THE REPAIR WELDING OF CRACKED BELLS

It was at the invitation of the East Midlands Branch of The Welding Institute that the ringers were invited to a lecture on the Repair Welding of Cracked Bells, which was given at Loughborough University on Wednesday, November 19, 1969, by Mr. K. J. Clews, F.Weld.I., the senior training officer from the Welding Institute, Abington Hall, Abington. Cambridgeshire.

Mr. Clews began by describing for the benefit of the members of the Welding Institute the history of bells and bellfounding. He described in some detail, making frequent use of the blackboard, the process of casting bells from mediæval times to the present day. He then described the various ways in which bells can be cracked, from cast-in staples to clocking; these he illustrated with coloured slides.

With regard to cracks in the crown, he said a number of cases had been found where the crack followed a severe frost; such cracks in old bells were usually associated with the presence of cast-in wrought iron staples. The contraction ratio of bell metal to iron is in the order of 3 to 2, and it is easy to see how these stresses are set up. A slide showing a section through the crown of a bell illustrated only too well the cracks radiating from the corners of the cast-in staple.

A further cause of cracking in the crown is caused by corrosion at the interface between the cast-in iron and the surrounding bell metal in the reaction layer which was produced when the bell was originally cast.

Crown cracks are not always obvious, especially in dark towers, and many such cracks may go undiscovered for many years, whereas cracks in the soundbow usually caused by clocking are immediately obvious as they affect the tone of the bell.

Investigation into the possibility of repairing bells by welding was undertaken by the British Welding Research Association, thanks to a grant from the Worshipful Company of Founders, as up to a few years ago all such repairs were sent to the Continent for welding. Research into the possibility of welding cracked bells had been undertaken in Denmark following the return from Germany of many of their bells in a cracked condition after the last war.

The main factors involved in repairing a cracked bell are:—

- (a) To determine the exact extent of the crack or cracks.
- (b) To match the weld metal as far as possible to the composition of the original bell.
- (c) To preheat the bell before welding and slowly to cool it down again, after welding.

The extent of the crack is determined by the use of dye-penetration inspection, which makes use of the fact that if a dye is forced into a crack it will ooze out and stain a coating of chalk which is subsequently applied.

The composition of the bell is then determined by conventional chemical analysis, or if very little material is available, and a very full analysis is required, by electron probe micro-analysis. With the latter technique it has been possible to demonstrate the presence of nickel in a bell metal from Somerset of a date before the identification of nickel as an element. There are good reasons to suppose therefore, that the copper in this bell came from Germany.

A study of the copper-tin equilibrium diagram indicates that at a temperature above 586°C, the brittle "delta" phase which is present at room temperature is replaced by a softer and more plastic phase, "beta," thus making the alloy amenable to welding. This temperature is about 200°C, below the melting point of the alloy

For their initial research the British Welding Research Association were supplied through the courtesy of Whitechapel Foundry Ltd. with a 3½ cwt. bell cast by Warners in 1892. The notes of the bell were carefully determined and the bell was deliberately cracked.

The extent of the crack was revealed by a dye-penetrant inspection, and the crack was ground out to a deep "V" shape, using a grinding wheel

Support at the back of the crack was provided by a steel plate faced with an alumina blanket, and a complete jig was built round the bell, the whole of the bell being enclosed in a slagwool material to preserve the heat Thermocouples were attached to the bell to record and control the temperature both during the heating and cooling phases, since too fast a heating or cooling rate can promote cracking.

The bell complete in its jig and slagwool blanket was then preheated to the required temperature, and the crack was then welded by the oxy-acetylene process using a matching filler.

The use of the jig enabled the very hot bell to be moved into suitable positions for welding, whilst at the same time holding the bell firmly, thus preventing the crack from opening or closing during the temperature changing process.

The bell was allowed to cool slowly, and after cooling the excess weld metal was ground away, even to the extent of leaving the moulding wires apparently intact.

It was then tested and the result was that the bell's original tone had been successfully restored.

Various slides were shown which adequately illustrated the whole process.

Following this experiment work was undertaken on the treble bell from Groton in Suffolk. This bell was cast by John Darbie in 1676 and was cracked from the lip to the waist. A similar process was undertaken to that described above and the bell has now been restored to its original condition.

The oxy-acetylene welds contain pores of rounded form and are therefore less harmful than the angular shrinkage porosity in the bell itself. It was decided to change from the oxy-acetylene process to the tungsten inert-gas welding process and this resulted in the production of porosity-free weld metal.

Following this, Mr. Clews gave a list of bells which have been welded to date, namely:

A bell cast by Warner 1892, now the sanctus bell at Isleham, near Ely.

The 2nd from Isleham, 1516.

The 3rd from Isleham, c.1486.

- A bell from Pott Shringley, near Macclesfield. Robert Crouch, 1420-1450.
- A bell from Little Hallingbury. William Wodeward, c.1420.
- A bell belonging to the Grocers' Livery Company, c.1400.
- A bell from Little Saxham, near Bury St. Edmunds.

Crown cracks are much more difficult to deal with and in certain cases the whole of the crown has been removed and a new flat crown welded in. This of course enables the antique canons to be preserved.

As far as can be ascertained no bells which have been repaired by the new technique have shown any sign of further cracking.

A general discussion followed on the technique of welding and the thanks of the meeting were proposed by the hon, secretary of the East Midlands Welding Institute, Mr. E. A. Garside, and carried unanimously.

COMMENTS AND OBSERVATIONS FROM A RINGER'S POINT OF VIEW

It would appear that cracked bells can now be repaired by welding and restored to their original condition, but certain points must be borne in mind.

So far only small bells up to 12 cwt. have been repaired in this way, but there is no reason to suppose that larger bells could not be subjected to the same process.

The work is not simple and cannot be performed without a large amount of specialised equipment. It is no use expecting the local blacksmith turned agricultural equipment repair engineer to undertake such work, he has neither the equipment nor the "know-how."

The work is costly, taking into account the building of a special jig to the exact size of the bell, the amount of fuel used to preheath the bell to around 600°C., the fuel used in maintaining this temperature during the welding process, and finally the fuel used in maintaining a steady cooling temperature back down to room temperature, the whole operation taking several days, the cost is necessarily high, although not as high as the cost of recasting.

The restored bell will be no better tonally than was the original bell, and if the original bell was poor the cost may not justify the end product. Whether the repaired bell could be tuned after welding was not discussed at the lecture.

An agreement has been reached between the Council for the Care of Churches, the Central Council of Church Bell Ringers and the leading bellfounders that pre-Reformation, historic or unique bells should not be recast. Any tower with such a bell in a cracked condition has in theory two options:—

- (a) Replace the cracked bell with a new bell and put the cracked one back in the tower as a priest's bell, or place it in the church or local museum, or
 - (b) Have the cracked bell weld repaired.

In many cases option (b) would be the first consideration but it must be borne in mind that after repair the bell will be no better tonally than was the original bell, and if that bell had been cracked for some years who can tell what the finished product will be? If it is a single bell it might not matter so much, but if it is one of a ring of bells then difficulties can occur. Considerable thought must be given to each individual case.

The recommendation to repair weld a bell which was later found to be unsuitable to blend with the remainder of the ring and its eventual replacement by a new bell would not be viewed very favourably by the recipient parish.

Perhaps further investigation into the predetermination of the anticipated tonal qualities of a cracked bell under consideration for repair welding is called for, and possibly a discussion between the Welding Institute and the Towers and Belfries Committee would prove fruitful.

It is of course a technical point as to where the line is drawn between the heating of a bell to 600°C, to repair weld it, and to heat it another 200-300°C, to recast it.

In conclusion, the writer would like to acknowledge the help and assistance he has received from Mr. K. J. Clews in compiling the notes on his lectures.

UNIVERSAL COMPOSITIONS

Dear Sir,—While experimenting recently with composition 1 produced the following which, after consultation with Roger Baldwin, I believe to be original. Each composition is based on the 24 available courses with the 2nd at home and contains 12 combination courses. The FCH to which each is true include a number of the less commonly encountered groups. Every call is a single made in 5-6 at the lead end, the calls being when the tenor is at Home (H), making 2nd's (II) or in 3-4 up (III).

Repeat 5x, omitting (—) in 3rd and 6th parts and omitting

4th part.

True to all: g h i k n o p r s u C D E F

Another composition which may be of interest, although not original, is based on the 24 available courses with the 6th at home. This also contains 12 combination courses and is true to the following FCH groups: c e g h i l m n o r s B E F.
As a point of interest the 24 courses with the 5th at home are also true to the same groups, but with detriment to the music compared with the 6th at home. Conventional bobs and singles are used.

HOME AGAIN!

We have received the following letter from Mr. Charles Rouse, of Brookfield Road, Churchdown, Bristol, who is now home, following his accident some weeks

"Thank you and the staff of the Ringing World and all those who found time to write to me while I was in hospital, also those who came to see me.

"I was brought home on March 9 after six weeks and two days. It will still be a long time before I shall be able to resume work, but I am now able to do the secretary's job for the G. and B. once again.

my hrst outside job was to attend a branch officers' get-together at Dursley on March 14—a very successful meeting—when there was a free interchange of views between those present, and the sort of meeting which other kindred bodies might well copy, if they do not already have such meetings.

"My thanks include the other officers of the G. and B., who met several times at my bedside to make sure that they did my job as I would have done it had it been possible."

Belfry Gossip

Ian Earl rang his first peal at 13—and has only been ringing for one year.

The popular ring at Kibworth, Leics, is being rehung—in time for Easter!!

New conductors for peals: D. Barton (Cambridge S. Major), John P. Loveless, aged 14 (7 Minor methods), Frank J. Matthews (Grandsire Triples), Peter J. Cranfield (Kent T.B. Major).

There were three first-pealers in the Kent T.B. Major at Norton, Herts, and one was the conductor!

The Grappenhall Branch of the Chester Guild have had to change the date of their meeting at Daresbury to April 11. (See advertisement.)

Next year's peals analysis is to be compiled by Messrs. A. Keith Poole and James E. Andrews. Mr. and Mrs. David House have done this service for some time and we are grateful for their work.

The local band at St. Margaret's Church, Drayton, Norfolk, scored their first quarter recently. Prior to 1967, when the new Whitechapel six were dedicated, Drayton had three bells and no ringers.

The Easter Message last week was written by the Rev. S. M. Evans, of Bredgar, Sittingbourne, Kent, and the article on Folkestone Parish Church by Nicholas J. Davies.

Mr. Alfred H. Winch, of Leatherhead, Surrey, attained his 90th birthday last Saturday and received the congratulations of many ringing friends.

Andover District band are progressing with their peal ringing and have, at their third attempt, rung London S. Minor at Burghclere, Hants. For four of the band it was their first in the method.

Because of pressure of space, a number of items have had to be held over this week; also, a number of meeting advertisements arrived too late for inclusion, as we had to go to press early because of the short working week.

The three bells of All Saints' Church, Graveney, Kent, are now being regularly rung. Recast by Mears in 1925, they hang on a six-bell frame foundation and are to be overhauled by the Whitechapel Foundry.

Personal achievements for Ian Thompson (50 peals), Joe E. G. Roast (500), Robert E. J. Dennis (250), Graham C. Paul (400), Christopher F. Easton (100), Robert B. Smith (300 on handbells and 200th of Royal)

First peal congratulations to Elizabeth J. Cranfield, Peter J. Cranfield (who also conducted), Cecile Forgan, Terence V. Barnard, Jennifer E. Jarvis, Glenda Crane, Edward C. Esuart, Richard M. Thompson, S. Nicholas Harrop, Alec R. Turner, Alan Crabtree.

Mr. J. H. Bluff, master of the Peterborough Guild, has informed his guild committee that he will not be seeking reelection at the guild's forthcoming annual meeting. Mr. Bluff retires after serving five years in office.

At Frampton, Dorset, the first peal on the bells was rung on March 21. The long draught of rope, no guides, and the ringing chamber on the ground floor all make the bells difficult to handle and may have deterred other bands in the past.

Peals have now been rung on all the ringable rings of four in Worcestershire, but the team are still looking for a bell (about 20 inches in diameter and strike note F natural) to make a ring of five at Spetchley.

The Gravesend peal of Grandsire Triples on March 14 is noteworthy as there were five first-pealers, whilst it was also the first as conductor. Well done!

When the tenor of the pre-Reformation ring of three at St. Mary-in-the-Marsh in Kent was recast in 1956, its crown, inscription and canons were preserved in the church. An attempt to steal this late in February was fortunately foiled and the police have had some men "helping them in their enquiries."

Our attention has been drawn to the new laws regarding transport and the difficulties which are likely to be encountered by organisers of ringing outings and tours. We have endeavoured to get a ruling on the situation but even the bus companies do not yet understand the position. We recommend our readers to make the fullest enquiries well in advance, as their trip may have to be curtailed because of the restricted hours a coach driver may work.

Our subscription manager (Mr. Lucas) wears, at times, a very harassed expression, particularly when subscriptions do not arrive after a couple of reminders. Generally it is because the matter has been overlooked, and we ask all who come under this category please to help him by sending promptly the amount required. On two occasions last week we had additional amounts added to the subscription—as a "penance" or "fine" for having forgotten to pay!

The senior steward of a well-known ancient society is now able to recommend a popular brand of adhesive, otherwise used for affixing soles to shoes, to those who feel in danger of letting their rope slip from their hands at backstroke. Having managed this in the eighth course of a peal attempt for London Royal recently, and delighted the band with his antics in chasing the tail-end all round the belfry, he now claims to speak with authority on the subject. "Whatever you do," he says, "do not grasp the sally, as this will result in the lowering of your bell and the abandonment of the ringing." Let us hope that one learns by experience!

TRIUMPH IN DUPLICATE

On Sunday, March 22, at Ashton-under-Lyne Parish Church, a peal of Plain Bob Maximus was conducted by M. Jack Pryor, and two of his former pupils each rang their 1,000th peal! Robert B. Smith and Bernard L. Groves are to be heartily congratulated on their fine achievement and in joining the few who have gained the summit of the "thousand."

EDWARD FRED GOBEY

It was with great sorrow that we heard of the sudden death of Fred Gobey (of Ilkeston) on March 9. Although his health had not been good for several months it was thought that he was on the way to recovery.

Fred was taught to ring at an early age by his father, the late Edward C. Gobey, and had taken part in many peals until early 1969 when, owing to ill-health, he had to take a rest, on the advice of his doctor.

He will be sadly missed from the belfry and bell chamber of St. Mary's, Ilkeston, where he and his father before him had maintained the "go" of the bells for 60 years

The funeral was at St. Mary's on March 13 and the bells, half-muffled, were rung to Stedman Triples as the cortège left the church for cremation at Wilford. About 20 ringers were present from Nottingham and Derby Districts.

TOM AND MARGARET FRANCIS An Appreciation

Words cannot convey adequately the deep sense of shock which the news of the tragic deaths of Tom and Margaret Francis brought to their very many friends, and the loss will be deeply felt throughout the country, but particularly among the members of the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths. They were both extremely popular and very highly regarded in their efforts for the wellbeing of the Society.

Tom Francis came to London from his their efforts for the wellbeing of the Society.

Tom Francis came to London from his native Cromer in 1938, joining the band at St. Nicholas, Chiswick, and ringing also with the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths, which he joined in October the same year. His first peal for the Society in April, 1939, was in the method he was to come to love above all others—Stedman Cinques—at St. Leonard's, Shoreditch. Before he was called up for war service at the end of 1939 he had rung six peals for the Society, four of which were Stedman Cinques.

man Cinques.

In all, Tom rang 83 peals for the Cumberlands, of which he called 31. Included in this total were 26 peals of Stedman Cinques, of which he conducted 15. He called the first peals for the Society of Erin Triples, Caters and Cinques, and of Yorkshire Royal, and took part in the first of Yorkshire and Londinium Surprise Maximus, 4-Spliced and Pudsey Surprise Royal, and Glasgow, Ealing and 6-Spliced Surprise Major. He also rang in peals for the Society of Bristol Surprise Royal and Maximus.

His versatility was displayed in the variety of the peals in which he took part. In the early '50s he was a regular member of the peal band at Willesden and in the 70 or so peals he rang for the Middlesex Association there are included no fewer than 40 different Surprise methods. It is hoped subsequently to obtain his peal records and to publish a more detailed list of his achievements.

In this appreciation one would like to recognise a little of the enormous debt which the Society owes to both Tom and Margaret. Tom held in turn all the senior offices of the Society save that of secretary: senior steward in '54, master '55, auditor '50-54, Central Council representative '48-56 and finally, from 1957 until his death, the position of trustee, which the Society reserves for its highly-regarded senior members. At St. Martin-in-the-Fields Tom was a member from shortly after his arrival in London and became leader in 1955

—a position which he retained until he left for Southampton in 1963.

Tom was very reserved unless he felt the occasion demanded forceful expression, but when once established he was a very staunch friend and showed obvious enjoyment of the company of those friends. We shall greatly miss the warm greeting, the firm handshake, the sense of humour, the laugh, the twinkling eyes and his delightful Norfolk accent. Those who had the good fortune to participate will remember, too, the enjoyable weekends he arranged for the St. Martin's ringers and their friends, and the happy, social atmosphere which he and Margaret so actively engendered.

He had a passionate regard for the traditions and wellbeing of the Society and it is to be hoped that when its history is written his services will be recognised. He helped to hold the Society together in its lean years and was undoubtedly one of the architects of its present success. During his period as master he tried to give it the type of leadership he knew was required, and many are sorry indeed that his efforts were not better rewarded. It was he who "sounded out" the one who was to be master during the 1960s, and he gave every encouragement to put into effect the changes which were necessary. He delighted in the new-found strength of the Society and attended every possible function he could. After he had moved to Southampton he travelled the 70 miles to practise with the Society in London on weekdays.

It was a great loss to St. Martin's band when Tom and Margaret left, but London's loss was Southampton's gain. More will certainly be written of the seven years spent there, and the large attendance at the funeral reflected the many friends they had made during this time. Tom's interest in the Society never waned. He introduced new members from Southampton area and invited bands from London for peals. And what hospitality he and Margaret provided at their lovely home! It is in thinking of their happy home life that one's thoughts turn to Margaret—a splen-

It is in thinking of their happy home life that one's thoughts turn to Margaret—a splendid partner for one whom many had come to think of as a confirmed bachelor. Margaret came to London in 1949 from her home in Thornaby-on-Tees, where she had learned to ring, where her father was also a ringer and where she and Tom were married in 1950. It was not long before she became a full member of the St. Martin's band, although quite a lot of her early ringing in London was at St. Margaret's, Westminster. Margaret was not a prolific peal ringer. She rang 20 for the Cumberlands, which she joined in 1950, and in all but one of these Tom also participated. She shared his love for Stedman Cinques (almost half her peals for the Society were in this method) and she took part in the peals of Erin Triples, Caters and Cinques already mentioned.

How will one remember Margaret? Firstly as a warm-hearted person who did much to make visitors feel welcome and at home. Secondly to recall her untiring efforts to maintain ringing at Shoreditch by arranging quarter peals on Sunday evenings. Then one will recall how high were her own personal ringing standards and how hard she would strive to keep those standards. Although she had not the wide experience which Tom had, her ringing capabilities in the wide range which she accomplished were of a very high order. One will recall her unselfishness in giving her rope to others and the fact, too, that after a touch arranged for her benefit she invariably expressed her appreciation. Finally one will remember her good humour and good-natured outspokenness.

At the funeral the Society was represented by its master, senior and junior stewards, treasurer, the immediate past master and two former secretaries, by Mrs. A. R. Ling (formerly of the St. Martin's band) and by a large number of members from the Southampton area. At the conclusion of the service a course of Stedman Triples was rung on the St. Martin's handbells by members of the Society. We all met in very great sorrow to thank God for the lives of Tom and Margaret Francis.

handbells by members of the Society. We all met in very great sorrow to thank God for the lives of Tom and Margaret Francis.

On March 9 the bells of St. Martin-in-the-Fields were rung half-muffled to Stedman Cinques, and prior to the ringing the senior curate (Rev. Hugh Maddox) led the ringers in prayer. A peal attempt at St. Martin's the following Saturday by past and present members of the St. Martin's band was most regrettably not successful, but later a half-muffled peal of Stedman Cinques was rung at St. Leonard's, Shoreditch.

It is hard to realise that Tom and Margaret are no longer with us, but we are grateful for the privilege of having known them and of being friends. We thank God for the example they set in their devotion to ringing, particularly in the maintaining of service ringing at St. Martin's and Shoreditch and in sharing their enthusiasm and friendship as members of this Society. We extend our sincere sympathy to all their relatives and especially to their son, David.

The footnote to the handbell peal of Bob Minor rung on March 16 at Chorlton, Manchester, conducted by C. L. D. Mun-day, has no foundation in fact. No engagement has been announced. (See page 257, this issue.)

Truro Guild

CONDUCTOR CONGRATULATED

The 1970 A.G.M. of the Truro Diocesan Guild was held at Linkinhorne on March 7 and was attended by over 80 ringers. The president (Mr. Alan Carveth) opened the meeting by ringing the Guild bell and prayers were led by the Vicar of Linkin-horne (Rev. M. B. Geach), who welcomed the ringers to Linkinhorne. Silent tribute was paid to the members who had died since the last meeting—Canon W. H. Prior, J. Chapman, A. J. Chubb, J. Roberts, D. M. Stephens and Miss H. M. Wintle.

The treasurer presented the accounts, balances of £111 in the general fund and £72 in the badge account being recorded.

The ringing master (Mr. W. C. Boucher)

and his assistant (Mr. A. Locke) reported on the festivals during the year, and congratulations were extended to Miss M. L. Lidgey on conducting a peal of Stedman Triples -- her first as conductor. It was a fine achievement, showing faith and determination. Miss Lidgey, the peal secretary, reported a record number of peals for the Guild (51), almost double the previous year's total. Outstanding were six peals: at Stratton the local band rang Grandsire Triples, at Carbis Bay two of Stedman Triples were rung by residents alone (16 years since the last peal so rung), at Phil-lack, Kent and Oxford Major was scored, at Sennen, Doubles were rung by a band (average age 16¹) and at Lelant the multi-Doubles band scored 120 m/v in 6240 changes—the longest peal for the Guild. The quarters were slightly down but still included 56 "firsts."

The librarian (Mr. R. P. Pearce) thanked those who had given books and those who had contributed to the R.W. binder fund; Mr. F. M. Bowers gave an account of the St. Albans C.C. meeting. This was followed by the confirmation of non-resident life members elected during 1969: J. A. Ainsworth, G. H. Baldam, M. I. Brown, P. J. Brown, N. J. Davies, A. C. Fairey, M. W. Fairey, S. W. Fossey, M. H. O'Callaghan, M. Powell, J. C. Skidmore, N. Summerhayes and P. Williams.

All the Guild officers were re-elected.

Mr. H. Lander, a vice-president, proposed that membership of the Guild should no longer be by tower affiliation but by individual subscription. After considerable discussion it was agreed that the idea be adopted for an experimental period.

It was decided that the Guild summer festival be held in July (details in the R.W. later, but Bodmin hoped for the venue) and the invitation to hold the 1971 A.G.M. at Constantine on March 6 be accepted. Further items were speedily dealt with under any other business, and the meeting was closed and followed by tea. The bells in the neighbourhood were soon in use.

THE PRESENT CHURCH stands on the site of a Norman church and was built about 1350, very probably by Sir Nicholas de Charnels, Knight, owner of the manor and patron of the advowson.

In 1872 the north aisle was added and the tracery of the east window renewed, and in 1962 the south aisle was added. In each case the original stonework was used and the historical features of the church were preserved.

POINTS OF INTEREST

Exterior: The tower, originally, had four pinnacles round the spire.

The five windows on the south side are exceedingly good specimens of the two most common types of flowing tracery, commonly called the fish-bladder and network tracery.

In the south wall, under the third window from the east, we find a little square-headed low-side window.

Similar windows are to be found in structures of the 13th and 14th centuries, but rarely later. They are sometimes called leper windows, but it is more likely they were used for the rite of "utter confession." That is to say that from time to time wandering Franciscan monks, and others perhaps who had nothing to do with the place, would through this opening (which could be closed with a wooden shutter) hear the confessions of penitents inside the church.

WINDOW REMOVED

The original east window is reported to have been very beautiful, but was removed about 1609, when a plain, square-headed In 1871 window took its place. Decorated window was put up, and this was moved to the west end of the north aisle in 1872. The present window put up at that date was made with tracery characteristic of the transition from Decorated to Perpendicular.

The organ case is of old carved oak; it originally formed part of the organ in the Chapel of St. John's, Cambridge. St. John's College was founded by the Lady Margaret, daughter of Henry VII, and the carved ornaments show that the instrument was placed in the chapel about the time of was placed in the chaper about the time of the foundation of the College, A.D. 1522. It is ornamented with the royal badges, the portcullis and double rose. The words on and over the organ board were composed by the Rev. R. D. Assheton.

EASTER SEPULCHRE

Just within the altar rails is the recess for the Eastern Sepulchre, a fine ogee-shaped arch, richly crocketed.

In times before the Reformation it was the custom to place the crucifix and Host in a chest, in this and similar recesses on Good Friday; they were then watched con-tinually till Easter Day and then replaced on the atar with high ceremony.

In the east wall is a little aumbry or cupboard for keeping the holy vessels.

Next to this on the south side is another niche with a carved canopy called a piscina, where the Communion vessels were washed.

Then we come to the sedilia, or seats, for the priest, deacon and sub-deacon (restored

The two brass candelabra in the nave came from an old church at Bois le Duc, in Holland.

The font. Its history is uncertain. In design it is of the same period as the church, about A.D. 1350 but the carving is rough, shallow and unfinished. Some think that it is an incomplete work of the 14th century (compare the uncarved blocks in which some of the dripstones of the windows end), some think it belongs to a later century.

Three of the bells in the tower are pre-Reformation. In 1948, when the shingled spire surmounting the sturdy tower was made safe, the five bells were rehung in an iron frame, and a sixth bell added as a memorial to the men of the village who gave their lives on service during the 1939-The work was carried out by War. John Taylor and Co. of Loughborough.

The old five bells still have their canons and have never been recast, only quarterturned, and are fitted with wooden head-The new treble has an iron one. This bell does not harmonise with the original five and tends to "shout" out among the others, and is most noticeable in Minor methods.

Kent County Association

FOLKESTONE'S WELCOME

ANNUAL GENERAL MEETING WELL SUPPORTED

"The establishment, maintenance and encouragement of Service Ringing in all the Churches in the County, the cultivation of the art of Change-ringing and Belfry Reform."

This is one of the two objects of the Kent County Association of Change Ringers printed in the annual report, and the officers of the Association are justified if they feel proud of their efforts to bring this about, for at the annual general meeting at Folkestone on Easter Monday the excellent arrangements (made by the Ashford District), the leadership and the ability displayed were backed up by the members with a large attendance (about 300) and this in spite of heavy showers and blustery winds.

In the church the visitors were able to admire the beautiful decorations, the Easter garden being particularly attractive. Following the well-struck service touch, the congregation stood whilst the churchwardens, followed by the town sergeant (Mr. W. G Jenkins) led the Mayor and Mayoress of Folkestone (Cclr. and Mrs. Ellender) to their places. Canon N. M. G. Sharp, Vicar of Ashford, conducted the service and Rev. A. V. Kingston, O.B.E., Vicar of Folke-A. V. Kingston, O.B.E., Vicar of Folke-stone, gave the address. He briefly referred to the history of the church and to his own life abroad as a chaplain to the Forces, when he carried recordings of Westminster Abbey bells around and played them before services in various stations, including the

The vicar spoke of the tragedy of the bombing of St. Clement Danes', London, during the last war-a church with which he was especially concerned as his father had preached there for 25 years. He also stressed the importance of the work of bellringers in proclaiming the message of the Resurrection and of the tremendous responsibility each had to fulfill that task Sunday by Sunday.

The congregational singing was led by Mrs. Anne Berry at the organ, who played Toccata (Symphony No. 5), by Widor, as a recessional, and a retiring collection amounted to £15 12s. 6d., of which £14 was given to the Belfry Repair Fund and the remainder to church expenses.

LUNCH AND MEETING

The customary luncheon was served in the Church Hall nearby, about 200 sitting down, whilst an overflow of members was sustained with sandwiches and soft drinks in another room, informality and high spirits being much in evidence.

Accompanying the chairman (Mr. E. A. Barnett) and his wife at the top table were the Mayor and Mayoress, the vicar and Mrs. Kingston, Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Corby, Mr. S. Phelips, Rev. D. J. New, Mr. and Mrs. B. W. May, the town sergeant, Mr. B. J. Luck, Mr. and Mrs. F. Whittaker, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. S. Berry and Mr. C. W. Denyer (Editor, R.W.).

After the loyal toast had been honoured the chairman expressed the pleasure of all present at the attendance at lunch of the Mayor and Mayoress and also the vicar and Mrs. Kingston, and thanked them for attending. He also welcomed visitors from afar, including Mr. Frank Reynolds (Lancashire) and the Editor of the R.W., who was attending in that capacity for the first time. The Mayor and the vicar both replied and then retired to other duties.

The business meeting then proceeded and very full agenda was dealt with in 1 hour 20 minutes, the chairman dealing expeditiously with each item. Mr. P. A. Corby proposed that the minutes be taken as read, and this was agreed, as also was the secretary's report, both printed and circulated before the meeting.

Mr. B. W. May, the retiring hon, treasurer, gave a very clear account of the financial statement and answered several questions raised by one or two members. This was the 14th time Mr. May has prepared and submitted the accounts and he was heartily thanked for his services, as also was the auditor, Mr. M. H. D. O'Callaghan.

Mr. I. Oram next presented the peals report (also printed) and this was accepted, following which Mr. Barnett relinquished temporarily the chair to Mr. Phelips for the election of vice-presidents. This resulted in the re-election of the four retiring members: the Vicar of Ashford and Messrs, E. A. Barnett, B. J. Luck and P. A. Corby.

SECRETARY COMPLIMENTED

On the proposition of Mr. Corby, seconded by Mr. D. Cawley, the hon. secretary (Mr. A. P. S. Berry) was re-elected and offered congratulations and good wishes for his second year in office. Mr. Oram is to continue as peals secretary, but for the position of hon, treasurer there is a new official. Mr. May retired at his own request and Mr. O'Callaghan was appointed on the proposition of Mr. May, seconded by Mr. Corby, who spoke of the excellent work done by Mr. May. Mr. S. Jenner replaces Mr. O'Callaghan as hon. auditor. Although proposed as a vice-president in honour of his services to the Association, Mr. May politely but firmly declined.

Mr. B. W. May (retiring hon. treasurer), Mr. E. A. Barnett (chairman), Mrs. Barnett, Mr. A. P. S. Berry (hon. secretary) and Mr. M. H. D. O'Callaghan (elected treasurer), photographed by the R.W. at the meeting.

A ballot for the election of six committee members resulted in the retiring officers being re-elected. They are Miss D. E. Colgate, Mrs. O. D. Tester, Dr. D. H. Niblett and Messrs. T. Cullingworth, N. J. Davies and W. H. Dobbie.

Two important items followed, namely the Benevolent Fund and Belfry Repair Fund, Considerable thought had been given beforehand to both these matters, the object being to regularise and simplify the rules, which in one case had been laid down in 1912. The committee had fully discussed the matter at its meeting during the morning, and following a concise explanation by the chairman and the newly-elected treasurer the meeting accepted both proposals, as amended on the duplicated sheets and circulated to all present.

INCREASED CIRCULATION NEEDED

The secretary announced several forth-coming events, including the Association striking competition to be held in the Rochester district and the annual dinner at Maidstone, following which the chairman permitted the Editor of the R.W. to address the gathering. Mr. Denyer expressed pleasure at being present and gave greetings to all from his predecessor (Mr. Tom White). He also congratulated the officers and members of the Association on the organisation and the healthy state of its affairs, and thanked all present for the friendly welcome he had received and for the many encouraging letters sent to the office. The R.W would endeavour to please all sections of the Exercise in one way or another, he added, and appealed to every ringer and associate member to help increase the circulation and so build up a bigger and better paper whilst keeping the price down.

Votes of thanks were expressed by the chairman to all who had contributed to the organisation and comfort of those attending that day, and Mr. Barnett was in turn thanked and complimented on his capable handling of the meeting as its chairman.

THEY ALSO SERVE . . .

There can be no doubt whatever that hard work brings its own reward. Kent C.A. is a thriving body, but this has only been attained by the efforts of its officers, at all levels, both past and in the present day. The example and leadership of Mr. E. A. Barnett, its chairman, Mr. P. A. Corby, past secretary, and Mr. Alan Berry, the present holder of that office, engenders enthusiasm amongst all the members.

The wives of these gentlemen must not be forgotten! The success of many an official is often attained by the encouragement and "behind-the-scenes" activities of the "better half," and Mr. Berry has particular reason to be grateful to his bride of last August. Mrs. Anne Berry has nursed her husband through many months of illness, has done a great deal of the preparatory work for the meeting, and on the "big day" she not only played the organ (she is an L.R.A.M. (perf.), L.R.A.M. and A.R.C.M.) but looked after the welfare of the late arrivals at the luncheon, and at the close of the meeting wielded a large broom and swept the hall floor.

The many other ladies who cheerfully served the meal, cleared the tables, made tea and washed up each assisted in the smooth running of the meeting and the enthe case. To them all we say sincerely "Thank you!". joyment of those attending, as is so often

ST. JOHN OF BEVERLEY, WHATTON

Two New Bells Dedicated

A red letter day in the history of Whatton (March 14) dawned bright and clear and with over 250 names received for tea a very busy day was in store for the Whatton ringers. The morning was spent preparing the teas, bringing extra chairs into the church, fixing a microphone in the ringing chamber and loud speakers in the church and generally putting the final touches to the preparations for the afternoon dedication service. The old six bells were rung for the service and by 3 o'clock it was becoming increasingly difficult to find a seat, despite the extra chairs. In fact, by the close of the service there was a considerable number of people standing at the rear of the church, and the attendance probably was well in excess of 300.

The service began with the ringers' hymn, "Unchanging God," and following the introductory prayers the 150th Psalm was chanted. During the singing of the third hymn the Bishop of Sherwood, led by clergy, ringers, Mr. A. Clayton (deputising for Mr. Paul Taylor, who had been taken ill) and the wardens, proceeded to the ringing chamber. At the request of the vicar's warden, Mr. Tom Greasley, the Bishop blessed, sanctified and hallowed the new bells. He received the ropes from Mr. Clayton and handed them to the vicar, the Rev. Geoffrey Blackmore, with these words: "Receive these bells that have been hallowed and solemnly set apart from all pofane and unhallowed uses, as a sacred trust committed to thee, as the approved minister of Christ in this church, and take care that they be used for God's service and for His glory." The vicar then handed the ropes to Mr. Tom Goodwin (president of the Whatton ringers) and rounds were rung on the eight whilst the Bishop and the clergy returned to their places.

For his text the Bishop quoted the last two verses of Psalm 150. Recalling the early history of bells, he said that whilst the church had been slow to accept bells they had in recent times been catching up very rapidly indeed. He congratulated the village on its latest addition to God's glory in the already beautiful church at Whatton.

The service ended, ringing was started with a course of Bob Major by the local band and tea was served. The tower was declared open until 9 p.m. Some 200 ringers took the opportunity of trying the bells, and congratulations for the success of the evening must go to the three Bingham District ringing masters, Brian Bull, Geoff Wells and Susan O'Neill, who not only saw that everyone had a ring but also regulated the flow of traffic up and down the staircase. SENIOR MEMBER ATTENDED

At the district meeting which took place at Walton-on-Thames on February 28 it is estimated that 100 ringers must have passed through the belfry doors during the afternoon and evening ringing times.

Thirty-seven members actually sat down to tea and we welcomed Canon McKitterick from Oatlands Park, who had officiated at the service, and also Mr. Dixon (organist). We were also pleased to see Mrs. Lathbury, of Walton, one of our senior members.

Apologies for absence included those of the guild master, Mr. D. A. R. May, and guild secretary, Mr. C. W. Munday. The following new members were elected: Mrs. S. Holmes, Mr. A. Tanner, Mr. R. Damerell, Mr. N. Piper, Miss A. Dixon (ringing members), Miss P. Heyhoe, D. Bonner, N. Pearman and Miss S. Pearman (junior members). It was decided to change the nomination date from November 7 to November 14, and the district practice at Oatlands Park on March 23 was cancelled. The striking competition is to be held at Thames Ditton, and the ringing master urged all towers to enter a team.

The usual votes of thanks were then given and we retired to the belfry, and when tower ringing stopped at 8.30 p.m. handbells were rung.

ANNUAL REUNION

The weather was bitterly cold on February 28 when members of the Society of Roving Ringers gathered at Headington, Oxford, for the 23rd annual reunion. Following a snack lunch at a local hostelry ringing took place at St. Ebbe's, St. Giles' and Carfax.

Forty-two members enjoyed the dinner at the Elms Hotel, followed by the annual meeting. John Brain, of Bristol, having completed his three-year term of office as president of the Society, retired, and Don Cobb, of Waltham Abbey, was elected to fill the vacancy. Other officers elected were: Ringing master for 1970/71, Andrew Slade; joint secretaries, John and Louise Slater; recorder, John Slater. The 1970 tour will be in the South Wales area during the last week of August, finishing at Gloucester or Painswick for the Bank Holiday week-end.

Holiday week-end.

On Sunday the "early risers" joined with the local band at Christ Church Cathedral for 9 o'clock service ringing and by 10 o'clock the "staggerers" had arrived and there was a full complement for service ringing at All Saints'. During the afternoon those members living at a distance said their "goodbyes" whilst the remainder enjoyed visiting Kidlington and Kirtlington. The last tower of the week-end was New College, where, to round off a most enjoyable reunion, a course of London Royal was successful.

Thank you, Oxford ringers, for giving us such a warm welcome, especially Philip Walker for helping with arrangements.

THE MASTER'S REPORT

The year 1969–1970 has been one of consolidation for the guild, especially at the Salisbury tower. I am pleased to report that there were only two Sundays when the bells were not rung for Evensong, there simply not being four ringers available. Progress at the Salisbury tower has been steady, with plain courses of Bob Doubles being rung by everyone. Touches have been rung by the more experienced ringers, and Bob Minor and Bob Triples should be achieved fairly soon.

I am glad to report that all ten bells of the Cathedral have been up a number of times during the year. Coming to mind was in April, when they were rung for the wedding of your newly-elected guild master. In November Joe Chamberlain and Kay Moore visited us from Malawi, and on this occasion Stedman was also rung, for the first time in Rhodesia, we think. On one or two other Sundays, finding that there were enough ringers, we took up and enjoyed ringing the ten bells as well. Other visitors to the tower were Mr. and Mrs. Purchase from Bulawayo, Mr. and Mrs. Hodson from Zambia, and on a number of occasions Mr. Edward Langley, who is at present on holiday in Gatooma, from England.

The Umvukwes handbell ringers have continued under the able guidance of Val Grossmith. The handbell ringing at Mabelreign Girls' High School does not seem to be lasting and I regret that it is no longer being done at Peterhouse School, either. Miss Frances Pellatt was (fortunate to spend some time in England last year (on holiday) and rang at 19 towers while there. She met Frank and Monica Blagrove, James Milford and Colin Stevenson, with whom she rang one of her two English quarter peals. We are benefiting from the knowledge she gained over there.

In December Christmas carols were played on the Cathedral bells for some ten minutes each lunch time, and these were also played on Christmas morning after services. My thanks to Roger Thomson for helping me to do this.

Ringing in Que Que has, I regret, been rather restricted to the school holidays, and at such times when there have been visiting ringers. However, a very enjoyable week-end was spent there by the guild early in December for the guild's half-yearly meeting. The bells rang out to Bob Minimus and Single Court and the handbells were also put to good use for tune and change ringing. Our thanks once again to all the organisers.

In closing, my thanks to Roger Thomson for his able handling of the guild secretary and treasurer duties.

> KENNETH S. CROSS, Guild Master.

I shall pass through this world but once. If there is any service I can do, or any kindness I can show, let me do it, for I shall not pass this way again.—

A HISTORY OF SPLICED MINOR

By C. A. WRATTEN

PART VI: INTO NEW FIELDS

WITH the Copt Oak peals in 106 and 126 methods the theoretical limit had again been reached, just as it had in 1939, and a pause ensued. It lasted for something over three life in Yorkshire, where a handbell band consisting of 5-6 W. Eric Critchley began to ring a few peals at Doncaster. By October, 42 methods had been rung. Fifty-seven methods followed the next February, and when on May 26 they scored 73 methods it definitely seemed that something was afoot. Had a new extent been produced which would enable the seemingly unbreakable "105 barrier" to be surmounted? It certainly seemed so, for one would not normally expect a band to ring peals of this type without some sort of record in view. And since the some sort of record in view. And since the 105-method peal had already been rung on handbells, the only record possible was a peal in a greater number of methods.

A SURPRISE

Then, while the readers of The Ringing World made their surmises and drew their conclusions, there suddenly appeared the report of a peal rung by the Lincolnshire band at Cleatham on August 8. There had been no warning, no hint from "working-up" pea's of what was coming. But the peal contained 106 methods, and was therefore a new record.

The essential new extent that had made it possible was once again the work of Kenneth Lewis, who had clearly inherited the mantle of the late A. G. Driver. Consisting as it did of 18 Plain and four Treble Bob methods, it marked an intriguing development in spliced composition.

It later transpired that the band had met for practice no less than 33 times that year, before finally scoring the peal. But at the time its impact was all the greater for its not having been expected.

. . . AND ANOTHER

Kenneth Lewis was evidently not content to let the matter rest there. If 105 methods were not the maximum possible in seven extents, as had at one time seemed likely, then why should 106 be?

In November it became patently clear that it indeed was not. On the 3rd of that month the Doncaster band, of whom nothing had been heard for six months, rang no less than methods in seven extents. One extent was (one is tempted to say naturally) a new arrangement by C. K. Lewis, this time in 16 Alliance and three Little methods.

It is of some interest to note that, in a congratulatory letter which appeared in The Ringing World the week after the report of the Doncaster peal, George Feirn remarked that it was now possible to include 112 methods that it was now possible to include 112 methods in a 5040. (This could be achieved by substituting Lewis's Plain and Treble Bob extent for one of the others that had been rung.) He understood that the Yorkshire band was to attempt this "in the near future." They must have been unsuccessful in this attempt, for no such peal was ever reported.

NEW COMPOSITIONS

Although practical record-breaking had thus apparently ceased, leaving the record firmly in composition hands,

During the course of 1957 several new extents appeared in print, some of them developments of earlier arrangements, others on quite new lines, C. K. Lewis succeeded in adding three, and later four, further methods to his 22-method extent, while a relative newcomer to Spliced Minor composition, Harold Chant.

produced several new arrangements, including one in 18 methods, which would allow the record to be increased by five.

Finally, early in 1960, after an interval of nearly five years, the Yorkshire trio once again picked up their handbells. On February 22 they rang two peals, one in 77 methods, the other in 87. Both contained yet another new extent by Harold Chapt, this time in 17 Treble extent by Harold Chant, this time in 17 Treble Bob. Little and Alliance methods.

... AND A NEW RECORD

Rather strangely, no more handbell peals followed this sudden burst of activity. Instead three more ringers were enlisted, a line apparently taken on the use of Thrybergh belts for peal attempts, and multi-Minor began to be practised on tower bells.

On June 17, 1960, 47 methods were rung by 1 Jo Moreton

1 Jo Moreton
2 Howard Scott
3 Harold Chant
4 Wilfrid F. Moreton (Conductor)
5 W. Eric Critchley
6 Ian M, Holland.
The first extent, Harold Chant's 18-method composition of 1957, by now rearranged to contain 20 methods, was a sign of things to come. In September C. K. Lewis's 25-method 220 was first rung, in a peal in 74 methods, and this was followed two months later by a and this was followed two months later by a peal in 98 methods. When it was seen that between them the final two extents of the latter peal contained only four methods, it was clear that the band had a good reserve in hand.

By this time Geoffrey Townend had re-placed Jo Moreton on the treble. And it was rang 125 methods in a 5040—for once not at Thrybergh, but at Felkirk. Two of the extents were the work of A. G. Driver, two were by C. K. Lewis, two by Harold Chant. and the seventh was the Lewis/Chant "25."

THE PRESENT

The story of how the record was subsequently The story of how the record was subsequently raised—first to 143 methods in December, 1963, by a Gloucestershire band under Anthony R. Peake, then in March, 1966, to 145 methods by Joe E. G. Roast's Essex band, only to be beaten by the Suffolk Guild four months later with a peal in 148 methods conducted by Howard Egglestone—is too fresh to merit recounting in detail yet again. It is, however, of some interest to see what made these peals, and the latest triumphs in 210 methods by the Southwell Guild, possible and the latest triumphs in 210 methods by the Southwell Guild, possible.

The 125-method peal at Felkirk in 1961 marked the end of an era, an era that had started at Surfleet just over 50 years earlier. During this period all the record peals had been composed within quite rigid limitations. The acceptance of "single-change" methods after the peal of Caithness Minor at Brentford after the peal of Caithness Minor at Brentford in 1959, the renewed acceptance and wider practice of methods not having Plain Bob leads, and, most recently, the reappearance of methods with internal 5-6 places, have all combined to make a much greater choice of methods available to the composer.

The supermarket has as it were replaced

The supermarket has, as it were, replaced the little corner shop as a source of material. the little corner shop as a source of material. When William Snowdon wrote in 1894 that methods obtained in this way, specifically for inclusion in spliced 720s, would never be rung "except as a fancy performance" he could not have envisaged the "fancy performances" of recent years. It is true that they are not, and probably never will be, generally rung, but they have nevertheless made possible such extents as those composed by Simon Humphrey over the past two years, containing 30 different over the past two years, containing 30 different T.B. methods in the 30 available leads.

THE FUTURE

Nor has the end yet been reached, for there remain such possibilities as "irregular" Alliance and Little methods to be explored. And just as the use of the whole range of available

Kent County Association CANTERBURY WIN

For the annual striking competition held on March 14th in the Church of All Saints, Birchington, with its lovely 8½ cwt. 1955 Whitechapel eight, six teams competed, the contest being judged by the general secretary, Mr. Alan P. S. Berry. At the meeting which followed, Mr. Berry gave a very well balanced judgement on the various teams competing.

All Saints, Whitstable, suffered from a poor rhythm, but the leads in particular improved towards the end of the Grandsire Doubles. St. Alphege, Seasalter, Whitstable, a young new band, ringing call-changes, had two bad patches, and also lacked rhythm in a fair effort. St. Dunstan, Canterbury set a brisk pace, though the back-stroke leads were slow, but it was a good rhythm and a well-rung piece of Stedman Doubles. The Cathedral, ringing Cambridge Minor, again set a brisk pace, and a high standard, though the little bells were often heard too much on top of the big ones. Boughton-under-Blean, another young and enthusiastic band, started badly and then improved until unfortunately run out. St. Stephen, Canterbury, with Bob Doubles, were concentrating too hard on ringing the method and, consequently, the ringing lacked unity.

The competition secretary (Mr. D. L. Cawley) announced the results: 1st, Canterbury Cathedral (23 faults); 2nd, Canterbury St. Dunstan (27½); 3rd, Whitstable All Saints (37½); 4th. Seasalter St. Alphege (73½); 5th. Canterbury St. Stephen (104½); 6th. Boughton, run out. Mr. Berry commented that generally there was, in the ringing, room for further improvement, but he congratulated all who took part for having done so.

The certificate and also the Frank Knight cup were awarded to Canterbury Cathedral, represented by Mr. D. J. Carr and, following this, All Saints, Whitstable, were awarded the certificate for the 1965 contest (the first held), which they had never received.

One new member from Boughton and eight from Chilham were then elected, and Mr. Berry urged support for the Kent County A.G.M. at Folkestone on Easter Monday. Mr. G. Grey (of Dover) thanked the local organisers, Mr. H. Luck (of Birchington All Saints). Mrs. J. A. Russell who headed the tea arrangements and the incumbent for the use of the bells.

Further ringing took place and later members took advantage of the availability of the twelve bells of the Waterloo Tower, Quex Park, where better striking than is usual on these fine but tricky bells was experienced. D. L. C.

methods has enabled the Treb'e Bob record to be increased from 73 methods to 210, so can the mixed-methods record of 148 methods be raised to an even higher figure.

be raised to an even higher figure.

With each new step forward by the composer someone has always asked "Has a peal now been produced that is too difficult for the team in the belfry to ring?" It was said for many years of John Carter's Scientific Triples; it was said of Pitman's "all the work" peals of Surprise Major. It will probably be said of any fufure arrangement which enables the Southwell Guild's wonderful achievements to be surpassed to be surpassed.

And the answer will then, just as it has in the past, ultimately appear in the peal columns of The Ringing World. Like Sherlock Holmes in The Sign of Four, the composer and arranger will always be able to say "You know my methods. Apply them!"

(Concluded.)

Letters

"ACTION-NOT WORDS"

Dear Sir, On behalf of the company of ringers who broke the silence at East Pennard, I would like to thank Mr. Fortin for his kind words (Ringing World, page 190). I am tempted, however, to answer his last paragraph by expressing the hope that he will shortly be (if he has not already been) in touch with the incumbent at Aylesbury and, if there is any hope at all of reviving the bells, that he will do the necessary work. "Action—not words" is a maxim too often ignored, as many association minute books and silent towers testify.

Readers may be interested to know that the same company arranged for a try-out of the ring of eight at St. Mary's, Islington, N.1, where there had been no ringing since the last war because of fears for the safety of the tower. This took place on March 10 in the presence of the church architect and under the supervision of Mr. A. J. Frost (of the C.C. Towers and Belfries Committee), who kindly arranged to make a report. After a close inspection of the tower and various tests with the bells, the conclusion was that it was quite safe to allow occasional ringing.

Details of the bells are: The original octave, of which the front six remain, by Pack and Chapman 1744, the seventh being recast in 1799 and the tenor in 1808, both at Whitechapel; the frame, diagonally set in the tower, is original, and the fittings are by Warner about 1900. They are a pleasant eight and go quite well. It should be added that, due to difficulties with such things as chiming hammers, the tower cannot be regarded at present as open for general ringing, but a visit on a Sunday evening is planned for the near future. -Yours faithfully,

RICHARD JONES.

RHODESIAN GUILD

Dear Sir,—I have pleasure in enclosing a copy of the master's report presented at the guild's annual general meeting held on March 8, 1970. [See page 268.]

There were 16 present at the meeting including Mr. Edward Langley, from Cornwall, England, who is on holiday in Rhodesia at present, Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Lawrence from Lusaka, Zambia, Mr. Harry Earle from Que Que (140 miles from Salis-bury) and Mrs. Val Grossmith from Um-vukwes (60 miles away).

The meeting was preceded by a luncheon a local hotel which was visited by the Bishop of Mashonaland, one of the presidents of the guild (the Bishop of Matabeleland being the other).

The ringing over the week-end was some of the best heard in Salis-The following methods were rung: Plain hunting on four, five, six, seven, eight, nine and ten; Plain Bob Doubles, Minor, Triples and Major; Grandsire Doubles and Stedman Doubles. Touches were rung of Bob Doubles and Grandsire Doubles. In all, a very fine week-end's ringing greatly enjoyed by all those present. Unfortunately Jon Chamberlain and Kay Moore from Malawi were not able to attend the meeting, otherwise a quarter peal would have been attempted.—Yours faithfully,

ROGER THOMSON, Hon. Secretary. MUSICAL PEALS

Dear Sir,-Mr. Stevens is obviously right to call for more time per peal for musical rows, but there is a danger in this line of thought.

The emotional pleasure of the sound "on-the-surface" can sometimes be short-With most music. lived and pall quickly. a study of the underlying structure helps the listener at subsequent hearings to be more conscious of the elements involved, and so be more satisfied. This synthesis of heart and brain is successful finally in that it recognises the same process involved in creation. The artist has to reconcile intellect and emotion when he fits his free imaginations into hard traditional forms of expression in the medium.

With ringing, the listener who can hear the state of affairs, or the structional situation which underlies any extent of the changes, and which is responsible for the notable musical rows, is getting a deeper satisfaction than the listener who is merely pleasantly surprised by Queens or Whit-

It would seem very important that new peals of "artistic merit" should have as their base new structural devices capable and worthy of intellectual investigation and analysis. I believe that these structural devices can be discovered and, by their appearance later, will affect the evolution of bells and bellhanging so that the instrument may be modified as new musical demands are put upon it.

As yet we may only guess at what the new music will be. One thing is sureringers must broaden their definitions of music in order that new ideas may come into the scope of being "musical." The present music of the ringing world is of antique interest only to the musical world, while the potential music of ringing is not only exciting but may well be influential in musical culture at a later date. — Yours faithfully,

JOHN COCKIN.

THE VISIT TO ILKLEY

Preparing for the Central Council's visit to Ilkley in May, Mr. R. Crabtree sends the following information:—

"The first stage has been completed: This was soundproofing the bells, which are to be rung every evening. The work took three weeks; three Saturdays' hard work by most of the ringers, including much valuable assistance from Mark Wilkinson (aged 11), our youngest ringer, who worked all the time. The local newsagent, when told of our work, commented: 'The soundproofing is really good; I could not hear the bells on practice night.' The point is that we did not ring last practice night!

"The verger, however, stated that the bells sounded to be almost muffled but he thought we had made a good job and would stop any complaints. The soundproofing can, however, be removed for services and special occasions.

"Recently a visit was made by The Daily Telegraph in preparation for an article to be published at the time of the meeting. All the local band are looking forward to entertaining the Central Council."

Mr. P. L. R. Hayward writes:—
"In the Belfry Gossip column of the R.W., March 13, page 199, there was an incorrect statement relating to the quarter peal analysis. Addington, having rung 39 quarter peals during 1969, come equal first with Woodborough, who also rang 39 during last year."

COUNCIL MATTERS

Dear Sir,-I am very much in sympathy with the views expressed by Mr. Mew in his letter (Ringing World, March 20, 1970, page 210). Both he and I were presented as new members of the Central Council last year and I am sure he will agree that neither of us was there with the intention of having our intelligence insulted or "the wool pulled over our eyes" by those "set in authority over us." The task of secin authority over us." The task of sec-retary to the Central Council is surely onerous enough without the suspicion and even open hostility of a section of the Exercise being invoked. Be magnanimous, Mr. Bottomley, offer an apology and let us all return to matters of the present and future and allow the errors of the past to be forgotten if not forgiven.

To my mind the most important motion passed at last year's meeting of the Central Council was that instructing the Standing Committee to "examine the constitution of the Council and to make recommendations with a view to ensuring that the business of the Council is completed in a satisfactory manner." I am at least one member of the Council who earnestly hopes that compromise and reactionary traditionalism have not been the watchwords of the Standing Committee's deliberations.

Mr. Mew hopes that a fresh wind will blow at this year's meeting. I do hope that the odour of musk and moth balls will not too obviously pervade this fresh wind and that it is not only the weak that will go to the wall but many if not all of the entrenched rules and customs of the Council which have become sacrosanct by the passage of time.

This is an age in which respect for authority in any form has taken hard knocks and the Central Council has had its share. An opportunity is being afforded for the Council to restore to itself the confidence and respect of the Exercise as a whole. A streamlined, efficient Council could be a "power in the land" in ringing, and I appeal to fellow members, old and new, to make this possible. I am sure we shall all regret it if this opportunity is allowed to pass and the unsatisfactory status quo is allowed to continue indefinitely. — Yours faithfully,

KEITH G. GAME. Redhill, Surrey.

PEAL BY YOUNG LADIES

Forwarding a report of a peal by young ladies, Mr. W. F. Scudamore writes:—
"The peal [of Grandsire Doubles] rung at Mitcheldean was by a group of young ladies from this county (Gloucestershire), the average age being 15 years. The youngest is 12 years and the eldest 17, and it contained nearly all firsts. The peal was rung both for the Gloucester and Bristol and also the Ladies' Guild and this is the first peal by a band of ladies all resident within the county and the youngest band to ring such a peal for the Association.

The Rector of Mitcheldean (Rev. E. W P. Ainsworth), himself a ringer, acted as umpire for the peal and was the first to congratulate them after the event. Those who heard it have remarked on the good standard of the ringing, in spite of the fact that they were extremely tired after their venture. It is certain that this is not the last we shall hear of the group, as most of them are capable of ringing Triples and Caters. All are active members of the Forest of Dean and Bristol Rural Branches of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association and follow the meetings of the South Wales and Western Area Branches of the Ladies' Guild."

INTERESTING FACTS

The peal of Xenia Surprise Major at Loughborough was the first peal in the method for the Midland Counties Guild, and was rung in memory of E. Frederick Gover, who rang with the Tuesday band at the Foundry on many occasions. It was also the first in the method for all (except Richard Clifton and Joseph Cotton) and the 50th together for Ronald Edwards, Richard Clifton, Joseph Cotton and Malcolm Neville. It is Malcolm's 36th peal at the Foundry since October, 1967, and altogether he has rung 83 peals there, 50 of them on the fifth bell.

Dinners

Liverpool University Society

ANNUAL DINNER WEEKEND

On February 28 the Liverpool University Society celebrated at Bedford House its 10th birthday with the annual dinner, described as the biggest and most successful in the Society's history, according to the master (Mr. A. J. Macefield).

The weekend began on Friday with practice at St. Francis Xavier, the University tower, and later at Our Lady and St. Nicholas, Pier Head. A number of ringers fitted into the very small upstairs room of the Pig and Whistle, the Society's tradi-tional pub, and nothing could dampen their spirits.

Many slept "rough" on Friday but turned out for peals on Saturday. For the Society peals of 3-Spliced (a Society first of Spliced) and Yorkshire were completed. The visitors rang Stedman Cinques at Liverpool Cathe-Yorkshire Royal at Blackburn Cathedral and Knotty Ash Delight at Emmanuel, Southport. General ringing was at Oxton (8) on the Wirral peninsula, and after lunch at Bebington (8) and Port Sunlight (8). Then over (or under) the Mersey to Our Lady and St. Nicholas (12), where some had their first ring on 12.

In the evening 148 assembled at Bedford House and visitors were welcomed from the Universities of Aberystwyth, Leeds, Manchester, Sheffield and Wales, and others from all parts of England and Wales.

The master proposed the loyal toast and introduced Mr. Alec Martin (Oxton), master of the Chester Guild, who proposed the toast of "The Church." He warned the young people present to be willing to preserve their bells by giving generously of their time and money. As students, benefiting from the best education system in the world, and the affluent people of the future, so they should foot the bill and inspire enthusiasm.

Responding, the Rev. J. St. Hilary-Mullet said he had met the perfect symbol in John Moss, who was a ringer at Bollington, near Macclesfield (his previous parish). He had rung during the reigns of six sovereigns, stopped at the age of 94 and died shortly after. In Africa the traditional way of calling people to service was by hammering a piece of railway line. It was called the "zindi."

"The Visitors" was proposed by Mr. Peter Bennett, a founder member and first master. He said the Rev Mullet had been instrumental in the installation of the six Que Que in Rhodesia and had also worked in Gibraltar. Mr. Bennett welcomed Peter Border, well known for his ringing on Barford's ring of three and at St. Philip's, Birmingham, and also welcomed guests from all parts of the country.

Replying, and proposing the toast of "The Society," Mr. Peter Border expressed his pleasure at finding himself in Liverpool, a city of many associations. He complimented the Society on its successful ten years and hoped it would continue to flourish.

The master, replying, congratulated the Society on its many activities and said it versatile Society indeed. Later Mr. Cyril Crossthwaite demonstrated the Woodhouse ringing machine to an interested Service ringing at Our Lady and St. Nicholas took place next day, the highlight being the ringing at the Anglican Cathedral (12, 82 cwt.).

72 YEARS' SERVICE

Mr. William H. Leeson, at 84, is the oldest ringer in the Solihull (Birmingham) tower-the tower in which he has rung for 72 years. He professes to be self-taught and although he has only rung a dozen or so peals he has rung innumerable quarters. A gardener all his working life, Bill is very fit and enjoys outdoor recreation as well as his bellringing. He has a fund of stories of happenings in the tower and recalls the time the ringers had to protect the church On another ocagainst the suffragettes. casion, on Queen Victoria's funeral day, during the service there was a heavy bump, and later the steeplekeeper, named "Bronco" Fairfield, was found unconscious at the foot of a ladder, where he had fallen when muffling the bells. May Bill Leeson enjoy many more years among his bells.

"THE MOTHER OF INVENTION"

The captain of St. Alphege's, Seasalter, was recently told by his vicar: "When I was curate of a church in Croydon the bell would not 'work to order' at the death of a prominent member. A visit to the belfry by the sexton apparently put things right. Shortly afterwards the church toilet was found to be without its chain and ballcock; the missing articles were found doing duty in the belfry as a novel chiming apparatus. 'The whole thing was in consecrated ground,' explained the sexton!"

Those present included the master (Mr. Maccfield). Miss P. Jenkina, Rev. and Mrs. St. Hilary-Mullet, Mr. and Mrs. P. Border, Mr. P. Bennett, Mr. A. Martin, Miss A. Waldron, Mr. G. Sparling, Miss S. East Grinstead Guild

JOINT MEETING ARRANGED

Over 60 attended the 43rd A.G.M. which was held at Chiddingstone on March 14. when the bells at Hever, Leigh and Penshurst were also available. The Guild service was conducted by Rev. J. R. Elkington (rector), followed by tea served in the village hall.

At the meeting eight new members were elected and the reports by the chairman and treasurer were adopted. All the officers were re-elected, with the addition of Mr. R. D. Divall (vice-president) and C. Bassett, of Tunbridge Wells (committee mem-

It was announced that the meeting in April would be a joint one with the Southern District of the Surrey Association at Godstone and Lingfield, and there will be no meeting in May. A stoolball match against the Northern District of the Sussex County Association is to be held in June at West Grinstead.

It was agreed to donate an amount towards the restoration of Cudham bells and to have a retiring collection for the same cause. It was decided to accept an invitation to attend the Croydon centenary celebrations in September and to arrange a meeting at East Grinstead in the autumn.

Thanks were expressed to the incumbents where ringing had taken place, to the ladies who prepared tea and to Mr. P. R. Everest for the local arrangements.

Herts County Association. OUTING PLANNED

The Eastern District February meeting was held at Amwell, near Ware, ringing being under the guidance of the new ringing master, Mr. David Harris. The service was conducted by the Rev. Edmund The service Walker, and later the congregation moved to the church hall for tea served by the ringers' wives.

Mr. S. James, the district secretary, welcomed Mr. Walter Ayre, the county president, and announced the ringing programme for the year ahead. An outing is to be held in the Grantham area. cussions included Surprise practices which are being introduced and the belfry maintenance team, who will, with permission, be visiting certain unringable towers to investigate the possibility of carrying out minor repairs to restore them into ringable condition.

Concluding the meeting Mr. Newnham (deputy ringing master) proposed thanks to the vicar, organist and the tea ladies for their co-operation, and further ringing continued at Amwell, when Spliced Sur-B. J. W. F. prise was successful.

The Northern District held a six-bell meeting on March 7, when several memat Codicote. Notices "Beware of holes in the floor" were carefully heeded before ascending the tower, and here the local captain and the incumbent welcomed the visitors.

The gathering proceeded to St. Ippolyts for further ringing under the direction of Ian Panton and Rex Agg and the evening closed in the usual manner. M. M. R.

OUR FRIENDS THE CLERGY

It appears to be the object of the Church of England to plant at least one English gentleman in every parish in the land. In this they have admirably succeeded. I can think of many less worthy objects.—

Sir Shane Leslie, Historian.

OUR PAPER

The Ringing World Committee met at the Whitechapel Bell Foundry on March 14, primarily to consider the accounts for 1969 and the annual report to be made to the Central Council at Ilkley. But a large amount of other business was also dealt with and, in accordance with our recent policy, we outline here some of the results of our deliberations. We are glad to report that again we had a full attendance from the committee members, the Editor and his predecessor and Mr. D. Hughes, our treasurer. We also welcomed the president and vice-president of the Central

The committee received details of the W. White testimonial and decided to keep the fund open until May 1, so that all possible contributions could be included in the presentation to be made at the Council meeting. The accounts for 1969 and the auditor's report thereon were considered at length and will be before the Council in May. Suffice it therefore to say here that last year's debit balance has been turned into a small surplus, that the system of accounting at Guildford has been simplified and that we are now largely self-contained there. The committee's thanks were accorded to Mr. C. W. Lucas and to Mr. David Tate, the auditor, for their work.

The Editor produced a sample of the proposed Ringing World calendar for 1971. which will be available in the autumn and it is hoped that all our readers will support this new venture. The Christmas gift token scheme will be tried again and application forms will be printed in October.

Encouraged by the preponderance of favourable comment, the committee have decided that the coloured pictorial covers shall be used in August this year. On the other hand we have also decided that, because of our concern over the delay of certain contributors in submitting peals for publication, peals sent in which are three months old or over will be printed in abbreviated form as used for quarter peals. We trust, however, that the necessity for this will not arise.

Preliminary ideas were discussed and certain decisions taken as to the method of celebrating our Diamond Jubilee in 1971. Further announcement will be made when arrangements are finalised, but in the meantime we welcome any suggestions from readers and we suggest that Saturday, March 27, 1971, be provisionally booked for a very special occasion.

As an experiment we have asked the Editor to print all the details of multi-method peals in future, but we ask our correspondents to abbreviate their peal reports as much as possible, by reference to published lists, etc. The matter will be reviewed as necessary.

The convener submitted to the committee certain letters which the Editor had decided for various reasons not to print. Each letter was read and in certain cases the subsequent correspondence between the writer and the convener. The action, or

A practice night each Saturday evening has been arranged by the Peterborough Branch. Visitors are most welcome.

Cambridge Minor was chosen for a quarter at Highclere, Hants, when the conductor's brother was married, as the newlyweds are to live in Cambridge.

First peal congratulations to Nicola M. Paton (12), Jane M. Scudamore (16), Ann L. Brain (14), Hazel' A. Barton (12), Diane M. White, Graham Hudson.

A creche was supplied for ringers with young children at the meeting at Folke-stone recently and proved so successful it is expected to become a regular feature.

The peal rung by the Exeter Colleges Guild at Exminster on February 14 was rung for the Guild of Devonshire Ringers. All their quarters and peals are rung for the county guild.

Personal records: Michael Hallett (100 peals), Roland H. Cook (350), Trevor M. Roderick (200), Peter A. Slight (100), William Willans (25), Julia A. Fellows (100 on handbells).

Paulerspury belfry, states the Peter-borough Diocesan Guild's newsletter, has had a face-lift. The walls have been painted by Mr. Jim Booth, and Mr. and Mrs. Percy Foster have added a very attractive oak table.

The Reading University Society held its A.G.M. on March 5th, and the new officers for 1970-71 are: president, Rev. J. Graham; master, John R. Leary; secretary, Susan K. Taylor; treasurer, Richard J. Woodward; steeplekeeper and archivist, John H. Sunderland inaction, of the Editor or convener was supported by the committee, who were pleased to note that in some instances the original request for publication had been withdrawn.

The form of the annual report to the Central Council was decided and this will appear in full in The Ringing World in due course. The committee hope to meet again before the summer holidays and expressed their thanks to Mr. Hughes for his hospitality.

A very long meeting was concluded in time for those present (except for Mr. Freeman, who had to catch his train) to attend a farewell dinner given to Mr. White as a token of their affection and appreciation. Mr. J. F. Smallwood was also a welcome guest of the committee.

WILFRID G. WILSON,

Convener.

Well-known Somerset ringer, Mr. J. Cornelius, rang his 150th quarter of Doubles on March 21 at North Perrott.

The Peterborough Guild's general committee has decided not to hold a dinner this Branches are to be asked to forgo their individual dinners in 1971 in favour of a guild dinner, and again in 1974 for the guild's golden jubilee.

Certificates of membership of a guild were a prized possession to many ringers at one time, but several associations have lapsed in the issue of them. Stocks of these expensively-printed cards often are to be found in the secretaries' box files and we suggest they be taken out, dusted and issued to new members.

A welcome back to Mr. Robert G. Chappele to the quarter peal columns after an absence of 36 years (a quarter peal at Hayes!) Bob has been out of ringing for many years, his last of any length being a peal of Grandsire Cinques at High Wycombe in 1934. He has returned to join the new band at Hayes, and rang the seventh to Grandsire Triples, which was the first quarter on the new eight.

We conclude in this issue Mr. C. A. Wratten's series on "A History of Spliced Minor," which we feel certain has been read with considerable interest and pleasure. We express our thanks to Mr. Wratten for giving us the opportunity of publishing the story.

The effort of the younger generation at Lincoln and Nettleham in arranging and scoring their first quarter of Bob Doubles on March 21 must have brought pleasure to those who have spent hours teaching them over the past three years. We are informed that the striking was a credit to

It is nearly 60 years since the Kent County Association held its A.G.M. at Folkestone, and Mr. E. Barnett sen., in sending an apology for absence, said that after the meeting in 1911 the bells were not rung down. Unfortunately a non-ringing curate attempted to toll for a service and was thrown across the belfry and sustained a broken arm. The K.C.A. have taken a long time to live down that occurrence.

MILTON (GRAVESEND) BAND

"I feel I must pay tribute to the band of teenagers, some of whom are still at school," writes E. M. M., of Southwick, Sussex. "I left Milton (Gravesend) nearly three years ago, but they have kept together and the progress they have made is excellent. They give me a right royal welcome whenever I visit them. They all regularly attend church; some are in the choir and one is the cross-bearer.

"I had the pleasure of listening to a little of the ringing in which they took part when a half-muffled peal was rung as a tribute to Mr. and Mrs. T. Francis, and this would be their first peal!

"More than £300 is needed to put the bells in order, and all have worked very hard in one way and another and so far collected £200.

"God bless them and may they keep Milton bells going for a very long time."

Obituary

HERBERT W. KNIGHT

The death at the age of 81 of Herbert W. Knight, of Wrington, Somerset, as briefly recorded recently, has removed from the ringing scene one of the best known and best loved ringers in the Bath and Wells Association.

Herbert was the most gentle of men, always courteous, tolerant and helpful, and in all he did for the association he carried with him the respect and affection of all those of us who were privileged to meet and work with him. He was the second longest serving member of the association, his election dating from 1904, at Claptonin-Gordano, where he was born and lived for a number of years. He rang his first peal there in 1905, and as a member of a very active band took part in a number of peals in the area, including the first peals on the bells at Abbots Leigh and Westonin-Gordano.

Herbert worked all his life as a forester, and when he moved to Cleeve, where his employer had extensive plantations, he started his long association with the church and the bells at Wrington Parish Church, where he was captain for 36 years until ill-health overtook him.

He was first elected ringing master of the Chew Branch in 1929, a post which he held until 1968, and was chairman of the branch from 1931 until his death. In 1964 he was made an honorary life member for services rendered to the association. gifts were many, both as ringer and conductor, and in earlier days he was very active in the handbell field, especially during the last war, when tower bells were silent. He was outstanding at rising and lowering in peal, and one of his achie ements to be remembered was his trebling up on the 12 at Exeter a few years ago, which he did with professional skill with a band from the branch.

Herbert's peals amounted to 152, most of which were rung for the Bath and Wells, the remainder in Bristol and Worcestershire. He had a strong link with St. Stephen's, Bristol, during the late 1920s and 1930s, and rang a number of peals there with Jack Burford, Alf Reeves and other well-known Bristol ringers of the time, and at one time was chairman of the old Bristol United Ringing Guild. In Somerset he rang peals mostly in the north of the county, including, of course, a number at his own tower at Wrington. After a lapse of six years he rang and called his last peal of St. Clement's Triples in 1967, at the age of 78, a wonderful achievement, which gave him and the band immense pleasure. Soon after this ill-health forced him to give up active ringing, but he continued to attend meetings, and, happily for us, and I am sure for him, we spent an enjoyable evening with him after our monthly meeting only a week before his death.

A large congregation, including the general secretary, Mr. J. H. Gilbert, and about 40 ringers from the Chew, Frome and Axbridge Branches attended the funeral service at Redhill Church on March 3 in support of members of his family. The Rector of Redhill, the Rev. F. H. Hurford, The spoke of Mr. Knight's Christian qualities, and after a fully choral service the coffin, carried by four branch members, was laid to rest with his late wife, herself a much-loved ringer, who died in 1964. At the graveside a course of Grandsire Triples was rung by D. G. Yeo 1-2, Margaret Chapman

OVER 50 YEARS' RINGING

Mr. Sidney H. Jones, of 15 Monsom Lane, Repton, Derbyshire, completed 52 years of bellringing on February 1 of this year—which was also his birthday! He learned to ring at Newhall, Derbyshire, at the age of nine and a year later rang at a church in Blackpool.

For about four years he was ringing master of the Midland Counties Guild of Bellringers and he is also a member of the Derby Diocesan Guild of Bellringers.
During his 52 years of bellringing Mr. Jones has rung in 289 different towers He has taken part in 197 peals, the longest of which, 10,368 changes of London Surprise at Loughborough Bell Foundry in 1951, was rung in 5 hours and 26 minutes. Again in 1951, he took part in three peals of London Surprise in three counties in one day-in Derbyshire, Staffordshire Leicestershire.

Mr. Jones has been captain of the Repton band of ringers for many years. When celebrated his 50th anniversary as a bellringer the vicar invited the ringers to a celebration party at the vicarage, during which they presented Mr. Jones with a suitably inscribed chiming clock.

WHATTON'S EIGHT BELLS

(See also page 268) Comments on the Whatton bells expressed since the opening are that Taylors have made a very good splice, and that the six are now converted into a good or even a very good eight. Our own thoughts, perhaps, are mixed, but we are satisfied with the sound outside the tower. In fact it is doubtful if it could be improved, but we are not completely satisfied with the sound inside. There is some loss of sound at backstroke when all the sallies are in the shutes, but we shall continue to experiment until we are satisfied. The general com-ment in the village is that they are a vast improvement, and even those who con-demned Gillett and Johnston for spoiling the old five by, adding a treble in 1913 are now favourably inclined.

The competition to guess the total weight of the two new bells was won by Mr. Colin Reed, of Balderton, who gave the correct figure of 8 cwt. 1 qr. 5 lb. W. L. E.

3-4, W. H. Kingcott 5-6, M. Collins 7-8. Muffled ringing took place at a number of towers during the week, details of which are given elsewhere in this journal.

Our sympathy is extended to the family in their sad loss. His presence will be sadly missed both in the Chew Branch and in the county generally. In thanking God for his life and service we can but point to his example and do our best to try to follow it to the best of our ability.

40th ANNIVERSARY

From Mr. Phil Avery, D.C.M. (aged 82 and 70 years a ringer), of Clacton, Essex: "The achievement of the Leytonstone band in Spliced Surprise ringing was a great event of the 1930s, when 23 methods were rung to a peal.

"I am the only surviving member of that band. The difficulty was that five of our band were railwaymen and on shift work. The peal was rung on March 24, 1930, and so that date is the 40th anniversary. Though I didn't ring in the actual peal I rang all the methods at practice under J. L. Joyce.
"I had the privilege of ringing in the first

Carlisle and Cunecastre. Of course today this has been surpassed—but good luck to all and to the R.W."

A JOHN DARBIE BELL

Mr. Claude Rush, of Felixstowe, sends a newspaper cutting showing a bell being hauled by block and tackle at Bury St. Edmunds on March 16.

It is a 290-years-old bell made by the Ipswich firm of John Darbie and was hoisted 70 feet into the new bell turret of St. Edmundsbury Cathedral.

The 9 cwt. bell comes from the disused St. John's Church at Stanton, near Bury. and is being provided as a memorial to the late Archdeacon Hugh Norton, who was Archdeacon of Sudbury.

Unused for years, the bell—which is inscribed "John Darbie made me 1680"—has been overhauled at Whitechapel Foundry.

It is being installed so that it can be chimed for daily services either electrically or by hand. The bell will be dedicated in a few weeks' time.

Mr. Rush adds: Raven, 1890, shows St. John Baptist, Stanton, Suffolk, as having four bells, Nos. 1, 2 and 4 all inscribed "John Darbie made me 1680," the tenor having the addition of "IW SB Cws." upon it. The 3rd bore no inscription. The tenor is shown as of note G, diameter 37 inches.

Dunster Deanery (B. and W.).

CARHAMPTON BELLS ENJOYED

The spring quarterly meeting of the Dunster Deanery was held on March 14 at Car-hampton. The grand ring of six bells (tenor 14 cwt.) sounded beautiful ringing out over the village to speed the latecomers.

The vicar made all very welcome and conducted the service, and Prebendary Taylor came from Hindhead to give the address. Mr. Jack Tudball, of Dunster, and Mr. W. Capp, ringers of long standing who had passed away recently, were remembered.

Tea was served in the village hall, and at a short business meeting the chairman gave a report on the new rules, and these were discussed. The secretary spoke on the learners' practices and future branch practices were arranged. A return was then made to the tower. It was most encouraging to see the younger members both ringing and calling touches. Methods up to Cambridge Minor were rung until 9 p.m., when the bells were lowered, con-cluding a happy day.

P. J. T. cluding a happy day.

Look after your first "quarter-pealers." The "100-pealers" are quite capable of looking after themselves.

50 YEARS AGO

Taken from The Ringing World for April 9, 1920

The first peal of Cambridge Surprise
Royal in Surrey was rung at Croydon, and Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Johnston entertained the ringers before and after the peal.

There were seven first peals of Treble Bob Royal at Bromsgrove conducted by George Pigott.

Miss V. Shorter rang the treble for a peal of Plain Bob Major at Epsom, conducted by R. Lathbury.

ducted by R. Lathbury.

Three new bells to make a ring of six were dedicated at Breaston, Notts, by Canon Field, of St. Mary's, Nottingham.

An ornamental oak casement with glass panel door was unveiled in the belfry of St. Mary's, Rawtenstall, to be used for peal cards recording local efforts achieved.

A record number (180) attended the Henry Johnson Dinner at Birmingham, when Canon Gorse Hodge was in the chair.

A quarter of Grandsire Double on hand-

A quarter of Grandsire Double on handbells was rung by Edward Webb (11) 1-2, C. H. Webb 3-4, H. Webb (14) 5-6.
Date touches (1920 changes) were rung at Perry Barr (Grandsire Triples), Cuckfield (Bob Major) and Penwortham (Oxford, Kent and Plain Bob Minor).

25 YEARS AGO April 6, 1945

The leading article suggested that ringers should approach the question of competitive ringing with open minds and as free from prejudice as possible.

At Leeds, Kent, four members of the Dobbie family took part in a peal of Stedman Caters conducted by J. E. Spice.

William A. Theobald and Stanley E. Cook rang their first peal of Grandsire Triples at Soberton.

A peal of Stedman Cinques in hand at the Tamworth Arms, Birmingham, was umpired by Albert Walker. Ringing was resumed at Leytonstone following repairs necessary from damage during the war.

At the Irish Association A.G.M. Mr.

Fred E. Dukes was elected hon. secretary and was also presented with a brief case from the St. George's Society in appreciation of his work.

A letter from A. Ballard gave details of some continental bells he had explored during his service with P.L.A. in Holland and Germany.

At St. James' Church, Southbroom, Devizes, five of the six ringers rang their first of Minor, conducted by J. S. Weeks.

St. Catherine, Montacute, Somerset

St. Catherine. Montacute

THE CHURCH OF ST. CATHERINE. built entirely of local Ham stone, probably stands on the site of an earlier one, but the pre-Norman church has entirely disappeared. We are told it became a place of pilgrimage which necessitated a larger church in Norman times. This church no doubt consisted of a nave, separated from a chancel by the present Norman arch. The Norman arch, now built into the north wall, may have been an order of one of the doors of this church, and carved stones of the same period may be seen built into the structure of the present church.

Late in the 13th century the chancel of this church was lengthened and transepts added north and south, and a little later the north porch with its parvis was built, the latter now being the organ loft. The chancel is about 3 degrees out of alignment with the nave, and although a relatively small amount it is distinctly noticeable from the west end. We are given to understand that the sun rises through the east window on St. Catherine's Day. November 25, but the number of times St. Catherine's Day dawns clear and bright are so few it is difficult to be certain.

In the 15th century the nave may have been lengthened and perhaps rebuilt. Windows of the period were inserted, a tower was added at the west end and the porch connected with the north transept by a small vaulted inner porch. In recent times a vestry has been added to the south side of the chancel and a door made in the south transept.

The tower is not as ornamental as some Somerset towers, its pinnacles having apparently been removed at some time before 1700 and its height is now only 85 feet.

The lower bands of quatrefoils on the south side of the tower were chiselled off about 1790 by the sons of the Rev. William Langdon so that they could play fives between the buttresses.

BELL DETAILS

The details of the bells are as follows:— Treble.—Mears and Stainbank founders London. To the glory of God. 1837 Victoria 1901. 7-3-7. 2' 11".

2nd.—First I call to wake you all. domini 1619 TE GC. 9 cwt. 3' 3rd. — Geeve thankes to God. Anno domini 1610. 11 cwt. 3' 3".

4th.—Hee that heareth mee to sound let him alwais praies the Lord. 1614. 13 cwt. 3' 6".

5th.—Thomas Mears and Son of London. Fecit recast 1810. Mr. John Wilton Churchwarden. 16 cwt. 3' 10". Tenor.—Anno domini 1733. William Knight Bellfounder. 23 cwt. 4' 3".

C sharp.

The 2nd, 3rd and 4th were cast by Robert Wiseman, of Montacute, and probably the original 5th and tenor as well. The Wiseman family were casting bells in Montacute from 1589 until at least 1681, and before them there was the much earlier foundry of Thomas Hey, on two of whose bells at West Chinnock and Pitney we find the in-scription in old English: "Sancta Katerina de Monte Acuto." The tenor was cast by William Knight, of Closworth, and is decorated with Perdue's frieze ornaments and bears the initials of Edward and Elizabeth Phelips, of Montacute House. The cost, including new wheel, was £23 4s. 6d. The fact that there was already a fifth bell is borne out by details in the churchwardens' borne out by details in the churchwardens' accounts of that year stating: "Expenses for taking down the great bell and weighing same 3/3" and "Paid Bilbie for coming here about takeing the bell 5/-" It cost them 1s. to fetch it from Closworth and another 1s. to hang it. The new frame made at South Petherton cost £14 4s. 5d., including fitting and night new horses including fitting and eight new brasses (bearings) £3 12s.

There is no mention in the accounts of the recasting of the present 5th in 1810, probably the whole cost being paid by John Wilton, churchwarden, living at the Abbey at Montacute, and no record of the original date of the bell.

The treble was added in 1901 to the memory of Queen Victoria, Mr. William Robert Phelips, of Montacute House, being mainly responsible for raising the £240 4s 8d. needed, and the oak frame still in use and in excellent condition was made by Harry Stokes, of Woodbury, Devon, out of timber cut from the Phelips estate.

In 1948 Jack Farthing introduced changeringing, and with Hugh Cannon and "Nor-rie" Jones raised the necessary £272 17s. 6d. (!) to have the bells rehung on roller bearings by Mears and Stainbank in the same year. The current aim is to have the bells rehung again, at a lower level, to reduce the movement of the tower (which is quite considerable and makes good striking difficult) and to add two trebles.

Not surprisingly there have been only four peals recorded — one of Cambridge, one of Plain Bob Minor, one of Grandsire Doubles and one of Mixed Doubles.

(Dedicated to the tower master, St. Catherine's, Montacute, Somerset, by M. M. L.)

I know of a curious fellow Who works with old pieces of wood All ancient and broken and precious, And he lives in a house that is good

And when he's not thinking of timber He thinks of six bell ropes instead: All verdant and silver and golden As many good bell ropes are made,

He rings great bells in churches and chapels For service, for living and dead, And the sun through the windows makes dapples All verdant and golden and red.

Now the bells in his tower were precious. As dear to the man as his wood, All ancient, majestic and gracious In calling to church—as they should

The man he took ale in the village, And jingled his money and keys, And he said. "You can have all the glory But give me my timber-and these.

So he dreamed up a beautiful method To all the old craftsmen of yore Who had given their earthly donation And entered the heavenly door.

It told of such ordinary ringers, All eager and hopeful and proud, Of their service in God's holy calling For Worship, the Bride, and the Shroud.

The people all smiled when they heard it And the man he was grinning like fun. While the great bronze bell mouths on their bell [wheels Were settling to rest, with a hum,

So the man he stood still in the belfry, With the silly old world rushing by, As he gazed at the ropes' ends and tuftings-Sweet music came down from the sky.

Where the angels from all the church windows Looked down through the heavenly floor, With the spirits of all the old ringers Who had entered their spiritual door;

And they taught him new secrets of ringing With sallies, green, silver and gold, And the methods will live on for ever In towers so ancient and old.

To all you who sit by the fireside When you ought to be "there" on your knees, Just heed to the great bronze bells calling And be grateful for ringers like these.

ALTERNATIVE ENDING for more realistic people! Just heed to the great bronze bells calling And come-though it's going to freeze,

(With humble apologies to Sir Alfred Munnings. K.C.V.O., P.P.R.A.)

Leeds Society's Final Dinner

The Society had its final fling on March 7, when an excellent dinner was enjoyed by over 70 members and friends at St. Chad's new Parish Centre, Far Headingley, Prior to the dinner a peal of Plain Bob Major was rung on the bells at St. Chad's by a band which included seven past and present officers and which was conducted by Mr. William Barton, a veteran of the Society.

After the meal the Society's president, Mr. Robin Brown, welcomed the guests, including the president, secretary and treasurer of the Yorkshire Association and their wives. He read out a list of seven peals and 19 quarters which had been rung at towers in the area as a final tribute to the Society, and especially mentioned the peal of Plain Bob Major at Guiseley, in which Mr. Dyson Scargill rang his first peal at the age of 67.

CLAPPERS TURNED

Mr. Barton, who joined the Society around 1914, was the chief speaker, and from his wealth of experience he reminisced about the Society and its personalities in the years between the wars. One incident which caused much mirth was on the occasion of a meeting at Pudsey, when on raising the bells in peal the tenor went up the wrong way, as was its wont when raised by strangers. One of the young Pudsey ringers was sent up to turn the tenor clapper, but instead of doing so he left it alone and quietly turned the clappers of all the other bells. The resultant striking had to be heard to be believed and it was not until the youth collapsed laughing that it was realised what he had done.

Mr. Barton paid special tribute to Harry Lofthouse and Tom Strangeway, who both played an invaluable part in the life of the Society. Finally he wished Mr. Brown and the new branch of the Yorkshire Association every success, and said the dinner marked the end of one era and the start of another.

Mr. Vernon Bottomley, president of the Yorkshire Association, reiterated what Mr. Barton had said, and proposed the toast of "The Leeds and District Branch of the Yorkshire Association."

The dinner was brought to a close by the presentation of an engraved tankard, which had been donated to the Society/Branch as a prize for the annual striking competition. The president presented the tankard to Mr. W. F. Moreton, captain of the Wakefield Cathedral band, who first won the competition in 1968. It is to be later presented to 1969's winners. Chapel Allerton, for their retention until the next competition in the autumn.

RECTOR LEAVES SEVENOAKS

Canon E. M. T. McLellan has left Sevenoaks Parish Church to take up the chaplaincy of the British Embassy church in Paris

His outstanding ministry in Sevenoaks began in December, 1954, and ended on Easter Sunday, 1970. A peal was rung on Easter Day by six of the local band assisted by the brothers Phillip and Peter Butler, who were previously attached to the church.

During Canon McLellan's time the church was greatly restored from a fire which had destroyed the roof. The last part of the restoration comprised the recasting and rehanging in a new metal frame of the eight bells, resulting in a fine new ring.

The rector welcomed the Kent County Association to its annual general meetings in 1957 and 1969 and there have been many meetings of the East Grinstead Guild and Tonbridge District meetings as well as the Ladies' Guild, at all of which visiting ringers have been assured of a warm welcome. One particularly pleasant occasion was a meeting by special invitation to the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths in honour of 60 years' membership by Percy Turley, the oldest member of the Sevenoaks band.

PILTON BELLS REDEDICATED

On Friday, March 20, the bells of Pilton, near Barnstaple, were rededicated by the Bishop of Crediton. The church was well filled with a large congregation, among whom were many ringers. During the service the captain of the tower requested the Bishop to rededicate the bells anew to the service of God, and the Bishop then handed the bells into the vicar's safe keeping.

At the reception in the church hall afterwards the members of the bell restoration committee were congratulated in raising the necessary funds in just over a year.

The bells have been partially restored on two or three occasions during this century but at last a full scale restoration has taken place. An entirely new frame with new ringing fittings has been provided and the work carried out in first-class fashion by John Taylor and Co. In a letter read at the reception after the service the Rev. J. G. M. Scott congratulated the people of Pilton on restoring this magnificent ring of bells in such a thorough manner.

At the ringing after the service the bellfounders were complimented on the greatly improved "go" and tone of the bells and their excellent clappering.

BELL DETAILS

1: 2ft. 7½in., Taylor, 1853, 6 cwt. 1 qr. 8 lb., D. 2: 2ft. 8½in., Taylor, 1853, 6-1-12, C sharp. 3: 2ft. 10½in., Taylor, 1853, 6-3-13, B. 4: 3ft. ½in., Taylor, 1853, 7-2-21, A. 5: 3ft. 4in., Rudhall, 1712, 11-3-15, G. 6: 3ft. 6½in., Taylor, 1853, 11-3-15, F sharp. 7: 3ft. 10½in., Rudhall, 1712, 17-0-1, E. 8: 4ft. 4½ins., Rudhall, 1712, 23-2-25, D.

The inscriptions on the Taylor bells are interesting, as they were cast soon after the arrival of John Taylor at Loughborough. One bell proclaims that the founders had just won the best prize at the 1851 Great Exhibition, another that the founders were "late of Buckland Brewer, near Bideford, Devon," and yet another that the bell was the gift of Robert Chichester, of Hall, Pilton. It was Robert Chichester who persuaded John Taylor to leave Oxford and set up his foundry at Buckland Brewer for a short while before moving to Loughborough. Now the bells have been put back into first-class order by their original founders.

Sussex County Association.

SOCIAL EVENING Members of the Eastern Division of the Sussex County Association recently converged on St. Mary's, Eastbourne, for an evening of merrymaking. Nearly 60 ringers enjoyed the games and dances, and admired the lucky number prize—a cake with a large county badge atop in blue and white icing, complete with "yer ackand white icing, complete with "yer ack-shul Sussex Martlets." The cake was won by Miss Joan Hebden, of the local band.

Although the small number of over 30's were conspicuously absent from the Virginia Reel, several were to be seen shuffling across to the refreshment table, or trying to avoid paying their forfeits in "Penny in the Bucket." The story fictitious outing read by the M.C. The story of a H. Reynolds) raised guffaws, and the answer to the musical game turned out to be the traditional lemon.

The evening finished with "Auld Lang Syne" in time for those from outlying districts to reach their homes at a respectable hour

DEVON RINGERS' TOUR

A number of members of the Guild of Devonshire Ringers, under the leadership of Mr. A. L. Bennett, of Buckfastleigh, held the first tour of the year on March 21, when East Devon and Dorset were visited. Among those present were Mrs. V. Stephens, Mr. D. J. Roberts and daughters. Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Myers and family, Messrs. G. J. Roberts, G. E. Mudge, A. Pullen, J. N. Steere, A. N. Frost and S. C. Pierce. Two visitors who joined after tea were Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Lee, of Bradford-on-Tone, Somerset.
Ringing was enjoyed at Shute, Bridport, Bradpole, Netherbury, Beaminster, Broadwindsor, Yarcombe and Offwell. Lunch was at Netherbury and tea at Chard.

Thanks were expressed to the organiser for the arrangements made. A. L. B.

A BORDER ASSOCIATION

Visitor were present from Bredbury (Cheshire), Stockport, Wakefield, Barrowon-Soar and Chapel-en-le-Frith when the East Derby and West Notts Association held its A.G.M. at North Wingfield on Easter Monday. In pre-service ringing the range of methods was from rounds to Cambridge Surprise Major. A short service was conducted by the Rev. N. Joyce and this was followed by tea and the business meeting.

Many matters were discussed at the somewhat lengthy meeting, during which the following officials were elected: President, Mr. A. Smithson; hon, secretary and treasurer, Mr. E. J. Sollis; ringing master, Mr. W. Riley.

The Guild of Clerical Ringers had their week earlier this month. Those attending were: The Revs. N. F. D. Coleridge (Tatworth), K. C. Davis (Tadley), S. M. Evans (Bredgar), J. B. T. Homfray (Staverton), R. Keeley (Whiteparish), R. N. Longridge (Spetisbury), R. C. Lucas (Rumney), C. J. B. Marshall (Long Sutton), M. C. C. Melville (Bedford), P. Newing (Tibberton), I. J. Richards (Llanarth), P. T. Robbins (Charing), D. Sansum (Stetchford), J. Shepheard-Walwyn (Westleigh), R. D. St. J. Smith (Darley Dale), R. W. Thomas (Newport, Mon.), J. Tomsett (Wells), H. F. Warren (Exford), E. W. Wood (Drayton).

Durham and Newcastle Association REVIVAL AT HURWORTH

After being silent for several years the six bells of Hurworth Parish Church, Co. Durham, are ringing again, for a strong local band has been formed, starting from scratch. The bells are rung for Sunday services and most of the ringers are making good progress with Plain Bob.

The Southern District of the Durham and Newcastle Association met there on March 21 and spent an enjoyable afternoon and evening in spite of rain. Between 30 and 40 were present. Local ringers had provided a splendid tea, for which they were thanked in characteristic fashion by Mr. William Tyson, who managed to include in his remarks an ingenious theory about the origin of the clerical collar!

Thanking the rector and wardens for the use of the bel's, Mr. R. Park recalled the days before the war when Hurworth had a band proficient in Surprise Minor, and expressed hopes for the future.

At the service the rector (Rev. Leonard Piper) gave the visitors a warm welcome. and quoted from a parish magazine of the 1880s in which the then rector wrote of the reed for rehanging the bells—at a cost of £56. Organist for the service was one of the Hurworth band, Mr. Emlyn Warder. who is the church organist.

OLD MEMBERS' TOUR

Former members of St. John's College. York, and friends spent a pleasant halfday's reunion ringing tour in Leicestershire on April 2. Towers visited were Copt Oak (a light, easy-going ring of six), Newtown Linford (a recently augmented fivenow six-rung from the ground floor). and Anstey (where a quarter peal in 39 minutes was rung on the easy-going groundfloor eight), with, after tea and the rushhour traffic of Leicester, a ring on the eight at Enderby. Ringing ranged from call changes to Cambridge Surprise Major. Next year it is hoped to reinstate the idea of an Easter Week tour, possibly based in the Yorkshire dales. M. K.

