arthur Heywood Memorial Dinner at Chesterfield fully maintaned the prestige established of dignity mellowed by humour of a brand peculiar to this function. The large attendance had on the top tabie Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Hall, supported by the Bishon of Derby and Mrs. G. Allen, the Ven. and Mrs. T. W. Ingram Cleasby, the Rev. S: John Smith and Miss Anne St. John Smith, the Mayor and Mayoress of Chesterfield (Cclr. and Mrs. T. Bucknell), Mr. and Mrs. N. Chaddock, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. J. Price, Mr. and Mrs. F. Adams, Mr. B. P. Morris, Mr. M. Phinps, Miss M. Yarnold, Mr, G. Paulson and Mr. A. Moss.
We sit back, well fed and well wined amid old friends well met. The toastmaster announces "The Queen." "The Queen" we solemnly rejoin; we have shown our loyalty: we may smoke.
The small-statured figure of Norman Chaddock stands and in a Rotherham accent presents the toast of "The Church and she Exercise." Norman defines the Church as "that body of people who claim to be Christian witnesses on earth: the clergy, the congregation, lay officials and all the Church organisations uch as the choir and ringers." The Exercise such as the choir and ringers.

OUR CALLING

Ideally," expands the speaker. "a band of ringers should be a group of Church workers who are well represented at the main services, though the work of those who only occasionally attend should not be spurned. At least they do bave a connection with the Church and may later increase their ties with her. However much pleasure we obtain from ringing as a hobby we must remember our calling as part of the Church."
Now Mr. Chaddock quotes the ringers' prayer:

Almighty God, who has called us to fulfil the office of bellringers in the Church. grant us to be of one heart and mind in Thy service, that the pealing of the bells may be dedicated to Thy glory and to the benefit of Thy Holy Church."
The Bishop nods approval and the clerical collars of his colleagues disappear momencarily below a battery of clerical chins.

The value of bell installations in terms of hard cash is Mr. Chaddock's next topic. cessive improper use or by neglect through lack of use. Take care of your bells and their fittings, for it is these which constitute one of the most effective reminders of the presence of the Church to those who may close she door to the parson. Poor quality hells and neglected ringing rooms discourage regular service ringing.
Having had his say to the officers of the Church. Mr. Chaddock turns to those of his own ilk. With just a little of his tongue in his cheek he tells us to "maintain a sense of proportion in your ringing activities, remember your dependence on the Church for the facilities provided and contribute financially to their cost on appropriate occasions." Discussing recently published ringing statistics, he poses a question: "Is the strength of Sunday service bands keeping pace with advanced peal ringing, in view of the number of silent and undermanned towers which cxist?"

A WARM COMPLIMENT

Now it is time for us to bask in warm compliment-our "splendid efforts to promote service ringing . . freguent meetings special practices . quarterly news sh Norman-we can't call him anything else afte his last outburst-goes on to remember Sir Arthur Heywood and his work, hoping that the Derby Diocesan Association will be inspired to go forward as part of the Exercise. hand in hand with the Church in ensuring that the message of the bells will be conveyed to the people of this island."
Mr. Chaddock sits and we clap. Thank you, Norman, we understood what you said and we like you, we clap!

The Bishop beams as he rises to reply to the toast. His voice speaks to fill the room. We ali feel small beneath this great sound: the silences are deep with respect. Not to ne outdone, he, too. tells his favourite stories and delights us with his confusion over the correct interpretation of "the Exercise." - Does this take the form of a gentle run around the Vicarage garden organised by my dear Archdeacon?" he asks. He remembers hearing the bells as a small bov and fitting words to the lower:

Oh hurry up, you will be late."
and to the five-minute bell:
"Late . . late . . late.'
More scintillating humour sets us rocking in our seats before he declares his gratitude and appreciation for the work done by the ringers of his diocese.

RACONTEUR PAR EXCELLENCE"

Enthusiastic applause carries the Bishop back ti his place. "The Visitors" is then proposed and with a voice to sell vegetables in the market and a face to direct a funeral the Mayor of Chestertield replies. First he exposes the faux pas of Malcolm Phipps, who wrote beseeching him to be brief "to makic way for the entertainment to follow": then. as if for retribution, he begins a systematic slaughter of his audience in their seats. Relentlessly he thrusts. joke after joke, anecdute upon anecdote. Tables are slapped, tears run dowil cheeks, sides ache and half the company has stitch. Yet he goes on, without a pause he goes on, never a quiver in his voice nor a twitch on his face. this raconteur par excellence of the Lord Mayor's Show. At lasthonour is satisfied and he stops.
So ends the "formal" part of the evening; the hand strikes up and dancing begins. During a short interval a presentation is made to Mr. Fred Adams, of Staveley, chairman of the Chestertield District for 17 years until his recent retirement. His wife is also honouted with a mammoth bouquet. More dancing, and then the Brimington handbel. ringerswhat a team they are! "Invitation Waltz" and other familiar numbers charm us.

CAPITA MAGNISSIMUS

After a few more dances a bewildered band is told once again to cease playing for the presentation of Capita Magnissinulus, the Association's most coveted award. As is usual, the name of the winner remains a mystery until John Arkwell, of Old Brampton, is ceremoniously summoned to the dais. Before the medal is hung about the victim's neck a citation is read with suitable solemnity by Tombstone Hughes: ". Your mother had spent many hours unravelling bel! ropes to knit up again into vests needed as protection against the icy blast that greets one on entering Chesterfield Parish Church. It seemed you were bent on complete and utter ruin when, purely by chance, your met old Mr. Brampton, who took you along to see the bells being rune. Seen through bloodshot eyes the dancing bell ropes fascinated your mind. You decided to learn to ring. This new-found interest turned you from your downward path and indeed when you went oin a week-end course at Lea Green it colld truly be said that you had become a reformed man.

- Your respectability, together with your increasing skill as a ringer, has made you a firm favourite with the young ladies. In fact. when seen with your golf clubs over your shoulder heading for the town's most exclusive golf club. you are without doubt the most cligible hachelor in Chestertield-though the thought of martiage keeps you in a state of perpetual terror (this is why your hair is always standing on end). It is to your credit that you have withstood this female onslaught without reverting to your old decadent ways.

John Arkwell, it is our sincere wish that you continue 20 spend the rest of your days with this new-found cut of respectability and sobriety, enjoving the simple pleasures of lifelike sending Christmas cards to vour ringing friends and other peoples wives, Joinn receives the medal to checrs. the band strikes up again and we dance til Auld lang Syne.
Our thanks are due (overdue) to our hosts, the Chesterfield District and io Maicolm Phipps, who has worked so hard to organise this movt important occasion in the Derbvshire calendar. Good old Phippsy-hook the place for next year.

BARNSLEY DISTRICT SOCIETY

Mr. Harold Chant was voted to the chair at the Barnsley District Society's meeting at Kirkthorpe, near Waketield, on April 9th Three new members were elected and Miss Elizabeth Peace reported on the one-divy course held at Selby. An appeal for help at South Kirkby, where they were irving in yet their bells going again, was made by Mr. Gordon Bird. It was suggested to meet there on the third Saturday in the month. This was referred to the adjourned general mecting at Barnsley on May 14th.

Kent Association Honour Bexley for its Annual Festival

A LTHOUGH it was not mentioned during the proceedings, the selection of Bexley for this year's Easter Monday annual meeting of the Kent County Association was a tribute to the many years of patient and conscientious work as secretary to the Lewisham District of Miss M. R. Andrews. The light eight at Bexley is where Miss Andrews is secretary and captain, and in this old-world suburb the Association held its annual meeting for the first time. But Miss Andrews revealed not only her ability as secretary and tower captain. She and Mrs. Olive Barnett accepted responsibility for feeding the throngMary cooking one of the turkeys and Olive the other.
Bexley Parish Church was well filled for the service, which was conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. A. D. Morris, who preached an Easter sermon. Other robed clergy included Carion Gilbert Thurlow (president of the Central Council) and the Rev. Peter N. Bond.
The organist was Mr. P. G. Perrin and Mr The organist was Mr. P. G.
P. A. Corby read the lessons.
During the service the following deatns were remembered:--Resident: R. Constant (Gravesend), F A. Fairhead (Broadstairs), W. Hollands (Rainham). P. Jarvis (Bethersden) F. C. W. Knight (Ramsgate), W. C. Marshali (Bethersden), H. Gilbert (High Halden), W. L. Rayner (former auditor, of Gravesend), G. H. Cross (formerly of Barnehurst) : non-Tesident: W. T. Becson. Canon C. C. Cox, J. tesideat: W. T. Becson. Canon C. C. Cox, J. den, H. Langdon. L. A. Tidy and J. Wheadon.
Afterwards a company of 170 sat down to an excellent lunch in the Freemantle Hall. Mr. John Willis, chairman of the Association. presided and congratulated the ladies of the Lewisham District on the success of their catering. To Miss Andrews he presented a box of chocolates and asked her to convey the assembly's gratitude to all her helpers.

MANY GUESTS

The chairman had a long list of guests to welcome. Ther included the Revs. A. D. Morris (Vicar of Bexley), Canon P. C. Collins (Rector of Crayford), R. B. Griffin (Dart-ford). P. Absolon (Vicar of Erith) and Canon ford). P. Absolon (Vicar of Erith) and Canon he said. to have Canon Thurlow with them. They were proud to have in their own ranks the secretary of the Central Council. Mr. E. A. Barnett, and he could not help feeling that when he saw , Canon Thurlow and " The Ringing World "' Editor it was an historic day as they had. figuratively speaking, the three wise men of the East.
Canon Thurlow, replying for the visitors, said it was indeed a personal pleasure to pay a tribute to the bells and ringers in Kent and also to the Kent County Association. When he thought of the terrible things of the past it was in Kent that there was the only tower in which he had smoked a cigarette. Betty was there, and it was his one and only deal of Bristol.

Kent was a wonderful area as regarded bells and cathedrals. They had the brilliant wit at the London end, and at the other was the Arehbishop of Canterbury when he was not at Lambeth. Somebody had commented on the surprising number of ringing functions he had attended in dioceses where there were vacant deaneries! (Laughter.)
was rung hy the Rev. P. N. Boind 1-2. E. J. Beer 3-4, C. S. Jarrett 5-6, B. F. L. Groves 7-8, H. Audsley 9-10.

THE MEETING

Mr. Willis presided at the meeting, supported by Mr. P. A. Corby (hon. secretary) and Mr. B. W. May (hon. treasurer).
The secretary's report. which was moved hy Mr. P. A. Corthy and seconded by Mr. A. the past ycar. It cave the membership of the Association (resident members) 1.120, associate members 69. towers in union 165. towers not in union 65 . The streneth in resident members of the Districts was Ashford 227, Canterbury 267, Lewisham 166, Maid stone 202, Rochester 127, Tonbridge 131.

Special activities mentioned included the rally centred on Rainham, which was a grea disappointment, as only 62 people attended. The Association's dinner at Sittingbourne presented administrative difficulties, which were happily overcome by the sterling efforts of Mr. Frank Cheal. The highly successful oneday school held at Leeds, the inspiration of the chairman. attracted over 100 would-be participants. The service of thanksgiving at Milton-next-Gravesend, for the life and work of Fred Mitchell. was described as a red letter day in the life of the Association. The memorial tablet was unveiled by Mrs. Mitchelf in the presence of officers of the Association and the Ancient Society of College Youths.

RESTORATION WORK

Although restoration work is in hand at Brabourne and Eas: Malling, there is still no certainty that two trebles will be added at Brabourne. and East Malling has decided definitely only to rehang the existing six bells in a new frame. Ashford bells have been completed and Mersham bells are at the Whitechapel foundry awaiting rehanging in a new frame. All eight Sevenoaks bells have been broken up at the foundry and are to be replaced by a completely new lighter ring in a new metal frame.

The eight at Hawkhurst have been rehung, and at Bredgar the Rev. Stanley Evans is struggling to raise funds to retune the front four, cast two trebles from the tenor and to rehang the new six in a new frame. News is still awaited from Queenborough, where the bells cannot be rung pending repairs to the tower and major restoration of the church Eynsford bells have been rehung in the existing frame, but unfortunately still without a much-needed ringing floor. There is a possibility of restoration work at Marden and possibility of restoration work at Marden and at Wittersham.

SNOOPING

A correspondence in "The Ringing World." started in a lighthearted way, seemed to get out of hand and tended to give the unfortunate and inaccurate impression that ringing in Kent was in a much worse state than in other parts of the country. "We have a great deal to learn from the criticisms of our standard of performance levelled against us, but we must at the same time maintain a sense of proportion. There is probably more good ringing taking place in the county than at any time in the last 30 years. There always has been a certain amount of first-class ringing, but the great difficulty is always to know how to bring the very indifferent ringing up to the better standard we all hope for Many will feel that ringing meetings organised on the familiar lines do little to bring about an improvement, but the problem. particularly in a county as big as Kent, is so vast that there seems no ready alternative.

FINANCIAL POSITION

Presenting his report as treasurer. Mr. B W. May compared the nresent position with uhat it was ten years ago. Investments in 1956 wera 80 per cent. of their nar value, now they were 55 per cent. and showed a deprectation of $£ 180$. The par value was almost half tion of e180. The par value was almost half asserts of the Association in 1956 were $£ 1,084$; this year they were $£ 1.203$; so the value of the Association had gone up $£ 119$. In 1956 the Association had a balance of $£ 143$; this year it was $£ 245$. The annual general meeting now cost the Association practically nothing. and he must add his appreciation to the Lewisham District for their arrangements that day. For the last ten years they had helped towers to the extent of £257 and from the henevolent fund made grants to members of £270. The hon. treasurer moved the adoption and the hon. auditor, Mr. Arthur Richards scronded. They were both thanked for their services.

Mr. Ian H. Oram's report as peal secretary stated that 176 peals had been rung for the Association in 1965, 33 more than last year and the second highest total in the history of the Association. There were nine handbell peals compared with one the previous year. Thirty-four members had rung their first peal, an increase of eight. There were 40 con: ductors (three more than last year). two of whom shared the calling in their first peal. Bernard F. L. Groves headed the list of conductors with 33, followed by Stanley Jenner 26, the peal secretary 22 and Christopher $T$. Osenton with 14. Peals were rung by local bands at Biggin Hill, Hawkhurst, Sturry and Tonbridge: that at Sturry containing all firstpealers.. A hand of resident members of average age 17 years 5 months rang a peal of four-Spliced Major, Thomas E. Sone rang his 600th for the Association, Frederick J. Cullum his 700ih and Herbert E. Audsley his 1,000 th-a fine achievement.
The officers were re-elected. Proposing Mr. Corby as secretary, the chairman said: "In a very long life I have had experience of many secretaries of Associations but few have come up to the high standard of Mr. Corby" Continuing in office are Mr. I. H. Oram as peal secretary ("the technical side of change ringing bas never been looked after so well" was a compliment paid to him); hon. treasurer. Mr. B. W. May: hon. auditor, Mr. A. S. Richards. A Eallot for the Central Council resulted in the election of Messrs. I. H. Oram, P. A. Corby, S. Jenner and Tom Cullingworth. Additional committee members: Messrs. E. Burnett, G. J. Butcher, E. J. Ladd, F. S. Macey J. A. Russell and T. E. Sone.

LOOKING AHEAD

Future events announced were: Annual dinner at Tunbridge Wells on September 24th; one-day ringing courses: Ashford, Canterbury and Maidstone Districts on May 1st: Lewisham, Rochester and Tonbridge. May 14th. An unofficial rally centred on Cranbrook was heing arranged by Mr. Michael legg peal board is to be provided at Frittenden conmemorating the first peal rung there in 1880, conducted by Thomas Daynes.
The many votes of thanks passed included one to the chairman pronosed by Mr. Peter Carter. In reply, Mr. Willis said the cost of bell hanging and repairs had gone up by leaps and bounds. It was a grief to the committee that they were unable to make grants in proportion to the tremendous costs. He suggested that if 960 of their members gave a penny a week it would mean $£ 4$ a week extra penny a week it would mean to the Belfry Fund, or 2 d . a week, $£ 8$. Exach District should organise collections and money could be placed in the Post Office or other Savings Banks. Then they would be in a position to make grants to be proud of Replying to his vote of thanks. Mr. Corby asked members to bring to his notice projected work on bells because it was possible for them to give expert advice and prevent the unfortunate experience of one tower.
Tea was then served by the ladies and a wide choice of towers was available for further ringing.

BELFRY GOSSIP

The bells of Preston-by-Wingham (5) have been removed to the Whitechapel Foundry for repair and rehanging.
Mr . Colin Champion, vice-captain at St . Mary's, Ash, Surrey, is leaving the village to make his home at Worthing, Sussex.

Mr. Alan P. S. Berry, of Folkestone, is acting as assistant secretary to the Ashford District, Kent County Association.

Wakefield Cathedral's record of four married couples in the belfry is surpassed by St. Nicholas', Hurst, Berks, band, who have five.

Ladies are asked to refrain from wearing stiletto-type heels on the recently re-covered floors in the lowers of Lichfield Cathedral, Walsall and St. Peter's, Wolverhampton.
The quarter peal of Grandsire Doubles at Abbeydore. Herefordshire, on April 2nd, was rung by the light from four candles, no other light being installed.

With regret we have received the news that Mrs. Annie McDermott (nee Annie Potter) died at Walkden, Lancs, on Easter Day. The funeral service was on April 15th.
At St. Michael and All Angels', Ashton-under-Lyne, the Sunday service band rang a quarter peal of Yorkshire Surprise Royal for Matins on Easter Day.
Probably the youngest to ring a quarter peal on Easter Day was Malvin Tull, aged 10, of Goring-on-Thames. He rang his firstthe treble to Grandsire Triples.
Instances of two brothers ringing the tenor to 3 peal are rare. On Easter Monday the Ancient Society of College Youths scored a neal of Cambridge Surprise Maximus at $S_{f}$. Paul's. London, with the brothers John and Michael Chilcoit on the 62 cwt tenor.

CLERICAL GUILD WEEK

This year the Clerical Guild is holding it ringing week centred on Brighton-from April 18 th to 22 nd . There will be two peal attempts, at Burgess Hill and St. Peter's, Brighton.

The party will consist of the following: The Revs. Prebendary J. H. B. Andrews, hon. ecretary (Chittlehampton), N. F. D. Coleridge (Tatworth), K. C. Davis (Tadley). S M. Evans (Bredgar), Canon K. W. H. Fel stead (Southampton), D. E. Ford (Porthcawl) R. O. Fry (Portishead), J. B. T. Homfray (Staverton), R. Keeley (Marlborough), L. G. Ketchley (Iffley), R. N. Longridge (Okeford Fitzpaine), C. J. B. Marshall (Long Sutton), M. C: C. Melville (King's Lynn), I. J. Richards (Llanarth), P. I. Robbins (Charing), Canon F. A. Sanders (Overton), D. Sansum (Birmingham), R. D. St. J. Smith (Darley), R. W. Thomas (Tenby), J. Tomsett (Surbiton), H. F: Warren (Exford). F. B. Wood (Mapledurham) for part of the lime P. R. Blackman (Ratby), A. Clayton (London).

ST. JAMES' BOB ROYAL

This week we publish the first neal of St. James Bob Royal rung at Worsley. The conductor. Mr. Dennis Mottershead, noints out that the peal is a true extension of St . James ' Youths' Exercise Bob Minor. He suggests that anyone wishing to conduct a peal in this method would find it useful to keep a check not on actual coursing orders but rather on their reverse.

200th ANNIVFRSARY OF HORSHAM'S FIRST PEAL
Ringing in the peal at Horsham-recorded in this issue-was Mr. Leslie Weller. who thinks that he may well be connected with Harry Weller. who rang in the first peal (Grandsire Triples) on the bells on April 11 th. 1766. The eight bells came from recasting the old six in 1759. The 32 cwt. tenor of that time in consequence gave way to the tenor of today ( $23 \mathrm{cwt}$.1 gr .7 lb .).

These ringers of 200 years ago had the same enthusiasm as the present generation. Not only did they ring a number of peals-Grandsire and Union Triples and Bob Maior at Horsham-but they walked many miles to ring peals at Bolney, Uckfield. Leatherhead and St Nicholas", Brighton. They opened the new hells at Storrington and Lyminster in 1766 and later spent a week-end at Guildford and Farnham. An attempt for a peal on Anril 11th. 1866. for the 100th anniversary, failed, hut on April 11th. 1966, for the 200th, a hand. mainly connected with Horsham, was successful, and a worthy peal was rung.

A CHESTER GUILD DIANIOND WEDDING

Many congratulations from the Chester Diocesan Guild were extended to Mr. and Mrs. A. Frost on their diamond wedding day on March 31st. A quarter peal of Plain Bob was rung that day at Cheadle, where Mr. Frost still rings for Sunday services and also attends on practice nights. He is a vice-president of the Chester Diocesan Guild and also a life member, having a long association with the Stockport Branch.

His family, friends, memhers of the tower and wives attended a party in honour of :he occasion on April 2nd, and our correspondent adds: "A good time was had by all!."

& CODE OF SUFFOLK TUWERS

The 1965 annual seport of the Suffolk Guild contains in its index of towers a code showing the condition of the ring. It would he helpful if such a code were universal. Here are the details:-
10. Excellent ball bearings, modern frame and fittings.
9. Excellent plain bearings, modern frame and fittings or ball bearings in an old frame.
8. Good going order
7. Fair going order
6. Poor going order

Ringable if cleaned up and odd fittings and ropes provided.
4. Ringable with a degree of risk after making odd repairs.

Unringable, mainly because of tower, and or frame arrangement, and position.

Unringable, manly because of frame and or fittings.

Hang dead

(). Some bells unhung and on the ground.

The following towers are given in classes 10 and 9 (excellent): Acton, Aldeburgh, Ashhocking. Badingham. Barking, Beccles, Blyilyhurgh. Brandeston, Bredtield. Bures. Buxhall, Cavendish, Cotton, Debenham, Dennington, Elveden, Eriswell, Grundisburgh. Hartest, Hasketon. Henley, Higham St. Mary, Holleslev. Ipswich St. Margaret, Kedington, Lavenham. Leiston, Marlesford, Long MelLavenham, Leiston, Marlesford, Long Melford. Mildenhall. Newmarket St. Mary. Oakley, Great Offton. Otlev, Polstead, Ratlesden. Saxmundham, Stoke-hy-Nayland, Sronham Aspall, Stradbroke. Tannington, Theberton, Great Thurlow, Tunstail, Ufford, Wenhaston and Winglield.

HIS " BOB-A-JOB" ASSIGNMENT

A novel assignment was given to Keith Talbot, who rang his first quarter peal at Chester-le-Street on Faster Sunday. It was to recruit one of his fellow scouts as a completely raw recruit to act as the subject for the demonstration of reaching the initial stages of bell control in the recent Lumley course. Also participating in the quarter peal was Peter D. Wenham, who rang his previous quarter peal almost 19 years ago. During that interval he has been out of ringing for many years and heen abroad on Army service. The sound of Chester-le-Street bells showed that his interest was not dead but dormant and he has been a welcome and enthusiastic addition to the local band.

THE MAIN CREDIT

Mr. David Floyd writes regarding his documenting the peals of the Witney and Woodslock Branch since its formation in 1902. that main credit should be given to Canon K . W H. Felstead, who supplied him with a list of ali the peals rung in the towers of the Branch. going hack as far as 1814 . . I would not have been able to do this without going to a considerable amount of work if it had not been for Canon Felstead," he adds.

55th ANNTVERSARY OF FIRST PEAL

Easter Monday is an important anniversary for Mr. W. J. Rawlings, of Beckingham, Apologising for his absence from the Kent Annual meeting at Bexley, he wrote: "Easter Monday is a memorable day for me, as 55 vears ago 1 took part in my first peal." In it was his brother George. now 81. and it was conducted by George Daynes. Also ringing were Billy Weatherstone, Isaac Shade and Joe Law.

WOOTTON (OXON) MOBILISES

DORMANT TALENT

Eighteen months ago the six bells of St Marys. Wootton, Oxon, were hardly ever rung. It was decided to try to get a team together for service ringing. As in many villages, there were quite a few p¿ople who could handle a bell, and there were some who could ring Grandsire Doubles. On the Sunday before Christmas, 1964, about half a dozen village ringers met and rang for Evensong. The ringing was rretty good considering that there had been no regular ringing for some years. On this occasion Grandsire was lung, and the six-scores came round without too much difficulty.
Since that Sunday evening the band have met and rung for almost every Sunday, the exceptions being due to illness. Service ringing is mainly confined to Evensong, though on soecial oceasions morning ringing is substituted. Practices were commenced at the beginning of 1965 , in which a few youngsters were taught to handle a bell, some more older ringers joined in, and Grandsire brought up 10 a reasonable standard. In October. Plain Bob Doubles was introduced and mastered in a couple of months.
The majority of the team have attended the Branch practices at some sime or another. On some occasions, instead of holding their own practice at their own tower, they have visited other towers. At the present time the band are tackling Bob Minor, and are making good progress.
The highlight was the ringing of a quarter peal on Apri! Ist at the first attempt. This was the first time that a complete village team had rung a quarter. This consisted of 1,260 Doubles (Plain Bob and Grandsire) by H . Morris 1, D. Cleaver 2. A. H. Hoare 3, J. Venn 4. E. R, Venn (conductor) 5, W. J. Buggins 6.

Sunday ringing is from 5.15 p.m: tutil 6 p.m.; practice night I-riday from 7.15 until 8.30 p.m. Visiting ringers are always welcome. It is suggested, however, that anyoone contemplating coming to the Friday practice should telephone Woodstock 508 beforehand.

EDUCATION AND SLINDAY SERVICE: RINGING COMMITTEE

Dear Sir.-When the Council next meets there will no doub: he quite a change in its composition, and hence in the personnel available for the work of various committees One phase of the work of the above committee is to facilitate the organisation of annual or two-yearly talks at theological colleges on various aspects of church bells and hellringing. This involves contacts with various theological colleges and with officers or persons responsible for the lectures. A good deal of correspondence is involved We would welcome on to this committee someone interested in taking over this work
I shall be grateful to hear hy post from, or of, any suitable Council memher who might he prepared to accept nomination for this purnose when the Council meets.
Since it is not always possible to find a willing person at short notice, I take the liberty of making this need known in ad-vance-Yours sincerely.

THE LEADER AND THE LOCAL COMPANY

(Extracts from an address given at a Course held at Selby organised by the Yorkshire Joint Council.)

By VERNON BOTTOMLEY

ENTHUSIASM is the most important quality in leadership. Enthusiasm is infectious and will spread to the rest of the band, even if rather slowly. On the other hand apathy will spread much more quickly-the rot always starts at the top, so the leader must be proof against all those shortcomings which weaken the band. His enthusiasm must drive him to set and maintain the highest standards in attendance and punctuality. His only excuses for absence are holidays and illness and he must not be late. Enthusiasm is more important than technical competence, because the former will enable him to acquire the latter. If he has not a good enough brain to become technically sound it is probable that he is incapable of becoming enthusiastic anyway. The leader is the pace-setter and the guardian of high standards and there can be no compromise and no relaxation.

He must delegate duties wherever possible, not with the idea of lightening his own burden, but with a view to maintaining interest. Members of the band should be encouraged to conduct. If the band should be ringing rounds and call changes a junior member may be entrusted with the calling, but this arrangement should not provide the leader with an opportunity to rest because it would be necessary for him to supervise the striking. Teaching beginners must be a continuous part of the leader's duties, but again enthusiasm will assist him to discover and apply good practice.
The leader's most important responsibility is the arrangement and supervision of service ringing and he must realise that only the best is good enough. There is no excuse for any bad ringing for service and this can only result from attempts to ring things which are beyond the capacity of the band. At all times temptation to practise must be avoided. If the weakest member of the band is capable of good plain hunting and weak Bob Major the band must ring good plain hunting. If the band has been taught the correct standards then it will derive more enjoyment from this alternative. Beginners must not be introduced to the service band until they can ring good rounds and call changes, and they should then be given a reasonable turn for every service ring and the remainder of the band must provide wholehearted support.

There must be no talking by those who are not ringing: there is no need for anybody to be idle. Beginners should be encouraged to stand with experienced members to acquire ropesight and to listen. This arrangement must not be taken as an excuse to talk; the beginner should have been briefed beforehand if he is to derive benefit. Service ringing periods should not be less than three quarters of an hour. An arrangement for less is very quickly reduced to 20 minutes by the inevitable tardy attenders and those who have to leave early for the vestry. When this stage is reached it is a very short step to silence. Ringing is part of parochial life and the bells should be rung whenever appropriate.
Special services should be given extra significance by ringing after the service as well as before. Nobody should be permitted to check a rope length by the appalling habit of "trying" the bell. Even in well regulated towers there will occasionally be the succession of trips which could deteriorate into near-firing. This must not be the occasion for the brilliant conductor to sort them out at length without regard to the resultant discordant clashing.

Neither should "stand" be called. The bells should always be run into rounds smartly and then either set up or sent into changes again.
Raising and lowering in peal should be normal procedure in most towers but if for a good reason it is impracticable the bells should not be dragged up and down in haphazard manner. Only those which produce a musical chord should be rung together. A preferable arrangement would be to fix clapper stays for the processes.
Whilst much of the foregoing can be applied with equal force to practice ringing, it is obvious that more latitude must be permitted, but sub-standard ringing should be kept to a minimum and a proper application to theory will be beneficial. It should always be emphasised that methods should be learned, at home and practised in the tower. The use of diagrams in the tower should be discouraged-it is too late to do homework then. Pupils should be instructed at an early stage that the best way to learn bellringing theory is to study "little and often" and that it is almost useless to leave it until half an hour before practice. In the early stages they will learn more by standing and watching intelligently than by performing indifferently. As in service ringing nobody should be idle.
Most progressive bands will not have sufficient practice time in $1 \frac{1}{3}$ hours. and 2 hours should certainly be the rule if several grades of ringers are in the band. There should be a plan to the practice and the band should appreciate this. It is a mistake to deal exclusively with beginners at the first part of the practice-the selfish members of the band will very quickly start to use the "had to bath the dog" excuse, to the annoyance of the decent members. It is also a mistake to teach bell handling on the normal practice night, unless that session is finished before the practice proper is due to start. Clapper stays or lashing should always be used for handling tuition. It is also an advantage for elementary change ringing to be practised silently since the trainee is quite unable to listen in any case at that stage.
It is advantageous for an instructor to stand with and guide a learner in elementary change ringing provided it is done correctly. The instructor must watch his trainee's eyes and not the remainder of the circle. His advice should be kept to a minimum and should be directed to making the beginner look in the proper direction. Other members of the band should be forbidden to call to the learner. The tape recorder may be used as an aid to teaching striking. Senior members of the band will respect its presence.
The leader should have a good handling style and he should constantly criticise those who fall short of his standard. At times it may seem a losing battle, but some good may result. There is the problem of the "prickly" ringer, the one who always resents criticism and correction, and who invariably responds with an irritable "yes, yes"-an untruthful assertion that the correction was unnecessary. It may be possible to compromise in the short run by offering criticism quietly in the corner where practicable but sooner or later the touchy one will fall foul of a really demonstrative conductor and it will be better for him if he is mentally equipped to cope with this onslaught. If he is unable to take it and takes his final leave one practice night, it was probably inevitable anyway and the leader should have an untroubled conscience. The leader/conductor must always resist the temptation to "keep them going." There are far too many otherwise excellent conductors who call anything but "stand."

FLOWERS AND THE LATE HORACE DAY

Dear Sir.-On May Ist. 1961, a large company of ringers gathered' at St. Guthlac's, Market Deeping. to pay their last respects to one of Lincolnshire's finest exponents of the art.
Now. five years later. a Flower Festival is being held in this beautiful old church, and what an onportunity this is once again to remember Horace Day and ring again at Market Deeping in surroundings he would have thoroughly enioved. Flowers were to Horace next to his bells.
1 do hope on this occasion to meet some of those ringers who were there with me five years ago.-Yours faithfully.

West Deeping.

OBITUARY

MRS. W. McDERMOTT

Again we in the Bolton area of Lancashire have suffered a loss in the death of a most respected member, Mrs. W. McDermott, better known in the ringing fraternity as Anne Potter, daughter of the late John Potter, of St. Paul's, Walkden.
Annie, of course, came from ringing stock, her father (John) and uncles Alfred and Joseph and James Thomas being already established in the art when she started to learn in 1928. On the acquisition of the fine new eight ( $18 \frac{\mathrm{c}}{\mathrm{c}} \mathrm{cwt}$. in E) in 1930 the Church of St. Paul could boast a good Sunday service change ringing band. She was a familiar figure along with her father at the ringing meetings and her personality and charm and pleasant disposition always left one with a great admiration for this dear lady.
Of fine voice, she was a chorister at St. Paul's fer many years. She was devoted to the care of her father and mother in their late years and in their respective illnesses. She nursed them with great love and care and! in doing this she deprived herself of many enjoyable outings with ringing friends.
About 13 years ago she married the late William McDermott (not a ringer); they had a stepdaughter, May, to whom we offer our sympathy and also to her sister, Mrs. Bertha Lee.
Annie had a serious operation at Salford 12 months ago and we thought she was well on the way to recovery. Alas, she had not been well for many weeks and on Easter Day, after having her breakfast in the company of her sister Bertha, she collapsed and died of a heart attack.
The funeral was at St. Paul's, to which church she had been attached all her life. The bells were rung half-muffled as the cortege drew to the church and "whole pull and stand "was rung as it entered. Handbells were rung over the grave by members of the Bolton Branch. There were many floral tributes, as she was held in high esteem by all who came into contact with her. She was very fond of good striking and loved to hear Stedman Triples well struck: it was her favourite method. Many, like myself. loved her and will treasure her memory as long as we live She had rung about 40 peals.

JOE THORNLEY.

MR. JOHN PINFOLD

One of the best known ringers of modern Birmingham, a worthy contemporary of Albert Walker, Mr. John Pinfold, died on Adril 13th. The following day, at St. Philip's Cathedral. a peal of Lindsey Surprise Maximus was rune by St. Martin's Guild as a tribute, and an in memoriam peal on April 21st.
Mr. John Pinfold was one of the most popular members of St. Martin's Guild and for a number of years was Ringing Master He had to his credit many peals, appearing regularly in the 12 -hell bands. John was also a member of the Sunday service band at S ! Mary's, Selly Oak.
The funeral service took place at Lodec Hill Crematorium. Selly Oak. on April 18th.
On the following Wednesday the members of the Sunday service band at St. Mary's. Selly Oak. rang, with the bells half-muffied. a quarter neal of Grandsire Triples: Mrs. Pauline Dear 1. Miss Nora Baker 2. Mrs. Barhara Parsons 3. C. Davies 4. William B. Cartwright (conductor) 5. H. J. Turner 6, H. T. K. Haslam 7. J. L. Boylin 8.

CENTRAL AFRICAN GUILD OF ## BELLRINGERS

THE annual general meting of the Central African Guild was held in Salisbury Rhodesia, on March 20th. The confusion about the actual title of the Guild continues, and it has now to be renamed for the sceond time as the Rhodesian Guild, because the recent Provincial Synod refused to accept responsibility for us.

The meeting was not very well attended partly because of petrol rationing, which has also depleted the Salisbury band. The Que Que ringers had softened the heart of their petrol controller, however, and a car load from there was present. The change ringing was less ambitious than it has sometimes been, and Bob Minor was the best achievement. There was none the less vigorous ringing after the morning service, and again between the business meeting and Evensong

At the meeting special farewells were said to Colin Stevenson and Russ Reid, who hoth left Salishury in December, and to the Blagroves, who leave this month. Their expertise and enthusiasm will be very sadly missed.

The menting elected a new Master, Mr Harry Earle, from Que Oue. The remaining officers were re-elected (Mr. K. S. Cross as secretary and Mrs. Mason as librarian).

SUNDAY RINGING REGULAR

The outgoing Master reported one peal during the past year-the first of Major on the Continent-and four quarter peals. More important than this, the Sunday ringing at each fower has been regular, and there is friendly co-operation between church authorities and ringers. Steps have been taken in both towers to disturb the neighbours less. and also in Salisbury the chiming hammers have been installed to increase the facilities there.

The treasurer's report was a model of sir:plicity, as the Guild has apparently spent nothing during the last year: there were several suggestions for expenditure. so this is unlikely to happen again. Among these was a proposal for a regular newsletter to go to any interested persons or old Guild members. If anyone knows of ringers in Central Africa who might not yet be in touch with the Guild, please would they write to Mr. K. S. Cross (Box 766, Salisbury) or to Frank Blagrove

The estimates for raising the ring at St Luke's. Que Oue, to six hells have been obtained from Messrs. Mears and Stainbank Since they would cost about $£ 40$ per member present at the meeting, plans for an appea were shelved. The first line of attack will be for our agents in England to look around for old hells which might be retuned or even recast. Again, if anyone knows of two hells lying unused, which might come to Que Que, would they let us know. The two bells re quired to complete the ring of six in $D$ flat are E flat at 44 cwt . and $G$ flat at 34 cwt .

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD

Marlborough Branch

Members attending the Marlborough Bransh meeting in very un-springlike weather on April 16th were entertained to tea as guests of the Rector and Mrs. P. Bird. The Guild service was conducted by the Rector.

At the business meeting, with Mr . George Newman presiding, it was decided that a small coach be hired for the Guild Annual Festival at Fordington, Dorchester. Four new members were elected.

W/ orcestershire and Districts Association

$W^{1}$TH memories of the bitter weather of Easter Monday last year, members may well have been hoping for something better this year, but the annual meeting was again held on another bitterly cold Easter Monday in and around Worcsster.
The proceedings began with ringing in the morning at All Saints' Church, followed by the annual service. Work has just been complated on redecorating and on rebuilding the organ, and the ringers, not to be outdone. have been hard at it improving the appearance of the ringing chamber. There was a good attendance at the service, which was conducted by the Association's chaplain. the Rev. H. L. Davies If only the pointing of the Te Deum could be standardised then we might hear that sung as lustily as the hymns. The organ was played by a member. Miss D J. Anderson. and a course of Grandsire Triples was hung on handbells by P. Cattermole, J.
C. Eisel. M. J. Fellows and R. Ashmore.

The business meeting followed immediately afterwards and was held in the Chapter House. The Association's president. the Dean of Worcester, was in the chair. One of ihe main items was to adopt a set of revised rules prepared by a sub-committee. A feature of these rules was the introduction of an affiliation scheme for Parochial Church Councils upon payment of an annual fee of $£ 1$ per year. This monev would be used to swell the Belfry Repairs Fund and enable bigger grants to be made. Another feature was the replacement of the old form of Branch Committee by a more manageable one (in terms of size '). After some discussion revised rules were adopted by a large majority.

NEW OFFICERS

The meeting then proceeded to elect officers under the new rules. Only three vice-presidents were now required instead of six as formerly, but three of the previous ones were reappointed, the Rev. L. J. Birch and Messrs. W. B. Cartwright and J. D. Johnson Messrs. W. B. Cartwright and for the office of There were two nominations for the office of Association Master. Mr. W. B Cartwright and Mr. M. D. Fellows. Mr. Cartwright was reelected by a good majority. The general secretary. Mr. D. Beacham, was also reelected, and the new separate office of treasurer went to Mr. G. Westwood. Another new cffice was that of peal secretary and Mr. G. L. Bowen was elected to fill this post. The chaplain was re-elected, as also was the librarian. Mr. C. W. Cooper. Mr. A. D. Cook was reappointed as auditor to be joined by Mr. R. Sheppard in place of Mrs. E. D. Wilson, who wished to stand down. The Central Council representatives, Messrs. B. C. Ashford. W. B. Cartwright and D. Beacham, were also reappointed.
What may be unique in ringing associations is the honouring of long-serving members bv electing them "Freemen of this Association. In recognition of 35 years' service as librarian Mr. C. W. Cooper was honoured in this way. A resolution had been received from the Northern Branch calling for a sub-committee to be appointed to consider the reorganisation of the Association's boundaries and the formation of a fourth Branch. This resolution was agreed to and the committee appointed. It was decided to send an invitation to the Central Council to hold its annual meeting in Worcester in 1968, the secretary remarking that the Council had met in Worcester only once before, in 1902.

In the afternoon and evening ringing took place at St. John's. Hallow. Grimley. Ombersley, Claines, the Cathedral, and concluded at All Saints. There were many ringers "doing the rounds" in spite of the weather. So many in fact that it seems as if a second route may need to be arranged another time to avid congestion.

POINTS FROM THE REPORT

In the annual report the chaplain (the Rev. H. Lewis Davies). in a foreword, urges attention to recruiting. The responsibility rested not only with ingers, but also the incumbent, churchwardens, church councillors and church-people generally if they were really concerned about having their bells rung. To maintain ringing at its present level a band would need at least one new keen ringer a year.
towers which had not recruited a new ringer towers which had not recruited a new ringer for years

Mr. David Beacham, as secretary and treasurer. reported that bearing in mind that the general fund had been subsidised by collections ( $£ 16$ 16s.) the fund showed a profit on the year of $£ 12 \mathrm{6s}$. 3 d . From the Belfry Repairs Fund a grant of $£ 25$ was made to Bredon's Norton. Income to this fund was $£ 88 \mathrm{~s}$. 3d. and its total worth was $£ 260$ 9s. 6d.
Pard-up membership was 522 . They first reached 500 in 1933 and since then had never fallen helow 450 . but on the other hand had never risen above 537 in 1953. There were approximately 700 bells in towers in their territory and in order to ensure that they were all reqularly rung there should be at least half that number again of ringers

A record number of neals (113) was rung for the Association in 1965. the most since 1949 (109). These peals were rung by 188 ringers in 51 towers But to put these figures into the right perspective an analysis shows that 70 were non-resident life members. Of the resident members. 100 rang five peals or less and seven more than 20 peals. Thus the large total was reallv accounted for by few enthusiasts. Twelve members rang their first peal and Mr. T. W Lewis his 500 th. Three neals called for special mention: 11.520 Yorkshire Surnrise Maior at Hanbury was the longest peal rung for the Association: 25 Doubles variations at Old Swinford and a neal of Minor in the Channel Islands were both worthy of note.

A most important and often neglected duty of the leader is to secure recruits and tran them well in advance of apparent requirements. The age for recruitment is determined by physical considerations, but generally speaking the younger they are the better. The most reliable and desirable source is the church and it is an advantage to recruit those who have already acquired the habit of "twice on Sunday and one night a week." It is vitally important that befere hand touches rope it should be clearly understood that this is the standard of attendance required and the leader should make it his business to ascertain the reason for absence or unpunctuality by any member of the band. If pupils fall into slipshod habits of this kind in the early days there is no doubt that keenness of the required standard is missing and the leader should be ruthless. If he is soft he is only delaying the inevitable and in the meantime wasting his own time and that of the band. There is no plare in any band for either the part-timer or the habitual late-comer. There is in bellringing a law ekin to Gresham's law relating to money and it is that bad members will drive good ones away. The remedy is obvious.

CENTRAL FUND FUR BELL RESTORA. TION SUGGESTED

Dear Sir,-Over the Easter week-end I was discussing with a ringing friend various aiterations and improvements which were either planned or already being carried out in Cambridgeshure and also other towns in the Ely Diocese where, to our knowledge, improvement was needed.
It seemed to us, with increasing costs of repairing, rehanging and recasting bells, which often have to take a very minor place of preference for the money which churches have available, that ringers who are in a good many cases the only ones really interested in whether the bells ring or not, should provide the funds for the work that is needed to keep present rings operative, restore bells that through neglect have fallen into disrepair and even to augment existing rings. One might add that ringing is probably the only pastime or hobbv where the equipment is provided virtually free.

During our discussion it seemed that with 40,000 ringers in the country one might expect to get 20.000 of these to contribute to a central fund, probably best administered by a small committee of the Central Council, at a rate of 2 s . 6d. per month, which in the course of a year would raise $£ 30,000$. Having such a fund, ringers and those interested in the continuation of ringing might be persuaded to make donations or bequests to the fund.

We talked this over in some detail and thought that to have a collector appointed for each tower was probably the simplest method, this person being responsible for sending the sums collected to the general secretary of each Association for forwarding to the central fund. It would also seem to be a good idea for moneys from the fund to be paid direct to the bellfounders immediately on completion of a satisfactory job. This would prevent moneys being diverted to some other church purpose, always a temptation.

It may be that this letter could form a basis for discussion at the Central Council meeting at Whitsun. The longer such a scheme is delayed the more difficult it will be to instigate and the more expensive the work will be.Yours faithfully,
D. E. R. KNIGHTS.

Harrow Weald.

NURSE RINGERS

Dear Sir,-I would like to thank all those nurses who have written to me privately or have replied through your columns regarding my letter about nurse ringers.
I am very glad that there are so many interested nurses in the Exercise, and though I do realise that to arrange a nurses peal might be difficult owing to the distances separating us and to hours of duty, I have roted all their names and will be in touch with them directly.
In reply to Dr. Neal Smith's letter I would say that I have heard of the Medicil Guild and know that nurses can become associate members. However, the Medical Guild seems to operate mostly in the South of England. I have not met any of its members or come across any of its activities in this area, and since the prime object of my letter was not the arranging of a peal hui simply the determining of the numbers of nurses in the Exercise I do not think that the Medical Guild is the right body with which to get in touch. I thank Dr. Neal Smith for his letter and his interest.- Yours sincerely,

TERENCE M. FITZGERALD. 82. Alexandra Road,

TOUCHES OF STEDMAN DOUBLES
Dear Sir,-On page 80 of Wilfrid G. Wilson's "Change Ringing" there is a 33 of Stedman Doubles. This touch is false, as is any with singles in two successive sixes.
The shortest true touch of Stedman Doubles is a 38 -singles on $5-2$ and $4-5$.

Other touches of Stedman, other than 120 's, are: 48 -singles every slow six; 51 -singles on $1-5$ and $1-2 ; 53$-singles on $1-5$ and $2-3$; 65-singles on $2-1$ and 4-2: 66-singles on $4-1$ and $4-5$; 79-singles on 4-2 and 5-4. (The 79 will still be true if singles are called each time $1-5$ is behind.)
I woulit be very interested to hear of any other touches in this method.-Yours faithfully,

ANTHONY SMITH,

St. Uny's Cottage, Lelant,

St. Ives, Cornwall.

Wilfrid G. Wilson writes: I am grateful to Mr. Smith for pointing out the falseness of the touch of 33 changes of Stedman Doubles. It was added at the last minute to fill a gap in the page, and because it could usefully fill the gap when the service touch is over 100 soon.

But the true touch of 38 changes given above will serve the same purpose and I have arranged for it to be included in the forthcoming second edition of "Change Ringing."

"DATE TOUCH" QUESTIONED

Dear Sir,-A "Date Touch" of Stedmari Triples, composed by Martyn J. Marriott, was published in "The Ringing World" dated February 4th, 1966, on page 88.
Is the homing course, as set out from 416523, correct? If so, I should be glad to see it set out "six" by "six."-Yours sincerely,

HARRY MILES.

CLAPPER FAILURE

Dear Sir-Following the publication of mv letter on clapper failure. Mr. H. Radley, of Dunholme, has discussed the problem with Mr. G. Wilson, head of the Engineering Department, Lincoln Technical College, who has offered to place at our disposal any of the college equipment in order to investigate the problem.

It is proposed to make certain measurements on actual bells to determine factors which are at present unknown, and also to make tests on broken parts if these can be made available.

Failure appears to occur in two forms: (a) in the shank of the clapper itself; (b) in the bolt which attaches the clapper to the bell and headstock. The causes, although related, would appear to be different in eacn case.
I would therefore be pleased to hear from anyone who has had first-hand experience of either failure, especially if the broken parts can be forwarded to us for examination. I would ask the person concerned to write first, "giving details, before actually sending the "hits and pieces," since certain details and dimensions are also required about parts other than those which have actually failed. Yours sincerely,
A. W. FROGGATT.

Lincoln.

CLAPPER FRACTURES

Dear Sir,-With reference to A. W. Froggatt's letter in the issue of April 1st, 1 feel that he passes off the effect of the impulsive force between the clapper and the bell far too casually. The implication is that if the centre of gravity of the clapper is close enoush to the point of impact, the force acting at the clapper pivot will be small, but this is not, in fact, the case.

If the clapper strikes at its "centre of percussion" the force acting at the pivot will be zero, irrespective of the magnitude of the force acting between bell and clapper, but the centre of percussion is positioned such that if its distance from the C.G. is a, and the distance from the C.G. to the pivot is $b$, then $a b=k^{2}, k$ being the radius of gyration of the clapper about its C.G.
If th_ point of impact is removed from the centre of percussion through a distance $C$, and if the force acting between bell and clapper is F , then the reaction at the pivot will bo

\frac{F C}{a+b}

Since $F$ is of large magnitude, it will require only a very small value for $\mathbf{C}$ to give a force at the clapper pivot sufficient to cause eventuai fatigue failure
Thus the fracture of a clapper pivot could be caused by a badly designed clapper, as an alternative to the suggestions put forward by Mr. Froggatt. In this case the obvious but expensive remedy would be to fit a properly designed clapper, but otherwise the use of a new bolt with higher fatigue strength might provide a solution.-Yours faithfully,

Wilmslow, Cheshire.

SILENT BELLS

Dear Sir,-Whilst agreeing with your correspondent of April 15 th re " Use For Silent Bells," that probably the most common reason for silent bells is lack of interest by clergy and parishioners, 1 would point out that church bells are dedicated to the glory and for the use of worship to God.

I agree that if the bells are silent then they are not fulfilling their purpose, but to use them purely for secular purposes does not seem to be a good preceaent to adopt.
It is nice to be able to ring without disturbing neighbours, and in fact in our area there are one or two churches without too dense a population, However, if ringing annoys the neighbours, couldn't it just be that they do not wish to be reminded that there is a service about to commence which they will not be attending?-Yours faithfully,

Worthing, Sussex.

ABRAHAM GREENFIELD

Dear Sir,-I was very interested to read the letter from Mr. E. V. Rodenhurst regarding Abraham Greenfield, because when I was in that area several years ago I frequently rang with Mr. Greenfield at Netherton, as well as at St. Thomas' Church. Dudley. Another mentioned in Mr. Rodenhurst's letter was the "genial" Benjamin Gough, who in those days, I believe, rang at Coseley and whom I often met. Speaking of Netherton, this was the tower in which I rang my very first peal. one of Stedman Triples conducted by Alfred Davies, another Netherton ringer. and included in the band was that wellknown Black Country ringer, Bill Short, of Clent.-Yours faithfully,

AUBREY L. BENNETT.
Buckfastleigh, Devon.

Llandaff and Monmouth Diocesan Association

THE annual general meeting of the Llandaff and Monmouth Diocesan Association was held at Newport on Easter Monday. The bells of All Saints' and St. Woolos' were available during the afternoon and the service was held in the Cathedral at 4 p.m. conducted by the Rev. P. T. Clements. Afterwards thz members adjourned to the Church Hall. where a delightful tea had been prepared by Miss Trowbridge and her band of willing helpers.

At the meeting the chair was taken by the Rev. P. T. Clements supported by a vicepresident, Mr. F. J. Hannington, and the Master, David J. Llewellyn. We were indeed indebred to Mr. Clements for the manner in which he conducted the meeting.

Proceedings started with a silent tribute to the memory of members who had passed on during the year and it was with great sorrow that we heard of the death on Good Friday of Joe Lovett, a member of the Pentre band. who in the 1920's and 1930's rang peals of: Cambridge and Superlative with the local Sunday service band. The secretary was asked to convey a message of sympathy to Mrs. Lovett.

The secretary, in his report, which had been circulated to all members, reported that 1964 had been a very eventful year in the history of the Association. The War Memorial had been replaced in Llandaff Cathedral and the name of the member who fell in World War II added. It was decided to honour the centenary of the birth of John W. Jones, who was hon. secretary for over 40 years, and this took the form of a new bookcase being made by a member, Donald G. Clarke, and "The Ringing Worlds" left by J. W. Jones from the first number until 1956 being bound and placed with other books in the new bookcase. The Association has been most fortunate in that most of the work for the memorial tablet was carried out by T. M. Roderick at his own expense. and the beautiful bookcase was provided by D. G. Clarke, thus saving the Association considerable expense.

YOUNGSTERS HONOURED

The boys of Cowbridge Grammar School continue to prosper with their ringing and have now formed their own Society. The first Master, Christopher Ricketts, appeared in "The Rirging World" series "Up-andComing Youngsters." Also during the year Ellis N. Thomas was featured in the same series but he has now left the school for Cambridge University. As Nicholas Simon appeared in this same series some while ago it is thought that we are the first Association to be so honoured.

During the year 77 , peals were rung, an increase over last year's record total of 50 A feature of the year has been that peals were sung in towers where peals have not been rung for a large number of years, including Radyr (last peal in 1912). St. Athan (1929: Merthyr (1929), Llanbradach (1932) and Aberdare (1938). The leading peal ringer for the year was N. W. H. Simon with 29 pealis of which he conducted 27, and Miss Rutn Havard led the ladies with 21 peals. Miss Christine Glastonbury (now Mrs. R. Lucas) conducted the first peal by an all-ladies' band at Rumney. The Association also entered the long length field with a peal of 10,000 Double Norwich at Llanfeigan in July. Mr. G. E. Fearn brought a touring band into the area in September and scored 14 good peals and it was pleasing to note that some of our young members were invited to take part in some of these peals.
The hon. treasurer, the Rev. I. J. Richards, in presenting his report and the accounts, paid tribute to the work of Messrs. Roderick and Clarke. The accounts indicated a decline of assets of $£ 28$, but in view of the work carried out with the two memorials and the fact that all stationery stocks had been replenished during the year this was considered to be satisfactory A considerable saving will be effected during the present year due to Mr. Iolo Davies. Master of the Llandaff Branch, whe undertook the task of duplicating the Association's report: again. We are most grateful for this practical help.

NEW MASTER

Mr. Lionel Jones, of Usk, was elected Master for the coming year and was installed in office by the retiring Master, David J. Llewellyn. The Rev. R. C. Lucas congratuiated D. J. L. on his year of office and also noted that following his recent marriage he had become master of his own house!

The following officers were re-elected: Hon secretary, M. J. Pryor: hon. treasurer, the Rev. I. J. Richards: hon. auditors, the Rev R. C. Lucas and T. M Roderick: Central Council representatives, Mrs. J. S. King and T. M. Roderick. It was decided to appoint Mr. Leslie Bainham as hon. librarian to look after the books and bookcase in All Saints' belfry.

The sum of $£ 20$ was given to Bedwellty to assist them in repair work to their bells in the near future.
During recent years some discussion has been held with a view to changing the design of the Association's badge, the existing design being considered too large. It was decided to accept the design prepared by Miss Sheila Salkeld, of Chepstow, and that an order should be placed as soon as possible.
It was decided to hold the next annual general meeting at Llandaff on Easter Monday and that the Branches should consider the advisability of changing the date to some time other than on a Bank Holiday and for their views to be considered at next yea:"s committee meeting: as such a change would involve a change in the Rules.

The librarian, Mr. L Bainham. was asked to take steps to complete the collection of Ringing Worlds" up to the present time and to have them bound and housed in the new bookcase. Offers were forthcoming from members to provide the missing numbers. In the future a copy of "The Ringing World" will be taken by the Association and bound annuaily

The meeting closed with a vote of thanks by Mr. I. Davies to all who had assisted in arranging the meeting.
Further ringing took place in the Cathedral from rounds to Surprise Maximus. M.J.P.

STAFFORD ARCHDEACONRY

 SOCIETYRushall is now a suburb of Walsall, situated to the noith on the Lichfield Road. Those attending the recent meeting of the Society held there found St. Michael's Church about a mile from the centre. almost within the Walsall town boundary. Some visitors might be surprised to discover that the church was originally Norman, with a rebuilding carried out in 1440 , and the building of today dates from 1856. Since 1723 there has been a ring of bells in the tower, these being cast by Joseph Smith's bell foundry of Edgbaston, Birmingham. In 1908 Messrs. James Barwell of Birmingham recast all five bells, adding a treble, and hung them in a steel frame on plain bearings It is these bells which we ring today, with a tenor of 7 cwt 2 gr .14 lb . in B flat, and they are now one of the last remaining complete examples left of this founder's work in this area
After general ringing, and the Vicar (the Rev. T. B. Simister) had conducted the service, tea was partaken in the Parish Hall. The honorary secretary announced that the eight-bell striking competition would be held at Coseley on April 30th at $3 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. and that the next full meeting would be at Church Eaton on May 7th. An appeal was made to any lady ringers visiting the towers of Lichfield Cathedral. Walsall or St. Peter's. Wolverhampton to please refrain from wearing stiletto-type heels as the floors had recently been re-covered.

The following new members were elected: Miss J. Ady and Miss K. O'Sullivan (Rushall) and M. Tobin (St. Peter's, Wolverhampton). Our sincere thanks are extended to all who helped towards this successful meeting, in particular the Vicar, Messrs. C. Rainham and N . White.

SOUTHWELL DIOCESAN GUILD

The Mansfield District was made very welcome when members held a meeting at Edwinstowe on March 26th, both by the Rev. W. Pickles, who conducted the service. and by the local company, who prepared an excellent tea. Ringing on the light six varied between rounds to Grandsire and Norwich Surprise. and although at first numbers were small these were swollen later by members who had been detained to ring for weddings at their own towers
At the business mecting the following new Guild members were elected: S. Marsha!l (Selston). Mrs. I. Leake and Miss G. Crompton (Sutton-in-Ashfield), Miss M. Eyre and Miss W. Fotherby (Greasley) and G. Howbrook (Edwinstowe)
The proposed District outing was discussed and it was agreed to combine this year with the Sheffield and District Society, from whom an invitation had been received through Mr. H. T. Rooke. This would obviate any financial loss regarding transport until the extent of interest could be ascertained.

Ringing continued until 9 p.m., rounding off an extremely pleasant meeting.

Next meetings: Greasley, April 16th (evening only); Cuckney, May 28th (District Cup Contest).

BELFRY GOSSIP

The ringer of $9-10$ in the peal of Plain Bob Royal at Marple on March 31st was Giles B Thompson. The omission is regretted.
A welcoming home peal to Mr . Ronald K . Russ and family, who have been living in Adelaide, was rung at Ludgershall, Bucks, on April 14th.
To prevent controversy a peal was rung at Longney, Glos, non-Association, on Easter Sunday "to celebrate the 50th anniversary of the glorious Irish uprisings." The conductor was Giles B. Thompson.
Will those who keep their "Dove's" up to date note the first peal on the recently installed bells at Amblecote, Stourbridge, Worcs ( 8 , tenor 7 cwt .1 qr .3 lb . in B ). Installed by John Taylor and Co.

Mr . Sam Petter, of Worplesdon, was 89 on April 19th. To keep his hand in he rang for service the previous Sunday. A peal attempt on April 19th in honour of the occasion unfortunately failed.
Mr. Cecil H. Smith, of Bakewell, completed 50 years of ringing at All Saints' Church, Bakewell, on Easter Sunday, and to mark the occasion a quarter peal of Plain Bob Minor was rung on the Bakewell Church bells on Easter Sunday evening.
Coming to Bath, where her father attends the Central Council meeting is Helen Dodds, of St. Albans. She is hoping to show her friend, Wilf Williams, that she can now handle a bell in rounds! With a bit of luck, remarks her father.
Sympathy was expressed at the annual meeting of the Suffolk Guild that Mr. Andrew. Beckwith. the popular secretary, is in hospital with spinal trouble. He is in Eliston Ward, Ipswich and Eas Sufrolf Hospling and

INDISPOSITION UPSETS LONG LENGTH FOURTH BRISTOL RINGING FESTIVAL ATTEMPT
Mr. R. B. Smith writes: The attempt to ring i5,171 Stedman Cinques at Birmingham on April 16th had to be called round due to the indisposition of a member of the band. The bells were brought round after 7,279 The bells were brought round after changes in 4 hours and 53 minutes. Mr. changes in 4 hours and 53 minutes. Mr.
Shirley Burton is at present checking to make sure that the amended calling is true. Another attempt is to be arranged but not in the immediate foreseeable future. Thanks are expressed to all who helped in making arrangements.

NEWS FROM THE WILD WEST

Michael Simpson sends us this week a quarter peal from Calgary - "the Wild West " he describes it-which he believes has the distinction of being the first quarter peal in North America in more than one method. The quarter peal on Easter Day was made possible by a visit to Calgary of Christopher Groome. of Huntington, Yorks, whose acquaintance all the band were pleased to make. Time did not permit us,", writes Michaei Simpson, " to make another attempt for a peal, but we are determined that this event shali not be long postponed. In fact. if we can get the band together, we hope to have another try on April 23rd,

ANOTHER KENT TUWER RESTARTS

The bells of Snodland, Kent, have for some time been silent due to the lack of ringers, but now to the joy of local parishioners the sound of bells can be heard every Sunday. This is mainly due to the efforts of Martin L. Howe. of Maidstone, who has spent many hours teaching a band to ring. There is terrific enthusiasm in the newly-formed band and a worthy captain has been elected.
P.S.M.

THREE PEALS IN A DAY

Bad luck hefell the Leicoster ringers at Newark-upon-Trent on Easter Monday. The ninth clapper parted company with the bell after three well-struck courses of Yorkshire Surprise Royal. The band were indebted to Mr. Colin Reed for standing in at short notice Mr. for allowing them to ring on the fine eight at Balderton.

GOOD FRIDAY RINGING AT EDMONTON

On Good Friday a united service took place on the Green outside All Saints' Church, Edmonton. attended by members of all the Free Churches of the district, and about 600 Roman Catholics. To mark the occasion the committee requested that a halfmuffled quarter peal be rung before the service. None of the ringers had ever before vice. None of the ringers had ever before a breat from tradition. The standard of ringing by the local Sunday service band was quite good and it was obvious that everyone realised the importance of the occasion.
On Easter Saturday gifts were exchanged between All Saints' and the Roman Catholic Church, a buge bunch of flowers from All Saints' to be part of their Easter decorations, and from St. Edmund's R.C. Church a bottle of altar wine to be used at the 11 a.m. Communion service.

The fourth Bristol Festival of Ringing will be held on Saturday, October 29th. As usual, there will be at least 24 towers open, a Cathedral service at 12 noon, a visit to the Cathedral central tower to see the old ten-bell frame which now houses four bells, and a visit to see "Great George." the $9!$ ton clock bell in the University tower. It is also hoped that permission will be granted to climb to the very top of the tower for what must be the best possible view of Bristol. Last time the record tower snatch total of 17 during the day was set up.
During the evening a room has been hired in the Crown and Dove with an extension to 11.45 p.m.-one shilling per person will be charged to cover the cost of hiring the room.
It will be left to everybody to make their own lunch arrangements this time. Previously a hotel buffet luncheon was arranged and programmes were issued with lunch ticketsthis proved to be more trouble than it was worth, especially when people complained about the quantity provided. This time programmes will be sent on receipt of a stamped addressed envelope. We hope this fourth festival will be as well supported as the previous three-the more the merrier! J. H.

MRS. FREDERICK SHARPE HOME

We are pleased to learn that Mrs. Frederick Sharpe is home from hospital and making progress slowly towards recovery. She has still to attend hospital periodically for treatstill to

STARTED SPLICED SURPRISE AT 69

The peal of Spliced Surprise in five methods, rung at Sprotborough, Yorks, on April 16tn, was the first of Spliced for Harold Wagstaff, and we wonder if he has created a record in reaching his $69 t \mathrm{th}$ birthday before acconlplishing this? Harold is now planning to ring a peal in the eight standard methods for his 70th birthday!

MR. J. UNDERWOOD'S EASTER MONDAY  \section*{TOUR}

Following a highly successful outing to Rutland last autumn, Mr. John Underwood, of Haxey, selected the Derby area for his Easter itinerary. The towers visited were Stapleford, Sandiacre, Breaston, Spondon, Alvaston, Shardlow and two Derby city churches-St. Peter's and St. Alkmund's.
A substantial party was formed of ringers and friends from the Gainsborough and Scunthorpe Districts of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild and in spite of poor weather and two inexplicable motoring delays, the tour proved to be most enjoyable All the bells and towers visited were delightful and the standard of ringing displayed was moderately agreeable (even at times exceptionally good!).
At Sandiacre we were assisted by the welcome presence of Mr. and Mrs. Carlisle, and later the party was augmented by two young ladies, Janet Hudson and Christine Cobb away on a long week-end safari from London! These two young ladies were able to extend our repertoire somewhat, and more than one aspiring tenor-man deflated rapidly at the sight of young Christine covering the big 'un with such skill: $\quad \mathbf{H}$. ## CHAIRMAN SEES PROGRESS

In 1962. Mr. Gilbert R. Goodship was elected chairman of the South East District of the Suffolk Guild. On March 12th at the annual general meeting, again at Woodbridge, he laid down the reins of office, contending that it was time new blood took the chair. When he was first elected there were just 18 present: this year, despite a windy day, 58. This growth of attendance, he told the meeting, was a source of delight. Thanks were expressed at the way he had conducted the meetings. His successor is Mr. Ernest G. Pearce, who was accorded best wishes for the future. The Ringing Master, Mr. Howard Egglestone, and the secretary, Mrs Winifred Lockwood, are continuing in office.

Reporting on 1965 , Mr. Egglestone congratulated the keen young band of 18 members at Bramford under the guiding hand of Neville Whittell. Six of them were conlgratulated on scoring their first peal, and the whole company on ringing 28 quarter peals, mostly for Sunday service. Also to receive congratulations were Henley, where five young members achieved their first peal. A lot of young members in the District, said Mr Egglestone, had advanced to the stage where they could tackle new ground and enjoy ringing other methods.
The service was conducted by the Rev. J. D. Beloe, and the hymns were accompanied by Peter Harris, a Guild ringer. Tea was arranged by Mr. A. S. Woodard. Good wishes were sent from the meeting to Mr. Andrew Beckwith, Suffolk Guild general secretary, for a speedy recovery.

FIRST PEAL AT ST. PETER'S, NOTTINGHAM

The first peal on the new 12 at St. Peter's, Nottinghiam, was enjoyed on Easter Monday. Stedman Cinques was rung and birthday greetings were extended to $\underset{F}{ }$. Neville Pailing on his 21 st . Walter Nichols his 71st and Frederick Salter his 73rd. The band were sorry that ill-health prevented Mr. Salter standing in the first peal, after his many years of work for this tower.

LEICESTER RINGERS IN CHESHIRE

Markfield. Leics, ringers had an Easter Monday tour of Cheshire. A former rector, the Rev.C. I. H. Siviter, and Brian Schofield were irstrumental in putting their organiser. Jack Wardle, in touch with the towers. All the bells were very much enjoyed but the fine six at Taxal and the eight at Fairfield deserve special mention. At Bollington the companv were joined by Peter and Jill Staniforth and Bob Smith. Methods rung ranged up to Cambridge and London on the sixes, Plain Bob and Grandsire, on the eights with an occasional "crunch" of Stedman Triples.

TO LIVE IN GERMANY

A farewell quarter peal was rung at Godalming on April 3rd to Derek White and his German wife. Derek, who came to Godalming from Hampshire, was the only outsider to join the Godalming band in the last ien years. He is making his new home in years.

THE 1966 HEREFORD RINGING COURSE

IWONDER how long it takes for an annual event to become a tradition. The weekend ringing course held at Hereford at the end of April was the fourth to be held in this ancient cathedral city and, to judge from the enthusiastic comments of those who at tended it, it will certainly not be the last.

The course, held as usual at the Hereford Training College, was directed by Mr. W. F. Moreton with the able assistance of Mr. G. T. Cousins. Lecturers were Messrs. F. Sharpe. N Chaddock and C. A. Wratten, and the domestic arrangements were in the capable hands of Mr. A. T. Wingate. It is to these people that 40 ringers, from a very wide area, owe their thanks for an instructive and most enjoyable week-end. Indeed, when one considers the wide variety of age and ability in the "students." it speaks well of the teaching and organisation that everyone was asking at the end: "Will there be another course next year?"

The syllabus, ranging from the fundamentals of teaching and learning bell control through elementary change ringing on tower- and handbells. care and maintenance of bells and tune ringing to composition, was carefully planned to cater for the wide range of abilities and interests. There were also periods of practical work in the tower. In between all these sessions we did however manage to visit a local Chinese restaurant: admittedly this was due to a slight omission in the printed pro-gramme-or at least in the copy that was given to the cooks !-but it did enable us to enjoy the novel experience of having a meal in a restaurant without having to face a bill in the end.

But perhaps the outstanding feature of the week-end was the friendliness and enthusiasm that abounded. The lecturers had a sympathetic ear for all problems, a seemingly endless supply of patience and, above all. a dedication to the art that did not fail to inspire even the humblest to greater things. It is difficult to think of any other circumstances where the old, the young and-dare I say it?-the middle-aged work together in such harmony. The Hereford course is to be commended to all: long may it flourish.

BALDOCK RINGERS IN LINCOLNSHIRE

TT WAS 7.30 a.m. on June 11 th when the somewhat sleepy Baldock ringers clambered into their coach to journey to Lincoln and the surrounding district for their annual outing. Already on the coach were ringers from Kimpton, Hitchin and St. Ippolyts, as Baldock's outings have always been a District affair rather than just a tower outing.After two and a half hours' journey we stopped at Sleaford for morning coffee and then sampled the 19 cwt . eight. This groundfloor ring is somewhat unwieldy but when struck at a crisp pace go like the proverbial " tops."

The early morning mist was still lying around Lincoln Cathedral, high on its hillside, when we reached the city from the south side. We had first to ring at St. Giles' on the 18 cwt . eight, which are excellent to handle.
After lunch, ringers gathered at St. Hugh's tower. When the ringers reached the ringing chamber, after climbing a mere 126 steps, they were extremely pleased to find the bells up. Here was a fine ring of 12 , but due to the numbers of learners in the party only rounds were accomplished, but Stedman was obtained on the ten, and all enjoyed this musical ring.

Back to the coach, and now on to Newark, where the tenor of this ten brought beads of perspiration to the forehead of even Jack Dear-no easy bell this, although with the help of two local ringers Cambridge Royal was achieved. Tea followed.
Our last oort of call for the day was Caythorpe. The new incumbent informed us that a rope had broken. so we could only have seven bells Inspection revealed that the third indeed had no rope at all. but searching in the belfry brought a rove to light. which was then fitted to the bell. We now proceeded to ring this 10 cwt . eight up in peal, but. alas, the third refused to go more than halfway: still closer inspection showed that the Hastings stay was too long, and speedy removal of the offending stay permitted ringing to start. These bells are tuneful and reasonably easy going, but lack of use and disrepair may soon render them unusable.
It was a weary hut satisfied party of ringers that eventually disembarked in Baldock at an early hour on Sunday morning after a ston at Grantham. A truly excellent outing. well organised as usual hy Eddie Buck, to whom. logether with the incumbents, we extend our sincere thanks.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD

North Dorset Branch

A quarterly meeting of the North Dorset Branch was held at Shroton on June 18th. The bells were rung to a variety of methods. ranging from rounds to London Surprise Minor, before the service, conducted by the Master of the Guild, Rev. R. N. Longridge. with Mr. F Greenway (also a ringer) at the organ. The Rector. Rev. Dr. R. M. Taylor, gave a most helpful address, his theme being that we as Christians are all members one of another. Afterwards 30 members and friends, including visitors from Yeovil and Lyme Regis, sat down to a sumptuous tea, served by ladies of the church. At the business meeting eight new members were elected, including three under 17. A hearty vote of thanks was passed to those who had made the Branch so welcome. Further ringing was enjoyed both there and at Childe Okeford.

Marlborough Branch

Musical honours were accorded the Rev. R. Keeley at the monthly meeting of the Mariborough Branch at Chisledon on June 18th, when it was discovered that the day was his birthday. Roger officiated as Ringing Master for the afternoon and evening ringing.

Mr. G. Bowman (lay reader) conducted the service, with Mr. W. Drewitt as organist. A lavish Chisledon tea prepared and served by Mrs. Court, Mr. Bob Court and helpers was enjoyed.
At the business meeting, presided over by Mr. G. Newman, a hearty welcome was given to the visitors, who included Mr. Tony Peake, fresh from another record-breaking peal of 70 different Spliced Surprise Major methods accomplished that morning at Stratton St. Margaret Next three monthly meetings: Overton, Aldbourne and Burbage-with-Milton (subject to permission). Branch outing: September 24th, Lymington area of New Forest.

LAVENHAM RINGING ANNIVERSARY

On June 18th upwards of 50 ringers from Suffolk. Essex, Norfolk, Cambs, Lincs, Staffs and London attended the Lavenham ringing anniversary, the bells being kept going from 2.30 to 9 p.m., methods ranging from Plain Bob to Yorkshire Surprise. This also coincided with the Church Flower Festival, which attracted over 9,000 visitors during the weekend.

ELEGY-FOR A SOLEMN PARTING

(Sung on the departure of the Rev. Peter Bond from St. Augustine's, Gillingham)

There's a large clergyman we all very well know:

Singing Peter, oh Peter, oh Peter!
Three years he has been here, and now he must go Singing Peter, oh Peter, oh Peter!
Our hearts being broken, no tongue can express
The sorrow that fills them. Yet we must confess
The place will be quieter, nevertheless,
Without Peter, oh Peter, oh Peter.
The aylon surplice must go on its way With Peter, oh Peter, oh Peter;
The fishing-net underwear washed every day By Peter, oh Peter, oh Peter.
Of instruction on bell-ringing we are bereft.
To mend our clocks there's none so deft.

Now Gussie's slips gently back into its doze
Without Peter, oh Peter, of Peter.
A notable chapter we finally close
About Peter, oh Peter, oh Peter.
We suffer no longer that back-slapping zest:
"Believe you me! troubles no longer our rest;
But a laugh we may hear when the wind's west-nor'-west From Peter, oh Peter, oh Peter.
The Missions to Seamen are in for a shock From Peter, oh Peter, oh Peter,
Where the angel flies over Tilbury Dock
When the chaplain sets foot in a rather small boat,
We must all hold our breath: will it still stay afloat,
Or a splash and a wave and some bubbles denote That was Peter, oh Peter, oh Peter?

When at length Peter's called from this valley of woc. Crying Peter, oh Peter, oh Peter,
To his heav'nly reward we trust he will go
But we doubt not that, should he at length reach the gate,
Saint Peter himself will be forced there to wait
While our Peter explains seven times why he's lateKnowing Peter, oh Peter, oh Peter To be sung to the tune of Tit Wiliow (from "The Mikado"). Gilbert and [Sullivan.

SEVENTY-SEVEN AND BACK IN ## HARNESS

Ringer; in East Devon will be extremely pleased to learn that the Branch vice-chairman. Mr. John Arbury (77) is back ringing again after an extremely serious operation It says much for his physical and mental ability that only two and a half months after undergoing the operation he celebrated his second visit to the tower by ringing the treble faultlessly to a quarter peal of Stedman Triples.

Brother James (75) on the tenor contributed much to this quarter by setting an excellent beat which was maintained throughout. When asked why he is able to set such a cracking pace, James attributes his fitness for most things to a regular pinch of snuff,

PEAL BAND CHANGED

It had been intended in the peal of Stedman Cinques at the Church of Our Lady and St. Nicholas. Liverpool, to ring it for the University of London Society, but one of the band was taken ill and felt he would not last the peal. Mr David Wilford, of the Liverpool University Society, stood in at an hour's notice and the band is very grateful to him for doing so CLITHEROE, LANCS. - On June 6th, 1,440 Doubles (Grandstre and Plain Bob): S. Wright 1. P. Norman 2. F. Prike 3. J. Pilkington (cond.) 4. J. P. Jenkinson 5. To mark the election of the Mayor. Mr. T. Robinsoa.

AN AMERICAN OUERY

Mr. Rick Dirksen points out that the quarter peal of 1,260 Doubles in two methods rung on Easter Day at Calgary, Alberta (page 279). was not the first quarter rung in North America in more than one method. He states that one in three methods was rung at Washington Cathedral on June 1st, 1965. He inquires if this was the first.
"Let me say I always look forward to 'The Ringing World and have no grumbles."-A Cornish reader.
Mr. Roy H. Jones informs us that the peal at Marston on January 15th was his 100 th peal for the Oxford Diocesan Guild and not his 100th.
Among interesting "plural" orders received for the new book "Method Structure in Change Ringing" are those from New Zealand and from the County Librarian. Norfolk Education Authority, for seven copies. They already have several copies of Part One of this series, "The Ringers' Manual of Reference."
Mr. F. Reed, R.A.F., Little Rissington, Glos, writes correcting the claim that the peal of London Surprise Royal at East Retford on June 4th (page 400 ) was the first in the method on the bells. The first was rung on method on the bells. The first was rung on August 26 th. 1950 , for the Yorkshire Association, conducted by the late James C. E. Simpson.

BELFRY GOSSIP

The ringer of the sixth in the peal of Yorkshire Surprise at Marple (page 471) was Alan F. Scholfield and not as submitted.
The peal of Double Norwich Court Bob Major at Bulwell on May 1st was 5,152 changes and not 5,040 , as submitted.
Thirteen-year-old Timothy Hollis, son of the Vicar of Rotherham, rang the treble of the back eight there to his first peal on June 25 th. He is the 40 th pupil of $\mathbf{M r}$. Norman Chaddock to reach this standard, almost invariablv in separate peals.
At Ruishton, Taunton, a birthday quarter peal was rung on June 22nd to Mr. R. F. peal was rung on June Arscott. His ten-year-old daughter, Sylvia, and 12 -year-old son, Adrian, both took pari while father kept a measured beat on the tenor.

We regret that details of a quarter peal of T.B. Royal at Southwark Cathedral on March 23rd had either been lost or overlooked while we were moving offices, as it was an engagement compliment to Deborah M. Hopkins and A. S. Bishop, who have both done much for the advancement of ringing in Metropolitan Surrey and S.W. London.
An interesting point about the peal at Croydon Parish Church on June 25th is that the last all-local peal was in 1953 and that it was the first peal of Grandsire Triples on the present bells, the previous one being in 1927 on the old eight. Incidentally. the local Society are proud of their title-The Ancient Society of Croydon Parish Church Belliringers (Est. 1730).

THE REV.  W. H. R. TREWHELLA'S

 JUBILEEThe Rev. W. H. R. Trewhella, who now lives in retirement at Penzance, celebrated the jubilee of his ordination to the priesthood on June 28th. Father Trewhella has bad a lifelong interest in bells and ringing and, apart froin serving his title at St. Margaret's, Barking, has spent all his ministry in Cornwall. He returned to his native county in 1918. when he went to Truro Cathedral as curate of St. Mary's Parish. After further curacies at St. Paul's, Truro, and St. Agnes. he became Vicar of Zennor and then returned to St. Paul's, Truro, as Vicar before moving to Crantock.
Father Trewhella has done much for ringing in Cornwall in his own quiet way. When curate of St . Paul's, Truro, he found a fund still in existence from the sale of a set of ten tubular bells. and persuaded the Vicar 10 install a beautiful 12 cwt. ringing bell io Taylors. Unfortunately in recent years the wheel has been dismantled because of fears for the safety of the tower.

At Zennor, Father Trewhella found three ancient bells and he at once had these restored and augmented to six. At Crantock he took over six bells of which the tenor only was hung for ringing, and had the whole restored as a usable ring. All this work is a sign that for over 30 vears the Trurn Diocesin Guild had a secietary whose interest in the bells of Cornwall never flagged and. further. Father Trewhella is one who can pride himself upon having rung on all the rings in the county capable of being rung.
In honour of the occasion a quarter peal of Bob Major was rung at Probus on June 18th.

MR. CHADDOCK'S WORK FOR YORK.

 SHIRE ASSOCIATIONMr. Chaddock, who, due to pressure of other commitments. recently gave up his vice-presidency of the Yorkshire Association, served six years in this office, nine on the General Committee and 16 on the District Committee.
Mr. Chaddock has trained 65 of his pupils from handling a rope to ringing their first 720 to qualify for membership of the Yorkshire Association. Most of these have gone on to ring a quarter pea! and 40 to ring a full peal. all these performances being conducted hy their tutor. Some of these ringers have constituted bands at four previously silent towers near Rotherham and some of them have taken part in recent outstanding achievements in Yorkshire ringing.

STOWMARKET BELLS AT THE ## FOUNDRY

Stowmarket bells were lowered last weekend and are now at John Taylor's foundry, Loughborough. In charge of the removal of the bells was Mr. Eric Fowler and he was assisted by a 19 -year-old apprentice, Stephen Key. A picture of the lowering of the 24 cwt . tenor appeared in the "East Anglian Daily Times " on June 22nd. Two of the bells are to be recast and the rest retuned and to have new clappers. Except for the pre-Reformation Sanctus bell, the tower will be silent for the best part of the year.
Stowmarket bells were last rehung in 1894 and the ringers have been wanting the bell chamber to be restored for the past 20 years. The work is estimated to cost $£ 1,600$ and nearlv all this sum has been raised by parish efforts plus a grant of $£ 250$ from the Barron Bell Trust One bell (the fourth) is 500 years old.

RETURN VISIT FROM GROTON

Two quarter peals were especially arranged for Mr. Thurston B. Clarke, Groton, Yale. and now of New York City, in England for a short visit. He was here previously in 1962 with Russell S. Young's party from Groton School.
Hillingdon.-On June 12th, 1,260 Grandsire Triples: Thurston B. Clarke 1. Miss R. M. Mullys 2. Miss P A. Conas 3, J. Sexton 4 , M . W. Seymour 5 . A. R. G. Twinn 6 , J. Hill (conductor) $7, W^{\prime}$. H. Coles 8 : for Evensong.
Stoke Poges.-On June 92nd. 1.260 Stedman Triples: W. H. Coles 1. Miss R. M. Myllys ? A. D. Barker (conductor) 3. Thurston $\mathbf{B}$. Clarke 4. Miss P. A. Copas 5, M. J. Palmer 6. J. Hill 7. R Lister 8.

PROGRESSIVE STEPS

Following the appointment of Mr. T. Timms as Ringing Master of the Chipping Norton Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild just over a year ago. regular monthly practices have been held at different towers throughout the Branch. Another innovation, starting at Burford on June 18th. is a series of quarter peal attempts with the object of giving members an opportunity to ring their first or first in the method The performance on the 18th enabled a first of Triples to be scored.

OKFORD GUILD FOUNDFR MEMBER'S BIRTHDAY

Sexton at St. Mary's Church. Banbury. for over 20 years and a founder member of the Oxford Diocesan Guild. Mr. Frederick Selwyn. of 33, Castle Street East. Banbury, celcbrated his 95 th hirthday on June 24th. Mr. Selwyn was faught to ring at Bromsberrow, Glos. and was an active ringer until a few years ago.
On the eve of his birthday a quarter peal of Grandsire Caters was runs by the following members of the tower: J. M. Stretton 1. C. T. Wightman 2. Mrs. D. Bentley 3. J. E. F. Eastley 4. Mrs. M. O. Gillett 5. R. P. Bentlev 6. H. H. Alexander (conductor) 7. C. F. Herbert 8, H. Hyde $9, \mathrm{~K}$. H. Bolton 10 .

EXCITING NEW GROUND IN RINGING

Headed "Scientific-but Attractive," Canon Gilbert Thurlow gives a comprehensive view of Wilfrid Wilson's book "Change Ringing " (Faber, 63s.) in the July issue of "The Norwich Churchman." He writes:
"Although it is a scientific textbook, it should prove attractive to the general readerto anyone who wishes to exercise his mind on a mathematical subject. Much of it is already familiar to the practised ringer, but chapters have a habit of attracting and encouraging the reader by their familiarity, and then of leading him on to exciting new ground.
"And Mr. Wilson has a happy knack of making abstruse matters seem easy. This is because he is himself thoroughly at home in all branches of the art. He has in the past written many valuable articles and books on ringing. and has proved a brilliant and popular lecturer at ringing courses-which are hecoming increasingly popular at educational and youth centres.

Everywhere the reader is led to explore further for himself."

SALTER STREET, WARKS

Eventually there is a first peal by most local bands. To the many must be added that at St. Patrick's, Salter Street. Warks, where the first by the locals was scored on May 15 th. Miss B. E Jessop, the tower secretary, writes telling of the progress during the past tour years, when a very small band was only able to ring plain courses. Encouraged by the captain, Mr. R. H Hicken, and Dr. A. J. Collings, these recruits progressed and eventually a band was formed itat could ring touches of Grandsire.

Unfortunately Mr. Hicken and Dr Collings left the district but under a new captain. Mr. J H. Upton, the band carried on ho gaining experience through ringing in other churches. In reaching their ambition they were fortunate to have Mr. Hicken to return and ring in the neal with them. St Patrick's has now 12 regular ringers. all of whom are under 21 years of age. It is the neal ringers desire to train the others to peal status.

A HYMN FOR RINGERS AT DEDICATION

 SERVICEWords by Percy Amos. Tune, A. & M. 3S. Hallow Lord our bells to Thee.
Given to Thy service be.
Those who ring and those who hear. Ever to Thyself draw near.
Blest. annointed by Thy hand.
Sound their tongues throughour the land.
Guard their use from acts profane,
Rendered only to Thy name.
Consecrate the hands that ring.
To the church all people bring.
Use them as the holy dove.
Tell forth Thy redeeming love.
love of Thee, their God. their Lord,
Graces send with one accord.
To the sick, bereaved and lone.
May they, Saviour be Thine own.
CLAINFS, WORCS.-On June 21 st , 1.260 Grandsire Doubles: Jane Parker (first quarter) 1. R. Woodsati 2. J. Whittall 3. Julia Reardon 4. A. Morgan (cond.) 5, H. Homans 6. By the Sunday service band.

GLORIA IN EXCELSIS

BELL-ringing for the past year and a half has been enslaving me. I would do anything to ring, get up at six, do the dishes, thumb rides, not a normal attitude for me. I have tried to find a reason for this passion, but it just escapes me.

It's got something to do, I know, with antiquity. I have always been in love with the past, the clear, clean-cut time (it seems to me) when the world was simpler, and this one activity seems to have kept a little of the old simplicity, like a breath of wind from the time that the world was young and men were daring. The sheer audacity of making such a vast amount of noise, with no excuse but the pure joy of it and the fact that we are making such a joyful noise unto the Lord, is a bold and uncharacteristic gesture in the world of today.

With antiquity goes tradition. The very young delight in repeating a formula which old, slightly stooped men, in towers a quarter the size of ours, have said for three hundred years: "Look to, treble's going, treble's gone!" We know she'll say that; we have said it ourselves, and taken on for a moment an automatic leadership. And we all know the old sayings: "Everyone in a belfry is a friend," and, less moral, but equally cheerful, "Drunk as a bell-ringer." It's all part and parcel of ringing through the ages, and we are on the crest of the wave. Yes, it is we, the students of National Cathedral School, and the boys and men and women who have heard the tower calling, who have brought the sound of bells from across the wide Atlantic. Of course, there were bells before, but not "proper" bells, not "change-ringing" bells.

For ringing as we practise it is an art, a pattern of sound. The bells hunt up, course down, bob with each other, weave in and out, up and down in the dance. In this pattern lies the challenge to have at our command perhaps a ton of solid metal, to bring it in or hold it back at touch, to silence it or to make it speak at will. And in the pattern lies the sense of kinship as we bind ourselves to one another in the careful steps, building up row on row the waves of sound which shake the stones beneath our feet. There, too, comes the sense of victory, when we hear the words, "That's all," and we stand still a moment and our legs tremble with joy, relief, and just plain weariness, and we sit down very hard on the floor and cry. The joy of being weary for such a cause! The privilege of callouses won so assiduously!

Tied up with my passion is the longing to go back to England where it all began; where once I walked unheeding in the streets of Oxford while passing by Magdalen Tower; where the great bells of St. Paul's hang high above dingy streets; where you only need go to a church door and say, "I'm a bell-ringer," and you're with friends.

If it is not to go to England, how shall I leave the Cathedral; how can I look up at the Tower which is my home and know that I am going where no purple sallies rise and fall in rhythm, where no windows look out, out, out across the world? When I come back, there will be new faces in the Tower, younger arms at the ropes, and we who started it all will be forgotten. Or perhaps we will be welcomed some day, and stand to again, with the familiar lump in our throats, wondering at our own deeds as the bells cry out. It doesn't matter, really.

