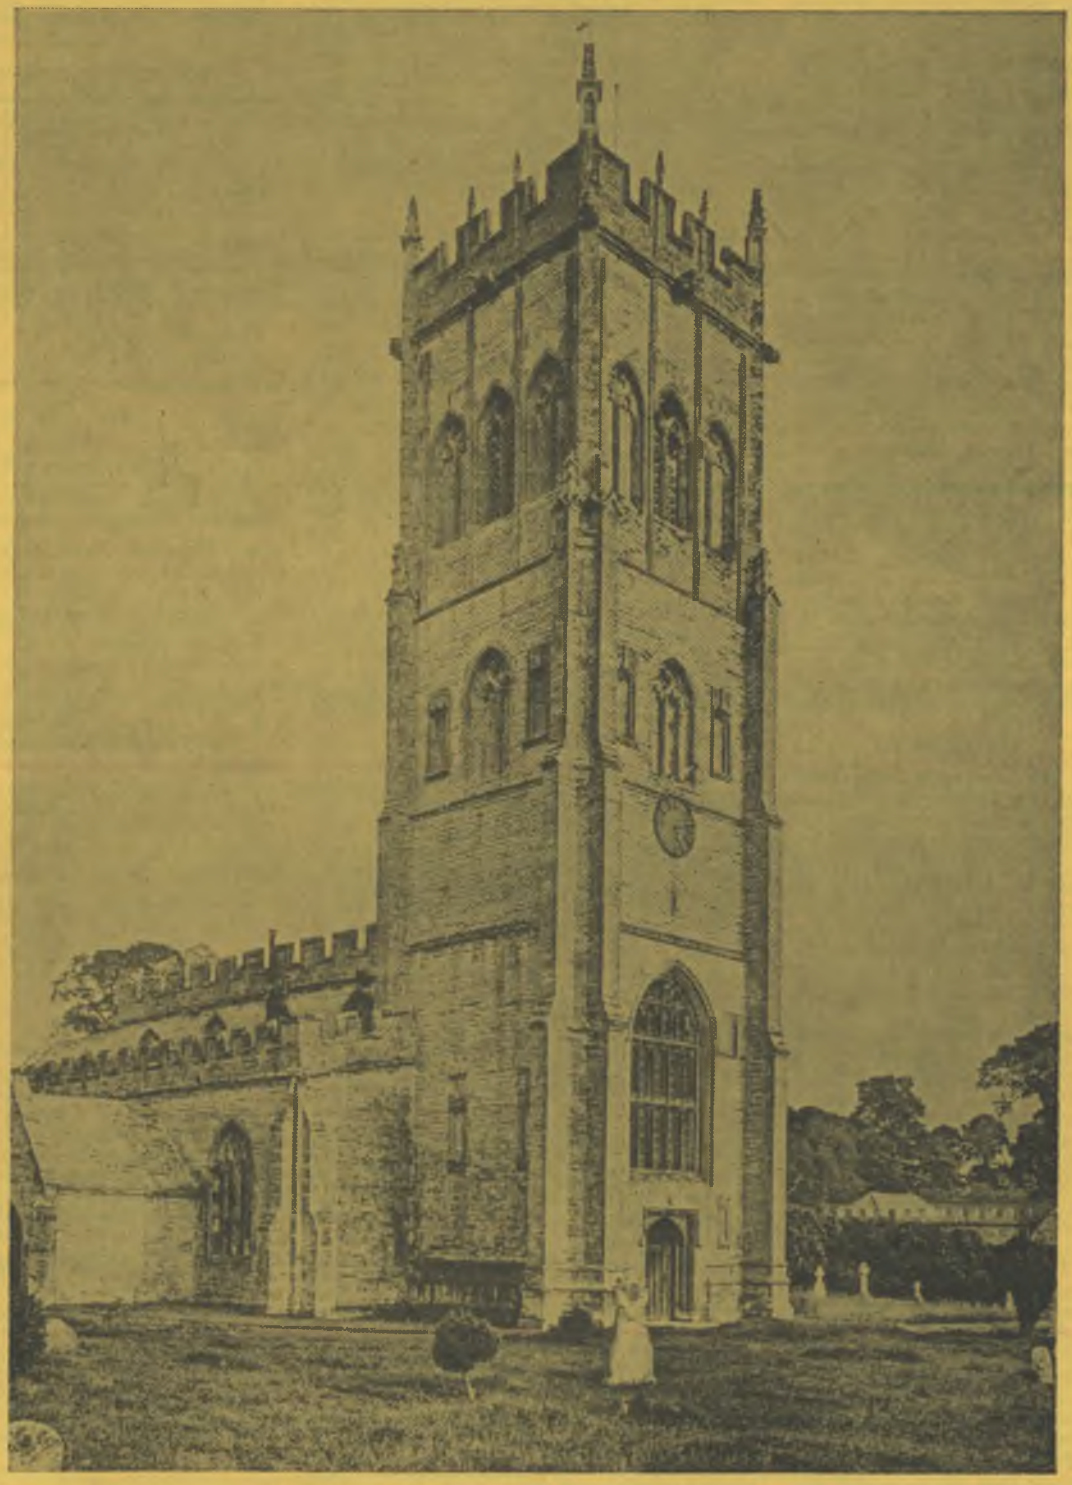
OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

No. 2947. Vol. LXIII FRIDAY, OCTOBER 13, 1967 9d.



The Church of the Holy Trinity, Long Sutton, Somerset

"Fiftieth Peal on the Bells"

IN fact, there have so far been 51 peals in Long Ashton (Somerset) tower, one on the original eight and the remainder on the bells rehung in 1902, so this article can be literally true. The total is not large by Loughborough, Birmingham or Crayford standards, but only eight Somerset towers have passed the 50 mark. Investigation of the records reveals several points of interest which show the development of ringing over the last 70 years.

In 1871 Ellacombe listed five bells in the tower, but there must have been six by 1897 when Sir J. H. Greville Smyth of Ashton Court gave three new bells (1, 2 and 7) and the original pre-Reformation 7th was hung dead as a clock bell. The first peal in the tower was in 1899 when a board in the tower records that the Bristol St. Stephen's Guild rang Stedman Triples, conducted by W. A. Cave. The tenor was then 36½ cwt. In 1902 something evidently was amiss since a new (31 cwt.) tenor bell was provided and all the bells rehung by Taylor in plain bearings in a cast iron frame. The first peal on the rehung bells followed on September 9th, 1903, when W. A. Cave called Grandsire Triples in 3 hrs. 4 mins. Eight days later the Pye touring band came and rang Stedman.

WILLIAM PYE'S WEEK

The Gloucester and Bristol peal book shows this third peal to be one of 11 in that week when William Pye rang Exeter Cathedral tenor single handed to Stedman Caters, followed later by tenors at Martock (25 cwt.) to New Cambridge and St. Nicholas, Bristol (36 cwt.) to Kent Royal. It was a good week for Stedman with two of Triples, five of Caters and two of Cinques, a marked contrast to present-day tours.

There were two more peals at Long Ashton in 1903, so the new bells must have been popular with the Bristol men, located as they are only 2½ miles from the city. The second of these peals was the first of Major on the bells (Cambridge) which W. A. Cave again conducted in 3 hrs. 16 mins. from the tenor. This is a fairly quick time for Major with a tenor greater than 30 cwt., but Cave subsequently knocked 4 mins. off this time for the quickest yet rung here. Stephen Ivin recently took one minute longer for one lead more, so the bells still run well. However, the speed of ringing Major on these bells has decreased since the war, whereas Triples times have maintained an average of 3 hrs. 6 mins. with one exception when A. H. Pulling called Stedman from the tenor in 3 hrs. 32 mins. The quickest peal of Triples came round in 5 minutes under 3 hours. The ten pre-war peals of Major averaged 3 hrs. 20 mins. whereas the fifteen since 1948 average 3 hrs. 36 minutes, which suggests that latter day tenor men are (with the exception of Stephen Ivin) less keen on exertion. The "rot" set in when the Cheshire men came on a Sunday afternoon in 1948 for the now notorious peal of Bristol which took 3 hrs. 57 mins. (the slowest yet) and rang through into Evensong. All the peals rung by that touring party were slow, but the psychological effect of their slow time seems possibly to have persisted.

There is no doubt that the bells still run well and the fact that the tenor is slow at handstroke helps to speed things along. The lateness of the seventh of backstroke has become a limiting feature and certainly Alfred Rushton had plenty of work in chasing Stephen Ivin during the fast peal of London.

STEDMAN THE FAVOURITE

The 50 peals on the present bells were equally divided between Triples and Major. Of the methods rung Stedman was clearly favourite with 17 peals, followed by Grandsire (9), Cambridge (6), London and Double Norwich (4), Bristol and Yorkshire (3) and one each of Forward, Plain Bob, Spliced Plain and Little, Whitwich and Glasgow. These last three and London being "firsts" for the Association. The solitary peal of Plain Bob deserves comment in denoting that odd bell methods were generally favoured locally, and that was rung in 1924 by the Bristol men.

Footnotes to peals denote the last one rung in England during the reign of Edward VII, a half-muffled peal for victims of the R101 disaster, a wedding peal for P. G. Yeo, and also one to celebrate his completion of 50 years' service to the tower.

Two hundred and twenty-eight people have taken part in the peals rung in the tower. The late W. A. Cave rang in 13 (cond. 7) between 1899 and 1934. Behind this total comes Herbert W. Knight with 9 (1) together with the late John Thomas and the writer, both with 9 (6). In all 17 people have rung five or more peals on the bells and 164 have rung only one. Only four people have taken part in peals before and after world war two.

As might be expected, these are "men's" bells, and the first lady to score a peal was Mrs. R. J. Wilkins. Only three others followed her before 1939. Since the war sixteen other ladies have taken part, all on the front three bells, Mrs. Elizabeth Bowden leading with 5 peals.

TOWER "UNCIRCLED"

No one has yet "circled" the tower, but local captain David Yeo has only two bells left to ring and follows on the tradition begun by his grandfather George (4 peals, 19 years as branch secretary) and father Percy (1 peal, 37 years as branch secretary) by having completed 10 years as branch secretary. There seems every prospect that in due course his son could become only the fifth Chew Branch secretary since the Association was formed in 1890! It is possibly unique to have two sons and a grandson ring their first peal for one's golden wedding, but this was George Yeo's distinction in 1949.

The Bridle family also have continuity from the first peal on the rehung bells when Henry rang the treble. His son Frank still rings and Frank's son Peter was tenor man for the record peals of up to 165 Surprise Major methods.

We now move on to the second fifty peals. It would be pleasant if the local band could eventually move from quarter peal to peal standards. At the present rate of progress the 100th peal should arrive in the year 2,010 or so which leaves plenty of time to achieve this.

I am indebted to Mr. Harry Sanger and Canon K. W. H. Felstead for information on the ringers taking part in peals and to the latter for leaving a card in the tower listing peals rung which led to the research to produce this article. J. H. GILBERT.

Our Picture

Holy Trinity, Long Sutton, Somerset

THERE was bound to be difficulty in choosing Somerset towers for "The Ringing World" frontispiece when whole books have been devoted to their classification and portrayal. The county is famous for its towers and bells, so aptly described in the leading article prior to last year's Central Council meeting, and the wealth of heavy sixes in splendid village towers is represented by our picture of Holy Trinity, Long Sutton. It stands in the south of the county between Langport and Yeovil, above the flood level of the river Ivel and overlooking one of the "moors."

This tower has been grouped with others such as Shepton Mallet, Banwell, Cheddar, Bruton and Wedmore which all possess three windows in the top storey alone—the Cheddar Valley type. Other groups with two windows in the top storey (Taunton Deane type) and a single window in the top storey which is not extended into the stage below (Bristol Channel type) were independently classified by Dr. F. J. Allen and Mr. R. P. Brereton in 1904. Our photograph comes from a collection prepared by the latter which the late Major Hesse passed to Mr. H. W. Knight, the present chairman of the Chew Branch. A fourth group in which all the tower above the nave roof is treated alike will be covered in a later article.

Long Sutton originally came under the Abbot of Athelney following King Alfred's gift of the manor in 852. The present church was built from 1493 onward in the local lias stone with golden Ham stone dressings and stands in the traditional setting on one side of the village green, with the school, the shop and the inn as neighbours. The west tower is 96½ feet high to the top of the pinnacles with set-back buttresses connected diagonally across the angles. These buttresses end in short pinnacles at the bell stage which has three two-light windows flanked by shafts rising to short pinnacles above the battlements. The main corner pinnacles are a continuation of the diagonals between the buttresses. Only the centre bell openings are pierced with Somerset tracery. Below the bell stage is one two-light window flanked by niches for statues and below this again is the large five-light west window and the small west door. Thus we have all the typical Somerset tower features with some individual touches

Originally there were five bells, the treble from the fifteenth century Exeter foundry, number two by an unknown founder in 1816 and 3, 4 and 5 by Mears and Co., 1863 (tenor 17¼ cwt.) The first peal on the five was four Doubles methods in 1937 conducted by E. T. Paul Field who still rings there every Sunday. He also gave the present treble bell in 1961 to make up the six in memory of his wife Florence. There was only one other peal on the five—Reverse Canterbury Pleasure Doubles in 1960. Since augmentation six peals have been rung, all Minor.

No doubt more will follow as the Vicar, the Rev. C. J. B. Marshall, is an accomplished ringer with five peals on his own bells and a number elsewhere, including participation in the first "resident" peal of Cambridge Royal for the Bath and Wells Association. He learnt to ring in his father's parish at Farmborough, Somerset, and progressed under the guidance of Ron Beck at Chilcompton, and whilst curate at Leatherhead. Currently Mr. Marshall is chairman of the Ilchester Branch of the Association and rings for services with his local band under their captain, Mr. A. J. Lewis.

Here then we have a typical village tower with its local band, proud of their bells and regular in attendance twice each Sunday. They do not all ring "scientific" changes (yet), but the bells regularly sing out the call to worship over the quiet fields of Somerset—"Come to Church, Good People, Good People, come and pray."

BROADHEMPSTON, DEVON, RE-OPENING

Fourteen bands of ringers were at Broadhempston, near Totnes, on September 23rd, for the re-opening of the ring of six after rehanging by Messrs. Taylors. The bells, a five by Pennington, with a treble a semitone sharp by Llewellyn and James, had needed new headstocks, bearings and pulleys and were sheer hard work to ring. They are now in first-rate order, as the marking of the leaders in competition shows: Plymstock 16, West Alvington 22, Widecombe 24, Kenn 27.

A feature of the competition was the entry of a band entitled "Loughborough," including Arthur Fidler, who rehung the bells, and his father, Mr. J. P. Fidler, and the preacher at the re-opening service, the Rev. John Scott. They came—well, somebody had to be last, didn't they? Since the need for rehanging was recognised less than a year ago the parish, and in particular the ringers, have raised all the money needed for the work, and with the proceeds of the re-opening there may be enough over for a set of new ropes as well.

"A CEREMONY OF BELLS"

This programme, given to the Devonshire Association in June, is to be presented for the general public at the Beaford Centre, near Torrington, on Wednesday, October 25th, at 7.30 p.m. The programme, for which a good deal of new material has been collected during the past few months, consists of colour and black-and-white slides, recordings and a commentary on bells and ringing in North Devon. Tickets are 3s 6d., obtainable from: The Box Office, The Beaford Centre, Winkleigh, Devon. Accommodation is limited, so advanced booking is advised.

WEARE, SOMERSET.—On Sept. 24th, 1,260 Doubles (three methods): G. Hooper 1, Susan Stott 2, A. Peters 3, H. Hooper (cond.) 4, J. Phillips 5, J. Radford 6. For Harvest Festival.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

Witney and Woodstock Branch

On September 23rd the Branch held its annual striking contest at Lechlade, choosing another Guild's territory and a neutral tower for the event. The judge was Mr. Derek Carr, of Swindon, whose services were much appreciated.

Five towers sent teams and for an hour the bells were put to good use by the contestants in order to become acquainted with the glorious ring of six. The captains then drew for positions and the judge settled himself in his car. The test pieces over, a break for tea was taken with much speculation as to who the winners would be, as the ringing had been of a high standard.

The results were as follows: 1 Eynsham (240 Grandsire Doubles) 59 faults; 2 Witney (240 Plain Bob Doubles) 60; 3 Hanborough (240 Grandsire Doubles) 75; 4 Woodstock (call changes) 94½; 5 Northleigh (240 Plain Bob Doubles) 112. The ringers of the winning team were: D. Lloyd 1, B. Coggins 2, Mrs. P. Pimm 3, A. E. Hicks 4, C. Bennett (conductor) 5, A. Harris 6.

Having given the results, the judge went on to say how each team could improve on their performances. These tips are now being carefully considered and so next year's competition should be even more exciting.

Builders of the Bath and Wells Association

IN the report of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association presented at the annual meeting this year there is a valuable article giving a retrospect of the last 75 years, the Association having been founded on May 31st, 1890, at a general meeting at Highbridge "of all those interested in change ringing and belfry reform in the Diocese." An inaugural festival followed at Taunton in July and by the end of the year there was a ringing membership of 159 representing 19 towers.

The early history was not all plain sailing. In 1893, to quote the annual report, "The Association did little good to justify its existence." A new secretary, Mr. H. W. Tomkins, of Old Cleeve, was elected in 1894 and progress was rapid for a few years. Membership climbed to a peak of 380, but when Master and secretary resigned in 1901 it was not easy to find replacements. The Association ran into some difficulties until Mr. A. E. Coles, of Bridgwater, became secretary, and the paid-up membership, which had fallen below 200, increased fourfold in a few years.

LONG PARTNERSHIPS

In 1906 the Rev. Claud Parker, Rector of Corston, and Edgar Burgess, of Taunton, took office as Master and secretary respectively and the Association prospered for the next 19 years under their leadership, membership reaching 1 285. In 1925 the Rev. Ernest Lock, Vicar of West Pennard, and Joseph Dyke, of Chilcompton, took over the reins of office for another long partnership, broken by the death of Mr. Lock in 1935. Mr. Dyke continued as secretary for 28 years until 1953, by which time the Association had more than recovered from the Second World War, and its ringing membership had risen to a record of over 1,500.

That Edgar Burgess and Joe Dyke could each carry the heavy burden of the secretaryship for so long is a tribute to their stamina and sense of duty, and the flourishing state of the Association is a measure of their success. Even longer periods of office are to be found among that hard-working fraternity, the Branch secretaries, for example:—

George Stacey (Dunster) 1903–53.
David Taylor (Crewkerne) 1903–42.
Frederick Farrant (Ilchester) 1915–55.
Percy Yeo (Chew) 1922–57.
William Marsh (Glaston) 1937–62.
Percy Mason (Taunton) 1910–37.

Mention should also be made of the unique record of service of the Yeo family to the Chew Branch, where father, son and grandson have successively held office since 1902.

FROM SAME VILLAGE

A study of the peal book reveals two names which, for sheer quantity and quality of peals, stand out clearly—Joseph Dyke and Ronald Beck. It is no coincidence that the only two men who have rung over 300 peals for the Association should have lived in the same village.

Space permits the mention of only a few others who in different ways have made the Association what it is today. James Hunt, of Taunton, was for many years adviser on the care of church bells, a Central Council representative and a tower of strength to the Taunton Branch; Henry Brown and William Prescott, of Bath; Joseph Maddock and Alfred Wyatt of Taunton; John Hesse, of Wrington; Edward Avery, of Churchill; George Yeo, of Long Ashton, have all added lustre to the Association's name.

200 Years After at Debenham

By Dr. Stuart G. C. Harrison

During the political quietness of the middle of the 18th century there was a great development of the art of change ringing. Advances in techniques of bell founding and engineering tempted church authorities to restore and augment their bells or have new rings installed. With many new bells there was a lot of enthusiasm and the improvements in bellhanging made the ringing of long lengths feasible. Thus in Clavis "Campanologia" (1788) we find many compositions for peals of 5,000 and more changes and for peals of Plain Bob Major of 10,080 and 15,120 changes

In 1761 Lester and Pack finished work on a fine octave at Debenham, Suffolk. A local company was formed, most probably under the leadership of James Wilson. The first peal on the new bells was 5,040 Plain Bob Major, conducted by James Wilson. On March 16th, 1767, a peal of 10,080 Plain Bob Major was rung by a company drawn from the surrounding district. In the belfry there is a peal board recording this achievement.

SUSPECTED OF MURDER

When the local residents of Debenham look at this peal board they will still relate stories about James Wilson to their visitor. He is reputed to have committed a murder at Bury St. Edmunds during the night before the long peal. He was known to have been in Debenham early on the morning of the peal and at his trial the jury thought it was impossible for him to have been at Bury at the time of the murder. He is said to have ridden the 20 miles between the two towns immediately after the murder and then slept at Debenham before the peal. Unfortunately all the records of the Clerk of the Assize of the old Norfolk Circuit of the time of the trial have perished so that we no longer have access to the details of this trial. However, from the poem and the legend we can surmise that James Wilson has been one of the most colourful characters seen in ringing.

Early in 1967 it was decided that if permission could be obtained another 10,080 Plain Bob Major should be attempted to celebrate the bicentenary. March 16th, 1967, was a Thursday in Lent and so the attempt was arranged for September 16th. Eight resident members of the Suffolk Guild were welcomed by the Rector, the Rev. P. Strickland, and at 2 p.m. the bells went into changes. After a steady start the bells soon settled down and when the tenors parted after two hours' ringing the famous "Debenham roll" was well established. The halfway single came up after 3 hours and 1 minute and a good peal was eventually brought round in 6 hours and 4 minutes.

There were many friends and wellwishers outside the tower afterwards. During the afternoon there was a tremendous amount of interest taken in the ringing by ringers and the townsfolk. The band are very grateful to the Rector for his permission to attempt this peal and to the parishioners for their interest and good wishes.

A West Wales Peal Tour

THE tour got off to a flying start, with two good peals at the beginning of the first week. Simon Rogers rang very well for his first "inside" at Burry Port, during which mysterious rumblings and noises created a rather disturbing diversion.

Compared with these bells, those at Llandeilo went like clockwork, although the tendency was to ring them a little too fast. Here I must convey our thanks to Mr. William Sage, who rang his first peal of Minor for us, and to Mr. Scudamore, the local Ringing Master. Whilst we can recommend the bells at Llandeilo, we are certainly less enthusiastic about the local hostelry. The poor tenor man was virtually bankrupt, after having to pay 8s. 4d. for two pint shandies and two lemonades!

TWO FAILURES

The band, by this time completely exhausted, then had a short rest of approximately five days before attempting the next peal, one of Minor at Cardigan. This was attempted fully muffled, due to the hospital next door. After the first extent one of the muffs on the tenor disintegrated and the attempt was abandoned as lack of time did not permit a fresh start.

The intrepid organiser, the Rev. M. S. Hart, then raced to collect our principal conductor and myself from Penybont in order to start the next peal on time, at Llanbadarn Fawr. To no avail. We were doomed from the start. We found the bells extremely difficult to strike and at length abandoned the attempt in favour of a somewhat more refreshing pastime nearby.

The two failures on the Saturday somewhat reduced morale and what was needed was a good peal, a peal to be proud of. Just this tonic was provided on the following Monday—what we believe to be the first on the bells since 1927 at Haverfordwest. Admittedly it was only Plain Bob Triples, but on bells which are regarded by the locals as almost unringable we deemed it prudent to ring a fairly easy peal.

One small point of amusement was raised at the end, when a certain young curate, now at Putney, when accused of attempting to "cross over" with someone, replied that he was thinking of roses. Rose's what, we shall never know.

FILMED BY TOURISTS

The next day proved very rewarding, starting off in grand fashion with a peal of Little Bob Major at St. David's Cathedral. Here we were watched by groups of tourists throughout the whole length of the peal; at one point a lady even took a film of the proceedings, while money was continuously being placed in the offertory box conveniently placed in the doorway.

Then in the afternoon we journeyed to St. Florence, where a tidy peal of Cambridge Surprise Minor was rung. It is interesting to note here that the last three peals on the bells have all been within one minute of each other.

Wednesday dawned a little less brightly than the preceding days, and so did we. Going to bed at two o'clock in the morning is no preparation for a couple of peals the same day. It is no joke, by the way, staggering along a nettle- and bramble-infested pathway, half naked, with only a flashing lighthouse nearby to illuminate the way, and then having to struggle into tiny, damp tents, especially when the boss looks as if he is sleeping in King Solomon's Temple, right next to your own humble abode.

CONTINUOUS BATTLE

However, we did manage to stay awake long enough to ring two peals the same day: the first, of Grandsire Triples, at Carmarthen, where it was a continuous battle against the new and rather long ropes, and also the bearings. Why people insist on plastering plain bearings with thick grease is beyond me. You might just as well fill them with tar for the good it does.

CHELTENHAM RINGING COURSE.—Apart from lecturing, Mr. F. Sharpe was busy with his camera during the ringing course at St. Anne's Diocesan House, Cheltenham. (For story see last week's issue.) Cyril Wratten, one of the organisers, is seen standing on the ladder in Charlton Kings belfry.

The second peal was one of Kent Treble Bob Major at Llanstephan (a rather pleasant eight). Here I must apologise for the time. The ringing did not seem slow, apart from one or two handstroke leads, but it certainly turned out to be. Still, it was well struck, which is more important.

Thursday arrived—an even wetter day than the previous one. Tenby was our destination, and after a short shopping spree and a tin of elastoplast, we commenced the peal, this time of Oxford Treble Bob Major. The tuneful ring of eight went well to this and, thanks to the tenor man, we went a little faster than we did the previous day; we certainly could not go any slower!

We had left Friday free to enjoy ourselves and the weather. Naturally it had to rain, but we still managed to enjoy ourselves. There was plenty of shopping to do, and in the evening we rang at St. David's practice. Our driver will never know why his hub cover and trimmer suddenly shot off and went flying across to the other side of the road on the way there—at least we'll never tell him.

So to the last day. We were all up not very bright, but early. The car was loaded and we bade farewell to our host, Richard Warburton, and to our non-ringing friends from Birmingham. We then made a detour to Pembroke, where we first failed to get a peal of Oxford Bob Triples but then went on to ring one of St. Simon's Triples to complete the tour.

May I express thanks to all those who took part, particularly the Boss, the Rev. M. S. Hart, and our conductor-in-chief, M. C. W. Sherwood, to all our friends in the St. David's Guild, to the incumbents, to Richard Warburton, our host, and to Philip Rogers. P. D. S.

ROMFORD, ESSEX.—On Sept. 17th, 1,260 Plain Bob Minor: Mrs. M. Poolman 1, Miss A. Pullan 2, Miss A. Rowland 3, C. Temperton 4, D. Heath 5, W. Poolman (cond.) 6, G. Beadle (cover) 7. First "inside" 2 and 4. For Evensong, and as a birthday compliment to H. Perry.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD

Marlborough Branch

The September meeting of the Marlborough Branch was held at Mildenhall on the 16th and was well attended. In addition to Branch members there were a number of visitors, including Mr. W. A. Farmer, of Cheltenham, a former Branch member, Mr. W. B. Kynaston, and Mr. and Mrs. Peter Minchin, of Swindon. A warm welcome was extended to all by the chairman (Mr. G. Newman) and he also expressed the company's best wishes to Mr. M. Stracey, who is being posted abroad with the R.A.F.

Good use was made of the light and tuneful six in methods ranging from Cambridge to Grandsire, and rounds and call changes for beginners. The bells were restored and rehung not many years ago and are in excellent order, and it is a matter for much regret that there is no local band.

The Guild service was conducted by the Rector (the Rev E. G. Courtman) with Mr. Alan Keen as organist, and was followed by tea in the Parish Room, prepared and served by local ladies. At the business meeting Mr. T. A. Palmer, hon. secretary, presented the quarterly business. W. A. E.

THE LADIES' GUILD

Wittersham was chosen for our September meeting jointly with the Ashford Branch of the Kent County Association.

Six new members were elected and Miss Todd has taken the place of Mrs. Mitchell, who was vice-president. We would like to thank the Ashford District and Mr. Alan Berry for having us and making the meeting so enjoyable. We also thank Mrs. Mitchell for her long service to the Guild (55 years) and hope that she will be happy in her new home. Special thanks are sent to Mrs. Dobbie, who has been our secretary for ten years, and we hope that she will join us in our meetings whenever possible. M. C.

Letters to the Editor

PUBLIC RELATIONS

Dear Sir,—May I suggest the publication of a leaflet which may be distributed to the general public, i.e. through the letter box.

This leaflet should be well but simply written by an authority, explaining why the bells ring on Sunday and probably one evening in the week. Also it could give a simple explanation of how a bell is hung and rung, pointing out dangers which exist.

I believe there is a universal need for better relationships with the general public, and their ignorance of ringing could be enlightened by such a publication.

The Central Council has done little to improve relationships and to my knowledge not one simple writing for the information of the general public has been published.

The leaflet could be distributed by the local ringers to every house in their parish and could even include the times of ringing on Sunday and weeknight practice.

It may be said this information can be had from the Parish Church magazine. Even so, very few people read this and the little information contained therein is lost among other scribes'.—Yours sincerely,

GEORGE F. ROOME.

Northampton.

IMPORTANCE OF P.C.C.

Dear Sir,—I wonder if the heading "Unringable Incumbents" ("Ringing World," September 22nd) should not also be "Apathetic Congregations."

The answer could very well lie with the ringers themselves. The P.C.C. can bring a lot of pressure to bear on the incumbent. The P.C.C. is supposed to represent the people of the parish—does it? My experience at annual church meetings is that they are another P.C.C. meeting with perhaps one or two spectators, and the new P.C.C. is elected by the old, often remaining the same.

Why not try campaigning before the meeting so that there is a good turnout of people who are interested in allowing the bells to ring and who are willing to stand for the P.C.C. and to attend the meetings regularly?

I am not saying that the view of the P.C.C. could be changed in one year but by perseverance the desired result is almost certain. —Yours truly,

JOHN V. MULLER.

Ash, Sevenoaks.

RINGING AND THE NEW DIOCESES

Dear Sir,—The report of the Archbishop's Commission on Diocesan Boundaries in South Eastern England will give the Church a dynamic opportunity to reorganise itself if the Archbishop accepts and implements it.

It also gives the ringers of London and the Home Counties a unique opportunity to rationalise their organisations to match the new dioceses and thus join in the advance. Given good will and determination this can be done. It will be sad to see some famous names disappear from the current records of ringing societies. But if their place is in history then they must join history, and those who have served them so well must devote their energies to the new Societies for the new times. That way ringing and the Church will prosper. — Yours sincerely,

WILLIAM PARROTT.

Epsom.

CATHEDRAL SERVICE CRITICISED

Dear Sir,—As I have now recovered from being refrigerated at the Durham and Newcastle Association's 90th anniversary service, I feel that I must make a few comments.

In the course of his sermon, Canon Thurlow spoke about "being invited to share in the service." Perhaps he did share, but he must have been one of the few who did. The choir sang all parts of the service to settings unknown to anyone but themselves and although their esses and tees were extremely audible the only other words to be picked out in a very dull anthem were "We shall," and I did once think I heard a "Mercy," but certainly none was given.

About 100 ringers attended the service but no one could be blamed if he decided that this was to be the last. The next stage for a service of this type is to revert completely to Latin and then the uneducated like myself would not have to try to pick out the odd word let alone participate.

Another snatch from the Canon's sermon mentioned "thanksgiving for the 90 years of the Association"; this was no thanksgiving, it was a penance.—Yours sincerely,

JAMES A. BURTON.

Hartlepool.

Note.—The setting to the Canticles was unknown except to the choir but there were parts of the service of close interest to ringers such as the ringers' hymn, the prayers for ringers, the address and the handbell ringing of a course of Bob Major, which must be a rarity in a Cathedral service. These gave to many of the congregation a feeling of thanksgiving.—Ed.

VISITORS AND STEEPLEAGE

Dear Sir,—The ringing meeting at Highgate and Holloway, which Mrs. Holloway had to pay sixpence to attend, was held by the London County Association. As she surmises, this Association has no annual subscription and has to rely partly on this "steepleage" to meet its expenses.

I am glad that this matter has been brought to light as I, for one, am not in sympathy with the way in which we charge our visitors, as well as our own members, sixpence; and I know that a number of visitors that day felt indignant, rightly or wrongly, about having to pay to ring (or perhaps about the way in which they were asked to do so).

Whatever my own feelings may be, though, I can see that there is a valid case for asking a small contribution from all ringers attending —and presumably enjoying or deriving benefit from—a particular meeting, whether or not they belong to the Association which has arranged it. I might add that I have never been charged anything to attend a ringing meeting held by any Association other than the London County, but then I know of no other Association which has no annual subscription.

One further thought: Sixpence seems to me to be a trifling amount when compared with the sums of up to 10s. which I have had to pay to take part in peals, rung "for" Associations other than my own, and in which I cannot be expected to have, necessarily, any interest.—Yours faithfully,

CHRISTOPHER DALTON.

St. Margaret's, Middlesex.

VISITORS AND ATTENDANCE FEES

Dear Sir,—I, too, was present at the recent London County Association meeting at St. Anne's, Highgate, and I fully endorse Mrs. Lawrence's views ("Ringing World," September 28th) on the subject of the sixpence attendance fee—I doubt whether it is truly a "belfry fee." One never minds placing a donation in a tower's own belfry fund box, or paying a prescribed rope fee or booking fee for peals, but if (and I may be incorrect in this assumption) the sixpences under discussion here are going into the Association's general funds, I agree that it is unreasonable to levy the fee indiscriminately on members and non-members alike. On this particular occasion it happened to be worth it for the entertainment which was provided each time the fourth rope slipped wheel, but this is irrelevant!

With regard to the suggestion that the fee might be to discourage non-members from attending, I must say that when I asked the young lady who was collecting the sixpences what would happen if I declined to pay, the answer was more or less to the effect that no one was asking me to stay. I do not think, however, that the Association in question would wish to dissociate itself from what I feel sure is the general view—that our meetings would be the poorer without visitors, from two aspects—the standard of ringing which can be achieved, and the preservation of the spirit of comradeship which is such a future of our Exercise.

I would hasten to add that no criticism which I may have implied reflects in any way upon the Master, Harold Rogers, who always extends a sincere and friendly welcome to everyone in his own inimitable way!—Yours faithfully,

DAVID E. ROTHERA.

Hendon, N.W.

Dear Sir,—I was interested to read of Mrs. Anna Lawrence's comments on her visit to the meeting of a certain Association at Highgate and I note if she wonders if the purpose of the charge in question is to discourage visitors from attending. My own recent experience at a meeting of the same Association in a North London tower serves to support this theory as when I pointed out that I was not a member upon being brusquely asked for my sixpence, a "gentleman" asked me why I was there if I wasn't a member! I am only thankful that having rung in all the towers "controlled" by the Association it will not be necessary for me to expose myself to such an unwelcoming attitude again.—Yours faithfully,

GILLIAN A LEALE.

HEART-WARMING EXPERIENCE

Dear Sir,—While on holiday recently I called at a tower on the offchance to see if there was any ringing for Sunday evening service. I discovered that a quarter peal had been arranged. Without hesitation one lady ringer insisted on my taking her place and, furthermore, the conductor changed the previously arranged method to a simple one that I could ring.

I have always received a warm welcome to all the towers I have visited, but I think this is the most heart-warming experience I have had in my ringing travels and one which I shall never forget.

Aren't ringers wonderful people? — Yours sincerely,

ANN BUTCHER

LETTERS—Continued

ST. DUNSTAN-IN-THE-WEST

Dear Sir,—I have read with interest the letters on the above tower, but reading Mr. E. G. Garrard's letter I was interested in the final paragraph, alluding to St Dunstan-in-the-East, the bells, the fish festival, etc.

I rang on a number of occasions at the fish festival on the old bells and it was of great interest to see the porters in their smocks and working clothes, really a piece of old London. This festival was taken by the porters, etc., as a really great occasion and they turned up in force and made it a real Harvest Festival of the Sea.

After the war years and the bombing of the church, leaving not much more than the tower intact, I remember that Thomas H. Taffender was instrumental in getting the bells replaced.

At that time it was expected that the church (which was the parent church of St. Dunstan's School, Catford) would be rebuilt and as a result the tower would be stabilised. For some unknown reason the church has not been rebuilt and as a result the bells now hung ready for ringing are no longer heard.

I was present at the take-over from Messrs. Taylor and helped to pull up the bells, and from memory they were a very good-sounding ring.

I remember Tom Wyatt (an old ringer from Lambeth) as being after a period in charge of the gardens but the tower remained in the main silent.

I believe that there have been a few meetings at the tower since the new ring was hung but I cannot remember a peal being rung on the new Taylor eight.

It is a pity that such a good ring of bells is silent, but obviously the architects feel that to ring these bells would be of danger to what I believe is a "Wren" tower.

Through the war and lack of finance in other instances there are a number of rings in London which are now silent. I feel sure that ringers could be found if existing rings were replaced or renovated, and that if this were put into being London would rejoice in what is one of the oldest musical sounds attributed to our capital City.—Yours sincerely,

FRANK R. L. BLEWER.

Camberwell, S.E.

PIGEON MENACE

Dear Sir,—It has been suggested that I should inquire through your columns to discover whether any of our towerkeeper readers can give any advice on the control of pigeons on bell towers.

There have been pigeons nesting under the louvres of the tower in my care for many years now, but they have only been a nuisance from time to time by causing feathers, straw and dust to drop into the bell chamber.

However, their numbers have increased considerably of late, also their droppings, which, mixed with pine needles from some nearby trees (which are no real nuisance on their own), are making an extremely effective adhesive, which is continually gumming up the gutters of the tower roof, and has twice within the past six months caused a blockage and consequent damage to the inside of the tower and furnishings of the ringing chamber in spite of my cleaning the gutters several times a year.

Is there any known effective remedy short of killing off these birds? I feel that the latter remedy would not be appreciated by my colleagues on the P.C.C., let alone its chairman.—Yours sincerely,

DAVID M. HUGHES.

Lead Heads and Lead Ends

Dear Sir,—While fully appreciating the argument presented by Mr. A. York-Bramble ("R.W." page 637) on "lead heads" and "lead ends," I believe he is wrong in attributing "the confusion that can arise" merely to the imprecise use of these terms.

Surely he is aware that there has been a change in the definition of the term "lead end" The traditional usage (i.e., for treble's backstroke lead) was carefully defined by Mr. Jasper Snowdon in his book "Ropesight" thus:

"The set of changes after treble leaves the lead and until she again strikes her last blow there is called a 'treble lead'..."

I regard this not as formulating a new rule but rather as a precise statement of what was understood and accepted by the majority of ringers of his day. It is evident that the term "treble lead" originated from the landmarks provided by the treble striking her two blows at the lead, and did not refer to the path of the treble (which has its own name —"hunt"); thus the "lead end" was invariably at treble's backstroke lead. As far as I can ascertain, the question of symmetry within the division so formed did not enter into it.

The Central Council Handbook (1956), which is quoted in Mr. York-Bramble's article, defined the terms "lead head" and "lead end," if I read it correctly, only by implication while defining other terms, but in doing so the traditional lead end as defined by Snowdon became the "lead head" and "lead end" was used for treble's handstroke lead (single hunt methods). At the same time the Handbook acknowledges the traditional usage in the words on page 24. "This means that all methods must have what are known as 'Plain Bob lead-ends,' for single hunt methods..."

That this usage still persists in spite of the Central Council ruling is amply displayed by the number of Central Council (and other) publications, by leading authors, which contain it in this sense. I list some of these:

Beginners' Handbook—several places.

Change Ringing on Handbells—Woolley—definition on page 13, page 52, 53, etc.

On Conducting—Wilfrid G. Wilson—throughout.

Collection of Minor Methods (4th edition), 1961—page 130.

Collection of Doubles Methods (2nd edition), 1961—page 44.

The Lancashire Association's Instructions and Diagrams for Beginners (1963)—page 7 (although it also uses "lead head" later on page 102).

I believe confusion arises not through the use of "lead head" for the backstroke row, but from the use of "lead end" for the handstroke row, when this latter term has for such a long time been used for the backstroke row, and with such great significance in the pricking out of compositions, and I further believe that such usage is so deeply ingrained that no amount of legislation or theorising can eradicate it. One might even draw a parallel by saying that not even an act of Parliament could persuade the general public to refer to the vegetable we all know as a "carrot" by the name "potato." A few civil servants may comply but that is all.

Obviously with the development of method construction, names have to be found for the various key rows within a group of changes, but let us not take terms which already have a long standing significance and apply them to something different.

I would like to propose that, for purposes of method construction, the basic group is referred to as a "division," not a "lead"; that the use of the terms "lead head" and "lead end" be discontinued when dealing with method construction; that new terms be found, such as possibly "initial row" and "terminal row"; that it be agreed that "lead head" and "lead end" are synonymous and refer only to the treble's backstroke lead, whether the method be single or twin hunt.

This latter clause is, I believe, nearer to the present concensus of opinion, and is furthermore consistent with the practical aspect of ringing the changes on the bells. The punctuating effect of open leads is such as to give emphasis to the backstroke, which has an air of finality about it. Also in starting from rounds into, say, London Surprise Minor, 36x36, 14x12x36, 14x14, 36 the first operation is by places 36, not by places 12, these being the last of the series of places, and are made by the treble leading a whole pull and another bell (the 4th) making 2nd place to bring up 142635 at backstroke, so that this row can quite logically be called the "lead end," consistent with Snowdon's definition, and 12 the "lead end" places.

I do not expect the adherents to the Central Council Handbook to agree with me, but would not a compromise on the lines suggested be sound common sense and be the best way of avoiding confusion in future?—Yours faithfully,

A. G. FROGGATT.

Lincoln.

NOTE—Mr. Froggatt may well be right in suggesting that the older use of "lead end" for the treble's backstroke row is so deeply ingrained that no amount of legislation or theorising can eradicate it. But by the same token can he expect that the Exercise will adopt his own suggestion to use "division" instead of "lead"? And surely the terms "initial row" and "terminal row" will lead to exactly the same difficulties as "lead head" and "lead end."

We ourselves believe that the difficulty is largely a manufactured one like the right handed and left handed bell handling argument. And the best word on that one came from Mrs. King who (if memory serves) suggested that no man worried whether his shirt was ironed with the left hand or the right hand!

If you are dealing with the advanced aspects of change ringing, when it is necessary to differentiate, you will know exactly which row is intended, whatever it is called. But if you are one of the other 95 per cent of ringers, you will prefer the old way, which is still understood and accepted by the majority of ringers and to them seems logical.

A circle has no end and no beginning and any set of changes from rounds to rounds is cyclical. Mr Froggatt could well have quoted from the latest book on the subject (Change Ringing, page 27) which expresses these views and differentiates only when it is necessary.

OBITUARIES

MR. ARTHUR P. KNIGHTS

After going to press last week we received the following additional particulars of the late Arthur Percival Knights from his grandson, Mr. B. Hill, of Sheffield.

Mr. Knights was born at Brunswick Road, Chesterfield, on May 26th, 1892, and started work as an apprentice turner at Markhams of Chesterfield. He went to Sheffield in 1914, but in his younger days worked in different places, spending the summer of 1923 working at the Dublin Gas Works with the late Joseph Sykes. While there he rang several peals at St. Patrick's Cathedral.

Mr. Knights' first peal was on Christmas Eve, 1920, at Chesterfield Parish Church. In this peal, of Kent Treble Bob Major, were his father, Arthur Knights, who composed and conducted the peal, and his brother-in-law, George A. Thompson. It was 20 months later before he conducted his first peal at Dore Church. It was a composition of Bob Major by his father. A month later he conducted his first peal of his own composition—Bob Major—at St. Paul's, Eckington.

So far as can be ascertained he rang in at least 225 peals but there are gaps of several years when no peals were recorded. Very few of the peals recorded are on less than eight bells, and many were Royal and Maximus. Many interesting notes appear in his peal book such as 100th peal with his father and the first peal of Royal to be rung by five fathers and five sons. He conducted this latter peal—one of Kent T.B. Royal—at Loughborough, but the composition was by his father.

His last recorded peal was one of Kent T.B. Minor rung at Holy Trinity, Wentworth, in June, 1960, and conducted by Barry Noland, of Sheffield. This peal meant that he had rung Kent from Minor to Maximus. There was a great variety in his peals and a number were in Surprise methods.

MR. WILLIAM T. BENTON

With the passing of Mr. William T. Benton on September 25th, at the age of 72 years, St. Luke's, Cannock, lost its last link with the Benton family, which had been connected with this church for the past 85 years.

"Bill," like his father "Tom," was a life-long ringer at Cannock, his father giving 68 years' service and Bill 55 years' both as ringer and tower captain. He started ringing at the age of 12 years under the guidance of his father and was made a member of the Archdeaconry of Stafford Society in 1913, qualifying for honorary membership in 1963.

He was a staunch Sunday service ringer until 1963, when, due to ill-health, he had to retire, although he maintained his interest in ringing to the end.

During the 16 years that I knew him I owe a lot to him for the help and guidance he gave me in mastering the conducting of Grandsire Triples, which was his favourite method. As present tower captain at St. Luke's, Cannock, I trust that I can render a service comparable with the examples set by "Bill" and "Tom" Benton. P. J. B.

OLD CHESTERFIELD RINGERS

I came to Chesterfield in 1931 and joined the band of ringers at the Parish Church. Arthur Knights was the "skipper," as we always spoke of him. George Hollis was a very good ringer and a very jovial character. He was very fond of a pinch of snuff whilst ringing. It was quite an art to get the tin out of his waistcoat pocket, take a good sniff and get it back again. He usually mixed his bobs and singles with a good sneeze.

Frank Jacobs was another good ringer—trousers creased and not a hair out of place. Before he handled a rope he put on a pair of washleather gloves; he did not work down the pits and the rope would soil his hands. Bill Palmer was an active member and later joined the Staveley band and was steeplekeeper. Walter Allwood was a great ringer and had a wealth of knowledge to give keen ringers but had not much room for half-hearted ringers.

LAST PEAL

The last time we rang on the old ring of ten was for the marriage of the Princess Royal and Lord Lascelles. We rang Grandsire Caters in the afternoon and went for a peal of Bob Major at night, which we did not get. The tower and spire were declared unsafe, and that was the finish for the band. Some seemed to take no more interest in ringing. Some of the ringers did not give up but gave their services in the district.

Arthur and Percy Knights put more life into peal ringing; to see the "Skipper" calling one of his compositions with his head on one side, listening to the qualities coming up, is a memory one will never forget.

GRATITUDE

Walter Allwood took a great interest in the district and was always willing to help out in any tower. The next generation of ringers looked after him in his declining years. He liked to go to meetings. I remember coming home from a meeting with him; he was feeling in his pockets. While he had been ringing, coins somehow slipped into his pocket or something to keep his old pipe going. Tears came into his eyes and he asked me why God and ringers were so good to him. I knew the answer. He was a very great ringer and did a lot of good. Like the Knights, Walter will be remembered with great Chesterfield ringers.

F. A. ADAMS.

AN AFTERNOON IN BUCKINGHAMSHIRE

On September 16th a party of ringers and friends from Bromham and Goldington, near Bedford, enjoyed a very pleasant afternoon in the neighbouring county of Buckinghamshire. Ringing took place at Aston Clinton, Hughenden (shades of Disraeli!), Fulmer and Stoke Poges, and a good variety of methods kept everyone interested and happy.

An excellent high tea, taken at High Wycombe, also helped to maintain the spirits and vigour of the party. The scenery in this part of the country is indeed very charming, and Buckinghamshire is rich, too, in historical features, but to a lover of English literature what can equal the thrill of a visit to Stoke Poges, in whose churchyard Thomas Gray is said to have written his famous elegy? The tower, in the shadow of which Gray has slept "in his narrow bed," with the forefathers of the hamlet, for 200 years, still stands as boldly as ever, though it is no longer ivy-mantled, and the bells still pour out their time-honoured melody over this romantic countryside.

Perhaps the magic atmosphere of this place inspired us to give of our best, but in any case the highlight of the day's ringing was a course of London Major, in which we were joined by Mr. A. D. Barker. It was more than just another "touch," it was an offering to God and a tribute to the great ones of the past whose spirits still dwell in this enchanted spot.

The thanks of all are accorded to Derek Hammond and Jim Edwards, our most efficient joint organisers and to incumbents. A. E. R.

RANDOM RECOLLECTIONS OF ROTHERHAM

By HERBERT O. CHADDOCK

I AM prompted to write this brief article, firstly because of the passing recently of Mr. T. C. Ryder who, until compelled to give up ringing owing to declining health, worked so hard for his home tower, and to me was the last of the old band. Now Brother Norman and his wife, Elsie, and John and Susan have left their native town for pastures new. Norman and I were well acquainted with the old company, but ours was more of a transitional period between the old and the new.

Up to the 1920s Rotherham was a much more compact town than it is now and the bells could be heard by most of the residents. I have clear recollections of hearing the old Mears 10, although in those days I knew no hing about ringing. They sounded so nice and mellow, and I should think were well rung by capable men. I used to hear them across Clifton Park, almost a mile away, and on Sundays at much closer range as we walked to church in town; their sound gradually increasing. I am sure most of the people loved to hear the bells, and we all took them for granted.

BELLS RECAST

However, in 1925, with the old timber frame now decayed beyond repair and the fittings in bad shape, something had to be done, and a fairy grandmother, in the form of the Dyson family, provided the money for a complete overhaul. The old 10, with the exception of the 9th all maiden bells, were recast, the tenor increased from 32 cwt. to 34¾ cwt., and hung on a new frame with new fittings, as a memorial to their father, Robert Dyson, a local industrialist. I remember seeing the old bells lying in the churchyard awaiting dispatch to Taylor's foundry, and thinking "so its those great things that make all the noise."

A few years later I found myself ensnared into the art of change ringing and a little later was joined by my brother Norman. We both learned to ring at St. Stephen's, Eastwood, where we had a fair band ringing Stedman Triples and Cambridge Major, etc., but I joined the Rotherham company and was there until moving to Sheffield.

The outstanding member was Albert Nash, who did almost all the conducting. He had rung many peals and was at the height of his ringing career. Under his care the company progressed from the standard methods to Surprise ringing mainly Cambridge and Yorkshire Royal, and Spliced Major, which was rung like clockwork. When a young man Albert had the misfortune to be involved in a chemical accident, which left him with the fingers of both hands either missing or deformed and with much tender, grafted skin on his hands, face and body. He also had to wear spectacles with gauzes at the sides, but he was otherwise well built and sturdy. Many with his handicap would have deemed ringing impossible, but Albert had persevered and almost always rang the eighth bell.

Colin Ryder was secretary and tower keeper and usually rang the tenor, which was odd struck, being late at backstroke, and for some reason never remedied until recent years. Then there was John H. Brothwell, quite a character, who I thought could ring any method, but could be very impatient with the careless. I have only mentioned three but in all it was a very strong company.

THE REWARD

After the war a period of decline set in and by 1950 the number of bells rung had fallen off, also the standard of ringing. In the meantime Norman and his wife had been attached to Whiston, where a numerous and capable band had developed. However, he decided to join the Rotherham company. After considerable patience and perseverance the company was built up to strength and a high standard of ringing attained. The Church Authorities were persuaded to spend a good deal of money on the tower, repairing the stonework, refacing the steps, fitting a sound controlling device which can be regulated, and making the whole place ideal for the ringers, who in return did a lot of work themselves, also raised money for the church with their handbell efforts.

Well, the old company who did their work so well have gone, Norman and family have left the town, but I am happy to say that they have left things in a much better state than they found them. There is a company of young men and girls very capable and enthusiastic, and I hope they will stick together and prosper, and they can be sure that nearly all the people of Rotherham love to hear the bells rung well at the appropriate times.

THE UNIVERSITIES ASSOCIATION TOUR, 1967

UNUSUAL rather than unconventional might be a fitting description of the headquarters of the Universities Association in Salisbury during its August tour. The Diocesan Retreat House is most competently run by a small body of nuns, who, in a most kindly and charming manner, catered for our complete comfort. How delightful it was to find the names to the various rooms—the kitchen was Longsuffering, the lounge Joy and the dining room Hope. Bedrooms bore the names of Saints, in one instance the fortuitous allocation was singularly appropriate, the secretary of the Rabbits Guild finding herself in Saint Francis'. Girt about with a leathern girdle but not feeding on locusts and wild honey, I found myself "St. John the Baptist."

The presence of two families in residence and the daily presence of other members with their children gave a homely atmosphere to the tour; a pleasant recollection is that of the Mack family picnicking happily and tidily on several village greens. Punctuality was well maintained; how could it be otherwise when we were geared with four Speeds?

We began at Andover on Friday, August 4th, in fine weather and atrocious traffic conditions and after ringing at St. Mary's and at Stockbridge we explored Salisbury; the beauty of the Cathedral Close in the fading light of a summer evening is a cherished memory. Saturday was spent in three counties—Wiltshire, Dorset and Hampshire—with a total of eight towers. At Damerham one of the party advanced the opinion that a bowler in a cricket match, viewed at some distance, must needs be a Yorkshireman, because he was bowling with success slow left-arm deliveries round the wicket.

SECRETARY'S 2,000th TOWER

Holy Communion on Sunday was celebrated by Malcolm Melville, our genial secretary, who later in the week captured his 2,000th tower. After ringing at Coombe Bissett, members departed to visit various places, some to Old Sarum, some to explore New Sarum. A small party which visited Stourhead and Stourton found magnificent gardens, peacocks, an interesting stately home with the world's finest collection of Chippendale furniture, a good ring of six and old ringing friends in the Vicar and his wife.

One of the charms of South Wiltshire is the large number of tree-enclosed parks and roads overshadowed by avenues of tall and stately trees. Through these pleasant avenues we sped on Monday to visit six Wiltshire towers, returning to Salisbury to hold the annual general meeting of the Association. Paul Taylor presided, supported by some 21 members, including Jumbo Seager, on holiday in Bournemouth. Plans were revealed for a South Wales tour in 1968, with a promise of help from Chris Bainham in the mastery of the unpronounceable Welsh names. Tentative plans for a Yorkshire tour in 1969 were also made.

Nine Wiltshire towers were conquered on Tuesday with only one ring of eight. Most members of the party were prepared to forgo a visit to Stonehenge in a hunt for an extra tower at Enford. The writer was delighted, after a painstaking search, to find the Hound of the Baskervilles depicted on a hatchment in the church. The only peal attempt of the week was successful on this day, when Rutland was well rung at East Tytherley.

Perhaps the best ringing of the week was achieved on Wednesday on the noble ring at Westbury with a well-nigh perfect course of Pudsey. Our 12-bell ringing at Trowbridge was greatly enjoyed by all, perhaps particularly by our youngest ringers, who rang with commendable skill. Travelling southward on Thursday we encountered our only minor mishap of the week—a broken rope at Wimborne Minster. On a very humid afternoon we found the ten at Poole hard work; a lucky encounter with the church architect as the last of the party were leaving secured a promise of attention to the bells.

At Wareham, with the unusual dedication of Lady Saint Mary and a unique lead font, it was surprising to find the lines of several Surprise Major methods embroidered on the belfry window curtain.

The Saxon church at Breamore has four good Taylor bells; a visit during the afternoon gave a few of us so much delight that a return visit in the evening, made possible by the kindness of the local ringers, resulted in a most pleasant evening. Beatrice Boyle recorded some excellent closed lead Bob Minimus and a very good fall made by the local ringers, which, when played back, gave most obvious delight to all present.

The four sixes and three eights of Friday provided a good variety of rings. East Knoyle with its association with Sir Christopher Wren was a particularly interesting church. Although we rang quite well on the anti-clockwise six we found the facial expressions of the heads carved in the belfry registering stony disapproval.

A presentation was made to Ross Robertson as a small token of our appreciation of the efficient way in which he had made such complete arrangements for us; he and all others who worked so well for our comfort and delight are hereby thanked again and most sincerely.

Throughout the week a succession of ringing masters and one most competent ringing mistress maintained a good variety of methods, a reasonable standard of ringing and a commendal punctuality. It is noteworthy that the ages of those ringing ranged over more than 70 years, that our cars ranged from almost vintage to completely luxurious models, that since last year two more beards have been cultivated and that an association of University graduates delegates the duties of scribe to a guest of no academic attainment, who contributes this account with due gratitude and apologies.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Congratulations to George and Anne Butcher, of Northfleet, Kent, on becoming grandparents.

Mr. M. Barton, of Cookham, Berks, is leaving for Somerset. He called his farewell quarter on September 24th.

A London ringer writes praising the beginners Derek Sibson is teaching at St. Mary's, Lambeth. Their call changes the other Sunday evening, he writes, were quite good.

Rolvenden, Kent, had four first quarters and two firsts in the method in a quarter for one of their ringers, Miss J. Hensby, on September 23rd.

Can it be that "Snipe" of East Ilsley lost his touch at Lynton? Maybe the reason is that he missed his sally. One hopes that his technique will improve, with more practice at handling in the future!

Eaton Socon, Beds, had a Major experience on September 23rd. It was the first of Major for three of the band and a first "inside" of Major for Mr. I. P. Sawford, who is complimented on his ringing by our correspondent.

Mr. S. Smith, who for years has been the mainstay of ringing in Tasmania, has arrived in England for a holiday. One of the first towers he visited was at Ingham, Suffolk (a very good five-bell ring). This was his home when he rang his last quarter there in November, 1912.

Mr. H. J. Sanger concludes his towers and belfry report of the Bath and Wells Association for 1966 with these words: "a reminder to all towerkeepers, particularly where there is steel work: "Don't forget the painting."

After a lapse of 29 years, Mr. Gordon Hagner, now 77 years old, is back in ringing circles. He rang in a quarter at Sproughton, Suffolk, on October 1st. His last peal was rung in this tower in June, 1938.

Miss Edna M. Kenchington, of St. Mary's, Fordingbridge, writes to tell us of her enjoyable holiday at Sudbury-on-Thames and the help she received from Mr. Brock, the tower captain, Carol and Doug.

A mother of five, Mrs. Angela Lucas, who started ringing last March, rang her first quarter at Ossett, Essex, on October 1st. "How she has done it I don't know," writes an admirer. "I guess the answer is—she also has a ringing husband."

Miss Ruth Blackshaw writes expressing thanks to Mr. R. Carlisle for his excellent conducting of the Bell Ringers Choir at Derby Cathedral for the Joint Festival. "The result was excellent; we at Holme Pierrepont are most grateful for all we learned and reports from members of the congregation were very good."

THE DERBY RINGING FESTIVAL

An Impression by John P. Fidler

"Derbyshire born and Derbyshire bred, Strong in'th Arm and Wick in't Yed."

You certainly have to hand it out to the Derbyshire folk for the excellent arrangements made for the celebrations held there on Saturday, September 16th, and those responsible for the service in the Cathedral provided something that will live long in the memory of those who attended it. I have been to a very good number of ringers' services but never one like this. It was a festival of choral singing, congregational singing and handbell ringing.

The Introit sung by a very mixed choir drawn from the three Dioceses of Derby, Leicester and Southwell set off the pattern of things to come. To listen to it and to the anthem they sang, a stranger could easily have formed the impression that the choir, the organist and the conductor had worked together for a long time, yet they had only had one rehearsal during the afternoon prior to the service.

The intoning by the temporary Precentor added dignity to the service and no doubt helped to bring out the best in congregational singing. Who will ever forget the singing of the last verse of the last hymn, when everybody fairly let rip, in contrast to the quiet during the ringing on handbells of Stedman Cinques? There is no doubt whatever that each and every one of us had difficulty in suppressing the desire to applaud the anthem and Cinques. The sermon, too, by the Provost, was listened to with rapt attention; he later classed it as a "modest one"; I wonder what a good one of his is like.

After the dinner, the three speakers—the Rector of Darley Dale, the Lord Bishop of Derby and Mr. Paul L. Taylor—excelled themselves, and there was no fidgeting when they spoke.

That the organisers of the festival are to be congratulated goes without saying, and it is difficult to put into words the feeling of those who had the privilege of being present on the the 21st anniversary of the demise of the old Midland Counties Association and the birth of the quads that have proved to be lusty offspring, reminding me of the inscription on the trebles of Banham in Norfolk:

"We two we came by small consent,
Our birth I hope will give content,
Twins from the Tenor, our Dear old Dad,
Some we make merry and some make sad."

A PATHETIC STORY

Behind the peal of Stedman Cinques at St. Laurence's, Reading, there is a pathetic story. Last autumn Mr. V. T. Cherrill, the tower captain, arranged a peal there and invited a number of Reading University ringers to stand in. On his death it proved impossible to organise a memorial peal on the date originally chosen, but a band, which included the University ringers he had asked, finally rang the peal on September 16th.

A GREETING FROM CHARLIE

It was a pleasure to St. Andrew's, Farnham, ringers during their outing in the Bournemouth area on September 30th to meet again Charlie Denyer, who for years was the mainstay of Farnham ringing. Charlie rang in some Grandsire Minor after his long lay-off; it was indeed a happy reunion.

Ringing started on the fine 12 at Christchurch Priory and this enabled some of the younger members to ring their first on 12, including a youngster of 80! In a course of Grandsire Cinques seven of the band scored firsts. At St. Peter's, Bournemouth, we took over from the local ringers for a wedding. A new experience awaited some of the company at St. James', Poole—their first of Stedman Caters and Kent T.B. Royal. The local ringers provided a really wonderful tea in the Church Hall—there was too much even for the hungry! This kind service was much appreciated, more so in view of the difficulty in getting tea locally. Many thanks, Mrs. Davis.

The last tower was at Ringwood (a lovely eight) and after a stop for refreshments at New Airesford, Farnham was reached at 10 p.m. Two were celebrating a wedding anniversary (is there a better way?) and another his birthday. We all look forward to next year. R.C.

WITHDRAWAL

Dear Sir,—It has been brought to my attention by Richard J. Parker, the composer of a composition of 5,088 Yorkshire Surprise Major which I called at Helmshore on October 31st, 1966, is false.

I would therefore be grateful if this peal could please be deleted from all records. My sincere apologies to all the band and all record keepers. Thank you.—Yours sincerely,
Chislehurst, Kent. TONY LEWIS.

A NEW FOREST VENTURE

With the object of giving keen ringers an opportunity to widen their experience a series of quarter peals has been arranged in the New Forest area. Of the six attempted, five were scored, the failure being Double Court Triples at Lymington.

The standard of striking was not uniformly high, but there is no doubt that the Stedman Triples rung at Romsey Abbey and conducted by Ron Barlow was a very fine quarter indeed and was the best of the series. Ringers taking part came from Romsey, Ringwood, Fordingbridge, Salisbury, Eling, Fawley, Milford and Hordle.

CONDUCTED LAST PEAL 30 YEARS AGO

The peal at Marple on September 16th was not only the first peal on eight bells as conductor for Arthur E. Whiting but also the first peal he had conducted since the Coronation Day of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth on May 12th, 1937. On that occasion he conducted a peal in two Doubles methods on the old six bells at Marple, it being his first peal as conductor and the first peal by a local band. The time of both peals was 3 hours and five minutes.

The ringer of the 4th in the peal at Kingstone, Herefordshire (see page 661), was Roy K. Williams and not Peter D. Sell, as wrongly submitted.

TUITION TEASERS No. 9

How Far on a Silenced Bell?

Q.—We realise the advantage in silencing a bell for the pupil who is learning bell-handling and control; but—

(a) Is there any more to it than noiseless demonstration and practice? and

(b) Can this be overdone?—Anon.

A.—An answer common to both questions might be—"Yes, quite a bit." But let us take them in turn.

(a) The entire phase of correct handling and full control can (and should be) worked on a silenced bell. This means, in relation to handling, perfect action with no faults in the movements of ringing a bell; and, in relation to control, the ability to put the bell "on to the balance" at least eight times out of ten successive pulls, both ways, and holding it in this position without resting it on the stay. This dual stage of proficiency must be attained before the pupil is allowed to ring an "open" bell, in concert with others. This, of course, will be ringing in rounds. But there is, in truth, "more to it than this," i.e. than the sure ability to manage the (silenced) bell. Indeed, the mechanics or elements of change ringing itself can be introduced, and to some useful extent practised, on silent bells. By this is meant—(1) Hunting, (2) Place-making (3) Consequential dodging. This is explained at length in Part I of the Ringers' Manual of Reference—entitled "Bell Handling and Control in the Elements of Change Ringing"—out of print, alas! at present, but to be found in a few widely scattered libraries, we understand. Tutor and pupil can alone practise (2) and (3) as above; and with an assistant proficient ringer the three of them can practise hunting—all silent. As to the last-named, the concept of hunting can be demonstrated, and the pupil can be copying it, in some time less than five minutes; as proved by experience.

(b) Useful as is this silent practice it could be overdone; and it must be exchanged for "open" ringing as soon as its purpose is served. The reason lies in the simple fact that the ear is more important that the eye, in the matter of striking; and the pupil must not be allowed to fall into the habit of non-listening—an all-too-prevalent fault in learners generally. Apart from his need to appreciate "bell-pause" (the interval between the pull-off and the succeeding strike of the clapper)—he must be taught from the very outset of his "open" ringing to listen for and recognise the sound of his own bell. Successful exercises have been devised to promote this ability; and might perhaps be described in answer to some future query. A. Y.-B.

CHANGES AT ROUGHTOWN

Roughtown, Lancs, has lost two ringers recently—Michael Rigby, the former conductor, who has accepted an appointment in London, and Margaret Holt, who has joined the Wrens. Both have given full service to the tower. Two Friezland ringers have joined for Sunday service evening ringing and practices—Messrs. Joe Burgess and Arthur Farrand.

It is hoped in the near future to rehang the bells on ball bearings.

THE YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION

SEPTEMBER general meetings of the Association are frequently held at the seaside or in the country, some distance from the industrial areas. But hopes of a fine day and a picnic on the sands were dashed by the mist which persisted over the Whitby moors and in the town itself; indeed St. Mary's Church was at times completely invisible from the other side of the river, though the lovely ring of bells could still be heard across the water by the would-be sand-castle experts.

The 104 members and friends who had booked tea (fish and chips for all but three people) all came in spite of the weather and gave their support at the brisk business meeting in the Mills cafe. Mr. Tom Cox, in his usual jovial manner, said "thank you" to the incumbents of Pickering, Fylingdales and St. Mary's, whose bells were enjoyed, and to those responsible for the arrangements. Voting took place on two matters proposed at the previous meeting: the Association decided to send £25 from its general fund to the York Minster appeal, and the new rule about expenses was accepted.

A proposition to alter the rules with regard to the peal secretary's job was made. If accepted—voting will take place at the next general meeting at Goole on January 20th, 1968—the rules will allow for a peal secretary, a composition secretary and a report editor, so that the load, borne until quite recently by the peal secretary alone, can be shared.

The company stood in silence for a short time in respect for four members who had died: A. Percival Knights (Sheffield), Henry Stanger (Kirby Wiske), Leonard Drake (Leeds), and T. Colin Ryder (Rotherham).

Grants from the Bell Repair Fund were announced as follows: to Bolsterstone £25, to Patrington £25, to Cleckheaton £10. The president also announced that "The Ringing World" of October 20th would feature a picture of York Minster and articles by Mr. Harold Walker and Mr. Ted Hudson. The feature had been planned to coincide with the Snowdon Dinner at Cottingham on October 21st.

Two new members were elected: Robert Stansfield, of Pontefract, and Eric McNally, of Knaresborough. The election of three non-resident members was ratified: Arthur E. Rowley, of Ibstock, Frank Chambers, of Woodhouse Eaves, and Ronald G. Edwards, of Loughborough.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD

A lovely, fine day, excellent organisation on the part of the chairman, Mr. George Newman, and a good coach driver and navigator, all combined to make the annual outing of the Marlborough Branch, on September 30th, a great success. The party, numbering 36, met at 8 a.m. and headed for the Bridgwater area. After a beautiful run through a countryside surprisingly green for early autumn, the first tower, at Ashcroft, was reached at 10.30 a.m. We were met by the tower captain and had a most enjoyable pull on the nice ring of six. At Cossington the Vicar, himself a ringer, welcomed us and although inside the tower the tower the bells are a little noisy everyone took part in method ringing.

Bridgwater was reached at 1 p.m., a packed lunch eaten, and ringing on the eight at the Parish Church started at 1.30 p.m. The ground-floor ring with its long draught and 25 cwt. tenor defeated some, but the more experienced took part in some good touches.

Westonzoyland, with its historical associations with Monmouth and Sedgemoor, was the next objective and here occurred the only hitch of the day, the key being difficult to locate. However, the ringing included an excellent touch of Stedman and the best "lower" of the day. At Middlezoy the nice six were enjoyed before tea at Glastonbury. Further ringing at St. Benedict's brought to a close a perfectly organised and most enjoyable day, a start for home being made at 7.15 p.m.

ST. PETER MANCROFT GUILD

Our destination this year was St. Albans, and on September 9th we left Norwich in bright sunshine, only to find ourselves in thick fog by the time we reached the county border. Despite this, our first stop, at Baldock, was on schedule where, rather to our surprise, we found the tenor minus clapper, wheel and rope. Without going into the question of who was going to count the tower and who was not, Grandsire Triples and Plain Bob Minor were rung on the front seven. Next stop (having discussed the quality and hazards of 3d. loos) was St. Albans itself, with St. Peter's as the first tower. Everybody enjoyed themselves on this tuneful 23 cwt. ten, and some of the better ringing of the day was included in the tally of Grandsire, Stedman and Cambridge Royal.

After lunch we made our way to the Cathedral and could not but admire the stamina of the resident band who face such a climb to such a ringing chamber with equanimity. Our arrival coincided with the departure of a bride in the Abbey below and so we were able to add the spice of purpose to our pleasure. With a new insight into Matthew 7, 3, we rang Grandsire and Stedman Caters and Cinques before time ran out.

Originally the plan was to visit all the St. Albans towers, but St. Michael's had to be omitted, and Redbourn, some five miles towards Dunstable, had been substituted at short notice. This proved to be a happy accident and the party found much to admire, not only in the "go" and tone of the 15 cwt. six, but in the beautiful little church itself. The last call before tea was again in St. Albans, this time at St. Stephen's. A fair selection of Minor methods went well here and an all-ladies' band were persuaded to make their contribution to the day's variety.

After tea we headed for Saffron Walden, where a certain flexibility crept into the timetable to allow refreshment before and after ringing. The fine 12 were put to good use and by nine o'clock we felt that a day of good ringing had been completed in a tower that had been kept—rather as a "bonne bouche"—until the end.

Even before Norwich was reached at a late hour, thoughts were turning to next year's outing, but that, as they say, is another story.

PROGRESS CHART FOR LEARNERS

Mr. R. H. Daw sends us this encouraging report concerning progress at St. John's Peterborough.

Enthusiasm amongst the group is at a high level due in part to the introduction of a "Progress Chart" with each learner's progress plotted across the chart under three main headings subdivided into the various stages, thus:—

"Bell Handling."—Early stages of instruction with a visit upstairs to see a bell actually ringing.

"Bell Control." — Rounds, call changes, raise and lower, and plain hunt.

"Method Ringing."—Treble to Plain Bob Minor, then "inside," Little Bob, Kent T.B. Minor etc., up to Bob Major, Grandsire Triples and Kent T.B. Major.

This we started in September, 1966, and Pamela Blackith has just completed each of the 30 or so stages across the whole of the chart in 12 months.

The results of the "new campaign" are very encouraging, as evidenced by the general air of renewed enthusiasm in St. John's belfry after a year of regular Wednesday evening practices. We use rubber muffles from a cut-up car tyre fitted to the "front six" to reduce outside noise in the city centre—except for "open practice" every third Wednesday of the month, when all are welcome.

On Wednesday, September 20th, we had in all some 30 ringers present—standard ranged from rounds and call changes to Double Norwich and Cambridge. It was quite a feat for the captain (yours truly) to make sure everyone had a fair share of the ringing and that those not actually ringing were busy looking up the method and bobs for the next touch.

The Cathedral and Metropolitan Church of St. Peter, York

OUR PICTURE

THE BELLS OF YORK MINSTER

BY HAROLD WALKER

THIS great church is not only the Cathedral Church of the Diocese of York, but also the Mother Church of the Province of York. Its official name is the Cathedral and Metropolitan Church of St. Peter, York.

There has been a church on the site since Edwin, King of Northumbria, built a wooden church in which he was baptised on Easter Day, 627 A.D. The present building is the fifth Minster and was built round the walls of a Norman building.

Building of the Early English transepts started about 1220 A.D. Then followed the Decorated Nave and the Perpendicular Choir, Lady Chapel and Towers.

The south-west tower was built during the period 1432 to 1457 and various bells were housed in it.

The erection of the north-west tower completed the building of the Minster as it now is and it was consecrated on July 2nd, 1472.

The Fabric Roll of 1466 shows that Thomas Innocent, bellfounder of Leicester, cast four bells for the north-west tower, then known as St. Mary's Tower. One of these bells was inscribed: "Sum rosa pulsata munda Maria vocata." (I being rung am called Mary the rose of the world.) This bell still exists as the tenor of the derelict ring of six at St. Michael's in the city.

In 1655 the four bells were taken from the north-west tower and placed with those of the south-west tower to form the very first ring of 12 in the country. It is evident that musically the ring was not a success, for two bells were recast in 1657, one in 1671, the four trebles in 1681 and the tenor in 1727. The tenor was reputed to weigh 59 cwt. and had a diameter of 5ft. 9½ins.

There was more trouble in 1733, when the whole ring was rehung in new frames, and a new ringing floor had to be built 20ft. nearer the bells.

In 1765 Dean Fountayn decided to replace the old ring of twelve with a new ring of ten similar to Bow Bells, which had recently been installed. The new tenor weight 53¼ cwt and was 5ft. 4½ins. in diameter.

The change from twelve bells to ten did not please a certain Mr. Beckwith, who wrote (Beckwith's MSS., Bodleian Library, Vol. 2, page 206):—

> "This year Dean Fountayn disposed of the old peal of bells in the Minster and got a new peal of worse bells. Before there were twelve but now reduced to ten. The great Old Bell was supposed to have been in the Minster ever since the building of the church. The inhabitants of York had no reason to thank the Dean for meddling with them, for the bells were much better as well as the former Dean."

The Latin inscriptions on the old bells were not reproduced and it would appear the founders were free to choose their own, hence:—

Sixth:

"Our voices shall with joyful sound
Make hills and valleys echo round."

Eighth:

"Ye ringers all who prize your health and happiness
Be sober, merry, wise, and you'll the same possess."

In 1840 the bells were destroyed in a great fire which gutted the south-western tower and spread to the roof of the nave. A new bell, weighing 53 cwt., was ordered for use during the restoration and to form the tenor of a new ring.

In 1843 Dr. Stephen Beckwith died and left £2,000 to provide a new ring of twelve. Eleven new bells were added to the existing tenor by the Whitechapel Foundry and they were heard for the first time on July 4th, 1844. Five years later the tenor was recast and invoiced back as weighing 50 cwt.

A peal of Grandsire Caters was rung on these bells in 1861 with two men on the 9th and three on the tenor. Another was not rung until 1892, with three men on the tenor.

Following years of complaints, the bells were rehung with steel headstocks in 1913. Complaints started again, however, and in 1925 the Dean and Chapter, on the advice of Canon H. H. Nolloth, decided to make a clean sweep of the old bells and fittings and to start anew with everything to accord with modern practice. Hence the present beautiful ring of twelve with an extra flat 6th and a tenor a few pounds short of 60 cwt.

Mention must be made of Great Peter, which hangs in lonely state in the north-west tower. This huge bell was provided out of money raised to replace the bells after the fire of 1840, but which was not required following the Beckwith bequest. It was cast in 1845 at the Whitechapel Foundry and weighed 10¾ tons. It was not a good casting as there was a difference of three-quarters of an inch in the thickness of the soundbow at opposite points. When hung, 30 men could not swing it, so it had to be fitted with an independent hammer fitted to a long lever.

After the great bell restoration of 1925–26 Great Peter was recast at Loughborough in 1927 and now weighs 10 tons. 16 cwt. 2 qr. 22 lb. Its note is E flat, the dominant of the ring of twelve. Its hangings are of modern design and it is so well balanced that it can be tolled, by swinging through 90 degrees, by the sexton without assistance.

The bells are rung every Sunday morning by members of the York Minster Society of Change Ringers. The Society was formed on February 2nd, 1854, and has an unbroken record of service. It took an active part in the formation of the Yorkshire Association in 1875. A note in the Society's minute book reads:—

> "3rd August, 1875. On July 3rd, 1875, a Great Meeting of the Yorkshire Association of Change Ringers was held at the Punch Bowl, Stonegate, when upwards of 200 Ringers from various towns of the County visited this City and were accommodated by the Society and the Members of St. Martin's, Coney Street, to the extent of their means when the ringers expressed their satisfaction at their reception."

From this one would think that the Association was already in being, but in point of fact it was the first meeting called to consider its formation, which was finalised the following October. The secretary of the Minster Society, William Horner Howard, was elected first vice-president of the Association.

For many years members of the Minster Society formed a strong branch of the Ancient Society of College Youths and practised change ringing on handbells. The first double-handed handbell peal of Grandsire Caters ever to be rung was completed by five Minster ringers on March 12th, 1877.

Today the Minster Society has more members than ever before in its history. Ringers who are students at St. John's Training College or at York University are welcomed at the Minster.

YORKSHIRE CHARACTERS

BY EDWARD HUDSON

(Secretary of the Northern District and Central Council representative of the Yorkshire Association and Chairman of the Joint Council of Yorkshire Ringing Societies)

From the church porch at Sharow, near Ripon, you may look across to a tall Victorian house When the Yorkshire Association was formed the builder, owner and tenant of this house was Thomas Clarke. My father was landlord of the village inn and, as a boy, I heard local worthies in the public bar recount many stories about this interesting man. He was lame, he was a most hospitable man, he had been a road engineer, he was a regular toper and he was a ringer. His name appears amongst those present at the foundation meeting of the Yorkshire Association. He was an able conductor of Treble Bob and was largely instrumental in securing the augmentation of the Ripon Cathedral bells from eight to ten and of the ring at Sharow from six to eight bells. Stained glass windows in the ringing rooms at Ripon Cathedral and Sharow commemorate important peals which he arranged and conducted, and these windows were provided at his own expense.

Men who were old when I was young told me of the excursions they made with Clarke by horse and wagonette to ring at neighbouring towers, George Langshaw was the boy of the party, and it was always his duty to drive the horse home; the condition of other members of the party made this procedure highly advisable

DIED IN THE WORKHOUSE

The third meeting of the Yorkshire Association was held at Sharow on April 22nd, 1876. Jasper Snowdon was present at this meeting and he probably enjoyed the hospitality of Thomas Clarke. The end of Clarke is a sad story; he was much too generous and he died in the workhouse at Bedale.

Walter Peck, who taught me to ring in the last of his sixty years as a ringer at Sharow, was one of Clarke's pupils, and another eminent pupil was Thomas Metcalfe, grandfather of Tom Cox, and for many years the mainstay of the Cleveland and North Yorkshire Association.

In my early years of ringing I was privileged to ring with and enjoy the friendship of many stalwarts of the Yorkshire Association and the Cleveland and North Yorkshire Association. Relations between the two Associations were rather strained, and very few of us were members of both Associations. Now after forty years I treasure deeply the memories of those men who were true Yorkshire characters and who did so much for the Exercise in my native county.

It is so easy nowadays to visit other towers —in Yorkshire there is a ringing meeting almost every Saturday. Most ringers work but five days per week and a high proportion of ringers have their own cars.

REAL MARTINET

In my early ringing days the sight of a car at a ringing meeting was exceptional; ringers travelled by train or bus; a few of the more fortunate had motorcycles. My personal transport was a lightweight cycle and journeys of sixty miles on Saturday afternoons were by no means exceptional. In the Cleveland area we invariably met on Easter and Whit Mondays, and one could always count on the presence of a number of old friends. Tom Metcalfe was the master ringer, secretary of the Cleveland Association, principal conductor and a real martinet in the tower. No one questioned the wisdom of his decisions or disobeyed his commands.

Cyril Pollard, the president of the Cleveland Association, was a man of energy and ideas, and a kindly mentor to the young learners. The burly Tom Lancaster and the diminutive Jack Hall were most reliable ringers, and in their own towers Jimmy Barnet at Northallerton, Jack Stott at Thirsk and Fred Tingle at Ripon all maintained useful bands for very long periods.

Money was scarce in the late 1920's and early 1930's and many ringers hit by unemployment were unable to raise the three or four shillings which was sufficient to ensure a day's ringing in those distant days.

THE BEST KNOWN

No one who ever met Percy Johnson will readily forget that powerful little man: his cheerful countenance, his stocky figure and his powerful voice all betrayed the character of a vigorous, friendly man; a typical Yorkshireman, who was born in London. How well I remember his remark to a strapping young farmer who persisted in overpulling a light, easy-going bell—"Young man, it is what you have above your shoulders, not below, that counts in ringing."

Percy was for many years the best known of all Yorkshire Association members, with a remarkable memory and a great capacity for friendship. He certainly knew personally a very great number of Yorkshire ringers and could usually recount a good story about anyone of them It was Percy who introduced me to many of the notable Yorkshire ringers of a former generation; I met Arthur Craven once, and rang with Arthur Knights who, as an instructor in boot and shoe repairing at an approved school, composed innumerable peals of Treble Bob on a slate whilst supervising his boys

The quiet, competent Jimmy Cotterell was our treasurer. I recall vividly the gloomy day, January 26th, 1935. When I arrived at Doncaster in the failing light of a winter afternoon, it was snowing heavily, and as I left the station after a difficult journey I heard muffled ringing; Jimmy had died suddenly that morning; it was the saddest of all ringing meetings.

Of those who sat on the Yorkshire Association General Committee when I first became a member in 1934 only Billy Barton remains in office; his services to Yorkshire ringing are enormous. I met him a few days ago as perky as ever; in my estimation I rank him with other great sons of Pudsey—lovers of Yorkshire cricket will know their names as household words.

BETTING TIPS

We loved and trusted our president, the Rev., and later Canon, C. C Marshall. He could appear very unclerical when he discarded th traditional collar and appeared with a bright red tie A small band of us had rung at Middleham and Bedale, and then adjourned to a place of refreshment in the latter town The landlord was a genial devotee of the turf and to our great delight insisted on giving the incognito Canon a slip of paper bearing some alleged good tips. I was the last to leave the inn and having satisfied the curiosity of the landlord about the identity of the grand old gent with the red tie received another copy of the slip from a rather surprised landlord; four out of the five named horses were good priced winners

After our General Committee meetings, always held in Leeds, we regularly adjourned to the Mitre. The teetotal Percy Johnson presided, and many and strange were the tales that were told. George Lewis, of Ecclesfield, Sid Palmer, of Sheffield, the Clarke brothers (Fred and George) from Arksey, Fred Dixon, of Guiseley, Arthur Walker, of Pontefract, all these were wise counsellors, good companions and men of character; how well they served their day and generation.

OLD CUSTOM

An old custom was dying in my early ringing days. At general meetings bands from prosperous towers often went to meetings and rang as a team. If a band were incomplete an individual ringer might be invited to join them; were he wise he would nominate Kent Treble Bob Major as the method which he wished to ring; he could be assured of a very high standard of striking and of the comment at the end; "That were pretty fair."

How times have changed: the bowler hat as the traditional garb for ringing meetings has almost disappeared; not quite, our worthy president appeared in one at a recent meeting, it bore little resemblance to some of the vintage specimens worn by some of the old ringers of the West Riding. Bill Ash, of Leeds Parish Church, had a real beauty The percentage of lady ringers attending our meetings has increased from about five to well over thirty per cent, and it is no longer considered irreverent for a lady to ring with her head uncovered.

What of the present? What of the future? We are approaching the centenary of the founding of the Yorkshire Association. I venture to suggest that Jasper Snowdon is as proud of the Association as he was in the days of its infancy In my capacity as chairman of the Joint Council of Yorkshire Ringing Societies, I am privileged to see much of the work that is being done in the county; it is on the whole a pleasant picture

In the north, where towers are widely scattered, we owe a great debt to Fred Hodgson, who has done so much to raise the standard of ringing since he emigrated from the heart of the West Riding. There is the talented Lawson family, the cheerful, friendly Tom Cox and some promising youngsters who are so keen that they organise their own informal Saturday evening meetings. There are others who serve, quietly teaching pupils who are not always appreciative: Arthur Bashforth at Kirby Wiske, Doris Killingley in Richmond, Geoffrey Dalton at Bedale, and Elsdon Metcalfe whose memory for faces and names has often rescued me in moments of temporary embarrassment

In the south we have a wealth of talent and much activity Might I suggest that as all-rounders Eric Critchley and Wilf Moreton would bear comparison with (in another sphere) the two greatest all-rounders of cricket, George Hirst and Wilfred Rhodes. From this area Norman Chaddock has just departed to live in the East Riding; in the field of ringing education Norman has been and still is the leading mover; might he not be described as the headmaster of Grantley?

TYPIFYING THE PEOPLE

I like to visit the heart of the West Riding, what we know as the heavy woollen district. There you may find ringers who are thorough in all that they do: men who are both critical and kind; men who ring Minor methods with picturesque names and closed leads. Our president and his wife belong to this area, they seem to me to typify the character of the people of these parts, in the way that they refuse to be enslaved by the cares of administrative responsibility and in their capacity for making friends without flattery.

There has been a remarkable revival of ringing in East Yorkshire. Building upon the foundations laid by such men as Horace Morley, most faithful of men, Fred Cryer, a good churchman who, even in old age, had a lovely tenor voice, the hospitable Albert Sellars and the ever dependable Harold Walker, a new generation of young ringers has taken advantage of a new social order.

A few of the many East Yorkshire ringers whose names come easily to mind are the massive David Johnson, the deep-voiced Ron Ducker, the reliable Leslie Woodhead and the mentally and physically vigorous Margaret Wilkinson.

When Yorkshire ringers gather with their friends to commemorate at their dinner Jasper Whitfield Snowdon and past officers of the Yorkshire Association, they will speak with subtle variations of accents, they will have a great diversity of physical and mental characteristics, but they will have one thing in common—the pride of being Yorkshire folk; and in any sphere of activity a Yorkshireman takes some beating.

Mr. Wilfrid F. Moreton's 1,000 Peals

THERE will be many congratulations at the Snowdon Dinner at Cottingham on October 21st to Mr. Wilfrid F. Moreton, the popular secretary of the Yorkshire Association, on completing his 1,000th peal. This was rung at Darlington on September 23rd, the day of the 90th anniversary celebrations of the Durham and Newcastle Association.

Mr. Moreton is a Yorkshireman, having been born at Flamborough in 1924. He learned to ring at All Saints' Church, Hereford, under the instruction of the late Charles L. Sadler, and his first peal, Grandsire Triples, was rung at Holme Lacy in 1939. His first as conductor was three months later. He has rung about 250 for the Hereford Guild and many of these were rung with Leslie Evans, Austin Wingate, George Cousins and his brother, Michael. In fact all but about a dozen Herefordshire towers have been "pealed" by him.

Mr. Moreton went to Oxford in 1942 and while there learned handbell ringing from Mr. John E. Spice He was Master of the Oxford University Society in 1947 and then served for three years in the Royal Armoured Corps. While in India with the Services he rang three handbell peals. His peals have been rung in six countries—England, Scotland, Ireland, Wales, India and the U.S.A. His election as secretary of the Yorkshire Association took place on the same day as the Washington peal.

His association with the Central Council dates back to 1945, when he was appointed a representative of the Hereford Diocesan Guild. In 1959 he was made an honorary member and more recently has been a representative of the Yorkshire Association. Conspicuous in his work for the Council has been with the Sunday Service Committee, which is now also the Education Committee. As a lecturer and teacher Mr. Moreton is outstanding, and two of the peals he records with pride, which contained practically all "firsts," were Yorkshire at Lugwardine and Stedman Triples at Holme Lacy.

Of his peals he has conducted 539 (handbells 129). He has rung from Doubles to Maximus on both tower- and handbells and as conductor. In his 350 peals for the Yorkshire Association, rung in over 100 different Yorkshire towers, are a couple of records—130 Spliced Minor "in hand" and 42 Spliced Surprise Royal on tower bells.

Mr. Moreton married in 1952 Miss "Jo" Roper, daughter of Mr. H. L. Roper.

MR. WILFRID F. MORETON

THE LADIES' GUILD

Where had all the ladies gone? Certainly not to the meeting at North Mimms on September 30th, where there were flowers in profusion for Harvest Festival, a beautifully decorated church, and sunshine.

A good standard of ringing was enjoyed—Plain Bob, Grandsire, Stedman, Cambridge—and Mrs. K. Lock provided a first class tea.

Miss Valerie Ware took the chair for the business meeting. New members elected: Miss Paula Healing (Essendon), Misses Jennifer and Julia Indge (North Mimms). Plans were discussed for welcoming the annual general meeting to St. Albans and Hertfordshire next July.

Next meeting: December 30th. Watch "Ringing World" for details. No flowers then, so ladies come and brighten the scene.

IRISH BAND IN SOUTH WALES

Members of the St. Patrick's Society, Dublin, visited St. Martin's Parish Church, Caerphilly, to ring for Harvest Festival on October 2nd. The bells have been silent for some time.

The visit was arranged by a former St. Martin's ringer, C. R. P. Broughton, who now resides in Dublin and is a member of the Cathedral Society.

1,200 Grandsire Doubles were rung before the service and ringing continued after service.

Dublin University ringers, returning from Guildford tour, augmented the band.

"OLD SWEATS" GET TOGETHER AT DAVENTRY

In November, 1966, Mr. P. I. Chapman, Ringing Master at Daventry Parish Church, invited a number of his contemporaries from the Kettering District of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild to visit Daventry and try out the new ring of ten bells. The visitors included those who had taken up ringing at the same time as Pat Chapman, just after the second world war, and two or three of the "old hands" who had helped Pat along the road. At the tea sentiments were expressed that this might become an annual event.

On September 30th, 1967, the second of these get togethers was held. Some 30 or so friends, wives and families accepted Pat's invitation and met at the Parish Church during the afternoon, among them being three former Guild Masters, and a former Guild secretary, Mr. R. G. Black, of Geddington, now aged 78. The oldest visitor present was Mr. Bob Turner, of Kettering, and still very active and able to partake in the ringing despite his 87 years.

The event was thoroughly enjoyed; the talking over of old times, the ringing, and the sumptuous tea, so very kindly provided by Mrs. Joan Chapman. Ringing consisted of Grandsire and Stedman Caters, K.T.B. and Cambridge Royal, Yorkshire and London Major, and continued until 8.30 p.m.

After a visit to a local hostelry everyone was on the way home soon after 9.30 p.m.

On behalf of all, sincere thanks are extended to Pat, for his faultless arrangements, and also to Joan, for all her work in providing such an excellent tea. May we all meet again in September, 1968.

RUBY WEDDING AT LEICESTER

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Shirley Burton, who celebrated their ruby wedding anniversary on September 24th. To mark the occasion a coffee table was presented by Mr. W. Root, chairman of the Leicester Cathedral Society, who spoke of the esteem in which Shirley was held by his fellow ringers and of the loyal service he had always given to the Cathedral band. A bouquet was presented to Mrs. Burton by Mrs. Hunting. A peal, specially arranged for the occasion, came to an unfortunate end through a rope breaking.

STRIKING CONTESTS

KIMPTON CUP COMPETITION

There was a disappointing entry of only three teams for the 9th Kimpton Cup competition held at Kimpton on September 23rd. This was partly attributed to the popularity of this day in the income tax year for weddings but there were towers which did not enter because they felt their bands were not sufficiently experienced. This is a pity because the main object of competition ringing is to improve striking.

After tea in the Church House the Rev. Patrick Maddex, Vicar of Codicote, presided over the meeting. Mr. Maddex, who is a ringer, has been looking after the parish of Kimpton during an interregnum. Mr. J. G. Cull welcomed the judges, Messrs. A. P. Cannon and C. H. Kippin.

In his comment, Mr. Kippin said the treble and the fifth were the most difficult bells to strike and caused faults in all bands except the winners'—King's Langley with 81 faults. Their "beautiful" touch of Single Oxford was difficult to fault towards the end and the treble was complimented on "exceptional" ringing. Kimpton, 228, and North Mymms, 284 faults, who were placed second and third respectively, both rang Bob Doubles. To fill in time a "scratch" band was formed and rang Cambridge Minor, with only 117 faults—under the rules they were not eligible to compete.

The Kimpton Cup and certificate were presented to Mr. B. M. Barker, captain of King's Langley, by the chairman, and certificates also awarded to Kimpton and North Mymms.

As a token of appreciation the judges and their wives were presented with a small gift by Susan Desborough, one of the local ringers.

Evening ringing was at St. Paul's, Walden (which leaves Pat Cannon only six more Hertfordshire towers to get), and at Codicote. Afterwards at the local the cup was filled and passed round, and the day rounded off with a good sing-song.

MR. BRIAN G. GROVER

Mr. Brian G. Grover died on September 25th at the age of 36 after several months of illness. He last rang in February at W. Clandon, Surrey, with the newly-formed band. Brian was taught to ring at this tower immediately after the last war by his father, Mr. George L. Grover, who was general secretary of the Guildford Guild for 20 years and with whom he rang most of his peals. A full congregation for the funeral service included many of Brian's ringing friends, and some of them rang West Clandon bells half-muffled for an hour on the evening of the funeral.

The Keys of Gnosall have Scored a Family Peal

Some years have elapsed since we published the last family peal. This honour has been bestowed on Mr. and Mrs. Barnabas G. Key, of "Sunnyside," Newport Road, Gnosall, Stafford, and four of their children. The announcement of their success appeared on page 723 of October 6th issue of the "R.W."

Swynnerton bells were selected for the attempt as they have a tenor of 7 cwt. 1 qr. compared with the minor six at Gnosall, where the tenor is 17 cwt. But St. Lawrence's, Gnosall, is the family belfry. This was the second attempt, the first having been made some months ago before the eldest daughter June was married.

In the interim, Angela, the youngest daughter, who is 16, has become more proficient. She rang the treble, 18-year-old Lucy A. was on the second, Mrs. E. Marion Key on No. 3, Pamela E. Key (20) on No. 4, Barnabas conducted from No. 5 and 19-year-old Peter J. drummed the tenor. The peal of Grandsire Doubles was accomplished in 2 hours and 43 minutes.

Professionally, Mr. Key is a vehicle examiner for the Ministry of Transport. For years he has been an acknowledged leader of ringing in this corner of Staffordshire and represents the Society for the Archdeaconry of Stafford on the Central Council. A consistent peal ringer, it has been his pleasure to shepherd many young ringers through their first peal and incidentally, the peal at Swynnerton was the first for Angela and Peter. At St. Lawrence's Church, Gnosall, he is not only Ringing Master but also a lay reader.

Mrs. Key is the organist at this church and is a teacher at St. Lawrence's Junior School. She is very successful as a handbell teacher, and it has been her privilege on a number of occasions to appear on television with her pupils in handbell broadcasts.

The three daughters in the picture attended Newport Girls' High School. Angela is still there, but her two elder sisters have passed on to St Mary's Teachers' Training College, Cheltenham, Pamela being in her third year. Peter is at Dundee University, having formerly attended Adams' Grammar School, Newport.

Mr. Key adds a footnote of appreciation to the Rector of Swynnerton for allowing the family to ring on his bells and to William Watkin, the tower captain, for his co-operation. "We hope to ring a peal of Minor before the wedding bells reduce us to five," he concludes. The photograph we publish was taken in Gnosall belfry.

WASHINGTON TODAY

An encouraging picture of ringing in Washington today is presented by Mr. R. S. Dirksen, who is now in the U.S. Army stationed at Fort Meyer, Washington.

During his absence Mr. Fanfani maintained a regular schedule in the tower and with the addition of several beginners a good deal of impetus was generated in the ringing programme. Much help was received from 20 English ringers who visited the Cathedral during the summer.

The Whitechapel Guild numbers 36 girls, while the adult band has increased to 18. Four other high school students make a total this year of 52 ringers—mostly in the beginner category, but with a group of 10th and 11th grade girls, who should have their first quarter by the end of October.

With such a number of ringers, the following schedule is a necessity and we publish it for the benefit of any ringers who might be going to Washington next year:—

Sunday: General practice open ringing, 1.30–4 p.m.
Monday: Whitechapel Guild beginners, 2.40–5 p.m.
Tuesday: Adult band, 7.30–9.30 p.m.
Wednesday: Whitechapel Guild beginners, 2.40–5 p.m.
Thursday: Whitechapel Guild beginners, 2.40–5 p.m.
Friday: Whitechapel Guild beginners, 2.40–5 p.m.

There is also open ringing for service on Fridays at 8 a.m.

On Saturday mornings there is no scheduled ringing but the time is used for practice by the most advanced band. Visitors are welcome to any session but the best ringing is to be had on Sundays. Peal or quarter peal attempts will be arranged on Saturday mornings if the visitor writes in advance.

50 YEARS' RINGING AT EDINBURGH

This year the ringers at St. Cuthbert's Church, Edinburgh, have celebrated an unusual and most happy event. Miss May S. Taylor, who started ringing in this tower in 1917, has completed 50 years' service as a ringer. To mark the occasion a quarter peal of 1,260 Grandsire Triples was rung on June 17th, and later a presentation of a bracelet and a certificate was made to her. The certificate was signed and presented to Miss Taylor by the Rt. Rev. Dr. R. Leonard Small, minister of St. Cuthbert's, who was also Moderator of the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland during Miss Taylor's 50th year as a ringer. We wish Miss Taylor many more years of ringing to come.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD

Whitechurch Canonicorum, with its ring of eight bells and the tower some 80 feet high, overlooking the lovely Marshwood Vale, which dates from the eighth century, was the venue of the West Dorset Branch meeting on September 23rd. Seven towers were represented and visitors were welcomed.

The Guild service was conducted by the Rev. E. Edwards, Vicar of Melplash (the Vicar being on holiday), and a good tea, laid on by local ringers and their lady helpers, was enjoyed by all.

At the start of the business meeting, with Mr. C. W. Powell in the chair, members stood to the memory of S. Gardener (Thorncombe) and Bert Elsworth (Bradpole) the Branch organist. A grant was made towards the Beaminster Bell Fund, which was gratefully acknowledged by Mr. J. T. Barrett.

Next meeting (annual) Bridport, Saturday, November 25th. Practice meetings: Loders, Wednesday, November 8th; Bradpole, Tuesday, December 12th.

Methods rung during the meeting included Grandsire and Stedman Triples and Cambridge Surprise.

GLASTONBURY SOMERSET. — On Sept. 28th, 1,440 Plain Bob Minor: Miss S. A. Mayell 1, D. G. Mayell 2, K. Prime 3, Mrs. D G. Mayell 4, F. J. White 5, L. A. England (first quarter as cond.) 6. A 4th birthday compliment to Alan Lee, grandson of the ringer of the 5th.

Letters to the Editor

ALDERMASTON BOB MAJOR

Dear Sir,—I rather suspect that Mr. E. Steele's letter (page 694) was written under a fictitious name and the writer is well known in London circles; his letter makes interesting reading.

While one cannot argue with most of what he says, I would like to correct a few false impressions that he gives and hope his sole motive was not the purpose of stirring things up with a wooden spoon.

The musical qualities of this method rung on its own make it such that it is extremely doubtful if any band will ever have the nerve to try it; by inserting Plain Bob you avoid any eight sevens and in fact the composition used did provide plenty of good music.

However, we are fortunate enough now to have rules which allow us to ring what many of the purists would call rubbish. Grandsire Major is an example of this, but it was not so many years ago that these methods were just not frowned upon as at present, but forbidden (Plain Bob Triples also fell in this category).

So while not defending this method as it stands on its own, I do defend the rights of the band to ring it if they wish; after all, our friend Mr. Steele does not have to listen unless he wants to, and this is extremely doubtful.—Yours sincerely,

GEOFFREY K. DODD.

Highclere, Hants.

Dear Sir,—I apologise for the error in the lead end of Aldermaston Bob. Mr. Steele is quite correct in saying that it should be 135284€7, but he is incorrect in saying that three blows are made in sevenths place; they are in fact made in eighths place.

Mr. Steele, and doubtless many other people, cannot see the logic of introducing a method such as Aldermaston Bob, but I would point out to him that there are other methods with a similar change from Plain Bob, i.e. Reverse Canterbury Pleasure, and Hunslet, the only difference in the Major form being that there are no three blows in one place Surely Mr. Steele has rung some methods of this nature, so I find it difficult to see how he can accuse me of "scraping the bottom of the barrel."—Yours faithfully,

DAVID L. WILCOX.

Beenham Hill, Reading.

VISITORS AND BELFRY FEES

Dear Sir,—I was interested to see the letter concerning belfry fees and visitors ("Ringing World," September 29th). I think this letter shows the attitude of ringers such as Mrs Lawrence today. Their interest in ringing is purely for what they can get out of it; they are not even prepared to pay 6d. towards its upkeep.

With all respect to Mrs. Lawrence, let's wake up! The maintenance of bells is very expensive, so surely 6d. is not an exorbitant fee to ask, especially when an innocent mistake by a visiting learner could easily cost the church 30s. for a new stay.

I believe towers such as Highgate are perfectly justified in asking for a small fee towards the maintenance of the bells.

As for discouraging non-members, I wonder how much Mrs. Lawrence would have left in the collecting box on leaving after having the privilege of some decent ringing with an Association of which she is not even a member.—Yours faithfully, C. G. WRIGHT.

Walthamstow, London.

FIRST-WAR MEMORY RECALLED

Dear Sir —I was extremely interested to see the report of the handbell peal by the Cambridge University Guild in which Dr. Williamson rang the tenors. More than 50 years ago, in February, 1917, I was soldiering at the old Albany Barracks at Parkhurst, Isle of Wight. The bells at Newport were at that time away at the founder's, but a few local ringers used to meet at the house of the kindly Mr. Upton, 10, Elm Grove, for handbell ringing.

It was at this house that I met Mr. Williamson, and I find from a note in my diary that I rang Stedman Triples with him. I remember that I rang a single bell and that it was the first Stedman Triples I ever rang.

We were joined, too, by a Sergeant Blake, who was on the staff at the barracks, and I recollect how comforting it was to me in those bleak days to realise I had "a friend at Court."

I send my greetings to Dr. Williamson, and should this meet the eye of Mr. Blake I should be delighted to hear from him.—Yours sincerely,

EDGAR C. SHEPHERD.

46, Manor Gardens,
Warminster Wilts.

MR. ARTHUR KNIGHTS' PEALS

Dear Sir,—I was very interested in the appreciation given to Mr. Arthur Percival Knights, by Mr. F. A. Adams, on page 711 of "The Ringing World." Although I never met him, his name was very often mentioned by his father, Mr. Arthur Knights, in the correspondence we had in the 1930's. I would wish to add my appreciation, and endorse Mr. Adams' remarks.