PEAL AT KIRKBY STEPHEN

The recent peal at Kirkby Stephen, Westmorland, was the first on the bells since 1933. There have only been three peals—Grandsire Triples (1930), Superlative S.M. (1933), and now Bob Major (1970). Peals are not normally allowed due to the tower being situated in the town centre, but an exception was made on Easter Monday, and the tower captain (Mr. A. G. Morland) and the vicar (the Rev. N. B. Scott) had warned the parishioners and shopkeepers before the peal began. The bells form a pleasant ground-floor ring but they have an extremely long draught. K. M.

JOSEPH PIGOTT

As briefly recorded recently, Mr. Joseph Pigott died in February in his 90th year. The Pigotts and the Holbrooks were the mainstay of ringing at Smethwick and the families became entwined by marriage, but the ringing tradition did not continue, although one member of this generation belongs to the St. Mary's, Bletchley, band.

Mr. Pigott is survived by his widow but leaves no children. Of the original team there remains Walter Pigott, now 83, and Mrs. Kate Holbrook (nee Pigott). Sarah Pigott, also an original member, died last year. There must be few who reach their 90th year and can remember the time when a whole team comprised virtually one

THREE TOWERS

The llchester Branch of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association held their quarterly business and practice meeting at the parish churches of East, West and Middle Chinnock on March 7. The ringers were welcomed by the rector, the Rev. A. P. Nicholls, who conducted the guild service at St. Mary's, East Chinnock, with Mr. A. Harris as organist and Mr. George Guppy tower master.

The following new members were elected: Messrs. J. Burt, T. Male, H. Drayton and Major Cely-Trevilian (Drayton), Messrs. R. W. Merritt, M. Turner, W. Bazley and W. Merritt (Ilchester), Mr. Roger W. Sharland (Hardington Mandeville), the Rev. M. Balchin (Chiselborough), David C. J. Marshall (Long Sutton). Certificates were presented to Misses Marion Martin and Rachel Chant (Preston Plucknett) and Misses Fiona Cumming and Elizabeth Dean (Odcombe).

Ringing on the 15 cwt. anti-clockwise minor five was under the supervision of the ringing master and assistant ringing master (Messrs. Gordon Rendell and Jim Taylor) and included Spliced Doubles. The bells of West Chinnock (4) and Middle Chinnock (3) were also available; at the former Oxford Minimus was rung.

The branch is grateful to the tower masters concerned and especially to the Rev. and Mrs. Nicholls, who provided welcome refreshments at the Rectory, Middle Chinnock, during ringing.

NORTHERN UNIVERSITIES MEETING

After nearly 18 months during which it was feared that the Northern Universities grouping had died, a revival meeting was held around Manchester on March 7. The event, organised by the Manchester U.G., was arranged to coincide with their dinner to ensure adequate support. The attempt was successful, for seven other University societies were represented. Good wishes were sent from Keele (unable to attend).
Ringing started at Marple with Manchester in command, then Leeds took control for Hazel Grove and St. George's, Stockport. Numbers swelled after lunch and Sheffield had to do some skilful manoeuvring to ensure everyone had a ring in the small ringing chamber(s) of Hyde. Even St. Michael's, Ashton-under-Lyne, was packed to capacity, and provided ham. At St. Peter's, Ashton, where Dur-ham took command, there was a sizable queue on the stairs, but the peak was reached at Manchester Cathedral, where the ropes were lost in a welter of student ringers "standing in" rather than "sitting The crush was augmented by a disappointed peal band from the Town Hall; however, with Lancaster in charge everyone had at least one ring.

An informal discussion between the masters followed concerning the reorganisation of the Northern Universities, which is really an informal society. It was agreed that an attempt be made to arrange two meetings in advance on regular dates. each occasion the host society should be responsible for the organisation during the day and for a social evening. It was arranged for Liverpool to be host in October, and for Durham in March, 1971. Durham offered to provide a trophy for a striking competition, details of which will be discussed at the next meeting. Thanks to everyone for travelling their various distances to support the event. PRESENTATION MADE

The March meeting of the Marlborough Branch was held on March 21 at the Collingbournes, when there was not a very high attendance, due partly to sickness. Only two towers in the branch were represented (besides the home towers)—those of Aldbourne and Chisledon.

Ringing commenced at Collingbourne Ducis at 3 p.m. under the direction of Mr. A. Keen (ringing master) until the guild service, conducted by the rector (Rev. C. F. Kidd), with Mr. A. Keen as organist.

Tea was served in the schoolroom, the company being the guests of the Collingbourne ringers and was prepared and served by Mrs. R. Ward and helpers.

Mr. C. Wilkins presided over the business meeting, supported by Mr. H. Rouse (hon. secretary.) The chairman gave a comprehensive report on the guild committee meeting held in February. Alterations to the published list of meetings had become necessary, and these were approved. The chairman welcomed Mr. F. Cook after his recent illness and expressed the meeting's regret at the absence, due to ill-health, of Mr. R. Ward and Mr. W. A. Edwards. Mr. G. Newman called for more action to be taken to preserve neglected belfries, and this was followed by a lively discussion.

The chairman, on behalf of the branch, presented Mr. Newman with a gift to mark his retirement from chairmanship after 15 years of faithful and valuable service, and Mr. Newman suitably replied. The meeting closed with thanks to the rector for the use of the bells, to the organist, and to the ladies' tea committee. In appreciation of the hospitality shown a collection was taken and given to the church repair fund. Ringing was then resumed on the heavier but lovely six at Collingbourne Kingston until 8 p.m. W. A. E.

Manchester University Guild. ANNUAL GENERAL MEETING

The 23rd annual general meeting of the Manchester University Guild was held on May 3. The ringing master in his report stated that there had been four outings during the year and he thanked Mr. David Baker for organising one in the Rochdale area. He also thanked Mr. John Baldwin for organising the week-end entertainment for the life members, and also included a list of 23 peals rung in 1969 for the guild and the analysis of the 103 firsts scored in these peals.

Mr. E. A. Harrison was re-elected president, Mr. N. Bennett hon. auditor, and Mr. M. C. W. Sherwood ringing master. Mr. W. M. Taylor is now secretary and Miss E. M. Tingle treasurer, with Mr. R. Taylor steeplekeeper. Mr. G. Foat was elected to the committee. Prior to the meeting Mrs. Mary Loren suggested that a meeting Mrs. Mary Jones suggested that a new post of peal secretary be created, and she kindly offered to fill such a post, and the A.G.M. concurred. ELECTION OF OFFICERS

The annual general meeting of the University of Sheffield Guild was held on March 13, when the officers elected were: Chairman, Richard Fry; master/secretary, Phil Simmonds; assistant secretary, Margaret Whitehurst; assistant treasurer, Robin Padbury. It was agreed that the annual week-end outing should be to the Cotswolds and the week's tour to Cornwall.

ST. PETER'S, BOURNEMOUTH

This year, on St. Peter's Day, June 29, the 125th anniversary of the founding of St. Peter's, the mother church of Bournemouth, will be celebrated. To mark the occasion extensive work is being commenced to transform the large churchyard into a place of peace and beauty in the centre of the town. Other events include the production of "Murder in the Cathedral" on June 25, 26 and 27 and weekly concerts on Thursday evenings during July and August given by the Bournemouth Symphony Orchestra, and an open day for the tower is being planned. During July and August practice nights will be on Wed-

Hertford County Association.

COINT MEETING

A joint meeting was held at Radlett and Elstree on March 21 between the St. Albans District and the Watford District, and in addition to members a number of toddlers were present at Radlett in the afternoon. The Rev. A. Talbot-Ponsonby took the service and chaired the meeting which followed the tea in Radlett church hall.

A large gathering (minus the young contingent) assembled in the evening at Elstree, where mixed ringing continued until 8 p.m., and many enjoyed handbell ringing in the church. H.D.

Peterborough Diocesan Guild NORTHAMPTON BRANCH OFFICERS

At the annual general meeting held at Kingsthorpe the following members were elected to offices in the branch: president, Rev. C. J. W. Faulkner; vice-president, D. Isaacs; secretary/treasurer, R. Henman; auditor, R. A. Eldridge; Guild liaison officers, J. G. Chapman, B. R. Care; branch ringing master, D. J. Morgan; branch instructors, D. Robinson, J. C. Parker, C. G. PETERBOROUGH CATHEDRAL BELLS

The Dean of Peterborough (Very Rev. Dick Wingfield Digby) replies to Mr. Patrick Chapman's comments on the refusal of the Dean and Chapter of Peterborough Cathedral to discuss the ringing of the Cathedral bells in a letter to Guild News, the newsletter of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild

The Dean states: "Mr. Chapman made no mention of the fact that the great west front of the Cathedral, which is its chief glory, stands two feet out of the vertical, leaning out towards the Norman gateway. It has already been tied in with wooden beams by our forbears.

"In the present century a skilled engineering feat has been achieved by tying it into the north-west tower with metal ties. In these circumstances the Cathedral architect would not countenance ringing the bells, which are housed in this tower, as vibration could cause inevitable disaster. The risk is far too serious to be contemplated.

"It is only fair that bellringers should be informed of this cogent reason for our refusal to discuss the matter further with the Diocesan Guild of Church Bellringers.'

The Dean concludes his letter by reminding readers of the fine ring of bells in Peterborough Parish Church, which is situated a stone's-throw away from the entrance to the precincts.

HANDBELLS AT SERVICE

Twelve towers of the North Dorset Branch were represented at the quarterly meeting held at Okeford Fitzpaine on Mar. 14, when a hearty welcome was extended by the priest-in-charge (Rev. W. Eddleston), who spoke very kindly of his high opinion of ringers.

The branch chairman and vice-chairman (Revs. R. G. Chaffey Moore and R. A Wells) shared in conducting the service, the lesson was read by Mr. H. A. Stapleton (Shillingstone) and Mr. D. Greenway (Iwerne Minster) was at the organ. A course of Grandsire Triples was rung on handbells by Miss S. Corry, Messrs. T. Bleathman and C. Longridge and Rev. R. N. Longridge. The 41 members and friends present were then provided with a generous tea, for which the ladies of the parish were sincerely thanked.

Proficiency certificates were presented to Anita Trowbridge, Jill Ratcliffe and Nicola Meaden, all of Okeford Fitzpaine. junior members were elected — Gerald Puckett (Sturminster Newton), Geraldine Jackson (Shillingstone) and William Meaden (Okeford Fitzpaine)—and welcomed to the Guild by the chairman. Excellent progress in teaching new ringers at Sturminster Newton, Marnhull and Shillingstone was reported. Ringing before and after the meeting was at Okeford Fitzpaine and at Shillingstone. M. M. G. Shillingstone.

ST. LAWRENCE'S, BIDDULPH

Mr. W. S. Davenport sends us the fol-

"In the belfry ringing chamber of St. Lawrence Church, Biddulph, Staffs, there is an old notice in beautiful handwriting, pasted to a piece of cardboard Although it is dated August, 1904, and is somewhat faded, one can still read the message, which indicates the enthusiasm there was in this 6-bell tower with only eight ringers, that two had to be ordered off the bells each Sunday. Is this the outcome of an iron discipline or is it typical of the times?

"The Vicar was not responsible. His signature is in a very shaky scrawl, as of an old man.

A SUGGESTION

Dear Sir, -- When shall we see an end to acrimony which taints the letters column of The Ringing World? In the whole, letters of bitterness and reproach should be addressed to the persons concerned and these columns reserved for letters of general interest to the Exercise.

Perhaps, in the interest of economy, once a month you would leave a quarter page blank; then would-be irate scribes can vent their epistolic emotions at home without wasting The Ringing V precious finances. Yours faithfully, World's

AN APOLOGY

Dear Sir,—The dedication of a handbell peal of Plain Bob Minor rung for the Manchester University Guild, which was published in a recent edition of Ringing World, must appear to be an ex tremely spiteful trick. Needless to say, there was no such intention but it is not now the intention that matters. I, as a member of the band, would like to offer my sincere apologies, to all those who have been embarrassed, inconvenienced or even confused by this thoughtless action.—Yours faithfully, HAMISH M. McNAUGHTON. Manchester.

Dear Sir,-On page 243, "50 Years Ago March 26, 1920," you mention a meeting at Cound. Salop. I remember going over there on my motor-cycle and in the evening calling on my uncle, a farmer, living in the village. One of his men had a rather quaint saying, "There's a bit of a blur," regarding something which he happened to think was not quite perfect. "Well, your ringing was like that," remarked my uncle, "it had a bit of a blur!"

The bells were rehung about five years later: previously they had the long-flighted clappers, big wheels and old flat rope rollers, fitted by Rudhall a couple of hundred years before.—Yours faithfully,

E. V. RODENHURST.

MEMORIAL SERVICE FOR TOM AND MARGARET FRANCIS

Dear Sir,-There must have been many friends of Tom and Margaret Francis who were unable to attend the funeral service which was held at North Stoneham. A memorial service has, therefore, been arranged at St. Martin-in-the-Fields on Saturday, May 16, at 3.30 p.m., when the address will be given by Rev. Canon K. W. H. Felstead. It is hoped that as many of their friends as possible, not only members of this Society, will be able to attend on this occasion

It is hoped to provide tea afterwards, and it would be appreciated if numbers of people intending to be present could be sent to me to enable the necessary catering arrangements to be made. - Yours faithfully, DEREK E. SIBSON, Master, Society of Royal Cumberland Youths. 15 Garden Royal, Kersfield Road, London, S.W.15.

GRATEFULLY ACKNOWLEDGED

Dear Sir,-In recent issues there have been a number of letters published making various proposals for increasing the income of The Ringing World. Since the beginning of this year I have produced a schedule of peals and quarter peals published, together with dona-tions appearing in your Gratefully Acknowledged column.

I hope the following facts and figures may be of interest to your readers. It is not my intention to enter into lengthy correspondence either for or against donations from peal ringers or quarter peal ringers but merely to report the facts as I see them. My figures have been based on 12 issues, commencing with 9.1.70 and ending with 27.3.70, i.e., the first quarter of 1970.

Totals published Donations acknowledged

934 149 (£37 4s. 3d.) Peals H B neals 1,069 620 (£131 0s. 3d.)

Quarter peals Quarter peals 1.069 620 (£131 0s. 3d.)
Thus it will be seen that approximately 15-952% of published peals and approximately 57-998% of published quarter peals have sent donations towards the cost of producing The Ringing World. The total subscribed over this period amounts to £226 10s.,

H.B. peals .. 9 0 Quarter peals 131 0 3 57 16 6 Personal £226 10 0

Out of this total approximately 16.432% can be credited to peals, approximately 57.854% to quarter peals and 25.531% to personal donors.

Peals have been counted individually, whereas for quarter peals only the name in heavy type has been counted, although I realise that very often there are several quarters published under the one place name. For the amounts donated I have counted the amount amounts donated I have counted the amount as one only per place name, although once again this may cover several quarters.

It is really amazing how small amounts mount up, and I am a firm believer in the saying "Look after the pence and the pounds will look after themselves." Being optimistic, and assuming the level of donations is maintained at the present rate, The Ringing World could expect to achieve in the region of £900-£1.000 during 1970. However, this could be £1,000 during 1970. However, this could be increased even more if more participating ringers sent a small donation when submitting peal and quarter peal reports.

If we took an average of all peals (tower and handbell) and quarter peals based on six, alternatively eight, bells being rung with each ringer contributing 6d., the figures stated above would give the following results:

38. £ s. d. 140 2 0 160 7 0 s. d. 934 peals 186 16 0 1.069 quarter peals 160 7 0 121 H.B. peals . 18 3 0 213 16 24 4 0

When compared with the £226 10s. would mean an additional £92 2s. or £198 6s. per quarter, giving additional financial support to the paper to the tune of approximately £400-£800 over and above the estimated total

Some ringers will immediately say that I have overlooked their other financial commitments, but I am fully aware of peal booking fees, etc., and I know that each Association. Guild, ringing Society has its own rules and regulations to adhere to as well as its own funds to which ringers are expected to contri-bute from time to time. Having said this and without levelling any criticism at any one particular section of the ringing fraternity, might I end by saying that I shall be continuing this exercise until the end of the year, by which time it will be interesting to see if any additional financial support has been given to The Ringing World Committee towards producing our excellent weekly paper.—Yours faithfully,

RICHARD J. CANN. Solihull, Warks.

KIDDERMINSTER S. MAXIMUS

Dear Sir, The peal of Kidderminster Surprise Maximus was brought round by calling a single at Wrong in the 10th course and then ringing two changes of Yorkshire. The difference in the two methods in those two changes was in the work of the back five bells at the backstroke change.

Before the peal was sent to The Ringing World the details were sent to Mr. F. T. Blagrove, who is a member of both the Methods and Records Committees of the Central Council.

With regard to the last sentence in Mr. Pollard's letter, peals of 5042 changes appear to be possible in this type of method. Mr. Blagrove in his reply pointed out that if additional bobs had been called at 9 in the 8th course and at 8 in the 9th course with a single at 6 in the 10th the bells would have come round two changes later to give 5042. The whole of the peal would have had to be proved, of course.-Yours faithfully.

J. E. CAWSER.

HON. AUDITORS

Dear Sir,-I am surprised to find that a number of guilds include the hon, auditor on their committee

Since the function of the auditor is to examine, on behalf of the members, the accounts submitted by the committee he should not be on that committee. Even the Central Council manages to swell its numbers by including the auditors on its already top-heavy committee.

already top-heavy committee.

Now that the season of A.G.M.'s is upon us it should be possible to correct these little anomalies.—Yours faithfully,

J. K. FOOT.

Staverton, Northants.

GRANDSIRE CATERS

Dear Sir,—With reference to the letter from Edgar C. Shepherd (Ringing World, March 27, 1970), the quarter peal compositions of Grandsire Caters published recently are mine. They were composed for use by the band which rings monthly at St. Clement Danes' under the leadership of Mr. John W. Smith, of Hayes, Kent. The typographical errors mentioned are in fact the only ones.

May I be permitted to echo the remarks of Mr. Shepherd concerning the musical qualities of Grandsire Caters? I was "brought up" on it and it remains my preferred staple diet!—Yours faithfully, KENNETH J. RIDER.

London, S.E.

UNKNOWN VISITOR

From the tower captain of Keynsham:-"The Keynsham ringers would like to apologise to the lady who visited them on Sunday morning, March 22. Because of a misunderstanding each assumed she was a non-ringing friend of one of the band who had come to watch; hence she was not offered a ring. Later it was discovered that our visitor was unknown to any present, and if she is a ringer we are sorry for our apparent rudeness. If the lady is in the vicinity again we shall be very pleased to welcome her and rectify our error."

Smile-nothing matters half as much as we think it does.-Anon.

"WINCHIE"-90 UP!

Born on Palm Sunday, 1880, Mr. Alfred H. Winch, of Leatherhead, Surrey, and affectionately known as "Winchie," chalked up his 90th birthday on Palm Sunday, 1970, which he tells us is the first time the anniversary has fallen on Palm Sunday in those 90 years. He is, we are delighted to know, in pretty good health and his ever-cheerful personality and rubicund complexion still

His peals total 351 (conducted 44), the first being in 1902 and his last in 1960. He has taken the R.W. since the first issue on March 24, 1911, is a member of many Societies and Associations, including the Cumberlands and the Guildford Guild. being a vice-president of the latter.

Although he gave up active ringing in 1963 he has attended many meetings and outings since then.

A birthday complimentary peal of Cambridge S. Royal on March 21 came to grief. which was a great disappointment to all. particularly as many old friends comprised the team. They were Arthur Smith (Guildford Guild vice-president and Leatherhead ringer since 1929), Alan and Pauline Smith (Leatherhead), Joan Beresford (Cumberlands), Gillian Parsons, Roy Davies, Frank Darby (Surrey Association), Jack Euston, Douglas May (Guildford Guild master) and Leonard Stilwell, who has just celebrated his 80th birthday and whose first peal on ten "Winchie" conducted in 1909 and who conducted Winchie's last peal in 1960.

However, a quarter peal was rung next day by the local ringers.

After the peal attempt the band were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Winch and were joined by Mr. George Marriner, another veteran of Leatherhead and lifelong friend.

St. Mary's, Haves.

DEDICATION OF TOWER AND BELLS

A crowded church, among the congregation being many ringers from a wide area, witnessed the dedication of the restored church tower and the new eight bells which, as reported a few weeks ago, have been recast, the majority of the work by voluntary effort led by Mr. Percy Venn.

The Archdeacon of Middlesex (the Ven. J. R. G. Easthaugh) performed the ceremony, having been accompanied by the rector, other clergy, servers and choir, from the chancel to the tower. Following the dedication the bells were rung by the newly-formed local band and after the service everyone who wished had a pull. Both inside and outside, the bells sound very well and the fittings and appointments are beautifully executed and a credit to all concerned.

NOT ORDAINED

Mr. Philip Corby, of Sevenoaks, Kent, has fired many a broadside during his ringing career, but at the recent Kent County Association meeting the chairman, pro tem, referred to him as "Canon Corby"—not qualifying the title. The assembled company knew that Mr. Corby had not been ordained and assumed, amid laughter, that he was not only a vice-president but a big gun as well.

SMILE OF THE WEEK

My two sons were playing football and the elder of the two, Lance, tossed a coin for first "Kick-off" and asked Lynden (aged four years) to call "heads or tails." "Neitner," said Lynden, "I'll have rounds, queens and call changes!" M. B.

MOTHERING SUNDAY

Will you observe the day?

If she is far away will you write to her? If she is beyond the veil will you remember her?

So wrote Miss Constance Penswick Smith, daughter of the late Rev. Charles Penswick Smith, of Coddington.

It was in 1913 that Miss Smith sought to revive the observance of Mothering Sunday. Not just as an occasion when one gave due honour and respect to human motherhood but to revive the pre-Reformation custom of giving honour at the same time to "Mother Church." From a book which she published entitled simply "Mothering Sunday" (1920) it is clear that her prime object was to promote the observance of this day as a religious festival.

Constance Penswick Smith is buried in Coddington Churchyard, and in the church an altar is dedicated to her memory. This close relationship with Mothering Sunday made the local ringers feel that a quarter peal should be attempted, and 1260 Grandsire Doubles were duly rung for Evensong.

VANDALS AT WORK
The secretary of St. Mary-at-Finchley, London, tells of incidents which occur during weekly practices: On practice night (March 12) jelly paint stripper was generously daubed all over the cars of three of the practising ringers, and sugar put in the petrol tank of one of them. This is not the first incident of this nature. Last year black paint was applied to the ringers' cars. No complaints have been made to any of the ringers about the bells, but at least one of the ringers has a great desire to ring a muffled peal for the person responsible!

The ringers and choir of Waltham, Grimsby, photographed at the dinner, which they pay for themselves by fund-raising efforts (R.W., page 240).

AMBITION PARTLY REALISED

Miss Nellie Arnold, who died in Westminster Memorial Hospital, Shaftesbury, Dorset, at the advanced age of 86, learned to handle a bell rope when she was well over 60. As a child she used to watch the bellringers in the village church where she worshipped and always had a desire to be able to take part-although women in the tower were unheard of. For many years she looked after her parents, and when the opportunity eventually arrived she did her best to take up ringing, and did manage to hunt the treble to Doubles. When she visited her brother at Knaphill, near Woking, she rang at Worplesdon, Pirbright and Aldershot, but at her home in Swanage she gave up and only listened. But she did ring when the opportunity occurred.

FOURTEEN YEARS AGO

By N. Chaddock

WHERE ARE THE INSTRUCTORS?

When browsing through reports of functions in The Ringing World, one occasion-ally drops across words of wisdom or outspoken comments by speakers proposing or replying to toasts. At the Universities Association Reunion recently, Mr. E. A. Barnett focused attention on Sunday Service ringing and urged the Association to do its best for Sunday Service bands.

There is no doubt that his remarks fell upon fertile ground for many young people from the University Association and various University Guilds have become stalwarts in the Exercise, and the process is likely to continue. Ringing activities of the University Guilds are of great value and are extending.

The yardstick of a good ringer is his (or her) effectiveness in Sunday Service ringing. Peal ringing is an essential part of ringing activities but its importance should not be exaggerated. Mr. Barnett, who as Secretary of the Central Council is well qualified to speak, said that peal ringing bears no relation to the state of ringing in the country and that Sunday Service ringing does not receive the support it should.

There is no doubt that many keen peal ringers are also most active workers for their own tower and guild, and the best of them will always put the latter before their peal ringing. But the state of Sunday Service ringing leaves no room for complacency; far too many bells are silent or undermanned on Sundays. In many cases recruits are available, the greatest need is suitable tutors to see through the task of training bands where needed.

An improvement might be stimulated if somehow more interest and attention could be focused amongst ringers and in The Ringing World on this branch of ringing activity. In Central Council reports, Asso-ciation Reports and The Ringing World, Bedfordshire Association.

A COMFORTABLE BELFRY

Members of the Biggleswade District of the Bedfordshire Association of Church Bellringers attending the March monthly meeting at St. Andrew's, Biggleswade, must have been very impressed by the decor and comforts in the belfry-a credit to the Biggleswade ringers.

Mr. C. D. Mann was ringing master for the afternoon, and as the vicar, the Rev. J. H. Dominey, was attending the enthronement of the new Bishop of St. Albans in St. Albans Abbey no service was held.

Tea had been prepared by Mrs. S. Smith and helpers' in the church hall, after which Mr. S. H. Ashton was chairman for the business. Mr. P. Rogers presented details of the district outing to Central Suffolk, and Mr. A. S. Smith gave details of the ringing lectures to be held during Holy Week in place of the district practice.

In the evening the ringing master (Mr. V. Webb) welcomed visitors from various parts of the country, and the ability, of all ringers was catered for. A very successful meeting was brought to a close with the lowering of the bells at 9 p.m.

M. L. M.

Rung Conducted

peal ringing activities are analysed to the last detail—rightly so, but in most association reports the whole year's activities in other ringing spheres are dealt with in a few paragraphs. The Central Council reports and association reports do not disclose the true position regarding Sunday Service ringing. If they did it might be easier to find means of bringing about an improvement.

The important thing is to stir a terrific enthusiasm for local band progress—in recruitment, methods rung for service, ringing standards, and occasionally, local band peals. Perhaps most important of all is the need to produce more leaders and tutors from within our ranks and somehow create enthusiasm for this most important and really worth while task,

POPULAR PEAL TOWERS OF 1969 by C. H. Rogers

I have been keeping, as a matter of personal interest, a note of the towers where peals were rung during 1969, and some of the following statistics which are not usually apparent from the reports of the Peals Analysis Committee of the Central Council or from Canon Felstead's occasional articles may be of general interest. Peals published in issues of the "Ringing World" up to March 13 are included, and I apologise in advance for any errors in the figures.

During the year 3,450 tower bell peals were rung in 1,581 towers. Towers with twelve or more peals were:

Loughborough Bell Foundry	95
Birmingham Cathedral	31
Leeds, St. Peter	25
North Stoneham	19
Shoreditch	19
Holme Pierrepont	18
Daventry	17
Grundisbrugh	15
Bushey	14
Cambridge, St. Andrew	14
Edgbaston	14
Birstwith	13
Wistaston	13
erton, Meldreth, Newhey, Trun	pin and with 12 each: Aldermaston, Ashtonunder-Lyne (St. Peter), Babworth, Chapel and Willesden.

Although there are usually many more peals on eight bells than on other numbers and indeed the great majority of the staggering total at the Bell Foundry were of Major—it is rather surprising that 3 twelvebell towers, 4 tens and one six had more peals than the leading eight-bell towers

Defining counties as in the fourth edition

Hampshire		133	peals	in	52	towers
Warwicksh	ire	128	peals	in	44	towers
Suffolk		122	peals	in	54	towers

It will be interesting to compare this list with that of the leading Associations when the report of the Peals Analysis Committee appears.

At the other end of the scale of English counties, there were no peals in the Isle of Wight, six in Cumberland, nine in Rutland. 14 in Northumberland and 15 in Westmorland. Rather surprisingly there were no peals in Ireland—perhaps it was thought that peals would not help the troubles there!

—and all of Scotland's three were at Inverarav. There were three peals abroad—two at Melbourne and one at Washington.

My records also show that there were peals in all except eight of the twelve-bell towers. The eight are: Cirencester, Dublin. Ipswich, Liverpool St. Nicholas, Sheffield. Solihull, Southwark and Taunton. It is rather surprising to find Solihull in this list. particularly in view of its proximity to Birmingham but perhaps the local band are anxious to ring the first peal on the twelve. It is also rather sad to find here Southwark. for long the most popular of the London twelves.

There was an old man who said "Well! Will nobody answer this bell? I have pulled day and night, Till my hair has turned white, But nobody answers this bell!"-In a church at Old Clee, Lincs.

CRACKED HANDBELLS

Mr. D. R. Bould, proprietor of The Jewel Box, Tavistock, Devon, sends this information of how he dealt with cracked handbells:-

"Reference R.W., page 171, regarding repairs to handbells by Mr. Michael King, of Rotherham, Yorks. Some years ago I obtained a set of ten handbells for a nominal figure, because seven of these bells were cracked! However, being a practical jeweller and not considering them worth sending to the foundry for recasting, I resolved to have a go':
"(1) I cleaned the bells with a not-too-abrasive metal cleaner after stripping off

clappers and leathers.
"(2) Well fluxed the cracks with borax. which not only allows the solder to 'run' but also cleanses the cracks during the heating operation.

"(3) Heat the bell completely, particularly along the crack—the complete heating I found most important. I used a low carat gold solder, not more than 9 ct. gold (silver. I feel, being a somewhat dead metal).

"(4) Allow bells to cool naturally.
"(5) Clean off excess solder with a fine cutting file and finish with emery paper.

'Finally, polish on a polishing machine, when only a hair-line could be seen on the bell because the gold varied slightly in colour. The tonal quality of these bells was praised by many well-known handbell ringers, who were amazed at the transfor-mation because they were 'as new'."

Close on the heels of Alan Ainsworth's departure, Birmingham is soon to suffer the loss of another of its ringers. David Purnell is moving to Bradford this month to take up the position of sub-manager in the National Westminster computer centre. David will be much missed, and particularly at Perry Barr, where he has put in many hours training a band and organising the bell restoration fund. His ringing friends in Birmingham wish him good luck in his new venture.

Belfry Gossip

The Easter Day quarter peal at South Cadbury, Somerset, was the first by a complete band from the village.

The bells of St. Stephen's Church, Clapham Park, London, have been removed for the time being to Messrs. Taylor's Bell Foundry for storage as the church is shortly to be demolished.

Making his first attempt for a peal at Benhall, Suffolk, on March 30, Dana Josephson, a U.S.A. citizen, is tempor-arily residing in Aldeburgh, where he learned to ring.

Stephen Benson (11) rang the fifth to rounds on 12 at St. Patrick's Cathedral, Dublin, for service recently. His home tower is St. Patrick's, Coleraine, where his father is rector.

Central Council instruction books are on their way to Papanui, New Zealand, where a keen band have several new members who have joined St. Paul's Society.
We wish them every success.

Work on the augmentation of Thatcham, Berks, bells to ten has been started by John Taylor and Co.

Printer's error spotted in a Midlands parish magazine: "... and in his address, the Bishop spoke of God's massage for the Church today."

Thanks to an anonymous donor, the bells of St. Martin, Alfreton, Derbys (13) cwt.), are to be rehung. These bells have been silent for 11 years. According to The Church Times a contributory cause was damage done by a band of visiting ringers.

To maintain Easter Day message, Mar-ket Weighton ringers rang not only twice at their own church but at three otherwise silent towers—Cranswick (6), Howden (8) and Nunburnholme (6). "A satisfactory and enjoyable day," writes Norman Chaddock.

"Kings of the Ring" is the caption The Norwich Churchman gives to the picture of Mr. Leonard King, tower captain and churchwarden at Harling, Norfolk. Also portrayed are son Jim, daughter-in-law Daphne and daughters Pamela, Valerie and Dorothy. The Kings are half of the Harling band.

Marston St. Lawrence, Northants, bells were silent for 30 years until last autumn, when Mr. Alan Frost pronounced them them occurs on April 18, when the Culworth band hold a meeting there. Visitors are also welcome at the weekly practices on Married at Buckley, Flintshire, on Easter Monday, Mr. and Mrs. D. N. Collins were in the belfry again on the following Saturday ringing a peal in honour of the occasion. The band were afterwards entertained by them, and their colleagues from the belfry extended to them best wishes for their future happiness.

The peal at Blofield, Norfolk, was rung as a welcome to the Rev. W. S. Dixon, who was recently inducted as rector. He came to the tower before the peal to wish the band success and afterwards he and Mrs. Dixon entertained the ringers to an excellent tea at the Rectory, where they were joined by members of the local band.

Progressive year.—The quarter peal of Cambridge rung on Good Friday at Aldridge, Staffs, marks the end of a year of considerable progress by the local band.
The progress has been through quarter peals of Plain Bob, Single Oxford, Kent T.B., Oxford T.B., St. Clements, 4-Spliced Plain Minor to Cambridge Surprise. It is hoped to add further Surprise methods in the future. The average age of the band

THE EFFORT BEHIND THE 210 MINOR METHODS

Probably the first serious attempt at Spliced Minor ringing by Southwell Guild was during the 1964/5 years, when peals of 27 and 35 methods were rung. Attempts to increase this to 40 methods were not successful. No more attempts were made until the 1967 Rambling Ringers' tour. Denis Frith mentioned one evening that he wouldn't mind trying some Spliced Minor ringing, and following this it was decided to make an attempt later in the year.

The aim was to try to ring the 73 regular T.B. methods, and the first attempt was arranged for Whatton on October 13, 1967. The band comprised three members from the 64/65 peals, viz., Christine Mills, Brian Buswell and the writer. To these were added William Exton, Denis Frith and (for this attempt) Thomas Greasley. We decided to go for 29 methods, but we didn't manage to ring the first extent! This taught us that the methods would have to be learned thoroughly if any progress was to be made at all.

This was proved in the second attempt two weeks later when a good peal was rung in the 29 methods. Peter Slight joined us for this peal and remained except for one peal. Our next step was to increase the number to 40, and after unsuccessful attempts at North Muskham and Holme Pierrepont the peal was rung at Cotgrave on December 18. This was surpassed the following week at Orston (46 methods), a good omen to end the year—or so we thought.

TWO ATTEMPTS LOST

The first two attempts in 1968 were for 55 methods at Holme Pierrepont and Winthorpe. They were lost—the second one in the 4th extent! Our next try got off to a bad start as one of the band was delayed by a puncture, but an excellent peal in the 55 was achieved. This was the only peal in which Peter did not take part, and William Midwinter, from Newark, rang the treble.

Our next attempt (for 62) at North Muskham was lost in the third extent, so it was decided to go for the 73 regular methods, which was arranged for Cotgrave on March 8. This entails ringing the Mendip group of 13 methods (by A. G. Driver) and we decided to practise this on two Thursdays preceding the attempt. Our fears were well founded as we only managed to ring the extent in two separate parts. However, on March 8 we rang this extent first and carried on to ring the complete peal, and this proved the first and last time that we managed to ring this extent.

HOTTEST DAY OF THE YEAR

This completed what we had set out to do, and the question now was: Was this to be the end of the series or were we to go on to other things? Eventually it was decided to go for the greatest number of Treble Bob methods that had been obtained in seven extents, and contact was made with Tony Peake, who kindly supplied us with extents comprising 111 methods. The first effort was for 82, followed by 85 (three times) and 101 once. Success came at the sixth attempt when, at Holme Pierrepont, we rang the 101 methods. This also proved to be one of the hottest days of the year, and anyone knowing Holme Pierrepont will realise what this means.

After this success attempts were made for 105 and 111 methods twice, before the summer holiday period caused a temporary lay-off. When the summer had passed a shock awaited the band. Brian told us that he would no longer be available for the peals as he had difficulty in getting away from work in time for the early start. It should be pointed out that we had decided at the beginning to make attempts on Friday nights fortnightly; Saturdays were ruled out as impossible due to meetings, etc.'

A STROKE OF LUCK

It was at this stage that we had a stroke of luck for at the Orston meeting in September, for the final of the Crawford cup, we were fortunate to meet Simon Humphrey, who agreed to take Brian's place in the band. This, of course, meant stepping back a bit, and our first attempt was for 41, which was lost in the third extent, followed by the 57, 98 and 106, all lost at various points. By this time Simon was probably wondering if he was ever destined to ring a peal with us at all. However, in the second attempt for the 106 we were successful (at Holme Pierrepont) on November 8, 1968. This meant that the series had now been in progress for over a year.

The next item of interest was that Simon had now extended the number of methods to 127, and to finish the year we tried 115 and 117, both of which were lost.

And so to 1969:-

We had an excellent start to the year, achieving success in the first two attempts: 117 and 127. After the first of these Simon casually mentioned that he had produced two extents containing 30 methods and thought he would be able to compose another five extents, making a total of 210 methods. The ringers at Holme Pierrepont hearing us talk of many more attempts kindly allowed us the use of their bells fortnightly.

Our next try was for 140, which was duly lost, after which we thought we would try 155, which would be a new Minor record. This one was lost in the third extent; the second attempt was stopped in the fourth as the ringing was not up to standard, but finally we rang the 155 on March 7, 1969. After losing 164 methods twice, we went for 179 and lost that also. After two attempts, we succeeded at the third try at Elston. This was the greatest number of methods rung to a peal at that time.

HOLIDAY FEELING

The next was 188, which was stopped at the end of the fourth extent, so we increased this to 198 and this we rang at H.P. on July 4. Only one more attempt was possible before holidays caused the usual break: this was for the 210. Holiday feeling was blamed for the pile-up in the second extent.

On returning the same applied, as four more unsuccessful attempts were made, two of which were bad ringing, a fire-up and a broken rope. Success came on October 24, 1969, when a very good peal was rung in the 210 methods. A month later at Orston 210 methods was repeated with a slight variation of methods.

So ended a series of peals, and one wonders on looking back if we would have attempted it at the start had we known the length of time and effort involved. The series had lasted for two years, in which time we had made 47 peal attempts, and of these only 14 ended as peals. We used 41 different extents at various times and the band had to learn a total of 329 methods.

A BOURNEMOUTH DIARY

An interesting item relating to the predecessors of the long service ringers of Ringwood (see page 151) is recounted in the St. Peter's ringers diary of 1886. A letter was received in January by the captain (Mr. A. Grist) from Rev. H. A. Spyers, of Ringwood, "asking us to undertake a visit to Ringwood to ascertain if the Ringwood men were qualified to join the Winchester Guild as they had been proposed."

It was decided by the band to visit Ringwood on Monday evening, February 1, meeting at the East Station at 5.15 p.m.

The diary continues: "Feb. 1st. Visit to Ringwood. Left Bournemouth East per 5.40 train arrived Ringwood 6.10 and went direct to the belfry but found Evensong about to commence and could not ring 'till 7 o'clock. Adjourned to the White Hart where we were met by several of the Ringwood men. At 7 p.m. ascended the belfry stairs and having raised the bells rang a plain course of G.T. Then a 336: G.T. in 15 minutes. A. Grist 1, H. Vivash 2, C. Sladen 3, J. G. Bennett 4, T. Green 5, S. Merritt 6, H. A. Garrett 7, T. Belbin Tenor.

WHITE HART VISITED

"The handbells were brought into use to test the capabilities of the Ringwood men as requested by Rev. H. A. Spyers. The Ringwood men taking turns in six-scores G.D. with tenor behind, which was one of the qualifications. Most of them were able to do it, Mr. Dawkins being first to succeed and first time.

"Several six-scores of G.D. were then rung on the tower bells, then another 336 by our own band in 14½ minutes. This brought a pleasant evening's ringing to a close. An adjournment being made to the White Hart for refreshments. The return was made by the last train, having had a pleasant evening."

The additional practice at Ringwood was soon to show good results for, in spite of a failure on the following Thursday evening, on Sunday evening, February 7, 1886, a 504 Grandsire Triples was rung in 24 minutes, being the longest touch on the bells of St. Peter's and by all the band.

Later in August of that year the first quarter peal was accomplished, but that is another story.—From A. C. Conway. of Bournemouth.

THANKS

The band thank the incumbents and ringers at the churches for allowing the use of the bells, especially at Holme Pierrepont, where 28 attempts were made. Our thanks also to Tony Peake who supplied the multimethod extents in the earlier days, to Cyril Wratten who checked all new methods to ensure they had not already been rung and named, and to Derek Sibson who checked to ensure they had not been used on higher numbers. Finally, I would like to thank the band for their perseverance and efforts especially in the darker days when four or five attempts had been lost and morale was low. R. B. M.

Cover Picture

St. Nicholas, Warwick

THE ANCIENT PARISH of St. Nicholas, Warwick, comprised the south-eastern portion beyond the walls of the town. The site on which the church is built has been hallowed for nearly a thousand years of Christian activity, and possibly a religious house existed here prior to the Norman Conquest

Little is known of the old church. It is thought to have been smaller than the present building and in a 1654 review of Warwick the church is shown with a tower and spire, as an entry in the accounts of 1570 confirms. Amongst the church plate are two Commonwealth chalices, each bearing the inscription "This belongs to the Parish of Nicholas in Warwick, 1657."

In the latter half of the 18th century the church had fallen into decay and was taken The present church was built in 1779/80, although the tower and spire may be 30 years older.

MISSING METAL

Records of 1552 indicate that the church had five bells; the church accounts mention five bells with a tenor of 18 cwt. 1 gr. In 1695 reference is made of six bells with a tenor of 15 cwt. 21 lb. When these new bells were delivered it was discovered that they fell short by 3 cwt. 10 lb. in weight of the old five bells, so that this weight of metal remained to the parish at the foundry of Keen's. What happened to this metal is

In a memorandum of a meeting of the parish council on January 7, 1694, in connection with the hanging of these six bells and the paying for same, the name of Mr. William Tarver is mentioned, who was a prominent townsman of Warwick and was Mayor of the town in 1684, 1689 and 1704. At the present moment a Mr. William Tarver is a member of St. Nicholas' Parochial Council and has also served as Mayor of Warwick 1964/65, and is at the present time a serving alderman of the town.

SEVEN RANDALLS

In 1887 two trebles were added by Mears and Stainbank to complete the octave. Only two peals are known to have been rung on these bells, one each of Grandsire and Stedman Triples. It would appear that these bells were most difficult to ring and were silent for over 30 years before they were broken up and recast into a new octave in 1957, with a tenor of 15 cwt. 2 qr. 20 lb. by Taylor's, of Loughborough. They were rededicated on St. Nicholas' Day, December 5, 1957, by the Lord Bishop of Coventry. The first peal on these bells was rung on December 7. This was of Bob Major and conducted by the tower captain, J. L. Garner-Hayward. Over 30 peals have already been rung.

The present band can boast a family of seven Randalls, with ages ranging from Jane, 10 years, to father, 51 years. With the aid of a tenor man this family rings touches of Grandsire Triples, with Jane on the treble. The remainder of the family are all capable of the four standard methods, with Geoffrey and Peter both very capable conductors. With the exception of the father, all have been taught to handle a bell at St. Nicholas' Church.

J. L. G. H.

50 YEARS AGO April 23, 1920

"This musical composition contains the 6th behind the 8th and 9th in alternate courses." — Footnote to a peal of Stedman Caters at Croydon. George Marriner rang the 2nd.

At Linton, Kent, a peal of Bob Major was rung after the two trebles had been dedicated. Thomas and Leonard Mannering and Thomas and Charles Sone took part.

At Witley, Surrey, Mrs. Hazelden rang in her husband's 100th peal—the first time this had been done. William Moorey rang the second. The method: Grandsire Triples.

The Worcestershire Association at its A.G.M. decided that it was not in favour of giving the C.C. more powers. 128 members sat down to tea.

Ex-Cpl. Churchill rang a peal at Belton with one arm, he having lost the other on the Somme in 1916. The peal was by all ex-Servicemen.

St. Peter Mancroft had its 14th bell-a sanctus bell-given as a war memorial.

At the Norwich and Ipswich Association Mr. George E. Symonds was appointed hon, secretary to convene a general meeting of the Ipswich Branch.

Mr. Henry Lewis, who died aged 74, was one of the pioneers of St. Albans. His father was Mayor in 1856 and raised money to add the two trebles to St. Peter's. making a ring of 12.

The centenary of the first peal of Kent T.B. Maximus was commemorated at Birmingham, where the St. Martin's Youths rang the peal — 7,200, called New T.B. Maximus—in 5 hours 8 minutes.

INCREASING IN POPULARITY

THE 3-DAY EASTER COURSE AT HEREFORD

Through rain, sleet and snow showers, but with occasional periods of brilliant sunshine, 80 students of church bell ringing, together with tutors and assistants (numbering another 20), assembled at the College of Education, Hereford, during the afternoon and evening of April 9 for a three-days intensive course in all sections of the Exercise. Arranged by Mr. W. F. Moreton (of Wakefield, Yorks), a member of the Sunday Service Ringing and Education Committee of the Central Council, he was assisted principally by Mr. G. T. Cousins, of Hereford, and a number of other competent ringers and lecturers.

The students, of both sexes, whose ages ranged from 11 years and upwards, assembled after supper on the first evening and were welcomed by Mr. Moreton, who also introduced the lecturers and helpers and briefly explained the domestic and other arrangements.

This was followed by an illustrated lecture on bellringing, bellhanging and bells and carillons of other countries given by Mr. Frederick Sharpe, who is well known for his concise and thorough explanation of this subject, which he has studied for so many years. His collection of books, photographs, handbells and models were well displayed and used to emphasise certain parts of the lecture. Mr. Austin Wingate operated the projector.

On each of the following days a wellplanned programme was adhered to, the five or six groups being given every opportunity for advancement in knowledge of what all consider to be the most fascinating of all hobbies-campanology-the art and science of bellringing. In various rooms in the college, groups with pencils and paper, with blackboard and chalk and with handbells and bellropes, were to be seen enthusiastically and with avid concentration studying the particular section each student had chosen. During intervals for coffee and meals the topic discussed was always the same, and it is probable that considerable knowledge was also gained during these breaks and which helped in future studies.

The practical side was thoroughly explored, and loaded cars were seen at intervals careering through country lanes en route for some village church where the lessons learned in the classrooms were put into practice, and many miles were traversed to accomplish a couple of courses of Bob Minor or one of Oxford Treble Bob. Everyone entered into the spirit of the course: the instructors were forthright and insistent on discipline, whilst the pupils—young and not so young—persevered and at times sweated to attain something not before accomplished. And then, back to college for more lessons, more handbells and further lectures and discussions. A late drink with biscuits about 9.30 to 10, and so to bed, although several small groups are known to have been struggling with handbells until the early hours, but all were

PRACTICAL SESSIONS

Among the subjects studied and practised were single and double-handed changeringing on handbells, tune ringing, basic method structure, basic conducting and conducting Grandsire, composition, working out easy touches and conducting Plain Bob, whilst there was also a session on instruction on rope splicing. The practical method ringing ranged from Doubles and Minor to Cambridge Royal, and in the former the progress made in 24 hours was remarkable.

Mr. Sharpe spent considerable time with a handbell group, some of whom had never before handled a bell, ringing tunes, and on Saturday evening he wrote the score harmonising the hymn tunes for his handbell team to lead the singing at the short service he conducted the next morning. He also gave a further illustrated talk on the care and maintenance of bells, bell fittings, frames and towers, which was well received.

A period towards the end of the course was set aside for discussion connected with the general syllabus and considerable constructive information was obtained. "break-up" started soon after lunch on Sunday and everyone, without exception, felt satisfied that it had all been well worth while and tremendously successful. Plans are already in hand for the next course in Considerable discussion took place at the final meeting of the course about the amounts paid by ringers for annual subscriptions, which in most cases were not realistic in these days, and also the necessity for starting and supporting, in various ways, a Restoration Fund for towers and bells. This, it was suggested, could be done by legacies, by a set amount from each tower (2s. per bell per tower?) and a'so by a percentage of the members' annual subscription being transferred (25%?) to supplement it. Other ideas were: rope tax for visiting teams, i.e., outings, meetings and peals, etc., and jumble sales, sales of work and sponsored walks.

Although no decisions could be made, all present agreed that such restoration funds were essential at Guild or diocesan level.

And happenings.

One couple's Vauxhall "blew up" at a church miles from anywhere and had to be towed in for repair.

A handbell peal attempt for Bob Major came to grief after an hour. Maybe the room number was responsible-No. 13!

The saloon bar at a village pub was crowded when two groups met for picnic lunch and a drink but the landlady was all smiles as she had not had so many customers for a long time.

A visit to Hereford Cathedral on Friday morning by one observer found the usual peace and tranquillity shattered by a host of young people dashing from place to place—whistling, shouting, and one even smoking—whilst they erected scaffolding for lighting, scenery, curtains and furniture for an evening production of "Give me your hand." Comment by one elderly lady as she retreated: "Oh dear! I suppose God does approve all this, but I'm afraid I

POINTS FOR OUTING ORGANISERS

With the introduction of the 1970 Transport Act on March 15th, coach operators are faced with regulations regarding the length of the coach driver's working day. hours of rest both during the day and between each day's work and also the number of hours he might spend at the wheel. Generally these new conditions need not have a very great effect on the normal ringers' day tour, with the exception that the overall mileage might need to be a little less than in the past.

The main condition is that a coach driver is now restricted to an overall day of 14 hours, that being the total length of his day from the time that he leaves his garage until he gets back there at the end of his day's work. During this day he must not spend more than a total of 10 hours actual driving and the remaining four hours must be taken as rest periods, away from the coach, so that he is free to obtain refreshment and at the same time not be responsible for his coach or his passengers. The driver must have a rest period of at least 30 minutes within 5½ hours of the commencement of his duty—this break can be part of the 4-hour period—and further he must during the day have one rest period of at least two hours in duration. This last condition can be met by arranging the lunch stop at the same place as one of the towers being visited; this period will usually total two hours, remembering, of course. that the coach will not be available to transfer the party from the tower to a restaurant or vice versa. The other two hours of the day's rest period can be made up by the times that the ringers are at other towers on the tour, providing that no stop is of less than 30 minutes' duration.

It is possible for a driver to work an overall day of 15 or 16 hours, once a week only, but with days of this duration the rest period of five or six hours respectively must be taken as consecutive hours. Generally this exemption would not be suitable for a ringers' tour unless they were prepared to spend up to five hours in a coach getting to a point, then spending the next five or six hours visiting towers on foot, or even hiring a coach based in that locality, then another up to five hours run getting back to their home base. Of course, if a coach was hired to tour the local towers this would add considerably to the cost of the day's outing. It is possible to "doubleman" a coach, i.e., use two drivers, but in this instance both drivers have to take their rest period for that day as a continuous rest, and if the coach is moving there must be a seat for them to rest in. This again will naturally mean a large increase in the cost of the hire.

This new Transport Act will obviously have an effect on the cost of hiring coaches. In the future more labour will be required to get the maximum revenue from coaches in the normal coach season. Any driver on duty after 10 p.m. will not be available until after 9 a.m. the following day, and so additional labour will have to be employed to take the coach out if required before that time. Nevertheless, if tour organisers bear these new restrictions in mind when planning tours there is no reason why ringers should not be able to enjoy their day's outings as well as in the past. Remember that if a coach driver is prosecuted for breaking these new regulations he is liable to be fined up to £200 and also lose his driving licence. If in doubt about any tour do not hesitate to contact your coach operator before finalising the tour arrangements

SURREY ASSOCIATION NEWS

Arrangements for the 90th anniversary dinner of the Surrey Association on May 16 were discussed by the general committee meeting at Beddington Church vestry on April 9. The dinner committee reported that 90 tickets had been sold and an early appli-cation for the 60 still available was re-quested. Grants of Croydon had placed their car park in Park Street at the disposal of ringers attending the dinner.

Ringing on the occasion of the A.G.M. at Kingswood on May 2 will be at St. Martin's, Epsom, Banstead and Kingswood be-fore the service. Grants of £30 to Horley and £72 to Benhilton from the Belfry Re-

ANNUAL GENERAL MEETING

After ringing during the day at 22 towers in the city and county the annual service was held in Leicester Cathedral at 4.15 p.m. and 25 members formed a choir to lead the singing. The Precentor conducted the service, the lessons were read by the general secretary and president of the Guild and the Lord Bishop preached. Tea followed in the Alderman Newton's Boys' School next to the Cathedral and about 125 members were present

Mrs. Jill Staniforth (president) opened the meeting by expressing thanks to the Lord Bishop, the Precentor, the Provost, churchwardens and vergers for their assistance at the service, and to Dr. Gray, former master of music at the Cathedral. The choir had worked very hard before the service and all appreciated their efforts. The incumbents of the towers open during the day were thanked, as were those clergy who had accepted invitations to join the ringers for the service. The members who had made the arrangements for ringing and the ladies who had prepared tea were also thanked by the president.

Certificates of membership were then presented to new members. The reports of the general secretary, treasurer, peal secretary and auditors, as printed in the annual report, with some minor adjustments, were adopted. Mr. P. J. Staniforth thanked the officers who had worked so hard during the year. Confirmation of the election of seven ringing, five non-resident life members and three honorary members was followed by the election of officers for the year ahead.

Mrs. Staniforth, president for the past three years, did not seek re-election, and hoped that the new president would be supported as she had been, adding that next year the Guild would be celebrating its 25th year. Mrs. Staniforth expressed thanks to the retiring general secretary (Mr. A. J. Poynor) and then vacated the chair for the new president, Mr. John Bramley.

Mr. Bramley said it was a great honour for him to be following Mrs. Staniforth, and expressed his gratitude for her hard work during her years in office. The vice-presidents (Mr. P. L. Taylor and Mr. J. H. Cook) were re-elected and Mr. R. D.

WHY RING?

A controversial editorial on "Why Ring?" appears in the Irish Bell News. It is based on a question by a well-known and popular lady ringer in England, that runs: "We are frequently told that we ring to bring people to church. Do we? If the aim is to bring people to church, is the ringing of bells the best way to do it?

"Would any good publicity or marketing agent use bells to achieve the object in an age of advertising, television and free samples? If for no other reason, he would reject the idea for having lost its impact due to familiarity. When done badly, with striking which leaves much to be desired, it is more likely to antagonise the public than attract.

"Would it not be more sincere to admit that ringers ring because they enjoy it and perhaps because they believe they are perpetuating a tradition worth maintaining? From this it follows that, in an age of noise, ringers are imposing yet one more on the population with their pleasure. Thus it behoves them all the more to have regard to what they ring and how they ring." Hughes was elected general secretary. The treasurer (Mr. J. M. Jelley), peal secretary (Mr. R. H. Cook), trustees (Mr. B. G. Warwick and Mrs. P. J. Staniforth) and librarian (Mr. J. Bramley) were all re-elected. Mr. Bramley reported that the Ringing Worlds were being bound and that when completed he would not seek re-election as librarian. Mr. W. J. Root and Mrs. S. E. Poynor were re-elected auditors.

Mr. Poynor spoke on the motion to increase the annual subscription and the proposed alterations to rules—all regarding price increases. Mr. Bramley suggested that the annual subscription ought to be nearer 10s. not 6s. After a lengthy discussion a motion increasing the subscription to 10s. for members of 18 and over was passed and the alterations to rules then carried were (1) to increase entrance fee to 6s., (2) to increase life ringing membership to £6, (3) to increase the non-resident life members' fee to 10s., (5) to increase the peal booking fee from 6d. to one shilling per rope. These alterations included the decimal currency equivalents so that rules would not need altering next year.

A proposal to give life ringing members the right to a postal vote for items on the A.G.M. agenda was discussed and carried by 30 votes to 27, the majority of members abstaining.

Grants from the bell repair fund had been made to Sapcote (£50), Kibworth (£20) and St. Margaret's, Leicester (£10). It was announced that the next quarterly general meeting would be in June at Bottesford, the northernmost tower in the diocese, and Mr. Bramley asked for good support at this meeting.

Some discussion followed regarding the possibility of holding a special festival to mark the 25th anniversary of the formation from the Midland Counties Association of the Leicester, Derby and Southwell Guilds.

A collection for binding Ringing Worlds in memory of Mr. Joe Carter, of Wigston Magna, was taken, and after Mr. Bramley had thanked everyone for their attendance the meeting closed. Further ringing took place at St. Margaret's, Leicester.

A MUSICAL ART

Writing on the "Treble Clef" page of the RSCM News, David Harding, of Addington Palace, asks for a short article on bell-ringing. He says:—

"Reading RSCM News I am struck by the fact that bell-ringing is so seldom mentioned. I am firmly of the opinion that campanology should feature as one of the interests of the RSCM—it is a musical art only to be found in churches, and is not only highly specialised but also exclusively English. You don't find any continental church ringing Cambridge Surprise or Bob Major—and yet many of our choristers will be found pulling the ropes before Mattins or after a wedding. I would very much like to introduce bell-ringing to readers of TC, and would be very glad if any reader would care to write us a short article explaining it. Any offers?"

CANON R. O. STEPHENSON LEAVING

The peal rung at the Church of the Ascension. Bitterne Park, Southampton, by members of the Ancient Society of College Youths, on March 7, was arranged as a farewell tribute to the Vicar, Canon R. O. Stephenson, who is shortly to leave the parish after 23 years. It was the personal enthusiasm of Canon Stephenson that was largely responsible for the installation of the ring of eight in this fine, modern church in 1957. This achievement involved building a considerable extension to the tower before work could begin, the purchase of the redundant six bells from St. Maurice's Church, Winchester, the recasting of the cracked tenor and the casting of two new trebles, none of which was cheap. Funds, however, followed from enthusiasm; the writer well remembers, as a child at Sunday School, contributing to the fund for the Children's Bell and receiving a bell certificate for each five shillings saved!

Canon Stephenson has always taken a keen interest in his ringers and is proud of the fact that the ringers have always been a valuable part of the church family.

Amongst his other services to the parish have been the building of a splendid new daughter church (with a ring of one, hung expertly by a well-known rotund London bellhanger), the provision of a series of stained glass windows on themes from the hymns of Isaac Watts, the only permanent memorial to the hymn writer in his native town, and a fitting addition to a church which already has the finest modern stained glass in the South of England, and the creation of a fine tradition of churchmanship which has made these improvements worth while.

His friends in the parish are glad that he is remaining in the county and that he will still have 12 bells (in two towers, unfortunately) in his care. They wish him well.

A quarterly meeting of Elloe Deaneries Branch was held jointly with the Eastern Branch at Bicker. Ringing on the pleasant light eight (tenor 8 cwt.) ranged from rounds to a variety of Surprise methods. Over 60 members from the two branches, and visitors, sat down to tea in the village hall. Ringing continued until 9 p.m. The next meeting will be at Lutton (6) in July.

CENTRAL COUNCIL MATTERS

Dear Sir,-I have read the correspondence on last year's Council meeting, and on its minutes, with increasing impatience. Mr. Game's letter is the last straw. What on earth are Mr. Mew and Mr. Game trying to do? And for what has Mr. Bottomley to apologise?

Is it supposed to be for the fact that Mr. Exton's motion was not printed on the agenda? That this was a misunderstanding and no more is clear, since Mr. Bottomley suggested three ways by which the motion could be debated, and Mr. Exton, obviously, accepted one of these suggestions. In view of these two facts, it is those who try to imply that there was some sinister motive who owe an apology to Mr. Bottomley. This was asked for but has not been given, as far as I can see.

Is it supposed to be for the word "vary" in the minutes? Your readers may not realise that no mention of Mr. Exton's motion need have been included in the minutes since there was no vote taken on it. The secretary chose to include a brief report, however, but it was obviously a precis, and rightly so.

There is one point to do with Mr. Exton's motion that has not, I think, appeared in The Ringing World. Council members in general, and its officers in particular, were concerned to give Mr. Exton a fair hearing, and they listened with interest, at first, to the case he put. After ten minutes or a quarter of an hour one member got up to suggest that Mr. Exton should conclude his speech, but the president emphasised that Mr. Exton be allowed to continue, which he did. I felt that Mr. Exton lost the sympathy of members by going on for so long, and the motion for "next business" might have been moved from any corner of the hall. The overwhelming vote in favour of the latter motion had little to do with Mr. Exton's arguments.

The statements in the last three paragraphs of Mr. Game's letter make curious reading. The Council's instruction to the Standing Committee was a fresh wind, if anything was. And does Mr. Game really want all the rules and customs of the Council to go? And I fancy that the Council has the confidence and respect of the Exercise now. Some will always be dis-

TOO LATE

Dear Sir,-While it is interesting to read in The Ringing World of television programmes in which bellringing featured (e.g. pages 47 and 239, 1970), how much more interesting it would be if such information could be given in the pages of The Ringing World two weeks before instead of two weeks after the event. Perhaps the appropriate C.C. committee would consider providing us with this service.—Yours faith-

ANOTHER OPPORTUNITY

Dear Sir,—In my younger days, when I thought I knew something of the French language, I would occasionally buy a copy of France Soir, and have never completely forgotten a sentence from a leading article of one issue. It read: "The Anglo-Saxons are past-masters in the art of masking the emptiness of their diplomatic expressions behind beautiful, moral and virtuous phrases."

That sentence came to mind again as I read Mr. K. G. Game's letter (page 270) on "Council Matters." That some reorganisation of the Council is desirable 1 would not question-indeed, in my last report as secretary I made this very point, whilst pleading guilty to being by nature a traditionalist. But what on earth is the value of writing, as Mr. Game does, of his hope that "the odour of musk and mothballs will not too obviously pervade this fresh wind and that it is not only the weak that will go to the wall but many if not all of the entrenched rules and customs of the Council which have become sacrosanct by the passage of time," and more in the same strain? What, if anything, did Mr. Game contribute in response to the secretary's invitation last year for ringers to send in their ideas for reform?

Has "the wind of change" blown through the Southern District of the Surrey Association since he became its secretary, or does it still work to entrenched rules, smelling of musk and mothballs, that have become sacrosanct by the passage of time?

latter, I expect.

How right France Soir was about people like Mr. Game! However, he will have another opportunity, when the account of the last Standing Committee is published, not only to mix his metaphors a little further but, more important, to make some constructive contribution to the discussion. I hope he will take it.—Yours faithfully, E. A. BARNETT.

SPLICED MINOR

Dear Sir,-May I congratulate Mr. C. A. Wratten on his excellent "History of Spliced Minor," which must have involved a tremendous amount of research.

He speaks of the peal at Felkirk on January 29, 1961, in 125 methods in a 5040 as marking "the end of an era" in so far as the peals up to that point had been composed "within quite rigid limitations." His subsequent remarks imply that this is because peals which followed exceeding 125 spliced made use either of "single-change" or "irregular" methods.

May I point out that on May 26, 1961, a peal on handbells in 130 methods was a pear on nandeers in 130 methods was rung by Howard Scott 1–2, Wilfrid F. Moreton (cond.) 3–4 and W. Eric Critchley 5–6. All the methods were "regular" and there were no "single-change" methods.

Mr. Moreton pointed out at the time that under these conditions it was not possible to exceed 130. This, so far as I am aware, is still true.

Two of the 720s were by A. G. Driver, one by C. K. Lewis, another was the Lewis/Chant mentioned by Cyril A. Wratten and I was responsible for the other

Although the number of methods since that time has increased I do not think there have been any new developments in the technique of Spliced Minor composithe technique of tion.—Yours faithfully, HAROLD CHANT.

RINGING IN HERTFORDSHIRE

Dear Sir,—Your readers may be able to help. The booklet Ringing in Hertford-shire is being brought up to date. Most ringing towers have returned my questionnaire with a fund of information, but I need more.

Where are the up-and-coming lively youngsters and middle-aged youngsters smitten with the bug to ring, who are fighting to get their first quarter peals or peals? And where are the present-day handbell ringers who strive in their lunch hours to master a plain course or who sit silently thumbing it on trains and buses?

You must be somewhere. It will give heart to others to hear about you. Write and tell me who you are, which is your tower, how many other towers you visit for practices, what handbell group you belong to and, altogether, how you con-ribute to ringing in Hertfordshire.

Postal expenses are high, so please accept thanks now for any effort you may make. It will be carefully sifted and used in the book.—Yours faithfully,

CONGRATULATIONS

Dear Sir,-On behalf of the band in Cheshire who until recently held the record for the number of methods rung to a peal of Spliced Surprise Maximus on handbells, I would like to offer congratulations to the Hertfordshire band on achieving a new record of 14 methods.—Yours faithfully. OF PARTICULAR INTEREST

From Mr. A. Colin Banton:-

The peal of Bob Minor rung on Easter morning by members of the Huntington Guild in York is of particular interest. It was rung at the Arts Centre, which was, until recently, the Institute of Advanced Architectural Studies and before that the Church of St. John, Ousebridge. Only two previous peals on the bells are recorded, the last in 1959, and both of these being Bob Minor. The tower became unsafe about five years ago when, as a result of redevelopment, property surrounding the tower was removed. Now that redevelopment has taken place the tower has been shored-up with concrete buttresses and ringing can again take place. In the meantime. however, the former church has ceased to be used for the architectural studies and has been taken over by a city trust for use as an arts centre. The part of the building which comprises the tower is normally used as part of a bar, and it is thought that this peal must surely be the first tower bell peal ever to be rung in licensed premises. bells are very noisy inside and date from the 14th century but nevertheless go quite well, though several of them are particularly odd-struck. A good peal was, however, rung on these bells on Easter Monday. Also noteworthy was the quarter of Minor in hand. It has been customary to attempt a handbell peal on Holy Saturday, and a number of Doubles peals have been rung in the past. This year it was decided to ring Minor, but after a late start and everyone not being in practice it was agreed to be satisfied with a quarter. The Good Friday peal is an "institution" at Huntington and is always rung muffled after the three-hour service. A good peal was again scored.

The Story of the Thousand Pealers

On Sunday, March 22, 1970, at Ashton-under-Lyne, Lancs, Bernard F. L. Groves and Robert B. Smith rang their 1,000th peal and thus became the two youngest ringers ever to achieve this total. Bernard is 26 years and 11 months and Bob is 32 years and 2 months old. It is also the shortest time in which any ringer has scored his first thousand peals, but George Fearn rang his second thousand in less time.

They are both natives of the village of Marple in Cheshire, where they were taught to ring by the writer on the old, not-too-easygoing six bells. Bernard came along in the late summer of 1954 whilst Bob started in January, 1955. A group of very enthusiastic youngsters, all members of other Church organisations, started at the same time and rapid progress was made to establish change-ringing in the tower. Their first peal was arranged Brian Woodruffe on October 6, 1956, at Burbage, Buxton. The methods were Kent and Oxford T.B. Minor, conducted by William A. Smith, the other members of the band being Alan McFall, from Marple, and Mrs. Gladys Richardson, from Buxton. Following this a whole series of peals in Minor methods was arranged by B. Woodruffe with most of the arranged by B. Woodruffe with most of the ringers from the new Marple band, the highlights of this series being a peal in 73 methods in July, 1958, and the first of what was to be many long lengths, 10,000 Double Norwich C.B. Major at Fairfield in December, 1957. The average age of that band was exactly 17 years. Bob scored his first peal as a conductor—Plain Bob Major—in May, 1957, and Bernard followed with a peal in nine Minor methods in October. methods in October.

During 1957 they took part in Brian Harris's peal weeks, the aim of which was to encourage ringers on to Surprise Major ringing, and both pay tribute to him for advancing them into pay tribute to him for advancing them into this field. Later they attended practices regu-larly at Norbury, where "The Cheshire Band," under the late John Worth, expected a very high standard from all newcomers. They were high standard from all newcomers. They were quickly accepted into the band and accompanied it on peal ringing tours in many parts of the British Isles. They took part in four peals of Surprise in one day—London Royal at Wells, the first peal ever of Londinium Maximus, the first peal of Cambridge S. Maximus at Buckfast and the first peal of London Royal in Scotland, at Glasgow, with this hand

PARTED COMPANY

In September, 1959, they parted company for the first time when Bob went to Loughborough University of Technology, where he studied mechanical and production engineering. He quickly found a place in Brian Warwick's quickly found a place in Brian Warwick's band, who were then ringing peals of Surprise Royal regularly at the Bell Foundry and elsewhere, but he still managed to maintain close contact with the Cheshire band. Just before Christmas of that year Bernard was involved in a road accident with his rather famous bindle and were baddidden for many weaks. cycle and was bedridden for many weeks—however, he was not to give up ringing that easily and rang a peal of Minor on handbells whilst laying flat on a board! In 1960 Bernard and his family moved to Maidstone, Kent, where his talents and infectious enthusiasm were quickly recognised, and he began to conduct several peals and built up a good band on tower bells and later with handbells.

The year 1961 ended with Bob as the leading peal ringer with 137 peals, and Bernard took over the title with 108 peals in 1962.

Although now separated geographically, they kept in close touch and rang in many peals together, including the exciting build-up towards achieving the extent on eight bells. Alas, after 32,704 was reached in July, 1961, Bob had to make a very hard decision to ask Bernard to drop out of the final and successful peal of 40,320 Bob Major at the Bell Foundry in July, 1963. Following his accident Bernard suffered from stomach pains for some while, and credit must be given to Bob for making the decision and to Bernard for accepting it. Bob conducted this extent, the first ever rung by one set of ringers, and thus has his name in the Guinness Book of Records.

During his last three years at Loughborough Bob enjoyed the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs P. J. Staniforth at Leicester, and it was not before some exceptional handbell peals were being rung there, including the first peals on handbells of York, Yorkshire, New Cambridge and New Durham Maximus. Whilst these peals were in progress a "baby sitter" was often in attendance and her charms were not unnoticed by Bob, and many ringers were present to see Bob and May married at St. Margaret's Church, Leicester, on August 24, 1963. Rumours as to the end of his peal ringing career proved quite false and May, no doubt well trained by the Staniforths, quickly became accustomed to having a house full of ringers. They are now the parents of two charming children.

RELIABLE CONDUCTOR

During his stay in Maidstone Bernard established himself as a very reliable conductor and his list of special performances is quite long, including Carter's Odd Bob peal of Stedman, Holt's Original Grandsire, Pitman's all the work peals from four to nine methods, Richard Crosland's 6- and 8-Spliced peals with all the work, a peal of 4-Spliced with all the work with an all-Kent band with an average age of $17^{5}/_{12}$ years in 1965. He followed these with Crosland's 10-Spliced and the first peal to be rung with half lead Spliced Major, at Frindsin 1967, and a further one in the same bury in 1967, and a further one in the same tower with no bobs or singles. He then built up a good handbell band and scored peals of Plain Bob Fourteen and Stedman Cinques. On July 23, 1966, a further gathering of the clans witnessed his marriage to Valerie, and again many of us wondered if his peal ringing would drop. Like May Smith, Valerie seemed to get quickly into the idea of entertaining ringers and to handbell peals taking precedence over and to handbell peals taking precedence over and to handbell peals taking precedence over TV programmes. Other interesting peals he took part in include the peal of Churchill S. Major at Westerham for the late Sir Winston's 90th birthday, a peal of Yorkshire at Selling in which all of the band had rung peals in 100 different towers in Kent, and he conducted the first peal of Surprise Maximus by a resident Kent Association band at Quex Park.

On completion of his university course Bob returned to Marple where he worked in industry for a few years and then took up teaching at technical colleges in Manchester and Stockport. He continued ringing with the Cheshire band and rang in very many long lengths which are listed at the end of this article. In addition he rang the tenor at York Minster to the first peal of S. Maximus on the bells and the 11th at Liverpool Cathedral to the first peal of Yorkshire S. Maximus on the bells on February 18, 1967. This was the last peal John Worth rang in, and there is little doubt that he played a very large part in developing both Bob and Bernard to their present high standard. After John's death Bob took over the task of arranging peals, etc., for the band and it continued to flourish, particularly in the and it continued to flourish, particularly in the field of Spliced Surprise Maximus. They both took part in the peal of 40-Spliced Surprise Maximus at Liverpool Cathedral, which must surely rate as a major performance, and in ringing peals of Cambridge from Minor to Maximus in one day on handbells at Leicester. Both have rung two peals of Surprise "non-stop" and also seven peals of Surprise in one day. Bob has also perfected the art of being able to ring two tower bells and has rung two bells to peals of Bob Major, Bob Royal and Cambridge S. Major. I am informed, and am sure that Bernard has checked, that he has only counted these efforts as one in his peal total.

In early 1968 Bernard moved back to Marple on obtaining a post with an insurance company in Manchester. The handbell band at Marple was now firmly established and practising regularly; their efforts in the field of Spliced Surprise Maximus on handbells and Spliced Surprise Maximus on handbells and the friendly rivalry between them and the Bushy band are of such recent history that it would be pointless to repeat them. Sufficient to say that they rang in peals of 12 S. Maximus on handbells and 75-Spliced Surprise Maximus on the bells of Manchester Town Hall in November lost Hall in November last.

When all looked well for further records by the pair of them Bernard was promoted in his the pair of them Bernard was promoted in his work and posted to Reading in November last. Since that time he has continued handbell ringing in Frank Price's band and took part in a peal of 17-Spliced S. Major at Hawkley, Hants, rung silent and non-conducted.

Bob is also to leave Marple. He has been appointed head of the Mechanical and Productive Engineering Department at the Lough tion Engineering Department at the Lough-borough Technical College and will be joining borough Technical College and will be joining the Leicester Cathedral band. Whilst the majority of this article has been concerned with peal ringing, it would be right and proper to give them full credit for always being most regular Sunday service ringers and having taken an active part in the life and services of their churches. They have always been keen and willing to encourage those not so skilled in the art and take an equal interest in Doubles with a band of learners as they do with an expert Surprise band. Many ringers have been helped through their first peals by them; whilst I have not got Bernard's exact figure. Bob has rung peals with 57 first pealers. Bob is also very well known to readers of The Ringing World for his series on "The Mastery of Plain Bob" and the current series "Conducting Standard Methods." He was appointed a member of the Central Council last year. Both have been very active in support of their Association. so skilled in the art and take an equal interest Association.

When it became reasonably certain that they would reach their 1,000 at the same time, aron March 22, and they decided to ask representatives from the various bands that had helped them on their way to be included. The writer was extremely honoured, and definitely overawed, to be asked to conduct this peal and the method was chosen to be within his capabilities. It is to be sincerely hoped that no one will be offended by not being in the band on the 22nd as it was a most difficult task to pick 12 out of so many. Both Bob and Bernard would like to express their thanks to all who have assisted them in reaching this total —after all, ringing is team work. Particular —after all, ringing is team work. Particular thanks to the Marple ringers, Brian Woodruffe, Brian Harris, the Cheshire band and the late John Worth. Bernard would also like to thank Martin Howe and his friends in Kent, and Bob the Staniforths and other Leicester ringers. Knowing both as I do I am sure they appreciate too the help received from their mothers and wives.

HERRICK BACK AS RINGING

MASTER

On May 5 Herrick B. Bowley, now again ringing master at Leicester Cathedral, com-pletes his two-year term of office as churchwarden of the Cathedral Church of St. Martin, Leicester. Although he will remain on the list of deputy churchwardens his future duties will be less onerous and enable him to resume his normal ringing activities.

The office of a churchwarden at a cathedral is more demanding than the office of a normal churchwarden and entails among other things a very active participation in cathedral services and ceremonies. Herrick has, however, very pleasant memories of his term of office, of the fellowship with the Cathedral staff, of important occasions, of meeting a wide range of people, civic and other dignitaries, and last but not least of his involvement in Cathedral social occasions.

It was just after the last war when Herrick first became associated with Leicester Cathedral ringers; he became deputy ringing master in 1949 and has been ringing master since 1956, with the exception of his period of office as churchwarden. His earliest recollections of ringing are in the early 1920s with his father and family at Kirby Muxloe. followed by periods at Ratby and Anstey as he moved from place to place before the war.

Herrick's peal record to date lists a total of 408 peals, of which he has conducted 61. Incidentally 169 of these peals have been rung at Leicester Cathedral and in this time he has circled the tower no less than six times. Highlights of his ringing are taking part in four peals in a day on two occa-sions—Surprise Major and Royal in 1949 and Cambridge Minor to Maximus in 1951 -and also of taking part in the first peal of Spliced Surprise Maximus in 12 methods, rung at Leicester Cathedral in 1953 for the Queen's coronation.

In his younger days Herrick was a useful cricketer, graduating from the then wellknown Ratby team to the Leicestershire County Club, with whom he played for the first and second teams. Later he spent a period at Dumfries, Scotland, as player/coach before returning to Leicestershire to R.S. marry and settle down.

BELL FOUNDRIES OF THE PAST

Dear Sir,-I was most interested to read an article in the R.W. of Feb. 20, 1970, about the evolution of the modern 5-tone system of tuning which was reprinted from the Foundry Trade Journal (Dec. 18/25, 1969), which suggested that, generally, British bells before the second half of the 19th century were deficient in quality of tone. Then this article mentioned Miles Graye as one of the few exceptions to the original statement. It is certain that his finest bell is the noble tenor at Lavenham, Suffolk. This is quite an extraordinary bell. How many other fine bells of his exist, though? Stowmarket tenor is the only one I know. I doubt if there is another founder who has such a reputation on the strength of one bell.

There is another East Anglian foundry which was producing bells worthy of modern founders and which has had little recognition, except locally, for its products. I refer to the Downham Market, Norfolk foundry, which produced bells for around 50 years from about 1775 to 1825. first founder was Thomas Osborn, followed by his foreman, William Dobson. Thomas Osborn came from the St. Neots foundry of Joseph Eayre, from which also stemmed the early Taylor foundry of Loughborough.

The Downham Market foundry produced many fives and sixes and a few eights. There is one ring of ten (Wisbech, Cambs) and one of 12 bells—the old 12 at St. Nicholas', Liverpool. This was the heaviest ring produced by this foundry.

The early rings by Thomas Osborn were good but not as distinguished as the later rings by W. Dobson. An early octave at Hilgay, Norfolk, is a good example. tap-notes are not really accurately in tune but individual bells are good and have promise of things to come.

Later rings by W. Dobson have a distinctly modern sound. A good example is the fine octave at Diss, Norfolk. Outside, these bells sound as if they had been cast this century rather than in 1823. In many rings which have been renovated and retuned by Taylor or Mears new recast bells are hardly distinguishable from the old Dobson bells. An interesting ring of six exists at Marham, Norfolk. The fourth bell is exactly tuned to modern 5-tone principles. The treble bell, however, is another matter, having two prominent notes, neither bearing any relationship to the nominal tap-note. It is a demerit of the foundry that such a poor bell was allowed to be delivered and hung. It should have been recast without leaving the foundry. Obviously foundry techniques were not good enough to reproduce consistently their finest bells.

In 1825 or so the Downham Market foundry was bought out by the Mears foundry of Whitechapel, London, together with some fine West Country foundries. The patterns and technical data were reported lost. It sounds as if the London foundry was trying to eliminate successful competition.

It is matter for conjecture what the fortunes of the Whitechapel foundry would have been had they used and developed the

Belfry Gossip

The Geoffreys rang a peal of Yorkshire Surprise Maximus at Evesham on April 4, conducted by Geoffrey R. Drew.

Mr. A. J. Poyner has retired as hon. general secretary of the Leicester Diocesan Guild, and Mrs. R. D. Hughes has taken this position.

John Taylor and Co. started the rehanging of the bells of Kersey, Suffolk, last week, and followed with Walton-le-Wolds, Leics.

At Cannington (Somerset) a strong band is being built up for the heavy six, and at the moment have about 12 learners between 10 and 12 years of age.

David Bourner, a member of the St. Martin's, Chelsfield, Kent, band, is the present captain of Charterhouse Boys' School, Orpington. David, who is also a server and chorister, hopes to train for teaching.

Miss Julie Armstrong, of Putney, sailed for Australia on April 18. A letter of good wishes was sent from the general committee of the Surrey Association.

The Dean and Council of St. Albans Cathedral have under consideration the rehanging of the bells.

Through dry rot the bells have sunk on the headstocks at South Mymms, Herts. The P.C.C. have asked for revised estimates to include iron headstocks.

Mr. G. W. Massey confirms that the peal rung at Staple Fitzpaine, Somerset, on March 14 was the first peal on the bells.

The 17-spliced (page 297) rung by Leeds U.G. was the greatest number rung by a resident band (average age 21). This follows the success in 9 and 12 methods.

Personal Records.—Michael P. Moreton (500 peals), Bernard F. L. Groves (1,000), Robert B. Smith (1,000), Roger W. D. Wetenhall (100), Graham W. Elmes (200), Cynthia Barnett (25), Susan Banton (50).

Family Quarter.—Congratulations to the Taylor family. Mr. E. J. Taylor, of Cheltenham, conducted the first family quarter peal of Triples at Painswick on April 5.

The ring of eight at Ewell, Surrey, is to be rehung in a new frame, after retuning and fitting new headstocks. The work will be carried out by the Whitechapel Bell Foundry later this year.

knowledge and tuning techniques of W. Dobson. I believe they could have produced the major proportion of important rings of bells in this country instead of using their traditional methods until the first World War. This allowed the Taylor foundry to attain a position of eminence in modern bellfounding.

The real import of this article is that bells were being produced in this country which were virtually Simpson - tuned, 75 years or more before Canon Simpson postulated his principles of 5-toned tuning to the Taylor foundry.

I would be most grateful for comment and indeed correction in case of unwitting error.-Yours faithfully

RICHARD E. PRICE. Rotherham, Yorks.

Sending her subscription for 1970 and 1971, Mrs. V. Grossmith, of Umvukwes, Rhodesia, sends her good wishes and congratulations to the Editor and staff on The Ringing World peals layout, as she finds them easier to read.

A widower in the south-east of England finds life very lonely and would be glad of the companionship of a lady (around 40) who could share a common interest-bellringing. Any letters addressed to this office marked "D. L." will be forwarded.

"I've always thought ringers a little crazy but delightfully so," said the Bishop of Hereford at the three-day course held re-cently. "We have 480 churches," he added, "go and visit them all."

Another Goodyer a ringer.—Another of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Goodyer's family has entered the list of ringers. Edith, aged 11, rang her first quarter at Turramurra, New South Wales, Australia, on March 15 with her father and mother and two brothers. Congratulations!!

Easter Day was memorable for Ilton, Somerset, when the first quarter by residents in the village was rung. All credit to Mr. Roy Welch and his son Stephen, who was conducting for the first time. The rector (Rev. H. E. A. Jackson) is recording the achievement in the church records.

Progressing, but slowly, are Mr. George Kennard and Mr. Maurice Lacey, both in Medway General Hospital, Gillingham, Kent, and Mr. Stan Dobbie, who is not yet able to ring again. The Sittingbourne tower with its young ringers are now being led by Miss Wendy Austin and Mr. John Clark.

When eight ladies who were to attempt a quarter found one of the access doors locked and no key available (in spite of all inquiries), one lady produced two pieces of "equipment" and in a short while the door was open. The team wonder what other "hobbies" this lady has!

"We always enjoy The Ringing World and glean all sorts of information from the footnotes to peals, and it is certainly up-to-date news, for the issue of March 20 reached us this morning (March 23)," writes Margaret Goodyer, of New South Wales, Australia.

First peal congratulations to Dana Josephson, David Ketley, Michael Peters, Bernard Taylor (14), Helen Taylor, Taylor (15), Hilda Taylor (18), William A. Taylor, Charles E. Taylor, Hilary Hall, Corinne M. Dickson, Jennifer Rollins.

The peal of Cambridge Surprise Maximus on handbells by members of the Chester Diocesan Guild was the first to be rung other than those which have been rung at The Wayside, Leicester. It was rung on the fourth occasion that the band met to attempt a peal, although they had met to practise on a number of occasions. prevous attempt was stopped when seven and a half courses had been rung.

With malice towards none; with charity for all, with firmness in the right, as God give us to see the right.—Abraham Lincoln.

Obituary

MR. THOMAS H. DILLEY

The parish church of Clifton, Bedfordshire, lost a faithful friend with the passing of Tom Dilley on Easter Saturday. Since 1919 Tom had been a bellringer and steeplekeeper and, although in failing health for the last year, he had still been in regular attendance on Sundays and practice nights with his brothers, also ringers. He had also been a sidesman for many years. Before the funeral service the eight bells were rung by his friends of the Biggleswade District and in the afternoon a quarter peal of halfmuffled Grandsire Triples was rung by the Sunday service ringers of Clifton and nearby Henlow.

Well done, thou good and faithful serant.

MR. W. PALMER

Mr. W. Palmer, of Badsworth, near Pontefract, died at the end of March. Although there were only four bells at the local church he learned to ring Bob Minor by visiting other towers. He had not rung anywhere for some time but he was at one time a frequent visitor to the Barnsley and District meetings and held the office of president of that Society for a short time.

THEY DON'T MAKE THEM LIKE THAT ANY MORE

It must have been nearly 20 years ago that we sat in the inn in Widecombe-in-the-Moor after a peal of Minor and talked ringing delightedly with the captain of ringers. The talk came pouring out of him in a rich, gravelly Devon voice; the craggy face and bright, keen eyes were unforget-table: Bill Miners was a man who will be talked of as long as anyone lives who knew him.

The quick speech sounded more like North Devon than the south, and I was not surprised to learn that Bill came from Pancrasweek on the North Cornwall border, but he arrived in Widecombe over 50 years ago and was not long in making his Working for somebody else was not his cup of tea and he embarked on his career with a horse and cart as a transport contractor; it's typical of the character of the man that Widecombe even remembers that the horse's name was "Lion" — and "Lion" was the foundation of a business that carries the name of W. F. Miners on a fleet of beautifully turned out lorries to every part of the kingdom. Until quite recently Bill would often be behind the wheel himself and would run a load of cattle to Smithfield, drop into a practice in a London tower and take another load home; any fetching and carrying for Widecombe Church or any other nearby was gladly taken on by Bill, and bells, clappers and headstocks often went on his lorries.

Ringing was his consuming passion, and he was the kind of perfectionist that has made Devon call-change ringing what it is. The treble was his bell, and to rise or fall behind him was a treat. As long as bells were in earshot he was listening to every blow, and he would roll a really good peal round his memory 15 years after he'd heard it, as a connoisseur rolls a fine vintage claret round his tongue.

Such dedication to good ringing coupled with such a dynamic personality could hardly fail to make Widecombe band one of the best in the county, and it did not fail. So one can imagine the consternation when we heard, in 1955, that after an attack of thrombosis Bill's doctors had given him strict instructions not to ring and not to go up stairs—of which Widecombe tower has a good supply. But Bill Miners had never been used to having people tell him what to do, and as soon as he could get out of his house he was ringing again at Widecombe and anywhere else that he could find a rope.

Some years later another attack involved the amputation of a leg; one of the first things the artificial leg had to do was to learn the way up Widecombe tower. A series of strokes was treated in the same cavalier fashion: there was an almost undetectable halting in the rapid, eager flow of talk, but no slackening of energy or enthusiasm, or decline in initiative: it was Bill who was one of the first people to moot the idea of a united drive by Devon ringers for the Cathedral Appeal, and when we all went to Exeter with our gifts he was there with us.

The end came swiftly, as he expected and hoped: on Easter Day he was ringing for service; on Monday he was down at Revelstoke for a practice on the eight bells; on Tuesday he was at practice at home; on Wednesday he was just a little under the weather and didn't go ringing as he'd planned; on Friday morning he was gone. Widecombe Church, the "Cathedral of the Moor," was packed to the doors with those who were proud to be his friends-in business, in local government (he was a district councillor for many years)-and call-change and method ringers from all over the county. And so we saw him out of church for the last time, into the shifting sunshine and snow showers of an unseasonable Dartmoor April, while three ringers from North Devon and three from the south set the deep-throated old Pennington six "tapping round" over his head.

WORCESTER SCHOOLS OUTING

On Wednesday, March 18, a party of ringers from the King's School, the Girls' Grammar School, the Technical College and the Royal Grammar School went on a ringing outing to the Leominster area.

The first tower visited was Rock, where several touches of Grandsire Triples were rung.

Justice was not done to the Barwell six at Tenbury Wells; a reasonable touch of Bob Minor was rung, but our time ran out before we had a chance to ring anything else other than call-changes. From Tenbury to Kimbolton, where there is a pleasant six. Here the ringing was better and a course of Cambridge Minor and touches of Bob Minor and Grandsire Doubles were rung before lunch.

After a brief stop in Leominster, on to Pembridge, where half-an-hour's ringing on the heavy and sonorous five was enjoyed. Everyone had been looking forward to ringing at Eardisland, and what we had heard of the excellence of these bells was justified. Here, with the help of Leslie Evans, a good course of Stedman Triples was rung. At our last tower of the day, Stoke Prior, the bells had not been rung for over two years, but after an inspection had revealed that the bells had been clocked but were quite ringable, and a rope had been spliced, the bells were raised and rung to Bob Doubles and Grandsire Doubles.

Thanks to Paul Cattermole and Chris Pickford for making the arrangements, and to all incumbents and tower captains for affording the use of their bells. C. J. P.

Bath and Wells Association

80th BIRTHDAY RINGING

Visitors from Bath, Frome and Bridgwater branches joined members of the Chew Branch at their quarterly meeting at Wraxall on March 21, where ringing preceded the service, conducted by the rector, Preb. L. W. Fussell. Seats at tea were at a premium, but eventually all were seated and full justice done to the meal provided by Mrs. Weeks and Mrs. Everett.

The meeting was opened by the secretary. Mr. D. G. Yeo, who paid tribute to the service given to the branch by the late chairman, Mr. H. W. Knight, who had passed away on February 27, and suggestions about a memorial are to be discussed.

Mr. J. Brain was voted to the chair for the rest of the meeting. Mr. R. Curtis (Portishead), Miss H. Derham (Backwell) and Mr. T. Hawkings (Yatton) were elected members and Mr. J. Young (Backwell) was re-elected. It was decided to hold the branch corporate Communion at Yatton in May.

Mr. Horseman gave details of the striking competition to be held at Tickenham in April, which Mr. C. Wratten (Cheltenham) had kindly agreed to judge. Support was very good last year and the chairman hoped this year would see even more teams entering.

The general secretary (Mr. J. H. Gilbert) told members that the revised rules would be available with the annual reports for the A.G.M. at Bath, and as this was the Association's 80th birthday he hoped that peals or quarter peals would be rung at all the towers to mark the event. The chairman expressed concern about the impression created that East Pennard bells were now fit to ring after work had been carried out by a band of enthusiastic amateurs. Mr. Gilbert said that regular ringing was not possible at present and the question of unringable towers in the diocese would be raised at the A.G.M.

Further ringing took place later in methods up to Spliced Surprise. J. B.

"DOWN UNDER" NEWS

The February issue of Ringing Towers tells of plans to establish a new constitution. This is a thorny subject. A proposed new constitution received a majority of postal votes but was declared invalid. Another attempt has been made but there is a warning that this will meet a similar fate as, according to existing rules, "instructing that voting is to be yes or no on each proposed amendment," and according to Bill Pitcher this has not been done.

Another controversial subject is peals for ANZAB outside its territory. Questions are raised by Ron Russ of a belfry election in this country of ringers who have never rung or even been to ANZAB territory or have the slightest interest in it. His suggestion is that no member can be elected except by or through a branch and on ANZAB territory. He hopes, however, that the peals he has rung for the Association since his return to U.K. should be thought worthy to appear in the Association's records

This is a most interesting number. Dermot Roaf writes on his year "down under"; the series Australian Ringing Identities is by Bill Pitcher, a former president of ANZAB and Editor of Ringing Towers for five years, including co-ordinating the arrangements for Great Adventure II in 1965, with a list of topical items, largely personal.

St. Peter, Old Woking, Surrey

St. Peter, Old Woking, Surrey

ST. PETER'S, OLD WOKING, SURREY WITH THE COMING of steam the centre of Woking moved, leaving Old Woking to its village charm. There has been a church on the site of St. Peter's for over 1,000 years. The nave of the present church was built about 1100 and the fine old Norman door (1125), one of the earliest and most valuable, still remains with all its fittings. In the late 12th century the chancel was added and the tower dates from the 13th century. Other interesting features are the 15th century pews and the brick south porch (no longer in use), built in 1662 by the Earl Marshal of England who lived in Woking. At the time of Edward VI's Royal Inventory (c. 1550) there were "V great letells in the stephull" at Woking. The tenor bell's inscription "In multis annis resonet campana Johannis" (let John's bell resound for many years) leads some to the opinion that it came from the nearby Newark Priory.

By the middle of the 17th century the bells were giving trouble and in 1684 they were transported to the foundry of William Eldridge at Chertsey to be weighed. Five new bells were cast, presumably using the old bell metal, at a cost of £32. The new bells were hung in the tower and new stairs built for £12 12s. 6d. plus other amounts for "gin and beare". In the same year William Eldridge cast a bell for Chobham and in anticipation of this the Chobham ringers appear to have visited Woking to try the bells because in the churchwarden's accounts there appears an item of 7s. 6d. for food and drink for them. If no similar item appears in the Chobham records later that year perhaps amends might still be made by a generous invitation to the Old Woking ringers of today!

In 1766 an itinerant founder whose initials were probably I.F. cast a new bell close to the church. He was either skilled or fortunate because it needed no tuning to become the 4th of a ring of six bells. By 1884 the tenor bell was cracked, according to J. C. L. Stahlschmidt (Surrey Bells and London Bell Founders, published 1884). It was recast by John Warner and Sons three years later and weighs 17½ cwt. Mears and Stainbank cast two trebles in 1929 to complete the octave and hung them in the fittings of the 3rd and 4th, which were rehung on ball bearings in a new metal frame. Later that year they hung the tenor and 7th on ball bearings and in 1930 the 5th and 6th were similarly rehung. Thus only the two trebles remain in the original plain bearing. This piecemeal work was apparently caused by lack of funds.

In memory of Admiral T. P. Walker, the first treasurer of the Guildford Diocesan Guild, Mears and Stainbank recast the itinerant founder's bell (6th) at the Guild's expense and retuned the others, but unfortunately the harmonising of the bells today still leaves something to be desired. The 7th is cracked, badly worn and considered to be out of tune. It is hoped to rehang all the bells shortly with entirely new fittings after recasting the 7th bell and retuning the remainder. A fund has already been started and the captain, Mr. David Munday, 92 High Street, Old Woking, Surrey, will gladly acknowledge the donations. The band has a tradition of long service.

In 1947 the Woking Review reported that the eight members had completed 234 years of ringing between them. Old Woking has had a long association with William Shepherd, who particularly enjoyed visits from the late "Jim" Brackley, captain for many years and a ringer and chorister for 62 years. Mr. Munday has completed 44 years' service and Messrs. Jack Soles and Frank Milne have also served for long periods. D. A. R. M.