As long as ringing goes on, as long as the bells are not forever muffled, and the very reason for their sound is not forgotten, there is a hope in the world. The bells must ring on and on, ring out statesmen, ring in bishops, weep for Passiontide, and shout for Christmas...

Still I have not captured it. But listen to the bells, and they will tell it themselves.

PROSPECT OF DIVISION CONFRONTS OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

THE MASTER'S QUESTIONS IN OUTSPOKEN SERMON

CANON C. ELLIOT WIGG, Master of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, questioned in the course of his sermon at the Guild Festival, held in Christ Church Cathedral on July 2nd, whether the Guild was too unwieldy and too complex in its organisation. If the Diocese of Oxford is divided, and many suggestions have been supporting that view, should not the Guild with its 16 Districts also be divided? To relieve senior officers of District visiting it is suggested that Assistant Masters or stewards be appointed-probably one for each of the three counties-Oxfordshire, Buckinghamshire and Berkshire. The Guild is one of the richest, with funds exceeding $£ 2.000$, and a membership above the 2,000 mark.
The festival service was most impressive and there was a long procession of robed choris-ters-boys and girls, women and men-that filed behind the Guild's banner and the cross carried by the Deputy Master (Mr. Frederick Sharpe). The Feast of the Visitation was observed in the lesson read by Mr. Sharpe and the text "selected by Canon Wigg for his sermon: "My soul doth magnify the Lord," in which he spoke of Mary's complete dependence upon God.

TECHNICAL ADVANCE

Turning to modern problems, Canon Wigg said in the last few years they had noticed an enormous increased efficiency in the technical side of their art. Who would have thought it even 20 years ago that one band of men and women should ring a pea of Spliced Surprise Major in 70 methods?
There was an enormous increased efficiency in every walk of life, but they must not lose sight of the first object of ringing-to the glory and service of God. They rejoiced in ringing advanced methods. Today more people showed that they could ring advanced methods even in the first year of their ringing. But they must not forget that bells were put in God's houses and they had for their prime purpose ringing to God's glory and ringing or Sunday service.
Secondly, they had an enormous organisation. Think what it was like in the time of the Rev. F. E. Robinson. the first Master. Then it was possible for the Master to visit all the towers each year: there was nothing of the wonderful organisation in the Guild like it was today. Today there was also the fellowship-the fellowshin of like-minded peo ple who were organised for the joy of serving God together

GOOD THING

"We note that some day this great diocese will be broken up. When it takes place it might he a good thing for the Guild. because the Guild can get unwieldy and too complex in its organisation. If this is the case it would be a good thing to cut it down. At the present time there is division in the district. and we get people of one district taking a different view from another district and we have something which is not satisfactory. There is just a possibility if you get too unwieldy of these things happening. When this division comes those who think wisely might not think it to he a bad thing: it might he to the advantage of the Guild as a whole."
His third thought was the secularisation of life. This secrlarisation, he said. went through all sections of life. Even public holiday are dissociated from Church festivals. They were to have a Whitsun holidav with no part of the relisious festival-a kind of early summer festival.

Finally, the Canon asked the Guild never to hold a practice or a Sunday service without the foreman saying a short prayer dedicating that service to God. Little things like that could help them to keep away from the secularisation of their art. He agreed with the secularisation of their art, He agreed widh the in life except sin."

THE MEETING

The annual meeting was held in the Chapter House, the Master (Canon C. Elliot Wigg) being supported by the Deputy Master (Mr. F. Sharpe), the hon. treasurer (Mr. A. D. Barker) and the hon. general secretary (Miss M. R. Cross) Proceedings opened with the Collect, followed by the presentation to the Guild library of a copy of "Change Ringing" from the author (Mr. W. G. Wilson), who was present to hear the Master's thanks.
The apologies included one from the hon. librarian (the Rev. E. B. Wood), who was expecting that day to be the father of twins.
Before the officers' reports were presented the hon. editor (Mr. Philip Walker) expressed regret that the reports were not on hand. He had been let down by certain Branch secretaries, who were late in sending in their copy; it was also partly due to the printers. Unless there was better co-operation from the Branches he could not continue as editor.

COMPLEXITIES

The Master, in his report, said the 33 years during which he had held office in the Guild had been marked by a gradual increase in the complexities of life and the consequent stresses to which they were subjected. The organisation of the Guild itself had increased considerably in its scope and complexity, with the addition of such annual fixtures as ringing courses. secretaries' meetings, striking competitions, Branch dinners and a general meeting in the autumn. He had come to the conclusion that the time had come to lighten the load of the senior officers. They suggested that the Deputy Master be relieved of some of his routine duties and assistant officers be appointed for visiting Branches on a regional basis. The title of steward was suggested for these additional officers.
With a thrill of pride and pleasure they read in "The Ringing World"" that the first peal of Major on tower bells in America had heen rung by members of Oxford Diocesan Guild at Groton School. They liked to refer affectionately to Groton School as their overseas branch.

TOWER INSPECTIONS

The Deputy Master, who had visited seven Branches and attended nine meetings during the year, reported that his chief work had been the inspection of towers and bells, submitting reports on their condition and making recommendations for their restoration. Thirtysix requests for inspections and reports were received from churches in the Oxford Diocese. Thirteen were from Berkshire. 11 from Buckinghamshire and 12 from Oxfordshire. One parish sought advice on augmentation and five on the recasting of one or more bells. Twenty churches asked for advice on rehanging, nr were advised to completely rehang their bells: in nine of these the existing frames could he reused. Twenty-nine towers asked for advice on maintenance and normal routine renairs and it was a matter of great satisfaction to know that many more pariches were taking a greater interest in belfry maintenance.

Sixteen towers asked for advice on sound control. In one tower where he distinctly specified in writing that 144 square feet of sound exit was desirable, he found that only 36 square feet had been provided, and the parishioners were complaining that the bells were subdued too much

MEMBERSHIP INCREASE

Nineteen-sixty-five was a year of steady progress in most Branches, reported the hon general secretary. Membership was 1,740 (last year 1,463) ringing; 29 (29) life: 63 (54) honorary. Total 1,831 (1.540). Fifty nonresident life members were also elected and two resident members transferred on leaving the diocese. She felt that a number of other people should be on the list, particularly students and other young people leaving home.
The report set out fully the activities of the Guild.

FINANCES SOUND

The hon. general treasurer (Mr. A. D. Barker) reported that the general funds of the Guild amounted to $£ 2,056$. of which $£ 1,766$ was in the Restoration Fund. During the year $£ 41$ 19s. was contributed by 51 Parochial Church Councils. Grants were paid to Ludgershall, Stowe and Sutton Courtenay. $£ 25$ had been transferred to the Reserve Fund, which now totalled 105 .
The hon. librarian's report mentioned that requests were often made for information about peals rung in a particular tower. Canon Felstead (St. Michael's Vicarage. Southampton) had this information at his fingertips and had kindly said that it was no trouble to him to answer such questions.

The reports and accounts were adopted.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

There was a surprise over the election of officers. The Master, the Deputy Master and the hon. general secretary were re-elected and thanked for their work. For the hon. treasurership the first nomination was Mr. F. Lewis, of Reading. Mr. A. D. Barker, the retiring hon. treasurer, was then nominated. On a show of hands he secured re-election by a big majority. "I'll do the best I can." he assured the meeting in returning thanks.
The Rev. Eric Woods was re-elected hon. librarian. Mr. P. Walker editor of the Renort, and Ernest Francis and Son auditors. There was a vacancy on the General Committee as Mr. E. Parsons did not seek re-election Those elected were: Mrs. Barker. Miss D. Fletcher. Messrs. A. Diserens. F. Lewis, P. Walker and F. A White.

APPLICATIONS FOR GRANTS

Ar. application for a grant for Longeot was referred hack for further information. The committee's recommendation for $£ 50$ to Stan-ford-in-the-Vale was agreed to. The committee had recommended an additional grant of £25 to Facthampstead (they had previously heen voted $£ 50$ ), hut Mr. A. D. Barker said he was opposed to it as it was not a wholehearted recommendation. the committee voting being 16 for and 14 against.
Mr. W. H. Coles said he attended the dediration and the Guild had. in that corner of the diocese. an extremely valuable asset as their tyne of bell was ideal for teaching voungsters. He was extremelv impressed at the amnunt of work the ringers there had done: they must have saved more than $£ 100$. and the ladies there did dirtv lahouring work He moved that the Guild give Fasthampstead another $\mathrm{f}^{4} 0$. This amendment was seconded by Mr. Ward.
Mr. Diserens felt he could not subport an additinnal f5n but strongly supported the additional £25.

Mrs. Rance pointer nut that the ringers themselvee had provided $£ 200$ for the two new trebles.

OXFORD FESTIVAL-continued.

Mr. F. Price, in reply to a question, said the total cost was $£ 1,100$ and they had undertaken to provide the money in 18 months. They would work harder themselves to raise the $£ 25$ rather than upset the treasurer.
After further discussion the committee's recommendation of an additional $£ 25$ was carried.

The meeting also reaffirmed the recommenda ion made in 1964 of a grant of $£ 50$ to Coleshill.
The hon. general secretary asked for the confirmation of the election of 200 new members during 1965. In answer to Mrs. Rance, the Master said this figure was additional tc the strength of 1,831 given in the general secretary's report and would give a membership of roughly 2,000 .
The autumn general meeting arranged for Wantage on October 1st was agreed to.

SEPTEMBER FESTIVAL

Miss Cross said the Dean and the steward had asked if the festival could be held in September. A business meeting in March would then be appropriate. The meeting left the arrangements in the hands of Miss Cross as it was necessary to give a reply by Monday to the steward.
The committee's recommendation that the annual subscription remain at 3 s . 6 d . was opposed by Mrs. Rance. She said the treasurer told them they had no money to spend She would like to see the subscription raised by one shilling.

Mr. W. Butler appealed to the meeting to have confidence in the General Committee, who had considered the matter very carefully The meeting endorsed the recommendation.

Outstanding business was referred to the autumn meeting.

THE LUNCHEON

The luncheon followed in the hall of Christ Church, with the Master in the chair supported by the Archdeacon of Oxford (the Ven C. Witton Davies).

Mr. F. Sharpe, who has been a churchwarden for 34 years, seven when there was no incumbent, proposed the toast of "The Church." He thought that one of the causes for young people drifting away from the Church was the shortage of clergy. They should endeavour to get more lay help to see them through this sticky patch. Mr. H. L. Roper replied.

The toast of "The Visitors" was proposed by Mr. L. Oglesby, who mentioned Miss Jennifer Murphy, of Melbourne, and Mr. Ron Russ, formerly of Adelaide and now living at Uxbridge.
The Editor, in reply, said there had been a request from the English College in Rome, to whom the Central Council had given three bound text books on ringing, for a copy of Morris's "History and Art of Ringing." The Council, through its secretary, asked if, for the advancement of Church Unity, anyone was prepared to help meet this request.

The Master said they had three copies in the Guild library. He asked the members present if they agreed to one copy going on permanent loan to the English Theological College at Rome. This was agreed to.
The vote of thanks to all who had helped in the festival was proposed by the Deputy Master, who mentioned the Dean and Cathedral authorities, the governing body of Christ Church for the use of the hall and amplifying apparatus, the organist (Mr. A. G. Kemsley) and the choir from Winslow and other choristers.

GOLDEN WEDDING OF MR. AND MRS. A. HARMAN

On June 24th, 1916, at the Church of SS Peter and Paul, Bromley, Kent, Mr. Albert Harman married Miss Mildred Bush, and, fifty years later, on June 25th, 1966. Mr. and Mrs. Harman eeceived the congratulations of their family and a host of friends, particularly those connected with bellringing. Their two daughters, Mrs. Stacey and Mrs. Coldman, gave a golden wedding party at the home of the latter, at Cedar Close, Bagshot, to which their parents had travelled during the previous week from their own home at The Mount, Godshill, Isle of Wight.

Mr. Harman, a very active 77, and a re tired master builder had been Ringing Master of the Leatherhead District of the Guildford Diocesan Guild and later, for 16 years, Master of the Guild, having followed the first Master (Major J. H. B. Hesse) when the latter moved to Somerset

Mrs. Harman and her daughters and sons-in-law took a great interest in the activities of the Guildford Guild when resident in Leatherhead, particularly in its annual dinner, and many remember the beautiful table decorations, mainly of chrysanthemums, which Mr . Harman delighted in growing. At the party at Bagshot the profusion of flowers, gifts and congratulatory cards, together with the good wishes of the guests, gave ample proof of the popularity, affection and esteem in which the Harman family is held.
The bells at Chobham, where Mr. and Mrs Coldman and their daughter, Meriel, ring regularly, were rung on the previous Sunday to a quarter peal of Grandsire Triples and Mr. Harman took part. Bagshot bells were rung on the morning of the 25 th, and a peal in honour of the occasion was rung at Alder: shot the same day. A quarter peal at Capel unfortunately failed because of the illness of one of the ringers

The toast to the couple was proposed by Mr. Charles Denyer (Farnham), an old friend of the family and who succeeded Mr. Harman as Master of the Guildford Guild, and a toast was also drunk to Mrs. Alice Bush, Mrs Harman's sister, who was a bridesmaid at the wedding. A two-tier golden wedding cake, decorated with golden bells, was cut, and Meriel Coldman who is 15 , was in evidence attending to the welfare of her grandparents.
On their return to their own home another party was to be held to which all their ringing friends on the Isle of Wight were invited, and no doubt this was also a typical eveningwell organised and pleasantly informal.

May Mr. and Mrs. Albert Harman both continue to enjoy good health and have many years together to receive the love of their family and friends.
C. D.

THE TAYLOR SHIELD

THE Taylor Shield is a wooden shield on which is mounted a bell metal plate showing the mark of the Watts family. This was presented to the Southern Branch of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild by Paul L. Taylor in 1964 to be used as a trophy for the annual striking competition.
Six teams met at St. Andrew's Church, Rippingale, on June 25 th, to take part in the third competition, in which each team had to ring 240 changes of any Minor or Doubles method of their own choice and were allowed 20 minutes in the belfry.
Before the competition a service was held, conducted by the Rev. J. R. Worsdall, after which the judges (J. L. Millhouse and G. Paul) were installed in the sitting room of the local across the road and Team 1 ascended to the belfry
Everything went quite smoothly until Team 4 struck off in rounds, six bells for four pulls and then only five, the treble had stopped. Cries of "broken rope" were heard from the belfry. Had someone been at work with a knife? Cold sweat broke out on the brows of Team No. 3, who thought of what might have happened during their 240 had it snapped. The rope was spliced, adjusted for length, and the remaining three teams rang their 240 's without any further mechanical failure. During the ringing a black dog sat in the churchyard. head thrown thack, and howled. Was it his opinion of the striking or was he joining in the music?

After tea the judges presented their report. They considered that many teams spoilt themselves by ringing too slowly Resulis in the order that the teams rung were: St. Andrew's. Billingborough, "B "team (twelve changes) 80 faults; All Saints'. Stamford (Cambridge Minor) 49: St. Wulfram s, Grantham (Plain Bob Minor) 33 (winners): SS. Peter and Paul's, Bourne (Cambridge Minor) 59: St. Andrew's. Billingborough "A" team (Plain Bob Minor) rung out: St. Andrew's, Folkingham (Grandsire Doubles) 83.
Members of the winning team, st. Wulfram's, Grantham, were: T. A. Relf 1, F. W. Pinchbeck 2. J. A. Colborne 3. H. L. Squires 4. V. P. Evans 5, G. J. N. Colborne (conductor) 6 They were presented with the shield and a framed cert.ficate by the Rector of Rippingale. Further ringing follo ved. TAFF.

Letters to

WINCHESTER BOB CATERS

Dear Sir,-In reply to Mr. Dodds' inquiry (page 428) I would point out that the normal Grandsire" bob is in fact a Grandsire Doubles bob and not really practicable for this type of method. This bob has only two calling positions (leads 2 and 7), which leave the back bells undisturbed, also a bell can only be in 5th or 6th place for a few courses each time. A double call (leads 3 and 6) which puts a big bell into the hunt for three leads can be used, but this also affects the 5 th and 6th place bells.

The "Double Norwich Cater" type of bob permits of full courses with the back bells undisturbed and a bell fixed in Sths as required.

These points also apply to other "Caters" methods, including Oxford Bob.-Yours sincerely,

Hockley, Essex.
ALFRED J. HOUSE.

TENTERDEN PROTESTS

Dear Sir,-With regard to the protests about the peal at Tenterden, Kent, on a recent Saturday afternoon, I hasten to point out that St. Augustine's Hospital is some 20 miles from Tenterden, so I very much doubs if the bells disturbed the patients !
The fact is, a few patients from St. Augustine's Hospital were being entertained in Tenterden that afternoon, but as they did not arrive until 3 p.m. and the peal ended at 3.35 p.m. I feel that the complaint is without foundation.

In passing, I may as well point out that the peal in question was by the Royal Cumberland Youths and that the ringing in the main was very good indeed-I heard most of the peal and could find no cause for complaint ; there were ons or two minor errors in the ringing, but when one remembers that these bells are rather "lumpy" and the day very hot. minor errors are almost bound to creep in but, as I have said before. the bulk of the ringing was of a high standard and I congratulate the band on their performance. Yours sincerely,

WILFRED W. RING.

Bethersden.

RINGING BOOKS FOR ROME

The Bishop of Ripon, chief Anglican observer at the Vatican Council, has appealed for books covering the whole area of Anglican theology and activity, which will be housed in a library at the Anglican Centre to be established shortly in Rome. He has accepted with pleasure the gift from the Central Council of a set of the four publications which have been the subject of donations to the theological colleges.

He would be grateful to anyone who would donate a copy of Morris's "History and Art of Change Ringing " for this library. If there is anybody who is prepared to make this sacrifice in the cause of ecumenism, will he please write to me.

VERNON BOTTOMLEY,

Secretary,
The Central Council of Church Bell Ringers.
Note.-When the appeal was announced by the Editor at the Oxford Guild Festival there was an immediate response from the Master, as the Guild library contains three copies.

the Editor

"THANK YOU" TO THE NORTH-WEST
Dear Sir, - 1 would like to take this opportunity of expressing through your columns my sincere thanks to all my triends in Lancashire and Cheshire for making my stay in the NortnWest for the last six years such a pleasant and enjoyable one.
「herr hospitality and friendship have been second to none and I doubt whether anyone could have been made to feel more sincerely at home" anywhere in the country.
I trust that our friendship will last for many years to come and 1 hope to spend many more happy times in their company in the North-West and elsewhere in the future.

Again, thank you all--Yours sincerely,
TUDOR P. EDWARDS
Pentre, Rhonddu, Glam.

SOMERSET PEAL LEVY

Dear Sir,-I am sorry that my criticism of Mr. Massey is being regarded by Mr. Heymann as unfair, unwarranted and a personal attack on him (Mr. Massey). It was not meant to be, I can assure you. 1 based my criticisms on the facts known to me. And although Mr. Heymann goes out of his way to explain what really happened, there are no grounds as far as I am concerned to warrant any retraction on my part.

I am sorry also that your correspondent had to use the word "democratic." What the chairman did with a proposition which was properly put can not only be described as extraordinary but very undemocratic. I do not think that Mr. Heymann's question: " Now I wonder why we are having so much "Now ifficulty over this?" is relevant, in view of all that has bappened, but rather "Where do we go from here?
In my view the answer is simple, but twofold:
(1) Not to ring any peals at all, or
(2) Ring peals non-Association.

I would choose the latter and in doing so would voluntarily contribute, and hope my fellow members would do the same, by equal amounts to "The Ringing World " and to the church where the bells were used. I would do this also whether the peal was successful or not.-Yours truly,
R. BEALE.

Taunton.

QUARTER PEAL AT PUDDLETOWN

Dear $\operatorname{Sir},-1$ would be interested to know whether the quarter peal rung recently at Puddletown. Dorset, is the first to be rung on the bells. The quarter peal, which was one of 1.440 Doubles, was completed on these fine old mellow bells in 57 minutes. It is known to be the first on the bells since their rehanging last year, but any record of a previous quarter peal or peal here has been lost.

Four of the band, with the aid of other ringers, have recently rung a quarter peal on the bells at Long Bredy-only the second quarter peal on the bells-Piddletrenthide, quarter peal on the bells-Piddletrenthide, Sydling St. Nicholas and Leigh. all of which are rarely rung.-Yours faithfully.

Charminster, TIMOTHY F. COLLINS.

Charminster, Dorset.

GOSSIP PARS

Mr. John T. Dunwoody regrets that he in. correctly stated the number of changes in the handbell peal of Bob Major at Holywood on page 436. It should be 5,024 .

OBITUARY

MR. CHARLES MARVEN

The funeral took place on July 2nd at Tendring, Essex, of Mr. Charles Marven, who for over 60 years was sexton and church clerk of that parish. He was 91 . When he started to ring Tendring had only four bells, but in 1907 they were augmented to six. Charlie Marven was a life member of the Essex Association, and although he only rang one peal himself it latterly became the custom of his friends to ring a peal in his tower on his birthday.
It was fitting that the two churchwardens, Mr. A Barton and Sir Philip Southwell, should walk immediately behind the coffin, on which someone had placed a wreath made in the shape of a bell
The bells were rung half-muffled before and after the service by A . Cole (Great Bromley), Mrs. Hales (Tendring), F. Erith (Ardleigh) F. Harvey (Thorpe-le-Soken), D. Bloyce (Great Bromley) and E. E.' Davey (Little Clacton).

MR. J. G. THOMPSON BONE

The Norwich Diocesan Association has lost a most colourful and remarkable character in the person of John ("Cheerful") Bone. For many years he had been a regular ringer at Wiveton and was active to within a few days of his death.
Born at Blakeney, he was but three months old when his parents moved a mile or two to Wiveton, and here he lived all his life except for the years of the first world war, when he served in the Bedfordshire Regiment. At Beaumont Hamel he lost a leg, but he made light of a disability that would have soured a lesser mortal.
Taking up market gardening, he went on his rounds with Toby and his "dickey cart," selling his produce and endearing himself to the whole neighbourhood and to the numerous visitors to the area
He retired but four years ago at the age of 76, when Toby, now being taken care of in the village, was reputed to be 30 . N. G.

ARCHDEACONRY OF HALIFAX GUILD

The holiday season made little difference to the attendance at the meeting on July 2nd at Kirkheaton Parish Church. The Rector, the Rev. T. Anscombe, gave us a warm welcome and his address was on "A bell called Gabriel." The local band. under Mr. Richard Senior, the Guild's Ringing Master, provided an excellent tea $\mathbf{M r}$. J. Anscombe, of Kirkheaton, and $\mathbf{M r}$. G. Richardson and Miss Ruth Richardson, of Dewsbury, were elected to membership. Mr. P. Birkett, on our behalf, extended best wishes to Mr. Vernon Bottomley on his appointment as secretary to the Central Council and president of the Yorkshire Association.
Mr. and Mrs. Bottomley invited the Guild to the Yorkshire Association's meeting at Bridlington, on September 17th.

ST. PETER'S, BRIGHTON

St. Peter's. Brighton, and outings make a popular appeal, and this year's, on June 11th, included in the party ringers from St. Nicholas and Good Shepherd, Brighton; Lewes, Heene, Hurstpierpoint, Shoreham, Aldrington, Wivelsfield, Burgess Hill. Keymer and Duffield
A sunny two-hour drive brought us to Alton, where Bristol was attempted. More friends were waiting for us at Basingstoke, including Angela Newing, a former secretary Because of a funeral the ringing schedule had to be adjusted with the help of Jeffery Hill, and we were ringing on the nationally-famous nine earlier than planned.

Lunch was at the Wheatsheaf and at 1.40 p.m. we were en route for Newbury. On the way we rang on the eights at Aldermaston and Thatcham (an ice cream parlour nearby rivalled the beifry for popularity). A very pleasant hour was spent on the ten at Newbury, followed by tea at the Plaza Grill. Incumbents and tower captains are thanked.

MELTON MOWBRAY

$A_{n}$ attractive programme with the route clearly defined was provided for those participating in the annual tour of St. Mary's Society, Melton Mowbray, on June 25th, to the county of John Bunyan.

First ringing was on the lovely bells of Burton Latimer, while non-ringers admired the marvellous flower arrangements for the festival. Elstow (6), with its detached tower, was next, and the bells were put to good use. Some visited the church and John Bunyan's Some

After lunch at Bedford, the glorious ring at Woburn was enjoyed and tea taken at the Abbey, Evening ringing was at Newport Pagnell and Olney, where we were met by the Vicar and Mr. Cook. The party assembled in the church at 8 p.m., where the Vicar conducted Compline.

Melton was reached at 10.15 . The excellent arrangements were made by Mrs. D. A. Day (tower secretary) assisted by Mr. R. E. Manton.

GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL ASSOCIATION

Cheltenham Branch

MORE than 40 ringers, soine of thent coming from as tar away as kenuworth, Walsali, ivitcneideau ana Stratton st. Margaret, met at weltoru-on-Avon on July 21 st. Ihis was at the nall-annual meeting of the Cbeltennam Brancı.
the ringing was of very good standard, ranging trom lirst lessons in bell hanuling for two tads trom slaverton. to well-struck touches oi Cambriage and London. Without excepthon, the branch meetangs have been well attended this year, even at the four-bell tower at stanway.

Evensong was conducted by the Rev. John Homtray and the Rev. Peter Newing, who is assistant curate at blockley, a local ordinand read the lessons. and the Rector of Welford, Father Kenneth Gray, who, like the other clergy, is also a ringer, played the organ and gave the address. Bellringers were evangelists for Our Lord, he said, if they did their job properly, especially as regarded good striking and ringing on Sunday.

After tea on the Rectory lawn a business meeting was held, at which Mr. Gray took the chair and, after a thorough discussion, the following resolution was passed unanimously:
" It is the opinion of this meeting that no boundary changes should be made at present, but that any changes that should take place in the future should follow Deanery boundaries."
Thanks were then expressed for the welcome provided by the Rector and bis wife and by the local band and helpers.

During the remainder of the evening the bells of Clifford Chambers (6) and Quinton (6) were rung, thus ending a happy and enjoyable meeting.

SEVENOAKS, KENT, NEW BELLS DEDICATED

THE dedication of a new ring of bells must always be a great occasion in the life of any parish. It represents the making of history and, in the case of Sevenoaks, it is the first time since 1769 that a completely new ring of bells has hung in the church tower Thus it was that on June 25th the congregation of St. Nicholas' Church turned out in force to witness the solemn dedication by the Bishop of Tonbridge, the Rt. Rev. Russell B White, of eight bells in the key of $F$ with a tenor bell of 16 cwt 2 qr . 10 lb ., recently cast at the Whitechapel foundry of Messrs Mears and Stainbank, successors to Pack and Chapman, who, at the same premises, cast the earlier bells which had given outstanding service for nearly 200 years.

The 1769 ring was cast from metal from the earlier ring of six, from which no doubt the nearby Six Bells Lane took its name. A new frame had been made of oak from Knole Park. just over the road from the church, and in this present restoration a section has been cat from one of the foundation beams of this old frame which bears the date cut out in beautiful copperplate script. It is hoped to preserve this as an interesting relic of the belfry as it was for so long.
In 1892, when the Rev. Thomas Curteis, a bellringer, was Rector of Sevenoaks, there was a major restoration of the bells by John Warner and Sons of the Cripplegate foundry. At that time Nos. 2, 4. 5 and 7 were recast, the Rector's name appearing on the new 7 th. Just before the last war the back four bells were before the last war the back four bells were put on ball-bearings and in 1948 the remaining four were similarly dealt with.
Some years ago Sevenoaks Church had suffered a disastrous fire, and about eight years ago a major restoration of the church including the provision of a new roof was completed at a cost of some $£ 32.000$. It was realised at that time that a major overhaul of the bells would be desirable, but in view of the probable cost this could not be undertaken, and certain temporary extra supports were put under the bell frame. The "go" of the bells, already unsatisfactory continued to deteriorate, and by December, 1965, when the bells were finally taken out, they needed overhauling, particularly after spells of dry weather.

RAVAGES OF TIME

Early in December, 1965, Harry Parkes and Arthur Lewry, from the Whitechapel foundry. appeared on the scene with their hoisting tackle and in a matter of days the bells were standing in the churchyard awaiting their return to the foundry All who were able to witness this task of dismantling were amazed at the speed and skill with which it was carried out. When the old timbers were stacked at the foot of the tower the ravages of time were only too plainly to be seen, and this represented the final confirmation that the complete renewal of the frame was vital.
At this stage it was known that the sixth was cracked and would be recast. and it was intended that the remainder should be retuned and all hung in a new metal frame. It was a great shock to the parish. therefore, that when the hells reached the foundry all three of the other Pack and Chapman bells, the treble, third and tenesr, were also cracked. Various alternatives were considered, but it became plain that if this generation shirked the responsibility of doing a complete job an even greater hurden would fall on those who follow. The Parochial Church Council bravely decided that notwithstanding the extra exnense thev would have a new ring of hells cast nense ther would have a new ring of hells cast from the old metal. and would invite individual donors to pay the cost of individual bells.

The response to this invitation was dramatic and within a matter of days there were more donors than bells required. As a result, three families are associated with the tenor and one each with the remaining bells except the treble. which is a parish memorial to Mr. B. W.

Fennell, until lately for many years people's warden

Many from the parish were present when the new bells were cast in May, and since then in an atmosphere of suppressed excitement the parish has waited to hear how the new bells would sound On the great day the congregation assembled in silence, local people being joined by many visiting ringers, including Mr. John Willis, vice-president of the Kent County Association, and the officers of the Tonbridge District of the Association, who were combining a District meeting with the dedication service.

The service commenced with "All people that on earth do dwell . The 150th psalm was sung and the lesson from I Chronicles 29. verses $6-19$, was read by Sir John Dunlop, followed by' "Now thank we all our God. Under the tower, the Rector's warden, Mr. Maxwell Creasey, presented a bell rope to th Bishop in token of the eight ropes in the ringing chamber above, and asked him to dedicate "this ring of bells." A few rounds were rung by members of the local band, and the service continued with the singing of "Unchanging God who livest

The Bishop, who was formerly the Vicar of Tonbridge, knew many of the ringers present and, being still president of the local change ringing society at Tonbridge Church, knows a great deal about ringing and was thus able to take as the theme of his sermon the pattern of change ringing as illustrating the pattern of Christian life. Thus resulted an inspiring sermon, made the more interesting to the ringers present as well as to the remainder of the congregation.

82-YEAR-OLD VETERAN CONDUCTS

The service concluded with "Praise, my soul, the King of Heaven. "prayers and Blessing, and as the Bishop, clergy and choir Blessing, and as the Bishop clergy and choir returned to the vestry, the local ringers commenced a touch of 504 Stedman Triples. This was followed by a touch of Grandsire Triples by the remainder of the local band, conducted by Percy Turley, the 82 -year-old veteran member, who has been ringing at Speldhurst and Sevenoaks for over 60 years, and then by a well-struck touch of 504 Stedman Triples by officers of the Tonbridge District and other invited members of the Association under the leadership of Mr Walter H. Dobbie, the Tonbridge District secretary

In the meantime tea was being served in the Rectory for the Bishop and other distinguished visitors, and a buffet tea for members of the Association and other friends in the Red Cross Room, adjacent to the church. The Bishop joined the ringers and gave a few words of welcome to them, and afterwards went up into the tower to see the bells whilst the touch of Stedman was still in progress.

The business meeting of the Tonbridge District took place at 6 p.m. with Mr. John Willis in the chair. The business was mainly of a routine nature and included a report from Mr Dabble on the very successful ringing school at Frindsbury for the Tonbridge, Rochester and Lewisham Districts. It was announced that the next meeting of the District would be the annual District meeting at Tonbridge on October 1st, and there would be a joint meeting with the Southern Districi of the Surrey Association at Godstone on October 29th. It was the turn of the Tonbridge District to arrange the Association dinner. and this would take place at Tonbridge on September 24th. Mr. Dobbie asked for the full support of all members of the District. The usual votes of thanks were moved bv Mr. Donelas Woodcock, particularly to Mrs R.V Fuller and other ladies of the Mothers' Union who had prepared and served the tea.

No account of all that took place at Sevenoaks would be complete without a sincere tribute to the kindness, sympathy. encouragement and practical help received from the Rector, the Rev. E. M. T. McLellan, without which the great work of restoring the bells would never have been achieved. For long years to come ringers will express their opinion of Sevenoaks bells, but as far as the local ringers are concerned the bells are regarded as a triumph of the bellfounders' art. Thanks are due to many who have helped, not least to Mr. C. W. Finney, Rector's warden, who has acted as unofficial clerk of works.

ESSEX ASSOCIATION

The final of the striking competition took place at Mistley on July 2nd. This is a sixbell competition in which each team is allowed two minutes' practice rounds before ringing 240 changes. At a turnround of 15 minutes per band there was plenty of time for the six teams to perform before the service at 4.30 . After the tea which followed, Mr. R. C. Heazel, the Association Master, presided.
Mr. R. Leavett, who acted as M.C. in the belfry, commented on the timing, and said that those teams from the six-bell towers rang at a considerably steadier pace than those from towers with eight or more bells.
Mr. F. B. Lufkin, for the judges, said the standard of striking was high, and it was difficult to choose between the teams. Marking had been done by counting faults, but "rhythm" had also been taken into consideration.
The winning team was St. Leonard-at-theHythe, Colchester, who started with a steady heat and maintained it throughout- 22 faults. The next team was Thorington. who rang Doubles: they might have won if the covering had been a bit better- 27 faults. Boreham rang Doubles, with excellent covering-41 faults. They were closely followed by Prittlewell with 43 faults, Waltham Abbey with 44 faults. and Danbury 44 faults, the ringing in all cases being very good indeed.
Mr. Heazel then presented the trophy to Mr. Peter Pitt, for the Hythe ringers. who also won it last vear at Orsett. The Master finally thanked the judges. Mr. Lufkin. Mr.
R. J. Lindsell. and Mr. Howard Egglestone. the M.C. and the Honeywood family and other helpers from Mistley.

The peal of Clyde Surprise Royal at Ashton-under-Lyne, published on page 346, was rung on Tuesday, May 10th, and not May 11th.

Saffron Walden bells were on the air on Sunday, July 10 th, in B.B.C. 1 programme "Songs of Praise."
The peal marked "Non-Association " rung at Salter Street was rung for the Coventry Diocesan Guild.

Messrs. Taylor have dismantled the bells at St. Paul's, Bedford, prior to rehanging on new bearings and iron headstocks. Activity is accordingly suspended for the present.

Mr. R O. Humphries informs us that the composition of the seven extents in the peal of Cambridge Minor rung for the Universities Association at Bristol on June 28 th was C.C.C. Nos. 31, 32, 42, 43, 44, 48 and 49.

The reconditioned bells at Ballarat were dedicated on July 3rd. The local ringers have done the rehanging themselves and have done a good job. Both Sydney and Melbourne ringers were represented. The bells were sent to Messrs. Mears and Stainbank in England for reconditioning.

After ringing a quarter peal to welcome the new curate, the Rev. Roderick Wallis. to Holy Trinity, Cookham. Berks, on June 26th, Mr. Wallis visited the belfry to meet the ringers. As there were five more minutes to ring before the service, to everybody's surprise he took hold of the seventh when a touch of Grandsire Triples was announced. An unexpected asset to local ringing.

A STRONG HANDBELL CENTRE

Around Stroud, Glos, there are over 20 sets of handbells (used and abused), including one of 42 bells. To stimulate interest the Stroud and District Branch of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association promote an annual handbell festival, which this year was held at Randwick on June 18 th . About 90 visitors were present who attended a service in the church conducted by the Branch chairman (Mr. R. P. Nicholas). The Blessing was given by the Vicar (the Rev. N. R. Morrison). Tea provided by church ladies followed.

The Village Hall was filled to capacity for the handbeli programme in the evening, with the Vicar acting as compere. Some of the teams came from schools. The girls of Longford School, conducted by Mr. Brian James, formed less than a year ago, did very well. The youngest team came from Whit minster School and they had a unique system of ringing from colours with charts that looked like paint boxes. Other teams included those from Cam, near Dursley, and Bredon, but the climax of the evening's entertainment was Mr. Frank Barnett's team from Worcester which was formed about 15 years ago to raise money for the restoration of Leigh Church beils. Since then it has given over 600 puhlic performances. Teams from Bisley ( 17 bells) and Woodchester ( 31 bells) were unable at the last minute to take part. A team using 12 bells is about to be formed at Horsley.

The focal arrangements were made by Mr A. R. Barnett. The next festival has been provisionally fixed for June 17th, 1967, and an invitation is extended to all handbell teams to support the event.

DUBLIN UNIVERSITY GUILD

One of our ringers, Andrew Pike, was ordained deacon on June 26th in St. Mark's, Belfast. Thus the annual outing of St. Patrick's, this year to Enniskillen, fitted in nicely with the plan to ring for Andrew's ordination and for his first service.

On the journey from Dublin to Enniskillen we were delayed by Customs due to a technical bitch (the officer was at lunch), but this made our own lunch all the more welcome. After general ringing, three of us, with the "importer" and gentleman of the party driving Charlie Reede's car, crossed over to Belfast. Here we descended on the Hall household.

The next morning Elizabeth Hall, the Guild secretary, conducted us to St. Mark's, Dundela, where, after ringing for service, we saw Andrew ordained. While congratulating Andrew, Ann Sadler photographed father with his two sons-bishop, priest and deacon. On the spur of the moment we rang John Lindsey. An hour later, supported by five of the local band, we were ringing a good touch of Grandsire Triples in Carrickfergus, where the ringing chamber is over the lych gate. We appreciated the friendly welcome at such short notice.

Some of our friends met us at Bangor and Andrew was able to ring with us before his first service. Archdeacon Quin welcomed the ringers and invited us back to the Rectory for supper.

We thank Mrs. Hall and Elizabeth, the Hannas and the Quins for their typical Irish hospitality.

ANOTHER YOUNG VICE-PRESIDENT

The South-Eastern District of the Yorkshire Association followed the example of the Southern District at its annual meeting it Hemingbrough on June 18 th in appointing a young vice-president, Mr. A. Sheppard, of Sherburn-in-Elmet.

Mr, H. Walton, the retiring vice-president, was also nominated but the ballot went in favour of Mr. Sheppard. Thanking the members who voted for him, Mr. Sheppard said he hoped to justify the confidence placed in him.

Tributes to Mr. Walker's past services for the Yorkshıre Association, and also in the forming of the Doncaster and District Society, which still had a Harold Walker Cup, were paid by Mr. L. M. Woodhead. Mr. Vernon Bottomley and Mr. W. F. Moreton also wished to be associated with the remarks of gratitude District Committee members elected to serve for three years were as follows: Miss M. E. Wilkinson (York), Miss J Gray (Walkington) and $\mathbf{R}$ Warford (Selby), also General Committee.
A motion by Mr. D. S. Johnson on whether or not the Eastern District still had a useful function to perform in view of the activities of the Beverley and Selby and District Societies and the Joint Council of Ringing Societies, brought about considerable discussion. It was finally decided to call a District committee to discuss the situation and perhaps circularise the District.
One new member was elected-Miss Barbara A. Taylor of Kirk Ella A comprehensive A. Taylor of Kirk Ella A comprehensive vote of thanks was proposed by Mrs. vote of Bottomley
An attendance of around 35 may be considered good, but only 17 of those present were actually eligible to vote as Eastern District members. Further good ringing continued up to 9 p.m. to conclude a pleasant and successful meeting.
Next meeting: August 27th, Hessle and Cottingham if available.

A SUFFOLK SIX SILENT SINCE QUEEN VICTORIA'S JUBILEE

The ring of six bells at Kersey, near Hadleigh, Suffolk, is likely to be renovated next year. These bells, which have not been rung since the jubilee of Queen Victoria, will cost about $£ 2,000$ to renovate. Friends of the fabric and bells of St. Mary's Church have already raised $£ 500$, of which over $£ 300$ was forthcoming from the church's first floral festival held last August Bank Holiday.

A WILTSHIRE FOUR RINGS AGAIN
To add splendour on the occasion of the dedication of a memorial to the Rev. Mr. Kilvert in Langley Burrell Church, the Rector approached a local ringer to have the bells rung.

This request was passed on and the willing hands of Dick Lovelock and Bob Purnell were engaged for several hours tightening the frame. unclogging bearings, splicing rope, etc., amid the usual clutter of an unloved tower and seven vears with no ringing.

Sunday afternoon saw four ringers assemhled, a spare rope fitted to the 2 nd , and the bells raised in peal
Method ringing was not attempted, the temperature seeming to be in the $80^{\circ} \mathrm{s}$, but the "go" improved as call changes procressed until service time. Verdict: Quite safe and ringable with effort.

NORTH DEVON TEAMS SHOW THEIR

 SUPERIORITYJune 11th was the Devon Association's final day at St. Budeaux, Plymouth, when the best five teams from South Devon competed for the Ross Shield against the best five teams from North Devon. Qualifying competitions had been held at Stokenham for South Devon and Bickley for North Devon.

The afternoon started with a short service conducted by the Rev. J F. Parkinson. The church was filled and the singing just wonder-ful-all those male voices with the majority as tuneful as the bells at St . Budeaux. Handshakes followed as the ringers filed out of church, many not having met since the last final at Poughill Jack Hine, captain at Plymstock, the holders of the shield, was shaking hands with Merv Phillips, captain at West Down, who always seem to start favourites, having been either first or second for the last 14 years.

Ed. Coles, the secretary, was soon getting things moving, taking the judges to a caravan sited in the churchyard. The judges were Herbie Pidler (High Bickington) and Brian Drake (North Tawton), representing North Devon, and Arthur Tapper (Yealmpton) and Rub Elliott (Bridford), representing the South. Fred Stevens (West Alvington) was scrutineer. The captains draw, and West Dowo is No. 1.

At the sound of the warning bell West Down's Merv Phillips, Des Smale, Chris Ridge, Gerald Stevens, Ivor Hookway and Len Smale enter the church. There is a big rush to get the tape recorders set and it seemed as if every team had a tape recorder. Everyone is waiting, with ears pricked. There they go, "Nice pitch in,"" "Not a bad rise, not a bad pitch, either." "Ain't giving away much." "Coming round," "It's all over." "Lovely lower, anyone that beats that one will win, ${ }^{\text {, }}$ says Sam Down to farmer Gerald Hookway churchwarden at West Down, who had iravelled down with the team.

Plymstock, Swimbridge and Kenn ring before tea supplied by the women of St . Budeaux, with enough for an army. Down St. Mary's turn. and if anybody is going to beat West Down it could be St. Mary's. "Nice pitch in." "Rise fair," "Whatever is Ralph about with the tenor?" "Dragging like nort on earth one side," "Still doing it." "Gived away too many on top," and so the remarks go on.
The presentation of the shield by Mrs. Parkinson is in the Village Hall, and Fred Stevens announces the result: No. 1, with $21+$ faults. West Down, and Merv Phillips collects the shield and 1 st certificate; No. 2. Talaton, with 253 faults, and John Bambury, their captain, receives the Shelley Cup and 2nd certificate. Others are: 3 Down St. Mary, 29 faults: 4 Plymstock A. $30 \frac{1}{4}$; 5 Plymstock $B$ 32 $\frac{1}{2}$; 6 Swimbridge, $36 \frac{1}{2}: 7$ Kenn, 45 ; 8 West Alvington B $49 \frac{1}{2} ; 9$ Plymtree; 10 Stoke Gabriel.
So ends another Devon Association final with North Devon taking the first three nlaces.

And now PART II of the  RINGERS' MANUAL OF REFERENCE being  An Introduction to the Theory and Technology of  "METHOD STRUCTURE IN CHANGE RINGING"

Though introductory it is yet wide in its treatment of this aspect of ringing and is, from the student's viewpoint, a natural "follow on" from PART I-"Bell Handling and Control, in the Elements of Change Ringing." It is NOT a handbook of methods, of wnich there are, of course, other publica. cions: but like PART I it is unique, in that it offers an exposition of its subject not to be found elsewhere, so far.
PUBLICATION (1st June)
by the COLLEGE of CAMPANOLOGY, of this

Some 40 members attended the quarterly meeting of the Eastern Branch at Pakefield on May 21 st. Touches in a wide variety of methods up to Cambridge were rung on the very light octave. The service was conducted by the Rector, Canon D. E. Bringloe. and Mr. P. Kindred, leader of the local company, read the lesson. The tea (or banquet) followed in the Cnurch Hall and was succeeded by the business meeting. The chairman (Miss D. Lidbetter) expressed the gathering's pleasure to see their president (Mr. F. Nolan Golden) in action once more.

Next meeting: Happisburgh on October 8th

RINGING LITERATURE

The Professor Comments

"IF," remarked the Professor, "the amount of literature published on a subject is an indication of its vitality. 1 suppose that ringing is as much alive today as it ever was."
"Perhaps," I countered, "it is merely because the urge to write is greater or printing facilities easier."
"Maybe. Of course any art diffuses as it progresses and the need for special books or articles on different branches becomes necessary. Whereas at one time almost all aspects of the art could be adequately covered in one volume, today this would be impossible in the detail required for specialists in each subject. And so we find, for instance, that in Ernest Morris's 'History and Art of Change Ringing,' probably the greatest book on change ringing ever written, and more recently in W. G. Wilson's book, huge tracts of certain aspects (for example, six-bell ringing) must perforce be left largely uncovered."
"What about the early books?"
"Stedman was responsible for the first two, 'Tintinnalogia' in 1668 and 'Campanalogia' in 1677. The former was reprinted from the office of 'The Bell News' in 1895 and, although it may be, as Trollope says, 'one of the best written books on ringing that has ever been published,' it contains much that is now obsolete and of interest mainly to historical students of bellringing."
"That it was so well written," added the Professor, "was due to the fact that the actual text was prepared by a Rev. R. Duckworth, then Rector of Hartest in Suffolk, a ringing friend of Stedman."

"And Campanalogia?"

"Technically a much more advanced book. Singlechange methods and other odd concoctions appear as in the previous book with delightful names such as 'Nightingale,' 'My Lord' or 'A Cure for Melancholy,' but methods which we regard as 'standard' methods now make their appearance although not always under the names in which we now know them. Double Bob, Double Court, Single Oxford, Oxford Treble Bob, amongst others, appear in print for the first time."
"In 1702," he continued, "another 'Campanalogia' made its appearance, this time with two authors, J. D. and C. M., who were, it is believed, John Doleman and Charles Marsh, members respectively of the Society of London Scholars and the Society of College Youths. Four more editions appeared, the last, edited by Monk in 1776, containing Cambridge Surprise Major, the Minor version having made its debut in the previous edition in 1753. Snowdon in his Preface to the fifth edition of 'Standard Methods' points out that slight adjustments were made to Cambridge Surprise Major in 'Clavis' in order to give it regular lead-ends."
"In what year did 'Clavis' appear?"
"' 'Clavis' or 'Clavis Campanalogia', to give the work its full title, was published in 1788 and was the result of the joint efforts of three men: William Jones, John Reeves and Thomas Blakemore, Jones being responsible mainly for the text and arrangement whilst his partners supplied most of the technical knowhow. It is interesting to note that attempts were made in this book to explain internal falseness, the possibility of which occurring in certain methods had been discovered about twenty years previously. Shipway in his 'Campanalogia' of 1816 arranged his methods into organised systems (twelve in all) and his book is in three parts, the second of which makes the first real attempt to explain "In-" and "Out-of-course" rows and to unravel the mysteries of composition. Hubbard's book, "The Art of Ringing," published 1845, contained little that was new, although there is evidence that the brothers Snowdon thought highly of it. It was well written and subsequent editions appeared in 1854, 1864, 1868 and 1875. Thackrah's book appeared in 1852, Sottanstall's massive tome in 1867, Troyte's in 1869 and Bannister's in 1874. Sottanstall is often abused, frequently without justification, and Trollope had not a very high opinion of Thackrah."
"But what do you think?"
"Thackrah's book 'The Art of Change Ringing' has not perhaps the polish of Troyte nor the style of Bannister but he was a better ringer than either and certainly, in the North, was far more influential. Nor must it be forgotten that he rearranged Cambridge Surprise Major to form New Cambridge, and called a peal of it before the hierarchy realised that rearranging the rows with the treble in 3-4 would, as he pointed out in his book, remove the falseness."

THIS YEAR'S LEADER OF AUSTRALIAN RINGING

0NE of the best known of Australian ringers Mr. "Bill" Pitcher, of Kingswood, South Australia, is a familiar name in the old world and the new by his vigorous editorship during the past four years of "Ringing Towers," the bright quarterly that gives so much pleasure to its readers. Bill was elected president o the Australia and New Zealand Association at the annual festival at Sydney from June 11 th-13th (page 430 ) and he is combining this office with two others, the editorship of "Ringing Towers" and peal secretary to the Association.
The new president is nearly 41 years of age and a bachelor. It was at St. Peter's Cathedral, Adelaide, that he was taught to ring and one of the proud moments of his ringing career was when Bishop Tom Reed entrusted the care of these bells to him. Bill still thinks that the ring of eight at Adelaide (tenor 41 cwt . in C) contains the finest bells in the world. Certainly they run Sherborne Abbey (tenor 45 cwt .) close in majesty and mellowness and are the second heavies octave in the world. For six years he has been captain and when Great Adventure II visited Adelaide last year they found Bill had competent band, four of whom stood in one of the peals rung by the tourists and a former captain of the tower in another.
Bill has visited England twice- in 1951 and 1956-and, sad to confess, on both those occasions he was unaware of church bells ! About nine years ago he learned to handle a rope and since then campanology in its, various departments has entered very fully into his life. To date he has rung seven peals, one of which was with the tourists. None of these has he conducted, although once he tried to enter the lists of conductors and lost the peal 140 changes from the end. However, with quarter peals he has been more successful, with 81 to his credit, having conductedBili prefers to use the word called "-30.

His professional life was started as a school teacher-science being his subject, but 14 years ago he took to book-selling and owns his own business in Adalaide. Neediess to say, books relating to bells and change ringing have a special niche on his shelves and hopes are being entertained that his shop will become a depot for Central Council publications in Australia.

His work is a labour of love because Bill classifies bookselling and bell ringing as his hobbies with very occasionally a little cine photography (he made a film of the production of "Ringing Towers") and philately, in which he finds the beautifully engraved issues of France attractive.

We wish him a happy year of office that will continue the good work done in 1965-66 for the advancement of ringing in Australia and New Zealand.

GOING OVERSEAS

St. Peter's, Nottingham, is losing two members who are going overseas. Charlie Towers, of Thrumpton, Notts, who is chair man of the Nottingham District of the Southwell Diocesan Guild, is emigrating with his family to Western Australia at the end of July. Following a farewell quarter peal of Plain Bob Royal on July 3rd, Fred Salter. on behalf of the company, presented Charlie with gifts-a pen and Wedgwood pottery. Wishing him every success in his new venture. Mr. Salter said in all the years he had known Charlie he had always found him the samefriendly and helpful.
The other departure is that of David Ingram, who has been a member of the band during his three years at Nottingham University. He is leaving in September to do research work at Hamilton, Canada. The band wished him success and thanked him for his support.

MR. W. B. PITCHER

LONG LENGTH AT ESHER

Congratulations to Mr. A. P. Cannon and his band, which included two ladies, who rang the peal of 10,368 Yorkshire Surprise Major at Esher on July 2nd. It was the longest length of Surprise for the Surrey Association hut not the longest length. This was a 10,400 Double Norwich Court Bob Major called by Mr. C. H. Kippin at Christ Church, Epsom, in April, 1926. The Esher peal was rung in 5 hours and 26 minutes.

TRINITY COLLEGE, DUBLIN, SOCIETY

Regarding the reference to Trinity College, Dublin, Society, quoted from the "Irish Bell News,"" a correspondent asks us to state that Mrs. J Porter (née Marilyn Smith) was a promising Grandsire ringer when she came to Dublin: Miss E. Ann Sadler learned to handle a bell and ring Grandsire and Plain Bob in Preston, Rutlandshire: R. Anthony Vere Hodge learned to handle at Kingswood and change ringing under Miss Marie Cross, coming to Dublin competent in Grandsire, Plain Bob and Kent Treble Bob.

ALL SAINTS', BENHILTON, TOWER OPEN NIGHT

Instead of the usual practice on June 29th the ringers at All Saints' Church, Benhilton (Sutton, Surrey), opened their tower to visitors. The purpose was to interest local inhabitants in the only ring of bells in the borough, with a view to the appeal for $£ 5,000$ for restoration, which must be launched in the near future if the record of continuous ringing since 1893 (when the bells were inaugurated) is to be maintained.
The evening proved most successful, with the ringing chamber packed to capacity. The visitors, who showed a lively interest, climbed to the top of the tower for the view, saw the bells and after an explanatory talk by the vice-captain, heard rounds and methods rung to demonstrate the art. The local Press were in attendance and gave wide publicity to the event.

"Where do the Snowdons fit in?"
"They popularised the text book and concentrated more on the specialisation 1 mentioned earlier: books such as 'Rope-Sight,' that classic of campanological clarity, 'Treatise on Treble Bob,' with its lucid explanation of 'In-' and 'Out-of-Course' rows and its masterly exposition on proof, 'Grandsire' with its Thompson papers proving that a peal of Grandsire with ordinary Singles was impossible, 'Double Norwich' and the popular 'Standard Methods."
"I learnt a lot from 'Rope-Sight' and much of my theory from 'Treble Bob' and Grandsire,'" I observed.

" They were good books nevertheless!"

We discussed (or rather the Professor propounded and I listened, pushing in, as I was wont, an occasional query or observation) various other publications. He dissertated on "Church Bells," "The Bell News" and "The Ringing World," on how Sir Arthur Heywood's "Duffield" had clarified the system of proving by "course-ends," the valuable contribution made by the Central Council's many publications ("although what a mess they made of the first edition of 'Minor Methods '"), and discussed the excellence, or otherwise, of the different Associations' reports. I asked him what he thought about the independent publications which are ad vertised week by week in "The Ringing World."
"It is a good thing that someone has the initiative to undertake this work. Much valuable ground is tilled that, for various reasons. could not be cultivated satisfactorily by either 'The Ringing World' or the Central Council. These people deserve all the support we can give them. Of course much interesting. and indeed valuable literature never enjoys printers' ink. I refer, of course to the thousands of notebooks and manuscripts that must have been privately prepared or compiled over the years. Many of these are simply records of deeds of individual prowess: peals scored, touches rung, etc.. but others are more valuable and may contain touches, methods, compositions and peals which in some cases have never appeared in print, and could possibly serve as pointers to settle some historical argument, fix some obscure date or fill in the details of some half-completed picture. One has only to cite the case of Annable's notebook which was picked up for a few coppers on a secondhand bookstall and which now proudly reposes in the British Museum. How many times have we seen the footnote 'Found in Annable's notebook'? I sometimes shudder to think of the priceless material that has been destroyed by indifferent or ignorant spring-cleaners !"

DEDICATIONS

HATHERN, LEICESTERSHIRE

TwWO new treble bells have been added to the ring at SS. Peter and Paul's Church, Hathern, through the initiative of local ringers. The bells have been purchased for $£ 695$ from Messrs. J. Taylor and CO , and of this sum Hathern ringers have raised approximately £500. The Parochial Church Council gave the ringers permission to go ahead and promised to underwrite the balance until such time as the ringers could repay them.
There was a nearly full church to welcome the Bishop of Leicester (the Rt. Rev. R. R. Williams) at the dedication service on June 21st. This attendance, which included ringers from all over the county, was an encouragement to local ringers, who greatly appreciate the support from the Leicester District towers. Two ringers-Mr. B. S. Payne, president of the Leicester Diocesan Guild, and Mrs. Valerie Carter, tower secretary-read the lessons. The Bell Carol was sung after the dedication, followed by the ringing of the bells.

The Bishop, in his address, showed how history revealed itself in the dates on the bells. Bells Nos. 6 and 7 are the oldest and are dated 1618 and 1620 and were hung in the reign of James I, who was largely responsible for the translation of the Bible. Bells 4. 5 and 8 were cast in 1791 and 1792 -in the middle of the Georgian era. It was interesting to be reminded that even the comparatively newer bells had an exciting connection with time. as they were hung just about the time that our Bishop and many other Church leaders and Archbishops were beginning their ministry. The new No. 2 bell is inscribed to the Lord Bishop, and he reminded us that when his voice has long heen silenced his bell will go on calling the faithful to worship.

Light refreshments were served in the Church Rooms after the service, and approximately $£ 21$ was raised during the evening towards the fund. This was the result of the collection during the service and also the sale of the food, all of which had most genernusly been given.

SUTTON-CUM-LOUND, NOTTS

THE three bells at St. Bartholomew's, Sutton-cum-Lound, Nottinghamshire, were rededicated on Sunday, July 10th. They have been retuned and hung in a steel six-bell frame by John Taylor and Co.

The treble has no inscription but a cross repeated, and the shield of R. Mellors just below the inscription band.

The second has IHESUS BE OVRE SPEDE 1583 in Gothic capitals with a king's head stamp on the left of the date and H. Oldfield's mark on the right. The tenor has FILI DEI MISERERE MEI 1627 in Roman capitals, with the vine border associated with the Nottingham foundry. Its weight is approximately 10 cwt . and its note is a little sharp of $G$.

The clock has also been restored and chimes on all three bells. Ringing is from the base of the tower. The draught is long but there are rope guides. Several recruits have come forward and are being instructed by N. Notts members from East Retford and Babworth.

A grant of $£ 50$ was made from the Southwell Diocesan Guild Bell Repair Fund towards the cost of the work It is intended to increase the ring in the near future. Practice night, Friday, 8.30 p.m.

Swansea and Brecon Diocesan Guild

THE 38th annual festival was held at St Mary's, Swansea, on June 25th. The weather was disappointing but in spite of this over 60 attended the meeting, the Central and Southern Districts being well represented. The service was held in the Trinity Chapel and the Bishop gave the Blessing. An excellent tea followed.
The meeting, which was presided over by the Bishop of Swansea and Brecon (Dr. J. J. A Thomas), was held in the Vestry Hall. The business opened on a sad note, with the president expressing sympathy with the bereaved of the late treasurer, Mr. D. H. Bennett, and also Mr. R. Sparkes (Builth Wells) on their deaths early this year. All stood in silence to their memory.
The shield was presented to the winners of the ringing competition (Cadoxton), with congratulations on their success. Certificates were also presented to the runners-up (Sketty and Newton Nottage).

RADNORSHIRE-WHICH GUILD?

The hon. secretary, in his report, stated that in post-war years festivals of the Guild had been held in Radnorshire-Knighton and New Radnor being visited. Records showed that subscriptions had not been received from any towers in the northern area since the inauguration of the Guild. The matter of affiliation fees could be food for thought in the near fusure.
The Hereford Guild was holding District meetings in Radnorshire, visiting the towers mentioned. and in that Guild's last annual report Knighton was listed as being in the Clun District and Glasbury-on-Wye and Talgarth as in the Clifford District. It would be interesting to see what would happen if they decided to print their own report and entered the towers as in the Swansea and Brecon Guild. These towers could not be in both dioceses.
The number of ringing members in the Central District was increasing and more interest shown in the quarterly meetings, but the records of the Southern District showed that numbers had fallen considerably since 1962. which was due to the constitutional build-up of the District and Rule 9.

Arising from the report, Mr. Stan Edwards made it quite clear that the Swansea and Brecon Guild came first, in referring to affiliation to other Guilds Referring to the Hereford Guild's annual report, the secretary was asked to wrjte to Mr. Cousins re the towers in question, which should be headed under-Towers in other dioceses, but affiliated to the Hereford Guild.
The Peal Records repert was given by Mr. G. I. Lewis, who stated that the number of peals had fallen compared with the previous year. This was due to less handbell peals being rung.

The Central Council's meeting at Bath was fully expounded by the Guild's representative The 1967 Central Council meeting will be held in Nottingham.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

The committee recommended the nomination of Mr. G. I. Lewis as Master. Further nominations were, however, received, viz: Miss E. Watkins, proposed by Mr. J. T. Williams; and Mr. E. J. Morris, proposed by Mr. J. Hughes. At this stage Mr. Lewis withdrew his name, but was afterwards persuaded to stand for the office and, on a vote being taken, was elected by a good majority.

The hon. secretary (Mr. J. A. Hoare) was again re-elected The office of treasurer was now vacant through the death of Mr. D. H. Bennett and nominations were invited. Mr. Peter Thomas and Mr. E. J. Morris were nominated and the latter was elected. Mr. Stan Edwards was re-elected hon. auditor.

NOTICES OF MOTION

The following notice was submitted by Mr. J. Hughes: "That due to negligence of Guild matters in the Northern District, and also to the non-payment of subscriptions to the Guild from that District, the same Northern District be dissolved and that all towers in this District become once more affiliated to the Central District of the Guild." This was seconded by Mr R. Hoskings.

Mr. M. Thomas said there was a difficulty in visiting these towers in the Northern District. Mr. T. M Roderick asked if there had been any correspondence from the secretary of the same District. The hon. secretary replied that there had been no reply to his letters. It was then agreed that the towers in question be affiliated to the Central District.
Another notice of motion by Mr. B. J. Woodruffe sought to alter the rules of the ringing competition by including call changes and a tume limit for raising and falling the bells. This was discussed at length. Mr Roderick proposed that the raising and falling in peal should be discontinued. This proposal was voted out. After further deliberations a proposal by Mr. E. J. Morris, that the motion be left to committee, was duly carried.

The 1967 annual festival will be held in Brecon Cathedral, and Mr. M. John proposed a visit to Builth Wells for the ringing competition next year This was unanimously agreed to

A letter was to be sent to Mr. W. Dobbins, who would be 81 on June 29th, expressing the good wishes of the meeting. The collection for the Bell Restoration Fund realised £2 17s. 6 d .

A vote of thanks by Mr. T. M. Roderick to Canon H. C. Williams for taking the chair, which had been vacated by the Bishop during the meeting, and for the excellent arrangements made for the festival, concluded the business.
J. A. H.

EAST GRINSTEAD'S ANNUAL OUTING
A 6.15 a.m. start was made by the East Grinstead ringers on July 9th for their annual outing. Arriving at Oxford just after 9.15 coffee was partaken in one of the many cafés.
Ten o'clock saw us safely in the tower of the University Church of St. Mary the Virgin. The excellent 27 cwt . ring of six was made good use of-London going particularly well. At Christ Church Cathedral ringing consisted of rounds, Bob Royal and a poor effort for Little Bob Maximus. The bells at St. Mar tin's and All Saints' were enjoyed. Cambridge not going too well but a good touch of Oxford Bob Triples was tapped off.

After lunch some fine ten-bell ringing was heard at Magdalene College. Superlative went well at St. Ebbe's, as did most of the ringing We then said goodbye to Mr. P. Walker, who had been our guide in Oxford, and our thanks go to him for his arrangements.

Henley-on-Thames was our last tower. Mr. Tigwell met us and some of the best ringing of the day took place here. including Yorkshire, Cambridge and Double Norwich. We arrived home at $12.15 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$., tired but happy.

Letters to the Editor

MAKING A USEFUL BELL REPAIR FUND
Dear Sir,-I do feel that some notice should be taken of the letter from the secretary of the Council for the Care of Churches, Miss Judith Scott, published on June 3rd. national bell repair fund may not be workable, but there is no reason why ringers should not run worth-while funds in their own Associations. The present standard of donations is totally inadequate, and will be so, so long as the present methods of collection, passing the hat round at a meeting or takirg a collection at the service, are persisted in.
The only way to raise sufficient money to be of any use is by taking a part of the annual subscription for that purpose. I am sure no one these days would miss an extra 10 s., which would give an Association of 500 an income of $£ 250$ a year. This seems obvious-but when one hears people talking anxiously of a rise of $£ 10$ in the cost of printing, or a loss of $£ 15$ on the year's working, one wonders if they really realise how little these amounts are amongst such a number of people. In former days the subscription had to be kept to a minimum because ringers were largely drawn from the poorer classes, and people could be really badly off; but now these conditions no longer apply.

In most Associations the annual subscription is still about equal to the cost of tea at the annual general meeting. But whereas the tea may go up a shilling or two without anyone appearing to notice, a proposal to raise the subscription by as little as sixpence will meet with violent opposition! This cannot really be due to solicitude for poorer members, else Associations would long ago have introduced family membership (no family should have to pay for more than one report if they do not want to): and abolished booking fees. through which peal ringers may have to pay their subscription many times over.
On the subject of booking fees, the greatest saving in any one year in the Hertford County Association amounted to $9 \frac{1}{2} d$. per member. Had the subscription been raised by only one shilling instead, the Association would now be much better off. and this, I would now be much better off. and this, If all members of an Association would only pa the extra they impose on others, the Bell Repair Fund would become a really useful institution.-Yours faithfully.

STEDMAN CINQUES "IN HAND "

Dear Sir,-E. C. S. writes in splendid style of the Birmingham handhell ringers who scored their first peal in the city of Birmingham on June 15th. 1916. He did well to revive memories when peals of Stedman Cinques " in hand" were not very plentiful, yer I trust he will forgive me when I point out the dates of peals rung in London as far back as April 18 th and October 3rd, 1910.
The following year three more were recorded, while in 1912 another was rung on December 2nd. In 1913 three more appear, the first being a 6,063 , which is still the record, while in 1914 four more were rung, the first one a short course peal of 69 courses. the first ever rung on handbells. During 1915 another six peals were scored, but the rest of the band have passed on. In those days we carried out the Central Council ruling regarding umpires for peals "in hand."-Yours sincercly,

CORRECTION CORRECTED

Dear Sir,-I was a little disturbed to read "Cornish Corrections" last week, with its account of ringing at St. Clether about which the ringers were so pleased. I visited St. Clether a few months ago to see the bellsnot in an advisory capacity but to check their dimensions and inscriptions. I saw the notice on the door; I also saw that the ends of the foundation timbers of the frame were rotten where they rested on the wall offset. Perhaps the band who rang there did not have a torch powerful enough to show them this, but if they take one next time they will find that it is so, and they may be less inclined to ring there, especially as the frame, like so many of William Aggett's, is not an ounce too heavy for the bells and has very little reserve strength.

Miss E. M. Bliss's observations on Brimpsfield, Glos (June 24th, page 416), interested me very much, but ithink that Walters is wrong in attributing these Gloucestershire bells to the Exeter foundry. Miss Eunice Overend some years ago obtained some casts for me some years ago obtained some casts for me from bells with this lettering, which showed them to be very like but not jdentical with the Exeter stamps. I believe that they are Gloucester bells and that the Exeter foundry may have been an offshoot of the Gloucester business, starting with a set of stamps copied from those in use at Gloucester. These Lomfrom those in use at Gloucester. These Lomhardic capitals were used by two or three founders, the last to use them regularly being Robert Norton, who insroduced black-letter at Exeter. I think that the Gloucester bells are earlier, about $1370-90$. The Dorchester 7 th is an Exeter bell, and one of the finest. Ith is an Exeter bell, and one of the finest. Exeter foundry was possessed of a very high reputation and standard.-Yours faithfully.

CORRECTION TO " CHANGE RINGING"

Dear Sir--Since Mr. Wilson is preparing a second edition of "Change Ringing," I would like to point out that the place notation for Bourne and Hull Surprise Minor appears to be incorrect.
If I am the umpteenth person to note this, perhaps he would forgive me.-Yours faithfully,

Braintree, Essex.

ROY THREADGOLD.
I thank Mr. Threadgold for pointing this out-he is the first, which is a pity as it has missed the reprint. I regret this further example of the difficulty of producing a faultless book on change ringing. The correct notation is, of course, $\times 3 \times 4 \times 2 \times 3 \times 34 \times 3$, etc $4 \times 2 \times 3 \times 34 \times 3$ etc

PETERBOROUGH CATHEDRAL BELLS

Dear Sir,-I was very interested to read about the bells of Peterborough Cathedral. I seem to remember my old friend, Mr. Tom Tebbutt, telling me he rang the Cathedral tenor to Grandsire Doubles when the 1914-18 war ended; he was then working in Peterborough on munitions. He also helped to teach the ladies to ring at Woodston, where the late Mrs. H. J. Poole and Mrs. Rupert Richardson were members. - Yours sincerely

BELFRY TACT IN TEACHING

Dear Sir,-If my recent experiences of seeing others teach ringing are in any way typical, then the proposed "Tutors' Handbook" should include a large section on such matters as belfry tact and human relationships.
The latter is frequently neglected, and I have seen many good recruits lost, not because the technical aspects of ringing are beyond them, but because they do not receive any real encouragement. When they realise that the ringers would rather ring Cambridge Surprise than teach them, is it to be wondered at that :hey drift away?

When are teachers going to realise that it recruits do not become ringing maniacs from the start they are not likely to persevere, especially now that there are so many counterattractions? Many teachers are 100 old to appreciate the needs of modern youth, and these should be replaced.

The good teacher should attempt to give the recruit a great interest in ringing. It is not enough to give him a copy of the "Beginners" Handbook," though there are many towers that even do not do this. They should be lent a copy of "The Nine Tailors" or Tom lngram's book "Bells in England," which will give them a greater interest and perspective. Why not take them to a meeting or on an outing, even if they cannot ring? It will give them experience of the ringing fellowship and a chance to hear ringing to aspire to.
Much can be achieved in a short time to give a recruit enthusiasm. Unfortunately the selfishness of many ringers, who prefer practising the latest methods to ringing rounds for learners, has been the cause of many lost recruits. Learners must not be looked upon as a sore soot to be given a few soothing rounds at the beginning of practice with the hope that they won't start itching again until next week. Learners must be treated with consideration and, in my opinion, as priority. I have known of too many silent towers to think otherwise.-Yours faithfully,

KEITH' LEWIN.

WYMONDHAM ABBEY BELL APPEAL

 IN order to preserve the fabric of the tower, on which the Church Council has recently spent some $£ 9,000$, we are now advised that the bells, which are the heaviest ring of eight in Norfolk, should not be rung again until they are rehung lower in the rower to reduce the strain on the building itself. This work will cost about $£ 3,000$ at least, bu! the opportunity thus presents itself to have the bells recast at the same time.If we do this. and we very much hope to do it, Wymondham Abbey, where so many ringers from all over the county have rung in past years, will have a really first-class ring, which will perfectly match the magnificent church in which they are situated. But recasting will put the total sum to be found un to something between $£ 5,000$ and $£ 6,000$. The order for the rehanging has been placed with Mears and Stainbank, the work $t 0$ commence in September this year, by which date we shall have to decide whether or not the bells are to he recast at the same time.

If anv readers are able to help us in our appeal for funds. particularly any who have rung in Wymondham in the past. it will helo us to achieve our object. which is to do the full joh and have the bells ringing again by earlv next summer

The Vicar of Wymondham will he very pleased to receive and to acknowledge any contributions which may be sent to him or to Mr. H. Tooke. secretary of the Wymondham Company, 33, The Lizard, Wymondham.

ST. DAVID'S DIOCESAN GUILD

THE annual outing of the St. David's Guild, which was very poorly supported (only the towers of Tenby, St. Florence, Pembroke and Burry Port being represented), was held on July 2 nd in the Glamorgan area.

The first tower visited was at Baglan (6). The bells. which were rehung three years ago, were pleasant and easy-going. Various Doubles methods and Plain Bob Minor were rung.
At Newton Nottage was a ground-floor ring with a delightful light eight, and here we were joined by two local ringers to ring some good Grandsire Triples. The eight at Bridgend proved too heavy for most of our younger members as the bells are on plain bearings, but here again, with the help of Mr. Petty, the local captain, we rang Grandsire Triples.
Coity ( 6 bells) was visited next. We did better here, methods tung including Little Bob Minor, April Day and Plain Bob. We noticed that there was a five cwt, difference in weight between the second and third bells, although the teno was only $11 \mathrm{cwt}$.2 qr . Here we partook of light refreshments at a place appropriately named "The Six Bells."

Ringing in the afternoon was at Cowbridge. where we really did not do justice to the hells. Rather more success was met when we visited Llantwit Major (6), where the bells were particularly heavy-going, and St. Bride's Major (6). We can only attribute our tiredness for our disappointing ringing at our last tower, at Aberavon, which has a musical eight. Richard Warburton, our secretary, joined us here, having made the long journey from Fishguard by train.
The outing was thoroughly enjoyed and our thanks are due to the Rev. Russen Thomas. who made the arrangements, incumbents and local ringers.

JOINT MEETING AT ROUGHAM

The Suftolk Central District were joined by members of the N.W. District for their quarterly meeting on July 2nd at Rougham. A variety of Minor and Surprise methods was rung. The tea was served by Mrs. Nice and her helpers, who were thanked by Mr. C. Hancock.

At a short business meeting Mr. Hancock was voted to the chair and Mr. A. Balham secretary. It was decided to arrange the August monthly meeting at Mildenhall and the September one at Horringer. The October meeting, being the annual District meeting, will first meet at Fornham All Saints and adjourn to West Stow for the evening ringing.

The use of the bells after rehanging was greatly appreciated, particularly by those who were unable to attend the rehallowing service in May.
Will the band visiting Inveraray during August contact John H. Allen. 8. Oriel Drive, Fordhouses, Wolverhampton, Staffs, as he has some information that may be useful.

LEEDS FIND MEDI/EVAL CHURCHES AND INNS

An extra cower, unastamedly added to the programme to enable the organıser to complete engtand's smallest county, proved a inost pleasant surprise on June 4in, tor a more dellgnttul spot on a perfect summer's day than the 1,000-acre park at Exton would be ditticult to find. The "vital statistics" of the outing were 275 miles, $14 \frac{1}{2}$ hours from start to finish. $4 \frac{1}{2}$ hours' ringing, seven towers.
In addition to several nediaval churches mediaval inns were also visited-the Angel and Royal at Grantham for morning cottee and the Hind Hotel, Wellingborough, for tea. The former is highly recommended, but, to be charitable, perhaps the Hind have not heard that rationing has ended.
Oundle bells are not the easiest to ring. An interesting sight here was our tallest member ( 6 ft . 6in.) standing on the two-foot high table provided to enable the ringer of the second bell to see the third man across the top of the clock case.
Just as Thrapston Church is a " must " for American tourists by reason of the Washington tablet bearing the original "Stars and Stripes," so are the bells a "must" on any outing in the Valley of the Nene, although we gathered we were favoured to be allowed even gathered we were favoured to be allowed even half an hour on this " vintage Taylor" eight
The long, unguided ropes at Raunds proved difficult for some-this excellent eight sounds rather better inside-whilst at Wellingborough -the heaviest eight in the county (one of Gillett's less successful pre-war rehangs)-the Sutton-on-Trent ringers on similar bent 10 ourselves provided tea-time music for us and saved us the labour of pulling up the bells, and so repaying us for leaving the bells up for them at Oundle and Raunds.
In 600 years a ring of three. then a five, the light six (which the ringers have ambitions to make eight) at Stanwick are a pleasure to handle.
Homeward bound, good use was made of the ten at Kettering, where our course of Cambridge, when Stedman Caters wouldn't go. was a fitting finale to an outing which was distinguished by strict punctuality. R.H.D.

STOW-ON-THE-WOLD RINGING CONDITIONS

Mr. L. C. Dowdeswell, Branch secretary of the Stow-on-the-Wold Branch of the Gloucester and Bristol Association, is now the new tower secretary of St. Edward's Church. Stow-on-theWold. and all requests for the use of the bells should be addressed to him at 5, Park Street Stow-on-the-Wold. Ringing is restricted to 45 minutes, and the bells are always available to visitinz ringers. It is regretted that no peals are permitted. Touer secretaries planning ringing outings in the Stow-on-the-Wold area are advised to contact Mr. Dowdeswell. who will assist in giving information on towers that are available.
The only ring of eight in the Stow Branch available for peal ringing is Bourton-on-theWater These hells are restricted to four peals a year and are booked up to the end of 1966 .

HUNTINGON EXPLORE OXFORDSHIRE CHARMS

Saturday, July 2nd, found us encoached on the way to Oxtordshire on a lovely summer's day. We were soon at the first tower, Launcon, which has a pretty little six. Here we needed two Ringing Masters, one organising the six ringers on the ground and despatching them up the near-vertical iron ladder, where Frank Baker awaited them in the tiny ringing chamber. From here we went on to the eight at Bicester, where the fall was as good as anything.
During a good lunch at the Kings Arms Hotel a crash from the kitchen produced the explanation that "he missed a 3-4 up." On to Middleton Stoney, where the church is in a beautiful park setting. A nice rise, and straight into Cambridge Surprise, rung at a cracking pace with John Bluff on the tenor, made the next touch-Bob Minor-seem very tired.
Back into the coach it was possible to listen to the Test Match and Wimbledon simultaneously on the way to Lower Heyford. All went well here until the stay of the fifth broke, the bell being stood up at the time.
After tea at the Cromwell Café, Deâdington, we journeyed on to Bloxham, where Grandsire Triples sounded well. Many of us were impressed by the beautiful tone of the tenor.
Unbeknown to us the day was moving to a climax which coincided with our arrival at Adderbury. where the well-cared-for church was filled with exquisite floral arrangements for the patronal festival. Here an assortment of methods was rung A many-bobbed touch of Stedman Triples did rot auite make it. but Yorkshire Surprise went well at the second attempt.

Homewards now, with much singing. including "For he's a jolly good fellow" for Paul Wells, who had organised the day in such an immaculate fashion. Thanks, too, to the incumbents for allowing us to ring

STILL GOING STRONG AFTER 64 YEARS

After the peal at St. John's, Leicester, on June 25th, it was noted by members of the band that it was the 64th anniversary of the ring of eight being installed and their "go" leaves nothing to be desired. They are still on plain bearings. and Mr. Sidney Harrison is to be congratulated for the care that he shows for them

The band would also like to associate the names of Mr. John Selby and Mrs. Monica Selby with the peal as it should have been Stedman Caters but unfortunately on arrival at the church Mrs. Selby had her thumb accidentally trapped in the car door, which necessitated treatment at the Leicester Royal Infirmary.

Mr. Peter Wenham, of Chester-He-Street, reports that the peal at Netheravon, Wilts. was not the firs! on the bells. A peal of Bob Minor was rung here on June 21st, 1947, conducted by William A. Theobald.

STEDMAN "CYCLICS"

By A. York-Briamble  (College of Campanology)

$\mathrm{M}^{\mathrm{R}}$R. D. BUTTERWORTH'S commendable article entitled "'Coursing Order" in Stedman Triples " ("Ringing World," April 7th, 1966, page 227) has no doubt evoked considerable interest Although it speaks of considerable interest Although it speaks of coursing order it indicates, of course, what coursing order it indicater, of course, what bells are to be encountered in certain parts or positions (" position bells,", we may call them) of the "blue line" of the method; and with the particular case of the 7th regarded as "fixed" or observation bell. Mr. Butterworth relates these factors to a particular cyclic order, 7165234 , of the method, which he calls "'The Coursing Order for Stedman Triples." And he shows that by transposition, according to calls made. the relative cyclic orders may be determined for courses other than the plain, i.e., for whole compositions. These findings are positive enough, but are they, viewed technically. aptly named and inclusive? The following observations, based upon some investigations of the Stedman principle over the years, are submitted as a possible answer to the query, and to show that the proposition may be extended to include other factors, and to apply with any one bell as "fixed."

1. Coursing Order. First consider this term "coursing order." It may be noted that Mr. Butterworth has, in fact, put these words in quotes, which suggests that he may already appreciate the point we would make. If is this:
2. Method Cyelics. Every regular method exhibits cyclic orders. Two of these are reciprocal. The first is a cyclic order of the positions into which a bell falls at successive division partings (lead ends), and every working bell follows this "position cyclic. This cyclic, in fact, turns out, to be what we know as the "coursing order" of the method. For example, in Plain Bob Major, the 8th falls, at successive division-heads of the plain course, into these positions: 7-5-3-2-4-6-8. All other working bells follow this cycle, which is, of course, the method's coursing order. (Read figures from left to right, starting with any bell.) As it stands it applies to the plain course, with its head row of rounds; but, modified by calls, this (changed) cyclic will apply to every, other course that can be produced, in the form or "ratio" of: "As the new course-head is to rounds so the new position cyclic is to 7-5-3-2-4-6-8." The second of the two cyclics referred to above is that of the order in which the bells fall into any one set position at the successive divisions. Take, for example. in Bob Major again, the eighth position at each div-head, and, starting at rounds, note the bells that appear at these successive points. They are: $8-6-4-2-3-5-7$. This is the method's "bell cyclic." Note the interesting feature that it is precisely the reverse order of the method's position cyclic. So we come to the conclusion that a method's bell cyclic is not its coursing order. In the "Ringers' Manual of Reference," Part II, Chapter VIII-recently published-the subject is discussed at some length.
3. Stedman Bell Cyclic. Consider these facts in relation to the Stedman method. Here alongside are the div-heads of the plain course of its Triples stage. (For those unfamiliar with their derivation the encircled numbers alongside the plain course in the "Ringers" Notebook and Diary " will indicate them.) Now regard them and the seventh bell just as we did above, with the div-heads of the plain course of Bob Major and its eighth bell. We shall make out the position cyclic of Stedm be $7-4-3-2-5-6-1$; and this, therefore io its basic (i.e. plain course) coursing order. So the reverse of this, i.e., $1-6-5-2-3-4-7$, must be its bell cyclic. This can be seen, for example, in the right-hand column of figures above. It is this latter cyclic, the bell cyclic - $1-6-5-2-3-4-7-$ that Mr. Butterworth has (rightly) taken as the basis of his article; but, as seen, it is not the position cyclic or, as he would say, the "coursing order."
4. Bell Cyclic Gives Sequences. So, while the coursing order or position cyclic shows the order of the positions into which a bell falls at the division partings, the bell cyclic shows the sequences of bells performing various parts of the work; as, for example, the order of bells entering alternately the slow sixes and the quick sixes It also shows what bells are engaged in specific parts of the work relative to the situation of the fixed or observation bell. At this stage the student may check the first of these claims, using the bell cyclic against the plain course, For example. he may check that the order of bells entering "slow" is 7-1-6-5-2-3-4: or again check that $6-5-2-3-4-7-1$ is the order of bells entering "quick." Note that both these checks are at 12 -row intervals, which is just another case of division-head interval application of the bell-cyclic. For checks of the second of these claims, i.e., additional and general application. we must first examine the way in which the "dissected" bell cyclic is employed.
5. Bell Cyclic Dissected. As Mr. Butterworth points out, if the seventh be selected as a fixed hell the remaining six bells of the cycle ( $7-1-6-5-2-3-4$ ) can be considered in three pairs; and these pairs will indicate the bells associated with the seventh in various parts of the work thus:

\begin{array}{cccc}
7 & 16 & 52 & 34 \\
\text { Fixed } & \text { First } & \text { Quick } & \text { Last }

An alternative way of naming the pairs is to call the "First "-" Left" (L): the "Quick ""Mid" (M) : and the "Last "-"Right" (R). The "Fixed" can be called "Observation" (O). The object of this is to avoid misin terpretation of initials of the terms when used in tables or otherwise. We now have:

\frac{\mathrm{O}}{7} \quad \frac{\mathrm{~L}}{16} \quad \frac{\mathrm{M}}{52} \quad \frac{\mathrm{R}}{34}

This is for the particular case of 7 as the observation, but we can make out a Table A-as below, showing the bells a that will come in pairs, keeping to the cyclic, when each bell in turn is the ob-
TABLE

| TABLE |  |  |  |
| :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: |
| $\mathbf{O}$ | L | $\mathbf{M}$ | R |
| 1 | 65 | 23 | 47 |
| 6 | 52 | 34 | 71 |
| 5 | 23 | 47 | 16 |
| 2 | 34 | 71 | 65 |
| 3 | 47 | 16 | 52 |
| 4 | 71 | 65 | 23 |
| 7 | 16 | 52 | 34 | servation. (Mr. Butterworth's arrangement of the paired row is seen as the last in the Table.) The Table forms the basis of information of sequences and/or individua functions of bells throughout a plain course. With trans positions by calls the sequences and/or functions may be derived for "called" courses, The Table is easily built up or memorised by reference to the way in which the bells, taken in turn to act as observation, "remainder" in the order of the bell cyclic.

6. Use of Table A. First we must ascertain what bells are actually associated with the observation bell in specific parts of the work throughout the plain course. For this any observation bell will do, so we will select, say, the treble. We note from Table A that the associated pairs of bells are 65, 23 and 47. We now trace the blue line of the treble right through the plain course, making a list, as we go, of the parts of the work encountered, and the actual bells associated, if they be any of the three given pairs $-65^{\text {. }}$ 23 and 47 ; if not, that part of the work is not included. The result of our effort should appear as in Table B. The two right-hand columns indicate the associated bells, that with the letters being in general application, and that with the numbers being in specific application-in this case with the treble as observation. As we have seen, Table A gives meaning to the pairs letters according to the bell chosen as " O .'

7. TABLE B.

| Work Serial number | Specific Part of the work | Tr. as 0. Bells Assoc'd | Pairs Letters |
| :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: |
| (1) | 0 in quick six of front |  |  |

|  | Whew 0 is in | .. 47 | R |
| (13) | Bells in front |  |  |
|  | when O |  |  |
|  | leaves Slow | .. 65 | L |

Examination of the Table shows some interesting and useful features. The number of "Parts of work " is as small as possible compatible with usefulness. For example, the cases of "O enters Quick" and "O leaves Quick" do not appear as such because they are implied in work-part number (1)-" O in quick six of front work." On the other hand the same numbers-pair applies to several parts of work. We may therefore collect the workparts into three groups under the three pairletters, and we may make some rearrangement within the group. (For example, work-parts (4) and (9), under "M," can be brought together.) The result is shown in Table C.
8. TABLE C. Work positions and sequences "generalised." This is possible because, while " O " and its associated bells are variable. the pairs-letters remain "fixed" in regard to the work serial numbers, i.e. to the work-parts

9. Plain Course Ringing. The foregoing Table C summarises, in rather contracted form, the results of the investigation of the Stedman principle (Triples stage) from the standpoint of work sequence and bell cyclic. To make use of it reference is made to Tables B and A, proceeding by these steps :

(a) Decide on the bell you will ring, or the " observation," then note, from Table A, its bell cyclic in pairs. For example, if 2 is your chosen bell, you will find the cyclic pairs are L 34, M 71, R 65. These pairs must be kept firmly in mind.
(b) From Table C note that the pair L (in this case 34) will appear in the ringing (plain course) in four work-parts, (3), (5), (7) and (13).
(c) From Table B see what these parts are, then, when " in" them, look out for bells 3 and 4.
(d) Repeat step (b) with pair M (in this case 71 ), which will appear in five workparts, (1), (4)-(9) and (8)-(11).
(e) Repeat step (c), looking out for bells 7 and 1 .
(f) Repeat step (b) with pair $R$ (in this case 65), which will appear in four workparts. (2), (5), (10) and (12).
(g) Repeat step (c), looking out for bells 6 and 5 .

The foregoing process may seem, at first, io be rather complex: but the student (ringing any bell) may practise it in the ringing of Stedman plain courses, and parts of courses as far as the first call He will find that concentration and perseverance will bring its reward, in knowledge of related bells throughout. In any case there is much good to be derived from the preliminary work-out on paper.
10. Use Beyond Plain Course. The conductor who finds the process useful will wish, no doubt, to extend its use beyond that of the plain course. This, though rather difficult, can be achieved, as Mr. Butterworth points out. by transposition according to calls. Tables of Stedman Transposition Functions can be drawn up and would require commission to memory. In the application of these, some conductors would probably find it onerous to go beyond the use of one bell as observation. say, the 7 th: because of the necessary changing of the cyclic pairs with any change of observation, and the consequent anplication of the new cyclic pairs, in addition to the calling.
It may now be seen that in Mr. ButterWorth's setting out of the figures of Dexter's Variation the sub-title "Coursing Orders" might more appropriately read "Bell Cyclics of the Courses," since the figures, apart from the given course-ends, are simply that.