Secondly, the heading given to the two peals, on the same page, is not quite correct, as both peals have been rung, and published. Peal No. 369, rung 30-12-33, published K.C.A. Report, 1934, and Peal No. 38, rung 19-12-31, K.C.A. Report, 1931. The variations to these peals have not been previously published, although I have had them for over 30 years.

My records, of calling Arthur Knights' peals, is 92 different compositions, 79 first time rung.—Yours faithfully,

T. E. SONE.

Brenchley, Kent.

ST. MARGARET'S SOCIETY, WESTMINSTER

Dear Sir,—May I (now in my 83rd year) congratulate Mr. William Shepherd on attaining his 84th birthday and express the hope that he will be spared for many years to delight us in these columns with his contributions. Also may I say how pleased I was to see the quarter peal at Westminster in honour of this occasion.

The footnote states that Mr. Shepherd and Mr. George Symonds are the last two surviving members of the old St. Margaret's Society, Westminster. I am also a survivor and took part in what was probably the Society's last peal, Stedman Caters, at St. Margaret's on June 1st, 1909.—Yours sincerely,

E. BARNETT.

Crayford, Kent.

OBITUARY

MR. J. A. TOWNSEND

The death has occurred of Mr. John A. Townsend, aged 71, of Handsacre, near Rugeley, Staffs. who was a native of Milton Malsor, Northants.

He served in the 1914-18 war with the Northamptonshire Yeomanry in France and Italy, and his horse was shot from under him during action in the capture of Monchy-le-Pruex, near Arras, France, on Easter Wednesday 1917.

After the first world war he coached a band of ringers into method ringing at Milton Malsor. This band he conducted for the first peal on the bells on March 8th, 1923, and was rung for the Central Northamptonshire Association. A peal board has recently been erected to record the event. He rang many peals for the Association.

Mr. Townsend became a member of the Association for the Archdeaconry of Stafford upon moving to Armitage in 1949, to take up the position of stationmaster. He joined the Rugeley band, and also helped to train ringers at nearby Longdon, where a half-muffled quarter peal was rung in memoriam.

Owing to illness in 1962, he was forced to give up ringing activities, but remained keenly interested. He died quite peacefully after a short illness, leaving a widow and married son. May he rest in peace.

MR. WALTER J. STARR

Mr. Walter J. Starr who died at the home of his son at Cold Ashton, Glos, on September 24th in his 85th year, was for nearly 50 years tower master of St. Mary's Swainswick, near Bath. As a tribute to his faithful service, a half-muffled peal was rung on these bells on the day of his funeral (September 28th). A keen ringer, one of his happiest memories was ringing at Canterbury Cathedral. He was one of the oldest readers of "The Ringing World."

A great lover of flowers, particularly dahlias, his flowers, when in season, beautified the Church of Holy Trinity, Cold Ashton.

TWO AGED MONMOUTHSHIRE RINGERS
MR. A. PROBERT

We regret to record the death of Mr Albert Probert, of Llangibby, Mon, aged 88 years. He was one of the Llangibby ringers who was taught change ringing by the late J. W. Jones, the well-known exponent of our art from Newport. Services were held at St. Cybi Church Llangibby, and the Gwent Crematorium and during the evening the bells at St. Cybi Church were rung half-muffled to 1,260 changes of Grandsire Triples by the Usk band. Unfortunately this was not a correct quarter peal as two bells had changed course. We extend our sympathy to the family.

L. J.

MR. E. W. LUFF

Mr. Edgar William Luff, of Usk, who died at the age of 86, started bellringing in 1926, and at one time captained the Usk band of ringers. On retiring, his remark was "Do your best and keep them going."

The funeral service was held in St. Mary's Church, Usk, where Mr. Luff had also been a sidesman. The Vicar, the Rev. R. L. Davies, officiated, and Usk bellringers and a close friend acted as bearers. Cremation followed at Gwent Crematorium.

In the evening the bells were rung to 1,260 Grandsire Triples, but again it was not a true quarter peal. However, the following day members of the Llandaff and Monmouth Association rang a half-muffled peal on the bells.

We have lost a good friend, and our sympathy is extended to Mrs. Luff and family.

Ringers' Clothing — Hints and Suggestions

HOW many of you have not at some time looked at people ringing and thought "I wonder if X realises what he/she looks like." Over the past years I have studied dress habits, often unconsciously, in many towers throughout the country and here are the fruits of the studies, offered as suggestions—tactfully, I hope.

Firstly, ladies. The fashion for mini skirts produces strange sights hitherto unseen in modest belfries. To all ringers who wear mini skirts, please have a trial "pull" at home in front of a mirror before venturing out to ring in your new short length. Check, when stretching up at backstroke, (a) that your slip does not show, and (b) that the tops of your stockings do not show, or worse still that bare flesh above the stocking is not visible.

If (a) does show then some needlework at waist level is necessary; but if you must show a frill below your skirt make sure it is not frayed and also that it is clean. Get Mum or a friend to check for you by sitting on the floor nearby if the mirror is not critical enough. The worst type of garment for ringing in is a dress with tight sleeves; the whole thing seems to go up a foot or two with each backstroke. So check the hems of your dresses.

The most suitable clothes for lady ringers are undoubtedly "separates," but these of course are not so smart and even these have their pitfalls. What is worse than a crumpled blouse which has parted company with the skirt and shows either bare midriff or a grey undergarment? So make sure your blouses are long enough. Slacks are very suitable attire for tours, although not always approved of in some towers. However, these can be uncomfortable in hot weather.

Flat shoes are best, especially for climbing stone stairs, which can ruin the leather of good heeled shoes. But for peal ringers, shoes with slight heel (about one inch) are more comfortable. Luckily the fashion for pointed metal heels has changed, but during their heyday these heels caused havoc to many well-cared-for belfry floors. One steeplekeeper known to the writer insisted that such offenders removed their shoes before walking on his pristine lino. If you still wear this sort of shoes be kind when visiting other towers and stand on one of the mats if the floor is the sort that could be injured.

Perhaps the fashion will change back, too, to full skirts and we shall see again the interesting spectacle produced when one is caught in a moving rope. The straighter skirts are much more preferable for ringing. One final hint to the ladies before embarking on a continuous length of ringing—check your bra straps; any which are too tight can produce very painful weals in a short time.

Now to men—yes, some of you need hints, too! You suffer from waist gaps and no one really wants to know the brand of your underwear! The shirt tucked between pants and trousers saves this embarrassment. If you do a lot of continuous ringing especially in hot weather, you will find nylon or similar man-made fabrics most uncomfortable to wear. Even with a cotton vest underneath this does not provide enough material to absorb the perspiration which the nylon rejects. Shirts made of cotton mixed with these fabrics are preferable as they stay crisp and yet are absorbent.

Self-supporting trousers are smarter, provided they are; make sure that all buttons and clasps are firm; then perhaps we shall not see remarks in "Belfry Gossip" about unfortunate occurrences in peals! If your shape is such that braces are essential, or if you prefer to wear them, then make sure they are presentable—not hanging on by one button nor elastically deficient.

Finally a whisper in the ear of all ringers everywhere—"B.O." Yes, make sure you all use a deodorant—male and female alike. Nothing is worse than opening the belfry to be hit by the smell of hot, steaming ringers. Many of our belfries lack ventilation and a "fug" soon builds up. So be neighbourly, everyone needs to use one, and if you think you don't then you are probably one of the worst offenders!

AN OBSERVER.

PETERSFIELD, HANTS—On Oct. 1st, 1,260 Plain Bob and Grandsire Doubles (with two covering): Carol Stacey 1, Sally Stacey (12 years, first "inside") 2, K. Sansom (cond.) 3, R. Tipper 4, D. Hatherly 5, A. Betsworth 6, R. Cross 7. For Harvest Festival.

SOLIHULL, WARWICKS.—On Oct. 1st, 1,260 Grandsire Triples A. Crabtree (first away from cover) 1, Verona Naylor 2, Pamela M. Turner 3, E. J. Cole 4, T. J. Warner 5, V. Green 6, R. J. Cann (first of Triples as cond.) 7, G. E. Fearn 8. For Evensong.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD

The quarterly meeting at Devizes on October 7th drew nearly 60 people, and the company included visitors from Norfolk, Bristol, Guildford and Cheltenham. Among those present were the president of the Guild and the general secretary.

Seventeen new members were elected, and among these was a whole band from Heytesbury. Practice ringing ranged from rounds to Surprise and was varied enough to give everybody plenty of ringing.

The Branch Committee held a meeting to make final arrangements for the striking competition, which will be held at Corsley at 2.30 p.m. on November 4th. Nine companies have now entered, and it has been decided that the test shall be a touch of 120 changes or five minutes of any other type of ringing. The Branch chairman pointed out that no band need feel incapable of entering for the competition, for it was the sincere wish of the organisers that this should be a friendly and helpful occasion.

The service in St. John's Church was conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. W. D. C. Williams, and the lesson was read by Mr. Andrews, the Branch chairman. At the meeting Mr. Weeks paid tribute to the work of Mr. J. Rumming, whose death has left a gap in the band at Southbroom.

Next meeting: Corsley, and in December at Steeple Ashton.

A DEVON PEAL RINGING WEEK

DEVON was the venue for a peal ringing week during the first week in October. The leader was to have been Mr. George E. Fearn, but to the great regret of all he was prevented from coming owing to a serious illness in his family. However, Mr. J. Alan Ainsworth proved to be a delightful substitute, and those accompanying him were Clifford Skidmore, Michael Perry, Jack Millhouse, Geoffrey Parker, Michael Maughan, Eric Harrison, Frank Darby, Maurice Edwards, Clifford Barron and John Anderson. The King's Arms Hotel, Buckfastleigh, was the headquarters, and the towers were selected and procured by Mr. A. L. Bennett, of Buckfastleigh, who did everything possible to ensure the smooth running of the tour.

On the journey down on September 30th the first peal was scored, one of London Surprise Major, at Highweek Church. Sunday saw the tourists at Dean Prior Church to ring after morning service, and in the afternoon the five six at Modbury Church were sampled. It was a privilege to ring at St. Andrew's, Plymouth, that evening, where Messrs. A. W. Myers and D. R. Bould, as well as Mr. Bennett, joined in two exceptionally good touches of Stedman Caters.

On Monday morning the serious business of the week began when another peal of London Surprise Major was rung at Wolborough, and Miss Merryn Hutchings, of Modbury, formerly of Solihull, had the satisfaction of ringing her first peal in this method "inside." The afternoon tower was St. Mary's, Brixham, where Cambridge Royal was lost after nearly two hours ringing.

LOST AND REGAINED

Tuesday morning found the tourists at East Budleigh, the birthplace of Sir Walter Raleigh. The bells are a light eight, and a little rung method—Illey Surprise Major—was lost after nearly two hours. The afternoon ringing was on the magnificent octave at Broadclyst, where another peal of London Surprise Major was accomplished in fine style in just over three hours.

Buckland-in-the-Moor was to have been the venue on Wednesday morning, but owing to a funeral that day this visit had to be cancelled. Bovey Tracey, however, proved to be a good substitute and Illey Surprise Major was duly accomplished. The afternoon tower contained the good octave at Ashburton, where an equally good peal of Yorkshire Major was also completed in just over the three hour mark.

On Thursday morning at Clyst Honiton the tourists were met by Mrs. G. E. Retter, a member of a ringing family who do much to foster the art in this particular area. London Surprise Major was the order on this fine ground floor ring, but the attempt came to grief after just over one hour's ringing. There was another disappointment in the afternoon at Ottery St. Mary, where Rutland Surprise Major just would "not go" on the fine ground floor ring. Cambridge Major was quickly substituted and this was successfully accomplished in just under three hours.

SHIFT COURSE SUGGESTION

On Friday morning the Rev. J. G. M. Scott met the tourists at Newton St. Cyres. Perhaps the thought of his tape recorder prompted a shift course after one and a quarter hours. In the afternoon the table and clock in Woodbury belfry, memorials to the late John Glanville, were much admired and a good peal of Cambridge Major was rung.

The tourists' homeward journey started the next morning after staying at Cullompton, but a stop was made at Ledbury, Herefordshire, where the final peal of the tour, Rutland Surprise, was rung. This splendid octave was judged by the tourists to be the second best of the week after Broadclyst.

Sincere thanks are due to those clergy and to fellow ringers who met the tourists, who were not unmindful of the able work of the two organisers.

Elijah Roberts — the Greatest "Tapper"

IN contemplating the art of change ringing we cannot but be struck by the many and varied talents that may be put to use in its pursuit. A thoughtful observer of some of the greatest and most gifted members of the Exercise, in theoretical and practical fields, may well be filled with wonder at the uncanny perception so often displayed, and he may possibly be led to inquire of himself what these people have that we lack. Among the many feats that astonish us are exhibitions of tapped changes and the almost incredible ability and concentration that enable men to tap out peals single-handed. The earliest, and in some ways the most amazing, exponent of this art of whom we have recoverd is Elijah Roberts.

Roberts was born in Birmingham in 1807, and began his ringing career at a very early age. Before he was thirteen he was in the belfry and had already begun to tap changes. He became a very competent ringer and conductor, ringing his first peal at the age of fourteen, and later taking part in most of the peals rung by St. Martin's Youths. His later performances included Treble Bob Royal and Cinques and the composing and conducting of 6,282 Grandsire Caters. But it was as a tapper that he astonished his contemporaries, and but for the incontestable evidence available we might be tempted to pass off the records of these feats as apocryphal.

The first of these extraordinary peals came in 1824, when Elijah was seventeen years of age. This peal, tapped in three hours and twenty-seven minutes, was made up entirely of Plain Courses of the following: Triples, Grandsire, Plain Bob, Stedman, Treble Bob; Major, Grandsire, Plain Bob, Treble Bob; Caters, Grandsire, Plain Bob, Stedman, Treble Bob; Royal, Grandsire, Plain Bob, Treble Bob; Cinques, Grandsire, Plain Bob, Stedman, Treble Bob; Maximus, Grandsire, Plain Bob, Treble Bob. The whole was rounded off by a course of Treble Bob Sixteen! We may well marvel both at the mastery of coursing order and the concentration so completely at the young man's command.

In 1827 Roberts tapped a peal of Treble Bob Maximus, and in 1830 a peal of 7,536 in the same method, and this time the bobs were called by Joseph Powell and witnessed by a number of prominent Birmingham ringers. Three years later came a tapped peal of Stedman Cinques, composed and conducted by Henry Cooper; among the witnesses of this peal was Henry Johnson, whose testimony alone is enough to set seal on the truth of the performance.

Elijah Roberts was described by Thomas Day as "a nice lad with bright and keen blue eyes and of a very determined nature." This reference to determination would certainly accord with what has been noted above and would have a bearing on the incredible feat of 1837. As a ringer Roberts must have been of great value in Birmingham at a time when the Society of St. Martin's Youth was maintaining a somewhat precarious existence, sustained by the faith of Hopkins and Johnson and opportunely reinforced by the arrival of Chattell. For some time Roberts kept "The Union" tavern in Jamaica Row, and this house was the gathering place of the Society. It was here that the peal of Stedman Cinques was rung.

Soon after the peal of Cinques Roberts abandoned the tavern to become a coach driver, but settled eventually in Liverpool, where he took "The Derby Arms" public house. Here he rang his last peal. It was 19,440 Kent Treble Bob Maximus, and Roberts tapped it on handbells in Thirteen Hours and Forty-three Minutes. There were no witnesses of this supendous performance, but there can be little doubt that it was carried through.

In "The Ringing World" of October 6th, 1911, Mr. T. Hervey Beams, that assiduous collector of change ringing records, published the copy of a letter found in a scrapbook compiled by a Mr. W. Chrisfield of London, and which had been in the possession of the Rev. H. T. Ellacombe. The ancient manuscript reads: "Derby, January 23rd, 1944: Dear Sir, The underneath is the peal I rang on my handbells, which took me 13 hours and 43 minutes, New Treble Bob Maximus." There follow the figures of Reeve's Five-Part and the signature of Elijah Roberts. The interest aroused by this discovery brought a letter from Alfred Paddon Smith (at that time Secretary of St. Martin's Guild), quoting another letter written by Roberts to a friend in Birmingham telling that he had rung the great peal and "regretting that no amateur heard it. The neighbours said they thought I should never give in, for they heard the bells ringing hours before they got up, and almost until bedtime again."

In "The Ringing World" of October 20th, 1911, William Snowdon gave a review of an article on the subject of the 19,440, written by his brother Jasper in 1885. This very ably examined all the evidence available, together with the character of Roberts and his phenomenal skill as a tapper, and it could leave us only with the conviction that this tremendous feat of mental and physical endurance had actually been accomplished.

During this century we have seen the wonderful peal tapping of men like John Seager, Olave Broyd, A. T. Morris, the extraordinary versatility of Harry Withers on all numbers of bells, and notable expositions of this peculiar art by a number of other practitioners. But the first of this line was Elijah Robert, and the wonder of his performances can stir us even in these days of many marvels. E .C. S.

ANOTHER STORY OF RINGING IN DEVON

This Time the University of Bristol Society

EXCELLENT bells, magnificent countryside, finest cider and reasonably good weather were the chief items on the menu as "served" by Frank Mack to the University of Bristol Society on their annual tour this year.

The tour started on August 26th at Up Ottery, where we renewed friendships. From there to Stockland, where the local inhabitants seemed a little bewildered to see so many cars at once descending upon their church. The majority of our party were even more bewildered and mystified to see Frank lead our general secretary off in the wrong direction towards, or rather away from, the next tower, Combeigh! Here, as in the previous tower, ringing took place from a balcony and, after a couple of touches had been rung, Messrs. Mack and Bird were seen creeping into the church as if they had been there all the time!

So ended Saturday's ringing programme and we all made our way to our respective caravans, camping sites, farmhouse and hostelries in and around the Exmouth/Woodbury area. Sunday morning saw us ringing Triples at Woodbury, followed by ice cream at the Foxholes, Exmouth.

It was really too hot to ring at Exeter Cathedral that afternoon but after much prodding from our organiser we successfully rang a touch of Grandsire Cinques and three leads of Treble Twelve. Over then to the very irregular-shaped church at St. Petrox and then to Heavitree, the best bells of the week, and we did justice to them with touches of Double Norwich and Stedman Triples.

FRANK'S BIRTHDAY

That evening some of us attended a practice—yes, it was a Sunday—at the Garage Ring. Unfortunately a quarter in honour of Frank's birthday was hopelessly out of the question, since we only managed a course of Cambridge after three difficult attempts, during which the chairman of the G. and B. was seen to overturn her bell more than once!

The heavy six at St. Michael's, Honiton, made a rather noisy start to Monday before ringing at Axminster. On to Uplyme where, after a quick rise, the bells went straight into Cambridge. It was not very sunny for the children on the beach at Lyme Regis, but the sound of these delightful bells probably made up for the lack of sun.

Heading back westwards, our next call was at Colyton, with its very devious ascent and its irregular-shaped tower, bell arrangement and rope "circle." At Sidbury we rang our first Oxford Bob Triples on the tour before having tea. Several people were tricked by the small staircase just inside the doorway at Ottery St. Mary Church that evening.

RECORD LENGTH OF CALL CHANGES

Tuesday was the day of great mileage, a total of approximately 110 being covered. After a quick ring at Crediton we duly arrived, despite an abundance of combine harvesters on the road at North Tawton. On entering the ringing chamber we were visually warned to listen to our striking. In addition to the large number of certificates there was, on the wall, a board telling us of the record length for a call change peal—four hours. After a good course of Bristol, slight confusion arose when our general secretary called "Look to" from the second! He had just rung it to the Bristol, too!

Winkleigh was the next stop, both for ringing and refreshment. We can certainly recommend the cider at the Ring o' Bells there. At Great Torrington we "pitched-'em-in" and after some Cambridge, Plain Bob Triples and Stedman the bells were lowered in Queens.

Our first attempt at London Surprise Major went wrong halfway at Hatherleigh but the same method was successfully rung at Okehampton. That evening we were privileged to be able to join the local practice at Littleham, where Lady Nelson's grave is in the churchyard.

BUCKFAST ABBEY

Ringing at Bovey Tracey, sightseeing on the Moor and Spliced Plain and Little at Buckland-in-the-Moor were the highlights on Wednesday morning. A picnic lunch in the heart of this beautiful county was followed by a ring on the famous 12 at Buckfast Abbey. We were pleased to have Father Mowan join us in the ringing here, which included Erin Cinques with a long single to start with. A bob course of Grandsire Cinques preceded an almost faultless lower on the back eight.

Our only trouble on the tour occurred at the next tower, Berry Pomeroy, where one rope broke and another slipped wheel. Luckily at Ipplepen the local ringer was as early in arriving as we were. We had pleasure in ringing at the East Budleigh practice that evening, after which the local captain showed us the excellently-carved church bench-ends before escorting us to the Sir Walter Raleigh Inn and insisting on buying us all drinks.

SS. Mary and Martin's, Chudleigh, was our first call next day and our Yorkshire here had to compete with the traffic noise from the A.38. The ringing chamber at our next tower, Kingsteignton, boasted the All Devon Shield and the Tawstock Invitation Shield. Some excellent Stedman was recorded here. Lunch was taken following a ring at Wolborough. A longish journey then brought us to the recently augmented ten at Brixham. Whilst the large number of children in the party amused themselves with the model church and its bells underneath the tower, our tour doctor called a good touch of Stedman Caters. This was followed by a pure U.B.S.C.R. band ringing a half-course of Cambridge Royal. The day was rounded off by visiting Powderham and some attended Topsham practice.

SUNDAY SCHOOL TREAT!

The following morning, after finding the fourth heavier than the treble at Brampford Speke, we ran into rain on our way to Thorverton. At Silverton an all-ladies' touch of Plain Bob Triples was "called" with the help of the men in the background! We were honoured by having a special bar opened for us, complete with children, at the Trout Inn, Bickleigh. Several Society grandfathers remarked that this was indeed a departure from the past and more like a Sunday School treat than a ringers' lunch! After ringing, which included 60 on thirds at Bickleigh, we travelled to Broadclyst. Some recorded Grandsire Triples, Bristol Surprise Major and photographs here sped us on our way to the Mack house.

Mary had put on a very good spread for us, for which we were extremely grateful. After this, whilst the men listened to our recorded efforts of the week, the ladies, having cleared away of course, retired, with children, to the garage Never before has the U.B.S.C.R. tour included a ringing lesson for children—a dozen one to eight-year-olds were seen intently trying to master the bells of the Garage Ring! That evening, after finishing the practice at Withycombe Raleigh correctly with a course of Bristol, we retired to the Holly Tree, where some farewells were said.

However, the tour was not quite over since there were three towers on Saturday morning. After Aylesbeare and Talaton the grand finale came at Luppitt, where we hope the six soon get augmented to eight—they will surely make an excellent octave.

And so to the farewells until Dinner Day. Frank deserves our hearty thanks for all the time and effort that he must certainly have put in to arrange such a successful tour. We also wish to thank Pat for all the central administration for the tour, and last, but by no means least, we must thank all the local ringers and incumbents. E. G. M. and C. M.

WINCHESTER & PORTSMOUTH GUILD

The Basingstoke District were the guests of the Church Oakley ringers, a band at present consisting of ladies only, on September 16th. Over 50 members attended, and the proportion of young beginners was even higher than at recent meetings of the District. The Guild Office was conducted by the Rector, the Rev. K. H Jackson, and tea at the Rectory was followed by further ringing.

The young ladies of Church Oakley must be congratulated on their redecoration of the ringing chamber, the walls being painted in a pleasing primrose tint. A screen is shortly to be erected at the west end of the nave, under the tower arch. This is to be associated with the name of the late Marcus Lee, who was for many years captain of the tower; it will be dedicated on the evening of Monday, November 6th.

PUTNEY, LONDON.—On Oct. 1st, 1,408 Putney Surprise Major: Janet M. Bull (first of Treble Bob Major) 1, C. F. Mew 2, Alison M. Mann 3, Rev. M. Hart 4, Julie S. Armstrong 5, B. J. Bull 6, D. C. Brookes 7, A. R. Patterson (cond.) 8. For Evensong, and as a compliment to Rev. W. Blake, ordained deacon in Southwark Cathedral earlier this day.

SPROUGHTON, SUFFOLK.—On Oct. 1st, 1,260 Minor (Oxford and Plain Bob): G. J. Hagger 1, P. May 2, Margaret Newby 3, K. Whittell 4, R. G. Kersey 5, R. W. Steward (cond.) 6. For Harvest Evensong.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Braintwister entries have been received from New Zealand and Africa. Such is the advantage of having "The Ringing World" by air.

The peal of Yorkshire Surprise Major at Malvern Link (page 724) was rung on September 16th and not September 19th as wrongly submitted.

Saydisc Specialised Recordings Ltd. hope to have available by the end of November the first of their recordings of "Bells of Britain" series. It will deal with the bells of Bristol.

Washington Cathedral band have adopted a policy of a contribution to "The Ringing World" of five dollars per peal and 2.50 dollars a quarter. The Editorial Committee wish them a most successful year.

The Ely Diocesan Association raised £27 for their bell restoration fund by a draw. Two towers undergoing restoration—Isleham and Histon—will both receive grants from the fund.

From Accrington we get an inquiry: What is the lowest number of faults recorded by a Sunday service band in a striking competition?

Barnet Herts, had a notable quarter on September 24th—three first quarters and a first as conductor. May it be the forerunner of many more.

One of the three locomotives built by Sir Arthur P. Heywood (1849–1916) for his Duffield Bank railway line is still running—on the Ravenglass and Eskdale Railway in Cumberland. Sir Arthur was the founder of the Central Council.

Two promising first pealers at Beaconsfield are Captain David Wood and his wife, Belinda. It was a disappointment to their tutors, Harry Wingrove and Miss Dorothy R. Fletcher, not to be fit enough to ring with them on this auspicious occasion in their ringing life. They both rang "inside" to Plain Bob Major on September 30th at St. Mary and All Saints' Church.

A NEW RECORD IN 12-BELL RINGING

On September 9th at Leicester Cathedral a band from the Lancashire Association, conducted by Neil Bennett, established a new record with a peal of Spliced Surprise Maximus containing 35 methods. The band wish to associate the peal with the 21st anniversary of the Leicester Diocesan Guild. This Guild, under the magnetic leadership of the late Harold Poole, pioneered Spliced Surprise Maximus in the 1950's.

The band are grateful to Margaret Booth for standing in at short notice in place of Maryl Fielding, who was indisposed. The peal was rung with best wishes to Brian J. Woodruff and Patricia Bullen and to Frederick Shallcross and Carol Williams, who were married the previous week.

PAST MASTER OF LIVERPOOL UNIVERSITY SOCIETY MARRIES

Many Liverpool University friends attended the wedding at St John's Church, Royston, Yorks. on September 2nd of Miss Janice Smith and Mr Jeffrey Fox. The bridegroom is a Past Master of Liverpool University Society. He started his ringing career at Royston and it was there the couple met. Janice is now teaching at Wallasey, while Jeff continues his studies for a degree in medicine.

At the service the bride wore a full-length cape gown with train and trimmed with guipure lace. The four bridesmaids wore full-length dresses of pale blue satin the chief being Barbara Fox, the sister of the bridegroom

After the reception a peal was rung for the Ancient Society of College Youths.

SILENT BELLS RUNG FOR THE HARVEST

Hunston, Suffolk, bells were heard ringing for the first time for many years for the Harvest Festival. This unexpected pleasure was due to the Rougham ringers who rang 720 Grandsire and Plain Bob Doubles. They also rang a 720 at Great Ashfield for the Harvest Thanksgiving and were thanked by the Bishop of Dunwich (the Rt Rev. M. D. Maddock), who said he only wished that more of Suffolk bells could be manned on a Sunday.

Naturally, Rougham people rang for their own harvest celebration—a 720 both morning and evening.

MEMORIAL TO CHISWICK RINGER

A memorial was dedicated in St. Nicholas' Church, Chiswick, on Sunday, October 1st, to Thomas James Thurley, who for over 50 years was a ringer and steeplekeeper at this church. He died on September 30th, 1965 aged 73.

The memorial takes the form of a bronze plaque placed in the ringing chamber and baptistry of the church, recording the half-muffled peal of Yorkshire Surprise Major rung by the University of London Society on October 12th, 1965, to his memory. The names of the ringers are not given.

AN OLD QUOTE ON CLOCKING

M. Wright in an article on "Bells with a story," in "Home Words" states that Bishop Grandison, of Exeter, tried to stop the custom of tolling bells. His comment: "They do no good to the departed, are an annoyance to the living and injurious to the fabric of the bell."

"BARNABY'S BELL," NEW TENOR NAME

Wansford, Northants, has had its minor five augmented to six by the addition of a tenor, which will be dedicated by the Archdeacon of Oakham, the Ven. Frank N. Towndrow, on Sunday, November 5th, at 6 p.m.

It is to be called "Barnaby's Bell" at the request of the manageress of the Haycock Hotel, Wansford, who was the first to send a donation when the Ringing Society launched an appeal about two years ago. The legendary Barnaby is painted on the inn sign of the Haycock Hotel.

The story goes that Barnaby was swept down the River Nen asleep on top of a haycock and was awakened by the bell in St. Mary's Church being rung. Seeing people standing on the bridge, he called out "Where am I?" "Wansford in England," was the reply.

This solitary bell was very old and it was not until 1887 that it had a companion cast by Warner's of London. Then in 1897 a treble and fourth were cast by John Taylor and Co. to commemorate Queen Victoria's Diamond Jubilee. The old bell was also recast and the four bells hung in a frame said to have been put in by a local handyman because of a shortage of funds. The bells could only be chimed or at the most half-raised.

In 1960 an estimate was obtained from Messrs. J. Taylor and Co. for a new iron frame for six. While this job was in hand the gift of a new treble was received from the Barron Bell Trust and the bells tuned to a minor five. Practice nights were started and a band able to ring for service was soon in being.

Barnaby's Bell, cast by J. Taylor and Co. now hangs in the tower and weighs 3 cwt. 2 qr. 19 lb. The treble weighs 1 cwt. 2 qr. 8 lb.

MISS BETTY FAUNCH MARRIED

Miss Elizabeth Faunch, a faithful member of St. John's, Preston, band for several years, was married at St. John's Church, Preston, on September 30th to Mr. Richard Palmer, late of Holy Trinity band, Morecambe. The couple met at a Preston ringing practice, the bridegroom having come to Preston to work.

The bride wore a full-length satin dress with train, and carried apricot roses. The bride's niece, in blue satin, was her attendant.

The local ringers rang before and after the service, and in the morning a peal of Yorkshire Surprise Major was rung by some of the ringing guests at Bilsborrow

The couple spent a short honeymoon in Yorkshire, and are now living in Preston. All friends are welcome at the house, but are advised to take their own paint brushes!

GRUNDISBURGH BELLS PEALED, TOO!

The celebrations of the wedding of Mr. Kenneth Minchinton and Miss Lyndel Dallimore were not confined to ringing at St Paul's Cathedral, where Ken has given years of faithful service. At Grundisburgh, Mr George W. Pipe, who was a friend of Ken's when in Melbourne, conducted a peal of Cambridge Surprise Royal in honour of the occasion.

Members of Great Adventure II have the happiest of recollections of the evening spent at 24 Central Park Road, East Malvern, the home of Ken's parents, and the lavish hospitality extended.

BELLS AND ARCHITECTURE IN DUNSTER AREA

Churches noted for their architectural interest as well as possessing excellent rings of bells were selected by the ringers of Hemington and Kilmersdon for their annual outing on September 16th into the Dunster Branch area.

Towers visited in the morning were Wembdon and Watchett, where an excellent lunch was provided. Then came Selworthy in all its autumn beauty, Porlock with tea at Porlock Weir, Wootton Courtenay and Cutcombe. Methods rung ranged from various Doubles and Minor, including Cambridge Surprise. Our thanks include a special one to the Dunster Branch for allowing us to join them at Porlock.

R. V.

KIMPTON'S NEW VICAR

Kimpton's new Vicar, the Rev. Robert Meredith, who was inducted on September 28th, learned to ring during his theological training at Cheshunt, but so far has not had a parish with a ring of bells. He hopes to advance from plain hunt with the aid of the local band and at least one of his five daughters is keen to learn the art.

The peal attempt of welcome was unfortunately unsuccessful—like the attempt for his predecessor, but a quarter of Kent T.B. Minor, which followed, was a true welcome in the ringing sense.

A GOOD FIRST YEAR

St. John's Peterborough (8 cwt. 27 lb.), has a star pupil in Miss Pamela Blackith. Under the guidance of Mr. R. H. Daw, Pamela has made very good progress in 12 months and rung in three quarters—Plain Bob Minor (after seven months), Plain Bob Major and Grandsire Triples (both "inside") and all very creditably. She has also rung in over 60 churches.

It is also pleasing to learn that St. John's, Peterborough, has several other young learners (ages from 11 upwards) who are following in Pamela's footsteps.

UP-AND-COMING YOUNGSTER

May we ask for the co-operation of District secretaries and tower captains in our series of "Up-and-Coming Youngsters." Please send particulars and a photograph—a passport picture is very suitable— to the Editor. "Norving" has experienced a shortage of information from the Districts and considers that a better response would be forthcoming if an appeal was made by the Editor.

A GOOD CHEW

"Our wonderful journal gives me very great pleasure each Friday, as without this wonderful tonic I should be unable to masticate my Friday breakfast."—Old Reading reader from "Bell News" days.

ENOUGH SAID

"In the still of night note: One of Prince Charles' neighbours at Trinity College, Cambridge, will be 19-year-old David Andrews, of Ringwood, Hants. David has three hobbies: Choral singing, violin playing and church bell ringing."—"Daily Mirror."

A STORY FOR RINGERS

P.C. PLODD'S REVENGE

P.C. PLODD turned resolutely and trudged wearily up the hill towards St. Mary's Church. He had tried desperately to avoid this beat, this being Tuesday evening, but today the inspector had been adamant and Plodd had been sentenced to patrol St. Mary's Hill.

"You, Plodd," boomed the inspector, "will patrol St. Mary's Hill and remain conspicuous." Plodd glanced down at his 18 stone frame and wondered how he could remain otherwise! He had blanched visibly at the inspector's order, St. Mary's Hill was too open, there were no convenient alleys for him to slide into in order to learn the method for Saturday's peal. Not only this, he would be forced to endure about an hour's noise from the hilltop church, masquerading under the name of Grandsire Cinques, which he had no doubt he would see in the Quarter Peal columns in the weeks to come. Perhaps the writers of yesteryear had been correct—Ground Fire was just about the correct description for the ringing which he knew was about to ensue. He envied the doubtful characters, even now sliding into the pubs adjacent to the church, how he yearned to join their company and drink to oblivion to alleviate the agonies of ear and mind which the next hour or so was sure to bring.

His refreshment break over, he approached the brow of the hill just as the bells exploded into near rounds. Plodd left-wheeled and walked at a brisk pace to a spot where he had found by experience that the traffic noise was at a maximum and the bells merely a background jangle.

What was it that had caused Plodd's angry state of mind? To begin with, the city possessed but one ring of 12—unlike the lads in the Midlands, who had a choice of several, Post Office towers included! Even this one ring was intangible, too heavy for practice purposes, uneven, and in Plodd's opinion overrated. Even before the blocks of flats were built adjacent to the church there were but four peal attempts per year "allowed." Plodd recalled a certain ringer from the second city whose catch phrase "You don't ring them often enough" was the stock answer to tower captains who had complaints from persons residing in close proximity to their churches. Furthermore, the present Ringing Master was not exactly generous with his bells, allowing the City Branch but one 12-bell practice every two months. This, as any of the "Midland collection" would tell you, would not even be sufficient to remember what a half-lead single sounded like.

The crunch came at one quarterly meeting when it had been announced that even this privilege was to be withdrawn and that, instead, on the normal practice night, which had been skilfully changed to clash with as many local towers' practices as possible, the local band were to attempt quarter peals. The secretary droned on "... visitors will, of course still be welcomed." The meeting was stunned into silence, then came mutterings of "sour grapes, power complex, etc.," while others were hastily computing the mileage and time required for the journey to the Midlands! This would be the death knell for twelve-bell ringing in the city. There were some who raised hopeful voices with regard to the installation of a new 12 in the war-shattered ruin by the Co-op, but this would take many years to finance even if the city engineer agreed—which was doubtful. Would a venture such as this succeed anyway? If Association members could not be bothered to support their own meetings what chance would such a revolutionary idea such as this stand of success?

Plodd's lonely vigil on "the hill" was nearing its conclusion when the bells crashed into rounds, and a short time later all was silent. During a previous "fire up" he had noticed the ringers' cars all neatly parked on the double-yellow lines near the island! As the jubilant ringers clustered round their cars some little time later, P.C. Plodd stepped forward from the shadow of a convenient buttress and with a minimum of formality proceeded to "book" each driver for dangerous parking. Taking his leave of the now despondent group he added: "Be grateful that the Noise Abatement Act has not been extended to church bells—yet." He turned and marched jauntily back towards the station.

He had probably rung his last peal at St. Mary's but this was of no account—justice had been done!

SUNDAY MORNING RINGING

Hanging there so silently,
Just above the high belfry,
Fain outlines of bells so bold,
Noble bells, await to be tolled.
In shady percolated light
They'll ring out with voice contrite.

A cock crows, an alarm clock rings;
Mother in the kitchen sings,
Washing all the breakfast things.

Sunday papers pushed through the door.
"Any more tea?" "I'll have some more."
"Hurry up, you're going to be late.
And brush your coat, it's in a state."

The country lane is wet with dew.
It get's in your hair "the dew do."
That's Charlie panting up the hill.
"I see your old bike's going still."
I call out as I speed on my way,
"Sorry, can't stop to chat today."

There's Old Bob crossing the green.
Pipe and breath together steam.
His jacket knee-length and worn cloth hat,
Trousers tucked in socks and wobbling fat.

"Morning!" he smiles with the plastic rattle
Of teeth he claims to have won in a raffle.
"Hard times" has dear Old Bob seen,
And he often looks back as though in a dream.
"Ah, those were the days when things were right—
No talking in the belfry on practice night."

Into the church through the heavy oak door.
Past the tombs of those gone before.
Ascend the tower. "Bet the bells are down,"
Mumbles Harry with his usual frown.
"No, they're up!" "Well all catch hold,
Let's get them going—it's mighty cold."

The wheels creak as the ropes take the strain.
"Treble's going—she's gone." But all in vain.
Second's got his rope all twisted.
Roger fumes, his glasses get misted.
"Look two." He cries in ambiguity.
Two looks sheepish. "Sorry," says he.

Into rounds, the bells ring out.
"Call a touch, Bob, but don't mess me about."
Frowns forgot, Queen's brings smiling faces,
While in the church, they're taking their places.

In his vestry the Vicar is dressing,
While trying to remember a catchy blessing.
The choirboys leap-frog over a vaulted tomb
And the weeds in graves neglected bloom.
The organ renders its vibrating worst,
With Podgy pumping fit to burst.

The choir enters and the ringing stops.
The bells let down for the clock's
Hammers to chime out the hour
As the ringers leave the lofty tower.
Some having served the band, serve God and stay
To the service, while others—"Some other day."

Outside the sun shines as the mist clears.
The belfry windows shadowed, like ears,
(Though once a mouth with bellowing voices),
Now listen as the congregation rejoices.
The organ groaning at their apathy,
And the bells hum in gentle sympathy.

THE RINGING WORLD

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

No. 2949. Vol. LXIII FRIDAY, OCTOBER 27, 1967 9d.

St. John the Baptist Church, Bredgar, Kent

stands on the site of a Saxon Church. The 14th century tower has an excellent Norman doorway. In 1951 the five bells, some of considerable antiquity, were declared to be unringable. The bells have been retuned and augmented to six and on September 16th were rededicated by the Rural Dean, the Rev. L. Wilkinson.

Points from First Half of 1967 Peals

BY CANON K. W. H. FELSTEAD

IN the first half of 1967 there appear to have been more than usual "First peal on the bells" despite the dwindling number of such towers. I confirm the first appearance of the following in the peal lists: Marden. Drayton (Norfolk), Broadhembury, Stourpaine, Sturton-le-Steeple, Rotherwick, Swallowfield, Sherborne St. John, Wetheringsett, Aidborough. Chiselborough Harefield, Tintinhull, Whitchurch (Devon), Withypool and Ashford-in-the-Water The peal at Sourton also appears to be the first on the bells but it was not claimed as such. On the other hand, the peal at Codicote claimed as the first was not so. Peals of Minor in seven methods were rung in 1908 and 1932.

As far as infrequent visitors to the peal columns are concerned, it appears there were fewer than usual from before 1939 (my usual landmark for such towers) Only one tower had not appeared for more than 50 years, i.e since before the First War. This was Monksilver, where the previous peal was rung in 1914. There had been eight peals here from 1907 to that year. No tower was last heard in the 1920's, but there were several from the 1930's (as usual). Wilby had its only previous peal in 1930. In 1932 were last heard in peals Bagshot, West Hendred and Bridgnorth (St. Mary's). The first had its first peal in 1921, followed by another in 1922, two in 1928 and then the 1932 one (not many peals for an eight-bell tower). The 1932 peal at West Hendred was the only previous one. The recent peal at Bridgnorth was rightly claimed as the first of Major on the bells. The previous peals here were in 1902, 1908, 1910, 1911, 1924 and the 1932 one. Empingham. West Monkton and Seaton last had peals in 1933. Empingham also had peals in 1895 and 1910, and West Monkton in 1911. The recent peal at Seaton was rightly claimed to be the first for 34 years and that was the only previous one

GOSPEL OAK PEALS

The claim for the peal at St. Martin's, Gospel Oak, as the first for 40 years was not quite accurate. The last one I recorded there was in 1934. Here, I have also peals in 1898 (two) 1906, 1908, 1909, 1913 and 1926. All these were of Minor, so the recent one was the first of Doubles on the bells. We then come to 1937 as the year when the last peals were rung at Hazelbury Bryan and Lillington. At the former I see there were peals in 1933, 1935 and 1936 as well, and at the latter just one, in 1935.

The last pre-war year in which peals were last rung at Attleborough, Childe Okeford, Wootton (Oxon) and Iwerne Courteney was 1938. This was claimed in the case of Attleborough, so I can confirm it. This 1938 peal was the only one this century until the recent one, although there were peals in 1895 and 1898. The 1938 peal at Childe Okeford was the first on the bells. Wootton also had peals in 1927 and 1928, but I confirm that it was the first of Minor on the bells. At Iwerne Courteney there were peals in 1922 and 1926. It will have been noticed that in all these towers peals have been infrequent through the years. Often, a long silence follows a period of great activity, but it has not been so this time.

MILESTONES

We then come to the "milestones" in a tower's history. There are not many of these to note this time, either. I confirm the claim of Isleworth to have had its 250th peal on February 11th. These peals have come in almost exactly 200 years. The College Youths appear to have rung the first peal there in 1768. Peals followed every now and then for the next 100 years so that the total was 14 by the time "Bell News" started its publication. Only one peal was rung in the 1880's, but since 1893 only two years have not seen at least one peal (disregarding the war years, of course)—1927 and 1930. The total was 79 in 1914, 107 when the bells were augmented to 10 in 1931, 143 in 1939, and now, of course, 250. The most peals in a year (11) were rung in 1964. There were nine in 1966 and eight in both 1938 and 1954. There had been six in 1906 and 1908. Thus the record is very consistent during the last 80 years.

St. Michael's, Ashton-under-Lyne, had its 200th peal since "Bell News" started publication, on May 3rd, but its actual total is in the 270's. In a similar way Rotherham, Gravesend, and St. Peter's, Nottingham, have reached the 150 mark since 1881. All had earlier peals, so that I make their totals 170, 180 and 181 respectively. Saxlingham Nethergate did not have its first peal until 1901, so the 150 there have all been rung in this century. Sixty came before the First War, only 25 between the wars and 65 since 1945.

Seven towers reached their centuries in the first half of this year. They are Farnworth-with-Kearsley (January 22nd), Christ Church, Swindon (February 10th), North Muskham (also February 10th) Deeping St. Nicholas (February 27th), Frindsbury (March 25th), Long Eaton (April 29th) and Aldermaston (May 17th). The Swindon tower and Long Eaton had their first peals in 1884 and 1883 respectively, so both have taken about the same time to reach this goal. The former's peals have come fairly evenly over the period, but Long Eaton has taken 30 years for the final 13 to be rung—there were 87 at the end of 1937. That was the year in which I had my first curacy in that town (not in the parish where there were the bells !) I don't think my arrival had anything to do with the diminution in activity !

Farnworth and Aldermaston also had their first peals about the same time—1899 and 1900. Practically all the peals at the former have been rung since 1948 (more than 50 in the last five years). Eleven were rung from 1899 to 1904 and there were only three from that year to 1948—one in 1910 and two in 1923. Aldermaston's leanest period was between the wars. There were 39 from 1900 to 1914, 16 from 1921 to 1935, and the remainder from 1946. Frindsbury's first peal was in 1927, and the total was only 20 by the time of the Second World War. Again we have more than half of the 100 peals in the last five years. The final two towers deserve special mention, being six-bell towers. Both have been particularly active since the war. North Muskham's total was only ten in 1939, commencing in 1928, and Deeping's 28, commencing in 1909. By the way, the claim for the 100th peal at St. Peter's, Derby, is rather a long way out. This took place a year ago, on May 28th, and the total on July 12th, when the claim was made, is 108.

90 YEARS FOR 50 PEALS

I confirm the claims of two towers to have reached 50 peals. They are Beeston and Marple. The former had its first peal in 1877 so it has taken 90 years to ring the 50. The latter did not start until 1925. Other towers reaching this goal are Sharnbrook, East Peckham, Hallow, Dodderhill, Mistley, Gressenhall and Goldhanger. There is little to note about their history—all have the occasional peal and have taken 40 or more years to reach this milestone.

Finally, a few odd notes. I confirm that the peal of Stedman Triples at Dereham was the first in that method at the tower for 100 years—exactly so, in fact. The last one was on February 25th, 1867. Although I would not be certain, not having scrutinised the pages of "The Ringing World" for the purpose, I do not think it has been pointed out that the method C.C.C. 368 rung at Buckley on January 28th and called Abergele Imperial Bob Major had been previously rung at Burnham on July 11th, 1964, and was called Nashdom Imperial Bob Major.

BREDGAR'S HISTORIC BELLS RING OUT AGAIN

BY DAVID L. CAWLEY

ABOUT three miles west of the main A.2 trunk road at Sittingbourne and close to the great new motorway which carves its way through some of Kent's loveliest countryside lies the small but historic village of Bredgar. Long known to Kent ringers as having an unringable five, the tower of Bredgar Church has once more come to life with a splendidly restored and augmented ring of six from the Whitechapel Foundry.

The church at Bredgar is dedicated to St. John the Baptist and has a nave with aisles, chancel, south porch and western tower. The fabric as it stands at the present time dates in the main to the 14th century, with the exception of the porch, which is modern, and the lower portion of the western tower, which contains an excellent Norman doorway exhibiting dog-tooth mouldings.

Bredgar was named from the "Broad gore" or clearing in the woods which extensively covered this part of the county in early days, and it is believed, though without much evidence that a church of St. John stood here in Saxon days; in Norman times this probably wooden church was pulled down and a Norman building erected of which the base of the tower is a witness. Then in the great building century there was a great change; a college was founded, and the church was greatly rebuilt. This college, the buildings of which still stand near to the church was founded by one Robert de Bredgare in 1393, and its membership consisted of a chaplain and four scholars, two poor and two clerical.

It was about this time that a tower was built; almost certainly there were bells before this time, but we do know that right down to 1842 a mediæval bell hung in the tower of Bredgar Church. This bell was dedicated to St. John and was probably inscribed "Iohannes Criste care + Dignare pro nobis orare" — a common Kent inscription meaning "O John dear to Christ, deign to pray for us." The dedication was preserved by Mr. Fausset, the antiquary, who wrote in 1757 and 1758. There were probably other bells as well, but of these there is no record; indeed there is silence till the end of the 16th century.

WHITECHAPEL'S LONG INTEREST

In 1579 Robert Mot, of Whitechapel, cast or recast a bell for Bredgar Church and this bell is still in use; formerly the third, it is now the fifth of the augmented ring. There was a lot of bell work done by Mot in the county at about this time, and it is fitting that the Whitechapel Foundry should have preserved its connection with Bredgar when the restoration was accomplished.

The next bell work in the tower gives us a clue to the number of bells there may have been in mediæval times—either three or four. In 1620 John Wilnar, of Borden, a nearby village, cast or recast the then treble of the ring, and in 1634 he recast the third of what by now was definitely a ring of four, and which is now the tenor of the ring. To house these bells a new bell frame was installed in the tower having the four bells each swinging at right angles to her neighbour, with a central pit for letting them up and down. It was then a stout bell frame, and it lasted 300 years and more.

John Wilnar's frame was not destined to remain intact for long. In 1692 Thomas Alderslev, a local benefactor, gave a treble bell, and this was added to by James Bartlett, f Whitechapel—another link with this historic foundry. To accommodate this extra bell the bell which had been the second and was now the third was moved in its frame, and the end member at the head of its pit cut away and the old treble pit was enlarged to take two bells, thus converting a fairly robust four-bell frame into a rather weak one for five bells. Beyond a new headstock for the treble in 1776, no further work seems to have been done to the bells. But we do know that there were ringers, and that they had a strict code of conduct, for on a board in the ringing room we read:—

"My Friendly ringers
I to you declare
You must pay one penny
Each oath you do swear:
To turn a bell over
It is the same fare.
To ring with your hats on
You must not dare.
MDCCLI"

16th CENTURY CLOCK (?)

By 1842 the tenor had become cracked; it is interesting to note that Mr. Fausset's note on this bell records that the clock struck on it. How old this clock was we do not know, but it was certainly there in 1757 and it was considered by Mr. R. Clouston to date from c 1650. The bell was taken to Whitechapel, but whether it was recast or whether a discarded bell was substituted for it is a moot point, for the new bell, weighing 11 cwt. 2 qr. 25 lb. and striking note F sharp, had on its waist four obliterated lines of inscription. The rest simply reads "Thomas Mears, Founder, London, 1842."

In 1902 the old clock was discarded and a new one, striking on bells 1, 3 and 5, was installed by Mr. C. E. Homewood, of Ufton Court, as a thankoffering from him for the recovery and coronation of King Edward VII. A brass plate on the 18th century screen of the ringers' room records this. Further work was done on the bells in 1921, when the three largest received new timber headstocks of archaic design.

But inevitable dilapidation was setting in; the bells were becoming difficult to ring; the frame was working loose; the treble was loose on its headstock, and the stock of the second was badly split. In addition to this the bells were very far from being tonal, whether a major or minor ring of five and were deeply indented at the strike points. In 1951 they were declared unringable and though they were rung on one or two subsequent occasions they were largely silent, the tenor alone being sounded for services.

The story of the rebirth of Bredgar bells begins in 1960, when Mr. Ranald Clouston, of the Central Council for the Care of Churches, visited and reported on the bells at Bredgar. His report is a fascinating document, much drawn on for use in this article, and the upshot of it was that the bells were unringable and required rehanging in a new frame. In 1965 Messrs. Mears and Stainbank reported the same thing.

A RINGING VICAR

But in the intervening years things had been happening. First a fete held by Miss Hooker, one of the two arch-fund-raisers (the other being Mrs. Bowring), raised the first £100 n 1961. Then in 1963 the Rev. Stanley Evans became Vicar. A keen ringer, he first rose to the task of reheating and in part reroofing his church, and then to the job of rehanging his silent bells. It was decided in view of their tonal qualities to tune the four trebles to a major key, and to break the tenor up and cast two trebles from its metal. The heating was paid for by 1965, and in November of the same year the debt on the roof was cleared. The bells could now come first.

Of the money, £300 was most generously given by the Barron Bell Trust, and £30 by the Kent County Association. The total, including clock work, was some £2,250, of which £1,800 has already been collected by such devious means as a Festival of Saints, St. John the Baptist Fairs, coffee mornings and evenings, wine and cheese parties, an auction of antiques and a picture gallery with wine and fork luncheon, not to mention the common or garden jumble sales, together with various legacies and a collection of £35 at the dedication. Donations will still be gratefully received and acknowledged by the Rev. Stanley Evans The Vicarage, Bredgar, Sittingbourne, Kent.

In April 1967, the bells were removed to Whitechapel and the old frame was taken down and placed in the churchyard. Meanwhile the young would-be ringers of Bredgar were receiving instruction from their Vicar, Terry Barton and others at nearby Tunstall. In August the bells were returned to the church and gleefully tried out by a number of local and invited ringers in the presence of Mr. Harry Parkes, bellhanger, who was much complimented on the excellent job.

THE GREAT DAY

And so to Bredgar's great day. On Saturday, September 16th, a large congregation of visitors and villagers crowded St. John's for the great moment when its bells would peal forth again. The service was that of Evensong, and after the third collect the choir and clergy filed down the church for the great event. The Rev. L. Wilkinson, the Rural Dean, solemnly dedicated the bells to be used only and ever to the glory of God and then with a great burst of joy the bells were raised in peal. A short touch of Bob Minor was rung and the choir returned to the singing of Stanford's setting of Psalm 150. The Rural Dean then preached, his theme being the bells as messengers. After the service there was general ringing till 8 p.m., and two bumper teas were laid on one for non-ringers and one for ringers, at the latter of which Mr. P. A. Corby, general secretary of the Kent County Association, thanked Stanley Evans and congratulated him on making this day possible.

THE BELLS

Treble (3 cwt. 3 qr. 1 lb. in E): Alleluya Alleluya. We two trebles were cast from the old tenor. Thomas Mears 1842. Mears, 1967, London.

Second (4–0–27, D): Glory be to God on High. Stanley Munro Evans, Vicar. Francis Tooze, Eric Turville, Churchwardens. Mears, 1967, London.

Third (4–3–20, C): The Gvift of Thomas Aldersley Gentleman, 1692. Iacobvs Bartlet me fecit.

Fourth (5–3–22, B): Iohn Wilnar made me. 1620.

Fifth (7–1–22, A): Robert Mot made me. MDLXXIX.

Tenor (9–2–6, G): Iohn Wilnar. 1634.

So Bredgar bells ring out today. They sound out and as they do they tell of the courage and devotion of Stanley Evans; of the skill and craftsmanship of their makers; of the zeal and enthusiasm of those who ring them; and they ring, as they were dedicated, always and only to the glory of God.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD

Litton Cheney church was tastefully decorated for Harvest Festival when the Dorchester Branch held a quarterly meeting there on October 7th. In the unavoidable absence of the Rector, the Guild service was conducted by the Branch chairman, the Rev. C. E. C. Brinkworth. Ringing on the eight bells took place during the afternoon and evening under the direction of the Ringing Master Mr. E. H. Amey. Tea was provided in the Church Hut by Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Fry and helpers, and the company of 25 included visitors from Wimborne and Swanage as well as ringers from seven towers in the Branch. Subject to confirmation, evening practices will be held at Charminster, November 4th: Preston, November 18th; St. Peter's, Dorchester, December 2nd; Upwey, December 16th; Abbotsbury, December 30th; and Puddletown, January 27th. The next meeting (annual) will be held at Cattistock on January 13th.

West Countrymen in East Anglia

SIX cars and fourteen ringers converged on Wymondham on the afternoon of August 18th for ten days of East Anglian ringing and sightseeing. Most of the invaders hailed from the wilds of Somerset, but they were accompanied by friends from the more urban and civilised settlements of Bristol, Staines and Ipswich. We set the tone of the week that same evening by breaking the first rope of the tour in the first tower. We also encountered the round flint towers so characteristic of Norfolk, and marvelled that eight bells could be packed into so tight a circle.

Saturday dawned misty and wet, and remained so for the best part of the day, but this in no way spoiled our pleasure in ringing together. The towers visited included the three tens of Bury St. Edmunds, Soham and Mildenhall, and the standard of ringing, if not perfect, was satisfactory for so early in the tour and was to improve as the days went by.

SUNDAY IN NORWICH

Sunday was meant to be a leisurely day, with four Norwich towers on the programme. We all attended morning service, and if the form of service was not to everyone's taste at least it proved that in so catholic an organisation as the Church of England one must be prepared for almost anything. The rest of the day, in between ringing and eating, was spent in an exhausting but very rewarding stroll through the older parts of the city. The bells were enjoyed, but it was sad to see the neglected state of the interior of St. George's, Colegate, now without an incumbent. We were sorry that tower repairs prevented us from ringing at St. Peter Mancroft, with its noble twelve in a noble tower.

The Minor enthusiasts had a great time on Monday as we journeyed northwards to Cromer, and some fast ringing was heard, especially on the 2¾ cwt. ring at Saxthorpe. Apart from the sixes, we had some good ringing at Aylsham, where we broke another rope, and on the eights at Marsham and Salle. Salle took some finding, and then took some ringing, as these bells have clearly seen better days. The church is huge, and is situated in a very rural area.

The view from the top of Boston Stump, and the remarkable sight of the leaning towers of the Fens, particularly Surfleet and Pinchbeck, were Tuesday's rewards for the longest drive of the tour.

Great Yarmouth was the high spot for Wednesday morning, and the grand twelve were immediately and unanimously selected as the best of the tour, an opinion unchanged by the end of the week, although we were not able to do full justice to the bells because of our lack of experience on that number.

A SOMERSET PEAL

A free afternoon had originally been planned for Wednesday, but the enthusiasts had insisted on the organiser including a peal in the programme. The result was an excellent peal of London on the pleasant eight at Pulham Market. This was a creditable performance as it was the first of London Major for seven of the band. Having consulted local opinion in the county, the conductor reluctantly decided that the peal could not be rung for the Norwich Association as he was the only member in the band, and it was therefore agreed to ring the peal for the visitors' home Association. The conductor was consoled by being able to pocket the peal booking fee—until the end of the year.

PEALS & QUARTER PEAL CARDS
Prices.—Peals: Set of 12 for 16s.; 18 for 22s.; 24 for 26s. Quarter Peals: 12 for 15s. and 3d. for each additional card.—"The Ringing World", Onslow Street, Guildford.

Three of those not in the peal, having "snatched" Pulham Market, calmly joined forces with another touring party that happened to be passing, and thereby acquired several extra towers.

At about this stage Wally and Roy Rice had the misfortune to have a broken spring on their car, and their notoriously early rising became even more noticeable. The labours were not in vain, and we were pleased to know that the patched-up spring lasted the rest of the week and got them safely home again.

Thursday's programme included three more tens, Beccles, where Dick gave an interview to the local newspaper reporter, Stradbroke, where Grandsire Caters was recorded for use during the impending Flower Festival, and the newly augmented ring at Wymondham Abbey. We also rang at Haddiscoe (a light five in a round tower), where the Vicar, formerly from Wells, Somerset, welcomed us in a novel way, with a flag fixed to the churchyard fence.

Wells-next-the-Sea was the focal point on Friday and here, too, we found that Wells, Somerset, had been heard of. Some of the best rings of eight of the week were encountered, including Wells, East Dereham, Fakenham and North Elmham.

KING'S LYNN TRAFFIC

Traffic was our biggest problem on Saturday, especially in reaching and departing from King's Lynn. We enjoyed the fine ten and the beautiful church, marred perhaps by some too modern touches in the porch below the tower. In an endeavour to avoid the traffic we took to the country lanes between Terrington St. Clement and Downham Market. As a bypass it was very successful, although George narrowly avoided getting his Cortina, complete with occupants, baled and harvested by a massive farm machine in a narrow road. For this episode he was severely berated by Hilda, and remained in a chastened mood for the rest of the day.

That evening, the last of the tour, we dined together in the hotel in Wymondham, and expressed our thanks to Edgar Skipsey, not forgetting his wife, for all the effort put into organising such a highly successful week's ringing holiday.

Our final score was 61 towers, three broken ropes and one broken clock hammer. The hammer, fortunately for us, was broken in the presence of the local captain and was not our fault. We had rung at almost every ringable tower in Norfolk with eight or more bells and at a selection of towers in neighbouring counties. The method tally included a successful plain course of Scientific Triples, though not at the first attempt, and touches of Duffield Major and Reverse Stedman, in addition to more conventional methods.

We were left with an impression of many large churches in isolated country areas, and a sad lack of local ringers in some parts of Norfolk. Nevertheless, all the towers we visited were in good ringing order, most of them in an excellent state. We were welcomed everywhere and often invited to return to ring a peal although in one tower we were told in no uncertain manner that applications for peals from outsiders would not be welcomed and would certainly be refused. As we didn't want the bells for a peal we weren't perturbed, though a little sorry that such an uncharitable attitude should exist.

Six of the party, not content with the end of the programme, were able, thanks to the willing co-operation of Mr. Jock Boast, to sample the newly restored ring of six at South Lopham and the eight at North Lopham for morning service, before setting out on the long journey home in time for evening ringing in their home towers.

UNIVERSITY OF WALES SUMMER TOUR

THIS year's summer tour of the University of Wales Society was mainly in Warwickshire and started from Kenilworth on August 30th. It was a disappointment when we assembled at St. Nicholas' Church (6) to learn that the Master was unable to join us.

Most days we had a different Master, starting on Thursday with Henry Hatfield. At Exhall the Vicar met us and told us about the work of the Salvation Army in Wales. Nigel Gowther joined us for the day at his home tower, Bulkington, where some good Cambridge Major was rung. The beautiful tone of Chilvers Coton's ten bells was not lost to the band, many of whom found the striking difficult.

LICENSING PERPLEXITY

On Friday Peter Smith was Master and, at Willoughby, Netherseale Surprise Minor was rung before lunch. Thirsty members of the party were shocked at the licensing hours in Northants—2 p.m. instead of 2.30 being the lunch-time closing time. One landlord was really annoyed when the third carload hammered on his door. Undoubtedly the ringing event of the day was on the really excellent ten at Daventry, where with local help Stedman Caters and Plain Bob Royal were rung.

Barry Couzens took the Mastership on Saturday. The first tower of note was St. Nicholas, Warwick, followed by the light eight at Barston, where Norwich Surprise Major was rung kneeling by one tall ringer. At Packwood, handbells were rung outside while the local band rang for a wedding, and later John Wilson managed to break an already cracked stay. Henley-in-Arden will be remembered by some for its delicious ice cream. Will the ringing here go to posterity? It was being taped by the natives!

At Wootton Wawen we successfully climbed one of Britain's oldest staircases without incident to find some good bells. The ten at Stratford-on-Avon rivalled those at Daventry, although the ringing did not reach the same standard due to the depletion of the band. Service ringing on Sunday was at Solihull and St. Mary's, Warwick.

The final day started at Leamington Spa (a beautiful eight). Hereward was managed at Harbury (6), although London would not go; these were some of the best bells of the tour. The final tower was at St. Margaret's, Whitnash (a lovely six), where a plain course of Killamarsh was well struck. Thanks are due to all incumbents and to Paul Reading for so ably organising the tour.

NORWICH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION

Vicar Elected a Member

A pleasant meeting was held by the Northern Branch at Wroxham on October 7th, when over 50 members sat down to a delicious tea which was very kindly given by Mrs. A. F. Boyce and members of the Wroxham band.

The Vicar, the Rev. P. C. Nicholson, conducted the service and the lesson was read by Mr. F. N. Golden.

The Rev. P. C. Nicholson, Miss G. Blythin, Mr. R. Gorbould (of Wroxham) and Mr W. Borrows (of St. Faith's) were elected s ringing members, Messrs. P. Elliott, P. Thompson, M. Goodley and Miss A Dickerson (of Wroxham) were elected probationary members.

Ringing on the six bells before and after the meeting was under the leadership of the Branch Ringing Master (Mr. M. Cubitt) and consisted of many methods, ranging from rounds to London Surprise, also Spliced Doubles and Minor methods.

The chairman (Mr. G. Sayer) proposed a vote of thanks to the Vicar, Mr. D. Bird for playing the organ, Mrs. Boyce and her husband, Mrs. Dickerson, and the local ringers for supplying and serving the teas.

HANDBELL TUNE RINGERS FORM OWN GUILD

Second Annual Rally

MR. JOHN P. PARTINGTON and his young assistants are to be congratulated on the excellent arrangements on the occasion of the second annual Handbell Tune Ringers' Rally, which was held on October 7th at the Grammar School, Ashton-under-Lyne, Lancashire. Nineteen bands with 914 handbells were present and, together with ringers and friends, there were close on 350 people present.

The proceedings were opened by a short address from the Head of the school, who welcomed everyone and expressed his pleasure at seeing so many enthusiastic music makers, many of whom had made an early start to the day and had travelled long distances to be present. Although not a ringer himself, some of his staff and scholars were, and he admired the enthusiasm and fellowship which they had between them. He also pointed out to those from far afield that, although the school was situated only six miles from Manchester, yet it was not raining!

57 PERFORMANCES

Ashton-under-Lyne Grammar School girls commenced the ringing session with a most appropriate piece, seeing that they were on their home ground, "Home, Sweet Home," after which each band played in alphabetical order of name throughout, until, after an interval for tea, every band had played three tunes each, a total of 57 performances in all. Space will not allow me to comment on every one, but among others I thought that "Rosamunde," Ashton and District Ringers; "Cradle Song" (Brahms), Ashover; "My Bonnie Lies Over the Ocean," Hunshelf; "Silver Moonbeams," Ealing; and "Norwegian Dance" (Grieg), Ecclesfield Grammar School Ringers, were quite outstanding, and I particularly enjoyed the "Euturpe Mazurka," delightfully rendered by Norbury Ringers on their tuneful bells, which are just back from renovation at the Whitechapel Foundry. "Nymphs and Shepherds" by the Kingsbury, Warwickshire band was very nicely played and, in contrast, a modern setting to the hymn "At the Name of Jesus" was rendered with feeling and delicacy by the Higher Walton Ringers, under the leadership of Mr. Walter Mansley.

FROM FURNESS

There were more than a few gentlemen present, who at one time or another had a "Rendezvous" with "She's a Lassie from Lancashire," both these two items being well played by the Charnwood Ringers from Leicestershire, and very appropriately, too! Although they have only a small set of twelve bells, Mr. N. Newby and the Kirkby-in-Furness Ringers distinguished themselves by a pleasing rendering of "My Grandfather's Clock," while St. Thomas's, Moorside, Ringers, who were handicapped by not being able to field a full team owing to business commitments, managed a most creditable performance of the ever popular "Bluebells of Scotland," with suitable variations.

The young men from Sileby, Leicestershire, gave us a very vigorous rendering of the Gallop from "Orpheus in the Underworld," followed by contrast with "Bells of St. Mary's" rung by the Stokesay Ringers from Salop, and which was most effective.

These doughty strikers from Thurlstone, Yorkshire, played next a very spirited march tune—"Under Freedom's Flag," with effortless timing and precision, and I shall long remember the look of determined concentration on the face of their youngest member, Master Briggs, who struck his bells with accuracy and good timing throughout this none too easy piece. Well done, young man!

The Ordsall Ringers from Retford, Notts, chose William Gordon's lovely arrangement of "Home, Sweet Home," which they played in most effective style, and later on the Warburton W.I. Ringers from Cheshire caused some amusement with their arrangement of "Pilgrims of the Night" (never mind, ladies, we know just how it is, we have all been in the same predicament at some time or another!), and a band of three young men who chose not to give any name as a team, but who I can best describe as the Three Wise Men from the East, gave an exceptionally fine rendering of "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring," which amazed everyone, especially so as it was played "four in hand," in harmony and strict tempo, and entirely without any music at all!

SET OF 162 BELLS

By a show of hands, Ecclesfield Ringers were requested to let us have their arrangement of the tango "Tonight," which was much appreciated, but the most outstanding by far of all the excellent and complicated arrangements played on this day was the same band's rendering of the overture "Caliph of Bagdad" (Boieldieu). Played with superb timing and rhythm on their wonderful set of 162 bells, the ten ringers excelled themselves, and the long and thunderous applause which followed showed how much their efforts were appreciated by the large audience present.

Silverdale, Lancashire, Ringers had intended to be present, but owing to illness it was impossible for them all to come over. However, four members of their band attended and they took back with them the good wishes of their many friends, who hope that all the invalids will soon be restored to good health again.

Following the tea interval a short discussion was held, at which it was decided to form a Handbell Ringers' Guild. Details of this can be obtained in due course from the secretary, Mr. J. P. Partington, 56, Clay Lane, Rochdale, Lancs. Please enclose a stamped addressed envelope for reply, or telephone Rochdale 43534. It was stressed at this meeting that the objects of the Guild are not to promote any competitive spirit among members and others, but rather to foster the exchange of ideas and experience between the various bands and individuals, in an atmosphere of helpfulness and friendship. The yearly subscription for a band of any number of ringers is 10s., but individuals who are interested can join also for a fee of 2s. 6d.

Ecclesfield and Thurlestone Ringers jointly offered to hold the next rally at Ecclesfield, Sheffield, Yorkshire, in October, 1968; the exact date has yet to be fixed, but notification of this will be published in "The Ringing World" nearer the time.

It was a happy thought to make arrangements for Mr. James Taylor, of Rochdale, to attend. Jim, who at one time had his own band of schoolchildren tune ringers, is now only able to get about with great difficulty and has been incapacitated in hospital for almost two years past. He had to leave before the close but he did not go without the handshakes and good wishes of all who knew him there. We sincerely hope that he will be fit enough to attend the 1968 rally.

At the close, as we made our way in the darkness towards our parked vehicles a broad North Country voice was heard to exclaim, "By gum! It's been a reight good do. Ah wouldn't ha' missed it for twenty pahnd. Ah wouldn't!" and, I thought, you're not the only one either, my lad!

HERTS ASSOCIATION

Northern District Quarterly Meeting

The unfortunate lack of a clapper and wheel on the tenor at Baldock necessitated a change of venue for the October 7th meeting to Ashwell. This is the second change for this reason this year.

Ashwell Church, which is impressive from a distance, proved to be in a poor state of repair, with cautionary notices warning of the dangers of falling masonry. The six bells proved no better than the tower and several people were unable to pull off the tenor. In spite this, methods rung ranged from round to London and Norwich Surprise.

The ringing was broken up by the statutory quarterly business meeting at which we were to elect a new District secretary and "Ringing World" representative. Although the latter (Mr. M. R. Worthington) was found at the second nomination, there was difficulty in finding a new District secretary. This was probably because we knew that Michael Orme although no longer in the District, was prepared to continue his work until the District annual general meeting. At the termination of the business meeting we had decided to visit Pirton (5) and Royston (8) for our next meetings. We still had no new secretary, however—"a poor reflection on the District," said Mr. A. R. Agg, our chairman for the evening. Ringing continued until 8.30.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Tonbridge District

Members and friends who arrived early at the pleasant village of Chiddingstone for the annual District meeting had the pleasure of joining the local company in ringing for a wedding. Further ringing of a good standard continued until 4.30, when the Rector, the Rev. J. R. S. Elkington, conducted the ringers' service and expressed his pleasure in our visit to his church.

A most generous and delightful tea, prepared by Mrs. Everest and Mrs. Gribble and served by members of the band, was much appreciated.

Mr. E. A. Barnett conducted the meeting, at which seven new junior members were elected. Mr. R. W. H. Hayes was elected as District secretary and Mr. G. Fry as Ringing Master. The two District representatives, Miss D. E. Colgate and Mr. L. T. F. Pope, were re-elected. Mr. W. H. Dobbie was elected as "Ringing World" correspondent.

Among other business of a routine nature, the dates for the four quarterly meetings were fixed. January 6th, April 6th, June 1st and October 5th (A.D.M.).

Mr. P. A. Corby expressed the thanks of members to all who contributed to the success of the meeting.

Further ringing at Chiddingstone Church was enjoyed after the meeting and the bells of Hever Church were also available. W. H. D.

CATHEDRAL SERVICES

Dear Sir,—I was glad to read James A. Burton's letter in "The Ringing World" of Oct. 13th, as this gives me an opportunity to say a word about such services as that at Durham Cathedral on September 23rd.

The daily sung services in our cathedrals form by far the oldest continuous feature of the life of England. The Psalms have been sung daily in the world during 3,000 years, Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis daily during 1 900 years and services recognisably like that at Durham have been sung there every day (except for interruptions such as the Commonwealth) since 997—at Canterbury, God's praise has been sung each day (with similar brief interruptions) since 597! Reformation changes in the daily services were superficial; the same thoughts continued to be expressed but in English instead of Latin, and they were expressed by the same singers.

On many special occasions in cathedrals a "simple service" is arranged, with nothing sung but hymns, with no choir and all singing everything. Advantages of this are obvious.

There are also advantages in sometimes sharing the daily tradition. This is particularly suitable where ringers are concerned, for the ringing tradition is parallel with the singing tradition. Simple ringing and singing in mediæval days blossemed forth into exciting developments 400 years ago, in both tower and choir stalls. Each blossoming meant a more interesting, difficult and therefore worthwhile development, for mind and body—in the tower that of changes, composing, conducting, and in the choir stalls that of part-singing.

Development of any art can lead to irritation on the part of those who cannot share in it "Settings unknown to anyone but themselves," as Mr. Burton says, are paralleled by methods, compositions, etc., imposed by us on the neighbourhood and unknown to anyone but those who share our art. Mr. Burton doesn't like "settings." Some neighbours don't like ringing. Many don't understand and therefore don't like modern art . . and so forth. But the more we learn to appreciate others' activities, the richer our own lives become. Some of us often find ourselves trying to get both "anti-ringers" and "anti-singers" to see this.

In a civilised community many interests are pursued at the same time. When they compete, chaos can ensue. When they co-operate, the life of the whole community is enriched. As I said at Durham, "It is fitting that this service be held there, because a great cathedral is a profoundly moving demonstration of the unity of all life under God. Here the arts and sciences, learning, music, ringing, many interests, historic and contemporary, unite under God, from Whom all good comes, and in Whom men find fulfilment. Without God's unifying power, human activity often collapses in chaos, as today's secular world so clearly proves."—Yours sincerely,

GILBERT THURLOW.
President of the Central Council.

LEATHERHEAD OR KEGWORTH SURPRISE ROYAL?

Dear Sir,—If the method rung at Daventry on September 15th was rung with a 2nds place lead-end, the proper name for it is Leatherhead Surprise Royal, otherwise the name of Kegworth may stand. Perhaps the lead-end place could be confirmed.—Yours faithfully,

JOHN R. MAYNE.

Dear Sir.—Mr. George F. Roome's wish for good public relations regarding church bells and ringing is an admirable sentiment, but his assertion that the Central Council has done little to improve public relations shows that he is unfamiliar with the activities of the Council over the last decade or so.

Indeed, in a quiet way, a great deal has been done by the Council's officers and some of its committees and by "The Ringing World" for public relations, directly or indirectly.

It is by activities that good public relations are secured and maintained, rather than by paper propaganda, and the local ringers and parochial organisations are in the most advantageous position to do this.

However the Sunday Service Committee did produce a "Recruiting Leaflet" written by our president and this includes most of the points which Mr. Roome mentions, viz. why the bells ring, how they are hung and rung, and times of Sunday and weekday ringing. These are available from the Council's librarian at five for one shilling (see "Ringing World" back page). They will go a long way towards meeting Mr. Roome's immediate wishes. — Yours faithfully,

N. CHADDOCK, Convener,
Sunday Service Ringing and Education Committee,
Central Council of Church Bell Ringers.

ST. LEONARD'S, SHOREDITCH

Dear Sir,—It is with great pleasure that we make the announcement that the Vicar and Parochial Church Council have agreed to a major scheme to overhaul the famous ring of 12 bells at St. Leonard's, Shoreditch. The proposed restoration, costing some £2,000, includes rehanging the bells with new fittings by Messrs. John Taylor, of Loughborough, and an installation to modify the considerable volume of sound in the immediate vicinity of the tower. In addition, if the response to this appeal is sufficiently successful, it is intended to install a sharp second to give a light ring of eight with a tenor of approximately 10 cwt.

Ringers have always been generous in support of Shoreditch bells. In 1807 the Cumberlands provided two new trebles to make a ring of 12, and in 1913, when the bells were last restored by Messrs. John Warner, the ringers raised a substantial proportion of the cost.

The Vicar is most keen to have the bells rung and to have them in good order. The parish is not a wealthy one and we hope to raise as much as possible to assist them in this venture. The commitments of the parish in restoring the fabric of the church are likely to be of the order of £20,000, and it is hoped that Cumberlands, in particular, will contribute generously towards the ring of bells, around which so much of their Society's history is written. In addition, many people will have rung at St. Leonard's at joint meetings and the like, and it is hoped that they, too, will feel moved to contribute.

As a means of raising funds, a Christmas card featuring an old print of Shoredich Church has been produced and is readily available at the very modest price of 7d. each, including postage and packing.

Donations and orders for the Christmas cards should be sent to: D. E. Sibson, 15, Garden Royal, Kersfield Road, London, S.W.15.—Yours faithfully, DENNIS BERESFORD.

PIGEON MENACE

Dear Sir,—The following remedy is effective against pigeons, at the cost of shillings rather than pounds.

Obtain some secondhand fishing net from a coastal town or village. Drape this on the most affected part of the fabric for a month or so The pigeons are frightened by contact with the net and in a few days will desert the building. The net may then be removed for a period of a year or so, when the birds will gradually return. The process should then be repeated

If the net is stretched taut and fastened at its upper and lower extremities it is hardly visible.

My own experience tells me that the above treatment is effective, if permitted.

It is believed that pigeons have been eliminated in some Continental regions by feeding them on food containing a hormone which renders the birds infertile. — Yours faithfully,

N. CHADDOCK.
Hutton Cranswick, East Yorks.

Dear Sir —Unfortunately most methods entail expense. The most obvious, also useful for sound control is to fit movable louvres on the Venetian blind system, worked by a lever from the ringing chamber. Then the louvres can be closed, opened down or, in fine weather, opened upwards

Cheaper, and on the same lines, block up the windows inside leaving only the top louvres to be dealt with in the above fashion. That might pacify the bird fanciers on the P.C.C. by still allowing the pigeons room to nest.

Other than that (I've used this one) say nothing to anyone! but cut some short lengths of wire netting the width of the louvres. Double them and push them down into and between the louvres, nearly to the bottom, with a thick board. This will keep the pigeons out and no one will know!

LONG SUTTON BELLS

Dear Sir,—May I say how honoured we in Long Sutton feel at having our tower on the cover of "The Ringing World."

Since the information for the "write-up" was sent to our general secretary some new facts have come to light concerning the origins of the 2nd and 3rd of the present ring of six. This has been due to a visit from the Rev. J. G. M. Scott while doing "locum" at Hardington Mandeville.

The third bell, dating from about 1500, is much more likely to be a product of the Bristol Foundry rather than that at Exeter. The second, previously imagined by all to date from 1816 is, in fact, a seventeenth century bell dated 1618. The unknown, illiterate seventeenth century founder had reproduced the inscription not only somewhat inaccurately but also backwards. It has been thanks to John Scott's expert eye that these fats have emerged.

If I had been "on the ball" I should have sent the new information to Mr. John Gilbert before the article was due to appear in this journal. My apologies to him for not having done so.—Yours faithfully,

CHRISTOPHER MARSHALL (Rev.).

VISITORS AND STEEPLEAGE

Dear Sir, — It is a custom at meetings of the Guild of which I am a resident member to pass round a box at the tea-table for contributions to the Belfry Repair Fund from members and visitors. During the time this practice has been in operation we have had many visitors and none have ever declined to contribute, and would never dream of excusing themselves from doing so on the ground that they were not members. After all, the pleasure they have derived from the afternoon's ringing would be worth far more to them than the amount they put in the box.

We also have a rule that any avoidable damage that occurs to bells at a ringing meeting of the Guild shall be made good at the expense of the Guild. It is freely admitted by one of your correspondents that the London County Association does not collect annual subscriptions from its members. Therefore, would someone in the know be so good as to tell me where the money, apart from steepleage fees, comes from to cover the cost of any stays broken at a meeting. If any of your correspondents try to tell me that it grows on trees, let me say here and now that I shall refuse to believe them.

I have attended many hundreds of ringing meetings in different parts of the country over the years, and as a visitor who manages to find a welcome wherever he goes, I find it a pleasure to contribute in some small way to the funds of the Guilds and Associations whose meetings I have attended and from which I have derived so much enjoyment. To go to a meeting as a visitor with the idea at the back of your mind that you are there to enjoy all the privileges and have no duty towards your hosts, moral, financial or otherwise, is, to my mind, contemptible to say the least.

Years ago I used to work with a Scotsman in a factory. One of our mates made the mistake one day of trying to take the rise out of Jock by harping on the traditional meanness of men of the Scottish race. Jock had his answer ready: "There are Scotsmen in this factory,' he said, "who have never been north of the Border, and Jews whose ancestors were never in Palestine." No further comment. — Yours faithfully,

WILLIAM A. STOTE.

P.A.Y.R.

(Pay as You Ring)

Dear Sir,—Ringers who object to paying a small fee at meetings should remember that these meetings could not take place without being advertised, and this must be paid for; so they are getting what they want (presumably) and paying for what they get. Nothing could be fairer than that; unless we adopted a system of P.A.Y.R. (Pay as You Ring), in which collectors went round after every touch collecting from everyone who had taken part.

For many years now many Associations have been charging booking fees for peals. Arranging and ringing these peals cost the Associations nothing whatever. But ringers are too conservative, and there are always some who want to ring their peals "for" particular Associations. And although the peals are all reported in full detail in "The Ringing World" they must all be reprinted in annual reports and/or copied into peal books; and we are required to pay for every peal we ring, though the total fees thus collected save other members only a negligible amount (in my own territorial Association about 7½d. each in an average year). There must be many like myself who could not care less about having our peals reprinted and copied out, but cannot opt out, and, short of giving up peal ringing altogether, must go on paying for a service we simply do not want.

So I would say, either drop peal fees altogether, and this ridiculous custom of sending round small postal orders (to the gain of none but the Post Office), or let us go the whole way and clap on fees for attendance at meetings and cut the annual subscription still further. In my Association the cost of advertising meetings comes to just about what the peal fees bring in, so we could save another 7½d. all round. How splendid!—Yours sincerely, C. W. WOOLLEY.

Bushey Heath.

P.S.—I am a member of the London County Association and wish them well so I offer this suggestion—put the 6d. fee on to the price of the tea, then nobody will notice it.—C. W. W.

LONDON COUNTY ASSOCIATION AND STEEPLEAGE

Dear Sir,—Over 40 years ago I was one of the first two assistant secretaries to be appointed by the London County Association. Occasionally it became my task to collect steepleage at county meetings, a most irksome job. I was never brusque and had no need to be. I was always received with courtesy by both members and non-members. Meetings were always most friendly. Many young semi-advanced people in the art attended, and were always made very welcome. The County did the spade work.

To suggest, as Gillian A. Leale and others have done, that steepleage was introduced to keep away non-members is downright trash and a grave injustice against the London County Association under its most genial Master, Harold Rogers. If all this kindly atmosphere has changed then maybe the rising generation is somewhat to blame.

It would indeed be appreciated if the above mentioned lady had had the courage to name the target at which she is aiming. As Christopher Dalton has so rightly stated, the county's main source of income is from steepleage and admission of new members' fees.

If this lady has forgotten, the London County Association was formed over a century ago to enable the two main societies to meet and ring together on the friendliest of terms.

This question of steepleage has come up before. Now Gillian comes up with an idea so this vexed question can be dealt with and the Association receive an income without introducing an annual subscription.—Yours, etc., R. NEWMAN.

Romford (late Holloway).

PEALS, 1965 AND 1966

Dear Sir,—Whilst much enjoying Canon Felstead's articles on peals, there are one or two observations I would like to make.

The list of first peals on the bells for 1965 should include Scole, Norfolk. This is a new six and had its first peal (Plain Bob Minor) on July 12th, 1965.

As I have already pointed out to Canon Felstead owing to an unfortunate error in reporting, his total for Bunwell was one more than had been rung there. In fact Bunwell reached its century on April 12th, 1967.

Also I would like to point out a peal in eight Minor methods was rung at Bunwell on March 21st, 1954, and one in 14 Minor methods on December 28th, 1955.

Hoping this may enable any records to be corrected.—Yours faithfully,

C. F. W. PHILLIPPO.

OBITUARY

MR. HENRY PARKER

With the passing of Mr. Henry (Harry) Parker on October 9th the Northwich Branch of the Chester Diocesan Guild has lost its most outstanding ringer and there is no doubt his influence will be greatly missed.

Harry took up ringing in the early 1920's, up to which time the Northwich Branch had ringers capable only of mostly Grandsire Triples and Bob Major. He was, I believe, the first Northwich Branch ringer to break the Surprise methods barrier and the more advanced methods, and quite a number of the Northwich Branch ringers owe their present standard to his guidance. He must have rung over 300 peals, a large number of which he conducted.

A former hon. secretary and chairman of the Branch he gave yeoman support over a great many years to all Branch meetings and Branch activities.

The funeral was at Witton on October 13th, when the eight bells were rung half-muffled, including the whole pull and stand, by members of the Northwich Branch.

Our sympathy is extended to his widow and son, Kenneth, in their sad bereavement.

R. W. W.

MRS. L. STILWELL

The sympathy of his many ringing friends will be extended to Mr. Len Stilwell in the loss he has experienced by the death of his wife, Sophie Ellen (Tim) at Southlands Hospital, Shoreham, Sussex, on October 9th.

Mr. and Mrs. Stilwell had spent 43 years of happy life together. She did a little ringing at the end of World War I at Windsor and was proud of the fact that she rang the tenor when eight ladies rang a few rounds on the heavy bells at the Castle.

The last time she rang was for Peace at the conclusion of World War II at Pulborough. She was known to a large number of ringers, who were always made welcome at her home.

AIRMAN'S UNHAPPY EXPERIENCE

Dear Sir,—I found Mrs. Lawrence's letter about steepleage very interesting, especially her theory about discouragement to non-members.

I attended a meeting of an Association earlier this year. The total of my ringing activities that day were half a course of Cambridge Major when they had not enough ringers to ring anything else at the 12-bell tower and three leads of Kent at the 10-bell tower. Other pastimes consisted mainly of being turned off bells because of not being a member, and being insulted grossly on the two occasions when I did manage to get a ring. (I won't bore anyone with details.)

I would now hasten to add two things:—

(i) The younger ringers were most friendly and sympathetic; it was only the well-established hierarchy, who should know better, who were offensive.

(ii) Two of these main offenders were most cordial when I met them at another London tower recently on a tour.

From these facts I can only deduce this—that the officers of this Association like their meetings to be for members and members only. —Yours faithfully,

PETER S. ABBOTT.

Wilfred Williams' North-West Peal Tour

ANY presentation of Lancashire as a place of soot and mills and Coronation Streets is a travesty. Those who came on Wilfred's ten-day tour this year, and who did not already know the area, were able to see for themselves that Lancashire has plenty of delightful, attractive scenery in common with the other counties we touched on (Cheshire, Westmorland and Yorkshire). There are also many other good things as well, not least being the bells, of which Lancashire has a large number of very fine rings.

The main body of the party assembled for "higher service" at Knutsford on August 18th from all parts of England. With us was that entertaining "tenor king" who gives the impression that he cherishes the illusion that he is the "greatest." Whether this week did anything to dispel that illusion or not, at least it dispelled another one, which he maintained to the "bitter" end. So much for the moment for "Worthington E. Cannon."

17 OUT OF 21 ATTEMPTS

On Saturday morning the first peal was scored—Bristol—on the grand eight at Bowdon. This was the first of 17 successful attempts out of a total of 21 during the week. Without undue boasting we can fairly claim that the general standard of ringing throughout the tour was good and on occasions outstandingly so. We were then joined by the South Wales and Gloucester contingent and proceeded to ring a peal of Cambridge Royal on the fine Gillett and Johnston ten at Manchester Cathedral. The Cathedral has recently been cleaned after many years of blackness and the transformation well repays the vast sum that must have been spent. Perhaps a little more might have been spent in reducing the noise of the bells, which rap out like cannon-fire outside. We could not, however, blame the "greatest" for this, although he has made his mark around here—there is a sort of back-end alley opposite the Cathedral called Cannon Court.

During the week we came across a number of rings like that at Manchester Cathedral, where the bells are very noisy indeed immediately outside the tower, and a number of us felt that more education on the subject of noise control (perhaps by the Central Council) is an urgent need.

On Sunday we were made welcome at service ringing by the local band at Burnley Parish Church, which was conveniently situated opposite the Sparrow Hawk Hotel, where we made our headquarters for the greater part of the week. It was extremely pleasant to see such a large congregation at morning service. In the afternoon we broke new ground by ringing a peal of Bristol Royal at Preston. This was a joint birthday peal for Wilfred and Maryl, actually a day early as Maryl could not be with us for a peal on Monday.

THE WOODHOUSE MACHINE

After ringing for evening service at Preston we were all entertained by John and Maryl before descending on Maryl's parents for a demonstration of the Woodhouse ringing machine. Most of the party had never seen this remarkable machine and Cyril demonstrated its full capabilities and also showed us the complete blue line to a peal of 4-Spliced Surprise Major that he has rung on the machine. We soon had it going to Bristol and Double Norwich (the best Pat had ever heard) although in our inexpert hands it produced some remarkable odd variations that will probably never be heard again.

A good peal of London was rung on the glorious eight at Whalley on Monday morning, while the remainder of the party lost a peal of Stedman Triples due to a broken rope on the tuneful eight at Oswaldtwistle. We then made our way to Lancaster, where we were staying for the next two nights. Most of the party made the journey to Lancaster by way of the Trough of Bowland and experienced what delightful countryside there is in this part of the country.

In the afternoon a peal was rung at the Priory at Lancaster, where there is a majestic heavy ring of eight. On arrival at the tower we found that we could have done with the services of Bill Theobold, who was unfortunately not able to be with us this year due to illness. After splicing seven ropes, putting pulley blocks in order and a great deal of oiling we succeeded in ringing a reasonable peal of Rutland.

85 AND STILL GOING STRONG

In the evening we were joined for a few hours by Lester Gray and a number of friends who had made the journey from Liverpool. It was grand to see Lester looking so fit and well and we all wished him well for his 85th birthday, which he was to celebrate a week or so later. We were also joined by John and Maryl, and the joint birthday of Wilfred and Maryl, which has become a feature of recent tours, was again celebrated with due ceremony.

On Tuesday morning we made the long journey to Dalton-in-Furness through the lovely countryside that borders on the Lake District, and a good peal of London Royal was rung on the musical ring of ten. Stan Mason was as usual making recordings of most of the tour and one of the most enjoyable features of the holiday was being able to listen to a bit of the Lancaster peal, a bit of Whalley and a bit of Dalton and so on as we went along in the cars. Another enjoyable journey then followed, when we travelled to Kendal and en route went along the banks of Lake Windermere. Cambridge Royal was the method for Kendal and quite a reasonable peal was rung despite the distraction of the bells being so loud inside the tower. An excellent meal in the Steak House at Kendal, which can be fully recommended, brought a most enjoyable day to a close.

London was rung at Hornby the following morning despite the fact that a number of the band misunderstood the conductor's instructions. Then another most enjoyable journey back through the Trough of Bowland to Blackburn, where our next peal attempt was to be that evening. Whether or not it was due to a late start, Spliced London and Cambridge Royal would not go on the excellent ten at the Cathedral, and due to the late time of starting we were not able o begin again.

CLAPPER BREAKS

Thursday saw us at the seaside at Southport and attempting to ring a peal of Bristol at Emmanuel Church. The bells here go well, sound well and are sufficiently boarded up to cause no annoyance in the residential area in which the church is situated. Everything about them is grand, but after ringing for about three-quarters of an hour the tenor clapper broke off at the yoke and ended what would have been an enjoyable three hours.

In the afternoon we again had two peal attempts. The first at Ormskirk, which has one of the few churches in England with a tower and a spire. A stately peal of Bristol to a delightful composition by Nolan Golden which parts the tenors was rung, with Ruth Border coming out of retirement to show that she has not forgotten what it's all about.

At the same time eight members of the Ancient Society of College Youths rang a very good peal of Stedman Triples at Christ Church, Aughton. Leslie Barry took time off from his other activities to join us in this peal. Leslie was not having such a successful tour this year as his number of new towers was far ahead of his new breweries! A short ring on the little six at St. Michael's, Aughton, in the evening, helped to keep trade going in the very popular little "local."

Friday was a day to remember. Ten of us went for Pudsey Royal at Marsden. Giles rang the third, the same bell as he rang three years ago when, having insulted his Yorkshire tail-end, the rope broke with three leads of the peal (Pudsey Royal) to ring and some very unclerical words were uttered. This time we did succeed in ringing the peal, but not without incident. Someone tried to stop us, but being unable to communicate other than by various "noises off" and a skilfully pitched tennis ball through a window, they failed to make us realise that there was a very good reason why the bells should not be ringing at that time. However, the peal was rung and all explained satisfactorily, and we hope that the quality of our ringing on this lovely ten made some amends.

Later in the day we rang Pitman's four all-the-work on the near perfect eight at Heptonstall, while the remainder of the party drank numerous cups of tea in the little cafe and listened to the Test match.

A PEAL THAT WAS EARNED

The second Saturday was a big day. Two peals were scheduled for the morning, London was successfully rung at Hyde, but unfortunately 6-spliced was lost at St. Peter's, Ashton-under-Lyne, after a couple of hours' ringing. In the afternoon we went to the Town Hall in Manchester for a peal of Stedman Cinques. There is no doubt that the majestic bells make a wonderful sound, but there is also no doubt that some of the back bells require a lot of ringing. We "earned" the peal, but we were not entirely satisfied that we could not have done better. However, when we listened to the tape recording of the peal from outside it was quite reasonable Stedman Cinques indeed, and the comments from the outside listeners were quite favourable.

In the evening we relaxed in the City Arms next to the Town Hall. By prior arrangement we had all decided that this was to be "Let's be nice to Cannon day," a very laudable aim which ended in an unrehearsed comedy. Those who are interested should apply to Stan Mason, who has a tape which records the conversation. It was very entertaining the next morning when Pat heard what he had said.

On Sunday morning we again rang for service at Burnley Parish Church and in the afternoon we rang a peal of 6-spliced on the fine Gillett and Johnston eight at Heywood. In the evening we went to Ashton-under-Lyne Parish Church, where we joined the local band, and a half-course of Cambridge Maximus was rung prior to the service. The local ringers were, as usual, extremely friendly.

BANK HOLIDAY REFLECTION

Bank Holiday Monday was our last day. Wigan Parish Church possesses a beautiful ring of ten, and we rang a very good peal of Cambridge Royal at a lovely, steady pace. Peals at Wigan are usually only allowed on Bank Holidays as the bells are extremely loud outside. By contrast St. Helens ten bells are not so beautiful, certainly not inside, where they seem to bang rather than ring. Yorkshire Royal was rung in brisk time to an unusual composition by Peter Border.

Following the peal one of our writers departed for the North-East so rapidly that he forgot to do his slow work in Bury. Police radar traps are designed to suppress ringers who go in quick when they shouldn't. That certainly was the case this time.

We have left until last the most important thing we want to say, which is a thank you to Maryl, who did most of the organising of the bells for us. We presented her with a small token of our appreciation in Manchester. Many others could be mentioned—clergy, local ringers, vergers and others who helped to make the tour both possible and enjoyable but we will only mention Wilfred himself. Thank you, Wilfred, for yet another masterly piece of organisation and planning. We really enjoyed this tour as well as any in the past.

Finally we would like to mention an incident that occurred while we were ringing at Southport. While the ringing was going on, a lady living nearby wrote a letter expressing her thanks to the Rector for the ringing of the bells. She handed the letter to us for delivery to the Rector. There was no Rector (the letter was given to the church authorities) and we lost the peal, but this little incident meant a lot to us. It meant our pleasure was being shared, and this is one of the rewards of good ringing and good companionship. You can't have too much of it!

G. C. G., T. P. E.

PRE-REFORMATION BELLS

Very few ringers bother to take any notice of towers with one, two or three bells and only recently the fours. Yet these are in the main where our oldest bells can be found. The reason of course being that they have not had the amount of use of the higher numbers; they have not been subjected to tower-grabbing activities and peals.

Visits to these towers do commend themselves, always of course seeking the necessary permission beforehand. I remember calling at Orton Longueville; the Rector was in the church and readily welcomed the suggestion to go up to the tower to flash-photo the very old bell of circa 1420 by John Walgrave, whose trade stamp I found was still in good condition. It is a 7 cwt. bell.

On another occasion, at Hardwick, near Wellingborough, I found a bell did not bear the stamp "William Founder" (ascribed to William Dawe, as some had previously thought it belonged), but was more likely to be a little later—by John Bird, 1408–1418. And y this visit I was able to learn a lot about one of Britain's oldest manor houses alongside the church.

If we go to Cold Ashby we can see a bell of 1317 (with the date in Roman figures), believed to be by William de Flint. It is the second of four. Of the same, or a little later, period is one of three at Winwick close by, as well as one of three at Teigh, in Rutland—the only bell saved after a disastrous fire (1745–46) and considered to be the oldest bell in Rutland.

The tenor of four at Stowe IX churches dates from the time of Edward III, as does also the tenor of three at Great Billing, by Simon-de-Hazfelde and Johannes-de-Yorke respectively.

Henry Jordon (1442 to 1470) still has several bells in Northants, among them a complete four at Fawsley, the fourth of five at Old, and one of four in the towers at Bainton and Pilton.

A pre-Reformation bell at Hardwick, near Wellingborough. It measures 36 inches and is approximately 8 cwt. in weight. In 1926 it became cracked and was welded.

Just prior to the Reformation is a bell (one of three) at Tansor, by Robert Crouch. And a little after that is one of four at Stanion bearing the figure of the Madonna and Child by one of the Newcombe family of bell-founders. Sanders of Reading (1539–1559) also has one of three at Horton, but it is badly cracked.

P. AMOS

BATH & WELLS ASSOCIATION

On Oct. 7th the Ilchester Branch held a monthly practice at St. Mary's, Mudford.

Ringing on the pleasant five (tenor 17 cwt.) was under the direction of the Branch Ringing Master, Mr. W. E. Turner, and varied from rounds to Bob Doubles, Grandsire Doubles, Stedman and St. Simon's Bob, etc.

There was a good attendance of about 30 ringers and the Ilchester Branch was pleased to welcome the newly-affiliated tower of St. Mary's, Mudford, together with its six new ringing members and associate member, the Rev. E. D White.

A pleasant and very welcome surprise came at the end of ringing, when all were invited to the Vicarage, where sumptuous refreshments and coffee awaited them.

Members would like to record their appreciation of Mr. White's generosity and also to thank Mr. Hunt and Mr. Goverd. J.L.

RAILWAYMEN'S GUILD

Autumn Meeting at Brighton

Wind and rain was the unfortunate welcome for the early arrivals on the Friday prior to the autumn meeting of the Guild at Brighton on September 30th. It was, however, a great relief when the weather improved on the Saturday and throughout the week-end. The attendance was again very good, and the Regions represented were London, Midland, Western, North Eastern, Southern and Eastern.

The ringing programme did mean a little extra travelling, but the excellent train service made all towers easy of access.

After tea, the business opened with the Master (Mr. F. Hodgson) in the chair. The guest, Mr. Reginald I. Johnson (Master, Sussex County Association) welcomed the Guild to Brighton and hoped that members would enjoy their visit and make full use of the bells available.

At this stage of the meeting a vote of thanks was proposed by Mr. George Jennings to the incumbents of the churches for the use of the bells, Mr. Charles Bassett for the splendid programme arranged, and Messrs. Shepherd and Bond for kindly meeting the members at their respective churches.

A proposal to hold future meetings of the Southern Region in London only was lost on a vote being taken. The amendment—"to hold future meetings anywhere in the Southern Region"—was carried.

Mr. Jack Brown gave a very full and detailed account of the proposed programme for the Guild's visit to Liverpool (the annual general meeting in 1968)

The day ended with further ringing at St. Peter's, Brighton. J.A.H.

BELFRY GOSSIP

We were sorry to hear that Mr. Anthony P. Smith, of Lelant, Cornwall, was delayed in entering King's College, London, through a road accident. He has now arrived in London.

Leicester Diocesan Guild have sold out tickets (180) for their 21st anniversary dinner at Leicester cricket ground pavilion on October 28th.

Rainham, Kent, ringers had a half-day's outing on July 29th, ringing at Selling, Wye, Little Chart and Egerton. There was a surprise for one ringer at Selling who tried to set a stayless bell.

Two towers were available for the Eastern District of the Hertford County Association on September 30th—Hoddesdon in the afternoon and Ware in the evening, where Cambridge Major was rung with the 22 cwt. tenor.

"Everyone, from expert to novice, reads 'The Ringing World,'" writes a correspondent from Christchurch, New Zealand. "It is one way of keeping them from talking during touches." Perhaps a second copy in the belfry would be justified. (By air £5 per annum.)

Minster-in-Sheppey, Kent, is suffering from a lack of male ringers and recruits. Of the regular band of 16, 14 are ladies and girls. Is this a general trend or merely a localised peculiarity? Miss Mira Ford (11), of this tower, put up a very creditable performance for her first quarter.

Beginning of term blues were lightened somewhat for members of the Durham University Society by the announcement of the engagement of last year's secretary, Miss Pat Armitage, to last year's treasurer, Mr. David Swann. We wish them well, and from the look of things so far, are not going to be disappointed this year either!

The Rev. M. F. Gibbs, chairman of the North Berks Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, is shortly leaving for Cardiff.

There was a literal in the peal at Aldermaston on page 741. The ringer of the fifth should have read Perceval Robert Blond.

Over 200 tickets have been sold for the College Youths' dinner on November 4th at Walbrook Restaurant, Bucklebury House, E.C.4.

The recent quarter peal at Fyfield, Essex, was the first in the method (Plain Bob) in living memory. Nine-year-old Martin Woodford is to be congratulated on his confident handling of the treble in his first quarter.

Miss Hazel Giddins, the captain of Merrow, Guildford, ringers, was married on October 7th to Mr. R. A. Keith Glue, another member of the band. After the wedding a quarter of Grandsire Doubles was rung, conducted by Mr. D. A. R. May.

For examples of common faults in handling we advise ringers to buy the current issue of "Borchester Echo" produced for Archer fans. Portrayed are Dan Archer, Doughy Hood and Tom Forrest trying to ring Bob Major on a Sunday morning. It warrants a protest to the "Radio Times."

Nailsea ringers were delighted to welcome their old tower captain, Mr. E. J. (Ted) Baker, who joined them for Harvest Festival Evensong on October 1st. Ted is a sprightly 92, but he wears his years well and rang a creditable treble to a touch of Grandsire Doubles. All hope to see him again next year and indeed at any time when he can visit the tower.