NOT AFFECTED BY THE CUP FINAL

The Eastern District's April meeting, held at the village of Northaw, situated amidst rolling countryside on the southern Hertfordshire border, was not affected by the Cup Final and there was a good attendance. A short service was held and was followed by tea in the new church hall.

Mr. E. Newnham was chairman, and Mr.

Mr. E. Newnham was chairman, and Mr. Jim Woolford stood in for Mr. S. James, the district secretary. The district ringing master (Mr. Harris) said that the eight at Hunsdon are greatly improved since a district working party spent an evening servicing them. Great Munden and Wattonat-Stone bells are the next in line for possible restoration work. The ringing outing was discussed.

Thanks were given to the ladies, the vicar and the organist, and further ringing took place at Cheshunt.

25 YEARS AGO

Taken from The Ringing World for April 27, 1945

The leader advocated setting the bells up when a touch went wrong rather than calling them into rounds.

At Painswick a peal of Stedman Cinques. conducted by Wilfred Williams, had two ringers on the 3rd—James Hemmings and Geoffrey Lewis. Walter F. Judge rang the treble and Rev. C. E. Wigg the tenor.

Sheila Moreton and George Davis rang their first peal (Bob Minor) at Withington, Hereford, and Wilfrid F. Moreton conducted, it being his first of Minor in that capacity.

A peal attempt for D. Norwich at Ely in honour of the wedding of Rev. J. P. Pelloe was lost through a rope breaking 16 courses from the end.

Some long touches and quarter peals rung half-muffled were in memoriam the late President of the U.S.A.

A letter from R. D. St. J. Smith, C.F., from S.E.A.C., stated: "Teaching and the maintenance of Sunday service ringing must, I insist, take precedence over peals and ringing for personal pleasure and satisfaction."

At Truro 130 ringers attended a meeting at which a handbell team were present from Benenden School.

About the Central Council

5.—THE RECORDS COMMITTEE By F. T. BLAGROVE

THE COMMITTEE was formed in 1920 to compile and keep up to date an official list of the first peal and the longest peal in each method on each number of bells, with separate lists for tower bell and handbell peals. By 1923 a list of these performances had been prepared, mainly by Rev. A. T. Beeston, and the original typescript of this list is in the Council library. With additions up to 1928 it can be found in Ernest Morris's History and Art.

The committee was authorised by the Council to approach associations for the figures of both methods and peals on this list and most of this work was undertaken by Mrs. Edith Fletcher. Hundreds of letters were sent out and the resulting figures were typed out, one peal to a foolscap sheet, giving details of the performance, the method and the composition. In 1945 the Records' Committee was separated from the Peals Analysis Committee, and Mrs. C. C. Marshall joined Mrs. Fletcher to continue with the task of typing even more foolscap sheets, for an ever increasing number of new methods.

F. T. Blagrove and J. R. Mayne were added to the committee in 1960. Prior to this, in 1959, a series of articles on First Peal Performances, written by F. T. Blagrove, were published in The Ringing World. These gave an independent check to the records of the committee, and added many more methods to the period prior to 1920, and also several important corrections to dates and names.

Following the death of Mrs. Fletcher there were several changes in the committee. In 1966 C. A. Wratten joined, mainly to undertake the work of tracing and listing Minor methods. Also D. E. Sibson, who had contributed considerably to the Surprise Collection. It was decided to transfer the records of the committee to a record-card filing system, and the Council agreed that the foolscap sheets should be completed up to 1960, and suitably bound as a memorial to Mrs. Fletcher. These two leather-bound Twin-Lock files are regularly taken to the Council meetings.

MR. FRANK BLAGROVE (Convener)

In 1967 J. A. Ainsworth joined the committee, to help in considering the possibilities of audio-recordings for the Council. The committee reported back in 1968 that such work would be very valuable and C. M. Smith joined to undertake this work. However, the committee reported then, and is still of the opinion, that such work should really be within the sphere of an enlarged Library and Archives Committee. G. Dodds also joined the committee, he having computer facilities for compiling lists of extensions of methods.

The work of the committee continues, not only forward with keeping lists up to date and proving compositions of new "First peals in the method," but also backwards. For we still have names without figures, such as Maidstone Major and Morning Pleasure, and figures not decoded, such as Annable's composition of Double Grandsire Caters.

To love playthings well as a child, to lead an adventurous and honourable youth, and to settle when the time arrives into a green and smiling age, is to be a good artist in life and deserve well of yourself and your neighbour.

HIS FINEST HOUR

The restoration of the tower and the recasting and augmentation of the bells of St. Mary's Church, Hayes, Middlesex. were brought about by the hard work and enthusiasm of Mr. Percy Venn, and the tribute (in poetic form) below tells of Percy's finest hour. (Ringing World, March 20, page 206.)

A TRIBUTE TO PERCY VENN

It was '69 and Percy Venn,
With just a handful of willing men,
Decided to do all—within their power—
To restore the Hayes Church tower.
They worked each evening and into the night,
Mostly by artificial light;
For Percy had a mission, clear,
To finish by March, the following year.

Old oak beams, weak with decay,
With chains and ropes were torn away:
Half-ton girders hauled in place
Fitted to an even space:
The weather-vane was held aloof
While they neatly built beneath—a roof!
Then Percy gave a well-earned sigh:
"Now lads," he said, "we're in the dry."

The bells were then removed at last And sent away to be recast. All toiled on, through rubble and dust, To be ready by March—it was a "must"! Problems that would frighten some By Percy and Co, were overcome: Holes were cut into the wall; Flint and chalk—it had to fall.

At times it seemed like hell let loose, It's a wonder no one cooked his goose: Mingled with such groans of woe, When objects fell on someone's toe, Exclamations of "Oh heck"—
When dust descended down one's neck, If stronger words than these were used Let's hope and pray they'll be excused.

Ascending stairs had to be made:
The belfry floor was then relaid;
Steel girders fixed to take each bell—
Everyone worked like merry hell!
Eventually there came the day:
The bells came back again—to stay!
A craftsman fixed them in their places,
And a trial ring made some happy faces.
Now March 15—Percy's finest hour—
And the bells now ring in St. Mary's tower,

E. H. HAMMOND.

RINGING ON THE NEW TEN

The quarterly meeting of the Devizes Branch was held at Edington, Wilts, on April 4, when ringing on the new ten at the Priory Church was under the direction of ringing master Jones (Longbridge Deverill). At the service, at which Mrs. D. Smith presided at the organ, Canon T. Dudley welcomed the ringers, and later 50 sat down to tea (organised by the local band), including visitors from Sherborne (Warwicks), Alveston, Egham (Surrey), Swindon, Ald-bourne, Mitcheldean, Westerleigh (Glos) and Box. During the meeting, chaired by Mr. C. Andrews (Melksham), Canon Dudley was elected an honorary member, whilst ringing members were elected from Longbridge Deverill and Bishops Cannings, Future events were decided to be held as follows: Monthly meetings: May at Bratton: June, North Bradley; July, Upavon. The striking competition is to be held at Holt in October. In conjunction with a proposed ringing course, a Grandsire Triples evening will be held at Longbridge Deverill on April 18.

Mr. Jones gave news items and Mr. Weeks (Devizes) gave news of Bishops Cannings bells, which are under repair. Further ringing followed and full use was made of the bells.

DAMAGED TOWER REPAIRED

Towards the latter part of last November lightning struck All Saints' Church, Rockland, Norfolk, causing considerable damage. Not a gutter was left whole and all the rainwater down pipes were broken. More seriously, the upper part of the tower was damaged both internally and externally on its eastern side. Rubble fell outwards and inwards, leaving a nasty gap, and at one time it was feared that one of the bells might be cracked since it was well surrounded by broken stonework. Fortunately these fears proved to be unfounded. With the 3rd wheel repaired and all pulleys renewed the bells were able to be rung again on Easter Day when the church was re-

The keen and mainly young band has been trained by Mr. C. E. G. Banham, of Caston. While the tower and bells were out of use much useful practice was gained from his set of handbells. A carpenter by profession, Mr. Banham has been assisting in the restoration work. As is the case at other towers nearby, it is his enthusiasm and practical help that have kept the bells in a ringable condition.

Winchester and Portsmouth Guild AT THE WALLOPS

Andover District's spring was held at the two Wallops (Over and Nether) and Broughton on April 11 and was the first to be held since Nether Wallop and Broughton were transferred from the Winchester District. The Wallops (both fives) attracted many visitors. The service at Nether Wallop was conducted by Rev. M. Pitt and was well attended.

Tea was provided by the Nether Wallop ladies, and the chairman, Mr. P. Murduck, welcomed visitors from Swindon, Gosport, Billericay, Newbury and the Winchester District. It was especially pleasing to elect seven new ringing members from Stockbridge, one from Andover and two from Kingsclere and five associate members. It was decided to hold the next quarterly meeting at Woolton Hill in June. M. G.

ANNUAL DINNER

The M.U.G. dinner was this year arranged to coincide with the Northern Universities' meeting. The latter started somewhat dubiously at 9.30 a.m. amid somewhat dubiously at 9.30 a.m. amid thick snow at Marple. Numbers increased during the day and, in all, seven towers were "grabbed," and unfortunately the peal attempted at Worsley was not successful. The dinner was held at the Mersey Hotel, West Didsbury. Resident M.U.G.s were joined by former members and respectations from Sheffeld Durham Net presentatives from Sheffield, Durham, Nottingham, Leeds and Liverpool Universities, and, in all, 66 sat down.

Following the loyal toast, Mr. William Taylor gave a very erudite speech punctuated by several less erudite witticisms on the conflicting opinions current among church members and others on the nature and function of the Church today. Mr. Taylor concluded with a toast to "The Church."

In reply, the Rev. Alan Overell, rector of the M.U.G.s tower in Salford, expressed his appreciation of the efforts of the ringers, at the same time apologising for the somewhat damp condition of the tower of late! Not being an initiate of the noble art, he expressed some uncertainty as to what actually does take place in the belfry!

A welcoming toast to the visitors, offered by the secretary, Mr. Hamish Mc-Naughton, was acknowledged by Mr. L. Palmer (Leeds University) in a most entertaining speech.

The secretary of Nottingham U.G., Mr. T. Martin Rice, in toasting the Guild, pointed out the close association of the two guilds, and, in concluding, the master, Mr. Marcus C. W. Sherwood, outlined the activities and achievements of the past year, not least a very commendable list of "firsts scored in peals.

Following the dinner there was plenty of opportunity for conversation, and handbells were rung. The guild peal book and a complete peal of Grandsire Triples, woven in wool, were on display. Finally, fortified by a good meal and liquid refreshment, the evening was rounded off by the traditional session of ten-pin bowling.

R. KINGSLEY MASON INJURED

Following a motor accident (details of which we have not received) Mr. R. Kingsley Mason is in hospital. A peal of Yorkshire S. Maximus at Cheltenham on April 18, in which he was to have taken part, was rung in 3 hours 10 minutes, and the band wish to associate Kingsley's name with the peal and to wish him a speedy and complete recovery. [All ringers will, we feel sure, endorse these sentiments.—Ed.]

Yorkshire Association

A LADDER PROBLEM

The first full meeting that the Leeds Branch has held since it was formed from the Leeds and District Society took place on April 4 at Pontefract. The pleasantsounding six at nearby Darrington were available for an hour in the afternoon and many ringers took advantage to use them, but some of the more timid of the company, seeing the vertical iron ladder disappearing through a trapdoor in the ceiling, declined to make the ascent to the ringing chamber and forfeited a chance to ring.

About 30 ringers were present at the eight in Pontefract, All Saints' tower standing amid a ruined church, reputedly damaged when Cromwell was firing on the castle alongside the church. During the business meeting those present listened to o tape-recording of a programme broadcast by the B.B.C.'s Radio Leeds. It was of an interview between Radio Leeds and the president of the old Leeds Society, Mr. Robin Brown, and two other ringers, cerning the merging of the Society with the Yorkshire Association. The interview was concluded by a touch rung on handbells. R

MEMORIAL SERVICE AT BURGHCLERE

A memorial service for the late Mr. Frederick Gosling, 30 years captain at Burghclere, Hants, took place on April 5, and a peal board was dedicated to his memory by the rector (Rev. James Craig) and later hung in the belfry. Given by the Burghclere ringers, it records a peal of Burghclere Doubles rung in May, 1968, in which his daughter took part with three members from Burghclere and Highclere. Prior to the service a quarter peal of Grandsire Doubles was rung: Ian Long (first quarter) 1, Marion Gosling 2, F. Tonge 3, T. Tarrant 4, G. Dodd (cond.) 5, P. Murduck tenor.

The rector spoke of Fred's long service to the church as a bellringer. In the congregation were members of the family and many parishioners, including bellringing friends from many towers of the Andover District.

The board, hung in a prominent position in the belfry, is a fitting tribute to a man who loved his church. G.D. who loved his church.

MIDDLEZOY MEETING

The Bridgwater Branch held its spring meeting on April 4 at Middlezoy, but ringing was curtailed for a Communion service.

conducted by the vicar.

About 34 members took tea in the village hall, the chairman, Mr. Herniman, expressing thanks to the vicar, Mr. Gillard (tower captain) and the ladies. Three new members from Wembdon and Middlezoy were elected and a date was fixed for the outing.

The meeting expressed good wishes to Mrs. Lane (ringing master's wife) who had just returned from hospital.

"BLESSED IS THE MAN"

"A few years ago," writes E. G. M., "The Ringing World recorded the number of married couples in the U.B.S.C.R., and this large number was attributed to the fact that the Society had a resident Cupid! Statistics now show that between them the 17 married couples of the U.B.S.C.R. have produced 31 children! I wonder if any other university ringing Society can rival this."

Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild

To Drop "London" from Title?

Two vexed problems came before the 73rd A.G.M. of the Middlesex Association and London Diocesan Guild, held at Twickenham on April 11—the change of title to plain Middlesex Association of Church Bell Ringers and an acceptable badge that could not be confused with the Essex Association.

The meeting also marked the change of principal officers. Mr. T. J. Lock, for many years the devoted secretary to the Association, becomes the master and Mr. F. T. Blagrove the new secretary.

The service was at All Hallows' Church, Twickenham, conducted by the Rev. G. H. Stevens, who gave an address. The Association's president, Rev. A. G. Taylor, read the lesson. Local arrangements were made by Miss A. Horsford and there was an excellent tea in the adjoining parish hall, prepared by Mrs. Stevens and Mrs. Todd.

Proceedings at the business meeting opened with the presentation of a beautiful chess set and inlaid board to Mr. T. W. White, the previous editor of The Ringing World. The president, in making the presentation, said it was their desire that a personal gift should be made instead of joining in a national testimonial. He gave various details of Mr. White's busy life and congratulated him on his editorship of The Ringing World for 23 years. In his reply of thanks the late editor spoke of his admiration for "the Middlesex" and that their leaders past and present had been a backbone of the Exercise. There was also a presentation of an azalea to Mrs. White.

Mr. F. W. Goodfellow, as hon, treasurer, presented the accounts, which showed the following balances: Bell Restoration Fund, £154 11s. 9d. (£144); Central Fund, £267 6s. 4d. (£253). He asked members to discuss during the coming year the present subscription and whether the bell restoration fund should be financed by voluntary contributions or out of the annual subscription.

Mr. T. J. Lock read his annual report, which stated that 107 quarter peals had been rung in 27 towers, Hillingdon's return of 16 being the only one in double figures.

A total of 53 peals was rung (11 first pealers). Ten methods were rung to peals for the first time. Peals were rung for the 95th anniversary of the formation of the West Middlesex Association and the 75th anniversary of the re-formation of the South West Middlesex Association, which later become their South and West District.

PEAL RINGER CONGRATULATED

The report congratulated Mr. A. Cutler on being the first to ring peals to 300 different Surprise Major methods, and Mr. T. J. Lock, who had rung 250. The notable work of restoration at St. Mary's, Hayes, by Mr. P. C. Venn and his son, Christopher (recently reported in the R.W.), received a special mention, and the retirement from the Civil Service of Mr. F. W. Goodfellow, the hon. treasurer, after 50 years, was recorded with best wishes for a happy retirement. The report and accounts were adopted.

In the election of officers Mr. W. S. Deason explained that it was necessary for him to stand down from being master and he thanked the Association. Mr. T. J. Lock, his successor, said he was very conscious of the honour that had been conferred on him. Among the outstanding people he was following were William Pye and John R. Mayne. In retiring from the secretaryship there were two people he had specially to thank—Miss R. Foreman, the assistant secretary (who was later re-elected), and his wife, who was an unofficial assistant secretary. The other officers were re-elected.

THE TITLE

The question of revising the title of the Association had been before the Standing Committee and Mr. F. T. Blagrove submitted its proposal that the title of the Association be the Middlesex Association of Church Bell Ringers. Instead of a Society of change-ringers, he said, they became a Society of Church Bell Ringers. The most important part was the dropping of the London Diocesan Guild. "We are not and never have been a true London Diocesan Guild."

There were three other Societies which did most of the work in Central London the College Youths, the Cumberlands and London County. If they dropped London they might be able to create a London Diocesan Joint Committee of these Societies similar to what had been formed in Yorkshire.

Mr. Jack Euston took an opposite view and wanted their title changed to London Diocesan Guild, which would cover the whole of Middlesex and the Middlesex County Association. He also thought the change was desirable through the proposed division of the London Diocese into suffragan areas.

The chairman pointed out that in the proposed Archdeaconry of London, which would be the cities of London and Westminster, there were only two towers belonging to the Association. After further discussion it was decided to refer the question to a working committee composed of Messrs. J. Euston, Blagrove, Hawkins, Goodfellow, G. Parsons and D. Gazeley, with Miss Ruth Foreman as convener.

The badges sub-committee submitted three designs. Mr. Deason pointed out that a badge was urgent. The difficulty of selecting a badge when the Association was uncertain of its title was countered by adopting the county arms. Mrs. Joan Hooton then caused concern by drawing attention to the similarity with the Essex Association badge of three swords. After discussion this also was referred to the working committee with power to act. Mrs. Hooton was added to the committee.

Bell restoration grants were also considered and the meeting voted £50 to Hayes and £30 each to St. Nicholas', Chiswick, and St. Mary's, Ruislip. Mr. Goodfellow expressed the warm appreciation of the Association of the work of Mr. Percy Venn. Supporting, Mr. Euston said the work he had accomplished was fantastic.

The meeting conferred on Mrs. Grace Goodfellow honorary membership for her work for the Association and elected four new members. Harrow Weald was selected for the next A.G.M. and votes of thanks passed to the vicar, Miss Horsford and those responsible for the tea.

Your humble servant.—Tom White, the retired Editor, receiving a chess set from the Rev. G. C. Taylor, president of the Middlesex County Association, as a mark of the members' appreciation of his 23 years' service to The Ringing World.

Report of the Standing Committee

It will be recalled that at the 1969 Central Council meeting at St. Albans it was resolved that the Standing Committee should examine the constitution and precedural working of the Council. During the past year the Committee has been engaged in this examination.

Shortly after the meeting at St. Albans, the Honorary Secretary invited all ringers, whether members of the Central Council or not, to let him know their views on the matters under discussion. A number of ringers accepted the invitation and made various suggestions as to how they thought the workings of the Central Council could be improved.

A meeting of the Standing Committee was held at Leicester on 29th November, 1969 at which the letters sent in by ringers were considered and the whole problem discussed at length. (A report of this meeting appeared in "The Ringing World" of 9th January.) The outcome of the meeting was that three sub-committees were appointed to consider and make recommendations on aspects of the Central Council activities. Their terms of reference, which were of a general nature, and the membership of them was as follows:—

Aims, Objects and Procedures-R. F. B. Speed W. F. Moreton B. D. Threlfall

Membership-

Mrs. E. A. Barnett P. A. Corby T. J. Lock

Finance-

D. Beresford F C. Price W. G. Wilson

The reports of the sub-committees were considered at a meeting of the Standing Committee held at Leicester on 21st March 1970. The reports were discussed at length and adopted with few modifications.

The stage has now been reached when the Standing Committee considers that it can suggest to the Council certain principles on which the constitution and procedural working of the Council constitution and procedural working of the Council could be altered for the better. To implement its ldeas certain matters would have to be examined further in detail but the Standing Committee thinks that its proposals should now be considered by the Council as a whole, to approve, amend, or reject the principles enumerated below as it thinks fit. In the event of the Committee's proposals being either approved or amended, details would be worked out and submitted to the Council in a further report. further report.

The following, then, are the recommendations of the Standing Committee for the amendment of the constitution and procedural workings of the Council. The approval of the Council of these recommendations is sought before the Committee carries out the further detailed investigations which would be necessary.

REPORT OF THE JOINT COMMITTEE ON REVISION OF DECISIONS

The committee has considered the four paragraphs referred back at the St. Albans meeting (see page 987, Dec. 19, corrected on page 150, Feb. 27).

The committee's recommendations wil! be put as motions at the Ilkley meeting.

With regard to the deletion of paragraph A3, the recent and continuing developments in the use of calls in composition are so diverse that the committee feels unable at present to recommend a satisfactory ruling. It does, however, recommend that the tra-ditional use and placement of calls should not lightly be discarded.

Recommendations for Decision

Methods and Calls.

Delete A3, restrictions on calls, and renumber A4 as A3.

Delete B, regular methods, and re-letter C, D, E as B, C, D and in the new D5, change E4 to D4.

Recommendations for Decision on Peal Ringing

1. Change C1, Spliced Compositions, to read:-

"Compositions in more than one method shall be termed Spliced, when the methods are so joined that the leads of the methods remain intact, the changes of method being at the lead-head or half-lead but not both in the same composition.

Compositions in which the changes of method occur at both lead-head and half-lead shall be termed Spliced, provided all the methods in the composition are symmetrical about the half-lead, with no two of them differing only in the places made at the half-lead and/or the lead-head."

Technical Committees, 2. Remove F, from this Decision, but the four paragraphs to stand as the terms of reference of these four committees, changing the last paragraph to read:—

"The Methods Committee shall make recommendations on the construction of methods and calls, and shall prepare such collections as may be required by the Council. It shall also consider all questions arising from the nomenclature used for any method, and the findings of the Committee shall be published in The Ringing World."

AIMS, OBJECTS AND PROCEDURE

1 General

The only terms of reference we received in writing are given in our title. This has given us freedom to discuss matters that are perhaps none of our business and the opportunity to sketch out what we hope might develop into a coherent scheme for a more dynamic and outward-looking organisation than exists at present. If we have trespassed on the preserves of others, we apolo-

The line of attack has been to consider first what the Council is trying to achieve, then design a structure to fulfil these aims, and finally some procedures to make the best use of this structure

Much of what we propose has already been discussed. The committee structure however was not considered at Leicester and a number of changes are proposed to rationalise what is, at present, a rather ad hoc arrangement.

It is worth noting that there are three different kinds of committee:

those operating on a continuous basis like the Ringing World Committee those providing a service like the Towers and Belfries Committee those providing an output on request, or at regular intervals, like the Records Committee. Although names are not important in themselves, they create an impression, and it will be necessary to modify the titles of committees in order to bring out these differences. For the purpose of this report familiar names are used where possible.

Aims and Objects of the Central Council

- To represent all ringers to national bodies and the world at large.
- To make available advice, assistance and information to ringers and ringing societies on all matters concerned with bells and bell-ringing.
- To bring together ringers to discuss matters of common interest.
- To recommend standards in change-ringing and for the ringing of peals.
- To record peals rung in compliance with these standards.
- To organise a scheme for financial assistance for churches with bells.

Organisation

- 3 1 The Council will elect its officers and committees and delegate authority to them as appropriate.
- The principal officers will be: President, Vice-President, Secretary.
- The Librarian: important as this post is, it is not concerned with the administration of the Council, and should not necessarily be reserved for some noted ringer we wish to

The library itself ought to be housed at so central location. We understand that the Gold-smith's Library and the National Central Library are prepared to handle specialist libraries and lend books by post.

- The Administrative Committee will be responsible for organising the meetings of the Council, coordinating the activities of other committees, and dealing with urgent matters between meetings of the Council. It should meet at least twice a year, once in the autumn to consider the form of the next Council meeting, and again in the early spring to finalise the details.
- The Ringing World Committee will have responsibilities as at present.
- The Public Relations Committee will be responsible for contacts with the Press and Broadcasting Organisations and will be concerned with improving the public image of ringing.
- The Education Committee will organise or assist associations to organise courses and lectures on ringing.
- The Publications Committee will ensure that suitable publications are available to further the aims of the Council, and where appropriate will be responsible for their distribution.
- The Towers and Belfries Committee, as mentioned above, differs from other committees in that it provides a service. The committee should be smaller than at present with the aim of coordinating requests for assistance and channelling these to conassistance and chainening meet to con-sultants (who need not be members of the Council) in various parts of the country. Possibly an advisory panel of suitable con-sultants could be established.
- The Peal Composition, Methods and Records Committees would be unchanged. It is recommended that the work of the Peals Analysis Committee be discontinued as the Analysis is thought to have little value.
- We doubt if the Overseas Committee is worth preserving. The functions of the present Literature and Press Committee should be divided between the Librarian and the Public Relations Committee. The latter could have an Overseas Liaison Officer.

Council Procedures

Suggestions made here are vey tentative. Flexibility and experimentation are necessary with changes being brought in progressively. The writing of new rules is largely unnecessary and should be avoided until experience shows a need. The future composition of the Council is in other hands, but there seems little doubt that there must continue to be an elected body representing ringers both geographically and by background. This body will be the ultimate source of authority when policy decisions are required.

General

Outside Contacts

For the Council to wield any influence on bodies which may directly or indirectly affect bellringing, it must have established lines of communication.

The bodies which come to mind are:

(a) the Churches

(b) Parliament

(c) The Council for the Care of Churches

The Council for the Care of Churches Architects doubtless there are others.

Considering the Churches first: the established church is the most significant (others in Wales and Ireland) and we suggest that a small group wise in church organisation be set up to consider the best line to take at national, diocesan and local levels. In the case of Parliament it is necessary to keep a close watch on the drafting of bills which may affect ringers. Any personal contacts with MP's may be valuable here. We consider that the Council has resources of expertise which the Council for the Care of Churches could well exploit. We hope the recent appointment of Mr. Sharpe to one of its sub-committees will further this. With Architects formal contact would be one of its sub-committees will further this. With Architects formal contact would be most desirable, if it can be achieved and no opportunity should be missed to enlighten them on bell mechanics and sound control by published articles and personal control. contact

Functions of Committees

In the past many committees have been largely introverted; they only revealed their work via annual written reports and in some cases by technical publications. The basic function of the committees should be apparent in 3.4—3.10 above. In addition meetings should be organised at which the work of these committees can be described and discussed and papers presented. Nonmembers of the Council would be encouraged to participate and might be invited to make formal contributions.

Meetings of the Council

The elected Council would continue to meet once a year and would perform the following functions:

(a) the election of officers, committees etc.

(b) receive the reports of committees. (c) receive, if necessary, debate and accept the accounts.

(d) debate matters of general interest. In our view the greeting by local dignitaries at the meeting should be abolished. We see no reason to alter the present three year period of each Council, providing, as it does, a reasonable compromise between the need for stability and the avoidance of stagnation. stagnation stagnation. The formal meetings of the Council would be preceded by meetings to discuss technical matters as outlined in 4.3 above, and other matters of interest not covered by committees. Motions could be referred to these meetings for discussion and recommendations sent to the Council if a decision were required which would affect the Council's rulings.

Council's rulings.

If necessary two such meetings could be held in parallel.

If such meetings are successful, weekend symposia in a suitable range of topics might be considered at other times of the year.

Organisation

Organisation
Considerable organisational problems arise if meetings on the pattern proposed above are to be successful. For example committes will have to produce their reports far in advance to enable the Administrative Committee, with the hosts of the year, to plan the programme of meetings. Also adequate notice would need to be given for non-members to decide to attend. How long the whole meeting should take is a matter for further consideration as is the best time of year.

the best time of year. It has been suggested that the meeting be held in a college. This would have considerable organisational advantages, but we suspect it would not suit quite a number of members. In our opinion the experiment might be tried when an opportunity arises.

Financial Assistance for Churches with Bells This proposal was scarcely discussed at Leicester. We believe this should be considered very seriously to see if a scheme can be devised where by loans can be provided to churches to assist on any work, connected with bells.

MEMBERSHIP

INTRODUCTION

We are of the opinion that only minor changes are possible. We have assumed that the procedures of the Council will continue on the same lines as at present. If the Council recommends otherwise, we should need to reconsider the terms of membership in the light of any revised procedure that might be proposed.

REPRESENTATIVE MEMBERS

The present basis of election of represent.

The present basis of election of represent-ative members is admittedly anomalous but we consider that any alternative is bound to be equally anomalous by virtue of the fact that the various guilds and associations who provide the representative members are not constituted in a uniform way. Some are related to geographical areas on a County basis and others on a diocesan basis so there is always bound to be overlapping. The non territorial associations represent a special case. Although they overlap the territorial associations they carry out good work and have a prominant place in the exercise.

Since no improved method of representation can be achieved, we recommend that no change can be achieved, we recommend that no change

HONORARY MEMBERS

In spite of criticism of a vague and general nature which has been expressed from time to time, we feel that the system of honorary membership has worked very well and should continue at the present level, provided they are generally elected for a specific task.

LIFE MEMBERS

We think the automatic election of Life Members may result in an overlarge number and should be discontinued. This would require an alteration to Rule 7 by the omission of (i) (a). We further think that the ma'ority in 7(b) should be amended to 4/5ths. In this way there should be ensured a certain scarcity value which would enhance the prestige of those lucky enough to be come Life Members. Election of Committees

In general we feel the committees should continue to be elected triennially. Terms of reference and status of the committees should be defined.

SIZE OF COUNCIL

SIZE OF COUNCIL

Various critics have suggested that the Council is too large although they appear to have no particular reason for saying so. Surely it must always be the norm that only a minority of members can speak at one meeting. The main work of the Council is through the various committees which work throughout the year, and the Annual Meeting can only be a rounding-up operation. Thus the average member contributes most by his actual presence at the meeting rather than by what he is likely to be able to contribute to the debate debate

MEMBERSHIP OF STANDING COMMITTEE

We think the fact of not having a Standing Committee meeting on the eve of the Council Meeting will have the effect of removing the feeling that everything is cut and dried. If, instead the Standing Committee meets at other times in the year, the present representation, particularly including as it does the convencrs of the various committees is entirely logical and fully representative of the Council without being too cumbersome Indeed, nothing but good can come from meetings of the kind we had at Leicester in November. We think, however, the rules should be altered so that rule 12(ii) should read

(a) The President, Vice-President and Honorary Secretary and Treasurer of the Council.

(b) The Conveners of Committees exofficio.

Conveners of Committees exofficio.

(c) Twelve elected members (chosen by ballot if more than twelve names are proposed.)

FINANCE

No fixed terms of reference have been given

No fixed terms of reference have been given to the Sub-Committee, and an attempt has therefore been made to review the whole subject of the Finances of the Council. The review could obviously only assume that the activities of the Council and therefore the demands on the Council's finances, would not change substantially following the current review of the Council's activities. If there are any such substantial changes these must be taken into account in assessing future financial requirements. financial requirements.

COMMITTEE'S COMMENT & RECOMMENDATIONS

There is no rule to cover the appointment by the Council or the Ringing World Committee of a Treasurer to the Ringing World, or to define his responsibilities in relation to the Treasurer of the Central Council. It could be held that the continued appointment since the Council took over the paper during the war, first of Mr. A. A. Hughes and now of Mr. D. Hughes, has now the sanction of regular practice.

Standing Committee Sub-Committee/Finance

Standing Committee Sub-Committee/Finance
The position of the Hon. Secretary/Treasurer is safeguarded by the fact that cheques payable out of the Ringing World funds are signed by both the Hon. Secretary and Mr. Hughes.

It is recognised that it would be an undue burden on the Hon. Secretary if, in addition to his usual duties, he were required to be fully responsible also as Treasurer of the Ringing World. It is therefore considered that the current position should be regularized by the adoption of a rule allowing the Ringing World Committee to appoint a Treasurer. It is suggested that since it is necessary for very close co-operation between the R.W. Committee and its Treasurer, who is to all intents and purposes a member of the RW Committee it is more appropriate for the RW Committee it make this appointment than the Council. Any new rule could of course provide for maintaining the current practice of joint signature of cheque.

2 Auditors

Auditors

In relation to the present rule, the current position is that the two Auditors appointed by the Council audit only the Ceneral Account, Publications Account and Clement Clenn Bequest Fund They do not audit the RW Account neither do They exercise their power to use a professional accountant to carry out this audit; the professional auditor of the RW Account is not employed by them and does not report to them. It seems to us that either the rule should be made to fit existing practice, or the practice should fit the rule. In this context it should perhaps also be pointed out that the RW auditor's report is made to the RW Committee and not to the Council, suggesting revision is required also of the rule regarding submission of accounts.

It is considered that a new rule is necessary which would authorise:

[a) the Council to appoint auditors for all the Council to appoint auditors for all accounts of the Council except the Ringing World Accounts.

the RW Committee to appoint professional accountants to audit and report to them on their accounts, the Committee being responsible for payment for these professional services.

It is highly desirable, indeed essential, that in negotiations with such bodies as the Inland Revenue over for example tax assessments, professionally certified figures should be available and the negotiations be conducted by professional advisers of the status, as is the current practice.

3 Vesting of Property
It is essential that the Secretary/Treasurer
In taking investment decisions should have the in time It is generally invested by the make or realize an investment at a particular point in time. It is generally impracticable for the Council or indeed the Standing Committee to be consulted beforehand. If the approval of the investment required by the rule on investment is post facto, it is merely rubber stamping, since disapproval would be too late without generally sustaining a financial penalty. It is recomended therefore that the rule should be amended in this particular, and the Secretary/Treasurer be empowered to make or realize investments after consultation, if the opportunity arises, with the President. We do not feel it necessary for the Librarian to be consulted on every occasion.

The question of consultation with the RW Committee on investment of RW funds was raised at the last meeting of the Standing Committee. It is clear that in the case of investment of RW account funds, the needs of the RW Committee as to fluidity necessary at any particular time must be borne in mind, and in this they are advised by their auditor and can indicate views on the type of investment desirable at that time. It is suggested that the Standing Committee, in considering amendment of the rule on Vesting of Property should:

(a) consider deleting reference to the libe

(c) add a qualification to the effect that "in the case of investments of RW funds, the RW Committee or its Convener shall if possible be consulted.

LIABILITY

The Council has from time to time had advice from Mr. Cartwright as to the liability of members of the Council in respect of the Council's business. We have given considerable thought to this question and sought advice as to the advantages of the Council forming itself into a limited liability com-Council forming itself into a limited liability company or perhaps of the Ringing World Committee doing so. So far as the Ringing World Committee is concerned, the need for such action would appear to be to afford protection to members of the Council in the following cases:-

(a) if a libel action particularly if successful were to be taken against the Ringing World and its owners the Council in respect of matters appearing in the Ringing World.

ing World editor.

In each of these instances we are advised that the risk virtually is non-existent. In the second case, the likelihood of the Ringing World losing as much as £1,000/year without remedial action being taken is we trust remote, and investments to the credit of the Ringing World Account currently stand at eleven times this figure, almost equivalent to one year's total expenditure. Incidentally a revised system of accounting has been introduced to give early warning of changes in

On the other hand we are advised that if the Ringing World were formed into a limited liability company, the tax position might well be several hundred pounds per annum less favourable. therefore such a course of action could not be recommended.

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL'S FINANCES

It is of course obvious that any of the monies involved be it in the General Fund, Publications Account or Ringing World account is part of the overall funds of the Council. It is suggested however that each of these accounts should be capable of standing independently on its own feet - or figures. For example, it is suggested that the general figures. For example it is suggested that the general expenses of the Council should not be met by profits from its Publications Account. A number of instances have been revealed in which it appears the Ringing World subsidises certain expenses and it is felt that these should be eliminated or at least recognised. Thus the profits from publications would be included in a publications capital account which would provide for future publications. Ceneral Fund income if not adequate to meet the expenses of the Council should be increased as necessary.

PUBLICATIONS ACCOUNT

The profit over the last five years on Council publications has averaged £80/year on sales averaging £430/year. The profit has been transferred annually to the General Fund Income and Expenditure Account towards the general expenses of the Council. As stated above it is felt that these profits should preferably be placed in a capital account for the benefit of future publica-

However in assessing this profit no account taken of the cost of the advertisements in the nging World which at the cheap rate of two Ringing World which at the cheap rate of two thirds the full rate for advertisements would cost £75/year. It should also be mentioned that a proportion of the profits deemed to be sold to purchasers not associated with the Council through affiliated Associations is taxable. The tax payable is negotiated with the Inland Revenue and the tax is negotiated with the Inland Revenue and the tax charged and the accountants fee is included in the Ringing World Account. We are informed that a suitable allocation of tax and fee between the two accounts can easily be made. Some years ago the Council decided that transfer of monies in this way was only a book transaction and recommended it should not be done. We feel this decision should be reviewed again, and feel it preferable that the accounts reflect the true state of affairs.

INCOME AND EXPENDITURE ACCOUNT

The income to this account has been fairly uniform for the last five years varying only with the profit on publications. The subscription of 10/0d per representative member, which has remained unchanged since 1954, represents an income of £80-85/year or 50% of total income. Standing Committee Sub-Committee/Finance
No subscriptions are required in respect of honorary members.

The expenditure applicable to this account is really extremely low, and represents to a very large extent the honorary nature of much of the work done, and expenses borne by individual members of the Council as Officers or members of members of the Council as Officers of members of Committees. There are however a number or remarks we would like to make:—

Each year the Ringing World prints for the Council the Agenda and Minutes circulated to members, some of which have recently been charged to the Ringing World Account. It is felt that this charge should rightly be made to the General Fund, and it is recommended that this cost of about £25 advised to us should be transferred as indicated. In the interests of consistancy too, advertisements by the Council consistancy too, advertisements by the Council should also be charged by the Ringing World for allocation to the General Fund.

CLEMENT CLENN BEQUEST

It is suggested that serious thought be given to employment of the funds of this Bequest—out of a total investment income in the last six years of £135 only £73 has been used of which £39 for the Washington film has been recovered in hire charges for the film.

THE RINGING WORLD ACCOUNT

We understand that the financial arrange-ts within the Ringing World Office have ently been revised by the Ringing World unittee in accordance with professional advice recently received. We have not considered it necessary or even within the remit of the Standing Committee to investigate further this account.

EXPENSES OF MEETINGS

EXPENSES OF MEETINGS

As the Council is considering its whole function and purpose we thought it right to examine the cost to local Associations of holding Council Meetings in their area, so that possibly some idea of cost effectiveness of the Council can be formed. As a result of contacts with the three Associations who have in the past three years acted as hosts to the Council it would appear that where hire of halls, rooms and receptions are fully charged, the cost to the local associations is towards £200. Of this total approximately £100 can be regarded as absolutely essential to the holding of the Council Meeting. It would seem to us that there must be some reluctance on the part of smaller associations to incur this order of expenditure, and this possibly is the reason for the decline in the number of invitations to the Council. It is suggested that the Council should consider whether it should not more properly place its finances in such a position as to be able where necessary to meet the cost of this £100 essential expenditure, and not leave the local association this very large burden.

SHMMARY

We have made certain proposals for consider-We have made certain proposals for consideration by the Standing Committee which will if accepted require revision of the rules and adjustment of the Council's finances. The finance sub-committee would be happy to study further any specific points raised and if required to assist in defining exact terms for such rules when decisions in principle have been made. The principle suggestions made affect the Income and Expenditure Account of the General Fund. If accepted in their entirety the increase in income required would be:—

income required would be:—

1 To replace Publications profits £ 80

2 To print Minutes and Agendas £ 25

3 Essential expenditure on Meetings £100 Total increase in cost £205 This would require an increase in subscriptions from 10/0d per member to about 35/0d. assuming that the Council remains at its present size. Naturally such an increase should not be made in one step, but probably phased over a period of five years. It should perhaps be mentioned that alternatives to membership subscriptions were considered, the most notable possibility being a levy on association income. However it was felt that this would administratively be too cumbersome, and in any case the present system does allow the Associations the flexibility of deciding how much they are willing to spend on maintainallow the Associations the flexibility of deciding how much they are willing to spend on maintaining the Council by deciding within the membership rules how many members to elect to the Council. There may be other ways of dealing with this problem and the whole question needs further investigation.

A final point which could merit further consideration is whether registration of the Central Council as of charitable status is possible. A refund of SET has recently been obtained by the Council in respect of the Ringing World in view of the nature of its activities. Since the Council has in 1969 paid towards £400 in tax mostly on Ringing World investment income received, success in this direction would be most welcome.

After the minutes had been signed the annual report was accepted, on the proposition of Mr. S. W. Fossey, seconded by Mr. J. W. Raithby, and carried unanimously with grateful thanks to those who had produced it in record time. Membership had been maintained at over 500, announced the hon, general secretary.

RESTORATIONS

The newly-recast ring of eight at Ruddington had been rehung in a new frame all on one level. The tower was now free from movement and the church safe from further damage in that direction. The 14th century Johannes de Stafford bell had been retained as a priest's bell and hung in the top tier of the old frame. At Syerston the two pre-Reformation bells have been overhauled by local labour and made chimable; any danger of cracking through clocking has thus been removed. Whatton bells have been augmented from six to eight, and these will shortly be followed by Arnold from four to six and Warsop from six to eight, all of these bells having been cast during the past year.

The hon, general secretary reported that, after negotiation between the Guild, the secretary of the Charity Commissioners and the Inspector of Taxes, the Bell Repair Fund had now been officially registered as a charity

The hon, treasurer reported that the income to the Bell Repair Fund had shown a slight fall but was still extremely good at £194 5s. 8d. A balance of £505 15s. 10d. was carried forward after paying grants of £60 to Ruddington and £75 to Whatton. After discussion, a donation of £10 is to be sent to the Gloucester and Bristol Association towards the rehanging of Stinchcombe bells.

RECORD YEAR

The peal committee reported that a record total of 141 peals (one handbell) had been rung during the year, an increase of 37 on last year. First pealers totalled 22, an increase of one, and pride of place went to Diana M. Mounsey and Judith Knights,

Southwell Diocesan Guild SILVER JUBILEE PLANS

both of whom were only 13 at the time. There were eight firsts as conductor. Peals were rung in 42 towers in Nottinghamshire and in nine towers outside the Guild, and leading peal ringers for the Guild were Pamela J. Clifton and W. Gordon Marsh (30), William L. Exton, Ruth Blackshaw, Harold Denman and H. Geoffrey Wells (27). The conducting was shared between 33 conductors, two more than in the previous year, the leading conductors being Paul N. Mounsey and R. Brian Mills (14).

DOUBLES AND MINOR RECORDS

New methods rung for the Guild were New Gainsborough Surprise Royal, Gainsborough Surprise, Superlative Surprise and Double Beeston Exercise Major, Marchington Surprise, Coddington and Hoar Cross Delight, and Original Minor. The peal of Stedman Cinques at St. Peter's, Nottingham, was the first 12-bell peal by an all-

The year also saw the Guild take over the record for the number of methods rung in a peal of Minor; this was finally increased to 210 and is now the greatest number of methods rung in a peal on any number of bells. It is also the greatest number possible in seven extents of Treble Bob Minor. This meant that for a short time the Guild held both the Doubles and Minor records; however, the Doubles record has now been taken by the Lincoln Guild with a peal rung last December. Peals on Minimus have also been prevalent this year and one rung contained the greatest number of methods/variations up to the present

Quarter peals totalled 179, a record for the Guild, the new leaders being Woodborough (41) from Shelford (34), last year's leaders

OFFICERS

The chairman, Mr. F. W. Midwinter, hon. treasurer, Mr. H. Hanson, hon. general secretary, Mr. W. L. Exton, trustees, Messrs. F. W. Midwinter and W. Nichols, and the peal committee, Messrs. R. B. Mills (secretary) and B. M. Buswell, were all reelected, there being no other nominations. The vice-chairman, Rev. J. L. Howitt, and the auditors, Mrs. E. Beardsley and Mr. A. Dobbin, were declared elected, there being no other nominations. Mr. Exton announced that at the end of the present year he would have completed ten years as Guild secretary, and he thought that both he and the Guild were entitled to a change. He did not wish to be re-elected again after this year.

MOTIONS

Mr. J. D. Clarke moved the motion "That this Guild recommends the formation of a separate district on the south of the county if sufficient support is forthcoming. Mr. H. Hanson formally seconded the motion, which was then agreed by 44 votes

The motion "That this Guild views with grave concern the present constitution and organisation of the Central Council of Church Bell Ringers," was withdrawn by its proposer, Mr. H. Poyner, who said that he had been assured that positive steps had been taken by the Standing Committee, and a number of recommendations would come before the next meeting of the Central Council.

The president of the Central Council was invited to address the meeting on this point and he gave a short summary of some of the Standing Committee's recommendations. The thanks of the Guild were expressed to Mr. Freeman, both for his attendance and for the details he had given to the meeting.

Various ideas, including a dinner at Southwell, were put forward and considered for the Guild to arrange in June, 1971, to mark the 25th anniversary of the founding of the Guild. A small working committee consisting of the various district chairmen was formed to make the necessary arrange-

A joint festival with the Derby, Leicester and Midland Counties Guilds, who also share our 25th anniversary, was considered, and it was felt that a similar event to the Three Counties Festival would be supported and that Leicester (subject to their agreement) would be an ideal centre. W. L. EXTON.

CHANGE-RINGING

Old newspaper cutting:-

"On Edenbridge Parish Church bells on Monday a peal of Double Norwich Court Bob Major was rung in 3 hours-13 mins by a band who are all employed at Gillett & Johnston's Bell Foundry, Croydon, the ringer of the 7th being the Principal of the firm, while the ringer of the 2nd is the premier lady bellringer of the world.

"The ringers were: Treble—Mr. Walter Wise; 2—Miss E. K. Parker; 3—Mr. Arthur

Mason; 4—Mr. Charles Dean; 5—Mr. Sidney Roper; 6—Mr. Davis Wright; 7—Mr. Cyril F. Johnston; 8—Mr. William S. Smith.

The peal, consisting of 5,040 changes, was composed by the late Sir Arthur P Heywood, and was conducted by Mr. W. S. Smith. This peal was cast in 1911, and was the first ring of bells to be tuned by the Croydon foundry on Canon Simpson's

JACK PALLET, OF ASTON

At Easter this year Jack Pallet completed 60 years of service as a bellringer of St. Mary's, Aston, Hertfordshire, Jack's family has lived in the village for at least 500 years and been ringing the bells for much

He is no great peal ringer but rings twice every Sunday, 52 weeks a year. Jack has also played a major part in Aston's style of ringing—a complicated system of call-change ringing from boards in the middle of a change-ringing area. Emphasis is given to good striking, rhythm, cartwheeled leads, and Jack's voice calling the changes in his Hertfordshire brogue is now almost part of Aston at the moment have a ringers for the six bells, with a good blend of youth and experience, even though some local change-ringing towers have fallen on hard times. Much of this success must go to men like Jack Pallet who encourages others.

May Aston be lucky enough to have Jack and his "yarn-telling" with them for many years to come.

"LONERS" ALSO SERVE

No Association can exist, nor indeed, thrive, were it not for certain rituals which take place within our towers. Often unnoticed and unsung, the embryo of campanology is reincarnated many times over. When one batch of fledglings has flown, another usually takes its place. The Association stands in readiness to adopt the offspring, and in return for the infant's interest offers a little or a lot of shine.

The Association continually transfusions and the vital life-dram is none other than the affiliated tower. It is there where the work is hardest. Let us not acquire the mistaken assumption that Associations are the be-all and end-all of ringing interests. Many ringers have little or no interest in Associations, even although their towers be affiliated to one. If the majority of Association members were to remove themselves from Associations, it would not necessarily mean that serious deterioration would be evidenced within towers concerned. But the backwash would hit hard at the summits of personal achievement and selfish pride.

In the infatuated eyes of those who carry personal ambition beyond the bounds of logic, all who handle bells ought to be members of a bellringing Association: a similar outlook expounded by the Union man who scorns the courageous individual who may be every bit as good but who prefers to move in a "free" and anonymous sphere. He is a "loner," and there is something bright and uplifting to be termed as such nowadays.

Let us not lose sight of the purpose and origin of bells and bell towers. Are they really for the use of personal achievement? Do they inspire the virtue of humility? Do we take advantage of these expensive instruments and buildings, knowing that the pleasure of ringing and associating is virtually free? Are we interested in services or is it the "blue line" which is the overriding factor of our interests?

Some of our members may answer in a positive vein. Many cannot. The "loner" has a positive quality, and seeks no glory. The individuality of towers must be preserved; the individuality of ringers too, must remain unmolested. Though the aims of an Association be high-on paper, at least-it must ever be wary lest it trespass on the favoured grounds of our modest friends: they also serve.—From "Sentinel"

Winchester and Portsmouth Guild STRIKING COMPETITION

There were two notable and pleasing features about the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild's striking competition held at St. Mary's, Southampton, on April 4.

Firstly, the high standard of performance of the seven contesting teams, and secondly the number of young ringers taking part. Ringers in their early 'teens were included in each of the teams placed 1st, 2nd and 3rd by Mr. Roger Savory, master of the Guild (the judge on this occasion).

The earlier date this year seemed to affect the entry somewhat and, in the event, seven teams competed out of the 11 who originally submitted entry forms to Canon K. W. H. Felstead, convener of the organising committee.

After tea in Chantry Hall, prepared by the ladies of St. Mary's tower, the judge briefly analysed the performance of each of the teams in order of ringing. Canon Felstead then declared Eling the winners with but 30 faults in 240 Grandsire Doubles; they were closely followed by Highclere (Bob Doubles) and Petersfield (Grandsire Doubles). The remaining teams were Ringwood (Grandsire Triples), Winchester Cathedral (Stedman Triples), Titchfield (Cambridge Minor) and Fawley (Bob Doubles).

The master presented the Alliston cup to Mr. John Hartless, captain of the Eling team, together with a certificate. A certificate was also presented to the teams placed second and third. Mr. Savory concluded the presentation by thanking the striking committee for their work of organisation. Canon Felstead suitably replied and thanked St. Mary's for the use of the bells and hall and the ladies for preparing the tea. A.D.

Twenty-seven rang a first quarter. Llandaff were never seriously challenged for the leadership.

The leading peal and quarter peal ringers for each Association were:

Peals.—L: 1 P. A. Williams 33, 2 S. Fenwick 29, 3 D. J. Llewellyn 28. SB: 1 E. J. Morris 7, 2 Gillian Armstrong and J. T. Williams 3. SD: 1 P. C. Rogers and R. L. Underwood 6, 3 Rev. Russen Thomas 5. N: 1 G. H. Randles, J. W. Griffiths and D.

Millward 4. Un: One only.
Quarters.—L: 1 N. W. H. Simon 21, 2
F. W. Corney 18, 3 S. Fenwick 17. SD:
1 P. C. Rogers and S. P. Rogers 13, 3 A. 1. P. C. Rogers and S. P. Rogers 13, 3 A. Lingard 10. SB: 1 E. J. Morris and Gillian Armstrong 3, 2 J. Williams and Marilyn Evans 2. N: 1 T. C. Bowley and E. M. Jones 4, 2 F. R. Evans 3. Un: 1 Margaret Twigg, Sue Davis and M. Tompsett 4 each.

Methods rung to peals: Doubles 15, Minor 14, Triples 7, Major 37, Caters 10, Cinques 2, Royal 6, Maximus 1, Minimus 1; total 93.

Methods rung to quarter peals: Minimus 1, Doubles 37, Minor 17, Triples 30, Major 9, Caters 6, Royal 3; total 103.

Many unique occasions, viz. investiture of the Prince of Wales and coming-of-age of the Prince of Wales, were not marked in the peal and quarter peal columns by Welsh ringers as they should have been. The year 1970 also presents another unique occasion, for this year is the 50th anniversary of the Disestablishment of the Church Wales. Perhaps the number of peals and quarter peals to mark this occasion will reach a record total. A. F. W.

A mortified appetite is never a wise companion.—Robert Louis Stevenson.

"DOUBLE BOOKING" PEALS

Dear Sir,-I note in recent issues of The Ringing World what appears to be the beginning of an outbreak of "double booking" peals. By "double booking" I mean crediting the peal to more than one guild or association, territorial or otherwise. I fail to see how this practice can do anything but introduce an element of chaos into the vear's Peals Analysis.

Take, for example, the peal rung at Frome, Somerset, on March 24 and reported on page 274 of The Ringing World. This peal is shown as credited to the Bath This peal is shown as credited to the Bath and Wells Association and the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild. You, sir, probably had some difficulty in deciding where to print the report. Should it have gone under Bath and Wells, under Winchester and Portsmouth, or where? In the end I see you invented a new heading containing the names of both these bodies—and wasted type in doing so into the bargain!

At year-end both bodies can lay claim to this peal in their total. Thus when all peals are credited to each and every body are added up we shall arrive at a total of n+1, where n = the number of peals actually rung. How is this situation resolved? Credit half a peal to the Bath and Wells and half to the Winchester and Portsmouth? To the best of my knowledge the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild does not recognise half-peals in its records. I cannot speak for the Bath and Wells Association.

I understand from one of the ringers who took part in this peal at Frome that it was stipulated by the local "rules" that peals rung in this tower be either for the Bath and Wells on Non-Association, which seems quite fair. However, this particular ringer told the conductor he wanted all his peals to appear in the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild Report, and so this one at Frome must also be rung for the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild Report, and so this one at Frome must also be rung for the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild Reports and Reports chester and Portsmouth Guild!

If this double booking is allowed to continue, Peals Analysis will be meaningless. would prefer to have seen this peal at Frome reported with no mention of the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild, albeit my own Guild. Far better have no peals rung for the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild than create chaos with "half-peals." Perhaps the conductor would like to pass his comments on the suggestion that he withdraw from this peal the reference to the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild. As things are, the matter will have to be discussed by the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild executive committee regarding acceptance of "half-peals."

I also see that in the same issue of The Ringing World (page 275) that another peal has been "double booked," i.e. Grandsire Doubles at Mitcheldean, Glos, credited to both the Gloucester and Bristol Association and the Ladies' Guild. Surely the peal could have been rung for the Ladies' Guild with a feat to the affect that all Guild with a footnote to the effect that all the ringers are members of the Goucester and Bristol. The reverse arrangement would hardly need a footnote! But this is one for someone else to sort out—if they are interested in "n+2."—Yours faithfully, ROGER SAVORY, Master.

SECURITY DURING BELL-PRACTICE

Dear Sir,—This problem arises, no doubt, in many churches, giving rise to anxiety and difficulty in safeguarding the building and its contents during bell-practice periods. A solution has been found in Portsmouth Cathedral. It may be of interest and help in solving the problem elsewhere. Following are the requirements:-

- A "fixture." For the long-term view the practice evening and time should be well known locally by established custom, advertisement or other means. Day and time should not be varied unless exceptional circumstances arise. Then, particularly if the tower is a popular one and enjoys the participation of visitors from a distance, notice of the proposed (temporary) alteration should be given in The Ringing World in addition to local notification.
- At the access door an external bellpush is set at adult-reach height, as inconspicuously as possible. The particular way in which this bell is used reduces the effects of "false" rings to a minimum. The push is connected to a bell in the ringing

How it works:-

- (a) The access door is unlocked at the known specified time and a volunteer "guard" (ringers take turns as arranged from week to week or otherwise) remains at the door for the ensuing quarter of an hour, admitting ringers only.
- At the end of the quarter of an hour the guard locks the door (inside) and goes to the ringing chamber to take part in the ringing.
- (c) From this time on any late arrivers ring the bell and wait to be admitted. This admittance is only after the current quarter-hour has elapsed, when the guard, having heard the bell in the ringing chamber, goes to admit the late-comers.
- (d) If the bell has not rung during this second quarter-hour the guard does not, of course, leave the ringing chamber.

It will be noted that this plan calls for only one journey from the ringing chamber to the access door, no matter how many late-comers there may be.

Consider a typical example—that, in fact, of Portsmouth Cathedral: Practice nights, Thursdays; time, 7.30 to 9 p.m.; access door (north) unlocked 7.30 p.m.; access door locked 7.45 p.m.; if door-bell rings during the ensuing quarter-hour, i.e. up to 8 p.m., the guard goes down (at 8 p.m.) to admit late-comers; otherwise his duty is finished. An optional aid is a small card notice outside access door stating: "Late ringers admitted at (here enter time) if door-bell is rung."—Yours faithfully,

A. YORK-BRAMBLE.

News from Melbourne . . . ROYAL VISIT

To mark the commencement of the royal visit to the State of Victoria, St. Paul's Cathedral Society of Bellringers, Melbourne, attempted to ring a peal of Grandsire Caters. Unfortunately the attempt was halted after two hours of ringing due to two bells becoming transposed. quarter peal in the same method also failed to come round. Nevertheless, St. Paul's bells rang almost continuously for five hours to welcome the Royal Family to Evensong at the Cathedral.

CLOSED HANDSTROKE LEADS

Dear Sir,-I recently visited a six-bell tower in Lancashire and found that, along with two other visitors, I was obliged to This in itself I found completely unacceptable. Apart from being hard graft, there is no sense of rhythm, and any resultant music becomes meaningless.

I was even more disturbed to discover that nearly all the new recruits at this particular tower are taught to ring in this manner. Surely it is wrong to teach upand-coming youngsters to ring this way, contrary to the traditional open lead as rung by the majority of the Exercise. I should be interested to have other ringers' comments on the matter.—Yours faithfully,
H. BROTHERTON.

SCRAPYARD BELLS

Dear Sir,-With reference to Mr. Cawley's letter in The Ringing World of April 3, the scrapyard is only 200 yards from the site of St. Augustine's Church, but the scrap merchant assured us that he had the bells in his possession long before the church was pulled down.—Yours faithfully, C. CALENDAR CURIOSITIES

Dear Sir,—In your issue of April 17 you quote the 90th birthday of a gentleman born on Palm Sunday, 1880, as being celebrated on Palm Sunday 1970, with the additional remark that the birthday and Palm Sunday since 1880 had not coincided.

Palm Sunday since 1880 had not coincided. In 1880 Palm Sunday fell on March 21, and in 1970 on March 22. During the intervening 90 years it fell on the former date in 1937 and 1948, and on the latter in 1891, 1959 and 1964.

As a further point of interest, it has not fallen on its earliest possible date (March 15) since 1818, and on its latest (April 18) since 1943. Another rare gem of this collection is April 17, which occurred in 1791 and 1859, but will not do again until 2011. There are others, almost as rare, such as March 16 and 17. almost as rare, such as March 16 and 17,
April 9 and 13, but space forbids a discourse upon them.—Yours faithfully,
W. E. BOX.

And from Ontario . . . BILL JACKSON IN HOSPITAL

John Owen, of 21 Summit Ave, Apt 604, Hamilton, Ontario, Canada, writes:
"Unfortunately our activities have been temporarily interrupted by ill-health. Bill Jackson has been admitted to hospital and will be away from ringing for at least a few weeks. I am sure his many friends in the U.K. join with us in wishing him a speedy and complete recovery.

"A visit to Quebec City has been arranged for the last week-end in May. At last count some 23 people, of whom 16 are ringers, plan to attend. Ringing has been arranged at both St. Matthew and the Cathedral Church of the Holy Trinity, which, contrary to the information in 'Dove,' is quite definitely ringable.

"Should any happen to be in the vicinity of Quebec City during that weekend and would like to join with us we would be only too happy to welcome them."

ALONG THE WYLYE VALLEY

On Easter Monday morning a group of ringers from far and wide gathered at Sutton Veny to start another car tour of Wiltshire. At Sutton Veny, Mr. Deech (vicar) met us at the church, which has a central spire and an upstairs ringing chamber. The treble rope was fraved below the sally but with just sufficient tail-end to enable ringing by standing on a box. As we left we bemused the vicar with our places of resi-dence—Duxford (Cambs), Crawley and East Grinstead (Sussex), Frome (Somerset), Loughborough (Leics), Corsham, Chippenham and Lyneham (Wilts).

Next we travelled to Norton Bayant (a ground floor ring with a minor five). Extra effort was required here to control the third and fourth bells. On then to Heytesbury (a central tower, where one has to go over the roof to gain access to the ringing chamber), and here we rang our best touch of the day on bells which are a pleasure to ring and to hear.

Picnic lunch was taken en route to the light five at Chitterne. The clapper in the third was very stiff and made striking difficult and the rather lightly-set treble upset a few inexperienced ringers, whilst conductors had some difficulty making themselves heard. A few more ringers joined us and New Grandsire was the special method rung. Codford St. Peter was our next port of call. After climbing to the ringing room we had to dismantle the clock access equipment before ringing could commence Boyton was our next tower, where the ringing is done in the entrance porch. The ropes were extra long and made ringing on the rather odd-struck bells difficult, but the church contained much of interest.

Our journey to Wylye was slow due to holiday traffic, and two members wheeled a bier loaded with odds and ends from the ringing chamber before a start could be made. The bells have a rather long draught (the fourth rope comes down rather close to the wall) but were not too difficult to handle. The smaller bells were a little hard to hear over the noisy tenor.

The final tower was the eight at Amesbury, where the bells had not been rung for six months. The back three were raised with difficulty, the 6th and 8th being "crossed clapper" and the 7th took two people to raise, but proved to be a very pleasant octave once we got into the swing.

At Rowde we managed to find a suitable tavern to discuss the day's activities and drank the health of Tim Gregory and Jennifer Lees, married earlier in the day in Australia. Tim's sister was with us and had been waiting all day to drink the health of the bride and bridegroom.

All would like to thank the incumbents, the local ringers and those who met us for the pleasant day, and Mick and Betty Stracey on their organisation. A. J. C.

WARSOP & CUCKNEY BELLS RUNG

Some 65 members attended the Mansfield District meeting held at Warsop on March 21; Cuckney bells were also available in the afternoon. The service was taken by the rector (the Rev. D. Leaning). An excellent tea was provided by the local ladies. Mr. S. W. Fossey presided over the meeting, after which there was further ringing to conclude a very pleasant occasion.

Hereford Guild. TEA AT THE HORSESHOES

The spring meeting of the Bridgnorth Branch took place at St. Mary's, Alveley, on April 4, when the pleasing ring of six was put to good use.

The "new" branch ringing master (Mr. Harold Thomas) directed the ringing. The service was conducted by the Vicar of Alveley (Rev. A. Evans), who gave an ininteresting address. Tea was at Horseshoes, the village mostery, there was plenty of ringing for all J. B. Horseshoes, the village hostelry, and later

Guildford Guild.

IN A LOVELY VILLAGE

There was a representative gathering at Shere on April 4 to enjoy the beauty of the fine old church, set in one of the prettiest villages in Surrey, its fine and pleasant ring of eight, and the welcome of the local ringers and their rector (Rev. J. P. Grundy). The bells were well used in the afternoon under the leadership of the new ringing master (Mr. David Struckett). After taking the Guild service the Rector and several associates and "supporters" joined the ringers for tea, prepared by ringers' wives and their helpers.

At the business meeting it was announced that the striking competition on May would be at Stoke-next-Guildford (not Bramley, as on the fixture list), and other arrangements will be made for September 26 (at present listed for Stoke). Five new members were elected—Mrs. Christine Snatchfold and Godfrey Rhimes (Shere), and Graham Fowler, Colin Ediker and Antony Sykes (Albury).

Other matters were "aired" and then ringing resumed for the evening, mostly in standard methods, but we were glad to have the keen young learners from Albury.

HIGHCLERE RINGERS' OUTING

Wales was the venue for the Highclere ringers' third Easter Monday outing and, accompanied by the rector and his wife, the party set out at 7 a.m. to a wet start but which brightened up later.

A peal at Chepstow prevented ringing there but the good eight at Almondsbury fully compensated before crossing the Severn Bridge to Caldicot. The rector met us and later a quick ring on the tricky six at Magor was possible before a wedding.

Nash was the last tower before lunch, and London Minor and the 4th with no stay will be remembered. The quiet sojourn in the "local" sent us away with happy memories of a spot off the beaten track

At the first two eights after lunch—Marshfield and Peterstone Wentloog—a tour of the churches was much enjoyed, as were the three leads of Bristol.

Our main tower of the day, Llandaff Cathedral, was a pleasure to ringers and non-ringers. Here we were met by Nicholas Simon and an old friend, Jack Prior, and one of his pupils, Bob Smith, fresh from his triumph in ringing his 1,000th peal.

Both here and at St. John's, Cardiff, Bob Royal and Grandsire Caters were rung and were thoroughly enjoyed before setting out for the last tower, Caerphilly.

We had heard about the bells here as it is the home of our rector's mother. We had to admit that they are a better ring than our own at Highclere.

One brief stop on the homeward journey completed a happy and successful day. Our thanks to all who met us and made us welcome. G.D.

Llandaff and Monmouth Association VISITORS FROM A WIDE AREA

The 77th annual meeting, held at Newport on April 4, was attended by over 90, the visitors being from Cheshire, Durham, Norfolk, Surrey, Birmingham and Wiltshire.

During the afternoon the bells of Bassaleg, All Saints' (Newport) and St. Woolos' Cathedral were rung, and for many the visit to Bassaleg provided their first experience of ringing on steel bells. The service was conducted in the Cathedral by Rev. Arthur Edwards, the lesson read by Mr. Iolo Davies.

Tea followed in the Church Hall, prepared by Mrs. Wallace and helpers. business meeting was under the chairman-ship of Rev. A. Edwards, supported by the master (Mr. W. T. Petty). The meeting stood in silence as a tribute to the memory of Samuel Goodwin, a ringer at Monmouth for over 40 years.

The reports of the hon, secretary and the hon, treasurer had been circulated and were adopted, the officers being thanked for their work. The hon, secretary stated that membership had reached 400, an increase of 27. It was very encouraging to note many new members being elected from Bassaleg, Blaenavon, Caerleon, Coity, Grosmont, Marsh-field and Pontypridd. Branch meetings had been well attended.

The clappers at Bedwellty were rebushed and Mathern bells were being rehung, and the Monmouth Branch propose holding a meeting there in October. The highlight of the year was the Investiture of H.R.H. Prince Charles as Prince of Wales and peals were rung at Bridgend, Cardiff, Chepstow, Llandaff, Llanfrechfa, Peterstone Wentloog. Radyr and Whitchurch. Many rang the bells as part of the celebrations or to honour the visit of the Prince to their area.

The standard of ringing in the area continued to rise and many towers rang quarter peals for Sunday services. The statement of accounts showed total assets increased to £271 5s. 6d. It is hoped to build up a fund to give realistic support to restoration work

The secretary thanked the branch secretaries for their hard work and also Mr. I. D. Davies, who produced the report.

Mr. D. J. Llewellyn reported 71 peals in 1969, the leading peal ringer being Paul A. Williams (34). The leading conductor, P. S. Bennett, had 16 to his credit, and congratulations were expressed to M. J. Clarke, C. F. Cooke, P. Johnson and Miss L. Parker on their first peal, and to S. Fenwick (first as conductor). T. T. Yeomans has rung 200 for the Association, N. W. H. Simon 175, D. J. Llewellyn and W. T. Petty 150 and T. P. Edwards 100. Peals rung for the first time by resident bands were Rutland, London, Pudsey, Xerxes, Teddington, Falmouth and Bristol Surprise Major; Spliced Surprise Major in three and eight methods, Minor in 26 methods and Cambridge Surprise

Mr. R. Clench (Usk) was elected master and the remaining officers were re-elected, viz.: hon. secretary, M. J. Pryor; hon. treasurer, Rev. I. J. Richards; hon. auditors, Rev. R. C. Lucas and T. M. Roderick.

Various recommendations from the committee were adopted and notice was given that an alteration to the rules would be placed before the next A.G.M., whereby the Association would be able to send its full entitlement of representatives to the Central Council.

The master thanked all who had contributed to the success of the meeting.

Double Fatality Verdict

INQUEST ON TOM AND MARGARET FRANCIS

The Coroner for Winchester City (Mr. B. L. Bremridge) directed the jury to return a verdict of "accidental death" on Mr. Thomas Francis and Margaret, his wife, of Bassett Green Close, Southampton, at an inquest in the Guildhall, Winchester, recently.

Mr. Bremridge told the jury, "The Ford Cortina was on its near side and the Austin came across in front of the Cortina resulting in the collision."

Mr. Francis was driving the Cortina and the other car was driven by Mr. Richard Zealley Miller, of Blackberry Lane, Four Marks. Mr. Miller and his passenger, Mr. Richard John Newall, of Telegraph Lane, Four Marks, were both injured in the accident.

Mr. Newall, the passenger in Mr. Miller's car, said they had been to the Top Rank Suite at Southampton, where alcohol is on sale. All he could remember of the accident was a great flash of light. In his statement, Mr. Miller said they had been driving back at about 50-60 m.p.h., the roads were clear.

"As I came up the hill through Four Marks my speed was about 40 m.p.h. I put my right-hand indicator on as I wished to turn into Telegraph Lane. I didn't know I had been involved in an accident until I was told about it on the Monday."

We learn that David Francis (13), Tom and Margaret's only child, has been offered a home with friends in Southampton until his education is completed, and so will not have to move away. All ringers will wish him a successful future.

A busy Easter Day was had by the Sapcote, Leics, ringers, for they rang for five services, and the rector asked if they would also ring after Evensong. They did so!

This week's issue contains 24 pages, three of which are devoted entirely to the Central Council—the arrangements for the visit to Ilkley on May 23 and the Report of the Standing Committee. It has had to be set in small type for space and economy reasons. The economy and time elements also account for the extra four pages being on yellow paper, and no green splash this week. We shall, however, be back to normal next week.

Because footnotes to two separate peals reported recently have given false information regarding the "engagement" of two young copies we shall not in future print any similar footnote. Such notice must come omicially for publication in our advertisement columns.

"Under the weather" is our old friend Tom White, and also under the doctor! He has got to take life more quietly and not climb hills and stairs, which means he will not be in the office now (it is up three flights of stairs), and not in the belfry for a while. We are keeping him informed of all that goes on, and friends who wish to write to him should do so at 1 South Hill, Guildford.

Belfry Gossip

The Clerical Ringers on their Easter tour were accommodated in two hotels with a large petrol filling station between, which reminded one reverend gentleman of the biblical verse "between us and you there is a great (oil) gulf."

Steve Etcell, a ringer at St. Mary-le-Wigford, Lincoln, was married to Mary Atkin at St. Giles', Lincoln, on April 4. After the ceremony the bells were rung by ringers from St. Mary's, and later a quarter peal was rung there.

And at Wymondham Abbey next day (April 5) John L. Rice, of the local company, married Margaret A. Nelson. After the service the ringers, who had been augmented from neighbouring bands, rang a quarter to celebrate the occasion.

At Headington, Oxford, Christine Birks stood down from a quarter peal to allow 80-year-old Jack Keyte, who was on a visit, to ring his first quarter of mixed Doubles.

An interesting article giving extracts from Bell's Life in London of 1846 has been sent to us by Canon K. W. H. Felstead, of Southampton, regarding Ilkley, and we shall print it before the Central Council meets there.

The Editor acknowledges receipt of annual reports from Kent C.A., Hertford C.A., Southwell D.G., Guildford D.G., Hereford D.G., Ely D.A., Gloucester and Bristol D.A., Leicester D.G., Irish Association.

We learn from the matron of Alliston Nursing Home for the Elderly at Walthamstow that Mr. F. C. Maynard died there on April 9.

First peal congratulations to John Preston, Arthur Cuthbert, Ronald Brown, Glan Kingdon, Marilyn Freeman, Jane Gilder, William Beeching.

Personal records: Canon A. S. Roberts (300 peals), Gillian Radley (25), Alan R. Pink (700 for Oxford Guild), Philip J. Rothera (300).

New methods reported this week are Peterstone Wentloog S. Major, Easter S. Major and April Fools Delight.

Sussex County Association held a very successful striking competition at Bolney on April 4 with ten teams competing—two novice and eight experienced bands. Dr. D. E. Sibson was the judge and Warnham were the winners of the shield.

The C.C. rules apparently state that a peal of Caters must consist of at least 5,000 true changes. Does this mean one could have 5,000 true changes and "X" false changes? Now, we know this is not what is intended. However, if one really wanted to be awkward one could translate the rules as suggested. Just a thought. writes R. S.

Several reports of meetings and other news items have been crowded out again this week, but all, we hope, will eventually appear.

Obituary

MR. ALLEN S. WEATHERLY

The death took place suddenly on April 13 of Mr. Allen S. Weatherly, a ringer at Emmanuel Church, Plymouth. The writer visited him the previous evening.

Although Mr. Weatherly had not been too well recently he was able to work but had not been ringing since the overhaul of the bells, completed just before Easter. He was due to retire from H.M. Dockyard on May 1 after 41 years' service, and he was looking forward to the warmer weather and being able to ring again.

Mr. Weatherly will be greatly missed at Emmanuel, as he was rarely absent for Sunday service ringing or for practice nights. He was for many years a member of St. Andrew's band but about 18 years ago he decided to ring at Emmanuel, the bells being much lighter and the church quite near his home.

Cremation took place at Efford on April 17, the service being conducted by the vicar (Rev. Roy Harris), who spoke of Mr. Weatherly's church work in the ringing of the bells. Among those attending were several members of Metham Lodge of Freemasons, of which he was a Past Master. Mr. J. P. Sims (captain) and Mr. H. H. Thomas represented Emmanuel ringers.

MR. J. S. EASTWOOD

With the sudden death of James Smarfit Eastwood (76) on March 16, the ringers of St. Matthew's, Walsall, have lost a well-loved and respected friend. Jim was born at Bolton, near York, in 1894 and at the age of 16 moved to Bramley, Leeds, where he became a chorister and, shortly afterwards, a ringer at St. Peter's. In the 1914-18 war he served in the Army Catering Corps at Hednesford, Staffs, and whilst there met a local girl, who became his wife in 1924.

In 1927, due to the employment situation, Jim and his wife moved to Walsall, where he obtained employment and later became manager of a grocery store. After settling in Walsall Jim joined the ringers at St. Matthew's and rang on the ten prior to the recasting and augmentation to 12 in 1929. His ringing time was considerably restricted due to business commitments, and it was not until his retirement, 11 years ago, that he was able to devote more time to ringing, especially in the field of peal ringing.

For many years he was secretary, and later treasurer, of St. Matthew's Ringers, and at one time he was ringing master of the Stafford Archdeaconry, a position of the he was particularly proud. During the last two or three years Jim became one of a band of retired ringers who rang for week-day services in the district.

The bells were rung half-muffled before and after the funeral service, which was conducted by the vicar of Walsall (Rev. R. W. Jackson), who gave a short address, and the ashes were buried in the Garden of Rest in St. Matthew's churchyard.

Jim's cheerful presence, efficiency and punctuality were an inspiration to all and his passing has left a gap which it will be difficult to fill. May he rest in peace.

Hertford County Association

THE NEW PRESIDENT INSTALLED

The annual meeting of the Hertford County Association was held at Bishop's Stortford on April 4 and ringing took place at many towers in the area during the day. A service was conducted in St. Michael's Church and was attended by a large congregation. A touch of Kent T.B. Maximus on handbells was rung during the service.

Bishop's Stortford District members and their wives provided tea in the Water Lane Institute and this was followed by the business meeting. The president, Mr. Walter Ayre, welcomed those present and thanked the Association for the honour of electing him president during the year of the Central Council's visit to Hertfordshire and for their kindness and help during the year.

A life membership certificate was presented to Mr. Fred Bird, of Bishop's Stortford, but Mr. G. W. Debenham, who was due to receive a certificate, was unable to be present. A moment's silence to honour those who had died during the past year was observed — Canon J. H. Bailey (associate), W. T. Holmes (past president), A. G. Cook (King's Langley), R. Goldsney (Great Gaddesden).

Mr. A. R. Kench was congratulated on his election as master of the College Youths and committee reports were taken as read.

Mr. H. G. Cashmore received a token of appreciation for his 25 years' work for the Association in checking peal compositions. John Mayne agreed to do this work in future, providing that someone checked his compositions, and Mr. Roger Baldwin agreed to do this.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

The election of officers followed. Mr. A. R. Agg did not seek re-election as general secretary and he proposed Mr. R. E. Hardy for this office, which was carried. The president presented Mr. Agg with a suitably engraved English pewter tankard and a cheque in recognition of his work over the past ten years, and Mrs. Anne Agg was presented with a flower arrangement for the help she had given to her husband. For the election of president, Mr. K.

Westwood proposed and Mr. G. Dodds seconded Mr. A. R. Agg, and amid acclamation Mr. Ayre formally installed Mr.

Agg as the new president.

Thanking everyone for the honour that had been conferred upon him, Mr. Agg said he was proud to follow Mr. Ayre in the presidency, and had been grateful to have Mr. Ayre's guidance during the past year, especially in connection with the visit of the Central Council. Mr. Agg asked members to consider ways in which those who had given long and faithful service to the Association could receive recognition. Other officers elected were: assistant sectors.

Other omcers elected were: assistant secretary, Mrs. M. A. Coburn; treasurer, Mr. H. Collings; peals secretary, Mr. G. Penney; librarian, Mr. J. Dodds. Messrs. Mercer and Hole who had acted as hon. auditors for many years had asked to be relieved of the task and Mrs. S. Brown was elected to be hon, auditor.

The perplexing question of decimalisation caused the only resolutions on the agenda. After discussion it was agreed that the rules be amended to read "The associate members, ringing members and probationers shall subscribe not less than 25 new pence annually. Members under 16 years of age shall subscribe 15 new pence annually." A proposal to increase the peal booking fee to three new pence was defeated and 2½ new pence substituted.

Ely Diocesan Association

NEW RULES DEALT WITH

Easter Monday found the Ely Association holding its annual meeting in the Wisbech area, and from an early hour it was apparent that many old and new friends were going to be seen in the 17 towers which were open for ringing. In the afternoon all roads led to Elm, where the service was held and was conducted by the vicar (Rev. H. S. Joseph), the address being given by the president, the Lord Bishop of Ely. Tea followed in the Church Hall, over 130 persons sitting down, and the meeting followed, with the president in the chair. The 1969 report, which had been circulated was adopted. The officers were all reelected and thanked for their services. 1970 striking competition is to be held in September at Willingham, and for the 1971 A.G.M. an invitation was received to visit the Huntingdon District on Easter Monday. which was accepted.

The new rules were dealt with at length and after certain amendments had been made were carried. The president expressed thanks to the committee for their work in this matter.

A suggestion from the committee was that an editor be appointed to produce the report. After discussion an amendment was made that the general secretary, four district secretaries, the peal secretary and a vice-president (as chairman) be the editorial committee. The amendment was carried.

The general secretary reported that he had received a letter from the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association asking for support in the case of the Stinchcombe bells and this received sympathetic consideration. It was also reported that on January 12, 1972, the Ely Association celebrates its 75th anniversary. The profit from the tea that day was given to the Elm Bell Fund and Rev. H. S. Joseph expressed his thanks for the money.

The president thanked all for making the meeting enjoyable and expressed hopes that he would be present with them next year.

Mr. H. Levens proposed a vote of thanks to the president for his address at the service and for taking the chair at the meeting to the vicar for conducting the service and to all the incumbents for the use of their bells during the day; to the organist, the Wisbech District committee (especially Mr. G. Mann) and the ladies who served the tea.

A prayer by the president closed the meeting. H. S. P.

The Kimpton cup competition will be taken over by the Association at the request of the present organisers and the response to the competition will determine the future arrangements.

An appeal from the Gloucester and Bristol Association for support for the restoration of Stinchcombe bells was received and it was agreed to donate £5. Stinchcombe was a warning that bells should not be allowed to become silent.

The suggestion of an Association tie was made a probability by the show of hands and Dr. Gullick is to explore the possibilities

Thanks were expressed to the Bishop's Stortford District for the excellent way in which they had arranged the day's activities, to the incumbents for use of the bells, tower secretaries for their help, and to the ladies and their "helpers" for the tea.

Ringing at Bishop's Stortford and Thorley took place after the meeting. M. A. C.

St. Mary the Virgin, Iffley, Oxford

THIS YEAR IFFLEY is celebrating the 8th centenary of its Norman Romanesque church, said to be one of the most perfectly preserved 12th century parish churches in England.

Unlike many ancient churches, Iffley retains its original simple rectangular plan with central tower, undistorted by later addition of aisles and transepts. While exhibiting the typical solidity of Norman structures, it has a wealth of decoration of the late Romanesque period (just before Norman was succeeded by Gothic) such as is found at Kilpeck in Hereford and Barfreston in Kent. The west front (shown on cover picture) is its most spectacular feature. The doorway is deeply recessed with six orders of over-arching columns without capitals, four adorned with chevron or zigzag carving and two with 110 "beak-heads surmounted by a semicircular hood-mould bearing signs of the zodiac and symbols of the evangelists. Above these is a rose window framed in chevron moulding (restored in 1858) and in the gable above three original windows with beak-head and other decoration. "Beak-heads," i.e., birds' heads with large eyes and great beaks curving round columns, were a striking invention of English artists in the 12th century.

The south doorway has many carvings of men and beasts, natural and mythical, full of vitality and humour, in some cases having symbolic meaning. On the right are reminders of good: a mounted knight encourages his weary companion to persevere, and Samson slays a lion—a common symbol of Christ overcoming "our adversary the Devil." On the left are warnings of evil: wild beasts overpower tame; an amazing strip-cartoon has a centaur picking forbidden fruit and giving it to his wife, who in turn suckles her centaur-child—an allusion to the Fall of Man, with the moral that evil breeds evil.

Inside, magnificent carved arches support the tower and the Romanesque vaulted choir bay has floral carving on the triple shafts in each corner. The extreme east end is either an extension of the Norman chancel or a rebuilding of something earlier. It is a very fine example of 13th century Early English workmanship.

THE BELLS

We do not know when change-ringing started at Iffley. In 1552 Edward VI's commissioners reported the church as possessing "iii gret bells, a saunce (sanctus) bell and a hande bell." Today there is a ring of six bells (tenor 10 cwt. in A, 38½ inches dia.) and a sanctus. Details are as follows:—

Treble and second.—Thomas Janaway

fecit 1785.

Third.—Mears & Stainbank. Vivos voco, mortuos plango, fulgura frango. Cast 1592. Recast 1869.

Fourth.—Prayse ye the Lorde. 1592.

(Joseph Carter.)

Fifth.—No inscription (17th cent. shape. Abraham Rudhall I?)

Tenor.—Our hope is in the Lord. 1642. (Ellis Knight I.)

Sanctus.—God send us peace. 1709. (Abraham Rudhall I.)

They were rehung in a new oak frame by White in 1911. The translation is: call the living, I mourn the dead, I break the thunder." The date of the tenor is that of the outbreak of the Civil War and the inscription refers to those troublous times, when Charles Forbench, the incumbent of Iffley, imprisoned at Woodstock for using the prohibited Book of Common Prayer, "If I must not read it, resolved I am to say it by heart, in spite of all the rogues in England." The bells were originally rung from ground level between the nave and chancel, but later a first floor ringing chamber was made and the ringers moved out of sight of the congregation.

Little is known of ringing at Iffley in the years up to the Second World War. The present tower captain, who rang then, remembers that the only ringing was "off the cards" and that each member had "his own" bell. Ringing was resumed in 1945. Of the members who formed the new band two are still active, as are two who joined in 1947. Change-ringing was taken up in 1946 and the first post-war peal by the Iffley band was in 1950. Three members who took part in that peal are still with the

The Iffley band has had its ups and downs but enthusiasm has never been lacking. At present there are ten "fully fledged" ringers (including three ladies) and four lads who are very interested and showing promise for the future. The ringers regularly help at other less fortunate towers in and around Oxford, go off for weekend ringing trips to distant parts of the country and always arrange an outing for families friends in the summer. They are selfsufficient in such matters as new bell ropes and decoration of the ringing chamber. Although interest has always been keen there is a feeling among the ringers of "We're really going places now," both in matters of outings and skill at change-ringing.

The 8th centenary celebrations are being held from May 9 to 17, with a programme of daily events, and visitors will be very Details can be obtained from Iffley Rectory, Oxford. A quarter peal is to be rung on the two Sundays of the festival, May 10 and 17, before Evensong, and it is hoped to attempt a peal when there is a free day.

MR. A. E. RUSHTON IN HOSPITAL

As most of his friends know, Mr. A. E. Rushton, president of the Bedfordshire Association, has been "unpealable" for a considerable time. Restoration work is being undertaken by St. Bartholomew's Hospital (dismantling April 21).

His son, Dr. C. A. Rushton, is "ringable" and will be pleased to give news of progress of restoration work (Hitchin 52023), preferably after evening surgery time.

ST. PETER MANCROFT OFFICERS

The annual general meeting of the St. Peter Mancroft Guild of Ringers was held on March 23. The following officers were elected: master, Martin Cubitt; deputy master, David Cubitt; steeplekeeper, Clif-ford Bird; secretary / treasurer, Barbara Payne; and any correspondence should be addressed to Miss B. M. Payne, 61 Lilburne Avenue, Catton Grove, Norwich, NOR 78N.

From the Daily Mail, April 20, 1970:-"A bellringer needs the patience of Job, strength of Samson, wisdom of Solomon, rhythm of David, lungs of brass, hands of iron, hide of a hippo, subtlety of Harold, and gentleness of Sir Alec, life of Methuselah and stickability at all times."

Lincoln Diocesan Guild

Mr. John Freeman the New Master

Holy Communion in the Ringers' Chapel of the Cathedral started the A.G. meeting day, 1970. Ringing in the morning was at Blankney, Metheringham, Dunston, Nocton and Branston. The city churches of St. Botolph, St. Peter, St. Giles and the Cathedral were the venues for afternoon and evening ringing. Fully choral Evensong was in the Cathedral, when the president (the Dean of Lincoln) welcomed the 160-plus ringers from the diocese and various neighbouring counties. Tea and meeting followed in the ancient Titbe Barn.

The 1969 report and accounts were adopted and 23 non-resident life member elections were confirmed.

John Freeman was elected the Guild's new master as Mr. J. Bray did not seek re-election. Mr. Brav thanked all officers and members for their loyal support and co-operation during his long term of office as hon. secretary and master, and presented the Guild with a beautiful gavel, made of Lincolnshire oak from Althorpe Hall, near to his home in North Lincolnshire. The thanks of all members were expressed by Mr. Freeman, the new master, for all Mr. Bray's work for the Guild, for the dignity he had shown as master and for the gift of the gavel.

All the other officers were re-elected.

Approval was given to the changeover arrangements to decimal currency and to the amendment of rules relating to finance. A motion emphasising the Guild's concern about the 58 churches declared redundant in the diocese, containing some 299 bells, was carried. It requested the Guild representative on the Diocesan Advisory Committee for Faculties be officially informed of all declared redundancies; that no bells be disposed of, and that accommodation be provided for the storage of these bells until further use and preservation could be arranged in the diocese.

A further motion was submitted requesting The Ringing World Committee to continue publishing all methods rung in multimethod peals. Should the publication of methods be omitted for space saving only then all methods be officially numbered, to enable all members of the Exercise to know what had been rung. This motion was also adopted.

The Guild's senior member, Mr. H. Squires, of Hough-on-the-Hill, now over 90 years, was welcomed by Mr. J. Bray and acclaimed generously by the members. Votes of thanks were extended to all incumbents and the ladies, who provided an excellent tea. J. L. M.

Coventry Diocesan Guild.

A NEW PRESIDENT

63rd A.G.M., held at Warwick (where the Guild was really born), was extremely well supported and good use made of the eight at St. Nicholas' and the majestic ten at St. Mary's, with its tower built over the street following the disastrous fire of 1694. The guild service, which followed the business, was in the beautiful and historic Church of St. Mary, and was conducted by the vicar (Canon McDowell Morgan), who, unfortunately, is leaving Warwick shortly.

At the business meeting Mrs. D. E. Beamish was elected president to succeed Mr. J. L. Garner-Hayward, who is leaving the district. The hon. general secretary (Mr. H. M. Windsor) and the hon. treasurer (Mr. H. G. Summers) were re-elected, and the nominated district officers were approved. Minor changes in subscriptions and dates of meetings were made, Burton Dassett was proposed as the place for the quarterly meeting in July, and the striking competition will be held at Harbury in September. The meeting closed with thanks to all who had contributed to a most successful meeting. F. W. P.

ST. JAMES', CLERKENWELL, TOUR
Some 24 St. James' ringers and friends joined on April 18 for a tour of Berkshire and Oxfordshire, the arrangements being made by Michael Wycherley and Andrew Cope. Towers visited were Wallingford, Brightwell, Dorchester, Warborough, Watlington and Magdalen, Oxford. Thanks are expressed to the incumbents of these churches.

The ringing went well, especially at Magdalen, and later a dinner was held in the vicinity of St. Mary Abbotts.

This was the first event of its kind at St. James' in recent years, and its success makes similar affairs quite probable. D. K. G.

Railwaymen's Guild

SUBSCRIPTIONS RAISED

Approaching 50 members of the Railwaymen's Guild visited Guildford on April 25 for their annual meeting, but some arriving on the Friday night were able to participate on the Friday hight were able to participate in the Cathedral practice. Ringing on the Saturday was at Shalford, the Cathedral, Holy Trinity, St. Nicolas', Stoke and St. Mary's, with the master (Mr. Jack N. Brown) in charge. The local arrangements were made by Mr. C. Bassett.

The annual meeting followed tea at the Corona Café, the master being in the chair, supported by Mr. J. Arthur Hoare (hon. secretary). He welcomed as guests Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Martin (Staff Association), Mr. T. W. White (former R.W. editor) and Mr. Keith Game (secretary of the Surrey Association). Mr. White, in acknowledging the compliment, said the Guild would receive with satisfaction the report of the Standing Committee of the Central Council with reference to the retention of non-territorial Associations and added: "It would be a most unkind act if the Guild was to lose its representation."

The meeting stood in silence in memory of Mr. Victor Griffin, of Oxford.

The accounts were presented by Mr. Hoare, total balance being £24 6s. 2d. against £16 last year and there was nearly £10 in the Bell Restoration Fund. The meeting regarded the present subscription as inadequate to meet the proposed new postal charges and from 1971 it will be 4s, instead of 3s. 6d. The secretary said there was an increase in membership and it was a pleasure to see new faces present.

EASTERN REGION DIVIDED

A notice of motion from Mr. E. Franklin to divide the Eastern Region from a line between Newark and Boston was accepted. Mr. Sutton, of York, spoke in favour and expressed a willingness to be responsible for the Northern District.

The master, the hon, secretary and the auditors (Messrs. J. E. Brough and F. R. Morton) were re-elected. Regional officers appointed were London Midland, Mr. S. Foskett; Western, Mr. B. Kyneston; North Eastern, Mr. Sutton (North), Mr. W. Shanks (South); Southern, Mr. C. Bassett.

General approval was given to a regional striking competition and Mr. Martin said it would be within the ambit of the Staff Association, and would cover a day's leave and a rail pass. Final details are to be worked out by the secretary and regional officers and an announcement will appear in The Ringing World.

The September meeting will be held at Northampton and meetings for 1971 are annual, Worcester, and half-yearly, Ipswich. The vote of thanks to all concerned for providing the Guild with an enjoyable day at Guildford was proposed by Mr. Sid Fossey.

STRIKING COMPETITION

The Northampton Branch of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild held their striking competition at Cogenhoe on April 25.

Five towers entered and the winning team was that of Holy Sepulchre, North-ampton (18 faults), with Brafield 2nd and Pitsford 3rd.

The judges were Messrs. Harry Wooding (Wellingborough Branch), J. Malcolm Tyler (Peterborough Branch) and Brian Danby A.H. (Daventry Branch).

Kent County Association

ROCHESTER WIN ROSE BOWL

On April 18, the date set for the striking competition of the Rochester District, this year's venue was at Cuxton (an easy-going six) on the west bank of the Medway. Eight bands entered but one had to withdraw. The draw for the order of ringing took place at 2.30 p.m. and the young band who won the competition last year were the first to ring and they set a high standard for the remaining bands. A well-struck 240 of Cambridge Surprise was rung for the service at 4.30 p.m., which was fully choral Evensong. Tea was in the hall in the nearby village of Halling and the judges, Mr. H. E. Audsley and Mr. P. A. Corby, then pronounced their verdict, which showed the following: 1st Rochester Cathedral Tunstall (113, ringing only five bells), 4th Sittingbourne (125), 5th Cuxton (153), 6th equal, Gravesend and Rainham (214).

Mr. Corby stated that Cuxton had rung

"cartwheel" fashion and their ringing was even, but as open handstroke leads were the accepted thing in Southern England it was felt that they must fault the ringing because of this. The general faults were that many tended to ring with a loose rope, thereby not having perfect control of the bell, and dodges were not made cleanly. He congratulated the bands for their courage in entering the competition.

The rector's wife then presented the rose bowl to Mr. Trevor A. Cross, who represented the Cathedral band which will represent the district at the county striking competition in September. Other business included the election of six new members and the decision that the time of service at district meetings be 4.15 p.m. Mr. Frank Cheal proposed thanks to the rector and the Cuxton band and further ringing then took place. Altogether 80 members attended.

Leicester Guild

TWO DISTRICTS JOIN

On April 18 a joint meeting of the Melton and Syston Districts of the Leicester Diocesan Guild attracted a large gathering. The bells of St. Luke's, Gaddesby, and St. Mary's, Ashby Folville, were rung during the afternoon and in the evening.

A short service was held at Gaddesby, conducted by Mr. T. C. Belton (diocesan lay reader), of Birstall, Mrs. Pugh being at the organ. Mr. A. G. Clarke (district chairman) welcomed the ringers on behalf of the vicar and also read the lesson. Tea was provided in the village hall by Mrs. S. N. Hall and helpers for about 80 ringers from 22 towers. After a short ring at Gaddesby and Ashby the bells of St. Mary's, Queniborough, were rung for the rest of the evening. Visitors were from Chatham Frome, Reading, Runcorn and Lowdham.

Bath and Wells Association SECRETARY LEAVING

The quarterly meeting of the Frome Branch of the Bath and Wells Association was held at High Hittleton on April 11. Seven branch towers were sparsely represented, possibly due to the fact that it was cup final day. Visitors were present from East Lyng, Barton St. David and Marks-

New members were elected from High Littleton, Shepton Mallet, Farmborough and Wanstrow and attention was drawn to the Frome ringers' bells and clock restoration appeal. The general secretary's wish that quarter peals are rung in as many towers as possible on May 31 for the 80th anniversary of the Association and the branch striking competition at Compton Dando were also mentioned.