ST. DAVID'S GUILD

To mark the 21 st anniversary of St. David's Diocesan Guild a commemorative booklet has been produced in which is incorporated a short history of the Guild in addition in the usual features of a year book. There is a particularly happy phrase from the Master, the Rev, Russen W. Thomas, in commending this booklet : "I hope that the reading of this book will fire you with enthusiasm to become one of us-we who use mind, muscle and skill in the satisfying control of rhythmic music that praises Almighty God and mic music that praises Almighty, tells of His care of all His people."

A feature of the life of this Guild is the annual diocesan shield competition inaugurated in 1948 for a silver shield presented by the late Dr. D. L. Prosser, Archbishop of Wales. At all these competitions. excent in 1952. when there was no contest. Mr. Frederick Sharpe there was no contest, Mr. Frederick Sharpe has been the adjudicator. He contributes an interesting chapter on these competitions and he mentions the annual visit of the Launton Handbell Ringers.
The editor, Mr. D. P. Griffiths, has made a very good job of the souvenir. Copies are available, price 25 . 6 d., from A. F. Walters, 172, Maesglas, Cardigan.

COMPUTER MANAGER AS NEW YORKSHIRE VICE-PRESIDENT

MR. ALAN SHEPPARD

THE election of Mr. Alan Sheppard of Sherburn-in-Elmet as the new vice-president of the Eastern District of the Yorkshire Association in succession to Mr. Harold Walker was announced on page 464. His friends wish him every success in his new office.

Aged 38, Mr. Sheppard is married with two children, A chartered secretary, he is at present employed as computer manager for a well-known Yorkshire brewery group. His short-term ambition is to process a peal on the computer. After a very short time he has solved Plain Bob plain courses. His present handicap is shortage of time, but Alan is confident that by trial and error he will succeed. The computer is relatively small, but with a printing speed of 300 lines a minute a peal would only take 16 or 17 minutes.

Mr. Sheppard was introduced to a bell rope at Sherburn-in-Elmet between the ages of nine and ten and has heen ringing ever since. His Sunday schedule is morning ringing at Tadcaster and evening ringing at Sherburn-in-Elmet. On Friday evenings he will be found at Bramham, where he started a band from scratch for change ringing along with Mr. J. Webb.

His qualifications for the vice-presidency include Ringing Master for both the Selby and District Society and the Eastern District of the Yorkshire Association. At present he is one of the two representatives from the Selby Society on the Joint Yorkshire Council.

To date he has rung 188 peals (conducted about 50 ). These range from 1-21 Doubles methods on tower- and handbells. various Minor methods and standard Trinle and Major methods up to London Surprise.

THE YOUNG AND OLD

There was a difference in age of over 70 years between the ringers of the third and fourth bells in the recent local band quarter peal at Dewsbury, Yorkshire. Ruth Richardson, aged 11 years. rang the third to her first quarter steadily and confidently, whilst on her left Harry Marsden rang with the competence of many years' experience.

With the object of teaching other nationals English, Macmillan and Co. Lid. have a varied series of pattern books at all levels-beginners', intermediate and advanced. In the series is "The Bells of England" (2s. net) by Geoffrey Barnard. It is a bright production and illustrated in an amusing fashion (not always accurate) by Terence Freeman. The book was printed in Tokyo.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Messrs. Faber and Faber have approached Mr. Frederick Sharpe and Mr. Wilfrid G. Wilson to write a modern version of Morris's "Histoty and Art of Change Ringing."
A carillon festival is being held at Loughborough on August 6th and 7th next, when recitalists will be Piet Van Den Broek and Jef Rottiers, of Malines, and Alfred Dubois.
The Cumberlands record their first peal of Spliced Surprise Major in 12 methods, rung at Tottenham on July 4th. Half the band were ladies!

Great Rissington, Glos, bells, cast by A. Rudhall of Gloucester in 1791 and one of the few complete Rudhall rings in the county, are, it is hoped, to be rehung in the near future.

Darsham, Suffolk, has been presented with the bell of H.M.S. "Darsham," an in-shore minesweeper that had done great work at Hong Kong in putting down piracy. It is expected that when the necessary faculty is obtained the bell will be put in the parish church.

Miss Freda Cannon calls attention to the fact that two quarter peals on page 402 were listed as having been rung at Bromley, when they were rung at Greenwich. May we implore contributors to our quarter peal pages to write their reports in the journal's style, starting off with town and county.

MISS ANN GARDNER

SEVENTEEN-YEAR-OLD Miss Ann Gardner's front page article in our issue of July 15th has charmed many readers. Both Mr Douglas Hughes and Mr. Fred Price called the Editor's attention to Ann's article in "Half in Earnest."' the magazine of the National Cathedral School, Washington, D.C., and expressed the hope that he would treat it as a "must" as regards publication.
Ann was among the first group of students from the Cathedral School to learn to handle a rope from Mr. Harry Parks about a year and a half ago, and Mr. Fred Price, who spent some five months at Washington, told the Editor that she was one of the brightest and most enthusiastic of pupils. as is so adroitly revealed in her article. She has taken part in quarter neals at the Cathedral, her last theing one of Plain Bob Minor on Memorial Day (May 30th).
In her letter to the Editor, Ann writes: "I hope It can go on ringing all my life-although regrettably that is a lot more difficult in America than in England. Y'd like to take the omportunity to thank 'The Ringing World, for all the encouragement it has given to our strugeling band. We need it."
Ann's home address is 5315 . Pooks Hill Road. Bethesda. Maryland. U.S A., and manv, we are sure, will like to have the pleasure of welcoming her to England.

BIGGEST BELL IN THE STATES

An anonymous donor has presented to Chicago's First Presbyterian Church a bell weighing ten tons, said to be the biggest bell in the U.S.A.. It has been cast at the Petit and Fritsen bell foundry at Aarle-Rixtel. Holland, and is believed to be the heaviest bell produced in that country. The cost is $33,500.

BELLS UPSET TENNIS

Radlett ringers can hardly believe the protest over their bells by the Radlett Tennis Club men's ist team, who, according to the "Hertfordshire Advertiser," claim that they are constantly being distracted by the bells of Christ Church, 100 yards away. "lt drives us up the wall," one of the players said.
The captain of the team, Mr. Michael Hodgkinson, complains that every time the team go out to practise or play a match their concentration is upset by the constant clangour

What are the facts? The Rev. Christopher Newton (Vicar) states that the bells are rung for a short period before morning service on Sunday and for abcut 40 minutes on Sunday evening. There is a practice on Wednesday and the bells are also rung after weddings. Occasionally visiting ringers are allowed to ring a peal on a Saturday afternoon. (One was rung on June 4th.)

Radlett has a ring of six with a three cwt. tener. The tennis courts are adjacent to the main St. Pancras-Bedford railway line and fully 100 yards from the church on the other side of the very busy Watling Street A.5. Apparently the screeches of motor cycles. the roar of traffic and the thundering past of express trains do not upset concentration. It is prohably what the bells stand for that disturbs the conscience

WASHINGTON RINGERS SCORE THEIR FIRST PEAL AT LEICESTER

Two members of the Washington Cathedral band-Christine Kelsey and Betsy Proctorare over in this country and, with Mr. Peter J. Staniforth calling the bobs, successfully rang their first peal on July 5 th at St . Andrew's Church, Aylestone, Leicester. The method was Stedman Triples.

JOY AT THE RECTORY

There was joy in the Darley Rectory on July Gith. Miss Ann M. Smith, who has just turned 18, had fulfilled a long-standing amhition to ring Stedman for her first peal. The Rector confesses to a secret ambition to call her first peal. The last time the Rev. R. D. St. John Smith called a peal of Stedman was in 1936, before even Ann was born. We should like to join in the widespread congratulations.

TO SETTLE IN SWANAGE

When Mr. Hugh Falkner visited Meysey Hampton, Glos, on July 8th. where Mr. W. Godwin taught him to ring in 1953, his tutor of bygone years insisted on a quarter peal that evening. The band included three of his original ringing friends and one first-pealer Mr. Falkner has been in Jamaica for seven years. He is buying a house at Swanage and looks forward to meeting Dorset ringers,

EMPLOYEES' GIFT OF CARILLON

To mark the 75th anniversary of Philips, the electric light bulb company, employees in the Netherlands are presenting a carillon with fi bells, weighing a total of 20 tons, and a tower of 150 feet in a central park in Findhoven, where the firm is building an exhibition hall in the shape of a flying saucer. The cost is $$ 300,000$.

Yes! It's PART IT of the  RINGERS' MANUAL OF REFERENCE  being  An Introduction to the Theory and Technology of  "METHOD STRUCTURE IN CHANGE RINGING"

Abstract

Though introductory it is yet wide in its treatment of this aspect of ringing and is, from the student's viewpoint. natural "follow on" from PART I-"Bell Handling and Control, in the Elements a Change Ringing." It is NOT a handbook of methods. of which there are, of course, otber pubications; but like PART I it is unique, in that it offers an exposition of its subject not to be found elsewhere, so far.

PUblication (ist June) entirely voluntary work of many years of ita Principal-Alber York-Bramble-brings, in this first edition, no monetary benefit to any individual ringer or group of ringers. On the contrary, costs have been cms to a minmum to bring the price down from pounds in shillings, to be within the reach of all. So, while the nature and STYLE of the TEXT are not claimed as "super de fuxe," yet it is clear, neat and adequate. Well-bound in an attraciive stiff cover the book measures $\left.8^{\prime \prime} \times 6\right\}^{\prime \prime}$. It contain. nearly 300 of these LARGE PAGES, with tome 80 FIGURES or diagrams and 8 double-page and 5 single-page "CHARTS" QUESTIONS and indicated ANSWERS are supplemented by serica of DEFINITIONS, DESCRIPTIONS and AXIOMS.

The book's striking FOREWORD is by that leading figure of the Exercise, the REV. CANON GILBERT THURLOW, M.A., F.S.A. Other commendations are by FREDK. SHARPE, F.S.A.: Past President of the Central Council, and EDGAR C. SHEPHERD, author of "The Sound of Bells" and other writings on Ringing.

The "cut" price of this first edition, packing and postage free, is $17 /$-. Reserved copies will be obtainable from: The Bursar, College of Campenology, 40, Parkatone Avenue, Southsea, Hante.

HECKINGTON, LINCS. - Ringing on Saturday, July 23 rd, from $10-12$ noon. Visitors most welcome. Bigger than ever show and sports commences 1.30 p.m.

JUNE'S SELECTED TWELVE

An excellent outing into Hampshire and Wiltshire on June 18 th was arranged by June Smart, of East Grinstead. Towers rung at were Kingsclere, Overton, Laverstoke, Whitchurch, St. Mary Bourne, Goodworth, Clatford, Abbot's Ann, Durnford, St. Martin's, St. Paul's and St. Thomas's, Salisbury. Incumbents and tower secretaries are thanked, and the ringers of St . Thomas's, Salisbury, who kindly handed their practice night over to us. We must not forget Robin Ellott, who convinced us that he knows all bus stops, railway stations and timetables in England! Don't stop the good work, Jane. F.H.H.

A DEVON TOUR

A number of members of the Devon Guild under the leadership of Mr. A. L. Bennett held another successful tour on July 9th, when the Teign Valley was the objective. Fine weather and beautiful scenery added to the enjoyment of the afternoon. Towers visited were Trusham (where the ropes were in poor condition). Ashton, Christow (where our Grandsire Doubles was tape-recorded), Bridford, Dunsford and Manaton. A pleasant hour was also spent at the Steps Bridge Hotel, Dunsford, one of Devon's beauty spots, where a high tea was enjoyed. Nearly all the towers were new to some of the party. A.L.B.

LATE NEWS

A new record in Spliced Minor ringing was created at Ashbocking on July 13 th with $a$ peal in 148 methods. Mr. Howard W. Egglestone conducted.

We regret to announce that Mr. Ernest G. G. Fenn, Master of the Ancient Society of College Youths from 1938 to 1945 , died on July 14 th, aged 85 years. Cremation took place at the City of London Cemetery, Manor Park, E.12, on July 19th.

Mr. George E. Symonds. of Ipswich, rang a specially arranged peal of 5,088 Yorkshire Surprise Major at Grundisburgh to mark his 91 st birthday on July 11th. A truly wonderful performance by the oldest active peal ringer of the Ancient Society of College Youths. In view of his high standard of ringing, the ringers who took part in the peal look forward to a peal with George on his 100 th birthward day.

COUNCIL-CUM-CONFERENCE

By Philip Gray

PHIL Corby and Alan Ainsworth have made some wise comments on the functions of the Central Council arising out of this year's meeting at Bath (R.W. June 24th). Like Mr. Corby, I believe that the business of the Council is every ringer's business and should be discussed not only in the bars but also in these columns. Regrettably there is all too little serious discussion published, although, paradoxically, the debates in this year's meeting were of an exceptionally high standard (not forgetting the brilliant advocacy of the members for Croydon and Worcester) and showed that there is no shortage of clear and serious thinkers amongst to-day's ringers.

In attacking the procedural arrangements of the Council's meetings, however, I think that Messrs. Corby and Ainsworth are only hinting at a still more vital topic for discussion. What job are we really supposed to be doing and are we doing it effectively? Or, more shortly, what are we here for? Even after nine years on the Council, I find it hard to answer these questions concisely. As I see it, the Council can fulfil two functions: legislative and advisory. Its legislative power is absolute in the election of its officers and in its control over "The Ringing World," its power is recognised by general respect in regard to the technicalities of change-ringing and is minimal in its control over the affairs of its constituent Associations. It seems to me highly necessary that a central representative body of ringers should be responsible for running a ringers' newspaper and for giving authoritative rulings on principles of change-ringing, and these functions are carried out by the Council as weli as we have any right to expect a body of voluntary people to do them.

As a body of people with a very considerable collective experience of every aspect of ringing. I think the Council could do more to help the Exercise in an advisory capacity than it does. All of us have our problems and our views and an exchange of these with those who are more experienced is helpful. In this function the Council is seen at its best in the admirable Towers and Belfries Committee. It shows up much less well in the attempts to express a majority decision on the motions put up at the end of each meeting.

In nine years I can recall many motions which have been carefully thought out and have their origin in much hard-gained ringing wisdom but almost all were overwhelmingly defeated, sometimes most peremptorily. Yet, a serious debate on these topics could have often been most valuable to those who heard it. The contradiction has been that we have necessarily been obliged to conclude the debate with a clear cut decision for or against when all knew that such a decision could not be binding or authoritative. It is possible to be clearly for or against Mr. X as President but much less clearly for or against a ratio between resident and non-resident subscriptions for all Associations (to instance a motion at this year's Council). The latter is not, in my view, any the less important a matter for consideration but the decision-making on it is not at Council level.

I would like to see the Council do more to encourage discussion of topics that affect us all but as a Conference rather than a legislative body. I estimate that at least a third of the members present at Bath are professional men and women and the other two-thirds are of no less ability. Any member of a professional body must be accustomed to examining a topic through prepared contributions and open debate. As I have already said, Bath showed that we are not short of effective speakers with something worthwhile to say.

As an example of the sort of topic that one might treat in this way, I would suggest "How to increase the Ringing World circulation." Such a question might be more profitably discussed in a Council Conference without the shackles of having to take a binding decision at the end of it. I suggest that the Council might enhance its value by splitting its day into two - half devoted to its legitimate legislative business and half to a Conference on pre-arranged topics. If this is novel to ringing, it is not to many other activities.

Despite the fact that at Bath most of the tributes paid to past members of the Council were totally inaudible where I was sitting, I do not agree with Mr. Ainsworth that this should not be done. There is a personal touch about this that we should not let go.

MANCHESTER University Guild's annual week's tour should have started at 12.30 p.m. on June 25 th at St. Mary's, Bletchley, Bucks. Instead, true to character, it started at 12.15 p.m. in the nearest public house, appropriately named "The Eight Belles." However, after some initial trouble, we soon had the nice eight at St. Mary's going, regardless of the fact that a local Vicar informed us that he had returned from the dead, having been revived by the "kiss of life."

As we made our way to the boatyard to pick up the two canal barges in which we were to spend the week it, needless to say, started to rain. We were soon on our way and, having negotiated successfully both our first canal lock and our first meal aboard, we rang at Woughton-on-the-Green. We were very pleased when the local Vicar joined us for a ring here.

Sunday saw us up early and motoring along in fine weather. Not for long, however, as Susiebelle I broke down and we had to call the boatyard engineer. While waiting, we obtained permission to ring on the rather heavy six at Great Linford. At first it was thought that a service was in progress but it turned out to be no more than a rather attractive young lady practising on the organ in bare feet. Our next tower was at Old Wolverton, which contains an anti-clockwise six, then on to Cosgrove for evening service.

LOCKS AND TUNNELS

Wet and windy Monday found us at Grafton Regis in the morning. The rest of the day provided us with a good lesson in canal navigation. Firstly, we took the two harges through seven locks at Stoke Bruerne. Then we had to travel through 3,000 yards Blisworth tunnel, the journey taking half an hour. After ringing at Bugbrooke we were joined for a drink by David Marshall and Pat and Barrie Hendry.

The next morning, after ringing at Heyford and Flore, we cruised to our second flight of locks at Long Buckby. On this stretch the M.1 motorway and the London-Manchester railway track run on either side of the canal, and the trains and cars flashing by rather emphasised the slowness of water as a means of transport: but how much more peaceful!

Having moored and rung at Norton, we walked to Daventry, where David Marshall supplied us with a very fine tea. Ringing on the new ten in an equally fino Georgian church gave us all pleasure and we were pleased to be able to return the local ringers' hospitality on the boats later that nght.

Wednesday saw some of us with hangovers but all of us sunbathing on the cabin roofs. The weather was glorious and the sun did not go in from sunrise to sunset. We rang at Gayton, after a trek through some fields, and in the evening some rang Blisworth handbells. Thursday was peal day and was just as hot as the day before. We were ringing all day in Northampton but unfortunately both peal attempts failed.

A MUSEUM PIECE
We had a long way to travel, by canal standards. on Friday but found time to stop at Stoke Bruerne locks for the local Press to photograph us-ringing handbells, of course. We were also photographed by the curator of the Waterways Museum but were a little dubious when he informed us the picture was going into the museum archives. The sun shining again, we motored on, stopping only for Susiebelle II to ram the bank three times in quick succession. We rang at Simpson in the late afternoon, then at Fenny Stratford in the evening. where the Rector joined us in the pub afterwards.

The boats having been returned, the official photograph taken, we rang at Wavendon and then spent Saturday afternoon at Woburn Abbey, where the Duke of Bedford was seen to be taking his turn at the counters. The heavy eight at Woburn were thoroughly enjoyed as a change after the many light sixes of the week That night was spent at Pat and Barrie Hendry's bungalow at Harpole. A party was put on for our benefit and some of the lads were obviously enamoured with some of the local ringers, but John Gander did not enjoy the vinegar which somebody had placed in a beer bottle. Having slept on the floor and rung at Harpole next morning, the 14 members of the Guild on the tour made their farewells.
This was probably the most successful M.U.G.'s tour and the blame must go to the organiser. Andrew "Sam" Harrison. who did an excellent job. Thanks must also go to Andrew's sister, Georgetta. for organising a menu for the week, to David, Barrie. Pat, Bridget and Ruth for their excellent hosnitalitv, and all the incumbents for letting us rine, often at very short notice.

"METHOD STRUCTURE IN CHANGE RINGING "

Reviewed by Canon Gilbert Thurlow

THe approach of a brilliant and original mind to any branch of art or science is likely to produce exciting results. This is certainly true of this book. The practical ringer and the theoretician alike will find here a great deal to provok? them to unfamiliar paths, or rather along lines which, though basically familiar, are developed in ways that are new
This is no: a texi-book of ringing methods. Many such exist and are familiar to experienced ringers. Rather is it a scientific synthesis and analysis of method structure

The author notes a long-standing difficulty confronting those who would exercise their minds in this field, namely, that "ringing" is both a complex-though exact-science and a folk art. As a science it must deal with mathematical formulæ, problems and exercises of an ever deepening character. As a folk art it has found expression in terms often exasperatingly naive in their origin and their ambiguity. This has often led to confusion in discussion of certain aspects of method structure, e.g. in method-stage variation

The author therefore sets himself the task of introducing definitions reduced to lucidity and order. Had he accomplished nothing more, this alone would have been of great value. The chapter on "In and Out of Course" ("row-phase" to the author) is particularly interesting and provocative.
The latter section of the book, on method analysis, begins with a chapter examining aspects of the structure of the division of a method. This leads to a somewhat complex but valuable discussion. with a view to attaining a better understanding of the nature of method structure generally, and of how variation of the basic (lowest comprehensive) stage of a method in a "scientific manner can produce the "cognate" stages of the method's family
And "Stage-charts" help the reader to enter more intelligently into a discussion of the relationship of such stages

The necessary matter of Method Snecification for ready reference is fully dealt with. Clearly, the more simoly this can be done the better
Finally, with a note on Q-sets, there is pre sented in outline the picture to be portrayed as a whole in the proposed further seven as a whole in the proposed Manual of Reference."

This remarkable treatise must be studied seriously. It shows that there is no easy road to the scientific study of change ringing. anv more than the not-easv road to the practical work in the tower. But its challenging invitation is one of its chief attractions.

COUNCILCUM-CONFERENCE-

Continued from front page To add one more word to "The Ringing World " debate: It seemed to me in retrospect that some of the criticism of the committee may have had its origin in its annual report Year after year the report has been presented as a financial statement only; this year, indeed. with even more adroitness than usual. There is no question that keeping the paper solvent has always been a heavy labour to the com mittee but the fact remains that the purpose of the paper's existence is not financial. We would like to have been told also each year of how the committee thought the paper was doing as a paper and what plans they had for the future. That the committee had such views came out in the discussion, narticularly from the Editor and from Mr. Smallwood, hut surely there should have been something along these lines also in the reports we have been asked to adont as well? Please, cannot we have "The Ringing World " accounts pre sented in future along with the other Council accounts?

St. George's, Colegate,

TWO cars with eight ringers arrived at Sutton-on-Trent, over 100 miles from Norwich, on the evening of Friday, May 20th, and inaugurated the St. George's, Colegate, Week-end Tour, 1966, with a touch of Double Norwich on the fine eight.

Progress along the A.1 towards the West Riding was again interrupted for a ring on the eight at Tuxford, where a new band is being taught. Here the last two members of the party caught us up just in time for a ring.

The regularly-shaped grey hills indicated that we were in the West Riding. From the main roads we struck off for the isolated six at Felkirk, where we were met by Harold Chant. Several methods, including Woodbine, were rung in rapid succession, not because of any increased zeal but due to the tenor being without a stay. At Wakefield, our base for the week-end, the day was completed with a Chinese meal.

FIRST TAIL-END

Early on Saturday morning we set off in the rain for Earlsheaton. From the churchyard, those unfamiliar with the area contemplated the view over Dewsbury, For tail-end fitted to a bell at St. George's for practice but the first encounter with the real thing did not lead to very accomplished ringing. A glazed tile peal "board" and one with a chopped cork surround intrigued us.

Stedman Triples and Plain Bob Major sounded good at Dewsbury. The ringing chamber boasts a wash-hand basin, a useful feature found in several towers visited. A ride through Huddersfield brought us to Longwood. where we had to iuggle the ringers and the many boxes until all the backstrokes were within reach. The journey to Meltham introduced our cars to long, steep hills. unknown in East Anglia. Again we proved that rising in peal is an art yet to he mastered. Lunch was taken at Scisset (the " c " is silent!) accompanied by two dimes worth of juke (the Sound of Silence !). At Holmfirth the ringing chamber is entered directly from the ground, yet is on the first floor, so steep is the land. The dark and little-used belfry held three surprises. Firstly, Mr. J. Buxton explained that the eight were fully muffled to prevent complaints, then the tenor would not prevent complaints, then the tenor would not the fourth rope broke immediately after the rise. So we rang Minor, omitting the fourth and tenor-a not unpleasant combination.

SPIRAL STAIRCASES

A short climb brought us to the pleasant six at New Mill, where we rang Beverley. Our next tower, at Shelley, contained a similar six. Even with help from Trevor Tarbatt (who met us and helped to make the arrangements), we were unable to master closed handstroke leads. By now we were used to narrow and steep spiral staircases, but Kirkburton had the narrowest and steepest. Arrival in the ringing chamber was mostly on all fours. Our last tower of the day was at Thornhill; the unusual telegraph-pole-like way to the floor above the ringing chamber was tested by two of the party.
On Sunday morning the eight. who had managed to sleep during the previous two nights. went to 8 o'clock Communion at Wakefield Cathedral and afterwards rang touches on the very good 12 , new light ten and rounds on 13 (!) for the 9.15 service. That morning some of the party went to the sixes at Kirkthorpe and Crofton, while others returned to the Cathedral.

After lunch we followed the signs "To the South " and arrived at Surtieet in time to join in evening ringing on the light 12 housed in an alarmingly leaning tower. As if to say "Finis." the 11 th rope troke when chiming after the lower.
Our thanks go to all who made the weekend possible, especially David Cubitt for making the thorough arrangements. G.H.P.

MACHYNLLETH SOCIETY OF CHURCH BELLRINGERS

The Society's tour, on July 9th, was held on wonderful day, full of glorious sunshine, with good food and, more important, good ringing. The party of 12 included Mr. Alan Price, of St. David's, Newton, and Miss Gillian Graney, of the University of Wales Society.
At St. John's, Portmadoc, the Vicar (the Rev. I. M. Jones) was waiting to welcome us, and two ringers from Salisbury, on holiday, also joined in the ringing. The journey to Abergele was via Capel Curig and Llanrwst, and on arrival at St. Michael's Church we received a warm welcome from the Rev. Ll . Hughes, a previous Rector at Machynileth, and Mrs. Hughes. We enjoyed the bells very much and, following lunch, we returned for $\Rightarrow$ short service conducted by the Vicar, who also narrated an interesting history of the church.
The remainder of the day until 6 p.m. was spent at Rhyl, where another good meal was enjoyed. The journey home was perfect, travelling via Denbigh, Pentrevoelas, TryWeyrn and Bala. "We are truly grateful for the opportunity of working and travelling together and for the safety of the journey in these days of crowded roads," writes H.L.F. in expressing thanks to all who contributed to the success of the outing.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

Witney and Woodstock Branch

Witney and Woodstock Branch, aiter their outing to Messrs. John Taylor and Co.'s foundry at Loughborough, know a little more about bells; ; they found the conducted tour of great interest. The foundry bells seemed to them a little unusual, and our correspondent admits that they were a little savage with the "stays."

After lunch Ashby-de-la-Zouch (8) was visited, where they had a nice ring and friendly visit from the local constabulary I Pockington provided another ground-floor ring, to be followed by Cole Orton (8), an outstanding example of a fine. well-kept church in beautiful surroundings. There was a most inviting ringing chamber, a good ring of bells and a warm welcome.
Whitwick (8) was visited after tea, and also provided good bells. Ringing during the day included Cambridge. Kent, Grandsire, Stedman and Plain Bob. Home was reached about midnight. the junior choir, ably conducted by Albert Hicks, being very much in evidence.
Messrs. Orme and Dean are thanked for the arrangements, as also are the incumbents and those who met us.

COWBRIDGE GRAMMAR  SCHOOL SOCIETY A.G.M.

The second annual general meeting of the Cowbridge Grammar School Society was held in the school on July 4th. To mark the occasion, on the Saturday before (July 2nd) the Society had scored its first peal of Major. Three recent Old Boys, four pupils and one master stood in this peal of Plain Bob rung on the grand bells of St. Mary's, Swansea. No peals had been allowed here for some time previously and the Society is very grateful to the Vicar (Canon Harry Williams), the tower captain (Mr. Johnny Williams) and the local ringers, for granting the use of the bells.
For the annual general meeting itself, two towers had been obtained-Bridgend (8) and St. Bride's Major (6). Ringing ranged from rounds and call changes to Plain Bob Major, Stedman and Grandsire Triples, and to Kent, Cambridge and other Minor methods, also various Doubles methods. We were joined by Messrs. Tom Petty and Lyn Jones of Bridgend, also by Misses Sue Harber and Gwen Bidgood of Llandaff.
At the business meeting the secretary reported a full and enjoyable year's activities, which included six tower bell peals and a successful four-day ringing tour. One honorary member. Miss Alana Thomas, of Cowbridge High School for Girls, had been elected.

David Barrington was elected Ringing Master for 1966-67 in succession to Chris Ricketts. Iolo Davies was re-elected hon. secretary and treasurer. Three new members were elected-Mr. Robin J. Lee (now of Great Missenden), Peter Walker and E. John Thomas.

Ringing at the Society's home tower, Llanbleddian (6), followed, and among the evening's visitors were Mr. David Llewellyn, secretary of the Llandaff Branch, and Mrs. Llewellyn. Methods rung ranged from rounds to London Minor. I. D.

OUTING

ST. MARY'S, LUTON

The members and guests of St. Mary's, Luton, met at 7.45 p.m. on July 2nd for their annual outing, which this year was into Suflolk. We had travelled some five miles when we discovered we had strangers on the coach! Another party had arranged to meet at the same place at the same time. Our first stop was at Haverhill for a cup of tea. Some were lucky, but it seemed that every other coach in the area had the same idea. Here we were able to put the strangers on to their proper coach.
Stoke-by-Nayland Church, which was a favourite subject of the great artist Constable. was our first tower and some good touches were rung at this interesting church. The unique and famous bells of East Bergholt next attracted our attention and we were very grateful to the foreman for his demonstration ring on the bells.

A the Golden Lion Hotel, Ipswich, we all enjoyed a splendid lunch. Two small village towers were visited in the afternoon-Coddenham (8) and Stonham Aspal (10). which are kept going through the efforts of one man. It is much regretted that the bells of Coddenham should have so little use. After tea at Bury St. Edmunds-with a couple of very short speeches- we headed for Mildenhall. our last tower.
It is very comforting to say how much everybody enjoyed the outing-ringers and non-ringers, young and old, including the $2 \frac{1}{2}$ -year-old son of the secretary, who may be a ringer of the future.
P. L. S. H.

LEADERSHIP DEPENDS ON  PROFICIENCY

Dear Sir,-Your expert ringers seem to be tackling the problem of increasing the circulation of "The Ringing World" from the wrong end We must face the fact that "The Ringing World " is a publication which appeals only to the keener and more proficient members of our Exercise. The only sure way of any permanent increase of readership is for our local Associations to produce more proficient ringers.

There are up and down the country a vast army of ringers who are members of no association and who never see "The Ringing World." We cannot possibly hope to gain their support if notices of meetings are confined to "The Ringing World." I would suggest two remedies for this situation.
(1) District seecretaries should be encouraged to notify all lowers in their District, by means of a circular letter, of impending meetings.
(2) Association members should arrive punctually at meetings prepared to welcome newcomers and to ring something within their capabilities for the whole meeting if necessary.

In my own opinion meetings should also be held more frequently, but I have had little support for this suggestion from my own Association.-Yours sincerely,
P. R. EVEREST.

PUDDLETOWN QUARTER PEAI,

Dear Sir,-With reference to Mr. Collins ${ }^{*}$ inquiry, I am able to advise him that the recent quarter peal at Puddletown was not the first on the bells. Not keeping a record of my quarter peals; I do not know the exact date, but I definitely conducted a quarter of Doubles at Puddletown in the early 1950's, when I was attached to Piddlehinton tower, and I remember what hard work it was, too.

Surely Mr. Collins is wrong when he states that Piddletrenthide bells are rarely rung.Yours sincerely,
E. T. PAUL FIELD.

NORWICH COLLEGE OF EDUCATION

$A^{F}$FTER months of hard practice at Intwood, College ringers achieved the necessary standard to attempt an outing (i.e. the ability to ring pretty fair Firing Surprise and even better uncalled call changes).
As ringing outings go, there were not many mishaps; we only left scratchings of green paint on one car as we stopped for lunch at Newmarket. This was surprising considering the navigation of our driver, as only one car overtook our minibus on the 185 miles journey!
At Caxton, Bob Doubles and plain hunt on six werc attempted with some success and we left feeling justly proud of ourselves at having broken no stays, yet! We were all put to shame at Gamlingay, where Keith, one of the two boys from Wroxham, raised the 19 cwt. tenor single-handed.
Neville endeavoured to emulate this example at Sandy; alas ! the strands of rope parted neatly in the process. With a piece of string, thoughtfully left on the floor. temporary repairs were effected and Neville relegated to the second. All went well until "Stand"was called. The bells stood, except the second, which did the Indian rope trick with the sally, leaving Neville bewildered but, luckily, still at the bottom. Soon after this episode we calmed down slightly as a local lady ringer joined us. She was sympathetic about the stay and helped us to ring Bob Doubles.
One of the objects of the journey was to visit the Rector of Intwood's old parish, Northill. which has a fascinating ringing chamber, with every bit of available wall space crammed with cuttings and pictures of bells. handbells, clocks and their makers. Bill Wagstaff, the grand old man of Northill. ioined us, ringing the 17 cwt . fifth. He it was who decorated the ringing chamber and provided our Rector with his handbells (which we had taken with us). After coffee kindly provided by the Rector we could not resist Mr. Wagstaff's invitation to visit his workshop in a heautiful setting by the village green at Ickwell, complete with maypole and surrounded by thatched cottages.

We were late arriving at Cambridge, where a delicious meal was awaiting us at the home of the writer. It took us just over one hour to reach Norwich. thus concluding a very enjoyable day out!

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD

The July meeting of the Marlborough Branch took place at West Overton and attracted a good number of members and visitors. Proceedings were divided into two parts-ringing and the Guild service at West Overton, and tea with further ringing afterwards at Marlborough.

Ringing was under the direction of the Ringing Master (the Rev. R. Keeley) and the service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. N. Scadding), with Mr. J. Oliver as organist.

Tea was at a Marlborough restaurant, and St. Mary's lovely ring of six was put to good use afterwards. There was no business meeting as such, but it was agreed that the proposed meeting at Burbage in September should be advanced by one week, in order to fit in with the local parochial activities. W. A.E.

STEDHAM, SUSSEX.-On July 1st. 1.560 Doubles ( 13 methods): G. C. Walder (first away from zenor) 1. R. D. Smith 2, Rev. 3. H. Greene 3. R. Osborne 4. D. A. Kirk (cond.) 5. E. J. Symonds (first quarter) 6. Rung after the Conirmation service.

LONG DRAUGHTS AND QUARTER ATTEMPTS

This is not a ringer's report on the local, nor of less than half-hearted bell ringing, but an eavesdropper's guide to some of the odd phrases and words heard in the belfry.
I went up Safiron Walden tower one practice night and was surprised to find that Sally is a woolly bit, and that Yorkshire Tail Ends are most uncommon this far south. They talk of getting the bells up- though why when you've already climbed so high do you want them any further up? And I couldn't see what ditference it made. It looks the same and when I tugged one to see, the rope jerked my arms and burned my hands, and you should have heard what was said!

Of course, the bells can be In Course or Out of Course, and the definition of a Surprise method is one in which internal places are made at all crossovers, to distinguish between Delight and other methods. One of the less reverent suggested that it was so named because it was a surprise when it all came out at the end, five minutes later, but this explanation is frowned upon.
Ringers also have Principles. Apparently Stedman's is the most popular of these, but what effect this has on them I don't quite know, because when one of them was told to go out quick he didn't obey, and then they argued about striking. They didn't stop ringing though, until later, when they were talking about an outing and the road between two of the churches was described as: Thirds, Fourths, Point blow lead, Fifths, Sixths, Fifths, out to Eights, and Lie behind, Seven-Eight dodge. It sounded mad, but one of the other ringers said she had driven it from those instructions, and it was a very good description. I was getting a bit confused then, and when they said someone had better get the tenor down I remembered what had happened when the bell was up and thought I'd better go down too.

If you want to know more, why not come along one Tuesday evening-or on an open day we hope to hold later this year?

TEIGNMOUTH, DEVON, OUTING
Under the leadership of Mr. A. B. Shingler, St. Michael's, Teignmouth, ringers held their annual outing on July 16 th, and accompanying them were Messrs. W. Simmonds, of Torquay, and A. L. Bennett, of Buckfastleigh.

Towers visited were Silverton, Dulverton, Withypool, North Molton (one of the finest sixes to be heard). South Molton and Chulmleigh. A pienic lunch took place at Tarr Steps, a spot not unlike Dartmeet on the borders of Dartmoor, whilst tea was served in South Molton. Thanks are due to Mr. Shingler for the excellent arrangements made.

THE ST. MARTIN'S GUILD

MOST enjoyable meeting of the St. Martin's Guild for the Diocese of Birmingham was held at Knowle on July 2nd and was attended by about 50 ringers. In the Parish Church the Guild's form of service was conducted by the Rev. L. B. Hutchings. who gave the Guild a warm welcome to Knowle.

An excellent tea, followed by the quarterly meeting, was held in the ancient Guildhall. which dates from the year 1412. A moment's silence was observed to the respected memory of the late John Pinfold, a most valued member of the Guild.

Mr. David Main of Yardley, was elected a member, and the election, prior to a handbell peal, of Mr. Geoffrey Pratt was ratified.

The meeting heard with regret that one of the Guild's popular young members, Mary Pryor, had sustained serious injuries as a result of a road accident and had been unconscious for several days in hospital. The latest information concerning Mary's condition was more promising and she was now making steady improvement. The members expressed their best wishes for a speedy recovery.

The chairman, Mr, R. C. Ingram, extended a special welcome to Mr . William Leeson, of Solihull, now in his 81 st year, and the oldest active member of the Guild.

The next meeting will be held at Yardley on October 15 th, when a striking competition will be held during the afternoon. The Ringing Master emphasised that. according to the rules, every ringer taking part must be a fully paid member of the Guild.

Mr. Thomas 3. Warner proposed a vote of thanks to the Rev. L B. Hutchings for conducting the service, and to Mrs. Hutchings and Miss Merryn Hutchings for preparing a most bountiful tea.
After the meeting the secretary distributed ome back numbers of "The Ringing World," kindly supplied by the Editor, amongst the young ringers, with the object of stimulating their interest. Knowle is in the fortunate position of having about 25 young ringers anxious to make progress.

SOUTHWELL DIOCESAN GUILD

Newark District

Despite the glorious summer day, there was a very small attendance at the meeting held at St . Mary's, Staunton-in-the-Vale, on July 9 th. The delightful setting of the church was set off to perfection in the sunlight, and the five bells sounded very well across the surrounding fields.

The shert service was conducted by the Rector, the Rev. A. Wilkinson, and afterwards we were very kindly entertained to tea in Staunton Hall. the home of Mr. Edmund Staunton and his mother, and also allowed to look over some of the paintings and other treasures.

The business meeting was very short and it was agreed to hold over one or two items until the next meeting in September. when there should be a bigger attendance. R. N. R.

JOINT OUTING TO  LINCOLNSHIRE

O
Saturday, July 2nd, the Mansfield District of the Southwell Diocesan Guild and the Sheffield and District Society held a joint half-day outing into Lincolnshire, using private cars.

The first tower visited was at Epworth lan enjoyable ground-floor ring of eight with enough spring in the ropes to make striking interesting). Being rather a distant point from which to commence, a number of members would have stayed longer, time permitting, to enjoy the delightful environment of the old church and village. However, with 13 or 14 miles to drive and the bells there already ringing, it was on to Gainsborough.

Numbers here were greater: some ringers, through necessity, having cut out the first venue and arrived direct. With time in hand, the very fine ring of eight gave ample opportunity for a variety of ringing. Tuneful and pleasant to handle, the bells hang in a tower which, from an architectural point of view, seems entirely divorced from the rest of the building. Up to this point the ringing had included most standard eight-bell methods with a good course of Yorkshire Surprise, and now it was farewell to the Church of All Saints with a course of Gainsborough Little Bob.

The first ring after tea was at St. Giles', Lincoln. The red brick tower, presiding over an almost contemporary housing estate, offered a sharp contrast to those of the afternoon. Inside the belfry, too, this contrast was maintained, both by the sound of the bells and by the furnishings. the eight emerald green sallies striking their own note of difference. Soon after the completion of a well-struck course of Cambridge it was necessary to move off once more, this time in the direction of Notonce more, this time in the direction of Not-

Back once more, as we began, to a lovely, weatherbeaten old church, whose eight bells hang in a tower which looks as though, at a pinch, it may hold six. Tuneful and quite easily handled. this ring harboured the only black sheep of the day. Occasionally, on being set. the seventh would snatch away again viciously, and one notable member of the company, gently easing it on to the stay following a touch of Double Norwich, was heard to give vent to a loud cry of rage and frustration as the monster leapt through his hards Recognising its master's voice. the rebel came meekly to heel on the following handstroke

A grand outing, well supported, with never more than a comfortable number of ringers in any belfry at one time The writer recorded 152 miles To the respective incumbents and to those who met us, our grateful thanks.

BEDFORDSHIRE ASSOCIATION

A very good attendance of over 40 attended the Biggleswade District meeting at Sandy on July 9th, when at the business meeting all were delighted to see the president (Mr. A. E. Ruston) after his short absence. Ringing, under the capable supervision of Mr. B. Sims, proved on the whole to be of a good standard, with people learning, bettering, improving and widening their capabilities.

BATH AND WELLS DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION

Frome Branch Wants Alterations

The summer quarterly meeting of the Frome Branch of the Bath and Wells Association was held at Radstock on July 9th. Attendance was very poor but a handful of ringers kept the bells going before the service and the striking was good. At the service a collection amounting to $£ 1$ 2s. 6d. was taken for Paulton Bell Fund. Numbers increased to 17 at a splendid tea provided by the local ringers.
The members stood in silence as a tribute to two members, Mr. Cottle, of Timsbury, and Mr. Humphreys, of Farmborough, who had died since the last meeting.
The Association peal secretary, Mr. Massey, proposed that the Branch support the alteration of Rule 8 of the Bath and Wells Association so that a donation be made to "The Ringing World" by booking fees. This was passed.
It was felt that the Association generally was dissatisfied that annual reports were received so long after the annual general meeting, especially this year, when the reports had not been received after three months. The Branch therefore proposed that the question of producing the annual report in time to be in the hands of members before the annual general meeting be placed on the agenda and discussed at the 1967 annual general meeting.
The secretary said that he intended to suggest at the Branch annual meeting that the summer meeting be dispensed with in view of the poor attendance, £1 is, was being claimed from the Association funds to help cover the cost of this meeting.
A vote of thanks proposed by Mr. Heymann was received with acclamation.

The joint meeting with the Chew Branch is at Farminnrough on August 20th, and the nexz quarterly meeting is on October 8th at Marston Bigott.

DERBY DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION Chesterfield District

Some 30 members and friends from over ten towers were present when the July meeting of the Chesterfield District was held at Killamarsh on July 9 th A wide variety of methods was rung during the afternoon, including the special-Double Oxford.
After tea, excellently prepared by the wives and friends of the local company in the pleasant surroundings of the newly-built Church Hall, a short business meeting was held under the chairmanship of Mr. J. Newman (Old Whittington). Reminding members of the forthcoming annual outing to Chester on September 10th, the secretary, Mr. M. Phipps (Chesterfield), urged the company to do all they could to ensure its success, as last year's outing was poorly supported.

The meeting concluded with the chairman proposing a comprehensive vote of thanks to the Rector of Killamarsh, the Rev. G. S. Cheetham, local company and ladies.

Further ringing then took place until 8.30.
Next meeting: Bolsover (8) on August 6th

OBITUARY

MR. E. H. STONELEY
One of the most prominent ringers of the pre-war era, Edwin Harry Stoneley, passed away at his residence, where he had lived all his life, at Stoke Golding, Leicestershire, at the age of 77 .
He was a remarkable man. who became almost a legend through his great popularity and versatility, which endeared him to a large circle of friends.

Known in the village as "Skip," he was unofficial leader of the boys' club for over 50 years and built a hut where games are played and meetings still held. He had run the cricket, football and archery clubs and, together with the boys, buitt a flat-bottomed boat. "Oriel II," for cruising on the local canal. He was a devoted churchman and always recited the psalms for the day by heart before his day's work.

A wheelwright by trade, he carved the crosses and candlesticks in the Parish Church from the old bell frames, but one of his main activities was Scouting, and he held the Scoutmastership both at Hinckley and Stoke Golding, which gained him the Scouts' Award of Merit. It was at the beginning of his association with Scouts that he began to wear shorts, and since that time he had never worn long trousers, a characteristic which made him a very familiar figure cycling to his Scout parades and ringing meetings around the county.

Time meant very little to Harrv Stoneley and since his mother died, in 1925, he lived alone in his house, which was always open to the many boys who had passed through his hands. He was a keen astronomer, an expert jam maker and always claimed to make a pound for every day of the year. As a prominent beekeeper he collected up to eight cwt. of honey each year.

As a bellringer he was a member of the famous Wednesday afternoon band who. together with Maurice and John Swinfield, James George, James Padgett. Charles Draper Richard Belton and other ringers, rang over 120 different compositions of Stedman Trioles. Harry's green bicycle was a familiar addition to the church furniture during the ringing of these peals, of which his total was between 550 and 600 . He also took part in the long peal of Cambridge Major at Stoney Stanton. which took 11 hours and 36 minutes.

His last appearance in the world of ringing was at the veterans reunion last May at Cole Orton. where he delighted the company by producing his miniature handbells. which accompanied him in the first world war in France, where he won the Military Medal. The Leicester Diocesan Guild elected him an honorary life member some years ago in recognition of his long and faithful service in the advancement of the art.

Harry Stoneley was highly respected for his greatness of character and innumerable people have lost a good friend and counsellor. hut we thank God for his life and examnle. May he rest in peace.

WRATTEN'S WRINGERS

Eleven peals were rung this year by "Wratten's Wringers," during their tour, out of 14 attempts, compared with 14 out of 16 attempts last vear.

The greatest disappointment was at Ledbury. In 1964 Cambridge was lost there through a shift course after an hour; in 1965 Belgrave was lost after two hours as the result of a miscall; and this year Yorkshire was lost after three hours when the tenor clapper broke. A pessimist in the party was heard to remark "Next year we shall probably ring for four hours without the bells coming round."

COMBINED AGES 633 YEARS

Apart from his birthday peal of Yorkshire Surprise Major, Mr. Symonds rang in a quarter peal at Grundisburgh on July 14th. leading a party of veterans whose combined ages were 633 years. At 91 Mr. Symonds, who has been ringing for 80 years, was the senior.

Next oldest was Mr. Fred Crapnell (85), of The Forge, Grundisburgh, who rang his first peal in 1902. Others were Mr. George Finch (75), of Marlesford, Mr. Willoughby Maulden (75), of Framlingham, Mr. Charles Sedgley (79), of Ipswich, a noted ringer and composer Mr. James Bennett (79), of Grundisburgh, who has rung over 1,300 peals, Mr. Percy May (71), of Ipswich. and Mr. Gilbert Goodship (78). of Nettlestead

The group organiser. Mr. Cecil W. Pipe, said of their ringing to the "East Anglan Daily Times ": "Despite their ages the ringing was practically perfect with extremely good ringing."

BEAMINSTER BELLS SILENT

The bells of this well-known Dorset tower are now silent. Early this month Mr. Paul Taylor made an examination of the frame and found considerable movement when the bells were rung-in fact the frame touched the church wall. For the sake of the structure of the tower. Beaminster ringers were advised not to ring.
The rehanging fund now stands at $£ 9110$ s. 9d. against an estimated requirement of $£ 4,000$. In addition, the P.C.C. are confronted with repairs to the organ, an estimate for which will be received in September. Until the P.C.C. decide on a plan, of campaign the ringers are "holding par." For the time being those arranging outings must exclude Beaminster.

COVENTRY COLLEGFS GUILD

The Coventry Colleges' Guild has been making progress during the year and has recently rung two quarter peals of Bob Minor and Grandsire Doubles. The main problem is still lack of a tower, and the Guild would like to thank the ringers at Allesley for the use of their bells. and the bands at Stoke and Stoneleigh for making them very welcome at their practices. It is hoved that numbers will justify organising Guild practices next year and that a neal will soon be rung. The sec retary, S. C. Walters. 64, Anchorage Road, Sutton Coldfield. would be pleased to hear from anyone interested in joining next vear.

CORRECTION

Composition of Double Bob Major (page 4.56). The block $A$ refers to the six courses after course head 35264 .

OUR PRINTERS APOLOGISE

The prolonged seamen's strike interfered seriously with regular paper supplies, and our printers regret that it is possible that for four issues "The RInging World" will be printed on the inferior paper as used for our last iscue. They assure us that they are doing their best to obtain normal supplies as quickly as possible.

LOST THROUGH BROKEN ROPE

A broken rope prevented Mrs. T. W. Goodyer from scoring a peal of Turramurra Surprise Major at St. Ebbe's, Oxford, on July Sth, and she had to be content with a quarter peal rung afterwards, conducted by Mr. A. R. Pink. It is at Turramurra where Mrs. Goodyer and her son ring, and she was anxious to include this method with Quedgeley, her English home, in the Surprise peals she rang during her holiday. It has been a great pleasure to a very large number of English ringers to meet her, particularly those who have enjoyed the hospitality of her home at Roseville, Sydney.

A WELCOME PEAL FROM SEVEN PARISHES

Peals at Maperton, Somerset, are rare, the last before the peal on July 16th being in April, 1948. The occasion was to welcome the Rev. Russell Kinsey as group minister for seven parishes in the neighbourhood. The new minister and his wife are thanked for delicious teas provided for Mr. Alan F. Lee's party on two occasions, when the tower was visited.

BIDDENDEN'S MYSTERY HALF-DAY

Organised by Mr. H. Payne and Mr. H. Deacon, Biddenden Youths had a half-dav "mystery" outing on July 2nd. Ringing started at Buxted, where the church is situated in a heautiful park, followed by Uckfield. where Plain Bob, Grandsire and Stedman were rung.
Fletching had an additional attraction"A Village within a Village.' a model erected for charity purposes, and from the miniature tower strains of Cambridge emerged to the delight of the visitors. At the "life-size" tower, ringing was disappointing, as new ropes had been fitted just before arrival.

A picnic tea outside Fairwarp Church and a welcome from the Rector preceded the ringing, when justice was not done to the bells. The programme was concluded at Rotherfieid.

AFFECTION FOR ROTHERHAM TENOR

This week we record the 25th peal on Rotherham Parish Church tenor by Mr. Norman Chaddock. In all these peals Norman turned the tenor in, and the list includes the record peal of 42 Spliced Surprise Royal. a peal of Pitman's four-Spliced (all the work), which he believes is the heaviest bell ( $34 \frac{7}{2} \mathrm{cwt}$ ) rung to this composition, and a peal of Yorkshire Surprise Major in which all his own pupils took part. He now looks forward to pupils took part. He now looks forwar behind to a peal sometime I

CAMBRIDGE YOUNG RINGERS PROVIDE

 FEATURE STORY"The Cambridge News" of July 5th had a good feature article on "Swinging Bell Ringing," based on a visit to Harston Parish Church, where Mr. Brian D. Threlfall is captain, and his wife, Frances, assists him in instructing.

Teenage girls in jeans and sweat shirts are among the pupils and in the view of one, bell ringing - io coin a particularly apt phrase"swinging is not at all square." Bells, they think, are most satisfying when well rung, and the sound is sweet and true.

Also interviewed was Miss Jean Sanderson, who instructs at Whittlesford, Little Munden and Wendens Ambo. She has rung a bell as heavy as 46 cwt., but explains that bells are like people, "Some are easy and good-tempered and others need knowing. So much depends on how a bell is hung and how well it is cared for."

Pointing out that ringers "collect towers" the way a train spotter notes down numbers, Mrs. Threlfall said: "This is why it is a good idea to marry another bellringer. When my husband and I go on holidays we go round ringing at different towers.'
Mr. Threlfall followed this up by adding: "If you go to a strange town you need never be lonely. Just look up the local church ringing simes in the "Guide" and go along and you will be made welcome."
This article by Olive Nelson is very readable and the illustrations include one of 10 -year-old Mary Threlfall ringing from a box.

MR. SHARPE AND LAUNTON RINGERS ON RADIO

Mr. Frederick Sharpe, who is holidaying with Mrs. Sharpe in Oban, figured with his Latunton ringers in "Home this Afternoon." a Home Service feature. on July 15 th. Interviewed by Mr. Bruce Mayne, Mr. Sharpe gave a talk on bells and his experiences in examining bells for his books. ("Herefordshire" is in hand.) The oldest inscribed bell in the country, at Cacversfield. was rung, and also a touch of Sterman Doubles at Launton by J. W. Ancil 1, F. Sharpe 2, J. Marriott (82. former churchwarden) 3. Mrs. B. J. Steeples 4, D. B. Coggins 5, G. Gregory 6.
Mr. Sharpe's handhell ringers also appeared in the oropramme-being limited to "The Flower Carol." The ringers were Messrs. E. J. Fvans. P. C. Allen. F. Shame, the Misses A. Ince, R Tavior. Elizabeth Sharpe. Mrs. B. J. Steeples and Mrs. F. Dodds. It was a programme that with advantage could be extended to 30 minutes.

ROYAL VISIT TO CHRISTCHURCH PRIORY, HAMPSHIRE

On July 15th H.M. the Queen, accompanied by H.R.H. Prince Philip, paid a visit to Christchurch Priory during a tour of South-West Hampshire.
The Vicar, the Rev. Leslie H. Yorke, conducted the Royal Party on a short tour of the Priory, and Her Majesty and Prince Philip signed the visitors' book and autographed photographs before leaving.
The 12 bells were rung by the Priory band of ringers at intervals during the Royal visit. and in the evening eight members rang a quarter peal of Grandsire Triples to mark the occasion.

SILSOE GUILD'S LONG DAY

WARWICKSHIRE, Staffordshire and Shrop shire were visited by Silsoe Guild of Change Ringers on July 2nd, when the high standard of organisation was again upheld de spite involving a 6.30 a.m. start.

The eight bells at St. Nicholas', Nuneaton, provided a good start 10 a fine day's ringing. Before lunch there was also a good 45 minutes' ringing on the easy six at Si. Augustine's, Rugeley.

A splendid lunch was arranged at the Barley Mow Hotel, after which we proceeded to Lilleshall. We were most impressed by the condition of the beautiful church, so well cared for and obviously loved by the worshippers. The countryside around it is some of the most beautiful and left some of us longing to revisit it at some future date Here Mr Arthur Rowley joined us and the ringers were glad to have him with them.

Due to a traffic holdup we were five minutes late at St. Leonard's, Bridgnorth; the tower was locked, the Rector had gone out and there was no ringing. This was a pity as the timing throughout the day was perfect, due to Mary Mann's navigating and a good driver! Tea was arranged at Bridgnorth and then we went on to St. John's, Henley-in-Arden, where the day's ringing was concluded. The captains for the trip were R. Piron, T. P. Harris, R. J. Sharp and R. Ward.

We all appreciated the restfulness of this tour, and it would have been a pity to "rush " through some of England's most lovely scenery. Thank you, Mary and Colin Mann and Des Brazier, for all you did, and our thanks to the incumbents and all who welcomed us. And thank you, "singers," who sang us safely home in the early hours of Sunday. A splendid outing, long to he re membered.

OBITUARY

MR. J. W. COLEMAN

With deep regret we report the death of Mr. John W. Coleman on July 12th under tragic circumstances. It was the immediate result of an accident at the construction site on which he was working.

John learned his ringing at Cobham, Kent, and later, while at Nottingham University, put his experience to good use in advancing the progress of others. Master of the Nottingham University Bellringing Society for two consecutive years, John worked hard both to teach learners and to encourage the ringing of more advanced methods. During his travels around the country to attend meetings and dinners he made many friends and his death will come as a sad blow to them all.

The funeral service, attended by his familv, ringers and friends, was held at the Notting ham Crematorium on July 19th. E.S.

A PIONEER AMONG WOMEN RINGERS

Mrs. Albert E. Lock: A Memoir

KATHLEEN LOCK (Mrs. A. E. Lock) was a daughter of the late Mr. H. Holifield of Abingdon and a member of the famous Holifield family of Appleton. She learned to ring at Appleton about 1908 and became an unattached member of the Oxford Diocesan Guild in 1909. Although sh; rang regularly in Abingdon with her father and brother, there was at that time an unwillingness to elect the very few women ringers to membership of local bands. Kathleen Lock was one of the few women ringers at that time in the Oxford Diocesan Guild and the only one in North Berks. She rang her first peal at Drayton, Berks (Parker's Twelve Part), on Easter Monday, 1913. Five Holifields took part in that peal including G. Holifield, snr. Among the band was her future husband A. E. Lock and G. Caudwell, who remained a close friend of them both until his death in 1960 .

In 1913 the local Press records that on Christmas Day the ringers of St. Nicholas' Church, Abingdon, presented "Miss K. Holifield with a gold brooch in appreciation of the regular way in which she had assisted them in ringing for divine service. . . . The hope was expressed that she would long continue to assist them in the belfry." Little did those ringers know that the long period of 57 years of devoted service was to be given to St. Nicholas' belfry . . . service only to be curtailed by death.

During the First World War (in 1916) Kathleen Holifield married Albert E. Lock, a member of a well-known family of master stone-masons and there began a great ringing partnership which only ceased with his death and which still today continues to bear fruit. Between the years 1921 and 1932 the Locks began to build the foundations of the North Berks Branch of the O.D.G. By systematic teaching and regular visits to local practices the art of change ringing was fostered by them both; yet never did they lose sight of the prime purpose for ringing-the call to worship. By 1933 twenty-four out of the thirty towers in the area had full Sunday Service bands.

By their hospitality, which was always open-handed, their love of young people and their willingness to help, they built up a Branch with a strong tradition of service ringing. a high standard of friendship and loyalty and withal capable of peal ringing in the standard methods. Even today many of the towers within the Branch can raise a Sunday Service peal band. In all this Kathleen Lock not only supported her husband but also acted as his chauffeur, for love of driving a car was her second great interest (she was one of the first women to drive in the area).

Throughout her husband's secretaryship of 38 years she rang several nights a week in local towers and also represented the Branch for 35 years on the Guild Committee. After his death she continued to do this and also helped the Culham College Society from its foundation until illness curtailed her active ringing. Even then she would often drive her car to Appleton or Hagbourne to take part in the social side of ringing; also to Radley to allow the local captain to attend practices.

As far as can be ascertained Kathleen Lock rang about 166 peals, chiefly in the standard methods on all numbers, but she had peals of Bristol, Cambridge and Superlative to her credit. Kathleen is believed to be the first lady to ring Kent Treble Bob Royal and Maximus. She was a member of the Ladies' band which attempted the ladies' peal at Twyford, Berks, on Easter Monday, 1914. This peal came to grief in the fourth part. With her husband she was a member of the peal band which met regularly immediately after the 1914-1918 war, building up Major ringing in the Oxford Diocese. Both of them were also in the band which met regularly during the 1930s under the leadership of Mr. W. F. Judge and which laid the foundations for the spliced records which came after the 1939-45 war.

Throughout her life Kathleen Lock was a devoted member of the congregation of St. Nicholas', Abingdon, and continued to attend services there until the fatal complaint. which had been "held" two years before after five months in hospital, began its final attack. Throughout her life she proved to be a good companion, a loyal friend, showing no pettiness; she showed a keen interest not only in ringing but in cars. the teaching profession (she taught for many years in Appleford), her church where she served on the P.C.C. for many years, the local history of Abingdon, Dr. Barnardo's Home and all the young ringers with whom she came in contact. In her youth she was considered to be very beautiful and throughout her life of eighty years she did not lose this charm and her years sat lightly on her.

Her death came rapidiy at the end at Portsmouth where she was staying with her sister. Her ashes were buried at Appleton in her father's grave beneath the sound of the bells she loved so well. This service was taken by the Vicar of Abingdon. as was the memorial service at St. Nicholas', Abingdon, on Thursday, June 30th, exactly seven years after the death of her husband. A large number of ringers from the North Berks Branch, other Branches of the Guild and the Oxford Society were present, including the Master of the Guild, Canon C. E. Wigg.

Although perhaps by present-day standards her ringing achievements were not great, yet it is due to standards set by women such as Kathleen Lock that the women of today owe so much. Her loyalty, integrity, friendship. love of her dogs and enthusiasm and at the end her fortitude and courage will long be remembered by all those who came in contact with her.

From 16 to 148 Minor Methods in Eight Months

THE most methods yet rung to a peal were achieved at Ashbocking, Suffolk, on July 13th, 1966. This peal grew from rather a bizarre start in October, 1965, when some of the members of the evening peal band in the Ipswich area were talking of a peal in 14 Minor methods for Bob Lester's benefit. After some discussion it was decided that if we were going to have a serious attempt at some multi-Minor ringing during the winter if would be best to start with the 16 basic Treble Bob methods as a base for further expansion. This was arranged for Barking on November 2nd and a good peal was rung but somehow or other Bob Lester had managed to get on to the treble, where he has remained right through to the 148 methods. Our next peal really must be 14 methods for him! A feature of this peal was that only the conductor had rung more Minor methods. Three weeks later another good peal was scored, this time at Ashbocking in 26 methods.

DISAPPOINTMENTS

After a month's break we suffered our first disappointment when an attempt for 32 methods limped to an early conclusion on a cold December evening after one hour. Undeterred, the next attempt, on January 11th, was for 40 methods, and our presumption received its just reward when again the peal was lost in the second 720. However, our confidence was not too shaken and on January 2 th the 40 methods were "in the bag " in 2 hours and 42 minutes. An attempt for 48 methods a fortnight later failed in the second 720 once again, but for the next attempt another four methods were added, and on February 22nd we met for 55 methods at Ashbocking. After 2 hours and 40 minutes' ringing, with two courses of Plain Bob to ring, there were some very long faces to behold when the tenor clapper dropped out.

This disappointment, however, was soon overcome when the next week we rang the peal all over again, this time with the final two courses of Plain Bob included. This peal was not without some drama, as Janet had to ring the second without a stay, which had been broken the previous evening at the iearners' practice. Up to this point the fifth had been rung by Colin Loke, but when the Midland Bank thoughtlessly transferred him to Leighton Buzzard it looked as if 55 methods might be the end of the road.

GEORGE PIPE JOINS BAND

Foolishly George Pipe had casually mentioned an interest in multi-Minor ringing and proved himself very capable of ringing it when from scratch he looked up 40 methods and joined the band in a 40-method peal at Ashbocking on March 15th. A successful run was kept going on April 12th, when 66 methods were rung, again at Ashbocking. This run was brought to a halt on April 26th. however, when P. W. Saltmarsh's 720 in 19 methods was included in an 84 -method attempt. The peal was set up when the ringing would not settle down due to too many mistakes in the new 720 . After spending the evening practising this extent we again decided to increase the number of methods and started to study for an attempt at 100 methods. Our first try for this failed after half an hour, when the classic mistake of putting all our efforts into the first 720 was made and arriving in the second 720 knowing little about it. Again the remainder of the evening was spent in hard practice.

With the Whitsun holidays looming nearer a peal was hurriedly arranged for four days later with Diana Pipe kindly stepping in to ring the treble. We were sorry we could not repay the compliment and ring the peal. but two bells crossed in the fifth 720 after two hours (and 81 methnds). However. another member of the Pipe familv was called in at the last moment on May 25 th and we were very grateful that Jim could come as the

100 methods at last came round in 2 hours and 41 minutes

In retrospect this peal was the turning point of the campaign as the band returned from the Whitsun holidays refreshed and full of confidence for the next step. This confidence received a slight dent after an attempt for 113 methods was lost after 55 minutes, but after another evening's hard practice and after studying two new 720 's recently produced by A. R. Peake and H. Chant, it was decided that two more peals could beat the existing record and with this incentive we went away to study the methods. The first attempt for 134 came to grief in the second 720 but the fact that the new 720 had been rung at the first attempt gave us confidence to go to Barking on June 29th, when a good peal was rung in 2 hours and 52 minutes. With the church in full view of the belfry we were very pleased to see that the Vicar who had to walk across the church to the vestry to collect something, decided to do so as we went into the only three leads of Plain Bob in the peal! After an hour and a half's practice at Henley the attempt for the 148 methods was set for Wednesday, July 13th af Ashbocking. The conductor managed to miscall the peal in the second 720 , but a fresh start was made and the peal was rung in 2 hours and 50 minutes.

EIGHTEEN ATTEMPTS

In the cight months from the first peal, the band met for 18 attempts and nine neals were rung. The total number of methods rung during the attempts was 168 . Three of the attempts were at Barking, for which we are indebted to the Rev. G. A. Reade and the local ringers: the other attempts were at Ashbocking. To Andrew Beckwith, the tower master. and the Rev. H. W. Johnson go our most sincere thanks: no reauest for the bells was refused at all. Luckily the only residents of Ashbocking near enough in the church to he annoyed bv our incessant ringing were the rooks in the elms next to the tower werc the cattle in the adioining meadow.
As the hand have left it to me to write this report they only have themselves to hlame if I have the last word When the first peal was scored I was the only member of the hand in have rune anv multi-Minor ringing at all Tn have achieved 148 methods in eight months reflects oreat credir on the hand's enthusiasm and application. The ringing generallv was of a very high standard and improved with each deal. Janet and Robin Rogers travelled some thing like 40 miles for every attempt, all of which were evening peals. Alice Lester, after having a great deal of trouble putting a blue line to a name in the first 16 methods, made a very fine job of them all at the end. George Pipe, with so many other interests, ringing and otherwise, calling on his time, made a splendid job of joining the band, in effect. at the halfway stage. Bob Lester's steadiness and experience helped a great deal in setting the pace and holding the beat. Last, but not least, I must not forget Colin Loke, whose drive and enthusiasm first got the project under way and who chased the conductor into the slog of learning all those names again!

There are now compositions available to get up to 160 methods into seven extents and we wish good luck to the next band to attempt this. As for our band. we are now going to enjoy what is left of the summer with a clear conscience that we shouldn't be looking up methods!

THE BAND

OUTING

COALBROOKDALE GO OVER THE WELSH BORDER
On July 9th the ringers of Holy Trinity Church, Coalbrookdale. their wives and friends. were joined by the ringers of St. Michael's, Madeley, with their wives and friends. for an afternoon on the Welsh Border.
First stop was at Clun, where the bells were soon going to changes. A beautiful run brought us to New Radnor and then on to Kington. After ringing here, tea was partaken of and the journey continued to Eardisland. where we joined an outing from Wolverhampton A ring on the lovely eight and on to Leintwardine, our last stop. Then the journey home after a lovely trip on a beautiful day. Thanks to all who contributed to its success.
A. S. B.

INCOMPLETE ADDRESSES

A delay of four days occurred recently in through incomplete addresses, by omission of the main postal town. Among the sufferers were readers at Crayford, as Dartford had been omitted. For 14 years we addressed the former secretary of the Central Council without including the word Dartford.

Ladies' Guild Annual Meeting at Exeter

FIRST OVERSEAS MEMBERS ELECTED
HOW thrilled Mrs. Fletcher would have been with the successful annual general meeting of the Ladies' Guild, held at Exeter on July 2nd. Although Exeter is away in the West of England, no less than nine of the Guild's Districts were represented, and the large number of towers open during the day provided ample scope for those visiting the area for the first time. A number braved the Saturday traffic and got to Buckfast Abbey, where Mr. Aubrey Bennett had very kindly obtained permission for the bells to be available. As far as ringing was concerned, however, perhaps the highlight of the day was the rounds rung on the 12 bells of the Cathedral by 13 members of the Guild. Our grateful thanks to the Cathedral band for allowing us to do this (Was it the first time by an all-ladies' band?) We like to think the result justified the attempt.
The Guild service was held at St. Mark's Church, conducted by the curate, the Rev. R Chapple. We were delighted to find that the Rev. J. G. M. Scott was to be our preacher. and would thank him most warmly for sparing time for us in the midst of his busy preparations to move from one parish to another. We expected a challenging address, but we were more than a little startled when he announced his text, not from the Bible but from the Book of Common Prayer-"With my body I thee worship." It may not have been the first time this has been the theme of a sermon to ringers, but it was new to us. and we listened with absorbed attention while Mr. Scott presented an aspect of ringing some of us had not considered before. Altogether it was a memorable service, with fine singing which drew favourable comment from the organist.
Afterwards about 80 ringers and friends gathered for tea, a wonderful spread prepared by Mrs. Chapple and the members of the Mothers' Union at St Mark's Church Hall. No speeches after tea, apart from a very warm vote of thanks from the president (Mrs. Jacqueline King) to all who had contributed to a very successful meeting
At the business meeting which followed members stood in silence in memory of the founder of the Guild, Mrs. E. K. Fletcher. who died on September 29th last year. Much has been written about her since then, and certainly she was outstanding, not only as a ringer but also as an organiser. At Exeter we heard from one of the first members of the Guild, Mrs. E, M. Mitchell, of the Kent District, how Mrs. Fletcher gathered together 40 ladies (which in itself was no mean feat in the year 1912) before she attempted to start the Guild. How delighted she would have been that at Exeter we elected our first member from Australia. Miss Nancy Page, of St. George's. Perth, and two members from the United States of America. Miss Betsy Proctor and Miss Christine Kelsey, from Washington. Mr. and Mrs. P. Staniforth had brought the two latter members to the meeting, and they acquitted themselves well at the various towers they visited. We now look forward to the formation of our first overseas District-will it be in Australia or America?
All the officers were re-elected, with thanks for their services during the past year. Once again the treasurer (Miss J. Beresford) was able to report that income exceeded expenditure. though. with that caution which is the hallmark of a good treasurer. she would not allow us to be self-satisfied with our balance in hand, and all District secretaries are asked to note that the price of badges has had to be raised to 6 s . 6 d .
As a result of the report of a sub-committee appointed last year, it was decided to vary the arrangements for the annual general meeting next year. This will be held at Lincoln. with the committee meeting in the morning, service at noon, followed by buffet lunch, then the business meeting. After further ringing an informal dinner will be arranged for the evening.
The Guild's peal book was on display, and a special vote of thanks was accorded Miss Muriel Reay. whose beautiful lettering gives each peal added significance.
The meeting concluded with a very special vote of thanks to Mrs. P. Burnham, secretary of the Devon District, who had made all the arrangements. One of the Guild's newer District secretaries. Mrs. Burnham had never attended a Ladies' Guild annual general meeting before, but she made an excellent job of it and gave us all a most enjoyable day.

READING UNIVERSITY OUTING

Or the morning of June 22nd, outside Wantage Hall, a party of ringers anxiously awaited the arrival of the minibus which was to take them to Sussex for the day. Anxiety was not quickly dispelled as the minibus was half an hour late, but as permission had not been obtained to ring at Fetworth, the first tower, the late start did not matter.

Arriving at Petworth we found the Vicar was taking a service, so on we travelled up gradually hcightening countryside to Arundel where, after a lot of rushing around, we finally obtained a key. Ringing was fairly cood and touches of Grandsire Triples and Stedman Triples were brought round without much hitch.
Upper Beeding provided the climax of the day-a touch of Bristol Surprise Major, accomplished with the help of a local ringer. A pleasant journey along the foot of the Downs brought us to the anticlockwise ring at Ditchling. where methods included Cambridge Minor, Plain Bob Major and Grandsire Triples. St. Peter's, Brighton, proved to be a great disappointment for no one turned up to meet as with a key. After a meal at a nearby caft we made our way back across the Downs to Hurstpierpoint.
Here ringing was fairly good and a difficult touch of Stedman Triples was successfully brought round by M. G. Ingram, who claimed $h$ : had never called it before! (We all thought different. though!) The last tower of the day, Lower Beeding, proved to be the first ring on steel bells for most of the party, and ringing was not of a good standard despite the easy-going bells.
Our sincerz thanks are extended to incumbents and those who met us and to Fred Scott, who kindly drove the minibus which, to our great surprise, didn't break down as it had done on many occasions before.

PETERBOROUGH CATHEDRAL BELLS
Dear Sir.-Mr. Valentine is quite correct in saying that Peterborough Cathedral bells were rung on Armistice Day, 1918, when Mr. Tom Tebbutt rang the tenor to extents of Grandsire Doubles. They were also rung at the annual meeting of the Peterborough and District Association on August 4th, 1919, as seen in the report in "The Ringing World" on August 15 th, 1919. I rang on each of these occasions.

At the business meeting the Dean said the restoration of the bells was included in a commemoration scheme, which was to cost $£ 20,000$. It was suggested that a light ring of ten should replace the heavy five. The scheme evidently never materialised. - Yours sincerely,
A. RICHARDSON (Mrs.).

LARGEST BELL IN AMERICA

Dear Sir,-I wrote with reference to your article about Messrs. Petit and Fritsen casting a bell for Chicago's First Presbyterian Church, which is said to be the largest bell in the U.S.A.

This statement is incorrect. The bass bell of the Laura Speliman Rockefeller Memorial Carillo:1, at the Riverside Park Church. New York, is much bigger. This bell, cast by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston. of Croydon, is the largest tuned bell in the world. It is, therefore, the largest bell in the U.S.A. This bass hell has proportions of around 19 tons, and is hung for swing chiming (mechanical). As a matter of interest, the bass bells of this carillon in New York can be heard on some copies of the 1812 overture by Tchaikowski. A photograph of the hell can be found in Nicholls' "Bells Through the Ages " and some old copies of the "Encyclopædia Britannica." - Yours sincerely,

JAMES HEDGCOCK.

COURSING ORDER DIFFERENCES

Dear Sir,-Mr. A York-Bramble's article on Stedman Triples ${ }^{4}$ Ringing World," July 22nd, page 478), seems to be based on his idea that my article, to which he refers, is not "aptly named and inclusive." I think possibly that it is not correctly named, hence the inverted commas, but it seems that his definition of "coursing order" indicates that the coursing crder for. say, Cambridge Surprise ought to he 526734 . I don't think this is generally accepted.

Therefore, if one can choose a cyclic order for a method with a position cyclic different from that of Plai.) Bob and name it "coursing order" then the use of these words may equally apply to Stedman in the text in which I have used them. I don't claim that I am right in using the heading "coursing order " in Stedman Triples, but it seems a reasonable description even if it is technically incorrect.

The conclusion reached at the end of his article seems pointless therefore.

As to whether my article is inclusive or not. I suggest that if Mr. York-Bramble read it carefully he would find information in excess of that which he seems to have laboriously repeated. Nevertheless, I would like to see an srticle of this type which is totally inclusive. -Yours faithfully,

DEREK BUTTERWORTH.

THE INFILTRATION

Dear Sir,-A few weeks ago I went to my usual Friday evening haunt, one of our local six-bell towers. It was a tyoical hot June evening. and as I ascended the short spiral stairway it got even hotter and more oppressive. I thought to myself, "Crikey, we've got a crowd here this evening," and sure enough we had- 18 of us packed in a space not as big as our fiont room, and that's not very hig It occurred to me a little later on that there appeared to be a lot more of the fairer sex in the company. There were eleven of them to seven of us.
The following Monday evening 1 went to our eight-bell tower. The position was even worse, the poor male captain was being kicked around by seven females, and for the rest of the evening only had me to support him. Now, sir, all these women around interested me not a little; on reaching home I got a Kent County report out for the year I was elected a member (1925): a quick look, though not perhaps an accurate one, showed that in that year there were 40 ladies listed as members of the Association On going through our latest report I found that out of a total of 1.120 members 391 of them were ladies, over a third.
Surely this infiltration into our belfries is now reaching alarming proportions. Worse, however, is to come-they are even collaring our officers' jobs. In our District Ashford has 11 tower secretaries and two captains Canterbury seven and two, Lewisham three and thiee, Maidstone 10 and nil. Rochester four and nil. Tonbridge six and nil. It would seem that Rochester is so far the most successful in beating off this invasion as regards iower officers. On top of this. the Lewisham District's secretary and both representatives are ladies. Isn't it time a stop was put to all this? One cannot help thinking that perhaps in 50 or 60 years' time (I shall have left the country before then) the sight of a mere male in the belfry will cause as much chatter in the tower and outside as a lady ringer did in the years before the 1914-18 war.
It is not beyond imagination to visualise towers all over the country having only lady ringers, and us men, whose province this has been for hundreds of vears. being scorned even an entrance to the tower. It could happen, you know.
Now. you girls, before you descend on me like a ton of bricks. let me say quickly that I am only leg pulling. All this boloney just followed on auite naturally after my little hit of research. I have manv friends among the ladies. of all ages, and I love them all, bless them We all realise that without them we would he lost. As we say this way. "You can't do anvthing with 'em. on the other hand you can't do anything without 'em." Carry on. girls!
Just one more little point and this is no leg pull. How 1 wish 1 had been born 40 years later.-Yours sincerely,
B. J. LUCK.

AN OFFER TO AMERICAN SERVICE

 MENDear Sir,-I read with special interest Miss Ann Garner's article in "The Ringing World " of July 15th and have written her a letter similar in content to this one, more or less as follows:

As a civilian employee at the U.S. Air Base at Bentwaters in Suffolk, I have explained the intricacies of change ringing to many interested Americans; several have asked me to teach them bellringing while they are over here. Reluctantly I have pointed out that unless they live in or near Washington D.C. it would be pointless to do so.

However, this gave birth to an idea, which I have been working on for several weeks. I hope soon to have published in the monthlv Base newspaper a short article on the develonment of bell- and change ringing in England, and concluding with offering the services of my tower and ringers to any American Serviceman and his family from Washington D.C. who is starting his threeyear tour over here, so that they may take part in our training scheme. I hope to enlist the aid of other active towers in the district and I have written to the Ringing Master of the Suffolk Guild about this
It is to be hoped that our American friends would be able to join the Suffolk Guild and maybe ring a few peals before they return home to become useful members of the Cathedral hand. Washington D.C.
I feel more than certain that a scheme of this nature would, if successful, give rise to other rings being installed in other parts of the United States of America. I always say "Supply the ringers and someone else will supply the bells."-Yours sincerely,

PETER $S$ BEDFORD,
Ringing Master of the Aldeburgh Ringers, Suffolk Guild.

C.C. DEPOT IN AUSTRALIA

Dear Sir,-In the particulars about Mr. W. B. Pitcher, this year's leader of Australian ringers, on page 474 , I read that "Hopes are being entertained that his shop will become a depot for Central Council puhlications in Australia." It may be of interest to your readers to know that thanks to Mr. Pitcher's kind offer to manage such a depot. a consignment of C.C. puhlications is already on the way out to him.-Yours faithfully.

FOUNDER MEMBER OF OXFORD GUILD ?

Dear Sir.-In "The Ringing World " for July 8th (page 448) it was stated that Mr. Frederick Selwyn, of Barkury, celebrated his 95th birthday on June 24th. and it also stated that he was a founder member of the Oxford Diocesan Guild.

Although I have been a member of that Guild for 69 years, I had no idea that one of the founder members was a boy of ten years of age when it was founded in 1881! - Yours sincercly, Carbis Bay.

LOST TWO

Leicestershire ringers were very successful on their tour. Of nine peals attempted seven were scored. The two lost were Cambridge Royal at St. Andrew's, Plymouth (a pair over), and Double Norwich at Appledore, Devon (a miscall).

LETTERS-Continued

 "RINGING WORLD" VIEWED FROM A DISTANCEDear Sir.-May I be permitted to add a few words regarding the current discussion about improving the sales of "The Ringing World " with or without an improvement in the abpearance of the paper?
question whether the officers and committee involved with the newspaper's policy are so near the woods as not to be able to see the trees, so that perhaps a word or two from 3,000 miles away may prove of some value.

Out of some 40,000 alleged ringers in Great Britain, how many do you suppose ever ring peals- 10 per cent.-some, 4,000 . and of these how many ring peals more than once or at most twice a year- three per cent-some 1,200 . Does it not therefore seem hopelessly out of proportion that usually one quarter of the whole paper (including space allotted to advertisements) is given up to the publication of peals and quarter peals?

Has it ever occurred to anyone that beyond the 1,200 "elite" there are some 38,000 ringers, or at worst, I guess some 36,000 ringers who have no interest in peals whatever!! Do these people ever get any pages devoted to their interests-hardly ever!! Why then are you surprised that your sales go only a couple of thousand beyond the peal ringing fraternity? It seems to me that you have to basically decide either to have a newspaper for peal ringers (who can then pay the proper "shot" for its publication), or, alternatively, to have a newspaper for bell ringers and by aiming the paper's interests primarily to them, you can easily double existing sales.
Suggestions therefore are: A whole page for beginners ( 25 per cent. of the whole fraternity are still ringing or struggling with elementary changes).
A regular feature on the elements of con-ducting-a mystery that baffles 90 per cent. of the fraternity.
Regular articles supplied on various subjects which could be classified as "Educational " from which the Education Committee. those now responsible for advice on bell and bell tower maintenance, and so on, should find it their duty to provide material for our newspaper.-Yours, etc..

A. J. M. COLLINS.

Ottawa, Ontario, Canada

Note. - In the first half of the paper, seven pages are generally devoted to reading matter. Peals occupy four pages. quarters $1 \frac{1}{2}$ and notices $2 \frac{1}{2}$ pages. Of the alleged 40,000 ringers, only 10,000 can be regarded as potential readers, including those who glance through the belfry copy. To the others, ringing is a secondary interest-activity being limited to Suncay service ringing. either rounds, call changes or Doubles, and occasional practice. A new series starts this week on Plain Bob, by the only man who has conducted the extent of Majcr. Educational feature articles have been frequent this year (some contributed by Education Committee members). These include ropesight, clapper problems, leading a local company and organising a ringing meeting.-Ed.

OBITUARY

MR. J. W. COLEMAN

AN APPRECLATION
The news of the tragic death of John $W$. Coleman at the age of 21 will be received with deep regret by all those who knew him. With so much in life that was his to achieve. John possibly underestimated his own ability. He was always kindly disposed, polite and modest as well as full of enthusiasm for ringing

Having virtually taught himself to ring, his inspiration built up and maintained a band at Cobham, Kent, while he was still at Rochester Grammar School. It was his enthusiasm which introduced and encouraged my brother and myself in our first steps in change ringing and played a leading part in our method advancement.

He had rung something over 100 peals, including Surprise Royal and Spliced Surprise Major, but it is chiefly for the good humour, eg pulling and the memorable times that he will be endeared to many in Kent and, I'm sure, in Nottinghamshire.
Our sympathy is extended to his parents and family.

MR. E. W. TIPLER

With deep regret we learn that Ernest William Tipler passed away on Friday, July 22nd at the age of 77. "Tip" (as he was known to all the older ringers) had been unable to ring for a number of years as he was crippeld with rheumatism and arthritis. The end came peacefully, however, and he was buried in Lutterworth Churchyard after a service in the church conducted by the Rev. A. B. Pettitt on July 25th.
The local ringers rang with the bells halfmuffled for service on the Sunday following his death and again for half an hour on the evening of the funeral, assisted by three evening of the funeral, assisted ringers from Rugby Parish Church.
The Leicester Guild was represented at the funeral by Mr. B. G. Warwick, the chairman of the Leicester District, and wreaths were sent by the St. Mary's, Lutterworth, ringers Rugby Parish Church and the Leicester Diocesan Guild.
Ernest started ringing in 1908 and rang about 70 peals- 59 were recorded for the old Midland Counties Association and 12 for the Leicester Diocesan Guild. It is believed that he rang in an all "Ernest "peal conducted by his old friend Ernest Morris. In recent years he was made a life member of the Leicester Diocesan Guild
He was probably better known as a composer than a practical ringer and he always kept the writer well supplied with compositions. Others have benefited from his methods. Every annual report of the Leicester Guild contained more examples of his skill as a composer. The writer never had to use a composition twice as he has left quite a number still unrung.

The Leicester Guild and conductors evervwhere will mourn his passing and our sympathy goes out to his widow, son and daughter. May he rest in peace. B. G.W.

MR. FRANK C. CASTELL
St. Agatha's Church, Brightwell, Berkshire, suffered a severe loss by the passing of tower captain Frank Castell at the age of 76. Although he had not been quite himself for some months, the cnd came suddenly on June 19th.
An unassuming man, known to everyone as "Sexton," Frank was part of St. Agatha's, and had been associated with the church since early childhood. Joining the choir when he was seven, he soon turned to ringing, although opportunities for change ringing did not come until 1937.

Never a prolific peal ringer, Frank rang about 50 peals, and had been a ringer for 66 years. He kept no records; ; everything was done in the service of the church. Where he excelled was in teaching beginners, and many hundreds must have received their first instruction from him He was most particular about good handling and striking. and kept his ropes and bells in apple-pie order.
He had been sexton since 1925, and was at least the fourth generation of his family to perform that duty, their unbroken service going back 150 years. He had also been parish clerk for the last 21 years.
At the funeral, handhells were rung over the open grave by A . Webb $1-2$, J. Berry 3-4, M. Bishop 5-6. R. Heyworth 7-8. In the evening 1,260 Plain Bob Minor, with the hells half-muffled, was rung by Susan Heyworth 1 , A. Cope 2. C. Corderoy 3, J. Berry 4. M. Bishop 5, R. Heyworth (cond.) $6 . \quad$ J.O. B.

MR. T. E. MALLARD

"Tom." as he was affectionately known to all in the belfry, had been a bellringer at Warminster for 22 years, having learned to ring at Corsham. He came under the instruction of the late Mr E. F. White. who was Ringing Master at Warminster during the years immediately following the second world war and attained a fair standard of change ringing, but was really known and admired for his outstanding ability as a tenor ringer. The wonderfully even beat he was always able to produce was indeed unique.
He was one of the most reliable members of the local band. being only absent through illness or holidays. During the last year his visits to the belfry for practice had lessened. owing to failing health, but his duties of Sunday service ringing were faithfully and regularly performed until his entry into hospital.
During his membership he had held office as secretary and treasurer of the band, the latter office being held at the time of his death. He had also represented the ringers on the Parochial Church Council and was a sidesman. He leaves a gap which cannot easily be filled. The sympathy of the band goes out to his widow in her sad loss.

WARMINSTER, WILTS.-On July 21st. 1.260 Grandsire Triples: E. C. Shepherd 1, A. Bull 2, J. Phinnen 3. L. E. Hawkins 4, V. Bull 5. E. E. Norris 6, N. G. Knce (cond.) 7, P. Roymon 8, Rune half-muffled in memoriam T. E. Mallard.

THE MASTERY OF PLAIN BOB SIMPLIFIED

By Robert B. Smith, conductor of the peal of the Extent of Bob Major Part I: Introduction, Construction and Ringing the Method

0N May 2nd, 1715, the first-ever peal of Plain Bob was rung. This was a peal of Triples, but was followed ten years later by a peal of Major, on May 26th, 1725. In the ensuing 250 years Plain Bob, on even numbers of bells, has become the most popular of all methods for teaching to learners when they first embark on change ringing. On odd numbers. Plain Bob lacks the vitality and interest created by Grandsire and Stedman, but on even numbers few methods excel the music it produces. Plain Bob is the foundation for all " 'treble dominated methods,' which includes almost every even bell method rung in these times. It is for this very reason that learners should have an intimate knowledge of Plain Bob and its influence on other methods if they wish to become accomplished ringers. This series of articles has been written because it is felt that a complete article from A to Z is required on this method. Much that is included will probably have been said in different ways before, but it is hoped that most people will find something new about this method and its influence on other methods.

CONSTRUCTION AND RINGING THE METHOD

The construction of Plain Bob is quite straightforward and is best explained by first considering "Original Minor" or
Fig. 1 "Plain Hunt," as it is often called. Considering the block of figures Original shown in Fig. 1 it will be seen that Minor the treble proceeds from 1st place to 6 ths place, striking over bells in 123456 the order 24653 and then from 6ths 214365 place back to Ist place (lead), striking 241635 over bells in the order 24653 once 426153 again, Here we have the first rule 462513 for ringing Plain Bob even before 645231 we consider the question of 654321 "dodges."
563412 Rule i. Always pass the bells in 536142 the same order when hunting from 351624 last to first position as when hunting 315264 from first position to the back.
132546 During the time taken by the 123456 treble to proceed out to the back and returning to lead, each of the other bells has proceeded either
(a) Out to 6ths position, in to Ist position and back to its original starting position, or (b) In to Ist position, out to 6ths position and back to its original starting position.