TEN YEARS AFTER

In the ringers' story "Ten Years After," published in our issue of September 22nd a Birmingham ringer has written through his solicitors claiming to have identified himself as "Old Bill." We wish to assure him that the character in "Ten Years After" was purely fictitious and in no sense was associated with any living person.

HONOUR FOR MISS IRIS LEMARE

Miss Iris Lemare, of York Minster, was a guest of honour at the Women of the Year luncheon at the Savoy Hotel, London, given in aid of the Greater London Fund for the Blind and attended by nearly 700 women. Guests were invited only on the basis of their personal achievements or services to the community.

On October 6th Miss Lemare conducted the Lemare Orchestra in York Minster in aid of the Minster Appeal. The programme included Beethoven's Pastoral Symphony, Five Mystical Songs by R. Vaughan Williams and Pelham Humfrey's setting of a "Hymne to God the Father." Of the last-named the "Yorkshire Evening Press" speaks of "Iris Lemare's magical control of the accompaniment and the arched splendours of the Minster." The report concludes: "Miss Lemare deserves the highest praise for her leadership, especially as her right arm was practically out of action owing to a recent injury to her shoulder."

SCENE OF VANDALISM

Akenham, Suffolk, which has figured in the news as the scene of a shocking case of vandalism where a figure of Christ was torn from an altar and pages ripped from the Bible, is a very scattered parish on the northern outskirts of Ipswich. The church was threatened with closure (as redundant) a few years ago and possible demolition, but the Friends of Friendless Churches and certain individuals rescued it.

The two youths were were convicted of the offences were stated to have entered the church by climbing a drainpipe on the 14th century tower and entering through the belfry window. They then clambered down a bell rope into the church itself.

C. R. informs us that according to Raven's "Church Bells of Suffolk," Akenham has one bell—45 inches—by John Darbie, 1678.

A VISIT AFTER THE PEAL

The peal at Aldwinckle, Northants, on October 7th, was followed by ringing at the nearby steeple of Achurch, where the bells have not been rung for some time and are thought to be (erroneously) by some as "unringable." This was the beginning of their Harvest Festival.

Achurch is noted for its former Rector in the reign of Elizabeth I (the Rev. Robert Browne), who broke away from the Church of England to sow the first seeds of what is today the Congregational movement. At the age of 81 he was imprisoned in Northampton gaol as a rates defaulter, where he died, and was buried in St. Giles' Churchyard.

For Mr. S. Ruddlesden, who has been a ringer for some 20 or so years, it was his first four-bell tower. P.A.

UNWRITTEN RULES FOR PEALS

In an editorial in the current issue of the "Irish Bell News" the editor gives the following unwritten rules for those contemplating peal attempts:—

(a) Is there a justification for the attempt, e.g. a peal in a church where one has not previously been rung in the method, or do we wish to honour some personality?

(b) Am I a fanatic for attempting peals and am I selfish enough to attempt peals in places where complaints are likely to occur?

(c) What will the effect be on the church authorities? The ropes wear out with excessive ringing bearings require to be lubricated if there are plain bearings, clock hammers may become damaged and chiming hammers may catch bells due to carelessness.

(d) Do we go to churches and ring peals and not say "thank you," but feel we have a perfect right to ring the peal there? Do we contribute towards the cost of ropes and other repairs? After all, ropes now cost about £5 or £6 each and with excessive ringing may not last more than five to ten years.

MAKING SUNDAY INTO SABBATH

Kirkland Bridge in his announcement on "Pillars of the Church" has something kind to say about the bellringers. Here is an extract:—

"Old Granfer Higgs, eighty last birthday, trudges up the churchyard path with the great iron key of the tower door; and in ones and twos, the bellringers gather in the cool, dim tower, after 'ringing up,' stand by their ropes for the words 'Treble's going—GONE, when, one by one, the great bells speak."

Their tumultuous tumbling overture echoes across our fair and green England, making Sunday into Sabbath, inviting the faithful to worship; entering homes, hospitals and even prisons, and, perchance, rebuking some who no longer pray.

A PILGRIMAGE OF REMEMBRANCE TO PAINSWICK

On Sunday, September 24th, for the eighth successive year, the Hinton-on-the-Green band paid their annual visit to Painswick to ring for Evensong and "in memoriam" John Thomas.

In place of the usual quarter peal, ringing was made general this year to give everyone more chance, and ranged from rounds to Grandsire Cinques and a good service touch of Caters. As always, a very cordial welcome was forthcoming from the Rector, the local ringers and the parishioners.

PROCLAIMING THE CHURCH'S FELLOWSHIP

Fareham (Hants) ringers recently had their annual outing. They went to East Sussex and rang at Lindfield Fletching, Mayfield, Lewes and Ditchling. The ringing was not of the highest standard but like most outings this was a happy and successful day. The hospitality of the parish priests and the ringers awaiting the visiting band was excellent, and the tea was pretty good as well.

And so, as this outing becomes a memory for all those concerned—ringers, friends and listeners—let us hope that in this and in all ringing outings the fellowship of the Church may be proclaimed and strengthened.

R.K.H.

VISITING VANCOUVER

The first quarter on the bells of the Holy Rosary Cathedral, Vancouver, was rung on October 12th in honour of Canada's Centennial Year. Unfortunately the Ringing Master, Mr. Ted Lee, was unable to take part through an injury to his shoulder. Miss Pamela Sturdy, who is on holiday from England, writes that the Vancouver Society of Change Ringers practises on Tuesdays, 8–9.30 p.m. and rings on Sundays at 10.30 a.m. They give a warm welcome to any visiting ringer.

WAS IT A COINCIDENCE)?

The bells of Christchurch Cathedral, New Zealand, were rung on October 9th for the annual synod of the diocese. On the same evening New Zealand's hitherto restrictive licensing laws were altered to allow bars to remain open until ten o'clock. The band, which included two ringers, David and Nelson Sloan, who could recall the days before the infamous "six o'clock swill," rang touches of Bob Minor and Grandsire Doubles and Triples and a course of Grandsire Caters before proceeding, some to the service and some to a nearby hostelry!

WATFORD DISTRICT OUTING

Watford and district ringers and friends took a trip to East Anglia for their annual outing on October 1st, when a most successful day was enjoyed.

In the church high above the town, Downham Market bells went well to a variety of methods, but were strangely difficult to hear in the tower, possibly because of restoration work in progress. At King's Lynn, where Cambridge Royal was essayed, albeit if not successfully brought round, the majestic bells were enjoyed by ringers and listeners alike.

After lunch at the Victoria Cafe, Wisbech, the very good six at Walpole St. Andrew were rung to the apparent great interest of the oldest (?) inhabitant. Nearby Walpole St. Peter, famed for its large and beautiful church, the Flower Festival was of course a must, and after a good ring here steps were retraced to the Victoria Cafe for tea. The Fen country proved very interesting, and in the coach snatches of conversation about Bedford levels, thirty foot drains, etc., could be heard. In the gathering darkness the last call was at Ickleton where, ringing from the chancel, the first Gillett and Johnston eight brought a very satisfactory conclusion to a good day out. Many thanks to all incumbents, to all who met the party and to Geoff Seaman for his able organisation.

R. G. B.

A DEVON OUTING

The first outing arranged by Mr. and Mrs. Roy Welch, of Ilton, Somerset, on September 30th into Devon proved very enjoyable, even the lumpy six at St. Michael's, Honiton, which started the bell programme.

All were impressed by the bells at Ottery St. Mary and the beautiful church. Some more good ringing followed at Talaton, and also lunch and a visit to a most attractive village inn. The afternoon's programme was Clyst Honiton, Stoke Canon and the heavy eight at Crediton, where unfortunately justice was not done to the bells. Tea was at Crediton and there were two more towers—Cadbury and Silverton—to be visited before the usual convivial half hour at Taunton. We arrived home with many happy memories of a good day, spent in very good company.

LLANDAFF AND MONMOUTH ASSOCIATION

Monmouth Branch

Saturday, October 14th, proved wet and windy but, despite this discouraging weather, an attendance of some 50 ringers gathered at Caldicot for the last quarterly meeting of the year.

The ringing Vicar, the Rev. Roy Hallett, was early in the tower, bells oiled and up, all ready to greet the visitors! Ringing continued until service time under the able direction of the Branch Master, Mr. Richard Stewart.

The choral service of Solemn Evensong was conducted by the Vicar, and it was good to see that all members of the choir and the eight serving boys had all previously been ringing in the tower. Mr. Ian Cooper read the lesson and Mrs. Dorothy Jones played the organ.

An excellent tea was waiting in the Church School, and the Caldicot ladies and bellringers, who had given and prepared this, were thanked by Mr. Gordon Wilkinson. Mr. Paul Williams thanked Mrs. Dorothy Jones for so kindly playing the organ.

At a short business meeting, new ringing members elected were six little boys from Chepstow, one young lady from Penhow, two members from St. Woolos and two from Caldicot; also eight life members from Bath. Progress of various kinds was mentioned from Newport, Penhow, Usk and Chepstow. Mr. Lionel Jones paid tribute to the memory of Mr. Edgar Luff, who had been a ringer and tower leader at Usk for 30 years.

Mention was made of the rehanging in a new frame of the six bells at Grosmont and of the need for over £2,000. A fete during the summer had raised £133 and all agreed that this was indeed a wonderful effort for such a tiny village.

Finally came a vote of thanks to the Vicar, and the meeting was brought to a close with a prayer by the Rev. Ivor Richards.

OSWY STREET CONTEST, 1967

Six teams entered on a wet and windy day at Ordsall on October 14th. The striking of most reflected the weather.

Warsop won again (27 faults). Derby Cathedral "A." Barnsley and East Retford rang moderately in comparison and came very close (64, 66 and 67 respectively). Stow were placed next never really settling down (114 faults). Derby "B" rang out aften nine minutes, the bells being set on account of a miscall.

Roughtown and Friezland had hoped to enter but were prevented

Thanks were expressed to the judge, Mr. H. Chant, and his marker, Mr. P. Mounsey, to the Rector for the bells and to the ladies for the tea

Ringing also took place at Babworth and East Retford.

A Notable Composition

A Review of Stephen Wood's 5,009 Stedman Caters

BY EDGAR C. SHEPHERD

IT is a matter for regret that the Central Council Collection of peals of Stedman Caters and Cinques, published six years ago, failed to include Stephen Wood's fine 5,009 of Caters. I am conscious of a measure of guilt in this matter, because Mr. Critchley was kind enough to ask me for suggestions as to material for the collection, and in recommending certain matter I overlooked this important and striking contribution to the Stedman repertoire. It may not be inopportune, therefore, to reproduce the figures of the peal, to look at its structure, and to draw attention to its excellent qualities, and in doing so to pay some small tribute to the memory of a gallant gentleman who laid down his life in the cause of humanity.

First let us look at the construction of the peal and how it is built.

If a course of Stedman Caters is called 4.5. 8.9. 14.15. 18.19 and this is repeated four times a round block or section of five courses will be obtained, having the 5ths place bell retained in fifths place. If the first course of this section is called 2. 14.15. 18.19. and the other four courses as above the result will be a section of five courses that may be repeated once, thus giving a round block of 10 courses. But in the second section the bells in 7ths and 9ths will be reversed. This means—and this is the important point—that if the first section is in the Tittums the second section will be in the Handstroke Home; or, if the first section is in the Handstroke Home the second will be in the Tittums. On this fact rests the construction of Mr. Wood's peal.

Now if each time the bells turn from Tittums to Handstroke Home the first course is called 2. 5s. 14.15. 18.19. two more sections will be spliced in and we shall have a round block of four sections (20 courses), half the sections Tittums and half Handstroke Home.

Lastly, if every fourth Turning Course is called 2. 5s. 8s. 14.15. 18.19. the number of sections will be doubled, and we shall have eight sections (40 courses) half Tittums and half Handstroke Home. And this is precisely what Mr. Wood has done. Look now at the figures of the peal and observe the very last course end, 134265879. If this is followed by the standard calling 4.5. 8.9. 14.15. 18.19. the next course end will be 321564879, which, you will observe, occurs as the third course end of the peal.

Apart from the first two courses, therefore, the whole peal consists of the round block of eight sections (forty courses). Mr. Wood has very cleverly exploited this great block, breaking into it at a convenient point by the use of two Opening Courses, and has so used his sections that only 5 and 6 appear in fifths place throughout. What this means to the qualities of the peal we shall see shortly.

At first sight it appears odd that the peal should end in the middle of a section, but an examination of the rotation of the 5th and 6th in alternate sections soon provides the reason why the peal cannot come round at handstroke at the end of a section. In the Tittum sections only the 5th is in fifths place (i.e. behind the 9th), and in the Handstroke Home sections only the 6th is in fifths place (i.e. behind the 8th). In order to maintain this quality it is necessary for either 5 or 6 to be Trebles-place bell at the end of each section, and this will inevitably result in . . . . 56978 appearing as the second course of a Tittum section and . . . . 65879 appearing as the second course of a Handstroke Home section. In no other position in the sections can 5 and 6 occupy these respective positions.

The number of changes, 5,009, is arrived at as follows.

The standard course contains 20 sixes, and there are 40 such courses, which gives us 800 sixes, 4,800 changes. The first course has 16 sixes and the second one 18 sixes; this provides 204 changes, bringing the peal to 5,004. Two odd rows at the beginning and three odd rows at the end bring the total to 5,009, a nice convenient number for a peal!

Round in three rows.

For the conductor, one or two points may be noted.

(1) In every course of the main blocks there are bobs at 14.15 18.19. This is invariable.

(2) The end of each Tittum section is marked by the 6th as Trebles-place bell.

(3) The end of each Handstroke Home section is marked by the 5th as Trebles-place bell.

(4) Every Turning Course from Handstroke Home to Tittums includes the single at 5.

MUSICAL QUALITIES

We may now look at some of the musical qualities of this very interesting peal, and these are best revealed by an examination of the construction of one of the standard courses. I have chosen to set out in full a Handstroke Home course; a Tittum course is precisely the same but with 8 and 9 reversed, and the 5th behind the 9th.

It will be noted that all the bobs are in in pairs and that each pair occurs when the fixed bells are behind. The fixed bells in this Handstroke course are 6, 9, 8 and 7, and the plan of calling is: 6th twice Wrong, 9th twice Right, 8th twice Wrong, 7th twice Right. In a Tittum course 9 and 8 would be reversed and 5 would take the place of 6.

There is, of course, a serious limitation imposed by the use of this plan. An examination of the structure shows that it is not possible to add any more calls to the course without upsetting the fixed bells. The course itself will repeat four times to give a block of five courses and there are altogether four such blocks, all independent of one another. But there seems to be no way of shunting from one block to another by the use of bobs or singles without destroying the relative positions of 6, 7, 8 and 9; and to destroy this relationship would be to lose all the advantages of the plan. The only way Mr. Wood found to exploit his four blocks was to interleave them with the corresponding Tittum blocks. If a way could be found to run the four Tittum blocks (20 courses) in succession, with the 6th in fifths, and the four Handstroke Home blocks (20 courses) in succession in the same way, we should then have another notable composition, and one well worthy to be put alongside Mr. Wood's masterpiece.

After this short digression (indulged in chiefly to stir some of our composers!) let us look at the musical fare Mr. Wood offers, for here we shall find one or two novel features. One unusual experience is to find no 7689 at the Tittum course-end, and this might perhaps be counted a defect in an otherwise splendid peal were it not compensated by musical manifestations not often found in Stedman Caters. The very nature of the construction of the composition prevents the fixing of the sixth in fifths place in the Tittum blocks, and we must content ourselves with the 7589 terminations, the next best, perhaps, to 7689. In the middle of the course we have an 8975 termination, and the second course of each block produces a course-end 56978. In addition, the third course of each Tittum block provides two bobs on 96. So it will be seen there is a variety of music to make up for the missing 7689.

It is, however, in the Handstroke Home that we find the feature of outstanding merit. In most ordinary peals of Stedman Caters the beauty of the course-end is followed by a sharply contrasted bareness in the middle of the course; in this peal the composer has found a way to fill this gap and fill it very effectively. The eleventh six of each course brings up the termination 9876, and this is followed immediately by 9.7.68, an impressive and satisfying sequence. Thus we have the best of two worlds—the loveliness of the course-end with its 7698 and 7.9.86, and in the middle of the course the two lively inversions.

The two opening courses of the peal serve to introduce the main blocks and to raise the number of changes above 5,000. They merit a short note, for they produce two course-ends in the 7968 position. This is an attractive musical effect, often used in Grandsire Caters but rarely in Stedman. Composers might keep it in mind, for it may readily be resolved into the Handstroke Home position, as Mr. Wood shows in the third course.

On December 17th, 1932, Mr. Ernest Morris conducted this peal at Loughborough, when the band declared that it was the most musical peal they had ever rung; Stephen Wood rang the tenor. Eight years later he met his death while on duty in an air raid in Bristol. Among his several enterprises in the field of composition he has left us this remarkable peal, to provide ringing of unusual interest and a challenge to the conductor. I cannot recall that it has been rung on handbells, but that, clearly, is something well worth doing.

FAMOUS PEAL RINGING TOWERS

By CANON K. W. H. FELSTEAD

ON page 236 of "The Ringing World" of 1956 appeared an article with the above title which gave a list of the towers where more than 150 peals had been rung. A correspondent has recently asked for the number of peals rung in his tower and for the names of the towers where more peals had been rung. This has led me to think that ringers might be interested to see the present position of the League Table (as it were). Before giving the list, a few brief comments may be pertinent. In 1956 there were three towers above the 500 mark, now there are five. There were none in the 400's, now there is one. Between 300 and 400 there were 10, now there are 17. Over 250, there were 21 (including the above), now there are 36.

Because numbers have increased, the list below gives all the towers with more than 250 peals (and not, as last time, more than 150). In brackets, I have put the 1956 totals and also the position they then held in the "league." The figures include the peals which have been published up to "The Ringing World" of September 22nd.

Chesterfield	261	(253,	21st)
Helmingham	254	(239,	25th)
Isleworth	250	(194,	46th)

I suppose the most noticeable feature is the change in position of certain towers, especially Ashton-under-Lyne. Also in the list are one or two towers which don't often appear at all these days, e.g. Leiston—a reminder that the hey-day of some are in the past.

SIX- AND FIVE-BELL TOWERS

As in the article 11 years ago, 6- and 5-bell ringers might like to see the position of their towers. Eleven years ago, only one 6-bell tower had passed the 100 mark—Thornham Magna. Now there are 11 and one of them was not even mentioned last time in the list of towers with more than 50 peals—North Muskham. Here then is the present position of towers which have passed their century:

Silk Willoughby	149	(67,	18th)
Thornham Magna	139	(136,	1st)
Croft	136	(97,	2nd)
Stisted	136	(69,	13th)
Gamston	131	(63,	22nd)
Apsley End	121	(72,	11th)
Wistaston	113	(81,	7th)
Darlington, Holy Trinity	107	(86,	6th)
North Muskham	103	(39,	?)
Deeping St. Nicholas	103	(61,	23rd)
Bunwell	101	(67,	17th)

This list shows that I missed the change of leadership amongst the 6-bell towers. It took place on January 16th, 1965, when Silk Willoughby passed Thornham's total. The latter had held the lead for I don't know how long. It reached the 50 mark in 1907 and the 100 in 1922! The second tower to do so was Croft in 1956 soon after the last article on this subject appeared. So it had a long time at the head of the division. Now others are creeping up on it, for peals are few these days (only three in the past 11 years). In the list 11 years ago there were two other towers in the 90's, and I fear they still remain there—Wickham Skeith, now 96 (then 93, 3rd), and Lamberhurst, now 94 (then 92, 4th). Of the other towers I mentioned last time with totals between 50 and 100, none have made very much progress and their totals are little altered.

As for 5-bell towers, I listed, in 1956, those which had reached double figures—17 of them. Warkton then led the way with 32 peals. I noted in an article in 1959 that Marston had passed Warkton's total, and this tower became the first 5-bell tower to reach the 50 mark in 1963. In this category, I think, my list this time must be of towers which have reached 15 and not 10 (for there are many that now total double figures). Here, then, is the table:

Marston	65	(15,	5th)
Warkton	35	(32,	1st)
Barton Segrave	31	(29,	2nd)
Whitney	28	(17,	4th)
Pytchley	25	(22,	3rd)
Stockbury	23	(9,	?)
Hutton	22	(13,	8th)
Weston Favell	21	(15,	5th)
Roade	21	(12,	13th)
Forncett St. Peter	20	(8,	?)
Dalby Magna	19	(13,	8th)
Kirby Muxloe	19	(13,	8th)
Grafton Underwood	18	(13,	8th)
Kirby Bellars	17	(9,	?)
Hammerwood	16	(9,	?)
Oakley	15	(14,	7th)
Orlingbury	15	(12,	13th)
Rumburgh	15	(11,	16th)
Long Buckby	15	(7,	?)
Little Houghton	15	(8,	?)
Raveningham	15	(4,	?)
Itchingfield	15	(3,	?)

One final point—I have, of course, confined myself to peals on towers with 6 and 5 bells in the last two categories. One or two have been augmented since 1956 (e.g. Horsmonden) and are now omitted even though their totals of peals of Minor or Doubles may be more than those mentioned above. Accrington, for instance, which was a former 6-bell tower, has now 135 peals of Minor amongst its total of peals. This is an obvious and outstanding case. It would be too long a job to divide up the peals rung in eight and over bell towers into Minor, Major, etc., and to see where the most of any category have been rung in towers which have been augmented (and it is surprising how many have been this century).

SOUTHWELL DIOCESAN GUILD

The September meeting of the Mansfield District was held at Selston on the 23rd and was much enjoyed by all. Conforming to the usual pattern, the bells were available from 3 p.m. with a service at 4.30. The Rev. H. V. Simmons joined the company at tea and afterwards accepted an invitation to chair the meeting.

The points which emerged were the confirmation of the annual District meeting as being at Mansfield on January 27th and appreciation of the work of the respective secretaries in organising the recent highly successful joint outing.

Ringing continued until 8.30 in methods ranging from Grandsire to Norwich Surprise.

Next meeting: November 25th, Eastwood.

The Church of St. Mary-le-Bow, Cheapside, E.C.

BY WILLIAM T. COOK

AMONG the pealable rings of England it is almost certain that none is more famous throughout the world than "Bow Bells," the bells of St. Mary-le-Bow, Cheapside, London. They play their part in the legend of Dick Whittington, "thrice Lord Mayor of London," who is said to have heard them from Highgate in 1375, and to have been inspired by their sound to return to London; and there is the old tradition that to be a true "Cockney" one must have been born within the sound of Bow Bells. In more recent years, the sound of Bow Bells, or at any rate of the back ten as they existed before 1933, became extremely well known through the recording made by a band of the College Youths, which was for so long used as the "interval signal" on the Home Service of the B.B.C.

A church has certainly been in existence on this site since early Norman times. The great historian of London, Stow, who wrote in the reign of Queen Elizabeth I, records that "in the year 1100 . . . the roof was blown off in a mighty tempest, in which several people were killed." Part of the original crypt of the 11th century, built of Roman bricks, still survives to form one of the oldest parochial buildings in London. The name of the church is probably derived from the arches of this crypt, which also gave their name to the Ecclesiastical Court of Arches, which was first held in Bow Church in 1172.

THREE TOWERS

Ever since the Middle Ages, St. Mary-le-Bow has been one of the largest and finest of City churches The present tower is the third belonging to the church. The first, the Norman tower, collapsed in 1271. As Stow says: "A great part of the steeple fell down and slew many people, men and women." It was replaced by what appears from old illustrations to have been a very fine tower, which was not completed until 1512. This tower had at the corners four stone lanterns, with a fifth held aloft between them on flying buttresses built of Caen stone. These lanterns were intended to be glazed and lighted at night for the convenience of travellers.

The earliest record of a bell at Bow is in a regulation of 1362, in which Bow Church was appointed as one of the City churches where the Curfew should be rung. There is some evidence that the bell used for this purpose was cast in 1334. The Curfew was originally rung at 8 o'clock, but in 1496 the time was changed to 9 o'clock. In addition to the evening Curfew there was a morning bell rung at 5.45 a.m. each day in accordance with the will of John Downe or Donne, who died in 1472. He also left two tenements in Hosier Lane (now Bow Lane) "for the maintenance of the great bell."

A KNELL FOR DONOR

At the time of Edward VI Bow Church possessed "ffyve greate belles and two Sanctus Bells." One of these bells, the great bell, was given by William Copland, a tailor and king's merchant, who was churchwarden in 1515, with the direction that it should be used as the Curfew. This bell was first rung as a knell for the death of its donor. These bells were added to from time to time until by 1652 or 1653, we find one Peter Mundy, in an essay of "Change Ringing," referring to "the 12 bells of Bow whereof 10 bee rung and 2 tolled."

These bells were destroyed in the Great Fire of 1666. The tower was not badly damaged, and over £500 was spent on an attempt to restore it. But when rebuilding was seen to be inevitable, it was decided to emphasise the importance of the church by building the present magnificent steeple to the design of Sir Christopher Wren and bringing it forward to Cheapside (the old tower apparently stood back from the street) with a vestibule between it and the church. Wren intended the new tower, which cost nearly £7,400, to carry twelve bells, but only eight were placed there at first. These were ordered in 1677 from John and Christopher Hodson Christopher Hodson was the son of John, the famous London bellfounder, and in 1677 he set up in business at St. Mary Cray, Kent. In 1680 he cast Great Tom of Oxford. Part of the inscription on the present tenor of Bow bells reads: "Recast 1669," repeating the inscription on the 1933 tenor, but this is evidently incorrect. The tenor of the 1677 ring weighed "upwards of 52 Hundred Weight."

FIRST PEAL 1731

The first peal on these bells was one of Bob Triples, rung by the College Youths on Tuesday, January 12th, 1731. Eleven men were needed, three on the tenor and two on the seventh; it was called from the seventh bell by John Cundell. On Monday, February 11th, 1734, the College Youths rang 5,040 Bob Major in four hours and three minutes, again with eleven men. This peal was called by Benjamin Annable from the sixth, and was the heaviest peal of Major that had been rung. Indeed, if the tenor weight of 52 cwt. is correct, it was unbeaten until the peal in 1911 mentioned below.

In 1738 the tenor was recast by Richard Phelps and Thomas Lester. This fine bell, which lasted until 1933, when it was found to be cracked, weighed 53¼ cwt. The other seven bells were recast in 1762 by Lester and Pack, and two trebles were added to make a ring of ten. The new bells were rung for the first time on June 4th, 1762, the 25th birthday of George III. The first peal on the ten bells was 5,363 Grandsire Caters rung by the College Youths on April 14th, 1765, in 3 hours and 51 minutes, and called from the treble by William Underwood. For this peal three men were needed on the tenor and two on the ninth.

Other noteworthy peals rung in the 18th century are the first of Royal on the bells—5,040 Oxford Treble Bob, rung on December 23rd, 1782, in 4 hours and 15 minutes, with Samuel Muggeridge and William Lyford on the tenor, conducted by John Povey from the fourth; and the first on the bells rung by ten men only—5,111 Grandsire Caters on February 19th, 1787, in 3 hours and 52 minutes. Povey was again the conductor, on the fourth, and Phillip Pilgrim rang the tenor. Both these peals were rung by College Youths.

TWELVE BELLS SINCE 1881

In September, 1819, the steeple was repaired and strengthened with iron ties. In October, 1881, two trebles were added to make a ring of twelve and the first peal on the twelve bells, 5,004 Stedman Cinques, was rung by the College Youths on Easter Monday, April 7th, 1890, in 4 hours and 5 minutes, conducted by James Pettit. The bells were rehung by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston in 1901. The first peal of Maximus in the tower was 5,088 Kent Treble Bob, rung on Saturday, January 9th, 1907, in four hours and one minute, in which W. T. Cockerill rang the tenor and conducted. This peal was commemorated by a dinner, and a marble tablet was erected in the belfry. On Saturday, January 14th, 1911, 5,088 London Surprise Major was rung on the back eight bells in four hours; H. R. Newton called the peal from the tenor. The longest peal on the bells was 7,392 Cambridge Surprise Maximus, rung on December 12th, 1925, by a band of the Middlesex County Association, with William Pye on the tenor.

In 1933 all the bells except the fourth, fifth, ninth and eleventh were recast by Gillett and Johnston Ltd., and the bells were hung in a new frame, the cost of this restoration being defrayed by Mr. Gordon Selfridge. The new tenor weighed 54 cwt. On May 11th, 1941, these bells were destroyed as a result of enemy action, and the church and tower were severely damaged. Some of the original bell metal was, however, salvaged, and the present bells were cast by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank in 1956. The recasting and ceremony of naming the present tenor ("Bow") and second ("Fabian") were carried out in the presence of the then Lord Mayor of London, Sir Cuthbert Ackroyd, and the Master of the Ancient Society of College Youths, John S. Mason.

PRINCE PHILIP AT OPENING

Unfortunately, it was discovered shortly afterwards that the steeple was unsafe as a result of war damage, and it had to be partly taken down and rebuilt. It was several years before the funds necessary for this operation could be raised and the work completed, so that it was not until December 20th, 1961, that the new bells, having at last been hung in the tower, were dedicated by the Bishop of London in the presence of Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh. The tenor of the present ring weighs 41 cwt. 3 qr. 21 lb. The bells are named (from treble to tenor): Katherine, Fabian, Christopher, Margaret, Mildred, Faith, Augustine, John, Timothy, Pancras, Cuthbert and Bow, and each bell has inscribed on it a text from the Psalms, the initial letters of which form an acrostic spelling "D. Whittington." The first peal on the present bells, 5,007 Stedman Cinques, was rung on November 9th, 1963.

AMBRIDGE RINGERS' BAD EXAMPLE

Strong Protest to "Radio Times"

Mr. Edgar C. Shepherd, convener of the Literature and Press Committee of the Central Council, has written to the Editor of the "Radio Times" protesting about the picture of Ambridge bellringers in "The Borchester Echo." His letter reads:—

> Dear Sir.—I write to draw attention to the absurd and misleading depiction of the Ambridge bellringers in the issue of "The Borchester Echo" of October 13th. No ringers of ability would adopt such postures or handle bell ropes in the manner shown; and to conceive that Bob Major can be rung on four bells is as ridiculous as to imagine that Schubert's celebrated Octet can be played by a string quartette.
>
> The ringing of bells forms an important part of our church work and is therefore entitled to be treated, if not always too solemnly, at least with accuracy. The Central Council of Church Bell Ringers has a committee of experts ready and willing to advise the B.B.C. (or anyone else) on all aspects of the art of ringing.

Another protest comes from Mr. E. J. Holloway, of Crewe:—

> Dear Sir —I would suggest that some competent ringing instructors be sent to "Ambridge" to instruct their local ringers how to handle bell ropes properly and safely.
>
> We ringers know, of course, that "Ambridge" and the somewhat queer characters found therein are really non-existent but the general public might think all ringers are slovenly and careless.

Truro Guild Celebrates 70th Anniversary of Foundation

THE Truro Diocesan Guild was founded at a meeting held in the crypt of the Cathedral on October 8th, 1897, and was presided over by the then Bishop, the Rt. Rev. John Gott. In order to celebrate the 70th anniversary a dinner was held at the Brookdale Hotel, Truro, on October 14th, when a company of 70, representing the Diocese from east to west, was presided over by the president, Mr. Alan Carveth, who, on calling the assembly to silence by ringing the Guild bell, invited the Rev. A. S. Roberts (vice-chairman) to say Grace. The gathering was honoured by the presence of the Lord Bishop (the Rt. Rev. J M. Key) and Mrs. Key.

Mr. H. Lander (a vice-president), in proposing "The Church," referred to the smallest church in the Diocese, at Cornelly, and the Cathedral Church, but these, he said, were only the buildings, the life of the Church depended upon the people, and despite what had happened so often in the past, today the ringers were also the Church Council, the choir, the servers, indeed holding every office.

A LIVE CHURCH

In his reply, the Bishop congratulated the Guild on the fact that it had now reached three score years and ten, but he had been talking to several that evening who had passed that age and who were still ringing. Long might they continue. The Bishop referred to the fact that the Church in Cornwall was very much alive despite the suggestions from time to time that it was dying.

Mr. E. H. Langley was entrusted with the toast "The Truro Diocesan Guild," and said he could speak, as it were, as one who could see the activities of the Guild from the touch-line, having come to live in Cornwall three years ago. He had learned his ringing in the Oxford Diocese, where the Diocesan Guild had been founded only 16 years before the Truro Guild.

Mr. Langley referred to the two types of ringing that could be found in Cornwall and how, on his first visit to the county ten years ago he stayed with his daughter at Tintagel, and on the Sunday morning at the Parish Church he joined in the local ringing, where they rang the bells up and down and up and down with a few rounds in between. In the evening he had the pleasure of ringing in a fine quarter peal of Grandsire Triples at Stratton. Since that time he had rung on 95 of the 147 rings in Cornwall in so many churches of great historical interest.

Mr. Langley said he did not know enough about the Call Change Ringing Association to pass comment, but he asked, "Are all the bells being rung regularly and are there plenty of learners coming on?"

POINTS OF PROGRESS

In looking at the reports he could see that progress had been made over the years and he congratulated the officers on this. In 1936 there were 66 affiliated towers and in 1967 there were 87. Some had fallen by the wayside but others had taken their places.

In 1936 there were seven peals rung, mainly by the same people, and all Grandsire, and no mention of quarter peals. In 1966 there were 12 peals in various methods, including one in five methods and 46 quarter peals in a variety of methods. There were 12 towers regularly ringing methods, which was an improvement he had seen during his time of living in Cornwall.

The Rev. J. R. Jose, Vicar of Perranarworthal and Stithians, replied and referred to the fact of the great drain upon their ringers in Cornwall and especially in the rural parishes where, as soon as the best brains reached the age of 18, they left for university or college, and others left to find work in the towns. He had two fine rings of six bells and knew the difficulties of maintaining local bands, but he always welcomed visiting bands at any time. He did, however, stress the fact that every ringer should be attached to a local tower if this was at all possible.

During the evening a course of Grandsire Triples was well rung by Mary Carveth 1–2, V. Mary Matthews 3–4, A. J. Davidson 5–6, and A. F. Burley 7–8. This brought applause.

A pleasing fact that the East Cornwall Ringing Association is interested in and willing to co-operate with its bigger sister, the Diocesan Guild, was seen by the presence as guests of Mr. E. C. Facey (the chairman) and Mr. J. Summerfield (the treasurer). They were accorded a special welcome by the president. Grateful thanks were accorded to Mr. A. J. Davidson (secretary), who had undertaken all the arrangements for the dinner and which had been done with all his usual precision.

CHESTER DIOCESAN HAVE 150 AT ANNUAL DINNER

THE annual dinner and dance of the Chester Diocesan Guild was held at Bowdon Assembly Rooms on October 14th. Over 150 people were present at the gathering, including visitors from as far afield as Cornwall and Cardiff. An excellent turkey dinner was enjoyed by all in surroundings befitting the occasion.

The speech by Mr. John Freeman (vice-president of the Council), in proposing the health and continued prosperity of the Guild, was preceded by a touch of Spliced Surprise Major on handbells. Mr. Freeman commented on the long association between the Chester and Lincoln Diocesan Guilds, particularly in the peals of Spliced Treble Bob Minor rung in the 1930's. He referred to the fact that he had rung his first peal of London Royal with the Cheshire band.

In his capacity as vice-president of the Central Council he referred to recent criticisms there had been of the Central Council meetings, pointing out that it was the responsibility of individual Guilds to send their best representatives; they were not delegates. Expressing a personal opinion, he said that he was not sure that the method of selection employed by the Chester Guild was the most desirable one. [It is hoped to change the method of selection at the next annual festival, notice having already been given at this year's meeting.]

HIGHEST MEMBERSHIP

In his reply to the toast of "The Guild," the Master, Mr. A. R. Elkins, said that 1966 had been a record year in many respects; membership stood at about 800, the highest figure in the history of the Guild; peals, too, had reached an all-time record of 183. Early in 1967, however, they had lost the Master of the Guild Mr. John Worth, who was mainly responsible for the prosperity the Guild was now enjoying. Mr. Elkins then took up some of the points on which he thought the Central Council gathering could be improved. Briefly they are as follows:

(1) Reports of various committees should appear in "The Ringing World" before the meeting so that members would be better informed than at present, and reports could be taken as read, or amendments added if required.

(2) Instead of tower-grabbing coach trips, members might be better employed giving instruction to learners at certain towers in the area being visited by the Council.

The "formal" proceedings were rounded off with three leads of Kent Treble Bob Maximus on handbells.

Dancing commenced at 8.15 p.m. and continued until 11.45 p.m., the tastes of all being catered for. It was noticeable that pints of mild and bitter had changed to pints of shandy, it being the first Saturday of the "breathaliser." R. B. S.

Next Sunday at 6 p.m. "Barnaby's Bell" will be dedicated at Wansford Parish Church, Northants. Our picture shows the original sign of the Haycock Hotel with Barnaby, who went to sleep on a haycock, being awakened by the sound of the bell of St. Mary's Church and from the middle of the River Nen crying out: "Where am I?" With Barnaby's Bell as tenor Wansford will have a ring of six.

HIGH STANDARD AT BATH STRIKING CONTEST

The second striking competition of the Bath Branch of the Bath and Wells Association was held at Priston. The six bells are easy to ring, and are very pleasant to listen to inside and out of the tower, in fact ideal for such a venture.

Eight teams entered and Corston again excelled themselves; they entered three teams and the result of the competition was: 1st Corston A (ringing Cambridge); 2nd Corston B (Double Court); 3rd Corston C (Grandsire Doubles).

The result was a very close thing between 1st and 2nd, as the "A" team had 18 faults and "B" team 20 faults. So the rest of the towers in the Branch will have to work very hard to try to compete with Corston.

We thank Mr. Ronald Beck and his son, Robert, for judging the ringing, and the Corston ladies for inviting the ringing bands back for an excellent tea in the Village Hall.

Ringing then continued on the octave at Twerton in methods up to London. A. F. L.

OBITUARY

HARRY PARKER

AN APPRECIATION

Mr. W. Frank Stenson writes the following tribute of Mr. Harry Parker, of Northwich, Cheshire.

"I am sure everyone who knew Harry—and they were many—will be sorry to learn of his passing on after a long and trying time.

"Harry was much loved by all who knew him: he was so unassuming, yet very efficient, whether in the peal band or up in the tower 'amongst the bells.' I am sure I speak for the Chester Guild and the Railwaymen's Guild.

"God give him rest and peace, and his wife and family comfort and courage."

MRS. D. SOUTHWOOD

The ringers of Horsham, Sussex, were shocked to hear of the death of one of their members, Mrs. Dorothy Southwood, who was killed in a car crash during her holidays.

Mrs. Southwood was introduced to ringing by her three children, Judy, Andrew and Jane, who are all ringers at Horsham Parish Church. She was making good progress and was ringing the treble to Grandsire Triples.

The bells were rung half-muffled at the funeral service at the Parish Church. The sympathy of the ringers goes to her husband and their three children. T. G.

BRIDGWATER BRANCH VISIT BATH

The Bridgwater Branch held its annual outing on September 23rd. Forty-one members and friends set off from Bridgwater under cloudy skies but by the time we reached our first tower, at Dinder, the weather was set fair for the rest of the day. The belfry here is small but those who were not ringing enjoyed the lovely setting of the church, with manor house and park adjoining.

Radstock was our next stop, and we enjoyed the nice six very much. At 12.30 we were let loose in Bath for lunch and shopping. Some members, spurning such a frivolous waste of time, made a desperate and unsuccessful attempt to "grab" the Abbey.

The afternoon was spent at the American Museum at Claverton, where there was much of interest, including hot gingerbread straight from the oven. Fortified by this and afternoon tea, we proceeded to Norton St. Philip for a short ring, then on to Bruton, the highlight of the day.

In a county well endowed with fine churches, Bruton Church is outstandingly beautiful, particularly the chancel, which has been newly decorated and is superb. The heavy six is such a magnificent ring that it would be a proud boast indeed to say that we did justice to it. But with Michael Stone on the 26 cwt. tenor at least there was nothing much wrong with the "rise."

After suitable refreshment we arrived back at Bridgwater at 10 p.m. having had a very happy day Our thanks are due to Michael and Valerie Stone for their organisation and to the incumbents and tower captains. J. L. A.

"RATHER CHEAP"

Dear Sir,—What a pity Brian Woodruffe had to add such an unfortunate footnote to his handbell peal of Maximus (page 742). He must have lived in Wales long enough to know that this is a subject that many Welshmen are extraordinarily sensitive about. They see the English claim on Monmouthshire as entirely unjust and this is hardly surprising since the present Archbishop of Wales is also Bishop of Monmouth, since no Newport Rugby player will represent England, and since almost all Monmouthshire place names are either Welsh or Welsh in origin.

No doubt he added the footnote as something of a joke, but to me at least this is not at all funny but rather cheap.—Yours sincerely,
NICHOLAS W. H. SIMON.

Letters to the Editor

AMERICA'S WARM WELCOME

Dear Sir,—A few weeks ago my wife and I made a trip to the U.S.A. Before going, I wrote to Mr. Jack Fanfani, asking him if I might ring at Washington Cathedral, and pointing out that I was not an experienced ringer but could manage Doubles and a touch of Minor, and on the treble only. Imagine my delight on arrival at my friend's house to find an invitation already waiting—no ifs or but or supposings attached to it.

On Sunday, September 30th, my friend and his family took my wife and me down country 100 miles or so (distance no barrier in U.S.A.), where Mr. Fanfani and Miss Fanfani met us on top of the steps of the Cathedral. Its magnificance must be seen to be appreciated We were taken to the ringing chamber by elevator and arrived at what looked like a magnificent drawing room. We rang from 2 until 3.40 p.m. on lashed clappers with striking hammers attached and at 3.40 clappers were freed and we rang for Evensong. After snaps, greetings and farewells we all left feeling very gratified indeed.

The point I wish to make is this: one goes to another country unsung and is received at face value and made welcome, whereas here at home one can meet bare-faced rudeness. My District chairman, a well known peal ringer, was flatly ignored in one well known London tower; another well known peal ringer was told, in no uncertain manner, "To prevent any embarrassment please don't turn up." Can you beat it? A friend of mine has obtained some Cathedral bells here at home (Liverpool, the latest), but the flat refusals far outweigh the "Yes, of course." A pity these bands consider their towers and themselves above the ordinaries. Were they born as pealers or did they stoop to learn the elementaries?—Yours sincerely,

GEORGE E. BEAVIS.

Andover, Hants.

THAT SIXPENCE

Dear Sir,—That sixpence steepleage. I have had the pleasure of ringing with the London County Association on numerous occasions. When in Rome I try to do as Rome does and pay my dues, but never have I been accosted in any way. I well remember one meeting when Miss Dupré was counting the coins on the table and the look on her face when she appeared to have too much. "Have you sixpence too much?" I asked. "Yes," she replied. I told her how it had come about and "Thank you so much," was the reply.

Either I am privileged or your correspondents singularly unlucky. Such a small sum for a half-day's enjoyment.—Yours faithfully,

RAYMOND BATH.

Camberley, Surrey.

LOWEST FAULTS IN A COMPETITION

Dear Sir,—In answer to the inquiry from Accrington, the lowest number of faults made by a Sunday service band that I have in my records is Friezland with 17 faults, with our own band, Silkstone, with 18 faults in the same competition.

The competition was held at Penistone (tenor 14 cwt. in F sharp) on July 6th, 1963. The test was 600 changes.

Both Friezland and Silkstone rang Oxford T.B.

I hope that this will be of interest to our friends in Accrington.—Yours sincerely,

HARRY MANN.

Silkstone, Barnsley.

"COMPLETE NONSENSE"

Dear Sir,—I hope the band who rang a peal of Plain Bob Maximus "in hand" at Cardiff on August 31st ("R.W." page 763) will not think me pharisaical if I ask what the footnote means; I quote "First peal on 12 bells in Wales (excluding Monmouthshire)." Downton Road is, in fact, in Monmouthshire, where both handbell and tower-bell peals on 12 bells have been already rung.

If, as the footnote suggests, Wales excludes Monmouthshire, then there still hasn't been a 12 bell peal in Wales. Before ringers claim a multitude of records for a peal, they should ensure that the records are meaningful; the footnote in question is complete nonsense, as it has no actual meaning. However, I would still like to congratulate the band on their achievement.—Yours sincerely,

G STICKLAND (Rev.).

Port Talbot, Glam.

WHAT ABOUT THE RECRUITING LEAFLET?

Dear Sir,—I was interested to read the letter by G. F. Roome that appeared in "The Ringing World" on October 13th. He seems to suggest that there is no publication by the Central Council which will give information to the public about church bells and why they ring. I wonder if he has ever taken steps to obtain the recruiting leaflet from the Council. There he will find a photograph of a bell and also information on bells and why ringers ring them. Also there is a form at the base in which times and dates can be placed together with the address of the tower captain, and I quote: "... The Head Ringer (and here the name is inserted together with his address) will be pleased to show you the bells, either at these times, or at other times by arrangement.'

This criticism I feel is unfounded as there is a publication for the public which can be obtained by the ringer for distributon to the public if necessary.—Yours faithfully,

M. H. HILLER.

Abingdon, Berks.

CATHEDRAL RINGER'S VIEWS ON THE OTHER MUSIC

Dear Sir,—May I be allowed to reply to Mr. J. A. Burton? He seems to forget that one of the main functions of a Cathedral Church is the daily singing of the Offices of Matins and Evensong, and that it has been the tradition of these places that the music should be of the highest standard.

As a ringer at a Cathedral famed for its choir no less than for its bells, I count it a privilege to be able to attend the regular Sung Evensong where a near perfect offering of music is made. The size of the congregations at Saturday and Sunday Evensong shows that many people are able to take their part without feeling upset that they are not intended to sing.

No one would attempt to criticise those who find the Cathedral music difficult to understand but it is a sobering thought that our own peculiar musical offering in the belfry on a Sunday is probably even more difficult for most people to understand, and by its sheer noise value can be infinitely more annoying.—Yours sincerely,

PAUL CATTERMOLE.

Diglis, Worcester.

PETERBOROUGH GUILD ASSOCIATIONS

Dear Sir,—In your issue of September 8th W. Stote, in his "Peterborough Guild Memories," states that he was proposed as a non-resident member of the Guild at Dodford on November 7th, 1925, and the possibility that he has held such membership longer than any other living ringer. He also says he would be pleased to learn of any other living ringer who was elected to non-resident membership prior to this date.

I cannot fulfil all the conditions he asks as I was elected a resident member in 1923 or early 1924, ringing a peal at Titchmarsh in November, 1924, but I left the diocese in April, 1915 and have lived in Hertfordshire since that date. Thus I became automatically a non-resident member 42½ years ago, and I still ring Sunday by Sunday.

Without being certain, I would say at a guess that Stephen H. Hoare, of Watford, late of Woodston, Peterborough, probably holds non-resident membership longer than either Mr. Stote or myself, but it is an interesting thought on the part of Mr. Stote, and I thank him for raising it.—Yours faithfully,

F. KIRK.

Leverstock Green, Herts.

LONG SERVICE AT EDINBURGH

Dear Sir,—I was extremely interested to read the report that Miss May S. Taylor has now completed 50 years' service as a ringer, and I offer her my congratulations on this happy event. In 1925 I was working some time in Edinburgh and as soon as possible on arrival I made my way to the tower of St. Cuthbert's, where I received a very warm welcome, and I had the pleasure of joining in the service ringing and practices for the whole time I was there. Mr. W. C. S. Heathcote was then tower master, and Miss Taylor and Miss Whitson were lady members of the band I found Mr. Heathcote a good companion and friend; this applies to all members of the band. The ringing chamber was kept spotlessly clean, also the bells and frame were well attended to, which was chiefly due to Mr. Heathcote's care and attention.

Miss Taylor and myself now have something in common as I started ringing in the tower of the Parish Church, Trowbridge, in September, 1907, and have therefore completed 60 years as a ringer.

I rang my first peal on May 31st, 1909.

I left Trowbridge some years before the first world war, but wherever I was I continued service ringing and practices, and returned to Trowbridge just before the last war.

The ravages of time have taken away many well known ringers and friends with whom I have rung many peals, and I am now the sole survivor of the Trowbridge band with whom I started ringing.

Fortunately we now have some younger ringing members of the Trowbridge band who will undoubtedly make their names well known in the ringing fraternity in the future. —Yours sincerely,

GILBERT H. HARDING.

Trowbridge, Wilts.

WITHDRAWN

Dear Sir,—It has been brought to my notice that the first extent of the peal of 5,040 Minor in twelve methods rung on December 11th, 1966, at Copdock, Suffolk, is false.

I must, therefore, withdraw this peal and tender my apologies to the rest of the band, and all others concerned.—Yours faithfully,

J. B. PICKUP.

Lowestoft.

Bishop's Flock Return to Cornwall for Second Week

BY popular request, Tintagel was chosen for this year's base, a very enjoyable time having been spent there in 1964. Nine of the party arrived at the hotel early on Saturday evening, August 5th, but what happened to Alan Bagworth's car? Eventually he did arrive safely, having broken down twice on the way. A visit was paid to the Parish Church that evening to lend a hand with the local ringers, struggling to get a band together.

On Sunday morning some of the party attended 8 a.m. Holy Communion and obtained permission for a quarter peal attempt before our scheduled time of arrival. Cambridge Minor was attempted but was unsuccessful after about 800 changes. The rest of the party then arrived and some good ringing was enjoyed on the pleasant bells, including a course of Wells. After lunch at the hotel we got down to the real start of the week with a full afternoon of ringing. The pleasant six at St. Kew came first, followed by St. Mabyn, where an excellent view is to be had from the top of the tower. Thence to Bodmin (an excellent octave), where unfortunately the ringing did not do justice to the bells. However, several of the band found the courage to enter and leave the ringing room by the vertical ladder at the side of the tower instead of the more orthodox stairs. The Napoleon at Boscastle was visited that evening, and Mr. Doubleday's "ploughman's lunch" with an excellent portion of Stilton cheese proved to be a worthwhile investment in "Boney's Bar."

CLIMB OF BRENT TOR

The first tower on Monday was at St. Stephen's-by-Launceston (a very pleasant octave), where the Stedman and Double Norwich went remarkably well considering that the ground-floor ringing room was 100 feet from the bells! Milton Abbot and Lamerton (both sixes) were visited before lunch, which was taken by some on a large stone in the River Tavy. Afterwards the ringing of Durham at Peter Tavy exceeded our expectations on the rough six. An enjoyable climb up Brent Tor to ring on the five bells at St. Michael's followed and the rain kindly stopped for a short time and enabled us to complete the ascent without getting wet. St. Petrock's, Lydford, was the tea-time tower, but an initial search of the village did not reveal anywhere where we could have a cream tea. The unmelodious six at Lewtrenchard and the pleasant octave at Lifton were later visited.

We set out on Tuesday without Paul Brand, who was unwell. York and Primrose were well rung at St. Breward, but at the beautiful church at Blisland the ringing was very hard work and not very rewarding. Unruffled by our hectic experience on these bells we moved on to the pleasant light six at St. Neot, where some of the best ringing of the day took place, including Norfolk, Berwick and five-spliced Surprise Minor.

A HEAD WOUND

Bristol Major was enjoyed on the octave at Liskeard, but the ringing at Lostwithiel was disappointing, though we did have the pleasure of a call change touch called by a gentleman now 83 years old. Alan Bagworth unfortunately banged his head on the low beam as we left the tower. It was still bleeding when we arrived at Lanlivery. The ringing was curtailed here through a broken rope, not the first of the week; Tony Bishop had to go and push the bell over, as it had set up.

On Wednesday it poured with rain, but we had very good towers all day. York and Surfleet started the day at St. Teath, followed by five-spliced and Hexham at St. Minver. The octave at Egloshayle was the last tower before lunch, after which we rang the two sixes at St. Wenn and Withiel where we discovered what we took to be an old timekeeper's clock! Lanivet closed the day, but we could only ring the back six as there was no rope on the treble. Here we met our only opposition of the week from some workmen on the nearby school roof ringing the school bell in reply.

London Minor at Poundstock (an unimpressive six) opened the day on Thursday. However, the six at Marhamchurch, where Bourne was rung, and the excellent bells at Kilkampton were enjoyed before lunch was taken. We had hoped for some good ringing at Hartland, in the highest tower in Devon and Cornwall, and the heaviest six of the week (17½ cwt.). However, we seemed a little nervous of these excellent bells and could not reach the standard that was achieved at Queen Camel, with a tenor over twice as heavy, two years ago. We did no better at Woolfardisworthy, but a good course of Chester was rung at Parkham and a ladies' touch of Bob Minor. After tea some good ringing on the light six at Sutcombe preceded ringing on the excellent Gillett octave (1949) at Holsworthy, where the best touch of the day, six-spliced Surprise Major, was rung.

BRATTON BELLS' 200th YEAR

All too soon, the the last full day of the week was upon us and started well with Bristol and Yorkshire Major at Werrington. We were shorthanded at Broadwoodwidger as Keith succeeded in getting lost on the way. However, he found us at Bratton Clovelly where the six bells were much enjoyed. They were cast in 1767 by Pennington's, so this is their 200th year. Local records show "One shilling and sixpence paid to Barkwill for tolling at Nelson's burial in 1805." St. John's, Stowford, where a good course of Coldstream was rung, preceded lunch and a free afternoon. In the evening we started at Okehampton and rang some Little Grandsire Triples and Yorkshire Major. The last two towers were Bridestowe and Thrushelton (a disappointing ring).

The final gathering was held in the hotel that evening and a small quantity of alcoholic liquor was presented to Tony and Deborah as a token of appreciation for the hard work they had put in to make another very successful tour.

An hour's ringing at Stratton marked the end of the tour on Saturday morning. Here we were met by Brian Vince, whose daughter speaks very fluently but not particularly "Queen's" English. Harry Stacey also looked in, complete with butcher's apron.

Finally, our grateful thanks to all incumbents and tower captains, to our drivers and navigators and to the many local ringers who gave up their time to come and meet us at many of the towers

MARLOW RINGERS' WEDDING

On most Saturdays the bells of All Saints', Great Marlow, are rung for weddings, but Saturday, October 7th, was special—they were ringing for the wedding of two members of the local band, John Young and Bridget Hillsdon. The marriage service was conducted by the Vicar Dr. S. R. Day, and the organist was David Boarder.

A quarter peal of Stedman Triples was rung for Evensong on the following Sunday by the local band, conducted by John's father, the tower captain. It was the eve of Joe and Kathleen Young's 30th wedding anniversary.

Kent's 1967 Dinner a Memorable Occasion

MR. JOHN WILLIS WANTS A PENNY A WEEK FOR NEW BELLS

THE Kent banqueting suite of the Odeon Cinema, Ashford, proved a very good choice for this year's dinner of the Association on September 30th and a company of over 100 sat down to an excellent meal. A pleasing touch was the presentation of bouquets to ladies on the top table and this set the ball rolling for a memorable and happy evening.

The chairman, Canon N. M. G. Sharpe, Vicar of Ashford and a vice-president of the Association, as is customary, proposed the loyal toast.

VICAR'S PRANK

The usual procedure of the toast of "The Church" being proposed by a layman and responded to by a priest was reversed. Proposing the toast, Canon J. Frank, Rector of Aldington, recalled, with amusement when, as a junior curate at St. Martin-in-the-Fields, he was passing through the ringing chamber with the Vicar (his father-in-law). As the clock struck three the Vicar could not resist pulling the rope and causing the clock to strike four to the confusion of the crowds in Trafalgar Square.

The Canon said it was not until he came to Aldington five years ago that he finally became initiated into the art of ringing. All his reminiscences of ringing were happy ones. When he heard radio communications being received "loud and clear" he was reminded of the bells, whose message always came across loud and clear. There was nothing woolly about their message—the notes were always sharp and clear. Canon Frank wished everyone continued joy and blessing in continuing to proclaim the message of the Church.

The response was by Mr. E. A. Barnett, a vice-president of the Association, who said, as a layman, he was uncertain as to how he should respond, but he recalled that once he was listed at a Cumberland dinner as the Rev. E. A. Barnett. This had evidently fooled the general secretary as he had been sent the "helpful notes for non-ringing speakers" prior to this dinner.

Before the next speech a good course of Grandsire Caters was rung on handbells by T. Cross, E. Beer, E. A. Barnett, C. Osenton and W. Dobbie.

KENT'S PROUD RECORD

The toast of "The Kent County Association" was proposed by Mr. J. G. A. Prior, secretary of the Ancient Society of College Youths, who brought cordial greetings from his Society. He believed the Kent Association was one to be proud of, with a notable record in the realms of peal ringing and with its membership and finances both strong. It had also given, through residential members, great service to the Central Council, the Ancient Society and the Cumberlands. He went on to mention just a few names. The late E. H. Lewis stood out for his brilliant chairmanship of the Central Council and his Mastership at the 300th anniversary of the College Youths. Mr. Prior also mentioned the services rendered by E. A. Young, E. A. Barnett, G. Cross, D. Beresford, F. Mitchell, F. Cullen, H. Audsley, P. Bond, F. Mathews and others.

Mr. Prior recalled that he had been a non-resident life member since 1935, when he came to Crayford for a peal for the Middlesex Association. Tom Groombridge asked for it to be rung for the Kent Association. As only four Kent members were present two handbell peals were attempted each with two Middlesex men in them. Strangely, each was lost in the first lead! Eventually when all eight were Kent members they rang the youngest peal of spliced ever rung at that time.

The response was to have been given by Mr. J. Willis, a vice-president, but unfortunately he had been taken ill. His speech was read by the Rev. P. T. Robbins, who began by voicing the opinions of all when he said how very much regret was caused by the absence of Mr. Willis, and hoped that he would very soon be restored to health.

After mentioning the family connections that have been evident in Kent ringing in the past and present, Mr. Willis believed that the Association had now risen to its highest peak of efficiency and sociability. This was due largely to the hard work put in by the officers.

Mr. Willis went on to say that we must not let our fine art die out because of criticism by the public and press, and lack of support from some of the clergy. As we bellringers derived more pleasure than anyone else from the ringing of bells it was our duty to help provide bells where needed. He made the suggestion that every Association, through its tower captains, should collect one penny per week from each of its members; this amount to be used solely for recasting, rehanging and the provision of new bells. This would help far more than in the past.

"The Visitors" were welcomed by Mr. N. J. Davies, Ringing Master of the Ashford District. He mentioned the three clerical guests—Canons Sharpe and Frank and the Rev. P. T. Robbins—and thought it would be hard to find more co-operative incumbents.

The Cumberlands and the Ancient Society, he said, had both been very active in Kent ringing, even before the K.C.A. was formed. In 1770 at the opening of Sevenoaks bells the main attraction was the College Youths' peal attempt. Several other bands were present, including a band from Leeds, Kent. The latter scored their peal of Oxford Treble Bob and a footnote in James Barham's peal book said. "N.B. The College Youths was down and they rang over 5,000 changes, but they turned six bells out of course, which is not allowed!"

The Cumberlands have also been closely connected with Kent ringing, many being resident members. He extended congratulations to them for their performances in non-conducted peals. Mr Davies also welcomed Mr. Bert Luck, now recovered from his serious illness, and Mr. W. Hughes from the Whitechapel Foundry.

The reply was given by Mr. Dennis Beresford, Master of the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths, who mentioned that although the Kent cricket team had been pipped into second place by Yorkshire, in the peal records the positions last year were reversed. He also thanked the Association on behalf of the ladies for the flowers.

Canon Sharpe was thanked for chairing the dinner by Mr. P. A. Corby, general secretary. He also thanked Mr. Alan Berry, Ashford District secretary, for all the work he had done in organising the event and making it such a success. The formal proceedings of the evening ended with the national anthem, played by Miss Ann Barber. The company then separated into various groups in the adjoining lounge and dining rooms to renew old acquaintances and make new friends. The entire proceedings were a credit to the organiser, and this dinner will surely be remembered as one of the most enjoyable held in the county.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

The A.G.M. of the Ashford District was held at Ashford on Saturday, October 21st. The service was conducted by the Rev. Mr. Green (assistant curate at St. Mary's, Ashford).

The business meeting, following the tea, was conducted with Mr. A. S. Phelips in the chair. Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: Chairman, Mr. A. S. Phelips; honorary secretary, Alan P. S. Berry; Ringing Master, P. Charles Sinden; District representatives, Rev. P. T. Robbins and David Manger. The offertory was donated to the Association Belfry Repair Fund, and a raffle in aid of Newchurch Bell Fund realised £5.

Thanks were expressed by Dr. L. Garraway to all who had helped at the meeting, especially the ladies who had prepared the tea.

Ringing continued on the splendid eight until nine o'clock and ranged from rounds to Surprise to suit all tastes. A. P. S. B.

200th BIRTHDAY OF CORNISH BELLS

THE inscription on the fourth bell at Gwinear, near Hayle, Cornwall, is "Penningtons cast us all, 1767." The reference was to the complete ring of six. In 1903 the fifth was recast by John Warner and Sons Ltd., of London, and for some years before 1956 this ring had fallen into complete disrepair and was unringable. In that year Messrs. John Taylor and Co. carried out a complete restoration and recast the tenor, which weighs 12 cwt. 1 qr. 17 lb. Nearly two years ago there was an unfortunate accident with the chiming hammers, which resulted in the third bell being badly cracked and the fifth being jammed halfway down in its pit. The Vicar and Church Council made immediate praiseworthy efforts to get matters put right and the cracked bell has been recast.

The rededication took place on Thursday, October 5th, which was also observed as the Harvest Thanksgiving. The Vicar, the Rev. J. A. Croft, asked the Rev. A. S. Roberts, Vicar of Carbis Bay, to rededicate the bell, and after prayers the latter handed the rope to the Vicar, thus giving this bell again into his care.

The Rev. A. S. Roberts, in his sermon, took as his text "A bell and a pomegranate," which, he said, he had often heard used at ringers' festivals, but it was most appropriate on that dual occasion when they were rededicating a bell and giving thanks for the harvest.

The preacher remarked that of all Church workers ringers were amongst the most travelled, and Cornwall received many visitors during the summer, and as they travelled they followed up their art here and there. Ringing called for teamwork and through it lifelong friendships were made.

Once again in Gwinear the full ring of bells was ready to ring to remind the parishioners that the Church in that place is alive. It was significant that this year was the 200th birthday of Penningtons' three remaining bells in that tower and this was a reminder that through all that time and before, people had been rejoicing and giving thanks in that church. They had been coming to church, being baptised, receiving Holy Communion and, as the old churchyard reminded them, laid to rest also.

Despite the forward march of science the round of life was much the same now as 200 years ago and they had to quite literally come down to earth. Man had to go out into the field and garden to find God's gifts which were so necessary, and he had to dig into the earth to find the copper and tin with which the bells were cast. How thankful man should be, and how grateful they should be that the obstacle of a cracked bell had been overcome and put right.

After the service local ringers were assisted by the preacher, Mr. E. H. Langley and Mr. Arthur Fidler, who had rehung the bell and who was congratulated on what Messrs. Taylor and Co. had done When the ringers got to the Church Hall they found it crowded to the doors for the concert and pasty supper.

Three Counties Festival — 250 Attend

THE long-awaited Three Counties Festival, to commemorate the 21st anniversary of the formation of the Derby Diocesan Association, the Leicester Diocesan Guild, the Midland Counties Guild and the Southwell Diocesan Guild from the old Midland Counties Association, was held at Derby on September 16th, and proved to be a most successful and happy occasion.

From quite early morning ringers began to approach Derby, along four routes, on which a wide selection of towers was kindly made available for ringing The buffet lunches arranged en route by local ringers and their wives at Heanor and Sawley were much appreciated Gradually the ringers from the three counties, with visitors from further afield, assembled at Derby, and good use was made of the four local towers during the afternoon and early evening.

The centre of the festival was the service of Evensong in the Cathedral Church of All Saints at 5 p.m. With a congregation of some 250 present, the singing was led by a choir of over 50 ringer-choristers, drawn from the three counties, and directed by Mr. R. Carlisle, choirmaster of St. Leodegarius' Parish Church, Basford, Nottingham. The office of Evensong was sung by the Rev. R. D. St. John Smith, Rector of Darley Dale, and the address was given by the Provost of Derby, the Very Rev. R. A. Beddoes, who is president of the Derby Diocesan Association. During the service a touch of Stedman Cinques was rung on handbells by members of the Leicester Diocesan Guild, and the service concluded with the Blessing given by the Lord Bishop of Derby.

The evening activities, dinner and social evening, were held at the Albion Restaurant. A party of 175 including the Lord Bishops of Derby and Southwell, sat down to the dinner. with the Provost presiding. After an excellent repast, the Provost proposed the loyal toast.

This was followed by the toast of the evening, "The Church and the Exercise," which was proposed by the Rev. R. D. St. John Smith. In proposing the toast, Mr. Smith recalled the old days of the M.C.A., and many of the leading members and officers of that Association. He went on to congratulate those concerned on the rapid progress made by the Societies which were the "offspring" of the M.C.A., and in which the spirit of the old M.C.A. still lived. In concluding, he pointed out that progress was not to be measured only by the undoubted rise in membership figures, but also by the increasingly active part being played by ringers in all aspects of the life and work of the Church.

Speakers who responded to the toast were the Lord Bishop of Derby and Mr. Paul L. Taylor of Loughborough.

The final event of a memorable, interesting and happy day was the social evening; when a programme of dancing and games filled in the time remaining until 11.45 p.m. This programme was, naturally, enlivened by much conversation amongst ringing friends, old and new, which underlined the family spirit, always so noticeable throughout the day.

The sincere thanks of all concerned will be extended to Mr. Denis Carlisle and his colleagues who were responsible for the arrangements, and to the Provost of Derby for his ready co-operation.

COVER FOR LECTURERS AT LINCOLNSHIRE RINGING COURSE

Approximately 70 people attended the half-day bell ringing course at Ruskington County Secondary School on October 14th.

The students, who were welcomed to the course by Dr. Golby, director of education, Kesteven, were allocated to beginners or advanced groups and received class room lectures on the theoretical side of bell ringing. Practical sessions were carried out using the six bell towers of Ruskington and nearby Blankney.

A short term insurance cover was arranged to protect lecturers against possible claims which could have arisen due to student injuries in the tower practice periods. We are pleased to report no mishaps occurred, but considered the insurance an essential safeguard.

The classroom lecturers were Messrs. Evans, Heppenstall and Radley, and the lecturers in the towers were Messrs. Bluff, Bray, Haw, Millhouse and Parker.

During the evaluation period the assembly confirmed that they had improved their knowledge of bell ringing and expressed the wish that further courses be organised in the future.

Thanks are due to the Kesteven authority for sponsoring the course and the provision of excellent school facilities, the incumbents of Ruskington and Blankney who allowed the use of the bells and the ladies who prepared the tea. H. J. R.

BATH AND WELLS ASSOCIATION

Bath and Frome Branches

Sunshine, sunshine all the way—that was the theme, but not the weather, unfortunately, when Bath and Frome Branches made history at Beckington (8) on October 14th, by holding their autumn quarterly meetings together in place of the usual annual "get together." The success of the venture was evidenced by the high attendance of members of both Branches and the idea will be repeated next year.

Coincidentally, both Branches were without their chairman, but George Hawkins steered Bath ably and quickly through their business, determined not to hold up the Frome Branch. After a shuffle round in the hall the Frome Branch held its meeting under a quiet and efficient John Beck. Frome Branch members were equally determined not to raise controversial issues and thus delay Bath members from getting back to the tower. All in all it was most unusual, and one or two Bath members who were looking forward to the usual Frome fireworks were distinctly disappointed. Bath, Chew and Frome Branches have all agreed to a "play-off" of the winning and second teams in each of their striking competitions and this event should be one well worth attending.

Both Branch secretaries had extra copies of "The Ringing World" for sale, which features Long Sutton tower—it is hoped that all these will be sold.

Best remark of the day: "Bristol? Good heavens, I thought it was bad rounds by learners!" M. H.

LISS PIGEON MENACE

The pigeon menace at Liss reminds Mr. E. M. Langdon, of Sutton, Gloucester, of when he was stationed at Longmore Camp, 20 years ago, and spent many happy hours with Liss ringers on their practice nights and in service ringing. The pigeon problem then occurred and it was dealt with very effectively by a ringer named "Alan." If he is still living, Mr. Langdon is sure he would help if approached.

BARKINGSIDE RINGERS IN KENT

Barkingside ringers took five cars on their outing into Kent, visiting Brenchley, Goudhurst and Cranbrook. A picnic lunch by a haystack included hot dogs cooked over a primus stove and washed down with cider. The rain did not spoil the spirit of the occasion.

Cuxton (the last tower) was difficult to locate and some of the party succeeded in ringing at the wrong tower. There was a very warm welcome from the Rector, who is a ringer. Evening prayers were said by the Rector and included the collect for the 18th Sunday after Trinity — "to withstand the temptations of the world, the flesh and the devil"—a thought for the homeward journey

BELFRY GOSSIP

East Farleigh, Kent, has had its ringing limited to Sunday and practice night. Movement of the frame is the suggested cause.

Ingham, Suffolk, has no ringers. The North West District has arranged for the bells to be rung on the fourth Sunday of the month.

Mr S. Smith, on holiday from New Zealand, rang his first quarter of Major at Kirby-le-Soken, Essex, on October 15th. This is his first holiday home since emigrating in 1912.

Correct prices for bellringers' ties supplied by the Aldershot Stores, 35, Grosvenor Road, Aldershot, appear on page 803. Please ignore details in last week's issue.

Mr. Alick Cutler has now rung 350 peals on the bells of St. Mary's, Willesden. Has this record been surpassed? Canon Felstead, in his article in this issue, gives the 12 towers where this is possible

"Having taken 'The Ringing World' regularly since the very first issue, I find it more interesting now than it has ever been." —Gilbert H. Harding. A sincere "thank you" from the Editor.

In the peal at Ruardean, published on page 779, Geoffrey J. Clarke was ringing his first peal.

The ringer of the sixth in the peal at Great Tey (page 739) was Ian R. Panton and not James L. Towler as submitted.

The ringer of the third in the peal at Brenchley (page 760) was Simon A. B. Wigg and not Malcolm Barden as submitted.

Mr. Walter Ayre rang his 900th peal on October 14th on the same bell at Barton-on-Humber as he rang his first peal. It was also his 200th for the Lincoln Diocesan Guild.

In a quarter peal at Blunsdon, Wilts, on October 22nd, J. Vincent, a chorister and ringer at this church for more than 60 years, was ten times the age of the treble ringer (Anne Ford, aged 8)!

The band who rang the quarter of Stedman Triples at New Alresford wish to associate Miss Prisca Hornby with the attempt. It had been arranged specially for her but owing to a last-minute indisposition she was unable to ring. They hope that she will soon be well again, when perhaps another attempt may be arranged.

EPILOGUES ON TYNE-TEES TELEVISION

In September last in the course of his week-end in Durham and Newcastle for the 90th anniversary celebrations of the Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association, Canon Gilbert Thurlow not only preached in the two Cathedrals but he also recorded three epilogues for Tyne-Tees Television describing some of the work of cathedrals. Several different cathedrals were mentioned in his illustrations.

"Cathedrals and Ringing" is to be transmitted on Saturday, November 4th, by Tyne-Tees Television. This epilogue begins with the bells of Durham Cathedral and ends with those of Newcastle Cathedral. The former were recorded between 5 and 6 p.m. on Saturday, September 23rd. and the latter before Evensong the following day. In his talk Canon Thurlow outlines the development of ringing.

Transmission dates have yet to be arranged for "Cathedrals and Pilgrimages" and "Cathedrals and Education." Transmission dates are awaited also for three epilogues recorded earlier in September by Denis Bayles as part of the Tyne-Tees series "My Job in the Church."

Unfortunately not very many ringers are likely to see these six epilogues as they are unlikely to be transmitted by other programme companies, and stamina is needed for the "locals" as transmission takes place about midnight! D. A. B.

DEDICATION OF THE LATE MAURICE ATKINS' HANDBELLS

At a simple but moving ceremony in the belfry of St. Michael's, Teignmouth, on September 12th the Rev. Mr. Folland, of Teignmouth, dedicated the handbells of the late Maurice Atkins to the use of the local ringers. Mr. Brian Shingler, a former captain of the tower, read a message from Capt. A. R. Poyntz, who was unable to attend owing to indisposition. Among the company of friends from Babbacombe and Torquay were Mrs. Maurice Atkins and a nephew of the late Mr. Atkins. Following the dedication a course of Grandsire Triples was rung on the handbells by G. J. Roberts 1—2, P. A. Lock 3—4, W. Simmonds 5—6, D. J. Roberts 7—8.

BEAMINSTER BELLS

While the correct weight of Beaminster tenor bell was disclosed at the Harvest Supper on October 7th the competition of guessing the weight was well supported outside the locality. The weight was delivered by Messrs. Taylor in a sealed envelope and was 22 cwt. 1 qr. 27½ lb. The £10 prize was won by Mrs. M. Fordham, of Thornley Road, Felixstowe, Suffolk, who was ½lb. out.

The bells will be brought back to Beaminster on November 13th and will be rehallowed by the Bishop of Salisbury the Rt. Rev. Joseph Fison, at Evensong on December 17th. The fund has £357 to go to reach the target. The Barron Bell Trust have generously donated £250.

SURPRISE AT HENLEY

At Henley practice night on October 12th we had an unusual experience. During the evening a course of Plain Bob Minor was about to be started. As our conductor, Howard Egglestone, pulled his bell down from his first backstroke, a mouse landed at his feet, causing a certain amount of excitement! In nearly forty years of ringing I have not seen it happen before, and I hate to think what would have happened if this had occurred during a peal. S. B.

FIRST PEAL OF STEDMAN TRIPLES AT COMBE MARTIN

In September, 1907, Challis F. Winney called a peal of Stedman Triples (Thurstans') at Holy Trinity, Ilfracombe. It is interesting to note that the footnote to that peal reads: "The first peal of Stedman on the bells." Also in the tower was the Rev. F. E. Robinson, who conducted Thurstans' peal of Stedman Triples in 1905, that peal also being recorded as "the first of Stedman on the bells." One wonders of the tale behind the ringing of these two peals.

Anyhow, Derek Jewell thought it would be appropriate to commemorate the 60th anniversary of Mr. Winney's peal, but owing to the duration of the ringing at the Devon Association's six-bell final in June, permission was withdrawn. (Why the public of Ilfracombe complained of such such splendid ringing is beyond the comprehension of the writer.)

However permission was readily given at Combe Martin, where a peal of Stedman had not been rung, in spite of previous attempts. So we arrived at the "Top George" at 9 p.m. on Friday evening, September 8th, and there to welcome us was Les Walters and Derek. Les having had a most successful season, we drank to the strawberries, raspberries, peas, beans, "teddies" and the pigeons, and went to bed very mellow and brimful of confidence for the morrow.

Quite a good peal was rung on the Saturday, conducted by young John Hibbert, and Derek was most delighted to ring in the first of Stedman on his own bells. Our thanks to Roy Bould, Bob Southwood and Frank Mack for making the long drag from South Devon in the holiday traffic.

We had our annual attempt for Stedman at Pilton and, as usual, our annual failure. This year "Dear Old Dad's" son, having completed his slow work, made thirds then went back and pushed everyone out of his way.

Again we thank North Devon and Cornwall for a most happy holiday. Who knews, next year we may ring our Stedman at Pilton, but "Dear Old Dad's" son is adamant that he will be outside, listening. D. J.

A LOSS TO KENT RINGING

His many ringing friends in Kent will regret to learn that Mr. Bernard Groves intends to leave Kent and return to his native Cheshire in the New Year. He is continuing his duties as co-Ringing Master of the Maidstone District until his departure. Bernard's seven and a half years in Kent has greatly enhanced the standard of ringing, particularly in the Maidstone area.

SIXTY AND SEVENTY YEARS AFTER

It must have been quite by coincidence that the Truro Diocesan Guild, having been founded on October 8th, 1897, for the first peal for the Guild to be rung in Cornwall exactly ten years afterwards, on October 8th, 1907, at Kenwyn, being a peal of Superlative conducted by George Williams. This was only the second peal for the Guild; the first was at Emmanuel, Plymouth, in August, 1907.

As these 60th and 70th anniversaries fell on a Sunday a peal was not possible, but a quarter peal (recorded in the appropriate place) was rung at Kenwyn and was one of Kent and Oxford Treble Bob Major conducted by the president, Alan Carveth. It is interesting to note that apart from the treble ringer all those taking part have learned their ringing at the three towers associated with Truro—the Cathedral, Kenwyn and Kea.

STRANGE BELLS AROUND CIRENCESTER

One result of the recent course at Cheltenham was more immediate—an organisers' and lecturers' ringing afternoon and evening in the Cirencester area, the main purpose being to convince Fred Sharpe that Ampney Crucis bells really do sound 1, 3, 3, 4, 5.

According to Ellacombe, Daglingworth's tower contains a Rudhall four, but we discovered a Warner treble, 1877 (listed as 1787 in the ringing chamber), the 3rd by Mears, 1887 and new tackle by Llewellin and James in 1912. As only three of our party as had yet assembled, Fred Sharpe promptly turned his back on the ladies and raised both tenors simultaneously. Our efforts brought two local ringers hastening up the staircase and we were then able to ring "properly."

After joining the Watermoor ringers in Stedman Triples for a wedding, promptly losing first Marie Cross and then Fred Sharpe and his family in Cirencester's one-way streets, we journeyed to Coln St. Denys, where the Wrattens awaited us. A frantic search for the oil can was of no avail, but the five went surprisingly well when rung "at full sally." The Rector, who joined us with his wife and family, promised to oil the bells before our next visit.

Ampney Crucis at last, and Fred's first words as he set the treble were, "They do. I didn't believe him (W. F. S.)." Unfortunately the key to the bell chamber was not available and so we were unable to verify the Sharpe theory as to why the 2nd and 3rd are virtually the same note. The effect of these two bells behind is worth hearing. Dismissing Marie's suggestion that we rang "Cagmag," we settled for St. Faith's. A return visit is imperative.

Then to Down Ampney, the birthplace of Vaughan Williams, where the 2nd proclaims: "Abraham Rudhall cast us all 1097," nearly 700 years before he cast the others! We found these the hardest going of the day; hardly surprising since they have tackle of 1843 and even older rope rollers.

We rounded off the day with a meal at the Crown at Ampney, and a determination to organise a similar outing in the near future.

MAIDSTONE'S "REVIEW"

The Maidstone District of the Kent County Association has produced an attractive annual report and review full of interesting reading. A useful article is "Some thoughts on ropes" by M. W. G., and this is a matter that well repays time and care. "Faversham Bells 500 years old" has historical appeal. In 1441 Joan Hille, of London, widow of the founder Richard Hille, delivered the bells and signed an indenture guaranteeing their quality. This document is preserved in the archives office at Maidstone.

Her first husband's foundry was in St. Botolph's-without-Aldgate. The symbol he used on his bells was a shield, diagonally bisected by a bend, with a ring in the left hand half and a cross in the right. After his death Joan used the same sign but surmounted it with a lozenge. Her second husband used the initials I. S. on his bells and again, after his death, she surmounted this with a lozenge.

Another feature deals with Stuart Taylor's, of Maidstone Grammar School, proposal to provide a hand-made ring in an old stable behind the vicarage in West Malling. An article tells of East Bergholt bells, together with the changes employed, and some budding conductors will find the calling of Stedman Triples by "L. H." 'of practical value.

Four teams entered for the first striking contest held by the Forest Branch at Newland on October 7th. Mr A. Paton organised the event and Messrs. A. and M. Chandler were the stewards. The test was a rise, 120 in a Doubles method, and lower. Messrs. J. and B. Schofield were the judges and the winning team consisted of J. Webb, Miss A. Butcher, C. R. Cor, L. Meadows, R. Williams and W. Meek.

The Rev. Mr. Ainsworth, from Mitcheldean, donated a cup for the competition, and this was presented by Mr. Schofield to Mr. Meadows. Tea was provided by the ladies of the parish.

TECHNICAL

A SURVEY OF DOUBLE MAJOR METHODS

By W. J. COOPER BAILEY

THE object of this survey is to give complete collections of Plain and Surprise Double Major methods which obey the standard conditions, and to provide notes on these collections where appropriate. The standard conditions for the methods included are, unless otherwise mentioned,

(a) All methods have double symmetry, i.e. symmetry about the quarter lead in addition to the normal symmetry about the half-lead.

(b) No method has more than one double change per quarter lead, no double change having four adjacent places.

(c) No bell remains for more than two blows in the same place.

(d) The path of the treble is that prescribed for the methods under consideration, e.g. for Surprise it has a Treble Bob path.

(e) The sevenths place is never made except at the half-lead.

(f) Plain Bob lead-heads are produced.

A computer was then used to examine all possible Major methods, and those which satisfied these conditions were then printed out, and in particular the collection of Plain Major methods shown in Table (a) was produced.

Several interesting facts are immediately apparent, for example there are only six such methods, and these have all in fact been rung before. It is found, however, from a simple statistical examination of such methods that the expected number in such a collection is only about 5—10 methods, and hence only six methods in the collection is not so anomalous as might at first sight appear. The absence of any double change methods may be similarly predicted.

Table (b) shows the complete collection of Double Surprise Major methods. Here, however, more care is needed in producing the methods, since every method must be intrinsically true, that is, no change must be repeated in the plain course. The theory of methods may be used to show that intrinsic falseness occurs in only two cases. (i) where an operator such as 38, for example, is used twice in succession, thus 38.38, or (ii) when a given bell ("a" in Table (c)) is dodging with the treble, and the effect of the places being made is to cross over the pairs of bells as shown in Table (c). This is liable to occur when three adjacent pairs of places are made in two changes, e.g. 1256.34 with the treble in 7–8. In particular all the methods shown are true since no operator is used twice in succession and there are no 12's or 78's except at the lead-end and half-lead respectively; elsewhere a 12 would imply a 78 not at the half-lead.

Here again the number of methods obtained is small, although perhaps the most interesting feature is the absence of methods with certain types and placings of double changes, for example of the type beginning x 3458 . . ., as compared with the comparatively large numbers of those containing 3458 . . . and . . . 1458 . . .; this may in fact be similarly explained.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

The Branch held its autumn meeting at Bampton on August 14th. Through the lack of experienced ringers the afternoon ringing was restricted to rounds and Grandsire Triples. The Vicar conducted the service and in his address compared the weather with the Christian atmosphere and said that the sound of bells helped to create this atmosphere. In bad weather one felt depressed, whereas on a fine, sunny day one felt on top of the world. The same could be applied to Christianity; if people could trust one another and forgive, the spiritual atmosphere would be bright and good. After the service an excellent tea was enjoyed at a nearby cafe.

The business meeting took place in the Grammar School. The secretary, in his report, mentioned the circulation of census forms to provide an up-to-the-minute picture of the Branch. He asked peal ringers not to arrange peals on official Branch ringing days and for the support of more experienced ringers at Branch practices.

The programme for 1968 was more or less accepted as that on the agenda—the spring meeting at Witney on April 20th, the Branch outing on July 13th, and the autumn meeting to be re-arranged, as this year there were six Oxford Guild meetings on the same day. The Branch was lucky to have Miss Cross with them, as it was discovered that she had been to two other meetings beforehand.

A motion to increase subscriptions by 1s. 6d. to 5s. created an interesting discussion. Miss Cross pointed out that at least half of the subscriptions had to be given to the Guild. As the motion was intended to boost the Branch funds it was felt that the Branch could not afford to give the Guild any more money, as would be the case if the subscriptions were raised to 5s. The solution was to leave the subscriptions as they were and impose a levy of 1s. 6d. on each member. This was carried, but an amendment to impose a levy on towers and not members was left to the committee to discuss.

The election of three new members followed, after which the chairman (the Rev. P. Wilkins) presented certificates to the new members elected at the annual general meeting, and certificates to the five teams who took part in the striking contest.

Proceedings concluded with the vote of thanks, proposed by Mr. E. Patching and ringing continued until 8.15 p.m. F. R. V.

Broken Stay Accident in Worcestershire

A broken stay accident at Holy Trinity Church, Old Hill, Worcestershire, on Sunday, October 29th, had serious consequences for Mr. Raymond Dunn (38), an experienced ringer, who had been ringing since the age of 15.

The accident happened after ringing had finished for morning service. One of the bells got stuck—it might have been that the rope had slipped wheel—when Mr. Dunn tried to pull it back into position. The stay broke and he was carried to the ceiling, receiving head injuries and being rendered unconscious. He fell heavily some 17 feet to the floor.

Prompt action was taken to try to find a doctor and the Warley Fire Brigade stood by. When a doctor considered that it was safe to move him the unconscious ringer was carried by firemen down the spiral staircase to the Dudley Guest Hospital. The report that evening by the hospital authorities was that his condition was "fairly satisfactory."

According to a Press report his brother-in-law, Mr. Stanley Cornock, who is verger at the church, said: "After the stay broke, Ray tried to control it, but the bell cartwheeled right round."

Mr. Dunn, who lives at Wright's Lane, Old Hill, is a television engineer. He has been ringing at Holy Trinity Church for the past 18 months. The best wishes of all ringers are extended to him for a speedy recovery.

Holy Trinity Church has a ring of eight bells with a tenor of 23½ cwt. in F. The bell Mr. Dunn was ringing is said to be about 15 cwt.

RINGING NOT A DANGEROUS PASTIME

The following letter has been sent to the Editor of "The Birmingham Post" by Mr. G. F. Green, of 46, Cherry Street, Birmingham:—

Dear Sir, — Today (October 30th), in the Press and by radio, there have been reports of an accident to a ringer in a Black Country church yesterday.

It has been indicated that such an accident is extremely rare. Nevertheless, at a time when many young people are enjoying this typically English form of bellringing, and there is a constant requirement for recruits, it would be most unfortunate if the reports created among parents the impression that it is a dangerous pastime.

One does not know the exact circumstances under which the accident occurred, and it would be quite improper to suggest that the unfortunate ringer suffered as the result of his own action or that of another.

With respect, I suggest that you would be doing a service to the Exercise if you would make it known that in all belfries ringers are taught by experts to handle the ropes only in a way which avoids accidents and to abide by very stringent, but common sense, rules to the same end.

All ringers are taught to hold a bell rope only in a particular manner which, intentionally, provides for it to be released by merely opening the hands; if a back stay goes, the ringer loosens the rope and steps back, all in a fraction of a second. Any other manner of holding a rope is incorrect, unsafe and strictly not allowed by any Ringing Master.

Very many ringers have not experienced a broken back stay over long years of ringing. Your correspondent, in 15 years, experienced two with nothing worse than the noise of the free-swinging bell and the subsequent trouble of replacing the back stay.

One should not overlook the million-to-one chance of some unforeseeable circumstance which might lead to an accident, and one may conjecture that such was the occurrence on Sunday. However, it is undeniably true that it is infinitely safer to allow a child to be taught bellringing by an expert than to present a child with an airgun, bicycle or a handful of fireworks.

APPLETON LONG PEAL ATTEMPT FAILS

The long peal attempt for Grandsire Caters on October 21st failed after nine hours' ringing through one of the band having a bad attack of cramp.

Our correspondent writes:—

The day started on a happy note with the Rector sitting in the tower awaiting the arrival of the band and the umpire, and when all had assembled we were heartened by the prayer and sincerity of the Rector before he left the band in the capable hands of Brian White.

At 7.15 a.m. precisely the bells went into rounds, and at 7.17 a.m. they were off and at 7.33 a.m. they had stopped. Tension and nerves had to be quietened as the pace was terrific. It was the best thing that could have happened. They chatted a few moments; some, sensing 14 hours was a long time, stripped off their shirts, and at 7.38 a.m. they were off again, this time to a regular Appleton beat.

The ringing was consistent for hour after hour, the first 5,000 coming up in 2 hours and 55 minutes, the second 5,000 in 2 hours and 56 minutes, and the third 5,000 in 2 hours and 56 minutes, and it was not until 2.14 that the first trip occurred, which we afterwards found was not so much of a trip as one of the band missing his sally and not gaining full control of his bell for a couple of whole pulls. (It always sounds worse outside than it does inside.) Then at 4.38 p.m. came the shock. The bells were set up, and for a few minutes there was a deathly silence outside. Then the umpire unlocked the tower door and the first out was Brian White. When asked what was the matter he gave us his reason, with which the umpire was entirely in agreement.

One of the band had a bad attack of cramp (unfortunately in his hands), which necessitated ringing the bell with one hand. This was not conducive to good striking, and when the conductor asked the ringer how he felt, the reply was typically English—"Carry on and I will do my best."

But over four hours to complete a peal is a long time, so the conductor kept on half an hour and when the attack did not get better he called "Stand," the ringing not being up to standard, and Brian also reasoned that, with the ringing steadily deteriorating, it was senseless even to carry on for a further half-hour and having to call "Stand" before the finish.

With true Appleton hospitality, half the band went to Brian's home for tea and the other half to Frank's, and when everyone had refreshed themselves a move was made to the Plough, where several "listeners" had gathered. As the wine began to flow through the veins disappointment was soon forgotten and the ringers and listeners enjoyed themselves as only ringers can. Even at midnight we realised the correct decision had been taken and the day had been happy for all in spite of an honest failure. W. H.

PERSHORE ABBEY

By ARTHUR C. BERRY

THE present Abbey Church of the Holy Cross and St. Edburgha, Pershore, is all that remains of a vast Benedictine monastery. Founded A.D. 689, this monastery grew in size and wealth up until the Dissolution, when all the monastic buildings were destroyed. The church itself was offered for sale to the parishioners. Curiously enough they did not seem able to buy the whole church but bought the monastic portion rather than the nave, which had been their place of worship. This was pulled down and the remainder, the monastic portion, is what is left today.

The central tower was begun about 1335 upon earlier Norman arches. The interior of the lantern tower is richly traceried and moulded. It was because of this that in 1864, during a major restoration under Sir Gilbert Scott, the old ringing room floor was removed and in its place a platform was constructed in the centre of the tower.

This platform is built diagonally on two solid oak beams running from the centre of each wall at right angles to each other. It is twelve feet square and the sides consist of iron railings six feet in height. Because of these railings and the skeleton iron staircase by which one reaches this platform, it is known locally as the "cage" or "birdcage."

The gap from the top of the railings to the underside of the belfry floor is made up of substantial wire netting said to have been put up after a local ringer got caught in his rope, was taken up and almost fell over the top of the railings to the church floor 80 feet below.

RUDHALL BELLS

The bells, which form a very fine ring, were cast by Abraham Rudhall II in 1729; originally there had been five bells. The treble was recast in 1814 by T. Mears and the fourth in 1897 by Messrs. Barwell, of Birmingham. The tenor is approximately 27 cwt. in the note of D.

Up to the present time there have been 35 peals rung on these bells. The first was by the Youths of All Saints', Worcester, in 1814. They rang 5040 Grandsire Triples in 3 hours and 13 minutes. The first peal rung from the "new" ringing platform was 5040 Stedman Triples on December 27th, 1890, conducted by F. E. Dawe. There is a carillon put up in 1879 by Gillett and Bland, which plays a fortnightly cycle of tunes.

Having a fine ring of bells and a rather unique ringing chamber, Pershore Abbey attracts many visiting ringers. Most of them soon get used to the "cage" but there are a few who do not really like it. Fortunately these are in the minority, for most ringers are soon back to ring again on these bells, probably some of the best that ever came out of the Rudhall Foundry.

TRURO DIOCESAN GUILD

The autumn festival of the Penzance District was held at Carbis Bay on October 28th, and was attended by over 70 ringers.

A touch of Grandsire Doubles was rung on handbells during the service, which was conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. A. S. Roberts. Following this, an excellent tea was provided by the ladies, to whom we extend our thanks.

At the meeting it was proposed that proficiency ringing tests be introduced into the Branch, and arrangements in this direction are in hand. Eight long-service certificates were presented, and the next festival was provisionally arranged to take place at Paul on April 20th.

Towers open for ringing were Zennor, Towednack, Lelant and St. Hilary. M.C.

RECORD ATTENDANCE AT WORCESTERSHIRE'S DINNER

THE Worcestershire and Districts Association held its 30th annual dinner at the Co-operative Hall, Worcester, on October 21st. The company numbered 145 and was the largest attendance since 1960.

Guest of honour was the Bishop of Worcester, the Rt. Rev. L. M. Charles-Edwards, D.D., who proposed the toast of "The Association." The Bishop observed that the Association had now reached 85 years of age and that its members had rung for Church and State occasions through the reigns of four monarchs. But many of the bells themselves, he continued, were, of course, several hundred years older than that. What stories they could tell if only they could speak.

The Bishop then said how pleased he was when, on his visitations, the bells were rung to mark his presence in the parish. He particularly remembered on his recent river pilgrimage on the River Avon being awakened by the bells of Great Comberton ringing at 7 a.m. for Holy Communion which he was to celebrate. He concluded by saying: "Our churches are monuments of a great and eternal truth, and it is through the bells that they tell of that truth."

Responding, the Rev. A. Webb, Vicar of Evesham, described bells as "the Church's chief publicity agent. Ringers find great satisfaction in the practice of the art and derive inspiration from the knowledge that bishops and clergy recognise this involves considerably more than merely heaving on ropes." Mr. Webb spoke both as an incumbent and a ringer and thanked the members of the Association for all the help and encouragement he had received.

CATHEDRAL BELLS FOUND IN NORFOLK

In response to a toast by Mr. C. Skidmore, the chairman, the Very Rev. R. L. P. Milburn, Dean of Worcester, stated that having recovered, last year, one of the old Cathedral bells from the original ring of eight, he was now in touch with the incumbent of Didlington, Norfolk, where four more of these bells had gone. The possibility of retrieving these pre-Reformation bells was being explored. "Campanology is one of the great arts and crafts we must strive to foster in this electronic age," he declared, emphasising the need of preserving skills and practices of the human brain and hand.

A course of Grandsire Triples on handbells was rung by M. J. Fellows 1-2, J. C. Eisel 3-4, M. D. Fellows 5-6, and D. Beacham 7-8. The Offenham handbell ringers were warmly applauded for a skilful demonstration of tune playing, and Miss Joyce Cunningham, accompanied by Anthony Hayward (piano), sang delightfully. The evening concluded with a showing of the Washington Film.

Leicester Diocesan Guild's Dual Celebration

FOUNDER'S DAUGHTER PRESIDES

Mrs. Jill Staniforth, president of the Leicester Diocesan Guild, gave the Guild a motto at its 21st anniversary dinner held at The Meet, Leicester County Cricket Ground, on October 28th. It was the words of the Guild's first patron, the Bishop of Leicester, addressed at its own foundation, "Only the best is good enough."

By a coincidence the celebration took place on the president's birthday and she was duly toasted. "A Happy Birthday" was sung and President Jill cut a birthday cake honouring the two events. The Immediate Past President (Mr. B. Stedman Payne) said that when he approved the date he had no idea that he would not be president. He had in the interim left the Diocese for a year's course at Nottingham University and felt it was unwise to continue in office.

The esteem in which the Guild is held was marked by the capacity attendance at the dinner. The president and vice-president of the Central Council were there; the Diocese was represented by the two Archdeacons; the two national Societies, the Ancient Society of College Youths and the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths, by the Master-elect, Mr. P. A. Corby, and the Master, Mr. Dennis Beresford, respectively. Parties of ringers from Lancashire, Cheshire, Nottinghamshire, Derby and the Midlands attended. It was a great birthday, which the Guild and its president could well be proud of.

Sprays of carnations were presented to the wives of the two Archdeacons, the Ven. R. B. Cole and the Ven. D. H. Lockley. President Jill, who was acompanied by her husband, Peter, had a spray of delicate rosebuds. She presided with a dignity of one born to office, and on her right sat Canon Gilbert Thurlow. Also on the top table were the Guild secretary, Mr. A. J. Poynor, and his bride of seven days, Sandra, and the Guild treasurer, Mr. J. M. Jelley, and Mrs. Jelley. Mr. Paul L Taylor, a vice-president, sat next to Archdeacon Lockley. The toastmaster was Mr. J. P. Fidler, who contributed to the happiness of the gathering with his stories. The toast of "The Queen" was proposed from the chair.

Proposing the toast of "The Church," Mr. J. E. Adams said they were proud to be a Diocesan Guild, as their main purpose was to provide a link between the various parishes and churches. Although there might still be individual criticisms, unquestionably over the past 100 years and particularly in the last 25 there had been a very great change in outlook by ringers generally in their responsibility to the Church, and probably at no time had there been such a high proportion of ringers who undertook other duties for their church. In the past years there had been an ever-conscious effort to bring ringers and the Church together. Of course, they never should be apart. Ringers enjoyed their ringing but it was no less a service to the Church because they enjoyed it, though there seemed to be one school of thought that held that service to the Church was the greater if there was less enjoyment with it. This was perhaps why the writer of "Pilgrim's Progress," the Puritan John Bunyan, ceased to be a bellringer when Puritan instincts became uppermost.

A JOYFUL NOISE

He always recalled certain comments of the late Ernest Morris when the band was depleted so that there were not sufficient to undertake proper change ringing. His comment was always: "Well, let's go up and make a joyful noise," and surely that was the whole essence of ringing bells so far as the Church of England was concerned. The message of the bells to the outside world should surely be the message of a "joyful noise."

To the non-churchgoer they were often almost the only outward sign of Church activity and it was surprising even in this modern age of noise and canned music how great was the proportion of chapelgoers and even those of no denomination who would support appeals for funds for church bells. Their ringing was an aspect of church activity which could not readily be ignored and the majority of them thought, although they derived pleasure from ringing, it was to give a service to the Church.

The Archdeacon of Leicester, the Rev. R. B'. Cole, in his reply, brought to the company the good wishes of Derek and Susan Sawyer, who he understood at one time rang at the Cathedral and at Birstall. He married them at the Cathedral last September and they then went to Toronto, where they worked and where he met them. They told him in Canada that they had been to Washington and had rung on the famous bells at the Cathedral.

The president of the Central Council (Canon Gilbert Thurlow) prefaced his submission of the toast of "The Leicester Diocesan Guild" by commenting that that night he must drink it in bitter lemon or something like it as he must drive 140 miles to Norwich afterwards. It reminded him that toast in that sense came from the custom of putting toast (in breakfast sense) into some wine so that one could drink it without getting drunk.

He congratulated the Leicester Guild on its annual report—a magnificent production. It was also managed cleverly financially, as in 1964 the report cost £163 to produce; in 1956 £156; and in 1966 £143. It was only a matter of time at this rate before the printer was paying them for the privilege of printing it. (Laughter.)

CHURCH'S PUBLIC IMAGE

The objects of the Guild, printed on page 2, were all excellent. He was so glad about the third object, "to gain understanding of their art amongst the public." "It is wholly right," said the Canon, "that the Church should have a good public image, not to gain advantage like a successful advertiser, but because it is useless to have something good to offer people unless it is also something which attracts them. Christ was attractive, worthy church buildings are attractive, the social work the Church does in and for the community must appear attractive to all people of goodwill. Ringing must be attractive. Never let it get needlessly unpopular because church authorities can't bother to control sound and prevent bells being unpleasantly loud."

How right they were to want to continue in close contact with all clergy and other church leaders. Too many ringers seemed content to be in their little shell, almost proud of being unnoticed and their work undervalued. Individual parish reports were so good in many cases, especially Barwell. "So much depends on the influence of just one person. You may be that person. With gratitude for the invitation to this wonderful day, the toast is 'The Leicester Diocesan Guild.'"

The president in reply said it was with feelings of honour and pride that she responded to the toast. Honour for having been chosen to lead the ringers of the Diocese in this their celebration year, and pride for having had the privilege of taking part in the life of the 21 years of the Leicester Diocesan Guild.

Exactly 22 years ago that day the provisional committee formed by members of the Midland Counties Association residing in the Diocese met under the chairmanship of their toastmaster, Mr. Jack Fidler, to decide the formation of the Districts for the new Guild, which was now their Diocesan Guild.

TRIBUTE TO FATHER

"As Canon Thurlow said, my father was the prime mover in suggesting the splitting of the Midland Counties Association, and as our founder president, it really goes without saying that the foundations on which we now operate are due in no small measure to his efforts. But having said that—campanology is definitely not a one-man-band, and without hard-working officers, and indeed all the members which my father and his successors have had around them, the Guild would not be flourishing to the extent is it today.

"To quote from Oscar Wilde, 'Memory is the diary we all carry about with us.' I feel the majority of people here tonght have good memories and I have no intention of looking back over the past 21 years—in fact a précis has already been printed in 'The Ringing World' in conjunction with the celebrations in Derby last September."

In asking the Guild to turn their eyes to the future, the president said: "Sunday service ringing and worship must continue to be uppermost in our minds. I am quite sure that in the majority of cases our members compare very favourably with those of other Guilds; but I would like to quote the words of our first patron, the Lord Bishop of the Diocese: 'If we are to have a separate Guild for the Leicester Diocese only the best is good enough.' If all our members take these words as their motto I am sure the Guild will be a medium for bringing into closer relationship the clergy, churchwardens and ringers, and it will be realised that our efforts are the witness of the Church of God which is one of the few which stretches into many homes that may not otherwise be reminded of the Church's existence."

The president concluded with an appeal to good ringers to do all they could to help learners. To the beginners she suggested that they should move around the Diocese to practices and meetings where experience could be gained and in turn they would be one of those steady, loyal church men or women who undertake to ring the bells on Sundays and regard this as a foremost duty to the Church and, as Canon Thurlow said, give the Church a good public image.

Mr. P. L. Taylor, vice-president, proposed the concluding toast of 'The Visitors." He mentioned by name the president of the Central Council, the Archdeacons of Leicester and Loughborough, Mr. and Mrs. John Freeman, Mr. Dennis Beresford and his party of Cumberlands, Mr. and Mrs. Beamish, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Price, Mr. and Mrs. Morris and parties from Lancashire, Cheshire and Derbyshire, coupling the name of Mr. Philip A. Corby with the toast, mentioning that he rang in a peal at Loughborough that afternoon, which prevented him having 40 winks to put himself right for that evening.

Mr. P. A. Corby replied.

A dance followed and during the evening the birthday cake was cut and "Happy Birthday" was sung to honour the president.

HERTS COUNTY ASSOCIATION

St. Albans District

Saturday, October 21st, turned out wet and cold, but this did not deter many members and visitors from supporting the St. Albans District meeting at Barnet. The 23 cwt. eight were rung during the afternoon, methods up to Watford and London being enjoyed until the service at 4.30 p.m.