After only three months as branch secretary Mr. Philip Jones will have to vacate the post as he is moving to Exeter. It was agreed that Mr. Ray Baker, of Frome, will assist the secretary, if necessary, until the next branch A.G.M. A vote of thanks to the vicar (Rev. M. Prosser), Mr. D. Cottle (organist) and the local ringers was accorded on the proposition of Mr. Ray Baker. M. H.

Salisbury Guild

TWO BRANCHES JOIN FORCES

The April meeting of the Marlborough Branch of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild was made the occasion for a joint meeting with the Calne Branch, the venue being Chilton Foliat. There was an attendance of 30. which included visitors from Swindon, and a most enjoyable afternoon and evening resulted.

Ringing was under Mr. A. Keen (ringing master) and the Guild service was conducted by the rector (Rev. P. Bird), with Mr. Keen at the organ.

Tea was provided and served by the rector and Mrs. Bird at the Rectory, and in appreciation of their hospitality a collection was taken and given to church funds. The business meeting followed, Mr. C. Wilkins presiding, supported by the hon. secretary, Mrs. H. Rouse.

Arrangements were discussed for the Guild festival at Bridport in May and the chairman voiced thanks to all who had helped in the day's arrangements.

Ringing resumed in rounds and Doubles methods until 8 p.m. W. A. E.

INVERARAY REVISITED AND REVITALISED

On April 4 two heavily laden cars left the East Riding of Yorkshire carrying personnel, materials and equipment for the preparation and painting of the bell frame at Inveraray tower, Argyll. Ray Aldington, of King's Norton, joined the party at York, having travelled by train from Birmingham that morning. The other six were John N. D. Chaddock (St. Mary's, Beverley), Roddy Horton (Hessle Parish Church), with Elsie and Norman Chaddock, Ian Peacock and David Smith from Market Weighton Parish Church.

From April 4 to 11 the party stayed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Noble at Cairndow, about 11 miles from Inver-aray. Throughout the week Mrs. Noble aray. Infougnout the week with control overalls and worked with the party, pre paring and painting the bell frame. is no electric light or power in the tower, but the Hydro Electrical Board had kindly arranged a temporary supply for electric drills and hand lamps.

The daily routine was to motor the 11 miles round Loch Fyne to Inveraray straight after breakfast and work in the tower until lunch break (1 to 2 p.m.), during which progress was discussed and further organised. Mrs. Noble provided attractive and substantial picnic lunches every day, which the whole party enjoyed in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Allen hear the tower. Mr. Allen is church treasurer, and Mrs. Allen waited on the party. These enjoyable gatherings will remain happy memories for many years to come.

At about 5 p.m. each day work ceased and the bell frame was "cocooned" in polythene sheeting to keep out the elements throughout the operation.

In the evenings several "propaganda" and committee meetings were held at Mrs. Noble's home, concerning the welfare and future of the installation. The group also The group also practised tunes and changes on handbells ready for the meeting of all interested local people, which Mrs. Noble had organised for the Friday evening in Inveraray Grammar School Hall.

As part of Mrs. Noble's plan to stir up local interest, Inveraray youngsters were encouraged to volunteer to do a two-hour stint of work in the tower, and although only two volunteers were allowed at a time the opportunity was provided for 24 different helpers during the week.

Other visitors to the tower were numerous and distinguished and included the Bishop of Argyll, the Member of Parliament for Argyll, clergy of several denominations, the headmaster of Inveraray Grammar School and Press representatives.

Inveraray bells and frame are very exposed and on previous visits' John and Norman had recommended that protective measures should be taken. First, all rusty parts were wire-brushed. The frame and other iron fittings were then treated with Kurust rust killer and primer. Finally all metal parts were painted with polyurethane micaceous iron oxide paint. One or two other minor maintenance jobs were effected in the ringers' room and on the chiming apparatus, and instruction was given to potential chimers who would sound the bells during the coming months.

CHANGES RUNG

Ray and Norman (principally Ray) rendered tunes on the chimes daily. On Thursday evening the 32 cwt. tenor, the 8th and the front six were roped up, and after Grandsire Doubles on 1, 2, 3, 6, 8 and 10, the front six were rung to Plain Bob, Cambridge and London Minor.

Friday evening, following completion of the task, was the highlight of the week, and following appropriate rehearsals the talents of the group in both tune ringing and change ringing on handbells and public speaking were put to good use at Mrs. Noble's "Town Meeting." The proceedings opened with "The Washington Film" and was followed by a short discourse on the history of the bells by Mr. D. McKechnie. Noble addressed the meeting, after which Norman explained the difference between chiming and change ringing in full peal, the other ringers assisting with suitable handbell demonstrations.

An enjoyable Ceilidh followed, com-mencing with "Annie Laurie" and "Banks and Braes" on handbells. These items were greatly appreciated by the audience. At the conclusion those attending were rung out with Grandsire Triples on handbells.

It was a tired but satisfied party that arrived home the next evening, having covered almost 800 miles and put in 250 man hours' work. It is indeed fortunate that Mrs. Noble is taking such an active and energetic interest in Inveraray bells and tower, and the whole party is grateful for the tremendous hospitality which she ac-corded them throughout the operation.

A "SUCCESS" STORY

Mr. Eric J. Naylor, of Cheltenham, is a very proud man. He writes:—

"On November 28, 1969, you were kind enough to publish a few notes I wrote about the family's ringing. On that day we managed to ring two quarters, and at the time we felt it to be an achievement. Now, after four failures, we have at last accomplished our first family peal, rung on April 18, 1970, exactly one year to the day after our first family quarter. The quarter was Grandsire Doubles, and the peal Minor in four methods. Malcolm rang his first peal at 13, Bernard his first inside at 14. My wife and three of the children only Grandsire Triples), three weeks before.

As it was only my second as conductor, we felt we were pushing our luck but it has seemed to hold. I must say that I have been very impressed with the way in which the youngsters have stuck at learning the methods, ringing (and losing) quarter after quarter. (We have now scored ten.)

"There is something about ringing which seems to provide the character building qualities which young people need so much mental quickness, team work, loyalty. service and, above all, perseverance. thing which we have found is that having two or three budding young conductors helps the steadiness of the ringing greatly. Since most of them learned to do some simple 'bob calling' and to call a quarter the standard has improved! May we recommend this to other bands of young people trying to get on.

"As we have rung at different churches. we have been very conscious of the unique and wonderful heritage of bells which our forefathers have passed down to us, and feel extremely privileged to ring in these churches and do our bit to hand on the tradition of English ringing to future generations. I am sure their great-grandfather would have been proud of his fourth generation, as they stuck hard at their first family peal! Blisters apart, the jubilation of success makes all the hard work of collecting waste paper to rehang our own bells (£2,000) seem well worth while.

"We don't know whether our effort is a record, and would be glad to hear from any other families who are trying to ring lengths of any sort."

MUSIC FESTIVAL

The Richmond upon Thames Music Festival (ringing section) had its usual successful afternoon on March 21 and three sections of the festival were well supported. There was handbell tune ringing, handbell change-ringing and tower bell ringing (which took place at Twickenham). The Colchester Handbell Society came first, winning the challenge shield, but unfortunately in the handbell change-ringing there were some last minute withdrawals and only two teams The shield was won by competed. Lewisham.

Forty ringers and friends sat down to tea, arranged by the festival committee. Mr. Rogers announced the results of the handbell ringing and Mr. Frank Lufkin (Colchester) expressed thanks to the festival committee for arranging the ringing sections. At the Parish Church, Twickenham, five teams rang test pieces of 250 changes and more, and the winners were the Society of South London Youths; second were Col-chester and three honours certificates were awarded. The chairman thanked all the teams and Mr. Rogers for adjudicating.

SOUTH YORKSHIRE TOWERS RECOVER

In the summer of 1968 three Yorkshire towers, Bradfield (6), Wentworth (6, only three or four bells were rung on a Sunday) and Wartley (8), ceased to function after over 15 years. The first tower to recover was Wentworth, where a local quarter of Plain Bob Doubles was rung in the autumn of 1969; by Easter, 1970, Grandsire was achieved and five of the local band rang a full peal in December, 1969. Money raised at Christmas by the tune-ringing handbell section enabled the bell frame to be repainted; also money was raised for new bell

The recovery at Wortley was even more remarkable. There have been two practice meetings of the Southern Branch of the Y.A. and these have helped the local ringers a great deal. The recovery is due to a teacher ringer who took up a post at the local comprehensive school. Efforts are being made to repaint the dismal-looking ringing chamber and to provide new ropes.

Another dramatic recovery is at the 14th century moorland church at Worrall, a suburb of Sheffield and two miles from Bradfield. The local band are looking forward to scoring their own local quarter before the year ends.

On Easter Tuesday representatives of all three towers managed a peal of Bob Triples—only one had ever rung this before!

ST. MARTIN'S GUILD, BIRMINGHAM

The spring quarterly meeting of the St. Martin's Guild was held at Boldmere on April 4, and at the service the vicar (Canon McCallum) officiated.

Tea had been prepared by local ringers, and (despite the guild's officers managing to lose their way) the food (eventually) was enjoyed by all.

A business meeting followed and included fixing the venue of the Henry Johnson Dinner for 1971 (Solihull Civic Hall, February 27), and the allocation of a sum to the bell restoration appeal at Stinchcombe.

Further ringing followed on this challenging octave.

MORE MEMBERS FOR DORCHESTER BRANCH

The spring quarterly meeting of the Dorchester Branch was held at Fordington St. George, Dorchester (6), on April 4, when a variety of methods was rung, under the direction of Mr. D. L. Cull. Canon E. B. Brooks (vicar) conducted the service and Rev. K. W. Meiklejohn (vice-chairman) read the lesson. The excellent tea, enjoyed by 30 ringers, was undertaken by Miss P. and Mrs. H. House and Mrs. Wareham.

Seven new members were elected and it was decided that future branch annual meetings be held in the autumn instead of January. A welcome was accorded the Guild master (Rev. R. N. Longridge) by the branch chairman (Rev. J. L. Woods).

Wedding.

A 'SPLICE" AT ALDERSHOT

Married at Aldershot Parish Church on April 11 were Janet Edmunds and Robert Bragg, both members of the local band. Janet is a physiotherapist, and Robert, who is the elder son of Major and Mrs. E. J. Bragg, who are well known in ringing circles, is in the printing department at Surrey University.
The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a full-length white satin dress trimmed with hand-made Bedfordshire lace. She had a headdress and carried a bouquet of freesias which had been grown by her father. It was later placed on the grave of the bridegroom's sisters, Mary and Nancie Bragg.

The bridesmaids were Miss E. Susan Edmunds (bride's sister), Miss Joanna Den-yer (bridegroom's cousin), Miss Elizabeth Edgoose (bride's niece) and Miss Jane Harvey (bride's god-daughter). They all wore full-length lilac satin dresses trimmed with lilac velvet, and they had headdresses and bouquets of anemones.

The bridegroom's brother, Mr. James

Bragg, was best man.

The bride left the reception at the Church of the Ascension Hall, Ayling Hill, in a Lovat suit with French navy blue accessories and a cyclamen pink hat. honeymoon was spent in Dorset and Somerset, and the couple's future home is at 82 Cranmore Lane, Aldershot.

Letters

BERTRAM PREWETT

Dear Sir,—May I join in congratulating Messrs. B. F. L. Groves and R. B. Smith on ringing their first thousand peals in 13½

I am sure Mr. Pryor is right in saying this is the shortest time in which the feat has been achieved. It might, however, be of interest to recall that Bertram Prewett rang his first peal on March 20, 1898, and his 900th on November 7, 1913, that is in about 15½ years. When one considers the advantages of the present day—five-day weeks, better transport facilities and much easier social conditions - Mr. Prewett's achievement should not be overlooked. In all he rang 953 peals, all but a handful before the outbreak of the 1914–18 war. in which he was killed.—Yours faithfully,

E. A. BARNETT.

Crayford, Kent.

KIDDERMINSTER S. MAXIMUS

Dear Sir,-I read with interest the correspondence regarding the peal of Kidder-minster S. Maximus at Aston on January 31. I'm afraid I must join the ranks of the confused on this issue. Surely if the last two changes after the single were Yorkshire S. Maximus, as Mr. Cawser points out, then the peal should (must?) technically be regarded as a peal of Spliced S. Max. and not Kidderminster S. Max. Could somebody please elucidate? I would be most body please elucidate:
grateful.—Yours faithfully,
G. COLBORNE.

Ibadan, W. Nigeria.

Dear Sir,—As I have recently corresponded with Mr. J. E. Cawser, Lichfield, regarding the deduction of peals of Surprise Maximus from the former orthodox 5280 by the use of singles, which has now become almost universal, I was very pleased to read in your issue of April 17 his explanation and his arrangement of the 5042 Kidderminster S. Maximus.

Probably, subject to contradiction, the belfry of St. Mary-le-Tower, Ipswich, is the only one in which 5040s of S. Maximus have been rung.

On April 12, 1930, 5040 changes of New Cambridge S. Maximus were rung by bringing up 35274968/10 at the first lead-end, which is the sixth lead of the plain course, cutting out 240 changes. The late Mr. Goldsmith asked if this was a lead of Prim-

On November 26, 1932, 5040 Cambridge S. Maximus was shortened by making the 6th bob bell three times, which is: call tenor 6ths, B, 7ths and H, producing 23564. Both peals were rung without singles. The conducting was shared by Charles Sedgley and myself.—Yours faithfully, GEORGE E. SYMONDS.

Ipswich, Suffolk.

ADVICE

Dear Sir,-I have no wish to drag out the correspondence re last year's Central Council meeting and certain of the agenda items, etc., that have provoked alleged acrimony.

My only comment to the two new members concerned, mainly responsible for all the fuss and bother, is "GROW UP."—

Yours faithfully

NORMAN S. BAGWORTH, National Police Guild member.

Wimbledon.

Dear Sir,—The editorial from The Irish Bell News you reprinted in a recent Ringing World was, to me, quite a coincidence, in view of an occurrence in our tower at St. Matthew's, Buckley, Flintshire. Consequently I am tempted to ask "Why do we ring?"

We were ready to raise our bells prior to open practice when a well-built and handsome male presented himself in the ringing chamber and said: "I would like to learn to ring the bells." I replied that we would be very pleased to have him join us and asked one of our ringers to put a clapper stay on the 5th.

While this was being done I asked our visitor where he lived and what church he attended. He replied that he had come to settle in Buckley but he did not belong to or attend any church. I then pointed out that to be a church bellringer was to hold an office within the church and that this meant that one had to be a confirmed member of it and, in our tower, one rule is that before one can become a member a person must be confirmed or be willing to be confirmed. He replied that he thought that ringers rang for pleasure and that was all he wanted to do. He had not been confirmed as a youth and was not going to be confirmed at his age (about 35-40) and certainly not just to become a ringer. I informed him that we did get a great deal of pleasure and satisfaction from our ringing but that the first duty of ringing was to the glory of God and in His service, by calling people to church. Arising from this we did, when able, attend those services ourselves.

He then apologised for bothering us and before he left was at pains to point out that there were churches where the bells were not rung. He would find a tower not attached to a church! I told him that the nearest one to Buckley was the Town Hall, Manchester, some 50 miles away!

Was I wrong in letting him go?

It is known that we at St. Matthew's, in common with many other towers, always extend a very warm welcome to all visiting ringers without questions being asked. But to be a full member of our own tower is another matter.-Yours faithfully,

> DENNIS H. B. MILLWARD, Tower Captain.

IN 1782

Dear Sir,--Richard Price's letter in the R.W. of April 24 prompts me to send the copy, set out below, of an advertisement which appeared in both the Norwich Mercury and the Norfolk Chronicle of Saturday, October 26, 1782.—Yours faithfully,

DAVID CUBITT.

PSYCHOLOGY

Dear Sir,—Like your correspondent, "P. S.", I have wondered in the past why a recurring feature of The Ringing World's correspondence columns (in common with those of many other specialist journals) should be letters seeking to reproach, belittle, or simply insult fellow ringers.

Ringing is very much a minority interest. Its adherents, by comparison with the rest of one's fellow-beings, are very few, and the psychological competition correspond-ingly less severe. In such a narrow field, relatively limited ambition and ability enable one to reach a position where one gains the feeling of having "got to the top" or at least becoming "someone." It is unfortunate to have to suggest that many ringers are people who find themselves psychologically inadequate to face the demands and competition of the world at large. Loudly declaring the unworthiness of one's neighbour is an easy way of raising one's own self-esteem. Recent exchanges in these columns have highlighted the contrast between the "dedicated" ringer and his "casual" colleague, who realises that there are better (as well as worse) ways of spending a weekend than playing a prolonged mathematical game whose appreciation as a musical form is strictly limited.

I should add, in fairness, that the remarks above are perhaps better treated as suspicions voiced with a view to stimulating discussion than as calculated indictments. My position as one throwing stones from within a glasshouse is blatantly obvious—there is no intention to "reproach, belittle or simply insult."

I would be almost sorry to see the disappearance of all acrimony from your columns, if only because of the pharisaical impulse it provokes to "thank God that I am not as other men are."—I remain, yours faithfully,

London, W.C. PHILIP BOSWORTH.

BELLFOUNDERS OF THE PAST

Dear Sir,-I am glad to see so much interest being taken in the tuning of bells.

Mr. Price made some very true comments about the Colchester foundry. In addition to the two good Miles Graye bells he mentioned, there is the excellent 11th, dated 1610, at St. Mary-le-Tower, Ipswich. This bell conforms to the modern tuning system, except for its major tierce. Mr. Price says, these are Graye's only good bells; the rest, quite honestly, are nearly all appalling or, at the best, just about adequate!

Dobson also had his let-downs; for inboson also had his let-downs; for instance, some of his smaller rings, like those at Gedney Hill, Lincs, or Wymeswold, Leics, could hardly be thought to have come from the same foundry as those of Sleaford, Diss, Thetford, or the magnificent ten at Bury St. Edmunds' Norman tower (which Mr. Price has overlooked). I would disagree, however, that Dobson could not keep a consistent standard. He definitely knew what he was trying to get— and usually got it, and the bad jobs fall into the same category as Graye's good bellsthe exception that proves the rule!

Osborn also could not have been far out, for his bells respond very readily and extremely successfully to modern tuning—witness the fine eight at Godmanchester, Hunts, for one.

One curiosity is the record of a three (12 cwt.), which Dobson sent to the West In-dies (Isle of St. Vincent). Are they still there, and what are they doing?—Yours faithfully, Colchester, Essex. PETER S. ABBOTT.

BELL FOUNDRY TOURED

Cup Final day found a party of 36 members and friends from the Winchester district of the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild heading for London for the annual outing.

There is no better way to start a ringers' outing than at a bell foundry, and our first hour was spent in a most interesting and instructive manner at the Whitechapel foundry.

The first ring was on the fine eight at St. Olave's, Hart Street, and the afternoon ringing was on the ten at Isleworth, where a modern church is being built on to a mediæval tower. At Hayes we were able to see how local enthusiasm and effort had produced a grand ring of eight and a ringing chamber with all "mod cons." Here we were very kindly entertained to high tea by the local ringers.

Our final ring before home was at the riverside church at Staines. Many combined to make this a very enjoyable day: the incumbents, the ringers who met us and the ladies at Hayes who prepared tea. Especial thanks to Mr. W. O. Haythorne for his hard and thorough work as organiser.

A CROWDED PRACTICE MEETING

The ringing chamber at Somerton, Som., overflowed when the attendance exceeded 40 at the Ilchester Branch practice meeting on April 4. The Vicar (Rev. A. T. Budgett) read the belfry office and ringing on the pleasant 19 cwt. six (soon to be augmented to eight) was under the control of Messrs, Gordon Rendall (branch R.M.) and Jim Taylor, his assistant. Touches included Grandsire, Stedman and Plain Bob Doubles, Plain Bob, Little Bob, Cambridge and London Minor. M.M.L.

STRIKING COMPETITION HEATS

The meeting of the Northern District held at Shalford on April 4 was well attended, and interest was added by the heats of the striking competition held at Wethersfield. Two teams from Braintree had the least number of faults, Finching-field being runners-up.

The vicar of Wethersfield conducted the service at Shalford and Mr. Peter Wood was the organist. Tea was in the village hall. Mr. Henry Pratt's absence was noted with regret. New members elected included Miss Rosalind Campbell and Master Denis Saunders. The district social had produced an enjoyable profit. The bells continued in the evening to ring out The over the neighbourhood to call changes and a variety of methods.

OLDEST DISTRICT MEMBER

The usual warm welcome was extended to the Biggleswade district ringers by the Rector of Northill (Rev. C. E. Jones) when they visited his parish on April 11; Mr. R. V. Webb was ringing master for the afternoon. During the short service the lesson was read by the chairman (Mr. S. H. Ashton) and the collects were read by the content (Mr. A. H. Smith). H. Ashton) and the collects were read by the secretary (Mr. A. H. Smith). Mrs. Norman and helpers had prepared the tea in the Harvey Hall, after which the business meeting took place. During the evening one of the oldest district members, Mr. W. Wagstaffe, joined the ringing master (Mr. C. D. Mann) welcomed visitors from other as-Mann) welcomed visitors from other associations. The bells were lowered at 9 p.m., bringing to an end another successful M. L. M. district meeting.

A PLEASANT MEETING

The March meeting of the Newark District was held at Newark, Parish Church on March 21, and among those present were ringers from neighbouring districts and ringers from neighbouring districts and visitors from Chesterfield and Doncaster.

The service, conducted by Canon E. J. Kingsnorth, was followed by tea served in St. Mary's Rooms by local ringers' wives. The business meeting followed, presided over by the guild chairman (Mr. F. W. Midwinter). The secretary (Mr. P. Raithby) announced a jumble sale in aid of Nottingham District's bell repair fund. of Nottingham District's bell repair fund. The Newark District Crawford Cup round is to be held in May at Barnby-in-the-Willows. The ten bells were put to full use during the meeting.

EASTER TOUR OF EAST ANGLIA

This tour, arranged to start on Easter Tuesday, enabled ringers to join the Ely Diocesan Association A.G.M. on Easter Monday, where ringing took place at eight towers before the band proceeded to Thetford, where accommodation had been arranged.

The tour opened with ringing at Thetford (8) and during the day the band increased in numbers to 26.

In all, 40 towers were visited, the most unusual being Cotton (8), where ringing on the ground floor has the west side open to the weather, and as the weather was extremely cold the ringers had to wear overcoats.

Standard methods were accomplished during the week, the final ring being eight-Spliced Surprise Major at Wymondham Abbey.

All arrangements worked out perfectly and the tour captain, Stephen Munday, was presented with premium bonds. M. H.

QUARTER PEAL DAY

Towards the end of 1969 Denis Stephens, of Helston, suggested that one day in the spring a quarter peal be attempted at each of the 11 Kerrier Deanery towers. was greeted with enthusiasm and April 4 chosen. It was later discovered that there were two counter attractions—a sponsored walk in aid of the St. Clement augmentation, and a peal attempt of Maximus somewhere in Devon. Consequently this meant only the sixes could be quartered and the eights just visited. When the guild librarian heard of this he proceeded to find an available eight-bell band.

The day dawned bright and clear. Whilst the Truro party opened the scoring with two Minor at Constantine the Penzance contingent rang Doubles at Mawgan. On to St. Anthony, where the bands joined and the Truro ringers experienced their first disappointment—Lesley Evans was unable to attend. Nevertheless Bob Major was to attend. Nevertheless Bob Major was brought round.

At this point there was a divergence of opinion as to who would ring with whom (suggestive of a Urangwot!), and after much discussion the bands split up in such a manner that only Doubles could be New variations were rung at Landewednack and Mullion, while more conventional ringing was executed at conventional ringing was Manaccan and Cury. Both bands then descended on St. Keverne and a very Both bands then good quarter resulted. of Grandsire Triples

After tea consternation set in when it was discovered that one ringer was makto be going to Wendron. Thus began a car chase with a Morris 1000 pursuing a Mark 9 Jaguar. The wayward ringer retrieved, 11 extents of Mr. Smith's new variations (thus terminating the present series) were rung at Wendron, whilst back at Helston Grandsire Triples was successful. The bands rejoined at Crowan for Grandsire Triples, but hopes of 100 per cent. success were dashed when a weary conductor "corrected" the wrong bell. Nevertheless it was agreed that 10 out of 11 was quite an achievement and a future attempt should be made with another

DISTRICT OUTING ARRANGED

Over 50 members with several visitors were present at the Farnham District meeting at Farnborough on April 18. A sizable congregation attended the Guild service, conducted by the local curate, the rector being indisposed.

After tea in the church hall a constructive business meeting was held, under Mr. Tom

New members elected were Mr. David Fox (Aldershot) and nine from Frensham (an indication that the Farnham-Frensham-Grayshott combined practices are going well). They are the Misses C. Pither and H. Walker (juniors) and Mesdames P. Darch, S. Haytree, P. Wadmore and R. Durnford, Miss K. Parry-Evans, Mr. S. C. Swann and Mr. R. Durnford.

It was suggested that the date of the advanced practice at Yorktown should be changed because of the Central Council meeting at Ilkley, and the practice meeting at Bentley because of the Croydon festival.

The secretary confirmed that all the towers suggested for the district outing to the Swindon area were available.

Mr. Tom Page proposed that the executive and dinner committees be asked to revert to holding the annual dinner on a Saturday, which was carried.

The ladies of Farnborough were thanked for preparing the tea, and the organist, the curate and the rector were also thanked.

Ringing on the pleasant light eight continued until 9 p.m. M. A. R.

Suffolk Guild.

RINGING MASTER APPOINTED

Although the spring quarterly meeting of the North-West District at Lakenheath was held on the same day as the Cup Final the attendance was good. Ringing halted during the afternoon because of an organisation meeting adjacent to the church, but resumed before the service, which was conducted by the vicar.

Mrs. E. Peachey and her helpers provided an adequate tea and they were thanked accordingly.

New members from Horringer and Woolpit were elected, and the chairman, Mr. A. Peachey, reported on the transferring of Drinkstone, Rattlesden, Walsham-le-Willows and Woolpit from the Central District to the N.W. Disappointment was shown at the absence of the ringing master and it was proposed that a deputy be appointed and Mr. M. J. Rose was elected to this office. A letter of appreciation was read by the chairman from Mr. L. Mills, of Bures, referring to his recent appointment as a vice-president of the guild. The meeting was reminded of the forthcoming striking competition, conductors' course and peal week. Practice meetings were arranged at Walsham le-Willows for May and at Rattlesden for June. Since the meeting, due to school activities at Rougham, the July quarterly meeting has been provisionally altered to Woolpit.

Belfry Gossip

A claim is submitted by Kevin M. Price for conducting the first peal on the bells of St. Oswald, Askrigg, North Yorks.

Twelve-years-old Paul Jopp has conducted his first peal at Earls Croome, Worcs-

Cambridge Minor!

Birmingham ringers rang two peals of Surprise Royal in Derbyshire on April 1—at Chesterfield and Duffield, with Clifford A. Barron as conductor.

Back in business is A. Patrick Cannon, of Dorking, who has been "taking it easy" for several months from peal ringing. He has rung his first peal since January 3!

Another record on handbells was achieved at Watford on April 21 when John R. Mayne conducted the first peal of Spliced Surprise Maximus in 16 methods!

First peal congratulations to Charles A. Milward, Roland C. Peck, Elizabeth A. Hibbert, Ruth Ball, Paul Maddock, Ernest E. A. Brock.

Personal Records: Roger Hunt (25 peals), Norman J. Goodman (200 Maximus), Stanley Ruddleston (150), Treyor Bailey (250), S. Barnaby Bell (25), Ralph Godsall (25). We learn that Mr. Edgar C. Shepherd,

We learn that Mr. Edgar C. Shepherd, of Warminster, is still not 100 per cent, his shoulder and chest not being satisfactory. A forthcoming holiday in Devon, it is hoped, will help to complete his recovery.

Paul Boucher has passed Part 1 solicitors qualifying examination and received the congratulations of the rest of the team who rang with him in a peal of Bob Major at Bowdon, Cheshire.

1,000th ANNIVERSARY

The splendid Saxon tower of Earls Barton Church, Northampton, must be one of the best known, architecturally, in the country, and this year it is the centre of much activity, for it has reached its 1,000th anniversary—its millennium. And it is gratifying to find that, despite its great age, the tower is as good as new. To mark the occasion, a village festival began on April 12 and will continue until All Saints-tide. Almost every activity will be covered by the festival, and details of these can be obtained from the Festival Office. A peal of Earls Barton Surprise was rung to mark the opening of the festival.

WEDDING INTERVENED

From Derek Jackson, of Totton, Southampton:—

"On March 14 our band met at Stockbridge to attempt a peal of 50 Doubles methods. Alas! a wedding was due in the Baptist Chapel, and inter-denominational relationships being strong in Stockbridge the tower captain asked us to ring the bride into chapel and then wait for the service to finish. This took longer than anticipated and thus only a half peal could be attempted while the reception took place in the hall adjoining. This was to have been the first peal for the tower captain, who covered on the tenor."

Mr. Trevor Jones, of Kington, Hereford, writes appreciatively of the ringers who scored a peal of Grandsire Triples at Eardisland on March 12 for his 70th birthday and trusts they all will have the same honour for each of their 70th birthdays.

Without foreknowledge of the peal, L. Susan Green, of St. David's Cathedral resident band, rang her first of Plain Bob Major on the Cathedral bells on April 25. She has only been ringing 18 months and rang most commendably, with hardly a trip, writes the conductor, Peter J. Cranfield.

Their silver wedding was the occasion of a first peal for Mr. and Mrs. J. Greenwood, of Shelley, West Yorks, on April 25. Two other Greenwoods—Miss Susan and Dennis (Halifax Guild secretary)—also scored first peals; truly a great day for the family!

A welcome visitor to our office this week was Mr. Percy Venn (of Hayes) and he proudly displayed a cheque for £50 which he had received from the Middlesex Association towards the Hayes Bell Fund. He and his new band are very grateful for this practical help.

*Mr. Albert Hodges, of Twyford, Bucks, took part in a quarter at Steeple Claydon, Bucks, on April 17 to mark his 79th birthday. A loyal service ringer, Mr. Hodges has a record of having worked for 66 years for the London Brick Company.

Egham Parish Church's 150th anniversary was celebrated with a peal of London Surprise Major by the local band on April 16. An augmentation to ten, which will be the first in the Chertsey District, is their ambition. Donations to Mr. J. Knowles, 46 Simon's Walk, Englefield Green, Surrey.

Congratulations to former Ashford, Kent, District secretary, Mr. C. T. Hillis, on ringing his 250th peal at Cheriton (on April 25), where he circled the tower. All these peals have been for the K.C.A. and mostly in East Kent. He would be interested to hear of others who have rung more than 250 peals for one Guild or Association.

A donkey jacket belonging to one of the organisers of an outing recently was left in one of the towers and caused considerable consternation to the party. It had the "day's takings" in a pocket and the possibility of no money to pay for the meals looked imminent! However, someone arrived with the key and the donkey recovered his jacket.

Ringers of St. Mary-le-Wigford, Lincoln, offered their congratulations to Rosemary Ann Whitney, former choir member, following her marriage to Mr. Peter Hulse, by ringing a quarter. Two of the ringers—Susan Faull and Vivienne West—were members of Rosemary's recorder class at Christ's Hospital Girls' High School, Lincoln. Ringing the tenor, Vivienne gained the distinction of being the first girl to circle the tower to quarter peals.

Home again is Mr. R. Kingsley Mason after his accident, but out of all ringing for some time as he has lost the use of his left hand and arm (not permanently, fortunately). Mr. William Johnson, of Leire, Leics, was admitted to the same ward a few days later suffering from two broken arms. Both invalids appreciate the visitors and messages sent to them.

Obituary

FREDERICK J. REEVES

With regret we heard of the sudden death at the age of 62 of Mr. F. J. Reeves on April 22. "Freddie," as he was affectionately known, had been the captain at Queen Camel, Som., for upwards of 40 years and had welcomed hundreds of visiting ringers on outings to this area. A ring on the "heaviest six" has always been popular. In addition to ringing he was chorister and a member of the P.C.C.

One of his greatest joys was to have a good rise and fall, in addition to good striking, and with his expert lead seldom was he disappointed. In freemasonry he was a Past Master; also a member of Yeovil Bowling Club, a member of Yeovil Constitutional Club and was a successful grower and exhibitor of chrysanthemums.

He leaves a wife and three sons, one (Richard) being in Australia, but Stewart and Paul are keen ringers at Queen Camel. The funeral on April 25 was conducted by the vicar (Rev. R. Bowman), who paid tribute to Freddie's sterling qualities.

The bells were rung half-muffled before and after the service and their grandeur added solemnity to a very sad occasion and turned the thoughts, particularly of those who rang with him, to one who had given so many years of dedicated service to the church

Many organisations were represented to pay final respects to "one of Nature's gentlemen." Interment followed in the shadow of the church he served so well. "Well done, thou good and faithful ser-T. J. S.

FRED C. MAYNARD

With the death of Mr. Fred C. Maynard on April 9, at the age of 83, Walthamstow St. Mary's has come to the end of a long line of Maynards who have served as bellringers at this church for a period of about 150 years. During the early part of the century no less than five of the family were members of the local band. First there were the brothers Thomas and Robert J., both of whom worked hard to have the ring of eight augmented to ten, celebrating Queen Victoria's diamond jubilee (1897). In those days the band included such men as Harvey Reeves (founder of Bell News), Alfred Estall, W. B. Manning and F. Rumens (secretary). All were prominent men and the ten bells were rung regularly for Sun-day services and after Evensong. The famous Pye brothers were also regular

Robert, mentioned above, had three sons Robert W. T. (referred to in the 25 Years Ago column in April 17 issue), Henry J. and Fred C. R. W. T. was a very capable ringer and conductor whilst H. J. moved away from the district, which left Fred the sole representative of the family. He became the master of the band, which position he held for many years until his chest troubles became so acute that he was compelled to relinquish the office as he could no longer take part in ringing, but his interest continued. He was not a great peal ringer, his score being about 125/150, mostly on the ten bells of St. Mary's. He was in the first (probably only) peal of three Caters methods which was conducted by the late C. T. Coles, who had joined the band in 1909 and became the regular con-

Fred has left two sons and several grandchildren and will be greatly missed by the Walthamstow ringers.

GEORGE KENWARD

The ringers of North Kent have lost an old and respected friend in the passing of George Kenward on April 21 at the Medway General Hospital, Gillingham. He was admitted to the hospital two days after attending the Kent A.G.M. at Folkestone, following a stroke which left him unable to speak. He had made some progress and was regaining his speech when he died in his sleep. George was 76 and had been an active ringer until his illness.

He began his ringing career in Sussex and then moved to North Kent, where he continued the art. He was a ringer at Sittingbourne for many years and helped to train many learners. He rang 429 peals, ranging from Grandsire Doubles to Surprise Major, and his last peal was at his own tower on February 14, when he rang the treble to Rutland Surprise Major. He attended meetings of the Association regularly and would not miss an outing. He was truly an example to all young ringers and he will be sadly missed. Much sympathy is extended to his widow and son, Stanley.

DONALD H. FLOWER

Frome, Somerset, tower has lost a member of long standing by the death of Mr. Donald H. Flower, who died at his home on April 8, aged 65. Don, who was born in Frome, learned to ring at the age of 9 at All Saints', Nunney, where his father was captain, and he soon became a member of Frome tower, where the Flower family have been prominent ringers for many years. After holding office as tower secretary and assistant steeplekeeper, Don succeeded to the posts of captain and steeplekeeper in 1940 on the death of Walter Bishop.

He rang his first peal in 1925 at Mells, under the guidance of the late Joe Dyke, and altogether rang about six peals for the Bath and Wells Association. His last peal was in May, 1957, at Frome, when he rang the seventh to a half-muffled peal of Grandsire Triples in memory of his father, William. In the early '60s he suffered a temporary back injury which caused him to give up peal ringing and shortly afterwards resigned the post of steeplekeeper.

In December, 1964, a peal of Erin Triples at Frome marked the completion of 50 years' loyal service to the tower by Don Flower and his two colleagues, Bill Mills and Percy Bray. Don had been ill for the last three years and unable to do much practical ringing, and he sadly relinquished the captaincy in January this year after 30 vears.

A fitter and turner by trade, he worked in Frome for most of his life. He leaves a widow and a daughter, Mrs. Hazel Williams, who also rang at Frome for some

The bells of St. John's Church were rung half-muffled for the Saturday evening practice and again before and after the funeral service on the following Tuesday. Eight of the local band attended the service, gether with Mr. D. Robertson and Mr. Fred Savage, assistant ringing master of the Frome Branch of the Bath and Wells Association. Among those who took part in the ringing was Mr. W. H. Mills (aged 88), who knew Don all his ringing life. A tribute was paid by members of the Bath and Wells Association in the form of a peal at Ditcheat on April 11.

We mourn the loss of a loyal servant of the Exercise and extend our sympathy to Mrs. Flower and her family. The association of the Flower family with the belfry of St. John's has ended after 66 years' unbroken service.

BI-ANNUAL DINNER

The annual meeting of the Gloucester and Bristol Association held at the Old Grammar School, Cirencester, attracted more than the usual number, no less than 157 being present, most staying for tea (arranged by members of the Mothers' Union) in another room at the school.

Apologies were presented on behalf of a number of members, including the new Archdeacon of Swindon, who, in his letter, said he was pleased to accept the invitation to be a vice-president. With the exception of Mrs. M. A. Wratten, peal secretary, all officers were re-elected. A ballot resulted in the appointment of R. T. Ashby as successor to Mrs. Wratten.

The chairman (Miss E. M. Bliss) specially welcomed one of the oldest members present, Frank Lewis, who was 89 on Good Friday. The report was accepted and showed much had been achieved; also an increase in membership and a sound financial state. It was decided after much discussion that in future there would only be association dinners every second year, starting in 1971.

Subscriptions are to go up in 1971 to 6s. (30 new pence for seniors 15 new pence for juniors) and 30 new pence for associate members. Affiliation fees payable by P.C.C.'s. will be reduced to £1. 124 P.C.C.'s affiliated in 1970. The record peals of Surprise Major rung at Longney (in 19$7) and of Surprise Royal rung at Christ Church. Bristol (in 1968) are to be written in the peal book and recorded in the towers.

The service was attended by about 300. including many clergy. The address was given by the Canon Missioner (Canon Eric Evans), who at very short notice deputised for the Dean of Gloucester.

Good use was made of the towers open. and sometimes queues waited to ring in the evening.

Bath and Wells Association.

A NEW VENTURE The week-end April 17, 18 and 19 saw the Ilchester Branch of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association embark on a new venture, when they organised a ringing festival to coincide with the festival of flowers, music and the arts at St. Catherine's Church, Montacute (the home tower of the branch ringing master, Mr. Gordon Rendell) and the branch hon, secretary (Mrs. M. M. Legget).

The majority of the towers in the Ilches-ter Branch were open for ringing, and, to use the words of a "local," "ringers arrived in swarms," the parties being from far and near. The ringing at Kingsdon was overshadowed by the death on the Saturday, half an hour before the ringing was due to commence, of Mr. Eddie Lucas, a Kingsdon ringer. The tower master, Mr. Charles Gratton, approached the family, who requested him to "carry on," and the last few touches were rung half-muffled.

Owing to circumstances entirely beyond the control of the branch, the towers at South Petherton, Mudford and Yeovil were not available at the advertised times, and their cancellations came too late for a notice to be inserted in the Press, and the ringing master and hon. secretary tender their sincere apologies for any inconvenience caused. They do, however, extend grateful thanks to all incumbents and tower masters concerned in making this new venture of the branch such a success.

St. Catherine's Church being featured on the front page of The Ringing World no doubt helped greatly in disposing easily of 100 copies! (Excellent!!—Editor.)

25 YEARS AGO

Taken from The Ringing World for May 4, 1945

Footnotes to peals was the subject of a letter from J. T. Dyke, of Shepton Mallet, who said there was a definite desirability for a sober type of footnote.

"It is the desire of the C. Council to limit the performance of peals of Doubles to 5bell towers by discountenancing such performances where there is a ring of six, the tenor being used as a cover."—Quoted in an article from C.C. minutes of 1892.

Mr. H. Parker, of Cheshire, wrote asking if any ringer-cyclists were interested in a week's ringing tour.

The newly-hung ring at Daybrook was to be available to members of Middlesex C. Association within a short time, it was announced.

It was decided by a large majority at the A.G.M. of the Warwickshire Guild to change the name of the Guild to the Coventry Diocesan Guild.

A peal was rung at Felkirk, Yorks, to welcome home W.O. J. Copley, R.A.F., who had been a prisoner-of-war for four vears

Mr. N. F. Moxon wrote "with dismay" about a previous article deprecating com-petitive ringing and stated it was the competitive spirit in Yorkshire that explained why Yorkshiremen always did things a little better than the rest of the country.

50 YEARS AGO

May 7, 1920

The peals analysis published for 1919 gave a total of 1,048 in all as against 277 in 1918. There were 143 Treble Bob, 232 Grandsire Triples, 151 Stedman, 77 Plain methods. Leading peal ringers were W. Pye 32, A. Pulling 28, J. E. Sykes 21. W. Pye passed Rev. F. E. Robinson's record by ringing his 1,251st peal. Lancashire Association had the greatest total 71: Kent sociation had the greatest total, 71; Kent and Norwich had 70 and 67. Handbells: Winchester (14) headed the list. First pealers numbered 362.

A peal at Leicester was rung on the 1,000th anniversary of the freeing of Leicester from the Danes by Ethelfleda, daughter of Alfred the Great.

"Get your ringing friends to support the Ringing World by taking a copy every week."—Displayed advert which we must agree with.

A handbell peal of D. Norwich at Armley was the first as conductress by Miss O. L. Lumley, the other three ringers being Malcolm Moorhouse (15), J. W. and Gerald Moorhouse.

It was proposed to split the East Berks and S. Bucks Branch of the Oxford D. Guild and the suggestion was made that as King George V then resided at Windsor he be invited to become a patron!

Ingenious date touch of P.B. Major: W. 5ths, 3rd (S) in repeated 11 times S at home, half-way and end. It has 5-6 reversed and at home at alternate course ends.

Sound, sound the clarion, fill the fife, Throughout the sensual world proclaim, One crowded hour of glorious life Is worth an age without a name.

St. Mary, Bruton, Somerset

"OVER orchards and elms and willows, wherever you are in Somerset, you can hear church bells, for few towers contain less than six of them, and this is the chief county of ringers." This is the opinion of John Betjeman, who edited the Pocket Guide to English Churches.

St. Mary's Church, like much of Bruton, is built of Doulton stone, and is on the south bank of the River Brue. It is one of the finest churches in East Somerset and possesses two towers.

History starts with the crypt below the chancel which is early 14th century, but according to tradition there were two churches here. There was the Priory of Augustine Canons, but the vicar, the Rev. John Hayward, in his booklet on the Church holds that the present church has always been the parish church.

The west tower rises to a height of 104 feet and has set back buttresses connected by a diagonal across the angle of the tower. The buttresses carry long shafts crowned with pinnacles. The second tower, which is much smaller, is over the north porch. It is regarded as late 14th century and has diagonal buttresses and battlements.

There is much to see in this church: the rich tie beam roof of the nave; the Georgian reredos, the Jacobean screen, originally in the chancel and the present screen erected as a memorial to R. T. A. Hughes, who was choirmaster for many years. The monu-ments include those of the Berkeley and Godolphin families.

Of Bruton Abbey, there remains only the great wall, which extends from the west gate of the churchyard, behind which stands the Vicarage, and on the rising ground to the south-west of the church stands the columbarium presented to the National Trust by Sir Henry Hoare, Bart., of Stourhead.

THE BELLS

A ring of six bells is rung in the West Tower with the following inscriptions: Treble: "Once I'd a note that none could heare

But Bilbie made me sweet and clear."-Mr. Austin Golesborough, Mr. Robert Griffin, Churchwarden, Thomas Bilbie fecit 1752. Second: To those that are alive

I am the first of those five cries loud.— I. E. and R. B., 1649.

Third: Pray ring the bells and praise the Lord

With tuneful notes and sweet accord.— Mr. Austin Golesborough, Mr. Robert Griffin, Churchwarden, Thomas Bilbie fecit 1752.

Fourth: Sancta Maria ora p nobis 1528. Est Stephanus pumus lapidatus gracia plenus. A shield and a dolphin beneath the letters W.G.

Fifth: Sing praises to the Lord.—I. W., 1618. Tenor: Sancta Clemens ora pro nobis (25 cwt. 3 qr. 4lbs.), recast 1848 and 1930.

RECENT RESTORATION

In recent years over £10,000 has been raised for the restoration of this church. Whilst most of this sum has been provided by residents of the parish, generous gifts have been received from the Historic Churches Preservation Trust (£1,000), the Old Boys of King's School (£600), the B.B.C. from a broadcast appeal in the Week's Good Cause (£420) and from other bodies.

Work done has included a considerable amount of renewal to external stone work, in particular the parapets and pinnacles; the treatment of the roofs against the incursion of wood-boring insects; the re-glazing of windows in the Clerestory and Chancel; redecoration of Chancel; installation of oilfired heating. With such loving care this beautiful building will be handed on from generation to generation as a House of God.

The ringers were: (Back row) E. E. Holman, F. Taylor, H. Street, H. J. Maynard, R. W. T. Maynard, C. T. Coles; (front) H. Rumens, J. H. Wilkins, R. J. Maynard and F. C. Maynard.

WIND OF CHANGE?

A COMMITTEE TO CLARIFY AND REVISE RULES

"That a sub-committee be formed by the general master to undertake a complete examination of the rules of this Association, its Belfry Repair Fund, and library. The object of this examination should be to clarify and revise the existing rules and to provide a suitable basis for the rules of the Association in the future. This sub-committee should report at the next A.G.M. and present its proposals in the form of an inset in the 1970 annual report."

This motion (item No. 13 on the agenda) was proposed by the general secretary and seconded by the newly-elected master (Mr. C. F. Mew) and received the unanimous approval of the members present at the annual meeting of the Surrey Association, held at Kingswood on May 2.

The retiring master (Mr. Frank Darby) presided at the first part of the meeting, supported by the secretary/treasurer (Mr. Colin H. Cook) and the assistant secretary (Miss Juliet S. Stoy) and Messrs. A. P. Cannon and R. Davies (vice-presidents) were also among the gathering, which numbered about 65. The Bishop of Southwark (president) sent apologies and good wishes to the meeting.

A letter received from the Gloucester and Bristol Association appealing for financial support for the rehanging of Stinchcombe bells, following the consistory court hearing, was passed over without comment, no proposal being made. The report of the committee previously circulated to members was accepted, as were the general accounts, presented by Mr. Cook. The balance in hand, it was noted, had increased from £84 9s. 9d. to £118 7s., whilst the Belfry Repair Fund had also gone up from £322 18s. 1d. to £358 1s. 2d. Grants had since been made from this fund to Benhilton (£72) and to Horley (£30).

The percentage of members' subscriptions paid over to general funds has reverted from 66½% to 50%, it being pointed out that the general accounts were now in a satisfactory state and did not need the additional support.

The librarian (Mr. D. Stone) was absent from the meeting and his report was submitted by the secretary, who appealed for ringing books on all subjects—particularly "old ones" which were now "collectors' pieces"—to be given to the Guild library. A collection at the meeting realised £3 2s. for the library funds.

New members elected were D. Stone (Egham), Mrs. C. Rowland, L. Murrells, V. Parker (Benhilton), N. Humphries (Croydon), whilst the election of N. Gower (Australia), Miss Z. McMillan, D. C. Brown and A. K. P. Poole was ratified. The chairman extended a warm welcome to the new members present, particularly Mr. Gower, who received an ovation.

NEW MASTER

Re-elected without opposition were the president, hon. secretary / treasurer, the assistant secretary and the auditor (Mr. M. V. Chilcott).

For the office of master there were two nominations, viz., Mr. K. G. Game (Reigate) and Mr. C. F. Mew (Putney) and following the ballot Mr. Mew was declared elected. Assuming the chair, Mr. Mew spoke appreciatively of the services rendered by Mr. Darby. [Applause.] Mr. Darby was elected a vice-president of the Association.

Among the announcements and other items on the agenda were the 90th anniversary dinner at Croydon on May 16, for which only nine tickets remained to be sold; the place and date of the 1971 A.G.M.

Mr. CHRISTOPHER F. MEW (the newly-elected master)

(Benhilton, May 1); an invitation for towers and members to continue support of the Belfry Repair Fund; and appreciation to Mr. and Mrs. Oatway for the gift of a bound copy of The Ringing World to the library.

PEALS AND QUARTER PEALS

For the anniversary year a peals day had been arranged on Saturday, May 30, the quarter peals day being the previous Sunday (May 24), and the secretary asked for all successful attempts to be submitted to him, with monetary contributions, so that he could forward them for collective publication in the R.W.

A motion that items for discussion under "any other business" should be submitted to the secretary 14 days before the meeting to enable such items to be considered in advance was withdrawn by the proposer (Mr. B. Hawkes) to allow the officers to study the suggestion with the sub-committee on the rules already agreed.

The Richard Stevens award—a copy of Change-ringing—which had been presented for several years (for progress by a young ringer) had ceased, because of the departure from Surrey of the donor.

Mr. Norman Summerhayes, the liaison officer to the Guildford Guild, said it was felt unnecessary for their member to attend all committee meetings of both Guilds, but

SNOW AND WINDS ON THE BROADS

Mr. Martin Wiggs, of Watford, has submitted a story of the experiences of ten ringers during a week on the Norfolk Broads starting on March 28. The party were in two boats—"Cascade," a small yacht with a "pretty useless engine" piloted by Peter Dale, and "Waterway," a cabin cruiser in the charge of Steven Chandler. Ringing started at St. Helen's, Ranworth, for Sunday morning service, where six for Sunday morning service, where six healthy beliringers were marched up the hill by Ken Darvell. Whilst setting out for South Walsham Broad to ring at St. Mary's Church came our first adventure. "Cascade" was leading and seemed to stop. "Waterway" gracefully passed her, only to be hailed by furious shouts, "We want a tow." The ensuing scene baffled description; suffice it to say that, with many members of the crews mentally and physically exhausted, both vessels ultimately reached South Walsham Broad. Despite this, a good quarter was achieved on the five at South Walsham.

At 3.15 a.m. emergency action was taken by three members to save the crafts, which had been blown across the Broad. Clad only in pyjamas and shoes, it took 40 minutes to secure in a howling gale both craft. Later that day a fine course of London was rung at St. Mary's, Wroxham. The engines of both craft refused to start, so a peal attempt at Coltishall had to be abandoned. Wroxham was left on April 1 in a blinding snowstorm. Ringing took place at Ludham in the afternoon and evening.

On Thursday the ringers had a three-mile walk to Catfield (5), where it was emphatically declared that "the tenor was tough going." That evening Ken Brown joined for a handbell peal and conducted D. K. Adkins' Plain Bob Major on "Waterway." Some good Cambridge was rung in the round tower at Acle (6) on Friday, and in the evening we were back at South Walsham Broad. All managed to get across to the Ship in the dinghies. On return the dinghies were missing, presumably lost to romantic adventurers! Saturday saw us returning home after a most enjoyable holidey.

A comprehensive vote of thanks to those who had contributed in a variety of ways to the organisation of the meeting that day was voiced by the chairman and received suitable response suitable response.

Arrangements were made for further ringing at Kingswood after the business, other towers available previously being St. Martin's, Epsom, and Banstead. Evensong was in St. Andrew's, Kingswood, conducted by the Rev. F. V. Hodge, the lesson being read by the Guild assistant secretary, Miss Juliet Stoy.

TASTY SURPRISE

Miss Barbara Minnion, of Kingswood, who organised the catering arrangements for the Surrey Association A.G.M. on May 2, gave those attending a very tasty surprise in the form of a large square fruit cake, beautifully iced and decorated with a bell and 90 candles and suitable wording for the 90th anniversary of the Association. There was a generous portion for all and certain of the company were seen to have slices wrapped up to take home! Barbara was loudly applauded when thanked for her happy thought and the practical commemorative gift of the cake.

A QUESTIONNAIRE

On April 18 the Witney and Woodstock Branch held their annual meeting at Wootton, the service being conducted by Rev. L. C. Perfect. Special prayers were said for the speedy recovery of Mr. Reg Rouse, who had been in hospital since January, as well as in thanksgiving for the safe return of the three American astronauts in Apollo 13. The tea and business meeting was held in the village hall. The secretary, in his report. spoke of the serious illness of Mr. Rouse, the branch treasurer. The financial aspects of the branch had been ably looked after by his daughter, Miss Lynne Rouse, and the secretary thanked her for her invaluable

A questionnaire had been circulated to all the towers and the findings were presented to the meeting. Of the 24 sent out 15 were returned, 11 of these from towers with bands, four of which were regularly represented at branch function. All statistics were based on the 15 questionnaires returned and some of the main points are as follows:-

(1) "What are the views of your tower regarding the Guild?" 54% gave no answer and 46% thought the Guild was necessary.

(2) "What are the views of your tower regarding the Branch?" 60% gave no answer, 13% thought the Branch lacked support and 7% were discrifted.

20% thought the Branch lacked support and 7% were dissatisfied.

"Are branch practices necessary?" 27% gave no answer, 60% said yes and 13% said no. The 60% represented nine towers and of this nine, four towers attended branch practices regularly, three attended occasionally and two never attended.

"Are the business meetings too long?" 46% gave no answer, 27% thought the meetings were not too long and 27% thought the meetings were too long. Those who thought the meetings were not too were against the practice.

"Do your ringers want to visit other towers?" 34% gave no answer, 13% said no and 53% said yes. The 53% were represented by eight towers. Of this eight, three stated that only some of the members wished to visit other towers. Of the same eight, four towers are never repre-sented at Branch ringing functions and the remaining four towers are regular supporters.

"Is your tower prepared to leave decisions to the committee?" 34% gave no answer and 66% said yes, including 13% who had

"Do you feel that co-operation with other Guild Branches is a good thing?" 34% gave no answer and 66% said yes, including 7% with reservations. The 66% agreeing with co-operation with other branches were represented by ten towers. Of the ten, four support the branch regularly and two to a limited extent.

Officers elected for 1970/71 were: chairman, Rev. P. Wilkins: vice-chairman, Mr. E. D. Patching; ringing master. Mr. N. I. Bridges; secretary, Mr. E. R. Venn; treasurer. Miss Lynne Rouse; branch representatives, Mr. E. D. Patching and Mr. A. E. Hicks.

Three new members were elected and certificates were presented to three others. Mr. Patching offered to arrange another branch dinner, and a provisional date was arranged for January, 1971. Mr. Bridges and Mr. Patching appealed for more support for branch activities and more cooperation between individual towers, and

Mr. and Mrs. Eric J. Taylor (not "Navlor," page 353) with their two sons and two daughters, whose success story was reported last week. The peal of Minor rung at Mey-sey Hampton, Glos, is recorded on p. 379.

TOBIN'S TOUR

This was the fifth time that a party of ringers, organised by Morley Tobin, had visited his native county (Cornwall) to attempt peals, renew old acquaintances and to enjoy themselves.

There were 14 in the party at a hotel at Palladras on April 2. The first peal attempt was to have been 8-spliced at St. Keverne, but due to a misunderstanding as to how long a "peal" lasted, we were only able to ring for about half an hour. Our sorrows were somewhat dispelled when we had the pleasure of seeing the local fire brigade turn out—a sight never to be forgotten. As we now had time to kill, we decided to attempt a "grab," and we are very grateful to the vicar of Landewednack for letting us ring at short notice. afternoon peal was rung at St. Anthony-in-Meneage (8-spliced), and considering the distractions that the band had, due to visitors, the peal was of quite a high standard.

Friday saw us ringing Pitman's five- and four-spliced at Phillack and St. Budock respectively. Both rings were very much enjoyed, and the second peal enabled the Fellows brothers to ring their 400th peal together. On Saturday evening we rang at Lelant and Carbis Bay. Sunday morning service ringing was at Truro Cathedral, and in the afternoon a good peal of Pudsey was rung at Carbis Bay (thanks to Canon Roberts).

Another week-end came to a close and very successful time had been had by all. The party would like to thank all ringers and incumbents for permission to ring, and in particular Morley, who made such a splendid job of the arrangements.

Miss Cross (Guild general secretary) thanked the branch for supporting the Guild. She said this would be the last time she would meet the branch officially as she was not seeking re-election. The chairman thanked Miss Cross for all the help she had given.

The next meeting of the branch will be at Eynsham in October and notice was also given of the Guild A.G.M. at Bicester in June and of the Oxford festival in October.

Bath and Wells BACKWELL WIN

The eighth annual striking competition of the Chew Deanery Branch was held at SS. Quiricus and Julietta, Tickenham, on April 18, with a total of 12 teams representing nine towers in the branch. A special welcome was extended to the home team and to St. Andrew's, Clevedon, both entering for the first time.

The judge, Mr. Cyril Wratten (Cheltenham), was in his car and the competition started at 3.30 p.m. As usual, the test piece was 120 changes of Doubles or Minor, with not more than 12 whole pulls in rounds before and after, and each team was allowed up to two minutes' practice ringing before the test piece. Churchyard critics were well in evidence, and later all ad-journed to the Toc H Hall at Nailsea for

Mr. Wratten placed Backwell top with 40 faults, Long Ashton 2nd (47), Tickenham 3rd (70). Joint 4th were Wrington B and Yatton B (79), followed by St. Andrew's, Clevedon, 6th. Joint 7th were Kingston Seymour and Wrington A, with Nailsea 9th, Winford A 10th, Winford B 11th, Yatton A 12th.

Thanks were expressed to Mr. and Mrs. Wratten, the Tickenham and Nailsea ringers for their help with the arrangements, and to the competition organiser. Nailsea bells were available for general ringing after-

Truro Guild EVENING PRACTICES

The spring festival of the Penzance Branch of the Truro Guild was held at Lelant on April 25 and was attended by some 60 ringers. The service was conducted by the vicar (Rev. P. S. Gagg) and the address given by Mr. H. Miles, captain of Lelant tower.

A most ample tea was provided by the ladies, to whom thanks were extended. The minutes and the accounts were approved. Canon A. S. Roberts; secretary and treasurer, Miss M. Christopher; auditor, Mr. V. G. Wood.

General discussion followed on method practices to be held in the evenings, details of which will be circulated. Ringing also took place at Carbis Bay and Phillack.

E. Grinstead Guild and Surrey Association TO BE AN ANNUAL EVENT

On April 11, because of a clash of dates, two societies, the East Grinstead and District Guild and the Southern District of the Surrey Association, combined for a meeting at Godstone, and, after ringing, the vicar (Rev. S. Kennedy) conducted a short ser-Tea followed in the church room, and the East Grinstead business meeting was then held.

Four new members were elected and forthcoming meetings announced-Newdigate in July and Tonbridge in August. Mr. and Mrs. G. Fry invited all to take tea with them at the latter meeting.

At the Surrey Association meeting an invitation was extended to everyone to attend the Croydon centenary; the dinner arrangements and the A.G.M. were also advertised. A meeting at Charlwood and Leigh in June was announced, and as the joint meeting had been so successful that day it was decided to make this an annual event. A collection for the belfry repair fund amounted to £2 8s. 7d.

Following the usual vote of thanks, a return to the tower—this time at Lingfield -was made. R. J. E.

Letters

DOUBLE BOOKING PEALS

Dear Sir, As I was largely responsible for the recent peal at Frome being credited to the Bath and Wells Association, may I be permitted to comment on the letter from the master of the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild (R.W., May 1). I asked our tower secretary to inform the organiser, when conveying the vicar's permission for the peal attempt, that we prefer peals to be rung for the local Association rather than for another territorial Society-there was no suggestion of favouring a non-Association peal. The band agreed to our request and we are grateful to them. That they wished also to credit the peal to the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild was their prerogative, which seems entirely unexceptionable provided any appropriate fees are paid.

Mr. Savory seems to be making heavy weather of a very small matter. The crediting of a peal to two or more Societies is not a new development, although it seldom happens in these days of the ubiquitous peal booking fee. The Central Council Peals Analysis Committee has a simple procedure, stated in The Ringing World from time to time, in such cases: the peal is credited in the analysis to the first-mentioned Society

I do not know the W. and P. rules on the matter, but I imagine that they are similar to those of the B. and W., in whose records such a peal would be recorded, no matter how many other Societies recorded it, if it met the following criteria, which apply to all peals for the Association:—

> (a) It is in accord with C.C. standards for peals.

> (b) All the ringers are paid-up members of the Association.

(c) The peal booking fee has been paid.

Reconciliation of the Central Council analysis with individual Society analyses is unlikely to be difficult for the peal secretaries concerned. If you, Mr. Editor, are worried about using valuable space for peal headings. I suggest that the extra credits should appear in the form of a footnote: "Rung also for the --- Association. imagine most peal secretaries are assiduous readers of your peal columns, and even if they missed the footnote receipt of the peal fee would draw their attention to the peal.

By coincidence, in the same issue of The Ringing World the Standing Committee re-commends that the Peals Analysis Committee be discontinued as the analysis is thought to have little value. This seems a strange suggestion at a time when there appears to be a greater interest than ever in ringing statistics—witness the annual lists of leading ringers, summaries of quarter peals and the like. The old C.C. analyses provide invaluable information on changing trends in ringing and although, regrettably, less detailed information is published nowadays, the yearly analyses provide a wealth of useful information for the present and for the future. Admittedly the preparation of the analysis must be a very tiresome chore perhaps the hardest and dullest routine of all C.C. committees—and perhaps this has influenced the Standing Committee. I trust, however, that they will reconsider this recommendation and realise the value of retaining the analysis.—Yours faithfully,

G. W. MASSEY, Tower Captain, St. John's.

HELPED THE FESTIVAL

Dear Sir,-A recent activity in the Bedford District may be of general interest to the readers of The Ringing World,

One of the proposed sites for the third London Airport is Thurleigh. The Bedfordshire Airport Resistance Association arranged flower festivals at the eight parish churches likely to be closed if Thurleigh is chosen as the site. The festival took place from April 24-26 and on April 25 a group of ringers from the Bedford District visited those churches with rings of bells and rang at Bolnhurst, Keysoe, Bletsoe and Milton Ernest

As well as beautiful flower arrangements in all the churches some arranged displays of local country crafts. We as ringers were able to give the visitors a view of the ancient craft of bellringing.—Yours faith-

KATHLEEN MARRIOTT.

District Chairman.

Bedford.

HELPFUL TRIO

Dear Sir, - We were very interested in the account of the achievements of Bob Smith and Bernard Groves in a recent R.W. Even this is not all they do for ringing, however. A year or so ago we went on an outing with the Stratton ringers and met three strangers. On hearing that we were a very struggling band the three offered to come and give us some practice and they gave up a whole evening of their holiday and drove 12 miles to ring Bob Doubles with four of us. We found that the three strangers were Bob Smith, Bernard Groves and Jack Prvor! It is rather like being coached at golf by Arnold Palmer! Since we are not rich, pretty or influential, they must have performed this kindness purely for the good of the Exercise.-Yours faithfully,

PAT HINE.

Bideford, Devon.

OLD PEAL CORRECTIONS

Dear Sir,—May I make two corrections to the peal details in my article on Mortlake Church published in The Ringing World for June 13 last year?

The first concerns the peal of Bob Major Trebles rung in 1721 and claiming to be the third time it was ever rung. The board gave the date as 1761 but the earlier date is quoted in Morris' History and Art of Change Ringing and also in Church Bells, Vol. 2. I have now had the opportunity to examine some 18th century registers at Mortlake and these show the churchwardens mentioned on the peal board as those holding office in 1761. It thus appears the board is correct and presumably a misprint occurred in the two publications. I am left wondering about the method. The year 1761 seems a late date for the third peal of Bob Triples, which is the method I have understood it to be. Is it possible for one of our peal experts to clarify the point?

Secondly, through the courtesy of a pre-vious tower captain, Mr. John Mudd, I have received some details of 19th century peals rung at Mortlake by the London County Association. These include three not previously recorded, so the total of known peals is 49 with the earliest in 1741. -Yours faithfully,

KILIFI BELLS

Dear Sir, — Mr. B. J. Couzens, among others, will be pleased to read that his efforts to train ringers have not been wasted. I quote from a letter received from Mr. and Mrs. Megson, who farm at Kitale near the Uganda border.—
"We spent Christmas at Kilifi and the church and bells are in good order. The bells were rung all over the festive season and they were rung beautifully. The pealing of the bells over the creek on a still night was a thing we will never forget.

I am sure that ringers visiting or working in Kenya or on ships calling at Mombasa will do all they can to encourage this very isolated band. Yours faithfully, PAUL KELLY.

Reepham, Norfolk.

CLARIFICATION WANTED

Dear Sir, -- A few weeks ago I thought it would inject some fresh interest into our practice nights to try and ring some combined Kent and Oxford Treble Bob. From where could I find some touches? In the Diary, of course. Take your pick—anything from 288 to 576.

But then, oh dear, at which leads do you change the method? What do the crosses mean? Although I have spent much time with pencil and paper I have been unable to make sense of the touches given.

Could one of your readers please oblige by clarifying the two touches given here?

M V W H M V W H

M V W X X X X 1 X

If someone is kind enough to explain, it may also solve my query as to why there is an "X" at every "V" lead end. Is there an "X" at every "V" lead end. Is there some special reason for this or is it just coincidence that they happen to be in the touches given?

I do appreciate that this letter should perhaps have been sent to the suppliers of the Diary, but I feel that an answer in The Ringing World would be beneficial to many ringers who, like myself, have been unable to sort it out.—Yours faithfully,

JOHN L. FINDON.

Stratford-on-Avon, Warks.

CLOSED HANDSTROKE LEADS

Dear Sir, -- I must disagree with Mr. Brotherton's comments about cartwheeling in Lancashire (R.W., page 341). He seems to take a remarkably dogmatic line in condemning this form of ringing as an heretical practice which can only serve to lower the status of the Exercise and to pervert innocent young learners. His attitude to being "obliged" to cartwheel when ringing also seems to me to be somewhat selfish. Did he expect the local band suddenly to open their handstroke leads for his benefit, so as not to offend his rhythmical and musical sensibilities? Surely, when visiting other towers, one must put up with any local customs (though I see nothing particularly offensive in cartwheeling). In any large group activity, like ringing, there are bound to be minority groups who do things in a different way to everyone else. I think it is fair to say that cartwheeling is preferred by a minority of people, but should not our attitude towards such a minority be one of tolerance, at the very least, rather than one of dogmatic rejection.—Yours faithfully,

JOHN D. SCOTT. Wollaton, Notts.

East Sheen, S.W.

CLOSED HANDSTROKES

Dear Sir,-You may be interested to have other ringers' comments on this matter. Mr. Brotherton states that apart from being hard graft there is no sense of rhythm, and any resultant music becomes meaningless to anyone who has heard close leads at handstroke badly rung. I have heard the same with open lead handstrokes and they are much worse. Perhaps we have both been unfortunate in our art.

I suggest that anyone who enjoys open lead handstrokes should stick to that manner, but many, many open lead hand-stroke ringers have enjoyed our close leads, so we must have pleased some people in the past.--Yours faithfully,
JOE BURGESS.

Friezland, Yorks.

Dear Sir, - I entirely disagree with the statement by H. Brotherton (R.W., page 341) that he was obliged to ring with closed handstroke leads. Surely no ringer is obliged to ring anywhere or anyhow against his or her wish. Even if open handstroke leads had been given, can anyone decide in a strange tower whether those leads shall be wide or tight? I would recommend to him the old saying about "When in Rome, and try to act upon it when in a strange tower.

I would also uge a trip to Devon or the West Riding of Yerkshire, and listen to near-perfect striking with closed leads, which to me is preferable to banging about with open leads.

As regards hard grat with closed leads, here I would suggest tack of experience on the part of those ringing. Finally I would even venture 's suggest that many hardened handstroke (pen lead addicts like to have an occasional sneaky ring with closed leads, sometimes intentional, sometimes not. -Yours faichfully,

FRED HODGSON.

Darlington.

THE WELSE SCENE

Dear Sir,—I would like to congratulate A. F. W. on his summary of the ringing activities in Wales during 1969, particularly for including quarter peals which reflect the strength of Sunday service ringing in any area. It is interesting to note that my Association is credited with approximately 65% of both the peals and quarters: this is in proportion to the population of the area.

However, I cannot agree some of his figures, e.g., P. A. Williams rang 34 peals for this Association during 1969 and the total rung by the Association was 71. If A. F. W. continues to keep his records, as I hope he will, I would suggest that he contacts our peal recorder, D. J. Llewellyn, or myself and we should be delighted to check his facts before publication.

One further point, A. F. W. complains that unique occasions are not marked with peals and quarters as they should be. cannot agree with this and he will note that I gave a special mention of the amount of ringing done for the Investiture in my report as published in the same issue of the R.W. Very few events of note pass without a peal or quarter being rung. Perhaps he has forgotten that a few years ago a peal was rung to celebrate Wales winning the "Triple Crown" at Cardiff Arms Park!—Yours faithfully,

M. JACK PRYOR.

Rumney, Cardiff.

A kindly act is understood in any language.

UPKEEP OF CHURCHES

Dear Sir, - I am sure the matter I am writing about has probably been mooted many times in your columns, although I have personally not seen it mentioned re-With the continual escalation in costs of every type, churches are becoming less and less able to provide the finances to keep bells, bell ropes and towers in ringing order

In relation to the cost of providing rings of bells and keeping them in good repair, I feel that we ringers pay a disproportion-ately small amount towards our "hobby" when compared with other hobbies and When one realises that it costs many thousands of pounds to install a ring and that most ringers contribute only a matter of shillings to guild or branch funds and nothing financial to most of the churches in which they ring, one wonders how churches without regular bands keep their bells in repair.

I suggest that ringers contribute towards church bell costs, not on a voluntary, hap-hazard basis but in accordance with a laid This could be based on the down scale. number of bells in the tower and the extent of the ring, i.e., peals, etc. Since a ringer will normally contribute some work in his own tower the contribution could feasibly be less. I would recommend the following scale as payments "per rope" or "per ringer."

-		Under 16 yrs.
		full-time	-
	Standard	students and	In own charge	pensioners	tower
*Peals	5s.	2s. 6d.	2s. 6d
and ‡ peals	1s. 6d.	1s.	1s.
†Tower grabs	6d.	3d.	6d.
†Practices	6d.	6d.	6d.
* Per rope.	† Per ri	nger per tov	ver.

These figures are shown in £ s. d. since I hope that something can be done before they need to be shown in £p.

I admit I am not one of the prolific peal or quarter peal ringers but I shall be only too pleased to pay for any my family or I do ring.

The suggested scale is only a "starter" to elicit other views on this subject. - Yours faithfully,

A. C. SCHOLES.

Corby, Northants.

A HISTORY OF SURPRISE MAJOR

From Mr. D. Ellisdon, of Ilford, Essex: "I enjoy reading in The Ringing World the reminiscences of the older members of the Exercise, and Mr. Wratten's series on the Minor records highlights of past glories; of friendly (and sometimes not so friendly) rivalry between the various bands. I wonder if someone would do the same for Surprise Major! In my own area, Harlow and Stanstead had very good Surprise bands in the 1920s and 1930s, and it would be very interesting to hear of the achieve-ments of these bands. The present genera-tion of ringers are able to draw their bands from a very wide area, but before the war they had to develop in their own locality. To reach such standards must have been a very great achievement."

Cambridge University Guild

The A.G.M. of the Cambridge U.G. was held on April 29 in Prof. Moule's rooms, Clare College. The officers elected for the ensuing year were: president. W. J. Ridg-man: senior treasurer, B. D. Threlfall; auditor, C. M. P. Johnson: master, D. Bar-ton: secretary, W. T. Perrins; librarian, N. J. Small; steeplekeeper, C. J. P. Price.

QUARTER PEAL RINGING IN 1969

by Alan A. J. Buswell

Minimus ringing keeps decrease down. Many ups and downs amongst the counties. These are the two facts that one first sees at looking at the final figures to the 1969 Analysis of quarter peals. Overall, the picture is not too bad, but we must watch that this is not the first year of a decline as compared with 1968, when there was an increase of 309 over 1967. This year there has been a decrease of 16.

Minimus methods have increased dramatically by 58, mainly due to the efforts of one tower, Woodborough, which rang 39 and is the leading tower for Nottinghamshire. The details of these quarters are: Plain Bob 38; other methods up to 6 methods, 36; 8 to 28 methods, 9; 51 to 63 methods, 13. The last two categories were all rung at Woodborough. It would be interesting to know how they get all these methods into a quarter.

Doubles; only a slight increase here, which was helped by an increase of 26 in quarters of 2 methods. Somerset rang 55 more this year than last making a total of Minor methods are stable this year with London and Yorkshire outstripping all other counties with 102 and 98 respectively.

Triples have dropped by 31; Grandsire by 30; but Stedman is up by 18.

Major is in the same state as for Minor with Plain Bob increasing by 30 and compensates somewhat the loss of Grandsire Triples of 30.

Quarters of Caters have dropped by 22 of which 14 of these were Stedman.

Royal is down by 5, but Plain Bob is down 13 and is compensated by an increase of 10 in other methods.

Stedman Cinques is down by 11 to 3.

Of Maximus, Melbourne, Australia, are to be congratulated on ringing one of the only two quarters of Plain Bob.

SPECIAL AND OUTSTANDING PERFORMANCES

There must be many of these but here are a few that I have noticed. At Drayton Bassett a band whose average age was 12½ rang a quarter of 3 Minimus. There was a quarter at East Huntspill, which according to "Dove," are for chiming only. Marston, a 5-bell tower, claims to have rung their 300th quarter—is this a record? Knaresborough had its first quarter for 30 years, while Shadwell was the first since before the first World War. The top 5 bells were rung without stays. East Kennett and Woolley had quarters rung on them which, according to "Dove," are unringable. 1,680 different towers had a quarter rung on them this year of which 341 appeared for the first time since 1965.

Outstanding towers seem to be fewer this year. Addington has equalled with Wood-borough with 39. Shelford with 34 and Melbourne, Australia, with 27, were good performances. There are eight other towers which have scored 20 and over. A quick analysis of Melbourne shows that they rang 2 quarters of Doubles; 2 of Minor; 9 of Triples; 6 of Major; 4 of Caters; 3 of Royal and 1 of Maximus. Orston rang a quarter of 60 Treble Bob Minor. Beddington rang Original Royal and one ringer at Aldbourne rang 6 Minimus methods "in hand." There was a total of 41 quarters "in hand" of which 11 were rung in Hampshire.

ANNIVERSARY PEAL

Mr. and Mrs. George Howe, of Maidstone, are well known to local ringers. Whenever there is a ringers' tea to be arranged Mrs. Howe is to be found busy in the kitchen. Their son, Martin, is working these days in Norwich but comes home most weekends and keeps up his good work of many years in arranging peals and all kinds of other ringing activities. A loyal churchman at St. Michael's, Maidstone, he has taught many ringers there and has rendered great assistance in many other towers in the area.

It was with real pleasure that various friends were able to ring a peal at Wrotham as a compliment to Mr. and Mrs. Howe the day before their 40th wedding anniversary

THE ANNUAL EVENT

A rather smaller party than usual met at Llandaff Cathedral for the first ring of the guild's 1970 tour, a tour which, although unspectacular in its achievements, proved as happy and interesting as any in former years. It was characterised by long journeyings, cold but sunny weatherwith the odd snow or sleet shower here and there—good food, and ringing of a reasonable standard throughout; Welsh hospitality and friendliness, as well as the secretary's efficient organisation, also contributed to the tour's success.

Starting with the only 10-bell ring was a gamble, but it came off, and the party moved on to Llantrisant (the new home of the Mint-and decimal currency). then made the 32-mile journey to Swansea to find our hotels, ominously described as being "just past the docks." We were pleasantly surprised to find the Times and Universe nicely situated and many had superb views of the coast sweeping out to Mumbles Head.

There was a hostelry nearby where separated brethren could meet under the patronage of Lord Nelson. The first day ended at St. Mary's, Swansea, a fine church bombed but rebuilt in a manner reminiscent of St. Mary's, Southampton.

FINE VIEWS ENJOYED

Tuesday began with Matins at 7 and a celebration of H.C. for Lady Day, and then a trip to St. David's, which included a detour to Llanstephan, overlooking the mouth of the Rover Towy. We were met by the vicar, requesting us not to ring because a man was dying in a house near the church. The interval gave us the oppor-tunity to explore the village, and those who climbed the heights of Llanstephan Castle were rewarded with a fine view of the hills and estuary in this beautiful corner of Wales. Often ringers are so busy climbing towers and ringing bells that they find no time to admire the country or to look around churches. We had lunch at St. David's, rang the eight in the Cathedral's gatehouse, and had a look at the Cathedral, with its massive Norman arches and richly carved oak roof. Like Llandaff, it is a gem of a cathedral, beautifully maintained and a credit to the Church in Wales. One complaint—no guide book! For the interest of visitors, the small chest in the chapel behind the high altar contains the bones of two men, discovered by Sir Walter Scott last century and scientifically examined in 1921. They could be the bones of St. David and his legendary teacher and relative, Guistilianus, or Justinianus. Certainly one of the men was very tall, with a skull of remarkable mental capacity, which description fits St. David.

ANTI-CLOCKWISE RING

We then explored some of "Little England beyond Wales," ringing at Haverfordwest (8), Pembroke (8) and St. Florence (6). At Haverfordwest there were surprises for us—tea, which the reverend incumbent and ladies of the parish laid on for us. and the bells, which we realised "halfway up" were a backward ring (by the din we were making!). The local representative had indicated for us the tenor rope, but had forborne to mention this minor detail!

At Pembroke we were met by the curate and his black labrador, which the parish had thoughtfully provided for him to comfort him in his wifeless state, and which, though he (the dog) did not actually ring was profeed to the dog of the dog. tually ring, was perfectly behaved in the belfry, calmly sitting between the ropes. Dogs in church are quite a tradition in Wales, the farmers often bringing their wheels, the farmers of the offenders. St. Florence, a very charming country church, has a ring of bells for which one of our members was responsible (Fr. R. W. Thomas), when he was incumbent. The present incumbent and his wife, who had returned from missionary work in China and Malaysia, were very appreciative of our ringing, as, rather sadly, there is no band at present to ring this fine six. Breaking with normal practice. we then had supper en route in Tenby, and ended the day at the church nearby, where there is another fine eight. One feature we particularly came to recognise about South Wales churches was the absence of buttresses-the tall towers, ornamented except by a characteristic crenellation at the top, depending entirely on thickness of walls for strength.

PEAL ATTEMPT

On Wednesday we turned east along the coast to Newton Nottage, with its strange (pre-Norman?) pulpit set in the north wall. A peal attempt here failed, the simple truth being that we were not a strong enough band. Others rang at strong enough band. Others rang at Coity (6) and Bridgend (8). The first after-noon tower (where we had our photo-graphs taken for the local paper) was at Aberavon, which produced some of the best ringing of the tour. Baglan possesses a six which would be easier to appreciate if they were less audible to the ringers. St. Thomas's, Neath, nearly caught us out with a stayless second, and the day ended with Evensong at Cadoxton (6). One incident in the vestry beforehand is perhaps worth recording. Very few of us this year wore our "dog-collars," so were almost indistinguishable from laymen. Our youngest member, Alban, aged 9, brightly remarked to the (unbeneficed) member who was to conduct the service, "Oh, so you are now going to pretend to be a vicar!" Hearing which, the local incumbent promptly shut his vestry cupboard door with a bang and presented the member with a choirman's cassock.

The annual general meeting was held in the evening at the Universe, when all the officers were re-elected, and it was decided that next year the tour would be in Lancashire. We were sorry not to have the former secretary with us, owing to an eye operation, also the member from Bredgar.

Thursday began at Llanelli (8), where 6-Spliced Surprise was rung; at Carmarthen we were confronted with a difficult ring, not made easier by a starling which flew about and refused to be caught. Llandilo, further up the Vale of Towy, is to be remembered by the enormous pendulum hanging in the middle of the belfry and the long and fruitless search for the White Hart Inn, which took us three times round the town.

ANOTHER BIRD

On to Llandovery with its miniature castle ruins, and another "bird" in the belfry, prettier than a starling, who vowed she was not Welsh but came from Gloucester. (She was not to be caught, either!) Here we had an unscheduled Evensong as the bells at Devynock were not to be rung. The road home took us over the high pass of the Black Mountain, our first glimpse

ST. PETER'S, CHELLASTON

Derbyshire now has a new ring of five bells at Chellaston near the city of Derby. It was not until the year 1705 that the first two bells were cast by George Hedderley, of Nottingham, and hung in a stone turre; on the west end of the church. Popular opinion is that it was a wooden turret, but because of the weight of the bells it is now believed that this was unlikely.

In 1840 the two bells were removed and the turret taken down, being replaced by the present tower. Only one of the original bells was retained; the fate of the other is not known. John Taylor and Co., of Loughborough, cast two new bells and they were hung for full swing ringing in a wooden frame.

During 1910 the George Hedderley beli was recast by John Taylor and Co., and when it was refitted all three bells were rehung in a modern low side iron frame at a cost of £78. At this time the clock was also overhauled. It is interesting to note that at this time a letter, signed by a Mr. Ford, of Chellaston, rejected a quotation of £14 for the provision of a fourth bell. Further attention was given to the bells in 1928, but details of the actual work are not recorded.

In 1956 a scheme was launched to provide ultimately a ring of six bells. Work commenced in 1965, when the existing treble was taken to Taylor's foundry to be retuned and all the three bells were rehung on new ball-bearings. At the same time additional framework for six bells was in-

During the 1960s a fourth bell was donated to Chellaston by St. Andrew's Church. Derby (cast at Whitechapel). The fifth bell was obtained from the prison at Northampton (originally cast by J. Warner and Co.). It is believed that this bell was probably used as the execution bell at the prison.

FRAME FOR SIX

An order was placed in August, 1969, to have these two bells melted down. Two new bells were cast in October, 1969, by John Taylor and Co. and they were collected and hung by a working party from the parish on January 17, 1970. This work has largely been due to the enthusiasm of the local ringing master, Mr. E. Willans. to whom we wish the best of success in raising the money to provide the tenor bell to complete the scheme.

The bells were dedicated by Rev. R. H. Videl-Hall on April 5 at a service partly conducted by the ringers themselves. the dedication the bells were available for general ringing. Messrs. John Taylor and Co. are to be congratulated on the bright and sparkling character of the two new trebles and the people of Chellaston on a good example of corporate endeavour. The heaviest bell weighs 4 cwt. 1 qr. 18 lb. and the bells are at present in the minor key cf D.

of the full grandeur of mountain Wales. and before we arrived at Swansea we had one more ring at Dyffryn (6). The last full day ended with an evening ring at Sketty (8), where we were met by J. Arthur Hoare, to whom we are indebted for a great deal of help planning the tour.

On Friday morning we rang at Cefn Coed (6) and finally at Merthyr Tydfil (8), in the heart of the Welsh mining country, and the end of another ringing week came which will hold some happy memories for J. B. T. H.

TAKEN AS READ?

Should the recorded minutes of an A.G.M. be read in full at the subsequent meeting or should they be "taken as read"? This was discussed at the Surrey Association A.G.M. on May 2 and various opinions expressed. The Guild's assistant secretary (Miss Julet Stoy) had spent considerable time writing the comprehensive minutes of what took place in 1969 (six foolscap pages of small, neat handwriting) and it required nearly 15 minutes to read them. But Juliet has an engaging personality as well as a pleasant and interesting voice. (We learn that the minutes on one occasion occupied 12 pages of foolscap.)

There are few attending an A.G.M. who can recall what took place 12 months before, and if the minutes are not read out who can tell if they are a true and correct record or if there are any matters arising which need discussion? On the other hand, much time can be spent and sometimes wasted on frivolous detail which has no bearing on the present activities and administration. The suggestion that the minutes be printed and circulated was turned down as too costly, although a limited number of copies could be made available for those attending the meeting.

Possibly the answer is in choice of the chair. A strong and experienced chairman can control the meeting, including "matters arising" and "any other business" (another point raised at the same meeting), but these doyens are few and far between and often know little of bellringers' problems. Neither is an elected ringing master necessarily the best chairman. The business side of an A.G.M. is most important but often becomes boring to a large percentage of those attending, who do not utter a word or even raise a hand to vote when necessary.

We do not suggest we have the answer to these questions, but more and more time is taken up at A.G.M.s with trivialities and could, we feel, be dealt with and reported on at committee level.

FOOTNOTES The Editor acknowledges letters of protest from D. Barton, R. F. Prime and J. E. Andrews regarding the decision to cease publication of "engagement" notices as footnotes to peals and quarters. He points out that this is not another "gimmick" or "policy" as is suggested but a precaution. What is not realised by these correspondents is the fact that publication of such details subsequently proved false renders the per-petrators, the journal (or newspaper) and the Editor liable to prosecution and a heavy

No reliable publication will accept notices for the "agony" columns unless signed for by a relative or responsible party connected with the family, and whilst The Ringing World has been fortunate in the past (ex-cept on periodic occasions such as now) we do not wish to become involved in any proceedings.

However, if one (or both) of the "engaged" parties takes part in the ringing we will publish the footnote providing one (or both) signs the copy supplied for publication.

Belfry Gossip

Mr. L. G. Brett rang his 600th peal for the Suffolk Guild at Grundisburgh on March 24. It was one of six-spliced.

A new Doubles record has been received: 154 methods, rung at Barrowby, Lincs, conducted by Peter Slight.

First Peal congratulations to: B. Ann Cheesewright, Malcolm Taylor (13), Philip Warrington, Winifred Pretty, Frank Sluter, Celia D'Aeth and David Bennett (first on handbells), Michael J. Peet, Yvonne Norton.

Over 100 peals have been rung on Greasley bells, including two of St. Clements ley bells, including two of St. Clements Major Triples, but now one of St. Clements Major Conducted by W. has been accomplished, conducted by L. Exton.

When ordering any of the Central Council publications (advertised on the back cover) please include 4d. postage for each copy ordered. Mr. Drew has no excess funds to cover postage costs for these publications.

Annual Reports acknowledged by the R.W. office: Truro Diocesan Guild, Surrey Association, Peterborough Diocesan Guild.

"I must say I think The Ringing World is very good nowadays and I always look forward to Thursday mornings. It is full of surprises and one never knows what to expect when one opens it!" writes M.C., of Camberley, Surrey.

Personal Records: The Taylor family (first together), Walter Rice (100 peals), Frank B. Lufkin (800), A. Patrick Cannon (925th tower for peal), S. Kathleen M. Baldwin (500), John Southey (50).

Paul Thomas, at the age of 15, is the first person in living memory who has learned to ring at St. John's, Cardiff, and to have conducted a quarter peal on the bells. He is the son of the vicar and hopes to call a peal in the near future.

The re-installing of the bells at Butleigh, Somerset, has started, and Newington-juxta-Sittingbourne will follow—both being carried out by John Taylor and Co. of Lough-

"It is surprising how long some stars take to reach their destination! The one that landed by the side of my name in the report of the peal of Cambridge Maximus at Trowbridge on Easter Monday has evidently been in orbit for 42 years and is 55 peals late in arriving." So writes Mr. F. E. (Ted) Collins.

[Amendment duly made—just a printer's error.—Ed.1

The tenor at Lambourn, Berks, is 20 cwt., and not 23 cwt. as listed in "Dove's Guide." Whitechapel Foundry weighed the bells at Lambourn when overhauling the ring in 1968-69. Mr. N. F. Cobb (Swindon) supplies this information.

The election of Miss Shelagh Plumb as master of the University of Bristol Society of Change Ringers for 1970-71 strengthens the already strong links between Llandaff and the University Society. She becomes the second master in four years to have learned to ring at Llandaff Cathedral.

It was intended that the C.U.G. peal of Stedman Cinques at Oxford on April 18 should be rung by members of Selwyn College. Unfortunately one of the band was unable to attend, so that the first one-college 12-bell peal has yet to be attempted. Nevertheless the band are grateful to Alan Winter, of Christ's College, for ringing at very short notice.

Considerable interest was taken in a 1937 Trojan car and a 1948 Daimler which had transported ringers to Kingswood, Surrey, for a meeting. Both these "veterans" were admired and their "works" displayed for the benefit of young and not-so-young enthusiasts, who eventually drove off in their Cortinas, Vivas, Alfa-Romeos and other modern productions.

R. B. Smith's peal of "Londonderry" at Ashton was the memorial peal for W. W. Wolstencroft, and is recorded in the tower, writes Mrs. Ida Hawkins (Mr. Wolstencroft's daughter) in sending for an extra copy of The Ringing World. She also enclosed a cutting from the local paper giving a report and picture of the two 1,000-

We have received a comprehensive list We have received a comprehensive list of the Manchester University Guild's first 100 peals, which were accomplished by December last. They are: Doubles 1, Minor 14, Triples 6, Major (including a 10,080) 61; and on handbells: Doubles 6, Minor 9, Major 3; 101 ringers took part, there were 21 first-pealers and four new conductors.

On April 22 Douglas R. Hutley, of Bishop's Stortford, rang his 100th quarter peal on the treble to Cambridge Minor at Standon. Doug has never aspired beyond Plain methods, but his reliability in atten-dance and his willingness to make up the band anywhere make him one of those ringers without whom the Exercise could not properly function.—R. F. P.

The two surviving Bailey brothers, Fred and Leonard, are still active in ringing circles. In honour of their birthdays (76 and 78 years) a peal of Minor was rung at Castle Bromwich on April 21, in which Fred rang the 3rd faultlessly. The Bailey brothers at one time consisted of eleven —all ringers— and their activities at Leiston, Suffolk, have been mentioned several times recently in our "50 Years Ago" columns.

From time to time we receive complaints about the late delivery of The Ringing World by newsagents. We are not able to help very much in such cases, but we do, periodically, write to the wholesalers about these delays. All Ringing World copies leave the works by 9 a.m. on Wednesdays (the postal copies the day before!). There is no doubt at all that direct postal sales are more reliable, in addition to helping to improve our own finances.

POINTS FROM PEALS

By CANON K. W. H. FELSTEAD

Fancy a record length peal not being published for more than six months and being too late for the Peals Analysis Committee's classification list! But that appears to be the fate of the 16,128 Superlative Surprise Major at the Loughborough Bell Foundry. Even though there are special requirements for such peals, one wouldn't have thought it necessary to keep them back quite as long as that. Strangely enough it could have caused some disappointment for some people. I fairly frequently am asked for the number of peals on bells with a view to some band ringing the 50th, or the 100th, 200th, etc. In this case, if I'd have been asked, I would have innocently given the wrong information about the 1,400th peal at the Foundry which has recently taken place (I had 1,399 until the above late peal was published). So here is another reason for trying to publish peals as soon as possible after they are rung.

I seem to have started this time with numbers of peals and with the Bell Foundry in particular. Actually it was the most prolific year by far in the history of the Foundry, which is saying something! No less than 96 peals were rung there in 1969 I don't know whether someone had an eve on the 100 in the year mark or not but the frequency has dropped this year so far, a mere 9 in the first two months as against 16 last year. Anyway, it won't be long before we have 1,500 peals—1971, I guess. In the last six months of 1969 we saw Erith reach the 700 mark, as claimed, but after reaching it activity seems to have declined for I have only one peal since then, and that means in the last seven months. is far short of the average recently-the last 200 peals have been rung in 14½ years, i.e., about 14 a year.

ANOTHER LATE PEAL

Another famous tower reaching a landmark is Framsden, which reached 300 peals. The year 1969 was the best for some time with ten peals. The 250 mark had been passed in 1954 so this 50 has taken quite a time to complete. A peal published six months late here also could have caused uncertainty as to which was the 300th. Grundisburgh is another tower which has reached an important milestone—the 250th. Yet again it could have been missed, for there was a peal rung here in the same group of Suffolk Guild peals published six months late, as was the Framsden one. Ringing here is very popular at present. The last 100 have come in less than ten years.

The claim for the 150th peal at St. Margaret's, Leicester, is not in accord with my records—I made it the 149th. I should be pleased to compare notes to see if I have missed one. I would also like to compare records with Daventry, for their claim for the 125th peal in the tower; I made the 129th.

I must mention the recent peal at Alburgh—the first for 17 years. By a coincidence, I think, the previous peal, in 1952, was the 100th on the bells and so it had remained. That was before I had finished the task of recording peals, so it had never been mentioned. This last peal was only the fourth since the last war. Four towers reached their century—Boyne Hill (I confirm), Galleywood, Newport Cathedral (I confirm) and All Hallows, Tottenham. The first had its best period before the 1914 war —60 peals had been rung by then, so only 40 since. Galleywood did best between the wars—48 peals. Newport had most since the last war—just about half. So these all show different periods of activity. Totten-ham's peals have come in two stages—46 before 1900 and 31 in the 1960s.

Quite a number of towers reached the 50 peal mark — Sherborne, Rickmansworth, Usk, Bishop Auckland, Eaton Socon, Cheriton (Kent), Ecclesfield, Broadclyst, Copt Oak, Dunkerton, Westbourne, St. Anne (Stamford Hill), St. John (Windsor), Runcorn, Tettenhall, Yorktown, Hook Norton, Barnby. Only Dunkerton was claimed as such.

FIRST PEALS

Next we turn to newcomers to the peal columns. I confirm first peals on the following rings: Walkley (Sheffield), North Barrow, Bishop's Nympton, Tywardreath, Ashill, Appleby, Littlebury, Albury, Great Gidding, Great Hallingbury, Flint, Longford, Lanreath, St. Veep, Talland. The peal at Llandinam also appears to have been the first on the bells although not claimed as such

Then we come to rare visitors in the peal lists. In the last six months of 1969 we saw two names which had not thus appeared since before the first war—they were Kirkby Malzeard and Watchet. The former had its only previous peal in 1909, so there was just a 60-year gap between the two peals. The latter had a peal in 1912 and there had also been two peals in each of the years 1904 and 1906 prior to that. Last seen in the 1920s are three towers. In 1925 Winsford and Kirton-in-Lindsey both had their only previous peals and in 1927 Gwennap likewise. It would seem that nearly all the rare visitors are appearing for only the second time in their histories. Apart from those already mentioned, this is so in the case of Cheddon Fitzpaine (first time, 1930), Bradford Peverell (1935), Gorran (1936), Hampreston (1937), Alderminster (1940) and Wilton (1945). Just four towers have appeared more than once before—Clifford Chambers (1931 and 1933), Astley (1927 and 1936), Bishop's Waltham (1937 and 1938, as claimed), Stoke Ash (1938 and twice in 1939).