On closer inspection one will see that odd numbered bells have started by moving out to Gths position, and even numbered bells have started by moving in to 1st position.
Rule 2. Odd bells move out to start; even bells move in to start.
In the early stages of change ringing one is often advised not to remember all the numbers but to remember the position in which one is striking. For example, the person ringing the treble on its second blow at the back should remember that the bell is primarily in fths place and only incidentally striking over the 2nd bell-it could equally well be any, other bell if some "bobs" and/or "singles" have been called.
To return to our original theme, however, we see that there is a regular pattern to the order in which the bells have been followed by the treble, i.e. starting from the smallest even bell (2nd) to the largest even bell (6th), then from the largest odd bell (5th) to the smallest odd beil (3rd), if we exclude the treble for the present time. This pattern becomes more pronounced with a greater number of bells, and on eight bells would be:
$2,4,6,8,7,5,3$ (1).

Having now considered Original Minor, we should study how Plain Bob Minor differs

Fig from this method (See Fig 2) Comparing the two blocks of figures shown (Figs. 1 and 2), we see that they only differ in the last row (or change). Instead of 6ths place being made as the 135264 treble leads full, 2nds place is made. This forces the other bells to take one step back from the direction in which they were moving, before continuing in that direction. This procedure is referred to as dodging, and each bell involved in this stepping back process is said to dodge.

Referring once again to the figures, and in particular to the row 135264. one observes that no bell, other than the treble has refurned to its own original position. If the block is repeated a further four times (five in all) the figures return to 123456 after a total of 60 changes instead of 12 in the case of Original. Each of these five blocks is called a lead, and the row when the treble leads at backstroke at the end of a lead is called the lead end. The complete block of five leads is called a course.

THE PARTS

1. Constructing and Ringing the
2. The Effect of Calls.
3. Conducting the Method.
4. Composing and Compositions,
5. Plain Bob on Handbells.
6. Composing for Handbells.
7. Influence on Other Methods.

At the first lead end it will be observed that the 3 rd bell is in the position occupied by the 2 nd bell at the commencement of changing and the 3 rd bell now rings the block which the 2nd bell rang in the previous lead. Similarly, the 2 nd bell is in 4 ths position at the first lead end, and then rings the block which the 4th bell rang in the previous lead. The importance of knowing where each bell starts cannot be overstressed and will be referred to again later

Throughout the 60 changes comprising the plain course of Plain Bob Minor the treble, of course, is plain hunting (i.e. 1st place to 6ths place and back again). It will be remembered from considering Original that the treble passed the other bells in the order 24653 on the way out to fehs place and in the same order when moving back from 6ths place to lead. The only effect which Plain Bob Minor has on the treble's order is to move the last bell in the order to the first position in the order. as indicated below :

2nd lead, treble passes 32465 , etc.
We considered earlier what basically happens on an "inside bell" (i.e. any other bell than the treble) in the plain course of Plain Bob Minor. However, many people prefer practical guides until they are able to see or hear the treble leading, so that they know when to dodge. Two methods of knowing when to dodge are usually practised.
First method. This involves remembering the order or cycle in which dodges occur. each bell starting from a different place in the cycle. At the end of the first lead the 2nd bell dodges $3-4$ down. the following lead 5-6 down. then 5-6 up, followed by 3-4 up, and finally makes 2 ads .

To aid the memory further still, two types of diagram may be used. The first is merely putting the written word in diagrammatic form as shown below in Fig 3.

The second type of diagram is constructed by drawing a line through the path followed by each bell, which is a gond "shorthand" way of writing methods down, as shown in Fig 4
Fig. 4. The "Blue-line" of Plain Bob Minor.

Second method. An equally reliable guide is to associate the position of passing the treble with a particular dodge, as follows:
(a) Pass treble crossing from sths to 6ths position. dodge 3-4 down.
(b) Pass treble crossing from 4 ths to 5 ths position, dodge 5-6 down.
(c) Pass treble crossing from 3 rds to 4 ths position. dodge 5-6 up.
(d) Pass treble crossing from 2 nd to 3 rds position. dodge 3-4 up.
(e) Pass treble crossing from 1st to 2nds position, make 2 nds and lead again.
This method, of course, relies upon the treble being in the correct position, and this method is not recommended if a learper is ringing the treble.

BARNSLEY DISTRICT SOCIETY

The monthly meeting of the Barnsley and District Society was held at Royston on July 9 th. The ringers were made very welcome by the Rev. Mr. Webb, who took an active part in the ringing with learners and accomplished alike.
After cups of tea in the Church School the Vicar presided at the meeting. A committee meeting on July 29th at the Clarence Hotel, Barnsley, was decided.
Evensong was attended by most of the ingers present, after which ringing continued until 8 p.m.

WARMINSTER IN WEST SURREY

Warminster bellringers' annual outing was on June 18th. In tine, sunny weather, which seems to be reserved each year for this event, the party, with friends from Malmesbury, Trowbridge, Melksham, North Bradley and Corsley, left Warminster at $9.30 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$. en route for Guildford, where most of the day was to be spent.

Arriving at the new Cathedral of the Holy Spirit-which is approached from the By-pass at Guildford, and is a wonderful sight - we were met by Mr. Pearson (now happily recovered from his illness), with his wife and daughter, who conducted us to the belfry, where the fine ring of ten bells (tenor 30 cwt .) was much enjoyed Lunch was taken in the Cathedral grounds, the catering of Ern and Mary (Mr. and Mrs. E. Norris) being well up to their usual high standard. Lunch over, we prousual high standard. Lunch over, we proat Stoke-next-Guildford ( 6 , tenor 7 cwt .) on the way and, leaving the ladies to their shopping, three towers in Guildford were visited on foot: Holy Trinity (8, tenor 23 cwt.), St. Mary's (6, tenor 15 cwt .) and St. Nicolas' (10. tenor 22 cwt .), where our efforts met with praise from the local representative who met us.
Taking our farewells of David Tubb and Carolyn White, we re-entered the coach, Haslemere and tea being our next objective. This over and the chores finished, we again set sail. with the Pearsons in attendance, to Petersfield (8, tenor 16 cwt .)

After saying farewell to Mr. and Mrs. Pearson and Catherine we headed west, through Winchester, watching the sun setting as we went, and noting the "Fawley Flares" in the distance. Reaching the well-remembered spot above Stockbridge, supper was eaten and the "last rites" were performed. This done, sights were set for home, the journey through the "Wallops" being accomplished without incident, and a tired but happy party arrived home at about 11.15 p.m.
Ringing was of a high standard all day, thanks. in some measure. to our guests, methods from rounds to Cambridge Surprise being rung. Thanks are due to incumbents, Mr . and Mrs. Pearson (who arranged the visit), our guides in Guildford. Mr. and Mrs. E. Norris and lady helpers for our lunch. and a patient coach driver. N.G.K.

BROMLEY'S DAY AT TAYLOR'S FOUNDRY

The 18 Bromley ringers and friends from Hayes. Chislehurst and Bexley who made the 140 -miles journey to Loughborough on June 25 th to visit the bell foundry of Messrs. John Taylor and Co. unanimously agreed that it was well worth travelling that distance. Mr. Paul Taylor was waiting for them and personally took them on a conducted tour, explaining all that went into the casting of Taylor bells and frames, wheel-making and tuning. Kate and Andrew Macve, from Buxton, joined the party for the day. The lovely little bells were rung under the guidance of Tony Lewis. the Ringing Master for the day

A pienic lunch followed before ringing on the pleasant but none-too-easy ring at Ruddington. A salad tea followed at Southwell before ringing on the glorious Taylor 12 at the Minster. More Taylor bells were enjoved at Newark (10), where local ringers joined us.

Ringing throughout the day had been very good considering that 85 per cent. of the hand had never rung on 10 or 12 before. Well done!
Methods rung included Cambridge Major, Stedman Caters and Little Bob Royal. the best ringing being a course of Cambridge on the hack eight at Southwell and Stedman Caters at Newark.
Our sincere thanks are exnressed to Mr. P. L. Taylor and also to Mr. Foster for making the arrangements, and Sheila Copping for secretarial duties.
T.L.

MR. DAVID OSENTON MARRIED
Many Kent ringers and friends made their way north for the wedding on June 18 th of Mr . David $S$. Osenton, representative for the Rochester District on the Kent County Association Committee, and Miss Margaret A. Nurse, of Holbeach, Lincolnshire, at the Baptist Church, Long Sutton, Lincs.
The ceremony was conducted by the Rev. C. Leslie Evans and the Rev. Howard North. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a full-length princess line gown of white duchesse satin and a three tier waist-length veil held by a headdress of white satin rosebuds and lilies of the valley. She carried white orchids and white roses, and she was attended by two bridesmaids and two pageboys. The bridegroom's brother, Mr. Christopher T. Osenton, was best man.
The reception was held at the Bridge Hotel, Sutton Bridge, and was attended by some 90 guests. After the speeches a touch of Grandsire Caters was rung on handbells by the band, which had previously rung a peal in the same method at the hotel for the occasion. The peal attempt at Pinchbeck by seven friends from Kent and one from Holbeach was halted when a rope broke after 50 minutes, but a peal at Trumpington, including more Kent ringers, was successful

NO LONGER UNRINGABLE

For some considerable time there has been a rumour among Essex ringers that the five bells at St. James', West Tilbury, were unringable, but very recently an opportunity arose to dispel these rumours and to prove that the silence of these bells arose only from lack of ringers and the application of a spanner to various nuts on the bell frame. (Owners of "Dove's" please note!)

As St. John's Church. Tilbury Docks, is closed for rebuilding, all weddings arranged for that church are now held at West Tilbury, and a request frum one couple for the bells to he rung for their wedding inspired the Rev. P. N. Bond. curate of St. John's and Missions to Seamen chaplain, to obtain the church and tower key and investigate the possibilities.
The tower was rebuilt in 1883 and is in good condition, as is the wooden frame installed, no doubt, at the same time. The seven cwt. tenor was recast by Mears and Stainbank in 1953 and rehung on ball bearings, and the fittings of the other four, cast by assorted founders from the 17 th century onwards, seem to be contemporary with the frame and in quite good condition.
After adjustments to ropes (and repairs to the Ellacombe chiming system) the bells were raised singly and went very well, although there is some unnecessary frame movement near the third, which, it is hoped, will be cured by the judicious application of a spanner and penetrating oil!
A band was gathered from Orsett and Fobbing towers (including Mr. A. Reeve from the latter tower, who is now over 90), and the bells raised on the afternoon of July 23 rd. Rounds and call changes, as well as touches of Grandsire Doubles. were rung. to the joy of two of the remaining West Tilbury ringers who were present, and the " go " of the bells was found to be very good considering their long period of disuse. The happy couple expressed their joy in having bells for their wedding. and it is hoped that the bells may now be rung more frequently.

Thus the rumours of yet another "unringable " have been dispelled: the frame does need tightening, and it is hoped to carry out this work very shortly. Meanwhile, any outing parties wishing for a short ring at West Tilbury, on a very pleasant toned light ring of five, would, I am assured by the Rector and churchwarden, be welcomed: intending visitors should contact the Rev. intending visitors should contact the Rev, House. Dock Road. Tilbury. Essex (Tel. Tilbury 2080). who can make the necessary arrangements. Just a note-the bells are a Eround-floor ring. with a rather long draught of unguided rope, but are quite easy to handie!

BELFRY GOSSIP

The length of the quarter peal at St. Laurence's, Reading (page 453), was 1,200 changes and not as printed.

Will Mr. T. Taylor, whose last address was 24, Matlock Road, Ambergate, Derbyshire. please send his new address to the Editor. His copy of "The Ringing World" has been returned, marked "Gone away."

The ringers of the peal of Minor at Wragby On July 23rd would like associating with the peal the name of Irvin Slack, who was unable to take part due to a minor accident while at work: and also to thank Alan Newbould for standing in at very short notice.

Members of the Clerical Guild rang a quarter peal at Mapledurham, Oxon, on July 25th in honour of the birth of iwin sons (Giles and Patrick) to the Rev. and Mrs. E. B. Wood, and the birth of a son (Nicholas John de Bailleul) to the Rev. and Mrs. C. R. C. Coussmaker.

CORRECTIONS

Location of peal on page 468 in issue of July 15 th was Birstall, not Drighlington.Correspondent's apologies.

Peal at Cranford (page 482) was rung as a 25 th wedding anniversary compliment to Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Venn, and not a 21st.

In the peal at Warnham, Sussex, on May 28th (page 400), the conductor was Christopher T. Osenton, and not as shown.

CITY OF LONDON FESTIVAL PEALS

It was almost a year ago that Jack Phillips conceved the idea of doing what was done on Saturday, July 23 rd -that is, in connection with the City of London Festival, the College Youths should ring three peals of Stedman Cinques at St. Michael's, Cornhill, St. Mary le-Bow and St. Giles'. Cripplegate. all starting at the same time. In February he started work on the somewhat formidable task of arranging the bands for this. Anyone who has done any peal organising will know that it is not always easy to get 12 ringers for one peal, and when you are getting, 36 ringers for three peals it is quite something.

However, the organisation was successfully accomplished. and on July 23 rd the 36 ringers all duly arrived. The writer had suggested that all 36 should assemble at St. Paul's and march through the streets of the City with the steward at the head bearing the mace but unfortunately this suggestion was not accepted.

For each peal the composition was to be the same, one by John Chilcott being selected It had also been hoped that all three peals would start at the same time. 3 p.m., but unfortunately the late arrival of one member prevented this.

However, by 3.10 p.m. all three peals were under way, and the City. on the last day of its Festival, was alive with the music of Stedman Cinques. As all three peals were successfully rung, there is nothing to report about the actual ringing. By ten to seven silence had descended ance more on the City, and the ringers, with their wives and friends. were gathering in the Lord Raglan for suitable refreshment after a warm afternoon's work. and happy in the knowledge that this unique attempt had met with complete success.

It is perhaps worth noting that besides all the ringers being members of the Ancient Society of College Youths. they are nearly all regular ringers in London.

LOUGHBOROUGH UNIVERSITY

The peal at Loughhorough Parish Church on July 14th was specially arranged and rung for the installation of Sir Harry Pilkington as the first Chancellor of Loughborough University. Sir Harry came to hear the start of the peal. the ringers of which included two graduates from Loughborough and the president. secretary and treasurer of the Leicester Diocesar Guild. The ringers were wined and dined in a manner befitting the occasion after the peal (hread and cheese had been threatened for failure). A peal board is to be erected to commemorate the event.

TO SINGAPORE

A loss to English ringing will be the denarture next September of Miss Alice E. J. Lester, of Needham Market, Ipswich, to Singapore. She is going to teach at the British Army Children's School for two vears. Her friends in the Old Country wish her manv happy experiences at Singapore despite the inability to take part in record peals. Last week we recorded that Miss Lester was a member of the band that rang at Ashhocking 148 methods of Spliced Minor. the greatest number of methods yet rung to a peal.

A CAMBRIDGESHIRE FIVE TO BE RESTORED

The heavy five at Isleham (Cambs) are to be restored. Arrangements are being made for them to go to Loughborough in November.

The bells, a minor ring in $F$ (tenor approx. 25 cwt .), are to be rehung in a new frame, with the possible addition of a treble. None of them are to be recast or retuned as it is intended to retain the character of the ring described by Raven in "The Church Bells of Cambridgeshire" as "unusually grand, of deep and solemn tone."
The third bell is 500 years old, treble and second 450 years, the fourth was recast in 1819 , and the tenor was cast by John Darbie in 1680 . About 100 years ago the tower fell down, but not one of the bells was broken, and it was when the tower was rebuilt that the bells were rehung in the present unsatisfactory frame, which has been the cause of the trouble.

A LOSS TO TEMPLECOMBE

The quarter peal rung at Templecombe on July 16 th was a farewell compliment to Mrs. Daphne Howcutt. who is moving to Tilehurst, near Reading. She will be greatly missed at Templecombe, where she has rung for many years. She was one of the original members of an advanced methods band formed in the area some 18 years ago, chiefly through the efforts of the well-known blind ringer, Mr. F. J. Hazzard. He did not feel fit enough to ring in the quarter peal, but was present in the tower and checked its progress and the correctness of the calls. The ringers were hospitably entertained afterwards by Mrs. Howcutt arrd her parents. Mr. and Mrs. Webb, and they wish her all happiness in her new home.

FARMER GOING TO AUSTRALIA

Members of the Southwell Guild and surrounding Districts will be sorry to know that Mr. C. W. Towers has sold his farm at Thrumpton and is emigrating to Australia. He was a member of the Midland Counties (Loughborough District). then joined the Southwell Guild after the war.
His uncle. Mr. A. Kingsbury, taught him to handle a bell, and for many years he rang at Thrumpston, Kingston and Barton. His last tower was St. Peter's, Nottingham.
Best wishes, Charles, from all your ringing friends.
S. A.

LAVENHAM RINGFRS VISIT

 LINCOLNSHIRFLavenham ringers, wives and friends held their annual outing on July 1 6th. ringing at five towers in Lincolnshire-Fulney (8). Pinchbeck (8). Ewerhy (10), Bicker (8) and Donington (8). Methods ranged from Plain Bob to Cambridge Surprise, and lunch and tea were served at the Red Cow Hotel. Donnington. Home was safely reached at 10.30 p.m. The ringers thank. through "The Ringing World." the incumbents and towerkeepers for their help in making this outing such a great success, also Mr. A. J. Haynes, the organiser.
M. T. S.

ALE FOR THE RINGERS :

The neal at Castor. Northants. on July 9 th. the first on the bells in the village for 13 vears. caused many favourable comments in the village. One of the churchwartens exnressed his mleasure at what he described as a "fine ring" by leaving a $£ 1$ note for the ringers to buy some ale !

STANLEY GETS AROUND

Nearly 40 years ago 1 climbed the steps of Earl Soham belfry in Suffolk to watch the ringers, and before I could get out again the late W. G. Crickmer had pounced upon me and suggested that I come up one night to learn to pull a bell with the tongue tied. Being interested 1 did so and that was the beginning. To his credit, although he had not much patience he had perseverance, and my word he needed it. I must have nearly broken his heart but in the end I was ringing Plain Bob Minor "inside." We used to go on our bicycles to Worlingworth, Wilby, Badingham, Framlingham and Monk Soham.

The years rolled by; I married and went to live at Hemingstone and joined the band at Henley, the home of the great Rev. W. C Pearson. Here several young ringers were taught but no great progress was made, but at least these people knew how to ring a bell and. like myself, I think that some day they will want to ring again. Then came Howard Egglestone and a new era dawned. Somehow he had a gift for getting the message across and in about a year 1 rang my first peal-Plain Bob Major "inside" for "my silver wedding. When I read of the time they had I got that sneaking feeling that I would like to see for myself. I realised that these were ringers out of the top drawer and I wondered what they would think of me.

Well ! here I am, and the towers I have collected on the way include St. Mary's, Woodstock, Cape Town, and in Sydney, Australia, St. Andrew's Cathedral. St. Mary's R.C. Cathedral. St. Mark's, Darling Point, St. Jude's. Randwick, St. James', Turramurra, and St. Paul's, Burwood. Wherever I have visited I have been made most welcome. The bells (I am not an authority on this point) range from good to indifferent, but there are always young ringers wanting to ring, while I am sure the ringers at St. Mary's R.C. Cathedral would welcome some new ropes.

There is one point I am clear about, and that is the state of the belfries here; they are well kept, with carpets on the floor and even washbasins, while the majority in England are a disgrace. It's about time that old coconut matting went out and something decent put on the floor. Ringers here are longing to come to the home of ringing ("Ringing World," July 15th): one is coming before I return: she was picking out towers from "Dove's i, tonight Make it "home" for them when they come. I must say these Australians are gluttons for punishment: we heve had punctures. broken ropes, lost quarters. the lot. and still they come up for more. Among the ringers I have made many new friends. Thank you Australia. Thank you Australians, I did not deserve it.

To all my friends in the South East, Suffolk, District. especially Henley, St. Mary-le Tower, Ipswich, Offton and Bramford; greetings and thank you for your good wishes. I shall soon be on my way to New Zealand. where I hope to ring, and so continue to send a message round the world, a message of love and goodwill. On mv return 1 am gning to try to make our bells and helfries like they should be-"Home " for the ringers of the world.

NOTTINGHAM UNIVERSITY INVADE DERBYSHIRE

GATURDAY. July 2nd, dawned bright and clear for Ted's Tour, or, more properly, invasion of Derbyshire. We announced our arrival in Derbyshire by ringing Stedman Yorkshire, Kent and Plain Bob at Matlock. With a temporary pause to retrieve a lost ringer, we sailed on to Youlgreave to ring the heavy eight there for a pleasant half-hour, adding Grandsire and Bristol to our repertoire.

Our stalwart party had already decided to walk to Bakewell and had sent the coach on ahead to forestall any waverers. John and Dave. however, in need of a dinner and deciding that discretion was the better part of valour promptly hitched a lift. Everyone assembled in due course and the party (now numbering the traditional 13) set off for Eyam. This did not prove $t 0$ be the worst catastrophe to befall the village since the plague of 1666 for some fine ringing was achieved, including a speedy touch of spliced Kent, Cambridge and London. Hope was our next stop, where we gatecrashed a flower festival to ring Grandsire, Yorkshire, Stedman and Spliced.

Officially, the day's ringing was now concluded, but we set off to Castleton, having received no reply to a written request to ring, and successfully grabbed the bells. The variegated sallies-locally made we were told-and the curious tone of the bells provoked a good deal of comment. The day was brought to a close with John left to splice the sixth's rope, it having broken when caught-perhaps with too much enthusiasmin Queens.

Our target for the night was a youth hostel Ted, Derbyshire born and proud of it. took one half on the picturesque route. while the rest. ably led by Boh. took a direct route over hill and dale. Fortunately all arrived safely and. after an overnight stop, we walked again to Tideswell to ring Stedman. Grandsire and London for the service. Staying :o the service, we were treated to the unusual spectacle of morris dancing halfway through "All things bright and beautiful."

It was a very pleasant week-end to round of the term. D.R.McL.

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO ALL MEMBERS OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL

The opinion has already been expressed that insulficient consideration was given at Bath to fixing the date of the 1967 meeting. This opinion is being justified as it is becoming known that many people will have to work on the day appointed for the meeting.
In order to ensure the success of the meeting It is very desirable that the Council should take the unusual step of reconsidering the arrangeInent. Will every member therefore write to me before August 23 rd to advise which of the following dates is most convenient for the Council meeting

> Saturday, May 27 th ,
> Monday, May 29th,
> Tuesday, May 30th.

Members to whom the date is immaterial shou'd indicate the fact
1 shall report the outcome to the Standing Committee for that body to decide in consultation with the Southwell Diocesan Guild whether to change the date of the meeting. The Standing Committee's decision will be announced immediately in "The Ringing World."
This notice is published with the concurrence of the President

1 must emphasise the importance of everv member co-operating in this procedure

QUARTER PEAL TOUR OF THE ## PEAK DISTRICT

$0^{N}$the afternoon of July $16 \mathrm{th}, 12$ enthustastic ringers plus an aspiring enthusiast, Roy Stedman Mould. aged four months, left Chesterfield for a quarter peal tour of the Peak District. Under the eagle eyes of four conductors we hoped to gain five quarters.
Everyone set off in good spirits feeling sure that on such a pleasant day and with such "expert " ringers success was inevitable. Eyam was the first stop and everyone settled down well to Kent Treble Bob Minor, feeling certain of success until one person tried to come out of the slow when he wasn't in il! The second attempt had the same fatal result, whereupon we had to content ourselves with a meagre 552.
This cast a slight gloom on the proceedings. but with the hope of better things to come we headed for Great Longstone for Cambridge Surprise Minor The attempt was successful in spite of incurring the displeasure of our infant traveller.
Elated with success we made for Fairfield for a quarter of Plain Bob Major on the fairly light ring of eight. Once again the quarter was gained but the striking was rather ropey. Afte: a short break for tea an attempt for Plain Bob Minor was made at Taxal hut proved unsuccessful.
The final hurdle was Bob Doubles at Chapel-en-le-Frith. Here we rang with gay abandon until confusion at a bob. two extents from home, resulted in our relinquishing all hones of success.
After the inevitable inquiry we proceeded to a local hostelry to drown our sorrows. We world like to thank Edward Mould for arranging the tour, and the clergy and local ringers for allowing us the use of the bells. Details:-
GREAT LONGSTONE, DERBYS.-On July 16th. 1.440 Cambridge Surprise Minor: J. D. Arkwell 1. Ann M. Smith 2, Christine Mould 3. T. Wylie 4. Ann M. Smith 2, Mristine Mould 3.) T. Wylie d. Cambridse 2 and 4 .

HERTS COUNTY ASSOCIATION

The six at South Mimms were the afternoon hosts for the St. Albans District meeting on July 16 th Methods from rounds to London and York were rung before the service, which was led by Father Clare. The tea was held in the Village Hall.
Father Clare took the chair at the business meeting. New members elected were Miss Jean Digby (Tewin), Miss J. Meggy (St. Michael's St. Albans), and Miss Carric Smith (South Mimms) was transferred from probationary to full membership.
The next mid-week District practice is at North Mymms on Wednesday. August 3rd. and, in view of the success of the past practices. it was decided to continue these further. Radlett being added to the list for Sept. 7h.
Under any other business the secretary, Mr Roger Brown reported the resignation of Miss Christine Rimmer from the District Committee due to commitments outside the area. The whole District joined in thanking Chris and wishing her well for her future. A vote of thanks went to Father Clare, to Miss Dodds for playing the organ, and to the South Mimms ringers for the tea.
Evening ringing took place at North Mymms, several courses of Hertfordshire Surprise Major, the special method, being rung

A TEN-YEAR SILENCE BROKEN AT STOKE DAMEREL, PLYMOUTH

THE fair city of Plymouth has within its bounds two historic churches dedicated to St. Andrew. The Mother Church of St. Andrew, with its fine ring of ten bells, is known to many, and the feet of many famous ringers have trodden its tower steps.

Lesser known is the Church of St. Andrew, Stoke Damerel, once the parish church of the town of Devonport, and now part of the ever-growing city of Plymouth. The stocky tower contains a Bilbie six, cast and hung in 1789. The tenor is reputed to be 15 cwt ., is given in "Dove" as x 6 cwt ., but is in fact nearer 13 cwt . These bells have remained silent for nearly ten years, various reasons being advanced as to why they could not be rung.
Some two to three months ago it was decided among members of the Devon Guild to investigate the possibility of getting Stoke bells ringing again. A phone call to the Rector, the Rev. Rex Luckraft, found him most enthusiastic and willing to allow a preliminary examination to be made of the bells and fittings. Furthermore, a band of young "chimers" existed, who were all keen to learn to handle a bell. Accordingly, one Saturday afternoon, dustcoats and overalls were donned and the tower ascended. The reason for the ten-year silence became immediately obvious when it was discovered that the top half of the wheel of the third bell was smashed away. The remaining bells were raised singly and, barring a a crying need for lubrication, were found to be quite ringable and safe. It was recommended that a local firm of builders be approached regarding repairs to the broken wheel, and that new frame bracing rods be fitted to replace the existing rust-eaten ones.
For several weeks no action was taken by the local contractors to repair the broken wheel, although the newly appointed tower captain worked hard, replacing the corroded tie rods and cleaning down and painting all the metal work-not an enviable job in view of the fact that the bells are hung three over three in a very confined bell chamber, and when working on the top tier one is bent double under the low roof of the tower.
During this period of waiting for the completion of repairs, good use was made of the time at the other St. Andrew's Church in providing instruction in bell handling to members of the band-to-be, and remarkable progress was made; so much so, that, after only three lessons, Barry Knight, who will captain the new band, was able to raise and set a bell with quite a degree of confidence.

At last came the news that the contractors had removed the broken half-wheel and, to the writer's amazement, an excited phone call was received by him only three days later to say that the repairs were complete and the bells ready for a try out. Arrangements were made for a team to visit Stoke on the following Monday evening and, just prior to 7.30 p.m., several ringers could be seen converging upon the church. It was with a feeling of excited anticipation that ropes were coiled ready for a rise in peai. After a short prayer by the Rector for the success of future ringing or the bells, the command of "Look to-go" sent the sound we were all waiting to hear out over the surrounding streets and rooftops, breaking the silence of nearly ten long years.

The news of the trying-out of the bells had travelled over the city and several ringers arrived at the church. To the youngsters it was their first visit to Stoke, and for the older ringers many happy memories were revived. During the evening the bells were rung to rounds and methods ranging from Grandsire to Cambridge. A broken rope caused a slight delay, but everyone present had ample opportunity of ringing on these fine old bells. The front four were found to go like tops, whilst the tenors required a little more effort. No doubt regular use will slightly improve the "go" of these two bells. Ringing continued until 9.30 with the young prospective Stoke band as interested spectators. Their captain, Barry, was given the opportunity of having his first rounds at his own tower.
So another silent tower is opened up once again, a programme of training has been drawn up for the new ringers, and if their aptitude matches their enthusiasm it will not be long before Stoke bells are once again regularly serving the purpose for which they were cast. The bells have already been booked for two weddings, and Guild members have undertaken to provide the teams for these occasions and for any special services during the next few months.

Mention must be made of an inspection of the bells carried out some time ago by the Rev. John Scott, and in his exhaustive report he makes many shrewd observations amounting to a complete restoration of the bells, and although inspection of the frame during ringing showed far less movement than Mr. Scott's report would suggest, the church authorities must not lose sight of the fact that the attention of skilled bellhangers should be sought within the next ten years if the interest that has now been kindled is to be kept alive.

- First peal. † First peal with bob bell. This peal was arranged for the ringer of the treble, Miss Alice White, aged 15, eldest daughter of the conductor, and is the first peal on Church bells in which a lady has taken part. Messrs. Blackbourn and Gifford hail from Salisbury; the rest belong to the local band.

TO do something for the first time is always more difficult than to emulate it. It was indeed remarkable that the first lady to ring a tower beli peal should be a girl of 15 ; perhaps it is even more remarkable that, more than 70 years later, she is still alive and able to follow, from her home in Canada, the doings of the present day. There can be few others now with us whose peal-ringing career began so long ago.

Alice White was born at Basingstoke on October 8th, 1880, the daughter of Mr . Henry White, a well-known ringer and instructor. From an early age she used to go with her father to the belfry and when he became steeplekeeper would help him to chime for the daily service. She learned to handle a bell by the age of 11 and by 1893 had qualified for membership of the Winchester Diocesan Guild. Her change ringing was learned by practice on handbells and, said "The Bell News," " on several occasions those of the company who met for Stedman Triples on handbells would have been disappointed had Alice not learned and been able to ring the method!"

HOLT'S ORIGINAL

Her first peal was at her home tower on February 12th. 1896, when she rang the treble to a peal of Grandsire Triples which her father conducted-Holt's Original, no mean feat at any time. Not many would have chosen so difficult a composition for such an occasion. Describing the peal a few months ago to an old friend and frequent contributor to these columns, Mr. William Shepherd, she told how at the time she had to contend with an injured spine, caused by a bull tossing her not long previously. The effects of this were to curtail her ringing career, but before they did she had rung 32 peals, including one of Stedman Caters at St. Nicolas', Guildford. Her first of Stedman Triples was conducted by the Rev. F. E. Robinson, who asked her father if he could do so when she was ready after seeing her ring the method at St. Laurence's, Reading. When the peal was over, she says, he nearly wrung my hand off; good job it was not before the peal!"

In 1920 Miss. White married Mr J. C. Sullivan. At different times they lived in Canada and in this country, but in 1940 they went back to Canada after severe bombing of their home in Sussex. She had a large collection of bells of all kinds, many of which were lost in the bombing, but what she could save she took with her. When she became a resident of the Eventide Home. Galt, Ontario, dent could not take them with her, and they now form part of another collection belonging to a local resident who is a member of the American Bell Association, so they have found a good home. Mrs. Sullivan takes a lively interest in what goes on in the Exercise. "I see Basingstoke rang a quarter of G. Triples," she wrote some time ago, "conducted by one I helped teach handle a bell, Jack Chesterman.'

REMEMBERED AND TREASURED

The doings of lady ringers are of particular interest to her. "The Belles for Bells are increasing in numbers," she commented recently, "quite a few peals with two or more." How many readers of "The Bell News" of the day could have foreseen the time when at least one lady would take part in over half the peals that are rung? Some, at least, doubtless disapproved at the time. "In my early days,' she says. "some of the locals were shocked because I went into the tower with so many men, but father was always with methey turned up their little snub noses at meI wonder what they would think of the present day?" What indeed! But goodness knows how most local bands would fare nowadays without their lady members.

The Editor of "The Bell News" did not share the opinions of the critics. True he thought little of some ladies who were not ringers but he thoroughly approved of the peal. "When we read so much foolishness about what is termed the "new woman" and her athletic (?) pursuits," he wrote, " it is more than refreshing to read of a daughter of the Exercise like Alice White, who by her ingenuity and health-giving practice has put to shame and rebuke those females who, being on what is considered as the wrong side of middle life, have the effrontery to advocate occupations and pastimes for their sex which are repulsive to all true womanly feeling."
"The name of Alice White," he went on, *will long be treasured and remembered by the Exercise. If other young ladies can be induced to enter the practice under similar conditions, it will be a good thing for them." He might have added that it would be a good thing, as it has proved to be, for the Exercise as well. Many of those who have followed Alice White's example have, it is true, accomplished things which she may never have thought possible, but it was she who paved the way. It is right and proper that we should pay tribute to her achievement of 70 years ago and hope that she may continue to find interest in the doings of her successors.
E. A. B.

For the photogaph we are indebted to Mr. W. Shepherd, of Addlestone, who corresponds regularly with Mrs. Sullivan. He writes: "I called a handbell peal with Henry White on 1-2 and Alice White on 7-8 on July 2nd, 1910. and I also rang a tower bell peal with her on September 4th, 1911. With her friend, Miss E. N Belcher, she did instruction work in local towers and did ringing tours in the Guildford and Farnham districts. She was present at the funeral of Florence Nightingale.

NEWBURY DISTRICT OUTING

The highlight of the Newbury District's outing on July 24th, at which seven towers were represented, was at St. Mary's, Taunton. Mr. Farr and his band gave us a wonderful welcome and the Grandsire Cinques will long be remembered; Grandsire Caters also was good.
Ringing started on the good six at Bourton (Dorset), where Cambridge Minor went well. Remembered are Stedman Doubles at Ash, Cambridge Major at Wilton and the anticlockwise six at Charlton-Mackrell, Somerset, where London went well, and there was a drink in the local with the Vicar afterwards.

900th ANNIVERSARY YEAR AT WESTMINSTER ABBEY

THE general public must by now be fairly well aware that this year marks an important anniversary at Westminster Abbey, with many special services and other ecclesiastical, musical and social events. Ringers who live ot work in London, and occasional visitors, will have noticed that the Abbey bells, normally rung on 23 fixed days in the calendar and for a few other special events, have been heard much more frequently during this centenary year. At each service-and there have been many special services, for almost all denominations of the Christian faith-the bells have played their part.
By order of the Dean, these bells are rung only by their own band of eight ringers and the nine authorised supernumaries. An exception was made on Wednesday, June 29th, when the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths was invited and rang an excellent quarter peal of vited and rang an excellent quarter peal of Bristol, heard with great pleasure outside in Bristol, heard with great pleasure outside in the evening sunshine by members of the regular band, who afterwards joined the Dean and Chapter in entertaining the visitors to supper.

Wednesday, July 6th, was a royal and domestic occasion for the Abbey. The Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh accepted the Dean and Chapter's invitation to dine in College Hall. The bells were rung from the time Her Majesty left Buckingham Palace until her entry into the Abbey precincts. Members of the Abbey staff, including. Harold Pitstow, secretary of the ringers, dined with the Queen in College Hall. The remainder of the Abbey community, including ringers and wives, were served with supper in Church House. Afterwards in the floodlit garden on a perfect summer evening everyone forgathered for coffee and to listen to the string quartet and wind ensemble from the Royal College of Music. The Queen and the Duke were in the garden for almost an hour and a number of those assembled were presented.
It was a delightful occasion and perhaps worth putting on record to show that at Westminster the ringers are recognised as full members of the Abbey community. A notable evening such as this is only one among the many kindnesses constantly extended to the ringers by the Dean and Chapter., R.B. M.

SOUTHWELL DIOCESAN GUILD

Mansfield District

The usual bi-monthly meeting of the Mansfield District was held on July 23 rd. Ringing during the afternoon was at St. Edmund's, Mansfield Woodhouse, where an extremely difficult going tenor made for hot work. Nevertheless an enjoyable time was had with plenty of ringing for all.

From 6.30 p.m. ringing was switched to St. Mary Magdalene, Sutton-in-Ashfield. Here rounds and call changes were rung for those learning. followed by touches of Stedman and Double Norwich the former conducted by Mr. J. F. Smallwood, a friend we are always pleased to see. During an ensuing course of Cambridge the tenor noisily shed its clapper, its ringer calling "Stand " from somewhere between the box and a neighbouring doorway.
This unfortunate incident. although calling an untimely halt to the ringing, presented an opportunity to hold the business meeting, during which Mr. E. Sollis, of Teversal, was elected a Guild member Prior to the closing vote of thanks it was announced that the rededication of Eastwood bells would take place on Saturday, August 20th, at 2.30 p.m.
Next meetings: Evening practice, Mansfield, August 20th; Hucknall and Greasley, September 17th.

Week-end Course at Moor Park College, Farnham

THE second week-end course of the Guildford Diocesan Guild was held at Moor Park College, Farnham. Surrey. The company assembled on the evening of Friday, July 15 th. After supper and introduction of the tutors by the Master, the first lecture on tower maintenance was given by Mr. F. E. Collins. A well-known member of the Towers and Belfries Committee, Mr. Collins gave much helpful advice, in particular to the recently appointed steeplekeepers and captains. Several guilty looks were evident when it was suggested that the shape of the wheel is not improved by tying the clapper to it! After the lecture many of the young students found the swimming pool, while their elders listened with great interest to reminiscences of the lecturers
Saturday morning began with a lecture on method construction by Mr. E. A. Barnett ; this was followed by Mr. A. P. Cannon expounding his theories on striking and handling. Many tips for ringers at all stages were offered in the latter. After coffee Mr. Barnett gave the first of three lectures on elementary composition and proof. An obvious master of this subject, he gave extremely clear explanations on all topics. Although a few of the students were "lost " on the way, many gained much from his lectures. and all' realised there is a great deal behind both touches and peals.
Punctuated with many stories and anecdotes from his experiences. Mr. Cannon started the afternoon with a most helpful and interesting lecture on practical conducting. Between lectures by Mr. Barnett, Mr. Collins gave further instruction on towerkeeping, in which he offered much very useful advice on maintaining a new set of ropes, and attempting to cure odd-struck bells Since no lectures were arranged for the evening, everyone took advantage either of the recreations provided or the acres of beautiful grounds surrounding the college. In the late evening, those who decided to rest were continuously interrupted by both wet and dry youngsters en route to the pool!
Holy Communion was held in the College Chapel, before which a course of Grandsire Triples was rung by the three tutors and Alan Elemore. After breakfast, eight cars took ringers to join in service ringing at Ash, Farnham. Grayshott and Puttenham. In the afternoon a forum was held. Mr. Barnett began by briefly describing the function and aims. including most of the committees, of the Central Council. Extra information on the Towers and Belfries and the Biographies Committees was given by Mr. Collins and Mr. Viggers respectively Mr. Cannon appealed for more support for "The Ringing World ": in his view a person who did not subscribe could not be a really keen ringer. After several questions had been answered, the students showed their appreciation of the great efforts by the lecturers.

The feelings of all were well summarised in letter received from one of the older students: "I thought the lectures were excellent: I thoronghly enjoyed the Sunday morning ringing: I liked the accommodation and 1 found the company, in particular the youngsters, charming "

GUILD of DEVONSHIRE RINGERS

Mid-Devon Secretary Resigns

The Mid-Devon Branch held a quarterly meeting at Ipplepen on July 23rd, when the event was well attended. Ringing took place throughout the afternoon to various standard methods, this being followed by a service in church, which was conducted by the Rev. F. M. Buffett (Vicar). Afer a bountiful tea the usual business meeting followed, with Mr. W. G. Levers (vice-president) being voted to the chair in the absence of the Branch chairman. Hearty votes of thanks were accorded to the Vicar, the organist and the Ladies' Committee for the tea arrangements. One resident member and a non-resident member were elected
The Branch secretary (Mr. B. Shingler) announced that he would be leaving the county at the end of the next month, and he tendered his resignation. Mrs. C. Pearson, of Dartmouth, was elected to fill the vacancy until the Branch annual meeting.

Ringing took place at Broadhempston in the evening.
Next meeting: Buckfast Abbey, September 17th, with a visit to Bickington in the evening (subject to permission).

OUTING

ORSETT, ESSEX

Orsett ringers visited North-West Essex on July 16 th for their annual outing. Our first stop was at Dunmow, where the weight of the grand eight was too much for the young band. Stebbing bells proved more within the capabilities of the ringers and we are grateful to the Rector for giving us permission to ring at such short notice. Due to a traffic jam we were late at Coggeshall, and everyone was sorry that we could not have our full time here, as the bells go like the proverbial tops and are a joy both to hear and to ring. After lunch came Little Horkesley and another traffic jam en route. Here we found a member of a band as young as our own waiting to welcome us and we were soon tapping this pleasant five round to call changes and Doubles. Our last tower was at Great Yeldham, where we were the guests of the Rev. and Mrs. Sharpe to tea on the Rectory lawn. With more time at our disposal, we had some of the best ringing of the day, and Bob Minor, Kent Minor and Stedman Doubles were brought round.
We extend our thanks to all incumbents and tower captains and especially to those who so kindly waited for us when we were late. Here's to 1967.

Letters to the Editor

KENT POSTER OF 70 YEARS AGO
Dear Sir,-To say I was astonished when I learned of the discovery of a poster at Bicester advertising a meeting of the Kent County Association at Lewisham on October 17th, 1896 ("Belfry Gossip," page 480) is an understatement. By a remarkable coincidence this was the first ringing mecting I ever attended and where I rang my first touch of Stedman Triples away from home, which caused something of a sensation at the time.

I should never have gone but for the fact I had to have a new suit and was taken by my father beforehand to a noted firm for cheap clothing, Gardiners at Deptford (still in existence), to get it. I have never forgotten that suit; it was my first pair of long trousers!
I have two recollections of the business meeting; the first is of my father being pressed to propose me as a member of the Kent County Association, but I suppose, having paid for a new suit plus my railway fare an extra two shillings was a lot of money in those days; he couldn't afford it, and I had to wait for the next meeting, in January, 1897, to become a member.

The other is of a stormy scene between Mr. Bedwell and (I think) Mr. Thornton, of Greenwich, when one accused the other of calling a peal from manuscript.
May I ask Mr. Kinch to thank the landlady of the Swan for reviving happy memories of Lewisham tower, not least a peal of Kent Treble Bob there in March, 1900. for the relief of Ladysmith during the Boer War!-Yours sincerely,
E. BARNETT.

10, Kings Close. Crayford.

CONGRATULATIONS TO 148-METHOD BAND

Dear Sir,-As conductor of the peal of Minor in 145 methods rung at Ravne on March 25th last, I would like to offer my sincere congratulations to Howard Egglestone and his band on surpassing this with a peal in 148 methods at Ashbocking on July 13th. It is pleasing to see a revival of interest in multi-Minor ringing and. thanks to considerable work in the field of composition by Messrs. H. Chant and A. Peake, it is now possible to ring something in the region of 165 methods in seven extents.-Yours faithfully,

Danbury, Essex
J. E. G. ROAST.

NOT EVEN A BUS THERE

Dear Sir,-An occurence which has often happened to me while on holiday prompts me to ask, who has had a ring in the most towers, using only public transport and their own two feet to get there?
On Saturday, July 9th. while staying at Dawlish Warren, my family went off on an outing, leaving me to find some ringing.
The only meeting in the area was at Huntsham, so I caught a train to Taunton, arriving there at 2.50 , then, armed with a road map and both rail and bus timetables, I set out to find out how to get to this outlying village. I soon found out why the people in the bus offices at Exeter and Taunton had never heard of the place; it had no bus service, and the nearest bus routes or railway were nearly three miles frim it. So I gave up and caught a train back, the long way round.-Yours faithfully Wadhurst.

TEACHERS AND THE NEXT COUNCIL

 MEETINGDear Sir,-Mr. Corby in his front page article of June 24 th makes a number of sug gestions about the date of the C.C. meeting that merit further discussion, if only at next year's meeting.

I wonder, though, just how many representatives will be unable to take part in this dis cussion just because they will be unable to be present at next year's business meeting? Those of us in the teaching profession do, perhaps, have longer holidays than most, but the one drawback is that we have no choice whatsoever in the date of them. Consequently 50 per cent. of the Lancashire Association's representatives will be missing from the business meeting simply because they have to be back at work on the chosen Tuesday. If a number of other Associations are similarly placed, next year's meeting may possibly set up another new re-cord-that of the lowest attendance for many a year!

Perhaps, sir, other representatives similarly placed. or who know they cannot be present for any reason at all, could write in, and if the total number is large the Southwell Diocesan Guild officials might be persuaded to change the day (to the previous Saturday?) in spite of the decision of the last Conference.Yours faithfully. J. P. PARTINGTON.

Rochdale, Lancs
Note.-May we remind all members of the Council to let the Hon. General Secretary know of their preference in accordance with the Notice in our last issue (page 519).-Ed.

" EXTRA ORDINARY"

Dear Sir,-May I thank Mr. and Mrs. Pipe and family for their wonderful co-operation with our valued veterans at Grundishurgh? We can be proud to bring that "little" section of "The Ringing World" to the notice of clergy and any member of the community, also to mention the minimum of 50,000 hours they have devoted as loyal servants to the Church by ringing and singing on Sundays. They have also extended a goor honest hand of friendship to many (including myself) during those years. Perhaps Mr. Pipe will let me know when "they" organise gathering of Suffolk veterans, and don't forget Arthur Grimwood (85). Maybe you will invite me there. too-Yours sincerely.

JOHN EUSTON. (Under age.)

STEDMAN CYCLICS

Dear Sir.-Mr. York-Bramble in his article on Stedman Cyclics has opened up an interesting field in the theory of this principle.
The positional cyclic effect of the reciprocal cross sections. which fall at the divisional partings (which are not to be confused with the reciprocal divisions at the parting sections) may be simplified by a static grouping, which we could call $\mathrm{O}, \mathrm{X}, \mathrm{Y}, \mathrm{Z}$ -
$O$ being the dissected cyclic,
$X$ being the bi-regular cyclic,
$Y$ being the reciprocal bi-regular cyclic,
$Z$ must then obvfiiously be the reciprocal bydissected cyclic.
The very nature of these four groups would place them under the heading of "Parabolic Bi-regular Cyclics."

This would naturally give them certain values, already determined by the previous articles as $7,16.52$ and 34.
Being of. a parabolic nature, we could then cancel these out to 7.5.3 and 1, which greatly simplifies things. Therefore by using the parabolic formula of $\mathbf{Z}$ as the common factor we have placed things in a nutshell.
This would therefore open up an easy path for the learner. as a graph could be drawn out by using $\mathbf{O}, \mathbf{X}, \mathbf{Z} . \mathbf{Y}$, as base line loci.

The resulting curve thus formed, connecting OX and YZ with 75 and 31 , by the loci of the resultant curve, obviously means that the sum totals of being equal, then the locus would have been a straight line. and on this basis the proof of the whole structure becomes obvious.

$\int \begin{array}{ll}\mathbf{O X}_{\mathrm{x}} 31 \\ \mathbf{Y X} & 75\end{array}$

This may be checked against the simple tables of the previous article which connects the work serial numbers with the pair letters. I hope these tabulations will now enable the student of Stedman to approach the calling of the principle with a new heart, hy having the basic theory clearly before him when entering the tower.-Yours faithfully,
R. KENRICK.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Ashford District

$\mathrm{T}^{\mathrm{H}}$HE impressive tower of Aldington looking out over Romney Marsh was flag-bedecked for the District meeting held there on July 23 rd. The service was conducted by the Rector (Canon Frank) and the lesson was read by Mr. A. Ades. of the local band. A wonderful tea was served in the Rectory, the gift of the Rector and the Aldington ringers. to whom a hearty vote of thanks was expressed by Mr. H. P. Yates. After a short business meeting ringing continued until 9 p.m. on the fine six with over 40 ringers taking part. R.J.S.

LEEDS AND DISTRICT SOCIETY

The combined efforts of holidays and World Cup Final took their toll at the Leeds and District Society meeting held at Guisley on Saturday, July 30 th.
Numbers increased steadity throughout the afternoon and ended with 20 at 8.45 p.m., when ringing finished. Most standard methods, including Stedman and Double Norwich, were successfully managed on the very pleasant eight.

An excellent tea was provided, and it was left to the individual member's discretion as to how much was paid.

CHURCH GRESLEY SAMPLE RADNOR'S UNSPOILT BEAUTY

THE borders of Central Wales, and five towers in the county of Radnor, which sparkled with unspoilt beauty in the warm, clear sunshine of July 5th, were chosen for Gresley ringers' first tour for three years and they, together with one Herefordshire tower to finish, provided the making of a most enjoyable car tour for the young team. Simple methods and set changes were rung.
A 90-mile run under Wenlock Edge brought them into the tangled Welsh hills after Craven Arms, and the first tower was at Llanfihangel Rhydithon under the swelling mass of Radnor Forest, which was never far away most of the day. with smiling valleys among its foothills. Here we found a light six by T. Mears with a Gillett treble, on which the 1952 record of five-peals-in-a-day had been performed. Baby hedgehogs were found in the churchyard ' An even lighter five was found at L!anbadarnfawr ( $5 \frac{3}{\frac{1}{2}}$ cwt.), rung from the entrance porch, in which we noticed an old entrance porch, in which we noticed an old Roman inscribed stone and some interesting Norman carvings, and discovered a disused bell in the clock chamber (a treble to make 6?).

Welcome refreshments were taken on the way to Nantmel, a pretty spot set on a green hillside near the Elan aqueduct. A goodtoned six by Llewellyn and James warmed us up. and the friendly sexton demonstrated hymn tunes on the Ellacombe apparatus. We found a good cafe in nearby Rhayader town for much needed ham and chips, and then came a lengthy run in grand scenery to New Radnor, where we found the easiest bells of the day, a bright little six hy C. and G. Mears. The heaviest bells of the day were encountered at Old Radnor, and we enjoyed the tone of this grand ring by Abraham Rudhall. The lonely church is next to the site of a medirval castle and commands a fine view. The Vicar was pleased to see the young ringers and wished they lived near, as his bells do not get the frequent ringing they deserve.
As we had heard that Gladestry bells were unringable, and the remaining ring in Radnor, at Clyro, apart from the two eights, being too distant, we entered the apple orchards of Herefordshire for the last "tower," and a most unusual and interesting choice it was to end the day. The quaint timbered village of Pembridge has a big church but no normal tower. Instead, five heavy bells of fine tone are hung in a strange structure of massive beams like a giant dovecote detached in the churchyard, from which they thunder down on the ringers in a space reminiscent of a tithe barn; a memorable experience. A local ringer, the only one we met all day, said he rang in a peal here many years agoquite an achievement, especially for the conductor.
More beautiful country, a glimpse of the Brecon Beacons 50 miles distant. and a magnificent "patchwork quilt" of the Clee Hills, were highlights of the run home, which was reached at the early hour of $8 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. after delightful day. Thank you, Radnorshireand Pembridge! $\quad$ D.P.J.

MR. ERNEST G. FENN

BY the death of Mr. Ernest G. Fenn, which took place on July 14 th at the age of 85 , the Ancient Society of College Youths has lost one of its most senior and most highly respected members. He had been in poor health for some time but his passing nevertheless came as a shock to his very many friends. The deep and sincere sympathy of the Society goes to Mrs. Fenn, who throughout their 57 years of married life had been a source of strength to him.
Cremation took place at the City of London Cemetery on July 19 th when, in addition to Cemetery on Muly 19th when, in addition to Mrs. Fenn, Mr. E. J. P. Fenn (son) and other Mrs. Fenn, Mr. E. J. P. Fenn (son) and other family mourners, several members of the Society were present
Ernie, as he was affectionately known to his friends, learned to ring at St. Margaret's, Barking. Essex, in the company of his brothers Caleb and Roland, who both joined the Society in 1896. It was not long before Ernie. too, joined the Society; he became a member in 1899, at the same time as his friend, George W. Faulkner, also of Barking. who is still living. He was always proud of the fact that he first attended an anniversary celebration of the Society in 1898 and that he had attended every year since. It was a unique occasion when, at an anniversary dinner a few years ago, the Master took wine with Caleb, Roland and Ernie, each of whom had been a member for over 60 years.
In 1938 the then Master died while in office and Ernie was elected to fill the vacancy for the rest of the year only, but in fact this was to be the beginning of a long and distinguished Mastership. Following the outbreak of war in 1939, it was not possible for the senior steward 1939 , it was not possible for the senior steward to proced to the Mastership because of call-up to proceed to the Mastership because of call-up for military duties. Ernie was re-elected Master in 1939 and in each succeeding year up to and including 1945. He and his contemporaries carried on the work of the Society throughout the war, sometimes under conditions of extreme difficulty and danger, and it is, perhaps, largely due to their efforts that the Society is in its present healthy condition. When he relinquished the Mastership his work for the Society was not finished, for in 1952 he was elected a trustee and he served in this office until the time of his death.
Ernie was a member of the St. Paul's Cathedral band for about 50 years and he will long be remembered for his immaculate striking on the treble. He was also one of the band which made the recording of call changes on the old Bow bells. which for many years was used as an interval signal on B.B.C. radio.

He had been unable to do much ringing in recent years but when the present Bow bells were dedicated he was able to attend and he rang the treble to Stedman Cinques in his old. immaculate style. Despite being unable to ring. he maintained his interest in the Society until the end. At the business meeting on July 19th many tributes were paid to him memory. By his sterling character, integrity and devotion to the Society. Ernie had earned for himself the respect and deep affection of members of all age groups. He was a truly outstanding servant of the Society and we shall all greatly miss him and gratefully remember him.

AN APPRECIATION
The name E. W. Tipler has been syonymous with method composition wherever "The Ringing World " has circulated over the last half century and. so long as his collection provides another "first in the method," it will be difficult to realise that he is no longer with us. It is impossible to record the amount of "homework" involved in the preparation of this legacy and it is a matter for regret that his own tower lacked the skill to translate his innovations into practical fact, even though it did produce one of the greatest ringers of his time in Harold J. Poole, who became, possibly, Ernest's most valued friend and counsellor

He was born under the shadow of the bells at Aylestone and, apart from a few years of early married life at Gilmorton, lived mainly at Lutterworth within a stone's throw of the bells of St. Mary's. These he tended diligently as steeplekeeper and, in the minds of the ringers, there will always be a niche in the belfry for this legendary figure.

On more than one occasion I have refuted a suggestion (motivated, I suspect, by a tinge of jealousy) that E. W. T. was merely a theorist, because, as his constant companion throughout the difficult days of the first world war, I could not erase his tireless efforts to maintain the ringing. Had he enjoyed the co-operation of a dynamic ringing master one cannot imagine what his talents might have achieved, and only his subtle sense of humour (reserved for his closest friends) helped him to conceal his frustrations. The conspiracy of rheumatism with a fractured femur caused the spiral staircase to be out of bounds and forced him to find solace in his pursuit of still more variations.
C. W.

MR. F. J. SPICER

St. Albans lost a popular ringer on July 20th, when Frederick J. Spicer passed away in a London hospital at the age of 64.
He learned his ringing at St. Peter's in the early 1920's and scored his first peal in November, 1923. A well-known figure at meetings, practices and outings. he endeared himself to all in a quiet, unobtrusive way but was always ready for a joke. For many years he ranked among the most regular attenders at his tower, where for some while he was steeplekeeper. Failing health had reduced his regularity of recent years.
His peal total was 59 , which included Kent on all numbers, the first Association peals of Little Bob Royal and Crayord Little Boh Royal, and the first ever of Little Grandsire Caters. His last was Bob Major at Hertford in October, 1958.
The funeral service at St. Peter's on July 26th was conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. A. Bradley, assisted by the Rev. D. Woodley. In a brief address the Vicar ably summed up Fred's influence in the tower and at his work. As the cortege left the church the bells were rung half-muffled. In the evening a quarter peal of Grandsire Caters was rung as ribute by Mrs. K. Darvill 1, R. Darvill 2 . Miss F. Dodds 3, G. Dodds 4, Mrs. J. Dodds 8, B. C. Johnson 6, H. V. Frost 7. J. Duggan 8, G. W. Debenham (cond.) 9, T. J. Southam 10

Pipe's Pilgrims'

ONCE again many old friends, together with a number of new pilgrims, joined Jim and Sylvia Pipe for the annual ringing week. The venue this year was Lancashire and headquarters were at the Grosvenor Hotel, Bolton.
Before arriving at Bolton we stopped for ringing on the afternoon of Sunday, July 3rd, at Bowdon Parish Church, and for evening ringing at Dunham Massey. The new Taylor octave at Bowdon proved to be a most successful start to the week's proceedings and everyone agreed on the fine quality of these bells. Tea had been provided by the local ladies in the hall, and a great debt of gratitude is recorded to them, as we were well filled when we left for Dunham Massey. Here we found the ten bells difficult to handle but, nevertheless, they are pleasant sounding when one listens outside. Having finished ringing there, we made our way to Bolton. The programme for Monday took us to the following churches: St. Peter's, Burnley: St. James', Accrington: St. Peter's, Rishton: Immanuel, Oswaldtwistle: St. James', Haslingden, St. Nicholas', Newchurch-in-Ross; and St Thomas', Helmshore. I cannot recollect any special quality of any of these bells and my only memory is of Rishton, where we found a good but ordinary octave from the Gillett and Johnston foundry
Tuesday's itinerary was an attraction in itself as we were to visit Blackpool. Towers where ringing took. place were St. Cuthbert's, Lytham; St. Anne's Parish Church; St. John's, Blackpool: All Hallows', Bispham: St Chad's, Poulton-le-Fylde; and St. Hilda's, Bilsborrow. My special recollection of Tuesday's programme was the drive through Blackpool and the ringing at Bispham, where the eight ladies on the tour rang a very good plain course of Grandsire Triples.

AT MANCHESTER

On Wednesday we visited the Manchester area, and ringing took place at St. Matthew's, Stretford; The Sacred Trinity, Salford; St. Thomas', Pendleton; Manchester Cathedral; Christ Church, Pendlebury; St. Mary the Virgin's, Prestwich; All Saints', Stand; St. Mary's, Radcliffe; and Manchester Town Hall. It was indeed unfortunate that the ninth was out of action at Manchester Cathedral, as we could only ring nine out of what is surely a magnificent ten from the Gillett and Johnston foundry. We also found a very pleasant octave of 22 cwt . from the same foundry at Stand, where we managed to ring a course of Stand Surprise Major. By kind permission of Neil Bennett and his fellow ringers at the Town Hall, we were allowed to ring at the Town Hall practice on the Wednesday evening. The ringers kindly stayed on until after 9.30 p.m. in order that we should all have a ring there. Ringing included half a course of Yorkshire Surprise Maximus, rounds on the twelve, and three leads of Kent Treble Bob Maximus. Our thanks are due to Neil Bennett for his hospitality.
Having recovered from Wednesday's busy day, the party visited the following churches on the Thursday: St. James, Milnrow ; St. Mary's, Oldham: St. Thomas', Moorside: Holy Trinity, Stalybridge; St. Peter's, Ashton-under-Lyne; St. George's Hyde; and Emmanuel Unitarian Church. Brookfield. Gorton. Oldham's twelve produced the fun of the day, and many members of the party ascended the tower in order to see the frame. For those who have not seen Oldham bells, they are hung on three levels, so that they could all be fitted into the tower. The tenor is a 35 cwt . bell. The octave at St. Peter's Church. Ash-ton-under-Lyne, proved to be popular, but we met a great disappointment at Emmanuel Unitarian Church, Brookfield, Gorton, as one of the clappers was missing. They are a very pleasant ring.

CHORLEY'S YOUNG LADIES
Friday dawned, and the programme included towers at St. Leonard's. Salmesbury: All Saints', Higher Walton: St. Leonard's. Walton-ic-Dale; St. Mary's (R.C.), Chorley; St.

Tour, 1966, was in Lancashire

"The Pilgrims" outside the Church of St. Mary the Virgin, Prestwick.

Paul's, Adlington; St. Bartholomew's, West Houghton; and St. Mary the Virgin's, Leigh. At Chorley we were met by the local band. They were a group of very pleasant young adies who had formed themselves into a ladies who had ormed themselves into a rounds and call changes. We all felt sure that they have a great future ahead of them Carry on, ladies! At Leigh we found that the 16 cwt . tenor was tuned to a perfect D . Inside the tower they sounded very thin, but when listening outside in the Market Place they were quite different. They almost seemed majestic.
Friday evening on Pipe's Tour is when the members of the party show their appreciation to Jim and Sylvia Pipe. This year's gifts included a portable stove and a picture book of England. To our hitherto unmentioned driver, Bob Watson, our most hearty thanks. He was presented with an envelope. Bob has been with the tour for three years now, and he has given us magnificent service. After the presentations we all went into Bolton and were entertained mainly by Irvin Slack with "Tales of our Albert" and "Uppence" and the like. This all rounded the day off very nicely.
Saturday morning came, and we left Bolton for the last time.. On the homeward journey the party visited St. Giles', Matlock, and St. Peter's, Nottingham. At Matlock we found a reasonable eight, and impressions of the augmented twelve at Nottingham were mixed, although the bells handle well and could be heard to advantage in the tower Between here and Grundisburgh the party disembarked.

So once again Pipe's Pilgrim's Tour is over for another year. The whole party will join me. I'm sure, in saying "thank you" to Jim and Sylvia Pipe for all the organisation of the trip. Our gratitude also must be extended to the incumbents and those who came $t o$ meet us.
We are all eagerly looking forward to next year's tour. How about some Yorkshire glory, Jim? I'm sure there is something for us up in that part of the country. R.C.S

RUTLAND TRY TOWER GRAB INSTEAD OF LEISURELY OUTING

THE Rutland ringers' tradition of a leisurely annual outing by coach was replaced on July 23 rd by a full-blooded tower grab, and not everyone approved of the change!

No one could deny that John Woolley did a good job organising the tour, which took in 13 towers in Bedfordshire and Buckinghamshire, including calls at two towers where the Luton District of the Bedfordshire Association was meeting.

The day was warm and sunny and people were somewhat reluctant to ring, preferring to enjoy themselves in the sunshine. Additional entertainment was provided by Norma Wort serenading Robert Woodward with her guitar. Those who did ring discovered that there were gnomes elsewhere than in Zurich, judging by the length of ropes in many towers. Lionel Atton confirmed his addiction to odd bells of all kinds, and Carol Cooke was sharply called to task by a local resident for her interest in the flowers outside the church gate at Slapton.

A good range of methods up to Cambridge was rung with varying degrees of success. There was also a good range of ages in the band, the youngest being Katharine Thorley, aged 10 years, and the oldest Mr. Briggs, of Somerby, who is reputed to be 88 .

There will no doubt be a hot debate as to which type of outing Rutland prefers. A compromise suggestion of having two outings catering for different tastes is already in the air.

For the Beginner

THE MASTERY OF PLAIN BOB MINOR

By Robert B. Smith, conductor of the peal of the Extent of Bob Major Part II : The Effect of Calls: Coursing Orders

SO far we have only considered plain courses of Plain Bob Minor, although we have given certain rules which are applicable on all numbers. We noticed that in the first lead of Plain Bob Minor the treble passed the other bells in the order 24653; in Major that order became 2468753. Throughout a plain course all these bells keep the same relative order (i.e if the treble passes the 2nd bell. the next one it will pass will always be the 4th in the plain course). This cycle may be picked up at any point and it is most con venient to start the sequence with the 5 th, as will be shown subsequently. We then have the order 53246, which is referred to as the plain coursing order. The reason we start from the 5 th is that it is the first bell in the order which is normally involved when the conductor calls bobs or singles.

You may ask "Why is it necessary to call hobs and singles?" The reason is that the plain course of Plain Bob Minor contains only 60 changes. although six numbers may be permutated in 720 different ways. In order to obtain these 720 changes it is necessary to disturb the order of certain bells in relation to the others and this is done by calling bobs and singles. Consider Fig 5 . which shows the last two rows of:-
(a) A plain lead of Plain Boh Minor.
(b) A bobbed lead of Plain Bob Minor.
(c) A singled lead of Plain Bob Minor

FIG. 5. THE EFFECT OF CALLS

Bobs.

Comparing the plain lead with the bobbed lead we see that in the bobbed lead the fol lowing alterations take place at the lead end:
(a) The bell which would have dodged 3-4 down continues on into 2 nds place (i.e. it has rung a complete lead of plain hunting). It then takes up the work of the 2 nds place bell and will dodge 3-4 down at the next lead end, unless a bob or single is called.
(b) The bell which would have made 2nds continues out into 3rds place (i.e. it, too, has rung a complete lead of plain hunting). It then takes up the work of the 3rds place and will make 2 nds at the next lead end unless a bob is called.
(c) The bell which would have dodged $3-4$ up makes a second blow in 4ths place, instead of being in 3rds place at the lead end It then takes up the work of the 4ths place bell. and will dodge $5-6$ down at the next lead end.
The bells dodging in 5-6 are not affected by any calls. On all numbers of bells the method Plain Bob is affected in the same way at bobs as indicated (i.e. the bells in 2nds, 3 rds and 4 ths position are the only ones which are altered due to the call).

Singles.

Comparing the plain lead with the singled lead we see that the following changes take place in the singled lead at the lead end:
(a) The bell which would have dodged 3-4 down makes a second blow in 3rds place instead of dodging back into 4ths place. It then takes up the work of the thirds place bell and will make 2nds at the next lead end unless a hob is called. It should be noted that the two blows struck in 3rds are both over the same bell, which at the time is making 2nds.
(b) The bell which would have dodged 3-4 up makes a second blow in 4ths place, instead of being in 3rds place at the lead end. It then takes up the work of the 4ths place bell and will dodge 5-6 down at the next lead end. It should be noted that the two blows in 4ths place are struck over the same bell, which at the time is making 3 rds.

The following observations on singles may found useful
(i) Only two bells are affected at singles and these are the bells which would have dodged in 3-4. By making piaces at the lead end the effect of the single is to cross them over.
(ii) The bell which would have dodged 3-4 up is affected in precisely the same way botn at bobs and singles in that it makes two blows in 4ths.
(iii) Referring to Fig 5 (c) it will be seen that at the lead end only a single pair of bells have crossed ( 4 and 6) comparing that row with the previous one-hence the name single.

Note.-Calls are made when the treble is in 2nds place immediately before reaching the lead, to give those concerned time to react to the call.

Coursing Orders.

Earlier we mentioned that when the bells are following each other round in the order 53246 then this is called the plain coursing order. If the bells are coursing in this order then they will return to 123456 (rounds) eventually, provided that no bobs or singles are called. (Notice that the treble is omitted from coursing orders as it appears in between two different bells each lead.) From what we have seen of the effect of bobs and singles it will be obvious that the coursing order of the bells will be altered at every call. It is important to know how coursing orders alter when calling bohs and singles at various positions, for the following reasons:
(a) To know which bell to follow at any particular instant.
(b) To correct any ringer who may go wrong (before others become lost).

Considering point (a) above in greater detail, we may see just how useful it is to know what the coursing order is. If we refer 10 , or write down, the first lead of Plain Bob Minor we see that the 4 th bell strikes over the 2 nd bell at backstroke in the row immediately before leading. This applies in every lead of the course except the iead in which the 4th bell makes 2nds over the treble and then turns the treble from the lead. Here we should take another look at the plain coursing order- 53246 . We see that in this coursing order 4 is following round after 2 , and 2 is referred to as 4's course bell. A very imoortant rule follows from the above observations.

Rule 3.-Always tarn your course bell from lead (and from the back) with the exception of the occasion when you have to turn the treble.

A further look at the coursing order 53246 reveals that on the first blow in 2nds place when leaving the lead the 4th bell always strikes after the fith (with the exception of the occasion when the treble turns 4 from the lead). The 6th bell is then referred to as 4 's after bell. Another very important rule follows fromi these observations.

Rule 4.-Your after bell always turns you from the lead (and from the back) with the exception of the occasion when the treble turns you.
From these two rules it will be clear that if the coursing order is known it is easy to nick out which bell to strike over. It is because of the lack of understanding of coursing orders that the maiority of the ringing Exercise strikes poorly. The tragedy is that many do not know it-4ths olace is 4ths, not $3 \frac{3}{3}$ or 44 .) If you know where to look for a bell there is much more chance of striking accurately over it.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Mr. William Gibbons, of Bridgend, Glam, rang his first quarter peal for his 73rd birthday. Never 100 late 10 start.
A memoial tablet has been dedicated in Queensbury Church, York, to William Ambler, who rang in this church for over 50 years.
The ringer of the tenor in the deal at Stoneleigh (see page 498) was Paul K. Williamson and not as printed.

St. Peter's, Droitwich, has twice had a bell stolen this year-the 17 century Sanctus early in the year and its replacement quite recently.
Because of heavy commitments, a Lancashire tower is unable to renew a subscription for an old age pensioner. Would any reader like to accpet this responsibility?

Miss Jennifer ("Janny ") Quaife, one of the 12 young people Mr. P. J. Spice has been teaching at Bromley during the past 15 months. rang her first quarter perfectly on July 24th.
There has been a change in the Ringing Master of the Portsmouth District-Mr. J. Hunt succeeds Mr. W. Cope, who was sincerely thanked on July 23 rd for his efforts to improve the ringing.
Among the improvements planned by the band at St. Thomas's, Eccleston. St. Helens, is the provision of a sound-proof floor above the befls, but below the louvres, to facilitate peal ringing in a densely populated area. It will cost at least $£ 100$.

TRIBUTES TO CANON H. V. WHITE

The retirement of Canon $\mathrm{H} . \mathrm{V}$. White, Vicar of Broad Hinton, Wilts, for 47 years, during which time he was chairman of the Calne Branch for nearly 40 years, was marked by a peal of Doubles at Broad Hinton on July 21 st, conducted by Mr. G. Pluckrose. As a compliment to the Canon the band was composed of one ringer from each of the six towers in the Branch.
On July 24th six members of the Hacker family rang $\mathbf{1 , 2 6 0}$ Grandsire Doubles at Broad Hinton as a personal compliment. The band consisted of three children and three grandchildren of the late Mr. F. Hacker, who was in charge of ringing at Broad Hinton fur many years before the family moved to Heddingion

The best wishes of the band go to Canon White in his well-earned retirement.

MISFORTUNES AT PRESTWICK

A mid-week wedding on July 27 th was an opportunity for a peal attempt at Prestwick, Lancs. However, while the ceremony was going on, John Partington went into the graveyard to look for his grandmother's grave, tripped badly and sprained his ankle. This put paid to the attempt planned so Minor was tried. After 50 minutes of good ringing the clapper came out of the seventh with disastrous results to the attempt and to one of the timber walkways.
As it was hoped to ring something to celebrate Ted Reeves' 65th birthday, a quarter was rung on the top six of 1.260 Plain Bob Minor by R. Baines 1, J. Sutcliffe 2, C. Watson 3, A. E. Reeves 4. F. Reynolds 5, G. Sanders (conductor) 6. This was followed by Ted entertaining the band to a splendid tea and homo-made wine. A very happey conclusion.

WORCESTER'S THREE DAYS' PEAL PEAL RINGING

Worcestershire ringers, headed by Mr. Gerald C. Hemming, have had three days; peal ringing. Of the six attempts five were successful. Two 18 -year-olds. David G. Franklin and L. G. Haines of Worcester. who had only been ringing a couple of years, put up a fine show, striking their first blows in Rutland, Lincolnshire. Pudsey and Superlative. The failure was Cambridge. at Mickleton, on Friday afternoon: the effects of the ringing were telling on the older school.

COUNTY COUNCIL RINGERS

Eight members of the Devon County Council and Devon Constabulary rang the middle octave half-muffled at Exeter Cathedral for the memorial service to the late chairman of the Council. This was the first occasion the Council members had rung together. Ringers were: N. Mallett (planning officer). Miss V. were: N. Mallett (planning oficer), Miss Mellish (typist). Mrs. A. Giles (clerk). B. Tampson (deputy county architect), P. Brewer (divisional surveyor), W. Avery (registrar). W. Harvey (police surgeon). R. Rundle (police superintendent).

A WILTSHIRE RESTORATION

St. Swithin's Church, Compton Bassett, Wilts, has had its ring of five, with a tenor of 10 cwt., retuned. quarter turned and rehung in a nex steel frame for six. complete with new fittings, by Messrs. John Taylor and Co.. The rededication of the restored bells took place at Evensong on July 17th, the ceremony heing performed by the Archdeacon of Wiltshire, performed Vy the Arch

THEALE WANT IDEAS FOR FUND RAISING

Theale bells are well known as a heavygoing six Because of this, and the fact that some repairs to the bells and fittings are long overdue, the ringers decided two years ago to start raising funds. The cost of rehanging on ball bearings and general maintenance is £450, of which one-third has so far been raised, almost entirely by the efforts of the ringers themselves.
The usual crop of fund-raising activities, whist drives, etc., have been organised. However, the main source of income has been from the sale of waste paper. This we have collected around the village and have to date sold almost 20 tons. We are at present in the midst of arrangements for an autumn sale to take place at the end of October. For this sal: we would like to hear of new ideas for different stalls and sideshows. Also if anybody has experience of any other successful methods of raising funds, please let me (B. J. Gatward, hon. treasurer Bell Restoration Fund, 2, Sandringham Way, Calcot, Reading) know.
The work will be done in about a year's time, and until then anyone requiring practice on a heavy-going six will be welcomed on Fridays at 7 p.m., or Sundays both morning and evening.

HEMSWORTH MEETING

On August 20th the Southern District of the Yorkshire Association is holding a meeting with members of the Barnslev and District Society at Hemsworth. near Pontefract. Ackworth's ring of six is unfortunately out of action. Towers available include the ring of four at Badsworth. the District's only ringable four. They are housed in a firm-looking west tower and hang in a steel framework for six bells. They have rather unusual tonal qualities and are bells members ought to gain the opportunity to ring. The other three rings (the light eight at Hemsworth, the six at Wragby, near Nostell Priory, and the 15 cwt . six at Crofton) are all ground-floor rings, the latter being rung from the centre of the church. Any visiting ringer or one who cannot climb steps need only to "pop in and ring." Can you come?

GOLDEN WEDDING BELLS

We are certain Cumberlands from a wide area will. join us in congratulating Mr. and Mrs. Tom Bevan. of Hampstead, on their golden wedding anniversary on July 23rd. For many years Tom was sentor steward of the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths and a Society of Royal cumberland Youths and a member of the hand of St. Martin-in-theFields. He is still active at Hampstead and Highgate. A complimentary quarter peal was rung at St. Mary Magdalene's, Holloway.

A LOSS TO RADLETT

Radlett, Herts, ringers rang with very mixed feelings a farewell quarter peal to the Rev Christopher Newton on July 24th. He had been Vicar for eight years and during his incumbency the bells were thought about. purchased. erected and dedicated. He had been the greatest help in getting ringing established. Mr. Newton has received prefertablished. Mr. Newton has ment to Hemel Hempstead.

NO BULGING BICEPS FROM RINGING

When Liz Madsen, "Thurrock Gazette's" reporter, visited St. Giles' and All Saints' Church, Orsett, Essex, in search of a story, she ended up by having her first lesson in handling from Mr. Frederick Blatch, the Tower Master, who has been ringing for 45 years.
There is no question of the sincerity of the welcome she received. She wrote: "I had no sooner arrived in the ringing chamber when I was greeted with a bone-breaking handshake from a lady who had been ringing for nearly 20 years. Miss Joan Hills explained that bellringing does not produce bulging biceps but it does strengthen the arm and the hand. I believe her."

According to the report. Miss Hills took up bellringing to escape evening classes in mathematics and once rang in Australia for 3 hours and 40 minutes (presumably in a peal). Another peal ringer in the tower is Miss Vivian Matthews. of Grays, who started ringing to gain a Girl Guides' proficiency badge in this subject. She became so fascinated that she has been ringing regularly ever since-some eight years ago.

TRIBUTE TO A LEAMINGTON HEADMASTER

At a token of respect to Mr. G. Lewis on his retirement as the well-beloved headmaster of All Saints' C. of E. School, Leamington, after 40 years' service to the school, a quarter neal of Grandsire Triples was arranged for July 21 st at All Saints' Church. Unfortunately when the band met one member felt too ill to ring and went home. As a substitute it was decided to attempt iwo 720 's of Bob Minor.
This ringing was good and everything went smoothly for over 1.300 changes when a trip occurred and two bells changed over. The ringers were H. Allen 1, Miss G. Chamoness ringers were H . Alen (longest lengih) 3, H. Walley . Burt (conductor) 4. Miss K. Walley 5, C. Grindley 6, J. L. Allen 7
The Misses J. and K. Walley were former pupils of Mr Lewis and they will be leaving shortly as they have both won scholarships. One of them is going to London University next term.

A HEREFORDSHIRE CENTENARY

In Coddington tower, Herefordshire, hangs on the wall a framed receipt by J. Taylor. Loughborough, dated July 14th, 1866. for the rehanging of the bells. The centenary was observed by a half peal in five methods being rung on this anniversary. The Vicar attended before the ringing and led the band in prayer.

A full peal was attempted on July 23rd but came to an abrupt end when the clapper of the tenor bell broke after two hours ringing. Another attempt is to be made when the tenor has been repaired.

SIXTY YEARS AT ST. MARGARET'S, WESTMINSTER

London ringers will note the peal at St Margaret's, Westminster, on July 30th, in honour of Mr. William Hewett's 80th birthday and 60 years of loyal service to St. Margaret's, Westminster ( 50 years as towerkeeper). Best wishes, Bill, from all of us !

OUTINGS

SCARBOROUGH AND DISTRICT OUTING
Menacing clouds did not dampen the high spirits of Scarborough and District ringers for their outing on July 16th and all were soon on the coach rogether with essential handbells, diagrams and food.

At Hurworth, the first stop, the younger members found the heavy six and short ropes difficult to handle competently and we also regret that justice was not done to the delightful octave at Darlington, and only $\mathrm{Ox}_{\mathrm{x}}$ ford Bob Triples was struck well.

Refreshed by an enjoyable lunch, Oxford Treble Bob Minor was rung well at Heighington, and the Major was executed to perfection at Bishop Auckland. Unfortunately we could only manage good ceases at Staindrop and Richmond and we did not pay enough attention to striking as we should. The strain of a long day's ringing began to tell at Northallerton, where only Kent Treble Bob Major was struck well.

Thanks are due so our secretary, who had his task made even more arduous by an accident earlier in the week, and also the Ringing Master and all incumbents in making a most memorable day.
A. G.

SOUTH NORFOLK ANNUAL OUTING

Leaving Diss shortly after $7.30 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$. on July 16 th, the South Norfolk ringers and friends made for the neighbouring county of Suffolk for their annual outing and visited seven churches.

Lavenham, the first call, was reached by $9 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$. and an hour's ringing on the fine bells was much enjoyed. We rang at Long Melford before reaching Ipswich for lunch and, having been suitably refreshed, rang at St. Margaret's Church. During the afternoon visits were made to the Parish Churches of Woodbridge and Ufford and, after tea at Wickham Market, to Aldeburgh. The last call was at Leiston, where ringing finished at 9 p.m.

Before dispersing at Diss (at a late hour), Mr. A. G. Harrison heartily thanked Mr. William Flatt, of Harleston, on behalf of all present, for again arranging the outing in such an efficient way. Grateful thanks to incumbents and ringers.
A. G. H.

BINGO?

AT a recent ringing meeting a question was asked in relation to the Association. It was perhaps a thoughtless question but one which is worthy of examination"What do I get out of it?" Financially, the answer is simple, i.e., since there is little profit on association accounts, members will receive approximately what they pay in. There are no bumper prizes, no free gifts and no monthly draws. However, if probed a little further, the true answer becomes abundantly clear. It is so simple that it may often be overlooked, but it is in a wordfellowship.
Before the phlegmatic Englishman draws back at such a word, it would pay him to ponder on how much this really means to him. As travel and methods of communication become easier the frequent useage of the word lonely appears to grow in inverse ratio. There probably are some, but one seems not to meet an apparently lonely ringer. One goes into a tower and is quickly introduced and soon all are ringing together. Yet much of this fraternity would never have come into being without the founding of the various Associations. Also, this fraternity is doubtless nurtured by the holding of association meetings, dinners, festivals and other enterprises arranged by the hard-working association officers.

Apart from the intangible, but satisfying, benefits to the individual, the goodwill created by associations is often felt in the undermanned and silent towers. A chance word here or there must frequently lead to such bells being rung for special occasions - weddings, confirmations, mayoral services, etc. It can also lead to more permanent help being given to these towers by way of helping at practices and even for normal Sunday Service ringing. It could even, perhaps. be extended to help many more towers and ringers? These "ripples" can have only a beneficial effect on the whole Exercise.

There is also that great partner of the associations"The Ringing World," without whose help the work of association officers would be much more extensive, less effective and more expensive. The next time one thumbs through its pages reading others' views, articles of a technical nature, reports on meetings and outings, peals and notices of meetings, etc., it would not be out of place to murmur a prayer of thanks for those who have worked and, on occasion, struggled to keep our journal going.

In conclusion perhaps the questioner can be persuaded to ask "What do 1 put into it?' For surely "as you sow, so shall you reap." Unless he can come to think this way, he would perhaps be better to resign from his association and join one of the more lucrative forms of activity which abound in the country at the present time.

THE RAISON D'ETRE

By Canon R. J. P. PEYTON-BURBERY

NEARLY sixty years ago there was much talk in the belfries of the Isle of Wight. Recently a revival had taken place among the ringers and several towers had their eyes on a peal by a local band. Over ninety years had passed since this had been done and the rivalry was sufficient to send out spies on bicycles. Even sinister plans were discussed. If sucking a lemon dried up an itinerant German band, what would disorganise a band of ringers? Then came the news that the Father of Bellringers, the Rev. F. E. Robinson, was bringing a team of ringers who specialised in Stedman. At that time he had conducted six hundred peals of this method and hoped to conduct one thousand before he died. The village of Brading was one of the chosen spheres of operation. The floor and walls of the ringing chamber were cleaned, bell bearings were oiled and lists of "call changes" and "beginners" aids to bell-ringing" were hidden. The Vicar invited the visitors to luncheon.
The Curate, who sat below the salt at this meal. received permission from the great man to be present in the belfry provided he gave his well-known imitation of a church mouse. Rounds of perfect rhythm were struck and the peal began. The Conductor started with a mouthful of raisins which suffered loss when changes were called. All went well for about two hours. Then one member, who had conducted over twenty peals of Stedman, lost his concentration. Like a master with a beginner the Father of Bellringers told him his work at every call for the next forty minutes. The peal and the raisins concluded with the Grace. "Amen, I could have punched your head, Pitman."
The visit bore fruit-dried fruit supplied by the local band to their conductor, who, thus fortified, steered them to victory with a peal of Grandsire Triples!

OBITUARY

MR. S. R. COCKEL
St. Michael and All Angels' Church, Melksham, Wilts, suflered a severe loss by the death of its tower vice-captain and correspondent, Mr. Stanley R. Cockel, who passed away suddenly on holiday on August 2nd. He learned ringing at Melksham during the first world war and became an efficient member of the tower, being most regular for service ringing and practices. He was hon, secretary of the Devizes Branch, S.D.G.R. for one period of five years and a member of the one period of five years and a member of the Guild Committee. His peals total about 50 , mostly in Grandsire Doubles and Triples, Stedman Triples and Plain Bob Minor and Major.

His was of a quiet personality, always ready and willing to help others, a most loyal member of the church and tower and a staunch Guild supporter. He will be greatly missed in the town and in the Guild. We thank God for his wonderful example.

MR. PERCY PAGE

The news of the sudden death of Mr. Percy Page on August 25 th came as a shock to alf who knew him. Percy had been a staunch member of the Canterbury and Ashford Districts of the Kent County Association for over 60 years, and had always been regular and punctual, both on Sundays and practice nights.
Since coming to Margate about 16 years ago he had been most loyal and helpful, especially in helping the younger ringers, setting a fine example to all. This was true also when he resided in Ashford.
The funeral service took place on July 29th at the Margate Crematorium and was attended by members of the local band. The day before he died, at the age of 82 , Percy was in his usual place, ringing for service, and his absence will be felt by us all for a long time to come. May God grant him rest and peace.
A. J. D.

An in memoriam quarter peal of Grandsire Triples, with the bells half-muffled, was rung at St. John the Baptist Church, Margate, on August 2nd, by Jill Dadds (first quarter) 1, Mrs. N. Bridges 2, R. G. Dadds 3, P. R. Coveney 4, L. J. Twyman 5, A. J.' Dadds (conductor)' 6, P. L. Dadds 7, W. Spera 8.

MR. J. E. SAYERS

The news of the untimely death of Mr. John $E$. Sayers on August 2 nd at the age of 22, will be received with deep regret by all who knew him.
John was taught to ring at Adderbury, Oxon, in 1959 under the guidance of Mr. H. L. Roper, and quickly progressed to the standard methods. On August 16th, 1961, he rang his first peal of Plain Bob Major at Kingham, and rang a total of four peals before ill-health prevented him from continuing ringing in the summer of 1963 . Although unable to attend ringing at Adderbury, he still took a keen interest in the tower's activities.
The funeral took place on August 5th at Adderbury Church, prior to cremation at Oxford Crematorium. In the evening of that day a half-muffled quarter peal of Plain Bob Triples was attempted by some of the Adderbury ringers as a mark of respect and to his memory.
Our sympathy is extended to his parents and family.

MR. T, R. DENNIS
Rarely can life have come to a more appropriate ending than for Mr. T. R. Dennis, the well known and highly respected Cambridge veteran ringer
A friend called for "T. Reg" at his home in Clarendon Street on the evening of Tuesday, August 2 nd, and drove him through the rain to ring at St. Mary's Church, Ely. There he rang perfectly in a well-struck touch of Stedman Triples; a few minutes later, listening no doubt with pleasing interest and pleasure to those fine bells, he peaecfully and aimost silently passed away. He would have been silently passed away.
83 on August 18 th.
In his day Mr. Dennis was a leading peal ringer in the Eastern Counties, although his grand total may seem comparatively modest to the experts of today. An excellent striker, he was thoroughly proficient in the "standard" methods, usually ringing towards the heavy end. For the Ely Diocesan Association he took part in 282 peals, to which we must add numerous others for other Societies including the College Youths, by whom also he was held in high esteem. His friendly and modest attitude, his obvious appreciation of good bells and good ringing made him popular everywhere.
He became a Cambridge Youth in 1912, was secretary from 1927 to 1935, and Master in 1952-53. He was one of the Youths who almost 40 years ago helped to establish more friendly relations between the Cambridge Youths and the University Guild, to the adYouths and the University Guild, to the advantage of both Societies. Today, in fact, vantage of ace there are at least four resident members of the University who are also Cambridge Youths and regular ringers at Great St. Mary's.
His services to the Ely Association were outstanding, covering a period of 53 years. He was general secretary from 1912-1914 and again from 1919-1921, after serving in World War 1. From then until 1965 he served as auditor, except for the years 19271928, when he was treasurer. From 19121933 he represented the Association on the Central Council, and during those years made friends and rang with many of the country's most prominent ringers.
Outside ringing circles he was known as "Tommy Dennis," and partly through his work at the Post Office, from which he retired in 1940, and partly through his connection with the Cambridge and County Bowls Club, he was well-known and liked throughout the town. His portly figure was a familiar sight as he made his way down Petty Cury to do his shopping in the Market Place. His knowledge of Cambridge, of its old hostelries, its notabilities and its traditions was unsurpassec, and he was always ready to talk on these topics in an interesting manner.
But beyond all this he was a sincere and devoted member of the Church. As a boy he possessed, a lovely voice and was a chorister at St. John's College, where he was a frequent and honoured visitor for the rest of his long life. Very dear to his heart was the Church of St. Andrew the Great, where he regularly worshipped.
F.E. H.