Tea has always presented a problem at Barnet, and this meeting was no exception. Those who had sent names in went to the local cafe, the others dispersed in various directions, to join us again at 6.30 p.m. at Monken Hadley belfry for the business meeting. The chair was taken by Mr. Frank Haynes. Under matters arising from the minutes, Mr. Geoffrey Dodds reported that the District car outing to Berkshire was reasonably successful. Mr. A. Steven Taylor was elected a member, having moved into the District from Devon.

The District social, on December 2nd, is to take the place of a formal dinner, due to the number of younger members now in the District. It will start at 7 p.m. and will cost 7s. 6d. per head. Ideas for entertainment are welcome; please give them to John Ewer, who will be M.C. for the evening.

After votes of thanks, ringing took place at Monken Hadley, with methods up to Bristol and Spliced Surprise being rung.

Next meeting: St. Peter's, St. Albans, on November 18th. Special method: London Surprise Royal. J. A. F.

Eastern District

Mr. E Newman, the president of the Herts County Association, and his wife kindly provided tea for the meeting of the Eastern District at Cheshunt. The wet afternoon did not prevent a good attendance. A short service was conducted by the Vicar, and after the business meeting ringing continued until 9 p.m.

Next meeting: Hunsdon (8), November 11th.

RINGING SECRETARIES MARRY

The thoughts, with good wishes, of many ringers in the Leicester Diocese turned to Aylestone, Leics, on October 3rd, for the wedding, in glorious sunshine, at St. Andrew's Church of Mr. A. James Poynor, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Poynor, and Miss Sandra Chesterton, only child of Mr. and Mrs. E. Chesterton, both families being members of the Parish Church. A large congregation witnessed the ceremony performed by the Rector, the Rev. Stephen Jackson, assisted by the curate, the Rev. T. C. Wiles.

As the bride approached the church the bells pealed forth their welcome—the bridegroom having already joined his fellow ringers for a course of London Surprise Major. Escorted by her father, the bride was attended by Mrs. S. M. Hall, the matron of honour, who, prior to her marriage and consequent move to London, was a member of the Aylestone band, and two smaller bridesmaids, Miss J. Heircock and Miss L. Bonnington.

The bridal procession, following a full choir, moved slowly to the chancel as the organist, Mr. T. C. Moulds, played a voluntary on the "Old 100th" by Purcell. The hymn "Lead Us, Heavenly Father" preceded the marriage service and this was followed by the 23rd Psalm set to the tune of Brother James' Air. After prayers the hymn "O Father, All Creating" brought the ceremony to a close. The happy couple left the church during the playing of Purcell's "Trumpet Voluntary" and the firing and ringing of the bells.

The bride was attired in a heavy white satin dress with a long train edged with pure lace. She wore a short veil kept in place by a coronet, and carried a bouquet of red and white roses interspersed with lilies of the valley. The matron of honour was dressed in red satin, and the bridesmaids in long dresses of red velvet and satin. The best man was Mr. Peter J. Challoner (brother-in-law of the bridegroom) and the ushers were Messrs R. J. Bell and A. S. Hayden. The reception was held at The Meet, at the Leicestershire County Cricket Ground and was attended by 105 guests.

The bride is the honorary secretary of the Midland District of the Ladies' Guild. The bridegroom is the general secretary of the Leicester Diocesan Guild and also an active member of both the Aylestone P.C.C. and the local Dramatic Society.

A peal of Yorkshire Surprise Major was successfully brought round later in the day at Aylestone Parish Church, conducted by Mr. Russell S. Morris, who taught the bride to ring. M. J. S.

ST. MARTIN'S GUILD STRIKING COMPETITION

A well-attended quarterly meeting of the St. Martin's Guild was held at Yardley on October 14th. The chief attraction was undoubtedly the striking competition, which caused a great amount of interest. Many ringers came to listen to a high standard of ringing on a very fine octave, and as many as 80 enjoyed a bountiful tea. At the commencement of the meeting the Master welcomed Mr. Frank E. Haynes, vice-president, of Cambridge, and invited him to take the chair.

The judges of the striking competition reported that the standard of ringing was higher, and the number of entries greater than in the two previous competitions held by the Guild. It was difficult to decide the positions of the first three, as all were rung with good rhythm. A general criticism was the variations at lead. The competing bands were placed in the following order of merit: 1 St. Martin's, 2 Erdington Abbey, 3 King's Norton, 4 Yardley, 5 Aston, 6 Perry Barr.

The rules of the competition were the subject of much discussion, several members expressing the opinion that they were too flexible in places. Useful suggestions for their improvement are to be considered by the Striking Committee.

The following were elected resident members of the Guild: Mrs. Jennifer Green and Vernon Green (Solihull), Derek Walters (Shirley), Paul Evans (Harborne) and Miss Sheila Insley and John McEvilly (Erdington Abbey).

The tower elections as life members of the following ringers were duly ratified: Howard W. Eggleston (Claydon, Ipswich), Albert E. Ellsmore (Halesowen), Peter A. Sharp (Lincoln) and Stewart Armeson (Rotherham).

A grant was made to two young ringers towards their expenses of attending a course on ringing at Cheltenham, this being considered an excellent use of the Guild's funds.

Two notices of motion to be brought before the annual meeting were received, which promises to add interest to that meeting, which will be held at St. Martin's on the first Saturday in January, 1968.

A vote of thanks to the ladies who prepared tea was accorded, also to the Vicar, the Rev. David Edwards, for the use of the bells.

STRIKING COMPETITION BIGGLESWADE'S FIRST

There was a slight air of excitement on October 21st, when three teams, Biggleswade, Potton and Maulden, met at Old Warden for the District's first striking competition. The bands practised between 3 p.m. and 4 p.m prior to the competition. Mr. M. Orme and Mr. J. Dew were the judges, and after a simple tea in the Women's Institute Hall, gave their verdicts, placing the teams in the same order as they rang: 1 Maulden, 2 Potton, 3 Biggleswade. The first two teams now qualify to enter in the Association competition at Tempsford on November 25th.

The company then had another chance of seeing the home production based on a famous ringing saga, made by some local Potton ringers.

There was ringing again in the evening, when more of the District members who could not enter, due to a lack of local ringers, came to support this first venture, which we hope next year will be more embracing and competitive.

Our thanks go to the Vicar and Mrs. Shuttleworth, O.B.E., for their help and co-operation. L. E.

Letters to the Editor

BEWILDERED OVER VARIATIONS

Dear Sir,—I refer to the peal of Doubles rung at Bronllys, which appears in "The Ringing World" on page 558, and to a letter from Mr. Roy H. Jones on page 634.

In his letter, Mr. Jones acknowledged the names of three variations in the peal. I am afraid that I am a little bewildered by these particular variations. The three methods which constitute the plain courses are New Bob, Huntspiil and St. Vedast, all of which have the work of New Bob above the treble. The call which Mr. Colin A. Lewis coupled with them in the peal is a Grandsire Extreme. I was of the opinion that a Grandsire Extreme is, in fact, merely a plain lead of New Bob, in which case the three variations are non-existent. Perhaps someone would be good enough to enlighten me on this point. Are there by any chance two Grandsire Extremes? —Yours faithfully,

DAVID R. McLEAN.

ST. MARGARET'S SOCIETY, WESTMINSTER

Dear Sir,—May I join Mr. Shepherd, Mr. Symonds and Mr. Barnett as a survivor of the old St. Margaret's Society, Westminster? I rang several peals for the Society, and what I think must have been the Society's last peal was on June 22nd, 1912, when Jim Davis conducted a peal of Stedman Caters at St. Margaret's, in which I took part. We also rang a peal of Double Norwich at Cheshunt, Herts, on May 4th, 1912. I appear to be the only surviving member of these two bands.—Yours faithfully,

F. I. HAIRS.

Groombridge.

A HOAX?

Dear Sir,—I have recently visited St. Peter's, Tilton-on-the-Hill, Leicestershire (a four-bell tower), and in the ringing room I found the following peal card:—

ST. PETER'S, TILTON-ON-THE-HILL.
On Saturday, July 11th, 1897.
A PEAL OF 5040 MINIMUS
1 George James, of Birmingham.
2 William Pye, of London.
3 George R. Pye, of London.
4 Edward Pitman, of London.

This is the first peal of Minimus ever rung.

I wonder if any of your older ringers could verify this notice, or was it just another "hoax peal"?

I think it is worth noting that the peal card was fairly recently typed.—Yours faithfully,

R. J. COLLIS.

Whitton, Twickenham.

FIRST WAR MEMORY RECALLED

Dear Sir,—Mr. Edgar Shepherd's letter in the issue of October 20th brought back to me memories of the very pleasant time I had with the College Youths and their handbell band, especially when Dr. J. B. Williamson umpired Carter's Odd Bob peal of Stedman Triples, which Challis Winney conducted from 5–6, Bert Langdon ringing 1–2, Charles Norton 7–8, and myself 3–4.

I also would like to send greetings to Dr. Williamson, and I wonder if he recalls the very enjoyable times we had around the Buckinghamshire area during the first world war?—Yours sincerely,

ELSIE L. HAIRS.

THE OLD HILL ACCIDENT

Dear Sir,—You will no doubt be sorry to learn of a serious accident which took place in the belfry of Old Hill Parish Church on Sunday morning, October 29th. There are eight bells but, owing to a shortage of ringers, the front six bells only were rung for morning service There had been a wedding on Saturday, 28th. and the bells were left "up" at backstroke.

At the conclusion of ringing on the Sunday morning it was found impossible to pull off the seventh bell, set at backstroke. However, Ray Dunn reached up and gripped the rope. Without any warning the rope immediately went up, taking Ray a distance of 20 feet.

Questions one asks oneself: Why didn't he let the rope go. Had he got his hand looped through the tail-end? I have known Ray personally for many years. He is one of the steadiest ringers I know, with a good style of ringing, and I have never seen his hand through the loop of the tail-end. This could have happened to me. Rather a terrifying thought.

I do feel there is definitely a lesson to be learned by us all. It is dangerous to leave the bells up at backstroke. When the stay breaks there is no warning. Window sash-cords give out in just the same sudden way. Not quite so much metal on the end though.

Lots of experienced ringers will no doubt say, "Of course it is a dangerous practice," but how many voice our opinions when requested to leave them set at backstroke?

I have only once seen a bell set at backstroke suddenly vanish. Fortunately no one had possession of it at the time.

Just a personal note to say that during the 18 months he has been at Old Hill, Ray has taught three teenage girls to ring an "inside" bell to touches of Grandsire on very difficult bells.

He has also carried out decorating the belfry and looking after the bells generally. He has put in hours of hard work and I sincerely hope he will soon be able to return.

His many friends may be interested to know that he is at present in Princess Mary Ward of Dudley Guest Hospital.—Yours sincerely,

MOLLY TROMANS.

Cradley Heath, Warley.

COACHES NOT WANTED

C. A. B. submits a plea for coach parties at hostelries. "All the houses at which we pulled up displayed the 'No Coaches' sign and although our driver went in and pleaded on our behalf they did not want our custom, so in the end we had to park the coach in Horsham and pretend that we were on foot."

This was the experience of the 21st outing of the East Grinstead and District Guild on October 14th. Ringing took place at Guildford Cathedral, on the heavy eight at Bray, Sonning, All Saints' and St. Paul's, Wokingham, and finally at Pirbright, where the party arrived an hour late through having missed the road.

ANOTHER DEVON TOUR

Organised by Mr. A. L. Bennett, another successful tour of East Devon took place on October 21st, when despite the inclement weather a most enjoyable time was spent. Those accompanying him were Messrs. H. F. Myers, D. R. Bould, G. E. Mudge, E. J. Cann, J. C. Mitchelmore, B. Knight, S. Pierce and D. Pearse.

Towers visited were at Honiton (St. Paul's), Axminster, Uplyme, Seaton, Colyton, Sidbury, Sidmouth and Otterton. The lunch interval was spent at Seaton and the tea interval at Sidmouth. A. L. B.

FIVE-DAY RINGING COURSE AT HEREFORD

Dear Sir,—At the last week-end course on ringing at Hereford a considerable number of people expressed an interest in a course lasting a week. I inquired about the possibilities and the College of Education has offered us the last five days in Easter Week next year—Tuesday evening, April 16th, to Sunday afternoon, April 21st. I have to accept or reject this offer by the end of November.

We hope there will be a demand big enough to have two groups, one elementary (ability to handle a bell the minimum standard), the other rather more advanced for those who can ring one or two methods but who wish to learn others and do some elementary conducting.

There would be plenty of opportunity for handbell ringing and for practical work in different towers.

The College has excellent facilities and is very comfortable. The cost of the course, except for transport, would be £10 10s.

Will anyone who is interested please write to me before the end of November?—Yours sincerely,

WILFRID F. MORETON.

Wakefield, Yorks.

ROPE EXPERIMENT AT EDINBURGH

Dear Sir,—It is some time now since the possibility of using man-made fibres for bell ropes instead of more traditional materials was discussed in your columns. The only conclusion reached then was that nylon was useless because of its elasticity, although it was perhaps a possibility for tail-ends.

At St. Cuthbert's, Edinburgh, we have been using for over a year now a rope made of pre-stretched terylene. This is stocked by all shops which cater for small dinghy sailors as it has been developed principally for use as halliards on these boats. We spliced the rope on fairly close above the sally to replace a top section which was badly worn near the wheel. It splices fairly easily although the ends of the strands must be taped or melted with a match at the start to prevent fraying.

The chief thing one notices on ringing with this rope is that there is absolutely no stretch in it at all, even when it is new. It also appears to be very hard-wearing. Even at the garter hole it is still completely unmarked at the present time. Its cost is about 1s. a foot, depending on thickness.

We have now replaced another top section in the same way, and St. Mary's, Edinburgh, have also started to use it.

Two disadvantages only have appeared so far. It is completely unsuitable for use as a tail-end since it is both hard on the hands and slippery. Also, since putting it on to our second bell we have found this rope has on a few occasions jumped wheel.—Yours faithfully,

M. PETERSON.

Loanhead, Midlothian.

ALDERMASTON MAJOR

Dear Sir,—Reading Mr. G. K. Dodd's letter on "Aldermaston Major" is almost like hearing nuclear weapons being blamed for bad weather! It seems the fashion to blame anything bad on "hoaxers," and one hoaxer in particular. Without the necessary evidence it is extremely childish.

Whoever "E. Steele" was, may I heartily endorse at least the main thesis of his letter—that Aldermaston Major should be classed with Grandsire Major, etc.—a novelty to ring, but with inferior music, and just a gimmick, really. —Yours faithfully, FRANK HUNTER.

The 35th Jasper Snowdon Dinner

THIRTY-FOUR Snowdon Dinners had passed into history before it was appreciated that this annual event of the Yorkshire Association had never been held in the East Riding. This very serious omission was rectified on October 21st, when the venue was the Civic Hall in Cottingham, which claims to be the largest village in England.

One hundred and sixty-three ringers and friends attended and had the opportunity during the morning and afternoon to ring at 14 East Riding Churches, ranging from the four bells at Bubwith to the glorious ten-bell rings at the Minster and St. Mary's Church, Beverley. In addition, three eights and eight sixes were available, whilst three further towers were finally unavailable due to conflicting wedding or funeral services. All tastes were therefore catered for, but unfortunately there was a very uneven response, with reports varying from few, if any, visitors to crowded belfries.

The president, Mr. Vernon Bottomley, was in the chair and reported an apology for absence from Mrs. Marshall, the widow of Canon C. C. Marshall, a former president. The further opening remarks from the chair were in a light-hearted vein, which was maintained throughout the evening.

The toast of "Church and State" was proposed by Mr. A. C. Cooper (Kirk Ella, secretary of the Beverley and District Society). He suggested a closer link between the ringing associations and the diocesan authorities on restoration schemes and other matters affecting towers and belfries. He was able to draw on his seemingly inexhaustible store of anecdotes, which included a quite outrageous ecclesiastical play of words on "Metropolitan Vickers."

The response was by the Archdeacon of the East Riding, Canon F. E. Ford, whose present living at Cherry Burton does not have a ring of bells. As the Vicar of Scarborough for many years, however, he is no stranger to bellringing and one of his treasured memories was the dedication of a peal of Bob Major to himself and his wife on their marriage. He emphasised the importance of our art as a regular reminder of the presence of the Church and a summons to worship in these days of widespread indifference and genuine doubt.

TRADITIONS FIRMLY ESTABLISHED

A very apt choice for the proposition of the toast of "Jasper Snowdon and Past Masters of the Association" was Mr. William Barton, himself an officer for more than 50 years, and the present vice-president of the Association's Western District. The founder of the Association, he said, had excelled in all branches of the art but had not specialised in composing. It was an enigma of bellringing that lesser-known ringers in their lifetime were now better known by virtue of their compositions. He was confident that the youthful ringers of today, the future administrators of the Association, would remember Jasper Snowdon and uphold the traditions firmly established by him.

He made reference to the sterling work done by several past officers, including the former president, Archdeacon C. O. Ellison; Mr. Leslie Morris, Association secretary for 26 years; Mr. Harold Walker, until recently vice-president of the Eastern District; Mr. John Gilbert, secretary of the Southern District for 27 years: Mr. Horace Morley, Eastern District secretary for 33 years; Mr. Norman Chaddock, vice-pesident of the Southern District until his recent removal to the East Riding; and Mr. Gordon Benfield, a past treasurer and Ringing Master.

The traditional response of a course of Grandsire Caters was rung on handbells by K. Lawson 1–2, W. E. Critchley 3–4, W. F. Moreton 5–6, F. C. Hobson 7–8, and N. Chaddock 9–10.

Mr. J. S. Rank (Beverley) proposed the toast of "Visitors and Guests" and offered a warm welcome to Canon Ford and his wife, and Mr. John Freeman, secretary and treasurer of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild. Visitors were welcomed from Walsall, Blackburn and Warwickshire.

A racy response was made by Mr. Freeman, who offered a rather improbable explanation of the origin of the chairman's (lack of) hairstyle and explained what happened to overzealous red-haired Canons. He recalled attending a week-end school at Grantley Hall in 1963, which resulted in a similar school being held very successfully for the Lincoln Guild, whilst a half-day course on the previous Saturday was attended by 90 ringers.

"A GREAT ACHIEVEMENT"

The chairman congratulated Mr. Wilfrid Moreton on completing 1,000 peals. He felt, however, that even this great achievement was overshadowed by Mr. Moreton's outstanding record as a lecturer and teacher on all aspects of ringing.

The thanks of the Associations were expressed by the president to the incumbents of the several churches for the use of the bells during the day and to the members of the local companies who had met the visiting ringers. Mr Ron Ducker and Mr. David Johnson were especially thanked for the wonderful job they had done in organising the day's events, and the warmth of the applause given was a unanimous vote of general approval and thanks.

The issue of "The Ringing World" coincident with the Dinner had a distinct Yorkshire "flavour." Additional copies had been obtained and were on sale at towers during the day and in the evening. It is hoped that those who bought copies will become regular subscribers. K.

NORWICH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION

At the autumn meeting of the Eastern Branch held at Kessingland, members were asked by the chairman (Miss D. Lidbetter) to support the Loddon Bell Fund by purchasing Christmas cards which would be on sale at the next meeting. The chairman also reported that the five bells at South Walsham were rededicated and the new six-bell frame blessed by the Archdeacon of Norwich (the Ven. W. A. Aitken) on September 24th.

The Rev. J. Gilchrist (Aldeby) was elected an honorary member, and the following belfry elections were ratified prior to peal attempts: Messrs J. R. White (Wantage), J. T. Clay (Marlow) and C. W. Longden (Chesterfield).

The chairman thanked the Rector (the Rev. B. S. T. Morgan) for conducting the service, the organist, and the ladies who provided the splendid tea.

Next meeting: Branch annual, Gorleston-on-Sea, December 9th.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Maidstone District

The annual meeting of the Maidstone District was held on October 14th at All Saints', Maidstone. Over 60 members attended, including visitors from the Tonbridge District. The service was conducted by the Rev. C. J. G. Tufton. Tea was provided in the college rooms.

The Rev. C. J. G. Tufton was elected chairman for the business meeting. The secretary presented the District report, noting that there had been a slight decline of 14 members compared with the previous year's total, even though 53 new members had been elected during the year. The resolution proposed by the Ashford District recommending that the Association should have a chairman was rejected by the meeting

The officers who were elected for the coming year were: Mr. M. L. Howe, District secretary; Mr. C. A. Tester and Mr. B. Groves, Ringing Masters; Mr. A. Waddington and Mr. P. Carter, District representatives; and Mr. P. S. Muchlinski "Ringing World" representative. The business meeting finished with a vote of thanks given by Mr. A. Waddington, and ringing continued until 9 p.m.

Canterbury District Has a Lady Secretary

Owing to the pressure of his studies, Mr. Keith Davis has resigned the secretaryship of the Canterbury District. For the first time the District has a lady secretary, Miss B. Lancaster, of Dover, who was elected at the recent annual meeting at Canterbury.

Mr. B. J. Luck was re-elected chairman, Messrs. Eades and Chatfield representatives of the Kent County Association Committee, and Dr. D. Niblett Ringing Master.

A letter from the general secretary asking for members' views on a rearrangement of Districts in the county provided the biggest talking point for many a meeting, but the general view was "stay as we are." A resolution from the Ashford District that the Association has a recognised chairman was supported.

The Rev. A. L. Lawler was thanked for conducting the service in St. Dunstan's Church and the ladies for providing tea for the 70 members present from 17 towers. Several new members were elected and the retiring secretary was thanked for his report on the workings of the District during the past year.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD

Marlborough Branch

When the Marlborough Branch met at Burbage (5) on October 21st they were the guests at tea of the Rev. A. R. and Mrs. Woodford and the local ringers. In appreciation of the hospitality a collection was taken for church funds.

Mr. G. Newman (chairman) thanked all who had contributed to the success of the meeting and congratulated the Rev. Roger Keeley on the birth of a second son. A welcome visitor was Mr. Hussey, a former Branch secretary, who now lives at Wootton Bassett.

The evening ringing was at Milton Lilbourne under the direction of Mr. Alan Keene. Some good method ringing was enjoyed and several made a first attempt at Kent Treble Bob. Useful progress was made.

WELSH BORDER TOUR PROVIDES STAMINA TEST FOR ROVING RINGERS

AUGUST is the month when all good Roving Ringers remove dust sheets from their bicycles, tighten up the frames, screw up loose headstocks, oil bearings and generally pronounce their bells ringable for the tour during the last week in August.

The Society celebrated its "21st" this year, and completed some 200 miles in the Welsh Border counties, retreating a safe distance to spend the Bank Holiday week-end at Malvern.

Those whom the railway system permitted duly arrived at Wellington (Salop) and ringing got off to a brisk start under the direction of this year's Master, Alan Elsmore. Wrockwardine was next on the list but, sad to relate, the choir outing had taken all and sundry, leaving us only with a locked door and no means of entry However, things improved at Atcham, where the tower is set on the banks of the Severn, and Orpheus and Cambridge were successfully brought round before we made for Shrewsbury Youth Hostel our home for the next two nights. The party was completed on Sunday when Ian Dear and Andrew Slade finally arrived (more rail trouble !), having spent a luxurious night's rest at the local police station, and we set off to join the local bands for service ringing, first on the ten at St. Mary's and afterwards at St. Chad's.

Afternoon ringing was at Condover, and a ground-floor ring tempted everyone to spend more time than usual basking in the bright sunshine in the churchyard. Eight of us had been invited to join in a quarter peal at St. Chad's for Evensong, and whilst the strains of Plain Bob Maximus rang out from the tower the rest returned to St. Mary's to complete the day.

TEST OF FITNESS

Monday started with indifferent ringing at Berrington on a rather odd-struck eight, but London went better, and in due course we set off for Coalbrookdale, exchanging the harvest fields for the ugly cooling towers and grime of industry. The tower has a commanding view over the valley, and Caters and Royal were well rung. The steep road up to Madeley was not at all bikeworthy, but we got there eventually, blessing the close proximity of the Six Bells to the church and its attitude to closing time. The bells were a pleasure to ring, and put us in good heart for the long ride to Much Wenlock. The route took us down to the famous iron bridge in the town of that name, but the diabolical gradient up the other side was a test of fitness to young and old alike. Here again was another fine eight and London and Stedman sounded well. From here it was hills again, and a long haul along Wenlock Edge brought us thankfully to Wilderhope Hostel, a fine old Elizabethan manor house restored by the National Trust with original engraved plaster ceilings and Spartan meals in Spartan surroundings.

Tuesday started well on the pleasant six at Hope Bowdler before an enjoyable run down to Church Stretton. With muscular men on 7–8 the special method for the tour, Worcestershire, was attempted, but towards the end of the course it suddenly flew to bits, and Pudsey was hurriedly substituted to make amends. A welcome and rare piece of flat road brought most of us to Wistanstow, but fate had decreed that two of the food carriers should have punctures, and some of us nearly starved as a result ! The bells produced what can only be described as "foundry touches." There was just no time to go wrong, and if the music was not sweet the rhythm was excellent.

"FOUR-STAR" COOKING

We departed for Stokesay, with its historic castle nearby, and after an enjoyable ring and a group photograph the girls set off with some trepidation to climb the 1,100 feet to Wheathill Hostel, high up in the Clee hills. "Self-Cooking," said the handbook, but even the optimists were not prepared for the meals that followed, the supper and breakfast being voted "four-star."

Wednesday's first tower, at Eye was 17 miles distant, but only the stalwart few arrived to be welcomed by the Vicar and ring London and Cambridge Minor; the rest made straight for Leominster Priory, a fine Norman building containing amongst other relics an excellent ducking stool. Methods up to Yorkshire Royal were rung or attempted. Lunch followed, but not before we found our first choice, the Bakers Arms, shut at 1 p.m.; a disturbing sign in an otherwise enlightened market town. The post-lunch tower was at Eardisland (an excellent eight), in a lovely village setting. At Weobley (a heavy six in a finely spired tower) the bells require plenty of muscle and skill to strike properly. We did our best, and then it was away to Staunton-on-Wye Hostel, where a party of equally fit looking pony trekkers were installed.

Thursday was foggy, and the sound of the bells at Burghill guided later members to the tower to enjoy the very good eight. For once, the sundial over the porch was not of much use The party arrived at Hereford Cathedral to find preparations in hand for the Three Choirs Festival, and commenced the long trek to the belfry. A further attempt for London Royal was made, but after seven well-struck leads a fault developed and our chance was gone. Caters and Cambridge completed the ringing and we left, quite satisfied with our efforts, to enjoy the eight at Lugwardine, where George Morris joined the company. The last tower was at Stoke Edith (a very good six), where the ladies rang their "secret" touch of Oswald. It was a pity to leave, but the road to Rushall Hostel was tortuous and supper called. With the nearest hotel two miles distant the bikes were pressed into service, and those without lights hoped that the local constabulary were otherwise engaged that evening.

STAMINA DAY

Friday could be described as stamina day. The warden allowed us to admire her fine collection of horse brasses and then left us to ride and walk the ups and downs to Fownhope to ring on a pleasant six with a stayless third. Those who hoped for an easier ride alongside the river Wye to Ross were doomed to disappointment, and a quick poll on arrival there showed a marked swing against the secretary and a crying need for liquid refreshment. In consequence our time on the bells was restricted.

A welcome lunch was taken at Weston-under-Penyard, and whilst the darts school showed their improved skill after a week's practice, an interesting and furious argument ensued on the merits of 6–5's at course-ends on higher numbers. Both sides were unconvinced, and we left to ring on another excellent six which were rehung in 1955 and gave Frank Lewis his 1,700th tower. The route to the Forest of Dean was viewed with misgiving by some members, and whilst a splinter group decided on an unscheduled visit to Aston Ingham, the stoics pedalled uphill yet again to Ruardean, and much to their surprise rang up to five-spliced on a long-draughted but fair-going eight.

The eight at Mitcheldean and John Slater's 1,000th tower were a fitting ring to end the day; the bells and sound control are excellent, and a clinking course of Worcestershire was a pleasure to listen to. Little but the hostel and the pub stand in the main street, but happily they face one another, and we were thus able to start our traditional singsong earlier. The choir was in fine voice, and an imported pianist who challenged us retired a beaten man.

21st BIRTHDAY CAKE

The fine weather continued over the week-end, and we turned north again to welcome the week-enders and their families and ring at Newent and Dymock before moving on to Ledbury, where spliced was rung on bells much in need of a spanner up aloft. A visit to the eight at Colwall marked the end of the tour proper before the cyclists thankfully climbed the last and steepest hill to Malvern, to exchange their week's rigours for the luxury of the Abbey Hotel, our week-end H.Q. A highlight of the dinner which followed was a 21st birthday cake, decorated with the Society's crest, which was specially made for the occasion by Gill Richards, from Claines. The cake was cut by the president, John Brain, who paid tribute to all the officers who had served the Society from its inception under Mark White in 1946 and were still doing so today. We owed them all a very sincere vote of thanks.

Sunday service ringing took place at Worcester Cathedral and All Saints' and in the afternoon at St. Swithin's (a ring said to be the oldest complete ring in existence, whose tone and go appear to confirm this). The Cathedral bells were again rung for Evensong, and a pleasing feature was an excellent half-course of Cambridge 12 by a band of all ages, a good cross-section of the Society, ably led by Jim Diserens on the tenor.

Time was now running out and Monday's ringing at Malvern Link, St. John's, Worcester, and Claines soon came and went. The sun still shone as the Society dispersed, and with our thanks to Alan Elsmore, Sally Parrott and Roy Mills for organising our towers and our ringing we departed, thinking of the next reunion, at Chelmsford, and wondering what the next 21 years will have in store for us.

St. Woolos' Cathedral Outing

There were many amusing incidents during the outing of the ringers of St. Woolos' Cathedral, Newport, into Somerset on October 21st.

At Meare (6) the laugh of the day was provided by the remark that the front six were doing Stedman slow work instead of ringing up in peal ! Later a father and son were seen to be clinging frantically to the sally of the fourth, which was believed to have no stay, only to find that when they let the bell go up the bell was already set !

On the eight at Yalton the Stedman sounded superb. The tenor was very deep set and this proved too much for a young lady ringer and a Branch' Ringing Master.

Other towers visited were at Marshfield. Radstock, Cheddar, Clevedon, Nailsea and Backwell. Thanks were accorded to the conductors of the day, Leslie F. G. Bainham and Peter S. Bennett, who called some very musical touches of Stedman and Grandsire Triples, and to R. Gordon Wilkinson, without whose organisation the tour would not have been possible. The visitors would also like to say "thank you" to incumbents and local ringers.

Midhurst Bells Rededicated

The bells of Midhurst Parish Church were rededicated by the Bishop of Chichester last Sunday morning after having been away at the Whitechapel Bell Foundry for four months for overhaul and refitting. A small Bell Fund Committee was well supported by church friends, and in just over a year raised a total of £1,200, which more than covered the cost.

PETERBOROUGH GUILD DINNER

OUTSPOKEN SPEECHES

The 1967 annual dinner of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild at the Town Hall, Towcester, on October 21st, was marked by outspoken speeches:

Suggestions were made of extending the scope of the Bell Restoration Fund to include sound control.

Advice from Mr. G. W. Pipe on how the Peterborough Guild should put its house in order by following the example of the Suffolk Guild.

A threat to 'The Ringing World" Committee to dispense with their services if they continued to ignore the wishes of the Central Council

The chair was taken by the Guild's president, the Rev. Ernest G. Orland, A hearty welcome was extended to the assembled company by the Vicar of Towcester, who even offered rooms for the night to any who felt they had imbibed just that little drop too much to pass the breath test!

After the loyal toast had been proposed by the president the real business of speechifying was embarked upon. Mr. J. H. Bluff (Guild Master) proposed the toast of "The Church" and during the course of his speech questioned the premise that the great amount of church building and restoration carried out since the war indicated a religious revival in this country. It was due to the devastation caused by war and the consequent rebuilding, followed by the clearing of old and dilapidated areas in our towns and cities and the establishment of new towns. He went on to compare some of the modern concrete churches with the old, but revered, buildings which have stood as witnesses to the faith of our forbears for centuries.

Two kinds of people are necessary where bells are concerned, bellfounders and bell-ringers, and from each we learn a similar lesson. In the bellfounder's craft a chip or a crack or a tiny error in the composition or quantity or quality of metal used can ruin the tone of a bell, so he must be most meticulous and thorough, dedicated to the discipline of his craft. This also applies to the bell-ringers, who with their skill and concentration are able to handle these wonderful, heavy instruments.

In conclusion, Mr. Bluff said that the prevalent idea of the two-part church—chancel and nave—ought to be amended to include the third part—tower—for the bells and ringers had an important place in the work of the Church.

In reply, the Ven. Bazil R. Marsh (Archdeacon of Northampton) said that he agreed in the main with the Master's remarks, but pointed out that the majority of the church restoration carried out recently in the Peterborough Diocese was a sign of the religious fervour of the present generation and not merely the erection of monuments to previous generations and their faith. He hoped that the bells would continue to call an increasing number of the faithful to worship but did not wish to see, in the future, any dilution of the Church of England. It was to be the task of the Guild, concluded the Archdeacon, to provide a continuing supply of ringers.

THE RURAL CRAFT OF RINGING

The toast of "The Peterborough Diocesan Guild" was proposed by Mr. George W. Pipe, the Master of the Suffolk Guild. He began by saying how honoured he felt to be asked to propose this toast, and that both he and his wife thought that it was well worth the long and miserable journey they had had from Suffolk. He said that he did not wish to trace the history of the Guild, as was customary with proposers of this toast, but rather to examine the present and future of it, although still acknowledging the debt owed to the past.

Briefly mentioning the 1966 Central Council meeting at Bath and his reasons for wishing to put forward his idea of a national recruitment campaign (the preservation of the rural craft of ringing), he outlined some suggestions based on the reorganisation of the Suffolk Guild to help the Peterborough Guild in its own recruitment drive — to have four or five fairly large Districts rather than numerous small Branches, and to run its own ringing courses.

The president of the Peterborough Guild replied and stated how pleased he was that the Guild was still organised on a diocesan basis, even though it was shaped "like a pear with Peterborough balanced on the stalk." He went on to say that the Guild was already examining its present structure in at least one of its 11 Branches.

Mr. Patrick I. Chapman, a former Guild Master, proposed the toast of "Our Guests." Foremost he mentioned the Archdeacon, who also had charge of one of the most beautiful and historic churches—St. Peter's, Northampton. His bells, too, were of great interest to the ringing fraternity, historically and in quality. Unfortunately his church was surrounded by an unusually high proportion of "anti-bell" residents, and nowadays ringing was of necessity restricted. St. Peter's was a good example of a case where correct sound control would be well worthwhile. Perhaps the Guild should consider extending the scope of its Bell Restoration Fund to assist in such cases.

THREAT TO "RINGING WORLD" COMMITTEE

"When your committee drew up the guest list early this year," continued Mr. Chapman, "they thought you would like to entertain, together with his charming wife, Mr. George Pipe as a new member of 'The Ringing World' Committee, elected together with Dennis Beresford in the hope that their energy and drive would be welcomed and used in the efforts to improve the appeal of 'The Ringing World. During their membership of the committee we did see considerable improvements at long last, and we congratulate them on their part in it. But many of their suggestions were greeted with abuse and ridicule, and eventually, to the regret of all but the old men of 'The Ringing World,' they felt bound to resign.

"I had not intended raising this unfortunate affair this evening, but, as we read in the report of the Durham and Newcastle dinner, the convener does not regard the matter as closed. This is a pity, and if he and his remaining colleagues persist in what amounts to ignoring the wishes of the Central Council, and in the suppression of letters of criticism, they cannot complain if, in 1969, the Council decides to dispense with their services."

DICK SPEED'S TUTOR

Referring to Miss Marie Cross, he said she came as near as anyone to justify the admission of women into the belfry! Her ringing ability was well known and had been recognised by her inclusion in record peals of Spliced Surprise and many other outstanding peals. They knew of her untiring and successful work as an instructor (she even taught Dick Speed to ring!), but her greatest work, he thought, was in her secretaryship of their giant neighbour, the Oxford Diocesan Guild. It said much for her ability and for her personal qualities that, in an area so rich in personalities, tradition and achievement, she should command such respect and loyalty from so large a membership.

Miss Marie R. Cross, the secretary of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, replied. She spoke of the large area covered by her own Guild and the debt owed by it to those members of the Peterborough Guild who had done such good work in those outlying Branches of the Oxford Guild which bordered on the Peterborough Diocese. She also mentioned some of the problems that could face a Guild if it came within the sphere of diocesan reorganisation.

The rest of the evening was given over to entertainment—songs from a Towcester friend, handbells and conversation.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Mr. F. B. Stedman took part in a quarter of Grandsire at Wyke Regis, Dorset, in honour of his 93rd birthday.

In the peal of Lincolnshire Surprise Royal rung at Solihull on October 21st, Maurice F. Edwards and James W. Belshaw rang their first in the method.

The quarter peal rung at Gillingham Parish Church on October 1st must have given great pleasure to the conductor, Mr. L. Harmer. The remainder of the band were ringing their first quarter peal.

Mr R. T. (Tom) Newman is now under treatment in Namaan Ward, Guy's New Block, Guy's Hospital, S.E.1. His long-standing complaint has kept him from ringing for the past 12 months. A letter or visit from an old friend would be welcome.

A pupil at St. Giles' Church, Stony Stratford, under the Duke of Edinburgh's scheme, after being taught to ring a bell up and down commented: "Oh, was that raising and lowering a bell? I thought it meant raising it up up and down the tower."

An in memoriam quarter peal for Mr. Frank Perkins, the founder of the well-known firm of Diesel engine manufacturers at Peterborough, was rung at St. Mary's Church on October 21st. Two employees took part in the ringing. Frank Perkins enjoyed the sound of church bells and was always pleased when Peterborough ringers rang at Alwalton, where he lived.

Mr. Roy Spencer, of Peterborough, conducted his 12-year-old son, Michael, through his first quarter (Plain Bob Minor) at St. Mary's, Peterborough, on October 22nd.

We have had a number of letters sent for publication without the name and address of the sender. These cannot be entertained. The sender's name must be submitted, even if it is not for publication.

Eight-year-old Kevin Lucas started ringing at Orsett, Essex, along with his mother, who scored her first quarter a month ago. Kevin had his first on tower bells on October 29th, but he had already scored several quarters of Minimus "in hand" with his father.

In Stephen Wood's composition of Stedman Caters, reviewed on page 787, there should be an "A" against the bracket. This was in the final proof but was apparently drawn out in the course of printing and not in all the copies printed. Will readers who keep compositions make the necessary correction to their copies.

Possibly the oldest active ringer in Essex is Mr. Arthur Reeves, of Fobbing, who is a very young 95. A complimentary birthday quarter was rung for him at Orsett, in which Harry Smith, the Fobbing captain, took part. Harry is no youngster, as 70 years separates his age from that of the treble ringer, Kevin Lucas (8). Many would like to emulate Arthur Reeves at 95; besides ringing he still tends his own garden and does the "Daily Telegraph" crossword.

BELFRY GOSSIP

DONATED BY JOHN TAYLOR & CO., LOUGHBOROUGH, LEICESTERSHIRE

HUSBAND AND WIFE COLLEGE YOUTHS FOR 50 YEARS

Congratulations to Mrs. F. I. Hairs on her 75th birthday, on October 22nd. Over 50 years ago she became well known for her great skill as a handbell ringer and took part in many outstanding performances with most of the leading handbell ringers of that time. She and her husband, Frank, celebrated their golden wedding last year, when both took part in a handbell peal of Stedman Caters.

This year they both celebrate 50 years' membership of the Ancient Society of College Youths of which Mrs. Hairs is the sole surviving lady member, being one of a very few lady members to be elected before the rules were altered to restrict membership to male members. She and her husband hope to be present at this year's College Youths' dinner on November 4th.

A peal of Yorkshire Surprise Major was rung at Withyham as a birthday compliment, and the members of the band and their supporters were royally entertained to tea afterwards by Mr. and Mrs. Hairs. The peal also provided the opportunity for Frank Hairs to ring his first tower bell peal with his daughter, Olive Barnett, who had rung only one tower bell peal previously. Jean Woolford, Frank's granddaughter, and Teddy Barnett, his son-in-law, also took part.

Mr. and Mrs. Hairs are the mainstay of the ringers at Withyham, where they have gathered together a keen and competent local band. Until recently Mrs. Hairs was Northern District secretary of the Sussex County Association, to which body both she and her husband have devoted a lifetime of loyal service.

SHOULD KENT HAVE MORE DISTRICTS?

The Districts of the Kent County Association have been asked to consider a plan, made some 15 years ago, to increase the number of Districts to nine. Commenting on it in the Maidstone District annual report, the secretary states that the plan has some inaccuracies but is still basically a feasible proposition.

"However, this or any other plan to rearrange the Association's territory is doomed to failure unless individual members are willing to sink their personal and local connections for the ultimate good of the Association as a whole. Some points in favour:

(1) A better coverage of towers. It now takes three to six years to 'get round' the towers with meetings in a District.

(2) More compact areas would shorten some of the extreme distances across Districts and make for better contacts between the towers

(3) More ringers in the county as a whole would bear responsibilities as Ringing Masters, chairmen, secretaries and assistants and representatives.

"Obviously in present arrangements the General Committee is unwieldy. The secretary and chairman would suffice to represent a District Naturally, any such changes would take two or three years to bring about, owing to the alteration of rules and the inauguration of new Districts."

AN ORDINATION CANDIDATE

Mr. W. T. Godfrey, headmaster of Milford-on-Sea C. of E. Primary School for the past 12 years, has been recommended for training for the ministry. He will study at St. Boniface College, Warminster, after Easter, 1968. A keen bellringer, he has held the offices of secretary and vice-chairman of the Christchurch District of the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild.

FELPHAM TWIN RINGER MARRIED

There was a true ringers' wedding at St. Mary the Virgin's Church, Felpham, Sussex, on October 21st, between Mr. David William Struckett, of Steep, Petersfield, and Miss Elizabeth Wilson Smith, of Felpham. The bells were rung before the service by the bridegroom and friends and afterwards by the Felpham band. In the evening a quarter peal was rung at Chichester Cathedral, where the bride frequently rings. A quarter peal was attempted at Felpham on October 22nd and a peal at Felpham on October 26th.

The bride's twin sister, Mrs. Anne Stevens, of Crockerhill, Chichester, was matron of honour, and Miss Cindy Trott was bridesmaid. Mr. Anthony Tyers, of Sunbury, was best man. At the reception a course of Grandsire Caters was rung by the bridegroom and his friends.

The many lovely presents included a dozen sherry glasses and a dozen tumblers from Felpham and Pagham ringers, a Kenwood mixer and accessories from the Steep ringers, a Prestige kitchen tool set from the Hackney ringers and a cheque from Chichester Cathedral ringers.

REAL NEIGHBOURLINESS

The Hereford Diocesan Guild has no ring of 12 bells within the Diocese, and no 12-bell peal had been recorded for the Guild in the 80 years of its existence until October 21st, when a peal of Plain Bob Maximus was rung at St. Chad's, Shrewsbury. The peal was made possible by the kindness of members of the Shropshire Association when late in 1966 they invited six members of the Hereford Diocesan Guild to join six members of the Shropshire Association to attempt a peal early in 1967. This attempt was not successful, but at the second meeting, on October 21st, the peal was rung.

The Hereford Diocesan Guild thanks the Shropshire Association for their co-operation in making this first 12-bell peal possible, and desires to thank the Vicar of St. Chad's for allowing the peal to be rung on the bells of his church.

THE WALK OF THE TEN TOWERS

When the Hertford County Association made its appeal to its six Districts to provide funds to meet the expenses of the Central Council's visit to Hertfordshire in 1969. the Western District decided to concentrate on one event in an effort to raise sufficient money to cover its share. It was considered that this could best be achieved by running a sponsored walk to visit all the towers in the District, i.e. Tring, Northchurch, Berkhamsted, Great Gaddesden, Flamstead. Redbourne, Hemel Hempstead, Apsley, King's Langley and Sarratt.

The date chosen was Saturday, October 7th, and although rain threatened early on the rest of the day was fine and ideal for walking. The course mapped out was from Tring to Sarratt and covered 30 miles. This was not an easy route because soon after the start the walkers took to the canal towpath between Tring Station and Northchurch and this has many hazards A little further on, after leaving Berkhamsted, there was a fairly stiff climb to the common and from Nettleden to Flamstead it was up and down hill all the way. The final lap between King's Langley and Sarratt was the most trying as it was mostly uphill and had to be attempted when any walker reaching King's Langley was already feeling the effects of being on the road for some hours.

The route was well marshalled by members of the District, who also acted as checkers in and provided refreshments at Great Gaddesden, Redbourn and King's Langley. Mrs. J. Rees, of Sarratt, was on duty all day to render first aid where it was needed. Eighteen walkers all ringers except one, started from Tring at 9.15 a.m. and eight finished at Sarratt Church between 5 and 7 p.m. Terry Tricker deserves special mention; he is only 12 years old. Not only did he finish the course but was sponsored for the greatest amount, and his effort alone has brought in £18.

Having totalled up all the sponsor sheets it was found that the proceeds of this walk, together with donations, would be well over £100, and the organiser would like to express his appreciation to all who took part for this united and successful achievement. P. B.

BIGGLESWADE RINGERS AT STOTFOLD

Ringers of the Biggleswade District paid their annual visit to Stotfold on October 14th but unfortunately, for the first time in many years. attendances were low and only 21 people sat down to tea prepared by local ladies in the school. After a very short business meeting the party returned to the church for further ringing under the guidance of Mr. C. Mann and Mr. A. H. Smith. During the evening the numbers increased.

Our thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells and for taking a short service. As a District and an Association we would like to wish him every happiness in his retirement.

THE EXIT JAM

What was the reason for the traffic jam on the A.6 out of St. Albans on Saturday, October 28th? Could it have been the notice in the local paper warning of a peal attempt at the Cathedral that evening, which began:

"Those who dislike the sound of bells will have to leave the city on Saturday . . ."?

The town was very quiet on Sunday morning —perhaps someone ought to give them the "all clear to come back now" signal!!

GUILD of DEVONSHIRE RINGERS

The autumn meeting of the South West Branch was held at Stoke Damerel, Plymouth, on October 14th. Ringing on the six bells (tenor 16 cwt.) was enjoyed during the afternoon under the direction of Mr. D. R. Bould (Ringing Master) and included call changes, Grandsire, Stedman, Plain Bob, Kent and Cambridge. This was followed by a service taken by the Vicar (the Rev. R. C. Luckraft), who spoke about the word "remember" in his address. The organist was Mr. C. A. Phillips, and the lesson was read by Mr. H. H. Thomas, chairman of the Branch.

Tea was then enjoyed in the Parish Hall, followed by the business meeting under the chairmanship of Mr. H. H. Thomas, who moved a comprehensive vote of thanks to all who had contributed to the enjoyment. Reports were given by the secretary on the social evening and on the T. G. Myers Memorial Fund.

New members elected were Messrs. J. and G. Boucher (unattached), J. Drewer (Emmanuel) and A. Frost (Stoke Damerel). The date of the next annual meeting, to be held at Plympton St. Mary, was changed to February 3rd.

Evening ringing was enjoyed at Stoke Damerel and later at St. Andrew's, Plymouth.

MRS. TURNER

St. Mary's, Twickenham, has lost a very valued friend by the death of Mrs. Turner on October 27th. A correspondent writes: "Her welcome was always warm and her patience, when teaching at St. Mary's, wonderful. She was a terrific background worker who seldom received the thanks due. Her experience in ringers' teas was very wide."

A READER'S QUERIES

LT.-COL. JERRAM (Helford, Cornwall) writes to ask two questions—one on the subject of method structure and one on the field of composition. Neither of these comes within the scope and purpose of the current fortnightly feature "Tuition Teasers," which feature, as announced at its inception, is concerned with tuition and practice in "Bell Handling and Control in the Elements of Change Ringing." By "elements" is meant, of course, the fundamentals of change production, i.e. hunting, place-making and the consequential dodging; and not any specific method as such. So the questions are being dealt with separately from that feature, and only the first of Col. Jerram's questions is considered in this article.

In this question he asks: "What is the reason for 'regular' lead-ends, and what are they? To the uninitiated any lead-ends to which one is tied seem to prevent anything new."

The latter part of this question is logically to be answered first, i.e. "What are 'regular' lead-ends?" Here we are right back on the question of what is a "lead-end" anyway? In the issue of "The Ringing World" dated October 13th, two contributions appear on this subject, but seem inconclusive. The plain fact is that while the ordinary ringer in practice, can get along by use of a loosely-held concept of "lead-end" (which concept, dating from the beginnings of change production, is nevertheless unfortunately illogical), yet the ringer whose interest lies in the technology of the matter—i.e. in method structure and in composition—must, and indeed does, recognise the precise meaning and function of lead-head and lead-end. This was once again demonstrated in "The Ringing World" issue of September 8th, 1967, page 637, with figure diagrams. Neither of these diagrams nor the accompanying terminology differs in any way from the Central Council's dicta on the matter. In the recently-published work—"Method Structure in Change Ringing"—the subject is treated at considerable length, and the conclusions reached concur with those of the Central Council's findings.

So we may say that by "regular lead-ends" is meant those rows at the parting of divisions (or "index" rows—see "The Ringing World," page 637), in which rows the bells appear in N.C.O. ("natural coursing order"). In other words, alternate bells are placed as "increasing evens then decreasing odds," or vice versa, according to the mode of hunting. For example, take the Double Norwich index row 13527486 occurring at the parting of the 2nd and 3rd divisions (leads) of its plain course. The first bell coming to lead after the treble is 3, then 2-4-6-8-7-5, giving the cyclic order shown in the diagram. This "regular" order of coursing of the bells is often referred to as producing "Bob Major lead-ends"—a too-restricted title, obviously, since this cyclic order of the bells is found in the index rows of stages other than the Major, and indeed in methods other than Plain Bob. So much for "What are they?"

Coming now to the second part of the original question—"What is the reason for them?" This is, indeed, rather a long story, and, although only a few ringers are aware of this, yet the story is told in detail in a 24-page pamphlet published in 1918 entitled "Lead Ends" by the (late) Rev. C. D. P. Davies, one of the best-known ringers and writers on ringing matters of the earlier part of the present century. In fact the pamphlet satisfies both parts of our present inquiry. He tackles that bugbear of ringing terminology, ambiguity, explaining the meanings of "lead," showing the derivations. He goes on to say:—

"I can fancy that a scientific student approaching the theory of change ringing for the first time would complain of the inexact and puzzling nature of (—our—) terminology, and of its total want of scientific clearness and accuracy. He would be quite justified. The inexact and slipshod application of the terms 'lead" and 'plain lead' is only one instance out of many."

Then he comes to the work of the "Committee on Legitimate Methods," as appointed by the Central Council, and he maintains that they did not formulate their Report (1904) in full and proper manner. Taking the two methods, Grandsire and Plain Bob, and considering the order in which bells come down to lead (the natural coursing order in plain hunting), he points out that the Report is framed in such a way as to infer that all accepted methods should exhibit this coursing order in their plain courses; and that, to quote his italicised words, this inference "is left to slip in" (i.e. into the Report) "unawares." He describes this assumption as "This worthless fad as to the retention of the same coursing order," and as being (wrongly) considered "as not merely a principle of vital importance, but an all-pervading necessity; whereas the real truth is that it matters not one jot or tittle whether we regard it or not."

He continues his conclusions by saying: "There is no special value of any sort or kind in the Plain Bob and Grandsire lead-ends. There are others which are quite and it may be in some respects even more efficient. We need only instance the lead-ends of Union Triples. Certainly Holt had no qualms or hesitation as to their orthodoxy or efficiency."

As to the reason for the (alleged insidious) convention as to "Plain Bob lead-ends" the author says: "The reason for which so many method-builders in the past contrived to give Plain Bob lead-ends to their methods is perfectly clear. Plain Bob lead-ends were at the fingers' ends of every composer, and a new method had far greater chance of general adoption with Plain Bob lead-ends than with any others." He suggests: "Further consideration against the exclusive adoption of Plain Bob and Grandsire lead-ends, that we should thereby be debarred from many other methods of beauty and utility if not already in the present, at least for certain in the future."

The pamphlet is, in the opinion of the present writer, a brilliant exposure of anomaly and contradiction. Although believed to be out of print, yet it could no doubt be borrowed from the Central Council's library. A.Y.-B

OUTINGS

LONGWOOD, YORKSHIRE

8 a.m. Grey rain slanting down the canyon of dark, Satanic mills below St. Mark's and seven of her ringers wondering what was keeping the other three. A quick run over the spine of England, past St. Michael's, Ashton (four genuflected, the rest said "So what?") and out into a sunny Cheshire plain. Despite all attempts by the verger to repulse us with buckets of water we gain Knutsford's six-bell tower. "Where's the clock mechanism?" and then combined O. and K., Cambridge, Little and Norwich. The bells refused London.

11.15. A worried Reverend Doctor at Rostherne complete with dislocated louvre. "Sorry you can't ring" (how true, how true). So on to Ashley for beer. 1 p.m. Sombre Edwardian dignity of the Royal George at Knutsford. Bad choice. Friendly head waiter: first-class food; excellent wine list; reasonable prices.

2.30. Holmes Chapel (6). Friendly welcome. Never ring after such a lunch; but Plain, Oswald, College Exercise and London go well. York—cough—resort to plain course then on to Congleton. Rehung eight rededicated Saturday before. 480 Superlative for a good opener. Then some Treble Bob Major. Bells go well, but did we do them justice?

Final call Gawsworth. Scarlet sun kindling scarlet trees; village pond and slender tower on green mound; ancient hall and harvest potatoes around the font. Ducks quack and bells tinkle merrily to Cambridge Major over the darkening countryside. Idyllic peace; could retire here in another 40 years, and "Brian! Please don't throw young Steve into that pond."

Quick dash back (over 40 miles), into t'Colne Valley—wouldn't have done that 12 months ago, Mrs. Castle. One and a half miles of one in six up narrow cobbled lanes to Cop Mill. Thank you, Edgar, moorland hospitality was always the warmest. Thank you also, incumbents, wardens and tower masters. If your own bands come into the West Riding, don't forget Longwood. I.R.

EASTBOURNE RINGERS IN LONDON

Eastbourne ringers went to London for their outing on October 21st but only one tower was visited for ringing—Ewell—where Mr. Beams once more provided tea. But it was a day to delight ringers, with the morning spent at the Whitechapel Foundry, with Mr. Douglas Hughes explaining the intricacies of bell founding and bell hanging.

After a picnic lunch there was another meeting with Mr. Hughes, when he gave a description and demonstration of the Carter Ringing Machine. A faultless touch of Stedman Triples was rung with the calls being made (at the touch of a button) by Walter Dobbie. Handbells and singing enlivened the journey home, with the last halt at Wadhurst.

LEADING OR MISLEADING

BY EDGAR C. SHEPHERD

THE attitude of the Press to bells and bell ringing is on the whole favourable to the Exercise, and the relations of the newspaper world with ringers are cordial and sympathetic. A survey of the articles on bells appearing in the daily and weekly journals from time to time shows that editors are not unwilling to accept essays on our art provided they are not technical and can present aspects of bell ringing that will interest readers. Because of this we have, for the most part, a high standard of writing and very successful efforts to present to the public even some of the less easily understood features of change ringing. And it is to be remarked that some very interesting informative articles have come from non-ringing journalists, men of acute perception who have clearly exercised great care in observation and caution in presentation. For such work we are grateful, and to such Press activity we can give nothing but high commendation. If we ringers can detach ourselves from our mental environment we may see that the whole subject bristles with difficulties for the layman and surrounds with pitfalls every step he takes into our particular field.

Bell ringing, and particularly change ringing, is cloaked in so much mystery that many a reporter gives up the matter as hopeless, and treats a news item in a brief and uncompromising manner, or else indulges in a levity that suggests that all ringers are freaks, or even plunges in with an inaccuracy amounting to contempt. Most pastimes, it must be admitted, are open to light-hearted treatment. We have all been entertained at times by the gentle fun poked at the golfer, and the tales of fishing and fishermen have long been accepted as legitimate fun. So we, as bell-ringers, cannot hope to escape our share of teasing; indeed, we do enough of it among ourselves, and only the humourless or the self-important among us finds it objectionable. What is undesirable, and to be severely deprecated, is the news item that misleads the public, that is sensational, contemptibly inaccurate, and framed so as to bring the art of ringing into ridicule.

It is in the careless and reckless misuse of bell ringing terms that many reporters offend; and we find trained men who, though never erring in the matter of the technical language of golf or fly-fishing, are quite content to dash off a paragraph or two on the activities of ringers, sometimes in words that are virtually meaningless to the bell ringer and misleading to the general reader. It is a remarkable fact, and one for reflection, that a man who would not for a moment consider reporting a string quartette work played by a cornet will quite gaily and unashamedly talk of Bob Major rung on four tower bells. It is such recklessness that brought about the printing of the ridiculous picture of the four men in the belfry at "Ambridge," a feature that marred the particular issue of that very good joke "The Borchester Echo."

We are all unhappily aware of occasions in the past when a belfry incident, sometimes slight in itself, sometimes of more serious import, has by some means reached the knowledge of an unscrupulous reporter, who has seized on some striking aspect of the matter, has exaggerated its features, and presented the incident in the highly coloured and sensational manner that his particular paper affects. It may be broken braces, it may be a disagreement that has arisen in the tower, it may be some trivality that will soon be forgotten; incautious talk by someone indiscreet has opened the door for the local reporter, and this gentleman's peculiar technique has enabled him to turn the incident to his own profit and bring undesirable notoriety to the church concerned. Oh, how easily we all could fall into the trap!

But many of these matters are, after all, trivial, and may soon be forgotten. What is far more important and more full of menace is the sensational presentation of the belfry mishap. It is undoubtedly right and proper that accidents in the tower should receive full publicity. There are without question dangers attached to the handling of the great machine called a ring of bells, and there is in some places a lack of care both in the work of maintenance and in the introducing of learners to the handling of bells. In consequence there have been accidents, and some of them have been distressingly serious, calling for a full inquiry and complete publicity. But there needs to be discrimination in the use of facts and discretion in reporting, both for the sake of the unfortunate victims of accidents and of the general public.

The recent mishap at Old Hill, when the failure of a stay caused a ringer to be carried up and then swept down unconscious, received in one organ of the sensational press the headline: "Ringer is hurled to the ceiling as Bell Cartwheels." This exaggerated language is of no use to the injured man, nor does it help in any way. A broken stay is a not unknown occurrence, but very rarely does it bring about a serious accident; and it gives no occasion to implant in the minds of incumbents, parents of learners, or the reading public, a belief that such incidents are ever imminent or that the early stages of learning to ring are fraught with grim possibilities. There is no pursuit of any value that is not accompanied by some risk, whether football, cricket, boating, mountaineering, ringing, or, indeed, any activity; and leaders of thought in these matters, first among them the Duke of Edinburgh, urge the value to the development of character in facing certain hazards. But there is no need to shrink from the pursuit of bell ringing because of remote contingencies, no cause for incumbents to move in panic to restrict their bells, and no call to the public to be misled by exuberant, inaccurate, or mischievous reporting.

St. Helen's Church, Wheathampstead, Herts.

By Keith J. Walpole

WHEATHAMPSTEAD, the beautiful little Chiltern Valley village situated five miles north of St. Albans, is surrounded by a wealth of interesting history and is mentioned twice in the Domesday Book of 1086. It was here that a British city was built in the first century B.C. which became the capital of South East England and it was here, in the Devil's Dyke, where Julius Cæsar defeated the British King Cassivellaunus in 54 B.C.

The church, however, is more recent; it was built in the 13th century from the local flint and contains stonework which is recognised as being as good as any in Hertfordshire.

The bells of the church were originally a ring of six bells by Richard Phelps, cast in 1717 with a tenor of 17 cwt. They were recast in 1937 as a glorious six of 14 cwt. by John Taylor of Loughborough, and rehung in a timber frame. One rather unusual feature of the bells is that they are rung from the ground floor in the centre of the church in full view of the congregation. There are no rope guides, at the insistence of the P.C.C. for æsthetic reasons, and in consequence there is an unguided rope draught of 36 feet to the dumb floor. This probably accounts for the very few peals rung on these very fine bells.

Up to 1962 the band was entirely call change, but in 1962 a young band was recruited and they were taught change ringing with considerable success. In 1965 the tower suffered a setback when four Surprise ringers left in the space of a few months. However, four more learners were immediately recruited and are now developing into a useful band with a great interest in District ringing affairs.

OFFICERS' BADGES

Gifts to Gloucester and Bristol

Two valuable presentations were made at the October committee meeting of the Gloucester and Bristol Association. The first was for the chairman (Miss E. M. Bliss) and was presented by Mr. P. L. Pearce in gratitude for all the pleasure his father and uncle derived from ringing during their lives, which dated back to 1886, covering a long period of the early years of the Association.

Miss Bliss, who presided, then presented a similar badge for the use of the Ringing Master. Mr. H. Warmington, a Cotswold craftsman of Chipping Campden, was commissioned to produce a design, which was approved, and he executed the work in silver These works of art will be worn by the respective officers during the coming years.

The meeting, which lasted four hours and was the longest on record during the 89 years of the Association, made two grants of £75— to Randwick, where there is to be an augmentation from four to six, and to Winchcombe, where an estimate for £2,000 had been received for work on the bells, which includes recasting the treble and a new frame and fittings.

The Cheltenham course was such a success that it is to be repeated in 1969, if possible at the same venue. During the interim one-day courses on theory are to be held in different parts of the area during 1968, the first, if possible, before Easter. Other matters which found favour were a striking competition and dinner during 1968. For the striking competition there will be Branch contests first. It was noted with pleasure that for the Cheltenham course a number of P.C.C.'s paid all or part of the cost to enable a ringer from their towers to attend. This was the outcome of advertising the course to all P.C.C.'s in the Association's area.

Alterations to the annual report were discussed and it is hoped in future to publish all compositions of general interest. Old reports between the years 1888 to 1939 are needed by the hon. secretary to complete a set for the use of the officers.

Reference was made in opening to the loss by death of Mr. John Hope, of Siddington, a vice-president who had given many years of service.

150th Peal in Epsom Church

After more than three years of abortive planning, the long-awaited opportunity for a local band to ring the 150th peal on the bells presented itself with little notice on the occasion of the wedding of the daughter of the Mayor of Epsom and Ewell. Unfortunately some of the band were away on a ringing weekend in Somerset so that only six ringers could be mustered and they duly scored the first peal of Minor on the bells, the band including two first pealers.

Not until afterwards was it realised that only five were members of the Surrey Association and only five were members of the Guildford Guild, so the peal has to be recorded as Non-Association. Perhaps this is only fair for a tower which is a keen supporter of both bodies. Another interesting point is that all the ringers except the third learned to ring at the tower.

The first peal was rung on the bells on July 31st, 1890, following their dedication. The 50th came on February 19th, 1912, the 100th on May 5th, 1926, and 41 years elapsed before the third fifty was completed. The tally includes the longest length for the Surrey Association, being 10,400 Double Norwich, composed and conducted by Charles Kippin, and rung on Easter Monday, 1926.

The methods rung are: Grandsire Triples 47, Stedman Triples 21, Plain Bob Major 21, Kent T.B. Major 18, Double Norwich C.B.M. 14, Superlative S. Major 9, Cambridge S. Major 5, Oxford Bob Triples 3, London S. Major 2, Bristol S. Major 2, Yorkshire S. Major 2, Union Triples 1, Darlaston Bob Triples 1, Oxford T.B. Major 1, Ipswich S. Major 1, Spliced Surprise Major 1, Plain Bob Minor 1.

For the following bodies: Surrey Association 111, Guildford Diocesan Guild 10, Middlesex C.A. 8, A.S.C.Y. 5, Winchester D.G. 5, Waterloo Society 3, Universities Association 3, Sussex C.A. 1, London C.A. 1, S.R.C.Y. 1, Non-Association 2.

The tower records were compiled by the late Frank Oakshott, who was enabled to complete them with the co-operation of Canon Felstead's records.

OVERSEAS NEWS

ENGLISH GIRL'S THREE MONTHS IN CANADA

Miss Pamela E. J. Sturdy is now back in Cheltenham after three months in Canada. While there she took part in a quarter peal in Vancouver, the first the 30 years and not the first ever, as stated on page 778.

She was pleased to find active ringing at four Canadian towers. Here are her impressions:—

CALGARY, Christ Church (8) delightful sounding, light, easy-going bells. Shortage of experienced ringers prevents much change ringing, but they practise Mondays at 7.30 and ring at 10.30 a.m. on Sundays.

VANCOUVER, Holy Rosary R.C. Cathedral (8). Bells on 50-year-old plain bearings but very good going and not too bad in sound. Here they have a strong and experienced band (remember the film "Ringers Required"?) and ring several methods, including Minor.

MISSION CITY, Westminster Abbey (10). This is a monastery high among the mountains about 40 miles from Vancouver, and the bells are in a most beautiful tall white tower, which is visible for miles around. The view from the top is stupendous. The Vancouver ringers instructed the monks originally, and the monks ring regularly and teach some of the boys in their seminary.

VICTORIA B.C., Cathedral (8), a replica of the bells in Westminster Abbey, England. The band here has recently been depleted by the departure of three of the Izard family to Vancouver, but more learners are coming along and a variety of methods are rung. They ring at the same times as at Vancouver—10.30 a.m. on Sundays and 7.30 p.m. on Tuesdays.

"It is much to the credit of local ringers that the bells at all these towers are rung regularly. They have no Branch meetings to stimulate enthusiasm or nearby towers to help them out. (Vancouver is, by road, 17 hours' journey from Calgary, three from Victoria and one from Mission City.) Visitors from England are always very welcome and can do much to help and stimulate morale. I wonder how many ex-ringers have emigrated there from England and just do not know there are "English pealing bells" in their city.

"The only other tower reputed to have ringable bells is in Quebec (8). I met someone who had rung there a few years ago with an incomplete band, and I do not know if there is any activity there now."

CUCKFIELD, SUSSEX. — On Nov. 2nd, 1,280 Yorkshire Surprise Major: S. Upton 1, Peggy E. Smith 2, Caroline Mackie 3, M. S. Loveday 4, R. I. Vaughan 5, R. H. Newton 6, D. L. Nibbs 7, R. V. Johnson (cond.) 8. First in method 1, 2, 3, 7.

DEREHAM, NORFOLK. — On Nov. 3rd, 1,260 Minor (Cambridge and Plain Bob), tenor covering: Valerie Gilmour (first quarter) 1, D. G. Adams 2, P. C. Palmer (first of Minor) 3, S. Marshall 4, K. S. Hobl 5, G. P. Adams (cond.) 6, G. T. Bunning 7.

A LIGHT EIGHT FOR U.S.A.

Dear Sir,—Information reached me from Washington, via Miss Alice Shurcliffe, in August, that Smith's College, Northampton, U.S.A., have ordered a ring of eight bells. The small tower in which they will be hung is already completed and the bells are expected to be in operation by May, 1968. Anticipating that the bells would be "English," this was "hot news," and I thought must surely be in the next issue of "The Ringing World." As the weeks pass with no announcement from our bellfounders, I am wondering if you, sir, have any knowledge of this ring.

Miss Rhoda Miccoci, first president of the Whitechapel Guild, N.C.S., Washington, is now at "Smith's" and there can be little doubt that she has been assisting this project, which all English ringers hoped would follow the interest created at the Cathedral in Washington.—Yours faithfully,

FRED PRICE.

Bournemouth.

Note.—We learn from Messrs. Mears and Stainbank that they are making this ring of eight with a tenor of 8¼ cwt. in A.

50 YEARS IN A LINCOLNSHIRE TOWER

The 70th birthday of Mr. Charles Wilkinson, who has been a service ringer at Folkingham, Lincs, for over 50 years, was not allowed to pass unnoticed. A peal of Minor in seven methods with Mr. Wilkinson on the treble was rung and, after the peal, he entertained the band and a few old friends to a sumptuous tea.

COLLEGE YOUTHS BACK IN THE CITY

Record Post-War Gathering at 330th Anniversary

A MASTERLY address was given by Mr. A. J. Frost at the 330th anniversary dinner of the Ancient Society of College Youths at Wallbrook Restaurant, London, on November 4th, when from the chair he proposed the toast of "The Church." He made an appeal in this age of change for flexibility in outlook, particularly in ringing matters and organisation. He also expressed the hope that with new broadcasting channels better opportunities would be afforded for public education and enjoyment of bell music.

The return of the College Youths to the City of London was marked by a record attendance for post-war years. Waitresses in white gloves served a delicious dinner and there were toasts giving that due respect to veteran members. Mr. George E. Symonds, who joined the Society in 1898, was sole representative of the over 60 years' membership group. But the 50 years' or more were honoured by the presence of Mr. and Mrs. F. I. Hairs—Mrs. Hairs being the only surviving lady member of the Society. Others present in this category were Messrs. W. J. Rawlings (1914), A. F. York-Bramble (1914) and W. Hibbert (1916).

Behind this mammoth gathering were the hallmarks of perfect organisation. Mr. J. G. A. Prior proved his worth as an efficient secretary to a long line of experienced holders of the office. The treasurer, Mr. C. G. J. Watts, was toastmaster. Canon Gilbert Thurlow, president of the Central Council, whose name is in a Society's peal book of pre-war vintage, spoke of the thrill of history as applied to the Ancient Society. "A nation which forgets its past or ceases to be grateful to those who have built it up has indeed lost its soul," he said.

The toast of "The Queen" was submitted by the Master.

The Master proposed the toast of "The Church" and in coupling with it the name of the Provost of Southwark commented that between 1955 and 1960 five out of six speakers were from Southwark Cathedral, whereas from 1961 to 1966 five were from the Diocese of London. It was therefore with the greatest of pleasure that they were able to reaffirm their long-standing link with South Bank.

WINDS OF CHANGE

During the last 12 years or so the winds of change had blown, not only through their Society, resulting for instance in a new set of rules, but also through Southwark and through the whole of Christendom. In the nave at Southwark had been introduced rubber kneelers, and the fine craftsmanship of past centuries acknowledged by regilding some of the splendid tombs and monuments. To digress, perhaps the finest work of this kind was at Westminster Abbey, where one obtained some idea of the blaze of colour that shone through their mediæval churches. At Southwark the past had been brought back to life by the presentation of Son et Lumière in recent years.

"But the real changes have been the result of an increasing awareness of the Cathedral as an integral part of the modern community in which it is set. . . Finally there is the face-lift at present being undertaken, stripping off the grime of centuries to enable us to take a fresh look at the Cathedral and what it stands for."

The Master instanced some of the change in the Church from Convocation to the smallest village parish, with services becoming more flexible. In ringing they could adopt a much more flexible approach to utilise their resources to the best effect. "The concept of the local ringer faithful only to his own church has long been cherished, and were all towers fully manned this would be ideal. But we all know of many silent towers, and of neighbouring struggling bands, each making feeble if sincere efforts Sunday by Sunday, whereas more worthy ringing could be achieved possibly by pooling resources and ringing changes, so to speak, on towers as well as on the bells. This system has, of course, been adopted in London for many years and in several other cities, but with increasing mobility of ringers it might well be of benefit also to country areas.

MORE FLEXIBILITY

There is also room for more flexibility in change ringing itself! The use of singles in new contexts has broadened the scope for composers, but wide fields remain to be explored, especially in 10-and 12-bell compositions. It will be interesting to see the results of the competition for a new principle. Will it ever displace Stedman in popularity? If the future is any guide, the chances seem remote.

MR. A. J. FROST

There is a continuing process of drawing together the different parts into which the Church has been divided; similarly we have seen quite recently the acceptance of call change ringers within the Central Council, yet there is still much wasted effort and dilution of purpose by overlapping District Associations. Only two years ago the Master from that chair, recollecting new rings in the City, doubted whether the bells of St. Dunstan-in-the-East would ever be heard, yet since then they have been tested and rung for several Church festivals. One never knows, but a certain "tenor king" may even yet one day manage a ring at a well-known Abbey before he grows too old to climb the stairs.

Ringing to most people remains one of the most mysterious arts in the land—even, in fact, to some ringers. A vast amount remained to be done in the field of communication between ourselves. We read of a peal rung and composed by, say, Charlie Roberts—but what else does that mean to us? It would probably be any one of 100 compositions. Other musical composers have their works precisely classified, either by "opus" numbers or, in the case of Church canticles, by such terms as "Darke in F." We really ought to try to index all compositions accurately, even though it might be difficult to ascribe, say, a peal of Cambridge Maximus to "Border in E flat."

"I am concerned that the public at large, although perhaps by now vaguely aware of ropes and wheels and bells swinging in our towers, knows terribly little about our art. We read absurdities in the national Press, such as the news last week, which stated: '. . . a bellringer was catapulted 20 feet in the air, hitting his head on a 15 cwt. bell when the safety rope snapped.' There is surely a wide gap in our public relations when even the Lord Mayor of London in conversation after a peal we had just rung in honour of his election to office, confessed he thought all the City bells were electronically operated!

BROADCASTING DEFICIENCIES

"We understand that the Broadcasting and Television Committee of the Central Council is pressing for the tower captain's name to be included with the organist when bells are broadcast prior to a service, but it is surely time that campanology was recognised as an art in itself, to the glory of God, and not merely as an adjunct to be squeezed in if possible or as a tuning signal. Why, for instance, should there not be information in the 'Radio Times' of the recordings played every Sunday morning?

"With the advent of a new radio channel many specialist types are now catered for. It should be possible, one would hope, to arrange regular programmes of bellringing perhaps on Radio 3 rather than Radio 1, in which not merely snippets would be broadcast, but such things as, say, four courses of Stedman Cinques or touches of Spliced Surprise Major! No one would dream of presenting ten bars or so out of the middle of a Bach Toccata or Fugue, but this sort of mutilation is often applied to ringing when broadcast.

"A recital was given on Radio 3 last week for Shawn, Crumhorn, Sackbut and Rebec. Now I do not know if there are numerous clandestine meetings for the followers of the Early Spanish secular music of the Early Renaissance, but I am convinced that there are more bellringers in this country than instrumentalists of the Shawn, Crumhorn, Sackbut and Rebec!"

The Provost of Southwark (the Very Rev. S. W. Southcott), who said he was born the other side of the Rockies, replied. He asked "What has bellringing to say to the Church and perhaps the world? If I am right, it seems one rings bells primarily so that people not inside the Church can hear them more and more in these days. William Temple once said 'The Church is the only organisation in the world for non-members,' and as long as bells are rung it is proclaiming the Gospel to all men. We are not responsible to see that everyone gets to the Communion rails but to see that everyone gets an invitation, and the bells ringing reminds them that we are not an exclusive lot of cranks but inclusive for the love of God."

THRILL OF HISTORY

The president of the Central Council (Canon Gilbert Thurlow) proposed the toast of "The Ancient Society of College Youths." He said: "Belonging to an ancient society brings one the thrill of history. A nation which forgets its past or ceases to be grateful to those who have built it up has indeed lost its soul. The history of this Society means so much to us all. It has built up such a record of facts discovered as to the possibilities of composing, conducting, ringing, etc., and such a record of great and famous names."

Congratulating Past Master Bill Cook on the production of the recent book, "The Ancient Society of College Youths," Canon Thurlow said he was so modest as apparently to exclude his name. Bill would be the first to say "Well, I got so much of it from Armiger Trollope's tercentenary history, published in 1937." That might be so, but anyhow Bill had done a grand job, as had the others whose work had contributed to the recent publication.

The Canon said he noted from Bill's history that the junior branch of the College Youths came to Norwich in the 1780's and there acquired Stedman Cinques and brought back that blessing to London, where it had been appreciated so much ever since. Armiger Trollope must have felt as proud of that as he did.

A personal memory of the speaker was meeting Edward Duffield when he was Master in St. Paul's ringing chamber on January 8th, 1935. He (the Canon) was then a very new boy and it was a revelation to see what a 62 cwt. tenor could do in the way of Cambridge Maximus under the Master's management. This had a most welcome sequel recently, when Mr. Duffield presided as Mayor of Colchester over their oyster feast and they invited him to propose his health. The menu for the feast was as imposing as the feast itself, incorporating bells and ringing as the central feature of the cover design, whilst the personalities pictured on it included Colchester's patron saint, Helena, by a topical misprint described as the founder (not finder) of the true Cross (Colchester).

Another personal recall by the Canon was "four grand hours" he spent with the secretary in the Bow steeple on April 10th, 1937, ringing the only peal of Maximus on its new 12, whose life was to be so short. Seeing their secretary on the 11th and Jack Waugh on the tenor was a lifetime's memory.

BLENDING YOUNG WITH OLD

"It's splendid having both young and old together in the Society. You'll have learned from reading its history what harm can come when young and old fall out. Of course you are all on your guard against this. It can happen at any time in any Society, for the very good reason that whilst the young have their ideals together with the knowledge that their ideals can put the world to rights, the old also have their ideals together with the knowledge that the world being as stupid as it is, it just won't let the idealists put it right. So long as we all learn this in youth and remember it in age, we are on our guard. It's the same in the Church. The bright young clergy know exactly how to put the world right. They can't think why the old bishops are so square as not to see it also. The bishops have their ideals also, but they face a world as stupid as the world we face.

"They must do their job as intelligent, convinced, sober yet enthusiastic Christians, and in this their great Society had its very particular share, whether it is proclaimed over Parliament Square or the South Bank, or Guildhall, or the City's Mother Church, or from the many other churches so intimately bound up with their corporate life. Long may it continue to make the divine proclamation. Long may it preserve the health which I now ask you all to rise and drink."

The secretary prefaced his reply with a reference to the change of venue and said some of them felt that from now on the anniversary dinners should always be held in the City. Because of the need to make bookings well in advance, a provisional booking had already been made to hold the 331st anniversary dinner here on November 2nd. Their move to the City had been fully justified with an attendance of 237—a post-war record and, the tercentenary dinner apart, it might be an all-time record.

Apologies for absence were received from the Very Rev. Martin Sullivan (Dean of St. Paul's), the Rev. J. F. D. Trimingham, the Rev. E. L. Rogers, Mr. Vernon Bottomley (secretary of the Central Council), Messrs. R. W. Piron, A. H. Smith, G. H. Harding, William Shepherd, M. C. Faulkes, C. Hervey Bagot, Harry Miles, Frank Hansford, Henry Hodgetts and Bill Coles. All sent their best wishes for a successful evening.

LOSSES BY DEATH

The company stood as the deaths of the following 15 members were announced:—George W. Faulkner, Barking (joined 1899); John H. Gartside, Chorley (1947); Alfred J. Bull, Horley (1926); John Worth, Macclesfield (1945); Thomas G. Myers, Plymouth (1938); John W. Price, Clay Cross (1959); Frank Barraclough, Manchester (1950); Harold A Roles, Salisbury (1945); John Hope, Fairford (1930); James W. Chapman, Streatham (1902); Frederick A. Finch, Ealing (1946); Harry Bennett, Bristol (1931); R. O. Street, Bournemouth (1911); A. Percival Knights, Sheffield (1938); Harry Parker, Cheshire (1936).

NEW MEMBERS

Since the last dinner the following 35 members had been elected:— P. S. Woods, Blackburn; J. S. N. Porter, Bangor, N. Ireland; Douglas Hughes, Whitechapel Bell Foundry; P. A. Brand, Sunbury-on-Thames; F. Sandy, Yeovil; Rev. C. J. B. Marshall, Long Sutton, Somerset; R. P. Selway, Yeovil; H. D. W. Bishop, Evershot, Dorset; D. Rothera, London; P. Muchlinski, Maidstone; M. Faulkes, London; J. S. Croft, Southampton; R. Peers, Bromborough; A. P. Foster, Oxton; D. Peers, Bromborough; T. M. Fitzgerald, Great Crosby; G. W. Shanks, London; G. W. Randall, Warwick; R. A. Spencer, Church Warsop; K. Warner, London; T. Tarbatt, Skelmansthorpe, Yorks; T. Wylie, Baslow, Derbys; J. G. Mitchell, Kettering; S. Rowe, London; I. Dear, Enfield; E. J. Hutchby, Bulwell, Notts; A. J. Slade, Cheshunt; P. G. Williams, Linslade; R. C. Christopher, Thatcham; J. K. Smith, Burton-on-Trent; E. J. Sterland, Alfreton; J. R. Pratt, London; P. J. Heritage, Wolvercote; N. Thomson, Wallington; R. Mills, Ashtead.

PEALS

Since the last dinner there is recorded a total of 33 peals: Stedman Doubles 1, seven Surprise Minor 1, Stedman Triples 1, Bristol Surprise Major 3, four spliced Surprise Major 1, eight spliced Surprise Major 1, five spliced Surprise Major 1, Stedman Caters 2, Cambridge Royal 3, London Royal 3, Stedman Cinques 8, Grandsire Cinques 1, Yorkshire Maximus 3, Prittlewell Maximus 1, Pudsey Maximus 1, Cambridge Maximus 2.

The peal of Grandsire Cinques was rung at Cirencester on January 7th by invitation of the Cirencester ringers to commemorate the 200th anniversary of the first peal on the bells, also Grandsire Cinques, which was rung by the Society on January 17th, 1767, and which was also the first 12-bell peal to be rung outside London. Before the commemorative peal the band were entertained to lunch by the Cirencester ringers. A peal of Stedman Cinques on April 1st at St. Michael's, Cornhill, was rung for the wedding of the daughter of the Rector, their very good friend the Rev. Norman Motley. Another peal of Stedman Cinques at St. Chad's, Shrewsbury, was rung for the 175th anniversary of the dedication of the church. John Chilcott produced a special length of 5,715, which he conducted, and the members of the band were all associated with St. Paul's Cathedral.

On September 23rd a peal of Cambridge Maximus, conducted by the Master, was rung at Newcastle Cathedral to mark the 90th anniversary of the Durham and Newcastle Association. Most of the band travelled from London for this peal.

"In May we had an enjoyable and highly successful meeting in Northamptonshire, with ringing at Daventry, Northampton and Kettering. To Pat Chapman, who did the work, we would like to say thank you again for arranging such a splendid day. It was probable that their next out-of-town meeting would be in Kent.

PERSONAL CONGRATULATIONS

"Older members will remember the distinguished service that Mr. E. P. Duffield rendered the Society in his two years as Master in 1934 and 1935 and it was with the greatest possible pleasure that we learned of his election earlier this year as Mayor of Colchester.

"It is not often that we are able to congratulate a member on his diamond wedding but we had the privilege of doing so earlier this year. I refer, of course, to our senior member, George Symonds, who in February next year will have been a member of the Society for 70 years.

"Last year I mentioned the golden wedding of Frank and Elsie Hairs and reported that they hoped to be present tonight. We are delighted that they have been able to come and so celebrate their 50 years' membership of the Society Only nine ladies were ever elected members of the Society and Mrs. Hairs is now the only one.

A FORMER MASTER AND LORD MAYOR

"Through the vigilance of Douglas Hughes and Teddy Barnett, who brought the matter to notice, we are at present trying to ensure that a memorial to a former Master of the Society is preserved. Sir Henry Tulse was Lord Mayor of London in 1684 and during his Mayoralty he was also Master of the Society. He was buried in a vault in the churchyard of St. Dionis, Backchurch. The church was demolished many years ago but the churchyard remains. In our tercentenary year the memorial tablet over Sir Henry's tomb was restored by the Society and a commemorative plaque was affixed. Now the churchyard is to go because of property development. The human remains are to be interred elsewhere and we now await the outcome of the representations we have made. It would be a great pity if this memorial to a past Master and former Lord Mayor were to be destroyed."

A touch of Stedman Cinques was then rung by W. T. Cook 1–2, W. Williams 3–4, M. V. Chilcott 5–6, J. E. Chilcott (cond.) 7–8, P. A. F. Chalk 9–10, M. P. Moreton 11–12.

The junior steward, Mr. Andrew Stubbs, proposed "The Guests," to which the Rev. C. D. Harbord (Rector of St. Botolph's Without, Aldgate) and Mr. Basil Jones, of the Chester Diocesan Guild, replied.

The concluding toast, "The Memory of the Masters of 300, 200, and 100 Years Ago," was submitted by the Master.

Edward Cooke, who was elected in 1667, joined the Society in 1659. The year 1667 saw the publication of "Tintinnalogia," the first book on change ringing, written by the Rev. Richard Duckworth, and seen through the press by Fabian Stedman. They had no record of the Master elected in 1767, but in November, 1867, George Mash was re-elected Master for a second year. He died in 1893, aged 53. Like his father, James, before him, he was steeplekeeper at what was then known as St. Saviour's, Southwark, a job he carried on for 30 years. During his life he rang 85 peals.

Letters to the Editor

BROKEN STAYS AND SAFETY

Dear Sir,—After hearing accounts of the Worcestershire bellringer's accident in which the stay of his bell broke (he was hauled upwards by the 15 cwt. bell and hit his head on the roof of the ringing chamber), I am amazed that this sort of accident does not occur more often. For in how many towers are there warning notices to the effect that a ringer should "let go of his rope if he/she suspects the slightest danger." or how many tower captains and instructors impress upon beginners not to let go of the rope as this may interfere with the other ringers and cause an accident? Is it not reasonable to say that not even an infinite number of such minor accidents are equivalent to one ringer's life?

Therefore may I suggest two possible solutions to the problem which are based on the idea that, on being pulled upwards, you would release the rope when your hands reach the roof above you. In some towers the draught is so great that to fall from the ceiling of the ringing chamber is equivalent to jumping off the top of a double-decker bus—a height of about 16 feet So, one possible safeguard is to lower the ceiling, i.e. either (1) to create another chamber between the ringers and the bells at a height of, say, eight feet above the floor of the ringing chamber, or (2) to install rope guides at a similar height. Point (1) has the added advantage that the new chamber could be used for storing ropes, etc.

Admittedly the breaking of a stay does not happen very often, thanks to fine craftsmanship, but the possibility does exist and it is no use our saying "It will never happen to me." —Yours sincerely,

IAN A. ROSS.

Headington, Oxford.

Dear Sir,—Having had considerable experience of broken stays, I am beginning to think that to let stays break is a mug's game. Why not arrange for the sliders to break instead? They could be made of very flimsy material and there would be no necessity to have them of a particular size in order for them to fit a socket, as is required with stays. Here in Durban the two rings of bells are unfortunately fitted with Hastings stays, but I am thinking of trying out a slider arrangement which goes round with the bell, against a fixed stop.

Have any readers experimented along these lines?—Yours faithfully,

CYRIL CHAMBERS.

Durban, S.A.

DOUBLE SURPRISE MAJOR METHODS

Dear Sir,—May I express my appreciation of Mr. W. J. Cooper Bailey's survey of the Double Surprise Major methods? I have long been interested in this group and have by the hard way discovered all the methods in his list; no doubt others have done the same. Some of the methods contain features which render them poor for ringing and so were rejected, while others have excessive falseness.

One is never quite confident when doing involved paper work of this sort that no arrangement has been overlooked, and it is therefore satisfying to have this absolute proof, even if the computer thereby leaves nothing more to be discovered.

Is it not strange that such an orthodox method as No. 23 on Mr. Bailey's list has not previously been published or rung?—Yours faithfully,

T. G. HAWKINS.

Westminster, S.W

PETERBOROUGH GUILD MEMBERSHIP

Dear Sir,—In reply to Messrs. W. A. Stote and F. Kirk. When the Guild was formed, in January, 1924, all non-resident members of Associations forming the Guild were incorporated as non-resident members of the Guild. The first annual report of the Guild contains this list of members, of whom about ten are still alive as far as I know, viz.: Miss E. Steel, Messrs. E. P. Duffield, H. W. Gayton, P. Inskip, W. Jacques, A. N. Wood, A. W. Sharman, A. Mason, Mrs. Richardson and Mr. S. W. Hoare.

I would say the oldest membership of these would be Miss Steel, Messrs. A. W. Wood and H. W. Gayton. Miss Steel was ringing peals around here with Mr. Walter Perkins before the 1914–18 war.

I, too, have taken "The Ringing World" from the first issue and I agree with Mr. G. Harding's sentiments in the current issue—"Better than ever."—Yours sincerely,

ROBERT G. BLACK.

Geddington, Kettering.

Dear Sir,—I was elected a non-resident member of the Peterborough and District Association (one of those forming the Guild) on August 13th, 1919, the occasion being a handbell peal of Grandsire Triples, conducted by A. H. Pulling.

I support F. Kirk in his surmise regarding Mr. S. H. Hoare's membership.—Yours faithfully,

W. AYRE.

Leverstock Green.

Dear Sir,—In your issue of November 3rd I see my old friend, F. Kirk, is kind enough to mention me as a candidate for long non-resident membership. I was made a resident member in 1914. I left the District in 1915 and have lived in Watford since 1921. I am not sure whether I was made non-resident in 1915 or whether war service retained me as resident member until 1919.—Yours faithfully,

S. H. HOARE.

Watford, Herts.

KEGWORTH SURPRISE ROYAL

Dear Sir,—I expected there might be some correspondence concerning Kegworth Surprise Royal—if the censors allow it—but I must say Mr. Mayne's letter disappoints me. It is offensive and contains no argument.

As far as I can remember, the figures of the method as submitted to "The Ringing World," were preceded by the little letter "f," which will fill one gap in Mr. Mayne's knowledge.

The method we rang as Kegworth has, so far as I know, never been previously published as Leatherhead or anything else, so we cannot be accused of changing an established name—a practice not altogether unknown.

I would argue that Kegworth Surprise Royal is a perfectly good extension of Leatherhead Surprise Major—so what? There is no rule that an extension be named after its parent; if there were we would soon be in a ludicrous situation when there is more than one legitimate extension.

So far as I can see there are two basic rules:—

(1) The band which first rings a method to a peal has the right to name it.

(ii) Methods shall not be named as extensions unless they comply with the 1953 report on the subject.—

Yours sincerely,

Rugby. RICHARD SPEED.

KENT'S PEAL RINGING

Dear Sir,—I read with interest the feature concerning Kent's 1967 Dinner, but I feel I must make a comment over one issue. Mr. J. G. A. Prior, secretary of the Ancient Society, was reported to have said that the Kent Association was one to be proud of, with a notable record in the realms of peal ringing, etc.

I am however, right in thinking that a notable record in the realms of peal ringing belongs not to the Kent County Association but to a very small group of dedicated peal ringers whose ringing is completely unrepresentative of the general ringing in the Association

I know that Mr. Prior was praising these achievements but I feel that the praise was a little bit too high and misrepresentative, unless he is too naive to assume that first-class ringing exists all over Kent.—Yours faithfully,

DEREK J. CARR.

Eliot College, Canterbury.

Note.—The 1956 report gives 44 different conductors and 40 people rang their first peal, of whom ten lived in the Canterbury District. Both figures suggest that peal ringing is not confined to the few.—Ed.

BAD RECEPTION TOWERS

Dear Sir,—In my six years as a ringer I have always been made welcome at practices and meetings in other towers. Perhaps I have been lucky in my choice of towers.

The past two issues of "The Ringing World" have contained letters from Messrs. Abbott and Beavis complaining about the bad reception they have received at various towers. Unfortunately they use circumlocutions, such as "one well-known London tower" instead of naming the tower concerned. It would be a help to all of us if the names of such towers were printed in "The Ringing World"—it would save time and money and avoid embarrassing situations.

Publication could also have a deterrent effect on those who fail to practise the hospitality which is usually extended to visiting ringers We should remember that many of the ringers at "exclusive" towers are only too eager to ring peals and attend practices at other towers. Let us bring the subject into the open.—Yours sincerely,

KEITH LEWIN.

Lancaster.

ST. SIMON'S BOB

Dear Sir,—I am surprised that no one has written regarding the name of the method rung at St. John the Baptist's, Windsor, on September 2nd ("Ringing World," September 29th, page 702).

St. Clement's College Bob is usually confined to even numbers; when rung on odd numbers the accepted name for the method is St. Simon's Bob. (Ringers' Diary preface.) —Yours faithfully,

ALAN R. BRIDGES.

Ipswich.

THE RECRUITING LITERATURE

Dear Sir,—Oh yes, there is a recruiting leaflet from the glorious Central Council, but what a lot of use it is. We, the Selby Abbey ringers, obtained a number of these leaflets and put them in all the senior schools in places where they could easily be seen. The result, not even one inquiry. Why? Just take one good look at it—it is the most off-putting piece of literature I have ever seen.—Yours sincerely,

D. J. SWANN.

Ringers' Views on Cathedral Evensong

Dear Sir,—One cannot really disagree with a word of Canon Thurlow's letter in "The Ringing World" of October 27th, but I think it does reveal a blind spot in the understanding of other people, which is probably common to most of us but which is especially noticeable and especially regrettable among the clergy.

Although not present at Durham, I feel qualified to express an opinion on this subject as a ringer and choral singer of roughly equal ability (Surprise Major in both), but without any special pretensions in either.

No one would deny the beauty of singing in many English cathedrals. It is very fitting that the Choir Offices should be sung as perfectly as can be achieved by human effort, and I am sure many people would derive both pleasure and inspiration from listening to them, just as one does from a performance of Bach's "Christmas Oratorio" or Handel's "Messiah."

The trouble is that when one goes to a cathedral service the occupants of the nave, although frequently cut off by a screen from the "Choir," are not expected to behave as an "audience." They are expected to stand and sit just as though they were a congregation in a parish church, and to stand mutely during the singing of psalms and canticles holding books which, with only the words in them, are of very little more use, even to the musicians present, than would be a libretto only to an audience hoping to join in the performance of an opera.

With music, as with ringing and many other pursuits, the greatest pleasure is derived by the participants and they are often loftily uncaring of the effect on casual listeners.

Why are the cathedrals not packed with audiences eager to hear the heights to which music can be raised to the glory of God? Concert halls are frequently full to hear performances inferior to those available any Sunday. If the cathedrals did away with the pretence that the congregation are any more than an audience, so that one was no longer expected to stand up and feel incredibly foolish and frustrated but was allowed to sit back and listen, and meditate at leisure, it would be a pleasure to attend the performance of the "Opus Dei" and would probably do more towards spreading the Gospel. One or two congregational hymns just to keep one warm would do no harm but would no longer be the high spot of one's visit.

I think the analogy with ringing does not altogether hold water. If all present were expected to stand with arms aloft clutching (but not of course pulling) bell ropes while the bells were actually rung by a small select band one could agree with Canon Thurlow's every word.—Yours sincerely,

GEORGE FUTERS (Dr.).

West Hallam, Derby.

Dear Sir,—I am sure that Durham Cathedral choir will be duly grateful to Mr. Cattermole for springing so readily to their defence, especially as he was probably not present at the service. ("Letters to the Editor," page 794.)

I do not normally find cathedral singing in any way difficult to follow, indeed when I have attended Bristol, Manchester, York or Ripon Cathedrals, to name a few, I have been delighted to hear the singing. I could hear all the words of the service, including the anthem.

I regularly attend concerts to be entertained, but I do not attend ringers' services to be entertained to a nearly wordless concert performance of Evensong, as was the case at Durham, but to participate.

Perhaps if Mr. Cattermole had read my letter a little more carefully he would have realised that the theme was "participation," not "do away with all cathedral choirs."

The size of congregations at Saturday and Sunday Evensong is in reality no yardstick. Many of these people go with the main intention of hearing the choir, and in fact the greater part of any congregation are unable to sing. This last statement can be verified by attending nearly any parish church service. Anyone taking umbrage at this last statement please note that I said "nearly any." This is clearly the reason for Mr. Cattermole's "many people are able to take their part without feeling upset that they are not intended to sing."

In closing, I would like to say that quite a number of people who did attend the service have told me that they agreed with my first letter but would not like to say so publicly.—Yours sincerely,

JAMES A. BURTON.

WRONG NAMES GIVEN IN DOUBLES PEALS

Dear Sir,—Scanning several recent issues of "The Ringing World," I would say Messrs. Jones, Dodd and several others have created a right old mess with Doubles ringing. What with publishing those which do not produce a true extent and giving others different names, I can well understand how peals like that referred to by Mr. Colin Lewis (October 6th issue) have come about.

But my objection is to those who try to rename methods they know have already been rung and named—unless they do not take "The Ringing World" or do not make note of these; and the case of the peal at St. Peter's, Derby, is but one of several instances.

It used to be said that a band that rings a method for the first time shall have the right to name it, and as far as the rules of the Central Council go that still holds good, and does with me!

Who, then, is David K. Walklate to insist upon renaming St. Crispin "Chelmorton"? St. Mary "Winser"? when he knows that the argument about these (presumably his?) erroneous names was pointed out to him and others some five or six years ago?

The Peterborough Diocesan Guild rang St. Crispin for the first time at Pytchley, and not to an extent but to a full peal; "Chelmorton" is therefore the wrong name. I was one of the band and the person who named it, by reason of the fact that we rang it on the actual Festival of SS. Crispin and Crispinian, and, if Central Council rules are to mean anything, St Crispin it is, and not Chelmorton. Yes, David, you certainly "walked too late" with your substitute names!

St. Mary (erroneously called "Winser") was also rung for the first time by the Peterborough Diocesan Guild, and again it was myself who gave it that name by reason of it being rung to a full peal on a Festival of the Purification, at St. Mary's Church, Orlingbury.

We also rang the first peals of St. Guthlac, St. Polycarp, St. Perpetua, St. Sylvester, St. George (which has twice been erroneously renamed "Offington"); there is a peal tablet recording this peal in the Church of St. George, Wootton, Northants, where it was rung on St. George's Day several years ago as St. George. There was an attempt to rename St. Jude "Doveridge" even after it was rung for the first time some years ago at Boughton on a Festival of SS. Simon and Jude. The same applied to St. Laurence, erroneously named "Elton"; this we also rang for the first time to a full peal years ago at Courteenhall

We rang the first peals of St. Matthew and St. Mark, which were thought up 20 or more years ago by Mr. Alan Pink, who also named them. Like St. Sylvester and St. George, there are only two true extents of these by using Old bobs as singles, and half-leads of Original for bobs. All these, and others besides, have been made public and used in peals by a number of other bands under the names I gave them and not Mr. Walklate's substitutes.

What more then? I ask. Do some want these published every few weeks, or are their memories so short? The next thing will be that some will want to change the names of Grandsire, Plain Bob, Stedman and so on.—Yours sincerely,

P. AMOS.

CHADDESLEY CORBETT BELLS

BY MARTIN D. FELLOWS

THE village of Chaddesley Corbett, lying just off the main road from Kidderminster to Bromsgrove, is unique in that it contains the only church in England dedicated to St. Cassian St. Cassian was born in Alexandria in the fourth or fifth century. He became Bishop of an African diocese and was noted for his philanthropy.

Facing a splendid half-timbered inn stands the church, with an 18th century tower and spire, young compared with the rest of the building, for much of the work goes back to Norman days and includes some of the finest 14th century remains in the County of Worcester.

In 1552, the Edwardian inventory tells us that there were "in the steple iiij bells." However, in 1701, Abraham Rudhall cast a ring of six for the parish, with a tenor of about 16 cwt. In 1783 Charles and John Rudhall added the two trebles and recast the seventh (old fifth). The bells remained thus until 1856, when Charles and George Mears recast the sixth and seventh.

The year 1905 found the bells in desperate need of a complete restoration. A new oak frame, made in the village, was installed by Messrs. Greenleaf and Tristram, bell hangers of Hereford. The bells were also rehung with new fittings by the same firm. Unfortunately the old tenor of 1701 had become cracked and it was necessary to have this bell recast. The work was carried out by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank.

The bells gave good service for over 60 years after rehanging in 1905 but, within the last two or three years, despite careful attention by the towerkeeper, Mr. W. Hemming, it was noticed that the bells were not "going" too well. The Parochial Church Council decided that something must be done and therefore professional advice was taken as to what actually was required to put the bells in good ringing order. It was found that new ball bearings and a general overhaul of the existing fittings was all that was necessary, and accordingly the work was entrusted to Messrs. John Taylor and Co.

The bells were reopened in June, 1967, having been silent for about five months. The first peal on the bells since rehanging was rung on July 8th, 1967, by the St. Thomas' Society of Stourbridge—the method being Grandsire Triples. Full details of this performance were given in "The Ringing World" of August 11th.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Rochester District

A record number of ringers attended the annual District meeting at Rochester Cathedral on October 21st, there being well over 100 present. After Evensong the tea and business meeting were held at the George Inn.

The election of officers resulted in the appointment of Mr. Chris Osenton (Halling) and Mr. Nicholas Chesson (Eastchurch) as Ringing Masters, Mr. Terry Barton re-elected District secretary, Messrs. Trevor Cross and Cyril Jarrett District representatives (after several recounts), and Mr. Laurie Mitchell as "Ringing World" representative. The retiring officers were thanked for their past services.

A motion from the Ashford District that an Association chairman be elected for a triennial period was emphatically rejected but the suggestion for reshaping the Districts of the Association provoked some discussion and it was decided to instruct the representatives to inform the committee that the Rochester District would be able to make a definite decision if and when exact details of the reshaping were available.

After the meeting the bells of All Saints', Frindsbury, were available in addition to those those of the Cathedral. L. M.

TRURO DIOCESAN GUILD

About 60 members attended the autumn festival at North Petherwyn. Ringing was of a very high standard. At 4.15 the Rev. R. B. Sawle, priest-in-charge and Branch chairman, conducted the service and welcomed the ringers and friends to his church. Then came tea, so ably served by Mrs. Sawle and helpers.

The A.G.M. followed, and the spring and autumn festivals will be held at St. Stephen's and St. Thomas', Launceston, respectively. The Ringing Master, Mr. W. C. Boucher, proposed a vote of thanks to all and expressed his pleasure on seeing four young ringers from St Thomas' and one from St. Mary's attending their first meeting. W. F. M.

OUTINGS

PRESTON AREA VISITED

Seven towers in the Preston and Fylde area were visited by ringers from the Furness and Lake District on October 21st, the arrangements being made by Kevin M. Price.

The first tower on the list was at Churchtown, where the Ellacombe apparatus was demonstrated on the light eight at Bilsborrow. Bob Major, Grandsire Triples and Kent Minor were rung. Chipping bells (6) were rung before lunch, and afterwards for a wedding at Goosnargh came the best ringing of the day.

Ringing at Broughton (very noisy) and Singleton (rough going) was difficult, and finally, at Poulton-le-Fylde, a variety of methods was enjoyed.

We are very grateful to all who met us and allowed us the use of their bells. K. M. P.

CARDIGAN OUTING

The weather was atrocious for the ringers of St. Mary's, Cardigan, for their annual outing on October 14th and everybody had at least two soakings.