Although not strictly complying with my "rule" of a peal silence of 25 years for mention in this article, two other towers show interesting features. The peal last July at Bradninch was only the second since the last war. Not many 8-bell towers are silent so long. Actually there have only been six peals there altogether—Grandsire Triples in 1904, 1907, 1910 and 1939, Bob Major in 1952 and now Stedman Triples in 1969. The other tower is Stoke Golding, which also has only had one previous peal since the war—Bob Minor in 1949. Here the history is most unusual with a total of 38 peals rung as follows: 1910 (1), 1911 (9), 1912 (12), 1913 (4), 1914 (2), 1921 (2), 1924 and 1925 one each, 1927 and 1928 two each, and finally the two already mentioned in 1949 and 1969. So more than half the total were rung in 1911 and 1912.

Last time I mentioned the interesting history of Bingley in Yorkshire. I am grateful to Mr. Wratten for bringing to my notice the fact that the peal I mentioned of 36 Minor methods in 1826 was, in fact, not a peal. I had obtained the information from Church Bells, Vol. 4, page 307, and apparently that journal and others have been misled about it in the past. A letter in the R.W. of April 7, 1916, says that Mr. Jasper Snowdon discovered that the "peal" was rung in three separate heats of 12 12-scores each and so was no peal. So there we are.

TELLING THE FARMING WORLD

"What would Easter morning in our village be without church bells? And if the church has 12 bells and the ringers set out to ring a Maximus they would still be pulling the ropes on Easter Sunday, A.D. 2007."

Thus wrote J. L. Jones in The Farmer's Weekly, and Mr. J. R. Kirton, of Coddington, Notts, has sent us a cutting. Mr. Jones goes on:—

"Whatever one's religious persuasion—or lack of it—the bells of Easter morning have a sound which cannot fail to be rich and meaningful. For the churchgoer, the bells are a solemn summons to one of the great Christian festivals—to hear the Good News.

"But for all, Easter bells speak in some way of rebirth, of the death of winter. Easter this year is early, and in some places there may still be frost or snow. But the daffodils are out. They always are. For Easter can never be earlier than March 22, or later than April 25. And spring is seldom earlier or later than that.

"Easter, with Christmas, is a season when bellringers seem to feel impelled to flex their campanological muscles. The rising sap seems to produce itchy fingers which demand the rough caress of the bell rope to assuage. So a piece of Bob Minor on Six, or even Bob Major on Eight, could be your lot this Easter morning.

"All over Britain, campanologists—lovely word—enjoy a sort of freemasonry of the belfry. Last summer, for example, on a walking holiday in the Brecknock Beacons, I went into a church in the remote hills and was examining the tower, when an eager voice with a pronounced Midland accent said in my ear: 'I say, are you a ringer?' He and two companions were taking their holiday in a progression to some of the best known peals, a sort of church crawl, to borrow another sort of celebratory usage. He was a true virtuoso and knew literally every peal of consequence to be found in British churches and the details of their bells."

He then proceeds to give details of the number of changes obtainable on various numbers of bells and how ringers are taught changes. The peal tablets and how bells are tuned are also explained, and Mr. Jones gives his personal observations:—

"Living at the present time in the West Country, one is always awed by the magnificence of so many of the Somerset village churches whose bells pulled by strong agricultural hands will summon us across the fields and hills this Easter. Many of these churches have the dignity of small rural cathedrals, a uniqueness which they owe in no small part to their magnificent towers with their soaring lines, canopied niches and richly carved finials. 'Somerset Perpendicular' is indeed a style of ecclesiastical architecture all its own. Most of the towers date from the 15th century and their glory is without doubt largely a product of the easily worked qualities of Somerset stone.

"But Easter bells bring me another and very vivid association. It is of the sound of the bells of St. David's Cathedral, which lies in a hollow where successive shrines have been burnt and rebuilt for over a thousand years. This Celtic shrine is one of the most beautiful and richest in atmosphere of all British churches, and never more so than on those Easter mornings, when as a boy I used to listen to the six bells of the Cathedral (in the key of D) throw out a summons that reached out to the Pembrokeshire sea."

GOLDEN WEDDING

Mr. George Gower, one of South Norfolk's older ringing stalwarts, and Mrs. Gower recently celebrated their golden wedding. A member of the Norwich Diocesan Association for over 60 years, George took part in 110 peals for the Association up to the time he had to give up, being unable to climb the stairs. George Gower was a regular member of the Redenhall company and a good striker.

Many of his peals were rung with E. Whiting and F. R. Borrett, great names in South Norfolk. It was always a pleasure to ring with him and he cycled many miles, this being the only means of travel in the early days. All wish George and his wife the best of health in the future.

FOR ENTHRONEMENT AND RETIREMENT

When the Rt. Rev. William Derreck Lindsay Greer, D.D., was enthroned as Lord Bishop of Manchester in 1947 the L.A.C.R. welcomed him to Manchester with a peal of Kent Treble Bob Royal on the Cathedral bells.

The Manchester, Rossendale and Rochdale Branches are within the Diocese of Manchester, and to mark the bishop's retirement members of these three branches rang a peal of Plain Bob Royal, which included three members of the Cathedral band.

As a farewell service before retirement the bishop celebrated Holy Communion in the Cathedral on St. George's Day, which was attended by representatives of every church in the diocese. ANOTHER SALE!
"I think our dog has got something against The Ringing World, for each Thursday, when the postman calls, it makes a determined effort to tear it to pieces, and last week it succeeded!

"Please, therefore, send another copy of issue No. 3078."

So wrote C. F. P., of West Kirby, Cheshire. We obliged.

25 YEARS AGO Taken from The Ringing World for May 11, 1945

The Rev. C. Elliot Wigg was re-elected president of the Oxford University Society, the ringers Messrs. Mitchison, Hitchman, in succession to Mr. J. E. Spice, who was leaving Oxford.

Mrs. Cecil W. Pipe conducted a peal of Bob Major from the 4th at Woodbridge, Suffolk, and her husband rang the 7th.

"I think the Central Council, now that it owns The Ringing World, might try to find some means of making our paper more attractive to young people," wrote Mr. A. V. Davis, of Bournemouth.

Other letters printed were from Harold Poole, of Leicester, about ringing in war time and what had been accomplished at the Cathedral, and from T. Groombridge, jun., on the subject of synthetic bells.

A quarter of Grandsire Triples at Isleworth was conducted by H. W. Rogers, and A. A. Tomblin rang his first quarter (on the tenor).

At Dorchester, Oxford, a peal of Double Norwich was rung by Miss Valhalla Hall, Miss M. D. Telford, Major J. H. R. Freeborn, William Judge, William C. Porter, Reginald W. Rex, Albert Diserens and Walter F. Judge (conductor).

There was a long article about curious towers and belfries and a column devoted to St. Botolph's, Aldersgate, whilst the leading comment was about the Central Council representation.

50 YEARS AGO May 14, 1920

A "George" peal in honour of St. George's Day was rung at Harborne, Staffs. The method was Stedman Triples, and the ringers were Mitchison, Hitchman, Hemus, Garrison, Walker, Roberts, Pigott and Douce.

At Husborne Crawley, Beds, seven Sur-

At Husborne Crawley, Beds, seven Surprise Minor methods were rung, it being Miss Evelyn Steel's 50th peal.

The Hertford College Youths, which had long been in abeyance, was re-formed, and the bands of All Saints', St. Andrew's and Bengeo united as a town band. It was originally formed in 1767.

Congratulations were extended to the band who with "enterprise and success" rang a double-handed peal of Minor in 14 720's in different methods. It was at Sible Hedingham.

The City Churches Commission were advocating the demolition of 19 City of London churches and it was suggested that the Central Council should use its influence to see that bells in these churches should be transferred to other belfries.

A letter from R. O. Street, of Liverpool, said only a small proportion of peals were worth recording.

A letter from E. H. Lewis gave an algebraic explanation of the oscillation of towers and how it is affected by the height of bells.

When Friendship. Love and Truth abound Among a band of brothers,

The cup of joy goes gaily round,
Each shares the bliss of others.
Sweet roses grace the thorny way
Among this vale of sorrow;
The flowers that shed their leaves today

Shall bloom again tomorrow. How grand in age—how fair in youth Are holy Friendship, Love and Truth.

ILKLEY PARISH CHURCH is built on the site of a Roman fort known as Alicana and it is believed that the first church was built here in the eighth century by the Anglo-Saxons. The only known remains of this era are the three Saxon crosses sited in the churchyard near the south porch.

The tower and the north wall are the only parts which remain of the church of the 15th century when rebuilding took place in 1860-61. The majority of the materials used in the reconstruction were from the original mediæval building, and consequently the tower does not appear to be 400 years older than the main building.

The earliest known bells were cast in the 17th century, when there were three:

1 IN JOCVNDITATE SONI SONABO

2 SOLI DEO GRATIA (or SOLI DEO GLORIA) 1636. 3 GLORIA IN EXCELSIS 1676.

In 1845 Taylor's of Loughborough took down the three bells and cast a new ring of six with a tenor of 11 cwt.

Twice during the period that John Snow-don was incumbent (1842-78) bellfounders were called in to carry out work in the tower—in 1873, when a new treble and tenor were added and the fourth was recast and became the fifth in an augmented ring of eight. The new tenor weighed 18 cwt.

In 1938, ringing at Ilkley had to stop because the oak frame had decayed and it was considered dangerous to ring the bells. Following an appeal for funds the bells were removed in 1939, recast and rehung in a steel frame but due to the outbreak of war the bells were not rung, as their sound would then be a warning of the invasion of the enemy.

The present bells have an E natural tenor note and weigh:

The Snowdon Family

The Rev. John Snowdon was vicar from 1842-78, and his son, Jasper Whitfield Snowdon, became a well-known authority on change ringing. He wrote many articles and books on the art before his premature death at 41 from typhoid fever. Jasper was president of the Ilkley Amateur Society of Change Ringers and the founder-president of the Yorkshire Association of Change Ringers—an office to which his brother William succeeded him in 1886 following Jasper's death.

At the west end of the north aisle, near the ringers' pew, is a memorial window to Jasper Whitfield Snowdon. This window was paid for by subscriptions from ringers all over the country and is well worth studying, as it has three panels of stained glass

The bells in the canopy are shown swinging in many positions, with clappers, ropes and wheels in correct places. Three transverse views of bells are depicted in the base, showing them "at rest," set at hand-stroke and backstroke. The dominant feature of each window is a group of angels giving praise to the Lord on many instruments. The wording on the window is from Psalm 150: "Praise God in his holiness... praise him in the sound of the trumpet . . . praise him on the strings and pipe . . praise him on the loud cymbals . . . everything that hath breath praise the Lord." Underneath is a plate of bell metal inscribed: "For the Glory of God, in memory of Jasper Whitfield Snowdon, historian and expositor of Change Ringing. Died Nov. 16th, 1885, aged 41. This window was inserted A.D. 1887 at the sole cost of the Change Ringers of this country." The window was unveiled by Canon Wigram on June 11, 1887, and cost between £75 and £80.

Recorded Peals

The earliest peal recorded is for The Ilkley Amateur Society of Change Ringers on Saturday, December 7, 1872. Six members of the above society rang in this steeple a true peal of 5040 changes in the seven following varieties: Plain Bob 1, Yorkshire Court 2, Duke of York 3, College Exercise 4, Kent 5, Violet 6, Oxford 7, in 3 hours, 1 minute, 25 seconds. The band being stationed thus:

Edward Stephenson 1
Robert Tuke 2
John Gill 3
Edward Snowdon 4
William Snowdon 5
Jasper W. Snowdon 6
Conducted by Jasper W. Snowdon.
Weight of tenor 11 cwt.

The first peal rung on the augmented eight (and the third peal for the Yorkshire Association) was one of 5024 Kent Treble Bob Major in 3 hours and eight minutes:

1 H. Hubbard, jun. (Leeds)
2 J. Lockwood (Leeds)

3 T. West (Holbeck) 4 R. Tuke (Ilkley) 5 E. Snowdon (Ilkley)

6 J. C. Gill (Ilkley)
7 T. Birch (Leeds)
8 J. W. Snowdon (Ilkley)

Composed and Conducted by J. Lockwood.

Thirty-two peals have now been rung in the tower for the Yorkshire Association. The names of Crawshaw and Featherstone have been predominant among Ilkley ringers: T. W. Crawshaw (a ringer for 47 years) and his two sons, one of whom, D. M. Crawshaw, has been ringing for over 50 years and is now our tower captain; G. Featherstone (a ringer since 1929) and David, his son, who was fourth in the list of leading peal ringers in 1969, have between them nearly 200 years' service to Ilkley tower.

RON CRABTREE.

RANG AFTER CEREMONY

Both ringers at St. Stephen's Church, Hackington, Canterbury, Mr. Keith John Triplow and Miss Diana Winch were married there on March 28

The bride, who was attended by a page boy and two bridesmaids, was attired in a magnificent heavy white satin and lace dress with a long train, and the attractive bridesmaids' dresses were made by the bride herself. Mr. David Cawley was best man. Nuptial Mass was conducted by the rector (Rev. A. E. Pearce). A reception was held at the Chaucer Hotel.

Many local ringers were present and the local band were delighted that the couple returned to the tower to ring after the ceremony. Prior to the service a quarter of 1272 Plain Bob Major was achieved on the historic light eight by the following: Miss G. Cheshire 1, P. S. Philpott 2, M. Ostler 3, L. Huckstepp 4, D. G. Mitchell 5, J. Drage 6, Dr. D. H. Niblett (cond.) 7, D. L. Cawley 8. Best wishes, Keith and Diana!

ILKLEY THE VENUE FOR 73rd ANNUAL

MAY 23-26, 1970 — HEADQUARTERS: CRAIGLANDS HOTEL

A room with a bar will be open each evening for Council members.

There will be an informal meeting at H.Q. on Sunday evening at 8 p.m. to discuss the Standing Committee's interim report on the constitution, etc.

The formal welcome to the Council by the chairman of likley U.D.C. and the president of the Yorkshire Association will be on Monday at 8.30 p.m. at H.Q.

Holy Communion service will be held in Ilkley Parish Church on Tuesday at 7.30 a.m.

The Council meeting will be in the Kings Hall and will commence at 9.45 a.m.

THE HEADQUARTERS are set in nine acres of parkland and gardens and adjoins the famous Ilkley Moor. It is a few minutes' walk to the town centre and has a large car park holding 200 cars.

All the ringing arrangements and other details connected with the meeting have been printed in the R.W. (No. 3079, May 1) and these have also been circulated to individual members of the Council.

From the general secretary of the Yorkshire Association of Change Ringers (Mr. Wilfrid F. Moreton)

We in Yorkshire are very pleased that the Council is holding its 1970 meeting in our county, and we earnestly hope that members will have a happy and profitable visit. This will be the fifth time the Association has had the privilege of welcoming the Council, for previous meetings have been at Sheffield in 1895, York in 1904. Leeds in 1938, York in 1949, and there have been more meetings in the county than in any other except London.

I imagine Ilkley will be the smallest town for a Council meeting—it has a population of under 20,000—but the local people, vicar, ringers and Council officers are large in their warmth of welcome and interest. Some information:-

There is a large, free car park in the centre of the town, one minute's walk from the Parish Church, three or four minutes from the Winter Gardens and Kings Hall.

Members travelling on M1, M18 or A1, not intending to join ringing tours, can avoid the built-up areas by taking the A659 through Collingham and Otley.

Ringing masters at the towers open can be recognised by a red label. Stewards will have yellow labels. Members of the Yorkshire Association's committee in attendance at Ilkley are, besides the president and secretary, Dr. Digby Burton, Mr. W. E. Critchley, Mr. F. A. Munday and Mr. M. J. Thurmott. The guide on the coach tour will be Mr. E.

From Mr. G. Featherstone, of Ilkley

Hudson.

We at Ilkley appreciate very much the planning and effort Mr. Ron Crabtree has put in to soundproof the bell chamber at All Saints' Church in preparation for the Central Council's visit to the town. He has spent innumerable hours of his spare time working in the tower with excellent results.

A WELCOME

From the president of the Yorkshire Association

If you motor to Yorkshire on the MI your first impressions will be of a countryside spoiled with the scars of heavy indus-But in this, the biggest county, the spoliation is but a small proportion of the whole. There is still room for two large National Parks and it is in one of these that Council members will have their H.Q. Ilkley, in lovely Wharfedale, is a first-class centre both for seeing the National Park and for gaining access to a large number of excellent rings of bells. Some rather ambitious ringing tours have been planned to enable these to be exploited.

Those who visit York Minster will see how modern technology has averted the collapse of the central tower; indeed the architect has advised that the Minster should now last for ever.

For the gourmet Ilkley has one of only nine Egon Ronay three star restaurants, and only five miles away there is the biggest fish and chip shop in the world. To walk off the effects of either there is Ilkley Moor, or for the more energetic the most beautiful riverside walk in the country-from Bolton Abbey to Grassington.

We hope that many of you will stay with us longer than the weekend because a fourday visit is certainly too short for you to see Yorkshire.

VERNON BOTTOMLEY.

ILKLEY'S BELLS

Canon K. W. H. Felstead, of Southampton, came across the following whilst in the British Museum in April.

Extracts from Bell's "Life in London"

January 18, 1846.

On Tuesday last, the inhabitants of Ilkley and the neighbourhood were enlivened by the opening of a splendid peal of 6 bells, cast by Messrs. Taylor & Son of Loughborough. There were two prizes to compete for, and £1 1s. is awarded to the company that came the greatest distance. Eight companies engaged in the honour of trying respective turns by ballot.

1st Bradford, 2nd Kildwick, 3rd Calverley, 4th Holmfirth, 5th Dewsbury, 6th Shipley sen., 7th Tong, 8th Shipley ir.

The peals specified were two trebles of 720 changes each. Tong obtained the 1st prize, 5 gns., Holmfirth the 2nd, 2 gns., and 1 gn. was awarded to Dewsbury. The ringing altogether was very good. Dewsbury and Holmfirth were the favourites and the former rang in a masterly style, but from an unfortunate jumble they lost the prize. The bells gave universal satisfaction; weight of the tenor 10 cwt. 3 grs. 18 lbs. key F sharp; total weight 41 cwts. 0 qrs. 24 lbs. Mr. Mortimer of Leeds, Mr. Benjamin Thackeray of Dewsbury and other competent judges, unanimously pronounced them the best peal of bells they had ever heard, and of the finest and most powerful tone for their weight. The hangings were also admired by all who saw them, being hung on a new principle and are the first peal that has been hung on this new plan. The inscription in Lombardic capitals on the tenor (sic)—Os meum annunciabit lauden tuam; on the second "God save the Queen and preserve our peace" and "Jesus be our speed"; on the third "Jno. Taylor & Son, founders, Loughborough"; on the fourth "Holiness unto the Lord"; on the fifth "This peal was recast A.D. 1845, from three dated 1600, 1636, 1676" and also "Jno. Snowdon M.A. vicar, Thos. Beanlands, James Critchley, Nimrod Stephenson, William Howdon, churchwardens", at the liam Howden, churchwardens"; on the tenor "This peal was recast by Jno. Taylor & Son, Loughborough, late of Oxford and St. Neot's A.D. 1845."

January 25, 1846. The ringers of Holmfirth state that although they have travelled a distance of 32 miles to the prize ringing at Ilkley, they were denied the privilege which others were allowed of the choice of their own judge, (Continued overleaf) ILKLEY'S BELLS (continued) and although all acknowledged their ringing to be superior, they only obtained the second prize. In some doggerel verses they state they are able to ring with the best six men who dare dispute their right to the first prize.

February 8, 1846.

Mr. Editor. Having seen a paragraph in your paper of Sunday week stating that the Holmfirth ringers complained strongly of unfair treatment used towards them at the recent exhibition of prize ringing at Ilkley, we beg, as two of the judges on the occasion, to offer a brief and unvarnished statement of the facts of the case: - When the letters of invitation to the competition were sent to the various companies of ringers, not a single word was said concerning judges or referees; consequently no company was expected to bring any individual with them specially to act in this capacity, nor was it the case, except in one instance, which proved to be that of the very identical company of complainers from Holmfirth, who from fear or policy, brought two. When at Ilkley, and each set were requested to name a competent person from the body of ringers who did not intend to perform. to act as judge, subject to a ballot as to which five out of the eight should act, the Holmfirth party in due course named their man. Now this individual being well known for his quarrelsome, unjudgelike propensities, was immediately objected to by every other set, save his proposers, who when they found the unpleasant predicament in which they were placed, immediately with-drew their man and replaced him by a second. This person was not objected to, and on the ballot being taken, he was one of the five judges whose decision, it was there and then determined, should be final and who unanimously issued the following statement: That the faults of the parties winning the prizes were as follows: Tong, 181; Holmfirth, 397.

Now after this statement, we trust that the public will not be misled by any childish excuses and complaints as to unfair treatment. Let the Holmfirth ringers (whom we allow to be a clever company) enter the field in future with the praiseworthy determination of doing their utmost to obtain distinction, but when honourably beaten, not to seek, at the expense of rule and honesty, to malign and defame their conquerors.

Yours obecliently,
John Robinson & Christopher Isles Members of the S. Peter's Company of Ringers, Leeds.

February 15, 1846.

We have received a long letter from Mr. George Higgins, of the Rose & Crown, Holmfirth, in which he states that the assertions of the Leeds ringers, in reference to the prize ringing at Ilkley, are not founded in truth, but we have not space to enter into Mr. H's. further refutation of them.

Be not the first by whom the new are tried, Nor yet the last to lay the old aside. Pope.

NATIONAL GUILD OF POLICE RINGERS South Eastern District

The third district A.G.M. of the Guild was held at the Metropolitan Police Club House, Bushey, Herts, on April 18. The Church of St. Mary, Hendon, with its ring of eight, was a popular meeting place for officers and ex-officers from the Home Counties and Metropolis and good use was made of the bells before members adjourned to the Bushey Club House. They were met by Asst. Dept. Comm. R. Linge and the district secretary, Peter Shonk (out of the ringing for the day owing to a slipped disc!). An excellent lunch was enjoyed by all, which well deserved the thanks extended to the catering staff.

The meeting commenced at 2 p.m., with our very able and popular ringing master (Ch. Supt. Ronald Hagley, of the Surrey Constabulary) taking the chair. He welcomed members and their guests and thanked Mr. Linge for his interest and support. He expressed satisfaction in the way the district was being run and hoped that the increase in membership and the interest shown by all would continue. District officers were re-elected unanimously, which in-cluded Mr. George Amor, of Bedford, as the committee member. Throughout the meeting most of the comments were connected with members of the Surrey force. P.C. W. Page had left the force to live in Australia, and the meeting wished him good luck "down under." Congratulations went to P.C. T. Davies and W.P.C. G. Winnett, recently married, and to the members of the Constabulary who took part in the peal for the Guild in May last year.

The next meeting was arranged for Saf-fron Walden, Essex, in July, and after the meeting closed members continued their ringing on the bells of St. John the Baptist, Aldenham; St. Mary's, Watford; St. John's, Stanmore, and St. Peter's, Bushey Heath.

The day ended in the club house with sandwiches and liquid refreshment.

Thanks are given to all the incumbents and tower secretaries for permission to ring and the arrangements throughout the day.

W.P.C. Geraldine Winnett, daughter of Canon A. R. Winnett, formerly of Grayshott, Hants, and P.C. Trevor Davies, also of Grayshott, who were married recently.

A 1970 HANDBELL HAPPENING . . .

CROWTHORNE, home of the late Canon Coleridge and in recent years a centre of handbell ringing, became suddenly in one weekend the focus of a large majority of that fraternity who sit double-handed to

So it was that on April 17-19, Friday to Sunday, a galaxy of ringers gathered in this Berkshire locality, at the home of Frank Price and other venues, for peal ringing on 10, 12 and 16 bells.

Informality, coupled with some serious and a little not-so-serious ringing, was the keynote of success, highlighted by a social evening of relaxation after peal attempts. The peals, now published, will tell their own story, but they will not show the organisation and preparation necessary to bring some 40 ringers under one roof on a unique venture probably never before possible. Identities were soon sorted, names and faces placed for many for the first time, specialists in the fields of conducting and composing, ringers mature and experienced mixing with youth and enthusiasm, all to make up a kaleidoscope of personalities present to enjoy one common factorhandbell ringing.

During Saturday evening's informalities the "Watford Band," led by John Mayne, spliced Surprise Maximus in superb style with that precise rhythm which makes it look easy and belies the complicated methods employed. Stedman Cinques a la Pete Staniforth and the Leicestershire group got quickly under way, the ringing and the music of Stedman complementing each other. Three leads of Kent Sixteen gave the eight participants their "firsts" in this very musical and difficult-to-encompass

Earlier in the day this had been rung to peal by a combined Watford, Leicester and Marple band, and this blending of ringers into unfamiliar groups was indicative of the 11 peals attempted. Ringers of any standard unaccustomed to performing without prior rehearsal do not always succeed and consequently there were a few failures (indeed, if all peals were certainties they would not be a challenge). Credit must be given to all teams for the high standard of ringing.

Add a sumptuous buffet supper, to say nothing or 'owt about the "other" refreshment available throughout the evening, and altogether a very happy and enjoyable time was had by all, thanks to our hosts, Frank and Sheila, thanks shown later by the presentation of a canteen of cutlery by all the guests in appreciation of the inspiration and fruition of this unique occasion.

As early as 9 a.m. on Sunday a party joined the locals for service ringing at Easthampstead, later at Warfield and other towers, then more handbell peals before making for home through almost all points of the compass.

When home we hope that our visitors to Berkshire will look back with pleasure in meeting other ringers, of ringing handbells in this well-organised, informal way—as will the Berkshire lot appreciate their coming.

ON UNIVERSALITY (No. 2)

Dear Sir.—About this time last year there was a deal of correspondence on the subject of Universal Compositions (Ringing World pages 122, 162, 222, 242 and 362), the last being from one, S. W. Barton, of Birming-ham, pointing out the existence of other sets of universal courses besides 3,4/4,3 (S. Humphrey) and 5,6/6,5 (E. Shuttleworth/ R. J. Parker).

The notation used here is an abbreviation of 3 in 3rds + and in 4ths - and its reversal, similarly for 5 or 6 in 5ths and 6ths. S. W. Barton's letter prompted me to get out compositions for 5,4/6,3 and 4,5/3,6 and also to discover the remaining set of courses symmetrical about 7,8, which is 2,2. I did this using singles in 3-4 and 5-6, and so although R. E. Hardy's courses are not original, his use of one type of call is.

It seems convenient at this point to set out a table of the nine basic sets of universal courses produced in this manner along with the f-groups to which they are true:-

2,2	GHJKNOPRSU	cdei
3,3/4,4	CFJLPRS	bcdf
5,5/6,6	CEGHILMNORS	bef
2,3/2,4	DFJOPRSU	abf
2,5/2,6	EGJRS	abc
3,4/4,3	BJLNOPRS	abce
5,6/6,5	BGHJLMORS	bcdf
3,6/4,5	BCDJLNPRS	d
6,3/54	BCEGJLMNRS	d

The first three sets in the above table belong to another type of UC as well: 24 courses + and — with three bells fixed; if the 15 possible trios of fixed bells are examined they will be found to belong to one of the above three or to 4, 5, 8. This new set is true to CEFJKMNOPSU b d e f and to two entirely tenors-parted groups designated X and Delta by E. Shuttleworth in his tabulation of the 360 f.c.h.'s. (I shall give these and others later.)

Beyond this, in the realms of parted tenors and long peals, among other things we find two very interesting compositions derived directly from two of the above.

If the fixed bells are symmetrically disposed in the coursing order they may themselves be permuted by suitable calls to produce 72 courses. M. J. Platt's 16128 Superlative derives from 24 courses on 4, 5, 8 fixed, by interchanging them using singles. The other set which may be similarly treated is that with 6, 7, 8 fixed, bobs interchanging these among themselves. The truth sets for these long peals are:—

For 0000XXX (0=2, 3, 4, 5, X=6, 7, 8)
CJOR bf X Gamma and Delta.
For 00XX00X (0=2, 3, 6, 7, X=4, 5, 8)
GEJS bd e X and Delta.
(Incidentally, has anyone looked at Vernon Bedford's 5376 Cambridge to see if it will go to 16128 in this way?) Shuttle

Shuttleworth's remaining		groups are:—
X 2657	43 +	276354+
6327	54	276435
6357	42	475623
		672435
346752		675324
526734
546723		374652
564732		673245
Gamma	364752+
	625743—	275643
	635724	276453
	033724	376425
		675423
		073423

Delta 546732+ and 672354only. (Any tenors-together composition runs true to these groups.)

VIRGIN TOWERS

Two more "virgin" towers were con-quered on April 18 at Askrigg and Aysgarth, North Yorkshire, both having rings of six.

Because of the mixed band from West-morland, Lancashire and Yorkshire, it was decided that one peal should be rung for the Lancashire Association and the other for the Yorkshire Association,

The bells at Askrigg are in quite good condition, but are certainly men's bells as far as the "go" is concerned, while those at Aysgarth are an easy ring, with home-made horsehair sallies.

Details of the bells are as follows:-

Askrigg.

Treble.-To the Glory of God. And in memory of Thomas and Jane Lodge. This bell was dedicated by their sons and daughters, 1897.

2nd.—In memory of George and Elizabeth Winn. This bell was erected by their son, James C. Winn, 1897.

3rd.—This peal of bells was recast in Queen Victoria's diamond jubilee year, 1897. W. E. M. Winn, Vicar. E. Chapman and G. Bell (Churchwardens).

4th.—Jesus be our speed. 1657. Recast

5th.-God save his church. 1657. Recast 1897.

Tenor.—Thomas Mallaby & Sons, Church Bell Hanger, Masham, All ye that hear my mournful sound, Repent before you lie in ground. 1657. Recast 1897.

All cast by John Warner and Sons Ltd.,

London, 1897.

Aysgarth. Rehung by Gillett and Johnston, 1913.

All: T. Mears of London, fecit 1829. Tenor.—Rev^d. John Winn, M.A., Vicar. Geo^r. P. Richardson, Francis Winnington, Rich^d Thistlethwaite, John Nicholson— Churchwardens.

The only group seen to be missing in all this is T—any offers of a composition or a proof of insufficient material? There are a number of methods with that falseness and more, too!

There is a case for a more scholarly article than this, starting with publication of Shuttleworth's grouping and proceeding via symmetries and substitution groups to a theory of F-relations and T-sets-any offers?

I may add in passing that there are universal method structures too—especially the D.N.C.B./Superlative/Bristol family, which may be bent to include such methods as those with a treble path: 1 2 3 4 3 2 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 7 6 5 6 7 8 and reverse (named "Frolic" by the late Derek Ogden)—this has the same class of falseness as Eryri and its unrung companion, Yr Wyddfa.

Furthermore, while in print may I point out (albeit belatedly) that the 5184 Yorkshire, etc., rung under or over my name should really be attributed to Edmund Shuttleworth and not to GILES B. THOMPSON.

Manchester.

cost of advertising P.S.—Since the Method Splicing Major is barely covered by its sales, I shall be pleased to give copies to people who send a 6in. x 9in. stamped (6d.) addressed envelope with a good explanation as to why they haven't bought one already or some form of peace offering (cheque, new composition, gossip, etc.).

P.P.S.—Am I right in thinking that Kevin Price and his band are the first to ring 720's and peals of original Minor? Let's see the composition(s) anyway -G. B. T.

Letters

CLOSED HANDSTROKE LEADS

Dear Sir,-I find the views expressed by Mr. Brotherton on closed handstroke leads completely unacceptable. To ring in this way is not "hard graft" if one sets one's mind to doing so without taking the line that it is incorrect. Surely it is not beyond the physical property of any experienced the physical powers of any experienced ringer to pull slightly harder at handstroke and less hard at backstroke than for openlead ringing.

As to this type of ringing being rhythmless, this is totally fallacious. It is no less rhythmical to ring Minor with 12 blows every two changes than with 13; in fact those accustomed to closed-lead ringing could argue with some justification that the "stutte" of the open lead impedes rather than aids good rhythm.

In any case it is surely gross bad manners to ring anywhere as a visitor and then write to The Ringing World complaining of local practices. I can personally assure Mr. Brotherton that to anyone with a sound ringing training interchange between closedand open-lead ringing is quite easy provided that one gives some effort and understand-ing to the type one is not used to. Not to have taken part in good closed-lead ringing is to have missed a very enjoyable ex-perience.—Yours faithfully, PHILIP ROGERS. Durham.

Dear Sir,—Replying to H. Brotherton, of Ashbourne (Ringing World, page 341), I feel sure that they were not "obliged" to ring! The sentence "This in itself I found completely unacceptable" gives the impression that the writer finds the closed handstroke an unforgivable sin.

Early in 1969 I visited Roughtown, Mossley, Lancs, and was privileged to hear the local band practise for a forthcoming competition. The handstroke was closed, and the striking was the most accurate I have heard, or am likely to hear for some time. During the general practice I was "invited" to ring with the band; sadly, my own striking was not of the same quality as theirs, the closed handstrokes causing part of the difficulty.

I would suspect that H. Brotherton, in common with myself, could not adjust his style of ringing to suit the prevailing con-ditions. The next time I go to Mossley I hope to improve upon my last performance.

In conclusion I quote the old saying "When in Rome do as the Romans do," and add: Please let the band continue to the their recruits their own way, which they presumably find more "acceptable" than our own peculiar style.—Yours faith-

DAVID REDFEARN.

Caddington, Beds.

Dear Sir,-If H. Brotherton found it so distasteful to ring closed leads, why did he try to do it? And as for it being hard graft, he is talking nonsense.

I am a closed-lead Minor ringer, but if I visit a tower where open handstroke leads are rung, I do so and do not complain. say to the teacher: Carry on teaching closed leads because I consider it the most perfect form of Minor ringing. You get perfect rhythm and glorious music!—Yours faithfully,

HARRY MANN.

Dear Sir. - I suppose one ought to be grateful that another ringer's education is a step nearer completion. A step in the right direction would be for Mr. Brotherton to learn: (a) that it does not matter whether open- or closed-leads are rung, and (b) how to strike either (or both) correctly.

It would be interesting to discover the basis for his assumption that open-lead ringing is "traditional." It would not surprise me to discover that open leads were a later innovation introduced either to pander to the fallacy that 6-5's were objectionable or to reduce what H. Brotherton calls "hard graft."

The first myth was exploded some time ago; the second, in view of modern bell-hanging, is hardly tenable. — Yours faith-

HAROLD CHANT.

Wakefield, Yorkshire.

AMENDMENTS
Dear Sir,—I wish to inform you that I have been responsible for an error in the names of seven methods in recent Spliced Doubles peals.

The error has occurred in extent No. 2 and No. 7 respectively in the peals rung at Barrowby (page 231) and Eaton (page 276). The method names that appear there should be deleted and the following inserted: Caernarvonshire, Flintshire, Merionethshire, Radnorshire, Cardiganshire, Denbighshire and Glamorgan.

I apologise to those who keep records and details of peals for any inconvenience this may have caused.—Yours faithfully,

PETER A. SLIGHT.

Grantham, Lincs.

MULTI-SPLICED MAXIMUS

Dear Sir,—It has been discovered that the compositions used in the recent peals of 60- and 75-Spliced Surprise Maximus are false. It is with regret therefore that we have to withdraw the following two peals:-

60 Spliced Surprise Maximus at St. Peter's, Nottingham, for the Lancashire Association on July 12, 1969.
75 Spliced Surprise Maximus at Manchester Town Hall for the Chester Diocesan Guild on November 8, 1969.

The errors arose due to our own negligence, and we offer our sincere apologies to the rest of the bands.—Yours faithfully, NEIL BENNETT, JOHN H. FIELDEN.

SCRAPYARD BELLS

Dear Sir,-I am obliged to Mr. Bassett for putting me right about the five bells formerly in St. Augustine's Roman Catholic Church, Tunbridge Wells. One hopes that the scrapyard bells' origin may be eventually discovered. Perhaps he would visit again and record their inscriptions for those interested.

But what did happen to the bells of the church? Did they go to the new one after the old one was demolished in the name of progress to make way for a "temple of food" (that is, if a new one was built)? Did local ringers say: "Well, they are only five, were hung 'dead,' so let 'em go," or did they, waxing valiant in fight, sorrow at their being hung "dead" once again or, worse still, their destruction? Or might they yet ring?—Yours faithfully,
DAVID L. CAWLEY.

Canterbury, Kent.

THE GENTLEMANLY PROTEST

Dear Sir,—In a long ringing life (three-quarters of a century) I have heard many protests from nearby inhabitants after a peal, but the most gentlemanly one was at Chatham, where the church is close to the barracks.

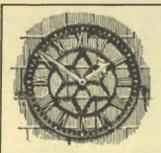

Fifty years ago, when James Bennett, of Grundisburgh, was a C.S.M. in the Royal Marines and stationed at Chatham, he arranged a peal of Double Norwich. After we had finished an N.C.O. appeared in the belfry and said: "The Captain's compliments, and will you let him know the next time you have a 'competition' so that he can make other arrangements." — Yours faithfully,

E. BARNETT.

Crayford, Kent.

"I rang my first Surprise peal in July, 1923, and over the years had taken part in 439 in 54 different methods. It was not till 1969 that I realised I needed ten to complete the alphabet. And now I have succeeded—the first Suffolk ringer to do so. To date it is 469 in 64 methods. My thanks to all who have assisted me to accomplish this."—So writes Mr. L. G. Brett, of Framsden.

The world is full of willing people—some willing to work and some willing to let them.

ILKLEY DELIBERATIONS

The meeting of the Central Council at Ilkley next weekend will have, in addition to the routine business and adoption of reports of the various committees, the interim report of the Standing Committee to receive and discuss. This will be on "the constitution and procedural working of the Council," and the text has been printed in our columns in recent weeks (May 1).

An informal meeting for expressions of views is to be held on the Sunday evening at H.Q., prior to the business meeting on the Tuesday.

Following last year's meeting at St. Albans, all ringers were invited to submit ideas for improving the workings of the Council, and these were considered at a meeting of the committee in November. There are those, of course, who having done nothing before and having read the report will be bursting with ideas of what they think should be done. To them, we suggest they refrain from criticism until the final decisions have been made and been given a chance to be proven,

Nothing is easier than to sit in judgment on the Council and its officers, and to imagine that a good time is had by all those attending the Council meeting, but the social intercourse enjoyed brings an awful lot of good feeling and understanding among ringers who in many cases do not meet more than once a year.

So let our Council meet, discuss, debate and decide what is best for the Exercise, and let us accept those decisions charitably and without malice, remembering that all the work done is voluntary and a great deal of time is given by the officers and committee members not for individual glorification but for each and every one of us.

The text under Personal in the notices page is worthy of repetition: "Pray for us; for we trust we have a good conscience, in all things willing to live honestly."

First Peal congratulations to: Michael Winterbourne, R. Paul Smith, Susan M. Greenwood, Mrs. Mary Greenwood, Greenwood, Mrs. Mary Greenwood, Stephen Littlewood, Dennis Greenwood, Joseph Greenwood, L. Sarah Green, Nicholas C. R. Cronin, Charles Brown, Robert Stansfield, Robert J. Atkinson, Brian J. Owen, Donald C. H. Owen, Kirsty R. Fisher, Robert A. Metcalfe.

Personal Records: John C. Sheppard (25 peals), Adrian F. Arscott (50), R. A. G. Inglis (250), Alan F. Scholfield (200), Donald H. Niblett (250), Suzanne Snack (50), Margaret White (25), Crawford T. Hillis (250), Melvyn J. Hiller (100), John R. Ketteringham (400) R. Ketteringham (400).

A £6 fine and an endorsement was collected by W. G. W. whilst returning home after helping, with his usual ability, at an organised course up north—and, adding to this "injury," his name was not even mentioned in the report!

For their silver wedding Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Greenwood rang their first peal (Kent T.B. Minor) and two other Greenwoods, Susan and Dennis, also rang firsts. (Well done.)

Belfry Gossip

The peal of Double Norwich at Kingsclere was the third attempt in this method on the bells. One of these was by the Double Norwich tenor king and two by members of the same band, but a really good peal was rung on bells not easy to strike.

In extending congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Shepherd, of Lyminster, Sussex, on their recent golden wedding anniversary the band thank them for their hospitality after the peal.

Though Mr. W. H. Dare, of Whitchurch, Glam, has been ringing regularly for over 50 years and has many peals to his credit, he confessed never to have rung the treble before to a peal. Indeed, he had never been seen to ring the treble! However, he has now rung one.

But such was the interest in the peal (Grandsire Doubles, at Whitchurch, Glam) on May 9, seven ringers availed themselves —two all the way from Bridgend! Messrs. Bailey and Yeomans spun a coin: Mr. Y. won (with a double-headed 10 new pence piece?). However, Mr. W. Harford (tower captain) gallantly stood down.

Richard E. Price, the well-known ringer of Thrybergh, Rotherham, conducted a peal of Whitbourne S. Major at Cleckheaton, Yorks, on March 29, and it was his 50th Surprise Major method to peal and not his 50th Surprise peal. (Our error.-Ed.)

We have received a long report of the 5th rally of the Handbell Ringers of Great Britain, held at Leicester on May 2. We hope to print some part of it as space becomes available.

The tenor clapper snapped at Twertonon-Avon, Bath, on May 2 and a peal of Superlative was lost nine leads from the end! Five of the band, however, took part in successful seven Surprise Minor methods at Lyncombe in the afternoon, where the last peal was rung in 1953.

The composition of 5120 Cambridge S. Major on page 324 was by Harry Poyner and he gave it as "No. 3." It became separated from his others, hence the loss of composer's name. And in the same column the P. Bob Royal by Frank Price: the course end 26345 is brought up by IN and 2H (not 7H).

In 1896 the village of Trent was transferred from Somerset to Dorset, but it still remains in the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association. We have had three letters telling us that the peal recorded on p. 336 was incorrectly headed. The sender of the peal (a resident of Somerset) evidently objects to the transfer of this village, for he clearly wrote Trent, Somerset (and we didn't know!).

We do not usually have copy duplicated, but this has happened on two occasions with Suffolk Guild peals. With an average of 80 peals coming in each week now we are unable to check for duplication and ask our correspondents to ensure that only one copy is sent (except when peal cards are required).

Mrs. John Eisel was her husband's assistant at the Hereford Easter course and not one of the students, although we have no doubt, like all who attended, she learnt something.

The Editor acknowledges receipt of the annual report from the Yorkshire Associa-

Non-delivery of his Ringing World in March brought a complaint from Mr. C. A. Bassett, and the missing copy was re-placed from our "overs." Now we acknowledge from Mr. Bassett the cost of the extra copy; he has just received the original R.W.—delivered to the house next door, which has been empty for some months! [Thanks for your honesty, C. A. B.—Ed.]

"I would like to take this opportunity to thank you for sending my copies of Ringing World to my home address during the university vacations. I know that this must add to your 'problems,' of which you must have many. I am greatly indebted to vou."-W. M. T.

The hard work which Geoff Dodd, of Highclere, puts in teaching and helping young ringers and conductors through their first peal has prevented his being able to do much in the way of Spliced Surprise. His only experience until recently has been Spliced Cambridge and P. Bob, but now he has conducted 10-Spliced and is grateful to Michael Church and his band for their encouragement.

One of the ringers, Reg Rex. said afterwards he (Mr. Rex) was born 20 years too soon to learn a lot of new methods but that Geoff is taking the opportunity to do what "living in the wilds of N. Hants" has prevented him from doing in the past.

Reading old copies of the R.W. found to be a most interesting and absorbing pastime by one of our regular correspondents. He picks out the arguments that went on about London Minor extensions to Maximus, the average time taken for a peal (tenor 12 cwt.—3 hrs. 10 mins.), the amount of space taken up by peal footnotes giving places from which the ringers had travelled, and the fact that 1,885 peals were recorded in 1923, of which 157 were handbell peals.

In a quarter at Orsett, Essex, the ringer of the 3rd had a large bandage round his thumb. He had chopped the top of it off the previous day, but did not let the side down for he rang, we learn, extremely well.

Mr. T. Ogden, of Oldham, Lancs, has received a letter from Miss Lesley Wilson, late of Stalybridge and now in New York, who writes: "I get an awful longing to hold a bell rope sometimes; I would appreciate just a plain course of Grandsire Triples."

"We must be getting middle-aged: we prefer the comparative peace of the country to the big smoke," writes Monica Martin, from Bendigo, Australia. She sends a quarter, rung at St. Paul's Church, and lots of interesting items. A letter by surface mail took ten weeks to arrive and is the answer to why the R.W. is sent by air mail! She has promised to send a (black and white) photo for reproduction, although one of John (her husband) in an orange beach hat and red shirt is much more "with it."

The girls of Hitchin Grammar School gave a performance of "Noye's Fludde" on two evenings in March and the handbells of the parish church (Aldeburgh) were loaned for the occasion (those which Benjamin Britten used in his original performance). The following pupils rang the hand-bells: Jackie Saker, Julia Nelson, Rosemary Roden, Mary Arthur, Lynn Harrold, Jackie Paddon.

Obituary

THE REV. B. L. GANDON

The Rev. Brian Lees Gandon, vicar of Wheatley, Oxford, died on April 11 after a long illness. When he came to Wheatley he was instrumental in gathering a new band together to ring the recently rehung six bells, and on Advent Sunday, 1967, the first service ringing took place. Since that date the bells have been rung regularly for service and practice by a young and enthusiastic band.

In addition to parochial work, Mr. Gandon had been closely associated with the work of the Y.M.C.A. and the Leprosy Mission; he also founded the Ministry of Christian Information, postal Christian Teaching, advertisements for which can be seen every week in the national daily newspapers.

A half-muffled peal was rung to his memory on May 2, and the band included four of the regular service ringers.

THE REV. W. A. PEEL

William Albert Peel, priest, died at Yockleton, near Shrewsbury, on April 21. He had been rector of Tortworth, Glos, for 34 years, was a practising bellringer and a member of the Gloucester and Bristol Association, being chairman of the Wottonunder-Edge Branch from 1950-1962, and a vice-president of the association from 1960.

In 1965 he took a living at Adbaston in Staffordshire, from which he had only recently retired.

He always looked forward to the meetings of his branch, especially those held at Berkeley, where he used to ring a course of Bob Royal, and he did much to make the branch meetings happy events.

The funeral was at Llanilar, near Aberystwyth, on April 27, and a memorial service was held at Tortworth at the same hour for the many who held him in high regard but could not travel to Wales for the funeral.

He leaves a widow, one daughter and three sons, to whom we extend our sympathy in their loss. C.R.

MICHAEL'S 500

Michael Moreton (38) returned to his home town, Hereford, to ring his 500th peal (at the Cathedral), where he learned much of his early ringing, and, like his first peal, was conducted by his elder brother, Wilfrid, with whom he has rung over 200 peals. We think his list is unique. He was one of the band which for the first time rang five peals in a day; he rang in the first of Scientific Triples, the first of Little Surprise, and (in his younger days!) rang in the first (and last?) controversial peals of Erin Doubles and Saturn Treble Bob Doubles. He initiated New Beat Bob Minimus and Time Doubles.

Michael belongs to 36 Guilds and has rung peals in 50 counties, in 284 towers. These include 48 twelves, 30 cathedrals and abbeys, some of which he feels were a great privilege: Worcester, Canterbury, Winchester, Liverpool, Exeter, the Imperial Institute, Redcliffe, the Churchill peal at St. Paul's Cathedral and Westminster Abbey.

He has rung in the first peal on the bells at: Eardisland (new 8), St. Columb Minor, Bromyard (new 8), Wexford, Quainton, Cripplegate (new 12), Bow (new 12) and Burwell, and the first "Michael" peal. He has conducted 27 peals, and thanks the 627 ringers who have taken part and helped him ring his 500!

Manchester Cathedral

LAKE DISTRICT VISITED

The Manchester Cathedral and Birch-in-Rusholme annual ringers' outing was arranged this year for May 2, and 52 people set out for the Lake District at an early hour. Once again the weather smiled on us and despite some rather dark clouds it did not rain.

Four towers had been "booked", the first of these containing the lovely light eight at Hawkshead (7 cwt.) and the best ringing of the day was enjoyed here. The next stop was Ambleside where, after a frenzied search for the key (watched closely by a constable and his incredibly fierce-looking labrador police dog!), we sampled the sonorous eight (32 cwt.). A hint of things to come was provided when the tenor went up the wrong way. Not many of the party were able to master this heavy ring but a good course of Ashbourne College Bob Major (learnt on the coach!) was rung.

We travelled on to Bowness-on-Winder-mere to St. Martin's Church, and on the mediocre eight (13 cwt.) some fair ringing was achieved before taking tea at Kendal.

We then rang on the fine ten (23 cwt.) at Holy Trinity and the highlight of the ringing here was a course of Duffield Royal.

The homeward trip was punctuated by the essential refreshment stop, followed by some rousing singing from the Manchester-Whitefield "male voice choir." Our thanks to Alan Ward and Betty Ormrod for yet another well-planned outing and to all incumbents and tower captains for the use of their bells.

A NEW CHURCH

On Ascension Day (May 7) the new Church of the Ascension, Hulme, Manchester, is to be consecrated.
parish takes in a number of The new of smaller parishes, including that of St. Philip's, and St. Philip's Church is to be demolished. It is hoped that the tower and bells (a ring of eight) will be preserved. This will be possible if the necessary money is found to buttress the tower. The bells themselves are in a poor state, the fourth being unringable. It is not one of Manchester's favourite rings and a quarter rung on May 3 was the first for many years (and certainly the last on the bells of St. Philip's as such). P. B.

THE LATE G. KENWARD'S PEALS

George was taught to ring as a lad at Iden in Sussex and together with four other "first pealers" rang his first peal, Plain Bob Minor, at that tower on February 25, 1911. He progressed to 8-bell ringing and rang his first of Triples the following year at Rye, Sussex, and his first Major at Biddenden, Kent, in 1921. His 25th peal came in 1923, his 50th only 3½ years later and his 100th (3 Minor at Harrietsham, Kent) on August 24, 1935, nearly 25 years after his first. He completed his second hundred after a further 15 years in 1950. George really got into his stride after that, ringing 40 peals during 1951 and appearing in the leading peal ringers list several times over the next few years. His 400th peal was rung on January 29, 1958, at Sittingbourne. Illness in the early '60s prevented him from ring-ing for a while but he still continued to ring the odd peal now and again and 1969 him ringing five peals, including his 425th. His last peal was to be Rutland Surprise at his own tower, Sittingbourne, conducted by Bernard Groves. He could last the three hours as easily as anyone and still strike his bell well. His 429 peals were rung in 96 towers, 44 of them at Tunstall and 35 at Sittingbourne, and he circled the tower at least once at these two towers in addition to Gillingham, Borden and Milton Regis. He rang 113 peals with Cyril S. Jarrett and 104 with George A. Naylor, and the number of first pealers he rang with is noteworthy, including Walter Dobbie in 1932 and Harry Parkes in 1921. A list of his peals is as follows:-

ENTHUSIASM

A quarter at Bunney, Notts, was the first ever by a local band. The present band, under Albert Simpson, have been ringing for nine months and are now looking up Cambridge! There are a dozen ringers and in what was a silent tower the bells are rung twice every Sunday. Ten are at school and the average age is about 15. They have also formed an enthusiastic band of handbell ringers and practise practically every lunch hour.

In addition all of them are in the choir and one (Nick Sharpe) acts as choirmaster and organist for morning services. The ringers also help the church in the churchyard, which they have tidied.

On the ringing side, the band are now looking ahead to their first peal!

NEWSPAPER CUTTINGS

Following our request for any items of news suitable for the readers of the R.W. we have had a number contributed. Among them are two from an Australian paper. The Adelaide Advertizer gives good coverage to Mr. Paul Taylor's visit to examine the Town Hall bells and also the possibility of a ring at St. Cuthbert's Church, Prospect. An illustration shows Mr. R. S. Jolly, "a medical student," standing beside a bell, and adds that Mr. H. Bagot helped with an inspection of the bells.

Another cutting sent to us is also well illustrated, showing Mr. Charles Hullyer assembling one of the 2,400 miniature replica Liberty Bells which the Whitechapel Foundry are producing for the American market in 1976. It mentions the 400th anniversary of the Foundry and details the history and work carried out at Whitechapel and the variety of jobs and orders in hand.

£1,600 APPEAL

From The Brentford and Chiswick Times, of April 23, there is a cutting about the 15th century tower of St. Nicolas Church, Chiswick, being in danger of structural damage. The vicar has appealed for £1,600 to rehang the bells and give adequate soundproofing.

The Bucks Herald, reporting on a meeting at Little Missenden, states that bellringing is attracting interest, for membership of the Chiltern Branch of the Oxford Guild has increased and it has a larger bank balance accordingly. The secretary (Mr. A. White, of Aston Clinton) and Mr. J. Shadbank (chairman) were re-elected and Mr. L. Floyd (Edlesborough) and C. Younger (Cheddington) were appointed joint ringing masters.

JUSTICE DELAYED

The Bedfordshire Times had a treble column spread about the carillon in St. Paul's Church which went "wonky" and went on ... and on ... and on. They held up proceedings of Bedfordshire Assizes—but all this happened in the past and was quoted by the chief Parliamentary reporter of The Times at a recent luncheon. Mr. Justice Cassels (now 93) was the judge at the time of the "wonky" occurrence. He had just jailed a man for 18 months, and the tune came into the Shire Hall loud and clear—"Should auld acquaintance be forgot... It was 3 o'clock. (The carillon played at 9 a.m., 12 noon, 3 p.m., 6 p.m. and 9 p.m. The tune changed every week.)

At the end of the verse the tune faltered, faded away. But within seconds a new tune began—"Through the night of doubt and sorrow, onward goes the pilgrim band . . But at the end of the verse it did not stop it went on, and on, and on.

Eventually the judge folded his hands across his gown and stared up at the ceiling. "This may be delightful in the peace of a summer evening, but it does not help the business of the court," he said. "Cannot something be done to stop this tintinna-bulation?" And although the tune went on the police took prompt action. A police car was rushed to the home of the verger who was taken to the church, where in the belfry he disconnected the carillon chimes.

"Peace at last," said the judge when the music ceased. But in the long period of waiting he had a discussion with counsel about the mechanisms of the carillons of Bruges.

The more unsavoury a scandal the sweeter it is on the tongue. (Ernest Raymond.)

"SUSSEX BELLS AND BELFRIES"

At the A.G.M. of the Sussex County Association, held at Brighton on May 9. Mr. G. P. Elphick introduced his new book "Sussex Bells and Belfries," shortly to be published, and said he had been compiling the material for the book for 37 years. It contained 170,000 words, 460 pages (418 text), 85 plates and 42 line drawings. In 1864 Sussex was the first county to have a book published about its bells. He had hoped to have his book ready for the centenary of the original book but it had not been possible. Whereas most books on county bells are merely a collection of inscriptions and data of the bells themselves, this one covers the towers, frames and fittings, including an entirely new study for telling the age of bell frames from the ingraining of the timbers. He mentioned that in Sussex there is a bell c. 1200 still hung in its original fittings, and a three-quarter wheel of a type of which he had been unable to find another example anywhere in

The rag week tour and A.G.M. was held on April 25 in Monmouthshire. Most members spent the night on the floor of St. Julian's Church Hall, Newport, before the Saturday tour. Towers visited were Usk, Magor, Nash, Caerleon, St. Woolos, Peterstone Wentloog, Marshfield and Newport All Saints All Saints.

The ringing and methods varied. meeting was held in Marshfield Church, the vice-chairman (Rev. I. Richards) presiding. Membership of the Central Council was discussed and the question of Stinchcombe bells was raised. Miss Susan E. Davis was elected master and Roy Falder secretary. Miss Margaret Twigg and Joe Morgan were thanked for their work during the past year. Miss Fiona Walters was elected a new member and secretary of the college.

The autumn meeting was fixed for October at Bangor and the summer tour in August to Norfolk and Suffolk. After the meeting an Eastern meal was taken in a V. A. Chinese restaurant.

25 YEARS AGO

Taken from The Ringing World for May 18, 1945.

At the Salisbury Diocesan Guild A.G.M. held at Salisbury, members discussed the proposal to establish a ringing competition with a legacy left for that purpose, but on the proposition of the master (Rev. C. C. Cox) it was decided by a large majority that competition ringing was to be discouraged.

Messrs. Rupert Richardson, J. A. Freeman, J. Bray and G. E. Feirn were elected members of the Central Council to represent the Lincoln Diocesan Guild.

A meeting of the N.E. Branch of the Guild of Devonshire Ringers was held at Huntsham, and tea was at Huntsham Court, the residence of Lt.-Col. Gilbert Acland Troyte, a ringer, and a relative of Col. Charles A. W. Troyte, author of Change Ringing.

Fifty-one victory peals were printed, the majority being Grandsire, Stedman and Plain Bob, and the only footnotes were "first peal," of which there were 29.

At the Sussex County Association
A.G.M. Mr. F. I. Hairs was re-elected master, and Mr. S. E. Armstrong general secretary. Arrangements are in hand for the 60th anniversary celebrations. Mr. William Saunders, of Coalbrookdale.

took part in the victory ringing, and on arriving home was suddenly taken ill and died. A peal attempt next day was cancelled.

The first peal on the augmented eight at Bucklebury, Berks, was by a local band which included Emma Franklyn and Stella

John Chesterman, Robert Flew and John Hepworth rang their first peal at

The first peal of Bristol rung in the city of Birmingham was conducted by Samuel Grove, and Frank Perrens, Thomas Miller and Percy Laffin rang their first in the method, whilst for Frank J. Smallwood it was the first of Surprise.

A meeting at Chesterfield was of the Sheffield District and the old East Derbyshire Amalgamated Society.

A 720 of No. 22 3rd place Delight (Legi-

St. Michael and All Angels, Lilleshall, Shropshire

"Let all the ends thou aim'st at be thy country's, thy God's and truths."

("Henry VIII," Act 3, Scene 2.)

THESE WORDS are inscribed on the fine obelisk erected on Lilleshall Hill to the memory of the first Duke of Sutherland in 1839. It stands as a landmark for many miles around and leads casual visitors, including teams of ringers from all parts of the Midlands and regular worshippers alike, to the Parish Church of St. Michael and All Angels—"the Church by the Hill."

Tradition has it that the hill and the surrounding countryside were named after Lilla, a devoted servant of Edwyn, King of Northumbria, who had the land given to him for "services rendered" to King Edwyn The settlement dates back to the sixth century, and the church almost that far back. St. Chad, who was first Bishop of Lichfield, brought the Gospel to this place on one of his preaching tours, and a small Saxon church was established in A.D. 670 though only the font still remains.

A second church was built in 1200 and the present building is this second church, though now much enlarged and extensively restored in 1500, 1600, 1856 and again in

CURIOUS CARVINGS

For the ringer, the main interest in any church is in the tower. That at Lilleshall was not added to the church until, at the earliest, 1500. Its style is a mixture of the Decorated and Perpendicular styles of architecture. There is no mark on it to give much idea of its exact date or of who built it, but there is a curious device on the south side which if it could be deciphered might give some clue.

About 12 feet up on the south wall there is carved a stonemason's saw, no doubt some ancient craftsman's trade mark, and on the left of it the head of a bearded goat-though some have taken it to be a cockerel. Good reason may be made out for it being either.

If it were a goat, it would have been placed there by James Leveson or his son, Sir Richard Leveson, between 1539 and 1661. The bearded goat often surmounts the Leveson-Gower family crest, which later became that of the Dukes of Sutherland, who were landowners in Lilleshall for almost 400 years until 1920. This would date the tower earlier than 1660.

An equally good case can be made out for its being a cockerel. From 1148 until the dissolution in 1538, there was at Lilleshall the Benedictine monastery of St. Mary the Virgin less than a mile from the parish church. The ruins, now cared for by the Ministry of Public Buildings and Works, are well worth a visit. For many years the monks of Lilleshall were responsible for providing a priest for the parish church. Between 1518 and 1521 a man church. named James Cockerel was Abbot of Lilleshall, who may have built the tower. this carving be a cockerel it could be that in this odd way there is recorded for ever the close link between church and abbey

The tower was originally provided with a single "calling or tolling" bell, and this seems to have been used until 1830, when the present ring of six bells was cast and installed by the Whitechapel Bell Foundry.

A year earlier, in 1829, the first clock was erected in the tower by a local clockmaker, a Mr. Davies, of Shifnal. The original wooden dial, over seven feet in diameter, lasted until 1966, when the old clock was overhauled. The clockwork mechanism was replaced by electric, and a new four feet diameter fibreglass dial fitted on the south wall. This work was carried out by Smith's of Derby. The second dial, erected on the west front, was made in Lilleshall by a local craftsman, Mr. Bill Reynolds, our present head ringer. Bill has been a member of the Lilleshall tower for over 25

So the bells are still rung regularly and appear to have been for many years now. The six bells, varying in weight from four to nine cwt, were originally cast in 1830 by Mears and Stainbank at Whitechapel, and appear to have lasted with very little maintenance until 1963. In that year the mechanisms were overhauled and the bells recast, again by Mears and Stainbank, the weights of each bell remaining as before. The length of the ropes is 60 feet.

Mention should also be made of a set of eight handbells cast in 1968. A few years earlier a number of "odd" handbells had been found in the tower—obviously the remains of a much larger set. All attempts either to sell them or complete the full set failed, so the present set was made up, but is as yet very little used.

THIRTEENTH CENTENARY

St. Michael's is a fine country church, serving a population of 5,000 people right on the edge of the new town of Telford, with a history going back to A.D. 670. The year 1970 is for us an important milestone in the history of the church. Many special services have been arranged to mark this rare and important anniversary, beginning on St. Chad's Day (March 2) with a civic service and carrying on right through to Michaelmas, when the Bishop of Lighfield will present a provide a control of the state of the sta of Lichfield will preach at a special service of thanksgiving, the highlights perhaps come during June. On Saturday, the 6th, a big village fair, to be opened by Tom Coyne of B.B.C. TV, is to be held on the lovely lawns surrounding the church. Later, on 27th/28th, a festival of flowers with the great theme of Jerusalem, City of God, based on Blake's famous poem "Jerusalem." During these two days the bells will be rung as people visit this lovely part of Shropshire and are reminded once more of the wonderful Christian heritage that is

"Whene'er the sweet church bell Peals over hill and dell, May Jesus Christ be praised.

O hark to what it sings As joyously it rings,

May Jesus Christ be praised."
G. K. SMITH.

FOR DEMOLITION?

Dear Sir,-You will have heard that St. John the Divine Church, Leicester, is once more faced with disaster-demolition! I am hoping to organise another petition like that in 1953, when a similar proposal was made. In the meantime we would welcome any individual protest that readers may care to give!—Yours faithfully, S. HARRISON.

Sussex County Association

FOURTEENTH YEAR AS MASTER

MR. R. V. JOHNSON RE-ELECTED

At the 85th A.G.M. of the Sussex County Association, held at Brighton on May 9, Mr. R. V. Johnson was elected master for the 14th successive year. The service was in St. Peter's Church, conducted by the vicar (Canon J. N. Keeling), who is a vice-president, and the organist was Mr. Malcolm Kemp. Prior to the service ringing had taken place in some 23 towers in the area.

Tea in the church hall was followed by the business meeting, attended by 130. The master (Mr. R. V. Johnson) thanked Canon Keeling for permitting the meeting and for taking the service and the vicar replied. The master extended a welcome to all visitors and the other vice-presidents (L. Stilwell, S. E. Armstrong and R. W. R. Percy). A presentation was made to Mrs. E. M. Mitchell by the master for her work in organising the tea.

Mr. Johnson reported 1969 as a year of quiet progress in all divisions, membership being well maintained, and congratulated young members and conductors. He thanked those who had been responsible for the success of events which had taken place, particularly the dinner committee and Mr. Wake and Mr. Challen for the gift of "Form of Service," duplicated and inserted in stiff printed covers.

The treasurer's report showed the balance in hand had increased by £57, as had membership fees, sale of badges, reports, certificates and meeting cards; £141 paid for new badges was a non-recurring item. It was agreed to place £50 on deposit and to transfer £50 to a new bell restoration fund. Further donations to the fund amounting to £19 made the total £69.

FIRST SINCE 1890

The peal secretary reported 63 peals against 79 the year before, the most popular methods being Grandsire Triples and Plain Bob Major. A peal by Hurstpierpoint local band was the first since 1890. Leading peal ringers were F. H. Hicks (25) and E. W. Keys (8) and leading conductors F. H. Hicks and A. R. Baldock (13 each).

Mr. J. R. Norris retired as peal secretary and Mr. I. V. J. Smith was elected to the post. All other officers were re-elected, Mr. Johnson as master for his 14th successive year. He informed the meeting that he was meeting the Duke of Edinburgh at Chichester on May 14 as representative of the Association in connection with the Duke's award scheme.

The Association dinner is to be held at Forest Row on October 17 and the arrangements are in the hands of Mrs. R. J. Osbon.

For the appeal for Stinchcombe bells (from Gloucester and Bristol Association) it was decided to take a retiring collection, which realised £8. A grant to Christ Church, Eastbourne, of £25 was approved.

An invitation to attend the Croydon centenary in September was supported.

Mr. G. P. Elphick introduced his new book, "Sussex Bells and Belfries," which would shortly be published, and the master said they were proud to have a man of Mr. Elphick's calibre in the Association. It was decided to obtain an autographed first copy for the library.

The meeting was informed that the Association did not have a badge of office for the master, and it was agreed that designs be submitted to the next meeting of the committee.

The annual report was not available at the meeting because of printing difficulties, but it was hoped to distribute the copies shortly

MR. R. V. JOHNSON

St. David's Guild
JOINT WINNERS

The 23rd annual striking competition of the St. David's Guild was held at St. Mary's Church. Pembroke, on May 9. Five teams competed for the shield, which was won jointly by Llanbadarn Fawr and Pembroke "A" (18 faults), with St. David's third (34). Other teams competing were Cardigan and Pembroke "B". This was the first time in the history of the competition that the result had been a tie.

Mr. F. Sharpe, of Launton, Oxon, was as always the adjudicator, and after an excellent tea in St. Mary's Hall he and his handbell ringers gave a most enjoyable recital

That this annual recital is the bishlight of the year for the guild is made evident by the fact that the competition meeting is always so well attended, some travelling many miles for the purpose of hearing the Launton ringers.

RINGERS' DAY'S OUTING

On May 9 the Axbridge Branch ringers of the Bath and Wells Association set out for Oxford, making a break at Faringdon for coffee and an hour's ringing. Arriving in Oxford at noon, an enjoyable time was spent ringing on St. Giles's bells before lunch, and during the afternoon the light ring of eight at All Saints' was rung to various methods. Sufficient time was available for tea and Bladon was the next stop, where everybody rang before visiting Home Farm, Balscot. Our time was limited owing to the new driving restrictions and we were not able to spend as much time as we would have liked at some towers. The party of 48 (which consisted of only one non-ringer!) extend grateful thanks to all who helped, incumbents, secretaries and those who met us.

Yorkshire Association.

A.G.M. AT ORMESBY

The A.G.M. of the Yorkshire Association was held at Ormesby on May 2. The attendance was disappointing in view of the large numbers at recent meetings. At the business meeting the president (Mr. Vernon Bottomley) deplored the fact that a number of ringing activities in the county that day ran counter to the association's interests and he called for greater loyalty from members.

The annual report, incorporating a number of changes, including new Ringing World lay-out of peals, was received with mixed feelings. An appeal for the Stinch-combe bell fund raised £4 10s. following a collection. However, as the association was to make a donation, absent members should also contribute and the amount was accordingly increased to £10, made up from the association's funds.

Following a recommendation by a subcommittee, it was agreed that the association should organise a striking competition and that this should take place on the day of the Snowdon Dinner. Messrs. Chris Moxon and Ron Ducker were re-elected as treasurer and report editor respectively.

Eight towers were available during the day and the ringing was generally enjoyed. The service, held at Ormesby, was conducted by the Rev. David Moore (Northallerton) and the lessons were read by Mr. Ted Hudson. The singing (without accompaniment) was voluble and not untuneful, well calculated to yield an appetite for the buffet tea laid on at a low price by the local company.

Durham University Society UNIVERSITY RINGERS IN LONDON

On May 1 past and present members of the Durham University Society converged on Kensington (their headquarters) for a ringing and social weekend in London.

After the initial chaos involved in packing about 30 people into a flat designed to take half-a-dozen comfortably, the company settled down to handbell ringing and bridge.

A peal attempt next day at St. Mary's, Lambeth, for Rutland was stopped after about an hour, and others rang at two towers in North London.

An hour was spent at the Science Museum, where a demonstration of the Carter ringing machine interested the party: perfect Glasgow Little Surprise Maximus and Bristol Major were heard, but the machine had some difficulty with Stedman Cinques.

At St. Giles-in-the-Fields, Holborn, there was plenty of interest in the historic peal boards, recording among other things the first time Holt's Original was rung and conducted by one man. At St. Clement Danes' our old friend Bill Theobald arrived in time to close the shutters, and our "subdued" performance included Cambridge Royal.

The final tower was at St. Andrew's, Holborn, and later our South London friends advised us to go south of the river next Sunday was rather flat, but some rang at St. Olave's. Farewells were said to our London friends and the journey back to the North East was made via the president's local tower, Burbage (Leicestershire).

Our thanks to all who helped in any way, especially Colin (general secretary), and Ruth for her important part.

Obituary

MRS. DIANA M. FROST

The death occurred on May 7 of Diana M. Frost, wife of Alan J. Frost, a former master of the Ancient Society of College Youths.

Diana, who was 29, leaves two infant daughters, Rachel and Carol.

This tragically early death was not entirely unexpected, as tests made as long ago as 1965 had indicated the possible existence of a brain tumour, too deep for treatment, and both Diana and Alan were well aware that her life was always in the balance. Under the circumstances it was remarkable that she was able to lead such a full and active life, but her faith and strength of character were such that she was able to keep her cheerful smile and come to terms with her secret shadow.

MRS. DIANA M. FROST

Diana learned to ring at Corby, in Northamptonshire, while still at Kettering High School. Opportunities of progress, however, entailed travelling by bicycle to other towers in the Kettering area and demanded a great deal of effort and deter-mination on her part. Her first peal was only achieved at the 13th attempt, and this early perseverance was typical of her attitude throughout her ringing career. She rang 168 peals in all, conducting two, and became an extremely competent ringer on all numbers. It is thought that she may have been the first lady to have rung over 10,000 changes - in a peal of Rutland Major at Quex Park.

During her time at London University Diana served as secretary and as treasurer of the University Society. Long before this, of course, she had met Alan at Kettering. and they were now to ring many peals together with the University Society.

After their marriage they went to live at Leighton Buzzard and became faithful members of that church and belfry. There it was that the two children were christened and, though it was to be for so short a time, Diana knew great happiness and endeared herself to everyone.

THE FUNERAL

The funeral took place on May 12 at the ancient Parish Church of St. John the Baptist, Corby, Northants, in the presence of a large gathering which included many ringing friends.

A SERVICE OF THANKSGIVING FOR THE LIFE AND SERVICE OF TOM AND MARGARET FRANCIS

"It is on an occasion like this that we are brought face to face with one of man's greatest problems—that of suffering. So many times we hear people say 'Why does God allow an innocent young child to be foully done to death by some lustful brute of a man? Why does God allow some good Christian soul to have a long, painful, lingering death?'; and today, perhaps, 'Why should two such nice, popular, good people meet a sudden tragic death through, it would seem, no fault of their own?'."

These observations were the subject of the address given by Canon K. W. H. Felstead (St. Michael's, Southampton) at a service of thanksgiving for Tom and Margaret Francis, who were killed in a road accident on March 8, and held at St. Martin-in-the-Fields, London, on May 16. A representative congregation of some 200 ringers and friends and some relatives attended to remember with gratitude and affection two people who, during their lifetime, in an unspectacular way, had contributed so much to the life and work of bellringing in general.

Canon Felstead continued: "I am not going to talk about the friendliness, hospitality, the characters of Tom and Margaret, and their achievements. That has been most excellently done already in the columns of The Ringing World and we are all aware of these things. Neither can I tell you why such tragedies happen. If I could I would have solved, partly, this great prob-lem of suffering. But I can offer some thoughts to try to put things in a proper perspective.

MAN'S FAILURE

He then explained the forces of evil, of the Devil at work and suffering being the result of that work. God, he said, had created all things good, and had no part in suffering. He had made man in His own image and man had let Him down and suffering was one of the results of man's Various passages from the Book of Job were then quoted by Canon Felstead to Threlfall, Mr. J. G. A. Prior and Mr. Andrew Stubbs (representing the College Youths), Mr. David Martin (representing the University of London Society) and many others, unfortunately unidentified.

The service was conducted by the rector of Corby, Rev. John Lashbrooke, assisted by Rev. Ernest Orland, guild president. A course of Grandsire Triples was rung on handbells by Barrie Hendry 1-2, David W. James 3-4, Francis Threlfall 5-6, James G. A. Prior 7-8. The six bells were rung halfmuffled before and after the service by representative bands. Cremation followed at Kettering Crematorium. P. I. C.

This surely is the right perspective to try to see at such times as this .

THEY ARE AT PEACE

And it is in this light that we can truly give thanks today for the lives and examples of Tom and Margaret, rejoicing in the knowledge that they are at peace and enjoying the vision of the Blessed One, to Whom be glory and dominion, honour, majesty and power, now and always."

During the service, which was conducted by the curate of St. Martin's (Rev. Hugh Maddox), the hymns "Jesu, lover of my soul," "Jesus lives!" and "Guide me, O thou Oreat Redeemer" were sung and Psalm 121 was chanted. Canon Felstead read the lesson (the New English version of Romans 8) and the prayers were led by the curate. The organ duties were shared by the local organist, Mr. Robert Vincent, and Mr. Michael Addison, Margaret's brother, who was at one time assistant organist at Durham Cathedral.

The bells were rung before the service (four courses of Stedman Cinques by ringers of different societies) and tea was served afterwards. All the arrangements were made by the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths, of which Tom Francis was a former master.

"They shall grow not old . . . "

Those who assembled in London on May 16 for the memorial service for Tom and Margaret Francis will remember the brightness of the singing, an atmosphere of peace inside the church, contrasting so much with the noise and bustle of the London streets around; they will remember the typical bellringers' gathering afterwards—young and attractive ladies, old and revered gentlemen, leading ringers, C. Council officials - all attending as individuals, all as friends and ringing acquaintances, all with the feelings of solemnity and emotion which arise on such occasions. Tom and Margaret certainly were there amongst them as they had been on so many occasions in the past -on the warm and sunny spring afternoon at St. Martin-in-the-Fields.

ST. GEORGE'S DAY

For the third successive year Mr. D. Jackson, of Totton, Hants, celebrated St. George's Day with two special Doubles methods—St. George of England and Dragon Doubles-to a quarter.

Previous attempts have been made at St. George's, Damerham, the only church with this dedication in the county, but with mileage involved this year's attempt was at Baughurst, where a local inn is named St. George and the Dragon, with a marvellous painting depicting the conflict between the

Both methods proved rather tricky to the inexperienced band and after two false starts a quarter peal was attempted and successfully rung, with six extents of St. George and five of the Dragon, by the following: P. Taylor 1, Catherine Roberts 2, Lyn Holbrook 3, D. Jackson (cond.) 4, G. K. Dodd 5, H. Smith 6.

Afterwards we visited the George and the Dragon, admired the painting and talked of ringing next year the Minor version of these methods.

"DYING OUT"?

In the radio programme "This is East Anglia" from Norwich, just after Rogation Sunday this year, a lady was interviewed regarding the recent Rogationtide perambulatery festivities in the Suffolk parishes of Wissett and Spexhall, near Halesworth, and the interviewer asked whether she regarded it as folklore, religion or fun. She said: "I think it is one of those old country things which is dying out—like bellringing"!

BENHILTON (SURREY) RESTORATION

Whilst their bells are away at White-chapel the "locals" are saving money by doing necessary work in the tower. Mrs. Ann Murrells, the tower secretary, writes:-

"Work on the bells is going well - Les (my husband) comes home every night looking like a coalman! Our bell fund has reached about £2,000, so we're hopeful of raising the rest before the bills are due to be paid.

IN HIS NINETIETH YEAR

Puotograph taken by Wiss and Gios Standard at the recent A.G.M. of the Gioucester and Bristol Association at Cirencester.

Left to right: Canon Eric Evans, Canon Missioner of the Diocese of Gloucester; F. W. Scudamore, ringing master, Gloucester and Bristol Association; Miss E. M. Bliss, chairman, Gloucester and Bristol Association; Canon Roland Hill (vicar); F. J. Lewis, sen., Councillor J. W. Scantlebury, chairman, Cirencester U.D.C.

Mr. Francis J. Lewis has been a member of the Cirencester band for well over 70 years, tower captain for more than 40 years and a member of the Gloucester and Bristol Association since 1898. He learned to ring in Cirencester in 1896 and, except for war service, was a regular ringer at Cirencester until failing health prevented him from climbing the steps a few years When weather permits he attends the Tuesday evening practices at Watermoor and sometimes rings the treble for a short touch of his favourite method, Stedman. Now in his 90th year, Frank continues to take an active interest in all ringing news and regularly reads The Ringing World and regularly reads The Ringing from cover to cover.

FIRST PEAL IN 1898

He rang his first peal (the treble to Grandsire Caters) at Cirencester in 1898, and has rung 119 peals (he regrets that he did not manage 120) and conducted 58. His peal book makes interesting reading. Most of his peals were rung in the Cirencester area for the Gloucester and Bristol Association, but a number were rung for the St. Michael's Juniors, Gloucester. He is especially proud to have taken part in the 7325 Grandsire Cinques at Painswick in March, 1913. Among those with whom he rang peals were well-known ringers such as Fred May, John Austin, Rev. F. E. Robinson, William Sevier, William Pye and George Daltry

PROFESSIONAL GARDENER
Before retirement Frank was employed by Messrs. John Jefferies, the Cirencester

seedsmen, and his knowledge and advice were sought by countless Cotswold and other gardeners. Both he and Mrs. Lewis are very fond of flowers and their garden is a delight.

On April 11 fellow ringers rang a peal of Oxford Bob Triples at Watermoor as an 89th birthday compliment and it was appropriate that it should be conducted by the present ringing master of the Gloucester and Bristol Association, for Frank was himself master in 1923-25. The attempt was a secret until the last moment, and at 3 o'clock on that particular Saturday afternoon he was torn between his two loveslistening to the ringing or watching the Cup Final.

VISITORS FROM NEW ZEALAND

Visiting England once more are Mr. and Mrs. George Armitage, of Christchurch, New Zealand, and we were delighted to welcome them to the R.W. office recently. They left their home on February 21 and travelled via South America and Portugal, arriving in Guildford on April 25, and will make this their headquarters for the next six months or so.

Mr. Armitage is a retired sheep farmer and whilst at Guildford in 1966 and 1967 he learned to ring at Stoke-next-Guildford and is very grateful to Mr. Savile and his team for their patience.

In New Zealand he rings at Christchurch Cathedral and at St. Paul's, Papanui. During their stay Mr. Armitage hopes to visit many meetings and join in the ringing at various churches. Rachel Mary, Mr. and Mrs. Armitage's daughter, was for a period furthering her nursing career in England (she is a hospital sister) and on her return home became interested in ringing, although her duties prevent her from a very active participation.

Both George and Mrs. Armitage can be assured of a warm welcome.

LEICESTER CHURCHES AND REDUNDANCY

The commission, set up by Dr. R. R. Williams two years ago, recommends that the number of parishes in Leicester should be reduced from 12 to four. The new parishes are St. Mary-de-Castro (8 bells), to be called St. Mary's, St. Margaret's (12). Holy Trinity and St. Matthew's.

St. Mary's would unite the parishes of St. Nicholas (to be offered to the city as a museum). St. Andrew's (to be demolished) and All Souls' (to be retained) with a team

St. Margaret's, All Saints' (8) and St. Leonard's are already united with a team ministry. All Saints' is recommended to be declared redundant and used for other purposes and St. Leonard's to be demolished.

Holy Trinity and St. John the Divine (10) are to be united and St. John the Divine recommended for demolition.

St. Matthew's is felt to be over large and should be demolished and replaced by a smaller modern building for use as a parish church and additionally as a centre for ecumenical, pastoral and liturgical experi-

WHY RING?

Dear Sir,—Well said and well done, Mr. Millward! I could wish that a few more towers followed Buckley's example and got their priorities right.—Yours faithfully, (Mrs.) B. I. WILKINSON.

Northfleet, Kent.

Dear Sir,—May I have a little spa to answer Mr. Millward's letter?

Let me make it clear that I am not setting myself up as judge and jury to pass a verdict on Mr. Millward, his tower members or their rules. He asks: "Was I wrong in letting him go?" and I feel that he is asking for opinions, so here goes.

Of course he was wrong in letting him go; we may have lost a ringer who would, when he had learnt, have attended his tower regularly every Sunday. No matter which tower he eventually joined he could have been a great asset to them and ringing in general. I think Mr. Millward went about this matter in entirely the wrong way.

I feel that he was wrong to think of holding up a practice to allow a complete newcomer to ring on a tied bell. The prospective ringer should have been asked to sit and watch a complete practice session in order to get some idea of what changeringing is all about. If he was still keen he should have been asked to attend a special practice, when he would be there on his own with the tower captain or tutor and they could then have chatted to him in a friendly way, explaining what is expected of the beginner when he has learnt to ring. When his interest had been aroused he could no doubt have been persuaded to take a more active part in the life of the church, and I have no doubt that once the ringing bug had got embedded he would have been only too pleased to be confirmed in order that he would be able to continue this very satisfying hobby, this form of recreation, this duty-call it what you will!

Just one question for Mr. Millward. Supposing he had a ringer, with the ability and knowledge to ring and conduct any method, move into Buckley, would he send him away to Manchester because he had not been confirmed, or would he try to talk him into the ways of the church and even-tual Confirmation? Surely he would take the latter course, even if it took him two years to do it.

I feel that if a ringer is prepared to attend regularly for practice and Sunday ringing he should be given every encouragement, regardless of his religious belief. With a little persuasion, together with the example set by the rest of the band, this man could well have turned into a good churchgoing bellringer. As it is he has probably gone from the Exercise for good. In answer to "Why do we ring?" I can only answer: We ring because we get immense pleasure and satisfaction from ringing and listening to bells, and as the church authorities supply us with the necessary equipment and premises, free of charge, we feel we have a duty to perform for our church in ringing twice every Sunday for services, and on other special occasions.-Yours faithfully,

JOHN L. FINDON.

Stratford-on-Avon, Warks.

The best way to kill time is to work it to death.

CARTWHEEL FASHION

Dear Sir,-I am interested in the striking competition held recently at Cuxton when the fifth band, Cuxton, were faulted for ringing their test piece "cartwheel fashion." Cuxton had 153 faults and although the length of the test piece is not given I assume it was 240 changes; therefore, did assume it was 240 changes, therefore, the Cuxton receive 120 faults for ignoring the open lead, leaving 33 faults accumulated during the changes? This seems hardly fair. In the North of England both cartwheel and open lead teams join competitions and receive impartial judging; surely Rochester District could do likewise. To Cuxton I send greetings and beseech you STAND FIRM!

On page 367, R.W. "25 Years Ago," there is a comment by me on competitive ringing when we in South Yorkshire were being castigated for promoting contests, and today they are being held all over the country.

I see Mr. H. Brotherton, of Ashbourne, has taken up his quill to deplore "cartwheel ringing." but I think he should establish ringing.' which is the traditional method of leading before he begins to lay down the law.-Yours faithfully,

NOEL F. MOXON.

Barnsley, Yorks.

EARLY BOB TRIPLES

Dear Sir,—Mr. Freeman (R.W., p. 373) is quite right: the peal of "Bob Major Trebles" at Mortlake in November, 1761, could not have been the third peal of Bob Triples.

Although the story of a peal of Bob Triples at St. Sepulchre's, Snow Hill, by the College Youths in January, 1689, is now generally dismissed as legendary, 5040 Bob Triples was rung at St. Peter Mancroft. Norwich, on May 2, 1715. This was the first true peal ever rung and is recorded on a board in the belfry.

The Gloucester Journal of Tuesday, Jan. 26, 1730-1, contains the following report of two further peals in this method:

"On Tuefday laft the Society of College Youths rang a compleat Peal of 5040 Changes, call'd Plain Bob Trebles, on the 8 Bells of St. Mary le Blow (sic) in Cheapfide, in 3 Hours and 40 Minutes: The faid Society rung the fame Peal on the 8 Bells of St. Mary Over's in Southwark, the 19th of Dec. last, being the first true Peals of that Length that ever were rung in those Steeples, and reckon'd by all Judges of the Exercise to be extraordinary Performances, they being the heavieft Peals of Bells in London, each of the Tenors weighing upwards of 52 Hundred Weights." Doubtless Canon Felstead can furnish details of other early peals.

Although the College Youths of 1731 had a close approximation to the modern name of Bob Triples, it was by no means unusual to find ringers of the 18th and 19th centuries in difficulty when it came to finding the proper name for a method when ing the proper name for a method when they came to extend it. The records of the Painswick Youths in the early 1800s contain the account of a peal of "Bob Major Royal," for example. And in 1817 the ringers at Wickwar, Glos, proudly announced their ringing "on six bells, a peal of Royal Grandsire Triples, consisting of 9960 changes" Subsquent correspondence 9960 changes." Subsequent correspondence elicited the fact that this was actually a long length of Grandsire Doubles!—Yours faithfully, CYRIL A. WRATTEN. Cheltenham, Glos.

EASTON BELLS

Dear Sir,-I am sure ringers will be interested to know of the restoration of the bells of St. Mary's Church, Easton, Hants.

It is about seven years since we began thinking of this project, but there was so much other church restoration work to be done that the bells' restoration had to be deferred.

Now, at last, the money has been raised and the work is due to be completed by the end of the month, the bells dedicated to the service of Almighty God by the Archdeacon of Winchester on Sunday, June 7,

The work entailed tuning, quarter turning and refitting our ancient three bells (one is dated 1614), housing them in a steel frame, erecting them in the former ringing chamber so that they will be rung from the ground floor. In addition to our ancient three bells a further three bells have been given, one in memory of Canon Molony, my predecessor, another in memory of the parents of Miss Mary Galbraith, who were married in this church.

During the last 12 months we have been busy getting our ringers trained. We are most grateful to the rector of Old Alresford and Mr. Huggins, the captain of Old Alresford tower.—Yours faithfully,

PERCY DODWELL,

Rector.

Easton, Hants.

DUPLICATIONS AND DEDICATIONS

Dear Sir,-In your edition of the R.W for April 17 you report on the dedication of a tower and its bells at St. Mary's, Hayes. On looking up "Dove" one discovers that there are two such towers at Hayes, both with the same dedication, but one being in Bromley and the other in Hillingdon. would be appreciated if someone would Clarify as to which tower was dedicated.

Whilst looking through "Dove" I find that there are many other places of the same names in the County of London, and that unless the whole title is given when sending in dedications, quarter peals, etc., confusion can arise as to which place it

Of the Bromleys I find: Bromley, SS. Peter and Paul (8) (p. 19); Chelsfield, St. Martin (p. 25); Cudham, SS. Peter and Paul (10) (p. 35); Beckenham, St. George (p. 9); Biggin Hill, St. Mark (p. 11); West Wickham, St. John Baptist (p. 119).

Then there are the Hillingdons: Hillingdon, St. John Baptist (p. 55); Uxbridge, St. Andrew (8) (p. 113); Uxbridge, St. Margaret (8) (p. 113); Harefield, St. Mary the Virgin (6) (p. 51); Harlington, St. Peter and Paul (p. 51); Harmondsworth, St. Mary (p. 51).

Similarly, confusion can arise from the following: Barnet, St. John Baptist (p. 8), and Monken Hadley (Barnet), St. Mary the Virgin (p. 76); Bexley, St. Mary the Virgin (p. 11), Erith (Bexley), St. John Baptist;

(p. 11), Erith (Bexley), St. John Baptist, Erith (Bexley), Christ Church (p. 42); Foot's Cray (Bexley), All Saints (p. 45).

Then we have Hounslow, St. Paul (p. 57); East Bedfont (p. 9), Feltham (p. 43) and Isleworth (p. 59).

Finally, Waltham Forest can be referred to as Leyton and Leytonstone (p. 66).

There are others I know and some I have not found, but I am sure that after reading this your correspondents will make sure where their tower is exactly.—Yours faith-

DAVID MASSEY'S PEAL TOUR

David Massey's peal tour plan was to attempt two a day during Easter week with the same eight ringers. The team were all residents of N. Somerset: the veteran Ronnie Beck, Frome Branch ringing master and leader at Chilcompton: Philip Jones (Midsomer Norton), newly-elected secretary of the branch: the well-known Rice brothers (Wally and Roy), from Banwell: Peter England (Yatton), Peter Hardwick (St. Michael's. Bath) and George and David Massey (Frome).

The first attempt on Easter Monday was on the pleasant eight (15 cwt.) at Wincanton, where a good peal of Xenia was rung. In the afternoon at Charlton Horethorne, much to everyone's dismay Pudsey was lost from a miscall after two hours. Charlton Horethorne has been an unlucky tower for our attempts, but the vicar has invited us to return for another try.

Tuesday morning's peal on the light (9 cwt.) ring at Wilton was thoroughly enjoyed and a fast peal of Frome was rung—the fastest ever of Major for the Association, and it was appropriate that Frome com-pleted David's Surprise Major alphabet. The afternoon tower had another light ring. Shepton Beauchamp, where we should have scored 8-spliced if the conductor had not erred after an hour's good ringing.

The first attempt next day was on the pleasant bells at Curry Rivel and justified the choice of a musical method, Xavier. For the afternoon, the heaviest ring of the week awaited us at St. Mary's, Bridgwater, and Rutland was the method. The pattern of the tour was well established and we were not very surprised when the peal was lost after 40 minutes. The ringer of the fifth found there was a long length of rope -all on the floor at his feet. Wally Rice spliced the rope before we departed home-

Thursday's venue was at St. Michael's. Bath, and Peter England steered us through a peal of Oxhey. At Cheddar, on the pleasant but rather noisy bells, we were a little ambitious to attempt London. We did not settle down well and the ringing was brought to an end after half-an-hour.

On Friday we journeyed to the far west of the county to Timberscombe, near Dun-Johannesburg was rung. At Bishop's Lydeard, although Cambridge was selected, the bells were difficult to ring because of the sway of the lofty red sandstone tower and the peal lost.

A ONE-POINT WIN

At Thames Ditton on April 25 Egham won the striking competition shield with five faults. Others were: Hersham A (6). Egham B (24), 'Thames Ditton A (25), Esher (44), Hersham B (45), scratch team (49), Ockham (58), Ottershaw (68), Thames Ditton B (73), East Molesey (83).

The meeting was well attended and two additional towers entered than the previous

The members heard with regret of the death of Mr. W. Shepherd and stood in silence as a mark of respect.

Ten new members were elected, viz.:
Misses M. Taylor, J. Bark and R. McCrone (Thames Ditton), Mrs. Watson, Miss
S. Watson (Ockham), Miss C. Castell and
A. Castell (Oatlands Park), Miss L. Burt (Chertsey), R. Mozeley (Horsell), M. Kemp (Hersham).

Details of the summer festival were announced and is to be held as a competition with start and finish at Oatlands Park.

Congratulations were extended to Mr. and Mrs. K. Mumford on their recent marriage. and to Mr. G. Matravers (East Molesey) on receiving the Silver Acorn for "specially distinguished service" to the Scout Movement.

The ringing master announced that Egham were augmenting their ring from eight to ten when they have the necessary money, and donations would be pladly received.

Ringing continued at East Molesev after the meeting. P. A. B.

For the final day at Batheaston, and a brave attempt at 10-spliced, a shift course prevented us from scoring what would have been a good peal. Afterwards we said farewell to Ronnie Beck and Phil Jones, who had a prior engagement at Midsomer Norton

At Backwell we welcomed reinforcements Alan Tubb and Roger Kendrick-and rang a peal of Wye, David conducting from the tenor, thus bringing the week to a successful conclusion.

People who complain they don't get all they deserve should congratulate themselves.

Editorial

"US"-AND "THEM"

At an Association dinner in Croydon ten days ago the president of the Central Council referred to the correspondence in this journal attacking and criticising the Council, the out-of-date methods used, the entrenched rules and customs, and the smell of mothballs which, it was alleged, pervades,

We also are printing letters from ringers concerning churchmanship (confirmed and regular communicants) and those who do not come under this category and who wish to become ringers. Should these latter be encouraged or otherwise?

The expression used by Mr. Freeman was "'Us' and 'Them'," implying that in ringing (as in churchgoing) there is always that separation, that difference, which although not necessarily antagonistic or contentious tends to wound rather than heal divisions.

In the former instance age usually transforms "us" to one of "them," but in the latter this is not always so. When looking for recruits for the tower, in two out of three cases it is advisable, we feel, to look inside rather than outside the Church. A regular communicant is more likely to "stick" than one who is looking for a hobby. There are, however, many exceptions, and a "holier than thou" attitude is to be deplored.

Everyone introduced to CHURCH bellringing should be told at the outset what is expected of them; but it is the prerogative of the local minister and his captain of ringers whether or not to accept just anyone. "Snap" decisions, however, should never be made.

Obituary

MR. G. F. HAYSOM

The sudden death occurred on April 17 of Mr. G. Frank Haysom, who was a ringer at St. Mary's Parish Church, Swanage, for more than 50 years. He was captain from 1945 to 1952 and organised many successful outings during that time, and in his younger days was a member of St. Peter's, Dorchester. His extensive knowledge of change-ringing and his encouragement to others will always be remembered in the Swanage tower. M. H.

BELL STOLEN

A 3½-4 cwt. bell, believed to be originally cast in 1720 and recast by the Bristol foundry of J. N. Wescotte in 1815, has been stolen from the Unitarian Church, Frenchay Common, Bristol, some time during the past six to eight weeks. It is about 22 in. in diameter, with canons, and is believed to have been lowered with block and tackle as the headstock still remains.

The church is the original Unitarian Church and is in process of restoration. Anyone who sees a bell which may answer the description above should contact the local police immediately.

Belfry Gossip

The South Oxfordshire Branch of the Oxford D.G. have produced their first news-letter

The 150th peal for the Gloucester and Bristol Association was rung by Mr. W. B. Kynaston at Lambourn, Berks, on April 18 (R.W., page 398).

A keen new band has been formed at Great Haseley, Oxon. They are anxious to learn method ringing. Offers of help are invited—contact Mr. Peter Mann, Waltham Cottage, Church Hill, Great Haseley.

First peal congratulations to Roger Pashley, Stephen Iliffe, Jacqueline A. Daisley, Kevin J. Harris, Ian O'Reilly, Margaret S. Judge, Brian MacNicol.