THE FUNERAL

Previous to the funeral service at Great St. Andrew's Church on August 9th the bells were rung half-muffled to 504 Stedman Triples by B. D. Threlfall, S. Brown, J. G. Gipson, 3. W. R. Quinney, E. Hibbens, P. Bergdahl, F. Haynes and H. Peacock, representing the Cambridge Youths, Ely Diocesan Association of Ringers, "the Cambridge University Guild and the "Tuesday Trumpington" group. Ringing ended with the traditional sequence in which the bells are silenced one by one in which the bells, with solemn effect.

REDEDICATION

BRABOURNE, KENT

$\mathrm{O}^{N}$Tuesday, August 2nd, the culmination of a small village's efforts was realised at the rededication of the bells of St. Mary's, Brabourne. The little church, famous for its ancient stained glass and its associations with the Balliols of Oxford, was packed to capacity with villagers and ringers alike, and the special service of rededication was conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. R. A. Sheekey.
During the singing of the hymn "Angel voices ever singing the choir, Association officers, clergy, churchwardens and the Bishop of Dover were led by the cross-bearer to the church tower, where the bells were solemnly dedicated by the Bishop to the Glory of God and the use of the Church. As the procession returned to the chancel, rounds were rung by the local band under the direction of their captain, Mr. Bernard Marks.
In the ensuing address the Bishop provided some stimulating thoughts on religious fundamentals and their application in our "d daily lives. As a fitting conclusion, the "Bellringers' Hymn "was sung for the offertory.
After the service there was an hour's general ringing. The low, massive tower has been strengthened by provision of a concrete ringbeam, and the six bells dating back to 1605 have been rehung in a cast iron eight-bell frame with all new fittings. They are a mellow ring that " 80 " excellently in spite of the long draught. Everyone agreed that Messrs. Mears and Stainbank had done a first-class job.
The villagers have worked hard for the restoration of their tower, and the fruits of their toil are richly deserved. Much of the credit, however, must be given to their energetic tower captain, Bernard Marks, whose untiring efforts and practical interest (which included the production of a "son-etincluded the production of a ", son-et-lumiere gave an example to all. N. J.D.

Dr. C. C. Keet met the coffin and spoke the opening sentences, and Canon A. L. Woodard conducted the remainder of the service, which included a short review of Mr. Dennis' life. Mr. D. S. Lyons was the organist. Cremation followed and the ashes were interred in Longstanton Churchyard on August 12th.

The church was filled and the ringers present included A. M. Barber, G. Bonham, E. W. Bullman, C. J. Butcher (chairman of the Veterans), A. T. Chenery, C. Cousins, Mr. and Mrs. W. Cousins, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Davey, J. Fox, Major J. H. R. Freeborn, Mrs. J. Gipson' (representing C. W. Cook), K. Hesketh, Dr. C. M. P. Johnson. A. Kennedy, D. Latchford, D. Lilley, H. J. F. Muncey, D. F. Murfet, V. Nutton, K. Oates, R. J. Palmer, G. Pearson, D. E. Pepper, P. Pigg, B. Pratt, Mr. and Mrs. W. Ridgman, E. J. Rowe, Miss J. Sanderson, Mrs Sibson (representing Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Sibson), M. Turner. Miss G. Williams, Miss. C. E. Willers and the ringers mentioned earlier.
Organisations represented included St. John's College old Choir; Cambridge and County Bowling Club; the Post Office; City Bowling Club; and ringers came from many milesLondon and St. Neots, Wisbech area and Huntington, Ely and Ickleton, to name but a few.
A half-muffled quarter peal of 1,277 Grandsire Caters was rung at Great St. Mary's on August 7th in his memory. He had rung there regularly for many years and had been a member of the Cambridge Youths for 54 of them. The ringers were: J. W. R. Quinney, P. H. Pigg, C. M. P. Johnson, C. Muncey, J. H. R. Freeborn, V. Nutton, F. E. Haynes, H. Foster, P. Bergdahl and H. S. Brown.

Golden Wedding of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Paulson

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE PAULSON celebrated their golden wedding quietly at their home, Kirklea, Churchtown, Darley Dale, on August 1st. At least, as quietly as an influx of congratulatory letters, telegrams and callers permitted!

Mr. Paulson is the son of a ringer, the late Mr. J. Harry Paulson, who moved from Lincolnshire to Nuneaton, where George was born. The family moved to Matlock while George was a small boy, and it was at St. Giles' Church there, where his father became a ringer and, later, verger, that he first learned to ring, about the year 1900. His connection with Darley Dale began in 1909, when he started work on the railway, from which he retired in 1956 as a deputy foreman in the locomotive sheds, after 47 years' service. It was at Darley Dale that he met Mrs. Paulson, formerly Miss May Gill, a young teacher and a member of a very old Darley family. They were married at St. Helen's Church on Bank Holiday Monday, August 1st, 1916.

After serving in the Royal Engineers in the Great War, in Palestine and France, and surviving the sinking of a troopship, Mr. Paulson returned to settle in Darley Dale. He joined the Darley Dale band in 1921, of which band he has now for many years been tower captain.

Mr. Paulson rang his first peal, Grandsire Triples, at Matlock in 1905, and has now rung something over 100 peals, of which 56 have been rung at St. Helen's. Darley. As a conductor he has called between 20 and 30 peals. on all numbers, from Doubles to Major. It is, however, as a service ringer that Mr. Paulson really stands out. Throughout a lifetime of ringing he has almost invariably been present to ring twice each Sunday, and also on the practice night. His interest in and service to the Church do not begin and end with ringing; he is, and always has been, a most regular attender at the worship to which he has called others, and he has filled, and filled with distinction, the offices of churchwarden, sidesiman and church councillor.

Joining the old Midland Counties Association in 1905, Mr. Paulson is now an hon8rary life member of its successor, the Derby Diocesan Association, for which Association he has rung 76 peals.

Mr. and Mrs. Paulson have two sons, one daughter and nine grandchildren. Their eldest son, Ernest, is a ringer at St. Helen's, and so was the younger son, Michael, until he removed to Sheffield on his marriage two years ago.

The golden wedding day concluded with a family dinner party at the Whitworth Hotel. and the celebrations were rounded off fittingly two days later, when a congratulatory peal of Bob Major was rung at St. Helen's by a band which included seven members of the Sunday Service band and one regular visitor, and was conducted by the Rector.

CANBERRA'S BATTLE OF THE BELLS

W
HHEN H.M. the Queen was present at the 50th anniversary celebrations of the founding of Canberra on March 12th 1963, Sir Robert Menzies, the then Australian Premier, announced that Mr. Macmillan had promised a gift of money from the British Government to make "some significant contribuiton to the development of Canberra to reflect our common parliamentary heritage." He said: "We would wish this gift to blend in with the grand design for your beautiful capital city. It might perhaps be a set of ornamental fountains or a bell tower, either of which we hope would embrace the site of your new Houses of Parliament."

The British Government's gift will be $£ 200000$, and according to "The Times" correspondent at Canberra the betting is now quite firm on bells: fountains apparently are out. The new Houses of Parliament are almost certain to be on the shore of Lake Burley Griffin. A bell tower might be put up on one of the little islands in the lake (the potential foundations are now being tested). Another suggestion is for a tall slender tower in the lake directly in front of slender tower in the lake the Houses of Parliament.

Last May a controversy developed in "The Canberra Times" which became known locally as "the batule of the bells." The argument was not so much between pro-bell and pro-fountain forces, but rather between the esthetics and the utilitarians, who wanted the money to build a youth centre. "A carillon," wrote someone rather learnedly, " is far less characteritic of British life than " is far less chang of bells."
Then it was argued that a carillon would need a professional carillonneur, while change ringers could be amateurs, and "young people would find not only that they were continuing a British tradition, but also that they had found a hobby capable of diverting them for a lifetime." Thus, even without a centre, youth would be served Attempts have been made to get the British High Commission to express an opinion on the form the gift should take, but the British Government disclaimed all desire to prompt. The decision is one for the Australian Cabinet.

Canberra has a most enthusiastic ringer in Licut.-Col. J. R. Watch, who is in charge of the bells at the Church of St. John the Baptist. Owing to the very small belfry, these bells can only be chimed, but there are some 16 young people who take part in the chiming. and the music is real changes-Double Norwich, Superlative and Double Oxford were wich, Superlative and Double the English tourists last year.

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD Leatherhead District Striking Competition

THE annual striking competition of the Leatherhead District was held on June 18 th at Capel. Four teams entered and the competition was won by St. Martin's, Epsom. In summing up, Mr. John Schofield, who acted as judge, suggested that a provision might be made in future competitions to allow a team who made a mistake at the start of their test piece to begin again, with an appropriate points handicap.
At the meeting which followed the competition the resignation of the District Master, Mr. D. J. Herschell, was announced, due to family ill-health The meeting thanked him for his past help and expressed its hope for a speedy and happy end to his difficulties. The appointment by the District Committee of Mr. J. Hayns, of Ashtead, as Acting District Master was received.

The other principal topic for discussion at the mecting was the service ringing at Guildthe mecting was the service ringing at fathedral. After discussion it was decided to press for an early meeting of the Cathedral Society to discuss the present and future arrangements in full.
The meeting closed with the usual thanks and ringing continued in the evening at New digate.

Letters to  the Editor

BFGINNER'S FIRST INTEREST-PEALS AND QUARTER PEALS
Dear Sir,-With reference to the letter written by A. J. M. Collins ("R.W.." August $5 t h$ ), 1 ans one of the fraternity who is still struggling with elementary changes. I think it is nice occasionally to see articles for the beginner but I don't think they are necessary every week, as beginners can obtain considerable help from the many books published. I think that peals and quarters should be published and I like to know what other bands (some members I may know, some I may noi) have rung. In fact the first thing I do when I receive "The Ringing World" every Friday morning is to curn to the peals and quarter peals !-Yours faithfully,

Lillington.

S. McINTYRE.

LOWER BEEDING BELLS

Dear Sir-I am afraid that G. J. N. C. (Reading University Outing. "Ringing World,"; page 507 ) is sadly misinformed regarding the bells of Lower Beeding. Sussex. Four or five of the present light octave in that tower, all made of orthodox bell metal, not steel, were cast at (if my memory serves me correctly) the Belgian foundry of Messrs. Van Aerschot of Louvain; the remainder are castings by the Croydon foundry of Gillett and Johnston. The tone of this light eight is very pleasant, and I am rather surprised that they should be mistaken for steel bells!-Yours sincerely, Tilbury, Essex. PETER N. BOND (Rev.).

WHAT IS SERVICE?

Dear Sir,-If one is or has been a member of Toc $H$, the question is easily answered. How then do we answer this? Having attended six of the past Central Council meetings one wonders whether service has anything to do with ringing as it appears today.

When 1 was elected to the Central Council I was told by my predecessor of some 25 years' standing, the Standing Committee is a closed shop and the Central Council meetings as a whole are good meeting grounds for old friends. Having stayed for two occasions at the headquarters hotel, the latter seems to fill the case.

When the question of "The Ringing World" was raised at Bath. the reason why we have a paper was not mentioned. "The Ringing World " is the official journal of the Central Courcil of CHURCH Bell Ringers. Why is it then that the word "Church" is so often left out of bell ringing? We have peal ringers, surprise ringers and method ringers, but surely Sunday service ringing should be the aim of all good ringers. Peal ringing is the reward for good Sunday service ringing.
Those of us who have lived in South Africa for any period will know that the tribe is ruled by the Council of the Old Men: surely this is what is happening with ringing. 1 was surprised to find out the age of many of our Top Men. Why is there no encouragement for younger blood on our committees? Too many members of the committees are elected en bloc-to save time is the answer.

What a stir was caused by George Pipe when he proposed changes in "The Ringing World " Committee. Why the indignation? Surely this was the feeling of a closed shop. During the lunch break one committee member was heard to say: "What do they think they can do? Still, if we can't beat them they can do? Still,

Very little has ever been published in "The Ringing World" about its own activities, therefore who can know the truth? May we know a few of the facts to help us solve some of our problems?

1. How many copies are sold to postal subscribers per year?
2. How many copies are sold by bookstalls and newsagents?
3. What are the advantages of our paper being registered at the G.P.O. as a newspaper, do we obtain an advantage in postage?
Any other information the committee has gained over the ycars could he published for those of us who do not know.
The Editor has asked for an all-out effort to obtain more readers to bring sales up to 10.000 . What about an all-out effort to have the rings of bells already in our possession to ring for Sunday services?
In parts of Sussex, and I doubt if this is the only area, many rings of bells are idle or only partially manned. Many Vicars could not care less, very little encouragement is given and bands fail for lack of leadership. If only incumbents were chosen for churches with bells from those who are interested in ringing. Why is it that in some churches ringing is not taken as a fundamental part of the church service as is the choir?
What is Service?-The rent we pay for our room on earth-are you living rent free? - Yours faithfully.

ROBERT W. R. PERCY.

Willingdon, Eastbourne.
Note-Of an approximate weekly sale of 5,650 , copies sold by newsagents total 2,950 . There is at present no advantage in price of *The Ringing World "b being registered as a newspaper with the G.P.O.. but on the occasion of the postal staff difficulties priorities were given 10 registered mail. The newspaper industry watches very closely postal sates, and "The Ringing World" gets the benefit of their representation on a national level. -Ed.

WE ALSO CATER FOR NON-PROFICIENTS

Dear Sir.-Re Mr. Everest's letter (page 49?). I for one strongly object to the thought of our journal being published for (as he puts it) the more proficient: the more keen, yes, I think that's a hit more like it. I for one do not profess to be in the proficiency class. What is more. I hate to think where our tower would be if we had to wait for the " more proficient ringers." My guess is that the result would be a lot more silent towers.

In my home tower we enjoy change ringing if we are lucky and get enough ringers; if not-well, we have to have second best, some very good call changes.-Yours faithfully,

CARDBOARD COMPUTERS

By JOHN SEGAR

On January 10th. 1964, I introduced a cardboard computer but it was not christened that at the time. Like the village pump, it needs to be primed. Given one answer, it immediately supplies 11 others and removes all possibility of error. It was used to prove fivepart peals In the same article I mentioned Computer No. 2 and a ten-part table, which I offered to send to all applicants. There were 40 applications the first week and a few stragglers up to six months later. So II an encouraged to explain two more cardboard computers. Rule seven columns an inch wide and enough lines across to make 91 spaces.

| Col. 1 | Computer |
| :---: | :---: |
| 2345678 | 2345678 |
| 7582634 | 573864 |
| 5783624 | 8674523 |
| 345778 | 4263857 |
| 5234768 | 3527486 |
| 7582346 | 7856347 |
| 5673224 | 6482735 |
| 385746 |  |
| 5274863 |  |
| 5372864 |  |
| 5382746 |  |
| 5342768 |  |

Copy column one, which shows the first lead head of Yorkshire Surprise Major and the heads of 12 leads which are false against it. The figures of the computer must be much enlarged so that when cut into perpendicular strips they are not too flimsy. As arranged above, it gives the headings of columns two to seven. Arrange the strips so that the toD row reads 7582634 and again the computer gives columns two to seven. Similarly with the remaining f.l.h. Copy from the strips and complete the table. These strips should be kept and can be used for other methods.
My fourth computer makes 17 transpositions at once, which on a five-part table equals 85 transpositions. It is used to prove some courses of Yorkshire which I have originated providing enough material for a peal of 18368 changes. ## SOUTHMINSTER CELEBRATES

Farmers Give Bell to Augment to Eight JULY 31st, 1966, will be a prominent date in the history of St. Leonard's Church, Southminster, Essex, for on that day the Archdeacon of Southend (the Ven. W. N. Welch) dedicated the restored and augmented ring of eight bells.

This was the Archdeacon's second visit in recent months, as on March 7th, 1965, he attended Evensong, at which he launched an appeal for the restoration of the ring of six bells. A sub-committee of the Parochial Church Council was instructed to investigate the condition of the bells and to obtain quotations for their restoration, inquiring at the same time into the cost of adding two trebles. The advice of Mr. Fredk. E. Collins of the Towers and Belfries Committee, was sought, and following his very comprehensive report, bellfounders' estimates were obtained.

The Bells Appeal Committee accepted the task of raising fuads for the work and, with sincere dedication and utter determination quickly got under way. The very successful appeal was launched, and the fund opened by the Archdeacon. This was followed by a series of fund-raising activities of a very varied nature.
The restoration work was entrusted to John Taylor and Co.. and subscriptions by local farmers for a "Farmers' Bell" meant that augmentation was inevitable. In December, 1965, the bells were removed to the foundry and the tower became silent.

SELF-DEDICATION

On the last Sunday in July that silence was broken by the joyful sound of eight bells. A short choral Evensong preceded the service of dedication, after which the Archdeacon gave a short but inspiring address to a crowded congregation. He explained that bell ringing was a form of worship and should lead to self-dedication in the service of the Church.

Immediately after the Blessing the moment arrived that all had been awaiting. The local band of ringers went into action and the bells once again rang out the good news for all to hear.

At the reception which followed the service, the Archdeacon, who was welcomed by the Vicar (the Rev. W. H. Taylor)), congratulated the parish on the rapidity with which it had completed its task. He said that the fund had now reached its target, and he was very pleased to be able to declare the appeal closed only 16 months after the launching.

Mr. G. Thorogood, the people's warden, thanked the Archdeacon for his help and encouragement by blessing the bells.

The Master of the Essex Association, Mr. R. Heazel. offered the congratulations of the Association and went on to speak of the national friendship of ringers, suggesting that the youth of the village should learn ringing as a matter of service to the Church. The ladies were congratulated and thanked by the chairman of the Appeal Committee for the superb buffet they had prepared, and which was enjoyed by about 250 people.

After the reception visiting ringers were able to try for themselves the new ring of which Southminster are so proud. All agreed hat the Loughborough foundry had done an excellent job and that the sound of the bells was most pleasing.
The Appeal Committee: President, The Vicar: charrman, R. A. Bower (P.C.C. and ringer) ; secretary, G. D. J. Sandwell (P.C.C. and ringer); treasurer, $\dot{C}$. Robinson (ringer); members L. V. Robinson. G. H. Thorogood (churchwardens), D. Robinson (P.C.C. and captain of ringers), E. Sedwell (secretary to P.C.C.), E. Potter (ringer).

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Rochester District

Over 60 members attended the Rochester District meeting at the Abbey Church of SS. Mary and Sexburga, Minster, Isle of Sheppey. on July 16 th. A very warm welcome to the Abbey (which was founded in 664 A.D.) was given by the Vicar, the Rev. R. D. Wain, who conducted the service.

Tea, kindly given by local ringers and friends, was partaken at a ncarby hall, and this was followed by a short business meeting with the Rev. R. D. Wain as chairman. A sad note was standing in silence as a tribute to the memory of John W. Coleman, of Cobham, one of she District's most promising young ringers.

Ten new members to the Kent County Association were elected, and a collection for the restoration fund of Qucenborough tower, amounting to nearly $£ 8$, was handed to Mr . S. Rayficid. Votes of thanks included one from the Vicar to the ringers for coming!
September meeting: Mcopham.

FREE LOAN EXPEDITES BATHEASTON RFSTORATION

The promise of an interest-free loan of $£ 3,000$ and the gift of two treble bells have enabled the Vicar of Batheaston, Preb. R. A. Evans, to launch a restoration appeal for his bells. Preb. Evans refused to accept the loan until two-thirds was covered by covenant subscriptions, which he now has. He hopes to raise about $£ 4,000$.
St. John the Baptist Church, Batheaston. has six bells with a tenor of 18 cwt . The earliest of the present bells is stated to be late 14 th century and will have to be replaced. It is hoped to keep this bell in the church.

The bells are to be hung lower in the tower in a modern cast iron frame. The work is expected to start in October and be completed by Easter.

KING'S SCHOOL CHANGE RINGERS, WORCESTER

DURING the past year ringing has continued

 in the school. Although St. Swithun's bells are still unringable, having been so since 1965, the Society has continued to practice regularly at All Saints' Church. Even this was not without difficulty as, for one term, only the 23 cwt. back six were ringable! Several new recruits have been laught to ring and older members have become more competent.The school, by kind permission of the Dean and the Cathedral Guild of Ringers, was allowed to ring the F sharp six for School Contirmation and Speech Day services in the Cathedral On the last Sunday of term six present members and two Old Vigornians rang the E octave for Evensong.
Tuesday, July 19th, was the Society's expedition day. During the morning six members journeyed to Wychboid and, after removing cobwebs and an accumulation of dust from the belfry, scored the Society's first peal -Doubles in 12 variations. The bells at Wychbold, although very rarely rung, went well and were an ideal choice for the first peal. The remainder of the Society arrived in a retired ambulance at $2 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$.
The ride to Hanbury, by way of a lane which became narrower and steeper, was pleasant and the bells at Si. Mary's Church were found to be an excellent octave. At St. Peter's, Droitwich, after inspecting the memorial to Edward Winslow, a Pilgrim Father and King's Scholar in the 17 th century, Plain Bob and Grandsire were rung on the pleasant light six. The sallies, each of a different colour, were appreciated more than the long ropes.

With two of the more experienced ringers leaving this term, the Sociely will have to work hard to maintain a change ringing team next year.

Thanks are due to the All Saints' team for allowing us to practise regularly, to the Worcester ringers for their continued help and encouragement and to the Rectors and Vicars of the various churches where we have rulis -P. D. T.C.

NORTH HANTS SUNDAY TRIP IN WILTS AND DORSET

The North Hants ringers' annual Sunday trip to Dorset and Wilts took place on July 3rd. Towers visited were at Donhead St. Andrew's (a good four). Semley (a fine heavy six). where Bob Minor went well, Tisbury, where the local captain joined us in Grandsire Doubles. Motcombe, our first in Dorset, Cann, Shaftesbury, little known ring of four steel bells, Melbury Abbas and Compton Abbas (two good fives), and Fontmell Magna (a good heavy siz).

Service ringing was at Iwerne Minster, the best six of the day, and also at Iwerne Courtney. where we were joined by the local captain and one of his band. On the homeward journey, by kind permission of the Vicar (a ringer himself), we had a quick ring on Great Wishford's ring of five, famous for its unusual rope circle.
Thanks go to Philip Taylor and Peter Furness for undertaking the correspondence, to all incumbents and tower captains.

HIGHAM-ON-THE-HILL

The Peak District was the venue for Higham's outing on July 9th. For the first time in three years the day of the outing was free of rain and mostly warm and sunny.

First ringing should have been at Mayfield but this tower had to be missed as a result of an unfortunate hitch in the arrangements. Good ringing was enjoyed on the six at Chapel-en-le-Frith, while some of the nonringers sampled the hospitality of a local innkeeper, who had been a ringer all his life. Lunch was taken at Glossop, followed by ringing on the eight at Old Glossop. An unfortunate incident between a young lady ringer and a stay, however, caused ringing to be curtailed.

After stopping to top up the coach's radiator halfway up the Snake Pass. the party arrived at Bakewell and a break for tea. This was followed by several good touches on the fine octave at All Saints'. The final ring was at Osmaston (6).

Thanks must go to all incumbents and tower captains and to Ivan Merry and Don Green for making the arrangements. K.P.G.

FARNHAM DISTRICT

This year the annual outing of Farnham District took the form of a tour through East Sussex and West Kent. held on July 30th when some 45 ringers and friends had a mosi enjoyable day. Our first call. Horsham, was rather prorracted, where the chaotic traffic conditions and a narrow road needed the help of the local police before the coach was able to turn round. This curtailed the ringing time allowed when Crawley was reached. A picnic lunch was taken at Coleman's Hatch, where the afternoon programme was to commence.
Withyham and Tunbridge Wells made up the afternoon ringing, which culminated in a thunderstorm accompaniment to the bells, the heavy rain continuing throughout tea.
Summing up, the ringing throughout was reasonably good, even if some of the younger ones made rather dented rounds on the widely differing weights encountered. One touch only, Yorkshire Surprise Major, refused to go. Our thanks are due to Mrs. Beryl Simpson, who organised, the tower captains who met us, also to the incumbents. R.B.

ENGAGED.-George Pluckrose and R. Joy Watkin have things in common apart from an eight-bell attempt on handbella, Both are students at St. John's College York, of which George is Ringing Master of the College Society, and both have been elected members of Yoris Minster Society.

George's home tower is Lynham, Wilts, and he is Joint Ringing Master of the Calne Branch of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild, for which Guild he has rung and conducted a number of peals.
Joy comes from Wigston Magna, Leicestershire, and specialises in conducting Stedman and in our last issue we reported her as ringing her first peal of Stedman Caters at Leicester Cathedral. An encouraping thought for the York Minster Society is that they will have Joy's services for at least another couple of years.

WINCHESTER & PORTSMOUTH DIOCESAN GUILD

T the quarterly meeting at Havant on July 23rd, 30 members and friends were present. Ringing ranged from rounds to Bristol Surprise Major. New members elected were Messrs. Harrington, Stead, Edwards, T. Gush and W. Gush and Miss Heath of Catherington.
The resignation of the District Ringing Master, Mr. W. Cope, was accepted with regret. Mr. Cope proposed as his successor Mr. John Hunt, and in doing so said that he felt that the job would be better undertaken by a younger member. The chairman seconded the proposal, which was passed unanimously. The meeting expressed very sincere thanks to Mr. Cope for his past efforts, and Mr. Hunt said that he would make every effort to imporve the ringing as his predecessor had done.
Next meeting: October 22nd, at Catherington with Hambledon.

BURGESS HILL REACH THE NEW FOREST

A party of 30 assembled for the Burgess Hill annual outing on July 30 th, and the route was through West Sussex and beyond to the edge of the New Forest.

After enjoying the bells of Bosham, the journey was continued via Havant and Portsdown Hill and nice country to Romsey. It seemed fatal to have lunch before climbing, on full stomachs, to the ringing chamber of the Abbey. However, the excellent ring justified the effort.
To New Alresford, a pretty village with a ring of eight, the route was via Winchester. Touches of Grandsire Triples and Bob Major were rung. The tea stop was at Hawkley, and afterwards the light eight there were rung to Stedman Doubles and Triples and some Grandsire under the guidance of C . Pound, a local ringer. Finally came Haslemere, where some fine ringing of Grandsire Caters was accomplished under Mr. D. Hall, captain of Burgess Hill.
The party reached home at 10 p.m. after a very successful day. Thanks go to all towers visited.

halifax and district ASSOCIATION

Surprise in Prize contest

The Halifax and District Association held it annual general meeting and prize contest at Armitage Bridge on July 30th. Four teams entered the competition-Friezland, Meltham, Roughtown and Barnsley. These four teams made history, as none of them completed the test pice of 600 changes. (How are the mighty fallen!

At the business meeting, attended by about 45 people, Mr. Chant, the judge, gave his remarks amid the good-humoured ribbing of rival teams. The meeting decided to repeat the prize contest in September at New Mill.

The officers were re-elected en bloc with the exception of the treasurer. Mrs. Greenwood was appointed to this position, with Mr. Mann as auditor.

In a more sober mood the assembled company stood in memory of the past president, Mr. Edward Earnshaw, who had given of his best for many years, a man who enjoyed good striking, helping the younger members, a man striking, heiping the younger members, a Ringing continued during the evening until 9 p.m., with the usual high standard of striking.

BELFRY GOSSIP

The peal at Rochester Cathedral on August 6th was Stuart Sandford's first tower bell peal for over 30 years.
Mr. and Mrs. John Martin, of Bendigo, write thanking those who rang congratulatory peals on the occasion of their wedding.
The peal at Shorne, Kent, on August 1st, was Trevor A. Cross's first ten-bell peal "in hand."
By ringing the fourth in the golden wedding peal at Darley Dale on August 3rd Mr. Ronald H. Bullen "circled the tower" to peals for the second time.
At last the Oxford Diocesan Guild is able o record a ladies' peal of Major. The peal was rung at Hughenden on August 6th and conducted by Miss Joyce I. Barton.

Cambridge University Guild have now completed the Stedman family from Doubles to Cinques silent and non-conducted within the last 20 months, The final peal was Doubles at Harston on August 4th.

Kenneth Cummings, of Kingsbury, Warwickshire, should be congratulated on ringing his first peal, which was at the Loughborough Bell Foundry, on the treble, not an easy bell to ring for the first time and for a first peal.

Just 100 early to arrive on the golden wedding anniversary was Mr, and Mrs. George Paulson's youngest grandson, Duncan George -the firstborn of their youngest son Michael. Young Duncan arrived on July 25th, his mother's birthday.

HONOUR FOR TOWER CAPTAIN

The name of Mr. R. H. Duke, captain of St. Peter's, Dorchester, was included in the list of those awarded the Lord Lieutenant's ceruficate for loyal and meritorious service in the Territorial Army announced early this year. He is serving with the Dorset Regiment (T.A.) and holds the rank of Corporal in the Corps of Drums and is the base drummer. He is also a member of the unit's civilian permanent staff.
The presentation of certificates took place when the regiment was at annual camp at Shorncliffe, Kent, last month, and was made by the Lord Lieutenant of Dorset (Col. J. W. Weld), who is a former commanding officer of the regiment.
Mr. Duke was appointed tower captain and tower keeper in February, 1954, and has held the position since that date.

FIRST QUARTER WELCOME HOME TO

 MOTHEREleven-year-old Philip Goodyer, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Goodyer, rang his first quarter peal on Turramurra belis on July 29 h as a welcome home to his mother and his brother Geoffrey and sister Rachel. Philip took his first lesson at the end of October, Tom Lock, leader of the English tourists, having expressed the opinion that he was old enough to learn.
When Mrs. Goodyer left Australia for her English holiday in January Philip had just started to ring open rounds. He was ready to ring a quarter peal while still 10 , but decided to wait until his mother had returned and could take part "He rang amazingly well." writes Mrs. Goodyer, who said she had an exciting welcome home. "It's wonderful to be home again.'

KNEW THE REV. F. E. ROBINSON

Canon R. J. P Peyton-Burbery, of March. an honorary member of the Ely Diocesan Association, who, although nearing his 90th birthday, recently handled a bell ip March belfry, the first time for a great manv years To "The Sentinel." the quarterly publication of the Ely Diocesan Association, which Mr Trevor A. Bevis is editing and producing, he contributes a very happy recollection of the Rev. F. E. Robinson in the Isle of Wight. With the editor's permission, this is being published on our front page
"The Sentinel" is very readable and among the articles are "Washington Cathedral" by Hilary Knight, "The Bells of Whittlesey St Mary's Church" by J N. Edwards (also a cover illustration). "Ringing in the "Past: Soham," ""Histon Team's First Peal " and reports of Ely Diocesan Association activities. ## A MONMOUTHSHIRE WEDDING

Some seven years ago "The Ringing World " contained a report of the rekindling of interest in the bells at St. Mary's Church, Panteg, Monmouthshire, when a group of young people began tuition on the ring of three. Although not one of the "founder members," one of the young ladies who soon showed keen interest in service ringing at Panteg was 14 -year-old Jennifer Meades, and it was therefore very fitting that Jenny should decide to return to her "home" tower for her wedding on July 30th to Mr. John H. Ralph, of Hayes, Middlesex. It was also a great pleasure for her ringing friends who reunited at this picturesque little church to "man the ropes" on this happy occasion. Full honours were accorded, with rounds, calls and " hunting," to welcome the bride, and "Queens" firing and more call changes as the couple departed to the reception, which was held at the Llansantflraed Court Hotel, set in spacious parkland near Abergavenny.
The honeymoon will be a three-week tour of Ireland, at the end of which the couple will move to Trowbridge, Wilts, the bridegroom being a lecturer at Bath.

Panteg tower is indebted to Jenny for the request that a collecting plate be available at the wedding service, the proceeds to be given to the rope fund. This much-appreciated gesture realised over $£ 5$.

THE WANDERER RETURNS

Few ringers can equal the traveis of Mr Albert Lancefield of the well-known Kent family of ringers. Albert left New York on the "Queen Mary" on August 10th, having come from Australia via Canada and the States. He weni with Vancouver ringers and Mrs. Margaret Goodyer to Mission City Menedictine Monastery and rang on the ten bells. Later he was in Calgary during Stampede Week and finally at Washington. His impressions of world ringing would make a fine "Ringing World" story.
> "PLAIN BOB SIMPLIFIED"
> The next article on "Plain Bob Simplified " by Mr. R. B. Smith, dealing with conducting the method, appear in our next issue.

80 SPLICED SURPRISE MAJOR

Another great achievement comes from Anthony R. Peake's band of Spliced Surprise Major. At St. George's Church, Bristol, on August 6th, they gave the Exercise a new record with a peal of 80 methods. New methods incorporated by Mr. W. Eric Critchley in the composition are Brislington, Dursley, Grendon and Prestbury, The last record was 64 methods at Stratton St. Margaret on May 21st.

GLASTONBURY PEAL WELL AND TRULY EARNED

The peal of Pudsey at Glastonbury, Somerset, was not without incident. On July 10th two of the band had to leave home at 10 a.m. with a piece of May and Hassle timber to replace a broken stay before the peal could be started at 2 p.m. However, disappointment was to follow, for at 4 p.m. there were still only seven ringers present. so they had to turn round and go home. Permission was granted for a return visit on Sunday, August 7th at 2.30 p.m.
On arriving it was discovered that the tower door was locked and that the cower captain was away and had apparently forgotten the peal attempt. The Vicar was rapidly found but he doubted whether he had a key. After searching through a chestful of keys and trying literally dozens of keys in the lock, one was eventually found that did the trick, but unfortunately it forced and damaged the lock. The tower is situated in the centre of the town and it was feared that there would be intruders (a Jehovah's Witnesses' meeting place is right under the tower) but the door could not be locked.
The next operation was to raise the bells, When if was discovered that the 2nd was "tied" and the bell chamber door was padlocked The Vicar was found again but this time he was thwarted in his frantic search to find the key, so he expertly performed a neat break-in act by snapping of the securing chain with the iron marline spike! The 2nd was untied and the remaining five of the front six tried to see if they were tied, but they were not. Four hefty males tried to pull the tenor up "right "-but try as they might they could not make it strike-who would have thought that learners were being taught on a 26 cwt. bell, for, much to everyone's surprise, that was tied !
The next problem to be encountered was that the rope of the fourth came down outside of the rope guide rather than through it. A very delicate operation was called for and eventually, after much lifting and lowering and shouting upstairs, patience was rewarded and all was ready to start.

By then the time was $3.10 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. and the bells had to be lowered by 6.30 p.m. Halfway came up at exactly 3 hours 20 speed and it was realised it would be a photo-finish whether the peal would end in time. The last half-hour was particularly nerve-wracking, with all the band having visions of an irate Vicar or churchwarden putting an abrupt end to it all. However, Ralph Edwards, on the tenor, got into "overdrive " and it did finish with two minutes to spare, despite a spot of pulley trouble which caused the 3rd to drop rather more violently than normal on two occasions..
So ended the first peal of Surprise, and indeed only the second peal of Major on this lumpy eight. which drop and snatch as the tower swings in the breeze.

COLLEGE YOUTHS' DINNER

This year's College Youths' dinner will be held at the Albert Restaurant, Albert Embankment, S.E.1, on November 5th. The restamrant is on the south bank of the Thames about midway between Lambeth and Vauxhall Bridges. The following year the Society is going back to the City of London and hope thereafter so always hold the dinners in the City.

TRE WELCOMING NORTH EAST

Dear Sir-May I, through the columns of "The Ringing World," express my sincere thanks to the ringers at Darlington, Ormesby and Heighington for accepting me as a stranger in a strange land into their ringing circles. During my eleven weeks' stay in the North East I was never short of an evening's ringing, thanks to the welcome these North East ringers gave me. May you grow from etrength to strength.-Yours truly, Penn, Stafis.

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO ALL MEMBERS OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL

The opinion has already been expressed that insufficient consideration was given at. Bath to fixing the date of the 1967 meeting. This opinion is being justified as it is becoming known that many people will have to work on the day appointed for the meeting.

In order to ensure the success of the meeting it is very desirable that the Council should take the unusual step of reconsidering the arrangement. Will every member therefore write to me before August 23rd to advise which of the following dates is most convenient for the Council meeting:

Saturday, May 27th,
Monday, May 29th,
Tuesday, May 30th.
Members to whom the date is immaterial should indicate the fact.
I shall report the outcome to the Standing Committee for that body to decide in consultation with the Southwell Diocesan Guild whether to change the date of the meeting. The Standing Committee's decision will be announced immediately in "The Ringing World."

This notice is published with the concurrence of the President.
1 must emphasise the importance of every member co-operating in this procedure.

VERNON BOTTOMLEY,
Secretary.

MIDDLESEX ASSOCIATION South and West District

$\mathrm{A}^{\mathrm{L}}$LTHOUGH pleasantly situated in the park, nowhere are the effects of the 20th century more clearly audible than at Cranford, where the M. 4 motorway runs directly along one side of the church and the main runways of London Airport are little more than a mile away on the opposite side. In this mixed setting of old and new the S. and W. District held a very successful meeting on August 6th.
Visitors to the district could well have been forgiven for thinking they had accidentally wandered into the local primary school, for about 18 offspring under the age of ten were present. In fact the average age of all those present, tactfully taking each of the ladies as being 21 , worked out to be only just in double figures. However, it is only fair to report that ringing suffered surprisingly little from the effects of the infant-packed gallery. A variety of methods was rung during the course of the afternoon, some of the best ringing being a course of Cambridge by an all-ladies' band-obviously more by luck than good judgment!
At the short business meeting which followed the tea the secretary announced details of the forthcoming special Surprise practices. Through the generosity of the Vicar and local ringers of Feltham, the District was to be allowed the use of the bells from 7.30 to 9 p.m. on the first Wednesday of the "odd" p.m. on the first wednesday of the oad months of the year, and the first practice would be on September 7th. Although it was a 10 -bell tower the emphasis would initially be on Surprise Major ringing. Five new members were also clected, including Miss M. Brichford of Cranford, who must now be he youngest member of the Association. Following the tea a cavaleade of cars set of up the motorway for evening ringing at Chiswick.

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

Famham District

A cold, blustery and wet day did nothing o deter a good attendance when Farnham District held a meeting at Crondall on August 6th. Visitors from far and near came and went while others arrived, so that the bells were kept going almost non-stop. The evening ringing became nearly Adyanced Minor, but all were catered for.
The service was taken by the Vicar, the Rev. J. W. R. Hunt, with his wife as organist. In his address he outlined the history of the Church from Saxon times. (It was a pity that the roof leaked on to the very thin thatch of your correspondent's head.) Then came an excellent tea, followed by a short business meeting, which was mostly taken up with the lack of support at Cathedral practices. Four new members were elected. A most enjoyable meeting.
R.B.

I PLUCK A DAISY WITH BOB MINOR

$I^{T}$is a fine, rosy May evening. The churchyard of St. Oswald's, Guiseley, reflects the glow of the dying sun in its plentiful fresh greenery. This is the night I have been awaiting for so long. As the pigeons wheel round the tower, I look up towards the belfry and the gold numerals on the clock glint with hope in the sunlight. It must be a success tonight. It must ! After all the arrangements and considerations, it must be a success. My seven-iwenty, I mean.
" It will be over before you know where you are." says my chief, but somehow I don't believe him. We pass through the shady lychgate that smells of moss. It won't be long mow, then we shall be up the steps of the tower, the young conductor will say, "Hello, grab ho'd!" and my stomach will . . . Oops ! 1 have just fallen over the bottom step and my companion grabs my arm. This brings me back to earth with a bump. We begin the slow, steep climb up the spiral. The tall young conductor exclaims the words I expected to hear. "Come on, grab ho'd quickly, or there won't be time for this seven-twenty!"

Here we go, myself and five men, ringing rounds. "Go next time-Bob Minor," says the conductor, and my stomach gives a sickening lurch. 1 must do it , I must do it , I nust clash, crash. The conductor shouts, but all to no avail. It is a failure, a false start. Oh, very good. Brilliant. Its a joke. We set the bells.

For goodness' sake do it right," says Alan, our conductor, "or there won't be time."

Here we go again, aiming for what we hope will be all 720 changes this time. I am thinking. I am very alert, as if electricity were flowing through my body. I must think what I am doing, I must think

Listen to them, treble, stop clipping your striking!" Alan breaks into my thoughts. Oh dear, I have been clipping it. 1 forgot that with six bells you need a wider pull than with cight. I am trying hard to concentrate, although I am also collecting impressions for writing about it afterwards. Good, I know what I am doing. The rhythm is good and even. This sort of regularity normally mesmerises me, but tonight I am determined nothing should come amiss.
"Bob!" calls Alan, and the coursing order alters. At first 1 knew the numbers in the right order, but now I cannot remember them any more, so must rely on my ears, following the bell that follows me first.
Two bells clash immediately after mine has struck. What do I do now? Look at the ropes and see which one will come nearest my next blow. I can't lose it. I mustn't Alan shouts numbers to me: I really must appear to be lost, but I am glad of his reassuring, steady voice. Another bob is called and I must listen and watch again very carefully

During the time I had been learning I kept imagining how it would feel to be ringing my Bob Minor test. What sort of emotions would I experience? I rang a three-sixty once without any trouble and thought they would aim for a seven-twenty.

I felt jubilant and overjoyed, too elated to concentrate very well. The musical peal touch had been beautiful, but a single had been called and we came round. I had been very disappointed that day.
"Here, treble, here ! " shouts Jeffery, breaking into my thoughts just in time. Goodness, how did I manage to let my mind wander? That is fatal. I should concern myself with my present, actual, Bob Minor test, never mind one touch in the past that turned out to be only half its length. How do I feel now? I am not conscious of any musicality at all. Pins and needles are beginning to creep into my left foot, which is behind my right. I am listening very carefully in order not to miss my striking, but hear no unity in the sounds, although 1 know it is going well.
"Bob!" calls Alan. Brian, who is next to me on the 2nd, has no need to shout at me. He just smiles, and that is enough to tell me I follow him now. Alan thinks I am not sure and calls numbers out. I have lost my count.
"Count your places, treble!" Alan is slightly hot under the collar as I should not have to be told something so elementary. So I count religiously-one, two, three, four, five, six, one, twa three . . . but the counting becomes a meaningless incantation. Two of us clash and I have no idea where I am. I hear shouting. I hear the bells, I am vaguely conscious of tension among the ringers who are sitting watching, yet all this is passing over my head in a confusing jumble.
"Single! And for goodness' sake count your places, treble." What a relief that Alan has called. Whenever a call is made in this method the treble always leads.

Suddenly I hear a whirring noise. This means it is 9.15 p.m. and we are just over halfway through. The whirring is from the church clock which would normally strike the time, but when bells are ringing the strikers are silenced, though the mechanism still works. It is a reassuring sound. My only thought now is that I must press on regardless. If something happens now it would be a great pity.
Now I hear many bell-sounds but they are no longer sorting themselves out into logical sequences. It is all very confusing. I look at the ropes io try and sort myself out, but they have also ceased to make sense. They seem to be dancing up and down at an ever-increasing pace before my eyes, until I feel quite dizzy.

Ropesight is an art that I have been trying to develop, but now I cannot see which rope to follow. First onc, then the other of the ringers helps me by giving me a nod of the head. raised eyebrows. a shout, or an outstretched arm to indicate whom I must follow.
"Bob!" Good, he has called again. Surely it can't go on much longer? But. contrary to my expectations, we have not come round yet. We enter another sequence. Never before have I rung so long. It feels like an eternity. If it does not end soon I fear I shall lose it. for I am beginning to feel tired and confused as well as slightly worried now, despite that fact that at the outset I was told not to worry. ## Wimborne's Example of a Live Branch

CRICKET MATCH, BEACH BARBECUE AND DINNER

THE past two months have been quite active for members of the Wimborne Branch. After an afternoon's ringing at Canford Magna on June 18th a cricket match was played in the grounds of Canford School between the Canford tower (captained by one of the Branch Masters, Mr. H. Pitman) and "The Rest" (captained by the other Master, Mr. R. Robertson). Perhaps the less said about this match the better, except that Canford reached three figures whilst their opponents struggled to reach two

Three weeks later the keen members of one Branch gathered cogether for the summer quarterly meeting, held at Swanage. The eight bells were rung to a variety of methods, in cluding Oxford Bob Triples and Little Bob Major, before and after the service, conducted by the Rev. H. D. Anderson, and the brief business meeting. Although the Swanage ladies provided a wonderful tea, this did not seem to have any marked effect upon the appetites of members later in the evening at what was the highlight of the day-a barbecue on the beach, organised by the Fuller family. All were responsible for their own cooking, and several husbands were seen consuming "burnt offerings" which would not have been tolerated at their own table! It was also noticeable that the numbers attending on the beach far exceeded the numbers seen at tea or ringing.

FIRST BRANCH DINNER

Friday, July 22nd. saw a return once again to Canford School for another new enterprise a Branch dinner. Eighty ringers and their wives and friends sat down to an excellent meal prepared by the school staff. Guests of honour were the president of the Salisbury Guild (Mr. W. C. West) and his wife, the Master of the Guild (the Rev. R. N. Longridge) and his wife, and Mr. and Mrs. F Price, of Southbourne. It was also a pleasure to have the incumbents of the "active towers in the Branch together with some officers and friends from the neighbouring Christchurch Branch of the Winchester Guild

After the loyal toast the chairman of the Branch (Mr. L. J. Lockyer) said a few word about the dinner, mentioning how various members of the committee had worked hard to make the occasion a success, particularly Mr. H. Pitman and Mrs. J. Robertson, the secretary. Thanks were also due to the head-

I PLUCK A DAISY WITH BOB MINOR

 (Continued from front page)A few of us clash and I am very confused " Come on, treble, you'll make it now," says Alan. "You must!" He reminds me of the coursing order; I go once more in and out. Before I lead again he calls "Single!" and miraculously we come round at last.
"That's all!" he calls.
You mean we've made it? "I say, hardly daring to hope so. Alan smiles.
"Well, we must have done. We've come round. haven't we? We nearly didn't though. Stand !". Then it is really over. My sigh of relief, very audible in the small, belfry, feels as if it could blow the windows out quite easily. I have made it. At last I can stop plucking that daisy in my mind-will I, won't I. will I manage it. because now I know. There is a general air of light-hearted jubilance We all descend into the warm dusk. stil with a streak of red in the west. Everybody is talking at once, bringing up fresh evidence in the post-mortem of this, my initiation to the Yorkshire Association. Just now I do not feel as thrilled as I imagined I would, thinking there have been too many mistakes and narrow escapes, but as if he knows what I am think ing. Jeffery reassures me. "You have done very well," he says. "I have heard worse very well, he says.
"Make sure you look up "inside' bells now. then we'll see about a quarter peal." says Brian. At Guiseley they do not let you rest on your laurels. For the present. 1 picture the much-coveted Yorkshire Association badge dancing in front of my eyes-the badge that will at last be pinned on my lapel.
master for allowing the Branch to hold the dinner in such grand surroundings: to Mr. Frewer, who acted as intermediary between the school and ringers, and to Mr. G Grout for providing the hand-printed tickets. He then called upon Mr. West to address the company.

Mr. West said he thought the occasion was unique in the 84 years of the Guild's history: he was certain that this was the first time that any Branch had held such a gathering. It was a particular pleasure to him that his the idea. He hoped the dinner would become an annual event.

The Master of the Guild (the Rev. R. N. Longridge) also added his congratulations.

The entertainment followed in the library. A group of singers and an accompanist from Swanage sang a medley of songs and excerpts from shows. Then followed a slide show given by Mr. Fred Price dealing with his visit to Washington in 1964 to teach a band of ringers at the new Cathedral there. The slides were of a high standard, accompanied by most careful descriptions, and showed various parts of the United States as well as a comprehensive guide to the States as well as a comprehensive guide to the Federal capital. Mr. Lockyer thanked Mr Price.
The three above events are the result of a questionnaire sent out some 15 months ago to all the towers in the Branch, the idea being to liven up the Branch and get the ringers to take part in social activities other than ringing. Let us hope that the standards set this year will be continued in the future.

PETER BORDER'S TRIUMPH AT LIVERPOOL

AFEAT that is only likely to be equalled in a decade was performed by Mr. Peter Border at Liverpool Cathedral on August 13th, when he rang the tenor of 82 cwt .11 lb singlehanded to a peal of 5,280 Cambridge Surprise Maximus. The peal was completed in 4 hours and 48 minutes.
This is the first time that Liverpool Cathedral tenor has been rung single-handed, and it was also the first peal of Cambridge Surprise Maximus on the bells. A previous attempt was unsuccessful.
On May 8th, 1965, Peter Border rang the 721 cwt. tenor of Exeter Cathedral to the same composition of Mr. F. Dench single-handed This was the first time this bell had been turned in single-handed; indeed it had only once been rung to a peal single-handed when it was drummed to Stedman Caters by William Pye. The Cathedral then had only ten bells.

Both the Exeter peal and that at Liverpool were conducted by Wilfred Williams. There were six others who rang in both peals, viz: Rev. R. O. Fry, John A. Anderson, Tudor P Edwards, John S. Mason, Ralph G. Edwards and Kenneth J. Hesketh.
It is interesting to note that Peter's 1,000 th peal, rung at St. Philip's Cathedral on April 22nd, 1965, was also 5,280 Cambridge Surprise Maximus. Again he rang the tenor, but the composition he conducted was his own arrangement.

Few will deny Peter's claim of being the finest living ringer today. He is indeed the King of Tenor Kings !

Rates Reduced Through Bell Ringing

A CASE of more than local interest was heard by Hitchin Valuation Panel in which Mr. Sidney F. Stapleton, of The Old Vicarage, Norton. succeeded in getting the rateable value of his house reduced from $£ 210$ to $£ 194$. His main complaint was that the bells caused a complete nuisance.

He said: "Very often they go on late into the night-keeping the children awake and making people ill. They're enough to keep the Devil awake. When they have bellringing practices I generally clear off out. It's a diabolical noise."
He went on: "I would tolerate the bells if there was a religious significance. I was brought up on the Bible and have read it through time and time, again-but it only mentions bells three times."

A letter signed by the Vicar of Norton (the Rev. M. C. O. Mayne) and the two churchwardens (Messrs. E. E Shaw and D. E. A. Sanderson) refuting the allegations made by Mr. Stapleton appeared in "The Pictorial." Their letter states: "In eight months the bells have been rung at four weddings. on March 5 th and 19 th and twice on April 2nd. Four peals have also been rung-three in the morning (ending 12.30) and one, April 2nd, in the late afternoon."

To Mr. Stapleton's evidence "They went on ate into the night on this occasion," the reply was "This special peal. which was rung to celebrate the wedding of a local bellringer, lasted two and three-quarter hours and ended at 6.30 p.m.

THREE PRACTICES

"When they have bellringing practices I generally clear off . . it's a diabolical noise." There is no group of bellringers at Norton. but the Baldock ringers have practised on three occasions, on January 6th. May 5th and June 2nd, from 7.30 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Confirmation of the times the peals finished was given in a letter by Mr. C. H. Orme, fordshire Association.

Mr. Stapleton, in reply, alleges that the Vicar and his wardens must have been furnished with a misleading report by the bellsingers. He writes: "On April 2nd one peal was rung in the afternoon for a wedding held at Norton, no one grumbles about that, but another peal followed, namely, 5,600 changes of Cambridge Surprise Major, the bells ringing. or rather making an ear-splitting noise, until late into the night. keeping children awake, and in one case making an old lady ill for several days. If the peal of 5,600 changes ended at 6.30 p.m., who rang the bells late into the night-ghosts or were they spirits?

" AUDIBLE INCENSE

Miss J Sanderson, who learned to ring at Norton and now lives at Melbourn, wrote:"The bells of Norton were cast and hung there for the purpose of praising God: whenever they are rung they tell of thankfulness, joy and sympathy They are audible incense' even if they do incense Mr. Stapleton.

The complaint that children are kept awake until 'late at night' is absurd. If 9 p.m. is late, what are they doing watching TV or playing outside the house as I have seen on non-bellringing nights in the village of Norton. In July, 1964. sound-absorbing material was placed in the tower and its efficiency was generally appreciated.
" Regarding the peal on April 2nd quite a lot can be said. Seven out of the eight would accept their words. There would have been fewer than three hours' ringing, and the peal could not have continued "until late into the night.

- Regarding the 'one poor old lady who was made ill for three days, who was she? Was the Vicar informed of the illness of one of his narishioners? There is a relevant rubric in the Bonk of Common Prayer. The Guild of Medical Ringers would also be interested professionally if the ringing of the bells was the sole cause of her distress."

darlington ringers' week in the isle of wight

LAST summer Fred Hodgson put forward to ringers in the Darlington area a suggestion for a ringing tour of the Isle of Wight. It was taken up with enthusiasm, and through the winter and spring he worked away at the organisation of a trip which would cover every ringable tower in the island.
On July 30 th the party arrived by various routes at Ryde, the base for the tour. It consisted of Fred and Mrs. Hodgson. Mr. and Mrs. Tom Cooke, the Misses Brenda and Janet Cooke, Miss Janet Warwick and Ernest Pannell (St. Cuthbert's, Darlington), Mr. Tom Cox, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Wishart, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Yates and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hickman (St. Cuthbert's, Ormesby), Mr. Ted Hudson (Ripon Cathedral), Miss Isobel Hart (Whixley, York) and a non-ringing friend, Mr. W. Ward.

We began ringing earlier than we had expected, for on Saturday night the sound of the bells of All Saints', Ryde, attracted those making a reconnaissance of the town, and when an attempt at a quarter of Stedman Triples by another band of visitors broke down, the North Country ringers were able to get in a little practice for the service ringing next day.

With a full muster at the tower on Sunday morning. joined by other visitors, we enjoyed ringing methods from Plain Bob to Bristol on this fine octave (tenor 26 cwt .), and returned again in the afternoon for another hour's ringing.

Our travels in the island began on Monday morning, with a scouting party going ahead to get the towers open (sometimes even to raise the bells) and the rest using the excellent bus services. First call was at the attractive church at Brighstone, where Cambridge went well on the easy-going light six, a Ladies Guild ream rang Grandsire Doubles, and the visit ended with one of Fred's mixtures of plain Minor methods. Then came the run out to Freshwater, a scenic delight on a sunny day, and when we eventually found the church we enjoyed ringing this heavier six (tenor $16 \frac{1}{2}$ cwt .). The tower is built astride the west wall of the church, and the ground-floor ringing chamber is a little cramped, but here again the bells went very well.

GLAD THEY HAD HAD ENOUGH!

Tuesday morning found us at Niton, the only five-bell tower on the tour, and ringing began with a touch of Original Doubles. Stedman, Grandsire and Plain Bob Doubles were the staple fare. Whitwell's six were something of a trial. They went awkwardly, perhaps through lack of use and attention, and after a little ringing we were forcibly reminded of the man who found the beer little to his liking and commented that he would be glad when he had had enough!

In heavy rain we waited for the bus to Godshill, and here we found compensation for Whitwell's bells deficiencies. This splendid six Was rung with real pleasure to Cambridge Double Court, Double Oxford and several other methods This is a popular village with courists, and we had a number of interested spectators in the lower for most of the time.
Wednesday was a free day and the party split into groups, some to Cowes. others to Shanklin or Ventnor, and one loyal son of Yorkshire to Portsmouth to see Hampshire getting a hiding on the cricket field there.

Thursday saw us at Arreton. again a very attractive church with a good six which went very well. After lunch we moved on to Brading and found the eight there very pleasant to ring and to listen to. Double Norwich and Stedmar Triples were among the methods rung.

NEWPORT BELLS IN NEED OF

The last day of the tour took us to Newport and Carisbrooke. At Newport the long draught and the amount of stretch in the ropes made for uncomfortable handling, and after a touch of Stedman Triples had been brought round, a broken stay ended the ringing. An inspection of the bells showed that they suffered much from pigeons (two of which were trapped in the tower stair), and that the lower frame had a good deal of movement in it. The bells are a mixed eight, mostly from the 17 th and 18 th centuries, hung very high in the tower. It would be nice to hear that they were to receive the attention they need, for the tone is quite good.
Carisbrooke's octave was a sheer delight. both to hear and to ring. We were inspired to a touch of three-spliced Surprise Major and also rang Stedman and Double Norwich, but ended the tour with an inglorious failure to bring round a touch of Duffield.

On two evenings there was ringing-on Tuesday when, in spite of pouring rain, everyone turned up to join the Ryde ringers at their practice, and on Thursday, when five of the keenest took ship to Portsmouth, and there received a most kindly welcome and an opportunity to ring on the glorious ten at the Cathedral.

For all the pleasure this excursion gave us we are indebted most of all to Fred Hodgson for his impeccable organisation. This gratitude found expression in the tower at Carisbrooke, where Tom Cooke, on behalf of the party, presented Fred with a ringer's badge for his car, and thanked him for all the work he had put in.
We achieved our object of visiting all ringable towers but for Chale, where woodworm has put the bells out of action. E.P.

EAST SUSSEX OUTING

On May 7th. 12 ringers from Warnham. Billingshurst and Horsham set out for a day's ringing at various towers in East Sussex.
The bells at the first tower, Little Horsted (a ground-floor six), were of good tone, although the "go " left something to be desired. Touches of Stedman, Grandsire and Cambridge were rung. Another ground-floor ring at East Hoathly (6) followed.
Waldron bells proved to be a very good eight. We tapped them round to Stedman and Grandsire Triples, followed by Plain Bob and Cambridge Major.

At Hellingly we were welcomed by the tower captain and enjoyed ringing on a noisy but musical six. A very well-kept ringing chamber was noticed here and similar conditions were found at our second eight-bell tower, at Hailsham, where standard methods were rung.

The band split up for lunch, two cars making their way to Hastings and the third wound its way through narrow-twisting lanes across marshland to a very quiet part of the seashore. At Christ Church. Blacklands, Hastings, we found the best bells of the day. Unfortunately. partly because of the heat, we did not do justice to the fine Taylor 20 cwt . eight.

Moving into the town itself we found the bells at All Saints' to be a fairly good ring of eight. The Taylor replacement ring at St. Clement's was next on the list and, after adjusting ourselves to the long draught and springy ropes, we rang some rounds, followed by Grandsire and Stedman Triples and a course of Cambridge.
The first tower after tea. St. Mary's, Battle, contained a ring of eight with a 21 cwt . (approximate) tenor; some rhythmic well: struck ringing was achieved on these bells. After ringing round the font at St . Peter's, Bexhill, the day concluded at Westham (6).
The success of the outing was due to the splendid organisation of David Smith, of Horsham. M.I. D.

〔YLVIA'S STEDMAN CINQUOPATORS

AND so it becomes my lot to write the report again.
This year we syncopated Suffolk bells on August 6th, the first of the day being in the tall, flint-flushwork tower of St. Mary's, Woodbridge.

Ringing commenced with a touch of Grandsire Triples, followed by a course of the day's first special method-Little Grandsire Triples. This is similar to Grandfather's normal Triples, but with the two hunt bells running out no further than fifths, and fish and chips at the back, like Cambridge. Being somewhat confounded with Little Grandsire, the team was unable to manage Stedman Triples, the next touch.
The second tower protruded above the quaint old knobbly red-brick chimneys at Framlingham. Cambridge faltered and fired. likewise Stedman, but our Little Grandsire found its way home alone.

At Saxmundham the second car arrived a little late, so the first to arrive were ably assisted by two young local ringers, brother and sister, to ring Bob Doubles. This contained among the best of the day's striking. Then followed some call changes with cartwheel leads and Sylvia's second special. Oswald Minor. Oswald is a curious combination of Cambridge and Kent.

Four miles to Yoxford, and Kent and Oxford. Then the third special, Original Minor with dozens of Plain Bob bobs called almost every second, and it came round! Oswald was given another hearing to end the morning's programme.

Refreshed after a swim and a pienic lunch at Southwold-on-Sea, we conquered a touch of Stedman Triples there with the assistance of John Crawley, on boliday from Chelmsford. Little Grandsire and Double Court Triples followed.

In St. Edmund's Church at Kessingland, after more Original, the lonely lion gargoyle suffered our version of London Minor. We attempted and lost a touch of Little Grandsire at Pakefield the thatched church on the eroding cliff edge, and reverted to a plain course. The last tower was at Gorleston. We managed some most reasonable Stedman and Double Couri Triples. The company wound up the outing with a couple of courses of Chinese in Yarmouth.
Our thanks on to the clergy and all who met us, to Sylvia and Phil Bedford, who arranyed the trip, and to the Met. Office for providing the weather. Next year's special method will be Boat Race, a sort of syncopated Surprise combination helieved to have originated from beneath Putney Bridge about 1929.

PEALS HAVE THEIR PLACE

Dear Sir,-I doubt very much whether Mr. Collins' theories and statistics bear much relation to "Ringing World" sales. His contention that those who don't ring peals have no interest in their publication is rather like saying that sports papers would be better if they wasted less space in publishing the soccer or cricket results.
In the majority of cases. if ringers aren't interested in ringing peals or quarter peals to improve their standards, they are not really interested in achievement, and if they aren t interested in achievement all the interesting articles in the world are not going to induce them to buy "The Ringing World," however good it is. Peals are news in themselves. whatever people feel about them, and their exclusion would mean that outstanding achievements such as the Border peal at Exeter, or the recent peal of Maximus at York, would pass unnoticed, which is quite ridiculous.

I'm afraid I don't share Mr. Collins' views on providing a page for beginners in the paper, although 1 respect his motives. The nitial training when a recruit is finding his feet will be provided by the tower captain and the band he rings with. and this practical encouragement will tell whether the bug bites. If it does, and he reaches the method-ringing. stage, text books are available to start hin on his way. He requires a book giving concentrated progression, whereas one page in "The Ringing World" strung out over many weeks will not provide in itself the sort of continuity he is looking for at that time.
It is only when he starts to get around and meets other ringers that his interest quickens, and at that stage "The Ringing World " is there to provide the news and start filling in the background of the Exercise.

On the whole, the general reader is pretty well catered for, and I'm sure that if Mr. Collins puts a stronger lens in his telescope he will see that there is more in our paper for the average reader than he gives it credit for.-Yours sincercly.

WILLIAM HEWETT

Dear Sir,-Although it is a few years since I have been able to do any ringing, I have always taken "The Ringing World" and feel 1 must add a tribute to the note on the birthday peal rung in honour of Bill Hewett's 80 th birthday and 60 years' service to St. Margaret's. He has a grand record and is to be congratulated on this.
I remember that some years ago I was asked to be one of a band to make a broadcast and Bill Hewett took the utmost pains to ensure that the touch was of the right length. thus giving the organist and choir their fair share of time on the air.
When we tried to start a band at St . George's, Camberwell. he did all he could to help us, and I do know that many visitors to London could not have rung at a London tower had not Bill organised it for them. His Sunday night touches shortly after the war years will illustrate this.
Bill has not only been of help to change ringers. I know of many times when he has been content to help young ringers by ringing and calling call changes. Altogether he is ringing fraternity and I hope that this will appear in "The Ringing Worid" for many years to come.-Yours faithfully.

PLACE NAMES OF GREATER LONDON PEALS
Dear Sir,-In submitting to you details of a peal rung in a tower situated in the county of Greater London it has occurred to me that there is no standard practice for recording peals rung in this area.
In other parts of the country the practice is to record the name of the village. town or city, followed by the name of the county in which it is situated. In certain large towns and cities the name of the locality is printed after the dedication of the church. This can hest be described as an administrative address rather than a postal one, from which in many cases it will differ.
In Greater London any variation of the administrative or postal addresses is used hence we read of St. Paul's-London E.C.; St. Vedast's-City of London: Croydon- Surrey; Putney-London; Willesden-Middlesex: Woodford-Essex, to name but a few.
No doubt the lack of adequate guidance on the subject, coupled with a natural reaction by individuals to a change such as was brought about by the London Government Act, has produced the existing situation.
peal rung at St. Mary's. Walthamstow, on April 10th, 1965 , is recorded in the manner which I suggest should be used for all future Greater London peals. It shows the borough, county, dedication and locality-"Waltham Forest, London.- At the Church of St. Mary, Walthamstow."-Yours sincerely,

A CONSTANT READER'S COMMENTS

Dear Sir.-Recent issues of our paper reveal some startling facts, and on page 524 we find that the income received from five peals produced $£ 10$ s. $6 d$.. yet 57 peals are recorded on pages 529 to 532, and one ringer has a total of six rung for three Associations. Turning to the quarters, we figure that 44 places record nearly $£ 7$, a much improved sum.

Congratulations to my old friend, Bill Heweti, for 60 years' service at St. Margaret's, Westminster, and his 80th hirthday. "May your health improve: and he sure to take yood care of yourself during the cold weather."
The Pipe's Pilgrims' tour made interesting reading and much good should result. The Westminster Abbey account was enjoyable, but why was it kept such a secret? Other bodies will be asking the Dean for quarter peals in the near future.
I would like to thank those ringers who have called to see me, also those who have written to me regarding my health. I cahnot walk very far, due to a disability, and it is nearly 20 years since 1 rang a peal, but 1 trust it will he possible to be of service to trust it will he possible to he of service to ringers and ringi

[^22]COLLECTION OF DOUBLES METHODS *
Dear Sir,-I have been following the "Collection of Doubles Methods" with great interest. However, I have been somewhat puzzled by the inclusion of named methods involving the use of "Dragon singles." I do not see how any method using this work can possibly have been rung to a true peal and hence how any of these methods can have been legitimately named. The same applies to the Dragon hob" methods. which are not so obviously false. It would be interesting to know the source of these methods.

I believe there is an error in the naming of the "New" versions of Newark and Wollaton on page 135. New Newark is given as Wollaton backwards and vice versa.-Yours faithfully,

Guernsey

JOHN DAVID.

Dear Sir, - Reference Mr. John David's letter.

The reasons for compiling the "Collection of Doubles Methods" were to list all the known named methods and to attempt to "clear up" the confusion caused by methods having more than one name or by two or more methods having the same name. These reasons gave scope for the inclusion of false methods as well as true ones and for the inclusion of methods with a plain course other than $30,40.60$ or 120 changes.
These methods cannot be legitimately named (i.e. rung to a true peal and named) because they are false, and any peal containing them would be false.

The source of these methods (and many others) is not known. Some were sent to me as a result of a letter in "The Ringing World," others I have discovered as I moved about England and Wales. Before the 19391945 War there was a search for new methods and this search may have continued throughout the war. Methods may have been "composed " and named but not rung.

After the war, when bell ringing restarted, these methods were taken out and rung. Having found that they were false, they were abandoned by most. On the other hand, a ringer or group of ringers may have searched for "variations" to give to bands which could only ring Grandsire and Plain Bob as a change. To denote the difference between each "new method " each variation was given a name.
Mr. David is correct-there is an error in the naming of New Newark and New Wollaton; they have been transposed. My apologies for the error.-Yours faithfully,

ROY M. JONES.

TRURO DIOCESAN GUILD

The annual diocesan festival was held at Truro on July 30th. Some 75 ringers attended despite the counter attraction of the World Cup Final, and those who were there managed hy various means to keep in fairly close contact with the position at Wembley. The ringers came from as far apart as Paul and Saltash, and we were pleased to welcome a few of our friends from Devon as well as several visitors on holiday.

The Guild Office was taken in the Cathedral by Canon J. A. Simcock, who apologised for the absence of the Dean. The Canon Librarian read the Guild Collects. and the Bishop of Truro in his address commended the ringers for their loyal attendance

Tea was served by the lady ringers of the Cathedral and Kenwyn, who were thanked by Mr. H. Miles, of Lelant. Mr. Alan Carveth. the Guild president, thanked the clergy for their attendance.

Ringing at the Cathedral, which was supervised by the president and the Guild Ringing Master (Mr. Douglas Burnett). ranged from rounds and call changes to a touch of Grandsire Caters just before the service. A.J.D.

OBITUARY

MR. J. B. BLDD
The Lincoln Diocesan Guild lost a greatly respected member with the death of Mr. John Benjamin Budd of Grimsby at the advanced age of 88 .

He had spent the greater part of his life in Grimsby, being in business in the town between the wars, and after some years in Lancashire he returned to Grimsby in his retirement. He was a Boer War veteran and liked to recall his exploits in the cavalry in those far-oft days.
No record of his peals is to hand but he look part in a number in a variety of methods. His last peal was the first on the new ring of ten at Grimshy Parish Church at the age of 85 !-a remarkable performance.
A peal attempt for Grandsire Caters at his request had been arranged for the diamond wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Budd on September 10th, but this was not to be: the peal was rung on August 8th in memory of a man we are proud to have known.
J. B.

MR. JOHN BENJAMIN BCDID  AN APPRECIATION

It was my privilege and pleasure to meet Mr. J. B. Budd when he and his wife came to live in Mold. Flintshire, early in 1950, after he had retired from business as a grocer in Manchester. and when he had so soon foulld his way to Chester Cathedral to join the band, who rang frequently for Evensong on the first and third Sundays of the month. He soon proved his ability and worth as a ringer by his knowledge and consistent attendance, and hefore long was a regular member of the peal hand under the leadership of the late Percy Swindley.
He was then 72 years of age and until that time. because of service in South Africa during the Boer War years and his business. he had only rung 49 peals, but still had hopes of getting his 100 . What a man!

I rang in the first of his "Chester pedls "Plain Boh Major at Pulford on June 12th. 1950. which was a birthday compliment 10 him, and then 48 of the second So until we rang his louth peal-Doutle Norwich Court Bob Major, also at Pulford, on March 27th. 1954
What a record! Seventy-two years to get his first 50 and four years to get the second 50 !
After iwo more peals he and his wife moved from :Nold to Scarthoe. Grimsby. where he was to renew old associations and become a member of the Sunday service band at St James".

Throughout his long life his love for and trust in Almighty God was paramount, and seldom in his writings to me did he fail to make some reference to God's mercy and blessings. The following from his last letter in me. dated June 12th, 1966, is typical. following a reference 10 his inability 10 go ringing: "At 88, passage of time lakes toll of us al! who in God's providence can stay so long and indeed at all times of life."
I cannot end without reference to his unique knowledge of Church architecture through the ages and it was a very rewarding and educational experience to go with him into any of our churches, as it was my privilege to do on many occasions.

Truly was this man a Christian and one of natures gentlemen.

To his son. a ringer at Rugby, and to his widow, herself approaching 90 years of age, we of the North Wales Association. Wrexham area, and the Chester Branch of the Chester Diocesan Guild, extend our deepest sympathy. May he rest in peace.

THE MASIERY OF PLAIN BOB MINOR

By Robert B. Smith, conductor of the peal of the Extent of Bob MajorPart III : Calls, Coursing Orders and Touches

WWHEN we considered the effect of calls we saw that only three bells could be affected by any one call. Let us consider that these bells are coursing in the order $\mathbf{A}, \mathbf{B}, \mathbf{C}$ (i.e. $B$ is following round after $A$, and $C$ is following after B). At a bob the first bell in the order (A) makes 4ths, the second bell (B) runs out, and the third bell (C) runs in. We may list the position of the three bells at the lead end, after a bob has been called as shown below:

\begin{array}{ll}
\text { 2nds position } & \text { C } \\
\text { 3rds position } & \text { B } \\
\text { 4ths position } & \text { A }

From the plain coursing order (53246) we know that the bells in the positions 234 at the lead end are following round in the order 324. Referring to the letters for the position of the bells (because it could be any three affected), we see that the new coursing order has become BCA.
If we consider the effect of singles on the coursing order, ABC becomes CBA by the same method of reasoning.
Rule 5. At a bob the coursing order ABC becomes BCA (i.e. the first of the three bells concerned becomes the last).
Rule 6. At a single the coursing order ABC becomes CBA (i.e. the first and last of the three bells interchange).

At first it may be found to be difficult to remember what the new coursing order is after a call, or series of calls. but regular practice should soon resolve this problem. One will appreciate that there is only a limited number of different coursing orders even if calls are made at all the different positions of the tenor bell. In practice this number is reduced further still as calls are usually restricted to certain specific positions of the tenor bell (at the lead end). With practice many coursing orders become familiar. which is often a help in transposition.
In the last paragraph it was mentioned that calls are usually limited to certain positions of the tenor bell. This bell is then referred to as the observation bell (i.e. all the other bells are considered in relation to the observation bell). An alternative way of referring to an observation bell is to call it a fixed bell. because it is not normally affected by any calls.

At this point we will find it more useful to consider Plain Boh Major, as there are only two positions in Plain Bob Minor where the tenor bell is not affected by hobs. The positions of the tenor hell at consecurive lead ends in the plain course of Plain Bob Major, may be written down as follows:
7. 5. 3. 2. 4. 6. 8.

The positions in black type are the ones where calls are normally made and are given the following names
7 ths is called the wrong position (on eight bells only). The wrong position is next to the starting position of the tenor on all numbers. This means that the wrong position on six bells will be sths and on ten bells will be 9ths.
2nds is called the before position. In actual fact the tenor bell does not finish in 2nds position at the lead end as it runs out at the bob and finishes in 3rds position. In this respect the tenor is affected by the call. but the bob does not affect the relative positions of 7 and 8, as we will now show.
Referring to Rule 5 we see that at a hob the coursing order ABC becomes BCA. From this we can see that $\mathbf{B}$ and $\mathbf{C}$ have not been affected in relation to each other and this is the position of 7 (C) and 8 (B) at the "the position of ${ }^{\text {before }}$ position.

6ths is called the middle position and is the nosition immediately next to the rrong position on all numbers. This means that the middle position on ten bells will be 8ths.

Note-On six bells there is no middle position. It would have been 4ths, but the be!l which would have been in this position runs in at a bob and so becomes affected. This is the reason that we have considered Plain Bob Major rather than Plain Bob Minor.
8ths is called the home position and is the position from which the tenor starts on all numbers. This means that on ten bells the home position will be l0ths and on six bells 6ths.

Now that we know the calling positions and how to transpose the coursing orders of the three bells concerned at calls, all that we need to know in addition is" "which three bells are affected by each call." We will consider the calls in the order in which they occur in the course.
Calls at Wrong.
Calls at this position affect the first three bells in the coursing order (i.e. in the plain course 532, which will then course 325).

Calls Before.

Calls at this position affect the bells 687 in the plain coursing order, which will then course 876.

Note.-It is usual to exclude 8 and 7 from the coursing order as it is only in unusual compositions where we find that 7 is not coursing after 8. These will be referred to later.

Calls at Middle.

Calls at this position affect the last three bells in the coursing order (i.e. in the plain course this will be 246 , which will then course 462).

Calls at Home

Calls at this position affect the middle three bells in the coursing order (i.e. in the plain coursing order this will be 324 , which then course 243).

TOUCHES

We have now considered the effects of calls at each normal position in Plain Bob Major. We have all the pieces, and now have to put them together.

The plain course of Plain Bob Major contains 112 changes (seven leads, each of 16 changes). To ring more changes than this, without repetition, we must call bobs and/or singles, and the ringing is then called a touch. (A peal is a touch of at least 5.000 different changes.) In order to practise transposing coursing orders it is best to consider short touches, which can then be put into practice when one becomes competent at ringing the method.

Consider now the following touch of Plain Boh Major, which is written down in the normal form (which will be explained later):

\begin{array}{ccc}
160 \\
\mathbf{W} & \text { PLAIN BOB MAJOR } \\
\hline & \mathbf{M} & \mathrm{H}
\end{array}

1st lead.-Coursing order 53246.
The bells are passed in this order (with the treble between 3 and 2).
Note.-It is understood that 87 are following after the last bell in the coursing order.
2nd lead.-Coursing order 32546 following the hob at "wrong.
The bells are passed in this order (with the treble again hetween 3 and 2).
3rd lead.-Coursing order again 32546.
The bells are passed in this order (with the treble now in between 7 and 3).
4th lead.-Coursing order still 32546.
The bells are passed yet again in this order (with the treble this time in between 8 and 7).
5th lead,-Coursing order now 63254 following the first bob " before.
The bells are passed in this order (with the treble again between 8 and 7 .
6th lead. Coursing order now 46325 following the second bob "before."

The bells are passed in this order (with the treble again between 8 and 7).
7th lead. - Coursing order now " 54632 following the third bob "before."
The bells are passed in this order (with the treble yet again in between 8 and 7).
8 th lead.-Coursing order still 54632.
The bells are passed in this order (with the treble now between 2 and 8 ).
9 th lead.-Coursing order still 54632.
The bells are passed in this order (with the treble now between 3 and 2).
10th lead.-Coursing order now 54326 following the bob at "middle."
The bells are passed in this order (with the treble again between 3 and 2). A bob at "home" at the end of this lead brings the coursing order back to 53246 and rounds.
The following "touches" are often called by conductors and are worth experimenting with to help transposition of coursing orders.
(1) 224 PLAIN BOB MAJOR

\frac{\mathrm{W}}{\square} \quad \underline{\square}

Note.-This touch can be used on all numbers (i.e. for Minor, Major, Royal and Maximus).
(2)

240 PLAIN BOB MAJOR

Note. -The reason most composers use $x$ for a call "before" is to indicate that it alters the length of the course. (In Plain Bob Major if adds a lead.)

WILLINGDON TOWER RESTORATION FETE

On Wednesday, August 3 rd. the annual church fete was held at Timbers, Church Street, Willingdon, in aid of the restoration of the church tower. During the past two years the ringing chamber has been restored and redecorated, but earlier this year the church clock kept losing and inspection found the trouble to be the four clock faces.
As the work would entail the placing of scaffolding all round the tower it was decided to do as much work as possible whilst this was available. This will include repairs to the cedar shingles, scaling, etc., of the ancient tower walls, replacement of gutters and the renovation of the four clock faces, altogether approximately $£ 1,000$
The bellringers were represented on the Fete Committee by Mr. R. W. R. Percy. who undertook to run the cokernut shies, etc.
Mrs. Betty Percy suggested loaning the model of a mediaval bell foundry from Mr. George Elphick. of Lewes, and a tent was provided for this. The weather turned sunny on the day and hundreds of people came to support the great effort of the various organisations of the church. Mrs. Percy took charge of the bellringers' tent, which proved to be a focal point of the fete $A$ guess the weight of an old bell clapper competition, run by Miss Susan Percy. also proved successful.
The fete was a great success and $£ 780$ was taken on the day; this has now increased to over $£ 800$. A great effort and a great result.

BELFRY GOSSIP

The peal of Grandsire Triples at Southam for the Coventry Diocesan Guild (page 529) was J. J. Parker's 12-part, and the conductor was Siephen F. Royal.
Mr. Alexander Brislane, of St. Mary's Cathedral, Limerick, has been elected a life member of the Irish Association in recognition of his 50 years' service to ringing at the Cathedral.

The latest to emanate from Bushey is the first peal of Surprise Royal in five methods on handbells. It was composed and conducted by John R. Mayne. Congratulations to all concerned.
The footnote to the peal of Aldenham Surprise Royal at Southover on July 30th (page 532) should have read: "First peal of Royal in the method by all the band," and not as printed.
A pair of lady's shoes was found in St. Peter's, Brighton. belfry, near the second rope, after the peal arranged by Ron Diserens on July 23rd. If the owner would like these returned would she please contact Miss Catherine Powell, 33, Vernon Terrace, Brighton.

Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Staniforth were pleased to welcome Mr. Gerald Moorhouse back to Leicester again after a lapse of 44 years. Although being absent from regular handbell ringing for a number of years (until recently joining the Marple band), he is to be congratulated for the way in which he rang his handbells at The Wayside.

AN ADJUNCT TO OXFORD

Among the freshers this October at Excter College. Oxford, is Stephen Royal, the 18 -year-old son of the Kenilworth tower captam, who has done much to help forward ringing in Mid- and East Warwickshire.
Stephen has participated in a highly varied assortment of peals since his debut about two years ago. Indeed, his second peal was London Surprise Major on a working bell. His peals include Stedman Caters, four Spliced Surprise Major and Minor methods up to 37 in number. He conducted the Coventry Guild's present record of 43 Doubles methods) variations to a peal earlier this year.

On St. James' Day he became an eight-bell conductor by calling J. J. Parker's 12-part of Grandsire Triples and, with continued encouragement in his new environment, he will surely flourish as a conductor of great bencfit to the Exercise.
Ringers from Kenilworth, Southam and district send their best wishes to him for good luck at Oxford.

PEALS AND RECORDING

Mr. Donald E. Cobb makes a useful suggestion regarding peals sung in Greater London area where the old county boundaries are obsolete. He suggests that the format should be borough, county, dedication and locality, and gives the following as an example:Waltham Forest, London.-At the Church of St. Mary, Walthamstow." We commend the idea and hope to introduce it into our peal columns with the co-operation of our correspondents.

FORMER MASTER REMEMBERED

A tribute to the memory of Mr. John W. Coleman. Ringing Master of Nottingham University Society (1964-66), was paid by the Universities Association at Washington .Sussex on Augusi 13th, when a half-mufled peal of Minor in three methods was rung. Five of the band were from Nottingham University, and Mr. Peter J. Wycherley, of Oxford University, stepped in at a moment's notice to enable the peal to be rung. The band would like to associate with the peal all members of the Nottingham University Society and especially Mi. Edmund Shutleworth.

A NEW SIX IN EAST DEVON

East Devon has a new ring of six at Yarcombe. The old five were retuned during their short stay at the Whitechapel foundry and, with the addition of a new treble, new ropes, clappers. wheels and bearings have been rehung in the old frame. The frame was originally made for six and only minor adjustments were necessary. The tenor is much lighter than records suggest, being about 14 cwt.

This is now an excellent ring, both in tonal quality and "go." There is, however, some tower sway due to the rather high position of the frame. and the bells are somewhat noisy in the ringing chamber. The dedication by the Bishop of Crediton took place during Matins on Sunday, August 7th. The first quarter is recorded below

Yarcombe. Devon.-On Monday. August 8 8th 1,260 Doubles ( 300 Stedman. 240 Plain Bob, $720^{\circ}$ Grandsire): T. J. Thorne 1. J. Sage $\frac{2}{5}$. Miss M. Sage 3. E. W. Broom 4, F. J. Sage 5. W. Broom 6, Ringer of each working bell conducted two extents.

A "DING-DONG WEDDING" SAYS MAIDSTONE PRESS

Mr. Bernard F. L. Groves and Miss Valeric J. White were married at All Saints' Parish Church, Maidstone, on July 23 rd. The wedding was described as a "ding-dong wedding " in a local paper, something of an understatement since two peals were rung in Maidstone on the day, one at Withyham. Sussex, the following day, and the bridegroom rang two peals on the second week of the honeymoon, when he and Valerie were joined by numerous friends. We went along just to keep an eye on them !
Friends started to arrive in Maidstone on Friday evening, as two peal attempts had been arranged for the following morning. Cambridge Royal, conducted by Christopher $T$. Osenton, was successfully rung at All Saints' in 3 hours and 14 minutes. The bridegroom rang $3-4$ to a peal of Plain Bob Royal on handbells, conducted by the best man (!), Robert B. Smith.

The ceremony took placz at 2 p.m. and was conducted by the Rev. Peter Lloyd. Given away by her father, Valerie wore a dress of lace over white satin with a lace train. The bridesmaids were Miss Dorothy Groves (the bridegroom's sister). Miss Pamela Rice (the bride's cousin) and Miss Christine Youens.

Stedman Triples greeted the couple as they left the church for the reception at the Old Palace. The grounds of the Old Palace provided an excellent setting for the photographs on this perfect summer afternoon.
During the customary speeches, guests were told that a request to postpone the EnglandArgentina football match at Wembley so that Argentina foothal match at wembey clash with the wedding had heen unsuccessful! They were also warned that a pair of handbells might he replaced by a spade or fork when they visit the new Groves' residence!
After the reception the couple left for Torquay for the first week of their honeymoon. The second week was spent at Stratton R. B. S.

"HEADS HELD HIGH"

Sending us a peal of Plain Bob Major. which he conducted at Warfield, Berks, and arranged for three members of the Washington Cathedral band. U.S.A. Mr. F. C. Price writes: - All three lasses rang their first of Major. It was a superb effort; their handling and striking a credit to them and their tutors. think that they can honestly go back to the States with their heads held high." The lucky rio were Christine Kelsey, Diana Wriggins and Betsy Proctor

"IRISH BELL NEWS"

The Executive Council of the Irish Association at its annual meeting decided to abandon the idea of an Editorial Committee for "The Irish Bell News." and in view of the offer of the Drogheda Grammar School ringers to nroduce the paper, Mr. F. E. Dukis consented to continue as editor. Instead of an Editorial Committee, correspondents would be appointed from each District. The District secretaries have been asked to nominate suitable persons.

The current issue is comprehensive in character. and witty. We are sure many of our English readers would find this quarterly journal good value for the annual subscription of 3 s . sent to the Editor, Meadow Cottage, Julianstown, Co. Meath.

CHARLEY HUGHES' 80th BIRTHDAY
On August 8th Mr. Charles Hughes, whose services to St. Mary's, Leyton, have recently been commemorated, celebrated his 80 th birthday. The occasion was not forgotten by the ringers of East London and South-West Essex, who rang two peals in his honour. The "lads" of the district went out to Hatfield Broad Oak on the previous Saturday and scored Cambridge Major, and on the actual day Charley (as he is better known) piloted his bell faultessly through a peal of Stedman Triples at Leytonstone in company with a few of his many friends The latter peal was organised by Charles Willmington, the Levtonstone captain, who, though unfit for lengthy ringing, was able to meet the hand hoth before and after the peal and to join in the celebrations

RINGERS' SERVICE AT WILLINGDON

On Sunday. August ist. the second annual ringers' service was held at Willingdon Parish Church at 6.30 p.m Ringing commenced at 5.30 p.m. and we were pleased to welcome ringers from Hertfordshire, Kent, Suffolk and neighbouring towers in Sussex.

The service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. Walter Greenfield) and the address was given ioy the Rev. A. N. Oliver. who took as his theme the part that ringing takes in the service of the Church.

The lessons were read by the Master of the Sussex County Association (Mr. R. V. Johnson) and the general secretary (Mr. R. W. R Percy).

After the service the fingers were entertained in the Church Hall to fea and hiscuits during which handbells wete rung. R.W.R.P.

IRISH RINGING FESTIVAL SUGGESTED

The Executive Council of the Irish Asso ciation has asked each District to consider at its next meeting the holding of a Ringer's Festival Week-End. It would be held at Dublin with some towers open on the Friday evening. The Executive. Council would be held on the Saturday morning, the Murphy Cuo in the afternoon. followed by general ringing Ventilating the subject. "The Irish Bell News" states: "We heartily commend the idea 10 all members and trust that serious consideration will be given to the pronosal when they are brought forward at the District annual meetings."

MR. BRYNLY SHACKLETON MARRIED

A well-known Bristol ringer. Mr. Brynly Shackleton. was married at Weston-sub-Edge on July 30th to Miss Kathleen Allchurch There being no bells in the tower, writes W. H., ringers were not in evidence at the ceremony-only three besides the bridegroom -Reg Hooper (best man). Frank White and the "C.O.S. from Basingstoke."
Bryn has been a tower of strength in Bristol ringing in his quiet way and it is hoped he will continue to meet and ring with his friends.

THE PRESIDENT'S PEAL WEEK

Reports have been received that Mr. B Stedman Payne, president of the Leicester Diocesan Guild, has fled the county after an unsuccessful peal week in which five of the nine peals were lost. This is not the usual standard and it is hoped that his threat to cease arranging peals will not be carried out writes a Leicester correspondent.

WHERE HAVE ALL THE RINGERS GONE?

$\mathrm{A}^{\mathrm{s}}$A FREQUENT visitor to parts of the South and West of England I have for some years become increasingly alarmed at the number of country towers where bells exist and where too few ringers, sometimes none at all, are available.