A surprise was the arrival of the police during ringing at Machynlleth to make inquiries of the tower captain about a burglary at the church. Previously, there had been ringing at Dolgellau for a wedding, and at Barmouth (8), where the large ringing chamber right underneath the bells made it difficult to hear. The last tower was at Llanbadarn Fawr with the University ringers from Aberystwyth. Finally a stop was made at Aberayron for chips, supplied by Helma Jones, Sarah Thomas and Sally Griffiths.

Mr. Arthur D. Barker, hon. treasurer of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, is in King Edward VII Hospital, Windsor, for an operation to his eye. His friends wish him a speedy recovery.

Another Stay-Breaking Incident

University of Wales Society Reunion

Despite the dubious weather and the many anti-attractions, including the rugger trials at Aberavon staged on the same day, some 25 people, representing all but Bangor of the colleges within the university, attended the twentieth meeting of the Society held on October 28th at Cadoxton-juxta-Neath, Glam. On assembling at the Parish Church of St. Catwg we were warmly welcomed by the local Ringing Master, Mr. Gwyn I. Lewis, and his son, Allwyn.

The small ringing chamber was soon cosily crowded and the stage superbly set for chaos to begin. The Master of the Society, Mr. John F. I. Turney, took charge and the first touch went smoothly. Aberystwyth is renowned for the large number of freshers who embark on a ringing career, and it is to be hoped that the ringing future of Pauline Bond will not be marred by her experience in the first set of rounds. It was her misfortune to break the stay of the fourth and subsequently to rise a body above the many bodies massed around that corner of the room and one can only commend her judgment in descending from such a height and with such velocity that she managed to avoid landing on any one below.

In order to get to the fourth, the tenor had to be lowered. When this had been accomplished, Mr. Gwyn Lewis, his son and another local ringer, Mr. Ellis N. Thomas, disappeared into the belfry to return a very few minutes later with the snapped-off portion of the stay. The tenor was once more raised and ringing continued.

Cambridge S Minor was next called for and Mr. Geoff Stevens, being the ground-floor stay of the fourth, had no choice but to ring the fated bell. Just after the first lead the rope of the fourth broke; the tenor was again lowered and Mr. Gwyn Lewis again appeared at the door only to disappear up the ladder muttering about vast sums of money "for services rendered." Ringing continued uneventfully until the parish parson returned from a wedding reception when a short service was held, with Mary G. Trent playing the organ

A very satisfying tea was prepared for us in the Church Hall by Mrs. Lewis and helpers, and at this point Mr. John Wilson arrived. A very lively meeting was chaired by the Rev. John Lloyd, during which the various topics discussed included the inclusion of a striking competition in the University Eisteddfod this session, to be held in Bangor on February 24th. It was eventually decided that the Society's Rag Week tour would take place in North Wales, to coincide with the Eisteddfod weekend. It was also decided to hold a formal dinner in January in Cardiff, which it is hoped will be supported by members and ex-members of the University Society and friends. Two new members from Cardiff were elected, three from Swansea and 14 from Aberystwyth.

After thanks had been expressed to the Rev. J. Lloyd and Mr. Gwyn I. Lewis, members made their way to Aberavon, where we were joined by the Rev. Geoffrey Stickland, Miss Ruth Havard and Mr. Edmund Morris for evening ringing. We lowered the bells at 8.30 p.m. after some very enjoyable ringing of quite a high standard. S. H.

GREAT YARMOUTH, NORFOLK.—At St. Nicholas' Church, on Oct. 29th, 1,260 Grandsire Triples: D. Wright (first quarter) 1, A. G. Wigmore (cond.) 2, Angela McBride 3, J. Stimson 4, A. J. Moy 5, W. B. Duncan 6, G. W. Fletcher 7, P. G. W. Newstead 8. For Evensong and a 21st birthday compliment to Margaret McBride, a member of the company and sister of the ringer of 2nd.

University of London Society Sample Irish Humour

NINE o'clock on a Wednesday morning, and at the Holyhead Ferry terminal traffic is already beginning to queue. In the back of a large green Volvo two unkempt persons may be seen eating cornflakes; another summer tour has begun. Later in the day the same car glides to a halt by a "No Parking" sign in a Dublin street. Edward: "Is it all right if we park here, officer?" "Well now, I wouldn't like to tell you that you couldn't park here, but on the other hand I wouldn't like to tell you that you could, because it's my job to keep you away!"

We take advantage of our early arrival to visit Guinness's brewery and practise on the dodgems at Bray. The tour officially starts on Saturday, so we dutifully assemble at St. Patrick's. After a few rounds on twelve, a peal band is left to score a rather angular peal of Grandsire Caters. In the evening we meet Fred Dukes at St. George's and our president manages to overturn a stayless bell. An experiment in close packing proves that ten people will all fit in one Volvo, and the pattern for the week is established.

On Sunday morning we ring mournful Minor on the middle six at Bray, where the tenor is out of action, and put some of our practice on the dodgems to good use. We also demoralise our first waitress of the week by ringing Bob Minor on six teacups. Later some of the party brave the staircase at St. John's, Dublin, to ring the awkward ten there before going on to the heavy ten at Christ Church. The final tower of the day is on the unringable six at Blessington.

On Monday the party makes its way to Wexford, armed with borrowed ropes, and retires after ringing to a cafe below a bingo hall. This time it is the turn of the waitress to demoralise us: "I'm sorry about all the confusion, but a lady has just died upstairs." Surely the ringing wasn't that bad! In the evening campers and bed-and-breakfasters join forces to drink the local "pob" dry of Guinness; we are beginning to hold our own at last!

A NAME LIKE THAT!

On Tuesday we descend on an unsuspecting Waterford. Tower captain to Master: "Churchill, eh? That's an honest-to-God name. You'd be shot in Ireland with a name like that!" Lunch is taken in style at Kyteler's Inn in Kilkenny and the "Good Food Guide" gains another elephantine entry. The afternoon's attempt for Oxford Bob Triples is terminated abruptly by the loss of the tenor clapper, and the peal band joins the rest of the party at Kilkenny's design centre to admire the Scandinavian designs there. Later we make our various ways to Cork, and new tourists are introduced to the pleasures of nine-spot dominoes.

Wednesday morning is free, so we all drive down to Blarney Castle. Ranald: "Blarney—nothing there—the walls are 14 feet thick, that's all." Except for a few with religious or hygienic scruples, the whole party kisses the Blarney stone. Now we can fight the Irish at their own game. Then follows the noisy eight at St. Finnibar's. American lady: "You're bellringers?" Edward: "Yes, we go around ringing bells." "Oh, I see, like the flower children."

In the afternoon it is the turn of Bandon to have its eardrums assaulted. The bells are deafening, but the day is saved by Jumbo, who acts as conductor's amplifier. An ad hoc committee meeting on the pavement later elects him minister of transport between mouthfuls of meat-and-potato pie.

Thus it is that we are organised on Thursday and herded to Donerail, where two and a half hours' sweating on the odd-struck six produces a peal of Spliced Surprise Minor. We rehydrate in the usual way and arrive in Limerick in time to hear the other peal band lose something. Spirits are revived with copious doses of strong, greasy tea, and the general ringing is quite distinguished: non-festering spliced and Nick's touch of tiny Little Bob Triples. We finish at Mount St. Alphonsus' (a very fine ten).

Friday's 150-mile drive to Enniskillen is used to view variously a Romanesque Abbey in the rain, Yeats' country in the rain and Galway Bay in the rain. Here we ring Double Norwich Caters and a short course (laughter) of Glasgow before getting down to the evening's business in the Railway Hotel. The community singing here is continued at the "campsite" by the lake at Coole. Wild swans, however, are not in evidence.

By Saturday enthusiasm is beginning to evaporate. We ring on the pleasant eight at Hillsborough and the light ten at Dundela. An unscheduled tower is at Carrickfergus, but spirits are again depressed when the local fair yields no dodgems. The last ringing of the day is at Holywood, where the campers spend a wet, windy and illegal night by the lough in the public park.

Sunday morning is cold and we rise reluctantly to go to Rostrevor. Not only have the bed-and-breakfast brigade beaten us to it, but they have been up long enough to go sightseeing as well. How nice it must be to have money! The last tower of the tour is Drogheda. The usual touches are rung, and suddenly only the faithful peal-grabbers are left to score a peal of Ullesthorpe for their alphabets. Last farewells are said over a Wimpey and it's all over for another year. We are most grateful to Fred Dukes, who arranged the towers, Tim Pett, who fixed up the accommodation, and to the long-suffering drivers.

CAMPER.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSN.

Under the guidance of Mrs. H. G. Hart, an enjoyable afternoon and evening's ringing took place at St. Augustine's, Kilburn, on the occasion of the meeting of the N. and E. District on October 21st.

Father Riley conducted a short service in this beautiful church, reminiscent of a cathedral, with Mr. Douglas Birkinshaw accompanying at the organ.

At the business meeting Mr. Alfred Turner, of Holloway, was re-elected to Association membership, whilst the provisional elections of Simon Humphrey (London, S.W.) and Andrew Corby (Sevenoaks), prior to participation in peals, were ratified.

Following a vote of thanks to those identified with the arrangements, including Miss Jaquest and her helpers responsible for providing an excellent tea, a return was made to the ringing chamber until 8 p.m. E. H. K.

BATH AND WELLS DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION

Ringing Course at Barrington

As a result of some "market research" into the matters in which Association members were interested, the first half-day ringing course was held on October 14th at Barrington. The venue was the room at the Royal Oak Inn, normally reserved for the local Buffalo Order, so that a pair of large horns overshadowed the lectures.

An audience of 37 people experienced a lecture on the tuition of basic bell-handling, presented with the aid of Norman Chaddock's film strip by John H. Gilbert. This was followed by an introduction to the elements of bell conducting from George W. Massey and Philip Gray. Finally, Harry Sanger, Association adviser on the care of bells, proffered useful advice on the organisation of a ringing band and its tower, followed by a lively guide to the art of steeplekeeping.

At the local towers of Barrington and Puckington the points made in the lectures were demonstrated, particularly in regard to handling faults, and several participants benefited from Philip Gray's diagnosis.

This was an experiment both for those organising and those taking part. For the first occasion we undoubtedly tried to use too much material in too short a time to the detriment of practical work in the tower. However, the results were encouraging and we shall try and build further on the foundation now laid. J. H. G.

Ilchester Branch

On November 4th some 30 ringers attended the monthly practice meeting of the Ilchester Branch at the Church of St. Mary the Virgin, Norton-sub Hamdon.

Members and visitors were welcomed to his beautiful church by the Rector, the Rev. C. C. E. Meredith, who also conducted the belfry office prior to ringing.

The Ringing Master, Mr. W. E. Turner, conducted on this good-going 18 cwt. six in the spacious ringing chamber, and this varied from rounds to Grandsire Doubles, Bob Doubles, Plain Bob Minor, Kent Treble Bob, Cambridge and Stedman.

The Branch is grateful to the Rector and his tower captain, Mr. A. Gillman, for a successful and enjoyable evening. M. L.

BLUNSDON, WILTS.—On Nov. 5th, 1,260 Plain Bob Doubles: Donald Naylor (aged 9) 1, J. Vincent 2, H. Ball 3, Miss A. O'Brien (first as cond.) 4, A. R. Peake 5, E. W. Ford 6.

BELFRY GOSSIP

We are reminded that the correct title of York Minster is "The Cathedral and Metropolitical Church of St. Peter." Our recent error is regretted.

It was a real harvest festival for quarter peals as well as other blessings at Pensnett, Staffs, on October 1st. There were seven first quarters and all these were from the local band. The only outsider was the conductor (Mr. F. Jukes).

On the last cargo of the Queen Mary was a replica of the American Liberty Bell of 1752. Both were cast by the Whitechapel Bell Foundry. The new bell is to become the symbol of the Savings Bond Division of the United States Treasury Department in Los Angeles.

The peal of Grandsire Caters at East Retford on November 4th was punctuated by fireworks in its closing courses. Thirteen-year-old Paul Mounsey did very well, especially considering his lack of experience on ten bells. The peal is expected to be the last but one on the bells, which are to be recast in the New Year.

Congratulations to the Misses Katherine and Grace Burchnall, of Sutton-on-Trent, who have rung 375 peals together.

St. Leonard's, Blunsdon, Wilts, is getting its youngsters through their first quarters. On November 5th Donald Naylor (aged 9) scored his from the treble.

A plan for augmenting the six bells at St. Mary's, Marlborough, Wilts, is to be submitted to the P.C.C. shortly.

Miss Brenda Martin, who has been a consistent servant of St. James', Cowley, for approximately six years, scored her first peal on October 19th. She is a credit to Mr. Holloway, who taught her, writes the conductor.

Michael Green (15), of Kingston upon Thames, was able to get some good practice while in Suffolk recently. Attracted by the bells ringing for a wedding at Stowlangtoft, he went and investigated. Ringing here followed and later that day a quarter at Hunston. The next morning he cycled nine miles to Rougham to join in a 720 for the morning service.

BELFRY GOSSIP

SIXTY-EIGHT YEARS ON

On Friday, October 27th, 1899, Mr. Harry Miles, of Carbis Bay, rang his first peal—one of Stedman Triples, conducted by the Rev. F. E. Robinson, Master of the Oxford Diocesan Guild. It was the first peal of Stedman Triples for all the band except the conductor, and four of the band were teenagers, an unusual thing in Queen Victoria's reign.

Sixty-eight years later to the day, Friday, October 27th, Harry, now 83, rang in a quarter peal at Lelant to mark the occasion. Ringing her first quarter of Plain Bob was 13-year-old Susan Tonks on the treble. On both occasions Harry on the following day attended a ringing meeting—in 1899 at Enstone, Oxfordshire, and this year at Carbis Bay. And may the anniversary continue to be celebrated in a like manner for many years to come.

HORRINGER ALIVE

We have received an encouraging report from Horringer, Bury St. Edmunds, where a keen band of ringers has now been going for a year under Robin Rogers. Three have rung in quarter peals and two more are ready; one has scored a full peal. All the members of the band are from the village, where there had not been a ringers' company for 40 years. Their ages range from eight years to over 70, but most are teenagers.

A happy note in our correspondent's letter states: "Mr. Fred Cooper now always joins us for service ringing. Until the new band was formed he suffered from rheumatism but now it has gone. The Rector declares that ringing is a good cure."

BOFFIN'S "SHINY THANKS"

After the Army had towed in a wagon from Winfrith Research Centre, the scientists asked the Army what they could do to show their thanks.

"Clean our church bell," was the unexpected reply from Bovington Camp, Dorset. The bell was accordingly taken to Winfrith's Chemical Cleaning Section. It has now arrived back "with a shine as bright as on any bell in Britain," states a Press report.

GRANTLEY HALL COURSE

The seventh annual course at Grantley Hall, Ripon, will be held from December 8th to 10th. Mr. Norman Chaddock is introducing, in addition to elementary and advanced lectures, a "tutorial" course designed to meet the needs of individual students and also to enable students to preserve continuity of other groups of lectures. Instruction in carol ringing on handbells will also be available. Practical work is being increased. Four towers will be available on Saturday afternoon and evening and on Sunday.

CARTER'S RINGING MACHINE

A party of Cambridge District ringers recently travelled by minibus to London to see the Carter Ringing Machine at the Science Museum. They were joined by Miss Anne Horsford and friends, including an Australian boy. The demonstration fascinated the company so much that a rushed lunch was necessary before the afternoon's ringing arranged by Anne at Barnes, Mortlake and All Hallows', Twickenham, and later at Bedfont, and Cranfield. Miss Jean Sanderson was the Cambridge organiser.

ST. GEORGE'S, COLEGATE

Dear Sir,—I write lest anyone should think, from reading Mr. Massey's account of the activities of West Country ringers in East Anglia, that no one cares for St. George's, Colegate, Norwich. The ringing chamber was redecorated three or four years ago; the bell-frame and fittings have been scraped and are in the process of being repainted; and the organ (a neat little instrument by G. P. England) has just been overhauled. The church was probably dusty that Sunday when the visitors came, but until that time it had not been used this year for services.

Neglect, however, there is in connection with St. George's; but it is at diocesan level—the neglect to fill the vacancy at this church and also at the churches of St. Clement, St. Saviour and St. Paul the Hermit, caused by the death more than a year ago of the Rev. Donald Mee, who was incumbent of these four Norwich churches. (A fifth, St. Edmund's, nominally united to St. George's and St. Clement's, has for years, to the disgrace of the diocesan authorities, been used, apparently on a non-repairing lease, as a warehouse for a shoe factory.) A faithful group of layfolk, concentrating in the main on St. Clement's, ensures that church life in these parishes is maintained, but they are sorely tried. Their magazine for November contains the following:

> "We still have no news of an appointment, and the matter is now in the hands of the Archbishop of Canterbury. May we say that we hope for more success than has been our lot up to now! . . . . makes you wonder if in fact there is a plot afoot to ensure we don't ever get our own priest . . ."

St. George's does have friends who care. Good congregations attended its harvest festival services. Two recitals have been given on the restored organ, and its bells ring at least once a week, not only proclaiming its presence and purpose, but crying defiance to those doleful persons of no imagination who would declare St. George's to be redundant.—Yours faithfully,

DAVID CUBITT.

Norwich.

FORTHCOMING RECORD PEAL ATTEMPT

Dear Sir,—I give notice that by kind permission of the Vicar, Canon Greville Norburn, an attempt will be made to ring 11,872 changes of Glasgow Surprise Major at St. Bartholomew's Church, Edgbaston, Birmingham, on Saturday, November 25th, 1967, starting at 12 noon.

The band will consist of resident members of the Guild; if successful, the peal will last for approximately 6 hours and 20 minutes.—Yours faithfully,

J. A. AINSWORTH,
Ringing Master,
St. Martin's Guild of Church Bell Ringers for the Diocese of Birmingham.

OLD HILL RINGER OUT OF HOSPITAL

Mr. Raymond Dunn, the Warley ringer who met with an unfortunate accident at Old Hill Church, had recovered sufficiently to go home from Dudley Guest Hospital on Thursday, November 2nd.

We are informed that the seventh bell, which weighs about 17 cwt., was set at backstroke. The rope was a little short and Mr. Dunn put his hand through the loop of the rope so as to pull the bell off. It was still difficult to pull off so he started to "bounce" the bell against the stay, which, unfortunately, was cracked. In consequence of this extra stress the stay broke and Mr. Dunn was hoisted to the ceiling and then fell to the floor and injured his head.

STEDMAN, NOT STANSTEAD

The peal of Stedman Triples rung at Stansted Mountfitchet, Essex, on October 26th, was originally intended to be an attempt for a peal of Stanstead Triples. It was on this day in 1907 that the first peal, conducted by William Watts, was rung. Lack of practice made an attempt for Stanstead Triples unlikely to be successful. Instead, an excellent peal of Stedman was rung as a tribute to William Watts and his band.

PETERSFIELD'S YOUNGSTERS

The five working bells (768 covered) in the quarter peal at Petersfield on October 29th were all rung by young Petersfield ringers. The ringers of the treble, second and third are 13 years old, the ringer of the fourth is 15, and the conductor is 14 Although the striking was not as good as it could have been, it was a grand effort. Any future quarters rung will be devoted to improving the standard of ringing.

OLD SUFFOLK BELL REHUNG

While inspecting the tower of Walton Parish Church, Felixstowe, in 1965, Mr. Ranald Clouston identified a six-cwt. bell to be by Thomas Lawrence, bellfounder, of London, 1510 to 1530. This bell, which was wearing thin, has been quarter turned by Trevor Bailey and David Wright, of Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, and bears the inscription "Sancte Johannis ora pro nobis."

The tower contains eight tubular bells by Harrington and Latham, of Coventry, which were installed in 1919 as a war victory thankoffering.

Mersham—the Home of the Kent County Association

By N. J. DAVIES

MERSHAM is one of those Kentish villages that is full of surprises for the visitor. In many ways it has all the features of some of our most attractive hamlets, but there are many unusual findings that must make it unique. The church, for a start, guards many a secret; from a distance it seems to dominate the village with its low tower and long aisles, but when you actually find yourself in the village centre it is nowhere to be seen. Eventually you discover it at the end of a lane some way away, with the old court lodge to keep it company. The most striking external feature is how unlike most Kent churches this building appears. Where is the rather stern western ragstone tower with its solid angular stair turret that is so characteristic of this county? This one has a massive squat south-west tower surmounted by a pyramidal roof, like a great hen brooding over her clutch.

We enter the nave through the west door, above which is a window which can have few equals in poetry of design or beauty of proportion. It has in all 13 lights, with huge super tracery and triangular openings above the sill for painted shields of glass. The loving hands of many centuries of local craftsmen have beautified this church; the Normans gave it the simple plain south door, the Early English builders added the nave arcading and that massive tower. The Decorated period enriched it with the fine west window and the exquisite chancel (the absence of a chancel arch, though unusual, is by no means unique), while the Lady Chapel is a complete and representative example of the Perpendicular style.

THE CHURCH OF ST. JOHN THE BAPTIST, MERSHAM.

THE KNATCHBULL FAMILY

This chapel has been a last resting place for members of the Knatchbull family, a long line of nobility who have lived at Mersham Hatch, a magnificent building situated to the north of the parish in an estate of 400 acres. The first Knatchbulls came to Mersham in the days of Henry VIII, Sir Norton Knatchbull being still remembered locally as the builder of Ashford's original grammar school in 1635.

The early history of the bells is also of great interest and mystery. By 1552 there were five large bells and two "corpse bells" in the tower, an unusually large number for a small village church. Whether these survived until 1612 is not known, but in that year a new ring of five bells was installed by Joseph Hatch, a local founder of great repute. Although his foundry was well established at Ulcombe, near Maidstone, the Mersham bells were, nevertheless, cast locally in the churchyard. This unusual incident was confirmed some years ago when the site of the casting pit was discovered while digging a grave. It may, however, explain why the bells did not come up to the usual standards tonally. The treble and fourth bells turned out considerably too flat, and had to be mutilated at the lip with hammer and chisel to bring them into some approximation of note. Almost certainly the old frame was retained, for just 24 years later a new and substantial bellcage was installed, which stood up to over 300 years of hard work.

Thus the nucleus of the present ring of eight was formed. Before further major work was necessary, the bells had rung in and out two centuries of English history. The face of Mersham was, meanwhile, changing also. The great house of the Knatchbulls was rebuilt as it stands today by the famous Robert Adam, a masterpiece of the graceful style of his era.

FIRST SECRETARY OF KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

We have to turn to 1847 to open the next chapter in the history of the bells. In that year they were rehung and the old frame was adapted to take a new treble bell cast at the Whitechapel Foundry, the gift of the Rt. Hon. Sir Edward Knatchbull. Mersham must have had a good band of ringers, for some 30 years later an event occurred which was destined to change the state of ringing in Kent. It was then that the Rev. R. Knatchbull-Hugessen was instituted Rector. He was a great lover of bells, and in 1880 he had two further trebles added to complete the octave; he himself gave the treble, the second being donated by Sir Wyndham Knatchbull. In the same year the Kent County Association was formed, mainly through the initiative and drive of this illustrious gentleman, who became the first general secretary. This position he held until 1889, when he transferred to West Grinstead.

The first quarter of the present century, however, revealed that all was not too well in the tower. The old frame, which had been twice altered to contain eight bells, was clearly showing the strain. A report dated May 13th, 1913, stated that quarter-turning and retuning of the five old bells was imperative, and that there was so much movement in the frame (which was described as "a mass of patchwork") that renewal was also long overdue; work on the clock was also necessary. An estimate of £197 was quoted to rehang the bells in iron framework with part new fittings.

MARKED DETERIORATION

Strange to relate, the "writing on the wall" was largely ignored. The "go" of the bells deteriorated markedly, although a peal of Grandsire Triples was rung in 1924, and the local band lapsed in 1932. Spasmodic ringing continued, however (the last peal, 5,040 Bob Minor, being rung in 1945), until 1953, when cracks were discovered in the south wall of the tower. The final silence was broken only once, in 1955, when the bells were rung for the Queen's visit to Mersham. (The Lord Brabourne, a distinguished resident, is a cousin of the Royal Family.)

In 1962, when Canon Duncan was instituted to the benefice, an appeal was launched to restore the tower and bells. Although getting off to a slow start, it quickly gathered momentum when the Rev. C. F. Pollard, the present Rector, came to the parish in 1964, and the bells were eventually dismantled early the following spring. While being stored pending restoration, however, the second bell was stolen, necessitating replacement by a new bell. The old frame was dismantled and removed, a portion bearing the date 1636 and the churchwardens' initials being preserved for historical interest.

In the meantime a new band was being trained for the new bells under the guiding hand of Alan Berry, of Folkestone. Lessons in bell control started at nearby Aldington, and transferred to Stowting for experience on light bells and a long draught. Eventually, in July, 1967, the bells returned to be rehung in new metal framework, and the new band turned up in eager anticipation at the preliminary trial.

THE REDEDICATION

And so the great day of rededication dawned, September 7th. A packed congregation of ringers and visitors was present at an inspiring service at which the rehallowing was carried out by the Archdeacon of Croydon, the Ven. J. A. M. Clayson, an old friend of all ringers. Ringing continued for a half-hour afterwards to suit all tastes, and it was a pleasure to have present Mr. William Hughes, of the Whitechapel Foundry, who were responsible for the rehanging.

The bells were now a rollicking octave and are easy to handle in spite of the long draught. Some final improvement to internal acoustics will ensure that they will prove a very popular ring.

THE RINGING WORLD

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

No. 2953. Vol. LXIII FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 24, 1967 Registered at the G.P.O. for transmission as a newspaper. 9d.

The Collegiate Church of St. Mary, Warwick

For this Coventry Diocesan Guild special number, the historic church of St. Mary's, Warwick, has been chosen. And but for the unkind acts of dissolution of Henry VIII this would probably have been the Cathedral of the present See, as it was then the possessor of a chapter with a dean and canon, ranking perhaps with St. Paul's, London, York, Lincoln and Salisbury. The grandeur of the Beauchamp Chapel is a reminder of the power of the Earls of Warwick, and the tower, built over the street following the disastrous fire of 1694, tells of an age when transport was leisurely.

ADAPTABILITY AGAINST ODDS

COVENTRY seems to have been particularly adept in overcoming difficulties and change. For instance, when, long ago, the boom in silk weaving was over, its citizens proceeded to establish a thriving industry in the making of very high-class English chronometer watches. When trade in this activity declined, attention was turned to the cycle industry and a long period of prosperity followed. After cycles came motor cycles and, after these, automobiles and aircraft.

With the advent of all these various activities, it followed naturally that there came a large influx of artisans, craftsmen and administrators from all parts of the country, amongst them being, of course, men who were interested in ringing. They soon found they had come to a city which had no ringable bells—for the very fine ring of ten at St. Michael's (once the largest parish church in the country), had been hung "dead" because of a suspected danger to the beautiful spire—which, 60 or 70 years ago, was nearly a yard out of plumb. It was thought by many that the real reason for the bells being so hung was that with the removal of the ringing room it was possible to open up the sight of the remarkably beautiful stone vaulted Lantern. The last peal on the bells was Stedman Caters, rung by the St. Martin's Guild, in which the redoubtable John Day, of Birmingham, took part. The tenor was rung by a Coventry man, W. Gilbert, when he was in his early 20's. When the peal was completed, John Day majestically stalked over to Gilbert and said: "Well, young man, you and I have rung between us 100 peals. I have rung 99, and you have rung one"!

The bells of Holy Trinity Church (adjoining St. Michael's), had also been taken down because of the frailty of the tower and spire and hung in a wooden campanile in the churchyard. These bells are a good ring of eight with a tenor 24¼ cwt. in E flat. This arrangement proved to be unsuccessful and there was so much movement on the wooden structure that the whole eight could not be swung safely. On a few occasions the front seven were rung with the tenor being "clocked" by W. Gilbert. A few minutes of this convinced the ringers that their lives were in great danger, and for over 50 years the bells hung in their ugly wooden home silent and derelict.

Attempts have been made from time to time to get both these rings going again, and recently the secretary of the Coventry Diocesan Guild, Mr. J. L. Garner-Hayward, has been very active in the cause. It has yet to be seen whether Coventry's adaptability will overcome the great problem concerning their bells. The odds seem to have been against all who have worked hard and long to provide real bell music for the citizens.

START OF WARWICKSHIRE GUILD

I hope readers will forgive me if I lapse briefly into writing in the first person, as it is difficult otherwise to describe what has been happening in Coventry since 1905. In that year I went to Coventry as a young journeyman printer, and went to lodge with a famous old Coventry worthy, J. H. White. The bells at Stoke-adjoining-Coventry had just been augmented from six to eight, through the great generosity of Joshua Perkins. We set about forming a band to ring them and soon had the bells ringing twice each Sunday for service, with a good practice on Friday. Unfortunately Joe White's work took him to Nuneaton and we suffered a setback. However, in early 1907, the most capable members of the Stoke band met Joe White at Bedworth (halfway from Coventry to Nuneaton) for a peal attempt for Grandsire Triples with White conducting. The peal was successfully accomplished, and it was directly because of this peal that the idea of forming the Warwickshire Guild came into my mind. We in Coventry were too far from the St. Martin's Guild for that body to be very much interested in us, and the only other alternative was the Midland Counties Association, which seemed to be too remote from us. True, it was a large rambling Association, which stretched from Yorkshire in the north to Oxford in the south, and Lincolnshire in the east to Hereford in the west, but it seemed to us to be very improbable that we were likely to be catered for.

So it was that early in 1907 I wrote a letter to the "Bell News" headed "Why not a Warwickshire Association?" To my great delight Harvey Reeves, the editor, took up the idea with enthusiasm and he suggested ways of bringing the idea to fruition. Thus encouraged, a period of intense activity followed, and weekly visits to four main centres of ringing activity, viz.: Rugby, Chilvers Coton, Warwick and Nuneaton. Transport 60 years ago was not so simple or easy as in these days, and all the journeys had to be made by cycle.

At Rugby we found a very well-organised and capable company, who, under the leadership of J. B. Fenton, were ringing most methods up to London Surprise. All favoured the forming of the proposed new Society. Chilvers Coton, whilst having a strong company, led by H. Reader, was not so advanced as Rugby, but received the idea well and promised support. Nuneaton also had a good company, under the leadership of that famous couple Tom Chapman and Harry Argyle. Enthusiasm here for the proposal was not so great as had been expected, but efforts to enthuse them eventually succeeded, and Nuneaton became later the strongest section when the new Society was formed.

Warwick, with its majestic ring of ten, also had a good and numerous company, led by Ted Adams, who came there as a young man from Fulham, London, to take up the position of sexton and verger at St. Mary's.

FIRST OFFICERS

In November, 1907, a meeting was called to take place at Dale's Temperance Hotel, Warwick, and it was resolved to form the Warwickshire Guild, with Ted Adams, of Warwick, as the first Master, Arthur L. Coleman, of Rugby, as first secretary, and Mr. W. G. Dickens hon. treasurer, and a committee was elected, consisting of A. W. Flowers, G. A. Martineau, J. Pinfold, sen., J. Sharatt, J. F. Smallwood, R. Watson and J. H. White. The Lord Bishop of Worcester consented to be patron of the new Guild, and the Rev. Alan Williams accepted the office of president. It is sad to recollect that only two of those present at the first meeting are now with us—W. Collett and J. F. Smallwood.

Shortly after the formation of the Guild we were reinforced by the arrival of the Rev. C. C. Cox, who had been appointed a curate at Shottery, Stratford, Adolphus Roberts, of Gloucester, and Frank Pervin, from Loughborough—all highly accomplished ringers.

Unfortunately, Roberts could not ride a bicycle and it fell to the lot of the writer to teach him. When it is explained that Bob Roberts was 6ft. 3in. tall and weighed about 17 stone, it will be realised that to hold up a man of that size and weight was no easy task, but when eventually he was able to balance he went along at a speed that made running after him a terrific business. Fortunately no bones were broken and Bob was able to go along with us to the numerous meetings which had been arranged.

EARLY PEALS

On February 21st, 1908, the first peal by the Guild, Grandsire Triples, was rung at Stoke-by-Coventry, conducted by the writer. With the arrival of Roberts, Pervin and the Rev. C. C. Cox, it was not long before the first peal of Stedman Triples was rung, again at Stoke, conducted by A. Roberts, and Kent Treble Bob Major at Bedworth, conducted by the Rev. C. C. Cox. This gentleman also conducted the first peal of Stedman Caters rung by the Guild, at Solihull in 1910. The first peal of Grandsire Caters was rung at Warwick in 1910, conducted by E. H. Adams, with the bells fully muffled as a mark of respect to His late Majesty King Edward VII.

The new Guild was now firmly established and Rugby was pushing ahead with peals of Double Norwich, Superlative Surprise, etc

The six bells at Allesley had now been augmented to eight, and the arrival of Frank Perrens at Coventry greatly strengthened the Guild. He was responsible for a tremendous development at Allesley, and under his capable leadership the company went ahead rapidly, ringing a large variety of Surprise methods.

Rugby and Stoke-by-Coventry joined forces and developed great activity in the Surprise Major field.

My work took me away from Coventry in 1912, but by now the new Guild was in good heart and was being efficiently managed by dedicated men who worked hard and long to secure its firm continuance.

Masters since formation have been: E. H. Adams, G. A. Martineau, J. F. Smallwood, James George, A. Roberts, Tom Chapman, J. H. White, F. E. Pervin, A. H Beamish, F. W. Perrens (who later became president), C. Underwood and H. Windsor.

Secretaries since formation have been: A. L. Coleman, Rev. C. C. Cox, H. Kettle, A. Wilkinson, J. A. Fenton, Miss D. E. Lewis (afterwards Dorothy Beamish), Rev. M. Melville and J. L. Garner-Hayward.

The Guild is now 60 years old, and may it be served in the future by officers as loyal and devoted as those named above. May it continue to serve its members and the territory it covers for many more years to come, and may Coventry soon lose its distinction of being the only city of importance that has no ringable bells!

OUR PICTURE

Collegiate Church of St. Mary, Warwick

By FRANK E. PERRENS

NO record exists of the foundation of this church, but that it was prior to the Conquest appears from an entry of its possessions in Domesday Book. Its rise to importance, however, took place in the reign of Henry I, and it is called a Collegiate Church because in its earliest years it was served by a number of secular canons. In 1123 these were joined by other secular canons from the Church of All Saints, at that time standing within the precincts of the Castle.

The design of uniting these two churches was contemplated by Henry de Newburgh, Earl of Warwick, but, dying before it was effected, he left the work to be carried into execution by his son, Roger de Newburgh. His charter, which is preserved in the Beauchamp Chapel, granted many possessions and privileges to this newly-made Collegiate body, and also granted that they might have a Chapter of Dean and Canons, such as existed at London (St. Paul's), Lincoln, Salisbury and York. The Chapter was dissolved by Henry VIII in 1545 and its possessions confiscated, some of which were given back to the burgesses of Warwick.

During the latter half of the 14th century much rebuilding and many new buildings were added to the church by Thomas Beauchamp, Earl of Warwick, and his successor, also Thomas. Their work, completed in 1394, lasted exactly 300 years, when the nave and tower were completely wrecked by a great fire, which also burned down over 200 houses in a few hours, and destroyed the bells.

WREN'S DESIGN REJECTED

Commissioners were appointed by the Crown to superintend and direct the rebuilding of the church and although St. Christopher Wren had submitted designs for the rebuilding of the church previous to the fire, they were rejected and Sir William Wilson was selected to erect the new structure. Fortunately some parts of the church—the chancel, the vestry, the Chapter House, the crypt and the Chapel of Our Lady—were not destroyed. The rebuilding after the fire included the tower, nave, aisles and transepts, and took about 10 years to complete at a cost of about £5,000, including £1,000 given by Queen Anne.

The nave is 109 feet long and the width 66 feet, extending to 106 feet across the transepts. The pulpit, the base of which is solid Ashburton marble, was given by the Freemasons of Warwickshire in 1897 to commemorate the Diamond Jubilee of Queen Victoria. The brass lectern holds a Bible given to the church by King Edward VII in 1904.

The choir—75 feet long, 27 feet across—is the work of Thomas Beauchamp, Earl of Warwick, second son and heir of the more famous Thomas Beauchamp, whose tomb is before the High Altar. The vaulting is extremely rare, having "flying ribs" springing from shafts in the walls, and possibly the only other examples of such vaulting are to be found at Bristol Cathedral, St. David's Cathedral and in a stone choir screen at Southwell.

GRANDEUR OF BEAUCHAMP CHAPEL

The Chapel of Our Lady or, as it is more commonly called, the Beauchamp Chapel, adjoins the choir on the south side and it ranks among the richest of those structures erected as mortuary chapels during the 15th century. The central monument is that of Richard Beauchamp, Earl of Warwick, He devised the building of this chapel and fixed the spot for it during his lifetime, leaving necessary directions in his will dated four years before he died at the Castle of Rouen in 1439.

The building of the chapel and monument occupied 21 years and the cost amounted to the very large sum (in those days) of £2,481. The monument is made of Purbeck marble by John Borde, of Corfe Castle, the patterns for the main effigy and the smaller figures were the work of John Massingham, from which they were cast in bronze by William Austen, citizen and founder of London. They were engraved, polished and gilded by Bartholomew Lambespring, a Dutchman, a goldsmith of London, who also made the enamelled shields. The Earl is depicted in an attitude of adoration, gazing, with hands upraised in prayer, to the figure of Our Lady in the vaulted roof.

Richard Beauchamp was a man of historic stature, Knight of the Garter, friend of Henry V, who appointed him guardian and instructor to his son, Henry VI, fought in the French Wars, landing in Normandy with the King, Lieutenant-General of the whole realm of France and the Duchy of Normandy. Another of the stately monuments in the Beauchamp Chapel is that of the son of the Duke of Northumberland, Ambrose Dudley, who was made Earl of Warwick by Queen Elizabeth. On the north side of the Chapel is the marble tomb of Robert Dudley, Earl of Leicester, and of Lettice, his third wife. His effigy wears the collar of the Order of St. Michael—bestowed upon him by the King of France—and the mantle of the Order of the Garter. The tomb is ornamented with family badges—the bear and ragged staff of Warwick, the cinquefoil of Leicester, and the green lion with two tails of Dudley. This Robert Dudley, whose first wife was Amy Robsart, who died tragically in 1560, was the fifth son of the Duke of Northumberland and a favourite of Queen Elizabeth. All the windows of the chapel were filled with stained glass made by John Prudde, of Westminster, glazier to the King, and he was directed to use rich colours from the best glass obtainable from "over the seas."

In 1642 during the sacrilegious outrages of the Great Rebellion, the Beauchamp Chapel suffered much damage, as did also the Cross in Warwick market place. Thanks to the munificence of Lady Katharine Leveson, who gave money for immediate repairs and provided an annuity for its perpetual preservation, the chapel was soon restored.

TOWER BURNT DOWN

The tower, after the destructive fire of 1694, was rebuilt over the street because the pillars at the west end of the church were not considered strong enough to hold it. The lowermost portion consists of four very massive piers supporting pointed arches open to the street on the north, south and west sides. To the battlements its height is 130 feet; to the pinnacles 174 feet.

The bells are now a ring of ten with a tenor of 24 cwt. 3 qr. 20 lb. in the key of D. It is probable that the very early history of the bells was lost in the fire, and the first information we have is from the following item: "1552. Warwicke the p'ishe of Saynt Mar. Itm V belles." In the course of the next 100 years another appears to have been added, as Dugdale gives six bells previous to 1656, of which three at least were pre-Reformation.

In 1656 three new bells were cast by Eldridge at Coventry; apparently the old tenor was melted down and two additional ones supplied, making a ring of eight. These were completely destroyed in 1694 and were replaced by a new ring of ten, cast by Abraham Rudhall in 1702. Of these, the tenor was recast in 1814 by T. Mears and the 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th, 7th and 8th in 1901 by Taylor's. The old inscriptions have been reproduced from Rudhall's bells but not in the same lettering.

Very few peals have been rung on the bells—only 19—the first of which was Grandsire Caters on December 28th, 1786, by members of the St. Martin's Guild, Birmingham. Only three more were rung before 1900, the last of which was a peal of Stedman Caters to commemorate the 80th birthday of the famous Henry Johnson. It was composed and conducted by C. H. Hattersley and in the band were many notable ringers from places as far away as Brighton and Newcastle on Tyne.

CHURCHWARDEN'S ACCOUNTS

The following are a few of the many interesting notices in the churchwarden's accounts:—

1656.	Paid to Mr. Eldridge for casting three new bells makeing the rest tunable	28	0	0
	Paid for going to Coventry to seal the articles with bell founder	0	3	0
1665.	Paid to the Ringers for ringing the Bells at the coming of the Duke and his Duches to the Towne.	0	16	0
1688.	Paid to the ringers for ringing on ye day the King was proclaimed ..	0	5	0
1694.	Paid for Horse hire and two days charges going to Towcester to look after Pickford that stole ye Bell Metal	0	6	0

From the Corporation accounts we learn that in the 1700's the ringers were usually paid 15s. for ringing on special occasions—mainly victories in battle—and in 1815 they were paid £2 2s. for "the news of the Battle of Waterloo" and £1 11s. 6d. for "taking of Bonaparte." Evidently the Corporation could afford to pay more than the churchwarden, even in those days.

HEREFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

The quarterly meeting was held at Much Wenlock on October 28th and was attended by 25 members and friends. The Vicar (the Rev. R. R. Acheson) conducted the service, and the organist was Mr. W. V. Poole. An excellent tea was provided at the Stork Hotel. Ringing during the afternoon and evening was under the direction of the Branch Ringing Master, Mr. A. Jones. J. B.

Coventry Diocesan Guild Personalities

By DOROTHY E. BEAMISH

I FIRST became interested in ringing as a schoolgirl in October, 1916, when Chilvers Coton belfry was depleted of ringers due to the call-up for the First World War. Henry Reader, a churchwarden and captain of the tower, invited about a dozen girls from the church congregation into the belfry, including the Vicar's two daughters, the Misses Gladys and Evelyn Dodds, and Miss May V. Godderidge, now of Folkestone. After assiduous lashed practice during the winter we accomplished Grandsire Triples "open" on Easter Sunday morning, 1917, very creditably.

A great deal of assistance was given to the Coton band by Messrs. T. W. Chapman and H. Argyle (of the St. Nicholas', Nuneaton, band) from the date of the installation of the new octave in February, 1908, until a regular Sunday service band was established.

DIED DURING GOLDEN WEDDING PEAL

Both of them served the Warwickshire Guild faithfully, Mr. Argyle as a Central Council representative and Mr. Chapman as a committee member and Master. In 1935 he completed 50 years as a ringer at St. Nicholas' Church, most of them as captain. On September 13th, 1947, a peal of Cambridge Surprise Major was rung at that church to mark his golden wedding but it became a memorial peal as he passed to higher service during the performance of it.

In 1917 I joined the Warwickshire Guild and cycled to meetings at many towers in the area accompanied by Miss Godderidge. A period at college curtailed ringing somewhat for us both but upon return we endeavoured to improve our knowledge of various methods. My first peal, of Grandsire Triples, at St. Nicholas', Nuneaton, was on October 4th, 1923, and that of Miss Godderidge was Bob Major at Chilvers Coton on October 20th, 1925. Upon purchasing my first motor-cycle I was able to travel further afield and rang a number of peals in varying methods.

In 1928 I was elected honorary secretary and treasurer of the Guild in place of J. A. Fenton, of Rugby. I was married in August, 1931, to Arthur H. Beamish, who had joined the Coton band as a learner in 1922, following in the steps of his father, who was a founder member of the band which was inaugurated in February, 1908, when the new octave was installed.

Arthur rang his first peal on September 16th, 1924, Plain Bob Major at Coton, and conducted his first peal at Coton on October 20th, 1925, followed by others in various methods. He has been captain at Coton for 20 years, Master of the Guild and now president for the past three years. Together we have attempted to maintain a good band at Coton and have the satisfaction of knowing that the bells have been rung prior to every Sunday service and for all special services.

PEAL OF LONDON MAJOR AT ELEVEN

In June, 1935, our daughter, Margaret, was born and I relinquished the secretaryship to Malcolm Melville. I resumed in 1938 and carried on until 1956 and as treasurer until 1965. Margaret learned to handle a bell in 1943 and rang her first peal, Grandsire Triples, at Coton on October 12th, 1946, conducted by her father, with mother included in the entirely resident band. Then in 1947 a record for the country was gained by the Guild when she rang a peal of London Surprise Major at Coton, conducted by H. J. Poole, ten days before her 12th birthday, being the youngest person ever to do so. By the end of the year she had rung peals of Cambridge Minor, Major and Royal, with Maximus 15 months later. Peals of Stedman Triples, Caters and Cinques "in hand" were accomplished before her 13th birthday. She added to her laurels by conducting her first peal, Plain Bob Minor, at the age of 13 years and attaining a total of 50 peals before her 14th birthday.

As a family we rang in many peals, a number of them firsts in the method for the Guild until 1954, when we made headlines, "Mother and daughter ring 100th peal together." That was a peal of Bristol Surprise Major at Gilmorton, Leicestershire, conducted by W. F. Moreton. Margaret left the District in October, 1954, to enter Southampton University, where she became a founder member of the Ringing Society. Since 1960, as Mrs. Chapman, she and her husband have been active members of the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild (Margaret as treasurer).

In 1939 I was elected as one of the representatives on the Central Council of Church Bellringers and have attended every meeting since—a total of 24.

GUILD TITLE CHANGED

The title of the Guild was changed in 1945 from the Warwickshire Guild to that of the Coventry Diocesan Guild. A number of towers were lost to the Guild and became attached to St. Martin's Guild for the Diocese of Birmingham, but a closer relationship to the Church was formed by being a Diocesan Guild.

In 1950 Alderman Harry Weston presented the Guild with a handsome tooled leather peal book, since when peals have been recorded therein in meticulous style by first the late Harry Webb and now Percy Stone, of the Allesley band.

James George, of Rugby, although not starting to ring until the age of 36, lived to ring 1,000 peals. His early ringing was done in Warwickshire and he was a strong supporter of the Guild retaining its county title.

OUTSTANDING FIGURE

Frank Perrens has been the most outstanding figure in the Guild during the past 50 years. He has held various offices with distinction, being elected as the first lay president in 1955. He has rung and conducted more peals than anyone else and has always been willing to include first pealers and to give assistance to struggling bands. He was Master of the Guild and from 1927 to 1958 a Central Council representative, since when he has been honorary librarian to the Council.

Upon my retirement from the secretaryship, Mr. J. L. Garner-Hayward took over and has worked consistently for the welfare of the Guild. He has been consulted on a number of occasions when bell restorations were under consideration. He built up a good Sunday service band, mostly from recruits, at St. Nicholas' Church, Warwick, following the installation of the new octave. Two of his pupils, Geoffrey and Peter Randall, have brought honour to themselves and the Guild by ringing multi-method peals. Geoff is now Ringing Master at Holy Trinity Church, Hull, being a university student there.

Mr. Hayward has been greatly concerned in fostering the art in the villages of South Warwickshire and has spent a great deal of time at various practices in endeavouring to get Sunday service bands organised in formerly silent towers. He has had discussions with the Bishop of Coventry, a number of local clergy, bellfounders and architects with a view to getting more bells ringing in the diocese. Social events and meetings have been organised to perfection. All these activities in spite of spinal trouble which all but incapacitated him prior to an operation.

Guild members owe a great debt of gratitude to him for his management of their affairs.

Others not already mentioned who have given yeoman service to the Guild include J. F. Smallwood, E. H. Adams, Rev. C. Carew Cox, A. Roberts, G. A. Martineau, A. L. Coleman, G. H. Kettle, A. Wilkerson, J. H. W. White, F. E. Pervin, W. A. Stote, H. M. Windsor and Mrs. Windsor, H. G. Summers, L. Trevor, D. H. Argyle, P. K. W. Williamson, H. E. Ashley, J. W. T. Taylor, C. Aylett, A. J. Hinde, P. Bennett, P. A Oram, I. Maycock, A. G. Eveleigh, L. M. Callow, R. Winter, J. A. and J. B. Fenton, R. W. Sherriff, R. J. Edden and D. Carpenter.

With a number of young people showing great promise, Guild affairs will be in good hands and the older ones will rest content, realising that their labours have not been in vain.

INTO THE HIGHWAYS AND BYWAYS OF WILTSHIRE

A small party of ringers from the Bath area spent a pleasant day in Wiltshire.

A start was made at Chilton Foliat; here there are five bells in good condition, on ball bearings and are anti-clockwise. The only peculiarily is that the tenor rope kicks and tends to fall at least a foot from where it is pulled.

Ramsbury.—Excellent church; quite a good six rung from a very large ringing room overlooking the church.

Mildenhall (pronounced "Minal" locally).—Little six restored and augmented by Mears and Stainbank in 1958; rung from the ground floor.

Ogbourne St. Andrew.—The ground-floor five are not so bad as some rumours would have them. Very pleasant tone inside and even better outside. "Go" is quite reasonable if kept at a slow pace.

Ogbourne St. George.—The heaviest ringable five in the county (18 cwt. 2 qr. 7 lb. in E flat). In a steel frame and on ball bearings, by Gillett and Johnston. Very pleasant ring although again must be rung slowly to be appreciated.

Chisledon.—Very pleasant, mellow six; had a ring here by following the East Grinstead (Sussex) ringers, who kindly left us a few minutes' ringing time. It is a bit of a shock to find ringers from your Branch and neighbouring towers turning up so far from home, but apparently there is a strong relationship between East Grinstead and Corston, Bath.

Wroughton.—Another heavy ring; again slow ringing gets the best resuks. Precise handling is needed because of wooden beams in the tower that come down close to the ropes. Restored by Mears and Stainbank in 1955.

Broad Hinton.—Ground-floor six; very pleasant indeed. These bells are tuned C sharp, B, A, G sharp, F sharp, E. It must be rare to find a bell of not quite 9 cwt. in the key of E.

Grateful thanks to all those who made this trip so happy and to all the local people who had a ring with us we can only say we hope they enjoyed it as much as we did.

Fareham - Striking Champions Winchester & Portsmouth Guild

The Fareham team which won the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild striking contest at Alresford:—

Front: Miss R. Kemp, Miss G. Boyd, Mrs. C. Lanegan, Mrs. R. Sturgess.

Back: J. Draper (reserve), J. Ball, A. Sturgess captain), A. Scott and F. Fagg.

Ten bands took part and Canon K. W. H. Felstead, the Master of the Guild, presided. The judge, Mr. C. H. Kippin, in summing up the contest, said he noticed an improvement in the ringing, particularly in the leads, giving a higher standard of ringing than in past years and a very close result.

The winning team, Fareham, rang Grandsire Triples, which the judge declared was good ringing from beginning to end. Ringwood, last year's winners, were second, ringing Stedman Triples.

Lancashire Association Dinner

ONCE again the Lancashire Association held its annual dinner on the last Saturday in October at the Victoria Hotel, Preston, and once again we were pleased to welcome a group of well-known visitors from as far away as Swindon and Cheltenham.

During the day the visitors, together with some Lancashire stalwarts, sampled a variety of towers, starting at 9.30 a.m. with the recently augmented ten at Accrington (which earned unanimous praise) and ending at Preston just prior to the dinner.

At 7.30 p.m. promptly the company of 95 sat down to an enjoyable meal in an atmosphere of comradeship and conviviality. The guest speaker this year was Alexander J. Martin, that well-known personality from the Wirral, who, in his own inimitable manner, kept the company highly amused with his witty remarks and irrrepressible humour.

After paying tribute to the progress which the Association had made in the field of Spliced Surprise ringing, he reminded us that we must never overlook the fact that all bells were installed in towers for the purpose of ringing for the Sunday services—and that this must always be our main concern. Furthermore, he pointed out, it was essential for ringers to participate fully in the life of the Church, and they should never be content to confine their interest to the tower. The comradeship and conviviality which traditionally followed a peal or any other meeting of ringers was, he maintained, a necessary and vital aspect of ringing. It produced and strengthened that close fellowship amongst ringers which was not to be found in other walks of life—not even in other branches of Church life.

NORMAN SMITH'S BREAKTHROUGH

In his reply the president (Canon A. Hodgson) thanked Alex for his entertaining yet sound remarks—with which he himself was in complete agreement. He, too, paid tribute to the advances in all-the-work Spliced Surprise peals of Major, Royal and Maximus which had been rung by the Association as a result of Norman Smith's breakthrough in the field of composition. He also thanked the officers and committee of the Association for their zeal, good sense and unstinting efforts in maintaining and promoting the aims and activities of the Association; and urged all ringers to play their part in giving of their best in time and talent, not only in peal performances, but also in service ringing and in the training of learners. The young ringers of today were more advanced in the art than any previous generation of young ringers, but this could only have come about through the efforts and patience of those who had taught them. It was to be hoped that they in their turn would be prepared to play their part by devoting time and talent to the training of the future generation of ringers

The evening concluded with a most successful dance.

It was unfortunate that the event had coincided with some other functions, and therefore that some expected faces were absent. It is to be hoped that when word reaches them how enjoyable it was, they will see to it that they are not missing on the last Saturday in October, 1968.

PRINCE CHARLES WITH CAMBRIDGE YOUTHS

19th BIRTHDAY RINGING

A few weeks ago a verbal invitation was sent to Prince Charles, through his tutor, inviting him to see the ringing for his 19th birthday on November 14th. On November 7th a telephone message was received by Mr. Jim Quinney to say that the Prince's tutor would bring the Prince along to Great St. Mary's Church at 12.30 p.m.

November 14th arrived and the verger, Mr. George Clark, met the Prince, who was accompanied by his equerry, Squadron Leader David Checketts, and escorted him to the Vicar's study. The Vicar, Canon Hugh Montifiore, then escorted His Royal Highness to the ringing chamber, where the steeplekeeper, Jim Quinney, was waiting to welcome the Prince.

There were 14 ringers assembled and they were introduced individually by Jim Quinney The first was the Ringing Master, Mr. Frank Haynes, who, on behalf of the ringers present, gave a very warm welcome to the Prince. Other ringers presented were Richard Youdale (Master of the Cambridge University Guild), Percy Hayden-Pigg (84 years old), Major Freeborn (80), Ernest Hibbens (78), John Rank, Chris Daws (Trinity College), C. Muncey, jun., H. Muncey, sen., Dr. C. M. P. Johnson, V. Nutton, H. Foster, Dr. Hilary Muirhead and Ian Quinney. The Prince shook hands with all the ringers and chatted informally.

After the introductions Prince Charles rang the priest's bell as a signal to start the ringing of two courses (bobbed) of Grandsire Cinques, conducted by Mr. Frank Haynes.

Whilst the ringing was proceeding the steeplekeeper escorted Prince Charles to the bell chamber to see the bells turning, and then on to the tower roof. After seeing the sights of Cambridge with the Vicar, the Prince returned to the ringing chamber to hear the last two leads of Grandsire Cinques. The bells were then fired 19 times, representing the Prince's 19 years.

The ringing finished, the Prince signed his name in a new visitors book provided for the occasion and all adjourned to the Vicar's study, where champagne was served, and the ringers were able to talk to the Prince informally. This was a truly memorable day. As the Prince left the church to return to Trinity College a course of Stedman Caters was rung.

Letters to the Editor

OXFORD GUILD MEMORIES OF 36 YEARS AGO

Dear Sir,—I have been for many years an "unringable ringer" and many of the feats of today have passed me by.

Perchance two copies of "The Ringing World" (September 22nd and October 6th) have come my way, and as one of the "ringers of yesteryear" who was "out of the picture," I was reminded of the occasion which comes back very clearly after 36 years.

I suppose some would warrant that a lot of fuss had been created over a mere 5,000 Stedman Cinques, but I am clear in my own mind that whatever heights Oxford ringing attained in the years that followed this particular bell certainly was the gateway to it.

I believe that for the great majority of the band it was "first on 12 bells," and "first of Cinques as conductor" and besides this it finally laid the bogey that after the great days of J. W. Washbrook at the beginning of the century Oxford ringing was finished—certainly it had had bad times, but thanks to W. H. B. Wilkins at St. Ebbe's and Victor Bennett at St. Giles' a nucleus of keen young ringers was being created, and Walter Judge found enough material on which to build up a band, mostly local, capable of a peal of Stedman Cinques, and its achievement after one or two attempts was said at the time to be one of the most important peals ever rung in the tower.

The photograph is, of course, a bit of window dressing, as neither his Worship nor the two councillors had ever handled a bell, and were gently warned that if they pulled the ropes they would go up through the little hole in the ceiling!

Alderman Brown did ring a little and was a great lover of the Oxford Society, serving as president during his mayoralty and also during the Society's bicentenary year—1933. By coincidence, the alderman died on August 25th, 1946, which was the day the Oxford Society rang the 12,663 Stedman Cinques at the Cathedral.

Perhaps these facts might be of interest to your readers, especially to those who have visited the "City of Dreaming Spires" and shaken a few of them on occasions.—Yours sincerely,

RICHARD A. POST.

TERYLENE ROPES AT BEDFORD

Dear Sir,—Following a previous conversation with your correspondent, M. Peterson, of Edinburgh, we have used pre-stretched terylene ropes in the Bedford area for some six months and the results are eminently satisfactory. Two bells at Elstow and two at St. Paul's, Bedford, have been selected. The new material has spliced easily, shown no sign of wear at all, and seems to travel more easily through the series of rope guides and chutes at these two towers.

It is, of course, immensely strong, hence a thinner circumference of rope is adequate for even quite heavy bells. We endorse the comment that it is unsuitable for tail-ends, but have not had trouble with the rope slipping wheel.—Yours sincerely,

MARTYN MARRIOTT.

St. Paul's, Bedford.

GOOD REASONS FOR DISAPPOINTMENTS

Dear Sir,—I am sure that the ringers of our cathedrals need no defence against the remarks of Mr. Beavis ("Ringing World," November 3rd) and to demonstrate that our friends in Washington, like the rest of us, can fail, I give the following details:—

In January this year a young member of our tower informed me that he would be able to visit Washington in August and would like to ring there if possible. On the advice of Mr. G. W. Pipe we wrote to Mr. Wayne Dirksen on January 22nd, giving details, and his son, Richard, replied on January 31st giving very useful information and stating "for even if my father cannot guarantee you a ring, he can definitely arrange for you to visit the tower and would love to meet you." As suggested in Mr. Dirksen's letter, a note reminding him of the intended visit was sent on July 19th and a reply received, dated July 31st, in which ringing times were given and looking forward to meeting him on Sunday, August 13th. This letter came from Mr. Fanfani's secretary.

With this information in his possesesion my young friend went to the Cathedral on Sunday, August 13th, at 12.30 p.m. and inquired there and was directed where to wait. David Moore, of Birstall, who had been before, joined him and both waited. After some time they made further inquiries and finally tried to ring Mr. Fanfani but there was no reply. They finally left at 4 p.m. and did not hear any ringing up to that time.

I did not intend to publish this but since Mr. Beavis' laudatory letter I am moved to write to you in particular as my friend has been a most loyal and helpful colleague for many years and felt very keen disappointment at not even being able to see the bells at Washington. I may say also that he had gone to considerable trouble to rearrange his itinerary to take in Washington, which was to have been the high spot of his visit.

Finally, may I emphasise that we realise that obviously a mistake occurred and that there was no ringing and this we accept, and I am sure that if Mr. Beavis were to go into the matter of his friend's refusals from certain towers he would find that there are good reasons for them.—Yours sincerely,

C. KENNETH LEWIS.

Altrincham, Cheshire.

A HOAX

Dear Sir,—The peal card of Minimus found by Mr. Collis at Tilton-on-the-Hill (page 814) is undoubtedly another hoax.

According to the perpetual calendar in "Whitaker" July 11th, 1897, was a Friday!—Yours sincerely,

E. BARNETT.

Crayford.

* * * * *

The same view is held by William Shepherd, of Addlestone, who writes: "The author of the joke could not have known much of William and Bob Pye, who never lived in London, or of the fact that in 1897 they rang few peals before joining the Middlesex Association in 1898."

OBSERVATION BELL IN STEDMAN

Dear Sir,—Most peal compositions are set out with the tenor as "observation" bell, or, in the case of Triples, the seventh, rather than any other bell. This is understandable in the case of Major, where transposing a peal composition to make another bell "observation" would undoubtedly adversely affect the music of the peal.

In the case of Triples, however, this criticism is hardly justified, so one is led to ask: How is it possible to transpose a composition of, say, Stedman Triples, to make another bell "observation" without making it false?

Suppose we wish to make, for example, the treble "observation" bell. Pick out any course in the composition where you wish to start and suppose that the backstroke change of the seventh's full lead (having gone in "quick") is 7563412.

This will correspond in the "treble-observation" peal to 1234567. The peal is then rung from that point in exactly the same way with exactly the same calls, and rounds will undoubtedly occur after 5,040 changes. All we have done is cyclically interchanged the bells in the following manner:—

"7th Observation"	"Treble Observation"
5	2
6	3
3	4
4	5

This correspondence is one-one in the sense that gives any change, say, 4176523 in the "7th observation" peal, there is one and only one change corresponding to it in the "treble observation" peal, namely 5613274 and vice versa.

To prove we have derived a "true" peal, suppose it were false and obtain a contradiction. Suppose there were two identical changes, say, 513742 occurring at different points in the "treble observation" peal. The corresponding change (which is unique), 4761235 would then occur twice in the "7th observation" peal in the exactly corresponding positions. Since the "7th observation" peal is known to be true, we have obtained a contradiction. This simple device is commonly used in Doubles and Minor, but would appear to have been neglected by Stedman Triples conductors to judge by the fact that Thurstans' four-part peal is still almost invariably rung "seventh observation."

I would be very interested to hear of any snags that I have overlooked which make the above seemingly trivial proof invalid.—Yours sincerely,

STEPHEN F. ROYAL.

Exeter College, Oxford.

SPLICED TERYLENE ROPES

Dear Sir,—I must write in agreement with M. Peterson's letter in your November 10th issue on page 814 with reference to splicing of man-made fibres to bell ropes.

I, too, at Birstall, have experimented with pre-stretched terylene spliced to the top section and find this successful but have had various complaints about the handling if used in the tail-end On making inquiries, I find that mountaineers who use nylon do not have this difficulty, so maybe bellringers in time will get used to the feel of these new fibres.—Yours faithfully,

J. M. MORLEY.

Beware! The Latest Ruse

By P. AMOS

DO you agree that the Church should sell its bells to provide money for the underdeveloped countries?

Do you agree that everyone (at the suggestion of the Roman Catholic Cardinal Heenan) should sell their silver plate, jewellery, etc., for the same purpose?

It all sounds the policy of hysteria!

But I am more influenced by what was said in "The World at One" programme a few days ago by that well-known churchman and politician, Mr. Quinton Hogg, Q.C., M.P., and probably I was not the only person to write and congratulate him upon it.

No one could say that he is anti-missionary and I would certainly not have it stated of myself, either; but let us keep a sense of proportion!

If our bells are to have a place in helping to remind outsiders of the Church and all that it stands for in proclaiming the Gospel to every creature, then in themselves they do serve a missionary purpose and it would be foolhardy to suggest otherwise, except from the most biased.

Despite the good work done over many decades to put them in good ringing order, to draw youth into the art, there still remains a number of churches—and not all of them in poor circumstances or in hamlets— where the bells are a total disgrace and not fulfilling the purpose for which they were installed, I will name (if I may) just two out of several I know and have come across in my travels—Braybrooke (4), Northants, which have had nothing done for them since 1806! The frame is so decrepit, the headstocks so rotten, wheels in bits and pieces, canon straps so eaten away with rust that the whole must, sooner or later, crash under their own weight.

Despite being told of this, its priest-in-charge replies that "while there are underdeveloped countries and hungry Indians, the bells must remain untouched."

I had a similar story told me by the Vicar of Church Brampton (4), Northants, whose bells, although in a reasonably good frame for five, have had nothing done to them for exactly 100 years—1867. And the other steeple I had in mind where conditions are identical to those at Braybrooke is Wymington (5), just inside the north borders of Bedfordshire. Here, no sooner you enter the church you come face to face with a "free will" offertory box (if "free will" it can be rightly termed?—I would call it "parson's will"), which states "all moneys given to this church are used at the discretion of the Vicar, and none can be allocated to any specific purpose." This in effect means to say that if someone wanted to put a cheque for £100 in it (or whatever sum they wished) to start off a fund to rehang these five bells the Vicar would refuse it or, alternatively put it to some other use at his own dictates—perhaps to send it to India, whose plight is mainly due to over-population.

Sell our bells for them—in their ignorance to do little for themselves? I do not share that view, and neither did the Rt. Hon. Quinton Hogg Q.C., M.P., although he did not specifically mention bells. But he did come out with it very forcibly that we had already done more than our share to help these underdeveloped countries, and he asked—what have we received for it? Nothing but sneers and insults and kicked out! And, like myself, he added—it is high time we made them do for themselves instead of (my own words) using Britain as a doormat.

We should tell all these "unringable parsons" those very words and not heed to their latest parrot-cry—to sell our bells, silver plate, jewellery, etc. We should stop being clergy's yes-men! Britain is itself in need of missionaries in its own land, when one looks at the crime rate figures! Only two days ago I read in a local newspaper that bogus "rating officers" had forced their way into a house, robbing an old, lone lady of 85. And at Wellingborough a youth of 16 snatched a handbag full of money from a blind woman who he could see was carrying a white stick.

SILVER TANKARD FOR EVESHAM VETERAN

Fifty years ago Mr. Geoffrey Hemming of Peewit Road, Hampton, Evesham, Worcs, then a boy of 15 years, rang his first bell at Evesham Bell Tower, where he is now Ringing Master. To mark his "half-century," on November 8th he was presented with a silver tankard by the Mayor of Evesham, Councillor Tom Smith (right), The Rev. A. Webb (centre), the Vicar of Evesham, himself a ringer, introduced the Mayor, who said: "Mr. Hemming first rang on November 9th, 1917, and has rung for every major event since—victory peals, Royal weddings, State funerals (including Sir Winston Churchill's) and local civic functions except when it was prohibited during the second world war."

In December he hopes to ring his 500th peal and on Boxing Day to celebrate the 50th anniversary of his first peal. With loving care he looks after the bell tower. He played a big part in the planning of the technical details when the old ten bells were melted down in 1951 and the present 12 cast, which are now reckoned to be amongst the finest rings in the world. HERTS COUNTY ASSOCIATION

The poor weather, together with the fact that it was Guy Fawkes night, was probably the reason for the lack of success of the monthly meeting held on November 4th at Pirton. After 40 minutes the only three ringers present left and thereafter there were never five people present at any one time to ring the anti-clockwise five. In consequence of this the bells were never raised.

Next meeting: Royston, on December 2nd, subject to confirmation. Let us have a better attendance there, please! M. R. W.

Splendid Support for Bath & Wells Dinner

Rev. John Scott's Tribute to Somerset Ringers

THE second annual dinner of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association, preceded by ringing on the 12 at St. Mary's Church, was held at the County Hotel, Taunton, on October 28th, and the excellent fare coupled with the efficient service in tasteful surroundings set the standard for a most enjoyable evening for the company of 170, who travelled from all parts of the county.

At the top table the Master, the Rev. H. F. Warren, was supported by the officers of the Association, and the Diocese was represented by the Rt. Rev. F. H. West, Bishop of Taunton, Bishop D. J. Wilson, of Wells, and the Ven. G. F. Hilder, Archdeacon of Taunton. Special guests included the Rev. J. C. M. Scott and Mrs. Scott and Mr. W. H. Coles.

Following the loyal toast, Mr. W. H. Coles proposed the toast of "The Church." He reminded those present that despite 30 years' residence in London his connections with his home county of Somerset were as strong as ever. Speaking to the toast, he said that without the willing co-operation of the Church their Association could not prosper, or even exist, and for this they should be thankful. He hoped the Church would forgive any shortcomings which they, as ringers, had. Mr. Coles spoke of the fine traditions of the Bath and Wells Association and asked younger members to ring true to those traditions, first and foremost for service, and afterwards for pleasure.

BISHOP'S CHILDREN RINGERS

In his reply, the Bishop of Taunton recounted how he was often guided to obscure country parishes by the sound of the bells. He was a great supporter of ringers and was glad to say that his two children had taken up the art at his home tower at Dinder. He was always sad to come across a silent belfry, but Somerset was lucky to have most of its bells rung regularly. He recalled the words of the Master on the subject of ringers attending services: "Never try to make ringers churchgoers; make churchgoers ringers." These, he thought, were wise words indeed, coming from a Rector whose father and grandfather had both served the Church in Somerset in the same capacity before him.

The Rev. J. G. M. Scott, in proposing the toast of "The Bath and Wells Association," said how pleased he was to be able to speak as a life member. He recalled many happy days spent as locum at Closworth, Radstock and Hardington Mandeville, and of the way in which the bellfounders of each county had enriched the other. Purdue and Bilbie cast bells for Devon, the latter setting up a branch at Cullompton, whilst Cockey, of Devon, had cast bells for Somerset.

Mr. Scott referred to the welcome which the Association had extended to the Central Council at Bath and thought that certain meetings of the Council stood out from others; both Bath and Bristol came into this category.

"Your Association has a good Master," he concluded, "and you produce members who are both careful and faithful ringers who value good striking. I could not wish to pay a better tribute than that."

In his reply, the Master complimented Mr. Scott on his TV feature, which had been screened the previous night. He was proud to belong to and serve the Association, and thanked Mr. Scott for his kind remarks. In congratulating the committee who organised the dinner, he emphasised that no transport had been arranged for those who exceeded 80 milligrams!

FREEMASONRY OF RINGERS

The final toast, to "The Visitors," was proposed by Mr. M. J Horseman, of Clutton. All of them he said, were part of the triangle comprising the clergy, the visitors and the visited! The freemasonry of ringers was such that a visitor to a strange tower was invariably made to feel that he was the very person they had been waiting for, and this unique friendship was something to prize "We tended to forget that although the clergy almost always allowed us to use their bells on request, we were not always generous with our contributions to the churches we visited." Mr. Horseman paid a special tribute to Mr. Scott, praising his constant work to present the meaning of ringing to the general public, in which he was most successful. He also stressed the influence of the various members of the Coles family on Somerset ringing.

The Archdeacon of Taunton replied and said he always thought that the life of a parish revived when its bells were rung again after a period of silence Whilst he admired the skill of the peal ringer, he reminded the company that it was the faithful Sunday service ringer, in many cases unknown except in his own tower, who mattered most. "I wish you all prosperity and blessing," he said.

The speeches were followed by a programme of slides and a commentary recorded and presented by the Rev. J. C. M. Scott, assisted by his wife, and we had the pleasure of seeing and hearing some of Devon's finest call change bands in action. Further informal entertainment was provided by Ray Arscott and members of his handbell team.

Judging by the support for the event, it looks as if the Dinner is likely to become a permanent feature in the Association's annual calendar.

SUSSEX COUNTY SECRETARY NOT SEEKING RE-ELECTION

A feature of the Western Division meeting at Lyminster on November 11th was the large number of new members (26) elected. All these were regular Sunday service ringers and we understand that there are likely to be quite a few more prospective ringers undergoing tuition who will become members when they are able to take their place in the Sunday service bands.

The ringers were entertained to tea in the Vicarage after the Association's form of service, which was conducted by the Vicar.

At the business meeting, presided over by the Master, Mr. R. V. Johnson, the Vicar and his wife and helpers were thanked for their splendid hospitality.

Among the topics discussed at the meeting was an intimation from the general secretary, Mr. Percy, that he did not intend to stand for re-election next year as he thought a change was desirable. It was also suggested that a new design for the Association's badge should be considered.

A proposal was also reported that officers of the Association should hold office for a limited period, and members were informed that a sub-committee had been formed to produce the annual report at, it was believed, a reduced cost. These last four points had been discussed by the general committee and members were asked to think them over and give their committee members some guidance at the annual Divisional meeting. at Chichester in February.

OBITUARY

MR. PERCY WHITAKER

Mr. Percy Whitaker, of Meagill Rise, Otley, Yorks, who died in hospital on November 1st, aged 57, who will be greatly missed among bellringers throughout the North of England.

He was a renowned member of the Yorkshire Association since 1945 and had rung in 16 peals for the Association, but most of all he was notable for the devoted service he rendered to Otley Parish Church for about 40 years, Until a few years ago he had been Ringing Master and towerkeeper, and many bellringers, past and present, owe their success to him; his tuition was always patient and untiring. He was also closely connected with the bellringers of St. Oswald's Church, Guiseley. He had a musical and inventive mind and had composed many peals himself.

Mr. Whitaker will be remembered as a kind, modest person, always willing to help. He leaves one sister.

MRS. JOAN TURNER

An Appreciation

I was grieved to read in "The Ringing World" of the death of Mrs. Joan Turner, of St. Mary's, Twickenham.

One could not say that she was well known in ringing circles but she was one of those loyal, conscientious and kindly persons who are the backbone of local bands up and down the country I came into contact with her many times, particularly with the arrangements of Association meetings at Twickenham, when she was always happy to arrange tea and make the visitors welcome.

For this and all her patient, devoted service at St. Mary's we of the Middlesex Association are grateful.

FRED W. GOODFELLOW.

MR. JOHN PUGSLEY

The sole surviving founder member of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association, Mr. John Pugsley, of Minehead, Somerset, died on November 6th, aged 95 years. His services to the Dunster Branch were outstanding and for more than 30 years he was Branch Ringing Master. To SS. Michael and Andrew's Church, Minehead, he gave a life of service in various capacities.

Among the quarter peals rung to his memory were:—

Minehead.—On November 11th, 1,259 Grandsire Caters: H. V. Young 1, R. F. Arscott 2, H. Purchase 3, A. H. Reed (cond.) 4, G. Sparkes 5, F. Casley 6, F. J. Bulley 7, W. J. Nurcombe 8, H. W. Lloyd 9, W. Middleton 10. Rung half-muffled.

Wiveliscombe.—On November 13th, 1,260 Grandsire Triples: R. V. Gunter 1, H. V. Young 2, F. Casley 3, G. Maidment 4, R. Pickering 5, W. J. Nurcombe 6, W. A. J. Knight (cond.) 7, A. Gale 8. Rung half-muffled.

AN APPRECIATION

It was with very deep sorrow that members of the Bath and Wells Association, and especially the Dunster Branch, heard of the death of that veteran of change ringing, Mr. Jack Pugsley, of Minehead.

He started ringing at an early age and was a founder member of the Minehead Guild and a life member of the Dunster Guild (1883). He was, I believe, the last surviving founder member of the Bath and Wells Association and attended the first meeting of the newly-formed Association at Taunton on July 5th, 1890. In 1955 he was made an honorary life member of the Association.

He was a keen peal ringer in his early years; his first peal was in 1891. Several of his peals were rung by a mixed band from Dunster and Minehead, the two Guilds being closely connected under their instructor, the Rev. J. U. Todd.

Mr. Pugsley was a member of the band which rang the first peal of Caters on the Minehead bells. He was elected Ringing Master of Dunster in 1930 and tower captain at Minehead in 1931. He held both these offices until compelled to relinquish them on doctor's orders in 1960. Jack was a very close friend of the late George Stacey, who was secretary of the Dunster Branch for over 50 years.

Mr. Pugsley was held in high esteem by those fortunate enough to know him personally, being of a friendly and cheerful disposition with a keenness for ringing that endeared him to all. He had given a lifetime to the art and reached the ripe old age of 95 before being called "Home."

Many of his friends attended his funeral at the church he had served so faithfully. Half-muffled touches were rung after the service and a last tribute was paid to him by members of the Association by ringing a half-muffled quarter peal of Grandsire Caters on November 11th.

The Association has lost a devoted and highly respected member and it is now up to us to perpetuate his memory by following the example set for us in the years ahead.

DURHAM & NEWCASTLE REDUCE DISTRICTS TO THREE

WITH 90 years of history behind it and the programme of celebrations over, the Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association turned to more mundane matters when it held its annual general meeting on October 21st in Chester-le-Street, possibly the first annual meeting to be held there.

One item in the business meeting brought the election of 31 new members, the bulk of them young ringers, to add to the feeling of confidence that the Association will still be in good shape for the centenary. Four of the new members—the Misses E. and M. Ranken and Messrs. C. and J. Richardson— are following in the footsteps of a ringing parent, Mrs. Margaret Ranken and Mr. Matthew Richardson respectively. With a membership of about 200 such an increase is appreciable and this will help to improve the financial position noted in the treasurer's statement and which had given some concern to the committee earlier in the day.

Chester-le-Street is central and accessible so it was not surprising that over 80 people were present at tea. The congregation was of this size for the service, which was conducted by the Rector, the Rev. A. Spurr. The president read the lesson, and Mrs. Mary Hall, one of the local ringers, played the organ.

GOOD SUPPORT FOR CELEBRATION PROGRAMME

The president, Mr. W. Tyson, was in the chair for the business meeting which followed the tea in the Church Institute. Reports were presented on the year's activities, and those of the Ringing Master and secretary described the programme of events in celebration of the 90th year of the Association. These had all been well supported and successful. While no teaching course had been held at Lumley Castle, there had been special meetings for learners arranged by the Districts and they had been very well attended.

The peal report as presented recorded only 19 peals (including one on handbells) against 48 the previous year. Nevertheless, 66 ringers had taken part, much the same as in the previous year, and four ringers—Miss A. H. Whaley and Messrs. P. M. Park, A. Taylor and K. M. Talbot—had scored their first peal. The leading conductor was Mr. M. Maughan with six. The peal of New Durham was the first on tower bells.

The treasurer's statement showed a decline in the overall balance in hand from £67 19s. 8d. to £54 9s. 4d., the General Fund having fallen by over £18, while the Bell Restoration and Education Funds had improved. The main reasons for the decline in the General Fund had been the increase in the cost of printing the annual report to £55 and expenditure on letter headings, which is not likely to recur for a few more years. Investigations are proceeding to find a cheaper method of producing the report.

The election of officers showed very few changes and those re-elected were: President, W. Tyson; secretary, D. A. Bayles; treasurer, E. N. Harrison; Ringing Master, K. Arthur; editorial secretary, K. W. Cheeseman; auditor, F. Ainsley.

Mr. J. Anderson wrote to tender his resignation as a trustee on account of ill-health. Mr. T. Cooke felt that it would be better to have two people who were living nearer to each other and withdrew from his own position as a trustee. In view of the short notice of these resignations it was decided to appoint Messrs. Arthur and Harrison to act until such time as the committee met again to consider the matter further. The District officers were confirmed as follows:—Northern: Chairman, S. Hewitt; secretary, D. Martin. Southern: Chairman, T. Cooke; secretary, Miss J. Warwick. Eastern: Chairman, W. Maughan; secretary, Miss M. A. Thow. Western: Chairman, C. T. Lamb; secretary, W. Davidson.

A year ago the committee had received favourably a suggestion that the number of Districts should be reduced to three and it had instructed the Ringing Master to formulate detailed proposals and to discuss them with each of the Districts in turn. The proposals of Mr. Arthur had met with approval in the Districts and so there was little discussion when it came to the introduction of the formal motion to amend Rule 12 to give effect to those proposals. The motion was carried unanimously. The three Districts will be known as Northern, Central and Southern. It is anticipated that the District officers already elected for the Northern and Southern Districts will continue and that the Central District will elect its officers at its first meeting.

Meetings were arranged for 1968 as follows: Social, Chester-le-Street, January 6th; Half-yearly, Consett, May 11th; Annual, Newcastle, October 5th

After votes of thanks expressed by the president, congratulations were offered to R. Alder Gofton, of Whitley Bay, who was 90 on that day, and to Wilfrid F. Moreton, who had scored his 1,000th peal at Darlington when ringing to celebrate the 90th anniversary of the foundation of the Association.

GUILD OF DEVONSHIRE RINGERS

The meeting of the Mid-Devon Branch on November 4th at Totnes, with Mr. W. Simmonds in the chair, was marked by electing six new members from Torre, one from Brixham and four non-resident members prior to a peal attempt.

Ringing in the afternoon was under the supervision of Mr. K. E. Fursdon, Branch Ringing Master, and consisted of Grandsire, Stedman and Erin Triples and Plain Bob Major. The Vicar, the Rev. G. H. Samuel, conducted the service, and evening ringing was at Berry Pomeroy.

Next meeting: Annual, Buckfastleigh, with Dean Prior.

DEVIZES BRANCH HOLD FIRST RINGING CONTEST

The monthly meeting of the Devizes Branch at St. Margaret's Church, Corsley, on November 4th, took the form of a striking competition, the first ever held in the Branch.

Nine teams from the following towers competed: St. Michael's, Melksham; Christ Church and Holy Trinity, Bradford-on-Avon; St. Denys', Warminster; SS. Peter and Paul's, Longbridge Deverill; St. Margaret's, Corsley; St. Mary's, Potterne; St. Michael's, Urchfont; and St. Mary's, Market Lavington (represented by six boys from Dauntsey School). The judges were the Rev. Roger Keeley (Marlborough) and Mr. W. Luton (Swindon).

After the competition a service was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. G. T. N. Solomon), with Mrs. Ayres as organist. The Rector, in his address, welcomed the ringers, saying that ringing was a vocation and an art which could be used both for pleasure and for the work of the Church.

Over 60 sat down to a delicious tea provided by the Corsley ringers and their friends, and afterwards the judges gave their comments. The competition winners were: 1 Warminster (Stedman Doubles) 11 faults; 2 Melksham (Plain Bob Minor) 14; 3 Corsley (Grandsire Doubles) 24; 4 Urchfont (Grandsire Doubles) 32. The three Ringing Masters had provided a shield for annual competition, and Mr. N. G. Knee was very pleased to accept it as captain of the winning team. The chairman (Mr. C. F. Andrews), of Melksham, in presenting the shield, hoped that the competition would foster the desire for better ringing in the area, and that losing teams would be inspired to take the shield from Warminster next year.

Ringing took place during the evening under the direction of the Ringing Master of Melksham, Bob Purnell, who was also responsible for all the competition arrangements. He is to be congratulated on the smooth running of the event.

BELFRY GOSSIP

St. Michael's, Bray, are losing a faithful ringer in Miss Juliet Hall, who is leaving for a post in the Belgian Congo.

Mr. Frederick J. Cullum has rung 379 peals at St. John the Baptist's, Erith, and has thus surpassed Mr. A. Cutler's record.

Councillor Fred Bennett rang in the peal of Plain Bob Royal at Ossett, Yorks, on November 4th to mark his election as Mayor. A happy year of office, Mr. Mayor!

The Bingham District had a very successful meeting at Gedling on November 12th and it was crowded most of the time. Canon C. H. R. Watson gave a very good talk, and the tea prepared by local ladies was excellent.

Queen Mary Surprise Minor was rung on Fawley bells as the veteran Atlantic liner left on its last journey. It is a sign of progress at Fawley under the leadership of Mr. L. D. Smith, as only four of the band had rung a plain course in the method before.

It was a new experience for some of a party of ringers from Furness and Lake District Branch who visited seven Yorkshire towers on September 30th. The towers were at Giggleswick, Skipton, St. Peter's, Harrogate, Ripon Cathedral, Masham, Bedale and Middleham.

After an absence of almost three years, the name of Mr. Garry W. Mason, of Leicester, appears in the peal columns again, with a peal of Lincolnshire Surprise Major rung at Enderby, Leicestershire, on November 11th, conducted by his brother, Kingsley.

Thirteeen of the band at Barrow-upon-Soar, Leics (a six-bell tower), have rung quarter peals for services this year.

Sales of "The Ringing World" for the past four weeks have each exceeded 6,000. The best was 6,111 copies.

As well as ringing at 10.15 a.m. on the second Sunday in every month, Blofield, Norfolk, bells now ring regularly at 5.45 p.m. for Evensong. Visitors would be welcome.

Mr. Tony Lurcock claims to be the only reader of "The Ringing World" in Finland. His cheque for two guineas to a recent appeal was much appreciated.

Twelve-year-old Richard Yates, son of Mr. W. A. Yates, has added Stedman to his repertoire. He rang his first quarter of Triples in that method at Wicken.

Congratulations to Stephen R. Munday, the son of Mr. F. A. Munday, on conducting his first peal—one of Plain Bob Major—at Bradford Cathedral on November 11th.

After a lapse of four months, St. Peter Mancroft bells are again ringing following repairs to the tower. Owing to cancellation of peal attempts, no new applications for peals can be considered for 1968.

"The 'Ringing World' has been a real eye-opener to many Church people who had no idea there was so much in ringing and that there was such a family spirit among ringers."
—A Kent parson who had a special number on sale in his church.

BELFRY GOSSIP

A HOSPITAL ROMANCE

The wedding took place on Harvest Festival Sunday at her home Parish Church of All Saints, Chilvers Coton, Nuneaton, of 20-year-old Miss Christine Mason, a third-year nursing student at the Royal South Hants Hospital, Southampton, and Mr. Peter Brian Arnold, third and youngest son of Mr. C. I. Arnold, of Manor Home Farm, Dibden, Hythe, Hants.

The couple met when the bridegroom was admitted to hospital after a driving accident while driving one of his father's coaches which overturned. He was tended by the bride, who was on duty in the casualty department.

Christine was formerly first holder of the office of vice-captain at Coton Parish Church tower when the position was created and given to a junior member of the belfry as a gesture of appreciation and encouragement to the younger ringing element. She was also a handbell ringer, and during the reception at home use was made of a heavy set of handbells bequeathed to Coton Church by another patient she nursed while serving her cadet course at a Nuneaton general hospital.

The bride was welcomed to her own wedding by merry ringing on Coton bells, which later gave the newlyweds a rousing send-off into married life. Ringers acted as ushers, bridesmaids and photographers, while Mr. A. H. Beamish, captain of Coton ringers and president of Coventry Diocesan Guild, drove the bride to church and back home with her husband. On leaving the church she was traditionally greeted with a kiss from the family chimney sweep, who was carrying a brand new brush.

Peter, who is 24, made Christine his wife with the wedding ring which had belonged to his late mother, on whose grave the bride's spray or orchids and freesias was afterwards laid.

A well-attended service was conducted by the Vicar and Rural Dean (the Rev. Michael Mansbridge), who later proposed the toast of "The Visitors," colloquially referring to Southampton guests as "Hampshire Hogs," of whom he himself was one in origin, he said. Coton's captain gave the toast of "Bride and Bridegroom."

The bride wore a floor-length boutique gown in heavy white nylon with a guipure lace bodice, a chiffon overskirt with matching lace hem, and a flowing tulle veil with scalloped edges and a rounded border of lace.

She is the younger daughter of Mr. Stanley Mason, a multiple grocers' branch manager and chairman of Coton Church C.E.M.S. Branch, and Mrs. Evelyn Mason, a journalist and teacher of commerce.

After a weather-shortened honeymoon car tour of Wales, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Arnold went to their future home, The School House, Longdown, Marchwood, Southampton.

A SANGUINARY EXPERIENCE

A cut on the hand of the tenor ringer, Bertram J. Coggins, during a peal of Mablethorpe Surprise Major at Witney on November 9th caused the sally and the rope-end to be soaked with blood, which also sprinkled the floor. Afterwards the rope was taken away to be boiled!

The peal was also memorable for D. Kay Adkins as it completed his alphabet to Surprise Major methods and was his 50th with Terence J. Hester and 75th with Frederick W. Soden. It was also Christopher C. Clarke's 250th peal.

READING UNIVERSITY SOCIETY

With our renowned genius for the ridiculous, Reading University ringers chose what was to turn out to be the foggiest day of the year for the winter term outing. As if this was not enough the situation seemed to be descending to the macabre when the minibus failed to arrive—no doubt falling into the Thames on its way. But once again we rose to the challenge—amazingly four members have struggled from the depths of poverty to reach the state of possessing motor cars.

Despite the tremendous meteorological hazards, the four-car convoy reached Abingdon, where we rang quite good Grandsire and Stedman Caters.

We struggled through the murk to the suitably peculiar six at Cumnor. Though difficult to ring (for us), the one member of our Society who is not tone deaf assured me the bells sounded quite good. The excellent heavy eight at Dorchester was visited next and despite sub-zero temperature Cambridge Major was well rung. The last tower contained the light eight at Warborough, where the ringing fell below our normal high(?) standard. A social two hours followed. M. G. I.

SOUTHAMPTON RINGING SCHOOL'S FIRST PEAL

The first peal by the Totton Grammar School Ringing Society—one of Minor in 10 methods—is the outcome of regular quarter peal attempts which have brought a number of members up to peal ringing standard. There were four people ringing their first peal in this attempt. but the conductor, Mr. Derek C. Jackson, informs us that it is hoped to achieve some more "firsts" in the next few months. The peal was a "welcome back to ringing" compliment for the tower captain, Mr. L. D. Smith, who rang the tenor so well after his recent operation in a Southampton hospital.

KIDLINGTON, OXON, BELLS

Living next to the 14th century St. Mary's Church, Kidlington, is Mr. Maurice Holmes, and he has written to the parish magazine complaining of the bells—"a discordant, crashing, jangling assonance." It goes on, he states, every Sunday between 7.30 and 8.30 p.m., late on Saturday nights and sometimes early on Sunday mornings. The activities of the ringers have "grossly violated the peace, privacy and convenience of people living at the end of Church Street."

The Vicar, the Rev. Ian Beacham, who is editor of the magazine, replies that the noise made by the bells is "a hazard which goes with the privilege of living in such a delightful part of the parish."

St. Mary's Church, he adds, has a fine ring of bells and the hospitality of the belfry is often extended to visiting ringers. In order to ring well the ringers have to practise, but there is a definite policy of restricting ringing within reasonable limits.

SEVENTH GENERATION OF RINGERS

David R. Williams, who rang his first quarter peal at All Saints' Church, Gresford, Derbyshire, on November 1st, was of the seventh generations of Williams ringing at this church. His father, Mr. E. M. Ray Williams, was ringing the fourth bell. This must surely be a record in family ringing.

PETERBOROUGH GUILD DINNER

Dear Sir,—I would refer to the third and fourth editorial comments which preceded the report of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild's annual dinner ("Ringing World" issue of November 10th).

The inference from the statement commenting on Mr. G. W. Pipe's speech is that he attended our dinner, as a guest, and then proceeded to tell us how we should organise ourselves. Such an inference could not be further from the truth. From previous correspondence with myself, George Pipe knew of our desire to examine critically our present structure, with a view to reorganise in an attempt to improve recruitment, training and better utilisation of our resources. The suggestions made by George Pipe were a constructive and helpful effort, on his part, to indicate to us what paths of thought and investigation might prove most fruitful to us in our task ahead. At no time did George Pipe set the Suffolk Guild up as the "Utopia" of ringing organisation which we would do well to emulate; he merely likened some of our difficulties to those of the Suffolk Guild.

To regard Mr. Chapman's remarks about "The Ringing World" Committee as a "threat" is nothing more than mere newspaper sensationalism. However, it is true and right that if any elected committee of any organisation does not carry out the wishes of the governing body, then they should be replaced by people who will make a determined effort to implement the desired policies. Mr. Chapman's opinion is that the present committee members are ignoring the Central Council's desires and if, in 1969, the majority of Council members are also of this opinion, then they should and will be replaced.

If the editorial comments to which I have referred are examples of "drawing conconclusions" by the Editorial Committee, then I wonder how many wrong conclusions this band must have reached in the past.—Yours faithfully,

E. BILLINGS,
General Secretary,
Peterborough Diocesan Guild.

Note.—The two paragraphs in the introduction to the report were written by the Editor. and not by the Committee. There is no criticism of Mr. Pipe's conduct or suggestion that his presence was not helpful to the Peterborough Guild after his experience of the Suffolk Guild reorganisation. The speech of Mr. Chapman was clearly a warning or threat to the Committee. The decision on publication rests with the Editor and most weeks there are letters which he considers should not be published. The Editor, however, gives heed to the policy directives from the Committee—Ed.

CARY BRANCH AUTUMN MEETING

About 15 towers were represented and visitors from Plympton, Devon, were welcomed at the Cary Branch autumn meeting on October 28th. The Vicar (the Rev. J. T. Hayward) conducted the service, the Rev. D. C. Barker was organist, and Mr. H. G. White (tower captain) read the lesson.

The chair was taken by the Rev. G. S. Robinson at the business meeting, which followed tea. Seven new members were elected from Barton St. David, Milborne Port and North Cadbury, and reports were given on the recent Branch outing, the Corporate Communion and the half-day ringing school.

More About The "Squarer Deal"

A Progress Report

THE publication of the article "A Squarer Deal for the Learner" has led to developments more rapid and far more interesting than had ever been envisaged by its author. This being the case, here is a report of the progress so far achieved.

I was fully expecting the article to be passed over in silence at home; but during the days immediately following publication a considerable amount of St. Albans comment came my way—some critical, some encouraging, all in various ways helpful. This was fine; but what should my next step be? I had no clear plan of campaign beyond a vague notion that it might be advisable to attempt to get the scheme adopted at Central Council level—not that I had any idea of how best to accomplish this.

Then came a letter that was to prove a turning point. It was sent by Miss H. M. Allcard, who rings at Droxford, in Hampshire, and it expressed great interest in the scheme. In this letter she also mentioned the fact that she is a riding instructor. Now I was at the time frustratedly searching among classified advertisements for a vacation job with horses. Thus I came to be in the temporary employ of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Whitmore, of Shedfield Grange, from which, in the intervals of looking after a delightful small boy, a kindly old Welsh cob and a trio of demanding small dogs, I was taken out night after night by Miss Allcard in search of fresh towers to conquer.

The Hampshire ringers gave me an unforgettable fortnight; I returned home the richer by nine towers and a quarter peal and, more important, by the experience of much good ringing on many good rings of bells and in truly wonderful company.

Home again, I was finally dissuaded from going straight to the Central Council by Radlett's long-suffering tower captain, whom, I'm afraid, I kept talking on the subject for some considerable time after the practice had ended. He suggested that, before contemplating plans on a national scale, it might be wise first to introduce the scheme to a definite and restricted area; accordingly I prepared a bulletin (comprising a syllabus of tests and certain explanatory notes), and of this bulletin sent one copy to Radlett and six to Miss Allcard for distribution to selected towers in that area of Hampshire in which I had lately been ringing.

What have been the results so far? They could best be described as scattered, but hopeful. Curdridge and Bishop's Waltham have expressed a desire to take part in the scheme; Radlett has done likewise; Droxford has expressed approval, with qualifications; Mr. E. W. Colley, of Bishop's Waltham, has asked for his own copy of the scheme, and I am awaiting his comments; Mr. J. Pitfield, of Curdridge, has sent me his most valuable observations on the tests; I have been informed on more than one occasion of lengthy and thorough discussion arising directly from consideration of the controversial points raised in the "Squarer Deal"; and the latest news I possess is that a copy of the bulletin has found its way to Farnborough, Hants. (I also have a shrewd suspicion that another copy of the bulletin is in hiding somewhere in the ringing chamber at Blewbury, Berks, where I'm pretty sure I dropped it prior to a peal of Stedman; this is not, I can assure the Blewbury band, a subtle attempt at propagandising!).

What does the scheme entail? I shall be occupying far too much of "The Ringing World's" space if I give full details in this report; but here at least are some answers to leading questions, most of which were actually put to me during the course of discussion.

(i) What is the scope of the tests?

From chiming to spliced, including full testing in Plain Bob, Grandsire, Stedman and Kent, and taking in all numbers up to Royal. The tests are arranged in four classes, from D to A; in each test there are ten test-items.

(ii) Won't it involve too much paper-work for tower captains?

No; all the tower captain has to do is to sign and date each satisfactorily performed test-item.

(iii) Won't it be difficult to avoid a tremendous variation in standard?

To a certain extent a variation in standard is inevitable; but I have tried to provide for a reasonable minimum standard of attainment in the bulletin under the heading "Conditions for Tests." Briefly, these are: (a) not more than one candidate (two in the case of items on Test-cards B and A) to be tested at any one time; (b) no candidate to require or to be offered any assistance during testing); (c) no test performance to be accepted as such which fires up or which has to be brought round by main force—whether or not it is the candidate who is at fault.

(iv) Won't the proposed tests widen the gap between, on the one hand, those who habitually ring on five and/or six bells and, on the other, those who favour the higher numbers?

Emphatically no; the tests are so constructed as to encourage the learner at each stage to ring on varying numbers of bells—and thus, in towers other than his own. To clarify this point: Test D introduces ringing on eight; Test C ranges from Doubles to Major; Test B includes Caters; and Test A Royal.

(v) Who decides when a learner is ready for testing—the learner himself, or his instructor?

Without doubt, the learner himself. It is for him to inform the instructor that he feels ready to be tested in any one item—though I need hardly add that it is for the instructor to decide whether or not to allow this claim.

(vi) How can the scheme benefit isolated, struggling bands?

This is an extremely difficult question, since the success of the scheme depends so largely on close co-operation between bands. However, I think that "test meetings" would go a long way towards overcoming the problems faced by isolated towers. These meetings would be held at towers with easy-going rings of bells especially for the benefit of learners wishing to pass, or practise, particular test-items. Attendance at such meetings would be restricted, e.g. to a Class B test-meeting only those ringers who were either working for their Class B or in possession of their Class B could come.

Where do we go from here? I'm firmly convinced, in view of all the support and encouragement I have had, that the Graded Tests scheme has a future; that it can do much to facilitate teaching, stabilise the standard of ringing and provide uniformly better conditions for learning. I would like to see the scheme in the hands of the Associations; but, clearly, Association officials cannot be expected to show much enthusiasm for the task of supervising the running of a scheme as yet totally untried. The bringing into operation of a number of pilot schemes is the only practicable solution; and this entails the assistance of a fair number of bands. Therefore I am openly appealing to all those ringers who have any interest in the furtherance of a scheme of graded tests.

If you have already received a bulletin, and would like to run a graded-test scheme in your tower, please contact me for test-cards, stating how many you would like and in which grades.

If you have not yet received a bulletin, and would like a copy, please contact me to receive, free of charge, a copy of the third edition of "Graded Tests—an Experimental Scheme."

If you would like to criticise or comment, please write either to me or to "The Ringing World."

The address to write to:—

Before December 9th: Miss E. M. Barber, Somerville College, Oxford.

After December 9th: 5, St. Peter's Close, St. Albans, Herts.

In conclusion, I should like to thank most warmly all those who in any way contributed to the formulation of the scheme. Especially I would like to thank those who wrote to "The Ringing World" with praise or criticism; and, by name, Mr. Gerald Penney, who asked me some searching questions, Mr. Roy Jones, who argued with me for hours, Mr. Pitfield, for his very cogent observations, Mr. R. W. M. Clouston for his invaluable advice, and last, but by no means least, the indefatigable allies from Droxford—Miss Allcard and Miss Wade.

N.B.—In the original version of the bulletin there is an error, which, though it has no doubt been spotted, I would better point out. For "Bob Doubles, P.C., Affected at Calls," please read, of course, "Bob Doubles, Touch, ..."

THE CHURCH OF ST. PETER-AD-VINCULA, STOKE-UPON-TRENT

Our Picture—St Peter-ad-Vincula, Stoke

By G. C. Beech

STOKE churchyard boasts an ancient Saxon Preaching Cross (on which is carved what is believed to be the original Staffordshire Knot), the reconstructed relics of a previous church and the final resting place of Josiah Wedgwood, Spode, Minton and other famous "pottery" names.

A stone Saxon church was built on the site between 801 and 805, probably replacing an earlier wooden building. The year 1150 saw the building of a new Norman church to which a chancel was added later. This church was completely restored in 1300, two aisles and the tower being added in 1370.

Whilst there appears to be no accurate records, an "Inventory of Church Goods," dated V May, 1553, reads: "Fyrst iij belles in the stephull, on small bell and iij cruets, etc."—and later, "Chales of Silver with patent iij belles in the stephull safli to be kepte." The churchwardens' accounts for a later period show that money was paid for "recasting belles" in 1611, 1617 and 1627. One such account contains the item, "For helping up the bell into the steeple"—but does not say how much was paid for this arduous task.

MELLOW-TONED TENOR

In 1705 Abraham Rudhall recast the existing bells into a new ring of six. These bells served for 126 years until, in fact, the present church was under construction. Messrs. William and John Taylor were commissioned to cast "a complete new peal of bells fitting for the new church at Stoke." The fate of Rudhall's now redundant bells is best described by extracts from letters written by Mr. John Taylor to his brother William (part of a letter dated 8th January, 1832): ". . . Stoke have a beautiful Peal of Rudhall's casting which they mean to part with for old metal in the key 'G'." A further letter dated 29th August, 1832, says this: ". . . it is now three months since Stoke bells were opened—they are much admired—the tenor is a particular soft mellow-toned bell, nearly down to 'E' flat and weight but 21 cwt. The bells are good and sound and are allowed to be the best peal of bells in the Potteries."

These bells, of course, are the newly cast ring of eight by John Taylor. Further on in this letter John Taylor goes on to say: "The six old bells of Stoke I have forwarded to Bideford—they are a very good peal of Old Abraham Rudhall's—it will be a pity to break them up—they are quite sound except the treble—the peal weight 40 cwt." A still further letter dated September 27th, 1833, says: "After offering Stoke old bells to, I think, a score of Parishes, I last sold them to Broadwood Kelly—they are a beautiful peal well in tune—the bells, I fancy, are not good singly, but when altogether are admirable."

Broadwood Kelly is in Devonshire; these bells have, I believe, been recast in recent years. I noticed that the first peal on these bells was claimed recently (R.W. 6/10/67 p. 721).

The new William and John Taylor bells mentioned previously are the present ring, cast probably at Buckland Brewer, Bideford, but possibly at Oxford, as they bear a founder's mark—an ox—on the waist of each bell. This new ring, hung in an oak frame, was opened in May, 1832, the frame lasted with some minor repairs—in the 1880s—until 1890, when a complete "rehang" in a cast-iron frame was undertaken by John Warner of the Cripplegate Foundry. Warner's frame lasted but forty years, and on Easter Sunday, 1930, the bells were rededicated after rehanging and tuning by John Taylor and Co., Loughborogh.

Little else has been done to the bells, but in 1963 the local band provided and installed a new ringing chamber-floor at a higher level, shortening the rope draught by some twenty feet.

The font from the Saxon church, lost for almost a century, turned up in a local garden where it had been used as a flower tub. It is interesting to note that when it was restored to the Parish Church in 1932 it was provided with a new lid made of 15th century oak taken from St. Peter's belfry, Wolverhampton.

FIRST PEAL IN 1888

The first peal recorded on the bells was of Grandsire Triples, rung on January 10th, 1888, and the first in the Potteries by a local band. The peal (Holt's Original) was conducted by Henry Page, father of C. H. Page (who rang at Stoke for over 50 years) and G. F. Page, who died earlier this year at Brighton. Thomas Rose, who rang the tenor for this peal, died in tragic circumstances in the belfry; his death was graphically described in the "Bell News" of the day. The article is still preserved in the belfry Minute Book, but is too long and too gruesome to repeat here—it still stands as a severe warning to anyone foolish enough to work on a frame when the bells are raised.