Personal records.—Arthur E. Rowley (500 peals), Edgar J. Smith (250), William L. Exton (350), V. Nutton (150).

Two minor inaccuracies have been pointed out regarding the Surrey Association A.G.M. The 90th birthday cake was not square but bell-shaped (we only saw the remains after the meal—and that was rectangular!); the other point: the initial of the librarian is B and not D.

Coming-of-age in office. Two branch officers of the Peterborough Guild have completed this year 21 years in office—Mr. A. E. R. Walker as president of Culwofth Branch and Mr. W. A. Yates as secretary of the Towcester Branch.

Cheapest Guild? Truro Diocesan Guild

Cheapest Guild? Truro Diocesan Guild introduced individual membership fee of 2s. per member this year. Previously there was only a tower affiliation charge.

A new venture has been started in the area of the Mid-Cornwall Branch of the Truro Guild—the English China Clays Group Ringers' Association, with members as far away as Manyu in Deven as far away as Mcavy in Devon.

Chinnor, Oxon, band have rung three quarters on the bells since they were rehung last November. Tower officers are R. C. Hazell (captain), F. Keen (vice-captain), Mrs. G. N. Hazell (secretary), G. Judge (treasurer) and E. Harmsworth (tower captain).

This year's Yorkshire Association annual report consists of 110 pages. There are 72 new compositions added to the Association from last year's total of 262 peals. Price of report 3s. 6d., plus postage.

From G. D. Armitage, of Hotel Stoller, 8003 Zürich:—

"I should like to thank those who replied to my letter, either through your columns or privately, concerning the ring of five at Rivoli Veronese, in Northern Italy. I have paid a visit to this tower and examined the bells. There is no doubt that they could be rung in the English manner, although the headstocks are such that they will have a considerable counterbalancing effect. I have also located several other 'rings' in the area and feel that there are more to be discovered.

"These rings are all from the same foundry, which is still in business in Verona. However, my attempts to contact II Direttore have so far been frustrated, as he is always 'out' when I am in Verona! I have located some towers here in Switzerland, in the Italian-speaking Canton of Ticino, and from a distance they appear to contain rings of five or six."

Once again we appeal to senders of quarter peals and peals to follow the layout used in our columns when submitting copy for publication and to write on one side of the paper only. The rewriting of these items makes considerable extra work, in addition to possible errors and delay in publication. (Peal forms may be obtained free from our office: send a 9" × 4" stamped addressed envelope.)

Registered with the Handbell Ringers of Great Britain are 69 teams. Details are given in the fifth edition of "Reverberations" received this month. These teams are spread over 27 English counties and one in Northern Ireland and contain 441 members. Total membership of "H.R.G.B." is now 535. Objective of the editor, Mr. J. P. Partington, is 1,000 members.

Peals rung for anniversaries make interesting reading, but never more so than for church dedications. Waltham Abbey was consecrated 910 years ago and Salisbury Cathedral's foundation stone was laid 750 years ago—both good reasons for peal ringing. A moment's thought of all that has happened over the centuries in these two well-known spots would not be wasted.

Mr. J. H. Bluff, writing as master in the Peterborough Guild annual report, divides ringers into two sections: (1) those who turn up promptly each time, whether it be service, practice or special occasion—the everfaithfuls who enjoy their ringing; (2) those who profess to be ringers but usually turn up late or stay away for no genuine purpose. This is the worst type of disloyalty with which ringers have to contend.

It was intended that a peal should be rung by the Ancient Society of College Youths at St. Nicolas', Brighton, on May 2, for the wedding of the master of the Society (Mr. A. R. Kench) and Miss G. V. Buxton. Unfortunately, due to indisposition, a member of the band was unable to take part, but Miss Judith Corby kindly stood in at short notice and a non-Association peal was rung.

Ringers of Little Aston, Staffs, wish success to Mr. Jimmy Hagan in his new appointment as manager of the famous Benfica Football Club of Lisbon, Portugal. They are sorry, however, to be losing his daughter, Jackie, who rang the treble in a farewell quarter peal, which was also her first.

We have several articles "in type" for future publication and ask the authors to be patient, as we are at present endeavouring to keep reasonably up-to-date with peals, quarters and news. The Central Council deliberations and reports will require considerable space, but we assure our correspondents we will publish their items in due course.

And we would warn organisers of outings and tours that copy supplied with personal trivialities of interest only to those partaking in the event will be drastically bluepencilled. Opinions expressed about the musical qualities, the "go" and length of ropes, etc., are not "news" and can also be hurtful to the "locals" at that particular tower. In any case, they are only "personal opinions" and should be kept as such. So, if you want the tour reported, keep it brief and keep it factual.

Central Council

REPORTS, 1969

LITERATURE AND PRESS COMMITTEE

IF that much-abused word "propaganda" is traced to its origin it may possibly be taken to indicate "matter" (in the words of our classics master) "meet to be spread abroad." With this interpretation much of the press matter relating to bellringers and their work during 1969 may be designated true propaganda, for among it we find no small amount of work clearly directed towards educating the public. This committee feels that there is a growing need for the spread of reliable information about ringers and their part in church life and worship, not only as a means of recruiting for belfries but also as a counterblast to the view, held in some quarters, that the bells of churches are declining in importance.

It is with pleasure, therefore, that we welcome the enterprise of The Western Times and Gazette, which embarked on a series of features showing the work of a number of ringing bands. We have received cuttings relating to Bridestowe, Drewsteignton, Honiton, Dawlish, Ottery St., Mary, Braunton, North Tawton and Bridgerule; and perhaps there are more. Each feature presents a photograph of the band of ringers and a short but informative paragraph of the ringing activi-The Isleworth parish magazine carried an arresting centre-page spread setting forth the duties, privileges and pleasures of the bellringer; a similar invitation to join in this branch of church work appeared in The Herefordshire Times, where Sally Hesmondhalgh provided readable article accompanied by a very jolly photograph of the cathedral band. The Howdenshire Gazette reported on the recording of Howden Minster bells for an instructional discanother of the enterprises of the indefatigable Mr. Norman Chaddock.

Bellringers have always done a great deal of work in maintenance and repair in their towers, and in recent years there has been an increase in this kind of work and a larger enterprise in assisting parishes by cutting expenses. We still have fresh in mind the formidable tasks undertaken and carried through so successfully by the sturdy workers at St. Leonard's, Shoreditch, and evidence of other devoted labours is not lacking.

We note the valuable assistance given by the ringers at Whatton during the rehanging of the bells and are glad to see that this attracted the attention of The Newark Advertiser. Similar important work was undertaken by the bellringers at Ruddington; The Nottinghamshire Guardian gave publicity to the recasting of the bells and to the local voluntary work that helped to make it possible to proceed with the project.

At Stinchcombe, Gloucestershire, the parochial church council petitioned to be allowed to rehang the six bells "dead" and install an electric chiming device. Objections to this led to the holding of a consistory court at Gloucester and the proceedings aroused considerable interest in the national press. In support of the plan it was argued, among other things, that it was virtually impossible to get ringers; but Mr. Frederick Sharpe, speaking for the objectors, expressed the opinion that ringers could always be obtained if enough trouble was taken. It would seem to us that the transactions of the men of Ruddington and Whatton (quoted above), and the efforts of many other parishes, might well be studied by Stinchcombe before any decisive steps are taken; and something of this kind seems to have been in the mind of the chancellor when he adjourned the case.

In August The Church Times gave us an teresting column by Rosamund Essex, dealing chiefly with the passing bell and the decline of this custom. The article then proceeded to say: "but now bells are out-bells for any occasion except weddings. The sound of bells, once the pride of England, seems distasteful to this generation." This seemed so important a min This seemed so important a misstatement that the convener of this committee wrote to The Church Times in an attempt to correct any misunderstanding and to make it clear that hundreds of churches throughout the land were sounding their bells regularly. The editor did not see fit to print the letter, nor has anyone from clergy or laity provided any confutation of a statement that might, in an important and influential journal like The Church Times, create a false impression in certain minds West Country papers gave great prominence to the underpinning of the tower of All Saints' Church, Westbury, Wilts. The resumption of ringing was marked by photographs of the band and of our old friend Mr. John Fidler testing the bell frame. At Solihull the addition of two trebles to make a ring of 12 was well featured in Midland papers, and the convener was commissioned to write an article for The Solihull News. There was considerable local interest in the handbell peal rung on the summit of Helvellyn, and The Westmorland Gazette favoured us with a full account of the exploit and pictures of the aspiring trio of performers.

The visit of the Central Council to St. Albans and the honouring of Mr. Walter Ayre received full publicity, and The Herts Advertiser made the most of the sensational (if unfortunate) fall of the 11th at the Abbey. We commend unreservedly the excellent essay on the Council and its work, written for Hertfordshire Countryside by Mary Coburn.

In the Irish Press the Wexford Festival and the attendant bellringing produced a short account of our art in The Irish Independent, and The Evening Herald described the bells of St. Audeon's, Dublin, and the rather novel method of ringing them in the bell chamber itself.

Of the feature articles that have reached us some are of the conventional type, and one or two are worthy of special note. Among these is an essay on the welding of cracked bells, written by Mr. K. J. Clews and published in Maintenance and Equipment News. Mr. Clews writes in such a way as to command respect in this interesting and oft-debated question. In Quest, Mr. J. C. Baldwin writes on his hobby of bellringing—another good piece of propaganda. Away in Grahamstown Miss Sarah Troughton's talk on ringing given to the Women's Association of Holy Trinity Church was accorded a lengthy summary in The Eastern Province Herald. With these we must mention an essay on Stresses in the Belfry (Civil Engineering and Public Work Canon Thurlow's persuasive article Review). 'Bells" in the Glendalough and Kildare Diocesan Magazine for October, and a lively contribution to The Weekly News by "Joanna," who tried her hand at ringing at St. John's Episcopal Church, Alloa. Two 600-year-old bells at Christchurch Priory, Hampshire, were fully described in Bournemouth Evening Echo and a great deal of trouble was taken in securing the close-up interesting echo of the past An pictures. sounded in the August Rhyl parish magazine, where some account of the very notable Lewis Jones recalled this gentleman's contacts with Rev. H. Law James. The Rhyl Journal followed up the theme by an account of the ringers at St. Thomas', Rhyl.

One symptom of the present vitality in the Exercise is the appearance of a number of works by practising ringers. Among these we find Cooper Bailey's "Complete Collection of C.P.S. Surprise Major Methods," Segar's "Eleven Plain Courses of Triples Methods" and, of course, the Tutor's Handbooks, Parts 1 and 2, both excellent works, gifts that we have received from the patience and industry of Mr. Wilfrid Moreton and Mr. Norman Chaddock. Mr. Frederick Sharpe has added to his long list of publications with "The Church Bells of Herefordshire, Part II."

Kingsmead Booksellers, Bath, have shown courage and enterprise in putting out three reprints: "Bells and Bellfounding 1879" (facsimile edition), Tom Ingram's "Bells in England" and Walters' "Church Bells of Wiltshire." The anonymous review of the latter in The Wiltshire Times and Gazette was a thorough and thoughtful piece of work.

Among other publications are "The Little Book of Bells," Eric Hatch, and "Casting a Bell for Exeter Cathedral," Rev. J. G. M. Scott.

It is gratifying to see the continued appearance of local journals and news sheets. The Ely Sentinel has a most attractive cover, and we must congratulate Reverberations (catering for the tune ringers) on its new format and its ventures into illustration. Irish Bell News and The Ringing Towers appeared as usual, but we seem to have lost touch with the American Overtones. The Ringers' Notebook and Diary continues to be

THE FRIENDS OF INVERARAY BELLS

The Friends of Inveraray Bells was formed at a meeting at Strone Cairndow. Argyll, on May 3. The Hon. Michael Noble presided and his wife is secretary of the Friends.

The Bishop of Argyll and the Isles (Rt. Rev. R. Wimbush), who is president of the Friends, reminded the assembly that this is Conservation Year, and this applied to a ring of bells. Thanks to the vision and enthusiasm of Duke Neil, Inveraray has the finest ring of bells in Scotland, with a superb tone, hardly equalled anywhere. They became a reality in the early 1920s as a war memorial.

BELLS SELDOM USED

The bells of Inveraray were becoming widely known as one of the attractions of Argyll to the many followers of the art of campanology. Hitherto the bells had been seldom used as they lacked the necessary maintenance. Now, thanks to the enthusiasm of a group of bellringers and of Mrs. Noble, they were once more being brought into use and "we invite you to help us to make this possible."

For some years now the Episcopalians at Inveraray had been proud to have All Saints' Church used for services by the Roman Catholic congregation in the district and this inter-church co-operation was reflected and expressed in the forming of the "Friends of Inveraray Bells."

DEDICATIONS

The Rev. Ean M. Simpson, supporting the Friends, said it was fitting that each of the ten bells should bear a dedication reminding them of those who spent themselves in the service of others in God's name, thus keeping their memory alive for as long as men could hear these bells ringing out across Loch Fyne. The dedication of the bells is as follows:—

1.—St. Moluag, first ever Bishop of Argyll, contemporary of St. Columba.

2.-St. Columba, first Abbot of Iona.

3.—St. Mun, Patron Saint of Clan Campbell.

4. St. Brendan, who sailed up Loch Fyne to visit Moluag.

5.—St. Maelrubha, another peripatetic Irish abbot who founded, among other communities, that of Strathlachlan and whose 49 years of work was ended, according to legend, by martyrdom at the hands of Norwegian raiders.

6.—St. Blaan, who founded a chapel and monastery at Glenshiray.

7.—Our Lady, Star of the Sea, the angelus bell which rings out at morning, noon and sunset, inviting the faithful to recite the Hail Mary.

8.—St. Murdoch, who founded Kilmorich, the church standing at the head of Loch Fyne.

9.-St. Brigid, Abbess of Kildare.

10.—St. Molaise, who founded Strachur and was reputed to be the confessor of St. Columba.

deservedly popular. (May we suggest, in future planning, some variation of the touches, especially in the world of Caters and Cinques?)

A broad survey of the year's literature shows enterprise and industry. For ringers there has been much to read and study, and some useful work has been done in keeping the chief objects of our work as officers of the Church before the public.

A SENTIMENTAL JOURNEY

The time had come. To lighten the burden on the tower, to ease the task of bell-ringers, to improve the sound, the bells were to be lowered. They were to meet the furnace and then, reborn, they would return cast in lighter mould. But today, wheelless and clapperless, the bells lay silent in their frame. Above them, thrusting deep into the tower wall, a new steel girder had been placed. Hung with cable and tackle it was ready to lower the bells to the ground. Below, the worm-eaten floor had been removed and the dust-laden debris had been taken away. The strong cable snaked through the open trapdoor of the ringing chamber to the winch many feet below. In the centre of the belfry, roped securely to the large pulley, the heavy tenor bell stood poised over the chasm.

For a hundred years the big bell had waited patiently for the lighter treble's voice to announce the beginning of ringing. Then, after the other bells had responded in their turn, the weighty tenor had sounded her own resonant tone. But now the smaller bells lay quietly in the frame, giving precedence to the heaviest bell. Today, the tenor would be the first to demand attention. She would pioneer the long descent, and if her effort was successful the others would follow.

Now all was ready. Bellringers, friends and photographers had assembled to speed the bells on their way. The tenor sat brooding over all like an ageing ballerina waiting in the wings for the curtain to rise on her last appearance. The final adjust-ments were made and a call came from high in the tower to the workers ready at the winch. Amidst flashing light from ama-teur and professional photographer, as ropes and cable grew taut, with one reluc-tant groan the great bell rose from the timber which had given her support for so long. Swaying gently, the bell turned slightly, and with a second call from her attendants to those below, she began her careful descent. Gradually, as if still hesitant to leave the dim belfry, she was cajoled by strong hands away from one large beam and then a second. Her way was clear now through the ringing chamber below, where the gaping void of the trapdoor awaited. Slowly the minutes passed and onward the bell descended until, with straining ropes and pressure from helping men, the great bulk was persuaded to sink gently, with little space to spare, through the opening.

To the gaze of those below the bell appeared to falter awkwardly as she emerged into the daylight. Winchmen paused from their handle turning and the brakeman looked apprehensively upwards. For many of the onlookers this was their first sight of her great size as she hung there, obliterating the opening through which she had just entered. Then with a slight tremble as the winch again began to turn, the bell slowly, very slowly, continued her path downwards. From the nave of the church, looking upwards, the great shape could be seen silhouetted against the clear light of the west window. A pause in the noisy comment of the spectators and there was a moment to reflect upon the many years of service this bell and her sister bells had given. Except when silenced by the clamour of war, for nearly ten decades these bells had rung out their message of a service about to begin, a wedding to celebrate, or a new year to welcome. No solemn music played to bid farewell, but perhaps, one fancied, from some recess of the church

WILLIAM SHEPHERD

An Appreciation

The recent death of Bill Shepherd removes one of the few remaining links with the giants of the pre-1914 era.

I first met Bill at a district meeting at Chobham, Surrey, in 1946, where I learnt to ring with the local "stoney" band. I had never witnessed method ringing and was at a loss when approached by a rather large, middle-aged gentleman, who wanted to know where I rang. When I told him his reaction amazed me. "Get out of it, boy. Go and make yourself a nuisance at Horsell and Chertsey; they'll be glad to teach you." Within half-an-hour I had been introduced to the district officers and local tower captains.

William Shepherd was a direct, uncomplicated man, with a wonderful capacity for friendliness. Later, when I rang with him, I found him a sharp-tongued critic when he had a rope in his hand, but never badtempered should a touch fire out. He hated bad handling!

His anecdotes concerning the great ringers of his youth enlivened many a ringers' tea. Stories of his long handbell peals with Alf Pulling, ringing with Rev. F. E. Robinson, Washbrook, the Pyes, and of his early ring-ing days in his native Devon would fill a book. Surprise ringing held no charms for him, but his love for Stedman he passed on to many who rang with him.

We remember him with gratitude.

below there came a fragrant memory of incense to bless the bell on her journey.

Slowly, steadily, downward the huge bell came and now loomed large over the heads of the admiring watchers; but as the long cables reaching far above twisted, the bell's sedate bearing was forsaken and although still resolutely creeping downwards the great bell began to pirouette. At first slowly and then with quickening speed the bell turned until anxious attendants grasped the ropes that dangled from her side and her momentary show of coquetry was subdued. A little further and her wide rim was within the clasp of clutching fingers. Slowly still, but pulled to one side, it was guided to a corner of the tower. A few more inches then as metal touched stone with a faint, final echo of her once-powerful voice, the great bell came to rest. In the lore of the bell tower: "Look to, tenor's going—she's gone." Among the 25 victory peals recorded were those at Bray, Berks, and Dinder, Somerset, where in each case five out of the six rang a first, and at Bury St. Edmunds five out of eight. five out of eight. Altogether there were 32 first peals.

When Mr. C. H. Kippin sent in his resignation from office in the Surrey Association because he had left the county Messrs. F. E. Collins and D. Cooper spoke appreciatively of the excellent work done by Mr. Kippin for the Association.

A peal ringing tour of Kent advertised for August 18-28 was to cost those attending 5s. per night (bed and breakfast) at Folkestone.

The death of Pte. William Strickland, of Blackpool, took place in hospital at Epsom, the cause being extreme malnutrition. He had been a prisoner-of-war in Stalag 8B Camp, Germany, from June 1, 1944.

An accident in the tower of Leyland Church, Lancs, required continuous work night and day from Thursday to Saturday so that a meeting could be held there.

At the Yorkshire Association A.G.M. it was announced that the membership was 1.165 and the balance in the accounts stood at £397 and only nine subscriptions had not been paid. Canon C. C. Marshall was reelected president.

"Correspondents should remember that items of news, peal footnotes and the like, which to them seem important, are not necessarily of interest to the general reader, and if they are omitted it is because the space is wanted for other items." — From the leader.

50 YEARS AGO

May 28, 1920

The heavy ring of ten rang out merrily to their first quarter peal since restoration, when Princess Mary visited the 800-years-old parish church at West Ham.

At Burwash, Robert, Reginald and Frederick J., jun. and Frederick J. Lambert, sen. took part in a peal on May 1 and next day the three last-named in a similar peal at Horsmonden.

The new ten at Cullompton, Devon, the six at Capenhurst, Cheshire, those at Nunney, Som., and the six at Bispham, Blackpool, were all to be dedicated as victory rings.

A meeting of the Middlesex Association was held at St. Giles-in-the-Fields to help a new band recently formed, and nine were elected as members. Mr. G. W. Fletcher had helped teach the band.

The Cumberlands rang a peal of Bob Maximus at Southwark, Walter Ayres on the tenor ringing his first on 12. The treble was rung by 16-years-old R. R. Marshall. Miss Pattie Clarke and Messrs. James Clarke, junior and senior, took part in a peal at Nuneaton—a father, son and daughter.

The 35th A.G.M. of the Sussex County Association at Brighton elected Mr. J. T. Rickman as master, in succession to Mr. F. B. Tompkins.

From Bolsover, Derbyshire:

Here lies in a horizontal position the outside case of Thomas Hind, clock and watch maker, who departed this life wound up in hope of being taken in hand by his Maker. Thoroughly cleaned, repaired, and set agoing for the world to come.

St. Stephen, Clapham Park

Cover Picture

St. Stephen, Clapham Park

-"ALL ROADS LED TO CLAPHAM"

"WEIR ROAD, S.W." says the sign. An attractive but otherwise ordinary London street, with terraced houses, on the edge of Clapham Park; nothing to suggest, either from the sign or the road itself, that it contains a church of any description, let alone one of the finest rings of bells in the London area. But then, negotiating a bend, one suddenly comes upon it, set back, for modesty's sake, as it were, from the road.

It could hardly be called a beautiful building, with its three-gabled roof in poor repair, rather ugly squat tower, with single, narrow belfry louvres, and what seems a mere apology for a spire, a short, conical structure, raised slightly above the level of the parapet, and visible only from certain approaches to the church. Hideous stone waterspouts, with monstrous faces, which call to mind their devilish counterparts in Thomas Hardy's Far From the Madding Crowd, leer mockingly from each corner.

Inside, the 13th century French arcades, and stone reredos, with its relief of the Last Supper, jar somewhat with the otherwise austere and drab features of the building. At the west end is a large gallery open to the church and dominated on three sides by huge latticed windows. A short wooden ladder leads above, where eight ropes hang down, seemingly as rigid and immovable as the rest of the building or its furniture. Indeed, walking through the church to ring, one felt as if one was about to violate the uncanny silence, the utter lack of motion and activity that envelops the place. Inside the narrow and pitch-black turret is a vertical iron ladder which, owing to doubts cast upon its safety, has, in its time, frightened off some of the hardiest ringers in London, but, ironically, was discovered at last to be perfectly sound except for the bottom few rungs.

Early accounts of the foundation of St. Stephen's relate that the daughter of Sir James Knowles, the famous architect, wanted to marry the Rev. George Eastman. Her father would not allow it, so she did the next best thing and built him a church to her father's designs.

It is a feature of all legends that, largely as a result of their fanciful and attractive nature, the passage of years hardens childish fiction into unquestionable truth, and what was once an "old wives' tale" is recounted with all the earnestness and conviction accorded to historical fact. So we find reference to this "romance" and its supposed connection with the building of St. Stephen's, Clapham Park, in an article in The Clapham Observer in 1927. It was immediately rebuffed, and with no small measure of contempt. All that is known for certain is that a small plot of land was for certain is that a small plot of land was bought on April 11, 1867, for £850, and that a church designed by Sir James Knowles was built by a Mr. Muspratt, of Battersea, for £5,700. It was consecrated on June 22, 1867, and completed early in the 20th century with the addition of the

It was largely through the efforts of the Rev. G. H. Ensor, the vicar, that a ring of bells was ordered from Gillett and Johnston in 1919. The bells were iraended as a memorial to those who had laid down their lives in the First World War, and as a thankoffering for the recent signing of peace. They were also a thanksgiving for the long life of an aged lady parishioner, who donated the necessary funds, asking to remain anonymous.

The opening of the bells caused a great stir in ringing circles. To begin with, they were one of the first post-war rings to be completed; they were also one of the first "Simpson-tuned" in London. "All roads lead to Clapham tomorrow for the opening of the first completely new post-war ring, Belfry Gossip for June 6, 1919. And what a grand occasion it was, with an absolutely packed church, including several notable dignitaries. Telegrams of congratulation were received from the Prince of Wales and Prince Albert, Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig and others. The following week it was reported that the bells were proving to be a "magnet" to ringers in the area, and would be rung for both Sunday services for some time ahead. Meanwhile, for the rest of the year, the tenor bell was proudly depicted in Gillett's full-page Ringing World advertisement.

The first peal attempted on the bells, three weeks after the opening, was lost, but a successful attempt, Stedman Triples by the College Youths, was made a fort-night later. In included such well-known ringers as Edwin Horrex, W. T. Cockerill, the three Langdons and Reuben Sanders. Bert Langdon, who was in charge of the local band, called it, and he later became the only man to ring every bell in the tower to a peal. Only 17 peals have been rung on the bells, of which 12 were before 1924. The majority were by the College Youths, and included eight of Stedman Triples and only six of Major. The final peal was on March 28 last year.

A short time ago it was decided that the cost of putting the church in proper repair was too great, and plans for its demolition and the building of a new St. Stephen's were put in hand. Shortly after Easter a party, composed mainly of members of the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths, began the unenviable task of dismantling the bells and finally, on April 10, after much back-breaking work, the bells which for over 50 years had proclaimed across Clapham Park their magnificent and inspiring message of the wonder and glory of God were lowered, mute and unprotesting, to the ground, loaded ignominiously on to a waiting lorry and driven away from Weir Road for ever. Perhaps the driver would have been overawed had he been able to comprehend the magnitude of the tragedy of which he had unwittingly become a principal agent.

So the bells have gone, and perhaps by the time this article is published St. Stephen's, Clapham Park, will have gone, too. Soon a new St. Stephen's will be built, an attractive church in modern style. perhaps the new church will have its bells back! But for some it will never be quite the same. Standing in the gallery over-looking the church, with the huge belfry windows letting in the light, the piles of books, many unopened for years, the dusty harmonium, and, lastly, the view down the nave, culminating in the stone reredos, makes this experience and the sound of St. Stephen's bells inextricably interwoven.

It is a memory that will be with me when I walk down Weir Road and see the empty site, or when, God willing, I ring the bells in their new home. For me they will always be the "Bells of St. Stephen's, Weir Road, London, S.W."

CAR OUTING ARRANGED

The Northern District met at Benington on May 2, where ringing took place before shortened Evensong at which Canon R. J. Davies officiated.

After tea in the village hall the president (Rex Agg) took the chair for the business, when three new members were elected, viz.: John Seager (Stevenage, formerly of Sheffield), Sarah Green (St. David's) and Bryce Wood (Benington).

The secretary (Geoff Horritt) urged members to enter as many teams as possible for the district striking competition.

It was announced that the Hitchin outing will be by car because of the new transport legislation. The organisers hope for a large and crowded convoy heading for the Eve-sham area on June 27.

The Voluntary Bell Fund is to be transferred to a deposit account at a local bank. Brenda Harris and her helpers thanked for the tea arrangements. Members then returned to the tower, where they were joined by girls from St. Albans High School, who were rounding off their day's M. M. R. outing.

Presentation to Mr. and Mrs. Tom White

TWENTY-THREE YEARS' SERVICE AS EDITOR RECOGNISED

Before the commencement of the business of the 73rd Annual Meeting of the Central Council of Church Bell Ringers on Tuesday, May 26, at the Kings Hall, Ilkley, Yorks, the president of the Council, Mr. John Freeman, at the request of Mr. Wilfrid Wilson (convener of the R.W. Committee), presented Mr. Tom White, who has retired after 23 years as editor of the R.W., with a silver dish, suitably inscribed on the lid and containing a cheque for £600. Mrs. White received a porcelain figure of a girl in costume.

Mr. White, who was greatly moved by the generous gifts made to himself and Mrs. White, suitably acknowledged the presentation, and as they left the platform both received tumultuous applause.

[A full report will be given next week. -Ed.]

FORMAL WELCOME

The civic welcome extended to the president (Mr. John Freeman), officers and members of the Central Council took place at H.Q. on Monday evening. The chairman of llkley U.D.C. (Councillor R. P. Bushell), The chairman who was accompanied by his wife, was introduced by Mr. Freeman and amidst applause said Ilkley was indeed delighted that the Central Council had chosen their town for its meeting, and had also honoured a family who during its lifetime did so much to encourage the art of change ringing.

He went on to enlarge upon the Snowdon family and the work that its various members had done for Ilkley and for the bell-ringing Exercise.

The speaker said that over a long period church bells had played an important part in the life of the country, chiefly as a "call to worship," and he expressed pleasure that so many young people were being en-couraged to participate in change ringing.

This was to be his last public function as chairman of the U.D.C., and when he handed over to his successor on Wednesday it would be a pleasant thought that his year of office terminated with the pealing of the bells by the members of the Central Council. He concluded by wishing success to what remained of the meeting and hoped one day the bellringers would return to Ilkley.

The vicar of All Saints' Parish Church then addressed the gathering and extended good wishes and appreciation for the work that bellringers carried out. He was proud to be vicar of the parish in which the Rev. John Snowdon and his sons, Jasper and William, had lived and worked.

A Gilbertian situation followed whereby Mr. Vernon Bottomley, as president of the Yorkshire Association, extended his official welcome to the Council, of which he is the hon. general secretary! The banter which he used towards the president was quite amusing and there is no doubt Mr. Bottomley is a Yorkshireman "to his finger-tips." He completed his speech in local dialect, bidding the Council welcome to come again.

The president, before closing the formal proceedings, amused the company with a fund of stories and anecdotes which enlivened the proceedings considerably, before thanking the Yorkshire Association and other individuals for their kindness and hospitality. Mr. Wilfrid F. Moreton, hon. gen. secretary of the Yorkshire Association, was particularly mentioned, for a considerable amount of the organisation had been his responsibility, and carried through with Mr. Moreton's usual precision and thoroughness. Those responsible for the tours and trips were also thanked, as were the ringers who had prepared the towers and seen everything was in order there.

FROM JASPER'S NIECES

The president of the Yorkshire Association (Mr. Vernon Bottomley), before giving his speech of welcome, read a letter received from Jasper Snowdon's nieces, as follows:

"Please convey congratulations to the bellringers at Ilkley at the 70th year of the Council meeting at Ilkley this weekend, from Uncle Jasper Snowdon's two remaining nieces: Olive Strickland (Dart-ford, Kent), Christabel Graham, in Edinburgh.

"We remember also in gratitude the unstinted work of our cousin, the late Margaret Snowdon, of Cartmel, in keeping the beliringing books in circulation through difficult times between two world wars.

"With best wishes for the success of the meeting." This message was greeted with applause.

INFORMAL GATHERING TO BE A REGULAR FEATURE

The meeting held at the headquarters of the Central Council (the Craiglands Hotel) on the Sunday evening (an informal one) was so successful that it is proposed to make it an annual "get together" in order that C.C. members and other ringers attending can express views on the various aspects of the agenda and other relevant matters connected with the Exercise.

About 120 attended the first of these, although at times the numbers varied considerably when groups retired (to the bar?)

The report of the Standing Committee on the constitution and procedural working of the Council, printed and circulated, was the subject of this year's gathering, and the president (Mr. John Freeman) opened the meeting by introducing the "panel" on the platform who were supporting him. These were Messrs. E. A. Barnett (vice-president), R. F. B. Speed (Aims, Objects and Proceedures report), P. A. Corby (Membership), D. Beresford (Finance) and V. Bottomley (hon. secretary).

A number of suggestions came from the body of the hall and at times the lighthearted quips caused considerable merriment. Each section of the report was dealt with and at the end the chairman sum-marised the points of a section discussed, but no conclusions were drawn, although at the Council's business meeting on the following Tuesday this summary was to be read, with the possibility of further pro-posals and general acceptance of at any rate some of the points made.

The proceedings lasted for nearly two hours and it was agreed at the close that the Standing Committee were now working on the right lines.

A show of hands on the question of whether the Council is too large found this not to be so (by a two to one majority). although there were many who abstained from voting.

A SUMMARY OF TUESDAY'S PROCEEDINGS

The business of the Council was opened with prayer led by Canon A. G. G. Thurlow, and was followed by the hon. secretary giving details of representation: membership, 204, and, with one exception, all subscriptions paid. New members were then welcomed and honorary members elected.

The gathering stood whilst those members who had died during the past year were remembered, and the minutes, printed and circulated, were read and accepted with one correction. The reports presented by the hon. secretary and hon. librarian were also approved, and the 1969 accounts were disposed of with little comment except for investment suggestions. Similar treatment was given to the report on the Carter ringing machine—approved with a few inquiries by interested persons present, and answered by Mr. D. Hughes.

Three hours were spent discussing, item by item, the report of the Standing Committee, and considerable time was also given to various motions on the agenda. The reports by committees (12 of them!) were presented and the majority accepted without comment, but a few occupied the Council's time, some members thought, "unnecessarily long." In one instance a proposal to pass on to the next business was immediately accepted.

Coventry is the association that will entertain the Council in 1971, but no centre has yet been chosen as HQ.

For 1972 a suggestion that the possibility of meeting in London be investigated was favourably received, and inquiries are to be started.

A variety of small, but quite important. items arose under "any other business," but as the hands of the clock had reached 6.20 little discussion followed.

Thanks were given to many bodies and individuals before the president declared the meeting closed.

It is doubtful if the Central Council has ever before had among its membership a father and his two sons (Mr. Cecil Pipe and George and Roderick Pipe) and at the same time a father, mother and son (Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rogers and Christopher).

PEAL RINGING AND TOURS

Peals were attempted (and some were successful!) among the many tinging activities over the week-end, but the organised coach tour on the Monday was possibly the one enjoyed most by a section of the members. Leaving H.O. at 9 a.m., a pleasant and comfortable trip of some 100 miles was made with ringing at Skipton (8, 22 cwt.), Giggleswick (8, 10\frac{1}{2} cwt.), Middleham (8. 18 cwt.), Ripon (10, 23 cwt.) and Harrogate (8, 124 cwt.). Lunch was at the 16th centurv Rose and Crown at Bainbridge, and tea at Ripon.

The beautiful Yorkshire countryside was at its springlike best, and Mr. Fred Munday was the organiser, with Mr. Ted Hudson giving considerable verbal assistance as courier, his knowledge of the houses, castles. churches—and pubs— over the route taken being advanced for the benefit of those on the coach.

The entertainment side of the tour was supplied by the Truro contingent sitting in the rear of the coach, and it was regretted by some that they did not start their "enter-taining" earlier in the day.

Altogether, a happy and successful outing.

A Happy and Successful Occasion

SURREY ASSOCIATION CELEBRATION DINNER

The 90th anniversary dinner of the Surrey Association was held at Grants Restaurant, Croydon, on May 16, when a company of 150 enjoyed the excellent meal provided and, after the speeches, took part in the social activities arranged as entertainment and with dancing until midnight.

Among the guests at dinner, over which the recently elected master (Mr. C. F. Mew) presided, were Mrs. Mew, the Bishop of Croydon (Rt. Rev. J. Taylor Hughes), the Mayor and Mayoress of Croydon (Councillor and Mrs. Ronald Tilbury), the president of the Central Council (Mr. John Freeman) and the Editor of The Ringing World (Mr. C. W. Denyer).

Following the loyal toast, Mr. Bernard Hawkins proposed "The Church and the Exercise" and said how appropriate it was that for their 90th celebration they should meet at Croydon, when the church was holding its 100th anniversary of rebuilding, following destruction by fire.

The Church and the Exercise have been linked for nearly 300 years, and in its early days bellringers were a rowdy and hardrinking crowd. During the last 20 years the Church had been going through a rough patch, and now that a lot of the dead wood had been cleared it must move with the times. It was essential for every church, and particularly the belfry, to present an active and light appearance and so encourage people to come. He hoped the Church and the Exercise in Surrey would remain alive and successful and continue on a sea of tranquillity.

Replying, the Bishop said he did not know what the word "Exercise" meant, and he confessed he knew nothing about bellinging. There was, however, the wonderful experience of harmony and co-operation within its ranks, and of knowing they were playing a particular part in the work of the Church. He thanked the ringers for the joy they gave to others and wished them success and happiness when they "exercised their bells."

The toast to the visitors was proposed by Mr. R. J. Cook, who welcomed the principal guests, particularly the Mayor, who was performing one of his last official functions in that capacity, as he was nearing the end of his term of office. The speaker coupled the names of John Freeman and Charles Denyer as two whose names appear week by week in The Ringing World without necessarily going near a tower. He also welcomed Mr. Gower, of Australia—"from one of our colonies" (laughter). Mr. Cook then quoted from The Sunday Telegraph how ringers should appraise their work and improve their performance and concluded by thanking the guests for their company that evening.

The Mayor, replying, said he had learned a lot about bellringers and bellringing from the master and his wife that evening. He thanked the members of the association on behalf of the guests for a splendid meal and the happy evening. He told several amusing stories and said that the Croydon Corporation had very good associations with the Church, and the bellringers played an important part in the life of the town. The Mayor stated that bellringing "was a bit of old England," and he hoped the Surrey Association would reach its centenary and go from strength to strength.

Mr. Freeman, proposing "The Association," had his audience doubled up with laughter as he drifted from story to story, but on a more serious note, speaking of the 90th anniversary, he said they were now approaching old age, when individuals and associations became set in their ways. Some bright lad then found that re-assessment was necessary. The Surrey Association was, he believed, going to revise its rules and constitution. The Central Council also was carrying out a similar exercise through its Standing Committee. "The wind of change" was to some people's minds a hurricane that swept away everything that existed to be replaced with something new but not necessarily better. This was quite wrong, for nothing should be changed that had been proved. Change for change's sake was destructive. The fact that their association had existed for 90 years proved it had a solid foundation. One should build on that foundation, not sweep it all

If any differed from their opinion it was necessary to realise that they were probably sincere in what they believed. On the Council at present there were two sections—"us" and "them." There was a time, said Mr. Freeman, when he was one of "us," but now he was one of "them," but in the end all were aiming for the same thing. He congratulated the master and wished the association continued success. The toast was well received.

Replying, Mr. Mew welcomed everybody and thanked the committee for its work. He had sent an article to The Ringing World regarding the history of the association—which was started, it seems, in the Kings Arms in Carshalton. He concluded by saying that every association relied on its members—not the officers. The community spirit was the thing that mattered and he looked for young ringers to come along, with older one who would help and encourage those young people.

The toastmaster for the evening was one of the association's past masters, Mr. F. E. (Ted) Collins, from Ringwood, Hampshire.

THE GATHERING

Lancashire Association EIGHT TEAMS COMPETE

On April 18 the Manchester branch of the Lancashire Association held its annual striking competition at St. Wilfred's. Northenden, and it was very encouraging to have eight teams competing. The judges were Messrs. Frank Reynolds and Paul D. Smith and before the start of the competition good use was made of the bells and methods were rung to suit all tastes.

After tea in St. Wilfred's Rectory, Mr. Smith gave a brief synopsis of each team in the order of ringing, and the results were: 1st St. John's, Roughtown, Mossley (A) (15 faults), 2nd St. Michael's, Flixton (40), 3rd Manchester Cathedral (54), 4th St. Wilfred's, Northenden (60), 5th St. George's, Hyde (A) (75), 6th St. John's, Roughtown, Mossley (B) (95), 7th St. James', Birch-in-Rusholme (120), 8th St. George's, Hyde (B) (171).

LEEDS AND DISTRICT RINGERS IN PEAKLAND

The first outing of the newly-formed Leeds and District Branch was held on April 18, when seven towers in Derbyshire and Cheshire were visited.

Ringing included plenty of rounds and call changes and plenty of Surprise (and surprises!) for the proficient at Dronfield and Hope. After tea at Macclesfield we sampled the light eight at St. Peter's and the ten at Christ Church. Disappointment came at Castleton, where, in spite of normal precautions having been taken, a refractory clock hammer insisted on wrapping itself up in the woodwork of the fifth and tenor.

Our thanks to all incumbents and ringers who greeted and looked after us, and to Ron Warford (ringing master) for the organisation of a memorable day. R. B.

CHANGE OF OFFICERS

The A.G.M. of the Banbury and District Branch was held on April 18 at Deddington, when 50 attended, including a large proportion of young people.

After six years as secretary, Mr. Herbert did not wish to stand for re-election, and he was thanked by the chairman for the work he had done.

The Rev. D. Eastman (Banbury) said he would have to relinquish the position as chairman as he was moving to another living in Buckinghamshire.

The newly-elected committee are: B. J Davis (secretary), Mrs. J. Davis (treasurer), R. A. Reeves (ringing master), A. Griffin (deputy ringing master), R. Thorne (branch representative).

Ringing continued at Deddington until B. J. D. 8.30 p.m.

At the A.G.M. of the Liverpool University Society of Change Ringers on May 2. the committee elected were: Master, Corrie; secretary, Miss G. Sims; treasurer, K. Labbett; deputy ringing master, R. Button; committee member, Miss Ann Waldron.

Various activities to take place during the coming year were discussed. The summer tour to be held in Gloucestershire is to be based on a camp site at Stanton in the Cotswolds and is to take place in July. Next year's dinner is to be held in February, the venue to be chosen later. The 1971 A.G.M. is arranged for May 1.

Salisbury Diocesan Guild. BRADPOLE RINGERS

CONGRATULATED

Some 25 members and visitors of West Dorset Branch, representing nine towers, attended the branch quarterly meeting at Beaminster on April 25. Ringing was under Beaminster on April 25. Ringing was under the supervision of the ringing masters and although time was limited some good striking came from this pleasant ring of eight. The guild service was conducted by Canon D. V. Galloway. Mr. T. Andrew read the lesson and Mr. R. Gunning was organist. Tea was enjoyed by all and was prepared by local lady ringers. At the business meeting, at which the chairman, Mr. C. W. Powell, presided, the next meeting was arranged for Evershot in July. Bradpole ringers were congratulated on ringing five quarter peals in four days, inringing five quarter peals in four days, including some firsts. After the meeting members went to Stoke Abbott for further ringing.

M.U.G. MAY OUTING

The Manchester University Guild's summer term outing during the first week-end of May was also the first week-end of sum-mer weather. "Ron's Runabout" was organised by Ron Barclay, based at Saltburn, Yorks, and on Friday afternoon we headed for Stockton-on-Tees. Here the first car-load joined the local practice, and late arrivals were allowed a ring on this slow but well-kept ten. After a taste of York-shire ale we reached Saltburn and descended upon Ron's home, where his parents welcomed us generously with refreshments and enough space for the sleeping bags, but the girls used the spare beds in the house.

At 7 a.m. next day coffee and cereal saw us on the road in fine weather heading for Whitby and the 19 cwt. ten at St. Mary's, high on the cliffs above the town. These very ringable bells were enjoyed, though difficult to hear, and we were joined by three Rambling Ringers. At Fylingdales we had to work hard to ring the 6 cwt. eight at St. Stephen's (a noisy ring, but quite pleasant). We now had 15 minutes to cover the 15 miles to Scalby, so unfortunately our ring on this 9½ cwt. six was rather short, for the bells go well and sound good. At St. Mary's, Scarborough, the 20 cwt. eight handle well and have a satisfying tone.

RINGING CHAMBER CROWDED

After lunch we experienced a contrast at Wykeham on the 9½ cwt. five. The small ringing chamber in the detached tower which also serves as the church gate was crowded before we entered, planks running from wall to wall and clock cases hanging from the roof. We moved on to Pickering (a 14 cwt. eight of mediocre tone). At Helmsley, where the 12 cwt. eight go well, we were impressed by the device for disconnecting the clock hammers—an electric push-button in the ringing chamber. This control is duplicated in the church so that the clock, which plays tunes at all hours of the day, may be silenced at night.

On to Thirsk to a mediocre 14 cwt. eight and a church well worth visiting for its fres-At Northallerton we took a tea break before competing with the fair which littered the streets. The dodgems and Walzer shook the church with broadsides from multiple loudspeakers, but we replied with the fine tone of the very ringable 18 cwt, eight which soothed our ears, though it must have sounded like hell outside! On to Walton, a very picturesque village, the length of the main street straddling a stream, and a 9 cwt. six, the treble ringer having to sit in the window, the 3rd ruins his hands on the clock case, the 4th stands more out of the door than in, and the tenor is better rung facing the wall; the bells. however, go and sound well. At our last tower of the day, Carlton, the Yorkshire Association meeting caught up with us and our resources combined to enjoy the good 16 cwt. eight. The traditional M.U.G. Chinese meal closed the day.

A double bout of service ringing in the morning-at Saltburn we were deafened by the 23½ cwt. eight, and the eight of similar weight at Skelton. We enjoyed a break from ringing with the traditional cricket match before lunch. On a poor wicket and with a fierce sun high in the sky, North were very unlucky to be beaten by South-

8 runs to 15.

Leaving Saltburn in the afternoon, we rang at Guisborough (an 8½ cwt. six) and at Kirby Wiske for Evensong (a very fine 8 cwt. six which handles well despite the long draught) and the convoy then made the

FOR HIS 50th BIRTHDAY

Half a century is a special occasion for any man, but for Mr. Frank Reynolds, general secretary of the Lancashire Association, this great day was especially thrilling, inasmuch as he received a beautifully decorated birthday cake made and iced by Mrs. Cyril Crossthwaite. On top was the name "Frank," and beside it was a red and blue line (in icing) of a "method." On each side of the square cake were two figures (in colour), each holding a bellrope with coloured sally, and in various "actions." The whole work was a masterpiece there is no doubt whatever that it was a pity to spoil the cake by cutting it. Unfortunately we cannot reproduce the colour photograph!

200 MILES FOR TWO TOWERS

The annual outing of the ringers at Limerick Cathedral took place on May 16, and they were accompanied by the Dean (Very Rev. M. J. Talbot), president of the Irish Association

At the first tower, Kilkenny Cathedral, we were welcomed by Dean Caird, and good use was made of the eight for our 90-minute stay. Outside Kilkenny, at a convenient spot, the party of 31 enjoyed a picnic lunch in ideal weather. Thirty miles further south we visited Waterford Cathedral and the eight were kept ringing for two hours.

The round trip of 200 miles, the ringing and the company were very enjoyable.

JOINT MEETING WITH BEVERLEY

The A.G.M. of the Eastern Branch was held at Pocklington as a joint meeting with the Beverley and District Society on May 9.

The eight bells were rung promptly at 3 p.m., Spliced Surprise being the service

Fifty-nine members and friends sat down to tea and at the busineses meeting the branch chairman (Mr. A. B. Cooper) specially welcomed the president (Mr. V. Bottomley) and his wife, the general secretary (Mr. W. F. Morc.on), Canon Christie and his wife (Pocklington) and Mr. H. Hawcroft (Sutton-on-Trent).

Three new members were elected: Misses Carole Kean and Elaine Sherwood (Holme-on-Spalding Moor) and Miss Angela Gar-diner (Hessle). Mr. D. S. Johnson was reelected ringing master, and Messrs. L. M. Woodhead and R. Sanderson to the branch committee.

The proposed striking competition to be held by the Yorkshire Association was brought to the notice of the meeting and after some discussion it was agreed that the eastern branch should organise a contest in July.

Mr. N. Castle (president) said there was no business for the Beverley Society but announced the June meeting would be held at Scarborough and Scalby.

Mr. H. Walker proposed thanks to Canon Christie and to Mr. C. Bairstow and the ladies for tea arrangements, and Canon Christie replied.

CAN MEETINGS BE IMPROVED?

Dear Sir,-I expect that not a few associations and guilds have at heart the problem concerning the absence of many of their members on the occasion of monthly and quarterly meetings.

At least one officer of the association of which I am a member has asked "What does one do to improve meetings . . . to inspire the support of young ringers in particu-lar?" These questions were partly the result of my recent remarks concerning several young people who displayed over the years little or no interest in the association apart from paying their yearly subscriptions.

There are a number of ways of viewing this. A great deal depends on whether young people are taught to ring bells in a church or a village edifice. readily assume, with some truth, that a township affords far greater recruitment potential than that in rural areas. Be that as it may, there is, however, an overriding problem.

A town, as opposed to a village, offers favourable opportunity for part-time employment and consequently a large number of youths are invariably employed eight or nine hours on Saturdays, a day on which much bellringing activity ensues. I do not think for one moment that anyone will criticise young people when they display enterprise in order to earn themselves a few shillings by running errands and serving behind counters and at market stalls. When a young person is so employed after six days of full-time education, he or she is not in a position to seek a Saturday afternoon away from work, for there are many others willing to occupy that same position.

Furthermore, a town, such as the one in which I live, invites much voluntary help in social work. Several young people are interested in the aged and in the incapacitated, and this, as far as they are concerned, means devoting their time at week-ends. It would be quite wrong, of course, to attempt to dissuade young ringers to neglect the finer points of their concern for others.

Then, naturally, a town offers variable attractions, most of which are highly competitive with that of ringing. The result of this, for better or for worse, young people add campanology to an already imposing list of pastimes, and many rightly earn the time-honoured phrase "Jack of all trades and master of none." All this is a sign of the times and one which I have learned to accept.

I feel that although recruitment potential may well be low, a greater chance of sub-jecting would-be bellringers to the finer points of the art as a mundane pastime is afforded in the rural areas. This view was well illustrated to me recently. I visited by chance the village of Gedney Hill, a very small parish, and while approaching the main street, such as it was, I was surprised, and agreeably so, to hear the bells ringing. Soon I was engaged in conversa-tion with the local ringers, most of whom started ringing at Christmas time. They were already ringing methods and this, too, surprised me. I queried the number of weeks from which they started from scratch, and was informed: "We practise started ringing at Christmas time. every night of the week on tied bells, but untie them on Fridays, the official practice night!" Looking at the village I could see that very little rival pastime threatened these enthusiastic men.

COLLECTIONS AND STEEPLEAGE

Dear Sir,-Recently it was brought to my notice by a senior church official that money may not be collected in church without the incumbent's permission and that the money collected is the property of the church although the incumbent may donate it elsewhere. This surely throws a new facet on the question of steepleage, and many of these collections, it would seem, are therefore illegal.

Where collections are taken at regular practices in set churches, it is presumed that the incumbents are aware of the collections and that the funds collected will be of some benefit to the church. In other cases where associations collect steepleage at all meetings, and the money goes to association funds, it would seem that the law is being contravened, especially if no part of the money is offered to the church. Yours faithfully,

ROBIN J. COLLIS.

Whitton, Middlesex.

Where do meetings come into this? Obviously in the light of the above paragraphs, meetings are not going to experience a mad emergence of ringers of

The main thing, I think, is to eliminate boredom. People attend meetings in order to ring the bells rather than socialise, and there is nothing worse than sitting around one one's backside for the best part of three or four hours. Nevertheless, services and social occasions have deep values, though there is a tendency for evening meetings to eliminate these important neces-

With many meetings there is a tendency for a young ringer to feel "out of it" inasmuch as he or she is very limited in knowledge of method structure.

On one occasion I observed three youngsters who were attending a meeting for the first time. Out of a total of four hours' ringing they rang rounds four times, at five minutes per session-20 minutes in all. About 25 ringers were present. As far as I know these young people-who still ring at their parish church—have not attended other meetings. Can one really blame them?

If one dare to suggest a way of improving meetings in order to encourage those who are able to attend, at least half of the ringing time must be devoted to Plain Bob Doubles and Minor, plain hunting and rounds and even call changes. All who are capable of entwining themselves in the complexities of advanced methods should be prepared to sacrifice the pleasure of participating in these refined structures and get down to the more exacting task involved in the tuition of their lesser-experienced brethren, who have every right to their full share of the bells on a Saturday afternoon.

The only snag is this: Will the more practised of us feel we are being deprived of something which we have grown to believe is our right . . . and stay away?

Has anyone else ideas on this particular subject? It is a valid one, considering that over two-thirds of an average association's members pay their subscriptions and are not seen or heard of again until 12 months have elapsed.—Yours faithfully,

TREVOR A. BEVIS

SIMPSON OR HEMONY?

Deac Sir.-I believe that it was at the Consistory Court hearing in 1925 which determined the fate of the old Pack and Chapman bells at Coventry Cathedral that the late Wooding Starmer remarked that the "out-standing bells" of the old English founders only attracted attention because they had something near an octave hum note rather than the flat seventh which usually resulted from the old method of trying to tune the nominal and leaving the other tones to take care of themselves. About 20 years earlier he had said that the form of English bells had been so altered to make them easier to swing that the series of bell tones had been so upset that the effect would be "deplorable" if similar bells were used for the carillon, although it was not so noticeable "amid the clang of change ringing." It is, however, certain that no English bells were in tune with themselves, or anything else for that matter, before Taylor sent the first harmonically-tuned ring to Norton, Sheffield,

It is to Francis (1609-1667) and Pieter Hemony (1619–1680) of Zutphen and the Mill Path Foundry, Amsterdam, Holland, that we must look for the first examples of scientifically-tuned bells, which they turned out with complete success for 51 carillons in Holland and Belgium, tuning their bells on a lathe turned by man power. Many of these bells still survive in Holland, including such famous carillons as at Utrecht Cathedral, Antwerp Cathedral, the Amsterdam towers, Malines Cathedral, and also in Belgium. Space forbids a description of their lives and methods, a fascinating study in themselves. Their bells are infinitely superior to anything in contemporary England and the equal by and large of modern bells. The tradition was carried on for a bells. The tradition was carried on for a time by their pupils Claudius Fremij (sometimes spelled "Fremy") and Melchior de Haze but seemed to disappear even in Holland until it was rediscovered by Canon Simpson

I have often thought it would be an apt and well-deserved tribute to the memory of the Hemony brothers, to whom the English ringer owes the tonal beauty of presentday bells, if the tuning system now em-ployed could be renamed "Hemony" tun-With all respect to the worthy Canon Simpson, he only rediscovered a long-lost secret but the Hemony brothers not only invented harmonic tuning but brought it to perfection 300 years ago, when our English founders were merely botching or working by rule of thumb.—Yours faithfully.

WHY RING?

Dear Sir, In last week's Ringing World, under the heading "Why Ring?", the capunder the heading "Why Ring?", the cap-tain of a tower refused to teach someone who was not a member of the Church. One of my band who read this article remarked that if I had taken this attitude she would not now be a ringer. I would also mention that she is now confirmed and a regular communicant as well as a Sunday School teacher.

I feel we ringers have a unique position in introducing people to the Church and this is our job as Christians as well as ringers.—Yours faithfully, Lt.-Col. Jerram was a former master of the Truro Guild and did much to stimulate interest in change-ringing, which he himself was able to practise at Plymouth and Devonport. He was contributor to the columns of The Ringing World.

Mrs. Hairs was the daughter of the late Frank Bennett, also a past member of Council. Before learning to ring tower bells she had rung many peals on handbells, including Stedman Cinques She was the first lady to take part in a peal of Cambridge Surprise Maximus. Mrs. Hairs was a founder member of the Ladies' Guild and held secretarial posts for both this Guild and for the Sussex County Association. She was one of the few ladies elected to membership of the Ancient Society of College Youths.

C. West had been captain of Melksham band for many years. He was a branch secretary of the Salisbury Guild from 1932 until 1947, when he was elected chairman. In 1950 he became general secretary and treasurer of the guild and in 1966 was elected guild president.

G. L. Grover was active in the formation of the Guildford Guild in 1927. He was a district secretary before holding office as general secretary for a period of 20 years. Also for 20 years he was captain of the band at West

TE Sone was a member of the committee of the Kent C.A. for over 30 years and did much influential work within the county His first peal was Grandsire Triples and records show that he made a particular study of Holt's Original composition by calling it no fewer than five times from each bell.

RINGING WORLD COMMITTEE

OUR report for last year referred to changes and cost of improvements in the format of Ringing World; this year has been one of even more change-of editor, of convener and of still further changes in appearance.

Following a brief meeting at St. Albans, the committee have met in August, 1969, at Rugby, in November, 1969, and March, 1970, in London. In spite of long distances, the five members of the committee, Mr. D. Hughes, our treasurer, and the two editors have recorded 100% attendances, and at each of our meetings a member of the dais has also been welcomed.

On October 1, 1969, Mr. C. W. Denyer took up his appointment as editor, a very happy outcome of many years of search and weeks of negotiation. From that date until the end of the year the services of Mr. T. W. White were retained as a consultant, and the smoothness of the changeover is greatly due to this.

Our new editor, with his long experience of the technical side of the work, has been able, with the committee's agreement, to negotiate with Seven Corners Press Ltd., so that by the adoption of type and layouts which were more economical with the apparatus available we have been able to obtain the agreement of our printers the maintenance of the existing charges for printing The Ringing World for a 12 months at least. With rising costs and wages this is no mean achievement and we congratulate Mr. Denyer on the outcome.

We introduced Mr. Denyer and his family to our readers in The Ringing World of August 22, 1969 (page 649). The progress made since he took over has been received so favourably by the large majority of the readers that our hopes for the future under his care are high. He has shown great readiness to make various small changes suggested by readers and, with our support, he will continue to do so wherever possible to meet valid criticism.

In The Ringing World of September 19, 1969 (page 723), we paid a full tribute to Mr. White for his magnificent service to the Exercise for 23 years. And in the same issue, in the name of the Central Council and of the committee, launched an appeal to the Exercise to show their appreciation. We are gratified to note that at the time of this report the response had been well up to our hopes. At the Council meeting this year the president will present to Mr. White a very tangible token of the esteem and affection in which he is held by ringers everywhere. are grateful to Mrs. Staniforth who has received, acknowledged and banked the many contributions, and we thank all who have supported us. The accounts for 1969 will as usual be presented separately, but we are pleased to quote from our auditor's report that they "reveal a profit for the year of £791, as compared with a loss for the previous year of £966. Taking into account the S.E.T. refund which was received in respect of previous accounting periods, it is apparent that your newspaper broke even during the second six months of the year." We should draw attention particularly to the fact that during the last three months of 1969 additional expenditure was incurred for the salary of the new editor and the retaining fee paid to Mr. White as consultant.

Further changes at Guildford include the taking over by Seven Corners Press Ltd. of the work previously done by the Surrey Advertiser. of the This meant that new arrangements had to be made for the distribution of newsagents' copies, hitherto carried out for us by the Surrey Advertiser since the cessation of business of Rolls House. We are pleased to say that Mr. Lucas at Guildford has now undertaken this work also and we are no longer dependent on other firms, being our own distributor and publisher.

With the advice and help of our auditor, Mr. the system of accounting by Mr. Lucas has been revised during the year so that we are now able to keep a frequent check on the financial position throughout the year, without calling and paying for a full scale interim audit, as we did in 1969. To quote the auditor again, "the additional work Mr. Lucas has taken on has meant that it has not been necessary for us [the auditor] to ask for an increased fee for preparation of the accounts, despite rising Our thanks are clearly due and have, of costs." course, been given both to Mr. Lucas and to Mr. Tate.

We are still unable to say whether any dividend will be received following the liquidation of Rolls House, referred to in our last annual report, but it will be recalled that the whole amount has already been written off.

We have found it necessary, because of the need to preserve topicality, to rule that unless in the clear interest of the Exercise news items received in The Ringing World office later than one calendar month after the event shall not normally be published. This decision nounced to our readers on August 19, 1969.

We have also found it necessary to warn our readers of our concern at the delay of certain contributors in submitting peals for publication. Peals six months old are not news and only add to the unwanted backlog of peals at certain times of the year. We have considered this matter further, and peals sent in which are three months old, or over, will be printed in abbreviated form, as used for quarter peals.

One of the items we have dealt with was the question of charges for the new pictorial covers, and because of possible confusion between the report in The Ringing World of December 5, 1969 (page 947), and the correction printed on December 19 (page 989), we feel it desirable to reiterate here that when for a particular reason a guild or a band ask for the cover picture and accompanying articles for a specific date we considered it right both to charge for the block and to hope for payment for 50 copies of that issue.

Our experiment with gift tokens last December was only partially successful-some of the subscriptions so obtained would have been received anyway. However, the form of applica-tion did not appear until December 12. We shall repeat the experiment next Christmas, giving longer notice.

As we announced on December 5, we have decided on a new venture - a Ringing World Calendar for 1971, to be produced during this coming summer and containing for each month a full size picture selected from our covers. We hope to have samples on display at likley and shall welcome comments from members of the Council. Any advance orders that can be given will help us to assess the likely demand. We ask for the support of the whole Exercise for this venture and can think of no more appropriate calendar for a ringer's home or for the ringing chamber.

Next year The Ringing World will celebrate its diamond jubilee-a wonderful feat for a journal such as ours and a tribute not only to the work of our predecessors and the successive editors but also to the keen interest and support of many devoted readers. Recalling the success of our golden jubilee number, we are considering ideas for a suitable celebration issue and will welcome any suggestions which our readers may care to submit either to the editor or our

The Index for 1969 has been prepared separately from the journal as another experiment. You will not have to extract the Index from the paper so that it can be bound or filed at the front or back of the volume. We have been able to use those pages for other matter and at the same time save the cost of printing separately. Once again we have to thank Mr. H. L. Roper for giving so much time and patience to the task of preparing the Index, and this year the anonymous typist who made it possible to produce the copies at negligible cost.

We have decided that this coming August we shall retain pictorial covers and not as formerly issue 16 pp. papers without covers.

Readers will have noticed that in recent issues there have appeared photographs attributed to The Ringing World itself. We have to thank our new editor, who deliberately chose as a parting gift from his former employers an appropriate camera, so that he could take such photographs when he attends meetings and social functions, thus giving us all pleasure and saving cost to The Ringing World.

We are still greatly concerned at our circula-The average weekly sales for the tion figures. first two months of 1970 were 5,781, compared with an average for the first half of 1968 of of 6,012 and for the first quarter of 1969 of We hope all readers will appreciate that continued improvement in our service to them depends on an increasing circulation.

We must end this already long report with our thanks to all who have helped in any way to maintain and, we think, enhance the service we have been able to give to the Exercise. those mentioned earlier in this report: to Mr. David House, who has prepared the leading peal ringers' to Mrs. Lucas, who continues to work valiantly in The Ringing World office; to the staff of Seven Corners Press for their cooperation in the production of what many of your letters call the New Look; to those friends who have provided a place for our meetings, and wonderful hospitality; and above all to all our loyal supporters, both for their written contributions to our pages, for their regular purchase of the paper and their generous voluntary contributions The convener wishes specially to thank all those, whether committee members or not who have helped him to get through very long agenda at our meetings, and Mr. White and Mr. Denyer for their never-failing support in all he and the committee have tried to do.

"MAYFLOWER '70" FESTIVAL

Plymouth this year celebrates the 350th anniversary of the departure of the Pilgrim Fathers from these shores, at the start of a perilous journey to discover the "New World." From May until September the celebrations are many and varied, one of which was a ringing festival which took place at St. Mary's Parish Church, Plympton, on May 2.

The festival took the form of an 8-bell call-change contest and was the first of its kind to be held on the 25 cwt. eight. It was with some trepidation that the invitations went out last November as it was felt in several quarters that teams would fight shy owing to the weight of the ring. However, on the day ten teams arrived to take The proceedings commenced with the drawing for ringing positions. The three judges, Herbert Pidler (High Bickington). Arthur Tapper (Yealmpton) and Frank Mack (Exmouth), were in the school adjacent to the church. Each team was required to raise in peal (the "pitching all eight in true Devon style required con-siderable skill), ring the "Queens" peal and lower in not less than 15 minutes.

Throughout the afternoon the teams pitted their skill against each other. Later in the day the Devon 8-bell "kings," of Kingsteignton, were the winners with a one point advantage over Plympton, their excellent striking deserving victory.

While ringing was in progress a novel counter-attraction was provided in the form of Frank Mack's miniature ring of six, which had been set up in the church for, the occasion, together with a display featuring the work of the Royal School of Church Music and a display of organ parts. In the evening a large congregation gathered for choral evensong, at which the address was given by the Ven. F. A. J. Matthews (archdeacon).

Following the service all assembled at Harewood House for coffee and to hear the results, these being as follows: 1st Kinesteignton, 2nd Plympton St. Mary. 3rd North Tawton, 4th Plymstock, 5th Pilton, 6th Babbacombe, 7th Buckland-in-the-Moor, 8th Witheridge, 9th Tavistock, 10th Stratton. Mrs. E. Matthews, wife of the archdeacon, presented commemoration certificates to each team and to the three iudges.

As the festival was such a success it may become an annual event. R. A. S.

Bath and Wells Association EVENING PRACTICE

On a lovely spring evening the Ilchester Branch of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association held their May evening practice meeting on May 2 at Holy Trinity, Ash. near Martock.

The good attendance of ringers enjoyed the very light six (tenor 6-1-2 in B). Apart from rounds the methods rung included Bob, Grandsire and Stedman Doubles, Plain Bob and Little Bob Minor, Double Court, London and Cambridge, and were under the supervision of the branch ringing master (Mr. Gordon Rendell), with all officials of the Ilchester Branch in attendance, as well as over 25 other ringers.

The branch is grateful to the vicar (Rev. H. A. Barwood) for making a pleasant and successful evening possible. M. M. L.

URANGWOT-10

If the local Ringing Master had not been very ill in hospital at the time I do not suppose choosing a band for the Christmas Broadcast would have presented any great difficulty. But he was and the recording had to be made at fairly short notice so the Vicar tried to arrange things. He sounded rather anxious when he rang me up. "Could you possibly help us out with this Christ-mas Broadcast?" he said. I hardly knew what to say as I hold strongly to the view that these efforts should be those of local bands rather than imported experts. "Surely you have sufficient ringers of your own without an outsider like me," I replied. "Oh ves. The problem is too many ringers and who should be left out and that is where I need your help."

The Vicar then went on to explain that in his six-bell tower he had ten young ringers, five boys and five girls—Alan, Bob, Charlie, Don, Ernest and Jean, Karen, Lily, Mary and Norah. In view of this the Vicar stipulated that the band for the recording should consist of three boys and three girls. He had then been faced with various demands from the ringers. The boys would not agree to both Karen and Mary being included in the band so the girls retaliated by refusing to agree to both Alan and Don being in. Then the boys insisted that Norah could not ring if both Jean and Karen were included. That brought a demand from the girls that Karen must ring or they would not accept both Don and Charlie and, furthermore, if Norah were to be kept out, the girls would not Norah were included. Then Lily said that she would withdraw if Charlie took part.

"I thought Christmas was supposed to be the season of peace and goodwill!" I observed. "Yes," said the Vicar, "it took me by surprise as you ringers might say." I resisted the temptation to attribute his troubles to having a surplice in the ringing chamber and promised that I would invite readers to find him six of his young ringers who were compatible.

There is the usual prize of 10s., and the closing date for the Editor to receive entries is June 17.

RICHLY DESERVED

Helping out for "a few weeks" when the previous Editor (Mr. J. A. Trollope) gave up the job unexpectedly, Tom White carried on under trying circumstances and with little financial reward or encouragement (indeed sometimes violent criticism) for 23 years. He had often to make bricks without straw, to deal with ringing problems which he did not understand, to cope with personal trials and staffing difficulties in the newspaper with which his family had been associated for nearly 100 years.

The present Editor has been reading files

The present Editor has been reading files of correspondence and other matter collected over those 23 years and wonders why Tom did not "chuck in his hand" a dozen times, for he did not need the job.

times, for he did not need the job.

When he received the gift to which ringers everywhere have liberally and willingly contributed, Tom thanked them in a way that only a true Christian gentleman would do. He quoted: "Thy way, not mine, O Lord" and "Choose Thou my friends for me," adding, "How truly blessed I have been in my friends, the friends that have been chosen for me."

Ringers everywhere have receen to be

Ringers everywhere have reason to be eternally grateful to Tom for having borne the burden and heat of the day and helped to keep The Ringing World going when many thought it would cease publication.

The setbacks were sometimes caused by strikes, by increased postal charges, by costs of paper and wages going up and, at times, by unreasonable and inexperienced ringers and Central Council members who thought they could do the Editor's job better than he could himself. Although a professional journalist, T.W. W. survived all these problems.

And so we say once again: "Thank you Tom White, for your efforts on behalf of ringers everywhere. We shall endeavour to keep the flag flying high so that when yet another shall take over the mantle you have worn for 23 years it will have lost none of its original splendour but be handed on with even greater embellishment.

TEMPORARILY INDISPOSED

Tom White became unwell during the deliberations at the Council meeting on Monday afternoon and had to return to his hotel and take to his bed. He was sufficiently recovered next morning, however, to make the journey home and he and Mrs. White travelled there in Mr. Wilfrid Wilson's Jaguar. Tom is now fully recovered but is, sensibly, taking it easy. The emotional strain which he experienced on the morning of that particular day, when he received his presentation, was thought to have contributed to his sickness.

The Editor has been in Ilkley for the Central Council meeting, and this week's "Gossip" has suffered accordingly.

We offer our congratulations to a nonringer who has been "mixed up" in producing The Ringing World for many years. Mr. Charles Way, chief overseer at Seven Corners Press, has just become what many men will never be—a great-grandfather!

Belfry Gossip

The first peal by the Scottish Association for over four years was 5057 Grandsire Caters rung by the Sunday service band at St. Mary's Episcopal Cathedral, Glasgow. This was a first peal for two ringers and first in the method for over half the band. Despite new soundproofing arrangements there were a few complaints. One person phoned to ask if the "electrical apparatus" had been left on by mistake.

The Editor acknowledges receipt of the Annual Report from the Lancashire Association.

First peal congratulations to Brian E. Keeble, Wendy Harbor, Richard Coxhead, Peter J. and Raymond Carey.

Personal Records: Peter J. Heritage (200 peals), James Towler (375), Arthur V. Pearson (850), Christopher Hims (25).

This week's new method: "Caerphilly S. Major" at St. Martin's Church, Caerphilly, by Llandaff and Monmouth Association.

There are six "In Memoriam" peals recorded this week, but we also have those for births (2) and marriages (2), in addition to golden wedding and other anniversaries.

A handbell team had a number of factors with which to contend, but succeeded in scoring a peal at Portsmouth. The distractions were an undisconnectable chiming clock in the room, a telephone ditto, guitars and folk-singing in another part of the house—not to mention the tower bell peal in progress at the Cathedral, which is virtually "next door."

Associate Members? At the very well organised Surrey Association Dinner at Croydon recently the beautifully inscribed place name cards were monogrammed in gold—not Surrey Association, but Midland Bank! One wiseacre suggested the Association had a vested interest, but another replied that it probably had an overdraft.

The Rambling Ringers rang a quarter at Great Addington, Northants, on May 8 in place of the usual weekly practice. It was an "In Memoriam" quarter for Mrs. Diana Frost, who was one of its members, a founder of the Kettering High School Society and also of the Peterborough Guild—all three being represented in the ringing.

Eric and Iris Coe and their daughter Rosemary (aged 12) all have now rung quarter peals and it is due to their keen, active enthusiasm that the ringing at All Saints', Mattishall, Norfolk, is thriving.

Extra copies of The Ringing World have in the past been sent to secretaries prior to their district or guild meetings, for sale or as complimentary (introductory) copies. One or two objected to receiving these "extras" and said it was "American salesmanship." However, we must increase our circulation, but should any secretary not wish to be bothered with distribution, may we ask that these additional copies be placed in the church where the meeting takes place for the congregation to see and perhaps take our publication.

Ilkley Interludes . . .

The rather thick "tufts" or "billies" at rope ends at Ilkley caused some consternation to several very experienced peal ringers and, to add to their embarrassment, 11-years-old Catherine Davis, of Christchurch, with proud father (Arthur V.) nearby, rang excellent rounds with no rope difficulties at all.

During one of the many social "talk-ins" at H.Q. a group of males standing near the bar enjoying the company of a well-known attractive lady member, received rather a shock when a ball hit by one of the opponents in a table tennis match nearby, plopped into the lady's glass of liquor, covering the said lady's features and bosom with the thick red liquid from the glass. It is not known whether the shock her admiring male escort received was the mess made by the "bloody Mary" or the ejaculation expressed by their queen.

The convener of one of the committees, during a conversation about a Council item with some of his companions, said emphatically: "Three-quarters of the company don't know and the other three-quarters don't care"—which made those listening wonder just how big the Council really is now!

Some of the "poorer relations" of the Council who stayed at the smaller, rather less pretentious hotel next door to the H.Q. found consolation in the obvious popularity which this smaller hotel enjoys by the number of "regular customers" there at midday and during the evening for refreshment. These included handsome young men in sports cars accompanied by young ladies, some wearing mini-mini dresses and displaying their charms and favours on one and all. One bellringer was heard to remark that it was worth missing a few towers to remain in such company for an extra hour!

"My wife stayed here (Craiglands Hotel) whilst touring Scotland"—a comment by an honorary member, which had his hearers wondering if the "wife" toured Scotland by helicopter each day!

Having listened to the Lincolnshire and Yorkshire dialects from three of the speakers at the official opening on the Monday, the somewhat lilting Irish brogue of the vicar of Ilkley was greeted with pleasure when the president (Mr. Freeman) introduced him with the comment "It is obvious the vicar cannot answer Mr. Bottomley in his own Yorkshire tongue.

The waiters and wine stewards in the dining room at H.Q. are from various countries and they found difficulty in comprehending at times what was asked of them. However, a well-known ringer from Kent who had just disposed of half a duck and green peas, was suitably chastened when, after ordering a round of drinks, he quipped: "And I suppose you're from China?" "Oh, no—I'm a British subject from Kent" was the reply.

The team who were to ring a peal of Surprise Royal at Pontefract on the Saturday met one short, but Frank Price "had a go" and Bob Royal was substituted, Frank ringing 2-3 and conducting. A good peal was rung.

Obituary

GIRLING RIGBY

Girling Rigby, a faithful bellringer of long standing at Sandiacre, Derbyshire, died after a long illness on May 4 at the age of 71. At the funeral service at Sandiacre a band of ringing friends rang before the service, while pull and stand with the bells half-muffled and slow Doubles were rung after the service.

Girling will be missed by his friends in the district as he was a skilful, reliable and faithful ringer and a cheerful and entertaining companion. He provided a link between the old band at Sandiacre who excelled in Surprise Minor and the present generation. Although not a prolific peal ringer (about 50), he enjoyed peal ringing and was extremely reliable when taking part. A half-muffled peal in seven Surprise methods was rung on May 20 at Sandiacre to his memory. D. R. C.

ANTONY JACKSON

The tragic death of Antony Jackson as the result of a climbing accident on Whitsunday came as a great shock to the ringers at St. Mary's, Southampton, where he was vice-captain. Tony, as he was popularly known, was only 31, and his chief interests were ringing and scouting. An experienced climber, he was leader of the 10th Venture Scout Troop when the fatal accident occurred near Swanage. He fell about 50 fast when his climbing climbing backs and feet when his climbing sling broke, and died on the way to hospital.

Tony came to Southampton about six years ago and had rung about 20 peals. His work prevented him from ringing on Saturdays, but he was a keen quarter peal ringer and had rung over 80, his last, which he conducted, being on Easter Sunday at St. Mary's. Ringers from the tower and from the Southampton and Christchurch District attended the funeral at St. Mary's, and the sympathy of all who knew him is extended at this time to his parents and his brother.

JOSEPH ELLIOTT

Ringers of Kelvedon, and indeed the Essex Association, have lost an old and respected friend in the passing on May 12 of Joseph Elliott at the age of 78. Joe, a member of the Elliott family who have served as bellringers at Kelvedon for 180 years, was himself a very capable ringer and conductor for some 60 years. In earlier days he was a chorister and an active member of the P.C.C. He was elected tower captain on the death of his father, William T. Elliott, in 1937.

Although not a great peal ringer he maintained a very high standard of service ringing, and on Whitsunday, 1953, his band rang four quarter peals for service ringing. A life member of the Essex Association, he attended meetings regularly, and for some years was a member of the general com-mittee. In 1962, to mark his 70th birthday and 25 years as tower captain, Joe was presented with a specially cast scale model bell, suitably inscribed, from the local ringers.

Because of failing health his ringing activities had to cease, but his interest continued. After a long, quiet illness Joe was suddenly called to his rest. He leaves a wife, and two generations of ringers at Kelvedon to carry on the long line of the Elliott family as ringers. His son, daughter and grandson paid tribute with other members of the band with a half-muffled quarter peal of Oxford Treble Bob.

The funeral on May 18 was conducted by

ANZAB CONSTITUTION

The Australian and New Zealand Association voted on April 1 for a new constitution. Originally ANZAB was conceived as an association of branches: membership could only be obtained through a branch and each branch was autonomous. The new constitution envisages ANZAB as an association of people who are free to form branches if they so desire.

The qualification of a voting member is having rung a plain course of any Minor method or the extent of any Doubles method on an inside bell, or has been an active ringer for three years irrespective of standard reached.

Branch representation on the Council is one delegate for every ten members and six delegates for over 50. Voting members may be represented by a proxy at Council meetings providing that no person may have more than one vote.

UNIVERSITY OF SUSSEX

The guild's third annual dinner was held in the University Refectory, when nearly 50 members and friends attended. With good food, short and witty speeches, a most enjoyable evening was had by all.

At the A.G.M. next day the revised constitution was accepted and officers elected were: Master, T. G. Williams; secretary, P. D. Hepburn, c/o Society Pigeon Holes, Falmer House, University of Sussex, Brighton; treasurer, Margaret Chappell.

Dr. Eric McLeod Perkins, of Torquay, former medical officer to Southwark Military Hospital (duty paid, £21,068), left £58,076 net. After specific bequests he left £3,000 to the P.D.S.A., the income to be used for the provision of dog licences for poor people unable to afford them, and a sum not exceeding £8,000 to Westminster Abbey for the addition of two new bells and the recasting of existing ones.

the vicar (Rev. P. C. Elers), who spoke of Joe's lifetime of dedicated service to ringing and the church. The bells were rung halfmuffled before and after the service. number of ringers attended and many organisations were represented.

Joseph Elliott is now resting beside the tower at St. Mary's, Kelvedon, where he spent much of his life ringing to the glory of God F. T. W.

A LIFE OF SERVICE

Mr. Joseph Brittan's Record. Seventy years a member of St. Modwen's Church choir, Burton-on-Trent, 61 years a ringer (30 as tower captain) and 25 years as treasurer of the Midland Counties Guild This is the unique record of service that belongs to Mr. Joseph Henry Brittan, of Blackpool Street, Burton, who at 78 is still active and continuing to carry out these several duties, and may he long continue to do so.

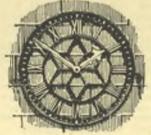

But this record of service to his parish church does not end there. For the past 30 years Mr. Brittan has visited the church twice a week, climbed the 72 steps up to the church tower to wind up the clock and for 44 years he has also carried the church's processional cross at all the services.

At a dinner given to the choir a presentation was made to him to mark the occasion of his 70 years as a chorister, and tributes were paid to Mr. Brittan by the vicar and other church officials. A peal, organised by Mr. J. W. Cotton, was rung to honour the many years' work for that part of the church's ministry and is recorded elsewhere.

DAILY TELEGRAPH ARTICLE

Many will have read the interesting article by Norman Derrick, of the Daily Telegraph, in the issue of May 14, and seen the action photograph of Mr. W. T. Cook and Mr. M. P. Moreton at St. Paul's Cathedral. The article was a preliminary writer to the Central Council meeting at Hiller up to the Central Council meeting at Ilkley. Yorkshire, during the "Spring Bank Holiday Week-end," and outlined the aspects of ringing generally, mentioning the College Youths and the Snowdon family.

From Mr. W. G. Knight, of London. N.W.5.—"It's not often these days that there is any news about the dormant St. Martin's, Gospel Oak, but I am pleased to report that once in a while I am able to recruit a band for Sunday service ringing, and recently we scored a quarter peal. Our real reward came after Matins, when the vicar, churchwardens and members of the congregation expressed their pleasure at having heard the bells rung for the service: it even made all the climbing about in wet pigeon-droppings earlier in the morning worthwhile!

25 YEARS AGO

Taken from The Ringing World for June 1, 1945.

The proceedings were quiet and the meeting generally was one of the dullest in the history of the Council.—Editorial opinion on the C.C. meeting at Birmingham.

It was announced that The Ringing World had been owned by the Council for 18 months and its finances were in a satisfactory state.

J. Frank Smallwood conducted Stedman Cinques to a peal at Aston, Birmingham, and others taking part included E. T. Allaway, R. J. B. Hadden, E. C. S. Turner, A. Walker, Miss M. R. Cross, L. W. G. Morris, J. Penfold, G. E. Fearn, W. Williams, W. Ayre and H. C. Spencer.

At Barnby-on-Don, Yorkshire, a peal of Minor in three methods had three first-pealers—J. Wardle, W. E. Critchley and E. Padgett.

The death was announced of Mr. William Saunders, of Coalbrookdale, who had an unbroken record of 49 years' service (39 as captain). He was instrumental in having the bells rehung in 1925 and increased to ten.

H. Lewis was re-elected president of the Central Council for another three years. He had already served for 12. Mr. G. W. Fletcher was re-elected secretary and treasurer.

A the Guildford Guild A.G.M. a long discussion took place on the activities of the Central Council and about The Ringing World. It was agreed to suggest that peals reported should follow the same layout as quarter peals.

The engagement was announced between the Rev. Kenneth Cæsar Davis, of St. Francis, Ruxley Lane, Ewell, and Miss Winifred Eileen Bishop, of Worcester Park, 50 YEARS AGO June 4, 1920.

The leader stated that in reviewing the proceedings of the Central Council it felt that the gathering was more productive of results than any meeting for many years past.

A peal of Grandsire Caters was rung at Chesterfield for the centenary of the opening of the bells (May 22, 1820).
George Marriner, Alf H. Winch and

Albert Harman (conductor) took part in a peal at Betchworth, Surrey. Method: Stedman Triples.

At Gaywood, in a peal of Bob Minor, each 720 was conducted by the ringers in turn, the tenor ringer calling two.

Mr. Daniel T. Matkin, of Ludlow, rang the treble to Grandsire Doubles at Stokesay, Shropshire—his first on tower bells.

Alf Pulling conducted five handbell peals in four days at Guildford, Rupert Richardson being in four of them.

In order to increase the sales of The Ringing World Mr. James Mann, of Aldershot, had persuaded the vicar to purchase eight copies each week for the ringers, and he suggested other towers did the same.

The Royal Cumberland Youths' annual dinner was resuscitated after a lapse of 25 years, and Mr. Ben Foskett, the oldest member, replied to the toast to the society. Mr. J. D. Matthews (master) presided.

St. Michael's, Aldershot, bells were augmented to eight by the addition of two trebles—"Soldiers' Bells"—the £148 required being raised from soldiers in memory of their comrades who fell in the Great War.

WHEN THE BELLS ring out from the tower of St. Lawrence Church, Alton, they resound over ground which is rich in English history. For the Hampshire town of Alton is old. Indeed, it was among the oldest of primitive Wessex towns, and there was probably a township there as early as the sixth century. Its boundaries were clearly defined in 825 A.D., for in that year King Egbert, who was the first to rule from Wessex to Northumbria, bestowed on the old Minster at Winchester "fifteen hides in a place commonly called Aeweltune by the inhabitants." Three fierce encounters are recorded in Alton between Saxons and Danes, and an event of national importance took place there when Henry I and his brother, Robert of Normandy, signed a treaty by which the latter agreed to relinquish the throne of England on receipt of 3,000 marks annually.

Canterbury Pilgrims, who had landed at Southampton, passed through the town on their way to Farnham. It was in the Church of St. Lawrence, a church situated on high ground 360 feet above sea level, that an event took place in 1643 which was to make it famous.

STRONGHOLD IN THE CHURCH

Sir William Waller, the Parliamentary General, in a surprise attack on the town on December 13, put the Royalist cavalry to flight and then pursued the infantry under their commander, Col. John Boles, through the town and into the churchyard. The Cavaliers held the churchyard for two hours and then retreated into the church; they barricaded it and fought fiercely from its windows, but finally the superior strength of the Roundheads prevailed. Col. Boles was killed (according to a family tradition) in the pulpit. Altogether about 900 men surrendered and the 50 or 60 who died were buried outside the church's north wall. The old oak door, riddled and splintered by cannon balls and bullets and pike marks, with a loophole cut in it, today stands as witness of the Battle of Alton, which has been described as "one of the finest operations of its kind in the Civil War.'

The River Wey rises in the meadows half a mile outside the town, and at one time its flow of water must have been terrific, for a paper mill, three other mills and a number of tanyards thrived on its Alton was a prolific hop-growing area, and with the hops came the breweries and the popular "Alton Ales." Now, very little brewing is done in the town, and the paper mills, established in Alton in the 1700's, moved to Eynsford in 1908.

The poet Edmund Spenser lived in a cottage a couple of hundred yards from the church in the 1500's, and Cardinal Newman at one time lived in the town. William Curtis, well known as a botanist, resided in Alton, and the local museum bears his name. Alton's link with a tragedy was from the murder of young Fanny Adams not far from Alton Church in 1847. The phrase "Sweet Fanny Adams" is heard throughout the world throughout the world.

"Progress" has taken much of the peace and quietness away from this market town. Amery Farm, which adjoined the church, no longer exists as such. Alton is now a commuter area, London being but 48 miles distant.

St. Lawrence Church is the old Parish Church, and is celebrating its 900th anniversary throughout 1970. There is a comversary throughout 1970.

prehensive programme throughout the year, including a Flower Festival this month and Son et Lumiere in September, and the bellringers are playing a conspicuous part. Bellringing Festival is on July 18 and ringers from all areas are taking part.

THE BELLS

No exact date can be found as to when bells were first hung in the tower. The earliest record is in churchwardens' accounts of 1625. A ring of five is known to have existed and in 1742 it is recorded that a tenor bell was cast to make a ring of six. The treble was recast at the same time. Known details of this ring are:— Treble, 8 cwt. 25 lb. (recast 1742); tenor, 22 cwt. 26 lb., in F (cast 1742 by Thomas Lister); 5th, 15 cwt. 1 qr. 24 lb. (recast 1754).

One peal is recorded on these bells. Grandsire Doubles, 1777, and the board lists two men as ringing the tenor—which was unusual for a bell of this weight. The year 1785 saw the recasting of the six and the addition of two trebles. The treble was recast in 1803 and when, in 1889, the 7th became cracked, this was recast and the others rehung.

INSCRIPTIONS

Inscriptions on the bells at this time were:—Treble, Thomas Janaway of London Fecit 1803, 6 cwt., note E. 2nd: Thomas Janaway Fecit, 1785, 6½ cwt., D sharp. 3rd: Thomas Janaway Fecit, 1785, 7 cwt., C sharp. 4th: Thomas Janaway Fecit, 1785, 8 cwt., B. 5th: "When way Fecit, 1785, 8 cwt., B. 5th: "When from the earth our notes rebound, the hills and valeys echo round"; Thomas Janaway, 1785, 10 cwt., A. 6th: Thomas Janaway of Chelsea made us all, 1785; "Musica Est Mentis Medicina," 11 cwt., G sharp. 7th: Thomas Janaway Fecit, 1785, 13\(\frac{1}{2}\) cwt., F sharp. Recast by Mears and Stainbank 1889. Tenor: "Rev. Dr. Thomas Balguy, Vicar. James Dicker, Richard Palmer Baker, John Phillips, Churchwardens." Thomas Janaway Fecit 1785, 20 cwt., E. (Estimated weight by Gillett and Johnston in 1925 22 cwt.). Twelve peals are recorded as being rung on these bells. as being rung on these bells.

The tenor was found to be seriously cracked in 1925. The bells were removed to Gillett and Johnston's foundry and the other bells were found to be chipped and out of tune. It was decided to recast all the bells and hang them in a modern steel frame on ball bearings. This work was completed for Easter Sunday, 1926.

To date 12 peals have been rung on this ring— a total of 32 in all. Of the present-day ring, the treble is 4 cwt. 3 qr. 10 lb, and the tenor 18 cwt. 1 qr. 20 lb.

There is not a finer sound to be heard on a frosty winter's night or a sunny evening in summer as one stands on the hills around Alton listening to the church bells. They bring a sense of peace and tranquillity, of which there is all too little in the world today.

BIRDS AND BELLS

On Sunday, May 24, after ringing on the magnificent eight at Skipton I decided to drive over to nearby Bolton Abbey-an idea which seemed also to have occurred to half the population of the north of England! Despite the crowds I was not disappointed by the bird life for which this beautiful spot is well known.

Immediately upon entering the grounds I could make out the song of a pied flycatcher against the background rush and babble of the River Wharfe. A few minutes' scrutiny of the trees on the opposite bank discovered the splendid black and white cock bird as he sang to advertise his territory. Soon he became silent and dropped down among the lower branches; watching with binoculars I was able to follow the bird to the nest-hole. I was also delighted to find a family of dippers down on the rocks in the Wharfe, the young birds splashing inexpertly in the water and demanding loudly to be fed. Common sand-pipers and grey wagtails completed the picture nicely.

In the afternoon we rang a peal on the ten at Pontefract, and Iris Lemare informed me that there was a bird reserve, Fairburn Ings, only a few miles away, where the very scarce little ringed plover bred. We visited the reserve together and I was able to watch the species displaying for the first time, which I must admit meant more to me than a dozen peals!

Miss Lemare is only the second bird-watching bellringer that I have met, yet these are two activities which fit together extremely well. I have written this brief note of my non-ringing activities at Ilkley in the hope of interesting other like-minded A venture I have often wished to embark on is an ornithological peal-week. using a bird observatory as a base. interest in this project having now been revived, I would ask anyone who might be able to come to Dungeness B.O. with me for a week at Easter next year to write and let me know.

Blackthorn, Kingstone. Hereford.

Many members took part in the discussion of this section, among them being Messrs. Beresford, Dodds, Lufkin, Rev. J. Scott,

H. Rogers, Chaddock, Wilson, Sharpe, Cook and Croft. Points noted for the sub-committee were: Section 2 (6) the words "provision and maintenance" in place of "financial assistance," and the Biographies Committee, although not mentioned, would remain an official committee of the Council.

Items 3 (4), 3 (9) and 3 (11) were all suggested for possible amendment, and the Overseas Committee, which does very important work, should be encouraged to report its activities regularly. This was also suggested for the Education Committee 3 (7).

Central Council of Church Bell Ringers

Report of the Proceedings of the 73rd Annual Meeting

SECTION I.

A summary of the meeting held at Ilkley, Yorkshire, of the second session of 27th Council was given in our last issue, and the more detailed report will be printed during the next few weeks. It is not intended to give full discussions, except where considered of more general importance. The elected members should report back to the Guilds and Associations they represent, but reference to The Ringing World of April 24 may be necessary in some cases to follow the topics discussed, particularly the interim report of the Standing Committee.

Following the presentation to Mr. and Mrs. Tom White, reported elsewhere, the business was opened with prayer led by Canon A. G. G. Thurlow.

Apologies were read out from F. E. Haynes, G. W. Fletcher, T. P. Edwards, R. G. Wilson, J. W. Cotton, Rev. R. Keeley, N. Golden, F. A. White, M. J. Fellows, N. Mallett, W. A. Osborn, J. F. Smallwood, H. J. Sanger, G. I. Lewis, E. F. Willcox, W. L. Weller, A. J. Brazier, J. E. G. Roast, D. F. Murfet, B. Jones and J. P. Fidler.

The hon. secretary's report, which had been circulated, gave the total membership as 204, with one vacancy, and three honorary vacancies. All subscriptions had been paid with one exception.

New members were welcomed by the president and each stood as his name was called: H. C. Lonyon (Chester Guild), P. Reynolds (Lincoln Guild), J. Prytherch (St. David's Guild), R. W. Pipe (St. Martin's

The election of honorary members followed and these were: Mr. G. R. Drew and Mrs. Shirley Drew, who deal with the C.C. publications (proposed by Mr. F. Sharpe, seconded by Mr. V. Bottomley); Mr. George Pipe (D. Beresford and E. Shepherd); C. W. Denyer, Editor The Ringing World (W. H. Viggers and D. A. R. May) and F. A. White (a retiring member re-elected). Mrs. R. F. B. Speed did not seek re-election as an honorary member.

Six names were read out in the obituary list, viz.: W. C. West (Salisbury Guild), G. L. Grover (Guildford Guild), H. O. Baker (Chester Guild), T. E. Sone (Kent County), T. H. Francis (Cumberland Youths), W. Shepherd (Winchester and Portsmouth and Guildford Guild), and Canon Thurlow said a prayer for the departed.

The minutes were approved with the alteration of one word, and there were no matters arising, following which the report of the hon. secretary was accepted without comment.

Mr. Frederick Sharpe, the librarian, presented his report and made a strong appeal for books which had been on loan, in some cases for several years, to be returned. Mrs. Olive Barnett suggested that a list of names of "long-term" borrowers be published in The Ringing World, but Mr. R. S. Anderson advised caution in such

ACCOUNTS ACCEPTED

Mr. Bottomley next produced the accounts for 1969 and moved their adoption. Mr. Garner-Hayward seconded, and some discussion followed about possible reinvestment of moneys in the Clement Glenn Fund to the Central Board of Finance. Others taking part in this debate were Messrs. Bayles, Beresford, W. Wilson, Seager, J. Mayne and T. W. White, the last named giving details of comparative Ringing World costs when published by Rolls Publishing Comparative and teday's costs. Company and today's costs.

The hon, secretary and treasurer took

Taken by The Ringing World at the formal wel-come given to the Central Council: l. to r. the vicar of likley (Rev. R. Cleland), the chairman of Ilkley U.D.C. (Cclr. R. P. Bushell), the president of the Central Council (Mr. John Freeman), the president of the Yorkshire Association (Mr. Vernon Bottomley) and the ladies, Mrs. Bushell and Mrs. Jeanne Bottomley.

note of various suggestions made for future possible administration and investment.

The accounts were adopted.

Mr. Douglas Hughes answered several questions on the use and the replacement of parts when necessary of the Carter ringing machine, and the report presented was agreed, a suggestion being made that it would be wise to consider reducing the number of demonstrations and so prevent undue wear and tear.

INTERIM REPORT OF STANDING COMMITTEE

Although this report had occupied a couple of hours at the informal meeting on the Sunday evening, at Tuesday's gathering the Council spent a further three hours debating the report, item by item. This, how-ever, could not be considered a waste of Several members found that, from the earlier discussions, they had been able to consider some items from a different standpoint and had changed their minds. Naturally this brought out a lot more for the meeting to hear, and in several cases the whole section was referred back to the subcommittee for further consideration and to report again next year.

At the outset the president proposed the adoption of the report, which was seconded by the vice-president (Mr. E. A. Barnett), but it was later agreed to alter the word "adopt" to "receive," this being on the motion of Canon Felstead, seconded by Mr.