I have tound that strong bands are relatively few and far between and quite often where they do exist there is an air of complacency about the condition of the Exercise outside. Most towers with ringers do have their own problems and tend to remain in a bubble of security-until the bubble bursts. when members leave the district, etc., and they are left foundering.
To give them therr due the strongholds of ringing are doing an excellent job in keeping the Exercise alive, for from them spring the up and coming youngsters lucky enough. to live in their locality. Peal bands move around the country and their hardwon efforts towards the efficiency and progress of the art are without doubt invaluable.
But is this effort, seemingly concentrated in isolated pockets, to be enough to keep the Exercise alive in the next five or ten decades? Are the strongholds holding their own and are the peal bands increasing in numbers with their records? Are Associations aware of, or deaf to, the often voiced fact that there are hundreds of towers where no bands exist, where efforts to recruit youngsters have tired (in some cases leaving only faded excuses and enough ex-ringers in the village to raise two bands).
Would it be wishful thinking to hope that one day the towers and the strongholds could call upon the local villages for help when required? It would appear it is at present the reverse where there are country bands.
1 have often asked and been asked. "Where have all the ringers gone?" The popular answer is that they go to the towns for jobs, or marry and leave. A village, they say, is no place for a youngster nowadays. Comment too often heard but on a recent visit to Gloucester I was shown that this is not always so, that against many odds one tower contained enough enthusiasm in sufficient strength to conquer any lack of knowledge.
Twenty or more youngsters, all local. aged 10 to 20 maybe, all struggling to gain the knowledge, the elementary rudiments half of us have forgotten we once learnt, held together by their mutual aim to become good ringers and in the charge of a young man not long himself a ringer (and the first to admit his limitations), but having a grasp on matters which many lack.
Amazed by the progress this band had made in a very short time I was shortly disappointed to learn that their captain for reasons of work and study was soon to leave the area with no member of his company properly apprenticed to take his place. This, I then thought. is the usual state of things. A key man leaves and the remainder of the band folds up. The bitter pill after months of hard work. But no! Here they are to seek outside help and $I$ am sure that if the enthusiasm rubs off they will succeed. There were no signs of giving up and I have little doubt that ringers nearby will give some time to this flourishing village band. For here on the edge of the Cotswolds lies the spirit of the early pioneers and I for one. and I think I speak for many, seriously feel that that spirit should not be allowed to die for the want of tnowledge.
I came away from their practice (call changes and plain courses of Grandsire Doubles) wondering how much would the ordinary ringer give in time and effort if many more country bands were started like this. Are there many more similar bands now? If this is happening in Gloucestershire why not? I began to think that this example, and any others, should be known throughout the country.
Bands at the start of things need encouragement and instruction until they are on their feet. They need to be set in example by the established bands and the Exercise generally.
Much criticism is found in these pages and valuable stuff it is, but let us also read of the deeds of these less proficient but worthy efforis of the enthusiastic learners. They may not have heard of "The Ringing World" but they will if they are shown that they are mentioned by an appreciative neighbour. Branches, bring out your bands of learners, let them know that they are not alone.
We shall then indeed know where the ringers are and perhaps many more besides!
S. G.S.

VENTURE IN THE SOUTH WEST

"Carbis Bay, Saturday, August 6th, 1966. Practice number eleven. For the second time in Penzance Branch territory. About 16 for tea from Kea, Truro. Constantine, Redruth. Lelant, Crowan and Carbis Bay. Several visitors and much ground covered: Grandsire. Plain Bob and Stedman Doubles; Kent. Oxford and London Minor; Grandsire and Stedman Triples; Plain Bob Major and Grandsire Caters. First ten bell course and first of London under the auspices of the MRP's." Thus runs the official record (abridged) of the ringing on August 6th.
Method ringing practices in the Truro Brancl of the Truro Diocesan Guild have been held on many occasions and eventually came under the auspices of the Branch on October 24th, 1964, at the autumn Branch festival at Probus when the present regime of Mrs. Kathleen N. Mossop, of Constantine, and Mr. Anthony J. Davidson. of Truro, was approved and they were elected convener and Method Ringing Master respectively. Practices have been held three times a year, usually at a six bell tower in March and November, and at an eight in July when attendances are greaterdue to a large extent to advertising in "The Ringing World."
The object has been to enable ringers to advance beyond the capabilities of their home towers. The keen ringer from a call change tower comes to practise his Doubles and the ringer from a tower where Grandsire Doubles is the highest achievement comes to get his Plain Bob and so on. Often a quarter peal is attempted at the end of the practice.
We are very grateful to the Rev. Jack Jose, the Branch chairman, not only for making his bells at Perranarworthal available. but also for his hospitality in placing the ecclesiastical lounge and television at our disposal. These were much appreciated in the early days, five years or so ago, when Grandsire Doubles was almost all we rang and enthusiasm was not quite what it is now. However, perseverance has paid off and since then we have held practices at eight different towers, nearly all of which are represented at the MRP's. Naturally at the six bell practices. when attendance is only by the faithful, concentration is on the less glamorous methods and that is probably when the most useful work is done. Grandsire, Stedman. Plain Bob and Kent are rung regularly and the more experienced have an opportunity to conduct. At the present time method ringing is very much on the increase in Cornwall and very rarely is Surprise not rung on some practice night or other each week.
Testimony to the conscientiousness of the MRP supporters is borne out by the fact that Mrs. Mossop now no longer confirms by post the date and place of the next practice; it suffices to say: "Watch your 'Ringing World.'"

GREATER LONDON PEALS

Middlesex Against Change in Recording

UPON receipt of Mr. Donald E. Cobb's letter suggesting that peals should be recorded giving the name of borough, county, dedication. locality: "Waltham Forest, London.-At the Church of St. Mary, Walthamstow," the Editor wrote to the hon. secretaries of five territorial Associations operating in Greater London desiring not to take action that would be contrary to local opinion.

Mr. T. J. Lock secretary of the Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild, writes:-
"In reply to your letter dated August 16th regarding titles in the setting out in print of peals rung in the area of this Association, I had the opportunity of putting the matter to the meeting of the N. and E. District gt Harrow on Saturday last.
"Not one vote was cast in favour of your suggestion, and the members sincerely hope that you will take no steps to adopt it. The main objection is that we are a body of Church bellringers and 'Diocesan Guild' is in our title. The Diocesan boundaries have not been altered, and London has become "Greater" purely for administration. We have no desire to be affected by this, but your suggestion has a leaning in that direction, because the sug. gestion would not have been made if the administration had not changed from L.C.C.
"The word 'Middlesex' is dropped only by the administration. The Post Office, all descriptions of clubs. agencies and associations, etc. are retaining 'Middlesex,' and we wish to. Your suggestion omits the word, and we do not favour it. How much farther removed could Kilburn be than by your proposed description - City of Westminster, London.-At the Church of St. Augustine, Paddington'?
"The meeting could see nothing constructive in your suggestion, not even from any point of view, and apart from serving no useful purpose it would be unpopular. unhelpful and misleading and, to "Middlesex. members, irritating. After the recent Central Council meeting at Bath it was anticipated that all efforts would go towards improving . The Ringing World,' and by its greater appeal be a means to increased circulation-we feel your efforts are being misdirected, as we know that there would be no larger sales of the paper if your suggestion were to be adopted.'

A Surrey Point of View

Mr. William Parrott. general secretary of the Surrey Association, writes:-
"Thank you for your letter dated August 16th. Your approach to consider the opinion of the Surrey Association is appreciated. We do not have a meeting of the committee until October, so I cannot put the matter before them until then, but my personal opinion is that I can see nothing much against the idea from a practical point of view, and would not object if you decided to change. However, there are a number of theoretical points which deserve your attention and which perphaps the proposer has overlooked.
"In the past, towers have been given their geographical location and administrative boundaries have been ignored. Would the expression ' postal addresses ' be more undestandable? If you are going to change to administrative descriptions for London why not the rest of the country? As you know, the administrative county of Middlesex has disappeared. Most of it is now part of the Greater London Council. Two parts are now in the administrative county of Surrey. If you are logical you will have to describe peals at Sunbury-on-Thames as Sunbury-on-Thames, Surrey, but it is still in the geographical county of Middlesex. Similarly, Staines. I should hate to be accused of approving a change that would suggest we are trying to take over these three towers. It is bad enough that a few people seem to be under the impression that we are perpetually trying to take over the Guildford Guild.

Will you describe a peal at Bourne in Lincolnshire as Bourne, Lincs, or Bourne, Kesteven? It is in the administrative county of Kesteven. And a peal at Glinton, Northants formerly in the Soke of Peterborough, is now in the administrative county of Huntingdon and Peterborough, I think you are establishing a difficult precedent if you do change, and wish to be logical.
"Personally, I think that the Exercise would be well advised to set its own house in order first and try to rationalise the areas and territories of the various Guilds and Associations. Whether human frailties and personal dignity will allow this is doubtful, but it remains one of my ambitions. There is no better area to try to make a start than London although even I feel it might be advisable to wait until the Church produces its long awaited and much needed revision of diocesan boundaries.
"One other point about the suggestion if you decide to adopt it. The correct wording would be : London Borough of Merton.-At the Church of St. Mary, Wimbledon, or London Borough of Richmond-upon-Thames. -At the Church of All Hallows, Twickenham.' or 'London Borough of Sutton.-At the Church of St. Mary the Virgin, Beddington.' "

JOINT MEETING AT BOLSOVER

Some 50 ringers from over 20 towers attended the joint meeting of the Chesterfield District of the Derby Association and the Shetfield and District Society at Bolsover on August 6th.
Under the expert eyes of the two Ringing Masters, Mr. J. Gilbert (Handsworth) and Mr. M. Phipps (Chesterfield), a wide variety of ringing was enjoyed, ranging from rounds and call changes to Yorkshire Surprise Major.
After an excellent tea, provided by the Bolsover ladies, there was a short business meeting under the chairmanship of Mr. M. King. Here a welcome was extended to Mr. Percy Knights, son of the famous conductor and composer, Arthur Knights, after his absence from any belfry for over two years. A comprehensive vote of thanks was moved by Mr. G. Goodall (Liverpool) after which the company returned to the belfry for further ringing.
During the evening eight of the company managed to ring a course of Bolsover Surprise Major after only 30 minutes' learning.
Methods rung were: Kent Treble Bob, Plain Bob, Little Bob, Yorkshire Surprise, Stedman, Double Norwich, Grandsire. Bolsover Surprise and Plain and Little Bob Spliced.

LYNEHAM BELLS UNSAFE

Regarding the notice announcing the transfer of the Calne Branch meeting from Lyneham to Heddington for September 3rd, the hon. secretary informs us that this is because Lyneham bells for the time being are regarded as unsafe. An inspection last week by the tower captain and another local ringing master revealed that the headstocks of the 2nd and 5th bells were loose. The bells are not to be rung until an inspection by bellhangers takes place.

INJUNCIION THREAT AGANST RINGING MEETING

MUCH interest is being taken in the action of Mr. Paul Marriott, a television en gineer, regarding the holding of a ringers meeting and service at St. Peter's Church, Newton-le-Willows, Lancashire, on Saturday, September 3rd. According to "The Times ${ }^{*}$ he is taking legal advice about applying for an injunction against the Vicar, the Rev. Donald Roberts, from ringing the bells for the service.

According to a statement he made to "The Guardian ": "It is definitely in the Noise Abatement Act, 1959, that it is an offence for anyone to ring a church bell after $4 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. on Saturday."
"The Times" states that be has already served a petition on the local authority (New-ton-le-Willows Urban District Council) demanding a reduction in the hours of ringing, particularly on Saturdays.

The Vicar, the Rev. Donald Roberts, is on holiday and we are informed that before leaving he had not received any communication relating to an injunction. There had previously been informal discussions between members of the Urban Council and the secretary of the P.C.C. about the bells but never any threat of an injunction.

According to the local Press a complaint had been lodged with the Newton-le-Willows Council, and Mr. Booth, the chief health inspector, is investigating. Mr. Booth has stated that ne likes bells.

NO MENTION IN ACT

The Editor writes: There is no mention in the Noise Abatement Act of 1960 of church bells constituting a nuisance or of Mr. Marriott's allegation that it is an offence for anyone to ring a church bell after 4 p.m. on Saturdays.
On general grounds of complaint relating to business or trade, Section 1 (2) of the Noice Abatement Act requires the complaint to the magistrate to be supported by three other persons who are occupiers of land or premises and are aggrieved by the nuisance.

In these cases it is a defence for the defendant to prove that the best practical means have been used for preventing or counteracting the effect of noise.

Thus if a church was regarded as a business, sound prevention measures as advocated by the Towers and Belfries Committee would be regarded as an adequate defence. There is, however, no mention of church bells and the church does not come under the definition of a business.

NOT A STATUTORY NUISANCE

Part III of the Public Health Act, 1936, gives the local authority power to serve a notice to abate a "statutory nuisance." The notice to abate a statutory nuisance. of church bells is not listed as a "statutory nuisance."
The final report of the committee on the Problem of Noise presented to Parliament in July, 1963 also does not specify church bells. The committee sent a questionnaire to all local authorities in Great Britain and these showed that the local authorities had dealt with several thousand cases of noise nuisance since November 1960, the date of the Act. In the overwhelming majority of these cases abatement had been secured by informal action without need to issue abatement notices or to take proceedings. Indeed, in most instances it seems that people making noise co-operate readily when they know that it is a cause of complaint.

SOUTH LONDON RINGERS' WEEK-END IN EAST SUSSEX

IN a rash moment earlier this year the Rector of Ripe said challengingly, "And when are you coming down to ring my bells?" A few months later, on July 23 rd to be precise, he was taken at his word, and sundry ringers from Battersea. Clapham Common, Streatham, Lewisham and Beddington arrived in twos and three at the Rectory during that evening.
Ringing on the Saturday was at eight towers, the circuit covering not more than 30 miles. At 10 a.m. we ascended eagerly the wrought iron ipiral staircase which led to the ringing chamber of St. John the Baptist's, Southover. To be on the safe side we first attempted rounds and call changes on this 17 cwt . ring of ten, but later progressed to Grandsir and Stedman Caters.

Reasonably satisfied, we went on to Ringmer (8). followed by an extremely pleasing 9 cwt six at Laughton. Here we were informed that the bells were not at all popular in the village but we could see no possible reason for this other than exceptionally bad striking We hoped that we were not guilty of this, and moved on to East Hoathly, where we lunched before ringing.

We then visited Chiddingly and Hellingly, both with rings of six, methods ranging from Plain Bob Minor, througb College Single Reverse to Cambridge and Hull Surprise Minor. After tea in Hailsham

we rang at the Church of St. Mary the Virgin and feverishly attempted to "outstrike" the ringers from Epsom, who had only just left.

The last tower of the day was that of A . Andrew's Alfriston. where there is a central tower and a ground-floor ring Here we gathered a large audience who seemed suitably impressed. though we could feel our striking deteriorating.
Sunday was reserved for quarter peal .inging, and in the morning we did our best to thank the Rector for his hospitality by ringing for morning service at Ripe. The quarter peal on the $9 \frac{3}{3} \mathrm{cwt}$ ring of five was energetically conducted by Jeremy Pratt. and was in six methods. the most to a quarter for us all. The Rector seemed well pleased and soon after the service shepherded us to the local for a leisurely drink

We hope we satisfied the Vicar of Fairwarp equally well. Here we achieved a quarter of Plain Bob Major for Evensong. and Jim Hills was well pleased with his first attempt at conducting.
By and large we were well satisfied with our first visit to Sussex and extend warm thanks from our various home towers to all those concerned.
R.J.C.

DURHAM GALA - TANFIELD, 1966

IN County Durham the third Saturday of July is always reserved for Durham Gala, when the miners of the county descend upon the city of Durham, marching in with bands and banners to make the greatest trade union demonstration in the country.

To the bellringers of the Durham and Newcastle Association the Gala is a minor event. likely to cause delays and diversions on the way to Tanfield, where this date is reserved for the annual cricket match, when the Western District play the President's team.

This is not an occasion for first-class standards, as several ringers have not touched bat or ball since last year Since the Tanfield bells were rehung three years ago, we have now played on three different pitches and had tea in three different places.
This year the match was played on the Tanfield Lea ground, and a mix-up over the supply of equipment forced us 10 play with improvised stumps, giving, the batsmen at one end quite an advantage. A limit of 17 overs per side was agreed on by the umpires, $K$ Arthur and R. Leighton.

The Western District team, representing Whickham, Tanfieid, Lanchester, Chester-leStreet and Benfieldside, won the toss and in vited the President's team to bat first.

The president, Mr. W. Tyson, had picked a strong representative team from Newcastle. North Shields, Hartlepool. Darlington, Bishop Auckland and Consett. Eric Harrison and George Deas opened with a free-scoring stand. which lasted until the Western District tried their youngest bowler. Duncan Davis, who captured two wickets in his first over. Eventually, with three retirements, the President's team scored 42 in their alloted time.

The Western District were given a good start by Michael Maughan and Alan Walker who was given the benefit of the doubt on his first ball. With only one wicket down, the score passed 30 Two retirements "to give the others a turn with the bat "put new vigour into the President's team and the next five runs cost five wickets. Eventually the Western District secretary and vice-president came into partnership and gained the necessary runs, so that the Ashes remain in Tanfield Vicarage.

After an excellent tea provided by the ladies of Tanfield. the Rev. A. J. G. Ellery took an inspiring service and then for the rest of the evening the eight bells of St. Margaret's. Tanfield, were put to good use. One noteworthy visitor was Mademoiselle Francoise Verger of Ruffec, France. who, staying on hcliday with a keen ringer. has been taught to handle an English bell and now has grabbed four towers Campanology and cricket are two typically English institutions, and to understand a little about them is a fair introduction to life in England.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

The bells at the tower of SS. Peter and Paul's, Shoreham, heralded the start of the Lewishain District quarterly meeting held on July 23rd. After the service, conducted by the Vicar the Rev D. E. Bimbow, an en joyable tea was served by ladies from Bexley and Crayford.

Mr. E. A. Barnett took the chair at the business meeting. Miss Mary Andrews reported that she had been sent a poster advertising a meeting of the District held at Lewisham in 1897 and asked the meeting what should be done with it. On the proposition of Mr. E. Barnett it was decided to have it framed, at the expense of the Association, and presented to St. Mary's, Lewisham, to hang in their tower.

The best wishes of the meeting were extended to David Manger and Jenny Wright, who were married this day at Chelsfield.

LINCOLN DIOCESAN GUILD

Quite a crowd of members augmented by visitors made the meeting of the West Lindsey Branch in the old village of Broughton on July 18 th memorable.

The village lies close to Ermine Street and the Church of St. Mary is of great antiquity with big patches of herringbone masonry and a little tower doorway of Saxon origin On the west side of the tower an unusual semicircular turret houses the stairs to the helfry. The six bells (tenor 11 cwt .2 gr 13 lb.$)$ are a first-class ring and the meeting was made more enjoyable by the number of ringers who had learned one or both of the special methods-York Surprise and Single Oxford.
The Vicar, the Rev G. E. F. Trubridge, conducted the service, and local ringers made arrangements for tea. Mr C. H Baker took the chair for the business meeting. at which Mr. G. E. Feirn and Mr J. Bray gave their impressions of the Central Council meeting at Bath. Mrs. Gray of Gainshorough reminded the meeting that she was still looking for the owner of a purse full of money leff behind after a Ladies' Guild meeting at Willingham.
Next Branch meeting: Stow-in-Lindsey, on September 17th

BEQUEST TO "THE RINGING WORLD " Dear Sir.-I have been informed by the executor that the late Mr. T. R. Dennis, of Cambridge, has bequeathed the sum of $£ 100$ to the Central Council "to aid in keeping alive 'The Ringing World.' "At the time of writing it appears probable that the estate may be insufficient to pay all legacies in full and if this is so they will have to abate proportionately.

"WHAT A MAN:"

Dear Sir-On Saturday, August 15th, 1908 a small schoolboy stood outside St. Mary-leTower. Ipswich, listening to what he after wards learned was the first peal of Surprise ever rung on 12 bells, regarded at the time as the greatest 12 -bell performance of all time

On Saturday. August 13th, 1966, that same person was privileged (hecause of the illness of a talented voung ringer) to take part in a peal of Cambridge Surprise Maximus, which will be regarded as the greatest heavy bell performance of all time I am referring to the ringing, single-handed. of the tenor $(82$ cwt.) at Liverpool Cathedral by Peter Border For the writer, this performance was the greatest mental conquest of physical fatigue that he has ever witnessed. Well may the great ones of the past arise from the shades and acclaim "What a man!"-Yours sincerely.

WHAT IS COURSING ORDER ?

Dear Sir,-About six mouths ago 1 did a Spot of research (inspired unknowingly by Mr. Wilson) into Stedman Triples, and on the relevant page in my "Standard Methods" wrote: C.O. 1652347.

I was, of course, highly delighted when Mr Butterworth expanded this. delving much decper than 1 dared to. Mr. York-Bramble's article in reply was extremely informative. but it leaves one big question: What is Coursing Order? It certainly bears no fixed relationship to the cyclical orders. For instance. in Plain Bob the CO. is the same as the position cyclic, in Kent it is the same as the beil cyclic and in Double Norwich it fits in with neither. Yet in all these methods the accepted "Coursing Order" (?) is readily seen bv noting the order in which a bell passes the others. If this is the true coursing order, then 1 suggest Mr Butterworth could drop his inverted commas, since, with the exception of the quick bells in which the selected bell is on the Slow, the bells are met in the order $165 ? 347$.
If anyone can pull these ideas to bits. please do, since I would like to know the true facts: and if this all seems rather absurd, please excuse me. for I am neither a great researcher nor conductor and seldom get beresearcher nor conductor and seldom get beyond Bob Doubles in either field. - Yours faithfully.

Braintree.

SOUTHAMPTON UNIVERSITY GUILD SUMMER TOUR

DURING this year's tour we visited six counties, being centred in Newtown, Linford, Leics. The week started with ringing for Matins at St. Margaret's, Leicester, and then doubling the congregation there before travelling up to Chesterfield to ring for Evensong, ranging at Edensor on the way. The journey was not pleasant-in true Britush fashion it didn': rain, it poured. We enjoyed ringing at Chesterfield very much and discovered, much to the delight of most of the party (it being 12 males and two females), that young lady ringers in the North have as much trouble with short skirts us do their counterparts in the South.

Monday saw the start of the really serious ringing. The first tower was at Ratby, where the ringing included Yorkshire and Double Norwich, hefore going on to Desford. Kirkby Mallory and Market Bosworth The helfiv at Desford, heing very small, gave some of the party ample opportunity to discover what the hells sounded like in the village. auenching their thirst into the bargain. We liked the bells at Market Bosworth very much Much of the next 90 minutes was spent in a transport cafe waiting for our lunch, and the rest in travelling to Grendon. From there we wen 10 Polesworth and Tamworth. After waiting for a funeral to finish at the former we found that the church was really magnificent, and rang Grandsire Doubles with the extremes. At Tamworth was another splendid church: we rang what were to be the three standard methods at ten-bell towers-Grandsire and Stedman Caters and Cambridge Royal. The day ended with ioining the practice night at Lichfield Cathedral.

MARVELLOUS CHURCHES

Tuesday brought yet more marvellous churches and some very nice bells. We started with some good ringing at Shepshed and then on to Breedon-on-the-Hill. The next church visited. Melhourne, was perhaps the best of all, but standing among the pews to ring, with ropes that were more than snringy. did not help our ringing. Castle Donington's were found in be auite a handful straight after lunch. and the best ringing of the afternoon was at Alvaston, where we liked the bells very much. In the evening we joined the practice at Derby Cathedral.
The ringing on Wednesday morning was not particularly memorable, the best being at Hugglescote. which included Rutland, Somehow we managed to get lost in Burton-uponTrent ("where all London's power comes from "). even though one of the local ringers had thoughtfully provided us with a map. More difficulty was experienced to find the church at Tutbury and the day concluded at Sudbury and Uttoxeter.

Thursday began with us ringing at what must surely be the nearest Gillett and Johnston ring to Taylor's bell foundry, Mountsorrel From there on to the foundry, where, after a very interesting look around, we enjoyed ringing the bells Our ringing included Yorkshire Royal and London Minor and Plain Bob Minor on the front six. After lunch we rang on the splendid ten at All Saints', Loughhorough, before going on 10 Kegworth and Kingston-upon-Soar. Here the bus broke down, but luckily it was within walking distance of the church. The hus then managed to get us to the last tower, at Thrumpton. before breaking down three times on the way home.

Friday saw us ringing London at Swithland and Warkworth at Woodhouse Eaves before

A PEAL WEEK IN THE RUTLAND AREA

ASUCCESSFUL peal week was otganised in the Rutland area by Alan Payne and Martin Thorley, during wbich ten peals were scored out of twelve attempts. This year there were only five "regulars"-including two young ladies-and we were dependent on those ringers who had promised to be available for the odd attempt. However, we dis. covered that Gerald Reynolds was home for the holidays and the writer was able to inveigle his youngest brother out of retirement (no peal for five years) by a judicious offer of some baby-sitting.

We began on the Monday with a peal on the light six at Deeping St Nicholas, which got Derek Jones round the circle for the first time and the conductor round for the third time-twice as conductor-and in the after noon rang a fairly leisurely one on the delight ful six at Edith Weston. Although this was the easiest day of the whole week, the extremely humid weather ensured that blisters were plentiful very early.
On Tuesday morning we rang the "steady seven " at Glaston, not without distractions, as in the middle of the peal we had two old ladies wandering back and forth through the ropes on a sightseeing tour of the church. In the afternoon we had our first failure-at Empingham, Rutland's heaviest six-and in Double Court Wednesday morning saw the week's best peal-ten methods at Deenebut in the afternoon the bells at Weekley began to go dry on us, so after a quarter peal (Double Bob and Surfleet) we dashed off to join John Woolley on a tower grab.
Thursday was an all-Rutland day-a peal in the morning on the newish six at Preston (Janet's 25th this year) and one of Bob Major in the afternoon on the recently rehung bells at Uppingham. For once during the week we had a surfeit of singers and the girls stood out.
The rest of the peals were in Lincolnshire. On Friday we rang six methods at Rippingale (strange noises from upstairs) and a sevenmethod one at West Deeping that was almost as good as the peal at Deene. Saturday proved to be a tiring day: we rang nine methods at Quadring in the morning and had to struggle a little, and in the afternoon finished up with a peal in eight methods at Tydd St . Mary, where the tenor man found it better to ring with his back towards the fourth and fifth-he may be a little podgy, but there isn really much room.
J. M. T.
losing the first tower of the tour, Woodhouse. However, the marvellous roses in the churchvard nearly compensated for not ringing there, Sileby was the last tower before lunch. After lunch, the bells at Stanford-upon-Soar proved to be quite a handful and alchough they sound very nice. go more than badly. We rang Superlative just to prove that the tenor ringer could do it. Spliced Stedman and Double Norwich was rung at Prestwold before going on to Wymeswold and Long Clawson.

The last day started with two good rings of bells-at Anstey and Rothley-before going on to Syston. After lunch we had some good ringing at Asfordby and at Melton Mowbray, where we had to wait for the clock to chime "Home. Sweet Home" before starting to ring. The last two towers of the tour, at Whissendine and Oakham, were in the sixth county, Rutland.

I think that the four was very much enjoyed by all, and I should like to express our thanks to all those who made it possible.
H. W.

HUNTINGTON AND COMPANY ON TOUR

L
EAVING Huntington at 8.15 a.m. on a miserable Friday morning (July 22nd), members of the Huntington (Yorkshire) Guild travelled first to Sheffield, where we collected Susan Thompson, who also provided a very welcome cup of coffce.

At St. Alkmund's, Duffield. we were joined by Roy Aldington and the light ten were rung to a variety of methods. After sampling Melbourne's fine bells, we travelled in lovely sunshine to Banbury. Here, after signing in at our hotel for the night and meeting Bryan Seymour, we did justice to the excellent ten hanging in St. Mary's Church. We then moved off to arouse the inhabitants (and policemen' of nearby Wroxton The five bells here were cast in 1676 by Henry Bagley, and go quite well.

Everyone managed to be up in time on Saturday morning to set off at $8.50 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$. for Adderbury, four miles down the road. The glorious eight here were not rung as best the should have been, the previous night's activitie and the extra large breakfast being blamed. On then to Bloxham, where the glorious eigh in an equally beautiful village were rung better than we rang at Adderbury, in spite of it taking three men to get the $26 t$ cwt tenor up the right way. At Chipping Norton the eterna wait for sandwiches in the Fox was probably remembered better than the bells.

RETREAT TO SAFETY
Hunger appeased, we reached Churchill. where, after a good rise, we attempted to ring Grandsire Triples and Cambridge. Next on the list was Enstone, where the bells are very noisy and the ringing chamber very dark. At Wootton the behaviour of certain bells caused some of the band to beat a hasty retreat to safety. Nevertheless. despite the square wheels and oblong bearings fas one, who shall be nameless, described them), we achieved a be nameless, described them), we achieved a reasonably well-struck two courses of Bob Minor before going to Woodstock.
On our way into Oxford we paused at Bladon to view the grave of Sir Winston Churchill. Unfortunately, due to the condition of the tower. we were not allowed to ring here. In Oxford the acute accommodation problem was marvellously solved when the landlady at the house where Bryan had wisely booked in, agreed to take us all. Out then to Eynsham, where the pleasant six were well to Eynsham, where the pleasant six wike King managed to reach us here rung Mike King managed to reach us here Returning to Oxford. we had an excellent meal at the Golden Palace (Chinese restaurant)

Sunday morning in Oxford saw us divide. Some rang on the easy-going six at St. Aldate's, whilst others enjoyed Cambridge Major and Stedman Triples on the delightful light octave at St. Martin's. Most of the party went to the 11 a.m. service at the Cathedral After lunch we travelled to Great Milton and After lunch we travelled to Great Mition and found quite a reasonable octave, Milton, described by one old local ringer as "a pretty peal," were quite the opposite and. to make matters worse, an ancient ladder left in the pit of the sixth disintegrated during the ringing up: fortunately no real damage was done, and from here we paid a quick call to that delightful Berkshire village of Appleton and were privileged to join the local band in ringing for Evensong. Back in Oxford, Jenrifer Pearce's birthday was celebrated in the customary manner.

BEST TEN OF TOUR

Leaving Oxford at $8.40 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$. on Monday we first sampled the delightful ten at St. Helen's, Abingdon, felt by many to be the best ten of the tour. Our host here also joined us on the pleasant six at St. Nicholas' Church. At Faringdon Christopher Groome, Johin Woolley and Carol joined us and we took advantage of their presence. All the standard vantage of were rung, though a course of Oxmethods were rung, though a course ford came to grief in the last lead.

After lunch we said goodbye to Christopher and his car-load and moved on to Stratton St. Margaret. Both the sixes at Wroughton and Chiseldon are heavy but beautifully toned, and regret was expressed at the short amount of time available. At Wroughton the Vicar invited us all to the Vicarage for refreshments, a gesture much appreciated on this warm afternoon. The ten bells of Christ Church. Swindon. are certainly a magnificent ring and our ringing on them was quite reasonable.
"THE OLDEST 12 IN THE WORLD"
Tuesday saw us cff to a good start, the delightful anti-clockwise five in the huge tower of St. Sampson's. Cricklade, was our first call At St. John's. Cirencester, the first 12 of the tour, we were joined by Martin, Paddy and Catherine Thorley and also had the help of George Pluckrose Some reasonable rounds on 12 with Grandsire and Stedman Caters followed oir the oldest 12 in the world! Holv Trinity has a very pleasant eight.

At Kemble the ropes are, still being eaten by some mysterious "bug" so we couldn't ring: at least it enabled us to be on time at Stroud. wher? the assorted ten were soon ringing ou to Boh Royal. Grandsire Caters and Stedman Triples before we had some lunch.

After lunch we went to Whitminster, where the first cars to arrive encountered a belligerent churchwarden (an ex-Army major!). who refused them entry. After producing correspondence from the Vicar we eventually got in and raised the bells. How long it was since the bells were rung no one knew, but it must have been some time. A short touch and down. then we were off to Standish, where the delightful Gillett six were enjoyed for three-quarters of an hour. From there 10 Gloucester itself, and firstly the Cathedral: no one was over impressed by the bells or the ringing chamber. certainly not the place for a Boxing Day peal fas one person put it) The Rudhall octave at St. Marv de Crynt's is well worth a visit and we rang some fair Bob Major. The Fleece Hotel. our hotel for the night. is ncted for its excellent foodlittle wonder. therefore, that no one could resis: the temptation to have dinner. The meal was excellent, and we need not have rushed as much as we did, as we later discovered that there was no practice at Painswick. Instead refreshments were taken in the Falcon Inn at refreshmens.

Wednesday morning saw us a little late at Tewkesbury and we had not the time to do justice to the fine 12. At Evesham we soon had the beautiful 36 cwt 12 ringing out into rounds and Grandsire and Stedman Caters, though the Stedman met with a sticky end. At Bidford-on-Avon the treble exhibited some peculiar mannerisms and so we were soon on the move to Warwick, where everyone agreed that Taylor's made a first-rate job of St. Nicholas' bells. Another encounter, too, with the Militia here, when the wife of an Army major ran her car into the side of Bryan's Hillman Imp. Fortunately no one was hurt and the damage was not too extensive though. needless to say, we were very annoyed.

On then to Kenilworth, where a good variety of methods was rung on the six. After lunch we all set of on our various ways, those returning to Huntington calling en route at the Loughborough Foundry, where the campanile bells proved a novelty for some; our thanks to Paul Taylor for the time given up to show us round the foundry.

Our thanks go to the drivers of the cars. to incumbents, local secretaries and to Susan and Colin for their efforts in organising the tour.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD  Marlborough Branch

The August meeting of the Marlborough Branch was held at Aldbourne on August 20th. when although only two towers in the Branch were represented. there was a good number of visitors, who were probably attracted ty Aldbourne's really fine octave-a rarity in the Branch. which possesses only one other.

The Ringing Master (the Rev. R. Keeley) was in charge and continued until the Guild service, which was also conducted by the Ringing Master Mr. A. Keen was organist. For tea in the Village Hall, the company were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Keen. who also defrayed the hall expenses. In appreciation of their generosity a collection was taken amounting to $\pm 26 \mathrm{~s}$. and given to the church funds. Ihey were thanked by Mr. G Newman (chairman).
Visitors were welcomed from as far afield as Tuffield (Northants). East Budleigh (Devon), Manchester Cathedral. Bradford-on-Avon. Swindon and Stratton St. Margaret. W. A. E.

WEST LINDSEY BRANCH IN YORKSHIRE

For their annual outing on July 9th the West Lindsey Branch visited West Yorkshire. At Silkstone, the first tower. the local captain joined in the ringing on the good six. Most of the party met Yorkshire tail-ends for the first time at Kirkburton. A lucky bride at Sowerby had the bells without paying a fee. as we arrived just in time to ring her out on this pleasant octave.

The journey to Skipton took longer than anticipated and in consequence the ringing was limited to 20 minutes before fulfiling a tea engagement at the Midland Hotel. Finally came an hour's ringing at Ilkley and a visit to one of the inns before the long journey home.

Clergy and tower captains are thanked for their help and co-operation to make this enjoyable outing possible.

For the Beginner

THE MASIERY OF PLAIN BOB MINOR

By Robert B. Smith, conductor of the peal of the Extent of Bob Major

Part IV : Conducting and Composition

WHEN one reaches the point where ringing the method presents no difficulty it is customary to attempt to conduct, and in order to conduct one is required to do the following.
(1) To make ealls (bobs and/or singles) at the appropriate time.
(2) To correct those who lose their place in the ranging.
(3) To call "Rounds" or "Stand" it the ringing is not of the required standard. 1. Making Calls.

When we zonsidered the effects of calls it was mentioned that calls should be made when the treble is in 2nds place at backstroke immediately before leading If a call is made too soon or too late it will normally cause a break in the rhythm of the ringing Calls made at the wrong time do not give the oand confidence in the conductor and the striking generally suffers
Note.-The - inductor should not make mistakes in the method ringing: mistakes in calling follow from these other mistakes quite logically.
2. Correcting Other Ringers.

On the first occasion that a ringer is called upon to conduct the ringing, it is more important that calls be made in the right place than that he or she tries to correct those who go wrong It is helpful. therefore. if there is sombody else in the band capable of keeping a check on the ringing whilst the aspiring conductor makes the calls Having gained confidence in making calls one should look for aids to help one conduct There is no substitute. however, for reallv learning the method so than one can discount the possibility of going wrong oneself
The most obvious aid to conducting. which should be apparent from the foregoing work done, is the use of coursing orders. Providing that the conductor knows that he or she is right. each of the other bells may be checked and corrected if necessary. as they are passed There is, however, one trap here which can be fallen into. and that is to move the treble into the wrong position. The effect of this is to ring too few or too many changes. which may not matter in a short "touch " but would invalidate a peal.
Notes,-(i) Anv rincing involving calls is referred to as a "touch," and a peal is merelv a touch having more than 5,000 different changes
(ii) Making calls in the correct position involves learning a compoxition. This was not included in (1) above as it will be dealt with in detail later.
(iii) Point 3 above does not come within the scope of this article.

Learning a Composition.

To learn a composition for a short touch does not lax most people's memory too much but a peal composition may be a different matter. Peal compositions should be learned to a plan so that a short lapse in concentration does not result in a miscall. Most conductors on some occasions have miscalled a peal. but If it becomes a habit people will decline invitations into peal attempts you are calling Consider the well-known composition of Plain Boh Maior by J R. Pritchard which is shown below.

Three times repeated.
Singles halfway and end.

The firs: point to note in learning a composition is most obvious in that one should learn or "form a picture" in one's mind of the composition.
Secondly. it will be seen that the 4th bell returns to ths place at the end of each of the four parts This means that the 4 th will be in the same position at corresponding course-ends of each part.
The next point $t o$ note is that alternate part-ends have 65's and 56's as shown below:

\begin{array}{ll}
\text { 1st part-end } & 32465 \\
\text { 2nd part-end } & 32456 \\
\text { 3rd part-end } & 23465 \\
\text { 4th part-end } & 23456
\end{array}

It will also be noted that 2 and 3 are never in 6ths place at a course-end
A difficulty which many conductors experience is that of knowing when they have called blocks of three homes, wrongs or middles The usual method to overcome this problem is to call bobs at the position in question until a certain bell makes the bob (e.g. the 4th makes the last of the block of three homes at the end of each part). This eliminates counting
In the composition we are considering there is a very useful guide for the calling of each block of three homes The "largest " bell concerned in any block of three homes always makes the last bob. Incidentally, the hlock of two homes brings the 4th bell into 4 ths place 3t the course-end in each part also. A full hreakdown of the coursing orders is shown below.

It will be observed from the above block of figures that at the end of each block of three calls at home (or wrong, or middle) the same coursing order is returned to! This means that by omitting blocks of three calls at home. wrong or middle, the calling will come round in the usual manner. This would not matter for a touch, but would generally mean that sufficient changes would not be rung for a peal (e.g in the composition just considered. omitting one block of three homes reduces the number of changes from 5.056 to 4,832 , which does not constitate a peal).

Blocks of calls such as three homes, which bring the coursing order back to what it was before the block began, are called " O " sets and are widely used by composers. These will be referred to again later when we consider composing.

Compositions.

Under this heading many compositions could be listed for Plain Bob on all numbers Readers are referred, however, to the Central Council publications of compositions it they require other compositions than those given here.
Initially it is better to call simple compositions. often these are the most musical (It is better to call a simple composition correctly than to miscall a complicated one-part composition.) Most conductors realise that they have a responsibility towards the other ringers not to miscall a peal and this should be remembered when a composition is being chosen.

BELFRY GOSSIP

The peal at Keyworth also marked the achievement of the ringer of 3-4 in becoming the "Bingham District" putting champion.
Mr. Joe Thornley, of Bolton, Lancs, inquires about the new tower recently built at All Saints'. Newquay, Cornwall. Are there to be bells?

The Rev. John Scott is to be inducted to the living of Newton St. Cyres, Crediton, Devon. on September 2nd. He asks to be remembered in readers' prayers.
A peal of Stedman Cinques was lost at Christchurch, Hants, on August 20th, through the clapper of the tenth breaking in the last three courses.
Former captain at Minehead, Somerset, Mr. John Pugsley, celebrated his 94th birthday on August 16 th. Unfortunately the band met short for Caters and had to be content with a congratulatory quarter of Stedman Triples.

The ringers of Angersleigh, Taunton, Somerset, have effected a great improvement by providing a floor in the tower for ringing: previously this was a ground-fioor ring. In consequence the bells are much easier to handle.
Composition correction. - Mr. J. Henry Fielden asks us to make a correction to the peal of 5,120 London Surprise Royal (page 536). The first course of the insertion should have a bob at home. This is covered in the script by calling it "A B." "B" is also missing from the "M $1 / 5$ th, $1 / 5$ th M " block.

DEDICATION OF GEORGE CROSS

 MEMORIALbarton seagrave's farewell to
On August 30th Mr and Mrs. R. E. March, of St. Booolph's, Barton Seagrave, will be moving to a new home at Dawlish
Mr. March has been tower captain for many years, and the friendship and regular attendance of himself and Mrs. March will he greatly missed. The local ringers. logether with many more from the Kettering District, wish them a happy retirement and look forward to hearing of their renewed ringing activities in Devon
The occasion has prompted the ringing of well-struck quarter peal and peal, which the writer has been privileged to conduct. The peal is reported in the peal columns. The quarter peal was as follows:
At Barton Seagrave. Northants. on July 18th, 1966. 1,260 Doubles (Rev Canterbury and Grandsire): L. Clarke (first quarter) M. Downham 2, R. E. Marsh 3. M. A. Coleman (conductor) 4, W. H. Hulme 5.

FOXTON, CAMBS, 30 YEARS' SILENCE BROKEN
For some 30 years there has been no regular ringing ai Foxton, Cambs, Parish Church, but the silence was broken on August 14 h when a newly-formed team rang for the Sung Eucharist of the Patronal Festival (St. Laurence). The "recruits", had been trained hy Mr. S. Brown. Ringing Master of the Cambridge District, who had been accompanied by Mr. H. Jordan. also of Cambridge, and at a parish breakfast following the service each was presented with a gift from the ringers as an expression of appreciation and esteem.
Mr. Brown congratulated the ringers on their progress, but stressed that they had still much to learn and advised them to increase their experience by frequent visits to other towers.
Later in the dav one of the new ringers. Mr. Clive Creswell, also received a "presentation" from his wife, who gave birth to a fine baby boy in Royston Hospital. As the new arrival-surely, with his elder brother. a new arrival-surely, with his elder brother. ${ }^{\text {a }}$ future ringer :-was born at the time of the Patronal Festival Evensong at Foxton, one of his names is to be that of the patron saint, Laurence.

At a recent mecting the ringers elected Mr. J Mead as their captain and Mrs. V. R. Smith as secretary. For the time heing ringing will take place on alternate Sunday mornings but it will be more frequen! as newcomers' are trained.

ALL SAINTS', WORCESTER

The ringers of All Saints', Worcester, have committed themselves to raise over $£ 3,000$ to mee an extimate to have the bells rehung in an fron frame at a lower level in the tower.

BELL THEME FOR CHORAL WORK

The first performance of the choral work Changes " by Gordon Crosse will be presented at this year's Three Choirs' Festival at Worcester on Thursday. September 8th. The music contains imagery of the sound of bells and some of the words are based on bell inscriptions.

HERTS COUNTY ASSOCIATION
The St. Albans District meeting on August 20th was held at Wheathampstead, the heat outside being compensated for by the coolness inside the church. The 60 ft . of unguided rope rung from the fioor of the church was made up for by the "go" and sound of the $S 1 x$ bells, and methods such as London and Norwich were enjoyed A short service was held and an excellent salad tea followed in the Church Hall. Unfortunately many who sent their names in neither joined in the service nor arrived in time for the tea.

At the business meeting Mr. John Cull was elected chairman. Miss Susan Desborough, of Kimpton, was elected a full member. The next meeting will be held at Barnet and Monken Hadley. It will be own tea arrangements, but luckily there are a fair number of cafés in Barnet. Special methods are Stanstead Triples at Barnet and Ealing Surprise Major at Monken Hadley.

Under any other business, the secretary, Mr. Roger Brown, read a letter from St. Albans Cathedral asking the District for help in teaching their learners on practice nights. there being only two ringers experienced enough in the present band. Mr. Gerald Penney re minded everyone of the car outing on October 1 st . The number of cars is to be limited to 12. names for tea and 5 s . per car to go to Eric Edmondson by September 24th at the latest. After a vote of thanks to the Rector organist and Wheathampstead ringers for the tea, the meeting was closed and evening ringing followed until 8 p.m. and.A.F.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION

A very successful meeting was held in the Hemsworth area on August 20th. About 30 ringers, including the Association president. tried with varying degrees of success to ring the 13 cwt . four at Badsworth. Ringing on Hemsworth's light eight was slightly delayed by a wedding

At the business meeting Mr. M. R. Meadows, of Wentworth, the District's new vice-president, look the chair, and opened the business by introducing himself. In closing the meeting, Mr. Charles Moxon, of Hemsworth, stated how glad he was to see so many ringers again. Further ringing took place on the ground-floor rings of six at Wragby and Crofton, although a broken stay delayed ringing slightly at Crofton M. K.

ACTION NOT WORDS IN THE BELFRY

Says Giles Hunt.

WVHEN so many of our churches need large sums spent on repairs, and when missionary and charitable work is crying out for money, it may seem extravagant folly to spend nearly $£ 1.500$ on installing church bells. Why did we do so? And was it worth it?

We did so for a mixture of motives. First and foremost, there was a group of people who were keen to ring bells, and above all one real enthusiast who was ready to work tirelessly and give a lead by his own enthusiasm and generosity. Then, there was a surprisingly large body of opinion in the town-not all churchpeople-who felt that the parish church ought to have bells.

And thirdly, we were encouraged by the advice of bishops and other clergy that church bells were a Good Thing on pastoral grounds-not only is their sound a reminder that God is to be worshipped, but the art of ringing helps to build up the kind of fellowship that ought to be, but sometimes isn't, a vital part of the Church's life in a parish. (Bellringing in this respect is rather like a choir, which should exist both for the music which enhances worship and also for the Christian fellowship it should build up-choirboys constitute one of the biggest "youth organisations" in England.)

Was it worth it? Yes. Doubtless there will be periods when the bells and the ringers will be more of a headache than a useful addition to the worshipping life of the Church! For we are fallible humans, and the right leadership and the right spirit may not always be available.

Bellringers, like choirs, P.C.C.s, and even clergy, can be a pain in the neck at times. But our experience has shown that bellringing can do a surprising lot for "building up the Body of Christ."

When you see 15 -year-olds and 80 -year-olds; manual workers, schoolteachers, business men; men who have lived in Norfolk all their lives, and men who have come to live here from other parts-all ages. all types, all interests, bound together by a common interest, doing something that requires real teamwork, then you begin to see the point.

A couple of holidaymakers from the Midlands come up to the tower for a ring. Two or three ringers from another parish come along, giving up an evening to help our inexperienced band to learn a new method. For the Rector, what a relief to get away from the jargon of "Mutual Responsibility," "No Small Change" and "The People Next Door," and actually see the principles and ideas put farward being put into practice.

Bellringing is a wonderful fellowship that jumps parish boundaries, class divisions, age groups. And anything that helps a local congregation to do this is to be welcomed.
One interesting observation to end with. Although generalisations are always suspect, and the exceptions prove the rule, it has seemed that public reaction to the bells has reflected something indefinable but real in people's characters. You can't point to any particular class of parishioner (churchgoers; business men; young; old) as being definably for or against the bells.
But support and enthusiasm really does seem to have come from men, and women, "of good will." In some queer way, the bells seem to have made the kind of challenge and appeal that "the Church" ought to make but sometimes fails to. From "The Norwich Churchman"

SOUND CONTROL

TWHE problem of sound control is one most towers have to face. We have been reading in "Ringing Towers" the specification Mr. Frederick Sharpe prepared for St. Peter's, Ballarat, where the ring of eight was rededicated on July 3rd.

Here Mr. Sharpe recommended a louvred lantern on the tower roof of timber framing covered with a galt-glass dome or alternatively perspex sheeting with well protruding eaves. The four sides of the lantern should be fitted with louvres to give as much sound exit as possible. Inside the louvres small meshed wire netting should be used to exclude birds.
The base of the lantern should have an opening 6 ft . $\times 6 \mathrm{ft}$. in the tower roof and the roof of the lantern 4 ft . 6 in . from the tower roof at its highest point.
The space behind the old louvres should be boarded up with wood one inch thick and lined with one or two thicknesses of $\frac{4}{3}$ inch fibre insulation board on the inside. In this case the top 2 ft . 6 in , of the windows should be fitted with shutters hinged at the bottom and opened by means of cords and pulleys from the ringing chamber. Similar shutters could be fitted to the opening of the tower if desired.

The bells at Ballarat are hung in two tiers, as the tower is only $12 \mathrm{ft} . \times 12 \mathrm{ft}$. Dealing with snags Mr. Sharpe points out that the treble and third bell positioned in the lower tier of the bell frame will be overpowered by, those in the upper tier. Two small openings approximately 12 inches by 12 inches should be made in the windows nearest these bells. On the inside these should have small megaphone-shaped boxes tapering to 18 inches by 18 inches. These openings should be slightly below the lips of the bells when set inverted.

The sound of the more sonorous tenor bell will tend to overpower that of the treble, and to prevent the sound of the tenor from being too loud in the direction of the windows the lower half of the bell wheel should be completely covered with $f$ inch hardboard. This will deflect the sound of the tenor away from the treble. Similarly, the lower half of the treble should be covered with hardboard and also the third bell wheel.
These details are an indication of the individual treatment given to each tower by the Towers and Belfries Committee.

MEMOIR OF A GREAT WELSH COMPOSER

MR. ALBERT JAMES PITMAN passed away on Tuesday, August 16th, at the age of 78 vears. Ringers generally will remember Jack Pitman for his work as a composer, particularly of Spliced Surprise Major, and no doubt tributes will be paid to this side of his work by others more capable than the writer. To the older ringers in South Wales he will be remembered as a very active singer and conductor, covering a great many years prior to his retirement, when he went to live near Leamington.
He was born at Baglan, near Port Talbot, where his father was a ringer and employed by the railway during the whole of his working life. When he retired he was yard inspector at Port Talbot goods depot.
He was an honorary member of the Central Council for many years, Master of the Llandaff and Monmouth Diocesan Association in 1926 and elected a vice-president in 1965, and captain at Aberavon tower until leaving the district.
His ringing career started at Baglan and Aberavon, and in those days Grandsire was the only method rung and it was reported that the tower captains were not very keen in sharing the conducting in those days. However, Jack must have become interested in conducting and composing very carly, as he conducted his first peal, Grandsire Triples, in 1914 and composed and conducted the next peal, Stedman Triples, in 1919.

KEEN HEARING

He was blessed with very keen hearing and on numerous occasions he listened to peals outside the tower and presented the conductor with the figures when they came out. It was indeed a very happy day for him last September when a touring band rang one of his compositions for Spliced Major in five methods at Aberavon and recorded the peal to honour the wedding of his granddaughter.
In all that he did he was self-taught and made little reference to any books. This resulted in him composing one peal of Stedman Triples in the early 1920's only to be told after he had conducted a peal of it that the same peal had been composed by Washbrook. He claimed that most of his composing work was carried out during the night hours and he was justly proud of the fact that not one of his compositions has been proved false.
His most active ringing years were the $1920^{\prime}$ s and $1930^{\circ}$; he did not keep a full record of his own deals but it is known that he rang 159 peals for the Llandaff and Monmouth Association and it is thought his total is about 250 . During the 1920 's a very active peal band operated on Wednesday evenings at either Bridgend or Aberavon, conducting being shared by Charles H. Perry and himself. Some of these peals included methods rung for the first time and most were his own compositions. Later on his ringing was curtailed as he had to nurse his invalid wife for many years until her death. He remarried after retirement and moved to Lillington, near Leamington. but continued to make regular visits to his family at Aberavon. It should be realised that the number of failures far exceeded the number of peals rung.

Like many noted ringers he had his odd habits: those who rang with him will remember that if he was confident that a peal was going well, his calling would get louder and louder as the peal neared the end, but if he was dropping his voice it usually meant that something had gone wrong and this usually meant a lost peal. Another amusing tale told was that if the standard of striking fell for a while he would turn down his hearing aid and turn it up again when the rhythm had been restored.

FIRST PEALS IN WALES

An investigation into the Llandaff and Monmouth peal books reveals some interesting details of peals rung by his bands: Spliced Union and Grandsire Triples in 1925: Oxford Bob Triples in 1925; the first peal of Spliced Oxford Bob and Grandsire Triples and Spliced Plain Bob Major and Grandsire Triples in 1926. The following peals were rung for the first time in Wales: St. Clement's Triples and London Bob Triples in 1927, Little Bob Major in 1928, Spliced Treble Bob Major and Forward Major in 1929, Erin Caters in 1935, Spliced New Grandsire and Grandsire Triples in 1937 and Double Grandsire Triples in 1947.
He also took part in the first peal on the bells at Haverfordwest and Usk in 1926, at Llanbadarn-Fawr, Cardigan, in 1927, and at St. David's Cathedral in 1932 . He also arranged two peals of Grandsire Caters at Newport in 1922 and 1925 with all of the ringers being railway employees
The funeral took place at Baglan on Saturday, August 20th, the service being conducted by the Vicar assisted by the Rev. I. J. Richards, hon. treasurer of the Llandaff and Monmouth Association, and was attended by representatives of the two Associations with which he had been most closely connected, the Llandaff and Monmouth and the Swansea and Brecon. Immediately after the funeral a halfmuffled peal was rung at Baglan by the band mumed peal was rung at Baglan by the band from Bridgend, in whose tower he had rung from Bridgend, in whos so many of his peals.

The ringing fraternity is very much the poorer after the passing of this kindly and highly respected man, and our sympathy is extended to his widow and family. M.J. P.

AN APPRECIATION

With the death of Albert J. Pitman the Exercise has lost its greatest living composer and perhaps its greatest of all time. He was a composer of the very highest order and ranked with such as John Reeves and Joseph W. Parker.
There are very few composers whose work covers more than one field to any depth and, although in quantity he may have been surpassed by some, his work was always entirely original and never "variations on an old theme"; indeed most of it was pioneer work in a difficult field-Spliced Surprise Major. His main work falls into three series: Peals from four to 30 methods, peals of "all the work " from four to nine methods, and lengths of up to 13,440 ; these two first being the ne plus ultra until surpassed by W. E. Critchley and R. J. Crossland. Although such composing requires endless hours of sheer drudgery, no one could have achieved so much without a considerable amount of insight and genius.
The name of A. J. Pitman would survive on Spliced Surprise alone (indeed Spliced Surprise would not have survived so well without A. J. Pitman), but his 240 of Grandsire Doubles and many peals of Triples (Grandsire, Stedman and Spliced), some of which he called himself, are sources of inspiration to any who care to study them. Few composers achieve such a grasp of the fundamentals of composing as did he, and yet he was a man of only elementary education.
He was always ready to help and explain his methods of working and only in February this year we exchanged a brief correspondence which ended with the words: "Shall be pleased to hear further from you." Alas, I had been meaning to write again, but it is now too late. We shall hear no more from him.
G. B. T.

MR. V. T. CHERRILL

It was a great shock to members of the Oxford Guild to hear of the sudden death of Mr. Vincent T. Cherrill, of Reading, aged 68 years. After apparently missing his footing on the pavement near his home on August 20th he fell and sustained a head injury from which he died two days later.
Learning to ring under Tom Hibbert at St. Laurence's, Reading, during the second world war. he never progressed beyond hunting the treble to Grandsire, and this he did very rarely, being quite content to drum the tenor behind. Yet he was very seldom absent from Sunday service ringing or practice night. He was steeplekeeper at St. Laurence's, Reading, for a number of years, also tower secretary and a member of the Ancient Society of College Youths.

His passing will be mourned by his many friends, but by none so much as the numerous members of the Reading University Society whom he taught to handle a bell in his official position as instructor.

The funeral service was held at St. Laurence's, Reading, on August 26th. attended by members of the Oxford Guild. who afterwards rang a half-muffled touch of Grandsire Caters.

Bristol University Society's West Country Tour

$I^{N}$spite of some opposition from the less energetic members of the Society, it was decided to go to the West Country for this year's tour; the appeal of Devon and Somerset scenery and-dare it be said?-cider was enough to decide most people.
It was no surprise to the more senior members to find it raining on arrival in Excter and, unfortunately, the ringing at Topsham, some little distance from the centre of the city, tended to match the grey skies-though, as yet, most of the party, eventually to number over 20, had not arrived. Afterwards a generous tea was provided at the Vicarage before moving of to ring on the pleasant eight at St. Thomas's. Execer. The weather cleared up unexpectedly in the evening and some cycled out to the picturesque village of Alphington to enjoy the views and to rest in the rustic hostelry, which contained a fine set of handbells.

On an unprecedented dilapidated collection of cycles the party set oft next morning and surprisingly reached the first tower of the day Upton Pyne, on time. Then, guided through a maze of narrow country lanes by the Vicar on a motor scooter, we arrived at Crediton, where the tower carries a heavy ring of eight bells. It was a pity these fine bells occurred so early on the tour when the party was by no means at full strength, for some rather in-adequately-struck Stedman Triples was the summit of achievement here. Ringing was enjoyed on the easy-going, rich-;iounding ring at Tedburn St. Mary before we began the singularly hilly journey back to Exeter; on the way occurred what fortunately was the only acciden: of the tour-in view of the narrow lanes we encountered there could bave been many-Miss Helen Roberts cutting her arm rather badly

FETE CANCELS RINGING

Saturday was a particularly interesting das We began by ringing at Withycombe Raleigh and then moved on to one of the lighter rings in the world belonging to Mr. Frank Mack Some difficulty was experienced at first, but the bells were eventually mastered, Spliced Surprise being rung fairly competently. Through a pleasant countryside we cycled on to Clyst St. George, where we found we could not ring because a fete was in progress; however, the scene on a perfect summer's day with Georgian Vicarage and Norman tower in the background compensated anyone who might otherwise have felt discontented. That evening we aug mented the Cathedral practice and were greatly impressed with the grand bells.

Roger Powell, of London, had joined us this day: while other visitors included Clarke Walters, formerly of Cambridge, and Roger Havard, from Cardiff-all making welcome additions to the ringing strength. It should also be added that in the case of the latter two the attractions of the fairer sex had much 10 do with their presence.

On Sunday we finally left Exeter to make the hilly journey to Bampton and the hostel there: but before beginning the long climb we rang for Matins at St. Mark's. Exeter, on a we rang for Matins at St. Mark's, Exeter, on a good modern ring of eight. We spent perhaps the most unpleasant hours of the tour in getting to Washfield; in pouring rain the cycles had to be Dushed most of the wayand on arrival it was found that the nearent hostelry was miles away. Fortunately after ringing and attending service here we were provided with a splendid tea at the Rectory. We reached Bampton just in time to ring for Evensong on what are very pleasant bells indeed.

NOISE AT NIGHT

The hostel is a converted 17th century malt house, one of many interesting buildings in this quiet Devon village, and for many the two days spent here were the most enjoyable. In vivid contrast to previous tours a feature of this year's was the amount of noise made of this year's was the amount of noise made at night: it was to reach a peak here and thereafter to die away apart from some notable, though isolated, incidents. It would be in-vidious to name names; ; suffice it to say that the addition of Cardiff and Cambridge Universities certainly had no damping effect.
For a pleasant change it was fine and sunny on Monday morning when we hegan the inevitable climb to an undistinguished ring of six at Morebath-at least in comparison to most we visited on this tour. At the next towers visited, Brushford and Dulverton. ringing was quite good-surprisingly in the case of the latter tower because the bells are exceedingly odd-struck At East Anstey, with the fourth seemingly close to falling off the headstock, ringing was soon adjourned. It was this day that a strange though amusing incident occurred. Mr. J. T. Parsons and Miss Susan Jenkins were walking, not riding to towers, and they often followed the railway line ; in his efforts to get a good cine shot, the former caused a train to stop, his enthusiasm for future exploits being rather curbed by a threat of prosecution.
On Tuesday we followed the lovely River Exe to Exford and its hostel, visiting two towers en route, Exton at the top of a very long and steep hill, and Winsford. where there is indeed a ford still in use. Exford was certainly the most comfortable of all hostels we visited and, perhaps situated as it is on the banks of the river. the most pleasantly positioned; the more sybaritic were disappointed to leave after only one night, but towers are few in this wild part of Exmoor.
We were glad to meet the Rev. H. F. Warren at Exford Church next day: he welcomed us to a very fine ring-as far as tonal qualities go perhaps the best we encountered. Up steep hills and in pouring rain we then proceeded to Cutcombe to ring the usual eight or so Spliced Surprise Minor, etc. on a distinctive ring of bells in an unusual tower. The views of Exmoor from here are quite exceptional in their beauty-and quite exceptional also were the steepness and narrowness of the lanes leading down to the main road before we could reach Timberscombe. The bells, cast in 1947, are modern and undistinguished.

HISTORIC DUNSTER

We stopped for some time in Dunster. finding much of interest in this historic town. and also enjoyed what was something new for some-a cream tea of dimensions enough to satisfy the most demanding apetite. Perhans it was because of this that difficulty was found in ascending the steep hill to the hostel at Minehead. Although this is a pleasant house with a fine garden, it had a drawback in being situated two miles from the nearest place of refreshment: this, however. was not to deter the more thirsty of the party from making a nightly journey.
Thursday dawned fine and clear and it was a very pleasant walk over the hills to Dunster. The chimes of this church are, of course, famous-famous for their antiquity though famous-famous for their antiquity though rather than the tone of the hells. which are rather badly out of tune. Ringing was enioved very much on the excellent ten at Minehead and quite a good quarter of Grandsire Caters was accomolished the next evening. In spite of the indifferent weather Thursday afternoon was spent on the beach, where in a tense game of cricket the Master's team just defeated the retiring leader's. The victory was duly celebrated that evening.
It was a terrific-but satisfying-climb to Friday's first tower, at Selworthy. Unprepared, we were dazzled hy this spectacular church with it; grand south aisle and situation-a most unexpected building to find in such remote countryside. A fast ride was experienced to Porlock. where some lunched at the historic Ship Inn after ringing on the easy-going bells. As a consequence of the long lunch not much is remembered of the ringing or bells at Luccombe. This proved to be a hot and tiring day, as not only was the ride to Wootton Courtenay exceedingly hilly but. in addition. two people suffered punctures, repaired goodraturedly by Roger Havard. Then came a long run back to the hostel, a quick supper, then a rush to start the quarter peal on time.

Next day we left Minehead hostel; thankfully it must be said, for here a number of people fell ill. Thus the ranks were considerably thinner on Saturday-the tenth daythough luckily this was to be only temporarily. the indisposed rapidly recovering with a change of air. Carhampton, the first tower of the day, has a newish Gillett six. We found the eight at Old Cleeve both difficult to handle and to hear, and so it was a relief to find an excellent ring at. Watchet after a lunch partaken at the sea's edge: amazingly enough it was found the bells were cast in 1558 by Purdue, for they sound better than many modern rings. Then on to Sampford Brett to ring on the nice "country" five before progressing in increasingly dismal weather to Crowcombe and the hostel situated far from any habitation.

We rang for Matins at Crowcombe on a heavy and difficult six and then attended service. Then a pleasant ride in sunshine for a long lunch in the not too distant Stag's Head. continuing to the accompaniment of the hunting horn to Halse to ring on the difficult six, After-to "ise an awful term-"grabbing" nearby Fizzhead, it was only a short trip to Bishop's Lydeard and the eight bells hung at the top of a really fine perpendicular tower. Because of an alarmingly swaying tower, ringing is hard work here and it was deemed wiser to ring Yorkshire instead of the usual Bristol; on the whole the striking was quito good, the less experienced coping well.

A veil is best drawn over the happenings of the last night at Crowcombe say that certain members were almost asked to leave the hostel at me o'clock in the morning.
Two good light sixes at Coombe Florey and Ash Priors concluded the longest tour yet and perhaps the most hilly-but certainly a successful one. Thanks are due to Pauline for the hard work she did for securing such perfoct arrangements.

WANTAGE RINGERS VISIT GUILDFORD

Atter on abortive attempt to arrange the annual outing earlier in the year to the Cotswold country, the Wantage ringers eventually held their outing on August 13th, when a party of 31 set off after lunch for Twyford, where some well-struck rounds and touches of Grandsire and Stedman Triples and Plain and Little Bob Major were rung. The next tower was at All Saints'. Wokingham, where the bells proved a little difficult for the becinners. but a course of Double Norwich came home, the band including one ringer who had learned the method in the coach on the way from Twyford '
After an excellent tea at the Imp Restaurant, our next tower was that of St. Anne's, Bagshot. where we rang some good touches of Erin. Plain Bob and Stedman and a course of Double Norwich. And so to our final destination Guildford, where we managed to ring some quite well-struck courses of Grandsire and Siedman Caters on the ten at St. Nicolas'. Our final tower was Holy Trinity, Guildford, where we rang tonches of Stedman. Plain Boh and Double Norwich. The standard of ringing throughout the trip was much higher than has been heard on our outings for some years, and we felt that we had not discredited oursclves anywhere.

We were very glad to have with us our friends from Blewhury. East Hagbourne and West Hendred. and were also delighted that our old friend Charlie Lester was able to come. Our grateful thanks to all who helped to make the outing such a success.

Mr. Ernest J. Ladd had what he calls "quite an achievement" at Withyham, Sussex, on August 21st, when he conducted a quarter of Double Norwich Court Bob Major. which was the first quarter for all the band except the conductor.

Letters

- THE FIRST LADY

Dear Sir,-I was very pleased-to see from your article in the issue of August 12th that my sister and her ringing activities are stil remembered.

The article brought back many memories of my early childhood-trying to get to sleep on a summer's evening with ringers in the room below ringing touches on handbells. and ringer week-end visitors. among whom frequently was Mr. Will Shepherd. Sitting in the belfry one evening (1 doubt if I was more than three at the time) two or three "bobs" had been called, and after another period when I thought a "bob" was due, and it wasn't called. I obliged!

My daughter visited my sister in Canada in August, 1964, and brought back some of her more personal bells from her collection : they include the bell in frame from the Ladies Guild and a bell inkstand from the local band presented on the occasion of her marriage in 1920, a hell made of oak from the foundations of Winchester Cathedral, and a bell made from the metal when All Saints' bells (9) were tuned in 1916 and given to her by the late Mr. A. A. Hughes.
My own ringing life was curtailed by the 1914-18 war, although I rang in a number of towers during my Army service, but on resumption of my civil (Post Office)' duties, which included many late turns, my activities unfortunately lapsed. and I could not emulate my father and sisters; I lost my father in 1918 whilst in France. However. I am still interested in any bell ringing news and. since retirement, I have rung in a few rowers, and I have turned bellhanger and hung my own madel bell (very light setting at back ,stroke).
I still have my father's peal book, with the names of F. Bennett, G. Williams, Rev. F. E. Robinson, F Hopgood, C. Giles, W Shepherd, J. E, Ballard and A. E. Reeves among the conductors. and in this peal book is a copy of the 1923-24 report of the Ladies Guild, in which details are given of the neal rung at Christ Church. Cubitt Town, London E., by eight ladies and conducted by Miss Edith Parker in 1912 .
Thank you, Mr. Editor, for this tribute to "The First Lady."-Yours faithfully.

HAROLD E. WHITE.

THE WRONG SIDE OF THE RIVER?
Dear Sir,-It has been pointed out to me that the peal I conducted at Werrington on July 13th. 1966, is in Cornwall and not Devon.
The Rev. A. S. Roberts wrote to "The Ringing World", and the readers were notified of this change on July 8 th; being away at that time, I missed it.
The peal was credited to the Leicester Diocesan Guild. and 1 would be grateful if the peal secretary and others who keep records would note the change so that it may not happen again.-Yours faithfully.
R. KINGSLEY MASON.

Knighton, Leicester.
In connection with the peal of Cambridge Maximus rung at Liverpool Cathedral on August 13th we are asked to state that it was not the first of Cambridge Maximus on the bells. That honour goes 80 Mr . Joe Ridyard and his band, who were successful last aurumn.

TWO NOTTINGHAMHHEE RESTORATIONS  EASTWOOD

THREE years ago, two 14 -year-old boys set fire to a curtain in Eastwood Church "to see what a church on fire looked like." The building was completely gutted and only the walls and tower remained. The belfry floor and ceiling were also destroyed by the flames, and but for their steel framework the bells would have crashed to the ground
The site is now cleared, and the eight bells (tenor 19 cwt .21 lb . in E flat) have been rehung by Taylors with new fittings at a cost of $£ 800$, repairs to the tower bringing the total cost to nearly $£ 4,000$. A grant of $£ 50$ towards the rehanging has been promised from the Southwell Diocesan Bell Repair Fund. tender for rebuilding the hody of the church to a new plan has been accepted, and it is hoped that the work will be completed by June, 1967 It is understood that the insurance cover fell short of the necessary expenditure by $£ 10,000$.
The rededication was performed by the Rural Dean of Bulwell, the Rev. P. G. Walker. at an open-air service held on August 20th. Afterwards a band, drawn to a large extent from Leicester Cathedral, attempted a peal of S.024 Eastwood Surprise Major, which failed after two hours' ringing. The Rector of Eastwood. the Rev. D. G. Goodman, was formerly a chorister and ringer at Leicester Cathedral, and the conductor of the attempt, $H$. Povner, was a contemporary of his, both in choir and belfry Mr. Goodman rang the treble and did very well considering it was his first peal attempt for ten years. Also ringing and well known to him while at Leicester were S. Burton, H. B. Bowley and A. Ballard, with whom he rang several handhell peals. including the only peal yet rune of Kent Treble Bob 14-in.
The Rector wishes the bells to be used as much as possible, but feels that their use should be limited to one peal attempt or meeting each month. The Mansfield District will be holding a meeting at Eastwood on September 17th.

STURTON-LE-STEEPLE

At Evensong on August 26th the longawaited rededication of the bells of SS. Peter and Paul's, Sturton-le-Steeple, was performed by the Ven. B. Woodhams. Archdeacon of Newark. The old five (tenor 11 cwt . in $\mathbf{G}$ ) have been rehung without retuning, and a new treble has been added by J. Taylor and Co. A grant of $£ 50$ has been paid from the Southwell Diocesan Guild Bell Repair Fund towards the cost of the work.

Rounds were rung during the service by a team from Sturton and from North Wheatley. The North Wheatley ringers, led by J. iP. Wright, are heloing the Sturton band to become established.

By a coincidence, the Vicar of Sturton, the Rev. L R. R. Harris, who is learning to ring. was ordained together with the Rector of Eastwood.

Touches in various methods were rung after the service by 20 or so visiting ringers. The North Notts District will hold a meeting here on September 10th.
H. P.

In the peal at Wilford (page S31), David Oliver rang his first peal on the treble. and not his first peal. The quarter peal rung at Lifion, Devon (page 559) was Grandsire Triples and not Grandsire Doubles as submitted.

REDEDICATION

THURSBY, CUMBERLAND

$\mathrm{O}^{\mathrm{N}}$N Saturday. August 13th, the bells of St. Andrew's, Thursby, rang out for over two hours after their rededication by the Arcndea, of Carlisle, the Ven. C. E. Nurse.

The old timber frame of 1846 has been replaced by a steel frame and the bells retuned and rehung on ball bearings by John Taylor and Co. They are the lightest ring of the 22 rings of the Cumberland and North Westmorland Association, with a tenor of 7 cwt . 11 lb .

The service was conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. C. R. Ridiey, who is also the president of the Association. und the lesson was read by Mr J. W. Brownrigg, the secretary. Other clergy present included Canon W. R. M. Chaplin, of New. Hutton, a past president. and Canon J. Winder, Vicar of Wigton, and Rural Dean.
As a voluntary before the service Messrs. R. W. Wetenhall. H. Byron and B. Street rang changes on handbells, and three members of the Crosthwaite Handbell Ringers accompanied the singing of the Bellringers' Hymn on handbells. Six members of the local band, Messrs, T. Little, I. Edgar, S. Shimmin. D. Dalton, P. Bell and D. Bell, rang the bells during the dedication.
Canon Nurse in his address congratulated the Vicar and parishioners on the work of restoration to the church and the bells.
An exvellent tea was served by the ladies, after which the Vicar showed slides of the bells being removed from the tower and their return and rehanging. The day was very wet but will always be remembered as a very happy occasion.
J. W. H.

ELY DISTRICTS BANK HOLIDAY

Members of the Ely District and friends visited towers in West Suffolk and Norfolk on August Bank Holiday. The Norman Tower, Bury St. Edmunds, was first on the list, and a touch of Grandsire Caters was regarded as the highlight of the ringing.
After a traditional lunch of English roast beef, three six-bell towers were sampled. A troken rope curtailed ringing at Fornham St. Martin; Great Barton and Ixworth followed. Tea was at Thetford and then ringing on the delightful eight in which a course of Yorkshire and a touch of Stedman were really good. The programme ended at Elveden, where more good ringing was enjoyed.
Special thanks go to Don Knights, who made all the arrangements.

THE MASTERY OF PLAIN BOB

By Robert B. Smith, conductor of the peal of the Extent of Bob Major

Part V : Composing and Hanabell Compositions

WE have looked at compositions from the point of view of the conductor, but so far we have not considered how compositions are produced. To do this we refer 10 Fig. 6 , where we see the first lead of Plain Bob Minor.

FTHE FIG 6
IN PLAIN BOB OF ROWS
IN PLAIN BOB MINOR

\begin{aligned}
& \mathbf{1 2 3 4 5 6} \\
& \mathbf{-} \quad 214365 \\
& +\quad 4261635 \\
& +\quad 462513 \\
& -\quad 645231 \\
& +\quad 654321 \\
& +\quad 563412 \\
& +\quad 336142 \\
& \hline \quad 31624 \\
& +\quad 132546

Starting from rounds. we see that the tirst change is produced by an odd number of hells crossing. The second change is produced by an even number of bells crossing. Working through to the end of the lead, we see that the number of pairs of bells crossing alternates between odd (3) and even (2). This means that any row is produced by either an odd number of pairs of bells crossing or an even number of bells crossing, In other words each row in the ahove block of figures words each row in the ahove bock of 214365 could not be produced from 123456 by crossing over an even number of pairs of bells. Similarly the row 132546 could not be produced from 123456 by crossing over an odd number of pairs of bells.
The most obvious way to indicate the nature of a row (as there are only (wo distinct possibilities) is to refer to it as being positive or negative. Considering rounds to be positive we see that 214365 is then negative as it is produced by an odd number crossing (3). The next row. 241635 , is produced by an even number of pairs crossing from 214365 but the total number which eross from rounds gives the nature. We find, therefore, that 241635 is negative as it is produced by $(3+2)$-five pairs crossing. By the same reasoning the next two rows are positive.
For those who are mathematically minded it should be noted that the nature of rows follows the simple algebra rules that:-

\begin{aligned}
& \text { Minus } \times \text { Minus }=\text { Plus. } \\
& \text { Minus } \times \text { Plus }=\text { Minus. } \\
& \text { Plus } \times \text { Plus }=\text { Plus. }
\end{aligned}

This means that it is not necessary to keep adding up the numbers of pairs crossing, but merely to observe the nature of the previous row before giving a nature to the new row.
Referring again to Fig. 6 we see that from rounds the rows are alternately two negative and two positive throughout the lead, and in fact throughout the course. It is important to note at this point that whenever the treble is in the positions 1,4 and 5 the rows are always positive. Also, when the treble is in 2,3 and 6ths place the rows are always negative. We will now show that it is impossible to produce the extent of Plain Bob without using singles (on even numbers of bells). Consider Fig. 7.

| 132546 | + 132546 | 132546 |
| 135264 | + 123564 | 132564 |
| Plain | Bobbed | Singled |
| lead | lead | lead |

THE EFFECT OF CALLS ON THE NATURE OF ROWS
The plain lead and the bobbed lead both give positive rows when the treble is in 1st place (leading) but the singled lead-end changes the nature of the rows when the treble is in 1st place from positive to negative. Similarly, when the treble is in positions 4 and 5 all the rows will now be negative: when in positions 2,3 and 6 the rows will all be positions 2 , rwo and 6 the rant rules tollow from this:

Rule 7.-At least two singles are necessary to produce the extent of Plain Bob on even numbers in order to reverse the mature of the rows. If only two singles arc used, then they must be half an extent apart.
Rule 8.-It is impossible for the same changes to be produced in a blocls 1 M MELIATELY AFTER a single, as in the block IMMEDIATELY BEFURE a single. Note-Care must be taken in compositions where more than two singles are used as the riture of rows must be continually altering.

The foregoing rules (7 and 8) are put to good use by many composers. Half a peal good be produced having the desired qualities, may be produced having the desired qualites, bells the second half of the peal is produced automatically. Provided that the first half of the peal is true the second half will be true also. A good example of this system of composing is the 5,056 Plain Bob Major by $J$. R. Pritchard, which was given in the previous part of this article. If one refers to the coursing orders given for that peal, it will be seen that the coursing orders in the second half of the peal are the same as in the first half ot the peal with the exception that 2 and 3 are reversed. (Some conductors start this peal by calling a single instead of the first hob at wrong in the first and third parts, which also reverses 2 and 3.)
Plain Bob has no "internal falseness." which means that if all the lead ends are different, then all the changes within those lead-ends will be different. Compositions of the method can be proved by writing down all the leadconds, but this is a long and tedious method. Here we can make use once again of coursing orders. Each coursing order produces its own peculiar set of lead-ends, which means that each coursing order produces a different block of thanges. This gives the most uscful rule for proving compositions of Plain Boh, with the tenors logether (i.c. 8 coursing before 7).

Rule 9.-Provided that the same coursing order does not occur in corresponding leads in a composition of Plain Bob (with the tenors together) then the composition will be true.
Notes-(i) By corresponding leads we mean for example between "home" and "wrong" positions, etc. (ii) The most common place ahere repetition of leads occurs is by going out of a certain coursing order at a before and returning to the same coursing order at another before. This causes a repetition of a complete lead.
It is doubiful whether anybody can produce a new composition of Plain Bob unless it is of an unusual length, but it is a good method to practise composing on before trying other methods. One will see rather a large number of peals of Plain Bob which are "arranged and conducted" rather than "composed and conducted." because it is likely that somebody has previously composed the same peal, but the conductor may not know who!
When starting to compose a peal one usually has in mind certain qualities which it is desirable that the composition should have. In addition there are often other points in the mind of the composer. such as the length, e.g. a peal or quarter peal. For tower bells it is usual to aim at the maximum number of courses with 4. 5 and 6 in 5ths and 6 ths place. which is considered by many to give the most musical effect. Again a good example of these intentions is to refer to the 5.056 Plain Bob Major by 3 . R. Pritchard, given in the previous part of this article. The essential calling of this composition is given below in a " broken down " form :-

| 26435 |

Repeated.

The first course is really only called WB, which produces a "desirable" course-end. so that ${ }^{3} H$ are added as a "Q" set. The same applies to the second course and the fifth course: with the $2 H$ in the third and fourth courses 6 is moved into position ready to move into sths in the next course. By remove into sths in the next course. By removing the "O" sets and the singles at halfway and end from the composition we gave in the last article it leaves only 10 courses of the original 44 in the full peal. Svstematic composing is a great help to a conductor as compositions of this type are much easier to call.

HANDREL.L COMPOSITIONS
We mentioned that for tower hells compositions usually have 4.5 and 6 in 5ths and fths nlace. On handbells. however. this is not so desirable as the music is much more denendent on coursing pairs. Unlike tower hel's. the mmat mus'el coursing nrder is probably 65432 on handbells and dominates the music nuch more on the higher numbers. particularly Maximus. Until the recent popularity of Plain Bob Major and Royal on handbells there was a little scope for new work in this field, but this too appears to be worked out now.

Mastery of Plain Bob-Contd.

It was my intention to write a complete chapter on ringing Plain Bob on handbells but this is adequately dealt with by Mr. C. W. Woolley in the Central Council publication "Change Ringing on Handbells." This book (price 2s. 6d.) is excellent value for money for all those who are interested in becoming proficient in handbell ringing, and is still available. It is worth considering a composition in detail for each of Plain Bob Major, Royal and Maximus.

Twice repeated. Singles halfway and end.
Considering the above (write out the coursing orders), it will be seen that from the bob git home at the end of the second course, 5-6 course until the before in the ninth course when they come into the 5-6 position. An important point to note for the conductor is that the fourth makes the last bob at the end of every block of three throughout the peal, i.e. all those bracketed calls.

The above peal is a course longer than necessary but was composed to help a band to progress from Major to Royal and has the quality that $3-4$ course from the first bob at home to the end of the peal. The 6th makes 4 ths at the singles in every block of 6 ; the bobs at home are called when the coursing order is "in course "only.

Note, - An "in course" coursing order is one which can be obtained from rounds or brought back to rounds by calling bobs only. If it is necessary to use a single then the coursing order is said to be "out of course."

As an exercise in composition, the above composition can be extended to give the complete 48 courses with $3-4$ in course, the total length of the composition being 49 courses (This can be given at a later date should anybody request it.)
The following composition is a modification of the above composition to include four courses of 65 course-ends while retaining 3-4 in course.

UP AND COMING YOUNGSTERS-No. 29

JAMES F. LIST

THE OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

THE Oxford Diocesan Guild introduces to this series a youngster of great promise. James List was born on October 20th, 1948. at Long Hanborough, Oxfordshire. His education commenced at North Leigh Primary School, and from there he went to Witaey Secondary School

Coming as he does from a long line of well-known beef cattle breeders, it is not surprising that in addition to working on his father's farm he is also taking part-time courses in agriculture at the West Oxfordshire Technical College.

Jamic, as he is affectionately known among his friends, was taught to handle a bell by the Branch secretary, Edward D. Patching, who soon had him ringing call changes. In a very short time. due to the hard work of David Smith, a former Branch secretary, and other helpers. Jamie and the local band were able to struggle through Plain Bob. Determined to progress and improve his standard of ringing, he went out to other towers with other youngsters and learned to ring Surprise methods He rang his first peal when he was 15 , and this took place at Stanton Harcourt on July 15th, 1963. when he rang the treble to three Minor methods. The peal was conducted by

BARNSLEY DISTRICT SOCIETY

The Society held its monthly meeting at Silkstone on the second Saturday in August During the afternoon the attendance was not large and the ringing started with an attempted quarter peal. which had to be cut short at the 720 mark owing to the arrival of more ringers.
After tea in the village youth centre, supplied free of charge by Mr. H. Mann, the business meeting took place in a cordial at mosphere with the Rev. D. Birch in the chair, and all matters were agreed without much ado.
Ringing during the evening, though limited in the number of methods, was of good quality, ranging from Plain Bob to Cambridge, including some of the irregular methods. Ringing continued well into the evening.
The next meeting will be held at Hoylandswaine on the second Saturday in September.
D. K. Adkins Since that date this pro mising youngster has progressed rapidly and now has a total of 32 peals to his credit.
Jamie relates an amusing incident which took place when he went on an outing with the Witney and Woodstock Branch. On this occasion their outing took them to the Wye Valley area. On arrival at one village the party discovered that the church only possessed two very small bells. The organiser had got mixed up with another village of the same name. which, unfortunately, was on the other side of the River Severn.

Jamie made Guild history when at the Witney and Woodstock Branch annual meeting in April last he was elected Branch Ringing Master, and so became the youngest member to hold this important office in the Branch and probably in the Guild. His chief ambition as a ringer is to strengthen Sunday service ringing in as many Branch towers as possible
This is an excellent record for one so young and one which surely deserves praise and congratulations from the Oxford Guild and the whole Exercise.

NORVING.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION Ashford District

Cricket on the village green with the bells ringing from the nearby church was the perfect English countryside setting for the meeting at Benenden on August 27th. The service was conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. Mr. Jessop-Price, assisted by Mr. D. L. Cawlev. In his address the Vicar mentioned the detached wooden campanile which was destroyed by fire in the 17 th century.

Tea was enjoyed in the school, and Mr. J. Willis took the chair at the business meeting. Mr. N. J Davies proposed a comprehensive vote of thanks to all who had contributed to making the day the success it undoubtedly was. Many more visitors arrived during the evening, the ringing concluding at 9 p.m.
R.J.S.

HUNTINGTON OUTING

On August 22nd ringers from Huntington (Yorkshire) and friends repeated last year's successful experiment of a combined ringing and seaside outing.
Ringing in the morning was at Kirby Moorside (6) and Middleton (4). The party then went to Whitby across the Yorkshire moors, which were carpeted with purple heather at its best. A picnic lunch was eaten at Sandsend and bolder members ventured into the sea.
In the evening we were not allowed to ring at Marske, where the bells were said to be unringable. At Guisborough (6) we were pleased to give some of the local ringers the chance of change ringing on their own finesounding bells.

BELFRY GOSSIP

The sixth extent of the peal (published on page 532) at St. Vedast's, London, was of St. Clement's and Plain Bob, and not St. Clement's only, as published.

The name of Miss Pat Dowse was inadvertently omitted from the list of ringers from St . Cuthbert's, Darlington, who toured the Isle of Wight at the beginning of August.
The ringer whose 90h birthday was commemorated by the quarter peal at King's Somhorne, Hants (page 559), was Mr. Hewlett, The tenor was rung by Mr. W. Mulford.
St. George's Guild. Jesmond, Neweastle on Tyne, is temporarily losing one of its active members. Miss Jane Holden is going to Israel for a year.
Mr. C. W. Denyer, vice-president of the Guildford Diocesan Guild, is in Farnham Hospital following a heart attack. We are pleased to learn that he has now turned the comer and is making satisfactory progress.
Mrs. Albert Hughes has recently undergone an operation for cataract in one eye. It appears to have been successful and she can now see to get about much better than she has done for well over a year. She hopes the other eye can be done before Christmas.

Because of a late start it was impossible to ring a full peal at Llandeito on August 22nd. It was decided not to risk the bricks that had been thrown at the tower when the last peal (ten years ago) had overshot. However. a half peal was rung in 1 hour and 25 minutes, being the first in 11 Doubles methods for all.

VILLAGE FORD COLLECTING BOX FOR

 BELL FUNDKersev, near Hadleigh, Suffolk, is a noted beauty spot, with the church high up on the hill at one end of the village, and down the hill a stream which, owing to its attraction. has not been bridged. The street then continues up the slope on the other side.

Friends of the fabric and bells of Kersey Church urge passing motorists to throw their money info the ford! Twice a day Mrs. Ethel Beeton, a member of the organising committee puts on her rubber boots and wades into the ford to bale out the money, which had been tossed out by visitors, into a drum. had been tossed out by visitors, into a dru
So far $£ 70$ has been collected in this way.

The Friends' target is $£ 2,500$. the estimated cost of rehanging the six bells. which have been silent since the early part of this century because the frame is in such a poor condition.

Registered as a charity, the committee has already raised $£ 850$, which includes a grant from the Barron Ball Fund. Following on the success of their Flower Festival, which last year raised $£ 325$, the "Friends" held another year rased weekend and anticipate reaching this splendid total again.

"SANDWICH" SALLIES

The College of Campanology has been taking note, particularly of the reaction of learners to instruction in sally catching (position on sally, etc.) and in ropesight generallv, during the earlier phases of their training. Certain pointers show the usefulness of the clearest indication of the top and hottom of the sally, i.e. tufting in white, to aid in due appreciation, during movement, of length of sally and of the point of grip along it, in each individual's case.
An all-white sally would tend to lose freshness of appearance: but the effect of white ends only is in no way lessened by having the main (inner) portion of the tufting in colourplain or mixed-and a useful proportion is poothirds of the total length as the inner. coloured portion, with the remaining onethird as two white ends, i.e. one-sixth total length each.

Such "sandwich" colour arrangements do not detract from the use of the Collegerecommended white elastic "serviette ring." slipped over the sally to the appropriate position for each individual pupil, to check his point of grip in the early stages.
Sallies of the white-ended type are heing tried out in the belfry of Portsmouth Cathedral, and reaction is being noted with interest.

RINGERS WED AT STRATTON ST. MARGARET

Stratton St. Margaret Parish Church was the sene of the wedding between two ringers on August 20th. The bride was Miss Pauline Ann Lansley, younger daughter of Mrs. and Mrs. J. J. Lansley. 7, Wanborough Road, Stratton St. Margaret, and the bridegroom Mr. Gordon Land, only son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Land, of Lechlade, Glos.

The bride wore a straight dress of white brocade with a shoulder-length veil held in place by a crystal coronet. She carried pink and lemon roses.
Bridesmaids were Miss Margaret Goddard, Miss Anita $O^{\prime}$ Brien and Miss Marian Giles, with Trevor Goddard as pageboy. The best man was Mr. William Gearing of Lechlade. The couple will live in Bristol.