There have been some 41 peals rung since 1888, the last on Thursday, June 1st, 1967—this was of Stoke Surprise Major for the visit, earlier in the day, of the Archbishop of Canterbury.

DEATH OF Mr. JOHN WILLIS

AN OUTSTANDING ADMINISTRATOR

MR. JOHN WILLIS

The passing of Mr. John Willis, of Folkestone, in hospital on November 20th, will be deeply regretted by a very wide circle of friends. Since 1953 he had served the Kent County Association with outstanding ability in his position as vice-president, being invariably in the chair at any gathering he attended.

John had been in failing health for some months and when he attended the Central Council meeting at Nottingham this year the deterioration of his physical strength was noted with much regret. He had been a member of the Council since 1951 and served for some years on the Biographies Committee. Through the illness of his wife he did not seek re-election in 1957 but later became an honorary member.

Born at Egerton, Kent, 84 years ago, Mr. Willis was taught to ring at Charing at the age of 13 by the late William Spice. That year he joined the Kent County Association and in 1910 was appointed a committee member.

ON N.U.T. EXECUTIVE

John was a school teacher, a profession that has contributed much to the advancement of the Exercise. He held appointments at Faversham and Canterbury and in 1912 left Kent to become headmaster of Pondsbridge C. of E. School, Hunts. Advancement came in 1915 when he accepted the headship of Fortyfoot Bridge School, Ramsey, Hunts, and he stayed there for over 30 years.

His ability as an administrator was recognised by the profession and for 27 years he was hon. secretary of the Hunts County Teachers' Association and also a member of the County Education Committee. Another important post he held was that of East Anglian representative on the executive of the National Union of Teachers. At Ramsey he was a member of the U.D.C. and hon. secretary of the District Hospitals Committee.

Freemasonry was another of his interests. He was Worshipful Master of Arlwyn Lodge 3535 and held provincial honours in Northants and Hunts. In Kent he had been Worshipful Master of the Shorncliffe Lodge 4330.

There will, we are sure, be many tributes to his work on behalf of the Kent County Association When the late Mr. E. H. Lewis left Kent there was an air of dismay, and the selection of John Willis as his successor as chairman maintained the vital and progressive spirit of the Association. There have been few chairmen his equal. Dignified yet friendly, he had a firm grip of proceedings and he leaves behind a memory of greatness in all he undertook.

John Willis was a widower and is survived by one son.

The funeral service was at Charing Crematorium last Friday.

TO TRY AGAIN FOR HANDBELL RECORD

Mr. Frank C. Price, of Crowthorne, Berks, informs us that the attempt for the record handbell peal of 20,160 Plain Bob Minor on November 4th was unsuccessful.

He writes: "The attempt started at 1007 hours and in the eighth attempt two bells changed over and the ringing was stopped immediately. It seemed that the handbell ringing in the morning was unsettled too much to make for the quality required for a record peal.

"However, after a bite of lunch the second attempt was made, starting at 1315 hours, and progressed splendidly, hour after hour of excellent ringing, containing only three very minor trips. A little after 1715 hours there was a tendency for the tenor to slow slightly, disturbing the rhythm. This rectified, the ringing continued in the manner required for another 35 minutes, when the tenor again started slowing—a course and a half from the end of the 20th extent.

"Whilst the conductor was proffering advice and encouragement he omitted a bob and in order not to mar what would have been an excellent performance the bells were stopped a few minutes before 1800 hours—with the end in sight! 14,300 + changes had been rung in fine fashion in 4 hours and 37 minutes.

NEXT ATTEMPT

In the knowledge that the band are fully capable of ringing the length required, notice is hereby given that a further attempt will be made to ring 20,160 of Plain Bob Minor at Crowthorne on Saturday, December 16th, 1967, the composition and umpires and conditions being as for the previous attempt as published by letter in "The Ringing World" on October 27th.

"I would like to take this opportunity of thanking the three umpires—Messrs. S. G. Scott, A. J. N. Rance and J. L. Claughton—for giving of their time to assist us in our efforts and also for kindly offering to act again on December 16th in the same capacity."

DID NORWICH ASSOCIATION FORGET ?
DAVID E. HOUSE RECALLS THE 90th ANNIVERSARY

THE 90th anniversary of the Norwich Diocesan Association of Ringers has passed virtually unnoticed, within the diocese as well as without. It was in fact founded on April 4th, 1877, and the inaugural meeting was held in Norwich on September 24th of that year, when ringing took place in eight of the city towers (would that this was still possible !). Ringing was, of course, well established in Norwich by this date, and the city could look back on a half peal of Grandsire Triples in 1710. and the first true full peal (Plain Bob Triples) in 1715, as well as the first peals of Grandsire Triples, Stedman Triples, Double Norwich from Major to Maximus, and the first peal of London Major, rung on the back eight at St. Andrew's, where the ropes fell in the order 1, 3, 2, 7, 10, 5, 4, 6, 9, 8. In this foundation year Charles Middleton, already in his 60th year, was captain of the ringers at St Peter Mancroft.

The founders of the Norwich Diocesan Association thought that the art of the Norwich Scholars had been "despised by the people in general, and no attempts were made to enlighten them in the matter'" (Annual Report, 1881). Accordingly they made the principal object of their Association "the promotion of Change-ringing and Belfry Reform," an aim which lies behind the formation of the many territorial Associations at this time, beginning with the Guild of Devonshire Ringers in 1874. The Norwich Diocesan Association was the fourth such Association, following Devon, Yorkshire and Lancashire, and preceding Durham, whose 90th anniversary celebrations are reported in the isues of April 14th and October 6th, by a mere four months.

The first annual report was produced in September, 1878, and gives details of 269 performing members and 75 honorary members, from 37 affiliated towers. Entrance qualifications were either a 720 on six bells or two distinct methods on five bells, to be rung to the satisfaction of the committee, and the subscription was fixed at one shilling annually, which had to be paid on time. The report also records nine peals rung by members of the Association, and it is the first of these, rung at Redenhall on November 6th, 1877, which was commemorated recently.

The peal board in the belfry reads as follows:—

"Superlative Surprise Major."

"On Tuesday, November 6th, 1877, eight members of the Association (being also members of the Royal Cumberland Society) rang on these bells 5152 changes in the above method in 3 Hours and 27 Minutes. This is the first peal rung by members of the Association and the eighth of Superlative ever rung. It was composed by Mr. John Cox, conducted by Mr. Benjamin Smith, and rung by the following band.

Benjamin Smith	Treble
George Prime	2
Rev. N. Bolingbroke	3
Robert Whiting	4
Edward Smith	5
Gervas Holmes esq.	6
John Smith	7
Captain Moore	Tenor

The composition was in fact the 27-course block in its original version (M. W. 3H, M. 3H, M. 3H), with the first two blocks of bobs at home omitted. The band was drawn together from Redenhall, Alburgh and Pulham, and rang a large number of peals, chiefly of Treble Bob, in the early years of the Association. Four of the above men took part in the second peal by the Association, on the same bells, only four days later. Gervas Holmes, J.P., was a vice-president of the Association and presided over the inaugural meeting, while Captain Moore was also involved with the foundation, and was elected to the Central Council in 1890, though his death occurred before the next meeting. The Rev. Nathaniel Bolingbroke later became the second secretary of the Association, remaining in office until his death in 1889, when he was in turn succeeded by the Rev. H. Earl Bulwer.

The peal of Superlative was a good achievement at a time when the standard fare consisted of Oxford Treble Bob and occasional peals of Plain Bob, Grandsire and Kent. The next peal of Surprise by resident members of the Association was not scored until 1900. The present peal maintains the link with the Cumberlands through the present general secretary of the Association. Unfortunately he is outnumbered by College Youths !

I hope that you will find some of this information of value—although no official celebrations have been arranged, as in Durham. the peal band felt that the occasion should not pass by without notice.

The Day's Programme — 17 Leicestershire Towers

SATURDAY, November 4th, presented poor weather prospects, but for about 14 ringers from Rutland and also farther afield there were good ringing prospects ahead, with a possibility of ringing at 17 towers in Leicestershire before the end of the day. A good start was made just before 9.30 a.m. at Illston-on-the-Hill, and some quite good ringing was enjoyed on the six bells. We arrived at King's Norton on time and began to raise the bells. A few people claimed to have rung here before, but their experience proved of little value. When the stayless third had been raised we did just manage some rounds, at the end of which the fourth jumped the wheel, leaving Susan with a few extra feet of rope. This little matter having been rectified, another try at some rounds was made, but by the time the front seven had settled down the tenor was halfway down and refused to go back up ! We dropped the bells and hastened to Oadby, leaving the many jackdaws once more in peace.

The 12¼ cwt. six at Oadby are very pleasant, although the treble sounds rather shrill outside. Here we rang Cambridge, Kent, Single Oxford, Plain Bob and rounds quite satisfactorily. At Thurnby the tenor is only three pounds lighter than than Oadby tenor, but we thought the tone much superior. Humberstone's six (19–3–24) are of disappointing tone, although the bells were not unduly difficult to handle. Access to the ringing chamber is by means of a long, vertical ladder, and at least one member of the party refused to ascend. Plain Bob and three leads of Kent were rung quite well.

SYSTON—A SUPERB OCTAVE

Thurmaston bells (6, 10¼ cwt.), rung from the ground floor, are nothing special. A notice warned learners to avoid the third as it had been fitted with an oak stay. Single Oxford, Plain Bob and Kent all went reasonably well before we moved on to Wanlip, another ground-floor ring. The light six here are delightful to ring, our greatest disappointment being the shortage of time, but this was compensated by our next tower, SS. Peter and Paul, Syston, which contains a superb octave. A fair rise here was followed by an excellent touch of Bob Major, some good rounds and a course of Grandsire Triples.

At Barkby, the Vicar had died the previous day and so we felt it unwise to ring, and at Thrussington, our next scheduled tower, Christopher was unable to persuade the Vicar to have a ring. The fact that these bells are unfit to be rung was soon confirmed by those who climbed to the bell chamber. Long Clawson's heavy five, rung from the chancel, are a delight to ring, and Stedman, Reverse Canterbury, Winchendon, Plain Bob and Grandsire were all rung. The five bells at Hose are fairly average, and this matched our ringing on them. At Harby our drivers had to plough across a field made extra muddy by the three hours' heavy rain and a herd of cows which looked disdainfully at us.

A WELCOME HEATER

Eaton's light six (7–1–19) go very well and we succeeded in ringing Plain Bob, Oxford T.B., Norwich and Beverley much to our satisfaction. At Waltham-on-the-Wolds there was a rush to get warm round the little heater which the two local ringers who met us had thoughtfully switched on. Those of us who had to open and close gates on the near-flooded track from Eaton were especially glad to dry our feet. In spite of sounding rather noisy in the ringing chamber, the bells are quite pleasant and we rang Plain Bob and Kent before adding a good course of Surfleet to our repertoire of the day.

Wymondham's heavy six (19–3–0) were rather hard work at the end of the day but, nevertheless, Platn Bob and three leads of Kent were brought round. This ended our scheduled list of towers but most of the party made the journey across the border into Rutland to the weekly practice at Whissendine.

And so we made our farewells and went our various ways, some to go as far as Cosgrove and Derby, others not quite so far. Our grateful thanks are due to Christopher Groome for his excellent organisation, and to all incumbents and local companies for allowing us to ring.

STEEPLEKEEPING

Essential Work that Contributes to Good Ringing

By TY TENNIT

IT is to be hoped that in this article will be included something for everybody, and it is intended as a general guide for work within the limits of the average steeplekeeper. It is an acknowledged fact that few rings of bells are regularly or efficiently maintained for various reasons. For this reason a general system is given for a tower starting from scratch where an efficient tightening-up is intended, and various headings are given.

It is essential to have a good set of spanners, etc., to fit all types of nuts. These can be expensive but a few pounds invested in an efficient kit is worth a limitless sum in re-hanging, etc. Spanners should be collected as follows:—

3/4in., 11/16in., 5/8in., 9/16in., 1/2in., 7/16in.

These can be either flat spanners or ring spanners, the latter being a little more useful. It is also advisable to have a good heavy duty adjustable spanner (Clyburn is very good). A good pair of pliers, hammer and screwdriver are also useful.

CLEANLINESS

At this point I am assuming that the steeplekeeper is starting afresh to make a clean sweep, figuratively as well at literally. Is your tower clean? It is an astonishing fact that a majority of towers are extremely dirty and give access to birds, etc. Apart from the actual mess, dirt is naturally detrimental to both the "tone" and "go" of the bells. Window openings should be wired up with either a copper mesh or galvanised mesh. Chicken netting is useless, since apart from the fact that it corrodes quickly, I have known cases where birds have actually picked their way through it. So the first procedure is to gather volunteers and have a thorough clean out.

The P.C.C. should be approached to provide and/or fit a decent mesh, unless it is desired to provide some form of sound control due to noisiness. This will be described and a cheap method suggested later. At this stage all nuts should be treated with a good penetrating oil such as "Plusgas" or "Easit" or some such similar product. It is advisable to do this several days running before actual tightening-up commences. Clappers should be examined, as also all pulley sheaves. Free running of these latter is essential to maintain good "go," and a loose clapper bush can produce a rattle which is detrimental to tone (note difference in tone of any ring where clappers have been rebushed).

TIGHTENING-UP

Having thus cleaned out the tower, all should now be ready for the general tightening-up. Bell bolts are usually locked either by split pins or lock nuts. The former should be removed and the latter slackened off by using two spanners, one to hold the bottom nut while the top nut is loosened. I have myself seen several cases where steeplekeepers have attempted to tighten up with a lock nut solidly in place and as a result there is either no tightening or the whole bolt revolves. Good spanners are essential. Next start at one end of the ring and commence tightening. First tighten up the clapper bolts as far as possible. Next, the bell bolts themselves, working a part turn at a time on alternate bolts. If badly loose, never tighten up each bolt completely before moving to the next. Work patiently on each one so that all come up tight gradually thus preventing the bell from being pulled out of level. Finish up with a check on the clapper staple bolts. If any bolt turns round without the nut tightening, the top should be gripped tightly if nobody can be found to hold the bolt inside the bell.

If the headstocks are wooden, the nuts holding the gudgeons should also be tightened, working as with the bell bolts, i.e. part turning each, except that the inner pair should be commenced and the outer after.

GREASING

Alternate tightening is essential else the gudgeons may be pulled out of line. Once the bolts are tight, all greasers on pulleys should be removed and recharged with a light grease. If a period of over five years (some founders specify ten, but I personally feel it is too long a period for modern greasers) has elapsed since your bell races of the actual bearings have been charged, it is advisable to recharge again with grease specified by the founder concerned. Incorrect grease has been known to affect the "go" of bells. Ironwork should be painted regularly before rust sets in and any major signs of corrosion or rust beyond the scope of the steeplekeeper should be reported to the incumbent or P.C.C., as also any defects beyond control of the steeplekeeper. It is advisable to have a check made occasionally by a founder. A few pounds spent on regular maintenance is to be preferred to large sums spent on restoration through neglect. In cases of doubt, always consult somebody who actually knows. In most, if not all, Guilds, there are competent people who are quite willing to advise if it is not desired to contact actual founders.

STAYS

There have in recent issues been many helpful letters and suggestions on stays, etc., but it must always be remembered that these are made to break in an emergency, and must not under any circumstances be too strong. In one tower where a new band was being raised I did see stays strengthened with iron channels, etc. This is a most dangerous practice. If stays break too frequently there is always one of two reasons—something is wrong with the "hang" of the bell, or something is wrong with the ringers. I am fully aware that beginners must be taught and that occasionally stays become broken for this reason, but it is still too dangerous to fit stays that are too strong; several cases have been known of serious damage being done. A good, stout ash stay should be suitable for any bell, graded according to weight Don't bother about working out the kinetic energy in the bell, it is quite sufficient to fit one the same size as supplied originally by the founder.

Now in writing the foregoing I have assumed that all is routine and that no special difficulties have been encountered. I now intend to deal with any special peculiarity which could arise under its special heading. Remember always never to attempt any of this unless you are competent or have sufficient confidence.

A CENTRAL TOWER TOUR

A tour of a novel character was undertaken on October 28th by a minibus full of ringers from Hertford and Wheathampstead to six churches in the East Midlands where the bells were rung from the centre of the church in front of the congregation.

Unforeseen circumstances delayed the start, and in order to maintain the schedule it was necessary to abandon the first tower, Algarkirk. One of the party, travelling independently, did arrive here, where a local ringer was waiting to welcome the party. Our apologies to him.

We were thus able to arrive at Horbling, Lincs, with five minutes to spare. The bells here are excellent in both tone and "go" and with reluctance we left for Colston Bassett. Lunch had to be taken while on the move as the Vicar of Colston Bassett and Langar, a joint living, had also offered us Colston Bassett. He met us at Langar, where the ringing was well above average, and a tittums touch of Grandsire Triples proved the bells were as good as we had been told.

With apprehension we approached Long Clawson, Leics, bells, as we had been informed that there was a longer unguided draught of rope than at Wheathampstead. This illusion was shattered when we found that the ceiling was some eight feet lower. Reasonable ringing took place on the heavy five (17 cwt.).

After a brief stop at Melton Mowbray to enable the girls to do some shopping, we arrived at Somerby, where the ringing included a good course of Cambridge Minor. The last tower was at Glaston, Rutland, where we found a delightful little ring spoilt only by the tenor being slow at both back and hand. A short stop was made at Baldock on the homeward journey. The unanimous verdict was that all the bells rung were well worth the visit. Our best thanks to incumbents and people who met us and apologies again to Mr. Barsley, of Algarkirk.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Maidstone District

A by-meeting of the Maidstone District was held on November 11th at Mereworth, when over 40 members attended, including visitors from the Canterbury District. The service was conducted by the Rev. G. T. S. Prentice and the tea was held in the Village Hall.

During the short business meeting a suggestion was made to have a collection for "The Ringing World" at every District meeting; this was generally supported. A last farewell was given to Bernard Groves, who is leaving Kent to live in Cheshire. He was thanked for all the help that he had given to members of the District during the past few years both as a conductor of peals and as a splendid Ringing Master.

The secretary thanked the Rev. T. S. Prentice for conducting the service, the organist, and the ladies who provided the tea. Ringing continued until 8.45.

Letters to the Editor

INJURED RINGER CORRECTS INACCURACIES

Dear Sir,—Mr. Edgar C. Shepherd's "Century" article, "Leading or Misleading" in the issue of November 17th, is indeed worthy of its place.

I was therefore very surprised upon reading on page 838 inaccuracies in the item "Old Hill Ringer Out of Hospital," which I will endeavour to correct for you.

(i) I was not allowed home until Friday, November 3rd

(ii) I do not make a habit of teaching one method of holding a rope and then do the opposite myself. If I had been foolish enough to put my hand through the loop, then my injuries could have been more serious.

(iii) As for "bouncing" the bell, I did not have that much time upon taking the weight of the bell off the stay. It dropped out, releasing the bell.

In view of these points, I do not know the source of your information; we must, I feel, be certain that our own house is in order before we criticise others.—Yours faithfully,

R. L. DUNN.

Warley, Worcs.

Note.—The Editor asks Mr. Dunn to accept his sincere apologies and regrets that the information supplied to him was inaccurate.

LEAVING BELLS AT BACKSTROKE

Dear Sir,—I was surprised to see on page 814 your correspondent claims without any evidence that it is dangerous to set bells at backstroke. There is, of course, no supporting evidence, because backstroke setting is much safer than handstroke setting.

It could be claimed that bells rung well below the balance could not be set at backstroke, since the rope-ends are too short, but it cannot, because the sole reason that bells are stood at handstroke is that we ring our changes in pairs, and handstroke stand is the natural place to start and to stop.

How many times has an "up" bell been mistaken for a "down" bell? Could this occur if bells were set at backstroke?

How many times have ringers pulled off at handstroke and been left with arms hanging limply in front of them because the rope is a yard too long, or, worse still, jerked off their feet because the rope is six inches too short? Could this happen if bells were stood at backstroke? Much starting and stopping and tolling of odd bells to test rope length would never occur if bells were set at backstroke. That is not to say that I am against rope adjustment nor need anyone point out that ropes cannot be adjusted while bells are set at backstroke.

Finally, if a bell is to go over balance for any reason it is far better for it to occur at backstroke, though it seldom does. When a stay is broken at handstroke the excess rope invariably rushes up under an armpit, elbow or hand and produces a burn if nothing more, and then we have the nasty situation where a rope-end is alternately lashing about our heads and well out of reach. It is far better is the stay is broken at backstroke, for the tail-end is more easily pulled from one's hands than is a sally, and is gone if not to the room above at least to the ceiling out of harm's way. —Yours faithfully,

GEORGE EVENDEN.

RESTORATION DETAILS WANTED

Dear Sir,—Could I appeal once again for notification to be given, either by the bell-founders or local ringers, of the rededication of restored rings or the opening of new ones in our weekly paper? Again and again the first intimation one often has that a previously unringable ring has been restored or a new ring dedicated is an entry in the peal or quarter peal columns On our summer tour this year we would have by-passed an excellent and recently rehung five in Dorset had our organiser not noticed that a quarter peal had been rung in a tower entered in "Dove" as "unringable" and written for permission to ring.

It would greatly help those who like to keep their records and their copies of "Dove" up to date if some arrangement could be reached whereby the details of restorations were sent to "The Ringing World" as they take place, or as new bell hanging and founding work is dedicated, and many of us would appreciate it if this could be done.—Yours sincerely,

PETER N. BOND (Rev.).

NEXT YEAR'S C.C. HEADQUARTERS

Dear Sir,—For the benefit of Central Council members and others who may attend next year's Central Council meeting at Worcester, I would like to give a little more information about the headquarters hotel than we have been able to include in the preliminary announcement of the meeting.

The Giffard Hotel opened this summer and it is part of the nearly completed redevelopment scheme on the north side of the Cathedral. It has a total of 104 bedrooms, all with private bathroom and shower. Rooms also are fitted with radio and telephone and television is available.

The hotel restaurant and lounge bar have large picture windows facing directly on to the Cathedral. A multi-storey car park is close by.

As mentioned in the notice, reduced terms have been obtained for anyone booking before April 1st, 1968.—Yours truly,

D. BEACHAM,
General Secretary,
Worcestershire and Districts
Change Ringing Association.

PERSHORE ABBEY

Dear Sir,—It gave me a great thrill to open my "Ringing World" on November 10th to see the magnificent picture of the Abbey and the excellent article on the wonderful Abbey Church of the Holy Cross and St. Edburgha, Pershore, by Mr. Arthur C. Berry.

I had the pleasure of meeting this very unassuming and talented young ringer and conductor on September 17th when he kindly made up a band with Mr. O. J. Attwood, and son, James, when I visited my native village of Overbury with my friends from Caversham, Mr. and Mrs. T. Lanaghan.

We rang the musical and beautiful six, and what a joy it was to hear some perfect striking to Bob Minor and Grandsire Doubles, and the very friendly welcome from these dedicated ringers of Worcestershire. I hope to be able to ring with them again at Christmas.

Good luck to you at Pershore and Bredon's Norton.—Yours sincerely,

ALFRED J. WHITTLE.

PETERBOROUGH GUILD MEMBERSHIP

Dear Sir,—I was very interested in the letter by Mr. F. Kirk in your issue of November 3rd, 1967, referring to Mr. Stote's "Looking Back," of September 8th, 1967. Am I right is assuming that this included the old Central Northamptonshire Association, which ceased to exist when the Peterborough Guild was formed? If so, I may be one of the oldest ringers, as I was made a non-resident life member before ringing and conducting a peal of Grandsire Triples (Holt's ten-part) at St. Sepulchre's, Northampton, on November 4th, 1911. Also taking part in this peal was Mr. Fred Hopper, a well-known ringer at that time in that area.

Mr. Stote's letter brought back pleasant memories, especially of the occasion when I cycled to Rothwell to take part in a peal on August 10th, 1912, in which Messrs. F. Wilford, E. M. Atkins and David Nichols, leader of the Kettering band, took part. Also taking part was Mr. Henry W. Gayton, of Harrold, Beds, who would also be a non-resident life member and is, happily, still with us.

I wonder if I am still in the records as a non-resident life member.—Yours faithfully,

L. W. JACQUES.

Mansfield, Notts.

Dear Sir,—I was very interested to learn about the long membership of several of my old friends, whom I used to ring with before 1914. I was elected an out-county member at Cogenhoe in February, 1910. I lived at Burton Latimer in 1912 until the war, when I soon joined up and came back to Kempston, Beds.

I have had "The Ringing World" from the first issue and it was sent out to me in France for four years. I still take it and, as Mr. R. G. Black says, it is good value.

I think H. Gaynor, of Harrold, is one of the oldest members.—Yours sincerely,

E. P. INSKIP.

RE KENT'S QUARTER PEAL RINGING

Dear Sir,—In reply to Mr. Carr's letter ("Ringing World," page 834), and to your own footnote, which I presume refers to 1966, and not as printed, not only did Kent do well in peal ringing, they also did well in quarter peal ringing by coming first in the county list. This consisted of ringing 303 quarter peals iin 104 different towers; 207 of them were of Doubles or Minor. Surely it would be hard, pressing a small select band to ring all these.—Yours sincerely,

ALAN A. J. BUSWELL.

P.S.—Details obtained from my quarter peal analysis of 1966. A. B.

PEAL OF 180 DOUBLES METHODS

Dear Sir,—On October 6th this year you were kind enough to publish a letter from me in which I withdrew a peal of 142 Doubles and apologised to Mr. Dawson for my incorrect claim which accompanied the peal.

I also asked if Mr. Dawson would be kind enough to produce the actual figures for some of the 120's that he conducted in his peal of 180 methods/variations. My reason for this was because, probably through my own stupidity, I could not see how so many variations could be fitted to such a peal.

Although a number of weeks have passed since the publication of my letter there is no sign of any reply. May I, in the most courteous way, ask why?—Yours sincerely,

COLIN A. LEWIS.

SUPERVISORS WANTED

Dear Sir,—This year has seen an upsurge in the number of money-raising festivals at various towers throughout the country; these ringing days afford a welcome opportunity to visit new areas and sample new bells, and the organisers have been quick to realise that the opening of several towers in the area has acted like a magnet in drawing ringers to their festival.

Annual general meetings and anniversaries also provide an opportunity for ringing at several new towers and so it is now possible to ring in new areas almost weekly.

Whilst many of the people attending these functions go to support the cause, be it an annual meeting, a tower appeal or an anniversary, the tower grabbers among us are only there to increase their individual totals.

I do not wish to enter into an argument about the pros and cons of tower grabbing but I would appeal to organisers of all ringing days to ensure that each and every tower that is open for ringing in connection with the function should have a responsible and capable person in charge to co-ordinate and supervise the ringing.

On the three occasions that I have attended such meetings this year far too many of the towers have had nobody in charge, or the person in charge has been incapable of organising the ringing, and the ringers have been left to get on with it by themselves.

The result has been chaotic with Surprise ringers grabbing hold for call changes when less experienced ringers are standing around, and then clearing off after a few well-struck rounds, or bands ringing long touches when 30 or 40 people are waiting their turn in a tower that is only open for an hour, or three or four latecomers finding a band that has just finished, leaving them standing there and unable to ring even Minor for lack of numbers.

We would all enjoy these outings more if the organisation at each tower was done sensibly by a responsible person; each visiting ringer would ring what he was capable of and the bells would be heard to advantage both inside and outside the tower, a prime consideration these days with people very quick to complain.

So please, if you are organising such a ringing day, try and ensure that not only your own tower is well manned but also those nearby.—Yours faithfully, D. ELLISDON.

Essex Association Honour Mr. Heazel

MEMBERS of the Essex Association at the Shire Hall, Chelmsford, on October 28th, paid tribute to the long and distinguished service rendered by Mr. R. C. Heazel, first as their general secretary and for 14 years as Master. The occasion was the 14th annual dinner of the Association, and it was the pleasure of the new Master, Mr. Frank B. Lufkin, to hand to Mr. Heazel a silver salver and a cheque as a mark of the members' appreciation.

The stately picture room of the Shire Hall made a beautiful setting, and the company of 117 members and friends had a very enjoyable evening. Accompanying the Master, Mr. F. B. Lufkin, and his wife, on the top table were the Mayor and Mayoress of Colchester (Ald. and Mrs. E. P. Duffield), the Provost of Chelmsford (the Very Rev. H. M. Connop Price) and his wife, the Archdeacon of West Ham (the Ven. J. D. Wakeling), Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Heazel.

PERIOD OF CHANGE

After the toast of "The Queen" had been honoured, the Master submitted the toast of "The Church." Mr. Lufkin spoke of his great personal pleasure to propose the toast, as everything he had done in life had been to do with the Church. The Church had taught him everything he needed to know in life apart from card playing and drinking beer.

Calling attention to the many changes that were taking place in the Church today, Mr. Lufkin considered that we, as ringers, should be part of these changes. He implored bell-ringers, as part of the Church, to join their Church Councils and make themselves more aware of the changes taking place. Many ringers would agree that the majority of the clergy were not really aware of what happens in the belfry; he thought this was largely the fault of the ringers and asked them to work for a better understanding between ringers and Rector. Mr Lufkin suggested that the clergy should be taught more of the art.

In his response, the Very Rev. H. M. Connop Price thanked the company for the warm welcome which had been bestowed on both him and his wife; he hoped he would be able to help the Association just as much as his predecessor, who was now the Bishop of Sodor and Man. He was amazed by the wonderful cross-section of the community that ringing enveloped. Most clubs and societies took in people of only one group, but ringing was a healthy activity for people of all ages and classes of society.

A short interval in the speeches ensued while the company listened to the delightful singing and playing at the piano by the Master of the Music at Chelmsford Cathedral, Mr. John Jordan.

OUTSTANDING SERVICE

Then followed the great moment of the evening, when Mr. Lufkin rose to pay his tribute to Mr. R. C. Heazel. After referring to the great pleasure it was to the company to have Mr. and Mrs. Heazel present at the dinner, the Master said that for as long as he could remember Bob Heazel had been an active member of the Association. Elected as a trustee in 1939, he served as a committee member right up to his retirement from office in 1967. Robert Heazel passed through the positions of trustee, general secretary and, in 1953, he was elected Master.

Mr. Lufkin said that Mr. Heazel had fulfilled outstanding service to the Church as well as to the Association; he brought something to the office of Master that few men possessed; he had put great effort into the job, visiting all the towers in the bounds of the Association and knowing nearly every ringer.

In appreciation of his many years' work, a silver salver and cheque were then presented to Mr. Heazel, who then spoke for a short while, thanking the company for their kind gesture.

PEALS THE ESSENCE OF STRIKING

The Mayor of Colchester (Ald. Edward P. Duffield), a former Master of the College Youths, in proposing the toast of "The Essex Association," said how honoured he was to be able to propose this toast. He noted that some churches showed restraint to ringers, especially to those ringers who derived much pleasure from the art, usually the peal ringers. He felt that peal ringing was the main factor conducive to good striking and suggested that a tower whose ringers were regular peal ringers usually had a high standard for Sunday service ringing. He noted that not all service ringers were peal ringers but suggested that it would be beneficial to the Exercise if more of its ringers were peal ringers. Was there anything other than ringing peals that would raise the standard of striking so much?

Looking at the company, Mr. Duffield was delighted to see so many youngsters—if it were not for the fee there would, no doubt, be even more. It was unfortunate that there were so many attractions (or distractions) for young people, but nevertheless ringing certainly acted as a magnet for drawing youngsters into the Church and anything that had the effect of drawing people to the Church was something to be encouraged. Mr. Duffield spoke of the changes in the leadership of the Association affairs; he praised the younger men for taking more responsibility in the running of the Association and thought it right that the offices should circulate more freely. With regular changes in leadership new ideas would be introduced and the Association would not become stale.

SYSTEMATIC RECRUITING WANTED

Dr. John Armstrong responded by saying that the future of any Association depended on its youth. The Essex Association had gone a long way and achieved a great deal in the furtherance of the aims and objects of the Exercise but he wondered whether the time was not now ripe to launch a large-scale recruitment plan. They were living in a rapidly changing world where the pace of life was fast; if recruitment was neglected the Association might find itself desperately short of ringers. A systematic recruitment of youngsters was required, and now was the time to arrange the campaign, possibly going through schools. Once the learners had been enticed into the belfry it would then be the task of every ringer to keep them there with the ultimate aim of producing competent change ringers.

A vote of thanks was then given to the life members, guests and Mr. Jordan by the Ven. J. D. Wakeling.

With the formalities over, the company was able to chat and mingle happily together.

A SLIGHT CORRECTION

Dear Sir,—I am writing with regard to Mr. Hawkins' final paragraph on page 834 (November 17th). If he cares to look at "The Ringing World" of April 11th, 1952 (page 237), he will find the method referred to and also its extensions. That may not have been the first time they had appeared, of course.—Yours faithfully,

TECHNICAL

IRREGULAR MAJOR METHODS

By S. HUMPHREY

1. Introduction.

Firstly, let us define an irregular method as one which conforms to the Central Council's specifications for regular methods, except that it does not possess Plain Bob lead-heads. (A Plain Bob lead-head is one which when read in the order 8753246 gives a cyclic transposition of 8753246.) Also, let us call the pairs of bells, whose paths intersect as the half-lead place is being made, conjugate pairs. For instance, the conjugate pairs in Yorkshire Surprise are 2–5, 4–7 and 6–8, the pivot bell being 3.

The lead-end of a method is uniquely determined by the conjugate pairs, and for each lead-end there are four possible lead-heads, depending on whether 2nds, 4ths, 6ths or 8ths place is made as the treble leads. Since there are 105 different selections of three conjugate pairs, it might be expected that there are 420 different lead-heads, but in fact some of these are coincidal. However, even if we ignore those lead-heads which give 6–, 5–, 3–, 2– or 1– lead plain courses, there must be large numbers of lead-heads totally unused, since only the Plain Bob ones are employed nowadays. This means that there may exist some excellent irregular methods, comparable with Bristol, say, which are as yet undiscovered. Of course, most conductors are chary of attempting a peal in an irregular method because of the scarcity of suitable compositions, the poor musical qualities and the fact that the coursing order changes at every lead. However, I should like to show that each lead-head set does in fact possess its own coursing order which remains unaltered from lead to lead, that irregular methods can have good musical qualities and that their composition and proof is hardly more complicated than for regular methods.

2. Coursing Order.

In any regular method a coursing pair of bells may be considered to be a pair which, at the lead-head, fall into any of the positions 2–4, 4–6, 6–8, 8–7, 7–5, 5–3 or 3–2. If, however, for an irregular method, we redefine a coursing pair as a pair of bells which fall into the position 8–7 at the lead-head, we can arrive at a useful concept of coursing order.

As an example, consider a method in which the conjugate pairs are 2–6, 4–8 and 5–7, with pivot bell 3. The first lead-end is therefore 6387254, and hence, for a 2nds place method, the lead-head is 6832745. By inspecting this lead-head we can write down the positions into which a bell will fall at successive leads: the 8th, for instance, becomes 3rds place bell, then 4ths, then 7ths, and so on, the complete order being which we may call the position cyclic. Now, we know from our definition of a coursing pair that 8–7 course, and in the position cyclic above, 8–7 are separated by two bells. Consequently, any pair in the cyclic which are separated by two bells also form a coursing pair. These pairs are thus 8–7, 3–6, 4–2, 7–5, 6–8, 2–3 and 5–4. To obtain the coursing order, we now merely string these pairs together, giving 8–7–5–4–2–3–6–8, or, more compactly, 8754236. This coursing order remains unchanged at every lead-head of the course, and in this respect is similar to the Plain Bob.

8–3–4–7–6–2–5–8

3. Musical Qualities.

Since the number of combination roll-ups seems to be the criterion by which peal compositions are judged nowadays, more such "music" may be obtained if the coursing order is maintained behind in the plain course. This ensures that the maximum number of roll-up positions will occur per course (eight for Surprise and four for Plain methods). It will also enable the composer to perceive more easily where such combinations as 82 or 83 come behind and so (perhaps) avoid them.

It must be remembered, of course, that for irregular methods the coursing order referred to above, and henceforth, is the regular order derived from the conjugate pairs.

4. Extraction of Falseness.

Rigorous treatment of this subject would probably occupy several pages, so I shall be content with the following:—

The case for plain methods is, of course, trivial, repetition occurring solely between identical leads. Surprise methods are slightly more difficult to deal with.

Most systems of extraction of falseness depend upon examining two rows with the treble in the same place (or representations of them) to see if a coursing pair occurs in the same positions in both. Any of these systems may be used for irregular methods, provided we remember that a coursing pair is not necessarily one of the pairs 7–5, 5–3, 3–2, 2–4, 4–6 or 6–8. It is quite straightforward, for instance, to rework Maurice Hodgson's symbolic treatment for irregular methods. Great care is needed, however, not to make any assumptions depending on the method possessing Plain Bob lead-heads; it is very easy to make a slip of this nature after being accustomed to composing only regular methods.

5 Composition.

It is in this field that difficulties may be encountered—bobs will not necessarily shunt three adjacent bells in the coursing order. A problem of another kind is where to have the bob place. It is possible in an irregular 2nds place method to use an 8ths place bob to alter the coursing order! The field lies open here for bobless (and legitimate) peals of spliced.

In the example in Section 2, the transpositions are very simple: calls at In, W, M and H transpose 54236 to 42365, 25436, 54623 and 53426 respectively; while for Double London Court it is difficult to insert any bobs without splitting the tenors. This latter method I discovered in a 1908 edition of "Standard Methods," and is a classic example of a good method falling into disuse because of its irregularity. The place notation is —18—36—18—38. I.e. 16, 3768542.

6. Devising Irregular Methods.

One problem immediately becomes apparent. Suppose we have invented a block of work above the treble, in which certain pairs come behind, then, if we wish to maintain a coursing order behind, these pairs must be coursing pairs, and so we have, partially at least, defined the coursing order we want. The problem is, therefore, given a coursing order, what selection of conjugate pairs, if one exists at all, will produce that coursing order?

So far I have not succeeded in a search for a simple relationship, and I should be glad to hear from anyone who has any ideas on the subject.

7. Conclusion.

The above has necessarily been a hasty treatment of a large field of campanology. I must apologise for any vagueness or inaccuracy that may have arisen from this.

HERTS COUNTY ASSOCIATION

St. Albans District

The St. Albans District meeting on November 18th was held at St. Peter's, St. Albans, a fair number of members and friends turning out on the cold afternoon to ring on the ten bells. A course of London Surprise Royal was managed before the service. Tea was held in the Abbey Institute.

Mr. Tom Lock was voted to the chair at the business meeting. New members elected were Miss Debbie Hodge, from St. Peter's (probationary member), Miss Valerie Paice and Mark Willis (transferred from probationary to full membership) and Michael Donmall and Lynn Woodward, of Radlett (full members). The belfry election of John R. Booth, of Luton, was ratified

Details of the District social at St. Peter's Institute on December 2nd were announced. Tickets are 7s. 6d. each, obtainable from the District secretary. It will be an informal evening, "bangers and mash" and entertainments to follow.

There will be a special practice at St. Peter's, Walden, on Wednesday, December 6th, from 7.30 p.m.

The next meeting, which was to have been at Harpenden, has been postponed, and it was decided to leave matters to the secretary, so will everyone please watch for "The Ringing World" notice.

Under any other business the secretary remarked on the small attendance at the service for the last few meetings and asked that perhaps a few more could stay.

Congratulations went to Mick Sherrick and Stephanie Green, both District members, on their engagement.

A vote of thanks was passed to the Vicar for the service and the use of the bells, the organist, and the girls for the tea. Evening ringing continued at St. Peter's, another course of London being achieved. J. A. F.

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

Farnham District

The nomination meeting of Farnham District was held at Aldershot on November 11th. The Vicar, the Rev. T. H. Dart, conducted the service, his theme being "They laboured, we are entered into their labour," with special reference to bellringing. Singing was led by the assistant organist, Mr. John Porter.

After an excellent tea served by the Aldershot ladies the business meeting was held with the Master, Mr. Peter Smart, in the chair. All the officers were renominated unopposed, with two nominations for committee member.

The election as a non-resident member, Mr. Christopher Clark, prior to a peal, was ratified.

A short evening session on the bells was followed by a well patronised social, at which Mr. E. J. Bragg was M.C. R. B.

Guildford District

It says much for the keenness of the young ringers in the Guildford District that on an extremely foggy day 41 were present at the service and tea at Wonersh, 30 being from eight towers in the Guildford District. Seven new members were elected—Elizabeth Radford and Jane Garratt, from Wonersh, Christine Bennett, Colin Haste, Philip Haste and Colin Lauder (Holy Trinity and St. Mary's, Guildford) and David Gray (Guildford Cathedral).

Nominations were received for District officers as follows: Master, D. Tubbs; Assistant Ringing Master, John Payton and Martin Kirk; secretary and treasurer, Miss Yvonne Eloie; auditor, J. Horsman; additional member of committee, William Savill and John Hagley.

The standard of ringing was not as high as usual, but it is a hopeful sign that there was such a large proportion of youngsters coming along.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Mr. Andrew Hudson withdraws the peal of Stedman Cinques rung at Walsall on November 11th (see page 860) as the composition is false.

Correction —The ringer of the fifth and also the conductor of the peal of Doubles in 19 methods, should be John Walton, and not John Lewis, as printed on page 839.

Mr. J. Quinney, who provided us with a report of Prince Charles' visit to Great St. Mary's Church, Cambridge, to witness ringing for his 19th birthday, completes 30 years as steeplekeeper of this church this year.

A noted ringing performance at St. Michael's, Basingstoke, Hants, on November 5th, was the first quarter of Stedman in Basingstoke for at least 15 years. Five of the band rang their first quarter of Stedman, which was conducted by 80-year-old Harry E. Balaam.

The veteran ringer at St. Mary's, Welshpool, is Mr. Charles Williams, with a record of 73 years' faithful service ringing at this church. In honour of his 84th birthday and his wife's 80th a quarter peal of Grandsire Triples was rung with Charles on the treble.

According to the rules of the Guildford Diocesan Guild, a majority of members must be present for tower elections prior to a peal. In the peal rung at St. Nicolas' Church, Guildford, on Remembrance Sunday, there were only three Guild members ringing and in consequence the peal was classified "Non-Association."

Mr. Philip Gray is in Australia and was expected to ring at Melbourne Cathedral last Sunday We are sorry to learn that Mrs. Gwen Roper, of Melbourne Cathedral band, is in hospital. We wish her a speedy recovery.

The engagement is announced of Miss Kathie Paxton, a Bendigo ringer, to Mr. Alan Taylor. Another engagement from Victoria is that between Ethel Lloyd and Kelvin Lowe, of Ballarat, whose marriage will be on December 30th.

The peal of London Surprise Minor at St. Vedast's Church, Foster Lane, E.C.2, on Novemoer 15th, enabled John Pladdys to "circle the tower" and was the first peal of London Minor for Robin Churchill and Tim Pett.

Ringers in Godalming and Oxford in particular will congratulate Dr. and Mrs. Henry Rossell on the birth of a son in Melbourne. As Elizabeth Stevinson, Mrs. Rossell did splendid work as Guildford District secretary and collected a keen body of youngsters around her at Godalming.

Mr. Alfred J. Whittle, of Reading, who is now 79, was ringing last September in Worcestershire. He writes: "What pleasure this excellent paper gives to me! I am in my 79th year and bought 'The Bell News' of my boyhood days for 2d. What progress this great paper has made."

LORD MAYOR ENTERTAINS PEAL BAND

The recent peal at Leighton Buzzard was specially arranged and rung for the election as Lord Mayor of the City of London of Sir Gilbert Inglefield, who is churchwarden in the nearby parish of Eggington. Sir Gilbert and Lady Inglefield heard the end of the peal and met the ringers afterwards. The peal was also rung to welcome the birth of a daughter, Rachel Jane, to Diana and Alan Frost, both members of the Leighton Buzzard company. It was an unusual opportunity for the Master of the Ancient Society of College Youths, at the end of his term of office, to meet the forthcoming Lord Mayor of the City of London in "Home Territory."

Another very good reason for the peal was to mark the birthday of Bert Whitney, the tower captain, and the 70th birthday of Bill Insley, another local stalwart. After thirsts were quenched, the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress entertained the peal band, joined by the Vicar, Canon John Schammell, to a magnificent dinner at the Swan Hotel. An enjoyable evening followed. Two notable "firsts" should be mentioned, for Ann Houghton ringing her first peal other than of Minor, and for Edgar Conquest making a welcome return to peal ringing circles after an absence of more than 20 years.

NEWBURY RINGERS AT WORCESTER

Worcester was the venue for the autumn outing on October 30th and this time we were more ambitious, with two 12-bell towers in the programme. At Evesham a good bob course of Grandsire Caters and Cinques and a course of Stedman Cinques were rung, the Rector joining in the Grandsire Cinques with Geoff Hemming, who we were pleased to meet again.

This was closely followed by Bishampton (6) and Church Honeybourne (5); at the latter the writer won himself a pint by turning the tenor into 120 Bob Doubles. What a handful!

Lunch in Worcester, then to the ten at All Saints', where we managed half a course of Cambridge Royal; the eight at Hallow and the eight at St. John's were both enjoyed, and at St. John's we were pleased to ring with Mr. Lewis.

At St. Swithun's, Paul Cattermole met us, and finally the party arrived at the magnificent 12 at Worcester Cathedral, where we again enjoyed Grandsire and Stedman Cinques with the Cathedral band; the lower on the back eight will be especially remembered.

Finally the heavy long draught six at the Old Church, Broadway, by candlelight. To David Beacham, who helped with the arrangements and rang with us at many of the towers, a sincere "thank you." G. D.

CROSSWORD No. 6—SOLUTION

The first correct solution opened for Crossword No. 6 was from Miss Y. L. Eloie, 109, Grange Road, Guildford, who has been awarded a prize of 10s. The correct solution reads:

RETFORD SOCIAL EVENING RAISES £18

Well over 50 ringers and friends converged on Retford for a buffet super held on November 11th and in spite of the expense of hiring the films "Washington Tower and Bells" and "Ringers Required," an £18 profit was made. The cake stall sold out, the home-made soft toy stall nearly sold out, and Harold Denman's uncle's walking-stick-with-the-church-in-the-handle, which had been brought specially from Doncaster for the occasion, raised 10s. at 3d. per peep.

After the two professional films the prize draw was made. First prize, a transistor radio, was won by Diane Coates, sister of the local vice-captain. A framed picture in felt appliqué depicting Uncle Tom Cobley, etc., which had been sewn by the captain's wife, was won by D. Stainsby, of Radcliffe-on-Trent; the other main prize, a bottle of champagne, was won by a local clergyman. The draw made a profit of £37 10s.

The final entertainment of the evening was provided by Brian Birkett, of Sutton-cum-Lound and an honorary member of East Retford. Two 8 mm. silent films, in colour, concerned various antics of local ringers, with the Flying Scotsman sandwiched between, and received a hilarious reception.

Altogether the local band have raised £167 towards the recasting bill; £155 of this was realised in the last 13 months.

"CHANGES" AT WASHINGTON CATHEDRAL

The choral work "Changes" by Gordon Crosse, which was first performed at the Three Choirs Festival at Worcester, received its first American performance at Washington Cathedral on November 19th and 20th, conducted by Richard Dirksen.

A correspondent writes: "I wonder if there is any connection with the performance of a work entitled 'Changes' and the fact that the conductor is captain of the ringers at Washington Cathedral."

STONEY STANTON BELLS

Stoney Stanton, Leics, bells, on which the late Harold Poole rang his first peal, are having a major overhaul by Messrs. John Taylor and Co. The second, third and fourth bells are to be recast and the work, started on October 30th, is expected to be completed by February or March next year. The cost is anticipated to be over £1,200, but about half of this sum has been raised.

Well over 100 peals have been rung on these bells, including 12,896 Cambridge Surprise Major on April 28th, 1923, in 7 Hours and 35 minutes, conducted by Harold J. Poole.

TO BE A SECRETARY AT N.A.T.O.

The peal of Doubles in seven methods rung at Catherington on November 18th was a farewell to Miss Maureen White, of Warnford tower, who left this country the next day to take up a position in Brussels as a secretary at N.A.T.O. All her ringing friends wish her good luck. Three members of the peal band are from Maureen's own tower, where a presentation was made to her.

David Hatherley, aged 14, rang the second in the peal and so accomplished his highest number of methods so far; his tower is at Petersfield, where his captain and instructor, Mr. Ken Tipper, may be justly proud of his very good performance.

KENT, OXFORD AND WINDSOR T.B. (Cheltenham Variation)

Windsor Treble Bob may be added to peals of "combined" Kent and Oxford T.B. Major by substituting Windsor for Kent in leads 2 and 4 of the basic KKOKK course, the change of method being called when the treble is in 3–4 down in the normal way.

The first peal using this principle was rung on handbells at Cheltenham on October 31st. An Ilkeston Variation composition of Kent and Oxford ("Ringing World," April 9th, 1954, page 231) was used, with all all bob leads being rung at Kent, giving 2,272 changes of Kent, 1,856 of Windsor and 928 Oxford, with 116 changes of method.

The resulting arrangement has been given the name of "Cheltenham Variation," since the present Central Council rules preclude the description of the peal as spliced.

Windsor Treble Bob, incidentally, is similar to Kent, but with places made in 5–6 instead of 3–4 in the first and last sections of the lead.

Another variation, obtained by adding Windsor T.B. to a composition of Kent and Oxford, "Worcester Variation," was rung "in hand" at Cheltenham on November 21st. This has been given the name of "Gloucester."

MEMORIAL SCREEN AT OAKLEY

A memorial glass screen to commemorate the life and service of the late Marcus Cecil Lee was dedicated in St. Leonard's Church, Church Oakley, Hants, on St. Leonard's Day (November 6th) by the Archdeacon of Basingstoke, the Ven. R. C. Rudgard.

In addition to being captain of the tower for many years, Marcus Lee had served the community in many other ways—through the Parochial Church Council, Oakley Cricket Club, Thorneycroft and Basingstoke Amateur Operatic Society and by winding the church clock.

The screen, at the western end of the nave, will help to exclude draughts from the west door, and had been strongly advocated by Mr. Lee. The dedication took place after Evensong on the Patronal Festival. Before the service the bells were rung by the local band of young ladies. Afterwards a quarter peal of Plain Bob Minor was attempted by friends of Mr Lee and officers of the Basingstoke District. Unfortunately after about 600 changes the conductor's attention was distracted by difficulties experienced by the ringer of the fourth, which does not go well, and the attempt was unsuccessful.

AFTER EXETER, LIVERPOOL!

After their exploit last year in visiting Exeter Cathedral, the ringers of North Hampshire had an even bigger objective on October 15th by visiting Liverpool Cathedral.

It meant a 5.30 a.m. start for Frank Tonge, the organiser, and his merry company. There was a stop en route for 45 minutes at St. Mary's, Stafford, and Liverpool was reached in time for lunch.

On the good six at Childwall we were able to ring a bridal couple out of church, and then followed St. Nicholas', Liverpool (12), where Grandsire Caters and a good course of Bob Major on the back eight will long be remembered.

The 12 at the Cathedral were naturally the highlight of the day. The local ringers strengthened our ringing and Grandsire Caters and Cinques were much enjoyed. At least three of the party rang their first changes on 12 bells. Thank you, Liverpool, for your warm welcome and thank you, Frank, for your arrangements. C. D.

LEARNERS AND INSTRUCTORS

BELL CONTROL AND ELEMENTARY CHANGE RINGING

By DENNIS A. BAYLES

From a lecture given at the Joint Council of Yorkshire Ringing Societies at Normanton, Wakefield, on April 22nd, 1967.

DIFFERENT systems are necessary, in my opinion, for teaching change ringing according to the conditions (a) augmentation of an existing band where an adequate supply of experienced ringers is on hand and (b) by starting from scratch with no change ringers other than the instructor. I shall deal only with situation (a), as that is where my experience lies, and that I expect to be the situation that is of most interest. Situation (b) has been very much neglected. I shall describe my system but do not consider this to be the only one. I would say that at Chester-le-Street we have just about ideal conditions for ringing, and some of my ideas may have to be modified for use in towers where conditions are less favourable.

INSPECTION OF BELLS

I begin by taking the pupil upstairs to see the bells. The parts are described and what is observed in the ringing chamber is related to what goes on upstairs. The main points made concern (a) point of attachment of rope in relation to pulleys, (b) completion of most of circle before bell speaks, and (c) function of stay and slider for standing the bell. A bell is turned over a few times by a colleague before we come down.

BELL HANDLING

No one wants to waste time at any stage of instruction and each proposed stage ought to be examined to see whether it is progressive and necessary.

I believe that there is some parallel between handling a bell and driving a car in that both call for co-ordination of movements and practice to enable them to be carried out without conscious thought. Gear changing, for instance, has to be carried out on the road with the car surrounded by other cars and moving. The driving school does not spend very long on gear changing before it takes the pupil out on the road and teaches him to change gear under the actual working conditions. I take a leaf out of the driving school's book and get the pupil catching the sally at an early stage under the actual working conditions, i.e. where he is pulling the backstroke and retaining the tail-end in his hand. How many recruits who find difficulty in catching the sally with the tail-end in their hand do so because they have been allowed to get accustomed to catching the sally without it? The driving school has to fit some special dual controls in order to operate its policy of teaching in traffic without undue danger, but no modification is needed to the ordinary bell rope! Much of this depends upon the confidence of the instructor in his ability to cope with the situations that may arise. One safety precaution is to make quite clear beforehand that if told to do so the pupil will let go completely of the rope.

I shall not describe all the details of position, stance, grip on the rope, etc. This is not because I think them unimportant or do not deal with them myself, but I wish to save time here and these points are dealt with in the Central Council's "Beginners' Handbook."

First exercise.—Operating the tail-end with both hands.
Demonstrated by following what my left hand does confined to about a dozen pulls.

Second exercise.—Catching the sally.
Demonstrated by following what my right hand does. Important points are, of course, not to hang on to the sally too long after pulling off and not to catch the sally too soon when it comes down from backstroke. During this exercise these instructions are recited by me: Pull—let go—down and catch.
Catching the sally correctly is a matter of timing rather than seeing, and that co-ordination can only really come when the backstroke is being pulled by the pupil. Hence, this also is confined to about a dozen pulls.

Third exercise.—Both strokes.
This is carefully demonstrated and the action gone through again slowly with the rope stationary and then one or two dummy runs before the real thing is tried with dual control. A circular type of action is advocated to avoid jerkiness in the action. The instructions are recited again in this exercise as in the second exercise.

The pupil will not have the bell under control at this early stage and this is not expected of him. The first objective is to get the operation of the hands going smoothly. Choose a medium-heavy bell to start on, even for a youngster. Underpulling is called for, so the weight does not overtax a small pupil and underpulling saves wear and tear on the stay at this stage, especially desirable when there are Hastings sliders! The medium-heavy bell is not so easily knocked out of its stride and so is not so likely to cause the rope to start flying about. At Chester-le-Street we have a medium-heavy eight with a tenor of 19 cwt. and I use the fifth—a bell of 9¼ cwt.

As this third exercise progresses the dual control is withdrawn. Backstrokes can be left quite early on and then odd handstrokes left, the frequency of these withdrawals being increased. The judgment and confidence of the instructor decide on this frequency. The bell is being underpulled and so the instructor must apply some weight from time to time at this stage, even though he can withdraw at both strokes. I am disappointed and consider my pupil to be below average if this stage has not been attained on the first evening.

As this exercise is tried again one watches for the usual faults and corrects them. Not all fingers round the sally, separation of the hands, left hand off sally too soon, failure to follow through from backstroke, pushing the rope up and proper turning outwards of the left hand from backstroke all need to be watched.

When the rope action is going smoothly I point out that the bell is not under control at this stage to the extent that it could be held up on the balance as required. The pupil is told to pull a little harder and to go on increasing his pull until he can feel the bell is reaching the balance and requires to be pulled back each time. Practice is continued with this stage until a sufficient degree of control is acquired to attempt rounds. This again is a matter for the judgment of the instructor. Do not delay too long—get him on to working conditions. My average would probably be about a month after starting, but bright pupils would attempt rounds even earlier.

RINGING ROUNDS

With younger pupils and ladies often required to man the other bells we often practise on our front six, thereby reducing our tenor weight from 19 to about 10 cwt. Do not be afraid to do this, for the public will appreciate the front six rung well better than the back six rung badly. In this I have made the first point—not more than six bells to start with. The pupil should be kept off 1 and 2. Put competent people on these to give good leads and set the interval correctly. Which of the remaining bells is used depends upon the weight of the metal and the physique of the pupil. Usually I begin on the fifth with the front six. For the initial rounds dual control is applied as necessary.

From the start emphasis is made on listening. (It is to make this easier that six bells rather than eight are used at this stage.) The idea of anticipating where to pull from the rhythm is stressed. The point had been made earlier on that the bell has to swing almost full circle before it speaks, and from this there comes the rough guide to pull on the number before your own as the bells sound, i.e. if ringing 5 count thus—1, 2, 3, pull, 5, 6.

Ring the rounds briskly in the first attempts at rounds but slow them down as the pupil progresses

Extend practice wherever possible. Five-minute bell for beginners. Rounds on Sundays as soon as reasonably competent. This brings out the importance of attendance on Sundays and can double the amount of actual ringing for the pupil in the course of a week—more practice, and less time in between to forget things.

In ringing rounds, move the pupil forward to lighter bells to give further experience at following same strokes and preparing him to ring the lightest bell of all—the treble—where he will learn to lead and follow at opposite strokes. The logical follow-up to this is to switch from one to the other by call changes. This I do by calling 2 to lead and continuing with that until things are steady. Then back to rounds, and as skill is acquired the frequency of switching is increased until it comes down to a whole pull only in each position. Anticipation is called for here as to when to hold up and when to cut in, and this is explained by writing out the figures and counting the number of intervals between strokes in the different positions. When this state has been achieved we have completed the practical side of our preparation for change ringing.

5 steady	1 2 3 4 5 6 1 2 3 4 5 6
4 cut in	2 1 3 4 5 6 2 1 3 4 5 6	6 hold up 5 steady
5 steady	1 2 3 4 5 6 1 2 3 4 5 6

THE CATHEDRAL OF SS. MARY AND CHAD, LICHFIELD

LICHFIELD CATHEDRAL

Dedicated to SS. Mary and Chad, Lichfield Cathedral is one of the best known cathedrals in the country. This is probably due to the west facade, which was begun about 1280, but, alas, little of the original remains. All the figures and the spires were renewed in the 19th century.

Lichfield was subjected to very scurvy treatment in the Civil War. For three days the Close was a target for a gruelling bombardment and terrible havoc was wrought on the Cathedral. It was recorded that at the Restoration the vestry was the only part left with a roof where it was possible to hold a service.

The infectious enthusiasm of Bishop Hackett resulted in vast sums being available for the restoration work, with the result that the battered church eventually approached its ancient dignity. The scheme of decoration was in three stages and the canopied statues of today came during the Victorian era.

With two exceptions, the Cathedral's mediæval memorials were destroyed in the Civil War. There is a mitred and vested effigy over the marble tomb of Bishop Hackett, a kneeling statue of Bishop Ryder by Chantrey, and also of the two sleeping Robinson children, regarded as a masterpiece. Busts are to be found of Dr. Johnson and David Garrick and an Ionic mural to Dean Addison; another mural commemorates Lady Mary Wortley Montagu, who was born in Lichfield.

The Cathedral has a ring of ten bells and the first peal was one of 5,039 Grandsire Caters, rung on May 20th, 1815, by the Society of St. Martin's Youths, Birmingham. The footnote to this peal reads: "The above was the first peal ever rung upon those bells, having been hung 127 years." This peal was conducted by Henry Cooper, and ringing the tenor was William Marsh, a great-grandfather of the late Alderman A. Paddon Smith.

The present ring of ten was the gift of the Freemasons of Staffordshire to commemorate the conclusion of World War II. They are very fine bells from the Loughborough Foundry and the dedication service on October 26th, 1947, was attended by more than 3,000 Freemasons.

PRIORITY IN CHARITY

Dear Sir,—Mr. Percy Amos raises an interesting question. Which constitutes the more vital demand on our charity—the plight of the underdeveloped countries or the plight of our church bells?

Let us not delude ourselves. Bells are expensive pieces of equipment. I have heard them described as expensive toys. And there are more effective and less costly methods of reminding the public of the Church's existence and its mission.

By contrast, help for countries like India is urgent, because quite apart from the demands of Christian compassion the increasing gap between the "haves" and "have-nots" in the world is a potential source of international conflict. If the underdeveloped nations fail to show gratitude, it is likely to be because they have never before had anything to be grateful for, and gratitude has never entered into their experience. Moreover, the help we give is predominantly to help and train them to help themselves

Yet, having said that, I still feel that it is not a question of "either, or," but of "both, and." However much we have been deflated and squeezed, I believe there is enough money in people's pockets, and enough goodwill in their hearts, to ensure that we neither neglect the underprivileged nor our church bells.

I suggest that where bells are never likely to be used, then they should be sold, or given, to churches which would be glad of them, to prevent gross waste.

But when we do spend money on our bells, let us see that we really use them regularly, not just as toys, but as a vocal witness to the fact that the Church is alive—alive not merely to its own needs, but to the needs of society, in Britain and in India !—Yours sincerely,

Leeds. GILES GALLEY (Rev.).

Dear Sir,—Whether Mr. P. Amos' article "Beware ! The Latest Ruse" ("Ringing World," page 855) was intended to be an expression of personal views or merely a challenge to verbal battle I do not know. It was provocative to say the least.

In dealing his blows to the supposed "policy of hysteria" of certain churchmen, Mr. Amos employs a rather hysterical attitude himself. I doubt whether this is the best approach to such a delicate moral and ethical problem as aid for the "starving millions."

It is inevitable that British people, with their nation's tradition of fine institutions, stability and comparative wealth, should find it easy to lapse into an attitude of "unenlightened self-interest," but our record in combating this attitude has, none the less, been surprisingly good—mainly through the conscience-stirring efforts of philanthropic groups such as the clergy. It is unfortunate that Mr. Amos attempts to tell ringers that they have a vested interest in opposing such efforts.

Surely Mr. Amos realises that there are many people, especially churchgoers, who feel a grave crisis of conscience over their personal and communal ownership of inactive forms of wealth like silver plate, jewellery, ornaments, etc., when they read of, and in some cases see, other human beings who have no opportunity for education and, worse, are slowly starving to death.

I must confess that this crisis of conscience does not weigh heavily on me for a variety of reasons, perhaps it should; but it obviously does weigh heavily on Cardinal Heenan—in his position, what should he do? He decided to express his views and use his considerable spiritual influence to crystallise any tendencies towards the same views in other people. Another Roman Catholic archbishop in North America decided to abandon his position a few days ago in order to work in an African mission hospital. Both these men are making their personal contribution and emphasising the need for further voluntary effort. They have not demanded the seizing of all superfluous wealth without consultation with interested parties; and nobody, to my knowledge, has advocated the removal of all rings of bells in order to sell them as scrap metal and send the proceeds overseas. An involuntary contribution of this sort could only breed resentment which the clergy would certainly not welcome. Mr. Amos' fears in this respect are quite without foundation.

The situation is different over the restoration of derelict rings. This requires new funds, and priority in the use of funds for charitable purposes is a matter of circumstances and personal opinions. But the cases of Braybrooke, Church Brampton and Wymington seem most unfortunate ones to cite. After all, if restorations were not carried out in earlier times, when "Oxfam" and so on did not exist, I can only conclude that the residents in those three communities have not been at all interested in having bells, and that if restored the bells would only be left to go derelict again.—Yours sincerely,

PHILIP J. DAVID.

Boldness at Coventry Guild's 60th Birthday Dinner

PRESIDENT'S QUOTE TO LORD MAYOR AND BISHOP

"A City without Bells is like a City without a Soul"

THOSE who attended the 60th anniversary dinner of the Coventry Diocesan Guild in the Church Hall of St. Mary's, Coventry, on November 25th, were left in no doubt about the concern and apprehension of the ringers at the poor prospect of the Cathedral having a ring of bells.

Was it the inspiring influence of the statue of Lady Godiva or the rich background of the Arras tapestry of 1418 that induced the president (Mr. Arthur Beamish) to remind both the Lord Bishop and the Lord Mayor that "a city without bells is a city without a soul."

And there were other potent observations. The Bishop (the Rt. Rev. C. K. N. Bardsley) was sympathetic and gave a speech extolling the value of bells, but he pointed out that the Cathedral was outside his jurisdiction. Canon Gilbert Thurlow, president of the Central Council, was full of vigour. He offered the services of the Central Council and the "highest expert in the land" on towers and bells, Mr. Frederick Sharpe.

Seated at the top table were the president (Mr. Arthur H. Beamish) and Mrs. Beamish, the Lord Mayor and the Lady Mayoress (Ald. and Mrs. E. J. Williams), the Lord Bishop of Coventry and Miss Bardsley, Canon Gilbert Thurlow, Canon T. Bland, Mr. J. F. Smallwood, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Perrens, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Garner-Hayward, M. and Mrs. H. Winter and Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Edden.

GIFT OF BADGE

Proceedings at the dinner started with the dedication by the Lord Bishop of the president's badge, the gift to the Guild of the present holder of the office. On the front of the medallion is etched the three spires of Coventry and on the reverse inscribed "Presented on the 60th anniversary of the Guild by A. H. Beamish, president, 1967." It is a beautiful design by Alan Wood.

Present at the gathering were Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Edden, now living at Brixham, Devon. Mr. Edden was the first secretary when the Southern District was first formed in 1951, the inaugural meeting having been held at Barston Bassett. As a mark of appreciation of "Bob's" services to the Guild, for he had also been Ringing Master, Mr. Harry Winter, the present Master, presented him with an engraved Parker pen and pencil.

Acknowledging the gift, Mr. Edden said: "As far as I was concerned I was just a cog in the wheel. Thank you very much."

From the chair the loyal toast was duly honoured. Then came the "welcomes to Coventry," the first by the Lord Mayor and the second by the Lord Bishop.

The Lord Mayor devoted his speech to the wide and extensive use of bells. Bells, he said, had brought a lot of pleasure to many people and out of their use had come the art of campanology and the great enjoyment in the ringing of bells.

BISHOP'S HOPE—A WONDERFUL RING

The Lord Bishop said he was brought up in a Vicarage near a priory church and the eight great bells rang out Sunday by Sunday. New Year's Eve was always a great occasion; he was always allowed to sit up—it would be impossible to sleep at midnight. His first living was at Woolwich and from there he became Provost of Southwark. Bells in consequence were very familiar to him and it was a deep regret to him when he came to this great city that there were no bells. It was his genuine hope that one day Coventry would have a wonderful ring of bells echoing over the city.

"Ringers," declared the Bishop, "were a most surprising lot of people. Sunday by Sunday you do your ringing and very few people ever say 'thank you.' If I can, when I visit a church, I always try to meet the bellringers because I think you are doing a tremendous work."

He wanted to say five things about what bells did for the Church and the country. First they were a warning, and for hundreds of years they had been used for this purpose They were also giving a warning of a day of judgment. He thought some people disliked bells because of that reminder, and events in our national life justified such a warning.

Bells also reminded people that this life of buying and spending was not all. This was a time when they had to make decisions for good or ill.

Thirdly: "You are going home to Him. This life does not end in death. Sunday by Sunday you are reminded of the Resurrection."

Fourthly they reminded them of God's Son—the friend of all sinners, and finally they asked them to come to church and join with others because they could not fight against evil by themselves.

Concluding, the Bishop said he believed that bellringing was one of the most important features of their national life. If there was one thing Britain ought to be proud of it was its bells. If they went to France, Spain or Portugal their bells could not be compared with those in these islands. They sounded like soup tureens.

The president of the Central Council (Canon Gilbert Thurlow) proposed the toast of "The Coventry Diocesan Guild." "I dreamed one night that I was sent to Coventry in a vain attempt to still my active tongue and comforted myself with Lowell's quip, 'Blessed are they who have nothing to say and cannot be persuaded to say it.' But awakening, I realised Coventry was not a figure of speech but a real place where people work and that duty must be done and words must be said, and that to quote another American writer, 'The only golden thing that women dislike is silence.'"

THINGS IN COMMON

The Canon said he had much in common with Coventry and its Provost. He was rebuilding blitzed St. Mary's, Southampton, where many of them had rung (1954–58) while they were rebuilding blitzed St. Nicholas', Yarmouth (1957–61). Meanwhile the work at Coventry Cathedral was in progress. Coventry and Yarmouth were closely similar in size, each about 22,000 square feet, Each stood as an example of hate and the greater power of love, like a Holy Week in stone. Coventry had its Good Friday on November 14th, 1940; Yarmouth on June 24th, 1942. Each had its Easter Day—Yarmouth on May 8th, 1961, and Coventry May 25th, 1962—both unforgettable days.

In one matter their churches had a contrast which, God willing, might not last much longer. Yarmouth had glorious ringing bells, rung frequently by men and women, boys and girls from all over the land. Like other blitzed churches—Llandaff and Cripplegate—they had their bells ringing long before they could have regular worship. The Gospel was proclaimed where it should be proclaimed, among the people outside, before they could worship inside.

Coventry once had glorious ringing bells. Their spire was finished in 1395 and the bells rang for Mary Queen of Scots, the Spanish Armada and other occasions as well as for their primary function to proclaim the Gospel and call to worship. The clock chimes which once succeeded them at least did one memorable thing—they chimed all through the blitz. But it was not enough for bells merely to mark time. It was sad when a church however within its walls could not proclaim its message to those outside.

OFFER OF ADVICE

Imploring Coventry Cathedral authorities to go to the highest expert source about their bells, the Canon said the Central Council had a splendid panel of experts in its Towers and Belfries Committee and its convener, Mr. Frederick Sharpe, should be consulted. He had had a life experience and an extensive knowledge of thousands of bells.

Dramatic ideas could be realised in getting ringing bells. There could be a new tenor with a reproduction of the words on the Berlin Peace Bell. One could copy the inscription of some famous bell at Dresden. The many interests of Coventry could be identified with bells: the industry bells dedicated to patron saints, the World Church Bell dedicated to St. Paul, the healers' bell to St. Luke, the motorists' to St. Christopher, the musicians' to St. Cecilia, the sufferers' to St. Stephen, etc. "But first get the scheme technically right under expert advice."

Returning to the toast, Canon Thurlow congratulated the Guild on having rung more peals in 1966 than ever before, on increased attendances at meetings and on the work of their president, general secretary and Ringing Master.

The president replied and said that although not one of the larger Guilds in the country, they had always been noted for a high standard of ringing, producing many outstanding ringers, conductors and composers whose names were respected throughout the Exercise. They thanked God for their example; their endeavours had borne fruit and would surely live on in the years ahead.

SOLE SURVIVING MEMBER

They were pleased to welcome Jafus (Frank Smallwood), the sole surviving founder member. Names which sprang to memory of those early years were Tom Chapman, Harry and Harold Argyle of Nuneaton, J. A. and J. B. Fenton and James George of Rugby, Joe White, Harry Webb and John Taylor of Allesley, Frank Ashley and John L. Hinde of Bulkington, Frank Pervin and Bob Roberts of Stoke, Ted Adams, Bill Male and Bill Collett of Warwick All these and many more had passed to higher service.

In a tribute to the hon. secretaries, Mr. Beamish said one in particular served faithfully half the time the Guild had existed and her devotion and hard work undoubtedly laid the foundations of the success that had been achieved. "I will not mention her name but I will say I was delighted when she accepted my proposal of marriage in 1931."

The present hon. secretary had been a tremendous worker for the Guild and there was also Mr. Frank W. Perrens, who more than anyone was a doyen amongst ringers and conductors and they saluted him that night as "one of the greats."

A SAD BLOW

"I know you will expect me to say a few words about the Cathedral bells. Two years ago the Provost raised our hopes by telling us to proceed with a scheme for restoration. Then six months ago he was reported in the Press as saying, on the recommendation of the Fine Arts Council, the scheme must be abandoned. That was a sad blow to us but disappointed as we were we would much rather ask the Provost to eat his words than to swallow his own initials (H. C. N.) In a sermon recently the provost said: 'If the rhythm of the crucifixion and resurrection remains unbroken, then there is always a rebirth of hope.' If that applies to the Cathedral bells which have been crucified for decades then we must continue to hope.

"Someone has compared the City team which our Provost is interested in with his team at the Cathedral. Both excellent teams, but in the case of the footballers they do not seem to be able to find the goals. What happened? New blood was brought in and goals resulted. I wonder what would be the amount of transfer fee to bring Canon Thurlow to this diocese to assist us to attain our goal.

"It is said that 'a city without bells is a city without a soul.' As we lay our future plans for this Guild of ours, let us press forward determinedly and relentlessly towards our goal of complete restoration of the Cathedral bells so that they, together with all the bells in this dear land of ours, may proclaim the age-old message 'Peace on earth, goodwill to men.'"

The concluding toast, "Visitors and Guests," was proposed by Mr. J. L. Garner-Hayward, and the reply was by Canon T. Bland, of Stratford-on-Avon.

During the evening there was a touch of Stedman Cinques rung by E. Sibley 1–2, F. W. Perrens 3–4, P. K. Williamson 5–6, H. E. Ashley 7–8, G. Pratt 9–10, H. G. Summers 11–12. Tune ringing was by Ian Garvie, Mrs. Beamish, A. Beamish, J. W. T. Taylor, H. G. Summers and P. Stone.

SOUTHWELL DIOCESAN GUILD

Newark District

The meeting of the Newark District held at St. Giles', Balderton, on November 18th, was remarkable for the fact that the same number of people sat down to tea as names had been received. The weather conditions, no doubt, deterred any extra visitors, but those who did attend enjoyed both the bells and the tea.

The Vicar, the Rev. G. W. J. Springett, stayed a short while for tea, after taking Evensong, and the business meeting was fairly brief. A raffle for the Bell Repair Fund was won by Mr. George Foster, on holiday at his former home at Southwell, the prize, chocolates and sweets, being donated by Mr. and Mrs. Percy Holmes.

The District chairman, Mr. F. W. Midwinter, reminded everyone that nominations for a new secretary were needed for the annual District meeting at Newark in January, 1968, as the present secretary had given a year's notice at the last annual District meeting. C. N. R.

PRESTWICK'S DISTINCTION

Prestwick Parish Church has a highly-privileged distinction. When Parliament sanctioned the ringing of bells for one day to celebrate the victory at El Alamein it was the bells of Prestwick Parish Church that were chosen by the B.B.C. to be broadcast throughout the world.

The 25th anniversary was not allowed to pass unnoticed and the bells were again rung. Of the original band there are four survivors—Miss Annie Foster, Mr. Frank Maude, Dr. Henry Ashworth and Mr. Frank Reynolds (the present captain of Prestwick ringers).

The bells rang for peals at the end of World War I and one year later, in 1919, the original bells, dating from 1721, were recast and rehung through the generosity of the Walkden family. Previous to 1721 the church only possessed four bells.

Up-and-Coming Youngsters — No. 36

ANN H. WHALEY
The Durham and Newcastle Association.

From the Durham and Newcastle Association comes information of one of its young members, who, although she does not possess a great peal total, has a wide knowledge of a number of methods.

Ann H. Whaley was born at Lanchester on June 21st, 1950. At present she is in the second year sixth at Consett Grammar Technical School studying French, Latin, English literature and German, and holds the position of head girl.

Ann started ringing lessons early in 1965 at All Saints, Lanchester, under the tuition of Harry Thompson. It was not long before she gained her membership of the Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association, and on February 19th, 1967, she took part in her first quarter peal of Plain Bob. This was quickly followed by her first peal, which was rung at Lanchester on April 15th, 1967. The method was Plain Bob. Kent and Oxford Treble Bob Minor. Ann rang an "inside" bell and the peal was conducted by that well-known member of the Exercise, Denis Bayles. The help that Denis has given to Ann with her ringing is very much appreciated. She states that only 19 peals have been rung over the past year in the area where she rings. Given the opportunity she would very much like to take part in more peals.

Ann has spent a great deal of time learning different methods and is capable of ringing the following:—

Doubles.—Up to ten methods with former local band.

Minor.—Standard methods including Plain Bob, St. Clement's, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob, Double and Single Oxford, Little Bob and Double Court, Cambridge, Beverley, Surfleet and Primrose Surprise.

Triples.—Stedman and Grandsire.

Major.—Kent Treble Bob, Plain and Little Bob and Cambridge.

Caters.—Grandsire.

Owing to many commitments, including Ranger-Guides and school work, Ann is unable to travel very often the 15 miles to the Newcastle area for practice. In spite of the handicaps, she makes use of all possible opportunities to ring and to attend many meetings. She has entered the field of conducting and succeeded in conducting her first quarter peal of Plain Bob Doubles with an all-local band at Lanchester on October 15th. She has many ringing ambitions, of which the two main ones are to take part in a 12-bell peal and to take part in a peal with a Lanchester band. Congratulations to you, Ann, on winning your Guides' badge for ringing, and also part of the Duke of Edinburgh's award, and it is hoped that the ringers of Lanchester will soon give you the many opportunities which you are seeking. NORVING.

RECORD PEAL OF GLASGOW SURPRISE

The St. Martin's Guild have added another triumph to their long list by the record peal of 11,872 Glasgow Surprise Major rung at Edgbaston Old Church on Saturday, November 25th, in 6 hours and 36 minutes.

The oldest member of the band was Mr. George Fearn (61) and the youngest John Insley (19), a student. Mr. Roderick Pipe conducted, and others participating were James Insley, Norman Goodman, John Anderson and Clifford Barron.

A full report with composition is promised for our next issue.

OBITUARY

MR. A. H. BOOTH

With the passing of Mr. Albert H. Booth on November 10th at the age of 85 years, St. Wilfrid's, Davenham, Cheshire, has lost its oldest ringer.

For many years he had been "father" of the Northwich Branch and had given regular attendance to Sunday service ringing and Branch meetings until about three years ago, when ill-health overtook him. His last climb up the 58 steps to the belfry was on October 22nd this year.

He took up ringing at Davenham in 1894, rang his first peal in 1897, and for many years was tower captain.

The funeral was at Davenham on November 15th, when the six bells were rung half-muffled, including whole-pull and stand by members of the Northwich Branch and a member of the Grappenhall Branch. Four of the Northwich Branch acted as bearers.

He will be sadly missed by many of us, who extend our deepest sympathy to Mrs. Booth and family in their bereavement.

MR. ARTHUR E. SHARMAN

We regret to record the death on November 25th of Mr. Arthur E. Sharman, a former Mayor of Dunstable and for many years general secretary of the Bedfordshire Association.

An obituary and an appreciation will appear probably next week.

A Leader of Nottingham Ringing

MR. FREDERICK A. SALTER

WITH great sorrow we learned on Sunday, November 12th, of the death, at the age of 74, of Frederick A. Salter, late Ringing Master at St Peter's, Nottingham.

Fred was a native of Norfolk and on attaining his 18th birthday, in April, 1911, he was taught to ring at the Church of St. Peter, Thetford, by one Thomas Fitzjohn. Progress was good and his first peal was on the treble to Bob Minor at Brandon, Suffolk, on Sunday, February 15th, 1912, conducted by Thomas Fitzjohn. This was soon followed by a peal of Bob Major at Kenninghall, Norfolk, on May 12th, 1912. Treble Bob was achieved by a peal of Kent Treble Bob Major at Lavenham, Suffolk, on October 18th, 1913, conducted by his late friend, Stedman H. Symonds.

This proved to be his last peal before the Great War, where he saw service overseas with the 4th M.G. Company. It was during this time on January 21st, 1917, that he married his wife, Alice.

Returning after the war, his first peal was at Preston, Suffolk, on February 19th, 1921, followed by his first "in hand," 7–8 to Bob Major at Bury St. Edmunds, Suffolk, on May 21st, 1922. His first as conductor was Bob Minor at East Harling, Norfolk, on September 6th, 1922.

Difficulties with employment led to his removal to Nottingham in 1923, where he immediately joined the St. Peter's band, and rang the first of his 174 peals for the Midland Counties Association at St. Peter's on January 3rd, 1924.

WIDE VARIETY OF PEALS

The 1920's and 1930's saw much peal ringing in and around Nottingham, including many peals of Stedman with the Wednesday band, Spliced Treble Bob Major with the Gobeys, of Ilkeston, and various odd methods with the late Ernest Morris Some of these included his first of Stedman Caters; incidentally, this was conducted by Edgar C. Shepherd and was his first of Stedman Caters as conductor, Spliced Bob Major and Grandsire Triples, Spliced Double Norwich and Plain Bob Major, and 9,760 Bob Major (all singles), all conducted by Ernest Morris. He also rang in the first peal at St. Mary's, Nottingham, Grandsire Caters, after the bells were recast in 1935.

Fred's last peal before the Second World War and his first after the lifting of the ban on ringing in 1944 were both Bob Major and were both rung at St. Mary's, Greasley, a tower in which he rang no less than 39 of his peals After the Second World War he continued ringing, despite several serious illnesses, with peals both "in hand" and on tower bells. His 350th and last peal was Grandsire Caters at St. Peter's, Nottingham, on Saturday, March 17th, 1962. Of these 350 peals, 311 were on tower bells and 39 "in hand," and the total includes 41 of Minor, 94 of Triples, 143 of Major, 48 of Caters, 23 of Royal and 1 of Maximus. His favourite tower for peals was, of course, St. Peter's, where he rang no less than 84 of his tower bell peals and 11 of his handbell peals.

Fred was a member of many Guilds and Associations and during his life had rung peals for all of the following: The Derby Diocesan Association, the Ely Diocesan Guild, the Leicester Diocesan Guild, the Midland Counties Association, the Midland Counties Guild, the Norwich Diocesan Association, the Salisbury Diocesan Guild, the Sherwood Youths, the Southwell Diocesan Guild, the St. Edmundsbury Diocesan Association, the Suffolk Guild the Truro Diocesan Guild and the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild.

TOWER CAPTAIN 25 YEARS

Without doubt it was at St. Peter's that he gave his greatest service to his Church and the Exercise; he was a regular Sunday service ringer for over 40 years and was only absent when away on holiday and, more recently, when he was ill. He was steeplekeeper for many years and tower captain for 25 years from 1940.

Fred was a faithful Guild officer and served on the Southwell Diocesan Guild Committee from its inception in 1946 for six years, and was chairman of the Nottingham District in 1951 and 1952. He represented the Southwell Diocesan Guild on the Central Council from 1949 to 1952.

He was also largely responsible for the second revival of the Sherwood Youths in the 1950's and served it as its Master until 1966, when he resigned owing to his continuing ill-health.

THE FUNERAL

The funeral service was held at St. Peter's on Thursday, November 16th, conducted by the Rector, Canon A. Inglis. The half-muffled bells were rung before and after the service by the many ringers who had come to pay their last respects to the man who had taught many to ring, or had come to respect his judgment and advice over the years. Amongst them were representatives of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild, the Sherwood Youths and the Southwell Diocesan Guild.

Canon Inglis spoke movingly of Fred's faithful service to his church and of his deep integrity and patience with the many young people he had taught to ring, especially at St. Peter's.

Interment followed at the Redhill Cemetery, where a course of Bob Major was rung over the open grave by W. L. Exton 1–2, P. Nix 3–4, E. F. Gobey 5–6 and G. A. Dawson 7–8. The wreaths included one from the St. Peter's tower, one from the Warsop ringers and one from his many friends in the Southwell Diocesan Guild.

He leaves a widow, a son and a daughter, and their respective families mourn his loss but thankful to God that his long and great sufferings have at last been rewarded with his eternal peace.

A quarter peal of Bob Major was rung at St. Peter's on the night of his funeral, but a peal of Grandsire Caters was lost there on the following Saturday owing to a shift course after an hour and a half. A peal of Bob Major was rung on the Sunday afternoon on the bells he loved at Greasley by a representative band from the Sherwood Youths and the Southwell Diocesan Guild, the composition being one that Fred first called at St. Peter's on June 29th, 1939.

"These men are all as brothers,
And may they never fall,
Until God the great conductor
Shall say to them: That's All."

AN APPRECIATION

Went to School with George Cross

Mr. F. A Salter came to Nottingham in 1923 in search of employment after the failure of Messrs. Charles Burrell and Sons, makers of road locomotives and showmen's road engines. Fred was a great friend and contemporary of the late George H. Cross, with whom he went to school, and afterwards with whom he rang many peals.

Another of his contemporaries was Stedman H. Symonds, of Lavenham, with whom he corresponded regularly. Fred told me many stories of peals and peal attempts at Lavenham, the bells of which he held in high esteem, as also he did of the bells of the Norman Tower at Bury St. Edmunds.

I had known Fred almost 43 years and he taught me much, and most of my early peals were arranged by him, and he it was who encouraged me to visit St. Peter's.

We had much in common besides ringing owing to our mutual interest in steam traction engines, on which subject Fred was something of an authority, especially Burrell engines. Fred had looked after St. Peter's bells, Nottingham, for many years—about 35 years, I should say— and it was through his efforts that St Peter's bells went as well as they did prior to the recent rehanging and augmentation to 12.

Fred was a typical East Anglian and never quite lost the Norfolk dialect, and he always spoke proudly of Norwich and Norfolk bells, especially the tenor at St. Peter Mancroft, which he considered to be one of the finest in the land. I shall miss Frederick Salter very much. May he rest in peace, for he had suffered greatly these last few years.

G. H. CLIFT.

MR. J. G. JEFFERIES

Mr. J. G. Jefferies, captain of the ringers at Mangotsfield for over 45 years, died on October 16th, aged 86 years. He had been in ill-health for a considerable time.

His captaincy dated from 1922, when the six bells at Mangotsfield were augmented to eight. He had been known in many parts but since the last war his ringing had been confined to Mangotsfield, where he trained many to ring. Mr. Jefferies was Master of the Gloucester and Bristol Association from 1951 to 1953.

The funeral service was at Mangotsfield Parish Church on October 19th, many friends attending. The service was conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. W. M. Beard, who gave an account of Mr. Jefferies' life as a ringer.

As the cortege left the church for Canford Cemetery for cremation half-muffled ringing took place, the following ringers taking part: Mrs. N. Dart 1, C. Harding (Past Master of the Association) 2, J. Williams 3, G. Blagg 4, C. Baker 5, J. Ferris 6, W. Ritchings 7, W. Cook 8.

The ringers of Mangotsfield say farewell to "Pop," as he was affectionately known. W. R.

MR. SIDNEY G. KING

The ringers at Corston, Bath, have been greatly saddened by the loss of their former Tower Master, Mr. Sidney G. King, who died on November 20th, aged 73. He carried out the duties of Tower Master and steeplekeeper for 19 years and though not a great peal ringer, his total being only three, he was assiduous in his attendance for Sunday service ringing. Both before and after his retirement as Tower Master he was almost invariably first at the church for ringing.

During his term of office the ringing at Corston advanced from call changes only to methods, including Surprise Minor.

Owing to a wound sustained in World War I, in which he served in the Guards, he was never keen on ringing away from his own tower. He was for many years a sidesman at Corston. Always of a cheerful disposition, he will be greatly missed, not least by his fellow ringers.

The funeral service was at Corston on November 24th, conducted by the Rector, assisted by the Rev. R. O. Fry, and was followed by cremation. The bells were rung half-muffled in the evening and also on the following Sunday, when a quarter peal of Grandsire Triples was rung prior to Evensong.

SHARESHILL, STAFFS. — On Nov. 18th, 1,320 Cambridge Surprise Minor: S. T. Yates 1, A. J. Fletcher (first Surprise "inside") 2, Miss B Pickering 3, C. J. B 4, R. B. Dorrington 5, P. G. K. Davies (cond.) 6. First quarter of Surprise by St. Leonard's Sunday service band, Bilston.

Letters to the Editor

KEGWORTH SURPRISE ROYAL

Dear Sir,—Mr. Speed's second basic rule covering the naming of methods represents an entirely arbitrary restriction of the scope of the Methods Committee's report on extension, the purpose of which is to make a pathetic attempt to justify his use of an unacceptable name.

Actually the report, while defining rules for extension, says nothing at all about naming (until the final paragraph on page 7, which is not applicable to the present case). The report neither states that true extensions must bear the same name nor that methods which are not extensions must have different names. This is no omission; it is simply so obvious that the authors thought it unnecessary to state it explicitly. This implication is quite clear, the purpose of the report being the control of method naming, both those which are extensions and those which are not. To argue that the report applies only to those which are not is absolute nonsense. Mr. Speed knows this perfectly well. Far from being ludicrous to maintain that correct extensions must have the same name, this is the only possible thing that can be done unless we are to abandon systematic naming altogether.

The cases where two methods are acceptable extensions of the same parent method present no problem at all. Whichever is rung first may be named after the parent and the other has to have a different name. Afterwards further extensions to higher stages must be consistent with that already existing (e.g. static or expanding, and must start at the correct sub-section). This is adequately covered by the symbolic formulæ of pages 3 and 4 in the report. An example of this is Albanian and Yorkshire Royal, which are alternative extensions of Yorkshire Major. In this case a perfect satisfactory and logical nomenclature has been adopted in practice.

Mr. Speed is well aware of the above arguments, which are set down here for the record and for the benefit of other interested readers.

As an attempted justification of the naming, his letter is no contribution and his action in using this name cannot be called constructive. That he expected some correspondence on the subject leaves me in no doubt that he wishes to have a little fun by trying to find a loophole in the report. If he had a worthwhile objective he would have proceeded differently. This kind of destructiveness is the activity of little minds. Actions speak louder than words in these matters; neither do him credit in the present context.—Yours sincerely,

JOHN R. MAYNE.

St. Albans.

A MOTHER'S SUPPORT

Dear Sir,—With reference to Mr. R. Speed's letter regarding Kegworth Surprise Royal, we are not interested in what he thinks he submitted to "The Ringing World" for publication but only in what the correct figures are. On his own admission, Mr. Speed knew perfectly well that the method rung should be named "Leatherhead," but no doubt thought it would be amusing to start something. The trouble with Mr. Speed is that he has never progressed beyond his undergraduate days.—Yours faithfully,

PHYLLIS M. MAYNE.

HANDBELL PEAL AT CARDIFF

Dear Sir,—Isn't it amazing what can be read into the footnote "First peal on 12 bells in Wales (excluding Monmouthshire)" if a person has a mind to? Furthermore, isn't it surprising that your two correspondents ("Ringing World," pages 793–4) cannot read correctly?

Nick Simon should know better than to suggest that I am perpetuating the English claim on Monmouthshire by adding the above footnote. This suggestion is completely irrelevant as the point whether Monmouthshire is a Welsh county or not does not arise. Does "First peal in the method in England (excluding Yorkshire)" mean that Yorkshire is not a county in England? Of course not, since it means exactly the opposite—that is, a county in England, but that for the peal in question it is not considered. Likewise with the footnote to the handbell peal, peals in Monmouthshire were not considered. (One moment, however, I've just realised why the footnote has been misunderstood. I should have written "Y sain cyntaf o deuddeg clychau yng Nghmru (heb Myny)," and then all would have been well.

As for Geoff Stickland's "complete nonsense" letter, perhaps if he had given it a little thought he would not have written it at all! I would like to ask him to produce his evidence for 43, Downton Road, Rumney, being part of Monmouthsire, and also, as a matter of interest, to publish details of the handbell peals on 12 bells in Monmouthshire, which, he says, have already been rung. The parish of Rumney, though once part of Monmouthshire, is no longer so. The Cardiff Corporation Act of 1938 brought the parish within the boundaries of the City of Cardiff, where it still is today, as are considerable areas further to the east. On the point about handbell peals, the only one I have on record on higher numbers is a peal of Stedman Caters rung in All Saints' belfry, Newport, on September 11th, 1911.

And so, until it can be proved otherwise, I maintain that the footnote to the peal in question is unambiguous, not controversial, and is correct.—Yours faithfully,

BRIAN J. WOODRUFFE.

Wheathampstead, Herts.

RE PICCADILLY SURPRISE MAJOR

Dear Sir,—Apart from the fact that this method has irregular lead-ends, the headings for the composition of the method as shown on page 855 of "The Ringing World" are surely wrong. They should read:—

23456	5ths	In/M	W	H
36452		2	—	—
25346	2		—	3
62345			—
23645		x

The calling positions in order through the course are 5ths, In, B, 4ths, M, W, H; and the headings I have shown above are the positions which the tenor would be in at calls to produce the correct sequence of course-ends as printed.

It will be interesting to see the Central Council's views on the lead-end.—Yours sincerely,

C. F. MEW.

Putney.

RANDOM BOBBING

Dear Sir,—Last week-end I attended a week-end course in bellringing organised by the Derbyshire Association. The course, as its predecessor, was extremely informative and highly organised by Messrs. Marshall, Halls and Carlisle, but to my sorrow no lecturer could give me any advice on a problem that afflicts the tower where I ring.

The problem is this—the band can only recognise one coursing order, that of the plain course in Plain Bob Minor, and each Sunday we struggle manfully on with a 360 or 720 in this method. Invariably about halfway through there is a clashing and clanging and we emerge from the fracas with two, three, four or even five bells having changed over if not confused as to their course. No one knows enough to call bobs to bring us back into the correct order and we are left with the alternatives of "Go rounds" or, even worse, stopping altogether. (At my tower we do not use harsh commands such as "Stand" but the more courteous and permissive "Stand if you can.")

I was hoping that the lecturers would tell me how many bobs called at random would be required to bring any combination of coursing orders back to a plain course. Obviously we could keep going and try all combinations, but the Rector insists that we stop by the end of the second collect as he says he cannot preach to a background of a slow tenor clipped by the lead bell, so time is against us.

If any reader would make any useful observations on the problem, and its cure, I would be very grateful.—Yours faithfully,

C. G. BROWNE.

Breaston, Derbys.

HOW LARGE SHOULD AN ASSOCIATION DISTRICT BE?

Dear Sir,—"The Ringing World" of November 10th provides opposing views on the optimum size for Districts of territorial Associations. In his speech at the Peterborough Guild dinner Mr. George Pope is reported as advocating the reorganisation of a large Association into four or five fairly large Districts instead of numerous small ones, as has been done in Suffolk, whereas on the next page we read of proposals to increase the number of Districts in Kent from six to nine, and of a District in the Hertford County Association which has only ten towers.

On the one hand a large District means that individual towers can be visited only infrequently and it is harder for the District officers to give their attention to all towers where help is needed, but on the other hand a small District can mean a weak one which has not the resources to carry out its functions properly.

I imagine the only answer to this question is that it all depends on local circumstances, but even these change quite rapidly. I think, sir, it would be of interest to all concerned with the work of territorial Associations if two or three of those who have had practical experience of this problem, possibly in the Associations named above, could be encouraged to set out their views in these columns.—Yours sincerely,

C. H. ROGERS.

STRAIGHT WORDS TO LEICESTER GUILD

Dear Sir,—May I, through the columns of "The Ringing World," make an appeal to all members of the Leicester Diocesan Guild?

As this year, the 21st anniversary of the foundation of the Guild, has been so memorable, let us really get down to the basic "object" of the Guild—"To promote ringing for divine service," and make 1968 an even more memorable year.

Too many people are too interested in self-glorification, only ringing for service when they can be bothered, which unfortunately is so often not regularly enough.

Let all petty arguments and disagreements be forgotten, and have all the bells in the diocese rung for every service, and all meetings attended by 100 or more ringers every week. Leave peal ringing until learners have been taught at every tower—be there three or thirteen bells.

Then peals can be rung every week, and the Leicester Guild will rise again as the leading Guild, not only for peal ringing, but for service ringing as well.—Yours sincerely,

RINGING MASTER.

(Name and address supplied.)

IDENTITY OF HANDBELLS WANTED

Dear Sir,—I have recently been able to inspect a set of ten handbells, tenor size 18 in G. The lady to whom they belong inherited them from her late father, and they previously belonged to her grandfather. This gentleman, whose name was Hodges, lived near Hereford and used to go round the district tune-ringing on these bells.

The present owner would like to know if anyone in that area remembers this band of tune-ringers, or anything of their activities, or of the history of the bells.

Also we should like to know who the founders of the bells were. They are marked on the crowns "M. B. & S." The bells are not for sale.—Yours truly,

J. I. SMITH.

Alford, Lincs.

NOT A FICTITIOUS NAME

Dear Sir,—Whilst not wishing to enter into the demerits of Aldermaston Bob, I would like to assure everyone who does not know him that Mr. Ted Steele is not a fictitious name, as accused by Mr Dodd.

Also, he did not say that there are three blows in sevenths, as Mr. Wilcox indicated; there is a comma in the sentence.—Yours sincerely,

DAVID W. STRUCKETT.

Haslemere, Surrey.

PEAL RINGING IN KENT

Dear Sir,—May I, through the medium of our journal, please reply to the letter from Mr. Derek J. Carr (page 834). I do not know where Mr. Carr got his statistics about Kent peal ringing, but they are rubbish, as over 250 people took part in the 207 peals rung by our Association. There were 40 people ringing a peal for the first time, 44 different conductors, 82 towers in the county had peals rung in them, there were 35 handbell peals, and 14 towers outside our county had peals rung in them. To suggest all these peals were rung by a handful of "dedicated peal ringers" is absurd.

My advice to Mr. Carr before he writes again is ot contact one of the officers of the Association or, better still, invest 3s. and buy a Kent County report.—Yours sincerely,

TONY LEWIS.

Chislehurst, Kent.

STEEPLE-KEEPING

TACKLING ODD-STRUCK BELLS

By TY TENNIT

Much has been written on this in recent issues and whilst some correspondents have touched on the fringe nobody has so far suggested the proper and systematic way it should be done. Let me first of all make one thing clear—if the bell, or bells, has a cast-in clapper staple, i.e. if it is not drilled in the centre, whilst it can up to a point be corrected, it is really a job for a qualified man, and in any case such a bell is due for a major overhaul, as these "cast-in" staples can be a menace and a vast majority of cases of cracked bells are caused by the expansion due to rust or corrosion of these staples. I will gladly provide privately instructions for attempting this, but advise against it if the bell, etc., appears level. I will therefore deal only with bells with independent staples. Theoretically, if a bell is level across the lip, and the clapper is in the dead centre, it should be true struck. There are, however, rare cases where this does not work. It is also possible, as a correspondent once pointed out, for only one bell to be true struck and the rest of the ring out. Therefore in determining the degree of falseness it is best to correct the bell or bells in relation to the rest of the ring unless one is going to work round scientifically from back to front and correct the lot.

The curing of an odd-struck bell is quite simple, but requires patience if perfection is to be achieved. One should first obtain some leather washers the size of the top of the staple about an eighth of an inch thick and tapered variously to 0 inches to obtain a good balance. Now in referring to sides of a bell, the side on which the pulley is situated is known as the "face" side and for the purpose of this article will be referred to as such.

Next, one should determine the nature and degree of falseness. "Slow at hand" means that the bell has to be pulled closer at handstroke than at backstroke, and "slow at back" the reverse.

Check by Measurements.

Having now armed oneself with rule, taper washers and spanner, one is ready to commence and it is an advantage to have an assistant. First measure the distance from the lip of the bell on the "face" side to clapper ball and make a note. Next remove the clapper completely and put the tapered washer on top of the staple. If the bell is "slow at hand" the thick part of the taper should be away from the "face" side, and if "slow at back" it should be on the same side as the "face" side.

Replace the clapper and screw up reasonably tight enough to allow a little movement. Then hold the bell on the old strike point and get the assistant to tighten up, allowing the clapper to swing occasionally to ensure that its flight across the bell is true. Tighten up as tightly as possible and measure again as a check to see how much it has shifted. If the bell was "slow at hand" the measurement should be less and vice versa. One can now try the bell in relation to the others and the packing can be added to or lessened as required. A very good guide to determine the "odd-struckness" of a bell is to ring it up frame high and allow it to fall freely without any help on the rope at all (I prefer to take the rope off and run the bell up partly on the wheel, but in unqualified hands this can be dangerous). Before the bell finally comes to rest any "odd-struckness" will be obvious by the tendency of the clapper to beat on one side only as the bell comes down.

Care must be taken, however, in this method as some bells will clapper down freely and beat both sides, whereas another will beat a few blows at hand and then a few at back alternately. Either is the sign of a true struck bell since an odd-struck one will beat almost solely on one side below a certain period and requires packing over away from this side.

One of our founders now provides set studs in the cast iron stocks to allow for clapper setting without taper washers. There is, however, one thing to be borne in mind: if a ring is becoming odd-struck it is a sure sign that maintenance has either been neglected or done incorrectly, and as good, tight clappers can make a small difference to the tone of bells, these should be watched, and re-bushed when too loose.

Deep and Light Setting.

Some bells are set either too lightly or too deeply. This can be corrected by either cutting a piece out of the runner board for deeper setting, or adding a small block for lightness. For resetting a "Hastings" type slider it might be preferable to consult the founder. If the bell is deep or light at handstroke the correction should be made on the side away from the face side.

Sound Control.

Many towers have bells which are much too noisy either inside or outside the tower. Ringers must face up to the fact nowadays that with the growth of buildings great care must be exercised so as not to create a nuisance, and in any case a noisy ring is not necessarily a beautiful one. There are various ways of abating the sound range from the simple to the expensive.

With the latter, of course, the founders and various advisers to the Guilds and Central Council will always advise, but if a simple "do it yourself" system is desired, great success has been achieved in recent years with the use of "Sarking" or "Inodorous" felt as it is sometimes called.

Several layers of this on a belfry floor can efficiently and effectively quieten down a ring, or clock-weight cases, which are sometimes a cause of trouble, could be lined.

Also wonders can be worked for outside sound by boarding up the louvres and backing them up with a layer of felt.

EAST GRINSTEAD & DISTRICT GUILD

Owing to the Surrey Association holding a meeting the same day nearby, there were only 12 members present at the meeting of the Guild at Bletchingley and Godstone on November 11th. A good tea was served at Enid's Cafe.

The next meeting, at Tonbridge on December 9th. was confirmed, and Mr. Ladd announced that tickets for the annual dinner on January 13th (price 7s. 6d.) were now available (money with order, please). Tunbridge Wells bells would be available if wanted. Thanks were expressed to Mr. Bird (Bletchingley) and Mr. Wood (Godstone) for local arrangements.

THAMES-SIDE CHURCH TO BE DEMOLISHED

BUT SUNBURY TOWER AND BELLS TO REMAIN

THE riverside Parish Church of St. Mary, Sunbury-on-Thames, is shortly to undergo major structural changes in which much of it will be demolished and rebuilt to a different design. The brick tower, however, with its metal dome, attractve cupola and musical ring of eight bells (tenor 14½ cwt.) is to be saved to serve, in the course of time, the new church which will be bonded to it on the same three walls as at present but at lower stations.