R. S. Anderson.
Mr. Ayre, supported by Mr. Shepherd. asked that more emphasis be put on the role of ringers as church workers and said their first job in this connection was ringing for church services. The sub-committee responsible for "Aims, Objects and Procedure," for which Mr. R. F. B. Speed was spokesman, were asked to note this sug-

The increased amount of work and the larger number of inquiries made to the Towers and Belfries Committee were commented upon and an assurance given that this body was in operation the whole year. That the peals analysis was well worth while was the general opinion, and in winding up this section Mr. Speed said all the points made would be considered.

Under Sections 4 and 5, members taking part were Messrs. Roper, Beresford, Mrs. Staniforth, Carlyle, Dodd, D. May, V. Bottomley, Crossthwaite, Lufkin, Mayne, Seager, Butler, Canon Thurlow, Rev. Scott, Cook, Speed and G. Pipe. Further consideration is to be given on suggestions made and these included the possibility of a made and these included the possibility of a national scheme to give financial assistance to churches (with bells) that require it; a national appeal for The Ringing World; more encouragement for associations to start and to augment restoration; the investment of money raised for restoration funds; training recruits for towers with no ringers; the purchase of bells from churches being demolished, particularly where such bells have historic value or connections; the movement of bells from redundant churches to churches on newly-populated estates and new towns; the possible approach by the Central Council to building societies for loans when restoration work is necessary and funds low.

At the end of this section the meeting agreed that the sub-committee were proceeding on the right lines.

The illuminated shell-like ornamentation at the back of the stage where the formal welcome was given brought forth the comment from Mr. Freeman: "When Mr. Vernon Bottomley rose to speak just now, with this decoration behind him, he looked just like Venus rising from the sea!"

23 YEARS' SERVICE RECOGNISED

As briefly reported last week, the presentation of a piece of Doulton china, a silver dish and a cheque for £600 to Mr. and Mrs. Tom White was made at the Central Council meeting at Ilkley. Mr. Wilfrid Wilson, convener of The Ringing World Committee, said it was the wish of ringers everywhere and of all present that day to give recognition of the 23 years' loyal service to the ringing Exercise by Tom White as Editor of the Ringing World. He then requested the president of the Central Council (Mr. John Freeman) to make the presentation.

Thanking Mr. Wilson for according him the honour of making the presentation, Mr. Freeman handed the china figure to Mrs. White and said it was not only in appreciat.on of her help to Tom, but with the respect and affection which was felt by all towards Mrs. White. Amidst applause, Mrs. White held aloft the figure for all to see and "To you, Tom, on behalf of the Exercise as a whole," said Mr. Freeman, "I present you with this silver toast warmer inscribed Central Council of Church Bell Ringers, presented by the president on behalf of the Exercise to Thomas W. White in appreciation of his services as Editor of The Ringing World 1946—1969' and inside is a cheque for £600,"

OVERWHELMED

When Mr. White rose to reply, he was obviously very moved by the enthusiasm of those present and the munificence of the gift. He said he was so overwhelmed that he had forgotten what he intended to say, but thanked one and all for their kindness. Mr. White then recovered his composure and went on:-

Recently in church we were singing the hymn, 'Thy way, not mine, O Lord,' in which a line runs: 'Choose Thou for me my friends,' and I thought how truly blessed I had been in the friends that had been chosen for me. They are not a few; they number hundreds and are to be found all over the world. And this introduction came about so unexpectedly. I had been asked by my predecessor, Mr. Jim Trollope, to ac-company him to Norwich to report the annual meeting, and on the way from the station he pointed out a young couple, remarking: 'The handsomest couple in the Exercise.' This couple were destined to play no little part in guiding my footsteps. I refer to Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Barnett.

"That was probably the saddest Council meeting I ever attended. There was the resignation and collapse of Mr. Trollope, and during the luncheon interval Mr. Q. W. Fletcher asked me to produce the next issue or two while the officers looked round for a succe sor and I agreed. Later there was a meeting with the officers of the Council, Mr. Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher and Mr. A. A. Hughes, and I was in the editorial chair.

"It was a case of starting from scratch. I had an exacting job and could only devote a limited amount of time to the job—mainly Saturdays and Sundays. There was nothing in the office-no papers, not even the previous week's issue. Mrs. Fletcher was a great standby in providing copy; she wrote round to all guilds and associations, and this was a great reserve. The late Ernest Morris provided me with a pile of manuscripts, and gradually a splendid band of writers came to my aid. Some of those early contributors are still in harness. I met the committee over a cup of tea before a Standing Committee meeting which I attended to answer questions.

FIRST PHASE ENDS

"The first phase of my editorship ended at Chester in 1951. A new committee was elected with Mr. Smallwood as convener, and the late Harold Poole, whose daughter is a member of the present committee. She kindly acted as treasurer to my testimonial fund. Other members were Mr. F. I. Hairs and the late Joe Dyke and they set about a big campaign for 1,000 postal subscribersand I had my salary cut!!

"Mr. Smallwood was responsible for the series of articles entitled 'Servants of the Exercise' and Mr. Wilson, who joined the committee a year or two later, contributed technical articles which were the forerunner of his classic work 'Change Ringing.' Smallwood was determined to build up a reserve of £10,000, and he nearly succeeded. Life membership, conferred upon him at Truro, was richly deserved, and he was succeeded by Mr. Bob Anderson.

THE THIRD PHASE

"This led up to the third phase, which started at Northampton—a year during which the committee met fairly regularly. Monthly reports were submitted and questions answered by correspondence. At that meeting there were grumblings concerning The Ringing World. Some time back the question of tinted covers was explored, but it was resolved that the extra cost involved would result in a loss in production.

"The rumblings developed into a crescendo at Bath and Messrs. George Pipe and Dennis Beresford outlined a scheme for a 'new look' for The Ringing World. Evidence of a divided committee was presented at Worcester, but before then coloured covers had become a regular feature. I bid my farewell to a very happy committee. Our meetings have been regular and very thorough.

"In late years our problems have been largely of production, and they are still with us. But despite these, we have a friendly and considerate readership, many of whom are real friends of the Editor. My great desire is that I should be known to the ringing fraternity of the future as the man who introduced Charles Denyer as his successor. May he fulfil that wish and I trust he will have good health to carry it out.'

GRAMOPHONE RECORD OF GOOD STRIKING

The test pressing for this record has been approved and the record will soon be advertised in this journal. Those who secure a copy will obtain much pleasure from the variety of examples on four lovely rings of bells—Howden Minster, Norton-juxta-Malton and Nunburnholme, Yorkshire, and Washington Cathedral, U.S.A. The record will be very useful to instructors and lec-

The standard of ringing is good but not perfect, and one useful exercise for the listener will be to practise noting down the faults in each example.

In the main, plain courses in very simple methods were chosen so that the recordings would be understandable and valuable to most ringers—even to many non-ringers. It was found much more difficult to produce well-struck plain courses "to order" than longer lengths.

A list of the examples follows. The call changes on six include Queen's, Tittum's and Whittington's. Those on eight include —6578's, —7568's, Queen's and Whit-

All the examples were specially recorded in 1969 for this record except the excerpt from the peal at Washington in 1964.

The record will be distributed by the undersigned for the Central Council of Church Bell Ringers, and those who would like to purchase one should watch for further details in the advertisement columns of The Ringing World. The number of records pressed will be limited.

STRIKING COMPETITION

The Reading Branch tower of Goring was the venue for the guild striking competition and seven teams gathered on the fine Saturday afternoon of May 2. The ringing was closely contested and shortly after 5 p.m. ringing ended and everyone adjourned to the parish hall for tea.

Canon C. E. Wigg (master) thanked the Reading Branch for its hospitality, the incumbents of Goring and Streatley for the use of their bells, and the ladies who had prepared the tea. He made particular reference to Bloxham (Banbury Branch), who entered at short notice so that the branch might be represented. He then introduced Major E. J. Bragg and Mr. William Viggers, of Aldershot, the judges.

Mr. Viggers commented upon the high standard of ringing and of the difficulty experienced in deciding the winners. Major Bragg gave the results, which ended in a win for East Berks and South Bucks Branch (Hughenden tower), Newbury Branch (Hughenden tower), Newbury Branch (Thatcham) second, and Sonning Deanery Branch (Hurst) third.

The master congratulated the winners and presented the cup to the Hughenden band. Major Bragg said how much he and his colleague had enjoyed the competition. B. J. G.

DEPUTY MAYOR'S WELCOME

The annual meeting of the Guild was held at Bridport on May 9, when 140 ringers and friends filled the Church of St. Mary for the festival service conducted by the vicar (Canon J. P. Hinton), the address being given by the Archdeacon of Sherborne. During the service a course of Grandsire Caters on handbells was rung and the choir sang a Whitsuntide anthem. The collection for the Edwards Memorial Fund amounted to £10 6s. 6d.

After tea, served in the church hall, the Deputy Mayor, Alderman H. Smith, welcomed the guild to Bridport, outlining the town's amenities and business interests. He said many ringers would already have heard of Bridport because of the bell ropes made there. At one time, perhaps, the town was more famous for the "Bridport Dagger," the hangman's rope.

The meeting was presided over by the master, Rev. R. N. Longridge, supported by the general secretary and assistant general secretary. The master read the names of members lost by death during the year and a moment's silence was observed.

The secretary reported the number of peals rung was the highest in the history of the guild, the Wimborne Branch claiming most credit. Presenting the accounts, the Edwards Memorial Fund stood at £248 and the general account showed a slight reduction to £299.

The master said: "This is the second time I have had to announce the death of a president of our guild. Firstly Canon C. Carew Cox and now Mr. William C. West, both in their own way filling the office with dignity and distinction. Though only three years president, they were for Mr. West a time of pride and satisfaction in presiding over a guild of which he had been a member for 55 years and general secretary for

For the election of officers, Rev. R. M.

Longridge was by vote elected president. Rev. R. Keeley was elected master, Mr. F. Slatford general secretary, Mr. H. Knee assistant general secretary, Mr. C. F. Andrew peal secretary, Mr. R. Duke was added to the Guild Committee and Mr. F. Collins to the list of belfry inspectors.

It was decided to accept the suggested increase in subscription from 1971, i.e. members up to 17 years 15 new pence, other ringing members 25 new pence, with an optional subscription of 15 new pence for members over 65; life ringing members' subscription to be 30 new pence. The peal fee is to be increased to five new pence and given to the Edwards Memorial Fund. A grant of £50 from this fund was voted to Bishop Cannings. It being the wish of the guild to increase the capital of the Edwards Memorial Fund, Mr. E. Elmes suggested that one or two rules be made to govern the amount of grants given. A report is to be given to the next committee meeting.

ST. ANDREW'S AND DUNDEE U.G.

The quarter peal rung on May 17 at Dundee Cathedral was a milestone in the guild's progress. Formed in 1965, it was strong for a while but soon membership had dwindled and practices ceased. But now, under the leadership of Simon Burnett, the guild is building up well.

With the help of ringers coming up, beginners were taught and at first call changes were possible, but gradually change ringing on six was reinstated. In 1968 the guild had a welcome visitor from Kent School, Connecticut, U.S.A.—Jeff Nicoll, over in St. Andrew's for a year.

This session has been the guild's best ever and eight bells have been rung in changes on practice nights, and under Mr. A. F. Sturrock (the last of the original Cathedral band) a new local band has been taught. This band has become more experienced, and after the first attempt was lost in the sixth extent a good quarter was rung on Whit Sunday. This, the first for the guild, included three "firsts."

The guild is fortunate in having two of the 12 Scottish rings so close. The Cathedral bells are fairly heavy, but St. Mary's have recently been rehung and run easily. Unfortunately two ringers, Simon Burnett (master) and Graham Drew (deputy master and secretary) are leaving this year, but they leave behind a good band and progress is Due to pressure of degree exams practices have now ceased but will resume next term and will be held alternately at St. Paul's Cathedral and St. Mary's on Wednesdays at 7.15 p.m. All visitors will be made very welcome.

Officers recently elected are: Ringing master, Miss M. R. Hewson; secretary, G. A. Garner, St. Salvator's Hall, St. Andrew's, Fife; treasurer, D. N. Andrews.

A PUB TO AVOID

Saturday, May 8, was a grey and foreboding morning when the Biggleswade District coach left for Suffolk. Horringer, our first call, was reached on time and some good ringing was enjoyed by all. Refreshed with coffee and with the reserve driver at the wheel of the coach, we arrived at Woolpit. Thirty or more were packed in the ringing room, and the bells were under way when a breathless churchwarden arrived to put an early stop to our efforts. A lastminute consultation with the architect on Friday had pronounced the tower unsafe! Our spirits undaunted, and the sun now shining, we left for Stowmarket. While carpets were purchased for St. Paul's, Bedford, other lunched in the busy market town before ringing on the eight at the parish church. Stonham Aspall, with its wooden-topped tower, was the first 10-bell tower for some of the party and rounds were rung by Cambridge Royal, Stedman and Grandsire Caters were achieved, while others wandered along the footpaths of this peaceful village. After tea at Debenham we walked to the church for a well-struck course of London. The last tower of the day, Cotton, with its unique ringing room completely exposed to the elements on one side, finished the day's ringing. Unfortunately the local hostelry, the Trowel and Hammer, did not welcome coach parties however well behaved, and we were asked to leave before completely quenching our thirsts. Our thanks go to Philip Rogers, the organiser, the coach drivers and the incumbents (but not to the publican) for a very enjoyable day. S. H. A.

Letters

WHY RING?

Dear Sir,-The letter from your correspondent, Mr. Dennis Millward, made me see red! He relates how he turned away a potential good ringer simply because he was not a confirmed member of the Church and then asks if it was wrong to let him go. It certainly was!

I have been a member of the Church all my life and a ringer for nearly as long, and will never renounce either, but I am strongly opposed to the self-righteous "class apart" attitude of so many churchpeople who refuse to accept "outsiders" into their midst.

It is high time that everyone realised that ringing is a thoroughly worthy and highly developed art in its own right, and should be allowed to flourish as such, without subordination to one particular religious

Church authorities seem to act on the assumption that only their own people can appreciate the sound of the bells, and that they alone should be allowed to ring them. Whenever an appeal is made for funds to provide an augmentation or a rehang, does the Church refuse donations from interested outsiders?

Any sincere non-churchman who becomes a keen, reliable ringer is brought into close contact with the life and work of the Church, and if that life is strong, positive and friendly, as it should be, he will be favourable impressed. I have known a number of instances where Nonconformists and others have become regular church members solely as a result of their keen interest in ringing.

In these days of declining church attendance and sadly-neglected towers, it is deplorable to turn away anyone who, by his own will, is anxious to become a ringer. I say to Mr. Millward, and others in the same situation, provided would-be ringers are not openly antagonistic to the Church, welcome them to the tower and teach them to ring first; you have a much better chance of making a good churchman out of a keen ringer than you have of making a good ringer out of a dutiful churchman.—Yours faithfully,

JOHN H. DURANCE.

Rothley, Leics.

WHY WE RING

Dear Sir,—I would not wish to prolong this correspondence, yet I would ask for your indulgence and allow me space to reply to Mr. John L. Findon's letter.

Firstly, it is our practice when a parishioner indicates that he or she wishes to learn to ring, to ask them to come and sit in during two or three service ringing periods, and then give a brief explanation of what will be required of them. If still willing, we give special training sessions with silent bells. However, when faced with a visitor, as I was, a quick decision was necessary, and I did what I felt was right.

Secondly, this man was adamant. "He wasn't going to be confirmed just to be-come a ringer." To be confirmed for no other reason than to become a ringer would lower this Holy Sacrament to mundane level and as such I agree with this view.

Thirdly, any ringer who resides in or near Buckley would be most welcome in our tower at any normal ringing times, and if of peal or conductor standard would cer-tainly be invited to take part in our limited peal activities.

Fourthly, in Mr. Findon's last paragraph I would say he has put the cart before the HOLSWORTHY BELLS

Dear Sir,—May I have the opportunity to answer Noel F. Moxon's query on Hols-worthy bells? (Ringing World, page 410.)

The piece of music entitled "Holsworthy Church Bells" refers to Holsworthy in South Devon.

It is generally accepted that the composer had these particular bells in mind and was inspired to write this well-known piece. If you could see a copy of the music you might find it suitably inscribed.—Yours faithfuily,

DAVID W. BEE.

Scottern, Lines.

Dear Sir,- In reply to the query from Noel F. Moxon re Holsworthy Church, I am an organist and have a copy of the piece of music concerned, which states:
"An Air composed for Holsworthy Church Bells" and varied for the organ. A few years ago I visited Holsworthy Church in Devon and found there an electric chiming barrel in the church (in a glass case) listing the various tunes which could be played and this piece of music was one of those mentioned

I imagine this clears up the query. The bells can, of course, also be rung.—Yours faithfully, ARTHUR H. COOMBS.

East Dulwich, S.E.

Dear Sir, In your issue of The Ringing World of May 29 Noel F. Moxon wanted to know the origin of the piece of music written by Wesley—"Holsworthy Church Bells.

When Mr. Wesley was organist at Exeter Cathedral he spent a holiday here at Holsworthy with Dr. Linington Ash. Local history says that while resting in the garden of this friend the parish church bells were rung, and he composed the tune while listening to them.

We have a carillon here which plays 12 tunes, and the "Holsworthy Church Bells" is the most popular. I am the towerkeeper and get many requests to hear it, as we understand it is the only carillon that plays it.

We have a lovely ring of bells and always welcome visitors. If anyone would like to hear the "Holsworthy Church Bells" on the can contact me and I the carillon they can contact me and I shall always be pleased to help. — Yours faithfully, horse. Church authorities do not place expensive equipment for people to use solely for pleasure but for ringers to feel they have a duty to perform twice every Sunday.

Holsworthy, Devon. CHARLIE LYLE.

No, firstly we must ring to the Glory of God and in His service, then for the pleasure and satisfaction we derive from

The question arises: Should church authorities provide and maintain bells, and instructors give their time to train people who only want to ring for pleasure? I say "Come back to God and His Church and then we will teach you to ring."

Finally, I do not think that we at St. Matthew's are very much different from ringers at other towers. Our ringers have always taken an active interest in the life of the church, several have held office, and one ringer is now vicar of a nearby parish. To hold any office in the Church one must be a confirmed member. We cannot have of our company.—Yours faithfully,

DENNIS H. B. MILLWARD,

Tower Captain.

Buckley, Flintshire.

5040 MAXIMUS

Dear Sir,—I was surprised to read a letter from Mr. G. E. Symonds suggesting that 5040's of Maximus had only been rung in Ipswich. Surely Mr. Symonds cannot have missed the large number of 5040's of Londinium and similar methods rung in London, Birmingham, etc.

If he was referring to Cambridge-type methods specifically, I am afraid that he is still wrong, as 5040's have been rung in Birmingham and Cheshire and probably elsewhere. Admittedly they are now quite rare, because of the ease of obtaining 5042's, but even so a 5040 of Cambridge was rung only last year at St. Mary-le-Bow, London, conducted by B. D. Threlfall. Yours faithfully, Hamble, Hants. R. DENNIS.

CARTWHEELING

Dear Sir,-With regard to the Rochester District striking competition which Mr. Moxon mentions, the judges explained that whereas a closed handstroke lead was quite acceptable in, say, Yorkshire, in Kent it could only be regarded as incorrect. Surely the Cuxton band, who must have realised that cartwheeling is not traditionally regarded as "good" ringing in the Rochester District, should have checked with the judges before ringing as to whether it would be acceptable, not afterwards, which seems a little provocative.

a little provocative.

Are we to ban the ringing of certain methods as "unmusical"? If so, who judges? Why waste time over the "correct," "traditional" or "better" method of leading? Some will always prefer one and some the other.—Yours faithfully, Loughborough, RICHARD W. BRICE.

KENT AND OXFORD

Dear Sir,-Mr. Findon's letter about Kent and Oxford T.B. in your issue of May 15 set me puzzling and as none of the experts has given the solution here is my in-terpretation. The band should be instructed to ring Kent except immediately after a call of Oxford has been made. These calls are made when the treble is in 3-4 down before a lead-end marked X or I and Oxford ceases to be rung after the treble leaves the front. In addition, where the lead-end is marked I a bob is called. Note that it is essential to distinguish italic I from Roman I, as the latter symbol denotes one ordinary Kent bob.

Below are the lead-ends and full details of the changes of method for the touches Mr. Findon wished clarified. The changes of method are interlined to show they hap-pen before the lead-end. Changes to Kent

BREADTH AND QUALITY OF WORK IMPRESSIVE

This year's annual meeting was held in the Rochdale Branch and was well organised except for the weather. All appeared to enjoy themselves in spite of the cold and rain.

The service in Newhey Church was well attended and in his address the president, Canon A. Hodgson, took up the theme of Christianity in ringing, and the relative merits of peal and service ringing. About 130 sat down to tea, a very apt choice of hotpot and apple pie.

The A.G.M. was chaired by the president, who welcomed visitors from Leicestershire, Cheshire and Somerset. An appeal letter asking for funds for Stinchcombe bells was discussed but no proposal was made.

Mr. Dennis Jones, of Aughton, was declared elected vice-president by the postal ballot. There were no contenders for the post of general secretary and Mr. F. Reynolds were declared re-elected.

As the annual report had not been received in time, officers presented their own. and points were:-

President's Message.—Any impartial observer must have been impressed by the breadth and quality of the work at associa-tion and branch level. They were fortunate in the quality of the officers and committee.
The rules of the association had been brought up to date in modern style and streamlined and simplified.

General Secretary.—Because a number of towers had not sent in their subscriptions by the end of the year, it was difficult to give an accurate assessment of membership. There appeared to have been a drop in membership and this, together with non-payers, was reflected in the treasurer's accounts. The duties of the ringing secretary had been split—Mr. C. Crossthwaite looking after ringing affairs and Mr. A. Ward was the report secretary.

Ringing Secretary.—During 1969 a total of 180 peals was rung, 26 on handbells (mostly at Hawkshead). Of the 154 tower bell peals one (of Major) which appeared in The Ringing World had not been in-cluded as no booking fee was received.

Congratulations to 35 members who had rung their first peal and to seven first as conductor. Kevin Price, with 57, was the leading peal ringer and also leading conductor, with 49. Peals had been rung by Sunday service bands at St. Thomas's, Newhey; Christ Church, Healey; St. Mary's, Penwortham: St. James', Leyland; and St. James', Accrington; and in spliced, Maximus was rung to 50 methods in March and raised to 60 in July.

The accounts showed a balance of £778 on the association funds against £852, due mainly to Income Tax and Corporation Tax of £34 14s. The Bell Restoration Fund stood at £373.

More ringing and the usual social get-together followed the meeting, and it was approaching midnight when some of the visitors left for distant parts.

SOUTHAMPTON, Lindum, 29 Hanley Rd. Sat., May 16, 1970, 1hr. 48min. (17 in A.) 5040 PLAIN BOB MINOR (7 extents).

Editorial

THANK YOU!

The Editor much appreciates the action of the Central Council in accepting him as an honorary member, and he will endeavour to justify the confidence placed in him.

The many favourable comments and promises of continuing support he received were very encouraging, and we look forward to increasing interest throughout the Exercise.

However, the most pleasing factor during the happy week-end at llkley was the meeting of so many ringers who were until then just "a name," also the making of new friends and the renewal of old friendships. All these make for the better understanding and fraternal spirit which should (and does!) exist between Editor and reader.

With the co-operation and patience of all ringers the survival of The Ringing World is assured, but we do appeal to every reader to endeavour to interest one more subscriber. This will help considerably towards a larger paper and, eventually, to more articles of technical and general interest.

University College of Wales. MARKED IMPROVEMENT

Travelling in a Land-Rover of a type more used to safaris than ringing outings. the U.C.W.S.C.R. held their last tour of the session on May 16. Towers visited were Llanidloes, Llandinam (where the peal the society rang there in December, 1969, was the first on the bells!). Forden, Chirbury, Welshpool and High Ercall.

The standard of ringing showed a marked improvement and several new methods were mastered. Apart from one bewildered hitch-liker who refused the offer of a lift in a Land-Rover, the day was enjoyed by all.

Land-Rover, the day was enjoyed by all.
Thanks were expressed by members to incumbents of all towers for allowing them to ring.

The Very Rev. J. F. Pratt was installed as Rector and Provost of the Cathedral Church of St. Mary the Virgin. Southwell, Notts, on May 2, and a peal of Plain Bob Maximus was rung in honour of the occasion by the resident band.

Mr. Joseph Cotton, who is recovering from an operation,, had a "best wishes for a speedy recovery to good health" peal rung for him by the Leicester Guild at the Bell Foundry.

It is 76 years since a Sunday service band rang a peal at Chichester Cathedral, but another was accomplished on May 15 last. May the band increase in strength and enthusiasm.

The Croft brothers—James, John and William—of Southampton, have rung a peal of Minor on handbells—believed to be the first by three brothers for the Winchester Guild—and at an average age of 16 years 4 months. Congratulations—and to Ken and Madeline, the proud parents!

The vicar and churchwardens at Gospel Oak, Mdsx, hope for their bells to be rung for the major church festivals during the year, and Walter G. Knight is hoping to

Belfry Gossip

The 50th peal on the bells of St. Mary's, Barnes, S.W., was the 25th on them by the conductor, John Ketteringham. Method: Yorkshire Surprise Major.

For the non-conducted and silent peal of Stedman Cinques at Trowbridge, Wiltshire. Heather Kippin was umpire, and Frank Harris rang his 50th peal of Stedman Cinques.

Basingstoke College Minor, rung as two 720's in a quarter peal for the first time, at Longparish, Hants, on May 26, was specially arranged to coincide with the birthday of popular Frank Tonge, tower captain. Intended as a peal of London Surprise Minor by the Sunday service band at Highclere, Hants, this was halted after a shift course and the quarter peal substituted.

The peal of Cambridge Royal at Solihull on May 25 was rung to mark the 40th anniversary of the rector's (Rev. Harry Hartley) ordination to the priesthood; also for the occasion of the ordination to the priesthood of the Rev. Malcolm Ferrier (of Solihull) and the Rev. Simon Gedge (of Perry Barr) on May 24, 1970, in this church.

Digging through old Ringing Worlds, Mr. Geoffrey Dodd, of Highclere, Hants, has come across Double Bristol Imperial Major, which is very similar to Double Dublin and wonders if any reader can give him any details of this method.

Twenty-five years ago (April, 1945) Ted Peett first visited St. Margaret's, S.W., and rang a quarter. The other surviving member of that band is Mrs. E. Cave (nee Deal) and the quarter was rung partly to commemorate the anniversary. Ted Peett has been a continuous member of the band since that day.

Ringing at Blackmoor, Hants, has started again and the ringers thank Mr. C. E. Bassett for all the time and effort he has spent overhauling the bells.

The peal cards advertised each week are Mr. Tom White's "speciality" and he apologises for the recent delay in delivery. The printers are so busy with election printing that the foreman has told his staff he will only accept a death certificate for a man not "clocking-on" at work!

First peal congratulations to Peter Wilkinson. Edwin J Roper, Richard C. Offen, Malcolm R. Weatherhead. Leighton Cooke (14), Jeremy D. Owen, G. Nigel Williams (13), Miss M. Livingstone, Mrs. D. A. Preston, Alan Jackson.

Personal Records: Stuart Sandford (100 peals), Paul N. Mounsey (50), Geoffrev Pearson (300), Allan Keen (25), Michael Thomson (100).

The local company at Moulton. Northants, themselves installed a new floor for the ringing chamber and rang a peal to mark the occasion (and to test its stability, no doubt!).

Mrs. Olga Howes, a ringer at Brinklow, Rugby, has been licensed as a lay preacher—the second lady in the Coventry Diocesan Guild—and fellow ringers rang a quarter to honour the occasion.

ear, and Walter G. Knight is hoping to If God did not exist, it would be necesbe able to collect a band for these occasions sary to invent him. VOLTAIRE. Ilkley Interludes ...

Looking somewhat tired, an enthusiastic younger member of the Council slumped into a chair at H.Q. on the Monday evening and upon inquiry as to the reason of his weariness he replied that he had managed to ring in 16 different towers that day. He was not the m.u.g. some people would imagine, however, for he had had a substantial midday meal at one place—free! This gave him the energy to pursue his hectic way for the afternoon.

A revolutionary idea was put forward by one member of the Surrey Association a national association or guild controlled by a nationally elected body. It did not receive much support.

Another suggestion, however, was a National Ringing Festival—and this did create some interest. (Book March 1971, Guildford, Surrey, area.)

During the informal meeting the president (Mr. Freeman) at one point asked if anyone had any comments on the subject under discussion. Nobody spoke, but seeing a figure standing in one corner he queried: "Do you wish to speak, sir—or haven't you got a chair?"

The hills rising behind the hotels in Ilkley have an appeal all of their own, and two middle-aged and rather "well proportioned" ringers were boasting of having climbed to their summit on Sunday before breakfast. The only witnesses of this remarkable feat—the sheep (and they can't talk!).

Among the company booking in at the Craiglands Hotel on the Saturday were a newly-married couple, who for reasons best known to themselves unloaded their "decorated" car and left it blocking the entrance to the car park. On the windows of the car, among other scribbled words, "Aisle Altar Hymn" (a warning which usually comes too late!).

The father of a 14-months-old baby asked one of the hotel staff for a little bread and butter and a glass of orange. Three full slices plus a large jug of orange liberally treated with ice cubes arrived, much to father's (and mother's) consternation.

The president (Mr. Freeman), introducing Mr. Vernon Bottomley to the assembled company on the Sunday, said he understood many members of the Council received their Ringing Worlds as they were about to set out for Ilkley, and when they opened them and saw the picture of Mr. Bottomley on the first page immediately changed their minds and turned back for home again.

A MISUNDERSTANDING

Regarding the Chester Guild annual festival at Nantwich on May 9, Audrey Grimsditch, of Northwich, writes:—

ditch, of Northwich, writes:—
"The Vicar of Wrenburv came along just after all ringers but myself had left, having just found out that we had been unable to gain access to the tower at the arranged time. He wished to extend sincere apologies for any inconvenience caused, and said visiting ringers were always welcome and he would have let us in."

AMERICAN LADIES' GRATITUDE

Earlier this year we were asked to advise two American ladies in Chicago, Illinois, who were coming to England for a holiday, where they might see and hear English church bellringing, and we put them in touch with Mr. and Mrs. Tom Lock, of North Mymms, Herts.

We have received the following apprecia-

Dear Sir,—We wanted to thank you for putting us in touch with Thomas Lock of North Mymms prior to our recent holiday in England. Although the time flew by much too quickly, it could not have held greater enjoyment. During the first week, which was spent in London, we met Mr. Lock, who kindly arranged for us to attend a practice ringing evening at Hendon. This was our first direct experience with ringing and we decided at once there is no more joyous sound on earth. Miss Ruth Foreman, the ringing captain at Hendon, and her band were most cordial and patient in explanations.

We also, with Mr. Lock, were shown around Whitechapel Bell Foundry by Mr. William Hughes. We came away much impressed with the art and history of bell casting, perhaps most memorably with a sense of the many fine crafts involved and the very apparent congenial teamwork needed in this work. We were delighted to be shown the small replicas of the Liberty Bell destined to be sent to the U.S. and also to have visited the "birthplace" of Big Ben.

The very next day Mr. Lock arranged for us to climb the tower where Big Ben keeps the hours for London and we found much of interest in the history of the clock and bells. Standing beside Big Ben and the chimes at high noon to watch and hear them strike was, for us, very moving.

IN THE COUNTRY

After leaving London we spent two weeks driving about the countryside, visiting at Salisbury, the Cotswolds and areas near Nettlebed in Oxfordshire. At Nettlebed we had the good fortune to hear a band of touring ringers one Saturday morning. On a visit to nearby Goring that same day we encountered a ringing competition being conducted, which we found quite fascina-ting, particularly as heard from a hillside above Streatley across the Thames, which we'd climbed for a view of the valley. During a trip to Bury St. Edmunds and Ely we heard a local band of ringers practise one evening in an old Norman tower which was once a gateway to the Abbey at Bury. We visited Coventry Cathedral the next day and, despite the lack of bellringing while there, found it one of the most deeply moving experiences of our two trips to England thus far.

We must also report that we spent a Sunday at North Mymms with Mr. and Mrs. Lock, heard and observed the ringing at the church, and Mr. Lock took us to the bell chamber itself to watch them "work" for a short time. He and Mrs. Lock extended the utmost hospitality to us and we cannot but thank our good fortune to have met two such charming and gracious people. Certainly Mr. Lock's efforts on our behalf were far more than anticipated and spoke well for the kindness of English people as well as helping us to a better understanding and appreciation of bellringing. still feel ourselves novices in understanding. our enthusiasm has made us want to cam-paign for a ring of bells in Chicago. We surely hope that ringing will spread here CAMERA SHY!

"Crundell," the 12-months-old golden Labrador, posed reluctantly for our camera with his mistress, Mrs. Jeanne Bottomley) one evening at Ilkley H.Q. He became a great favourite with many members of the Council and on Tuesday, during their deliberations, sat patiently in the visitors' gallery surrounding the King's Hall. He was, however, quickly removed when he recognised his master's (Vernon Bottomley) voice and spotted his mistress nearby. He gave vent to his feelings of affection for them and, possibly, his desire to complain for having been neglected for so long.

A NEW VENTURE

Saturday, May 16, saw the Ilchester Branch embark on yet another new venture -a striking competition held at Long Sutton (a good-going 17 cwt. six). It was an entirely new experience for most who took part and the branch is grateful to John Gilbert (association secretary) and David Yeo (Long Ashton) for acting as judges.

The honours went to the experienced veteran Yeovil team (17 faults) with Somerton (40 faults) second. Third were Preston Plucknett, a team recently taught (55 faults), fourth Long Sutton (60 faults), who rang call changes of longer duration than the others, and who rang Grandsire and Bob Doubles. It has been suggested that Yeovil and Somerton enter teams for the Diocesan Association's competition in the autumn.

After the tower teams competing had recorded their efforts, the "officials past and present" rang 120 Plain Bob Minor—and the judges detected 26 faults! The branch is grateful to the vicar of Long Sutton and Mrs. C. J. B. Marshall, the tower master (Mr. Albert Lewis) and especially Mr. and Mrs. Roger Winlaw for the use of a room for the judges at the Old School House, M. M. L.

Once again, please accept our gratitude. We find ourselves now unable to think of future holidays anywhere save England. We were convinced last year that it was the loveliest of countries, but this year's trip has deepened our awareness and love for it by far and we are convinced that ringing is one of its chief attractions.—Sincerely,

Llandaff and Monmouth Association. WELL SUPPORTED

Some 70 ringers, representing 16 towers, attended the Monmouth Branch meeting at Caerleon on May 9 and all enjoyed the delightful ring of eight light bells.

The service was conducted by the vicar (Rev. Morgan Jones), Mr. Michael Meadows read the lesson and Mr. Ian Williams was organist. Tea was in Caerleon Senior School, prepared and given by the Caerleon ringers, for which Mr. Brian Neale expressed sincere thanks. He also thanked Mr. Greener (headmaster) for allowing the use of the school hall and kitchens. Mr. Williams, who was thanked for playing the organ, was a ringer at Ebbw Vale, is married to a ringer, Monica, the youngest daughter of Canon Oswell, and is well versed in the ways of ringers' services!

Members remembered with prayer Mr. Fred Woods, a ringer at Caldicot, who had died the previous day.

New members elected were from: Marshfield (5), Blaenavon (4), Chepstow (3), Grosmont (2) and Bassaleg (2). Progress was reported from the newly-formed band at Llangibby.

Mention was made of the next quarterly meeting, to be held at Ebbw Vale in July, and the next evening practice, at Usk, in June.

Mr. Reuben Clench (master) expressed thanks to all who had helped towards the success of the meeting.

SUCCESSFUL SURPRISE PRACTICES

The Eastern District held their May meeting at Little Munden (6), a very historic church positioned on a hill with a commanding view across the surrounding countryside. Ringing was followed by a short service conducted by the Rev. E. Bennett, who gave the address.

Tea in the school was followed by a business meeting. Mr. S. James (district secretary) announced the arrangements for the outing in June, and David Harris (ringing master) spoke of the success of the monthly Surprise practices. Mr. John Kemp (Hertford) proposed thanks to the vicar, organist and Miss Lawrence and friends for the tea arrangements.

Further ringing took place until 9 p.m. B. J. W. F.

A TRIP "ABROAD"

Members of the Rochdale Branch (50 of them) left Rochdale on May 9 for their annual trip "abroad" and left promptly at

The first tower, East Retford, was reached shortly before 10 a.m. and all seemed to enjoy the 23 cwt. ten. The light six at Ord-sall was next and a variety of methods was Lunch was at Worksop, and then on to the 12 cwt. six at Saxilby, where London Minor was well rung.

At St. Giles', Lincoln, eight-spliced went well for only six leads but a touch of Stedman came round.

Following tea in Lincoln there was the long walk up the hill to the Cathedral. Some good rounds and call changes began our evening's ringing on the light 12 at the Cathedral, but our change ringing was rather "lumpy." Nevertheless it was a most enjoyable day out with several "first timers" asking "When can we go again?"

Our thanks to all incumbents and tower captains for making us so welcome and to ANON.

DOUBLE BOOKING

Mr. Geoffrey Dodd (Highc'ere, Hants), writing about double booking peals (R.W., 341), points out to Mr. R. Savory that although he (Mr. Dodd) conducted the peal on March 14 (not 24) which is referred to. he did not organise it but was instrumental in assisting the young organiser who wished to ring the heavy tenor (which he did very well) prior to a further peal at Sherborne (and a still heavier tenor!). Because of this Mr. Dodd had, unfortunately, to decline an invitation to ring in the "Geoffrey" peal at Evesham.

Mr. Dodd enumerates in his letter a number of peals rung for two or more Associations and ends by referring to the changes from 40 years ago, when floral names were changed as "unsuitable" and yet today we accept titles such as "Turkish Delight" and "All Fools Delight."

IT MAY WELL HAVE BEEN the bells of St. John's, the Parish Church of Keynsham, that roused George Frederick Handel from his slumbers in the guest room of the nearby Bridges Great House and caused him to reter to Britain as "the ringing isle." The great musician was sensitive to the bell music he heard in England, and on his visits to Keynsham between 1730 and 1750 he would have heard a tuneful ring of eight not much different from that heard today. Handel was a benefactor to the church where he played the organ, but whereas there is an offertory plate dated 1750 with his name inscribed on it, there are no records to justify the rumour that he gave a bell in 1731.

The Parish Church at Keynsham is visible from most approaches to the town, not so much because it is built on a hill, but because it stands head and shoulders both literally and architecturally above its contemporary surroundings. The present church was begun in 1270 on the site of a previous religious building. To the east of the church stood the once famous Keynsham Abbey, founded in 1175 and dedicated to the Augustinian Order. Its remains are now being excavated, for it suffered wholesale destruction following the Dissolution of the Monasteries in 1539. The fore-mentioned Great House was built from its stone.

THE BLACK DEATH

The church was at one time appropriated by the Abbot, and early vicars (the list dates from 1308) were associated with the Abbey. There are records of arguments over the allocation of the tithes which suggests some friction, but there's no doubt the Abbey held the exalted position in the village. The Black Death of 1348 did not discriminate between positions, however, and monk and layman, abbot and vicar succumbed alike to the activities of the rat-carried bubonic fleas.

The building of the church is reckoned to have been completed in 1470. It had a chancel, a nave and two aisles and a tower with a spire set at the junction of the north aisle and the chancel. Of its appearance we know nothing and we can only guess at its ring of bells. The first mention of bells is in 1508, when Nicholas Sayntlow left the sum of 10d. "towards the cost of the Great Bell." That Great Bell we take to be the present tenor, which is dated 1669—the date of recasting—made necessary perhaps by the violent events of 1632. In 1531 a "saunce" or sanctus bell was hung. It is inscribed "Jon 15 iii i" perhaps after Abbot John Stourton of the Abbey, and is the oldest bell in the tower.

Four bells were added to the Great Bell in the early 17th century; the present 7th, cast in 1602 (16 cwt.), the present 6th, dated 1607 (13 cwt), the present 4th, cast in 1631 (8½ cwt.), and the present 5th, date unknown but probably recast in 1791. These bells hung silently in the tower on the evening of January 12, 1632. On the evening of January 13 the spire of the tower was no more. It fell in a violent storm. But let the contemporary description tell the story: "... the storm ... continued in a most fearful manner, being intermixed with hideous clapps of thunder and flashes of lightning aboute sixe of the clock in the afternoon of the same day. And by reason of the force thereof in a moment threw down the spire of the tower; which in the fall thereof crashed down likewise the principallest part of the said church, chancel, vestry, pulpit and seates and defaced the pavement also. And the tower being therewith crased from the top to the foundation."

There is no mention of the bells, but they seem to have survived intact, for they all appear in the new tower. In 1632 Charles I issued a brief (the original is in the church) which appealed for help from all the churches in Southern England. A sum of £690 or £700 is mentioned and slowly the money began to come in. With this and the parishioners' own efforts it was possible to botch up the chancel arch, patch the broken roof and to rebuild the tower on its present western end site. By the time the Civil War had come and gone in 1645 the tower must have been well advanced. There is evidence that the bells were rehung in 1654, for a new addition— the present No. 3—is given that date and the weathercock with 1655 cut in its tail feathers must have marked the comple-tion. No doubt the ring of six rang out in celebration of the Restoration. In 1669 the Great Bell was recast as the present tenor (25 cwt.). In 1731 two more bells were added-the present treble and second. One of these is reputed to have been Handel's gift, but they carry only the churchwardens' names and a bit of braggart verse by the founder:

> "I value not who doth me see, For Thomas Bilbie casted me. Although my voice it is but small, I will be heard amongst you all."

No mention of Handel appears anywhere.

SAME BELL FRAME

Sixty years late the present ring of eight was formed with the recasting of the 5th. The oak bell frame still in use today dates from 1731, but there have been some repairs to it, principally in 1887. New clappers have been fitted to the bells as occasion demanded and in 1948 the bells were rehung on ball races by Mears and Stainbank.

It is of interest that the 6th bell, of 1607, bears the initials R. P. as well as the Stuart arms and "Drawe neare to God" and is the earliest example of Roger Purdue's bell founding work in the neighbour-hood. The works of Thomas Bilbie, of Chew Stoke, who cast the 1731 bells, are also well known in the West Country.

Apart from tower and bells, other parts of Keynsham Church worthy of attention are the fine wooden screen at the entrance to the choir vestry, which dates from the 15th century and survived the 1632 storm, and the Charles I screen nearby. The tombs in the chancel are both pleasant and notorious. They represent the extremes of taste in the Bridges family, who at one time were patrons of the church. The whole church was extensively restored in 1863. The chancel arch was rebuilt, the box pews removed and the interior rendered much as it is today. The candelabra of 1717 have been adapted in turn from use with candles to gas and now are all electric. Inevitably there has been considerable repair work done in this century, mostly to the roof timbers and outer walls. The organ was modernised in 1966.

No mention of Keynsham would be complete without reference to Fred Day,

The year 1970 marks the 700th anniversary of the church and a programme of events under the title Festival 700 has been arranged. This includes a ringing festival on July 18, when the bells are available for general ringing or quarter peals. This coincides with the flower festival, when it is hoped that the lady decorators will be ringing the changes on over 70 different displays.

CLARION CALL TO RINGERS

SAVE FAMOUS LEICESTER CHURCH

Well-known Leicester ringer Mr. Sid Harrison, who is deputy churchwarden of St. John the Divine, Leicester, appeals through The Ringing World for ringers to support him in his petition to save this church with its ring of ten bells.

The Bishop's Commission concerned with the future of parishes and churches in inner Leicester recommended that St. John the Divine's should be merged with Holy Trinity and perhaps demolished. Seventeen years ago Mr. Harrison led a similar campaign against a threat of demolition and a reprieve was forthcoming. The petition he is organising is headed: "The Last Cam-

The Bishop of Leicester (Dr. R. R. Williams) in a Press statement emphasised that the Bishop's Commission's recommendations were not a fait accompli.

"There will be full opportunity for all opinions to be expressed in this matter before a final decision is taken," he said. "The next stage is a meeting of the Pastoral Committee on July 14, but even then things will not be definite; there will be much discussion, consideration and permission to be obtained before a final decision is made."

The reason given for demolition 17 years ago was that the church should go to the people. Mr. Harrison contends that congregations on new estate churches were nothing near those of some city churches: one averaged about nine for Evensong and another 16. St. John's was still the civic church of Leicester.

The bells of St. John the Divine were the gift of Samuel Bunning in thanksgiving for Queen Victoria, and later they were augmented by William Willson. Mr. Harrison, whose address is 73 Hopefield Road, Leicester, LE3 2BL, asks for the fullest support from ringers to the following netition: THE PETITION

We, the undermentioned ringers, protest most strongly against the suggested demolition of this beautiful Church of St. John the Divine, Leicester.

The bells here are acknowledged throughout Great Britain as a magnificent example of the founders' art and craft, whether tone, tune or "go" of them is considered.

To dismantle them would be a serious act of desecration, and an insult to the memory of the men who placed them in their present position to the Glory of God and the service of His Church.

Were these bells removed elsewhere, they would not be the bells of St. John the Divine's, as they now are, as conditions would be different.

We give our full support to the congregation and parishioners who are fighting against this sacrilegious destruction of all they rightly hold dear.

Ringing Society, etc. Name of Church, Date.

It is advisable to type this petition on a quarto sheet and fill in details at foot before signatures are added .-- Ed.

THE GUILD OF MEDICAL RINGERS

The spring meeting of the guild for 1970 took place on May 23. Lest it be thought that this arrangement was in careless dis-regard of the Bank Holiday traffic—and of more august proceedings on Ilkley Moor—it should be stated that it arose from uncertainty (i.e. absence of a 1970 Diary) at the previous meeting in 1969.

Let it be said that in spite of one or two holiday absentees, the meeting was rated a great success. Three Hertfordshire towers were visited during the afternoon—North Mymms, Datchworth and Stevenage. three are as yet truly rural, though the enveloping tentacles of the New Town are now wrapping themselves round the cen-turies-old isolation of the Parish Church of Stevenage. Not so with North Mymms, at which several deplorably late arrivals complained that it just did not exist on their maps. If this be so, long may it continue and remain unspoilt.

By means of convoy procedure which must have puzzled some of the other, brisker users of the A.1, the party arrived complete in line ahead at Datchworth, and very much enjoyed both the hilltop situation and the very pleasant six. After a further successful convoy via the as yet uncharted ways of Stevenage New Town, and a welcome cup of tea, the guild enjoyed a pleasing hour on the excellent Taylor eight in the old church-now 20 years since their recasting, but mellowing nicely.

Dinner (and handbells) was taken at the White Lion—together with decisions concerning the next meeting (November 21—all medical, nursing and "para-medical" brethren please note), a further overseas meeting next year, and, all being well, another crack at that Everest, a guild peal, in July.

Essex Association. ON A MAY AFTERNOON

A meeting of the South Eastern District was held at Purleigh on May 9. For many this was a nostalgic visit, as Purleigh bells have been virtually silent since the early 1960's. Recently, however, a change of incumbent has created new interest and a band is being taught by Sandra Turner (Maldon).

The district striking competition was held in the afternoon and the competition was judged by Peter Pitt (Colchester) and Walter Arnold (Earl's Colne). The service was conducted by the rector (Rev. H. Bettenson), who also gave the address, and the Rev. A. J. Abbey (Sandon) was the or-Purleigh, a delightful spot on a warm May afternoon attracted 58 members and friends, who enjoyed tea in the Eveleigh Rooms. Thanks are due to Sandra Turner, Mrs. Bettenson and the ladies who had worked not only preparing tea but also spring-cleaning the hall.

The master (Mr. P. J. Rothera) was in the chair for the meeting and Mr. Pitt gave the judges' observations of the competition. The results were: 1 Danbury (27 petition. The results were: 1 Danbury (27 faults), 2 Maldon (34), followed by Sandon and Terling. Danbury and Maldon will represent the district at the association final at Rayne in July.

Several new members were elected, including Caroline Phillips (Danbury), Trevor Williams and Paul Mooney (Great Baddow) and Diana Bush (Sandon). The secretary announced that the next meeting would be held at Goldhanger in September, followed by Burnham-on-Crouch in November.

The meeting concluded with a vote of thanks proposed by Mr. Keith Brown to all who had helped to make the meeting a success.

The bells were available until 8 p.m., but the local hostelry, conveniently situated next to the church, provided a strong counter attraction on the warm evening.

Hereford Guild.

ANNUAL FESTIVAL The annual festival and meeting held at Ledbury on the Spring Bank Holiday was favoured with glorious weather. In addition to the Parish Church, ringing took place at Bosbury, Bromesberrow, Coddington, Cradley, Colwall, Eastnor, Mathon, Much Marcle and Stretton Grandison. The guild service, which was well attended, took place in Ledbury Parish Church and was conducted by the vicar (Preb. D. L. Jones), assisted by his curate. The vicar welcomed the ringers and stressed the importance of their work for the church.

Tea, followed by the annual meeting, was at the Royal Oak, and the master (Miss Valerie Edge), in the chair, gave her report on the year's activities. Other reports were given by the secretary (Mr. G. ports were given by the secretary (Mr. G. Cousins) and the peal recorder (Mrs. E. C. Chandler). The accounts, presented by the treasurer (Mr. F. C. A. Bennett), disclosed a satisfactory financial position. Officers elected were: Master, Mr. R. G. Powell (Hereford); secretary, Mr. George Counsins; treasurer, Mr. F. C. A. Bennett; auditor, Mr. Alan Elsmore: peal recorder. auditor, Mr. Alan Elsmore; peal recorder and assistant secretary, Miss Valerie Edge. The retiring master, the first lady to hold that office in the guild, was thanked for the efficient manner in which she had discharged the duties during the last two years. Chandler (retiring peal recorder and assistant secretary) was also thanked, as were the secretary (Mr. Cousins) and other F.B.

A SOMERSET WEEK-END

Somerset outings always give good rings and this year Ted Rochester was lucky in his week-end having Audrey and Ron Short to make arrangements. The towers were as follows:-

Sampford Brett (6, 8 cwt.), a new light six by the Whitechapel Foundry.

Dunster (8, 20 cwt.).—A look round the ringing chamber is rewarding: a mirror shaped and framed as a bell; black writing on white peal boards; a sepia tint of old John Taylor leaning on the bourdon headstock; and coloured snaps.

Timberscombe (8, 12 cwt.). — Here are 19 handbells in a glass case, and a fine fan-vaulted screen, one of seven remaining

CENTRAL COUNCIL DELIBERATIONS

SECTION II

The second part of the Interim Report was taken item by item, as with the previous one.

The sub-committee appointed to report on "Membership" consisted of Mrs. E. A. Barnett and Messrs. P. A. Corby and T. J. Lock. Mr. D. A. R. May said this section should be discussed when the aims and objects were clarified.

Mr. P. A. Corby, acting as spokesman, said the make-up of the Council was a hotchpotch that worked. Mr. C. F. Mew, agreeing, put forward his ideas (unfortunately often inaudible to the majority of the assembly) of a national association with national representatives elected by the body of ringers as a whole. This would have many advantages. It could predetermine numbers and resolve anomalies of belonging to many associations. The Exercise could then choose those best to serve them.

It was suggested that the Council as a working body was too big, and that during the last 15 years the numbers had gone up from 150 to over 200. This did not necessarily reflect growth in numbers of ringers, because the technical side was shing. Regular ringing was, unforflourishing.

tunately, falling.

The Rev. John Scott put forward the idea of a national ringing festival, and felt the cost to the Council would be justified by bringing ringers together for a purpose. He had grave misgivings about the national v.

regional bodies.

Mrs. Olive Rogers supported this view and said some associations would never know about the work of the Council, and Mr. R. S. Anderson pointed out that local representatives were the only contact with local ringers. The Council were not a mandatory body.

Mr. R. Meadows asked the sub-committee to consider the possibility of limiting the size of the Council, and suggestions made included increasing considerably the membership fee and reducing maximum membership from four to three.

Dr. E. V. Woodcock (North Wales) said this was the A.G.M. of association representatives and national representation would be wrong.

The chairman asked Mr. Mew if he wished to press the point of his suggestion and received a negative reply.

He then asked the Council if they were satisfied with the present situation and the majority agreed, about ten voting against.

Asked if a 20 per cent. reduction in membership was advisable, the meeting was overwhelmingly against this, and when one member pointed out that about 20 per cent. had voted for a reduction in numbers, Mrs. Olive Barnett suggested that that 20 per cent. should hand in their resignations after lunch. (Laughter.)

Among others taking part in the debate were Canon Felstead, Messrs. Diserens, Dodds, Gilbert, Chaddock, Butler, Mayne, Moreton, Carlisle, W. Critchley and E.

Critchley.

At the close the Council agreed the proposals on "Membership" and then adjourned for lunch.

> REPORTS, 1969 OVERSEAS COMMITTEE

RINGING overseas during 1969 generally has again been very active, with a surprisingly large movement of ringers from one country to another. Various remote towers have benefited as a result and such efforts by these ringers can only foster and stimulate improving standards of ringing overseas.

Many excellent articles have appeared in the columns of The Ringing World during the year which bring the ringing fraternity closer together.

AFRICA, DURBAN.-Following an encouraging year in 1968, the ringing continues to flourish. A quarter peal of Grandsire Doubles was rung in December.

ZAMBIA. — News that handbell ringing has started at Kalulushi with more than a dozen keen learners is most encouraging. There are no church bells within 500 miles so perhaps 1970 may bring some reports of handbell achieve-

RHODESIA. - The A.G.M. of the Rhodesian Guild was held at Salisbury, during which good ringing was enjoyed on the ten bells by ringers from Que Que, Malawi and Umvukwes. at Que Que on the four bells continues to KENYA. -An excellent article on the bells and ringers of Killif by Barry Couzens appeared in The Ringing World following his visit there, which confirms the sustained keenness and improving ringing standards by the locals on their very light ring of six.

ANZAB .- Ringing "down-under" during 1969 has again been stimulating, although it is disturbing to hear of trouble with Perth tower as a result of recent earthquake effects. To ring the 29 rings of bells in Australasia there are some 200 active ringers. The majority of the bells were installed in the 19th century and ringing can at times be very hard work; it is, therefore, pleasing to note that in 1969 complete restoration and augmentation to eight bells has been t in hand at Parramatta, Sydney.

MELBOURNE. — At the Cathedral two peals and 31 quarters were rung, which include Bob Maximus, Yorkshire S. Major Caters. This is very creditable. Yorkshire S. Major and Stedman

SYDNEY. - St. Mary's Cathedral, Burwood, Turramurra and Parramatta have recorded some dozen quarter peals in a variety of methods.

In Hobart and Perth ringing has been badly affected by ringers moving away and by the bells falling into further disrepair. It is indeed sad to note that the oldest ring (1847) at Holy Trinity, Hobart, is seldom rung, although the two Victorian towns of Bendigo and Ballarat with three eights between them and two recently restored-are working hard together to recruit and train, and hope to show the rest of Australia a thing or two before long.

Evidence either by report or in the quarter peal columns of activity in Adelaide is meagre. An account in The Ringing Towers of a "brawl" in the correspondence columns of the Advertiser over the sound of the Cathedral bells testifies to the fact that ringing goes on.

At Prospect, in the suburbs of Adelaide, there is also news of the impending installation of a new ring of bells

CHRISTCHURCH. — Ringing has been somewhat diminished by losses of ringers to travela hazard to which a band with so many Ph.D.s engaged in high-powered research and education must surely be prone.

HAMILTON, which is somewhat isolated, is thrown very much on its own resources for recruitment and teaching. It is, nevertheless, precisely recorded that since the bells were installed in 1950 they have been rung 3,390 times, which averages more than three times a week, which is surely a record of which any tower may be justly proud.

During 1969 the controversy over the carillon being given by the British Government to the Australian Government for the city of Canberra has been settled by the casting of the bells. A special meeting of ANZAB in England was called in September to witness this. The bells are to be installed by mid-1970.

CANADA. - The year 1969 has shown considerable activity in the sphere of handbell ring-ing by six peals (of Plain Bob and Kent T. Bob) having been rung for the North American Guild at Hamilton, Toronto, Islington and Mississauga. At Calgary one quarter has been reported, showing continued activity by the local band. A quarter was rung at Vancouver, B.C., which is a slight decrease on the 1968 achievements. No news has been received from Victoria or Mission City, B.C., although it is understood that service ringing continues.

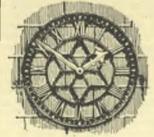

AMERICA.-Ringing in U.S.A. has been enhanced by the visit to England during 1969 of three of Russell Young's ringers—Even Cowles, Chris Biddle and David Walton—from Groton School, Joan Hutchinson from Smith College (who learnt much about the bellfounding business whilst working at the Whitechapel Foundry), Marjorie Batchelor and Rick Dirksen from Washington Cathedral. All these ringers rang in at least one peal while here.

A tour of England and the Low Countries was made by the Potomac English Handbell Ringers, under the leadership of that inimitable lady Mrs. Nancy Poore-Tufts. Concerts were given in Hol-land, Norway, Paris, Oxford, Llandaff, Chester, Keswick and Edinburgh and gave great pleasure to those who attended.

Efforts to co-ordinate ringing between the North American towers have proved successful by visits by the Washington ringers to Groton and Kent Schools and Smith College, despite the vast distance travelled, during which a quarter was rung at Groton by the combined bands, and of the second North American tour arranged by Liz and Geoff Davies.

It would be most encouraging in the North American Guild were more consolidated rather than being somewhat a title of convenience. We look forward to further visits to this country by our ringing friends from the New World.

Durham and Newcastle Association. DINNER REVIVED

It was about 20 years ago that the Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association ceased to hold an annual dinner. In the interval there have been two dinners for special occasions in celebration of the 80th and 90th anniversaries of the founding of the association.

In arranging the programme for 1969-70 the committee felt that there were reasonable prospects of reviving an annual dinner. Along with this it was noted that the half-yearly meeting had often differed little from a district meeting in recent years. Substituting a dinner for that meeting seemed the obvious thing to do, as that would leave the day of the annual meeting clear for ringing and business.

The Seaburn Hotel on the sea front at Sunderland was chosen for the first venture on May 9. Visions of a fine, warm evening by the sea were not fulfilled as a sea fret made its appearance.

Ringing in the afternoon took place at three towers. Bishopwearmouth is not diffi-cult to find, but parking space was very A one-way system has complicated and lengthened the journey to St. Ignatius', where the bells were rehung last year. For several ringers it was probably their first ring in this tower, famous for its associa-tion with J. W. Parker. St. Andrew's, Roker, completed the programme and presented no problem of parking or repulsion of urchins which required the appointment of "bouncers" at St. Ignatius'.

There were 63 present at the dinner held in the ballroom. This was quite encouraging for a small association with no attempts at a "hard sell." The company was mainly composed of resident members, wives and friends, and those who were technically visitors were mostly familiar faces from North Yorkshire and others temporarly resident in Durham at the University. The toast of "The Visitors" was proposed by Bill Tyson in his individual style and responded to by Nicholas Webber, ringing master of the University Society.

Earlier the loyal toast had been followed by "The Church," proposed by Denis Bayles. The reply came from the Rev. J. G. Bates, vicar of St. Andrew's, Roker, who was the guest for the occasion. The president, Roland Park, proposed "The Associa-tion" and recalled some of the stalwarts who had left a goodly heritage. The toasts were interspersed with two items of handbell ringing.

The Leicester Guild. A BETTER RESPONSE

The 1970 Leicester District striking competition was held at Newtown Linford on May 9, the three judges being Messrs. George Newton (Earl Shilton), Roland Beniston (Whitwick) and John Watkins (Sapcote).

In the schoolroom Mr. Newton commented on the bands in the order in which they had rung, leaving the actual marks until the end and his observations were most constructive.

The six bands who entered were from All Saints', Leicester, Blaby, Kirby Muxloe, St. Margaret's, Leicester, South Wigston and Markfield, and the winners were St. Margaret's, with All Saints' second. The trophy was presented by Mr. Watkins.

Mr. John Bramley (guild president) thanked the judges for doing a job which was difficult and sometimes tiresome. He also remarked on the excellent response to the competition this year. R. D. H.

Middlesex County Association. IN A.D. 938

On May 16, a warm and pleasant day, a visit was made by the N. and E. District to St. Mary's, Willesden. The original parish church was built on land given to St. Paul's Cathedral by King Athelstan in the year 938 as a thankoffering for victory over the Danes at Brunanburh. Since that time a church has stood on the site, the present building dating in part from the 13th

The bells rang out during the afternoon and evening, Mrs. H. G. Hart (master) seeing that everyone was catered for.

Capt. R. G. Anderson (C.A.) conducted the service and welcomed the visitors to Willesden. Mr. Bernard Newman was the organist.

The election of two non-resident members was ratified, viz.: Miss Jill Laud (Watford) and Mr. A. W. R. Wilby (Harpenden).

Before returning to the belfry Mr. Alick Cutler (chairman) expressed appreciation to all who had contributed to the success of the meeting.

The proceedings were concluded in time to provide opportunity for informal gatherings before it was time to go home. The seating had been arranged at round tables of eight instead of the usual "top table and and this seemed to assist the informality that had been the aim in the arrangements.

OLD WHITTINGTON WIN

Over 60 members and friends were present when the Chesterfield District's eighth annual striking contest was held at Creswell on May 9. After the contest Mr. J. Arkwell (chairman) said how pleased he was to see so many present. He hoped that next year even more teams, particularly from the outlying towers, could be persuaded to take part.

Messrs. C. Bloom (Chesterfield) and W. Keith and L. Moss (Dronfield) were elected members before the adjudicator, Mr. H. T. Rooke, announced the results: 1 Old Whit-Rooke, announced the results. PEACEFUL SURROUNDINGS

Wiveton was the venue for the Northern Branch on May 30, its peaceful surround-ings and the lovely summer day making conditions ideal.

About 40 members enjoyed tea, provided and served by Mrs. Gidney, Mrs. Grimes and Mrs. Steadman Eric, Iris and Rosemary Coe, and Peter Trett (Mattishall), Andrew and Ruth Kett (St. George, Norwich) and Linda Cooper (Wymondham) were elected members.

It was decided to hold the branch striking competition at Garveston in July. Members stood in silence in memoriam Tom and Margaret Francis. (Tom was for some years a member of the branch.)

The six bells were rung to various methods under the ringing master (Mr. T. E. Spight) and Bale bells were rung after the meeting until the fourth clapper decided to come adrift!

The chairman expressed thanks to the rector (Rev. A. M. Gamble), to the ladies for tea, Miss F. Lovick for playing the organ, and to Billy West for arrangements.

The sum of £2 13s. was collected for the Belfry Repair Fund, plus an anonymous gift of £3.

BELMONT MINOR

Dear Sir,—I am submitting for publication the figures of a six-bell principle which I produced some years ago. I hope it may give bands who are proficient at Surprise Minor something new and interesting to experiment with.

BOB $\frac{465132}{456123}$ SINGLE $\frac{465132}{456132}$

Bobs affect either 1, 2 and 3 or 4, 5 and 6. Thus the only courses which may be entered by bobs alone are those commencing 123456, 231456 and 312456. These courses are mutually true. Similarly, the only courses which may be entered by singles are (a) 213456, 321456 and 132456, and (b) 132546, 213546 and 321546. Group (b) are false against the courses produced by bobs alone, being these courses in reverse.

It follows that to prove a touch of the principle it is sufficient to check that the division heads and ends do not repeat. Any length which obeys this condition will be true, so an endless variety of 720's is available. The simplest pattern is to join three courses with bobs and double with a single:

Repeated for 720.

A 720 of the principle was rung at Tirley, Glos, in 1968, conducted by Cyril A. Wratten. We did not name it at the time. Subject to the approval of the rest of the band I would suggest the name Belmont Minor.—Yours faithfully, PETER J. WYCHERLEY.

EARLY SIMPSON TUNING

Dear Sir,—I had intended to write about this interesting subject for some time past, but my son, Richard, beat me to it. However, his letter contains some omissions and inaccuracies, as does the letter from Peter Abbott. Both give Dobson credit to which he is not entitled, and which must, in fairness, go to Osborn.

I spent my boyhood days quite close to Downham Market, and cycled miles to Terrington St. John, where hung a good Osborn six. John Rodwell, sen., gave me my first instruction in handling and this led to an interest in the Downham Market-cast bells. The first acquaintance with "official" Simpson tuning was the Gaywood six (Taylor), Walpole (St. Andrew) tenor and a front five retuned (Taylor) and Denver trebles, with back four retuned (also Taylor).

We were struck with the similarity in tone of Terrington St. John's treble and tenor, and with the Taylor bells cast 100 years later. At Marham we found the perfect "Simpson" bell by Osborn (the fourth) with 3, 5 and 6 almost as good, cast in Moving to the London area I met the late Mr. A. A. Hughes, of Mears and Stainbank. We often discussed tuning, and about 1944 took a trip to Marham, as he was doubtful of my description of Marham bells. We ascended the tower and I tolled the fourth. Mr. Hughes said it was "bang on" and thought it had been retuned but he ascertained that they were all as Osborn left them. He was very impressed with the back four and explained why the second was dull, and why the treble seemed to have two strike notes. It appeared that Osborn had not entirely found out the secret of "Simpson" bells. He said Osborn's shapes were lost and that Dobson may have tried different ones as his work was so variable. Compared with Osborn he cast few bells, his five at Emneth (after Osborn's death) being his nearest approach to Marham's.

It is worth noting the principal rings by both founders and their connection. In 1775 Osborn and Arnold cast the four trebles at Aylsham (not Simpson, but very good). In 1778 Osborn and Arnold cast the six at Outwell (wrongly given by T. A. Bevis in his excellent book Church Bells of the Fens as "Arnold and Dobson," Dobson being only a young boy then). Dobson recast the fourth in 1827 and left it nearly a semitone sharp!

In business for himself, Osborn cast Hilgay bells in 1779, Finchingfield's in 1781 (which I have not heard), and the near "Simpson" six at Terrington St. John in 1784. The old treble was found cracked in the crown, but the new treble is practically identical with the old.

Osborn's masterpiece was the glorious ten in Bury St. Edmunds Norman tower, which remain as he left them in 1785. He cast the 20 cwt. six at Tebinham in 1787, though these were spoilt by a recast treble by Warner.

In 1788 came the grand back six at Soham, also still as Osborn left them. As an eight or ten these are spoilt completely by Bryant's four trebles (added after Osborn's death) and being badly out of tune and very discordant.

About founders' good and bad bells, one can go a few miles to Swaffham Prior and hear one of the loveliest sixes in the country, by Bryant, who also cast the back eight at Saffron Walden.

In 1790 came Thetford—good even before tuning—and in 1795 Walsoken—out of tune when cast, but tuned up well by Mears.

DUPLICATIONS AND DEDICATIONS

Dear Sir,—After reading the letter re duplications and dedications (Ringing World, page 414), I would like to endorse the views expressed by Mr. Buswell.

Some years ago a peal was rung at St. Mary's, Walthamstow, to mark the formation of the G.L.C. and inserted in The Ringing World as being rung at St. Mary's, Waltham Forest.

There are three rings in Waltham Forest—Leyton (8), St. Saviour's (8) and St. Mary's (10), also Chingford, which has no ringing bells. Leytonstone is in fact not part of Waltham Forest.

I feel that by inserting peals, etc., in this form ringers can cause a great deal of extra work for those who keep records,

I think the Central Council should look into this matter so as to assist the Records Committee in their task.—Yours faithfully, P. D. CHAPMAN.

Witham, Essex.

And from Ronald Russ, of Uxbridge, Middlesex: "His (Mr. Buswell's) letter serves to accentuate how easy it is for people to get mixed up over the new Greater London classifications in 'Dove.' It's a great pity the Guide has been so published when ringers tend to stick to the old county divisions. I can't see a future for any association based on the administrative county of Greater London. Please continue to classify peals and quarters by ringing association-type boundaries, e.g. Hayes, Middlesex; Barnet, Herts; Bexley, Kent, etc., as at present. Confusion ought not to arise, but it's a knotty problem for some towers, whether they are in the old County of London or not!"

Woodbridge in 1799 contained some fine bells and these, I believe, are now a good ring, tuned by Gillett and Johnston.

In 1802 came Marcham, a glorious six even before tuning, and now outstanding with only slight tuning by Taylor. In the same year came Marham, with the perfect "Simpson" bell.

After this Osborn took his grandson, William Dobson, into partnership, and the bells were inscribed "Osborn and Dobson" until 1806, when Osborn died. Dobson, now on his own, cast the near-Simpson five at Emneth in 1807, but then appeared to deviate somewhat.

Wisbech's, though good, were not entirely Simpson, although they have tuned up well by Mears. The 12 at St. Nicholas'. Liverpool, were reputed to be his poorest effort, but these have now been recast by Taylor's

In 1832 he cast Diss (a good eight) in which he appeared to be returning to near Simpson, but the foundry not paying, he sold it in 1833 to the Whitechapel Foundry. He died in London in 1842.

In passing, I cannot explain why, in Church Bells of Norfolk, Crimplesham's five are given as "Wm. Dobson 1798," four years before Osborn took him on. These were not Simpson. Godmanchester's eight I think were Osborn's, but I have not their date and they have, I think, been retuned since.

I am not saying that a bell must be Simpson-tuned to be good—far from it—but I would like to clear away the mix-up between Osborn and his grandson Dobson, and give Osborn credit for the earliest true "Simpson" bell.—Yours faithfully,

TONY PRICE.

A.N.Z.A.B. FESTIVAL

This year's annual A.N.Z.A.B Festival was held at Sydney from June 13 to 15. Organiser was Ross W. Bampton, assisted by Enid Robert, Cathy McLachlan, Del-wyn Logan and Ralph Clark.

The attractive programme included ringing at all of Sydney's ten towers, the only doubtful one being Christ Church St. Lawrence. Two ringing tours were arranged for the Saturday afternoon, followed by the annual dinner at Sydney University. Sunday was occupied by service ringing and two afternoon tours. The annual meeting was at St. Mary's Cathedral Chapter House, which was followed by supper at Enid

Roberts' flat at Petts Point.

After general ringing at St. Andrew's

Cathedral on Monday morning a harbour cruise was planned and a barbecue (weather permitting).

Midland Counties Guild.

EXAMPLES OF LONG SERVICE

Veterans were very much in evidence at the 24th A.G.M. of the guild held at Burton. Mr. Arthur E. Rowley, who presided, welcomed Mr. F. Bailey (76), of Suffolk fame, now living at Castle Bromwich. Another was the hon. treasurer, Mr. Joseph Brittan, who recently attained 70 years' church service, and he was thanked for his services to the guild as treasurer since its foundation.

Another foundation officer was Mr. J. W. Cotton (hon, secretary). The meeting was reminded that the peal at Overseal on December 13 marked the 50th anniversary of the dedication of the bells, and the sole survivor of that occasion was Mr.

Cotton.

The annual report stated that while Sunday service ringing in some towers was below par, peal ringing had continued to thrive, 40 peals having been rung. Mr. L. Haywood was the only ringer to achieve his first peal. Mr. Roland Beniston was the leading conductor, having guided the "Tuesday" band successfully through a number of new methods. He had conducted 31 out of the 32 peals, and the leading peal ringer was Mr. A. E. Rowley (39).

A noteworthy restoration took place at Kingsbury, where after much work by Mr. G. H. Lane and his band the six had been replaced by a fine ring of eight (tenor 17 cwt.). The guild's outing had been to Newcastle on Tyne, at the invitation of the president (Mr. Benjamin Worthington), who entertained the members to luncheon.

Officers elected for 1970 were: President, Officers elected for 1970 were: President, Mr. B. Worthington; vice-president, Mr. A. E. Rowley; chairman, Mr. W. Leach; ringing master, Mr. G. H. Lane; treasurer, Mr. J. H. Brittan; auditor, Mr. G. Brown; secretary, Mr. J. W. Cotton; assistant secretary, Mr. J. K. Smith; committee members, Messrs. J. K. Smith, N. W. Attaway, D. P. Jones and G. R. Roobottom.

CHURCH SERVICE REINSTATED

In any other business a proposal by Mr. Welton that a service should be reinstated at annual meetings was adopted. It was mentioned that a special festival would take place near Leicester next year, when the four associations, of which the Midland Counties is one, which were formed out of the old Midland Counties' Association in 1946 would jointly celebrate their 25th anniversary.

The meeting was attended by representatives from 19 towers, and eight new members were elected, viz.: Nigel Richards, Ian Crofts, Julie Latham, Alison Moore, Maureen Critchley, all of Kingsbury; Michael Brooks of Winshill; Jacqueline Daisley of Drayton Bassett; and Jane Myatt of Polesworth.

Southwell Guild.

CUP CONTEST AT COTGRAVE

The Bingham District Crawford Cup contest took place at Cotgrave on May 9, when six teams entered. The winners were Whatton, with Langar second and Cotgrave third. The judges were Messrs. D. Stainsby and R. Cooke, Mr. W. L. Exton expressed thanks to the judges, and to the Rev. J. Stephenie for supplying refreshments. R. B.

The Mansfield District Crawford Cup contest was held at Selston on May 16.
Only two teams competed, the winners being Warsop with 59 faults to Greasley's 76. The adjudicator was Mr. Malcolm Phipps of Chesterfield. The next meeting will be at Teversal and Sutton.

Obituary

HORACE OWEN OVER

With much sadness and a deep sense of loss we record the passing of Horace Owen Over, tower captain at Hugglescote Church, Leicester, on May 24, who was a ringer of some 60 years standing. He learned to ring at the age of 12, and his name appears on a peal board in Kirby Muxloe belfry to a peal rung in 1912, when he was 14. At the time of his death Horace was 72 and still active in his favourite occupationteaching learners, almost to the day of his death, which came with great suddenness.

He served Hugglescote Parish Church as a ringer for over 40 years, and was a member of the Church Council. He was also president of the Hugglescote Old People's Fellowship for many years.

Horace must have taught hundreds in his time, and it is for this he will be chiefly remembered in local ringing circles. The writer remembers with gratitude all his help and guidance during the early years of his ringing. Horace's favourite method was Stedman, and he would take a great delight in helping one through a course, and if a learner was keen, Horace was the man to push him.

Horace would always help others and stand out of touches to do so. He was an honorary life member of the Leicester Guild and he had served as a member of the committee since the early days, and was chairman of the Leicester District from 1961 to 1963. He rang 33 peals for the Leicester Guild, not a large total, but his talent lay in other directions.

Fellow ringers paid their tribute by a half-muffled touch at Hugglescote on May 31. He will be sadly missed as a ringer and will remain long in our memories.

Guildford Guild.

1,000 YEARS OF WORSHIP

About 40 ringers of the Farnham Dis-About 40 fingers of the Farman District and a few visitors gathered at the beautiful old church of All Saints, Crondall, Hants, on May 30. In his short address during the guild service the vicar (Rev. J. W. R. Hunt) remarked that next year would mark the 1,000th year of worthing the Condall. ship at Crondall.

The company enjoyed the tea in the church rooms, provided by the ladies of Crondall, and this was followed by the business meeting.

The master, Mr. T. Page, announced that the outing (to the Swindon area) was in danger of being cancelled through lack of support and appealed to those present to act immediately.

It was also announced that practices had restarted at Crondall on Fridays. Mr. W. Arnold (Crondall) thanked all who were helping to establish the practice.

Thanks to all who helped organise the meeting ended the business. A.E.

Letter.

AN ACT OF PRAISE

Dear Sir,—Recent letters have again brought to light that there are still a few who separate service ringing from hymns, psalms, etc., in the act of praise and thanks-giving. This is to be regretted as it does untold harm to the young enlightened of today when they attempt to find an instance where Our Lord forbade anyone to join his gatherings.—Yours faithfully, L. D. MILLS.

OTHER HOBBIES

"I must admit this meant more to me than a dozen peals."

So wrote Mr. Peter Wycherley in our last issue about his other hobby, bird watching, and for a keen ringer and regular member of peal bands to get such pleasure and enjoyment from bird-watching must mean quite a lot. And he invites others to join him in a joint ringing-bird watching tour, for the two interests can easily be combined.

There must be many enthusiastic ringers who combine other hobbies with bellringing. We know a keen gardener who makes a point of observing trees and shrubs in churchyards and he manages to get a cutting or two from rare specimens which may often he found in such places. He feels considerable satisfaction in seeing the first new leaf from such cuttings.

Perhaps our readers would write and tell us of their other interests, and we will summarise them for the benefit of ringers who may have similar tastes.

A popular West Surrey ringer, Mr. J. Martin Kirk, is leaving Guildford for Leicestershire. He has accepted a graded teaching appointment at Groby from next September. Guildford Cathedral belfry will miss his services.

First peal congratulations to Roy Felder, Susie Titchener, Simon Talbot-Pon-sonby, Jill Steed, Jane Richards, John Sun-derland, Diana Pobjoy, Susan Williams, Patrick Neill, Sarah Tiley and Wesley A.

Personal Records.—Alan D. Flood (100 peals), Ronald F. Andrew (50), Edward V. Rodenhurst (750).

A New Method.—Kingsthorpe Surprise Major, by the Peterborough Guild, at Kingsthorpe.

First time conductors.—Susan Davis and Colin Baugh.

May a plea be made to the powers that be that if the time-honoured Whitsun weekend must be abandoned, some degree of "fixity" be given to the appearance of the Bank Holiday, e.g. the Monday nearest June 1. This would greatly assist those without five-year calendars or a computer and lacking clairvoyance, writes the secretary of the Medical Guild.

The treble bell at St. Mary Magdalene's, Fleet, Lincs, is temporarily out of action due to the headstock being in very bad repair. The only solution seems to be to have a new headstock made. At present only the back five can be rung, as to ring the treble could cause considerable danger. Any donations towards getting this fine old ring of six ringing again would be most gratefully received.

The recent peal on the rehung bells at Walton-le-Wolds, Leics, was a thanksgiving and a farewell. The rector (Rev.
T. J. Martin) is shortly leaving for South Africa, and it gave him great pleasure to dedicate the bells. Mr. B. Stedman Payne tells us his father was one of a group of young men who cycled some distance to learn to ring at Walton—and sometimes had to help mow the churchyard before being allowed to ring.

Belfry Gossip

A quarter peal at Dewsbury included a father and daughter, father and son and husband and wife. (A family affair!) There is no ringing at Sapcote, Leics, for a while as the local band are carrying out a "do-it-yourself" job on the frame and in the ringing room.

Cargrave, Yorks, bells are being rehung this week by John Taylor and Co. (Lough-Capable young ringers willing to escort a veteran to the meeting at Bishopsgate on June 27 and perhaps ring for a wedding should contact J. Euston, 28 Fairmile Avenue, Streatham, S.W.16.

Mr. J. W. Cotton, who has been the popular hon. secretary of the Midland Counties Guild since its formation 24 years ago, has been discharged from hospital following a major operation. He thanks the many ringers who sent messages of good wishes.

Four members of Wareham Wanderers' peal tour, while on a pre-breakfast stroll, found a newly-born calf wedged in a ditch. They alerted the farmer and watched its Amongst the 80 at the Hereford Guild Festival on May 25 was Mr. Charles Williams, of Welshpool, who at the age of 86 had travelled on his moped to Church Stretton before getting a car lift for the remainder of the journey to Ledbury.

The band in the peal at Banwell, Som, on May 16 would like to associate the name of Brenda Sheppard, who could not ring because of illness, and to thank Sarah Tiley for taking part at short notice.

St. Michael's C. of E. School, Green Lane, Bolton, are looking for a reasonably cheap set of handbells for their school orchestra, and anyone who can help should contact Miss K. Harrison, the headmistress.

A very welcome return to the quarter peal columns is made by Tom Strangeway, of Rothwell, Yorks, now in his 71st year. Although unable to get to the tower, Tom is enjoying ringing handbells again after a lapse of many years, and we look forward to seeing his name in the peal columns before very long, as he needs just ten peals for his 200.

"With reference to the quarter peal analysis published on May 15, "Nil" was analysis published on May 13, Nil was shown against Surrey for quarters of Cinques. I must point out that three were in fact rung at St. John's, Croydon, during 1969, all of which were published in The Ringing World," writes a correspondent (whose signature is indecipherable (Ed.))

Writing about the "Holsworthy Church Bells" tune, Mr. B. E. Bartlett, of Torquay, adds: Dr. Wesley was organist at Exeter Cathedral and, in his spare time, fished the Devon streams and presumably did not neglect the Tamar upper reaches, about five miles away on the road to Bude and Cornwall. No doubt it would be his frequent hearing of Holsworthy bells while in that corner of Devon which formed his inspiration.

And Mr. B. Woolley, of Wythall, Worcs, writing about Dr. Wesley, tells us that he was for a period music master at Hereford Cathedral.

Ilkley Interludes . . .

A rose by any other name? When the Monday coach tour party arrived for lunch at the Rose and Crown, Bainbridge, the tables were marked "Reserved for Mr. Mundy's party," another had "Mr. Monday's party, whilst a third had "Mr. Munnday's party." Nevertheless it was a good meal

The tea interval gave a group of Council members the opportunity to debate the proceedings in private and a somewhat heated discussion was well under way about what one called the apparent waste of time on Sunday evening discussing the Interim Report and then going over the whole thing again on Tuesday. Fortunately the meeting was resumed and the participants in the argument were seen to be seated well apart during the remainder of the time. Maybe it was continued at the close of the business. . . .

The good Samaritan for several who were attending the gathering was Miss Doris Colgate, of Seyenoaks. She not only spent the whole of Tuesday taking notes, copying lists of names, and "spotting" the speakers whom the Editor did not recognise, but in the evenings-and during the daytime—sho acted as baby-sitter and general "wet nurse" to anyone in need! Thank you, Doris!

Following a rather lively discussion on Tuesday afternoon, the president (Mr. John Freeman) finally quietened the speakers and asked: "Has anyone else any wish to comment?" and immediately the fire siren behind the building began to wail -much to everyone's amusement.

The acclamation following the vote of thanks accorded the president at the end of Tuesday's discussions was well deserved, for during the warm day the somewhat temperamental attitude of some speakers, the verbosity of others and a tendency at times, for members to talk amongst themselves instead of through the chair—all was handled by Mr. Freeman with firmness, with tact and with his natural patience and good humour. He looked very tired at the close, but still managed a smile and a cheery wave of farewell before making for Lincoln.

"You are doing more for the glory of God and the good of your fellowmen than you can possibly know." — Rt. Rev. F. Stanford, Bishop of Cariboo, in a message to the ringers of Christ Church Cathedral, Victoria, British Columbia.

"I thought we had a good C.C. meeting. If only all the fine expressions were put into action and seen through to the end! (q.v. Drake's Prayer: 'It is not the beginning of a task . . .')"—A writer's comment.
Owners of "Dove" may care to amend their copy, giving Newington-next-Sitting-bourne, a new tenor weight of 11 cwt. 3 qr. 6 lb. flat in F sharp. Practice nights will be on Tuesdays, 7.30-9, and any visitors are assured of a warm welcome. Peal ringing will be somewhat limited at first, when local bands will be given preference, a maximum of four attempts per year being allowed and a fee of 10s. per attempt being prepaid.

ST. PETER'S CHURCH, HENFIELD, SUSSEX

The Parish of Henfield is centrally situated in Sussex, occupying a pleasant position on the north side of the South Downs, 12 miles from Brighton.

The earliest recorded history of the Church of St. Peter dates back to 770, when Osmund, King of the West Saxons, agreed to assign "fifteen hides of land for the endowment of the Church of the Blessed Apostle Peter in Hanefield"—and this mention of the dedication of the church is said to be the earliest in Sussex of which there is a record.

The majority of Sussex churches were built of wood, and with forest timber so close it is probable that the original structure, of which no trace remains, was wooden. Of the present building, the oldest part would seem to be the masonry of the lancet windows in the vestry, and the arcading and pillars of the nave and the chancel arch all date from the late 13th century. Despite additions and modern alterations, it is still the oldest building existing in the village; parts of it go back for not less than 700 years.

The site of the church is the highest point above sea level in the village. The roof of the nave is tiled in local Sussex stone, as is the tower, and in the Perpendicular style of the 15th century. The Parham Chapel is a beautiful example of Perpendicular work and is possibly the most interesting feature of the church, being the Chapel or Chantry of the Bysshopp family.

Thomas Bysshopp, who resided at the house close to the church (now known as Parsonage House), was the legal representative of the Bishop of Chichester, Lord of this Manor. He died in 1599, and his likeness is depicted in a floor brass beside the altar. His grandson, Henry Bysshopp, is commemorated by a marble tablet. An ardent Royalist, he is said to have secreted himself with his dog, which did not betray the hiding place by barking when the searchers came. Henry Bysshopp was subsequently appointed as the first Postmaster General, and introduced the system of postmarks in 1661.

The vestry contains the only piece of ancient glass in the church—the top panel of the left-hand window. On the floor of the vestry is a brass dated 1627. The church plate contains an alms dish and two patens engraved with the Cheale coat of arms (1753). Other features are the font, of simple English design (about 1250), the mediæval parish chest with three hasps, and the 18th century mute chest.

The tower was built in 1450 and contains a ring of eight, which were recast in 1913 when the open ringers' gallery was constructed. They were hung in steel and iron frames by Taylors of Loughborough, and before the rehanging were rung from ground level. Early history records that a bell was purchased about 1607 but nothing of it is known.

In 1724 the return to the Bishop reports five bells, and in 1733 a tenor bell was added, cast (or recast) by Richard Phelps of Whitechapel. This was used for the knell, and until 30 years ago was rung at intervals for an hour as soon as a death had occurred—three strokes for a man and two for a woman. What happened to the earlier bells is not recorded but in 1738 three more were added, to make four, and were completed to a ring of six by the addition of a treble, and another in 1755. The seventh and tenor bell were added in 1892, and the whole ring recast in 1913.

To the Glory of God and in Grateful Memory of William Wakeford B.A. Priest Vicar of this parish 1899-1912. 1913.

The old church chest referred to earlier was opened in 1927 and its contents carefully examined by Mr. Welch, a churchwarden, and he wrote an account of the event that year. He referred to the annual accounts of the churchwardens rendered for the year 1675, to "John Vinnall for mending bellwheele . . . 1 shilling" "For oyle for the Bells . . . 1 shilling 1 penny"—and the present secretary for the ringers holds a receipt dated May 19, 1756, for work done during the year 1755 for £2 14s. 8d., as follows:—

June ye 27 for 1 day my self An uncle William Vinall 0. 04. 0. July ye 29 for 3 days my self An father An prentice An 0. 17. 6. August ye 7 for 3 days my self An Father An prentis An boy 17. 6. Ye 11 for 2 days my self An father An boy December ye 27 for half a 08. day my self Ye 30 for 1 day An half my 01. self An prentis About ye clockcase 05. 14. 8.

Mr. Frank Cruttenden has been captain for many years and his enthusiasm and energy is illustrated by the fact that he had 100 per cent. attendance for practice and service ringing in 1969. He participated in a peal of Stedman Triples in 1918 for World War I victory, and in 1940 was ready to ring in the event of invasion. He began ringing in 1915 and was taught by his father-in-law. His wife, Mrs. Catherine Cruttenden, was the first lady ringer admitted to the tower, the then vicar (Canon Lea) having given consent in 1938 for the admission of ladies as ringing members. Mrs. Cruttenden is still an active member of the tower, as also is their son, David.

Another long-serving member is Mr. Fred Parsons, a member of the tower since 1915, and the vice-captain, Mr. E. Packham, has been ringing in the Henfield tower since 1945.

This year St. Peter's are arranging a festival in celebration of and thanksgiving for the 1,200 years during which a church has stood on the present site and the ringing members will be taking an active part.

SOCIETY OF ROYAL CUMBERLAND YOUTHS. —Special business meeting, Wed., June 24, at 6.30 p.m., St. Andrew's, Holborn.—J. S. B. 9078 25 YEARS AGO

Taken from The Ringing World for June 15, 1945.

At the Northern Branch meeting of the Irish Association at Lurgan 12 ringers were present including the hon. general secretary, Mr. F. E. Dukes.

The church of St. Saviour, Waltham-stow, was badly damaged by fire, but the tower and bells were not affected. The bells had not been rung regularly for some Denis A. Bayles wrote profesting against the ringing of peals with more than one covering bell. In two cases peals had been rung—one with five, the other with three covers. He queried whether all the ringers should be credited with a peal by the Central Council.

Set of eight or ten handbells wanted by

W. F. Moreton, The Close, Hereford.

Of 21 quarter peals recorded, four were
Stedman, ten Grandsire and one was Superlative.

The reason for honorary members of the Central Council, it was stated, was "in order to obtain the support of gentlemen who have not been returned as representa-tive members but whose assistance the Council desire."—Leader.

A peal of Double Norwich at St. Peter Mancroft, Norwich, was composed and conducted by Nolan Golden on the 2nd, the Rev. A. G. G. Thurlow ringing the tenor.

Handbell peals included Grandsire Triples conducted by A. V. Davis at Bournemouth, and Bob Major at Porthill, Newcastle-under-Lyme, conducted by R. S. of the wedding of Mr. H. C. Spencer and Anderson.

50 YEARS AGO

June 18, 1920.

The Central Northants Association unveiled a tablet in All Saints' Church, Northampton, recording the names of 22 ringers who gave their lives in the Great War.

E. G. Webb (aged 11) 1-2, C. H. Webb 3-4, H. W. Webb 5-6, rang a peal of Grandsire Doubles at Croft, Leics.

A peal of Grandsire Doubles, 4, 6, 8 covering, was rung at Knighton, Radnorshire, conducted by Charles Minton.

The one breeze that ruffled the surface of the Central Council . . . was the refusal of the chairman of the Peals Analysis Committee to include peals that had been late in publication.—Leader.

The centenary of the opening of Chester-field Parish Church bells was celebrated with a peal of Grandsire Caters, and the ringers were entertained to dinner by the vicar and churchwardens.

The 70th anniversary of the first peal in the U.S.A. (Grandsire Triples in Philadelphia) was noted in Belfry Gossip.

At Deptford the first ever by a local band was a peal of Grandsire Triples conducted by George Daynes.

A peal of Grandsire Triples at Erdington, Birmingham, was rung on the occasion of the wedding of Mr. H. C. Spencer and Miss A. E. Statham. William J. Meers was the conductor.

St. Peter. Bournemouth

ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY years ago Bournemouth did not exist, apart from a few fishermen's cottages. It was bare heath surrounding the little valley of the Bourne. midway between the two ancient towns of Poole and Christchurch. Inland were several small villages: Holdenhurst and Kinson, Iford and Wick.

The founder of Bournemouth was Lewis

The founder of Bournemouth was Lewis Tregonwell, a landowner from Cranborne who, in July, 1810, drove over from Mudeford and was persuaded by his wife that the Bourne Valley was a good site for a seaside home. Their house, finished two years later, is the core of the present Royal Exeter Hotel. Other houses followed, and Bournemouth soon became a recognised "watering place." The town has county borough status, a population of around 152,000 and covers an area of 11,627 acres.

Closely linked with the development of Bournemouth has been its Parish Church of St. Peter, now celebrating its 125th anniversary. It was 1845 when the first Vicar of Bournemouth was appointed—the Rev. Alexander Morden Bennett, M.A., who had been assistant priest at two of London's most fashionable churches (the Portman Chapel and All Souls', Langham Place), and in August that year Bishop Sumner (of Winchester) consecrated the first church in Bournemouth.

Only eight years later (1853), with the town growing rapidly, the vicar decided that a much larger church was needed. He commissioned a 29-years-old architect, George Edmund Street, to prepare plans for a church which would seat more than 1,200 people.

COMPLETED IN STAGES

This church was planned so that it could be completed in stages over a generation and was more or less built over and around the old church, spreading first northwards, then southwards, then to the east and finally to the west.

One of the last major constructions was

One of the last major constructions was the tower. Although at that time the western transepts had not been built, Mr. Bennett pressed for work on the tower to be carried on, fearing that if he died it might never be put in hand. In 1869 the building of a 100ft, tower began, was finished a year later and was followed four years after by the transepts, joining tower to nave.

Interesting details of the tower are the statues of St. Gregory, St. Augustine of Hippo, St. Jerome and St. Ambrose, each occupying a niche in each corner pinnacle. They were carved by a well-known ecclesiastical sculptor, Frank Redfern, and were originally placed, in 1876, on the exterior of Street's new north porch at Bristol Cathedral. The Evangelical Bristol Churchmen objected strongly to the portrayal of the four Latin doctors and Dean Eliot had the statues removed in the early hours of an April morning and Street had them placed on the tower of St. Peter's, Bournemouth.

The year 1879 saw the building of the 100ft, spire, the crowning glory of the Rev. Bennett's vision of a church built to the highest standards of Victorian architecture and grandeur. A service of thanksgiving for the completion was held on December 18 that year and one month later (January 19, 1880) the Rev. Alexander Bennett died, having founded not only St. Peter's but eight other churches in Bournemouth.

Although the history of St. Peter's is comparatively short, it has had many famous names attached to it. Gladstone made his last Communion in the church on March 3, 1898, and in the four-acre churchyard are buried such famous people as Maj.-Gen. Richard Clement Moody, R.E., the first Lieutenant Governor of the Canadian colony of New Caledonia (which in 1866 amalgamated with Vancouver Island to form British Columbia).

The Shelley family have a grave in the churchyard, and although the famous poet was cremated and buried in the English cemetery in Rome, his heart survived his cremation and was brought to England by his friend Edward Trelawney. In 1889 Sir Percy Shelley (the poet's son), who resided at Boscombe Manor, died, and in his coffin was placed the heart of his atheist father. The poet's wife, Mary Wollstonecraft Shelley, is also buried here, and it was she who wrote the now famous "Frankenstein" novel

THE BELLS

In 1871 a ring of eight, cast by John Taylor and Co., was given to the church by a grateful congregation for the recovery to full health of their founder and vicar, after a long and serious illness. Although the bells were dedicated in 1871 it was not until December, 1891, that the first peal was rung, the method being Grandsire Triples (Holt's Ten-part).

Ringing took place regularly until 1937, when it was decided to have the bells recast, half the cost of which was borne by Messrs. John Taylor and Co. Whilst the bells were away an interesting item appeared in the church magazine of August, 1937, stating that the vicar, the Rev. Canon Hedley R. Burrows, M.A., whilst on a ringers' outing to Basingstoke thought out an inscription for each bell. As this would cost sixpence per word he decided to keep the inscriptions to himself, but if any wanted to give a donation towards the cost of the extra work they would be let into the secret of the inscriptions. The bells were duly inscribed as follows.