WANT NORFOLK PEAL WEEK TO BE ANNUAL AFFAIR
Ringers from the Watford and Witney areas converged upon Sculthorpe, Norfolk, for the opening, peal attempt on Monday, August 15 th, during their Norfolk Peal Week. Despite the unusually hot weather, which was totally unexpected, the week was very successful, four out of six attempts being accomplished.
Perhaps the highlight of the week was the peal of Zurich Surprise Major on the lovely peal of the Memorial Tower at Elveden. The standard was high with a steady beat throughout. Surprisingly, the "hottest day" had less effect on the band than had other atlempts.

The headquarters was at the Crown Hotel, Fakenham. which was generally considered quite comfortable and an ideal centre for the towers visited. Between peal attempts visits were made to seaside resorts, which enabled everyone to relax and temporarily "forget" the somewhat sombre thought of peals in the hot weather.

It was indeed a pleasure to have Nolan Golden in two attempts and also to receive such a warm welcome wherever we went. Sunday morning ringing was enjoyed at Fakenham, which unfortunately indicated the end of a very er.joyable week by all who had participated.

Grateful thanks are extended to all the tower correspondents and steeple keepers for having everything ready and to all incumbents for use of the bells. It is hoped that this tour will become an annual event

LOSS TO DEVON GUILD AND TO PLYMOUTH

Mr. Harold W. Milford, general treasurer of the Guild of Devonshire Ringers since 19(1), the Guild of Devonshire Ringers since $19(0)$, having previously been auditor, has had to relinquish his post on transfer from Plymouth to H.M. Dockyard, Portsmouth.

His association with Plymouth dates back to 1943, when he came to St. Andrew's. Plymouth, and quickly grasped the rudiments of "the art." He has been a very popular and loyal supporter. To show their appreciation in tangible form, his fellow members presented him with a copy of "Change Ringing" by Wilfrid G. Wilson, and with it go their best wishes in his new appointment.

In addition to his service to St. Andrew's he has been a member of the Guild of Devonshire Ringers since 1944, and here again he shire Ringers since 1944, and here again he has served the Fxercise with talents not so has served the Fxercise with talents not so much as a ringer but rather on the administrative side, having heen elected to the General Committee in 1956.
"He is the type of person we can ill afford to lose and we shall always retain afford to lose and we shalles memories of him." writes Mr. G. happy memories of hima, writes Mr. I. Si. Myers. A farcwell quarter
Andrew's on August 25th.

WOOBURN'S NEW FOREMAN

Mr. B. A. Cracknell has taken over the duties of foreman at St. Paul's Church. Wooburn, Bucks, and all are working hard to raise the standard of ringing. It had been planned that the band's first quarter attempt would be of Plain Bob Minor for the Confirmation service in November. The sudden death of Mr. J. R. Sedgwick. joint secretary of the P.C.C. meant that the first attempt was an in memoriam quarter peal to him on was an in memoriam quarter peai to him on grateful memory for his life and hard work for the eburch.

© RINGING TOWERS *

The Alrgust issue of "Ringing Towers " is another large one. Main feature is the A.N.Z.A.B ringing festival associated with the annual meeting. It says a lot for Allstralian enthusiasm when 22 ringers came from Victoria, three from Adelaide. two from Hohart one from Western Australia, three from Canberra three from St. John's, Brisbane, and one from Armidale. The report of the festival has already appeared in. The Ringing World," but the Editor's colouring was not so apparent. It should satisfy even the critical eye of Philip Gray, who reports on the Central Council meeting at Bath. Certainly it cannot rival "The Ringing World." which. according to Philip. "most members feel that too many articles are dull and ill-written and that it is getting worse." After such a condemnation we cannot expect increased sales in Australia. It certainly prevents the Editor from getting high-minded.

Graeme Waldron writes about the rehanging and rededication of the bells at St. Peter's. Ballarat. These bells were recast at the Whitechanel foundry and it was the iob of the lncal company to get the hells and new frame in the small 12ft. square helfry. It was no little achievement. A lantern roof was built and a complete system of sound control introduced from a specification by Mr. F. Sharpe. Very favourable comments have been made on the hanging supervised hy Gracme Waidron, and the great case with which the bells can now the rung.
Another feature we welcome is "Sydney's Up-and-Coming Youngsters."

FATHER AND GRANDFATHER RANG IN 10-YEAR-OLD'S FIRST PEAL

Keith Scudamore (aged ten years), of Cirencester, whose name first appeared in the quarter peal columns earlier this year, has now scored his first peal. ringing the treble at North Cerney. Glos, io a peal of Doubles. He is to be congratulated for a truly outstanding performance. throughout which he showed no signs of either nervousness or fatigue.
Keith's only complaint was "My feet went to sleep." The hand included his grandfather. Mr. Ralph E. Scudamore (Tower Master at Llandeilo) and his father, P.Sgt. W. F. Scudamore (Ringing Master of Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association).

HALF A CENTURY AS TOWER KEFPFR
Another of John Euston's veterans is honoured this week in "Jim" Chapman, who for 50 years has heen towerkeeper and captain at St. Leonard's, Streatham. A peal of Main Bob Major was rung on the bells on August 2nth as an 85 th birthday compliment to him. It was a Sussex Association peal and Len Stilwell made the journey from Worthing o participate Ringing next to him was Miss Anne Horsford, who was in Great Adventure II with Len.

PORTISHEAD PEAL WEEK

The Portishead Peal Week this year was rather unlucky, losing 11 peals out of 27 attempted. The highlights of the week were Stedman Caters at Bath Ahbey (only seventh peal on the bells) and Minor at Clapton-inGordano rung by the ladies. This was a very good peal. admired by many male listeners. Among the personal achievements during the week were the 700th peal by Ralph $G$. Edwards. S00th by D. John Hunt. 150th by Philip J. Rothera and 50 th by Geoffrey W. Randall.

PERSONAL

MR. PETER BORDER has asked us to state that at no time has he ever made claim to be "the finest living ringer" or, for that matter, "the King of Tenor Kings." The opinion expressed on page 554 was editorial and did not emanate from Mr. Border or from any of his colleagues in the peals at Exeter Cathedral or Liverpool Cathedral, in which he turned in the tenors single-handed
" Repent, and turn yourselves from all your transgressions: so iniquity shall not be your ruin." ${ }^{\text {"Ezekiel }}$ xviii, 30

MEETING THE COST OF BELL RESTORATIONS

By Dr. P. J. Perry, University of Christchurch, N.Z.

$J$UDITH Scott's letter of June 3rd advocating a Central Fund for bell restoration surely deserves the most urgent attention of all ringers, and more serious consideration than it seems to have received at this year's Central Council meeting.

We must admit that the value of bells and ringers as such is marginal to the preaching of the Gospel in the twentieth century, and that if the Church is to be true to that Gospel almost every claim that is made on its limited resources merits prior consideration to those of its bells. As men and women active in church and community. ringers are not luxuries, but their bells undoubtedly are. Moreover, we enjoy the use of costly equipment, which gives us very great pleasure, at, in most cases, a less than nominal cost; to do so is, in the circumstances, verging on hypocrisy.
Is there any other recreation where the participants pay next to nothing for the use, maintenance and replacement of expensive equipment as we do? The old argument of the value of our service to the Church in proclaiming its existence and message no longer has much weight: highly though most of us value Sunday service ringing, we must be prepared to admit that this can no longer justify the expense to the Church which it involves.

In brief, the bells of Britain must be endowed to face a future of necessarily increasing expense and a diminishing willingness and ability to pay on the part of the Church. And such a future may be much nearer than we like to think. Clearly any endowment must begin with the ringers themselves, and primarily with those peal and tour ringers who make most recreational use of the bells, although it should also include the less peripatetic and the less peal conscious. (As to details of any such plan this would be of great importance and requires much thought, but lies outside the scope and purpose of this article.) Equally clearly any money paid from a trust fund should be paid as far as possible on a pound for a pound raised locally basis, but also bearing in mind the size and affluence of the local population and the extent to which the bells are likely to be used.

But more than an appeal to ringers is surely needed: to raise a fund with a worthwhile annual income some national appeal to industry, to individuals and to institutions must be undertaken. Such appeals have substantially aided many undertakings, new (and old) universities, cathedrals and churches for example and I see no reason why an appeal of this kind if conducted competently (which means professionally in this case) should not raise several hundred thousand pounds.

As to the management of such a fund, I refuse to believe that there are insufficient ringers of ability and integrity to undertake this task. In my own limited experience over ten years and in three localities in Britain I am sure I could find a group capable of undertaking such a task (again provided they received adequate professional advice on e.g. investment policy). And as Judith Scott pointed out, a national fund by being national avoids many of the problems which bedevil a local one.

Finally, the matter is urgent. If it deserves attention, and however much deliberation and planning it requires, it deserves and requires them now; it will be too late when the crisis is upon us and the bells are silent.
NOTE-Miss Judith Scott is secretary to the Council for the Care of Churches, and her letter in the issue of June 3rd was received too late for consideration by the Central Council at Bath, although copies were available for the Standing Committee. Mr. E. A. Barnett, the then secretary of the Central Council, wrote upon the subject in the issue of May 20th, and doubted whether Associations like the Kent County, who had had belfry repair funds for over 50 years, would surrender their indepen-dence.-Ed.

IN THIS ISSUE

Wratten's Wringers' Tour again Centred on Cheltenham

THE fourth annual tour of Wratten's Wringers was held from July 2 nd to 9 th and was centred, as usual, on Cheltenham. The tour party consisted of Diana Chapman. Gill Hussey, Peter Bridle, John Hunt, George Cousins, Georg = Thoday, Richard ("Cap'n Crunch ) Sweet, Victor Griffin, Chris Kippin and Cyril Wratten, assisted part time by Tony Kench and sundry. other ringers from the Cheltenham and Swindon areas.
As numbers were somewhat smaller than last year, we were not able to attempt tho peals on the first Saturday, but we made up for this by ringing Hampstead Surprise Royal on the fine ten at Daventry, Northants, our only ten-bell attempt of the week. On the way back to Cheltenham we dropped in at Qumton, Warwickshire, to enable Cyril to salve his conscience by attending at least part of his local Branch meeting and for the rest of us to "grab" a new tower.

Sunday morning brought the arrival (very early) of George Thoday. who had spent the previous day cheering the West Indies at Trent Bridge. We enjoyed ringing for morning service on the twelve at Cheltenham Parish Church, Stedman Cinques and Little Bob Maximus being brought round. Richard was particularly delighted with the twelve-bell ringing since it gave him his first opportunity to rise above tenth's, despite some previous twelve-bell experience at another Gloucestershire tower!
After lunch we headed towards Birmingham, Packwood being our objective. We arrived in time to see a christening party beat us to the church. The spare half-hour was spent in various activities, mainly learning the method for the peal. but despite the wait a good peal of Belvedere was scored. The tenor ringer, unlike his cricketing cavaliers. was disposed to coast along, and the time of 2 hours and 31 minutes was ample evidence of his nocturnal driving activities! A pleasant hour or so was spent after the peal renewing acquaintances with Maurice Hughes and Ian Maycock

SNUFF WITH THE RECTOR

On Monday morning the peal ringing began in earnest with an attempt for Pitman's sixspliced "all the work" Surprise Major at Hampton, near Evesham. With half of the record Spliced Major band ringing, this attempt should have been a "walk-over," but unfortunately, after an hour and threequarters' good ringing, the conductor unwittingly varied the composition, which dcprived us of the 65 's and the peal. Perhaps we should have taken heed of Geofi Hemming's advice before the attempt and rung "Yorkshire and score." The afternoon's attempt for Superlative at Hinton-on-the-Green was, however, successful, the morning's conductror being banished to Evesham to listen to the Test Match. As the peal came round Mrs. Amy Thomas arrived home and it was the pleasure of some of us to renew old acquaintances. In the evening we met the Rector of Evesham, the Rev. Albert Webb. quite by chance in a local hostelry, and before the end of the evening some of the hardier members were seen taking snuff with him, with varying degrees of success, much to the amusement of the remainder of the party. Later we said farewell to Tony Kench.

The Evesham area was again invaded on Tuesday and Sawley Surprise Major scored at Badsey. After a late so-called lunch we made our way to Oxford, where we were due to ring Bristol at St. Martin's and All Saints. Having duly inspected the peal boards and remarked lightheartedly about the slow times of some of the peals. recorded, we succeeded in ringing our peal in 3 hours and 7 minutes, one of the slowest on the bells. This gave rise to the rumour heard in Oxford a few weeks later that we rang until 11 oclock (we in fact finished at 8.45 p.m.!). The elements were unkind that evening, undoubtedly due to England losing the Test Match, and the journey back to Cheltenham Match, and the journey back to Chelten

On the following morning we headed eastwards to Kingham, where the musical Taylor eight were soon tapping round to the first peal of Alloa outside Scotland. This was the only peal during the week. when the tenor ringer really "got cracking" and George was most put out to see his fast time of two years, ago broken by a secondary "tenor king "! At lunchtime Richard became attracted to a hunting horn for sale in a shop in Chipping Norton and, after much amusing haggling, succeeded in purchasing the instrument. The ensuing attempts in the High Sircet to play the horn caused consternation so we beat (and blew) a hasty retreat to Churchill to ring a peal of Cheltenham. Despite attempts at sabotage by the members of the band who preferred the 2nd's place version of this method (Pudsey!) we were eventually successful. scoring the second peal in this method also.

FIRST BLANK DAY IN FOUR TOURS

Thursday morning brought our now annual pilgrimage to Ledbury. ."Previous attempts here, both thought to be "in the bag," failed due to shift courses and inadequate bobs, so this time we decided to ring "Yorkshire, and score." Our only anxiety was, as usual, the conducior, especially when it was discovered that the chosen composition was not composed by Mr. Pitstow, and. what is more, parted the tenors, but even he seemed to De on form and the attempt, as usual, looked "in the bag." Unfortunately we reckoned without fate. and after three hours" ringing the tenor clapper snapped. The conductor was, of course, blamed for pulling too hard, es: pecially when it was discovered that this was the third tenor clapper this year that had broken on him, but recriminations were soon forgotten over a glass of beer.
The afternoon attempt for Spliced at Upton-on-Severn came to an untimely end after half an hour due to the same unlucky person shifting with the organiser, who was conducting this time, and so we returned to Cheltenham with our tails between our legs. having had the first "blank" day in four tours. The usual Thursday practice at Cheltenham did much to brighten our spirits, however, and Cambridge Maximus was attempted, much to Richard's excitement, as he was now able to go to $12 \mathrm{th}^{\prime}$ 's place for the first time! The hunting horn was again much in evidence and credit must go to Frances Fairbank, who managed to play two notes on the thing, the previous maximum being one for the musical members of the party and none at all for the remainder, including the owner !
Worcestershire was again the objective on Friday, and Stoke Prior was selected for the morning's attempt of Rutland, which was duly scored. At lunchtime John and George Thoday took on the local coalmen at darts and, much to the latter's consternation, beat them handsomely. The start to the afternoon's attempt for London at Hanbury was delayed while Richard told us (again) how he had rung the second there to an inordinately long peal of Bob Major lasting nearly eight hours. Suitably impressed, we succeeded in ringing our humble 5,000 of London in 2 hours and 56 minutes, which sufficed for most of us near the end of the week. The evening was spent in the traditional Friday evening manner, preparing ourselves for the final day's peal ringing.

Of course, the weather decided to turn against us in the morning and we accordingly splashed our way down to Stratton St. Margaret to ring a peal of Wessex, which was successfully concluded. One famous ringer in the band was heard to remark that it was a change to hear these bells rung to something other than Spliced .... The final attempt was at Highworth, a ring which we found much better than we had expected and, after two mysterious false starts, rang an enjoyable peal of Fordcombe, one of the more musical of the Lincolnshire variations.

Farewells were said rather hastily afterwards, as one member of the party had a train to catch to yet another ringing tour, and therefore our tharks to Cyril for another first-class pour must be reiterated. Our thanks are also due to Margery Wratien for again putting some of the party up (or putting up with some of the party, as one person was heard to remark!) for the fourth year running. and not least to the incumbents and tower captains.

MIDDLESEX AS＇N．AGAINST CHANGE

Saturday，August 20th－a glorious summer day－a North and East District meefing at St． Mary＇s，Harrow－on－the－Hill－a delighttul oc－ tave and a panoramic view of the countryside for miles around for those not actively par－ ticipating in the tower．What more can a ringer ask？

The attendance was slightly above average， despite the fact that the holiday season was in full swing，and visitors were welcomed from Southampton and Cheshire．It was nice to see Miss Pat Laycock in our midst again after a 12 －month stay in Canada．

In the absence of the Vicar the service was conducted by the Rev．C．F．Dare，Vicar of St．Paul＇s，South Harrow，whilst Mr．Brian Apperson accompanied at the organ．This was followed by a splendid tea prepared by the members of the local band．

At the business meeting，under the chair－ manship of the Rev．F．W．Goodfellow，frve new ringing members were elected to the As－ sociation，viz．：Mr．and Mrs．Woolley and Mr．and Mrs．Murphy（Harrow）and Mr．Mar－ tin Jordan（Hendon）．The provisional election of Mr．Maurice Ingram（Birmingham）as a non－resident life member prior to a peal of Stedman Triples at Harrow was ratified．

On a suggestion originating from Miss Ruth Foreman it was decided to hold＂Surprise＂ practices at St．Mary＇s，Hendon，on the second Wednesday of＂＂even＂months（February， April，etc．）in a similar manner to that re－ cently established by the South and West District on the first Wednesday of＂odd＂ months，the inaugural meeting to be held on October 12th．

A discussion also took place on a pro－ position submitted to the Editor of＂＂The Ringing World＂for a revision of the format of peals rung in the Greater London area to show borough，county，dedication and locality． but this was not favourably received，the general consensus of opinion being that no useful purpose would be served by adopting this method as diocesan boundaries had not changed and Greater London had only been brought into being under the London Govern－ ment Act for administration purposes．
Following a vote of thanks to all who had contributed to the success of the meeting a return was made to the belfry and ringing continued in a variety of methods under the able guidance of Mr．T．G．Hawkins．

MR．JOHN TABERNER．J．P．

John passed peacefully away on August 24th，aged 74 years．He had been a member of the Lancashire Association for 50 years， but it is in the smaller community of Higher Walton，near Preston，that he will long bo remembered．
His whole life was devoted to his beloved All Saints＇Church，his prosperous retail busi－ ness and the welfare of the village in which he spent his life．
At his church he had been a member of the Parochial Church Council ever since its in－ ception and had prided himself on never having missed a meeting until his illness of a few months ago．He had been a regular ringer there for about 50 years and a churchwarden for some 30 years．Although his ringing did not progress beyond．Treble Bob，he set a wonderful example in attendance and de－ votion to duty．
A man of steadfast faith and strong con－ victions，he was never prepared to compromise his principles．
The funeral service was held on August 27th，and many people from all walks of life gathered to pay their tribute to his life and example．The bells were chimed to whole pull and stand before the service and rung half－muffled afterwards，and a course of Grandsire Triples was rung on handbells at the graveside immediately after the committal．
On the same afternoon a peal of Plain Bob Minor was rung to his memory at Sam－ lesbury，but unfortunately an attempt for Treble Bob Major at his own tower was lost when the treble clapper came out in the very last course of the peal

THE LSE OF AN " $X$ "
Dear Sir.-An article specifically addressed to beginners ought to be contined to established facts. The instalment on page 558 of R B. Smith's series violates this axiom so blatantly that his readers should be warned.

His last note states that most composers use an $x$ for a call Before to indicate that it alters the length of the course. The C.C Collection of Peals, Group II, Section II, contains $19^{\prime}$ compositions of Plain Bob Major by 40 composers, not one of whom uses an $x$ for a bob Before. Unless Mr. Smith can name a greater number of composers of Plain Bob Major who do use an $x$, he should retract his statemen:.

The use of an $x$ (more properly a multiplication sign) originated in the first edition of Stedman in the Snowdon series, where it was introduced to indicate the two bobs that behave as one in the twin-bob system. It has subsequently been freely used in an analogous manner in other methods, for instance, In and Sths in London Surprise Major. In Plain Bob Major it is well established as an indication of 5ths and 4ths.

Nearly every bob Before in the C.C. Collection is indicated by a numeral. By contrast with the dashes used for other bobs, a number suggests some difference in effect. It so happens in Plain Bob Major that the number of leads added to the course is equal to the number of bobs Before. Such a direct indication of the result of bobs Before could not be improved on, hence it is not surprising that it has become the accepted normal way.

In the second column of his instalment. Mr. Smith writes $3 x 10$ indicate three bobs Before. The bobs are completely denoted by the 3 ; the addition of a redundant $x$ is fatuous.-Yours sincerely,

GREATER LONDON PEALS

Dear Sir-Concerning the recording of peals rung in the Greater London area, I was surprised to read that Mr. Cobb's sensible proposals had been rejected by those members of the Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild present at the meeting at Harrow, on the grounds that we are a body of Church bellringers. I was particularly surprised in view of the fact that a suggestion, made at a recent meeting, that the name of the Association be changed to "The London Diocesan Guild "-which would have emphasised the fact that we are workers for the Church. not the county-was thrown out with a vehemence which had to be seen to be believed, not even a word of discussion being permitted.

As far as the example of Kilburn is concerned, the new form would be: "City of Westminster, London. At the Church of St. Hestminster, London.-At the Church of St.
Augustine, Kilburn." which to at least one member of the Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild is neither unpopular. unheloful, misleading nor irritating.Yours faithfully,

ALAN SPREADBURY.

CAMBRIDGE PEAL DUPLICATED

Dear Sir,-As conductor of the peal rung at St. Andrew the Great, Cambridge. on August 11th, may I point out that the peal has been inadvertently duplicated, and that the first publication. on page 561, should be dis-regarded.-Yours faithfully, Cambridge.

INJUNCTION THREAT AND COMMON VIEWS
Dear Sir,-After reading the article over and over again, I thought of a "No mention in the Act" among the technicalities of the Noise Abatement Act. Does this mean that church bells can go on and on haphazardly, regardless of rhythm and time? Being a ringer myself who has been brought up to the discipline of rhythm, 1 can feel for Mr. Paul Marriott. This was illustrated to me by our parishioner; after a peal was rung at our own tower by what was supposed to be a creditable band, like the company at Newton-le-Willows.
Dear Editor, the object of my letter is not to create any ill-feeling or friction between ringers and myself, for 1 am and always have been a lover of church bells. If the views of Mr. J. Gilbert (Handsworth), Mr. J. Phipps (Chesterfield) and Mr. Harold Chant (Felkirk) were accepted in all towers, it would go a long way towards suppressing the likes of Mr. Paul Marriott.
My little bit of advice to every peal ringer is to imagine that in every tower are these words towards the bells: Let thy speech bo better than silence or be silent.-Yours, etc.,

Greenfield, Oldham,

Note.-Although church bells are not specified in the Noise Abatement Act, it does not mean that bells can be rung indifferentlv. thus creating a nuisance. Injunctions have been obtained under Common Law, one noted case. so we are informed, being of church bells rung at 7 a.m. on a Sunday.-Ed.

DISCOURAGED

Dear Sir,-Where have all the ringers gone? (S. G. S.. September 2nd.) Ill tell you where some of them are. They have gone away disheartened by ringers who encourage none but competent ringers at their towers.
I am a comparative novice by some standards, having been ringing only 21 years with no more than three Major Surprise and some half dozen Minor Surprise methods in mv repertoire. Al the present time I am instructing a band of six learners on a difficult 23 cwt. six and am the first to admit that the striking at times is not all that it could be, but they are keen and regular attenders both at practice nights and every Sunday, which I consider most important. I would agree with anyone who says that a high standard of ringing should be encouraged, but surely it is better to have the bells rung regularly by ringers who will improve their performance week by week than seldom or not at all.
Recently I took one of my more promising learners to a tower where I have always been made welcome (I hope not only for my ringing ability). Admittedly it was Sunday evening, but the poor fellow stood by for an hour without as much as "Would you like a few rounds?" It would not have been so bad if he could only ring rounds. No ringer ever goes away from our belfry without having had the best we can offer, and when more ringers realise, as I was taught, that the bells are for the service of the Church and not for their convenience, then will the singers start coming back. -Yours truly,

GORDON W. RENDELL.

STANLEY IS BACK

It was a strange coincidence that my previous contribution should appear in "The Ringing World" at the same time as the account of the record peal of Minor at Ashbocking, as I live within carshot of these bells and know the ringers personally.
My last letter was written from my hotel in Sydney, where I had a fine time with the ringers, particularly Willie Watson. I made the trip by train to Melbourne for a week-end with my cousins and, of course, a ring at St. Paul's Cathedral, where I received a grand welcome. With my usual luck we again lost a quarter of Plain Bob Major, but it was a joy to ring these beautiful bells.
Returning to Sydney, I rang at All Saints', Parramatta, and was able to meet Margaret Goodyer, who has just returned from England with about 70 towers under her belt! Congratulations to her son, Philip, who rang his first quarter while 1 was in Sydney. Tom and Margaret must be proud to have a son carrying on the tradition. For my final evening, after practice at St. Jude's, Randwick, we met at Enid Roberts ${ }^{\circ}$ home, where 1 took my leave of the many friends I had made.

Willie Watson, faithful to the last, saw me off at the airport for New Zealand the next morning. 1 arrived at Wellington determined to ring at Christchurch Cathedral. Inquiries indicated that the only way to get there on a Sunday was to fly the 152 miles at a cost of £10 return, so I was airborne again. At Chrisschurch 1 found the Cathedral and was getting my bearings when I saw two men talking boside the Cathedral. On going over to them 1 found one was Nelson Sloan, the man I was looking for, and John Dunn, who hails from Birmingham. Needless to say my day was made; they gave me a grand lime and I was able to ring for the evening service and catch my plane back to Wellington after the service.
My next move was to Auckland and from here I set my sights on Hamilton; this was ersier as I was able to get there by bus. Mr. Coldwell met me and $I$ was able to ring on this nice eight for Evensong and catch my bus back to Auckland-a very pleasant evening. From there I moved across the Pacific to Los Angeles and Jamaica and finally to london Airport. In 55 days 1 had circled the globe. 1 had delivered a message from Roy Law in Cape Town to Ray Idle in Christchurch, I had rung at Melbourne on the bells in which George Pipe has a special interest, I had met wonderful people in Sydney and, above all. I had been taught a lesson. Here in England we have lovely old churches with rings of bells hanging silent, while people in other parts of the world have not enough to go round. It is up to us to get them ringing again, for there is no doubt in my mind that ringing is one of the greatest fellowships on earth and the bigger it becomes the better the world will be.
On the evening of my return I called in at a party being given in honour of Miss $A$. $E$. Lester. who is shortly leaving for Singapore. and was welcomed with musical honours-so much for my previous article.
A peal has been rung at St. Andrew's. Sydney since I left, and through "The Ringing World" I offer my hearty congratulations to the ringers. This Christmas 1 shall have a lump in my throat and my thoughts will turn to my many friends across the seas. people who last year I did not even know. May thev continue the good, work. And, to all in England, let's show 'em-we have the bells, let them speak to the world and not hang in silence until they fall down in decay

STAN BLOOMFIELD.

BELLS AT ALL SOULS', EASTBOLRNE

Dear Si ,-Over the past three to four weeks there has been some conflicting reports regarding the above bells and inquiries made to members of the Council have met with little information. Having heard on Fridav last that builders were removing the bells I decided to visit the church as soon as possible.
On Sept. Sth I visited the tower and found that the five bells, together with all fittings and frames, have been removed by John Taylor of Loughborough. Two bells were already loaded on a lorry for a destination unknown. In place of the ring. I understand that a single hell will be installed on a metal headstock. (No doubt Messrs John Taylor will supply fuller details in due course.)
For the records, there is no ring of five bells (tenor $10 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{cwt}$.) at All Souls', Eastbourne. - Yours sincerely.

R. W. R. PERCY.

RINGING AT BRAINTREE

Dear Sir,-You published in the September and edition a letter from Mr. Roy Threadgold. whose address is shown as Braintree.

As Roy says that he seldom gets beyond the stage of Bob Doubles as conductor or researcher, it could be taken that this is the limit of our activities at Braintree. Actually, Roy-who is far too modest about his ringing ability. both in theory and practice-rings at Wethersfield, near Braintree. We at Braintree are fortunate enough to have a band for Surprise Major on most Sundays. - Yours trulv.
R. J. LINDSELL.

ARCHDEACONRY OF HALIFAX GUILD

At a well-attended meeting of the Guild at Halifax Parish Church on September 3rd full advantage was not taken of the 12, which are the loveliest ring of bells in the district. The Rev. Mr. Sorsby conducted the ringers' service and an excellent tea was provided by the local band $\mathrm{Mr} \mathbf{P}$. Birkett presided over the business meeting, during which he, as a delegate to the Yorkshire Ringing Societies, announced the desire to hold the Ringing Festival of 1967 at Halifax. Mr. E. Lord put on record that Halifax was proud to be chosen as the venue. and his proposal that the committee meet to make preliminary arrangements was carried.
Ringing continued until 9 o'clock.

GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL ASSOCIATION

At a special meeting at Haresfield on August 20th a resolution was unanimously approved informing the Association that they would strongly resist any attempt to interfere with present boundaries.
Prinknash bells (8, 21 cwt ) are to be hung for ringing when the Abbey tower is eventually completed. The Abbot, the Rt. Rev, Dytig Rushton, has said that they would much appreciate being members of Stroud Branch when the time comes.
Minchinhampton's oldest bell, the fifth, has hecome cracked, and the annual meeting in December will be transferred to Chalford.

Tony Bishop's Party

THE West Country was again selected by Tony Bishop's party for their tour, which started on August 6th, with Yarcombe as a base. Attending were Deborah Hopkins Vanessa Rodrigues, Kay Tremeer. Prisca Hornby, Lesley Read, Tony Bishop. Alan Bagworth, Rodney French, Keith Sansom, Bagworth, Rodney French, Keith

The first cormmitment on Sunday was ringing for morning service at Up Ottery, where a good start was made with Cambridge. The afternoon's ringing was at Stockland and on the lovely six at Luppitt, where we found an enthusiastic local band. The eight at Honiton were well rung to Stedman for the Hovening service. Shouts from a bedroom window welcomed us back to the hotel-they were from Gill Sims, our 12th ringer, who had just arrived.
A strenuous day had been prepared for Monday. Before lunch ringing took place at Hawkchurch. Uplyme and Lyme Regis, where Erin and Double Norwich were both well struck. In the afternoon the six at Symondsbury and the eights at Bridport and Bradpole were enjoyed. That evening Westminster was attempted on the pleasant hells at Netherbury, and Hexham at Broadwindsor. Finally, after moving the choir stalls, we rang Stedman and moving Major at Winsham. We arrived at Yarcombe in time to hear the end of a quarter peal to mark the dedication the previous dav of the newly-augmented beils from five to six (tenor 14 cwt .)

FREE AFTERNOON EARNED

Tuesday was cool and blustery but this could not daunt our spirits. The sixes at Hinton St. George (where York went well), Merriott and the heavy-going bells of Norton-sub-Hamdon were rung before preparing ourselves, by having lunch. for the 24 cwt . six at Montacute. The magnificent bells were rung to Durham and Oxford T.B. and were much praised before enjoying a well deserved free

in the West Country

afternoon. For evening ringing we visited Kingsbury Episcopi and Martock, where a half-course of Superlative produced the best striking.

The fine weather continued on Wednesday. The sixes at Membury and Chardstock (where Michael Uphill called his first "Devonshire Surprise" of the week) were rung before going on to the lovely eight at Thorncombe. The incident of the afternoon was at St. Michael's, Honiton. The man who met us was-unable to open the tower door with the key so he calmly took a pickaxe to the lock and informed us that he had done the same thing for another visiting band a few weeks earlier! Before ascending the staircase we were warned to keep to the outside as parts of the steps towards the centre were likely to be missing. An oil lamp illuminated the ringing chamber. However, we were pleased with our Bob Minor and lower in peal. Two ringers from Luppitt obtained permission for us to ring at Cotleigh, where London was enjoyed.

LADIES TO THE FORE
The ladies opened Thursday's programme with a good course of Cambridge at Dalwood. Kilmington and Shute bells were rung before splitting up for a free afternoon, which was spent walking. In the early evening we were ringing at the lovely twin-tower at Ottery St. Mary, and this attracted an audience. The eights at Sidmouth and Sidbury followed.
Friday was another heavy day of ringing and we were pleased to be joined at Ilminster by Chris Marshall and Fred Sage. Curry Mallett, North Curry and Curry Rivel were among the towers visited and the last of some nine towers was at Stoke-sub-Hamdon, where Cambridge and Carlisle went well. Saturday was wet and cold and we took leave of each other soon after ringing at Glastonbury, having previously rung at Somerton and Butleigh.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION

Eastern District

When the Eastern District met on August 27th ringing took place at Hessle and Kirk Ella in the afternoon and Cottingham after tea. Evensong was at Cottingham.

The new District vice-president. Mr. Alan Sheppard, presided at the meeting and gave bearty welcome to Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Bottomley and Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Morcton and ringers from Dewsbury and Coventry. The meeting approved the committee's recommendation fixing District meetings on the third Saturdays of February, May (A.G.M.). August and November. Sherburn-in-Elmet has teen provisionally booked for the next meeting on November 19h, with Tadcaster it available.

Four new members were elected-Misses L I. Clowe and S.S. Brenland (Huntington) and Messrs. J. Brook and A. Shingles (St. Mary's. Beverlev).

A DAY TO REMEMBER IN LEICESTER-

 SHIRERingers and friends of St. Mary's, Peterhorough, will not forget August 29th, the day arranged for them in Leicestershire by Mr. G. Davis, and the splendid way Mr. G. Cowlin organised the ringing at the ten towers visited. All the 25 ringers, at different stages of experience. enjoyed themselves.
Promptly at 9 a.m. we were at Desford (a delightful six). Next came Ratby, and despite the absence of stays on the treble and second. good touches of Plain Bob and Kent Major were rung. Two good sixes followed at Groby and Markfield.
We claim the indulgence of the people at Anstey ( 8 ) for the poor ringing that followed lunch. By the time we reached Rothley (6) and Sileby (8) the roast beef and Yorkshire pudding had settled and morale restored. At Asfordby (6) the striking could hardly have been bettered. But the best ringing of the day came after tea at Waltham-on-the-Wolds (6) with standard methods to Cambridge. With all in high spirits, we felt that Buckminster (6) could not let us down. Double Oxford was the highlight here. Our beat thanks 10 all who made us so welcome.

POLICE MEMORIAL SERVICE AT WESTMINSTER ABBEY

TUESDAY morning, September 6th, saw the Parliament Square area of Westminster literally seething with police of all ranks, represen ative of all Forces in the country who atten I the memorial service in the Abbey. led by the Dean. Dr. Eric Abbot, for the three Metropolitan Police officers who met death on duty in such tragic circumstances secently. The Metropolitan Police Band and Choral Society also took part in this service.

Arrangements had been made to relay the service inside St. Margaret's Church and in the Abbey Cloisters for the great number of police and civilians who attended.

The capacity congregation in the Abbey was led by Her Majesty's representatives and members of the Government, Lords and Commons, the Judicature: the Commissioner ( Sir Joseph Simpson) leading the serving ranks of all departments and divisions, and representatives of many other Forces.

The "back eight" half-muffied bells of St. Margaret's Church were rung to two touches of Stedman Triples before the Abbey service by members of the National Guild of Police Ringers, comprising Supt. R. J. C. Hagley and Sergt. H. A. May (Surrey Constabulary), Constables A. Jacques and J. Smith (Leicestershire and Rutland, Constable G. Cousins (Herefordshire), Constable C Neal. ex-S. Ch. Insp. J. Lott and ex-Contable N. S. Bagworth (Metropolitan).

COMMISSIONER'S THANKS

Immediately at the conclusion of the Abbey service the half-muftled bells of the Abbey were rung for a short period by the "staff band" of the Abbey, and the above-named police ringers commenced an attempt for a quarter peal of Stedman Triples at St. Margaret's. The latter was brought to an untimely conclusion in the fifth course, mainly by the sudden and most unexpected appearance in the belfry of the Commissioner himself, who had made the climb to see and thank the ringers personally. A fresh start was made for a quarter peal of Grandsire Triples after his departure, which unfortunately came to grief two courses after the halfway single had been successfully passed.

The ringers were entertained to lunch in the senior officers' dining room at New Scotland Yard by Mr. R. Linge, Dep. Commander No. 1 District of the Metropolitan Police. to whom Supt. Hagley expressed the sincere thanks of the police ringers for all he had done at such short notice to make the necessary official arrangements. The equally sincere thanks are also passed to Mr. J. W Euston for all he did to have the bells of St. Margaret's ready for the occasion.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Mr. J. E. Jeater has received a money order for $\dot{2}$ is. 10 d ., dispatched from Sydney, N.S.W.. on August 16th. Details are awaited.

The Society of Sherwood Youths scored two peals in the West Country. George A. Dawson conducted Bob Royal at $\mathrm{St}^{\text {. }}$. Andrew's, Plymouth, and Richard Inglis Minor in five methods at St. Juliot, Cornwall.
Miss Valerie Mills participated in a farewell peal at Apsley End before leaving for Cheisea College. Eastbourne. We always regarded ringing as a good subject for physical education.
The first peal of Pudsey Surprise Maximus was runz for the Southwell Diocesan Guild at St. Peter's, Nottingham, on September 3rd. Jack L. Millhouse conducted and the band came from Lincolnshire, Bristol and Kent.

Twenty-one peals were rung during a peal week in Yorkshire and Lincolnshire. Conductors were W. F. Moreton (7). W. E. Critchley and J. H. Fielden ( 4 each), S. Armeson (3), R. E. Price (2) and W. Massey (1).
Congratulations are due to Malcolm Bowers of Lelant for the way in which he rang bis first peal-on a working bell to five Minor methods-at Manaccan on August 27th. After the peal the Vicar and the ringers were entertained to refreshments at the New Inn by Lt.Col. C. F. Jerram, a vice-president of the Guild.

GIFT OF RING OF EIGHT AND TOWER

A tower and ring of eight bells are to be given to the Church of St. Margaret, Leigh-on-Sea, Essex, by Mr. Alan J. Brush, head of the A. J. Brush Organisation, in memory of his father, the late Mr. A. W. Brush, who died last January.
The bells are being supplied by Messrs. John Taylor and Co., of the Loughborough Foundry, and the casting took place on September 7 th. The tenor bell, weighing $11 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{cwt}$. . is inscribed with the name of Arthur William Brush. Others have the names of Alan Brush, his wife and his mother, and also the present Vicar of St. Margaret's, the Rev. John Bundock, who was at school in Leigh with Mr. A. W. Brush A stone on the tower will record Mr. Alan Brush's gift.
The tower is designed in campanile style to match the church, which is of a classical design. It will be surmounted by a small cross. the top of which is 70 fect from the ground or twice the height of the church. The architect of the tower is Mr. Laurence J. Selby. F.R.I.B.A.. and the builders are Messrs. A. J. Arnold and Sons.

IN THE NORTH-EAST

Mr. Wilfred Williams is by now accustomed to publicity and his very successful peal tour with 12 successes in the North-East received both Press and radio coverage It was pleasant to hear Wilfred speaking in the Home Service over the breakfast table about his "busman's holiday." as the radio commentator suggested in a reference to his association with St. Paul's.
We have also had sent to us a copv of "The North Eastern Evening Gazette" giving a picture of Ormeshy Church during one of the peals. Five toddlers from a nurserv school are posed in front with their hands on their ears. We cannot imagine that the London Surnrise Major was so badly struck or so loud as to justify such action. Is it a method of inculcating prejudice against church bells? After commenting that the toddlers found the noise too much for them, the report goes on: "But the eight men locked in the bell tower have rejected a camping holiday for campanology. They are a band of dedicated hellringers from the South touring NorthEastern churches, ringing for pleasure,

Also mentioned in the report with Mr. Wilfred Williams is Mr. Peter Border. After recounting his single-handed ringing of the tenor at Liverpooi Cathedral. he is now credited with achieving a peal of 75.280 changes! Certainly a challenge to Mr. Bob Smith of the "Extent of Major" fame.

HECKINGTON AND DISTRICT OUTING

Worcestershire was chosen by the Heckington, Lincs, and District ringers for their outing on August Monday.
Despite being a small company, owing to harvest activities, a most enjoyable day was spent at the following towers: Church Lench. Upton Snodsbury, Feckenham, Stoke Prior, Crowle, Alvechurch and Redditch.
Methods rung were Grandsire Triples and Doubles, Bob Major, Tridles and Minor, Double and Single Court. Kent and Oxford Treble Bob and Oxford Bob. Premature calls often found our driver off "course," bome being reached at $1 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$. Warm thanks are extended to the clergy and local ringers, also extended to the clergy and local ringers, also to Mr. Edgar Cole for arranging another excellent outing.

ENTHUSLASM TOWARDS RINGING  SHOWN AFTER QUARTER PEAL

A quarter peal was rung on August 26th at East Morden, Dorset, by the Charminster ringers. The ring is composed of five bells (tenor 9 cwt . in $G$ ) and is hung in two tiers since the tower is very slender. The three trebles form the top tier and the two tenors are below.
Before ringing could take place the old ropes, which had been on the bells for over 50 years, had to be replaced with better ones. The Charminster ringers did this in the afterrioon and the bells were pulled up and tried out. The only bell which gave trouble was the tenor, which was found to be loose on its headstock. This was remedied by tightening a few nuts, and after it was oiled it went as well as the others.
The quarter peal, which was 1,260 Plain Bob Doubles, was rung by the following: W. C. Shute 1. J. P. Cooper 2, Miss M. Lush 3, T. F. Collins (conductor) 4, E. H. Amey 5. It is believed to be the first on the bells but this is subject to correction.
After the quarter, welcome refreshment was found at the local and it was here that great enthusiasm was shown lowards ringing by some of the villagers. If only more bands would get together to ring the bells which are rarely rung perhaps they would stir up enthusiasm among the local people to get their hells ringing regularly again as this band has done.

Other five-bell towers where a quarter has been rung are at Long Bredy. Piddletrenthide. Svdling St. Nicholas, Leigh. Bishop's Caundle, Nielbury Abbas, Bradford Peverell and Stoke Abbott. The backbone of the ringers of these quarters: Miss M. Lush. J. B. Cooper, E. H. Amey and T. F. Collins. the latter pair sharing the conducting. Well done!

THE: LATE MR. A. J. PITMAN'S PAPERS

Mr. Trevor M. Roderick informs us that the papers of the late Mr. A. J. Pitman are being dispatched to him and that he will keep then safely until the Central Council decides who is to inspect them. Before Mr. Pitman's departure from South Wales. the Llandaff and Monmouth Diocesan Association presented him with a filing cabinet in which to keep his papers.

DERBYSHIRE BELLS TO BE REHUNG
The bells of St. Michael's, Hathersage, have been lowered prior to dispatch to the Whitechapel Foundry for cleaning, retuning and quarter turning before being rehung in a new metal frame with all new fittings.
Hathersage has a ring of six (tenor about 12 cwt.). All the six bells are over 300 years old, and it is thought that the treble and the fourth, hoth undated, could be as old as 500 years. The small sanctus bell. known locally as Tommy Tinkler, is dated 1460 and bears a Latin inscription to the memory of Robert and Joan Eyre, logether with the Eyre and Padley coats of arms.
An eight-beli frame is to be installed, but there are no immediate plans for increasing the ring from six to eight. At present the local ringers perform only rounds and call changes. although some 80 years ago the ringers used to ring Grandsire, London and various other methods. The only record of a full 5040 peal was in September, 1963. when members of the Derby Diocesan Association rang seven extents of Plain Bob Minor.

FORTHCOMING BELLRINGING COURSE

 AT GRANTLEY HALL, YORKSHIREThe principal lecturers on the above course, to be held from Friday night to Sunday, November 11 th to 13 th, will be Mr. F. Sharpe, Mr. W. F. Moreton and Mr. N. Chaddock.
The aim will be to offer suitable lectures and activities for both elementary and advanced students (particularly tower captains and tutors). There will be an alternative choice during most lecture periods and there will also be ringing at $4-, 6$ - and 10 -bell towers nearby.

Topics will include initial instruction, method ringing and splicing, conducting, maintenance, handbell ringing, etc. Special needs of particular students will be met.
Applications should be sent to: The Warden, Adult College, Grantley Hall, near Ripon, Yorkshire. Average cost of the course (fees and board) is about $£ 3$ per student. Grantley Hall is a lovely country mansion and food' and accommodation are excellent.

SURPRISES AT BOGNOR

When Mr. D. L. Cawley visited Bognor Regis, Sussex, recently, he was disappointed on consulting 'Dove" to find the details: " S . John Bapt., 8, 10-3-12 in A flat. Chiming only." After having been to Chichester Cathedral in the morning, he went to Evensong at Bognor. Surprise, surprise, as he approached the church he heard beautifully struck Stedman Doubles with $7-6-8$ covering coming from the tower. A machine. he thought.
But the open belfry door invited investigafound the tower surprise came when he found the tower captain and one of her regular team playing the bells (by Gillett and Johnston. 1952) by clavier. This part of a bunch of surprises was completed by an invitation to sign the visitors book (not always found in towers with proner rings). The captain informed her astonished visitor that they practised regularly on their chime and on a fine set of handbells (which she produred) on Wednesdays in winter. The final surprise came during the announcements for Evensong: "The bellringers will be holding their If all
If all towers with ringing peals had ringers as enthusiastic as those at Bognor, which has only a chime, albeit a very fine-toned one. the future of the Exercise would be rosv indeed.
Incidentally, the outing referred to above was to the Son et Lumiere at Salisbury. not to other towers with chimes ! D.C. L.

TO SINGAPORE

Miss Alice Lester is leaving by air for Singaoore, where for two years she will be teaching at one of the Service schools. There was, however, a farewell peal at Ashbocking hy the band who rang in the pral of 148 Minor methods. This was a modest attempt of 14 methods which they set out to do some eight months ago. All the band moved to the left from their normal bells and Bob Lester eventually rang his 14 methods peal!
CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY GUILD TOUR Cambridge University Guild's Week was held in Lincolnshire. There were four peal successes, viz.: Stedman Caters at Grantham: Yorkshire Surprise Royal at Surfleet: Double Norwich Court Bob Major at Burton-onStather: and Bristol Surprise at Billinghorough. Some 19 ringers took part in these peals.

NEW COLLEGE, OXFORD

0N TUESDAY, April 19th, the ten bells at New College were rung again after a silence of more than a year. It is interesting to note from Mr. F. Sharpe's "The Church Bells of Oxfordshire" that Michael Darbie recast the original five medieval bells into a ring of eight, the first recorded octave cast by one founder. Four of these bells remain as the third, fifth, eighth and tenor of the present ring of ten, the others having been recast.

Henry Knight of Reading recast the present six in 1672 , Abraham Rudhall I recast the present fourth in 1703. A few years later, in 1712, further activity is recorded, Magdalen College, also with the services of Abraham Rudhall 1, added two bells to make up the octave there and the rivalry that seems to have existed at the time between the two colleges resulted in two further bells being added in the same year to make up the ten bells at New College: these also were cast by Abraham Rudhall 1. The only other recasting was the ninth in 1723 by Abraham Rudhall II.

At the present time, therefore, we have a ring of ten by four different founders. The result, while not to my mind up to the excellent standard of the bells at Magdalen College, is nevertheless satisfactory. The rehanging has been done by Messrs. F. A. White of Appleton and is another example of the excellent work produced by this firm for very many years.

Peals at New College have always been few. Mr. Harry Miles of Carbis Bay, a former Ringing Master of the Oxford Society, while visiting Oxford recently, recalled in conversation an event early in the century (probably 13th July 1903) when permission had been given for an hour's ringing. The Hon. Alexander P. F. Erskine, a member of the College, and probably in his last year, had made the arrangements and as he arranged for only ten ringers to be present it was clear that he intended to try for a peal. The door was locked and after a false start a peal was rung. Members of the College administration had tried to get into the tower to stop the ringing but were unsuccessful. In consequence of this it is probable that no further peals were rung in the tower until 1922.

Even the peal rung at the College to commemorate the rehanging of the bells did not go by without incident. Permission for a peal attempt was requested and the date, August 27th, was chosen by the College authorities as the most suitable for them. As this clashed with a peal attempt at the Cathedral already arranged it was decided to ask if the attempt could start at 6 p.m. Permission was granted and the bells went into changes at about 6.10 p.m. The ringing went steadily on until nearly 9 p.m. when there was a rattle at the door and then a loud banging. This went on intermittently until the peal was brought to a successful conclusion. On unbolting the door we found outside one of the college porters, complete with blunt instrument. It appears that a number of people had telephoned the College to complain about the continued ringing. It would seem that an evening peal is not a good idea and something we shall have to watch in the future.

GUIDANCE

MANY weeks have elapsed since the new "Ringing World" Committee was elected at Bath, and now we learn that the Committee is to meet at Derby on October 9 th. Messrs. George W. Pipe and Dennis Beresford have not, at the time of writing, disclosed their plans for improving the paper to the Editor. Shortly after the Council meeting the Editor received various suggestions for improving the journal, and these have been forwarded to the convener. Mr. Anderson was anxious that these should be considered at the same time as the muchdelayed proposals for brightening the paper.
One thing, in particular. has Mr. Pipe informed the editor. He has prepared three designs for a new front page illustration. Mr. Pipe's skill as a cartographer is well known and evidence of his ability in this direction has appeared on the front page of "Ringing Towers," the Australian quarterly. The 1911 title design of Mr. J. S. Goldsmith has done yeoman service. When Mr. J. Frank Smallwood was convener, he gave very serious consideration to this design and promoted a competition, which was won by Miss Muriel Reay. But the affection of many influential readers for the preservation of the existing design was so pronounced that the Committee decided against change.

In the light of all that was said at Bath it is assumed that many would like to see a new format on the front page, something more in keeping with the spirit of the age. Is this the accepted view of the majority of our readers? Guidance from the general body would be helpful. Has the tradition, so precious to many of our elderly readers, outlived its usefulness in this computer age?

THE MASTERY OF PLAIN BOB

By Robert B. Smith, conductor of the peal of the Extent of Bob Major

Part VI : Influence on Other Methods

THE vast majority of methods which are rung in these times are "treble-dominated methods." By this we mean that the treble is working in a way which is peculiar to itself, i.e. plain hunting on following a "treble path bob." During the time that the treble is doing this each of the other bells is ringing some particular part of the method. Because the treble is following a regular path, as in the treble is following a regular path, as in the case of Plain Bob. it can be used as a guide to ringing the method, in the manner described at the end of Part 1 in this series of articles. The important thing to note here however, is that these methods are each divided into leads in precisely the same way as Plain Bob, each working bell being in a different position at each successive lead-end until it finally returns to its starting position In all regular methods the row at the end of each lead of a method (i.e. the lead-end) is one of the Plain Bob lead-ends. This is a stipulation laid down in the Central Counci Handbook (1956) and has good mathematica! foundations, apart from the fact that it makes method ringing and conducting considerabiy easier than it would otherwise be.
N.B-Irregular methods do exist (i.e. those without Plain Bob lead-ends) but generally speaking they are not worth ringing.

Consider now the figures given in Fig. 6.
LEAD-ENDS OF VARIOUS METHODS

| (A) Plain Bob | (B) D. Norwich | (C) Cam. |
| :---: | :---: | :---: |

| 13527486 | 18674523 | 15738264 |
| 15738264 | 13527486 | 18674523 |
| 17856342 | 16482735 | 14263857 |
| 18674523 | 15738264 | 13527486 |
| 16482735 | 14263857 | 17856342 |
| 12345678 | 12345678 | 12345678 |

The first thing that we observe from the above figures is that Plain Bob lead-ends need not necessarily come in the same order as they do in Plain Bob. Actually very few of the standard "Surprise" methods have the the standard 13527prise many have 15738264, first lead-end 13527486: many which is the same as Cambridge.

The second thing we should notice is that by changing from the method to another one at the lead-end it is possible to shorten or lengthen the course which is precisely what is done in peals of "spliced," e.g. by ringing one lead of Plain Bob. Double Norwich and Cambridge we will return to rounds (irrespective of the order in which these methods are called).

From the practical point of view the most important use of Plain Bob lead-ends is to check that each of the bells is in the correct position. If the eighth bell finishes in 7ths position at the lead-end, then the 6th bell should be in 8ths position at the lead-end etc Some conductors use this method of conducting by checking the position of each bell at the lead-end. On the higher numbers of bells this method is not of very much use alone as there is a long space of time in between successive lead-ends This method of conducting is referred to as being by "transposition of the natural course-ends ${ }^{\circ \prime}$ and is the same as "pricking the sixes " in Stedman. Most proficient conductors just use this as a part of their equipment for conducting and we will refer to it when we consider individual methods later.

In the third part of this series we considered the effect of calls on the coursing orders and we can now see just how useful coursing orders can be. We now know that all regular methods have Plain Bob lead-ends, and it follows that if the bob is made in the same manner as Plain Bob (i.e. by the bells in 2nds, 3 rds and 4 ths position at the lead-end). then the transposition of the coursing order will be the same. This means that a call such as a bob at wrong in any regular method (e.g. Cambridge. London, Bristol, etc.) having a Plain Bob type bob, always transposes from 532 to 325 (ABC to BCA). Once the transposition of coursing orders has been mastered for Plain Bob it can be applied to the great majority of all regular methods. In addition. if Treble Bob methods (which includes all "Surprise" methods) are rung without the use of singles, as they generally are, then the number of possible coursing orders is halved. as only "in course" coursing orders are obtained
N.B.-" In course" coursing orders are those which can be obtained from the plain coursing order by using bobs alone. 53624 is an " in course" coursing order, 53264 is an "out of course " coursing order.
Much could be said about each standard method with respect to coursing orders but we must limit our study to just a few methods Every method has a coursing order although in some methods it is rather obscure. We will only consider Major methods in detail but it should be understood that the greater the number of bells being rung. the more useful becomes the system of ringing and conducting by using coursing orders.

| 18674523 |

We will consider each lead of the method in detail with respect to the tenor bell, noting which bells the tenor passes.

Ist Lead.-Double dodge 7-8 down with 7th, pass treble 7-6. Pass the 5 th and 3 rd, then dodge with the 2nd Make 3rds, let treble through, make 4 ths, pass 4 and 6
If we now analyse this lead we see that the bells are passed (neglecting dodges and places) in the order 71532146 . This is precisely the same as for Plain Bob apart from the fact that the treble comes between 7 and 5 in the first half of the lead and between 2 and 4 in the second half of the lead.

2nd Lead.-Analysing this lead we see that the bells are passed in the order 1753124. Again the same as Plain Bob with the exception of the treble.
3rd Lead.-Analysis 6175132.
4th Lead.-Analysis 4167153
Sth Lead.-Analysis 2146175
6th Lead.-Analysis 3124617.
7th Lead.-Analysis 5132416.
By eliminating the treble from these coursing orders, it being understood that the 8 th bell will not be included in the numbers, as that is the one we are considering the method from, we find that Double Norwich retains Plain Bob coursing orders on the front and tho back throughout the sourse. This is one of the reasons that the plain course of Double the reasons that the plain course of Double Norwich is so enjoyable to listen to, and the same is true of Yorkshire, Superlative and Bristol.

Note. - It is only necessary to write out half a lead of a method as shown in order to see how the bells work as the second half of the lead is always a "mirror image" of the first talf.

Kent Treble Boh has been referred to as "Plain Bob slowed down," which is a perfect description of the method. The bells are all passed in the same order as Plain Bob, with the exception that the treble appears in the order in place of the bell which is ringing the slow work. It we consider the first lead of the method from the tenor, the bells are passed with the treble coming in between 3 and 4, which tells immediately that the 2nd is the slow bell. This is very useful when conducting because the slow bell may try to leave the front too soon.

We will analyse this method in the same way that we analysed Double Norwich.

1st Lead.

Analysis 64.3-3.461-532467-41623.
This looks quite complicated at first sight, but it will be noticed that in moving towards the lead the bells are passed in reverse coursing order. 64.3 with the 2nd missing (slow bell). When the tenor turns round to move towards the back. the order becomes 3.46 before turning round with the treble. It then has a perfect run down to lead in Plain Bob coursing order, with the 7th coming last instead of first. $53246 \%$. The 4 th is the slow bell and turns the tenor: here it must be remembered that the slow bell is always the one coursing next but one in front of your own bell, i.e. If you are ringing the 6th to plain course and are doing the Stedman whole turn before the are doing the Stedman whole turn before the lead-end. the slow bell will be the 2nd. After passing the treble the bells again come in reverse coursing order 6.23 with the $4 t b$ missing (slow bell).

7th Lead.

42.5137-5324-5324-6214.357.

Again this looks complicated but one does not learn all these numbers. The method in this case is made up of forward and reverse Plain Bob coursing orders with certain exceptions and 11 is the exceptions that should be learned For example, one would learn the block in the 3rd lead 7512346 as being Plain Bob with the pair immediately after the treble being reversed.

CONCLUSIONS

We have seen that Plain Bob and, in particular. Plain Bob coursing orders are tremendously important in change ringing. Time spent in ringing Plain Bob with learners on tower bells and hendbells should never be found boring as there is more to the method than at first meets the eye. There is no substitute for really learning methods before attempting to ring them, and people who say that they can learn better on the end of a rope should always be regarded as the weak links in a band Practice and experience are both invaluable for method ringing: both depend upon the individual and his or her enthusiasm.

BATH AND WELLS ASSOCIATION

Combe Florey proved a delightful venue for the September meeting of the Taunton Branch of the Bath and Wells Association and a very happy afternoon was spent there by the 30 members and friends who attended. Evensong was held in the church. conducted by the Rector, the Rev. G. R. Fooks, who gave the Guild a warm welcome. A good tea was provided in the Village Hall and was followed by the business meeting. presided over by the vice-chairman of the Branch, Mrs. E M. Williams

The light ring of six was kept going during the afternoon and early evening and the ringing ranged from rounds to Cambridge Surprise. A pleasing feature of the meeting was the number of young ringers present and the excellent way in which they rang. E.S.P.

DUDLEY AND DISTRICT GUILD

The annual meeting of the Guild was held at Dudley on September 3rd. As Dudley bells were not available owing to repairs being carried out to the spire, Brierley Hill bells were rung during the afternoon, and Netherton bells in the evening.
The Guild service was taken by the Rev. R. S. Short, assistant curate at Dudley, and this was followed by a tea which had been prepared by the Dudley ringers.
At the business meeting the accounts for the year 1965 were presented and all the officers, except the secretary, were re-elected. Mr. M. D. Fellows, the secretary, did not seek Mre-election and Mr. R. Edwards was elected in re-election and Mr. R. Edwards was elected in Ringing ranged from rounds and call changes to five-spliced Surprise Major.

Leicester Cathedral Ringers Married

The wedding of Mr. Derek M. Sawyer and Miss Susan D Foster took place at Leicester Cathedral on September 3rd. The Cathedral had been beautifully decorated with flowers for the occasion and the bells were rung to greet the bride as she arrived with her father The service. followed by Holy Communion was fully choral and was conducted by the Archdeacon of Leicester (the Ven. R. B. Cole), a close friend of the bride's family, assisted by the Rev. H.H. Cuflin, chaplain of Leicester Cathedral.

The bride wore a dress of white nylon on silk taffeta. trimmed with lace piqué, and her long veil, also decorated with lace pique. was held in position by a cluster of white flowers She carried a bouquet of white roses, lilies of the valley and stephanotis. She was at-

Also in attendance were two nieces of the bride, Katherine and Wendy Herrick, who wore white dresses and bonnets and carried posies of pink and white roses. The best man was Mr. Alan Sawyer, brother of the bridegroom.

As the couple left the Cathedral the bells again rang out. A reception attended by over a hundred guests was held at the Heathfield Hotel.

Derek is a member of the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths and the University of Bristol Society and, with Susan, rings at the Cathedral. A peal of Yorkshire Surprise Maximus was later rung to mark the occasion.

DEVON RINGERS' TOUR

A representative number of members of the Guild of Devonshire Ringers held another successful tour on September 7th. when the Torbay area was the venue. The organiser was again Mr A. L Bennett and accompanying him were Mr and Mrs. C. E Lankester (London). Mr and Mrs. F. W. Housden (Shalford, Surrey). Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Harding (Phaltord, Surrey). Mr. and Mrs. Soulh). Marding (Portsmouth), Messrs. D. R. Bould, G. E. and family (Exeter). Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Myers and family. Mr. T G. Myers and Miss Y. C. Porter (Plymouth). Mr. J. P. Coad (Looe), Mr. K E. Fursdon (Torquay) and Mr. J. Michelmore (Tavistock).

Towers visited were St. Mary's, Brixham (where the bells have recently been increased to ten). Churston Ferrers, Stoke Gabriel. Tot nes (where some of the ringing was taperecorded), South Brent and Dean Prior. There was a tea break at Totnes.

Methods rung were Grandsire Doubles Triples and Caters. Plain Bob Minor and Major, Stedman Doubles, Kent Treble Bob and Cambridge Surprise Minor. Thanks were afterwards expressed to the organiser.

"THE RINGING WORLD"

Dear Sir,-In your reference (page 592) to "Ringing Towers" and the report therein by Mr. Gr'yy, you express doubts about obtaining now an increased circulation of "* The Ringing World " in Australia. In my view, Mr. Gray's report will have no such effect. The interest shown by ringers in this country in our Australian friends, helped by the recent tour and by the many hospitable contacts between Australian visitors and those of us who are fortraisate to be able to show our friendship, will far outweigh Mr. Gray's denigration of our (and bis) ringing paper.

I have long felt, especially in view of the criticisms at Bath and in your columns since, that it is time the Exercise decided what it expects "The Ringing World" to be. There is no doubt in my mind that it is primarily a newspaper. Not only is it registered as such, newspaper. Not only is it registered as such, C.C. of C.B.R." My dictionary defines a journal as "a record of events or news, pro perly one published daily but now extended to published at regular intervals."
That surely is what, considering its small staft and lack of paid reporters, "The Ringing World " does amazingly well. It records events past, present and to come; gives details of performances, notices and ac counts of meetings and outings; details of personalities and the events in their lives, etc. And if space is left and money available, it publishes articles if they have been written. But it can only do this last if you, the reader. write such articles and submit them. To do this you, the reader, must have the knowledge, the ability to pass that knowledge on in an interesting manner, the ability to write English, the considerable spare time to do so and, more important still, the inclination. You must also be thick skinned enough to take the comments of your friends (and others) about your views, especially when you are proved wrong or (as I have been) you are accused of being 100 fond of seeing your name in print.

The Exercise must decide. through the Central Council, if it wants a glossy magazine instead of a newspaper. It will not be able to pay for it out of advertisements as do the major technical journals. To obtain a regular supply, of technical articles to fill such a magazine every week it would have to pav for them-whether or not they were really worth publishing. I don't believe even then they would be forthcoming-we have not manv J.A. T:'s and those of us who try to emulate J. A. T.'s and those of us who him might not do it to order.

I see a large number of technical magazines and they look very attractive, especially the American ones with their art paper and colours. But cake their advertisements away and there is seldom much left. The R.I.B.A. journal for September (price 5 s .) has about 40 pages of varying interest. inset in 108 pages of advertisements. The "A. J." (1s. 6d.) has 43 pages inset in 118 pages of advertisements. "Roads" for July (2s. 6d.) has 29 pages inset in 38 . I don't consider the new's content of these magazines, paid for by advertisements and bought out of expense accounts, gives their readers the knowledge of and contact with each other that "The Ringing World" does for ringers.
"The Ringing World" is our local paper and like the normal local paper (but without the revenue) tells us news, usually of an ephemeral kind, that we like to read. If we want good technical articles, in a form which we can keep, we should be prepared to buy some of the techaical books and pamphlets which we can fortunately enjoy these days.
Perhaps some of your critics would like "The Ringing World "padded out with gardening notes, or hints on poultry keeping. etc.. all of which can be better obtained elsewhere.

I am sure that you, sir, with me, would welcome any really constructive suggestions, but they must be more tual: suge someone else to do something.-Yours sircerely, London.
WILFRID G. WILSON.

"WHERE HAVE ALL THE RINGERS GONE?

Dear Sir_-S. G. S. asks and M. A. (a learner) replies: "Gone-frozen out-interesß killed-by whom?-Old soldiers that will not fade away."
I have waited 55 minutes out of 60 completely ignored because I am only a learnerthen proudly presented with the "last bell" to toll.
I have heard "asides": "Watch him-he's a learner" and "It's up to you-but he's only a learner.'
Dear, sweet old soldiers-please, please fade away.-Yours truly,
M. A.
P.S.-In all fairness I must sfate that there are very many towers I have visited to receive only kindness, courtesy and help, and to them I am truly grateful.-M. A.

BELL ROPES AND SPLICING

Dear Sir ,-There has been a fair amount of correspondence at times on bell ropes and their life and the best methods of making them last.

What 1 would like to see is an article on splicing bell ropes written and illustrated for those whose experience in splicing is nil (they include myself). I am sure there are many bell ropes cast aside for want of a splice, because none of the churches' ringers has the ability to effect the repair.

An article of this nature would also need to contain advice on the position of splices so as to avoid putting the join where it will soon wear again, on how to detect and remove rotten rope, etc. Old ropes, rotten where the weather or some other cause has affected them, often have perfectly good sections which can be used to make one good rope out of two if someone can splice them.
I am sure that there is sufficient interest to justify an article of this nature.-Yours faithfully.

Macclesfield.

BARRY CORBISHLEY.

Note.-Such an article with illustrations would be welcome.-Ed.

PEAL OF YORKSHIRE MAXIMUS WITHDRAWN

Dear Sir,-I regret to have to withdraw the peal of Yorkshire Surprise Maximus rung at Hull on May 8th, 1965 , as the composition, hy myself. is false All in possession of the Yorkshire Association report for 1965 should make a note that Composition No. 6869, page 83 , is false. My sincere apologies to all those who rang in it.-Yours faithfully,

NOISE AT NORTHAMPTON

Dear Sir, - Poor Mr. Paul Marriott ! If a ringers' meeting upsets him, how would he like this: In a main thoroughfare of Northampton, a few miles from where 1 live, is a Salvation Army Citadel with a public house bang opposite.

A few yards away is a church with a ring of eight bells, from which 1 often get greeted to a "peal" on the first two and a clashing of the rest being pulled up (seldom in peal) but in odd ones, or anyhow 1 The noisiest juke box I should think there is anywhere in this country is going every night in the pub, with its doors and windows wide open, to compete on Sundays and other occasions with the Salvation Army band across the road.
More than once these two, and the bells further down, have all been going together mingled with the noise every few second: from passing cars, lorries, or gay youths on motor cycles with engines full throttle sounding more like jet aircraft.

Then on Sunday mornings once a month it is quite a "musical din" to hear "Come to the Prussian War, boys" from the bugles of the Boys' Brigade outside the church with its bells going at the same time and the Salvation Army playing a few yards further away. the participants probably being unconscious of the "mixed grill" they are inflicting on the neighbourhood by all going together.
If a ringers' meeting at Newton-le-Willows can beat this, then Mr. Marriot! may well feel he truly needs to get out an injunctionespecially where the juke box in competition with the Salvation Army opposite is concerned. But if his grudge or complaint is actually against church bells as such, then I am wondering just where does the Act of limitations come in-or doesn't it?

I have always been given to understand that there is a time limit to which a complaint of a nuisance can be valid - and that is six years, after which it becomes invalid. Surely Newton-le-Willows bells have been ringing more than six years?-Yours truly, Northampton.

TUTORS' HANDBOOK IDEAS WANTED

Dear Sir,-So far, response to my request for contributions to the proposed tutors handbook has been very limited.

May I therefore draw the attention of anyone interested in this subject to my letter published in "The Ringing World" of June 24th, asking for ideas to be sent direct to me or to "The Ringing, World" correspondence columns.-Yours sincerely,

NORMAN CHADDOCK.

TWO DIFFERENT THREE GENERATIONS TOGETHER

Dear Sir, - Whilst congratulating young Keith Scudamore on ringing a peal with his father and grandfather, I am reminded, more or less, of a corresponding peal of Bob Major at Grundisburgh on April 25th, 1934. In this were three generations of Clarke (natives). also three of Tillett (Ipswich). Harold and his father. George E. Symonds (conductor).-Yours truly.

Ipswich.

Note.-On the "Belfry Gossip" page we record one of the fourth generation ringing his first quarter peal at Darlington, but only his parents rang with him.-Ed.

Albert J. Pitman's Work for Spliced Surprise

By C. Kenneth Lewis

The name of Albert J. Pitman is nowadays almost exclusively associated with Spliced Surprise but an examination of his work reveals that he produced compositions in almost everv field.

In 1923 his 240 of Grandsire Doubles appeared. This is a very clever production as each of the six-scores of which it is composed is true and complete but does not come round.

By the time the first peal in the four standard Surprise methods was rung in 1927 his ability was recognised and he was asked to get out a composition of London. Bristol. Superlative, Cambridge. New Gloucester and Norfolk. This he did by using a fourth's place bob for Norfolk. He extended this composition to ten methods and this was rung in 1929. At the time no criticism was made of 1929. At the time no criticism was made of the use of a fourth's place bob for Norfolk the use of a fourth's place bob some years later there was some acrimonious correspondence in ". The Ringing World" into which a reference to this was made. This composition was the foundation for his 12 to 30 method peals, and when in 1950 we came to ring selections from these we sought his permission to reverse the composition to remove this "alleged" blot and No:folk (bobbed) became Cray (plained).

He produced vartous long lengths of Spliced Surprise Major all of which were rung by the Chester Guild and culminated in the 13,440 . thester Guild and culminated in the $13,440$. from South Wales in the depths of winter to listen to at least two of these peals and followed the composition from outside the tower. His escort on one occasion was rather disconcerted by his anticipation of the disconcerted by manges of method.
I have left what I consider to be his greatest work to the end: his production of peals in which all the bells do all the work of all the methods included. The origins of this idea lie in a letter to "The Ringing Worth comMay 10 th, 1935 , from Mr. John worth comthe Central Council agenda for that year. in which he threw out a suggestion that conipositions of this kind were what was required. On June 14th that year Mr. Pitman published a peal with all the work for London, Bristol and Superlative but not Cambridge. During the war years work was done by various somposers but, no one produced a peal with these qualities without parting the tenors. 1947 saw the production of Harold Cashmore's 5.056, which he conducted on April 19th. 1947, but on April Ilth A. J Pitman had published his masterpiece of 5.152 London, Bristol, Cambridge and Superlative with a quarter peal of each method and all the work. This was rung at Frodsham on July 18th, 1947, conducted by the late James C. E Simpson This composition was conducted (1955) by the writer in England. Scotland, Ireland and Wales. and the following extract from Mr. Pitman's letter shows the extract from Mr. Pitman's letter shows the enjoyment he got from seeing his compositions rung: "I feel that my efforts are amply rewarded when 1 find my compositions being rung so frequently." He subsequently produced compositions in up to nine methods on this plan all well worth ringing.
This brief summary of his work cannot give even the slightest idea of the extent of his genius, his capacity for taking pains, his extensive knowledge of composition, but with it all his great modesty and shy disposition. His ringing achievements were modest but his contribution to the Exercise cannot be gauged. He was content to provide what was usked for and no one turned to him in vain. In Milton's words, "They also serve."

VINCENT CHERRILL  AN APPRECIATION

Reading ringing has suffered a great loss in the death of Mr. Vincent Cherrill. The kindest of men, he was a good friend to all kindest of men, he was a good friend to all differences of attitude and temperament.

He had a special sympathy for young people: which he showed particularly in the enthusiastic support he gave to the University Society. From its beginning he gave constant help at practices and, even more valustant help at practices and. even more valuable, he gave up an enormous amount of his, he gave up an enormous amount of 100. arranging peals in which members of the University band could gain experience of eight-bell ringing. whilst his peals at St. Laurence's gave a number of us our first chance of Caters and Cinques. Many of us remember, too, the warm hospitality from him and his sister at his Earley home after these peals and on other occasions. Finally it was he. as tower captain, who made it possible for the University Society to have the privilege of calling St. Laurences its home tower.

These hells were perhaps his greatest pride. He was an excellent steeplekeeper and kept the bells in first-class condition: and he would often spend a great deal of time ensuring that everything was in perfect order for the visits of the many bands who enjoyed peals here.

His loyalty to St. Laurence's, where he had been a regular churchgoer for 37 years. was exemplary. Invariably punctual. he can hardlv ever have failed to appear every Sunday morning and evening, even during a long and difficult period when he knew there would be only one or two ringers there. Reading will not seem the same without him. and St Laurence's will find him impossible to replace.

OBITUARY

MR, JOSEPH L. MERRY

With the sudden death of Mr. Joe Merry, at the age of 53. Higham-on-the-Hill, Nuncaton, has lost one of its most regular Sunday service ringers and faithful church workers.
Joe began to ring regularly when the present band formed some six years ago. although he had learned to handle a bell before this. He never learned change ringing but played the part of Higham's tenor man for Doubles ringing His ringing performances consisted of one peal (for the Leicester Diocesan Guild) and 17 quarter peals with the local band.

Joe will be greatly missed in the tower and for his work for charity. Besides being a ringer he was church gardener and a sidesman.
Several ringers were at the funeral service on August 30th and a peal was rung with the bells half-mufied the following evening by four local ringers and two friends from Sapcote and Burbage. We all extend our deepest sympathy to Mrs. Merry and Ivan, who is one of the leading ringers at Higham. K. P. G.

MR. G. S. SMITH

Lavenham. Suffolk, has lost another of its respected members by the sudden death of Mr. George Stinley Smith on September 5 th. Stan, as he was known in the tower and $t 0$ all ringing friends, started to ring in $191{ }^{\circ}$ and. although he had rung very few peals, he was a regular attender on Sundays and had many quarter, peals to his credit.
To coincide with the deceased's age, the famous tenor bell was rung 66 times, and at the funeral service. which was followed by cremation at Ipswich, the local company was represented by M . T. Symands (Ringing Master), F Boreham C. Curtis, W. Faiers. A. R. Knight and A. F. Turner.

As a tribute and a last mark of respect touches of Grandsire and Stedman Triples. Plain and Kent Major, with half-mufled clappers, were rung on the tower bells in the evening.

NAWADAHA'S MUSIC

On an evening drove Nokomis
Far into the streaming westward
To the golden, hazy north-west
To the land of the Keewaydin,
To the place called Mons Acutus
And the Church of Katarina.
For another sound was coming,
Rising falling, changing, calling
And she sought those wondrous voices
Longed to know their secret message,
Learn their ways and all their courses,
Learn their names and all their keepers,
Called them "Katarina's children."
So she took her only daughter,
Called Wenonah, as her first born,
Sought the home of Nawadaha
In that village to the north-west
(Not the old-young Nawadaha-
With his golden, lovely consort,
And his sons within his tepec).
And his sons within his tepee).
We have come to learn your music,
And rashly Nawadaha answered-
"We will teach you, O my sisters."
So they climbed the footworn staircase
Of the Tower of Katarina,
To the place where ropes were dancing-
Crimson, white and blue the sallies-
And the ropes spoke to the bell wheels
And the bell wheels moved the monsters
High above them in the tower
Till the sound that floated upward,
Outward, over all the country,
Was the tune the men called "Grandsire,"
Many days of streaming summer,
Many days of vapoured autumn.
Dark Nokomis and Wenonah
Rode into the crimson north-west,
Climbed into the ancient belfry
With a band of other learners.
Learned the bells and all their customs,
Handstrokes, backstrokes, sliders, gudgeons, Stays and clappers. rope's end, tuffing, Learned to raise them. learned to fall them, Ring in rounds-with endless patience
On the part of Nawadaha-
Till at last one day he whispered
In a voice that thrilled his pupils-
"You can now try Plain Course Grandsire." With the other learners, gently.
Gently did young Nawadaha
Get the wise men of the bell ropes
To assist their wayward pulling
(Soon beset with bobs and singles).
Ivan, Charlie, Rodney, Alan,
Jack and Norrie were their helpers,
Guided by young Nawadaha
(Now as clever as his father),
With such others as attended
Till the russet glow of evening
In the village to the north-west
Carried far the ageless message
To the people of the west land,
"Come and worship-come and worship."
Thus the monsters on the bell wheels
Told of Infant Birth at Christmas,
Told again of Black Good Friday
And the glorious Resurrection-
Spoke of old years slowly dying,
And the year that now was coming,
Told of feasts and autumn harvests,
Danced for weddings, grieved at partings,
When the huge bronze tenor monster
Tolled a soul gone forth for ever
To the Kingdom of the Blessed.
To the Land of the Hereafter.
Then they all told Nawadaha-
Still prograssing far beyond them
To the hazy land of Yorkshire.
To another land called Cambridg
We have made your tune called Grandsire,
Not the finished, polished product
Of the wise men of the bell ropes,
But, it may be, rougher, harder,
For we are not skilful players.
But a great joy filled the learners,
For the music now called Grandsire
Rings a message to all people,
Tells of peace and joy to all men
If they will but stay and listen.
All these things Keewaydin told me,
Of the bells of Nawadaha.
The musician-the sweet singer)
How the great bronze bell mouths whisper
Down through all their wondrous courses
Echoing round the ancient bell tower
Of the Church of Katarina-
"We give praise to Christ the Saviour-
We give thanks to him for all things". M. L.
With apologies to Longfellow !

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD

The Marlborough District held its monthly meeting on September 10th at Burbage on a perfect summer afternoon. The bells, while perhaps not possessing good tonal qualities, have recently been rehung on new bearings oy local labour and in consequence the "go has been improved to a remarkable extent.

Ringing was under the direction of the Rev. R. Keeley. Ringing Master, and he also conducted the service in the absence of the Vicar (the Rev. A. Woodford), on holiday. The visitors were the guests of the local company to a splendid tea and, in appreciation of the hospitality, took a collection for the Belfry Repair Fund.

At the business meeting Mr. T. A. Palmer (hon. secretary) reported on the last three meetings, and Mr. G. Newman (chairman) gave details of the proposed outing to the New Forest area on September 24th. In his closing remarks the chairman thanked all who had helped in the day's arrangements

Ringing was resumed at Burbage afterwards for the benefit of some late arrivals, but the majority moved on to Milton Lilbourne

Subject to permission, the next three meetings will be at the Ogbournes (October), Marlborough (November) and Mildenhall (December).
W.A.E.

NORTH HERTS ASSOCIATION

The Northern District quarterly meeting was held on September 3rd and for the first time in many years two towers were open St. Mary's, Graveley, six were raised in peal shortly after 3 p.m. and were kept going 10 a variety of methods and rounds. There was no service as the Vicar was on holiday Members made their own tea arrangements. We did not do justice to the grand ring at Stevenage (8).

At the business meeting one new member was elected-Mr. Robert Vigor, of Hitchin, was welcomed back after many years away from the Exercise. Three evening meetings are to be held before the annual general meeting at Hitchin on January 7 th, the dates being Saturdays October 1st, Octoher 29th and December 23rd, Ringing continued until 8.15 p.m. Our thanks to Dr. Gullick, who officiated at both towers and the business meeting. A fair attendance was recorded but could have been much better.

THIS year's tour was centred on Barnstaple, and on Wednesday. April 13 th, 12 mem bers of the party arrived at the home of Miss Ruth Gay at East Harpiree, Somerset: Mrs Gay provided us with an excellent lunch. Chewton Mendip bells were available and so after some hasty "thank yous" we set off to sample this wonderful eight. Grandsire, Plain Bob and Cambridge were successful We arrived at Barnstaple at about 7 p.m.. which was none too early as some members of the party had been travelling for almost 14 hours. It was here that we were joined by the Rev. M C. C. Melville.

It was snowing hard when we awoke on Thursday morning We went by coach to Pilton, and our best achievement on the lovely heavy eight was half a course of Cambridge. Other towers that morning were Westleigh (a good six), where Cambridge and Kent were rung. Bideford (a lovely eight). where a course of Yorkshire was rung, and where a course of Yorkshire was rung, and Northam (8). After lunch we visited AppleNortham (8). After lunch we visited Apple-dore, where the bells are spoilt because they are rather inaudible However, we successfully spliced Lincolnshire with Plain Bob The remaining two towers for the day, both sixes, were at Abbotsham and Littleham.

NEGOTIATING SNOWDRIFTS

Friday was almost entirely devoted to sixbell towers, and several times we had to negotiate snowdrifts in the narrow country lanes. However, our driver did a magnificent job and every tower was reached on time Both Loxhore and Kentisbury had pleasant sixes, and Spliced Minor and a "peal" of call changes (Sixty in Thirds) were rung at the latter tower. Bratton Fleming bells were so pleasing that permission to ring a peal on these bells was requested. After lunch we went to High Bray where we encountered what were probably the most difficult bells of the tour. The tenor dropped easily, and Kent, Oxford and London were only successful after several attempts. Other towers visited that day were East Buckland, North Molton and South Molton. Effort was required to ring the last two but in both cases we were well rewarded.

BIRMINGHAM UNIVERSITY TOUR

Saturday started with two good eights, at Braunton and Georgeham, and at the former tower St. Clement's and Rutland were successful. Ipswich was rung on the pleasant six at Mortehoe. After lunch everyone took advantage of the lovely weather. Four members decided to walk across the cliffs to the next tower, in Ilfracombe, but found the going rather harder than expected, and a pleasant walk developed into a race against time to reach the next tower. At Ilfracombe we preferred the bells at Holy Trinity, but three leads of Bristol were successful at SS. Philip and James' Everyone enjoyed the bells at West Down and here we rang Spliced Minor and Ipswich.

" NEVER HEARD RINGING LIKE THAT "

On Sunday morning we joined the local ringers in Barnstaple ror service ringing. In the afternoon a party of six travelled to Bratton Fleming, where they were successful in ringing a peal of Ipswich. This seemed to create considerable interest among the local ringers and afterwards they said they had never heard ringing like that before! In the evening we were shown films of "Great Adventure II" and the "Washington Visit"; we were most grateful to the Rev. M. C. C. Melville for arranging this film show
Our first visit on Monday was 10 Great Torrington, where the very good eight went well to Superlative. Hatherleigh bells, also a pleasant eight, sounded well to Pudsey. The next tower was at Okehampton, and on the very good eight we rang London and Pudsev. After lunch we visited Bridestowe and Lyd ford, both having pleasant sixes, and finally the fine heavy ocrave at Tavistock. Although there was still one more day of the tour left, most of us agreed that these must be the best bells of the tour.
Tuesday was a busy day when we were scheduled to visit seven sixes and an eight. The day started at Bishop's Tawton, followed by Yarnscombe. The next tower was at Atherington, and in spite of new ropes we found these bells to be one of the better sixes of the day. After lunch we visited Chittlehampton (a very good eight) and rang a touch of Erin Triples. The light sixes at Filleigh and West Buckland were very enjoyable, but the best six of the afternoon was at Swimbridge. where London and Double Court were rung. The tour was concluded on the pleasant six at Landkey
Our thanks go to all incumbents and local ringers who met us, and most of all to
With the Editor's apologies for delay.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Ringing in a peal at Buckfast Abbey on September 2nd were Messrs. A. P. Cannon and Arthur Mason. A year to the day they were ringing Cambridge Surprise Major at Adelaide with Great Adventure II.

Two corrections.-The peal at Wigtoft was rung on August . 22 nd, 1966, in 2 hours and 37 minutes, and not as published on page 595 . The peal at West Deeping (page 577) was Joan Gilbert's 25th peal, and not as published.

Miss Ann Funnell, vice-captain of the West Malling band, who recently rang her first peal, is leaving to take a two-year course in Ipswich to become a children's officer. We wish her every success.
Of the many pupits Mr . W, Birmingham, of Stoke Poges, has launched on a ringing carcer, D. C. Brown, who rang his first quarter at Slough on September 4 th , is believed to be the first to do so without a single trip throughout the quarter.
Following upon the first peal of Bristol Surprise Royal for the Oxford Diocesan Guild at Banbury last July, yet another first in the Royal line for the Guild has been achicved by Spliced Surprise in three methods at Slough on September 3rd.
In the peal of Grandsire Caters rung at St. Mary's. Watford, on September 3rd, the composition used was the same as that of the peal at St Peter's, St. Albans, for the Herttord County Association, which is recorded on page 682 of "The Ringing World," Novempage 20 ch , 1959.

WEDDING OF JOHN CLARK AND

 JOY MARTINAt one time ringers logether at Petersfietd and the bridegroom was later captain at East Meon, Mr. John E. Clark and Miss Joy Martin were married at All Saints' Church. Witley, on August 20th by the Rev Philid Holden formerly Vicar for 34 years. The best man was Dr Jeremy Salter, of Oxford University Society

The printed form of service showed a drawing of Witley Church by the bridegroom, who is particularly skilled in the delineation of churches. In the Cathedrals of Guildford and Hereford there are framed drawings of all the churches in each diocese, which he executed.

Music before and after the service was provided by two friends from the Northern Sinfonia, Newcastle upon Tyne. who played flute and harpsichord As the newly-wedded couple left the church a long touch of Stedman Triples was conducted by Peter Smart. Master of the Guildford Guild. Also included in the band were Supt R. J. C. Hagley and his son, Mrs P. Smart. Messrs. C. E. Bassett (Warsash), A. Reeves (Bruton), B. Gambrill (Liss) and K Waller (Warnford).
Handbells were rung at the reception held in the garden of Watlings. Chiddingfold The three-tier wedding cake was tastefully decorated with bells.

The bride, whose home was formerly at Bitterne, Southampton, teaches at Grayshott. The bridegroom is a teacher at Haslemere and organist at Witley Parish Church

WASHINGTON'S GREETINGS TO KENILWORTH

A letter addressed to the ringers at St . Nicholas'. Kenilworth from the three young lady ringers from Washington Cathedral was received with great delight, writes John Roya! (Ringing Master) During their stay over here they attended the practices at Kenilworth and nearby Stoneleigh. They made great progress and before leaving for home were able to ring Cambridge with an "adviser" at their elbow

Their letter gives news of their recent peal. conducted by Roger Bailey, and stated that they were now ringing. Treble Bob and hoped to get back to Cambridge when all the members returned from holiday.

Humorously they added that they had found no more "Royalty" to ring with (a reference to the three Royals who ring at Kenilworth).

A MEMORY LAPSE

Dear Sir,-We in Daventry were pleased 10 read on page 588 of "The Ringing World" that the Ely District enioved their August Bank Holiday outing in Norfolk and Suffolk. We would have been even more pleased had Mr. Donald Knights taken the trouble to inform us that their plans had been changed. In this way we could have ensured that one of our band and the verger did not waste their own Bank Holiday waiting to welcome them.
I would have written to Mr. Knights privately but have destroyed his letter. I hope organisers of Ely District outings will he a little more considerate in future.-Yours faith. fully.

Daventry.

ST. MICHAEL THE ARCHANGEL,

 NEWQUAYWe are indebted to Miss Margaret Weston. of Crantock. Newquay. for answering Mr. Joe Thornley's question regarding the reJoe Thornley's question regarding the recently built tower at the Church of St Michael the Archangel, Torquay.
She forwards to us the Vicar's reply to Mr Thornley's question as it appeared in the parish magazine:
"There are two matters about which 1 have been frequently questioned. "Ase there to be bells?' and 'Is there to be a clock?' First, the bells. Unfortunately, when the time came to realise the investments so that the money could be made available to meet the contractor's bills the market was 'down' and the value of our assets had depreciated by thousands of pounds. The result of this loss is that the money available is only sufficient to meet the cost of the tower. The provision of bells is not immediately possible, though at some future time it is expected that there will be money for them. How long that will be is not known. We shall have to wait."
Miss Weston adds that the tower is complete externally but not internally.

SCOUTS LOSE THEIR MAGAZINE

Boy Scouts are losing their weekly magazine, "The Scout," on September 30th. It has been losing from $£ 1,500$ to $£ 2,000$ a year and its circulation has dropped to 20,000 . An increase in price from 6 d , was not regarded as a solution "The Ringing World" in these difficult days must be truly thankful to be able to continue production at 9 d, and, througb the generosity of readers, to show a profit.