During the past 20 years successive P.C.C.'s have striven in earnest to arrest the deterioration in the timber and brickwork of nave, chapels. galleries and towers, and large sums of money have been spent on restoration. But each new repair has only resulted in the exposure of larger affected areas except in the tower, where work carried out in two phases in the past ten years has produced reasonably good results. With the walls of the nave now bulging noticeably outwards under the gradual movement of the roof, the P.C.C. has stopped repair schemes in the seemingly endless and increasingly costly fight agatnst decay.

REBUILDING—£90,000 SCHEME

By combining the recommendations given in a detailed overall survey with proposals to bring church and parish centre under one roof, the Council has decided to embark upon a major rebuilding campaign which will cost about £90,000. A rebuilding fund has been started within the parish, and financial support from the Diocesan Board has been promised.

By retaining the tower the authorities have given a lead to the architect, Mr. John Phillips, A.R.I.B.A., in blending his strikingly modern design with the surroundings and keeping it in character with one of Sunbury's most picturesque corners. In plan the new church might be described as octagonal with a nave altar set a little to the south of centre. The existing apse will be preserved and screened off with glass to become a chapel on the east side. Many of the furnishings, window glasses, memorials and font will be cleaned and stored for use in the new building; the fine organ, recently revoiced and removed to the west gallery, will be cased and protected. In the central area, which will have no galleries, there will be seating for about 300 persons and space for a further 350 in the area normally partitioned off for use as the parish centre. There will be new vestries, offices, changing rooms, flower room and toilets. For general and daily use the entrance will be through a new door to the north-east of the tower, but for festivals and ceremonial use the entrance will be through the large west doors under the tower.

Standing on part of the site of Sunbury's Saxon church, the present building is itself the result of the complete rebuilding scheme of 1751-52. It was erected by the City builder Richard Jupp to the design of Stephen Wright, clerk of the works to the Palace at Hampton Court. It is the only church known to be designed by him and it displays some of the styles of architecture he found in his travels in Greece and Italy.

THE BELLS

Three bells were placed in the tower in 1755 and to these were added single bells in 1770, 1817 and 1851 to make up a ring of six, all from the Whitechapel Foundry. In 1901 they were all removed to Loughborough, where, with added metal, the octave was cast, Simpson-tuned and rehung in the tower. A steel "H"-type frame for seven bells on one level with a low-side frame for one bell (No. 3) above No. 4 bell replaced the original wooden frame and became part of the tower bracing. The bells have always been regularly and well used and are still in good ringing order; a promise of an overhaul towards the completion of the rebuilding campaign has been given by the P.C.C.

Soon the church will be closed and the services transferred to a large cedarwood hutment which has been erected 75 yards away in the parish garden across the road. The P.C.C. has asked that the bells be rung throughout the campaign, but this will depend, of course, on what happens when the nave is pulled away to leave the tower standing quite alone and unbuttressed. If ringing is permitted there will still be some interruptions, especially at the critical stages of bonding the brickwork and setting the concrete. Any departures from the normal programme of service ringing and practices on Wednesdays will be published in "The Ringing World." The remaining tower bookings by visiting parties for the autumn will be honoured and a peal attempt before the demolition men move in will be allowed to go on.

The decision to pull down their church was received by the people of Sunbury with mixed feelings and brought forth some sincere objections from within and without the church family. But the vigour of the fund-raising campaign and the enthusiasm of the workers in it have gone a fair way towards restoring general confidence in the scheme. The local belfry company, in the meantime, is carrying on its work for the church each Sunday, continuing to train ringers for the future, and offering a welcome to visitors, all amidst an air of uncertainty and despite the many difficulties that are bound to arise. ARCHAEOLOGY

COINAGE ON BELLS — By P. Amos

LIKE practically everything else, ringing has a number of side issues. Some ringers take pleasure in working out peal compositions, others in seeking fresh towers at meetings and outings. Some there are who have a fascination for measuring tenors, others for the more intricate sides of bell archæology, but when all are woven into one pattern they help to make ringing what it is.

Have you ever been to a strange village and heard this said: "Our bells are so much better than so and so's because they have a lot of silver in them!" I have had it told me many times, and obviously do a smile as well as take it, as it were, with "a pinch of salt," to the displeasure of the story-tellers often!

How did such stories come about. They originate from the days before such things as motor traffic, railways and even canals—when the horse was the only form of transport and bells were mostly cast on the spot—on the village green or in a field near the church, sometimes in a far corner of the churchyard, by means of a mobile temporary furnace.

"FOR LUCK"

The whole village would turn out to see the work done, and, as it were "for luck," would be invited to throw silver coins in the metal—the last occasion of this to my knowledge was when Haselbech (Northants) bells were cast in 1930 at the Croydon bellfoundry, and the donor, Miss Ismay, threw a couple of coins into the metal of one casting.

However, during the time of the Stuart monarchs and the early Hanoverians it was a widespread practice, especially after the Commonwealth and the coming to the throne of Charles II—Easton Maudit bells by John Hodson are early instances.

A Northamptonshire family of bellfounders named Bagley cast many bells with coin impressions, mainly of Charles II, around them, and if one goes to Ringstead, Courteenhall, West Haddon, Cransley, etc., these can be seen as well as the only old bell (the 7th) of the octave at the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, Northampton, 1681.

How do I know they are impressions of Charles II, you may ask? Charles II reigned from 1660 to 1685 (he was, by the way, the king who the story has it "apologised for being a long time dying") and so if your bells are dated in any year between these dates you can rest assured the coin impressions are those of "the oak apple king," to whom bell-ringing was so much associated with for more than two and a half centuries after.

EDWARD I COIN

There are coin impressions on bells of earlier dates and the earliest I can find is at Cold Ashby on that historic old bell of 1317. In addition to a single coin impression, there is the head of Edward I, who gave his royal patronage to bellfounders, of whom William-de-Flint, the reputed founder of the Cold Ashby bell, was one. Edward I died ten years before this bell was cast, and this is an example of bellfounders who enjoyed his patronage and using his head on later bells.

Edward III reigned from 1327 to 1377, and his head with that of his queen (Philippa) are on several old bells. The features of the two kings are different—that of Edward I being long, and that of Edward III round.

After the Cold Ashby bell I can find no trace of coins of other sovereigns until Charles I, at Naseby, although doubtless there were those of Elizabeth I, James I, Henry VIII and Edward IV, the boy king who ordered the 1552 inventory of all goods of the Church (including bells) to be compiled—a very useful inventory like that of William III (1700), both preserved in Chancery Lane, London.

The bell at Naseby was cast in 1633 by Hugh Watts, of Leicester, and has two impressions of a Charles I crown piece, and, by the way, coins of Charles I, like those of George I, one of which I have, never had the "I" on them—just Carlos or Georgius; James I the same, with Jacobus—not James!

I have only found one bell with an impression of coinage of James II—at Milton Malsor, 1686. This king reigned only three short years (1685 to 1688), abdicating because he could not force the Church to go back to Rome, which he wanted it to do. Incidentally, I have also a James II silver twopenny piece—now very rare! I have so far not come across any bells with coinage impressions of

Southern Branch

The annual meeting of the Southern Branch was held at Thetford on November 11th, with over 40 members and friends attending.

The service was conducted by the Rev. H. R. Mumford, who welcomed us to St. Peter's Church.

At the business meeting Dr. P. H. A. Jonason was re-elected chairman, and Mr. C. F. W. Phillippo secretary. Mr. H. B. Fuller was thanked for his work as Ringing Master over the past five years, and Mr. C. F. Arnold was elected to succeed him. Mr. Fuller was elected to the Standing Committee and Mr. O. Claxton to the Branch Committee.

It was decided to visit New Buckenham for the next meeting.

Ringing under the direction of Mr. Fuller continued till 9 p.m. with members of the Suffolk Guild and Ely Diocesan Association joining us. C. F. W. P.

HERTS COUNTY ASSOCIATION

The Eastern District held its November meeting at St. Dunstan's, Hunsdon (8). Although the bells are rather hard-going some good ringing in a variety of methods was heard, which included Cambridge and St. Clement's Major.

ST. CLEMENT'S BOB TRIPLES

Dear Sir,—For Mr. Bridges' information, St. Clement's Bob Triples is an accepted method. All right place even methods extend to the next odd number by adding a hunt bell, just as Grandsire is produced from Plain Bob. Also, St. Simon's may be made an even-bell method by adding a hunt bell.

Grandsire and Plain Bob are the odd ones out in the family as they are named according to the number of hunt bells, but the rest are normally known by their distinctive work. Hence—St. Clement's Minor + hunt bell = St. Clement's Triples.

As a matter of interest, the number of such methods giving pure odd-bell methods with regular lead-heads is as follows: Minimus — Doubles = 3, Minor — Triples = 11, Minor — Caters = 32, Royal — Cinques = getting on for 100!—Yours sincerely,

DAVID W. STRUCKETT.

Haslemere, Surrey.

William III and his joint monarch, Mary II (1689 to 1694) nor of William III on his own (1964 to 1701). In 1705 Henry Penn, of Peterborough, cast four bells for Lois Weedon with coinage impressions of Queen Anne.

HANOVERIANS

And of George I, these are on bells of 1718 and 1720 at Crick and Cranford St. Andrew among others, which Thomas Russell, of Wootton, Bedfordshire, Thomas Eayre, of Kettering, and other founders cast.

A number of bells cast during the 33 years' reign of George II (1727 to 1760) have coinage impressions, among them one at Brafield, 1732, others at Flore, 1743, and Brampton Ash (1754). Recently I came across a perfect (mint condition) shilling of George II, as well as several copper coins of George III, the king who reigned second longest to Queen Victoria, from 1760 to 1820. George III impressions are on the tenors at All Saints', Northampton, by Pack and Chapman, 1782; Maidwell, by Edward Arnold, 1772; and Irchester, by Arnold, 1792. Few are later than George III.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

EAST BERKS AND SOUTH BUCKS DINNER-DANCE

OVER 100 members and friends of the East Berks and South Bucks Branch spent a most enjoyable evening on Saturday, November 11th, at Beaconsfield on the occasion of their sixth annual dinner and dance. This function moved from Windsor to the Beech Tree Hotel, Beaconsfield, last year, which presented severe difficulties of accommodation, but the reduction of numbers this year made it a much more comfortable occasion.

In the "hot seat" was the Branch chairman, the Rev. S. A. C. Dickins, Vicar of Hughesden. He was supported by the Master of the Oxford Diocesan Guild (Canon C. Elliot Wigg) and Mrs. Wigg. The Master humorously explained that his presence there that evening was solely due to the superior intelligence of at least one of the inhabitants of Beaconsfield, of whom he had inquired the whereabouts of the "Fir Tree" Hotel! Also on the "high altar" were the Branch president (the Rt. Rev. C. Pepys (Bishop of Buckingham) and Mrs. Pepys, the Oxford Diocesan Guild general secretary (Miss Marie Cross), the Branch secretary (Miss Doreen Hague) and the Oxford Diocesan Guild steward, Mr. Howard Oglesby, and Mrs. Oglesby. One notable absentee who was in everyone's thoughts was Mr. A. D. Barker, Guild and Branch treasurer, who had just entered Windsor Hospital for an eye operation.

Besides the floral and other decorations arranged by the organisers, there were on display the very beautiful illuminated board ornamented with scrolls bearing the names of the Branch towers, and the certificates to be awarded to the winners of the Branch striking contest and the Guild contest, all the work of Mr. E. E. Gosling, of Maidenhead, one of the organising sub-committee.

HUGHENDEN'S YEAR

Following the dinner and the loyal toast, the Branch chairman presented the certificate to the winners of the Branch striking contest, Hughenden, which was received by their team captain, Mr. David Cornwall, amidst well-deserved applause. Hughenden went on to represent the Branch at the Guild contest and came second to Thatcham, losing by only half a mark. The Master of the Guild then presented the Guild runners-up certificate to Hughenden and remarked on the great difficulty he had had in deciding the result because the ringing was of such a high standard.

The rule of these annual functions is very short speeches. The Branch secretary must have used the same threats to Mr. H. Oglesby about the duration of his speech as she did to bludgeon him into making one. His speech must easily have beaten all records for brevity, but he did just have time to extend a warm welcome to the guests and visitors who had graced the occasion. It has since been revealed that, as he was in the bath when Doreen was "asking" him to make his speech, he had not much chance to argue—his wife saw to that.

Newlywed Mrs. Joyce Cornwall (nee Barton), on behalf of the assembled company, presented a bouquet of chrysanthemums to Miss Hague in appreciation of the work she had done to ensure the success of the evening. She was the king-pin, said Mr. Oglesby, round which the dinner revolved. One wag suggested that "queen"-pin might be a more apt designation.

The remainder of the evening was taken up with dancing, drinking and talking "shop." Mrs. Barbara Castle's ghost seemed to cast no serious inhibitions upon the evening's enjoyment, but it was noticed that when Mr. and Mrs. Oglesby invited a few bellringing drivers to come and see their new house and have a cup of coffee the invitation was readily accepted by one or two of those too old or too "square" or too lazy to dance!—or perhaps unable in their friendly conversations to compete with the band. W. B.

BELFRY GOSSIP

We have had reported to us a case of unfriendliness towards visitors in a belfry. This has been referred to the Association concerned, who are taking steps to improve relationships.

A Suffolk veteran. Mr. A. W. Rolfe, of the N.W. tower, Bury St. Edmunds, had an important anniversary on November 19th, the 60th of his first peal, in November, 1907. He took part in the congratulatory quarter peal by ringing the treble to 1,344 Plain Bob Major.

Evensong on Remembrance Sunday was the last service to be held in St. Mary's, Sunbury-on-Thames. The church is now closed and will be demolished prior to rebuilding to a different design. Ringing will continue in the tower, which is to remain.

Keith Robertson is writing a series in "The Oxford Times" on "Bells and Their Ringers." Launton, the tower of Mr. Frederick Sharpe, provides an interesting half-page. There is a picture of the 11 members of the local company on the ladder leading to the bell chamber.

Mr. D. Ellison, of Ilford, in sending his congratulations to "The Ringing World" on topping 6,000 sales, adds: "At my home tower eight of the eleven ringers take 'The Ringing World,' a ninth reads her brother's and a tenth hopes to become a reader in the New Year. Is this a record?"

Mr. Edgar C. Shepherd has again written to the editor of "The Radio Times" regretting that his letter or a corrective comment had not been published regarding "the absurd and misleading representation of bellringing portrayed in an issue of 'The Borchester Echo" of 'Ambridge' ringers."

Mr. George Spice, former general secretary of the Kent County Association, is seriously ill in a London Hospital. He is unable to receive visitors.

King's Somborne ringers rang a quarter on November 26th in honour of the 91st birthday of two former ringers—F. Davis and F. Hewlett.

Mr. John Douglas, churchwarden at St. Mary's, Northchurch, Berkhamsted, wants the name of a firm supplying a battery lamp that could operate in the case of electricity supply failure

The quarter peal rung at Hordle, Hants, on November 26th, was the first on the bells by an all-local band. Rosemary Simpson was ringing her first quarter and A. Nunn conducted.

Mr. Anthony H. Smith, of 130, Drove Road, Biggleswade, Beds, is not the A. H. Smith whose change of address was advertised recently. In future will people who have not uncommon names give their first name in full.

Mr. W. A. Stote, of Coventry, has now rung in 3,138 different towers, beating the record of the late Mr. J. J. Shepherd, of Swindon. He informs us that the only other ringer with over 300 towers to his credit is Mr. Clive Smith, of Lichfield.

Among the in memoriam quarter peals to the memory of the late Mr. John Willis was one of Cambridge Minor by the local band at Charing. It was here that Mr. Willis learned to ring and he rang in the first quarter peal on the bells with the treble ringer's (Catherine E. Robbins) great-grandfather, Mr. William H Spice.

BELL FOUNDRY UNDER YORK MINSTER TOWER

A mediæval bell foundry has been discovered under the central tower of York Minster. The find was made during engineering work to strengthen the tower.

The foundry was built in the 13th century to cast the bells for the belfry of John le Romanus, which was on the site of the present central tower, erected in the 15th century.

An amount of bell metal and slag has been found, but only the stokehole and flue of the furnace have so far been uncovered.

THE PEARL OF ALL PEARLS

Regarding "The Ringing World" as his favourite, the Earl of Arran cannot resist a quote from "An Observer's" article on dress in the "London Evening News." He classifies this as the pearl of all pearls:—

"The fashion for mini-skirts produces strange sights hitherto unseen in modest belfries. To all ringers who wear mini-skirts, please have a trial 'pull' at home in front of the mirror."

PORTISHEAD AND TWERTON REUNION

Four members of each of the bands of Portishead and Twerton took part in a peal of Grandsire Triples at Portishead on November 4th in honour of the birth of a daughter, Nicola Jane, to Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Gale, of Portishead. Mr. Gale is captain of the Portishead ringers and his elder son, David, rang the tenor. The Gale family kindly entertained the ringers to tea after the peal. The Rev. Roger O. Fry and Mr. Alan F. Lee were each ringing their 125th peal for the Bath and Wells Association.

CARILLON IN MODERN AZTEC PYRAMID

According to "Building," in Mexico City there is an audacious pyramid-like structure rising 416.56 feet. It has 29 storeys and a sight-seeing platform. This building is the highest reinforced concrete structure in Mexico, and in the vertex there is a classic carillon of 47 bells, weighing 40 tons in total. The purport of the building is to represent the Aztec pyramids in 20th century construction.

WANTS GUILD REPORTS

Mr. Christopher Groome, of Kettering, writes that he has difficulty in getting reports from Guilds of which he is a non-resident member, with details of towers, peals and compositions. Could not these be advertised, giving price (including postage) and the addresses from which they may be obtained? he asks.

MEMORIAL PEAL TO MR. F. A. SALTER

It should be noted that the memorial peal rung at Greasley to the memory of Mr. Frederick A Salter was not rung half-muffled, as Mr. Salter detested muffled ringing. The calling used was a favourite of his and he was responsible for the conductor knowing the composition.

Of the 105 peals rung at Greasley, Mr. Salter had rung in 38, conducting 15.

SECRETARY FOR 30 YEARS RETIRES

Mr. T. A. Palmer, who for the past 30 years has been hon. secretary and treasurer of the Marlborough Branch of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild, announced his retirement from office at the Branch annual general meeting on November 18th.

When he took over in 1937 the affairs of the Branch were at an extremely low ebb. Mr. Palmer has devoted his energies and a great deal of time to Branch affairs and has nurtured it to its present position.

Miss Heather Jones was unanimously elected as his successor. Other officers re-elected were Mr. George Newman, chairman; Mr. F. Read, vice-chairman and Branch Ringing Master; Mr. Alan Keen, Deputy Ringing Master; and the Rev. Roger Keeley, Branch representative.

The annual report made pleasant reading, with membership remaining steady and a slight increase in the attendance at meetings. An all-Chisledon band was congratulated on ringing a peal of Plain Bob Minor. Four new members were elected, after the report had been adopted, from Marlborough, Aldbourne and Chisledon.

Mr. P. Minchin suggested giving aid to silent towers and thought these could be manned for an occasional service. It was agreed to try and implement the proposal, but the chairman pointed out that in a predominantly rural district transport was an overriding factor.

Thanks were expressed by the chairman to the Rector (the Rev. J. Walsh) for conducting the service and to Mrs. Keeley and and helpers for the excellent tea.

A NEW ZEALAND SUCCESS

Christchurch Cathedral Society deserve warm congratulations for their peal of Cambridge Surprise Minor rung on November 18th for the Prince of Wales' birthday.

This was the Society's second attempt for a peal of Cambridge Minor, the previous attempt having been lost at about the 3,000 mark a few weeks ago. It was the first peal for the Society and on the bells since Great Adventure II some two years ago. It will be recalled that a peal of Grandsire Triples was rung just before the arrival of the English tourists.

Following this success, Christchurch ringers hope that the Chapter will spend some money on the maintenance of the bells. They feel that the peal ought to add conviction to their arguments.

"Needless to say," writes Dr. P. J. Perry. "we refreshed ourselves after the peal, and mystified (or appeared to mystify) the other patrons with loud and enthusiastic talk of past and future activities, with such jargon as Stedman and Spliced Surprise."

SILVER WEDDING DAY

We expect Mr. and Mrs. Harold Chant received many congratulations from Yorkshire and Barnsley friends on November 21st, their silver wedding day. Perhaps the "Professor" will dedicate his latest arrangement feat to this important milestone in his life. This was to arrange all the Minor plain methods—regular and irregular—in seven 720's. We are expecting any day to hear of a peal in all the regular plain methods from Yorkshire.

ARE YOU A SCHIZOPHRENIC?

"It is reckoned that there are more schizophrenics amongst bellringers than in any other hobby," said Mr. John Pladdys, a theological student at King's College, in the sermon he preached at the annual general meeting of the University of London Society at St. Olave's, Hart Street, on October 21st.

"We can see this quite easily by looking round our own numbers and the pages of 'The Ringing World'" he said. "Quite apart from anything else, it is an experience to stand in a ringing chamber and watch the facial contortions, body-wiggles and the fiery, demented look in the eyes . . .

"We should not despair of the accusations labelled against us ringers of our lack of interest in the Church. As part of a Church undergoing drastic changes and stresses, like shedding an old skin for a new one, bell-ringing itself must undergo corresponding drastic changes. If, as the Bishop of Woolwich predicts, church building will be done away with, and Christian work carried out from a central parish shop, ringing will become an entirely secular art. We must not be afraid, or even surprised, when this happens, as happen it must, and probably in our lifetime. For now we must examine our present role of servants to an institution whose forms and ideals are undergoing such significant changes. We must be ready to make such changes ourselves, to throw overboard completely out-moded ideas which make the gulf between Church and the world even greater."

ACTIVITIES AT LANCASTER UNIVERSITY

Following an initial meeting on October 31st, the constitution of the Lancaster University Guild of Change Ringers was formally ratified on November 14th and the first officers elected as follows: Ringing Master, Keith Lewin; secretary, Paul Coddington; treasurer, Katherine Lloyd.

There have been ringers at the University since the second year of its existence (1965) but hitherto the numbers have been insufficient to warrant the formation of a Guild. Now, however, with a total strength of ten and the certain prospect of more members as the University grows, the Guild can expect a period of continuous enlargement. (Membership is also open to students of St. Martin's College of Education in Lancaster.)

The Guild's home tower is the Priory Church of St. Mary (8, 32 cwt.), which has a commanding position overlooking the town; it no longer has a local band, most of the former ringers having gone to University! There is a ring of ten (25 cwt.) at the R.C. Cathedral; unfortunately the light six at St. Thomas' have been unringable for many years.

Several of the Guild members are of Surprise Major standard, and it is hoped to attempt a University peal in the near future. Any visitors to the town during term will be made very welcome at the University practice (Tuesdays, 7.30). Evening ringing every Sunday is at 6 p.m. R. J. S.

STRICTLY FOR THE EXERCISE'S BIRD FANCIERS

From the Autumn, 1967, issue of the Civil Service Council for Further Education Magazine "Venture," comes this priceless piece of information on an article on bird ringing:—

"British ringers are now marking more than half a million birds each year."

THE LADIES' GUILD

Appropriately, when the Devon Branch of the Guild met at Plympton St. Maurice, the Vicar, the Rev. K. A. Newing, took as the theme of his address at the service "Remembrance Sunday."

An excellent tea was served in the new hall adjoining the church, and Mrs. H. Boobier presided at the business meeting. The evening ringing was at Plympton St. Mary (tenor 25 cwt.)

Next meeting: Dartmouth, in February.

SUFFOLK GUILD
S.W. District

Bures, on the River Stour, in the heart of Gainsborough and Constable country, was the picturesque venue for the S.W. District annual meeting on November 25th. Despite the typical November weather nearly 60 people attended and, as usual, enjoyed the hospitality one always associates with St. Mary's belfry.

Ringing during the day ranged from call changes to Stedman and Yorkshire Surprise Major with "something for everyone" as the theme. The spotless, well-furnished and heated belfry offered good refuge from the cold and all in all provided a convivial atmosphere.

The service received just the right flavour by the Bishop. Dr. Leslie Brown, on a parish visitation, meeting ringers as they entered the church. Dressed very casually (in disguise, as he called it!) he confirmed our belief of the diocese's increasing awareness of the work of ringers within the Church.

The Vicar (the Rev. Ian Dunlop), too, spoke appreciatively of the happy association of Church and belfry in Bures. The lesson was read by the Guild Ringing Master (Mr. George Pipe).

At the business meeting following tea the District officers were re-elected under the chairmanship of Leslie D. Mills. Mention was made of marked improvement in the District's activities during 1967, including two young quarter-pealers, Jeremy Dingwall and John Loveless, a general increase in quarters and several new members.

The Master thanked the District for its loyal work, especially Miss Evelyn Cansdale, now in her eighth year as District secretary.

Next S.W. meeting: February 25th at Stoke-by-Clare (6, 16 cwt.).

BEDFORDSHIRE ASSOCIATION
Biggleswade District

Saturday, November 11th, saw a fairly good attendance of the Biggleswade District at Great Barford, where there is one of the best fives in the county. Here and at Northill during the evening Mr. A. H. Smith admirably catered for the crowded belfries. At Northill Village Hall we were all very pleased to see Mr W. Wagstaffe looking as fit and well as ever Our thanks to the ladies who prepared such a nice tea.

LEARNERS AND INSTRUCTORS

By DENNIS A. BAYLES

BEFORE proceeding further with the practical side, some elementary theory is given to show the derivation of the plain hunt on four bells. Two aims of change ringing are given: (i) as much variation as possible at each stroke, and (ii) no repetition until all the possibilities have been exhausted. These aims are subject to restrictions imposed by practical considerations: (i) no movement of more than one place at a time, and (ii) that all bells must sound in each change. We pursue these aims subject to these restrictions and so construct our plain hunt on four bells. Demonstrate.

When we turn to the choice of a practical exercise we observe that in ringing the treble to changes the pupil will face two new situations as compared with his ringing of rounds. Whereas in rounds he had the same bell to follow and the same interval between his own strokes, in changes he faces a situation where the bells to be followed are different and so, too, are the intervals between his own strokes. Let us take these one at a time, telling him the bells to follow and concentrate on the rhythm and anticipation of where to hold up and where to cut in. Take the plain hunt on three bells but add 4, 5 and 6 covering to give stability.

123456	pull sally over 2 to lift next stroke
123456	over 3.
213	pull after 3 steadily.
231	follow 2 without much pull on sally
321	in order to cut in straight down
312	after 3.
132	and cut in somewhat at handstroke
123	lead.
	pull backstroke lead in order to be ready to hold up.

From this move on to plain hunt on four bells with 5 and 6 covering. Work out the bells to be followed and where there is to be holding up and cutting in as we have just done with the plain hunt on three bells.

By this time there should be acquisition of a reasonable rhythm and the pupil should be moved progressively to finding his own bells. My established pattern was to turn to Plain Bob Minimus but I have recently thought that the scheme I follow in moving to higher numbers could be extrapolated downwards and Grandsire on four would be better. Work this out. Hardly a regular method, but quite a good preliminary exercise. What is the advantage claimed? Quality of a whole treble lead is often set by the quality of that first blow in 2nds. We tell him which this one will be but we leave him to watch 3 and 4 for his next two bells—a gentle introduction. We could then turn to Plain Bob Minimus or, as I prefer, to the plain course of Grandsire Doubles.

Consider the touch of Grandsire Doubles produced by calling 5 three times right. The third enters the hunt after the first bob and the fourth after the second bob. Tell the pupil this information and delay the calling of the second and third bobs until he has got settled after the first and second respectively. Repetition will result but this does not matter.

Other touches of Grandsire Doubles without any prior information about the bells in the hunt will prepare him for ringing Plain Bob Doubles.

Plain Bob Minor is the next stage and this can be begun by ringing three bobs in succession so that a start is made on 2 each time. For the first time in these change ringing exercises the problem of leading without a covering bell has to be tackled, but by this stage the rhythm of leading should have become reasonably well established to stand the pupil in good stead and his ropesight should be coming along nicely, too.

Plain courses of Grandsire Triples present no worse a problem for ropesight than does Bob Minor, and the covering bell is back for the leading. The touch with 7 three times home gives us the 3rd and 4th in the hunt for a course in turn. We try this, giving the pupil this information to help him. From this we go on to other touches of Grandsire Triples without any prior information given to the pupil. When he can do this he is moved up to Plain Bob Major and when he can manage that all right our target of plain hunting has been achieved and probably the major obstacle in teaching anyone to ring changes has been overcome.

ELABORATION OF THE PLAIN HUNT

The elaboration of the plain hunting path does not need to await the completion of all that I have outlined so far. Indeed not all this can be achieved in a six-bell tower. Elaboration there must begin after plain hunting to touches of Plain Bob Minor, and in an eight-bell tower it can be concurrent with the extension of the hunt to seven and eight places.

Elaboration brings us up against the new situation of the dodge, which has been avoided in my scheme, for you will recall that I never switched the treble and 2nd to give them less than a whole pull in each place at a time. Draw figures of dodge and explain the violent switch from hunting up to hunting down without the steady blow in between.

What shall be the practical exercise? The first thought is usually Plain Bob "inside." Is this because ringing textbooks deal with Plain Bob completely first? I suggest that a better exercise is Treble Bob hunting and let us start by simply dodging in 1.2, then 1.2 and 3.4 and then on to ringing Kent Treble Bob Minor. Knowing that he has to dodge in every position simplifies the path by comparison with Plain Bob "inside" and concentration can be made on the proper rhythm for the dodging.

Plain Bob "inside" is rung by combining plain hunting with an occasional bit of Treble Bob hunting according to the sequence of the dodges. The only other feature, 2nd's to the treble, has already been practised in the small amount of call changes that was introduced.

Ring Grandsire as a variation of Plain Bob where everything is pushed up one place.

The final plea is, do not compartment your study of methods.

A RINGER'S STORY—"The Organ Grinder"

By JOHN HOLLOWAY

I was born under the sign of "Aries"—the Ram! and a fortune-teller once told me that I would never make a complete success of anything. I suppose that is because a ram is "all butt."

Anyway, I have succeeded in getting a lot of pleasure out of ringing bells. I don't mean "push-button" bells, although I have done quite a lot of that!—I mean church bells. Even here I have to confess that I have never got beyond the "four standard methods."

You will look in vain for my name in peal records, but I do my best and enjoy the ringing and, equally important, the good company of ringers.

Another thing I have not made a great success of is playing the piano, and, on rare occasions, even an organ.

Now! I must point out that I am not an organist, but I am fascinated by organs. Most of them look wonderful. Look at the names on the stops, too!! "Quint," "Terce," "Salicet," "Contra-Glegen," "Saute-Flote," "Tibia-clausa," "Undmaris," "Diaphonic Tibia-bass"—Oh! and lots more! I sometimes wonder why car manufacturers never think of getting new names from organ stops!

When I am asked to play a hymn or two at a bellringers' service I do not use all these stops.

Acting on the advice of a real organist, I only use those stops marked "Diapason 8ft." of "Flute 8ft." Those little white knobs between the manuals I never touch, and those pedals and iron things that lurk in semi-darkness under my feet I also leave in peace. One organ I met with had some stops with red ends, and heaven above knows what happens when they are used.

But I must just tell you of one experience I had! It was in an old church in a remote village.

The Rector was very proud of the organ, which, he told me, had once been in a cathedral and had been purchased secondhand about 80 years ago. His knowledge of organs was even less than mine and, as his regular organist was playing football that afternoon, he asked me to play two hymns for our ringers' service.

I noticed a row of pipes sticking out like guns above the organ stool. Now this is very unusual, as most organ pipes stand upright in neat rows.

Anyway, I took my seat, opened the instrument and looked for my usual stops. These were, on this organ, marked in Roman numerals and confused me a bit. The regular organist had left a note on the organ (I mean a written note), which read: "Please do not use the 'Trumpet' stop (as if I would) as this actuates (and that's a nice word, isn't it?) the pipes which stick out horizontally."

Quite a literary effort, I thought, as I put on a borrowed cassock and surplice. Now the first hymn was "Angel voices ever singing" and I noticed a stop marked "Vox Angelical." Ah! I thought, I will risk that one, it will make a change! The hymn was announced and then (Oh! Shades of the Lost Chord!! it happened! I had, in error, pulled out the forbidden stop. As I struck the first chord, to my horror there issued forth a most frightful sound; nothing at all like "angel voices," and a cloud of dust was blown out of those devilish pipes above my head and descended all over me and my lovely white surplice.

However, after a fit of coughing, which seemed to last for minutes, I hurriedly pushed in the offending stop and carried on, red-faced and dusty, but undaunted.

Talking about organs, I once had a typewritten sheet sent me by a friend; it was headed: "Specification for an Organ for a Modern Church." It wasn't until I read "Full to Brim," "Bass 2 pts.," "Double Diamond Stopped," "U. Squint," "3 Rank Mixture—Gin. Ver. Vod.," "Great to C.U.," "Great Style" and "Breathaliser 2ft.," that I realised I was having my leg pulled.

By the way, can anyone tell me if the "Spotted Metal" used in making organ pipes comes from Dalmatia?

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Despite winds, rain and adverse weather conditions, some 70 members and friends attended the annual general meeting of the Lewisham District held in the historic Church of St. Paulinus, Crayford. The service was followed by an excellent tea kindly prepared by Mrs. E. A. Barnett and her companions, to whom we are most grateful.

The business meeting followed with Mr. E. A. Barnett taking the chair. Officers elected for the coming year were: Miss Mary Andrews, District secretary; Mr. Paul Smith and Mr. Tony Lewis, District representatives; Mr. Michael O'Callaghan, Ringing Master. The position of District "Ringing World" correspondent was unfortunately dropped, on the proposition of Mr. Ian H. Oram.

The meeting was against Mr. P. A. Corby's proposition with regard to splitting Kent into nine Districts instead of the existing six. The feeling was that Mr. Corby had been too vague with his proposition, which was lost.

Miss Andrews reported that the monthly District practices had been a great success. Tony Lewis regretted the fact that due to lack of support from some members and towers they were not the success they could have been. He hoped this coming year they would have more support from the older members.

After the usual votes of thanks ringing on the bells continued until 8.15 p.m. under the new Ringing Master. Ringing ranged from rounds and call changes to Bristol. T. L.

St. Mary The Virgin, Down St. Mary, Devon

St. Mary The Virgin, Down St. Mary, Devon

HILLTOP villages are a characteristic of North Devon; Down St. Mary stands on top of a gentle hill over 450 up above the valley of the Yeo near the Exeter-Barnstaple road. It is an entirely rural parish of rich red farmland, and the population has drifted somewhat from the old village to Morchard Bishop on the main road.

The church was almost entirely rebuilt in the 1870s—much of it rather badly—but there is a magnificent screen, and the church's great treasure is a fine Norman tympanum above the south door carved with a primitive but immensely spirited rendering of Daniel in the Lions' Den.

Until 1900 the tower—the oldest part of the building apart from the tympanum—contained three bells as it did before the Reformation; one of these was a pre-Reformation bell which was described as "illegible," and the other two had been recast, one by Thomas Pennington III of Exeter in 1672, and the other by Thomas Bilbie the Younger of Cullompton in 1754: the last two are the tenor and fifth of the present six.

In 1900 the ring was augumented to a five with the addition of two trebles by Mears and Stainbank; the new frame was built by Harry Stokes of Woodbury—a two-tier frame in the very narrow tower.

In 1935 the village raised £70 to commemorate the Jubilee of King George V with a treble to make the six, and ringing in Down St. Mary really got going. Under the leadership of Joe Towt, the village wheelwright, learners were brought along—including three brothers of the name of Wright—and in 1936 the band entered for the first of their competitions.

After the war ringing had hardly been properly re-established when it was found that the foundation-timbers of the oak frame had rotted. For two years ringing came to a standstill, but in 1949 enough money had been raised to rehang the six in a new iron and steel frame and to recast the medieval fourth. The work was done by John Taylor's, and with a really good six the band came into its Golden Age. Some years ago now, the certificates entirely covered the walls of the ringing-chamber, and now there are so many that the cost of framing all of them would be prohibitive. A corner of the church beside the font has been taken over by the band's impressive display of shields and cups.

Just where lies the secret of the Down St. Mary band is hard to say; the village has only 300-odd inhabitants, but it keeps two regular bands going, and this means a steady supply of ringers to fill the gaps in the first team. Undoubtedly a great deal of their success is due to the three pillars of the first team, Tom and Ralph Wright, the treble and tenor ringers, and Harry Dockings, the fifth man, who is the organising genius behind the team and makes all their arrangements. With three exceptionally gifted ringers who are prepared to go anywhere and give up any amount of time to ring, the others follow suit. Whispers have been put about sometimes of "poaching" from other towers; but it is much more likely that these are due in part at least to jealousy of a band that can command such loyalty that people will be prepared to travel long distances to ring with them—and on Sundays as well, for Mary-Down bells are rung for all services on Sundays, and generally by the first team including those who don't live in the parish: Harry Dockings lives in Morchard Bishop just across the valley, and another member comes from Chulmleigh.

Perhaps another factor is that their own bells are not easy to strike to the standard that really good call-change ringing demands. With three hung above three, and the windows above the upper tier, there is a slight time-lag with the 2, 4 and tenor in the lower, and these bells have to be kept infinitesimally close by the ringers inside if they are to sound right outside. Practically every peal they ring is recorded and analysed, and Tom generally picks the brains of the judges at every competition to find out where the marks were incurred: this is the real perfectionism which lines a belfry with certificates.

The bells are a pretty, musical little six with a tenor 6 cwt. 3 qrs. 16 lbs. The two old bells are inscribed as follows:

5th: Mr. WILLIAM : ROACH : CH : WARDEN : THOs : BILBIE : IUNR : 1754.

Tenor: IOHN : WHITE : WARDEN : T P : 1672.

The tenor is a maiden bell, and a very good casting.

The Down St. Mary record so far this years is as follows: 27 competitions entered; 18 firsts, 8 seconds and one 7th. That's the competition record; how many services they have rung for I don't know, but service-ringing comes first with this band; will all our readers be ringing at 7 a.m. on Christmas morning?

Change Ringing

The Art and Science of Change Ringing on Church and Hand Bells

WILFRID G. WILSON

"The need for a modern textbook on change ringing fit to put into the hands of the latest recruit and acceptable to the progressive ringer has been felt by instructors for a long time, particularly during the last twenty years as the Exercise re-established itself after the war and the ban on ringing. The wait has been worthwhile, for Faber's invitation to Mr Wilfrid G. Wilson has resulted in a volume on the theoretical and practical aspects of our art as valuable as any yet written . . . Here is a book to be recommended most strongly"- The Ringing World

INNER STORY

ST. MARTIN'S GUILD'S OUTSTANDING RECORD

11,872 Glasgow Surprise Major

A PEAL THAT WILL GO DOWN IN HISTORY

FOLLOWING a request by the Ringing Master of the St. Martin's Guild for the Diocese of Birmingham for a long length of Glasgow Surprise Major, John Segar, of Skegness, produced a 7,500 in May, 1967. This started a chain of correspondence between Mr. Segar and Mr. Roderick Pipe, resulting in Mr. Pipe producing, in July, a 9,280 on a variation of a five-part plan, which was checked and proved by both Mr. Segar and Mr. Peter Border. Immediately following this, Mr. Segar, having satisfied himself that 9,280 was the maximum possible on a five-part plan, turned his attention to a three-part plan, and obtained a 10,080. Quite independently, Mr. Border also decided that a three-part might be more fruitful and produced a 11,424 in three equal parts, following, a week later, with the 11,872.

All of these gentlemen are satisfied that in Glasgow (a) the maximum possible in full courses is 12,096 (54 courses) and (b) 11,872 (53 courses) is the maximum possible to construct from these 54 courses, even with the use of singles.

THE ARRANGEMENTS

When Mr. Pipe had obtained his 9,280 the Guild's Ringing Master took steps to arrange a date, the band and a tower within the Diocese of Birmingham. The Vicar of Yardley kindly gave permission for the attempt, although no long lengths had previously been attempted there, but much to the dismay of the Ringing Master and the Vicar the composers kept producing more changes. The Vicar did not feel that he could give permission for the 11,872, bearing in mind the residents of an old people's home and of a housing estate near to the church.

Attention now turned to Edgbaston Old Church, situated in a salubrious suburb, where again no long length attempts had taken place. With the full co-operation of the local Ringing Master, Clifford Barron, the facts of the matter were placed before the Vicar and Rural Dean, Canon Greville Norburn. After full consideration Canon Norburn agreed, provided that the peal should start at noon, that additional shuttering be placed on the louvres and that an attempt be made to gain publicity for the event.

The bells, a handy 10 cwt. Taylor 1927 ring, are a little harsh in the immediate vicinity because they swing into four triangular shaped openings (30in. x 30in.) at the top of the louvres. The louvres were already covered with insulation board, so the openings were also covered, at a material cost of £2 10s., with ¼in. insulation board which, to the writer's ear, softened their harshness and improved their overall effect.

PRESS COVERAGE

To achieve publicity, a Press hand-out was carefully prepared giving the facts of the forthcoming event in terms sensible to non-ringers and sent to the editors of the Birmingham monopoly dailies ten days previously. The Press responded excellently with numerous articles both before, during and after the peal and a photograph of the band practising. The B.B.C. also gave excellent coverage with two radio broadcasts on the day of the peal, including an interview with Clifford Barron, and a recording of the bells on the following Monday. Colour television cameras took pictures of the church and of the ringing during the first two hours of the peal, including a close-up of the conductor, Roderick Pipe, and this film was shown at the close of the national B.B.C. 1 News at 10 p.m. on the same day.

It was possible for the film to be taken as Edgbaston has a ground-floor ring, in fact the floor of the ringing room is four steps below the level of the nave. The bright arc lights, necessary for colour, being switched on and off proved a slight distraction to the ringers, which could have been very serious if the umpires, after an argument, had not stopped the cameramen from coming right up to the ringers. As it was, the camera and lights were only 20 feet away.

To ensure that the band was in "practice" three normal length peals were rung at Shirley, Netherton and Birmingham Cathedral in the ten days preceding the record; all the members of the record band rang "inside" in at least two of these peals, the compositions were all taken from various parts of the 11,872.

THE PEAL

Noon approached and Edgbaston Old Church was a hive of nonchalant inactivity with about 15 wellwishers assembled in addition to the ringers, umpires, Vicar and the Press. As the ringers had sought publicity, they had to curb their impatience to get started with the peal and allow the Press and radio men time to photograph the bells and record their interviews. Into changes at 12.12 p.m. and "nerves" resulted in a false start of almost two leads, in full sight of all the wellwishers, etc. Into changes again at 12.15 p.m. to settle down at a fairly slow speed (2 hours and 52 minutes for a 5,056) to ring good Glasgow against the distractions of the television cameras. The church was kept open throughout the peal and numerous ringers and non-ringers, including the Vicar on three or four occasions, came in to see how the ringers were getting on.

At the end of the first part the pace suddenly quickened (2 hours and 47 minutes for 5,056) and this smarter pace, although not quick for the bells, was kept up until the end of the peal. Much of the success of the peal rested with the tenor ringer, Clifford Barron, who regulated the ringing at this steady rate, and the conductor, Roderick Pipe. There were no serious mistakes and Roderick was able to correct the small trips which did occur almost instantaneously. Regrettably, Peter Border was unable to ring as the time of the start did not allow him to return to Coventry for the 60th anniversary dinner of the Coventry Diocesan Guild.

The umpires, Susan Smith and Christopher Hughes, who sat at a table in the church, had a very cold task. By a freak of acoustics, the bells being much louder in the church than in the ringing room, they were not able to hear the majority of the bobs, nor could they see the conductor's mouth. Fortunately they found that they could see Roderick's chest, which rose dramatically immediately before every bob. They comment that "the ringing in the first part was good although a little unsettled, probably due to the interruptions caused by the TV arc lights. At the start of the second part the speed suddenly quickened and the ringing settled down to a very good standard, which was retained until the end of the peal."

At the end of the peal, watched by about 15 to 20 onlookers, the bells were immediately lowered. Polite applause led by the Vicar then broke out, much to the surprise and great appreciation of the ringers. The Press were again in evidence interviewing the ringers but soon all were able to refresh themselves with cups of tea thoughtfully provided in the vestry by the beadle and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. J. Wood.

COMMENTARY

One of the delights which the ringing of a record peal engenders is the amount of participation by people other than the ringers. This participation, by the ringers who advised and helped in erecting the shuttering, by the umpires, by the 40 or 50 ringers who came to hear some part of the peal or who were there at the beginning or end, by the Vicar and his parishioners and by the general public who were kept so well informed by the Press, was in this instance quite extensive, much to the satisfaction of the organisers, Clifford Barron and Alan Ainsworth. By all accounts, this sense of anticipation was much more in evidence in the early days of ringing whenever 5,000's were attempted. It may be that this group participation, together with the sense of achievement, justifies the continued attempting of record peals, especially in an area like Birmingham where 5,000's are rung regularly. Edgbaston, in a populous area, well served by transport, and where the ringers can be seen in full view, seems to be better suited in this sense than an isolated country tower. Perhaps this is the first occasion that a record peal has been attempted in these circumstances.

So it is with these thoughts that the St. Martin's Guild set their sights on some other record. An attempt on the existing Royal record of 16,920 rung at Worsley, perhaps?

KENT MOURNS FOR TWO VICE-PRESIDENTS

Mr. ALFRED G. HILL

Mr. A. G. Hill, whose death on November 25th at the age of 65 has already been briefly reported, was a vice-president of the Kent County Association and is best remembered for 35 years' devoted service as Lewisham District secretary.

His predecessor in this important office was Thomas Groombridge senior, a dominant personality who ruled the affairs of the District with a rod of iron. Alf Hill, in his own special way, was no less a figure than his predecessor, but was of a shy, retiring nature and did not wish to take on as part of his duties as District secretary the control of the ringing at meetings. This resulted in the creation of a new office of Ringing Master, which for the next few years Thomas Groombridge occupied. There were in the District at that time other strong characters who contended that the creation of the office of Ringing Master was outside, and therefore contrary to, the rules of the Association, and their opposition centred round the late William Jeffries, a big man with a deep voice and forceful manner, who never seemed to tire of describing the actions of the District as "illegal."

Unwittingly Alf Hill became the storm centre of the controversy that raged at District business meetings. It was at this strenuous time that with calm dignity he endeared himself to all in the District who had the privilege of knowing him, whether protagonists or embarrassed neutrals. Alf had the gift of frankness without rancour, of straightforward dealing and a great friendliness for any who cared to penetrate his shy exterior. He was a master of the written word and at the District annual meeting each October he produced a report of the year's activities that was a masterpiece in the manner of its presentation and the detail of its content.

Older members will recall with pleasure the presentation to Mr. Hill in 1945 of a gift from the District in recognition of his outstanding 21 years' service as its secretary. Fortunately the ship of state had by that time sailed into calmer waters and the "legality" debates were things of the past. At about this time Alf saw the need to promote the social side of ringing and arranged a series of District socials, where the catering was organised in a lavish manner by Mrs. Hill, their charming son and daughter and other members of their family and friends, in the Church Hall of Christ Church, Erith.

It was at this church that he put in a lifetime of sterling work. The bells were installed by Warners during the first world war and, through some hanging defect, they have never gone well in spite of their fine tone. Indeed there have been occasions when the seventh has been regarded as almost unringable. Such disadvantages did not deter Alf from his triumphant duty as a Sunday service ringer and it is in this respect that he has proved that a quiet man, with unpretentious ways, can inspire and lead others by his own example of selfless service.

When in 1959 Alf handed over his task as District secretary to Miss Mary Andrews the Association was pleased to honour him by making him a vice-president. As a member of the committee for some 40 years he had seen much coming and going and he had a precise and accurate recollection of all the major events and decisions of that time. He knew the rules thoroughly and was always right in his facts when he made his quiet intervention in any debate. He was a source of great encouragement to the present general secretary, who recalls with pleasure that Alf took part in his first peal some 31 years ago.

The funeral service at Christ Church, Erith, took place in an atmosphere of quiet dignity before a large and representative gathering of family and friends. The Kent County Association was represented by the general secretary, Mr. P. A. Corby, and Mrs. Corby and numerous past and present committee members and friends from the District including Mr. E. Barnett, of Crayford, a friend of 70 years' standing, Mrs. E. A. Barnett represented her husband, a fellow vice-president of the Association, Mr. F. J. Cullum and Mr. H. E. Audsley, both past masters, represented the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths, together with Mr. A. G. Mason, all of whom had known Alf Hill for over 40 years. The service in church was followed by cremation at Eltham.

Mr. Hill leaves a widow, son and daughter-in-law, daughter and son-in-law and various grandchildren, for whom great sympathy will be felt.

AN APPRECIATION

The sudden death on November 24th, at the age of 65, of Mr. Alfred G. Hill, captain of the band at Christ Church, Erith, came as a great shock both to ringers in North Kent and to members of the committee of the Kent County Association, who heard of it as they assembled for their annual committee meeting only a day after the funeral of another of their vice-presidents, John Willis.

A most modest and unassuming man, Mr. Hill was essentially a "local" ringer. I think all his peals—about 150— were rung in Kent, all but one (the first by the present Master of the College Youths) on eight bells, and the vast majority at three towers only two or three miles apart—St. John's and Christ Church, Erith, and Crayford. They included a variety of methods up to four-spliced Surprise, among the latter the first for the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths in 1935.

Peal ringing was, however, only incidental to his ringing career. The aspect of it for which all who knew him will remember him was his long period of 35 years as secretary of the Lewisham District of the Kent County Association. For a year, I believe, he understudied his predecessor, the late Thomas Groombridge senior, before being elected to office in 1924, when he was 22 years of age. After his retirement in 1959 the Association made him a vice-president. Throughout his term of office he missed hardly a meeting, if one at all, and the same applied afterwards. On meeting days it was always his concern that everyone else should enjoy themselves, both in the belfry and outside it; so much so that in my earliest ringing days I thought he was not a practical ringer because I never saw him on the end of a rope.

His annual reports were a joy. They covered every aspect of ringing in the District in extraordinary detail, enlivened by touches of humour that, until one got to know him, one might have thought he lacked. His use of the English language was masterly. One of his reports—that of 1938—so impressed a non-ringer present that, to quote from "The Ringing World": "Mr. Lack thereupon undertook to prepare 100 copies for free distribution to interested members." I still come across my copy every so often and reread it with nostalgic interest.

Throughout his ringing career he was associated with Christ Church, Erith, as an ordinary member, as secretary and then as captain. Loyal to it in prosperity and adversity, he had his reward in recent years when there was a local band capable of ringing Bristol for Sunday services. One hopes that they will carry on with his example to inspire them.

To Mrs. Hill who, though not herself a ringer, supported him at meetings and other ringing gatherings, to their son, John, himself a ringer at Christ Church for the past 20 years or so, and daughter, Mary, we extend our deepest sympathy.

E. A. B.

Mr. JOHN WILLIS

Members of the Kent County Association will be grateful to the Editor of "The Ringing World" for his memoir of Mr. John Willis, a vice-president of the Association and a leading personality since his retirement to Folkestone in 1945 at the end of a long teaching career, mainly in Huntingdonshire.

When at Charing in his young days he taught in school George H. Spice, who became general secretary of the Association soon after Mr. Willis' return to the county and since his retirement from that office has been a fellow-vice-president. Mr. Willis also knew Percy Spice in school at Charing but did not actually teach him.

In those days Canterbury was a reasonably strong centre of ringing and there was in the area a competent peal-ringing band, particularly of Stedman. Mr. Willis took part in various peals and his name appears on a board in Waterloo Tower, Quex Park, in connection with a peal rung in 1902. It is not known whether he took part in any peals during his time away from the county and he did not ring any on his return.

His great service in these last 22 years has been in other directions. On his return to the county he took the Association unto himself and in the early years of his retirement he and his charming wife were to be seen at all county gatherings and many District meetings and other functions as well. Alas, in later years Mrs. Willis was bedridden and John Willis devoted his whole life to nursing her, but in spite of this severe strain his interest in the Association and all its affairs never wavered and he went to great trouble to arrange for the care of his wife so that he could get away to attend meetings.

ILLUMINATED PRAYER CARDS

He was a great penman and in addition to his work for the Biographies Committee of the Central Council already referred to, he gave to each belfry throughout the county an illuminated prayer card of the Association prayer. He was a very generous man and his hand was often in his pocket to meet various expenses that would otherwise have fallen on Association funds. Such acts were never ostentatious and when, as was his custom, he gave a small present to the organisers of dinners and meetings and similar functions he always made it appear that the gift was from the Association.

He had a fine presence and it was no doubt the schoolmaster in him that enabled him to remember the names of all the members. When he was in the chair it was only very occasionally that he was at a loss for the name of a proposer or seconder—no small feat in a county the size of Kent. Until the last year or two, by which time his own health was beginning to fail, he was a first-class chairman, able to despatch the business with great promptitude without in any way curbing the essentials.

The funeral service took place at Charing Crematorium, conducted by the Vicar of Charing, the Rev. Peter Robbins, himself a keen ringer and the son-in-law of Mr. George Spice. The hymns "Praise to the holiest in the height" and "Unchanging God who livest" were accompanied on the chapel organ by Mr. John Cooper, and at the committal a course of Grandsire Triples was rung on the beautiful Folkestone handbells by T. E. Sone 1–2, E. A. Barnett 3–4, W. H. Dobbie 5–6, and P. A. Corby 7–8.

During Mr. Willis' last illness the Folkestone ringers were assiduous in their visiting and care for him; Alan Berry, the Ashford District secretary, deserves the grateful thanks of the members of the Association. He and a goodly gathering of ringing friends from various parts of the county were present at the funeral to pay their last respects.

RECORD ORDER FOR 2,400 BELLS

Mini Liberty Bells to Mark Bicentenary

The Whitechapel Bell Foundry has received the largest single order ever placed in the history of bell founding. It involves the casting of 2,400 bells to mark the bicentenary of the American Revolution as part of a £750,000 project.

Thomas Lester, of Whitechapel, in 1752, cast the Liberty Bell for the Province of Pennsylvania. This bell was destined to become one of the symbols of freedom and was rung 24 years later for the first public reading of the Declaration of Independence.

The Liberty Bell Foundation, an organisation concerned with the historical aspects of the bicentenary, has ordered a limited edition of scale reproductions of one-fifth the size of the original bell The bells are to be offered for sale privately within the United States, and delivered immediately they are cast. The total number cast in any one year will not exceed 288.

Each bell will be mounted on an oak base hand-carved in the style of the period and bearing two inscribed plaques of silver. They will be numbered from one to 2,400, representing the months from the American Revolution. The owner's name and home town will be engraved on the silver plaques. One will read: "By order of John Doe of Philadelphia, in commemoration of the Bicentenary of the American Revolution, 1776–1976." And the other: "Cast by the Whitechapel Bell Foundry, London, to the original design of the Liberty Bell cast by them on the same site in the year of Our Lord 1752."

Each bell will weigh approximately 20 lb. and stand 13¾ inches high with the base. There will be attached to each bell a navy blue silk tassel to enable it to be rung correctly.

The bells will be distributed from the Whitechapel Bell Foundry by private arrangement with individual Americans. The purchase price of £270 is inclusive of all costs and is payable in advance to the Liberty Bell Foundation.

GUILD OF MEDICAL RINGERS

THE 13th annual meeting of the Guild took place in London on November 18th. For this occasion four towers had been arranged and ringing began shortly before 2 o'clock at St. John's, Waterloo Road. About one half of the party arrived within the next hour, and then a move was made to the University of London H.Q., St. Olave's, Hart Street. This was uneventful save that the Master left his outer garment at Waterloo, and the keys were not available at St. Olave's, where the East Anglian contingent were waiting, chilly but cheerful. Gaining access after 20 minutes' delay, the enlarged company hardly did justice to this light eight, and by 4.15 the Guild had moved round the corner to St. Botolph's, Aldgate. The standard improved here, despite the greater problems of handling, and a course of Superlative was brought reasonably round. Finally, the Guild were fortunate to spend an hour at St. Michael's, Cornhill. For some of us, rounds were the limit of ambition, but with the help of one or two "youthful" friends both Stedman and Grandsire were achieved. Cinques went well for Grandsire also, but not, unfortunately, for Stedman.

Dinner was taken once again at the George Inn, Borough, where a full house of 30 members and guests ate the usual good—and sustaining—meal.

The Master, D. J. Neal Smith, began the business meeting by referring to the death of the president earlier in the year. The minutes of the 1966 annual general meeting were approved, as was the hon. secretary's report on the year, including the financial statement. Election of officers followed: President, J. B. Williamson; Master, P. A. F. Chalk; secretary, D. L. Gullick. One new associate member was elected, Miss Anne Blundell.

For the future it was suggested that the Guild visit the president's homeland, the Isle of Wight, for its May meeting. The ways and means of a week-end were explored, and a measure of support expressed.

The president indicated concern that broadcast services, on both radio and TV, were not preceded nowadays by ringing. He felt that whenever there were bells they should be broadcast, and that for the information of the uninitiated some information about them and the method should be announced. The secretary was instructed to convey these views to the Central Council.

The meeting concluded with a vote of thanks to all concerned in arrangements, notably Messrs. John Mott and Jack Phillips. Touches in rounds were rung both on bells of normal dimension and the president's special light six (tenor 2 oz. approx.)

OBITUARY

Mr. Ernest E. S. Johnson

The passing of Ernie Johnson on November 26th, 1967, at the age of 64 after a long and painful illness, has removed from the Essex Association not only a keenly enthusiastic and competent ringer but also a man of many and varied talents.

With a considerable knowledge of music, his tenor voice made a welcome change to the monotonous unison singing at ringers' services and his signwritten peal boards grace many belfry walls. As a young man he played both football and cricket for many years and this curtailed to some extent his ringing activities.

In the early 1950's he joined the young and enthusiastic peal ringing band that was growing in the Chelmsford area and practically all his peals were rung with this company during the next few years. Ill-health finally forced him to give up but right to the end his interest remained and with "Ringing Worlds" he received from his old friend Frank Claydon he kept up with the news.

Altogether Ernie rang about 130 peals, his first being Bob Major at Feering, conducted by the late William Keeble, and his last London Surprise Major at Thaxted on November 17th, 1962. Perhaps his most enjoyable ringing was the series of Spliced Surprise Minor culminating in a peal of 30 methods at Fryerning in March, 1958, which was his 100th peal.

A man of great kindness and generosity, he was, above all, reliable and conscientious. Even during periods of indifferent health he would travel considerable distances on his motor cycle in all weathers rather than let anyone down.

At the funeral service on November 30th a small group of ringers bade farewell to a loyal and trustworthy friend. We thank God for his life's work and remember with gratitude the friendship we had the good fortune to share with him. May he rest in peace.

J. E. G. R.

Mr. George Thompson

The sudden death of Mr. George Thompson, of Scunthorpe, came as a great shock to his many ringing friends. Although 76 years of age, George still rode his bicycle and was a familiar figure in the town.

For many years he had been a member of St. John's, Scunthorpe, but he still retained an interest and affection for Barrow-on-Humber, where as a young man he learned to ring. He was not a prolific peal ringer—probably about 12 in the standard methods.

A peal was rung half-muffled to his memory at Barrow-on-Humber, ringers from Scunthorpe and Barrow taking part. J. C.

RECORD PEAL ATTEMPTS

Dear Sir,—I believe that the C.C. ruling on record peal lengths is that the composition, date and time of the respective attempts must be published in "The Ringing World" at least seven days prior to the attempt. May I ask why no compositions have been published for:—

(i) 6,048 Lincolnshire S.M. at Gressenhall, Norfolk, on July 27th, 1967. Conductor: T. G. Pett.

(ii) 19,936 Yorkshire S.M. at Loughborough on July 1st, 1967. "Composition next week." Conductor: S. Humphrey.

Are we to presume that both these attempts proved unsuccessful, as neither peal nor comment appeared subsequently in "The Ringing World"?

(iii) 11,872 Glasgow S.M. at Edgbaston, Birmingham, on November 25th, 1967. Conductor: J. A. Ainsworth.

Also, the conductor of the recent attempt (November 4th) for 20,160 Plain Bob Minor, F. C. Price, asks specifically that no attempt be made to call or inquire after the progress of the peal. Why such hide-away measures? In the interests of handbell ringing and the Exercise, this attempt for the greatest number of changes on handbells should have taken place in a building where ringers could come and go at will in order to listen to the peal. What would A. H. Pulling have said to such secrecy?

Perhaps the above-mentioned conductors would care to comment on what they haven't done.—Yours faithfully,

BRIAN J. WOODRUFFE.

STRENGTH OF STAYS

Dear Sir,—Reading your reports of injuries and worse received in recent months by experienced ringers, I have expected to see in your columns certain observations from better qualified people than I. Since nothing has appeared to date, I venture to offer the following:

(1) These accidents appear to result from broken stays.

(2) The speed at which the stays failed appears to have taken experienced ringers by surprise.

If these statements are true, it follows that so long as bellhangers fit wooden stays, local steeplekeepers must be careful in their selection of timber for replacements.

In the course of a misspent life I have made and fitted many bell stays, experimenting in different varieties and grades of timber. In my opinion the timber that gives longest life and longest warning of impending failure is long grained, slow grown English ash. If the ash can be split with beetle and wedge (as wheelwrights used to make delicate cartwheel spokes), the performance will be better still, since the fibres run the length of the stay.

Avoid the ash offered for sale by large timber importers; this is often Japanese sen, good for some things but not bell stays. Avoid kiln-dried ash; this may be stress graded, even A.I.D. approved; the last piece I saw used as a bell stay lasted two weeks.

Therefore, steeplekeepers, remember good ringers are in short supply. Make sure you are not the indirect cause of another lost subscription.—Yours faithfully,

DONALD PRICE.

MINOR METHODS

Dear Sir, — I am trying, on behalf of the C.C. Records Committee, to collect the details of the first occasions on which the various Minor methods were included in peals. Mr. Whiting, the librarian of the Beeston Library, and I have between us been through back numbers of "Church Bells," "Bell News," "The Bellringer" and "The Ringing World," collecting this information, and further details have been obtained from the Central Council's records of peal boards and from such books as Morris' "History and Art of Change Ringing."

I am pretty sure that we have available the reports of all peals of Minor rung since 1911, when "The Ringing World" first appeared, but there were almost certainly many peals rung before that date which never appeared in any of these sources. For example, it is suspected that not all the peals of Minor rung between 1907 and 1911 (particularly those of Surprise Minor by the Sunderland band) appeared in "Bell News," while only the long lengths rung in the early 1800's by the Wath-on-Dearne, Darfield, Bingley and other Yorkshire bands were commemorated on peal boards.

I would consequently be extremely grateful for any information your readers might have on any such peals. Sources I have in mind are old peal books (particularly of the old Yorkshire and Suffolk companies), personal scrapbooks, Association and Guild reports prior to 1911, and old peal boards. In the case of printed or manuscript records, it would be particularly appreciated if these could be borrowed and such material would be promptly returned after examination. For the rest, details needed are the date and place of the peal, the methods rung and the source of the information. I would add that my interest is by no means limited to methods with so-called "regular" lead-ends.

As some guide to the potential interest of any particular peal—and perhaps for general interest—I append a short list of some of the commoner methods with the earliest dates I have so far found them included in peals.—Yours sincerely,

CYRIL A. WRATTEN.

MORE ABOUT TILTON-ON-THE-HILL HOAX (?)

Dear Sir,—I would not be prepared to dismiss out of hand, as your correspondents Messrs. Barnett and Shepherd have done, the possibility of the record in Tilton-on-the-Hill belfry of a peal of Minimus in 1897 as being a hoax before looking again at one or two other facts.

For many years there has been a record of this peal at Tilton, and a reference was made to it in "The Ringing World" as to its accuracy, and there were at that time no comments from readers. The last time I saw this card it was in a dirty state and the words were almost unreadable. It would appear that someone, in an attempt to preserve the record, has typed out the details and made two errors; first the date, which should be the 12th and not the 11th if it was on a Saturday, and secondly the name of George James should, of course, be James George, whose name was on the original.

Did these men visit Tilton? There was certainly a family of Pyes in the village at the turn of the century, and James George was a very frequent visitor to Leicestershire all through his life, and stayed with my father at Barwell on many occasions.

The comment that the Pye brothers never lived in London but are described as coming from there on the card is only one of many instances of ringers describing themselves from the place where they sometimes(?) ring and not where they live, and in this case it would be human to impress the locals that they came from the Metropolis rather than perhaps some lesser known location where they lived.

These are all possibilities, but I do not know whether the peal was rung or not. Is it true to say that it is only of recent times that peals of Minimus have been recorded in Association records? There were then, as now, four bells at Tilton.—Yours faithfully,

THOMAS C. BELTON.

MR. JOHN WILLIS, DECEASED

Dear Sir,—The undersigned members of the Biographies Committee of the Central Council wish to share in the expression of regret and sympathy at the passing of Mr. John Willis.

John had been a very busy and valued member of this committee since 1952 and there is much evidence that he, together with Len Stilwell, had done a mammoth task in writing up the details of many deceased members of the Council and keeping details of other members up to date. He was certainly the right man for the job because his handwriting, his tidiness and method, his application and patience were all highly suited to the task. Within five years John had rightly earned the Council's confidence in being elected an honorary member for past services.

We must follow the example set by John Willis and do our best to carry on his good work.—Yours faithfully,

T. J. LOCK.

FIRST DOUBLE-HANDED HANDBELL PEAL

Dear Sir,—In your issue of October 20th (page 750) under the heading "The Bells of York Minster," it is stated that the first double-handed handbell peal of Grandsire Caters ever to be rung was completed by five Minster ringers on March 12th, 1877. I wish to point out that in possession of the Walthamstow ringers is a peal board recording a peal of Grandsire Caters rung in London on July 26th, 1863. I enclose a copy of the wording of this peal board and would be pleased if any of our ringing historians could give any information regarding the peal and the Royal London Peal Band. The conductor could be the Joe Waghorn whom the writer remembers as an elderly gentleman in the early years of this century.

Should the board be of interest to any collector of such things. or the London Societies or, perhaps, the Central Council, the present owner would be very pleased to present it to them.—Yours truly,

H. RUMENS.

Salisbury.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION

Eastern District

The towers of Roos and Withernsea together with the rehung bells at Patrington attracted 36 members and friends to the November quarterly meeting of the District.

Visitors from other areas were warmly welcomed by the vice-president, Mr. Alan Sheppard, and inciuded the Association's general secretary, Mr. W. F. Moreton, and treasurer, Mr. C. Moxon, Miss A. Johnson, of Wakefield, Messrs. E. Hudson, A. Bashforth and E. Metcalf, of the Northern District, Mr. and Mrs. D. Baker and friends from Leeds University.

After the service in a very cold St. Patrick's Church, Patrington, a buffet tea was served in the Hillyard Arms.

The main business was perhaps the adoption of the suggestion, by the District secretary, of joint meetings with the Selby and Beverley and District Societies. After some discussion it was agreed to hold the first of these with the Selby District in February.

Publicity was given about the week-end course at Grantley Hall in December, and Mr. Tom Robinson, of Patrington, spoke of the sad decline of ringing at Patrington and appealed to any visitors to call and give them a hand. He also respectfully requested that visiting ringers should leave the ropes as they found them.

Ringing ranged through standard methods to Yorkshire and Pudsey Surprise at Patrington in the evening.

SEVEN TOWERS AND 160 MILES

September 30th began in the pouring rain in the north of England but 18 ringers and friends kept a long-standing arrangement to have a day's ringing tour before the dark nights heralded the onset of winter. Parties from Flookburgh, Cartmel, Hawkshead and Ambleside left their Lake District haunts at 8.30 a.m. to rendezvous at Giggleswick Parish Church for their first appointment at 10 o'clock. The ringers toiled as the older friends drank warming coffee in the nearby pub, and 40 minutes later saw a convoy of cars almost swimming its way to Skipton Parish Church. Lovely bells there, let us acknowledge it—but we regrettably marred our plain courses and rounds by breaking a stay—these things do happen, even to the best of us!

Over the Pennines to St. Peter's, Harrogate, with a sandwich lunch somewhere on the road and, behold, the rain gave way to sunshine! And then the thrill of Ripon Cathedral, and the first experience for some of the party of a ring of ten. (And by no means the first experience for some of the party of taking the wrong road out of the town!)

Masham Parish Church next, where the local party rightly insist that you do not pronounce Masham to rhyme with bash 'em, and then on to Bedale with a touch or two before tea. Middleham Parish Church last of all, as the dusk was gathering, and we really enjoyed this one—ringing, we felt, not badly at all. Pity it was dusk as we left, because the return home via Wensleydale and Kendal is a joy to the eye no less than a sweetly-rung peal is a joy to the ear.

Our sincere thanks are offered to the clergy and ringing bands of all seven churches for a splendid day. Our unbounded admiration for the oldest member, who climbed and rang in every tower—he is 86!.

A "FIRST" IN THE DINNER LINE FROM EXETER

ST. LUKE'S College Society of Ringers, Exeter, marked the completion of its first year by a dinner at the Imperial Hotel, Exeter.

The Master, Mr. J H. Longridge, in his report, said the Society, after at least two evictions, had a tower of its own and eight splendid bells therein to work on. He recailed with some sentimentality the two tower "grabs" of the year—one of which failed to materialise and the other which ran into a choir practice and had to end with ten minutes' "ringing" on "three bells and three buckets" and no tail-ends except, of course, for knots, which would have been useful to catch hold of if there had been no stays!

He concluded in serious vein by telling the company of the successful recruiting campaign at the beginning of this academic year, which resulted in doubling the membership overnight.

The Rev. T. G. Grigg, chaplain to the College and Society president, pointed to their heritage as ringers, and in an absorbing speech contrasted the present members of the Society with their contemporaries—members of other College Societies and clubs. How many of them could boast of having been at their club's first dinner? He hoped that, as churchmen, they would not forget their priorities and always remember in whose service they were. The company then rose to toast "The Society."

An education lecture ensued, delivered by Mr. G. P. Smerdon, who examined in the light of Freud what inner urge drove people to ring bells. What was the force which possessed them to lock (or, in the case of a recent quarter, tie) themselves in "womblike belfries for hours on end, handling passing sallies and holding fast on to tail-ends?" Was it, he begged, a subconscious desire to recover lost childhood, to return to the protection of the womb?

Footnote—A most successful "first" in the method.

IRISH HAPPENINGS

DUBLIN UNIVERSITY GUILD IN SURREY

THE autumn tour of the D.U.G. (past tense of infra dig) took place in the Guildford Diocese and for many of the party it celebrated the end of this year's exams, hence the gas.

Officially the tour was to begin at 2 p.m. prompt at St. Mary's, Guildford, but Jonathan Barry—leader (?)—Charlie Reede and David Taylor, armed with one of Helen's foolproof maps, set out in the wrong direction from Guildford Station. Was the map upside down? By 2.15 they had visited two churches and baffled three citizens of Guildford. Suddenly the sound of bells made further map-reading unnecessary. However, as the bells were "obviously" being raised it seemed a good idea to walk slowly.

As this was the first proper gathering since we went down in May, ringing was somewhat delayed Antony Vere Hodge who had left (his fungi behind in) Oxford to join us was taking his first look at the new Dublin band. His conclusions remained unannounced. Before we had really settled down on this anti-clockwise six we found ourselves hustled through the attic and up the hill to the Mother Church. Holy Trinity's sixth kept the most exuberant members quiet—temporarily, at least. Here Mr. White and Janet Cleave, who had been unable to stay in St. Mary's long enough to meet the "Dublin party, joined us on this musical eight

It was not long before it was time for tea, which heralded the end of a very exhausting afternoon for some of us, particularly for those who had spent the night on the boat, the morning on the train, lunchtime walking in London and the early afternoon exploring Guildford!

The highlight of the day's ringing was at Guildford Cathedral (tenor 30 cwt.) that evening, where we attacked the bells heartily. The ringing varied in standard but we were tremendously impressed by the "go" of the bells. Our thanks go to the Guildford ringers who allowed us to join their practice.

The following morning found us at Crondall (six bells), where we had an enjoyable ring, particularly as two local ringers joined us for a short while. It should perhaps be said at this stage that Elizabeth Hall, Charlie Reede, Cecil Sanderson and Antony Vere Hodge slept at the Huberts', whilst Jonathan Barry, Alice Jamieson, Michael Owen and David Taylor slept at the Winnetts', as this narrows down the field considerably from Geraldine's point of view.

From Crondall we went to Ash (a light tripping six, tenor 9 cwt.). Brooke Lunn (ex-Dublin University) joined us for Stedman and Cambridge. After ringing, Peter Smart, tower captain and Guildford Diocesan Guild Ringing Master, guided us to a good picnic spot. Immediately we had started lunch, shooting squads attacked the ranges on either side of our refuge.

For the afternoon's ringing at Farnham we included a couple of courses of Oxford Bob Triples in our repertoire. Then on to Frensham Parish Church, which to Irish eyes is typically English and very beautiful. It looks much better across the river! It was harvest week-end everywhere, which gave all the churches an autumn glow.

That night we were at Grayshott, Geraldine's home tower, where nothing seemed to go right, due to mental aberration. We finished off Saturday in grand style at Graysnott Vicarage. Sufficient to say that the party continued until late, ending with Bishop St. John Pike capering around in the kitchen helping the ladies to wash up. A fellow Irishman, he had come to meet the "Dubliners."

Sunday was a remarkably easy day. The Winnett household turned out to ring for harvest festival at Grayshott, whilst the Hubert household joined Mr. White and Janet in ringing for Matins. The plan was that the two parties should converge at Poor Jack's for lunch, but the Winnetts', with Jonathan at the helm, took a wrong turning at the Barley Mow, a local landmark and beauty spot, and were slightly delayed. When Britt Elland's Surrey home was passed at high speed Michael was stoutly indignant; he wanted to look at the lake.

HOSPITALITY

We sat down to lunch (15 in all), having been joined by Dr. and Mrs. G. Furters and two of their children. George, a Trinity graduate, down from Berkshire, had been able to join our activities over most of the week-end. Helen's younger sister, Lizzy, joined the party as well. A proposal that Helen should include some of Lizzy's mini-skirts in her luggage was passed with acclamation.

On Sunday evening we rang before and after the harvest festival at Haslemere in the company of the Haslemere ringers; we had a very enjoyable evening indeed. We then returned to the Winnetts' for a marvellous dinner. That this marked the end of the tour proper did not have much of a damping effect, and sufficient to say the party again continued until late, with Cecil serenading us on Canon Winnett's private organ. Unlike the organ, Cecil never ran out of wind.

The following morning we all said our goodbyes. Both Mrs. Hubert and Mrs. Winnett were rash enough to say "Come again." Don't worry, we shall. Finally, Geraldine would like to know who played havoc with her bed and who tied such a knot in her nightdress. Maybe it was in return for a ghostly alarm clock which mysteriously moved without human assistance during the black hours of darkness.

The following morning the problem of how to travel to Wales was eventually decided in 45 minutes outside Reading Station. The events of the next 48 hours must, from lack of writing space, be passed on by word of mouth.

"PLAIN COURSE."

THE IRISH ASSOCIATION

Drogheda Win Lindoff Cup

THE annual general meeting of the Eastern District was held at St. George's Church, Dublin, on November 25th. The attendance included members from St. George's, Dublin, John's Lane, Dublin, Dublin University, Christ Church Cathedral, Drogheda, Arklow and Blessington. The Northern District was represented by Mr. J. T. Dunwoody, and the Southern by Mr. J. H. Elles.

The election of District officers resulted as follows: Chairman, Mr. J. J. McManus; Ringing Master, David H. T. Taylor; Deputy Ringing Master, Miss Helen M. Hubert; treasurer, R. Henly; secretary, P. W. Brown; assistant hon. secretary, A. S. Doak. The representatives on the Executive Council of the Association are: Mr. G. McGregor (vice-president), Mrs. F. E. Dukes, R. Henly and P. W. Brown.

During the afternoon the contest for the Gabriel Lindoff Cup was held, when four teams competed. The judges—G. H. Ellis and Mrs. F. E. Dukes— awarded the cup to St. Peter's, Drogheda, with 120 faults; the holders, St. George's, Dublin, were second with 133 faults. In third and fourth places were Dublin University (who rang Grandsire Triples) and St. Mary's, Blessington.

Subsequently about 40 ringers made good use of St. George's bells in spite of two stays and one rope breaking. Methods practised were Plain Bob, Grandsire and Stedman as well as rounds and call changes.

It should be mentioned that both Dublin University and Blessington competed for the first time, and the Ringing Master of the Drogheda team in proposing a vote of thanks to the judges, Rector and ringers of St. George's, complimented these two teams and regretted that one of them did not win the cup. The Blessington team has recently been re-formed, thanks to the efforts of Charlie Reede, of St. Patrick's Cathedral, and Derek Taylor, of Christ Church Cathedral. Dublin University ringers deserved great praise for attempting Grandsire Triples when they could quite easily have rung call changes. All other teams rang "stoney."

The Drogheda team included four boarders from the Drogheda Grammar School, one of whom, Patricia Meredith (13), commenced ringing in February last and is now one of the conductors in the tower, along with Caroline Hack (15), who was also in the team. The remainder of the team were John Wolf and Ivan Mathers, from the Grammar School, Miss Eleanore Buttimore, Messrs. R. Henly, W. Bovenizer and Fred E. Dukes.

A quarter peal attempt of Grandsire Triples was made at New Alresford after the wedding of Leslie Tremeer and Prisca Hornby on December 2nd but failed to come round after the band had rung in the allotted time. A peal of London Surprise Major was attempted in the afternoon but, unfortunately, this also failed.

A STEDMAN "CALCULATOR"

By ROBERT E. HARDY

SOME years ago I was shown a cardboard calculator by Mr. S. Burton, of Leicester, which enables twin-bob touches of Stedman to be composed. I understand that Gabriel Lindoff was its originator. How it works I confess to being in ignorance, but it can successfully provide touches of one up to (I believe) 39 courses long. I have never yet produced this maximum, but 10 to 15 courses can be produced readily, so that quarter peals can be composed by its use.

To make the calculator, take a piece of stiff cardboard or paper about 4in. x 3in., and divide the 4in side into 1in. columns. Further divide the middle two into ½in. columns, and write into these the figures shown, together with the headings S, L, H and Q (note that the pair H and L appear reversed in comparison with the order they actually occur in the method). The figures in the L and Q columns must be written in black, and those in the S and H columns in red, or some other distinctive colour.

	1	15	1	7	1	9	3	6
	2	3	13	20	2	10	2	10
A	4	14	14	19	3	18	9	14	D
	5	16	2	6	4	11	8	16	E
	6	10	11	17	5	17	7	15
B	7	18	15	18	6	14	1	18
	8	12	3	10	7	20	5	12	F
	9	19	4	9	12	15	17	20
C	11	20	12	16	8	13	14	19
	13	17	5	8	16	19	11	13

The other blank columns on the outsides of the sheet are now folded across so that they cover the columns just written. These "covers" must now be divided into ½in. columns, and the same figures and headings written in them, but with the colours reversed, i.e. S and H in black and L and Q in red. This means that for each pair of figures in any column there are, underneath, the same figures, but having their colours reversed.

Now comes the tricky bit. The "covers" must be cut along between each horizontal line of figures from the edge of the "cover" as far back as the fold. This results in a total of 20 small flaps each carrying four figures, e.g. the flap A on the diagram carries 4, 14 (black) and 14, 19 (red). By lifting any flap, the same figures appear beneath, but with the colours reversed.

The calculator is now ready to use, but is rather fragile. It is therefore a good idea to protect the numbers and reinforce the folds by using sellotape. I found that it was best to cover the whole thing with this before making any cuts.

A piece of paper is needed to use the calculator, and should be headed with four columns, S, H, L and Q (in that order). Open any flaps you like on the calculator, and choose any number in the S column as a starting point. Working across the columns in the order S, H, L, Q, look in each column in turn for the figure you chose to start with until you find it in red; ignore the black figures. The red figure indicates a bob pair at the relevant position, e.g. a red figure appearing in the L column means bobs at L. Note this on your piece of paper. Now take the other figure of the two in the "red" column and continue as before, looking for it in the other columns in red once more. When you find it, again note a bob pair and again take the other number of the pair. Continue in this way until the original starting point is reached, and you will then have noted on your piece of paper a touch of Stedman. Should you have chosen a red figure to start with, change to the other number of the pair at once, thus opening the touch with bobs at S.

This explanation may seem a bit hard to follow, so here are a few examples. The flaps labelled A, B, C, D, E and F in the diagram have been folded open, all the others are covering the underneath numbers.

Example 1.

In this example I have written down the actual numbers occurring in each column, and the changes occur where red numbers have been encountered. The touch that ensues is also given. The starting figure is 1.

S	H	L	Q	S	H	L	Q
1	1	7	15			x	x
15	15	15	7				x
18	3	10	2	x	x	x	x
2	2	6	3			x	x
3	18	18	1		x		x

Example 2.

This time start with the red 4 revealed by open flap A. This means a bob pair at S, and the number looked for in the other column is 14. In fact it is black in all of them, which returns one to column S again for another pair of bobs. Two bobs at S is a well-known two-course touch.

Example 3.

S	H	L	Q	S	H	L	Q
9	9	4	19			x	x
19	19	19	4				x
14	14	14	14	x
4	11	17	20	x	x	x	x
11	4	9	9	x	x	x

BELFRY GOSSIP

We regret to learn that Mr. J. Garner-Hayward, secretary of the Coventry Diocesan Guild, had a nasty fall last week, fracturing his arm and bruising his face.

The Society of Royal Cumberland Youths have now reached a peal of Spliced Surprise Major in 18 methods. This was conducted by Dennis Beresford at All Hallows', Tottenham, on November 23rd.

We did Richard W. Yates, who is reported as ringing a peal of Grandsire Doubles at Lillingstone Lovell on November 17th, an injustice recently. He is not 12, as was then printed, but only 10; his 11th birthday is not until December 18th.

Arrangements for the 40th anniversary of the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild, which starts next January, was the main business of the Andover quarterly meeting, with Mr. G. K. Dodd in the chair, at Goodworth Clatford. Two new members were elected and Andover bells were available in the evening.

Congratulations to John E. Harrold (14), of Wigston Magna, on his successful first attempt for a peal, at Leicester Cathedral, on November 27th. He was ringing "inside" to Cambridge Royal and, according to the conductor, Herrick B. Bowley, he rang his bell very well. It was also a happy evening for his father, T. Edward Harrold, who was ringing the seventh.

CHRISTMAS DAY BELLS

For 25 minutes before the Queen's recorded Christmas Message to the Commonwealth is broadcast on all B.B.C. radio services at 9.30 a.m. on December 25th, listeners to Radio 4 (Home) will hear rings of bells from eight churches and cathedrals ending with the traditional recording from the Church of the Nativity, Bethlehem.

Robert Hudson briefly introduces these bells, which this year come from:

St. Mary's Cathedral, Glasgow;
St. Malachi's, Hillsborough, Co. Down;
Church of the Holy Angels, Hoar Cross, Staffordshire.
St. Mary's, Abergavenny;
St. Helen's, Darley Dale, Derbyshire;
St. Mary's. Willingdon, Eastbourne, Sussex;
Exeter Cathedral.

The Queen's Christmas Message will be repeated on Radio 4 at 1 p.m.

P.O. ENGINEERS' SECOND PEAL

On June 14th, 1967, a band of P.O. telephone engineers rang a peal of Minor at Swynnerton to celebrate the 21 years' existence of the P.O. Training School at Tarnfield, near Stone, Staffs. On November 25th a second peal, this time Bob Major, was arranged by Roy Balls and duly rung at the neighbouring church at Eccleshall.

Some of the difficulties of the arrangements will be realised when it is known that the band came from towers so far apart as Gresford, Cambridge, Leeds, Grantham, Gloucester, Nottingham and Eccleshall. Many thanks are due to the Vicar, who met the band in the tower after the peal, and the local captain for providing tea to those members who had to pause on their homeward journey.

Rumour has it that a peal of Royal will be next on the programme. It would be interesting to know how many telephone engineers there are who are also bellringers.

TOWER CAPTAIN A BRIDE

When Joan Gilbert, of Fishtoft, and Alan Payne, of Gosberton, well-known members of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild, were married at St. Guthlac's, Fishtoft, on October 7th, the bells were rung in several towers in the District, indicating the popularity of the couple. A peal attempt was lost at Sibsey in the morning but one was successfully rung at Sutterton in the evening; a quarter was rung at Deeping St. Nicholas, and the local band, of which Joan had been captain, rang for the ceremony. There were many ringers among the large congregation to witness the service conducted by the Rev. M. P. Brackenbury, of South Ormsby, the Rev. E. B. Barlow, Rector of Fishtoft, and the Rev. A. J. Sangster, Vicar of Gosberton.

The bride had chosen an empire line gown in white wild silk with a full-length veil. She was attended by her sisters and Alan's small niece. In glorious sunshine the couple left the church under an archway of confetti-filled handbells!

Over 100 guests were at the reception at the nearby Manor House Club, after which the happy couple departed for a Lake District honeymoon.

As a mark of appreciation of his faithful services to Gosberton, the ringers presented Alan with a candlewick bedspread. Fishtoft P.C.C. made Joan a gift of a chandelier. They have made their home at Manthorpe, near Bourne, and they will be very much missed at both towers they have served so well. E.C.

GUILDFORD GUILD'S 40th ANNIVERSARY

The 40th anniversary celebrations of the Guildford Diocesan Guild will take place during the second week-end in February. There will be a dinner on February 9th, at which the president of the Central Council and Canon Felstead will speak, and this will be followed by a dance and ringers' cabaret. An advertisement will appear shortly for tickets.

Anyone visiting Guildford for the dinner and wishing to ring a peal or be helped with accommodation should write to D. A. R. May, Oatlands, The Street, West Horsley, Surrey, stating requirements.

A CRASH OF THE LAST CENTURY

We expect that in 1898, when the tower of St. Nicholas, Feltwell, Norfolk, but in the Ely Diocese, fell down it was a good news story. The five bells came down with the tower and have stood in the church ever since. Now we learn from "Contact," the Ely Diocesan Gazette, that a faculty has been obtained for selling the three broken bells for scrap.

The big tenor bell has been sold to the new Church of St. Mark, Gabalfa, on the outskirts of Cardiff. Finally, the beautiful pre-Reformation bell of the period 1424 to 1513 has been given to Ely Cathedral for safe keeping. It is the only bell in England, still intact, dedicated to St. Etheldreda.

VETERAN CUMBERLAND'S SILVER WEDDING

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Turley, of Sevenoaks, on their silver wedding anniversary. Mr. Turley is the son of Mr. P. G. Turley, a veteran member of the Cumberlands, who has been a ringer at Sevenoaks some 60 years and has been responsible for teaching his sons to ring. Len is the only one still living in Sevenoaks and he and his father are both valued members of the local band, who were delighted to have the opportunity of ringing a quarter peal in honour of the occasion. Mrs. Turley also came along and was present in the church during the ringing of the quarter.

KIDLINGTON BELLS

Mr. Maurice Holmes was misquoted in "The Oxford Mail" and Kidlington Parish Magazine regarding the length of time Kidlington bells are rung. This was also forwarded to "The Ringing World" and published. Mr. Walter F. Judge, captain at Kidlington belfry, writes that Mr. Holmes based his main complaint on a quarter peal rung after Evensong on Harvest Festival Sunday. Visitors are always welcome at Kidlington. Sunday ringing is 9 to 9.30 a.m., 5.45 to 6.30 p.m. Practice, Saturday 7 to 8 p.m.

"IRREGULAR MAJOR METHODS"

(See page 876)

Owing to a delay in the post there were certain corrections not made in Mr. S. Humphrey's article on "Irregular Major Methods."

In para. 2, line 9, for "co-incidal" read "co-incidental"

Under heading "Musical Qualities," para. 2, line 3, for "regular" read "irregular."

BEDFORDSHIRE ASSOCIATION STRIKING CONTEST

On November 25th the Bedfordshire Association held its first annual striking contest, at Tempsford. For the past eight years the Luton District had staged their own contest, the prize being the privilege of holding the Newing Cup for the year, but through the generosity of the St. Giles', Totternhoe, ringers, the Association now has a handsome trophy to be competed for by the two most successful teams from each District (Bedford, Luton and Biggleswade) as an annual event. This trophy, to be known as the St. Giles' Cup, will, it is hoped, be the means of encouraging better striking generally, and certainly the standard of striking at the inaugural contest held great promise for the future.

Totternhoe have made rather a habit of winning their District's contest, and it was no real surprise to find them top of the judges' list for the St. Giles' Cup, though the competition was quite keen. But there was a certain "poise" about the Totternhoe effort which their competitors could not quite attain, though Maulden (2nd) and Goldington 3rd) made a strong challenge.

After an excellent tea the party, some 50 strong, listened to the judges' remarks and cheered heartily as a member of the Totternhoe band received the St. Giles' Cup, which, as the president (Mr. A. S. Ruston) remarked, already bore the appropriate inscription!

A most enjoyable and encouraging event closed with the Association's president thanking Miss L. Ellison and Messrs. D. Hamond and R. Churchill, District organisers, and Mrs. S. Smith, who so efficiently organised the final contest, and finally making a small presentation to each of the judges, Messrs. H. Peacock and F. Baker, in recognition of their service in adjudicating so thoroughly.

The "supporting cast," Elstow, Potton and Luton, hope for better things in future.

TUITION TEASERS No. 10 "ROPESIGHT"

Q. How should one attempt to teach "Ropesight?"—A. F.

A. The short answer is don't!" The full answer—theoretical and practical—is given in a forthcoming article entitled "Good Huntin'!" A. Y.-B.

By ringing the seventh to a peal of Yorkshire Surprise Major at the Church of the Sacred Trinity, Salford, on November 18th, Mr. C. M. Movley has "circled the tower." It was also his 25th peal.

Mr. Frank Cheal has retired after 20 years as "Ringing World" representative for the Rochester District Branch of the Kent County Association. Thank you, Frank. His promise to write items of interest in retirement is gladly accepted.

Ringing in Guildford has had a setback by the departure of Miss Janet Cleeve, who has of late been tower captain at Holy Trinity and St. Mary's. Janet has gone to Strathclyde University as an assistant scientific officer dealing with the breeding of fish. She hopes to continue her ringing at Glasgow Cathedral.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD

West Dorset Branch A.G.M.

On the cold, foggy afternoon of November 25th about 30 members met at Bridport for the annual meeting of the Branch, eight towers being represented. Also present were Mr. A. Scott and visitors from North Dorset, Kent and Devon, who were welcomed. Ringing continued until the Guild service, which was conducted by Canon Hinton (Rector), and an excellent tea was provided in the Church House, prepared by the local ringers and lady helpers.

The business meeting was presided over by Mr. C. W. Powell (chairman). The hon. secretary's report was read and adopted, as were the accounts, which proved very satisfactory. Membership numbers 110 with two more towers still to reply.

Officers elected were: Chairman, Mr. C. W. Powell; vice-chairman, the Rev. O. L. Wilmott; hon. secretary and treasurer, Mr. J. Davis; Ringing Masters, Messrs. H. D. W. Bishop, H. Keeley and F. Knight; committee, Messrs. J. T. Barrett and D. Ellery.

Mr. C. W. Powell reported that the committee had met to consider a suggestion for a memorial to Canon C. Carew Cox and Bert Elsworth. He said the members of the band who rang the peal of Stedman Triples at Lyme Regis on the day of Canon Cox's funeral were willing to bear the cost of a peal board for that tower. The proposal in regard to Bert Elsworth was that a peal be rung at Bradpole and recorded in the tower. The Ringing Master was asked to arrange the peal.

Quarterly meetings for 1968: Bradpole, Beaminster, Melbury Osmond and Lyme Regis. Practice meetings: Symondsbury (January 10th), Netherbury (February 14th) and Broadwindsor (March 13th), all subject to confirmation.

BATH AND WELLS ASSOCIATION

The annual meeting of the Chew Branch was held at Chew Magna (8) on December 2nd. Ringing took place prior to the service, conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. C. M. Luxmoore-Ball) and afterwards tea was served in the Church Hall.

A feature of the meeting which followed was the attendance of only 21 members; one wonders why there is such widespread apathy in the Branch nowadays that less than ten per cent. bother to come to an annual general meeting. It is unfair both to the host tower which prepares, the officers of the Branch and those members who do come.

Owing to the illness of the secretary, Mr. D. G. Yeo, the position was filled by the general secretary, Mr. J. H. Gilbert, with the Vicar acting as chairman. The following were elected as officers for 1968: Chairman, Mr. H. W. Knight; secretary and treasurer, Mr. D. G. Yeo; Ringing Master, Mr. L. Derrick; Deputy Ringing Masters, Mr. J. Brain and Mr. S. Smith; Press, Mr. J. Brain.

Three new members from Wrington and one (unattached) from Abbots Leigh were elected. Other proposals approved were the 1968 striking competition to be held at Butcombe and a further joint meeting with the Frome Branch later in the year.

A collection was made in aid of the cost of providing a bell for Trinity College, Trinidad, a project in which Bishop Wilson, of Wells, had asked the Association to help.

After votes of thanks, ringing continued at the Parish Church until 8.30 p.m.

Next quarterly meeting: Easton-in-Gordano with Portbury (March); practice meetings: Clevedon (All Saints' and St. John's) (January); Dundry (February); all subject to permission.

"URANGWOT" — Another Teaser and a Diary Prize

"Tell us what you think of Parson Felstead's articles on peals." I was rather taken aback by this sudden onslaught as I looked into the bar of "The Stay and Slider" the other evening and immediately wondered what lay behind it.

"I quite enjoy them, don't you?" I replied, hoping I wasn't starting something between the trio of ringers and myself.

"Oh, so do we, but you know there are a lot more interesting statisticusses about peals than our friend, Parson Felstead, reports."

"I'm sure there are," I said, "but, like so much else in ringing, who is to ferret it out and write it up for 'The Ringing World?' That is the problem."

Charlie interrupted me to ask what I would have, and having got a shandy on the way when he learned that I had come by car (I thought when I saw Charlie with a half!), I went on, "Well, what sort of thing had you in mind for these other interesting statistics and why doesn't one of you put pen to paper? I am sure Tom White would be delighted to receive your article."

When I nodded in Joe's direction with this suggestion he looked completely blank and that sparked off the first point of interest. Joe is very deaf in his right ear and Charlie pointed out that whenever they had gone for a peal of "spliced" Joe had always had to wait until he saw where the conductor was going to ring so that he could have his good ear on the conductor's side.

"There were nowt wrong with his eyes though," butted in Bob, "and he always kept a good watch on the treble, 'specially when it were being rung by a female!"

"Well," I said, "that's quite interesting, but you must admit that it would make no more than a mention in 'Belfry Gossip.' You couldn't make an article out of that!" They all hastened to tell me that there was a good deal more than that and I sat back to listen to the details.

It seems that before I arrived they had been reminiscing about some of the peals of Spliced Surprise Major in which they had all taken part and they observed that three of them had taken exactly the same time, 3 hours and 12 minutes, although each had contained a different number of methods.

Joe, the mathematician of the party (I recognised his scrawl up beside the dartboard), had discovered the remarkable coincidence that in these three peals if the time in minutes were divided by the number of methods rung the figure obtained was the same as that obtained by multiplying together the numbers of the bells rung by Joe and Charlie in that particular peal.

Joe and Charlie had never been separated on these occasions by more than one ringer. Bob added that he had called all three peals and he had rung the same bell throughout. I was also told that on each occasion the product of another pair of bells was the same as that for Joe and Charlie. Neither Joe nor Charlie rang the same bell twice in these peals.

"Very interesting indeed to hear these statistics," said I, "but the more important thing is the striking. What was that like?" "Pretty good throughout," replied Bob, "but 'specially in that 'un where I were ringing between those two jokers."

"Everybody must have kept their minds on the job then," I added. "Old Joe kept his eyes on the treble ringer all right," chorused the other two. "I guess it must have been a female," I sighed. "Yes, same dame each time," said Bob.

I was waiting for them to tell me how Joe's mathematical inclinations with his eye for figures had unearthed some relationship between the vital statistics of the lady and those of the peals, but I was disappointed to find that none had emerged.

By this time even the drinking-up time had run out and we had to make a hurried exit in response to the landlord's entreaties. Outside we turned in opposite directions and my preoccupation with dodging a car that was reversing delayed my attempt to dash over and ask them how many methods they had rung in those three peals and which bells they had rung on each occasion. In the darkness and against the noise of the engine I could not attract their attention and they moved off. It will be a few weeks before I am back in their area so I shall just have to try to work it out in the meanwhile. If anyone can help me, please drop a line to the Editor, marked "Urangwot." ("Ringers' Diary for first correct solution.)

Of course, I could follow up Charlie's notion and write to Southampton and ask for the result to be supplied by Parson Felstead's computer!

IS THIS NEW?

Dear Sir,—Has anyone seen the following principle before? It is rather like Stedman in concept, because one does the same work above third's place each time, going into the front alternately "quick" and "slow." The principle extends easily to Royal and Maximus. The Minor version has four blows in sixth's place. I wonder if this principle is pealable.—Yours faithfully,

LEONARD GOODALL.

THE RINGING WORLD

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

No. 2957. Vol. LXIII FRIDAY, DECEMBER 22, 1967 Registered at the G.P.O for transmission as a newspaper. 9d.

IT IS CHRISTMAS

The Rev. E. G. ORLAND,

President of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild

THE ancient Romans had their festival of Saturnalia. A time of wild revelry and licentious indulgence, to celebrate the turn of the year and to welcome the new light brought by lengthening days. The early Christian Church used this pagan feast with its idea of "welcoming the light" to give us the festival of Christmas. celebrating the birth of Jesus Christ, the true light of the world.

Now, it would seem, the wheel has turned the full circle and we have the Christian festival of Christmas being "taken-over" by a secular world which has little or no interest in the real meaning of Christmas, but a great financial interest in an "Xmas" spending spree. Look in any large department store, where everything is designed to give us that nice. homely, log-fire, mid-winter feeling of family warmth and comfort. All those "Christmas" cards with the robin redbreast—poor thing who must sit in the barn to keep himself warm—and the stage coaches and scenes well covered with snow—to remind us of the "good old days." It's Saturnalia all over again, but modern advertising and sales techniques are subtle enough to maintain a thin smear of religious sentiment to serve their commercial interest, so away at the far end there will be the small section of "Religious" Christmas cards with the odd, sometimes very odd, stained glass window; the Biblical text (in old Gothic type, of course) and the bells. which appear in all odd shapes, sometimes hung on coloured ribbon, and at others attached to choir boys, who are always depicted supposedly wearing the ringer's uniform of cassock and surplice (with lace)!

We have long since accepted the fact that our art will be caricatured through ignorance, and no doubt the remedy for this is in our own hands with better "public relations," but more important still, what about Christmas? Can we be surprised if the mind of 20th century man is confused on this subject? It would be most illuminating to see the replies to a public opinion poll on the real meaning of Christmas. We do, however, have at least one opportunity of hearing the thoughts of one well-informed person, for in the Epistle for Christmas Day the unknown author of the Epistle to the Hebrews tells what Christmas meant to him. He sees the birth of Jesus Christ as the turning point in all the affairs of the human race. God had spoken, not in words, as did the Old Testament prophets, but in terms of human life. This was no ordinary child; at Bethlehem God became man, and we now see what God is like. That is not all. for this picture of divinity is shown to us in human perfection, and with this ideal we see ourselves for what we are (which is quite different from the "image" we would wish to present). We are not, as we thought, the "good" who deserve to be called the children of God, but the "bad" who need the gift of God's Son, and Christmas is the time when we give thanks to God for having regard to our human situation and having given the most precious gift of Himself to meet our need. All the nicely wrapped presents we give to each other at Christmas are given out of love and regard for our friends and relatives; must we leave God out of our giving? We may never fully understand the depth of His love.

"God loved the world so much that He gave his only Son" (St. John 3, 16 N.E.B.).

No one can make a greater sacrifice than the gift of an only son. God gives so to us; should not our offering in return be something which costs us a very great deal; in fact, nothing short of our whole being—"Ourselves, our souls and bodies, to be a reasonable, holy and lively sacrifice"? Yet how many of those who give and receive presents this Christmas will even spare a passing thought for the great gift God has given to them. Only a minority will be in church on Christmas Day for this to be communicated to them by word and Sacrament, but the majority will be within the sound of the church bells being rung, and such are the powers of association in the human mind that their sound will turn even the most worldly from the revels of Saturnalia to some vision of the Divine Child.

But what if such opportunity is missed because bells are unringable through neglect or, worse, if there are no ringers to ring the bells hanging in good order and waiting to give out their much-needed message? When we ring on Christmas Day, or at any other time, we are not graciously offering our immaculate striking and our thorough knowledge of intricate methods just for the furtherance of the art and our own satisfaction. We are offering back to God all the skill and ability He has given us, for this is "Ourselves" being given in response to His gift of love.

Those who hear the Christmas message of the bells may not be able to distinguish between good striking or bad, much less between Bob Major or 8-spliced, but devotion and dedication have the most peculiar ways of communicating their message, and to all who will take part in this great Exercise we send our best wishes and pray for His blessing upon all our work during 1968.

HOW RONALD DOVE STARTED

Day-Dreamed of Towers when Recording Beer Sales

"HOW did you set about it?" is a question I am sometimes asked, and I suppose the correct answer would be that I didn't, although I would be flattered to be given the credit for the spontaneous and unaided compilation of the "Guide" down to the world's premier tenor depicted on the front cover.

It is exactly forty years ago since the first notes were collected from which "Dove" eventually grew, and now when I am asking for amendments seems a suitable opportunity to comply with the suggestion which Mr Edgar Shepherd made in an article entitled "The Good Companions" that I might say how the idea originated. I invariably enjoy articles from the pen of E. C. S. and in complying with his wishes I do so more from gratitude for his literary style.

At the time it all started I had been ringing two years and with diligence had aspired to Grandsire Doubles "inside," so it could not have been on merit but was more likely to have been because nobody else would take the job that I had been made Burton District Secretary of the old Midland Counties Association.

The district had been moribund for some time and there was no exact information as to which towers claimed allegiance to the M.C.A. whose lavish report, price sixpence, while containing a wealth of information on all other matters was of little help in this respect.

This borderland district touched on the fringes of Derbyshire and Leicestershire and covered a narrow strip of Staffordshire sandwiched between the territory of the Stoke Archdiaconal (later the North Staffs) and the Archdeaconry of Stafford Societies, although in an excess of zeal the youthful district secretary was not above carrying out an occasional bicycle sortie on isolated towers over the Warwickshire border in search of converts to the M.C.A.