Later in the year the bells returned from Loughborough and the following account appeared in the magazine: "At 5.30 on this day—the Feast of Crispin—(and what a stormy night it was) we had the ceremony of naming the bells. After evensong the crucifer, choir and clergy proceeded to the roadway outside St. Peter's where the bells rested on the lorry that brought them from Loughborough. In spite of the roughness of the weather we had quite a good congregation in the open, and cars stopped and people stood in the streets as the bells were named. At the end we sung the Doxology, and those who were there must have felt that this was the beginning of the restoration of an essential home touch of St. Peter's."

The first peal scored on the bells after recasting was rung on May 28, 1938, and, like the very first one, the method was Grandsire Triples (Parker's Twelve-part). The conductor was Mr. A. V. Davis who, as captain, did much towards the restoration and rehanging of the bells.

NARROW ESCAPE

During the war the tower and indeed the entire church had a narrow escape when an incendiary bomb hit a department store opposite the church, the sparks from the burning shop being blown across the road and starting a fire in the louvres of the tower and bell frame. Servicemen, including the Royal Canadian Air Force, joined church workers to form a chain gang passing buckets of water from the crypt at the east end of the church, along the nave and up the 90-odd steps to the bell chamber, where the outbreak was successfully confined. Fortunately no serious damage was done.

In the post-war period Mr. Davis was responsible for the training and encouragement of many young ringers, and was assisted by such well-known ringers as Mrs. F. J. Marshallsay and Mr. D. T. Matkin. Their efforts helped to keep up the tradition of regular Sunday service ringing, upheld for 99 years.

Today, with the population of Bournemouth tending to move from the centre of the town, a number of the ringers have to travel from the outskirts of Bournemouth to ring for Sunday services. This presents difficulties, especially in the summer months when the town is crowded, but the ringers of St. Peter's are confident that the bells will be ringing for the centenary of their dedication next year and for many years after that.

Bath and Wells Association.

NEW RULES: INCREASED SUBSCRIPTIONS

NEXT YEAR'S A.G.M. ON EASTER MONDAY

Celebrating the 80th anniversary, the Association president, the Lord Bishop of Bath and Wells, preached at the service in Bath Abbey on June 6, when ringers filled the choir. The Rev. H. F. Warren (master) conducted the Association form of service, with lessons read by G. W. Massey and Preb. G. Lester.

In his address Bishop Henderson spoke on the theme (John 15, v. 17) of "one another," and its implications both in World Cup football and for ringers who were aware of one another in the discipline of team work. He thanked the ringers for another year of witness, hoped they would gain inspiration from a beautiful abbey, and quoted John Betjeman's poem Septuagesima, which included the ringers among the essential workers of the parish church.

Tea was taken at St. Michael's parish hall (with thanks for the efforts of John Hobbs and his helpers) and the A.G.M. followed. The master opened proceedings with a prayer and honoured the memory of those members who had died during 1969/70. The officers' reports, already printed, were accepted, the master's commenting upon the relatively poor response to the June A.G.M. date, the success of the Taunton dinner, the question of disputed peals, and the two augmentations carried out at Sampford Brett and Lyng, whilst the general secretary's covered the formation of the new association library, the proposed new rules, and the retirement of three branch secretaries. There were also some comments on progress during the past decade.

The treasurer's report showed a stable membership of 1,780 ringing, 22 associate and 12 honorary life members. The reserves had been called upon to finance the year's working and the committee recommended subscriptions be raised to 3s. Some 209 towers had paid an affiliation fee.

Reports on visits to 16 towers on a variety of topics were presented by the adviser on the Care of Church Bells and his assistants. A number of restorations were in hand—at Ston Easton, Butleigh, Chaffcombe and Dulverton as a follow-up to work in previous years.

QUARTER PEALS RECORD

Finally the peals secretary presented details of 176 peals rung in 1969 (the largest total ever), including the first 12-bell peal since 1936 and first peals at six new towers. In addition, about 400 quarter peals had been rung (more than in any other county).

Mr. J. H. Gilbert (general secretary) gave a brief account of the Central Council meeting at Ilkley. Because of depleted finances in the General Fund the meeting decided to make no grant to The Ringing World this year, but it was stressed that there was no loss of confidence in the journal.

All the retiring officers were asked to continue and were then re-elected unanimously. The Rev. H. F. Warren expressed the hope that his parish duties would allow him to continue in an office which he valued highly, and Mr. Gilbert gave notice that he would welcome a successor as secretary next year. He would definitely stand down in two years' time because of family commitments. He then proposed that the new rules be adopted as set out in the agenda. These had been discussed in the branches with final revision by the general committee. The aim was to clarify and up-date the association objects and procedures so that members and affiliated P.C.C.'s would be better informed.

The principal changes were in recognition of the bell fund and the tower advisory service, the formation of a library and the composition of a general committee. October 31 was suggested as the collection date for subscriptions. A further committee meeting proposed ringing members' subscriptions be raised to 20p. and not 15p. as printed. Peal fees remain unchanged at 5p, and not 10p. as printed.

Mr. G. W. Massey seconded the motion. In the ensuing discussion it became evident that members considered a 25p. more realistic than 20p., and would build up reserves and augment the bell fund. A counter proposition for 40p. adult and 20p. student subscription was defeated and the amendment for a 25p. subscription was carried without opposition.

UNANIMOUSLY ADOPTED

An amendment to retain the title of "Non-resident Life Member" was narrowly defeated. Having raised the resident subscription, there was an amendment to increase the non-resident subscription from 25p. to 50p. (a single payment only), which was carried with four votes against. With these amendments the new rules were unanimously adopted to operate from January 1, 1971.

The date of the 1971 meeting at Bridgwater was finally fixed, after discussion, for Easter Monday.

Under "Other Business" the master welcomed Mr. W. H. Coles, who brought greetings from Middlesex and from The Ringing World Editor. He also brought Mrs. J. T. Dyke along to meet many old friends, and she was greeted with applause.

A letter on the Stinchcombe Appeal was read, and a recommendation of a retiring collection being accepted, the sum of £5 was realised. Questioned about the conditions at East Pennard, Mr. Sanger said that the bells were, and always had been, ringable, but the tower was badly affected by ringing, and successive architects had advised against it. Recent checks showed no change, but in order to assess likely damage, limited ringing on special occasions would be carefully monitored by the architect in charge.

Mr. Gilbert thanked those present for responding so well to his request for ringing to mark the association's 80th anniversary. Mr. Massey proposed that the Central Council representatives receive £20 expenses, and with this the meeting closed.

It was disturbing to learn that one of the towers which were open for ringing afterwards had been visited by some ringers whilst the meeting was still on. This type of discourtesy is now too common and will not be condoned.

80th ANNIVERSARY

The Bath and Wells Diocesan Association was a development from the Bath and Keynsham United Deaneries Association which was formed in 1882. It is therefore appropriate that this article should appear following an issue featuring Keynsham tower. The inaugural meeting took place in the church schoolroom at Highbridge on May 31, 1890, and the minute book records that 13 clergy and 15 laymen were present from a wide area of Somerset.

The choice of Highbridge, which no longer has any bells, was probably due to its situation at the junction of railway lines from all parts of Somerset. The "S. and D." branch line has now closed, like many others.

In the 80 years, membership has grown from 194 to over 1,800, and we now vie with Oxford for the honour of being the largest diocesan association. The scope of ringing accomplished has grown from Grandsire only to 23 Spliced Surprise Major with "all the work." A flourishing bell fund enables us to give useful assistance in restorations and the tower advisory series, started in 1927, now visits more towers each year than in almost any other county.

Some account of association history was given for its 75th anniversary and will not be repeated here. The pattern of working has changed over the years. Up to 1939 there were four general meetings each year at which members' elections were ratified. Latterly, with a full programme of branch meetings, only the A.G.M. is held (in a different branch each year). This year's meeting at Bath introduced the fifth major rule change since 1890. The subscription was originally 1/-, became 1/6 in 1947, and 2/- in 1952. From 1971 it will be 5/- (25p.).

PRIZE RINGING

One item discussed at the inaugural meeting at some length was prize ringing, particularly in the context of belfry reform. There was apparently very little prize ringing done—two examples in the previous 16 years were mentioned—but the meeting adopted a similar rule to the neighbouring Devon Guild, prohibiting prize ringing by members or in association towers. In the changed circumstances of today this rule has now been withdrawn so that striking competitions (without prizes) may develop.

Among the various tasks undertaken by the association were sending a resolution to the Prime Minister against the disestablishment of the Church in Wales (1912) and making representations to the railway companies for lower fares for ringers (1925). Neither of these projects succeeded! We started issuing instructional booklets in 1903 (Shearn's Grandsire Doubles) and the latest issue of Sanger's Ringing a Bell has recently sold out its second edition.

To mark this anniversary we asked for special ringing at as many towers as possible and the response indicates a healthy state of activity in the diocese. Our task now is to cope with the effects of parish reorganisation that will take place in the next 20 years, and the maintenance of our bands and bells in good order whilst avoiding the nuisance of excessive noise.

Salisbury Guild. THREE JUDGES

The quarterly meeting and striking competition of the Salisbury Branch was held at Damerham on May 30. The guild service was conducted by the vicar (Rev. J. Mathers), followed by tea in the Vicarage served by Mrs. Mathers and the local ringers. After a business meeting on the Vicarage lawn a return was made to the church for the competition. Four towers entered, and as there were many unattached ringers present it was decided to make up two more teams.

The judges were Messrs. B. Woodruffe, Terry Collins and J. Hartless, who gave the results as follows: 1 Fittleton, 2 Guest Team No. 1, 3 Damerham, 4 Sarum St. Thomas, 5 Wilton, 6 Guest Team No. 2.

5 Wilton, 6 Guest Team No. 2.
Mr. N. Skelton (chairman) expressed thanks to the judges for their ready help and advice.

CENTRAL COUNCIL DELIBERATIONS

SECTION III

The proceedings after lunch commenced with the third section of the Interim Report of the Standing Committee on the constitution and procedural workings of the Central Council, viz.:

Finance.—The section had been prepared and presented by Messrs. D. Beresford, F. C. Price and W. G. Wilson, the first-named acting as spokesman.

Mr. G. W. Critchley asked if The Ringing World accounts were to be discussed and it was pointed out that as these were audited separately and the accounting system had recently been revised, it was not considered necessary at this stage for these particular finances to be the subject for general debate.

The question of a false surplus in The Ringing World accounts on the year's workwas raised, and Mr. Meadows, supporting Mr. Critchley, said it was understood it was done to save taxation.

Mr. Wilson replied that the whole question was covered by the last paragraph of the report, and this was accepted.

On the point of liability, the secretary stated that the Council was covered, and Mr. R. S. Anderson spoke of the possibility of forming The Ringing World into a limited company. Mr. Beresford stated that on professional advice there would be no advantage.

Mr. P. Gray said there were, he believed, certain reserves and he asked the com-mittee what should be the size of these in the case of liability.

Mr. Beresford said there was no liability, and in any case they were covered by insurance.

The Towers and Belfries Committee expenses were next discussed and the opinion was expressed that this committee should be self-supporting and charge for work done and advice given.

Mr. Frederick Sharpe explained the system which was adopted by its members and said no charge was made for time, but expenses were collected if possible. They were all out of pocket at the end of the year. The convener did, however, charge for postages and for travelling to committee meetings.

The chairman said the sub-committee had considered all the points.

It was suggested by one speaker that churches where advice had been given should be advised as to costs involved, and he was told that this had been done in many cases, but with little response.

Mr. C. K. Lewis asked a question about increasing the Central Council subscriptions (the present 10s. per member has remained unchanged since 1954) and the chairman advised that the Standing Committee revise the report, including subscriptions, and resubmit it next year, making resolutions as necessary Considerable discussion followed, Messrs. Carlisle, Wilson, Mayne, Reynolds and Rev. J. Scott taking part, and finally the whole Interim Report was put to the meeting for acceptance and agreed, no one voting against.

The sub-committee will now review their reports in the light of the proposals and general discussion, and will resubmit the complete report next year with definite proposals.

MOTIONS

The Council then proceeded to deal with various motions of which notice had been given.

Proposing that the Council donate £20 to the Gloucester and Bristol special appeal for Stinchcombe bells from the Clement Glenn Fund, Mr. E. A. Barnett received secondary support from Mr. Bottomley.

Answering Mr. Butler's question as to whether the money would go to the bells or to support the case, Mr. Wratten stated that all money donated was for the bells.

costs were being paid by the association.

Mr. Hoare said this created a dangerous precedent, whilst Mr. Seagar added that if it were a test case more effort should be

Following a remark that this was confusing the issue, Mr. Gray made two points which he thought it fair to repeat for the benefit of the members. The two principles were: (a) If ringers can do anything to influence against bells being hung dead it was imperative to do so, and (b) The way the chancellor gave his decision. There was a risk that if the Stinchcombe appeal was widely supported other P.C.C.'s would apply for faculties for their bells to be hung dead to get the support of ringing associations for the rehanging.

The Rev. St. J. Smith interjected that he did not think P.C.C.'s would sink as low as that.

Answering a question as to raising a local band to ring the bells once they were rehung, Mr. C. Wratten said there were two ringers in the parish and there seemed no reason why a team should not be trained. He felt, because of the chancellor's judgment, the burden should not fall entirely on the parish.

Mr. Sharpe pointed out that the chancellor's ruling only applied to his own diocese and was not legally binding on anyone else outside that area.

Mr. Dodds: I think we should support the appeal.

On being put to the meeting the proposal was carried, about ten voting against.

REPORTS, 1969 SUNDAY SERVICE RINGING AND EDUCATION COMMITTEE

COURSES. — The three-day course at Hereford Training College at Easter, 1969, organised by Mr. Wilfrid F. Moreton and the Hereford Guild, was attended by 40 resident students and 20 day students—60 in all. Three days seemed to be the ideal length, about half the time being spent in the local towers. Students were split into groups with competent helpers for each

Messrs. N. Chaddock, W. F. Moreton and F. Sharpe assisted on the Lincoln Guild residential weekend course at Brant Broughton in March, The former and present directors of education attended the Saturday evening activities and thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

In November the annual residential weekend course, organised by Mr. Norman Chaddock for the West Riding Education Authority, attracted 39 students, although 30 was the limit at first allowed

On May 10 a full day course at Market Weighton, E. Yorks, organised for the Beverley and District Society, at Market Weighton Secondary School, involved 124 ringers and eight local towers. The course was split into three main sections covering a wide range of topics and activities at different levels.

An evening institute course was also run by Mr. N. Chaddock at Market Weighton during both winter sessions in 1969.

Inveraray bells.

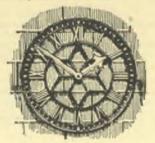

The period of decline of this installation is at an end. Following visits, contacts and negotia-tions by the convener and helpers it is anticipated that this fine ring of bells is entering a new era. Appropriate detailed reports have been or will be made in the columns of The Ringing World.

Miscellaneous items.

These include requests for loan of visual and aural aids, filmstrips and films. Advice has been given to two applicants on the organisation and syllabuses of evening institute courses. Several requests for the convener's filmstrip on bell control have been met.

Staniforth wishes to resign from the committee, being under great pressure of work in several fields. The convener wishes to be relieved of this responsibility which he has carried for over ten years. It is felt that the work of this committee is so important that members of the Central Council should consider seriously how to strengthen it so as to preserve its effectiveness in the future. During 1969 Mr. Frederick Sharpe has given 16 illustrated lectures, written Volume 2 of "Herefordshire Bells" and started on the revision of "Berkshire Bells."

INFORMATION SOUGHT

Dear Sir,—Reading the paragraph from The Ringing World in "50 Years Ago" on the peal of Stedman Triples at Betchworth, Surrey, prompts me to write to you. My great-grandfather, W. H. Judd, was My great-grandfather, W. H. Judd, was tower captain at Betchworth from 1885 until 1935. He had three sons, all of whom were ringers but are now dead.

Unfortunately I have no knowledge of his ringing activities, although I have in my possession an old book of methods which once belonged to him. I would be very interested to know if you or anyone, when reading through old copies of The Ringing World, have come across any reference to him, especially of any record of his death in July, 1945, or of any other Judds at Betchworth. Yours faithfully,

CLAPHAM PARK BELLS

Dear Sir,—I was very interested in the article (in your issue No. 3084 of June 5) by Mr. John Pladdys about St. Stephen's Church, Clapham Park.

I sincerely hope that his wish to ring these bells again in their new home will come true.

Our ring of ten bells (tenor 20 cwt.) at Christ Church, Crewe, were recast from the original eight in 1912 by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston of Croydon.

They are tuned on the "five-tone" Simpson principle, and sound well and "go" well, although on plain bearings.

Visiting ringers to our tower have said some very nice things about them, too.—Yours faithfully,

JOHN HOLLOWAY.

Crewe, Cheshire.

THE WELSH WELCOME

Dear Sir,—We ringers are seldom found wanting when it comes to showing appreciation of the clergy for the use of their bells and in conducting services at our meetings, and to local ringers and ladies for providing and preparing often very sumptuous meals.

In North Wales we are unfortunate, in one sense, in that many of our ringing towers are so far apart; consequently we do not meet as many of our fellow ringers as we could wish. It is the opportunities provided by our annual and half-yearly meetings that enable so many of us, particularly in the Wrexham area, to arrange a coach and travel to distant towers.

Our A.G.M., in late spring, is a particular joy. This year we travelled to Machynlleth to be privileged receivers of a sincere welcome from the clergy, ringers and the people of this ancient town. We came by special invitation this year (it is only two and a half years since we were at Machynlleth) and we were doubly honoured by the presence of the Bishop of Bangor (Rt. Rev. G. O. Williams), the Archdeacon other clergy and the chairman of the local council and his lady.

From all our ringers to the good people of Machynlleth, a very sincere thank you for all the arrangements and for the honour you bestowed on our association this year.

Yours faithfully

-Yours faithfully,
DENNIS H. B. MILLWARD.

RINGING MEETINGS

Dear Sir,—Surely the problems enumerated in Mr. Bevis's letter on ringing meetings (Ringing World, page 434) arise from the basic fact that monthly and quarterly meetings along traditional lines serve no useful purpose, apart from providing a pleasant social occasion.

What can one look forward to from such an occasion? Proceedings will begin with about an hour's mediocre ringing, with the ringing master either trying valiantly to keep the bells going with the few who are keen enough to put in an early attendance or endeavouring to cater for large numbers of ringers of widely differing capabilities at one and the same time. Shortly before the service the "good" ringers will appear from nowhere and ring a polished touch for the service touch. At the service the feet of the volunteer organist will stray wildly over the pedal-board, Evensong will be specially shortened, and "special" hymns will be sung to ap-palling tunes, because the local incumbent will assume that ringers will be unused to normal length services and be unfamiliar A sermon will be with the liturgy. preached; it will either be a pat on the back for those fine fellows, the ringers, for all their fine work, or a little lecture telling them to attend services more frequently, depending on the nature of the incumbent. At the ensuing tea he will be thanked for his "instructive address." Occasionally an item of interest may crop up at the business meeting, but more often not. The meeting will be followed by more mediocre ringing, interspersed by the odd course in a fancy method rung by the "good" ringers before they retire to the pub, leaving their less brethren to struggle on for a little longer before they go home, disillusioned, to their cocoa!

This is, I acknowledge, an extremely cynical view, and I know that many meetings rise above this level. And I should not wish to suggest that any act of worship which is sincere in intent is in any way unworthy. But there is precious little in this well-worn routine to attract the younger, less experienced ringers about whom Mr. Bevis is concerned, or to attract the more experienced, either, for that matter. Assuming that the purpose of these meetings was originally threefold—to improve the standard of ringing, to transact business, and to provide fellowship—there are surely better ways of providing all three than our conventional meetings.

A meeting once each month, or once each quarter, is of no use whatsoever as an opportunity to improve one's ringing. An association or guild which intends to fulfil this aim has got to do a lot more about it than to organise the occasional Tuition of inexperienced bands in their own tower on their own weekly practice night is the only way to tackle the spade work. Of course, those who are prepared to attend a quarterly meeting, kidding themselves that they are doing their duty, are less willing to commit themselves on a more regular basis. It is the task of the association to see that all necessary instruction is provided. Co-operation within a geographical area is not difficult to organise, so that ringing on any level can be available, except in the most remote areas. Once the ground work has been accomplished, peals and quarter peals are the way to consolidate it; the effectiveness of an hour or three hours' practice at one time is not to be compared with the odd touch four times a year.

Having separated ringing from business meetings, the business can then be tranFROM AUSTRALIA

Dear Editor,—It was suggested that each Sydney tower ring a quarter peal during the Royal visit and Cook celebrations. Here is Turramurra's contribution:—

Rung to mark the bicentenary of Captain Cook's landing at Stingray Harbour (Kurnell, Botany Bay), on April 29, 1770.

Margaret Balcombe, who was in the office on the "Britannia" and travelled around with the Royal party, was able to ring at Burwood and Turramurra, and also rang at Yass with Paul Taylor.

Last week-end we joined the Burwood ringers for a week-end at Canberra and Yass. We stood in respectful (?) or regretful silence as the pianola chart in the ringing room of the Aspen Island carillon wound its way through "Cherry Ripe," "Greensleeves," "Hearts of Oak," etc., and then made an interesting though sad inspection of the bells. The tower is a most impressive sight and certainly adds to the beauty of Lake Burley Griffin. The striking competition between St. Paul's (Burwood) and St. James (Turner) at Yass resulted in a resounding victory for St. Paul's and a rather unmelodious defeat for St. James'. After we had left for Sydney the Burwood team rang a quarter of Doubles.

We have followed with interest the progress of the Taylor family. I knew Eric and Helen years back, before they had any children and before I came to Australia. Within a couple of years the Goodyers should be ringing their own family quarters—we still have Geoffrey and Rachel to join our ranks. However, opportunities for peal ringing in Sydney are few, so we must be content with quarters. Philip in particular would revel in the ringing opportunities in U.K.

Tomorrow Phil is hoping to conduct an "Under 15" quarter at Turramurra. I think his chances are very dim. The tenor ringer has not learned how to cover yet! Philip rang in the "Under 16 and Youngest in Australia" quarter three years ago, when he was 11. We wish them luck tomorrow.

Best wishes to all.—Yours sincerely, time of 5.15 p.m. on a Saturday.
MARGARET GOODYER.

Fellowship is something that those who have found out what ringing can offer them experience not just on isolated meeting days but week after week the whole year through. If our guilds and associations were to think more of what they ought to be doing to achieve their objects, many might well conclude that the formalised district meeting could well be dispensed with.—Yours faithfully.

THE ILKLEY MEETING

Dear Sir,—The Central Council gathering at Ilkley was once again the enjoyable event it always is, with the hosts providing traditional Yorkehire hospitality. There was, however, one aspect of the meeting which I, and I believe a great percentage of those delegates present, found disturbing, and which I feel should be brought to the notice of the Exercise in general.

Due to persistent external pressures, both the Records and Peal Analysis Committees, who for years have tried to maintain certain standards of good taste and good sense in what we ring and accept, seem to have capitulated to a state of "Well you might as well ring what you like—there doesn't seem much we can do about it anyway."

Both these committees are composed of ringers of high calibre and integrity but because of the tactics of a fringe of sensationalists and rebels (and dare I say cranks) who just do not wish to conform to what most of us feel are a logical set of rules and ideals, these two bodies have literally, it seems, resigned themselves to a state of not quite knowing which way to turn for the benefit of the Exercise whom they serve.

Of course rules need to be reviewed and changed and doubtless some rules broken are done so in all innocence, and the last decade has surely seen some exciting developments in composition, particularly with the use of singles in Surprise Royal and Maximus, the exploration of London and the field of Spliced. But our basic rules were and are set up by responsible and, may I stress, active participants of the art for the good of the Exercise at large and, let it be said, by a majority vote in Council which represents that Exercise.

Despite the untapped wealth of sensible material, as well as a tremendous field of method and composition already in existence, the breaking of rules, the naming of methods in a most infantile way and attempting to throw the work of these two committees constantly out of gear continues.

May I cite a few examples, all of which were mentioned/debated at Ilkley, none of which was satisfactorily resolved.

(i) However meritorious they may appear, the peal(s) of Caters at Basingstoke and the Minor with the tenor covering at Sawston do not conform to the rules set down and, particularly in the former case, fully known about. Opening the floodgates here could mean Cinques on the back eleven at Winchester, or Kent Fourteen at Wakefield ("for who," would say the extremist, "cares whether the fourteen are in diatonic scale or not?")

(ii) The long peal of Superlative. This was neither officially rejected nor accepted, only by implication, and it seems the ringing public were misled on the matter of an umpire, anyway.

(iii) Nomenclature. The range of suitable names for new methods is legion but we have recently had Mr. Rusty, Xennapod Surprise. Turkish and now Turnout Delight.

Surprise. Turkish and now Turnout Delight.
(iv) Jumping places. Someone has found a loophole here—the results are obvious.

(v) Mixture of calls—again, neals rung and published without apparently seeking the guidance or opinion of these committees and, worse, no explanation in The Ringing World.

PUBLICATION OF QUARTER PEALS

Dear Sir,—With the appearance of the new type face in parts of our journal I shall be grateful if you will allow me space to comment on one small innovation that I cannot regard with satisfaction. I refer to the setting out of certain quarter peals with such contractions as "P.B. Doubles," "P.B. Minor," and so on. To bands who pay for their insertion it cannot be pleasing to see their (often very laudable) performances recorded in these or other indefinite terms.

We are all aware that present economies are essential to the continued life and prosperity of The Ringing World, and I think that most of us would agree that restrictive measures have, up to now, been more limited than we might have expected. But we may all hope that it is not necessary to carry economy of space to the verge of parsimony. To the ringers of Doubles and Minor many of these performances must be very precious; I would therefore make a plea for the quarter peals (such staunch supporters of our finances) to be treated alike, whether on higher or lower numbers of bells.—Yours faithfully,

EDGAR C. SHEPHERD.

Warminster, Wilts.

P.S.—In the publication of the Report of the Literature and Press Committee (page 424), I note that your compositor has set certain words with lower case initials. I need hardly point out that "Parochial Church Council," "Consistory Court," and "Chancellor" are all, in this context, proper nouns and titles, and, as such, merit the distinction of capital initials. It was in its correct form that Mr. Dukes and I submitted the script to the Central Council.

E. C. S.

Editor's Note: (1) Points noted, but quarter peal and peal bands do not pay for their insertion. They kindly send donations towards the cost of producing The Ringing World, and these are greatly appreciated; (2) Postscript—agreed!

One could mention other cases, not specially debated in the Council Chamber. I recently heard a supposedly intelligent man (he had received a university education) and a gifted composer stating quite seriously his intention of ringing a 4999 and forcing it through the Council.

Of course ringing is to be enjoyed and to my knowledge nobody on the Central Council, particularly in these two committees, wants to be high-handed, square or what have you but, as John Mayne observed, the whole structure on which our valuable heritage is based is being undermined. I will no doubt be accused of sounding pompous and over-traditional, but may I conclude with two appeals?

First, to composers, conductors and peal arrangers, please to continue experimenting, but if in doubt as to legality, authenticity, nomenclature and so on, do consult a member of these committees for their opinion and guidance.

Secondly, to the Exercise in general, to endeavour to maintain good sense, standard and taste in our ringing achievements. This will surely not only revere the names of the greats who have gone before but also enhance the work of many people happily still with us.—Yours faithfully,

GEORGE W. PIPE.

GREATER LONDON TOWERS

Dear Sir,—Mr. Buswell (Ringing World, page 414) is confused about the identification of towers in Greater London.

In 1965 Greater London was formed as an administrative unit from the former counties of London and Middlesex and from parts of Essex, Kent, Surrey and Hertfordshire, and the numerous boroughs and urban districts in that area were amalgamated into 32 London boroughs, most of which were given the names of important places within their areas.

However, the fact that a place ceased then to be a local authority area did not mean that it ceased to be a place (and a parish) in its own right. The fourth edition of "Dove" recognises this and lists all London towers under the name of the place by which they are commonly known—an improvement, I think, on the previous edition in which in the "Metropolitan Boroughs" section Putney, Clapham and Streatham, for instance, were all to be found under Wandsworth—and in some cases the borough name is included for help in locating the place.

Thus, for example, Barnet, St. Mary the Virgin, refers only to the town of Barnet and not to Monken Hadley or anywhere else in the London Borough of Barnet; Bromley, SS. Peter and Paul, refers only to the town of Bromley and not to Cudham or anywhere else in the London Borough of Bromley.

Hayes is a special case: it is a rare example of two places with the same name in the same county and both having a ring of bells (like the two Littlehams in Devon and the two Ecclestons in Lancashire). In this case "Dove's" identification by their boroughs is most helpful. In case there is still any doubt after the publicity it has received, it is the bells of Hayes (Hillingdon) that have recently been recast and augmented.

If Mr. Buswell or anyone else would like to know in which boroughs Greater London towers are situated I would be happy to supply a list.—Yours faithfully,

C. H. ROGERS.

GOSPEL OAK BELLS

Dear Sir, It was pleasing for me to read the paragraph on the ringing at St. Martin's, Gospel Oak N.W.

some 40 years ago I was a member of the band led by the late Mr. Ernie Bonfield. We rang every Sunday for both Matins and Evensong, and were frequently visited by stalwarts of long ago, including Frank Smith, Richard Bevan, W. Norton and (one who is still with us) Mr. Reginald V. Johnson, master of the Sussex Association.

Few peals have been rung on this handy little six (tenor about 12 cwt.), but it appeared to us in those days that the local residents liked to hear the bells ringing.

It was considered a terrible tragedy if we failed to ring out the Old Year and ring in the New. The church was usually full to overflowing for the midnight service.

Congratulations, Mr. F. G. Knight, and thank you very much for getting St. Martin's bells on the air again.—Yours faithfully,

R. NEWMAN.

There is only one thing in the world worse than being talked about, and that is not being talked about. OSCAR WILDE.

NEWINGTON BELLS REDEDICATED

Nearly 100 parishioners and ringers from S.E. England assembled at the Church of Mary, Newington-next-Sittingbourne, Kent, on Whit Sunday, for the rededication of the six bells rehung by John Taylor

Evensong was conducted by the vicar (Rev. P. W. Poole), the first lesson being read by Mr. E. A. Barnett, vice-president of the Central Council, and the rededicaof the Central Council, and the rededica-tion took place after the third collect. The Newington band, together with Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Barnett, Mr. A. P. S. Berry (Kent C.A.), Mr. D. P. Leworthy (Roches-ter District) and Mr. A. Clayton (John Taylor and Co.) assembled at the foot of the tower. After prayer the vicar presented the key to Mr. E. A. Gilbert (captain). During the singing of "Ding Dong Merrily on High" the Newington band rang rounds.

The Vicar, in his address, emphasised the fact that the bells of Newington were ringing again was due entirely to the efforts of the local band.

After the service light refreshments were served in the school room and the captain thanked everybody for their support in raising funds for the restoration. Mr. E. A. Barnett congratulated the band and thanked them on behalf of all visitors. Ringing on the much improved ring took place under the direction of Mr. Laurie Mitchell until

LOST HIS TROUSERS AFTER TEN MINUTES

Mr. G. D. Armitage, during a short visit to England from Sweden, arranged a weekend of ringing. On May 16 a peal of Plain Bob Major was attempted on the rough-going bells at Lightcliffe, near Halifax, Yorkshire. The tenor weighs nearly a ton and the bells are hung in a two-tier wooden frame. The front six are not too bad, as they are hung on ball bearings. The tenors, however, were left on plain bearings and have a habit of drying up. This is what happened after only ten minutes of ringing. The tenor man had to contort himself so much in order to keep his bell up, even when hunting down, that his trousers fell down, bringing the ringing to a full stop.

On Whit Sunday the band went to Durham and rang on the new six at Shincliffe, and a quarter peal was rung at St. Oswald's, Durham.

Mr. Armitage adds the latter bells are to be melted down and recast into a light eight with a tenor of about five cwt. It is hoped that the reclaimed metal will meet the Another hope is to arouse local interest and get the bells rehung lower in the tower.

Inquiries can be made to Mr. Keiran Fitzsimons, 2 The Reeds, Durham Agricultural College, Houghall, Durham City, and many thanks are due to him for his help in getting the bells into some sort of order.

Whitwick, Leics.-May 5, 1264 P.B. Major: Helen J. Wright 1, J. A. Lord 2, J. Hawtin 3, D. Waldram 4, H. Moult 5, C. Lord 6, J. Rawson 7, R. Beniston (cond.) 8. For Confirmation. MID-DEVON RINGERS' VISIT TO BELL FOUNDRY

When Inwardleigh bells were opened just before Christmas after rehanging by Mr. Arthur Fidler, Percy Aggett casually asked if it would be possible to visit Loughborough and look round the Bell Foundry. The possibility became a reality on May 15.

Soon after midnight on the Thursday (14th) the coach loaded up, and the rain, coming down in torrents, lasted until the coach reached Bristol, but spirits were far from damp. A steady run through the night, and by 9 a.m. all were enjoying a substantial breakfast at the Leicester Forest East Service area on the M.1. The weather had brightened and later became ideal for the tour. At 10.30 Loughborough was reached and the dream had materialised. Never had the visitors seen so many bells in various stages of treatment, and the highlight was to see the casting of four bells— an eyeopener for those whose occupations are far removed from foundry work.

lt was to be expected that the ring of bells in the Foundry tower would cause some amusement. Chaps who were used to a "bit of weight" found this light ring a bit fickle and they certainly made fun of the lads who pride themselves on their striking. To say that the workshops were combed is to put it mildly. They missed nothing and the organiser had many questions to answer.

A programme of ringing had been arranged for the Friday afternoon. Shepshed Church was the first visited and some good "peals" were rung on the back six. Perfection was not expected when the novices had a pull but no one complained. After a pleasant run through Charnwood Forest the six at Newtown Lindford were soon being raised and good striking brought out the best of this lively light ring. Jill Wilson's parents put on a splendid tea and full justice to it was done.

By 7 p.m. Markfield had been reached and again everything was in readiness. No time was wasted in raising the bells, but as there was a wedding rehearsal at 7.30 a visit was made to the local ringers' head-quarters (for some reason called The George). After further ringing the time came to say goodbye to "George" and return to two hotels in Loughborough and a well-earned rest.

Although departure time on Saturday was scheduled for 9 a.m., two of the South Tawton chaps caused the departure to be delayed a little, but they did manage a good breakfast!

Back on the M.1 and we were soon at Daventry, where the vicar and Pat Chapman were waiting to welcome the party. The ringers of the first "peal" excelled themselves; a grand rise, spot-on striking and a decent drop. This was something Pat had never heard. It brought out the beauty of these bells, even though only the back six were being rung. The learners were able to have a ring on the front six and they enjoyed it. Staverton Church was the next on the list and full justice was done to the fine six. The late Rev. E. S. Powell was responsible for this installation when he was vicar. Having been the incumbent of several Devon churches it was fitting that some "Devon" style ringing had been rung on the bells, even though Mr. Powell had been "scientific."

Lunch in Banbury was taken to the accompaniment of Banbury bells. A peal attempt was on so a little time was spent listening, and as no rude remarks were passed it says something for the striking. The final "official" call was at Devizes.

Ancient Society of College Youths

COUNTRY MEETING IN BRISTOL

The College Youths have long maintained a happy association with the ringers of Bristol, and this association was further strengthened on May 30, the date fixed for the College Youths' annual "country" meeting. The popularity of Bristol with members of the Society was clearly shown by the large numbers who attended, and this, combined with good weather, good bells and excellent arrangements, made the day as enjoyable as any such days the writer can remember.

The meeting had attracted its fair share of publicity; mention was made of it in an article in The Bristol Evening Post the previous week, and a representative of the B.B.C. came to Redcliffe to record the ringing and interview the master for a possible item in "Today in the South and West."

Members and friends started to arrive in the morning, and there was a good standard of ringing at Bath Abbey, Bristol Cathedral and St. James', Bristol. Owing to the unexpectedly large attendance the venue for lunch had to be changed at a fairly late stage in the process of organisation, but once everyone had located the Grand Spa Hotel, Clifton, there were certainly no complaints about the suitability of the place, its magnificent setting at the edge of the Gorge, or their meal, to which 75 members and friends sat down. They had come from many parts of the country, and there were members whose ages ranged from 15 to 75. Supporting the master of the College Youths (Mr. A. R. Kench) on the top table were Mr. and Mrs. Philip Gray, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Hobbs and some of the officers of the society and their wives.

After lunch there was a short business meeting, presided over by the master. Mr. Kench is, of course, well known in Bristol, he having spent three years there at the University, a time of which, as he said, he had happy memories and during which he had made lots of friends. Opening the meeting, he said how tremendously pleased he was that the society had been invited to Bristol, and he thanked Mr. Gray, chairman of the City of Bristol Branch, for the invitation on behalf of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association, and Mr. Hobbs, the secretary, who had made such excellent arrangements for the day

Replying, Mr. Gray said it was a pleasure to welcome the society on behalf of the Bristol ringers. "Almost all of you have been to Bristol before," he said, "so it is more a case of welcoming you back." He wondered whether it was the charms of Bristol or the pleasure of getting away from London that had been responsible for such an unusually large gathering, and went on: "I have always admired the College Youths

Here Mr. A. T. Weeks had arranged tea and the use of the six bells at St. James', Southbroom. Again excellent ringing, and the learners took advantage of trying this handy ring. By this time they were learning that by ringing at different churches their striking and bell handling could improve.

striking and bell handling could improve.

Reluctantly the last "fall" had to take place, and, after farewells, the coach headed for home. By some mischance the coach stopped near to two signs in Wellington—"Two Cups" and "Fish and Chips." Ken Wills, one of the Bow ringers, had the coach well in hand and by 12.30 Sunday morning we were back where we had started 40 hours earlier. Without delay, ringers were returning to Stoke Fleming, South Tawton, Belstone, Burrington, Down St. Mary and Chawleigh. A good time had been had by all, and the bells for Matins were rung as usual.

J. P. F.

for two things. One is their adherence to the continuity of their traditions. The other is that it is one of the societies which always puts ringing first and business next, as we in Bristol have tried to do." He felt sure the members would enjoy ringing the bells of Bristol.

An apology for absence was received from Mr. A. C. Rouse, the secretary of the Gloucester and Bristol Association. Members expressed their regret that he was unable to be with them at that meeting. The change of venue for lunch unfor-

The change of venue for lunch unfortunately meant that ringing was somewhat curtailed at SS. Philip and Jacob's, but full use was made of the glorious 12 at St. Mary's, Redcliffe, where the company was warmly welcomed by Mr. Hancock, and of the ten bells of Christ Church. The ringing throughout the day was of a good standard, the highlights perhaps being two well-struck courses of Stedman Cinques and a touch of Spliced Surprise Maximus at Redcliffe.

After the ringing the company forgathered in the Waggon and Horses, where splendid arrangements had been made for refreshments. Here for two hours or so old acquaintances were renewed and new acquaintances made, until at last it was time to face the long journey home after a really enjoyable day, for which the writer would like to add his thanks to all those responsible for its organisation. The society is also grateful to all incumbents and tower captains who placed their bells at the company's disposal.

WAREHAM WANDERERS RETURN

Seven valiant ringers braved the Bank Holiday traffic on Friday, May 22, to arrive at Wareham, Dorset, for a week-end of peals. After an early breakfast on Saturday everyone set off in the best of spirits for Ringwood, where Yorkshire was scored. After lunch it was back to Wareham and during the glorious, hot afternoon a peal of Rutland was rung. Those needing something substantial set off for the Red Lion at Winfrith and returned for an early night.

After Sunday morning ringing at Wareham we went on to Morden to try to ring the rough five before staying to the service, where everyone was in good voice. After lunch all cars made their way to Kingston, high up in the Purbeck Hills, and were joined by the Elmes family. A band was left to ring successfully a peal of London on the glorious eight, while the female contingent departed to grab a local beach. All were reunited at the Scott Arms, Kingston, where the homemade wine was sampled.

Monday morning saw the convoy move to Cattistock and the best ringing of the weekend in Spliced Surprise took place; this came to a halt after an hour. Amends were made at Wimborne St. Giles in the afternoon with a peal of Superlative, while the rest went beachhunting. Afterwards, one last drink and diary checking before the long journey home. Thanks go to George for arranging the week-end, and to everyone who helped to make it a success.

"UNRINGABLE."

CAVERSFIELD, OXFORDSHIRE

Caversfield, in Oxfordshire, is well known in the annals of campanology. Its tiny church stands on historic ground, the site of a Romano-British fortification dating from the third century. In the churchyard are buried the warriors who died in those far-off days, including their chieftain, thought by one historian to be the Emperor Carassius. Alongside them are the war graves of the young men of the Royal Air Force who lost their lives defending the nearby aerodrome during the last war.

The nearby Manor House has had many owners of distinction. The Saxons built the first church to which the present tower was added in the late 10th or 11th century. At the time of the Norman Conquest the manor formed part of the estates of Tostig, brother of King Harold.

No doubt the tower housed a bell or bells from the first and during the occupa-tion of the manor by Hugh Gargate and his wife Sybilla they were either recast or augmented in number. Hugh was in possession of Caversfield Manor in 1199. Documentary evidence shows he was alive in 1216, but in 1219 his wife, Sybilla, is described as a widow.

The ancient method of making a bell was first to form the "core" or inner mould, and on this to construct a full-size clay model of the finished bell, complete with its moulding wires and inscription. The lettering was either formed in wax or clay and stuck on the model. When these were dry the "cope" or outer mould was formed over the model. Then the cope and model were lifted off the core, and the purpose of the moulding wires, the use of which has continued to the present day, was to key the model to the cope during this operation. The model was removed and the cope replaced over the core leaving a cavity be-tween the two. The cap, or canon mould, completed the sequence of operations, after which the moulds were lowered into a casting pit. A simple form of reverberatory furnace sufficed to melt the alloy of copper and tin, which was run by gravity to the

Around one of the bells given by Hugh and Sybilla Gargate the early 13th century bell founder placed the inscription "+ IN HONORE DEI ET SANTI LAV-RENCLL." When the moulds were separated and the model bell removed he added another, scratching the letters into the cope above the sound bow. The latter reads: "HVQQART.SIBILLA.Q.VXOR EIVSH-TIM-PPANA.FECERVNT.ECPONI." Intended for "HVG(H) GARGAT(E) SIBILLA(VE) VXOR EIVS H(AEC) TIMP-PANA FECERVNT ECPONI." The founder did not realise that if he scratched the inscription the right way in the cope it would appear in reverse on the bell, and the lettering reads from right to left and all letters are reversed on the latter. Translated, the inscriptions read: "In honour of God and St. Lawrence." "Hugh Gargate and Sybilla his wife had these bells erected."

The other bell or bells given by the Gargates have been recast. There are now five in the ring, with a tenor weighing 4 cwt. 3 qr. 16 lb. in D flat, and the early 13th century bell, the oldest in England to which a definite date may be assigned, is mounted in a frame in the ringing chamber. It is taken as a criterion by most writers for dating early bells.

Mr. Frederick Sharpe has regularly rung here for the past 50 years. Interest in the old bell inspired him to study the art of campanology. During this time he has taught many beginners to handle a bell here, and as the population of the parish is under 100 it is with the knowledge that all his young pupils will leave after their education is finished. To maintain the bells for service ringing means that one must always be teaching. The ringing chamber is illustrated in the Central Council's Handbook for Beginners, and the illustrations in Mr. W. G. Wilson's Change Ringing were photographed here.

ST. MARY'S, BENHALL

Benhall (Suffolk) bellringers are making progress, for a year ago the tower was silent, but now the bells are rung for service every Sunday. Practice takes place every Thursday evening, and since January five quarter peals and three peals have been rung. Most of the credit for this goes to Peter Bedford (Aldeburgh), who is the North East District ringing master. Just over a year ago six of the present band had never rung a bell, whereas today only two cannot claim a quarter.

Peter has now taken over the re-formation of the Saxmundham band, which has a new leader (Andrew Ellis). Harry Archer, after many years of sterling work as tower captain, recently handed over his duties to Andrew at a meeting held in Saxmundham Parish Hall. Harry was presented with a tankard for services rendered, but will still carry on with the duties of steeplekeeper and tower correspondent. The ringers of Benhall wish the Saxmundham company every success in their future ringing.

"720" OUTING

On May 23 six members of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild set out to attempt six different 720's in six different North-amptonshire's six-bell towers, each ringer to call a 720 from the tenor bell.

The details were as follows:-1.—Warmington, Cambridge

1.—Warmington, Cambridge Surprise Minor, conducted by C. E. Stokes.

2.—Kingscliffe, Morning Star T.B., conducted by B. E. Saunders.

3.—Wansford, Plain Bob Minor, conducted by R. A. Vickers.

4.—Glinton, Little Bob and Olney Alliance, conducted by G. C. Paul.

5.—Maxey, Disley Delight Minor, conducted by S. M. Ruddlesden.

6.—Stamford Baron, Willesden Delight Minor, conducted by A. A. Paul.

All 720's were successfully concluded and

All 720's were successfully concluded and the ringing throughout was generally well-R. A. V. struck and enjoyed by the band.

Our illustration shows the latest team, all aged between 10 and 12, who have been taught to ring during the past winter. They are (left to right): Barbara Mylott, treble; Susan Kinchin, second; Ritan Gibbons, third; Kelly, fourth; Deborah Longhurst, tenor. On the ladder leading to the next floor, where part of the Central Council's library is housed, is Marylin Newman, also one of the In the second photograph Mr. Sharpe is shown explaining the details of Hugh Gargate's bell.

"THE RINGING ISLE" A B.B.C. TV Programme

I was able to tell members of the Central Council at Ilkley of the programme, already filmed by the B.B.C., to be broadcast this summer. I can now give the Exercise further details.

As one of the B.B.C. religious programmes a film entitled "The Ringing Isle" will be shown on B.B.C.1 at 6.15 p.m. on August 2—in colour. I know many of our readers will be in the ringing chamber at this time and it is also, of course, an impossible time for the clergy, but there it is! We must accept that religious programmes are designed largely for those who do not — perhaps cannot — go to church on Sunday evenings.

The film deals with ringers, with bells and with the techniques of ringing, in that order of importance and interest. Parts of it were filmed in Bibury and Fairford, Gloucestershire, during the lovely spring weather. I cannot speak personally about that part. Perhaps someone from that area will give us the details. The remainder includes a visit to the Whitechapel Bell Foundry to see a bell cast, and visits to Harrow-on-the-Hill. Why there? Because the vicar and local ringers were good enough to put their bells and themselves at the disposal of the B.B.C. when the Rev. John Elphinstone-Fyffe (of the B.B.C.) accepted my suggestion that this was a most suitable tower for the film.

Shots were taken of individual ringers from Harrow and Ealing, of the ringing both in the bell chamber and the ringing room, and, if she will pardon me for writing this, perhaps the most amusing part, of my attempt to give the charming B.B.C. secretary her first lesson in handling a bell.

WILFRID G. WILSON.

After Frank Blagrove had conducted the peal of Stedman Triples at Windsor on May 23 it was found that the previous peal of Stedman on the bells was rung more than 60 years ago. This was on December 9, 1909, the band being: A. Andrews, C. T. Coles, L. Stilwell, E. Hancox, W. Welling, R. E. Stavert, Ernest Pye, Bertram Prewett (conductor). Len Stilwell rang in both peals.

Tony Aldous in The Times: "Politicians of all parties tend to make somewhat arrogant assumptions. Take that affair of the bells of St. Mary's, in Reading, for example. It has been widely assumed that, if only the bellringers locked inside the tower could have been told that Mr. Anthony Barber was trying to speak outside, they would have interrupted their three-hour peal. Why should they? If reports are correct, they lock themselves in there for an hour or two's campanology every Saturday evening. Mr. Barber comes once in a very blue moon. If he is ill-advised enough to speak outside their belfry, then his supporters can scarcely complain about ringing in their ears."

An Englishman thinks he is moral when he is only uncomfortable.

Belfry Gossip

A hearty welcome was extended to Mr. E. Barnett, sen., when he turned up at a Kent C.A. meeting recently. He gets around as much as possible and seems pretty fit following his accident last January.

Mr. William (Delight Series) Viggers, of 37, Highfield Gardens, Aldershot, asks all guild and association secretaries to send him the up-to-date details for inclusion in the 1971 Diary, which is now being revised. Please don't delay—do it now—says Bill V.

The Guildford Guild now has a peal of Spliced Surprise Royal (in four methods) among its records. This was rung at St. Mary's, Southampton, on June 13.

The Northern Branch secretary (Mr. C. Bird) informs us that the practice night at Drayton Parslow is Wednesday, not Tuesday, as printed in the 1969 Oxford Report.

New gold-sallied bell ropes await the Northampton Branch (Peterborough Guild) when they meet at Little Houghton in July. The tower has undergone a "face-lift" and the result is a smarter belfry, with the bells sounding a lot quieter.

The centenary year of the rebuilding of Croydon Parish Church is being celebrated on September 12 and is expected to be well supported. The organisers are prepared to issue routes into Croydon with ringing on the way and also get extra towers in the evening if intending visitors will give them some idea of numbers attending. Mr. K. Taber, 17, Birdhurst Drive, South Croydon, will be pleased to receive this information.

The young lady who rang the treble to the quarter of Grandsire Doubles in Dublin on May 30, Miss Beth Doyle, is an American student at Dublin University. Arriving last October on a one-year course, she found herself sharing a flat with a bell-ringer, who "roped" her into the University Guild. She spent a month away at Christmas, returning with one leg in plaster from a ski-ing holiday, but gamely climbed the 72 steps to the belfry, and spent a further two weeks away at Easter. Thus her quarter peal, scored a few weeks before returning to Ohio, crowns about six months' ringing. Her flatmate and tutor from Guildford, Surrey (Helen Hubert) took time off from final medical exams to bong the tenor.

Interesting points from peals recorded this week: Officers' peals by two associations; Stedman Caters non-conducted; a peal of Minor in seven methods, the initial letters of which spell "Windsor" and rung in honour of the Queen Mother's 70th birthday; a first for 22 years by a Bath and Wells branch; Surprise Major for the opening of a Church school; three "In Memoriam" peals and a handbell peal marking a Congregational Church anniversary; and Yorkshire Surprise Major for the Queen's visit to Aldeburgh.

Brethren from all parts of the country had a very enjoyable day's companionship on June 6. when Bill Theobald organised a visit to Whitechapel and for ringing at many London churches. Masonic bellingineers numbering between 30 and 40 finished the day with a dinner at the "Hole in the Wall." Southwark, when thanks were expressed to W. T. for the excellent arrangements he had made. Next year. Leicester is the venue for this annual function.

Mr. Frederick Sharpe was heard on radio in "Woman's Hour" on Tuesday, 16, talking about his favourite pastime—bells!

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lucas—our parttime office staff—are away on holiday for a fortnight, and whilst the Editor will do his best to cope, he asks correspondents to be patient, particularly with regard to subscriptions and changes of address.

Ringing her first touch of Minor before the service at Lechlade, Glos, Susan Chippendale (aged 15) rang it so well that she was asked to ring in a quarter after the service and rang throughout the whole time faultlessly.

First peal congratulations to Elizabeth Dunlop, Philip Austin, Barbara Dean, Valerie Shaw, Ernest Pickering, R. Mark Esbester, George W. Smith, J. Anne Rickaby, Jonathan Howard, Herbert Wood, G. Edward Arnott, Peter Barber, John Yates, Stephen Wood, Ian Davies and N. Peter Mudge.

Personal Records: A. Patrick Cannon (1,250th peal), William T. Root (300), Christine Carter (25).

New conductor: Geoffrey H. Walker (at Chigwell, Essex).

At Haslemere, Surrey, after many years of faithful service to the church—and the tower in particular—Mr. Fred Bowden has retired as captain. Mr. David Struckett has succeeded to the captaincy and has a new band of beginners who practise at 7 p.m. on Mondays, with the usual practice following. On Sundays they ring at 10.30 a.m. and 6 p.m.

A well-known ringer and loyal Cumberland, Mr. Stanley Ponting, who has been "moving around" the Godalming-Guildford area during the past few months, has now settled in the Haslemere district and all wish him well—and "good striking!"

An interesting letter from Ross Williams, secretary of St. Paul's Papanui Ringers, New Zealand, tells of the enthusiasm and hard work in the Cathedral and Fapanui towers by Mr. George Armitage, who with his wife is on holiday in England. (R.W. page 413.)

In a peal at Swithland, Leics, the youngsters ringing the front three bells are all pupils of Harry Payne, of Syston, Leics. After his father, Ernest F. Payne, was no longer able, through ill-health, to carry on as tower captain, Harry began the uphill struggle to teach a band, and he has been asking for some time if peal attempts might be arranged for some of his ringers, but was not aware that we had fixed up this one on his birthday! As soon as the peal was over we had to go and break the news, writes B. Stedman Payne, of Barrow-on-Soar.

Sending a newspaper cutting giving the will of Dr. Perkins, who left £8,000 for Westminster Abbey bells augmentation, a correspondent adds: "What a wonderful ten they may yet be—but a pity so few will have a chance of ringing them!"

Mr. William J. Dyke, sen., of Pennsylvania, U.S.A., sending a subscription for 12 months, tells us he rings (or plays) the bells the the Church of the Good Shepherd, Rosemont. There are 11 bells in E flat. He adds, cryptically: "I wish that there were more bells, but there just ain't any more." [We welcome him among us and trust he will enjoy our journal.]

Obituary

WILLIAM HENRY HOOKWAY

Ringers a long way from North Devon have heard the name of West Down, and for the last 20 years it has never been far away from the top in six-bell ringing. For 65 years the name Hookway figured largely in its ringing records.

Early in the century the guild was very active in training method-ringing bands in all parts of the county, and in 1905 West Down had such a band, among whom was Bill Hookway, a lad of 16. When the band was re-formed in 1919 it abandoned change ringing (it had always been rather isolated in its corner of the county) and when it made its name after World War II it again had Bill Hookway as one of its most valuable members. Though he retired from the competition team six years ago, he was ringing almost up to the tago of 81.

Devonians, especially North Devonians, have for over 500 years been great travelers; if you'd met Bill Hookway in his 70's you might have taken him for a typical countryman, but he was a widely-travelled man. In 1912 he went to Australia to work as a miner, and after the first world war he went out again, this time sheepfarming. But, unlike many, he came back to West Down—between Exmoor and the sea—and to bellringing. With his fine build and excellent constitution (he survived an eye operation at the age of 80), a mind still active and full of fascinating memories, he was a man of whom West Down was justly proud. One need hardly say more.

MEMORIAL SERVICE

A service in memory of Diana Frost was held on Sunday, May 17, at All Saints'. Leighton Buzzard.

The vicar (Canon Scammell), in a moving address, reminded us of Diana's great enthusiasm for life, and the selfless way in which she spared others the painful knowledge of her affliction. Her life amongst us we remembered with joy and affection, and that she lives on we know from the very foundation of our Christian faith.

The whole theme of the service was of life and thanksgiving. The hymns, "O worship the Lord in the beauty of holiness." "Gracious Spirit, Holy Ghost," "Ye holy Angels bright," "The strife is o'er" and Psalm 23 (Crimond), were accompanied on the organ by Alistair Smith, a young friend and former neighbour, and the lesson (Revelation, ch. 7) was read by Alfred Rushton, president of the Bedfordshire Association. The Rev. Leonard Lack assisted in the service, and the Rev. Norman Wadsworth, until recently assistant priest at Leighton Buzzard, was also present.

Before the service the bells were rung by the young local band, of which Diana was a member. Although rung open, a minor key prevailed, the tenor-having a broken clapper.

The large nave of the church was filled with relatives, colleagues, local friends and ringers from many associations, including the Bedfordshire Association, the College Youths, Hertford C.A., Ladies' Guild, University of London Society and Peterborough Guild.

Peals in memoriam were rung at Corby and Daventry. Northants. and at St. Olave's, Hart Street, City of London, where Diana was a regular ringer from 1960 to 1965. A peal of Spliced Surprise will be rung at Leighton Buzzard when the tenor is again in commission.

JOHN B. POWLESLAND

The death took place suddenly on May 27 at his home, 4, Burford Road, Salisbury, of Mr. John Powlesland, aged 64. Although in recent years he was not able to take part as much as he would have liked, ringing was one of his greatest joys. He was taught to ring at the age of 13 at Bovey Tracey, Devon, his home tower, and associated himself with ringing all his life. He will be remembered at Lytchett Matravers. Dorset, in the pre-war years, and at Shaftesbury, Dorset, after the war. He came to live at Salisbury some ten years ago. A perfect handler of a rope, he was a joy to watch, and always insisted on correct handling by his pupils.

John was employed at Salisbury Cathedral, and his smiling face and helpful ways will be very much missed, He leaves his wife, Gwendoline, and a sister.

The funeral service took place in Salisbury Cathedral on June 1, conducted by the Dean of Salisbury (the Very Rev. K. W. Haworth) and was attended by a large congregation. Burial was in Fordingbridge Cemetery. R. M.

Truro Guild.

"THE WEEKENDERS"

The Weekenders left Truro on May 29 for their annual ringing week-end. In the party were: Miss Barbara Duck, Messrs. George Riddy, Charles Linington, Philip Jeans, David Carder, Leonard Allen and Tom Howarth. The party was also joined by Mrs. Riddy, Mrs. Linington, Mrs. Allen and a friend, Miss Margaret den Heyer. Unfortunately Malcolm Witheridge was unable to join the party owing to sickness.

Thet first ring was at Buckland-in-the-Moor (8) on the Friday. After staying at an hotel in Teignmouth on Saturday the party visited Coffinswell (6), Kingkerswell (6), Ipplepen (8), Abbotswell (6), Wolborough (8) and Kingsteignton (8). The party returned to Teignmouth for dinner before leaving for Torquay to see a show. Sunday morning service ringing was at St. Michael's (8), Teignmouth.

I would like to take this opportunity of thanking the incumbents and the local ringers.

TOWER CAPTAIN'S GIFTS

Recently a group of ringers and friends gathered in the Vicarage reading room. Scothern. Lincs, it being the tower captain's (Charles Cade's) 65th birthday. Charles, at the age of nine, was taught to ring by his father, who was tower captain before him, and the occasion marked 55 years as a ringer at Scothern. A birthday cake, made by one of the band, was presented to him, also a ringer's records book containing his peals, from 1922 to 1970 and the towers in which he has rung in 55 years, in addition a copy of Dove's Guide, the copy of The Ringing World recording his 50th peal for the Lincoln Guild and the first copy of a Ringing World subscription.

Charles thanked all who had contributed towards the gifts and compiled the records. commenting that he had been rather suspicious when questioned about his peals. had his old reports borrowed and the tower cleaning had not been finished. He now realised what had been happening.

A social evening followed, a quarter having been rung before the presentation.

The Ladies' Guild.

WENT WEST

The South Wales District held a very enjoyable meeting at the Church of St. Mary the Virgin, Pembroke, on May 30.

This was the most westerly town that the Guild had visited, and was especially arranged to take place at the home tower of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Rogers and their family, who always travel long distances to meetings in the eastern part of the district.

The bells themselves were worthy of the distance travelled, a 12 cwt. ring of eight (rumoured to be a middle six with an added treble and tenor!), altogether a very "individual" ring.

Pembroke town is clean, gay and bright, dominated by the great grey castle (founded in 1097) on an ideal, natural site. The castle itself was worthy of the day's visit—it had been the first keypoint in the English settlement of Wales and then a staging post to Ireland.

Several visitors from England attended the meeting, fortunately (and wisely!) being on holiday in the area and being blessed with glorious beaches and weather to match.

The service was conducted by the vicar (the Rev. R. C. Davies). Mrs. Betty Rogers read the lesson and her elder son, Simon, was the organist.

An "outsize" tea was waiting in the church hall, prepared and given by the vicar's wife and helpers, and Mr. Alan Paton thanked them for their generosity. Simon Rogers was also thanked for playing the organ.

New members elected were: The Misses Prudence Patterson (Pembroke), Stephanie Martin and Hillary Sage (St. David's Cathedral) and Rosemary Meyrick (Truro Cathedral).

Ringing generally was good and varied and a number of ladies hope to attend the A.G.M. at Leicester.

The place suggested for the next meeting was Aberdare, in October.

PRESENTATION

At a social held on May 15 the bellringers of St. Mary's, Scarborough, presented their retiring ringing master, William Fay, with an engraved silver tankard.

A buffet meal was prepared and the vicar (Rev. J. Keys Fraser) handed the gift to Mr. Fay, who thanked the ringers for the memento of his period as ringing master. Mr. Edwin King, the present ringing master, also spoke. An enjoyable social evening followed.

A FINE EXAMPLE

On the Feast of Title, prior to Festal Evensong, a quarter peal of Plain Bob Minor (already published) was rung at Holy Trinity, Drayton Parslow, North Bucks. The band included three Sunday service ringers.

During the octave a flower festival was held in the church and, as an added attraction, a bellringing demonstration was given on practice night.

An exhibition of "Visual Aids" in the nave enabled visitors to learn something of bellringing, and in the ringers' gallery the local band, assisted by visitors from Cheddington, demonstrated method ringing.

The week's activities included luncheons, wine and cheese party and a folk concert in the church, which realised £130 for this small parish and its church.

Four recruits joined the local band!

Ward's first peal (Bob Major) at Rayleigh,

In the leading article about covering bells, the writer stated: "A band is entitled to ring what it pleases in its own tower but the Exercise as a whole claims the right to decide what shall be called a peal. . .

Peter J. Staniforth rang his first peal of Yorkshire Royal at the Bell Foundry, in which Jill Poole also took part.

W. Eric Critchley conducted his first peal (Grandsire Doubles) from the treble, in which Lucy Mottishaw, Laura Mottishaw and Frank Reed rang their first peal.

Ringing 9-10, Philip A. Corby rang his first peal of Grandsire Caters at Enfield.

At Chaklala, Punjab, India, A. J. Adams, B. G. Key and S. Mason rang a quarter of Grandsire Doubles on handbells.

During May 164 peals were rung-151 on tower bells, 13 on handbells.

50 YEARS AGO

June 25, 1920

A peal of D. Norwich at Cardington, Beds, was rung for two kings: King George V and Alfred King, of Luton. Miss Evelyn Steel rang the 3rd.

Basil Butler, aged 12. rang his first peal at Orlingbury, Northants, being Grandsire Doubles, which Thomas Butler conducted.

The composition contained 117 courses, each consisting of one lead of P. Bob, one of Little Bob and one of P. Bob, with three courses of P. Bob added, giving the 120 course ends.

Cullompton Church new ring of ten bells were dedicated, the work having cost £1,100.

The Ladies' Guild held successful meetings at Chiddingfold, Surrey (Southern District), and at Weston-super-Mare (Western District).

The College Youths passed a resolution protesting against the removal or closure of any London city churches.

THREE NEW BELLS STOLEN

Four of Gargrave (Yorks) bells mentioned last week (erroneously as Cargrave) as due for rehanging, were returned on Tuesday, 16th, and left in the churchyard. At 11.30 p.m. the vicar saw three of them (3rd, 4th and 6th) being rolled over the church wall on to a lorry, but by the time the alarm was raised the vehicle and bells had disappeared. Mr. Ronald H. Dove supplied this information from the Yorkshire Evening Post report.

Stratton St. Margaret, Wilts

JOHN BETJEMAN once wrote that "the churches of Wiltshire [in general] were never remarkable as architecture." The parish church of Stratton St. Margaret is no exception to this dictum.

As one comes round the bend in the small side road leading to the church from the old Ermin Street, along which the original Stratton grew and from which it got its name, one glimpses through the crowding trees only a rather squat and plain tower. Inside the church the largely 13th century structure has been extensively rebuilt and "restored" over the years—18th century pews, 19th century chancel, Victorian stained glass. Yet it gives a strong impression of light and of life, of being a church that is well cared for and well used. It could never become the sort of living museum that has been the fate of so many of our more noble and renowned country churches. It is essentially a parish church.

Looking at the bells in the low 18th century tower and retracing their history, this involvement of parishioners and church is encountered again and again. Here there have been no generous landed gentry to donate a grand, sonorous ring of bells: only a churchwarden here, a keen band of ringers there, enthusiastic schoolchildren during the Depression of the early 1930s—all combining over the years to give the church its present light ring of eight.

At the beginning of the present century there were only four bells—one of 1622, two of 1669 (inscribed with the royal arms by their founder in an outburst of post-Restoration fervour) and the tenor, inscribed 1846 but in fact cast 30 years before, soon after the end of the Napoleonic wars. There was a band of sorts to ring them for the church's festivals, but one suspects that the bells may not have been a particularly musical ring. According to local fancy, they used to ring

"One, two, three, four, Hang old Jim Day,"

Jim Day being the parish sexton of the time.

Then, in 1909, one of the churchwardens, Albert Barnes, died. In his will he left nearly £500 to the parish, of which £130 was specified as being for two new bells. On December 18 that year the two new Mears and Stainbank trebles were dedicated, the two opening 720s being rung by a band from neighbouring Swindon, conducted by Charles J. Gardner. Barely four years later came the first peal on the six—four Minor methods by the Sunday service band, with four first pealers and a "first as conductor."

The First World War saw the introduction of ladies into the belfry, and one, Nellie Moulden, daughter of Tom Moulden, the captain, soon afterwards rang in a peal on the six. By this time it seemed that all the male members of the church either rang the bells or sang in the choir, the "white collar" men gravitating to the choir and the "blue collar" to the ground floor belfry. Tom Moulden was a forgeman, George Lancaster, who had called that first peal, a groom, Jesse Tuckwell a blacksmith, Ted Holman the local postman and Horace Wiltshire a farmer.

By about 1930 the ringers felt that the time had come for the bells to be rehung and augmented to eight. Money was short and there were conflicting demands for what was available: for one thing the church rooms needed improvement. The ringers were enthusiastic, however, and the vicar supported them. A parishioner, Mr. F. H. Cripps-Day, offered to pay for one of the new bells in memory of his wife, while the money for the other was slowly collected, penny by penny, shilling by shilling, by the local schoolchildren.

In 1931 the new trebles were delivered from Whitechapel and the old six variously recast and retuned. The treble, inscribed "The children gave me", was hauled into the tower by the Sunday School children (it now seemed prophetic that the dedication of the six in 1909 should have been attended by the local Boy Scouts and Church Lads' Brigade) and the new eight were dedicated by the Bishop of Bristol at Evensong on September 20. Today, 40 years later, the church rooms still await their improvements.

The first peal on the eight was rung on January 2, 1932, when W. Bertram Kynaston called Holt's Ten-part; Tom Moulden and George Lancaster were in the band, and so was Charles Gardner, who had called the first 720 on the old six 23 years before. In the October of that year the latter conducted the first peal of Major in the tower.

In all, Canon Felstead has recorded 87 peals at Stratton St. Margaret, of which only three were on the old six; nearly all have been since 1944. Most of the earlier peals were by ringers from Stratton and the neighbouring parishes, and in more recent times local branch peals of London and Bristol Surprise Major have been rung.

In 1965 and 1966 Anthony R. Peake and his band rang a number of peals of Spliced Surprise Major at Stratton in the course of their record-breaking series that terminated with the peal in 165 methods at Longney in the February of 1967, and since that time the bells have become increasingly popular with peal ringers.

In the meantime a local band has continued to man the bells Sunday by Sunday. At present, under the captaincy of Mr. Roger F. Fry, it consists of ten members, with a further six learners—a state that augurs well for the continued involvement of the bells in the life of the parish.

If only the good were clever,
And if only the clever were good,
The world would be better than ever
We thought that it possibly could.

But alas it is seldom or never
That both behave as they should,
The good are so harsh to the clever
And the clever so rude to the good.

SERVICE CONDUCTED BY BRIDE'S FATHER

On June 6 two former ringers at Bradford Cathedral, Mr. Barry Schofield and Miss Susan Rhodes, were married at Christ Church, Skipton-in-Craven, Yorkshire.

Barry is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Schofield, of Tewkesbury, and Susan is the only daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. M. Rhodes, of Skipton.

Many ringing friends attended the service, which was conducted by the bride's father.

The couple are to make their home in Tewkesbury, where the bridegroom is an apprentice production engineer.

A quarter peal of Plain Bob Major was rung on the bells of Holy Trinity Church, where Susan was a member of the local company during the period she lived in Skipton last year.

The local company and all ringers extend their best wishes for Barry and Susan for a happy and successful future. R.C.

FESTIVAL & A.G.M. AT NANTWICH

Graham Turner, in his book The North Country, finds that the verbal velocity of the Liverpudlian is particularly remarkable; it follows that any society wishing the business of its A.G.M. to be conducted in record time should have a Scouse for master.

Such in fact was the good fortune of the Chester Diocesan Guild, who had converged by two ringing routes on the vaulted splendour of the ringing chamber of St. Mary's, Nantwich, Cheshire. The master of the guild, Mr. A. J. Martin, spraying words like machine gun bullets, opened the meeting with the information that his inner man had just been amply fortified to withstand the rigours of a lengthy meeting, and we could talk all night for all he cared, but he suggested that it would be better to cut the cackle to a minimum. Mr. Martin in fact performed such a successful cacklectomy that there was time to spare for ringing before the service.

The report secretary, Mr. C. K. Lewis, spoke on the year's activities. He paid tribute to the late secretary, Mr. H. O. Baker, and gave the membership of the guild as 569, representing 85 towers. 193 peals were rung, 128 on tower bells and 65 on handbells. Of particular interest are the first peals of Nantwich and Radnor Surprise Major for the guild, and the record peal of Spliced Surprise Maximus (in 75 methods). On handbells the guild scored its first of Kent Treble Bob Fourteen and Cambridge Surprise Royal, and also established records of spliced ringing—Surprise Maximus in 12 methods and Surprise Royal in 8 methods. The 16,128 of Superlative Surprise Major is still sub judice. Mr. Lewis modestly reported his 1,000th peal. (He is the second resident member to achieve this feat.) The guild has paid £1,000 to the Cathedral bell fund.

It has been decided that in future, facsimiles of peal reports from The Ringing World will no longer be included in the report. Reference to the appropriate issue of The Ringing World will be given instead, Mr. Basil Jones thanked Mr. and Mrs. Lewis for the hard work they had put in on producing the report.

INCREASE IN SUBSCRIPTIONS

Mr. Martin, putting on his treasurer's hat and the mantle of Mr. Micawber, drew the attention of the meeting to the sorry state of the accounts, and the misery which lies ahead when expenditure exceeds income. A chastened meeting meekly approved an increase in the subscription to 5s. for ringing members, with no reduction for those on the far side of the generation gap. Nonresident life members will pay 7s. 6d. and the peal booking fee goes up to 1s. Disley tower was granted £30 towards the cost of rehanging.

Under the heading "Branch Reorganisation," maps of Cheshire were presented on which had been drawn circles enclosing each branch. They ranged in diameter from 5 to 23 miles. Under a suggested reorganisation each branch would lie within a circle 15 miles in diameter. This distance was revered by the Ancients and is known as the Golden Diameter. Branch reorganisation is a matter of some urgency since the Macclesfield Branch voted itself out of existence and the Grappenhall Branch has reported that it is in extremis. After discussion the matter was referred to the sub-committee.

Mr. Martin reported that the Bishop had revised the rules of the guild. These, with

OFF TO FIJI

Taking up a three-years appointment with the Government of Fiji for the development of a water supply is Mr. Alan Smith, of Fetcham, Leatherhead, Surrey. He flies from London's Heath Row, together with his wife, Pauline, Caroline, aged 8 (left), and Rachel, aged 9 (right), on July 13.

Alan learned to ring in 1945 and met Pauline (who started her ringing in her home town of Tewkesbury) when they were both at Bristol University. Whilst abroad and with no bells in Fiji, they intend ringing handbells (of which they have a small set) and to teach their daughters. Whilst out there they hope to visit New Zealand for a holiday and to have a ring at some of the towers.

Alan has been ringing master of the Leatherhead District for some while but has now relinquished that office. All their ringing friends will wish them a happy and successful three years.

some trepidation, had been amended by the sub-committee, accepted by the guild committee, and were ready to be printed, and the rules were adopted without discussion. Next year's Festival in to be held in the Northwich Branch.

On the subject of a master's badge, which the last A.G.M. had authorised in memory of the late master, Mr. J. Worth, Mr. Martin said that even he was not going to ask the guild to subscribe to a badge while a considerable sum to the Cathedral bell fund was still outstanding. The subcommittee had suggested that the badge might be cast in bell metal at the same time as the Cathedral bells. This suggestion was accepted as being apposite and inexpensive.

For the election of officers, Mr. Martin resigned as master and was elected secretary/treasurer (a job he had been doing since Mr. Baker's death), and Mr. C. K. Lewis was elected master, while still carrying on as report secretary, Mr. Lewis thanked the meeting for the honour and also Mr. Martin for having stepped down after only one year as master to take on his new office.

Mr. Elkins proposed thanks to the committee for its work and to all who had contributed to the arrangements.

The service was conducted by the rector of Nantwich and the sermon was preached by Canon D. Kershaw, of Littleborough. After tea, ringing continued at Nantwich, Acton and Crewe.

FESTIVAL OF THE CITY OF LONDON

The Festival of the City of London is to be held this year from July 4 to July 17. The programme includes orchestral concerts, plays, poetry readings, exhibitions and other attractions. This Festival attracts visitors from many parts of the world.

At the request of the organisers, ringing will be featured in the programme of events, and the Ancient Society of College Youths and the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths are collaborating in the ringing Youths are collaborating in the ringing.

The College Youths will ring at St.
Giles', Cripplegate, on July 7, the Cumberlands will ring at the same church on July 8, and the two societies will join forces at St. Michael's, Cornhill, on July 9.

During the second week of the Festival the College Youths will ring at St. Maryle-Bow on July 14, the Cumberland Youths at St. Lawrence Jewry on July 15, and the two societies will ring together at St. Giles', Cripplegate, on July 16. On each day ringing will begin at 6 p.m.

There will be peal attempts at St. Maryles Bow and St. Michael's Genthillary.

There will be peal attempts at St. Mary-le-Bow and at St. Michael's, Cornhill, on July 11, and Mr. W. T. Cook has written an article about ringing which will appear in the Festival programme.

Mrs. Beamish, president of the Coventry Guild, informs us that a £10,000 legacy has been left to St. Giles' Parish Church, Exhall, Warwick, for the bells, and an augmentation from six to eight is one of the jobs anticipated.

Ilkley, May 26, 1970 CENTRAL COUNCIL DELIBERATIONS

SECTION IV A motion arising from the report of the joint committee on revision of Decisions that (A) In the Decision on Methods and Calls: (1) delete A3, restrictions on calls and renumber A4 as A3; (2) delete B, regular methods, and reletter C, D, E as B, C, D, and in the new D5 change E4 to D4; and (B) In the Decision on peal ringing (1) change Cl, spliced compositions, to read: "Compositions in more than one method shall be termed Spliced, when the methods are so joined that the leads of the methods remain intact, the changes of method being at the half-lead or lead-head but not both in the same composition.
Compositions in which the changes of method occur at both half-lead and leadhead shall be termed Spliced, provided all the methods in the composition are symmetrical about the half-lead, with no two of them differing only in the places made at the half-lead and/or the lead-head."

(2) Remove F, Technical Committees, from this Decision, but the four paragraphs to stand as the terms of reference of these four committees, changing the last paragraph to read:—

"The Methods Committee shall make recommendations on the construction of methods and calls and shall prepare such collections as may be required by the Council. It shall also consider all questions arising from the nomenclature used for any method, and the findings of the committee shall be published in The Ringing World.'

Mr. Dodds remarked that many would not know what they were voting on. Mr. E. A. Barnett queried whether conductors could put calls wherever they liked, and Mr. W. E. Critchley said he would hesitate to comment too strongly but would support Mr. Barnett's query.

Mr. D. E. Sibson spoke of dual bobs in peal of Kidderminster and also two singles in Superlative.

Suggesting they refer again to the report of the sub-committee, Mr. C. K. Lewis said he did not wish to put obstacles in the way of experiment, but emphasised that it was not to be treated lightly.

Offering to consider the whole question again in the committee, Mr. J. Mayne said it was difficult for that body to decide what course to take.

Messrs. Carlisle, Corby and Diserens made various observations, the latter remarking that people would ring just what they wanted to, but Mr. D. Beresford questioned how much of the composer's art was lost in a conglomeration of calls

Mr. S. Ivin stated that problems were created by the use of such calls, and Mr. Ayre said had he known of such irregular calls he would not have accepted peals of Surprise with singles.

Upon being put to the meeting, Motion 9 b (A) was carried by 26-9 and 9 b (B) (1) also, but without opposition. 9 b (B) (2) was accepted without dissent, although threequarters of those present, not understanding the technicalities or implications, did not vote, it being obvious that many had no notion of what was being debated.

RECORD LENGTH PEALS
A further proposal by Mr. Sibson, seconded by Mr. S. Jenner that Section "D" of Decision "D" of the Central Council's Decisions be deleted and the following substituted:

D. Record Length Peals. The Record Length Peal in a method or group of methods on a given number of bells shall be the longest length recognised as a peal by the Council. For handbell peals, every ringer shall ring at least two bells. Tower bell and handbell records shall be kept separately created more interest, however, for this was understood as revising the rules regarding long length records. It was pointed out that the present rules as laid down had not been complied with in regard to the long length of Superlative in September and the London Royal in January, but the Little Bob Major proposed attempt was postponed when it was found insufficient notice had been given. The question now asked was: Is the Council prepared to enforce its rules?

Mr. R. B. Smith said that if paragraph 2 (b) of last year's minutes were deleted then he would agree that the Superlative was a record length, but nobody could legally stop publication of the peal.

Mr. Beresford pointed out that The R.W. was the property of the Central Council and would publish what that body required. Record lengths were the property of the Exercise, handed down by tradition, and all would want to regard them as such. He asked the members to reject the motion and enforce the rules.

Mr. Mayne asked Mr. Smith if it mattered very much to him (Mr. Smith) what peal superseded the previous record, and Mr. Smith replied in the affirmative, adding that he was convinced the peal was rung, but that the Council should have dealt with the matter straight away.

Mr. Mayne then observed that his question had been answered, and Mr. Smith and all should realise the need for safeguarding such record attempts. He hoped the motion would be rejected.

After Rev. St. John Smith and Mr. W. Ayre had made observations, the motion was put by the chairman and heavily defeated, only about ten voting in its favour.

ANALYSIS OF PEALS RUNG DURING THE YEAR 1969

The figures for peals rung in 1969 show an increase again, mainly by the activities of certain people and bands—the total (E. & O.E.) being 3,807, made up of 3,459 tower-, an increase of 332, and handbells 348, an increase to 555—an additional 12, with 83 first as conductor—giving +4 over 1968. We welcome all these but should be delighted to see a more substantial increase in this latter section.

There is a change in the table this year, with the Yorkshire Association well ahead — by 72 peals-as shown below.

The leading Associations and Guilds are as

RINGING ABROAD

Miss Betty Tomlin, of Staplehurst, Kent, writes: "I have just returned from a visit to Zambia and thought the ringers in this country would be interested to know that the ringers in the photograph (all three from England and known to many people as tower bell ringers) rang hymn tunes and touches for live television from Lusaka which was broadcast all over Zambia. At a later date they recorded on tape a similar selection, from which parts are used for various wireless broadcasts, mainly in religious sections.

INGOLDMELLS, LINCS

A Tuesday evening in May saw the triumphal conclusion to the grand scheme to provide Ingoldmells, near Skegness, with a splendid and worthy ring of bells.

The church was well filled for the service of dedication, which was led by the rector (Rev. C. Miller), at which the Bishop of Lincoln preached and carried out the dedication. After the dedication the local ringers rang the opening rounds. They are to be congratulated on progressing so well in so short a time, largely with the help of Friskney ringers. Any ringer who finds himself in the area on a Sunday or Wednesday should not fail to call and encourage this young band.

After the service a sumptuous celebration dinner was held, at which various toasts were proposed. The Bishop spoke of the great enthusiasm of the people of Ingoldmells and their community spirit. Mr. John Freeman, master of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild and president of the Central Council, spoke of the beauty of Lincoln-shire bells. He mentioned the bells of Lincoln Cathedral, of Grantham and Deeping St. James, saying that the grand new Taylor ring at Ingoldmells was well in this class. All present were greatly impressed by the hopeing and typical this pressed by the hanging and tuning of this splendid ring of bells. A good number of ringers were present, and Messrs. Taylor were represented by Mr. A. Clayton.

Until recently the tower contained four bells and an ancient pre-Reformation sanctus bell. Of these bells the tenor was a fine bell cast by Taylor in 1913. Two of the other bells were by Wilkinson, a Lincoln founder, and the fourth bore no inscription whatever but was obviously not ancient. These bells formed 2, 3, 4 and 6 of a ring of six bells. The bell frame and the whole tower were in a terrible state of decay. The tower was repaired and it was decided to recast the three older bells, which were very poor toned, with additional metal into five bells to match the Taylor tenor. Each of the new bells bears the name of a Lincolnshire saint, and the inscription on the treble must be unique. The tenor inscription is part of the Litany of the Saints. The ancient sanctus bell has been retained in the new frame, which is designed so that the provision of two treble bells can be made at a future date. Details of bells:

Gloucester and Bristol Association. CROOME TROPHY

The Cheltenham Branch held their qualifying competition for the Croome Trophy at Toddington on May 30, when the judges were again Mr. H. Scholfield (Tewkesbury) and Mr. G. Morris (Worcester). Their placings were: 1 Cheltenham (A) 52 faults, 2 Cheltenham (B) (84), 3 Leckhampton (A) 99, 4 Charlton Kings 171, 5 Leckhampton (B) 173. The treble ringers found this light bell very difficult, and one band was obliged to abandon their attempt.

April. Mr. C. Burridge (Cheltenham) was elected assistant secretary as Mr. M. Maggs is working away from the county. The ringers listening were joined by visitors who had been to nearby Didbrook. Later. Toddington bells were available.

Later, Toddington bells were available, some 60 ringers attending in all. C. T. B.

When the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild held their dinner earlier in the year at Southampton the Bishops of Winchester and Southampton attended. Mr. Gordon Benfield proposed the toast of "The Church" and Canon Sanders (Overton) replied, whilst Mr. W. B. Cartwright (Worcestershire Association) gave that of "The Guild," to which Mr. Roger Savory (master) responded. The health of the visitors was in the hands of Mr. Kenneth Croft, Mr. David House replying.

During the evening a course of Kent Treble Bob Major on handbells was rung by (l. to r.) John, Kenneth, James and William Croft—father and three sons.

WHY RING?

Dear Sir, — I fully agree with Mr. Durance. Mr. Millward was, of course. quite wrong in his rejection of a potential good ringing recruit; indeed, one senses from Mr. Millward's own words that he, too, has doubts regarding his action.

This type of smug, self-satisfied, believebefore-you-ring dogma typifies a general, arrogant, narrow attitude regularly responsible for driving countless numbers of people away from the Anglican Church. As an excellent preacher remarked recently. one has to become part of the Christian fellowship before one can remotely begin to understand or believe in it.

In Liverpool, and I am sure throughout the country, there are many churches like my own where young persons are accepted into the church youth club quite regardless of their religious background or lack of it. There is no compulsion and they are not pressurised into joining the church, but of course many of them do so, some later becoming confirmed and regular communi-

No. sir, Mr. Millward I feel missed an excellent opportunity and, if at all possible. I would urge him to trace the young man forthwith and get him into the tower first. There is at least some basic Christian material to work on as obviously this man is not a hypocrite, humbug or insincere.

He, too, could ultimately become the ordained priest of a parish. Stranger things have happened. Remember St. Paul, once an avowed non-Christian, persecutor and reviler of our faith, who became one of the greatest Christian preachers and missionaries of all time!-Yours faithfully

TOM BUTLER. iverpool.

P.S. - Incidentally, the nearest secular ring of bells to Bucklev is at the Liverpool Municipal Buildings .-- T. B.

We have also received a letter from Mr. M. J. Lockey. of Maulden, Beds. enumerating a dozen duties he has, or does, carry out for the church, including being assistant organist for 25 years and official organist for Bedfordshire Association of Ringers; but states he is not (repeat not) a confirmed member of the Church of England as he does not agree 100% with its doctrines, although he attends services every Sunday.

THE FINAL WORD

Replying to the criticisms made about his attitude towards the unknown would-be ringer, Mr. D. H. B. Millward, the tower captain of Buckley, Flintshire, writes in ex-planation about the local rule: "That one must be confirmed or desirous of being confirmed before one can become a full member of the company."

"Our church company was formed at Easter, 1903, and it was Canon Drew who our tower rules, including the above. His successors have not thought fit to change the rule and I, as tower captain, had a duty to see it was obeyed.

"In reply to Mr. Durance, we of Buckley make no claim to 'being self-righteous and class apart.' We have never adopted such an attitude. If he (and others) had read my first letter correctly they would know that I didn't turn the man away. I pointed out our rule and he apologised for bothering us and left.

"Our present vicar had advised 'that in any future case of this nature I should refer the person to him for a chat first'.' [This correspondence is now closed.—Ed.]

CLAPHAM PARK

Dear Sir, -- It is unfortunate that you allowed the photograph and article of Clapham Park to be published, as it was quite clear to anyone who knew the church that what was written was the work of someone who knew nothing at all about the church or its history. I say this as one who organised the ringing there and was connected with the church for five years. The writer's unkind remarks about the building are not in keeping with the general feelings of the people in the area, and in-deed what he said has offended many of the parishioners and also many of the ringers who kept the bells going through a difficult period in the church's history during the past five years. Mr. Pladdys was not one of these, but if he had been he would have realised that the church does not deserve the insults that have been directed at it by him but rather sympathy.

I feel that the only thing that this article has achieved is to give the readers of The Ringing World a thoroughly bad impression of Clapham Park, which is certainly not justified, and in addition says nothing worthwhile about its unique bells—which is surely what ringers are more interested

I assure you when the bells go to their new home there will be an article written about them, which will explain more about these unusual bells and why they were considered to be the "best eight in South London."—Yours faithfully,

NIGEL THOMSON.

Wallington, Surrey.

[The fact that the church was demolished the same week as the article appeared proves that the "booking" of the cover by Mr. Pladdys (who paid the costs and did his own research) was quite timely, rather than unfortunate. Our readers may never have realised that Clapham Park existed. -Ed.]

STEEPLEAGE

Dear Sir, -I find Mr. Collis's letter about the legal aspects of steepleage collection very disturbing, as I would hate to think that many ringing Associations are inadvertently breaking canon law. Perhaps we can have assurances from all Societies that collect steepleage, or the like, that previous permission has been obtained and every-thing is above board. I cannot anticipate that any incumbent would object to such collections, especially as he will obviously receive a donation towards wear and tear on the bells.-Yours faithfully, (Miss) TESSA SAWKINS.

Chobham, Surrey.

PEAL WITHDRAWN
Dear Sir,—It has been brought to my notice that the peal of 12-Spliced Major rung on handbells at Harpenden on February 26, 1969, for the Hertford County Association is false. I wish therefore to withdraw the peal and the composition (Ringing World, 1969, page 436) and offer my apologies to the rest of the band.— Yours faithfully, BRIAN J. WOODRUFFE.

Whiteparish, Wilts.

"FOR GOD'S SAKE"

Dear Sir.—Perhaps the attitude that Mr. Millward takes is more widespread than he or many of us realise. Recently a conductor in this part of the country was heard to exhort a ringer to better striking by saying: "Pull the thing—for God's sake pull!" -Yours faithfully.

J. HENRY FIELDEN. Halifax, Yorks.

PITMAN'S PRINCIPLE?

Dear Sir, - Reference Mr. Wycherley's principle, Belmont Minor, I don't know how many years ago Mr. Wycherley produced these figures, but a course of this was rung by the Warsop (Notts) band in September, 1951, and one or two 720s in the same year. Two peal attempts were made but failed. I don't know where our tower captain obtained these figures but I understand they were produced by A. J., Pitman. When we ring it we call it Pitman's Principle.—Yours faithfully. GEO. CHALLANS.

Worksop, Notts.

"GOOD STRIKING" RECORD

Dear Sir. - I was interested to read the advance notice of the gramophone record of Good Striking soon to be on sale, but astonished to learn that no extract of closelead ringing was included.

If the intention is, as stated, for the record to be of use to "instructors and lecturers," one would have thought that the compilers would have wanted to make it as comprehensive as possible.

It should not have been difficult to include call-changes rung "cartwheel" fashion from Cornwall or Devon and some Treble Bob rung by, say, Roughtown, who not so long ago won the contest arranged by the Yorkshire Council, which included teams from all over Yorkshire. After all. in a record made specifically to illustrate good striking an attempt should have been made (indeed nothing less contemplated) to include only the best examples, in which case it may not have been necessary to apologise for them beforehand!

Perhaps when the record appears discs could be presented to certain ringers who, when ringing at a minor tower on one of the tours organised for the recent Central Council meeting, were, because of the appalling clatter they were making, called to stand by the ringing master appointed by the Yorkshire Association, a thoroughbred Yorkshireman, who at least knows good and can recognise bad striking when he hears it.—Yours faithfully.

HAROLD CHANT.

IMPROVING MEETINGS

Dear Sir. I heartily endorse Mr. Trevor A. Bevis's remarks re the attitude of experienced ringers, both at meetings and at practice evenings. They seem to be imbued with a "snob" attitude and spend far too long ringing (or attempting to ring . . .) Surprise methods or Treble Bob methods, while the poor "rabbits" sit around becoming more bored than ever. And when they do condescend to ring Plain Bob or Grand-sire they have to call bob and single every so often, thus confusing the learner all the more, instead of ringing a plain course. can quite understand why so many youngsters (and not-so-young also) become utterly frustrated and give up bellringing altogether. It is a great pity, when one considers the many towers that cannot raise a band to ring the bells.

Cut out the "holier than thou" attitude and the "clever" ringing of many, who after all were "rabbits" themselves once, and give the learners a fair chance and a reasonable amount of ringing time at meetings and things would. I am sure, be far better and happier, with a consequent lower loss of recruits to this fine old art.—Yours faithfully,

"A KEEN RABBIT."

An excellent photo, taken in St. Mary's belfry, Taunton, of members and friends who attended the South Western District meeting of the National Guild of Police Ringers at Taunton.

The ringers are from Devon, Gloucestershire, Herefordshire, Bristol and Somerset, and include Mr. George Cousins (president), standing in the right foreground, and the chairman and master of the district (Mr. W. F. Scudamore), holding the centre bell rope to the left of the door.

Ringing in the afternoon was at Norton Fitzwarren and Taunton St. Mary's before the meeting, and for most a picnic tea at Cannonsgrove, the training and sports centre of the Somerset and Bath Constabulary, where the bar facilities were enjoyed.

P.Sgt. Scudamore (Gloucestershire) was re-elected master and P.C. G. Davis (Somerset) was again elected secretary.

Outing.

AN EARLY START

On May 25 ringers from St. Margaret's, King's Lynn, and Gaywood made an early start for their outing this year to Essex. The first tower was in the pretty village of Finchingfield, thence to Coggeshall, where we found that the tenor clapper had broken during ringing the previous evening and we had to be content with the top six. Twisting and turning along the narrow country roads we eventually found our next tower, at Terling (a light eight, much enjoyed). Here the village green was like a lawn, very well cared for.

After lunch at Chelmsford we rang on the light eight at Danbury and the triangular tower at Maldon. We were ready for tea, awaiting us at Colchester, and then Ardleigh was our next stop. East Bergholt ringers were waiting to give a demonstration on their bells, hung in a cage in the churchyard, and with a final ring on the six at Rougham, followed by well-earned refreshment at Bury St. Edmunds, another outing was almost over.

Our thanks to the incumbents for the use of their bells, and to all ringers who gave up their time to meet us. L. W. H.

NEWINGTON-NEXT-SITTINGBOURNE

A party of 35 from North Kent spent Spring Bank Holiday Monday on the traditional outing—this year to Essex and Suffolk. The first tower was at Goldhanger and the eight were enjoyed before moving on to a Taylor six at Tolleshunt D'Arcy. Some of the party were rather cautious because of the light bells but all was well once they got used to them. The break for lunch was at Colchester.

Our next stop was at East Bergholt (Suffolk), where with many other visitors we watched with amazement the locals ringing the bells (which are in a cage at ground level) by turning the bells by hand on the headstocks. The eight at Ardleigh were put to good use before moving on to the light six (4 cwt. 1 qr. 14 lb) at Shrub End, Colchester. On to Rayne, where a substantial meal was enjoyed and was also the last tower of the day. The 6½ cwt. six were tapped round very nicely for 40 minutes before leaving for home.

A combination of perfect weather, good

A combination of perfect weather, good bells, ample meals and good travelling made this one of the best outings; thanks were expressed to Mrs. Hazel Mitchell for her able organisation.

Bath and Wells Association. SAME AGAIN

The Frome Branch striking competition was held on May 23 at Compton Dando, Somerset. It was a disappointment that only four towers entered this year, because the weather was good, an excellent meat tea had been organised by the local ladies, and it was a very pleasant occasion.

There were, in fact, seven teams in the competition and it soon became apparent to those listening that the treble and fourth required rather more expertise than the other bells for the 120 changes rung by each team.

Tea in the village hall followed and the judge, Mr. Chris Kippin (Long Ashton), then commented on the ringing and gave the results. Chilcompton followed up last year's success and took first and second places with 53 and 68 faults. Other teams taking part were Farmborough (76), Frome B and Midsomer Norton (89 each) and Frome A (99).

Thanks were expressed by Max Heymann to the Rev. W. H. Young, the ladies and Chris Kippin. M. H.

ST. PAUL'S SHADWELL, MDSX.

We recorded recently another quarter peal on the bells of St. Paul's, Shadwell, E. the third since restoration work carried out in 1968 and described in our issue of March 28 last year. Elizabeth Bangham is the first lady to take part in one of these quarters and it must be unique to be the first lady to ring a quarter on a London ring 150 years old. It is believed that ringing took place in 1918 but it is not known whether a quarter was rung. The only other account of any ringing of significance was a peal in 1900.

It is stressed that, because of the lack of certain fittings, ringing is restricted at present to special occasions and permission is not given to visiting bands.

25 YEARS AGO

From The Times (May 8, 1945). St. Paul's bells ringing for victory will wake echoes of many centuries—of Marl-borough's victories and the capture of Gib-raltar, of Trafalgar and other naval victories, and of feats of arms in many lands, down to the peace won by the men of 1914-18. Names recur in these campaigns which have become familiar again. British troops have marched and bivouacked not once or twice in the Low Countries, France and Germany, Austria and Italy, Egypt and Abyssinia, from India to Hong Kong. The voice of the bells calls from living London to its past and future. Something which needs no words is heard behind the dying sound.