A BRIGHTON AMAZON

Fifteen-year-old Margaret A. Head, who rang the tenor at St Peter's. Brighton, to the quarter peal of Grandsire Caters on September 4 th, is to be congratulated. It is believed to be only the second time by a lady, and certainly the youngest, as Margaret only commenced her ringing career 14 months ago

IN HOSPITAL

The many friends of Mr. Stanley Arm strong, vice-president and past Master of the Sussex County Association, will be sorry to learn that he is in Brighton General Hospital under observation suffering from suspected ulcerated stomach. We understand that an operation may be necessary but treatment is being given in the hope that this may be a voided.
Stanley can rest assured that he will be in the thoughts of all of us in the Association that he has served so faithfully and well. in the hope that, after rest and treatment he will once again in the not too distant future be with us in our towers around the county. $\mathbf{R} \vee \mathbf{J}$.

THE FOURTH GENERATION

Philip M. Park, 14 -year-old son of $\mathbf{M r}$ and Mrs. R. Park, of Darlington, rang his first quarter at Holy Trinity, Darlington, on September 9th. It was Plain Bob Major called by his father; his mother, who was on the second, was ringing her first quarter peal on tower befls. Philip rang the fifth and there were two other first quarters

Philup is of the fourth generation of the family to become a ringer His great-grandfather rang for many years at St. Cuthbert's, Darlington. his grandfather was for 63 years at Holy Trinity, whilst his father has also rung for many years at this church and his mother for the past few years. The time covered by these activities is over 80 years.

Short touches of Plain Bob Major with the tenors together are rather limited in scope, and beyond W.H. repeated and W.3B.M.H and one or two others, very little is usually heard al meetings and practices.
Here are some experiments in parting the tenors. They all came from Mr. A. W. T. Cleaver some years ago and were the results of trying to get the Queens change in a small number of changes.

All manage to reach Queens and home again, tut the rest of the attendant music is not very exciting. Nevertheless they are worth experimenting with, and if the conductor springs one of these suddenly on a normal Plain Bob band he may produce some unexpected entertainment.

\section*{ST. BARTHOLOMEWS DAY AT TONG By ALbERT E. GARBETT}

TIONG, a Shropshire village near to the border of Staffordshire, is in a setting of sylvan beauty, with Dickens association. It was here that Little Nell and her grandfather found peace after their many wanderings: quoting from "The Old Curiosity Shop." "The church was old and grey, it was a quiet place," and near to the south door of the church is to be seen a small grave bearing a plaque worded "The reputed grave of Little Nell."

The present church, dedicated to St. Bartholomew, was built in the early part of the 15 th century. It is of cruciform design with a central tower and spire; in the upper belfry hangs the ring of six bells; in the lower is the "Great" bell. All the bells are rung from the floor of the church between the nave and the chancel in view of the congregation, which can be rather embarrassing to the ringers should they not be staying to service.

With its many tombs and fan vaulting in the Vernon Chapel, the church has aptly been described as "The little Westminster Abbey of the Midlands" and attracts visitors from all parts of the world. Not only is the church renowned for its tombs, brasses, wood carvings, library, its silver ciborium (a beautiful piece of work by Holbein) but also for its "Great" bell.

The present bell is the third of its kind. The first, given by Sir Henry Vernon, was hung in 1518. Local legend has it that Sir Henry, being benighted in the surrounding forest, heard the church bells ringing, the sound guiding him eventually to his castle, and as a thank-offering he gave the "Great" bell. There is no information as to who cast this bell, but we are told in "The History of Tong Church" that the weight of it was 58 cwt.: it cracked during the Civil War and was recast by Abraham Rudhall at the Gloucester foundry in 1720 . This bell also cracked in 1848 when being tolled for a service on Ash Wednesday. It was recast and rehung in 1892 by John Taylor, Loughborough, the weight now being approximately 50 cwt.

This bell is tolled on occasions and rung on others: a board in the church porch tells when these are. One annual ringing is on St. Bartholomew's Day (August 24th). On the evening of this day in August last, ringers assembled from Tong. Edgmond, Gnosall and Stafford to honour the patron saint by ringing this bell. It was a surprise to find present a reporter from the B.B.C., who recorded an interview with Mr. Tindel of Tong and also the sound of the "Great" bell as it was being "rung up" This recording was broadcast the next morning. Thursday, August 25th, in Midland Regional Extra at 7.35 .

We who were raising the bell had moments of dismay as when about halfway we heard a snap and on looking upward found that a strand of the rope had parted, and we had doubts as to whether the other strands would hold. Fortunately they did and all present were able to ring, usually with one "strapping"; a Tong ringer did ring it himself. It was a joy to stand in the churchyard to hear the majestic and sonorous note of this bell.

As the "Glimmering landscape faded from the sight." and with the moon rising in a cloudless sky, the bell was rung down, its note gradually dying away over the stillness of the countryside. Then its six smaller sisters were rung down in peal, ringing had been much curtailed on these; so ended another St. Bartholomew's Day at Tong. We left on our various homeward journeys with the majestic note of the "Great" bell still in our ears, and our friends bidding us farewell with "Don't forget to come next year." Truly a very pleasant evening and one to be remembered.

\section*{RINGING TOURS}

THE summer season of 1966 is almost over, and the tours, whether peal, day or half-day, are now only a memory, but invariably each provided an unexpected experience and to the majority new towers. One particularly happy corner of the country for touring is South West Devon with Aubrey L. Bennett as guide and organiser. He can look back on a season of striking of a high standard. Young ringers of Plymouth revel in such outings: they certainly by now know more about methods and the idiosyncrasies of bells.

The most recent of these tours took place in the Torbay area, when included in the party were old and new friends from as far afield as London, Guildford and Portsmouth. A "new" ten was sampled, and amongst other interesting things of note was a thousand-year-old yew tree in the churchyard of a well-known village alongside the everpopular River Dart. An adjunct to many tours is the tape-recorder: collections of picture postcards of towers are now accompanied by recordings of the bells, thus making a more permanent reminder of the visit.

Looking back with gratitude to the pleasures unfolded as a ringing visitor, one is conscious of the debt perhaps unpaid. It does not finish with the organiser and those who often provide transport. Without the permission of the incumbents the ringers would be in a sorry state. Very often a stimulating personal welcome is forthcoming, and capital assets worth thousands of pounds are graciously placed at our disposal. Are we at times not apt to take all these blessings for granted?

\section*{THE FULL STORY OF THE TRIUMPH AT LIVERPOOL}

\section*{Amazing Series of Early Misfortunes By TUDOR P. EDWARDS}

FOllowing an attempt earlier in the year for Cambridge Maximus at Liverpool, which was unfortunately lost after three and a quarter hours' ringing, permission was again given by the Cathedral authorities for a second attempt on August 13th.
After many letters and telephone calls, and by remarkable luck considering it was the middle of the holiday period, it was possible to get together the same band for the second attempt. All was well until 10 o'clock on the Thursday evening before the peal, when unfortunately Ricky Shallcross was taken ill and. although willing to start for the peal on the Saturday, he thought a fully fit replacement should be obrained. Fortunately a certain "young man" from Oldham was available to fill the breach, and the band are grateful to Ted for standing in at such short notice.

Most of the band assembled in Liverpool on the Friday evening and a most pleasant time was spent at a well-known Liverpool hostelry. All were up early the following morning as the attempt was due to start at 9 a.m. Arriving at the Cathedral we were met by Mr. Joe Ridyard and a member of the Cathedral band, and with the arrival of Peter and Ted and the Preston contingent we were soon making our way up to the belfry.

\section*{ANGUISH}

Shortly after 9 a.m., with Peter suitably clad for action, we were ready to try out the bells in rounds. Just as the conductor on the treble was calling out to start, there was an anguished cry from the reverend gentleman on the tenth who had just discovered his bell was down. The reason for the tenth being let down was a mystery to all.

Raising the back bells at Liverpool is quite a performance, due to their weight and the difficulty of changing the clappers, but with the help of some of the local ringers and a few healthy young men, the tenth was soon ready for action.
We were then ready to try out the bells. This time we did get as far as pulling the bells off. but as soon as the third had pulled off at handstroke there was a fearful crash and the bell dropped like a stone. The look on the face of our bellhanger friend, who was ringing the third, was a sight to behold.

By this time we were wondering if fate had decreed that we were not to make the attempt. Examination in the bell chamber showed that the bell had fouled one of the chiming hammers, but that fortunately no great damage had been done. The situation was quickly put right and wo were ready to start.

\section*{BROKEN ROPE}

A few adjustments to the ropes and we were soon away ringing Cambridge Maximus just after \(9.30 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}\). The ringers settled down immediately and this, we thought, was going to be it. However, with just under half a course rung the ringer of the fourth suddenly found himself enmeshed by a large amount of rope which had broken off somewhere in the bell chamber.
The feelings of the band, and particularly of Peter at this stage, are practically impossible to describe, and for a moment or two an air of resignation that this was not going to be our day settled over the tower. However, Peter immediately said that he thought the tenor was going well and that he was not going to be deterred so easily, so up to the bell chamber we went again, and while Peter did a splice in the rope some of the remainder quickly rechecked all the other ropes.

When all was ready again a considerable amount of time had been lost and it had just gone 10 am . Once again we set of into Cambridge Maximus, although perhaps most of the band had thoughts of what misfortune was going to happen next.

\section*{SETTLED DOWN}

The composition chosen was by F. Dench, and the ringing settled down immediately. probably remarkable in fact of what had happened previously. The first course-end came up in just about half an hour and the speed of ringing was to remain fairly constant at just under half an hour a course throughout just under half an hour a course throughout progressed steadily, the very few occasional slips being corrected by a gentle word of encouragement from the conductor.
Halfway, and the second 65 course-end came up in just under two and a half hours with Peter still ringing the tenor in masterly fashion. One more course of 65 's and then another course, and we were in the course where the previous attempt had failed. This was rung without incident, this time, apart from a smile or two, and then two courses to go, with just under four hours' ringing behind us.
During one lead of the ninth course some slight hesitation crept into the ringing, probably due to anxicty and tension on the part of the band. However, a few sharp words from the conductor and Peter quickly put everyone back on their mettle. These few words from Peter, and the way in which they were said, had a remarkable effect, as it showed to one and all he was fully capable of finishing the peal and that it was up to the rest of us to give of our utmost to help him.

\section*{FINE FINISH}

The last course was rung in fine style and the bells came round just before 3 p.m., the peal being completed in 4 hours and 48 minutes. Peter finishing the peal ringing the tenor as he had done throughout-superbly.

During the last course a number of people had entered the belfry to join those who had remained throughout the peal, and congratulations were given to Peter by all the band and all present.
Unfortunately, due po the time of finishing the peal, we were unable to ohtain suitable refreshment in the other "belfry" across the road from the Cathedral, but due to the great forethought of Mr. Ridyard and Bob Dennis, alternative arrangements had been made and we were all extremely grateful to them for the refreshments that were provided.

\section*{NEVER SURPASSED}

It is impossible to find the correct words to describe Pcter's performance on the tenor, and it is probably best to let the reader judge for himself the enormity of the task and just to say that the bell was put in its correct place from the heginning to the end of the peal. A performance that may be equalled some time in the future but never surpassed.

Before closing, one would like to remark on the splendid way in which John rang the 11th, and also on the way in which the "young man" on the second rang, but really to mention anyone apart from Peter in a performance that was fundamentally a team effort would be prong, and it must suffice to say that all gave of their utmost.

Finally, all the band would like to express their sincere thanks to the Dean of Liverpool for allowing the attempt to be made, and to Mr. Ridyard and all the others who helped to bring a successful conclusion to this historic ringing event.
T.E.

Note.-To enable easy identification with those not familiar, the band stood: Wilfred Williams (conductor) treble, Edward Jenkins 2, William A. Theobald 3, Tudor P. Edwards 4, Kenneth J. Hesketh 5, Cyril Crossthwaite 6, John H. Fielden 7, John S. Mason 8. Ralph G. Edwards 9. Rev. Roger O. Fry 10, John A. Anderson il, Peter Border tenor.

\section*{SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD}

\section*{Dorchester and Wimbome Branches}

A joint meeting between the two branches was held on September loth, a lovely, warm sunny day Ringing in the afternoon took place at Wool (6) where various methods were rung, catering for all stages.

The Guild Office was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. F. Whitter) and was unique in that four hymns, one psalm and two canticles were sung during the service! The large company then travelled over to Wareham for tea. Unfortunately more ringers than had sent their names in sat down to tea. which verv rapidly disappeared.

The chairman of the Dorchester Branch (the Rev. C. Brinkworth) welcomed everyone to the meeting, representing 12 towers in the two Branches, and thanked the two secretaries for the arrangements. The vice-chairman of the Wimborne Branch (Mr. R. Fuller) replied suitably and expressed how much he had enjoyed meeting everyone and thanked them all for attending. Ringing then continued at Wareham (8).

\section*{North Dorset Branch}

When the North Dorset Branch met at Yetminster on September 10th the following towers were represented: Gillingham. Iwerne Minster. Kington Magna, Okeford Fitzpaine, Sherborne, Shroton, Stourton Caundle and Yetminster.
The Guild Office was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. C D. Widdecombe), and in his address he spoke of John Bunyan and his attitude towards bells, and added his own encouragement to those who play their part m this branch of service to the Church. During the service a touch on handbells was rung hy T. Bleathman. J. I.ongridge and C Longridge. all of Okeford Fitzpaine.
Tea, served by local rnigers \({ }^{\text {spanes, was fol- }}\) lowed by the meeting, with the Rev. R. N. Longridge (Master) in the chair. Tribute was paid to Mr. C. F. Mills, for many years captain at Sturminster Newton tower, who had fied recently. New members elected to the Brancn included ten from Durweston, where membership had lapsed for some time. This revival of interest had been brought about by voung members from Okeford Fitzpaine and Shroton, who had worked hard to train and encourage the new band.
Yetminster Church bells were rung during the afternoon and again after the meeting, while Thornford bells were also rung in the evening.

WINLATON. CO. DURHAM.-On Sepr. 6th, 1.260 Plain Bob Minor: J. Jenkina (first quarter) 1. R. W. Leighton 2, K. W. Cheeseman 3. W. C. Bennett 4. T. T. Bullerwell 5, W. Tyson (cond.) 6. To weleome the return of the Rector, Canon B. J. O Fox, after his sojourn in india.

\section*{T. J. LOCK'S TOUR IN CHESHIRE AND NORTH WALES}

AS usual. this year the week started with two peals on the Saturday afternoon. Rutland went well on the light ring at St. Peter's, Macclesfield, but the band at St. Mary's, Handbridge. just outside the wall of Chester, had a harder job on the heavier-going bells. Howcver, a good peal of Yorkshire was scored and both bands made their way to the Retreat House in Abbey Square, Chester Staying at a Retreat House was a new venture for us and it proved highly successful. The Sisters went out of their way to be helpful, supplying us with some front-door keys so that we could arrive back at night at times to suit ourselves. We also had full use of the sitting room in the evenings, and many times the "early-to-bed" ringers went up the stairs with the faint sound of handbells following them. Most of us had trouble in finding Abbey Square at first, as after 7 p.m. a bar is locked across the rather unobtrusive entrance to this peaceful cobbled backwater.
Chester is a city rich in historical interest and we were fascinated by the doubledecker " shops, which we were told date back to 1830 . One can walk on the wall right round the heart of the city, and it would seem there are more cobbles in and around seem there are more cobbles in and around Cathedral is lovely, and we regretted not having more time for exploring.

On Sunday some of us attended Holy Communion at the Cathedral, and then after breakfast we split into two parties, one group joining the local ringers at Handbridge and the other group ringing 1,260 Stedman Triples prior to morning service at St. Mary-withinthe Walls. The ringers for this were R. Sharp 1. Miss E. W. Keys 2, Rev. M. Meiville 3, W. Rogers (conductor) 7. D. Knox 8 . The access to the tower at this church is slightly unusual. involving two vertical ladders inside something rather like a chimney, before arriving in the pleasant ringing chamber.

\section*{LIVERPOOL CATHEDRAL}

After morning ringing we made our way to Liverpool through the Mersey Tunnel. I wonder why hoth going and coming back a police Jeep tailed the Renault? We had been given permission to ring the Cathedral bells prior to Evensong, and this was a greatly appreciated experience for us all. We look the opportunity to watch the bells ringingfrom above they appear rather like a flower opening and shutting-and to see the panoramic view from the top of the tower, which included the rather odd-looking structure of the Roman Catholic cathedral. Two of our ringers distinguished themselves by being unable, at first, to pull of the 11 th and tenor respectively, but our amusement was tempered by wondering if we could have done any better
We went hopefully to Wrexham for the vening ringing and were pleased to receive a welcome from the local tower captain and singers.
Monday started the business of the week in earnest. We were later finishing breakfast than anticipated, and regretted having kept a local ringet waiting at St. Mary-within-theWalls. Here we were attempting Superlative, but a missed call brought an untimely wherc Lincolnshire was brought round. and in the afternoon a respectable peal of Yorkshire Royal was scored at Crewe. Of this ring of ten the fourth is the lightest bell. While this peal was in progress the non-pealers had an enjoyable ring at Barthomley. where they were very pleased to have two local ringers join them. Only one event marred the day, when three cars behind Richard Price failed to stoo and left him with a dent in the rear of his Volvo. Luckily no one was hurt. was being rung at Bebington, the non-pealers enjoyed a ring at Bromborough. After the peal band had refreshed themselves with hot pasties at the local pub. we set off for scheduled for Port Sunlight. and to our reliel creditable peal was rung. (This had been one of our "bogey" methods last year.) The church at Port Sunlight is interesting. being an undenominational church on the Lever Bros.' estate, which was developed in the middle of the last century. The other peal was seven Surprise Minor at Birkenhead where the church is behind the ruined Abbey. During the peal the two non-pealers listening were disturbed to see a police car arrive, but relieved to find that its occupants were apparently investigating a recent fire at the Abbey. In the evening one of the Sisters joined us for the showing by Malcolm Mel joined us for the showing by Matcolm Meof the Washington dedication.

\section*{GRESFORD DISASTER RECALLED}

Wednesday saw Cambridge being rung a Buckley. The bells here seem rather sluggish but a nice peal was rung, after a false start. The other band went to Gresford for four-spliced Major, and here Mr. and Mrs. Randles, who recently returned to Gresford from Lincoln, met us at the tower with Mr and Mrs. John Walden, from Lincoln. The ringing chamber has a peal board which reads: "A Peal of Grandsire Triples 5040 Changes (Parker's 12 Part) rung in this tower on October 4th, 1934, in 3 hrs. 12 mts., with the bells muffled as a token of respect and sympathy to the memory of the 265 men who lost their lives in the Gresford Colliery disaster of September 22nd, 1934." A good peal was rung in 3 hours and 20 minutes and the band unanimously agreed that it should be to the memory of the composer, A. J. Pitman There was no time for lunch before rushing to Northop, but when we arrived we had to wait an hour before the key could be found The ropes were checked, and finally the bells went into Yorkshire, but after about 50 minutes the clapper of the sixth broke, and that was the second lost peal of the week.

In the evening some of the party gave a demonstration of handbell ringing for the Sisters, who showed great interest in this side of the art.

Thursday morning saw the special method of the week, Cheshire Surprise Major, being rung on the lovely Taylor eight at Bowdon The tenor here is actually 18 cwt . and the bells won't be hurried. but a good peal was brought round in 3 hours and 10 minutes We were very impressed with the effective sound-proofing at this tower.

A quick ham roll, and the peal band was off to meet the others, who had been enjoying ringing at Wilmsiow and Knutsford Heavy traffic caused delays on the way to Marple and Norbury (Hazel Grove); it may have been this or just mid-week tiredness which caused the failure of both afternoon peal attempts. That afternoon will most be remembered for the torrential downpour that seemed by rights to have belonged to equatorial Africa. in the evening we had been invited to join in the 12 -bell practice at Ashton-under-Lyne, and here we were given a warm welcome. It was a tired group of ringers that finally made its several ways back to Chester.

Friday morning, and the day on which we reluctantly had to say goodbye to the Retreat House and move to an hotel for the last two nights. It was a day of heavy showers. bu this did not deter the band at Frodsham. where a good peal of Ealing came round in 2 hours and 53 minutes. Cambridge was rung at Daresbury, also in 2 hours and 53 minutes, despite 8 lack of the usual "backenders." In this church is a window in memory of Charles Lutwidge Dodgson (Lewls Carroll) showing Alice in the lefthand window, and Alice in Wonderland characters along the bottom of the window. There is also on display the certificate of his birth on July 11th, 1832.

A GREAT-GRANDFATHER'S FEAT
In the afternoon we found the bells at Runcorn decidedly lumpy, but after a second start a surprisingly good peal of Yorkshire was rung, with all credit due to the bend. This was the day when Bill Rogers rang two peals in a day-is he the first great-grandfather to do this? The usual social evening was held in the hotel lounge, with competition from the television set round the corner. Tom Lock was presented with a leather case for his camera, and a film, being our way of thanking him for all his hard work in arranging the tour. There was a long discussion over the venue for next year, and the usual poem was read, being slightly personal comments on members of the party.
The tour was not yet over, although some of the ringers had to leave, and on Saturday morning we set out for a ring at Neston, where the bells are rather odd-struck, and we were a little glad we were not going for a peal. Two of the party overslept and were late arriving-was this why Grandsire Triples would not go? In glorious sunshine, a depleted party made its way to Liscard, and on the way the six belis at Wallasey were heard ringing for a wedding: the party were delighted to be offered the ropes and told to have a ring. At Liscard the tour was finally wound up with a peal of Superlative, making 14 peals out of 18 attempts.

We verv sincerely thank all incumbents and tower captains for giving us permission to ring on their bells, and we also thank all those who took the ime and trouble to come and meet us.
R. M. F.

\section*{ST. DAVID'S DIOCESAN GUILD}

There was a good attendance with ringers present from Burry Port. Cardigan. Carmarthen, Fisiguard, Llandeilo, Llanelli. Pembroke, St. David's, St. Florence and Tenby at the quarterly meeting of the Guild at Cardigan on September 10th.

The bells (6) were available in the afternoon previous to the service, which was conducted by the curate, the Rev. D. W. Morgan. Mrs. Miriel Griffiths, the wife of a ringer, was organist.
The Master, the Rev. R. W. Thomas, who gave the address, said that gathering was virtually the anniversary of the founding of the Guild. The object of bell ringing was threefold: Firstly, the bells called people to worship; secondly, they proclaimed to others who were unable to attend, perhaps through illness, that worship was about to commence. so that in their hearts they, too, could join with the fellowship of the faithful ; and lastly. they pricked the consciences of people who did not attend church and who were very often the ones who objected most to the sound of the bells.
An excellent buffet tea was given by the ladies of the parish, and this was followed by the business meeting, at which the Rev. D. W Morgan presided. After the opening prayer members stood in silence remembering the late Albert J. Pitman. Apart from the minutes of the last meeting, those of the inaugural meeting, held on September 29th, 1945, were read and listened to with interest. Six new members and one life ringing member were elected. The auditor (Mr. D. P. Griffiths) reported that of 350 booklets printed to commemorate the 21 st anniversary, 120 remained unsold to date.

Congratulations were offered to Mr. R. E. Scudamore. of Llandeilo on having rung in a peal at North Cerney Glos, with his son and ten-year-old grandson.
A vote of thanks to the ladies for providing such a good tea was proposed by the Rev. R. W. Thomas. Further ringing followed until 8.30 p.m.

\section*{HEREFORD DIOCESAN GUILD}

A well-attended quarterly meeting of the Bridgnorth Branch was held at Coalbrookdale on September 4th. Mr. A. Bayley, the local tower captain, made the arrangements for the meeting, and tea was served by his lady helpers. The Vicar conducted the Guild service and gave a short address. Ringing during the afternoon and evening was under the direction of Mr, A. Jones, Ringing Master.

BELLS DO NOT BELONG TO RINGERS
Dear Sir,-Much has been said and written recently on bell restorations and, more important. footing the bill Should we create a national fund? Like Mr E. A. Barnet (" The Ringing World," May 20th), I feel that it would tax the wisdom of a modern Solo mon to administer a national scheme equitably, even if such a scheme were practical. Moreover, what has become of our local pride?

If a parish is fortunate enough to possess a beautiful church (and very many do) it is because those who have passed on made sac rifices to build it. and it is the proud privilege of all who live in this day of prosperity (?) to maintain our churches without calling for the assistance of outsiders, for how can a congregation feel that the church in which they worship is theirs if it is largely maintained by outside help?

Bells are church equipment, or fittings; they do not belong to the ringers, but to the parish, and I would no more expect ringers to provide the bells they ring than an organist to provide the instrument he plays, or a parson to build the church he preaches the gospel in I

Of course, every ringer worth his salt will handle his bell with the greatest care and respect and help in its maintenance, and if he (or she) be a member of the Bedfordshire Association he will contribute regularly to the Association's Belfry Repair Fund for, like most other Associations, we like to do our best in this way, but the grants of such organisations can surely be only a token gift or a practical expression of fellow-feeling, and the bulk of the cost of maintenance, whether of fabric or equipment, must rightly fall on the local community.

As for the remarks of Dr. P. J. Perry ("The Ringing World." September 16 h ). I find them ill-considered in the extreme (perhaps he is one of the doctors who should have gone to the U.S.!), and to suggest that it is hypocritical to ring bells without payment of "nominal cost is quite ridiculous. Thank God for the many "hypocrites " who have sent out the message of the bells down the centuries.-Yours faithfully,

\section*{Luton.}
. E. RUSHTON.

\section*{VISION NEEDED}

Dear Sir,-Dr Perry's letter on bell restoration is full of sound sense. More than sound sense is needed, bowever, for Dr. Perry leaves out the main justification for bells and ringing. That is the purpose for which they were dedicated-to the glory and honour of God.

Can Dr. Perry tell us when the expense of church bells was ever " justified "? Society has never been richer than today. yet in past centuries men found it worthwhile to go to the enormous trouble and expense of installing rings of bells.

Only if we catch the vision they had will God provide the money and install and maintain these instruments. As it says in II Corinthians ix, 8: "It is in God's power to provide you richly with every good gift: thus you will have ample means in yourselves to meet each and every situation, with enough and to spare for every good cause." (N.E.B.)
There should be no question of using moncy that ought to go elsewhere, or of calling in professional firms to raise (and make) money. Enough will be provided for everything, in Enough will be provided for everything, proportion to our fatth. Yours sincerely,

Otley, Yorks.

\section*{THE USE OF " \(X\) " FOR BEFORE}

Dear Sir,-With reference to Mr. Hodgson's letter on the use of "X" for Befores ("The Ringing World," page 604), I would point out that the note at the end of the article was a purcly general note about "Befores," with Plain Bob referred to in brackets. I appreciate that in the past any one of three methods has been used but it is a fact that most present day composers do use an "X" for a Before. Of the recent compositions I have extracted from "The Ringing World " the ratio is five to one in favour of " X ." It would be an asset if everybody used the same system, and I considered it worthwhile pointing out to learners why they see "X" used so frequently in "The Ringing World."-Yours faithfully,

ROBERT B. SMITH.
Marple, Cheshire.
Dear Sir, - In 1956 there was a motion before the Central Council about the use of \(\mathbf{X}\). As proposer, I said exactly the same as Mr. M. Hodgson does in his letter, namely, the twin bob mark is suitable for London, in and fifths and for Plain Bob, fifths and fourths. I condemned it in Double Norwich at 5 Home, which was prevalent at the time. Why should anyone wish to set out Plain Bob as:
\begin{tabular}{ll}
B & H \\
3 & I \\
\hline & -
\end{tabular}
I am sorry to see Mr. Smith says lead-end when he means lead-head.-Yours sincerely Skegness, Lincs. \(\qquad\) JOHN SEGAR

\section*{HANDBELL FEAT WITH FEET}

Dear Sir,-Reading the leading article in "The Ringing World" of July 8 th on "The Birmingham Handbell Tradition" called to mind a schoolboy ringer we had at Kingsbury around 1950.
After Friday evening practices he used to entertain us by ringing solo a plain course of Grandsire Triples on handbells-four in hand and four "in" feet. When he left us I believe he moved to the Windsor area and then joined the R.A.F., where we noted him ringing at Locking, Somerset. His name was John Schofield and I often wondered whether he ever extended his handbell repertoire.
From your quarter peal columns it would appear that, if it is the same person, he now lives in North Surrey, and it was a surprise to read in "The Ringing World" of August 19th that the judge for the Leatherhead Disirict striking competition was none other than John Schofield.-Yours faithfully,

DENNIS T. C. SMITH.

\section*{THANKS FROM THE ISLE OF WIGHT}

Dear Sir,-Surely Mr. Rendell's experience (page 604) is an isolated occurrence and one that naturally promotes disappointment when encountered. This note, however, is not to enlarge upon the subject but to say a big "thank you" to the visitors to the Isle of Wight in recent weeks who have given us invaluable help. Many of them have hundreds of peals behind them, and are experts in dreds of peals behind them, and are experts in Surprise, but all have been willing to join in rounds and innumerable plain courses of Grandsire Doubles and Triples to enable our beginners to improve the first difficult stages of hunting and ropesight.

To all our visitors may I say how much we in the Isle of Wight have enjoyed the pleasure of their company and trust they will come again in the future.-Yours sincerely,
L. BAILEY.

\section*{OBITUARY \\ MR. FREDERICK KINSEY}

With great regret we record the death of Mr. Frederick Kinsey in the Ipswich and East Suffolk Huspital on August 24th in his 85 th year.

Fred was a ringer in and around Ipswich and district for over 50 years and learned to ring at Old Newton in Suffolk with his father as tutor. Latterly he had for some years been a faithful member of St. Margaret's company, Ipswich.

Although he had not been able to ring for the last three years he still took a great interest in ringing generally. He rang a few full peals some 44 years ago but in recent years he was more interested in Sunday service quarter peals and general service ringing.
As a last token of respect a half-muflled quarter peal of Grandsire Triples was rung in the evening of the day of his funeral, as recorded elsewhere. May he rest in peace
J. M.

\section*{MR. JAMES BRACKLEY \\ AN APPRECIATION}

The passing of my friend. Jim Brackley, of Old Woking, on September 18th, severs another link of ringing and personal friendship of 55 years. Ifirst met him on May 20th, 1911 . when we hoped to ring a peal of Minor at Horsell in the early days of "The Ringing World " at Woking. It was his first peal, and though he did not ring many peals he always: enjoyed those he took part in, for he was a safe ringer and appreciated a conductor who was helpful throughout the peal. His last peal with me was on August 10th. 1946, at Staines, for the 80 th birthday of William C . Parker.
Jim was born at Shere and was employed at Unwin's printing works, Old Woking, until he retired. He was leader at St. Peter's, Old Woking, faithful in his duties, not only in the tower, for he was a regular member of the choir until his health began to fail. For loyal service as a church worker over a large number of years Jim's record would take some beating.
Jim and I enjoyed going out to meetings and outings together; he came to see me at home when 1 could not keep him company owing to my illness. When he last visited me, a few months ago. he did not look at all well. And now I learn of his passing to higher service, one of the best who did his best, and one can honestly say: "Well done, thou good and faithful servant.:

WILLIAM SHEPHERD

\section*{INFORMATION WANTED}

Dear Sir, On page 606 of your issue of September 16 th a band of youngsters is reported as having rung a quarter peal of 1,260 ) changes of Plain Bob Minimus at Newtown. Hants. Perhaps the "conductor " could shed a little more light on this performance. According to my reckoning it would have ended with the treble at the back !-Yours faithfully,
W. BIRMINGHAM.

Stoke Poges.

\section*{SURPRISE PREVIOUSLY RUNG AT} BOLNEY
Dear Sir.-With reference to the peal rung at Bolney for the Sussex County Association (page 613). I would like to point out that the footnote is incorrect since the first peal of Surprise on the bells since rehanging was on January 17th, 1966 -a peal of Adelaide Surprise Major conducted by Derek E. Sibson.Yours sincerely.

DAVID D. SMITH

\section*{"CHANEES," by Gordon Grosse at Three Choirs Festival}

TE Three Choirs Festival is held at the beginning of September each year in the Cathedrals of Gloucester, Hereford and Worcester in tirn It is said to be the oldest music festival in Europe and this year the 239th meeting was held at Worcester. As well as traditional works, the programme usually includes some modern music and this year there was given the first performance of the above work. Gordon Crosse is one of the young generation of composers and this work was written in response to a commission by the National Federation of Music Societies.
The title, "Changes," is naturally intriguing to a bellringer but it is really a play on words ii embraces an anthology of poems which deal with the changing cycle of night and morning. death and rebirth, reflecting the imagery of change ringing.

The work is in four parts and the first part is a compilation of Latin texts taken from bell inscriptions. Some of the inscriptions have been used quite commonly on pre-Reformation bells and the part opens with some of the usual invocations such as " SANCTE THOMAS ORA PRO NOBIS." This one and the three which follow it were found by the composer whilst visiting the church as Iken, Suffolk. Further on, the line "SUM ROSA PULSATA MUNDI MARIA VOCATA" "When I am rung I am called Mary. Rose of the World \({ }^{\text {. }}\) rung I am called Mary, Rose of the World ") is used. which is found at Great Glemham, is used. which also in Suffolk.

\section*{THE BELLMAN'S SONG}

Latin then gives way to English with the chorus singing the words, rearranged. from the old myme which begins "Men's death I tell by doleful knell. Lightning and thunder break asunder," etc. These words are interspersed four times with the text inscribed on Great Paul. "VAE MIHI SE NON EVANGELISAVERO" ("Woe unto me if I proclaim not the Gospel."). Crosse arranged this part so that the words and the music mirrored in reverse the cycle found in the remaining parts, morning bells giving way to the nocturnal funeral knell.
The remaining parts consist of the poem anthology sung variously by the soprano and baritone soloists and the full chorus and the children's chorus. Part II opens with the coming of night and the man's thoughts of death and hope of resurrection. Then comes a dialogue between hope and despair in Part III preluded by the Bellman's Song (Herrick). preluded by the Bellman's Song (Herrick

\section*{FROM WILLIAM BLAKE}

Part IV heralds the morning beginning with some lines by William Blake, "The door of death is made of gold . The soul awakes: and wondering, sees \(\because . "\) This leads into the conclusion which is a New Year carol sung by the children's chorus and full chorus, "Here we bring new water from the well so clear " (Anon.), and one can hear in the final music the sounds of the clock chiming and the New Year bells.

I cannot competently describe the music other thari to say it is "modern" and, to me, reminiscent of Britten. At times it was most dramatic and throughout one could variousiy discern the effects of bells tolling or clocks chiming. The nearest il could detect to bells rung in changes was in the children's chorus, Like to the lightning from the sky.
Gordon Crosse was kind enough to give some background information in response to my request. He says straight away that he has no real knowledge of campanology as a subject though by a strange coincidence he was recently prevailed upon to-organise a course in it at Birmingham University. where he is staff tutor in music! The texts came in he is staff tutor in music! The texts came in the first instance from De la Mare's anthology the first instance from De la Mare's anthology
"Come Hither." He goes on to say that the symbolism of bells and ringing appeals to him rather than any practical interest They relate to modern musical technique in two ways (he continues). the changes or permutations relate to "serial technique " and the "chance" to "serial sechnique and the "chance" recent music. "The wonderful effect of two sets of bells or two clocks chiming independently, mingling yet never 'rogether' in a strict musical sense. has always fascinated me.
The first performpnce was given on Thursday, September 8th, by the Three Choirs Festival chorus and the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra The soloists were Noelle Barker and John Noble, and the performance was conducted by Christopher Robinson, organist of Worcester Cathedral.
Acknowledgments are due to Oxford University Press, the publishers. and to the composer for use of his notes.

\section*{Branch Mecting at Buckfast Abbey}

The Mid-Devon Branch held its quarterly meeting at Buckfast Abbey. Buckfastleigh, on meeting at Buckfast Abbey. Buck astreigh, on usual large number of visitors.

Ringing took plece throughout the afternoon on the various combinations under the noon on the various Combinations under the Ringing Master, and a service in the Abbey was conducted by the Rev. Father Christopher Delaney, who welcomed the visitors. The Rev. Father Gregory Burke was the organist
After tea the usual business meeting followed in the Parish Hall, with Miss Mary Russell (Branch chairman) in the chair. who welcomed all the visitors and expressed the thanks of the Branch to the Abbey authorities A full membership certificate was presented to Mr. David Pollard, of Torre.
Subject to permission, the annual meeting was fixed for January 7th at Brixham. with Churston Ferrers in the evening. Attention was drawn to the South Devon Association competition at Buckland-in-the-Moor on October Ist.
The appeal for funds towards the Exeter Cathedral restoration was discussed.
Evening ringing was at Bickington.

\section*{BIGGLESWADE RINGERS \\ SAMPE ESSEX TOWERS}

On September 10th, in ideal weather, the members of Biggleswade District held their annual outing, visiting the interesting county of Essex.
The splendid ring of eight at Great Dunnow made an excellent start to the day's ringing, though a broken rope delayed ringing for some time. Broomficid, with its interesting round tower, was the next stop, and some ringing on these, excellent bells was enjoyed until-yes, you've guessed it!-a rope broke!
If you attach a ton or so of metal to one end of a piece of rope then allow a wellnourished specimen of Bedfordshire manhood to take hold of the other end, something has got to give! However, a quite expert splice was effected in good time for the local ringers to celebrate in traditional style the wedding that followed immediately after our visit.

Lunch was taken at Chelmsford, after which the urge to make music leasserted itself and an excellent medium was found in the six belts at Little Waltham. At Witham we were welcomed with warmth and enthusiasm by the vicar. the Rev. R. D. Black, who took those who could tear themselves away from the bells on a very interesting tour of this ancient and historic church.

After an adequate and very welcome tea a visit was made to the beautiful Church of St . Mary the Virgin. Kelvedon, whose heavy ring of six bells includes the "Festival of Britain" enor.
The next stop, according to the programme. was at Coggeshall but, an organ recital being in progress, we were unable to ring the bells. However, a phone call to the Rev. Francis Boykett, Vicar of Stebbing, brought an immediate and delightful response, as he not only placed his very fine ring of bells at our disposal but very graciously welcomed us to the church in person Some good ringing on this splendid six concluded the more active part of an exceptionally finc day's outing.

After a little refreshment at this most hospitable village of Stebhing the homeward run was made in fine spirits and with grateful hearts Sincere thanks to incumbents and to all who made us so weicome, and to Mr. L. H Bywaters for his excellent arrangements. A most enjoyable day.

A. E. R.

\section*{THE LADIES' GUILD}

A quarterly meeting of the Western District was held at Kelston on September 10th. This tower is not often available for meetings and good use was made of the pleasant si.x. with ringing ranging from rounds for the younger members, through enthusiastic but unsuccessful efforts to bring round a touch of Grandsire Minor to respectable touches of Cambridge and London.

The Guild service was conducted by the Rector. the Rev. E. Maddock, with Mr. F. Battin as organist, and tea was served in the Village Hall.

At the short business meeting the secretary outlined the programme of practice meetings up to the end of the year. These are at Bath Abbey, SS. Philip and Jacob's, Bristol, and Frampion Cotterell on October 31st, November 24 th and December 13 th respectively, all at \(7.30 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}\).

\section*{OUTINGS}

FAREHAM'S ANNUAL OUTING
On September 3rd a small augmented Fareham (Hants) band had a day's outing to notthern Hampshire and southern Berkshire. Six car loads, eight towers and a tight schedule was the order of the day, and in retrospect the trip was both enjoyable and memorable surpassing all expectations.

At Overton (8), Stedman and Oxford T.B. went well ; at Kingsclere (8, noisy but fascinating) Erin and Double Norwich were notable, but not our striking. Thatcham provided the best eight of the day, and Cambridge and Kent T.B. were rung after Ronald Christopher had demonstrated double-handling while we waited for others negotiating a deep ford somewhere.

A picnic lunch together, and then to the superb Newbury ten, where Stedman Caters, Kent Royal and a fine touch of Grandsire Caters were achieved. R. K. H. left his ringers' diary with all its secrets behind! At delightful Bucklebury (8) Superlative came round casily, to everyone's pleasure, and Little Bob went well. A touch of Stedman brought out our best on the light eight at Aldermaston

After tea in Theale we reached Stratfield Mortimer (8) where. despite ominous warnings, dreadful rumours and awful premonitions, the bells were pleasantly ringable and we achieved fair striking. At Bramley (8) we were tired and Superlative would not go, but Plain and Little Bob did, with effort. Finally to the Six Bells, a mile away, for a pinta, and then home

Thanks to Alan Sturgess for conducting, Jenny for map reading, and we'll ring Yorkshire next year, Rosemary 1 Our special thanks to all incumbents and everyone who made our visits so enjoyable.
m K. H.

\section*{TO SOUTH WALES WITH GREEN'S WANDERERS}

A most enjoyable camping week-end was spent in South Wales and Gloucestershire by a party of ringers from the Highclere area, a party of ringers from the Highciere area, ringing at eleven towers in Wales and three in Gloucestershire.

Leaving at 7.15 on September 17 th, the first tower was at Dingestow, Monmouth (5) followed by Penrhos, both under the incumbency of the Rev. Ivor Richards, who joined us in our ringing and also kindly arranged a ring for us on the five at Tregare.

Next, a very rare four, at Penalt, on a lovely hill overlooking Monmouth, was rung. followed by a dash to Talgarth for Bob Minor, with Mr. Chick. The four at Llanfihangel Talyllyn had a slow-striking treble, making them difficult to ring. Tea, kindly given by the Rector, was followed by a ring at his other tower, Llangasty-Taly-y-Llyn, where the only peal of Minimus in Wales was rung: here Mr. Reece, the local captain, joined us.

The bells at St. David's, Brecon, proved to be a joy to ring, and after a fish and chips supper we pitched our tents on the roadside just out of Brecon.

The ring at St. Mary's, Brecon, on Sunday morning was enjoyed by all, but there was no luck at the Cathedral as permission to view the bells was refused by the verger. (The last reputed ringing here was on Trafalgar Day to celebrate the victory of Lord Nelson!)
At Grosmont a Pat Cannon tenor was found (pull both ways) and we were joined here for ringing by all the local band and the Rector, who also allowed us to ring at Skenfrith (6). The programme ended with three Gloucestershire towers-Huntley, Ampney Crucis and Bibury. Albert Green is thanked for all arrangements. Scotland next year!

\section*{BELFRY GOSSIP}

The stock of the third edition of Dove's "Guide " is now very low and is expected to be exhausted by Christmas.
Mrs. B. Laughton, of Chesterfield, writes in appreciation of the Chesterfield District outing to Chester, arranged by Mr. H. P. Phipps.
In the notice published on September 23 rd relating to the Fourth Bristol Festival, will intending visitors please note that there are eight bells at Long Ashton.
We keep names of university and college students in a special file because of continual movement. When college days are over please let us know. It makes our records easier.

An attempt to ring a peal of Stedman Cinques in memory of Derek Ogden was lost at Ashton-under-Lyne on September 18th, when the clapper of the 11 th bell broke.
Hereford Diocesan Guild have blossomed out in multi-methods Doubles peals. One in 87 methods/variations was rung at Fownhope on September \(11 t h\), conducted by Marcus W . Sherwood.
On Saturday, November 12th. an attempt will be made at Birmingham Cathedral to surpass the existing record peal of 12,663 Stedman Cinques. Further details, including the composition, will be published shortly.

Tom Lock's tour this year, centred on Chester, was very successful, with 14 peals from 18 attempts. There were seven conducting Gerald Penney. Michael Maughan, Dennis Knox. William Rogers, Tom J. Lock, Richard E. Price and lan M. Holland.
The Culworth Branch of the Peterborough Guild had a quarter peal of rejoicing at Croughton on September 8th. The president (Mrs. D. Perry. of Weedon) had given birth to a son. Few Branch presidents can look back on such a distinction during their period in office.

\section*{A ROYAL WEEK}

Starting last Saturday (September 24th), a peal week is being held in which the objective is a peal of Royal in 15 different towers. The programme reads: Saturday, St., John the Divine, Leicester, and St. Botolph's, Boston; Sunday, Lincoln Cathedral (service ringing) St. James', Grimsby ; Monday, Ripon Cathedral and St. Giles'. Pontefract; Tuesday, Selby Abbey and Whitby Abbey: Wednesday, Bradford Cathedral and All Saints', Rotherham Thursday, St. Wulfram's, Grantham, and St Mary's, Melton Mowbray; Friday, All Saints Chilvers Coton, and The Holy Cross, Daventry; Saturday, St. Alkmund's, Duffield, and Derby Cathedral.

\section*{NEXT YEAR'S LADIES' GUILD FUNCTION}

The Ladies' Guild is holding its annual meeting and dinner at Lincoln next year on July 1st. Accommodation for Friday or Saturday night has been booked at Lincoln Diocesan House for 12 double and 12 single rooms. It is a case of first come first served -bed and breakfast is 15 s ., and a deposit of 5 s . with booking request should be sent 10 Mrs. A. Richardson, Glyn Garth, Surfleet, Spalding, Lincs.

\section*{A "SWEET" CRUNCH}

Mr. Richard W Sweet, who was on the recent Wratten tour, asks us to make it clear that the title "Cap'n Crunch" hestowed on him by Chris Kippin was no indication of the standard of his ringing. The reason was that he represents the company who make a breakfast cereal of that name.

\section*{DORSET DAY OUT}

An outing with a difference was Christopher Dalton's trip to Dorset on August 14th. Service ringing at 9.30 started the day at Witchampton (6), followed by the seldom-visited six at Long Crichel.

The first ringing for ten years was done at Hinton Martell (5), where we were joined by Mr. and Mrs. Ross Robertson. A report on the condition of the bells was given to the Vicar. At Canford Magna the Vicar kindly gave permission to ring after Matins and the captain's daughter joined us in Bob Minor. After lunch we rang for afternoon service on the six at Hampreston.

The best bells of the day were at Bryanstone (6), where we were joined by Monty Meyer. A delay occurred at Morden fa seldom-rung five) while ropes were fitted, but we were in time to ring at Winterbourne Whitchurch (a good five) for evening service. Another service we rang for was at Winterbourne Kingston (the only four of the day and again seldom rung), where a rope broke.
Finally, Hilton (6), travelling past Milton Abbey, where the eight bells are now unringable. A quick return visit was paid to Morden to collect our ropes and then we said our farewells to Chris. who had given us such an enjoyable day on bells that are so seldom rug.

\section*{BECCLES TOWER CLOCK}

The proposal to place an electric clock in the detached tower of Beccles Parish Church is being. opposed by Mr. Arthur L. Haggar vice-president of the Ipswich and District Branch of the British Horological Institute Under a 19 th century Act. Beacles Borough Council is responsible for the maintenance of the parish church clock, which serves as the town's timekeeper.

An electric clock is being advocated by a council official as the present clock is no longer striking and is considered too old to be repaired. It was also much cheaper than the normal old-fashioned kind with heavy machinery

Mr. Haggar's letter stated: "I would very earnestly plead against the all too prevalent tendency to install a synchronous motor type of clock, usually on the grounds of cheapness. This type of clock gives a good service while the time-controlled A.C. supply is malnwhile the time-controlled A.C. Supply is mainthey are not timekeepers in their own right. the real timekeeper being the A.C. generator at the power station."

Urging that if the present clock had to be replaced it should not be by an clectric clock. Mr. Haggar stated that the modern hand: wound tower clocks were very reliable and much more easily wound than their cumbersome relations of some two centuries and more ago. If there was a difficulty in finding a clockwinder there was the modern auto-wound clockwinder there was the modern auto-wound type of clock with direct motor-driven (and chiming) units. Night-silencing for any predetermined periods could be included.
If the clock was not to be repaired he pleaded that the old clock movement shouid be cleaned and preserved as a museum piece after placing it on a suitable timber stand. perhaps at the rear of the church.

\section*{CHRISTCHURCH PRIORY FLORAL}

\section*{FESTIVAL}

Members of the Christchurch District of the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild co-operated with the local band to ensure that the Christchurch Priory bells were rung on each day of the recent Festival of Flowers and Harvest Thanksgiving.
On Friday, September 9th. the Sunday service ringers from Ringwood Parish Church realised an ambition to ring a quarter peal on the back eight of the Priory 12, 1.260 Double the back eight of the Priory 12, 1.260 boubie round in 54 minutes. conducted by the youngest member of the band. William T. Perrins.
On the Saturday afternoon District nembers rang the 12 bells to Stedman Cinques and Kent Maximus, whilst in the evening the local band were successful with 1,295 Grandsire Caters. Ringing on eight. ten and twelve bells also took place on the Sunday for service and again on the Monday. The Festival attracted thousands of visitors from a wide area, long queues forming daily to gain admission to the ancient church to view the exquiste floral displays arranged by the Highcliffe and District Floml Society, of which the Vicar's wife, Mrs. L. H. Yorke, is chairman.

\section*{FATIERS AND SONS PEAL}

Following a suggestion that a peal of Cambridge Maximus should be attempted by six fathers and six sons, contacts were made, a date fixed and a good peal was rung at Evesham Bell Tower on Saturday, September 17th, writes Geoffrey J. Hemming.

\section*{LESTER LISTENED TO HIS 84th BIRTHDAY PEAL}

Owing to local circumstances it was, unfortunately, not possible for the annual peal in honour of Mr. Lester L. Gray's birthday to be rung at Liverpool Parish Church where, until recently, he has been a regular Sunday service ringer for over 35 years. However, a warm welcome was received at Manchester Town Hall and his 84th birthday was marked by a peal of Cambridge Surprise Maximus rung, at Lester's request, by a band of College Youths and conducted by Edward Jenkins.
Although Lester did not take part himself he listened to the whole of the peal, accompanied by numerous friends, and joined in the celebrations afterwards when he was presented with a small gift by the ringers as a token of their good wishes.

It was, of course impossible for all of even his close friends to take part in the peal. but we feel sure that his friends all over the country will join with the band in extending to Lester their congratulations and best wishes and the hope that a "birthday peal " will be rung each September for many years to come.

\section*{A PEMBROKE WEDDING}

Sunday School teachers and ringers at St. Mary's. Pembroke, Mr. Eldon Lingard and Miss Prunella James were married on Septemher 3rd at the church they are serving so faithfully. The Vicar (the Rev. R. C. Davies) officiated.
The bride wore a short empire-line dress of white silk crepe and a bouffant veil. Her jewellery was a gold cross and chain. the gift of the bridegroom. After leaving the church the bride was presented with good luck tokens by Timothy O'Brien. A quarter peal in honour of the occasion was rung after the ceremony.

\section*{MORE THOUGHTS ON THE LADIES}
"Like a breath of summer laden, Like a cheery ray of hope,
Is the sight of gentle maiden Deftly handling of a rope."

\(\mathbf{S}^{0}\)sang the redoubtable William Willson many years ago. "W.W." was a staunch supporter of the lady ringer, and well he might be, for his daughter Lilian was a most accomplished performer and was chosen by Miss Parker for the first peal to be rung by ladies.

From 1892, when Mrs. George Williams of Brighton became the first lady to ring in a peal, and four years later, when Miss White of Basingstoke took part in a tower bell peal, ringers became increasingly aware that a new influence was at work in the Exercise. Very gradually it came to light that there were, in certain parts of the country, lady ringers who were joining freely in the work of the belfry, and taking part, by no means incompetently, in an activity that had hitherto been regarded as confined to men. Thus we find, as early as 1892, a certain Miss Macray at Ducklington, daughter of the Rector of the parish, who was not only an accomplished change ringer on tower bells and handbells, but a member of the Oxford Diocesan Guild and, we are told, leader and instructor of the local band. At another parish we hear of two daughters of the Vicar performing in the tower and "in hand." So wrote "Plain Speaker" in "The Bell News": "How I envy the local band at such a place! Croquet, lawn tennis, etc., etc., you are doomed to an apathetic forgetfulness. The ladies will practice (sic) ringing and get profit thereby, both mental and corporeal. Gentlemen - 'The Ladies'."

The Exercise did not, as a whole, endorse the enthusjasm of "Plain Speaker." Some there were who chose to ignore the ladies, holding the view that this was another superficially attractive activity that had aroused the curiosity of the female mind, and that when the novelty had worn off then no more would be heard of lady ringers. Many welcomed the movement, others regarded it cautiously; some treated it facetiously. But there was a large body of ringers who were sure that the whole thing was a mistake and that it held dangers for the future. The objectors fell into three main classes. There were those who objected just because they objected to ladies in any situation or activity; there were some who could not reconcile themselves to the intrusion of girls and women into the seclusion of the belfry; and there were others who quite sincerely believed that this was no sort of physical activity for the female sex, and classed it vaguely with football and boxing as one of those things no refined young woman should attempt.

But the movement was growing and nothing could stop it. Before many years had passed it was clear that not only could a lady ring a bell without physical harm, but could also, in the intellectual field of change ringing, hold her own as method ringer and striker. And, moreover, it was found that in many instances the lady ringer, once she was interested, was keen, reliable in her work and attendance, and intelligently ambitious. So, in 1906, the Rev. H. Drake was able to write: "My experience is, that while of course here are some ladies who will never take to ringing, these are less numerous than among the other sex, and when they do take to it, they usually do so, not only with greater keenness and zest, but with a quicker intuition of its intricacies, than the more blundering but more logical man."

But the road of advancement of the ladies to the position of high regard they now hold was not entirely smooth. There was the extraordinary episode at St. Paul's Church, Dagenham, in 1911, when an acting incumbent forbade a young lady to enter the belfry, giving as his reason: "The belfry is not a fit and proper place for any female, as it might lead to questionable actions taking place." Ringers from all parts of the country reacted in wrath, and the subsequent correspondence, which ran into several weeks, was so strongly against the clerical gentleman, and so firmly on the side of the integrity of ringers both male and female, that we may well say that out of a very distasteful start there emerged a train of thought and action that benefited the cause of the ladies to an immeasurable degree.

The cause was not yet won. As late as 1913 the "Hants and Berks Gazette" published a letter signed "Grandsire" in which the writer strongly opposed the presence of ladies in the belfry, viewing their intrusion with concern. "I am quite unable to understand," he wrote, "why ladies should prefer to leave their many womanly pursuits and pastimes, and to range themselves with a number of men in a belfry to manipulate a huge bell of so many hundredweight."

As we all know, there were vast influences at work that made inevitable the entry of women into virtually all man's activities, and in due course Miss Parker brought the ladies to complete recognition. Since then their own skill and achievements have proved their case and provided their absolute right to the accolade.

\section*{RAVING RINGERS’ ANNIVERSARY TOUR}

THE tenth anniversary of the Society was celebrated with a tour in Cornwall during July. Th, weather was indifferent but could not mar a week full of good bells and good company, which added up to one of the finest tours yet, enjoyed by a record number of 21 members.

Ted Venn arrived early at the St. George's Hotel, Truro, headquarters for the week, taking over the unenviable task from the proprietor of shepherding in the stragglers from a Friday evening journey down, the last of whom arrived at 3 a.m.! Most people slept in next day, as our first tower, at Cardynham, was not until late afternoon. The minibus navigator, Barry Saunders, hotly denied he made a mistake on the way to St. Neot, but if a taste of narrow Cornish lanes was needed then we were in the deep end to start with. Ron Russ and Chris Clarke shared the bus driving, and if Ron, who was driving at the time, thought he had learned it all in Australia, he was wrong! A brass band playing at the local fete lent an air of triumph to our arrival at St. Neot. Bristol was the highlight at Bodmin (an extremely fine octave), but all tastes could not have been catered for because the joint ringing masters for the week, Michael Coleman and Ron Russ, were both seen beating a hasty retreat down the fire escape! We were consoled by a local ringer's remark that it was the best bit of Scientific he had heard for years. Thinking of fire escapes, I wonder how many towers have them?

On Sunday, July 24th, we divided between Kenwyn and Probus for morning service ringing, Surprise being rung at both towers. Those of us at Kenwyn were pleased to see Alan Carveth.

\section*{STRING OF INCIDENTS}

In the afternoon ringing preceded a baptism at St. Erme and followed one at Newlyn East. where we spliced a rope to get the treble in action again, despite the stay being broken. This incident proved to be the first of an unusually long string. The handy eight at Mawgan-in-Pydar sounded to London and four-spliced in the evening.
Monday began at Camborne, where we rang some rather doubtful stuff called Hunslett Little Bob Major before going on to Carbis Bay, where the Rev. A. S. Roberts met us. Ringing on the light ten here never really got going, because some of the cars which took the overflow from the minibus were late in arriving. The church is not easily seen when travelling west on the main road, and one well-known spliced record man (who had been to Carbis Bay before) navigated his car-load right into St. Ives ! The ringing we did never settled to an agreeable pace, but a whip round produced \(£ 2\) for the church building fund, so produced in hap the church building fund, so we left in happier frame of mind for Zennor, where in happier frame of mind for Zennor, The Vicar at Sennen (Land's End parish) gave us an interesting tour of his church, which has strong naval connections. He seemed overjoyed that Jim Linnell knew the bird on the Cornish crest, the chough, now almost extinct in the county. His conducted tour then extended to Land's End proper, where we were afforded V.I.P. parking and a look at all the best views around the point. Paul has the highest church in Cornwall (with a good six). even if the belfry floor did groan a little under our weight. Vic Wood met us at Gulval. where we learned that his uncle, Mr. W. Wood, now 91 . still rings twice every Sunday. We had a complainant here-a howling dog, but the compctition of our Hunslett Imperial Court Bob Major proved too much for him!

Tuesday was spent in the Launceston area. We suffered another broken rope at Altarnum (a difficult eight in a tall tower). The bells at St. Mary's, Launceston, were later enjoyed before Mr. Sheppard from Holsworthy joined us for London in St. Thomas' small belfry. At Lezant the Vicar shook everyone by the hand, a much appreciated gesture. The day ended at Linkinhorne, which boasts the longest draught in Cornwall. about 100 feet. The bells are good for their weight but, of course, tricky to handle. We had trouble with the 3 rd; the Hastings stay appeared to be a fraction short, causing the bell to jam and throw over.

\section*{ALMOST "IN ORBIT"}

The unlucky streak was still there next morning at Liskeard, where a faulty tenor slider nearly put "Badger" Coleman in orbit ! We lost the rope and, with a locked central chamber, were powerless to put things right. Over in Devon, ringing at St. Andrew's, Plymouth, was lifted out of the doldrums with a good half-course of Cambridge Royal. At Emmanuel, our time was cut short by the late arrival of the minibus. As if this was not enough, we had barely started a course of London when the treble rope broke. Back over the border in Cornwall, the six at St. Stephen-by-Saltash must surely rank as one of the finest in the county. Even the local pub has a set of handbells.
On Thursday. Stratton was the main attraction, and the renowned bells were enjoyed for an hour before lunch. The afternoon was free, and by special invitation we raised a hand for a quarter to mark the opening of the local fete. It was billed as Grandsire Triples, but we rang Lincolnshire with five Triples, but we rang Lincoinshire with ive Keith Walpole. Gill Brearley and Merrilyn Chambers went surfing in a typical Atlantic gale. How Merrilyn braved it we shall never know, being used to the gentler climes of Perth, W.A. Most of the others conducted Perth, W.A. Most of the others conducted near Bude. With the score at \(2-0\) (or was it 3-0?), the Cobblers had an Oxford Guild team well beaten when heavy rain came. Not before time, as the exercise was rapidly winding some of the old contemptibles, like our Master, "Gordon " Clarke, in the Oxford oul It just went to prove ringing fitness goal. It just went to prove ringing evening. does not count for much ! in the evening, ringing at Tintagel was cancelled at the last minute, and we were fortunate in securing Marhamchurch as a replacement. The A.G.M. of the Society followed in a crowded minibus as the rain poured down outside. The reunion is to be held at Kettering, and next year's tour in Sussex.

Friday was All Saints' Day-nine towers, all with Saints' names. Bill Cross, from Great Tew, on holiday at Gorran Haven, joined us for the first group, the highlights being St. Ewe, with a churchyard full of exotic trees and a fine little six rung from a belfry less than six feet wide, and St. Austell. Once we'd conquered the long draught here, methods up to Bristol were enjoyed. We then moved through the heart of the clay mining area up to the Wadebridge district, where at St. Wenn we found the church was lit with bottled gas. St. Breoke was well hidden in a valley, a test for good navigators, not all of whom passed with flying colours. Even Barry Egglesfield riding on the minibus roof at one time, failed to see it. The day concluded with one of the week's highlights, a course of Glasgow at St. Mabyn Perran-ar-Worthal (a fine six) was first on Saturday. July 30th, but the treble had no stay. The Vicar, who combines the living with Stithans, said some of the stays at the latter tower were weak. They held, but the tenor rope broke below the sally after only a couple of pulls! Constantine was incidentfree, and the excellent light six were enjoyed with some keen local support. Some then found home-made beer in Helston, while others lunched on the sands at picturesque Poldhu Cove. Throughout our visit to the Lizard, and a pull on England's most southerly ring at Landewednack, most ears were glued to transistor radios, for it was World Cup Final Day. We resurfaced at St. Keverne to find no rope on the fifth, due to a local misunderstanding. This was the last incident of an unprecedented number during the week, Methods up to four-spliced were later rung on this tuneful though rather odd-struck eight. The P.O. radio-telescope at Goonhilly Down was much admired and photographed before most of us rang at Kea. open for the Truro Guild Festival. Ringing finished at Truro Cathedral with Cambridge Royal.

The Society provided service bands at Probus and Kenwyn next morning, the opposite of the previous Sunday, before we gathered at Probus for farewells.

\section*{UNUSUAL HANDBELLS WILL BE HEARD}

At the annual dinner of the Worcestershire and Districts Change Ringing Association to be held at the Co-operative Hall, Worcester, on October 22nd, ringers will have the oppoitunity of hearing tunes played on an unusual set of handbells. The bells, cast by J. Jarrett, of St. John's, Worcester, are set in a case and played by striking with hammers. They are of excellent tone, of great age, and belong to a family which has a long and interesting history in ringing. It is recorded that in 1833 a John Hinton participated in a peal of Kent Treble Bob Major, 8,448 changes, at St. Helen's Church. Worcester, and a tablet in the ringing chamber of All Saints', Worcester, records his death in 1845 . Beside this tablet is another in memory of his son, James, who died in 1886. The "Bell News" of February 9th, 1884, says: "Among our record of peals in this number will be found an account of a peal of Grandsire Triples rung at Bromsgrove, a neat town in Worcestershire, lying midway between Worcester and Birmingham. by eight members of the Worcestershire Diocesan Association.
- The local papers, in giving notice of this performance, call it Change Ringing Extraordinary,' and to a certain extent this is so. The ringer of the 2nd bell, Mr. James Hinton, is totally deaf, so much so that no matter how loud and shrill a noise may be made close to his ear, he is unable to catch one particle of the sound. Our readers may ask, "How, then, can such a one afflicted in this manner, know when the bobs are called? \({ }^{\text {" }}\) In this instance, a person, Mr. T Albutt, was employed to gently tap the deaf ringer when the calls were uttered, and probably this is the first peal in which a deaf ringer has been engaged or the services of a tapper have been called into requisition. Mr. Hinton has for about 25 years laboured under this disability. We recollect him in the full enjoyment of all his faculties. prosecuting the study of the art with vigour and success. and promising to be as clever a ringer, both upon the handbells and at the rope's end, as his father was before him. Suffering from some affection of the eyes he underwent a surgical operation which, though partially restoring his powers of vision, was, it is said, the means of depriving him of that of hearing

\section*{PIONEER IN WEST COUNTRY}

James had two sons who practised the art. James (junior) left Worcester for the West Country, where he pioneered the growth of change ringing in the area. When he died, in 1910, ringers from all over Britain subscribed to his headstone. His brother, George, remained in Worcester, participating in many peals, including the first on the ring of 12 in Worcester Cathedral.
He and his friend, the late William H. Johnson, belonged to a Victorian concert party, the Bijou Minstrels, giving as their turn an unusual display of tune playing on handbells. First they would play with four bells in each First they would play with four belis in each hand (the first ever to do so). Then, as an encore, additional bells were strapped to each foot. The climax of the performance was reached when other bells were added to the knees, elbows and head, the latter coming into play as each performer bowed at the end of the dance routine which was executed while the danc playing.

George Hinton died in 1945, his son, George (junior), also a keen ringer, surviving him by only a year. The tradition seems likely to continue Philip, his ten-year-old son, is learning to ring, can handle a bell and rings rounds. He is also a promising young pianist, who received a standing ovation at a recent event, and hopes to repeat his success at the forthcoming dinner. Thus Philip will become the coming dinner. \section*{BATH AND WELLS DIOCESAN}

The quarterly meeting of the Chew Branch was held at Nailsea (6) on September 17th, when visitors were welcomed from Chippenham, Carlisle and Bradford Cathedral. The service was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. E. G. Hammond), who afterwards joined the company for tea at the Church Hall.

At the business meeting new members were elected from Backwell, Long Ashton, Yatton. Chew Stoke and Clevedon (one each), while seven members were re-elected and five new members elected from Easton-in-Gordano.
Subject to permission, meetings were arranged as follows: A.G.M.. Wraxall, December; practice meetings, Weston-in-Gordano. October, and Stanton Drew, November.

Further comment was voiced about the annual report and resolutions were passed for consideration by the general committee suggesting that a report editor be appointed, and that the Association's financial year should end on October 31st instead of December 31st. as at present.

Votes of thanks included a special mention for the Nailsea ringers, who provided tea. and best wishes to the Rector, always a good friend to the ringers, who will be leaving Nailsea for Keinton Mandeville in the near Church until shortly after 8 a'clock.

\section*{SOUTHWELL DIOCESAN GUILD}

The meeting of the Mansfield District of the Southwell Diocesan Guild and the Society of Sherwood Youths, the first at Eastwood since the rededication of the bells was a great success. Having been rehung on new bearings, the musical ring of eight (tenor just short of a ton) was found to go well but needed working at to produce good striking, due mainly to a lengthy draught of rope. Ringing ranged from call changes to Yorkshire Surprise. The Rector of Eastwood, himself a ringer, was on hand to welcome everyone, but unfortunately he had to leave soon afterwards on another engagement of whom were from Great Yarmouth.
At the business meeting, following a much appreciated tea. Miss B. Hooks of Greaslev and Mrs. T. Parsons of Eastwood were elected Southwell Guild members. The Mansfield District chairman welcomed the Society of Dherwood Youths and all visiting ringers, two Sherwood Youths and all visiting ring.

The meeting closed with thanks to the Rector and to the ladies for the tea, after which ringing continued until \(8.30 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}\)., when the bells were lowered in peal.

Next meeting (Mansfield District): Warsop, November 26th.

\section*{MARLBOROUGH BRANCH'S NEW FOREST TRIP}

The annual outing of the Marlborough Branch of the Salisbury Guild took place on September 24th and was an unqualified success, Aided by some beautiful weather and some first-class organisation on the part of the chairman (Mr. G. Newman) the programme was strictly adhered to. Accommodated in two coaches, the party numbered over 50 , including friends and relatives. In addition to the chairman, the Rev. Roger Keeley (Ringing Master), Mr. T. A. Palmer (hon. secretary), Mr. F. Read (vice-chairman) and Mr, and Mrs. P. Minchin, of Swindon, were present.
South-West Hampshire and the New Forest area comprised the venue, and the early-morning drive amid the ever-changing autumnal colourings was enjoyed. After a short halt at Salisbury, Lyndhurst was reached at 10.20 a.m., where the nice ring of eight was put to sood use until a move was made to Brockenhurst, which has one of the oldest churches in the Forest. Possessing a very light six, some good ringing was maintained. The party were joined by Mr. and Mrs. N. Tilley and family, of Great Bedwyn, who were on holiday nearby. Lunch was taken at Lymington, and later the eight bells at St . Thomas's were rung in rounds and Triples. Milford-on-Sea was the next tower, and after 45 minutes' ringing on another nice eight, tea was enjoyed at a local restaurant.
Leaving Milford the next tower was at Sopley where the party found six bells after being led to expect only five. The augmented ring, however, proved a very pleasant one. The eight bell's at SS. Peter and Paul's, Ringwood, were the last on the list, and a further 45 minutes' ringing completed an interestingly varied programme.
On the way home a halt was made at Salisbury for refreshment. This was one of the best-attended and most enjoyable trips for several years. One cannot conclude without paying tribute to Mr. Cobb (hon. secretary of the Christchurch Branch of the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild) who supplied details of the route and sketch maps of how best to reach the towers and parking places. Thank you, Mr. Cobb.

\section*{St. Albans District}

Many of the St. Albans District members and a number of visitors were welcomed at a successful meeting on September 17th. Two towers were available, the 23 cwt. eight at Barnet being rung in the afternoon. The special method for Barnet, Stanstead Triples, was achieved, although an unexpected "hob" had some worried ! Methods from rounds to Cambridge and London were also rung. There were no tea arrangements, but everyone managed to find somewhere to eat and eventually arrived at Monken Hadley, the tower for the evening.
Due to lack of time and the keenness of all to ring, an informal business meeting was held in the belfry. The secretary, Mr. Roy Brown, gave a reminder of the coming District activities, namely the car outing on October 1st, the District practice at Tewin on Wednesday, October 5th, and the next District meeting at St. Paul's, Walden, and King's Walden on October 15th.
Some very enjoyable ringing followed of Ealing Surprise Major, the special method being successful, and methods up to various Surprise Major methods and Spliced were rung.

\section*{MORDEN, DORSET, BELLS}

Dear Sir,-I was interested to read the Charminster (and other) ringers' glowing account of their activities at Morden, Dorset. For the record, these ringers are not the first to devote attention to these bells in recent months; nor is local enthusiasm anything new. Because of it, in fact, the Rector approached the local Guild belfry in-spector-Mr. Reg Young, of Wareham-to see what could be done ahout getting the bells (which had been silent for some years) going. Not only Mr. Young, but many people in the village have spent-and are spending-a good deal of time and energy into putting Morden bells into working order again.

A new set of ropes is on its way and the two loose bolts securing the tenor to its stock are pending replacement. As they are completely rusted up the "tightening of a few nuts reported by the Charminster ringers would have been quite impossible.
The instigator of the quarter peal, incidentally, was able to try out the bells beforehand when he turned up uninvited (but not unwelcomed) on a Sunday tour of some seldom-rung Dorset bells organised by Geoff Dodd and myself. We kept the tenor rigid enough for a very brief ring-but no morewith wooden wedges between the crown and stock. As a crack had already started in the bell and spread from the crown down into the waist, I dread to think what 45 -odd minutes of ringing it loose on the stock must have done to it.

I would urge our Charminster friends when in quest of future material for their admittedly creditable form of "grabbing" to make a few local inquiries and/or to ensure that dubious bells such as these have been checked over by bells such as these have been checked over by someone who knows something about bell-hanging.-Yours faithfully,

\section*{A MEMORY LAPSE}

Dear Sir.-On reading Mr. P. Chapman's letter recently 1 anm prompted to write further as we at Staverton were also incolved.

After waiting an hour or more and finding that the party did not arrive, our Vicar wro:e to Mr. Knights to see what had happened. The Rev. Mr. Larwill received a reply, which he promptly handed to me.

Mr. Knights was very apologetic and I am sure he will not mind me quoting an extract from his letter to explain the circumstances, as follows:
- In early August, when I had received all the replies to my requests for permission to ring at various churches, only two, Staverton and Daventry, were able to give permission, although the Vicar of St. Mary's, Warwick, did onter us an alternative, but unsuitable time. In view of this I wrote to Staverton, Daventry, St. Mary's. Warwick, and the bus company informing them that we would have no alternative but to cancel the proposed no alternative hut to cancel the proposed am certain that they left here and it would therefore appear that something went wrong in the delivery."

I would add here that apologies are accepted but that the party missed the chance of a ring on a very good ring of six bells at Staverton. and an even better ring of ten at Daventry.Yours faithfully,
Staverton, near Daventry.

\section*{NEWS FROM U.S.A.}

Dear Sir,-As a note of interest to those marking the progress of our hands here in Washington. I am quite pleased to report on the condition of one of our bands, the Whitechapel Guild of the National Cathedral Girls' School. Last year the Guild numbered about is girls-both advanced and be-ginner-and a very good year's progress was achieved, culminating in quarter peals of Stedman Triples and Bob Minor. Apparently last year's enthusiasm was contagious, for at the activities assembly recently 48 new girls signed up to take bellringing this year, bringing the cotal potential membership for this year to 56 , approximately one-fifth of the entire upper school (9th-12th grades).
On other matters, we have had the great fortune to be visited twice by Mr. Roger Bailey, of Cambridge University, who is currently touring North America. A few weeks ago Roger called a peal of Bob Major for us. and next Saturday will join us in an attempted peal of Minor in four methods (Cambridge. Kent, Oxford and Plain Bob).

Our best to all in England, and we shall keep you posted of our progress from time to time.-Yours sincerely.

RICHARD S. DIRKSEN,
Washington Cathedral, D.C.

\section*{AN EXPLANATION}

Dear Sir,-With reference 10 Mr. P. L. Chapman's letter regarding non-receipt of information that the plans for the outing of the Ely District on August Bank Holiday had been changed, the following explanation scems necessary.
Of the six towers originally written to requesting permission to ring, three were unable for a variety of reasons, \(t o\) grant permission. St. Mary's, Warwick, offered an alternative but unsutable time, and two towers, including Daventry, were willing for us to ring.
On July 31st, as soon as I had received the last reply to my requests, I wrote postcards to the towers that had given permission tn ring, to the Vicar of St. Mary's, Warwick. and to the coach proprietors through whom a coach had been booked. informing them of the cancellation of the arrangements. As the coach did not turn up for the journey it would appear that one, at least, of the postcards was delivered.
If Mr. Chapman would draw the attention of the ringer and verger who waited in vain on August Bank Holiday to this letter and also add my regrets to them for the time they wasted. I would be most grateful. - Yours faithfully.

\section*{INCORRECT}

Dear Sir-I would like to point out that the claim for the first peal of Surprise on the bells at Bolney since rehanging (page 613) is incorrect. I conducted a peal of Adelaide Surprise Major there on January 17th. 1966, and I am not sure that even that was the first. Yours sincerely.

\section*{REPLY TO MR. WILSON}

Dear Sir-Having read Mr. Wilfrid G. Wilson's letter ("Ringing World," September 23 rd), is he not being rather short-sighted"? contend he is.
Every darly newspaper, weekly journal, parish magazine or what have you will tell him that but for their advertisements they would not be able to pay their way.
It does not necessarily need a person to write an article on, for instance, "How to take down and rebuild a car" for a ringer who has a car to sell to advertise it to fellow ringers in "The Ringing World."

Much the same applies in respect of gardeners who grow bulbs, as many do in Lincolnshire, or poultry fanciers (like myself), who breed rare breeds of poultry, ringers who keep catering establishments to cater for meetings, or seaside boarding houses for holiday accommodation, motor coach proprietors to cater for ringers' outings.

Come off it, Mr. Wilson, have a look in your own church magazine and see if that is 100 per cent. about things to do is 100 per cent. about things to do with the church, as you scem to want "The Ringing World " to be about bells and ringing!

Then there is the question to ask Mr. Wilson, Where does he go to do his shopping-io the shop which shows nothing in its windows, or to the one (or the stores) which has a full display? Does the successful business man say "I won't fill my shop or store with a wide variety until the outside public come into my empty (or half-empty) shop "? No-he knows it is up to him, as it must also be to expects to draw custom," if he or that journal expects to draw custom. That is good business ethics, the other is the sure way to bankruptcy. You are no window dresser. Mr. Wilson!
Lastly. there comes your jibe of "seeing one's name in print," in what is reckoned to be a country of free speech, a thing we had stix years of war (1939-45) to preserve from the Nazis and other totalitarians. Please bear that in mind, Mr. Wilson! In a democracy it is the individual's right to criticise bureaucracy and anything appertaining to it.
If one does not sign one's name and uses a nom-de-plume it is considered wrong and cowardly by some people: so between the two. where do we stand? Must we all be as Quakers and let the likes of Wilfrid Wilson have all the say? Or is "The Ringing World" to be a sort of "closed shop," publishing only what Mr. Wilson thinks it should? - Yours sincerely.

P. AMOS.

\section*{UNIVERSITY OF BRISTOL SOCIETY VISIT NORFOLK}

THE University of Bristol Society's reunion summer tour was this year organised by David Heighton. The party met at St. Peter Mancroft, Norwich, on Sunday, August 28th, to join the local band for Evensong ringing For 13 of the party, headquarters was at the Station Hotel, Norwich, but Ivor Trueman and Frank Mack and their families and Pam and Arthur Wright camped in David's garden ac Saxlingham Nethergate.

August Bank Holiday morning was bright and sunny and three sixes were visited-Bunwell, East Harling and South Lopham. Lunch was taken at Diss, followed by ringing on "hand-picked eights" (to quote the organiser) at Diss, Palgrave and Eye. Schole Church, which was severely damaged by fire and is now rebuilt with contemporary fittings and furnishings, was the last tower of the day. It has a ring of six with a \(4 \frac{1}{2}\) cwt. tenor and a waiting room adjacent to the small ringing chamber. That evening heavy rain poured down, causing minor flooding to the campers, but they were in good spirits when seen the next morning.

Tuesday started with ringing on the eight at Marsham and the pleasant ten at Aylsham. Our first look at the sea was at Cromer, where we found a lovely six in a very tall tower and managed to ring a course of Cromer Alliance. A long lunch break was intended to let the children play on the beach, but it started to drizzle so that the promise of the timetable was not fulfilled. The rain got worse as we moved on to the new six at Holt, followed by the "rough" five at Bale, where the tenor has been rehung by boys from Gresham's School. In the large tower at Saxthorpe we found a six with a \(2 \frac{3}{4}\) cwt. tenor. At first Frank Mack was the only person confident round the front end, but the rest improved with practice.

\section*{CHILDREN'S DELIGHT}

On Wednesday we rang first at Brooke, with its round tower, a characteristic of many flint churches, and anti-clockwise six. The five at Shottesham came next. Access to the ringing chamber is gained by an outside spiral staircase, much to the delight of the children. A short journey brought use to Saxlingham Nethergate (6). Here our "tenor king" distinguished himself by failing to pull the eight cwt. tenor up "right " in peal. After ringing, David and Bridget, helped by various inDavid and Bridget, helped by various in-laws, entertained us to lunch. Following a splendid meal we were able to inspect the camp site. The eights at Pulham Market. Pulham St. Mary and Redenhall provided the afternoon ringing. At the last-named we rang a course of Norfolk Surprise Major and noticed the first of several peal boards recording that "bold and regular striking," which, it seems, was a feature of Mr. Samuel Thurstans' peals. In the evening we rang at two Norwich churches-St. Michael at Costwo Norwich churches-St. Mich and St. George's, Colegate.

Loddon was the first tower on Thursday, and then Beccles, with its fine detached tower, where ringing was curtailed through a service. The long climb at Kessingland, with its steep steps, provided a challenge for both young and not-so-young.- The long lunch break was spent at Lowestoft, but a strong wind spoiled the prospects of the swimmers. Ringing in the afternoon included the eight at Lowestoft. Pakefield and Norton Subcourse (6). In the evening we rang at St. Giles', Norwich, with its ringing chamber full of historic peal boards.

The eights at North Elmham, Gressenhall and East Dereham provided the morning ringing on Friday After lunch we rang on the sixes at Yaxham and Garveston and the eights at Hingham and Hethersett.
The five at South Walsham were the first visited on Saturday and here the Doubles experts demonstrated their prowess with a sixscore of Chace We then moved on to the six at Ranworth and admired the view from the top of the tower. Acle was the last tower before moving on to Great Yarmouth for a long lunch break and at last we had some sun.

A tour round the docks, for some of us at least, brought us to Gorleston, and then back to Yarmouth to ring on the fine 12. Here we managed Grandsire and Erin Cinques and Kent Maximus, but a touch of Stedman would not go. That evening we all dined Chinese at Norwich before retiring to the hotel, where a presentation was made to Bridget and David in thanks for their organisation and hospitality.

The company: Roy and Jane Blackler, Mary Bliss, Mike Bew, Catherine Powell, Edward and Christine Mould and baby, John Norris, Ross and Judith Robertson, Michael Sprackling. Pam Sturdy, Frank and Mary Mack and family. Ivor and Heather Trueman and family, Arthur and Pam Wright, John and Beryl Baldwin and Judith, David and Bridget Heighton and Fiona.

\section*{BY-MEETING AT MEOPHAM, KENT}

On Saturday, September 10th, a by-meeting of the Rochester District of the Kent County Association was held at St. John the Baptist Church, Meopham; some 60 members and friends attended. The ringers' service was conducted by the Rev. B. L. Birchmere, Vicar, who had been instituted to the living on the previous Wednesday. A collection of \(£_{2}^{2} 19 \mathrm{~s} .1 \mathrm{~d}\). was given to the Meopham tower fund.
Following tea, a short business meeting was presided over by Mr. F. J. Cheal, owing to the District secretary. Mr. T. Barton, being on holiday. The meeting stood in silent tribute to the memory of the late Mr. Thomas Baker (82), of Bobbing, for many years a ringer in the Sittingbourne area. The Meopham band of ringers were welcomed on joining the Association, as also were three new members from Bredgar and two from Hartlip. The meeting heard with regret news of the sudden illness of Mr. Tom G. Dennis, of Rainham. Mr. L. Mitchell, of Newington, proposed a vote of thanks to all who had helped to make the meeting a success, also to the ladies who served tea. Further ringing then continued upon the tower bells in various methods.

HERTS COUNTY ASSOCIATION
The Eastern District evening practice was held at Ware (8) on September 24th. Ringing ranged from rounds to Cambridge Major. The date of the next meeting is Saturday, October 8th, at Hertingfordbury (6).

\section*{MR. W. A. YATES' TOUR}

\(M^{\mathrm{R}}\). WILLIAM A. YATES again chose to visit the West Country for his annual tour. Accompanied by a few friends, a number of selected towers in an area renowned for the weight and magnificence of its bells were visited during the week-end of July 15th-17th.

Having spent the previous night in. Trowbridge, we were able to make an early start on Friday at Westbury, Wilts. The ringing on these heavy bells was not quite up to standard, and this was attributed by certain members of the party to the unnatural thirst which had required quenching the previous evening. This was "stoutly" denied by the members concerned. Indeed, to prove their point, some excellent ringing followed at Batcombe, although the bells were a disappointing six. The next tower, at Evercreech, proved rather an anticlimax, at least inside the belfry. Everyone agreed that the bells were not as good as those at Daventry, but perhaps we are biased.
After lunch we rang at Ditcheat. There are certainly no bells to touch these in Northamptonshire. Chewton Mendip followed. It must be very difficult to ring badly on these magnificent bells. We couldn't manage it! We were taken on an impromptu tour of some Somerset lanes on the way to the next tower, at Congresbury, by navigators who suddenly developed an earnest desire to increase our knowledge of the area. A venerable member of the party, having watched one or two people perform on the tenor at this tower, decided they were "nut cases" to do so, and told them so. Indeed, I think anyone who rings at Cheddar, our last tower of the day, although not necessarily needing to be "nut cases," must at least have strong nerves. The tower sway is quite alarming. We spent the night in Glastonbury.
The first tower on Saturday was selected especially to enable the ringers from fivebell towers to prove how good they were. The tower for this Doubles recital was at Ilchester. After yet another guided tour of Somerset, we rang at Ilminster, where there is a noble ring, Chard was visited before lunch. The tenor here was likened by one member of the party to that of a certain five-bell tower in Northamptonshire. A quick ring at Honiton (the eight) preceded a visit to annther glorious actave, at Broadclyst. We excelled ourselves by ringing a course of Glasgow in good style On the way back to Glastonbury we rang on the good light ten at Cullompton and the ring of eight at Wellington, Somerset. These latter bells would be grand for peal ringing.

Sunday morning saw us trying to ring for service at St. Cuthbert's, Wells, and Dinder. but we were too late for both services. However, Mr. Hull, of Dinder, kindly allowed us to ring his bells for half an hour. In the afternoon we were pleased to join the local ringers in ringing for the service at Wells Cathedral. The hour's ringing was much enjoyed.
Although we had some experienced photographers in the party we were unable to produce a reasonable group photograph. Consequently readers of this journal will have to forgo the dubious pleasure of seeing the smiling faces of the participants for this year. It is rumoured that a Mr. Armstrong Jones is to be invited on the next tour!

Our thanks go to Bill Yates for his excellent organisation, and to all incumbents and local;
ringers who met us.

\section*{BELFRY GOSSIP}

The first quarter peal by a local band at Great Barton, Suffolk, for many years was rung as a wedding compliment to Mr. Arthur \(W\). Rolfe.
Will Mr. Ivor Trueman, of Braishfield, Romsey, Hants, send his new address to "The Ringing World," as his copy has been returned to this office.
The first quarter peal since the erection of the new ringing gallery at St. Peter's, Benington, Herts, was rung as a golden wedding compliment to a one-time bellringer and churchwarden. Mr. G. Bird, and his wife.
Geoffrey K. Dodd was conducting two youngsters through their first peal on cight bells at Aldermaston. Selected was Plain Bob Major. Twelve-year-old Philip Taylor was on the fourth and Peter Furness (14) was on the fifth.
Foreman ringer at Littleham, Devon, for 54 years. Mr. Oliver Gatter and his wife celebrated their golden wedding last month. A complimentary quarter peal was rung on the bells of Littleham Church to mark the occasion.
Mr. C. R. Miles. of 24, Goodlake Avenue. Faringdon, Berkshire, has taken on the secretaryship of the Vale of White Horse Branch of the Oxford Guild. He says: "We are trying to revive the activities of the Branch, and are restarting meetings."

\section*{" COLLECTION OF COMPOSITIONS IN} \section*{THE POPULAR MAJOR METHODS"}

A new edition of this book, to replace the one published in 1950, has recently been issued by the Central Council. It is in some ways complementary to "A Collection of Surprise Compositions," which Mr. Cyril Wratten pub lished some time ago; thanks to good liaison between Mr. Wratten and the Peals Collection Committee, not many peals appear in both books. The Council's Collection is, however, mainly intended for those conductors who like to have between two covers a handy selection of compositions, mainly in what are nowadays regarded as "s standard" Major methods and covering the field from Plain Bob to Spliced Surprise.

The committee could not have had an easy task in making a representative selection of compositions for this purpose, while at the same time keeping the size and price of the result within reasonable bounds. Also, tastes result wit it is sometimes difncult change over the yowad how some of the to understand nowadays how some of the peals in the collections which the Council published some 60 years ago ever came to be included. The compilers explain in the preface that the intention was to keep abreast of modern tastes. They themselves are, or sadly in one case were, all distinguished composers in ons case were, represented at all Of the though one is not represented at as the others it could reasonably be said, as did J. A Trollope when taken to task for the number of his own compositions included in an earlier collection, "When 1 consider all the beautiful peals which were left out, I marvel at my own moderation."
One or two points of detail could perhaps be criticised. For instance, it is rather a shock to find the name of a present-day composer with a number of distinguished Spliced Surprise compositions to his credit against a three-part peal of Double Norwich with only one bob at 4 in each part. And the word "erasion.". used in the preface, isn't in my dictionary. But the committee deserve our thanks for producing so useful a collection of 213 compositions, well worth the 5 s . at which it is being sold.

\section*{RINGER (79) WEDS}

Seventy-nine-year-old Mr. Arthur Rolfe, of High View, Rectory Road, Whepstead. Suf folk, a ringer for over 60 years and one of the best known campanologists in West Sutthe best was married on September 24th at folk. was married on Meptember Dew (76), who lived until recently at Linnet Road. Bury St. Edmunds. The couple met on an old folk's holiday early in the summer.

A sprightly \(79, \mathrm{Mr}\). Rolfe retired as an insurance agent 20 years ago due to illhealth ' He has four daughters, and the former Mrs. Dew has two sons and two daughters, Mr. Rolfe's eldest daughter's husband. Mr. C. Burling, of Cambridge, was best man. and the bride was given away by her eldest son, Stanley.

The peal in seven Mindr methods rung for the Sussex County Association, and reported on page 596 of September 9 th issue, was rung at Thakeham and not Fittlewotrh.

Mr. Ronald H. Dove had to journey from Leeds to Ibstock, Leicestershire, for the 40th anniversary of his first peal, which was rung there on September 16th. 1926. His son. C. Barrie Dove. successfully conducted a peal of Minor in seven methods.