KELLY'S DIRECTORIES

There chanced to be in the office, where I spent those wasted hours not occupied in ringing, a full set of Kelly's Directories which stated the number of bells in church towers so, with Kelly's as a basis, I set to work to list all the towers in the four counties where there were reputed to be five bells and upwards.

Finding greater interest in ascertaining the number of bells at the parish church than the previous month's beer sales at, amongst other places, the "Vermuyden." Goole—which name sticks in my memory, in return for which information a grateful brewer rewarded me twenty-five shillings a week less the statutory "Lloyd George," etc.—I enlarged the field of my "researches" to cover the rest of the country.

Kelly's had not kept abreast of the times nor were they meticulous in their descriptions, and to them a tower contained eight bells if it possessed a chime of tubular bells as I learned on the first occasion that I was "consulted" when I advised the Overseale ringers to go to Parwich on their outing to the Peak district.

Joe Cotton should have been suspicious when the Vicar gave him permission to use his "carillon," but I would have loved to have seen them running for it to the accompanying strains of tubular bells.

MR. R. H. DOVE

FIRST THOUGHTS, 1930

The thought of publishing first arose in or about 1930 when I was on the Croydon Bell Foundry staff, for I recall visiting Leigh on Sea in that year to make enquiries concerning the French bells which had been installed at the R.C. church there. These bells were the subject of a report in "The Ringing World" not long ago.

I have reason to believe that the thought was prompted by my frequent reference to a handy little book published by Mowbray's entitled "The English Church Union Guide for Tourists," which indicated by a series of codings the type of services at churches of Catholic tradition and the presentation of the London section at the beginning of the alphabetical section is exactly as in Mowbray's guide.

Although I was dealing constantly with proposed bell restorations the need of a revision never seemed to have occurred to me, and it was some years later at Loughborough that my friend John Fidler made the true if not the most encouraging observation. "It will be out of date the day you publish it."

With the literal truth of this in mind I started to collect data for a fourth edition from the day when the third went to press, and as there now appears to be some call for a new edition, especially in view of the widespread boundary changes which have taken place in recent times, I would welcome any genuine amendments, but only GENUINE ones, please.

I am aware that Washington bells have been hung—surprising how many think this could have escaped my notice—and once and for all Beddington tenor DOES weigh 18 cwt. 14 lbs. and I refuse to trouble the Whitechapel Bell Foundry to check it for the fourth time.

To the one who wrote specially solely to report the "mistake" in the third edition which shows Daventry as a cackhanded eight, whereas they are a righthanded ten I can only apologise that clairvoyance is not among my limited attainments.

MEANT WELL

News that certain Hampshire bells are dirty may give rise to interesting speculation but is otherwise of little value, still less is the contribution from South-West London which contradicts the readings of Messrs Taylors' scales by adding 5 cwt to Chicheste. tenor and lopping a couple off Maidstone, and as the same contributor feels that Saint Eanswythe has had the patronage of Folkestone Parish Church for long enough and that one Saint Banswythe should now have it, little credence can be given to his other corrections, but I suppose he meant well.

School teacher ringers must number some hundreds yet not a single one knew that Madras is no longer in India or, if they did, they were too idle to appraise me of the fact so that I might have spared the feelings of the angry Pakistani student who demanded that all unsold copies be withdrawn for the stigma to be removed

I would be less than honest were I not to acknowledge the contribution of others not only in the matter but in suggestions For instance, my original intention was to publish only an alphabetical list with the various appendices, but when on a ringing week in Yorkshire I showed my manuscript to Pat Cannon he told me at once that unless towers were shown in county form he for one would certainly not buy a copy and anticipating that others might be of the same opinion I set to worth forthwith.

GROUP CAPT. LISTER'S SUGGESTIONS

The inclusion of practice nights on the usefulness of which opinions differ, was the outcome of the suggestion of Group Capt. Lister, the writer of the leader on the issue of May 13th, 1949, which stressed the need for a guide, but others of his suggestions, Sunday ringing times, name and address of tower captain, etc., whilst suitable for inclusion in an annual report, were not practicable in the case of a publication where a revision was unlikely for some years

Capt. Lister envisaged the Central Council undertaking the work, and we were told that the Literature, Press and Broadcasting Committee had the matter under consideration, but whether it was that the committee felt unequal to the task or whether it considered the project of no importance is a matter of conjecture, but whatever the reason the matter was so low down on the Council's list of priorities that it was not even mentioned at the meeting at York, as had been foretold.

It is a false premise that no service however small can be rendered to the Exercise save under the ægis of the Central Council, and judging by the expressions of horror I received when a correspondent to "The Ringing World" suggested that the Council should appropriate "Dove"—there were references to "Nationalisation" and "take-over-bids" which were much in news at that time—it is obvious that the Exercise on the whole is satisfied with things as they are

Corrigenda and addenda, please, therefore, to:

OBITUARY

Association Secretary who became Mayor

ALD. ARTHUR EDWIN SHARMAN

News of the death of Alderman Arthur E. Sharman, of Dunstable, which occurred on November 25th, will be received with deep sorrow by his many ringing friends.

Born at Great Cransley, Northamptonshire, on March 30th, 1882, he was the eldest of ten children, of whom three brothers and three sisters survive him.

After spending some years of his early manhood in the Leeds area of Yorkshire he settled in Dunstable in 1914, and here he spent the remainder of his 85 years.

He joined the Bedfordshire Association in 1914 and was secretary of the Luton District from 1919 to 1935, becoming general secretary of the Association in 1921, a position he held for 17 years. From 1940 until the time of his death he was a vice-president.

As in ringing, so in local government, his great ability soon brought him into prominence and he served on Dunstable Town Council for many years, being Mayor of the borough from 1940 to 1943. He was elected to the aldermanic bench in 1939. In addition to his many other activities he was for 20 years a member of the management committee of the Luton and Dunstable group of hospitals.

As a bellringer he served the Priory Church of St. Peter, Dunstable, with great devotion for 53 years, and at this historic church on November 29th the Rector, the Rev. H. E. R. Charles, officiated at the pre-interment service. Among the large congregation were members of the Town Council, the Bedfordshire Association of Church Bell Ringers and many other organisations, and as the cortege left the church touches of Grandsire and Stedman Triples were rung on the half-muffled bells.

APPRECIATIONS

The death of Arthur Sharman deprives the Bedfordshire Association of one of its most distinguished members.

For over 50 years he rendered devoted service and was always a mentor and an inspiration to his fellows, not only as a bell handler and striker but as a method ringer and conductor.

An indication of his potential ability appears in the first entry in his peal book—a peal of seven different extents of Minor, rung at Thorpe Malsor, a few miles from his birthplace, and conducted by his brother Horace, who lost his life in the first world war.

In his earlier days peals of Cambridge and Superlative Surprise Major were an achievement and he rang no less than 21 of the former and 22 of the latter, but his favourite method was undoubtedly Double Norwich, of which he rang a total of 43 peals. (Incidentally, he never rang a peal of Doubles.) He was particularly proud of the peal of Stedman Caters rung at the Imperial Institute, Kensington, for the Royal Cumberland Youths, on April 23rd, 1924.

Of his total peals (189), 107 were rung for the Bedfordshire Association, 31 of them at his own tower, Dunstable Priory. Many of these peals were rung in company with such stalwarts of the Bedfordshire Association as Miss Evelyn Steel, Edmund J. Hobbs and Pearl Inskip, to all of whom his death will be a severe blow, breaking, as it does, a treasured link with earlier days.

Ringers of Arthur Sharman's calibre are rare in any generation, and his exemplary conduct both in and out of the belfry will remain a worthy memorial to one who brought an air of distinction to any company.

But the great eminence he attained never changed him, and he remained a man of simple faith and sincerity. His genial smile will be sadly missed by the hundreds of people among whom he lived and were privileged to call his friends.

As we proudly remember his many fine qualities we pray God may grant him a holy rest and peace at the last. A. E. R.

HIS PEALS

Minor: 26 (conducted 14); Triples: Grandsire 11 (9), Stedman 18 (10), Major: Plain Bob 14 (11), Little Bob 1 (1), Double Oxford 1 (1), Kent T.B. 8 (5), Oxford T.B. 2 (2), Double Norwich 43 (23), Cambridge S 21 (2), Superlative S. 22 (9); Caters: Grandsire 5 (3), Stedman (8); Royal: Plain Bob 2 (2), Kent T.B. 7 (2).

Total 189 (conducted 94).

I was indeed sorry to hear of the death of Arthur Sharman. It was in 1921 that I left my native village of Charing, Kent, to start life in the "outside world" as a compositor at Dunstable. If ever ringing was a help to a lad leaving home it was to me. I met Arthur Sharman on my first Sunday at Dunstable, and the miles Arthur and I cycled (he with one fixed pedal owing to a war wound) is nobody's business. I shall never forget cycling to Biggleswade with him to make up the band for a peal of Double Norwich (my first in the method) conducted by George Cross. I rang 28 peals with Arthur over the years, and I have always been thankful to him that my first year away from home was a very happy one.

A. V. GOOD.

MR. JOHN HENRY MYHILL

The death occurred during the latter part of October of Mr. John (Jack) Henry Myhill. Although he had not taken an active part in the art during recent years, he had nevertheless completed some 40 years as a ringer at Springfield, Essex.

He was the last of the band that was formed between the two world wars, the capabilities of this band being such that they were able to ring a 720 of Minor nearly every week.

He was an honorary life member of the Essex Association and his departure will be sadly felt by some of the older members of the Association. Among many friends at the funeral the Essex Association was represented by the general treasurer, Mr. P. J. Eves. P. G. B.

MR. OSCAR GARNHAM

An Appreciation.

Garboldisham, Norfolk, has lost an active and faithful servant in the sudden and unexpected death on December 5th of Mr. Oscar Garnham at the age of 72 years. He leaves a widow and son.

Oscar was village carpenter, steeplekeeper, clockwinder and chorister for many years. His family came from South Lopham, and at the age of seven until his death he was a member of the choir.

As a bellringer he was always quiet, wise, unassuming and reliable. Although he never rang a 5,040 he had taken part in many 720's and was a faithful servant to the Exercise. As a craftsman and woodworker he leaves many memorials to his work both around the village and in the church. It is thought that about half the woodwork, such as the altar-front, screen, prayer desks and some pews were built by his father and himself in the last 100 years.

One of his frequently produced wood masterpieces is his wooden Norfolk tunnel mousetraps—operated with a trip, the principle involves a heavy lump of beech falling on to the tempted mouse in the tunnel. These are in constant use in the church to this day and many visitors have cast incredulous glances at the simple piece of apparatus.

Oscar will be sadly missed in the locality—a man who had no enemies and was loved by all. P. J.

CONDITIONS IN KENT

Dear Sir,—In reply to Mr. Buswell's letter (page 874) may I state that quarter peal ringing was not the subject in question, but can be used to illustrate the same point.

Of the quarter peals rung, Lympne rang 42, Smarden 18, Biggin Hill 9 and Maidstone 9 for Sunday service alone. Another small section of East Kent ringers was responsible between them for nearly 100 quarter peals. This illustrates that nearly two-thirds of the mentioned quarter peals were rung by a very small section of the Association members, albeit a different section than the peal ringers to some degree.

As regards peal ringing, one has only to come into East Kent to appreciate the apathy to the subject amongst the majority of ringers. The Canterbury and Ashford Districts comprise a large area of Kent, but the number of peal ringers is very small, as I have discovered in trying to arrange peals. Fortunately there are the few peal ringers who keep these areas alive in this respect. Some ringers are prepared to ring the occasional peal, but it is not these people who put Kent at the top of the list—it is those making regular attempts, mainly from Mid and North Kent.

The Kent County Association has many peals to its credit, but the praise should be directed to where it is deserved, in proportion to the efforts made. How some ringers of East Kent have the audacity to stand together boasting of peal successes and apparently healthy state of affairs in peal ringing, when they have contributed nothing, I do not know. It is significant that it is these same people who praise themselves on the excellence of their own Districts. There has not been a meeting in East Kent since October 21st and will not be one until 1968! If this is regarded as good I would suggest that these people examine the more organised and conscientious Branches of other Associations where there is a monthly practice and meeting, not a meeting every quarter-year and an occasional by-meeting.

In view of my experiences and figures which can be quoted, I agree wholeheartedly with Derek Carr ("Ringing World," page 834).—Yours sincerely.

JAMES HEDGCOCK.

Letters to the Editor

"PRIORITIES IN DAMNABLE DISORDER"

Dear Sir,—I am quite certain that Mr. Amos is wrong. I think that the people whom he castigated in "Beware! The Latest Ruse" are wrong as well.

The kind of chauvinistic ranting which attributes no responsibility for India's plight to a country liberally sprinkled with vast mansions built from Indian profits is so completely unrelated to Christianity that it doesn't deserve serious attention; as long as people have not enough to eat, or have inadequate medical services, or have no homes, Christians in England, well-fed, welfare-stated and well-housed, can never be happy about it, and the Church as a body can never be bamboozled into thinking that "Charity begins at home" is anything but the standard excuse for self-centred meanness.

But, having said that, I do not believe that Church buildings are an unnecessary luxury; they, and all the things that men do for them, are the fulfilment of a fundamental need—for worship to be expressed tangibly and audibly and in a costly way. For most people worship would be incomplete if it did not manifest itself in some such way; God does not need cathedrals; we do not need cathedrals to worship in—you could worship in a cinema or a hay-barn—but we do need cathedrals to worship with. And the same is true of bells.

The silly thing about all this argument is that it is about an abstraction—should the money go to York Minster or Oxfam, to the bells or refugees, to the death-watch beetle or shelter? There is not any either/or about it. The total annual expenditure of U.N.I.C.E.F. is equivalent to the sum spent by the nations of the world on armaments every four and a half hours; the amount we spend on gambling every year would maintain every cathedral in the kingdom with plenty to spare for the parish churches; you could go on endlessly in the same vein. The only reason why anyone, like Mr. Amos or his opponents, thinks these needs are alternatives is because as a world, as a nation and as individuals we've got our priorities in damnable disorder.—Yours sincerely,

JOHN G. M. SCOTT (Rev.).

Newton St. Cyres, Devon.

BELFRY BEHAVIOUR

Dear Sir, — Your correspondent, C. G. Browne, if he lives in a rural area such as this, has my sympathy as no doubt he and his band need outside help. If this is impossible, surely the practical thing to do is to ring Bob Doubles for Sunday services and go for Plain Bob Minor on practice night. Of course to use the phrase "Stand if you can" is all wrong. "Stand" is the right term and accepted by all ringers.

Your writer gives the impression that the ringers lose complete control of their bells as well as the method. To be courteous at the right time and place is a nice thing but, as all ringers are aware, there is seldom time to use long sentences when ringing, especially when necessary to get things right as soon as possible. If a conductor feels he has been exceedingly rude, owing oft-times to disappointment and frustration, and offers his apologies, surely the band cannot be so unkind as not to agree and accept the apology.—Yours sincerely,

T. A. PALMER.

CLOSING HOUR OF MEETINGS

Dear Sir,—I was very surprised to see in the December 1st issue that the Guildford Guild meeting at Wonersh was so enthusiastically supported. When a party of ten ringers arrived, including myself, at about 7 p.m., the ringers were just leaving the tower, rather early, one would think, for a Guild meeting. As the party I was with contained five visitors from the Bath and Wells area, the gentleman with the key was asked if he would kindly allow us to have a ring. His reply was that he wanted to get off, and so he went, leaving us in the churchyard. "The Ringing World" notice of the meeting did not give a finishing time, so perhaps the Guild had arranged to finish at 7 p.m. If so, I feel that this should have been published in the notice to warn any prospective visitors to arrive in plenty of time. —Yours sincerely,

M. J. UPHILL.

London, S.W.

OUTING REPORTING

Dear Sir,—As one of the Ringing Masters whose tower was visited by the band from Rutland in November, I was rather annoyed to read in the report of that outing ("Ringing World," December 1st, 1967) that our bells at Humberstone are "of disappointing tone" and "not unduly difficult to handle."

Maybe I am rather over-sensitive, but by my standards it is rather discourteous for a visitor to act as a disparaging critic of the bells at towers he has visited. It is rather like a society columnist in a newspaper reporting "I went to tea with Mrs. Hyphen-Smith the other day and did not like her chocolate cake." Mrs. Hyphen-Smith would like it no more than I do!

Might I suggest to A. C. B. that in future he writes his reports of outings with the maxim that "if you can't say anything pleasant it is better not to speak at all" in mind.—Yours faithfully,

JUDY A. M. COX.

Humberstone, Leics.

"UNGRACIOUS"

Dear Sir,—In our undergraduate days, Mr. Speed and I certainly had differences of opinion, and it is 20 years since we last met. During this time—indeed, longer—I have been a regular reader of "The Ringing World," and it strikes me as ungracious and vituperative, not to say humourless, to name him publicly and to say that "he has never progressed beyond his undergraduate days" (whatever that may mean), in the light of the fruits of his able mind, freely given to the Exercise over many years.—Yours faithfully,

K. S. B. CROFT.

Shirley, Southampton.

LOOKING BACK

Dear Sir,—The name of L. W. Jacques, signature to a letter on page 874 of "The Ringing World" reminds me of my Army days while stationed in Blackpool. I wonder if Len remembers our handbell ringing in the vestry at St. John's nearly 50 years ago, with Harry Pasmore. I have a record of two 720's on June 28th and August 13th, 1918, which we rang together, Private Pasmore conducting.—Yours faithfully,

T. E. SONE.

Brenchley, Kent.

FOOT AND MOUTH DISEASE

Dear Sir,—The epidemic of Foot and Mouth Disease which has so badly hit Shropshire and Cheshire has now spread to the Peak District of Derbyshire. Among the infected areas are Ashbourne, Bakewell, Matlock and Chesterfield. Two cases just outside Darley Dale were confirmed on December 6th, followed by a further two in the vicinity on December 7th, and two more the next day with several suspects.

This particular virus is one, I understand, which can be carried in clothing and in the treads of motor tyres. The disease has an incubating period up to three weeks.

The National Farmers' Union and the Peak Planning Authority have appealed to the public to keep out of the infected areas, and since the first outbreaks the response from the public has been encouraging.

In consultation with several officers of the Association, we feel that we, as ringers, should play our part in efforts being made to minimise the risk of spreading the infection. I am therefore appealing to organisers of ringing tours over the Christmas and New Year period to refrain from visiting the infected areas. I understand that at least one tour is contemplated, and I would ask those responsible to call it off. In doing so, I know that it would be appreciated by the farmers—especially those who are ringers.

There is no intention to suppress ringing for service, practices or even peals—it is up to the good sense of ringers concerned.—Yours truly,

B P. MORRIS,
Hon. Secretary,
Derby Diocesan Association.

IDENTIFICATION OF HANDBELLS

Dear Sir,—With reference to the letter by Mr. J. Smith in the issue of December 8th requesting information about the set of 10 handbells, tenor size 18 in G, may I suggest that the initials cast on the crowns of the bells should read "W. B. and S." (and not M. B. and S" as quoted), thus identifying them with William Blews and Sons, bellfounders, Birmingham, c. 1854–1886, who produced many sets of handbells, generally of excellent tonal quality.—Yours sincerely,

FRANK R. BARNETT.

Malvern, Worcester.

THE HANDBELL PEAL AT RUMNEY

Dear Sir,—The claim that the "First 12-bell peal in Wales (excluding Monmouthshire)" has been rung must be related to facts, which are:—

Monmouth is a diocese in the disestablished Church in Wales.

Rumney is a parish in the Diocese of Monmouth.

The Rumney ringers belong to the Monmouth Branch of the Llandaff and Monmouth Diocesan Association

Rumney has been embraced in the extended boundaries of the Cardiff Corporation but still remains on the wrong side of the Rumney river than to be elsewhere than in Monmouthshire.

The most recent "A.A." Road Book confirms that the Rumney river continues to be the boundary between Monmouthshire and Glamorgan.—Yours faithfully,

TREVOR M. RODERICK.

LETTERS—Continued

THE NATIONALITY OF MONMOUTHSHIRE

Dear Sir,—I have read with considerable interest the correspondence on pages 793–4 and 894 in connection with the handbell peal which was rung at the end of August at 43, Downton Road, Rumney, Cardiff.

On first reading the footnote to this peal my immediate reaction was to feel that the hoary old fairy-tale of England's claim on Monmouthshire was again being trotted out.

However, on reflection, one wonders whether the leading protagonist in this matter, ably supported by a certain mentor, deliberately set out to provoke the type of reply which we have seen from Messrs. Simon and Stickland, of whether, being ignorant of the true situation, it was felt necessary to make recourse to a piece of irrelevant subterfuge in order to satisfy a geographical claim. The reference to the inclusion of Rumney in the Cardiff rating area certainly lends support to such a view.

I am surprised at Brian Woodruffe's reply, for he has made his letter both controversial and somewhat offensive. If he has not already done so he should read for himself the 1536 Act of Union which created Monmouthshire (or, to give it its Welsh name, Gwent) out of "Lordships Marches" within the "Country or Dominion of Wales," and did nothing whatever to make it an English county.

The "Encyclopædia Britannica" expressly states that the Act did not take Monmouthshire out of Wales. No English Act of Parliament has ever been passed to take Monmouthshire out of Wales, and even if such an Act had been passed it would have had no validity without the consent of the Welsh people, which has never been given.

In the circumstances the offending paragraph in the peal report was totally unnecessary and it is a pity that a lead was not taken from those Welshmen who almost two decades previously called the first 12-bell peals at St. Woolos', Newport, and rightly claimed them as the first in Wales.—Yours faithfully,

DONALD G. CLIFT.

PROMISE REDEEMED

Dear Sir, — When Robert W. Smith (my nephew) was taught to handle a bell at Ibstock by Arthur E. Rowley, his grandfather promised him £1 when he could ring changes. Robert left Ibstock when he could only ring rounds and came to live at Sapcote, where he has learned change ringing. So Arthur came and took part in Robert's first quarter and was able to present the £1 to him afterwards.—Yours faithfully,

MICHAEL E. BROWN.

Sapcote, Leics.

SPLICED PLAIN MAJOR

Dear Sir,—I have watched with interest the progress of the various bands in the field of Plain Major on handbells and see that a University band has recently broken the record for Spliced Major on handbells ("Ringing World," page 802). I should be very interested to see the compositions for the recent peals of Spliced Plain Major by the various bands.

I believe the record for Plain Major is 55 methods, at Accrington, in 1961. I wonder if any of the handbell bands have considered amalgamation to increase this number, or even a handbell attempt for the record.—Yours faithfully,

MIKE HUNT.

Wood Green,

Barclays first Bank to "Ring the Changes"

The bells of the Guild Church of St. Andrew, Holborn, rang out cheerfully over City rooftops for an hour or so one rainswept evening not long ago. Inside, the belfry was warm and bright and echoed with "bellringers' talk" of other towers and other times. There, making Bank history, had gathered a band of Barclays' bellringers (nicely balanced, four girls, four men) to produce their own ancient and delightful form of musical expression.

They had come up from Brighton, Eastbourne, Hatfield, Watford and St. Albans to join with London colleagues in ringing a few "touches" each lasting some 10 to 15 minutes. Peter Harper, of Barclays' High Street, Watford, branch acted as captain. Some were relative novices whilst others—Martin Harbott, of the Bank's Battersea Park Branch, in particular, with some 25 years' ringing years behind him, were more experienced. But all are keen and devote many of their out-of-bank hours in practice and performance.

ROPE LENGTHS AT MEETINGS

Dear Sir.—Why is a sally three feet long, when it need only be six inches? The obvious answer is, to allow people of varying heights to catch it with ease. Why is it, then, that some people don't realise that not everyone is six feet tall, and so tail-ends need to be a reasonable length, too?

While attending a recent by-meeting in Kent we were asked on our arrival what we could ring and Cambridge Minor was called for. Now we are both about five-feet-two, and as we pulled off it must have been as obvious to everyone else as it was to us that we could not reach at backstroke. Ringing was stopped almost at once and one of us supplied with a very small box. We resumed ringing with no better results and the Cambridge was an absolute fiasco, as neither of us could keep our bells up, let alone dodge properly!

Very disgruntled, we sat down, as, being visitors, it was not our place to complain or advise, especially as there were ringers in charge who seemed capable and experienced.

There were about 50 people there, many of them youngsters no taller than us, but after 15 minutes' continued "grotty" ringing we realised that nothing was going to be done to alter the rope so, it being pointless to stay, we went home. It was a pity to waste those lovely bells, which could have been rung enjoyably and well.

Please, in future, meeting organisers, adjust your ropes to a reasonable length to give the shorter ones a chance.—Yours sincerely,

ANTHEA SPARSHOTT.

FATHER CHRISTMAS WELCOMES CHELTENHAM RINGERS

Cheltenham had a festive appearance for the Branch annual general meeting on December 2nd. Father Christmas (the Mayor) arrived in state and the elaborate Christmas lights were switched on.

This had nothing to do with ringers except to make parking very difficult, but the Parish Church bells were in use at the appointed time.

A former secretary, the Rev. J. H. T. Homfray, conducted a short service, and a Bishop's Cleeve ringer Mr. A. Lawrence, was the organist.

Since last the Branch met at the Parish Church, Church House has been equipped as a social centre, and it was made available for the tea and meeting Ladies of the band and wives had prepared tea, a meal enjoyed by some 35 ringers.

The chairman (Mr. W. A. Farmer) presided at the business meeting and welcomed especially Miss M. Bliss, the Association chairman. He reviewed briefly the condition of bells at Branch towers, saying how pleased they all were to find Winchcombe bells nearly completed. The Association had contributed £75 to this project.

Service ringing was good at most towers, but there were several where there was none. In most cases this was because of local difficulties, but the officers kept them under constant review. The secretary (Mr. H. Read), reporting on the 12 meetings of the year, said that attendances were higher than for many years.

The 1968 programme was decided in outline. This will include a Branch striking competition, the winners to go forward to the next stage in the Association competition. A Cotswold Ringing Festival was proposed by the Association Ringing Master, and this would be held in June.

A return was made to the tower, where some Cambridge Royal sounded very well.

THE LADIES' GUILD

The South Wales District at its November meeting at St. Mary's, Swansea, elected a record number of 12 new members. These were from Marcle, Bridstow, Micheldean, Monmouth, Chepstow, Penhow, Newport, Swansea, Pembroke and Tenby.

The Rev. David P. Davies, lecturer in theology at St. David's College, Lampeter, and a former ringer at Swansea, kindly took the service.

The meeting was most enjoyable. All were warmly welcomed by Mr. Johnny Williams.

If possible, the January meeting will be held at Brecon, with Talgarth and Mitcheldean as alternatives.

ST. ALBANS DISTRICT SOCIAL

Due to the increasing number of younger members, the St. Albans District of the Herts County Association decided this year to depart from the December dinner and hold something a little less expensive. Saturday, December 2nd, saw the result—a supper with entertainments to follow at St. Peter's Institute, St. Albans

Just over 50 members and friends arrived—it was good to see the longer-standing members turned up as much as the many young faces. On arrival everyone was presented with a plate of "bangers and mash," followed by cakes and biscuits.

Fred Ellis, of Wheathampstead, was first to start the ball rolling, with some conjuring tricks. It was a surprise to find it is still possible to keep 50 ringers quiet, but Fred certainly managed. John Ewer then took over as M.C. and assorted games followed. Then while everyone pulled up a chair to recover, four figures emerged dressed in smocks of various shapes and sizes, and hats to match, and proceeded (after a few warming-up stories) to sing (?) a couple of songs to familiar tunes but with words adapted to the Herts County Association and its members! Congratulations to all four, they were certainly a great success. It took quite a while for the laughter to die down

More laughter followed when eight ringers tried "walking changes" with a handbell each. It was more like a homemade dancing session, the two attempts ending up in complete chaos, although it was rather late in the evening—and the nearness of the beer next door was no help!

Before we knew it, it was time to be out of the hall, and the evening was brought to a close with a course of Grandsire Caters rung on handbells It is hoped that everyone, particularly the younger members, had an enjoyable evening, and thanks go to all those who organised and put so much effort in making the evening a success. J. A. F.

EAST GRINSTEAD AND DISTRICT GUILD

The meeting on December 9th was held at SS. Peter and Paul's Church, Tonbridge. Tea was taken in the Vicarage, and Canon T. C. F. Bewes, who had conducted the service, took the chair for the business meeting, with about 30 members present Three new ... were elected.

The chairman announced that very few tickets were left for the annual dinner on January 13th (at 17s. 6d., and not 7s. 6d. as published in "The Ringing World" on December 8th)

Withyham was chosen as the venue for the meeting on February 10th.

After the votes of thanks ringing continued till 8.30 p.m. R. J. E.

RUNG IN MOST TOWERS

Dear Sir,—Would you be so kind as to allow me to correct the figures given in "Belfry Gossip" (page 897) of the number of different towers rung in by myself. The figures 3,138 represent the overall total reached by the late James H. Shepherd, of Swindon, who, I believe, passed away about September, 1950. I had equalled this figure before the end of 1966 and since then have rung in a further 51 towers, making my own total 3,189.

This figure includes towers in every county in England—the three Ridings of Yorkshire, the three county divisions of Lincolnshire and the majority of the counties of Wales. It also includes every tower in Britain which has, or has had, a ring of 12 bells. Two of these—Christ Church, West Bromwich, and St. Bride's, Fleet Street London—no longer have this distinction, the first having been reduced to eight, and the latter having no replacement of the ring destroyed by enemy action at the end of 1940.

The list does not include any four-bell towers, and in no case have I walked into a tower, raised a bell on my own and claimed to have rung on the ring! The ten four-bell towers I have rung in are recorded in an abridged form on a separate piece of paper. I can obtain their dedications from the "Crockford" in our local library whenever I choose to do so.

Mr. Shepherd was never a "tower grabber" in the sense that it is understood today. Wherever he rang he made a point of measuring the diameter of the tenor in inches and their fractions and putting the same on record. He recorded the rings of bells on which he rang, a recast ring or an augmented one being put as an addition to the list. He would never go out of his way to visit a four-bell tower, although five of these are recorded in his list, together with the diameters of their respective tenors. One of these—Preston, near Weymouth, Dorset—has since been augmented to six.

To give Mr Shepherd his due, he never numbered the towers in which he rang. During the weeks that his records were in my possession it took many hours of my time to sort things out and produce the exact total of his towers as no less than 93 were recorded a second or a third time. I will not go into details concerning the way I managed to do this, but will pass on details to anyone who may be interested.

With regard to the tower record of Clive M. Smith, I have been on a number of tours in different parts of Britain with him since 1953, and it is in no small measure due to his activities that my tower list is as large as it is today Wherever we went we had good ringing. The rough stuff was never tolerated. I last met Clive in July, 1966, when he told me that his tower list was estimated to stand at 3,150 The list would be difficult to check, as it was compiled in either alphabetical or county order and not chronological order, as mine is. Perhaps one of these days we shall get to know exactly who has rung in the greatest number of towers—ever.—Yours sincerely,

WILLIAM A STOTE.

Note.—The error in the published total is regretted.—Editor.

HERTFORD COUNTY ASSOCIATION
Northern District

The venue for the meeting on December 2nd was to have been Royston, but the bells were not available and we went to Norton instead. For the second month running the weather was bad and a poor turnout was again experienced. During the evening our numbers were boosted by passing peal ringers to the giddy heights of 12, and a plain course of Cambridge Major was successfully rung.

Once again we appeal for a better attendance at our next meeting (the District A.G.M.) at Hitchin on January 6th, 1968, when a new District secretary must be elected. M. R. W

Ilchester Branch Progress

On December 2nd the Ilchester Branch held its annual general meeting at St. John the Baptist's Church, Yeovil—the home tower of the vice-chairman, Mr. T. J. Setter.

The Guild service was conducted by the Rev. David Nye, who in his address thanked all bellringers for their service and in particular pointed out how appropriate this meeting was, coinciding as it did with the beginning of the Church's year, when a new beginning might also be made by everyone.

After tea the meeting took place, at which officials were elected for the coming year: Chairman, the Rev. C. J. B. Marshall (Long Sutton); vice-chairmen, Mr. T. J. Setter (Yeovil) and Mr. Gilbert Rendell (Hardington Mandeville); hon secretary and diocesan representative, Miss M. M. Legget (Coker Hill, West Coker); Ringing Master, Mr Gordon Rendell, 4, South Street, Montacute; Assistant Ringing Master, Mr. W. E. Turner (Hardington Mandeville).

The company stood in silence to honour the memory of Preb. R T. Beechey, late of Montacute and an associate member.

Congratulations were offered to Mr. Gilbert Rendell on his 50 years as a ringer at Hardington Mandeville, he having instructed over 200 pupils, and also to Mr. Robert Parker, of High Ham, for having rung over 50 quarter peals.

The hon secretary reported a very successful year during which five new towers had become affiliated, and the membership had increased to 211. Twelve towers had been visited for meetings and the average attendance was between 30 and 35.

New members elected were: Preston Plucknett, Mr. David Hammonds; Hardington Mandeville, Master Raymond Turner, West Coker, Messrs Martin E. J. Bailey, Nigel V. Bailey, D. Eglen, A Evans, D. Groves, M. Wyatt and Miss C. Thompson. Mudford, Rev. E. D. White (associate) and Messrs. G. Hunt, G. W. Goverd, P. Flagg, K. Deacon, R. Robinson, O. Rood. Tintinhull, Messrs. T Marshall, E. Read, J. Toose, L. Leach, B. Whitlock, R. Bond. Yeovil, Mr. C. Narramore. Non-resident life members, Mr. and Mrs. G. Boyce, Bournemouth.

Certificates of membership were presented to Mrs. Una Rendell, Miss Jackie Guppy, Messrs. K. Caller, G. Parkin, D Eglen, A. Evans, A. L. Guppy, F. Foot, R. Andrews, A. Hill and the Rev. G. E. Mullard.

Towers for 1968 will, subject to consent, be Stoke-sub-Hamdon, Drayton, Odcombe, Trent, Pitney, Somerton, Huish Episcopi, Ash-in-Martock, Hardington Mandeville, Tintinhull, Kingsbury Episcopi and East Coker.

A Branch dinner was fixed for Shrove Tuesday at the King's Arms, Montacute, at which the Archdeacon will be present, and a half-day ringing outing in the spring.

Votes of thanks were extended to the Rev David Nye, the organist (Mrs. Watts) the tower master (Mr. T. J. Setter), all retiring Branch officials, all incumbents, tower masters and tea officials, especially the ladies responsible for the tea at this meeting.

Ringing on the beautiful heavy ten (40¼ cwt.) during the afternoon and evening was under the direction of Messrs. W. E. Turner and Gordon W. Rendell. M. M. L.

Taunton Branch's New Chairman

The annual general meeting of the Taunton Branch was held at Milverton on December 2nd, where the fine ring of eight, restored in recent years, was put to good use. The Rev. J. Biddell (Vicar) conducted the service and the tea was prepared by local ladies in St Michael's Room nearby.

Mrs. E. M. Williams, vice-chairman, presided over the business meeting, and at the outset the resignation of the chairman, the Rev. D. Morey, Vicar of St. Mary's, Taunton, was received with much regret. A silent tribute was paid to three members who had died during the year—Messrs. Coles, Seeley and Branchflower— and also to Mr. Jack Pugsley, of Minehead.

The hon. secretary (Mr. A. H. Reed), in his report, spoke of a successful year in the Branch, of renewed activity in the towers at Ash Priors and Lyng, a Branch outing in Devon, well-attended practice meetings and a conspicuously successful Association dinner in the County Hotel at Taunton.

Mrs. Williams was warmly thanked for her able chairmanship during the year in Mr. Morey's enforced absence. Nine new members were elected from towers in the Branch and the following officers appointed for the ensuing year: Chairman, the Rev Michael Odlum (Vicar of Sampford Arundel); vice-chairman, Mrs. E. M Williams; hon. secretary and treasurer, Mr. A. H Reed; Ringing Master, Mr. R. Arscott, assisted by Mr. K. Beale; representative on the General Committee and Press correspondent, Mrs. E. S. Powell. Wilton, Taunton (St. James'), Hill Farrance and Ruishton were suggested as meeting places for 1968, subject to approval.

A collection was made towards the Association's gift of a bell to a church in Trinidad and a reminder given of the Branch Striking Competition to be held on April 27th, 1968. M. P.

MARGARET LEWIS' STEEPLECHASE

On December 9th recent falls of snow and bitter winds did not dampen the spirits of about 15 of Margaret Lewis' old friends, who braved the elements and rang at seven towers in Hampshire to celebrate Margaret's 1,000th tower.

After assembling and ringing at Froyle, we moved on to the pleasant six at Warnford, where two courses of Reverse Stedman Slow Course Minor were rung to celebrate this as Margaret's 100th tower. The four bells at Droxford came before lunch and handbells at Soberton Heath.

After lunch we negotiated perilous country lanes and rang at Hambledon and on the eight bells at East Meon, where it was snowing hard when we left. On the way to Hawkley the cars got stuck at the bottom of a steep hill and all the able-bodied had to get out and push. It was a very short ring at Hawkley, and then more pushing of cars up two more hills before a short ring at Alton. We returned to Margaret's flat at Farnborough for a meal before going home. Our thanks to Margaret, local ringers and members

Mr. G. H. Spice, who is in the Middlesex Hospital for tests and observation, is not seriously ill and would welcome visitors.

On behalf of the band who rang a peal at Kingswinford on November 25th Mr. Eric Speake desires to thank Mr. and Mrs. A. Kitson for their hospitality.

We are asked to state on behalf of Totton Grammar School Ringing Society that the peal at Upham, reported on page 863, was not the first in ten Minor methods for the Society. (See page 863.)

Three generations of the Cull family rang in a quarter peal of Grandsire Triples at Goring, Oxon, on November 26th. Carol (aged 14) was conducting her first of the ten quarters she has rung. Her brother, Malvin (aged 12), has six to his credit, including Grandsire Triples.

A beautiful snow scene with SS. Peter and Paul's Church, Eye, forming a background is the Christmas card of our esteemed contribuor Mr. Claude Rush, of Felixtowe. This picture won a three guinea prize offered by the "Suffolk Mercury" last February.

The peal, conducted by Michael Pilgrim, rung at Blaenavon on November 25th was the 1,500th peal recorded for the Llandaff and Monmouth Association.

Mr. R Allinson points out that the quarter peal of Queen Mary Surprise Minor (page 864) rung at Fawley, Hants, was in fact 720 Queen Mary and 540 Plain Bob.

The North and North-West Branch of the Devon Association send their congratulations to the Bridgerule band, who obtained second place in the Stratton Ringing Festival on December 2nd.

Mr. F. Hector Bennett asks for the composition of Mr. Frank Blagrove's peal at Dorney, Bucks (page 882). It was seven different extents of Plain Bob Minor, each without singles.

Bentley Common, Essex, planned two quarters as a farewell to their Vicar (the Rev D. O. R. Parry), who is moving to Little Waltham. Unfortunately the quarter of Plain Bob Minor for Matins failed owing to a miscall. Each band was almost entirely different.

MEMORIAL TO REDRUTH CAPTAIN

On Sunday, November 26th, at the morning service at Redruth, Cornwall, the Rector, the Rev. J. Ruscoe, dedicated a memorial plaque which has been erected in the ringing chamber to the memory of Percy Richard Cromwell Williams, who died earlier this year. The plaque is of brass and records the fact that Percy Williams was captain of the tower from 1938 to 1967 and a churchwarden from 1946 to 1967, and that it was erected by his fellow ringers. At the bottom are the words "Lord I have loved the habitation of Thy House."

SHEBBEAR NOW UP TO STANDARD

Shebbear College, North Devon, again appears in our quarter peals columns, the last time being in June, 1966; in that term most of the strength of the Society left. Mr. J. L. Queen, housemaster of Pollard House, informs us that the Society is again up to standard, ringing methods from Plain Bob Doubles to Cambridge Minor in practice. An exceptionally good bunch of younger boys on their way up bodes well for the future. The Society is indebted for much help and encouragement from Stratton ringers.

BANSTEAD'S VETERANS

At Banstead, Surrey, a peal of Yorkshire Surprise Major was rung on December 2nd to mark the long service to the tower of two of its members and as a 70th birthday compliment to one of them—Mr. H. N. Pitstow, who has rung at this church for 41 years. The other, with one year's service less, is Mr. Albert E. Cheesman Both these veterans took part in the peal.

"NORTH WEST"

An attractive quarterly newsletter for the N.W. District of the Essex Association, entitled "North West," is being edited by A. L. J. Hopkins, B. J. Cousens and C. H. R Hopkins, and its special feature, "Looking Back," by Robert C. Heazel, tells of the Essex Association since June 10th, 1946, when he allowed his name to go forward as general secretary.

Under the guidance of Dr. Spencer Phillips, items of reform and reconstruction were carried through and "everyone worked with a will." After 17 years as Master, Dr. Spencer Phillips retired and it was in 1953, the Coronation year, that Mr. Heazel became Master. There was ringing in every tower and the presentation of a loyal address in connection with the Coronation. It was an important year in the life of the Diocese—the 1,300th anniversary of the coming of St. Cedd to Essex. The Association rose to the occasion and the bells of every town and village through which the Archbishop of Canterbury passed rang out their message of welcome.

A start has been made with Elizabeth M. Barber's system of proficiency grades and the first two cards (copied with minor alterations from Miss Barber's article) have been prepared and given out at a learners' practice at Wendens Ambo. The experiment is being watched with interest.

"A Day in Town" amusingly reports on a visit to the Science Museum to see the Carter Ringing Machine. "Masterpiece," by the District Ringing Master, reviews activities. This is a newsletter of interest.

BROKEN STAY GIVEN PROMINENCE

"The Western Morning News" of December 4th features a stay breaking during the Truro Guild striking competition at Stratton on December 2nd. The bell was being rung by Leigh Hooper (13), a pupil at Shebbear College.

The report reads: "An eye-witness said the boy was lucky not to have been pulled up with the rope, which was 'like a savage snake' whipping around the tower until it became tangled in the roof."

The breaking of a stay is not uncommon. Leigh Hooper acted as he was taught and avoided being carried up to the roof. Such reporting suggests danger in ringing, particularly the heading "Bell Stay Breaks: Escape for Boy"

The competition was attended by more than 200 ringers from Devon and Cornwall.

THE ARCHERS' HANDLING

Mr. Edgar C. Shepherd, convener of the Literature and Press Committee of the Central Council has received a reply from the editor of "The Radio Times" regarding his protest at the picture of bellringers that appeared in "The Borchester Echo." The letter states that "The Borchester Echo" is a separate publication from "The Radio Times," though it is published by the B.B.C. from Birmingham.

In reply to the letter, Mr. Shepherd states: "Seeing that 'The Borchester Echo' is an annual production, it is rather difficult to see how my protest can be publicly acknowledged.

"I may perhaps be allowed to add, as a rider, that great care is needed in reporting on bells and bellringing, especially in regard to the art of change ringing. It is a difficult subject, embracing intricate mathematical considerations, and with a terminology puzzling to the layman. The practice of the art is so intimately connected with the worship of the Christian Church that great discretion is advisable whenever the subject is treated on television, radio or in print."

Mr. Shepherd has now heard from the Editor of "The Borchester Echo" stating that a number of readers had pointed out the error in the bellringing picture. Next time he promises to consult a campanologist.

BEGINNERS AT CRANFORD

The beginners' practice held at Cranford and Harlington, Middlesex, on December 9th, was the third such practice within eight months. Despite the appalling weather, a small but enthusiastic group of ringers had over three hours' ringing, in which each learner was given a chance to ring something new several times. The general response to these privately organised meetings has been most favourable and it is hoped to hold them at three-monthly intervals.

DEPUTY HEADSHIP FOR JACK WORRALL

Mr. J. R. Worrall, who is at Kent School, Hostert, Germany, writes that he is still a fervent reader of "The Ringing World." His stay in Germany is likely to last some time yet as he has recently been appointed deputy headmaster of Windsor Boys' Comprehensive School, Hamm. This is a boarding school in the British Families Education Service. Jack takes up his new appointment on April 1st.

THE DIFFICULTIES OF BELLRINGING

It is a well-established fact that unless constant recruitment of bellringers is maintained the result will be almost certainly another silent tower. Our experiences at Cawthorne, in Yorkshire, are worthy of examination, and a few facts and figures will assist in the assessment of our efforts.

Since the ban was finally lifted in 1943, 22 beginners at Cawthorne have rung an extent of Minor (720 changes), a feat which is universally adopted rightly or wrongly as a standard of proficiency.

To date, of these 22 ringers, 13 have left the village and of these four or five are still ringing, which is bound to give us a little satisfaction; of the remainder, six are still ringing at Cawthorne more or less consistently, so with the two remaining pre-war ringers it is usually possible to man the bells for the two Sunday services, although at Evensong the attendance is poor. However, the position regarding method ringing and striking is not as good as it appears to be for of the six post-war ringers only one can be regarded as really proficient, so the ringing is elementary.

Regarding age groups, we have had considerable success with adults who are more stable in character attend consistently and can be relied upon more than the teenagers, who have little idea of reliance. As we have very comprehensive records at Cawthorne in the ringing chamber we can extract interesting facts which are useful to assess progress. Can other towers give their experiences so that a complete survey can be presented of the state of recruitment, methods of coaching, wastage, etc., during the post-war period? N. F. M.

ALL SAINTS', WEST BROMWICH

At the annual meeting of the ringers of All Saints', West Bromwich, on December 6th, held at the home of Mr. J. R. Cotterill (churchwarden), the rules of the Society were redrafted. Regarding membership, the classification of honorary membership was approved The Vicar (the Rev. J. F. Parker), who presided, and ringing curates are ex-officio honorary members.

The meeting unanimously elected Mr. Albert Mills as its first honorary member. He has been a regular ringer at this church since 1896 and was captain for some 60 years. Unfortunately ill-health has kept him away for several months, but he still takes a keen interest in the belfry.

The meeting concluded with an excellent buffet meal generously provided by Mr. and Mrs. Cotterill.

FIRST CHRISTMAS AS A SIX-BELL TOWER

St. Margaret's, Drayton, Norfolk, is planning great things this Christmas, the first that the church has had six bells. Apart from ringing for most services, the New Year will be heralded in in the traditional manner—half-muffled at the end of 1967 and the bells open in 1968

Since the hallowing last February, West Drayton bells have been in constant use in addition to Sunday ringing The church was host to the Norwich Diocesan Association for the annual striking competition, and two peals have been rung. The tower has 17 ringers including several young beginners Unfortunately there is still £375 outstanding on the £1,600 cost of the bells. Donations to meet this deficit should be sent to the Rector.

NOTTINGHAM UNIVERSITY TOURS SOUTH LEICESTERSHIRE

SO we organised an outing. Mind you, there was very little organisation and, after a while, any resemblance to an outing disappeared also. Nevertheless, N.U.S.C.R. ringers are not easily deterred, and the following is a thoroughly biased account of some of the activities of December 2nd.

The first stop was at Quorn, where we enjoyed a pleasant three-quarters of an hour on the recently rehung bells, although it was unfortunate that the electricians, who were working in the church, caused a black-out during our last touch . . . And so to Lutterworth, where the Master successfully fired up a course of Plain Bob Major, and Rosamund's handkerchief was put to good use muffling the model bell in the corner of the belfry. After being dragged away from such an excellently kept tower, we proceeded to Rugby to try to find some lunch (etc.!).

Suitably refreshed, we besieged the Church of St. Andrew, starting with its south-eastern tower containing eight fine bells. The change from this heavy eight to the light five in the west tower proved difficult. It was not until we had finished and descended the tower that we discovered one of our number, Stephen, had been locked out.

En route to Bilton we got lost; this can only be attributed to considerable confusion amongst the committee members! Nevertheless, we arrived and, ringing on the light six, worked up an appetite for tea which had been arranged for at the church bazaar. Then to Aylestone, where both Yorkshire Surprise Major and Erin Triples were rung.

The next hour proved more eventful than the rest of the day put together; aiming at Narborough we missed, and all that was necessary to redirect ourselves was to reverse the coach down a dual carriageway with the traffic speeding past on both sides! There were mixed reactions to the bells of Narborough, and Paul's acrobatic antics at the end of the tenor rope never ceased to amaze the local ringer. Rosamund resented the long walk between the church and the coach and brightly suggested that she should be carried. . . She soon changed her mind!

The last tower of the day was at Enderby, where the ringing was concluded with a fast, well-struck touch of Stedman Triples, followed by an even faster adjournment up the hill to the nearest hostelry. The final highlight of the day was the expression on Martin's face as his glass of barley wine was consumed by the rest of the party. .

Our thanks are due to all the incumbents and local ringers who made us welcome at each tower.

THE RINGING WORLD

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

No. 2958. Vol. LXIII FRIDAY, DECEMBER 29, 1967 Registered at the G.P.O for transmission as a newspaper. 9d.

AN EXCITING YEAR

THIS is the last issue of 1967, and unquestionably the most exciting year since the Editor took over the journal just after the termination of the second world war. The year started in an atmosphere of uncertainty: there was the thrill of the Mancroft issue of the previous month, the uncertainty of whether there would be even a committee to direct affairs and the belch of criticism erupting here and there, adding to general unpleasantness. This criticism had a salutary effect. It resulted in boldness on the part of the committee in authorising in the first place 20 cover issues for 1967, which gave the Editor not only a more attractive paper but that extra space to improve the variety of contents.

The excitement reached a fever point at Nottingham. It became apparent during the momentous debate when only one side of the picture was revealed, against carefully prepared and unexpected speeches of criticism, that there was still an atmosphere of antagonism and that the improvements already introduced had in no sense silenced the opposition.

Already the census, the brain-child of Messrs. Beresford and Pipe, had been filled in, and this important document, from the Editor's point of view when analysed by July, gave an unexpected glint of encouragement showing that 70 per cent of the readers were satisfied with the issue that accompanied the census.

There was, however, an important minority of 17 per cent which was dissatisfied. While some of the ideas included in the return have already been introduced, the Editor could not ignore some of the accusations made against him:

> "The Ringing World is very dull. Get professional advice on presentation and circulation. I know of one ringer who is in Fleet Street; his opinion is unprintable here."
>
> Another reads: "Standard deplorable—commission articles."
>
> "Kowtowing to people who have been ringing for 50 years or more and who have inflexible views of life and ringing."
>
> "Ruthless editing of turgid prose of some contributions and of the large number of vicious letters."
>
> "More judicious editing," and, next breath, "less editing of articles."
>
> "Go back to the format of Trollope."

Naturally there were desires for the replacement of the Editor and his failings were elaborated. The great advantage of all these criticisms, as far as the Editor was concerned, was that they were anonymous. Only Mr. Beresford and his assistants know who said this or that. The Editor has no desire to know; it would in some cases break his confidence in the average reader. But it is something that calls for humbleness in spirit despite a lifetime in journalism, and the friendship with many Fleet Street newspapermen.

This denouncement called for greater vitality and variety in pages and contents. From Nottingham cover issues were the rule until August and then from the second week of September until the last two issues of this year. When the committee met early in 1957 it was thought that 20 cover page issues were the maximum that could be produced without incurring loss. Messrs. Beresford and Pipe wanted a shilling "Ringing World" forthwith. This was strongly opposed by the Editor, who regarded it as bad psychology to plan a sales drive and at the same time increase the selling cost.

But there was evidence, as month succeeded month, that more and more readers were being attracted to the journal, and taking advantage of this movement the Convener gave his sanction to continue covers from September onwards, even if a loss up to £250 was incurred. The gratifying thing for the Editor was that when the committee met earlier this month the hon. treasurer, in consultation with the auditor and Mr. Jeater, was able to announce that the accounts up to the third week of November indicated an estimated balance of over £150.

The main contribution came from an increase of £784 in postal subscribers. In 14 issues the sales had passed the 6,000 mark, the highest being 6,111 on October 27th. The Editor gave consideration as to means of promoting a sales drive and came to the conclusion that the best contact with potential readers was where ringers assembled —at meetings and other gatherings. District secretaries on the whole have co-operated splendidly in selling or disposing of copies and this has meant a substantial addition to sales.

In one case a friendly suggestion was made by placing copies in newsagents' shops on sale or return. The problem is that there are probably more newsagents than ringers. The percentage of returns to sales is limited and the amount of clerical work in checking and forwarding accounts would absorb much money and need a bigger staff. To deal with this work and to help with stencilling the Editor engaged a clerical assistant for eight hours a week.

Now there has been a lot of confused thought on the relationship between the Editor and "The Ringing World" committee. The committee is not an editorial committee going into the day-to-day details of the working of the paper and its contents—that is the responsibility of the Editor. There are times when he consults the committee and others on points that arise and technical problems; also members of the committee help in the contribution of articles and features, but the legal onus rests with the Editor. To suggest that the committee cut this or that article or left out a particular letter is wrong. There is, however, a loyalty on the part of the Editor to the committee—and if practical their suggestions are carried out.

How to Make Your Ringing Meetings Worth While

Responsibilities of the Ringing Master

BY MAURICE THURMOTT,

(Ringing Master of the Western District, Yorkshire Association)

(Ringing Master of the Western District of the Yorkshire Association).

"Ringing meetings are a waste of time"—this is meant literally with the emphasis on the word "waste"—and can, I feel, be applied to very many meetings.

The interpretation of "waste" in this context is that the time spent is not being used as fully as it could be and Ringing Masters must take full responsibility for this state of affairs.

Too often meetings, while convivial occasions, leave ringers feeling dissatisfied. There are youngsters who have sat all the afternoon listening to the "experts" ringing advanced methods, and the experts who grumble—"all afternoon that wretched Ringing Master called for Plain Bob and Kent; we had only one decent touch of spliced and that was ruined by the treble, who missed every dodge in 5-6 down!"

BALANCE

I accept that this is an over-generalised view of the problem, but its purpose is to isolate and bring into prominence the importance of "balance" in the selection of methods so that the time available is used as constructively as possible.

It is very easy to say that "balance"—which I define as being a sequence of ringing giving all levels of ability equal opportunity—is the "key," but obviously the major problem is how to attain it.

Broadly, one can say that "balance" may only be achieved if the Ringing Master knows the interests—I was tempted to say "desires," but this is open to misinterpretation!—and capabilities of the ringers present, and this knowledge may be classified as "communication."

Preplanning of ringing—meaning the prior consideration of the possible sequences of methods—whilst an attractive idea, has obviously only a limited value since usually one has little advanced knowledge of the numbers and abilities of people likely to be at a meeting.

PERSONAL QUALITIES

Having briefly considered these two major factors in the organisation of ringing—namely "balance" and "communication," it is apposite to look at the personal qualities needed by the Ringing Master.

I do not subscribe to the theory that the Ringing Master should of necessity be capable of conducting Spliced Royal or even for that matter be able to ring it! Of more importance is that his ringing ability should command respect and for obvious reasons he should be able to conduct the standard methods. My personal view is that the "art" of conducting at meetings is in the delegation of this responsibility to others!

"Personality"—a popular and over-used word—is exhibited by the more extrovert of Ringing Masters, but this attribute is entirely unnecessary. The "control" of ringing should be as unobtrusive as possible, but this must not be confused with indecision.

On occasions it is vital that the Ringing Master should tactfully but firmly handle problems without giving offence. These problems fall into many categories, but probably two of the commonest are:—

(1) Inexperience of ringers—for example, the young lady ringer catching hold to ring a 20 cwt. tenor because "she rings the tenor at home."

(2) The determination of the Ringing Master of what is an acceptable standard of ringing at any particular time.

"PULLING TOGETHER"

One factor which emerges from this is that the Ringing Master should establish rapport between himself and the ringers—another term for this might be "pulling together." This reminds me of a story told of an annual District meeting where tower captains were reporting to the Guild president on the state of ringing in their particular tower.

One worthy climbed to his feet and—in a non-Yorkshire accent—declaimed: "Well, sir, we meets regular like, and our band be making progress and we pulls together"—at that point there came a voice from the back row: "Aye, and it b——well sounds like it, too!"

To summarise this section we have three key words dealing with the organisation of ringing: "Balance" by "communication" exercised by "control."

Having established this basic pattern for organisation we now look at the purpose of meetings and the various types encountered.

POPULAR MEETINGS

Firstly meetings provide opportunities for social contact, personal advancement and the promotion of ringing generally. Secondly there are two main types of meetings, (i) the "popular" meeting as typified by the District monthly or Association quarterly, and (ii) the "practice" meeting.

The "popular" meeting needs a varied programme of ringing tailored to the usually continually fluctuating company of ringers.

Its organisation should be based on the following principles:—

(i) The first piece of ringing in any period should be of the highest quality possible, commensurate with the ringers available, so as to set a standard of striking.

(ii) The handling of ringing for the less experienced should be by rounds, call changes and plain hunting as appropriate, consisting of very short periods interleaved between the other methods at frequent intervals.

(iii) As a basis, ringing should never take place on a less number of bells than there are in the tower—depending obviously on the number of ringers present. The only exception is probably a 12-bell tower where 10-bell ringing would be acceptable.

(iv) Psychologically it is bad to follow a very good piece of ringing by a very poor performance of a similar type. For example, to follow an excellent course of Yorkshire by a poor course of Double Norwich (or vice versa!) gives an unfavourable impression, whereas call changes—although probably as badly struck—are acceptable because a high standard, whilst desirable, is not expected in quite the same way!

(v) Expect a high standard of ringing—you might one day get it!

Practically, the Ringing Master will spend his time asking individuals what they would like to ring, planning the programme accordingly and standing with anyone needing a watchful eye on his performance. Occasionally he may ring himself when the bands for a particular method are either one short or weak.

SOLID HARD WORK

Practice meetings are very different. People have come either to practise particular methods or to gain tuition generally. Whilst a friendly atmosphere is essential, the whole approach should be one of solid hard work. As methods are rung, persons sitting out should not spend their time chatting to friends, but should be following the work of one of the bells or "putting the polish" on the methods they themselves have been learning at home.

Also ringers should be encouraged to overcome their natural diffidence in attempting methods which they may consider beyond their capabilities. It is a "waste of time" to ring Bob Major when a person knows the method and with encouragement and practical help can ring a plain course of Kent Major.

The sequence of ringing is not as critical as in the "popular" meeting, since of its nature the variety of methods will be limited. However, in accepting this approach, the Ringing Master should be flexible enough to ring a short touch of spliced for the core of ringers who may have travelled 40 miles to help the local area members to practise Plain Bob and Grandsire.

THE ADVERTISEMENT

The advertisement of meetings is generally the secretary's job but, in the case of practice meetings, the Ringing Master should ensure that the methods for practice are included. Care in selection is necessary to attract the ringers at whom the practice is specifically aimed.

If one accepts that an Association should take responsibility for the promotion of ringing in its area, then the Ringing Master is in a unique position to take the initiative.

The opportunities of "popular" and practice meetings to give help can be extended by the organisation of individual help if it is wanted. This latter point is critical since, whilst many people may need help, it is only with those who want help that endeavours of this sort can succeed. Obviously direct help to towers has to be tactfully handled since any suggestion of interference or patronisation would naturally be resented.

All schemes of assistance should not be considered as being permanent—as experience is gained, the bands being helped should not only be able to "stand on their own feet" but be able to start helping others.

THE MATCHBOX STRIKES AGAIN

MEMBERS of George ("Matchbox") Bonham's peal tour held their reunion in St. Neots at the beginning of December. George had laid on accommodation, four peal attempts and a visit to the St. Albans ringers' social. The hotel was cold, three of the four peals rung might have been better, and as for the social . . . . Nevertheless everyone enjoyed the week-end immensely.

Those too ill and infirm to go to work on Friday stayed in St. Neots on Thursday night or else arrived on Friday morning at Trumpington, the first tower. Here we met Andrew Slade, for whom the prospect of a peal of Bristol was enough to get him to set out cycling from Cheshunt at 6 a.m.! The bells are effortless to ring, and a very good peal, including three "firsts," was rattled off in fair time.

In the afternoon we rang at St. Andrew-the-Great, Cambridge. Although a reasonable peal of Lincolnshire was rung, one felt that justice had not quite been done. However, 100 per cent., so back in good heart to St. Neots for a slide show of previous tours, cauliflowers and Philip Mehew's different-sized feet, at the Bellamy abode.

Saturday morning a new "match," Jonathan Porter, was welcomed to the "box." Everyone was looking forward to the noble, heavy eight at St. Neots Parish Church, where Yorkshire was to be the method. Before the peal, David Rothera and George were pulling up their bells, the former having difficulty getting his to strike.

David: "Keep your bell quiet, Bonham, I can't hear mine when you're ringing yours."

George: "Oh well, this won't be a very good peal."

The peal was rung, and had all changes come up as well as Queens no one could have been disappointed, but it was generally agreed that the ringing had been too quick.

George's usual timing had left us little time to get to Aspenden for an attempt at Pudsey. The bells are a little ground-floor job with a long draught. As "Go" was called, everyone collapsed in mirth at the sight of George ambling off in search of his sally, causing the first change to fire up. Sallies proved very elusive during the peal, but we scored, and indeed some parts were very good. Straight off to St. Albans for the social.

Hence it is not surprising that Sunday ringing consisted of Bob Doubles on the front five. Cobwebs were removed by a walk round the town, meeting Mr. Bonham senior, a larger version of the same basic model. One or two were then off to King's Lynn, while the rest went to Litlington, where Bob Minor was all one felt capable of ringing.

This was the end of the week-end, the party splitting up in Royston. Thanks are due to the incumbents who allowed us the use of their bells, to George for his organisation, and everyone else who helped to make the week-end a success.

LUCIFER.

GUILD OF DEVONSHIRE RINGERS

Over 40 members and friends attended a successful annual general meeting of the North and North West Branch at Halwill on November 18th. The Rev. E. J. Welch conducted the service and welcomed the members, and the Rev. J. Richards gave the address. The ladies of the church provided an excellent tea.

At the business meeting the Rev. Shepheard-Walwyn was re-elected chairman, Mr. R. Pearce secretary and treasurer, and Mr. C. Sangwin Ringing Master. Messrs. Queen, Shepherd and Vince were appointed to the General Committee.

Sixteen new members were elected—eight from Shebbear College and eight from Westleigh. The evening ringing was enjoyed at Holsworthy.

Handbell Honours for Australia's Gift

"THERE are plenty of variations of 'Waltzing Matilda,' Australia's 'National Anthem,' around—but few people from Down Under have heard it done with handbells. So the annual giant Christmas Pudding Presentation at Australia House on December 6th could start a new craze."

Such were the opening words of the Australian Trade News Sheet handed out to the Press when this ceremony took place on December 6th. The honour of playing this tune went to the boys of the De Brome Handbell Ringing Society, whose leader, Mr. C. T. Richards, had been approached by Mr. H. Rogers, Master of the London County Association. The request originated from the padre of St. Clement Danes' Church, which, being adjacent to Australia House, has close links with the activities that take place there and provided carol singers for this occasion.

Although the presentation of the 160 lb. Christmas pudding from the High Commissioner of Australia to the Lord Mayor of London has been established over the past 12 successive years, this was the first time handbells had been rung, and the boys in the accompanying photograph are to be commended for the excellent performance that they gave on the 15 handbells used.

The boys in our picture (left to right) are: H. Wilson, P. Kerry, J. Lee, A. Waite, R. Mitchell, P. Ireland, G. Hill and R. Mileham.

Mansfield District

The November meeting of the Mansfield District was held at Eastwood on the 25th and during the afternoon the very fine eight attracted ringers from as far afield as Leeds and Leicestershire. Unfortunately, owing to a wedding, ringing was adjourned for a while, leaving very little time before tea. Visitors, however, were given priority and the newly-weds, at least, were fortunate, as they emerged to the sound of Grandsire followed by three leads of Treble Bob.

The service in the modern and well-planned church, so recently completed, was a pleasant experience and afterwards, at tea, the Rector, the Rev. D. E. Goodman, together with the Rev. John Ruffle, were sincerely thanked for an extremely thoughtful order of service and address

During the evening District members were well catered for and methods rung varied from Plain Bob to Cambridge Surprise. We look forward to a return visit before very long.

Next meeting: District annual, Mansfield. January 27th. D. J. B.

From the beginning of January there is to be a wage increase in the printing industry; there is also an increase in the price of paper due to devaluation. As a first step towards getting additional revenue, the price of all notices will be increased with the next issue to a minimum of 5s. and 2d. a word instead of 1½d. beyond 30. The price of displayed notices at 7s. 6d. an inch will remain. The position will be reviewed at the next committee meeting in March.

Two things will enable a staple selling price to be maintained—the continuance of the present rate of circulation increase and donations accompanying peals and quarter peals. We have been warned about new postal charges. These will have to be passed on to postal subscribers, but it is to be hoped that the basic selling price will remain firm. Much, however, depends on the new production charge for wages and paper; that figure cannot be finalised until the economic position of the country is on a firmer foundation.

The letters received of late encourages the Editor to think that the improved paper has greatly increased the percentage of satisfied readers. The many new contributors have infused a freshness of outlook and we go forward into 1968 with a good heart, conscious that certain difficulties that shook "The Ringing World" and its Editor to the very foundations have been overcome and that those at the head are now braced up to meet the problems ahead

The Exercise and its handmaiden, "The Ringing World," has been richly blessed in the past 56 years and it is with a thankful acknowledgment of the goodness of an unseen hand throughout the past years that we enter into 1968 with courage ready to fulfil the duties and responsibilities placed upon us as faithful servants of His Church.

Your Best Appreciation of the new "Ringing World"

RULES GOVERNING RECORD LENGTHS

Dear Sir,—It has been my intention for some time to write on the subject mentioned by B. J. Woodruffe, namely the failure to comply with Central Council rules before attempting new record lengths.

I do so now to point a weakness in the wording of these rules. Section I does not say the figures must appear with the notice seven days previously. It is Section III which deals with the figures without mentioning any date for publication. With two possible meanings, one can say A. Ainsworth is in order and F. G. Petts and S. Humphrey are not. It appears my 18,368 of Yorkshire has been beaten on paper and I have been waiting since July to see the figures as required by the rules.—Yours sincerely,

JOHN SEGAR.

Skegness, Lincs.

NEW EIGHTS

Dear Sir,—When I am not ringing peals, etc., I get a great deal of pleasure out of listening to Radio Caroline on my radio.

To my amazement, last Sunday a record called "The Bells of San Francisco" came on the air. I myself did not know there was a ring of eight bells in San Francisco, but it is plain for all to hear—eight bells ringing through this pop record.

Could this be another instance to which the Rev. Peter Bond refers in his letter (page 874), of a new ring of bells having been installed without letting the ringing populace know about it?—Yours sincerely,

TONY LEWIS.

Chislehurst, Kent.

DORSET TOWERS

Dear Sir,—As the Rev. Peter Bond mentions a Dorset tower—Halstock, by the sound of it—in his letter (December 1st) appealing for news about bell restorations, here is a list of the "new" and "unringable" towers in that county:

Augmentations and restorations: Thorncombe, five to eight; Melbury Osmond, Milborne St. Andrew and Stourpaine, five to six; Halstock, rehung in new frame; Gillingham, rehung in existing frame; Beaminster and Yetminster, restoration in hand.

Bells at present unavailable for ringing due to state of fabric: Milton Abbey and St. Peter's, Shaftesbury, long-term; Frampton and Powerstock, short-term.

Bells unavailable for ringing due to bad or antiquated bellhanging: Cerne Abbas, Corfe Castle, Hinton Martel, Mappowder and Sandford Orcas.

That leaves Cheselbourne, where the bell-frame and fittings are in a state of total collapse; Folke, where the bells are still on the church floor; Kingston, where the clappers are (? partially) missing and supposed to be being overhauled locally; and Toller Whelme, a "chime" of five steel bells capable of being rung full-circle.

Branksea or Brownsea Church has four bells and not five, as given in "Dove."

This information is, to the best of my knowledge, correct and complete at the time of writing. I hope that it will be of use to anyone interested in Dorset or arranging an outing there.—Yours faithfully,

CHRISTOPHER DALTON.

St. Margaret's, Middlesex.

DOUBLE MAJOR METHODS

Dear Sir,—The survey of Double Major methods by W. J. Cooper-Bailey introduces a series of methods with an interest of their own which has interested me for some time. As I obtained Table "a" in an hour or so a couple of years ago I expect the computer took only a few seconds! (other than programming, etc.).

I have found several interesting facts: Firstly, plain methods with right places only. (Remember there is one such Minimus method!) There are three R.P. Double Plain Minor methods and still three Major, while at the Royal stage only five, not a very large increase (excluding those with unusable l.h's).

There are no odd-bell Double methods with one hunt bell, as these contain an even number of leads and therefore both turning points must be together, i.e. at h.l. or l.e. However, as all right place plain even-bell methods extend to the next odd number by adding a hunt bell, we have the same number of Double methods as above, viz.: One Double Doubles method (out of three pure Doubles methods), three Triples (out of 11), three Caters (out of 32), five Cinques (out of 70-odd), etc.

Double Minor methods on the T.B. principle are not worth considering as 5ths place is necessary without the treble; also, a single change is necessary if the 2nds place is situated as usual.

Turning to T.B. type Major methods, there do not appear to be any right place Double methods in either the Treble Bob proper or Delight classes but I find two out of 20 Double Exercise methods.

Mr. Cooper-Bailey has covered the Surprise class in his Table "b" but I do not see any point in including those methods with more than two places either side of the treble, other than because two of them have been rung already.

The note on intrinsic falseness (Case II) and Table "c" would, I believe, be unnecessary without them. There are 31 perfectly good methods without them and once we allow two such changes per h.l. we will soon have methods with four or more! If one wants a stagnant method to splice in for variety or musical effect there are some perfectly good ones to choose from (e.g. Derwent) without having lots of places in a row. But that is only a personal opinion.

The extension of Double methods poses more problems, some of which appeared in "The Ringing World" of January 6th, 1967 (which would appear to uncover a loophole in the Central Council report on extension) and which the compiling of tables of methods greatly helps to solve.

Anyway, I will leave further tables for the computer people to compile!—Yours sincerely,

DAVID W. STRUCKETT.

Haslemere, Surrey.

CONGRATULATIONS

Dear Sir, — I write to congratulate Mr. Roger Bailey and his band on their achievement in raising the Surprise Minor record to 70 methods in seven extents.—Yours sincerely,

HOWARD W. EGGLESTONE.

Claydon, Ipswich.

TREATMENT OF VISITORS

Dear Sir,—Regarding complaints about bad reception to visitors, Mr. Kenneth Lewis's friend did not meet with sheer rudeness at Washington; he was the victim of unfortunate circumstances, which is far different. The Washington tower (and no superlative can add to my "laudatory" letter regarding its magnificence—Frank Price and George Pipe will bear me out) ringers are pleased to meet ringers from "the Old Country" (evidence of this is in the visitors book) and only a few weeks previous to my visit to that beautiful edifice five visitors from England rang with them and were received, as I was, at face value (not literally). Your friend, Mr. Lewis, was a victim of an unfortunate circumstance and not rudeness, and I hope to be received again in a few months' time as I was before.

My District chairman was on holiday in Plymouth, Devon, and was made welcome and rang in all the method towers he visited in the city; however, he went to the only call change tower and was completely, repeat completely, ignored, and at 9.15 p.m., when the bells were lowered, the company left with no "goodnight"—not one word! He has been a peal ringer for 23 years, conducting as well all the way up the scale. Exquisite rudeness!

My Deputy Ringing Master was sure a friend would manage to arrange for him to ring at Westminster Abbey; he has rung at most of the London towers. His friend was told by the tower captain that the rule was that "no visitors in any circumstances" and added "Please don't turn up, and avoid any embarrassment." Visitors are not countenanced by this exclusive band but, strangely enough, visiting bands may ring on their own if fortunate enough to get the chance, which is a problem rarely solved. Both my chairman and Deputy Ringing Master are members of a well-known Society (circumlocution, Mr. Lewis?) and prolific peal ringers, too!—Yours sincerely,

GEORGE E. BEAVIS.

Andover.

Note.—The rule about visitors at Westminster Abbey was not made by the ringers. They have to obey the dictates of those above them.—Ed.

THE SECRET IS BELL CONTROL

Dear Sir, — I do appreciate the straight words of the Leicester Guild Ringing Master. He is one of the few of our fraternity who take a view and dare to state it. I am with you, sir, and may I say that the Leicester Guild is not unique in itself for, believe me, there are others.

We have read a lot about bell control, which I think is one of the biggest factors in campanology, and this is the reason for my letter. I feel that 75 per cent. of our fraternity have not given this enough thought. Many times I have seen ringing and heard the sound of bells and I imagine that had there been an egg attached to the back stroke rest in very many cases it would still have been there as whole as ever.

To all our people I mention this feature, for the sooner the pupil can control his bell at hand and back, the sooner your statement of the many people interested in self-glorification will fade away, for they would greatly appreciate the value of it.—Yours faithfully,

JOSEPH BURGESS.

Friezland.

OLD DAYS RECALLED

Dear Sir,—I would like to congratulate Mr. P. Amos on his article concerning coins on bells. His mention of Haselbech Church was of great interest to me as it was here in 1905 that I learned to handle a bell on the old four. I was then a garden boy at Haselbech House, where there were three gardeners living in a bothy. As it was a very quiet place we were glad to join the ringers, who were under Mr. Bert Faulkner and a younger brother.

We also stoked the boiler to heat the church and sat around the fire in the stokehole playing ha'penny nap. At times we had a quart of "black and tan" stout, costing 4d., and a packet of Woodbines for 1d. Sometimes we all went to a practice at Naseby (a heavy five with a tenor reputed to weigh half a ton). They had a call change band and used to play simple hymn tunes like "Now the day is over" in whole pulls. I have never heard that done since. The very good sixes at Kelmarsh and Maidwell were also visited.

When the bells at Haselbech were augmented to a ring of eight I was head gardener at Donningham Priory, Newbury, Berks, and a ringer at St. Nicholas', Newbury. In that year (1933) the ringers at Newbury raised funds to pay for the two trebles to augment the old Wells eight to the lovely ten. I wrote to Miss Ismay, of Haselbech Hall, and told her what we were trying to do at Newbury and received a cheque for 10s. I raised £10 10s. towards that fund and carved the memorial tablet because we had no funds to buy one. — Yours faithfully, ALFRED J. WHITTLE.

HANDBELL PEAL IN MONMOUTHSHIRE

Dear Sir,—Mr. Brian Woodruffe's letter regarding the extension of Cardiff into Monmouthsnire in 1937 is misleading.

The Bill was strongly opposed in the House of Lords by Lord Raglan, whose pro-English sympathies were very well known, because he did not want any part of Monmouthshire to be brought within any future "Home Rule for Wales" arrangement. Cardiff's counsel argued that there was very little in this point since, historically, Monmouthshire had always been claimed as a part of Wales, but to overcome the difficulty a clause was inserted providing that "nothing in this Act shall alter the boundary between the county of Glamorgan and the County of Monmouth." In other words, although Rumney is administered by Cardiff for the sake of convenience, it remains a part of Monmouthshire.

That this is still the position has been shown only recently. Commenting upon the traffic chaos after the snow, and quoting a Monmouthshire County Council spokesman, the "South Wales Argus" reported that "two of the county's major roads were completely impassable for several hours, the main road between Newport and Cwmbran and the Newport to Cardiff road at Rumney Hill." The spokesman continued, however, that the trouble at Rumney Hill was not the County Council's responsibility and was being dealt with by Cardiff City Council.—Yours faithfully,

Newport. LESLIE BAINHAM.

N.Z. First Resident Surprise Band

The band who rang the peal of Cambridge Surprise Minor at Christchurch Cathedral, New Zealand, on November 18th. This was the first peal of Surprise by a band resident in New Zealand.

The ringers are (left to right): Back row, N. F. Reeve, J. H. G. Gardner, Dr. Ronald J. Johnston, Dr. R. G. T. Bennett. Front row, Dr. P. J. Perry and R. H. Idle (conductor).

Five of the band had had quite a lot of experience of ringing in Britain with competent bands. The photograph was taken by Peter Parry, who could not take part in the peal because he was "guarding" his bands for a forthcoming organ examination.

SUFFOLK VETERANS MEET AT LEISTON

WHAT more appropriate venue for the annual get-together of Suffolk worthies than St. Margaret's, Leiston! For nearly 40 years this tower made history in name and deed—Gabriel Lindoff, Richard Stannard, the remarkable eight Bailey brothers, Jim Rumsey, Charles Sampson, George Wilson and a host of others. Surprise Major at its very best under that extraordinary conductor Charles F. Bailey, who apart from calling 100 consecutive peals of Surprise on Leiston bells, accompanied many of Stedman Caters and Cinques with his own brethren.

And so on Tuesday, December 12th, with peal boards recording those vintage years from 1888 to 1928 looking down on us in Leiston belfry, ten of Suffolk's veterans met for their annual ring, tea and reminiscences. And how they enjoyed themselves! Stedman and Grandsire Triples, Double Norwich and Oxford Major, with an average age of over 79 years.

Tea was taken in a quiet room ("We don't want any o' that Rock 'n' Roll") decorated for the festive season and lit by lamps and candles—just right for the old 'uns to relax and chat about bygone days. Tales of famous ringers who had visited Ipswich and surroundings over the last half-century; ringing in London; our own men who had passed on: the Catchpoles and the Motts, Tillett, Brundle, Garrett and Souter, Winney and Grimes, the Borretts and the Wightmans and a score of others.

Gilbert Goodship produced the menu of the 1932 Croydon ringers' gathering, covered with autographs of great names of the Exercise, College Youths, Cumberlands and provincial Guilds alike. There were photographs in that delightful sepia colour of the camera's early days, and George Symonds' imitation of John Rogers calling Grandsire Cinques at St. Martin's-in-the-Fields 60 years ago. "His chest started to swell when the Tribble was in sixths place; by the time she was in 4ths he'd got his wind and then . . . 'Booooorrr . . . BBB' to turn the big bells!!"

Everyone made a little speech and the youngest, Leonard Last, thanked Jim and George Pipe for making the arrangements for the afternoon and providing the tea. Jim (who qualifies himself in eight years' time!) expressed his privilege at being able to organise such a pleasant annual gathering and read good wishes from four who were unable to be present—James Bennett, Ernest S. Bailey, Charles Beecroft and Charles Fisher.

Handbells were enjoyed and concluded a happy afternoon.

The company: George Symonds (92 years 5 months), Frederick Crapnell (85–9), Charles Sedgley (80–10), Gilbert Goodship (79–3), J. S. Gordon Haggar (77–6), George Finch (77–3), Harry Hall (77–2), Willoughby Maulden (76–7), Percy May (72–4) and Leonard Last (71–1).

JOINT MEETING AT NORTH WINGFIELD

Despite the wintry weather some 40 members and friends were present when the Derby Diocesan Association (Chesterfield District) and the East Derbyshire and West Notts Association held a joint meeting at North Wingfield on December 9th. After a short ring in the afternoon on the 18 cwt. octave, the Rector (the Rev. N. Joyce) conducted a ringers' service. Later he presided over the business meeting, which followed an excellent tea in the school rooms.

Presenting his fifth annual report, the Chesterfield District secretary (Mr. M. Phipps) was pleased to record continued good attendance at meetings, the election of over 20 new members for the second year in succession and a most successful ringers' party at Old Whittington, which realised £16 towards the Cathedral Extension Appeal. Particularly pleasing was the affiliation of yet another new tower—Eckington—bringing the total to 16, which was a record for the District.

Following a detailed report on the District's ringing activities during the last year by the retiring Ringing Master (Mr. D. Davis), the officers for 1968 were elected as follows: Chairman, Mr. J. Arkwell (Old Bampton); vice-chairman, Mr. J. Timons (North Wingfield); secretary, Mr. M. Phipps (Chesterfield); committee, Miss M. Yarnold (Staveley) and Miss S. Heeley (Wingerworth); Ringing Master, Mr G. Newman (Old Whittington). Four new members were elected, namely: Miss A. Clark (Chesterfield), Mr. R. Trebilcock (Dronfield) and Mr. G. Freeman and Miss P. Booker (North Wingfield).

OBITUARY

MR. ERNEST H. SIMPSON

The Exercise is very much the poorer by the passing of Ernest Simpson, of Saltaire, Bradford, who died in St. Luke's Hospital, Bradford, on December 8th, aged 85 years. Although completely deaf he continued ringing right up to the end and was only in hospital a matter of hours. His wife predeceased him in July last, a blow from which he hardly recovered, as they had been very happily married for almost 56 years.

Ernest commenced his ringing career in the Lavenham district of Suffolk and came to Bradford prior to the first world war, settling down in Shipley and ringing at St. Paul's Church, where he was tower captain for over 40 years until the bells were declared unsafe for ringing. He then joined the Cathedral band at Bradford and continued there until about 1959. By this time he was becoming very deaf and as travelling was rather difficult he joined the nearby tower at Bingley, where he continued right up to the end—although by now he was completely deaf.

He was a very able conductor and rang most methods. His peal list includes many Surprise methods and he was just as at home on twelve bells as on six. He will be particularly remembered for his interest in young ringers and was never happier than when putting them through their first 720's and, later, their first peals. He must have taught many hundreds to handle a bell and always gave them encouragement and an urge to tackle new methods.

After serving in the Army during the first world war he came back to Shipley and was a great source of strength to most of the towers in the area, where he attended practice nights on many nights during the week. Surprise methods were just becoming popular and Ernest did sterling work in helping many to master the intricacies of Cambridge, Superlative, London, etc.

Now another of the "old school" has passed on, but he will be fondly remembered by many for a long time

Three Peals in Northern Ireland

ALREADY the details of the three peals in Northern Ireland by Jonathan S. N. Porter's party during their week-end in November have been published, on page 880.

A month after the event G. E. T. tells the story of this second visit to Ireland this year, the previous trip being last April. Seven of the band assembled at Hendon, a sea crossing from Heysham being planned. An incident en route was the stopping of Martyn Jordan's car by the police—not for speeding, but for the waste paper throwing by his passenger!

HANDBELLS UPSET CONCENTRATION

Only three berths had been secured by Jonathan. Lots were cast and the lucky ones were Dave Roberts, Bob Dennis and Martyn Jordan, the remainder settling in the lounge. It was a calm crossing, the last leg being through Belfast Lough, where handbells were brought out. Only a half-course of Stedman Triples was accomplished when the captain sent word that his concentration was being disturbed. And no wonder! The four concerned had chosen the "bridge" of all places as a ringing room!!

After docking at 7 a.m. there was a picturesque train journey to Bangor. The afternoon attempt that day was at Holywood, where John Lindsey, of Carrickfergus, joined the party, and a successful peal of Rutland Surprise Major was conducted by Jonathan. A disturbance towards the end was later discovered to have been caused by an enthusiastic organist trying to gain admittance to the church. At Bangor that night Mr. and Mrs. Porter kindly entertained the band to supper, and the B.B.C. Symphony Orchestra provided the final entertainment of the day.

Saturday dawned bright and we arrived on time at Dundela, where Harry Brown, "a Yorkshireman in exile," joined up for a fairly fast peal of Cambridge Royal. For Harry and John this was their first of Surprise Royal, and they performed very well. Later, over a Chinese meal, the Archdeacon of Bangor extended his good wishes.

RACE AGAINST TIME

The peal at Bangor (Spliced Surprise in eight methods) could not be started until after shopping hours. There were just four hours in which to ring the peal and travel 13 miles to catch the boat in Belfast. At the end of the first part there were anxious looks. It had taken 33 minutes, and at that speed the boat would have been missed. However, Jonathan speeded things up and the peal was finished in under three hours. The journey to Belfast was not without excitement; seven were packed into a land rover and it was not long before a puncture was discovered. A lightning wheel change enabled the boat to be caught with five minutes to spare.

It was again a calm journey, and after breakfast at Lancaster, through the good services of Mr. Rainford, the ten bells at the R.C. Cathedral were sampled. An extra peal at Worsley, arranged by Jeff Brannan, came to grief through a broken rope. Delays were experienced on the M.1 through several multiple crashes, and Hendon was not reached until 10 p.m.

Our thanks to Jonathan, incumbents and Irish friends for making the party so welcome.

ST. LUKE'S, "CHELSEA", OUTING

Perhaps St. Luke's, Chelsea, is a misnomer, as the party organised by Mr. Frank Udall on September 16th included ringers from other towers such as Battersea, Clapham Common, Deptford, Isleworth, Putney and Rotherhithe.

The tour was one which appealed to ringers and non-ringers alike. First tower was St. Thomas of Canterbury, Salisbury, and, while ringing under the supervision of Michael Wycherley took place, there was ample time for others to visit the Cathedral or wander around the city, which is still largely mediæval. Lunch was taken at the N.A.A.F.I. Club.

The journey to Wimborne was through some of the wilder parts of Dorset and past the ruined church at Knowlton. Tradition has it that Knowlton's bells were stolen in the 18th century by some people from Sturminster Marshall, who, being hotly pursued, dropped the bells in the River Stour, from which they have never recovered. The glorious ring at Wimborne Minster is one of the finest products of Gillett and Johnston, and here, under the supervision of Frank Udall, rounds, Grandsire, Stedman, Kent and Cambridge were rung.

The Murduck family, from Kingsclere, met us at Romsey, and tea at the Victoria Restaurant (highly recommended) preceded ringing on the bells of quality at the Abbey. The bells were described by different enthusiasts in the party as "mellow," "husky," "meaty" and "grand." Ken Rider looked after the ringing, which included a good half-course of Yorkshire. We were late arriving at Alton, but under Bob Cooles' direction several methods, including Bristol, were rung in the limited time available.

All in all it was a thoroughly successful day. To all who helped to make the outing such a success, especially Frank, the coach driver, the clergy and those who welcomed us, our sincere thanks.

COLSTON BASSETT, NOTTS.—On Nov. 28th, 1,264 Plain Bob Major: I. Mayfield 1, A. Simpson 2, D. Osborne 3, A. Newell 4, N. Handley 5, S. Adams 6, R. Stretton (cond.) 7, D. Oliver 8. By the Ruddington Sunday service band.

NEWS FROM WASHINGTON

The Whitechapel Guild rang their first quarter of the academic year—Grandsire Triples—on November 25th. It was conducted by Richard S. Dirksen and included four first quarters.

A reunion of Washington ringers is planned for December 27th and 28th, when they hope to be joined by Geoffrey Davies, Eric Roberts and Derek Sawyer. The event will culminate in an attempt for a peal of Grandsire Caters on the morning of December 28th.

With such an encouraging prospect, we in this country wish the Washington Guild every success and happiness in 1968. May the new entrants to the Exercise be imbued with the same enthusiasm and determination that was displayed by the pioneer teams.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Stedman Cinques will be heard from Holy Trinity Church, Kingston-upon-Hull, prior to the morning service on Sunday, December 31st, at 11 a.m., on Anglia Television and other channels.

The service on A.B.C. Television on Christmas Eve will be televised live from Manchester Cathedral at 11.55 p.m. It is hoped that the Cathedral bells will be heard before the service.

Mr. Alan Ward informs us that regarding the 25th anniversary celebrations of the victory of El Alamein (see page 892), the ringing was at St. Mary's, Prestwich, Lancs, and not at Prestwick.

Regarding the recent peal by Post Office engineers to mark the 21st anniversary of the opening of the Post Office Central Training School at Stone, Ray Balls, of the Telephone Manager's Office, Regent Street, Cambridge, would be pleased to hear from other Post Office engineers interested in peal ringing.

Mr. R. E. Manton informs us that the peal of Major at Melton Mowbray on December 8th by the Sunday service band was the culmination of several years' hard work by those participating. This included a series of quarter peals and a previous peal attempt which came to grief at the halfway mark.

The peal at Dorchester Abbey on December 1st (page 921) was rung for the Oxford University Society and not for the Oxford Diocesan Guild, as published. The error is regretted.

The quarter peal at St. Mary's, Brixham, was the first for over 30 years. It was conducted by Brixham's "junior ringer," "Plain Bob" Edden.

May we remind the 728 readers who said in the recent census they would undertake to get one new subscriber that January 1st is a good time to start. About 360 have fulfilled their obligation.

Easthampstead, Berks, has now had two cases of fathers calling first quarters for their offspring. First came Graham Scott and now we hear of Sue Rance taking this first step in her ringing career. This makes encouraging reading.

The quarter peal rung at Mortlake on December 2nd was believed to be the first on the bells by an all-local band since the 1930's. There were four ringers attempting their first quarter, and one her second. Good progress has been made in the last 12 months, and the thanks of the band go to ringers at Putney and Barnes for their patient help.

BENTLEY COMMON SAY FAREWELL TO POPULAR VICAR

Gratitude was expressed by the Bentley Common ringers at their annual supper attended by over 60 guests on December 2nd to the Rev. and Mrs. Parry, who were leaving the parish during the coming week. The tower master, Mr. R J. Brown, thanked the Vicar for always allowing the ringers free use of the bells and for words of encouragement if a particular piece of ringing had been exceptionally well struck He (Mr. Brown) only regretted that this, due to the quality of the ringing. happened all too infrequently.

In his reply the Vicar said the ringers at Bentley were a great asset to the church—not only as loyal bellringers but as good church members, and they were also his very good friends.

Later in the evening, after various games and some hilarious entertainment by the local band, one of the younger members, Miss Catherine Hardy, presented a clock to the Rev. and Mrs. Parry of behalf of all the Bentley ringers. The evening then concluded with everyone singing "Auld Lang Syne."

Unfortunately the plan to ring two farewell quarter peals on Advent Sunday did not materialise. The attempt at Bob Minor in the morning came to an untimely end (very late nights and morning quarters do not mix). The second attempt, for Evensong, in three methods of Doubles with the tenor covering, was successfully brought home, much to the joy of all the band.

TWO QUEEN'S GUIDES

Two Nottinghamshire girls, Helen Simpson and Winifred Fotherby, received their Queen's Guide badges on December 7th, an occasion worthy of mention at any time but in this instance more so.

Winifred rings now at Eastwood, where she augments a struggling but hard-working band.

Helen rings at Greasley, where, in addition to obtaining her Guide's bellringing badge early, ringing naturally became the service necessary for the Queen's badge.

Interest and ability have culminated in Helen having conducted three quarter peals of Doubles at Greasley this year, the first before her 15th birthday, being well supported all the way by her friends, Margaret, Barbara and Alison. Greasley salutes the Guide movement.

VETERANS' QUARTER AT NORTH CADBURY

Six veteran ringers of the Cary and Ilchester Branch of the Bath and Wells Association met at St. Nicholas' Church, North Cadbury, on Sunday, November 26th, to ring their annual quarter peal of 1,260 Doubles. Those taking part were H Creed (Castle Cary) 1, W. Osborn (Galhampton) 2, J. Farthing (Yeovil) 3, G. W. Rendell (Hardington Mandeville, cond.) 4, C. Vowles (Yetminster) 5, H. J. Jones (Ansford) 6. The combined age of the ringers is 428 years, and their total number of ringing years is 344.

CO-OPERATION WANTED

In reply to a request by the Rev. Peter N. Bond, Mr. Alan F. Scholfield and others, we are ready to reserve space on the Bellfounders' Gift Page for news of restorations, rehangings and augmentations. Will local tower correspondents and others kindly co-operate?

ST. ALBANS ABBEY RINGERS

(Tune: "Eton Boating Song.")

We are the St. Albans ringers,
We're Hertfordshire's pride and cream,
Every Sunday we ring at the Abbey,
Just to please the Dean.
We only ring "X" Surprise Maximus,
We're such an experienced team,
So down with the Association,
And up with the District cream.

We don't believe in learners,
We've plenty of ringers to sell,
We support all professional ringers,
In fact we're doing quite well.
So that when we ring on Sundays,
They pay us ten guineas a bell,
So down with the Association,
And Gerald can go to ? ? ? ?

Now at our last business meeting,
With all the money we made,
It was decided to purchase the Abbey,
And bulldoze it into the lake.
But when we informed the Bishop,
He began to tremble and shake,
So he sacked all the mighty professionals
And installed a magnetic tape.

We intended to replace the Abbey
With a tower 600 feet tall,
A 95 cwt. tenor,
Which would take three Borders to haul.
But now we are all redundant,
We find no tower too small,
So we've joined the Association,
And that's how the mighty can fall.

SNOWED OFF

The Western Division of the Sussex Association had to cancel its meeting for December 9th at Felpham because roads were impassable. It was a big disappointment as 50 notifications for tea had been received and Pagham bells, for the first time after rehanging, were also available. No one can remember a meeting at Pagham There is a keen local band here who ring twice on Sundays and have regular practices. There was also to have been an hour on Aldwick's four bells. Great hopes are being entertained that two more bells will be added here in the not too distant future. Mr. R. Wake, hon. secretary, is planning a spring fixture to replace this disappointment.

STEDMAN CINQUES AT MANCROFT

The St. Peter Mancroft Guild are very pleased to report a peal of Stedman Cinques rung by an all-resident Mancroft Guild band.

Stedman Cinques at Mancroft has been rather a rare event during the last 50 years. The first peal on the bells after rehanging in 1925 in an all-metal frame was Stedman Cinques (November 10th, 1925). The band consisted of all Mancroft Guild members, but the ringer of the fourth was Egbert Borrett, who, according to the annual report of that year, was at that time a non-resident member living in Valparaiso.

The next peal was in 1935, when only six of the band were resident Norwich Association and Mancroft Guild members. It is interesting to note that both these peals took 3 hours and 52 minutes.

Following this peal there were only two peals of Stedman Cinques until the present one. These were in 1961, when John Chilcott led an all-visitors band, and in 1962 by a band led by Frank L. Harris; this latter peal had two local members in it.

OXFORD UNIVERSITY SOCIETY

The annual general meeting of the Oxford University Society was held on December 5th in St. John's College. Officers for 1968 were elected as follows: Master, Stephen F. Royal (Exeter); secretaries, Philip J. Daniel (St. Catherine's) and Peter H. Mackie (Hertford); treasurer, Richard J Wilsher (Lincoln); steeplekeepers, Jeremy R. Pratt (Exeter) and John R. Leary (Queen's).

Canon C. Eliot Wigg (Society president) took the chair.

TARGET EXCEEDED!

Chester-le-Street parish holds an annual sale of work on the first Wednesday in December, and a year or two ago the Rector writing in the parish magazine urging parishioners to an even higher total, said: "If we reach £1,000 we will ring the bells!" Dutifully the ringers have been at the ready on each occasion since then, but it was not until 1967, in the 700th year of the present church, that the target was achieved. The telephone and the motor car were used to round up a band of ringers and a quarter peal of Grandsire Triples had been rung by 9 p.m. One of the band had her beauty treatment interrupted but took this opportunity to ring a quarter peal at her first attempt. At least it gave her no opportunity to worry about it beforehand!

MANCHESTER CATHEDRAL

Although the band at Manchester Cathedral is a little below strength, we do manage with a little assistance from other ringers to ring for Confirmation services which are held in the Cathedraal. An evening Confirmation service in November was postponed until Sunday, December 10th, and was held in place of the normal afternoon Evensong at 3.30 p.m. A quarter peal was arranged but, due to adverse weather conditions, the band met one short. With a late start we rang 1,236 P.ain Bob Minor (tenor covering) and the bells ran into rounds at exactly 3.30 p.m. The band was as follows: Valerie R. Humphrys 1, P. J. Hawcock 2, I. N. Golgthorpe 3, G. Pye 4, P. G. Bellamy-Knights 5, A. Ward (cond.) 6, D G. Manby 7. A. W.

A RINGERS' WEDDING AT BOUGHTON

Wedding bells echoed around Canterbury on December 2nd for the marriage at SS. Peter and Paul's Church, Boughton, of Mr. Roderick H. Glover and Miss Beryl M. Hills. Both are keen ringers, and before the wedding a quarter of Doubles was rung at Chartham, and guests rang at Boughton. As the newlyweds left the church they were greeted with handbell ringing.

The service was choral and included the ringers' hymn, "Unchanging God," with the bride's father as organist. The officiating clergy were the Rev. E. D. Schofield and the Rev. R J. C. Lloyd (Rector of Chartham).

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a long gown of embroidered duchesse satin, trimmed at the neck and wrists with white fur. The bridesmaid, Miss Susan Maxted, wore a long red velvet dress trimmed with white fur. Mr. Keith I. Davies was best man.

Presentations to the bride took place, at the church door, of a rolling pin and wooden spoon by Katherine Hodges (bridegroom's godchild) and a miniature black sweep by Martin Downs (cousin). The reception was held at Delbridge House, Faversham. For the honeymoon the bride travelled in a black-flecked tweed suit with brown accessories.

SINGLE CHANGE MINOR METHODS

By THE PROFESSOR

THERE seems to be a growing practice of using these methods in Spliced Minor ringing as an easy means of tacking on one or two extra methods. Although I do not pretend to extol the virtues of these retrograde methods there is a danger that if they are not correctly used falseness is liable to occur, and I hate to see ringers expending their energies on false peals. Falseness (i.e. repetition of rows) is particularly likely to happen when splicing plain methods and I would like to point out where the danger lies and how to avoid it.

There are ten single-change Plain Minor methods, viz.:

	(1)	Newton	—	14—123—3	2nds	42563
	(2)	Court	—	14—123—1	6ths	52364
*	(3)	Pinehurst	—	14—123—5	2nds	42635
*	(4)	Westlecot	—	14—123—5	6ths	64523
*	(5)	Buxton	—	16—123—3	2nds	42635
*	(6)	Rodbourne	—	16—123—3	6ths	64523
	(7)	King's College	—	16—123—5	6ths	34625
	(8)	Gower	34 .	16—123—3	2nds	36245
	(9)	Coniston Court	34 .	16—123—1	6ths	52364
*	(10)	Helvellyn	36 .	14—123—5	2nds	35264

* "Regular" methods

All these methods may be, under certain conditions, spliced with ordinary standard methods but it would take much time and reams of foolscap to explain all the possibilities. Owing to the apparent ease with which the pairs Pinehurst (Westlecot) and Buxton (Rodbourne) will join with Double Oxford (London Bob) and St. Clement's (College), respectively, I will content myself for the time being with these methods.

Because of the nature of the rows within the lead it should be noted that ordinary 3-lead splicing cannot be used, and that in order to avoid falseness we shall have to rely on cross-splicing, i.e. certain leads on both sides of the single (in- and out-of-course) must be changed simultaneously.

A minimum of two leads may be changed (one each side of the single) with the same bells on the front (i.e. 2nds and 4ths place bells), that have the same bell as pivot at the half-lead, e.g.:

(DOUBLE OXFORD (LONDON BOB))

(a) 23456 and 26453 (2 and 4 on front, 5 in 5ths).
(b) 64523 and 63524 (5 and 6 on front, 2 in 5ths).

Or any similar pairs of leads.

(ST. CLEMENT'S (COLLEGE))

(a) 23456 and 26453 (2 and 4 on front, 5 in 5ths).
(b) 64523 and 63524 (5 and 6 on front, 2 in 5ths).

Or any other similar pairs of leads.

With these leads the following changes may be effected:

Leads on opposite sides of the single			Cross-spliced produce		Leads on opposite sides of the single
D. Oxford	+	D. Oxford	Pinehurst	+	Pinehurst
D. Oxford	+	Lond. Bob	Pinehurst	+	Westlecot
Lond. Bob	+	Lond. Bob	Westlecot	+	Westlecot
Thelwall	+	Thelwall	Pinehurst	+	Pinehurst
Thelwall	+	Lytham	Pinehurst	+	Westlecot
Lytham	+	Lytham	Westlecot	+	Westlecot

also the following:

St. Clement's	+	St. Clement's	Buxton	+	Buxton
St. Clement's	+	College	Buxton	+	Rodbourne
College	+	College	Rodbourne	+	Rodbourne
Childwall	+	Childwall	Buxton	+	Buxton
Childwall	+	Wavertree	Buxton	+	Rodbourne
Wavertree	+	Wavertree	Rodbourne	+	Rodbourne

Now seeing that Double Oxford (London Bob) will three-lead splice with St. Clement's (College) with two bells fixed in 2–4, and Pinehurst (Westlecot) will three-lead splice with Buxton (Rodbourne) with two bells fixed in 2–4, it should be clear that:

With the following six leads, having two bells fixed in 2–4, three leads each side of the single, the following changes of methods may be effected:

One side of the single	The other side of the single
A Double Oxford (Lond. B.)	Double Oxford (Lond. B.)
B Double Oxford (Lond. B.)	St. Clement's (College)
C St. Clement's (College)	St. Clement's (College)

may be changed into

E Pinehurst (Westlecot)	Pinehurst (Westlecot)
F Pinehurst (Westlecot)	Buxton (Rodbourne)
G Buxton Rodbourne)	Buxton (Rodbourne)

A or B or C may be changed to either E or F or G. (The 2nds or 6ths lead-ends not affecting the truth of the splice.)

In addition, either H or I or J with two bells fixed in 2–4 as before, may also be changed into E or F or G.

H Thelwall (Lytham)	Thelwall (Lytham)
I Thelwall (Lytham)	Childwall (Wavertree)
J Childwall (Wavertree)	Childwall (Wavertree)

To further simplify matters from a conductor's point of view the following schemes could be used:

(a) Single-change methods could be called every time 5 and 6 (or any other pair) are on the front together with, say, Pinehurst (Westlecot) or Buxton (Rodbourne) throughout, or Pinehurst (Westlecot on the one side and Buxton (Rodbourne) on the other.

(b) Single-change methods could be called every time the 6th (or any selected bell) is on the front, with condition similar to (a), i.e. Pinehurst (Westlecot) or Buxton (Rodbourne) throughout, or Pinehurst (Westlecot) on one side and Buxton (Rodbourne) on the other.

STRATTON
RINGING FESTIVAL

The second Stratton, Cornwall, Ringing Festival was held on December 2nd. Some 160 ringers from Cornwall and Devon were present some time during the day and 11 towers in the immediate district were open from 10.30 a.m. Fourteen teams entered for the striking competition, which the judges, Messrs. C. Menhire (Rock), A. Polkinghorne (St. Minver) and L. Hambley (St. Kew), stated was of a very high standard. They awarded certificates to Down St. Mary, Plympton, Tavistock, Truro Cathedral and Alvington for six-bell ringing, and Wayside (N.D. Ringers), Bridgerule, Tavistock, Plympton, St. Austell and Truro Cathedral for eight-bell ringing.

The Truro Diocesan Guild service was sung at 6 p.m., taken by the Vicar, the Rev. L. W. Dodd, the preacher being the Rev. J. G. M. Scott. It coincided with the patronal festival (St. Andrew's) and Gift Day, and so the collection of £5 10s. was given to the Vicar towards this.

A bountiful tea was provided by the ringers' wives, supervised by Mrs. H. Stacey, after which thanks were expressed to vicars and captains for use of the bells and to Mr. H. Stacey for arranging such a successful day.
